Shopper's Mall to Boost Downtown Kalamazoo

The Kalamazoo Gazette
(Special to The Pontiac Press)
(This is the second of two articles on how Kalamazoo is seeking to revitalize its downtown shopping area by creating a pedestrian mall.)
By HAYDEN BRADFORD

KALAMAZOO — A drastic dose of medicine will be administered this summer an an attempt to revitalize downtown Kalamazoo.

It is designed to reverse the trend of economic decline which has afflicted the downtown business district of Kalamazoo and also thousand of other cities across the nation since the end of World War II.

It calls for closing off the two busiest downtown blocks to automobile traffic, ripping up the pavement, and installing a permanent concrete block and grass mall featuring reflector pools, tot lots, trees, shrubs, benches and a revolving stage.

It's the first such program to be attempted in the heart of an existing central business district, although other cities have tested the mall idea on a temporary basis and permanent malls have succeeded in new outlying shopping centers.

How it will work out remains to be seen. Even some of the revolutionary plan's most enthusiastic supporters admit that it involves a considerable element of chance. No one can guarantee that it will bring a permanent upsurge in downtown business.

The program, however, has been launched without any significant opposition arising. Virtually every downtown businessman and property owner, in fact, has already contributed both moral and financial support.

★ ★ ★

SET UP PLAN

There had been discussion by city officials and others in July of 1956 about doing something to help the downtown area. That summer the Victor Gruen & Associates' Ft. Worth Central Business District plan had received widespread national publicity.

But it wasn't until 1957 that mere talking about it ended and action began. In February of that year a small group of local business leaders set up a non-profit corporation.

This was the Downtown Kalamazoo Planning Committee, Inc. Its core leadership consisted of one member from each of four leading financial institutions, the presidents of one large and one small downtown retail store, a utility executive, and a Chamber of Commerce executive.

Its stated purpose was to raise funds with which to hire an expert to develop a long-range master

$6 Million Hike for Consumers

Electric Rate Increase Granted by State Will Affect 828,000

LANSING (AP) — A rate increase totaling $6,788,485 was granted to Consumers Power Co. today. It will affect about 828,000 electric customers.

Among the larger communities in its area are Bay City, Mt. Pleasant, Flint, Grand Rapids, Cheboygan, Cadillac, Mackinaw City, Manistee and Saginaw.

Public service commission chairman Otis Smith said it was impossible to define exactly what effect the increase would have on the average monthly bill of a residential subscriber with the usual appliances.

The incidence of the order on residential, commercial and industrial customers will be refined when actual tariffs are drawn up next week.

In gross, the boost figures at between 4 and 5 per cent of the utility's present income from electric service.

SEE NO REASON

Commissioner James H. Lee took the position that no increase at all was warranted. So did the Michigan Utilities Ratepayers Assn. of Kalamazoo, an intervenor in the case.

The Commission staff had recommended an increase of four million dollars a year.

Company President Dan K. Karn said, "We are very much disappointed at the amount of the increase."

Karn added, "This is the first electric rate increase we have been allowed in more than nine years and only the second general increase in electric rates in 37 years.

"Wages, taxes and the cost of everything we buy has gone up and up. The rate increase authorized by the Commission falls far short of meeting these increased costs."

GM Will Build Small American Car This Year

Donner, Gordon Tell Plans at Meeting of 2,600 Shareholders

WILMINGTON, Del. — General Motors will build and market an American light car this year, Chairman Frederic G. Donner announced today.

The car, called the Corvair, will be part of the Chevrolet line and will be sold by all franchised Chevrolet dealers in the United States following its introduction this fall, Mr. Donner told the 51st annual meeting of GM shareholders here.

In talks before approximately 2,600 shareholders at the Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac Assembly Division plant, Donner and President John F. Gordon also reported on the current upward trend of GM's business and expressed confidence in its future prospects.

Text of Mr. Donner's remarks about the Corvair follows:

"As you know, General Motors, for more than 30 years, has been manufacturing cars abroad. These cars have conformed to European standards of weight and size.

"For many years, going back well before World War II, General Motors has had a study project under way looking to the time when there might be a demand for a lighter car designed to conform to American taste and standards.

"A year and a half ago we began to merchandise several models of our European cars in this country with a view to evaluating American interest in th' type of transportation. Since then, the demand for lighter cars has grown substantially, and in 1958 foreign car sales totaled about 380,000 units. So far this year, sales have been at an annual rate of about 500,000 units.

"We have now, therefore, reached the conclusion that, while a majority of Americans can undoubtedly be expected to continue to prefer more roomy and heavier

Precipitation will total one-half inch to one inch with showers Sunday or thunderstorms Tuesday and Wednesday.

In downtown Pontiac the lowest recording preceding 8 a.m. was 60 degrees. The reading at 2 p.m. was 66.

Former Resident Drowns in Lake

Sister Missing After Cruiser Goes Down When Valve Sticks

Cheboygan County sheriff's deputies and conservation officers still were searching early this morning for Mrs. Helen Cameron, of Alanson.

Thomas McDonald, of Detroit, owner of the boat, told police the craft began to founder when water came rushing in after a flush trap in the lavatory failed to close.

He ordered the women to cling to a life jacket, police said, but Mrs. Pryomski panicked and disappeared beneath the water. McDonald said she could not swim.

Mrs. Cameron turned and swam toward the center of the lake, the man said, apparently thinking she was headed for shore.

Mrs. Pryomski had been living with her sister in Alanson for the last eight months while separated from her husband, Walter Pryomski, owner of Walt's Boat Livery, 8226 Highland Rd. They had been married 10 months before the separation.

Pryomski said a divorce was pending. They had no children.

Officer Knows the Law

IPSWICH, England (UPI) — Policeman Roy Rushmore, charged with overtime parking, told the court: "I knew that 20 minutes is the parking limit in the area except with special permission from a uniformed policeman. I was in uniform, so I gave myself permission."

He won.

SEIZED IN NARCOTICS RAID — John M. Harper, 20, of McHenry, Ill., (left) and William V. Reich, 23, of Chicago, were arrested by Lansing, East Lansing and State Police this morning in a narcotics raid. Both are Michigan State University students. Harper was charged with possession and sale of narcotics. Ten pounds of marijuana, with an estimated value of $30,000, was seized. (See story on page 2.)

Mrs. Lawrence Declared Insane

Won't Stand Trial for Slaying

Mrs. Sue Lawrence today was judged criminally insane and unable to stand trial in the April slaying of the woman who married her former boy friend.

★ ★ ★

Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams ordered the distraught, 32-year-old Berkley woman committed to Ionia State Hospital for life or until cured.

Sobbing and near collapse, Mrs. Lawrence had to be helped out of the courtroom by her husband and a matron from Oakland County Jail.

★ ★ ★

"I won't go," she cried. "I want to stay in jail. You told me I could stay there always, and now you won't let me."

3 PSYCHIATRISTS AGREE

They were Dr. Ivan LaCore and Dr. A. Tauber of Pontiac and Dr. Robert C. Behan of Detroit. The three had examined Mrs. Lawrence in Oakland County Jail where she was being held prior to preliminary examination on charges of shooting Mrs. Wyvona Crenshaw, 33, of 6230 Snow Apple Ln., Independence Township, to death April 18.

Besides agreeing that Mrs. Lawrence was insane at the time of their examination, Dr. Tauber and Dr. Behan testified the woman probably was insane at the time of the killing, too.

Dr. Behan had examined Mrs. Lawrence after an auto accident 28 months ago and came to the conclusion then that her mental condition had been affected by head injuries.

He testified to that affect when Mrs. Lawrence later collected a $17,000 Circuit Court judgement stemming from the accident.

A part-time beauty operator and the mother of one son, Mrs. Lawrence was charged with committing the murder in a fit of jealousy.

But Mrs. Lawrence claimed in a formal statement after the shooting that Crenshaw and his wife had been blackmailing her with threats that might lead to her loss of custody of her son, Wayne Lawrence Jr., 9.

She said the fatal shot was fired while she and Mrs. Crenshaw struggled over possesson of a .25 caliber pistol. Mrs. Lawrence was wounded in the leg, not seriously, but was held in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in a state of nervous collapse, unable to speak to authorities for 48 hours.

★ ★ ★

On a lie-detector test, Crenshaw denied any blackmail plot and said Mrs. Lawrence was making the story up.

Estranged from her husband, Mrs. Lawrence lived at 2852 Oxford Rd., Berkley. In answer to her suit for divorce, Lawrence charged his wife was keeping company with other men and demanded custody of their son.

Today's sanity hearing was requested by Mrs. Lawrence's legal counsel. When arraigned on a charge of murder April 23, Mrs. Lawrence collapsed and was unable to leave a Sheriff's Department patrol car and enter the courtroom of Independence Township Justice William H. Stamp.

★ ★ ★

The arraignment took place while Mrs. Lawrence sat in the car, and later she had to be helped back up the steps of Oakland County Jail by two deputies.

Spring Brings Strange Doings by Animals, Too

NEW YORK (AP)—Spring does things to animals as well as people. They get crazy mixed-up ideas.

★ ★ ★

Witness a few happenings this week:

In Detroit a mother rabbit built a nest for her five babies smack on top of a target mound at the city police firing range. A "cease-fire" was called pending removal of the brood from pot-shot distance.

At Cranston, R.I., a pair of starlings set up housekeeping in a mail box. The residents tried three times to evict the birds and finally gave up. It's now a case of early birds and late mail.

At Hurman, Iowa, a hen took a look at four kittens and decided to evict the mother cat and take over the maternal chores. It did too. The rightful mama has been getting no closer than peeking distance.

At the Bronx Zoo only motherhood calmed down an agitated lady robin with a multiple-dwelling complex. The bird built nine nests before deciding on which one to sit and hatch.

Expect Protests From Schools and Townships

Plan to Seek Change in 15-Mill Law Would Not Effect 1959 Levy

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Confronted again with its annual, fruitless tug-of-war over the 15-mill taxing limitation, the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board today held preliminary 1959 tax rates at last year's level, and decided to seek a change in the 27-year-old tax law.

Holding to the status-quo position is expected to bring a storm of protests from the county, townships and schools when hearings on final rates are held next Thursday and Friday. Action to change the "outdated" law could not be introduced until next year, it was pointed out.

Should the county be allocated its 1958 rate of 5.62 of the 15 mills when final rates are set June 1, it would mean that $1,549,465 would have to be sliced from its proposed 1960 budget of $13,997,018, according to Robert Y. Moore, chairman of the Board of Auditors.

School districts and townships alike would have to cut considerable amounts from already deflated 1960 operating budgets should they be saddled with the same rates they received last year, officials said.

The majority had asked for increases over their 1958 rates in order to meet higher budgets.

After a deadlocked first vote of 3 to 3 to keep the rates the same, with the exception of two townships, board member James L. Gardner was persuaded to change his vote to "yes."

Joining Gardner, a new member of the board and former Commerce Township supervisor, in voting "yes" were another new member, Will J. Oliver of Southfield; board chairman Philip E. Rowstop, and former chairman William J. Emerson.

Holding to their original "no" votes were board members Charles A. Sparks, county treasurer, and Moore.

With the stalemate finally broken, Emerson, who made the motion to freeze the rates, said, "I hope we've done the right thing."

An angry Moore arose from his chair and replied, "I hope you have to."

Back in his office, Moore, who was severely rebuked yesterday for taking a written "prejudiced" stand for the county despite being a board member, evaluated what might happen if Oakland County has to settle for the $5.62 rate for each $1,000 of state equalized valuation on property.

Oakland County is asking for 6.47 in order to raise $11,796,018 in taxes of its proposed 1960 budget.

Chopping off the .85 of a mill, Moore said, would have "drastic results," including having to lay off 100 county employes.

Killer of 11, Doomed Today, Given Two-Week Reprieve

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Charles Starkweather, 20, slayer of 11, won a two-week stay of execution today a little more than an hour before he was to go to the electric chair.

Chief U.S. Dist. Judge Richard Robinson of Omaha stayed the execution until June 4. He said that would give Starkweather time to appeal a District Court denial of a writ of habeas corpus.

Starkweather was scheduled for execution about 6 a.m. for one of the slayings during a murder rampage 16 months ago. The stubby red-haired youth admitted 11 gun and knife killings.

Official witnesses and newsmen were already gathering in a predawn thunderstorm when the acting state penitentiary warden, John Greenholtz, notified them the execution had been stayed.

Protestant Chaplain Robert Klein had relayed the word of a possible stay to Starkweather. Half an hour later Starkweather learned the reprieve actually had been granted.

★ ★ ★

"He was pretty shaky," said Greenholtz. "He was all prepared to go."

Before the execution was called off, Starkweather had spent a nervous night drinking a good bit of coffee, the warden said.

At the Women's State Reformatory in York, where Caril Fugate, Starkweather's murder tour companion, is serving a life sentence, Supt. Hattie Bowley said the girl had not been told of the stay of execution, and probably won't learn of it from reformatory officials.

★ ★ ★

What Caril has learned of the case in the past has come from her attorneys, Mrs. Bowley said.

CHARLES STARKWEATHER

The elder Starkweather first phoned Judge Archibald K. Gardner of the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in Huron, S.D.

Judge Gardner referred Starkweather to Judge Robinson who was routed from bed at 1:45 a.m.

Robinson called U.S. Dist. Judge Robert Van Pelt in Lincoln. Van Pelt was the judge who rejected the habeas corpus application.

★ ★ ★

Judge Robinson observed that Starkweather had been without help of an attorney in seeking the habeas corpus writ and that he contends his constitutional rights are being violated.

SIGNED ORDER

At 4:22 a.m. Robinson signed the order staying the execution.

Word was phoned to Greenholtz and a U.S. marshal arrived at the prison with the signed order at 6:10 a.m.

In denying Starkweather's writ, Judge Van Pelt noted the question of the youth's innocence was not raised in his application.

Starkweather had said previously he thought he should have received no more than a life sentence.

A bespectacled, bowlegged youth who stood 5 feet 5, Starkweather vaulted into notoriety in January of 1958.

Won't Offer ROTC, Physical Education

MSUO Courses Stress Intellect

There will be no ROTC at MSUO.

Students will be encouraged to learn Russian.

Physical education courses will be neither required nor offered.

These were some of the points announced today in a blueprint for a curriculum at the Michigan State University Oakland.

The curricula was described as the product of more than a year's study by some of America's outstanding educational leaders, a community citizens group, MSU staff members and a group of honor students.

First classes will open this fall on the 1,400-acre Meadow Brook farms estate near Pontiac donated by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson. An enrollment of about 550 is expected the first year.

The banning of reserve officer training and the dropping of physical education courses were sharp breaks from present practices at Michigan State.

Michigan State also has been proud of its vast physical education plant and big-time football teams.

A summary of the study declared its purpose was to develop a curriculum incorporating the newest and most promising ideas in American higher education.

"The purpose has not been one of revolution, although there has been a willingness to revolt if by doing so there was a possibility of capturing a quality of freshness," the report stated.

"The intent was not to be experimental, but a willingness to experiment if in the trial there was a promise of greater effectiveness in the learning process," it said.

Five major conclusions were reached:

1. Modern universities are entirely too complex and specialized.

2. There is an excessive emphasis on vocational training as opposed to liberal education.

3. University faculties have too often forgotten their purpose is not necessarily to teach, but to help students learn.

4. This new university, if true to its commitment of education for tomorrow's leadership, must concern itself with helping students learn more about the world community, with particular emphasis on non-Western cultures.

5. A careful and continuous review of traditional course content and arrangement is warranted.

Specific points made for courses of study included:

Approximately 50 per cent of the curriculum will be devoted to liberal arts and liberal studies regardless of the student's professional interest.

All students, except engineering and science majors, will be required to develop a thorough knowledge and skill in at least one foreign language, with the emphasis on Russian.

Emphasis will be on written

ADMITTED 11TH SLAYING

The trail ended with capture of the pair near Douglas, Wyo., Jan. 29 after a parting-shot killing of a shoe salesman on a Wyoming highway. Starkweather subsequently admitted the previously unsolved slaying of a Lincoln filling station attendant, to bring his string to 11.

Starkweather was tried specifically in the Jan. 27 shooting of a Bennet, Neb., high school junior, Robert Jensen, whose body was found in a storm cave with that of his girl friend Carol King.

Jurors spurned the insanity plea which Starkweather's court-appointed attorneys had entered over the youth's objections, and recommended death.

Caril, now 15, was tried six months later, was convicted of murder on grounds she aided and abetted Starkweather in the Jensen killing. She drew a life sentence. Her appeal to the State Supreme Court is pending.

One criminologist, Dr. James Reinhardt of the University of Nebraska, who studied the Starkweather case intensively, concluded that the boy killed for the sense of power it gave him.

Starkweather, bland and unemotional as ever, told the State Board of Pardons he was sorry he had killed. But he spent the bulk of his time complaining about his attorneys, whom he earlier had dismissed. He insisted that with better counsel, he would have gotten off with a life sentence.

MacManus, John, Adams Observes 25th Anniversary

This month marks the 25th anniversary of MacManus, John & Adams, Inc., national advertising agency, with headquarters in Bloomfield Hills.

It was just over 25 years ago that two executive members of a prominent advertising agency decided to strike out on their own.

They were W. A. P. John and James R. Adams. Both had occupied highly responsible positions with one of America's leading advertising agencies. Both had worked on a wide variety of accounts with particular success in automotive advertising.

The two of them had an abundance of courage, strong convictions, abiding faith in their combined talents—and little else. They formed a short-lived agency (John-Adams, Inc.), rented an office, hired a secretary and went out after business.

The two soon found, however, that they needed an organization back of them to obtain the accounts they were after.

Several large national agencies, knowing of their ability and wide acquaintance in automotive advertising, made many interesting offers of mergers and buy-outs. Each offer contained a flaw of some kind, but it began to look as though they would have to accept something.

One drab spring day when the two were about to go to New York to discuss the possibility of becoming a branch of a large New York agency, Tom Wade, then manager of the Detroit office of the Curtis Publishing Co., suggested that they talk with Theodore R. MacManus. Strangely, the three men had never met, although their names, particularly in automotive advertising circles, were almost legendary.

MEET MacMANUS

Theodore F. MacManus, who had started his own agency around 1910, had handled several different automotive accounts, many of them at the same time, although they were competitive.

The young hopefuls met with him. The upshot was an agreement that MacManus would furnish the capital, the national reputation and acceptance, as well as the backing of his small organization. The ambitious John and Adams agreed to produce $500,000 in new billings within one year or the arrangement would be terminated. The company was to be known as MacManus, John & Adams, Inc. and incorporation was completed in May 1934.

It was on Sept. 22, 1934 that the new organization struck its first "pay dirt." While they were waiting their turn to make a presentation for the Pontiac Motor Division account, they received a call from Midland, from the late Dr. Willard H. Dow, president of the Dow Chemical Company. Dr. Dow wanted to know if they were interested in handling the advertising for a new but small Dow Division with a total billing of $18,000. They were!

Thus, Dow came in before lunch—and before dinner that evening the new organization also had won the account of the Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors Corp.

By the end of the calendar year 1934, total billings combining the old MacManus, Inc. accounts and those newly acquired Dow, Pontiac, and other accounts amounted to $481,000.

One year later, MacManus, John & Adams, Inc. had chalked a gross of $3,888,000 in billings. The new agency was on its way.

In 1935, the three men, now supported by a talented and growing staff, solicited and won the Cadillac Motor Division account.

It is noteworthy that through the 25 years of its existence, MacManus, John & Adams, Inc. has had only four presidents—the first three in that order and the present president, Ernest A. Jones, a protege of W. A. P. John.

GROOMED FOR POST

Jones attracted the attention of John while manager of the Michigan Band and Michigan Daily at the University of Michigan.

His work at the agency following graduation convinced the founders that he was potential material for heading the agency, and he was groomed for that position long before he became president in December, 1955.

In 1950 the agency occupied three different floors of the Fisher Building and needed even more space, which could not be provided. The two surviving founders, John and Adams, purchased seven acres at the corner of Woodward avenue and West Long Lake road and began planning what was probably the first building designed for a major advertising agency.

After discussion with clients and suppliers, the agency went ahead with the plans, and in December, 1952 moved into the attractive hillside site it occupies today.

Through the years MacManus, John & Adams, Inc. has continued to grow in stature and service. At the present time the agency serves 58 clients through offices in New York, Toronto and Los Angeles in addition to Bloomfield Hills.

Now rated 26th among the American advertising agencies in dollar volume, MacManus, John & Adams will bill in excess of $40,000,000 the current year.

It still handles Pontiac and Cadillac Motor Divisions of General Motors in addition to Dow Chemical Company, which has grown to include 27 different divisions.

Once considered a predominantly automotive agency, MacManus, John & Adams has been successful in diversifying its accounts to include such items as food wraps, gloves, shoes, adhesives, building products, beverages, publications, public utilities, packaging material and numerous others.

In addition, it handles many consumer products.

The national agency is celebrating its 25th anniversary. This year is particularly significant for Jones, who now marks his 20th year with the organization. Jones is the fourth president in the history of the agency, succeeding MacManus, John and Adams, in that order.

National Speakers Would Discuss Medical Issues

City Hospital Plans Annual Clinic Day

Plans for an annual clinic day for the medical profession and the general public are under way at Pontiac General Hospital.

Under the auspices of the hospital's medical staff, it is proposed that nationally known speakers appear here in talks aimed at both the medical world and the general public.

Dr. C. G. Burke, chief of staff, said it is hoped that the initial clinic day can be sponsored this fall.

Dr. Burke outlined plans to the hospital's Board of Trustees last night. Although the staff proposes to raise most of the money to finance the clinic, the Board of Trustees voted to contribute $500 to help meet expenses.

"This type of program will be conducted in the hospital's name and will undoubtedly lend prestige to the hospital and the city," said William P. Babcock, vice chairman of the board

Giving their blessing to the clinic day, trustees foresaw that it would result in improved medical service and encourage the atmosphere of research and study which the hospital is fostering here.

"This is the type of program that we always hoped the hospital could establish," said Mrs. B. B. Roush, a veteran trustee of the hospital.

"Since ours is an educational hospital, providing training for interns and technicians, it is proper that we have a full-scale educational program, such as a clinic day."

A staff committee headed by Dr. C. T. Ekelund is in charge of arranging the clinic day.

Dr. Burke said that three or four speakers would be invited to discuss medical subjects with the staff and other trained hospital personnel, with the evening speaker talking on a subject of general interest.

GM Will Make Small Car in '59

models, there is developing a sufficient demand in the smaller, lighter car area to warrant the production domestically of an automobile that we have had under development for some time.

"Accordingly, General Motors will offer this fall, at the time our other 1960 models are introduced, a distinctively new Chevrolet, to be called the Corvair, which will add to the Chevrolet line a sedan of lighter weight, lower first co and reduced operating expense. General Motors of Canada has also decided to produce the Corvair and is making an announcement to that effect today.

"The Corvair is designed primarily to conform to the standards of automotive transportation that exist on this continent. While it will be priced attractively and will be economical to operate and maintain, it will not be a so-called "stripped down" model. It also differs substantially from the cars being imported into this country from abroad by General Motors and by other manufacturers and distributors.

SHORTER THAN CHEVIE

"Both wheelbase and over-all length of the Corvair will be shorter than the present Chevrolet passenger car. Interior dimensions, however, will still be large enough to seat six passengers. In appearance, in comfort and competitive performance it will be outstanding. In every way it will conform to the high standards typical of any General Motors product.

"The Chevrolet Motor Division will manufacture the Corvair in its expanded Willow Run plant in the Detroit area and also in plants at Kansas City, Missouri, and Oakland, California. It will be merchandised by all dealers holding Chevrolet franchises.

"Without going into details, which must, of course, be withheld until announcement time as is the case with any new model, I can say that this distinctive, smaller and lighter car embodies certain features which are new to the American automotive industry and represent a new concept in automotive transportation. We are sure that you will want to see and drive this car when it is introduced."

There will be a definite move away from vocational training in business administration.

The engineering training will be geared for the space age.

Law Aims Bill for Income Tax at State House

State Rep. Arthur J. Law (D-Pontiac) directed his income tax bill towards the House of Representatives today.

Law's bill would base the tax on the federal income tax liability, he said.

The measure would tax personal income at six per cent of the federal income tax liability minus $5 for the taxpayer and each of his dependents.

"As an example," he said, a man with a wife and two children, earning $5,000 a year, pays $420 federal income tax. Six per cent of that is $25.20, which with $20 in deductions, would give him a state tax liability of $5.20.

Simple procedures and tax forms and a provision for weekly withholding from salary checks, he said, would make the program easy and inexpensive to administer.

Earlier this month, Law submitted a similar measure based on five per cent of the federal income liability but with no deductions. It also proposed a 10 per cent corporation profits tax and repeal of other business levies.

Detroit Legislator Rips GOP Senators' Stand in Tax Hunt

LANSING (AP) — An angry outburst by a House Democrat has marred the relative calm of legislative tax compromise efforts but apparently failed to alter their plotting course.

Another meeting was set for Tuesday just before Rep. T. John Lesinski (D-Detroit) exploded criticism against Senate Republicans on the bipartisan negotiating committee.

It was at the windup of a 90-minute session yesterday.

Lesinski threatened to abandon the meetings as "useless" but cooled off after other House committee members disputed that GOP senators summarily rejected some of his proposals.

"How can you talk with them when they want one thing and that's it?" asked the Detroiter. He referred to the GOP demand for a use tax increase.

"How can you compromise? There's no room for compromise. They reject everything else," he sputtered while three Republican House members and Rep. Joseph J. Kowalski (D-Detroit) tried to slow him down.

Rep. Harry J. Phillips (R-Port Huron) said he thought GOP senators would buy an additional tax, of limited duration, earmarked for deficit reduction and rebuilding the veterans trust fund.

"Did they tell you they would? Did anybody say that?" Lesinski asked, turning on Phillips.

"I think that's what the Senate will do," Phillips replied. "Do you know what they'll do? I don't know. I base my opinion on 17 years experience in the legislature."

He indicated the four GOP Senate negotiators merely were cautious about committing colleagues at a time when internal frictions were straining GOP Senate solidarity.

From seven to nine GOP senators have talked lately of challenging the "assumed" Senate leadership. The group wants to move more quickly toward a tax compromise.

Kalamazoo to Get Shoppers' Mall

plan for the revitalization of downtown Kalamazoo.

In outlining this goal, its chairman cited concern among merchants over recent vacancies in what were formerly choice downtown locations, and the springing up of outlying shopping centers.

The committee members, he reported, "decided not to wait until this (downtown) area deteriorates further, but to go out and meet the competition now."

The committee then asked every business and property owner in the downtown area to contribute a fraction of one per cent of assessed downtown property valuations. Total assessed value of the area was listed at some $15 million.

Response to the challenge was immediate and favorable. Within less than two months more than $40,000 had been raised and the committee was able to announce the hiring of Victor Gruen and Associates to draw up Kalamazoo's master plan.

In the next 11 months planning consultants and architects from the Gruen firm worked closely with the committee and with city officials in drawing up the long-range plan.

Finally, in March 1958, the result of this concerted effort—"Kalamazoo's Central Business District—1980"—was ready for unveiling. Committee members and city officials got a special preview in the afternoon, and a public presentation was made the same evening.

Detailed articles on the plan were carried in the Kalamazoo Gazette, and thousands of copies of the spiral-bound, colorfully-illustrated 80-page booklet describing it in full were made available for widespread distribution.

This brought to a close the primary need for the Downtown Kalamazoo Planning Committee, Inc., although its corporate structure continues in force on a standby basis.

Less than a month after the plan's unveiling, the City Commission endorsed it "in principle," and the mayor appointed a citizens advisory committee to work closely with city departments involved in creating a feasible program for the first phase.

This committee's work in the following months revealed a number of minor flaws in the master plan, but none which it did not believe could be corrected by minor adjustments.

By March of this year it had developed a modified pedestrian mall proposal for launching the long-range downtown revitalization program, and the City Commission called a public hearing to consider it.

BIRMINGHAM — Lovers of the fine arts are looking forward to "The Birmingham Arts Festival," June 6 through June 14, plans for which were announced today by the general chairman, Harvey A. Kresge.

★ ★ ★

The festival is being sponsored by The Bloomfield Art Assn. in cooperation with civic and cultural organizations of Birmingham and Bloomfield Township.

A variety of activities, to be presented in the Birmingham and Bloomfield area, is being headlined by James Melton, internationally known concert artist, The Detroit City Ballet, William Dollar, director, and members of The Windsor Light Opera Company.

★ ★ ★

Representative artists to be found in the collection include such names as Jose de Rivera, Gyorgy Kepes, Jose Guerrero and Piet Mondrian.

★ ★ ★

Other attractions of the festival are satire of suburban living, presented by St. Dunstan's Guild; the Clawson Playhouse Children's Cinema; a sidewalk cafe reminiscent of Montmartre and music in the air piped from Grinnell's window where locally-known artists will be performing.

A Birmingham woman, Mrs. Howard Estes of 492 Rivenoak St. was named president of the National Board of MOMS of America yesterday at the National Convention in Washington, D.C.

The wife of the late Howard Estes, former state representative, Mrs. Estes has been a member of the National Board the past three years.

A past president of the Birmingham MOMS unit, she also has served on the State Board.

The Birmingham Junior Chamber of Commerce last night named Robert Wilson president for the coming year. Other officers are: John Slocum, Jim Willoughby and Bob Reason, all vice presidents; Fred Dardin, treasurer; and John Tuppenlatz, secretary.

Several members of the local Jaycees have been nominated for the Spoke Award which will be presented at the State Convention in Jackson this weekend.

The award is made to first-year members who have accomplished "outstanding" works in their local units.

Torry Elementary School playground will be the scene of the annual spring carnival from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Rides on the American Legion 40 et 8 train, ponies and planes will be among the features for children.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. George Cooper, general chairman, said 18 gift and refreshment booths will be under the direction of the Torry School Mothers Group.

The Bloomfield Hills High School Student Council will sponsor a workday tomorrow to raise funds for the school's first exchange student next fall.

Area residents interested in obtaining help for the day such as raking and mowing lawns or putting up screens as well as housecleaning should call the high school for further information.

The group needs $650 to sponsor an exchange student through American Field Service. Thus far, it has earned $150 of the June goal.

Allocation Board Votes to Freeze County Taxes

Committee, plead the county's case, Emerson introduced his motion.

"It's about time for the county and schools together to do something outside this act," Emerson said.

In 1932 the Legislature adopted the act which limits taxing between the county, townships, and schools to 15 mills of property valuation.

Year after year, as areas grow in population and there is a corresponding increase in demand for municipal services, the Tax Board has been perplexed by trying to divide up the 15 mills three ways.

The solution is possible, Emerson told Board members, "but it's not going to be found under this 15-mill act."

Rowston, mayor of Pontiac, said he favored holding the line on last year's tax rates as it then provided Oakland County with the "basis" of asking taxpayers to approve special millage beyond the 15 mills for soaring operating expenses.

He also said it would provide reason to "appeal" to the State Legislature for a change in the 1932 law.

With Emerson doubting it would work, Rowston quizzed Smith and Moore as to why Oakland County had never asked taxpayers for added millage.

Smith answered, "The courthouse proposal has kind of scared us out of it." Smith referred to 1954 when county voters said no to a special tax levy to pay off a bond issue to build a new courthouse.

Emerson said he "doesn't share the view" of many who believe it would be just as easy for the county to ask for special millage as school districts and townships have done in the past.

Emerson, in stressing the yearly problem of splitting the 15 mills and "still keeping everybody happy," said, "If we had 25 mills to allocate then it would be in striking distance of doing what the schools and county budget requires."

Cities are not bound by the 15-mill limitation.

After Emerson advocated in his motion setting the minimum statutory rate at 3 mills for the county and 4 mills for the schools, he moved the balance of the county rate be 2.62, leaving the county with a total of 5.62.

Moore immediately moved that the 2.62 be hiked to 3.25, giving Oakland a 1959 rate of 6.25—still .22 or $400,000 shy of meeting county budgetary requirements.

Moore's motion died for lack of a second. Then followed the 3-3 vote with Gardner, Moore and Sparks against the freeze on 1958 rates.

The only townships to show any change from these rates, under Emerson's motion, would be Southfield and Waterford. Emerson said Southfield agreed to drop from $1 to 80 cents, while Waterford agreed to be cut from $1.32 to $1.31.

Pontiac school district would have to settle for its old rate of 9.38. School Superintendent Dana P. Whitmer appeared before the Board yesterday to outline how this rate would curtail the educational program in the city.

At the conclusion of today's session, Emerson declined to tell newsmen what he believed the solution might be when he urged the county and schools to work "together."

"What I say might influence what we do here next week," Emerson, superintendent of county schools, said.

Emerson said: "I can't see any virtue in trying to second guess whether the county and schools are asking for too much. These men know their business and have prepared accurate budgets."

Major reason for Oakland asking for .85 more than last year's rate is because the county faces a deficit of more than a million dollars, Moore said, because of a huge social welfare load.

Move Is Afoot to Reopen Sensational Harry Oakes Murder Case

(The lower house of the Bahamas legislature has voted to reopen one of the most sensational unsolved murders of the past quarter-century —the killing of Sir Harry Oakes. However, the upper house still must act and political sources said approval there is doubtful. The following backgrounds the case.)

By JACK V. FOX
United Press International

Sir Harry Oakes was a man who seemed to know he was marked for murder.

The Canadian-born multi-millionaire had left a trail of enemies in amassing a fortune from Canada's biggest gold mine and hard business deals in the palmy, sun-drenched British colony of the Bahamas.

His piquant, 18-year-old daughter, Nancy, had defied him to wed twice-married Count Alfred de Marigny, a Frenchman whom Oakes despised as a fortune hunter—and whose hatred was returned.

So wary was Sir Harry that he moved from night to night from one to another of the five homes he owned around the capital of Nassau. He slept with a pistol in a drawer beside his bed and usually had an armed guard in the house.

But on the night of July 7, 1943, someone caught the 68-year-old Oakes by surprise, bludgeoned his head in and then tried to set his body afire on a mattress in the bedroom of Westbourne, the estate eight miles outside Nassau.

The 33-year-old De Marigny was tried for murder in a case marked by bungled police work, a blaze of international publicity and Nancy Oakes standing firmly beside her accused husband

After a month-long hearing, the jury found the crown had not proved De Marigny guilty. It voted 9-3 for acquittal after deliberating only an hour and one-half, but added a recommendation that he be banished from the islands.

★ ★ ★

There the case has rested for more than 15 years. Nancy, who inherited most of the Oakes fortune, had her marriage annulled. She subsequently married the Baron von Hoyningen-Huene but they became estranged. She is now in England and has been escorted by Cmdr. Michael Parker, former equerry to Prince Philip.

De Marigny subsequently married Mary M. Taylor, niece of the late Myron C. Taylor, former American envoy to the Vatican.

This week Cyril Stevensor, editor of the Nassau Herald and a member of the colonial legislature, pushed a petition through the lower house to reopen the case.

However, Nassau political sources said the upper house would reject the move unless concrete evidence was introduced. Stevenson has said he has new evidence and can point his finger at the murderer, but has declined to name the killer.

★ ★ ★

If the case should be reopened, Gov. Sir Oswald Baynor Arthur would call in Scotland Yard.

Sir Harry dined at Westbourne the night before his death with three guests. They were Mrs. Michael Henneage, a refugee from the London bombing; Charles Hubbard, an American-born British citizen; and H. C. Christie, a close friend and business associate.

Hubbard left with Mrs. Henneage around 11 p.m. Christie accepted an invitation to stay the night. They were alone in the big house, their separate bedrooms opening onto a balcony along the second floor.

Christie did not sleep well and when he awoke at 6:45 a. m. he recalled that his host liked to have an early breakfast. He walked barefooted and in pajamas down the hall and, when there was no answer to his knocking, he pushed open the door.

On the bed lay Sir Harry. His head was covered with blood from four deep wounds inflicted by some kind of blunt instrument. The mattress was smoking from patches where it had been set afire.

Colonial police were summoned but, at the same time, the Duke of Windsor, then governor, called in separately experts from the Miami Police Department, Capt. Edward S. Melchen, head of the Homicide Bureau, and Capt. James O. Barker, head of the Identification Bureau.

Then began a tragi-comedy of errors. Curious crowds swarmed into the estate and invaded the house. Thirteen persons were found to have gone into the bedroom, leaving fingerprints everywhere. Someone carried a Chinese silk screen from beside Oakes' bed into the hall and it was covered with prints.

There were baffling clues. Deep burns had seared Oakes' body before and after death. The headboard was charred but Harry's sandy hair was not singed.

There were burns on the carpet and sooty smudges on a staircase heading to the lower floor, indicating a struggle might have taken place out in the hall. Oakes' revolver lay untouched in the drawer.

Christie was the first suspect. An examination of his arms, hands and face revealed no trace of burns. He was declared cleared.

Suspicion turned to De Marigny. It was found that the hair of his hands, arms, his hair and beard were singed. He had an explanation—two, in fact. He might have singed his hair lighting hurricane lamps and he recently had been singeing chickens at his chicken farm.

He also had an alibi. He had entertained guests very late at his own home that night. It was possible, the evidence showed he might have slipped away around 1:30 a.m. but the time in which he could have committed the murder was very short.

The Kraho Indians of Brazil have two village governments. One rules in the rainy season, a time of work in the fields; the other in the dry season, a time of ceremonies and festivals.

Sgt. Williams to Attend Police Institute at MSU

Pontiac Police Sgt. John Williams will attend the annual Institute on Police-Community Relations Sunday through May 29 at the Kellogg Center for Continuing Education in East Lansing.

★ ★ ★

The institute is sponsored by the MSU School of Police Administration and Public Safety with the cooperation of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, International Assn. of Chiefs of Police, Michigan Assn. of Chiefs of Police and the Michigan Sheriff's Assn.

Major purpose of the institute is to improve relationships between police and community agencies.

Among the guest speakers at the six-day conclave will be Mildred Peters, professor of guidance and counseling, Wayne State University; James M. Slavin, police chief, Kalamazoo; Police Capt. Norman J. Schleigh, director of training, Baltimore, Md., Police Dept.; and Dr. Carson McGuire, professor of educational psychology and director, laboratory of human relations, University of Texas.

Other speakers will be Donald Shoemaker, editor of the editorial page of the Miami, Fla. Herald, whose topic will be "A Look at Others: Police-Press Relations," and Larry W. Fultz, Houston police inspector, who will speak on "Racial Factors in Law Enforcement."

"A Police Administrator Looks at Police-Community Relations" will be the subject of an address by Howard R. Leary, deputy commissioner of the Philadelphia Police Dept.

Dundee Plant to Be Biggest in Cement

Roblee B. Martin, general manager of the Dundee Cement Co., said a combination of factors favored selection of Michigan for the $30 million plant which will have a capacity of 20 million bags of cement a year.

One of the major factors, he said, was the "market potential."

"Engineering studies indicated Michigan is expected to be one of the fastest growing states over the next decade and that the entire Great Lakes are and will continue to develop at a quicker pace than the country as a whole," Martin said.

GM Reported Planning Factory in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The newspaper El Nacional said General Motors plans to build a factory in Argentina in the near future to produce trucks and automobiles.

The newspaper, which has close relations with the government, said General Motors had completed a study of the market, sources of supply, and other details and would present its proposals to the government next month.

Bay City's Missile Ship Has Power to Spare

BAY CITY — The generators aboard the USS Wilson, the Navy's first missile-launching destroyer which was built here, could easily supply the electricity requirements of a community of 3,000 population.

The destroyer, which was launched recently, has four steam turbine generators capable of producing a total of 2,000 kilowatts.

Judgment of Dulles' Stewardship Now Up to History

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Foster Dulles, from the moment he resigned as secretary of state because of his spreading cancer, belonged to history. What will history say of him?

It can never deny that this 71-year-old man gave to the service and welfare of his country tremendous and tireless dedication. He quit only because of the illness which incapacitated him.

But only unfolding events—history itself—can ever give a final answer to the central question of his stewardship: Was he a good secretary of state in the sense that the policy he pursued was wise?

His great task was dealing with communism. If his whole policy toward the world of the Soviets and Red Chinese were to be summed up in a single sentence, this could be it: "Hold tight and don't let them budge an inch."

★ ★ ★

This was exactly the "containment" policy of his predecessor, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson. It called for military alliances all around the Communist perimeter and economic help to friends and neutrals.

The purpose was direct, obvious and simple: to keep communism from gaining any more ground, militarily, economically or politically. It was essentially a defensive policy, not an aggressive one.

DULLES DISAGREES

Dulles disagreed with it thoroughly in the 1952 presidential campaign before he became secretary. He called it "negative, futile and immoral." He said it was limited to reacting to Soviet actions. In short, he said the United States should create crises for the Soviet Union instead of letting the Soviet Union create crises for us.

But when he became secretary he took over the Acheson policy, made it his own, even expanded on it with new military alliances.

Yet Dulles had hardly taken office before Soviet policy changed, at least outwardly. Forty-four days after Dulles was sworn in, the old dictator, Joseph Stalin, died, and with him went the needlessly savage Soviet foreign policy.

His successors took a softer line although their purpose, and they made no bones about it, was the same: Communist expansion. They managed to increase their influence beyond their borders but American military alliances and power remained firm and the Soviets didn't gain an extra foot of real estate.

★ ★ ★

Yet, the Soviets and Red Chinese went ahead by leapsintheir nese went ahead by leaps in their own internal development, particularly the Soviet Union in the field of weapons which put added pressure on the West to stand back. The cold war between East and West was just as intense when Dulles went to the hospital as when he took office six years ago.

VERDICT MUST WAIT

This is why many years must pass before history can give a final verdict on the policy and wisdom of Dulles, for it will take many years and many events as they unfold to show:

1. Whether his policy led, or helped lead, to the ultimate ruination or triumph of communism or to a peaceful understanding between East and West.

2. Whether, by the time he took office and Stalin died, the Acheson policy was outmoded and Dulles should have sought and pursued a different one of his own making, with more aggressiveness and less defensiveness, or with more friendliness and less hostility.

3. Whether the forces already let loose before he became secretary in 1953—ultimately favorable or unfavorable to the West—were already too powerful to be affected in their direction or destination by him or any one man

4. Whether he was wise in depending so much on his own thinking or whether he should have made far greater use of the minds of the men around him in the State Department.

★ ★ ★

In the years ahead he may prove to have been a hero of American history, or a very minor figure, or even an unfortunate one.

No one now—and certainly not Dulles, whose sense of history was too sharp for that—can claim to know positively the answers to the questions just raised. But no one can challenge this about him: he did his best as he saw it.

Psychopath Kills Pets at Storybook Farms

PARSIPPANY, N.J. (AP) — What police called the "hellish prank of a sadistic psycopath" has brought sadness to children at Storybook Farms, a fairyland amusement attraction.

★ ★ ★

The owner, Joseph O'Bryan, found five goats and two rabbits at the attraction shot and clubbed to death Thursday.

"Dead animals lay all over the place," said O'Bryan.

★ ★ ★

A week ago two rabbits and two goats had been shot.

Father Brings His Son to Police in Stab-Death

VENICE, Calif. (AP)—A father turned his son in to police Thursday night in connection with the fatal stabbing of an engineer.

★ ★ ★

Evington Scharling, 35, was slain with a hunting knife when he scuffled with two boys he admonished for breaking bottles in the alley behind his home.

★ ★ ★

Later Ben Salerno appeare dat the Venice detective bureau with his son Michael and Raymond Knittle, both 16. He said the boys told him Knittle stabbed Scharling because he slapped him.

The youths were booked on suspicion of murder.

The tolls for the St. Lawrence Seaway are scaled to pay for the project in 50 years, says the National Geographic Society.

2 Die in Buenos Aires Melee

Arrest 300 in Strike Battle

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Some 300 strikers were arrested Thursday night after thousands of rioters and police had turned downtown Buenos Aires into a battlefield.

A visiting dignitary, President Sukarno of Indonesia, was caught in the melee when strikers shouting antigovernment slogans pressed around the open car carrying him to Government House for a call on President Arturo Frondizi.

Two persons were killed when a fourth-story balcony crammed with battle viewers crashed to the street. Another 25 persons were injured in the street fighting, in which streetcars and buses were overturned and burned.

★ ★ ★

Violence erupted when bank clerks striking for higher wages demonstrated one day before a government deadline for a return to work.

The clerks presented Congress two petitions and began marching toward Government House when heavily reinforced police units attempted to head them off.

Other workers joined the clerks in the battle. Police made liberal use of tear gas, fire hoses and clubs. The strike has been in progress for six weeks.

School Board Holds Line on Band Practice Ruling

The Pontiac Board of Education and the school administration have vetoed giving two periods out of the six daily for band practice, and we commend them for their decision and sticking by it.

★ ★ ★

There is no doubt that Pontiac has produced outstanding bands. The question is whether the achievements are worth what we are spending on them, time-wise. School officials point to a high rate of "drop outs," students who don't care to continue in the band. Perhaps we have sacrificed participation on the altar of excellence.

★ ★ ★

Should a third of the in-school time be spent mastering music?

This is a little steep—there are too many other subjects that get short-changed this way. For those who want this professional training, after school instruction is available.

★ ★ ★

Many parents of band children and former band members feel strongly that cutting practice hours is bad for the band, and it may well be, but school board members and administrators feel it is better for the boys and girls.

A. P. Substantiates Hoffa's First Statement

As a Director of The Associated Press, I heartily applaud the A.P.'s quick substantiation of a statement HOFFA denied. The top Muscle Man discovered a threat of his was backfiring all over the place, and he sought sanctuary in the ancient and shopworn device of declaring, "I was misquoted."

★ ★ ★

This practice has long been a flimsy protective device of boys who talk too much. True to the traditions of the trade, The Associated Press allowed Big Mouth to file his denial and allege "distortions of the truth." Then quite as promptly, it reiterated and confirmed the original statement.

★ ★ ★

Half a dozen independent newspapermen heard the original remarks and reported them back to their several disassociated publications. There was complete unanimity in their accounts.

★ ★ ★

No news association and no newspaper should take any more of these frightened denials lying down. The first publication I recall rebelling was The Chicago Tribune. A Windy City politician talked when he should have listened and The Tribune reported it accurately. They printed the speaker's hasty denial the next day with another statement from the reporter re-affirming everything in the original story.

★ ★ ★

In the current instance, HOFFA more or less challenged the whole United States and offered to take on the entire nation with a strike that would rattle the teeth of the backwoodsmen in Maine and the shippers in San Diego.

It backfired fast.

★ ★ ★

Other union leaders repudiated the whole move and HOFFA was left holding an uncomfortable bag with no place to go. So, he cried "misquoted."

★ ★ ★

Oddly, 24 hours before this, I received a news release from Life Magazine quoting Hoffa as saying: "We are now in a position to control strike issues. If Congress is stupid enough to pass a bill banning secondary boycotts, we'll fix it so all our contracts expire on the same day." There's the same approximate idea muttered more than a week before to still another source.

★ ★ ★

I'm proud of The Associated Press for carrying its stout reaffirmation of the original quotation. It's time all newspapers and news associations stopped allowing cheap shysters to blame reporters for the speakers' own bungling and ineptitude.

The A.P. sticks by its guns.

Awakens Us to Better Appreciation

This 1959 Michigan Week has put a big accent on what Oakland County contributes toward making this a great state.

During it our residents have been doing some plugging. And we've assumed a better conviction by doing some listening.

For instance, there's a city of comparable size to Pontiac that went on the air to exploit its attractions, principal among which is nearly 100 lakes in its county. Oakland County has 423.

Another told of its great industries, naming a long list, none of which carries a national meaning. Reflect a little on what Oakland County has in this category.

Still another pointed to its pre-eminent cultural advantages, naming some of which we never heard. Oakland County has world famous Cranbrook.

And yet another pointed to its recreational grounds. Our county has more state parks and other such outdoor attractions than any other of the 83 counties in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Yes, Michigan Week has awakened us to a more secure realization of what we have right here at home. Comparisons are healthy.

It seems to be a bigger privilege than we had known we enjoyed to live right here at home.

To Give More Reasons Why We Are Fortunate

Trees: What we can be so close to that we don't see the woods.

Daniel T. Murphy,

makes one feel more fortunate for living in Oakland County.

Besides giving a list of the national, state, county, city, village and township officers, comprising several hundred names, it also has population figures and other facts of much interest.

It points out that among the 1,088 counties in our 50 states, Oakland holds an outstanding spot. In several respects our entire nation has nothing else of such a comparable and pleasing nature.

The directory will be for free distribution. When it is issued that fact will be given in this column.

Flowers That Bloom in the Spring, Tra La

David Lawrence Says:

Geneva Talks Highly Impractical

GENEVA — The hopes of the world have been raised to the point where many people naively believe that a conference either of foreign ministers or of chiefs of state can really settle international disputes.

LAWRENCE

But what happened here Thursday night illustrates the utter impracticability of the method, especially when complex subjects like the security of a continent are under discussion.

For several days formal sessions have been held to no avail. At last the word went around that a dinner was to be given at which only the four foreign ministers and their top aides would sit down together.

There would be no taking of notes or recording of things said. it would be what was proclaimed beforehand as a "social" affair. But everybody in town, particularly the newsmen, noted that business suits were to be worn, and it was described by official spokesmen as an "informal" dinner.

So great was the interest in the getting together of the four foreign ministers that each delegation let it be known in advance that it really had nothing to offer and didn't seek to put forward any new proposals.

All this means that each side was waiting to let the other take the initiative. Yet what could possibly come out of such a "social" dinner? Certainly the foreign ministers representing Great Britain, France and the United States could not make answer in a chorus to an important question.

Not one of them would venture to take a position different from what had been agreed upon before with the others. The net result is the same as the preliminary rounds of a boxing match, when no really hard blows are struck.

Unfortunately, even this analogy isn't altogether applicable, because not one of the combatants, figuratively speaking, is authorized without prior consultation to say anything that could be decisive.

Diplomacy has its own language of ambiguities, and only when it is reduced to writing can anything be said to be definitive.

The real significance of the latest dinner parley was that each side wanted to find out if the other side was ready to make any substantial concessions from the positions taken in the speeches at the formal sessions.

Almost two weeks have gone by and the progress of the conference to date is exactly zero. Another week of such aimless discussion will inevitably bring a demand from the public that the conference farce be ended and the problem of negotiating agreements be turned over to the ambassadors who represent the same governments at each other's capitals.

One wonders, indeed why the groundwork for an agreement shouldn't be laid by the regularly assigned diplomats, leaving it to the top ministers of state to get together only if the differences have been narrowed to the point where there is some sign that an agreement is really in sight.

But today an uninformed public demands "big-four conferences" and meetings at the "summit" in the mistaken belief that this is the way to solve the crises.

Actually, the cumbersome procedure prevents agreement because, if there is to be any backing down on a single point — even for the purpose of trying out the other side— the change is promptly reported in the press of the world as a retreat, and neither side can afford that kind of publicity.

So it's just a matter of time before the utter futility of the public conference method will be conclusively proved and there will be a return to the private discussions of ambassadors.

Unhappily, the spectacular setting here and the organized propaganda devices merely emphasize that neither side can afford to "negotiate" or "compromise," and the end result must be failure.

The peace of the world is too important in the life of all peoples to remain unsettled for lack of a method of talking things over.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Work, Exercise or Play Relieves Nervous Tension

People who suffer from "nerves," nervous exhaustion, high tension and all that high sounding hokum indignantly reject the suggestion, of course, but the physiological mechanism of "nervousness" is essentially this: Emotion induces increased secretion of adrenalin; adrenalin releases more fuel (glycogen, blood sugar) from liver and muscles and promotes increased oxidation or combustion of this fuel to provide the energy required for the natural reaction to emotion whether it be to fight or run away.

DR. BRADY

If you are a primitive, forthright or uncultured person maybe you will fight or run away. If you are cultured, refined, civilized, you will try to keep calm, avoid raising your voice, smile when you want to snarl, try not to worry about your blood pressure, and pretend you are not mad at anybody when actually you'd like to beat the bloody bejabbers out of the so-and-so who crossed your path.

Emotion raises the blood pressure and speeds up the vital machinery, the physiological preparation for fight or flight. The business of remaining calm under all sorts of provocation is comparable with racing the engine of your car—it wears out the machinery.

It leads to a breakdown — not "nervous" breakdown, but a breakdown of the vital machinery, cardio-vascular degenertion, heart-artery degeneration. It is the cardio-vascular system that suffers when we just pretend to keep calm regardless of what the provocation may be.

While the natural physiological reaction to unpleasant emotion is fighting or running away, such behavior is against the rules of civilized life. The individual today can let off steam in physical activity, work, play or contests of agility, skill or strength. Nations can lessen tensions by international athletic contests such as the Olympic games.

Medical authorities in various countries have found that business and professional men are subject to coronary episodes at an earlier age than men who do physical work and they do not make as good recoveries as do older working men.

A correspondent writes that the answer for those who can't do much walking because of age or some physical handicap is "peace of mind"—spiritual strength gives peace of mind. I can't argue with that, because I don't understand just how it works.

All I know is that emotion demands motion — muscular work, play, exercise is the antidote to "nervousness," and oxygen on the hoof is the best general exercise anyone can take.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Postal Safety Supervisor Requests Help of Parents

Because school doors will soon burst open with carefree children beginning summer vacations, your letter carriers' concern for your children prompted this letter. Safe delivery of your mail during the worst ice conditions in memory was accomplished by drivers who've earned for themselves the title of professional drivers.

★ ★ ★

Your Postal driver realizes a rolling ball is always followed by a running child, that ice-cream venders are always followed by hungry children from all directions, that young bicycle riders are always followed by a rash of goose pimples and that kids have so many important things on their minds that traffic safety is sometimes crowded out of their fun-filled existence. The driver of a Post Office truck knows these things, but sometimes it's impossible to see the little ones.

Paper Boy Asks Customers' Aid

As you probably noticed summer vacation time is almost upon us. Each year during this vacation period I have customers that either forget to tell their paper boy to stop the paper or else they tell a neighbor to tell us, and what usually happens is that they forget to tell the paper boy, until three or four papers have accumulated on the porch.

Please give us a break and tell us a couple of days in advance when you're going on a vacation so we can stop the paper, because we must pay for those unwanted papers that we delivered.

Invites Women to Join 'Y' Plans

With reference to two recent letters, the YWCA has a program which many young mothers and homemakers find satisfying. It's called "Ladies Day Out" and consists of class or workshop sessions on Wednesday or Thursday morning in a variety of subjects. The girls can have a cup of coffee and coffee cake before class and meet after class for a snack and conversation while their children are cared for in our nursery.

★ ★ ★

We offer this 26 weeks of the year and have about 200 women and 46 pre-school children enrolled. The Spring term of activities is coming to a close and we'll be happy to have these girls make plans to join us in the Fall. We expect to offer golf and tennis classes this spring, so there's still a chance to make some contact at the moment.

★ ★ ★

If these girls would rather have a club group, instead or class or interest group, if they will contact Mrs. William Crisp or me we will be happy to help them plan whatever they'd like. The Y is already to serve women and girls of the community.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Bible Is Great Psychology Text

Jesus was the world's foremost Applied Psychologist, as I prove to college students in Chapter 18 of my textbook "Psychology Applied," but you can derive some of my reasons from the brief case below. By all means, consult the Bible reference at the end of this case for the best. "Reversible Why" on record.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I like the practical kind of psychology which you offer in your newspaper column.

"And some of my seminary professors assign your column as collateral reading in their courses.

"But how did you learn such practical psychology, for I majored in the subject at the state university and all of my psychology courses were very academic and far removed from real life?

"For instance, where did you get your magical formula mentioned yesterday about the 'Pause & Praise' strategy, followed by the 'Reversible Why'?"

CHRIST'S PSYCHOLOGY

We have applied psychologists who concentrate on people, out on the real firing line of life, and also another group who confine their study largely to white rats or guinea pigs in cloistered college laboratories.

★ ★ ★

Since I used to be a traveling salesman, I soon learned that human beings teach us far more human psychology than rats and guinea pigs.

That's where I realized that everybody at birth is branded with a lifelong tattoo, which reads: "I want to feel important."

But I was also reared to read the Bible every day, so I am quite familiar with its contents.

In fact, I had started it at the age of 7, and had read it through, from cover to cover, 8 times before I graduated from high school. This means both the Old Testament as well as the New Testament.

Soon I noticed that Jesus was the greatest psychologist of all time, far excelling Aristotle or William James, or any current psychology professors.

And Jesus employed that "Reversible Why" technique on several occasions to keep from being hooked on the two horns of several dilemmas that his enemies thrust at him.

"Is it lawful to pay tribute to Caesar?" casually asked some of the 5th columnists in his audience.

They thought they had Jesus cornered. For if Christ said it was right and proper to pay tribute, the 5th columnists figured Jesus would alienate his predominantly Jewish audiences, who hated the Roman tax collectors.

On the other hand, if Christ said people should not pay tribute to Caesar, then the Roman soldiers would have arrested him instantly for treason.

So Jesus was implicated, whether he answered with a "Yes" or a "No."

You readers are familiar with the 2-horned dilemma from high school classes where it is illustrated by the query:

"Have you stopped beating your wife?"

If you say "No," then that implies you are still beating her, and if you reply with a "Yes," it suggested you formerly beat her, though you may never have laid a hostile hand on her in 50 years of happy marriage.

Jesus recognized the clever strategy of his foes, and immediately asked for a coin. He held it aloft and got the audience indulging in "ritual" by inquiring:

"Whose image and superscription are on this coin?"

To which they chanted back, "Caesar's."

"Then render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's but unto God the things that are God's," Christ neatly side-stepped their 2-horned dilemma.

By so doing, he may have saved himself an earlier crucifixion which could have left his Apostles so poorly prepared that they might never have carried the Christian doctrines through the tortures of Nero's reign.

For another superb "Reversible Why," see Matthew 21:23-27.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Era of Courage in Home Decor Predicted

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK—"I'm not a homemaker at all. But still I know women pretty well," said Beryl Austrian, interior decorator. "And I tell you they want to conform.

"They want to conform, but be just an eeeensy bit better than the woman they're conforming with. That's why we've gone through all those Cape Cod saltboxes, and why all those picture windows look out on all that nothing."

Beryl paused, and thoughtfully stroked her red fox boa as if it were spaniel. "Then Frank Lloyd Wright came along, and if you had any money your bathroom had to nuzzle into a hill.

"But I have great hopes today that American women are getting much more fearless than they've been in years when it comes to planning their houses and apartments. They're having the guts to hire decorators, even, without being afraid the neighbors will think they haven't enough taste to decorate a house themselves."

She smiled. "And I do believe that we will see some good, solid taste in home and apartments now that women are beginning to speak up with courage."

Miss Austrian is the outspoken founder and president of Intramural, Inc. Her specialty, these past 20 years, has been decorating the lobbies of New York's swankiest apartment and office buildings.

"My forte, you might say, is creating a welcome impression upon people who walk into a home or a building for the first time. Actually, it IS like the front porch of a house—remember the front porch, before they put it in the rear and called it a piazza? I dare say it is coming back, but in the meantime . . ."

Meantime, American families must make their first impression upon guests with a foyer. And the same principles can be applied to decorating a foyer as to "doing," as Beryl does, a lobby.

"First of all," she says, "my advice for women decorating a foyer is, don't go dreamy-weamy. This is an expression which describes things like pink bedrooms —the kind of place a guest walks into and screams 'Eeeeyow, what a room!'

"This is not right for a foyer.

"A foyer should be cheerful but should never bowl one over. People should feel immediately at home in it, rather than startled.

"It should have at least these three pieces of furniture—a stiff chair to sit down on for putting on galoshes, a table on which to put the mail, and a mirror for correcting last-minute errors before going out or in.

"It should never be too comfortable, or goodbyes will be interminable. There should not be excess furniture to stumble over.

"Since it is the room that gets the most wear and tear outside the kitchen, it should have resilient floor coverings and cleanable wallpapers or paints. It should never have wall-to-wall carpeting, unless you are permanently rich. It should be as uncluttered as possible."

On the subject of the rest of the house, Miss Austrian has this to say. "I believe that the 'elegant look' is really coming back, to replace, or at least blend with, the metal chairs

"Which reminds me of a friend of mine, a housewife — real practical type, with the built-in ovens, vinyl floors, paper napkins at every meal. Her four-year-old daughter went to a little girls' party last week and was overcome by something the hostess served with the ice cream. She told her mommy — 'we had the funniest little pieces of rag with lace around them, instead of napkins!'

"Ah, it's an oversimplified world," said Beryl.

Seaway Causes New Problem

Young Girls Swarm Foreign Ships in Ports

DULUTH, Minn. (UPI)—Juvenile and port authorities are seeking to end international relations between foreign sailors and teenage girls from this Lake Superior port.

The girls have been swarming all over Greek and French ships docked here and at Superior, Wis., and are causing a brand new juvenile delinquency headache for authorities in the twin ports.

As Tom O'Heir, head of the Duluth Crime Prevention Bureau, put it, "They're just romantic kids who want some foreign lovin'."

The problem, which threatened to sprout into an international incident, began with the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway and the introduction of foreign ocean-going ships into the Great Lakes.

But the swashbuckling young French and Greek sailors are something else again, O'Heir said.

Last week police chased a gang of teenagers, mostly girls, from a Greek ship, he said, and the incident was repeated on a French ship this week.

An 18-year-old Superior girl was arrested for contributing to the delinquency of a minor following a foray aboard a ship.

"These sailors can't even speak English, but these girls seem to go for it," said Superior Police Chief A. E. Buchanan.

Buchanan said he was "surprised at the age of these sailors . . . they're so young.

"They're giving the girls drinks and you know what that leads to," he said. "First thing you know they're in trouble and gone over the pond."

O'Heir said the "romantic kids" who board the ships have no records of juvenile delinquency.

Today's meeting between port and juvenile authorities was to persuade dock and grain elevator companies to post "no trespassing" signs on the ships and to keep off all persons without a pass.

"There have been no regulations as far as visitors on these ships are concerned," O'Heir said. "The ships have deck watches, but they haven't been doing anything about it."

Michigan House Buries Lawyers' Fee Measure

LANSING (AP)—The House almost set a speed record yesterday in quickly burying a bill which a Republican lawmaker said would enable unscrupulous lawyers to milk up to $450,000 from widows of seamen lost in a freighter sinking.

Rep. Emil A. Peltz (R-Rogers City) said the measure posed a threat to 30 Rogers City widows whose husbands went down with the freighter Carl D. Bradley in a Lake Michigan storm Nov. 18.

Thirty-three men lost their lives and two survived.

The bill would have allowed an attorney administering an estate to sign an agreement with the heirs on the size of his fee without approval of the Probate Judge have jurisdiction over the estate.

The Bradley Transportation Co., which owned the sunken ship, offered to pay the widows $40,000 each for their lost—a total of $1,200,000.

Peltz said the company withdrew the offer when attorneys persuaded a number of the women to sue for $750,000 and more.

"Based on the contingency fees set by the State Bar of Michigan and assuming a $40,000 settlement, attorneys under this bill could collect a third of the total from each widow," he said. "With court costs, this would leave them only about $24,000 apiece."

Together with a $150,000 fund created for the widows and children by a Detroit newspaper and built up by citizen donations, attorneys would collect up to $450,000 in fees "without turning a hand," he said.

The House consigned the bill to the Committee on Religious and Benevolent Societies, often a burying ground for unwanted legislation.

Rep. Andrew H. Wisti (D-Hancock) said he introduced the measure "merely to enable clients and attorneys to agree on a fee without wondering whether it would be approved by the probate judge."

"I had no intention of relating it to the Rogers City situation," he said.

Seeks State-Aid Rate Hike Here

Pontiac General Writes Letters Urging House to Jump Indigent Pay

Pontiac General Hospital today renewed efforts to obtain a more favorable rate of reimbursement for treatment of state-aid patients.

Letters were being prepared urging members of the House Ways and Means Committee in Lansing to approve a new rate formula providing for reimbursement at actual cost of treatment.

★ ★ ★

Supported by the Michigan Hospital Assn., the proposed adjustment in rates was favorably passed out of the House Public Health Committee recently.

James Clarkson, chairman of the Pontiac General Board of Trustees, has asked fraternal, civic and service organizations in Pontiac to petition the Legislature in behalf of rate adjustments.

Says Reds Want Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt) says he expects the Soviet Union will be just conciliatory enough in the Geneva foreign ministers talks to make sure there is a followup summit conference.

3 City Students to Compete in Language Test

Three Pontiac Northern High School students and six from Farmington High School will compete tomorrow in the Eastern Michigan College 11th Annual Foreign Language Festival contests.

Entering the foreign language poetry recital category, from Pontiac Northern are Marcel Didier, 19, of 521 DeSota Pl.; Karen Rognaldson, 16, of 157 W. Ann Arbor St.; and Nancy Robinson, 16, of 308 Nelson St. They will be accompanied by language department head Neil W. Gray.

Also entering the poetry contest and the foreign language skit phase are, from Farmington High School, Kathleen Pyorala, 16, of 28685 Greening; Virginia Maattala, 17, of 33105 Orchard St.; Judith Austin, 15, of 7047 Pebblecreek, Birmingham; Susan Giffin, 16, of 3147 Northwestern Hwy., Franklin; Sharon Bayley, 16, of 24762 Lakeland Dr., and Shirley Bolus, 16, of 29250 Twelve Mile Rd.

Youths to Wash Cars

The youth group of Congregation B'nai Israel will wash cars in the parking lot at the rear of the synagogue, 143 Oneida Rd. at 9:45 a.m. Sunday. Bruce Berg, general chairman, said the proceeds would be used for charity.

Approve Juvenile Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Education subcommittee has approved a five-year, 25-million-dollar federal program of aid to projects to combat juvenile delinquency. The measure now goes to the full committee.

House Speeds Ike's Aid Plan

Dems Agree to Rush $3.9 Billion Proposal for Foreign Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats in control of the House Foreign Affairs Committee have reached tentative agreements that will speed handling of President Eisenhower's $3,930,000,000 foreign aid proposal.

The outlook still is for cuts, especially military and contingency funds, but one well-placed source said he expects them to aggregate less than 400 million dollars.

★ ★ ★

Some members of the Appropriations Committee, however, will press for bigger reductions when the actual fund legislation is presented. A separate bill is required to provide the money.

Consideration of the bill to authorize the program has repeatedly been delayed — by a slow-starting session of Congress, unexpectedly long hearings and inability of the committee to resolve disputes.

★ ★ ★

Chairman Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa) said the committeee expected to finish its work on the measure by the middle of next week.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee still is holding hearings on the Senate version of the same bill.

House Democrats were reported to have worked out preliminary understandings on two disputes—arms aid for Latin America and economic aid for Israel.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) and others have advocated cutting off military aid to countries in this hemisphere whose governments, they said, were likely to use arms for purposes other than hemisphere defense.

However, it was reported likely that the committee will cut the military aid without specifying in the bill that any particular country be taken off the list of recipients.

★ ★ ★

Similarly, the committee was reported working on language for the report to recommend that some economic grants to Israel be continued.

FBI Will End Probe of Negro's Lynching

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The FBI will end its investigation of the lynching of a Mississippi Negro at Poplarville and will turn the case over to the state, it was reported Thursday.

In a dispatch from Poplarville, Miss., the Commercial Appeal quoted unnamed sources as saying FBI agents failed to turn up any proof that Mack Charles Parker was taken across a state line while alive.

This ruled out the possibility of federal prosecution on a charge of kidnaping, the dispatch said.

Parker was awaiting trial on a charge of raping a pregnant white women. Hooded men dragged him from an unguarded jail in Poplarville April 26. His body was found a week later in the Pearl River.

The newspaper said the 40 FBI agents working on the case had turned up considerable evidence, and possibly some signed statements to identify some of the men who snatched Parker.

Space Clock to Test Einstein's Theory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atomic space clocks may be used to check on Einstein's theory of relativity.

In brief, the theory of the late physicist Albert Einstein holds that time moves more slowly in space because of a gravity factor — primarily the earth's gravity force.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said today it is investigating three types of atomic space clocks for possible use in satellite tests of the Einstein theory.

★ ★ ★

The tests would be made by taking simultaneous ground and space readings from extremely precise clocks.

The agency announced the award of a $50,000 contract to Massachusetts Institute of Technology for development of an atomic clock using cesium vapors.

★ ★ ★

A somewhat similar contract for $270,000 was awarded earlier to the Bureau of Standards for studies of the molecular action of rubidium vapor in an atomic timing device.

NASA also is known to be negotiating with Hughes Aircraft Co., Culver City, Calif., for development of an ammonia-type atomic clock.

Butler Has Voted GOP

NEW YORK (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler says he occasionally has voted Republican. At a news conference, he said he voted for a GOP candidate "when in good conscience I could not vote for a Democrat." But, he added, he has never voted for a Republican above the state level, and has not voted for any Republican since becoming Democratic national chairman.

Woman Knifed to Death in Car

Screams Alert Others in Detroit, but Try to Save Life Fails

DETROIT (AP) — A 24-year-old woman who was stabbed to death on a midtown street last night was identified today as Mrs. Patricia Cioffri a record company clerk.

She had collapsed screaming on a lawn in the Woodward-Clairmount area and died despite emergency surgery at Receiving Hospital. She had been stabbed deeply in the chest.

The woman, wearing slacks and a sweatshirt, carried no identification. Her name was learned after two friends learned of the victim's description and identified the body.

Mrs. Cioffri worked at the Warner Bros. Record and Sales Co. (2310 Cass) and formerly was employed as a secretary at radio station WJBK.

Detectives had few clues to the slaying.

A trail of blood led from a curb in the Second boulevard and Taylor district. Police said the woman either was stabbed and thrown from a car or stabbed as she left the car.

★ ★ ★

Residents attracted by her screams said they saw a man skulking between trees and later a car drive away with its headlights out.

Red Glad to Hear of Russian Studies

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko learned at an American dinner party that the sons of a couple of his hosts are learning Russian.

★ ★ ★

Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy told Gromyko that his son, Malcolm McElroy, is studying Russian. Livingston T. Merchant, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, said his son, Livingston T. Jr., also has taken up that language.

★ ★ ★

City Hospital to Get Intensive Care Unit

An intensive care unit will be incorporated in the remodeled east wing of Pontiac General Hospital.

New to the hospital's expansion plan, the unit is designed to provide minute - by - minute nursing care around the clock, said Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator.

Critical patients in the intensive care unit will have all the advantages of special nurses at far less extra cost, said Euler, describing the plan last night to the Board of Trustees.

Patients would be charged extra to offset the added expense to the hospital fully staffing the intensive care unit with nurses at all times, Euler said.

★ ★ ★

But it is expected the cost would be far below the average $54 a day it now costs patients to hire special nursing care, said Dr. C. G. Burke, chief of staff.

"Many hospitals are now developing intensive care facilities because special nurses have become so costly and hard to obtain," Euler said.

Euler said that present plans call for a 12-bed unit located in the old, fifth floor surgical wing of the east wing.

In the first two months since the remodeling program has been under way again, the hospital has spent $72,129 to replace worn out utilities, said Euler, including $38,743 for plumbing and heating; $7,456 for electrical installations; and $21,846 for general contracting.

★ ★ ★

Euler expected local contractors would have two second floor nurseries completed by the end of June and third and fourth floor patient areas finished by September.

He reported that the demand for hospital beds has reached a new high, with average occupancy this month at 96.8 per cent, or 7 per cent above the budget estimate.

Hire 15 Teachers in Waterford

School Board Acts to Staff New Classrooms Slated for Next Term

In other business, the board approved hiring 22 election workers for the annual school election June 8. Today is the deadline for registration.

Recommendations submitted by superintendent William Shunck for reinvestment of $1,134,000 in United States Treasury bills were approved by the Board.

The Board also approved sale of 2½ million in school bonds, which is half of the $5 million bond issue approved by school district voters at a special election in March.

★ ★ ★

Shunck said only half the funds are needed now to get the gigantic school building program under way.

★ ★ ★

In other action, the Board OK'd recommendations of the Personel Committee that the senior high school wrestling coach be paid $250 in connection with his work with the wrestling team for the school year of 1958-59.

The Board also approved a change in job classification and basic salary rate for bus maintenance man to bus maintenance supervisor with an increase in salary from $367.32 to $415 per month.

★ ★ ★

The summer school program and school calendar year for 1959-60 were approved by Board members.

Michigan Starts Tourist Push in Midwest Area

LANSING (AP) — "Cool off your cares in Michigan."

"Michigan brings out the beachcomber in you."

"Let yourself go in Michigan."

These are some of the themes of newspaper, radio and magazine advertising the Michigan Tourist Council hopes will bring more tourist dollars tc the state this year.

The council announced it is spending $64,665 on magazine advertising, $18,718 on newspaper advertising and $12,338 on radio plugs during the spring-summer season.

Newspaper advertising within the state, mostly in southerr Michigan, will be spread among 22 dailies and 175 weeklies and will amount to about $5,000.

★ ★ ★

Detroit radio stations will be the only ones sharing in the radio advertising budget.

The advertising is concentrated in the Midwest market area.

made to the severest Scandinavian standards:

Perception by Lane

You'll know when you see it that this is authentic design. Every beautiful line is pure. Not an unnecessary frill in the group. And every detail is honest. Like the rich panels of woven wood that are really woven . . . not just a woven effect. And that's not all!

Come see the fine craftsmanship . . . exquisite matching, sculpturing they'd envy in Stockholm. See how Lane's gone back to the Vikings, borrowed their tough construction . . . yet given Perception a light and airy look: there's not a hard line anywhere!

Expensive? Perception looks it and should be. But it isn't! Come see for yourself. Take your pick of two fine woods: burnished walnut or beeswax oak. Take one piece or all. Either way, you'll love the wonderful things that start happening to your home.

Occasionally, It's Worth the Price on Spanking

Disc Data and Chatter

Music in the Round

by Dick Saunders

FIVE ACES: First this week in area sales is "Dream Lover" (Bobby Darin), way out in front of the flock. Record buyers show indecision from here on down.

"Kansas City" (Wilbert Harrison) bumps into second place but is giving away a lot of ground to "The Battle of New Orleans" (Johnny Horton). The latter record, besides providing a few laughs, proves that it doesn't matter whether you sing or shoot guns when you get to the recording studio, since most of today's teenagers don't know the difference between singing and shooting anyway. All's fair in music and war.

★ ★ ★

In fourth place is "Happy Organ" (Dave Cortez) who is still selling enough to remain near the top. Fifth place goes to "Tallahassee Lassie" (Freddie Cannon).

★ ★ ★

LAST CHORUS: If you are a devoted jazz fan, it's likely that sometime in the past seven days you performed the familiar ritual I did last Friday.

You made a sort of pilgrimage that has become all too frequent this year, walking to the record shelf, pulling out a stack of old 78s and LP albums, in this case with the name Sidney Bechet on them.

Then you shut the door, closing yourself off from the rest of the mixed up world of music and people. You sat there, maybe on a soft couch, or a stool, or sack out on the bed and stare at the ceiling, or like me, you just sit on the floor propped against one wall as the records fall from spindle to turntable.

Nothing much matters. You hear things you haven't played for years. Maybe your memory goes back to a hot humid August evening in New York, or Chicago, or New Orleans when you saw a good looking, grey haired Negro playing a straight silver saxophone with grace and beauty.

The phone rings. You don't answer. You try to think of the first time you ever heard Sid. It isn't a happy moment. You feel that dull emptiness inside because you've just run across an article in the paper telling you that Sidney Bechet is dead.

The jazz world stops to realize its loss. To moderns it is the greatest loss among reed men since Charlie Parker died in March, 1955. To the traditional gang, it is the greatest loss since Jimmy Noone died in April, 1944. Ironically, now May is added to the list of fateful months.

Hail and farewell to the greatest soprano sax man of them all.

ACTORS PICNIC

The PCH Playcrafters and their advisor, Garth Errington, picnicked at Cass Dodge Park yesterday. New officers of Playcrafters elected recently are Marilyn Vernon, president; Marilyn Tomkins, vice president; Vicki Annas, secretary, and Jim Baker, treasurer.

The Selective Girls Glee Club is having its annual picnic Wednesday afternoon at the home of their director, Doreen Voltmann. The planning committee for the picnic consists of Sharon Young, Eddie Skelley, Marlene Beale, Karen Tanner, Dianne Bartenbaker, Marilyn Bell and Betty Boone.

The votes cast this week for new Linnean Society officers resulted in the selection of Barbara Shadley, president; David Todd, vice president; Peggy Warren, secretary; Jim Colando, treasurer; Janet Livingstone, historian; and Barbara Griffin, reporter. This is a biology club.

Applications for next year's laboratory assistants are new being accepted by Wesley Maas, Linnean Society advisor. Plans are being made for a club field trip and picnic after school ends.

A banquet honoring the debate and spring speech teams was held this week at Highland Manor. Principal Francis Staley presided and Stan Walker was master of ceremonies.

Admits Killing Cab Driver, Son

Teenager Slays Two in Taxi After Man's Remark Irks Him

TAHLEQUAH, Okla. (AP) — A crewcut teenager confessed Thursday night he shot to death a taxi driver and his son because the older man "made some smart remarks about smart little —— that don't know where they're going."

The confession was signed by Fred D. Tuggle, 19, of nearby Sallisaw, in northeastern Oklahoma.

Tuggle said he fired three shots Sunday night at cab driver Cecil Truitt, 52. He couldn't recall how many times he shot at Truitt's son Charley, 22.

Tuggle was arrested Thursday at the home of his grandmother in Sallisaw.

In his statement, Tuggle said he caught Truitt's cab and headed toward Stilwell, Okla. He said he made inquiries about the address of a woman.

Then, he continued in the statement, "the old man in the cab made some smart remark about smart little —— that don't know where they're going.

"I was riding in the back seat of the car and I had a gun. I asked him what he meant. He turned and said people should know where they are going when they start some place.

★ ★ ★

"He said something about a mixed up world, stopped the cab and turned around . . . and I shot him."

Tuggle said he then shot young Truitt and dumped the cab driver's body. Tuggle's confession stated he then drove off in the cab with young Truitt's body, but soon decided to abandon it.

Officers said Tuggle was being held in the county jail here pending formal charges today.

Film Selected Product of Year From Michigan

★ ★ ★

The film was picked for this honor in connection with the annual Michigan Week celebration in May.

"We decided that no product could typify the great diversity of Michigan products and their importance in their respective fields better than this motion picture," said Dan Gerber, chairman of a blue-ribbon panel of judges. Gerber is president of the Gerber Baby Food Co. of Fremont.

The best-selling novel was written by Michigan Supreme Court Justice John Voelker and the movie is being produced by Otto Preminger. It stars James Stewart, Duke Ellington, Eve Arden, Lee Remick and Kathy Grant, Bing Crosby's wife.

This marks the first time a "Product-of-the-Year" Award has been made. The committee was named to pick a product for the honor as part of the "Products of Michigan" theme of this year's week-long Michigan Week celebration.

Bob Considine Says:

Sept. 8, 1956—Just One Day in Life of Dulles

NEW YORK—This was one day in the life of John Foster Dulles as secretary of state. The day was Saturday, Sept. 8, 1956. Nasser had nationalized the Suez Canal Company. The British and French were about to pounce on Egypt.

The cables from the U. S. embassies in London, Paris and Cairo were depressing. He read them at 7:30 that morning as he mechanically ate the breakfast that was placed before him.

He had anticipated the pessimism, and before retiring the night before had mapped out a plan by which he hoped to achieve a neat compromise: The United States would try to get Anthony Eden off his untenable spot but at the same time not permit Nasser to gain 100 per cent of his objective.

Eden's "out" would be the notice by the United States that Britain could expect no help from us in this crisis; that U. S. ships under no circumstances would shoot their way through the canal. He knew Eden had to face parliament the following Wednesday.

He must warn Eden that it was our position that any shooting war would make a hero of Nasser, and, as he told us a few days later, "the flames would break out all through the Middle East, offering an unprecedented opportunity for the Soviet Union to move in and make mischief."

PRESSURE ON NASSER

He had pressure notes intended for Nasser, too, including the threat of clamp-downs on Egypt's cotton sales in this country. Dulles finished his breakfast and went into his study to talk with Emmett Hughes, the President's speech writer, on the wording of the notes to Eden and Nasser. The words had to be "firm but not patronizing."

★ ★ ★

The messages were sent, and Dulles turned to other pressing work, including completion of a speech he was to make on the centenary of the man who had taught him at Princeton and assigned him to the Versailles Treaty talks—Woodrow Wilson.

Sen. Knowland came for lunch, was briefed by Dulles, and told the secretary, "Perhaps we were oversold on the U. N. setup, but our people now firmly believe that its sole purpose is to stop war. They believe more than that. They believe you will have to go in there and stop Great Britain and France."

While the men talked, President Eisenhower called Dulles on his private phone. He wanted to see him at 6:30. "Avoid the White House correspondents, if you can," the President asked.

Dulles worked through the afternoon while storm clouds gathered over Suez. At 6:15 he entered the mansion entrance of the White House unnoticed and was taken up the elevator to the President's study.

CONFERS WITH IKE

The President and he sat down and began rewriting Hughes' notes. Eisenhower's private secretary, Ann Whitman, was called at home and asked to come back to work, to retype the corrected documents.

At 8 o'clock, Mrs. Eisenhower peeked in and suggested dinner. Eisenhower asked Dulles to have a drink. He took a rye on the rocks. The work was done. Dulles went home to dine with Mrs. Dulles.

He had barely finished eating when Sir Roger Makins, the British ambassador, arrived. Dulles handed him the note to Eden and suggested to Makins that Britain "calm down."

Sir Roger read the statement, asked pertinent questions, whose answers he needed in his own dispatch to Eden. Dulles outlined the policy we'd express in subsequent notes to Eden, knowing that Sir Roger would dutifully report these matters to his chief.

At 11:30 p.m., Dulles showed Sir Roger to his car. "The important thing," he said to his British friend, "is to stop any suggestion of a war which can only embroil great racial and religious masses."

Sir Roger went his way. Day would just be beginning at 10 Downing street. There was much for him to transmit; much that would affect his country and his prime minister. But there was no way he could foretell the enormous effects Sir Anthony's subsequent actions would have on the prime minister politically.

Dulles yawned and climbed the stairs to the second floor of his home. Mrs. Dulles was still awake, and reading.

As he wearily undressed he said to her, "The work we did today will be decisive on whether Great Britain and France go to war. I don't know what the answer will be. But what we did had to be done, and we were the only ones who would do it."

He yawned, prepared for bed, punched a pillow under his head and returned to the British mystery novel he was reading. It was "Death to Slow Music," by Beverly Nichols.

Saul Pett, Writing for Hal Boyle:

Things I'd Like to Have the Nerve to Say:

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP)—Some day I'd like to have the courage to:

Tell a plumber, or a painter or a carpenter: "If you're not here in an hour, I'll get someone else."

Under-tip a lousy waiter and tell him why.

Tell the boss, "If you'll see my secretary, I'm sure she can arrange an appointment for you."

★ ★ ★

Tell a cab driver, "When I want any of your philosophy, I'll ask for it."

Ask my wife, "What happens to all our money?"

Walk up to the big loud mouth at the bar and belt him with no prior introduction.

Electrify my fence against my neighbor's predatory children.

Tell the old lady who always manages to stand near me when I get a seat on a crowded bus: "Madam, the doctors give me three days. How many have you got?"

Stand on my head in a modern art gallery and shout: "It does, too, look better this way."

Ask the doctor: "Be frank, Doc. Haven't you paid for your college education and equipment 100 times over?"

Ask President Eisenhower: "Are you sure you counted all your strokes, including those two in the rough?"

Say to Tallulah Bankhead at a cocktail party: "Tallulah? Tallulah who?"

Say to a real estate agent: "Yes, but how much will it cost to repair all that picturesque charm?"

Tell the Internal Revenue Service: "I'm tired of this partnership. Why don't you buy me out?"

Strip the gears of the elevator operator, who, at 5 p.m., sings out, "Half a day today?"

Investigate personally the thing called "brand x" and see if it's as bad as all those TV announcers claim.

Ask Gen. Douglas MacArthur, "Did you remember to send a birthday card to Harry Truman?"

Rush up to Elizabeth Taylor at a crowded airport, kiss her fondly and then back off, saying, "Sorry, I thought you were my mother-in-law."

STACK THAT HIGH — Former President Harry S. Truman describes the large stack of mail his wife has received from well wishers across the nation since she entered a hospital for removal of a tumor. Mrs. Truman is recuperating from the operation, and the tumor was found to be benign. AP Wirephoto

Don't Make Fun of the Sardine

Many Industrial Uses Added to Health Value of Maine Fish

WASHINGTON—The Maine sardine has come into its own. The fish is a healthful food and industry uses it to produce many things from artificial pearls to flour.

★ ★ ★

The Maine sardine actually is a three- to five-inch Atlantic herring, the National Geographic Society says.

"Sardine" is a name applied to several species of small fish that have soft bones, a rich flavor and can be preserved in oil.

The fisheries were cheered recently when Harvard University scientists reported that fatty acids in canned sardines apparently decrease the amount of cholesterol in the blood, considered a factor in heart failure.

Meanwhile, scientists at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology have determined that the sardine is a biologically complete protein food, with all the essential amino acids.

Industrially, sardines are prized for their scales. A coating washed from the silvery scales, called pearl essence, turns glass beads into artificial gems.

To untrained eyes, a $10 "sardine" necklace rivals the luxurious luster of a $10,000 choker that came from oysters.

Iridescent fingernail polish is now made from guanine, a waste product found in the sardine's air bladder. Sardines are also used to make protein flour, cat food and rust inhibitors.

The Atlantic herring (clupea harengus) is strictly a sea fish. Unlike the shad, alewife, and some other members of the herring family, it does not enter fresh water.

Find Clock Losing Second a Century

★ ★ ★

Scientists in the Radio Standards Division report they detected a difference of three ten-billionths of a second between two atomic clocks separated by half a continent.

Section chief A. H. Morgan said had the error remained undetected, the clocks would have registered a time difference of three seconds at the end of 300 years.

At any rate, the trouble is all cleared up now—scientists found a bad tube in the clock located at radio station WWV at Beltsville, Md. The other clock is at the Boulder labs.

Representatives in Dark

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—When the lights went out during debate in the Florida House of Representatives, Rep. Cliff Herrell asked for and received the floor. "This isn't the first time the House has been in the dark this session," Herrell said.

No Hope for Man Swept Into Rapids

MOAB, Utah (AP) — Officials virtually abandoned hope today for Frank A. Rich, 65, who was last seen clinging to an overturned boat in the Colorado River.

Rich, of Lakewood Village, Calif., and three members of his family were aboard a 15-foot cabin cruiser which capsized Sunday in Cataract Canyon.

Boat crews completed a foot-by-foot search of the river banks Thursday without finding Rich.

The sheriff's office sent a two-man crew to take a final look upstream from the canyon. If they don't find anything, officers will give up the search.

Campaign Cost Puzzles Dems

2 Seeking Nomination for Governor Spend $2 Million in Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky Democrats are winding up a primary campaign for governor so unprecedentedly expensive that some of them are bewildered.

The puzzling question: Why is an estimated two million dollars being spent in the contest of two men for the gubernatorial nomination?

The generally accepted theory is that Kentucky, a small state of three million citizens, may be a preliminary skirmishing area in the battle for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

The principal contestants in Tuesday's primary are Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield and Bert T. Combs, a former judge of the Court of Appeals, Kentucky's highest court.

Waterfield charges that Texas oil money is being poured unendingly into the campaign till of Combs.

Combs, in turn, says collections of 2 per cent of state employes' salaries go into the Waterfield campaign.

At any rate, fabulous spending is reflected everywhere in advertising, free fish fries for thousands.

Reaction: Awed Silence

Astronauts Tour Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —"Their reaction was silence — they watched in awe."

These were the first impressions of six of the seven Mercury astronauts Thursday when they were given their first look at the jumping-off spot for the first manned flight into space.

The future spacemen made a driving tour of the Cape, but planned to follow this up today with a detailed visit to each of the launching pads for the giant U.S. ballistic missiles. The astronauts will wind up their brief trip Saturday.

No interviews were allowed, but the astronauts' escort officer, Lt. Col. John Powers, gave newsmen some of the highlights of their first reactions to the Cape.

Sometime in 1961 one of the seven will be fired into space aboard an Atlas intercontinental range ballistic missile.

★ ★ ★

"We'll see that one again," one of the group commented as their bus passed a huge tower housing the mighty Atlas.

Schirra missed the trip because he was in the process of moving his family into a new home, but he was expected to see the Cape at a later date.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture estimates the cash farm value of Michigan crops during 1958 was $750 million.

Reach 'Agreement' in Steel Negotiations

NEW YORK (AP)—A little joke by the two top negotiators came on the eve of today's continued contract talks seeking to prevent a strike by 500,000 workers in the basic steel industry.

The fun came from R. Conrad Cooper, head bargainer for the industry and executive vice president of the U.S. Steel Corp., and David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers.

After Thursday's closed negotiations, they issued a "joint statement" to newsmen saying they had reached "agreement."

They quickly added that the agreement was on "congratulations and good luck" to H. C. Lumb, general counsel of the Republic Steel Corp., on his elevation to a vice presidency.

He is one of the industry negotiators working with Cooper as four-man teams for the industry and union seek agreement on a new contract to replace the three-year pact expiring June 30.

The union is seeking a cut in the 40 hour work week and substantial wage increases which have not been specified publicly. Basic wage is now $3.03 an hour.

Crime Delegates Seized by Agents

27 Indicted in Parley of Underworld Bigwigs; 6 Still at Large

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal agents have seized 21 delegates to the 1957 Apalachin, N.Y., underworld convention after one of the biggest federal crackdowns on a national syndicate which allegedly controls organized crime. They are searching for six more of the delegates.

Shortly after sunrise Thursday, agents began a coast-to-coast roundup in the wake of an indictment charging the 27 with conspiracy to obstruct justice. Those seized were being held in bonds as high as $100,000 for appearance later in federal court.

If convicted each defendant faces up to five years in prison.

Thirty-six other men surprised at the upstate conclave were named in the indictment as conconspirators but not defendants.

The Apalachin meeting Nov. 14, 1957, at the estate of Joseph Barbara Sr., was broken up by New York state police. The latter could find no charges for holding the 63 delegates, who contended they merely "dropped in" on the ailing Barbara. Various grand juries and state agencies have tried to crack the riddle of Apalachin without success.

★ ★ ★

Nine of the delegates have gone to jail rather than talk about the meeting. Seven still are in prison for defying court orders to testify, 11 have been convicted of contempt, and a number have gone into hiding.

Among the defendants still missing were Joseph Ida, Highland Park, N.J.; James V. La Duca, Lewiston, N.Y.; Antonio Magadino, Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Salvatore Falcone, Utica, N.Y.; and John T. Scalish, Cleveland, Ohio.

While the roundup was going on, the hilltop mansion and 53-acre estate of Barbara was sold for $130,000. Russell Terry of Endicott, N.Y., a real estate dealer, said he and Larue Quick of Endwell, N.Y., a builder, will reopen the place to sightseers at a fee to be determined.

Reveal Census Cost

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau expects to spend 118 million dollars on the national enumeration next year, or about 27 million more than the 1950 census cost—there are probably 180 million to be counted instead of the 150,697,361 in 1950.

3 Find Detroit Has No Job for Them After Trek

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—Antonio Aburaad and his brother Eduardo followed a dream—7,000 miles in an ancient touring car.

Antonio, 26, and Eduardo, 31, had heard there were jobs open here for master mechanics. They sold their store in Cartagena, Colombia, and set out in a 1928 Model A Ford with a friend, Rodolfo Martelo, 27.

★ ★ ★

It took them about 11 weeks to make the trip.

When they arrived, nobody seemed to know about the master mechanics' jobs.

★ ★ ★

All but broke, the three found their way to Salvation Army headquarters, where they were fed and given a place to sleep. Salvation Army officials promised to find them help for their return

Pastor Opposes Liquor License Bill at Lansing

LANSING (UPI) — Efforts to get a liquor license for a private "penthouse" club across from the state capitol ran into further trouble today.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Charles D. Blondy (D-Detroit), who claimed a bill to authorize the license was a "special privilege bill for millionaires," passed around copies of a letter which he said was sent to Sen. Paul Younger (R-Lansing) from the Rev. John W. Claxton, of the Plymouth Congregational Church. The letter objected to the bill.

The church is 482 feet from the 10-story building being constructed by the Michigan National Bank. The club would be on the top floor of the new building.

State law forbids liquor licenses on premises within 500 feet of a church.

$6 Million in Federal Aid to Help Clear Skid Row

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit's skid row will be cleared with the help of more than six million dollars in federal funds.

The Urban Renewal Administration awarded $6,263,000 to the city yesterday as its share of a nine million dollar slum clearing program.

Michigan is the nation's No. 1 producer of gladioli for bulbs. As many as 120 million bulbs are produced annually.

Crash Pilot Pays Bill for Burned Children

DETROIT (UPI) — The pilot of a jet plane which crashed injuring two children has borrowed money to pay their hospital bills.

Moutier said the children, who were burned by flaming gasoline, required special nurses. Their hospital bill for the first week was $700.

Moutier said he borrowed $1,000 to pay for the medical expenses because red tape made it impossible to get immediate government aid for the children.

Sees No Case Against Bufalino

Prosecutor Says Probe Evidence Not Enough for Criminal Indictment

DETROIT (AP)—Prosecutor Samuel Olsen says an examination of Senate Rackets Committee testimony has failed to produce any evidence warranting criminal charges against Detroit Teamsters officials.

The committee had recommended action against William E. Bufalino, president of Teamsters Juke Box Local 985, and others. Bufalino's local wes described by the committee as "a leech preying upon the working men and women."

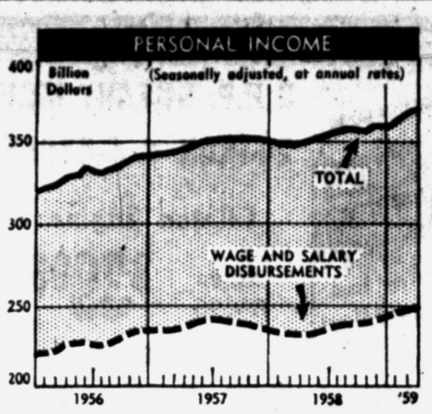
Olsen said yesterday he examioned three volumes of committee transcript. He commented:

"The testimony does not disclose any competent evidence on which to base a criminal indictment. It must be kept in mind that in this type proceedings the record will necessarily contain much hearsay and other incompetent evidence which would not be admissible in a criminal case."

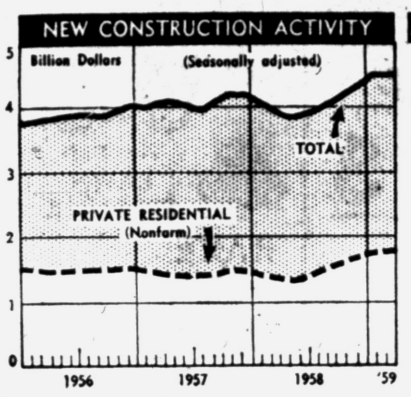
Olsen said the testimony might reflect "certain conduct that may be considered morally and ethically wrong" and that the transcript was being turned over to the Detroit Police Department for investigation.

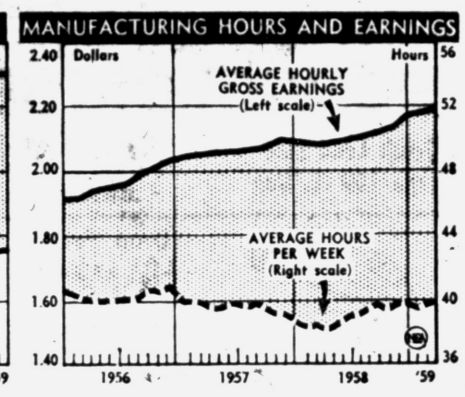
A Fine Fine This Is

DALLAS (AP)—Everett Norton plans to appeal a $5 fine for illegal parking on his own parking lot. Police said Norton's car extended into a public walkway. Norton said the walkway actually is on his property.



HOW'S BUSINESS — Despite recessional lag in the first part of 1958, income, sales, construction and manufacturing in the United States are continuing their elimb to dizzy heights. Newscharts give the picture in these categories from 1956 on. The national income rose to a record annual rate of 373½ billion dollars in the last quarter of '58. Corporation profits during the same period advanced to seasonally adjusted rate of over 45 billion. Data from Department of Commerce.





Couldn't Resist Antiques

Doctor Becomes Burglar

WAUPACA, Wis. (AP) — A small-town physician has been placed on probation to satisfy a burglary charge stemming from a compulsive yearning for antiques that led him to loot the homes of patients.

"I feel good about it," said Dr. Ralph Wiley, 42, after the penalty was imposed Thursday. A native of Amityville, N.Y., Dr. Wiley practices at Iola, a village of 867 persons in east-central Wisconsin.

As for reaction from his neighbors and patients, Wiley referred to an "understanding between us." He said his problem "was never mentiond" by th villagrs and said thre had been no decline in his practice since the charges were made public.

Wiley said he had noticed the antiques when calling on his patients and returned to pick them up when he knew no one was home, always making his stops in the daytime. He said he wanted to start a museum.

The probation was ordered by Circuit Judge Herbert J. Bunde, who said the physician must continue to receive psychiatric help and make restitution.

Forest Fires Decrease

LANSING (AP) — Forest fires burned over 2,423 acres of woods and grasslands in Michigan through mid-May, the State Conservation Department reported.

Helicopter Crash Injures Three GIs

DAHLONEGA, Ga. (UPI) —Five soldiers were injured last night in the crash of an Army H34 troop carrier helicopter carrying them on a night training problem.

★ ★ ★

All were reported in fair condition at Ft. McPherson Army Hospital at Atlanta. Eight others excaped injury.

Officials said the helicopter rose above treetop level over a landing field, 14 miles north of here, developed engine trouble, and plummeted back to earth.

The injured were sped to the Atlanta hospital by another helicopter.

They included three crewmen and two of the 10 passengers. The men, assigned to Ft. Benning, Ga., were taking a course in mountain combat.

A record 1,534,264 acres were reforested in the United States during 1958. Both private owners and government agencies cooperated in planting the new trees.

Castro Blasts Labor for Wage Demands

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro today denounced extremist labor agitation for wage raises and hinted that the Communists are behind it.

The revolutionary leader threatened to slap on price and wage controls if pay increases granted by his government result in rises, without government approval, in the cost of essential goods.

He suggested that some labor leaders were conspiring with businessmen to set off a wage-price spiral.

It was the first time Castro has suggested a link between Cuban Reds and acts he called counter-revolutionary. He made the statements during another in a series of marathon TV panel programs on which he is appearing.

★ ★ ★

Castro acknowledged that his criticism of labor probably would brand him a reactionary. But he said his government has "not sold itself to any imperialism."

Oil and gas leases on public lands of the United States bring an annual income of about $35 million to the federal government treasury.

Majorettes Won't Wear Uniforms Memorial Day

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Seventeen highstepping high school majorettes have put their feet down.

They're angry about marching in the city's Memorial Day parade because, of all things, their uniforms are too short.

They fit when new in 1951. But frequent cleaning has made them briefer. And the colors have faded.

"We're not going to wear our uniforms in the parade," one of the majorettes told the athletic director, Joseph Liddy.

"I mean we will have our street clothes on," she quickly added. Liddy advised them to take up the matter with the Board of Education.

Reward Offered in Milk War

Food Dealer Group Will Pay $100 for Capture of Window Smashers

A $100 reward for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who smashed windows in four Pontiac and Waterford Township stores yesterday was offered today by the Michigan Food Dealers Assn. with offices in Lansing.

★ ★ ★

Four independent grocery stores bearing signs advertising milk for 34 to 37 cents a half-gallon, had full quart bottles of milk thrown through their display windows early yesterday, causing some $1,000 damage.

The store owners blamed the attacks on independent milk dealers.

Targets were Gilmer's Market, 326 S. East Blvd.; Frank's Market, 2710 Elizabeth Lake Rd.; DeMino's Food Store, 2970 Pontiac Lake Rd.; and E & D Market, 3468 Pontiac Lake Rd.

W. K. Keasey, secretary - treasurer of the Michigan Food Dealers Assn., who announced the reward offer, said "It is our contention that this is a definite move to intimidate the independent grocery retailer from getting his share against the chain - store competitor."

Waterford Township Police Chief Millard Pender said he has had no calls from grocery store owners complaining of threats from independent milkmen.

Oath Giver Well Known to New District Judge

DENVER (AP) — The ritual followed a usual pattern for Don D. Bowman when he was sworn in as a district court judge. The oath was given by District Judge Robert W. Steele.

It was the same Judge Steele who gave Bowman the oath of office in 1927 as a juvenile court probation officer, in 1931 as a district court clerk and in 1933 as a deputy district attorney.

Production of electrical energy more than doubled in Michigan between 1947 and 1957, increasing from 11,801 million kilowatt hours to 24,830 million hours.

Waterford Awards School Contracts

The wheels were put in motion last night for the beginning of Waterford Township's $5,000,000 school building program by the Board of Education. Voters approved a bond issue to pay for the project in a special election in March.

After a series of interviews and inspections by nine architectural firms, the board awarded the George D. Mason Co. of Detroit the contracts for a second senior high school and construction of five additional classrooms for the Schoolcraft Elementary School.

Because of the low construction costs and quality of workmanship, the Mason firm has been awarded most of the recent Waterford Township school building contracts, according to school officials.

Architectural contracts for two awarded to Smith & Smith of Royal Oak. Five new elementary schools have been scheduled in the overall building program.

HIGH SCHOOL SITE

The new high school will be located on a 50-acre site at the end of Bender street off Hatchery road between Airport and Crescent Lake roads.

The school is expected to be ready for operation by September 1961, and will cost approximately $2,500,000 for the building and equiment, according to Supt. Wilequipment, according to Supt. Wil-

The five-classroom addition for Schoolcraft School will be constructed at the northwest side of the present building at an estimated cost of $125,000 for the structure and equipment.

The building committee has been authorized to complete pending transactions on several new sites for schools scheduled in the building program.

Two lowbid contracts were awarded for equipment for a yet unnamed elementary school slated for near future construction on the Dill property on Walton boulevard.

Contracts for student tables and 240 chairs were awarded to the McFadden Corp. for $4,236. The same company received a contract for 320 lift - lid desks and 338 matching chairs for $5,750. Nine bids were submitted for the equipment.

Pontiac General Research Wins High Contest Award

For the second straight year, medical research at Pontiac General Hospital has won a high place in competition sponsored by the American College of Surgeons Michigan committee on trauma.

Research conducted here by Dr. George Berberian, a resident in surgery, won second place yesterday in the annual Dr. Frederick A. Coller Symposium on Trauma and Nutrition, which the committee sponsored in Ann Arbor.

With 16 scientific papers entered in the competition by residents of various hospitals throughout the state, Pontiac General missed winning first place by only one point in the final judging.

Dr. Berberian's study was entitled "The Evaluation of Therapy in Experimental Fat Embolism."

It dealt with new methods to clear blood vessels of clogging fatty particles, which often fatally block circulation of blood as a result of severe injuries, such as are suffered in auto accidents.

Last year, research on treatment of frost bite conducted by another Pontiac General surgical resident, Dr. David C. Packard, won first place in the competition, bringing the coveted Coller Award to the hospital.

Dr. Packard's research was conducted under the sponsorship of Dr. Abbott, also.

The annual symposium, organized eight years ago by Dr. Coller, former professor of surgery at University Hospital, is unique in that hospital resident staff doctors present papers under the direction and supervision of a hospital staff doctor who is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

2-Day Scout-O-Rama to Open

"Be Prepared." True to their motto, Cubs and Explorer and Boy Scouts of the Ottawa District are all set to present their annual Scout-O-Rama to the public starting tomorrow.

Complete with 300 tents and a wide variety of exhibits showing scouting crafts and skills, the outdoor event is being staged Saturday and Sunday on the grounds of the John Ivory Estate in White Lake Township.

Seveal thousand persons are expected to visit the show at the 165-acre estate located at 9990 Cooley Lake road. The gates will be open from 10 a.m. until 9:30 p.m the first day and from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Sunday.

About 20 Scouts of White Lake VFW Troop 42 will live in wigwams, eat and dress Indian style, and use horses and canoes as part of the event.

A 10-act, all-Scout talent show will get under way at 8 p.m. Saturday and again at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in the vast, outdoor arena. It will be followed by the Ivory Horsemen and the Oakland County Sheriff's Mounted Posse in a special, hour-long show.

Horse, carts and a fire truck will be available for conveying visitors around the estate. Tickets will be provided at the entrance and ample parking space is assured.

Area Youth Committee to Ready Behavior Code

ROCHESTER — At its regular meeting last night the newly formed Rochester Area Youth Guidance Committee set in operation its Youth Code Committee whose job it will be to draft a set of rules governing proper behavior for teenagers living in the Rochester Community School District.

Emphasing that the code will be offered as a guide, not law, the committee will draw up rules in five areas. They are parties, use of the family car, appropriate dress, party crashing and smoking and drinking.

Serving on the Youth Code committee are 14 students including a boy and girl from each grade from seven through 12 in the Rochester Community School System. The group has four adult advisors.

Junior high members are Lilly Ruth Griffin, Marty Beaupre, Dick Robbins, Tom Mitzelfeld, Paige Sargeant, Michael Axford and Yvonne Wall.

The first job of the committee will be to prepare a questionnaire which will be based on other questionnaires and youth codes now in effect in nearby communities.

This work will be done during the summer, so that by next fall it will be ready for distribution. The results will form the basis for the code.

The purpose of the code will not be a strictly punitive or disciplinary measure, but rather as a common goal for parents and teenagers to use in fostering a closer family relationship, the advisors said.

The code is expected to provide a common ground for behavior and "good, clean living," by offering sound principles upon which both parents and students may operate.

In addition to the Youth Code, a plan was adopted locally to set up a youth employment bureau for teenagers.

700 Scouts Sign for Area Camp

Summer Program for Boys at Agawam Will Include Crafts, Archery

State Police Probing School Bomb Scare

Troopers from the Center Line State Police Post are investigating yesterday's bomb scare at Avondale High School.

No clues to the identity of the anonymous caller who telephoned the school at 10 a.m. yesterday have been turned up yet, according to Trooper Gerald Milne.

The voice "sounded like that of a student," said the switchboard operator who received the call.

Within two minutes after the call came in, the school was emptied of 600 students and teachers, said Assistant Superintendent of Schools Arnold Ojala.

"They were sent home for the rest of the day and will probably have to make up the lost time," he said.

But Grain Mountain Threatens to Grow

Congress Sifts Many Wheat Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators had a choice of at least four widely varying wheat programs today as they tried to choose a way to ease mounting grain surpluses.

It appeared likely that no matter what their decision, the present wheat program—which helped build up the huge grain stocks—must continue another year.

On June 1—just 10 days away—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson must announce a new national wheat program. Present law requires an allotment of at least 55 million acres and a support price of not less than 75 per cent of parity.

★ ★ ★

Parity is a price determined under farm law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

★ ★ ★

Both the Senate and House would have to agree on a new program before June 1 to make it effective for the coming year. The House, working on a different program, is not expected to act on it before that date.

STRICT CONTROLS

Wheat is grown under strict production controls, with each farmer allotted a specific number of acres for his crop. He is penalized if he grows more. But despite sharp acreage cutbacks, the amount of wheat grown has greatly exceeded that sold. The government holds more than a full year's supply obtained under price support loans.

★ ★ ★

How to cut production still further without hurting the farmers who grow the wheat has become a major problem.

Benson, who has had difficulty winning congressional approval of his farm plans, wants to lower wheat price supports over the next three years and gradually let farmers grow as much wheat as they want. His theory is that lower prices will cause many farmers to quit growing wheat.

He proposes to base price supports not on parity but on average market prices of the three preceding years. A bill to authorize his program was introduced Thursday by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill), the GOP floor leader, as a possible substitute.

Pending before the Senate is a stopgap wheat program for the next two years approved by its Agriculture Committee.

It would retain the 55-million-acre planting allotment, lower supports to 65 per cent of parity for those complying with individual farm allotments, and tighten penalties, for excess planting. Those who voluntarily reduce planting 20 per cent below their allotments would be offered price supports at 80 per cent of parity.

OTHER PLANS

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) acting for a group of Midwest wheat senators, offered a similar plan that would keep the minimum support rate at 75 per cent and offer 85 per cent of parity support for those cutting back 20 per cent of allotments.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan) urged a plan that would let farmers sell wheat at market levels, give them an incentive payment above this on their share of the domestic market, and let surpluses move into export at world price levels.

DRASTIC PROPOSAL

Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind) offered the most drastic proposal. He would cut off all farm price supports at the end of this year and then freeze the 9 or 10 billions worth of wheat and other commodities now in government hands because of past programs.

★ ★ ★

Capehart contends that the price support and planting controls have failed and it will cost taxpayers and farmers less to halt the whole thing now than continue it.

He said the huge surpluses could be disposed in an orderly way over the next several years.

Supervise Runway, Road Work

Soviet 'Technicians' Aiding Afghans

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — Soviet "technicians" in Afghanistan are supervising extension of aircraft runways to handle jet bombers and construction of paved roads suitable for heavy military traffic, diplomatic sources here state.

★ ★ ★

The airfields would reduce the bombing range to Tehran, capital of Iran, and Karachi, Pakistan's capital, it was pointed out.

Iran and Pakistan are members of the anti-Communist Middle Eastern Treaty Organization, or Baghdad Pact, with Turkey and Great Britain, Iraq withdrew earlier this year.

Last March, Premier Ali Mohammed Daud of Afghanistan denounced the United States' defense agreements with Turkey, Iran and Pakistan as aggravating international tension. Daud is on an official visit to Moscow now.

ALONG SOVIET BORDER

The diplomatic sources said the airfield expansion program was concentrated in Afghanistan's northern area, along the border with the Soviet Union. Jet-fighter runways are operational in that region.

However, the sources said a Soviet jet recently landed at Jalalabad, only 50 miles from the Pakistani frontier. The airstrip previously had been regarded as suitable only for small civilian planes.

Eyewitness sources also confirmed reports that the Soviets were training Afghan pilots in jet warfare at the Afghan air base of Mazartasharif.

Paved roads capable of carrying tank and other military-type traffic also were under construction in northern Afghanistan, according to the sources.

They said some of the roads were on approaches to Iran even though there was scant traffic between the two countries.

INCREASE ACTIVITIES

According to the sources, recent reports of Russian troops near Herat, which lies about 50 miles from the border with Iran, presumably were based on increased activities by Soviet technicians in that area. They said Afghan denials were correct technically.

However, these sources added: "A goodly share of the Russian technicians could take off their dungarees tomorrow and put on the uniform of Russian colonels."

Early Penicillin Treatment Would Cut Brain Damage

CHICAGO (UPI)—More than 80 per cent of persons whose brains are damaged by syphilis can return to work if they receive penicillin in the early stages of brain damage, a study revealed today.

★ ★ ★

Even the severely affected or institutionalized patient, the study showed, had one chance out of three for improvement and rehabilitation if given penicillin.

The study, conducted by 13 researchers, dealt with 1,086 patients suffering from brain damage (paresis) in eight major hospitals and covered more than five years.

Their report appeared in the current Archives of Neurology and Psychiatry, published by the American Medical Assn.

STANDARD USE

Penicillin, the report said, is the standard treatment for syphilis and, if given early, will prevent paresis altogether. None of the 1,086 patients in the study, however, received penicillin for early syphilis.

Paresis strikes most frequently during life's most productive years after an incubation period that usually ranges from 10 to 24 years, the report said. The symptoms range from tremors to serious psychosis.

Without treatment, the report said, the outlook for a person with paresis was "dire," with death occurring within five years after the onset of the disease.

But the death rate was cut immensely when penicillin was given in the early stages of paresis, the report said.

Only 9 per cent of patients were dead from neurosyphilis 10 years after treatment, the study showed. However, the report noted that the death rate for paretics was about four times higher than for persons of comparable age, sex and race because the paretics usually suffer from other conditions such as alcoholism or heart disease.

In most instances, the study showed, only one course of penicillin treatment was needed to favorably affect the course of paresis. Retreatment, the researchers found, appeared to exert little effect.

Why Dubbidobber It Looks Like One

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Aircraft worker Sarge Signer thinks every part in a plane should have a name. When he found a small bit of metal in North American Aviation's X15 rocket plane which didn't have one, it bothered him.

So Signer began calling it a dubbidobber. The name stuck, and now the part, an essential in the seat ejection system although it's only an inch long and costs only a dime, is known as a dubbidobber.

Another worker asked Signer how he happened to call the part a dubbidobber.

"I don't know," he said, "but it just looked like a dubbidobber."

Well Ahead at 91

BOURNEMOUTH, England (UPI)—Ted Palmer, who is 91, ran after and caught a picket, identified as Dugald MacAllister, aged 67. "I wasn't going to let that youngster get away," Palmer said indignantly in court.

More than seven million women in the United States are working mothers. These include almost 1.4 million who are widowed, divorced or separated from their husbands. Nearly 40 per cent of all working mothers living with their husbands have children of pre-school age.

AN INDUSTRIAL CENTER — Boasting three big General Motors Division plants, Pontiac is the industrial center of Oakland County, the state's third ranked county in manufacturing. Workers are shown here assembling a Catalina sport coupe at GM's Pontiac Division plant.

Pontiac Is Booming Along

Auto Hub Becoming College Town

(This is the 25th and last in a series of articles on Michigan's industrial and cultural achievements written by Michigan newsmen as an introduction to Michigan Week which began Sunday.)

By PETER LOCHBILER
Reporter, Pontiac Press

PONTIAC—This automotive center isn't shy about taking on aspects of a college town.

Traditionally associated with the manufacture of cars, trucks and buses, the Pontiac area has long been in agreement with what Michigan State University officials have enthusiastically decided:

North Oakland County — the center of a booming population of suburban dwellers — is an appropriate place for books and classrooms, too.

The decision is resulting in construction of Michigan State University-Oakland, a full-fledged four-year college that will open its doors for the first time this fall, 1½ miles east of Pontiac.

100,000 POTENTIAL

Sweeping a compass around the map, university officials discovered what local educators had already guessed at—that there will be estimated 100,000 potential college students living within a 15-mile radius of Pontiac by 1970.

So, depending on the availability of state construction funds, there's every likelihood the school's population may soar from an initial freshman class of 600 to 20,000 students in a decade or so, according to D. B. Varner, former MSU vice president and now MSUO chancellor.

To meet this potential, MSUO has something neither MSU nor University of Michigan has, Varner likes to point out: Land, lots of it, for classrooms and dormitories.

The school is located at the western end of 1,400 pleasant, rolling acres donated to MSU in early 1957 by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson, along with $2 million to build the first classrooms.

GROWTH PROBLEMS

The vastness of its rosy future impresses Pontiac. It also multiplies problems that have long been a thorn in the side of community planners.

Oakland's troubles result from its skyrocketing growth. The county's population is now estimated at 743,000, almost double 1950's census figure.

The county has become the second largest in the state, not only in terms of population but also in retailing. It's third largest in manufacturing.

Since 1952, the county has recorded more plats than any other county in the state, a total of nearly 1,000 during 1952-1957 inclusive, or 13.4 per cent of the state total for the same period.

But services haven't kept pace with residential building.

Thus, if a new community springs up around MSUO, for instance—and developers are making plush plans for one—a serious sewage problem will become critical.

SEWERS A RUB

The 100,000 persons in the township areas surrounding Pontiac are without adequate sewage disposal facilities as it is, and even Pontiac is stymied by an inadequate plant.

The area would be groping for an answer, save for a new agency which the county set up through enabling legislation in Lansing two years ago.

The Department of Public Works—Oakland's is the first and only one, so far—has broad powers to initiate big, intercommunity sewer projects, back them with the county's financial credit, then assess benefiting communities to pay off construction bonds.

A sewage plan for the Pontiac area is in the initial planning stage, while two others in the southern part of the county are virtually ready to go.

MUST PASS TEST

Although upheld in a State Supreme Court case, the DPW has still to sell its first bonds, and this is considered the acid test of its workability.

If the test is passed, other counties faced with similarly mushrooming populations may well adopt the Oakland plan.

Subdivisions grew up so fast here during the post-war building boom that whole communities came into existence before such basics as sewers and drains were decided on.

Septic tanks, local drains and well water for the most part have proved inadequate.

With much less success, the county has been trying in the usual way through its drain commission to put through a vast $44 million storm drain in the crowded southeastern part of the county, just north of Detroit, where thousands of homes suffer seasonal basement flooding.

The drain has been tied up for six years, the past two by a court suit, because the dozen communities involved can't quite agree on construction costs, which keep mounting, of course, as the litigation drags on.

Faced with a dropping water table, the county created the Southeastern Michigan Water Authority to build a Lake Huron pipeline to bring an unlimited supply of fresh water to Oakland homes and industry.

The Authority's been ready to go for a year, except it hasn't been able to sign up enough communities as customers to assure bonding companies of a profitable investment.

STREAMLINE COUNTY

Struggles such as these have led the county to establish a special study committee to come up with recommendations to streamline county government.

Nowadays, such ideas as home rule and a county manager system are being tossed around during supervisors' meetings.

But outstate counties, where the population push has not been so pressing, don't appear completely sympathetic to Oakland's requests for more powers on the county level.

County officials plan to try again for home rule, though, and have some other startling proposals up their sleeve.

The second biggest county in Michigan is still growing, and its officials have learned through hard experience that it's better to keep abreast of the growth than fall irrecoverably behind.

Veterans Fight Preference Cuts

Oppose State Proposal to Reduce Civil Service Job Test Allowance

LANSING (AP)—A proposed cut in the preference given veterans applying for state jobs has run into opposition from organized veterans groups.

Leaders of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, Marine Corps League, Spanish-American War Veterans, Amvets and Military Order of the Purple Heart were among those offering objections at a meeting with civil service heads yesterday.

All veterans receive 10 points extra on their civil service tests, and disabled veterans get 15 points.

A commission staff study recommended a cutback to 5 points and 10 points. The study group also proposed limiting the preference to three years after discharge.

Spokesmen for the organized veterans said they were especially concerned with protecting disabled veterans.

They also disagreed with the time limitation on veterans preference.

Arthur G. Rasch, state civil service director, said commission members would continue meeting with veterans' spokesmen to try and arrive at a mutually agreeable formula.

Traffic Signs Moralized

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — Traffic officers erected a new sign at a busy street intersection on the North Carolina State College campus this week. It said: "Yield." It bears a new message now. Someone appended: "Not to temptation."

As Reconciliation Calms Another

Rush-Around Romance Reported

LONDON (AP) — One runaway romance was fading from British headlines today with a peaceful reconciliation, but another one was on hand to take its place.

Shipbuilder Harry Dowsett finally caught up with his 20-year-old daughter Katherine and the playboy she eloped to Scotland with. The suitor, Edward Langley, 27, accepted Dowsett's invitation to come for the weekend and talk things out.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, from London a rich silversmith's wife dashed off to Gretna Green in pursuit of her 19-year-old son and the family's pretty Swiss maid.

Dowsett ran his daughter and Langley to earth at a friend's tiny apartment over a stable in Cambridge.

Because the family forbade the underage girl to marry, she ran off to Scotland with Langley and refused to come home with her father when he followed them.

Dowsett got a high court order prohibiting the marriage. It was doubtful it could be enforced in Scotland, where teenagers can marry without parental consent. But Langley would have been subject to arrest if he flouted the order and then returned to England.

HIRES DETECTIVES

The couple drove 320 miles from Edinburgh and arrived exhausted and penniless in Cambridge. A posse of newsmen and private detectives hired by Dowsett soon traced them.

★ ★ ★

The father arrived and hammered on the orange-painted door, shouting, "Katherine, let me in. It's your father."

"Are you going to be nice, Daddy?" Katherine cried tearfully from the other side of the locked door.

★ ★ ★

"Of course, my dear," Dowsett replied softly. "Let me in and let's sort this thing out.'

Katherine opened the door and hugged her father. He slipped inside quickly.

★ ★ ★

Thirty-five minutes later Dowsett stomped out of his car, reporting, "I agreed to compromise."

Then Katherine and Langley came out hand in hand. "We are going to the Dowsett home to talk things over," he said.

The new pair of romantic headliners were 19-year-old Jeffrey Herscheson and blue-eyed Sylvia Polentarutti, 20, from Zurich. They disappeared from Jeffrey's home 11 days ago and were found in Gretna Green, England's traditional haven for elopers.

Jeffrey said his father had offered him 20 pounds ($56) a week pocket money and a car if he'd give up Sylvia and come home.

"But I love her too much," he asserted.

"Love?" snapped Israel Herscheson back in London. "My boy's been in love five times before already."

British Diplomat Wants to Ban Cocktail Parties

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Gladwyn Jebb, British ambassador to France, said recently that cocktail parties are "torture for the modern diplomat" and should be banned by international agreement.

John Rolls, columnist for the London Daily Mirror, asked some other diplomats in London what they thought and got these answers:

Dr. Lues Thomen, Dominican Republic: "They're invaluable. Real diplomacy is done at these parties."

LA Eviction Hassle Taken to 2nd Court

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Arechiga family is back in court—this time Superior Court—to protest condemnation proceedings which resulted in their eviction from Chavez Ravine.

★ ★ ★

A similar suit was dismissed in federal court because no federal question was involved.

★ ★ ★

The family charges the City Housing Authority's condemnation of their property was a fraud because the agency had no intention of using the property for public housing. After a housing project plan was shelved, the acreage was sold to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Chavez Ravine is being cleared now for a new Dodger ballpark.

Fernando Must Pay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fernando Lamas, 43, husband of actress Arlene Dahl, must pay $1,500 a year for support of his 12-year-old daughter by a previous marriage. The Argentine-born actor agreed to that amount after conferring in court with his ex-wife, Lidia, 34. Their daughter, Alexandra, lives in Buenos Aires.

Asks Safeguards for Probe Witnesses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) has urged the Senate to write strict rules protecting the rights of witnesses summoned before its investigating committees.

★ ★ ★

"In the past decade," Javits told the Senate, "there have been repeated instances in which the reputations of individual witnesses and the progress of committee investigations have been jeopardized because of insufficient safeguards of fair procedures."

★ ★ ★

He said these have covered a range from the Senate Internal Security's subcommittee's Red-hunting hearings down to criticism of the committee now investigating wrongdoing in the labor-management field. He said the rackets group has done "a distinguished job," however.

Old Ft. Bliss, built near El Paso, Tex. in 1849 to protect gold seekers, is now an Army guided missiles center.

Oldster at 84 Ignores Iron Curtain Fuss

BAD HERSFELD, Germany (AP)—"I'm too old to understand this fuss about an Iron Curtain," said 84-year-old Grandma Elise Becker. And off she walked across the 10-yard "death strip," to have a birthday coffee with her nephew in Communist East Germany.

★ ★ ★

She lives in Kleinensee, West Germany, while Wilhelm Stein, 74, her nephew, is a resident of Grossensee, just 200 yards across the border cutting Germany in two.

Because there is no authorized border crossing in the vicinity, she was told she'd have to travel roundabout 100 miles to reach her nephew.

★ ★ ★

"This sounds like utter nonsense," Grandma Becker said.

After an hour's chat, she started back. She walked smack into a Communist patrol.

"At my age, you can't expect a woman to make a 160-kilometer detour just for a cup of coffee," she told the East German officer.

★ ★ ★

GIs Abroad Plot Strategy to Sidetrack Alcohol Ban

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Old Army hands are pondering the grimness of Army life and a new Army rule that permits their wives to drink on post before sundown, but bars soldiers even from a short beer.

Until 5 p.m. the GI in Europe is prohibited from such things as martinis at lunch, an afternoon pick-me-up or even a cool and frothy beer while he puts nickels into newly legalized shot machines in the Army clubs.

There appeared to be some loopholes in the new prohibition decree and the old Army hands were busy thinking up ways to put them into general use.

U. S. Army European headquarters in Heidelberg was responsible for the upheaval. In a circular issued throughout the command, the sale of alcoholic beverages in Army clubs was prohibited before retreat is sounded at 5 p.m.

The ban applied to enlisted men's clubs, sergeants' clubs and officers' clubs. It did not apply to the U.S. Air Force or the Navy, but airmen and sailors were watching carefully to see which way the wind blew.

"Some soldiers were not quite up to work in the afternoons after lunching at the club," one said.

"You mean they were drunk?"

"That just about sums it up."

The Army announced that certain activities are exempt from the ban—German-American friendship activities, press functions, farewell gatherings and wives' club luncheons.

Patrons of one Frankfurt club studied the possibilities. "What we have to do is to find out just what constitutes German-American friendship activities or press functions," said a sergeant who asked to be nameless.

"But no doubt we'll find a way."

The GIs took no pleasure in the accompanying rule legalizing slot machines in the clubs. "What's the good of a slot machine if you can't have a glass of beer to give you strength to pull the lever?" one asked.

Straits Bridge Getting Ready for Tourist Rush

ST. IGNACE (UP)—Workmen are as busy as a housewife expecting company as they spruce things up at the Straits of Mackinac Bridge.

Bridge traffic has been hitting around 2,500 vehicles on weekends.

Lawrence A. Rubin, executive secretary of the Bridge Authority, estimated the vehicle count will be 8,000 to 10,000 on Memorial Day.

The plaza area has been raked and cleaned up and fresh flowers have been planted in the flower boxes.

Five extra collectors will be added with the start of the Memorial Day weekend to bring the total of the bridge staff to 15.

"Posing for pictures seems to be a part of the job, too," he said. "Every tourist wants to snap a picture of the bridge. So we want to look our best."

About seven per cent of U.S. men eligible for military service are rejected for some form of eye defects.

Oil Industry Wants Catalysts

Hunting for Pill, Powder, Fuels

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — The nation's oil industry is calling on the pill and powder business today to help it find new fuels and new wonder products.

Already many millions of dollars worth of pills and powders are concocted each year for the industry. They are the catalysts which help bring about marked chemical reactions or changes in crude oil or in its many products.

The push to find new and better catalysts is being stepped up. The goal is to come up with a higher octane gasoline, even more stretchable socks, more heat-defiant cones for missiles—even, perhaps, a successor to the hula hoop, that end product of petroleum that circled the globe.

But the big drive always is to find something entirely new, something as yet undreamed of.

50,000 VARIETIES

There are some 50,000 varieties of catalysts already in use or under study. Some are as big as marbles and some as fine as pepper.

Nearly 400 tons of just one type—the catalyst used in the oil refining method known as fluid catalytic cracking — is produced each day in the United States.

Total annual value of the output is around 40 million dollars. Producers include American Cyanamid, National Aluminate, Filtrol and Davison Chemical Co., a division of W. R. Grace & Co.

Since World War II this refining method has been the main one used in cracking oil into gasoline, heating fuel, chemical components and other products.

And more than 100 fluid cracking plants around the world now have a combined capacity for handling about three million barrels of oil a day.

This particular catalyst measures two ten-thousandths of an inch in diameter. But the surface of the catalysts in use at any one time in a big refinery unit adds up to 10,000 square miles.

Chemists of Esso Research and Engineering Co. say nearly 1,500 types of catalysts were tested in developing the fluid cat-cracking process. In improving it over the years they've tried another 3,000.

Although principally a purchaser of catalysts, the petroleum industry spends millions of dollars studying and experimenting with these chemical agents.

Their basic role is to speed up or promote in some other way a desirable rearrangement of the basic components — molecules — of petroleum.

U.S. Catholics Reach Record of 39,505,475

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 1959 Official Catholic Directory reported today that there are a record 39,505,475 Americans who are Roman Catholics, an increase of 3,481,498 over last year.

The directory said the record number in the United States and Hawaii, which is scheduled to become a state soon, includes Catholics and their families stationed abroad for military and diplomatic service.

The directory also said there were 140,411 converts recorded.

Plans Sex Education

Magazine Fights

DENVER (UPI) — The editor of the National Parent-Teacher Magazine said today that more sex education of the right kind would help fight pornography.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Eva Grant of Chicago announced her magazine would immediately begin a program to combat pornographic literature, and that the magazine plans to begin rating television shows for family viewing.

Mrs. Grant said this committee will write independent evaluations from which a composite will be prepared for publication, and that the magazine hopes parents will consult the ratings when determining which programs their children will be allowed to watch.

The editor said television viewing by school children has increased since 1950 despite the early belief that it would decrease when the medium no longer was a novelty.

U.S. Astronauts Get First Look at Launching Site

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—America's seven candidates for a trip to outer space were given their first look yesterday at the launching site from where one of them will be blasted aloft in a rocket sometime in 1961.

The Mercury astronauts arrived unheralded "for familiarization of the Atlantic missile range and its facilities," an Air Force spokesman said.

Their schedule and the length of their stay was not announced immediately, but it was expected to be only several days.

The seven, hand picked from more than 100 volunteers for the first space journey, will make a tour of the sprawling missile base and get a closeup view of the big ballistic rockets.

U.S. Steel Holding to 'No Hike' Stand

WASHINGTON (UP) — U. S. Steel board chairman Roger Blough said the company will stick to its stand there should be no hike during 1959 in either steel labor costs or steel prices.

★ ★ ★

Blough said the Steelworkers Union boasts its members are already the best-paid in the nation and the world. He contended any increase would be inflationary and cause unemployment.

The head of the nation's largest steel producer, in remarks prepared for a National Press Club luncheon, said it is no coincidence that the growth of the American economy has slowed in recent years while profits on a national scale have stopped growing.

Benson Proposes Bank for Rural Electric and Phones

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson last night proposed creation of a bank to replace the U.S. Treasury in financing rural electric power and telephone systems.

* * *

The bank would take over from the government the matter of lending money to rural systems. The systems would operate and ultimately own the bank entirely, much the same as the existing Farm Credit Administration.

The rural systems now — as they have since 1935 — get their initial, operating and expansion funds from the rural electrification administration (REA), an agency under the general supervision of the secretary of agriculture.

Since 1944, rural systems have paid a congressionally pegged interest rate of 2 per cent on REA loans. At present, this does not cover costs of the money to the government.

SUGGESTS NEW RATE

The Eisenhower administration from time to time has suggested that the 2 per cent rate be replaced by a rate which will cover the financing costs to the treasury. This would apply to new loans only, Benson said.

Rural power cooperatives have objected strenuously to such proposals, claiming they are part of a scheme to sell out public power.

Benson proposed the rural systems' have their own national policy board to direct affairs of their bank.

"Members of this board would be nominated by the rural electric and telephone borrowers," Benson said. "Plans for organizing and operating the REA bank should be carefully developed to meet the particular capital requirements of the electric and telephone borrowers."

Benson unveiled his proposal for taking the government out of the rural power and telephone lending business in a speech at the annual Farmer-Businessman Dinner of the Chamber of Commerce Agricultural Bureau and the Linn County Farm Bureau.

Benson's proposal was based on the system which is operating in the Farm Credit Administration (FCA) with its farmer-owned and operated banks and local lending institutions.

BORROW $3.5 BILLION

He pointed out that farmer-members and the cooperative service organizations of FCA now borrow nearly $3,500,000,000 a year from their own farm credit institutions.

Farmers have invested more than $287,000,000 capital in the credit institutions, which have accumulated net earnings of more than $361,000,000.

The farm credit institutions have in effect a retirement plan to return their remaining government capital to the treasury.

* * *

"This is the way a permanent financing system for the rural electric and telephone borrowers should be developed," he said.

Benson said rural electric and telephone systems now are "strong and healthy" and should start formulating plans which would enable users of these systems ultimately to own and operate their own national financing institution.

The population of India is increasing at a rate of about three million persons each calendar year.

Nikita Even Plans Trip

Reds Hint at Long Parley

GENEVA, (UPI)—The Russians seem to have changed their mind about a short and snappy foreign minister' conference. They appeared today to be gearing for a protracted period of difficult negotiations.

Three bits of evidence support this:

—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's sudden decision to visit Albania from May 25 to June 6.

Khrushchev's remark to a group of Americans in Moscow that if the foreign ministers do not succeed at first they should keep trying until they do.

—A report that the Soviet delegation here had extended its contract for communications from Geneva to Moscow from June 8 to July 8.

The motives for the apparent Soviet change of heart have puzzled westerners. Some were disturbed at the possibility of new surprises from the Russians.

Khrushchev is understood to have been directing Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko almost step by step in the conference so far.

It was considered unlikely that he would go to Albania for two weeks, where it will be more difficult to maintain this direct contact, unless he anticipated a period of wait-and-see tactics that would not produce any vital points needing his personal attention.

Jobs Abroad Mainly for Ex-Patriates

NEW YORK (AP)—What are your chances of landing that choice assignment in some exotic foreign land?

* * *

They're best if you've already had a taste of life abroad, according to W. R. Jeeves, director of Parke Davis & Co.'s overseas operations.

"We find it preferable to choose a man who has already been abroad and wants to return," he said, "rather than the individual who is attracted by the so-called glamor of foreign residence."

Jeeves was one of dozens of top U. S. business executives on hand today to swap ideas at the opening of the 43rd annual meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board.

At a panel session on grooming overseas personnel, Jeeves reported: "Whenever possible, we recruit future expatriates from our domestic staff.

700-Foot Ships to Carry Ore

Giants to Ply Lakes

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Seven-hundred-foot Great Lakes ore carriers soon will be a common sight, an American ship building company vice president said yesterday.

* * *

Edgerton B. Williams of Cleveland, said five large ore carriers have been constructed in the past five years, but during the same period, 42 ships were withdrawn from service.

Williams predicted that in the next five years, 60 to 70 more ships will have to be replaced for economic or old-age reasons and he said the 700-foot giants of the lakes will take their place.

"I hope the building program will be an orderly one, spread over a number of years with a few each year, instead of extreme peaks and hollows which has been the pattern in the past," Williams said. "This will keep the industry healthy and we will produce better ships at less cost."

* * *

Williams made the remarks when he was given an honorary membership in the Quarterdeck Society, made up of students of naval architecture and marine engineering at University of Michigan.

'Brains' to Fight Reds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee has approved funds to establish a "brain trust" in the State Department to mastermind economic and political warfare against the Communists on a global scale. But in granting the money, the House committee said it was "at a loss to understand" why the government had not been doing something like this all along."

Former City Girl Sings Tonight

Lucine Amara Is Met Star

LUCINE AMARA

By LYDIA ROTHMAN

A former Pontiac girl is singing the lead role in this evening's production of the Metropolitan Opera of New York appearing in Detroit

Lucy Armaganian, known professionally as Lucine Amara, is singing the role of Nedda in "Pagliacci." The opera is the second in the Metropolitan's series of four performances in Detroit this week.

STUDIED VIOLIN

Miss Amara began her musical career as a violinist to please her father. Bertha Marie Roth of Pontiac was her first music teacher.

★ ★ ★

It was Mrs. Stella Eisner-Eyn of San Francisco, who, as one admirer put it, "discovered a something in Miss Amara's throat that was better than her violin playing."

Mrs. Eisner-Eyn encouraged Miss Amara and gave her singing lessons, insisting that she work hard at them. Miss Amara took part time jobs to finance her studies.

In 1950, she made her debut with the New York Metropolitan Opera, singing an offstage role in "Don Carlo." It is said that she might be considered Rudolf Bing's first American "discovery," as "Don Carlo" opened his first Metropolitan season.

Since that time, Miss Amara has had leading soprano roles in many important and difficult operas, and is now heard only in leading roles. She has made guest appearances in Berlin, Stockholm and Rome.

GLAD TO BE BACK

Miss Amara sounds as happy to be in Detroit as Detroit is to have her, and she plans to see her many relatives in the Pontiac area whom she has not seen for many years.

When she heard that Pontiac now has its own symphony orchestra, she said, "Fabulous—more power to them." She does hope that the orchestra will give young local artists a chance to perform.

★ ★ ★

Recalling her own struggle to become established, she remarked, "It's so hard for young artists to get started on a career and if the smaller organizations won't help them, they haven't a chance."

"Every time I see a Mercedes or Jaguar, I have to stop and look at them," she said.

Opening Night for Met One to Long Remember

By LYDIA ROTHMAN

The Metropolitan Opera opened in Detroit Thursday evening for its first appearance in the city in 49 years.

★ ★ ★

It was a night to be long remembered for those who were fortunate enough to attend and for those who merely stood on the sidelines to watch Detroit at its most glamourous and stately best.

The Masonic Temple overflowed with glamor and formality last night as many of the opera goers donned top hats and tails and long evening gowns.

Perhaps the evening clothes were a little foreign to their wearers and perhaps there was an impatient driver in the long line of traffic, but generally, opera enthusiasts didn't seem to mind a bit and really enjoyed the polite crush of some 4,600 ticket holders.

Amid flash bulbs and press photographers, Detroit's society leaders and those who weren't joined in the stately parade up the red-carpeted steps to take their seats in the capacity-filled auditorium.

Although many were late, the lights dimmed and the curtain rose promptly at 8:30 p.m. to the first thrilling notes of "Carmen."

But the most critical opera goers and music lovers were completely enthralled last night by magnificent Rise Stevens as Carmen and the tender, beautiful voice of Heidi Krall who sang the role of Micaela.

When the opera was over, the audience remained spellbound in its seats and applauded like a Detroit audience has probably never done before.

★ ★ ★

As the audience left the Masonic Temple, it did so quietly and without the usual frantic rush, completely touched by the magnificent performance just witnessed.

Shrunken Heads, Children Mislaid

Motel Guests Forgetful

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK (UPI) — Women travelers put the absent-minded professor to shame. They forget everything from children to shrunken heads, says a motel executive.

"You name it and it's probably been left. We find an average of 250,000 items a year in our motels," said John Lacock, of Washington, Pa., president of a nonprofit motel association, Quality Courts United, Inc. The organization sets standards for its 500 independently-owned motels, handles reservations, and does central purchasing.

"Women generally forget lingerie, which we find rolled up in sheets. Cosmetics and slippers run a close second," Lacock said during a trip to New York.

If an article has some value, the motel manager drops the guest a card, he said.

★ ★ ★

The shrunken head was found in Lacock's Motel last year. A woman had brought the head as a souvenir from South America. A day after checking out, she frantically called Lacock, and the head was mailed to her.

Another woman left a gold inlaid hanger in a southern hotel. In tears, she called the manager, explained that the hanger was a family heirloom, and got it back.

At another motel, a mother was so busy herding six of her children into a station wagon that she overlooked the seventh child, a two-year-old. She was on the road before she realized she was short one child.

But women aren't the only ones to leave possessions behind, Lacock said. Men are prone to forget pajamas, hairbrushes, and razors.

"One man," he added, "took off without his suitcase containing an important speech. He called several hours later, and I read the speech over the phone, while he copied it down in longhand."

Another man stopped at the motel en route to Mexico and left his dinner clothes in the closet. He called the owner, who took the tuxedo to the local airport and gave it to a pilot heading across the border. The pilot delivered the suit.

Then there was the motel maid who opened a suitcase, found a skeleton, and collapsed. But no foul play was involved. A tag on the skeleton's wrist showed it belonged to a medical student.

Dear Abby . . .

Wife of the Nice Young Man Knows Darn Well What to Do

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently bought a home and furnished it in Early American. For a housegift his sister gave us a Chinese Modern lamp. It stands three feet high, has a bright red base with a black lacquered shade and has gold dragons all over it. It looks terrible and I don't want to put it where it can be seen.

ABBY

I know his sister from way back and she did it just to be mean. You'd never see such a cheap piece of junk in her house. My husband says I should use it anyway so her feelings won't be hurt. I don't want to ruin the looks of my house. How can we settle this peacefully?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Ask your sister-in-law if she has any objections to your exchanging the lamp for something that would fit into your decorating scheme a little better. She could hardly refuse; if she does, put the lamp away. At least, you'll have thrown a little light on the subject.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, a young girl tells of a quick wedding at the city hall over her lunch because she couldn't afford a "fancy church wedding". This woman and countless others have the wrong conception of a church wedding. Anyone who wants a church wedding can have one. It need not be expensive or fancy.

Any clergyman will unite a couple in holy matrimony in front of the altar with only attendants and parents. It is still a Service, and has the blessing of God. I have nothing against city hall weddings, but but "I now-pronounce-you-man and-wife-$10.00-please" type of ceremony is not nearly so memorable. Sincerely,

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: In our office there is a nice young man. He is very sweet and we wouldn't hurt him for the world, but he comes to work with holes in his socks. He is married. This makes a bad impression on all who see him and some folks snicker behind his back. Should we tell him it looks bad, or should we write his wife an anonymous note telling her to do something about it?

OFFICE GANG

DEAR GANG: If the man consistently comes to work with holes in his socks, he knows they are there and doesn't care. Leave his wife alone. She darn well knows what to do.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am asking advice for a helpless little child of four. She has a very poor appetite. Her mother tries to force food down her by holding her nose until she swallows the food. I hate to see this child screaming and putting up a big fight. The child becomes nervous and throws up the food afterwards. I was told to mind my own business when I suggested they take her to a doctor. I work here so I hesitate to make any more suggestions. Maybe you can help.

DAY HELP

DEAR HELP: Food forced down a child does more harm than good. I hope they consult a doctor about the child's poor appetite before they are forced to see one about a much more serious problem later.

Rubber Spatula Scrapes Mixer

When you use an electric mixer, it's handy to rely on a rubber spatula to scrape batter from the sides of the bowl. You won't run the risk of bending the beater blades as with a wooden spoon.

Of course, it's easy to wash the rubber spatula in hot soap or detergent suds along with the bowl and beaters.

Save time sprinkling clothes by spraying water on with a windex spray bottle as you iron.

Beets will be easier to peel if you douse them in cold water a second after boiling.

Skin Stretched

Exercise Firms Chinline

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "I have been about 50 pounds overweight for years. I finally started counting calories and have lost 25 pounds in the last six months. I am 38 years old and have lost this weight slowly. However, my chinline is saggy where the double chin used to be. Is there a good exercise for this condition?"

A. That is one of the bad things about remaining overweight for many years. The skin does become stretched and does not always shrink enough to match the new proportions. However, I think you can do much to diminish the defect by doing some exercises and lubricating your skin carefully.

Unless there is some individual reason for not doing so, I believe the use of one of the hormone creams would be an aid. Here is an exercise. Lie on your bed on your back with your head and shoulders hanging off the bed. Slowly raise your head and touch your chin to your chest, or come as near as you can. Lower head back again and continue. When you apply cream to your neck, pat it into the skin gently.

Q. "Would you please tell me what causes hair to grow on the face? Do you inherit it from your mother? Also do irregular menstrual periods have anything to do with it? Please answer in your column."

A. This is really a medical question which I am not qualified to answer. In general, I can say that the distribution of hair is affected by the glands. When you say that you have irregular menstrual periods and have hairs on your face, I guess that you are middle aged. This is the time when the glandular setup changes and when hairs often appear on the face for the first time. I think you should talk with your family physician.

Q. "Small lines are beginning to radiate outward from my lips. Lipstick sometimes gets into these and this looks unattractive. Is there any special cream or exercise for them? I have used a facial depilatory for several years. Could this be breaking down the skin around the lips and cause these lines. I whistle a lot. Could this cause them?"

A. You should give up whistling and take up whittling instead! I hate to ask you to do this since you sound like a gay soul, but I do think that whistling would cause lines just as do any facial expressions, such as squinting or brow lifting. Use any good lubricating cream.

Q. "What is a safe and easy way to bleach the skin if one has too much suntan?"

A. The easiest and safest way is just to let it fade with time. Actually, I do not think there is any very effective method or product.

You can buy commercial bleaching creams which help you some or you can use lemon juice. If this is too strong, even when diluted, add it to buttermilk which is also supposed to be a mild bleacher.

Newlyweds Don't Need to Entertain

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: A nephew of mine was married several months ago. Our family all went to showers for his bride and to the wedding and gave lovely presents. After they returned from their wedding trip, the family expected to be invited to their house but so far not one of us has been asked. We know that their house is completely furnished and that they are settled.

"A close family friend, who lives near them, has told us that they have entertained several of their friends. We all feel quite hurt over this. Don't you think this is a slight to his family and that we are justified in feeling hurt?"

Answer: A young bride and groom in their new house are very rarely able, or expected, to entertain more than a very few of their own friends, and you should not feel slighted because you have not been invited. You can telephone your nephew and show your interest in their house by asking when you can come to see it.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My invitation to my niece's wedding included a card reading, "In front of the ribbons." My fiance's invitation did not include this card. I asked my sister about it and she said that only the nearest family was seated in these front seats. Shouldn't he have been asked to sit there with me?"

Answer: Since your fiance is the very nearest thing to being in the family, correctly he should have been asked to sit with you.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When a man and woman are dining in a restaurant, is the woman to give her order first to the waiter or should the man order for both?"

Answer: She tells her host what she would like, and he gives the order for both.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Our two children, five and seven years old, have their dinners with the family in the dining room. Ordinarily their plates are served first because they are slow in eating. Should this same practice be followed even when we have guests, or could that possibly be considered rude to put the children of the family before guests?"

Answer: I think that if you explain the reason, no guest, informal enough to be at table with children as young as yours, will feel slighted when you serve them first.

A graceful touch of the Orient prevails in the Roy J. Alexander home on Schoolhouse drive. Mrs. Alexander decided to make her memento of several years' residence in Okinawa a delicate collection of almond-eyed dolls. The array of figures on the table includes dolls from Japan, China, India, Siam and Indochina.

Roy Alexanders' Home Filled With Mementos of the Orient

By MARGARET BROWN

You've read about Roy J. Alexander often on our pages in connection with the new Michigan State University Oakland. The school's recently named director of student services has a very colorful background, having spent several years in Okinawa where he headed the MSU mission at the University of Ryukyus.

He also has a petite wife who is the epitome of "charm" and two fine youngsters.

The family's cheery brick home on Schoolhouse drive is filled with lovely and authentic Oriental furnishings accumulated during their stay in the Far East. Outstanding are several intricately carved teakwood tables finished in blonde tones for more modern tastes.

Perhaps the biggest attraction, however, is Mrs. Alexander's intriguing collection of dolls. The fragile array of both tiny and large handmade figures was carefully arranged and the story behind each doll was very graciously explained during our interview.

The dolls often are representative of special days, historical events, or characters of the drama. It's difficult to believe such delicate, laboriously fashioned "toys" are used by children everyday, but Mrs. Alexander says that Oriental youngsters generally are very gentle and "pliable."

★ ★ ★

The Alexanders, who returned from Okinawa in May 1958 with their children, John, 13, and Karen, 9, lived near the island's capital city of Naha where some 100,000 people dwell.

"Okinawans are a shy, sensitive people," she comments. Although their disciplinary measures are very mild, the children are remarkably well-behaved.

American ladies, by the way, don't work very hard in Okinawa. They are expected to employ domestics. "It helps the economy," she explains.

The family sailed to Japan while in Okinawa and visited such exciting cities as Hong Kong, Bangkok, Singapore and Saigon.

Simplicity Key to Top Fashion

The clue to looking well-dressed lies in one word: simplicity. If you like color, wear it. But wear it subtly.

Don't mix colors unless you've a real flair. Wear black if you like but highlight it with accessories that have a gleam. And never wear too many ornaments at once.

Sit down to work in the kitchen when you can. It's a good way to save energy. Use a chair which lets you sit with good posture and allows you to place both feet flat on the floor.

Set Play on Mental Health

An educational play, "Which Way Out?" will highlight the first annual meeting of the Oakland Chapter of the Michigan Society for Mental Health to be held 8 p. m. June 4 at Pontiac Northern High School.

The American Theater Wing Community Play by Lee Gilmore will be presented by students of Waterford Township High School. Patricia Looman, of the speech department, is the director.

"The play has been instrumental in teaching teenagers something about emotional disturbance and its effect upon a whole family," says Mrs. Jerome Fink, president of the society.

Members of the panel to discuss the play are William Robertson, Pontiac Public Schools Psychologist; James Hunt, director of Children's Division of Juvenile Court, Frieda Huggett, visiting teacher, Waterford, Public Schools; and Madeleine Half director of Oakland County Child Guidance Clinic.

Also on the meeting's agenda is report from Elmer Hartwig, legislation committee chairman, on the study and work toward emergency care for the mentally ill in Oakland County; a report on new state legislation regarding admitting procedures; and nominations for two year terms for the board of directors.

Jobless Areas Still Troubling

Cloud on Otherwise Brightening Picture of Employment in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department said today that although the economy is making a vigorous recovery, there still are bad areas of unemployment requiring federal and state attention.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell urged Congress to enact an assistance program to encourage new industries to locate in hard-hit areas. He called on governors to have legislatures follow President Eisenhower's advice in improving state unemployment compensation laws.

"The economy in general is making a sustained and vigorous recovery," Mitchell said, "but there still are people and places which are not sharing that prosperity."

He said the localized character of unemployment, even though there was springtime improvement in more than 90 per cent of the 149 major labor market areas, "demonstrates the need for a federal area assistance program."

Mitchell's study of the unemployment problem — with 65 million workers at jobs and 3,627,000 still idle in April—showed the greatest number of unemployed concentrated in five states—New York, Pennsylvania, California, Michigan and Illinois.

It showed unemployment particularly high among the youngest members of the work force, among the unskilled laboring men, and among Negroes.

An upward trend in employer hiring plans reportedly will continue at least to midsummer.

Spring hiring dropped 14 major labor market areas from the list of those classed as having substantial labor surplus, or idleness of 6 per cent or more. Sixty cities remain on that list, compared with 86 a year ago and only 21 two years ago.

Early 'Anatomy' Release Fine by Jimmy Stewart

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD—I cornered Jimmy Stewart at the Leroy party for King Baudouin. He's just back from Ishpeming, Mich., where he spent eight weeks on "Anatomy of a Murder" and said the picture is all finished except that he has three sentences to record.

"Otto Preminger holds that when a picture is being made it gets a lot of publicity, and then there's a long period before the picture is released when nothing is said about it," said Jimmy, "so he's going to release 'Anatomy' immediately while the publicity is hot and before people stop talking about the book. Personally, I think it's a good idea."

Here's a bit of news right from London-town in a cable from Sam Spiegel: He has just signed Katharine Hepburn for "Suddenly Last Summer." This is the role that Vivien Leigh was supposed to have, and the one that Bette Davis stated very frankly that she wanted.

Said Sam: "Both Joe Mankiewicz and I think Katharine Hepburn is ideal casting and completes the starring trio we wanted, with Elizabeth Taylor and Montgomery Clift."

Katie will fly to London immediately to start work and get there by Monday when the roll will be called for all the actors on the picture.

After the performance Van Heflin gave in "The Tempest," I am not surprised, and I'm sure you won't be, that Dino de Laurentiis and Martin Ritt have signed Van for the male lead opposite Gina Lollobrigida in "Jovanko." The Heflins are on cloud A.

Frances (Mrs. H.) told me they are sailing on the S.S. Independence June 10 for Naples, again taking their three children. She said it's so exciting for Van to play opposite Gina Lollobrigida and get the romantic lead in a really fine script.

The Heflins won't go to Yugoslavia this time because the entire picture, as it stands now, will be filmed in Italy and Austria unless the Yugoslavian government has a change of heart.

Bonita Granville (Mrs. Jack Wrather in private life) has more than a pretty face and talent as an actress. She has real business ability—so much that her industrialist husband has made her associate producer of the "Lassie" television program and she has taken offices at the Desilu Studio where "Lassie" is filmed.

It was Bonita who suggested Jon Provost for the role of Timmy, replacing Tommy Rettig. In her new job Bonita will assist executive producer Sherman A. Harris and producer Robert Golden in the development of story material, casting and wardrobe.

Amateurs Can Make Yard Everblooming

Amateur gardeners can turn home landscapes into a continuous kaleidoscope of color by planting various combinations of bulbs, perennials, biennials and annuals.

The techniques of combining hardy flowers with annuals to give continuous bloom from April through October was explained to Michigan home gardeners at a Michigan State University conference recently by Dr. Richard F. Stinson, of the MSU department of horticulture.

In discussing succession of blooming by months in the home flower garden, Dr. Stinson talked about various bulbs, biennials, and perennials can be used to produce flowering periods in early and mid-April. These include snowdrop, crocus, pansy, sweet violet, ground phlox, English daisy, daffodil and the peacock and waterlily tulips.

Spring annuals which can be interplanted with these bulbs and perennials include sweet alyssum, dwarf marigolds, petunias, annual pinks, ageratum, nasturtium, geranium, snapdragon, zinnia and others.

Plants that bloom in May in various colors and heights include the English primrose, bleeding-heart, sweet William, blue flox, gas plant, columbine, dwarf iris, peony, sea pink, cheddar pinks, coral bells and others.

For June color, the speaker suggested such plants as astilbe, cupid's dart, painted daisy, delphinium, foxgloves and the brown-eyed Susan. July blooming plants include hollyhock, garden chrysanthemum, globethistle, true lavender, cardinalflower and balloon-flower.

Monkshood "Sparks," rubrum lily and hardy amaryliss are plants which have their flowering period in early August, and the New England aster, white Japanese anemone and autumn crocus in September.

Agent Discusses Bladder Gall

Measle-Like Disease on Maple Trees Not Serious; Spray Now

By WAYNE B. SIEFERT
County Agricultural Agent

Bladder gall on maple trees seems to have a way of making a tree look like it has the measles, but is not a serious disease. Red bladder-like blisters often appear on new leaves of small trees. At first they are greenish in appearance, but redden as they age. A tiny mite, much like a chigger, burrow into the young leaves, causing this peculiar leaf growth.

Experimenting has not found a way to kill the mites inside the leaves, but has shown that a dormant spray kills the mites while they are overwintering. Such chemicals as lime sulfur (often used on apple trees) or malathion effectively prevent spring infection.

Have you planted tomatoes every year and always been the last one to pick any fruit? Especially early varieties have recently been developed for northern states such as Minnesota and Wisconsin. When planted in Michigan they are especially early and very welcome.

Such varieties as Fireball, Valiant, or John Baer, will ripen fruit by the first week in August. They are very tasty and the fruits aren't too large. A second and later variety is also grown which produces a more tasty large tomato.

Buying tomato plants for the garden? Have you often wondered if the size of the plant produced more fruit? If you have, you certainly aren't the only one. Plants about 12 inches' high have proven ideal for transplanting, and given highest yields.

At this size, the roots are well developed and the plant is leafy and sturdy. When plants are so tall they fall over when transplanted and too much time is lost before sturdy growth develops and fruiting begins.

For the latest notes on tomato production, send a postcard to my office: Cooperative Extension Service, 1260 W. Blvd., Pontiac, and get the free extension folder, "Tomato Growing in Michigan."

Sweet corn is never as good as from your own garden. But are you the fellow who is first to have it, or has the fellow next door supplied you for a couple of weeks before you can harvest your own?

Most sweet corn growers have part of their crop already planted, and putting in some more every few days. Early planting, plus early varieties, plus lots of fertilizer really pays off with sweet corn.

Two early varieties are productive and tasty for the Pontiac area; North Star and Gold Crest will be ready to harvest in about 70 days from planting. At the same time, plant a late variety and spread the harvest over two extra weeks.

Such varieties as Carmelcross, Northern Cross or F. M. Cross, will be ready to harvest 75-80 days from planting. If a late variety, such as the Wonderful or Seneca Chief, is also planted, they will harvest out in 85-90 days.

Best Cleaner for Sprayer Is Soapy Water

What is the best procedure to be followed to cleanse a garden sprayer of the weed kill, 2, 4-D?

Immediately after using weed killer, fill sprayer with warm soapy water and pump it out through hose line. Repeat and then fill tank with warm water and trisodium phosphate added at the rate of one pound per 10 gallons of water.

Let stand 12 to 18 hours and then pump out through hose line and rinse two or three times with warm water. It's best to have one sprayer for weed killer only.

Safeguard Delphiniums

Delphiniums can become a problem in heavy clay soil area. These stately plants want a well-drained location and a loamy, sandy, well-limed soil. Water standing about their roots in winter is certain death.

Chemicals Kill Weeds

Ammate or triox used as directed by the manufacturer is good to keep the gravel drive free of grass and weeds. These chemicals sterilize the soil and kill a vegetation —so confine them to the drive.

Calcium chloride is also effective but should not be used where children run barefoot.

BLAST THOSE WEEDS (and feed your grass now) WITH TRIPLE XXX BAN-A-WEED

Cut Delphinium Stems

Only remove the flower stems and wilted foliage after the first delphinium blooms have faded. Feed with a liquid fertilizer.

QUEENLY POSIE — Here's a photo of Queen Anne's Lace flower. It has pure white clusters of five-petaled florets and is excellent for cut flower mixtures. Really adds grace, beauty and elegance to any bouquet.

Colonists on Madeira in the 15th century set huge brush fires to clear the land for farming. Some blazes got out of control and smoldered on the island slopes for seven years. Serious erosion resulted.

Gardening Brings Beauty

There are joys of gardening which are hard to explain to those who are merely interested in exterior decoration to match the interior decoration of their homes.

A cloud of golden daffodils is a heartening sight on an early April day but an even greater delight to the gardener who worked like a galley slave to produce it is an old forsythia heavy with yellow bloom for the first time in years.

That clipped and manicured lawn may bring compliments from passers-by but the gardener's affections may be tied up with a regraded, reseeded patch of grass over which he fussed an entire weekend, rubbing compost through a screen, loosening hard-packed soil, raking, seeding and watering.

The lush bloom of a perfect rose draws exclamations but the gardener who nurtured it may receive his prime satisfaction from the rich earth around the bush and the green perfection of the unmarred leaves, a personal triumph over the pest population.

And a mulberry tree, with its berries making a gory mess of one area, might lead some to wonder why a householder chose such a dirty tree, but the gardener, knowing how the berries attract insect-eating birds, regards it as one of his very favorite plantings.

UNENDING WORK

When one does all his own outside work, there is never enough time to do everything, even if the yard is small and the weekend weather holds. By sundown Sunday there are still plenty of weeds to be pulled, edges to be trimmed, equipment to be cleaned.

★ ★ ★

The gardener with a written list is likely to be more efficient because there are many chores which cannot be postponed successfully.

Use Nicotine Products Against Field Pests

Although there is no spray or dust which will repel rabbits, mice and chipmunks from the garden, here are a few suggestions:

Nicotine products are fairly effective. Try tobacco dust applied generously on plants first sprayed with water so the dust will stick. One also can use Black Leaf 40, ½ teaspoon in a quart of warm, slightly soapy water used as a spray. Repeat two or three times weekly.

PACKAGED FOOD, FLOWERS — This attractive young housewife is among the many who have been busy the past month browsing through the colorful garden seed racks which can be found in many area stores. It's fun to plan gardens this way.

Colorful Seed Displays--- A Cheery Spring Promise

The colorful garden seed rack which has now begun to bloom in many retail establishments here is used by many.

Only a few years ago, annual flower and vegetable seeds could be bought in only a few places.

Now, they are found in supermarkets, gas stations, variety stores, hardware stores, drug stores and a wide variety of other locations, as well as in seed stores and garden supply centers.

The reason is that merchants of every description have found that garden seed racks help to build traffic by attracting customers with their colorful packets.

If the trend continues, garden seeds will probably be sold one day from automatic vending machines, so that people can purchase them at any hour of the day or night from even more locations than at present.

FUN TO SHOP

Next time you're on a shopping trip, take five minutes out for a little fun. Look for the garden seed rack in your favorite store and leaf through the dozens of beautiful packets. Annual flower and vegetable varieties are usually arranged alphabetically. In any case, the color illustration of the flower or vegetable variety on the front of the packet makes it easy to find.

If your tots are along with you, let them spend some time at the seed rack, too. Depending on their ages, they can learn a lot about flowers and vegetables from the display in a little time; or a lot about spelling from the clearly printed variety names on the seed packets; or a lot about colors from the variety illustrations, which are masterpieces of the printer's art.

Remember, too, that widest variety of garden seeds is yours when the packets first go on display. As the season progresses, supplies naturally diminish.

You'll be better able to visualize exactly how your garden will look, when you can spread a few seed packets around your rough sketches.

Thanks to modern packaging and seed processing techniques, the annual flower and vegetable seeds you buy now from retail seed racks will be perfectly fresh when you're ready to sow them. Here's a tip: when you purchase vegetable seed packets, pick up a few extra to plant for home canning. You'll find that home canned vegetables, quickly and easily prepared with modern accessories, will help out your food budget all year.

Takes Heap of Washers to Reach 3,357 Miles

ST. JOSEPH — How high would five million automatic washers extend if they were stacked one on top of the other?

The answer: 3,357 miles. Officials of the St. Joseph Division of the Whirlpool Corp. came up with this statistic recently when the Division produced its five millionth automatic washer. Whirlpool Automatic washer No. 1 rolled off the local assembly line in 1947.

HAVE WE PLANNED FOR GROWTH?

There was the St. Bernard who grew and grew as some dogs will and awoke one day to find himself stuck in the dog house. All because nobody planned for his growth. Some towns have found themselves in the same fix, and for the same reason.

How about our town?

Are we concerned enough about having a future for our town, about having a future in our town for the boys and girls now growing up?
If we are, then we as individuals will be solidly behind the kind of community planning that provides for growth and opens the way for prosperity. It includes, for example, modern zoning, thorough financial planning by the municipality, preparation for adequate schools and services and the provision of fully developed land for industry.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

Future Train Will Travel on Film of Air at 500 M.P.H.

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — I rode 15 miles an hour on a film of air in a sleek white and red vehicle that looks like an amusement park ride but which some experts believe is a prototype of the train of the future.

★ ★ ★

The model is built for one passenger and is slightly smaller than a Volkswagen. It has a 1½ horsepower blower to propel it. Compressed air is forced through three metal pads on the underside of the car. These look somewhat like the bottom of a household steam iron.

'LIKE RAILROADS'

Dr. Kucher envisions the Levacar as high-speed ground transportation between cities such as Detroit and Chicago.

"It would skim over flat rails, like the present railroads," he said, "at speeds of 200 to 500 miles an hour."

Power would come from gas turbines. The rails would provide an even surface for the compressed air and would be used in braking.

Dr. Kucher said the Levacar has no application as a free road vehicle. Neither would it be practical for short commuter trips because it would need 15 to 20 miles to gain full acceleration and a similar distance to slow down.

The model which Ford has installed at its Rotunda in Dearborn weighs 450 pounds, is 94 inches long, 48 inches high and 54 inches wide.

When you ride in it you are enclosed in a transparent canopy. You are strapped in with a car-style safety belt. The air is turned on and the car moves slowly around a circular platform.

I took the ride Wednesday.

You feel as if you were getting ready for a takeoff in a light plane. As the car speeds up, the sensation from the inside is one of considerable speed, and centrifugal force pushes you against the fancy, white leather upholstery.

The model has no brakes. When you turn off the power, you begin an eerie, coating ride, which in some ways must be similar to the feeling of weightlessness which comes at extremely high speed.

And, as the first man to take a test ride at a special press preview remarked upon alighting:

New Couples, Old Ones Enjoy Chatting Most

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI)—When a man and his wife hold a conversation, what do they usually talk about?

★ ★ ★

According to a recent study, it all depends on how old they are and how long they have been married.

A doctoral dissertation by a Cornell University graduate student, Samuel Deitcher, furnished these results:

Couples in the first stage of married life—before there are any children—spend more time talking with each other than those married longer. They discuss "subjective subjects" such as personal feelings, sex, religion and their plans, Deitcher said.

Couples in the middle stages—those with at least two children — are not quite so happy about communications between them. Their talks tend to center on family tasks when the children are infants and pre-schoolers. Once the kids grow up, the talk shifts to social and community topics.

The veterans of marriage — those who have been married 25 years or more — find their conversations more satisfying than those in the middle groups but they are not quite as content with their talks as are newlyweds.

The older couples talked least with one another, not quite an hour a day, and usually discussed friends and community activities.

Deitcher said he questioned 20 couples in different stages of married life. The couples were all American-born, non-rural, once-married and had some college education.

Senate Group OKs Gates for Defense Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee today approved the nomination of Secretary of Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr. to be deputy secretary of defense.

★ ★ ★

Gates was picked Monday by President Eisenhower to succeed Donald A. Quarles in the defense job. Quarles died two weeks ago.

At the same time, the committee approved Undersecretary William B. Franke of New York to succeed Gates as secretary of the Navy; and Fred A. Bantz, also of New York, as the new undersecretary.

The committee also approved appointment of Dr. Joseph V. Charyk, Woodland Hills, Calif., as assistant secretary of the Air Force for research and development.

State Meets Start; PCH After 5th Track Title

Chiefs Facing Hot Challenges in Test at MSU

Indians, Vikings, Ann Arbor, Farmington in List of Top Threats

An underdog Pontiac Central High track squad of 14 young hopeful athletes tomorrow heads into the annual Michigan schoolboy Class A championships at Ralph Young Field, at Michigan State University.

Observers rate a half-dozen other squads as leading threats for the big one, but there was hope among the 14 PCH qualifiers making up the defending titlists" attack force, that there would be enough balance to once more emerge at the top.

Pontiac Central has strength in several directions, particularly in the shotput, the medley relay, high jump, and perhaps in the dashes and hurdles. However, there was indication that this would be the toughest competition the Chiefs have faced.

Rated highly were the two Flint squads, with Central probably the biggest threat. There was an Ann Arbor powerhouse, strong Farmington, Grosse Pte. and Monroe from the eastern part of the state. Kalamazoo Central was another possible threat.

The Pontiac area will be well represented, with Birmingham, Waterford, Pontiac Northern High, and the two Royal Oak schools among Class A entries. Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills, West Bloomfield, Clawson, Troy all have strong squads and could make this division a very warm fight. Defending champion is E. Grand Rapids.

Not since the days of Chiefs' fabulous Hayes Jones (current Olympic prospect at EMU), has the state seen a triple winner. There was the possibility. Saturday, that this situation might be changed with Farmington's sehsational Warren Cawley running the hurdles and trying the broad jump, all events in which Jones set records while at PCH.

Cawley has hit 13.9 to equal the national prep mark for the highs. He turned 18.6 this year for the lows, and jumped better than 22 feet. He could win all three, Saturday, giving his team a hefty boost.

The record assault will include probably the hottest mile battle of years between defending titlist Rem Purdy of the Pointe and Jerry Bashaw of Lincoln Park who have been pretty close this spring to the state mark of 4:21.8 set last year by Purdy. Bill Milum of Flint Central is not far behind.

Maples' Bill Alcorn is regarded as a sure bet to boost the pole vault mark beyond the 13-foot mark for the first time. He is the current champion.

Pontiac Northern — Ed Montgomery (880).

Waterford—Mike Kalmes (mile), Mike Ewer (880).

County Prep Linkers Expected to Make Bid for Titles

The area delegation will be joined by 33 other schoolboy teams for the 18-hole medal play tourney with the winner in each class decided by the combined stroke total of four players.

Competition is scheduled in three divisions—Class A, Class B and Class C-D. The "A" and "C-D" golfers will do their firing at Black River Country Club while the "B" squads play at Port Huron Golf Club. Starting time on both layouts is 8:30 a.m.

Joining Birmingham from this sector are Pontiac Central, Farmington and Southfield in the "A" ranks; West Bloomfield, Brighton and Shrine in Class B, and St. Frederick and Royal Oak St. Mary in the "C-D" division.

Farmington was a surprise winner in last week's regional action at Farmington CC, beating Birmingham by three strokes for the Class A crown. The Keego team won the "B" title on the same course and was three shots better than Farmington.

The Chiefs placed 3rd in their regional at Flint and took 2nd Monday in the Saginaw Valley meet at Owosso. St. Fred finished 2nd in the Flint regional.

All of the Oakland area teams going to Port Huron except Farmington, Southfield, Brighton and St. Mary will cross paths again Monday when they play in The Pontiac Press Prep Invitational at Pontiac Country Club.

Ann Arbor, Dearborn and Valley champion Flint Central are the favorites in Class A tomorrow while Jackson St. John gets the nod in the "B" ranks. Another Jackson parochial school, St. Mary, will be shooting for its 6th consecutive state championship in Class C-D.

Sno-Bol was outhit 4-3 by Drayton Drug but triumphed 3-0. The Bersche brothers, Jim and Joe, got the three winners' bingles. Joe scored the only run needed in the 1st.

8th Annual Golf Invitational at PCC on Monday

10 Class A Challengers With 7 in B-C Teams Complete Field

Entries have been locked up and the field is complete for Monday's 8th annual running of The Pontiac Press Prep Invitational golf tournament at Pontiac Country Club.

Seventeen Oakland County area high school teams, the largest entry list since 1952 when the same number registered for the 1st Press event, are in the fold and ready to start gunning for the title and the giant perpetual trophy that goes with it.

Entries closed Wednesday at midnight and until late yesterday morning it appeared that there would be 18 schools in the competition, which would have set a new record.

But a Thursday telephone call from Southfield reduced the figure to 17. The Jays were forced to withdraw their entry after failing to gain administrative clearance.

Class A — Birmingham, Pontiac Central, Waterford, Pontiac Northern, Rochester, Walled Lake, Royal Oak Dondero, Oak Park, Royal Oak Kimball and Lapeer.

It goes without saying that Birmingham will be everybody's target when the tourney begins its 18-hole run at 8:24 in the morning.

The Maples have won five of the seven previous tournaments with only Waterford and Pontiac Central able to make a dent in their domination. PCH won the inaugural event and the Skippers broke through in 1956.

There are indications, however, that Birmingham's path to another Press crown will be infested with thorns. Half a dozen other squads look thoroughly capable of giving the Maples a close race for the championship.

Pontiac Central, which snapped Birmingham's 36-dual-meet victory string Wednesday on a hole-in-one by Mike Samardzija, is a worthy challenger. So is West Bloomfield with pint-sized Jon Shaw leading the way.

Other strong title contenders are St. Fred, which has shown excellent team balance; Bloomfield Hills, still to be respected even though Bud Badger is gone, and Waterford, weak at times this season but not helpless.

Each school will send five players into the battle and tee-offs will begin from both nines simultaneously. Pairings and starting times are announced today.

There are also awards for medalists in both classes and medals for members of the championship team.

Gate Opens for 3rd Major League

COLUMBUS (AP) — Baseball's major leagues have opened the gate for the formation of a third loop with major league status.

Operating heads of the 16 National and American League clubs agreed here unanimously yesterday "to favorably consider" applications for major league status by "an acceptable group of eight clubs which could qualify."

Baseball commissioner Ford Frick says his personal belief is that such a league is "inevitable" and that it certainly will come within five years.

An even more optimistic report came from William Shea of New York's major's committee on baseball. He said:

"We ought to be ready in four or five weeks to do something. The third major league should be in the formative stage by that time."

Frick's said "there is no existing plan to expand the present major leagues." By that he meant expansion of the National and American loops to 10 or 12 club organizations.

"The approach is to a third league," he said.

To that, Frick said, "The players will develop if you have the jobs for them."

Another question was — how about the cost and the effect on the minors?

One of the qualifications set up in the meeting yesterday was that the new league would be responsible for all territorial provisions and financial obligations necessary to set it up.

There was no immediate comment from George Trautman, head of the minor leagues, on what would happen if a third major league is organized.

Among the cities which have been suggested as possible members of a new major league are New York, Buffalo, New Orleans, Dallas-Ft. Worth, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Montreal, Seattle, Mexico City and Toronto.

The club owners set up 10 qualifications members of a new league would have to meet in order to "go major."

Series Against Indians to Test Tiger Fortunes

CLEVELAND (AP) — It's well for the Detroit Tigers that their fortunes seem to have turned, for now a really rough deal is on the way.

The situation also is likely to serve as a test of Dykes' ability to handle pitching assignments.

Detroit, fighting to avoid a return to the American League cellar, is playing 11 games in nine days — five of which are at night — and from now until June 22 the Tigers will be playing every day.

The team will be playing 34 games without a day off unless the weather interferes with the schedule. A postponed game with the Chicago White Sox has been rescheduled for May 28, previously open.

Detroit will be trying to snap the Indians' five-game winning streak over the Tigers tonight. The Tigers have yet to top Cleveland this season.

Paul Foytack (1-5), who has failed to finish a game in eight tries, will start for the Tigers. If he fails this time, Foytack may be sent to the bull pen. Manager Dykes has indicated that's to be the fate of the right-hander once counted on as a regular front liner.

Cleveland is expected to use pitcher Gary Bell (3-2), sophomore righthander who spent his first year in the Big Leagues in 1958 after being impressive in the Pacific Coast League.

Doctoring Your Golf

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: Trouble getting the grip right.

DIAGNOSIS: Pressure in the wrong places.

TREATMENT: As any golf professional will tell you, getting your grip set right is Step A toward acquiring a good swing. If the grip is wrong, you are pretty much doomed to failure from the start.

One thing you should understand about the grip is that the main pressure in the right hand should be applied with the middle two fingers. Gripping too hard with the index finger will set up tension in one of the major muscles in the forearm, which will cause a tense and jerky swing.

In the left hand, the main pressure should be applied with the last three fingers — again avoiding too hard of a grip with the index finger. The main idea here is to have the club firmly in control with the left hand throughout the swing.

Many golfers tend to loosen the grip with the left hand at the top of the swing. Doing this will have you spraying your shots all over the course. Avoid this grip fault at all costs.

Ann Arbor Hosts Big 10 Meets

Rochester Tri-County Track Champs

Romeo had the standout individual on the field but Rochester used balance to take the Tri-County League track championship at Romeo yesterday.

Orchard Lake St. Mary clinched the Suburban Catholic crown by beating St. Fred 3-1 and Clarkston's Dick Caverly hurled a no-hitter at Holly highlighting a busy baseball slate.

Bill Benson won the high jump and placed 4th in the broad jump to pace Rochester with 7 points. The Falcons also took the shot put and 440 and tied in the pole vault in compiling 58½ points.

Romeo also had four winners but was far back otherwise in totaling 49. Lapeer had 39, new loop entry Roseville 23 and L'Anse Creuse 14½.

Bulldog Charley Peterson scored 14¼ points for Romeo by winning 100 and low hurdles, gaining a 3rd in the broad jump and taking part in the 880 relay.

The latter event was a record for two meets held thus far. Others were set in the shot, 880, broad jump and mile.

Ted Baraczewski won the OLSM baseball clincher with relief help. Ken Kowalski stole home for one Eaglet run and homered for another. Ten walks greatly aided the victors.

Caverly lost a shutout in the 7th in downing Holly 9-2. Clarkston broke up a scoreless duel in the 5th with 7 runs featuring a grand slam by John Parks.

Milford wrapped up the Wayne-Oakland Championship, West Bloomfield outscored Bloomfield Hills 11-9, Avondale downed Oakland B champion Madison 11-8, and Hamtramck walloped Cranbrook 11-0 in other baseball.

Milford nipped Brighton 10-9 after blowing an 8-0 lead. Down 9-8, Terry Hoy tied it for the Redskins with a homer and Larry Chaple cleared the fence in the 8th. Jim Paddock and Earl Clark had Brighton home runs. Terry Anderson won in relief.

West Bloomfield had only two earned runs but led all the way as the Barons made eight errors. A homer by Otto Jancik brought Avon from behind as Darryl Thorpe earned another triumph. Cranbrook was held to four safeties.

OL St. Mary and Clarkston also won in other sports. The Eaglet tracksmen edged Bloomfield Hills 56 2/5 to 55 3/5 while Clarenceville had 24. Frank Prelewicz turned the tide by winning the pole vault. Clarkston whipped St. Fred 170-176 in golf sparked by Jim Gunter's 38. Mike Reed fired a 40 for the Rams.

In a track triangular for sophomores and juniors not in the state finals, Pontiac Central scored 79 points, Birmingham 31 and Waterford 29. The Chiefs missed only one 1st with three double victors.

TRICOUNTY WINNERS

Indiana Golfers Are Figured as Purdue Threats

Track Marks May Fall in Distance Events of Conference Meet

ANN ARBOR (UPI)—Indiana, which never has won a Big Ten golf tournament, has its best chance yet to dethrone arch-rival Purdue when medal play started today on the University of Michigan course.

The Hoosiers had a dual meet record of 14-1-1. Altogether, Purdue and Indiana met four times during the season in all types of meets with Purdue handing Indiana defeats by seven and eight point margins while the Hoosiers clipped Purdue on the Boilermaker course for a two-point victory plus the tie.

Indiana doesn't have any par busters like Purdue's defending champion John Konsek but only 3.1 strokes separate the Hoosiers' top and bottom men led by Jon Sommer's 75.6 up to Dave Pelz' 78.7.

Purdue has won the conference crown five of the last nine years and with a near all-veteran team returning, was expected to win again.

The dark horses are Michigan, and Michigan State.

Two Big Ten track records appeared in danger today with half-miler George Kerr of Illinois and miler Bob Lake of Michigan State rated top challengers in the 59th annual conference meet.

Kerr, a Jamaica star on the Illini team, already has been clocked at 1:49.4 for the 880, best time ever by a Big Ten athlete, and he could be pressed all the way or even beaten, by Michigan's Tony Seth, another Caribbean runner who has a best time of 1:50.7 this year.

Lake has a time of 4:04.9, far better than the record of 4:09.0 by Don McEwen of Michigan eight years ago, and was rated capable of whipping the record if he gets any competition.

Foreign stars were expected to stand out. Michigan's Tom Robinson, from Nassau, Bahamas, was favored in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes; Les Bird of Michigan, from Antigua, was the choice in the broad jump and Finland's Eeles Landstrom, also competing for the Wolverines, was classed as most likely to win the pole vault.

Michigan, which won the indoor track championship in March, was a heavy favorite to add the outdoor title for the 23rd time on the basis of its superior strength as well as individual stars plus injuries which could hamper defending champion Illinois.

Jeanne Stunyo, who finished second in diving to the now retired Pat McCormack in the 1956 Olympics swimming competition, is a senior at the University of Detroit.

Big Ten Votes on Bowl Today

5-5 Deadlock Is Expected to End Rose Pact

'Yes' Schools Hoping to Convert 'No' Vote for Passage

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — The Big Ten votes today whether it should continue playing annually in the Rose Bowl, but even the expected vote of rejection won't wind up the issue.

Five of the 10 members—Northwestern, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Ohio State—are committed to oppose another contract providing for the bowl competition and a five-five deadlock in the balloting, regarded as a certainty, would kill the agreement after the 14th game next Jan. 1.

But there is solid support for continuation of the bowl agreement among its five proponents and even among individuals who represent schools opposed to the pact, and today they will try every strategy in an attempt to keep the post-season participation alive.

One effort will be to try to table the motion to stall a final vote until the December meeting thus giving supporters another six-month period to attempt to convert one of the opponents. The motion to table was expected to fail quickly.

★ ★ ★

Another strategy will be to call for a secret ballot in the forlorn hope that one of the "no" schools will abstain from voting or on the initiative of the representative, will vote "yes."

However, this is extremely unlikely since such a switch would contradict explicit instructions to each faculty member casting a vote.

Should the final vote of rejection be taken today, there will be nothing to prevent introduction of new legislation calling for Rose Bowl participation at the next conference meeting. Thus, the same issue probably will come up again prior to the first game for which the Big Ten isn't committed—Jan. 1, 1961.

Supporters of the bowl contend that the Big Ten must remain as a participant, otherwise, independent schools competing for the bowl berth and its lucrative cash rewards would cause increased problems in recruiting and would put pressure on conference coaches to skirt regulations in an effort to obtain players to maintain prestige.

Because the conference splits its Rose Bowl share into 12 portions, no Big Ten member receives a significant amount because of the game. But the entire share to a single school would be a tremendous inducement to go all-out to make certain of frequent participation.

Meets for next year were assigned to Michigan for wrestling, March 4-5 and for swimming, March 3-5; to Iowa for fencing, March 5; and to Minnesota for gymnastics, March 4-5.

A policy prohibiting competition in these sports before Dec. 1 also was adopted and network television of basketball on Saturday afternoons also was approved.

Angry Yanks Face Wilhelm Tonight

United Press International

There's no time like the present if the Yankees want to prove they're still alive and kickin'.

★ ★ ★

They'll have Bill Skowron, their best hitter so far this season, back in the lineup when they open a four-game series with the Baltimore Orioles Friday night. And they're sending World Series hero Bob Turley to the mound to try to pitch them out of last place.

But their work is cut out for them because manager Paul Richards is countering with flutterball pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm, who pitched a no-hitter against the Yankees last season and beat them, 3-2, on April 26. Wilhelm, whose dancing knuckleballs have been the despair of American league hitters, has a perfect 5-0 record this year.

The Yankees aren't accustomed to playing crucial series against the Orioles but, then, things are different in a lot of ways for the perennial world champions this year. The Orioles, only 2½ games out of first place with a 20-15 record, are even hinting they could wind up in the World Series.

The Yankees were idle along with most other teams Thursday but the Pittsburgh Pirates, Philadelphia Phillies and Boston Red Sox all used the day "to get well."

The Pirates, smarting under criticism by manager Danny Murtaugh, beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-2, the Phillies snapped an eight-game losing streak with a 3-0 decision over the Chicago Cubs and the Red Sox scored their second win in nine games when they downed the Athletics, 5-0.

Harvey Haddix struck out seven and yielded 10 hits as he raised his record against his ex-Cardinal teamates to 9-4 and his season-mark to 3-2. The Pirates routed Lindy McDaniel with three runs in the first inning and went on to pile up 12 hits, including three each by Bill Virdon and Don Hoak. Gino Cimoli, Gene Green and Chick King had two hits each for St. Louis.

Ruben Gomez tossed a four-hitter to win his first game of the season for the last-place Phillies who broke a scoreless tie in the eighth inning with two runs against Bob Anderson. Willie Jones' single George Anderson's double, a sacrifice fly, an infield hit and another sacrifice fly produced the runs. Gomez, who walked one and struck out three, retired the last 13 Cubs in order.

USLTA Names Cup Squad

SEATTLE (AP) — The U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn., casting a possessive eye on the huge silver bowl that denotes world tennis supremacy, yesterday nominated Peruvian Alex Olmedo and 10 others to a preliminary, 11-man Davis Cup team for 1959.

Olmedo, who is a student at the University of Southern California tipped the tennis world up on its ear last year when he almost single-handedly wrested the Davis Cup from Australia.

★ ★ ★

The USLTA, through the recommendations of its Davis Cup Selection Committee, also selected seven young, up-and-coming tennis players to a sort of junior Davis Cup team.

Jones described the move as an attempt to develop the country's outstanding, young tennis talent.

★ ★ ★

Named along with Olmedo to the preliminary Davis Cup team were Earl Buchholz Jr., St. Louis; Chris L. Crawford, Piedmont, Calif.; Barry MacKay, Dayton, Ohio; Bernard Bartzen, Dallas; Don Dell, Bethesda, Md.; Jon Douglas, Palo Alto, Calif.; Myron J. Frank, Los Angeles; Grant Golden, Evanston, Ill.; Ronald Holmberg, Brooklyn; and Clifton Mayne, Berkeley.

The four-man Davis Cup squad will be selected July 1 and will start playing as a unit in the National Clay Courts Championships in Chicago, starting July 13.

The U.S. squad will defend the Davis Cup in the Challenge Round at Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 28-29-30.

Final '500' Qualifying Runs Plagued by Woes

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Owners of 44 cars plagued by shortages of drivers, practice time and M.P.H. were trying to get ready today for the final weekend of qualifying runs for the 500-mile race May 30.

More scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast for today and tomorrow, and if very many of them scatter over the Indianapolis Motor Speedway the problem is going to get critical for several racing teams.

There was room for 19 more cars in the 33-car starting line-up, to be filled in 10-mile qualifications tomorrow and Sunday. After 33 have made the tentative lineup it still will be possible for a car to qualify by running faster than a previous qualifier.

But many of those still unqualified have lost so much practice time because of rain this week that they haven't been able to work out the bugs and get the necessary miles an hour — although the estimate of the minimum speed needed to qualify goes down with each rainy day. The hardluck Novi specials are among the cars that haven't been able to reach racing speed, having trouble with their fuel injection systems, and there were rumors that 45-year-old Paul Russo of Webster Groves, Mo., would switch from his Novi to the Bardahl Special.

Pitchers Pace Softball Action

Thomas Bests Boe in Tight Duel; Plumb and Webster Stingy

Some outstanding pitching performances highlighted last night's city softball action.

Jerry Thomas bested Jerry Boe as Pontiac Merchants nipped Elks 810 by a 1-0 count in the best game of the night. Don Plumb fired a 2-hitter in an 8-1 Griff's Grill win over Pontiac State Hospital. Al Webster allowed just one hurling Sport Shop to an 8-0 whitewash of Rogers Electric.

The only free-scoring affair saw Langdon's Boat Livery wallop Pontiac Retailers, 16-7. Langdon's clinched the issue in the 1st three innings.

A double by Joe Borida with two out in the 6th won for the Merchants. It was only the 5th hit of the contest. Plumb lost his shutout in the 6th on a walk and single. A 3rd inning single marred Plumb's effort.

Johansson Unworried About Pain in Back

"I had this happen to me before, training for a fight, and I feel a few days rest will cure it," said the Swedish heavyweight who will meet champion Floyd Patterson in a title bout at Yankee Stadium June 25.

Johansson said he strained what he termed a seldom used back muscle in the training ring at Grossinger, N.Y., Tuesday. He visited a New York chiropractor Thursday and had a right sacroiliac joint put back in place. Later he trotted up and down a hotel corridor to show his trainer he was able to navigate without trouble.

THE 'MAVERICK SPECIAL' — This is the new two-wheel drive Willys station wagon now being offered by the Oliver Motor Sales, 210 Orchard Lake Ave. The new vehicle is designed for standard six-passenger family service and as a versatile carry-all with 100 cubic feet of cargo space with the rear seats folded forward. Oliver Motor Sales has just acquired the Oakland County franchise for Willys.

County Dealer Acquires Willys' Oakland Franchise

Oliver Motor Sales, 210 Orchard Lake Ave., a Buick and Opel dealership, has just acquired the Oakland County franchise for Willys.

The immediate introductory response to the rugged "jeep" station wagon, "Maverick," has been "terrific," according to Bob Oliver. "The idea of a small wagon has captured the imagination of people intrigued by the small car craze."

The "Maverick" employs two-wheel drive, accommodates six passengers and can carry a half-ton load within 100 cubic feet of cargo space with the rear seats folded forward.

Aside from its four-cylinder F-head engine, which provides a high level of fuel economy, the new model maintains the maximum degree of maneuverability characteristic of all "jeep" vehicles.

A selection of eight two-tone paint combinations with harmonizing interiors of breathable vinyl coated fabrics and Pompano carpeting are standard.

Ford to Pay Premium for Canadian Stock

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says it will make a premium price offer early next month for up to a maximum of 775,628 shares of Class A (nonvoting) stock of its Canadian subsidiary, Ford Motor Co. of Canada, Ltd.

★ ★ ★

Ernest R. Breech, Ford Motor Co. board chairman, yesterday termed the offer a move to give the parent company a more representative ownership in Ford of Canada.

★ ★ ★

Under the offer, Ford said it will pay $188 a share for the Class A stock. Breech said the price was approximately 30 per cent above the current price of the Class A Ford of Canada stock on the American stock exchange.

Breech said Ford also will offer to purchase, at the same price, all the 30,208 shares of Ford of Canada's Class B (voting) stock not now owned by Ford Motor Co.

Hoffa Denies Strike Threat

Says His Union Would Keep Any New Laws Imposed by Congress

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Although he said he favors system and industry bargaining, Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa says his union never would call a national walkout.

He denied making the threat of such a strike in a talk at Brownsville, Tex. and reiterated an earlier claim that he had been misquoted.

But, Hoffa added, he does not feel to have been "victimized" by the press because "I can handle myself."

★ ★ ★

Hoffa, here to talk with Minneapolis and St. Paul Teamsters, said his union would abide by any restrictions Congress imposes in new laws. "But," he added, "we reserve the right to have the advantages as well as the disadvantages of any new legislation."

★ ★ ★

Told that Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) had made a speech Thursday night in which he accused Hoffa of a "public-be-damned" attitude, he said Kennedy would "do well to examine his own remarks to see whether he is talking in the best interests of the working man."

Broke Safety Rule on Lake Jaunt

Rescued 13 Face New Hazard

DETROIT (AP) — Coast Guard action for violation of marine safety rules was indicated today following the rescue yesterday of 13 young people stranded overnight on Lake St. Clair.

The young people from Grosse Pointe, all unharmed, were brought to shore following a night-long search by Air Force, Coast Guard and Navy planes and ships. Private search craft also took part.

The group's 26-foot sailboat, the Hobo, had run aground in two feet of water off Strawberry Island late Wednesday. It was found early yesterday.

Coast Guard Warrant Officer Everett M. Marshall, commander at Detroit, noted there were no lifejackets aboard the boat. He said each of the 13 persons aboard could be fined $50 for the violation.

First to reach the Hobo was a chartered 23-foot boat of the Detroit Times with a reporter on board.

Where the Hobo went aground, the water was less than two feet deep, according to the Coast Guard. The Coast Guard also took a dim view of any tendency of the participants to regard the incident as a lark.

Chief Bosun Andrew Pietrykowski of the Coast Guard cutter Maple said federal law was violated by the absence of lifejackets.

The Times' boat found the Hobo and pulled her free. But afterwards the Maple, insisting on following marine rules, took custody as The Hobo was being towed to shore.

A line was thrown to the Hobo and on the 10th try the Times boat pulled her free of the sandbar and began the tow for home.

★ ★ ★

"In their excitement, the boys forgot to have anyone man the tiller," Simonson said, "and the Hobo was yawing all over the lake until we yelled for someone to steer."

★ ★ ★

The stranded group spent the time overnight singing school songs and listening to a portable radio's reports of the search for them.

All proceeds will be distributed to the disabled veterans and their families.

U.S. Truck Output Hitting New High

DETROIT (AP)—U. S. truck output will hit a 1959 high of 27,223 and automobile production will total 133,619 this week, Automotive News reported.

The truck output compares with 27,041 last week and 17,903 in the corresponding 1958 week.

Record-breaking operations by Rambler and continued heavy overtime scheduling by Ford Division, the trade publication said, will offset decline in General Motors and Chrysler production this week.

This week's car output will miss last week's 133,856 by only 235 units and compares with 86,589 units in the similar 1958 week.

Canadian car and truck production this week was chopped to 8,162 units by observance of the Victoria Day holiday Monday. Canadian plants built 9,506 cars and trucks last week and 8,319 in the corresponding week a year ago.

Grain Futures Selling Heavy

CHICAGO (AP) — General and fairly heavy selling hit grain futures again today in early activity on the Board of Trade and several contracts broke sharply while soybeans held steady to firm.

Wheat, oats and rye had setbacks running to a cent a bushel or more as brokers termed decidedly bearish, reports of additional overnight rainfall in much of the Great Plains region.

Corn declined mostly minor fractions and appeared to have met good support from the short side of the market.

By the end of the first hour prices had firmed up in some spots and weakened in others. Wheat was ¼ to ½ cent a bushel lower, July $1.84⅜; corn ⅛ to ⅝ lower, July $1.25⅞; oats ¼ to 1⅛ lower, July .64; rye unchanged to 1¼ lower, July $1.22; soybeans ⅛ higher to ⅜ lower, July $2.28¾.

Chrysler Enters Small Car Race

It's Official Now, Says Colbert, Following Lead of Henry Ford II

NEW YORK (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has officially entered the race for domestic production of a compact car.

L. L. Colbert, Chrysler president, said yesterday the small auto will be introduced this year.

"Unless our plans are changed by something unforeseen," he said, "as a part of our 1960 line of cars, Chrysler Corp. will introduce an entirely new economy automobile completely independent of its Plymouth, Dodge, DeSoto, Chrysler and Imperial lines."

Colbert said the new car will be named Valiant. He gave no other details in confirming Chrysler's long-rumored plans for a small car.

Colbert's statement was issued after Henry Ford II, president of Ford Motor Co., told the company's annual stockholders meeting in Detroit that the new Ford economy car will be called Falcon.

★ ★ ★

Despite official silence, industry sources say General Motors also will have a new smaller car, probably to be called the Corvair.

Rumors have placed the GM introduction date as Oct. 9 and Ford's as Oct. 16.

Colbert did not mention an introduction date for the small Chrysler car but it is generally understood that the Valiant will not be on sale until about December.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY dear husband Henry Partin who passed away 2 years ago May 22, 1957.
There is an open gate at the end of the road through which each must go alone
And there is a light we cannot see, our Father claims His own
Beyond the gate my loved one finds happiness and rest
And there is comfort in the thought that a loving God knows best.
Sadly missed by his wife Nila Partin

SINKING SENSATION — Slowly being swallowed up in a man-made flood, the last house in the Bavarian village of Fall, West Germany, stands in the middle of a lake that has changed the entire landscape. The villagers were moved to a new location, about a half-mile away, when their town was inundated by the new Sylvenstein reservoir, Europe's largest for the collection of melted Alpine snow. At right, a new bridge spans a narrow part of the lake.

Living Cost Returns to Record High

WASHINGTON (AP)— Living costs rose in April, climbing back to the record high reached in July and November of last year.

★ ★ ★

The government index went up two-tenths of one per cent from March to 123.9 per cent of the 1947-49 base. This matched the peak recorded in two months last year.

★ ★ ★

Announcing the figure today, the Labor Department said that rising state and local taxes helped shove up the living-cost level. Costs of transportation, medical care, recreation and personal care items all were up also.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The new living cost rise was accompanied by a Labor Department report showing the purchasing power of factory worker earnings also rose to a record level in April. The previous record was in December 1956.

Factory worker take-home pay averaged $80.68 per week for the worker with three dependents and $73.14 for the single worker. This reflected both increased wages and premium overtime rates for extra work hours.

Spendable earnings of factory workers are now up about 10 per cent over the level last year.

★ ★ ★

Most of 1½ million workers whose pay rates are geared for a quarterly living cost adjustment based on the government index will receive no change in pay because the change for the three-month period was too small. This includes nearly a million workers in the auto and auto parts industry.

★ ★ ★

But about 160,000 workers will get a raise based on the new living cost figures. This includes one cent for 120,000 workers in Westinghouse Electric Co.; and one cent for employes of the Caterpillar Tractor Co. Chicago Transit employes will get a half a cent an hour pay increase.

The one-cent raise for the Westinghouse workers restores a one-cent cut they took in their last quarterly adjustment.

Sharp reductions in egg prices and poultry and seasonally lower prices for milk brought about the food price decline. Costs of fresh fruits and vegetables were up. Eggs in April sold at their lowest rate since April, 1946 due to abundant supplies.

Rainmakers to Try Experiment on Soil

EAST LANSING (AP) — Artificial rainmakers will set up shop in Michigan in July.

Headquarters will be a cornfield on the Warren Huff farm northeast of Ann Arbor.

A crew from the Agricultural Research Station at Purdue University will bring rainfall simulator equipment to cooperate with a research project being carried on by the Soil Science Department at Michigan State University.

The Purdue equipment will supply simulated rains of up to five inches an hour on test plots to allow scientific comparison of water runoff and soil erosion.

ADA Opposes Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spokesmen for Americans for Democratic Action oppose extension of the government's security program to civilian employes in nonsensitive jobs, Edward Hollander, national director of ADA, told the House Civil Service Committee Thursday the security program should be confined to sensitive positions.

Why Did Playhouse 90 Have to Try a Western?

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UPI)— If there was one thing I didn't need from Playhouse 90 this season, it was 90 minutes of cows and horses and human passion in the sagebrush.

★ ★ ★

However, last night the CBS-TV showshop went thataway like everybody else this semester and whipped out a western, "Out of Dust."

I found it sluggish, strained, obvious and except for a couple of its performances, lusterless.

★ ★ ★

Uta Hage, a very solid mummer, held its creaky parts together with a hard and chunky piece of playing. She received some able support from Dick York.

★ ★ ★

Fritz Weaver, one of the larger young talents in our theater, was thrown away in a role that was so demoniac it bordered on the ludicrous.

ABC-TV's Pat Boone took a different tack last night and built his half hour around taped segments recorded at the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Some of the early musical portions of the show—set in the yacht basin with the Annapolis Glee Club joining Boone in sea chanties — were diverting: handsomely staged and semi-rousingly sung.

It was all quite obviously pre-recorded and lip-synched, but then, this seems to be the standard practice nowadays in TV.

The rest of the show was standard inspirational type muck, but it struck me as relatively painless, perhaps because the heat has finally gotten to me and I'm too beat to complain.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: NBC-TV's Dave King pulled a 15.1 Trendex in his debut Wednesday night while CBS-TV's The Millionaire racked up an 18.6 and ABC-TV's Donna Reed a 12.0 . . . CBS-TV's Desilu Playhouse will offer two new plays this summer among its reruns — "Perilous," with Max Schell and Joan Fontaine on June 22 and "The Killer Instinct" with Rory Calhoun and Janice Rule on July 13.

"To Have and Have Not" is among the properties being considered by an automaker (Buick) for the four Ernest Hemingway dramas it'll present on CBS-TV next season . . . Bob Hope will do six one-hour shows for NBC-TV next season — among them, an overseas Christmas show if he feels well enough.

Sophia, Spouse to Test Italy's Divorce Laws

By EARL WILSON

PARIS — They met face to face in a Paris elevator: former King Umberto of Italy and Sophia Loren's husband Carlo Ponti.

"Ah, we're both exiles!" exclaimed the ex-monarch, to the film producer.

He referred to the fact that he can't go back, nor can Ponti (because of the anti-divorce laws). However, Ponti and Sophia will test the law within the next few weeks when Sophia undertakes to film "Bay of Naples" with Clark Gable right in Naples.

Ponti attorneys have prophesied that because Sophia's international stature as an actress neither she nor Ponti will be arrested.

They're still hoping in Rome that Frank Sinatra can be persuaded to play a priest in "The Fair Bride" — in which Ava Gardner is also to be starred. One producer understands that Frank will agree if Ava will personally phone him and ask him to do the picture. But so far nobody's had the courage to ask Ava to ask Frank!

An enormous convention of gypsies is held held near Marseilles. The gypsies, once famous as horse-traders, now trade Cadillacs and Rolls-Royces.

Lady Beatty, Frank Sinatra's great friend is again being romanced by handsome Jerry Herzfeld, the Miami and New York racetrack millionaire . . . Alec Guinness flew to London from Havana to discuss playing Christ in "Son of Man," which Samuel Bronston (producer of "John Paul Jones") will film in Spain. 'I handed him a blank check and told him to write in his own salary," Bronston said.

★ ★ ★

From London, where "Soloman and Sheba" is being edited, I hear that the Yul Brynner-Gina Lollobrigida movie is in the greatest DeMille tradition. Director King Vidor's reportedly combined the best in mass audience entertainment with master showmanship. It looks like the boys at U.A. will have the biggest show in town at Christmastime.

EARL'S PEARLS: If you think children don't know the value of money nowadays, try giving one of 'em a penny.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Being a husband is just like any other job—it's easier if you like your boss.

Say Activities Divide Families

Presbyterians Report Youth-Serving Agencies Crowd Out Home Life

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Many parents belonging to the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. feel that the demands of church and community tend to separate family members too much.

This was brought out in a preliminary report on a survey conducted by the Board of Christian Education of the church, issued Thursday at the 171st General Assembly of United Presbyterians.

To accomplish this, 845 parents of children under 18, in 63 congregations in cities of various sizes and rural areas, were interviewed. Questionnaires were filled out by another 1,000 parents and a like number of ministers, and the analysis of the data included consultations with theologians, psychologists and sociologists.

The report stressed that further research remains to be done, but some of its preliminary conclusions included:

★ ★ ★

Families in rural, urban and suburban areas alike complained that community and church activities scatter family members too much. Mentioned were baseball leagues for youngsters, church choirs, school clubs, PTAs, scouts, 4-H clubs and other "youth-serving agencies . . . which contribute to the rush and confusion that aroused our parents."

★ ★ ★

"Their resentment grows because in the face of these many demands on family time and energy," the report stated, "they find that tensions mount, communication deteriorates, and family freedom is crowded aside in a seemingly relentless schedule."

It added that "awkward scheduling . . . makes Sunday for some families the busiest and tensest day of all the week," and concluded that "the church itself needs to re-examine what it expects of families."

Coming Week Offers Variety

TV Shows Originating in New York Attract Springtime Visitors

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—What sounds interesting to me on network television in the coming week may not in every instance interest you.

So let's remember the shows originating in New York which seemingly thousands of springtime visitors to the city want to see.

It appears that just about every teenager in the country wants to see the Dick Clark Show on ABC Saturday evenings. Tomorrow guest Frankie Avalon will sing "Venus."

Equally popular with visitors of all ages is the Perry Como Show at NBC on Saturday night. Appearing with Como are Gisele MacKenzie, Dorothy Fields, Carol Hughes and ventriloquist Bob Williams.

On Sunday over ABC David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, and R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of U.S. Steel, will appear together on television for the first time to discuss their positions in the steel industry wage-contract negotiations.

Du Pont Show of the Month presents "Billy Budd" over CBS Monday night as its closing show of the season. Don Murray and Jason Robards Jr. star in this dramatization of Herman Melville's story about a young sailor on an 18th century British warship who kills a seaman who is persecuting him and then stands trial for his life.

Wednesday night on NBC is a new variety show awkwardly titled "The Kraft Music Hall Presents Dave King." King, the British comedian, is filling this spot for the summer.

Married or Not? Big Question for 105 Couples

BELVIDERE, Ill. (AP)—Are we married or not?

That's the question many of 105 couples could be asking themselves today after it was disclosed that the man who performed their marriage ceremony was not, as they believed, a justice of the peace.

The former JP is William Freek, elected to the job here April 2, 1957. Twenty-nine days later Freek also accepted the post of township corporation counsel.

The attorney general handed down a ruling two weeks ago saying the jobs were incompatible and that Freek ceased being a magistrate when he took the counsel post.

In Chicago, Ben Schwartz, first assistant attorney general, said he believed a court test on the marriages' validity would bring a ruling they were legal.

"That's a common sense opinion," he said.

Labor Figures Show Importance of Top Education for Young People

By JAMES P. MITCHELL
Secretary of Labor
Written for the Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—Within a few weeks about 1¾ million boys and girls will be graduating from high schools throughout the United States.

Some will immediately become members of the American labor force; others will be preparing themselves for additional training in colleges, through apprenticeship training and other educational programs. But, whatever their course of action, each of these boys and girls will in a very real sense be highlighting once again one of the critical problems of our time: the relationship between education on the one hand and employment and unemployment on the other.

We have been learning a great deal about the relationship between education and employment during the recent recession, from which, I am glad to say, we are making a very vigorous recovery. These past months have shown us again how important a good education and a skill are when the chips are down.

Look at the figures for this very last month. They show an unemployment rate among unskilled workers 2½ times as high as the skilled worker. They show an unemployment rate among unskilled workers as much as eight times as high as among professional and managerial workers. These few figures tell better than a thousand words the story of the great importance of getting the best education and training possible in preparing for the world of work.

To those young people who are now receiving their high school diplomas, this story is particularly important. Because, while these graduates were completing their current senior term, about 800,000 of their colleagues were dropping out of school, to their very great disadvantage.

In a recent series of studies which we have just completed in the Department of Labor, the contrast in the employment and unemployment experience among high school graduates as against dropouts was dramatically illustrated. In a study of almost 25,000 young boys and girls, we found that the high school graduate got better jobs at higher pay. The dropouts experienced unemployment rates that were anywhere from 3 to 10 times as high as those of the high school graduates.

Thus, our urging young people to stay in school and get the maximum amount of education and training fits the economic facts of life.

The lesson that we have learned and learned again is important not only to the young people themselves but to the teachers and the counselors who work with young people.

I am concerned with the fact that as I travel throughout the country and attempt to point up the importance of a good education and a marketable skill, I am often met with the query, "Why do you keep urging us to advise young people to get the maximum amount of education and training when we find that we can't place some of our best people?"

It is true that there are some occupations and some skills and some areas where the going has been rough. But, let me give you an example of why I think education and training are so important:

Let us imagine that instead of the year 1959 we were considering this problem a quarter of a century ago — in 1934. Or make it 1935 or 1936. The exact year really does not matter.

And, let us say that we as teachers and counselors were visited by a young man with the interest, the talent, the aptitude, the motivation to be an engineer.

Now we know that at the time many excellent engineers were without any job at all — some of the lucky ones were driving taxicabs or working at filling stations.

How should we have counseled this young man? Should we have advised him in relation to the time and current economic situation? Or, should we have kept our eye on the long-range ball and counseled him in terms of engineering as a field which was bound to have an excellent prognosis for the future in view of the basic long-term occupational trends in the United States?

How much better our advice and information would have been, and how much better off that young man would be, if our assessment had been related to the basic long-range revolutionary trends in this country.

Today, instead of a deep depression, we are back on the pathway of a substantial and significant growth. All of our studies show that the major increases among the various occupations in our country will be concentrated among the professional, managerial, technical and skilled occupations — all of them requiring increasing education and training.
