Principals in Hospital Suit

TRIAL OPENS TODAY — The $250,000 damage suit brought by ousted Pontiac General Hospital surgeon Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger (left) opened today. Hospital director Carl I. Flath, right, has answered the damage suit with charges that Sullenberger violated professional medical standards in some 25 cases, in which six patients died.

Hospital Attorneys Seeking Dismissal of Sullenberger Suit

By PETE LOCHBILER

Pontiac General Hospital today sought to end its court battle with Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger by asking Circuit Judge Timothy C. Quinn to dismiss the ousted staff surgeon's suit for reinstatement and $250,000 damages.

This motion and two others aimed at blunting the controversial law suit abruptly ended the first day of trial, which lasted eight minutes in open court and 75 minutes in conference.

After a half-hour delay in selecting a courtroom, the trial was adjourned at 11:40 a. m. when the hospital contended Dr. Sullenberger had taken his fight to remain on the hospital staff to court before exhausting all legal remedies available at the hospital itself.

The hearing will resume at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

Anticipating the move for dismissal might be denied by Judge Quinn, counsel for the hospital and other defendants came up with two other motions.

They asked that the question of damages be stricken from the suit and sought removal of a court order preventing the hospital board of trustees from holding a hearing at which the heart surgeon's temporary suspension might be made permanent.

Judge Quinn ruled that he must hear arguments on the three motions before the trial itself could start. He gave Dr. Sullenberger's counsel three days to prepare their arguments.

With the assignment of an outside judge completed yesterday afternoon, the suit was ready for trial on schedule at 9:30 a.m. before Judge Quinn, who normally presides over the 40th judicial circuit embracing Tuscola and Lapeer Counties.

Proceedings were ready to convene in the Board of Supervisors auditorium of the county office building at 1 Lafayette St., but were moved to the vacant courtroom of Judge H. Russel Holland in the county courthouse.

The court reconvened at 10 a.m., and five minutes later recessed after Judge Quinn granted a pre-trial conference request by the attorneys for the hospital.

Renewed in the conference was the question of how many hospital records must be produced in the case. A four-drawer file cabinet was produced by hospital attorney Glenn C. Gillespie, and he said there were many more that the hospital hadn't had time to produce.

Gillespie asked the judge to rule on what kind of records the hospital must produce, and added that if the hospital couldn't produce all the requested records as the trial progressed, he would need a week's delay to gather them.

The battle over the records is not new to the suit, as originally Dr. Sullenberger's attorneys sought 36,000 documents, according to Gillespie. This request was trimmed by Judge Clark Adams a week ago.

U.S. to Launch Aluminum Ball

Reds Reported Ready to Loft Huge Satellite Later This Month

WASHINGTON (INS) — Russia was reported on the verge of a spectacular achievement in space today as the U.S. prepared to launch a huge artificial moon weighing as much as 5 tons — 10 times as much as Sputnik II.

Government sources described as "speculative" reports that the Soviets later this month might launch a huge artificial moon weing as much as 5 tons — 10 times as much as Sputnik II.

These sources conceded, however, that a Soviet launching into space is long overdue. They said the next Russian effort may be imminent and may be either a large satellite or a small vehicle that would circle the natural moon.

Deputy Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles, meanwhile, said it is probable that the Russians have tested long - range rockets carrying nuclear warheads. The Soviets completed a nuclear test series on March 22.

The U.S. "balloon" or "space ball" satellite is to be the next in the Army Explorer series, and will be launched with the Jupiter-C rocket from Cape Canaveral, Fla., probably late this month.

The balloon will travel into space as a folded package of aluminum weighing less than 15 pounds. Once in an orbit, the package will be detached and inflated automatically with nitrogen to the 12-foot diameter.

Read of Tornadoes

The appearance of April and warmer spring weather also means the arrival of another season in Michigan, the time of the tornado. For the first in a series of articles about the violent wind eruptions in our state, see Page 9 of today's Pontiac Press.

Ike Urges Halt of A-Stockpiling

Calls on Soviet to Join in Quitting Manufacture of Nuclear Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today urged the Soviet Union again to join in stopping manufacture of nuclear materials for war purposes in an attempt to bring about a dependable and agreed disarmament program.

He made his proposal in a letter delivered in Moscow to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. It was a reply to a letter from Khrushchev of April 4. In that communication the Soviet Premier proposed that the United States and Britain renounce nuclear tests, a move the Russians say they have made.

Eisenhower told Khrushchev the Soviet communication was largely repetitive.

"The timing, wording, and manner of the Soviet declaration cannot but raise questions as to its real significance," he added.

The Khrushchev letter said the Soviet Union would have to reconsider its announced suspension of nuclear testing unless the United States and Great Britain follow suit.

Eisenhower told the Communist leader it seems peculiar that the Soviet Union, having just concluded a series of tests of unprecedented intensity, "should now, in bold headlines, say that it will not test again; but add, in small type, that it may test again if the United States carries out its long-announced and now imminent series of tests."

Pontiac Motor Back on Regular Schedule

Pontiac Motor Division resumed normal operations yesterday after a one-week shutdown of assembly and other manufacturing operations to permit schedule adjustments, the company announced today.

Company and union officials said workers were reporting back to their jobs on their regular shifts.

Similar shutdowns affected five other General Motors Corp. plants in widely scattered sections of the country.

Senate Bounces Parks Fee Bill Back to House

LANSING (AP) — The Senate today refused to go along on a daily fee provision and bounced back to the House the bill calling for a $2 annual admission charge for use of state parks.

The clause for a 50 cent parks admission for casual visitors and tourists was written in the house. Most senators say it would be difficult to administer.

Unless the House backs down, the bill will wind up in a conference committee to adjust House-Senate differences.

Similar parks fee legislation was vetoed by Gov. Williams in 1957.

Vote in House Means Death of Sweepstakes

Defeats State Lottery Designed to Help With School Financing

LANSING (AP)—A plan to legalize sweepstakes in Michigan never made it out of the starting gate in the Legislature last night.

The proposal was designed to help finance public schools and its sponsor, Rep. E. A. Fitzpatrick (D-Detroit), claimed it would bring in at least 10 million dollars a year.

"It's just another horse race," he said. "The Queen of England owns some racing horses and gambles, too. There's nothing morally wrong with this idea.

"If something isn't done in the Legislature soon to take care of our money problems, our state taxes will reach the moon before we will."

To go before the voters in November as a proposed amendment to the State Constitution, the proposal needed a two-thirds favorable vote in both the House and Senate. The best it could do was muster 54 of the 74 needed votes in the lower chamber.

Fitzpatrick proposed to stage two sweepstakes a year modeled after similar races in Ireland, England and other countries.

Democrats also failed to step up legislative action on another proposal — Gov. Williams' 20-million-dollar increases in the intangibles tax.

For the second time in less than a week, members of the governor's party tried to get a vote on the bill, but were repulsed by a solid Republican front.

Republicans want to keep the plan on a standby basis until next month, waiting to see how much money they'll need to balance the budget which will be adopted by the Legislature in the next few days.

Decline Leveling Report Tells Ike

Jobless List Increases 25,000 but Employment Climbs 323,000

WASHINGTON (INS) — The government reported today that unemployment rose by only 25,000 in March and President Eisenhower said the figures "indicate a slowing up" of the business decline.

The jobless report, the most optimistic since the current recession began last fall, also showed that the nation's total employment climbed by 323,000 last month.

It showed that the unemployment total for mid-March was 5,198,000 the highest in 16½ years, while the number of job-holders stood at 62,311,000.

In a statement issued by White House News Secretary James C. Hagerty, the President made this comment on the report:

"The figures released this morning by the Departments of Commerce and Labor show a pickup in jobs in March and a leveling off of unemployment. These statistics indicate a slowing up of the decline."

Hagerty refused to expand on the statement when asked by newsmen whether it meant that the decline is going on but at a slower rate.

New factory cutbacks accounted for the slight rise in unemployment but a seasonal upturn in farm and other outdoor work were responsible for the jump in employment.

The report said the jobless total was "stable" over the month because an increase of 135,000 in insured unemployment was countered with a reduction of the number of uncovered workers who found jobs.

Official Board Probes Plane Tragedy in State

(From Our News Wires)

FREELAND — An official investigating board today began the task of finding the cause of the flaming plane crash at Tri-City Airport near Midland that took 47 lives, while attempts are continued to identify the dead.

Representatives of the Civil Aeronautics Board, the Civil Aeronautics Administration, the Airlines Pilots Association, the FBI, State Police and Capital Airlines were on the official board or aiding in its work.

HEARING POSSIBLE

It was believed at least a week of investigation will precede any decision as to the cause of the crash of the Capital Airlines four-engine Viscount. Possibility of a public hearing at a later date also was expressed.

Pieces of the turbo-prop plane were being examined today in the field in which it crashed, 2,300 feet from the Tri-City Airport runway.

Though no official word as to the cause of the accident was forthcoming, experts on the scene admitted it appeared that the pilot, Capt. W. J. Hull, 44, of New Jersey, undershot the runway. Investigators said the muddy condition of the field might have forced the plane to make a sudden stop, causing it to tip over and explode.

CASUALTIES NAMED

All the casualties, including 26 from Michigan, have been named, but identity of bodies was being completed with great difficulty. State Police in charge of the task said that some of the victims were so badly charred in the explosion and fire which followed the crash that they may never be identified.

Relatives of 37 victims came to the airport yesterday and made positive, personal identification. Next of kin of the remaining 10 were expected at Tri-City Airport today.

The four-engine plane nosed into the ground a half-mile short of the runway in what appeared to be a routine instrument landing in a light snowstorm.

NO ESCAPE

There was no chance of escape for those inside as the 1¼-million-dollar craft exploded. The wreckage burned more than two hours.

There is no plan to ground other Viscounts, the only foreign-built planes flown by domestic airlines.

The disaster occurred as the plane entered its final glide patterns at 11:18 p.m. (EST) at Tri-City Airport less than 20 minutes after taking off from Bishop Airport at Flint.

It was snowing and blustery. Visibility was three miles, the ceiling 900 feet.

Suddenly, according to witnesses, the Viscount plunged downward, smashing its nose into the soft earth. One observer said a blinding flash of orange flame shot at least 100 feet into the air.

Wreckage and bodies were strewn over several hundred yards. Only the twisted tail section was relatively intact when airport crews arrived.

Fifteen bodies were found in the fuselage. The rest were scattered nearby.

Hull, 44, a commercial pilot since 1941, had been in radio contact with the airport two minutes before the crash.

It was the worst air tragedy in the United States since June 30, 1956, when 128 persons were killed when a Trans-World plane and a United Airlines plane collided over Grand Canyon.

'You Auto Buy Week' to Run Through April 19

If you haven't found that good deal as yet on a new or used car, Pontiac automobile dealers will afford you another chance by extending their "You Auto Buy Week" through April 19.

"This thing has stimulated buying so," declared Robert B. Oliver, president of the Pontiac Trade Assn., "that all the dealers have decided to offer these excellent deals for another week or so."

Oliver said most dealers reported that their used car stock is down to the lowest level in several years due to the promotion.

It began April 1 with a huge Saturday street sale which resulted in 124 used and 34 new cars being turned over to new owners.

The association organized the sale, which was supposed to conclude April 10, to strengthen automotive business in the area and help ease the grips of the recession.

Bill May Save Ailing Bus Lines

Senate OKs Measure Offering Tax Relief for Pontiac, Other Firms

Sagging Pontiac city bus line finances got a shot in the arm last night when the Michigan Senate passed a bill giving tax relief to ailing bus companies.

The bill would exempt motor coaches from state fuel taxes through 1960, and reduce the per vehicle weight tax from an average of over $200 to a flat $35 license fee.

Backers urged the bill as an answer to threatened bankruptcy of local bus firms in many cities such as Pontiac, Kalamazoo, Ann Arbor and Jackson.

The bill was returned to the House of Representatives for agreement on amendments.

Plane Chops 17 Hours Off Previous Tokyo to Washington Record

WASHINGTON (INS)—A U.S. Air Force jet stratotanker set a nonstop speed mark from Toyko to Washington today but its pilot decided there wasn't enough fuel to try for still another mark.

The huge KC135 "Jet Stream" flew over the nation's capital 13 hours and 47 minutes after leaving Yokota Air Base outside Tokyo at 3:37 p.m. (EST) Monday.

The "flying gas station" was supposed to go on to Madrid, Spain, for a nonstop, non-refueling distance of 11,487 miles from Tokyo. But it was decided to land instead at Lajes Field in the Azores a total distance of 10,228 miles. This would set a mark for jet planes but not for propeller-driven aircraft.

The Air Force jet strato-tanker smashed a previous Tokyo-Washington speed mark of 31 hours and 25 minutes established in 1945 by an Air Force C54.

The record - smashing flight clipped the old record for the Tokyo - Washington run by 17 hours and 38 minutes.

Brig. Gen. William E. Eubank Jr., commander of the 93rd Strategic Air Command Bomb Wing at Castle Air Force Base, Calif., was at the controls in the spectacular effort to fly nearly halfway around the globe without stopping or refueling.

The existing non-stop flight record is 11,236 miles negotiated by a Navy propeller driven plane that flew from Australia to Ohio in 1946.

General Eubank and his crew had hoped to exceed the 12-year-old mark by more than 250 miles. With Eubank aboard the giant jet tanker were seven Air Force crewmen and an International Aeronautical Federation representative acting as "timekeeper" and "referee."

Andrews Air Force Base officers estimated the stratotanker, named the "Jet Stream," flew the 7,662-mile trip from the Yokota base to Washington at an average rough speed of 557 miles per hour.

Eubank had hoped to go even faster. On leaving Tokyo he said he hoped to hit Washington in 13 hours and Madrid seven hours later.

Hit Awaits Press Special

The surprise hit of the theater season, "Two for the Seesaw," is one of five top productions lined up by The Press for this year's tour.

The unusual feature is that "Two for the Seesaw" has only two characters — a boy and girl. One of the performers, Henry Fonda, needs no introduction to stage and motion picture fans.

The other half of the cast is a newcomer, Anne Bancroft. In her first appearance on the stage, she has been hailed by most critics.

Portraying two young people adrift in New York who meet by chance and become involved in the torments and delights of a love affair, Fonda and Miss Bancroft provide an evening of high entertainment for persons lucky enough to have tickets to the standing-room-only performance.

The Press already has 150 tickets reserved for this show and four others. If you're planning to ride The Press's airline special to New York City for a week of top theater, you'd better get your reservation in soon. The deadline is May 23, first come first served.

On page two of today's Press is a reservation coupon that you can fill out and mail in to The Press to make sure that you, too, will have a delightful "Gotham City" vacation.

COMPLETE CAST — The call "onstage, everybody," brings only two to the footlights in The Pontiac Press theater trip play "Two for the Seesaw," which features Henry Fonda and Anne Bancroft.

PORT HURON (AP) — The last 20 cars of an 80-car Grand Trunk & Western Railroad freight were derailed at Emmett, 15 miles west of here, today, strewing wreckage for 500 feet along the track. There were no injuries.

A Grand Trunk spokesman said the derailed cars were loaded mostly with grain and cotton. He said it would take several days to clear debris.

The train was eastbound from Battle Creek to Port Huron.

conference would help him define the issues in the case.

The question of records, however, was not settled in the conference but the defense's three motions were brought up there.

When the conference ended, Judge Quinn took three minutes in open court to announce the motions had been made and then adjourned the hearing.

Harry N. Dell, Dr. Sullenberger's attorney, contended the motions should have been made before the trial date, since they caused delay. He added, however, that he did not believe any deliberate attempt at delay was being made.

Besides Dr. Sullenberger, the seven defendants named in his suit were represented. They are the city; the city-owned hospital; its director, trustees, 170-member medical staff and two staff committees.

It was decided yesterday in Lansing that an outside judge should hear the case. Even the State Supreme Court, which governs the office of state court administrator, got into the decision unofficially.

Chief Justice John R. Dethmers said he had discussed the case and favored its being heard by an outside judge because of its controversial nature and widespread publicity.

The publicity, in part, has resulted from the unusual nature of the case.

CLAIMS 'JEALOUSY'

Dr. Sullenberger claims his suspension from the hospital last Nov. 13 was brought about by "a ruling clique of doctors, motivated by professional jealousy."

The defendants have denied this charge and maintain the 42-year-old chest surgeon was suspended for breaking hospital rules and regulations. They alleged he was guilty of violating professional medical standards.

The hospital director, Carl I. Flath, went further. He alleged Dr. Sullenberger violated standards in 25 specific instances, in six of which the patient died, he said.

Trial testimony may have doctors involved in a public clash that is rare for the medical world.

Less dramatic is the legal issue brought up repeatedly as pleadings were entered in the case in preparation for trial.

RIGHT TO REGULATE?

The issue is whether in Michigan a public hospital has a legal right to make rules and regulations governing the professional activities of licensed doctors. Pontiac General says it has that right, Dr. Sullenberger contends it hasn't.

Flath was among those present in the courtroom today. He had once been scheduled to appear in West Bloomfield Township Justice Court today for trial on a drunk and disorderly charge involving an Orchard Lake Village auto accident March 16.

It will take two or three weeks to select a jury and begin trial, however, Township Justice Elmer C. Dieterle said yesterday.

Judge Quinn's assignment by the state court administrator ended 12 days of confusion about who would try the case and whether it would get started on schedule.

The state and the county were at odds on the question of whether the four local judges had to disqualify themselves from hearing the case before the state could assign it to an outsider.

State Court Administrator Meredith H. Doyle said they technically had to. But the thought that "disqualification" would imply personal bias in the controversial case made the idea distasteful here.

'MISUNDERSTANDING'

The controversy remained unresolved until Doyle altered his position yesterday. He said there had been "a misunderstanding."

Doyle said that after a telephone conversation with Judge Hartrick, he had decided on an outside assignment "to allay any feeling among the parties involved that they are not having a fair trial."

Justice Dethmers said:

"It has been suggested that there has been so much talk and so much publicity about the case that the local judges wouldn't be able to give it the consideration it deserves.

"Whether this position is well founded or not, it is in the interest of public confidence in the judicial system to assign an outside judge, so that there will be no room for anyone to have any uncertainties."

Dr. Sullenberger's attorney, Harry N. Dell, had asked for an outside judge on the case because it had received so much publicity and was of interest to so many Pontiac officials and physicians.

Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams, to whom the case originally had been assigned, disqualified himself at Dr. Sullenberger's request. But he stressed that it was not because of "personal bias," but because Dr. Sullenberger "has a right to feel he is getting a fair trial."

QUTSIDE JUDGE SOUGHT

Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick, as presiding judge, then requested an outside judge from Lansing "in the public interest." He refused to go so far as to disqualify himself, however.

It will be solely up to Judge Quinn to decide the case. Since Dr. Sullenberger is asking for a court injunction preventing the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees from making his suspension final the suit cannot be tried by jury.

Dr. Sullenberger, who lives at 208 E. Iroquois Rd., filed the suit last Dec. 2 on the eve of a final hearing by the board on his suspension.

By gentlemen's agreement among attorneys, the board has taken no further action on the suspension.

It was Flath's charges, filed Dec. 31, that swept the case into national prominence.

The Oakland County Prosecutor's office and the State Board of Registration in Medicine began separate investigations into the six deaths listed in Flath's allegations.

Both investigations, however, have bogged down as a result of the hospital's reluctance to open up secret records it has prepared to prove its charges.

ENDORSE STAND

The Oakland County Medical Society also became involved in the controversy. Without mentioning Dr. Sullenberger by name, it passed a resolution endorsing the hospital's stand.

The publicity also affected Dr. Sullenberger's attempt to maintain his practice, even though barred from Pontiac General. The doors of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, where he was allowed to practice briefly after the suspension, were soon closed to him.

With regrets, the hospital said that there was too much publicity for the surgeon to continue there.

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, the city's third big hospital, had already dropped the surgeon from its staff in 1952, because of "personality conflicts," Dr. Sullenberger explained.

Eventually, Dr. Sullenberger closed down his office in the Pontiac State Bank Building, also.

A group describing themselves as friends and former patients of Dr. Sullenberger went to bat for him without much visible success.

They obtained more than 2,000 signatures on petitions calling for the surgeon's reinstatement at Pontiac General. When the City Commission and Board of Trustees refused to accept the petitions because they were parties in his suit, the group delivered them to Gov. Williams' office in Lansing.

PETITIONS ACCEPTED

The petitions were accepted there, but without any promises that the governor's office could enter the controversy one way or the other.

The group began its campaign by picketing Pontiac General Hospital briefly one morning.

Dr. Sullenberger first came to Pontiac General in 1950. He was on the staff until 1954, when he left the state.

When he returned in 1956 and asked for readmission to the staff, he had to sign an undated resignation admitting he had violated rules and regulations in the past.

The Board of Trustees, however, did not use this resignation to effect his suspension. It decided last October to call a hearing at which Dr. Sullenberger was invited to appear.

According to Flath, Dr. Sullenberger failed to appear at the first hearing, Nov. 8, and again at a second, Nov. 13. So the board temporarily suspended him.

Flath said in a public statement last Dec. 6:

"Suspension of Dr. Neil A. Sullenberger from the medical staff of the Pontiac General Hospital occurred only after a thoroughgoing review of his professional and personal behavior within the hospital and of the record of his performance and proficiency as a surgeon."

The hospital says that the suspension was recommended by the credentials and executive committees of its medical staff and was brought about in accordance with its by-laws.

Dr. Sullenberger, however, contends the hospital has no right to enforce by-laws that interfere with his right to practice medicine freely under his license, granted him by the State Board of Registration in Medicine.

Many members of the medical profession feel the court's decision on this issue will have a profound effect on the practice of medicine in Michigan.

When is the period of maximum danger from thunderstorms?

The maximum danger from lightning, in a thunderstorm, comes near the end of the heavy rainfall. Though many believe that the low-hanging, dark leading edge of the cumulonimbus brings with it the greatest danger, that is not true.

Lightning does originate in this leading edge, and precautions should be taken, but in the final minutes of the heavy downpour of a thunderhead, the maximum danger period from lightning is encountered.

This is after the leading edge has passed overhead, and often when the severity of rainfall has begun to diminish.

U.S. Newsmen Ousted by Cuba

Seven Ordered Out of Santiago in War-Torn Oriente Province

HAVANA (INS) — Seven American correspondents, arrested by Cuban authorities, were ordered out of the capital of war-torn Oriente province today.

The government said the newsmen violated a recent decree forbidding their presence in Santiago, which has been under a ground blockade by Fidel Castro's rebels for the past week.

News from Oriente province, where Castro's rebel units have stepped up their offensive, was all but blacked out by censorship except for government communiques.

The army claimed to have routed rebel forces at Carro Elado and near Banes and to have killed three "saboteurs" and captured military equipment at Baire.

Thirteen prisoners were taken at Banes, the first rebels the government has reported capturing.

One of the newsmen, Ben Silver of WCKT-TV in Miami, reportedly has been under arrest since Saturday night.

The others were picked up by soldiers yesterday, but two of the correspondents who had been in Santiago for several days were detained for less than an hour.

Under arrangements made by U.S. Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith, the seven were expected to be flown back to Havana later today.

Along with Silver are:

Homer Bigart of the New York Times, Ray Brennan of the Chicago Sun-Times, Ed Cannel of Newspapers Enterprise Association, Allen Jarlson, employed by a Las Vegas TV station; Harold Lindin of the United Press and Bob Taber of Columbia Broadcasting System.

Hit-Runner Charged With Manslaughter

Bibb, who lives at 503½ Franklin Rd., demanded examination at his arraignment this morning before Municipal Court Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

He was released on $100 bond and ordered to appear for examination April 16.

Bibb called police Sunday night and told them he had driven the car which struck and killed Daisy King, 54, of 611 Nevada St., at the intersection of Franklin Rd. and Nebraska St. Sunday evening.

Arbitrators Set Goals in Pontiac

To Relieve Despair and Tragedy That Stems From Unemployment

To relieve "despair and tragedy attendant upon unemployment" has been set as one of the goals of the city's newly - appointed unemployment arbitration committee.

The seven - member group of citizens, headed by Fred V. Haggard, began its first official meeting at 10 a.m. today at City Hall.

The committee is an advisory one, set up by the City Commission and appointed by Mayor William W. Donaldson, to arbitrate debts of unemployed persons.

Haggard, who is president of the Oakland County CIO Council, stressed that the committee was constituted to perform its services for Pontiac residents only.

The group passed this resolution stating its functions:

"The purpose of this committee is to aid persons unemployed through no fault of their own to satisfactorily adjust problems between landlord and tenant, creditor and debtor, during and following temporary unemployment.

"It is felt that the formation of such a committee is in the public interest. It can alleviate some of the despair and tragedy attendant upon unemployment, yet will afford the landlord or creditor a plan upon which he may rely for future payment."

The committee plans to set up machinery by which persons seeking its services may appear before it to present their case. Other committee members:

James Spence, secretary - manager of the Pontiac Manufacturers Assn.; Rev. H. C. Schankle, pastor of Southside Church of God; Mrs. Mildred Bennett, Oakland County executive Red Cross director; Ralph Becker, a Pontiac attorney; Merle Voss, secretary of Buckner Finance Co.; and Wayne Gabert, owner of the Wayne Gabert appliance store.

Delay Hearing on New Budget

Plan Special Session in Waterford Township Later in Week

Waterford Township Board members must wait until later this week to hear about the township's proposed 1959 budget.

Members filed into last night's weekly meeting with expectations of the budget being number one on the agenda.

But Supervisor Elmer R. Johnson said the finishing touches were still being put to the plan. Members decided to call an informal meeting later this week when the budget is ready.

Moving ahead on their agenda, members agreed to erase $470 charged to land developers Coleman and Friedman for capital improvements surrounding a sewer treatment plant in a subdivision on Highland road.

Approved by board members was the rezoning from residential to commercial of two lots on Hatchery road and Pauline street. The change is to allow for construction of an appliance store.

Costs for salting township roads to keep down dust this summer was announced at $45 per 1,000 feet.

The township will pay $15, while the residents must pick up the $30 balance, Clerk James Seeterlin said.

A hearing date on street lighting for Oakwood Manor Subdivision was set for April 21 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the township hall.

'Water Wonderland' Out?

LANSING (INS)—Thought is being given to putting a different slogan on Michigan's auto license plates.

Hare's advisors, the State Tourist Council and the Economic Development Department, are looking for something like "Water Unlimited."

Hare said that some suggestions have come through the mail, including "Great Lakes State" (from a Mio fourth grader), "Land of Hiawatha," "Land of the Sky Blue Waters" and "Fresh Water State."

Challenges Republicans

Quit Beating ADA--Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP) Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) challenged Republican critics today to "quit beating the ADA and try to lick the recession."

He replied in this fashion to a Republican document calling Americans for Democratic Action the intellectual and political vanguard of a "third force" it described as "laundered communism in white tie and tails."

The 68-page pamphlet, drafted by the staff of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, said, "ADA socialism takes the improvised socialism of the New Deal and attempts to organize it into a body of doctrine."

"But beneath the uplift lingo and the self-righteous accents, the doctrine is socialism still — slow and deliberate social and economic paralysis; the chloroform of hope, pride, enterprise, self-respect, initiative, spontaneity, and individual liberty of thought and action."

The ADA describes itself as an independent political organization opposed to communism and other forms of totalitarianism. It espouses the principles of the New Deal and Fair Deal.

Robert R. Nathan, ADA national chairman, called the Republican criticism "the same old tired and discredited sneers which the right wing of the GOP uses in default of any positive or constructive program."

Humphrey was one of six senators named in the pamphlet as ADA members. The others were Senators Douglas (D-Ill), Clark (D-Pa), Morse (D-Ore), Neubeger (D-Ore) and Murray (D-Mont).

The pamphlet was put out with the notation that "neither the members of the Republican Policy Committee nor other Republican senators are responsible for the statements herein contained, except such as they are willing to endorse and make their own."

Humphrey said the pamphlet looked like "a political supermarket from which Republican candidates can pick and choose."

"This is the new kind of Republicanism," he added. "It chooses to attack the ADA rather than provide help for the farmers, or act to fight the recession."

Warns of Two Dangers Concerning Mailboxes

Acting postmaster Robert C. Miller warned residents today of two problems which have occurred frequently concerning their mailboxes.

One problem has evolved from the campaigns in the local election slated for April 21.

He said that children have been depositing political circulars and handbills in resident mailboxes. This is in violation of postal regulations because the literature is not stamped.

Consequently, the postmen are required to return this material to the post office and from there, the campaigner must be contacted to pay for this literature which is second or third class mail.

Miller said some of the politicians were unaware of the law while others said they did not know the campaign material was being distributed via the mailbox.

They have become upset when they have to pay the two or three cents for each piece of literature and its a bother to us too," he added.

Miller also warned residents who live on rural routes and have roadsides mailboxes not to leave the red flag of the box up all day or during the night: The flag denotes that the box contains mail to be picked up by the postmen.

He suggested this would lessen the possibility of mischievous children or outright thieves taking the mail. He said the mail should be placed in the box in the morning before the postman arrives.

School Budget Topic for Waterford Meet

The Waterford Township Board of Education has scheduled a special meeting for 7:30 tonight, to discuss the annual school budget, and award contracts on furniture for the new John D. Pierce Junior high school.

Contracts will be awarded for library furniture for the new school now under construction on Hatchery and Crescent Lake roads, and the board will also receive bids on classroom furniture for the school.

The $2 million Pierce school is scheduled for operation next fall, and work is progressing on schedule, Shunck said.

Requests from teaching and custodial personnel regarding salaries for 1958-59 will also be considered by the board, Shunck said.

Reds Maneuver for India Power

Plug Democratic Plan in Move to Win Votes From Nehru's Party

NEW DELHI (UP) — India's Communist party, holding a special convention this week, is plugging major domestic and foreign policies of Prime Minister Nehru in a move to win votes away from his faltering Congress party.

An 8,000-word outline of the party's new 10-point program, called for achievement "in a democratic way" of the targets of the Nehru government's second five-year economic plan. The plan is Nehru's big hope for economic progress.

The Red program also backed Nehru's neutralist foreign policy of nonalignment with power blocs. It warned against "new imperialist maneuvers against our independent foreign policy and activities of the pro-imperialist right reaction within the country."

In an obvious move to counter criticism that the Indian party takes its orders from Moscow, the statement made no mention of the Soviet Union.

The convention opened in Amritsar, 250 miles northwest of New Delhi, with about 500 attending. Sessions are closed but the meeting will end Sunday with an open session.

Airline Official Sees Helicopter Commuting Soon

NEW YORK (INS) — A top airline official predicts that within three years moderate-priced helicopter commuter service could be a reality.

D. Le Roy Du Vivier, North American General Manager of Sabena Belgian World Airlines, said that twin-blade helicopters presently are being groomed to fill the increasingly urgent need for faster, more efficient domestic commuter transportation.

With the range of the "whirlybirds" steadily increasing, he said, inter-city service between such city groupings as New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore and Washington is not only feasible but economically practical. The same is true, he added, for intracity service in the Detroit, Chicago, Los Angeles and Buffalo areas.

Du Vivier, 42-year-old former RAF fighter pilot, pointed to the success of the Belgian airline's helicopter service which links 12 cities in Belgium, France, Luxemburg and West Germany, including Brussels and the heart of Paris.

There is "a definite economic future" for the helicopter, Du Vivier said, provided it is "properly handled" and freed from "outside forces."

A demonstration of the helicopter's versatility will be displayed at the Brussels World's Fair scheduled to open in April, Du Vivier said. He explained tourists will be shuttled to and from the Fair and also carried on sightseeing junkets to neighboring cities.

Ketch Gets Halfway to Nuclear Test Site

LOS ANGELES (UP) — The ketch Golden Rule is halfway to Hawaii, en route to Eniwetok to protest the forthcoming U. S. nuclear bomb tests.

A friend in Los Angeles talked by radio-telephone with Albert Bigelow aboard the ketch today. Bigelow, a member of the Committee for Nonviolent Action Against Nuclear Weapons, estimated the vessel would reach Honolulu in two weeks and Eniwetok in May.

"We were distressed and disappointed that Eisenhower didn't seize the opportunity offered by Russia to discontinue nuclear tests," said Bigelow. "It could have been the breakthrough. We are all bitterly disappointed."

Three Airmen Die as Plane Crashes

The Air Force identified two of the victims as instructor pilot 1st Lt. James C. Flaherty, and student pilot 1st Lt. Ronald D. Wade, both of San Angelo.

Identity of the third victim was withheld.

The plane was a B25 on a training mission out of the San Angelo base. It hit on the J. A. March ranch.

Derailment Kills Two

CORDOBA, Spain (UP)—The engineer and fireman of the Algeciras-to-Madrid express were killed last night when the locomotive and two cars were derailed. Thirty-three passengers were injured, three critically. Railroad officials said an axle apparently broke.

Town Observing Safety Milestone

MOSCOW, Idaho (UP)— This college town of some 12,000 persons observed a traffic safety milestone Tuesday.

It all stems from the death, on April 8, 1948, of 10-year-old Bertha Louise Little. A car killed her as she dashed across a highway just inside the city limits.

The tragedy shocked Moscow into a traffic safety campaign with an initial goal of 10 years.

It's worked: There hasn't been a single fatal traffic accident inside the city limits since Bertha Little died 10 years ago.

Slips, Plunges and Dies

CASPIAN (UP) — Sandro J. Capello, 53, an iron miner and log trucker, was killed Monday when he slipped on a rug and plunged headlong down the basement stairs at his Caspian home. Coroner Ray Lafave said he died of a skull fracture.

He Tells Pupils to Leave Room; Ceiling Collapses

WORCESTER, Mass. (UP) — George Stewart, a fourth grade teacher at the Ludlow Street Grammar School, looked toward the ceiling and noticed some heavy lighting fixtures starting to come loose.

He quickly ushered his class of 20 pupils outdoors. A few moments later the ceiling collapsed in the classroom.

Master of Hunt Says It's Sport Only for Rich

LONDON — "The Hunt" is for wealthy men only, said Sir Henry Tate in London as he resigned as senior master of the Cottesmore Hunt.

"It is too expensive," he said, "and has cost me $33,000 since 1948. But it is quite a break to give up something you love merely because it cuts into your standard of living.

Sec. Dulles Defends Nuclear Test Stand

At his press conference Secretary of State DULLES admitted that Russia's self-serving announcement of suspension of nuclear tests had won a certain propaganda victory.

Mr. DULLES disclosed that top officials had met with President EISENHOWER ten days before the Russian announcement and had considered whether it would be "wise and prudent to try to steal a march on the Soviets by ourselves announcing a suspension of testing at least for a time." It was decided that the Government's responsibilities to the American people and "perhaps to humanity" to keep this country strong and well armed would not permit such a step merely for propaganda advantage.

Russian readiness now to suspend tests rests on the fact that the U.S.S.R. has just concluded a long series of tests at both its Arctic and Siberian proving grounds and has no reason to continue them for a time. However, Russia in its announcement left itself free to resume tests after the long planned U.S. tests set for later this month should they be carried out. Because of no disarmament agreement it is necessary for the United States to develop smaller and "cleaner" nuclear weapons against intercontinental missiles.

The Soviet Union has rejected every plan by the United Nations for banning bomb or other weapons but some nations may not recall this. For instance, how will Japan, Asia and Africa react to the inviting challenge, not to mention pacifist groups in all countries?

The United States for various reasons, says JAMES MARLOW of the Associated Press, is "rocking along stodgily and unimaginatively, nursing the status quo, taking one propaganda beating after another from Russia."

If forewarned is forearmed, why was Washington so unprepared with counterproposals? At least our position on disarmament and nuclear control could have been simply, promptly and convincingly stated.

Military Pay Increase for Skilled Manpower

The House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill stepping up military pay by $668 million, one of the measures recommended in the Cordiner Committee report.

That Defense advisory committee, headed by RALPH J. CORDINER, president of General Electric, found that the military services were "extravagantly wasteful of the national human and material resources" and that re-enlistment rates were not sufficient to build or maintain a balanced force.

As it should the bill provides substantial increases for positions of heavy responsibility with top basic pay of a full general, exclusive of allowances, raised from $15,312 to $22,500. Benefits are not confined to official ranks however. Two new enlisted pay grades at the top have been created and a qualified enlisted man, with proficiency pay, could receive over $10,000 a year. Emphasis has been placed on higher grades of enlisted men and officers, and on ability, but not so much on length of service as heretofore. Virtually everyone with more than two years service in the armed forces will be benefited.

It is estimated that the Government spends $25,000 in training a skilled man only to have him go into private industry at the end of his enlistment. Because of unrealistic pay scales we are wasting large sums of money in training new men to take the place of those skilled personnel which does not reenlist.

For the first few years the program would cost more, but by 1962 the saving would be about $5 billion a year, much of it in training costs. Defense comes high but under the present setup we are not getting our money's worth in service or efficiency. It is to be hoped the Senate passes the bill promptly.

Pitching Him a Curve

David Lawrence Says:

It's Wrong to Reduce Taxes Now

WASHINGTON — This is the week when members of the House and Senate are supposed to be in their respective home communities trying to find out what people think about the recession.

LAWRENCE

Presumably governmental policy will be shaped when the opinions of the people are analyzed. It's a strange way to run the economy—to try to gauge public policy on so complex a subject by counting noses. And it would not be surprising next week to hear the members of Congress saying precisely what they said before they went away from here.

TERMS VARY

To the Democrats there's a "recession" which will help them win the autumn elections. To the Republicans there's a "readjustment" which will be well under control by next November.

To the unemployed it's a bewildering puzzle—and there are no answers till job opportunities become real.

To many businessmen it's a disappointing thing to see the decline in volume of sales as they wonder when "normal conditions" are coming back.

There's no key to the puzzle by trying to figure out how the curve of unemployment statistics is running. Nor can the average man say much about the "recession" unless he is unemployed. For the unemployed represent a small per cent of the total working population.

The truth is that—as the Chase Manhattan Bank, in its recent survey, said—there's a tendency to get an exaggerated impression from the statistics telling of the 10 per cent decline in industrial production. Yet national output has fallen by less than 3 per cent and "overall employment is less than 2 per cent below a year ago, and personal income is only 1 per cent below the peak reached last August."

Labor Secretary Mitchell draws a distinction between the small increase in the unemployed and the simultaneous increase in the number absorbed from those new workers who have just joined the labor force of the nation.

What they are all trying to say here in the administration is that there is nothing to get panicky about and that Congress, when it comes back, had better not try to put through a lot of unnecessary legislation involving huge sums and promote it as "anti-recession" measures. Lots of money could be wasted that way without improving the economy as a while.

What makes the present situation difficult is the fact that the industries which are hard hit are concentrated in a few areas but the impact of their shutdowns does penetrate other areas here and there throughout the country. So it is possible for some congressmen to come back here and say that they didn't find "recession" conditions in their districts.

There has been a great deal of talk about a tax reduction as a means of stimulating purchases. The theory is that the money saved on taxes will be instantly spent. But now the belief is growing that, even if taxes are cut, the new funds will not be spent but will be largely put into savings until fear vanishes.

It's a psychological situation that faces the government as it tries hard to reassure the people that the readjustment is a natural development and that corrective movements are periodically inevitable.

The Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, who has kept his head during the clamor for tax reduction, said in a speech in New York this week:

"In our free enterprise economy, constantly responsive to the decisions of millions of people in every walk of life, there is seldom an occasion when we can cut through the solution of an economic problem with one short-sharp stroke. Finding the right answers depends on a long and painful process of studying the data, comparing judgments, and arriving finally at the best of a number of possible solutions.

"What is required of all of us is that we bring our clearest thoughts to bear on the issues at hand, and that we do our utmost to undertake and support whatever actions seem to be in the best interest of the whole United States now and over the long-run."

The foregoing is being interpreted to mean that Secretary Anderson now is more hesitant than ever before to recommend a tax cut.

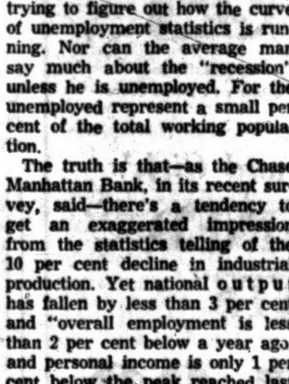
The Country Parson



"Distrust, hate, anger, like some of our old laws, still exist long after we've forgotten why they were started in the first place."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Not All Joint Disability Is Due to Poor Nutrition

A correspondent says her husband "finally consulted a doctor who decided it is exactly what you call it—physical degeneration of the tissues of the knee joint. The doctor advised that shots and pills were without remedial value, except for temporary relief of ache or pain."

DR. BRADY

It's true I say rheumatiz ("arthritis" to credulous customers) is physical degeneration of joint tissues, but I'm not as pessimistic about it as the correspondent seems to think.

On the contrary, I'm an optimist on the treatment of rheumatiz (chronic joint disability), in my own peculiar way, that is.

In the first place, it is doubtful that the trouble is rheumatiz if it affects only one joint, as the correspondent's description implies.

In the second place, not all gradually developing, long-standing joint disability is rheumatiz. A considerable proportion of such cases, especially those involving one knee, are surgical in character—the effects of trauma, strain, sprain, fracture, dislocation, slipped cartilage, loose body, joint mice, thickening or hypertrophy of synovial (joint lining) membrane, bursitis or what have you.

These are all subject to radical surgery and no fooling. Using rheumatism or "arthritis" treatment for such traumatic, orthopedic or surgical conditions is silly.

Acute arthritis (arthr-, joint; -itis, inflammation) is a clearly defined condition, of rapid development, severe course and comparatively short duration. It may be due to streptococcic, gonococcic or pneumococcic infection. It may involve one or more joints.

It is in no way like the rheumatiz, or, as $400 snobs call it, chronic "arthritis."

That's the rheumatiz — chronic joint disability due to nutritional deficiency through the years.

If you have chronic joint disability it can do no harm to learn what I think you ought to do about it, by sending me 35c and a stamped envelope bearing your address, and asking for the pamphlet "Calcium and Rheumatiz" and the booklet "Chronic Joint Disability."

Signed letters, not more than one p or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'To Assume We're Center of Universe Is Egotistical'

The Divine Power known as God not only created this speck of dust called Earth but also all the other millions of suns, stars and planets known as the universe. That Power is so great I don't believe there is on earth anyone capable of comprehending His greatness.

God's immutable, unchangeable laws apply to all parts of the universe, and for earth inhabitants to assume we're the center of the universe and that God is only concerned with our earth is egotistical indeed.

If we live according to God's laws, we can be happy here and when our physical body dies, our spiritual body, which is the only eternal part of us, will return to God whence it came, and we will be happy with Him. It therefore behooves us to have implicit faith in God and live according to His laws.

'Truman's Record Worse Than That'

'My Math Differs About Big Strike'

Mr. Coward says he remembers us being on strike for five months in 1949. Your math differs from mine. Seems to me it was Nov. 11, 1945 to March 13, 1946. I know. I walked the picket line at Pontiac Motor every Friday. The union got you vacation pay. Remember in 1937, it was 50 cents hourly rate.

'City Hall Letters, Editorial Wrong'

To September Morn, Platoon Commander, Phooey, editorial column and Voter: I've read inane scribblings about City Hall employes.

The way some people are writing their letters one would think we had written Vet's Day off the calendar. City Hall employes voted for their day off, just like the unions do in shops. We at City Hall are just a little shocked at the fiasco, which was brought out by an ill-advised editorial. Too bad Pontiac has only one paper.

Even though you don't print this, maybe you'll understand that we surely meant no disrespect to Vet's Day. I've always admired and enjoyed the Press but lately I don't know.

'What About This One, Mr. Editor?'

A while back a letter bawled out The Press for printing another VOP letter filled with misinformation and statistics that everyone knew were wrong. The Press admitted its fault and said it would be good. Now you run another letter that said the unemployed stood at six million. It wasn't quite five and a half. Keep on the ball, Mr. Editor.

Closer Trade Ties Seen Between U. S., Canada

OTTAWA (AP)—As Canada's population grows and the people become wealthier in the next quarter-century, the nation's economy will be increasingly tied to the United States.

But government steps to limit the impact of American investments in Canada and a narrowing of the difference in living standards can reduce the danger of American recessions to her northern neighbor.

These conclusions were made public today in a 300,000-word report by the Gordon Commission, set up by Parliament to survey Canada's economic prospects by 1980.

The five-man commission called for federal tax cuts and higher spending in time of serious unemployment. It warned against agricultural overproduction and against unreasonable demands to process raw materials at home instead of exporting them unfinished. The report advocated creation of a new national energy authority responsible for all forms of energy.

The dominant note in the 500-page report was Canada's relations with the United States.

Without mentioning the present Conservative government's hope of switching 15 per cent of present Canadian-American trade to Britain, the report said Canadian trade will "be increasingly focused on the U.S., and in general the economic relations between the two countries will become even more closely intertwined."

Canada's sales to the United States will probably increase while sales in Britain and Western Europe decrease, the commission predicted. Exports of industrials to U.S. industry in particular will rise, it indicated.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Debunks Modern Bustline Mania

Edith is a contrasting case for Sybil of yesterday, for Edith is also idolatrous and worships a false god called a full bust line. She has lost normal perspective in the process. But if you wish to increase your bust then follow the medical advice below. There are only two effective methods to use after you are an adult so don't waste money on patent drugs.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case X-374: Edith G., aged 27, has been married four years.

"Oh, Dr. Crane, my life is miserable," she moaned, "for I am so flatchested that I wear loose blouses to hide that fact.

DR. CRANE

"I'd give my right arm to have a beautiful full bust. But I have spent hundreds of dollars on patent medicines that were supposed to give a woman a full bust, but they didn't work on me.

"Can't you prescribe some hormones or something, for my life is miserable."

SILLY WOMEN

Notice the self hypnosis that Edith has developed to the point where she feels absolutely miserable.

Yet, she has a devoted husband and two youngsters. She has many friends.

But she has also joined the cult of idol worshipers, since she overly magnifies the charm of a full bust.

Millions of women have small busts. And after adulthood, there is very little that can be done, medically, to enlarge the bust.

The female breast is composed of fat, plus some strands of secretory cells that manufacture milk when a woman bears a baby.

And the small, flabby breasts often are better milk producers than the full breasts so appealing for beauty contest purposes.

The full breasted women may not be able to manufacture enough milk to nurse their baby whereas the flatter chested wife may have ample milk.

For the full breast is made that way by extra fat, and it isn't fat that produces milk.

Massage of the female breast likewise has little effect in enlarging it, for the breast is not muscle tissue!

Indeed, massage may make the breast flabby by stretching the fiber bands that hold the breast to the chest wall.

And, after adulthood, drugs and hormones have little effect, too.

However, you can enlarge your breast moderately in two ways. First, if you are skinny and can put on weight, some of the extra fat will deposit in the breasts and thus help round them out.

Moreover, the breasts have two muscles underneath called the pectoralis major and minor. If a girl will exercise these muscles until they enlarge, then the breast itself will be pushed forward and give the girl a larger bust measurement.

Pushups, swimming and golfing motions help exercise these pectoralis muscles.

But if you women engage in violent athletics, be sure you wear a good brassiere to hold the breast in place. Otherwise, the jolting, as in horseback riding, may stretch the fiber bands and let your breasts sag.

In general, women hesitate to become too athletic lest they grow muscular all over and thus appear somewhat masculine.

But you girls with small busts can profitably indulge in what we term "topical athletics."

Focus on arm exercises which will enlarge the underlying pectoralis muscles.

A simple household exercise to accomplish this is to keep your arms stiff and extended straight out from your shoulders. Then swing them forward and clap your hands in this stiff armed fashion.

Also, after the palms strike each other, continue pushing one palm against the other, meanwhile keeping your arms extended straight out ahead of you.

And if you are skinny, send for my "Dieting Chart," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents, but use it in reverse.

You slender folks can indulge heavily in the food items that are rich in calories.

Bad Dreams Haunt Circus-Going Sprouts

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — I attended the circus the other night for the first time in maybe 25 years, and came out of it — as in the days of yore and youth—uneasy, queasy and shirred at the nerves.

Having watched the tight-wire star fall 18 feet to the floor, en route to the hospital; and having crossed my eyes for three hours trying to follow five rings in action; and having protested emotionally at the humble obedience of a number of wild animals, I was fit to be tied — as the latter are.

This is a most unAmerican thought, no doubt, but I wonder how many kids really like and benefit by their experiences with circuses.

You always hear about the ogling youngsters e l u m ping around the old "Big Top," and about the wanderlust children who become so intrigued with the glamorous nomad life that they run away and carry buckets of water to the elephants.

But what about the thousands of sprouts, like I was, who go to the circus because it is the traditional treat of their little unsophisticated lifetimes, and wind up with alternate cases of boredom and bad dreams?

When I was the size of a poodle on his haunches, circus-fashion, my dad took me to see Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey and I got pretty sick. The fact that the sight of cotton candy still gives me shivers doesn't tell the whole story. Part of my illness was physical, but much of it was emotional.

There was sheer terror, rather than mere excitement, in the antics of the trapezers and wire-walkers.

There was a definite painful sympathy for the wild animals being prodded into ridiculous positions by little men with poles and whips. I guess I had seen enough lions and tigers in zoos so that they didn't frighten me. I was just disturbed by their humility in the circus, and mad at the bullies who gave them orders.

I still am.

Even the clowns made me uneasy. They looked so monstrous. They fought with one another. They blew a long paper snake into the stands, that sent me sniveling into a parental shoulder. They embarrassed me.

Toward the end, everything seemed to blow up. There were loud noises and spotlights and people swinging from ropes all over the place.

Every time I'd focus on an action, somebody would nudge me and point out something else I had to see. My eyes were big and bewildered and everywhere. I could not follow anything; instinctively, I think I felt the world coming to an end and, being young and faint-hearted, I was sick.

Feeling that perhaps I was a super-sensitive child, I returned to Madison Square Garden for another fling at the circus.

I discovered I still cringe before a tightrope, find five rings in action bewildering, feel blah about clowns, and dislike men who make tigers sit up and elephants bow down. As for jugglers, I think once you've seen Ed Sullivan you've seen them all.

Security for You

Brought His Wife In to Get Acquainted

By RAY HENRY

A man and wife recently approached the receptionist in the Jamaica, N. Y., Social Security office.

"I want you to meet my wife," the man said.

"How do you do," the receptionist responded and asked what she could do for him.

He said he wanted her to be sure and remember his wife since she would be applying for survivors payments when he died. Then, he turned to his wife and told her to remember the receptionist.

Slightly puzzled, the receptionist waited for the man to pop his Social Security question. None came.

He explained he was just following the instructions of a TV announcement he had heard. It said to "acquaint your wife with Social Security." So, he had brought her in to "get acquainted."

Of course, the TV suggestion shouldn't have been taken so literally. But, the misunderstanding illustrates the point the announcement was trying to make: You should know at least the main rules of Social Security so, through misunderstanding or lack of information, you don't pass up some of your Social Security benefits.

You would be amazed at the number of people who've lost months and sometimes years, of Social Security payments only because they didn't know their rights.

Remember: Your Social Security usually has no way of knowing when you can collect payments. This is your job. And you've got to apply for them.

A letter I got a few days ago from a father of two children in Hackensack, N. J., shows what I mean.

The father explained that the children's mother had died two years ago. He said he was having a tough time making ends meet.

While his wife was alive, they'd had no trouble because she had worked for at least five years before she died with only a few months out to have the children. He wanted to know if it was possible to get any help from Social Security.

The answer to his question was "yes." The children could collect Social Security until they reached 18 or married, whichever came first. They could collect because their mother had worked at least 18 months during the three years before her death and had been paying Social Security tax on her wages.

But if the man had told his Social Security office about his wife's death immediately, the children would have been getting monthly payments from the start. As it is, he's lost at least a year of payments because the Social Security law only permits the payments to go back 12 months from the date of application.

He also may have missed a lump sum death payment which he could have collected at the time of his wife's death. He didn't mention whether he had collected the lump sum in the letter, but frequently the funeral director takes care of the application for this.

No doubt the father is happy to know that he'll be getting some financial help from Social Security. But he's also probably kicking himself for not checking on his rights earlier.

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. T h e r e is no charge for this service. Hal Boyle Quotes:

Advice to Secretaries—Learn Job of Boss

NEW YORK (AP)—A woman who operates a 100-million-dollar-a-year business gave this success tip today to aspiring young secretaries:

"Don't concentrate on marrying the son of the boss. Instead learn the job of the boss."

Blue-eyed Miss Catherine L. O'Brien, a pleasantly stout and cheerful woman, followed her own advice.

One of seven children of an Irish electrician, she went to work at 17. In 1931, she quit a good-paying job as secretary for an insurance firm to help the late Frank Stanley Beveridge found the Stanley Home Products Co. in Westfield, Mass.

The first year it did a business of only $72,000.

"I had to learn the boss' business, because I had to help in everything," recalled Miss O'Brien. "In addition to typing letters, I learned to do the buying, keep the books, help supervise manufacture and distribution.

"I even put the handles in the brushes we sold, and packed the orders."

Rung by rung she climbed the ladder. In 1951 she became president of the firm. With the help of only one vice president (a man), Miss O'Brien now directs some 4,000 employes and 25,000 dealers (mostly housewives) across the nation.

DIRECTS THREE BANKS

She is also a director for three banks, is active in several philanthropic organizations. Her annual income from salary and investments is more than $100,000.

"It is definitely harder for a woman to get ahead in business than for a man. Any woman who wants to get ahead must realize and accept this, and go on from there.

"In dealing with men a woman should never be domineering. Men are dominated by woman all their lives — by mothers, teachers, wives. They think women are always carping. Give them praise instead. They blossom with appreciation. A word of praise can often get you over a tight situation faster than all the logic of Aristotle.

What causes most women to fail to achieve success?

"Unwillingness to pay the price," said Miss O'Brien firmly. "The price of success for a woman is loneliness. If she isn't willing to make her job her life, she should give up the idea of that kind of success."

Finds 'Sense of Achievement'

GM's Bargainer Seaton Enthusiastic About Job

By DWIGHT PITKIN

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors' personnel department borrowed Lou Seaton from the sales section 26 years ago to make some charts.

Seaton, 51, stayed in personnel and now is chief labor negotiator for the world's largest manufacturing firm. His title is vice president in charge of the personnel staff.

Seaton takes his team back to the bargaining table today for renewal of talks with the United Auto Workers on a new contract following a 12-day recess. He has the enthusiasm of a man who likes his work.

Bargaining time means living your jobs 24 hours a day, giving up recreation, losing sleep, taking a lot of needling and never losing your temper. But Seaton doesn't complain. He has a knack of being able to do on a few hours sleep and still think clearly.

"There's a sense of achievement," he explains, "in finally reaching a settlement at the bargaining tabble without having a strike."

What are the qualifications of a good bargainer for management?

First of all, Seaton says, "You must have an understanding of the workingman's problems and know plant operations."

Seaton's righthand man at the bargaining table is GM director of labor relations, Earl R. Bramblett, who got his start in the shop. It's not unusual for Seaton himself to show up at a plant even for a comparatively minor labor dispute.

"You need a good memory," Seaton says. He explains that in the quick give-and-take at the bargaining table, a negotiator has to have his facts at tongue tip.

"The management negotiator must be a guy of integrity," Seaton says. "If he gets caught once on a 'fast one' by the union fellows, he is lost."

A knowledge of labor law also is considered a must by Seaton.

As a final qualification, Seaton says the company negotiator needs a lot of patience in getting to the root of a problem—"He should take plenty of time to find out what the real gripe is."

Model Atomic Ship to Be Japan's First

The drawings, a 7-foot scale model of the hull and a cutaway model of the reactor, are on display here and in Hiroshima, the A-bomb city. The vessel is a project for the distant future.

A spokesman for Hitachi Shipbuilding and Engineering Co. described the tanker as vessel of 65,000 tons, powered by a water pressure-type atomic engine generating 20,000 horsepower. It will be fueled for about 2 years and 3 months by 10 tons of 3 per cent condensed oxidized uranium.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials for normal regularity.

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge.

Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs cramp and gripe the entire system. Of all laxatives, only new COLONAID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

(1) COLONAID moisturizes dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONAID's unequalled rebulking action helps retone flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONAID acts gently, on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon.

COLONAID relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy. And COLONAID won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get COLONAID, today!

Bob Considine Says:

Lone Penguin Wins Easter Fashion Prize

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (INS) — Easter Sunday was a vile, squally day along this portion of the Atlantic Coast. The ocean intruded over walls and rocks emplaced to restrain its restless indecision. Pretty, hard won hats took off like pheasants. Others that should have blown away stayed on. The gulls stood morosely on the golf fairways.

My wife sloshed off in the deluge to help judge the annual fashion show along the boardwalk. She awarded first prize in a blinding downpour to an uncommunicative fellow who appeared in a well-fitting dinner jacket. Turned out to be a penguin.

As he swam seaward word finally reached us that the show had been called off. A man from the Chamber of Commerce explained that it was the first postponement in 23 years. He added, just before disappearing under water, that the reason for the postponement was the threat of rain. We never saw him again.

We repaired to the Berkeley-Carteret and met the other judges of the non-existent fashion show, a group which included Robert Fryer and Lawrence Carr, producers of Rosalind Russell's Auntie Mame and Wonderful Town, and of the forthcoming Red Head, starring Gwen Verdon.

Decent fellow named George Zuckerman apologized for the rain. Then he announced an unnerving fact. He said the committee had 100 hot orchid corsages on its hands.

Mr. Zuckerman had an idea. He'd give the 100 orchids to Fitkin Hospital, a haven for all who ail in this part of the world. He'd let Mrs. Stern, the chief nurse, designate the patients who would get them.

We went over to see how things turned out, and to see the hospital again, too. The last time we went there we moved at 60, maybe 70 miles an hour. One of our kids had had a chunk the size of your fist punched out of his leg, in a fall.

Some of the breathlessness of that day, and our gratitude toward a nice guy named Winder, who had remembered shrapnel wounds just like our kid's from his days as an Air Force surgeon, came back to us.

We feel shy about visiting people in hospitals, and for a ridiculous reason. We're ashamed of our good health, and wonder why so many more deserving people don't have the same.

But Mrs. Emma McClellan, the first lady we talked to and gave the ridiculous flowers to, was a woman of beauty and character who put us at our ease. Mrs. McClellan has been in bed with a broken hip since October 1956. Mrs. Jeane Dorftman was in a wheelchair with a broken leg. And she, too, had all the patience and wisdom of those in physical trouble.

We felt that this was an intrusion on her rainy-windowed afternoon, and felt worse when she asked, after a picture had been taken, "Am I to keep the flowers?"

My wife pinned them on her and we wondered how Mrs. Dorftman would respond. We did not have to wait long. She said, with great charity, one hand gently touching a wheel on her chair, "I'll pay a visit to a friend of mine here."

As for the memory of Fitkin as of a few years ago, this was it: During the long operation on our kid, my wife and I said our Rosary, praying he'd be okay. After maybe an hour (or was it a thousand years?) a lady stuck her head in the waiting room. She looking quite distressed. "I understand there's a newspaperman here," she said. Our hearts stopped. It could only be bad news.

"I am," I said.

"Oh, fine," she smiled. "I'll take one."

Active Tornado Period Starts Soon in Michigan

DETROIT (AP) — The time of the tornado is fast approaching in Michigan.

W. W. Oak, chief of the U.S. Weather Bureau in Detroit, says Michigan actually can expect tornadoes anytime, but particularly from the middle of April to the end of June.

"This is the peak period," Oak said, "and May is the peak month

Forecasters describe tornado weather as sticky, sultry and oppressive, with generally southerly winds. An hour or so before a twister is seen the sky turns into a chaotic pattern of ragged clouds which bulge downward.

These towering thunderclouds have an ominous appearance. The color often is described as a sickly greenish-black. The lower clouds generally are in rapid, confused motion.

Then, out of the base of the thundercloud a rope-like funnel appears. It reaches towards the earth spinning in a counter-clockwise motion.

A tornado funnel can vary greatly in appearance. Often it appears to be a thin, dangling rope. Sometimes it resembles the trunk of a gigantic elephant. Occasionally it takes on the look of a fairly wide and seemingly solid funnel.

The path of a twister generally is only a few hundred yards wide and only rarely more than 16 miles long. Its forward speed is roughly 25 to 40 miles an hour. The general movement of a twister is from the southwest to the northwest.

Oak said there is no way of knowing whether there have been any increases in tornado activity in Michigan in recent years.

"Michigan actually is not in a real high tornado frequency area," he said. "On an average, Michigan has about four tornadoes a year, compared to 28 for Kansas." More twisters hit Kansas than any other state.

Most Michigan tornadoes occur south of an east-west line across the state, slightly north of Bay City.

Weather Bureau figures put the national average of these small dangerous storms at 200 per year. More than half that total occurs in April, May and June.

The Michigan weather chief said tornadoes can occur at any hour. However, they appear to form most readily in the hours following the warmest parts of the day, namely the late afternoon.

The formation of a tornado, Oak said, requires the presence of layers of air of contrasting temperature, moisture and windflow characteristics.

When cool dry air from a westerly direction moves over warm, moist air accompanied by narrow bands of high velocity winds, there results a complex energy transformation that can give birth to a tornado.

Oak said the Weather Bureau constantly seeks to refine ways of alerting Michigan residents both to the possibility of a tornado occurring and the actual presence of one in the state.

Court Recalls Judy in Back Tax Case

NEW YORK (AP) — A 24-hour grace from further court questioning on back taxes ends today for Judy Garland.

The singer and actress was given the time in State Supreme Court after an attorney said an attempt was being made to raise $8,673 in back taxes she owes New York State.

She was arrested last Thursday. Later, she turned over to the sheriff's office a quantity of jewels and clothing in lieu of a $10,000 bond imposed to prevent her from leaving New York.

Chorus Adds to Civic Culture

Affiliated With City Musicale

Music is an important part of Pontiac, with several groups giving of their time to aid in the city's cultural growth. These groups also have companionship and a common bond in their love for music. One such group is the Pontiac Tuesday Musicale.

Founded in 1923, the Musicale held its first meeting at the home of its founder Mrs. S. A. Kessell.

The chorus of the group was formed Jan. 15, 1924, under the direction of Charles Frederick Morse of Detroit, former director of Detroit Orpheus Club. At that time the chorus was not limited to Tuesday Musicale members.

APPEARS REGULARLY

In 1928, Mrs. Dora Dawson became director. Since that time the chorus has contributed regularly to the club's program.

Each year at Christmas and during the Lenten season, the chorus members, either as a chorus or a small ensemble, give of their time and talent toward the musical enjoyment of the community.

Many times the chorus has been engaged actively in its own club or in exchanging programs with other clubs.

Mrs. Donald B. Hogue directed the chorus from 1938 through 1940. And from 1923 until 1939, the Musicale grew in membership from 15 to 200.

Mrs. Ferdinand Gaensbauer directed the chorus for the 1941-42 season followed by Mrs. Gertrude Heinze Green. Mrs. Gaensbauer again resumed the directorship in 1947 and led the chorus from then until 1956. Current director of the chorus is Mrs. George Putnam who has completed two seasons.

TWO PROGRAMS

For many years it has been the custom for the chorus to give two programs a year for the club, one at Christmas time and one in the spring. In the last five years the chorus also has given two Men's Night programs.

Special artists have included Edward Druzinsky, Donald Nelson and Philip Steinhaus. Mrs. Addison Oakley is the present accompanist of the group. President of Tuesday Musicale is Mrs. Gordon Woolcock.

Chorus members not photographed include Mrs. B. B. Kimball, Mrs. Jack Strait, Mrs. J. C. Clark, Mrs. H. E. Orser, Mrs. C. M. Marshbanks, Mrs. C. W. Buck, Mrs. J. O. Radenbaugh, Mrs. Morton Jorgenson and Mrs. Woolcock.

Mrs. J. K. Helvey of West Iroquois road and Mrs. Roland Gegoux of Adlake drive stopped to chat at the gathering of the chorus members.

Mrs. William Furlong of Argyle drive, Mrs. Richard Stuckmeyer of Menominee road and Mrs. Harold Jones of Washington street posed together for a picture.

"What will we sing?" might be what these members of the chorus are asking. They are (left to right) Mrs. Fred Stimpert of Waterford, Mrs. James Ladd of Sylvan Shores drive and Mrs. R. A. Austin of Pioneer drive.

Dr. Donald H. McCandliss wrote words, music and dialogue for the show. Proceeds will go to Pontiac State Hospital Psychiatric Aides' Association. Curtain time is 8 o'clock in the chapel on the State Hospital Grounds.

Teachers Plan Guest Evening

On Thursday, Teachers Exchange Club will hold Guest Night at Bethany Baptist Church at 6 o'clock.

Apple of Mother's Eye Could Turn Into Lemon

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I will leave it up to you. My wife and I are average people in moderate circumstances and we have this one son who is 16 years old. He is the apple of my wife's eye but I think she is doing him more harm than good by sneaking money to him behind my back.

ABBY

He has an allowance which is more than plenty for a boy his age, but he is always broke.

My wife has admitted slipping him money (she calls it an "advance" on his allowance, but he never pays it back so what would YOU call it?) and I think she is wrong. Please print this as she might listen to you. I am through arguing with her.

POP

DEAR POP: If your son gets an allowance, he should manage to live within it. The apple of your wife's eye could turn out to be a lemon if she doesn't let him struggle along without any money until he learns how to handle it.

DEAR ABBY: My girl friends and I were talking things over and want to know your opinion. When do you think a girl should start a hope chest?

GLORIA

DEAR GLORIA: As soon as she has "hope."

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. It isn't as bad as most I see in your column but it is bad enough to ask advice on. My wife and I have been married three years and we live alone in our own apartment and are very happy.

The only fights we have is over her calling me up at work. If it was important I wouldn't care, but she calls me up for the dumbest reasons or for no reason at all.

I get dirty looks from my boss and it makes me feel cheap. Please tell me how I can break her of this habit?

LOUIE

DEAR LOUIE: Your little woman apparently hasn't got enough to keep her busy and she's lonesome. How about planning a little parenthood?

DEAR ABBY: Just who is supposed to clean out the garage and basement? My husband says it is MY job, but I say it is HIS job. Please settle this for us?

DOROTHY AND ART

DEAR D AND A: It's BOTH your jobs . . . requiring his brawn (to move the stuff) and your brain to make the decisions (what stays and what goes). Many hands (and heads) make light work.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LEW THE LAWYER: Take the legal fee. She sounds like an attractive nuisance.

Can Be Lifelong Assets for Woman

Walk and Posture Attract Attention

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Have you ever sat in a public place and actually observed people as they pass by? If you haven't, you should try it for it will be a dramatic education in what characteristics add up to an attractive appearance and what detract from it. It is truly an amazing experience.

The way you walk has a great impact on the general impression you make.

Along comes a woman who waddles, throwing her weight from side to side rather than forward with each step. She is immediately noticeable in an unattractive way no matter how she looks otherwise.

Next you may see one who has what I call a "twitchy walk." This hits your eye with such force that you hardly look to see whether she is pretty or not. The twitchy type springs slightly from the knees with each step, throwing the hips out (back view) and from side to side with every stride.

Then there is always the mincing step of the woman who is wearing spikes, as she tries to balance her body weight on these two tiny supports. Then, of course, there is the shuffling walk. The woman in question does not really pick her feet up and lay them down.

The way you walk has such a great impact on the general impression you make that the shape of your lips or nose or the way your hair is fixed might go unnoticed. The two factors which give an immediate impression, and such a strong one, are a woman's walk and her posture.

LOOK AT POSTURE

Let's forget the walk for a while and look at the posture of those you see. Any woman you just naturally look at twice is no doubt carrying herself very well, with her head beautifully poised, her spine straight, her abdomen pulled in and her chest high.

I think we should all check ourselves in these two matters because good carriage and a graceful walk are two aids we can carry into older years unless we become the victim of some illness or accident which makes this impossible.

However, most women who do not have good posture or a graceful walk have just fallen into these habits without realizing it, and most of them could correct the situation.

It's a strange thing! You practically never see a woman who has lovely posture who does not have an attractive walk, and vice versa.

Too often we allow poor posture and an awkward walk to slip up on us without realizing what is happening. So, let us check these two assets which we can take down the years with us!

Applesauce Gives Salad New Texture

Mrs. Matchan Adds Cinnamon Candy to Raspberry Gelatine

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

There is no end to the variety of gelatine salads you can make. The one suggested today is excellent served with a pork roast.

Mrs. Robert Matchan is today's cook. She was reticent about herself, but generous with her recipes. We do know she likes to do some canning.

Incidentally, we made this salad, thinking to serve it for dinner. The children liked it so well that they ate it all up after school; We never got to taste it! We had coleslaw for dinner.

MOLDED SPICE SALAD
By Mrs. Robert Matchan

½ cup red cinnamon candies
2 cups boiling water
2 packages raspberry gelatine
4 cups sweetened applesauce

Dissolve candies in boiling water; let simmer gently until all are dissolved. Add gelatine and stir in applesauce. Chill in a ring mold. Unmold and fill center with cottage cheese.

Fridays Mix Up Menus

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: When giving a rather large dinner party on a Friday night, is the hostess expected to serve both meat and fish or would it be proper to serve fish at all? There will be some at the party who cannot eat meat on Friday so therefore fish will have to be served.

"I have been told that a choice should be offered since there are many people who do not like fish and it is not fair to them to have to eat it when they don't have to.

Answer: If the hostess observes the fasting laws of her church she will serve fish and no meat on Fridays. It would be kind, however, to invite those of her friends who do not have to fast, and who do not like fish, to dinner on other nights than Friday.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I received an invitation to a large reception for a well-known person. In the lower left-hand corner of the invitation it specifies 'White Tie.' I do not own a tail coat but I do have a tuxedo.

"Would it be permissible for me to wear my tuxedo?

Answer: I think you will be unhappy if you go in your tuxedo and find yourself the only man not in tails. You might rent a tail coat if going to this reception seems that important to you.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to applaud a minister speaking in a high school auditorium on a religious theme?"

Answer: If his subject could possibly be considered a sermon that might be delivered from his pulpit, then applause would be out of order. But if religion was very lightly touched upon in an otherwise secular subject, then applause would be proper.

Tell Township Board to Keep Within It

Citizens Slash Budget in Farmington

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Officials in Farmington Township are wrestling with the problem of piecing together their 1958-59 fiscal year budget.

An economy minded citizenry slashed the township's proposed budget to bits at the annual meeting Saturday afternoon, then told the Township Board to use its own judgment on how to keep within it.

REVENUES CUT

Early in the noisy six - hour meeting, voters made it clear they would cut revenues, turn down proposed raises, deny appropriations for engineering on the Farmington Sewer Interceptor, and fire the planning consultant.

Supervisor Frank J. Stephenson had trouble keeping order among the estimated 400 persons who attended the largest annual meeting in township history.

Voters recommended that the board petition the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board for one mill instead of the two mill sales tax proposed by the board. This would cut revenues from sales tax by almost $40,000.

They also voted against increases in costs of building permits. The board had previously approved the $75,000 minimum.

Proposed raises for township officials which would have become effective next year are out, as well as funds to employ an assistant tax assessor.

A large number of citizens wanted the board to discharge the planning consultant, but it was pointed out that his contract, recently renewed, has almost a year to run. They also voted to rescind the $5,000 which the board proposed to appropriate to help defray engineering costs on the sewer interceptor. Engineers already are making preliminary surveys on the project.

The appropriation for legal fees also was cut from $5,600 to $3,600.

A $62,980 appropriation for the Department was approved, as well as $16,794 for the Fire Department, and $16,855 for roads and highways.

When voters got through with the proposed budget, they left the Township Board with a deficit of $35,660 and instructions to trim costs wherever necessary.

The budget as proposed was $287,324 compared to the approved budget of $251,764, or $5,017 less than the $256,781 cost of township operation in 1957.

Some of the cuts would have to be studied as regards to their legality, Supervisor Stephenson said.

Milford Township

Milford Township decided Saturday to put on the Aug. 5 primary ballot a 2-mill tax increase proposition for township building and purchase of sites.

It also was decided to ban the depositing of rubbish from other communities at a private landfill operated by William Willard on West Maple road.

The proposed budget will be ready sometime this week, according to Supervisor Mayon Hoard.

More than 100 persons jammed the Township Hall to hear explanations of township projects and to participate in discussions of them.

Highland Township

Highland Township Supervisor Louis Oldenburg said township officials are still working on the proposed budget. It will be ready before the April 15 deadline, he said.

White Lake Township

This was set tentatively for April 15 before township Justice Helmar G. Stanaback. Jaynes was returned to the county jail where he is being held on a $2,000 bond.

He is charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder in a warrant issued last month.

Judge Hartrick said he refused the write on the grounds that he concurred with the Southfield Charter Commission that the three did not have sufficient and valid signatures on their nominating petitions.

Seeking the writ were Harry J. Lippman, of 23510 Samoset Trail, Paul L. McElwain, of 23570 Samoset Trail, and Charles A. Nagler, of 16369 Melrose St.

KLEIN PROVED "LAST OUT" ADAGE

The recent death of Chuck Klein takes us back to a game during the 1938 season.

Klein proved to us and some 30,000 Pittsburgh fans what is meant by the adage, "the game isn't over until the last man is out."

Klein was with the Phillies and they were playing the Pirates at Forbes Field on a warm Sunday afternoon.

The Pirates led 7-0 going into the top of the 9th and the game appeared to be lost as far as the Phils were concerned.

After one out, Klein stepped up to the plate and sent the ball into the right field seats to make it 7-1.

Another man went out and the crowd started to disperse. There were probably 15,000 people out of the park by the second out and this writer was among them.

But then the fireworks started and what could be more of a torture than to have to hear the excitement on the car radio, especially after leaving a front row seat.

The next seven met proceeded to get on base and when Klein came up again it was 7-5 and the bases were loaded.

He ran the count to three and two and with two outs everybody started moving on the bases.

The announcer was gasping for breath from the tenseness, but Klein ended it all. He blasted the ball into deep centerfield and all three runners scored. He tried for an inside the park homer and was out at the plate, but the 8-7 score held as the Pirates failed to tally in the bottom of the 9th. The next season the Bucs got him in a trade.

That was 20 years ago in May, and since then this writer has never left a seat with two outs at a baseball game.

Dick Littlefield may not be setting any pitching records but the stocky lefthander from Detroit must be setting some kind of Major League travel mark.

His acquisition by the Milwaukee Braves from Chicago Cubs puts him on the roster of the 10th Major League team since 1950 when he reported to the Red Sox from the minors.

His longest stay with the Pirates covered one season and a few weeks and in Pittsburgh in 1954 he had his best record when he won 10 and lost 11.

Littlefield believes that he is a 20-game winner, but with last year's 2-3 record in Chicago just behind him he wants to know "how you can win 20 with a team which wins only 50."

The Braves are sure to win more than 50, but it is unlikely that the 32-year-old Littlefield will realize his dream of winning 20.

In eight years he has won 33 and lost 53. Littlefield is apt to get into the record books more easily as a traveler than a pitcher. He needs only to spend a few weeks with the other six teams in the Majors.

ASSOCIATED PRESS PICKS TIGERS TO FINISH FOURTH

It's Yankees All the Way in AL

By JACK HAND

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — There is a strong suspicion that the New York Yankees will have more trouble than usual this season with the Chicago White Sox making a determined challenge. However, the Yankees should have enough to win a ninth American League pennant in 10 years under manager Casey Stengel.

The Yankees have not looked good in spring training, losing seven of nine games over a recent stretch. In contrast, the Boston Red Sox have been burning up the Grapefruit League. Chicago's pitching strength is not easily recognized in exhibitions where starters seldom work a complete game.

Detroit has been on a "shakedown cruise" during the spring. Manager Jack Tighe has been sweating out the big move of Harvey Kuenn to center field and Billy Martin to shortstop. The Tigers have been bouncing around at the bottom of the Grapefruit standings but may straighten out when the bell rings.

Like all the other clubs, the Yanks have been handicapped by the bad spring weather with rainouts and soggy playing fields. Stengel has trouble shaking off a heavy cold while master-minding his usual platoon system. A sore arm that kept Tony Kubek out of action for a week delayed Casey's experiment of Kubek at short and Gil McDougald at second. Bob Turley and Bob Grim have been hit hard in the games and Tom Sturdivant and Johnny Kucks have been spotty.

Mickey Mantle, the man who figures to challenge Ted Williams for the batting title, is having a good spring. The switcher is out to regain the triple crown he lost last season.

Whitey Ford has gone nine innings twice and Don Larsen has been effective, despite one lapse against the White Sox. Bill Skowron, Harry Simpson and Elston Howard are thumping the ball. Howard has been catching exclusively, an indication he will carry more of the load this year, giving Yogi Berra more rest. Yogi had hit only one homer but was up around .300 when he was injured in a game with the Dodgers.

The addition of Early Wynn as a starting pitcher and Ray Moore as a solid man in the bullpen has given manager Al Lopez a lift at Chicago. The White Sox gave up the punch of Minnie Minoso and Larry Doby to land the help for a pitching staff already well manned by Billy Pierce, Dick Donovan and Jim Wilson.

Although Ted Williams did not even appear as a pinch hitter, Boston won 12 of its first 17 games. When Ted gets ready to go on opening day, manager Mike Higgins will have the best outfield in the league with Williams, Jimmy Piersall and Jackie Jensen. The return of Don Buddin from the Army to take the shortstop job and the play of Billy Consolo at second has tightened the infield.

Red Sox pitching was below par last year but more is expected from Frank Sullivan, Dave Sisler, Willard Nixon and Tom Brewer, despite his recent injury. The catching needs help, especially since the injury to Haywood Sullivan who was fighting Sammy White for the No. 1 job. A deal probably will be made for Lew Berberet or Clint Courtney of Washington.

The Detroit experiment continues with Milt Bolling now available to back up Martin at short if needed. The big punch in the Tiger lineup is Al Kaline. Tighe counts on a batting comeback by Kuenn and expects the veteran Jim Hegan to bolster his catching.

Trader Frank Lane is whirling around like a spinning top, changing the face of the Cleveland club. Larry Doby is back again. So is Minoso, the big one who got away as a rookie. Lane has been grabbing pitchers off the waiver list to help Herb Score and Bob Lemon. The loss of Vic Wertz who fractured an ankle was a heavy blow to the home run department.

Washington also is short on pitching with most of its power in one man, Roy Sievers. It looks like a long year for manager Cookie Lavagetto.

From this perch, it looks like a two-way fight between the Yanks and White Sox, the hitters against the pitchers. Boston could make the grade if the pitching comes through big, especially the lefthanders. Detroit has the pitching potential to make it rugged all the way. The others should fight it out for positions in the second divison.

1. New York
2. Chicago
3. Boston
4. Detroit
5. Baltimore
6. Cleveland
7. Kansas City
8. Washington

BROKEN WRIST — Henry Simpson, New York Yankee player, kneels at the plate after being hit by a pitched ball in yesterday's game at Greenville, S. C. with the Phillies. Catcher Lopata looks on as Simpson holds his right arm. He suffered a broken wrist and is expected to be out of action for 3 to 4 weeks. Yankees won, 20-1.

Tighe Optimistic as Tigers Move

Detroit Skipper Feels Club Can Win Pennant

Kuenn, Martin Play Is Basis of Hope; Meets Braves Thursday

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — An optimistic Jack Tighe headed north with his Detroit Tigers today, carrying memories of one of the worst Grapefruit League records in the club's history.

"I feel more strongly than ever, after the way Harvey Kuenn and Billy Martin have come through, that we have a real chance to go all the way," the Bengal manager said on the eve of the Tigers' northward trek.

The Tigers had a 6-17 mark in exhibition game play.

Their next major league test will be two games with the World Champion Milwaukee Braves at Tulsa Thursday and at Denver Friday. They will meet the minor league Birmingham Barons at Birmingham tomorrow and the Braves again in two games at Milwaukee Saturday and Sunday.

They open their American League season at Chicago April 15.

"We can win if we get good relief pitching," said Tighe, adding that he was satisfied with the way starting pitchers Jim Bunning, Frank Lary and Billy Hoeft have developed.

"We'll go with Bunning Lary, Hoeft and Foytack in rotation, using Tom Morgan for spot starts," Tighe said.

"Our big job when we came to camp was to make a centerfielder out of Kuenn and a shortstop of Martin," Tighe said. "It turned out to be our easiest job. They both adapted to the changes quickly and successfully."

Kuenn, formerly the Tigers' shortstop, has been turned into a centerfielder. Martin, a former Yankee second baseman, will start the season as shortstop.

Tighe said Hank Aguirre and Lou Sleater will be key figures in the bullpen, possibly aided by Vito Valentinetti and George Spencer.

"We were extremely lucky not to have any major injuries and the team has a very fine spirit in spite of our bad record in exhibition games — something that no one regrets more than I do," Tighe said.

Richardson for Narleski? No Thanks

Casey Backs Out on Trade

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

And whatever happened to the trade that was supposed to send New York Yankee second baseman Bobby Richardson to Cleveland in return for relief ace Ray Narleski?

Just before spring training opened, there were stories quoting Frank Lane, the trading GM of the Indians, to the effect that the Yanks probably would make the deal, tossing in a young pitcher with Richardson, just as soon as they got word of Tony Kubek's draft status.

Now, on the way north for their American League openers a week from today, Kubek is the Yankee shortstop, free and clear, and Narleski is getting belted in exhibition shots with the Tribe.

"If Lane said that about the trade before," said Yankee Manager Casey Stengel, "tell him I don't want to make the deal.

"I don't want Narleski and if you'll look up his record you'll see that he could be a sore arm pitcher," Case added. "He wasn't so hot last season.

"Now if I give up Richardson, I do two things that hurt me. First I lose the best fielding second baseman in the majors (although Gil McDougald is the Yank regular) and second, I help Lane build up the Indians."

Casey's reference to Narleski's 1957 record (11-5) could be a bad rap. The righthanded reliever was pressed into starting duty as a result of the injuries which constantly upset the Tribe's staff last season and figured to be pooped. Yet he was at his best against the champion Yankees and last place Washington (2-0).

A "sore arm pitcher" or not, Narleski was smacked, but good, yesterday while Johnny Antonelli and Paul Giel shut out the Injuns on six hits in a 7-0 exhibition victory for the San Francisco Giants.

Rookie Willie Kirkland's eighth home run (all in the last 2½ weeks) and Jim King's 400-foot belt roughed Narleski up in his six-inning stay. Kirkland's was a three-run smack, capping a five-run sixth.

The Yankees got some bad news, when outfielder-first baseman Harry Simpson suffered a broken wrist and was lost for from three to four weeks, and some continued good news from Bill Skowron's bat.

Simpson was struck by a pitch by southpaw Curt Simmons, tabbed for opening day as the Yanks belted the Philadelphia Phillies 20-1. Skowron, the Bombers' boomer of late, socked a pair of home runs and drove in five runs. The Moose leads the Yanks with 10 homers, 27 RBIs and a .406 batting average.

Henry Aaron homered and drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly as the Milwaukee Braves defeated Los Angeles 3-2. Bob Hazle, reported on the trading block, doubled and scored the clincher in the eighth. Warren Spahn, long a patsy for Dodger bats, blanked 'em in his five frames.

A three-run homer by Ray Katt, late of the Giants, backed up a three-way shutout job by Lindy and Von McDaniel and Herm Wehmeier in an 8-0 St. Louis victory over the Chicago White Sox. Lindy won it, scattering four hits over seven innings.

Ron Kline joined Bob Friend and Vern Law with a nine-inning job for the Pittsburgh Pirates, allowing only four hits in a 4-2 decision over Boston. Frank Thomas started the Bucs' four-run assault on starter Dave Sisler with a solo home run in the first.

Jim Lemon drove in three runs, two with a homer, as Washington defeated Cincinnati 7-3. Joe Nuxhall was the victim with Bob Wiesler the winner. Vada Pinson and Frank Robinson homered in the ninth for the Reds.

Gene Woodling's homer gave Baltimore a 2-0 lead over the Chicago Cubs, but a second-inning downpour canceled the game.

Celtic Veterans Key to Chances

BOSTON (AP) — Arnie Risen and Jack Nichols—a pair of veterans closing out their playing careers—hold keys to Boston playoff hopes now that teammate Bill Russell has been ruled out of further action.

The defending champion Celtics meet St. Louis here tomorrow night in the National Basketball Assn. championship series which is deadlocked at 2-2.

Russell, labeled "chairman of the boards" for his rebounding prowess, was told yesterday he is out of the remainder of the best-of-seven competition because of two torn tendons and a small chip fracture in his sprained right ankle.

NRA Expects 10,000

DALLAS (AP) — The National Rifle Assn. will hold its annual meeting here April 12-19 with some 10,000 expected.

Machen Promises Aggressiveness Against Folley

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Confident Eddie Machen today promised fight fans a more aggressive No. 1 heavyweight contender when he fights No. 2 ranked Zora Folley tomorrow night in a Cow Palace 12-rounder.

Critics, including Joe Louis, have chided Machen for his lack of fire and killer instinct.

Plans Under Way for '58 Softball Program in City

Plans are now under way for the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's 1958 softball program for men in classes A, B and C.

The first organizational meeting will be held Wednesday night at 7:30 in the Parks and Recreation Department office at City Hall.

Because participation and interest in City League softball have increased annually, the following order of preference will be given to teams desiring entry:

1—Teams that participated in 1957 whose sponsors are in Pontiac.

2—Teams that did not participate in 1957 whose sponsors are in Pontiac.

3—Teams that participated in 1957 whose sponsors are outside of Pontiac.

4—Teams that did not participate in 1957 whose sponsors are outside of Pontiac.

A total of 18 teams competed in men's softball last year. At present, funds and facilities indicate a maximum entry of eight teams in each class.

Entry fees this year will be $60 for teams with Pontiac sponsors and $85 for teams with sponsors outside of the city.

At tomorrow night's first meeting, such itmes as team entries, player eligibility, contract cards, practice facilities, rule and regulations and other organizational matters will be discussed.

Managers or representatives of men's softball teams planning to enter the 1958 City League in classes A, B or C should attend this meeting.

Daugherty Starts Rebuilding Job

EAST LANSING (AP) — "We'll have to make up in enthusiasm what we lack in experience," observed coach Duffy Daugherty.

A raw wind was whipping across the practice field yesterday as the Michigan State football boss looked over the raw material for his fifth season as head man for the Spartans.

There were 146 players in uniform for the start of the spring drills. A few more were expected to report in the next several days. Only about half the number, however, generally last out the four-week grind.

Missing from the scene were 19 graduating lettermen, including such familiar names as center Dan Currie, halfback Walt Kowalczyk, tackle Pat Buke and end Dave Kaiser. State has 23 lettermen returning but only half of these played as much as 100 minutes last fall.

"I can't be optimistic or pessimistic this year," said Daugherty. "I realize we have a lot of problems to solve this spring. I couldn't honestly evaluate this squad right now."

Daugherty ticked off the positions that will need rebuilding: end and center with only one experienced man each, tackle with only three lettermen. Quarterback with only two experienced hands.

"Good break our first three games (California, Michigan and Pittsburgh) are at home," he said. "We can use our bench and get in some experience."

Mike Panitch, who has come up through the ranks as an understudy, was at quarterback when a tentative varsity team lined up.

Panitch's stubby 5-8 inches was accented when he stood for pictures with Larry Bielat, who measues 6-1, second in command of the team.

Panitch, Martin and Johnson will be seniors in the fall. Bielat, Bercich and Look will be juniors.

Diganosis: A Case of Misplaced Concern

Most players overlap; SOME of the best players interlock. I recommend the overlap—but the matter isn't important.

Royals Back at Cincy; Shapiro Deal Rejected

Puzzled?

Last year, Lester and Jack Harrison moved from Rochester to Cincinnati. Last month, they sold back the franchise to Norman Shapiro, a Rochester business executive.

But the league owners met last night and refused to approve the sale. Instead, they permitted the Harrisons to sell the Royals to a group headed by Frank E. Woods, a Cincinnati real estate man.

So the franchise is back in Cincinnati and Shapiro is bitter at NBA President Maurice Podoloff and the rest of the owners.

After they approved the intra-Cincinnati sale, the owners went back into conclave and emerged close to 3 a.m. with the announcement that Minneapolis would remain in the league at least another year.

This was puzzling because there was a stipulation in the Minneapolis contract to the effect that the team had to do $200,000 worth of business during the season just closed or move.

1st Entries in for Prep Test

Early intentions of participation in the Seventh Annual Pontiac Press Prep Invitational golf tournament, May 26, have been filed by the defending champion Birmingham High School squad, and by a number of other teams.

Coach Carl Lemle's crew will include two veterans of the 1957 team, medalist Pete Green and Warren Sumner. Dick Taylor and Gary Shannon, both 70-plus shooters and Gary Mouw give the Maples a strong club.

Other early decisions to enter the tourney include those for Avondale and Berkley.

Both Dupas, Brown Predict Knockouts

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Like the ditty of a few years back, "something's gotta give" because lightweight champion Joe Brown and flashy contender Ralph Dupas both are predicting a knockout victory in their title fight at Houston next month.

The 21-year-old Dupas, a surprisingly easy winner over welterweight Ramon Fuentes of Los Angeles in a 10-rounder last night, bristled when told Brown said he would be "surprised if the fight goes beyond 10 rounds."

Brown fought a three-round exhibition on the Dupas-Fuentes card last night and said Dupas lacked enough weapons to take the title. Dupas had a slightly different opinion.

Blake Eyes Early Bruin Drives

Tough Problem Faces Montreal in Cup Finals

First Windup Test Is Set for Tonight on Canadien's Ice

MONTREAL (AP) — Coach Toe Blake's No. 1 problem when the Stanley Cup final series opens tonight is to prevent the Boston Bruins from getting the first-period jump on his Montreal Canadiens.

Those early big pushes by the Bruins were a big factor in Boston's victory over New York Rangers in the Cup semifinal.

"It looks as if Boston's tactics against New York were to drive for that first goal — more if possible — and get that all-important jump. It stands to reason that the chances of winning increase greatly for the team scoring the first goal," Blake said.

Correlated with Blake's No. 1 problem is the business of trying to hobble Boston's high-scoring trio of Jerry Toppazzini, Don McKenney and Fleming Mackell. This line accounted for 17 of Boston's 28 goals against New York.

The Canadiens have been made heavy favorites to take the first game and the best-of-seven series. Betting circles last night had Montreal 14 to 5 for tonight's game a 5 to 1 in the series.

Indications early today were that defenseman Doug Mohns will be missing from the Boston lineup. Mohns suffered a slipped pelvic bone in the final game against New York. He was due to report today, 24 hours after his teammates arrived in Montreal.

The second game of the series will be played here Thursday. The series then shifts to Boston for games Sunday and Tuesday.

During regular-season play the Canadiens, who won the National Hockey League title handily, won nine games from Boston, lost three and tied two.

Plan $1 Million Track for Cars

Racing Strip Designed Which Handles Speeds of 200 M.P.H.

ATLANTA (AP)—An auto racing track designed to handle speeds up to 200 miles per hour will be constructed 20 miles south of Atlanta, promoters said Monday.

Bert Robbins, in charge of the million dollar project, said work probably will begin within 30 days.

Approximately 400 acres of land have been purchased along highway 41, Atlanta's south expressway.

The track is designed so the infield may be used for other sports events.

Plans call for a mile and a half banked, oval track and grandstand seats for 50,000.

Robbins said a corporation — tentatively named Atlanta International Raceway, Inc.—will be formed with a 25-man board of directors composed of original investors in the project.

Public sale of common stocks will finance construction, Robbins said.

Fleck Supports Rule in Palmer's Favor

By BILL CORNWELL

Jack Fleck, head professional at Rochester Golf and Country Club, was among the honored guests at last night's annual Pontiac Boys Club Father and Son banquet.

The boys and their dads were lucky to have him in attendance because a little more than 24 hours earlier he was in Augusta, Georgia, where he had been competing in the famous Masters tournament.

Fleck, who skyrocketed to golfing fame in 1955 by defeating Ben Hogan in an 18-hole playoff to win the National Open crown, had little to say about his own game at Augusta.

But he did comment on the "embedded ball" issue, which was the key to young Arnold Palmer's great victory there. He wholeheartedly supported the official ruling, which gave Palmer a par three instead of a double bogey five.

The decision in Palmer's favor turned out to be all-important since Doug Ford and Fred Hawkins both finished just one stroke behind the husky golfer from Latrobe, Pa.

"There was no reason why he was not entitled to a free drop," Fleck said. "We played under that rule all the way through the tournament and his case was certainly no exception," he added, "but sometimes those things happen anyway."

There was additional support from Hogan, who felt there should have been no question concerning the incident while speaking in Palmer's behalf.

Of his own play in the Masters, Fleck said he shot quite well from tee to green, but that he putted poorly.

In parting, Fleck praised youthful Gene Bone, Pontiac pro. "He's a very strong player," Jack said.

SHORT PUTTS

An outstanding performance in the Masters classic was turned in by Phil Rodgers, 19-year-old amateur who fires for the University of Houston golf team.

Rodgers played against Jack Reynolds, former Waterford High links ace now at Michigan State, in the 1955 and 1956 National Jaycee tournaments. Rodgers was the 2nd top amateur in the Masters with rounds of 77-72-73-72—294.

DES MOINES (AP) — The Harlem Globetrotters took a 7-2 lead in their 18-game basketball series with the College All-Stars by defeating the Collegians 73-69 before a crowd of some 7,500 here Monday night.

Paced by Roman Turmon's 30 points, the Trotters pulled away from a 32-32 halftime tie and retained a lead throughout the second half. Only two points separated the teams, however, when Bob Milton clinched the victory with a basket in the final two seconds.

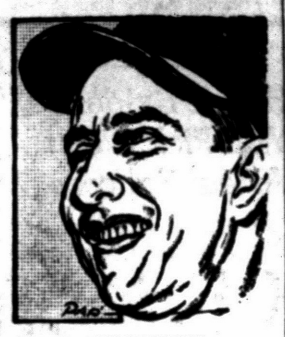
YOU'RE THE MANAGER
(Twenty-second of a series)
By BEN OLAN

The Washington Senators won only 55 games in 1957. Several of them came as a direct result of the power hitting of Roy Sievers. Most were hard earned victories.

In the following situation, manager Cookie Lavagetto had to make a split-second decision. His decision helped pull the game out of the fire and into the Senators' win column. Would you have ordered the same move?

The Senators and Detroit are deadlocked 1-1 in the last of the ninth at Washington. Frank Lary (R) is on the mound for the Tigers. Pete Runnels opens the inning with a single and moves to second when Roy Sievers is hit by a pitched ball. Herb Plews sacrifices for the first out, the runners advancing. Jim Lemon is walked intentionally, filling the bases. At this point, Al Aber (L) replaces Lary. Lou Berberet (L) is the next batter with Milt Bolling (R) to follow.

Would you:
a. Have Berberet try a squeeze bunt?



ROY SIEVERS

b. Put in a righthander pinch-hitter for Berberet?
c. Let Berberet swing away?
d. Order Runnels to try a steal of home?

(Other data: Berberet has 14 hits in 59 times at bat for a .237 average on the season; Runnels has one steal in 20 games; the Senators' right-hander pinch-hitters are Bob Usher, Ed Fitz Gerald and Jerry Snyder.)

Result: B — Pete Gerald pinch hits for Berberet and singles for the winning run. Senators win 3-1 (May 20).

Weighty Volumes Force Rome Library to Close

ROME (AP)— Italy's greatest library has been closed because it has too many books.

Engineers have warned that the weight of the books might cause collapse of the massive Roman College Building which houses the Vittorio Emanuele National Library. Rome has no other available building big enough to house the centuries-long accumulation of volumes.

The Vittorio Emanuele Library, built at the end of the 16th century a few hundred yards from the Piazza Venezia, is a huge pile of brick, two city blocks square and the equivalent of six stories high. In addition to the national library the old building's creaking floors hold two other libraries, an ethnologic and prehistoric museum, and a large high school. A weather observatory is build on the roof.

"It is not exactly correct to say that the building is about to collapse," newspapers told readers. "But the building no longer has the stability necessary for public security."

When the national library was founded, in 1871, it was stocked with thousands of books from the libraries of the Society of Jesus (Jesuit) order. It has grown until it is packed with two million volumes. It is increasing now at the rate of 45,000 volumes — weighing roughly 22,000 pounds — a year.

Unless laws are changed, there is no way to check the increase. One copy of every publication printed in Italy is required to be placed in the national library.

Librarians for years have been protesting in despair: "People can just come in and walk out with the books. They are piled in so many rooms we haven't enough librarians to keep watch. Mostly, though, the people bring them back."

Film Production Ceases at Republic Movie Studio

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There are few things sadder than writing the obituary for a movie studio.

That's my unpleasant chore, now that the death of Republic as a movie producer and distributor has been announced. The news was confirmed last week by President Herbert J. Yates at the annual stockholders meeting.

Yates said he expects Republic earnings to rise from sales of films to TV, rental of studio space and laboratory services. But the company is shutting down its executive changes throughout the world and will make no more pictures.

DYING FOR YEARS

This wasn't exactly news. As a film studio, Republic has been slowly dying for years. Yates merely signed the death certificate.

Could Republic have been saved?

There has been much ado about Yates' constant backing of features starring his wife Vera Ralston when there appeared to be no great public demand for her films.

Irate stockholders were always complaining about the losses racked up by her pictures, the excess amounts paid leading men to costar with her, the fact that her brother Rudy produced her films.

MADE LITTLE DIFFERENCE

No figures are available on how much the Vera Ralston movies drained from Republic resources. But aside from this issue, it would appear that the Republic operation was doomed anyway.

In the old days, Republic was geared to grind out cheap pictures. It did a good job of it, producing action pictures that were much needed by theaters in small towns.

Light Balloting Seen in Illinois

Primary Today Offers Few Contests Among Chicago Dems

CHICAGO (AP) — A light vote, possibly about 30 per cent of the state's some five million registered voters, was indicated in today's Illinois primary.

A dearth of contests, particularly in the Democratic party, was expected to keep balloting light in Chicago. Lively county contests downstate, particularly those in the GOP eliminations, indicated some heavy turnouts.

The two statewide contests supplied only one race of fair interest — that between State Rep. Louis E. Beckman, 44, Kankakee, and former State Treasurer Warren Wright, 65, Park Ridge, for the Republican nomination for state treasurer. Beckman has GOP organization support. Cook County Sheriff Joseph Lohman is unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

The GOP nomination for state superintendent of public instruction is sought by Gerald W. Smith, Elmwood Park, who has support of party leaders, and Lar Daly, Chicago. George T. Wilkins, Edwardsville, is unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

The other primaries embracing districts of more than one county, except in heavily populated Cook County (Chicago), are those for Congress and Illinois House and Senate nominations.

New Flower, Crest, Blooms in Research

BOZEMAN, Mont. (INS)—Gardell growers always on the hunt for a new flower soon will have another chrysanthemum variety available to them.

The new flower, named Crest, is the result of research work at Montana State College in Bozeman.

Homer Metcalf, associate professor of horticulture, says, "Crest will be on the market early in May. It is a cross between MSC seedlings and a variety from New Hampshire, and is a small, rather formal plant."

Bomb Fallout Worries Japan

Pacific's Radioactivity Not Decreasing, Says Scientist in Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese scientist said today almost all the western half of the north Pacific has been contaminated by radioactive fallout from the big U.S. H-bomb blast at Bikini in 1954.

Speaking for a three-scientist team, Prof. Yasuo Miyake of Tokyo's University of Education told the Japan Oceanography Society it was estimated waters in the area west of Hawaii to Japan show a level of man-made radioactive contamination about 10 times that of the Atlantic.

Miyake claimed the radioactivity is showing no sign of decreasing with the passage of time. He said the contaminated waters reach Japan a year after American nuclear weapon tests are conducted at Bikini Atoll.

Miyaka and two other scientists — Miss Katsuko Saruhashi of the Weather Research Institute and Kazuhisa Kameda of the Atomic Research Institute — conducted an exhaustive survey of radiation distribution in Pacific waters resulting from the 1954 blasts.

Miyake said their report is based on findings of a Japanese observation mission in 1954, surveys by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission in 1955 and results of a joint Japan-U.S.-Canada study on north Pacific waters the same year.

Thinks Reds Tested Live A-Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles says the Soviets may have tested some long-range missiles with live nuclear warheads.

He said he would be surprised if this hadn't occurred during the extended nuclear tests completed by the Soviets last month.

Quarles declined for security reasons, however, to say how accurately the United States can detect Soviet rocket launchings.

Quarles, in a radio interview, also said he doubted the Soviets have test-launched intercontinental range weapons.

Mickey Cohen Faces New Battery Charge

The cocky little ex-gambler was found guilty of battery and disturbing the peace Monday. A waiter, Arthur M. Black, 30, complained that Mickey socked him last Jan. 29 at the Villa Capri restaurant.

A federal charge of felonious assault, to be heard April 18, was filed against Cohen after he showed up at the office of Howard Chappell, head of the U.S. narcotics bureau here, last March 27. Cohen claimed federal agents were trying to frame him on a dope charge. Chappell denied this.

Here's Evidence, You Pick It Up; Arrest Follows

FITCHBURG, Mass. (AP) — A wife who sought to have her husband arrested for drinking too much was arrested herself when she dropped her evidence on the police station floor and refused to pick it up.

Sgt. James O. Brooks said that Mrs. Helmi Johnson, 50, unloaded a shopping bag full of empty beer cans and bottles on the floor Monday and refused to pick them up.

California Basks in Sun After Torrential Rains

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— California, basking in its second day of sunshine, began counting up the cost today of 12 straight days of rain.

Brig. Gen. William F. Cassidy, the Army's district engineer, estimated that floods within his jurisdiction caused 20 million dollars damage in the past two months. That did not include damage to homes, businesses and roads.

The flood danger was not completely over, but forecasters did not see another storm for at least five days. That should give the soggy soil a chance to dry.

Water covering an estimated 100,000 acres in the San Joaquin Valley began draining from fields back into the San Joaquin River as rains stopped.

The greatest recorded snowpack of all time is in the High Sierra, but state officials said there was little immediate likelihood of a sudden thaw melting it into a flood.

As the storm moved out of northern California, it dumped heavy rains on Southern California and dropped hail and a foot of snow in the mountains.

For a time some roads were closed by dirt slides as the largest runoff in 15 years threatened five dams in northern San Diego County. Main highways have been cleared.

The gigantic Krupp steel and munitions industry in Germany began as a small iron forge in 1848.

Formosan Plane Released by British

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — British authorities today released a Chinese Nationalist patrol bomber which made an emergency landing in Hong Kong. The four-engine amphibious P4Y and its 10 crewmen returned to Formosa.

The British released the plane after finding that it carried no arms, cameras or leaflet dropping equipment. The Chinese Communists were expected to protest. Peiping, which has diplomatic relations with London, has in similar cases demanded that the plane and crew be interned.

The Nationalist plane landed because of engine trouble while on a routine training flight from Formosa to the Paracel Islands, 420 miles south of Hong Kong.

Trading Stalls on Grain Mart

CHICAGO (AP) — Major dealers stayed pretty well on the sidelines during early Board of Trade transactions today as prices stalled at or near the previous close.

Traders said there were almost no inducements to trade in any of the pits in the absence of any overnight export business or other influences.

Corn started off weak for the first time in a week of successive daily gains. Some dealers said the grain appeared to have exhausted its recent bullish influences and that new incentives were needed all along the line.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was unchanged to ⅜ cents a bushel higher, May $2.19 corn ¼ higher to ⅛ lower, May $1.27⅞; oats ⅛ to ¼ higher, May 66½; rye ⅜ lower to ¼ higher, May $1.32; soybeans ⅛ to ¼ lower, May $2.27⅜; lard 2 to 12 cents a hundred lbs. lower, May $13.00.

Jury Vacancies Holding Up Suit

Judge Hartrick Excuses 17 of 23 Jurors for Caribou Inn Case

More jurors must be sought before the Caribou Inn condemnation suit in Oakland County Circuit Court can proceed.

A total of 17 jurors, from a list of 23 subpoenaed by the county sheriff, were excused this morning by Judge George B. Hartrick for having an opinion in the case, the judge said.

So that Sheriff Frank W. Irons can secure an additional panel from which to chose two more, the case has been adjourned until May 6. Ten jurors have been tentatively selected.

The Clarkston Village Council filed the condemnation suit last December to secure the 132 by 186-foot lot, on which the fire-damaged inn stands, for off-street parking.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved to the upside in fairly active trading early today.

Key stocks rose fractions to around a point. Most changes were narrow.

Youngstown Sheet rose more than a point and Lukens was up around 2. U.S. Steel, Chrysler, Boeing, United Aircraft, Phelps Dodge and Westinghouse Electric added major fractions.

Lana Sobs as Judge Orders Cheryl Held

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — As Lana Turner sobbed quietly, a judge ordered that the movie star's daughter be held in custody until a hearing April 24 into the knife slaying of Johnny Stompanato.

The ruling was a crushing blow also to 14-year-old Cheryl Crane's father, restaurant man Steve Crane.

Superior Judge Donald A. Odell, presiding jurist of the Juvenile Court, said that he believed it would be best for Cheryl if she were removed from all outside influences.

Crane, the second of Lana's four husbands, put his arm around his daughter's shoulder and led her from the room.

Cheryl then was returned to Juvenile Hall, where she has been held since Stompanato, her mother's romantic interest for the past year, met death Friday night in the actress' pink-carpeted bedroom.

Police have said the tall, shy schoolgirl plunged a brand new kitchen knife into the abdomen of the 32-year-old underworld figure in defense of her mother. Investigators described it as the climax of a stormy quarrel that developed because Lana sought to break off her relationship with him.

The body of Stompanato, one-time bodyguard for ex-gambler Mickey Cohen, was sent to Chicago last night. Service and burial will be in Woodstock, Ill., Stompanato's home town.

The court has several alternatives at the hearing for Cheryl April 24. She could be freed without reservations; made a ward of the court and released to one of her parents; or she could be made a ward and placed in a private or state institution.

Under California law, there is no definite pronouncement of guilt or innocence in juvenile cases and no fixed sentence.

"Hinkle has been bucking for the psycho ward where he would not have to work," Randolph said. "I thought he was faking his appetite for iron. But I'm a reasonable man and this convinces me. It's the mental section for him when he's ready to leave the hospital — mental, I said, not metal."

Cites Purposes of Advertising

President of MacManus Addresses Ad Men at Lansing Conference

Industrial advertising must accomplish a twofold purpose to be successful in today's competitive markets. It must sell the products and, in addition, create a favorable impression of the company itself.

This was the view expressed last night by Ernest A. Jones, president of MacManus, John and Adams, Inc., Bloomfield Hills national advertising agency, to the Michigan State University Advertising Management Conference in Lansing.

Jones reminded 125 industrial advertising executives at the conference that "perhaps no single mission of advertising has more potential for the present and future well-being of a company than the improvement of its corporate image. Products change. Men pass on. Markets disappear. But the constant factor in any business is its reputation.

"When all other things are equal, the industry which has shrewdly invested a portion of each advertising dollar in creating a favorable image of itself will get the buyers' nod every time.

"The ideal business advertisement sells the product, as all honest advertising must, and, in addition, speaks well of the company it represents," Jones pointed out.

2 Pontiac Churches Report Break-Ins

Two Pontiac churches were broken into and ransacked, according to Pontiac Police reports yesterday.

Dr. J. I. Chapman, pastor of Bethany Baptist Church, 15 Mark Ave., told police Monday afternoon that someone had entered the church by breaking a window and reaching through to unlock a door.

The main office had been ransacked and $35 taken, he said.

Moments later Alexander Bigger Jr., custodian of the First Free Methodist Church, 501 Mount Clemens St., called police to report a similar break-in.

Police reported nothing missing but said that all the cabinets in the main office had been ransacked.

U.S. Listens Seriously to Khrushchev's Boasts

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cocky Nikita Khrushchev is doing his best to make Americans feel inferior. Ten years ago—if he had talked the way he's talking now — he'd have been laughed at. Not now.

In those 10 years the Soviet Union has given such a stunning demonstration of its scientific and industrial progress that Premier Khrushchev's boasts have to be listened to with respect.

Only a few months ago—in a TV interview filmed in Moscow for display in this country — Khrushchev told Americans: "Someday your grandchildren will live under socialism."

His latest jibe at Americans came yesterday during his tour of Hungary. He said Americans are good people but destined for second place in the race for world economic leadership.

He said: "Now there are only two countries that compete with one another economically, the Soviet Union and the United States of America. England, France, Germany and the so-called advanced capitalist countries have been left far behind."

And he added that in a short time the U.S.S.R. will take the lead.

While the Soviet successes have been a goad to this country to do better, each new Khrushchev boast, followed by a new sign of Soviet progress, cannot but have some effect on American allies abroad.

Ten years ago, when this country still had a monopoly on the atomic bomb and was the undisputed industrial and scientific leader of the world, West Europeans had no reason to doubt their best bet was to line up with the United States.

But since then the Soviets have developed the atomic and hydrogen bombs, demonstrated additionally their tremendous scientific and industrial progress by shooting missile-powered satellites aloft, and expanded economically.

In those 10 years too, the Red Chinese took over all of mainland China and the Communists grabbed off half of Viet Nam. Therefore Khrushchev's boasts now force the West to listen.

Khrushchev has said other things to shake the West's confidence in itself.

He told West German Chancellor Adenauer: "We Communists will rule the world."

He gave a chilling answer to anyone who thought the Soviets might abandon communism in their search for prosperity. He told correspondents in Yugoslavia: "If anyone believes our smiles involve abandoning the teaching of Marx, Engels and Lenin, he deceives himself badly. Those who wait for that will wait until the shrimp learns to whistle."

* * *

He's doing his boasting now—about the coming superiority of the Soviet economy — at a time when the United States is in a recession, with nearly 5,200,000 unemployed, and American allies wondering whether it will get worse.

Eyes New Case Against Costello

Department of Justice Still Hopes to Remove Gambler's Citizenship

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Justice Department said today it hopes to "start all over again" with its efforts to strip underworld kingpin Frank Costello of his citizenship.

Malcolm Anderson, assistant attorney general, told International News Service that the government's new case against Costello would incorporate the Supreme Court decision Monday but would involve filing of "entirely new complaints."

The Supreme Court, in a unanimous ruling, killed the long-standing effort to nullify Costello's citizenship on grounds that the government failed to file a bill of specified complaints against the gambler at the time it submitted its plea for denaturalization.

The high court decision was considered a severe setback in the federal government's campaign to rid the country of suspected subversives and racketeers.

"We are beginning a review of all cases that could be affected by the Supreme Court decision," Anderson said. "The Costello case certainly will be a primary one for consideration. We think we can start all over again and file entirely new complaints."

Anderson said the new proceedings could be launched since the legal actions fall into the civil rather than the criminal area, thus lessening the danger of double jeopardy dismissals.

Detroit Running Short of Beer

Negotiators Seeking to End Week-Long Strike of Brewery Workers

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit was running low on beer today as negotiators sought to end a week-long brewery strike.

Several bars reported they were dry of beer. Others announced rationing plans and some barkeeps admitted they were setting back brew for special customers.

The 5,000 bottlers, brewers and drivers, members of the Brewery Workers of America Union, went on strike in a dispute over a new contract.

Their walkout cut off the supply at five breweries, Stroh, Goebel, Pfeiffer, E & B and National, which represent virtually all the beer supplied in Wayne and Macomb Counties.

The union is demanding a settlement retroactive to April 1. The Brewers Assn., which represents the companies in negotiations, wants the new contract to be effective April 15.

Truck drivers for out-of-town beer distributorships also are members of the brewers union and are not delivering brands imported into Michigan.

Cheats Death Sentence by Being Drunk

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Whisky has its disadvantages, but it saved this drinker from the gas chamber.

Superior Court ruled yesterday that Carroll G. Reavis was drunk and befuddled when he killed his wife last December.

Therefore, the court decided, the crime was not premeditated. Judge Leroy Dawson found Reavis guilty of second degree murder and sentenced him to serve five years to life.

CBS Operating Despite Strike

Network Tries to Keep Video on Schedule With Nonunion Staff

NEW YORK (AP)— The Columbia Broadcasting System was on an emergency basis today. The network attempted to maintain its television schedule despite a strike of 1,300 technicians.

The cameramen, engineers and other members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers walked out yesterday in New York City; Hartford, Conn.; Chicago; Hollywood, San Francisco; Boston, St. Louis; and Milwaukee in a contract dispute.

The effect on the CBS television schedule was immediate. Film programs were substituted for As the World Turns, Art Linkletter's House Party and the live version of Beat the Clock.

Last night, Studio One in Hollywood canceled a live play, and a film of a previous Red Skelton show was scheduled for tonight.

The network called on supervisory and other nonunion personnel to man cameras and take over other technical work. In this way many live shows were kept on the air.

During the first few hours operations were hardly flawless. There were misplaced commercials and dead air at times.

A later live program was termed flawless by a CBS spokesman.

The CBS radio network, also hit by the strike, said it was maintaining its regular program schedule.

Woman Boosts Quiz Winnings Over $100,000

NEW YORK (AP)— Elfrida Von Nardroff, Brooklyn personnel director, has increased her winnings on a TV quiz show to $103,500.

Miss Von Nardroff picked up $30,000 last night when she ousted Mrs. Elaine Wolfe of Sherman Oaks, Calif., in their sixth game. They had played five ties.

Playing Mrs. Wolfe, a housewife, for $3,000 a point, Miss von Nardroff could have lost as much as $63,000 on the NBC show "Twenty-One." Mrs. Wolfe went home with $3,000.

Builds Big Windmill 'to Express Myself'

LORAIN, Ohio (INS) — Joe Ule of nearby Black River Township is building what he believes will be the world's largest windmill.

The tower at the rear of Ule's home is 87 feet high. It has nine tiers and will house the windmill mechanism.

The main shaft is being turned on a huge lathe. The shaft, according to Ule, is a 104-year-old, 50-foot log.

Ule said the windmill will be used to grind grain, drive a generator, turn a water pump and charge batteries.

But the real purpose of the long hours he spends on the windmill, Ule said, is "just for the sake of having an outlet to express myself."

Motor Bike Kills Tot

DETROIT (AP) — Patricia Davis, 3, was killed Monday when hit by a motor bicycle in front of her home. Police said she ran between two parked cars into the path of the bike.

Scenic Canal May Become National Park

WASHINGTON — The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, whose scenic trail through the historic Potomac Valley often tempts private interests, may become a national park.

A bill to create the park, sponsored by Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde of Maryland, is pending in the United States House of Representatives. The Senate last year passed an identical bill introduced by Maryland Senator J. Glenn Beall.

The canal itself, a 185-mile waterway that parallels the Potomac from Washington, D.C., to Cumberland, Md., is already in Federal hands. But adjacent land is coveted by sand and gravel producers, highway planners and property developers.

Now given over to the quiet pleasures of walkers, canoeists, naturalists, and fishermen, the canal was once a booming trade route.

In 1754, George Washington, then a 22-year-old surveyor, began to contemplate such a waterway to the interior. His idea was to improve the bed of the river.

The Revolution thwarted the plans, but shortly after resigning his commission as Commander-in-Chief in 1783, Washington persuaded the legislatures of Maryland and Virginia to grant a charter to his "Potomac Company."

Work started at once. Loose stone and sand were dredged from the river bottom; deeper passages were blasted through solid rock. Walled channels were built through shallow rapids and water forced into them by dams. Five short canals were constructed at impassable falls.

By 1802 the work was substantially finished. Though difficult to navigate, the river from western Maryland to the National Capital was carrying furs, flour, lumber, and whisky.

MIXED EMOTIONS — Dr. Frank Baxter, USC professor and Shakespeare scholar, feels that television has failed to live up to its responsibility, but, on the other hand, he believes "there's a tremendous lot that's right" with the young medium. Dr. Baxter emcees ABC's "Telephone Time," which is telecast Tuesdays at 9:30 p. m.

Broadway Turns Out for Circus Openings

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — There were two circus openings for New Yorkers to go to:

Ringling's, and the Actors' Studio party at which Marilyn Monroe arrived around 2 A.M. wearing men's garters to hold up her hose because somehow she couldn't find any gals' garters.

WILSON

Susan Strasberg, 19, attended the latter with Sir Laurence Oliver, and when I inquired how she happened to be with him, she said:

"I asked him!"

Mort Sahl, the brilliant young wit from San Francisco, enchanted the Studio Set by defining a conservative Republican as one "who doesn't believe anything should be tried for the first time." (And a liberal Republican as one who "does believe something should be tried for the first time but not NOW.")

Just to prove he's not exclusively intellectual, he mentioned a folk singer "who wears a short open to the navel and he doesn't have one."

This was all for the premiere of "The Young Lions"—and the most interesting new twosome was: Elsa Maxwell and Aly Khan.

I read with sadness that spittoons have been removed from the post offices of the land. Back in Rockford, when I was a boy, tobacco-chawers could squirt their shots in from 15 feet. My Uncle Joe Huffman was even more gifted and could loop 'em in over people's heads. Anybody who said "cuspidor" was considered a snob and a showoff.

USC Professor Has Two Shows Currently on Television

By CHARLES DENTON

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Dr. Frank Baxter, the Shakespeare buff whose soliloquies and intellectual impishness have been TV fixtures since the days of the 10-inch picture tube, has mixed emotions about the medium which has made him one of the nation's most famous "schoolmasters."

On the one hand, he feels that television, like every other medium of mass communication, has failed to live up to its responsibility to its audience — a consequence of the age in which we live.

On the other, he believes that despite all that is wrong with television, "there's a tremendous lot that's right" with the "attractive nuisance" which has become the second or third most important piece of furniture in most American homes.

The doctor, whose primary occupation is letting literary light into the crania of students at the University of Southern California, can speak with almost as much authority about television as he can about the Bard of Avon.

He has delved into most phases of the medium to a greater or lesser degree and right now—for the next few weeks at least—has two shows of his own, ABC's "Telephone Time" and "Harvest," a Hollywood-area offering of an intellectual nature.

UNENDING DEMAND

"Telephone Time" is in the process of losing its sponsor—"I think they feel musical shows are the most antiseptic programs and want to get into one of those," Baxter explains—but the demand for the 62-year-old educator's services seems unending.

For example, he recently moderated NBC's weather documentary, "The Unchained Goddess," a show he feels came closer to fulfilling TV's educational responsibilities than most.

Yet what is most "right" with the medium, explains the professor, stems from its nature and from its development of drama.

"If I had to appear before some great court and defend television," he says with typical soaring enthusiasm, "I would say:

"'What can be said against a medium when, in a time of crisis, one can sit in a grass hut beside the Sea of Galilee with Edward R. Murrow and hear him question Ben Gurion and then, with a flick of the dial, go to Cairo to hear Nasser's side?'"

Mrs. Bob Crosby Gets Treatment in Hospital

Attendants at St. Vincent's Hospital said her condition was not serious and she probably would be released in about a week.

Sober Russian Whalers Invade Wellington, N.Z.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) —Nearly 1,000 Russians invaded Wellington today from the Soviet whaling fleet on its way home from the antarctic.

The men's taste ran heavily to blue. One haberdasher who had arranged a special window display of red shirts remarked ruefully, "They just won't buy red."

Nor was the visit a boon to one business which usually profits more than most from visiting seamen. Not a single Russian was seen in a bar.

RELIEVES ALL 5 KINDS OF MINOR ARTHRITIC—RHEUMATIC—BURSITIC PAIN

New Rub-On Medicine Gives Quick, Temporary Relief of Pain Due To: (1) Stiffness (2) Aching Joints (3) Irritated Nerve Endings (4) Muscle Spasms (5) Swelling

From Anahist Research Laboratories comes a new, safe, medically proved formulation named Stim-U-Rub, because it stimulates blood. Minutes after you apply it, you can see a warm, red glow appear on the skin . . . as blood is rushed to the area.

You can also feel the blood heat spread like a blanket of soothing warmth over painful joints and muscles. Scientists, using electronic skin thermometers, report: "Stim-U-Rub raises skin temperature over pain areas as much as two full degrees, in minutes." Stim-U-Rub also speeds pain-relieving medication right to where blood circulates.

(1) Pain of stiffness is relieved. (2) Joint aches eased. (3) Irritated nerve endings soothed. (4) Muscle spasms decreased. (5) Soreness of swelling eased. So, Stim-U-Rub relieves all 5 kinds of minor arthritic-rheumatic-bursitic pain for periods that may last for hours, helping you to sleep the whole night in comfort.

Get Stim-U-Rub at any drug counter. If not 100% satisfied, return the unused portion and your money will be refunded. Anahist Research Laboratories, Yonkers 2, N. Y.

Junior Editors Quiz on THE EARTH

QUESTION: Why isn't the earth perfectly round?

ANSWER: You all know that the earth goes round the sun once a year and spins on its axis once every 24 hours. But you may not realize that different parts of the earth spin at different speeds. A stick placed one foot from the North (or South) Pole would move very slowly, for it would have twenty four hours to turn around a circle only two feet across. The same stick, if placed near the equator, would whiz by (if you were looking at it from a fixed point in space) at a speed of 1000 miles an hour.

If you tied a rock to a string and whirled it around, centrifugal force would make the rock strain outward. In the same way, the central part of the earth strains out as it revolves at a high speed. This part doesn't break away from the rest of the earth because gravity holds it down. But the strain does make a definite bulge around our planet's waist line. As a result, the distance through the earth from North to South Poles is 7900 miles; but if measured through the earth's center from two points on the equator it would be 7927 miles. Thus the diameter of our earth is 27 miles longer one way than the other.

FOR YOU TO DO: See if you can draw a cartoon on this subject. You might show the earth with a sad expression, as he realizes he's too fat around the middle, and have him say, "Seems like I can't reduce, no matter how fast I spin!"

Foot Slips; Kills Sister

DETROIT (AP) — Marie Dworkowski, 54, was killed by a car after her sister accidentally stepped on the accelerator outside the victim's garage Monday. Her sister, Lucille, 50, said Marie was opening the garage doors when the car began to roll ahead. She said she reached for the brake pedal, stepped on the accelerator instead and ran into her sister.

Traffic Points Bill Approved

Williams May Veto It; Hare Opposes Plan as Step Backwards

LANSING (AP) — A bill to freeze into law a point system for evaluating traffic law violations cleared the Legislature last night.

Acceptance by the House of a Conference Committee report previously adopted by the Senate sent the bill to Gov. Williams, who might veto it.

Secretary of State James M. Hare, who doubles as state Safety Commission chairman, and some other persons active in traffic safety work have opposed the plan as a backward step administratively.

Hare now has latitude as to when to call in a motorist deemed to be building up a bad driving record. Under the bill, an interview would be required after accumulation of nine points and a hearing on license suspension after 12 points.

The proposed point schedule runs from two to six points, with the maximum provided for reckless homicide and other serious offenses.
