Union Charges Steel Industry Violating Laws

Says Profit Sharing Plans Evade Antitrust, Labor Relations Items

NEW YORK (AP) — The Steelworkers Union today charged the steel industry with violating the antitrust laws and labor relation laws and asked the government to investigate.

Arthur J. Goldberg, the union's general counsel, said violations are involved in industry disclosures of plans it may invoke to deal with a possible July 1 industry strike.

Goldberg outlined his charges in letters to Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers and to Jerome D. Fenton, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief negotiator for the steel industry in the crucial contract bargaining, disclosed yesterday the industry is considering a plan to share profits if some companies are idled by a July 1 strike, but others left operating.

"Such an agreement would plainly violate the antitrust laws," Goldberg wrote the attorney general.

Goldberg further said Cooper had disclosed a possibility that if the union should strike only one or two companies, other un-struck producers might close down anyway in an industrywide "lockout."

Goldberg said this would violate the National Labor Relations Act.

John F. Murray, Pittsburgh Steelworkers Union official, said today the union "is eventually going to win its demands even if we have to strike to do it."

Murray, director of the union's Dist. 16, and a cousin of the union's late President Philip Murray, said the public and industry are underestimating the unions solidarity and determination to gain a sizable wage boost, and other concessions.

Murray's comments were made to reporters as he headed a union bargaining team back into talks with Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp.

The J&L talks had broken up Wednesday on their opening day over a union demand that J&L put all its plants and subsidiaries under common contract terms.

Murray said there are too many varying J&L contracts now. The J&L industrial relations vice president, George Flacus, said the company seeks to continue separate contracts to fit local situations.

NEGOTIATIONS TENSE

As negotiations entered their third day, they grew more tense—primarily because of disclosure the industry is already mapping strategy to deal with a possible July 1 industry walkout.

Hunt Third Man Between Detroit and Tennessee

2 Michigan Detectives Hear Confession From Man in Chattanooga

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Police in Chattanooga, Tenn., today were holding two ex-convicts and looking for a third man en route there from Detroit for the robbery-slaying of Royal Oak car dealer Parvin (Bill) Lassiter a month ago.

Instrumental in bringing the month-long investigation to a head was the arrival last Sunday in Chattanooga of Michigan State Police Detectives Charles M. Leaf of the Pontiac Post and Calvin A. Lepien of the Redford Post.

Leaf and Lepien carried with them a drawing of the man who met Lassiter April 6 at the Willow Run Airport. Chattanooga detectives immediately identified the sketch as Charles W. Nash, 42, released from a Tennessee prison two years ago after serving 9 years for murder.

Leaf, in Chattanooga, told The Pontiac Press by telephone this morning that Nash confessed being a party to Lassiter's murder and implicated a friend and fellow ex-convict, Richard Jones, 27, as the murderer.

★ ★ ★

Jones, who Chattanooga police describe as a "notorious" safe cracker, was arrested last night while attempting a burglary in Chattanooga, Leaf said. He refused to talk about the Lassiter killing.

Leaf and Lepien went to Chattanooga "feeling some of Hicks' friends" might disclose more about him. Immediately, light was shed on the case with the identification of Nash from the sketch.

'PLOTTER' SOUGHT

A third man, Roy C. Hicks, 36, was being sought between Detroit and Chattanooga where he was headed to sell two cars from Lassiter's Detroit Car Co. lot, 2614 N. Woodward Ave.

Leaf said Nash, in his confession given at 1:05 a.m. today, named Hicks as the third man and plotter of the murder.

Hicks, who Leaf said was going to visit his common-law wife who was expecting a child in a Chattanooga hospital, besides selling two cars, was questioned at East Lansing State Police headquarters yesterday and released. Detectives were unable to give Hicks a lie detector test because his arm was in a cast.

Leaf at noon today said they were afraid Hicks heard he is being sought and has gone into hiding.

★ ★ ★

Both Nash and Jones are from Chattanooga. Hicks is originally from there.

Lassiter's body was discovered April 8 in a ditch outside the fashionable estate of a Detroit construction company owner off the Willow Run Expressway. He had been shot in the head once. Bruises on the head indicated he was knocked unconscious first.

A widespread search began immediately for a "dirty" man with boils on the back of his neck who paged Lassiter at the airport twice upon his arrival from Albuquerque, N. M., where he had gone from Phoenix to sell a 1959 Thunderbird.

Building Collapses Burying Up to 100

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — A big industrial building under construction collapsed today with a thunderous roar and was believed to have trapped from 20 to 100 persons in the wreckage. At least one man was killed.

Twisted steel girders and mounds of planking being used on the roof fell onto the floor of the structure, forming a tomb-like trap for the workmen.

HEAR MOANS

As scores of rescue workers converged on the scene, cries and moans were heard from the debris. Rescuers clawed at the rubble with their hands.

Huge cranes were being moved into position to assist.

A steel girder in the roof of the structure was said to have collapsed with little or no warning shortly before 11 a.m.

A few workmen scrambled for their lives as the steel framework and planking came tumbling down. Some managed to escape with minor injuries.

The building was under construction at the Westbury Industrial Park and was to have been occupied by an electronics firm. It was a one-story structure 200 by 150 feet.

As many as 100 workmen may have been inside and on the roof when it fell.

All emergency equipment available in Nassau County sped to the scene and firemen started chopping through the piles of shattered wood.

A reporter who reached the scene about the same time said that "just as a guess, there probably are at least 15 to 25 still under the wreckage. But that's just a guess."

More than 100 rescue workers were at the site and ambulances streamed away in all directions, carrying injured to hospitals.

"The steelwork just buckled on every side of the building," said the newsman reporting on the situation.

The Westbury Industrial Park is about 30 miles east of New York City on Long Island.

The bright sunshine of a warm spring day flooded the area.

BULLETIN

DETROIT (AP)—An ex-convict awaiting trial for the shotgun slaying of a Detroit gas station operator admitted today, police said, the 1954 slaying of a Birmingham filling station attendant.

★ ★ ★

He is Robert H. Lewis, 33, of Detroit. Police said he previously had admitted killing Frank Glaves, 58, last Jan. 22 in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Detectives Oliver Rowell, and John Rozek said Lewis casually admitted he shot Doyle Howe, 24, in the back of the head with a 12-gauge shotgun after a $60 holdup Sept. 12, 1954, in Birmingham (at Chapin and Woodward).

★ ★ ★

They quoted Lewis as saying Howe attempted to pull a handkerchief from his face.

Detectives became interested in his possible connection with the Birmingham killing, because of its similarity with that in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

They said Lewis told them he had been out of prison five weeks and "was out drinking and playing around" the night of the Birmingham slaying. His prison term had been for a gas station robbery.

1,000 Workers Miss Pay Here

Finance Firm Offers Free Help to State Employes in Area

Upwards of 1,000 state employes in the Pontiac area, including 860 at Pontiac State Hospital, were experiencing their first payless payday today, and a Pontiac finance company rushed to the aid of those without available financial help.

Morale was reported high throughout the ranks of the state workers, even in the absence of regular bi-weekly checks.

There were no reports that any employes had quit in this area and about 150 state employes did get their checks, since their pay funds have remained untouched by the state's financial crisis.

Michigan State University Oakland was not hit by the payless payday, nor were State Highway Department employes, the Michigan Employment Security Commission or the Secretary of State's branch office.

★ ★ ★

But employes of the county's vast system of parks and recreation areas were without pay, as well as State Police and other

No Paycheck for 27,000 in Michigan

LANSING (AP)—A payday without the pay came due today for nearly 27,000 Michigan state-employed workers.

Michigan's cash crisis was to blame.

Only a wholly unexpected solution from the Legislature and Gov. G. Mennen Williams before the close of the state's business day could assure that a five-million-dollar payroll would be met.

Among those faced with the payless payday was Williams himself. His $862.06 biweekly check from his $22,500 annual salary was held back.

The others included thousands of workers at prisons, mental hospitals, state teachers colleges, and state offices.

★ ★ ★

Last week a payless payday, the first in the crisis, affected 325 persons, including state judges and members of the Legislature. That was a $100,000 payroll.

7,700 GET PAID

Approximately 7,700 other state employes, including more than 4,000 Highway Department workers, got their paychecks on schedule. They are paid from earmarked funds of their own departments.

★ ★ ★

Included was one small employe group of the 50-million-dollar veterans trust fund, itself involved in the fight for a solution to Michigan's cash emergency.

The emergency arose from depletion of the state's general fund and a deadlock between Williams, a Democrat, and the Republican - controlled Legislature. Each group has blamed the other for the crisis.

With its general fund cut by reduced tax collections and heavy public welfare costs, the state faces a June 30 deficit of an estimated 110 million dollars.

★ ★ ★

Williams and the Democrats advocate liquidation of securities in the veterans trust fund to help out in the cash crisis.

Weather to Be on the Cool Side Next Few Days

Fred Astaire Dances Off With 9 Emmy Awards

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Fred Astaire and his first big show for television danced nimbly away Wednesday night with every Emmy within reach.

"An Evening With Fred Astaire" had been nominated for nine Emmys—and won them all.

But television's oldtimers took their share of the 42 awards—among them Jack Benny, Loretta Young Dinah Shore, Perry Como and Edward R. Murrow.

Julie Harris, originally from Detroit, the gentle heroine of "Little Moon of Alban," was selected for the best single performance by an actress.

Omnibus, the Hallmark Hall of Fame, Playhouse 90 and the Alcoa-Goodyear theater were winners among the big programs. Among TV's gunslinger adventures the choice was Maverick.

But the night's star was the 60-year-old Astaire, who climbed to the stage so many times to accept the TV Academy's Emmys that for the last award—for the outstanding program of the year—there was no one on stage to make the presentation.

Actor Robert Young hurried down the aisle of the Moulin Rouge night club to give the Golden Statuette to Astaire.

"It's a big night for dear old dad," Astaire breathlessly told a nationwide television audience which saw the 90-minute show over NBC-TV.

That just about summed up the 11th Annual TV Emmy Awards show.

Astaire or his show won for most outstanding single program; best special musical or variety show, one hour long; best single performance by an actor; best direction of a single musical or variety program; best writing of a single musical or variety program; best live camera work; best art director; best musical contribution and best choreography.

Astaire, a star on Broadway when he first came to Hollywood in 1933 for movies, thus accomplished in his first dancing TV show what he had failed to achieve in a quarter century of movie-making.

PICKETS APPEAR

Part of the show originated from the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, and pickets also appeared there, as well as the Moulin Rouge here.

NBC executives handled technical duties during the telecast. The company charges that the 10-day-old walkout is a violation of its contract with the union and has notified the union it is rescinding the contract.

Arrest 2 in Car Dealer's Murder

tions provided police by two airline clerks who saw the man, was widely circulated in the hope someone might have seen him.

PICKED FROM LINEUP

The two clerks, Eugene Reichemberger and Howard Lichty, were flown to Chattanooga yesterday from Detroit in a State Police plane. Leaf said both identified Nash as the "dirty" man in a police lineup.

At the same time, Leaf said any connection between Lassiter's murder and his purchase of Herman Kierdorf's black Cadillac last August had now been disproved.

"It was a murder for money," Leaf said.

Lassiter, 38, of 19690 Beverly Rd., Beverly Hills, purchased Kierdorf's union-owned car last August shortly after Kierdorf visited his nephew, Frank, of Flint, at a Pontiac hospital where he lay critically burned.

This is the story Nash told in his statement to Leaf, Lepien and Chattanooga detectives:

Jones and Nash arrived in Detroit the day before the murder after Jones had successfully sold two used cars from Lassiter's lot in Chattanooga for $1,925.

Hicks had been left in charge of the lot while Lassiter, his wife and Lassiter's business partner, Gordon Watson of Detroit, flew to Phoenix for a business and pleasure trip.

It was Hicks, Leaf said, who arranged to get the two cars for Jones, known as a "car jockey" who operated between Detroit and Chattanooga, on credit so he could peddle them in Tennessee.

Before his return trip to Detroit, supposedly to split the profits from the sale with Hicks, Jones picked up Nash and both headed for Detroit. Leaf said Nash and Jones had become friends after serving time together in the Brush Mountain Penitentiary in Petroes, near Nashville, Tenn.

Nash just finished his parole after serving nine years of a 30-year sentence for a 1948 murder. Besides, Leaf said, he is out on a $3,500 bond awaiting trial for a knifing-shooting which happened in Chattanooga in February.

It was from this knifing that Nash received cuts on the back of his neck which later became infected, Leaf said, resulting in the boils the two clerks noticed.

★ ★ ★

After their arrival in Detroit, Nash and Jones linked up with Hicks, who Leaf said has no criminal record although Chattanooga police said the trio was "very closely associated."

The murder of Lassiter was probably plotted after Hicks received a call from Lassiter around Monday noon from Albuquerque in which it is believed that Lassiter told Hicks he had successfully disposed of the Thunderbird.

Leaf said the three men probably thought Lassiter would have upwards of $5,000 on him upon his arrival in Detroit.

Purpose of the call to Hicks was to inform him that he would be arriving in Detroit at 10:08 on a Trans-World Airlines flight.

"It was probably sometime after Hicks got this call that the three of them plotted the robbery," Leaf said.

He said that Nash told how the three of them took a 1955 Buick from the Lassiter lot and drove out to the airport.

Jones and Hicks waited in the car outside the airport, Leaf said Nash related in his confession, while Nash went to the TWA counter and asked Reichemberger to page "a Mr. Schroeder from Albuquerque."

Leaf theorized that between the time Nash left the car and approached the TWA counter he had forgotten Lassiter's name and confused it with Schroeder.

Waiting several minutes for someone to answer this page, Nash headed back to the car telling Jones and Hicks no one answered the page.

When Hicks learned that he had paged the wrong person, Hicks scribbled Lassiter's name on a piece of paper and told Nash to return to the counter and page Lassiter a second time.

Instead of Lassiter this turned out to be erroneous a second time. The word Lassiter was mistaken for "Sassitas," Leaf said, because Hicks had his right arm in a cast and found it difficult to write plainly.

Hicks received his broken arm in a car accident in March in Chattanooga. Nash was with him, Leaf said.

Lassiter, believing he had heard his name paged, walked to the TWA counter and asked Reichemberger if he was paging him. Reichemberger said he was paging "a Mr. Sassitas."

Before Lassiter could walk away from the counter, Nash interrupted and asked him if he was "the car dealer just arrived from Albuquerque." Lassiter said he was.

Lassiter followed Nash to the waiting car and got in the front seat along with Jones who was driving. Hicks and Nash got into the back seat.

Several miles down the expressway, Nash said Hicks complained of feeling ill as a pretense and wanted the car stopped. Jones pulled it into a side road, and after letting Hicks out of his side of the car, ordered Lassiter out.

All the while, Nash told detectives, he remained in the war while Jones ordered Lassiter to put his hands on the roof of the car while he searched him. Jones was brandishing the gun, which police believe was a .38 caliber instead of a .45, because of the bullet hole in Lassiter's head.

★ ★ ★

Jones became violent—Nash said he and Jones had been drinking in Woodward avenue bars most of the day—when he couldn't find enough of the money they thought they would find on Lassiter. He struck Lassiter twice in the head with the weapon after first removing some $320 in cash and checks from his wallet.

After the second blow, Lassiter fell to the ground where Jones struck him twice more, Nash said.

At this point, Leaf said Nash told him that Hicks told Jones, "You might as well finish him off," Jones then pumped one shot into Lassiter's head.

Nash said he recalled hearing Hicks and Lassiter quarrel in the car about $4,000 each claimed the other owed him.

★ ★ ★

Nash said just before Jones allegedly shot Lassiter that he heard Hicks say: "This will settle my debt with him."

★ ★ ★

Hoping to find the rest of the money in Lassiter's luggage, the three searched it. Finding it not there, the luggage was dumped in a vacant field.

According to Leaf, Nash said Hicks then drove him and Jones to the Toledo bus station where they caught a bus for Chattanooga.

Before this however, Hicks gave Nash five $100 bills from the $1,925 Hicks and Jones had made on the sale of the two cars.

Meanwhile, the 1953 Buick believed to have been used in the murder was taken from the Royal Oak lot this morning to the Redford State Police Post for examination.

Leaf said Jones was being held for investigation of first-degree murder while Nash was in the Chattanooga city jail on the vagrancy charge on which he was picked up Tuesday night.

Meanwhile, Leaf said he was waiting for Wayne County Prosecutor Samuel Olsen to issue orders for first-degree murder warrants for all three.

★ ★ ★

These would then be dispatched to Chattanooga where authorities have told Leaf they would release their jurisdiction over Nash and Jones so they could be returned to Michigan to stand trial.

However, the three still could fight extradition back here.

Pontiac General Plans Open House

Pontiac General Hospital is planning a full week of activities during National Hospital Week, which begins Sunday.

Climax will be Thursday and Friday when the public will be taken on tours of the hospital's new physical plant.

The tours, conducted by the Women's Auxiliary, will begin both days at 9 a.m., 10 a.m., 2 p.m., 3 p.m. and 4 p.m.

Prime interest will be the hospital's nine-month-old addition now constituting the west wing.

Special tours for interested groups can be arranged during the week, the hospital's Public Relations Department said.

Other highlights include the annual service award presentation, which this year will be held at a dinner Tuesday night at Devon Gables Inn.

Nearly 100 hospital employes with 10 years or more service have been invited to watch new 10-year employes win service pins from the Hospital Board of Trustees.

Also on Tuesday, the Women's Auxiliary will hold its annual Florence Nightingale tea for all employes during the morning and afternoon in the hospital dining room.

A special accent will be place on fire prevention this year. Films will be shown to all personnel on Monday, followed by a fire extinguisher demonstration on Tuesday and a practice fire drill Wednesday, witnessed by Charles E. Metz, Pontiac fire marshal.

Herter Reports to U.S. Tonight

Will Ask Understanding and Support During His Geneva Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter plans a major bid for public support and understanding tonight on the eve of his trip to the East-West Geneva conference on Germany.

Indications are he will not spring any big surprises in American policy.

Herter is expected to stress what he regards as the reasonableness of U.S. plans for a peaceful solution to the German crisis.

He is prepared to say that the proposals to be presented to the Soviets at the foreign ministers parley starting Monday will provide a sound framework—if the Reds sincerely want to negotiate.

At the same time, he is ready to renew assurances that the Allies will not abandon West Berlin to the Communists just because Moscow demands that the Western Powers get out.

Secretary of State Christian Herter's report to the nation tonight on the foreign minister's conference will be on the following Detroit TV and radio stations:

1,000 State Workers in Area Go Unpaid

FREE OF CHARGE

Buckner Finance Co., 203 National Bldg., announced it is prepared to put $25,000 to $35,000 into substitute payrolls, free of charge, for state employes who do not have credit unions or other financial help available.

This offer was principally aimed at the Pontiac State Police Post, where 26 Troopers today got in the mail from Lansing, instead of checks, certifications promising that checks would follow whenever payroll funds are available.

State hospital employes have a credit union which is expected to tide them over the pay crisis, said Dr. Theodore Satermoen, medical superintendent.

"The credit union has sufficient funds to cover the needs of any employes who must borrow," he reported.

MORALE HOLDS UP

Dr. Satersmoen said morale generally "has not been harmed" by the financial crisis.

"I'm pretty sure that none will quit."

About 500 of those at the hospital who went without pay are professional or trained personned involved in patient care, including 18 doctors, 25 registered nurses and 14 social workers.

Also hit by the payless payday were 47 Conservation Department employes of the state parks and recreation areas in northern Oakland County. An added half-dozen conservation officials who enforce game laws and maintain the fish hatchery in Drayton Plains were without checks.

The payless paydays may have an adverse affect on the hiring of seasonal help, which is just getting under way at the county's parks, one conservation employe warned.

Others without checks include 10 workers at the Department of Revenue; five in the District Probation Office; four at the District Parole Office; 11 employes of the Liquor Control Commission and two in the Division of Occupational Health at Pontiac City Hall.

Noel Buckner, vice president of the Pontiac finance company, informed the State Police Post of his offer this morning and it was warmly welcomed.

"You can't buy groceries with certifications," one payless trooper commented.

Buckner said the offer would apply to any regularly-employed state employe in the area who needs the help.

The loans will be free, without interest or carrying charges, said Buckner, who expressed concern lest the payless employes be hit hard financially.

"These people are not getting paid because of a political situation which is not their fault," said Buckner.

"It probably is tough for them not to get their regular paychecks. They have houses and cars to pay for, kids to feed, doctor bills to meet.

"Somebody's got to do something for them and we're happy to be in a position to help."

Buckner said his company would go on meeting payrolls as long as it could in the weeks ahead.

Mom Asks Hearing in Desertion Case

An Inkster woman who deserted her two children at the Oakland County Friend of the Court office demanded examination yesterday on a charge of abandonment in municipal court.

The two children, Eric, 14, and Joyce Lockett, 12, temporarily have been placed in the Oakland County Children's Home.

Arrested yesterday, Mrs. Klugh demanded a pretrial hearing before Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

The hearing was set for May 13. Mrs. Klugh was freed under personal bond.

New High School Plan Wins National Award

BIRMINGHAM — The increasing use of audio-visual educational media and the demand for classroom flexibility has put the Birmingham Junior-Senior High School, now under construction, in the limelight, according to Richard Featherstone, administrative assistant of the Birmingham School District.

Plans prepared to meet the demands have won the Walter Cocking Award for the architectural firm of Smith, Tarapata and MacMahon. The award, one of five in the nationwide competition, was made by the School Executive magazine.

Featherstone said the plans for the Birmingham school are the ultimate in classroom flexibility. Rooms are planned in such a way that interior walls will be of concrete block and have no relation to the overall structure, he said.

"The walls can be placed to form four ordinary classrooms," Featherstone explained, "Removal is simple since they support no weight. A group of four rooms can be made into two, three or one large auditorium-type room by moving the wall around.

"A four-inch-square steel post in the center of the room will permit auditorium seating with no obstruction of vision," Featherstone said.

To accommodate a movie screen, one section of the room can be shaded to permit projection without darkening the entire room. Blackout curtains will be installed so complete darkness may be arranged when necessary.

One of the most impressive features will be the remarkably low construction cost of $13.28 per foot, according to Featherstone.

He concluded by pointing out that this cost is low by any standard, but becomes exceptional since it includes the construction of a standard-size swimming pool.

David Thursdale, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thursdale, 1956 Birmingham Blvd., is attending the annual meeting of patrol boys in Washington, D. C.

David, a delivery boy in Birmingham for The Pontiac Press, is captain of the Safety Patrol Boys at Pierce Elementary School.

Baldwin Public Library will begin its annual Spring Book Festival in the Children's Department Monday morning.

A special coffee hour for mothers who volunteer as librarians in the public schools will be held at 9:30 a.m.

Outboard Motor Stolen

A 25 horsepower outboard motor was reported stolen from a boat owned by E. G. Rau of 5214 Cooley Lake Rd. sometime last night. It was valued at $400.

Rau told Waterford Township police the motor was locked to his boat, anchored 50 feet from shore in front of his home.

Rapist Terrorizes 7 Persons in Home

DETROIT (AP)—A masked man, armed with a pistol and a bomb threat, invaded a Hamtramck home yesterday, raped a mother, molested a woman visitor and held four children and an ailing father as prisoners.

"I've got a bomb on me," police quoted the intruder as saying. "If you try to yell or run, I'll touch it off and blow all of you up with me."

Police said the man wore sun glasses and a cloth mask and was carrying a pistol when he entered the house through the rear door.

He slapped the face of the husband who suffers from multiple sclerosis, police said, and ordered his captives to bind their feet with belts and neckties. He then tied up the children's hands and forced the wife to tie her husband's hands.

Police said the man then raped the wife and molested the visitor.

Waterford House Fire Causes $200 Damage

A fire caused $200 damage yesterday at the home of Robert Davis, 311 Airport Rd., Waterford Township.

Waterford Township firemen said the blaze was started about 12:30 p.m. and was confined to the bedroom of the frame house. It was caused by a short circuit in a light cord, firemen said.

Insanity Ruled in Wife's Killing

Jury's Verdict Means St. Louis Man Goes to Top Security Hospital

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A Circuit Court jury ruled Wednesday night that Charles E. Montague killed his wife but was innocent of murder because he was, and is, insane.

The verdict requires that Montague be confined to the state's maximum security mental hospital at Fulton. The 34-year-old laboratory technician was returned to a county jail cell, but Judge William E. Buder must commit him to the hospital within 10 days.

The jury deliberated only 58 minutes. Montague showed no emotion when the verdict was read.

The body of Mrs. Ruth Ann Montague, 34-year-old mother of two, was found in her car on Jan. 7. She had been strangled and her body had been mutilated. The car was parked in front of a house where Mrs. Montague had attended a sorority party the previous night.

Montague was arrested when police found in his possession a pair of golden earrings similar to ones worn to the party by his wife. A color photograph taken at the party showed Mrs. Montague wearing the earrings, but they were not found on her body.

A psychiatrist was the only defense witness. Dr. E. H. Parsons testified that Montague is incurably ill, has been since 1944, and will need hospital care for the rest of his life.

The state suggested that jealousy was the prime motive. James Wingman, 23, a soldier who once was a co-worker of Mrs. Montague's, testified they had exchanged affectionate letters. He met her four times shortly before she was killed.

E. Germans Exploit Straying U.S. Plane

BERLIN (AP) — East German Communists are trying to make propaganda hay out of the alleged straying of an American airliner from the Berlin corridor by linking the incident to the Geneva foreign ministers' conference.

ADN, the East German News Agency, charged that a U.S. transport plane violated East German air space Wednesday.

"In view of the forthcoming Geneva Foreign Ministers' conference, this new violation of air sovereignty is an apparent provocation," said the agency.

U.S. authorities said they had received what they called a "rather routine protest" from the Soviets charging that a Pan American airliner strayed off the limits of the corridor to Berlin from Frankfurt, West Germany.

"It sounds like the same thing that ADN is talking about," said an American spokesman.

Pan American officials said the Soviets "frequently claim that we fly outside the corridor. But after the investigation is completed there is seldom proof that this is the case."

Tractors Are Tested Before They're Built

MOLINE, Ill. (UPI) — The modern tractor gets a "proving-grounds run" even before it gets its wheels, thanks to electronics.

Before a tractor is built by Deere and Co., its engineers investigate a variety of designs and test the most promising ones by supplying a computer with figures on weights, soil composition, engine characteristics and other related data.

When the information is processed by the Bendix machine, the engineers are able to come up with a tractor design that is tailor-made to meet the needs of the specific assignment or set of conditions.

Court Rejects Lena's Efforts to Quell Record

NEW YORK (AP) — A Supreme Court justice has turned down a motion for a temporary injunction brought by singer Lena Horne to bar the sale of an album of "Porgy And Bess" in which she is heard with Harry Belafonte.

★ ★ ★

Miss Horne contended that her voice and that of Belafonte's were recorded separately and later united in duets by technicians of the Radio Corp. of America.

★ ★ ★

In her move for an injunction and $100,000 damages against RCA, Miss Horne termed the recording "damaging to my reputation and my career."

Oleg Peter Petroff, attorney for RCA, said Miss Horne had approved both the selection of the songs and the duets.

'Frisco Summit Talks? Memories Sour for Reds

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Every now and then someone revives the idea of holding the next summit conference in San Francisco.

The thought is that a visit to the birthplace of the United Nations just might revive some atmosphere of amity among the leaders of the Soviet Union, France, Britain and the United States, and that it would be a good opportunity to show the country to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Some of the memories connected with San Francisco are not, however, entirely happy ones for the Soviets, entirely aside from their contempt for the U.N.

Mention of the famous Presidio as a possible meeting place reminds that, whereas now it is a military establishment, it was once an administrative and prison center for the Spanish rulers who took a very dim view of Russian attempts to penetrate the new world.

Indeed, the Spaniards paid little attention to the upper part of California until the Russians began to explore Alaska and establish themselves as far south as Fort Smith.

★ ★ ★

More than one Russian trader and fishing captain felt the heavy hand of Spanish justice, and relations with the American colonists a little later were similarly unhappy. There was trouble right up to the time the Alaska purchase, although the Russians abandoned their California base in 1806. Quarrels over fishing and sealing regulations continued until the very recent past.

The "no trespassing" signs put up for the Russians—and indeed for all other foreigners on the West Coast—have continued almost until this day.

Spain and the succeeding Americans may not have driven Russia off the North American continent. Russia's own political troubles under Alexander I and other czars had much to do with it. But the fact of retreat remains. And the present rulers of the Soviet Union don't like to be reminded she has ever retreated.

★ ★ ★

As for showing Khrushchev the country, trying to impress him with both the ethical and material strength of the United States, it always sounds like a good idea. The theory is that more knowledge of the United States might cool some of his antipathy for the American system and remind him of the dangers of trying to compete with it.

But other Soviet leaders have made their visits to San Francisco and other parts of the United States without going home to make any great noise about the merits of America.

Take That Key!

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — When you park your car in New York State, be sure to take the key out of the ignition. Failure to do so can result in a $50 fine, a jail sentence, or both.

An average automobile tire wears out at a rate of three to three and one-half per cent per month.

An average person loses from 50 to 100 hairs a day without becoming bald, according to medical tests.

Michiganders Agree Increase in Sales Tax Is Best Solution

E. C. HAYHOW, publisher of The Hillsdale Daily News, has followed the current state financial muddle more closely than anyone we know. He was on the Michigan Committee to study the tax situation and he submitted the dissenting report. We reprint his current opinion as published in his own newspaper:

By E. C. Hayhow

Governor Williams is losing friends and votes by stubbornly insisting that the state's financial ills be cured by the way of a graduated income tax.

The people don't want a graduated income tax.

They don't want an income tax in any form.

If they have to pay more taxes to the state (and a majority remains unconvinced this is necessary), they want to do it in the form of an increase in the sales tax.

There is no longer any question about that.

★ ★ ★

I have talked to thousands of taxpayers in all parts of the state. I have had available practically every line published in a Michigan newspaper about the state finances and taxes. The people in a great majority have been saying, "If we have to pay more money to the state, let us do it in the form of a sales tax increase."

★ ★ ★

Now we have the evidence of three newspaper polls.

The response to The Hillsdale Daily News tax questionnaire shows a five to one preference for a sales tax increase.

The results are the same in a poll conducted by The Monroe Evening News.

In a poll just getting under way, The Port Huron Times Herald reports an early three to one preference for the sales tax.

A sales tax increase has many advantages over an income tax.

One is that the machinery for collecting a sales tax is already set up. Its administration and collection would add very little, if any, to present costs, whereas an income tax would require an entire new staff at a cost estimated upwards to $2 million a year.

★ ★ ★

The people consider the sales tax a more or less painless tax because it is paid a few pennies at a time. They rebel at the idea of having to file another income tax return and the possibility of having to shell out a substantial sum in one lump.

★ ★ ★

The tourist helps pay state costs under a sales tax but is missed entirely by an income tax.

Everyone pays his proportionate share under a sales tax while many would escape under an income tax. (Both the majority recommendation of the Citizens Tax Advisory Committee and Gov. Williams' income tax proposal would exempt more than 50 per cent of the state's families.)

★ ★ ★

Gov. WILLIAMS has now told the Republicans in the Legislature that if they will approve the use of the Veterans' Trust Fund so that state employes can be paid, he will sit down with them and talk over the tax question.

Note that he asks a definite action out of the Legislature without making any promises himself.

★ ★ ★

His course should be plain.

The people want no part of his income tax proposal.

And in a democracy the will of the people prevails . . . or else.

Gov. Williams must realize this. He must know that he is gambling with his political future.

★ ★ ★

He is in a tough spot, not unlike that of BILL NORMAN.

NORMAN was the manager of the Detroit Tigers until Saturday.

The Tigers weren't winning.

Regardless of the cause, NORMAN took the rap.

The head man must accept the ultimate responsibility.

Gov. WILLIAMS is the head man in Michigan.

Regardless of the cause of the fiscal crisis, he must accept the responsibility.

FOOLS are smarter than you think. In spite of the study, thought and planning done in an effort to produce foolproof things, it hasn't been possible to frustrate the fools.

David Lawrence Says:

Red Ruthlessness Underrated

PARIS—Diplomats here are talking about an authenticated story of an experience that Prime Minister Macmillan had with Premier Khrushchev in Moscow recently which illustrates better than anything else just why you cannot trust the rulers in the Kremlin.

LAWRENCE

To all those persons in America and elsewhere who keep on urging that "summit" conferences between top-level representatives of the East and West can be useful if only "to find out where you stand" and "to explore the situation," the Macmillan-Khrushchev episode should be most revealing.

It started, of course, with Macmillan's conciliatory gestures designed to overcome the Soviet "fears and suspicions" of Western intentions which had become the favorite cliche in some quarters of London. So the British Prime Minister tackled the possible ban on nuclear tests which has been the subject of conferences between the East and West at Geneva for the last half-year.

On the spur of the moment and without consulting his own scientific experts, Macmillan suggested the idea of limiting the number of inspections per year. With the mobile inspection teams "rationed" and confined to only a few inspections, it was assumed that Khrushchev would no longer have any legitimate basis for his objections.

Macmillan doubtless made clear that he was speaking off the cuff and very confidentially, as he would want to check the practical side with his experts. Khrushchev said he liked the idea. If he were a man of integrity, he would have kept Macmillan's confidence and waited for the British Prime Minister to explore the plan with his own experts and with those of other Western countries.

Macmillan cabled President Eisenhower a few hours before the British Prime Minister was scheduled to meet Khrushchev for a final session. The U. S. government promptly sent back a message to Macmillan saying the proposal seemed to American scientific experts to be "technically impractical and potentially dangerous."

★ ★ ★

It isn't clear whether the British Prime Minister got the American reaction soon enough to cause him to switch his stand, but the fact is that he did not withdraw the proposal. He believed perhaps that he could still discuss it further on his later trip to Washington and that, since everything said at the Moscow conference was supposed to be confidential, there would be time later to clarify or reverse the original proposal.

When the Prime Minister reached Washington, he ran up against a stone wall of opposition. The American experts argued that he was giving away something—unlimited inspection—in exchange for nothing, inasmuch as Khrushchev had not offered to drop his demand for a veto over the whole control system.

The United States proposed instead—and Macmillan approved—a different idea in an attempt to break the deadlock. The offer was made that, since the dispute centered around control of underground and stratospheric tests, any ban on nuclear tests should initially apply only to explosions in the atmosphere under 35 miles in altitude, because such explosions are relatively easy to detect and the ban would require a simple system of control.

What Khrushchev did at this point dismayed even Macmillan's most ardent supporters in Great Britain. For the Soviet Premier submitted at the Geneva conference the Macmillan plan for "rationed" on-the-spot inspections as a Soviet proposal, even though by this time he knew full well that the United States had already rejected the plan

Then, when the British delegate at Geneva spoke against the proposal, as he was instructed to do from London, the Soviet delegate arched his eyebrows and, in mock surprise, said: "You mean you are opposing the British plan?"

The London Daily Telegraph, discussing the incident, said that "the skill and ruthlessness of Soviet diplomacy are still underrated" by the British government.

"Their consciences don't seem to bother folks who live in great luxury—but I suppose the bill collectors do."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Nerve-Steadying Calcium Insufficient in Many Diets

Wright's Applied Physiology states one of the functions of calcium thus:

"Regulates excitability of nerve fibres and nerve centers."

Probably the chief fault of our ultra-refined, sugar-pap, namby-pamby everyday American diet is its deficiency in calcium.

According to nutrition authorities a growing child or an adult requires not less than a gram (approximately 12 to 15 grains) of calcium daily to maintain 'vite.'

'Vite' means "... better-than-average nutritional condition ... reserve power ... resiliency ...," —(send me 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for booklet THE 7 KEYS TO VITE.

One of the foundation stones of the science of nutrition is Sherman's dictum:

"The ordinary mixed diet of American and Europeans, at least among dwellers in cities and towns, is probably more often deficient in calcium than in any other chemical element."

★ ★ ★

The individual who subsists on a high calcium diet or supplements his or her ordinary diet with an adequate daily ration of calcium and vitamin D (the vitamin is essential for normal utilization of calcium in the body) has steadier nerves and is less sensitive to aches and pains than one on the typical American namby-pamby diet. Unfortunately the latter is generally pampered as a subject of "delicate" nerves.

MILK INDISPENSABLE

The indispensable feature of the high calcium diet is milk—whole milk or skim milk or buttermilk—not less than 1½ pints (three glasses) daily.

The other high calcium items in the diet are cheese (any and every kind), peas, beans, fresh vegetables, particularly green leafy vegetables such as lettuce, cabbage, spinach, cauliflower, asparagus, beet greens, carrot, celery, turnip and turnip greens, nuts and peanuts.

It is extremely difficult to pound into the head of the drug-taking American the fact that his complaint is a manifestation of calcium or other nutritional deficiency.

If one thinks perchance there may be something in the idea he will generally follow the high calcium diet and/or calcium and vitamin D only a few weeks at the longest, and then quit because it shows no results right away.

He doesn't take into consideration the fact that he was years developing his nutritional deficiency.

The young person with vite feels just fine and dandy and so has no craving for drugs or alcohol.

You can't build or maintain 'vite' with cheat-food.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Drinking Masks Other Problems

Nora's case is doubly tragic. Alas, thousands of children ask for advice each year in helping them straighten out erring parents: If this newspaper did nothing else, it would merit your praise for helping produce happier homes and thus a happier childhood for youngsters in your area.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE B—428: Nora D., aged 15, is a lovely high school junior.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane," she began anxiously, "I have a very serious problem and don't know what to do about it.

DR. CRANE

"It is Daddy. He drinks a great deal, so he keeps Mother and us children fearful and worried, for he may come home at 2 a.m. and start a fight.

"When he is sober, he is wonderful. But when he is intoxicated, he is like a wild man.

"I have begged him to leave liquor alone, and so has my mother. But about once per week, he stops at a tavern and then he never reaches home till far in the night.

"I am so worried and miserable that I can't even concentrate on my lessons, so my school marks are falling.

"And I can't stand to see my mother beaten and with black eyes. So what CAN I do, please Dr. Crane?"

BARLEYCORN TRAGEDIES

Isn't it sad when splendid boys and girls must carry the added burden of worrying over their erring parents?

Teen-agers have enough problems of their own regarding how to carry on interesting conversation and win friends, without being compelled to shoulder adult problems.

Hundreds of young people, including children in grade schools, write me for advice on how to help their parents.

As a doctor, I try to give them specific counsel, even though it is sometimes fitted more to the parent than to the child.

Nora's dilemma can be largely eliminated by the active aid of her mother, for drunken husbands past the age of 40, are usually men who are afraid they are becoming platonic mates.

WHY MEN DRINK

Many women, too, go on a frequent binge when they pass that same dreaded 40th birthday, fearing that they are no longer going to be physically attractive.

★ ★ ★

In their resulting terror and frustration, they try to flee from the problem via temporary oblivion due to alcohol.

There is actually no date line for physical attractiveness of either wives or husbands.

The menopause does NOT alter a wife's seductive appeal unless she absorbs the age-old and very erroneous notion that a woman loses her allure thereafter.

It is this false notion that upsets women, but not the stoppage of their uterine function!

★ ★ ★

And it is fear that hamstrings the usual male when he gets jittery after the age of 40.

Men, however, are far less likely to confess this secret panic. They try to cover up the dreaded belief they are "on the shelf."

And they subconsciously figure a wife will not even suspect their impotence if they stagger home drunk at 2 a.m.

Thus they often use liquor as a red herring to divert their wife's suspicion, while it also anesthetizes their brain and frees them temporarily from their worry.

★ ★ ★

So I gave Nora a few booklets on marriage problems, including the key booklet "How to Prevent Impotence" and told her to hand it to her mother.

Send for this vital booklet, enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20c (non-profit).

It restored Nora's daddy to a happy home life, but would have prevented the trouble in the first place.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

'Don't Criticize Judge Unless You Really Know'

In answer to 73-year-old mother: All of these people who write in questioning the sentences of our judges, should learn a little more about the case before they open their big mouths. Every person who is sentenced for a felony in Michigan receives a thorough investigation before his case is disposed of by a judge.

The entire offense is investigated. In many of these so called rapes, the victim is as guilty as the defendant. The problem of dealing with offenders is complicated enough by shortage of funds, facilities and staff without having to contend with persons who reveal their ignorance by debating something they know nothing about.

Granted our judges may make some mistakes, but considering the difficulty of dealing with any form of anti-social behavior, I know they do an excellent job. Seventy-three-year-old mother should meet some of these innocent 15-year-old maidens, they could probably tell her a few things she never knew.

Probation Officer, Oakland County

Slaughter Bill Needs Support

After investigation, Congress last year passed an adequate humane slaughter bill inspired by the legislation of northern European countries, but affecting only plants supplying Federal department.

There is in the "hopper" at Lansing, a bill covering otherwise unregulated Michigan slaughter establishments. Reasonably, Michigan packers offer no stubborn opposition, but the measure will fail lacking other support.

People of good will have a golden opportunity to write state senators and representatives for the measure. Add all possible signatures. Letters with a dozen names are twelve times as effective.

As a veterinarian recently retired from U.S. Civil Service with knowledge of the too frequent horrors inflicted upon unoffending fellow creatures, it is deeply felt necessary to do everything possible.

There are appalling skull hammerings of the harder to kill individuals; cases of legs all broken to bring frantic animals to the floor; beginning skinning, "dressing" or scalding before their death—and all by men who may be genial enough in human relations, but conditioned through usage, to these enormities — like Hitler's Buchenwald workers.

The fine bill may fail lacking voter support. Write the senator and representative at Lansing. Get a string of names on the letter!

Dr. J. H. Winter, veterinarian,
U. S. Dept. of Agriculture

'Safety Check Is Ineffectual'

I was reading the article about the auto safety check. As far as I'm concerned, this is a waste of time. The people who know their cars are O.K. won't evade going through this safety check, but the guys and gals, who are aware of defects evade the check as it will cost them money for repairs.

Of course they are endangering their lives as well as others, but this type doesn't have much including PL or PD insurance so they don't care anyway.

I'd like to suggest that to do some real good, why not boost the sale of license plates to a date in warm weather May or June. Then have the safety inspectors check the car out before plates are issued.

Also, pass a state law that every driver must have public liability and property damage insurance, at least $10,000 coverage (in case you're guessing, I'm not an insurance salesman).

These two items would do some real good, but this safety check is a waste of time and the taxpayers money paying the boys. In other words, lets cover the state not just Pontiac.

Think It Over

New Cast Likely for Conventions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Viewers of the 1960 national political conventions may have to become accustomed to a new cast of characters in key convention posts.

Reps. Sam Rayburn (D-Tex), Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass), and John McCormack (D-Mass) may be missing from the glare of the camera spotlights.

★ ★ ★

Rayburn, Speaker of the House, has presided over the past three Democratic Conventions.

Martin, a 74-year-old veteran of many political wars, has wielded the gavel as permanent chairman of the past five Republican National conventions.

The 67-year-old McCormack, graduate of "the Boston school of practical politics," has headed the platform committee of three of the past four Democratic National conventions.

★ ★ ★

But the three House members may not occupy those spots in 1960 when the Democrats meet in Los Angeles and the Republicans in Chicago.

Rayburn remarked at a recent Washington social affair that he might not be chairman in 1960, that he might want to make a nominating speech. As neutral referees, convention chairmen can not make nominating speeches.

Rayburn attached no significance to the remark, which he said was made in jest. Whether he would accept the post of chairman if it were offered to him.

Graham to Ease Outside Work

Evangelist Feels Fine, but Will Concentrate on Crusade Work

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Billy Graham said today he is feeling fine but intends to curtail his now crusade activities on returning to the United States in mid-June.

The American evangelist said he is going to resign from a number of executive boards and organizations.

"I am going to concentrate on speaking at these crusades and in study preparing for them," he said.

★ ★ ★

Graham, who has had trouble with his left eye since before arriving in Australia in February, reported the eye is almost back to normal.

"For the first time in many weeks I can read out of my left eye," he said.

Graham has drawn a total attendance of 1,458,000 in Australia and 335,000 in New Zealand since the crusade began down under. With a dozen more Australian meetings to go, the total attendance seems sure to top the two million mark.

★ ★ ★

Sunburned and looking fit, Graham spoke enthusiastically with newsmen about future plans. His next crusade in the United States is scheduled for Indianapolis, in October.

He said he hoped to return to Australia and New Zealand in two or three years and then move from island to island in the South Pacific holding meetings.

★ ★ ★

A reporter asked Graham whether he ever thought about entering politics. The evangelist replied quickly: "I have no intention of entering the political field. I feel I can make a better contribution to the world in my present work."

★ ★ ★

After a pause, he added: "The only thing that would alter me would be an extreme emergency in the world in which I would be asked to take a position of responsibility and which I felt it my duty to accept."

Home Trade-In Plan Would Be New Sales Boon

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa (UPI) —The housing industry is missing a good bet by not making it as easy for the home owner to trade in his old house as a motorist does his automobile, according to electronics manufacturer John W. Norris.

Norris isn't sure exactly how this can be done. But he said the need is so great, there is bound to be a way and it's up to realtors and bankers to find it.

Norris is president of Lennox Industries, Inc. His primary interest in easier trade-ins lies in the belief that many persons would move to more expensive homes as their incomes increased if it were simpler for them to dispose of their old houses.

This, in turn, would help boost the sales of electric appliances such as air conditioners and automatic dishwashers.

But Norris also pointed out that easy trade-ins would help the increasing number of American families who are being transferred from one part of the country to another, and must dispose of their homes in a hurry.

Space Chess Adds Fool, Favorite, Hippogriff

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—A three-dimensional chess game utilizing 128 pieces has been developed by J. David Marks — who says he wants to provide amusement for anyone fascinated by space relations.

Some additions have been made to the chess board, such as the space knight, the hippogriff (a mythological crossbreed of an eagle, lion and horse), the fool, the favorite and the archbishop.

'Beneath a Worker's Dignity

Take a Tip, Moscovites, Gratuities Frowned Upon

MOSCOW (UPI) — The tourist season has brought a new blast at tipping as practiced in Moscow.

There is supposed to be no tipping in the Soviet Union. The theory is that everybody gets paid for his work and it's beneath a worker's dignity to accept a gratuity.

But too many people are letting dignity suffer for a few extra kopeks or a ruble or two, says Soviet Culture, a newspaper. It singled out program sellers at Moscow stadiums.

Although programs sell for 30 or 40 kopeks — 3 or 4 cents at the tourist rate — the program sellers handed a one-rube (10 cents) note often [illegible] to cover change.

Kopeks are coins. Except for 15-kopek pieces for use in pay telephones and 20-kopek pieces to pay bus fares, a Muscovite doesn't like to carry a pocket full of coins.

So too many people buying programs have to fork over a whole ruble, and the canny women sellers pocket an extra 60 or 70 kopeks a throw.

But the real moneymakers, Soviet Culture says, are the employes who run the coat-and-hat checking concessions, especially in hotels.

Enter a Moscow hotel and unless you're sticking in the lobby or going to your own room, you're supposed to hand over coat and hat. There's no carrying your stuff into the restaurant or cafe. And that goes for women as well as men.

★ ★ ★

Soviet Culture got a confession from one cloakroom attendant that on an ordinary night his tipping take runs to 60 or 70 rubles — but that on a rush night he can count on more than 200 rubles.

There didn't seem to be any shame in the man's avowal. He just isn't turning down tips.

Hal Boyle Says:

Cat Too 'Superior' to Be Friend of Man

NEW YORK (AP)—It is hard for a dog lover to learn to live with a cat in the house.

But it can be done—particularly if you have a small daughter who insists on having a cat as a pet.

It has been some six months since Lady Dottie, a tiny furpawed black and white powerhouse, came to our house to stay. Now she is a large and formidable powerhouse, and stomps around the place as if she paid the rent.

The only one who has any real authority over her is our daughter, Tracy, who is nearly six. She uses Lady Dottie as a pillow, dancing partner and substitute sister.

The cat has gone for so many rides in the baby buggy that she now believes it is her own private vehicle. We are even beginning to refer to it as "the family catillac."

★ ★ ★

Between Lady Dottie and myself there is a strange and rather undefined relationship.

As a lifelong dog-man I have always disliked cats, and been suspicious of cat-fond people, figuring that any human being who preferred a cat to a dog must have a hidden character defect of some kind.

CREEPY CATS

Now I must congress to harboring a mixed feeling bordering on fondness for Lady Dottie.

Part of it is based on pure gratitude. I had heard the old wives' tale that cats at night could crawl up on your chest and breathe your breath before it reaches you, thus dooming you to death for lack of oxygen. And I was afraid it might be true.

To me cats were sneaky, treacherous, wily beasts who took everything they could get and gave nothing in return. Why wouldn't they rob you of breath?

For three months I slept with the bedroom door closed, to isolate me from the possibility of any such midnight feline assault. Gradually, however, my secret superstitious panic abated as I realized Lady Dottie was too sensible to try to rob me of my breath. She was too busy robbing my pocketbook for beef liver, cloth and rubber toy mice and all the other niceties of a modern cat's way of life.

Once I realized she had a vested interest in me to protect, I lost my dread of her.

I noted one big difference between cats and dogs. A dog does you a favor by getting out of your way. A cat seems to have the idea that it is doing you a favor by getting in your way.

Lady Dottie, although her family tree disappears into the nearest alley, is as supremely proud and sure of herself as an Egyptian queen. When she decides to honor you by rubbing up against your legs, you are expected to pause and be flattered, even though at the moment you may be trying to carry a message to Garcia.

FRIGID FELINE

For a brief time as our acquaintanceship ripened, I thought perhaps Lady Dottie and I shared the same world, as a man can share the same world with a pet dog.

★ ★ ★

It isn't possible. A cat will come into your world as far as it chooses, but you can come only to the outer fringes of its world. And if you try to go further the cat coldly and silently closes the door between you.

Lady Dottie has won my admiration because of her iron self-confidence. I have always had a grudging admiration for women because they have this factor of interior independence and resourcefulness of spirit.

★ ★ ★

But women now and then show a sign of weakness. A cat never does. A man has to take off his hat to anything stronger than a modern woman. And a cat is.

I suppose I'll always be a dog lover at heart—weakness calls to weakness—but Lady Dottie, that walking fur fort, has taught me you never should underestimate the power of a cat.

He's Mayor So Long He Can't Recall Start

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP)—Barring an unexpected write-in campaign, Harry Clissold, 66, will be elected to his 12th or 13th term as mayor next Tuesday.

"It's been so long I can't remember," Clissold said when asked the date of his first election. It was 1935 or 1937.

"I've been trying to get someone to take the mayor's job for years, but just can't seem to get rid of it," he remarked.

'We'll Ride Rockets,' Midgets Tell U.S.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The Little People of America, an international organization of midgets, have appealed to the Pentagon to allow midgets to aid the U.S. satellite program by riding in the rockets.

Nels Nelson, four-foot vice president of the group, said the organization was writing to the United States Air Force Ballistics Missile Division to protest that the satellite program snubbed little people "against all the advice of science."

"As for psychological adaptation," Nelson said, "no midget has claustrophobia or he couldn't go out on the street to be shut in and towered over by all those big people."

Chicago's State Street to Get New Lighting

CHICAGO (AP)—"You'll be able to find a safety pin anywhere on State Street when its new lighting system is installed," says R. V. Fortney of the Canton, Ohio, firm making the installation.

The half million dollar project includes 70 modern-type fluorescent units which will illuminate seven blocks of the downtown shopping center.

Merchants on State Street are financing the project.

Mrs. Kaye Obscured by Danny's Shadow

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Nineteen years ago, a wealthy, cultured dentist's daughter named Sylvia Fine married a hungry-looking, talented immigrant's son named Danny Kaye.

They had only two things in common. Both originated in Brooklyn. And both were in love.

"Now," Sylvia said today, "we're similar in many ways. I don't know who rubbed off what on whom. The only thing is, I wish I had Danny's genius. I don't."

There are those who would dispute Sylvia Fine's flat, unqualified statement that she is the lesser of the talents in the Kaye family.

She began life as a child piano prodigy, progressed through college to song-writing, ("The Moon Is Blue," "Man With the Golden Arm") became a producer, advisor, composer and arranged for her now-famous husband.

When the "woman behind the man" theme comes up in show business conversations, Sylvia's is the first name mentioned.

She tosses of such accolades. Prefers to talk about Danny.

"He has more facets than any man I've ever known. He is, in my opinion, a great man," she says. "He is both extremely intelligent and extremely intuitive —a combination you rarely see in one person. That is why he's successful in everything he does. With people. With himself.

"He is passionately interested in medicine and in classical music. You know he's conducted several symphonies. At Carnegie Hall, when he conducted the New York Philharmonic, Dmitri Mitropolous said he could be one of the great conductors of our time. And he could."

Sylvia, when not talking about her husband, has the face of a good businesswoman. Pretty but canny. Now, it is the face of an awed teenager asking Danny Kaye for an autograph:

"His family didn't have any money. He always wanted to be a doctor. We have more friends who are doctors than we have in show business. You know, when I try to phone him when he's out of town, and he's not in his hotel room, I know where he is; he's in a hospital, talking to a surgeon, or standing beside a surgeon watching an operation."

"He would have been a great surgeon. He has the deft hands. And the intuition and the understanding and the curiosity and the energy." She smiled softly, shook her head. "The damn fact of it is Danny Kaye could be anything he wanted to be—he's that good."

MET OFF-BROADWAY

Sylvia Fine met her husband when he was a comic and she a pianist in an off-Broadway review. "About as far off-Broadway as you can get without swimming."

Since then, she has written almost all his special material. She has also edited all his scripts, helped select his spots, divided her time between their 12-year-old daughter, Dena, and Danny's home and career.

For his latest film, "The Five Pennies," to open in June, Sylvia wrote five songs, as well as co-produced.

In the last 19 years, her role has been obscured by the fact that she often refuses screen and TV credits because she didn't want to appear to be using Danny's name to her own advantage—but in good old show biz, many assume that Sylvia is Danny's manager. Her reaction:

"Lord no. I am, thank goodness, his wife!"

Two Climbers Fall to Death in Sierras

BRIDGEPORT, Calif. (AP)—Two mountain climbers fell to their death at 13,00 feet in the high Sierras, a rescue party radioed today.

Ferank Sanborn, leading the rescuers, said the bodies were located near a quicksilver mine 80 miles east of Bridgeport.

The bodies were identified as those of Burl Parkinson, 65, South Pasadena, Calif., and Francis Foley, 53, Glendale, Calif. They had been missing since last Friday.

Undersheriff Jack Gardner of California's Mono county said the men apparently lost their footing, fell into a crevice, and then froze to death.

The bodies were partially covered by two feet of fresh snow.

Parkinson and Foley were said to be experienced climbers. They told friends they expected to climb the peak and return to their starting point, Bishop, last Sunday. When they failed to show up a search was started by ground parties and the civil air patrol.

Marines' Famed Mare Mother Second Time

CAMP PENDELTON, Calif. (AP)—The Marine Corps' famous Mongolian mare, Sgt. Reckless, is a mother for the second time.

A brother to her first colt, Fearless, was born recently.

Reckless was given that name while carrying ammunition under fire in Korea. She had been purchased at a Korean race track.

'Show-Me' State Proud of Its Caves

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Missouri, already famous for Harry S. Truman, mules and skeptical citizens, is developing into a leading underground state.

★ ★ ★

It boasts 437 caves in 55 counties which it expects will be visited by more sightseers, explored by more spelunkers and scientifically studied by more speleologists than ever before.

★ ★ ★

The largest of these caves is Meramec Caverns, where Jesse James and his gang once hid out. Other favorite underground spots in Missouri are the "Garden of the Gods," the Ozark Wonder Caves and Mark Twain Cave near Hannibal, where Tom Sawyer and Becky Thatcher once got lost.

Solon Does His Part to Aid Governor's Goal

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP) — In his inaugural speech, Gov. J. Howard Edmondson said part of his program would be to increase the state population by 250,000. When state Rep. Denzil Garrison, Republican floor leader, became a father he passed out cigars with this comment:

"This is the first of J. Howard's."

Popcorn increases its volume by 20 times after popping.

Reputation for Giving Brings New Customers

NOGALES, Ariz. (UP)—An article was printed in a national magazine praising Mike de la Fuente of Nogales for his aid to underprivileged in the border cities of Nogales, Ariz., and Nogales, Mexico.

He received two letters after the article appeared. Both asked for money.

On a clear night an average person can see 7,000 stars.

Firemen Teach Sitters

TOLEDO, Ohio (UP) — Suburban Sylvania firemen, burning an old barn to test their techniques, scored better in arson than in fire-fighting.

Touched off when fireman Ken Ehrsam sloshed gasoline about and ignited it, flames destroyed the barn in 15 minutes flat—while the firemen fought hard to control the blaze.

There are about 3,000 cross ties per mile of railroad track.

Sailor Up-Dates Tattoos

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UP)—A sailor had Nell Bowen, tattoo artist, draw lines through names of eight girls tattooed on the calf of one leg, and add the word "cancelled." He explained he was getting married.

Jupiter Launching Highly Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., (AP) —The Army blasted its Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile 1,500 miles over the Atlantic Wednesday night on what sources said was a highly successful reliability flight test.

The 60-foot rocket, which may carry a monkey passenger in the near future, was equipped with a beacon light apparently for use in tracking the 10,000 m.p.h. journey through the fringes of space.

★ ★ ★

Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, the Army's missile-space boss, announced recently that the monkey launching would take place within the next two months. The first attempt to shoot a monkey in a Jupiter came Dec. 13 but the tiny rider never was found.

The Jupiter was making its 16th trip as a test weapon. On two other occasions the missile was used as a booster for Pioneer space probes III and IV.

Maps of North America Indebted to Henry Hudson

WASHINGTON—Maps of North America owe a profound debt to Henry Hudson, the English sea captain who never found what he was looking for in the waters of the New World.

★ ★ ★

The year 1959 marks the 350th anniversary of his voyage up the Hudson River. As the Frenchman Samuel de Champlain meanwhile was exploring the lake that bears his name, New York and Vermont plan dozens of special events this year in their honor.

The fabled Northwest Passage eluded Hudson, but he filled blank spots on maps and opened the way for colonization, the National Geographic Society says.

Many towns are named in his memory. The Hudson River, Hudson Strait and Hudson Bay attest to the extent and substance of his explorations.

VAIN ATTEMPT

Hudson, on two voyages for an English firm, tried in vain to penetrate the pack ice of the Arctic. Then in April, 1609, he cast off from Amsterdam in the high-prowed, high-proped Half Moon.

The little 80-ton yacht carried a quarrelsome, ragtag crew of 18 or 20 Englishmen and Dutchmen.

The skipper's orders from the Dutch East India Co. were to find a passage to India through the Russian Arctic. Mutiny in icy Arctic fogs encouraged Hudson to disobey.

He sailed southward as far as Cape Hatteras, North Carolina, then north again, hoping to find a northwest passage through what is now the continental United States.

Early on Sept. 2, 1609, the Half Moon's lookout sighted Sandy Hook, N. J., south of present-day Coney Island.

★ ★ ★

To his delight Hudson gazed upon a "great lake of water," Lower New York Bay. Out of this expanse flowed the "great streame" that bears his name.

Autumn burnished the skyscraping oaks of Manhattan on the Upper Bay. "This is a very good land to fall with, and a pleasant land to see," scrawled Robert Juet, chronicler of the voyage.

Copper-skinned Indians flocked to see the mysterious great ship, and at first relations were pleasant. The more daring boarded the Half Moon with gifts—deerskins, tobacco, maize and corn bread.

Then trouble began. An English sailor was slain. The visitors took hostages.

During September, 1609, the Half Moon rode the wind slowly upstream, dropping anchor now and then. The days were warm and golden. The crew encountered friendly natives whom Hudson called "a loving people."

Though earlier explorers had touched the river's mouth, Hudson and his men doubtless were the first Europeans to view the Hudson's magnificent scenery — the Palisades, the misty grandeur of the Hudson Highlands, the blue Catskills.

They sailed hopefully as far as present-day Albany, where the diminishing river told them that it was hardly the way to the spice isles.

Returning downstream, Half Moon again lay anchor off Manhattan. An Indian's theft of a pillow, two shirts, and two belts led to swift bloodshed.

On Oct. 4, Juet wrote, "We weighed and came out of the River into which we had run so faire."

Hudson was not discouraged. A fourth and tragic quest for the westward passage took him to Hudson Strait and Hudson Bay.

There, he vanished from history's pages, having been set adrift by mutineers with his son John and seven loyal men.

Committee OK Seen for Strauss

Confirmation Has Been Before Senate Group for 110 Days Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican senator predicted today Lewis L. Strauss will win committee approval of his nomination to be secretary of commerce despite bitter opposition.

Strauss, already serving in the Cabinet under a recess appointment, resumes before the Senate Commerce Committee this afternoon his reply to charges made by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) and others.

★ ★ ★

The GOP senator, who asked that his name not be used, said he expects at least three or four of the committee's 11 Democrats to vote along with all six Republicans for Strauss' confirmation.

Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill), Minority Senate leader, told newsmen after a White House conferhoped the committee vote would be favorable.

Dirksen echoed the hope of Committee Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash) that hearings would be completed this wek. Strauss' nomination, submitted by President Eisenhower Jan. 17, already has been before the committeefor 110 days.

Government records indicate that that period already is one day longer than the total required for action on the nominations of all 13 previous secretaries of commerce since the office was created in 1913.

★ ★ ★

Anderson, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, long has been at odds with Strauss.

Anderson has accused Strauss of telling the committee "unqualified falsehoods" and, as a former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, of inflating his contributions to atomic developments, of misleading the public, and of withholding information from Congress.

Strauss launched into his detailed repl to Anderson after an earlier complaint that he was being persecuted with false charges and cruel accusations.

Hunger Memory Throws People on Eating Binges

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) —Some people go on eating binges in the same way others go on Alcoholic sprees, a psychiatrist said Wednesday.

Some examples, said Dr. Louis G. Moench, are people who didn't get enough to eat during depressions, famine or in war prison camps.

Dr. Moench told the Western Hospital Assn. a man he treated came to the United States and became wealthy. But Dr. Moench said the man ate himself into a severe case of obesity and diabetes because at every meal he remembered his hungry childhood in Europe.

Explosions, Gunfire Erupt in Coal Strike

JELLICO, Tenn. (AP) — Two explosions in the business district of this coal town on the Kentucky state line shattered two coal tipples in the Louisville & Nashville railroad yards early today.

The tipples and coal were set afire, but no injuries were reported.

★ ★ ★

It was the latest of several incidents of violence reported since a strike of United Mine Workers members has idled much of the east Tennessee coal Industry.

Police said, however, that they had no clues to the identity of the person who set the blasts, and saw no one at the scene.

★ ★ ★

The blasts came less than 24 hours after 11 rifle shots were fired from ambush at a strip coal mine near here. Nobody was wounded.

John Deal, operator of the strip mine, said the shots were fired at him and four workmen, who ducked into a large iron bucket on a power shovel.

The mine is near Habersham near the Kentucky state line.

Pontiac Official Attends Seminar of Arson Probers

Assistant Pontiac Fire Marshal Allen Tunny was among 250 persons who attended the 15th annual arson investigators seminar at Purdue University last week.

Specialists in the field discussed interrogation of arson suspects, the juvenile fire setter, steps in building up a case against an arsonist, scientific investigation and legal procedures.

Almost 4,000 men have registered for the Purdue seminar during the past 15 years.

The first of its kind, it has been widely copied in this country and abroad.

Virginia City to Celebrate

Silver Centennial Noted

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev. (UPI) — The 100th anniversary of the first discovery of silver in the United States will be observed this summer at historic Virginia City, whose Comstock Lode helped finance the Union to victory in the Civil War.

Since 1859, when silver was found in a creek on the flanks of towering Mt. Davidson, fore than one billion dollars' worth of rare metals have been dug from beneath the rocks, sage brush and pinion piles.

Most of the rich ore body — mostly silver, but also containing considerable gold — was exploited before the turn of this century when at one time Virginia City had a population estimated at more than 25,000.

High costs of operation in the deepening shafts forced a gradual abandonment of most mining in the area. Most of the major operators gave up a generation ago.

Now, only about 500 persons still live in Virginia City — most of them helping to entertain the thousands of tourists who annually flock to The Comstock to look at the old mines, the graveyards, the bars and the buildings so typical of the days of the Old West.

This year's celebration will reach its peak on June 12, 13 and 14 when the Nevada Silver Centennial Committee will stage an elaborate program here.

Included will be Indian dances, a pageant telling the story of the discovery of silver, singing by Welsh miners, cutting of a 100-candle birthday cake, folk dancing and dedication of an appropriate monument.

One of the promotions includes the creation of an official celebration envelope — or cachet — noting the anniversary dates. Collectors can obtain the cachets, bearing a commemorative stamp and canceled at Virginia City, by sending 25 cents to Dr. Effie Mona Mack at 242 Hill St., Reno.

Special envelop cancellations are also being used from Feb. to July 31 by 10 Nevada post offices — at Reno, Virginia City, Lovelock, Winnemucca, Elko, Ely, Pioche, Las Vegas, Carson City and Tonopah.

Much of the story of the finding of silver in the Nevada hills and the founding of this mile high town is so entwined with legend by now that historians have had difficulty separating fact from fiction.

The most acceptable account is that a small party of prospectors got off the regular transcontinental trails while heading for the California gold rush and reached this area, where they dug a few holes — partly because Indians had said there was gold to be found.

Instead of gold, the prospectors uncovered dirty black metal that they almost discarded before they found it was silver, until then not discovered in the United States in minable quantities.

The hastily created mining camp took its name from "Old Virginy," a prospector of doubtful sobriety who was one of the early arrivals. The entire development, which eventually embraced hundreds of shafts and more than 300 miles of tunnels, was called the Comstock Lode, also for an early miner.

Detroit Mayor Says Executives Should Pay, Too

LANSING (UP) — Detroit's Mayor Louis C. Miriani suggested yesterday that big cities ought to have the right to tax big money makers who live in the suburbs.

★ ★ ★

The proposal came in testimony before the Senate Taxation Committee on a bill which would allow municipalities to levy an income tax.

Miriani said he was not convinced the proposed law would permit cities to tax people working there but living elsewhere.

"Everybody comes to Detroit to work and take," said Miriani. "Then they go somewhere where they have room to live.

★ ★ ★

"We've got some corporation executives who draw $30,000 to $50,000. Under the bill, the professional man would pay, but the corporation executive who goes to the suburbs to breathe clean air wouldn't.

"It seems to me if he makes his money in Detroit he ought to pay."

Stolen $15,000 Violin Pawned for $10, Shoes

NEW YORK (AP) — A stolen Amati violin valued at $15,000 was located Wednesday in a Harlem pawnshop. The man who brought it in left it in exchange for $10 in cash and a pair of shoes.

★ ★ ★

Also recovered with the violin, made in 1665 by Nicolo Amati, were two French-made violin bows worth $1,850.

★ ★ ★

Concert violinist Helen Janov said the violin and bows were stolen early this week from her East Side penthouse.

The man who pawned the pieces gave a fictitious address.

Last December, Philip's twin, Dennis and his wife, ex-chorus girl Pat Sheehan, had their first child — a boy.

Guy Mitchell Cleared on Charges in Fracas

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP) — Singer Guy Mitchell has been cleared of battery and disturbance of the peace charges growing out of a fight with a lumberyard operator.

★ ★ ★

Mitchell and Abraham Berman had filed charges against each other. Berman, 50, said Mitchell, 32, knocked him down and kicked him March 18 in a dispute over a bill for lumber. Mitchell claimed Berman started the fight. Mitchell said that his father-in-law, Aksen Sorensen, who acted as peacemaker, probably got the worst of the fighting.

Says Hearings Prove N-Testing Harmful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt) said today the current fallout hearings make clearer than ever the need for success of efforts to halt or curtail weapons tests.

the fallout hearings are before a special Senate-House Atomic Energy subcommittee.

Top government scientists already have testified that the major portion of fallout from Soviet and U.S. weapons tests conducted so far comes down on the Northern Hemisphere.

Aiken noted this and commented that "it is falling on Europe and Russia as well as on us."

An AEC scientist told the subcommittee Wednesday that atomic blasts cannot be continued indefinitely at the levels of recent years without causing dangerous worldwide radiation levels.

Carelessness Opens Way for Forgers

They're Robbing Your Bank Account

By JERRY BENNETT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—You may be close to becoming a charity case and not know it.

For signing bad checks with your good name is the fastest growing crime in the country. And what makes it pay is the money that used to be in your bank account.

Each day people are shocked to find that most, if not all, the money in their accounts has been withdrawn with checks that they never wrote.

The FBI investigated 33,027 bad check cases last year. Money involved totaled $7,933,827. FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover says:

★ ★ ★

"Even those stark statistics reveal only a partial view of the enormity of the problem, as there is no way to tabulate the countless worthless checks which go unreported by indifferent individuals."

★ ★ ★

The most startling estimate of the loss comes from Lester A. Pratt, Washington, D.C. certified public accountant and a nationally recognized authority on bank frauds. He believes that forgers get away with more than $1,750,000 a day.

Although a lot of this money is swindled from the cash registers of hotels, department stores and supermarkets, a fortune is conned from the bank accounts of unsuspecting citizens.

Pratt blames carelessness in handling personal finances for making the thefts so easy. He says many persons never examine their bank statements and cancelled checks. They toss them aside or into the waste basket.

The result is that the statements and checks often wind up in the hands of a forger.

With these documents, a forger can take you for every cent in your checking account. The cancelled checks give him the name of your bank and a liberal sampling of your signature. The statement shows him how much he can swipe before you get a notice that your account is overdrawn.

★ ★ ★

Pratt warns that contrary to popular opinion banks are not always required to make up the losses. This is often the case when victims fail to examine their statements and don't report the loss within a certain length of time.

In addition to making you the potential victim of scores of amateur forgers, negligence puts you at the mercy of the hard-to-catch professionals. U.S. Post Office Department inspectors, who enter check-swindle cases whenever the mails are involved, explain that professional forgers are often the slickest confidence men in the underworld.

One of the craftiest, P.O. inspectors report, was Robert Kline who committed suicide after he was captured last February. For almost nine years the youthful forger got away with one of the slickest check swindles in the history of crime.

Kline would search the newspapers for graduation notices of college honor students. After selecting a name, he would write the graduate's college and request a copy of his academic credits.

Using the credits as identification, Kline would land a job with a business firm. As soon as he learned the company's banking procedure, he would start forging checks on its accounts. Kline would make the checks payable to the account of a fake company which he opened in another bank.

After accumulating a tidy fortune in the phony account, the forger would withdraw the money and get out of town.

Another slick check specialist is Milton Levine, 60, whose favorite pastime was staying in expensive hotels. Levine's method of operation called for swiping checks from mail sacks in the lobbies of office buildings during the afternoon mail rush hours.

Next morning he would cash them at various banks and fly out of town. In five years, he is believed to have realized more than $100,000 from his swindles.

When the judge, who recently sentenced him, commented on his expensive tastes, Levine answered, "A lot of living in good hotels, Your Honor, is compatible with my background. It is the way of life I was born into."

The Judge, however, figured Levine needed a change and gave him 15 years in prison.

GM Holding 2-Day Meeting of Package Men

DETROIT — More than 350 General Motors packing experts from all over the world were attending a two-day "Packaging Round-Up" today at the GM Training Center, 7707 W. Chicago Blvd., Detroit.

Thirty GM divisions will display new and cost saving packages and package equipment. The exhibits range from a one-inch square cardboard carton for a roller and peg assembly to the air conditioned "garbage can" package for the Air Force's Thor ballistic missile guidance system. The cardboard cartons are used by Detroit Diesel Engine Division and the missile containers by AC Spark Plug Division.

To better aid dealers in servicing customers and to help make assembly plant operations more efficient, General Motors uses more than 200,000,000 unit packages a year. They are purchased from several hundred suppliers, most of whom are small local businesses.

The packaging conference is sponsored by the Service Parts Packaging Committee, which represents all GM divisions. William F. Hufstader, vice president in charge of the distribution staff, will address the closing dinner session Thursday night.

Swing Into Jazz

Staid Business Leaders Change Tune at Night

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—"Those fellows are musicians at heart and you can hardly find that kind anymore . . . they got the beat and that's what counts."

Jazz artist Cliff Jackson was talking about a group called The Greater New Haven Jazz Assn., which swings out with Dixieland for fun and no profit.

Jackson—who has sat in with them—thinks these cats are cool. And they are. But in the daylight you might never know it to meet them.

Take Benjy Gaillard for an example. He's president of the association. If you met him during the day he'd probably shake your hand and listen to your money problems. Benjamin T. Gaillard Jr., in daylight and a three button suit, is assistant treasurer of the Union and New Haven Trust Co.

Then there's Steve Dunn. He plays a soprano sax so that of you closed your eyes you'd swear it was Sidney Bechet. That's when he swings. But when he works you'd probably close your eyes and grimace. Dr. H. Lincoln Dunn is a New Haven dentist.

Dunn had much to do with founding the association. He has been extending his practice closer to New York over the years so that he could visit the jazz haunts there and sit in with such pros as Red Allen, Buster Bailey, Eddie Condon and Russell Moore.

His enthusiasm for jazz began one football afternoon 30 years ago at Harvard when he strode along with the university band between halves and belted out the unscheduled "Tiger Rag." It didn't go over big with the faculty but Dunn has been big with his friends ever since.

The organization is a private, non-profit club formed to provide, for people interested in jazz, an opportunity to hear the real thing inexpensively and conveniently.

★ ★ ★

The real thing is presented by such local personalities as Carleton W. Blanchard, president of Wyatt Inc.; Tom Thibeau, vice president of Connecticut Coke; Bud Finch, an early morning New Haven disc jockey; Bill Winnick, a local insurance salesman; Sherman Drutman, a former state senator.

Also included at the swinging sessions are an aircraft engineer, a factory foreman, a tobacco salesman, and a delicatessen businessman who hits the drums.

The association was officially formed two years ago when the audiences grew too big for the sessions which were held in private homes over a 10-year period.

The New Haven Assn. is much like the famed New Orleans club. However, it costs but $5 to join the New Haven club. There are now almost 100 members.

The group also hires guest stars to sit in with them and spark them to a maximum performance. The jam session are held at the Town Ho Club in Milford. The club's hall is turned over to them for nothing.

Jackson — like Buck Clayton who preceded him as a guest star — thinks the association has some real musicians. After one recent hot session he said:

"Man, I'm coming back here even if they don't invite me. This was the greatest."

Ike, Winnie Zip Around Farm on Blue Golf Cart

WASHINGTON (UP) — Picture Sir Winston Churchill zipping around President Eisenhower's farm in a baby-blue electric golf cart.

There's a cigar clinched in the Britisher's teeth and he's wearing a cowboy hat.

Picture Eisenhower driving the small cart — and it sagging a bit to the right under the Churchillian bulk as they whip over the gravel roads.

That was the picture Wednesday afternoon as the 84-year-old former prime minister of Britain and his host toured the Eisenhower acres at Gettysburg, Pa., under a blazing hot sun.

SWITCH TO COPTER

Later they switched to a Marine Corps helicopter for an aerial inspection of the historic Gettysburg battlefield where in 1863 Union and Confederate forces engaged in one of the classic conflicts of all time.

Churchill clutched his gold-tipped cane as he eased into the golf buggy alongside his chauffeur, the smiling President.

The first stop was a big cattle barn. There Eisenhower proudly pointed out his herd.

Then they flew back to the White House where last evening Eisenhower gave another stag dinner honoring Churchill.

Strange Well's Owner Preplexed

Oil, Gas Bubble in Southfield

By DICK HANSON
Suburban News Editor

SOUTHFIELD — They've struck oil and natural gas in Southfield, but the owner is perplexed.

The discovery was quite accidental — the result of a natural phenomena — at least in part.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mitchell, an employe at the new Southfield Bowl bowling alley at 23059 Eight-Mile Rd., was angry when she reported to work one morning last week.

"Look at my shoes, they're ruined," she exclaimed to her boss, Finlay McQueen, owner of the new bowling alley. He looked. The shoes were a real mess all right.

"It's icky, it bubbles and is oozy," Mrs. Mitchell added, pointing to the bowling alley parking lot.

NOT THEIR GAS

MacQueen went out to look at the lot too. "Must be a gas leak," he said. He called the Consumers Power Co.

The firm denied the gas was theirs. "We haven't got a main anywhere around there," a spokesman said. The company sent a couple of men out anyway.

"What you have there looks like an oil and natural gas well," they agreed.

★ ★ ★

When Southfield Fire Chief Alfred W. Kruck arrived on the scene, he found workmen calmly cooking hamburgers for lunch. They had ignited the crude oil for that purpose rather than let it go to waste.

The chief decided it might explode. He wanted to evacuate the bowling alley 50 feet away.

But MacQueen dissuaded him on the condition that a concrete block wall be built around the well-site immediately. It was. And, Chief Kruck posted a sign reading:

"Notice: Natural Gas & Oil Seepage. Please don't light the gas. NO COOKING!!!! Order of fire chief."

And, "DANGER, NO SMOKING."

STILL UNDECIDED

Kruck then instructed MacQueen to call in drilling experts to end the explosion menace either by capping or by drilling for oil.

MacQueen was still undecided today whether to drill or cap. "I have enough trouble getting bowling alleys installed," he said. "And where will I get the money?" He already has $500,000 tied up in the alleys.

"But, we'll contact a driller. We'll find some way to get it done," he added.

The ground has dried a little since the discovery, but a strange odor still pervades the air — a rather tantalizing odor for MacQueen. Drill or cap? That is the question.

Preview of Lansing Centennial

Caravan Due Here Saturday

Lansing will give Pontiac a taste of centennial fun Saturday.

The capital city,, which is observing its centennial this year, is sending a caravan of 75 new Oldsmobiles and 400 bearded ambassadors here.

The caravan is scheduled to enter the city on Orchard Lake avenue at 11:40 a.m., travel to downtown Saginaw street, then head north to Wisner Stadium via Oakland avenue.

At Wisner Stadium there will be a 15-minute stage show at noon for Pontiac residents who want a preview of the kind of activities that will take place here in 1961, Pontiac's centennial year.

There'll be square dancing in 19th century costume, and a presentation of centennial souvenirs to City Manager Walter K. Willman.

★ ★ ★

The bearded ambassadors are 400 Lansing men known as the Brothers of the Brush. They let their beards grow in honor of their city's centennial.

★ ★ ★

The caravan is the first of four which Lansing plans throughout the state to call attention to its centennial. Saturday's trip will also take in Walled Lake, Novi, Howell and Fenton.

★ ★ ★

Just beginning its centennial plans, Pontiac has been using the Lansing centennial as an initial model.

Re-Fill or Fill In?

People of Milford Divided on Ponds

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

MILFORD—Whether to re-fill the empty mill ponds in the heart of Milford for beauty's sake or let real estate developers plug the gapping mud holes with land-fill for a shopping center has become one of the biggest issues in this 127-year-old town.

Owner of the ponds, James Robbins, claims that he opened the floodgates on dams, draining thousands of tons of water from four ponds, because insurance companies insisted on an immediate inspection before issuing liability policies whch had expired.

He also stated that it is not good business for him to maintain the ponds at a yearly cost of $10,000, with no profit to his manufacturing company now operating in the old Ford plant on the site.

Prospective buyers for part of Robbins' property have been waiting more than eight months for the council to decide on whether to rezone the property so that an 18-store shopping center can be constructed.

In the meantime, townspeople have become alarmed as to just what is going to happen. Many were contacted by a Pontiac Press reporter in an effort to spot-check opinions on the water-versus-land-fill question. The survey turned out to be almost a 50-50 proposition.

★ ★ ★

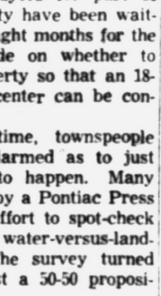
General Motors Proving Grounds employe Herbert Zachow would "just as soon see the water returned to the ponds," built by Henry Ford some 25 years ago.

ZACHOW

"Those ponds used to be recreation as well as beauty spots of the town," he said. "We took our Boy Scouts there for skating in the wintertime, and for picnics in the summer. All this will be gone if the ponds are not re-filled with water."

★ ★ ★

A Redford High School teacher who owns some 200 acres and lives just around the corner from the ponds, Mrs. Thomas Manley believes that the holes should be filled for real estate development and provide additional tax revenue for Milford.



MRS. MANLEY

"I don't think the town should take over the operation and maintenance of those ponds," she said. "If they have money—or get it through taxation, I believe we should have something more constructive like a youth center for our teenagers."

A Milford area housewife, Mrs. James Ely, likes the town as it was before the ponds were emptied, and thinks that there are plenty of adequate shopping centers just outside of the community.

MRS. ELY

"I moved out here to get away from the hustle and bustle of the city—with its shopping centers, heavy industry and such," she said. "I'd like to see those ponds restored like they were. However, I can see where Robbins has a point as far as the business angle is concerned."

Part-owner of a cleaning establishment, Mrs. Frank Eason owns and rents property directly across from the controversial ponds at 320 and 340 Summit St. She is all for filling the ponds with "good old terra firma and establishing a competitive shopping center."

MRS. EASON

"Since those ponds have been drained, tenants in both of our houses have served notice that they are moving out because of the terrific odor emitting from the mud holes. We have been getting $100 a month rent from each house. Now we'll be lucky to get anything," she added.

★ ★ ★

Owner of the Milford Cement Redi-mix plant, William Knapp, gets a kick out of the fact that so many people have become indignant over the situation.

KNAPP

He pointed out, "This has aroused Milford to the fact that we must make a decision one way or another about the growth of the town. It's good to get people thinking about the responsibilities of taxation, beauty and development here."

High school teacher William Parker thinks that Milford does not have the population to support the proposed shopping center if the land is filled in, and wants the water back in the ponds.

PARKER

"Milford is a small community, and not a big shopping area," he said. "We certainly do not want those unhealthy mud holes in the center of town—neither do we want to ruin the possibility of having scenic ponds by land-filling for the shopping center."

Some of the answers to why the water's gone — how, when and if the ponds will be re-filled, and just what will be the outcome will probably be forthcoming when Robbins appears before the Village Council at 8 p.m. Monday, according to Joseph Gerrard, village president.

Robbins said that by that time insurance inspections on all but the main Huron River dam will have been completed and he will try to find out what the council wants to do.

Rochester Will Select Fourth of July Queen

ROCHESTER—The "Miss America Pageant" will provide the format for the June 3 contest to select the girl who will reign over the Kiwanis "Family 4th-O-Rama" celebration here.

★ ★ ★

Entrants will be judged on poise, personality, grace and charm as well as on talent which they will exhibit in the show production of competition.

To be a contestant, a girl must be between 17 and 21 years of age and a resident of the Rochester Community School District.

Candidates for the crown will compete in three classifications. These are bathing suit, talent show and formal dress.

VARIETY IN EACH

In the bathing suit division, the girls will be judged on trimness of figure, color of suit, proper fit, style, carriage, self-confidence and charm.

When they return for the talent show, the girls may sing, dance, give a reading or play a musical instrument.

Judging in the formal division will be based on grooming, accessories, style and color of costume, carriage and poise.

The contest will be held in the Rochester High School student lounge and cafeteria at 8 p.m.

Five judges, two local and three from out of town, are being selected, said contest chairman Mrs. Oscar J. Sorenson Jr.

Winner of the competition will reign as "Miss Rochester Independence Day Queen" during the village's Fourth of July celebration.

She also will receive a complete wardrobe and be considered to represent Rochester in other area contests.

★ ★ ★

Second and third place winners will serve as the queen's court.

Girls interested in entering the contest may contact Mrs. Sorenson, of 404 W. Third St.

Martin Faces Pair of Charges

Ex-Convict to Stand Trial for Kidnaping and Rape

Harold E. Martin, 20-year-old ex-convict will stand trial on charges of kidnaping and rape.

★ ★ ★

Martin was bound over the Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday by Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan at the conclusion of the defendant's pre-trial examination.

★ ★ ★

He will be arraigned at 1:30 p.m. Monday on both counts in Circuit Court.

Martin, of 739 E. Madison Ave., is being held in the Oakland County Jail. Bond is $10,000 on each of the charges.

He is accused of stealing a car the evening of April 14, kidnaping 17-year-old JoAnne Visure and raping her.

★ ★ ★

Police found the pair the next morning in Bloomfield Township.

Martin has demanded a pre-trial hearing on the auto theft charge. It will be held June 10 in municipal court.

'Old McDonald' Gets Mixed With Hymn

MAQUOKETA, Iowa (UP) — George Davis of Maquoketa, serving with the Navy at Norfolk, Va., sent a tape-recorded greeting from his family to relatives here.

★ ★ ★

Davis and his 5-year-old son Ricky sang "Old MacDonald Had a Farm." Two-year-old Gina sang "Jesus Loves Me." She made it through the first verse all right. But when it came to the chorus, she used her own version: "Yes, Jesus love me . . . yes, Jesus loves me . . . yes, Jesus loves

Bossardet Heads Group to Study Oxford Needs

OXFORD — Edward J. Bossardet has been elected president of the Oxford Citizens Study Group which recently was appointed to investigate village problems and to report its findings to the Village Council.

★ ★ ★

Stewart Langley was elected vice president and secretary of the six-man committee. The group has decided to hold meetings twice a month.

Upon the recommendation of the council, the study committee will start with the project of looking for a suitable site for a fire station, village offices and police department.

The council has listed certain requirements which the group is asked to take into consideration in the selection of an appropriate location.

These include that the property be within reasonable walking distance to the downtown area and that it provide building space of 3,600 square feet for village offices and fire station plus approximately 1,200 square feet for a civic center.

Another prerequisite is that there be parking space for at least 30 cars and that the location be on a street with direct routes and protection for fire trucks.

The feasibility of including the township in the overall building program or other public facilities should also be considered, the council has advised.

★ ★ ★

Village Attorney Robert V. Parenti and Village Manager Ralph Precious were present at the study group's organizational meeting.

Other membrers of the committee, besides Bossardet and Langley, are Clifford Vennard, Dr. Donald C. Davidson, Harry Hall and Gerald C. Olrich.

Detroit Is Now Convinced

More Dock Space Sought

DETROIT (UPI)—Detroit, which had to be convinced it needed more dock facilities to handle St. Lawrence Seaway traffic, today began exploring various plans for additional facilities.

The Port of Detroit Commission, a Wayne County body which has urged expansion of dock facilities with no success for several years, revived a plan for an east side terminal.

The commission, which now has the visual proof of ships lined up in the Detroit River waiting for dock space, arranged a special meeting with Detroit Mayor Miriani to discuss the possibility of the east side terminal. It also toured deteriorating riverfront areas which might be suitable for the terminal.

Meanwhile, two private Detroit terminals invited foreign ships to use their facilities to unload cargoes in order to relieve the jam in the river.

The invitations were extended by the Nicholson Transit Co. and the Detroit Marine Terminals Inc. But agents for the foreign ships in the harbor said both Nicholson and Detroit Marine lacked warehouse and transit shed facilities needed.

Fire Chief Purchases 100-Year-Old Jail Cell

WOODSTOCK, Ohio (UPI) — Fire chief Charles I. Clark recently purchased a century-old collector's item for just $5 — the town jail.

It's a six-by-eight-foot portable cell which has been only used occasionally during the past 25 years for overnight guests. Woodstock's prisoners are now sent to jails in nearby towns.

It's Really Heat After All

Scientists Find Humidity Has Only Minor Effect

CLEVELAND (NEA)— Gathered in a soundproof isolation room, human guinea pigs in Cleveland are writing school lessons and playing cards to pass the time. Outside the chamber, scientists are twisting knobs that can really turn on the heat.

The experiments may answer for all time the question, "When are people comfortable?"

The project is conducted by the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air-Conditioning Engineers at its Cleveland research center. The group is a non-profit engineering organization which makes data available to the public.

Its findings are exploding some old theories, like the time-honored saw: "It's not the heat, it's the humidity."

Ashrae scientists are discovering that it is the heat, not so much the humidity, that makes a person uncomfortable.

The 12x24-foot test chamber, the only one of its kind in the country, is surrounded by a $150,000 air-conditioning apparatus. The height of the room can be varied from eight to 12 feet.

Subjects inside—students, housewives, elderly persons — are fed a manufactured atmosphere. City air is washed, dried, filtered, then heated and moisturized and pumped into the room.

Every half hour the subjects record how they feel—too hot, too cold, dry, unpleasant or indifferent. They check off 44 reactions to the artificial climate on information sheets.

★ ★ ★

The floor can be heated and one wall cooled while another wall is heated and the ceiling brought near the freezing point. Technicians can duplicate every type of temperature variation and moisture condition found in the home.

Before, during and after the three-hour sessions, physiologist Dr. Walter Koch records body temperatures, loss of weight and other physical changes.

Armed with the results of the experiments, the society will be able to advise on the best method of air-conditioning and heating homes of the future.

Other specialized tests will be conducted later on infirm persons and children to determine the best temperature-humidity for hospitals and schools.

James E. Loucks, of the laboratory, says that tests are still inconclusive. But it appears that humidity, except when very high or very low, plays only a small part in personal comfort.

Humans are not the only ones to benefit from the center's research. Experiments on animals have shown, for example, that pigs like cool floors but don't like puddles. Porkers came to maturity happily and healthily when deprived of their traditional soggy environment.

Tire Business Shipshape, Thanks to Small Boats

AKRON Ohio (UPI) — Everything's shipshape in the rubber tire business. Helping the industry along are the people who own boats.

E. F. Tomlinson president of B. F. Goodrich Tire Co. estimates that more than 1½ million trailers for small boats have been built since 1946 and that these account for the sale of about one million dollars worth of automobile tires a year.

'ALOHA 50' — With a big "Aloha 50" salute to the newest of the United States spelled out on her flight deck by her crew, the attack aircraft carrier USS Lexington sails into Pearl Harbor. Planes of the carrier rest in positions amidships and on the stern.

Jets' Success Surprises America's Busy Airlines

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The jets are doing fine. In fact, even better than expected.

That sums up the first six months of U.S. commercial aviation's entry into the jet age. The airline's fast-expanding fleet of jetliners and jet-props is performing beyond all expectations.

This is the picture of the first half-year of jet operations:

HOW'S BUSINESS?

The airlines frankly admit they have been surprised by the impact of the jet age. The pure jets are booked solid for weeks and even months ahead.

The smaller but almost as fast jet-props are carrying far more passengers than piston-engine planes over corresponding routes during corresponding periods.

A UPI airline-by-airline survey showed these results:

PAN AMERICAN — Boeing 707 jetliner flights to Europe are booked solid until mid-August and reservations are heavy well into September. Said one Pan-Am official: "In April, we've been booking mostly tickets for late fall, and that's never happened before." Pan-Am also reports reservations are heavier than usual on its slower DC7 piston engine planes, an indication that the jets have stimulated over-all business. Pan-Am, first U.S. carrier to inaugurate jet service, already has flown more than 50,000 passengers across the Atlantic in its 707's and will pass the 100,000 mark by June.

AMERICAN — Load factors (percentage of total seats filled) in 707 jetliners are running at least 95 per cent and often hit 100 per cent. American's Lockheed Electras, a new jet-prop airliner, are averaging load factors of 80 per cent, about 20 per cent above the average for the airline's piston-engine planes. The Electra is proving to be so much faster than anticipated, American had to abandon conventional meal service on its New York-Chicago flights. Instead of serving each passenger individually, stewardesses roll a big buffet table down the aisle to speed up service. "The girls just couldn't keep up with the Electra," an American spokesman explained.

TRANS WORLD — Load factors of 95-100 per cent are reported on 707 flights between San Francisco-New York and Los Angeles-Chicago. TWA in early April was booking passengers for jet flights as far ahead as August — "the earliest advance sale in TWA history," a company spokesman added.

EASTERN — This carrier, which hasn't started pure jet operations, is beaming over its new Electras. Their load factors are 10 to 15 per cent higher than on March 26, one of the busiest days in Eastern's history, the airline flew 69.85 per cent of capacity system-wide. The load factor for Electras that day was 81.5 per cent.

Airline officials concede that part of the mushrooming patronage is sheer curiosity; people like to fly in new planes.

★ ★ ★

Several years ago, Capital Airlines introduced its jet-prop Viscounts between Washington and Chicago and drained considerable business away from competitors.

But the airlines also believe the fantastic load factors on jet-powered flights are more than just curiosity.

Passengers obviously are intrigued by the faster schedules and smooth luxury of the jetliners.

ARE THEY SAFE?

All new airliners develop certain "bugs" in the initial months of scheduled operations.

But from all reports, the newest jet-powered additions to America's commercial air fleet have had fewer bugs than previous airliners.

Only one pure jet has gone into line operation — the Boeing 707. Pan-Am, which has been flying the 707 for the longest period, says "we have had fewer troubles with the plane than with any other type of aircraft.

"We expected the 707 to be easier and less expensive to fly and so far nothing has happened to change our minds," a Pan-Am executive declared.

The Civil Aeronautics Board, which keeps close tabs on all operating difficulties airliners encounter, says the 707, Electra and F27 generally appear to be freer of major bugs than any other new transport in history.

Police Will Recognize Man From Description

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—"Please help me find my husband," pleaded a woman's voice as an Augusta policeman answered the telephone. "He has been drinking and just left home driving our car. Please find him before he gets hurt or kills someone."

The officer asked for a description of the man and the car, but the woman broke in, saying: "Oh, you won't have any trouble finding him. He left home without a stitch of clothes on."

The Knik Glacier, which serves as a natural dam for Lake George, is only 45 miles from Alaska's largest city, Anchorage.

Tow Bad, He's Stuck

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — Amos E. Corliss, an emergency tow truck driver for an automobile firm, called police to ask them to haul away a car blocking his driveway.

MacLeish to Do More Drama

Pulitzer Winner Says He'll Concentrate Now on Playwriting

NEW YORK (AP) — Archibald MacLeish, a winner this week of his third Pulitzer prize, says he wants to concentrate on drama from now on.

"As nearly as I can judge," he says, "that is what I want to do most."

★ ★ ★

Three days ago his verse drama "J.B." won the 1959 playwriting trophy. The prize, he says, brought an even greater satisfaction than the two Pulitzer awards for poetry won in 1933 and 1953.

Today, on his 67th birthday, the tall gray man who has been lawyer, journalist, librarian, diplomat, poet and educator, is moving along with forceful, genial drive.

MacLeish, who started out as a Yale quarterback and captain of water polo, talks in simple, unpedantic terms. A conversational reference to Marxism brings the comment that the black-and-white absolutes of such ideology "bore the hell out of me."

Discussing the triumph of "J.B.," the Harvard English professor says:

"I couldn't have been more excited if I was marrying for the first time," he says. "You realize that with a play, the efforts of many people besides you have gone into the winning."

The drama is based upon the Biblical Book of Job, with a modern man of business — referred to throughout by just his initials — experiencing successive misfortunes that strip him of fortune, family and happiness. The Broadway production stars Raymond Massey, Christopher Plummer and James Daly, who has the title role.

The theme of "justification of blind human misery," MacLeish explains, was impressed upon him when he visited London shortly after the blitz of World War II. Five years ago he began intensive work on the script.

Of some criticism that the play is murky, MacLeish says, "I wasn't trying to provide an answer — but present a situation."

Kidnaped Tot Back Unharmed

Fugitive Baby Sitter Snatched 1½-Year-Old Boy Monday

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Sleepy little Mitchell Johnson snuggled into his mother's arms late Wednesday, back home from a nightmare probably he won't remember much about.

The 1½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson was flown back from Dallas where his 16-year-old baby sitter took him.

It all started last Monday when the baby sitter, Betty Smithey, a snub-nosed fugitive from the Girls Welfare Home in Albuquerque, wandered off with the little boy.

She had been sitting with him in the Johnson's home at Placitas, a mountain village northeast of Albuquerque.

"I don't know why I did it," the orphaned teenager said in Dallas after her arrest.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Johnson had been working as a psychologist at the girls institution. She said she resigned Friday and received permission to take Betty home with her.

Her attempts to give Mitchell to strangers in a drugstore in Dallas led to recovery of the baby. Betty was found by police in a cafeteria in downtown Dallas.

An airline employe carried Mitchell from the plane in Albuquerque to his mother. As he reached for her, the little redhead murmured, "mama, mama."

Mrs. Johnson, wan from worry, said, "I knew he was safe."

Then she said, "I'm so relieved."

As for the Smithey girl, held in Dallas, Mrs. Johnson said, "I'm so grateful she took good care of my baby."

The nine acts of Eugene O'Neill's play "Strange Interlude" (including a dinner intermission) ran for 426 nights on Broadway.

First of the synthetic automobile tires were placed on the market in the United States in June 1940.

An airplane motor must develop at least 12 times more power per pound than any other kind of a modern fuel-propelled engine unit.

Also Accused of Rape Attempt

Charge Youth Beat Girl, 15

TUCUMCARI, N.M. (AP)—A 15-year-old Tucumcari youth has been charged on two counts of assault in the beating and attempted rape of a 15-year-old high school classmate.

The youth, Wayne Allen Granger, was free on 1$,500 bond today, charged with assault with intent to kill and assault to rape.

★ ★ ★

Granger pleaded innocent to the charges at his preliminary hearing Wednesday.

The girl was found bruised and battered, south of Tucumcari Tuesday in a clump of mesquite bushes, covered with tumbleweeds.

Attendants at Tucumcari General hospital listed her condition as fair.

Police said the girl, walking with her cocker spaniel, was offered a ride by the youth.

He told police he then made advances to the girl, was rebuffed, and started beating her with his fists.

He drove to a mesquite-covered field, took the leash from the dog and choked the girl with it. He dragged her from the car into a clump of mesquite, picked up a rock and beat the girl's face with it.

★ ★ ★

He covered the unconscious body with tumbleweeds, took the dog to a nearby asphalt cooker tank and placed the animal inside to prevent it from directing attention to the spot. The dog was unharmed.

A youngster, hunting rabbits in the deserted field, heard the girl's moans and called an ambulance.

★ ★ ★

Police called were able to question the semiconscious girl and learned the name of her assailant. The youth was arrested at his home.

Myron Taylor Is Dead at 85

Was Board Chairman of U.S. Steel, Envoy to Vatican

NEW YORK (AP) — Myron C. Taylor, 85, former chairman of the board of U.S. Steel Corp. and former presidential representative to the Vatican, died Wednesday at his home.

Taylor retired from U.S. Steel at the age of 64. In 1927, as chairman of the firm's finance committee, Taylor was credited with wiping out the company's 340-million-dollar funded debt by issuing common stock.

In 1939 he was appointed by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt as his personal envoy to the Vatican and the late Pope Pius XII. He also acted as former President Harry S. Truman's personal representative to Pope Pius.

The appointment met with protests by Protestant groups, although Taylor was an Episcopalian of Quaker ancestry. Taylor himself took no part in the dispute.

Taylor later described Pope Pius as "an outspoken and courageous leader of all men believing in God and human liberty."

Taylor received the Medal of Merit from President Truman in 1948 for his 10-year service in the Vatican post.

Born in Lyons, N.Y., Taylor received a law degree from Cornell University and became a successful corporation lawyer before turning to industrial management.

★ ★ ★

In the business world, Taylor also was active in rubber, banking and textiles. His biggest financial coup was the two-billion-dollar merger of the Guaranty Trust Co. and the Bank of Commerce.

The United States paid 10 million dollars originally to Panama for the Canal Zone in 1904. An additional 40 million dollars was paid to the French company which began the canal in 1878.

Now Looks to Seaway Spurt

Bay City Boasts Diversified Industrial Base

(This is the 12th in a series of articles on Michigan's industrial and cultural achievements written by Michigan newsmen as an introduction to Michigan Week 17-23.)

By LESLIE E. ARNDT
Staff Writer, Bay City Times

BAY CITY—An historical transition that has been appropriately entitled, "From Sawdust to Seaway," tells the story of Bay City.

Once the camping grounds of the Chippewa Indians, it can glance back nostalgically to its early days as a brawling, sprawling hub of America's lumber industry.

Its population hasn't changed much from its lumbering heydey, but townspeople have new confidence the city will grow and prosper as the St. Lawrence waterway opens the doors to world trade. Already plans are laid for a huge July 3-5 festival marking seaway completion, although the project won't be done until later in the year.

Evolution from colorful lumber barons and furtraders to Chevrolet workers and manufacturers of guided missile destroyers provides a Bay City history filled with plenty of fascinating chapters. On the way the 122-year-old city passed through lumbering, salt-mining and shipbuilding stages to its present diversification of industry.

Many believe its future potential awaits only the completion of the seaway. Then Bay City, Saginaw and Midland, will break the fresh-water barrier. Already a "Golden Triangle" boom is evident, and a Tri-County Seaway Study committee is at work on an areawide development program.

Bay City has over 100 manufacturing firms today. Products range from peanut butter and knotty pine furniture to ships and industrial cranes.

Some 120 years have passed since Stephen Wolverton came to the end of what the Indians called the Saginaw Trail from Detroit, at what is now Bay City. He was armed with a commission to build a lighthouse at the Saginaw River's mouth. That was in July, 1837, the same year Michigan became a state.

Bay City, cradle of pine stands, was a "natural" as lumber king of the world. Sawmills dotted its river banks for miles. In the banner year of 1888, enough lumber (over four billion feet) was cut in the mills along the Saginaw River to make a sidewalk of two-inch plank four feet wide circling the globe four times.

In the 1850s the county's salt basin was tapped and this business flourished. Came the year 1890 and the area, like the rest of Michigan, was singing the swan song of a once-mighty timberland.

Those with stakes in the land began looking about for something to replace lumber processing. They laid the groundwork for today's span of newer industries.

Out of this, among other things, came a machine shop (Industrial Brownhoist Corp.), which in time began turning out mammoth railroad and industrial cranes that are used the world over. Then came a shipyard (Wheeler) which launched the first 600-foot steel freighter to ply the Great Lakes.

Today's bustling Defoe Shipbuilding Co. began as a "do-it-yourself" project in production of knockdown boats. It now builds super-freighters 650 feet long, among the largest in the lakes' fleets, as well as U. S. Navy vessels.

It is currently at work on multi-million dollar Navy contracts calling for four guided missile destroyers, largest ever built inland. This will keep the firm busy through 1962. The seaway already has meant that to the community.

With the coming of the automobile, another plant that had been internationally famous for its bicycles changed to automobile parts. Today it is one of the Chevrolet Motor Division plants of General Motors Corp.

★ ★ ★

Dow Chemical is currently building huge petrochemical plants in adjacent Bangor township. It has established an overseas marine terminal on Saginaw River, and more than two dozen ocean-going vessels put in last year to take aboard chemicals and plastics bound for European ports.

Consumers Power Co. is building a $150 million electric generating plant at the river's mouth, adjacent to its big John C. Weadock plant, ultimately to be largest in the statewide system. It is named for Dan E. Karn, Consumers' president.

Shopping hub of northeastern Michigan, Bay City hits an annual retail volume of $130 million-plus. It has a brand new multi-billion dollar downtown shopping center.

Few cities can match Bay City's 75.7 per cent of home ownership. Its long-range, pay-as-you-go public school building program has attained national prominence.

Teddy's Son was Prime Mover

American Legion Notes 40-Years Service to Vets

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The American Legion, its seed planted in France in the twilight of the First World War, is celebrating its 40th anniversary.

Praised for service to veterans and the community, the Legion also has been criticized on charges of ultra - nationalism, governmental meddling and too much convention horseplay.

★ ★ ★

But its critics cannot deny the influence and power of the Legion with its 2,814,000 members.

The U.S. Army high command provided the spur for the birth of the Legion.

After Germany had been defeated, discontent arose in the American Expeditionary Force. The war was over and the doughboys wanted to go home.

The Army high command, seeking to rub out this discontent, called 20 National Guard and Reserve officers to a Paris meeting aimed at finding ways to end the soldiers' grumbling. There was talk and some recommendations.

But some officers were thinking farther ahead.

One was Lt. Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., son of the 26th President. Roosevelt had been thinking of a veterans' organization long before the high command moved to still the foot soldiers' complaints.

With Roosevelt the prime force, the 20 men formed a unit and spread the word that a meeting would be held March 15, 1919 in Paris.

Some 1,000 officers and enlisted men flocked to Paris to a caucus, March 15-17, and the Legion was on its way.

In the United States, there followed an intensive campaign to acquaint veterans with the proposed organization. In St. Louis on May 6, 1919 the advance committee of each state made plans for a general caucus.

On the afternoon of May 8th, Roosevelt called the caucus to order.

Immediately, there was a stampede to elect him permanent chairman, against his wishes. He promptly resigned.

Roosevelt was said to have felt that the Legion would be hurt by having a person with such a well-known name as his at its helm. Finally elected chairman was Henry D. Lindsley of Texas.

The Legion was chartered by Act of Congress and the charter convention was held in Minneapolis Nov. 10-12, 1919.

★ ★ ★

This Saturday Legionnaires will return to downtown St. Louis to a plaque on a utility company wall—formerly the site of a theater where the Legion was born — and hold rededication ceremonies.

HOTTEST LOOKING, HOTTEST SAVING,

A V8-powered Impala Convertible . . . unmistakably '59!

HOTTEST SELLING OF THE LEADING LOW-PRICED 3

What we mean—this new Chevy's gone and whipped up a one-car heat wave. Its fresh, flashing style (nothing warmed over here!) caught on right away, of course. And on no other American car will you find a V8 that actually puts out better than one horsepower for every cubic inch of displacement.

As for getting the most out of a gallon, a pair of Chevy 6's came in one-two in their class in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run—ahead of every other full-size car. And the winning average over the Los Angeles to Kansas City route was a hot 22.38 m.p.g.

But, impressive as these records are, they can only hint at why Chevrolet's '59's hottest selling car. To really find out, just drop down to your dealer's and drive one.

By Yugoslav Radiation Accident

Study of Organ Transplanting Aided

BOSTON (NEA) — Because an atomic reactor ran wild in Yugoslavia, the day is closer when you can go to a tissue bank for a spare kidney or piece of skin.

No complete breakthrough has been effected in grafting new organs for diseased or injured ones, but a promising line of research has been strengthened.

Dr. John P. Merrill, head of Boston's Peter Bent Brigham Hospital's kidney research laboratory, has been in Europe investigating treatment that saved the lives of four Yugoslavs. They were among six exposed to hitherto lethal doses of radiation in a nuclear reactor accident.

Radiation destroyed vital blood-producing bone marrow. Generally, 400 to 800 roentgens of radiation will prove fatal. Yet these men absorbed 500 to 1,000 and survived.

Credit for the seeming miracle goes to Dr. George A. Mathe and his colleagues at the Curie Foundation Hospital in Paris.

Dr. Mathe transplanted new bone marrow in five of the six men to replace that destroyed in the accident. More than five months later, four of the five are alive and well, their transplants still functioning.

The Paris experiment could point the way to successful transplants of kidneys and other human tissue, for marrow transplants (as of this writing) are basic to tissue grafting between persons who are not identical twins.

The blood of one twin will not "recognize" tissue grafted from the other as "foreign." This recognition by blood antibodies is what causes the destruction of tissue grafted from unrelated persons.

The rationale of transplanting new bone marrow after radiation is that new or "foreign" marrow will be unable to "recognize" and thus destroy subsequently grafted "foreign" tissue.

Radiation will destroy marrow to make way for a transplant. But how much radiation will kill the marrow and not do the same for the patient? The Paris work may offer pertinent data.

"We won't know for sure whether the Paris transplants have been successful for at least a year," said Dr. Merrill, who is a close friend of Dr. Mathe.

The sequence of events that led to the Curie Hospital experiment began Oct. 15, 1958, when a nuclear reactor near Belgrade went out of control, exposing six technicians to lethal radiation.

BONE DAMAGE

The men were flown to Paris where tests confirmed gamma rays had damaged or destroyed their bone marrow.

One man responded to classic therapy of blood transfusions, rest and vitamins. The other five showed an almost absolute lowering of their white blood-cell count.

These cells produce antibodies primarily responsible for the body's defense against disease and "foreign" substances.

Dr. Mathe decided to attempt the marrow transplants.

About 250 cubic centimeters (12-15 million cells) of the thick red liquid were withdrawn from donors and injected into the five Yugoslavs.

The technician who had been closest to the reactor did not revive. The other four responded and within weeks their white blood-cell count began to rise.

Dr. Mathe announced to the press the marrow transplant had "taken." The experiment may, he said, "offer a logical means of therapy, not only for those receiving massive radiation, but also for leukemics."

Eddie and Liz Plan to Wed Next Tuesday

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Eddie Fisher plans to marry Elizabeth Taylor in Las Vegas, Nev. next Tuesday — the day after he gets his Nevada divorce from Debbie Reynolds.

★ ★ ★

The singer changed his wedding day, originally set for Thursday, to make sure Mike Todd Jr., son of Miss Taylor's late husband, would be on hand as best man. Todd has to be in Spain next Thursday.

Fisher, making a Las Vegas hotel appearance, expects to get a Nevada divorce Monday, the day his six-week legal residence ends. Miss Reynolds said she would not contest it.

★ ★ ★

This will be Fisher's second marriage and Miss Taylor's fourth. The darkhaired actress was divorced from Hotel Heir Nick Hilton and Actor Michael Wilding. Her third husband, Showman Mike Todd, died in a plane crash last year.

Firm Will Subsidize Famed 'Candy Train'

MILLSTON, Wis. (AP) — A Milwaukee confectionery firm has decided to "subsidize" what has become known as the "candy train" in east central Wisconsin.

For years, crewmen on North Western Railway freight trains have been tossing candy to children in Millston and nearby Wyeville.

Now the Howard B. Stark Co. of Milwaukee has advised the railway that as long as the train runs between Millston and Wyeville, free candy will be supplied the crews.

"We feel that any group of men kind enough to dip into their own pockets daily for the reason they have, deserve some subsidizing," the company said.

Ears Can Identify Mugger With Mask

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A long hatpin, a whistle, and a "good scream" are a gal's best friends when a mugger strikes says Alice Clifford, a lieutenant on the Philadelphia police force.

But if any of these means fail to drive off the attacker or bring help, then Lt. Clifford recommends the victim try to get a good look at her attacker's face and if he is masked, then a good look at his ears.

No two pairs of ears are alike, she says.

Are you a little $hORT Thi$ MonTh?

Come out from behind that cloud. Throw away that map to the poor house. Light up that old face with a smile. We have the solution to your problem! Look! Just you round up all those things around your house that you don't use any more. You've got lots of them . . . like that old stove you replaced, and the furniture in the attic . . . and how about the kids' outgrown toys and the camera you never use. When you get all those things rounded up, call FE 2-8181 (that's the number at the Pontiac Press Want Ad Department) and let the friendly girl who answers help you write an ad offering those things for sale. Now, that's easy enough, isn't it. And pretty soon, when the phone begins to ring and people come to buy the things you want to sell, you'll have the cash you need to pay all your bills and then some! Why, you're getting much taller already!

Traffic Jammed at Seaway Gate

41 Ships Bunched Up on Lake Ontario Behind Welland Canal Lock

PORT WELLER, Ont. (UP)—Officials hoped to straighten out a traffic jam in the St. Lawrence Seaway at the Welland Canal today but would make no promises.

★ ★ ★

A fleet of 41 ships bunched up to enter the single lock taking them into the 27½ mile waterway between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie, bypassing Niagara Falls.

The lock at the Port Weller end of the canal lifts ships from the Lake Ontario level. Each time it is lowered it brings along a vessel bound the other way.

★ ★ ★

Traffic eastbound from Lake Erie to Lake Ontario so far has been only normal.

Another bottleneck was developing in the Detroit River between Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair. Ships waiting to unload were bunching up in the channel with prospects that the way may not be cleared before the weekend.

★ ★ ★

Transport Minister George Hees told the House of Commons yesterday that the snags were due to momentary overpopularity of the Seaway, which opened for business April 25. Ships were jammed up, he said, by the ice-delayed opening.

Lake Superior Storm Feared Fatal to Trio

MUNISING (UP)—Three commercial fishermen were lost and feared drowned when caught in a sudden storm on Lake Superior waters last night.

★ ★ ★

The three men had set out to pull in their fish nets. The storm blew up while they were on the water. Waves reached 15 feet in height under estimated 50 mile and Louis Powell, 65, all of Munising. Skin drivers planned to search the channel today.

Debra Paget Collapses After Strenuous Dance

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Actress Debra Paget is recovering from what was described as lung congestion caused by exhaustion.

She collapsed after a strenuous dance routine at the Flamingo hotel Tuesday night.

A spokesman said she will be released from the hospital in a day or two but it isn't known whether she will be able to resume her act.

Light travels from the sun to the earth in eight minutes 19 seconds.

But Critics Cite Rights

New Mental Health Bill Intended to End Stigma

LANSING (AP) — Advocates of a bill to revise Michigan's mental health laws told a joint legislative committee last night the measure would end the social stigma of commitment procedures.

Opponents said the proposed bill would violate civil rights.

The measure was prepared by a special study committee headed by Rep. Ben. E. Lohman (R-Hamilton). The group included representatives of state mental health and judicial societies.

The bill seeks to update mental health laws which went on the books in 1877.

It would encourage voluntary commitments. This, proponents said, would result in earlier, and thus more effective, treatment.

It would permit mental patients full civil rights except if they were determined incompetent by a court or if restrictions were deemed necessary for the medical welfare of patients by hospital heads.

The receiving hospital would also make a temporary determination at the time of admission of the amount to be paid by the patient and others liable for his support.

Drafters of the bill said this would produce immediately, in many cases, much needed revenue for the state and county. They added it would also make the patient and his family active participants in the treatment program rather than merely recipients of a benefit from the state or county.

Under present law, a person can be admitted to a mental hospital either by judicial commitment or by voluntary admission.

The proposed new law would add to these two procedures hospitalization on medical certification or without medical certification in emergency cases.

Probate Judge Wallade Waalkes of Grand Rapids called the bill "A step to remove the stigma associated with hospitalization of the mentally ill in Michigan."

Panamanian Patrol Encounters Rebels

PANAMA (AP) — A three-man National Guard patrol exchanged gunfire Wednesday with six Cuban invaders still holding out near the ancient Caribbean port of Portobelo.

A government spokesman said there were no casualties on either side and the invaders got away.

The six Cubans are remnants of a band of about 90 which invaded Panama on April 25 in a Panamanian-led attempt to set off a revolt against President Ernesto De La Guardia. The six fled into the jungle when the others surrendered last Friday.

Cuban Charge d'Affaires Ricardo Riano Jauma said he had appealed for "clemency and benevolence" for the captured invaders, both to the Panamanian foreign office and to the Organization of American States mission which negotiated the surrender.

Panama judical authorities are questioning the prisoners before the government decides whether to put them on trial in Panama or ship them back to Cuba for the Castro government to handle.

Youth Who Shot Teacher Held Insane

SANTA FE, N.M., (AP) — A 17-year-old youth charged with assault with intent to kill, in the shooting of Santa Fe High School teacher Porfirio "Porky" Leyva, has been declared insane and ordered to a mental institution.

Juvenile Judge Sam Montoya ordered Larry Romero, Santa Fe High school student, committed to a California Institution. Romero has been declared insane and or-

The shooting of Leyva took place at the school Feb. 24. He was not seriously injured, receiving only a slight head wound.

★ ★ ★

The youth's father, Lauriano Romero, was ordered by Judge Montoya to take the boy to San Bernardino, where he will be placed in an institution.

It is estimated 3,500,000 persons left American farms to dwell in cities in the period 1940-50.

Iraq Releases Airliner After 27-Hour Delay

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraqi authorities today released an Italian airliner with 29 persons aboard after holding it for 27 hours. The plane took off for Beirut and Rome.

★ ★ ★

The Baghdad representative of the airline Alitalia, Joseph Thweny, said the plane did not have the required permission to fly over Iraq and landed here Wednesday on radio instructions from the Baghdad airport's control tower.

He denied an earlier report that the four-engine airliner was forced down by Iraqi fighters.

The passengers included four Americans. They were identified by the airline only as Mr. and Mrs. Lachwal, en route to Beirut; and men named Laren and Harry, en route to Athens.

The plane was on a flight from Tehran to Beirut, Athens, Rome and London.

Bob Condsidine Says:

Feel Sorry for Yourself? Visit a Hospital

NEW YORK — The next time you feel sorry for yourself, visit a hospital.

These words are being written a few minutes after a memorable visit to the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, New York University-Bellevue Medical Center.

I saw a little Bolivian boy proudly watering his flowers, manipulating the spray with tiny hands that seem to grow out of his body without the intervening extension of arms. And I attended the wedding of a fine-looking young man who is paralyzed below the neck he broke in a car accident.

Enid Annenberg Haupt, publisher of Seventeen, has made a wondrous contribution to the institute, aimed at expanding the horizons of its kids. The gift is a playground whose gear will be fitted to the physical limitations of the users, an outdoor grill on which they can cook their picnic fare, and a superb hot house where spring will always be in breathless bloom.

★ ★ ★

It is unique, but surely one day will be found at the side of many hospitals. The therapeutic properties hardly need delineation: the rebirth of plants and flowers, the emergence of rare beauty from homely soil, the patient progress of nature.

The passageways of the place allow for the dimensions and intricacies of wheelchairs; the flower pots are built low, where they can be reached.

★ ★ ★

This good woman, whose love of children and flowers has here found perfect communion, is prouder of an herb patch than anything she has touched. She showed it to us, a shallow table-like garden sprouting rosemary, lavender, thyme, sage, dill, mint and the like.

It is a garden for blind children. Here, fragrance and the feel of texture will substitute for the delights of color. Nearby, a cactus corner — confined to needleless species because of the questing hands and fingers of the blind gardeners.

Dr. Howard A. Rusk, the great rehabilitationist who directs the institute, was suddenly summoned as he showed us through the fairyland. A pretty assistant reminded him, "The wedding's about to start." He invited us to come along.

Linda Williams, a pretty Virginia girl all done up in blue, stood alone by a great window of Rusk's office, overlooking the river. She was lost in thought. Enid Haupt made a little girl-talk with her for a bit, culminated when she fished through her purse and found a treasured kerchief to give her. It provided the "something old," and the girl was touchingly grateful.

David Beatty waited in a room across the hall. He sat straight as an arrow in his roll-chair, his head held high by his heavy neck brace, like a West Pointer on parade. Near him sat a friend in similar armor, and with a similarly severed spinal cord.

There was a nurse or two, a best man from down Virginia way, and the Rev. Kenneth C. Fordyce of the Methodist Church of New Cumberland, W. Va.

★ ★ ★

Linda William, engaged to David before the terrible accident, came in on the arm of her father. Her husband-to-be could not turn his head to see her. The best man and the minister wheeled him around to position, and there followed the tender recitation of the marriage pact, the half-whispered pledges, promises.

"For better or for worse, in sickness and in health," fluttered through the room and took compelling meaning. The best lady put her handkerchief briefly to her nose and mouth.

It was a double ring ceremony. David Beatty looked up at her with amused apology in his fine eyes. His hand was lifted by the best man and the minister while Linda placed the ring on his finger. And then it was over. Linda Williams Beatty leaned over her husband, and his eager, grateful lips found hers.

★ ★ ★

"Well, now the serious part is over, let's get on with the fun," Dr. Rusk said. He gallantly kissed the bride, and soon the cokes and cookies were flowing like wine.

We went by the flower house again. Juanito Yepez, a trunk with hands and feet but neither arms nor legs, was cheerfully tending his crop. A great-eyed little boy thumped in on his braces, spotted a caged parrot, cried, "Polly, want a cracker?" and hugged his own sides in delight.

Mrs. Haupt, God bless her, went back to work.

STARTS 39TH YEAR BEHIND BARS — Antonio (Tony) De Tardo, 84, prepares to light his pipe as he sits in a rocking chair at the barred window in his quarters in San Quentin, Calif. prison. He recently began serving his 39th year in prison. De Tardo, dean of the prison both in age and continuous time served, came to San Quentin after pleading guilty to shooting his wife Madeline.

Judge's Laundry Aired at Meeting

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis. (AP)— A murmur ran through the Wood County Board chambers as the committee chairman, reading a list of bills submitted for approval, came to this item:

"Jail laundry — Judge's Laundry, $8.10."

"Since when," demanded one of the newly-elected rural supervisors, "are we paying for the judge's laundry?"

It was all smoothed over when a city supervisor explained that Judge's Laundry is a local cleaning establishment and the bill was for laundry work for the county jail.

Engineer Raps Space Program

U. of M. Department Head Says U.S. Plans 'Leave Me Cold'

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—"The space program (of the United States) leaves me cold," the head of engineering at the University of Michigan said.

Ernest Boyce, who also is a consultant for the World Health organization in the South Pacific, was one of many engineers at the annual spring conference of the American Society of Engineers here who claimed the space program was not worth the money.

★ ★ ★

"I couldn't care less about landing a man on the moon," Boyce said. "The space program leaves me cold."

"We need to put our money and talent into things which are economically sound and socially desirable," he said. "I'd like to see us put some of the billions we're pouring into the space program toward bringing up the standard of living in underdeveloped countries.

★ ★ ★

"We're spending billions to land a man on the moon and contributing only $50 million to the World Health Organization."

The Name's the Same but Not Poll Results

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (AP)— James Johnson won and James Johnson lost in Sweetwater County election races for the Wyoming state legislature.

James J. Johnson, a Republican, was defeated for state senate, but James B. Johnson, a Democrat, was re-elected to the state house of representatives.

Like 115 Degrees in the Shade? Few Complain About It in Phoenix

By SAUL PETT
AP Feature Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Lest this sound like a Chamber of Commerce brochure, it should be quickly stated that not everyone in Phoenix is ecstatic over the climate.

★ ★ ★

"It's great for sick people and bad for healthy people," says one local cynic. "I never had a sinus headache until I got here."

"Tell 'em about the summers," advises another. "It's 115 in the shade and you fry going between air-conditioned houses.

"If you leave your car out for any time, you can't drive without a handkerchief around the wheel."

MINORITY REPORT

But this is the minority report. The majority votes overwhelmingly for the climate. For most Phoenicians are people who came from somewhere else with aches and pains and have thrived here, both physically and psychologically.

A typical resident is an Iowa farmer with sinus trouble from a Schenectady factory worker with asthma.

He arrives with a concave chest, a blurred vision of the world, a dour view of the future and a sense of indifference to the past. History couldn't interest him less.

★ ★ ★

But in the clear dry air of the desert, he throws out his chest, grows taller with the tall-fingered cactus, becomes a conqueror of vast distances and an authority on every dust stop the old Butterfield stage made in Arizona.

Where the thought of a trip across town once made him wince, he now thinks nothing of driving 350 miles up to Las Vegas for a weekend, or 180 miles down to Nogales for a Mexican bullfight.

He may not earn as much as he did back East but he can "live like a movie star," according to real estate agents advertising $11,000 houses with swimming pools. Anyway, the West is good for his ego.

This is the man who has made Phoenix's growth astonishing. Since 1940, it has multiplied its area 12 times from 9 to 111 square miles) and more than quintupled its population (from 60,000 to 336,000).

Unlike most other cities, industry followed people to Phoenix, not vice versa. It came for the relatively low state taxes, the available labor market, the growing consumer market of the American Southwest and for the simple, uncomplicated reason that if a man is going into business he might as well set up shop where the climate is friendly.

Last spring, Motorola flew two big planeloads of executives and their wives out from Chicago to see how many would like to work and live in Phoenix. Eighty-seven per cent said they'd like it. Motorola now has three plants here.

General Electric, Sperry-Rand, Air Research Corp. and Reynolds Aluminum have plants here and others are coming all the time. Just last spring there were still cows grazing out in Deer Valley when General Electric broke ground for its new plant there. Deer Valley is 18 miles from downtown Phoenix and it won't be long before the city moves out to swallow it up.

With the astonishing growth have come astonishing success stories. Men who 10 years ago bought what looked like worthless hunks of desert for $40 an acre are selling them today for $1,500 or $2,000 an acre as the town spreads out toward their holdings.

Dave Murdock who ran a filling station shortly after the war is a millionaire builder today. John F. Long, an ex-GI, came to Phoenix after the war, bought a piece of land and with his wife Mary began to build his own home, using a few hand tools and a borrowed saw.

They worked 16 hours a day and in six months had the house finished. Someone offered them $8,500 for it and they found themselves in the building business. Today Long is one of the biggest builders in the Southwest. He has put up more than 8,500 homes.

WATER IMPORTANT

Water has been important to the growth of Phoenix. In the old days, the open water canals used to be guarded by men on horseback with rifles.

But water hasn't been rationed in Phoenix since 1911, when the Roosevelt Dam was finished and irrigation began to reclaim a barren desert.

Air conditioning has been another vital factor in Phoenix's growth. In the days before World War II, before the mass use of air conditioning, many people slept under wet sheets or out on the lawn in the hot summer nights.

★ ★ ★

Today most houses, even moderately priced ones, are built with air conditioning. You need it here six or seven months a year.

Phoenix today is mostly made up of low modern ranch houses with big picture windows and, except for some stucco homes with ornate black iron railings, there is little of the Spanish influence left and almost no sign of the old cowboys.

Antique Autos Fresh Off the Assembly Line

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you're hankerin' for one of those cars they used to make in "the good old days," you can still get one.

To be exact, you can get three—the Rollsmobile, the Surrey and the Merry Olds. Authentic reproductions of these antique cars are chugging off production lines in two states.

The Rollsmobile, selling for $1,195, is made by the Starts Manufacturing Co. in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The buggy guarantees owners a wind-blown look. It doesn't have a top or doors.

Top cruising speed in a Rollsmobile is 35 miles per hour. One gallon of gas is supposed to last 100 miles. The three horses in the engine take it easy.

The driver can take it easy, too, for the Rollsmobile has a modern innovation — automatic transmission.

For $1,295, you can buy a Surrey, made by the E. W. Bliss Co., of Canton, Ohio. The wheels have wooden spokes. The engine, a souped-up eight horsepower job, assertedly gets 65 miles to a gallon, lurching along at a top speed of 35 miles per hour.

The Surrey's surrey has fringe on top. The body is made of steel. For do-it-yourselfers with a mechanical bent, the "antique reproduction" is available, too, in knock-down or kit shape.

Of the three "backward look" cars, the classiest is the Merry Olds, selling for $1,495 and made by American Air Products Co. in Fort Lauderdale. The old "Olds" has four horses in its air-cooled engine, ambles along at 35 miles per hour and lays claim to 65 miles per gallon.

50 Millionth Ford to Re-Enact Trip of 1909 Model T

DETROIT (AP) — The 50 millionth Ford passenger car, assembled last week, will start a New York-to-Seattle journey June 1 to re-enact a similar journey made by a Model T in 1909.

The 1909 affair was an endurance race. The forthcoming revival will not have speed as a factor.

Following the original route and stopping at the same control points as the original contestants, the Ford will travel in a caravan. Accompanying it will be two other Ford passenger cars, a light truck, an exhibit van, a 1909 Model T and a 1908 Model K Ford like the one which paced the first 1,400 miles, 50 years ago.

There also will be a model of Ford's experimental Levacar, a wheelless vehicle that moves over the highway on a film of air. It will be shown in the exhibit van.

★ ★ ★

The 1959 journey was planned to demonstrate how the automobile has improved in quality, durability, safety and performance since the Model T.

'Casual' U.S. Women Baffle Lebanon Guest

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Beirut, Lebanon official on a 10-month tour of the United States said on his arrival yesterday American women baffle him.

★ ★ ★

"The women here are more casual—should I say informal?" said Fouad Abi-Saleh, chief of customs warehouses and passenger stations at Beirut. "At first I was a bit shocked since I am accustomed to the Oriental traditions.

"A woman said to me here, 'You are wonderful'—I did not know what to say."

Jive Talk Popular Too

Irish Youth Dig Our Music

NEW YORK (UPI) — Question: What kind of music do the teenagers in Ireland dig?

Answer: The same kind American teenagers dig.

Our authority are the eight members of an Irish dance band, the Clipper Carltons, who recently visited New York and Chicago.

"The surprising thing about it," said Hugo Quinn, a trumpet player and spokesman for the Clippers, "is that the youngsters over here are so much like the ones we play for at home."

Quinn said the band, basically a Dixieland group, has kept up with rock 'n' roll, calypso, cha-cha, skiffle music and "cool" jazz.

"Whatever trend is popular in America becomes popular in Ireland, so we've been through all the trends," said Quinn, a stocky, 30-year-old crew-cut laddy from Strabane in County Tyrone.

★ ★ ★

The Clippers also reported that similarities in the musical tastes of the Irish and Americans extend even to language. "We use the word 'dig' a lot, just like musicians over here," Quinn said.

"There are only two differences in our jive talk. We call people 'heads' instead of 'cats.' In Ireland, we use 'cat' as an adjective meaning 'bad.' If something is 'cat,' it's bad.

"In New York the other night, we played 'Bird Dog' and at the end, we sing as the tag line, 'And that's cat.' Nobody knew what we were talking about. At home, it always gets a laugh."

Illinois Town Requests Services of a Doctor

DIVERNON, Ill. (AP)—Wanted: a physician.

This village of 1,000 is without a doctor and the nearest one is 20 miles away.

★ ★ ★

Robert Bramley, secretary of the Divernon Lions Club, sent a request for a doctor to Louis G. Raupp, director of the Alton office of the Illinois State Employment Service.

★ ★ ★

The application seeks a reputable doctor, licensed in Illinois with long experience or just starting practice.

Say Prayers for Benefactors

Residents of Fuggerei Live in World's Oldest Low-Rent Project

WASHINGTON — The world's oldest low-rent housing project is still going strong, with tenants paying as little as 25 cents a year for a room and kitchen.

The settlement was built in Augsburg, Germany, in 1519 by members of the famous Fugger family. Today, as then, it is a haven for the old and poor. Called the "Fuggerei," the miniature town-within-a-city has 106 dwellings, six streets, three gates, and a church. Rent, originally set at "one Rhenish gulden" a year, has remained nominal.

In all, about 300 people live in the recently modernized settlement. Their only obligation is to say prayers daily for their benefactors.

This year the city of Augsburg is celebrating the 500th anniversary of the birth of Jakob Fugger, one of the builders of the Fuggerei. The West German government has issued a commemorative stamp.

Augsburg is the principal city of the Bavarian province of Swabia and was one of the world's wealthiest cities in the 15th and 16th centuries, the National Geographic Society notes.

The city's history goes back to 15 B.C. when Roman legionaries built a fort at the end of the Via Claudia Augusta, the paved road leading from Rome to colonies north of the Alps. The strategic location enabled Augsburg to flourish as a bartering and administrative center.

Go Back to Madison

FOND DU LAC, Wis. (AP)—When an unidentified truck driver pulled in here he was met by local police who had this message from officers at Madison: "Go back to Madison. You hooked up the wrong trailer." Madison is 75 miles away.

Auto Waxing Goes Automatic for Quick Shine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Way back when, there was Henry Ford and his horseless carriage.

Henry had to wash his car by hand. Then he had to wax it by hand. And, for a long time, so did everybody else.

But then a bright-eyed "don't-do-it-your-self" type came along with the car laundry. Today, you can get even the most elongated, chromeplated, low-slung, tall finned car scrubbed clean in three minutes at auto laundries. There are 3,000 of them in the U.S.

And now: automation has entered the wax field.

The first, and so far the only quick-shine emporium in the piston-driven world is open for business in Washington, D.C. Its name: "Minute Man Simonizers."

It takes four men, some automatic buffers and 60 minutes to shine the auto if you own one of the big luxury jobs. The medium and low-priced models are done in 45 to 50 minutes. Those small foreign buggies come out glistening in about 40 minutes.

★ ★ ★

Prices range accordingly, from $15 for the big ones to $9 for the sports models.

The owner of the wax works — a chunky, bustling man by the name of Mike Chidakel — isn't disturbed by the so-called "permanent" finishes on new cars. Since opening six months ago, he claims to be doing a big business with the '58 and '59 models.

Business is booming, says Chidakel, so you can bet you'll be able to drive your car into a 60-minute wax works in your area pretty soon.

Man Lights Candle . . . Finds Gas Pipe Leak!

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Firemen here say they have a sequel to the story of the guy who lit a match to see if his car's gas tank was empty.

An apartment-dweller lit a candle, they say, to see if a gas pipe was leaking. It was—but firemen confined the resulting fire to the kitchen, and shut off the gas before the uninjured tenant could try any more research.

Sen. Johnson in Good Spot for Dem Presidential Nod

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson—consciously or not—has created an image of himself which will come in handy if the Democrats in 1960 have to keep peace in the family by settling on a compromise presidential candidate.

This is the image of the tall Texan which emerges after his years as leader of the Senate Democrats and one of the most powerful men in Washington: a rather conservative compromiser who gets things done.

The 50-year-old Johnson who, like President Eisenhower, had a heart attack, has pooh-poohed the thought of presidential ambitions. This writer is one of those who has never been convinced.

Johnson, like others in public life, has a large ego. And to him power, even if it only means senatorial power and doesn't extend to the presidency, is very important. The White House carries with it supreme power and balm for egos.

The Democrats' overwhelming congressional victory in 1958, which meant they could now drown the Republicans in votes, caused some persons to guess that they would take a strong liberal turn and consider their victory a mandate to do so.

Others in Washington, remembering something, took a more limited view: Johnson and his counterpart in the House, Speaker Sam Rayburn, a fellow-Texan, not only completely bossed Democrats in Congress but have shown themselves over the years to be essentially conservative.

So it could be assumed that with their power and attitude they would lead Congress down a middle road. And that's what they've done so far in this first session after last year's election triumph.

But to any northern liberals dissatisfied with his leadership, Johnson can offer a solid and realistic explanation:

True, the Democrats as a party far outnumber Senate Republicans. But Democrats and Republicans are divided up into a small group of liberals and a big majority of conservatives in both parties, particularly among Southern Democrats.

On any issue they considered too liberal, the conservatives of both parties could and would team up, throwing aside party labels.

Yet, on the liberal side Johnson can point to something no liberal or any other Senate leader in this century can claim: he engineered through the Senate in 1957 the first civil rights program of modern times.

It was much less than the liberals wanted, much more than the Southerners could easily accept. But it was a step forward in the civil rights field, opened the door to more of the same later, and was done without splitting the Senate Democrats.

Liberals and Southern Democrats may have grumbled about Johnson's performance but he came through the experience without engendering any hostility for himself. Quite a performance, particularly if a man has presidential ambitions.

And this year again he is working to steer through some further expansion in civil rights. If he does, it's a good bet the bill again will be too little for the liberals, too much for the Southerners, but not enough either way to hurt the party or him.

Johnson acts like a man who long ago figured this way:

"In the Senate, with all its divergent views, if I ever hope to get anything done, I'll have to compromise. Some progress is better than none. And compromise between North and South is the only way I can get Democrats to stay together."

It's doubtful that in 1960 northern liberals will make Johnson their first choice for the presidency. But if they try to ram through someone who makes the Southerners gag, a compromise candidate may be necessary.

Johnson can protest he has no presidential thoughts, but his fellow Texans are preparing, just in case: their legislature has passed bills which would let Johnson run for both the Senate and the presidency in 1960.

Vets Tax Exemption Okay on Leased Land

LANSING (AP) — Qualified veterans may claim a veterans homestead exemption on a home situated on real estate owned by or leased by another person, the attorney general's office ruled Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Leo E. Maki, Ontonagon County prosecutor, made the query.

R. G. Dunn, an assistant attorney general, explained the question was especially pertinent to the Upper Peninsula because numerous homes there are located on property owned by mining companies.

★ ★ ★

Dunn said the veteran would be eligible for the exemption if he owned and occupied the home although it was located on another's property.

Disabled veterans and certain others are eligible for a $2,000 property tax exemption.

Spring Job Pickup Frees State Prisoners Faster

LANSING (AP)—A pickup in farm and construction job opportunities is speeding the release of state prisoners held behind bars for lack of outside employment, the State Corrections Department reports.

★ ★ ★

Under state law, prisoners eligible for parole cannot be released until they have a promise of a job.

Last week the number of such "holdovers" stood at 154.

Alan Milliken, the department's parole placement officer, says there now are 135, including 90 at Southern Michigan Prison.

★ ★ ★

Milliken says further reductions are expected as spring advances.

Barricades Self in Home 7 Hours

But Detroiter Surrenders Without Using Knife, Shotgun, Pistol

DETROIT (AP) — A 31-year-old man armed with a shotgun barricaded himself inside his Detroit home for some seven hours before surrendering today to police.

★ ★ ★

The man, Earl Beck of Detroit, a construction company plumber, was carrying an eight-inch butcher knife when he turned himself over to two officers who had assured him he would not be harmed.

Inside the house, officers found the loaded shotgun and a .22 cal. pistol. Beck was taken to Receiving Hospital for mental examination.

Police set up searchlights, evacuated houses on both sides and carried a supply of teargas when they were called by Mrs. E. B. Beck, his mother, last night.

★ ★ ★

They were armed with shotguns, rifles and a suit of special armor for close-in gunfighting.

Mrs. Beck, who was locked out of the house where she lives with her son, said she had been trying to get him to visit a psychiatrist.

"He keeps saying the union is after him," Mrs. Beck said.

The first apothecary shop in North America was opened in Boston in 1646.

Land Deals in Project at Detroit Proceeding

DETROIT (UPI)—A Detroit real estate firm says negotiations are nearly complete for acquiring land for a 100-million-dollar riverfront development in downtown Detroit.

Karl H. Smith, president of Smith-Bischop & Co., said options on 23 acres of land for the development are expected to be signed within a few days. The land presently is owned by three railroads.

The project includes construction of a 30-story hotel, a 20-story office building and three luxury apartment buildings.

Political Chatter Engrosses Governor

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — The face of Lt. Gov. Ed Mead of New Mexico was slightly red recently after he attended a press convention in Alamogordo.

He drove off without paying his motel bill.

He explained later in a letter to the motel that he had driven his car up to the front office when he met a friend and got into a political discussion. When it was over, he said, he got into his car and drove home.

He asked for a bill and apologized.

UMW, Dow in Accord

MIDLAND (UPI) — The Dow Chemical Co. and the United Mine Workers have reached tentative agreement on a new contract for 494 employes. The new contract provides an 18 cent an hour pay increase spread over three years. Workers will ballot on the contract next Monday and Tuesday. It would be retroactive to April 6.

Schoolteacher Plows Through Snowstorm

SENECA FALLS, N. Y. (UPI)—A late-winter snow storm didn't catch Mrs. Douglas Peacock unprepared.

She sent out for her first grade teaching chores during the height of the storm with a snowplow attached to her car. When she got there, Mrs. Peacock cleaned out the parking lot to make room for her colleagues.

Young Criminal Thinks of Schooling

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Fifteen-year-old Kenneth Harrington of Garden City, Mich., convicted of auto theft, was offered a choice in U.S. district court of serving three years in the National Training School for Boys in Washington, D. C., or being turned over to juvenile authorities in Michigan.

He picked the federal sentence. The reason: He thought the National Training School offered a better vocational training program than is available in Michigan.

Robert Morrison of 371 Elizabeth Lake Rd., chairman of the contest, sponsored by the Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce, presents the trophy as Marion Zollman, Karen's second grade teacher at St. Trinity Lutheran School looks on. The contest, which consisted of coloring eight safety cartoons, was conducted for St. Trinity's second graders.

Bradley Owners End Ship Diving Efforts

CHARLEVOIX (AP) — Owners of the sunken Great Lakes freighter Carl D. Bradley have given up plans to send divers down to her.

The Bradley Transportation Line, which operated the freighter for U.S. Steel Corp.'s Michigan Limestone Division, said yesterday it was unable to get a diver willing to go down the estimated 370 feet to the sunken ship.

The Bradley sank in a Lake Michigan storm Nov. 18 with loss of 33 of her 35 crew members. She went down in the Gull Island area about 40 miles northwest of here.

The Seafarers International Union says it will continue its search. So far, the union's effort has been hampered by bad weather.

★ ★ ★

Victor C. Hanson, union attorney, said the union is not convinced that the Bradley Co. has found the whereabouts of the sunken ship.

Anything Cause—MSU Researchers

'Cells Decide on Cancer'

EAST LANSING (AP)—Researchers at Michigan State University hold that cancer:

1. Starts when too many of the body's repair cells decide to reproduce.

★ ★ ★

2. May be caused by anything—from viruses to tobacco tar—which influences the cells to reproduce.
3. Should be attacked with the aim of controlling the number of reproductive cells.

The cells which repair tissues are the same as those which generate cancerous tissue, say Drs. G. Bernard Wilson and John H. Morrison of MSU's Botany and Plant Pathology Department.

★ ★ ★

Wilson is an internationally known cell-specialist.

STREAMLINED THEORY

He says the theory that cancer starts with continuous growth of repair cells is "a streamlined version of the theory held by most biologists."

Wilson and Morrison maintain the most promising approach to a cancer cure is to concentrate on a study of the reproductive cycle of cells.

The cycle has four stages in which the cells (1) divide, (2) grow, (3) rest and (4) prepare to divide again.

★ ★ ★

The MSU researchers believe it is during the third, or resting, stage that the cell decides either to help carry out the functions of the organ of which it is a part or to reproduce.

Under their theory, cancer starts if too many of the cells decide to reproduce.

Dayton Tires—and only Dayton Tires — can give you this sensational road hazard guarantee — stronger than ever before — more realistic than ever before. All tires carry a manufacturer's guarantee against factory defects in workmanship and material. But only one tire in a hundred fails because of a factory defect. The rest fail because of road hazards (glass cuts, spikes, curb breaks, rim bruises, etc.) But Dayton gives you a full road hazard guarantee based on tread war, not on some arbitrary monthly basis — and on accounting prices, not on some phony inflated list price.

Ask your dealer point blank: "Is this tire guaranteed against road hazards in writing by the manufacturer? Is this road hazard on a monthly basis or on tread wear? Is this road hazard on list price or on the more accurate accounting price?"

The Man Comes to Dinner

Cherry Pie Is Mayor's Favorite

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

The man who came to dinner broke his leg. Come to think about it, we never did know what he had to eat that night. But the man who comes to dinner every night at 532 W. Iroquois likes and gets cherry pie.

Pontiac's mayor is a big man as all who are acquainted with Philip Rowston know. It takes a lot of good eating to fill his 6-foot-4-inch frame. Incidentally, did you know that his grandfather was once the mayor of Pontiac? He also was a big man.

We've asked the wives of some of Pontiac's prominent men what their favorite foods are. From time to time we'll publish the pictures of the wives who, after all, do all the cooking—and talk about the men.

Mrs. Rowston says that cherry pie is an anniversary food in their family. While she and he were courting they would go into a restaurant to have cherry pie. She made one the day he went into the Army. No doubt she made another when he came home.

Phil Rowston's favorite dinner menu reads like this:

Steak French fries
Frozen peas
Head lettuce with thousand island dressing
Cherry pie a la mode
Tea

The Rowstons are great tea drinkers and consume literally gallons of iced tea in hot weather. LaNetta Rowston's secret for the perfect cherry pie is the use of cinnamon in the filling.

CHERRY PIE
By Mrs. Philip Rowston

Unbaked pie shell and crust
1 can pie cherries
1¼ cups sugar
2½ tablespoons flour
Cinnamon
Butter

Mix cherries, sugar and flour together. Pour into pastry-lined pie tin. Dot with butter and sprinkle with cinnamon. Fit on top crust and cut slits to allow steam to escape.

Bake in 450-degree oven for 10-15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake another 20-30 minutes.

Cinnamon improves most fruit pies, Mrs. Rowston says, and is served on all special occasions—in between times, too.

IT'S CHERRY PIE — Mrs. Philip Rowston, wife of Pontiac's mayor, puts a cherry pie in the oven. It is Mayor Rowston's favorite pie

Pickle Baskets Will Tickle Small Fry

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sandwiches for the small fry have a party look when they're served with pickle baskets. Cut large whole pickles into 1½-inch crosswise sections. Scoop out the centers, leaving part of the end to form the bottoms of the baskets.

Fill with mayonnaise or salad dressing. Use toothpicks to fasten on handles made from thin pickle strips.

Asparagus Season Brief: Make the Most of It

This spring, when you look out of your kitchen window and see an airplane lowering to your nearest airport, better start heating water to cook your fresh asparagus, because that's the way they're beginning to bring "grass" from the fields of California.

The first shipment whistled across country—Los Angeles to New York—in a 4-hour, 25-minute American Airlines Boeing 707 flight on January 25th. You might say the morning dew had barely dried on these spears before they appeared, cooked crisply tender and dripping with butter, on the dinner plate of some asparagus-starved gourmet.

Asparagus should be fresh, tender and firm with close compact tips. A tender stalk is brittle and easily pierced. A wilted appearance or a spreading tip is often an indication that it's been around too long since cutting time. Look for a deep green or bluish-green color in the tips. The whole stalk, with the exception of an inch or two at the base, should be tender. A small amount of white at the base helps preserve moisture in the green part.

There are several ways to cook asparagus. It may be cut in two-inch lengths, starting the lower parts of the stalks in boiling salted water about 5 minutes before adding the tender tips. Or, tie together whole stalks, after tough butt ends have been removed, and stand bundles upright in percolator or in a double boiler bottom, using the inverted top of the double boiler as a cover. In any case, don't overcook. It shouldn't take more than 15 to 20 minutes to reach the crisp-tender stage.

Weight-watchers will be delighted to know that asparagus has a very low calorie count of 72 per pound—that's about 16 average spears.

Fresh Asparagus and Eggplant Entree

6 large slices eggplant, cut ½-inch thick
3 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
⅓ cup salad oil
2 pounds fresh asparagus
½-inch boiling water
Cheese Sauce

Cheese Sauce

Sprinkle eggplant slices with 2 teaspoons of the salt and ground black pepper. Dust lightly with flour. Saute in salad oil, turning to brown both sides. Arrange on platter.

Cut asparagus talks 4-inches long, remove scales and wash thoroughly. Tie in 6 bundles. Cook, covered in saucepan in boiling water and the remaining 1 teaspoon salt 12 to 15 minutes or until tender. (Do not overcook).

Drain and place a bundle over each slice of sauteed eggplant. Serve with Cheese Sauce.

Cheese Sauce

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
¾ grated sharp American cheese
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice

Melt butter or margarine. Blend in flour. Stir in milk, salt, and black pepper. Cook until slightly thick. Add cheese and lemon juice. Serve over asparagus and eggplant. Yield: 1 cup sauce.

How Much Is That Doggie

CHICAGO (AP)—Medical equipment engineers have built a model of a dog with a transparent plastic window that enables veterinarians to study the operation of a dog's lungs during artificial respiration with a small-animal resuscitator.

How much is the doggie with the window? It cost $100 to build, say engineers of Chemetron Corporation's National Cylinder Gas Division.

Special Meats Have Less Fat

A revolutionary new line of meat products designed specifically for people who are on high protein diets was announced recently by Pfaelzer Brothers, Chicago. The diet line includes lamb chops, filet mignon, boneless veal slices and turkey breasts specially trimmed to increase the percentage of protein in each cut of meat while decreasing the amount of fat.

Although meat is one of the best sources of protein, no meat supplier has ever developed a product line geared for thousands of people whose doctors have placed them on high protein diets, according to Ellard Pfaelzer, vice chairman of the board.

Mr. Pfaelzer said that the army of protein dieters include weight watchers, people with cardiac conditions, high blood pressure, anemia, diabetes or ulcers. He said that protein is also especially important to all mothers and expectant mothers because of its body building properties.

He said that in recent years, many of the company's customers have requested fat free, high protein meats to conform with diets prescribed by their physicians. Although, production costs made it impossible to fill all individual requests, the company became intrigued with the idea of a specialized high protein meat line.

Mr. Pfaelzer said that the lamb loin chops, for example, give 70 per cent more protein and 82 per cent less fat than regular lamb chops. Similar comparisons apply to the tenderloin steaks, the veal slices and turkey breasts which are naturally low in fat and high in body building proteins.

These diet meats are available by mail order only from Pfaelzer Brothers, Union Stock Yards, Chicago.

FRESH ASPARAGUS AND EGGPLANT ENTREE — Crisp-tender fresh asparagus and thick slices of sauteed eggplant team up deliciously with a topping of cheese sauce. Serve asparagus often during the season.

Tea Ice Cream Updates Old Time Recipe

A modern version of an old-fashioned recipe.

Tea Ice Cream

½ cup loose tea
½ cup boiling water
¾ cup milk
¾ cup heavy cream
1 can ice cream mix

Measure tea in heat-proof measuring cup. Pour boiling water over tea leaves; brew 3 minutes. Turn wet tea leaves into top of double boiler; stir in milk and cream cover. Cook over boiling water 7 minutes.

Remove and strain through a very fine sieve or cheese cloth so you have tea extract. Cover extract and cool. Turn ice-cream mixture into mixing bowl; gradually add tea extract, beating with rotary beater.

Pour into freezing tray and freeze rapidly. When frozen, break up and spoon into mixing bowl. Beat until consistency of mashed potatoes. Return to freezing tray and reduce temperature control to maintain desired firmness.

Season After Browning

When broiling steaks and chops, remember to season each side AFTER the meat has been browned. If seasoned before, the seasoning will tend to retard the browning process.

HAPPY BREAD — A Happy Sack filled with a loaf of bread is ready to go visiting. The tradition of bringing a hostess one loaf of freshly-baked bread takes on a new look when the sack is made quickly from a dish towel, and the bread is made just as quickly with the batter technique using evaporated milk. Raisin, cheese or herb bread, are just three of the Happy Breads that might be going to call.

Get Your Vitamin C in New Delicious Form

Ice cream made in your own kitchen with loving care and attention is one of the real joys of life. Electric ice cream freezers make the chore much easier than when hand-turned equipment was all that was available. If you have the old-fashioned kind, however, gather some strong-armed people around you to help turn and you will all have fun. The reward will be well worth the effort.

★ ★ ★

A perfectly delicious ice cream can be made by using frozen concentrated Florida orange juice as the flavoring agent. A creamy smooth texture and natural sweet flavor combined with a refreshing tanginess is the result.

★ ★ ★

Ice cream is enjoyable any day of the year, any time of day, and convenient orange juice concentrate is plentiful all year round, so you can make this special treat often.

Orange Ice Cream

2 cups milk
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 cup heavy cream
1 can (6 ounces) Florida frozen concentrated orange juice

Scald milk in top of double boiler. Mix together sugar, flour and salt; add small amount of the scalded milk and stir to a smooth paste. Gradually add to remaining milk in top of double boiler. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cover and cook 10 minutes longer.

Beat eggs slightly; stir in small amount milk mixture. Gradually return to double boiler and cook one minute longer. Remove from heat; cool; add vanilla. Stir in heavy cream and undiluted orange concentrate; mix well.

Turn into cream can of hand-turned or electric crank freezer. Use 8 parts crushed ice to 1 part ice cream salt, alternating layers of salt and ice. Freeze according to freezer directions until difficult to turn.

Allow to ripen in ice cream freezer according to freezer directions or place cream can in home freezer. Yield: One quart.

Add Molasses

A casserole of mashed, whipped sweet potatoes gains a novel taffy flavor when a tablespoon or two of unsulphured molasses has been added. Season also with a little butter and orange juice. Top the casserole with marshmallows and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until the marshmallows melt and take on a golden tint . . . about 30 minutes.

Wake Up Spring Meals With Panama Salad

Discover the new lift which you can give leftover meats when they are placed in a salad.

This Panama Salad brings to the homemaker not only a colorful and exotic flavored meat entree, it also provides a pleasing way in which to put leftover meat into a "pretty as a picture" main course first-day dish.

The leftover lamb used in the Panama Salad is greatly enhanced by the addition of the bananas, pineapple, celery, and seasonings.

Depending on the wishes of the homemaker, the salad may be appropriately garnished with nuts or slices of stuffed olives.

Panama Salad

2 cups julienne-style or diced cooked lamb
3 ripe bananas
½ cup diced pineapple
½ cup diced celery
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
Lettuce
Nuts or stuffed olives, if desired

Peel and dice bananas and mix lightly with meat, pineapple and celery. Combine mayonnaise, salt and mustard and tosswith meat mixture. Chill. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with nut meats or slices of stuffed olives, if desired.

Happy Is the Family Whose Mom Bakes Bread

Happy bread is the happy, happy talk of the town. It's the talk of the children who take raisin bread sandwiches to school; it's the talk of Dad who takes toasted cheese bread for breakfast; and it's the talk of friends who've received a hostess gift of home-made herb bread in its own gay Happy Sack.

Happy bread is made with the batter method, which is the new way of baking with yeast. The batter need only rise once before it's put into the pan, and it doesn't have to be kneaded. For this bread, evaporated milk is used as the liquid, for a less crusty loaf that browns easily and evenly when toasted.

As a further saving, the evaporated milk eliminates both the egg and the shortening, plus the scalding step that's usually necessary. Happy bread saves more time, because it mixes very quickly and after rising it can be turned directly into the loaf pans.

Nutmeg, sage and caraway seeds can be added for a zippy version; raisins for a sweeter bread; and grated, sharp cheese for sophistication. Even the crust of the bread can be dressed: brushed with evaporated milk for a glaze, or even iced for a coffee bread.

Happy Bread

2 packages active dry yeast
1½ cups warm water
1 can (1⅝ cups) evaporated milk, divided
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
6 cups sifted all-purpose flour, divided

Have all ingredients at room temperature. Dissolve yeast in warm water in 4-quart mixing bowl. Reserve 1 tablespoon of the evaporated milk for glaze; stir in remaining evaporated milk, sugar, salt and about half of the sifted flour. Beat 2 minutes with wooden spoon or with electric mixer at medium speed. Stir in remaining flour.

Scrape down batter from sides of bowl; cover. Let rise in warm place (85 degrees F.), free from draft, until doubled in volume (about 30 minutes). Stir hard ½ minute. Turn into 2 greased loaf pans, 5¼ x 9½ x 2¾ inches, spreading evenly.

Let rise in warm place until batter reaches tops of pans (about 30 minutes). Brush surface with reserved evaporated milk. Bake in pre-heated moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 50 minutes. After 20 minutes of baking cover with brown paper to prevent over-browning. Remove from pans and cool on rack. Makes 2 loaves.

Cheese Bread: Increase warm water to 2 cups, decrease evaporated milk to 1 cup, increase flour to 7 cups. Add 2 cups (6 ounces grated sharp cheese to batter with first addition of flour.

Herb Bread: Add 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 2 teaspoons sage, 4 teaspoons caraway seeds to batter with first addition of flour.

Raisin Bread: Add additional ¼ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 2 cups raisins to batter with first addition of flour.

It's Good Time Now to Fill Up Freezer

It's true. You will find the price difference between chuck roast and steak will be larger this summer than during the fall and winter months says the MSU Marketing Agent.

Total beef supplies are not as large in summer as in the fall and winter. This and the fact that food shoppers want more steaks and fewer chuck roasts in warm weather, contribute to higher prices for steak and lower prices for chuck roasts in summer.

If you have the freezer space and extra cash, taking advantage of steak "specials" now will cut your meat costs this summer.

Bake Pineapple Fritters to Eat With Ham

Here's a brand new recipe for Oven Baked Pineapple Fritters that would be delicious to serve with a baked ham dinner.

Beat 1 egg slightly with 1 tablespoon water. Dip pineapple chunks or slices in the beaten egg. Dip in fine, dry crumbs; then in melted butter. Arrange in a shallow pan and bake in a 375 degree oven for 15 minutes or until coating is crisp and golden. (For a Number 2 can of drained pineapple slices or chunks, you will need about ¾ cup of fine, dry bread crumbs and ¼ cup of melted butter.)

You All Like Southern Fare?

A little of that good ol' Southern hospitality is delightful and goes a long way. A little of the good ol' Southern cooking is also delightful but it won't go far at all. So, please your family by planning a whole meal around Southern foods.

For a tempting vegetable serve Red Beans'n' Rice, a traditional Louisiana dish made with canned red kidney beans, hot cooked rice and salt pork. Pecans from the South give nice flavor and crunch to the salads of canned pear halves on perky greens. Especially good with the salad is a Honey Cream Dressing.

And, don't forget corn bread. The meal wouldn't be complete without this Southern favorite.

RED BEANS 'N' RICE

¼ lb. salt pork
1 medium size onion
1 can (16 oz.) red kidney beans
½ bay leaf
1 teaspoon chili powder
Dash cayenne
1½ cups hot cooked rice

Soak diced salt pork in cold water 10 minutes; dry well and cook until it begins to brown. Add chopped onion and cook until tender. Add kidney beans with their liquid, bay leaf, chili powder and cayenne; mix and simmer until flavors are blended, about 10 minutes. Remove bay leaf. Put beans in serving dish and mound rice in the center. Six servings.

Modern Oven Will Make These to Perfection

If your range is too old and antiquated to maintain a steady 250-275-degree oven, don't try this recipe. It will burn before it dries — your efforts will be wasted.

Cut the crusts from thinly sliced white or whole wheat bread and slice into two neat rectangles. Brush the slices with melted butter seasoned with celery, garlic or onion salt and sprinkle celery seeds over all. Place on a cooky sheet in 250 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes.

Wide Variety of Foods Eases Meal Planning

Mom may be relieved from the kitchen on Mothers Day, but what about those meals during the week? Fresh vegetables and fruits, several meats, eggs and dairy products are in good supply, the MSU Marketing Agent reports . . . so Mom will find real satisfaction when food shopping for those other days.

This week, she will find more strawberries, lettuce and dry onions. Important contenders for her meat dollars are pork, beef, poultry and fish.

FRESH PRODUCE — Strawberries by the quart are arriving from Tennessee and Arkansas. The smaller berries may take a little longer to wash, drain and trim just before serving, but you get more weight for the money spent than when you buy larger size berries.

Nearly a week of rain and cool nights slowed the New Jersey asparagus crop. Michigan's crop is expected to start about May 6 or 8. Of course the freshest asparagus will have the best flavor. Tightly closed spears or heads and bright green color are good indicators of freshness. Keep it cold and try to use asparagus the day you buy it.

Large supplies of lettuce are now being harvested. Quality is very good and heads are large in size. You can expect this trend to continue throughout May.

Prices on Texas dry onions are dropping as larger supplies are ready for marketing. Small supplies and normal customer demand for cucumbers and peppers explains current high prices.

Citrus fruits are still in the fruit limelight. Navel oranges are nearing the end of the season, but Valencias heavy with juice are becoming more plentiful. Grapefruit is now priced for this late in the spring.

Notice that green appearance on some citrus? This occurs as nature supplies chlorophyll (the green color) to the new crop of fruit developing on the trees before the old crop is picked. This re-greening affects only the peel, not the inside of the ripe, juicy fruit.

Apples, bananas and pineapple can be yours at reasonable costs. You should be able to find those crisp atmosphere controlled McIntosh and Jonathan apples with fall-like fresh flavor.

MAIN DISH PLANNING—This has been an unusual spring when you consider the meat market. More pork than last year, more high grades of beef and more poultry have contributed variety at reasonable cost.

When shopping this weekend you will find pork loin cuts, smoked and canned hams and the Boston butt marked to attract your attention. The Boston butt makes a fine roast or it can be cut into pork steaks. Because it is so lean, you can count on three servings from each pound.

You will find little change in fryer prices. Retailers are stressing fryer parts.

Think of ways to use a stewer. With noodles, rice, dumplings? With vegetables in a casserole or meat pie? In salads or sandwiches? If you have a bit of freezer space, you might take advantage of current prices.

If looking for a thrifty meat choice, you'll find Lake Erie perch and smelt teasing at your purse-strings. Remember to allow a pound per person if the fish is undressed; a half pound per person if it is dressed.

Beef slaughter supplies have been light, yet you may find rump, round, sirloin tip, standing rib and cube steaks specially priced this week. Most beef in the market has been grain fed to grade U. S. Choice quality, but it will pay to double check where you buy. You can expect to pay more for U. S. Prime or U. S. Choice grades than for lower quality beef.

1 tablespoon sugar
⅓ to ¾ cup chocolate syrup
4 cups hot water (not boiling)

Lots of Peanuts Means Many Nutty Recipes

It's very easy to get all wrapped up in a love for peanuts. Dr. George Washington Carver proved that more than 200 products can be made from them.

Peanut butter, the most popular of these products, started out as a food for invalids, made in sanatoriums. Peanut butter has high food value, but it was probably the delicious taste that started its manufacture outside the hospital.

People began to make peanut butter to sell from house to house. Then, small factories sprang up and peanut butter became an article on grocery shelves.

You'll find plenty of peanut butter around to delight your family. Last year's crop of peanuts was 30 per cent above average and much of it went into the making of peanut butter.

If you want to do something especially nice for the kiddies, treat them to Peanut Ice Cream Balls. Simply roll scoops of slightly softened vanilla ice cream into chopped peanuts, insert a wide popsicle stick and keep in the freezer. Then watch the march to the freezer.

A bowl of thick, sturdy vegetable soup plus a dish of canned apple sauce topped with crumbled peanuts add up to a light lunch—but a most satisfying one, at that.

Plenty of Problems but Never a Dull Moment

Life Is Different for Decorator in Alaska

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK (UPI)—As an interior decorator in Alaska, Mrs. Benjamin Culver has done everything but wallpaper an igloo.

Beatrice Culver, mother of six children, is one of two decorators in Anchorage, and the only Alaskan member of the American Institute of Decorators (AID). Among her jobs are a log house, offices, restaurants and homes.

"My biggest problem is transportation," Mrs. Culver said during a trip to an AID convention in New York, where "the Texans gave me a bad time."

"If something doesn't come, I can't just call up about it. We get furniture from the East Coast, upholstery from the West Coast. Fabrics come by parcel post and take three weeks. Once some furniture arrived soaking wet, lashed to the top of a boat."

There are no artisans nearby, so Mrs. Culver must sketch her ideas and send "outside" for finished products. If a client lives out of town, the decorator must resort to letters or hop a plane.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Culver, a native of Berkeley, Calif., and her husband, a realtor and Stanford University graduate, went to Alaska 14 years ago. After her graduation from the University of California, Mrs. Culver had worked as a decorator in Berkeley, so she set up shop in Anchorage for about four years. Then she retired to care for their children, now ranging in age from 13 years to 6-year-old twins.

Last year, the decorator reopened her business in an office adjoining her husband's in the center of the city.

At one time, Mrs. Culver lived on a homestead at Bear Cove on Kachemak Bay, where the couple now is building a 50-acre resort lodge.

"It's the most beautiful spot on earth," she said. "I felt like a pioneer, because my husband commuted from Anchorage. He flew home, landed on the beach in front of the house. I taught the children by correspondence."

★ ★ ★

Bears are "up a ways" in the mountains, and the only animal that gave Mrs. Culver a start during her homesteading days was a moose, which walked up the path.

Today, the family weekends and vacations at Bear Cove, catches king crabs in front of the house, digs clams at 4 a.m., and nets halibut and salmon for breakfast.

Life is casual and informal, influenced by settlers from many parts of the world, she said, making her work "more interesting" than outside Alaska.

★ ★ ★

For the past four years, Mrs. Culver has managed and designed sets for an Eskimo show in the annual fur rendezvous, which started as a trade show and developed into a week of amusement. The hardest part of her work with the show is tracking down seals from commercial seal catchers. In every show, the Eskimos skin a seal on stage in five minutes.

"One year we got a letter from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Someone had complained, thinking the seals were alive."

Interesting Women: Mrs. James Rosenthal

Her Focus on Music, Children

By LYDIA ROTHMAN

Music and children, two of the greatest joys in life, are a vital part of Mrs. James Rosenthal's world.

Writing compositions for small children or program notes for the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra; singing in the High Holiday Choir at Temple Beth Jacob or directing children's religious music there, she handles each with equal ease and enthusiasm.

MANY PUBLISHED

Music has always been a part of Mrs. Rosenthal's life and writing music for young children who are beginning piano lessons is one of her specialities. She has already had some 20 pieces published under her maiden name, Bernice Rosner.

★ ★ ★

All this came about when she was a student at Hunter College in New York City and commuting daily on the Staten Island ferry "where I got all my ideas for compositions." On the ferry, she sat across from the same man every day for a year without ever speaking. Sometimes he looked interested in her work and "once he sat next to me and told me not to write parallel fifths, which is like saying ain't."

A year or so after this, she met him through her brother-in-law. He was David Hirschberg, music publisher, and was the first to encourage her to go on with her work and the first to publish her compositions.

★ ★ ★

Following her graduation from Hunter, she received a scholarship to study piano and composition with Henry Holden Huss, well known New York teacher.

PREFERS PONTIAC

Born and raised in New York City, she moved to Pontiac with her husband about 20 years ago (her first time west of Niagara Falls). They make their home on West Iroquois road.

Mrs. Rosenthal says she loves living in Pontiac and would never consider going back to New York to live. She says that she does more here than when she lived in New York.

"Perhaps we took everything for granted in the city because it was all so close at hand," she says, "but Pontiac and this area have a great deal to offer and we take our three boys to everything. They're little wiggle worms, but they settle right down at concerts and the other events we take them to."

★ ★ ★

An active member of Pontiac Symphony Orchestra Association, she serves on the board of directors and is a member of the music and program committee. She is the one who writes the informative program notes featured in each program.

She is also program chairman of the Auxiliary to Pontiac Symphony Orchestra and is an active member of Tuesday Musicale Workshop. A chorus she has written will be performed at the annual meeting May 12.

TEACHER TOO

Besides all this, she is now volunteer teaching an experimental conversational French class at Webster School for fourth and sixth graders one day a week and she is a substitute teacher in Pontiac schools.

★ ★ ★

Enthusiasm and intellectual curiosity—and the ability to do something with them to help other people— seem to be an integral part of Mrs. Rosenthal's life.

Boys Club Moms Hold Election

Mrs. Walter Peters was elected president of Mothers Club of Pontiac Boys Club at a meeting held Tuesday evening at the Boys Club.

Mrs. George Houstina was a guest and Mrs. Elmer Hicks was welcomed as a new member.

Shah Mohammed of Iran and Queen Elizabeth ride in the state coach through the gates of Buckingham palace. The Shah arrived in London Tuesday for a three-day visit. The 39-year-old monarch is being heavily guarded by Scotland Yard during his stay.

Command Performance in Exotic Setting

Shah, British Princesses to See Ballet

LONDON (UPI)—Shah Mohammed of Iran goes to a rendevous tonight with British Princesses Margaret and Alexandra in an exotic Arabian Nights setting—at Covent Garden's royal ballet.

"Les Rendezvous," danced by Frederic Ashton, will be the main attraction at a command performance of the ballet in the Shah's honor. The program also will include the third act of "Coppelia" and the second act of "Cinderella."

The royal box at Covent Garden has been converted into a pink and orange Persian-style pavilion for the occasion, which will be the highlight of Mohammed's three-day visit to London.

Dennis Lennon, who designed the decorations, has advised Queen Elizabeth II, who also will attend, to wear black with diamonds to avoid a clash with the exotic colors draping the box.

The Shah wined and dined the Queen, Prince Philip, and 50-odd other royal and noble guests at a banquet at the Iranian Embassy last night.

Today, the Shah was scheduled to visit the atomic energy plant at Harwell, about 30 miles northwest of London. He planned to return in time to dine with Elizabeth and Philip before going to the ballet.

The 39-year-old Iranian monarch has been protected during his stay here by the heaviest security guard Scotland Yard has organized since Yugoslav President Tito visited here six years ago.

A special squad of 40 men, commanded by two chief-detective superintendents, has been deployed at "danger spots" along the route laid out each day for the Shah.

Lincoln Junior High PTA Program Set

Lincoln Junior High School PTA will present its final program of the school year at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday.

All parents are urged to attend and see the student display on science, shop, sewing, art and cooking.

Norman Kinjala, principal, will install officers for the coming year and a social hour will follow the program.

Good Mate If You Enjoy Antiques

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: I've been friends with a man for 18 years. He is a widower 71 years old and lives with his widowed sister who has kept house for him all these years. She is 79. I am 62 and a widow. He is a man of means but very set in his ways. He doesn't like 'changes' and still has his original furniture, pictures hanging from the mouldings on wires, and lamps with heads and fringes.

—ABBY

"His sister asks me why I don't marry him and 'take him off her hands.' I enjoy his company in small doses but don't think I could take a steady diet of this man. My friends think I am out of my mind for passing up this opportunity. Am I?"

INDEPENDENT

DEAR INDEPENDENT: Unless you are in the market for a valuable antique, pass him up. He sounds like he'd make a better "friend" than a husband.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: I have heard that hypnosis can help people do things they are capable of doing but could never do before. I would like to improve my typing speed. Most jobs require at least 40 words per minute and I can't seem to build my speed up that high. Could you recommend a psychiatrist who can hopnotize me for this purpose alone?"

MISS D.

DEAR MISS D.: I do not recommend specific doctors. I suggest that you try to build up your typing speed through practice. Hypnosis is nothing to fool around with.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: Three years ago when I was in seventh grade, I was very unpopular. No boy would even look at me. Except one. He had failed a year, smoked, drank and was just horrible. But I didn't care. He was a boy and that was all that mattered. (I thought.) He moved away and everyone forgot about him and I started going around with nicer kids. I came a long way and this year was elected vice president of the Freshman class.

"Now this terrible boy has moved back. He is worse than ever. He is trying to pick up where he left off. I hate to snub him but I don't want him hanging around me. He tries to put his hands on me in the halls and calls me 'Doll' and 'Baby' and I could die. How can I keep him away from me before he ruins my reputation?"

ALMOST RUINED

DEAR ALMOST: Your reputation is something that you—and only you—can ruin. Tell him that you are not interested in his beyond a "hello" and "goodbye." If you behave like a lady, exchanging casual greetings with this boy will do you no harm.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: I am to be married soon and have a problem concerning the minister and the reception. I'd like to invite the minister and his wife to our reception, but I am afraid if I send them a formal invitation they will think they have to send me a gift. What is the proper way to handle this? I want them there, but feel funny about sending them a formal invitation."

BRIDE-TO-BE

DEAR BRIDE: If you feel a "formal invitation" might obligate them to buy a gift, by all means, telephone the minister's wife and invite them verbally.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LONGING FOR HIM": The grass is always greener on the other side of the fence. Until you have to mow it, that is!

Welcomes Questions

Wall Street Is Pitching for Our Best Interest

By FAYE HENLE

You have a line to Wall Street and it doesn't cost more than a four-cent stamp.

Today your impact is being felt in the nation's securities markets as it hasn't been felt in 25 years. Your motives are clear. You want to see your money grow. You want extra income dollars to meet rising costs now and in the future.

THEY'RE CONCERNED

Because you are so much "in the market," the eyes of the professionals are upon you. A majority are pitching for your best interests. Yet, I wonder whether you are taking full advantage of what they have to offer.

★ ★ ★

When you buy a car, an appliance, the materials for a do-it-yourself project, you are steeped in comparisons of brand name, performance, instructions for use. You don't hesitate to ask questions.

Wall Streeters are wondering whether you exercise this same careful judgment when you buy their wares, when you choose the monthly investment plan, a mutual fund or a particular issue.

Do you ask yourself:

What effect will the nation's economiic climate have upon my choice of investment?

Will my purchase suit my particular — perhaps my peculiar — needs?

Have I done any comparison shopping either among investment vehicles or particular issues?

Too often the new investor trusts to luck with the thought that digging for answers is impossible. Instead, here is what is yours for the asking:

FOR YOU — FOR FREE

New York Stock Exchange speakers: around the country there are 75 Investor Information Committees comprising some 2,000 representatives of brokerage firms upon whom you can call to deliver a single lecture or an entire course — for free — on this business of investing.

★ ★ ★

These are men and women who study the market daily, who are equipped to answer questions elementary and involved.

They will meet with you at your local school, library, company plant, church, open their offices to you. Already they are reaching 250,000 investors yearly.

Both the New York Stock Exchange and the American Stock Exchange can ship you motion pictures that describe how the stock markets operate, the role they play in our economy, the role they can play in your life.

You can subscribe — and for very little — to their publications which tell of stock market terminology, new investment opportunities, groups of securities that perform to meet specific objectives.

Never before have the professionals spent so much time, money and thought on how to help you. You've got a direct line to Wall Street. You've but to use it or blame yourself should you go astray in this business of buying securities.

Refuse One Means to Refuse All

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Two weeks ago a boy asked a girl friend of mine to go to a dance with her. She refused. (The reason for her refusal which of course she did not tell him was because he is shorter than she is.) Now another boy has asked her to go to the same dance and she would like to go but has refused. She said it would not be right to accept an invitation from him after she had refused to go with the other boy and that it would be a direct slight to him.

★ ★ ★

"I said that she had a perfect right to go with whomever she pleased and that it would be entirely proper for her to accept the second boy's invitation. Will you please give us your opinion?"

Answer: If she had told him in the first place her reason for refusing, it would have been unkind and perhaps even cruel, but not as unforgiveably rude as it would be, the way things are, were she to accept this new invitation.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I received an invitation to a party and I know the occasion is a wedding anniversary even though no mention has been made of it. Ought I to take a present?"

Answer: Since there will be others who are likely not to know beforehand of the anniversary, it might make them uncomfortable should they see that you have brought a present. If, on the other hand, you want to send a remembrance, it would be best to send it to the house before the party.

"Dear Mrs. Post: In our house we serve salad on a separate plate but with the meat course. Will you please tell me if it is necessary to include a salad fork in the table setting, or can the dinner fork be used for both meat and salad?"

Answer: The same one can perfectly well be used for both.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's first name is William. However, he is called "Bill" by almost everyone. Very often we receive mail addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jones. Is this correct? I don't think it is but my husband says it denotes friendliness and is quite proper. I would appreciate your opinion."

Answer: I agree with you that it is not correct to address letters to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jones.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I was at a banquet recently and with the meat course was served a sort of ice in a paper cup. I used my fork that I was eating the meat course with, but I notice many other people used their teaspoons. Which of us was right?"

Answer: The teaspoon was proper for the sherbet.

What Young People Think

Should Dad Do Dishes? Question Stirs Storm

By EUGENE GILBERT

"Everybody works but father, he sits around all day . . ."

Remember that old song? Most teenagers probably never heard of it, but the main idea in the lyrics is enough to start a pretty good argument among them.

Does the fact that father is the breadwinner excuse him from working around the house?

Should he help with the housework? Do the dishes every night? Or maybe just pitch in and help after a big meal — say at Christmas and Thanksgiving?

★ ★ ★

These are some of the questions we threw at 600 teenagers across the country in an effort to determine father's place in the home when there's work to be done.

As might be expected, the questions divided teenagers into two loudly opposing camps.

Girls for the most part were all for putting an apron on father and allowing him to work off office tension on the business end of a broom or dishmop.

Boys, for the most part, thought that such domestic duties were degrading to the man of the house, not at all in keeping with his dignity, rank and need for relaxation.

'IS MAMA MAID?'

"Certainly husbands should help with the household chores," insisted 16-year-old Marcia Rives of Detroit. "What do they think the wife is, a maid or something?"

★ ★ ★

"No," argued 14-year-old Tom Mackay of Duluth, Minn., "Father works all day, he should be allowed to have his evenings and weekends free. Most women now don't know what to do with their spare time."

And so the argument went, with 83 per cent of the girls calling on Dad to climb out of that rocking chair and get to work, and 55 per cent of the boys urging him to stay right where he is and enjoy a well earned rest.

Should husbands wash the dishes every night?

Absolutely not, answered 98 per cent of the boys in an amazing show of unanimity.

Even the remaining 2 per cent were reluctant to join the enemy ranks. To a man, they answered "don't know," leaving the yes blank on our questionnaire without a single male vote.

★ ★ ★

Despite their strong stand on Dad's helping with household chores in general, girls were inclined to leniency when it came to sentencing him to a nightly session at the sink.

Only 24 per cent thought he should do the dishes every night; 72 per cent figured this was asking a big too much; and 4 per cent hadn't quite made up their minds.

GROWLS FROM BOYS

The whole question brought angry growls from the young males interviewed.

"No, definitely not," grumbled 15-year-old Marion Evers of Augusta, Maine. "Dishwashing is not a man's job every night — or any night for that matter."

"Why shouldn't he do the dishes. He ate, didn't he?" counters Virginia Lee Brown, 15, of Coatesville, Ind. "He's not the only one who has to work. The wife works all day too.

"I'm sick of listening to how hard men work. They have to wake most of them up at the office to go home for supper."

Larry Budde, a 16-year-old Brooklyn lad, came up with a revolutionary idea to solve this age-old domestic problem: "Why don't the children do the dishes, then Mom and Dad could sit and watch television?" If Larry's idea ever caught on, it might be bigger than paper plates.

Boys were inclined to bend a little — but not much — on the question of whether Dad should help with the dishes after a big meal like Christmas or Thanksgiving.

A magnanimous-minded 13 per cent flashed him the green light to proceed to the kitchen; 59 per cent still held out against scullery duty despite the festive nature of the meal, and 28 per cent didn't know what to think.

★ ★ ★

Girls had no second thoughts about this one at all: 97 per cent of them insisted that Dad's place after Christmas or Thanksgiving dinner was in the kitchen and not snoozing on the couch.

"Husbands have an obligation to help out after big meals," argued 15-year-old Virginia Coe of Hoosick Falls, N.Y. "No one likes to spend a holiday doing dishes, not even a wife."

To which 18-year-old John Curry of Sac City, Iowa, answers: "Holidays make no difference. Doing dishes is part of a wife's duties and she shouldn't need help. The post office doesn't have mailmen's wives come down and help with the Christmas rush."

So far, the teenagers interviewed were speaking in purely hypothetical terms, giving their opinions on what should or shouldn't be done.

WHAT HAPPENS?

For instance, does Dad do any of the housework? Yes, answered 56 per cent.

And what does he do?

Lo, dishwashing led all the rest with a 52 per cent vote. The survey figures further showed that Dad is a pretty handy fellow around the house, when forced to it.

Twenty-two per cent of the teenagers said their fathers helped with the cooking, 13 per cent said he did the floors and walls, 5 per cent said he washed clothes, 3 per cent said he swept the floors.

The remainder of the answers were divided among such chores as washing windows, painting, cleaning the garage, moving furniture ("Mom's the artistic type," explained one boy), taking out the garbage, tidying up closets, even changing baby diapers.

★ ★ ★

Does Dad take to this type of work in an agreeable manner or is he resentful? Surprisingly, 59 per cent of the youngsters said that their fathers managed to smile behind a broom, and only 22 per cent noted any particular resentment.

JOANN GARRETT

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Garrett of Newberry road announce the engagement of their daughter, JoAnn, to Douglas A. Keyes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwell O. Keyes of Detroit. The wedding will be performed June 20.

"He may snarl a little when asked to do something," said one boy, "but once he gets going, you usually find him whistling or singing."

The survey showed that one way husbands can avoid housework is by bringing work home from the office. Of the youngsters interviewed, 32 per cent said their fathers brought home work from the office and spent anywhere from one to five or more hours a week at it.

While boys were overwhelmingly opposed to their fathers doing housework, 81 per cent saw no objection to his doing office work at home.

And, as would be expected, girls thought exactly the opposite, with 50 per cent opposed to his doing office work at home, compared with the 83 per cent who thought he should pitch in with the household tasks.

Put some light on the subject when you're working in the kitchen, advise home management specialists at Michigan State University. You'll find that light colors on walls and cupboards reflect more light than do dark colors.

Consider Figure

How to Choose Swim Suit

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

This is the time of year when we begin thinking about new swimming suits. Of course your figure can make or break any suit, but there are certain styles which are most becoming to every figure and certain mistakes in selection we should avoid.

For instance, women who have very large hips are tempted to buy suits with very full skirts. A skirt is flattering but it should be somewhat skimpy. Those which are heavily gathered make one look larger. Women with a small bust may find that their curves seem to disappear entirely in a one piece suit which flattens them, unless it has a built in brassiere.

TWO-PIECE SUITS

Far too many women wear the two-piece suits. If a woman is short, this suit makes her look more so. If she has any extra weight, this type will not be flattering for two reasons. In the first place, she is almost certain to have fatty deposits around her waist and on her diaphragm. Also, the contrast in color between the suit and her skin makes her look broader.

I think the one-piece suit is most flattering to the average woman who has a good but mature figure. Many of these have a skirt over the trunks which is somewhat like a short sheath. In other words it is not full. Of course the darker colors are slimming.

There really is not much you can do about a protruding abdomen except try to hold your tummy in or get rid of it through diet and exercise. Even in this instance I think the one-piece suit is most slimming especially if it is made of material which is somewhat restraining. There are such materials.

Some figures are slim enough to wear the two-piece suits except for fat over the diaphragm. For that reason I am going to give you a diaphragm-slimming exercise. Stand tall with the feet separated. Bend the elbows and place the hands behind the head. Bend the trunk forward and down. Raise the trunk and bend back as far as comfortable. Lower head backward. Hold for a few moments, feeling the pull over the diaphragm. Continue, bending forward, raising the trunk and bending backward.

Here is one which will do lovely things for both the abdomen and the neck. Lie on the floor on your back, legs straight, arms resting on the floor at your sides. Bend the left knee as you raise your head from the floor. Touch your nose with your left knee. Be careful not to bump your nose. Return leg and head to the floor. This time bend your right knee and do the same. Continue, alternating left and right.

If you would like to have my short routine of exercise planned especially for women, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 19. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Security for You

Disabled, Survivors Eligible

By RAY HENRY

"Why should I care about Social Security?" a young man asked the other day. "I'll never live to collect it."

This attitude, although not always stated so bluntly, seems to be quite common among the younger generation.

Yet, even at birth, a boy baby now has a better than even chance of living to at least 65—the age at which Social Security retirement payments can start for men.

But, more important than that, Social Security isn't only a government program limited to paying people when they get old. It has two other important functions:

1. It provides those covered with monthly payments if between 50 and 65 they are severely and permanently disabled.

2. It protects a man's family against financial want if he should die before the family is raised.

Here's a brief explanation of these two programs:

Disability payments—If you become disabled, you—and, perhaps your dependents—are entitled to monthly payments after you reach 50.

You are if you:

—Have a permanent disability which is so severe that you can't do any substantial work, and —Have had the disability for at least six months, and —Have worked under Social Security for five of the 10 years before you were disabled.

The monthly payments may range from $33 to $116, with the amount depending on your average monthly earnings while you worked.

In addition, your dependents—that is, your wife and children—may also be eligible for payments.

Survivors payments — Under the Social Securty law, your widow, children or parents may receive after your death monthly payments based on your Social Security record.

Payments to your survivors may range from $33 to $254 a month, the amount depending on the number of survivors you leave and your average monthly earnings while you worked in a job covered by Social Security.

In addition, your surviving widow, if she has been living with you in the same household, may also be entitled to a lump sum death payment of $99 to $255.

First Aid Class Gets Practical Demonstration

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP) — A class of city firemen and their wives gathered Wednesday night for a Red Cross refresher course in first aid.

As the class opened, a large light bulb dropped from a ceiling fixture and broke upon the head of Mrs. William Heinrich.

Instructor William Bergadine immediately administered first aid, lecturing the while on how to patch up face cuts and bandage a wounded head. Then her husband took her to the doctor, who removed four pieces of glass from Mrs. Heinrich's scalp.

The 24 dollars for which the Indians supposedly sold Manhattan Island in 1626 would now have been equal in value to all the real property on Manhattan if it could have been invested at six per cent compound interest.

ANOTHER YANKEE SPECIAL!

Bench Rider Triggers 17-6 Tiger Loss

Umpire Timeout Wipes Out Two Foytack Tosses

Word to Monbouquette Ignites Rally as Boston Hands Dykes 1st Defeat

DETROIT (UPI)—Jimmie Dykes got a taste of the potion that killed Bill Norman yesterday and it all started with a player whose name you won't find in the box score—Billy Monbouquette.

It ended with the Boston Red Sox on top of a 17-6 score in a game that saw nearly as many extra base hits — including nine homers — rattle around Briggs Stadium as singles. There were 13 extra base pokes to 17 singles.

Paul Foytack was cruising along with a 4-0 lead, thanks to a pair of two-run homers by Al Kaline, his third and fourth of the year, in the fifth inning. Dick Gernert, who singled with two out in the second, had been Boston's only base runner.

Foytack faced Frank Malzone to open the fifth. He threw the first pitch past Malzone for a called strike and then Malzone bunted foul. Suddenly, first base umpire Ed Hurley called time and told plate umpire Joe Paparella to nullify the two strikes.

Hurley explained afterward: "I wasn't in position when the inning started. I called time and went out to the Boston bullpen along the right field line. Monbouquette was sitting about 15 feet off the bench out there and I told him either to get on the bench or out of the game.

"I saw Foytack winding up as I was coming back down the line and called time again but he went through with the pitch," Hurley said.

Neither Paparella nor second base umpire Frank Tabacchi had noticed Hurley going out to talk to Monbouquette or heard him call time.

With the 0-2 count wiped out, Malzone promptly homered into the left field stands. From then on Foytack wasn't the same although he got out of the inning with only one other hit. The roof fell in the next three innings as Boston hammered Foytack, Tom Morgan, George Susce and Pete Burnside for 15 hits and 16 runs. Only Dave Sisler, who pitched the ninth, escaped unharmed.

Boston batted around in the sixth and seventh and sent 12 men to the plate in the eighth, getting six runs after five each in the sixth and seventh.

But Foytack will stay in Dykes' starting rotation despite his inability to finish for the sixth straight time after being Detroit's hottest spring training pitcher.

"He looked very good and pitched well," Dykes said. "That Malzone thing may have rattled him. It's the first time I've ever seen anything like that call. Foytack will be all right. Look at Bob Friend for the Pirates. He's not doing too well now but he won 22 games last year and you know he's a good pitcher so you stick with him."

Sparing the depressing detail for Tiger backers, the Red Sox' big blows were struck by Gernert and Gary Geiger who each knocked in four runs. Geiger had two homers, a double and a single and Gernert a three-run homer and long double. Marty Keough and Jackie Jensen also homered for Boston while Lou Berberet whacked his first for Detroit with one on in the eighth after Boston was ahead 17-4.

Are Yanks Coming to Life?

By The Associated Press

For the first time in two weeks, the New York Yankees have won two games in a row. For the first time in 13 games, they've managed to score more than two runs in any one inning. And for the first time in a week, they've gained ground in their fight to get out of the American League's second division.

That's how dreary things have been of late for the world champions.

They flashed some of their long-missing power last night at Kansas City for a 7-4 victory that left them seventh, but edged them within two games of fourth place and within 5½ of first.

They did it in a quick explosion, scoring all their runs in the first three innings—Norm Siebern drove in four with a double and home run—and then getting no more than a pair of singles in six innings of superb, shutout relief by the A's Bud Daley.

Baltimore spilled first place Cleveland 6-5 in the only other AL night game, after Washington had rapped the Chicago White Sox 6-4.

The Yankees got five hits and three runs before loser Bob Grim (3-2) and reliever Ralph Terry could get a man out. Tony Kubek opened with a homer, catcher John Blanchard, an outfield fill-in for the flu-struck Yanks, doubled and came home on Gil McDougald's double. Then Siebern capped the frame with an RBI double off Terry, who like Grim is an ex-Yank.

They scored another three in the second inning on Siebern's homer, then closed their scoring in the third on a bunt—their 10th hit—an error, wild pitch and a sacrifice fly by winner Art Ditmar (1-1).

Bobby Shantz relieved Ditmar in the eighth after a solo home run by Bob Cerv.

★ ★ ★

Baltimore's young Milt Pappas, still a week shy of his 20th birthday, stayed unbeaten (3-0) as the second place Orioles broke loose for four runs in the seventh inning at Cleveland against Gary Bell (2-2). A two-run double by Willie Miranda, an RBI single by Willie Tasby and Gene Woodling's sacrifice fly did it. Joe Ginsberg got things started with a two-run homer in the second for the Birds.

★ ★ ★

The Indians, who lead by 2½ games, made it close on Ray Webster's first Major League homer in the ninth. It came with two on against Billy Loes.

★ ★ ★

Rookie Bob Allison's first grand-slam homer wrapped up Washington's most successful (7-2) western trip in a decade, hauling the Nats from behind in the seventh inning against Early Wynn (3-2). Camilo Pascual (2-2) was the winner with relief help. The Senators pulled off a 9-1 swing through the West in 1949, when they finished eighth.

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Ingemar Johansson, the Swedish challenger, who was a ringside spectator at the Patterson-London fight last Friday night, does not appear to be worried about the heavyweight champion for his June bout in Yankee Stadium.

Johansson, a courteous young man, feels he has more power than Patterson but admits he will have to catch the champion before he can land one of his rights, a punch which London did not have in his colorless style.

The Swede said Patterson had a better boxing style when he saw him in the 1952 Olympics than he does now.

★ ★ ★

In his broken English, Ingemar says, "His style is not so good now."

We shall see next month, Mr. Johansson.

DITTOS FROM THE PRESS BOX

We feel very badly about the death of Doug Vaughan, 48-year-old sports editor of the Windsor Daily Star who died suddenly last night.

He was a great asset to our profession.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers must cut three players by Saturday midnight and Jerry Davie, who has relations living in Pontiac, will probably be one of them. Charley Lau and Inman Veal are sure to go.

Lau's case is a strange one. Here is a catcher who needs to utilize his abilities the best he can to stay in the Majors but doesn't.

In spring camp he dropped pop fouls frequently because a one handed showboat stuff. In fact he dropped a fair pop up in a Tiger game recently by merely sticking out the glove hand without giving an assist with his right hand.

Even Yogi Berra uses both hands and he went without a single error all of last season.

★ ★ ★

Jim Bunning and Paul Foytack of the Tigers are getting to be known as the "Gopher Ball" twins.

★ ★ ★

Tennis player Karol Fageros, who has followed Gorgeous Gussie Moran's style of playing with gold lace panties failed to attract much attention on the courts in a Rome, Italy, tournament.

Only comment from one male tennis player was, "Aw they're last year's panties."

8 Men Sought for Fitness Clinic

Twenty-two willing men have signed up and eight more are needed for the physical fitness program being sponsored this weekend by the Pontiac YMCA.

Dr. Thomas K. Cureton, physical fitness director at the University of Illinois, will be in charge of the two-day clinic, scheduled tomorrow and Saturday at the local YMCA.

Dr. Cureton's credentials are long and impressive.

He is a consultant to the National Committee on Physical Fitness named by President Eisenhower, a member of the U.S. Olympic Committee, and recognized as an expert in the field of physical fitness by the American Medical Association.

Holder of a Ph.D. from Columbia University, Dr. Cureton has published 30 books and more than 300 articles in his field in addition to conducting aquatic and physical fitness clinics in 200 American cities and 11 countries.

"The human body is the only machine that breaks down when not used," states Dr. Cureton, who has tested and analyzed the physical condition of over 50,000 men, women and children.

The 22 men registered for the program to date represent varied walks of professional life—bakers, automobile and insurance salesmen, lawyers, products distributors and manufacturers.

Eight persons still are sought to complete Dr. Cureton's desired quota of 30 for this clinic.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Cureton will address the Pontiac Exchange Club tomorrow noon and in the evening at 7:30 the public is invited, without charge, to see "The Search," a motion picture on the physical fitness research program at the University of Illinois.

The physical fitness testing program for the 30 enrolled persons will run from 9 a.m. until noon Saturday, followed by a luncheon at the YMCA at which time Dr. Cureton will summarize the testing program and answer questions.

At 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon Dr. Cureton will interview the 30 tested men and map out a future program of physical exercise. A movie dealing with the heart will be shown at 7 p.m., followed by physical conditioning demonstrations by Dr. Cureton in the "Y" gymnasium and swimming pool. The public is invited at no charge.

Table Tennis Is Big in Foreign Countries

NEW YORK (NEA)—For those of you who wouldn't walk across the street to watch table tennis, we give you the phenomenon that is J. Rufford Harrison.

tachioed chemist, and Wilmington, tachioed chemist and Wilmington, Del., resident who went all the way to Germany to watch the same sport that people play downstairs. They played it better in Dortmund, for this was the world tournament. There were 500 guys and girls from Japan and Sweden and Rumania and Vietnam and France and all over cutting and slashing away at the clicking white ball in a big hall built for bicycle racing.

Harrison got there the hard way. He flew . . . and on his own money. This 29-year-old Briton, you see, is president of that small but select clan known as the United States Table Tennis Association.

There are 2,000 members. That isn't, as he sighs, much when you consider that everybody who can hit a ball with a paddle is eligible.

★ ★ ★

Harrison went to Europe to see his first world championships and to represent his association at the International Table Tennis Federation's World Congress.

This is a rough administration for him. All these years, the armed forces have been providing transportation for American players in exchange for exhibitions at overseas bases. Not this time, though. Harrison even tried the State Department, but nothing happened.

The USTTA practically depleted its treasury by picking up the tab for the seven-player team. Harrison and the non-playing captain went along the aforementioned hard way.

They promote the world event every two years. Next time, it goes to Peking.

"It's never been held in America," laments Harrison. "Not enough interest. Other countries go all out. Like Japan, where it is a major sport in the universities.

★ ★ ★

Orientals in general take to it like the Australians to tennis. Japan's association has better than a million members.

Doctoring Your Golf

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: Big slice, little distance.

DIAGNOSIS: Flying right elbow.

TREATMENT: Today's illustration shows clearly how letting the right elbow fly out away from the body forces the player to hit the ball from the outside in—the cut-across stroke. Also, it shows the whole body badly out of position for attaining full power.

The answer here is that the right elbow must be tucked in close to the body. This is for two main purposes—to avoid the slice and to hit the ball with full power.

To accomplish this, bring the elbows as close together as you comfortably can at address. This puts the right elbow in the proper place to start the swing. Then, be sure to turn the right hip around to the right on the backswing, thus giving the right elbow room to remain close to the body as the backswing progresses.

On the downswing, the right elbow should brush by the right side pocket of your trousers—not fly out and away as we see here.

Manassa Mauler to Enter Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Manassa Mauler, giant-killer in the Wood Memorial, will try to prove the earlier victory was no fluke when he runs in the Preakness May 16.

Emil Dolce thought enough of his colt to put down $10,000 yesterday as a supplementary entry fee.

Meanwhile, Brookmeade Stable announced that Willie Shoemaker, who rode Tomy Lee to victory in the Kentucky Derby, will be aboard Sword Dancer in the $150,000-added second jewel of the Triple Crown.

Sword Dancer lost the Derby by a nose to Tomy Lee, given a superb ride by Shoemaker in the tense stretch duel.

Irish Defeat MSU

EAST LANSING (AP)—Notre Dame swept to its seventh straight tennis victory with an 8-1 defeat of Michigan State here yesterday. MSU now has a 7-4 mark.

U.S. Can't Apply Pressure for Olympics

Fans Not Safe

Briggs Stadium Haven for Home Run Hitters

DETROIT (UPI) — Never before have Tiger fans placed themselves in such jeopardy at Briggs Stadium as this season when they buy seats anywhere in left, center or right field.

Homers have been landing in those stands at a rate better than three a game — 48 so far in 14 contests.

Nine more were hit yesterday —six by the Boston Red Sox— and not one game has been played in Briggs Stadium this year without a homer being hit.

The opposition, led by Cleveland and Washington, have knocked 29 homers accounting for 55 runs while Detroit has 19 for only 32.

★ ★ ★

Boston, in just two games, cracked out seven round trippers followed by Chicago with six in three games. Baltimore was blanked in one try at the friendly Briggs Stadium fences and New York couldn't find the range in two games.

★ ★ ★

Kansas City is the only club that hasn't played in Detroit yet but that will be remedied tomorrow night when the Athletics open a three-game weekend series.

The Tigers have been homerless five times in their own park. Detroit has the consolation that the longest belt was hit by first baseman Larry Osborne. His initial major league homer caromed off the roof of the third deck in right —that's 94 feet from the ground.

★ ★ ★

"I don't know whether it's the baseballs or the park," manager Jimmie Dykes said after watching 19 balls hit out in his first four games as head man. "All I know is I've never seen 'em go so far, so fast and so often."

★ ★ ★

Tiger pitcher Jim Bunning claims the baseball "is souped up."

"It has to be," said Bunning, who gives up more home runs than most any pitcher you can name. "When I first came up to the Tigers (in 1955) it was quite a thing to hit one into the upper deck seats. Now if you don't hit one upstairs, they call it a cheap home run."

Paul Foytack, who is giving Bunning a close race for the home run leadership on the Detroit club, cracked that "140-pound batters are getting up there nowadays and hitting home runs one-handed."

Oklahoma City Tourney Starts

150 Begin Open Today Over Rugged Course; Emphasis on Position

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The $25,000 Oklahoma City Open golf tournament went into the first round today with the emphasis on position golf instead of power.

★ ★ ★

A field of 150, including 120 professionals and 30 amateurs, found out in practice rounds that the Twin Hills Country Club course was no pushover. It plays a par 72 over 6,440 yards of tree-lined and ditch-filled terrain that has turned back the efforts of some of the game's best players.

★ ★ ★

The long hitters will have no advantage. First to realize this was the longest hitter of them all, George Bayer. After yesterday's practice round, Bayer remarked, "I don't believe I will like this course very much."

★ ★ ★

He referred to the fact that his powerful tee shots could get into all kinds of trouble unless they were deadly straight.

★ ★ ★

Bayer was hitting his irons off the majority of the tees, even on par 4 and par 5 holes.

Detroit Chance to Get Games in 1964 Good

Fred Matthei Readies Bid of Motor City for Munich Meeting

DETROIT (UPI) — The traditional American "hard sell" won't win Detroit and the United States the 1964 olympic games, the two men in charge of the U.S. bid said last night.

Detroit industrialist Frederick C. Matthei, who has spent a personal fortune over the past 23 years in an attempt to bring the games to the Motor City, and Richard E. Cross said they feel Detroit has its best chance in history but not by high pressure methods.

The International Olympic Committee will award the 1964 games at its meeting beginning May 27 in Munich, Germany.

"We tried the 'hard sell' 12 years ago and it boomeranged terribly," Cross said. "The committee members are above politicking. Look at the troubles our state department has had in International affairs.

★ ★ ★

"You just can't go up to these fellows, grab them by the coat and say you want their vote," Cross explained to a press conference last night after federal judge Frank Picard, advisor to the Detroit Olympic committee, advocated a different approach.

"If you sent them a fruit cake at Christmas they'd send it back thinking you were trying to bribe them," Cross said in explaining that maneuvering on the Olympic scale is unlike anything usually seen on the American political, business or sports level.

Matthei said Tokyo is the United States' chief competitor for the games and has shot to the forefront recently after it was disclosed that the Japanese government would foot the bill for the Olympics. But he said several things may work against Japan and in favor of the U.S.

★ ★ ★

"The unwritten rule has been for two of three Olympics to be held in Europe and one on another continent. Rome has the games this year but last time they were in Australia so the committee may feel it's time to put them in the Western Hemisphere. The last time they were held here was when Los Angeles had the 1932 games," Matthei said.

★ ★ ★

"And as far as facilities go, in all the times that we have been before the IOC there never has been the slightest doubt raised as to our capacity for staging and financing the games. We have the space and the buildings. If we get the bid we'll start construction of the stadium to hold the track and field events," he said.

Detroit already has facilities for nearly every other aspect of the games and has held the U.S. swimming and diving trials for the last two Olympiads.

Cross said that in addition to the plan that will be tendered to the IOC, he will ask that the committee hold the games in Detroit as a tribute to its chairman, Avery Brundage, who was born in Detroit.

Cross said the U.S. can confidently expect the votes of all the countries from outside the iron curtain. He later pointed out that the Soviet bloc may support the American bid since Russia is gaining so rapidly in athletics and would like the chance to exhibit its skills here.

Boston Takes Lead in Hockey Series

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP) — Larry Regan scored two goals Wednesday night for the Boston Bruins who beat the New York Rangers 6-3 and took a four-three lead in their European ice hockey series.

★ ★ ★

A small crowd saw the Bostonians score four times in the second period and twice in the third while holding New York to one goal in the second and two in the third.

★ ★ ★

Besides Regan, Boston goals were scored by Don Meisner, Bob Armstrong, Earl Reibel and Leo LaBine. New York goals were made by Gordon Labossiere, Dean Prentice and Bill Sweeney.

Half of St. Louis' 22 Decisions Decided by Single Tally

One-Run Games Shag Cards

By The Associated Press

Ever wonder just how important one run defeats can be in a pennant race? Ask Solly Hemus. Without 'em, his St. Louis Cardinals could be first in the National League chase. With 'em, they're last.

Don't shrug it off. Sure, Los Angeles, Philadelphi and Pittsburgh could be leading the league, too, by reversing their one-run losses. But the weight of those lone-run defeats hangs heaviest on the Cardinals.

★ ★ ★

St. Louis has played 22 games, and exactly half of them have been decided by one run. They've been handed half of their 16 defeats by that margin, and have gained half of their six victories the same way. Fact is, each of their last six games has been a one-run decision, and they've won but two of them.

★ ★ ★

The Cards gave Hemus, their rookie manager, a tough time again last night, coming from behind with four runs in the eighth that proved just enough for an 8-7 victory at Philadelphia. They had lost by the same score to the Phillies the night before.

★ ★ ★

For the record, while the Cards are 3-8 in one-run decisions, Milwaukee is 4-3, Cincinnati 3-4, San Francisco 4-2, Los Angeles 4-3, Chicago 4-5, Philadelphia 5-4 and Pittsburgh 5-3.

★ ★ ★

Milwaukee's first place Braves took a one-run victory yesterday, beating Los Angeles 5-4. The Chicago Cubs beat Pittsburgh 3-0 on Dave Hillman's two-hitter. Cincinnati and San Francisco, tied for second, a game back of the Braves, were idle.

Wally Post hit a pair of solo home runs and Gran Hamner added a two-run shot as the Phils built a 6-4 lead against Alex Kellner. Ken Boyer hit a two-run homer for the Cards against Ray Semproch.

The Braves, held to an unearned run for six innings by Gene Snyder and reliever Johnny Klippstein, came from behind on Johnny Logan's two-run single in the seventh and RBI singles by Ed Mathews and pinch-hitter Wes Covington in a two-run eighth. Art Fowler (2-2) was the loser. Bob Giggie gained his first major league victory in his first decision with two-innings of hitless, shutout relief.

The Dodgers, beaten 3-2 in 16 innings the night before, did their scoring in the fifth, ending a string of 15 scoreless frames. Five walks, an error and two hits, one Don Demeter's two-run single, got the four runs across against Joey Jay and Bob Buhl.

Hillman, 31, a right-hander with only four previous complete games in the majors, gave up only a pair of singles in his first shutout. Don Hoak got one in the first, and after Hillman (2-1) had retired 15 in a row, Hank Foiles got the Pirates' other hit in the sixth. Foiles also collected Hillman's lone walk, in the ninth. Harvey Haddix lost his first in three decisions, with a walk, Bobby Thomson's double and George Altman's single putting it away in a two-run second.

Race Red Hot for MIAA 9's

By The Associated Press

The baseball race in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Assn. still is red hot. Only a game separates the top three clubs and the fourth-place team is only two games down.

But only four games are left and front-running Albion, which split a double-header with Hope Wednesday, is conceded an edge. The scores were Albion 4-4, Hope 5-3.

Albion now is 8-2 in league standings. Alma jumped into a 7-3 second-place tie with Hope by knocking off Hillsdale in a double-header, 6-5 and 12-2. Hillsdale sank from a second-place tie into fourth place with a 6-4 mark.

Kalamazoo and Adrian split, Kalamazoo taking the first game 3-1 and Adrian the second 4-3. Kalamazoo now is 5-5 and Adrian 2-8.

Calvin swept a double-header from tail-end Olivet, 8-5 and 7-6, and now is 4-6. Olivet is 1-9.

City Parochial Schools Trip Local Golf Foes

Golf featured another action-packed schedule on the local prep front Wednesday with both St. Frederick and St. Michael, unbeaten West Bloomfield, Bloomfield Hills and Holly all winning.

West Bloomfield also won a track meet to complete a successful day while Cranbrook was successful in baseball but defeated in tennis.

Lake Orion, Clawson and powerful Fitzgerald were all track victors in night duals at the Fitzgerald course.

St. Fred nipped Walled Lake 175-177 at Pontiac Municipal for its 6th win in seven starts. Mike Reed led the way with 42 although Viking Tom Balkwell was medalist at 41. Mike Wiegand fired a 40 in the St. Mike triumph over Orchard Lake St. Mary at Pontiac Country Club.

★ ★ ★

The West Bloomfield linksmen coasted to their 5th straight win at Highland. Jim Hollister and Don Cole matched 38s in a 161-191 walloping of Milford. Don Tokarsky led the losers with 43. Bloomfield Hills beat out Oak Park in a playoff by three strokes following a tie at 178. Baron Bob Thompson and Parker Vic Olan each had 41.

A 39 by Grant Reed led Holly over Clarkston, 162-167. Jim Hunter of Clarkston turned in a 40.

Six 1sts and some runnerup finishes enabled West Bloomfield to accumulate 60 points in a night triangular at the Keego Harbor track. Detroit Lutheran had 49 and Clarenceville 29. Jack Newton accounted for 16¼ of the Lakers' points.

★ ★ ★

Three records were set in the duals at Fitzgerald. Clawson medley relay unit highlighted a 65-44 walloping of Troy with a 2:40 time. Wendell Johnson of the losers broke the pole vault record by soaring 12 feet. He also won the broad jump while Newt Acton won both dashes for CHS.

Bill Mach of Lake Orion established the other new mark with a 2:07.5 half mile. The Dragons trampled Madison, 76-33. Fitzgerald stayed unbeaten belting Oak Park 69-40.

Andy Billesdon hurled a four-hitter as Cranbrook downed Grosse Pointe University School, 7-3. A 6-run 2nd wrapped up the Cranes' 4th triumph in five starts. Jon Plew led the attack with a single and triple. Dearborn won out in tennis, 7-0.

OKs Cutting Liability of Liquor Licensees

LANSING (AP) — The liability of liquor licensees for injuries suffered by intoxicated people would be reduced under a bill passed by the Senate yesterday and sent to the House. The measure received a bare passage majority of 18 votes as 13 senators opposed it.

Licensees' liability for damages resulting when a patron is involved in an accident depriving his family of support would be limited to cases where sale of a final drink "directly caused" intoxication.

2 Teams Dominate 'Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—Four members of the Rochester Americans and two of the first place Buffalo Bisons today comprised the American Hockey League all-star team for 1958-59.

Rochester's entire forward line —leftwing Gary Aldcorn, center Rudy Migay and rightwing Bill Hicke—earned places on the top squad along with playing coach Steve Kraftcheck, at defense. Bison Goalie Marcel Paille and defense star Ivan Irvin rounded out the stellar squad.

The Calder Cup playoff champions, Hershey Bears, placed two players — goaltender Bobby Perreault and defenseman Larry Zeidel — on the second team. The Springfield Indians, who finished fifth, also had two members on the alternate team, center Harry Pidhirny and rightwing Ken Schinkel. The others were Frank Martin of Buffalo on defense and Eddie Mazur of Cleveland at forward.

Each of the players chosen for the first team receives a league bonus of $300 and a gold miniature hockey puck, while the second team selectees receive $200 each and silver pucks.

The voting was done by American League hockey writers, TV and radio broadcasters.

Migay was the only unanimous choice, getting the maximum 30 points. Kraftcheck and Aldcorn had 28 each, Irwin and Hicke had 26 and Paille 24.

HIS ALLEY—Mickey Mantle is his own biggest attraction at the new bowling alleys the New York Yankee slugger opened in new home, Dallas.

Play for Campy Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eighty-thousand or more fans, plus the New York Yankees and the Los Angeles Dodgers, promise to turn out tonight to give Campy a break.

★ ★ ★

Campy is Roy Campanella, whose brilliant baseball career was wrecked and his body partially paralyzed in an automobile accident a year and a half ago.

The occasion is a benefit for the ex-Dodger catcher between two old, bitter, but mutually respected rivals, the Yankees of American League dominance, and the Dodgers, nee Brooklyn Bums, of the National League.

★ ★ ★

Eighty thousand or more tickets have already been sold, the Dodger front office revealed today.

Ten thousand unreserved seats —at 90 cents for adults and 75 for kids—go on sale two hours before game time at Memorial Coliseum.

And if all are sold, said the Dodgers, major league baseball's all-time attendance record will be broken.

★ ★ ★

The record, 86,288, was set at Cleveland in the fifth game of the 1948 World Series between the Indians and the old Boston Braves.

For baseball, the Coliseum can handle about 94,600.

One-Time Champion Still Skates at 77

LONG BRANCH, N. J. (AP)—What happens to a world's champion speed skater when he reaches the age of 77?

He keeps right on skating, of course. At least, that's what Morris (Mott) Wood did. He won the title of champion U.S. speed skater at Verona Lake in 1902.

And in 1909, Wood won the professional championship of the world at Ohio's Elysium rink.

He can be seen any winter on the frozen Shrewsbury River, in his skin-tight racing uniform and ancient skates made from kangaroo leather.

Detroit had only one hit in its winning rally, but was helped along by six walks and two Toledo errors. The Titans were held to five hits in the game.

Snead's TV Win Streak Snapped by Player's 69

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP)—Gary Player of Johannesburg, South Africa, has ended Slammin' Sam Snead's streak of 13 straight golf match wins in a series filmed for television.

Player, who had a streak of five birdies in the middle of the match Tuesday, wound up with a 69 for the 18-hole match on the par 72 ElDorado Country Club course. Snead shot a 72.

★ ★ ★

The victory put the South African into an 18-hole match with Billy Casper, who won six times during the 1958 TV series. The current series will be telecast starting next October.

Before the South African brought his downfall, Snead had won $28,000 in prize money from the sponsor of the TV show.

Ace at Birmingham CC

Chuck Granadier shot a hole-in-one yesterday at Birmingham Country Club. Granadier connected for his ace on the 190-yard 7th hole with a 2-iron. He carded 33 for nine holes, then decided to retire for the day.

Odds Almost 20-1 Little Guy Won't Make Open

NEW YORK (AP) — Although the new double qualifying system for the 1959 U. S. Open has eased the pressure on the golfers a little, it still is nearly 20-1 that anyone who starts out in the local qualifying rounds won't make it to the main event June 11-13.

The U. S. Golf Assn. today listed the entries and qualifying places for each of the 57 local qualifying sections on May 18. A record number of 2,402 golfers entered the championship — an increase of 270 over last year's high. Of these 20 are exempt from all qualifying and 69 from the local but not the sectional rounds.

That leaves 2,333 golfers shooting for 428 qualifying places in the local rounds. The odds against their advancing to the next round are about 5.5 to 1. They'll be joined by 69 others who have to qualify sectionally, making it 497 players shooting for 130 available places in the championship proper. The ratio is about 3.7 to 1.

In the past few years, under the single qualifying system, the odds were about 15-1 against any player. Its slightly higher this time, due to the larger entry list and the reduction of the Open field from 162 to 150, but the better players will get two cracks at qualifying.

The largest field in the 57 local qualifying sections is at Rye, N. Y., where 173 will shoot for 30 places in the sectionals. At Chicago, 116 will play for 21 places and in Northern New Jersey 106 will play for 19 places. Detroit has 100 candidates for 18 places.

Scheduled local rounds at Honolulu, Boise, Idaho, and Albuquerque, N. M., were canceled because of insufficient entries.

Most touring pros who have to qualify locally will shoot their first 36 holes at Little Rock, Ark., or Memphis, Tenn. Most of those who have to qualify sectionally plan to play at Cincinnati when the second round of eliminations is run off June 1.

★ ★ ★

The players exempt from both qualifying rounds include Tommy Bolt, the defending champion; ex-champions Julius Boros, Jack Fleck, Ed Furgol, Ben Hogan, Dick Mayer and Cary Middlecoff; amateur champion Charlie Coe, Walter Burkemo, Dow Finsterwald, Claude Harmon, Jay Hebert, Tommy Jacobs, Don January, Gene Littler, Dick Metz, Gary Player, Bob Rosburg, Frank Stranahan and Peter Thomson.

Three former champions—Gene Sarazen, Tony Manero and Lew Worsham — have to buck the big odds of both qualifying rounds.

Mrs. Hilkene Fires 78 to Win WMGA Opener

With 10 pars and a birdie dotting her scorecard, Mrs. Bruce Hilkene of Birmingham shot a 78 yesterday at Maple Lane for a three-stroke victory in the first weekly 18-hole tournament of the season in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association.

Mrs. Hilkene, wife of a former Michigan football captain, was 38 at the turn and 40 coming home. Tied for 2nd place at 81 were Mrs. C. C. Cova and Mrs. R. G. Martell. There were 96 golfers in the WMGA's 24th annual campaign.

Joe Nuxhall's best season with the Redlegs club came in 1955 when he posted an impressive 17-12 mark, including five that were won via the shutout route.

AP Wirephoto

FIRST AID — Al Kaline, Tiger outfielder, has the ice bag applied to his bruised right ankle by trainer Jack Homel after hurting it in the 7th inning of yesterday's game with Boston. Kaline hit two homers in the game but the Red Sox still won, 17-6.

'Pitch 'n' Hit' Illini Big Ten Threats

CHICAGO (UPI) — Statistics showed today that a "good pitch-n-hit" team like Illinois can be a top pennant contender in Big Ten baseball.

The Illini, tied for the lead with Minnesota, have won five of their six conference games while batting only .225. As a team, the Illini have collected only 43 hits in 191 times at bat.

Michigan, in seventh place with only two wins in four starts, far outshines the Illini batters. The Wolverines have been hitting at a .275 clip with 56 hits in 204 official trips to the plate.

The defending champion Gophers top the league in batting with a .288 mark with 55 hits in 191 times at bat. The Gophers have scored 42 runs while permitting 13, compared to Illinois which has scored 45 times to 20 for their opponents.

The Illini secret clearly lies in the pitching staff, which includes three hurlers among the top 12 in the league. They are Terry Gellinger and Paul Arneson, both undefeated with two victories, and Dave Gantt, who has a 1-9 record.

The Gophers are represented among the top dozen only by Dick Siebert who is unbeaten in two decisions. Siebert is the strike-out leader with 20 to his credit compared to 17 for Gellinger and 10 for Arneson.

The Gophers continued to pace the league at the plate. Their .288 is high for the conference and three Gophers were among the top 10 batters.

Wayne Knapp has compiled a .429 in six games for the Gophers, Clyde Nelson .375 and Ron Causton .364.

In earned runs, the Illini pitchers were a shade better than Siebert. Gellinger allowed two earned runs in 23 innings and Arneson only one in 17. Siebert has charged with three in 18 innings.

Unemployment, Over Population Widespread

Home Front Battle Nassar's Toughest

(This is the last of three dispatches on President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.)

By WILBUR G. LANDREY

CAIRO (UPI) — Gamal Abdel Nasser is fighting the way he fights best — on several fronts, one of which faces West and another East.

But his toughest battle may well be at home in Egypt against time and a rising population.

It will outlast his quarrels with the Middle East Communists, the Russians, the West and other Arab rulers.

More than 1,400 men, women and children are packed into each square mile of the Nile Delta and the narrow green strip along the river that comprises inhabitable Egypt. The total population is increasing by half a million a year — about two per cent.

Per capita income is estimated at $85 to $100 a year — compared with more than $2,150 a year in the United States.

THREE-FIFTHS OF 1913

Some economists estimate that Egyptian per capita income is about three-fifths of what it was in 1913. The population is outrunning the available land and food supply.

★ ★ ★

Aside from the rich pashas, who find it harder to import their big cars, most Egyptians are probably slightly better off now than before Nasser's revolution in 1952.

One million fellahin (peasants) have benefited from land reform. There are plenty of jobs for the skilled worker. There are always buyers for consumer goods.

But unemployment is widespread. The average number of working days in the countryside range from 150 to 220 a year.

The first strong impression of the Westerner is that Cairo's streets are filled with aimless, idle men. Land has been distributed but what is needed is more land.

RACING POPULATION

Nasser is trying to outrun the increasing population by industrializing his country into the workshop of the Middle East and by creating more arable land.

Work is scheduled to begin in earnest late this year on the first stage of the Aswan Dam which aims to increase Egypt's cultivated land by one-third, from six million to eight million acres.

For that project, Russia promised — when its relations with Nasser were still good — the equivalent of 100 million dollars. The Soviets have promised 175 million dollars to help Egypt's five-year industrialization plans.

There is yet another plan to create a "new valley" parallel to the Nile in the Western Desert by drilling for water and linking up a series of oases.

★ ★ ★

The experience of the past several years has proved that it is easier to talk about ambitious programs than to carry them out. And Egypt can not carry them out without outside help.

Already she spends more abroad than she earns. Although she has a money earner in the Suez Canal, she has found no fabulous oil reserves to finance her development.

The human skeleton is made up of about 200 bones of which 74 are located in the head, neck and trunk with the remainder found principally in the legs and arms.

Lake Erie, 240 miles long and 40 miles wide, covers an area of about 9,660 square miles, about equivalent to the size of Vermont state.

Anita Ekberg Decides to Obtain a Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Uncertainty over the fate of the three-year marriage of Anita Ekberg and British Actor Anthony Steel has ended with her suing for divorce.

★ ★ ★

The Swedish actress charged him with extreme cruelty in her complaint filed Wednesday. Miss Ekberg, 27, and Steel, 39, were married in Florence, Italy, in 1956. They have been apart since Jan. 15 and she has been making films in Italy.

Quiz Manager of Supplement

Sunday Section Official Says He Didn't Question $4,000 a Year Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—The business manager of the American Weekly insisted today he never asked for details about $4,000 a year charges that Senate rackets probers say were extortion payments.

James Fontana, who handles business matters for the newspaper Sunday supplement, testified that at the time he didn't regard the money as an improper payment to assure labor peace.

But, he said that since hearing testimony given to the special Senate committee, he believes the payments were improper.

Officials of Neo Gravure Printing Co., Weehawken, N. J., testified the $4,000 a year payments were made to Harold Gross, convicted labor extortionist, to assure delivery of the American Weekly to the New York Journal-American. Gross now is a Teamsters Union local president in Miami.

The printing company is a commercial concern which handles various types of printing jobs in addition to turning out Sunday supplements.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee counsel, asked Fontana sternly whether Fontana was testifying as he did because "you can be sent to the penitentiary for making that kind of payments?"

"You and the other officers (of American Weekly) knew what it was for," Kennedy charged.

"I did not know," Fontana insisted. He made no direct reference to Kennedy's remarks about the penitentiary.

★ ★ ★

John J. Padulo, American Weekly's former business manager, testified that the payments of $4,000 were initiated under his administration, and that he had regarded them as improper but necessary tribute for labor peace. Padulo now is business manager of the Erie (Pa.) Times and News.

Padulo said he authorized the $4,000 payment to Neo Gravure after Neo Gravure reported the payments would be necessary to assure delivery of the American Weekly to the New York Journal-American.

The investment of the 1,300 life insurance companies in the United States in commercial and industrial rental properties now is more than two billion dollars.

Toasts Winnie, Roasts Harry

Ike Hurls Quiet Barb at Truman

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower threw what may have been an indirect barb at former President Truman Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

Eisenhower had invited Truman to the White House dinner honoring the visiting Sir Winston Churchill. But Truman sent regrets, saying he had a previous engagement in New York.

Before offering a toast at the dinner, Eisenhower said that several of the guests had told him:

"I have some very important engagements, but to see Sir Winston once again is one of the greatest things that could happen to me and I have broken the important engagement in order to do so."

Truman had said he hoped to see Churchill here or later in New York.

STRAINED SINCE 1952

Relations between Eisenhower and Truman have been strained since the 1952 political campaign.

Noting that protocol required that he offer his toast to Queen Elizabeth rather than Churchill, Eisenhower said "I know that Her Majesty the Queen would be proud to know that each of us, in drinking a toast to the Queen, are thinking of one of her most brilliant, loyal and greatest subjects: Sir Wintson Churchill."

The former prime minister, in toasting Eisenhower, spoke of the brotherhood of English-speaking peoples and said:

"I earnestly hope that an effort will be made, a fresh and further effort forward, to link us together.

"Because it is really of the utmost importance that we should see clearly before us the plain road onwards through the future."

O'Donnell to Head Pacific Air Forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assignment of Lt. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell to be commander in chief of the Pacific air forces was announced today by the White House.

President Eisenhower also nominated O'Donnell — now Air Force deputy chief of staff for personnel—for promotion to the rank of full general. The nomination is subject to Senate confirmation.

In his new job, O'Donnell succeeds Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, who was tapped by Eisenhower to take over July 1 as commander in chief of the North American Air Defense Command. O'Donnell will have his headquarters in Hawaii.

Urban Renewal Plan Discussed at Meeting Here

City officials met yesterday with a federal Urban Renewal Administration representative to discuss methods of preliminary property appraisals in the proposed Pontiac urban renewal area.

At the conference were Theodore Obendorff, head of the land branch of the Chicago regional office, URA; City Manager Walter K. Willman; Robert A. Stierer, assistant city manager, and the city's six urban renewal appraisers.

Discussed were the procedures and reports that the URA wants followed, said Stierer.

The conference preceded a public meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday at City Hall, for all residents of the urban renewal area.

The public meeting will explain the work of the appraisers, who will move into the urban renewal area this month.

The initial property appraisals are for the purpose of estimating the cost of the project. Final appraisals for the purpose of purchasing property won't be made until early next year, Stierer said.

Including part-time students, there are more than two and a half million pupils on the nation's college and university campuses.

Gen. Twining Enters Hospital for Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) —Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is in Walter Reed Hospital for a series of medical tests.

The Pentagon said today the 61-year-old Air Force general took his regular annual physical examination last week. This examination included the X rays which "indicated a requirement for further diagnosis and study," a statement said.

★ ★ ★

Twining was admitted to the Army medical center "for these diagnostic procedures" last Sunday and has been undergoing them this week "in an effort to establish a firm diagnosis which, in turn, would determine the need, if any, for further treatment and the type required," the statement said.

★ ★ ★

"All procedures thus far have proved negative," the statement added.

Twining was recently appointed by President Eisenhower to a second two-year term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

MRS. DONALD ADAMS

To Serve Again on History Unit

Mrs. Donald Adams Is Reappointed to State Commission

Governor Williams yesterday announced the reappointment of Mrs. Donald Adams of Waterford Township as a member of the Michigan Historical Commission.

She was named for a term ending May 21, 1965. Senate confirmation is required.

After receiving her AB degree from Eastern Michigan College and a Master's degree from the University of Michigan, Mrs. Adams served as a research assistant in Michigan history at the university for three years.

She was then elected curator of Michigan Historical Collections, worked as director of the Oakland County Historical Foundation and was secretary-treasurer of the Pontiac Historical Commission.

She also is a past president of the Michigan Historical Society.

Mrs. Adams serves as secretary to her attorney husband who is a Waterford Township justice of the peace.

Mrs. Adams is president of the Waterford Township Board of Education. She lives with her husband and son at 2711 Walton Blvd.

New York Chamber Fears Rising Budget

NEW YORK (UPI) —The New York Chamber of Commerce warned yesterday that the city's budget may reach three billion dollars by 1965 if current spending trends are not stopped.

The chamber charged in a report sent to Mayor Robert F. Wagner that the rapid rise in spending was due primarily to the city's fiscal policies. The city "has failed to effectuate needed economies and efficiencies" that would release funds for "more necessary services and programs," the report said.

Anti-Pendergast Reformers Out After 19 Years

Wilderness to Return in Kansas City?

(Years ago, when Boss Pendergast ruled Kansas City, it was a town renowned for its gaudy ways. Could there be another heady binge now that the reform administration which wrested control from Pendergast has been voted out of office?)

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Kansas City gave its 19-year-old reform government the boot last month. Now everybody's wondering what the outcome will be.

★ ★ ★

Already L. P. Cookingham, city manager since May, 1940, has been forced to resign and three department heads have been fired. No explanation has been given other than that the action was taken at the direction of the new City Council.

★ ★ ★

Will the switch in administrations mean another heady binge similar to the one the city went through under the domination of the old Pendergast Democratic machine two decades ago?

Remembered are the gambling houses which operated so openly some even passed out advertising match books; the night clubs which featured the "business men's lunch," served by naked waitresses; the burlesque houses with the nude chorus lines; the dope peddlers and just about every form of vice imaginable.

★ ★ ★

The chances are there won't be a return to those times. So far the new administration hasn't given any indication that any general opening up is contemplated. In any event, the situation today hardly is comparable with that in the 1930s.

First, the coalition of Democratic factions which unseated the Citizens Assn., the reform group which has controlled the city since 1940, has no one outstanding leader.

★ ★ ★

This has been particularly evident in the Council's stalemate in selecting a successor to Cookingham, who had been made an issue in the campaign by several opposition candidates. They called him dictatorial and arbitrary.

The Council finally appointed Reed McKinley, Cookingham's director of public works, as acting manager until it could agree on a replacement.

★ ★ ★

Second, Kansas City's police department in under control of the state, completely divorced from control and politics. In his heyday, Boss Tom Pendergast got control of the city police through a Supreme Court decision based on a technicality in the law which vests control of police in Missouri's major cities in the governor. One of the first acts of the reform group had been to get the law corrected and the police department returned to state control.

★ ★ ★

H. Roe Bartle has been elected mayor twice as the candidate of the Citizens Assn. He also was endorsed by the Democratic coalition which followed the policy of endorsing those citizens candidates it felt it had no chance of beating, anyway.

Party designations do not appear on city election ballots.

★ ★ ★

Why did the city finally turn on the citizens group after 19 years?

Cookingham, himself, offered one explanation.

"If the Citizens Assn., made a mistake it was not to sponsor a good campaigner who had been a member of the City Council, but not necessarily a good team man," he said.

He didn't mention any name in his address before a group of Missouri University students, but it was evident he referred to the election of Charles Shafer Jr., on the coalition ticket. Shafer, elected four years ago with association endorsement, had been dropped by the organization in favor of another candidate.

★ ★ ★

He then received coalition support and was elected after campaigning as a severe critic of the administration.

Had he been re-elected on the association ticket, that group still would have had control of the Council by a 5-4 margin.

Other political observers say rising costs and the necessity for increasing city revenue through added taxes was another factor.

Can Only Win War on Poverty

Reuther Gives Views in West German Visit; Hailed by His Hosts

BONN, Germany (AP)—"The only war the world can win is the war against poverty and social injustices," says Walter Reuther.

The head of the United Auto Workers Union, winding up a week-long visit to Germany, told a news conference yesterday Western unity has driven the Soviet Union to a position where it must seek to negotiate the cold war issues dividing East and West in Europe.

★ ★ ★

The union leader said he hoped the Geneva foreign ministers conference opening Monday will lay the cornerstone for a genuine international relaxation of tensions.

The West German government gave Reuther an unusually cordial greeting. It got out a statement expressing its "thanks to Mr. Reuther for his visit to Bonn and its appreciation for his part in the friendly exchanges of opinion."

Reuther called on Foreign Minister Heinrich von Bretano, Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard and Labor Minister Theodor Blank, as well as Erich Ollenhauer, leader of the opposition Socialists.

★ ★ ★

Appearing before the press, Reuther said he was impressed by this country's rapid economic growth and added, "It shouldn't be too far off when every German has his own car."

Reuther said he deplores the big import duty the West Germans recently imposed on coal although he said he sympathizes with the miners who have lost their jobs as a result of the decline of the coal industry.

License Plates With Reflecting Numbers Backed

LANSING (AP) — Numbers and letters on vehicle license plates would be reflectorized if the Legislature approves a bill which cleared the House yesterday 78-22.

The measure also would add 35 cents to license plates fees to pay for the cost.

★ ★ ★

Other bills approved by the lower chamber would:

Prohibit vehicles from stopping or parking on limited access highways or driving on the unpaved portions to violate the limited access feature.

Require all state, county and municipal snow removal equipment to carry flashing or rotating amber lights.

★ ★ ★

Set aside a portion of Mackinac Island State Park for a cemetery.

Allow county boards of education, with approval of voters and the state superintendent of public instruction, to divide school districts which have bonded indebtedness and attach the parts to two or more operating districts.

Receives Head Gashes, Now He's a Believer

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Grocery clerk Ken Bridges walked under a ladder leaning against a jewelry store. The ladder collapsed and a doctor took 12 stitches in sewing up the gash in Bridge's scalp.

"I'm a believer," Bridges said later.

Area Builders Get State Jobs

Firms in Waterford, Bloomfield Hills Win Expressway Projects

A Waterford Township contractor won the largest contract yesterday as the State Highway Department awarded a record 20 million dollars in highway construction.

S. D. Solomon & Sons of 3760 Elizabeth Lake Rd. received two jobs on the Detroit-Chicago interstate expressway in Van Buren County.

One calls for 5.9 miles of pavement, three grade separations, a bridge and an interchange at a cost of $2,726,318. The other involves 3.6 miles of pavement and two grade separations, $1,218,364.

Another area firm, C. A. Hull Co. of Bloomfield Hills, contracted for 1.5 miles of the expressway, including a bridge, grade separation and interchange, at $2,139,987.

★ ★ ★

The contracts, topping the previous one-day high of $18 million in December 1957, were let as Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie appealed before a Congressional subcommittee in Washington for allocation of promised federal interstate highway funds this year.

He warned that Michgan will have to delay building an additional 400 miles of planned expressways if the interstate highway doesn't come through.

Grains Inactive; No Price Shift

CHICAGO (AP) — Dealings in grain futures slackened considerably today and prices on the Board of Trade held close to previous finishes.

Except for May wheat, which moved up and down in major fractions during the first several minutes, all price shifts were negligible.

There were reports that export business in wheat had picked up sharply but there appeared to be no market reaction from it. Colombia bought 1,100,000 bushels of hard wheat and India was understood to be buying a million or more. The United Kingdom took small amounts of corn.

Wheat was ⅜ cent a bushel lower to ¼ higher near the end of the first hour, May $1.90⅞; corn ⅛ to ⅜ higher, May $1.25; oats ⅛ higher to ¼ lower, May 66⅜; rye ⅜ lower to ¼ higher, May $1.42; soybeans unchanged to ¼ higher, May $2.29⅞.

Says Inflation Guides Public Utility Rates

LANSING (AP) — A witness for Michigan Bell Telephone Co. told the State Public Service Commission yesterday that current inflation in the nation's economy should be taken into consideration in fixing rates for public utilities.

Dr. Walter A. Morton, University of Wisconsin professor of economics, testified during the third full day of presentation of the company case.

Michigan Bell has said it would present evidence to justify its request for an annual rate hike of around 25 million dollars.

Utilities, whose incomes are fixed by regulatory procedures, are among those most hurt by inflation, Morton said. A fair rate of return for utilities is one comparable with earnings in other segments of industry, he said.

Space Stocks Spiral Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — Space age stocks churned in heavy trading as the overall stock market pursued an uneven course early today.

Among key issues the gains and losses went from fractions to about a point. Most changes were narrow.

The electronic - missile - rocket fuel shares remained generally on the upside in a follow through from their great advance of yesterday. Gains went to 3 or 4 points. A few losses were taken.

Thiokol, the rocket fuel stock, was delayed in opening under a flood of sell orders.

The New York Stock Exchange ruled out all stop orders in Thiokol. These are orders to buy or sell at specific prices above or below the going market price. Stop orders are banned occasionally to prevent undue fluctuations in a stock.

This week Thiokol has been the most active issue and gained 18¾ points up to yesterday's close.

★ ★ ★

American Telephone dropped about 3 points. Losses of around a point were taken by Anaconda, Goodyear and Air Reduction.

A succession of big blocks was traded in the "glamour" stocks.

Up 4 points or better were such stocks as Vick Chemical, Haveg and Magnavox. Motorola and Hoffman Electronics rose about 3 each. Later Motorola erased its gain and showed a 2-point loss. Up around a point or better were Admiral and Maytag.

Radio Corp. and Philco were off moderately on profit taking.

The ticker tape was late briefly in early dealings.

Rape of Negro Coed Arouses Public

Jury Indicts 4 White Men

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A grand jury of 18 white men indicted four white youths Wednesday for raping a slender Negro coed.

The jurors heard witnesses — including the 19-year-old victim—for nearly seven hours before filing into a hushed courtroom and handing their presentment to Circuit Judge W. May Walker.

★ ★ ★

Only once before in Florida history has a rape case drawn such wide attention. That was in 1949 when four Negroes were accused of raping a 17-year-old married white girl.

The courtroom gallery was almost filled with Negroes yesterday — many of whom had kept their segregated seats all day—but there was no demonstration when Walker announced the indictments had been returned. White spectators also were silent.

The four will be arraigned Friday and a trial date set. They are Patrick G. Scarborough, 20, Air Force man on leave from an Alaska base; Willion T. Collinsworth, 24, married telephone lineman; David Ervin Beagles, 18, a high school student; and Ollie Stoutamire, 16, a distant relative of Police Chief Frank Stoutamire of Tallahassee.

They have confessed finding the victim, her escort and another Negro couple parked early Saturday morning after a college dance, taking her to a lonely spot at gunpoint and raping her by turns.

Rape can bring the death penalty but never in Florida history has a white man gone to the electric chair for assaulting a Negro. Several Negroes have died for raping white women.

None of the four Negroes accused in the 1949 case was executed although one was killed by a posse and a second was shot to death by a sheriff who said he tried to escape en route to his trial.

A third was sentenced to life imprisonment after a jury recommended mercy because he was only 17. The fourth, Walter Lee Irvin, was convicted twice and sentenced to death but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Word that the four white men were indicted was received calmly by students at Florida A. and M. University where the victim is enrolled. Earlier the students had boycotted classes and held mass rallies to protest the attack.

Officials at first had planned to lay the case before the June grand jury but mounting public interest led to reconvening the December jury so immediate action could be taken.

2 Bound Over for Hearing on Assault-Robbery

Two men accused of unarmed robbery will be arraigned Monday in Oakland County Circuit Court.

They are Nathan F. Coleman, 37, of 4700 Hillcrest Dr., Waterford Township, and Everett Epley, 45, of 45½ Wayne St.

The two men are accused of beating Alex Corbine, 56, of 471 N. Kenilworth Ave., and robbing him of $6 on April 23.

Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan bound both men over to Circuit Court yesterday after a pre-trial hearing.

Unable to furnish $500 each, they are being held in the Oakland County Jail pending arraignment.

Sloan Has Disposed of Direct GM Stock

NEW YORK (AP) — Alfred P. Sloan Jr., honorary chairman of General Motors Corp., has sold or given away all of the GM stock he held directly but retains indirect interest in more than one million shares, the New York Stock Exchange said yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The changes in ownership were included in a periodic exchange report on transactions by officers, directors and large stockholders.

★ ★ ★

During April, the exchange said, Sloan sold 90,106 shares of GM common and gave away 22,000 common shares. Sloan's holdings in GM Shares Inc. and those of New Castle Corp., in which he owns half the stock, are equivalent to 1,185, 156 shares of General Motors common, the report said.

A cookie facory in Gyoer will open a gum section to supply some of the local demand that has been filled by American gift packages and official imports from Communist China and Israel.

Germany to Lower Its Trade Barriers to U.S.—Even on Unwanted Coal

(Germany hopes to buy more American coal, reports Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst from Bonn. Dawson is touring Europe.)

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

BONN (AP) — Germany hopes to lower trade barriers with the United States still further as soon as possible — even including the controversial 10 per cent levy on now unwanted American coal. It also plans to encourage a two-way flow of capital investment.

★ ★ ★

These are the promises of Finance Minister Franz Etzel. Etzel also said in an interview that Germany's troubles with its partners in the European Economic Union are "children's diseases of the common market" and are being worked out. Tax differences, subsidies and production practices are being ironed out. Even the long-term goal of a common currency is capable of final solution.

★ ★ ★

"Germany shouldn't be a closed shop," Etzel said of trade with America. "It doesn't intend to follow a protectionist policy. The tendency is all toward a liberal trade policy."

But the trade gap with the United States still exists, although it is narrowing, largely thanks to American buying of German autos. West Germany imports more from America than it sells there, but its exports to the United States are growing.

★ ★ ★

Germany's over-all trade picture, however, is bright and growing brighter, with total exports outweighing total imports so that its gold reserves are impressively high. Japan and other industrially developing countries are giving Germans their keenest competition now.

★ ★ ★

Before the coal and steel recession here last year Germany had freed 84 per cent of American imports from quota restrictions. Now 81 per cent of American trade is free—leaving some 400 items under controls out of a total of 6,000. Most important still restricted are textiles, plastics, chemicals, glass, ceramics and leather—and the special case of American coal.

★ ★ ★

American autos, household appliances and electronic equipment may be brought in freely but there is a duty averaging 10 per cent (cars up to 16 per cent) also, autos pay an annual tax based on horsepower, gasoline is costly—and so Germans buy very few American high-powered chariots.

Coal, steel and textiles are the problem children of German industry today. The economy as a whole rose last year and is rising still higher now.

Etzel said that despite the efforts to block American coal imports, cutting down on mining hours from 45 to 40 a week, and of the mining force of 480,000 by 30,000, Germany is still adding 30,000 tons to its stocks every day and now has 14 million tons in reserve.

"If idleness continues in the coal industry," Etzel said, "there is always the danger of Communist infiltration among the jobless.

★ ★ ★

During the earlier boom years, German importers entered into longterm contracts with American mines for a total of 47 million tons, attracted by dropping costs of transportation and cheaper American coal mined by advanced machinery.

★ ★ ★

Then the steel industry suffered a setback like that the U.S. industry did when the boom turned to recession. At the same time oil imports took an increasing part of coal's markets. Coal piled up. A 10 per cent duty was slapped on American coal to discourage its importation.

★ ★ ★

"Steel orders are coming in at a good rate now," Etzel says, "and we hope the worst is over."

Jim Hagerty Bloops Giving Out an Emmy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presidential News Secretary James C. Hagerty, who dispenses Washington's hottest news stories as a daily chore, tripped himself up Wednesday night handing out an award for television news coverage.

Hagerty, who presented several "Emmy" awards for the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, announced to a national TV audience that the award for best spot news coverage went to John Charles Daly of the American Broadcasting Co.

Confusion reigned. The award, it seems, was ticketed for John Day of the Columbia Broadcasting System. Day got his Emmy along with apologies from Hagerty.

As he stepped up to give the next award, Hagerty announced, "I hope I've got this one right."

Student Editor Named

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Thomas E. Turner, 19, of Santurce, P.R., has been appointed managing editor of the Michigan Daily, student newspaper at the University of Michigan. He is a junior in the College of Literature, Science and the Arts. Ronald B. Peters, 20, of Trenton was named business manager. He is a junior in the School of Education.

Emmy Show Very Good, but Selection Setup Poor

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UPI) — A review of a special like last night's Emmy awards show on NBC-TV should properly be broken down into two parts: one, a canvas of the show itself and two, a look at the system of awards.

★ ★ ★

As a show, the 90 minutes, despite occasional technical hiccups, came off remarkably well for this sort of thing. It was swift, relatively unstiff and finished right on the button. It was happily unsolemn and even more happily, unhammy.

There were, of course, a few boo-boos of some elegance. I suppose the most beautiful of these was committed by White House Press Secretary James Hagerty who presented a news award to "my good friend, John Charles Daly" of ABC-TV only to discover that John Day of CBS-TV was his man.

However, this sort of blip is excusable in an off-the-cuff show and I suspect it adds considerably to its wobbly charm.

★ ★ ★

Jack Benny as a presenter was remarkably funny and I liked this line:

"I present the award for the best western — they've got a best?" and Elaine May and Mike Nichols' brief bit in which they worked out a gag award routine for "most total mediocrity" was hilarious.

★ ★ ★

All this aside, the Emmy award system itself is pure nonsense.

There is something rather cranky about a voting procedure which results in armfuls of totems for panel shows, westerns, situation comedies and then neglects Leonard Bernstein, Jack Paar, Steve Allen, Wayne and Shuster, Camera Three, the Gene Kelly Omnibus show, Maureen Stapleton, Neville Brand, "All the King's Men," Piper Laurie, Geraldine Page, and half a dozen Playhouse 90s of merit.

★ ★ ★

Writers and directors — the most important of the creative personnel in TV — were largely kissed off.

The Fred Astaire Show copped most of the jewelry and deservedly so, but for Astaire to win "best single performance by an actor" over Chris Plummer, Paul Muni and Rod Steiger is absurd.

★ ★ ★

Many of the categories were unwieldy—there were 42 in all—and the system is weighted in favor of the trash half hour films that come out of Hollywood.

As a result, the whole business is a contest of popularity and voting power rather than merit.

One last word: the frequency of commercials on the show was quite irritating and it would seem that television might carry each year the single program dedicated to itself without interruptions by the pitchmen.

★ ★ ★

But I suppose Mike Nichols summed up this sort of attitude best last night when he gagged:

"I am proud that you have shown your faith in me for sticking to my ideal—money."

Joey Bishop Grateful to Frankie for Boost

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Joey Bishop, who's been subbing for Jack Paar, was playing a Las Vegas gambling spot, the Sands, when it was announced that Frank Sinatra had been made a vice president.

WILSON

"It's all right with me," Bishop commented from the stage. "I wasn't too crazy about Nixon, anyway."

Another time, when Bishop was working with Sinatra, Bishop came off as Frank was going on. "How are they?" shouted Frank.

"Great for me—but I don't know how they'll be for you," Bishop said.

Sinatra has been a powerful help — "I'd say all the help," Joey says—is elevating this sardonic Bronx and Philadelphia comic to his present high station. Bishop says Frank has been unbelievably nice; he believes Sinatra resents pushy people and tries not to be one.

Joey, for example, won't join a Sinatra table without being asked. The result has been that Sinatra has called out to him:

"Hey, Stuckup, hey Charley! What's the matter? Haven't we got enough to eat?"

HONEST AND HUMBLE

Frank sent a car to bring Joey's wife to a Florida spot where Frank was working and gave her a seat on the stage. Frank gave his own ticket to a fight to Joey's father who had never seen one. These are the things Joey Bishop remembers sitting at Lindy's at lunch time thanking God he has come so far.

Honesty and a kind of humbleness are Joey's gimmicks.

"If a heckler shouts at me, I don't murder him with a line," says Joey, "I say, 'I'm sorry, I didn't hear what you said.'

"And I've tried not to alter my hello from the way I say it to a bank president and to an elevator operator."

Religion is part of Joey's life even though he works mostly in the big cafes. Born Joey Gottlieb, of Jewish parents, he married a Catholic girl, Sylvia Ruzga, of Chicago, and such is their home life that when he went home one day recently, he shouted, "Hey, where is everybody?"

"My wife was at the synagogue learning to conduct Passover services," he explains.

Joey Bishop's lines are the kind that comedians quote. They remember him saying he'd never been on Steve Allen's show and never wanted to because Steve had made a nervous wreck of Don Kotts, Tom Poston couldn't remember his name, and he never gave Skitch Henderson time to shave.

FDR Portrait at Warm Springs

Artist Was Painting It As President Collapsed Before Death

WARM SPRINGS, Ga. (UPI)—One of the most interesting of the many exhibits at the Little White House at Warm Springs, Ga., is the original of the famous "Unfinished Portrait" of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The artist, Mme. Elizabeth Shoumatoff, was in the process of completing the pastel portrait of the chief executive when he slumped over, was carried to his adjoining bedroom and died shortly thereafter on April 12, 1945.

Madame Shoumatoff had only a few strokes left — some detail of a sleeve, here and there a bit more color. Roosevelt was seated in his armchair, working at a small table in front of the great stone fireplace when he was stricken.

Following the President's death, the artist decided not to finish the portrait. She just left it as it was.

Later, Madame Shojumatoff presented the portrait to the state of Georgia, which owns the Little White House property. To this day, it stands on its easel near the spot where she was working. Its value has been appraised at $50,000.

Fund for Kimberly Climbs to $4,689

ROYAL OAK — Residents of Royal Oak have donated $4,689 to the Kimberly Fox Trust Fund in a door-to-door voluntary campaign for the two-year-old auto fire victim.

Kimberly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fox of 307 Marlin Rd., is still listed in "critical" condition at William Beaumont Hospital here 23 days after the accident.

The child was left in the family car while her mother slipped into a store to pick up an item. She was rescued by a passerby when the car interior burst into flames.

The money will be used to defray hospital expenses which have already passed the $3,000 mark.

Moscow Opening Slated Aug. 3.

Ed Finds Road to Russia Full of Briars, Brambles

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Sullivan, committed to a State Department command performance, is learning that there is more to showing the Soviets a "representative American television show" than flying one of his typical variety troupes over to Moscow.

Sullivan and 14 acts are scheduled to open Aug. 3 in a Moscow theater for a three-week engagement.

★ ★ ★

Negotiations over the trip started a few weeks back when Sullivan was approached by the State Department. When he indicated interest, he was introduced to four Soviet diplomats appointed to work out the program. Because of language barriers, stand-up comedians were immediately eliminated. In an effort to learn what Soviets would find entertaining, Sullivan assembled kinescopes of some 50 acts from his old shows and ran them in a two and a half hour session for his diplomatic advisors.

★ ★ ★

"When we were finished, one of the diplomats gave me a list of his choices," said Sullivan. "They were the cream of the 50 acts."

NO ROCK 'N' ROLL

The list included opera, pop singers (but definitely no rock 'n' roll), comedy novelties, jugglers and acrobats. Next came the financial arrangements.

"First they wanted to pay in rubles," said Sullivan. "And the Soviets pay entertainers about a fifth of the American scale."

When the Soviets haggled over prices, Sullivan reminded them he had paid the Moiseyev dance troup $50,000 for 55 minutes of dancing, and another $25,000 when the tape of the show was re-run. As things stand now, the pay has been arbitrated, and the Soviets will pick up the tab for transportation of some 40 people one way and for hotel, food and transportation during the three weeks.

★ ★ ★

So far Ed thinks he will be able to turn up about 10 of the acts chosen by the Soviets. That includes ballet dancer Nora Kaye; accordionist Dick Contino; Marvin Roy, a comedy magician, Helene and Howard, a comedy dance act; Eric Brenn, a plate juggler, and Conrad Buckner, a tap dancer—no talkers. Commitments permitting, he wants singers like Rise Stevens and Robert Merrill. He has broached the subject to glamor personalities like Marilyn Monroe, and to Marlene Dietrich. Three weeks is a big slice out of summer, and some of this is hard to organize.

Airliner Lands Safely on Wing and One Wheel

WASHINGTON (AP) — A four-engine airliner with 63 passengers skidded in on a wing and a wheel Wednesday at National Airport after striking a shack near the end of a runway. No one was hurt.

The Civil Aeronautics Board began an investigation. The crash landing was in daylight under ideal flight conditions.

The Eastern Air Lines plane apparently came in too low. One landing wheel smashed into an instrument landing system shack. The wheel was torn off and the building flattened.

The plane skidded on down the runway in a cloud of dust and sparks, and came to rest on a grass strip beside the runway. There was no fire.

Passengers left the plane through an emergency door. One woman, Mrs. Russell Pike of Stamford, Conn., had fainted but was soon revived. All passengers were sent to their destinations on other flights after a medical checkup showed no injuries.

The plane, a DC7B, was en route from Newark, N. J., to Jacksonville, Fla., with stops at Washington and Charlotte, N.C.

Six-Room House Sports Dining Room to Seat 40

BOSTON (UPI) — The Barrons live in a six-room ranch-style home. But sometimes as many as 40 relitaves and friends sit down to dinner in the dining room.

Superior Judge Jennie Loitman Barron and her lawyer-banker husband Samuel wanted a house small enough for two but big enought to seat 40 for dinner. They solved the problem by having large dining and living rooms that open into each other in L-shaped fashion.

Colonial possessions of France in the Western Hemisphere, Africa and Asia had a combined area of about 4,621,000 square miles and a population of more than 80 million.

Operation Frost Watch; Chickens Take Turns

SEAL COVE, N.B. (AP)—Chickenkeeper Bill Bagley claims that during a recent cold spell his chickens took turns sitting by the chickenhouse window, melting the frost.

He says they did it to let in more sunshine and also to learn when he was arriving with the feed.

Mexico is three times larger than Texas, four times larger than Spain and one-fourth as large as the United States. The 1950 population was estimated at 25 million.
