County Could Pump Water From Lake Huron

Du Pont May Seek Rehearing on Stock

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES

WASHINGTON — The Du Pont Corporation was expected today to seek a rehearing on the Supreme Court decision that its 23 per cent stock interest in General Motors violates the Clayton Antitrust Act.

The court ruled yesterday that Du Pont "purposely employed the stock . . . to entrench itself as the primary supplier of General Motors' requirements for automotive finishes and fabrics."

Despite precedent against a rehearing, a petition from Du Pont was considered likely within 25 days in view of the fact that the 4-to-2 majority represented a minority of the court.

Justices Tom Clark, John Marshall Harlan and Charles E. Whittaker did not participate, Clark because he planned the prosecution as attorney general, Harlan because he was once a Du Pont lawyer and Whittaker because he did not hear the arguments.

AWAIT MOVE

A Justice Department spokesman said the government would await a move from Du Pont before taking action on the court's mandate that the district court decide whether the corporation must dispose of all its General Motors stock or merely reduce its holding.

After the decision, Du Pont common stock closed slightly higher and General Motors slightly lower. This was interpreted as an expectation that 63 million shares of GM stock would have to be distributed among Du Pont stockholders.

Du Pont President Crawford H. Greenwalt expressed disappointment at the decision but noted that "the government's position before the Supreme Court represented a long retreat from the sweeping charges made in the complaint initially filed . . ."

The minority opinion, in which Justice Felix Frankfurter concurred with Justice Harold H. Burton, held that the court overlooked the fact that the government based the bulk of its case on the Sherman Act. It also said that the Clayton Act was directed toward competing companies and not coordinate ventures like Du Pont and General Motors.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr., who wrote the majority opinion, declared that the Clayton Act "is designed to arrest in its incipiency not only . . . the acquisition . . . of a competing corporation, but also to arrest in their incipiency restraint or monopolies of a relevant market."

He said: "The fire . . . continues to smolder. If it has quieted down, it remains hot, and from past performances, is likely at any time to blaze and make the fusion complete."

INVESTMENT PAYS

The Wilmington (Del) company of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours, Inc. parlayed an initial $49 million investment in General Motors into holdings worth today, by the company's estimates, $894 million.

And that's just the company's estimate of its equity in the General Motors Corp. The stock market value of Du Pont's GM shares is more than $2½ billion.

But, said a Du Pont spokesman, that original investment, made at

Antitrust Bills Sparked by Ruling, Says Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wis) predicted today the court-decreed separation of Du Pont Co. from General Motors Corp. will give fresh impetus to antitrust bills pending in Congress.

The senator, who presided over a long inquiry into General Motors 1½ years ago, also told a reporter that his 1956 suggestions for dismembering GM—the world's biggest manufacturing firm—"should be followed through."

"I think this decision will be a memorable one in the history of the Supreme Court and the interpretation of the antitrust laws," he said.

The high court's 4-2 decision yesterday set off arguments on Capitol Hill and created some apparent confusion in industry. Sen. Frear (D-Del) said the ruling "could in my opinion have an adverse economic effect on the country at large."

"It seems to me the court has gone far and wide and found only the thinnest possible basis on which to reach its majority opinion," he said.

MUST GIVE UP

The court ruled that the huge chemical firm must give up its "commanding position" in General Motors. It ordered the case returned to a district court in Chi-

More Smokers Get Lung Cancer, Reports Society

NEW YORK (AP) — Men who smoke cigarettes are 10 times more likely to die of lung cancer than nonsmokers, the American Cancer Society reported today.

It finds the lung cancer death rate 1,000 per cent higher in smokers than among nonsmokers. Smoking also boosts the chances of fatal heart attacks by 70 per cent, the society said.

These are final figures from a huge four-year study of 188,000 men aged 50 to 70. About 60 per cent were regular cigarette smokers, the others had not smoked.

During the four years 11,870 died.

JAYCEE SCRUB CREW — To kick off their "Paint Up, Clean Up, and Fix Up Week" here, these members of the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce, with the aid of Miss Joan Jarrard, took to the brushes yesterday to sweep a portion of Saginaw street. The City Commission last week proclaimed this week as the time for all residents to do their part in cleaning up the city. Joan, of 605 E. Third St., is doing her part as "Miss Paint Up, Clean Up, and Fix Up" for the week.

Sees New Hope for Toll Road

Higgins Believes Bonds for Turnpike to Flint Can Now Be Sold

George N. Higgins, chairman of the Michigan Turnpike Authority, today was "highly optimistic" about the prospects of building a north-south toll road east of Pontiac.

At a meeting of the revived authority in Ann Arbor yesterday, Higgins credited recent legislation that he believes will make the project more attractive to investors.

The act would provide a cushion from gas tax money to insure payment of interest on turnpike bonds if tolls fell short of expectation.

Higgins, of Ferndale, said he will go to New York City June 20 to arrange marketing of turnpike bonds with the brokerage house of Allen & Co., the firm that first suggested the gas tax cushion.

PLAN SHORTER ROUTE

The authority is contemplating a project 37 miles shorter than the original proposal, Higgins said, and costing roughly $165 million.

Although shorter, the route in the Pontiac area is the same as it was when the original plans floundered last summer because turnpike bonds proved unmarketable in the face of threatened competition from free state highways in the turnpike corridor.

However, Higgins added that the authority plans no further expenditures on engineering studies until it is convinced that bonds can be marketed and that John C. Mackie, state highway commissioner elect, agrees a toll road fits into Michigan highway needs.

City Sewage Issue Now Up to State

Whether Pontiac will have to build a planned sewage treatment plant rests largely with the State Water Resources Commission, the State Health Dept., and the courts.

Milton P. Adams, executive secretary of the Water Resources Commission, today said the body will hear a report at a June 27 meeting that Pontiac voters rejected a bond issue to build the plant.

"The commission," Adams said, "might take court action if health officials show that the city still is in need of the new plant to prevent pollution of the Clinton river."

City Manager Walter K. Willman said in the meantime he would "sit tight" pending a decision by state officials.

He added that it would be up to the city to finance the project if the state orders. He mentioned the alternatives of either general obligation or revenue bond issues.

THUMBS DOWN

Voters turned thumbs down on a $2,700,000 bond issue May 20 and a corresponding tax rate boost to pay for the bonds.

The manager said a Supreme Court ruling that Pontiac must build the plant, would overrule the voters' rejection.

Adams added that the issue's defeat might hurt the city's chances of receiving any federal assistance on the project. He said this might have been possible if federal officials saw that the city was carrying its share of the costs.

Willman said if a revenue bond issue was "floated," residents most likely would face a sharp hike in sewage treatment rate charges.

"If they had approved the issue," he said, "the cost would have been absorbed in the general tax picture, of which industry pays a large portion."

Back in 1951 the Water Resources Commission ordered expansion of the city's sewage treatment system to stop overflow of untreated sewage into the river.

★ ★ ★

The manager explained that the 15,000,000 gallons per day capacity of the Featherstone Avenue plant was being overtaxed. Thus the plans were laid for the auxiliary plant at Opdyke road and Auburn avenue.

GOP Problems Taken to Ike

Dissension Is Reported on President's Spending Program for 1958

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders take to President Eisenhower today a report of GOP dissension over his spending program and of the difficulties ahead in trying to regain control of Congress in 1958.

★ ★ ★

As a preliminary to a party rally here Thursday and Friday, Eisenhower arranged to see National Chairman Meade Alcorn and congressional campaign chairmen at the White House.

Subsequent public statements were expected to stress party unity behind the Eisenhower legislative program, and to reflect optimism about GOP chances of regaining the House and Senate.

But some Republicans said that Alcorn, Sen. Schoeppel of Kansas and Rep. Simpson of Pennsylvania view the party revolt against the President's $71,800,000,000 spending budget more seriously than they are willing to say publicly.

Alcorn said yesterday that he had had reports from party chairmen in some areas of the country that raising money has become more difficult because of resistance to the President's spending plans.

★ ★ ★

"The money is not flowing in as rapidly as we would like," he said. He added, however, that Republicans still have a nest egg in the bank and the party is not "broke."

★ ★ ★

House Republicans were hopeful, meanwhile, that a forthcoming series of White House breakfasts would be more productive politically than was a luncheon session with Eisenhower yesterday.

The half-hour luncheon, sponsored by House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts and held in the old House Office Building, was pronounced a social success by most of the 175-odd Republicans who attended it.

Plan 'Feasible' if Enough Users Can Be Found

Official to Seek Funds for Thorough Survey After Experts' Report

So said a pipeline firm to the Southeastern Michigan Water Authority yesterday.

Authority Chairman Howard K. Kelley promptly asked for and received permission to seek $58,000 from the Board of Supervisors' Ways and Means Committee to pay for a complete engineering report.

Kelley, of Royal Oak appeared at a meeting of the supervisors' Water Committee following a joint meeting of the authority and representatives of Bechtel and Co., a San Francisco firm and one of the largest of its kind in the country.

Bechtel representatives told the authority that the proposed $70,000,000 pipeline could bring water to the area at a customer rate of $1.10-$1.20 a thousand gallons, if 200 million gallons are sold a day.

ENGINEERS SURVEY

Company engineers had made a preliminary survey of the project last month. The company offered to make a complete report on the engineering and economics of the subject for $116,000, which Oakland and Macomb would split equally.

Kelley, who is also a water committee member, said he will ask the Ways and Means Committee June 13 to release Oakland's share of the bill from already appropriated funds.

The water committee yesterday puzzled over two big considerations.

One was the effect potential Detroit competition would have on the market.

The other was how many customers would be available if and when the pipeline is completed by mid-1960, and how many more there would be over the next 20-30 years.

Detroit, which for many years has had contracts to supply South Oakland communities with water, is on the verge of offering northern communities water at a price to

The temperature, instead of remaining in the near 75 degree range, will be cooler, reaching a high of 63 to 67.

Invokes Fifth, Just Like Dad

Beck Jr. Mum on $69,000

WASHINGTON (INS) — Dave Beck Jr. clammed up like his father today and refused to tell Senate rackets investigators about himself, his friends, or $69,000 the Teamsters Union paid him in three years.

★ ★ ★

Repeatedly invoking the Fifth Amendment against possible self-incrimination, the union president's hefty son nearly matched the senior Beck's record in refusing to answer questions.

Dave Sr., pleaded the fifth amendment some 200 times before the Senate probers when they questioned him last month about his financial dealings including $322,000 he allegedly took from the union.

Young Beck refused "on grounds it might tend to incriminate me" to say whether he knew his father. This reciprocated for the senior Beck's previous refusal to say whether he knew his son.

SMILES, LAUGHS

Burly, double-chinned, 36-year-old Dave Jr.—subpoenaed in Seattle 11 days ago after more than a month as a "missing witness" — smiled repeatedly as he refused to answer questions and joined in the laughter which followed one of his few replies.

★ ★ ★

This was when Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) cut into young Beck's 60th use of the Fifth Amendment and asked: "Are you married?"

Beck answered, "no."

McClellan then asked if the witness could "suggest any other question I could ask you that you might answer." Young Beck snapped: "No comment."

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy reported that Beck Jr. had received $69,000 in salary and expenses as an "international organizer" for his father's million-and-a-half-member union in 1954-55-56.

★ ★ ★

"Did you ever do any work for the Teamsters?" Kennedy asked.

The witness replied: "I refuse to answer on the ground it may tend to incriminate me."

Alaska Plane Crash Kills Two Airmen

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — An Air Force C47 transport ferrying men and equipment to Alaska radar sites crashed last night at McGrath, 290 miles southwest of here on the Kuskokwim River, killing two men and injuring two others.

Five other men aboard the two-engined craft escaped serious injury when the plane smashed to the ground a quarter of a mile short of the McGrath airstrip and burst into flames.

Officials at the Ladd Air Force Base here, the plane's home base, said the transport had taken off from Talkeetna, on the Susitna River 195 miles southwest of Fairbanks, at 5:30 p.m. for the 200-mile flight to McGrath.

Obstacles Foil Anxious-to-Help Doctor's Son

"Could you take a message for your father," asked Dr. Lolande.

"Yes sir," said James Robert. "Wait till I get a pencil."

Dr. Lolande waited.

James Robert returned to the telephone: "The point is broken. I'll get another one."

Dr. Lolande waited.

James Robert came back again: "I'm here," he said, "but do you know what?"

"No," said Dr. Lolande.

Individual Adjustment Is Needed

Doctor Calls Exercise 'Good for Heart'

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Exercise, properly adjusted to the individual, looks good for most human hearts, Dr. J. W. Wilce of Columbus, Ohio, said today.

The old idea that most athletes die before they are 50 is just not so, he says in an exhibit presented to the American Medical Assn. convention.

But, he cautions, the amount of activity should be carefully adjusted to the individual. As yet there are no foolproof medical tests to determine this easily.

Much depends upon a person's past medical history, and heredity. Some people, said Wilce, inherit "hearts of oak, while others are poplar trees" which more easily give way under stress.

Wilce describes a 20-year study based mainly upon 237 American athletes. Many had organic heart conditions before they started athletic careers.

In fact, only 26 had not been exposed to scores of diseases—such as flu, tonsillitis, measles—or conditions which possibly might have predisposed them to weakening or effects upon the heart muscle.

★ ★ ★

Most athletes who had organic heart conditions at the outset developed enlarged hearts, about 25 per cent larger than normal.

★ ★ ★

Athletics for such men may make heart conditions worse or shorten life, and they should stop strenuous athletics, Wilce said.

Among athletes who had been exposed to predisposing infections or conditions, about half had enlarged hearts, but not nearly so enlarged. Such men apparently can keep on exercising, but with some caution.

Wilce said athletics "do not cause heart disease or injure the normal heart," if "normal" is defined as meaning a heart not affected or exposed to any particular infection or treatment beforehand.

He finds little or no basis for the idea of "the athletic heart," meaning one which necessarily must be enlarged and damaged by exercise.

Instead, he says, athletic heart should be taken as meaning a superior heart, primarily inherited, but developed secondarily through the work it has had to do.

Wilce said the studies do not indicate any shortening of life "from athletic stress as such."

Exceptions could be athletics engaged in by persons who had organic heart trouble at the outset, or started in at strenuous play after severe infections such as a bout of influenza. Or too much athletic activity in middle age when habits already had been exposed to some of the possibly predisposing infections or challenges.

80 Hurt as Blasts Cause Panic; MNA Asks U.N. Replace French Rule

ALGIERS (AP) — The death toll climbed to nine today from explosions that ripped apart three lampposts in downtown Algiers and sent jagged chunks of metal tearing into evening rush hour crowds.

Six persons died last night when time bombs placed in the cast iron bases of the posts went off almost simultaneously. The dead included five Europeans, among them two children, and one Algerian. More than 80 persons were injured in the crowds of terrified thousands.

The outburst was the first serious bombing incident in this capital of rebellious Algeria since 15 persons were killed and 60 wounded when two bombs exploded in crowded football stadiums.

What causes the damage when a tornado strikes a farm or village or city? Is it the force of the wind as it hits structures in its path?

Most often, the greatest damage wrought by a tornado comes from the low pressure inside a funnel, not the strength of the winds that roar around the vortex. A tornado like a hurricane, is a low pressure disturbance, on a very small scale. On land, a tornado often measures only a few hundred feet, sometimes less, in diameter.

★ ★ ★

When this funnel touches the earth—it is always suspended from a cloud—the winds in the circular edges can cause destruction and and sometimes even buildings. But, usually, the sudden change of pressure explodes buildings wrecked by tornadoes.

★ ★ ★

For, inside the funnel, air pressure is very low, so low that when the funnel sits down on a house for example, surrounding it, there is not sufficient time for the high pressure inside the house to dissipate normally. When a short of vacuum occurs outside (perhaps with windows and doors closed), the high-pressure air inside the house literally bursts out, sometimes taking windows, doors and walls down in the process.

First Launching of Atlas Missile Expected Friday

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The first test launching of the Convair Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile has been set for Friday at the Patrick Air Force Base in Florida, the San Diego Union said in a copyrighted story last night.

The story, by the paper's military editor, Rembert James, said the missile's maiden flight from the site will be 2,000 miles, considerably less than half its maximum distance.

James, quoting authoritative sources, said the Atlas will attain an altitude of around 700 miles, then turn right, proceed southeastward past a chain of island tracking stations and fall into empty tropical waters.

President Eisenhower is scheduled to be in Florida Friday. Although he is not scheduled to visit the missile testing base, James said there was speculation that he may witness the Atlas test.

The Atlas' strategic purpose is to destroy targets in the 1,500-to-5,500-mile range. It is designed to carry a hydrogen warhead and travel from the United States to Moscow in 30 minutes.

The test missile was trucked to the Florida base from the Convair plant of General Dynamics Corp. in San Diego more than two months ago.

Du Pont May Seek New Court Hearing

a time when the automotive company was striving to keep the wolf from its plant doors, probably saved GM from becoming one of several automobile manufacturers that are simply names on antiques.

The investment included not only capital, the spokesman added, but also technical and management know-how from the resources of the chemical industry giant.

BOUGHT SHARES

By the fall of 1919, Du Pont had bought shares of General Motors and Chevrolet (later exchanged for GM shares) equivalent to about 29 per cent of GM stock at a cost of approximately $49 million.

In 1920, Du Pont made further purchases, bringing its total holdings by the end of 1922 to about 7,500,000 shares.

In 1923, Du Pont sold the equivalent of about 2,250,000 shares to Managers Securities, a corporation organized by General Motors to provide additional incentive to the principal executives of GM.

In 1924, GM issued new stock, at a rate of one new share for four old shares, making Du Pont's total holdings about 1,300,000.

A 50 per cent stock dividend in 1926, a 2-for-1 exchange (two new shares for each old share) in 1927 and a 2½-for-2 split in 1929 brought Du Pont's total holdings to about 9,981,200 shares.

In 1933, Du Pont sold 81,200.

In 1935, Du Pont bought about 950 shares and distributed 200,950 shares to its stockholders as dividends, leaving the company with a total of 10 million shares.

Another two-for-one split in 1950 made the total 20 million.

In 1955 Du Pont exercised options offered by GM to all its stockholders and purchased one million new shares.

That same year a three-for-one split made the Du Pont total 63 million shares, equivalent to about 23 per cent of all GM's outstanding common stock.

These shares held by Du Pont, the spokesman said, were valued at $894 million in its report on the year ended Dec. 31, 1956. That amount, he said, closely corresponded to the equity indicated by GM in its balance sheet for the year ended Dec. 31, 1955.

The company estimated the cost of its investment, by present figures at $132,621,758, leaving $761,978,242 as the addition to its surplus from the investment.

All 63 million shares now held by Du Pont, the company said, are held in the company's name and do not include shares held by individual members of the Du Pont family.

Security for You

Here Are SS Qualifications for Disabled

Congress last year changed the Social Security law to provide monthly payments to many severely disabled workers who've reached 50. The program goes into effect July 1. This is the first of a series of three columns explaining the details of the program.)

By RAY HENRY
Associated Press Writer

A person who claims monthly payments under the new Social Security disability benefit program must meet four general requirements.

He must:

1. Have a permanent mental or physical disability which is so severe that he can't do any substantial work, and

2. Have had the disability for at least six months, and

3. Have worked under Social Security for five of the ten years before he was disabled and for 1½ of the three years before he was disabled, and

4. Be between 50 and 65.

NO TROUBLE

If you are disabled or ever become disabled, you should not have much truble deciding whether you meet the last three requirements listed above.

★ ★ ★

But, only the Social Security Administration—after it has medical evidence in hand — can decide whether you have a disability so severe that you can't do any substantial work.

The Social Security people have worked out a set of guides based on medical conditions for making the decisions. But, thus far, they have refused to release publicly complete information on the guides. More will be said about this in the next column.

In any case, you'll be responsible for getting the medical evidence together to show your disability.

MEDICAL FORM

When you make your application, your Social Security office will give you a medical report form on which this medical evidence can be supplied.

You'll be asked to take or mail this form to your doctor to fill out.

The form is designed to provide the Social Security Administration with a full medical history of your disability: How severe it is, what medical tests have shown and what the doctors have found to be wrong.

After the form is filled out, it goes to your Social Security office. Then, the form along with other information about your employability, your work experience, education and training will be sent to an agency of your state which works with the Social Security people in making the disability determinations.

In this agency, a team of trained people—including a medical doctor—will look at all the facts in your file and make a decision as to whether you meet the disability requirement of the Social Security law.

The decision will be reviewed by Social Security headquarters. It can reverse a finding by your state agency that you meet the disability requirement. It can't reverse a decision that your disability doesn't meet the requirement.

However, if your application is turned down and you feel it shouldn't have been, you can ask that your case be reconsidered or put before a referee of the Social Security Administration. You can ask for the review whether or not you have new evidence concerning your disability.

Senator Expects More Antitrust Actions

cago for determination of just how that should be accomplished. The process was expected to be a long one.

★ ★ ★

Du Pont's 23 per cent stock interest in GM, the Supreme Court decided, results in violation of the Clayton Antitrust Act. Du Pont started buying GM stock 40 years ago and says it now holds 63 million shares. Other sources put the total at more than 64 million.

Justice Brennan, speaking for the four-judge majority, said Du Pont "purposely employed the stock to pry open the General Motors market to enrich itself," although he said top officials of both firms "acted honorably and fairly," in behalf of their respective firms "without any design to overreach anyone . . ."

Justice Burton, in a dissenting opinion in which Justice Frankfurter joined, protested the Supreme Court had disregarded fact-finding made by the trial judge in its conclusion that the evidence fell within the Supreme Court's "theory of illegality."

★ ★ ★

Justices Clark, Harlan and Whittaker did not participate in the case.

When word of the decision hit Wall Street, GM stock rose a little, then fell partway back. Du Pont shares spurted to $202.50, a rise of $6.50, but closed at $197.50 for a net gain of $1.

At Du Pont headquarters in Wilmington, Del., Du Pont's President Crawford H. Greenewalt said he was disappointed at the decision. But he noted that government lawyers before the Supreme Court had made "a long retreat from the sweeping charges made in the complaint initially filed."

There was no immediate comment from General Motors.

County Could Tap Lake Huron Water

TWICE RATE

The $1.24 is twice the rate paid by Detroit users but still not high enough to make the city's proposed $79,000,000 system of suburban pipes and pumping stations profitable.

The authority wants to keep Detroit from expanding its services and at the same time hopes to make inroads into the big city's suburban market.

A big question mark is which way Pontiac will go. City Manager Walter K. Willman, predicting that the city will need outside water soon, has maintained a "wait and see" attitude until all the alternative plans are crystallized.

Pontiac would be the biggest single Oakland County user if it decided to use the authority's water.

The committee asked the Bechtel company to study the demand for new water and come up with a realistic estimate of how many customers there will be when the pipeline is completed.

The committee frankly admitted that the pipeline's capacity probably will be over-designed to meet future needs and that initial customers would have to pay higher rates until the 200 million gallon daily flow is reached.

PLAN BONDS

The authority, made up of representatives of the Oakland and Macomb County Boards of Supervisors, plans to finance the project through long-term bonding, at the end of which the pipeline will be owned jointly by the two counties.

The plans presented yesterday were only tentative, but they called for pipeline eight feet in diameter, running from a water intake north of Port Huron to a pumping station east of Auburn Heights.

★ ★ ★

It would flow by gravity from there to Auburn Heights, from where it would be fanned out to Pontiac and other northern communities in both counties, including possibly Mt. Clemens.

★ ★ ★

Revenue Chief Backs Williams

Decries Tax Controversy

PETOSKEY (AP) — Clarence W. Lock, deputy state revenue commissioner, said last night the controversy over Michigan taxes has given the state an undeserved "black eye" before the nation.

★ ★ ★

Thus Lock, whose revenue estimates often differ from those of Gov. Williams, agreed with the governor on the reputation question.

Lock told the local Lions and Kiwanis Clubs that Michigan ranks 32nd among the states in percentage of average per capita income taken for state and local taxes.

"The big argument here is the question of who should pay, individuals or business," he said.

Lock said it is unfair to compare state taxes only because Michigan shares a larger portion of its income with schools and local government units. This is the result of state sales tax diversion.

Calling for a "completely independent" study of business taxation in the state, Lock said:

"We are now spending over 90 million a year on higher education in Michigan, and certainly we have people fully competent to make a fair and unbiased report," he said.

"The present controversy has become embroiled in politics and any study by individuals active in any political party is likely to be influenced by political considerations.

"Similarly, a study group of business leaders would also be influenced because of their own personal interest."

"Same answer. Fifth Amendment," Beck responded.

Dave Jr. snickered at being asked if expense payments of $16,437 in 1956; $15,962 in 1955 and $7,244 in 1954 were reported on his tax returns and Kennedy interjected: "Is that humorous?"

The Teamsters boss' son also refused to answer McClellan's queries on whether he had any interest in the union, in its success, integrity, or reputation.

He did the same when McClellan asked if he cared whether the union's dues-paying members knew what happened to their money or if he should testify about his $12,000 a year salary in 1955 and 1956 and $5,000 in 1954.

TOLD HIS NAME

Sen. Irving Ives (R-NY), wanted to know if Beck would tell the committee his name. The witness replied: "Dave Beck Jr."

"For whom were you named?" Ives asked.

"I refuse to answer on grounds it may incriminate me," Beck replied.

Sen. Sam Ervin (D-NC) challenged this use of the fifth amendment, saying "This witness received his name when he was too small to be guilty of anything criminal and before he could even say 'Fifth Amendment.'"

Young Beck, who like his father is broad in the stomach and balding on the head, launched his Fifth Amendment spree by refusing to state his occupation.

★ ★ ★

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) then demanded to know whether Dave Jr. was engaged in such an occupation that its revelation "might tend to incriminate you."

The union chieftain's son replied: "It might."

Ex-Free Press Writer Dies After Long Illness

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Carlton Seelye Shier, former chief editorial writer for the Detroit Free Press, died yesterday after a long illness. He was 82. Shier started as a reporter on the Free Press in 1900 and retired in 1940.

Survivors include his wife, Maude, three sons, and a daughter.

Larger Fins Unlikely

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—A top official of the Chrysler Corp., E. C. Quinn, said here today he doesn't believe the tail fins on automobiles will get any larger. As an afterthought he added, "I don't see how they can."

The Day in Birmingham

Budget of $1,597,395.40 Adopted by Commission

BIRMINGHAM — A reduction of $28,022 was made when commissioners adopted a budget of $1,597,395.40 last night. This represents an increase of some $60,000 over last year.

Reductions were made in committee sessions by a study of every proposed expenditure. Cuts were put in effect wherever possible, with few items escaping.

In some cases reductions were brought about through curtailment of services. Such an example is the Recreation Board and Library. Sufficient funds have been made available for both to offer a well-rounded program to the community, although not as complete as directors would desire.

The adopted figure will enable the city to continue to operate on its tax rate of $19.60 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

★ ★ ★

Recently elected officers of the Birmingham YMCA include Colonel Leslie Fletcher, chairman; Arthur Blakeslee, first vice chairman; Mrs. John C. L. Owen, second vice chairman; Harold Kalbfleisch, third vice chairman; Elaine Jones, secretary; Delno Ingram and William Gordon, executive committee.

City Commissioners last night questioned the advisability of the Recreation Board's permitting flying model airplanes between 5 and 7 p.m. in all parks.

Several expressed concern on the safety factor pointing out that should a plane get away, it could cause serious injury, especially to small children. They also stressed that at these hours parks are getting their heaviest patronage, due largely to Little League Baseball activities.

Commissioners offered a suggestion to the Recreation Board that flying be permitted only in the cleared area adjacent to the sewage disposal plant on Cranbrook road. There will, however, be no restrictions as to flying times in this location.

Commissioners have approved the bid of Don McCullagh, Inc., Detroit, for the purchase of one police car and one car for the administrative staff. The total bid submitted is $1,608.39 for the two cars.

★ ★ ★

With the city vacating the well site at Derby and Eton roads, City Manager Harold K. Schone was authorized last night to have the property appraised so commissioners might decide on a minimum acceptable bid before placing the property on the open market.

★ ★ ★

In a decision handed down yesterday, Michigan's Supreme Court affirmed denial of damages to Dr. Maurice Richards, Royal Oak Dentist who was hurt in a 1948 bleacher collapse at Birmingham High School.

A jury had awarded Richards $45.000 but the verdict was set aside.

Ask Rules to Curb Retired Officers

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Defense Department has been asked to issue "clear-out regulations" to prevent retired officers from using their Pentagon connections for private business advantage.

The Senate preparedness investigating subcommittee recommended yesterday that Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson issue "master" rules for all three services to put an end to the "confusion" surrounding "conflict of interest" laws.

The panel said 108 former officers of flag rank — brigadier general or rear admiral and above —have obtained security clearance to do business with the Pentagon.

Waterford Gets Over $20,000

Michigan Tax Revenue Ups Treasury Balance to $84,747

The Waterford Township treasury has received more than $20,000 in revenue from state sales taxes, according to a treasurer's report submitted at last night's board meeting.

★ ★ ★

On May 1 there was $63,987.72, and on June 1 the balance totaled $84,747.47 in the treasury.

Mrs. Dorothy Olson, township treasurer, explained that this money for operating expenses must last until another quarterly payment from the state is due in mid-August.

Representatives from the Venice of the Lakes Subdivision were present again to find out what is being done about their depleted water supply system.

They were told by board members that there will be an estimated cost of $5 per lineal foot charged to property owners to hook into the township water main.

This will be a 12-inch main connecting down Cass Lake road from Logenbury to the subdivision.

CONDEMNED BY STATE

The 40-year-old water system was condemned by the state in February, and is now operating on state-loaned equipment.

★ ★ ★

No action was taken on the Sylvan Shores sewer project as rectification of the agreement between the contractor and the township has not been completed.

There is now a balance of $93,101.24 in the Sylvan Shores sewer fund. This is money sent by taxpayers to avoid a 6 per cent interest rate before construction of the sewer.

Dr. John Nez was appointed to be the township's health officer.

Ike Asks for Extra $149 Million

To Probe New Postal Demand

WASHINGTON (INS) — House appropriations leaders promised today they would conduct a prompt and searching inquiry into what one called President Eisenhower's "astounding" demand for an extra 149 million dollars to run the postal service next year.

★ ★ ★

However, both Republicans and Democrats on the committee were reluctant to forecast a repeat of the bitter fight over postal funds the House staged last April.

President Eisenhower, in requesting the extra money yesterday, told Congress he would have to curtail postal service on July 1 unless the money is granted before then.

The House has already provided $3,192,000,000 to run the mail service during the 1958 fiscal year—58 billions less than the administration requested.

★ ★ ★

The President's message asked for restoration of this 58 millions and an additional 92 millions to offset unexpected increases in the amount of mail that will have to be handled this year.

'ASTOUNDING' DEMAND

Appropriations Committee Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) called this demand "astounding" and commented:

"They are proposing an extra 150 million just after giving them their 1958 appropriation and extra money they demanded (for 1957)."

He said the committee would "look into it very carefully."

The top-ranking Republican on the postal subcommittee, Gordon Canfield (R-NJ) said, however, that it "has been clear for a long time that Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield will need more money."

Canfield added to a newsman that "the unexpected volume of mail put Summerfield and the department in a very bad spot."

Postal Appropriations Subcommittee Chairman J. Vaughan Gary (D-Va) accused Summerfield and the White House of trying to "bludgeon" Congress into granting the extra funds.

★ ★ ★

He said the subcommittee, the full committee and Congress should have time to "deliberate" the action.

Executive Made $40,000 Yearly
Quits Job to Study Cello

ANN ARBOR (INS)—A 45-year-old Detroit advertising executive has pulled a switch by quitting his high-paying job to study the cello at the University of Michigan.

And Elvin McLott, now a junior in the school of music, hopes eventually to become a teacher.

FRIENDS SHOCKED

McLott's colleagues at Calvert Lithograpring Co., in Detroit, were dumbfounded when he decided to change careers three years ago.

Some of his associates felt sure he had been "raided" from their ranks by a competitor, one friend even suggested he consult a psychiatrist.

Many of his former business acquaintances still don't know the real reason why he left his job. At the time, McLott personally serviced accounts worth more than $1 million annually for the firm.

McLott's average annual income was $40,000 a year. One year he made $55,000 in salary and commissions.

HONEST CHOICE

McLott, who is a bachelor, explained that his decision to switch careers was an honest choice based largely on personal values. He said:

"Too many of us try to live up or over our income, trying to appear more successful than we really are. I decided not to climb this merry-go-round of success. The point's so basic with me, it's bound to sound trite in print."

With the exception of a few childhood piano lessons, the U-M student never played a musical instrument until four years ago.

LIKED QUARTETS

At that time, as a chamber music devotee, he was impressed by the "unusually high degree of musicianship" displayed by the Stanley Quartet, a university faculty group which plays numerous concerts in Detroit.

He decided he's like to learn to play the cello and discussed the possibilities for getting instruction with Oliver Edel, a quartet member.

McLott enrolled at Michigan in 1954 and became a student of Edel. However, McLott is not the first or even the oldest businessman to switch his career and study cello with Edel. Another began taking lessons from Edel at 69, and, at last report, was "making noises like the best of 'em" in chamber groups and solo performances.

While many of McLott's friends still can't understand why he decided to toss over a successful business career to become a music teacher in his mid-40s, he says he's equally puzzled by many of those who stay on the business treadmill all their lives. He concluded:

"If I had it to do over again, about the only thing I'd do would be to get started on music sooner."

Edward Robinson Jr. Gets 60 Days in Jail

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Edward G. Robinson Jr., 24, son of the actor, has been sentenced to 60 days in jail and placed on three years' probation for misdemeanor drunk driving.

★ ★ ★

His father, who came here from New York to sit beside the son in court, wept. The youth's mother, Mrs. Gladys Robinson, who came from Paris for the occasion and sat apart from them, said, "This is a very sad day." The parents, recently divorced, did not speak.

★ ★ ★

Martin Barth, actor's agent, lost the sight of one eye when young Robinson's sports car, in which he was riding, struck four parked automobiles last June 21.

Eyes Have 'It' in Modern Manhunting

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — In parliamentary procedure, the ayes frequently have it.

Similarly, in the ordinary procedure of snagging a man (commonly called "elementary procedure"), the "eyes" frequently have "it."

"It," as anyone old enough to have poo-poo-pa-dooped can tell you, is a quality of warm gaiety, coupled with allure. In the days of Clara Bow, a girl expressed "it" with her entire body—there was nothing psychological involved.

★ ★ ★

But in 1957, we are intelligent and refined, and the accent is on the eyes. If the eyes have "it," a man allegedly will realize immediately that a girl is understanding, charming, thoughtful, good humored and like as not can play the clavichord.

★ ★ ★

Until this week, there was doubt in our minds about exactly what eye allure consisted of. Girls seemed to be going around trying willy-nilly to express themselves from the retina out—and the result was a hodge-podge of expressions.

Most women who tried too hard to look sympathetically at a man wound up casting out glances that should be reserved for crippled puppies.

PURELY SNEAKY

On the other hand, the ladies who loaded their lids with blue shadow and attempted to look seductive frequently turned out to look purely sneaky. Nobody seemed to be focusing effectively.

★ ★ ★

Then somebody sent in a copy of "Guide to Glamor," a new book on an old theme. And there was the answer to "facial radiance"—which is the 1957 version of "it."

Miss Joyce Jackson, author, says the true clue to charm is "radiant, interested eyes in a very quiet, controlled head."

She warns: Keep your head quiet most of the time, but make your eyes jump with life. When you must move your head, she says, the eyes should move first and the head should follow.

Most people use eyes and head together, thereby diminishing by half the power of their facial expression. Fish move head and eyes together, and that's what people mean by that 'fishy stare'."

★ ★ ★

Another element of eye glamor is involved with the brain. "A trick every screen star learns is to smile with her eyes as well as her lips," writes Miss Jackson.

"Think only pleasant thoughts as you listen to someone speak. THINK a smile. Then smile it all over."

PHONE MIRROR

The author suggests a woman hang a mirror near the phone, and study her face, from the eyes up, while she's conversing with someone worthy of an over-eye smile.

"Practice smiling without closing your eyelids at all—if your eyes persist in shutting partially, hold them open with your fingers for a few times," is the warning. (This may be hard, since you're trying also to hold a phone and a conversation, but bear up. Diligence pays.)

Miss Jackson reminds us also that glamorous eyes can lose their effectiveness altogether if they are flashing away in a droopy head.

To make sure your head is in the correct position to show off the optics, "carry the head so that the lobe of your ear is on a straight vertical line with your shoulder bone . . . balanced equally between the shoulders . . . and aligned on a straight keel with the hips."

★ ★ ★

Too many women, she points out, greet people awkwardly by walking, literally head-on, into conversation. This chin-out look completely detracts from the beauty of the eyes.

And after all, "you're never there until your derriere is there, so why not slow down and wait for it?"

State Park Guide Free to All Motorists

A guide to Michigan's state parks is offered without charge to all Pontiac-area motorists by the Automobile Club of Michigan, Arthur J. Bogue, Pontiac division manager, said today.

The 34-page booklet includes the specific locations of the 61 state parks and recreation areas, plus the state forest camp and picnic grounds, Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority and Wayne County parks.

One change not noted in the booklet, Bogue said, is the new increase of camping fees from 50 to 75 cents a day, and higher daily electricity charges of 25 cents.

Ike to Board New Carrier

High Officials to View Maneuvers From Deck of Saratoga

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and a group of his top aides will observe maneuvers from aboard the new supercarrier Saratoga off the Florida coast next Thursday and Friday.

A White House announcement yesterday said Eisenhower will fly from Washington to Jacksonville, Fla., Thursday and will go aboard the big 60,000-ton ship immediately after his arrival.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said others scheduled to witness the exercises include: Secretary of Defense Wilson; Lewis Strauss, chairan of the Atomic Energy Commission; Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations; Secretary of State Dulles; Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey; Secretary of the Navy Gates; Budget Director Brundage; Defense Mobilizer Gordon Gray; Arthur Larson, director of the U. S. Information Agency; and Army Maj. John Eisenhower, the President's son.

★ ★ ★

Offensive demonstrations are scheduled by the carrier and its aircraft for Thursday afternoon and evening. Hagerty said these exercises will include "simulated delivery of both atomic and conventional weapons."

Nighttime launching will be demonstrated that evening, and on Friday the exercises will include air defense and antisubmarine tactics.

Hagerty said the President was being accompanied by the large party because most were interested in seeing the new-type angle-deck carrier, which permits landings and takeoffs at the same time.

"All of these people wanted to see that," Hagerty said, "and the President invited them to go with him."

Rare Find Unveils Hymns, Anthems by Jacob Kimball

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A former Detroit researcher has uncovered a rare book of 64 previously unknown compositions by a noted U.S. musician of the post-revolutionary period.

The University of California said that Dr. Glenn C. Wilcox, formerly of Detroit, found the 149-year-old manuscript of hymns and anthems by Jacob Kimball Jr. while doing research for his doctorate of philosophy degree in musicology at USC recently.

Wilcox, 30, is an assistant director of admissions at USC.

The university said the volume was located in a vault at Essex Institute, Salem, Mass. It said librarians there had no idea where they had obtained it.

Kimball, who lived at Topsfield, Mass., had dated the book May 26, 1808 at Malden, Mass.

Japanese to Rebuild Wake Island Memorial

TOKYO (AP)—A new war memorial honoring Japanese soldiers killed on Wake Island during World War II will be erected this summer on the tiny American atoll midway between Guam and Hawaii.

Some 50 relatives of Japanese soldiers who died on the island decided to replace the crumbling monument with a new one of concrete.

Firm Has No Star, Producer, Studio

Movie Company Stockholders Meet

By JOSEPH OPPENHEIMER
INS Financial Editor

NEW YORK (INS) — It's a motion picture company without a single star under contract, without a director or producer on its roster, that has never produced a picture itself and doesn't even have a studio.

That's the unique financial story of United Artists Corp. which holds its first public stockholder meeting in New York Tuesday.

Until about two months ago UA was a closely held firm owned by a small group of its executives. In April 350,000 shares of common stock were offered at $20 a share and rapidly snapped up by investors noting the movie concern's gross of $64,700,000 and profits of $3,106,497 last year.

UA was founded in 1919 by Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charlie Chaplin — the leading stars and producers of the silent screen era — who were tired of making top grossing pictures for companies which took the lion's share of profits.

For a quarter century UA was successful as a distributor of films made by independent producers. But after World War II hard times came.

NO FINANCING

The increasing inroads of television and lack of adequate financing brought independent movie-making practically to a stand-still.

Two aggressive young lawyers, Arthur B. Krim and Robert S. Benjamin stepped in at that time.

They were able to persuade the top stars, writers, producers and directors in Hollywood to review their position as employers. It was apparent federal income taxes were taking such large chunks of their salaries that they began to wonder.

GO IT ALONE

Then, just as the original founders, a large group decided to go it alone.

Krim and Benjamin streamlined their company's operations to meet the situation and supplied financing for those in whom they had confidence.

UA became one of the movie industry's top money makers and its position is improving. For the first 19 weeks of the year, Krim says the gross passed $20,700,000, nearly $2,875,000 more than in the same period a year earlier.

Why Not Hire Leonard for Impartial Survey?

Police Chief Herbert W. Straley and the Police Officers' Association have cast enough brick bats to arouse the curiosity and interest of the general public.

What gives?

What are the facts?

★ ★ ★

In the interests of peace and harmony, the charges and counter charges should be honestly aired, evaluated and a decision reached. A public spirited citizen of long-standing has just phoned The Press and suggested that Donald Leonard be engaged by the City to conduct an investigation.

This seems sensible.

★ ★ ★

It happens that Leonard is currently engaged in that precise type of work and probably arrangements could easily be made. In fact, it is understood that he just completed an investigation of this type in a middle western city.

★ ★ ★

Why shouldn't Pontiac discuss the matter with him, find out when he is available, what his charges would be and consider engaging him to look into the local situation? Perhaps there's nothing more than a smoke screen that needs to be brushed aside. Perhaps there are some irregularities. An impartial survey would settle the matter either way.

★ ★ ★

Both sides should welcome the investigation.

Congratulations to Arthur Pound

Seldom has this paper published a series of articles that brought forth more favorable comment than those by Arthur Pound on Pontiac's history.

★ ★ ★

They cleared up some controversial matters and threw a corrected light on others. Their authenticity is unquestioned. He was there.

A member of a family that was among our city's principal foundation lawyers, and endowed with the writing ability that has won him many national honors, we are fortunate to have a native son who knows so well our city's background. He went through much of it himself.

For instance, take the matter of the underground railway of slavery days. There was hardly a prominent old residence in Pontiac that endured after the Civil War that overambitious amateur historians have not pointed out as having been the depot.

But Art Pound now tells how it was done, and has the records to substantiate what he says.

★ ★ ★

Other items in local history that have been brutally kicked around in past records, either for selfish motives or through ignorance, are put in their true light.

★ ★ ★

Now a resident of Ann Arbor, Mr. Pound has gone far in his chosen literary work and otherwise, and has brought honor to his native city which he loves so well that he opened his series on Pontiac with the statement that he was born in Paradise.

Here's Another Pontiac First

There's a distinct Pontiac touch to the recent action of the Michigan Legislature in putting our state out of the farming business.

In fact, the movement was pioneered here.

For nearly a half century Pontiac State Hospital had what was quite generally considered to be the finest herd of Holstein cattle in the nation. Its blue ribbons would fill a room. It became the expert cattlemen's ideal.

But it was found that increasing costs made them unprofitable.

★ ★ ★

This was true, not only from a labor standpoint, but also the value reached on the land on which they foraged, or their winter's feed was raised. The prizes won would not offset the inevitable liability.

Pontiac's remarkable growth and expansion boosted the value of that land many fold, and took it out of the farming classification.

Accordingly, much of this land was sold by the state, and now is built upon by private enterprise, or platted for an assured business future.

So, a few years ago the herd was dispersed at the largest auction of its kind ever held here. It was a stellar event in Holstein history.

A commendable feature of this action was that members of the herd went to all parts of Michigan and to many other states, to form the foundation for other herds, some of which already have gained national prominence.

★ ★ ★

Some other state institutions, including the Lapeer State Home, have continued the raising of cattle, but all of them at a loss.

But that now is to cease. The Lapeer herd of some 200 Holsteins will soon be sold at auction, which winds up such projects in our state.

So, here is recorded the outcome of something else that had its start in Pontiac.

Wilson to Speak

Secretary of Defense Talks at Kingswood

Mercury: A slippery element that's noticed only in extremes of temperature—when it gets too slippery.

Over the weekend I bumped into my old friend,

C. E. Wilson,

Secretary of Defense, and learned that he is making two speeches this week. One is in Boston and the other is right here in Oakland County.

He will make the commencement address at Kingswood School Cranbrook on Saturday.

I asked him about cutting the defense budget, and he shrugged his shoulders and said:

Just Don't Forget the Grain of Salt

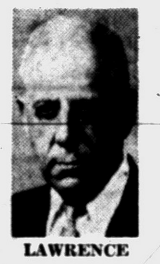
Red Boss Parrots Same Old Line

WASHINGTON — As commanding general for the Communists in the "Cold War," which reaches around the globe, Nikita Khrushchev has suffered a defeat of his own making.



LAWRENCE

By his television address, he has retarded rather than forwarded the cause of world peace. For, within the last few weeks, it had been believed in official Washington that the Soviet government was really serious about disarmament and had stopped playing propaganda tunes in an earnest effort to reach some kind of initial agreement.

But the Sunday speech by the Communist leader has restored suspicion and distrust, if indeed they had been entirely dissolved.

To offer, for instance, as Khrushchev did, to withdraw Soviet troops from East Germany, Poland and Hungary, on condition that the United States move its forces out of Europe altogether, is to deal frivolously with a major problem in world affairs.

COMMUNIST MIND

Indeed, for a Soviet dictator to assume that the American people or their government would be so naive as to consider such a proposal is to reveal the shortcomings of the Communist mind itself. It knows so little about world affairs and the simple rules of military protection which free peoples have a right to apply in their own interest.

For if the United States withdrew its forces from Europe, the free countries would be vulnerable to sudden attack. The United States in two world wars has had to send its armies across the Atlantic Ocean to rescue Europe, but there wouldn't be time to do this in a third world war.

What Khrushchev wishes the American people to ignore is the importance of the strategically placed air bases overseas which the United States now can use and which are vital to the defense of free Europe.

What the Communist dictator is proposing is not merely that American ground forces be withdrawn to this continent, but that all overseas bases manned now by American planes—and soon to be equipped with guided missiles containing atomic warheads—should be given up.

Meanwhile, the big bombing planes of the Soviet Union can reach every one of the free countries of Europe—all of which combined are not themselves strong enough to face the Communist forces and would be at the mercy of the Kremlin.

What Khrushchev is suggesting is a form of voluntary surrender by the west. Everyone knows, too, that the populace of the western countries fear attack and that, if there were no defense available with the aid of America, infiltration into all countries by the Communist sympathizers would be made easier.

The next war will have to be fought quickly, and retaliatory action will have to be taken instantly. There will be no time for America to negotiate for the use of overseas bases or to send planes and equipment across the ocean. That's the reason why the Senate of the United States broke precedent a few years ago and ratified overwhelmingly the North Atlantic Treaty.

This treaty says explicitly that an attack on any one of the 15 member countries is to be considered the same as an attack on the United States itself. It calls for immediate war—even without a resolution by Congress.

Now the spokesman for the Kremlin wants America to give up this strategic advantage—this deterrent force—in exchange for a paper withdrawal of Soviet troops from East Germany, Hungary and Poland.

"I had more fun before I learned to read."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Shuns Buckwheat Cakes but Eats Up Trick Cures

What this Elmira lady says may reassure a thousand other wives who have been wondering:

DR. BRADY

"My son and I like yeast-raised buckwheat pancakes, made with home-churned buttermilk and served with sausage or headcheese for Sunday breakfast." (with plenty of pure maple syrup from Pennsylvania or Vermont, I hope.)

"My husband insists that such food is 'impure' and not fit for human consumption. He tries every new 'cure' for arthritis—takes it for a week, perhaps; and if it doesn't cure him, out it goes! In the past month he has bought no less than seven such cures.

"At 46, I'm healthy and able to do a full day's work. At 52, he is ready for the corner rocking-chair. Son and I like to hike, fish and camp out. My husband hates all such 'foolishness.' Can you tell me why?" (Signed) Mrs. —.

In the first place, the breakfast you describe is fine for anybody who gets a reasonable amount of exercise daily as you and your son do. A reasonable amount would be any general activity equivalent to walking three to six miles daily.

It is dangerous to tell the truth in print, but I'd say the behavior you describe is irrational. Your husband should consult a psychiatrist, preferably together with his wife, or at any rate with his wife standing by to join the conference if the doctor so proposes.

I base my long-distance opinion rather on the man's fussing about what his wife and son like to eat. If he can have what he likes for breakfast, his fussing is just plain insanity.

Yankee wiseacres, being exploited by trick specialists and clinic racketeers for "arthritis," seem content to drift along towards permanent disability while waiting for someone to discover a medicine, diet, or something that will prove curative.

USUALLY MISNAMED

Might as well wait for a magic cure for thinnning of the hair, wrinkling of the skin, and hardening of the arteries. What the medical merchants and their gullible customers call "arthritis" is usually not joint inflammation at all, but physical degeneration of joint tissues due to lifelong nutritional deficiency.

If your joints are giving you more and more trouble as the months and years pass, it will do you no harm, at any rate, to read Volumette XII of the Pocket Cyclopedia of Health, titled Chronic Joint Disability, for a copy of which send 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Or if that's too steep, just send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for the pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatiz. (You had better spell it my way, and without patronizing quotes.)

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Tells Way to Promote Marriage

Listen to Hank's confession. Then watch my psychological prescription at work. For love can be developed. It is a matter of practicing the right habits and thus compares with piano playing. So watch the follow-up case tomorrow.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-302: Hank T., aged 37, is the bachelor described yesterday.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane, I often think I ought to get married," he confessed somewhat apologetically, "but I can never make up my mind.

"Besides, I feel obligated to my widowed mother. She looks after me, hand and foot.

CRANE

"I have met several fine girls and have even debated proposing to a couple of them. But just when I am about ready to pop the question, I always think to myself: 'Hank, better sleep on the matter and see how you feel tomorrow.'

"And by the next day, my enthusiasm has cooled a lot, so I put it off again.

"Intellectually, I admit I ought to be married. And I'd like to have some children. But emotionally I just can't make the plunge.

★ ★ ★

"So I have finally decided to consult you for advice. And if you can push me into a happy marriage, I'll be forever grateful. What do you advise?"

Marriage is a broadening educational experience and thus an essential part of our growth while in this cosmic classroom called Earth.

So I don't hesitate to push a man into marriage any more than I would hesitate to urge a young fellow to go on further with his schooling.

But I am sympathetic for a girl who would marry a chronic bachelor like Hank. So I carefully picked a young widow, aged 29, who had lost her husband in a jet plane crash.

★ ★ ★

This girl, named Nancy, was a school teacher. She sang in the choir. She was mature and quite understanding. So I felt she would be able to adjust to a bachelor if any girl ever could.

But I asked her opinion first and outlined what she was facing, for in science we believe in viewing all the facts.

She agreed to date Hank and see if they would develop a romantic regard for each other.

And Hank solemnly vowed to follow my explicit suggestions. So they attended a concert; then a movie, etc.

Hank escorted her to church where he became absorbed in the social life of her young married people's Sunday school class.

"Dr. Crane, I like the folks there," Hank admitted, "but I feel out of place in being a bachelor," he later admitted.

★ ★ ★

"Well, keep on acting the role you expect to follow, for you will finally begin to react like a normal, emotionally mature adult," I said.

What many college men still don't realize is the simple fact that you must act normal if you wish to feel normal.

PROOF OF THE PUDDING

Nancy later admitted to me that she was growing fond of Hank and that he was really a wonderful man.

And Hank conceded that she was the most attractive girl he had ever dated.

"But I'm not in love with her," he cautioned me. "And I don't feel in a marrying mood."

"I'm not asking you to marry her," I replied, "but keep on with your heavy dating schedule and see what happens, for love can be developed out of casual acquaintance.

★ ★ ★

"All you need to do is go through the proper motions, including pretty speeches and the sincere compliments you should pay your companion. So give yourself another three months; then report back to me."

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane, in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

Here's a New Suggestion for Dealing With Presley

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

My wife and I are both Christians, young parents of a fine little girl. We've been reading Voice of the People about rock 'n' roll and people who think Elvis Presley is a fine influence on teenagers. This rock 'n' roll junk is for the devil and his angels, not for us and many others who believe in the Bible, in whose homes God's name is praised, not taken in vain.

We don't dislike Elvis and the others, we just feel sorry for them and their up-bringing. He and others have a soul. Let us pray for him. What would happen if he turned to Christ and gave his all?

G.O.C. Member Given Answer

The Ground Observer Corps is backed by the Air Force, the U.S. Government and the state government. Why then isn't our City Manager trying his best to back us? There have been several meetings to which Willman has been invited. Why does he send his right-hand man instead of assuming some of his own responsibilities? If our country knows the G.O.C. is necessary and worthwhile, why can't we get some results?

(Editor's Note: The City Manager is invited to more meetings daily than he can possibly attend. The fact that he sends a representative to the meetings is sufficient evidence of his interest and support.)

Dumped Puppy Still Waiting

About a week ago someone apparently dropped off a little dog on Adams road. In case the person or persons who did this cowardly thing are being bothered by their conscience, the dog is being fed and has a warm place to sleep, but he still watches the road all day long, waiting for that certain car to come back for him.

We already have five cats and dogs, so we can't keep him indefinitely. He's a very nice, appreciative, well mannered little dog—all white except a reddish tan face. If someone would like him, please phone OL 6-2607.

Readers Differ on Tornadoes

An editorial in The Press says we don't have any more tornadoes than we did in years gone by. How can you believe that when you look at the current record in Oklahoma, Texas and that general region? They never had that many in the past.

R.M.F.

★ ★ ★

Doesn't it ever occur to people that many of the areas that are being hit by tornadoes are new housing developments? Many of them weren't even in existence more than a few years ago. If a tornado had struck in the same place 20 years ago, no one would have known it because no one would have been there to see it. Empty fields that may have been hit year after year are now filled with new homes, so naturally there's more commotion about it now. I've lived in Michigan all my life and all during my childhood my mother told me how to recognize a tornado and what to do in case I saw one, so there must have been a few even that long ago. And besides, who cares? Not much we can do about it, anyway.

Madison Student Defends School

I've been reading Voice of the People, and there was an article about Madison Junior High which I think is bothering the students. I'm a student there, and I've heard kids say they don't like what people are saying. It's a swell school and we like it. It's not a waste of money, because taxpayers demand a good place to teach their children. It also doesn't have leaks in the roof. I am very proud to be a student of such a wonderful school and I'm sure others are, too.

'Rescue' Surprises Ex-Oregonian

In The Press editorial on that great American, Wayne Morse, and his dirty attack on President Eisenhower in saying the President and Dave Beck were a lot alike, you forgot one thing. The Senator that came to Morse's "rescue" was Michigan's McNamara.

I knew McNamara was slumping steadily but I didn't think he had skidded down as far as that.

Your Future Depends on Our Colleges

Today our country needs college-educated men and women as never before. Disciplined minds are our greatest asset in an increasingly complex and challenging world.

Every American has a vital stake in our colleges and universities. These institutions are striving valiantly to meet their increasing obligations to our society, but they are seriously handicapped by lack of funds.

More money is needed to expand facilities, to bring faculty salaries up to an adequate standard, and to provide a sound education for the increasing millions of young people who want and deserve it.

To protect your own future, and the future of your children, help the colleges and universities of your choice. The returns will be greater than you think.

The Bald Boy — Chapter 2

Balding Elmer Joins Hair Tonic Anonymous

By ELMER WHEELER

My pride began to hurt me as fast as my hair left me.

After all, being fat is often a sign of affluence. Fat comes from just plain overeating, and you need money to eat.

But loss of hair. That's a sign of neglect, deterioration, or just plain hard luck.

People began to notice me noticing my receding hair, and they'd come up with cracks so familiar to future bald boys.

I conditioned myself to such remarks. I could laugh them off, but when another baldy put me into his class with a "Hi, Baldy," then I blushed clear up to my remaining hair.

After all, I wasn't bald, was I? Yet?

* * *

I'd show them. I had whipped calories, I'd whip falling hair.

I started my campaign the usual way of future Bald Boys, with hair tonics.

That's the first and simplest start of balding boys.

I'd saunter into the drug store and if no one was looking, I'd pick up a bottle off the shelf and read the label, especially the guarantee.

Then if no customers were around, I'd tell the druggist my brother was losing his hair, and what did he suggest. The druggist knew I knew he didn't believe me, but being a salesman he proceeded to show me a few bottles.

"This one has alcohol in it," he'd tell me, "and it will kill things. This one has sulphur in it. This one has in it, well, you read that word. That's in it."

* * *

On and on he'd go each time I came in, always with less hair than the time before. I became his best under-the-counter customer. I had his bottles running out of my medicine cabinet, and over my hat band, not to mention the wife's favorite chairs.

The "Lost Weekend" had nothing on Elmer's bottles.

I'd become a tonic addict.

I'd rub the stuff on each morning. I gave myself a 230-second hair rub. On Saturdays, I did the same thing at noon. On Sundays the wife prohibited the stuff until after church services.

"I had bottles running all over the place."

I'd often smell the wife right out of the house. Once even my hairy sheep dog sniffed twice, looked at me through the mop of hair over his eyes, then moved out into the yard.

"You smell like a Barber's College," my wife would snap at me, as she opened a window even on real cold days.

* * *

When I told the druggist about this, he showed me new brands just on the market. "No kerosene in them," he said. "In fact, 10 minutes after you use one, you won't smell no more."

So, as with noontime Vodka drinkers, I found I could use the stuff and no one would be the wiser. It wouldn't take their breath away.

At least I had accomplished one thing. Tonic camouflage.

One day I started on the hair salves. Some friend of a Bald Boy friend had said he found something they used in Germany years ago for mange, and it was now on the American market for males. Guaranteed, too.

I tried it. The maid threatened to quit after trying to wash the stuff off the pillows of my bed. That ended the great German experiment fast.

* * *

I read about a new one from Japan. It had a record of curing some 99 Mongolians out of 110. Well, that's just what the news service reported, and as with all pre-baldies, I grasped the faintest hopes.

Time went on. So did my hair loss.

My dreams were to again have a Robert Taylor widow's peak. But if I kept on, I'd have a widow. My wife was a good shot.

Seeing hair show up in that horrible comb each day (and I swear it laughed at me incessantly) drove me nuts. The comb became a phobia.

I'd pretend not to notice the hairs it gleefully tugged out at each use.

I'd look the other way, but my eyes always cheated on me and I'd see the few hundred more brown hairs hanging in the teeth of the malicious comb.

What is worse, I got to counting the hairs.

Self-Service Parking Urged for City Centers

DETROIT (AP)—Self-service parking lots are one way downtown business sections can compete with suburban shopping centers, the National Parking Assn. convention was told today.

George A. Devlin of Detroit, representing National Garages, Inc., said, "Drivers like to park and lock their own cars and this type of parking can be provided without any sacrifice of downtown real estate values."

He added, "Self-service parking offers the best hope of keeping the downtown section truly competitive with the suburban center."

Livery Stable Played Big Role in Early Times

(Continuing an account of early days in Pontiac, reprinted from the current issue of the University of Michigan Alumnus Quarterly.)

By ARTHUR POUND

Among other vanished characters who were numerous in my youth but have now disappeared were those whose existence depended upon the horse—coachmen, stablemen, hostlers, livery stable keepers, a friendly and discreet fraternity who never told tales on any male, old or young, drunk or sober, staying home or gallivanting around in a livery rig on dark nights.

That corner livery stable meant trade, transportation, courtship. A drummer would come to Pontiac, hire a rig and spend a week visiting country-store customers throughout the county.

When you saw boy and girl driving out to visit the folks back on the farm, you knew that matters had reached a certain stage.

But the livery stable was also a menace to public health as a central fly-breeder and typhoid center. During my observing years what miracles have been wrought in public health!

In that long old Paddock house where I was born, all my sisters and two of my brothers had typhoid fever before it occurred to anyone that the latrine was a mite too close to the kitchen.

The Clinton River was then an open sewer, yet corn was hulled and processed at Legal Tender Dam just below town for sale from open wagons bearing open crocks through dusty streets. Pontiac had then no hospital; there were two hospitals in Detroit, one in Grand Rrapids, one in Ann Arbor, and that was all in the whole state of Michigan—just four.

Hospitals had a bad reputation as places from which few escaped alive.

Main Street had a cobblestone pavement whose unevenness precluded thorough cleaning, and like most city thoroughfares it carried heavy traffic in spite of muss, noise, and jolting. From that turmoil the automobile rescued us in its own way.

My old friend, Charles B. King, who was the first man in Detroit to build and drive a self-propelled vehicle, wrote a paragraph for the first issue of Horseless Age, 1896, declaring that the horseless carriage should be encouraged because it would reduce congestion on city streets crowded with drays and all manner of slow-moving vehicles.

At this moment, I am unable to testify that congestion has been entirely conquered, but, at least for a while after the automobile arrived, the streets were indeed less crowded and to this day they are certainly less filthy.

Now I am convinced that full relief from urban street congestion waits upon some further revolutionary improvement in personal transportation, perhaps personalized air transport, as recently discussed in one of our newspapers.

That development would astonish me no more than some I have seen, such as the rise and fall of the streetcar, the invention and advance of commercial aviation, the splitting and regimenting of the atom, and the emergence of this region from rural calm into the most highly industrialized area in the world. I have heard Detroit and its surroundings so described recently by no less an authority than John Worley, late Professor of Transportation at the University of Michigan.

Berlin Airlift Continues and Bonn Must Foot Bill

BERLIN (INS) — The Berlin blockade ended nearly nine years ago, but there is still an airlift operating. And the Russians are still to blame.

This airlift works in reverse. Berlin products which the Russians won't allow through East Germany by land to the west are shipped by air at the expense of the Bonn government.

Every day for the past six years three or more freight planes have taken off carrying Berlin exports. Without this service Berlin's hard-pressed businessmen and work-hungry laborers, striving to maintain a prosperous economy in an isolated city, would be severely handicapped.

Some products are automatically flown out. Radio, telephone and radar equipment made for the West German police or NATO would never get across Soviet controlled territory by land.

The other goods are airfreighted only when the Soviets fail to issue a warrant for land transport within a period of three or four weeks.

The heavy cost of flying the goods out is borne by the Bonn government. The producer pays the normal truck or rail rate, but the balance of the bill is picked up by the government. For instance, a plane-load of 8.5 tons of freight costs $548 to send to Hanover. By land, it would cost only $83, which the shipper pays. The rest of the $548 Bonn pays.

The airlift budget for this fiscal year is $1.3 million. The first year of the airlift, 1951-52, was paid for by the U.S. but since then West Germany has financed it all.

One reason for the high expenses is that the planes have to return empty to Berlin. All the freight is carried by two British charter companies.

The bulk of the airfreight carried out of Berlin is electrical equipment and supplies, particularly drums of copper cable, which the Communists are particularly anxious to have. Rubber, metals and machinery are other important air exports.

There is little rhyme or reason in what the Russians allow out by land. At the peak of the little airlift in 1955, 3,300 tons were being flown out of Berlin monthly.

Now there is less trouble. In April 110 flights flew out a total of 931 tons of Berlin products.

There's no need to pay a "fancy price" to enjoy fine-car luxury. Ford is lowest priced of the low-price three, yet offers values you'd expect only in cars costing far more!*

To start with, you can easily pay twice the money, and not find lines that can hold a candle to Ford's for lowness, loveliness, or just plain good taste.

But step inside. That's when you'll find the real evidence of Ford's quality!

And, on the way in, note that Ford offers door checks that hold doors open in either of two positions—for easy entrance or exit. A little thing. But, in a fine car, why not? Then, inside, notice how comfortable those plush, foam-rubber seats are. They'll stay that way. And on long trips. For they're scientifically contoured over non-sag springs. Your rear-seat passengers are treated extra kindly, too—with spring assists to help them open and close the doors—with the most leg room in Ford's field!

Ford delivers its famous V-8 power smooth as a whisper. That's because only Ford takes the pains to electronically balance each engine while running under its own power. Not even the makers of the most costly cars go this far to bring you super-smooth performance!

Ford rides fine-car smooth and quiet, too. You can thank the new "Inner Ford" for that. Ford, for instance, has a swept-back front suspension that actually "rolls with the punch" of every road bump.

Ford's rear springs automatically adjust to give the right ride for every road. And Ford keeps things quiet, with the most sound insulation in its field.

Fine cars are built to stay solid. So's Ford!

Ford has the only frame in its field to make use of rugged tubular steel beams. No car at the price offers so many roof-strengthening beams. Expensive cars aren't built of thicker body steel or with sounder engineering skill. Then, of course, in Ford you can have all the power assists and other conveniences usually found in fine cars. And they cost far less in Ford. Yes sir! In every feature, every part, Ford—and only Ford—is the fine car at half the fine-car price. Come in and see for yourself!

That during the reign of the first Queen Elizabeth, glass windows were so valuable they were treated as family heirlooms, and a man would sometimes specify in his will which relatives were to get his.

That Chicago means "Wild Onion place" in the Paiute Indian language. Funny, Chicago is one city that always left us breathless.

That Americans own 8 out of 10 autos in the world. We've got the cars, the other nations have the parking places!

That pin-up girls originated not in modern Hollywood but in ancient China. The emperors picked their boudoir buddy for the evening from paintings of courtesans hung on their palace walls.

That some of the strongest men in the history of mankind have been between 5 feet 8 and 5 feet 10 inches tall.

That Owen K. Murphy, president of the Niagara Therapy Corp., has set other industries an unusual philanthropic example. More than 75 handicapped children are treated at his Meadville, Pa., clinic each week. Each of his 1,000 dealers or salesmen has been given the challenge of providing one kid a free summer vacation in the firm's "Operation Holiday."

That some physicians are now using tranquilizers, or "happy pills," to treat male and female sex disorders that may have their cause in tension.

Protest British Tests

TOKYO (AP)—About 100 Japanese marched back and forth in front of the British Embassy today, singing "peace" songs and carrying placards protesting the British nuclear weapon tests in the Christmas Island area.

Bob Considine Says:

Edison Would Have Liked New AF Planes

NEW YORK (INS) — Charles Edison, former governor of New Jersey and secretary of the navy, was interested in the pictures showing a new type Air Force plane that takes off and lands vertically.

★ ★ ★

"My father would have approved," he said of the immortal tinkerer. "He used to say that the trouble with the airplane was that it was only half-invented. And he'd usually add something to the effect that anything that needed to roll a mile on the ground before it began its normal function just wasn't right yet."

★ ★ ★

At Luchow's the other day, Mayor Wagner, toasting owner Jan Mitchell, said it hardly seemed possible that the famous 14th Street restaurant was celebrating its 75th birthday.

★ ★ ★

One guest at the anniversary luncheon saw nothing especially strange about this. He's been dining there for all 75 years of its existence. Spry, sparkling, 86 year old Harry Nathan, New York financier, celebrated the joint anniversary — as well as the anniversary of the joint — by having a dry sherry before he dipped into his sauerbraten with potato pancake and red cabbage.

"Came here first with my father," Nathan said. "I remember it was before a performance at the Irving Place Theatre across the street, then known as the Deutsches Schauspiel Haus. It starred Rudolph Schildkraut, long before Joseph was born. Father would also bring me in here before we'd go to Tony Pastor's or the Union Square Playhouse."

★ ★ ★

Nathan met Mayor Wagner's father, the late senator, at Luchow's long before the mayor was born. He dined there, too, with De Wolf Hopper, Harrigan and Hart, Marlow and Southern, David Belasco, Ziegfeld, Victor Herbert and all the others whose shades inhabit the old place. He estimated that there are about two dozen New Yorkers around today, and still eating, who dined at Luchow's in 1882, when it was founded by August Luchow.

★ ★ ★

The only Israeli night club in the U. S. has opened in New York. It's the Cafe Sahbra, run by a wispy little guy named Leo Fuld, whose entire family was killed in Auschewitz. Fuld, a song and jokes man who used to write for topic comics when he couldn't find work himself, caught on in Israel in 1949, was attraced by its talent, vowed he'd someday import it.

Sahbra (which means native-born) has a pantomimist named Shaik, a Yemenite singer named Osnah, two Israeli dancers named Dalia and Galia who were trained by Martha Graham, and a quartet which sings calypso routines in Hebrew.

Fuld says calypso is a corruption of laments carried into Africa by Sem or Chem, sons of Noah, and spread centuries later by slaves taken to the Caribbean.

★ ★ ★

(The Russians will be sore to hear of this prior calypso claim. They're just about to invent it.)

Bob Thomas says:

Cuts Weight 179 Pounds, Now She'll Appear on TV

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I think maybe God made it happen this way so I'll be able to help others."

This is how Lorraine Bendix explains her willingness to talk about how she dropped 179 pounds. The daughter of actor William Bendix, she weighed almost 300 pounds a year ago. Today she is a svelte 118.

★ ★ ★

Lorraine was always a fat girl. "It was due to hyper-tension and high blood pressure," she explained. "I didn't eat big meals—I never ate breakfast at all. But I was always consuming starches and sweets. I'd eat around the clock.

★ ★ ★

"All the diets and doctors couldn't do me any good. So I just ate and got fatter. My girlhood was filled with frustration. I couldn't enjoy clothes or do the things most girls do."

She grew up and married Dick Munro, NBC film editor, and they had a daughter, now 7. But Lorraine continued eating and gaining weight.

"It was just a year ago Mother's Day that I made the decision," she commented. "I was 297 pounds, which is a lot of weight for a girl who is 5 feet 2½ inches. My blood pressure was getting so high that the doctors gave me two months to live.

★ ★ ★

"They advocated a new kind of treatment—surgery that cause the food to bypass the digestive process. I figured my life was at stake, so I underwent the operation."

★ ★ ★

A week ago, she left the hospital after another operation to restore her digestive track to normal. At 118 pounds, her blood pressure and physical condition is as it should be, she reported.

★ ★ ★

Now 27, Lorraine intends to pursue an acting career. She is rehearsing for a local stage production of "Bell, Book and Candle." And in the fall, she'll become a regular on the Bendix "Life of Riley" show, enacting her father's niece.

Ike Would Seize Red Radio-TV Offer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) said today that if Russia should grant radio-television time to an American spokesman, President Eisenhower should seize the opportunity to speak to the people of Russia.

★ ★ ★

Administration officials appeared cool however to any idea of asking for Russian radio-TV facilities to match those accorded Soviet boss Nikita Khrushchev in a filmed interview on a nationwide U. S. radio-TV hookup Sunday.

State Department officials said no decision had been reached on asking for equal Russian air time, which several Congress members have suggested be done.

★ ★ ★

Hays, a senior member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, expressed doubt that any Russian air time would be given to the United States. But if it were, he continued, "it would be important enough for the President to present the American point of view."

Japanese Ace Killed

HAMAMATSU, Japan (AP) — Maj. Teruhiko Kobayashi, 37, Japanese pilot credited with downing 12 American bombers and four fighters in World War II, died today in a jet crash near Hamamatsu.

Among the 12 B29s he downed were two which he rammed with his own plane. He parachuted to safety.

U.S. Joins Unit of Baghdad Pact

Alliance Is Step Short of Full Membership in 5-Nation Group

By SAMUEL JOHNSON

KARACHI (AP) — The United States today joined the Military Committee of the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact.

The action was only a step short of full membership in the five-nation alliance. The United States already is a member of the pact's Economic and Counter Subversion committees.

★ ★ ★

The invitation to join the military group was presented formally soon after the pact Ministerial Council opened its third meeting to plan economic and military steps to bolster defense against communism in the strategic Middle East.

"I am authorized by my government to accept this invitation," said U. S. Dep. Undersecretary of State Loy Henderson, head of the delegation of American Observers attending the council meeting.

★ ★ ★

The Military Committee someday may develop into a joint military command along the lines of the NATO joint command. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, the Air Force chief of staff, heads the American military delegation to the current meeting.

★ ★ ★

The pact's full members are Britain, Pakistan, Iran, Turkey and Iraq. The United States was one of the prime launchers of the alliance along the Soviet Union's southern border but itself stayed out in an effort to keep from alienating Arab opponents of the pact.

★ ★ ★

The council at its current meeting is expected to emphasize economic cooperation within the alliance, particularly in development of telecommunications, air, road and rail. The united States has pledged 12½ million dollars for pact projects and Britain two million pounds ($5,600,000).

Court Orders Elsa Maxwell to Pay Farouk

PARIS (AP) — Elsa Maxwell was ordered by a Paris court today to pay damages of 300,000 francs to Egypt's ex-King Farouk, who claimed he had been libeled by Miss Maxwell in her memoirs. In addition Miss Maxwell was fined 50,000 francs.

In U. S. money it all comes out to about $875 for the damages and $142 for the fine. Farouk had demanded five million francs.

Neither Miss Maxwell nor Farouk were present in the court. She appeared last month when the case came up for hearing.

The translator and two French publishers of the book "I Married the World" were also fined 50,000 francs each.

★ ★ ★

The passage which caused Farouk to sue quoted a telegram Miss Maxwell said she sent the former monarch in which she declined an invitation because she did not associate with "clowns, monkeys or corrupt gangsters." The court ordered the passage removed from the book.

Farouk sued only in France, although the book was also published in the United States and Britain.

Moves out in a single sweep of motion

Chevy's come up with the newest, sweetest, smoothest automatic drive—Turboglide. It's the first and only triple-turbine transmission!

Turboglide is something really new and different in automatic drives. In the first place, there's only one forward-speed position on the control. There's no "Low" needed.

Turboglide handles everything with the oil-smooth action of triple turbines. You travel from a standstill to top cruising speeds with never a lurch or lag to mar your motion.

When you see a steep downhill stretch ahead, you set the selector at "GR" (Grade Retarder) and Turboglide helps slow you down.

Hospital care — 43¢ a day

...thank goodness times have changed!

No wonder going to the hospital was considered a last resort in great-grandfather's time. Hospitals had little to offer. Even at 43¢ a day, hospital care was no bargain.

Yes, thank goodness, times have changed ...

Medical care makes such great strides so quickly today, that we take for granted the near-miracles our doctors perform every day. In surgery ... delicate, life-saving operations that are considered routine today were not thought possible even ten years ago. Amazing new wonder drugs help us recover quicker ... make our hospital stay safer ... get us back home sooner.

Naturally the cost of hospital care is higher today than ever before. But isn't the cost of living worth it?

And isn't it comforting to know that as a member of Blue Cross you and your loved ones will have these necessarily higher basic hospital costs paid for you automatically ... whenever you need hospital care? And with the companion plan, Blue Shield, you have help in paying for the finest medical care in the world today.

Will-O-Way Launches 17th Season

Opening its 17th season with a benefit performance for the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, Will-O-Way Playhouse was filled to capacity Monday evening. The play was "Mrs. McThing" by Mary Chase. Miss Chase is also the author of "Harvey" and "Bernadine."

★ ★ ★

Practically all the actors are veterans of the Will-O-Way stage; most of them have appeared on the straw-hat circuit for several seasons. Even the two youngsters in the cast, Billy and Marcee Merrill, have been acting for years. In "Mrs. McThing" they carry heavy roles.

The leading feminine role is taken by Lillian Hicks. Playgoers will be interested to note that during the winter Miss Hicks is the Detroit manager of the Theater Guild.

Most of the laughs in the play come from the antics of the three mobsters, played by Joe Van, Paul Caplan and Robert Bryson. As a nightly change from his disc jockey career on WKMH, Joe Van plays the gang leader (who's afraid of his mother).

★ ★ ★

Paul Caplan, who will be remembered for his 1956 role as Uncle Louie in "The Happy Time," is the jittery mobster who wants to push old ladies under streetcars. The usually suave Robert Bryson appears with dark jowls and in mismatched clothing as Dirty Joe.

Pure fantasy, the play deals with a witch (Mrs. McThing) who replaces with sticks people who have displeased her.

Because the witch's daughter, Mimi, is thwarted in her desire to "play with the boy," Mrs. Howard V. Larue III and her son, Howay, have an amusing and instructive experience in Shantyland Pool Hall Lunchroom. They both emerge wiser and more pleasant people.

"Mrs. McThing" will be presented nightly at 8:40 through June 16 at the playhouse on West Long Lake road. "Desk Set" will open on June 18. William W. Merrill is the director.

The engagement of their daughter, Patricia Ann Yeiser of Garland avenue, to David H. Manigold of Clarkston is announced by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Yeiser of Owensboro, Ky. David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Manigold of Harrison. The couple plans an Aug. 3 wedding in Owensboro.

Virginia Veregge was her only attendant. She wore a princess-style dress of cotton silk and carried pink tearoses in a colonial arrangement. John Horner of Norfolk attended the bridegroom.

For the ceremony, Mrs. Harrison wore a navy dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Wright also chose a navy dress with navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

No Need to Lose Pretty Figure

Care Preserves Woman's Curves

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many women start out at maturity with a pretty bustline but lose it by the time they are in their 30s or 40s. There are many reasons for this.

★ ★ ★

This happens to women who nurse their children unless they take care to avoid it. The pregnant woman should wear brassieres designed especially for this time, bras that are built to support the extra weight which is natural during this nine months.

Many expectant mothers fail to do this and have thus given their bustlines one strike against beauty even before their child arrives.

Naturally this is even more important during the nursing period. You should also lie down whenever you nurse your baby. Unless there is some special reason otherwise, weaning should be done very gradually.

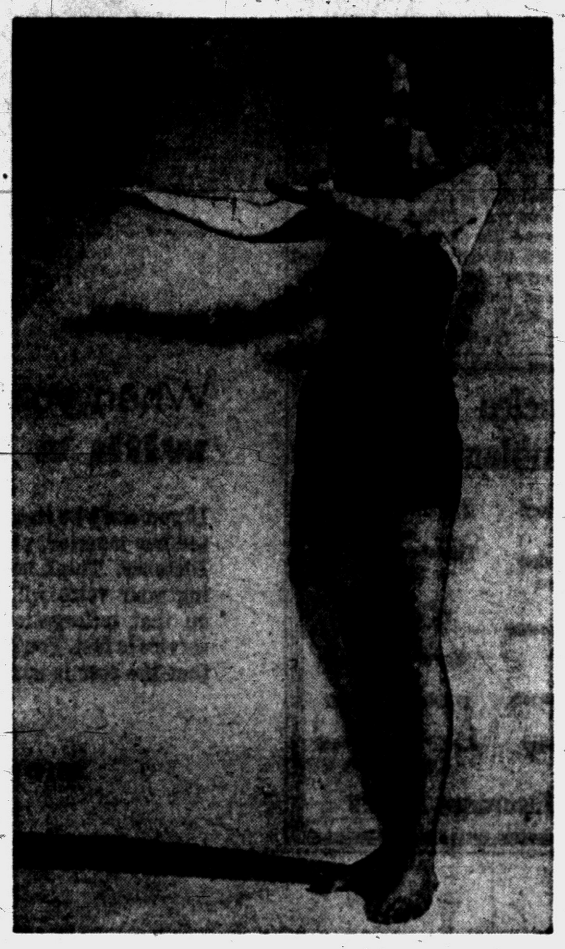
★ ★ ★

Many women who do not have children find that their bosoms are becoming less attractive as the years pass. This is often due to wearing improperly fitted brassieres. The bra should support, not squeeze or flatten. Many of those garments which squeeze the bust into a too-small, pointed shape break down the tissues.

REGULAR EXERCISE

General health and hygienic habits increase the tone of the whole physique. A well-fed body which is exercised regularly is not nearly so likely to become flabby even as one grows older.

Many women are unhappy because of an extremely large bust. Often these women are overweight. When they lose, the bust is one of the first places in which the loss shows. The bust may still be out of proportion but it will be smaller.



Here is an exercise which is effective in enhancing the bustline. From this position swing the arms down and back. Continue.

There is one exercise I have used in my classes which was effective in many instances. Here it is: Stand tall. Raise the arms forward, shoulder height and shoulder width apart, palms toward the ceiling. Swing the arms down and back.

This, too, is effective: Stand tall. Make large circles with the arms, crossing them in front of the body and pulling back as the arms move upward. Continue making large, smooth, complete circles. The pull-back is important.

★ ★ ★

Some women have such a large bust that it is truly a burden. The weight of the bust is actually tiring to carry about and the brassiere straps cut into the shoulders. There are brassieres made especially for this condition and these are helpful. Plastic surgery is the only answer to this extreme condition.

★ ★ ★

If you would like to increase your bust measurement, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7 "Don't Have Round Shoulders and Flat Bust — Reverse!" Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Chill Dough Until Rolls Are Wanted

Mrs. Scharf Makes Sweet Nut Treats From This Recipe

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Hot rolls for dinner tonight and pecan rolls for breakfast some morning soon. Both these are possible with the same batch of ice box dough, according to Mrs. Robert Scharf, today's cook.

Mrs. Scharf, who lives at Lake Angelus, has four grandsons whose visits she enjoys. She belongs to an Extension group, works with the blood bank and is an Eastern Star member. She likes to weave and to sew.

ICE BOX ROLLS
By Mrs. Robert Scharf

1 cake yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup fresh cooked mashed potato
1 cup milk
2 eggs
6 cups sifted flour

Scald milk, add shortening, sugar, salt and mashed potatoes. Cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in lukewarm water (use water in which potatoes were cooked). Add to first mixture. Mix thoroughly and add well-beaten eggs.

Stir in flour to make a stiff dough. Knead in rest of flour. Let dough rise in a greased bowl about 1 hour. Shape as desired, bake 15-20 minutes in 375-degree oven. To keep dough, cover with a damp cloth and refrigerate.

To make pecan rolls from chilled dough, roll out half of the above recipe on a floured board. Spread with melted butter, cinnamon and brown sugar. Roll up like a jelly roll and slice in one-inch slices.

In an iron skillet place 1 cup brown sugar and 3 tablespoons butter or margarine. Cook over low heat until butter and sugar melt. Add nuts.

Place slices of dough cut-side down over mixture in pan. Let rise two hours. Bake in 375-degree over 20-30 minutes or until rolls are browned. Invert at once and let hot syrup run down over rolls.

Wise to Examine Towel Borders for Shrinkage

LANSING (INS)—Examine the borders of both white and colored towels to avoid choosing ones that will shrink, advise home specialists at Michigan State University.

They say: "Often, corded or embroidered borders draw when laundered. Such a towel will not hang straight on the rack."

To avoid this, home experts advise that women check the tension on the yarns in the border. If the tension seems to be the same as that in the main part of the towel, chances are it will not shrink when washed.

They've Caught On

Enlightened school officials realize what wise mothers have known for generations — that a spotless, sun-bright, and alluring school building can set an example in cleanliness which has an impact on children, and even on the entire community.

Wanda Jean Hay Wed in Columbus

Announcement is made of the May 4 marriage of Wanda Jean Hay to Merritt Eugene Langston. The afternoon ceremony was performed at Holy Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church in Columbus, Ohio.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Burbage Hay of South Jessie street are parents of the bride, and Merritt is the son of M. A. Langston of Peoria, Ill., and the late Mrs. Langston. The newlyweds are making their home in Columbus.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Will Beeson is telling the story. His home has been the Box P ranch in Easter Valley in frontier Colorado ever since Joe and Sarah Pardee took him in, a homeless, hungry kid, seven years back. Will, having the deepest affection for the Pardees, was distressed by the bitterness between Joe and his wife Sarah, who has lived in a wheel chair since an accident.

One morning Will rode with Joe Pardee and Gene Dillingham, another of Joe's cowhands, to meet Al Beam, who had challenged Pardee's domination of Easter Valley. When Joe cornered Beam, he was the loser in the duel. Dillingham killed Beam in a rage of grief. Dying of his wounds, Joe told Beeson: "Take care of Kathy Morgan," referring to a young woman who had attracted Joe's interest.

Sarah, taking charge of the ranch, names Beeson as foreman. This makes him an enemy, for Gene Dillingham has expected to get the job. Going further, Sarah gives Beeson 49% ownership of the Box P, to make him eligible to be a member and assert authority in the Easter Valley Cattlemen's association. Joe Pardee had been its president. The new president, Alec Dodson, is not the fighter for the ranchers' rights that Joe was. Will wants to maintain Joe Pardee's ironfisted policy of keeping the valley free of homesteaders, but Sarah opposes violence. "to protect grass we don't own." When two newcomers, John Mathers and Al Romig, come to Box P to inquire about land in the valley, her new ranch partner's hostility to them angers Sarah. Will's own anger is greater when, later, he learns from Kathy Morgan that Mathers and Romig are preparing to bring a colony of fifty families to live in the valley, aided by Merle Turner, an Easter Valley man. . . .

Chapter 8

Merle Turner had left the valley not long after I had first come here, and I remembered him well: a small man with a disproportionately large head, red-veined eyes, and eyeteeth so long and sharp they reminded you of a boar's tusks.

I remembered something else, too. Turner and Dillingham had been good friends. Now I wondered whether they would resume their friendship if Turner came back to the valley. It would certainly add to my troubles. Turner had no use for me. I remembered why, too, for it was not a thing I'd forget.

★ ★ ★

At the time Turner had been working for Dodson, but he got into a fight with a man who rode for Irv Costello's Skull outfit. Merle Turner killed the cowboy, and Joe Pardee decided it was Turner's fault, so Dodson fired him. I had the bad luck to run into Merle that afternoon in Carlton. He picked a fight with me, but I licked him. Before he left the country, he threatened Dodson and Joe and me. Maybe that was why he'd signed up with Mathers. He couldn't hurt Joe, but he could get at Sarah and the Box P, and Dodson and I were still here.

"How did Mathers get hold of him?" I asked Kathy.

"I don't know," she answered, "but I did hear Mathers say that he'd heard about Easter Valley from Turner."

"I can guess. I knew Turner pretty well when he was here. He's the kind who nurses a grudge and never forgets. It's taken him all this time to find a way to get even. Because he didn't know Joe was dead, he probably thought there'd be a fight, and with fifty or more men on his side he could get even with all of you."

★ ★ ★

"That's right," she said. "You'd better catch up with Mathers before he gets any farther. Kill him if you have to."

I went out through the back door and crossed the yard to the shed. I untied my horse and stepped up. Five minutes later I was headed down the creek toward Alton's Trading Post, the wheel tracks of Mathers' rig plain to read in the snow.

While I rode, anger grew in me as I thought about what would happen if Mathers brought fifty families to Easter Valley.

I reined up and looked back. Far across the flat the Sangre de Cristo range was a notched wall dividing our basin from the San Luis Valley on the other side. South beyond the forks of Easter Creek, the land ran on and on until it was swallowed by a horizon made hazy by dust. It was arid country which held the King ranch and several others. As Curly King often said, no one who lived there needed to worry about having to fight for his land. Any man who sought a place to live would not invade that range.

The good land was all at this end of the valley. The Box P formed a big part of it. I was sick with the thought of losing it, because it was the only home I could remember with any sense of belonging. I would not give it up. No matter who got hurt or how much blood was shed, I would not give it up.

By the time I caught up with Mathers and Romig just below Alton's I was ready to kill them on the slightest excuse.

I crowded my horse against the rig, my gun in my hand, calling, "Pull up!"

★ ★ ★

Mathers stopped at the edge of the road and looked at me. If he saw my agitation, he hid it well. He simply sat unmoving, the lines gripped in his gloved hands, a buffalo robe over his and Romig's lap. Romig was scared.

I nodded at Mathers as I holstered my gun. "I just heard you intend to fetch a bunch of colonists to the valley — about fifty of them, if the yarn I heard was right."

"It's right," Mathers said. "I'm president of the society. Romig is the treasurer. We were sent out as a committee to select a settlement site."

"Why didn't you tell us last night what your intentions were?"

"I told Mrs. Pardee. I saw no reason to tell you."

"I'm half-owner of the Box P and I'm the foreman. That ought to be reason enough."

Mathers shook his head. "You're not in sympathy with what we're trying to do. Mrs. Pardee is. I talked frankly to her, and she gave me some splendid advice. As far as the Box P is concerned, you have nothing to fear."

"The devil we haven't," I said. "You throw fifty families into the valley, and you'll be pushing up the East Fork right into our meadowland and winter range."

Mathers shook his head. "I gave my word to Mrs. Pardee." He leaned forward, gray eyes searching my face. "Beeson, I want no trouble with you or anyone. Believe me. But if there is trouble, we'll handle it. We know the law, and I assure you we will do nothing that isn't legal."

"I tapped the butt of my gun. "The law stops at Alton's Trading Post, Mathers. If you go ahead with this, we'll put men at the head of the canyon and shoot the first man and team that comes through it."

"And hang for it."

"Maybe, but that won't help you if you're driving the first wagon. Listen, Mathers. This isn't the place for you. It's cattle country. You'll starve if you try to farm it. It's too high and the growing season's too short. Your crops won't mature."

Mathers shook his head again. "It won't do, Beeson. You and Dodson and the rest are occupying land that belongs to the American people. Thousands of acres for cows and a handful of people when it should be the other way around. Beeson, Mrs. Pardee says you're an intelligent and reasonable man, but you're neither intelligent nor reasonable as long as you keep trying to impersonate Joe Pardee. You can't go on being led by the dead hand of the past."

"Joe's death doesn't make any difference," I shot back. "We'll fight for what's ours. I've ridden a long ways to warn you." I jerked a hand downriver. "Stay out of Easter Valley."

"I haven't said all I want to say," Mathers said. "I suppose you've never lived in a city. It's bad. Bad for kids. Bad for your health, working long hours and barely making enough to live. That's why we organized the society. We'll bring happiness and peace of mind and health to people who now see no purpose in living."

"You're good with words, Mathers," I said, "but you're only a dreamer, and it takes more'n dreams to keep fifty families alive. And another thing: Don't believe a word Merle Turner tells you. He's got his own ax to grind, and don't you forget it."

He studied me for a moment, then said sadly: "It happens that I trust Merle Turner. I can see you're not going to be reasonable, Beeson. If you aren't, we'll fight. Some of us will die and so will you, and for nothing. There are too many of us and too few of you, and we'll win. I have always believed that the Lord is on the side of the right. If He is, then He certainly is on our side because we are not satisfied, as you are, to leave life as it is today. We're looking toward tomorrow, a great tomorrow designed for the welfare of people, not of cows. Good day, sir."

New Day for Handicapped Students

By HAROLD S. COHEN

A new day has dawned in Oakland County for thousands of handicapped youngsters who, but a few years ago, were without hope that they could ever acquire the education and special training that would enable them to live useful adult lives.

In the summer of 1954, Oakland residents took a decisive step toward answering the need of these children by voting a one-half mill tax to support a countywide special education program.

In the scarcely three years that have elapsed, special education has shown a phenomenal advance whether considered in terms of pupils served, facilities and teachers available, or money spent.

It is a far cry from the hodgepodge situation that existed before 1954. At that time each school district decided what it could do for its own handicapped youngsters and the state contributed a part of the cost as its finances permitted.

★ ★ ★

But when the county program began, under the direction of Dr. Paul Thams, things began to hum.

MAKES RECOMMENDATIONS

As it is now constituted, under powers granted in Act 18 of the 1954 Legislature, the Special Education Division of the County Board of Education recommends to each school district, through the Association of County School Superintendents, what facilities it should offer.

The district, in turn, enters into a contract with the County Board of Education under which the county pays the costs of the facilities and the district agrees to take handicapped children from outside its own boundaries.

A few statistics show the story of progress.

Before the program began, there were 56 special education teachers in the county and 3,470 pupils. Today there are some 200 teachers and more than 8,000 students.

The number of special classrooms has jumped to 122 from the 24 that existed in 1954, while the total funds spent from all sources is nearly $2 million today compated with $333,157 in that year.

Of the nearly $2 million, a little over half comes from the special county tax and the balance from the state. With an adequate program available, the state contribution is up from $179,066 in 1954 to an estimated $835,548 this year.

The local school districts' share of the costs which totaled $154,091 in 1954 is today zero.

NO SIMPLE TASK

The job of serving the 10 per cent of the school children who are handicapped in some way is no simple one. For psychological and educational reasons, Dr. Thams explained, the program was started at the elementary level.

Now, as the youngsters in it grow up, the same facilities must be offered them at the junior high and senior high levels.

Further, he added, the school population is constantly growing, which means more handicapped children each year.

Not all districts are large enough in population to make special education rooms and teachers feasible, Dr. Thams noted. So the county retains a staff of 20 who visit these areas regularly and serve their teachers, three for the mentally handicapped, two for deaf and hard of hearing, two for the blind and those with poor vision, five for the homebound, and two speech correctionists.

PSYCHOLOGISTS ON STAFF

In addition, three staff psychologists examine children referred from school districts, chiefly to determine which are mentally handicapped.

In-service training is given special education teachers who have temporary certificates, and staff members also teach extension courses for the state's universities.

"We think we have a program second to none in the nation," Dr. Thams said, "and the residents of Oakland County should be congratulated for making it possible."

'SAY THUMB' — A county speech correctionist asks his group to say "thumb" as he explains the right way to make the "th" sound, which many find difficult. The correctionists, supplied by the Oakland County Board of Education, serve school districts too small to afford their own.

FINDING THE LEVEL—A hearing consultant at the Oakland County Board of Education tests a young girl to determine her degree of hearing loss. By June, almost all deaf and hard-of-hearing children in the county requiring service will have it available.

Deluged States Face Crop Ruin

Most Areas in Texas, Oklahoma Hit Hard by Steady Rainfall

By ROBERT E. FORD

DALLAS (AP)—Thousands of Texas and Oklahoma farmers, praying for rain six weeks ago, today faced the prospect of another ruined crop because it's too wet.

It isn't true everywhere in the two states. The situation changes almost from day to day as torrential downpours fall first one place and then another.

★ ★ ★

Many farmers, particularly in the north Texas wheat belt, are looking forward to some of the best crops ever grown—if they can get into their fields to harvest before the plants fall on the ground, or in time to spray before insects and disease eat them.

★ ★ ★

Floods are a different—and disastrous—matter. In many cases, crops have been a total loss.

The Texas Defense and Disaster Office and the Extension Service have hard figures for agricultural flood losses — $27,289,000. They reported 1,567,755 acres of farm and pasture land damaged.

This does not include "wet weather" losses other than floods.

In far West Texas, more moisture is needed. In much of the Panhandle and South Plains, rains have been just about right. In central Texas, around Waco, where some of the worst early flooding occurred, harvest is going smoothly. The same is true in portions of the Gulf Coast area.

In the Wichita Falls section, where a bumper small grain crop harvest already is under way, farmers are harvesting as rapidly as possible before more high winds, hail and deluges beat the plants into the ground.

U.S. Constructs Giant Airstrip on Midway Isle

MIDWAY ISLAND (AP)—A 10,000-foot runway—long enough for any plane now in existence or even conceived—is being built as part of a 37-million-dollar project on Midway, where 15 years ago today the Japanese navy suffered its first defeat in modern history.

★ ★ ★

Early in June 1942, Japanese Adm. Isoroku Yamamoto, commander of the Imperial Combined Fleet, tried to take Midway. He hoped to use the island, now only six flying hours from Honolulu, to launch bomber attacks on Pearl Harbor.

He was soundly defeated. Had he won, the Pacific war might have taken a different course.

Today, 1,100 construction workers, mostly from Hawaii, are virtually remaking the island. When facilities are completed next year, they will be used by the Navy's Super Constellations in the Distant Early Warning group in the Pacific. This is an extension of the "Dew Line" running through northern Canada and Alaska.

Lakes Shoreline Survey to Begin

National Park Service Seeking Major Areas for Recreation

LANSING — The National Park Service has announced it will soon begin a survey of Great Lakes shorelines to identify major undeveloped areas especially suitable for recreation and to make plans for their preservation, development, and use.

Industry is showing increased interest in further exploration of the submerged lands of the Great Lakes for mineral resources. An active gas producing area is located in Lake Erie off southwestern Ontario, where 34 wells have been drilled on one field without a failure.

These relatively cheap wells are expected to produce gas for a minimum of 15 years. They cost between $15,000 and $20,000 apiece to drill in about 1200 feet of water.

Potential oil and gas fields also are thought to exist under the American part of Lake Erie. Salt mines exist offshore from Cleveland, and metallic minerals may lie under the waters bordering Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

The Great Lakes Commission was established with headquarters at The University of Michigan in 1955 following approval of the Great Lakes Basin Compact by Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, and Pennsylvania. It is empowered to make investigations and recommendations on Great Lakes problems. Each member state has three votes on the Commission.

Roads More Crowded Than Ever

Stay Alive on Auto Trip

FROM THE INSTITUTE FOR SAFER LIVING

An estimated 16 million drivers will be taking their families on vacation motor trips this summer. This means that about five in every six families who take any kind of 1957 vacation will be traveling by automobile.

Unfortunately, this also means that more touriests are going to get hurt in auto accidents than ever before. Because auto travel is destined to reach a new peak in number of drivers and mileage covered, there is only one way to beat the inevitable law of averages. Every family should take all possible safety precautions before the trip is started, and while away from home.

According to the Institute for Safer Living of a large insurance company which has made a study, these are some of the principal reasons why vacationing motorists get into trouble:

1. Traveling in overloaded vehicles. 2. Trying to cover too much territory in too short a time. 3. Driving too long without rest stops. 4. Sightseeing and scenery gazing while the car is in motion. 5. Unfamiliarity with speed and other traffic regulations which vary from state to state. 6. Unfamiliarity with local hazardous driving conditions, such as construction, detours.

Some of the most important safety preparations, as well as much of the enjoyment of the trip can be assured before starting.

CHECK LIST

Have you obtained reliable and up-to-date highway maps so that you can familiarize yourself with types of roads, route numbers, and possible alternates; also, recommended accommodation lists so that you will not have to leave overnight stops to chance?

Have you had the car thoroughly checked to make sure that likelihood of mechanical trouble will not develop enroute? Are the tires safe for traveling at sustained speeds, and good for the entire trip?

Have you checked your tool kit and car accessories? Be sure to include a first aid kit and flashlight. Don't forget such requisites as sunburn and poison ivy lotions if outdoor activities are planned?

Have you planned to take only essential clothing and other items needed for the trip? Take garments that will serve a two-fold purpose wherever possible. An overloaded car can easily become an unsafe car, and adds greatly to the discomfort of traveling.

Have you arranged to leave the family pets at home? They will not share your enthusiasm for travel, and produce many troublesome complications enroute.

Have you figured the approximate mileage to be driven each day so that plenty of time is allowed for leisurely driving and unexpected stops for rest and features of interest?

SAFE START

Do all of these things, and you are at least off to a safe start, says the Institute. Now, both safety and enjoyment depend on how well you actually cover those miles. Here are some further hints for getting you there and back safely: Always travel in keeping with prevailing traffic and weather conditions. On throughways, your principal purpose will be to make time. Traffic is fast and smooth, and driving at higher speeds requires complete alertness.

Avoid deadly "highway hypnosis" by frequent rest stops, but never stop on a throughway unless you pull completely off the road into prescribed areas. Anticipate your stops in time to slow down gradually with proper signals to following traffic. Do not follow other cars too closely at higher speeds. Allow one car length for each 10 M.P.H. of speed that your speedometer is registering.

Travel at moderate and steady speeds on secondary roads. This is safer and less tiresome than intermittent speeding up and slowing down. Remember when traveling over unfamiliar roads that you do not know what lies ahead, over the next hill or around the next bend. Keep to the right and always expect the unexpected. Never risk passing when the view is obstructed.

Watch those speed limits, traffic signs and signals. You can get into trouble disobeying them.

Many tourists like to travel at night when there is less traffic. However, it should be kept in mind that other hazards increase with darkness. Slow down. Stay awake and alert. Make sure that windshield and headlights are clean. Use the low beam when approaching oncoming vehicles.

Helpless Officers Can't Suppress Chorus of Frogs

WASHINGTON — The frogs' concert series in Washington began dramatically each spring.

"Twonk twonk," chorused the little amphibians.

Patrolmen found the frogs making a racket, indeed. But there was not much they could do about it, though some families in the neighborhood were losing sleep.

Across the country the same playlet takes place, usually without police in the cast. The frogs herald spring, bringing both pleasure and pain to their human audience.

LOVE, CARELESS LOVE

Not that frogs care. Their music is intended for lady frogs. Each species has a distinctive call, which attracts only the females of the same species.

★ ★ ★

Frogs make a racket without opening their mouths, the National Geographic Society says. Air from the lungs is forced back and forth over the vocal cords, producing the noise. Some calls resemble the sounds of quacking ducks, barking dogs, bleating goats, whooping Indians, or a regiment of men beating tin pans.

To gain volume, the frog has an air pouch under its chin. The pouch acts as a resonator. In some species it swells to half the size of the entire head and body of the frog.

FINDING THE LEVEL—A hearing consultant at the Oakland County Board of Education tests a young girl to determine her degree of hearing loss. By June, almost all deaf and hard-of-hearing children in the county requiring service will have it available.

Pontiac to Observe 'Recreation Month'

Pontiac will join with the rest of the nation this month in the observace of "National Recreation Month."

David R. Ewalt, director of the city Parks and Recreation Dept., said the proclamation by the National Recreation Assn. comes at a time when city recreation activities are in high gear.

He mentioned the city's seven parks which opened May 1, the June 24 kickoff of the Frog Hollow Day Camp for boys and girls 7 through 13, and the annual opening of community playgrounds for kids June 17.

Also on this day, there will be an official dedication of Jaycee Park located at the corner of Walton and Joselyn. Part of the ceremones will center around a new program of junior baseball at the park.

RECEIVE CITATION

This Thursday the Optimist Club will receive a citation from the department for "outstanding contributions toward the recreation movement" during the past 13 years.

The club, along with the Rotary Club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will receive recognition for their sponsorship of parks in Pontiac.

Pontiac school children this week will receive pamphlets from the department explaining the numerous facilities of the department available during the summer months.

"Our recreational facilities compare favorably with the best in the county," Ewalt said.

Miners' President Gets Law Degree

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — John L. Lewis stood, solemn and expressionless, as the red hood of a doctor of laws was draped around his neck by President Irvin Stewart of West Virginia University.

★ ★ ★

But a wide smile broke his normally stony features as he returned to his seat, and later he shook hands cordially with a line of well-wishers— many of them coal miners.

★ ★ ★

For the 77-year-old president of the United Mine Workers, yesterday's ceremony represented his first degree of any kind. Lewis quit school as a boy of 14 to go to work in the coal mines and he never got beyond the seventh grade.

Graham Tells Clergy to Talk About Sex

NEW YORK (AP)—Preachers need to do more talking about sex to help curb a rise in immorality that threatens the life of the nation, Billy Graham said last night.

"The Bible talks about it plainly," Graham told a crowd of 17,000 at Madison Square Garden. "Ministers need to preach about it. We've been too silent about it."

Graham fired some straightforward comments on the subject, declaring that a current danger to America—greater than communism—is the corruption of sexual standards.

He said pornographic literature, improper dress, idleness of youth, and even educational trends have given impetus to sexual license and crimes.

★ ★ ★

"I don't think America will ever be destroyed by communism," he said. "If it is to be destroyed, it will be destroyed by moral deterioration from within."

Sexual immorality, he said, "has destroyed more nations than any other single sin."

The evangelist, on the 20th night of his New York crusade, said increased leisure time spent in "idleness, luxury, entertainment and amusement leads to immorality."

"I tell you," he said, his fist slamming on the pulpit, "it will ruin this nation unless we find something constructive to do with our leisure time."

Mutual desires of male and female, Graham said, "are God-given," and he added that "there is absolutely nothing wrong with sex. It is neither moral nor immoral—it is amoral."

But he added: "It is the wrong use of sex that the Bible condemns. . . ."

The sponsors of Graham's meetings, the New York Crusade Executive Committee, decided yesterday to extend the drive beyond its scheduled June 30 termination at least until July 21.

Vic Lindquist, Pontiac High School's genial tennis coach, is stepping out of the coaching ranks and into an administrative position with the school system next season.

For five years Lindquist guided a nomad tennis team which played wherever facilities could be had in the city because not a single court could be found anywhere on school property.

He leaves, however, happy to learn that tennis courts will be made available to the present high school and also for the new school.

"Trying to coach any team without giving it a playing facility is pretty tough. It's like having a football team without a football field, or a basketball team without a basketball court," commented Lindquist.

Of course we are not trying to imply that this is why Vic was quitting the coaching job. He's happy to be moving up, but he hopes his successor will have some "home courts" on which to play.

CITY COURTS FAR FROM GOOD

According to a recent national survey, tennis as a sport, had a gain of 65 per cent in the past ten years. This is third in growth behind archery and bowling, yet tennis oldtimers around Pontiac are disgusted with the decline locally.

★ ★ ★

Just as example, the municipal tennis tournament last year drew a field of eight. The doubles had to be canceled for lack of entries.

Ask the better players around the city the reason for the poor turnout and they start with the same answer, "the facilities are terrible."

Just for curiosity's sake we took a jaunt through Oakland Park over the Memorial Day holiday. All the courts with nets were filled, those without nets were being used for batting practice.

It was easy to see why those who play the game, and not just play at it, gripe about the condition of the courts.

The guide lines are the cracks in the concrete. The backcourt with dirt on both sides makes the risk for a broken leg easy. A baseline shot most often goes through and under the fence into the park, and right in the midst of a serve a bicycle rider comes racing down the courts and through the gateless gates.

Stranahan's 139 Tops Open Qualifiers

PLAYOFF SURVIVOR — Husky Gene Woodard, amateur golfer from St. Clair Shores, completes his tee shot at Oakland Hills' 1st hole as he, Harold Brink and Rudy Horvath begin a sudden-death playoff to decide Michigan's two remaining qualifiers for the National Open tournament. Woodard and Brink survived.

By BILL CORNWELL

Winner of almost every amateur tournament before turning pro three years ago, the Toledo belter nailed down medalist honors Monday in the Michigan section of the U. S. Open qualifying trials at Oakland Hills and Franklin Hills.

Stranahan, who will be 35 years old in August, cut loose with a scorching five-under-par 139 over the 36-hole route to snatch the hero's mantle from Wally Burkemo, Franklin Hills pro who was medalist last year.

As it turned out, Burkemo had to settle for 2nd best with his two-under-par 142. Meadowbrook's long-hitting Chick Harbert, the midway leader, wound up 3rd with 143, one under regulation.

"I always play good golf up here," Stranahan said. Then he added, "If I could play all of my tournaments on courses in this area, I'd be all set."

The muscular, 175-pound Ohioan maintained a tradition with his sub-par golf. He started competing in the Open tourney in 1946 and has never missed one since. And this time the Open will be held at Toledo's Inverness Club, Frank's home course.

Stranahan carved out a two-under-par 70 at Franklin Hills, then toured Oakland's trap-infested layout in 69 strokes, three under the regulation 72.

Nine other golfers, including four amateurs, also made the grade yesterday and they will join Stranahan, Burkemo and Harbert in Toledo June 13-15.

Professionals Bob Gajda, Joe Zakarian, Lou Powers, Bill Nary and Reggie Myles Jr., along with amateurs Chuck Kocsis, Bob Babbish, Harold Brink and Gene Woodard complete the list of qualifiers.

Brink and Woodard gained their berths after a sudden-death playoff with Canadian Rudy Horvath. The three men finished the 36-hole distance with 147 apiece, forcing them to play Oakland's 1st hole for a decision.

Harbert appeared destined for medalist honors until Burkemo changed the script. Chick carded a blistering 68 at Franklin Hills, the best 18-hole effort of the day, but slipped to a 75 at Oakland.

The popular Harbert had sand-trap trouble at Oakland, which was nothing unusual for many others, and he occasionally teed off with a No. 3 wood on the back nine in an effort to avoid fairway bunkers.

Kocsis, the mechanical man who was runner-up in last year's National Amateur; Gajda of Forest Lake and Zakarian from Detroit came next, each with 145. Powers and Babbish, both from Detroit; Nary, the Wayne vagabond, and Myles all tied at 146.

A stray 2nd shot helped lower Horvath into the role of 1st alternate in the sudden-death playoff with Woodard and Brink.

Woodard reached the green in regulation and putted twice for his par four. Brink's 2nd shot was off the back of the green while Horvath's approach iron pulled to the left. The Windsor pro made a neat recovery but still needed two putts to get down while Brink chipped within two feet and holed out to win the 12th position.

Max Evans of Rochester Golf and Country Club fired a 74-74—148 to claim the 2nd alternate spot. Remaining alternates are Tom Draper, Herman Lang, Horton Smith, Charles Smith, Ben Lula and Eldon Briggs.

Oakland's long, arduous layout proved the most difficult for the huge field, although Stranahan and Myles, who carded 71 at Oakland and 75 on the Franklin course, were notable exceptions to the rule.

Gene Bone of Pontiac and Babbish posted the best 9-hole rounds, Bone getting a 32 on the back nine at Oakland and Babbish matching that figure on Franklin's back nine. Bone had many other troubles, however, and ended with 153. Lloyd Syron, also of Pontiac, shot 79-77—156.

Indianwood's Mike Dietz, figured to be a strong contender for a qualifying place, had a miserable day, shooting 73-81—154. Some other Oakland County pros also encountered bad luck and finished out of the running.

Brewer Leads Country in Qualifying Rounds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gay Brewer Jr., and Dow Finsterwald, two fine young golf players, furnished the contrast that marked the sectional qualifying rounds for the 1957 U.S. Open championship as one of the toughest golf competitions on record.

★ ★ ★

Only 162 golfers, out of an original entry list of 1,920 will be able to start in the championship at Toledo's Inverness Club, June 13-15. Of these 19 were exempt from yesterday's sectional tests. The rest—including a lot of veterans who had enjoyed exemption up to last year—had to win their places in a rugged 36-hole test.

★ ★ ★

Brewer, 25, a sophomore pro, and Finsterwald, a steady winner who took down nearly $30,000 in prize money, both made it, but the latter came within two breath-taking putts of failing for the second straight year.

They played on the same course at Cincinnati. Brewer, who has earned only about $2,000 in tournaments this year, led the whole nation in scoring with rounds of 67-66—133.

Such startling contrasts marked the play in 24 districts throughout the nation. Players like Sam Snead, Jimmy Demaret, Lloyd Mangrum and Gene Sarazen, who ordinarily wouldn't have to qualify, came through comfortably but unspectacularly. The youngsters and the comparative unknowns furnished most of the fireworks.

★ ★ ★

A stroke behind Brewer at Cincinnati was Pat Schwab of Dayton, who put together rounds of 65-69—134, with an eight on the par four 35th hole. Canada's Gerry Kesselring, who could win only $25 last winter on the U.S. tour, shot 64-70—134 at Buffalo.

★ ★ ★

Lew Worsham, one of three former champions who qualified, shot a nifty 138. Lloyd Mangrum made it with 144 and ancient Gene Sarazen with 146. But Tony Manero, Sam Parks and Byron Nelson failed. Nelson didn't even finish the 36 holes.

★ ★ ★

Five champions, led by defender Cary Middlecoff, were exempt, of course. Others were Hogan, Jack Fleck, Julius Boros and Ed Furgol. Also on the exempt list are two-time amateur champion Harvie Ward; Jackie Burke, the PGA titleholder, and Peter Thomson, three-time winner of the British Open.

Supplied by Tigers, Yanks

Traded Players Sparking Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP) — When the Kansas City Athletics and the New York Yankees worked out another in a series of player trades this year they set off much wailing and gnashing of teeth in other American League quarters.

★ ★ ★

But the vast improvement shown by this year's Athletics over the please - tread - on - me team which finished last season in the cellar can be traced in large measure to the Detroit Tigers.

Not that the ex-Yanks haven't done their bit. For example, Bob Cerv is leading the team's hitters with a gaudy .379 average. However, the 1956 Athletics' biggest weakness was pitching, and Detroit supplied the men who are the nucleus of a good, if not spectacular, 1957 staff.

The A's No. 1 starting pitcher is Ned Garver and their No. 1 relief man is Virgil Trucks, the hottest fireman in the league. Both men were traded to the Athletics by Detroit, which figured Garver wouldn't recover from sore arm and Trucks was over the hill at age 37.

Trucks, a veteran of 16 years in the league, has been used solely in relief by the A's. He has won five games, lost none and boasts the team's best earned run average, 2.53.

Garver, 30, has been the real surprise. Last year, the righthander had an 0-2 record. He started slowly this year, but since April 24 he hasn't allowed more than three runs per game. Garver has a 4-3 record, his earned run average is 2.93 for 60 innings. He has walked 16 men.

The Athletics' best-looking 1958 prospect also was obtained after Detroit had rejected his services. He is George Brunet, 22, a left-hander who has a 7-3 record and ERA of 2.51 with Little Rock of the Class AA Southern Assn.

Major Magnates Asked to 'Clear Franchise Air'

NEW YORK (AP)—Walter O'Malley, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Horace Stoneham, head of the New York Giants, were expected today to "clear the air" regarding their purported move to the West Coast at a City Hall meeting requested by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

The Mayor, who already has been quoted as saying he didn't intend to allow himself to be "blackjacked" into helping either the Dodgers or Giants financially, was seeking answers to several specific questions.

1. A definite "yes" or "no" whether the Dodgers and Giants intend to remain in New York or move to Los Angeles and San Francisco.

2. Has O'Malley made any commitments to Los Angeles about bringing his Dodgers to California?

3. Are the reports true or false that O'Malley has already contracted with Skiatron TV Inc., of New York, to telecast all Dodger games from Los Angeles via pay-as-you-see for an annual $2 million dollar fee?

Despite the mayor's insistance on laying the facts on the table, the so-called "showdown meeting" was not expected to bring the situation to a head.

Although the National League has given O'Malley and Stoneham the green light to move to the West Coast, if and when they make the request, no action can be taken, under baseball law, until October 1.

English Derby Tomorrow

EPSOM, England (AP) — The greatest of all sporting extravaganzas, the English Derby, will be run tomorrow with an expected half million people packed into Epsom Downs for the 3-year-old classic first raced in 1780.

★ ★ ★

Crepello appears to be a super horse in the making. Doutelle is owned by Queen Elizabeth and has a fair chance of becoming the first royal winner since Minoru won for King Edward VII in 1909.

With 24 hours to go before post time — 9:30 a.m. EST — odds on Crepello were 9 to 4.

Dozens of stories and rumors have swirled about London betting circles that Crepello has gone lame or that the chestnut colt is sick and had a break in training.

Latest odds were 100-7 for Royamont; Tempest, 25-1; Ballymoss, 40-1; and Bois de Miel, 200-1. Doutelle was listed at 100-8 in the latest callover at London's Victoria Club.

Podres Snaps Dodger Slump

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Johnny Podres, Brooklyn's stubby southpaw, emerged as the Dodgers' No. 1 "stopper" today, just when Manager Walt Alston had decided to crack down on his slipping National League champions.

★ ★ ★

The Brooks, who had lost seven of their last 12 games to fall into fourth place for the second time this season, read a "no more race tracks" order from the skipper yesterday after dropping four in a row. Alston figured his champs were chumps for the horses and weren't paying enough attention to baseball.

★ ★ ★

Then along came Podres, 24, snapping Brooklyn's losing skid with a neat three-hitter that quieted the ambitious Philadelphia Phillies 4-0. It was Johnny's fifth victory, his fourth shutout — and the second time he has called a halt to a Dodger slump.

The last time the Brooks lost four in a row this season, it was the lefty who bailed them out, pitching a six-hit, 5-0 decision over the New York Giants, May 12.

★ ★ ★

With the victory over the Phillies, the Dodgers climbed into third place tie with the idle Milwaukee Braves, three games behind the first place, and idle Cincinnati Redlegs. The Phils, who have lost two of their last eight in their surprising surge, remained in second place, 2½ games short.

★ ★ ★

The Pittsburgh Pirates made it three in a row over New York by beating the Giants 6-5 last night in the only other game scheduled in the majors.

Podres, who dealt a three-hitter his last start, struck out nine and walked four while dropping his a four-game set in Philadelphia, earned run average to 2.05 last night, and salvaging the finale of

TELLS ABOUT RONNIE — Loquacious Harvey Knox (right) tells newsmen in Los Angeles yesterday that signing of his football playing son Ronnie by the Chicago Bears culminated "14 years of work for Ronnie and myself." Knox, now in the National Guard, in Kansas, will be released in time for next football season, the elder Knox said. He said he turned down an $18,750 offer in the Canadian league "so that gives you some idea" of the contract terms with the Bears.

The Dodgers, who had been outhit only once during the four-game skid, smacked nine hits — including Gil Hodges' sixth home run and Gino Cimoli's sixth, too—to beat Don Cardwell, one of the Phillies' bright rookies. Cardwell gave seven hits, struck out seven and walked but two before giving way to a pinch hitter in the seventh.

The Pirates, swinging for 11 hits off five pitchers, ran up a 3-0 lead in the second against starter Ruben Gomez, then came back with two in the third against loser Joe Margoneri after the Giants had tied it in the top of the frame.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox stake their five-game lead against the East, opening against Boston tonight. The second-place New York Yankees are at Cleveland, with Washington at Detroit and Baltimore at Kansas City.

3-Year-Olds Unpredictable

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

As is usually the case, the 3-year-old fillies are taking turns beating each other again this year and it will take some time before thoroughbred racing comes up with a champion in that division.

However, the precocious misses are having a grand time upsetting the calculations, and the next few weeks promises some interesting duels among the so-called "weaker sex."

Latest to disrupt the dope was Bayou, from the Claiborne Farm of B. "Bull" Hancock of Paris, Ky. Bayou defeated 16 other 3-year-old fillies yesterday in the $31,700 Acorn Stakes at Belmont Park, skipping the mile in 1:3, fastest since Kiss Me Kate won with a 1:35 2-5 clocking in 1951 and went on to be voted the 3-year-old champion.

★ ★ ★

Bayou is a chestnut daughter of Hill Prince-Bourtai, and thus a full sister to Levee, bred by the Claiborne Farm and owned by Mrs. Vernon G. Cardy of Canada. Bayou's daddy, too, was a champ, being voted "horse of the year" in 1950.

First No-Hit Game in Waterford Loop

The Waterford Softball League's 1st no-hit game of the season was posted last night when Bernie LaRue hurled White Brothers to a 3-0 victory over Lakeland Pharmacy on the Drayton Plains diamond.

A 5th-inning error by LaRue himself on an infield tap prevented the Realty pitcher from turning in a perfect performance. He struck out nine and walked none as the White team gained its 2nd decision.

White tallied all of its runs in the 6th inning. Monty Tipton delivered the big blow, a two-run double, and later scored on a wild pitch.

Demaret Blasts USGA Practices

Says It's 'Cheap' to Force Top Pros Into Qualifying Tests

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (AP) — Jimmy Demaret, 47, one of the top personalities of professional golf, accused the U. S. Golf Assn. of cheap practices today and said some day the pros may boycott the National Open.

"It is stupid, absolutely ridiculous to make a great champion like Sam Snead qualify for the open," said the three-time Masters winner from Kiamesha Lake, N.Y. "I just wonder how much sillier they can get."

Snead qualified for the June 13-15 National Open along with a bevy of ranking professionals at the Knowllwood and Metropolis Country Clubs here yesterday with a 141.

Demaret, second leading money winner of the year, also was forced to prove his right to play in the tournament at the Inverness Club in Toledo, Ohio. He shot 142.

"Making Snead play 36 holes to qualify for the Open is as insane as asking Mickey Mantle to hit two-for-four on the day before the World Series, or be benched," he said.

Daniel Beats Denver

Trade Talk, Rows in Yankee Camp

CLEVELAND (AP) — The New York Yankees have lost nine of their last 15 games, they've been fined for playing night games in a plush saloon—and the panic button's been pushed. Trouble is, it wasn't the world champions who did the pushing.

★ ★ ★

Word leaked out yesterday that the club had fined Hank Bauer, Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Billy Martin and Whitey Ford $1,000 each and Johnny Kucks $500 for that fracas in a New York nightclub early in the morning May 16.

2. A report that Manager Casey Stengel and General Manager George Weiss are on the outs.

Bauer and Martin commented it's great to a Yankee, with Martin adding "I hope it doesn't happen. I'm afraid to think how it would feel to play against the Yankees."

★ ★ ★

Bauer has been mentioned as trade bait since before spring training. So has Martin, particularly since the nightclub incident which broke up his 29th birthday party.

Billy the Kid and Mantle are pals, and rumor has it the Yankee front office is afraid Martin may give Mantle some bad habits.

It was reported yesterday that Martin, Mantle, Bauer, Ford and Mickey McDermott had been fined $250 each less than a year ago for missing a train in Boston. McDermott since has been traded to Kansas City. Another trade, naturally, could break up the remaining quartet.

★ ★ ★

Berra, a three-time winner of the American League most valuable player award, and Kucks apparently are newcomers to the crowd. At the time of the nightclub fracas, Stengel benched Berra—who also was in a hitting slump — for one game with the comment that "he oughta know better" and added he didn't think it was right "for those fellas to keep a young fella (Kucks) out that late."

★ ★ ★

Kucks, admitting he was fined $500, at first was thought to be among the $1,000 sufferers, prompting Stengel to observe "that poor boy oughtn't to be fined the same as the rich players."

Kucks' salary is estimated at $15,000. Berra hauls in $60,500, Mantle $60,000, Ford $35,000 Bauer $27,500 and Martin $21,000.

Stengel and Weiss denied any friction between them, with Weiss pointing to "the results of our eight years' association" and terming the report "deliberately malicious."

Tigers Open at Home

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers are gliding along with a .500 average to date, but they are fast approaching the point where they went into a tailspin last season.

The Tigers, who open a long home stand tonight against the Washington Senators, emerged from the weekend Chicago series with a 22-22 mark. Last year at this time they were 21-21 and hovered around .500 until June 16.

Then disaster struck. The Bengals lost 10 games in a row and didn't get back to .500 again until Sept. 7.

When the 1956 season ended four Tiger regulars were over the .300 mark. Harvey Kuenn led the parade with a hefty .332. Charley Maxwell hit .326; Al Kaline .314 and Ray Boone .308.

Reno Bertoia, who has only one hit in 11 at bats since returning to action, is the lone regular to date topping .300. He's hitting .325 for fifth place among the league leaders.

Duke Maas, the club's leading pitcher, goes after his seventh victory against two losses tonight. The Tigers will face the slants of Truman Clevenger, whose record is 2-0.

The Washington Club leads an invasion by all the eastern teams. Following the Senators into Briggs Stadium will be the New York Yankees. The defending world champions open a four-game stand here Friday night. Then will come Baltimore and Boston for three games apiece.

Baseball May Do Probing

Congressmen Gird for Annual Diamond Battle

For this is the night that members of the House, ignoring age and legislation, shift their franchise from Capitol Hill to Griffith Stadium. There—public invited—they engage in what purports to be a game of baseball.

They've been doing this for some years. No lawmaker has yet advanced to the majors, but at the same time baseball has managed to survive.

★ ★ ★

Rosters necessarily exceed the 25-player major league limit. Otherwise they might run out of talent before the five-inning contest ends.

★ ★ ★

GOP manager Thor Tollefson of Washington plans to start Edwin May, 33, Connecticut representative, on the mound. Democratic pilot Olin Teague of Texas wasn't sure of his choice.

Republicans have won the last two years. Seeking revenge, the Democrats have enlisted senatorial aid and show Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina as a utility man.

★ ★ ★

Jewelers Hand CIO First Loss

Shaw's Jewelers handed the CIO Local 594 its first setback of the season, 6-1, in a Class A City League baseball game Monday night at Wisner Field.

Big Steve Kebler set the Union club down with only three hits and lost his bid for a shutout in the 7th inning when a base on balls and a brace of errors permitted the lone run.

Warren Schreibner, Terry Thomas and Daryl McGlashen each smacked two safeties to carry the brunt of Shaw's eight-hit attack. McGlashen batted in two tallies and Joe Sato drove in a couple with a 1st-inning triple.

Neil Ricketts pitched the distance for the CIO, whose record now stands at 2-1. The victory gave the Jewelers a 2-0 mark and 1st place in the standings.

Gillis 2-Hits Chiefs in Season Final, 1-0

One of the finest pitching battles of the season closed out the baseball slates for Pontiac and Waterford yesterday with Skipper ace Chuck Gillis emerging the 1-0 victor on a two-hitter.

Loser Bud Hayward, who had both of his team's safeties, allowed only four hits. Waterford's run was unearned. It came in the 4th when Mickey Deam singled home Dick Vore who had reached base on an error. Pontiac's best threat was in the 3rd with the bases loaded and one out but Gillis fanned one batter and got the dangerous Hayward on a ground out.

Waterford finished with 5-8 and PHS 8-9 for the season.

Cubs Recall Hillman

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs yesterday recalled righthanded pitcher Dave Hillman from the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League.

Elks Shade Stadium, 1-0; Shaw's Continues Streak

Stan Hester's lead-off double in the 8th, followed by 1st baseman Maurice Stack's boot of Paul Osika's grounder handed the Elks a 1-0 extra-inning victory over Stadium at Beaudette Park.

Shaw's ran its incredible streak of scoreless innings to 35 with a 2-0 win over Birmingham. Jake Mazur did the pitching this time and allowed only one hit, a 1st-inning single by Bill Allen.

The Jeweler mound corps has now yielded just three hits in five games. Perc McConner and Doug Hall have twirled no-hitters, Mazur has spun a pair of one-hitters and McConner owns another one-hit chore. It was Shaw's 6th triumph, the other win coming on a forfeit.

In last night's games at North Side Park, Eddie's Bar scored five runs in the 7th inning to derail Oxbow Pavilion 9-8, and Pontiac Select-A-Drink fought off a late rally to shade Louie's Tavern 4-3.

Tonight's games: North Side Auto Sales vs. West Side Merchants (girls), 7 p.m., and Drive-In Cleaners vs. UAW-CIO Local 653, 8:30 at Beaudette; Deni's Corner vs. Franklin Products, 7 p.m., and Lane's Drive-In vs. Dostal Foundry, 8:30 at North Side.

SUPER 88 CONVERTIBLE COUPE

See Jerry Lewis NBC-TV, Saturday, June 8

Friend: Say . . . a convertible! And an Oldsmobile at that!

Owner: Hardly believe it myself. But this big, beautiful Super 88 gave me more for my money than any other car I looked at . . . and cost way less than you'd guess.

Owner: Wait 'til you see it from where I'm sitting. This upholstery is real leather. And the floors have door-to-door carpeting, front and rear.

Friend: How much extra did that cost?

Owner: Not one cent. Standard equipment—just like the safety-padded dash, the foam rubber seats, and the dual exhausts. And, of course, the Rocket Engine*. I'm telling you, this Olds has everything. Want to try it?

Friend: Move over. I've been thinking about an Olds myself.

When Do We Get Tax Cut?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress set out today to get answers to the question: When can taxes be cut?

A Senate-House Economic subcommittee headed by Rep. Mills (D-Ark) starts two weeks of hearings to garner the opinions of economists, bankers and businessmen.

* * *

* * *

Certain to come under subcommittee scrutiny is the Eisenhower administration's "tight money" policies — anti-inflationary moves to curb credit. This has resulted in increased interest rates.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) predicted Congress will turn down Eisenhower's proposal to raise interest rates further on various types of federal loans.

Asserting people are "fed up with the gouging they are getting in high interest charges under this administration," Johnson accused the administration of "a determined effort to raise interest rates all across the board."

The subcommittee inquiry follows up reports by staff economists of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee and Senate-House Economic subcommittee. Both predicted that rising prices for government goods and services will boost federal spending beyond Eisenhower's January spending estimate of $71,800,000,000 for 1958.

"Budget expenditures for the fiscal years 1957 and 1958 may exceed the January estimates by 1 to 1½ billion dollars in each year," the economic subcommittee staff reported 10 days ago.

Coupled with the budget situation, the Mills subcommittee will inquire into the general economic situation throughout the country and the fiscal action needed to maintain its stability.

* * *

"The misgivings with respect to the immediate economic outlook, which prevailed in many quarters early in the year, have noticeably lessened," the recent committee report stated.

Stocks Mixed; Du Pont Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed in quiet early trading today after a fairly active opening.

Du Pont sank 2½ at 195 on an opening block of 1,100 shares but trimmed the loss to a fraction in subsequent dealings. The stock was still reacting from the U. S. Supreme Court decision that its acquisition of 23 per cent of General Motors violated the anti-trust laws.

Aircrafts continued to decline on the disarmament and budget news. Steels were mixed as production in the industry continued its recovery. Motor shares were slightly lower.

Oils were irregular. Texas Gulf producing was up around a point and Amerada a major fraction. Getty Oil wiped out an initial loss of ¾. Gulf Oil and Royal Dutch dropped fractions.

Grains Move to Downside

Trade fears at a west harvest may force farmers to market their wheat instead of putting it under loan, caused selling in wheat. Good planting weather was a bearish influence in corn and soybeans.

Old style wheat opened unchanged to lower, July $2.02-01⅞, new style wheat was unchanged to ⅝ lower, July $2.02½-¾, corn was ⅛ to ⅝ lower, July $1.28¾-⅝, oats were ⅛ to ¼ lower, July 65¼, and soybeans were ⅛ to ½ lower, July $2.33½-$2.33.

'I'm Expecting a Letter Today —From Me'

She probably did. Sanders writes letters to himself. He explains that when he gets an idea over the weekends, he puts it down on paper. On Sunday, he bundles up all the ideas and mails them to himself at City Hall.

OKs License Sales on Dealer Premises

LANSING (AP)—The Michigan Supreme Court says it is not necessarily illegal for a Department of State branch manager to set up shop on the premises of an auto dealer.

★ ★ ★

The Supreme Court yesterday reversed the Mason County Circuit Court, which has granted a suit by the county auto dealers to break up an arrangement between Henning Runquist and Edward O. Hansen at Ludington.

Runquist operated the branch office. Hansen was the auto dealer in whose quarters Runquist maintained the state office.

Observing testimony in the case disclosed no illegal acts, the Supreme Court said:

"We do not yet recognize enjoinable guilt by the mere fact of close quartered business operations and such is the extent of the showing before us."

The dealers' group had alleged "unlawful discrimination" and said the arrangement gave "a preferred" company information on license plate sales, car prices and trade-in value not available to others.

Rejects Prediction of Socialism in U.S.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U.S. representative to the United Nations, says, "I disagree with Mr. Khrushchev that our grandchildren will live their lives under socialism of the Marxian variety."

Commenting on statements by Russia's Nikita Khrushchev, Communist party secretary, in an interview telecast last Sunday, Lodge told the Los Angeles World Affairs Council yesterday: "It is socialism which is contracting throughout the world and Marxism that has become static and apathetic.

Russians See Interview

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russian people have learned for the first time that the Soviet Union exploded five nuclear bombs in April.

The information was contained in a question put by an American reporter to Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev during his CBS television interview filmed last week.

★ ★ ★

The program was broadcast last night by Moscow radio and television stations apparently in its entirety. It had been televised in the United States Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Daniel Schorr, CBS correspondent, asked Khrushchev why the Soviet government did not announce its last five nuclear tests, since it has maintained publicly that all tests can be detected. Khrushchev replied that it would have served no useful purpose.

The filmed interview was the most wide-open give-and-take between a top Soviet leader and American correspondents to be aired publicly in Moscow. And the medium was an unusual one to break news such as that of the nuclear explosions.

★ ★ ★

Some of the questions were most unusual fare for Soviet listeners to hear. For example, Khrushchev was asked if the Soviet Union had no fears that its satellites would abandon communism if Soviet troops were pulled out. Another asked how long Khrushchev thought the Kadar regime would last in Hungary without the Russian army.

★ ★ ★

Khrushchev's answers were stock Soviet replies that Russian readers are accustomed to, but they have heard questions like that before only over the Voice of America.

Care to Collect $500 a Share?

That's Annual Payment of Christiana Securities if You've $14,000

NEW YORK (AP)— Would you like to own stock in a company which pays around $500 a share in dividends each year?

You can do it, if you want to raise about $14,000 to buy a single share of the stock.

That's the level of price and dividend which go with Christiana Securities Co., an investment company projected into the news by yesterday's ruling of the Supreme Court that Du Pont violates the antitrust laws by controlling General Motors through 23 per cent stock ownership.

Any development affecting Du Pont and GM also has its repercussion on Christiana, because the investment company holds 27 per cent of the Du Pont common stock.

Christiana, traded over the counter, closed Friday at $13,800 bid, 14,400 asked. It moved up to $14,100 bid, 14,500 asked following news of the court's decision, then retreated to close at the same bid and asked as on Friday.

★ ★ ★

Brokers suggested one reason for the brief rise was the hope that holders of Du Pont stock would receive the firm's GM holdings in the form of a "spin-off" or distribution.

How come Christiana common is so expensive?

A spokesman for Francis I. Du Pont Co., brokerage firm which handles the issue, puts it this way:

The stock sold at around $3,000 a share in 1946, $7,000 in 1953 and reached its all-time high of $17,300 bid early this year. It paid $480 a share in dividends last year and $520 in 1955.

Price said plans call for immediate conversion of the building formerly owned by the Philco Corp. The plant will employ about 200. The Ford executive said Highland Park employes will be given an opportunity to transfer to the new location.

Du Pont Stock Rises in Wake of Court Ruling

NEW YORK (AP) — Common stock of DuPont moved higher yesterday following a Supreme Court ruling that the company violates the antitrust laws by controlling General Motors Corp. through 23 per cent stock ownership.

Du Pont common closed at $196.50 Friday, and Monday afternoon rose to $202.50.

If the government forces DuPont will not have to pay capital gains taxes.

Council Does Obligation to Clock Donor's Grave

ALMONT — At the direction of the Village Council, Earl Tank, John D. Spencer, Henry Mackelroth and Stan Dombrowski fulfilled a long-standing village obligation, Tuesday. The maintenance crew repaired the headstone and grave decorations in Hough Cemetery of a "Mr. Thompson." His resting place is a fence-enclosed plot at the center of the cemetery.

Thompson donated the town clock to Almont, years ago. After his death, the council voted to assume the upkeep of his grave as a token of residents' appreciation.

Expect Entries to Number 20 for Miss Romeo

ROMEO — About 20 attractive candidates are expected to enter the Miss Romeo contest to be held at 8 p.m. June 18 in the auditorium of Romeo High School, according to contest chairman, Mrs. Ray Gamelin.

The winner will represent the village in the Queen's contest early in August when girls from 11 communities compete for the honor of reigning over the 25th Romeo Peach Festival celebration. The traditional event attracts over 40,000 to this North Macomb village annually over Labor Day weekend.

To qualify for the Miss Romeo contest a girl must be between 17 and a half and 21 years of age, preferably a high school graduate, unmarried and a resident of the village for at least six months.

Benson Plugs Help to Revamp Farm Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson starts a speaking swing into the West today in an effort to build up farm support for his ideas on revamping federal farm aid programs.

★ ★ ★

He is scheduled to address a livestock meeting at Lander, Wyo., Thursday morning and another at Wisner, Neb., Thursday night. Aides said he is making plans for a large number of other speeches in farming areas this summer and fall on the farm problem.

★ ★ ★

Both the Lander and Wisner speeches are expected to go into his contention that the flexible price support system—which the Eisenhower administration endorsed in 1954—will fail agriculture in the future because of rising price supports.

Romeo Leaders Start Plans for Economic Expansion

ROMEO — The first step toward a "balanced economy" for Romeo was taken last night when 125 community leaders met in the Lions Den to launch a program of economic development and expansion.

★ ★ ★

The discussion of village needs, anticipated growth and related tax problems was led by Wilbur M. Young, assistant director of the area development division of the Detroit Edison Co.

He illustrated his remarks with colored slides and a documentary movie showing the difficulties involved in luring new industry into a community.

Present in addition to representatives of the Michigan Department of Economic Development were members of the Rotary and Lions Clubs, school and village officials and the sponsors of the meeting, members of the Romeo Merchants Assn.

Young urged the group to form a corporation of "genuinely interested" men and women to work on the program of industrial development.

"Details of the project, he said, "should include a survey of the community which has a population of 2,984, listing its assets and a brochure containing the findings."

★ ★ ★

He added that it should be a program of self-help as opposed to one of federal assistance, and should be aimed at a balance of homes, stores and diversified industry.

National Grange and Government Wage Court Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Grange and the Federal Government are engaged in a court fight over the farm organization's headquarters office building here.

The government wants the property, which is located a block away from the White House, for additional office space for its workers.

The Grange, on the other hand, wants to keep the property which it says serves "as a hub for conferences, rural activities and farm progress."

The government has filed condemnation proceedings—an action the Grange is seeking to thwart in Federal court. It argues that the government does not need the property, that it has not been authorized by Congress to acquire it and that the government is offering a price that is "close to robbery."

Milford Council Acts

OK Market Building, Costs of Living Raise

MILFORD — When the Milford Council met last night, a request to build a new Kroger store along the railroad track near Summit street was granted Dick Roach, Inc. of Walled Lake.

Roach told members that the building would sit 180 feet back from the road, leaving ample parking space in front, and would contain 120,000 square feet. The present Kroger store is located on Main street and has proven too small for the fast growing area, he said.

Among other business of the council was the approval of a salary raise of 2½ per cent for cost of living to the police personnel and employes in the public works department.

Members also authorized the grading of the village-owned land at the Huron River in preparation for the annual Paddle Push to be held Sunday. This will be used as a parking lot to ease traffic congestion on Main street during the event.

★ ★ ★

Traffic signs prohibiting U-Turns on Main streets will be installed in the near future, along with other traffic control signs.

Raise Over $61,400 in One Day

WALLED LAKE — The Methodist Church exceeded its minimum goal on the first three days set aside for an intensive fund-raising crusade, according to Rev. John Mulder, pastor. The goal was $44,000 in cash and 104-week subscriptions for the Building Fund plus $16,000 in subscriptions for the 1957-5 church budget.

★ ★ ★

Official figures released by Treasurer Richard Miles show a total of 220 subscriptions totaling $50,803.75. This in addition to some $10,630.20 subscribed for the current budget making a grand total of $61,433.95 raised in one day.

General chairman of the Crusade, Joseph Stadnick, said that 146 families have yet to be contacted, and predicts a heavy oversubscription of the new $60,000 goal.

The church "Loyalty Days" are to conclude by 9 p.m. today when the Victory service will be held. The public has been invited to attend.

★ ★ ★

The planning commission, headed by Robert Philp, has engaged Charles Hannon of Farmington as architect and will be announcing plans for the new structure in the immediate future.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MRS. Ruth May Jeffery, who passed away June 4, 1953.

Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon His love has given,
And though the body moulders here,

Sadly missed by Mother, Brother & Sisters.

Actress Claims Ambition Gone

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA)—Kitty Carlisle, who used to be one of the biggest singing actresses on the Broadway stage, is currently just one of the four panelists on "To Tell the Truth." might seem like a comedown but Kitty is happy about the whole thing.

Kitty Carlisle

"I woke up one morning feeling wonderful, just wonderful," she says. "I couldn't figure out what it was. Then I realized I'd lost my ambition. It was like getting out of a strait jacket.

★ ★ ★

"Now I don't care about trying to get anywhere any more. I used to be worrying constantly—what is there for me? — when I'd read about a new play. No more. Now I'm just happy."

Then she stopped a moment and thought.

"Of course," she said, with a smile, "if something were offered to me and it fit me, I'd do it."

Until that day, she'll go along being the charming one on the panel. Like most panel members—a growing and happy list—she loves the idea of getting well paid for an hour of so of work.

★ ★ ★

If you've been wondering whether or not the panelists on "To Tell the Truth" get any advance tips on what type of contestant they'll meet, here's the way it works.

"About five minutes before the show," Kitty says, "we're told something about the contestant—enough so we can think up an opening question or two.

"I really think we should have a little more time. Then maybe we could ask some more penetrating questions."

★ ★ ★

Benny Goes to School

MANORVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Benny Hooper Jr., 7, scampered back to school yesterday for the first time since his rescue from the bottom of a well. He fell into the newly dug well in his back yard May 16 and was trapped 23½ hours. Officials said the ordeal "apparently left no ill effects."

Earl Sees Big Change in Big City Night Life

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — It's very, very strange how the job of a Stay-Up columnist has changed in the 15 years I've been covering this beat.

★ ★ ★

We used to think we had to check in at Reuben's at 5 or 6 a.m. every day. Goodness, I don't think anybody stays up that late any more.

The wartime curfew taught some people that it was possible to go to bed by 3 or 4. Then, of course, some of us began getting older. By now we're home by 2 or 3 in the yawning.

In those days the Stork Club was a regular stop.

There was a wonderfully gracious restaurant, the Versailles, where we used to hear Dwight Fiske, known as "King Leer," recite his bawdy ballads about "Mrs. Hemingway, if you pleasssssse†"

It closed recently. Something about taxes.

Curiously, in those early days, I always visited Fred Allen's radio show on Sunday nights. Toward the end, Fred spoke often of "the Chicago school of televisoin"—particularly of Dave Garroway, who was leaving Chicago to come to New York.

Well, the Chicago school has made its impression on New York by now, and currently I go at 8 o'clock on Sunday night—as I did in those day—to "the Allen show."

The Steve Allen show, that is.

I cover the Ed Sullivan show, too, naturally. But it's rather a coincidence that in a dozen years NBC on Sunday nights has gone from Allen to Allen.

Champ Outlasts TV Challenger, Wins $92,500

Bloomgarden, 28-year-old public relations man, boosted his winnings to $92,500. Snodgrass, 34, Greenwich Village artist, had to settle for a $4,000 consolation prize.

The two quiz experts had fought to six tie games and a standoff in previous weeks.

Last night Bloomgarden won out when he correctly answered a series of questions on Shakespeare, the American Revolution, political leaders and quotations. Snodgrass lost when he failed to name Kwame Nkrumah as the prime minister of the new African nation of Ghana.

Await Report on Low Offers for Construction of New Junior High

Representatives of architectural trades, plumbing, heating and ventilating contractors, and electrical trades jammed the Waterford Township Board of Education office at 2 p.m. yesterday to submit bids on the new $2,300,000 John D. Pierce Junior High School, scheduled for construction on Hatchery near Crescent Lake road.

Seven contractors for architectural trades submitted bids. The low base bid of $1,392,811 was submitted by the Schurrer Construction Co. of Pontiac.

There were 19 other bids submitted for kitchen equipment, refrigerators and freezers, gymnasium bleachers, draperies and other special equipment for laboratories.

★ ★ ★

All the low base bids were referred to the architect, George D. Mason and Co., for study. A special meeting of the township Board of Education will be held Tuesday to hear a report from Mason.

Parke, Davis Uses Buzz Signal System

DETROIT — Parke, Davis & Company, world-wide pharmaceutical firm, has equipped key personnel at its main laboratories here with pocket-size electronic receivers to permit speedier contact in case of emergencies.

Knox and Father Pleased With Bear Contract

LOS ANGELES (INS) — The voluable father of football star Ronnie Knox, who changes teams almost as frequently as most gridders change sweatshirts, exulted today over his son's new three-year contract with the Chicago Bears.

Harvey Knox, who customarily does the talking for his handsome son, called a special news conference to declare:

"We turned down $18,750 a season for Ronnie to play . . . at Toronto, so that should give you a fair idea of our agreement with the Bears.

"We are particularly grateful to join George Halas' club, and I say truthfully that if Ronnie could have joined any club in the National Football League, it would have been the Bears irrespective of the draft."

'Sick and Tired' of U.S. Actions, Norris Declares

NEW YORK (AP) — While a federal judge mulled today over the penalties to mete out to the International Boxing Club, IBC president James Norris lashed at the government in his own defense.

Judge Sylvester J. Ryan, who already had found the IBC guilty of monopoly charges said he would hand down a final decree June 24.

Meanwhile, in Miami, Norris said he was "sick and tired" of the government measures taken against the IBC.

"I might get out of the fight game altogether if it weren't for the challenge of the thing," he said. "I don't like being asked out. . . forced out.

New York Mayor's Star Rises

Wagner Can Be Stubborn

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

Mayor Robert F. (for Ferdinand) Wagner of New York is part Irish, part German, and he can be stubborn. So New Yorkers took the mayor at his word when he said the other day he'll do what he can, but nobody is going to "blackjack" him, or the city.

Wagner, at 47 the youngest man ever to hold his present office, was talking about the National League's okoy to the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers to move westward, to San Francisco and Los Angeles, respectively, if they so desire.

TALKS TO OWNERS

Tomorrow, the mayor is due to talk with Giants owner Horace Stoneham and Dodgers president Walter O'Malley, in an effort to find some way to keep the teams in New York—but on "non-blackjack" terms.

It has taken some years and a great deal of personal effort, but Robert F. Wagner has lived down the tag of "junior." Like so many sons of famous men, he struggled in the shadow of his father, U. S. Sen. Robert F. Wagner, one of New York State's most popular lawmakers, author of the Wagner Labor Law — a tough man for a son to "live down" in trying to make his own life. Which is not to say Mayor Wagner regrets his father or his heritage. He is prouder of both than most men can be.

Wagner has been talked of for governor; enthusiasts have mentioned the White House. At the moment Wagner insists his eye is on nothing but a second term in city hall—and, of course, whither the Giants and Dodgers.

BORN IN CITY

He's a rare New Yorker, actually having been born in the city. That was on April 20, 1910. He's been in public office since 1937 when he was elected to the State Assembly.

Only child of Senator Wagner and the late Margaret McTeague, who died when he was 10, Wagner grew up in New York's predominantly German Yorkville section. He went to a neighborhood public school, then to Loyola, a Catholic secondary school, Taft School in Connecticut, and finally Yale.

After three terms in the state legislature (his first term coming right after he was admitted to the state bar) and an interruption for World War II service in the Air Force, Wagner successively served as city tax commissioner, housing commissioner and Manhattan borough president. His election as mayor followed a bitterly contested primary against then Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, in 1953.

Gregarious and well-like personally, Wagner chose himself a blonde, attractive wife whom, romantically, he wed on St. Valentine's Day, 1942. He and the former Susan Edwards of Greenwich, Conn., have two sons, Robert III, and Duncan.

Executive Trio Equal to 146 Union Prexies?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McNamara (D-Mich), a member of the Plumbers Union, says the 1956 salaries of three top business executives total about as much as the combined pay of 146 union presidents.

★ ★ ★

Referring to a list of union salaries submitted to the Senate last week by Sen. Bridges (R-NH), McNamara yesterday offered a listing of 23 high-salaried corporation executives.

McNamara said he had added up the total pay of the union officials listed by Bridges and found the amount was $2,173,650.74. And, he added, the top three men on his executive list made a total of $2,173,287.

★ ★ ★

The McNamara list, which he said was published by Business Week magazine May 25, was headed by: "Eugene Grace, chairman, Bethlehem Steel, $809,011; Harlow H. Curtice, president, General Motors, $695,100; and Arthur B. Homer, president, Bethlehem Steel, $699,176."

2 Traffic Accidents Take Lives of Baby, Housewife

DETROIT (AP) — An 18-month-old baby and a 39-year-old housewife were killed yesterday in separate traffic accidents in Detroit suburbs.

The child, Faye Elizabeth Woods, walked into the path of a car in front of her home in Nankin Township. The driver was not held. The child was one of five children of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Woods.

Mrs. Rose Lee Norton, of Northville, was killed when a car driven by her husband, Roy, 42, collided with another at a Livonia intersection. Norton was seriously injured.

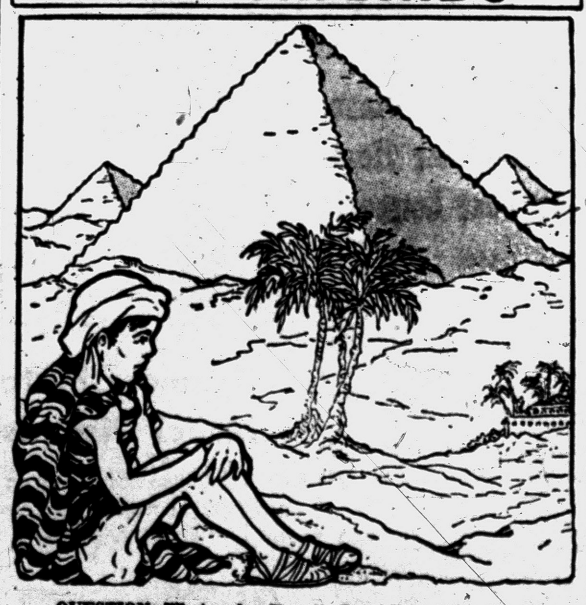
Junior Editors Quiz on THE PYRAMIDS



QUESTION: What makes Egypt's Great Pyramid unique?

ANSWER: Of the seven great wonders of the ancient world, only the Great Pyramid of Cheops in Egypt still stands. And it is still a true wonder of the world. Made of more than 2,000 stones, each weighing over 2 tons, it rises 451 feet above the desert and covers 13 acres.

The other wonders included the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, built in 600 B. C.; the great tomb of Mausolus at Helicarnassus in Asia Minor, built by his widow in 9 B. C.; the Temple of Diana at Ephesus, mentioned by Paul in the New Testament; the lighthouse of Pharos at Alexandria, a 400-foot tower that was visible many miles out to sea; the ivory and gold statue of Jupiter for the temple at Olympia, and finally, the famous Colossus of Rhodes, a giant bronze figure that straddled the harbor mouth for 60 years until overturned by an earthquake.

FOR YOU TO DO: Talk to your mother or father and make up your own list of modern world wonders.

Sewer, Paving Projects on City's Agenda Tonight

Eight items, mostly involving Pontiac's public improvement program, make up a brief agenda to be placed before the City Commission tonight.

Commissioners will hear a report on the feasibility of blacktopping Columbia avenue from Baldwin to Stanley, instead of the proposed concrete.

Estimates will be aired tonight on two-inch blacktopping of Gillespie and Diston street from Bagley to the east line of lot 4 of the Lakeside Homes Subdivision, and for road oil treatment on West Brooklyn avenue from Baldwin to Stanley.

FIREWORKS PERMIT SOUGHT

A hearing will be continued tonight on a special assessment roll covering a combined sewer project on the north side of Kennett road from Fairview to approximately 572 feet west of the west line of assessor's plat 144.

In other action, commissioners will receive special assessment rolls for curb, gutter, and related work on New York avenue from Baldwin to University, and for a combined sewer on the south side of Columbia from Baldwin to Hollywood.
