New and Retiring Justices

Ike Appoints Judge Stewart to Supreme Court Vacancy

From Our Wire Services

WASHINGTON — Judge Potter Stewart, a 43-year-old midwesterner now serving on the Sixth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, at Cincinnati, Ohio, was named by President Eisenhower late yesterday to succeed retiring Justice Harold H. Burton as a member of the Supreme Court.

Stewart will be the youngest member on the present court although Justice William O. Douglas was 40 when he was named to the tribunal on March 20, 1939.

Stewart probably will undergo unusually close Senate scrutiny into his legal philosophy.

This is not because of the man, but because of the times.

The appointment was announced less than 24 hours after the disclosure that Burton was retiring on the advice of his physician.

Stewart, a Republican, was appointed to the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals by Eisenhower in April 1954.

Under a recess appointment, Stewart will be able to take his place on the nation's highest judicial tribunal immediately after Burton's retirement becomes effective next Monday.

Stewart Profile Page 10

When Congress reconvenes in January, his nomination to the $35,000-a-year lifetime post will be sent to the Senate for confirmation.

The new appointee told questioning newsmen Tuesday that as a circuit judge, he has had a part in deciding only one school segregation case — an Ohio dispute where the court ruled for prompt integration.

Stewart was recommended for the nomination by Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio).

DUE FOR SCRUTINY

Stewart's views will get prime consideration before the Senate Judiciary Committee, which considers all federal judgeship appointments.

Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss) the committee chairman, was at the last session of Congress a leader in the unsuccessful fight to pass legislation to curb the court's powers and to undo the effects of some of its decisions.

Stewart said his selection took him by surprise. He came here Tuesday morning for a conference with Eisenhower after a rush call from Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers.

Five of the nine Supreme Court justices, including Chief Justice Earl Warren, now have been appointed by Eisenhower. The political division remains at five Democrats and four Republicans.

NATIVE OF MICHIGAN

A native of Jackson, Mich., Stewart was a member of a Cincinnati law firm before going on the bench. He also served on the Cincinnati City Council and as vice mayor of the city in 1952-53.

Bernard G. Segal of Philadelphia, chairman of the American Bar Association's standing committee on the federal judiciary, issued a statement calling Stewart's appointment an excellent one.

Stewart's selection comes at a time when the Supreme Court has become a major center of controversy.

Its rulings on school segregation have been denounced in some quarters, while others have criticized its findings in Communist cases.

Patient at Coldwater Dies During Probe of 'Abuses'

COLDWATER (UPI)—A patient who has been the center of a second investigation into charges of abuse at the Coldwater State Home and Training School died today.

The patient—Joseph Kibiloski, 45, Bronson—died as he was being examined to determine if there was truth to charges he had been "manhandled and abused."

State Mental Health Director Charles M. Wagg said an autopsy would be conducted shortly after noon. The patient died at 10:30 a.m.

Wagg insisted there still was no evidence the patient was mistreated.

About an hour before Kibiloski died, Wagg said the patient was "ill," but not necessarily from whatever caused the bruises on his body.

Earlier, Rep. Harry Phillips (R-Port Huron) said it was "definitely established" the patient was "manhandled and abused and dragged up and down stairs."

Phillips' committee was formed by the 1958 legislature after Rep. Carroll Newton (R-Delton) claimed his brother-in-law was mishandled by attendants before his death.

The committee did not come up with conclusive proof of mistreatment.

Wagg said Kibiloski entered the cottage Sept. 26 and was taken out Sept. 29.

"In hindsight, I am critical of the fact that he was put in this particular cottage," Wagg said.

Wagg said the incident points up "the need for the resources to help improve our level of supervision."

The investigation started when Kibiloski's relatives complained to Sen. John P. Smeekens (R-Coldwater). Phillips flew to Coldwater in his private plane Monday.

Mild Weather Due to Linger Awhile

Partly cloudy is the forecast for tonight and tomorrow by the U. S. Weather Bureau with the low about 60, the high tomorrow near 74.

For the next five days temperatures will average six degrees above the normal high of 65 and normal low of 45. No important temperature changes are expected, except Saturday will be cooler.

Sixty was the lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury stood at 74 at 2 p.m.

Local Strikes Still Crippling General Motors

IUE Spokesmen Deny Agreement at National Level Reached Yet

DETROIT (AP) — New car production, with General Motors still badly strike-crippled, dragged far behind schedule for another day today.

GM's local strikes, going on since the national contract agreement with the United Automobile Workers last Thursday, continued as the biggest handicap to full output of 1959 models.

However, announcement of a new wage agreement between General Motors and the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) appeared imminent today.

A GM spokesman said yesterday agreement had been reached on an over all, national pact, but local-level differences at the six GM plants in which the IUE represents 25,000 employes had not been ironed out.

IUE spokesmen denied national agreement had been reached, but conceded progress was being made all along the line, and the union announced shortly before noon it expected to have an important announcement later today.

The IUE and GM national agreement is expected to virtually parallel that reached between the company and its 275,000 United Auto Workers union members last Thursday. It was for three years and carried increases estimated at 24 to 30 cents hourly over that period.

Ford alone remained without a strike. At the same time the Chrysler situation eased with return of about 6,000 of its 13,000 local plant strikers.

The UAW meantime posed a strike threat against American Motors Corp. unless it gets a new contract by Oct. 17 for 18,000 AMC workers.

The UAW yesterday cracked down on its striking Chrysler locals at Newark, Del., and Twinsburg, Ohio, ordering both back to work and charging certain strike leaders with irresponsibility. About 2,700 men are involved.

Four General Motors strikes were settled yesterday and last night. Largest of these were the walkouts of 2,100 Rochester, N. Y., products plant workers and 900 at Cadillac plant in Cleveland.

GM said employes at its Hyatt Bearings plant in Harrison, N. J., returned to work today without agreement. The 933 employes decided to get back on the payroll and leave settlement to negotiators.

Pope in Prayer Before Stroke

Prelate Dying After Stroke, Heart Attack

82-Year-Old Pontiff Sinks Into Coma as End Draws Near

Doctors abandoned hope for the Pope's survival after a cerebral attack this morning and a new crisis brought on this afternoon by "a grave cardio-pulmonary collapse."

(In New York, physicians interpreted the phrase "cardio-pulmonary collapse" to mean either that the right side of the Pope's heart had collapsed or that the collapse occurred in the artery leading from the right ventricle to the lungs.)

A special broadcast by the Vatican radio from Castel Gandolfo quoted the sixth and latest bulletin on the Pope's condition as saying:

"The syndrome (symptoms) mentioned in this morning's bulletin has become progressively aggravated. Energetic treatment has not given the hoped-for result. The

'59 Models Downtown

View New Pontiac Today

By MAX E. SIMON

For the first time anywhere, the shiny, new 1959 Pontiac will go on public display as the city kicks off its annual gala "Salute to Industry" celebration.

Although the rest of the nation must be content to wait until tomorrow, city residents will see the completely-revamped, ultra-modern '59 models in a brilliant procession this afternoon.

A motorcade of 26 cars, led by the colorful, high-stepping Pontiac Central High School Band, will travel through downtown streets in the first of a series of tributes honoring Pontiac industry and its employes.

The "Salute to Industry" festivities, sponsored by the Downtown Merchants Assn. of the Chamber of Commerce, will continue through Saturday, Oct. 25.

The unveiling of the '59 Pontiacs will be at 3:30 p.m. when the band strikes up at the Elks Temple, 114 Orchard Lake Ave.

The procession will move east on Orchard Lake to Saginaw Street and north on Saginaw to the Oakland County Courthouse.

There, the keys to 26 new Pontiacs will be presented by Semon E. Knudsen, GM vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, to Dr. Dana E. Whitmer, superintendent of schools.

These will be used in the school system's driver training program.

This year the cars are being donated by the division and the Pontiac Retail Store.

The new Pontiac will be displayed on a raised platform in front of the courthouse through Saturday, Oct. 18. Others will be stationed on the Huron Street side of the courthouse for the public to inspect through Saturday, Oct. 11.

Another of the celebration's highlights will be a contest, with the lucky winner getting an all-expense paid flight to Bermuda for two persons.

All contestants must do is complete the statement "I like the '59 Pontiac because . . ." in 25 words or less. Entry blanks will be available free from member stores of the Downtown Merchants Assn.

Many outstanding values will be available to downtown shoppers during the next few weeks. A special three-hour sale will be held by downtown merchants from 3 to 6 p.m., featuring cut prices on fall merchandise.

'Chain Letter' Scheme in Oakland Ruled Illegal

A new "chain letter" scheme which is now circulating in parts of Oakland County, and reportedly has rewards of U.S. Savings Bonds, is illegal, according to Chief Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor.

"This definitely is an illegal operation and anybody that takes part in it could be arrested for conspiracy to violate state gambling laws," Taylor said.

He said the Prosecutor's Office had received no formal criminal complaint against the operation, and thus could not act.

Supposedly the recipient of the letter mails money, ranging anywhere from $18 to $37, to the name on the top of the list in the letter, and eventually the sender's name will make it to the top of the list, at which time bonds will be given.

The Business Ethics Board of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce has also warned against the "chain letter" scheme.

Showers Don't Halt Series Game Today

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The sixth game of the World Series will go on as scheduled today despite intermittent showers that have fallen this morning, Charles Segar, acting baseball commissioner, announced. Segar ordered the stadium gates opened.

Segar inspected the diamond at County Stadium after the tarpaulin had been removed and said the field was in playable condition. The covering was put back on the diamond after Segar had looked over the field.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said it did not expect that the rain would continue this afternoon but that, at any rate, if precipitation occurred, it would be light showers and not enough to interfere with play. The showers, if they do occur, probably will be in the late afternoon.

There had been a heavy overcast all morning in the Milwaukee area, with several downpours. The city had more than an inch of rain overnight.

Some temporary parking lot areas around the stadium were so muddy that they were not usable.

Whitey Ford was manager Casey Stengel's choice to pitch for the Yankees against Milwaukee's Warren Spahn. Each southpaw was going to the mound with only two days rest.

Takes All Blame for Tax Dispute With Faubus

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — The district director of the Internal Revenue Service took full blame today for telling Gov. Orval E. Faubus it appeared he owed income taxes on $105,499.14.

The trouble was that the total included rent and operating expenses on the executive mansion for two years, campaign expenses and a gift automobile that Faubus and his wife received in 1954.

"Somebody goofed," IRS District Director Curtis R. Mathis said, explaining that anything a state furnishes by law to its chief executive is not taxable.

Faubus took the opportunity to accuse the government of using the IRS to punish him for his stand against integration and demand that President Eisenhower pay for use of the White House, if he had to pay for use of the executive mansion.

Faubus said he got a letter which said he had 10 days to protest the IRS charges.

Acting Internal Revenue Commissioner O. Gordon Delk, who took a less apologetic attitude than Mathis, said Faubus' overall tax affairs are still under scrutiny. He did not elaborate.

Mathis also said there are some items his men are looking into that may have "merit."

New Director Tours Safety Building

Eastman Attitude: Wait and See

By PETE LOCHBILER

A man who likes to conquer mountains has tackled the Pontiac Police Department.

George D. Eastman, a big, friendly man with an easy smile and strong handclasp, had a wait-and-see attitude as he inspected the Public Safety Building today during his initial hours as Public Safety Director.

The 46-year-old authority on police administration faces a tough assignment: reorganize the police department, restore morale, increase efficiency.

He's faced tough assignments before, and gives the impression of knowing in his own mind the standards he intends to impose on the department. Like the mountain-climbing enthusiast that he is, Eastman intends to survey the terrain here before choosing a path that leads to the top.

About Police Chief Herbert W. Straley, whose six-year reign was criticized by last spring's Public Service Administration report on Pontiac's police situation, Eastman has "no preconceived ideas" about a department shakeup.

"I intend to work with the existng staff officers to the best of our joint ability, unless some other course of action is indicated," he commented.

Seeing harmony as one of the basic needs, Eastman said he intends to set up his own program to better the department, and bring about overall improvements from the higher ranks on down.

He intends to improve the higher ranks first by instituting training programs. "Lack of supervisory and command training is a common lack in most departments, probably because its the hardest area to train," he said.

As for the rank and file officers, Eastman believes the best policeman is the one who has all-around proficiency, not specialties.

"In my opinion, if more policemen were able to do more types of jobs and assume broader responsibilities, most police departments would be better off."

This philosophy will be stressed in the coming month, Eastman indicated.

STUDY UF MATERIAL—United Fund building trades solicitors began their calls today, after a kickoff luncheon yesterday. Shown here are Oakland County Circuit Judge Clark J. Making Calls After Kickoff Luncheon

UF Building Trades Group Starts Work

Pontiac Area United Fund building trades solicitors today began making their first calls after a kickoff luncheon at Elks Temple yesterday.

This year's construction group goal has been set at $15,368. Building trades firms and their employes are being asked to "help build a better community."

Paul A. Kern Jr., construction group chairman and luncheon host, urged his workers to begin making their calls this morning. This entails contacting more than 250 firms and their employes in the area.

"When I accepted the chairmanship of the construction group, I did so with the intention of putting forth every effort to see that our goal is met. I expect as much from every man who volunteered to work in the group this year," stated Kern.

KICKOFF IN ADVANCE

The construction group annually kicks off its drive in advance of the general campaign. This enables the building trades workers to have an opportunity to pledge before the slack building season begins.

The construction group workers join the special gifts solicitors in making pre-campaign calls. The special gifts division kicked off its drive Sept. 29 and early returns indicate widespread acceptance of the giving yardstick as a pledge guide.

The yardstick scale, related to the individual's income, gives the prospective contributor an idea of what his fair share pledge should be.

Death Near for Pope Pius as His Condition Worsens

temperature is 38.2 centigrade (101 Fahrenheit), blood pressure 140-90. The pulse is frequent and is 140. Respiration is 38.

"A grave cardio-pulmonary collapse is setting in."

The Pope's last words before a deep coma set in were expressed to two aides: "Pray, pray that this regretful situation for the Church ends."

He apparently was fearful that his incapacity would leave the Church without a leader for a long period.

After a false death report this morning sent newspapers with black headlines of mourning into the streets of Rome, the Vatican radio established a running commentary on the Pope's condition in broadcasts from the papal antechamber in Castel Gandolfo.

The mournful voice of a priest reported some improvement at midday. Hopes returned — for a time — that the amazing stamina of the pontiff might see him through again.

But a few moments after 4 p.m. (10 a.m. EST), medical bulletin number six confirmed the worst. The Pope had suffered grave complications following the second stroke earlier this morning.

After reading the text of the medical bulletin, the Vatican radio commentator, still reporting from a room adjoining the papal bedroom, said:

"In the antechamber there prevails an atmosphere of resigned and calm anxiety.

"In the chapel adjoining the Holy Father's room, priests and members of the Pope's family are in prayer.

"From the door, which is ajar, we can hear, at times, the heavy breathing of the august patient."

The somber drama in the second floor bedroom of the papal villa in the Alban hills 15 miles south of Rome was a tragic one for the world's 450,000,000 Roman Catholics.

Many of them joined in prayer for the Pope's recovery or the blessing of a swift and peaceful death, a fate to which the man who was born Eugenio Pacelli apparently had resigned himself in his last lucid moments.

Everyone seemed to share the crisis of the Pope they loved, the man the world called the "Pope of Peace."

Weather-beaten peasants stood in groups, reminiscing about the long years during which the Pope had made Castel Gandalfo his summer home.

The natives, tourists and more than 200 reporters and photographers, their eyes glued to the massive archway where the Swiss guards stood on sentry duty before the summer palace, jammed the little square.

Television cameras were trained on the villa.

Two cafes flanking the piazza pulled in their tables and chairs to make room for automobiles to park.

It was a typical day of sunshine on the shores of Lake Albano, set in the crater of an extinct volcano.

But the undercurrent of excitement and expectation was a strange one for this normally sleepy village on which the eyes of the world had focused to witness the death agonies of the Pope—the 262nd legitimate successor to St. Peter as Bishop of Rome and Vicar of Christ on Earth, according to Roman Catholic Doterine.

Cardinals, diplomats and other high dignitaries moved in and out of the villa.

One woman from the village asked the parish priest whether there was anything that could be done for the Pope at this time. He replied:

"Yes. You can pray."

It was the second time the 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church and spiritual leader of some 500 million Catholics has been near death.

Four years ago a serious illness struck the pontiff, 261st in a long series of sovereigns who sat on St. Peter's throne, the oldest in the world.

At that time the Pope rallied and recovered because of what was described as "the heart of a lion."

REGAINED STRENGTH

He regained his strength and once again assumed a tremendous burden of work that has generally been considered one of the heaviest ever carried by a pope in the 2,000-year history of the Roman Catholic Church.

The pontiff carried that burden fully, often despite medical advice.

Last week he suffered a recurrence of the hiccups and gastritis with which his illness began four years ago. He persisted in his heavy load of administrative work and audiences here at the papal summer residence, but finally curtailed his program at his doctors' insistence over the weekend.

Moments before he was struck down Monday he had said Mass at the little private chapel of his summer residence and received communion. He was preparing to resume work in his private library when the attack hit him.

"My God! I cannot see! I cannot see!" he was quoted as saying.

As he had four years ago, the pontiff showed great powers of will and physical endurance. Again he rallied and for a time it was hoped he was once more on the way to recovery.

Tuesday night came word that his condition had worsened.

Patches of Rain Blur Forecast of Dry, Mild

By The Associated Press

A few areas reported patches of rain, with the main wet belts in sections of the Midwest and the Far Northwest. Skies were generally fair in most areas except for cloudiness in the precipitation areas and in the Pacific Coast.

Southern and southwesterly winds fanned warm air from Texas to New England, sending temperatures slightly above normal marks in most sections east of the Rockies. Readings were 10 to 20 degrees higher than 24 hours earlier from the Ohio Valley to New England. However, northerly winds dropped temperatures near or slightly below normal in the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama. They were near to slightly above normal in areas west of the Rockies.

Convoy Escorts Leave Quemoy

Report U.S. Ships Not Accompanying Landings During Cease-Fire

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Indications mounted today that U. S. ships have stopped escorting convoys to Quemoy during the seven-day Communist cease fire in the Formosa Strait.

An unescorted Chinese Nationalist landing ship put tons of ammunition and 450 troop replacements ashore on Quemoy today, the third day of the cease-fire. The captain said his ship "came alone" on the supply run from the Pescadores.

His crewmen told AP correspondent Gene Kramer on Quemoy that they did not see any accompanying U. S. warships on the 85-mile voyage.

The Nationalists said large quantities of supplies were pouring into Quemoy. The Communists had said they would hold up their artillery attack for a week provided American escorting of convoys ceased.

Washington dispatches said an order halting American convoying might already have gone out.

As it was Tuesday, the cease-fire quiet around Quemoy was shattered today by Nationalist anti-aircraft fire on the island. After five minutes of sporadic shooting a Nationalist transport plane emerged from the clouds and landed on the island. "I guess our gunners just got a little nervous over that C46," said one Nationalist officer.

Kramer reported that the 47,000 civilians on shell-pocked Quemoy are taking advantage of the lull to repair some of the ravages of war.

U. S. officials in Washington expressed hope today that Red China will convert its seven-day truce in the Formosa Strait into a permanent, dependable cease-fire.

That view will probably be expressed later this week to the Chinese Reds in diplomatic talks under way at Warsaw. U. S. Ambassador Jacob Beam is scheduled to meet the Chinese envoy, Wang Ping-nan, Friday.

Ask Library Project to Extend Facilities

Members of the North Oakland County Library Project were asked yesterday to open their facilities to non-residents.

Jean Johnson, project director and a staff member of the Michigan State Library, told library representatives that if non-resident fees were waived, the project would furnish more books to each member area.

The purpose of the proposal, she said, was to promote increased library circulation and stimulate interest among potential library users.

Member communities were to report the proposal to local boards of trustees. In the project are libraries in Clarkston, Highland, Holly, Lake Orion, Milford, Ortonville and Oxford.

Representatives from Waterford Township said there is a move to bring the township into the project.

Income Tax Question Not Bothering Williams

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams has not had any trouble with the Internal Revenue Service, his press secretary said today.

The statement came in response to a question prompted by a charge yesterday by Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus that the federal government demands taxes on living expenses provided by the Arkansas legislature.

Faubus claimed federal agents want to charge him for the "fair rental value" of his state - provided mansion.

"Governor Williams has no mansion and no problems with the internal revenue service," Press Aide Paul Weber said.

Faubus has an annual salary of $10,000. Williams gets $22,500 but no "living expenses."

Pilot Plans to Rise 20 Miles

Gives Up Jet for High Ride to Stratosphere in Balloon

Lt. Clifton McClure, 25, a jet pilot, was sealed in the gondola of the balloon again Tuesday night after a launching attempt Tuesday had failed.

McClure had been sealed into a 3x9-foot metal capsule jammed full of instruments at 1:30 a.m.

McClure has been dozing part time in an artificial atmosphere inside the capsule of almost 100 per cent oxygen.

There is almost no nitrogen in the gondola so that if there were accidental decompression at high altitude there would be no nitrogen in his blood to bubble and give him the so-called bends that deep-water divers sometimes suffer.

The capsule atmosphere also is pressurized to equal about 24,000 feet altitude.

McClure hopes, by this solitary feat, to further the Air Force's careful study of how nature treats man close to the edge of space. He hopes to learn more about what man needs to have with him and to know in order to survive there—and eventually in space.

He'll be nearing the eternal darkness of outer space, the region of intense radiation, the region where man's comfortable feeling of gravity is gone, the region where . . . who knows? That is what he hopes to learn more about.

This will be the third trip of the Man High series. It was to have started Monday, but the launching was postponed because of a widespread cloud cover.

A battery of experts in space medicine, physiology, meteorology, astronomy, space psychology and psychiatry will grill him constantly while he floats high above the earth.

The plastic balloon carrying him aloft will measure 200 feet in diameter at peak altitude. It was expected to travel about 300 miles and land somewhere within a radius of 100 miles from Amarillo, Tex.

If anything goes wrong, either McClure or the ground crew can cut the gondola loose to float earthward under a king-size parachute.

Mrs. McClure will wait out the long ride in her trailer home. The Air Force provided her with a receiver so she could listen to the panel of experts pick her husband's mind.

Employment Jumps 65,000 in Michigan

DETROIT (AP) — Employment jumped 65,000 in Michigan during the month ended Sept. 15, the Michigan Employment Security Commission reported today.

Of the gain, 50,000 was reported in outstate areas and 15,000 in the Detroit area.

The increase reduced the number of jobless in the state as a whole to 420,000, or 14.3 per cent of the labor force, and in the Detroit metropolitan area to 275,000, or 18 per cent of the labor force.

Mayor Asks Employers to Hire Handicapped

In proclaiming this week Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, Mayor Philip E. Rowston urged employers and civic leaders to enlist public interest in additional employment opportunities for the physically handicapped.

Rowston acknowledged the vocational accomplishments of citizens who are physically — "but not occupationally" — handicapped and commended the activities of such services as the Governor's Commission on Employment of the Physically Handicapped, the Michigan Employment Security Commission, the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation and the Division of Services to the Blind.

The Day in Birmingham

Plan Children's Parade With Halloween Party

BIRMINGHAM — Plans for the 1958 children's Halloween party sponsored by Birmingham merchants will follow those of recent years, according to arrangements made at yesterday's party committee meeting at the Birmingham Community House.

Ronald Reese, committee chairman, said the parade will form at the Board of Education Building on Chester street at 7:30 Halloween evening, under the direction of Parade Marshal Robert Girardin, city recreation director.

The line of march will proceed north to W. Maple avenue, east to Woodward avenue and south to the Theater Building where refreshment lines will be set up.

Judging of costumes will be done prior to the parade and prizes will be awarded after the children have received their goodies.

Junior and senior high school-age students will have their parties at the two junior highs and the senior high. Dancing, games and refreshments will make up the program.

Fourth through sixth graders will be entertained with movies at Baldwin School.

Registration, Reese said, indicates party attendance this year will be greater than ever before. He predicted the high school party will have nearly double the participants of last year's affair.

Letters were mailed yesterday to all business houses in the area who donate money, food and prizes for the party.

Tickets to the various parties are available to boys and girls who attend private or parochial schools, providing they reside within the Birmingham School District.

Attendance at the Barnum and Derby Junior High School parties and the high school dance is by ticket only, Reese said.

Service clubs, PTA units, school teachers, YMCA, Community House and Girl Scouts are serving on the several arrangement committees. They are handling judging, purchase of gifts and wrapping, distribution, policing the parade route and food distribution.

Eastman Attitude Is Wait and See

mits that he comes to Pontiac as a "trouble-shooter," and figures he can put the local department in shape within two or three years. He has signed a two-year, $12,000-a-year contract with the city and intends to leave when the job is done.

Interested in the Pontiac situation because he was hired briefly by the PAS to give an expert's opinion on its study here, Eastman thought the job would be "challenging and worth while."

Outside of five days he spent here in connection with the PAS report last December, Eastman says he is a stranger to the department and its officers.

He thought that the report, with its detailed recommendations for improvement, was a good one generally, which he will use as a guide.

"But the report was not my personal product and there'll be places where I disagree with it. The PAS study reflects the viewpoint of an outside agency. I'm the guy who has to actually work with the department."

As he surveyed his new post, Eastman may have been reminded of a day back in 1946, when he was suddenly faced with a similar situation.

Eastman was a sergeant on the police force in his native Seattle, Wash., when the city, worried about low police morale, inefficiency and hints of corruption, decided on a cleanup.

To find the right man for the task, the nation was scoured for top-ranking men. After the tests were scored, Eastman, though only a sergeant, stood second on the list.

"It was my big break. Though I wasn't in first place, it was decided that a local man might do a better job and I was hired," Eastman recalled.

Promoted to chief over 23 captains and twice as many lieutenants, the 34-year-old ex-sergeant found his keen interest in administration stood him in good stead.

For more than a score of months previously, he had been planning, as a theoretical exercise, the changes he would make to improve the department.

"On my first day on the job I was able to give dozens of orders I had thought of months before. It must have looked impressive to the city fathers."

After attending night school at the University of Washington on and off for 20 years, Eastman graduated with a bachelor's degree in political science in 1951 and the next year left Seattle for other things.

A variety of high posts and affiliations with college campuses in the past six years tie in with his long-range plans to settle down permanently as a private consultant and university lecturer.

Since Seattle days, Eastman has been director of the western region for the National Safety Council, a consulting expert with the U.S. Treasury Department and superintendent of police for the New York Port Authority. He's been associated with Columbia, Fordham, Hamline, Northwestern and Rutgers Universities and the Universities of California and Louisville.

The past year, he has been a part-time lecturer at Brooklyn College and New York University, where he is completing work on a master's degree in public administration.

Married many years, Eastman is the father of a daughter, Marguerite, 14, a son, George, 23, an ensign in the Navy, and another, John, 21, is a student at Rutgers.

Bids for construction of the new Birmingham Junior - Senior High School were opened last night at joint meeting of the Board of Education, Citizen's Plans Review Committee and representatives of the architectural firm of Smith, Tarapata and MacMahon of Birmingham.

Construction of the $4,800,000 school, located on a 45-acre site at Evergreen and 13-Mile roads, will began immediately after the Board's consideration and acceptance of the successful bid. The cost includes the site.

The school is scheduled to open for classes next September. It will house 1,500 pupils.

Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills fire departments are distributing safety pamphlets as a part of National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 5-11.

In the Hills, trucks have been stationed at heavy traffic intersections where firemen are distributing leaflets and answering questions on fire prevention.

The Birmingham Department, in addition to passing out leaflets, is showing trailer film in the two local theaters.

Fifty-Five Cardinals to Decide

Impossible to Say Who Will Be Next Pope

By STAN CARTER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The man who will succeed Pope Pius XII may be any of the cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church, or perhaps even a prelate who is not a cardinal.

The 55 cardinals will make the selection. They will gather behind locked doors at the Sistine Chapel.

The new Pope must be elected by a majority of one more than two thirds of the cardinals present.

All the Popes have been Italian for 400 years, and most speculation again will center around Italian leaders in the church.

There is an old saying about conclaves to elect Popes — that "he who enters the conclave Pope, leaves it cardinal." It means that those most talked about as likely candidates are seldom elected.

It is very possible the next Pope will be a prelate not even considered in Vatican circles as a candidate. Still, some names stand out.

Most prominently mentioned among non-Italians is Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian, Russian-born patriarch of Armenia, who was chosen by Pope Pius last June to succeed Samuel Cardinal Stritch as pro-prefect of the Congregation for Propagation of the Faith.

Bearded Cardinal Agagianian, 63, is the Catholic Church's foremost expert on the Soviet Union and communism. As a representative of the Eastern rites of Catholicism, his appointment might strengthen ties with the East.

Another foreigner sometimes mentioned is an Australian, Norman Thomas Cardinal Gilroy, 62, partly because of an old prophecy that the next Pope would be "shepherd and sailor." Before becoming a priest he served as a telegraph operator aboard a warship in World War I.

Prominent among the Italian possibilities is Archbishop Giovanni Battista Montini of Milan, 61, who turned down a cardinal's red hat in 1953 to remain close to Pope Pius as pro-secretary of state at the Vatican.

During his serious illness four years ago, the Pope named Msgr. Montini to head the Milan Archdiocese, a position where he added pastoral experience to his long administrative experience within the Vatican.

Another potential candidate is Giacomo Cardinal Lercaro, 66, archbishop of Bologna, who organized "Flying Friars" in radio-equipped automobiles to help counter the treat of communism in Italy.

The youngest is Giuseppe Cardinal Siri, 52, archbishop of Genoa, a brilliant scholar and also supporter of social reform measures.

Other possibilities include:

Extradition Proceedings Initiated Against Pair in Kean Murder Here

Extradition proceedings were initiated today by Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem to return two Texans to Oakland County to stand trial for the first-degree murder of George Kean here last December.

Arrested yesterday in Fort Worth was Lowell E. McComb, 33, who denied any part in the murder. He said he would fight any attempt of extradition to Michigan.

McComb was released on a $5,000 bond as a fugitive from Michigan, as well as another $5,000 bond naming him as a fugitive from Illinois where he is charged with kidnaping two Collinsville, Ill., policemen.

Charged with this kidnaping and the Kean murder is Thomas D. Smith, who, according to Michigan State Police Detective Charles A. Leaf, also has been arraigned and released on similiar fugitive warrants from Michigan and Illinois.

The third member of the gang, Demitrios B. Tsermengas, 39, of Ecorse, is in Oakland County Jail waiting examination on the murder charge Friday.

Kean, who reportedly tried to be the kingpin of rackets in Fort Worth and Dallas, was shot in the head "accidentally" by Tsermengas when he, McComb and Smith attempted to disarm him after Kean threatened to kill the three.

Kean's body was discovered Sept. 28 in a grave near Alpena where the three men buried it following the shooting.

The four men were on the way from Fort Worth to stage a robbery in Sault Ste. Marie when they stopped off at the Commerce Township home of Donald E. Chandler, 38, of 1872 Point Dr., where the fatal shooting took place. Chandler is free on a $500 bond as a material witness. Police say Chandler had no part in the shooting.

Pontiac Man Injured in Two-Car Collision

Thomas S. Perkins, 431 S. Paddock St., was injured yesterday when his car collided with one driven by Thomas V. Racine, 116 Auburn Ave. The accident occurred at the Judson St.-Paddock St. intersection.

Perkins was treated for knee and face abrasions at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

Atom Test Ban Big Issue

Arms Debate Looms in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A bitter arms debate loomed in the U.N. today as the Soviet Union threatened to match U.S. and British nuclear weapon tests blast for blast. The United States challenged the Soviets to make clear their intentions.

The Assembly's top Political Committee was expected to give priority to the disarmament question. The Soviet Union and India put in resolutions calling for an immediate stop to nuclear tests. The United States was working on a resolution of its own.

He said lack of Western agreement to halt nuclear weapon tests will compel the Soviet government to continue its explosions until it has reached the total touched off by the United States and Britain combined.

The Soviet delegation said later that Gromyko was referring to the Western tests that have taken place since the Soviet Union announced March 31 that it was suspending test explosions. The Soviets resumed the tests Sept. 30, saying this was necessary because the United States and Britain had not stopped their testing.

After Gromyko's statement, the State Department queried whether the Soviet Union would accept the British and American invitation to join in a one-year suspension of nuclear weapon tests beginning Oct. 31. On that date the Big Three meet in Geneva to try to negotiate a permanent ban on the testing.

"It is up to the Soviet Union now as to whether tests will be suspended on Oct. 31 or whether they will continue," the State Department said.

Some Western circles viewed Gromyko's warning as partly a propaganda move and partly an apology for the Soviet Union's having resumed tests after announcing a unilaterial decision to suspend them.

Gromyko told newsmen he wanted to point up the importance his government attaches to its resolutions calling on the nuclear powers to stop tests at once.

He declined to tell questioners whether the Soviet Union would continue testing if the Assembly adopts the Soviet resolution. He asserted that Assembly resolutions are only recommendations without legal force. But he added, "the sooner the big powers carry out the recommendations the better."

The United States has been consulting other delegations on a resolution that would throw the support of the 81-nation Assembly behind the Geneva talks.

LOOK WHAT'S HAPPENED TO PONTIAC—the industry's hottest engineering team changed the very foundation of automotive design to bring you advances no other car can offer!

Those exclusive Wide-Track Wheels sparked a chain reaction of wonderful new ideas: You can see the trim, tailored new look . . . it's inches lower without sacrificing roominess or road clearance. You'll discover this beauty handles city corners and clings to country curves in a way conventional narrow-gauge cars can't hope to imitate. And the ride . . . the miraculous freedom from sway, dive and bounce . . . this is a wonderful new experience in buoyant travel that you won't believe—until you try it.

But there's still more to the new Pontiac to stamp it as the big change for '59:

Vista-lounge interiors with full 360-degree visibility . . . seats actually wider than a sofa . . . Air-Cooled True-Contour Brakes for smooth, effortless control stop after stop after stop.

The industry's most advanced V-8, Pontiac's Tempest 420, gives you spectacular new responsiveness—with sound and vibration reduced to a point you'll find hard to believe and there's a new companion power plant, the Tempest 420E, that delivers phenomenal extra mileage—and does it on regular octane gas!

And there's lots, lots more to make your first inspection a truly revealing experience. Come in and see why no other car can possibly be so new as the new Pontiac—three great series: the magnificent Bonneville, the dramatic Star Chief and the brilliant new Catalina.

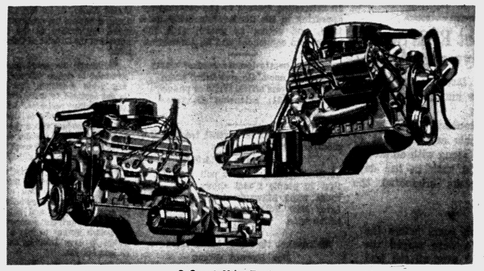
ON DISPLAY TOMORROW!



2 Great New Engines

If you love action—you get the liveliest on wheels with the bigger, more powerful 389 cu. in. Tempest 420 V-8, acclaimed by automotive experts as America's most advanced power plant. Unique new mounting design virtually eliminates vibration and noise. Available with 2-barrel, 4-barrel and Tri-Power (6-barrel) carburetion.

If you want the accent on economy, choose Pontiac's new Tempest 420E. You get a deep-chested V-8 with the savings of a much smaller power plant. In extensive tests this phenomenal new V-8 actually delivered better mileage than many smaller cars with so-called "economy engines" . . . and it uses regular fuel—saves up to 20% on gas bills!

Air-Cooled True-Contour Brakes

High efficiency cooling flanges in the air stream dissipate heat far faster . . . 59% bigger drums absorb quick-stop heat . . . 25% thicker lining lasts far longer . . . 10% greater lining contact plus true-contour fit of lining and drum mean precision action, less pedal effort. The industry's largest front cylinders give better front and rear brake balance for more effective high speed stops.

Seats Wider than a Sofa.

Plus plenty of leg and head room. Pontiac's living-room comfort lets you change position naturally . . . choose the way you like to sit—not the way you have to! Pontiac seats offer still other new comfort advantages over the average sofa. They're wider, have higher backs and slant downward at the rear to give maximum support under the knees for safer, more comfortable driving.

Hammarskjold Plans U. N. Diplomatic Role

Secretary General HAMMARSKJOLD'S report on his mission to the Middle East outlines a new departure for the United Nations as an agency of peace and order.

It involves a diplomatic role for the world organization and proposes establishing a U.N. representative in Jordan as a "presence" to observe how well the Arab states carry out their professed intention to behave as good neighbors and respect each other's integrity. The Secretary thinks the U.N. Observer Group in Lebanon is sufficient for that country but that the number should be increased from the present 280 to 1,000.

Jordan, which refused observers, will have as the U.N. ambassador the Undersecretary General for European Affairs, PIER P. SPINELLI, who will have branch offices in Damascus and Beirut. A roving second special assistant based at U.N. headquarters will be available where the need arises in Middle Eastern countries. These proposals have been accepted by all Arab nations.

There is nothing dramatic in these arrangements but they do give the U. S. and Britain justification for removal of their troops from Lebanon and Jordan. However, the U. N. can't provide a guarantee against such civil strife as is now being continued in Lebanon by the supporters of former President Chamoun against newly elected President Chehab and growing out of rebel preponderance in the new cabinet.

Future peace in the Middle East depends on how well the Arab countries carry out their promises to work together as good neighbors. Secretary General HAMMARSKJOLD may not have provided a solution but his patient and impartial efforts are slowly building the U.N. into a great moral force for peace.

Will We Let Reds Send Pros to Olympics Again?

All nations face an interesting problem in the matter of the next Olympic games.

In the last contests, the Russians used professionals and the rest of the world went along with amateurs, just as they did back in the days when the Greeks originated the Olympics.

A couple of years before the 1956 contests were staged the Commies took over all the best talent in the nation, told them they were now Olympic material and they would train for their designated events to the exclusion of everything else.

Athletics became an everyday job, just as a professional football or baseball player works "for pay." The Russians then sent these case-hardened professionals against the amateurs of the world.

The same thing will happen in 1960. The world faces three possible paths. The other nations can govern themselves accordingly and outstanding athletes can go on the government payroll and train for the Olympics the same as any other professional athlete does.

The second alternative is to do as we did in 1956. Let the double-crossing Russians use their professionals against the world's amateurs.

But there's a third way.

We prefer this one.

Serve notice on the cheating Reds that the 1960 Olympics will be for amateurs and if they wish to send amateurs, everything will be hunky-dory. On the other hand, if they don't like that method, they can stay home where they belong. And everything will be even more hunky-dory.

Why does the world go zany and bow before these cheap pretenders? Let's toss them in the ditch where they belong if they don't want to play the rules that govern the rest.

BLESSED is he who wanteth little and expecteth less, for his disappointments shall be few. Selah.

Unique Organization of Men in Army Uniforms

Leisure time: What's getting so expensive we can hardly afford it.

John R. Fortier

John B. Fortier

of the same address, has just returned from a shoot at Gettysburg, Pa. They fired with the Old Dominion Dragoons, and won third place in a field of 80 contestants.

Their organization is quite unique, as its uniforms are patterned after the Confederate gray, and its guns are authentic. It has 16 members, four of whom are local residents, the other two being of 2661 Elizabeth Lake Road, and

Warren G. Osman

Seely C. Dart

of 638 Joslyn Ave.

At the recent open house at the Moses Wisner home here, John B. Fortier added an interesting feature to the occasion by appearing in his Confederate army uniform, and acting as guard, with the proper gun equipment and all accessories.

At the request of several readers, the most urgent of whom was

An advance tip comes to me from

Mrs. Howard Wilson

of Rochester, President of the Southeast District of the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs, that the

will give two programs in that village on Oct. 15. No wonder the good residents of our beautiful suburb to the east are looking chesty.

For many years chief of the Pontiac Fire Department, and still a top Boy Scouter, of Drayton Plains in his retirement has become a champion in the piscatorial art. He has just won first prize in the blue gill division of a fishing contest conducted by the Otsego Lake Chamber of Commerce at Gaylord.

Frank W. Kuhn

The Job of Being the Life of the Party

David Lawrence Says:

Union Bosses Promoting Slavery

WASHINGTON — Some day the historians may describe the 1950s as "the age of hypocrisy."

At a time when the so-called "liberals" have been shouting loudly that "all men are equal" and that the liberty of an individual and his "freedom of choice" must not be restrained or restricted, the worker is being compelled in millions of cases to accept a system of private slavery, conducted by labor union masters, as the price of a job in free America.

LAWRENCE

The denunciation of the "right to work" laws that have been adopted by many states is an example of how the principle of freedom to work, as guaranteed by the Constitution itself, is being flagrantly disregarded.

Not a single one of the so-called "liberals" of prominence has ventured to make a militant fight for the "right to work" laws which are an issue in the elections this year in several states, particularly California.

Yet the Supreme Court of the United States, in its historic 1954 decision against the continuance of racial segregation in the public schools of the District of Columbia, said:

"Although the court has not assumed to define 'liberty' with any great precision, that term is not confined to mere freedom from bodily restraint. Liberty under law extends to the full range of conduct which the individual is free to pursue, and it cannot be restricted except for a proper governmental objective."

This definition of "liberty" would appear to invalidate the provision of the Taft-Hartley Act of 1947 which—unless state laws forbid it—permits employers and unions to agree on a private contract that compels a worker to join a union within 30 days after he is hired or lose his job.

State laws barring compulsory unionization were upheld in 1949 by the Supreme Court, but there has been no decision against the federal statute which legalizes involuntary membership in labor unions in most of the states of the Union today.

The Department of Justice has no unit or division that devotes itself wholly to the "civil rights" of the workers of the United States, and hence there has been no effort to get the federal courts to issue injunctions against employers and unions who conspire together under a plainly unconstitutional federal law to compel citizens to give up their conscientious beliefs and join an organization they don't want to join.

The unwilling "member" is also deprived of his property in violation of the "due process" amendment of the Constitution, because he is forced against his will to pay dues to an organization he does not care to join.

The "right to work" doctrine is founded on the words of the Declaration of Independence and is imbedded in the Bill of Rights of the Constitution, but the politicians on the so-called "liberal" side are apparently afraid of the labor-union bosses.

The Senate Rackets Committee in recent months has exposed monopoly, illegal pressure, fraudulent use of dues money and criminal activity in the control and management of certain big labor unions.

Yet the last Congress, most of whose members are this autumn up for re-election, failed to insure by the passage of legislation the right of American citizens to "life, liberty, and property," as guaranteed to them by the Constitution.

The Country Parson

"If you want the soil to produce well, you stir it up a little—I try to do the same thing with people."

Dr. William Brady Says:

People in Michigan Need Daily Ration of Iodin

A reader who moved to Grand Rapids, Mich., from New London, Conn., three years ago, says that since moving she has gained 30 pounds for no apparent reason, and her husband, although he has not gained weight, has grown logy and short-tempered. Their son, now 7 years old, was apparently over the bed-wetting habit before they moved, but soon after they moved to Michigan the boy began wetting nightly and continues to do so.

DR. BRADY

Drop 25 cents in my little tin cup and give your name and address on a stamped envelope. I'll send you two pamphlets, namely, "The Bed-Wetting Habit" and "The Iodin Ration." Of course the first applies to the boy's trouble, but I believe you all need a suitable daily ration of iodin. Virtually every man, woman and child in Michigan does, for the soil, water and homegrown food in Michigan does not supply enough iodin to meet the minimum nutritional requirement.

If you do not use iodized salt exclusively, in cooking and at table, by all means do so. Not that it will correct iodin deficiency—there is scarcely enough iodin in the amount of iodized salt an individual consumes in ordinary circumstances to correct the deficiency, though it probably has some preventive value.

People living on or near the Atlantic coast generally get enough iodin from food and drinking water, especially from fish or shellfish.

People living in the Great Lakes basin generally do not get sufficient iodin to keep them in "better-than-average nutritional condition"—or maybe I should say SOME people, for modern transportation and preservation of food has to a large extent lifted the barrier which formerly separated the coastal regions from the inland regions.

QUAINT NOTIONS

Many physicians and public health administrators harbor quaint notions about the function of iodin in animal and human nutrition.

For example, years ago when the medical and health authorities of Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois, West Virginia, Minnesota, Ontario, Western New York and Western Pennsylvania were trying to popularize the use of iodized salt, a medical man who opposed the sale of iodized salt in grocery stores declared that he and many of his patients found the taste of iodized salt objectionable.

I don't know about wild animals, but I am sure the taste-buds of civilized persons cannot distinguish plain salt from iodized salt.

The authorities somehow arrived at the conclusion to designate an absurdly small quantity of iodin or iodide as "the minimum daily requirement." This means that, in the arbitrary opinion of the medical, health and nutrition authorities who agreed on the decision, a tenth of a milligram of iodin daily is enough to prevent manifestations of iodin deficiency.

If a person gets a tenth of a milligram (about 1-650th of a grain) of iodin every day in the year it will take nearly two years for him or her to get a grain of iodin. This, I contend, is practically none at all — far too little to count.

A tenth of a milligram of strychnine, morphine, cocain, prussic acid or what have you would have no noticeable effect on a child.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Voice of the People

'Landlord Should Be Made to Keep Property Repaired'

City ordinances should cooperate with business people of Pontiac to the extent of helping promote business. For instance, the real estate brokers have houses by the score to sell and also to rent. Yet the City allows people to rent basement apartments and attics that are unfit and unhealthy for humans to live in.

They also allow landlords to rent old, falling, crumbling down houses that have not had a paint job for 15 years or more. Yet you hear so much about paint up, clean up. Why don't they enforce the law and make those people keep their property looking neat, or do the neighbors have to take up a petition and take them to court?

Authorities certainly should look into this and enforce the law, not because of factory workers, but lawyers, doctors, CPA's and all other business people who rent places that should have been condemned ten years ago as unfit places for humans. I've been a Pontiac resident all my life and it's about time the people joined together and got things done for the sake of having Pontiac a decent place to live.

'Your Reporter Had Chip on Shoulder'

Did your Pontiac Press reporter think he was the only Republican attending the Democratic Congressional dinner? He gave a "chip-on-shoulder" appearance. The occasion was in honor of Leslie H. Hudson, Democratic candidate for Congress. It was an insult to him. The photographer even excluded Mr. Hudson's picture. Now is that nice? Don't tell me The Pontiac Press is for all the people. I hope your reporter has to get some Tums.

'Gives Strike View; Asks for Others'

It seems a shame the union and management of our local plants can't get together and settle their grievances so our men can get back to work. Why is it that everybody must suffer for the few who are never satisfied anyway?

My husband was just called back two weeks ago after six months unemployment, and we, along with thousands of others, appreciate a weekly paycheck. So come on, management and union, let's get together so everybody will get back to work and make Pontiac once again a pleasant, peaceful place to live.

Let's also have other views from wives of men who are out of work again.

'Hoover Warned Us of This Years Ago'

Let me commend you on your editorial in the Oct. 4 issue. It's timely and right to the point. If the press of the whole country would do likewise, it might get the scales off their eyes in Washington.

In the position the United States now stands in the Formosa and Eastern question, one wrong move could start a world war and in my opinion, all Asia is not worth the lives of one of our boys.

Herbert Hoover long ago warned this nation to keep out of that "Eastern mess" or it would become the "graveyard" of thousands of our boys.

LeRoy Dean

Milford

'Teenagers Noisy but Do No Harm'

Puzzled sounds like one of our neighbors who has an intense hatred and lack of understanding for teenagers.

Teenagers around here are normal boys and girls, noisy at times, as they all are, but not hoodlums or gangs. It's getting tiresome to the rest of the neighbors to have the police called so frequently by this one family. Nothing is ever wrong, so of course the police do nothing. Anyway, the police have more important things to do than answer quack calls.

I see no reason for fining parents, as the accusations for the most part have been without facts or reasons. As for putting boys and girls in jail, that's plain nasty. Practice Christian charity and get acquainted with these teenagers and you're in for a great surprise, because they're nice kids. Do some deep thinking and you'll understand what I mean and change your attitude. You will feel better and so will the parents of these boys and girls when you quit annoying them.

Friend and Mother of Teenagers

'Return to Justice Sweeping World'

On the circle of time all things ever change, ever unfolding that which the Creator, in the light of reason, has set in motion and that neither nations nor angelic hosts can stay, for none is His equal.

The reason of this great change that is sweeping over the world is the restoring of justice, which is the law of life. Men, in their ignorance have ignored it for self-interest, and so created chaos on earth. Cooperation brings forth unity of harmony. That was what Jesus taught and that will prevail on earth as it is in Heaven.

Though every nation crumble in the cloud of fear and hate, in its place peace will fill the earth in the joy of life and thus will the light of reason be to men their guide as this darkness of ignorance ceases to be.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

We Must Combat Youthful Apathy

Notice the shocking data which my brother offers regarding the apathy of young Frenchmen. Maybe such lack of enthusiasm is due to the poor sales job we adults have been doing. For our children do not "catch" idealism and a love of liberty from us. We must speak up and tell them the specific reason why our Republic beats all other forms of government.

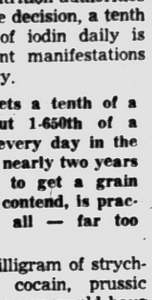
DR. GEORGE W. C.

CASE Z - 339: When my father and mother recently celebrated their 80th birthdays, my brother came back from Europe to be present for the gala events.



DR. CRANE

He is Dr. John B. Crane, former economics prof at Northwestern University and Harvard.

He also served as economic advisor to General Lucius D. Clay in the war and has stayed over there ever since to write a daily column on European affairs.

Since he covers the continent regularly, he is in close touch with the feelings of people in various countries.

"The young men of France," he began, "were surveyed recently on several interesting questions.

"These men ranged between 18 and 30 years of age, so are those who might be expected to do the fighting if the present 'cold' war should grow into a 'hot' one.

"They were asked, for example, if there was anything on earth they would give their lives to defend.

"And only 5 per cent (one out of 20 men) would offer his life for ANYTHING!

"Then they were asked if they would volunteer to fight Communism if Russia should start to invade all of Europe.

"Alas for our heavy American investments in France, for only one man out of 500 indicated he would volunteer!

"That means 499 out of every 500 men of soldiering age, would meekly let Russia take over all of France rather than fight to oppose it!

"So we can certainly wonder how much good our billions of dollars in military and economic aid to France, have benefited America or our 'free enterprise' theory of government."

YOUTH'S PSYCHOLOGY

I am running this case as a follow-up to yesterday's, just to show that the pioneering apathy among many American youth is not limited alone to this continent.

On a worldwide basis, we are finding people so inert they don't care to jeopardize their lives FOR ANYTHING.

When only ONE young Frenchman out of 20 says he would lay down his life to defend his mother or his wife and sweetheart or his children or his church or his government, it should challenge all educators.

And when the vast majority of Americans of college age prefer a complacent life to one that involves risks, coupled with hard struggle, then we must have failed somewhere.

America has previously been noted for its go-getter salesmanship.

Let's apply some of it to our own Republic with its wonderful "free enterprise" system.

When Moses led the Hebrews out of Egypt, many of them also started a revolution and wanted to unseat Moses.

For they preferred the flesh pots of Egypt, even though they were going back as abject slaves, to the freedom of the Wilderness when food was rationed.

EDITOR & PUBLISHER, the journal of the newspaper profession, recently announced results of a poll which showed almost no Americans could mention even one of the Bill of Rights items.

So send for my booklet "Americans Must Never Shut Up," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

Use it as part of our sales campaign to make youths zealots for our American system.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

May Be Serious About Test Ban

Russia Anxious to Keep N-Weapons From China

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Much of the Soviet Union's talk about wanting a high-level agreement on prohibiting nuclear weapons tests has been dismissd here as propaganda. Some of it may not be.

There's more than a little suspicion the Soviets are looking for a valid excuse to blackball Red China from nuclear club membership.

Moscow seems worried by Red China, now transforming herself into a major world military power.

Five months ago Foreign Minister Chen Yi, a rising Peiping star, spelled out Red China's intention of bidding eventually for membership in the nuclear bomb club. The club now has three members: the U.S.S.R., Britain and the United States. In the West, France also is about ready to make the bid.

Unless there is a world ban on testing, it will be difficult to keep out these aspiring members.

There are other points of Peiping-Moscow friction. It has just been demonstrated that Moscow is worried that the Formosa crisis may get out of hand. Peiping has been warned it may have to go it alone if it gets into serious trouble.

Long before that, however, it seemed significant that in all their talk of summit meetings prospects this year, the Soviets omitted Red China, even while including the heretic Yugoslavs. This could hardly have pleased Peiping.

Many an observer testifies to the Soviet awe of China's 650 millions, a population growing at a frightening rate.

There will be a real contest someday between the two. China as a nuclear power would be much harder to contain than China outside the club. That's one reason the Soviet Union may really want a high-level decision to ban bomb tests. It could provide the Soviets with an excuse to brake Red Chinese ambitions. They might even be willing to pay a significant price for that.

POCKET SUBMARINE—Assuming the prone position, French undersea explorer and inventor Dmitri Rebikoff shows how easy it is to maneuver his latest invention — a pocket submarine. Electrically powered, the miniature sub can go down beneath the sea as far as 230 feet. It can attain speeds of up to three knots for more than six nautical miles. The pocket sub is one of the most popular items on display at the Marine Exhibition in Paris.

Saxons Great Hunters

BERLIN — In Germany hunting became a feudal luxury restricted to the upper classes toward the end of the Middle Ages. During this period game was slaughtered at a high rate. King George of Saxony, for instance, from 1611 to 1665 killed 46,000 red deer and 30,000 wild boars. Hunting on horseback and using pack hounds came to a peak about this time; it had originated 1,500 years earlier.

Girls, Try Minnesota

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—There's no equality between the sexes in Minnesota, according to State Department of Health statistics. In 1957, males in the state outnumbered women by some 13,000.

To Rid Michigan of Atom Waste

AEC Agrees to Take Radioactive Scraps at Plant Near Monroe

DETROIT (UP) — The Atomic Energy Commission has agreed to take radioactive wastes from the Enrico Fermi atomic power plant out of the state and reprocess them, according to a plant official.

Robert W. Hartwell, general manager of Power Reactor Development Co. which is building the plant near Monroe, said the AEC agreed to handle the radioactive wastes as an inducement to private industry to build atomic power plants.

Hartwell told a meeting of the Federation of Sewage and Industrial Wastes Assns. that current practice is to dispose of wastes by burying them.

However, he said, waste disposal may become a problem in the future, although efforts now are being made to develop uses for the radioactive wastes.

Hartwell said the Fermi plant will present "no radioactive hazards to the community."

Much water will be drawn from Lake Erie for use at the plant, he said, but "there is no danger the lake will be contaminated" because the water used at the plant will be for turbine steam and will not come near the atomic reactor.

'But, I'll Be Late to Work'

Driver Refuses to Take Dying Boy to Hospital

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI) — A school bus driver, trying to rush a boy near death to a hospital, almost failed to make it yesterday when motorists refused to heed his pleas for help. One said he would be "late to work."

The boy, seven-year-old Francis McNamara, had swallowed a colored crayon while riding home on the school bus. His schoolmates told bus driver John J. Wood Jr., 27, that the youngster was choking to death.

Wood gathered Francis into his arms, ran into the middle of the street and tried to flag down passing motorists, hoping to reach a hospital faster than in the bus. None would stop.

In desperation, Wood jumped in front of an automobile whose driver was forced to halt. Wood quickly explained the situation and asked for a ride to the hospital. The motorist refused, saying he would be late for work.

Wood jumped back into his bus but found himself tied up in traffic. He again carried the lad into the street and finally found a motorist willing to make the dash to the hospital.

By this time, Francis had stopped breathing. When he arrived at Fairlawn Hospital his heart and pulse were still and he was believed dead.

Surgeons opened his windpipe, inserted a breathing tube, and cut open the youngster's chest to massage the heart.

Within a few minutes the boy began to breathe again. He was reported in "very serious" condition today, after transfer to Worcester City Hospital.

You Can Borrow Money With Your Savings Account as Collateral

Should you need money suddenly, for any purpose, you needn't touch your savings. No if you're a Pontiac Federal Savings customer. As a member in this mutual organization, you can obtain an Automatic Passbook Loan . . . and keep your savings intact.

Here Are the Main Features of the Loan Plan:

1. You may borrow for any purpose. There is no need to explain the reason for your loan.
2. The amount of the loan is limited only by your savings. You may borrow up to 90% of your current passbook balance.
3. Your passbook is the only collateral you need.
4. There is no consultation with a loan officer involved.
5. It takes less than five minutes from the time you make out your application to receiving your money.
6. The earnings from your undisturbed savings often more than pay the low interest cost of your loan.
7. You may repay your loan in convenient, monthly installments. The amount of the installment and the amount of time you need to repay the loan are established by you.

No matter why you need money . . . for vacation, taxes, a new car, a major appliance, or for the down payment on a home . . . you needn't cash in your savings and forego your continuing 3% earnings.

Any teller will be pleased to make this automatic loan for you. It's your privilege as a member of Pontiac Federal Savings.

To Orbit Man in Next 2 Years

Setting of Target Date by Space Boss Stumps Men in Pentagon

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Roy W. Johnson, the nation's space boss, says plans are afoot to shoot a man into space in 24 to 36 months.

The remark, inserted with little elaboration into a prepared speech Tuesday night, stumped available Pentagon sources. They said he might be referring to the Air Force X15 project.

The X15, a jet plane, has a greater potential for speed and altitude than any yet manufactured. Due to be unveiled Oct. 15, it is expected to hit speeds between 3,200 and 4,500 m.p.h. and carry a pilot up to 200 miles above the earth.

Johnson, director of the Advanced Research Projects Agency of the Defense Department, spoke at the dedication of the CBS Laboratories Research Center here.

Newsmen reached him at his home here later, but he would not say whether a specific type of vehicle for the space man was in mind.

He did say that his agency now has 40 million dollars available for research for the project. He said this was inadequate and that he hoped to have 65 millions by the end of fiscal 1959.

Asked about the last-minute insertion in the prepared speech, Johnson said the 24-to-36-month target date was arrived at this week.

Only Survivor Watches Burial of Her Family

They buried her family Tuesday — her father, mother, and five sisters and a brother ranging in age from 5 to 14.

The family perished Saturday in a fire touched off by exploding kerosene in their home. Elizabeth escaped through a coal chute. Her maternal grandparents are caring for her.

Elizabeth sobbed and tugged at the white handkerchief she held in her lap during the service for which some 500 people turned out. Men and women cried openly.

The Rev. Glenn Miles, the family pastor, spoke:

"For our light afflictions, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory."

Then the caskets were lowered.

DENNIS K. PAWLEY

Pick Dennis Pawley as Honor Carrier

Seventeen-year-old Pontiac Northern High senior Dennis K. Pawley is one of 10 Pontiac Press carriers honored for good service, salesmanship, courtesy, and citizenship.

He likes all sports, and is interested in photography. Dennis works on his school paper, and plans to join the service after graduation, before attending college.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Pawley, of 44 W. Walton Blvd., he has been a Pontiac Press carrier for three years.

State Tourist Group Wants Budget Hike

MT. PLEASANT (AP)—The Michigan Tourist Council has set its sights on a $644,071 operating budget for the 1959-60 fiscal year, a $238,000 increase over its current budget.

Robert L. Wooley of Mt. Pleasant, council chairman, complained the legislature's action in cutting the 1958-59 budget to $416,000 injured Michigan's competitive position with other states.

Budgets of other top tourist states, he said, were raised an average of 21 per cent.

"Michigan cannot expect to hold its own in a rising tourist market unless it meets its competition on their own terms," he said, "and their terms are more advertising."

Elephant Enters House to Cheer Crippled Boy

HARTSVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Surprise and delight shone in a crippled boy's eyes when a 3-year-old elephant squeezed through his bedroom door.

A clown and Louis Griffin's parents crowded in too. And the 10-year-old got a taste of the Mills Bros. circus, opening here, compliments of beaming parents and Shriners.

Welcoming Committee Can't Find Politicians

AHOSKIE, N.C. (AP)—The welcoming committee had returned empty-handed from an airport and it looked as if the Democratic rally would fizzle. When Gov. Luther Hodges and Sen. B. Everett Jordan (D-NC) arrived, it was in a farmer's rattling pickup truck.

"We finally hitched a ride," Hodges explained.

McElroy Reaches Korea

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—U.S. Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy arrived today for three days of conferences with U.S. and South Korean officials. McElroy is on a round-the-world tour of U.S. military installations.

TIRED OF FROST — Going south this winter? If so, you may run into piles of tires like these in Dade County, Fla. Local fruit farmers, recalling the disastrous crop-ruining frosts of 1957, stockpile the old tires which will be burned to create a warming smoke screen during nippy weather in the Sunshine State.

Missouri Schools Get Million Dollar Fund

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Nearly a million dollars, unclaimed after an insurance fraud case in 1935, soon will be turned over to Missouri for use in public schools.

Twenty-three years ago, courts decided a 10 per cent raise in fire insurance rates was fraudulent and ordered 137 insurance firms to return 10 million dollars. Policyholders for $889,227 could not be found. The money was impounded and with interest now totals $991,802.

A three-judge federal court directed Tuesday that money be turned over the state.

R. Emmet O'Malley, state insurance commissioner from 1933 to 1938, granted the rate increase. Subsequently he went to prison for evading taxes on $62,500 income.

Now Associate of High Court

Judge Potter Stewart Moves Up Ladder Fast

CINCINNATI (AP)—Young Potter Stewart started his day with law. He heard it at the dinner table.

As his father shaved, he could sometimes hear him rehearsing the arguments that a jury would hear later that day. And at dinner, he would hear his father's talk of the day's courtroom work.

That is one way Judge Potter Stewart, named Tuesday to be an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, was impressed by law as a profession.

The shadow of James Garfield Stewart fell on his son in other ways. One day, in an argument about a fact, Potter offered to bet that his father was wrong.

His father said, "We can never bet on a fact. We can wager on a difference of opinion if we please. But as sensible men, we will simply get out the books and look up this fact we are arguing."

The senior Stewart went on to become mayor of Cincinnati for 10 years and finally to the Ohio Supreme Court.

Potter Stewart jumped from city politics and law practice to the U.S. Court of Appeals bench.

While attending Yale University, he was chairman of the Yale News and did some newspaper work, a job he liked well enough to consider trying that field. But finally he turned to law. He later studied at England's Cambridge University on a fellowship.

World War II interrupted his law career and he spent three years on sea duty in the Atlantic as a gunnery and navigation officer, winning three battle stars.

But Judge Stewart described his service as "floating around on a sea of 100-octane gas, bored to death 99 per cent of the time and scared to death 1 per cent."

After the war he came home to start a law practice and moved easily into Republican politics.

He won election to City Council in 1949 and again two years later, headed the ticket which — under the city's charter government system — would automatically bring him election by his colleagues as mayor.

But Judge Stewart turned it down because of his family and law practices, which were both then young. He was then 36.

He said his father was elected mayor "when his children were grown and he had completed many years of successful practice as a lawyer."

He added, "It appears to me that the office and honor of mayor is not one that should be undertaken by a young man with small children to bring up and support."

He had no judicial experience when he was named to the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in 1954.

But the judge said, "Being fair-minded is something that's either there or not. Some lawyers are advocates. They couldn't make good judges."

He has taken part in only one case involving the currently prominent school integration question.

In 1956 he ruled with the majority in overturning a lower court and ordering integration of Negroes into elementary schools of Hillsboro, Ohio, a small community about 50 miles northeast of Cincinnati.

The Hillsboro School Board had maintained that integration would be effected when new school buildings were built.

Judge Potter's opinion said the board's purpose was "understandably to reflect the 'spirit of the community' and to avoid 'racial problems'... but the law of Ohio and the Constitution of the United States simply left no room for the board's action, whatever motives the board may have had."

Earlier this month, he ruled in a New York case that is likely to reach the U.S. Supreme Court in time.

He sat with the 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals which upheld a jail sentence to Marie Torre, New York columnist, for refusing to divulge a news source.

Judge Stewart wrote that although freedom of the press is precious and vital, it "is not an absolution."

His home has been here most of his life, but he was born in Jackson, Mich., where his family had gone on a Christmas holiday.

His family includes his wife Mary Anne; Daughter Harriet, 13; and two sons, Potter Jr., 10, and David, 7.

Corinthian Commandery No. 557, Knights of Malta, will be hosts to the grand commander of the order at a meeting and dinner of the organization Saturday at the Malta Temple on Perkins street at 6:30 p.m.

John H. Weaver, the grand commander, will come here with other officials of the order from Alliance, Ohio.

300 Teenagers in Bloody Battle Over Pretty Girl

LONDON (AP)—Three hundred teenagers battled for 40 minutes with bicycle chains, studded belts, bottles and bricks Tuesday because Alan Rouse, 14, had been dating pretty Linda Litman.

Linda, 14, a dark-haired charmer, had been going steady with a boy from Harold Fields Schools. Then she switched her affections to Alan, who goes to nearby Quarles Secondary.

To a man, Harold Fields felt honor-bound to revenge the slight. So 200 boys and their girl friends marched through the streets of suburban Romford to the gates of Quarles.

Lined up to meet them were Quarles Principal G. W. Laws and members of his teaching staff. They ordered the mob to disperse. Back flew a volley of bottles and stones.

Nasser Brings Syria Deeper Into U.A.R.

CAIRO (AP)—President Nasser moved today toward closer integration of Syria into his United Arab Republic under a new central Cabinet.

The Cabinet was formed Tuesday night of men who have been Nasser's key assistants since his rise to power in Egypt and of some leaders in Syria before the two countries merged last February. It contained 14 Egyptians and seven Syrians.

The sweeping reorganization eliminated dual ministries for the two provinces. Egyptians had complained that the dual system made national planning difficult and allowed what they called a drift in Syrian affairs.

The central government now will lay down national policy and handle planning and coordination for the U.A.R. as a whole. A separate decree established executive councils for the Egyptian and Syrian regions to implement policy.

Only one of the top leaders under the replaced governmental setup was dropped. He was Sabri Assali, one of two Syrian vice presidents who resigned Monday after accusations that he plotted against Nasser four years ago.

Kills Wife and Himself in Busy Garment Plant

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Hershel H. Crosser walked into the busy garment factory Tuesday and asked for his estranged wife. Then he pulled out a pistol and said:

"If the police come, somebody's going to get shot."

Mrs. Irene Crosser, 37, a factory supervisor, emerged from a cutting room just before Crosser gave his warning.

While 57 employes, mostly women, scurried for cover, Crosser stalked his wife for about eight minutes.

As they circled the long tables lined with sewing machines and fabrics, plant manager Howard Ritchart and others asked Crosser to put down his gun.

Emmit Rogers, 18, a cutter, stood between Mrs. Crosser and the man with the gun.

Mrs. Crosser hid under a table as others pleaded for her life.

Finally he appeared ready to put the gun down. Two factory workers, Cleo Little and Myrtle Pierce, escorted Mrs. Crosser to the rear.

Then Patrolmen Clarence Baldwin and Jay Larson arrived in response to an alarm.

Then he fired two shots at his wife, being led away by the two women. She fell dead. Crosser then killed himself with a single shot in the head.

Why did he take a gun to see her?

The detectives said he wanted her to sign some papers forfeiting her rights to his property.

Report Nearly Correct

MASON, Mich. (AP) — An anonymous caller telephoned the Ingham County sheriff's office and said: "You won't believe this but I just found a man face down in a ditch." Officers went to the scene and found a wooden Indian. Someone had stolen it from the yard of Mrs. William T. Butters of Okemos.

Voters in 15 Communities to Decide Special Issues

Candidates Won't Draw All of Election Spotlight

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Candidates will draw most of the spotlight in the Nov. 4 election, but not all of it.

For 15 communities in Oakland County, special issues will be on the ballot along with candidates vying for national, state and county offices.

In addition, all voters throughout the county and the rest of the state will decide whether they think a constitutional convention should be called in order to rewrite Michigan's 50-year-old constitution.

Most of the 15 areas with special issues have but one confronting voters, while in Madison Heights there are five.

PONTIAC HAS LARGEST

The City of Pontiac has the largest — in dollars — of the different issues with a $3,300,000 general obligation bond issue to help defray the cost of enlarging its sewage disposal plant.

Property owners and their wives only are eligible to cast ballots in Pontiac on this issue. This is true also in propositions facing Oak Park, Southfield City, and Highland Township voters.

Oak Park voters will decide whether the city should issue $306,000 in general obligation bonds to finance construction of public safety facilities and administrative offices.

Over in the City of Southfield, the question of a $450,000 bond issue to enlarge and improve existing city parks will be voted on.

Whether taxes, which can be assessed against all property in Highland Township, should be increased by two mills on assessed valuation will be decided by township property owners.

Proposed incorporation of two sections of Farmington Township as the cities of Clarenceville and Farmington Woods will be separate questions put before just the residents of the areas involved.

WILL SELECT COMMISSIONERS

Voters in these two areas also will select nine charter commissioners to take office only if incorporations pass.

Waterford Township voters will rule on whether the township board should have two additional trustees.

The balance of special issues consist of:

BERKLEY — Two city charter amendments, one concerning how to notify electors of proposed city ordinances, and the other on when the yearly budget should be adopted, and whether 1.1 per cent of assessed valuation should be used for municipal purposes.

FERNDALE — Proposal on providing annual compensation benefits for city employes with five years or more service.

HAZEL PARK — Should the ordinance restricting parking to one side of the street in residential areas be repealed?

MADISON HEIGHTS — Five separate propositions, the main ones on whether candidates for city offices should be nominated in a primary election, and also whether they should be elected for staggered terms of office.

ROYAL OAK CITY — Proposal that work weeks of city firemen be reduced from 63 to 56 hours.

OXFORD — Proposal to allow for "liquor by the glass" sale in the township.

FRANKLIN VILLAGE —Should the village contract with Oakland County for sewage disposal?

MILFORD TOWNSHIP — Proposition to spread extra millage on township tax rolls in order to build a new fire hall.

SYLVAN LAKE — Fill two seats on the five-member City Council and vote for constable.

MARILYN JEAN WARREN

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Marilyn Jean Warren to Verne H. Blankenburg. The bride-elect is the daughter of Walter S. Warren of 58564 Lind St., Washington, and the late Mrs. Helen E. Warren. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are the Lloyd R. Blankenburgs of 1450 Hilltop St., Orion Township. No date has been set for the wedding.

THERE'S GOING TO BE A FAIR — Making final plans with Principal William Doggett for the Twin Beach School PTA Fair are co-chairmen Mrs. Ray Campbell of 2507 Little Trail and Mrs. Stuart Elwood of 5801 Pontiac Trail. The event will take place Saturday afternoon at the school, 7149 Oakley Park Rd., West Bloomfield Township.

Ready for Saturday Afternoon

PTA Fair Set at Twin Beach School

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—A great air of excitement prevails this week at the Twin Beach School. The PTA Fair will be held Saturday from 4 to 8 p.m.

The Fair Committee, under the direction of chairmen Charles Scully and Mrs. Ray Campbell, is busy preparing for the event.

This year more rooms will be open to the public due to the addition of seven new classrooms built during the summer. A great many booths have been set up to feature baked goods, aprons, candy, country store, canned goods, books, plants, white elephants and many more items.

Games and activities are planned for both adults and youngsters.

There will be movies, spook house, fish pond, miniature golf, ring toss, cake walk, ping pong toss, and pony and hay rides on the school grounds.

Mrs. Joe Nephew, chairman of the dining room, said a complete spaghetti dinner will be served, as well as hot dogs and coffee.

Many prizes will be given away during the course of the afternoon and evening.

County Calendar

Members will hear a talk on conservation by Claude Wiseman, teacher at the Avondale High School. Tea will be served.

Romeo's Police Car Damaged in Collision

ROMEO — The Romeo police car is out of service today following a collision yesterday morning with a Macomb County Road Commission truck on North Main street in the village.

Police Chief Edgar Welsch said he was following the truck, and that it stopped suddenly on an amber light at Hollister street. He already had pulled out to pass when the driver applied his air brakes and the car rammed the rear of the truck, Welsch said.

To Start School Fair With Chicken Dinner

MILFORD — A chicken dinner will get the Lee Brooks School Fair under way at 5 p.m. Saturday, according to Mrs. Robert Larson, chairman.

There will be booths of every description, with a cake walk, make-up room for the little folks, a country store, a white elephant sale, movies and games room.

Parents wishing to contribute articles may bring them to the school not later than 2 p.m. Saturday for inventory and assignment.

Reading to Be Theme for Sashabaw PTA

SASHABAW — "Understanding Reading" will be the theme of the Sashabaw School PTA meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the school.

Refreshments will be served by fifth grade room mothers.

Of the families in the U. S. with incomes of less than $2,000 a year, about one-half own their homes.

Seeking Court Injunction

Independence Tackles Gravel Pit Issue

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP—The Independence Township Board last night voted to take legal action to halt operation of the Salem Sand and Gravel Co. in the township.

Township Attorney Milton Cooney was authorized to file a bill of complaint in Oakland County Circuit Court against Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Coulter, who have been operating a gravel pit on their 100-acre site on Oakhill and Dartmouth roads.

Drawn up by Cooney, the complaint asks why an injunction should not be issued requiring the firm to cease its operations there.

The gravel pit violates an ordinance which states no sand or gravel can be mined in any part of the township without a permit, the board said. Permits for such operation consistently have been turned down by the Township Zoning Board of Appeals, it was pointed out at the meeting.

Arguments were made both for and against the gravel pit by a large group of residents attending the meeting last night.

Property owners in the Round Lake area, especially, complained that the gravel pit is creating a nuisance.

The Board asked that Supervisor Duane Hursfal sign the bill of complaint, and that it be filed in court immediately.

At a public meeting several months ago, called at the request of Coulter, residents rejected proposed rezoning which would have permitted the gravel pit operation.

In other action by the Board, H. L. McGill and Son received a contract to install gas heaters and a 40-gallon hot water heater at the Fire Hall No. 1.

The resignation of William Godrey as director of the Township Recreation Board was accepted. He has moved out of the state. A new director will be recommended by the Recreation Board at its Oct. 15 meeting.

Harvest Dinner to Launch Drive

Methodist Church in Commerce to Kick Off Building Campaign

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — The Harvest Home dinner will kick off the third Commerce Methodist Church building fund campaign, Oct. 18-21, it was announced today.

The dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 18, in the church dining room.

Kenneth Hausauer, chairman of the church finance committee will head the campaign to raise $40,000 during the four-day period. Co-chairman is Leslie Parrish.

Donors may make immediate cash donations or pledge a certain amount to be paid in installments during a 100-week period which begins Nov. 2 and extends until Oct. 31.

Pledge cards will be available at the dinner. Home visits are scheduled for Oct. 19, 20 and 21.

Funds raised from the drive will be used to improve the new church, just west of Commerce village, and not to reduce the current church debt of $68,742. The cost of the new church, plus the moving of the old church to the new site was $136,450.

JUDY ROSE

Mr. and Mrs. Freeland Rose of Wenatchee, Wash., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Judy, to Jay Rathka, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rathka of Cripple Creek road, Walled Lake. No date has been set for the wedding.

Cottage Burns Down at Morgan Lake

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP—A three-room cottage at 4567 Dora Lane on Morgan Lake burned to the ground last night. It was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Copeman of 526 Pine Knob Rd.

Independence Township, Gingellville and Lake Orion firemen kept the blaze from spreading to next-door cottages and the heavily-wooded surrounding area.

Damage was estimated at $5,000 by Copeman. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Hickory Grove PTA to Hear Eklund Talk

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Dr. Lowell R. Eklund, director of continuing education for Michigan State University Oakland, will be the guest speaker at the Hickory Grove Elementary School PTA meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the multi-purpose room of the school.

New PTA officers and teachers will be introduced. Refreshments will be served during a social hour preceding the meeting.

School Dedication Set

ROMEO — Sunday, Oct. 26, has been set as the date for dedication of the new Romeo Community High School, T. C. Filppula, superintendent of schools, announced today.

The program, scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m., also will include selections by the Romeo High School band and other special features to be announced later.

The public will be invited to tour the building following the program, Filppula said.

Bob Considine Says:

Bendix Recalls Flop of Babe Ruth Story

NEW YORK — Ran into Bill "Life of Riley" Bendix at the Yankee Stadium the other day and the sight of the gnarled TV star unleashed a cataract of memories of the unhappy but adventurous time he played Babe Ruth.

That movie, called "The Babe Ruth Story," was about Babe Ruth, the director doggedly insisted. It was taken, presumably, from a book of the same name which I ghosted for Babe in the final months of his life, with the help of Fred Lieb, one of the revered elder statesmen of baseball reporting. The movie had precious little to do with Babe's life and hard but ecstatic times. Which is Hollywood's privilege. As for the book, it was more faithful. Yet it too missed.

I don't think it is possible to write a completely honest account of any man's life in autobiographical form especially the life of a robust fellow like Babe. And I hope that the upcoming book about Babe by his beautiful widow, with the help of one of the most gifted craftsmen in our trade, Bill Slocum, will prove me wrong.

In Hollywood, as an "adviser," a preposterous title in view of the fact that movie makers really don't want advice on how to do their job, I tried to get them to take Paul Douglas as Babe. Big Paul had just gone into the acting dodge and I knew he'd be perfect for the role. He was an athlete, knew Babe and all his nuances, had a genuine desire for the job. And enormous talent. The "bank" said no. The "bank" puts it up for such pictures as "The Babe Ruth Story." The "bank" wants protection on its loan, the protection of a "name" star.

I next suggested Jack Carson, who bore a remarkable resemblance to Babe. Nope. The "bank" picked Bill Bendix, perhaps to Bill's surprise. As any actor would, Bill stoutly professed great knowledge of Babe, the game, and all its facets. Seems that as a kid doing odd jobs around the Polo Grounds he had met Babe when the king came there as a young Yankee, before there was a Yankee Stadium.

In a story conference Bill brushed aside a suggestion from Pat Flaherty, the former major league catcher who had worked behind Babe, on mimicking Babe's wonderful way of almost locking his ankles just before he took his short stride to meet the pitch.

We all paled, thinking of any mortal man running forward with a full swing against the speed of, let's say, Walter Johnson or Lefty Grove. But Bill rolled his copy of the Los Angeles Herald Express into a stubby bat and showed us how he remembered Babe as a hitter. He got in those three little suicidal steps.

When I first say the rewrite of a script I had written from the book I said, "Gee, this is great. Who's it about?" Turned out to be about Babe Ruth. "But this isn't Babe," I said. "He never did things like this. The things he did were so much more . . . interesting. You know, like getting full of beer and holding Miller Huggins out over the brass rail of the train's observation deck, while it was doing 80 . . ." The fellow I told this to looked at me coldly. "We've been doing real good out here for a long time, Buster," he said. "You want to change everything?"

Then there was the incredible day when the company shot the Yankee Stadium scenes. The publicity people invited the New York baseball writers to watch Bendix imitate Babe at the plate. He had come out early for batting practice and by the time the cynics arrived his hands were sorely blistered. He hadn't hit a ball out of the infield. He hadn't hit a ball since he was a kid.

But in full view of a suspicious press box, William Bendix smacked a pitch into the right field stands. I've always admired the fellow for that.

As for the picture, I have a boy named Mike who was in a school which showed a movie every Sunday night, and he repeatedly said that if he could show his old man's film there it would make him the biggest kid in school. Well, we saw a preview together and when it was done the boy, who had been silent for an hour or so, patted my arm and said, "Pop, don't bother about bringing that picture out to school. I hate to see you carrying those heavy film cans."

Well, that's show business.

A married man often talks in his sleep. He doesn't want to forg how. . . .Have you ever wondered whether a fish goes home and brags about the size of the bait he stole? — Earl Wilson.

Reds Score in Numbers of Other Types

U.S. Atom-Powered Subs Top Russians

By The Associated Press

The United States has lagged behind Russia in flinging massive satellites into space but it is first in another direction:

BENEATH THE SEA—The success of the Nautilus, Seawolf and Skate — first operational atomic-powered submarines in the world — out-distances the Russians by perhaps three years.

But in the numbers of conventional submarines, the Soviets have a lop-sided advantage. Numbers vary but all sources agree the Russians have at least 475 submarines, most fitted with snorkels enabling them to cruise for long periods without surfacing.

The United States sub strength, including the three atomic powered boats already in the fleet, is set at 110 by the Defense Department.

Top Navy officials admit Russian submarines have been operating close to both our Atlantic and Pacific shores. Intelligence sources estimate the Soviet fleet has about 250 modern submarines capable of sailing to any point on earth.

MAJOR RED TYPES

The three major classes forming the present attack force of the Russian fleet are:

W Class — A sea-going patrol type with a sailing radius of 13,000 to 16,000 miles. It has potent offensive power.

Z Class — A large sea-going type with a very long range. This is a streamlined, modern version of the pre-World War II K Class. It is being produced at a rate of 18 to 20 a year.

Q Class — Post World War II boats, these have better streamlining than either the W or Z classes but are smaller in size (over-all length of 180 feet compared to 245 for W Class and 310 for Z Class) and have a shorter range.

The Soviets also have a vast flotilla of more than 150 M Class coastal submarines.

The Russian sub production rate, since 1950, has been estimated at six times that of the United States. However, some sources report building of conventional submarines has slowed down because of a Russian crash program for cargo ships and efforts to produce atomic powered and guided missile subs. Experts assume Russia has equipped some of its subs with guided missiles, but no number has been hazarded.

ATOM PUT TO WORK

Although the United States still is building some conventionally powered subs, the effort now is to capitalize on its nuclear-powered lead. Besides the three A-subs it has in commission, the U.S. Navy has five others in the water, 14 in various stages of construction, and 11 more authorized.

The Nautilus, Seawolf and Skate are classified as attack types. The Triton, which slid down the ways last month, is the largest submarine ever launched and intended for radar picket duty. The Skipjack, also in the water, is the first of a radical new design providing unprecedented maneuverability (it is literally "flown" in the water with airplane-type controls).

Among the 25 A-subs under construction or authorized are nine which will be equipped to fire the 1,500-mile ballistic missile Polaris from beneath the sea, and four capable of launching the 1,000 Regulus II guided missile.

MISSILE EQUIPPED

The Navy has limited submarine-launched missile capability now. The Barbero and Tunny, conventionally powered with snorkel breathing devices, have both fired the sub-sonic 500-mile Regulus I. The Grayback and the Growler, also with conventional power plants were modified in final stages of construction to carry the Regulus II.

The remainder of the 100-odd U.S. operating fleet is made up largely of Gato and Balao Class boats, about half of which have been equipped with snorkels.

The Russians claim they are building subs in order to protect their long coastline. But Western navy officials say the reason is simply to build up a force which can cut Allied supply lines in time of war.

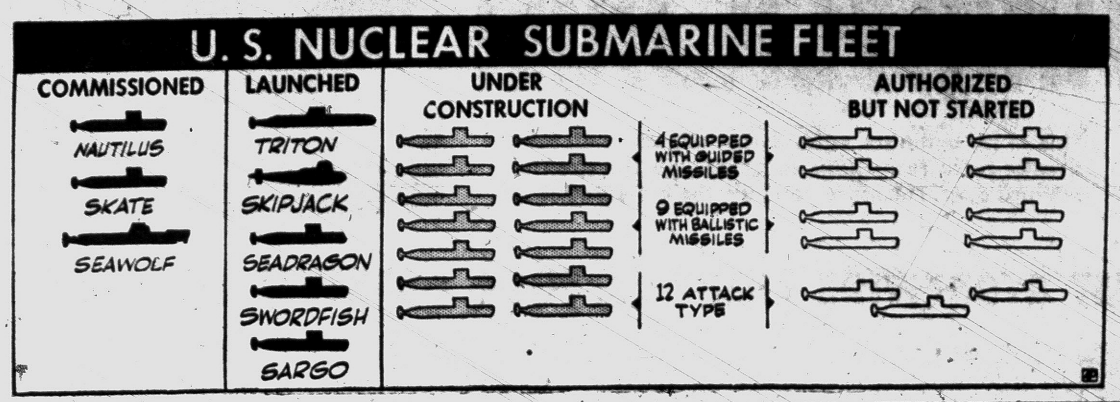
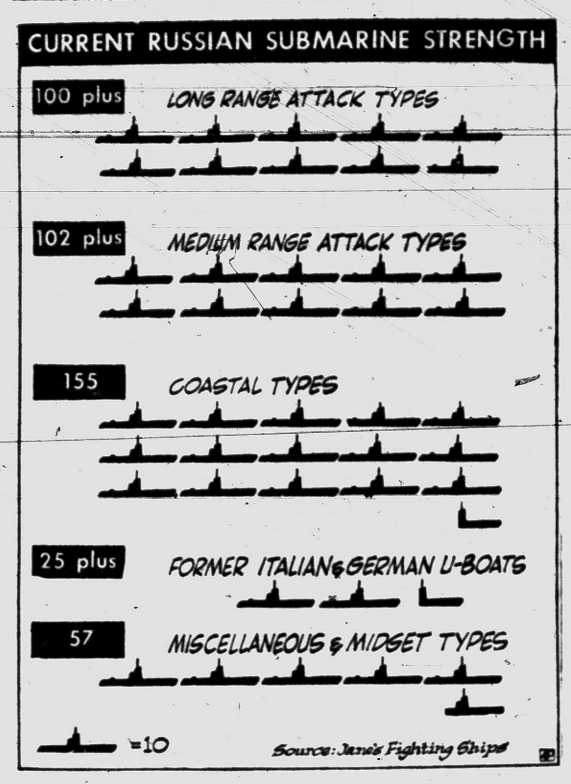
Some measure of the hazard can be understood when this fact is considered: Nazi Germany nearly severed transatlantic shipping lines early in World War II with a U-boat fleet which never rose higher than 166 operational vessels. The Russians have about three times that many right now.





To Seek Waterford Supervisor Position

Richard D. Kuhn, 29-year-old Waterford Township Republican, announced today that he would be a candidate for township supervisor in the 1959 spring election.

Kuhn, of 205 Gateway Dr., has been a GOP candidate for the State Senate in the past four August primaries.

The owner of an automatic car wash business in Pontiac, Kuhn is a graduate of Michigan State University with a degree in political science, and a graduate of the Detroit College of Law.

Detroit Boy Dies of Burns Suffered 2 Weeks Ago

DETROIT (UPI) — Edward Peters, 10, of Detroit, died today of burns suffered two weeks ago in a flash fire which police blamed to his playing with matches while his parents were away. He suffered burns over 90 per cent of his body.

A neighbor told police she heard an explosion and saw Edward run from the house, his clothing aflame. Police found a can of automotive anti-freeze and several burned matches on the kitchen floor.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Peters.

Double Jeopardy Out

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — A judge asked police to quit ticketing motorists who park in front of police headquarters while they're paying for other parking tickets.

Caution Is Word in Little Rock

Private School Board Promises Statement on Opening Date Soon

By RICHARD DAW

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Little Rock Private School Corp. moved cautiously today toward overcoming federal obstacles to setting up all-white private schools.

Corporation officials promised a statement later this week on an opening date.

Definite plans on how the corporation intends to tackle the many blocks facing it were clouded by reticence of officials to disclose information. Most of the group's moves were behind the scenes.

A federal court order prevents buildings of the city's four high schools, closed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus to thwart integration, from being used by the private corporation. Little Rock public school teachers also are barred by the court from aiding the group.

W. C. Brashears, a retired public school principal named by the corporation to head the private schools, planned to start interviewing prospective teachers in an effort to begin classes as soon as possible.

He said applications had come in from many parts of the country.

USO Forms Committee to Plan Christmas Dance

A ten-member committee of the Pontiac USO was formed yesterday to plan for the annual Christmas dance Dec. 10 for armed forces members of the Auburn Heights, Commerce Township, Southfield and Utica Nike bases.

Pontiac City Affairs

Favor Gates at Huron Crossing

City Commissioners last night went on record favoring protective gates at the W. Huron street crossing of the Grand Trunk Railroad.

They ordered City Manager Walter K. Willman to write the Public Service Commission, urging that gates be installed on the busy thoroughfare, which at present has only a bell and flasher system to warn drivers of approaching trains.

MOST DANGEROUS

The action grew out of a recent inspection of Pontiac grade crossings by the Public Service Commission and a report by Theodore M. Vanderstempel that the W. Huron crossing is the most dangerous.

Willman said it was up to the Lansing body to decide whether gates are necessary and, if so, to order the Grand Trunk to erect them. The railroad could request a public hearing if it opposed the order.

The Public Service Commission is also considering gates to protect the Oakland avenue-Sanderson street crossing, Vanderstempel has reported.

Commissioners, in other business, scheduled next Tuesday for adoption of an ordinance authorizing sale of $175,000 in revenue bonds to help finance the $225,000 parking lot for Pontiac General Hospital. Capital improvement funds, which like the bonds would be paid back out of meter revenues, would be advanced to complete the financing.

Commissioners accepted deeds for five of the 10 lots that are to be cleared for the parking lot. They authorized Willman to readvertise for bids to sell one of the buildings, a brick home at 38 S. Johnson Ave.

Roy H. Elkins, 2839 Avalon St., whose bid of $600 for the home was accepted last week, announced he had to withdraw it because of illness.

PROPOSAL TABLED

Because of opposition on the part of Commissioner Milton R. Henry, a proposal to locate a new junk yard in District 1 was tabled until further discussion at an informal meeting Thursday night.

The Pontiac Waste Material Co. had applied for a junk license for its proposed yard at 139 Branch St.

Also scheduled for further study were proposed changes to bring the city's fire limits ordinance up to date. Prepared by Fire Marshal Charles E. Metz and Building Inspector Carl F. Alt, the changes would impose restrictions on building materials throughout the city.

The present ordinance sets up controls for the downtown area only. The new one sets up other controls for all other industrial and commercial districts, as well as residential. They would apply to new construction.

Hearings are scheduled next week on assessment rolls for two winter projects, combined sewers on both sides of Walton boulevard from Baldwin avenue to the Pontiac, Oxford & Northern Railroad and a water main on Featherstone road from Kenilworth avenue to the Jordan road line.

An ordinance was ordered to rezone 196 Howard St. from Residential 2 to Commercial 2, but Commissioner Floyd P. Miles stated that he may yet oppose the change.

APPROVAL CONTINGENT

The Hall Baking Co. asked for rezoning to permit enlargement of its present bakery, but Miles emphasized that approval was contingent on alley space and customer parking being provided.

Two assessment rolls were confirmed, covering new curbs and gutters on Adelaide street and extension of Glenwood avenue from Paddock street to Grandview street. The latter was built in connection with the Perry street widening project.

Permission was granted Newman Farms, Inc. to pay its assessments for the Opdyke road widening and resurfacing in five annual payments instead of one. The company owns 245 acres along Opdyke from Auburn road to Featherstone road.

Pair Rushed to Hospital After Family Quarrel

An Avon Township couple was rushed to Pontiac General Hospital last night, both with head injuries, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies.

Deputies reported that Loren VanNortwick, 58, and his wife Marie Ann, 43, of 1205 Concord St., inflicted head injuries on each other in a brief scuffle.

Van Nortwick was admitted with a stab wound in the head and is reported in satisfactory condition, said deputies. He told officers his wife hit him with a bread knife. She was treated for minor lacerations and released.

Teenagers are more apt to have common colds than younger children.

Dance to Fete Law, Candidate in Pontiac

Arthur J. Law, Democratic candidate for state representative from Pontiac, will be the honored guest Saturday night at a dance to be given in his behalf at the Roosevelt Hotel ballroom, 125 N. Perry St.

A committee of "Friends of Art Law" are staging the 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. dance (tickets $1 per person) for the benefit of Law's campaign. All Oakland County Democratic candidates have been invited, along with several on the state ticket.

First Gift to City Since WPA Days

To Dedicate Optimist Park Shelter

The Pontiac Optimist luncheon club and the Department of Parks and Recreation will celebrate a milestone tomorrow with the presentation of a new park shelter.

The club will turn over and dedicate a new $6,500 shelter at Optimist Park, Fairmount and Carlisle Sts., to the department

The event will mark the first time a building has been constructed as a gift to the city since the days of the WPA, according to officials.

Ceremonies are scheduled to get under way at 1:30 p.m. A motor caravan will take honored guests, dignitaries taking part in the dedication, and club members to the park from their noon luncheon meeting at Elks Temple, 114 Orchard Lake Ave.

TO EMCEE PROGRAM

Acting as master of ceremonies will be Dave Ewalt, director of Pontiac Parks and Recreation.

Among the honored guests present will be City Manager W. K. Willman and his assistant, Robert Stierer, Mayor Philip Rowston, Mrs. George Gray, president of the Wever-Hawthorne Community Club; and Floyd P. Miles, city commissioner in whose district the park is located.

After short speeches of acknowledgement by Buhl Burt, immediate past Optimist president, and Gay Herrington, current president, awards will be made.

Russ Woodbury, who coordinated the shelter construction program for the club, will present awards to each of the local firms who aided in making the shelter a reality.

The park itself was donated to the city several years ago. Then the club went to work raising funds to add a fence and various pieces of equipment such as slides and swings.

The 1958 project was the shelter. The club raised approximately $3,000 and went to work on the building several months ago.

The building will house sanitation and one wall has been plastered on the outside for use as a handball court.

Don't Even Like Basements

Not Sheltered Women

In fact, basements themselves got something of a setback in a poll of 102 women delegates here for a three-day Congress on Better Living.

Huddling over what they want in their homes, the women made it known they're not much interested in building a basement bomb shelter.

And those who considered it at all said they wouldn't build it to the recently suggested government specifications if it cost money.

Picture windows that look out on a view, not on eyesores.

More space and bigger rooms. Eight of the 10 roundtables at which they conferred voted for a large house with less equipment over a small house with more equipment.

More storage space was the general cry, and 2½ baths were suggested as the minimum requirement — with both showers and tubs.

About two-thirds of the nation's wage and salary working force were covered by group life insurance protection at the beginning of 1958.

Detroit Speeds Up Polio Inoculations

DETROIT (AP)—Dr. Joseph G. Molner, Detroit-Wayne County health commissioner, launched a stepped-up inoculation program today in the battle against the area's polio epidemic.

Molner said that in addition to emergency inoculation centers operated by his department, other centers will be opened to groups of at least 500 persons willing to bear part of the expense. Such groups will get Salk vaccine at $1 a shot but must arrange for a place to give the shots as well as for doctors and nurses.

Seven new polio cases were reported in Detroit Tuesday to bring the total thus far this year to 549 cases and 16 deaths, compared with 172 cases and 2 deaths last year.

One American in 16 has some form of mental disease.

Faces Uphill Fight for Democratic Job

The showdown today, before the State Central Committee, has the Alexandria attorney on the unpopular side of an issue with a strong grip on Southern emotion—segregation.

Gravel, a Catholic lay leader, faces an apparently overwhelming coalition teaming normal political foes, Gov. Earl Long and Sen. W. M. Rainach, Louisiana's segregation chief.

Segregationists have been after Gravel for more than a year because of his support for the national party's position on civil rights.

2 Florida Women Like to Carry Mail

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — This small Florida west coast city is proud of its two women mail carriers, Mrs. Betty Peters and Mrs. Sarah McCraney, who may be Florida's first distaff postmen.

Both had had experience as postal clerks before qualifying for delivery routes. So far, they've not donned the traditional blue-gray uniforms.

Both like the work and find the hours, 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m, ideal. Mrs. McCraney has two children and also is attending St. Petersburg Junior College at night. Mrs. Peters is the mother of four.

State Wants Horses Kept Out of Area Park

A Milford stable owner has been named as defendant in a law suit filed in Ingham County Circuit Court by the state which seeks an injunction to force him to keep his horses out of the Highland Recreation Area.

Norman L. Dennison, 45, of Route 1, Milford, was ordered to show cause Nov. 13 why the state shouldn't be granted a temporary injunction.

The suit, filed in behalf of the Michigan Conservation Dept. by Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams, contends that the riding horse concession in the Oakland County park was granted by the department to Grant W. Ireland.

CHICAGO (UPI) — By getting at the spinal column from the front by way of the abdomen, a surgeon has shortened the hospitalization period for the commonly performed vertabra fusion operation from a minimum of six weeks to only eight days.

What's more, his patients never wear a brace or tightly laced corset and can resume their full activities within a couple of weeks, Dr. Alfred W. Humphries, Cleveland, said in reporting to the 44th annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons today. The usual disability period for the operation now is one year.

In essence, he said that surgically for this particular operation, the longest distance makes for the easiest and most effective union of two spinal vertebrae. Upon opening the abdomen, the surgeon merely "pushes" its contents aside, and thus reaches the spine from the inside.

Having reached the spine in this highly unconventional approach, the surgeon clears the cushioning cartilage from the two vertebrae he wants to fuse, pushes them together, and joins them with a steel alloy plate whose two ends are screwed into the two bones.

The plate holds them together while they knit together and become one, a process which takes weeks, but there is no danger of the plate coming loose while this is going on because of a simple human mannerism, he said. People bend forward, they are always bending forward, but they rarely, if ever, bend backward, and the more they slouch the better, because slouching pushes the knitting vertebrae more tightly together.

Besides, Humphries continued, the front of spinal vertebrae offers more bone space for knitting than the back, which now is the bone space generally used for vertebrae fusion.

Sometimes a metal plate is used when the surgeon laboriously cuts through heavy layers of muscle to get at the spine from the back. But, in any case, the patient has to be immobilized absolutely in a cast for long periods. Humphries said he himself required these patients to lie flat in a hospital bed for six weeks. Other surgeons require even longer.

The reason for this is that, should the patient bend forward even a little, he is pulling the joined back sides of the fused vertebrae apart, wrecking whatever knitting has taken place. After the minimum six weeks of being motionless on his back, the patient is put into braces and a tight corset which he must wear for a year.

Humphries has performed the operation 14 times since proving it technically in experimental animals. He got all 14 patients out of bed and onto their feet the second day after the operation and sent them all home within eight days.

Spinal vertebrae are fused into one when a deficiency of natural cushioning material allowed them to bump or rub together, thus causing excruciating or nagging pain. Vertebrae fusion, if successful, puts an end to this kind of "low back pain."

Bob Feller's Wife Not Pitching for 'Home Team'

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Women, as they say in stag and psychiatric circles, are funny. They can be understanding, patient, lovable, devoted and completely unfathomable.

Today's example is Virginia Feller, wife of an ex-baseball star from Cleveland named Bob. Mrs. Feller is blue-eyed, brown-haired and small enough to nuzzle under Bob's pitching arm without slouching. She has, however, an economy-sized determination.

While her husband was attending the World Series, Virginia went shopping and had an organ lesson.

While he was swapping nostalgic tidbits with other greats of his game she was unloading her mind:

"For more than 13 years I've been a baseball widow," she said. "I'd rather not be a baseball mother.

"We have three sons. And behind our house (in Gates Mills, Ohio, Cleveland suburbs) there's a Little League field. The boys all play. But I hope none of them becomes a pro ball player. It'll be too hard on their wives—too hard on their mother."

An ungrateful-sounding remark, considering that Feller, from 1936 to '56, made a fat salary in the game she now protests. But Virginia went on to explain. A man who truly loves baseball, she said, is never free of frustration.

CITES 'HARD LUCK'

Although Bob is considered an "immortal," and is eligible for baseball's Hall of Fame in 1961, he was dogged—as she sees it—by bad luck.

He never won a World Series game. In one Series game, in '48, he pitched a two-hitter, and lost. An umpire's "wrong" decision (later proven a bad call by photographs) caused the loss. In the 1954 Series, he wasn't given a chance to pitch.

Bob Feller, in 1938, struck out 18 men in one game, setting an all-time record. Still he lost the game to the Detroit Tigers. Virginia didn't even know him then; but she still mourns the memory of the day he told her about it.

"A man," she says, "can seem to bury his disappointments. A woman knows when they're not buried deep enough."

After his retirement from baseball in '56, Bob set up an insurance business in Cleveland and Virginia anticipated a forthcoming lifetime of having her man around the house for the first time. A few months later, he was offered the job of broadcasting the play-by-play "Game of the Day" for a radio network.

GONE AGAIN!

So she lost him again. It was even more difficult this time, than it had been in the active days. Bob traveled 130 thousand miles this season, and was home an average of one day a week.

"I've been waiting since January, 1943 (their wedding date), to wake up and find I'm no longer a baseball widow, and it looks as if I've been kidding myself.

"As they say, you can remove a man from baseball—but you can't ever remove baseball from him."

The Fellers refused to name any of their three sons after their famous father. Bob didn't want them to "have to live down my faults." Virginia didn't want them to "have to live up to his reputation."

But all three—Steve, 12, a pitcher; Martin, 11, catcher, and Bruce, 7, all positions—appear to be following in the big Feller footsteps. Recently the oldest boy pitched a Little League one-hitter. He came home radiant. Thought he had it made.

Maybe some mothers would've kicked up their heels. Virginia couldn't. "Don't let it go to your head," she told him wearily, "Your father pitched 11 of those."

Women, as they say in the Little League set, are funny.

Pakistan Has No Government

Martial Law Rule Is Declared to Pave Way for New Constitution

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — President Iskander Mirza ruled Pakistan under martial law today after abolishing the government to clear the way for writing a new constitution.

Mirza pledged Pakistan to honor all international commitments. The nation has a mutual defense treaty with the United States and belongs to two anti-Communist alliances, the Baghdad Pact and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Mirza, a 59-year-old former major general, took over Tuesday with strong criticism of politicians who have led Pakistan from one political crisis to another since the British separated the Moslem nation from India in 1947. The President outlawed political parties.

He named Gen. Mohammed Ayub Khan, commander in chief of the Pakistani army, as chief martial law administrator and placed all armed forces under him.

No disturbances were reported as troops took station in government offices and at key installations. Crowds cheered the soldiers in some places.

National elections have never been held in Pakistan but had been scheduled for next Feb. 15. Mirza acted after six members of the Awami League political party resigned from Premier 'Firoz Khan Noon's revamped Cabinet, saying they feared the voting would not be held as promised.

Some Cabinet sources said the Awamis quit because they failed to get the posts they wanted.

Mirza annulled the constitution, dissolved the central and provincial governments and abolished the national and provincial assemblies. The two provinces of Pakistan, separated by 900 miles of India, contain about 81 million persons.

'Porky' Mining Issue Eyed by State Group

ONTONAGON (AP) — By land, water and air, the State Conservation Commission tomorrow will survey sections of Porcupine Mountains State Park under consideration for copper mining operations.

The commission, assembling at nearby White Pine for its regular monthly meeting, scheduled a tour of the park before making a decision on whether to authorize exploration for low grade copper ore by the Bear Creek Mining Co.

It agreed last summer to withhold its decision for a later meeting in Lansing, possibly in November or December.

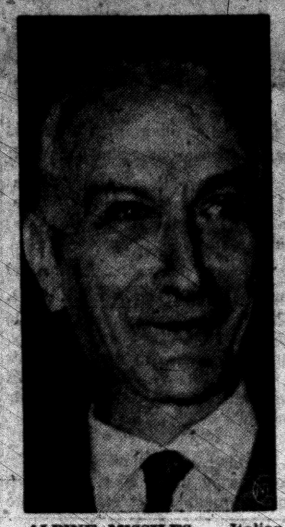
Backers of the proposal, mostly Upper Peninsula business and civic leaders, have indicated they will be in White Pine tomorrow to testify for the plan. So have opponents, mostly conservation groups.

Use of Radio by Trains Makes Giant Strides

NEW YORK—More than twice as many authorizations were granted in 1957 for railroad radio installations as in 1956. Last year 5,323 new transmitters were authorized by the Federal Communications Commission compared with a yearly average of 2,863 during the previous four years.

The development of radio transmitters for railroad use has been achieved almost entirely since World War II. At the start of this year 190 railroads had been authorized to install 29,082 of these transmitters.

In 1957 the Port of Toledo was visited by 4,884 ships, carrying domestic and overseas cargo totaling more than 34,000,000 tons.



ALPINE MISSILES — Italian Defense Minister and Deputy Premier Antonio Segni, above, announced that his country will establish a "limited" number of U.S. intermediate range missile bases on its soil. The bases, expected to be armed with Jupiters, will probably be in the Alps and Appenines. Italy thus joins Britain as the only two members of NATO to accept nuclear-equipped missiles from America.

Chess, Checkers Champ Coming

Challenges All Comers

Newell W. Banks, world's champion at mixed chess and checkers for 25 years, will match wits with Pontiac area enthusiasts next Monday at 7:30 p.m. in an exhibition at the Adah Shelly Branch Library, 251 E. Rundell St.

The show is being sponsored by the Chess and Checker Club of Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department.

Officials of the club have invited all participants to bring along their favorite chessmen or checkerboards. There will be no admission charge.

The 70-year-old Detroiter holds all world's speed records at blindfold and simultaneous checkers, and has set endurance records at blindfold checkers that have never been equalled.

Banks will take on all comers at once and at the same time conduct three games of blindfold checkers against the three top players.

It is reported that he loses only about one game in 2,000 of checkers and four in 100 at chess.

Nobody Wants 'Hot Potato'

State Politicians Disown Hoffa

By ROGER LANE

While Hoffa is in Washington running union affairs and intermittently being quizzed by U. S. Senate investigators, his name rolls from the lips of top Michigan campaigners oftener than those of their election rivals.

Hoffa is disowned by Democrats and Republicans alike. His name has become a weapon to smite the opposition.

The irony is that from 1953 to 1957, one large Detroit area unit in Hoffa's Teamster domain poured $117,000 into Democratic and GOP political causes, mostly into the campaign tills of individual candidates rather than as outright gifts to a political party.

This was what politicians call "Hoffa money." U. S. Senate committee aides fixed the amount after examining records subpoenaed from the Teamsters joint council.

The four-year flow from all Teamster faucets may have been larger. There is no full accounting.

Hoffa's contributions have crisscrossed party lines and caused some confusion among politicians.

Democrats tried in August to package up Hoffa and fire him into the Republican camp. "We want no part of Hoffa," Gov. Williams told the Democrats state convention.

The Democrats, meanwhile, were embarrassed when newspapers disclosed that Prosecutor Samuel H. Olsen, a Democratic nominee for re-election in Wayne County, declined to return an $11,000 campaign donation from the Teamsters.

Olsen said the contribution came from the Teamsters Union, not from Hoffa, and that no strings were attached.

Using Olsen as a slingshot, GOP conventioners on Aug. 30 sent Hoffa whistling back to the Democrats.

Ranking GOP candidates vowed jointly to shun Hoffa funds in 1958 and proclaimed none had taken Hoffa money before.

Democrats scoffed at the GOP statement and claimed a $1,000 contribution had been made to the successful campaign of Republican Congressman William Broomfield (Royal Oak) in 1956. Broomfield denied he had received any donations from the Teamsters, but Democrats said an aide in Broomfield's campaign had received and endorsed the check.

Paul Bagwell, Republican candidate for governor, has claimed in several campaign speeches that the Teamsters aided Democratic Sen. Patrick McNamara of Michigan in his 1954 primary campaign against the late Sen. Blair Moody who died during the campaign.

Democratic candidates, bent on again propelling Hoffa into enemy trenches, spread talk that Paul D. Bagwell, Republican governor candidate, benefited from Hoffa's 1956 campaign role.

Back and forth the argument has gone ever since.

Hoffa, in an almost riotous caucus of the Michigan Democratic National Convention delegation in Philadelphia, stampeded selection of his personal attorney, George S. Fitzgerald, as national committeeman.

In 1954, the Hoffa crowd spent about $50,000 vainly trying to win Fitzgerald the Democratic lieutenant governor nomination, easily captured by Philip A. Hart, a Williams protege now running for the U. S. Senate.

It also is clear that from 1953 to 1957 Hoffa aided scores of candidates of both parties for judge, the legislature, Congress, city, county and state office. Some won, some lost.

Otherwise, the evidence generally shows support for the Williams camp in 1949 and 1950, and for state level Republican figures in 1954, 1956 and 1957.

Dear Abby . . .

Remedy for Snoring So Potent It May Get Rid of Hubby, Too

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: A while back a lady wrote to your column complaining about her husband's loud snoring. I used to snore so bad my husband said I sounded like a thrashing machine. A neighbor of mine told me about an old Italian remedy and I tried it and now my husband has to touch me at night to see if I'm still breathing. Chew a whole clove of garlic before going to bed. That's all."

ABBY

STOPPED SNORING

DEAR STOPPED: I'm afraid if I tried that remedy I would have to touch my HUSBAND at night to see if HE were still breathing!

"DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 12 years and it's been no picnic for the past two years. We fought all the time so rather than let the children hear the language he used at me, I moved his clothes down to the basement and he's been living down there. He has a hot plate and refuses to come upstairs for meals.

"The basement has an outside exit and I think he's been having company down there as I hear laughing and the radio going. He keeps changing the locks on me so I can't get down there. How can I make up with him so we can start living like human beings?

FERN

DEAR FERN: If he refuses to "rise" to the occasion—I suggest you go underground." Peace at any price.

"DEAR ABBY: I wish you would put this in your column to let folks know that there are some pretty nice people in the world. Last week a new family moved into our building. Instead of waiting for everyone to call on them, they put up a bushel of apples into little bags and knocked on all the neighbors' doors and gave us the apples.

"The lady of the house asked, 'What time do you retire at night because we want to keep our TV low so you won't be disturbed? Also, have you any invalids or babies who like to nap in the afternoons so we will keep extra quiet?' Now, that's what I call 'nice people.'

DELIGHTED

DEAR DELIGHTED: (and you should be): Neighbors like you just drew would be welcome anywhere. How lucky can you get?

"DEAR ABBY: Boy, I take my hat off to anyone who has a green thumb. I am one of those poor souls who is just the opposite and I wonder if maybe there isn't some mysterious reason for it? My little boy gave me a plant for Mother's Day and at first they watered it and it came along fine, but they got tired of the job, so after I watered it twice it died! My Grandmother had a rosebush for years. She asked me to loosen the dirt around the roots. I warned her but she said I was silly. Sure enough, the day after I touched it, it died. Can you tell me what's wrong?"

NO GREEN THUMB

DEAR NO: I don't believe in "hexing." Just for the fun of it, buy a little plant. Some plants need sun, others need shade. Some need lots of water, others require very little. Go to your nearest florist and ASK him how to care for it. Follow his instructions and you, too, can make things grow.

"DEAR ABBY: I came from Tokyo as a Japanese war bride. I am 36 years old and have two children. Ten out of ten people say I look 10 years younger than my years. Back in Tokyo this remark is meant as a compliment. Therefore, I always say, "Thank you," softly and think nothing of it.

"However, I suddenly began to wonder if it is not a compliment but an insult in this country and perhaps I am making a grave mistake when I say, 'Thank you.' Please what is the proper attitude to take?"

MICHIKO

DEAR MICHIKO: Youth is envied all over the world. When one is said to appear 10 years younger than her age, it is indeed a compliment.

Dress in Proper Manner

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am 19 years of age and have recently met a young man of 21 whom I have been seeing quite a good deal of. This young man has a motorcycle and on several occasions has asked me to go riding with him. I did once and when my mother found out about it she disapproved most strenuously and has forbidden me to do it again.

"She thinks it makes me look very cheap and says that no proper young lady goes riding around on a motorcycle. I can't for the life of me see anything improper in this and would very much like to have your opinion on the matter."

Answer: If you wear slacks so that you do not risk any indecent exposure there is no reason, except the danger of a serious accident, that you should not ride on a motorcycle.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancee smokes a good deal; whereas I smoke only occasionally. When we are out together and she takes out a cigarette, is it up to me to light it for her every time, or does she light it herself? We've been having a disagreement over this and would like you to settle it."

Answer: She would light it herself most of the time. If you are sitting directly beside her and have a match within reach, you would do it for her, but you would not cross a room to do it nor would you take a match or lighter out of her hand to do it.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to have a window placed in the church in memory of my parents but am in doubt as to how the names should appear as my mother was married again after my father died. I would appreciate your help in this matter."

Bridge Club Meets

The Pontiac Duplicate Bridge Club met at Elks Temple Monday with twelve tables in play. Winners were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Beyer, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Warren, Donald Stephenson, Foster Gibson, Mrs. Mae Campbell, and Mrs. Lucille Sweat.

Color Slides of Europe Shown by Sibleys for Audience of 350

Mr. and Mrs. J. Standish Sibley of Oriole road showed color slides of their recent trip to Europe in Stevens Hall of All Saints Episcopal Church Tuesday evening to an audience of 350.

Flying first to Ireland, they visited cousins living in the home where Mrs. Sibley's mother was born, in Cork County, and attended the Episcopal Church where she was christened.

Their travels took them to England, Belgium, the Worlds Fair at Brussels and Germany where they took a trip up the Rhine.

"The time spent in Switzerland can never be forgotten. Lake Lucerne is one of the beauty spots of the world," commented Mr. Sibley, as he presented views of snow-capped Matterhorn and Jungfrau.

PHOTOGRAPHED POPE

In Rome, the Sibleys were fortunate in photographing Pope Pius XII when he gave a blessing from his window upon the crowd gathered below in St. Peter's Square.

Other points of interest were Monaco, the French Riviera and Paris. In the Notre Dame Cathedral, excellent slides were obtained of the Rose Window and other stained glass masterpieces.

Hotels, government buildings, stores, universities and homes were lavish in the use of flower boxes at all the windows, the pictures indicated. Grounds and parkways showed an abundance of formal and informal floral paintings.

Sponsoring the affair was Guild Seven of the church.

Chart Menus for Week

Don't "drive" your family into daily dinner doldrums! "Eat and run" diners will change their ways if you serve nutritious dinners that please both the eye and palate. And this holds true even if you or a member of your household is on a low-fat diet.

Chart out in advance complete menus for the coming week. Not only will this list save you unnecessary shopping trips but it will also assure varied meals with sufficient quantities of proteins, minerals, vitamins and energy-giving foods.

Advance planning will also enable you to tailor your menus to special requirements, such as those of low-fat dieters. Today, this can be accomplished easily by substituting a new margarine sold in drugstores for forbidden spreads and shortenings. The margarine has a cholesterol-lowering effect, since it is made from non-hydrogenated corn oil, which is rich in linoleic acid. A food, not a medicine, it can be used in recipes for the entire family.

Set the dinner table carefully and use decorative touches for added eye-appeal. A small floral centerpiece or well-designed piece of pottery will enhance your table tremendously.

Contrast colors and flavors in the foods you serve. And don't forget that "extras" such as sprigs of parsley, lemon slices, light sprinkles of paprika and dabs of jelly glamorize and whet the appetite.

Set the atmosphere of congeniality by arranging to serve dinner at an hour when every member of your family can be present to enjoy your culinary efforts in an unhurried, relaxed and happy frame of mind.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Allen R. Elliott of Chippewa road of the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen June, to John E. Sleight, son of Dr. and Mrs. James D. Sleight of Battle Creek. Miss Elliott is attending Albion College and her fiance is attending Michigan State University.

KATHLEEN J. ELLIOTT

MARY RAYMOND

Mr. and Mrs. George Raymond of East Ypsilanti street announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Daniel Dropps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dropps of West Brooklyn avenue. An April wedding is planned.

Women's Section

City Couple Married in Church Rite

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Cooper of Hudson avenue. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. William Cox of Boyd street.

A short veil fell from the bride's pearl tiara, and she carried an arrangement of white roses, carnations, and stephanotis.

ATTENDS BRIDE

Mrs. Cooper was dressed in brown with cinnamon accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Cox wore grey with navy blue accessories.

VIRGINIA M. HOEHN

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew H. Hoehn of South Sanford street announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Marie, to S. Sgt. James P. Wilson Jr. of Selfridge Air Force Base. He is the son of James P. Wilson of Mechanic street and Mrs. Eula Wilson of Philadelphia, Pa. No wedding date has been set.

Opti-Mrs. Club Hears Mrs. Smith

Mrs. Floyd Smith of the Pontiac League of Women Voters was guest speaker at the Opti-Mrs. Club meeting at the Cass Lake road home of Mrs. Tom Hruska Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Smith explained why the league, as well as PTA groups in the state, are urging voters to approve a proposed constitutional convention in the Nov. 4 election.

Mrs. Roland Smith, ways and means chairman, announced that the group will sponsor a money-making project Oct. 25 to help finance club projects.

Cohostesses for the gathering were Mrs. Charles Manz and Mrs. Buhl Burt. Guest for the evening was Mrs. Lyle Wilson.

Panhellenic Sees Slides at Meeting

Miss Welberry illustrated her talk with slides taken during her junior year of study at the International Christian University in Japan.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Richard Kuhn, Mrs. Robert Passineau and Mrs. James Huttenlocher.

Plans were made to have a toy-making party at the next meeting.

Main Criterion Is Cleanliness

The heart of many a lady goes pitter-pat for a leading man of the silver screen. The reasons are as varied as the ladies in the audience. One criterion women seem to agree on, though, is personal cleanliness.

In the case of screen heroes, William Holden may take top billing. It's reported that he is so cleanliness-minded that he insists on enjoying the luxury of four showers daily.

Mrs. Young Speaks

Mrs. Nellie Young, general supervisor of Women at Pontiac State Hospital, was guest speaker Tuesday evening when the Oakland County Citizens Committee for Pontiac State Hospital met in the staff auditorium at 8:15 p.m. Mrs. Young's topic was "Nurses' Duties at Pontiac State Hospital."

'The Matchmaker' to Open Friday

St. Dunstan Guild to Stage Play

St. Dunstan Guild will present Thornton Wilder's hilarious play, "The Matchmaker," Oct. 10, 11, 17 and 18 at the guild's playhouse in Bloomfield Hills.

BREWSTER

Mrs. Benjamin Brewster will have the lead part as Mrs. Levi the matchmaker.

MARQUIS

Authentic gowns of the 1880s from the Detroit Historical Museum's collection will be worn by the cast to lend a realistic atmosphere to the production.

Mr. and Mrs. Mendell Allen and son, David, left Saturday for their home in Boston, Mass., after a two-week visit with Mr. and Mrs. Farrell Ashley of Scott Lake. Mr. Allen is Mrs. Ashley's son.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Rogers II of Shoals avenue announced the birth of a son, Robert Standish III, born Monday at Florence Crittenden Hospital, Detroit.

Perfect for Two

For two: Turn cooked broccoli stalks into individual shallow casseroles or shirred egg dishes; top with creamed turkey or chicken and sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese. Run under the broiler to heat and have the topping a luscious golden brown.

Use Night Cream in Small Amount

Actually, a small amount of cream will do just as much good as a thick film. The skin can absorb only so much. Therefore, make applications light and save on the laundry.

Blood Sugar Level Affects Appetite

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Modern research has brought us several suggestions which are most helpful in taking the pain out of calorie counting.

For instance, our appetite usually seems to be somewhat influenced by the level of our blood sugar. In other words when the blood sugar level falls to what is called "the fasting level" we are apt to experience pangs of hunger and to feel weak.

Food raises the blood sugar level and fests have demonstrated the fact that some foods hold the sugar level at a high point much longer than others. In more than one study it has been definitely established that a high protein meal delays hunger pangs longer than one which is high in carbohydrate or fat.

In one test the blood sugar level dropped two hours after the high carbohydrate meal while after the high protein meal the blood sugar did not fall below fasting level until six hours afterwards.

So if you are on a reducing diet, eat slowly so that your blood sugar level has time to rise before you are tempted to take another helping. Also eat your protein first. At dinner eat your meat or fish and then your vegetables and starches.

Studies have indicated that in women 16 grams of protein in a meal fails to maintain the blood sugar level above the fasting level for three hours after eating while 22 grams protein maintains the blood sugar level well above the fasting level for three hours. This is one reason for the high protein reducing diet.

Eat slowly and eat your proteins first if you must watch your weight.

Eat slowly and eat your proteins first if you must watch your weight. Of course you always have to count calories, too, for a loss in poundage. Most of you know what the protein foods are but I will review them today. While other foods have protein content the main ones — those which are classified as protein foods — are meat, fish, fowl, eggs, cheese and milk.

If you missed my 9-Day Reducing Diet, which gives you a loss of from five to 10 pounds in nine days, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Don't Let Your Child 'Grow Into' His Shoes

Ground rules for buying children's shoes aren't what they used to be. As a result, your youngster's feet should be on the right track toward proper and healthful growth.

The good old heavy shoes once basic for every youngster have gone the way of the trolley car. They've been replaced by shoes in new lightweight ultraflexible leathers that give proper support, plus the maximum resiliency for active, growing feet. Thy wear as well as the old-fashioned shoes, and give the wearer much more comfort.

Also, you no longer buy shoes for your children to "grow into" — foot specialists recommend that there should be about three-quarters of an inch between th longest toes and the tip of the shoe, but no more. Shoes that are too large short shoes, causing blisters can be as painful as too and callouses and giving poor arch support.

On the positive side of shoe buying, foot doctors recommend that you select shoes with leather uppers and leather soles, since only leather with its millions of tiny pores permits air to circulate, keeping feet dry and warm.

As to proper fitting, the shape of the shoe at its widest part should conform to the widest part of the foot. If you can grasp a little leather between your fingers at that point, the shoe is not too narrow. However, if you have any doubts about fit, let a skilled shoe salesman be the judge.

Another thing to look for is the leather welt that unites sole and upper. This welt provides a firmer walking base and helps keep the shoe in shape for the whole of its life.

In Doubt? Don't

If you're not sure about how to clean leather gloves, have them professionally dry cleaned. Some leather gloves launder beautifully and these carry a tag that says so.

Hoedowners Club Names New Officers

New members are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lind, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Vasseliau, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Napier.

Callers for the evening were Leonard Buzz, Oren Clauson, Mr. Brown, Mr. Hatfield, Charles Vandenberg, Mr. Beauchamp and Fred Froede.

Michigan Homemakers Discuss Trade Stamps

Trading stamps — good or bad? Consumers seem to differ in their attitudes toward stamps given by stores to attract trade.

However, in Michigan over half the homemakers feel that stores giving trading stamps usually have higher prices than those not giving stamps, points out a spokesman of the department of agricultural economics at a state university. He bases his statements on a recent survey of homemakers in selected Michigan cities.

An earlier survey showed that 74 per cent of the families bought most of their groceries from stores giving trading stamps. Nearly 90 per cent saving trading stamps — some as many as 9 different kinds.

But, the fact that homemakers save stamps does not necessarily mean they believe stamps are a good thing, he says. Many save stamps because they can hardly avoid them.

Over 50 per cent of the homemakers felt that the general practice of giving trading stamps increased the over-all cost of food. Only 43 per cent thought that, "in general consumers benefit from the existence of trading stamp plans."

When presented with the statement, "Trading stamps should be made illegal," only 22 per cent of the homemakers agreed and 30 per cent said they had no opinion. Less than half the consumers who indicated a belief that stamp plans do not benefit consumers indicated that trading stamps should be illegal.

Lipstick Gets Hue From You

Almost every woman dreams of one day discovering the right lipstick shade. Years of experimenting have resulted, for most, in a vast collection of lipsticks that lie dormant in the dresser drawer.

The wrong shade of lipstick never improved anyone's complexion, and the fact that the shade looks right on a color chart is no proof that it is the color for you.

A new lipstick takes all of the guess work out of selecting the right shade. Magic-like, the lipstick takes its hue from the skin tones and pigmentation of the wearer, thus making it the correct shade for every woman, no matter what her coloring.

With more Americans on the move than ever before, this lipstick makes it possible for women who travel a great deal to carry one lipstick with them for both day and evening wear . . . the answer to every woman's search for the one shade of lipstick that she can call her very own.

Uncomfy Shoes Spoil the Day

Uncomfortable shoes take the sunshine out of a day. When buying shoes always insist on a good fit. If shoes cut across the instep, but fit perfectly otherwise, have the section stretched.

Watch out for shoes that cut too high in the back. This leads to sore heels but can be corrected by having a pad put in the shoe to lift your heel.

Encourage Child to Voice His Anger

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

That Saturday morning, because his own ball mitt was ripped, Bud decided to use his kid brother's. Dave caught him with it. There was a scuffle that ended with Bud in possession of the mitt. Crying with helpless rage, Dave sought his father for retribution.

His father wouldn't listen. "Can't you see I'm changing a tire?" he shouted. "Beat it! I can't drive downtown with this flat . . ."

At dinner Dave had to be called four times to the table. He dawdled so long over bedtime that his father lost his temper again. Later when his mother called, "Is your light out, Davy?" he took so long to answer that she had to go upstairs to check his light herself.

Dave was obstructing his parents' expectations of him in retaliation for their resistance of his expectations of them.

Children often resort to this kind of protest. When they do, the simple intelligent thing is to say, "If you're so mad, why don't you say so instead of pretending you don't hear me?"

Otherwise they may develop a habit of expressing their anger at us by resisting behavior instead of by resisting words.

This is an unfortunate development.

When a child first resorts to protest by action, he's usually aware of his wish to punish us. But if he's not encouraged to put the anger into words, he may begin to lose his awareness of the wish. Gradually, he begins to give us stubborn behavior automatically. Whenever he feels in the least pushed or coerced, he'll immediately respond with resistance out of his accumulated need to triumph over us.

Then it may be too late to get him to put his anger into words. When we say, "If you're mad, why don't you say so?" he'll just glare at us sullenly as though he didn't know what we are talking about.

We've all known adults who seem unable to do anything that others expect of them. They are the people who are always late for appointments; who make promises without knowing they don't intend to keep them; who may end by an inability to act even in their own behalf lest the act please somebody else.

Mom's Tips Most Help, Say Girls

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — High school senior girls listen to mother or teacher, or both, but not dad when it comes to planning future careers.

Or such are the findings of a recent study reported by an assistant extension rural sociologist.

The survey included comments from more than 800 high school senior girls.

About 29 per cent indicated that their mothers were the most important individuals in helping them decide on their future occupations. About 10 per cent said teachers were most influential. Next came friends and vocational counselors. Dad trailed with only 7.3 per cent.

When asked what type of future they were planning after graduation, the survey found that only three per cent wanted to be homemakers.

Most of the senior girls—about 89 per cent—wanted to go into either professional or clerical work. They were interested in teaching, nursing and medical profession, with the accent on teaching. In clerical positions, they showed a preference for positions as stenographers, typists, salesgirls and receptionists. Only 7.5 per cent wanted to be semi-skilled workers.

Meat Topped Casserole Baked in Cheese Sauce

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Hearty casserole dishes are always welcome. Mrs. Allan Monteith is an expert at this type of cookery and uses it a great deal. She assembled the ingredients for the recipe below after hearing what the young son of a friend thought should go into a casserole. It was good.

The mother of four daughters, Mrs. Monteith has long been active in Girl Scouting and in PTA work. She enjoys craft work and playing Bridge. Sewing occupies many of her leisure hours.

JOHNNY'S CASSEROLE
By Mrs. Allan Monteith

3½ pounds ground beef
2-3 onions
2 bunches carrots
12 small potatoes
1 package frozen peas
½ pound processed cheese
¼ pound medium sharp cheese
1 quart milk
¼ pound margarine
Salt and pepper
5 tablespoons flour

Peel potatoes, cut into cubes. Cut carrots in thick slices. Parboil 10 minutes.

Make a sauce of the margarine, flour, milk and cheese. Grease two casseroles and line bottoms with onion rings.

Place a layer of half of the potatoes, then one of meat, the carrots and peas (not cooked), another layer of meat and the rest of the potatoes. Pour cheese sauce over all. Bake 2 hours in 300-degree oven. Serves 16.

Explain Terms Gauge, Denier

Gauge in women's hosiery means the number of stitches per half inch, points out an extension clothing specialist.

The higher the guage the more and finer the stitches—this uses more nylon thread and gives greater strength to hose. Gauge is used only in full fashioned hose.

Denier is the measure of the weight or thickness or size of each yarn or thread. The higher the denier number, the thicker and stronger the thread.

TV Quiz Wrangle Is Relief to Some

By RUTH MILLETT

But I, for one, am sort of relieved by even the faintest suspicion that maybe some of those wonder boys and girls with the filing card memories weren't as smart as they appeared to be.

Having a memory more like a selve than a filing cabinet, quiz programs always had a depressing kind of fascination for me.

If you can't be sure of getting home from the supermarket with a loaf of bread, a head of lettuce and a bottle of ketchup without making out a grocery list, there is a kind of fatal fascination in watching a brain (that seems more like an electronic than a human one) dig deep and come up with the answer, no matter what the question.

It's depressing and deflating to one's own ego—but fascinating all the same.

It's different with the westerns. The fact that the "good guy" is bound to win out in the end doesn't spoil my pleasure one bit. A western is supposed to be rigged, with all the breaks going to the good man and the bad men always getting their comeuppance in the end.

That's what I expect in a western. But I certainly hope it's not the same on a quiz show.

Metropolitan Club Plans Yule Party

'Big Foot' Said to Be an Indian

SEATTLE (AP)—A taxidermist says Big Foot, the creature whose huge, human-like footprints have the people of the Weitchpec area of northern California guessing, is an Indian gone wild.

Al Corbett said he and another Seattle taxidermist, Bob Titmus, inspected the tracks 25 miles north of Weitchpec last Saturday and found the prints to be "very large, definitely human, tracks."

Corbett said the clearest print was 16 inches long, 5 inches across at the heel and 7 inches across at the ball of the foot.

A logger in the area, Gerald Crew, last week brought out a plaster cast of a clear footprint.

"The story behind this is that there was a mentally deficient Indian boy who was kept chained by his parents," Corbett said.

"When this boy was 17 years old, 28 years ago, he broke the chains and disappeared. The Indians found his clothes but never saw him again. They said he had extremely large feet.

"We talked it over a great deal and figured this man now must be 6 feet 7 inches to 7 feet 6 inches tall. We thought he might weigh as much as 400 pounds. He made firm footprints in hard ground.

"Measuring the footprints for a distance of more than 60 feet, we found the average stride was 50 inches. We checked this against the stride of a man 6 feet 4 inches tall, with long legs, and his stride was 30 inches.

"We were told by people who saw footprints made when this unknown man was running that they were 10 feet apart.

"I know positively this is a human being.

"It seems logical that it is this Indian who disappeared and is living wild. He does his traveling at night. He has not molested anyone. We learned these tracks have been appearing for the past 10 years."

New Styling Eye-Appeal Marks '59 Dodge Models

DETROIT — New styling designed to enhance eye-appeal marks the 1959 Dodge cars.

Featuring front end changes are arched headlight eyebrows that curve inward and downward to the front grille. At the rear new taillights are patterned after jet tubes. Chrome moldings are shaped to permit side as well as rear visibility of the taillights. The flaring rear fins ride atop the taillights.

Dodge announced a new V-8 engine and refinements in other power plants, designed to improve fuel economy. The engines and their power trains, it reported, are designed for use with so-called regular gasoline.

Power output of the various engines range from 135 to 350 horsepower. New options include swing-out, swivel front seats, self-dimming rear view mirror, automatic headlight dimmer and low pressure tires, using 16 to 18 pounds per square inch of pressure compared with 22 to 24 pounds in regular tires.

Dodge has set Oct. 10 for introduction of the new models.

The division has announced its 1959 prices will be higher by 2.9 per cent overall.

Dodge said the cars will range from $2,283 for the Coronet club sedan, six-cylinder, to $3,141 for the Custom Sierra three-seat station wagon.

Optional equipment costs remain generally unchanged from 1958. Swivel front seats, offered for the first time on Chrysler Corp. cars this year, will cost $65.65.

Anchorage Is the Boom Town of Alaska

(Most Americans, when they think about Alaska, soon to be our 49th state, don't think of big, bustling cities with wide boulevards, modern stores, crowds—and traffic jams. But Alaska has its big cities nevertheless. This is the first of four dispatches introducing some of them, by a UPI reporter who went north as an explorer and turned into a wide-eyed tourist.)

By HAL WOOD

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Ever hear of a thriving city of 80,000 with no industry? No agriculture? In fact, very little visible means of support?

Take a look at Anchorage, the biggest city in Alaska — and the boomingest town on the North American continent right now.

Anchorage is a spick-and-span modern all-American city, built around an economy of U.S. government money. And very little else. Some money comes in from tourists, a little from trapping, some from fishing and some from mining. But that's about all.

The government spending won't go on forever — but the Alaskan is an optimist or he wouldn't be here in the first place.

Right now, his hopes rest on the development of a half dozen oil fields — fields that may be as large as those in Texas. (Everything in Alaska is measured by Texas standards.).

Oil has been struck on the Kenai peninsula and geologists believe there is plenty more. But there will be no active production for several years. First must come a $150,000,000 pipe line to the shoreline. That may not be completed for four or five years.

In the meantime, the business men are happy with things as they are and only hope government spending lasts until then.

Like most boom-towns, Anchorage is no place for a man with only five dollars in his pocket. Prices probably are 50 per cent higher than in most U.S. cities. A can of beer sells for 60 cents, milk for 25 cents a glass. Housing, always short in boom-towns, is critical here. Because there is no lumber industry in this neighborhood, a house that could be built for $15,000 stateside will cost about $45,000 here — including two bedrooms. Rentals may run from $100 a month for a single room with a hot-plate to $300 a month in such plush places as the 14-story McKinley apartments.

Mayor Anton Anderson believes firmly in the future despite the current economic dependency on government spending. His current pet project, for which bonds recently were signed, is a $8,200,000 port.

Different from most Alaskan cities, Anchorage has wide paved streets, beautiful stores and banks —as modern as those in Los Angeles. It has 40 churches — and 48 bars. There are two daily newspapers, three radio stations and two TV stations. There are 11 elementary schools, one junior and one high school.

The city has a moderate temperature — about like that of northern Michigan and Minnesota. The growing season lasts about four months.

However, summer days run from 15 to 22 hours of daylight. Beautiful flowers grow during that period. The city puts on a flower show in August called "Treasures of the Tundra." The rainfall is 14.6 inches a year and the city gets about five feet of snow in the winter. Biggest sporting event is the annual Dog Race.

"What we need most," said the secretary of the local chamber of commerce, "is a paved highway through Canada (Alaska already has one). Then Anchorage would grow to 500,000 people in no time at all."

This may be slightly exaggerated — but all Alaskans think and talk big.

Anchorage was the hot-bed of the battle for statehood and it controls the political thinking of the state. It has almost half the eligible voters in Alaska.

Anchorage right now is a good place in which to live and to work. But there are some drawbacks for the average U.S. citizen who might want to make a home here:

1. When a man and his family come here, unless they have a lot of traveling money, they'll have to stay. It is 1,445 air miles from Anchorage to Seattle (4,500 miles to New York). While there is a paved highway to Fairbanks and another to Seward, that's about the extent of pavement in the whole territory.

2. If the government money should stop rolling in and if the boom should fail to materialize, it would be hard to make a living here.

Hotrod Ambulance Drivers Hurt More Than They Aid

CHICAGO — A committee of the American College of Surgeons has called for a crackdown on the hotrod type ambulance driver.

They said studies show he injures more of his charges than he helps.

Dr. Sidney N. Lyttle, Flint, Mich., surgeon, who made a survey of 2,500 ambulance patient deliveries to Flint hospitals, said yesterday:

"The study showed that 98.2 per cent of the cases would have gotten along just as well if they had been delivered to the hospital by ox cart."

Of the remaining 1.8 per cent of the cases, or 45 cases, that required reasonably swift attention, he went on, 9 could have been killed or reduced to permanent invalidism by a rough ambulance ride.

"And none of these 45 patients would have died if there had been an additional half hour delay in bringing them to the hospital," he added.

Lyttle said the Flint survey failed to uncover a single case where speed would have saved the patient's life.

"What the seriously injured or ill patient needs is a smooth expeditious trip to the hospital, not a speeding rough weaving ride which can increase the degree of shock with possible fatal results," he said.

Detroit Father of 3 Slain in Parked Car

DETROIT (AP)—Police theorized today that a trigger-happy amateur holdup man might have killed insurance agent Nikolaus F. Heinrich and then fled in fright.

Clues were few in the parked car slaying of Monday night.

Heinrich, 32, decorated World War II Navy veteran and father of three children, was shot to death in southwest Detroit while on his insurance collection rounds.

The killer fired three bullets into Heinrich's back, arm and face but didn't touch $500 in cash and checks on his victim's person.

Mrs. Velma Taryan, resident of the neighborhood, discovered the slaying yesterday morning. She said she had heard sounds of an argument the night before and saw the parked car.

Police found powder burns on the right hand side of the car's front seat cover. They said this indicated the killer had been hiding in the back seat.

Partnership Purchases Barnes Hardware Here

Barnes Hardware, 742 W. Huron Street has been purchased by a partnership, Neal L. Hargrave and A. Byron Barnes and will be operated as Barnes-Hargrave, Inc.

Hargrave, of 6965 Orchard Lake Road, has spent 13 years as buyer and merchandise manager in Pontiac and a previous 20 years in retailing.

A Byron Barnes, 8 Spokane Dr., is the son of the former owner, Arthur Barnes. He has been an employe of the store for 15 years. He is a graduate of Pontiac High School.

Folsom Wants Truman to Run

Alabama's Chief Says Ex-President Has Good Chance of Re-Election

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Alabama's Governor James E. Folsom said last night former President Truman has a "mighty good chance" of becoming president again.

Folsom, who brought his five-year-old daughter, Thelma, here for an eye operation, said he was personally in favor of Truman as 1960 Democratic presidential candidate, and he added, "Lots of folks in Alabama besides me are for old Harry."

"Of course there is Nixon (Vice President Richard Nixon) with his emphasis on youth," said Folsom. "He is still in his 40s and could prove a problem."

"But look here—Winston Churchill was a lot older than Truman when he was elected prime minister (in 1951). And Adenauer (German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer) ain't no spring chicken."

Truman has said on several occasions, however, he will not be a candidate for his party's presidential nomination.

Folsom, who says Alabama has no integration problems and no closed schools, predicted Republicans are going to be "taken to the cleaners" in the November general elections.

Rockefeller Has Calluses From Shaking Hands

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Nelson A. Rockefeller has developed calluses from shaking thousands of hands in his campaign as the Republican candidate for governor of New York.

"I shake about 2,000 hands a day," he told a reporter as he displayed his battle scars. But "I love it," said the philanthropist, a newcomer to politics.

Waiting for Identity of Body in Quebec

MONTREAL (UP) — Provincial Police said today they are waiting for a report on the identity of a man whose body was found Friday beside an empty canoe on the shores of the Nottaway River below Rupert House, Que., 550 miles northwest of Montreal.

Indians found the body while on a search organized by Provincial Police and Dr. Percival Price of Ann Arbor, Mich., the father of one of two U.S. adventurers missing since early August on a canoe trek.

Price's son, Alan, 21, and Robert Carey, 23, of Rosedale, Ill., have not been heard from since they set out from Senneterre, Que., on an exploratory trip to Rupert House, 250 miles through rugged country.

The doctor motored to Senneterre from Montreal with a Provincial Police officer Sept. 21. The two men were reported to have flown to the Nottaway River after the body was found to attempt identification.

Eight radio-controlled traffic lights and a master control station have been approved by the Melbourne City Council. The installation will set the pattern for coordinated handling of the city's traffic. Ultimately the system will be expanded to control all the city's traffic lights.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"
New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials for normal regularity.
As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge.
Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs cramp and gripe the entire system. Of all laxatives, only new COLONAID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).
(1) COLONAID moisturizes dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONAID'S unequalled rebulking action helps retone flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONAID acts gently, on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon.
COLONAID relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. And COLONAID won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get COLONAID today! Introductory size 43¢.

Step Toward Collective Living

Red China Feeds Millions in Community Mess Halls

HONG KONG (AP) — Home cooking is on the way out in Red China.

Communist press reports give this picture: "All the people eat together in the mess halls and whole families and all people lead a collective life. Women can be freed from houshold labor connected with cooking and can devote all their labor power to production. The production enthusiasm of each person can be brought in play, and much grain can be saved all over the country."

Peiping admitted the minds of some well-to-do cooperative members had been filled with misgivings:

"It was troublesome to queue up for food every day.

"Guests could no longer be invited.

"It would be difficult to get food on rainy days because one was forced to queue in the wet.

"The food would not be as good as home-cooked food.

"The children would not get any more candy.

"Since all grain stocks would be pooled, households with plenty of grain would have to share the lot of grain-short households."

"Fuel and condiments could be saved when people ate together.

"Time and action could be unified and a leap forward could be achieved in production.

"At the same time it was made clear that the setting up of public mess halls was only intended to change the peasants' habits of life and mode of life, and that it would not mean 'eating out of the same pot.'

"If peasants want more food, they must contribute more grain and money to the mess hall.

After these explanations by the party were released round the nation, Peiping claimed, the plans were approved generally. One comment cited was: "It is the complete emancipation of women."

The mess hall system is a part of Red China's plan to push all the masses into "communes" where everybody sleep in dormitories and none is allowed private possessions.

Butterfield Stage Held Up Again —by Speeches

It was late, just as it was 100 years ago, but the reasons weren't the same. Indians and badmen slowed down the mail back in 1858, but this run, which started at Tipton, Mo., 21 days ago, was held up by speeches and curiosity seekers, eager to see the replica of the first Butterfield stage.

The stage brought 200,000 pieces of mail to the post office. Accompanying it were Highway Post Office No. 1, a covered wagon, a mobile blacksmith shop and museum and several floats provided by historical societies. The whole works was transported on trucks and trailers.

Boos Greet Bagwell at Chrysler Plant

DETROIT (AP)—Paul D. Bagwell's campaign appearance at an auto factory got him boos instead of handshakes yesterday.

The itinerary of the Republican candidate for governor called for a visit to the East Jefferson Avenue plant of Chrysler Corp. He was to arrive at a shift change, shake hands and say a few words.

But the plant was on strike.

As Bagwell drove up in his station wagon with its "Bagwell For Governor" sign, he encountered about 300 United Auto Workers Union pickets.

Shouting boos, some pickets ran toward the car. A sound truck quit playing the Union's "Solidarity Foever" song and made noises.

Bagwell drove away. Afterward he quipped about it. "This is the first time I've ever been booed en masse," he said.

Seeking to Patch Up Rift in Iraqi Policy

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—Friends sought today to patch up a rift between Premier Abdel Karim Kassem and an ardent pro-Nasser revolutionary leader after Kassem suppressed a military conspiracy.

The conspiracy was by soldiers supporting Brig. Abdul Salam Arif, No. 2 man in the revolt July 14 that overthrew and killed King Faisal II. Arif's regiment was disarmed last weekend and Arif was placed under house arrest, reliable informants said.

Gen. Kassem and Arif split on how closely the new Iraqi republic should associate itself with President Nasser's United Arab Republic. Kassem wants to keep Iraq separate from the U.A.R. while Arif is believed to favor immediate union.

Arif had been deputy commander of Iraqi armed forces, deputy premier and interior minister. Kassem relieved him of his military command Sept. 12 and of his Cabinet posts Sept. 30, naming him ambassador to West Germany.

Freight Car Listeners Complain Both Ways

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—For 10 years, residents of Visitacion Valley have complained that Southern Pacific Railroad's freight car switching has kept them awake.

Someone poured cement on the SP yard tracks. The prank was discovered in time to prevent any derailment—but switching wasn't resumed until after daylight.

Some residents had a new complaint: It was so quiet they couldn't sleep.

Clinton Officials Fly to Capital

Take Issue of Bombing Integrated High School to White House

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP)—Anderson County officials take problems arising from the bombing of integrated Clinton High School directly to the White House today.

Four county officials planned to fly to Washington to confer with presidential assistants Rocco Siciliano and Ed McCabe.

They did not know yet whether they actually would see President Eisenhower, as they hoped.

Those making the trip are Acting County Atty. Frank Wilson, School Board members R. G. Crossno and O. C. Mays, and County Judge J. D. Yarnell.

They declined to say what they plan to discuss, but it will deal with the Sunday dynamiting and probably the cost of repairing the school.

The blasts caused about $300,000 damage, described by two Florida detectives — experts on bombings —as more damage than that caused by any similar blast in the South.

The detectives came as representatives of the Southeastern Conference on Bombings, an organization of 67 Southeastern cities with headquarters in Jacksonville.

The conference has posted a standing reward of $55,700 for the conviction of anyone responsible for a bombing related to integration. The reward applies in the Clinton blasts, together with $5,000 posted by the State of Tennessee.

Pupils at the high school, meanwhile, are attending makeshift classes in churches, the city recreation center and on the school lawn.

Plans are for the entire enrollment of 859 white and 11 Negro pupils to move Thursday to an elementary school at Oak Ridge, six miles away. The vacant school is owned by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Clinton High School bowed to a federal court order two years ago and admitted nine Negroes with its white pupils. Violence was sporadic during the first year, and John Kasper, a racial agitator, was convicted for stirring it up.

The past two years of integration have appeared to proceed smoothly, and Sunday's explosions took officials aback completely.

29 Arrests Thwart Teenage Gang Fight

DETROIT (AP) — Suburban Dearborn police arrested 29 teenagers last night and thwarted a threatened gang fight between an estimated 150 youths and girls.

Officers said those arrested were armed with tire irons, wrenches and other weapons.

An anonymous telephone tip sent police ot the grounds of the Thayer School in northwest Dearborn where the gang fight was to take place. Most of those in the crowd fled when police arrived.

Rockefeller, Harriman Vie for High Stake in New York Election Race

By JAMES DEVLIN
(Second in Series)

NEW YORK (AP)—New York's fabulously wealthy rivals for governor must have learned somewhere in their Social Register backgrounds the knack of fighting.

The issues are a bit murky at times, but Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman and his Republican challenger, Nelson A. Rockefeller, are flailing away with gusto.

The two millionaire Ivy Leaguers (Harriman, Yale); Rockefeller, Dartmouth) are firing charges over such matters as bossism, crime and unemployment without letting their personal friendship stand in their way.

The stakes are high, for the New York governorship often has led to a try for the presidency.

Harriman twice has sought the Democratic presidential nomination and reputedly still has his eye on it in 1960.

Harriman, 66, seeking re-election Nov. 4, is a liberal of the New Deal-Fair Deal tradition. Rockefeller, 50, is regarded as a liberal to moderate of the Eisenhower wing of the Republicans.

To the average voter, their views do not seem far apart. For instance, union-opposed right-to-work laws, a hot issue in the California campaign, scarcely have been mentioned here. Both candidates are against such legislation.

Also, both are strong civil rights advocates.

Rockefeller charged the Democrats with bossism and hidden government. He accused Harriman of being a puppet of Carmine G. DeSapio, chief of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization.

Rockefeller's puppet charge stemmed from the Democratic nomination of Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan to oppose Republican Rep. Kenneth B. Keating for the U. S. Senate.

DeSapio succeeded in enginering Hogan's nomination although Harriman openly favored Thomas K. Finletter, former secretary of the Air Force, or Thomas E. Murray, former atomic energy commissioner.

Firing back DeSapio said he had reliable information that Rockefeller was nominated by Wall Street bankers.

"The decision as to who should run for governor was not made at the Republican convention but in the board of directors room of the Chase National Bank," DeSapio said.

"Bunk," retorted Rockefeller. "Just straight bunk."

The fantastic underworld convention of more than 60 mobsters in the upstate village of Apalachin last November is a favorite Republican campaign issue.

Nobody charges that the Democrats had any connection whatever with the convention, but the fact the hoodlums were bold enough to meet in a Democratic-administered state was all the GOP needed to talk it up.

"As governor, I would not allow gangsters to look upon our state as an ideal place in which to meet and lay their plans," Rockefeller said.

Rockefeller's running mate, Keating, contended the recession had "been shot out from under the Democrats" as a campaign issue.

"I have heard that every three months since the thing started," Truman said. He added that five million men unemployed in the nation did not think the recession was over.

Rockefeller said industry was moving from New York to other states because of "complacency and drift" by the Harriman administration.

Said Harriman: "My opponent is a well-meaning fellow, but he's in bad hands. He's in the hands of Madison Avenue pitchmen, tricky statisticians and reactionary politicians."

Individualism Bowled Right Into Gutter

NEW YORK (AP)—I have taken up bowling.

I do not particularly like bowling, but my boss does. So I have taken up bowling.

This is the latest example—and perhaps the worst example — of that creeping paralysis of American independence known as togetherness. In bowling, the disease is carried to the ultimate. Friends bowl together. Enemies bowl together. Management and labor bowl together.

Remember when we were a nation of individualists? When a man took up a sport to get away from it all and to refuel his soul in the glories of nature? When he went off, like a man, to sit on the bank of a stream, to fish, to dream, to find himself, to find a perspective about the people he was escaping —his wife, his kids, his boss.

Now we all bowl together. And this is called healthful exercise, exhilarating and relaxing. We bowl in a sweaty smoke-filled room, where there is no natural light, no natural air, and you have a grand view of a wall. Relaxing? It has all the serenity of a shooting gallery.

It brings out the worst in people.

The women wear toreador pants. This tends to narrow them on the top and widen them in the middle, with a Freudian subconscious wish to look like bowling pins.

The men wear slacks and a frown. I almost never saw a bowler who wasn't frowning. They take the game that seriously. The good ones—even after a strike—come back to the bench frowning to let the rest of the team know they are continually aware of their responsibility to be good. The bad bowlers frown under the weight of their enormous guilt complex; they are letting their team down, which in some cases can mean their department or the whole company they're working for.

You see the worst physical tortures in bowling alleys, especially as the bowler tries to keep from tottering over the foul line. He ties himself up in the air like Nijinsky in a ballet of demented anchovies. And then the poor fool falls over the foul line, and bells ring, and red lights flash, and you'd think the FBI had just nabbed Khrushchev slipping banana peels on the launching pad at Cape Canaveral.

You see the worst mental tortures in bowling alleys. A 180-bowler bowls 98, and he blames it on the fact that a woman three alleys away was whispering. He heard her in all that noise. Or he blames it on tight shoes, dust on the ball, or a speck of towel lint on the floor.

Another man throws his ball immediately into the gutter—a wooden ditch from which there is no return. His ball starts there, and it ends there in the gutter and he has no one to blame but himself. But he comes back to the bench convinced he was robbed.

All of us bowlers are completely miserable. But we do have our togetherness.

Advised to Back Enterprise Candidates

Tells Business: 'Organize'

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —Philip M. Talbott, board chairman of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, called on American businessmen Tuesday to ring doorbells if necessary to elect candidates devoted to the free enterprise system.

"Labor is organizing politically at every level," he declared. "That is what we must do."

"It is not a question of party labels," he said. "It is a question of electing men who will not waver from the defense of the free market and our dynamic, competitive enterprise system."

The national Chamber, Talbott told the 62nd annual convention of the National Assn. of Mutual Insurance Companies, is now working on a program of political action which will be distributed to members before the November election.

Every businessman is up to his ears in politics because big government delves deep into the lives of everyone, Talbott said, and "we have a call to correct misinformation and keep it corrected."

Much of Talbott's prepared speech was critical of the last session of Congress.

"I would be less than candid not to say that the last session distinguished itself for financial responsibility and for its disregard of the constitutional separation of state and local responsibility," Talbott declared.

He said Congress was responsible for a 12-billion-dollar budget deficit.

"The Congress seems married to the idea that government spending is a panacea for recession and for Sputniks," he said. "The fact that the congressional elections were coming up may have had something to do with it. Pork barrel legislation was rolling all over the place."

Lions' No. 1 Quarterback Pulls Leg Muscle

Ironies of Fate—Tobin Rote Injured in Drills

Morrall to Get Quick Baptism With New Team

Tobin's Injury May Not Keep Him Out of Game Sunday With Rams

DETROIT (AP) — It was a routine workout and no one got excited until Tobin Rote pulled up lame.

It was a strange turn of fate that Rote should suffer a pulled thigh muscle the first day he had complete charge of the Detroit Lions' offense.

Rote suffered the injury yesterday near the end of the team's workout. The man with whom he had shared the quarterback job, Bobby Layne, was just settling himself in Pittsburgh when it happened.

"How about that?" said veteran Lou Creekmur. "Pretty lousy timing, huh?"

Rote was jogging down the practice field at Briggs Stadium when suddenly he stopped and grabbed the back of his right leg. "It popped—just like a rubber band," he said later.

Rote says this is the first time in his entire football career he has had a muscle injury. There was slight panic when he was hurt — but it does not appear the injury is serious enough to keep him out of Sunday's game in Detroit against Los Angeles.

Should the leg fail to respond to treatment, then Earl Morrall will get a quick baptism in the Detroit system.

He arrived in time for the workout, had a little trouble getting the snap from center Bob Griffin, but stayed out extra long to work on his passing. He will be a busy quarterback in the next few days, trying to learn the Lions' plays and the team offense.

Coach George Wilson, who traded off Layne to Pittsburgh for Morall and two draft choices, met with the players for quite some time before the workout. He told them about the trade, explaining it in much the same manner he did earlier to the press.

"It had to be done," he said. "Now it's up to the rest of you fellows to pull together and do a job. We have to get untracked and it is up to you fellows here to do just that."

When he came out on the practice field, after the players already started limbering up, Wilson passed a group of newsmen and spectators. He smiled and said "Hope no one here has a gun."

The trade was still on his mind and he knew the players were thinking about it, too. When defensive back Jim David was holding the ball for some practice place kicks, one of his teammates yelled "What are you doing?"

Prahst Among Many Wolverine Stars Against MSU

Unsung Heroes for U. of M.

Every team has them. Michigan more than most. To U. of M.'s unsung heroes go many of the honors for last Saturday's tie with Michigan State. Included in this group were those Wolverines who never before played football the way they did against the Spartans.

Prahst always has been a step from stardom. He took that step against Michigan State. The lanky end stole a lateral and romped 42 yards for Michigan's first touchdown.

Minutes later, he crashed in from his left end post and sprang the ball loose from Spartan quarterback Mike Panitch. The recovery fumble led to Michigan's second touchdown. Prahst caught two passes for 17 yards on the scoring drive.

"He could have played like that last year, but injuries held him back," said coach Bennie Oosterbaan.

Johnson, like Prahst, a first stringer of two sesasons, also turned in his finest performance against MSU. It was mostly of a defensive nature. But Johnson caught one pass for 15 yards and was a jarring blocker.

"He has made tremendous strides this season," said Oosterbaan.

Genyk was a defensive demon as were most of the Wolverine linemen. He earned a share of the credit on Prahst's touchdown. It was Genyk who hit Panitch and forced him to launch the errant pitchout.

Callahan was credited with 11 unassisted tackles, mostly at the line of scrimmage. Once he sped back as a pass defender and batted an aerial away from the clutches of State's Sammy Williams.

Julian had bitter memories of MSU's 35-6 trouncing of Michigan a year ago. Four of State's five touchdowns were scored through or over his area. Julian fumbled once on State's four.

This time he redeemed himself. He knocked down a pass intended for Williams and caught a 22-yard aerial in a crucial fourth-down situation.

Pass defense was in order yesterday as the Wolverines stepped up their drills for Saturday's game with Navy.

Cards Trade 3 for Two Giants

'Frisco Gets Pitcher, Catcher, Utility Man, Gives Up 2 Hurlers

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals made a 3-for-2 trade with the San Francisco Giants yesterday, their second multi-player swap since Solly Hemus became manager last week.

Pitcher Billy Muffett, catcher Hobie Landrith and utility infielder Benny Valenzuela were sent to the Giants for pitchers Ernie Broglio and Marv Grissom.

Thus the Cards gave up three players who failed to deliver in 1958 for a promising rookie, Broglio, and a 40-year-old veteran of nine years in the major leagues.

Broglio, 23, won 17 games and lost only four this year in Triple-A competition. The 6-foot-2 right-hander will accompany the Cardinals on their forthcoming exhibition tour of the Orient.

The Cardinal front office said Grissom will be used as a short relief man. Grissom won 7 games and lost 5 with the Giants last season. Appearing only in relief, he had a 4.02 earned run average.

Spahn Tries to Wrap It Up for Braves

'Winning Complex' Aim of Layne at Pittsburgh

The 31-year-old veteran who is starting his 11th pro campaign says he's happy to be with the Steelers, adding.

"I hope I can give the Steelers a winning complex by being a team leader and giving the fellows confidence by playing good and alert football."

Layne can speak with authority. The former Texas University star played a key role in bringing the Detroit Lions championship football teams.

Layne was traded Monday by Detroit to the Steelers for quarterback Earl Morrall and two future draft choices amid reports he had lost his old time zing.

"I don't feel like that," Layne said when told about the reports. "If I did, I'd go back home. I feel real good."

Coach Buddy Parker of the Steelers, who formerly coached the Lions while Layne was with the team, also shrugged off the reports that Layne had lost his sharpness.

"I wouldn't pay any attention to such reports," Parker said. "What happened there (Detroit) doesn't bother me. I know the type of player Layne is and that he's in good physical shape. I'm hoping he'll give us a little punch."

During Parker's reign at Detroit and under the leadership of Layne, the Lions captured three Western Conference and two National Football League championships.

Parker said he'll start Layne Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Layne worked out yesterday with the club. He said Parker's offensive pattern was all coming back to him.

"Layne looked good, the same as always," Parker said.

BIG KICK FOR SPAHN — Lefty Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves, current pitching hero of the World Series, would like to put the final kick to the Yankees today. He won the 1st and 4th games of the Series and he could wrap it up today.

Milwaukee Ace Goes to Mound Against Yanks

Southpaw 'Arm With a Man Attached' Seeking 3rd Win of Series

By United Press International

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The "arm" with a man attached to it goes out in an attempt to hurl World Series history today, admitting that no matter how many times you work in the classic "it's always more than just another ball game."

That's Warren Spahn's description both of himself and the annual post-season baseball classic.

"Lots of times I feel that I'm just an arm with me attached to it," he mused when she got the word that he would face the New York Yankees today in a game in which he could sweep the Milwaukee Braves to their second straight world championship.

"That thought has made me feel pretty humble at times," he added "and you can really feel small when you walk out there in the World Series. I don't care what anybody says. You can't ever put this in the category of 'just another ball game.'"

Despite his veteran status after pitching in the 1948 and 1957 series and in winning two games this time, Spahn admits that he never can shake the pressing thought that "this is the World Series."

"You feel it when you come in the park, while you're dressing and when you're warming up or sitting on the bench between innings," he asserted. "It's always there, even if you push it into the back of your mind while you're pitching."

Spahn is going to the post with only two days of rest, a frightful risk for a man who, despite his record of being a 20-game winner for nine seasons, has to be going down the other side of the baseball hill at the age of 37.

He hasn't pitched with such a slight recuperative period since August of 1955—an era when his whip was three years younger. That time he bested the Cardinals twice, breezing to a 12 to 1 win the first time with eight hits but scraping through 5 to 3 with 10 hits the second time.

In this Series, he opened last Wednesday with a 4 to 3 victory in 10 innings. The second time he was even better, with a 3 to 0 two-hitter. But, you might ask, how long can this go on?

"I hope for at least one more day," he grins. "It was cold that first day and my arm was sore afterwards. But in winning Sunday, it was warmer and my arm suffered no after-effects. I feel that I'm ready."

So the Braves will shoot with him for that final big win and in doing so they give Spahn a chance to match an iron-man triple which teammate Lew Burdette performed as these same Braves beat the same Yankees in last year's Series It's quite a feat.

Lineman of Week Honor Accorded Spartan Center

By The Associated Press

A vital pass interception that saved Michigan State from a surprise defeat at the hands of Michigan brought Lineman of the Week honors today to Jim Chastain.

This is how the MSU junior center from Waynesburg, Pa., saved the day for the Spartans in the game last Saturday. At the time, early in the last period, Michigan led 12-6 and was threatening again. The Wolverines had the ball on the MSU 7 third down and goal to go.

Michigan quarterback Bob Ptacek of Michigan faded back and threw a forward pass. Chastain intercepted the pass on the goal line. He was downed on the three and from there Michigan State started a 97-yard drive for a touchdown and a 12-12 tie, the final score.

Viking Harriers Win 5th Dual, Set Record

Walled Lake High School harriers yesterday took sweet revenge for a licking handed them last fall by Hamtramck. Don Smith's runners won their 5th straight dual test, 16-44, over the Cosmos, with Jack Hobbs setting a new WL course record at 10:30, and with all seven Vikings finishing in the top 10.

Only 24 seconds separated Hobbs and the first five Walled Lake finishers, who were: 2, Ray Taulbee; 3, George Beeman; 4, Chet Valentine; 5, Simpson (H); 6, Mel Stokus; 7, Mike Cosgrove; Bob Smith (WL) 10th (11:22).

Vikings host a triangular Thursday, with Berkley and Van Dyke. This meet, and the 3-way Farmington, Waterford and Southfield test at Farmington the same day wind up Inter-Lakes league cross-country duals for the season.

Northville 5th in Class B Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

East Lansing still is the champ of the State Class B football ranks, but the Trojans are being hard-pressed to keep the honor.

Coming on strong in second place is another unbeaten team, South Haven. South Haven has handled Coloma, Plainwell and Allegan by lopsided margins and has 72 poll points, only 17 behind the front-running leaders from East Lansing.

One of the Detroit area's finest, Northville High, jumped from eighth to fifth on the strength of three straight triumphs. The latest was a 28-0 romp over Bloomfield Hills.

Here's the way the AP panel rates the teams after three weeks of action:

1.	East Lansing	89
2.	South Haven	72
3.	Dowagiac	57
4.	Cadillac	55
5.	Northville	44
6.	Sturgis	32
7.	River Rouge	30
8.	Hastings	21
9.	Ionia	20
10.	Center Line	17

Coleman Sets Pace in Scoring Battle

The way Lovell Coleman is scoring, it's hardly appropriate to call the state individual football scoring competition a race.

The Western Michigan sprinter has 52 points in just three games. He has scored 48 points on touchdowns and twice has run over extra points. He is 16 points ahead of his nearest rivals — Ron Bekius of Hope and Walt Beach of Central Michigan.

Maple Captain Has 42 Points

Busch Takes County Lead

The Maple co-captain romped to three touchdowns in Friday's trouncing of Mt. Clemens to move up from a tie for 3rd to first with seven TDs and 42 points.

Previous leader Frank Fink of Walled Lake dropped to 5th by going scoreless after tallying 32 in two games. Troy's Dick Stokes held 2nd with 39 while last year's winner, Jack Lyon of St. Frederick, bounced back into the race with four six-pointers to rank 3rd with 36.

John Lucadam of West Bloomfield moved up three places this week with 34, 10 on extra point conversions with an educated toe. Tom Bell of the Lakes has 30.

Chuck Steinhelper has 26 of St. Michael's 33 points to rank 8th. Harrison Munson of Pontiac and Lyon's running mate Tom Derocher are among several with 24.

Dan Donar of Highland Park St. Benedict, who like Busch and Stokes has scored at least twice for three games, retains the area lead with 42 points.

Brown City (three players) and Almont (two) round out the top six. Bob Fisher of Brown City and Jack Lyon have been the only boys to get four TDs in a game thus far.

Pontiac has had nine different players in the scoring column, seven of them on touchdowns. West Bloomfield, Farmington and Lapeer have had seven apiece and several others six.

The only scoreless teams in this sector now are Bloomfield Hills (2 games) and Dryden (3 games).

Ford Begs for Another Chance Against Braves

"Give me another shot at them and we'll get even. And I'll be ready in the bullpen on Thursday."

But Stengel wouldn't give him the definite nod, although indicating he was leading toward his little clutch pitcher.

"I know that little bugger," said Stengel. "He's itching to pitch again."

If he does, it will be with only two days rest—the same as his rival southpaw, Warren Spahn, who is 37 against Ford's 29. They matched pitches in the first game of the series a week ago today with Spahn winning in 10 innings, 4-3. But Ford was not charged with the defeat.

He was knocked out in the eighth inning as the Braves rallied to tie the score and reliefer Ryne Duren lost it in the 10th. Ford was charged with the 3-0 loss the Yankees suffered in the fourth game to Spahn.

That was the game in which Ford fell victim to fielding lapses on the part of his teammates—especially Norm Siebern in left field. He lost three fly balls he should have had and each one led to a Braves run.

"You can't blame those guys out there behind me," Ford said. "Without 'em I couldn't ever win."

He could have gone on to say that with 'em he usually does win. His season's record was only 14-7—he was sidelined for nearly six weeks with a sore left elbow. But he came back strong just before the season closed.

And in world series competition he has won five while losing four.

"I'm ready to make it six victories," Ford said, adding that if Casey didn't call on him today, he undoubtedly would call on him on Thursday.

"Whether I go or not today, we're going to even this thing up," said Ford.

"And then we'll go out and get 'em again tomorrow."

Hockey Opener Tonight; Red Wings Start Sunday

By United Press International

The New York Rangers and the Chicago Black Hawks face off at Chicago tonight in the opening game of the 1957-58 national hockey league season.

Both teams will have several new players in their lineup. The Rangers, who finished second behind the Montreal Canadiens last season, lost four men in the player draft but have come up with several promising rookies.

Heading the list of newcomers on the New York squad is Eddie Shack, a rough-and-ready forward who played with Providence of the American league last season.

The Black Hawks were the busiest traders during the off-season, acquiring Jack Evans from New York, Dollard St. Laurent and Danny Lewicki from Montreal, Earl Balfour and Pod Sloan from Toronto, and Al Arbour from Detroit.

The Canadiens, who walked off with the Stanley Cup for the third straight year last season, will open their new campaign Thursday night by entertaining the Boston Bruins.

The Toronto Maple Leafs won't swing into action until Saturday night when they host the Black Hawks. The Detroit Red Wings open their season at Montreal on the same night and then entertain New York Sunday night.

The Rangers won't make their first appearance before the home folks until Wednesday night, Oct. 15, when they entertain Boston.

The Wings worked out for an hour yesterday. They were en route to Cleveland today for the final exhibition game against the American league Barons.

After drills Thursday and Friday at Olympia, the Wings will travel to Montreal and will face the world champion Canadiens in the league opener Saturday night. They will be at home Sunday against New York.

Ray Tests Cotton

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Combat-minded Sonny Ray of Chicago offers Eddie Cotton of Seattle his first test of the year tonight in a scheduled 10-round light-heavyweight fight at Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Both were expected to weigh about 171 pounds for the nationally televised (ABC) bout. Scoring will be on the 5-point system.

Total for Conservation, 4,200,000 Acres

Recreation, Industry Compete for Land

LANSING (UPI) — About 4,200,000 acres of land in Michigan are owned by the state for conservation uses.

Some people think the state has too much land with acreage in such high demand in fast-growing sections such as in southeast Michigan. This may be true—or at least part of it is.

Charles E. Millar, chief of the conservation department's lands division, said the biggest problem isn't one of total amount of land for conservation but one of land location.

"About half the 4,200,000 acres is in the Upper Peninsula," he said, "with most of the other half in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula."

"There are many parts in more populous areas of southern Michigan where we need more land for recreation and other conservation uses, but competition is high because in those same areas, industry and housing developments are also wanting more land," he said.

Millar said it would be "difficult" to increase the acreage of state land in the future because the legislature has the problem of furnishing money for the many state needs and "apparently land is one of the lesser priorities."

The first land came into ownership of the department about 1902 when it was obtained because someone failed to meet tax payments on it. Holdings gradually increased from that point until about 1939 when the state jumped its total by about two million acres.

"In 1939," said Millar, "about two million acres reverted to the state from non-payment of taxes and the state holdings doubled."

About 80 per cent of the presently held land is tax reverted.

Much of the land was disposed of, he said, because it had no public use value and tax reversion land came to the state for the next four years at about 100,000 to a half million acres a year. Then the increase leveled off and for the past several years has been constant.

Much land is negotiated through trades with private land owners. When the state gets a hunk of land through tax reversion, it may not be near a conservation project but isolated by private holdings.

Trades are worked when the citizen and the department can swap "if it is to the public advantage to do it."

"We trade to consolidate public and private ownership," said Millar, "or to straighten ownership lines when the acreages are intermingled."

Of the future, Millar said, "Our acquisition program has not been very great and sales have been small. We would try to increase the holdings if we had the money but we haven't."

Marshes Drained; Helps Snipe Hunting

Winds Cut Duck Bags

By JACK PATTERSON

High winds over the weekend were the big factor in limiting bags for many upland gunners and some waterfowlers. Friday's and Saturday's "force 5" southerly gales blew most of the water out of Wildfowl Bay, for instance, and left shore-blind shooters sitting high and dry, looking foolish, with nothing to do but count their toes. Beneficiaries of the draining marshes were snipe hunters who found prime shooting on newly exposed mud flats; e. g.: Bloomfield and Birmingham bog trotters George Hodges, Ken Wilson and Bob Patterson who fired 123 shells in two hours for a bag of 20 snipe and one mallard plus a careless sora.

PATTERSON

Having already worn out one pair of legs on snipe this season and abiding by a self-imposed rule not to shoot ducks at Wildfowl Bay before Oct. 20th, attention is now turned toward grouse and woodcock in the northern counties.

In Antrim, Otsego and Crawford counties the combination of winds and still heavy ground cover made grouse hard to locate. Those located were even harder to hit. No. 1 boy, Joe, went along on his first grouse hunt and he displayed the old man's uncanny gift for missing the easy ones. What was worse he neatly folded a skedaddling woodcock that we'd missed with both barrels.

There are many indications that grouse are definitely up in the northern Lower Peninsula, and woodcock seem unusually plentiful, particularly on high ground. Hunting a family property in Otsego county, got into some prairie chickens, but it is illegal to shoot them in the Lower Peninsula.

One group of hunters who might have benefitted substantially from the high, noisy wind were bow hunters. On several occasions deer were jumped within 15 feet from their midday resting places and it would have been a simple matter to prang them with a broadhead.

As a purely personal suggestion, if some bow hunters spent more time in the woods, particularly during the middle hours of the day when deer are resting, they might be able to bring home something more substantial than tall stories.

In regard to the efficacy of the bow and arrow as a weapon for deer one Antrim county hunter avers that he "gets arrows in about 12 of them before he brings one to bag, on the average." We trust that this sporting type is either an unusually atrocious shot, an awful liar, or both and that his experience is not typical of the average bow hunter.

Outlook for upland gunning: Increasingly good as cover thins and the typhoon season screeches to a halt.

Little Stories About Outdoors

A pointed illustration of how far some would-be sportsmen will go to obtain trophies afield, is found in the story related today by a pair of Pontiac bow-hunters concerning the apparent theft of a deer, shot by one of the local bowmen.

"We were hunting north of St. Helens, Saturday," said Don Scholz, 5616 Pleasant, Drayton Plains. "Allen Means, my companion, had put an arrow in a deer, and I went back with him to help get the deer out. We didn't find the deer then, but saw where it had been dragged away. About that time I downed a small albino buck (50 yards — one arrow).

"Then we decided to resume the search for Allen's deer on Sunday. The search turned up the shaft of Means' arrow, identified by a distinctive crest—but no deer. There was ice on the shaft indicating it had lain there over night."

Scholz reports seeing quite a number of area partridge hunters, who seemed to be having pretty good luck. Among those he talked to was Eddie Mosure, former star Golden-Glover here years ago. Eddie was also doing some fishing.

Waterfowl hunters in the Pontiac area have been having spotty success, although many good-sized bodies of ducks and geese have been observed. Weather is still too nice for real duck hunting, flight ducks taking it easy on the migrations, and staying away from the few wet potholes and ponds, where most hunters have been taking some "local" birds.

The Russians are interested in model racing cars, says Pontiac's Phil Sauer, who received a letter recently from FEMA, the European model car body, suggesting that Sauer's cars be sent back for observation by the Soviet group, visiting Basel, Switzerland. Sauer, who raced several models in Europe in August, says the Soviets never were interested in the little cars before.

For those longshots at high, fast-flying ducks and geese, now the season's under way, the new 12-gauge-magnum just announced by an eastern manufacturer seems to be the answer. Standard shotguns fade on those long tries, as a rule. The new gun uses a 3-inch magnum load, packs a lot of power.

National Trials for 'Shorthairs'

German Pointers Run in 3-Day Event, Oct. 24-26 at Highland

Preparations for the 6th annual national field trials for the German Shorthair Pointer National Field Trial Assn. have been completed.

This big pointer dog event will take place at the rolling Highland Recreation area course, starting Oct. 24, running through Oct. 26. Seven-member clubs are backing the event, representing areas from the East Coast, West Coast, Midwest and the South.

More than 50 of the country's top shorthair pointers are expected to run in the big stake series.

1. First place in any A.K.C. licensed Open All Age Stake.
2. First place in any A.K.C. licensed Open All Gun Stake.
3. First, Second, Third or Fourth place in any A.K.C. licensed two point or better Limited All Age Stake (not amateur).
4. Any of the above in any clubs two A.K.C. licensed trials prior to the National.
5. The National Champion of 1957.

The 1948 Browns collected $3,500 per man and the Rams $2,300 for their National Football league title game before 87,695 spectators.

Makes Plans for Fall Hunting

Form New Outdoor Club

There's a new conservation club in Pontiac, and its members will convene Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at 331 Branch street to discuss plans for the fall hunting season, now under way. Group is the Pontiac Conservation Club, organized about a month ago.

Club's aims are participation in fishing and hunting seasons, general conservation activities, and for social and recreational affairs. Its president is Louis Robertson; vice president is Curtis Tellis, and Mrs. Doris Burke is the secretary. Mrs. Charles Kendrick is publicity chairman.

Membership is composed largely of husbands and wives interested in the outdoors.

BOY-SIZED GUN—One annual problem, every fall, in many families, is that of giving an outdoors-interested boy a gun. Some gun-makers answer this question of a proper weapon, with boy-sized shotguns, like that shown in the picture. It takes small guns for small bodies, such as the short 20 (or a .410) the boy is sighting. It's one of a series of "youth models."

Hunting Big Business

16 Million Spend Billion

A recent Newsweek article on the business side of hunting, paints a startling picture of the tremendous traffic in sales of guns, equipment and services of great variety tied in with the sport.

Some 16 million American hunters have launched what is regarded as the biggest season in history, the article reports.

The hunters are expected to spend "well over $1 billion for guns and for a huge variety of paraphernalia and services that give the guns logistical support."

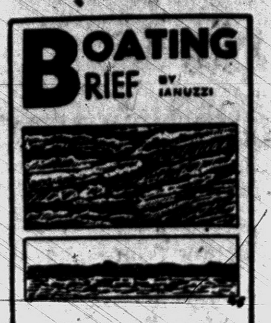
Together, they "sell the bulk of all the new hunting rifles, shotguns, and ammunition in the U.S., and probably gross well over $100 million in the process," it is pointed out.

However, the manufacturers have been fighting the tremendous increase "in the sale of competing, cut-rate, used guns, nearly all of them military-surplus items."

But for the hunter, "a gun is simply a starting point," and manufacturers and stores do a brisk business in duck decoys, hunting clothes, boots, and special warmers.

The hunters spend a sizable portion of their vacation budgets getting to the scene and many an urban hunter does his hunting at the fast-growing shooting preserves, where he pays a fee based on the amount of game taken.



Baby Rattler Makes a Late Appearance

Residents in the area around 106 East Colgate, in the northern part of Pontiac, today were on the alert against a late fall "enemy."

Yesterday, while checking the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Foster, at the Colgate address mentioned, a building estimator found a baby rattler on a warm, sandy spot near the house. The mean youngster was only eight inches long, but displayed a lot of aggressiveness, says Mrs. Foster.

The snake was captured by Mrs. Foster, placed in a glass jar and will be turned over to the Pontiac Central High biology class for observation. It's unusual to find young snakes so late in the year.

"I think families in this section where there are young children who play about the yards should be warned to look out for others of this snake family," Mrs. Foster advised.

Even baby rattlers are dangerous. Their bite is venom-filed same as an adult. Immediate medical attention should be secured in case of a bite. Observers say a female rattler must be in the vicinity, and other young snakes may be found.

Solunar Tables

Below are the solunar periods for the Pontiac area, prepared by outdoorsman John Alden Knight, covering the ensuing week. These periods of activity can be used to help determine the best times for hunting and fishing in good cover, or waters during this period. Major periods last from one to two hours, minor periods somewhat shorter.

Intoxicated Waxwing

The cedar waxwing loves fruit and occasionally stuffs himself on over-ripe berries to such an extent as to become intoxicated.

Dog Obedience Demonstration at Meadow Lane

Demonstration of the methods used, and the results obtained in obedience training for dogs, will provide an interesting and informative program at Meadow Lane School tonight at 8 o'clock.

The demonstration is preliminary to the start of the latest obedience training class in this area, under direction of Southern Michigan Obedience Training Club. Registrations will be taken tonight for next week's regular class work, but those attending the demonstration should not take their dogs. Obedience trained dogs will be used for the program.

Training head for the new class is John McNary who may be reached at OLive 1-7294 for further information.

Meadow Lane School is located at Crooks and Munster roads.

Major Hoople Sez: Pitt to Upset MSU

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Donor of Old Oaken Bucket

Fap! I am incensed. The Hoople football forecasts strive for absolute perfection. Near misses or moral victories are regarded as disastrous defeats.

I sent out to the nation the prediction that Southern Methodist would pull the upset of the ages and defeat Ohio State. An assistant, since dismissed, swayed me to this thinking. When Ohio State won by a scant three points the Southern Methodist coaching staff lauded the effort put forth by their team.

Egad! I was crushed.

I contemplated a new crackdown on my staff. But when Dr. Quentin Ziobotny, the fourth dimension scientist, entered my private office and asked me for the point spread on the upcoming Notre Dame-Army game I went even further.

Upon investigation, I found Dr. Ziobotny, financially harassed, was ready to pick the short-ender in this game, regardless of which team it was, and wager on his opinion.

Zounds! He would endanger the very existence of the famed Hoople system because of personal problems! Therefore, I am going it alone this week. Yes, I have released my entire staff. Cleaned house, as it were. These predictions, as you will see, could not possibly come from anybody else.

Oh, I'll admit my fingers are calloused from working a slide rule incessantly, but a Hoople has a fond love for fruitful labor.

And, my zillions of readers, my labors this week have not been in vain. Witness my opening prediction: Army's lonely end offense will backfire against Notre Dame and the Irish, through at least five intercepted passes, will triumph in this classic by 27-20!

Pittsburgh will show sheer, unbridled brilliance in turning back the Michigan State attack and moving to a 15-7 victory. Startling, isn't it?

Read on for the rest of my unbelievable predictions:

Alabama 19, Furman 12
Arizona State 28, Hardin-Simmons 6
Rice 14, Arkansas 13

Spares and Strikes

By Joe Wilman

"Mr. Wilman, how can I roll a decent hook ball?" That's a question I think I hear more than any other at the Instruction Clinics I conduct for Brunswick throughout the country. Everyone wants to roll a hook ball. And I think the hook is the best overall delivery for most bowlers — but only if they've already mastered the fundamentals of footwork, armswing and timing. They should also have pretty good control before attempting the hook.

As you can see from today's drawing, the hook is released between the center and the right corner of the alley. It rolls down but before it reaches the pins, the hooking action takes effect, and it moves into the pocket. It's a fine ball for strikes because of its angle going into the 1-3. It produces a grat deal of necessary pin action.

For a conistent hook your delivery must be the same time after time. You might apply the same amount of "stuff" each time in releasing the ball, either with a finger lift, a wrist turn or a combination of the two. Your speed must be the same too, because a slower ball will hook more than a faster ball.

There are four methods of rolling a hook ball — we'll cover them in later articles.

West Side Mobil Keg Team Rolls Series of 3216

Pontiac's most high-powered bowling machine roared into high gear as the West Side Mobil team of the Huron Bowl Classic set an all-time league record 3216 series last weekend.

Veteran bowling observers who witnessed the feat ventured that it was probably the highest total attained by any area team in at least the last fifteen years.

The Mobil five blasted games of 1027, 1108 and 1081 as they rolled over Hazelton Lettering, which posted a creditable 2909 in a losing effort.

Duffy Promotes Tom Wilson

EAST LANSING (UPI)—Sophomore quarterback Tom Wilson of Lapeer and two other third stringers were reported promoted yesterday as a grim Duffy Daugherty sought to inject new spirit and scoring punch into a Michigan State team that continued to show signs of a letdown.

The Spartans, held to a 12-12 standoff by underdog Michigan last week, fumbled five times during a stiff scrimmage yesterday in preparation for unbeaten Pittsburgh Saturday.

Daugherty, who stalked in and out of the practice formations yesterday, said he would decide today whether the changes would hold for the Pitt game.

End Sammy Williams and the first string backfield were excused from yesterday's scrimmage.

Assistant coach John Polonchek, who scouted the Panthers' 13-7 victory last week over Minnesota, warned "they are big, fast, rugged, deep and eager, throw the ball and carry it all over the field."

Daugherty unveiled a new set of plays this week but warned the plays wouldn't go anyplace if blocking doesn't improve.

Pitt guard John Guzik, a 223-linebacker, will be the top target for blockers Saturday. Quarterback Bill Kaliden and fullback Fred Riddle are the Pitt offensive stars.

Michigan State teams of the past proved they could stop the Pitt single wing. In 1950, MSU established its all-time rushing defense mark by tossing Pitt's offense for a minus 63 yards.

Michigan State should be at full strength for the Pitt game if there are no injuries this week. Team trainers said minor injuries from the Michigan game are healing.

Sprinter Sime Lends His Speed to Grid Squad

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Track star Dave Sime, his hopes still fixed on the 1960 Olympics, hopes his flying feet can help out the Duke University football team as its new "lonesome end."

But his sudden gridiron role, revealed only yesterday by Coach Bill Murray, will not interfere with track, the red-haired medical student says.

Sime, a high school football star before he decided on track and baseball for college laurels, may get into the Blue Devils' football game with Baylor here Saturday. He worked out with the team yesterday, caught a number of passes in quick sprints downfield from his "lonesome end" spot 15 yards down the line of scrimmage from the regular end. He worked from either side of the line.

Thurston Tops Invitational

Maples Win 27th Dual

Thurston took top honors in its own invitational harrier meet Tuesday, while Birmingham High's runners were annexing their 27th straight dual victory at East Detroit, 21-40.

Dick Jaros of Thurston was top individual (10:42.4) in 1st section in which Dick Meyers of Berkley was 2nd, and Waterford's team was 4th (134 points). West Bloomfield was 10th with 241; OL St. Mary 12th with 275. Southfield was 7th. Redford Union won the team event, with host Thurston section 2 team winner, and Mack Green of Wayne top individual (10:38.1 meet record).

Maples' sophomore, Ted Egner, was first home at East Detroit (11:13.6) followed by Tom Brown, Jim Chapman, Jon Greene (ED), Al Baumann, Jock McPhee, Bill Sabo, Phil Satterthwaite and Paul Simmons, all Birmingham.

The EML win was the varsity's 5th. They meet unbeaten RO Kimball next Thursday in the league final dual, run against Dondero this Friday.

Five Local Keglers in East Semifinals

Four local men and one woman will be among 24 bowlers competing this weekend at Flint in the Eastern Michigan part of a state All-Star elimination tournament.

Les Rothbarth, Joe Bonfigilio, Dick Carmichael, Monroe Moore and Jeanette Mihalik were the area keglers who survived last weekend's qualifying round.

The top 12 performers in the semis will be eligible for the finals from which two will be chosen to compete in a National All-Star event at Buffalo next January.

There are about 90,000 private airplanes in the U.S.

Baylor Rated Top Pro Find

DETROIT (AP) — "The best pro prospect to come into the league in quite a few years." That's coach John Kundla's appraisal of Elgin Baylor.

Baylor and the Minneapolis Lakers will be in town Friday night for an exhibition game against the Detroit Pistons, and Kundla wants to wait until the season is over before he says too much about Baylor.

The former Seattle star will be in the starting lineup against the Pistons in the charity game at Olympia Stadium.

Parties Argue Foreign Policy

Bursts Forth as Major Campaign Issue for Next Month's Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign policy ballooned into a major campaign issue today with Democrats and Republicans trading stinging criticisms of each other's approach to handling international communism.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) and Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler lashed out Tuesday night at what they called the Eisenhower administration's attempt to impose political censorship on critics of its foreign policies.

The twin blasts indicated the Democrats intend to keep on discussing the issue until election day.

Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn said the Democrats "seem politically willing to undermine American diplomacy during this most serious challenge." He accused them of favoring appeasement of Red China in the Quemoy crisis.

GOP National Committee spokesmen said they expect Eisenhower to have some sharp words for his critics when the President begins personal campaigning next week.

Humphry, vice chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, accused Eisenhower of attempting "to stifle public discussion of the Quemoy crisis."

The senator, in a speech to the International Chemical Workers Union, said: "Such political censorship can only lead to one conclusion: that administration policies can't stand public examination."

In a similar vein, Butler said the administration is trying to make it appear that criticism of its foreign policy is "somehow treasonable."

Butler, speaking to a Democratic dinner in Wichita, Kan., called this a "despicable tendency of this desperate administration."

About 39,000 gallons of water are required to make a ton of paper.

HOME LIFT — Rising to the occasion, new outdoor passenger hill climbers, called Hil-A-Vators, are making things easier for footsore residents of San Francisco's hilly areas. The climbing cars, similar to the city's famed cable cars, carry people up and down the steep hills in comfortable fashion. Here, two of the Hil-A-Vators, invented by Sherman A. Camp, president of Dwan & Co., carry passengers up a hill.

Takeoff Distance of Jets Affected by Temperature

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The common thermometer will be a vital instrument in the commercial jet age.

The higher the temperature, the longer the take-off length needed by a heavily-loaded jet-liner.

All aircraft are affected by hot weather. Warmair has less "lift" than cold air; even today's piston-engine airliners watch payloads carefully in the summer. But the jets are affected even more, for two reasons:

—Their swept-back wings sacrifice some lift for speed and stability at high altitudes.

—Turbine engines lose three per cent of their power for every 10-degree rise in temperature above 59 degrees Fahrenheit. (A piston engine loses only one per cent).

This power loss, combined with hot weather loss of lift, can seriously hamper a jetliner's payload unless it has plenty of runway length. A fully-loaded jetliner, taking off on a 1,000-mile trip with the thermometer in the 50's, needs only 7,500 feet of runway. The same plane, taking off on a 2,500-mile flight with the temperature at 90, requires 11,500 feet.

ALTITUDE A FACTOR

Airport altitude also is a factor in jet operations. A fully-loaded jetliner taking off from an airport located 2,500 feet above sea level needs more runway length than the same plane leaving an airport exactly at sea level.

The temperature effects on a jet are the Chief reason forthcoming jetliner flights will be planned meticulously down to the last pound of baggage, the last drop of fuel and the slightest change in temperature.

It also is why some jet flights will be limited in payload and and length until airport runways are lengthened to provide for safe take-offs under all weather conditions, regardless of load and flight distance.

Williams Eying Income Tax?

GOP Speaker Believes It's Only Way Governor Can Finance Proposals

LANSING (UP) — A Republican spokesman said today that Gov. Williams has so far refused to explain how he plans to finance spending proposals contained in the Democratic state platform.

But Rep. George M. Van Peursem, House speaker, said the governor has in mind a state income tax.

"The people of the state should know why he won't discuss taxes," Van Peursem said. "He knows that the amount of money needed to finance Democrat spending proposals can only come from one source.

"The governor is afraid to tell Michigan citizens that if they re-elect him and endorse his spending policies they have just voted themselves a state income tax."

Van Peursem said in his weekly newsletter that he had asked the governor more than a month ago for:

1. An estimate of the cost of his spending proposals.
2. What taxes would be needed to finance these programs.

Van Peursem said in the weeks since he wrote the governor, state finances have worsened and it now has been estimated the state will be 55 million dollars in the red by the end of the fiscal year.

Van Peursem estimated new spending proposals in the Democratic platform would cost 200 million dollars.

"Certainly," he said, "the governor must be giving some thought as to how this huge deficit is going to be met and how the many millions of additional dollars he wants to spend are going to be raised.

"If there has been any doubt," he said, "it is now clear that the governor doesn't have an answer to these questions or afraid to tell the truth."

Alan Ladd Buys Rights to New Western Novel

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD — Alan Ladd dug deep into his bankroll to pay over $100,000 for the film rights to Harold Sinclair's new novel, "The Cavalry Man." Several studios were after it but Alan beat them in the clinches and he will produce it under his Jaguar banner. He hopes to get George Stevens (with whom he made his greatest success, "Shane") to direct it.

The author of the "The Cavalry Man," Sinclair, wrote the novel "The Horse Soldiers" which John Wayne and Bill Holden hope to start shortly.

"Cavalry Man" is an outdoor epic told against the background of Sioux Indian territory in the 1860s and calls for three important stars.

Dorothy Malone can forget about "Too Much, Too Soon" because she is getting a tremendous mob right away. By that I mean she's getting herself three leading men, and what leading men — Richard Widmark, Henry Fonda and Tony Quinn — and she goes to work at 20th Century-Fox before you can say "Warlock."

With Alaska as the 49th state there will be quite a bit of rewriting on Edna Ferber's "Ice Palace," which is the story of Alaska and the territory's inability to achieve statehood.

Jo and Art Napoleon who were working on the story have bowed out and veteran screen writer John Twist has bowed in. He will emphasize the historical facts that brought Alaska to the point where it became our 49th state. He adapted Miss Ferber's "So Big" for Jane Wyman at Warner Bros. five years ago. The Napoleons had planned to concentrate on a central love story, but Twist's idea is to have it made into an epic with two top male stars.

Barbara Hutton has promised to meet her son Lance Reventlow in New York at Christmas, and Lance is taking Jill St. John to introduce her to his mother. The young man is serious in his intentions, but he doesn't want to marry Jill until his mother meets her.

Jill has put five pounds on Lance since he was recently released from the hospital, by cooking all his meals. He's now able to enter the U. S. Grand Prix stock car races at Riverside Oct. 12, and of course Jill will be there to applaud him, although she says she doesn't approve of his racing.

Pearl Bailey and her husband Louis Belson have formed a company of 15 musicians whom they will take on the road. They will open at the Chase Hotel in St. Louis as soon as Pearlymae finishes in "Porgy and Bess."

Young Florida Vandals Must Repair Damage

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Eleven Tampa hot-rodders who went on a vandalism spree at a county park have been ordered to trade their gear shifts for grub hooks, plowlike tools for unrooting tree stumps.

Peace Justice W. Marion Hendry said parents of the youths have promised to pay for the damage, but the boys will be put to work clearing land in the park every Saturday for the next 15 weeks.

Hendry also said the youths must resign their memberships in the hot rod club, surrender their driver's licenses for six months and be home by 11 o'clock each night for six months.

Record Vote Seen in Hawaii Primary

HONOLULU (AP) — A record 130,000 voters are expected to turn out today for the Hawaii primary election.

Politicians are watching for hints of which party is likely to represent Hawaii in Congress should the territory be admitted as the 50th state next year.

Observers also look for signs of whether the Democrats are likely to continue the domination of the territorial Legislature. They took over four years ago after more than half a century of unbroken Republican rule.

Boy Finds Cannonball

VERGENNES, Vt. (UPI) — Nine-year-old Matthew Daniels Jr. recently found a four-pound cannonball in his backyard. The ball is thought by experts to be a relic of the battle in which British forces were defeated at Plattsburgh, N. Y., 144 years ago.

Leasing Factory Equipment Latest Trend in Business

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Leasing equipment for a factory or store instead of buying outright has won new adherents in the recession and today is reported more appealing than ever to businessmen eyeing the recovery under way.

It is the latest comer to this field of business management, joining the better known forms of leasing cars, trucks or real estate.

Tax laws have given leasing one of its biggest boosts. But the rate at which automation and scientific research have made older machinery obsolescent is tempting still more companies to look into the leasing method of financing the retooling of plants with expensive but competitive machinery.

Long-term equipment leasing (for three years or more) has grown since 1950 and is now estimated to be a 166 million dollar a year business. The present trend in business planning leads leasing's friends to predict it will reach the billion dollar a year mark within five years.

Whole plants, or divisions or departments are included in the activity as well as special installations in existing setups.

The tax laws enter in because high rates on company-owned equipment cut down the cost of leasing. Tax depreciation schedules also mean that in this fast-paced age machinery may go obsolete before it can be written off the books. To buy the new equipment to meet competition, the treasurer must dig up new working capital and this has stayed pretty tight for most companies since the war.

While total net working capital has climbed to a record 115¾ billion dollars in the latest available report, the ration of cash, government securities and receivables to current debt runs at $1.20 to $1. At the end of the war the working capital ratio was $1.55 to $1.

To see what business thinking was in this field, the Foundation for Management Research, Chicago, queried 1,837 companies from coast to coast. These include 44 lines of manufacturing, wholesale and retail firms, with total gross assets of 400 million dollars. Individual annual sales of the companies range from $250,000 to a billion dollars.

The survey specifically excluded cars, trucks and real estate and any equipment leasing for less than three yars.

The foundation reports to the United States Leasing Corp., San Francisco, that in 1950 only 17 of the 1,837 companies were leasing some equipment. By last year 89 were leasing equipment and 71 of these were leasing equipment worth $50,000 or more.

The future looks brighter. The foundation says 833, or 45 per cent, reported they are considering leasing in future, with 233 planning to do so within five years. About half plan to lease equipment valued at more than $100,000.

The San Francisco firm interprets the survey to mean that while now about 2 per cent of total production equipment is on a long-term lease, within another five years 10 per cent of it will be.

The main reason, it thinks, is that industry is more eager to preserve liquid working capital and more loathe to raise capital by diluting present ownership through the sale of more stock.

Standing Firm on Judges' Pay

Supervisors Committee Still Advises Statutory Maximum of $22,500

A committee of county supervisors today refused to change their minds that the pay of Oakland County Circuit Court judges should comply with the statutory maximum of $22,500 yearly.

The Salaries Committee of the Board of Supervisors met this morning to act on a request of the board that previous slicing of $1,000 from the judges' salaries, beginning Jan. 1, 1960, be reconsidered.

The committee, headed by Supervisor Frazer Staman, of Novi Township, stuck with its original action, saying that the Michigan Supreme Court should rule the law, setting the maximum pay, unconstitutional before higher pay is granted.

Despite this law, Oakland judges are today receiving $23,500 annually, $12,000 from the state and $11,000 from the county. An attorney general's opinion says the law is unconstitutional.

"In spite of this ruling," said Staman, "we feel obligated to stick with the law unless the Supreme Court rules it unconstitutional."

His committee referred the law to the supervisors' Legislative Committee "for consideration and possible amendment."

"Our going back to the required pay in no way reflects on the fine work of the judges," Staman emphasized.

2 Speakers to Address Four Towns PTA

FOUR TOWNS—The Four Towns School PTA will meet Thursday evening at the school.

From 7:30 to 8 p.m. parents will have an opportunity to meet with their children's teachers. After the business meeting, Principal Mrs Arthur Hohnson will talk to parents on the building policy of the school, and Tom Belton will speak on the recreational facilities available to residents in the Waterford Township area.

Refreshments will be served by fifth grade mothers.

Grain Futures Prices Steady

CHICAGO (AP) — Demand for wheat and soybeans gave a steady undertone to future markets on the board of trade today.

A pickup in export demand was reported by trade sources and this encouraged buying in wheat futures. Wet weather over a major portion of the soybean producing belt, where harvesting reportedly is nearly complete, imparted strength to bean futures.

Near the end of the first hour, wheat was ⅛ to 1 cent a bushel higher, December $1.96⅛; corn ⅜ to ⅝ higher, old style December $1.14½; oats ¼ to ⅜ higher, December 64¾; rye ¼ to ⅞ higher, December $1.32½; and soybeans unchanged to 1 cent higher, November $2.17⅜.

Claims Threats Over Caribou Inn

Owner's Wife Says She, Husband Warned by Clarkston Officials

The wife of the owner of the Caribou Inn in Clarkston testified yesterday that village officials threatened her and her husband for attempting to sell the ancient landmark to Negroes.

"We averaged nearly two and three threatening phone calls a day," declared Mrs. Ernest A. Felice, of 7952 Cooley Lake Rd.

Her testimony came in the first day of the suit brought in June by her and her husband to collect insurance payments totaling $37,000 on the Inn which was damaged by fire March 4.

The attorney for the Felices told Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland that he would produce telephone recordings of the alleged threats. The judge was to rule on their admissibility as evidence today.

A jury of 10 women and two men heard Mrs. Feljce tell how certain officials threatened, "We'll see to it that your property isn't worth anything after we're through with it."

The Finnish Mutual Fire Insurance Co., which is being sued by the Felices along with two other companies, claims Felice "intentionally set" the fire.

Felice filed a $250,000 libel suit against the company in July for making this charge. The second suit is still pending.

Electronics Group OKs 6 From Area

Six area television service businesses have passed qualification tests and have been accepted for membership in the Oakland County Electronics Assn., Inc.

Approved were Ace TV, 3357 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights; Baldwin TV, 1218 Baldwin Ave.; Jones TV, 3111 Orchard Lake, Keego Harbor; Metropolitan TV, 919 Orchard Lake Ave.; Morse Electronics, 128 W. Main St., Walled Lake, and Sattler's TV, 5986 Hatchery Rd., Waterford Township.

This raised the association membership to 27. The association endeavors to upgrade the technician and to promote better relations between the television service businesses and the public.

List Incorrect Name in Sullenberger Suit

The Pontiac Press yesterday incorrectly stated the name of a Pontiac factory worker who brought a $100,000 malpractice suit against Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger.

The correct name of the plaintiff in the suit is Cecil J. Harrison, who lives at 209 S. Parke St. The press inadverently identified Harrison as Cecil J. Cosgrove, who is a member of the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees.

Irregular Market Favoring S-P

NEW YORK (AP) — Studebaker-Packard was the outstanding favorite as the stock market moved irregularly higher in active early trading today.

Key stocks generally showed gains of fractions to about a point. There were many fractional losers.

After a mixed opening with the ticker tape briefly late under the rush of early blocks, the general trend turned higher.

Studebaker-Packard continued to be spurred by reports of orders booked for its new small car. The stock opened up ⅛ at 10 on a block of 10,000 shares and traded at the same price on later blocks of 15,000 and 10,000 shares.

Addressograph-Multigraph leaped 3 points to 88 on an opener of 1,500 shares following news of a rights offering to common stockholders.

The market was stepping ahead from the latest record high achieved by yesterday's late rally. The advance was patchy. Steels showed slight change. Motors were mostly higher. Oils were mixed. Electronics, airlines and selected issues made gains.

Texas Co. and Goodrich rose about a point each. Fractional gains were made by Raytheon, Sperry-Rand, American Motors, Eastman Kodak, American Airlines and American Telephone. Du Pont rose more than a point.

Saginaw Introducing Rotary Valve System

SAGINAW — The Saginaw Steering Gear Division of General Motors Corporation today unveiled a revolutionary new rotary valve power steering system, which is featured on the 1959 Cadillac, Buick, Oldsmobile, and Pontiac automobiles.

The rotary valve principle is as radical an improvement over previous power steering mechanisms as power steering itself was over manual steering when it was introduced in 1951, according to W.H. Doerfner, general manager.

It reduces steering effort on the part of the driver to a new low of less than one pound for down-the-road driving, and to approximately two and one-half pounds while parking. All this is accomplished without any sacrifice of Saginaw's "feel of the road" steering, according to statistics released by the Division.

The new gear has nine fewer external seals; 17 less parts; is .83 in. shorter at the upper end; and weighs one pound less than its 1958 counterpart. This means even less chance of oil leakage and makes the gear easier to install. Saginaw engineers are quick to point out.

George Eliot chose her male pseudonym to write her "Romola" and other great novels so that her feminine sex would not affect her literary reputation. Her name was really Mary Ann Evans.

Steel Buyers Placing Orders Further Ahead

NEW YORK (AP) — Some steel buyers are placing their orders further ahead on the chance there will be a further tightening of supply, Iron Age, national metalworking weekly, said today.

The magazine said there is little chance of a genuine shortage of any steel products. But it said there could be temporary pinches in supply until the mills adjust their schedules to momentary surges in demand.

Iron Age predicted the steel operating rate will hit 75 per cent of capacity—or more—before November. It said the average for the fourth quarter could easily be 75 per cent, despite an expected leveling off in December. Operations this week are estimated at 71.1 per cent.

Both steel producers and steel buyers are watching the auto market closely. If the new models go over with the public, Detroit could step into the market in a much bigger way than it has to date, said the weekly.

Output Up, Unemployment Static

Job Situation Odd Paradox

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Industrial output is increasing to everyone's delight. But unemployment is scarcely shrinking at all to everyone's dismay. Why?

The basic answer seems to be that the nation's industrial plants today are capable of turning out more goods than before the recession and are able to do so with fewer workers.

The sad facts about today's unemployment are stated by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Discussing the August jobless figures (latest available) that showed a decline in the total for the first time since January, the bank points out that most of the drop was due to the withdrawal of summer workers. It says:

"The number of unemployed workers 25 years old and over remains the same as it was in the previous two months, while the number of workers who have been jobless for six months or more continues to rise. In August it was about double the highest level reached in the 1949 and 1954 recessions."

And looking at future prospects, the bank warns: "The advance in economic activity must go well beyond earlier peaks (the latest was in 1957) before the unemployment of both men and machines is reduced to prerecession levels."

Increased productivity seems to be the chief among several reasons. Productivity is the amount of goods turned out in one man-hour of labor. Usually it goes up 3 or 4 per cent a year, reflecting the better machinery and more efficient management of factories and mills.

But this time it is going up much faster. Some say it is increasing right now at a rate of 10 to 12 per cent a year. This is because in the months preceding the recession, and to a sizable degree right up to now, American industry has been modernizing its plants at a fast clip.

These new plants and these new machines are now installed, all set to respond to the increased business activity. The new plants and equipment turn out goods with fewer workers. And the oldest plants and machines tend to stay idle—as do their erstwhile workers.

If the basic unemployment worry is increased productivity, there are also others.

Each year the labor force grows — meaning more jobs are needed to keep everybody at work. In the 1960s the labor force is due to take a big jump as the war and then the postwar babies come of working age.

The immediate jobless problem has two other causes.

During the recession many companies shortened the work week, rather than closing down for short or long periods. In many cases the pickup in business so far has been just enough to lead management to lengthen work weeks again, giving current employes more work but providing no new jobs.

Also the recession sent most managements on a cost-cutting hunt. They found ways to save money by doing without some things and by doing some others more efficiently and with fewer workers. Having sliced off the fat, they are wary about putting it on again.

Finally, there is a steady gain in management efficiency. Their research departments during the recession were put to seeking ways of producing with less cost and less labor.

New methods, new processes, as well as the new tools, help to boost productivity — unfortunately for those looking for work.

Libbey-Owens-Ford Strike Starts Early

TOLEDO (AP) — Workers at Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co. plants here have jumped the gun on a Friday strike deadline.

Some 6,000 employes — half of the company's work force — struck late yesterday over disputed provisions of a new contract.

The company expressed surprise at the walkout, since noon Oct. 10 had been set as a strike deadline by the United Glass and Ceramics Workers Union. The union's contract expired Sept. 30.

The company said Ralph Reiser, president of the Glass Workers Union, had agreed before today's walkout to resume negotiations during the week of Oct. 13.

The dispute, the union said, centers on a company attempt to alter incentive provisions contained in the expired contract. Wages are not an issue, the union added.

A company spokesman said several issues were involved. The company said it had agreed to change its position "on certain sections of the contract which had been unacceptable to the union."

WHY . . . .

Be inconvenienced in a home that is not large enough! We are offering a FOUR BEDROOM home for a price that is less than many two and three bedroom homes are selling for. Furthermore, this home offers a twenty-four foot living room with new carpeting also in dining room and hall. Two fireplaces. Built-in oven and range. Full basement. Don't let the price mislead you—because it is worth more than the $20,500 we are privileged to sell it for.

NORTH . . . .

Side and it is a dandy! Only $9,150 for a one-story home with full basement, oil forced air heat, insulated to keep those winter fuel bills down. Two car garage. Near new Drayton Plains center. Yes, only $9,750!

TO STAGE HOMECOMING — Milton Berle signals that he's ready for his return to the NBC-TV Network in the new colorcast series, "Milton Berle Starring in the Kraft Music Hall," starting tonight at 8.

Back From Russia, Urges Summit Talk

CLEVELAND (AP) — Industrialist Cyrus S. Eaton came home last night from a trip to the Soviet Union more convinced than ever this country and Russia could get along if they worked at it.

Arriving aboard a plane of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co., of which he is board chairman, the 74-year-old industrialist and his invalid wife said both were impressed by the progress of the Russian people.

"Now is the time to get together," he said. "I am confident that in Khrushchev we have a man with whom we could deal.

"He could come to the United States and fly over our great country in the daylight. It would have a profound effect of Khrushchev. He ought to have the opportunity.

Girl Scout Campers Make Risky Good Turn

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Mass. (UPI)—"One good turn deserves another," said Mrs. J. Howard Rhind, camp director, hopefully.

She and Police Chief Carl L. Mac Donald, with the assistance of campers at the Girl Scouts' Shady Pines reservation in nearby Adamsdale, were attempting to get a glass jar off the head of a skunk which had lodged beneath a camp building.

Animal With 700 Legs Lives in Panama Zone

PANAMA — On Barro Colorado Island, the Smithsonian Institution's tropical-life preserve in the Panama Canal Zone, an animal with 700 legs has been found.

It is a member of the millipede, or "thousand-leg," class of invertebrates. Millipedes are unlike centipedes in that they live entirely on vegetable material. Centipedes are entirely carnivorous.

Even the Philharmonic Crowd Has Clown Act

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Composer Jule Styne got the big laugh at the Philharmonic party when he went to the kitchen, got into a waiter's red coat, and went to Conductor Leonard Bernstein's table with a tray to take a drink order. "Three scotch-and-sodas!" commanded Bernstein, not noticing that it was his friend in disguise. Bernstein said later, "It's not that I was deceived; it's just that Jule looks like a waiter."

We don't hear too many nice stories in "the Wet Set" — but then there's the tale of Hotel Security Officer Gregory Tallon of Long Island City. For about eight years he had done favors for an aging guest at the hotel, Max Berg, a retired furrier. During chats Tallon once mentioned he was saving money for a home in Vero Beach, Fla. After Berg's death recently, Tallon discovered he'd been willed all Berg's belongings — worth approximately $40,000.

He Keeps 'Em Guessing Now

No Format, No Guest Star, Announces Berle; How About Laughs?

"Mr. Television" returns tonight, but not as "Mr. Television."

Milton Berle will present a "no-format format" and no guest stars—"just entertainment"—when he starts his first television series in more than two years this evening.

The series, titled "Milton Berle Starring in the Kraft Music Hall" will get under way on NBC-TV, channel 4 at 8 p. m., lasting 30 minutes.

"Not long after it was announced that I was going to come back with this show, a newspaper fellow out in Los Angeles gave the whole thing away," quipped Berle. "He wrote something to the effect that he supposed all the old jokes, the old costumes, the old routines and the old 'always on' technique would be back.

"Hal Kantor, who is my producer, director and head writer, read this comment and observed that the program already had been reviewed long before the first telecast. He wondered if it would really be necessary to open at all.

"And he made what I consider to be a priceless comment about this particular writer. 'He is,' Hal said, 'the only man I know who can reminisce about tomorrow'."

Berle swears that, for good or ill, the facts are these:

He is going to be just a performer, not the choreographer, the orchestra leader, the director, the writing staff or the guest stars. He has the utmost confidence that Kantor is the man to run a program the right way.

There will be no big production numbers; no "regulars" aside from Billy May, the "musician's musician" who will head up the orchestra. Unless, of course, some personality should come along and develop into a valuable asset that should be kept around.

Guest stars? Not, Berle hopes, the big ones you see on every other program on the air, week after week on an exchange basis.

He hopes his guests either will be talent that has not been overexposed or that the use of anyone will be justified by the material available for him to do.

"If we can't come up with material that will make a guest—and the program—look good, we won't be interested," the comedian said. "We won't have a 'name' just for the sake of having a 'name.' Our format is 'no-format'."

U. of M. Doctors to Study Hindu in Yogi Trance

University of Michigan researchers, headed by Dr. Basu K. Bagchi of the medical school, try to find out today when Swami Shantananda undergoes a series of intricate tests.

Dr. Bagchi, who tested the swami in India last year, said he planned to measure changes in chest and abdominal breathing, brain waves and heart rate when the swami enters what he calls his "posture of deep Yogic meditation."

During the 1957 tests, Dr. Bagchi said Swami Shantananda lowered his rate of breathing from four to seven breaths per minute. The normal adult rate is 15 to 23 breaths per minute.

Today's tests were expected to take two to three hours.

Nixon Takes Stump in 'Get Tough' Tour

Nixon planned to leave here by chartered plane for his second stumping tour of the current congressional campaign. He scheduled a three-day swing through Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia during which he was expected to hammer the new GOP party line: that election or more Democrats to Congress would be a step toward socialism.

His first speech was slated for Philadelphia tonight at a testimonial dinner for retiring Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa.).

Three Waterford PTAs Schedule First Meetings

Three Waterford Township Parent-Teacher Assns. have scheduled their first meeting of the school year, for Thursday night.

A Walt Disney colored film titled "Health" will be presented by school nurse Mrs. Eileen Wright, at 7:45 at Drayton Plains School.

All teachers, including those teaching the sixth grade at John D. Pierce Junior High School, will be introduced to association members. The class registering the greatest number of parents from 7:30 to 7:45 p.m. will receive a room prize.

Lambert Elementary School PTA will hear guest speaker Dr. Chandos Reid present "What's What in Education in 1958." Dr. Reid is administrative assistant to the superintendent of Waterford Township Schools.

An Open House will be held from 7:30 to 8 p.m. and Lambert teachers will be in their rooms for parent consultation preceding the program.

A safety program will be presented at Monteith School at 8 p.m. Safety director of the Waterford Junior Chamber of Commerce Clyde Haskill will present colored slides.

The annual Montieth school PTA budget will be presented for approval and plans for the Nov. 8 annual fair will be discussed.

Janice Churns Atlantic Seas

19 Dead as Hurricane Moves Slowly Away From East Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Janice, the season's most deadly storm, spun its winds of 75 m.p.h. in the open Atlantic today, a menace to unwary sailors. Its victims number 19.

Janice was located at 5 a.m. about 455 miles east of Jacksonville.

Reconnaissance aircraft and ships reported Janice was moving between north-northeast and northeast at 8 m.p.h. The Weather Bureau said the course would keep the storm's center well off the East Coast of the United States.

Gale warnings were lowered south of Wilmington, N.C., to Vero Beach but continued to fly south of Cape Hatteras, N. C., to Wilmington.

Small craft from the Virginia Capes to Wilmington were advised to remain in sheltered waters and those south of Wilmington to the east central Florida coast were told to proceed with caution until the seas subside.

Janice gained its reputation as a killer when it whipped through Bahama waters Tuesday on a drive to the open sea.

A 45-foot Haitian sloop, trying to make shore in heavy seas, was swamped, and 18 persons aboard were drowned.

Capt. Curwood Knowles, chief of Nassau's air-sea rescue unit, said the sailing vessel went down just off shore near Tornbull, Long Island, 200 miles southeast of Nassau.

A lone survivor swam ashore.

Knowles said the sloop, the Dien Davint, left Nassau Oct. 1, bound for Haiti, fully loaded with freight and 19 passengers and crewmen.

"As far as we can tell," Knowles said, "it was very close to shore when it went down. Several passengers apparently drowned while trying to swim to safety."

All aboard were identified as Haitian citizens.

Exercises His Authority

PLAINVILLE, Conn. (UPI) — Deputy sheriff Charles O. Zettergren, the father of three girls, served a "subpoena" on his wife when she went to the hospital to have their fourth child. It warned she would be held in contempt if she didn't give birth to a boy. The subpoena was obeyed.

Father, Son Trade Seats in Car Crash

PEMBROKE, Mass. (AP) — Father and son exchanged seats in their 1913 touring car in favor of a ride in a more modern convertible in a freak accident involving both cars.

Both sailed ahead through the air, with 6-year-old John Richmond deposited in the arms of the convertible's driver, John Swan Jr., of Newton. Father Robert B. Richmond of Winchester was tossed into the back seat of the sportscar. Not a scratch on the boy, only minor injuries for the father — but the Model-T, returning from an outing of antique cars, was badly dented.

CHANGING AERIAL WARFARE — The Sidewinder air-to-air guided missile, left, met its first combat test with complete success. Chinese Nationalist pilots have been knocking down numerically superior Communist forces with the 1,200 m.p.h. missile which homes in on the enemy's jet exhaust by means of an infrared guidance system attracted to heat. It is 9 feet tall, 6 inches in diameter and weighs 165 pounds. About 300 m.p.h. faster is the newer radar-guided Sparrow, right, which has been assigned to U. S. carrier jets in the Formosan area. Sparrow is 12 feet long, 8 inches thick and weighs 350 pounds.

South Sea Dancer Eyes America

Prefers Happy Island Life

NEW YORK (UPI) — There's a place on this earth where you don't need money or much in the way of clothes. It's a place where people hardly ever frown.

You don't need shoes there either. And you never have to run to catch a bus or wait for a vacation to rest in the sun.

That place, Bora Bora in the South Seas, is where a little girl named Ramine grew up. If you haven't heard of her before, you will. She's the grass-skirted dancer in Cinerama's latest, South Seas Adventure.

She pulled on stockings for the first time in the 18 years of her life during a recent six-week stay in New York. She visited the shops and stared at the buildings.

She tasted the food and the ways of the nation's most sophisticated city.

During the interview before she departed, Ramine spoke fondly of the simple things and what she expects of life, saying:

"A dancing career? No. I want to marry and have 12 children, if God sends them. They will be raised the way I was. Your life—it is too fast and it seems to make people nervous.

ISLANDERS HAPPY

"In Bora Bora all the people are happy and kind to one another. They smile all the time. Really, they do. So many of your kind only frown and sometimes they are rude.

"Your food, it is nice," she said. "But I think that and the sitting all the time here has made me soft. My arms and legs are not as firm as they were when I came here."

Ramine thought some more about her visit to the U.S. and said:

"You reporters are — how do you say it — such fun. But I wonder about what one television man told me. He said you have to be tense to be happy.

"Is that true?"
