Milwaukee Celebrates After Braves Take World Series

AP Wirephoto

JOY, UNLIMITED — Ecstatic Milwaukee Braves fans jump and howl in a joyful celebration of their heroes' World Series victory yesterday afternoon, tying up downtown traffic during the late afternoon and evening. The Braves won the seventh and deciding game of the series, in Yankee Stadium, 5 to 0. (See today's Sports section for more pictures and stories.)

Suspect Is Held After Shot at County Woman

Carnival Worker Says He Was in Saginaw at Time of Incident

A suspect in the mystery shooting of a Highland Township woman was arrested in Detroit last night, by Oakland County Sheriff's Dept. detectives and booked for investigation of attempted murder.

Malcolm Halliday, 53, will be questioned today in the shooting Wednesday night of Mrs. June Lebel, 59, of 1001 Hickory Ridge Rd.

Mrs. Lebel was struck in the mouth by a .22 caliber bullet fired at her through a window when she looked out to see who was knocking at her front door.

Halliday, who works for a Cleveland carnival company, came under suspicion when it was learned he had called Mrs. Lebel from Drayton Plains Tuesday and asked to see her. She refused to invite him to her home, she told detectives.

Halliday said last night he went to Saginaw after the phone call and was there at the time of the shooting. He gave the names of persons who could substantiate his story. He gave himself up to Detroit police when he learned he was being sought.

He said he has known Mrs. Lebel for five years and frequently calls

3 Routes Ready to Carry Crowds to MSU-'M' Tilt

Pontiac area football fans will find three big road improvements when driving to the Michigan-Michigan State game in Ann Arbor tomorrow.

For motorists using Pontiac Trail (M218), the bridge at Milford road leading under the Grand River Expressway is completed. Reconstruction of Pontiac Trail from Eight Mile road to N. Territorial road is finished, and a smooth, blacktopped highway awaits drivers.

For fans who prefer to take M59 (past Pontiac Airport) to U.S. 23, a new, four-lane divided highway awaits them from south of Whitmore Lake to Ann Arbor city limits.

If you drive out U.S. 12 (Willow Run Expressway), there will be a reversable one-way system leading from the expressway to the stadium via Ann Arbor - Saline road.

This will be one-way leading to the stadium before the game, and one-way leading to the expressway after the game.

But 'Big Chief' Warns Union Trouble Ahead

Sees Tough Legislative Session; Rank and File Plan Suit

DETROIT (AP)—James R. Hoffa, who has prospered on a crisis-a-day in recent months, came home in triumph yesterday and warned members of the Teamsters Union that their troubles are not over.

The newly elected president of the giant Teamsters Union warned the 700 rank and file members who greeted him at Willow Run Airport:

"We're going to be faced with the roughest, toughest legislative session in history next year."

In an obvious reference to his own troubles with a senate investigating committee, he said:

"I plead humbly that you understand whatever happens to me; you must know that whoever leads you is going to be subject to attack."

The cocky Hoffa, elevated from the 11th vice presidency to the top job at the Teamsters Union convention in Miami Beach, Fla., was met by a noisy and demonstrative collection of union members.

A band blared out Hoffa's convention theme song, "When the Saints Go Marching In."

Many of the greeters wore Indian headdress and one of them placed a headdress on Hoffa.

HEAP BIG CHIEF

"There's an old saying in the labor movement that everyone wants to be a chief and no one wants to be an Indian," explained one of the persons in the crowd. "We're just showing Jimmy that

Act to Bar Hoffa

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorneys for a rank and file Teamsters union group said they intend to apply for a federal court order later today barring James R. Hoffa from taking office as Teamsters president.

The law firm of Dodd, Kaplan and Schmidt said it will seek the order this afternoon from Federal District Court Judge F. Dickinson Letts.

Shepherd Guilty in Wife's Death

But Verdict Is Second Degree Instead of Original Charge

James D. Shepherd was found guilty of second-degree murder by Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams this morning.

Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams, presiding at the trial of James D. Shepherd in the death of his wife, this morning denied a motion to reduce the charge from first to second degree murder. The court will rule on the degree of the charge at the conclusion of the trial, he said.

Shepherd's voice was heard in court yesterday when a tape-recording of a statement he made to police three and a half hours after he stabbed his wife, Elizabeth 42, May 27 at their home, 1509 Pierce St. was played.

In the tape-recording, Shepherd, a 36-year-old former salesman denied all knowledge of the actual crime.

"I love my wife, I wouldn't stab her. That's the furthest thing in the world I would do," said Shepherd's voice over the loud speaker.

The defendant claims he blacked out during the fatal stabbing.

During the taped interview Shepherd had admitted drinking most of a pint of whisky the day of the killing and then taking "one or two" tranquilizers before going to bed.

While he was dozing, he said in the recording, his wife came into the bedroom twice and "popped a handful of pills into my mouth like peanuts."

"She said they were vitamins," the recording continued. "But I'm not sure that they weren't tranquilizers."

In making a motion for reduced charge Defense Attorney David C. Pence argued that there was no premeditation in the slaying.

American Sky Watchers Spot Sputnik in 3 Passes Over U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — American sky watchers reported sighting the Russian earth satellite again today as it made three early morning passes over the United States.

The man-made moon, apparently undeterred by a shower of fragments, neared the edge of its first week aloft still circling the earth once every 96.1 minutes.

The Naval Research Laboratory here said Sputnik made three high-speed passes over the United States this morning, and will return three times tonight.

SEES 2 OBJECTS

The New Haven, Conn., moon-watch team, which first spotted the satellite yesterday, reported that it saw two objects streaking through the sky this morning — presumably Sputnik and a part of the rocket that propelled the moonlet into its orbit.

Watchers at the Astrophysical Observatory of the Smithsonian Institution in Cambridge, Mass., also apparently caught a momentary glimpse of the satellite.

Two students at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., also said they sighted it shortly before dawn.

Sputnik has traveled more than 2½ million miles, according to Soviet estimates, since the Russians shot it into the upper air last Friday.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Cambridge Observatory, said there had been no observation to indicate a third object is speeding around the globe. The Russians have said the satellite's protective nose cone also is orbiting, as well as the spent rocket.

READY CAMERA

Whipple voiced hope that a huge satellite tracking camera at Pasadena, Calif., will be ready when the sphere makes two passes over the Far West today.

Moscow radio said last night the artificial satellite "is now being bombarded by micro-meteorites," but that it appeared no serious damage had resulted.

At the U. S. Naval Research Laboratory here, a spokesman said the satellite came over as scheduled last night, several hours after the Mocow broadcast about the meteorite bombardment. The spokesman said the satellite was emitting a steady signal.

Radio Moscow said that in the last stage of its existence, Sputnik will come closer to the earth and give off light like a meteor and that "its light will be observable for a long time."

In New York, Dr. Sergei M. Poloskov said the Russians intend to share with the United States and other nations scientific information obtained from the moonlet.

Motorist Rescues Invalid From Burning Home Here

A Pontiac man entered a smoke-filled house, Thursday, and carried its invalid owner to safety before firemen arrived at the scene, according to the Pontiac Fire Department.

Robert McKinley, 23, of 357 N. Saginaw St., driving home from work yesterday afternoon, noticed smoke coming from the home of Hensley McGough, 340 N. Paddock St.

McKinley ran to the one-story frame house which was rapidly filling with smoke. He flagged down a passing wrecker with a two-way radio and told the driver to turn in an alarm.

When he entered the house, he said, "The smoke was so thick that I had to crocuh low to the floor. I finally saw a man lying on the floor in the living room, trying to crawl toward the door."

McGouqh, an invalid who cannot walk, was still conscious when McKinley carried him in his arms to his car. No one else was in the house.

McKinley said that the sweater McGough was wearing had been scorched by flames, but otherwise he appeared uninjured.

Firemen arrived and fought the blaze for about an hour. Damage was estimated at approximately $2,500, said firemen. The fire started in the living room and was evidently touched off by a cigarette.

McKinley is employed at the Dostal Foundry and Machine Co., 2500 Williams Dr., Waterford Township.

Man Faces Court in Wife's Death

Utica Factory Worker Held for Examination on Murder Charge

A plea of not guilty was entered for a 45-year-old Utica factory worker when he was arraigned yesterday before Macomb County Judge Francis A. Castelluci in the clubbing death of his wife.

Examination has been set for Oct. 23 for Archie Wedge, of 6077 Higgins, Utica. He is being held on a $10,000 bond.

In a warrant issued Thursday by Macomb County Prosecutor Cecil A. Byers, Wedge is accused of clubbing his wife Louise, 47, to death with a rifle following a family quarrel.

Wedge made a statement to Byers saying he was sitting in a chair when his wife struck him with the rifle. He then grabbed the weapon and struck her once, Byers quoted Wedge as saying.

Wedge, a tool-and-die helper at Chrysler's Mound Road plant, Detroit, told arresting officers that he and his wife argued bitterly about his alleged attentions to other women.

The incident occurred when he returned from work at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Put Pot-O-Gold in Your Pockets, Now Worth $500

Although several contestants came close to the winning Pot-O-Gold answers and one even got them all right but one, no one came up with the perfect solution, so this week's puzzle is now worth $500.

You still have time to send your entry, as it doesn't have to be postmarked until midnight Tuesday. If you're interested in becoming $500 richer, turn to page 34 and see what you can do about figuring out the right answers.

Answers and explanations for last week's puzzle appear on page 46.

Mackie to Meet City Delegation

Group to Ask Him Why Pontiac Was Left Out of Highway Planning

Pontiac representatives will meet with State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie Wednesday to urge construction of a new Pontiac expressway.

Mackie has agreed to a meeting in his Lansing office to discuss the absence of super-highway leading to and from Pontiac in his highway plans for the next five years.

The appointment, at 2 p.m. Wednesday, was confirmed today by John Hirlinger, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

Hirlinger said he would attend the meeting along with the chamber's first vice president, John A. Riley. Also asked to attend are:

Mayor William W. Donaldson, City Manager Walter K. Willman; Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors; Willis M. Brewer, Pontiac branch manager of the Secretary of State's Office and George N. Scrubb, director of the Oakland County Planning Commission.

In Mackie's five-year highway plan, Hirlinger noted, all Michigan cities of more than 50,000 population have been promised super-highways, with the exception of Pontiac and Royal Oak.

Look Out for Frost; Low 31-35 Tonight

More cool nights are in prospect for the Pontiac area. The U.S. Weather Bureau predicts clear and cooler tonight with frost likely. The low will be around 31-35 degrees.

Tomorrow will be mostly fair and a little warmer with the mercury going up to 60.

Partly cloudy and turning cooler with a chance of scattered light showers is the outlook for Sunday.

The lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac this morning was 42. At 1 p.m. the mercury had risen to 51.

Traffic to Flow on Straits Bridge Friday, Nov. 2

ST. IGNACE (AP) — The Mackinac Bridge will be opened to traffic Nov. 1, the Mackinac Bridge Authority announced today. This laid to rest rumors of a possible earlier opening.

First public traffic will begin crossing the 100-million-dollar span connecting Michigan's two peninsulas at 2 p.m.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, elected state officials and legislators have been invited for a pre-opening inspection trip across the bridge, but Authority Chairman Prentiss M. Brown said there would be no fanfare and no speeches.

Wilson Tells GOP in Seattle:

'Too Much Talk in U. S.'

SEATTLE (INS) — Charles E. Wilson says he thinks Americans "talk too much."

The former defense secretary told Seattle newsmen the U.S. "can't possibly get very far ahead" of Russia in a missile or satellite program. He explained:

"We—the military, the politicians, the press, particularly the columnists—talk too much. The present big fuss over the satellite plays right into Russia's hands."

Wilson, who spoke at a $100-a-plate Republican fund raising dinner, said he expects a 100,000-man reduction in the work force of the nation's aircraft industry.

SPOKANE, Wash. (INS) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) thinks the Russian earth satellite indicates "enormous American complacency" and called for a missile "czar."

For Slum Clearance

Federal Loan and Grant Will Assist Battle Creek

WASHINGTON—A residential slum area in Battle Creek, Mich., will be converted into a commercial and industrial section with the help of a $3,910,092 federal loan and a $2,726,417 capital grant.

The loan and grant were announced by the Urban Renewal Administration.

It said almost 70 per cent of the 342 residential structures in the 87-acre area are sub-standard. The area, known as the Jewell Street project, is subject to intermittent flooding.

Money will be used in part for rechanneling the Kalamazoo river by the Corps of Engineers. Net cost of the project is estimated at $3,972,897.

This represents a difference between the cost of acquiring and preparing the land for redevelopment and the return from its resale.

The federal grant will cover two-thirds of the loss, and Battle Creek will contribute the remainder.

Sounds Like Busy Signal on Telephone

Bloomfield Radio Ham Tracing Sputnik

Sputnik may be losing some of its sputter.

So says a Bloomfield Township "ham" radio operator who has tuned in on the Russian satellite several times since it began its journey around the earth.

"On one afternoon I heard the thing quit keying," said Albert R. Lewellen, 23, of 2124 Devonshire Dr.

"Then it broke into a solid tone and stayed that way for about 15 minutes until I couldn't hear it again."

"The pulses have been varying in duration also," Lewellen explained. He said this may indicate what phase of the scientific study the Russians had launched at that particular time, or that its batteries might be weakening.

Lewellen, a member of the research department for Bendix Aviation Corp. in Detroit, said listening to Sputnik's beeps was the greatest thrill he has had in his eight years of being a "ham."

This is something you don't hear every day," he said as he continued to twist dials on his commercial short wave radio receiver.

When he "got the bug" for being a "ham" back in 1949, Lewellen, who has never attended college, was the youngest operator ever to be licensed by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

He described the sound of the artificial moon, launched Oct. 4, as sounding similar to a busy signal on a telephone.

"It is generally clearer at night because the ionosphere breaks up some allowing the signal to travel easier and with less interference," he said.

Lewellen tunes in on the speedy object at 20,000 kilocycles with the aid of a beat frequency oscillator (BFO). He has also watched the pulses of the beep on a oscillioscope in the basement of his parents home.

85 Little Rock Churches Plan Special Services to Pray for Solution

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A handful of paratroopers from the 101st Airborne Division walked their post around massive Central High School this clear, chilly morning.

COMPLETE TESTS

Six-week tests were to be completed today by students. Three Negro boys and six Negro girls are finishing their third week of integration at Central High.

Generally both the Arkansas National Guard, which has been federalized by President Eisenhower, and the regular Army units take turns in protecting the Negroes and guarding the building.

Tomorrow, at least 85 churches in the Little Rock area will hold a special one-hour service to pray for a solution to the crisis.

A number of other Arkansas churches and some outside the state will take part in the Columbus Day service, which begins at 11 a.m.

Little Rock clergymen of several different faiths worked together in setting up the special service.

Among them were Rt. Rev. Robert R. Brown, Episcopal bishop of Arkansas; the Rt. Rev. Paul E. Martin, Methodist bishop of Arkansas and Louisiana; Rabbi Ira E. Sanders of Temple B'nai Israel; and Msgr. James E. O'Connell of the Roman Catholic Church.

Rabbi Sanders said yesterday that Jewish Reformed synagogues throughout the nation will join in the service.

Tonight, 24 Baptist ministers will sponsor a 15-minute prayer meeting at a Little Rock Baptist church.

Definitely No TV for Saturday's Game

LANSING (AP) — There will be no television Saturday for the Michigan-Michigan State football game.

Aides to Gov. Williams were informed of the decision in a telegram from Robert W. Sarnoff, president of the National Broadcasting Co.

Sarnoff said the decision was made partly because if this game was shown neither Michigan nor Michigan State could appear again this year on a regional telecast.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

Many people pile earth and leaves on the north side of their homes and use a slanting roof on the northern side of the home. Do these practices actually reduce heating bills?

Yes, these practices do save money spent for heating. The slant of the roof deflects harsh, cold northern winds, which pass on over the house. If dirt and leaves are piled up to the overhanging roof, on the north side of the house, and the top of the earth pile is slanted, this provides a beginning to the deflecting of the northern winds.

A vertical wall on the southern side of the house will absorb sunlight and tend to catch the heat from the sun, so that full benefit from its rays are enjoyed.

Coming of Queen Swells Ottawa

OTTAWA (AP) — This capital of Canada, its population mushrooming overnight to almost twice its normal 200,000, is a burnished, bedecked and excited city on the eve of the arrival of Elizabeth II, queen of England, and her husband, Prince Philip, duke of Edinburgh.

The royal plane carrying Britain's Queen will land at nearby Uplands Airport tomorrow afternoon for the beginning of a four-day holiday, prelude to a six-day visit to the United States.

Preparations have been in progress for months.

Five miles of fluttering bunting are strung on government buildings alone. Flags of Canada are everywhere, adding touches of brilliant red as they wave throughout the city.

Lawns are clipped, hedges trimmed, streets are washed and Her Majesty's North American subjects, hoping to glimpse their Queen, are laying out their Sunday best.

Planning has been so careful and painstaking that one official charged with preparations for a state dinner, is reported to have eaten and talked his way through a sample banquet menu twice to make sure that this affair will be concluded on schedule.

Hundreds of Royal Canadian Mounted Police, local cops and a special protection force are practiced in maneuvers for handling eager crowds, hysterical women and lost children. They are versed in all details of controlling mobs while, at the same time, permitting the Queen and her husband to see and be seen by as many of her subjects as possible.

The dominion's famed four-horse landau, in which the governor general usually rides to open Parliament, has been refurbished for the young Queen—whose great-grandmother chose Ottawa as the capital of what was then a province of the empire.

If bad weather upsets this colorful aspect of the ceremony, there is on hand a special limousine with a transparent top ready for use.

The opening of Parliament — Monday—is an especially important occasion, because it is the first time it has been presided over by the reigning monarch of the British Commonwealth, although the dominion has been a regular port of call in the royal rounds for three generations.

Television cameras are being set up at important stops. The Queen's speeches, and the duke's too, will be carried throughout Canada by radio. A horde of newspaper men and women — from England, the United States and from all over Canada — are arriving in the city. One airlines official, charged with moving the press corps from Ottawa to Williamsburg, Va., next Wednesday for the Queen's U.S. visit, estimates the size of the communications corps at 700.

Schultz said he and his associates were in the process of building a full scale model of Sputnik.

Sound Warning Over Turkey

U. S. and Russia Tee Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Russia confronted each other menacingly over the Middle East today, with each power warning the other against plunging the area into war.

Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev touched off the situation with comments regarded by the U.S. government as directly threatening Turkey. His statement, made in a New York Times interview, was published yesterday.

The United States struck back last night with a State Department declaration that this country intends to stand by its obligations to Turkey under the North Atlantic Treaty and is also "determined to carry out" its expressed policy of defending the Middle East against international communism.

Clearly warning that a clash in the Middle East might spread to engulf much of the world, the U.S. statement asserted:

"Mr. Khrushchev is himself reported to have observed that it is dangerous in these times to assume that hostilities, once begun, will remain confined to a particular locality. That truth should be prayerfully and constantly contemplated by every responsible official of every country."

The American statement is understood to have been cleared with President Eisenhower and to have been checked with some, at least, of the other members of the 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance.

Exactly how serious the situation is was not entirely clear here. Much appeared to depend on the outcome of events in the Middle East itself, particularly developments along the tense border between Turkey and Syria.

If some kind of border incident involving Turkey and Syria should get out of hand, the situation could rapidly become worse.

Much also obviously depends on Russia's real intentions with respect to the Turkish-Syrian tension. One major consideration, perhaps the dominant one, in the top-level decision to issue last night's Washington declaration was that United States intentions should be made clear to the Soviet government in order to minimize the danger of a miscalculation there.

The committee subpoenaed the records immediately after Hoffa's election. It is inquiring into charg that delegates had been handpicked to rig the election for Hoffa, as alleged in a court action which sought unsuccessfully to block the election.

Hoffa has been accused by McClellan and other Senate investigators of misuse of union funds and underworld connections.

In Detroit, Hoffa disputed McClellan's contention that the union constitution had been disregarded.

"How far do we have to go?" he asked.

Study Election on Courthouse

Board Considers Vote on Disposition of Funds; Location of Building

A special election to free $1,400,000 earmarked for a new courthouse is being studied by the Board of Supervisors' Ways and Means Committee, board chairman Delos Hamlin, of Farmington said today.

The committee, Hamlin said, also is considering putting to voters the question of where the new courthouse should be located.

FUNDS TIED UP

The funds have been tied up since last summer by a court decision holding that the county put more money into the building fund than could be done legally without public approval.

Hamlin believed that if voters approved using the money to build a courthouse, the funds could be freed for that purpose.

If it was freed, Hamlin said, the county could start immediately building the first $2.5 to $3 million section of the proposed building. The rest of the money for the first section, he said, could be raised by sale of county lands.

Hamlin doubted that the board would approve a public bond issue to finance completion of the whole $5 million building.

"We want this building to be interest free, and are planning to build the first section, which is needed now, and the second section when it is needed at some future date," he said.

The Oakland County Taxpayers League this week asked the board to consider placing all three questions on a public ballot. The League had brought and won the suit tying up the courthouse funds.

The county favors a new courthouse in the county service center on Pontiac's west side. The League prefers the downtown Pontiac site of the present courthouse.

Taxpayers voted for a courthouse bond issue in 1954, but twice turned down a tax increase to pay off the bonds. Subsequently, the county began accumulating building funds out of year-end budgetary surpluses until the present $1,400,000 was reached.

The question of where the new courthouse should be built has never been submitted to voters.

Admits Slaying 5-Year-Old Girl

'I Don't Know Why,' Farm Hand Declares of New Mexico Crime

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP)—Joe Franco, 24-year-old farm hand, was held in jail here today for the slaying last Sunday of five-year-old Sandra Joe Lucero at Roswell, N. M.

Police inspector Domingo Holguin said Franco admitted he ravished the little girl and stabbed her three times in the heart with a screw driver.

"I don't know why," Franco told reporters at the Juarez jail. He said he had been smoking marihuana.

Franco's capture ended a widespread manhunt by police in Mexico and the United States.

Two Juàrez officers found him yesterday at an uncle's farm near Torreon, Mexico, 480 miles southeast of El Paso, Tex.

Franco had been working on a farm near Dexter, N. M., and he turned up Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Lucero near Roswell. The parents were away and had left a 10-year-old relative to baby-sit with their children. Sandra and Franco had disappeared when they returned and the girl's body was found Monday night in a dump near Roswell.

City's 1st Postal Award Honors Late Chris Bailey

BIRMINGHAM—First postal employe award ever to be presented in Birmingham will be made posthumously to honor Chris Bailey.

Bailey died last November. He had served Birmingham Post Office for 20 years as carrier in the business district, and had made a host of friends among businessmen and their employes.

Postmaster Roland Reese will present the award to Mrs. Bailey in the near future.

Reese said that in addition to the friends he had made on the route, Bailey was outstanding in his devotion to his job.

One example of his work was his willingness to serve without assistance during the Christmas rush and his desire to consider it a straight-time job, without overtime pay.

The proposal that the Police Department discontinue issuing drivers licenses weekends and evenings has been accepted.

Four Pontiac boys have been ordered to report to the Oakland County Probation officer for a period of six months.

They were arrested by Bloomfield Hills Police for theft of gasoline from the City-Country School.

The boys are Charles R. White, 66 South Roselawn Dr.; Arthur G. Atkinson, 32 South Roselawn; Edward W. Neaves, 784 Scottwood St.; all 18; and 17-year-old Richard C. Nichols, 200 Judson St.

Oakland County Young Republicans, under the chairmanship of James Holmes, 740 South Bates St., are planning a series of speeches by state Republican leaders.

Holmes said the speakers are scheduled to inform club members of what is being done throughout the state to bolster and rejuvenate the organization.

First speaker will be Alfred J. Fortino, chairman of the Gratiot County Republican Committee. He will speak Oct. 16 at 8:30 p.m., in the Community House.

Says He'll Quit Hospital Interest

'I'm Not Under Fire,' Says McElroy; Used Teamster Money

DETROIT (AP)—John P. McElroy, who set up a hospital with money borrowed from the embattled Teamsters Union, says he is geting out of the hospital business.

"I'm not quitting under fire or because I'm afraid of anything I've done," said McElroy yesterday. "My name has been unfavorably connected with the hospital and I feel further participation would be detrimental to the hospital's welfare."

McElroy is publicity and personnel director of the Wayne County Road Commission.

He made the statement about quitting the hospital business while being questioned by county officials trying to find out if a conflict of interest existed between his share of the hospital and his county job.

The hospital, half owned by McElroy, is the Maybury Grand Medical Hospital. It received more than half a million dollars for care of county patients in the 18 months it has been open.

McElroy and his partner, James P. Hannan, former state senator, admitted earlier that they received loans of $381,000 from the Teamsters Union.

"There has been nothing illegal, unethical or immoral in my transactions," McElroy told the county officials.

He said he would keep control of the hospital building, but would lease it to a group of doctors.

Where Do We Go From Here?

Now that the World Series is settled, we all should return to normalcy.

As a means of removing our minds from our usual troubles, it was a great taker-offer.

Most of us forgot about one HOFFA personality. Perhaps he grabbed that opportunity to help him sneak in. But we still think he has two strikes on him.

In a geographical sense, for a few days we didn't care if Arkansas was still in the nation. The series made it look like a small forty-eighth.

And perhaps the Russians sensed our inattention to mundane things just enough to select that time for launching their new moon. The royal baseball fan was surprised that it seemed to take some precedence over the series.

Today our minds go back to our old worries—if we had any.

Football still offers some surcease, a haven of relief from unhappy thoughts, getting much help from hockey, basketball and bowling. We should use them.

Whether it is local, national or crowding the solar system, most of the troubles we worry about never happen, nor can they be influenced, as far as we personally are concerned.

And if we could be of any assistance in staving them off, worry only helps to nullify our efforts.

If the men we've chosen to look after these things for us do not do their duty, we're happy to be living in a great nation that provides us with the means of throwing them out.

So, if you're back to normal, don't worry about where do we go from here.

We're going forward, the same direction in which our nation always has gone, even when threatened from without or within.

Next year we'll have other worries, and we'll have another World Series to make us forget them.

Tito's Ex-Aide Djilas Sentenced to 7 Years

For writing propaganda against Communism and the government, Yugoslavia's former vice-president, MILOVAN DJILAS, has been sentenced to seven more years imprisonment at hard labor. He already has served one year of a three year term for a similar offense.

The charge against DJILAS arose from publication of the book, "The New Class," the manuscript for which was smuggled out of prison to the United States. The government prosecutor charged not that the book wasn't truthful, but that it is designed to harm Yugoslavia's reputation and undermine its Communist system.

"Having achieved industrialization," writes the one time Communist hero, "the New Class can now do nothing more than strengthen its brute force and pillage the people . . . its method of control is one of the most shameful pages in human history."

An American attorney, JOSEPH L. RAUH JR. had been retained by the publishers of the book to defend Mr. DJILAS, but was not permitted to enter Yugoslavia and the one day trial was conducted in secret. Representatives of the International Committee of Free Jurists and the American Federation of Labor also were denied entry. Yugoslavia's attitude is in violation of human rights of the Third Committee of the U.N. General Assembly, of which AFL-CIO President GEORGE MEANY is a member.

The length of Mr. DJILAS' sentence is a tribute to the wide recognition his book has attained as a most important political work and a devastating expose of the Communist system.

Wild Life Haven

Hwy. Improvement Makes a Visit to It Much Easier

Business: What returns to normalcy after that New York episode Thursday.

The best wild life sanctuary in the Pontiac area has been lifted out of the woods, as far as transportation facilities go. The Drahner Woods, up toward the northeast corner of Oakland County, and 15 miles from Pontiac, no longer has a single file trail through it.

You now can drive this natural habitat of deer, fox, quail, partridge and other animal and bird wild life, who have become so tame through not being molested that they will almost commune with you.

From Pontiac, go out Perry Street, which merges into Lapeer Road, and follow it through Lake Orion village to the intersection of Drahner Road (plainly marked) just before you reach Oxford. There you turn right and for five miles on a common dirt road you go through some of the roughest and most scenic terrain in Oakland County, including this sanctuary. Be sure to keep on Drahner Road, as tricky corners and turns are numerous.

You'll emerge on the Rochester pavement just south of Lakeville, which you can follow to Rochester and then home.

The autumn colors on Drahner Road now are magnificently gorgeous. Better not go through there when roads are wet. They're a little rough, but it's a great back-to-nature drive.

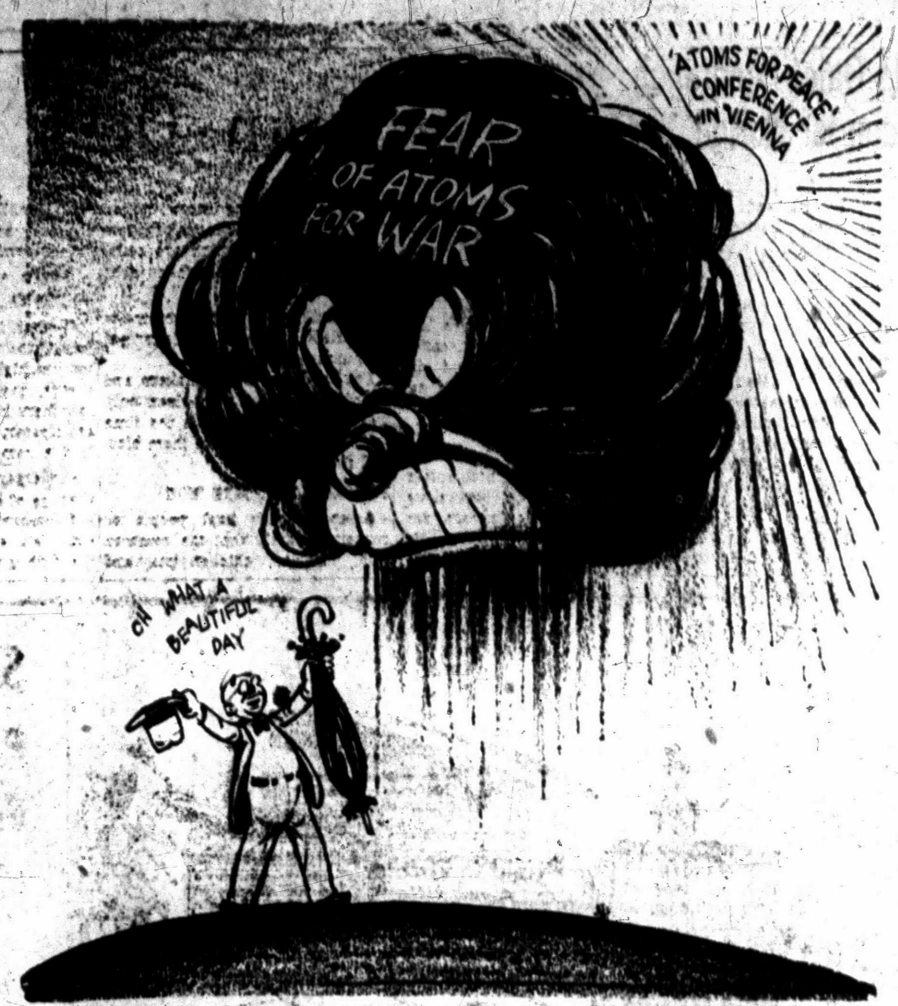
MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

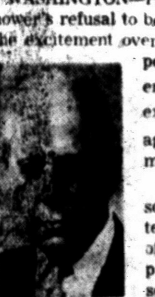


The Optimist—Still Carries His Umbrella

David Lawrence Says:

Let's Be Calm About Red Satellite

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower's refusal to be stampeded by the excitement over the Soviet experiments in outer space is an example of courageous statesmanship.



LAWRENCE

Judging by some of the hysterical outcries of various people, including some of the politicians, America should bow her head in shame, pull down the flag and offer to surrender at once to the tyrants in the Kremlin.

Or else, it is impulsively urged, the United States should begin spending billions upon billions no matter if it unbalances the budget, forces the purchasing power of the dollar down to ten cents and brings on a financial and economic debacle.

How amazing it is that, by the simple stunt of spinning an iron ball around the world, Americans in vast numbers can be led to lose their heads in an anguished clamor of the "for-God-sakes-do-something" variety.

What the Russian scientists have accomplished doesn't mean that the people of Soviet Russia are any safer today, with erratic and unscrupulous leaders in the Kremlin, than they were yesterday. Nor does it mean that hydrogen bombs, which can be dropped on all the important centers of the Soviet Union by jet bombers flying from bases within a few minutes from the Soviet borders, have suddenly become useless.

About all the experiment in outer space has accomplished is to scare too many Americans into thinking that back of this device is another, more deadly in the form of intercontinental missiles. Human beings however, are killed just as quickly with hydrogen bombs dropped from planes as they are from atomic warheads embodied in intercontinental missiles.

NO POWER SHIFT

The balance of power in the world hasn't shifted because a lot of Americans, especially many of the politicians, have lost their sense of balance. President Eisenhower doesn't profess to be a scientist, but he has had the good judgment to rely on the best scientific brains the United States can assemble.

The decision was made by the scientists themselves to go ahead with the ballistic program and let the stunts in outer space take plenty of time. Nobody can prove there was any military advantage lost by that policy.

Mr. Eisenhower, with characteristic courtesy, did not hesitate to speak highly of the Russian scientists. He might have said also, however, that much of what they know has come from American scientists in our governmental projects and that, had the United States not listened to the foes of security in government, there would have been less thievery of American secrets, as the records will in due time reveal.

What America needs is to protect her secrets and stop being swayed by the phobia of those who claim that all the scientists of the United States government know must be handed over to the scientists working for the evil clique in the Kremlin.

If an American scientist will not serve his government when it insists that he tell the truth to intelligence officers, instead of suppressing information that would help to detect espionage, then there is something wrong with his patriotism and with those who measure their fidelity to their own country by any such standard.

The rivalry among the military services is coming in for considerable criticism — as if this alone had something to do with the Russian "victory." Actually, the competition in research is a good incentive, and the real responsibility for the delay in working on problems of outer space can be traced to lassitude that occurred under the Truman administration.

Naive officials then almost passed up the hydrogen bomb when the top scientists were moralizing. Those episodes didn't expedite the projects that would have put America far head in the race for prestige in outer-space experiments.

The President isn't going to rush into big expenditures just because of what the Russians have done. He is likely to ask Congress for more money only when our own trusted scientists think it can be well spent—and they have not urged any major change in recent months and are not likely to do so even in the face of Russia's stunt.

Mr. Eisenhower is keeping his feet on the ground, where they belong—for the need of a balance and an equilibrium in a world so easily swayed by stunts and foreign propaganda is even greater than it has been.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Simple Rule for Posture: Just Keep Chin Tucked In

In an ancient film recently shown on TV, upper class cadets, hazing a plebe, make him "wipe off that smile, pull back those shoulders and suck in that stomach."

I hope that even plebes no longer cultivate the tin soldier posture — that is, in public.

DR. BRADY

The notion that one standing erect should suck in that stomach, pull back those shoulders and elevate the chin is ridiculous. Such monkey business is a travesty of good posture. So is standing with heels together and toes turned out.

My notion about this is that it would be a boon to America if every boy and girl were required to take a year of anatomy; a year of physiology; a year of hygiene and sanitation; and a year of embryology, prenatal and child care.

Whether one does or does not learn anything from the smattering of so-called "health education" to which he or she is casually exposed in elementary and high school, here are a few simple rules for the cultivation of good posture:

1. Don't "suck in that stomach." The front wall of the abdomen (greater body cavity) must necessarily bulge, protrude, expand or inflate when you take a breath (inspire, inhale), so it is absurd to try to "suck it in" or hold it in.

FORGET SHOULDERS

2. Don't "pull back those shoulders." Never mind the shoulders.

3. Don't try to expand your chest like a pigeon. Never mind your chest.

4. Don't try to keep your chin up. Try to keep it in, that is, keep it tucked inside of an imaginary high collar.

5. With chin in, the crown or back of the head is higher than the top or forehead — the posture for weight carrying.

6. Keep the feet almost parallel or only slightly, if at all, turned out, keep the chin tucked in and the crown of the head high and you will automatically assume good posture.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

If that lease can't be taken in the city's name, here's a challenging thought for civic-minded individuals. Why not a "home" for the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra? If Conductor DiBlasi can be retained, this organization will someday rank among the finest civic symphonies in the nation. Community pride makes such achievement possible, not the size of the city.

At the last concert I stood, willingly enough, because I knew what to expect. But I passed dozens of people returning to their cars because there weren't enough seats in Lincoln Junior High auditorium. What chance has community pride to assert itself if only a few hundred people can be allowed entrance to such events? The need is now.

Hal Higgins

Pontiac Could Build Community House

Mr. O'Neil's suggestion for an auditorium is a fine idea, but we must crawl before we walk. How about a community house? Communities smaller than Pontiac have them, and Pontiac could do as Gingellville did—build one floor and give suppers, dances, plays, etc., to raise the rest of the money. The public would not only feel it had a part in making a dream come true, but would have fun as well. Let's hear from others who think this idea would work. What smaller communities have done, Pontiac can do.

Quotes Statement of Negro Veteran

The most sensible article I've read comes from a Negro GI, Korean veteran and father of three children.

He writes, "I don't care if segregation never comes about. If whites don't want to live near me, I don't care. I wouldn't want to live near some of them, either. With forced integration they move the colored in and the whites move out. It's just a mockery and damages the economy. I'm not interested in having white in-laws nor in having my children attend a white school just because it is for whites. What I'm interested in is having my rights as a citizen respected, my dignity and equality under the Constition and the benefits and opportunities guaranteed."

For the last 25 years the Negro has been gaining but now certain politicians say it must be done at once. They are only fanning flames of passion and threaten to set good relations back. Is integration in schools so important to the Negro or are other things more important as stated by this Korean veteran?

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Buck-Passing Starts Early in Life

Notice how early in life Philip spontaneously duplicated Adam's strategy of passing the buck. Adam blamed Eve whereas Philip conveniently made George the "goat." And at the age of three, Philip was already a confirmed extrovert, chiefly because of his sequence in the family. See the test below for further differences between introverts vs. extroverts.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case W-317: Philip, aged 3¼, came in one day after a rain.

He had been walking in the water in his good leather shoes. They were soaked.

DR. CRANE

When Mrs. Crane saw them, she frowned and was about to remonstrate.

But Philip beat her to the draw.

"Mama, do you know what Georgie let me do?" he quickly asked.

"What did he let you do?" Mrs. Crane replied.

"He let me walk in the water without my overshoes!" Philip glibly replied.

Philip thus demonstrated what we call buck-passing. In psychology we officially term this device "projection."

It involves blaming somebody else for our own faults as a means of trying to wriggle out from under the resulting blame or twinges of our own conscience.

George was only 4½ years of age at this time, but already Philip had learned that his older brother was supposed to be his guardian and chaperone.

So Philip was already becoming a deft psychologist, for he tried to divert his mother's criticism to George.

Maybe George hadn't even seen Philip wading in the gutter with his good shoes.

But Philip realized that the older child is normally the custodian for its younger brothers and sisters, so he tactfully passed the buck to George.

I mention this case both to illustrate the concept of "projection" (buck-passing), which starts quite early in our lives, and also to illustrate how introverts and extroverts happen to develop those types of social outlook.

The oldest child is usually the introvert, for he comes on the family stage with no other youngster to threaten his reign or even to talk to or stimulate him.

Thus, the oldest child daydreams and lives in his imagination a great deal. He creates imaginary playmates.

INTROVERTS/EXTROVERTS

When the younger brother arrives, notice what happens. The latter sees this older brother as a more powerful person. So the younger child resorts to psychology to attain his ends.

He cries, albeit with crocodile tears, to bring harassed mother to his aid. In this fashion he manipulates his parents to help him get toys from the older child.

"Oh, give little brother your teddy bear," exclaims the weary mother, "for he is just a baby, you know!"

Reluctantly, the older child may part with his possessions under such maternal pressure, but he watches them and at night he tends to count his belongings just to make sure they are all back in his care.

Older children thus tend to be "counters." They budget their money more carefully in later life.

They are less talkative, as a rule, and more the poet or dreamer or scientist in temperament.

The younger child is more the extrovert, as the Prodigal Son so well illustrates. The extrovert thus likes to deal with people, as a salesman, receptionist, politician, etc.

He prefers to talk his way along, instead of writing out a report. The introvert, however, will choose to write his report instead of deliver it orally.

For other differences, send for my "Tests for Introverts vs. Extroverts," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

It contains several other tests and Rating Scales that make interesting material for party entertainment.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Secret Potion Poisoning

BONN, Germany (UPI) — A 85 Limpias secret police cap- Plow declared revenge-seeking communists recently poisoned him with a secret potion developed in Moscow.

Nikolai E. Khokhlov told a news conference the Russians have developed poisons which cannot be detected in the ordinary way.

Khokhlov, who defected to the West in 1954 and now lives in New York City, was hospitalized here Sept. 15. He was treated in a German hospital and a U.S. Army hospital but neither was able to find traces of poison.

Commenting on this, Khokhlov, who looked pale and haggard, said: "Since they didn't find any trace, it is 100 per cent proof that it was sent from Moscow."

Khokhlov said that during his years in Moscow, he became familiar with Soviet officials who worked in a supersecret laboratory that was developing a nondetectable poison for assassination attempts.

The alleged attempt on Khokhlov's life came during a conference here sponsored by the anti-Soviet National Alliance of Russian Solidarists (NTS), a Russian emigree organization which advocates violent overthrow of the Soviet regime. The conference took place in a city-run restaurant called the Palmengarten.

"The whole case is nothing but a publicity stunt," Doetsch told an interviewer.

Doetsch said German and American investigators told him they were skeptical of Khokhlov's story.

Khokhlov told the news conference he believes the poison was slipped to him in a cup of coffee.

...ess Drivers Find It Easy to Fix Up Tickets

CHIC... P... VANDERBILT
Justice of the crop ... Supreme Court of New Jersey prod...
he... courts having jurisdiction over violations of our traffic laws play an important part in the concentrated efforts now being made to increase the safety of our streets and highways.

Last year of the approximately 70 million licensed drivers in this country, some 20 million were ticketed for alleged violations. In New Jersey alone our municipal courts handled 990,901 traffic matters and collected $5,954,899 in fines and costs from erring drivers.

The traffic courts, coming as they do in direct contact with such a large percentage of the population, have become by all odds the most important courts in our judicial system.

On them rests the primary responsibility for developing in our citizenry that respect for law which lies at the very foundation of effective traffic law enforcement and on which in the last analysis all of our democratic institutions depend.

HARD TO UNDERSTAND

It is therefore difficult to understand why in many jurisdictions so little attention has been given to the traffic courts and why every proven device to increase their stature and effectiveness has not been utilized.

Perhaps the most common and damnifying criticism of traffic courts has been that so many people have found it possible to evade answering a traffic summons by the well-known political process of having it "fixed" so that the matter will never come up in court.

In a nationwide survey of traffic courts made a number of years ago unquestioned evidence of ticket-fixing was found in 39 out of 76 cities covered. In one out of every four cities visited the lag in traffic law enforcement was directly traceable to this insidious practice.

MANY FIXED

Generally tickets are fixed without the knowledge of the police officer who served the summons or of the judge who should have heard the case. How it is done is one of the mysteries of modern American life, known only to the politically initiated.

It is a vice, however, that is readily cured, as has been demonstrated in New Jersey, by the use of a simple uniform non-fixable traffic violations ticket.

The police officer makes out the ticket in quadruplicate with the aid of carbon paper. The original goes to the traffic court, one copy goes to the police headquarters, one is retained by the police officer who made it out, and one is handed to the offender.

All books of tickets are issued to law enforcement officers by the court and must be accounted for.

This kind of ticket cannot be fixed without the active aid of three public officials — the judge, the police chief and the issuing officer. After weighing the slim chances of success against the very real dangers of failure, few offenders consider it worth their while even to try.

FIX IT UP — Motorists often evade a traffic summons by the well-known political process of having it fixed so that the matter will never come up in court. The evil has been eliminated by a unique system of recording traffic violations in New Jersey.

That the ticket is non-fixable in practice as well as in theory is amply demonstrated by the experience in Newark, the largest city in New Jersey.

In the first four months the new ticket was in use only 607 were not disposed of in court — and most of these had been issued to non-residents who did not intend to return to the state — whereas in the corresponding four months the year before 14,529 tickets were not responded to.

The introduction in New Jersey of the uniform non-fixing traffic ticket by rule of court was violently opposed by many police chiefs and some prominent citizens, but significantly not by the policemen.

A spokesman for their association described it as "an Emancipation Proclamation and a Declaration of Independence for the patrolman."

Oddly, despite its demonstrated success and the endorsement and support of the Conference of Chief Justices, the Conference of Governors, and the American Bar Association, as well as many other organizations interested promoting traffic safety through the improvement of traffic law enforcement, the uniform non-fixable traffic ticket has not caught fire.

New Jersey is the only state where its use on a statewide basis has been made mandatory, although it is in use in a large part of New York, many cities in Michigan and in scattered cities in some 25 other states.

The time has long since arrived when every city and state should put an end once and for all to the vicious practice of ticket-fixing.

The means are at hand. All that is now needed is the will to do something about it and a day or two of courage while the beneficiaries of the old order are bewailing their loss.

Pentag[illegible]ool [illegible]ile Plan on Arm[illegible] Minister Snubs [illegible]id to Start Talks [illegible]n World Control

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Western diplomats at the U.N. today had hopes the Russians soon would accept an American offer to discuss international control of outer space missiles within the framework of the world organization.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko ignored U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge's bid yesterday to begin such talks, made at the beginning of the disarmament debate in the U.N. Assembly's Political Committee.

Observers pointed out, however, that the Russians are traditionally slow to respond to overtures on major issues, even when their own foreign minister is on the scene. It is standard procedure for Soviet diplomats to contact the Kremlin on any big questions and await specific orders.

The Western disarmament resolution was still held up while the 20 or more sponsors tried to agree on wording of the passage proposing control of space missiles.

One informed source said there had been a move to make control of such weapons the subject of a separate resolution. Military leaders in various Western capitals reportedly balked because outer space has never been clearly defined and any separate ban might put a halter on all ground-to-air rockets.

Russia Offers Pool 110 Pounds Uranium

VIENNA (AP)—Russia has offered to give 50 kilograms (110 pounds) of uranium 235 to the atoms-for-peace pool of the new International Atomic Energy Agency.

The United States has promised at least 5,000 kilograms.

Prof. V. S. Emelyanov made the Soviet offer yesterday. The correspondent member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences said Russia has "the most advanced knowledge in the field of nuclear science" and is willing to share it with other nations.

Gbedemah Is Natural Leader

He Boomerangs Mishaps

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Finance Minister K. A. Gbedemah of Ghana knows how to organize, how to fight and how to laugh.

These, among other qualities, have made him one of the three most influential men in the newest nation of Africa.

They also have helped win him an invitation breakfast with President Eisenhower.

For a Dover, Del., roadside restaurant picked just the wrong man to inform that he couldn't drink his orange juice at the counter because "colored people are not allowed to eat here."

The incident broke into print, and, as Gbedemah — pronounced bed'-eh-mah—said with a grin, he was invited to the White House to have orange juice to "make up for what I paid for and didn't drink."

The finance minister, a dark-skinned, handsome man who speaks flawless English with a British accent, was born the son of a prominent man of the African Gold Coast in 1913.

TEACHER, CONTRACTOR

He was educated at Adisadel and at Achimota College, both in Africa, went into business as a candy manufacturer, then taught science and mathematics at Accra Acaddemy and finally became a contractor to builders and an operator of passenger transport and road haulage services.

He gave up all this to enter politics in 1948 and became chief organizer of the new, energetic Convention People's Party, which demanded independence. He is still "director of operations" of the party.

As editor of the party newspaper, he published an article that got him thrown into prison by the British. He came out six months later to attend a rally in a cap bearing the initials "P.G.", which he explained to the crowd meant: "I am now a Prison Graduate and qualified to carry on the fight."

The cap became a symbol of the battle for independence.

With Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah and Minister Kojo Bossick, he is one of the most influential men in the country.

He and his wife, Adelaide, have five children. The oldest, Bisesu, 13, is attending school in Switzerland.

Crewmen to Arrive at Midway Island

HONOLULU (AP)—Thirty-four of the 42 crewmen taken off the grounded Navy tanker Mission San Miguel were scheduled to arrive at Midway Island tomorrow aboard the LST that rescued them.

The other eight, four officers and four seamen, were transferred from the LST to the salvage ship reclaimer to aid in salvage. The tanker is stranded on the Maro Reef 745 miles northwest of Honolulu.

The Mission San Miguel, carrying a water ballast cargo rammed onto the reef Tuesday night. The oiler, under charter to the Navy, was reported listing at 12 degrees and the engine room flooded.

Detroit was founded in 1701 by French traders headed by Antoine Cadillac who wanted to control the entry from Lake Erie to Lake Huron.

Crop Fore[illegible]an Who Killed Six Rushe[illegible]s in the Electric Chair

CHIC[illegible] DOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A crop [illegible] 50-year-old waitress who [illegible] with three daughters, her moth- prod[illegible] and two husbands with rat her [illegible]son died in the electric chair early today.

She left behind a wish for her body to be turned over to a medical institution. She said she wanted it learned "why I committed the crimes I have committed."

Mrs. Rhonda Belle Martin died clutching a New Testament in her left hand.

Mrs. Martin was put to death for the poisoning of her fourth husband, Claude C. Martin, in 1951.

After her arrest in March 1956, she signed a statement admitting that she fed rat poison to two other husbands, three of her children and her mother.

Her fifth husband, Ronald Martin, survived the poisoning, but the other victims died. Ronald Martin is the son of the victim for whose killing the waitress paid with her life.

Prison officials yesterday found in Mrs. Martin's Bible a note she had written Oct. 14, 1956. It was turned over to authorities at Kilby Prison, where the electrocution was carried out.

The note said:

"At my death, whether it be a natural death or otherwise, I want my body to be given to some scientific institution to be used as they see fit, but especially to see if someone can find out why I committed the crimes I have committed.

"I can't understand it, for I had no reason whatsoever. There is definitely something wrong. Can't someone find it and save someone else the agony I have been through."

The condemned woman was strapped in the chair at 12:07 a.m. and received 2,200 volts of electricity three minutes later after one false start. When the switch was thrown the first time, it was discovered the electrodes hadn't been plugged into the chair and the task had to be repeated.

Gov. James E. Folsom denied an appeal for clemency yesterday.

Besides Claude Martin, the woman admitted poisoning her second husband George Garett in 1939. She also told of feeding rat poison to three daughters, 3-year-old Emogene Garrett in 1937; Anna Carolyn Garrett, 6, in 1940; and Ellyn Elizabeth Garrett, 11, in 1943. She also admitted that she killed her mother Mrs. Mary Frances Gibbon in 1944.

Her written statement said she had small insurance policies on the lives of all six victims. She was tried only for the death of Claude Martin.

Fake Sputnik Throws Tasmanians Into Panic

HOBART, Tasmania (AP)—A toy rocket threw the Tasmanian capital into a panic last night. It exploded high over the city in a shower of sparks just as the Soviet satellite was scheduled to cross the sky.

Switchboards of newspapers and radio stations were jammed with calls from people who believed the red moon was about to crash.

The fake satellite was a student's joke.

Buys House for $125, Finds Bills Worth $500

SALEM, Va. (AP) — John H. Tingler was high bidder, at $125 for an old house which this town wanted razed to make room for an addition to the water plant. Tingler, in dismantling the house, found a tin box in the attic containing a lot of old money, United States bills of the old wide size now taken out of circulation, which he disposed of for $500.

Between 1941 and 1955 the number of families in the United States with incomes of $4,000 to $7,000 a year nearly doubled, increasing from 11,200,000 to 19,500,000.

Reds T- Didn't Punch Cows Lovely with a Guitar'; Praises Mo- TV Westerns Today

By ROBERT L. MOOPE

GOLDEN, Colo. (UP) — "Back in may day," he said, "they didn't punch cows with a guitar."

Thus, George (Pete) Morrison compared the Western film star of a few decades abo with today's singing cowboys of the screen.

Morrison, now 65, once shared the silent film spotlight with such horse opera stars as Hoot Gibson and William S. Hart. He figures he appeared in 204 films, including serials, two-reelers and scores of full-length features in which he was leading man.

"It was a rugged, rough life in my day, the life of a movie cowboy," Pete said. "Sometimes we worked 30 hours at a clip. We didn't have a union that said you work only a few hours and then it's time and a half."

Pete was a 16-year-old railroad worker when he "crashed" the movies "by falling off a horse for $10." His "break" came at nearby Morrison, Colo., a town founded by Pete's grandfather, George D. Morrison, in 1862.

"The old Col. Selig Picture Co. was at Morrison filming 'On the Warpath'," Pete recalled. "An actor dressed like an Indian was supposed to ride very fast and fall off his horse. They shot the scene, but the 'Indian' went riding through and didn't fall.

"That's where I came in. I

PETE MORRISON
No Guitar

put on the Indian clothes and did the scene. Really, there's nothing to falling off a horse — if you know how to do it."

That was in the summer of 1907 and Pete remained a double and stunt man for the next few years. In 1915, he played a lead for the first time opposite Winifred Greenwood in "A Game of Three." Soon he was skyrocketed to Western movie fame.

Morrison remained a star for nearly 10 years. Then a new era in films began. "Talkies" made their debut.

"Yes, sir," Morrison sighed, "sound broke in 1926. I was a sick monkey."

Morrison doesn't go to the movies much any more. Instead, he's content to devote his time to his ranch. He spends his idle moments watching television.

"I like the TV Westerns," Pete admitted. "Particulary 'Wyatt Earp' and 'Gunsmoke.' The acting in those shows is smooth and easy and they've got good dialogue. I guess Earp comes closest today to being my kind of Western actor."

Blind Need Recordings and Books

Congress Library Is Unable to Meet the Demand

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — More of the nation's blind people want to read, and their tastes are the same as those of the sighted, but a national program to provide "talking" and Braille books is unable to meet the growing demands.

Robert S. Bray, new chief of the Library of Congress' Division for the Blind, which administers the program, says it is reaching only 60,000, or one-fifth of the estimated 300,000 blind persons in this country.

50,000 RECORDED

Since 1934, says Bray, more than 50,000 books, including the Bible and "most of the good books, past and present," have been recorded. Before this the library had been turning out books only in Braille.

The Division for the Blind has about 45,000 record players in the field. During the past year about 7,000 more were contracted for, but Bray says this is still not enough.

The machines are furnished free to the blind and may be kept indefinitely.

The user does not have to worry about the upkeep. If something goes wrong the library repairs it. If the machine wears out the user gets a new one.

The recordings are loaned by some 28 regional libraries in the program just like any ordinary book and for the same length of time. They are mailed out in leather containers going post free.

MEDICAL CERTIFICATE

To be eligible one must have a certificate from a licensed physician, ophthalmologist or optometrist as to the degree of blindness.

Recordings and Braille printings are made at the American Foundation for the Blind in New York and at the American Printing House for the Blind at Louisville, Ky.

A new recording process developed by the former has added approximately 33 per cent more material to each side of the record so that the maximum playing time per side will be 27 minutes instead of the former 20.

Within the next few months all new titles will be on the longer-playing records.

BEST SELLERS

Current best-selling books are also being made available to blind readers in tape-recorded form by a non-profit, membership corporation, Best-Selling Books for the Blind in Phoenix, Md.

These are on a rental basis, with a charge slightly higher than the price list of the book for two weeks' use of the tapes.

The average talking book consists of 20 records. However, the King James version of the Bible requires 170 records, and Tolstoy's "War and Peace" 119 records, covering more than 50 playing hours.

Last year some 200 new titles in talking books and about 191 in Braille were reproduced, including fiction, biography, history, many of them from current bestseller lists.

St. Dunstan Guild members Mrs. William Vasu and Walker Graham are featured in "Light Up the Sky," which opens this Friday at the Cranbrook Pavilion on Lone Pine road, Bloomfield Hills. Additional public performances of this Moss Hart comedy will be given Saturday, Oct. 12, and Friday and Saturday, Oct. 18 and 19. Curtain time is 9 p.m.

AUDREY WEED

Tells Needs of Refugees

Peter C. Kalinke, former war correspondent and lecturer, described to Zonta Club members some of the problems confronting displaced persons today. The Fulbright scholar, who now lives in Birmingham, grew up as a Hitler youth. He spoke to 60 members at Kingsley Inn Thursday night.

During World War II he was taken prisoner by the Russians and transferred to a Russian concentration camp. There, he said, prisoners were classified into categories depending upon their physical ability.

He told of the inhuman treatment, lack of food, and how prisoners lost hope of ever living as human beings again.

In 1945, with assistance from America and the Christians of the world, the German people began to hope again. But another problem beset them, that of the displaced person.

These homeless refugees, the speaker noted, are grouped in camps. Children are placed in with alcoholics and mentally ill persons and, he said, many of the children are growing up with atheistic tendencies.

The need is for youth groups and proper training, he pointed out. In 1955, Mr. Kalinke returned to West Germany as director of a local integration United States Escapee Program.

The speaker organized and built this project in cooperation with the various international welfare organizations working with displaced persons in Western Europe.

The speaker warned of the Soviet Union, its aim of world domination, and told of experiences with the "inhuman activity" of the Soviet "Return to the Fatherland" campaign.

Three awards to the Pontiac Zonta Club for service rendered during 1956 were turned over to Mrs. Neil Wasserberger, service committee chairman, by President Mrs. Chadd Mellinger. Other committee members who worked on the project were Mrs. Adrian Ish, Mrs. Russell Evans and Mrs. Lillian Wattles.

The awards were for help in juvenile delinquency, families in crises and scholarship grants. Mrs. Mellinger had received the awards at a regional Zonta conference.

A guest of the meeting was Helge Siner of Frankfurt, Germany. Announcement was made of the Oct. 22 meeting of the group at the home of Dr. Sarah Van Hoosen Jones in Rochester.

Don't Choose Job for Glamor Only

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Just as one man's meat is another man's poison, one girl's dream job is another girl's bore.

So many jobs seem so very glamorous from the outside, but from the inside it's the same old grind.

That's why it's so silly to choose a job for its so-called glamor. Choose it because you have a real interest in doing the work.

FASCINATING JOB

For example, when I was very young, a "big girl" down the street, all of 18, had a summer job which absolutely fascinated me.

She worked in a candy factory, packing the candies in those little brown pleated papers and then putting them in the satiny box.

I, who had a terrible sweet tooth and considered those particular chocolates the best in the world, used to envy her.

Finally, I worked up the courage to approach her one evening and, with bated breath, asked for details about her job.

You can imagine my complete astonishment when she said, "Oh, I'm so sick of it! That awful sickly-sweet chocolate smell! I don't think I'll ever look at candy again!"

Since then, I've known girls who took jobs in theatrical offices, in movie houses, in fancy cosmetic salons, in dress designers' offices, in film producers' studios.

If all they took the job for was the glamor, they've ended up feeling just like my "big girl" friend in the candy factory.

On the other hand, if they've chosen the job for the work itself, they've done all right.

In the final analysis, it's what we do, not the superficial environment in which we do it, that counts.

STILL DULL WORK

If you have a dull statistical typing job, and statistics and typing bore you, it isn't going to be much pleasanter in the long run even if Gregory Peck or Tod Hunter drifts in and out of the office once in awhile. It'll still be little old you typing dull statistics!

So do, please, choose your job for the work itself and be sure the work interests you. Remember that all the icing in the world won't improve a bad cake.

If you honestly don't know what does interest you, you might get suggestions from my pamphlet, "Pointers to Your Basic Interest."

Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, care of The Pontiac Press, and I'll send it to you.

Brides Get Too Many Showers

Community Custom Has Become Real Hardship

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Here in this community where I live, it seems to have become a custom to have an unlimited number of showers for the bride-to-be and invite her friends to all of them. Not only that but they also specify on the invitations what you are supposed to bring, and more often than not it is an expensive item.

"This is becoming a real hardship to many of us and we would appreciate it if you will print something in your column about the bad taste of such a practice and thereby put a stop to it."

Answer: I certainly agree with you that the same group of friends should not be asked to more than one shower for each bride. Moreover, shower presents should be no more than trifles because they supplement, and do not take the place of, wedding presents.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please settle an argument? Is it proper for parents to request an invitation for their daughter and son-in-law who are visiting from out of town to a wedding to which the parents have been invited? I think it would be very much out of order for them to do so. What is your opinion?"

Answer: I agree with you that these parents should not ask that their daughter and her husband be invited unless the daughter is an old and intimate friend of the bride.

It would then be quite normal for the mother to call up the bride saying, "Mary is going to be visiting us with John just at the time of your wedding. Would you like to have them come to it?"

"Dear Mrs. Post: When I call my husband at the office, I always say to the switchboard operator, 'May I speak to Mr. Jones?' Whereupon she asks, 'Who is calling?' I answer by saying, 'His wife.'

"I have been told that this is the wrong way to announce myself, and that I should say, 'This is Mrs. Jones' — or 'Alice Jones.' Will you please tell me if I am wrong, and if so, what should I say?"

Answer: To say "his wife" as you do is correct.

Queen Prays for Success of Their Journey

New Chapter Begins for Elizabeth, Philip

(This is the last of six articles about Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip and their impending tour of the United States.)

By BOB CONSIDINE
By International News Service

Queen Elizabeth II works at a big desk in a combination office and drawing room deep in a wing of Buckingham Palace her subjects seldom see. There is a ton of paper work, much of it decided for her by Cabinet and courtier in advance, but still needing her perusal and signature.

It will follow her in the bright red dispatch boxes of the Foreign Office during her trip to Canada and the U.S. As head of the state and of the British Commonwealth her handwriting must be noted on countless papers and documents, and she is expected to know what she is signing.

At home the Queen's day begins at 7:30. Most days she's at her desk at 9, begins to see people from all callings and corners of the commonwealth and elsewhere at 11:30. She lunches with Philip at 1 o'clock, and of late has been turning these into business affairs.

Then back to work until 5, when she has somebody in for tea. There is a session with the children at 8. If there's no evening appointment she is said to like to kick off her shoes, read the papers or watch TV. She retires about 11.

She will follow this routine, more or less, until her death. There is no retirement age for queens of England.

CHIEF COUNSELOR

Philip has become her chief counselor and probably would be regent until Prince Charles was of age, if anything happened to Elizabeth II.

Elizabeth's family, once called in the House of Commons "our oldest nationalized industry," must pay for everything — plane tickets, rail tickets, groceries, the help, etc. — out of the moneys which come to her and to them from what is called the Civil List.

There has been grumbling from time to time about the high cost of maintaining a royal family and of palace advisers and people close to the queen, but traditionally these barbs are never leveled at the queen herself.

The London Daily Mirror gave space recently to columnist Cassandra's complaint that costly and unnecessary renovations had been made on the $6,160,000 royal yacht "Britannia," which is used for approximately 30 days each year.

Cassandra barked also at what he called plans to buy a British counterpart to President Eisenhower's Columbine — a $2.8 million prop-jet.

CLOSE CRITICISM

Royal criticism was brought closest to the Queen herself by Lord Altrincham who, writing in his National and English Review last August, described the Queen's speaking style as a "pain in the neck."

Elizabeth's training has been "woefully inadequate," he went on, continuing: "The personality convoyed by the utterances which are put into her mouth is that of a priggish schoolgirl, captain of the hockey team, a prefect, and a recent candidate for confirmation."

The Queen hardly ever replies directly to such jibes and suggestions. But she did take a stand in the wake of worldwide reports that there was a rift between her and philip.

The Queen asked her personal detective chief superintendant, Albert Perkins, to question all staff members, hundreds of servants and even the guards in their shakos, in an effort to pin down the source of the distressing rumors. (All had signed, as is customary, a pledge never to divulge anything seen or heard around the royal family.)

Press secretary Richard Colville denied the rift story in one line, issued from Buckingham: "It is quite untrue that there is any rift between the Queen and the Duke."

OPPOSED TO DIVORCE

The resignation of Cmdr. Michael Parker as the duke's private secretary, at the height of the reports, was said to have been called for by the Queen. But a usually well-informed source said it was only because of Parker's own domestic difficulties that he quit.

Elizabeth II, in both her role as titular head of the established Church of England and also in her occupation as a devoted wife, is vigorously opposed to divorce.

The rift rumors were aggravated by the good times Philip seemed to be having with old Royal Navy buddies and other friends during a 36,000-mile commonwealth tour between October 1956 and February of this year, a tour which included his opening of the Olympic Games at Melbourne.

He is, let one suggest, a gayer soul than the Queen, as well he can afford to be. But from all possible good sources, Philip is deeply devoted to Elizabeth, the children, and his job. For him to have kicked all this away would have been unthinkable as well as a shattering blow to royal prestige.

Philip called the Queen several times during the trip, using a line that does not go through the palace switchboard. He offered to cut short his trip and return immediately.

"That would be undignified," the Queen said. Instead, she went to Portugal to meet him on the way back.

SIMPLE PLEASURES

The handsome couple dominates Europe's, if not the world's, last full-dress royal court, but each can be as simple as those they serve. In season, when they can, the Queen, the prince and the children like to go off by themselves to a cottage called Gassalt Shiel, on the banks of the River Dee, a few miles from Balmoral Castle.

They make the journey across the Scottish moors in a Land Rover, a British jeep, after attending services at Crathie Church.

As Phip takes the children out to look for kindling and logs, the Queen spreads out the meal she is to cook. She turns it out on an old-fashioned range, and they have it in the cottage dining room. The prince does the dishes, helped by the children.

There is a sitting room in the thinly furnished cottage, but no bathroom, no telephone, no work, no people — not even nurse Helen Lighbody. They spend the afternoon near the water, playing, reading, listening to a portable radio.

When dusk gathers itself the little group picks up its things and goes back across the moors to the castle that symbolizes the curious jobs for which they were born.

For Elizabeth II and the Prince Philip a new chapter of their work book begins Saturday afternoon in Ottawa. It will be concluded after trips to Washington, Jamestown and Williamsburg, Va., and New York.

It will have bearing on the subsequent chapters in the life of Elizabeth, her consort and the commonwealth. She prays it will give substance and meaning to the new Elizabethan Age.

Extra Milk Is the Plus in Cookies

Mrs. Newman Can Vary Ingredients to Suit Her Taste

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Cookies appeal to young and old because they taste so good. When we can get extra nutrition in a food people like, it's an accomplishment worth mentioning. This cookie recipe from Mrs. Neil Newman does just that.

Mrs. Newman who lives in Bloomfield Knolls is a relative newcomer to this area. The oldest of her two small children was born before her mother finished her college education.

ZIPPY COOKIES
By Mrs. Neil Newman

Mix together:

2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
½ cup dry skim milk solids

Add to above:

1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup shortening, at room temperature
3 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 teaspoon almond extract

Mix well and divide dough in two parts. Add 2 squares melted chocolate to one half, also 2 cups uncooked oatmeal. To the other half, add 2 cups oatmeal and 1 cup nuts, wheat germ, coconut, dates or chocolate chips.

Drop on greased baking sheet. Bake 10-13 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes 8 dozen. This dough will keep well in the refrigerator.

Hoedowners Hold Gathering at Owen

Disliked Job Will Lose Glamor

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Until the Allens learned their second child was on its way, they were happy with their two-bedroom garden apartment. Then they realized they'd have to re-plan sleeping arrangements.

Mr. Allen said the solution was simple — that young Jack could share his bedroom with the baby.

But Mrs. Allen said, "No John, that's impossible! At 4, Jack's just at the age when jealousy is a terrible problem. If he has to share his bedroom as well as you and me with the baby, we are going to be asking for more trouble than we can handle. No, the baby's crib will have to go into our room."

So that's where it went.

But as many other parents have discovered, sharing their bedroom with the baby was anything but a solution for the Allens. It increased Jack's envy of the newcomer instead of appeasing it. It made a decent night's sleep impossible for wage-earning Mr. Allen.

Worst of all, loss of their marital privacy began to breed an unspoken but intense resentment between them. Mrs. Allen thought her husband a brute not to appreciate her loyalty to her maternal obligations while Mr. Allen thought her unforgivably casual toward her wifely ones.

FURIOUS AT CHILDREN

Soon they were not only furious at each other but at their children, too, for producing such strains.

Of this kind of situation, psychiatrist Philip Polatin writes so helpfully in his book, "The Well-Adjusted Personality," that I want to quote him.

Says he, "In these days when families are kept in quarters too small for their needs, parents searching for a solution that will meet the children's needs, frequently forget their own—one of the most important being their need for privacy.

"They forget that their original impulse to found a home together away from the intrusion of their own parents was based on their need for privacy in which their intimate relationship could develop and flourish.

"It is ironic how many people achieve emancipation from their own parents only to become enslaved to their children because they overlook their need for privacy or assume it must be lost when children come.

"We can do children no greater disservice than to promote their physical welfare at the cost of our contentment as husbands and wives."

I hope these wise words reach as many expectant parents as possible.

Hair Styles Call for Soft, Casual Look

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The continuing influence of Chanel in fashion has had its effects on hair styles, too. This fall, short to medium hair styles will have the soft look.

About the only way a girl can achieve a soft and casual hairdo that will stay in place is with a permanent. Knowing this, one well-known house has developed a permanent wave that is the ultimate in softness. With it, a girl can have any hairdo she pleases without the look of a permanent.

She will leave the salon with hair that is soft and manageable, that falls easily into place, that forms curls readily when she sets it. She'll be relieved of the drudgery of setting her hair every night or every other night. With this new permanent, she can set her hair just once a week when she shampoos it.

Under this fall's turbans and cloches, the soft hairdo with the definite line will be the prettiest. It's also the one that won't be flattened easily by a close-fitting hat.

Flooring Tip! Use a waste scrap of flooring as a block when tapping home the edge around strip of hardwood flooring. This will avoid marring the wood.

Crop Forecast Rushes Selling

CHICAGO (AP) — A government crop report which forecast huge production of wheat, corn and soybeans this year resulted in general selling on the board of trade today.

The entire futures list turned downward in early dealings, led by soybeans which plunged as much as two cents a bushel on expectations of an all-time record crop.

Wheat, too, was sharply lower, declining more than a cent a bushel on the distant July contract. Corn lost more than a cent on the March delivery and oats fell back fractionally.

In the export trade, Poland bought a cargo of mixed wheat at the Gulf and the United Kingdom took between 400,000 and 600,000 bushels of corn.

Overnight the Commodity Credit Corp. sold 10,000 bushels of corn, 500,000 bushels of oats, 500,000 bushels of rye and 850,000 bushels of barley at Gulf and Atlantic ports, all for export.

Near the end of the first hour, new style wheat was ½-¾ lower, Dec. $2.18⅝; corn 1-1¼ lower, Dec. $1.19¾; oats ¼-⅜ lower, Dec. 66¾; rye ¾-1 cent lower, Dec. $1.27; soybeans ¾-2½ cents lower, Nov. $2.28¾; and lard 2-17 cents a hundred pounds lower, Oct. $11.37.

Farmers Sorry for Pelting Eggs

Corn Pickers Inform Benson, 'We're Ladies and Gentlemen'

SIOUX FALLS, S. D. (INS)—Officials of the South Dakota mechanical corn picking contest apologized today to Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson who was the target of eggs thrown by five farmers.

Ray Loftesness, vice president of the corn picking contest, expressed regret and told Benson:

"I want you to know we are ladies and gentlemen."

The incident occurred yesterday as the secretary rose to give the government's side of the flexible farm price supports before more than 5,000 farmers at Sioux Falls.

One egg splashed Benson's hat. Another soiled the suit of Republican Gov. Joe Foss who was on the speaker's platform with the secretary.

The guilty parties, officials said, apparently threw the eggs in anger over price supports. State police seized five farmers who admitted throwing a half dozen eggs. The police took their names but did not place them under arrest.

Gov. Foss said last night that authorities should prosecute the egg-throwers.

Benson delivered his speech despite the incident. Later he said: "It's un-American, certainly, and I don't think anything is gained by that sort of thing. Nothing like this has ever happened to me before."

Fangboner Represents Fire Fighters Group

Elmer Fangboner is the Pontiac Fire Fighters' Assn.'s representative on the AFL committee working toward a merger of that union and the CIO in Oakland County, instead of Charles Evans as reported in yesterday's Press.

The name of Evans was reported to The Press as the representative by Grady B. Pinner, president of the Pontiac Oakland County Federation of Labor (AFL).

Crash Hospitalizes Rochester Man

A Rochester man is listed in fair condition today at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital after being injured in a two-car collision early this morning, according to hospital officials.

Roger V. Haley, 30, of 3160 Crooks Rd., was injured when his auto collided with a car driven by Donald D. Petz, 47, of 15183 Doney Rd., Capac, at about 6 a.m., according to Pontiac Police.

The accident occurred at Opdyke road and E. South boulevard, said police. Haley suffered multiple cuts and bruises and was admitted to the hospital for X-rays.

Selling Pounds Prices Lower

NEW YORK (AP)— Heavy selling pounded stock market prices down further early today, but buying support developed and there was a trend toward recovery which left prices mixed.

The high-speed ticker tape was running two minutes behind transactions in the initial rush which included many large blocks.

Losses among key stocks went from fractions to a point or more.

The market seemed to be reaching some kind of temporary climax after yesterday's sharp break, the worst in two years, brokers said.

Douglas was up around two points, then clipped the gain to a point. U.S. Steel went down, recovered, then slipped again.

Gains of around a point were posted by Boeing, Gulf Oil, Amerada and Lukens Steel.

Among losers were American Telephone, Republic Steel, Studebaker-Packard, United Aircraft, Union Carbide, Du Pont, Anaconda and International Nickel.

Leading rails, after a ragged opening, moved slightly to the upside. Gainers included Illinois Central and Baltimore & Ohio.

Opening blocks included: Phillips Petroleum off ¾ at 37½ on 10,000 shares; United Aircraft off 2 at 51¼ on 3,500, Bethlehem Steel unchanged at 40 on 7,400; and General Motors unchanged at 39⅛ on 4,500.

Asks X-Ray Balance

LOS ANGELES (INS) —An X-ray specialist says all radiation is harmful to some degree, but that its use must be balanced against what would happen if it were not used.

Superintendent Opposes All-Year County Schools

Dr. William J. Emerson, Oakland County superintendent of schools, told a state legislative study commission on school finance yesterday that he felt a 12-month school year in Michigan wouldn't work, at least in Oakland County.

Dr. Emerson was called to testify before the study committee composed of state senators and representatives serving on education committees and to state his opinions on the adequacy of state school support.

The educator explained the three-term, year-around program has been tried off and on around the nation but never worked out.

He recalled that Royal Oak and Hazel Park, both in Oakland County, had proposed sending youngsters to school all year about six years ago.

In a vote, parents generally favored three terms instead of voting taxes for more buildings but were unwilling to commit themselves to sending children to school during the summer months. Citizens soon voted higher taxes and built new schools in both communities, Emerson reported.

Emerson said he was well satisfied with the contribution made by the state government to overall financing of public schools.

In Michigan, the state pays about 54 cents of each dollar spent on public grade and high school operations.

Sen. Arthur Dehmel (R-Unionville), commission chairman, observed that only two other comparable industrial states contribute more than 50 per cent of the cost of schools, namely California and Washington.

Emerson said he would be pleased to see the state provide in the years ahead only for enrollment growth and effects of inflation.

He urged opening one or more new avenues of revenue to local government units to enable them better to carry their share of the load. He mentioned taxes used in other states, dwelling on a property transactions levy in Pensylvania, but specifically recommended none of these for Michigan.

Bowlers Allege Discrimination

Local Group in Court, Asks Damages and Full Rights on Alleys

Suit was filed in federal court in Detroit yesterday charging the owners of seven Pontiac bowling alleys with discrimination against members of a Negro bowling league.

Plaintiffs, six members of the Pontiac Bowling Association, said that during the past three years they have met with "inconveniences" at the alleys that hindered them from playing as an organized league.

They said they have been allowed to play only at certain times on certain dates, repeatedly have been assigned side alleys, and have been given faulty equipment.

Plaintiffs asked $1,000 damages apiece plus a restraining order preventing the seven alley owners from denying league members their full civil rights.

The suit arose out of an incident at the Pontiac Recreation Club, 18 N. Perry St. last summer, it was stated. At that time, it was alleged, the plaintiffs were prevented from bowling and a fracas ensued which resulted in a police officer being summoned.

The officer, Patrolman Gerald Smith, and Police Chief Herbert W. Straley were named as co-defendants in the suit.

San Marino's Reds Surrender to Foes

SAN MARINO (AP) — San Marino's Communist government surrendered its power to a rival anti-Communist regime today, ending 12 years of red rule over this tiny republic.

The Communist leadership announced capitulation in a proclamation read in San Marino's village square.

The proclamation said the Communist government had "decided to give up its useless resistance as a sacrifice to the welfare of the state."

The proclamation did not say precisely when the Reds would hand over power to the new government.

But Communist leaders and their supporters were already seen leaving the government palace they have held since the teapot revolution erupted Oct. 1.

Explains Paint on Highways

Parallel Lines Called Way of Testing Stripes for Durability

LANSING (AP) — Those parallel lines a motorist sees painted crosswise on the highways are the researcher's way of stretching road dollars spent for paint.

How it works was explained today by Dr. Art Permoda, chemist in the State Highway department's research laboratory at Michigan State University.

The purpose, said Permoda, is to arrive at a basis for buying paint for road striping that will cost the least per mile per year.

Wearing ability, then, becomes a primary consideration. It can be measured by inspection, on a comparative basis, after car and truck tires have ground away at the painted lines, say for a year.

Permoda says the test painting also provides an index of ability to withstand weathering, especially effects of moisture.

Other special requirements for road-striping paint are that it must dry within 45 minutes to prevent tracking while fresh, and ability to hold the tiny glass beads used in reflectorization.

The glass beads, which range in size from 20 thousandths of an inch down to a tenth that size, are mixed with the paint when it is applied. Another layer is sprinkled on top before the coating dries.

The glass beads are what pick up your headlight beam in the night and make markings on the paint luminous.

Small Nuclear Device Exploded by Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has tested another nuclear device at a point north of the Arctic Circle, the Atomic Energy Commission reports.

In a brief announcement yesterday, the AEC said:

"Another nuclear test has been conducted in the current Soviet series, the latest test was a small explosion on Oct. 10 at a site north of the Arctic Circle."

The current Soviet tests started Aug. 23. The AEC also has reported a Sept. 9 blast of moderate size, and Sept. 25 explosion which AEC indicated was a hydrogen weapon.

Last Monday, Moscow itself announced Russia had successfully tested "a powerful hydrogen device of new design." The AEC said later the explosion was of substantial size.

After completion of the proposed High Dam on the Nile, Egypt hopes to grow all the wheat she needs, Cairo learns.

Chrysler to Build Plant in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Chrysler Corp., announced today it plans to build an automobile assembly plant here to replace one in Evansville, Ind.

W. C. Newberg, Chrysler automotive group vice president, said the new plant is scheduled for completion in the spring of 1959. The first cars to come off the line will be the 1960 Plymouths.

Newberg said it would employ around 3,500 workers.

Newberg said it had not yet been decided what disposition would be made of the 30-year-old Evansville plant. He said it would be studied for possible conversion to some other use by the corporation.

Newberg said St. Louis was selected for the new plant principally because of need of a plant near Chrysler's growing southwest market.

Newberg said present employes at Evansville would be given a chance to transfer here.

The plant there will continue in operation through the production of the 1957 and 1958 models.

Get Comfortable, Gals, to Watch TV Programs

CHICAGO (INS) — A Philadelphia physician warns that sitting in an awkward position while watching television may produce serious circulatory disorders in the legs.

Writing in the Oct. 12 journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Meyer Naide urged TV viewers to get up and move about at least once an hour. He also recommended that ladies remove girdles and other tight garments before settling down for an evening of watching TV.

Dr. Naide, who is associated with the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania, reported three cases of blood clots occurring in the leg vessels after the patients had sat in awkward positions before their TV sets.

One man sat with the back of his knee pressed against the edge of a chair for 1½ hours, another man had his leg thrown over the arm of the chair for an hour, and a woman kept her leg tucked under her off and on for two hours.

Big Grade Separation Finished in Bay City

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department today announced that construction has been completed on a $285,000 grade separation in Bay City carrying the Bay City - Midland expressway and U.S. 23 over the New York Central Railroad.

The roadway will not be opened until the entire bridge project is completed in November, the department said.

$100 Million a Day Prop May Get Shaky for U.S. Business in 1958

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A 100 million dollar a day prop to business may get a little shaky next year. This is the average amount business itself has been putting back into the economy each day of this year in its spending for plant and equipment.

Contract awards for factory construction are declining. Corporate directors are appropriating far less money now for new capital spending than they were a year ago.

One survey just made by the Research Institute of America indicates spending next year could drop seven billion dollars below this year's record 37 billion dollars. Other surveys look for only a two billion dollar drop in annual rate in the early months of 1958.

Reasons given: University over the business outlook; the capacity to produce already in excess of demand for the time being; and the natural completion of big programs started some time back.

A survey by the Department of Commerce and the Securities and Exchange Commission shows the expansion boom leveling off now and dropping slightly by the end of the year.

The expected total this year of 37 billion dollars would be 6.5 per cent over the 35 billion spent last year, which was a whopping 22.5 per cent over spending in 1955. Spending less this year than last were auto, textile and stone, clay and glass product companies.

Public utilities are expected to keep up their expansion plans regardless of the general business trend. This year they're spending 6¼ billion dollars, compared with 4¾ billion last year.

The Institute's survey found 19 per cent of the 1,000 companies polled planning to increase spending and 35 per cent foreseeing no change.

International Harvester Boosts Tractor Prices

CHICAGO (AP) — International Harvester Co. has announced price increases on farm tractors, crawler tractors and some other construction equipment and farm implements.

The price increases, effective as of Oct. 1, raised the list price from 5-5. to 6.9 per cent.

Wheel-type tractors were boosted 5.5 per cent and crawler tractors and certain other construction equipment products an average of 6.9 per cent.

The firm said price boosts were designed to recover higher production costs caused by increased wages and salaries, and higher costs.

Boeing No. 1 Holder of Defense Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Boeing Airplane Co., has edged ahead of General Motors Corp., as the No. 1 holder of U. S. defense contracts.

A report issued by the Pentagon yesterday covering the six and one-half years ending last Dec. 31 showed Boeing in front, followed closely by GM.

General Motors' role as a defense contractor started falling with the end of the war in Korea, but a heavy backlog of orders kept GM on top of the list.

Burdette Can't Do It?

NEW YORK (INS) — "Burdette could [illegible]" That's how Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney laughingly summed up the superlative pitching effort of righthander Lew Burdette, who had just won his third game of the 1957 World Series, a 5-0 shutout of the New York Yankees.

Misc. 3271

By Mr. Cummings

In Re: Funds Available to DPW for Evergreen Interceptor and Farmington Interceptor

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Whereas this Board did, by Miscellaneous Resolutions No. 3168 and No. 3188, provide for the advancing to the Drain Commissioner, funds for assistance of drains in the following amounts:

Drain	Amount
Eight Mile Road Drain	$30,000
Ten ¼ Mile Road Drain	25,000
Artesian (13 Mile-Greenfield)	15,000
Wrey	15,000
Evergreen Interceptor	20,000
Farmington Interceptor	20,000
Troy Interceptor	10,000
Spencer	3,000
Rouge River	5,000

and

Whereas the Drain Commissioner has borrowed from the funds provided for the Evergreen Interceptor Drain and the Farmington Interceptor Drain so that there remain available for drawing, the amounts of $15,672.11 for the Evergreen Interceptor and $17,102.98 for the Farmington Interceptor, and

Whereas under the provisions of Act No. 185 of the Public Acts of 1957, a Department of Public Works has been established, and the Evergreen Interceptor has been established as a 'county sewage disposal system' and the Farmington Interceptor has been established as a 'county sewage disposal system',

Now therefore be it resolved that the authority to borrow the amount of $15,672.11 for the Evergreen Interceptor and the amount of $17,102.98 for the Farmington Interceptor heretofore made available to the Drain Commissioner by resolution No. 3168 and No. 3188 is hereby revoked and the County shall provide funds for a loan basis to the Board of Public Works for Oakland County for the drain and sewer projects as listed below by advancing from the County General Fund, a sum not in excess of the amounts shown opposite each of the following drain and sewer projects:

Drain	Amount
Evergreen Interceptor	$15,672.11
Farmington Interceptor	17,102.98

less any amount that may have been advanced to the several drain or sewage projects from the Drain Commissioner's Revolving Fund,

Further that all funds shall be repaid to the County General Fund, including cost of drain coordination, on issue of bonds or other method of financing for each of the above projects,

Further that expenditures for each project shall be made as required by the Board of Auditors of Oakland County with the approval of the Board of Public Works; and the Board of Auditors is hereby instructed to notify each of the municipalities of the advances from this fund on a loan basis and of their responsibility to the County from their proportionate share thereof.

Mr. Chairman, on behalf of the Ways and Means Committee, I move the adoption of the foregoing resolution.

In Re: Establishing the Level of Bevins Lake

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Whereas certain citizens of Holly Township who are either residents on or owners of property abutting on Bevins Lake in the Township of Holly, have requested me, the Supervisor of Holly Township, to institute proceedings under the provisions of Act 194 of the Public Acts of 1939, as amended, for the purpose of establishing the level of Bevins Lake, and

Whereas under Act 194 of P. A. of 1939, as amended this Board and the Conservation Department, either or both, have the right to proceed with the establishment of the level,

Now therefore, Mr. Chairman, I move that this matter be referred to the Drain Committee for a report to this Board at a subsequent meeting, said Committee to report the desirability and necessity of establishing the level of Bevins Lake.

Be it further resolved that the Conservation Department be contacted and acquainted with the contents of this resolution and their advice be considered in the Committee's report.

CASS B. WATERS
Holly Township Supervisor

Moved by Waters supported by J. W. Duncan the resolution be adopted.

A sufficient majority having voted therefor, the resolution was adopted.

Moved by Hill supported by Cardon the request for additional housing for the Children's Home, presented by Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore, at the last meeting, be taken from the table and referred to the Juvenile Committee.

A sufficient majority having voted therefor, the motion carried.

Moved by Carey supported by Cummings the Board adjourn subject to call of the Chair.

A sufficient majority having voted therefore, the motion carried.

Special Election at Washington

Township Board Plans Early December Vote on Expansion

ROMEO — The Washington township board is planning a special election early in December to determine whether voters favor a proposed program of expansion for the township.

Electors will also be asked to approve the levy of one-half mill a year per thousand dollars of assessed valuation to support the program.

Some 60 township residents, meeting in the Romeo High School auditorium, unanimously approved the idea of comprehensive planning for growth in the township. They heard William G. Rowden, director of Macomb County Planning Commission, and Charles F. Leman of a Detroit planning consultant firm.

The speakers explained the advantages of hiring trained technicians to handle problems of zoning, subdivision control, land use and population increase. They said that the present township zoning ordinance, now five years old, is outmoded.

Leman stated that the tentative cost of a "complete, comprehensive" study of all phases of growth in the township would amount to $5,000 per year for three years. A less detailed plan, covering a year and a half, would cost $7,500, he said.

* * *

Township Supervisor Eugene R. Inwood told the audience that with funds on hand and assured income the township could raise $2,500 a year. The remainder would have to be provided by taxation or one-half mill a year per thousand on assessed valuation.

Lafayette was bald-headed; wore a wig.

At West Bloomfield High School

2 Top Pie Makers Named

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Judy Couzens and Mrs. Paula Morris were declared the winners of yesterday's apple pie making contest held at West Bloomfield high school.

Judy's pie was adjudged the best in the junior division for school girls while Mrs. Morris won top honors in the senior division for housewives.

Other prize winners were Marjorie LeMond and Janice Logie, who won second and third places, respectively, in the junior division; Mrs. Donna Hamblin and Mrs. Edward Miller, won finished second and third, respectively, in the senior division.

The contest was arranged by Mrs. Mary Burt, homemaking instructor at West Bloomfield high school. It was sponsored by the West Bloomfield Township Kiwanis club.

The pies were judged on a basis of 50 points for the crust and 50 points for the filling with 100 points being the highest possible score.

The winners of each division are now eligible to compete in the Oakland finals at West Bloomfield high school on Saturday, Oct. 26.

Schools See Increase in Enrollment

Walled Lake Has 5,561

WALLED LAKE — When school attendance reports were readied for the purpose of collecting state aid here this month, 5,561 students were enrolled in the Walled Lake schools. This compares with 5,084 at the same period last year.

By schools, enrollment figures are as follows: Commerce, 625; Decker, 614; Glengary, 403; Twin Beach, 474; Union Lake, 421; Walled Lake Elementary, 657; Wixom, 231; Junior High, 1186, and Senior High, 950.

Census figures indicated that an additional 300 elementary students will enroll in the fall of 1958, says Superintendent Clifford H. Smart. For this reason the Board of Education has authorized the building of a seven room addition at Twin Beach. This, with the rooms now available, will make it possible to continue to keep all students on full day sessions.

Bids already have been advertised for the addition and will probably be let at the November meeting of the board, with construction to be begun so as to have the work finished by next September. Funds for the addition will come from the bond issue of 1955 and no additional taxes will be required to pay for the new rooms.

VFW Auxiliary to Present Flag to New School

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — VFW Auxiliary of Oxbow Post No. 4156 is presenting an American Flag to St. Patrick parochial School here in 12:30 p.m. ceremonies today.

The school, opened just this fall, is the pride of the parishioners. St. Patrick has the distinction of being the first Catholic Church in Oakland county and the second in the state of Michigan.

The original chapel, built in 1840, is still used on occasion.

The school is located at Union Lake and Hutchings Roads, near Union Lake Village.

Hunter's Ball Held Oct. 21 in Marlette

MARLETTE — The Hunter's Ball here, sponsored annually by the Philomathean Club, will be an event of Monday, Oct. 21, and will take place in the Marlette High School gymnasium.

Beginning at 8:30 p.m., the ball will feature round and square dancing, with music by Gene Mallak's five-piece orchestra.

Tickets are now being sold by grade and high school students.

Proceeds of the event will go toward the Community Park project here.

'Ortonville Gents' Take 3 Prizes in Hot Rod Run

ORTONVILLE — The newly organized Gents of Ortonville Hot Rod Club, participating in a recent "Reliability Run," walked away with the three top trophies presented.

President Ronald Shaltz announced that first place went to Bill Boschma driver and to Shaltz, as his navigator.

Second place was taken by Bill Killian driver and Randy Davisson, navigator, while third was awarded to Ronnie Wells and John Uloth driver and navigator respectively. Also presented to the club was a membership attendance plaque.

Other officers of the club are Larry Rowley, vice president; and Larry Sutton, secretary-treasurer. The group is sponsored and encouraged by Earl Rowley, Dick Tilwick and Jack Ferris, high school principal here.

New members are welcome to attend the meetings held every Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Prime requisite for membership is courtesy and safety on the roads and to offer aid to any motorist in distress.

There are no big barns or silos on New Zealand farms because the livestock stays outdoors all year.

MAKE MEDICAL HISTORY — Just 10 months ago surgeons separated Virginia Kate and Teresa Kay Bunton, who were born joined at the forehead. The Mountain City, Tenn. twins are now 14 months old. The operation, called "first of its kind" where both twins survived, was performed at National Institute of Neurological Diseases, at Bethesda, Md.

Seeks Director of Civic Center

New Romeo Building Lacks Administrator for December Opening

ROMEO — The Community Building Authority is seeking a program director to schedule and supervise all activities at the new Youth and Civic Center.

Mentioned as possible candidates for the part-time directors' job were teachers or college students working on their masters or doctors degrees.

* * *

The need for a director was listed as one of the first steps to be taken in preparation for the center's opening in December. The House Rules and Policy committee has submitted this and other recommendations to the Building use.

The program for the center, tentatively outlined, allots specific periods each day and evening for youth and adult activities.

An individual may gain admittance to the building through purchase of a membership card for a nominal fee. Organized youth groups wiill be charged a yearly rate, and institutional membership will be "welcomed".

Pending final approval of the recommendations, Advisory Board Secretary Mrs. C. L. Davidson, 213 Church St., was named to receive applications from prospective center personnel.

As the center nears completion, construction superintendent Royal A. Holt has been conducting tours for high school students through the building. Next week some 60 teachers will visit the center and learn about projected plans for its Authority. Other staff members to be hired, the governing body said, include a full-time secretary and a custodian.

Appoint Royal Oak Man to State Advisory Group

Among 15 persons appointed to a newly created advisory committee on nursing homes and homes for the aged announced by the State Health Department is Dr. Alan M. Potts of Royal Oak.

* * *

Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner, said the group will consider proposed revisions to state regulations concerning Michigan's 600 nursing homes and homes for the aged. Additionally, they will review all provisional licenses and temporary permits granted by the commissioner and will sit in on meetings called to suspend, revoke or deny licenses or permits issued to such homes.

Penny Supper Saturday

AUBURN HEIGHTS — The Altar Society of Sacred Heart Church is planning its first "Penny Supper" of the season, at the church on Adams road Saturday.

Serving will be continuous from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Proceeds will go into the church building fund.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR son, Stephen Clay Jones, who passed away Oct. 11, 1956.
He was a flower too sweet for earth,
Sent here but for awhile;
God marked him when he gave him birth;
And took him with a smile.
Sadly missed by his Mommy and Daddy.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF GUY W. James who passed away 3 years ago, Oct. 10, 1954.
Three lonely years have passed and gone.
Since one we loved so well,
Was taken from our home on earth,
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we placed upon his grave,
May wither and decay,
But the love of him who sleeps beneath,
Shall never fade away.
Sadly missed by wife, children, & grandchildren.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MAYME Ilene Kellner who passed away Oct. 11, 1951.
I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss her more,
As I walk through life alone.
Sadly missed by her husband, Max.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MR. Phillip Pelice who passed away Oct. 11, 1951.
His smiling way and pleasant face,
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Never to part again.
Sadly missed by his 2 sons, Joseph & Ernest, & daughter Julia & wife, Rose.
