NOT TONGUE-IN-CHEEK — There is no doubt about how Mrs. Walter Rex Johnston feels about photographers. She and her husband and others were in Detroit Federal Court yesterday facing charges in an alleged international conspiracy to cheat in newspaper puzzle contests.

Detectives Criticize Eastman's Changes

Four Detective Bureau officers were called as defense witnesses last night in the Civil Service Commission hearing on ouster charges against suspended Pontiac Police Chief Herbert W. Straley.

The first, Lt. William F. Nesbitt, was mildly critical of Public Safety Director George D. Eastman's reorganization of the department.

Under the new system, patrolmen investigate crime complaints and, if they feel it necessary, call for detectives to assist.

Patrolmen then write preliminary reports which are typed in the records section, screened by two officers, and routed to various units for action.

"There is some danger here," Nesbitt said, "because of the delay in the reports getting into the hands of detectives. But it's a new idea and may work well in the future."

Criminal complaints, under Straley's regime, were shipped to the Detective Bureau where they were typed and immediately assigned to plain-clothesmen.

Under cross-examination, Nesbitt admitted some persons complained that they had waited as long as 24 hours before detectives contacted them while Straley was in command.

He told commissioners Eastman had cut the size of the Detective Bureau and detectives were falling behind in case work.

★ ★ ★

"If more men aren't added in the Detective Bureau, the situation is going to get worse," Nesbitt warned.

★ ★ ★

He said he saw no signs of inefficiency in the Bureau under Straley, and felt detectives "were doing a very effective job."

He disapproved of Eastman's eliminating beat patrolmen in the downtown area and said: "It was one of the things that should have been kept."

Under cross-examination, Nesbitt said that as few as two police cars have patrolled all of Pontiac at night.

This lack of night prowl cars which existed under Straley may be remedied by the department's switching to one-man patrol cars, he conceded.

"Current plans call for 12 cars on the streets nightly," Nesbitt said. "But before that happens, the police department will have to get extra men and equipment."

Other Bureau officers testifying last night were Inspector Clark M. Wheaton and Sergeants Allen D. Noble and John I. Williams.

Wheaton, commander of the Detective Bureau, said he had never noticed Straley was inefficient.

"The Detective Bureau under Straley was second to none," he declared. "What's more, I never knew of a man denied a part of his uniform."

Wheaton said he had been approached by Lt. William Hanger in October of 1958 for a new overcoat, but had denied the officer's request.

"That was because the chief told me he was working on uniforms specifications and wanted to get the uniforms at one time," Wheaton told commissioners.

The City Commission authorized the purchase of new police uniforms in January, 1957.

Because of the personnel cuts in the Detective Bureau, cases are piling up, Wheaton charged. He said one officer had complained of being 16 cases behind.

★ ★ ★

While Straley was department head, Wheaton said, he had daily consultations with the chief.

"Now, no one consults me," he said.

Straley has the "ability" to be chief, Wheaton said, but is hindered by Civil Service and the Pontiac Police Officers Assn. (PPOA).

★ ★ ★

Asked if Straley had kept citizens waiting for hours in his outer office, Wheaton replied:

"He left me waiting there, too. I don't know what he was working on inside or if he was talking to someone else or what the people were there for."

Noble and Williams testified their relations with Straley were good and that the chief had delegated a proper amount of authority to them.

★ ★ ★

"The chief was always giving me little suggestions, and I liked it," Noble said. He said Straley was a good leader and he experienced no difficulty with the records system under the chief.

He said he was not aware of a conflict between Straley and the PPOA. "The conflict was between the chief and a small clique in the organization," he said.

His only objection to PPOA policy, Noble said, was the organization's petitioning for Straley's ouster.

"They went too far," Noble said. "The police deartment is a semi-military organization and you don't do things like that."

Noble compared the PPOA "clique" to "two or three men sparking a revolutionary movement."

"The rest were dragged along," he said.

His testimony was supported by Williams.

Both men, who cover the south-

Governor Sorry About Remark

Says He Was Informed Falsely on GOP Senator and MSU Contract

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams today expressed "regret" about a news conference remark last week that drew an angry retort from Sen. John P. Smeekens (R-Coldwater).

The Democratic governor said he had been misinformed by what he considered a reliable source that Smeekens had been doing business with Michigan State University.

"I regret the senator's name was used, and I had no intention to level a charge at him," Williams said in a statement issued by his office.

In a speech on the Senate floor last night, the Coldwater Republican assailed the governor as a political maneuverer so "low as to enable him to pass underneath a snake with his top hat on."

Sen. Charles S. Blondy (D-Detroit) answered that this and other remarks were "disrespectful, incoherent and just plan gibberish."

From Phil J. May, an MSU vice president, it was ascertained that Williams apparently made mistaken reference to intercession by Smeekens last December in a contract dispute.

May said Smeekens took up the cause of a constituent from Albion who bid unsuccessfully on a $1,500 order of shipping tags. The contract was awarded on a lower bid.

"At no time did the senator ever indicate a financial interest," May said. "The senator did not ask us to change our decision."

Williams made no reference to this affair in his statement today.

At the governor's news conference last Friday, Smeekens' name had been brought up by Williams in a discussion about state officials who engaged in private business activities with state agencies.

House-Okayed Jobless Measure Assailed by Hart

Asks Senate Substitute McNamara Proposal for Extension Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate passage of a House-approved unemployment extension program would mean nothing to more than 200,000 jobless Michigan residents, Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich) said today.

He added he hopes a program advanced by Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich) could be substituted by the Senate.

★ ★ ★

The House bill would extend the present emergency loan program to permit states to finance additional unemployment insurance. The measure was approved by the Senate Finance Committee yesterday.

Hart told a news conference the bill would benefit only about 25,000 to 38,000 Michigan workers. He said about 207,000 would receive additional jobless benefits under the McNamara proposal, which would finance the program by federal grants rather than loans.

Hart said Michigan now has 364,000 unemployed, and 177,000 have exhausted their jobless benefits. The McNamara proposal, he said, would allow resumption of payments to these 177,000 and to the additional 10,000 Michigan residents who exhaust their benefits each month.

Meanwhile, the fate of two bills using federal funds remains uncertain today.

One aids areas stricken by shutdowns and unemployment. The other would provide some of the money the President has asked for underdeveloped nations.

The Senate has passed a depressed areas bill carrying seven times the federal funds President Eisenhower recommended.

The measure is designed to provide federal help in getting new industries for areas stricken by shutdowns and heavy unemployment.

The 389½-million-dollar measure now goes to the House, which has been working in committee on similar legislation.

★ ★ ★

The Senate bill carries three 100-million-dollar federal loan funds, one each for industrial sections, rural areas, and public facilities in industrial and rural areas.

The loans would be used for redevelopment projects to attract new job opportunities to the distressed areas.

Meanwhile, House leaders of both parties joined forces today in an effort to provide some of the money President Eisenhower asked for the Development Loan Fund.

The comprise figure most often mentioned was 100 million dollars. Eisenhower had asked 225 millions for use between now and June 30 in making loans to underdeveloped nations. The House Appropriations Committee allowed nothing. Eisenhower termed that action irresponsible.

Rain, 48 High Predicted for Pontiac Area

Mild temperatures reaching a high of near 63 will hit the Pontiac area today with the low tonight around 34 degrees, the weatherman reports.

Wednesday will be cloudy and colder with occasional rain likely in the afternoon or at night. Tomorrow's predicted high is 48. Today's south to southwest winds at 10-18 miles an hour will shift to southeast late tonight and tomorrow at 8-15 miles.

Thirty-six was the lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury rose to 63 at 2 p.m.

'Devil's Hole' Claims Student

Oxford Freshman Dies After Frantic Rescue Attempts Fail

BUXTON, England (AP) — An Oxford freshman trapped for nearly two days in a rock crevice 1,000 feet underground died today after rescuers repeatedly failed in a desperate struggle to free him.

The 20-year-old student and amateur explorer, Neil Moss, fell feet first Sunday afternoon into the "Devil's Hole" of Britain's deepest cave.

He had been unconscious since Sunday night but early today had been reported breathing "quite well" with the aid of oxygen administered to him at intervals.

Police announced his death as Britain tensely followed the heartbreaking rescue attempt here in the English Midlands.

The husky, 170-pound collegian's shoulders were wedged so tight 40 feet down in the S-shaped rock shaft that four attempts to pull him free Monday failed. A rope slipped under his limp arms broke each time.

June Bailey, a 5-foot blonde weighing only 106 pounds, wriggled her way down into the tunnel but gave up after six hours. She said she got within sight of Moss but was driven back by foul air.

Other rescue workers, using sledgehammers and crowbars, chipped away at jutting rocks above Moss. The shaft was only 18 inches wide in some places.

Moss, son of a cotton executive, went exploring in the cave with several friends on Sunday but strayed from the party.

Many Solons Buttonholed Before Voting

Mortgaging Proposal Gets Rare Third Test in Lansing Today

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's House of Representatives moved toward a rare third vote today on mortgaging the controversial 50 million dollar veterans trust fund as veterans' leaders acknowledged new efforts to block the move.

The vote was due this afternoon.

Veteran's groups attempted to organize a motor march on the Capitol as a followup to weekend telephone calls and telegrams.

But the march was slow in developing and most of the legislators went from committee meetings to lunch with only a handful of veterans in the Capitol area.

Neil Fitzgerald of Breckenridge led a five-man delegation of American Legion members from Gratiot County which buttonholed Rep. Lester J. Allen (R-Ithaca) and urged him to reject the proposal.

Allen was one of 10 Republicans who voted for the mortgage plan last week.

Emma L. Vis, member of the American Legion's Ex-Service Women's Post 445 of Grand Rapids called Rep. Glenn Hunsberger (R-Grand Rapids) from his desk for the same purpose. With her were two members of Grand Rapids Post 277.

★ ★ ★

Some legislators reported last night they were swamped with telephone calls over the weekend. Others were peppered with telegrams yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Jack Carey, state commander of the American Legion, acknowledged an appeal to local and district commanders to send carloads of veterans for the final phase of the demonstration in opposition to the bills.

Twice before, the House refused to approve the Williams bills, but on the second test last Thursday the key vote was only two short of the required 56.

Many legislators and the governor contend that mortgaging or liquidation of the trust fund offers the only remaining hope of averting payless paydays around May 1.

If the four bill package clears the House, an uncertain fate awaits it in the Senate.

Without debate, the Senate last night passed the bus measure 30 to 3, and referred it to the House.

The reorganization bills, Republican substitutes for proposed executive orders by Gov. Williams, whistled through the House and were routed to the Senate.

Among those in attendance was Floyd E. Cremer, deputy director of the Oakland County council and chairman of the county trust fund committee.

Faith Fills the Void Left in Ex-Kamikaze Pilot

By MILTON COLE
Cape Cod Author

The experience of Hisao is another amazing story to come out of World War II.

Pearl Harbor came as a surprise to many, but to Hisao, a hot-blooded Japanese youth, it was merely a long wait fulfilled. America must be conquered. In the Imperial Air Force, Hisao was taught to fly, to navigate . . . and finally to die. For Hisao became a kamikaze pilot.

COLE

Then suddenly, just before he was to go into action, the war ended.

It was a bitter blow. Before, Hisao had been well cared for by the state. Now there was nothing, nothing except the soil to which he and millions of others returned to extract a meager subsistence.

But Hisao suffered his greatest loss spiritually.

Through the years his moral, motivating force was the Emperor, his immortality, his divine right, the will of the gods that Japan should rule the world. But suddenly these tenets had been uprooted.

★ ★ ★

Each day as he tilled the flinty soil, ate the bittef food—when there was food to eat—his hatred for the American conquerors grew.

Hisao had no friends. The only person to whom he spoke with any cordiality was an elderly widow who worked on the same farm. She, too, was poor and ragged, but there was something about her that Hisao envied. She smiled as she worked.

Finally, Hisao made up his mind to leave farming and join one of the growing number of gangs that terrorized the country, especially at night.

But, before he acted, the widow spoke to him of something he had not heard for a long, long time . . . belief. She spoke quietly, hopefully, of belief in God, not the gods, but in God. She spoke of a Christ, and of the church.

To Hisao it was difficult to comprehend. But each day his friend talked about the well-being her belief in God had

No Jail for Him, He Bolts From Court, Escapes

Shouting, "I'm not going to spend 60 days in jail," Calvin Peacock bolted out of Oakland County Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams' courtroom yesterday afternoon.

Police and special deputies with the county's Friend of the Court Dept. were still looking for Peacock today.

Peacock, a 27-year-old Oak Park gas station attendant, made his escape from the grasp of Deputy Frank Cobb and Judge Adams' court officer, Levi Willie.

Peacock fled the courtroom after Judge Adams sentenced him to 60 days in the county jail if he couldn't pay $300 of the $1,268 the Friend of the Court says he owes for the support of his child.

The judge said Peacock had appeared before his court four times previously and now earns $60 a week at the station and should be able to pay for the child's support.

Peacock was sitting in the jury box in the basement of the courthouse when he decided to flee.

He started to follow another Friend of the Court defendant, not sentenced to jail, out of Judge Adams' courtroom. The judge spotted him and told Cobb and Willie to stop him. But he shot past them and ran out of the front door of the courthouse.

"This is the first time that anything of this sort has ever happened in my court," the judge said.

May Put Straley on Stand Tonight in Ouster Hearing

An outside possibility exists that suspended Police Chief Herbert W. Straley may take the stand tonight before the Civil Service Commission.

Straley's attorney, Clarence L. Smith, said he will call Straley's administrative aide, Theodore T. Villella, as his first witness at tonight's session.

Because of the City Commission hearing at City Hall, the Civil Service Commission will meet on the second floor of the Public Safety Building in one of the two municipal courtrooms.

The hearing will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Whether Straley is called, Smith said, depends on if the defense is able to produce rebuttal testimony to charges that the chief ordered flammable material for police uniforms.

If such evidence and witnesses are not available tonight, Straley will be called, Smith said.

Should the chief not testify tonight, he will "certainly" do so tomorrow, Smith said.

Straley will not be the last witness. Smith plans to call three or four more defense witnesses but said their testimony will be short.

The chief was suspended by City Manager Walter K. Willman Feb. 9 on charges of inefficiency and incompetency, insubordination, neglect of duty, and failure to maintain good behavior.

MSUO Courses Will Emphasize Original Thinking

Classes at Michigan State University Oakland this fall will emphasize "depth, directness and simplicity."

Students will be asked to do more original thinking than rote-taking, said D. B. Varner, MSUO chancellor, in outlining new details of the university's fresh approach to college education.

★ ★ ★

The school will incorporate these departures from tradition, Varner said:

1. Students generally will be enrolled in only three classes at a time, instead of the usual four or more.

2. Physical education, compulsory at most colleges, will be voluntary.

3. There'll be no Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

Speaking at Pontiac Central High School in the first of three "On-to-College Night" programs Dr. Varner said these were several moves "intended to make our curriculum much more simple with more emphasis on depth."

"Most colleges have curricula which stress too many courses at one time, so we'll keep the number down and the depth of study up."

D. B. VARNER

Varner emphasized that "the real purpose of college is not to teach the student, but to urge him to learn. We hope to accomplish this through more give and take classroom discussions and less straight lecturing."

He said in regard to ROTC that he believes MSUO can "do more good by teaching a student mathematics than teaching him how to carry a rifle."

★ ★ ★

As for the physical education program, it has been planned extensively on an intramural basis. Emphasis will be placed on sport that students may continue to develop and take part in on their own after graduation, such as tennis, skiing and golf.

The "On-to-College Night" programs have been prepared by the MSUO Foundation Community Relations Committee.

Assisting Varner was a board made up of Dr. Roy Alexander, director of MSUO student services; Richard Ernst, president of the Perryberry Co.; and Herbert Stoutenburg, MSUO registrar and director of admissions.

According to the program, as it is set up, each of the three courses would carry five hours credit, for a total of 15 each quarter.

The four areas of study now being planned are liberal arts, business administration, engineering, and teacher education. Varner's comments and questions from the estimated crowd of 150 persons dealt almost wholly with engineering and liberal arts.

Varner outlined the requirements for graduation in engineering as consisting of liberal arts, 45 credit hours; mathematics beginning with calculus, 45 hours; physics, 15 hours; chemistry, 15 hours; and engineering courses, 55 hours.

"Our engineers will be given a thorough basic training, a solid general foundation. We will not attempt to specialize them in this rapidly growing age of technology. We'll let their future employers do that."

The training of engineers would enter specialized fields only in the final two years of study, Varner said.

Examples of first semester courses offered students, as outlined by Varner, would be a history of American culture and that of the English speaking world, a history and basic philosophy of science with more emphasis on appreciation and logic and less on laboratory work.

Also included will be language courses with Russian emphasized. "Students must be trained for the future. We must realize that with respect to Russia, we must learn to live together or we will die together. The first step is understanding, being able to communicate.

"The program will lean toward the 'why' of things, rather than the 'how.'"

Liberal arts courses, according to Varner, will emphasize teaching students other world cultures, particularly those of the Far and Middle East, Russia and Africa.

"In future years, these areas will hold extreme importance to the world community. One cannot understand their attitudes today without knowing of their history and cultural development," he said.

In answer to a question Varner said that the college would not offer music courses for at least a year, but expected they would come into the curriculum later.

On the subject of scholarships, he described the top MSUO scholarship as "the most lucrative financial scholarship in the state of Michigan."

Scholarships would be of two

Detroiters Ask Hearing on Charges of Cheating in Newspaper Contest

DETROIT (AP) — Three Detroiters were free on $2,500 bond today awaiting examination April 21 in U. S. District Court here on charges of taking part in an international plot to cheat newspapers out of $45,000 in crossword puzzle contest prizes.

★ ★ ★

Walter Rex Johnston, an auto salesman; his wife, Ann, and Harry Balk, co-owner of a booking agency for singers, demanded the hearing at arraignment yesterday before Judge Thomas P. Thornton.

They were among 14 persons in the United States and Canada named in warrants obtained here by Chief Assistant U. S. Attorney George E. Woods.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover said the operators of what he called a "far-flung swindle" dreamed up a dummy newspaper company and a bank in Canada to trick puzzle solutions out of two New York feature services.

★ ★ ★

American members of the ring then got the solutions by telephone, the FBI said, and collected more than $45,000 in prizes between last November and February.

Canadians named in the warrants are Joseph Dyson, 30, of London, Ont., and George Dingman, 34, of Port Stanley, Ont.

The FBI said ringleaders in Canada got most of the winnings, while the Americans kept small shares of the prize money.

All 14 were charged with using the mails and long distance telephones to defraud eight newspapers — the Portland, Ore., Journal and the Portland Oregonian, the Philadelphia Bulletin, the Milwaukee Sentinel, the Chicago American, the Harrisburg, Pa., Patriot, the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press, and the Syracuse, N. Y., Herald-Journal.

Conviction on the charges could bring up to five years in prison.

Most of Nation Basks in Sunny Spring Weather

By The Associated Press

Pleasant early spring weather, with sunny skies and moderate temperatures, was the outlook today for most areas from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast.

Warmer air moving northeast and eastward forced most of the cold Canadian breezes out into the Atlantic. The only remnants of the chilly air were in northern New England where temperatures were near 20 degrees.

★ ★ ★

The warm southwesterly winds sent temperatures from 10 to 15 degrees above Monday morning's marks in the mild belt. Clear weather was the rule except in Florida where skies were partly cloudy, with light showers in the central part of the state.

★ ★ ★

Readings in the 50s and 60s covered areas from the Gulf Coast states through Texas and extended northeastward from Texas through Missouri into parts of Illinois and Iowa. The 40s were the rule in the Ohio Valley and Middle Atlantic Coast region, with the 30s reported northward in northern areas except for 20s near the Canadian border.

Light scattered showers sprinkled areas in the northern Rockies westward except in California.

Annual Kiwanis Easter Egg Hunt Slated Saturday

Members of the Pontiac Kiwanis Club are making preparations today for their second annual Easter Egg Hunt Saturday.

The event will begin at 2 p.m. at Oakland Park, according to James Williams and Floyd Losee, co-chairmen of the project.

Last year's attendance of 1,500 children is expected to be topped, they said. The hunt is open to all Pontiac children.

Each member of the club will supply four dozen eggs. They will be colored and then hid throughout the park Saturday morning. Prizes will be awarded to the children who gather the most eggs.

Ex-Convict Held in Fatal Beating

Aged Woman's Slaying Said Confessed After Lie Test Flunked

An ex-convict was held today in the fatal beating of Mrs. Mary Douglas, 85-year-old widow who died Thursday in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

★ ★ ★

Picked up in Mount Clemens last night after an intensive search was Joseph Roy Troyer, 38, who police said confessed after flunking a lie detector test.

But after visiting the Mount Clemens apartment house where the unconscious woman was found, Troyer repudiated his confession, police added.

Lt. Russ Girard said Troyer had admitted beating Mrs. Douglas on the head with a steel tape dispenser, but gave no reason for doing it.

★ ★ ★

According to Girard, Troyer said he visited the apartment house last Tuesday and asked Mrs. Douglas, the housekeeper, if he could see a vacant apartment there.

While viewing the apartment, Troyer suddenly picked up "an object" and started beating the woman for no apparent reason, according to the confession.

Girard said Troyer was picked up during an exhaustive search of the neighborhood around the apartment house in which Mrs. Douglas lived. Troyer, his wife and two children were living only six doors away. They had moved from Roseville only two days before the killing, Girard said.

Predicts 'No War' After Talk With Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican leader of the House today expressed conviction, after a conference with President Eisenhower, that there will be no war over Berlin.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana made the prediction after he and other GOP Congressional chiefs concluded their regular weekly meeting with Eisenhower.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, declined to join Halleck in a flat forecast that shooting can be avoided.

Dirksen simply said under questioning:

"I can say I hope there will be no war."

The leaders were told in general terms of the four days of talks Eisenhower concluded Monday with Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Nassau Tourists May Set Record

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — Nassau seems well on its way to an all-time record number of tourists for a winter season, according to the Bahama Development Board, which reports four straight record months through February.

The number of tourists who visited the island in February—27,552—was an all-time high for a single month. The previous mark of 23,601 was set in January.

The total of 51,153 tourists for the first two months of the year represented an increase of 104 per cent over 1958.

Styled with a boat-type hull that enables it to land on and take off from water in emergencies, the big craft has twin gas turbine engines for greater load lifting capability, faster cruising speed and longer combat range.

Navy officials, military observers and newsmen were invited to the Sikorsky plant for the first public flight demonstration, which included landings on the nearby Housatonic River.

The Navy has awarded Sikorsky Aircraft Division of United Aircraft Corp. a 32-million-contract to develop and build the HSS-2, and initial production is under way. The number to be produced is secret, as are data on size and performance.

★ ★ ★

The Navy describes the machine, sometimes known as a turbocopter, as "the latest antisubmarine weapons system, the first helicopter that can both search out and destroy enemy submarines."

★ ★ ★

Other helicopters now serving with the fleet can perform only one of the two major functions on a single mission and still achieve maximum designed range, the Navy said.

★ ★ ★

Either of the two gas turbine engines provides enough power to fly the helicopter with a light load. They are lighter than piston engines and require no warm-up period.

Sikorsky officials said the new helicopter carries improved submarine detection gear and an advanced navigation system, designed jointly by the Navy and Sikorsky.

kinds, one of $255 which will cover tuition, and a second of $500 covering all costs such as books and transportation.

"Other colleges may offer $1,000 scholarships but the cost of living at college a year runs in the neighborhood of $1,500. Serving students living at home in this area, MSUO's $500 scholarship would cover all costs.

"This entire project is the most exciting educational venture in my career," Varner said. "Here in Oakland County we have the opportunity to do something never done in this country.

"We have no traditions to protect, no faculty to satisfy. If ever there was a chance to do something different and constructive in the field of higher education, this is it," Varner said.

Sanity Ruling Today on Mrs. Duncan

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — A judge is expected to rule today on whether convicted murderess Elizabeth Duncan was sane when she hired two tavern roustabouts to kidnap and strangle her pregnant daughter-in-law.

Superior Court Judge Charles F. Blackstock will decide Mrs. Duncan's sanity on the basis of reports already submitted by two court-appointed psychiatrists.

★ ★ ★

A jury of eight women and four men convicted the plump, matronly Mrs. Duncan of first degree murder and set the penalty at death in the gas chamber at San Quentin prison.

Mrs. Duncan, 54, had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

During the month-long trial, the state contended that an intense jealousy of her son Frank's bride, Olga, caused Mrs. Duncan to mastermind the 30-year-old nurse's death.

The End of an Era

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Board of Health revised its sanitary code yesterday so that the health commissioner will no longer be required to: Patrol the streets at night in search of dead horses; pull dead horses to the curb as a safety precaution; light warning lamps at the heads of dead horses.

Empty Shoes Lead to God brought her. And each time she asked him to come to her church.

"Why, old woman, should I go to your church when you know I disbelieve?"

"Because," she answered with a smile, "you will believe."

"All right," Hisao said, "I will go, but only to show you how wrong you are."

That night he and the woman strode down the darkened lane toward the valley below.

"Do you always travel this path alone at night?" Hisao asked.

"No one will harm me," the woman said. No one did.

As they climbed the church steps, a strange sight met Hisao's eyes. Outside on the lighted porch were a dozen pairs of shoes—and the door was closed.

In postwar Japan that was incredible. Of all commodities in the land, shoes were the most precious. Thieves invariably stole them, often leaving jewelry or money untouched.

Hisao pointed to the shoes: "But what of them, old woman? Are they not afraid they will be stolen? Do they not post a guard?"

"We have faith, Hisao. We have faith."

"But who watches over the shoes?" he demanded.

"Our God," she answered simply, slipping out of her own battered shoes.

"Come now," she called, "leave your shoes here and come inside." Something, he didn't know what, made him obey.

Inside a dozen Japanese of all ages sat with their backs to the door. Not one looked back about their shoes. Hisao was stunned.

In the meeting there was talk about God and peace on earth. But Hisao's mind was on his shoes.

The meeting over Hisao opened the massive oaken door with apprehension. But there . . . there were the shoes, untouched.

Something strange came over Hisao as he put on his shoes. It continued to mount through the next few days, and then he asked to go to another meeting, and then another.

Exactly a year later, Hisao became a Christian. Later he entered college in Tokyo and was graduated as a Methodist teacher. Today Hisao is one of the most respected members of the growing family of Japanese Christians.

Predicts Success on Berlin Issue

Confident Macmillan Heads Home

WASHINGTON (AP)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan headed for home after his talks with President Eisenhower today predicting "we shall succeed" in negotiations over Berlin.

He conceded the West faces "a tough task" in dealing with the Soviet Union.

Macmillan left in apparent confidence that the strategy for negotiations leading toward a summit conference, worked out with Eisenhower, will avert a military showdown over Berlin.

In a departure statement at the airport he recalled that he had said on arrival here Thursday that disputes between the Soviet Union and the Western powers should be settled "by negotiation and not by force."

EVERYTHING TO GAIN

"I have no doubt," he said today, "that so long as we stand firmly by our principles—as we shall do—the free world has everything to gain from being ready to negotiate."

"But we must not conceal from ourselves that the next few months will be a testing period for the whole free world.

"The first phase is drawing to an end and we are about to embark upon the next stage. Difficult decisions will have to be made."

★ ★ ★

Macmillan said he was grateful to Eisenhower for his hospitality and that he considered the informality of Camp David, Md., a better background for discussing world problems that the more formal surrounding of most conferences.

The main talks were held over the weekend at the secluded and guarded presidential retreat in the Catoctin Mountains.

PRAISES IKE

Macmillan praised Eisenhower as a man who inspires "loyalty and affection" as he did when he was military commander in World War II.

He also praised ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for "his courage and determination."

Macmillan and Eisenhower met with Dulles before and after their weekend conference at Camp David.

★ ★ ★

Macmillan said goodby to Eisenhower in a meeting at the White House late Monday. Those who headed the official farewell party at the airport this morning were Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Macmillan took off for London in a Comet jet airliner at 9:00 a.m. He is due in the British capital at 9:30 p.m. London time.

The plans call for a meeting of foreign ministers in May, and a later summit conference to direct negotiations with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The Day in Birmingham

Commission Notes Award of Ambulance Contract

BIRMINGHAM — A one-year contract at $450 a month was awarded to Michael J. O'Hara, owner-operator of the Birmingham Ambulance Service Inc., by city commissioners last night to provide emergency service for Birmingham residents.

O'Hara's firm was the only one to seek the contract. Bids were presented on both one and three-year terms. The long-term bid was for $350 a month.

Birmingham Ambulance Service provides the use of three de-lux-type ambulances all operating out of 855 E. Maple Ave.

Owen Pinkerman, director of William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, and Mrs. Fay Stewart, Pontiac General Hospital's public relations director, presented letters testifying to the efficiency of the O'Hara company.

The proposed Frank Street paving was declared a necessity and a special assessment role ordered at last night's commission meeting.

The paving of Landon, Purdy and Ann streets hearing and the acquisition of property on Landon were postponed for two weeks.

The completion of Holland avenue, east from Eton road was approved. The city will pay $5,063 of the $12,000 project as an abutting landowner. The balance will be paid by John H. Ross Co., and Torrence Oil Co.

Commissioners also approved new lighting on W. Maple avenue from Westchester way to Cranbrook road pending the approval of Bloomfield Township for its share of the expense.

A check by police and two homeowners yesterday revealed more than $7,000 in cash and personal property taken from homes on E. Maple avenue and Redding road over the weekend.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bell of 1536 Redding Rd. reported a mink coat and a mink stole, valued at $1,000 each, $370 in cash, plus bedding, jewelry and photographic equipment had been taken from their home while they were away.

At the Charles L. Watkins home, 1489 E. Maple Ave., the loss was set at about $3,300. Thirty cuff-link and tie clasp sets, a camera and case were taken.

★ ★ ★

In both burglary areas police said neighbors later reported an unusual amount of barking by their dogs at about the times the crimes were committed. Officers asked that such incidents as well as strange cars parked near vacant houses be reported immediately.

Birmingham's city commission Planning Board and Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a public meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Commission Room.

The city's comprehensive planning program, particularly that of the downtown area, will be discussed.

Dennis Durden of Larry Smith's Co., Washington, D. C. will speak on how the area can be developed to improve its use and economic status. Durden prepared the economic analyses for both the Eastland and Northland shopping centers.

Mrs. Ella A. Striker

Service for Mrs. Ella A. Striker, 91, of 1034 Mohegan St. will be held at 3 p.m. Wednesday from the Manley Bailey Funeral Home with entombment at White Chapel Cemetery.

Mrs. Striker died Monday at Pine Knob Nursing Home, Clarkston, after a long illness.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Clarence J. Sanger of the same address in Birmingham, three grandsons and six great-grandchildren.

west section of Pontiac, said ill feeling existed in that district since a sweeping raid in that area Dec. 5.

Sixty-five persons were arrested that night, but most were later released and charges dropped.

Prior to that time, both sergeants reported, relations had been good between the department and southwest area residents.

Patrolman William Bailey told commissioners he quit the PPOA because "it hadn't done anything constructive in the past year and a half.

"Certain individuals had more authority than I thought justified," Bailey said. PPOA meetings were poorly attended, he said, and often the group had trouble obtaining a quorum.

He said average attendance was between 20-25 members.

Bailey said he had heard a lieutenant curse Straley before subordinates in his platoon.

The first witness on the stand last night was Patrolman Robert Verhine, who completed his testimony begun Friday.

Verhine said Straley was antagonistic to "three to six" officers in the PPOA, but not to the association itself.

"They wanted to run the department and the city manager (Walter K. Willman) did what they wanted," Verhine asserted.

Daily Published by Card Company

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—One of the nation's tiniest tabloids has marked its fifth anniversary of publication without missing an issue.

The "Noon News," published daily for the employes of Hallmark Cards, is a four-page newspaper about the size of a digest-type magazine. Unlike many company bulletins and newspapers, it features snappy make-up and is reproduced professionally, just as other daily newspapers are.

A client of United Press International since its founding in 1954, the "Noon News" presents a capsule account of national and global events in each issue, along with a weather report and news and feature stories of employe, company and community interest.

Jailed in Traffic Fines

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI) — Edward Hurley Jr., who failed to pay a total of $13 for 10 parking tickets, wound up with a 50-day penitentiary sentence when he was unable to comply with a judge's order to pay off the tickets at $25 each.

Dalai Lama's Brother on Visit to Seattle

SEATTLE (AP)—The brother of the Dalai Lama arrived here Monday night for a visit and his first request was for news on strife-torn Tibet.

"Have you heard anything?" asked Thubten Jigme Norbu, 38, a high ranking Tibetan Lama in his own right.

He repeated the question to a reporter at the home of his host, Robert B. Ekvall, chairman of the University of Washington Far Eastern Institute's Inner Asia Project and former lay missionary in Tibet.

★ ★ ★

Norbu, who escaped when Chinese Communists took over Tibet in 1951, said he was completely out of touch with his homeland and knew only of the fighting in Lhasa through news reports. He last saw his brother, the spiritual and political leader of Tibet, in India in 1956.

Hal Boyle Says:

He Parlayed $300 Into $5 Million Business

NEW YORK (AP) — "The more people say a thing can't be done," said William R. McLain, "the greater the opportunity for the right man to do it."

His willingness to try the impossible has enabled McLain, president of a Nashville, Tenn. toy firm, to parlay $300 into a five-million-dollar annual business.

★ ★ ★

All his life McLain, a slender, 42-year-old chemical engineer, had wanted a business of his own. In 1945 he decided to make the gamble with $300 mustering-out pay he received when he left the Navy.

★ ★ ★

He and his partner, Earl Horton, a college friend, decided to enter the competitive toy field. Their families shared a farm shack outside Nashville while the partners drew up careful plans.

Impressed by their thoroughness and enthusiasm, a banker lent them $55,000—they had no collateral—to get started. They grossed $285,000 in 1946, their first year in business. And every year since then they have done better.

Today they have three plants, 350 employes. In addition to a line of 32 toys, they now turn out dozens of industrial plastic items for some of the Nation's largest firms.

★ ★ ★

McLain's success principles are simple.

"Don't try to imitate the other fellow," he drawled. "It pays to be different, to plow a new furrow.

"Hire good people, treat them well, and—as far as you can—let them alone.

"Money and machinery are important in a firm's success, but the biggest factor is people. They've got the answer to most of your problems.

"We believe in starting them young and giving them responsibility. At 42, I'm the second oldest executive in our company."

★ ★ ★

His personnel policy paid off when a main plant burned down in 1953.

"We didn't miss a single delivery," he said. "Everybody pitched in and, starting from the ground up, in 23 days we had built and were operating in a new factory 14 miles away.

"The day after the plant burned, the employes came in and offered to pass up their paychecks during the emergency. We didn't have to do that, but we'll never quit being grateful for their offer. It's when you're under pressure that you find out the kind of people you're with."

The average life of a novelty toy is only two to three years.

"One of our most worrisome problems is people who keep writing us with ideas for new toys," said McLain. "We are not in the market for them. We have our own staff, and we like to originate our own toys."

Could another man start from scratch now and do as well as he did?

"Certainly," he said. "He ought to find it even easier. The opportunity is greater now, and it should be even greater in the next few years.

"All he has to do is to find something that people say can't be done—and go ahead and do it. The trouble is that few who have the desire to succeed have the willingness to put out the energy and drive that is required.

★ ★ ★

"It isn't enough to be intelligent and to know how to get along with people. You have to have a big spark of ambition, and nobody can put that into you except yourself."

Dulles Illness Spurs Summit

Ike Will Have to Go It Alone Now, So Seems Less Reluctant

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Their handling of their foreign ministers—and their attitude toward a foreign ministers meeting—is a prime example of the difference between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Khrushchev treats his foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko, like a bookkeeper in charge of small details. Perhaps no president in history ever depended more on his Secretary of State than Eisenhower on John Foster Dulles.

★ ★ ★

It is hard to imagine Khrushchev at a loss for a word or an idea at a summit get-together if Gromyko never showed up. He already has dismissed as a waste of time a foreign ministers meeting before a summit conference.

Dulles has been Eisenhower's strong right-arm in foreign affairs. It is doubtful, because of his cancer, that Dulles can go overseas to a summit meeting with the President.

★ ★ ★

To be sure, Eisenhower, before he goes, will be well-briefed on details by his State Department aides and perhaps by Dulles himself.

But on a minute by minute basis that won't be the same as having Dulles with him. The President respected Dulles' judgment, relied on him, listened, was guided by him.

It is no wonder Eisenhower, contrary to Khrushchev, until recently had insisted that any summit meeting must be preceded by a foreign ministers conference which showed some progress and agreement before the top men met.

If Eisenhower now seems to be attaching less importance to a foreign ministers meeting it may be due more to Dulles' illness than any argument by Khrushchev or influence by British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Men of Japan Play Field, Wives Don't

TOKYO (AP)—Japan is a nation of philandering husbands and faithful wives, a local Dr. Kinsey reported today.

Prof. Shinichi Asayama of Osaka Municipal University estimated that 60 to 70 per cent of all Japanese husbands have sex relations with women other than their wives, but less than 8 per cent of the wives are unfaithful.

★ ★ ★

"Japanese husbands, compared to American husbands, are five times safer as far as their wives' fidelity is concerned," he said.

The 51-year-old geneticist published his findings in the leading woman's magazine "Fujin Koron" (Women's Forum) after questioning 257 married women and 182 husbands. The magazine devoted a special issue to "The Problem of Men."

★ ★ ★

Asayama also surveyed 4,838 unmarried men and 1,200 single working girls between the ages of 20 and 30. The incidence of sexual experience among the men ranged from 20 per cent of the 20-year-olds to 75 per cent of the 30-year-olds. Nonvirginity among the women increased from 18 to 28 per cent.

★ ★ ★

Of the unmarried men, said Asayama, "The rate was lowest among young bank employes. Perhaps their occupation made them as solid as their banks' safes."

Giant Ichthyosaurus Unearthed in Italy

ASTI, Italy (AP)—Ditch diggers near here unearthed a 30-foot skeleton which experts believe may be one of the biggest specimens of ichthyosaurus ever found.

★ ★ ★

The ichthyosaurus was a marine reptile of the dinosaur age. It had a fish-like body, a snout like a porpoise and paddle feet.

The workmen struck what appeared to be the backbone of the reptile. They uncovered 30 feet of that and a skeleton head 6 feet long.

2 Children Sought; Father Is Suicide

ATLANTA (AP)—An intensified search was in progress today for two small red-haired children who were spirited away by their father, police said, shortly before he killed himself with a shotgun.

★ ★ ★

The youngsters, Eddie Max Norton Jr., 5, and his sister, Brenda Gail, 3, were last seen sitting in a car Monday morning in front of the apartment where they lived.

Detective R. P. McGee said the father, Eddie Max Norton Sr., 29, a chemical company employe, drove off with the children, then returned alone. A shotgun blast was heard soon after he entered the apartment.

★ ★ ★

Norton was found lying on a bed. McGee said he apparently stuck a shotgun in his mouth and fired.

Civil defense units joined volunteers and police in a search for the children.

Detectives said a suicide note found in Norton's pocket stated that an attempted reconciliation with his wife had failed.

Money Stolen Two Years Ago Comes in Mail

HOLLAND (AP)—Two years ago the Central Park Supermarket just west of Holland lost $300 to safe burglars.

Co-owners Joe Wiersma and Mrs. James DePree, the widow of his late partner, today believed the thieves have repented. Wiersma and Mrs. DePree told Ottawa County Sheriff Bernard Grysen they each received $150 through the mail last Saturday.

Wiersma said he received an envelope containing a $100 bill and a $50. A $100 bill and five $10 notes were sent to Mrs. DePree. There were no explanations with the envelopes, both of which bore Zeeland postmarks.

Mr. Waltz died Monday in Hurley Hospital, Flint, following several weeks' illness. He was manager of the C. F. Smith Store here for 21 years until retirement in 1946. He was also a director of the Ortonville State Bank for 21 years.

He was a member of Masonic Lodge 339, Ortonville F&AM and the Oxford Chapter of the Royal Arch Masons 94.

Surviving are his wife, Blanche, and a sister.

MRS. EDITH S. CRAWFORD

MILFORD — Service for Mrs. Edith S. Crawford, 71, of 120 E. Lafayette St., will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the Richardson-Bird Funeral Home. Burial will follow in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. Crawford died Monday at her home. She was a member of the Milford Methodist Church, the Rebecca Lodge here, the Milford OES, and the Debbie Home Extension Group.

Surviving are a son, Harold of Pontiac; a daughter, Mrs. Clifford LaFond of Rapid River and a sister, Mrs. Will Crawford of Milford.

Deaths Elsewhere

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—Dr. B. L. Dodds, 56, dean of the College of Education at the University of Illinois since 1953, died Monday. Before coming to Illinois he was director of the Purdue University Department of Education. He was born in St. Edward, Neb.

★ ★ ★

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rupert A. Drum, 77, old-time Shakespearean actor and in recent years a theatrical makeup expert, died Monday.

★ ★ ★

GARY, Ind. (AP)—Sarah Sabina McFall, 89, mother of Jack K. McFall, former U.S. ambassador to Finland, died Monday of a stroke. McFall also was a former assistant secretary of state under Secretary Dean Acheson. Mrs. McFall was born in Sullivan, Ind.

Immediate Expansion Set for Detroit Docks

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Harbor Terminals Inc. has announced plans for immediate expansion of its dock facilities here to meet any increase in general overseas cargo after the St. Lawrence Seaway opens.

The seaway is scheduled to open next month.

The firm said yesterday it has purchased 100,000 square feet of property along the Detroit River east of its present facilities. Plans call for the area to be developed for port use in the present shipping season.

The construction will include bulkheading and extension of the wharf, surfacing the area and extending railways, craneways and truckways.

Detroit Harbor Terminals said it will have facilities for the berthing of three larger ocean liners or five smaller ships active in Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway overseas commerce.

Ortonville Man Jailed on Two Traffic Charges

An Ortonville man, Claude Sheldon, 41, pleaded guilty to drunk driving and driving without a license Monday before Springfield Township Justice Emmett J. Leib.

Sheldon, of 131 Ball St., was sentenced to pay $115 in fines and costs plus 10 days in the Oakland County Jail on the first charge, or serve 30 days in jail.

For the second charge he was fined $45 plus $5 costs or 30 days. Sheldon failed to pay and was jailed.

Former Birmingham Man Succumbs Here

BIRMINGHAM — Service for Albert M. Guthrie 51, of California, a former resident of Birmingham, will be held at 1 p.m. tomorrow from the Manley Bailey Funeral Home with burial in White Chapel Cemetery.

Mr. Guthrie died yesterday in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, after a brief illness. He was visiting at the home of his brother, Walter, at 750 Oakleigh Rd., Bloomfield Hills when taken ill.

He had been associated with Gar Wood Industries for 20 years and for the past seven years was manager of their branch in Richmond, Calif.

Recently promoted to sales manager of construction machinery at the Findlay, Ohio office, he was en route to assume his new duties.

Mr. Guthrie was a resident of Birmingham for 30 years and attended local schools and the University of Michigan.

Surviving besides his brother, Walter, are his wife, Bernice Vaughn; a daughter, Harriette; three sons, Walter, Albert Jr. and Richard, all at home; his mother, Mrs. Clara Guthrie and a sister, Mrs. Merle Whitehill, both of Meadville, Pa.

Jordan's King, Ike Discuss Mideast Strife

WASHINGTON (UPI) — King Hussein of Jordan meets today with President Eisenhower and other high U. S. officials to assess the general situation in the Middle East.

Also high on the list for discussion are prospects for increased U. S. military and economic aid to Jordan.

★ ★ ★

Hussein will lunch with the President at the White House following a morning conference with Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

★ ★ ★

Later the king and his aides meet with Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon; James W. Riddleberger, new foreign aid chief, and Assistant Secretary William Rountree.

The conferences with Eisenhower and Herter are expected to center on recent developments in the Middle East, including the Iraqi rebellion. The Mosul rebel trials begin in Baghdad today.

They Might Mean It

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said yesterday he is careful not to bump into any of the 10 prison trusties who staff his mansion. He doesn't want to give them the opportunity to say, "Pardon me."

The reason some wives can't save any money is that the neighbors are always doing something she can't afford . . . The advantage of golf is that it gives a person a chance to be a pedestrian without being run over . . . Education is what you have left over after you subtract what you've forgotten from what you've learned. —Earl Wilson.

Plain talk to the man who thinks "all cars are built alike today"

A. EMMET JUDGE

"The one thing we know car buyers want above all in an automobile is quality. Yet many people assume that all cars today are pretty much the same in this respect.

This is far from being the case. I can name at least 30 basic differences in the design of our '59 Mercury. Naturally, we feel these differences make Mercury a better car. For example:

EXTRA STRENGTH STARTS WITH THE FRAME

The backbone of every Mercury is the frame. We use a heavy box-type construction—the heaviest in the industry. Competitors use frames that are up to 125 pounds lighter.

WE BUILD QUALITY YOU CAN SEE

Compare the way Mercury builds engine hoods. Most competitive cars use what is known as a single-panel construction. This type of hood can be twisted and turned with the slightest pressure—often flutters and vibrates when the car is in motion. At Mercury, on the other hand, we use a double-panel construction—two layers of steel with the insulation sandwiched in between. Not only is Mercury's hood more rigid, but it looks better.

YOU FEEL THE QUALITY WITH EVERY STOP...

Mercury brakes are the largest in the field—with up to 22% more brake lining than competitive cars. And only Mercury in its field has brakes that adjust themselves mechanically. You save money by eliminating periodic adjustments. And you are safer because Mercury brakes stay properly adjusted for the life of the linings.

...AND EVERY TIME YOU TAKE THE WHEEL

All 1959 Mercurys have a flexible coupling installed in the steering system. This acts as an insulator—absorbs road shocks that would otherwise travel up to the steering wheel. Mercury, unlike some cars, gives you this with either manual or power steering.

WE HAVE PLENTY OF PROOF THAT THIS IS THE BEST-BUILT CAR IN AMERICA TODAY

We know it is the greatest Mercury ever designed and built. Never in Mercury's 20-year history have we had so much value in the product itself. Mercury has advantages everywhere over competition. The four described on this page are only typical. In future messages I'll tell you about dozens more—in styling, comfort, in everything you want in a car."

New York Ferry Makes Last Run

Tradition - Laden Line From Weehawken Bows to Economic Realities

WEEHAWKEN, N.J. (AP)—The New York Central Railroad will erase a tradition from the New York metropolitan area today. This is the last day of the Weehawken Ferry, which was started in 1829 by a company using paddle-wheel boats and taken over by the Central in 1885.

★ ★ ★

The move has been prompted by economics. Central officials say losses from the ferry were "staggeringly high." They moved to abandon the service after receiving clearance from the Supreme Court.

Students of history and a few romantics know that even before regular service started between Manhattan and Weehawken, there were sailing craft for hire on an informal basis.

In 1804, Alexander Hamilton bobbed across the Hudson in such a boat to fight his pistol duel with Aaron Burr. He was fatally wounded near the spot where the West Shore ferry house now stands.

For some 5,000 commuters, however, the disappearance of the Weehawken Ferry will be of more than historical interest.

They live in New Jersey, work in New York and are now faced with finding other means of getting to work.

★ ★ ★

The railroad maintains that commuters can find adequate alternate means of transportation with buses, which run to New York via the Lincoln Tunnel and the George Washington Bridge.

At any rate, the ferries sing their swan song today. Wednesday they will be in that special place reserved for such institutions as New York's Third Avenue "El" and the Baltimore and Ohio's plush Washington-to-New York train known as the Royal Blue.

They will be just a memory.

Paar's Genevieve a Diamond in the Rough

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — The beauty of Genevieve ("Jacques" Paar's favorite conversationalist) is not in her enormous eyes, nor in her escalloped hair, nor even in the confused confection that is her accent.

Genevieve's beauty, you'll excuse the cliche, comes from within. Under this 22-inch belt, and up a few inches, beats a heart as warm and wholesomely stocked as a good petite marmite.

Listen, as she sits with her legs nestled against her black poodle—or vice versa—and answers the question, "Do you like dogs better than people?"

"Ah, Cherie, I love people. I love animal, and flower. I love life. The reason I love dogs—I am always touch by them because they cannot speak. They are feeble. Maybe it is the mother instinct. I am so busy now, a stupid life. I have not time to marry, to have the baby . . .

"But with my doggie and my four birds, I have everything. And I have friends who I love. I am faithful, and my friends they are very faithful to me." Genevieve makes a quick, forthright gesture. Palms up. "Why should I want more?"

Money, says the newly successful French chanteuse and gamin, is completely without importance She was born 28 years ago to a successful Paris businessman—"he has enough rich so I never wanted"—and has always made her own fortune, from teenage days.

"So what is for—money? How to spend it? I have too much dresses for the places I want to go. I cannot eat more because I get fat. I cannot drink more because I get drunk. Why should I want money?"

Until Jack Paar introduced Genevieve to a wide audience more than a year ago, she was a successful night club singer. Now she can have her choice of highly-paid club dates, TV guest spots.

"Jacques is the base of my success—the base; he open for me all the door. He take me out of the night club, which I hate. The people at 'the night club they come for drink, for dance, for flirt. I prefer my little salary with Jacques . . ."

Which reminds her: "I have no social life. Social life means cocktail parties and all that stuff. I hate them, I hate them. You meet people you don't know and you waste your time and their time. I like to be with friends I love, where you don't talk if you feel like it and who cares?"

She has this kind of life. Lives alone, with the animals and flowers, in a small penthouse overlooking Manhattan's East River. Takes "Poudy," the poodle, for an hour's walk twice a day; usually at 7:30 in the morning and 1 a. m. He also accompanies her to her work, wherever that may be.

Currently, it is in a rehearsal studio where she's rehearsing for her first dramatic role on the Oldsmobile Music Theater, March 26. In which she is co-starring with the rejuvenated child star, "Jacquey Coopair."

Genevieve is picking up the English language quickly. But consciously. She has been advised not to lose her accent, so "I do not try to progress, and I do not try not to progress. But I will be an American citizen soon, and I would like to know more than this."

She will be married one day, she presumes, but the man must approve of "Poudy" and work.

"I will never love any man who do not love animals," she says firmly, "and I will give up working when I am dead, I believe."

Russian Episode to Rival Old Salem

Witchcraft on Collective Farm

By A. I. GOLDBERG

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet magazine Ogonek — the name means tiny gleam—has thrown some light on what it calls the atrocious tale of a collective farm veterinarian accused of witchcraft.

Dwelling on a story rivaling these of old-time Salem, it asks you to hark to the plight of Dr. Kozlachkov of the Kozakov collective farm called Awakening, in the Gorki region east of Moscow.

Dr. Kozlachkov has been a veterinarian in the region for 30 years, says Ogonek's crusading reporter Nikolai Drachinsky.

Some years back Kozlachkov got into a squabble with a drunkard who accused him of witchcraft. The magazine's account goes on from there:

Kozlachkov was accused of causing cows to have a rash and chickens to fall ill, casting evil spells on milkmaids and collective farmers and their wives.

He complicated his situation when he opposed celebration of old religious holidays that broke up the farm work program.

"Antichrist," the peasants muttered.

"Witch," shouted those addicted to drink.

Children stoned Kozlachkov in the streets.

Fearful milkmaids barred the doors to a farm building to pen him in. He came out the window.

"Truly a creature of the devil," the girls chorused.

STRONG 'DISENCHANTMENT'

Nephews of one of the veterinarian's drunken foes demanded that he give their uncle a symbolic bathing "to disenchant him", and beat Kozlachkov's wife as a persuader.

Even the collective farm chief joined the chorus of damnation.

"These people are ignorant, of course," he said, "but after all his cursed witchery transferred this rash from the cows to my nose."

The farmers drew up a proclamation to expel Kozlachkov.

He went to court, demanding reinstatement and asking restitution for the beating his wife suffered.

★ ★ ★

The court upheld the expulsion. Kozlachkov appealed.

The higher court fined one attacker 200 rubles and a second 350 rubles on the ground that he was a Communist Youth League member and should have known better.

But Ogonek complains that after four months Kozlachkov still doesn't know whether he can keep his job.

District officials fob it all off on the ground that the farm has neglected its cultural and anti-religious program. They say they'll set up the antichurch campaign on the farm.

Chutist Granted Wish to Be Buried With His Buddies

CHICAGO (AP)—A young paratrooper, killed in a jump in Japan last week, is to get the request he made when he returned from combat in Korea. He will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

Edward J. Marrion enlisted in the Army when he was 17 and upon discharge had written Washington making the request, his mother, Margaret R. Marrion, said Monday.

★ ★ ★

She said her son told her: "Whether I'm 25 or 45, I want to be buried in Arlington." Asked why, he replied: "Because my buddies are there, Mom."

Marrion was a civilian between 1954 and 1956. Then he re-enlisted in the Air Force to serve with a Pathfinder parachute unit. He became a master jumper, with more than 80 on his record.

Mrs. Marrion and her husband, Robert A., were notified last Thursday that their son, now 24, had been killed in a jump at Fukuoka, Japan. The Air Force, in a letter, explained he had made a jump from a helicopter. The chute split when he was about 300 feet from the ground and he fell the rest of the way.

Security for You

Clergymen Face Deadline

By RAY HENRY

Most clergymen who haven't yet chosen to be covered by Social Security have only until April 15 to do so. After that, coverage will never again be possible—unless Congress gives them another chance.

★ ★ ★

The only exceptions to the deadline are clergymen who've recently been ordained or who've had net earnings from self-employment of less than $400 in all but one year since Jan. 1, 1955.

If you're in doubt about whether you're one of the exceptions, don't hesitate to get in touch with the nearest Social Security office.)

The deadline results because in 1954 when Congress approved Social Security coverage for clergymen it said the coverage was optional. But, it also set a deadline by which they must choose coverage. April 15 is the deadline.

ACT QUICKLY

If you're one of the clergymen facing the deadline and you want Social Security coverage, you'll have to act quickly. There are a number of steps to take:

1. Get a Social Security number from the nearest office, if you haven't previously been issued one.

2. Get a special application (Form 2031) from your Social Security office or the district director of Internal Revenue signifying your desire for Social Security coverage.

3. Fill out this form and return it to your Internal Revenue office.

4. File an amended income tax return for the years 1956 and 1957.

(This is required because when Congress approved coverage for clergymen, it said they would have to start paying the Social Security tax as of Jan. 1, 1956—unless they were ordained after that.

★ ★ ★

(This means that you'll also have to pay the back taxes for those years, plus the taxes for 1958. Your Social Security office can give you full details on how to file amended tax returns and when you must pay the back taxes.)

After you've taken these steps, you'll be covered by Social Security and you and your family will be entitled to any benefits provided by the Social Security law.

Nehru Openly Warns of Communist Menace

India's policy of non-alignment with either the Communist or Western bloc arose from insistence that its national policy not be decided by either bloc and also as a matter of security. Russia and Red China are at its northern borders.

★ ★ ★

However, Prime Minister Nehru has been compelled to take a new view of Communist aims and threats to India. In a document recently released he writes that Communism's language "is of violence, its thought is violent and it does not seek to change by persuasion or peaceful, democratic pressures but by coercion and indeed by destruction and extermination."

★ ★ ★

This swing away from neutralism is due in part to capture of India's growing markets in Asian hinterlands where much needed foreign exchange had been earned. In 1958 China entered the area and although unable to meet its own demand, dumped merchandise at cut rates.

Recently, too, Peiping published its own official map of China which shows 30,000 square miles of Indian territory incorporated into Red China. To India's protest the Chinese blandly replied that no changes would be made in the map but that later they would "consult" neighboring countries.

★ ★ ★

New York's former Governor Harriman now traveling in Asia to observe the East-West struggle, reports that India is decidedly democratic in outlook. The Indians realize that they are in desperate competition with Red China for the hearts and minds of uncommitted peoples in Asia.

Sen. JOHN SHERMAN COOPER, former ambassador to India, points out that India, 95 per cent of whose population earns less than $300 a year, is investing about 12 per cent of its income in its second five year plan. "No other democratic nation is making an effort of that magnitude," says the Senator.

★ ★ ★

Because of India's tremendous self effort to rise above poverty and its pivotal position in the East-West struggle, any aid grants from the U. S. is in the interests of this country too.

New and Cheaper Way to Freshen Sea Water

The Department of the Interior announces that a "remarkable breakthrough" has been achieved in the conversion of salt water to fresh. Since 1952 the United States has financed a research program for this purpose.

Latest method eliminates formation of deposits on equipment used to distill sea water by utilizing scale previously formed in the boiling process. The old scale is added to sea water fed into the system and new scale attaches itself to the old instead of to the equipment. This eliminates costly cleaning jobs and makes possible the use of cheaper methods and higher temperature operations.

★ ★ ★

Interior Secretary SEATON believes that the cost can be gotten down to one dollar a 1,000 gallons compared with the 30 cents per 1,000 in the average U.S. community using water from ordinary sources. However, some areas such as Key West, Fla. pays over $1.00 a thousand.

Present consumption in this country is over 262 billion gallons daily for human, industrial and agricultural purposes. By 1975 this is expected to be doubled. In one-third of the nation crops can only be grown by irrigation and lowering of water tables and drying up of underground sources are causing concern in all parts of the country.

★ ★ ★

Dry areas of the Midwest and Southwest have millions of gallons of underlying brackish water which eventually could be converted into sweet water for drinking and irrigation. The same is true of millions of acres of desert lands all over the world where vast increases in populations make such conversion a matter of life or death.

Scientists seem to be rapidly solving this age-old problem and basic need.

"BREAKFAST should be eaten in silence," says a psychologist. Well, yes, but not necessarily in heavy silence.

The Man About Town

Follows the Trail

One of Longest Straight Stretches Is in Pontiac

Spring: When everything will be in bloom, including the blooming idiots who drive cars.

It seems almost like a paradox that one of the longest straight stretches of the old Saginaw Trail (largely followed by the Dixie Highway) now is mostly within the Pontiac city limits. It extends from the corner where Oakland avenue branches off Saginaw street, northwest to the bend beyond the Silver Lake road intersection near Drayton Plains, a distance of three and one-half miles.

Although many of the early settlers here came up the present Clinton River from Lake St. Clair, the Indian trail came almost directly out from Detroit, largely along the present Woodward route. Most of its course was through low and marshy land.

After it forded the river near the present site of the Oakland Theater (where the first white settlement in what was to become Pontiac was made in 1818), it turned east along the present Water street. This was done to escape the heavy growth of timber in what is now downtown Pontiac.

It then followed what is now Perry St. to a point just north of the present Huron street, then angling northwest to where Saginaw street and Oakland avenue now intersect, thence going northwest quite along the above three and one-half miles.

Very little of the trail followed a straight line at any point. The Indians were not famous for clearing obstructions like fallen trees or excess growth out of their way. They'd rather go 'round.

Another straight stretch is in Royal Oak Township, but the timber there was not very prolific. The Dixie makes some departures from the old trail near Drayton Plains, also in Independence, Springfield and Groveland Townships, but the general trend is the same.

David Lawrence Says:

Firms Right to Expand by Profits

WASHINGTON—Strange and disturbing words are coming from some Democrats on Capitol Hill these days. They have a socialistic flavor. One doctrine being given some endorsement is that profits are, in effect sinful, that "retained earnings" are bad, and that companies should not save up for a rainy day but should let the deluge come.

LAWRENCE

These companies are being told now that they ought to borrow money for new capital hereafter and not try to accumulate it out of earnings.

To save up money to buy new plants and equipment has always seemed heretofore to be the principal way to expand the economy through the private enterprise system, but, curiously enough, now this method is being denounced as a departure from that system.

Reading the testimony a few days ago of Walter Reuther, head of the largest automobile union in the world, and that of Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, Democrat, before the House Banking and Currency Committee, one comes across these passages:

"Mr. Reuther: In the auto industry we expanded since the war in excess of eight billion dollars, and more than 90 per cent of that eight billion dollars was paid for by the American consumers of automobiles, and only 10 per cent represented new capital. I mean something quite revolutionary is taking place in the American system of free enterprise.

"The whole concept was that there was a money market, and if you wanted to expand your company to the tune of a billion dollars, you floated bonds, or you went into the money market and you got people, based upon the attractiveness of your corporate effort, to invest their money in your plant. That is an old-fashioned way of doing it. They don't do it that way any more.

"Mr. Patman: I think you can truthfully say that the capital thus acquired is what could be called costless capital. In other words, the price of the product was increased enough to take enough money away from the consumer to put it into the fund for retained earnings, of which the people in charge would get the benefit, as distinguished from the old way of selling the goods at the lowest possible price, in a competitive market, and letting the person keep that money which is being taken away from him for retained earnings to invest anywhere he wanted to so he would get the benefit. . . .

"Mr. Reuther: I think what you say is absolutely correct. I think this is consumer-financed capital. . . . They say, 'You want an automobile, this is the price you pay,' even though factored into that price a portion is earmarked for expansion. . . ."

Up to now it has been considered a virtue in business to plow back into the company as much of the earnings as possible after paying the stockholders each year a reasonable return on their investment. This has been called the planting of "seed money."

It has been hailed with pride as the great achievement of American business enterprises—growth through one's own efforts. Constant expansion of an entire industry has thus been assured, and this has meant also the creation of more and more jobs each year for an increasing number of people.

Now business is being told that it must pay higher wages, yet reduce prices and depend on borrowings in the uncertain money markets of today and tomorrow. When money is borrowed at higher and higher interest rates, Uncle Sam, of course, has to bear most of the cost—52 cents out of every dollar of interest expense, because this is deductible for tax purposes.

★ ★ ★

Taxpayers generally would have to carry more and more of the borrowing burden of an individual industry if "retained earnings" were discouraged.

★ ★ ★

But anyone who thinks that, out of the $600,000,000 which represents the annual average of "retained earnings" for the last 12 years in the motor industry, all or any considerable part could be used to reduce prices is woefully mistaken.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Easy to Confuse Colitis With Functional Disorders

An Illinois reader writes:

"I read your reply to the man about colitis and I would like to help him as my wife and I were helped by our own small town doctor. He told us to take a teaspoonful of baking soda in a glassful of water as hot as we could drink, at least half an hour before breakfast. Continue as long as necessary even if it takes a month."

DR. BRADY

"We did so 40 years ago and neither of us have had a similar trouble since. I might add that I had been doctoring for two years without relief.

"We keep our calcium and vitamin D, iodin and B-Nutron on the breakfast table so we won't forget to take our daily ration (Signed — —)"

As I said in the reply to which I suppose this Illinois reader alludes, it is not just out of the meanness that I dodge consideration of colitis here. It is because I don't know anything about it, and anyway the subject is not suitable to discuss in a HEALTH column, in my judgment.

The Illinois reader doesn't say what particular complaint he and his wife had 40 years ago. Probably what old timers called "mucous colitis."

Real colitis (inflammation of large bowel) can happen, but when or if it does there's nothing I can tell you about it except: Consult a physician.

★ ★ ★

In most instances, I believe, what purports to be colitis is actually only functional derangement, at least in the early stages, but in time it may become seriously complicated by malnutrition due to ill-advised restrictions of diet and constant interference with digestion by laxatives and enemas.

Some people drink one or two glassfuls (½ to 1 pint) of cold water early in the morning and find this is all they need to maintain regularity. Others drink one or two glasses of hot water containing about one-half teaspoonful of table salt in the pint of water.

I know of no serious objection to hot water or cold, with or without salt or baking soda, if you fancy such fussing.

★ ★ ★

If you harbor any morbid notions about bowel function let me sell you 35 cents worth of peace of mind about it — send 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope for the booklet The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene. Even though you have been long enslaved, this little book may help you to gain your freedom.

★ ★ ★

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

VOP writer thinks Ike's name won't go down in history. Didn't he have "under God" inserted in our American Flag pledge? Without a doubt his name is already in late edition history books.

Another writer is glad the President's terms have been limited. So am I. Eisenhower has done a good job in spite of a heart condition. However, retirement will be good for him just as much as a change in presidents can be good for the morale of the country.

Perhaps the Lansing dilemma will awaken people to the caliber of men they're electing. If Williams was helpless as his followers claim, he's just a figurehead and we'd be better off with a marble statue. It would be cheaper and we could at least be sure he's in Lansing.

★ ★ ★

Can't our representatives forget they're Democrats or Republicans and remember they're Americans, elected to serve all the people? Michigan is being featured on editorial pages throughout the country as a horrible example. Something to be proud of! Our state isn't a political football to be kicked around by selfish interests.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Crane Praises Signed Editorials

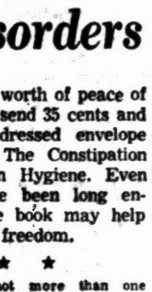
Faithfully I follow John S. Knight's Saturday editorial because it is signed: And most readers prefer signed columns and signed editorials and branded merchandise: For the signature gives "authority" and "responsibility". It backs the column or merchandise with the full prestige of the writer or store.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE A-486: John S. Knight, aged about 59, is head of a group of leading newspapers here in America.

★ ★ ★

As Publisher, he thus rates the title of "Chancellor", and I always address him as such when we correspond, for his five great dailies have over 4,000,000 daily "students."



DR. CRANE

That's more than are enrolled in all the colleges and universities of the United States and Canada, combined!

But I mention Mr. Knight because of his signed Saturday editorial, which I always read carefully.

With his worldwide staff of foreign correspondents and his wide grasp of American economic and political conditions, he sifts and synthesizes current events in superb fashion.

★ ★ ★

Like most of you readers, I also relish a "signed" editorial, for then we know who is the author and realize he is staking his reputation on the accuracy of his remarks.

SIGNED FEATURES

Recently a new advice column was started to try to compete with this "Worry Clinic."

It was advertised as written by a panel of psychiatrists, judges and psychologists, who were combining their judgment.

But it failed to list the name of a single person, so such a column, though undoubtedly very good, lacks authority.

★ ★ ★

It is like a printed check by any large corporation, and with your name and the amount filled in . . . but no signature.

Or like a medical prescription for vital but dangerous drugs, such as strychnine, morphine, etc., but lacking a doctor's signature.

People haven't proper faith in unsigned columns and prescriptions or unsigned checks or even in unbranded merchandise.

When John S. Knight puts his name on his editorial, he "brands" it as authoritative and stakes his reputation thereby, so we accept his comments with far more faith than any equally well-written but unsigned editorial.

Let me give you a personal example to help prove the value of signed features and branded merchandise.

In Pennsylvania, I was having luncheon with a group of distinguished civic leaders, including the city superintendent of schools.

★ ★ ★

The newspaper there happens to run both this "Worry Clinic" and my other syndicated quiz column, called "Test Your Horse Sense."

Feeling, however, that it would be egotistical to list my name over both, it runs the quiz column unsigned (without a by-line).

Somebody at the table complimented me on my quiz column and said the office employees at the steel mill competed to see who could make the highest score.

"Why, Dr. Crane, do you author that quiz column?" asked the school superintendent, and I nodded.

"Well, if I'd known that, I'd have had our teachers assign it in the schools as collateral reading," he continued.

★ ★ ★

"But I thought some cub reporter was concocting those quiz items, so I didn't think it was authoritative."

Please note that it wasn't alone the intrinsic interest value in the "Test Your Horse Sense" column that counted, but whether a scientist was the author!

And that is largely true of average readers. They prefer signed editorials and signed columns, as well as branded merchandise.

This is one of the vital points in newspaper psychology that has come to the fore in recent years and merits further study.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Children's Home Halted

DETROIT (AP)—Wayne County Circuit Judge Neal Fitzgerald issued a temporary injunction Tuesday stopping the county from beginning work on a home for neglected children in Detroit's Patton Park.

Residents in the park area are protesting the site, charging a home would be a traffic hazard and interfere with peace and quiet. Judge Fitzgerald set a hearing for March 30.

No Payless Paydays Expected by Hatcher

ANN ARBOR (AP)—University of Michigan faculty members had the welcome reassurance of their president today that they could expect to be paid at least until June 1.

★ ★ ★

It had been feared the state's financial problems would bring payless pay days to the university's faculty.

"I don't think the state will let you go without a pay day," Dr. Harlan Hatcher, university president, told his faculty at a special meeting yesterday.

Hatcher said he expected the state to solve the cash emergency soon after the April 6th general election. He predicted tax reforms of some sort would be used by the legislature to ease Michigan's finances toward the black side of the ledger.

"The action taken will provide sufficient income for the welfare of the state and the health of its educational institutions," he said.

Reckless Driving May Mean Trouble

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Are you a showoff driver? Maybe you're showing more than you realize—about what makes you tick.

If you're always taking corners on two wheels or burning rubber in sensational getaways, look out.

Folks in the know believe they can spot you for what you are: an immature, antisocial, sexually inferior, angry bully.

And maybe a budding criminal.

A Los Angeles psychiatrist says you may not be all of those things. There's a good chance, though, that you're some of them. Deep down, you probably know it yourself.

Reckless drivers often use their car as an outlet for angry, aggressive feelings, says Dr. Jerome M. Kummer. Kummer is with the UCLA Medical Center. He spoke at a safety meeting Monday.

★ ★ ★

Are you a hotrod type? Then Kummer says, it may be you're trying to cover up feelings of sexual inadequacy.

This applies both with teenage boys and their fathers gunning what Kummer calls "hotrods of a more sophisticated type"—sports cars.

Many of the qualities leading to persistent showoff driving are of a criminal nature, the psychiatrist believes.

"And, let's face it," Kummer says. "Reckless driving is a criminal activity."

Wait a minute! Just because you drive like a gentleman doesn't mean you're in the clear.

Kummer says if you fail to keep your car in good mechanical condition, there's some type of emotional disorder in your psychological makeup.

★ ★ ★

Any driver who picks up lots of traffic tickets or bashed fenders, Kummer feels, should get a psychiatric examination with his fine. The roads would be a lot safer for the rest of us, he says, if those with emotional defects were barred from driving.

Not only that, he adds, but some potential criminals would be spotted early.

None of this refers to you, of course. But next time your neighbor tears away with roaring motor and screeching tires, nod wisely to yourself. You'll know, now, what kind of a guy he it.

New Commons Speaker Must Protest His Election to Post

LONDON (UPI) — "I've got a great job for you," says the boss. "Security as long as you want it and a fat pension when you retire."

"Not for me," you say.

"There's your new office," says the boss. "You'll be honored above most men and you're a cinch for a peerage."

"Get someone else," you say.

"Okay then," says the boss. "If you won't take it voluntarily, we'll force you to take it."

"Force away," you say.

So they drag you to your new office and sit you on the chair that will make you rich and famous and give you a place in history.

And you complain every foot of the way.

Does this sound impossible? It is going to happen in the near future to some eminent Briton. The House of Commons is already preparing for the play-acting that will give it a new speaker somewhat in the manner of the imaginary dialogue above.

The Mother of Parliaments is an extraordinary blend of the cosmic and comic.

★ ★ ★

On state openings, for instance, the door of the Commons is slammed and bolted right in the face of the Queen's messenger, as a symbol of independence. One member ostentatiously puts on his hat in the presence of the monarch—an ancient privilege that goes with his seat.

There are sword loops in the new cloakrooms although no one has worn a sword to Parliament for over a century.

All members still bow towards the speaker on leaving the chamber though they are actually bowing to the altar of a long-vanished church in which they used to meet in olden days. And so on.

But there are few ceremonies more intriguing than the election of a new speaker. The present speaker, William Shepherd Morrison, a famous wit, is retiring because he is getting hard of hearing—"Not an unmixed evil in this chair," he says. He will probably be raised to the peerage.

This leaves Commons the task of finding a successor. The job is worth about 10,000 sterling ($28,000) a year in salary and expenses, a free house, a large pension, a safe seat in Parliament. Naturally there will be hot competition for this plum—but tradition demands that the lucky man display Oscar-winning reluctance.

After his selection (it could be the present Solicitor General, Sir Harry Hylton-Foster) the men who proposed him arrive to escort him to the speaker's chair. He has to put up a show of resistance, with the rest of the House critically judging his performance with cheers and jers.

Why all this shadow boxing? It goes back 300 and 400 years to the days when the speaker had to transmit personally to the sovereign the decision of Parliament. Henry VIII, Elizabeth I, Charles I kept the hangman and axeman busy and anyone who affronted them literally risked his life.

So no one wanted to be speaker.

Ice Stops Highway Meet

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — The State Highway Board cancelled its weekly meeting because the highways were too icy to travel on.

When a boy asks "WHY?" ...anything can happen!

This scene can be duplicated thousands of times throughout the country. And as long as it goes on, America can be sure of continued progress. Here Bob Hansen (left) and two friends explore the mechanical wonders of an engine (1933 model). The two other boys are Tony Riccardi (center) and Bill Hess. They are all students at Niles Township High School, Skokie, Illinois.

Ever since Bob Hansen was old enough to hold a wrench, he has been tinkering with machines. Next year his repair shop on his driveway at home will disappear because Bob, an honor student, is going to college to study engineering.

Bob is one of thousands of American boys with a restless curiosity about things mechanical. What makes a clock tick? What makes a bicycle brake hold? What makes a car run? From such curiosity comes the mechanical progress that has helped to make America great.

In Standard Oil's big automotive laboratory in the research center at Whiting, Indiana, engineers are going through a similar process every day—asking questions and finding answers. How do fuel additives affect combustion? How do they affect engine deposits? How do burning rates differ?

And the questions continue outdoors, too. In all kinds of weather—hot, cold, wet, dry, low barometer, high barometer—different blends of gasoline are tried to see what happens under what conditions. Fuels are designed in the laboratories for experimental engines that won't appear in an automobile for five years. Standard Oil products are under constant improvement to give the finest performance possible. You get years-ahead quality with Standard Oil products—and at a reasonable cost.

Where does progress start? Does it start on the private driveway of a boy's home or in a huge research laboratory? Progress starts whenever someone asks "Why?" and sets out to find an answer.

The efficiency of gasoline and lubricants is improved constantly in Standard Oil's huge automotive laboratory in Whiting, Indiana. Here fuels are designed, too, for automobiles that will not be on the street until five years from now. Robert W. Boydston, above, is working on a "fuels of the future" experiment.

What makes a company a good citizen?

Perhaps even more than an individual, a company must have a healthy respect for the future. Many companies, like Standard Oil, have large families—tens of thousands of people who depend on Standard for their livelihood. Progress through research is one way of protecting the future of both employees and investors and of helping to assure economic stability for the communities in which they live and work.

Arabs Stirred Up Over Israeli Emigration

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Editor

CAIRO, Unite Arab Republic—The Egyptians suspect they are getting diplomatic doubletalk from the Russians.

No matter what other preoccupation may occupy the Arab world, there is one that is constant—their enmity for Israel.

And it is in the matter of Israel that they think they are getting doubletalk from the Soviet Union.

The Israeli issue was at the top of the agenda of this spring's meeting of the Arab League.

The league headquarters sits in the middle of downtown Cairo. It is a solid-appearing building of yellow stone set in the midst of a sandy courtyard. Spring flowers line the driveway approach to the entrance. There is a reception hall and high-ceilinged rooms on either side.

In one of these rooms is the office of Abdul Halek Hassouna, secretary general of the league which ranks Israel as its bitterest enemy.

★ ★ ★

The main topic was the flow of Jewish refugees from Romania.

Russia, he said, has given the league blanket assurances that no Russian Jews would be permitted to emigrate to Israel. Romania has said its emigration is limited and is for humanitarian purposes.

"But," he said, "when we hear Mr. David Ben-Guiron (premier of Israel) asking for more refugees and planning to get into Israel 100,000 in 1959, and know of the existence of receiving centers in Vienna and the activities of agents in Italy looking after them and facilities for their trip to Israel, we cannot help but feel there is a planned program for this purpose."

★ ★ ★

An Egyptian government official echoed Hassouna but in stronger language.

"The Russians may say they are not permitting emigration," he said, "but we don't believe them.

"Romania. What's that? What's to prevent Russian Jews coming out through Romania as easily as somewhere else?"

The Arabs believe the new surge of Jewish emigration through Romania is Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's way of disciplining United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser for his clampdown on communism inside the Egyptian-Syrian UAR.

★ ★ ★

And they believe other revenge measures soon may be instituted now that Nasser is committed to outright hatred for the Communist-supported regime in neighboring Iraq which is competing with him for leadership of the Arab world.

Hassouna is pro-Western but bitter against the United States for its firm support of Israel.

★ ★ ★

He says there is but one solution to the Israeli question. That is for Israel to restore their lands to approximately one million Palestine refugees.

He claims the refugees themselves refuse to be resettled elsewhere and he bitterly blames Israel for preventing establishment of a new, separate Arab state to be carved, just as Israel was, out of the former mandate of Palestine.

This Conductor Has Remedy for Concert Cough

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Not a cough in a concert hall when Milton Katims conducted the Seattle Symphony orchestra Monday night.

Pretty girls passed out free cough drops to patrons, courtesy of rival manufacturers, who supplied six delicious flavors.

The idea was Katims'. He was tired of coughers.

"I feel," he said, that "I can even identify the color of their hair. A brunette cough is worse than a blonde's and the female bark is more deadly than the male."

Actress Finds Her Solitude

Takes Apartment in Vermont in Flight From Hollywood

BENNINGTON, Vt. (AP)—Actress Diane Varsi apparently found today the solitude she wanted in her escape from the glamor of Hollywood.

A small knot of newsmen and photographers was the only reception committee when the 21-year-old actress arrived Monday with her 2½-year-old son, Shawn.

★ ★ ★

No one was there to show her to her modest four-room apartment, first floor rear of a three-story wood and stucco building.

Stoical Vermonters went about their own business.

After a 15-minute wait outside the house in chilly temperature, Mary Marshall, the landlady, arrived with the key and showed Miss Varsi to the sparsely furnished apartment.

★ ★ ★

Reporters carried in two canvas suitcases and a wicker basket, the only luggage the blonde actress brought with her. Shawn carried a tiny toy dog.

She said she decided to settle in this town of 13,000 population in Vermont's rolling hills because she knew some girls who attended Bennington College.

★ ★ ★

U.S. Department Orders Safety Belts for Autos

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Department of Health, Education and Welfare today ordered safety belts installed in its 500 automobiles.

Secretary Arthur S. Flemming told a news conference he acted on a recommendation by the U.S. Public Health Service, a branch of his department.

The health service, he said, "recommends that car owners throughout the country take similar precautions."

Dr. Leroy E. Burney, surgeon general and chief of the Public Health Service, told the same news conference seat belts are "the most effective available means to bring about an immediate reduction in automobile accident deaths and injuries."

Phony Canvassers Use Graham's Name

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — An aide of Billy Graham warned Australians today against phony canvassers who have been going from house to house soliciting money in the name of the American revivalist's crusade.

★ ★ ★

"At no time has the crusade canvassed for funds, nor has it any intention of doing so," declared John Robinson, secretary of the crusade.

Robinson said the canvassers had been busy in several Melbourne suburbs and had picked up a good deal of money from unsuspecting householders.

Graham finished his Melbourne crusade more than a week ago and is vacationing on the Queensland coast before holding more meetings in Australia. Expenses of the Melbourne crusade—$171,000—were covered by offerings at the meetings and donations from local backers.

Ex-Bandleader's Wife Now Divorces Oilman

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Rita Barnet Kenaston, 30, who was bandleader Charlie Barnet's fifth wife, has divorced oilman James M. Kenaston, 42. She was Kenasto's fourth wife.

She testified Kenaston drank excessively and abused her mentally and physically.

They married last July 3 and separated Oct. 9. She received $25,000 cash in an agreement announced Monday.

Jury Trouble in Teel Murder

Choosing in 7th Day as Prejudice, Illness, Ages Slow Trial

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Another group of prospective jurors in the trial of Minnie B. (Connie) Nicholas was nearly exhausted today as attorneys tried for the seventh day to agree on a jury.

Most of the prospective jurors questioned so far said they had opinions or prejudice stemming from the wide publicity given the pistol slaying of Mrs. Nicholas' married lover of 15 years, wealthy drug firm executive Forrest Teel.

Of those challenged and removed for cause Monday, 13 said they had preconceived opinions or prejudice. Three were challenged by the state when they said they could not vote the death penalty, making 33 in all removed for that reason.

★ ★ ★

Age or illness accounted for most of the others excused. Two were excused because they said they had known Teel. One of these was George B. Walden, a vice president of Eli Lilly & Co., big pharmaceutical manufacturing house where Teel was executive vice president in charge of marketing. Walden was excused by mail.

★ ★ ★

The defense used peremptory challenges to remove two Lilly employes who had been tentatively passed in earlier questioning, and also exercised two other peremptory challenges. Starting today's session the defense had only 10 of its original 20 peremptory challenges left, while the prosecution had 16.

Probation Given Driver in Theft From Aged Man

For his part in the robbery of an 85-year-old Rose Township man, Billy Joe Gray, 25, of 13571 Davisburg Rd., Davisburg, yesterday was placed on probation for three years, ordered to pay back the stolen $34, and assessed $150 court costs.

Gray pleaded guilty March 2 to the unarmed robbery of William Andrews of 3466 S. Holly Rd. who was robbed Feb. 16 and then tied to his bed in his home.

Gray's companions, Richard C. Lance, 24, of 1248 Parkway Dr., and Charles Bradley, 22, of 1740 Orchid St., both of Waterford Township, also pleaded guilty for their parts in the robbery. They were returned to Jackson Prison to serve out the balance of terms they had been paroled from.

Detectives said Gray drove the car in the robbery and had no past police record. Gray was sentenced by Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland.

Midwifery Banned by New York Code

NEW YORK (AP) — Midwifery soon will be a thing of the past in New York City.

The city's only two licensed midwives—Brooklyn sisters—will be allowed to continue practice.

★ ★ ★

After they retire, midwifery permits will be issued only to professional nurses who work under the supervision of obstetricians.

The Brooklyn sisters, Concetta J. Misiti, 64, and Katherine Cacioppo, 67, have delivered thousands of babies. They are employed in the maternity ward of a hospital, and practice midwifery outside.

The ban on midwife licenses is contained in a modernized city health code — the first extensive revision since 1914 — which was enacted Monday. The new code, which took 3½ years of work, goes into effect Oct. 1.

New 'Blue Angel' to Be Sexy Swede, May Britt

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The girl most likely to follow the trail blazed by Marlene Dietrich is a sexy Swede named May Britt.

May (pronounced My!) has the legs for it. She also has a provocative face half-hiding under a crop of hair that looks like a haystack. She calls it a spaghetti cut. Hers is more of a smoldering kind of beauty, unlike the coolness of her famed countrywomen, Garbo and Bergman.

All this qualifies May for the role in "The Blue Angel" which sent Dietrich on to stardom before May was born. The 1930 movie is being remade by 20th Century-Fox with Curt Jurgens playing the part created by the late Emil Jannings.

★ ★ ★

When I saw May, she was between wardrobe fittings and a song recording. The latter worried her.

"In school, I always got a one-hour rest while the other children were studying music," she explained. "I wasn't allowed to join them because I always sang off-key."

This, of course, eminently qualifies her to do the Dietrich part.

It looks as if May is finally getting some action on her acting career. In two years at the studio, she has made only two pictures. Her comments on them are wry. Of "The Hunters," she said, "I thought the aerial scenes were good." About "The Young Lions:" "It was a nice little part—two scenes, really."

She demonstrated her independence by turning down another part, the lead in "Fraulein." She drew a suspension for it.

★ ★ ★

"I turned it down because it was a bad script," she remarked. "There was nothing else they could do but suspend me. But I don't think anyone was really mad at me."

She can afford to be independent. Her husband is Edward Janss Greson, heir to a Los Angeles real estate fortune. He is now studying business at Stanford University, 400 miles north of here. She spends her weekends with him and he comes here during vacations.

May's independent air may also be due to the fact that she never yearned to be an actress in the first place. She was a model in Stockholm under her full name, Maybritt Wilkens. Carlo Ponti, producer-husband of Sophia Loren, saw May's photo and offered her a contract. She accepted and did 11 films in Italy in six years. Then Hollywood called.

Each day in the U.S., 110 barns catch fire.

U.S. Says Soviet Trawler Guilty

Note to Moscow Cites Strong Evidence Boat Broke Ocean Cables

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rejecting a Soviet protest, the United States contends it has evidence strongly indicating a Soviet trawler broke five transatlantic cables last month.

In a note to the Kremlin Monday, the United States said Moscow had no basis for protesting the boarding of the Soviet trawler Novorossisk by a U.S. Navy party of Newfoundland Feb. 26.

After a brief search of the trawler, the Navy group commander said there was "no indication of intentions other than fishing."

Monday's note did not allege any willful cable cutting, but said the vessel's trawling cable, used in fishing, was long enough to reach bottom. It said broken sections of the trawling cable, found on the trawler "were shredded and frayed and appeared to have parted as a result of a sudden strain."

The United States told Moscow the evidence raises a strong presumption the Novorossisk violated an 1884 international treaty for protection of cables.

That treaty was signed by both the United States and czarist Russia and the Soviet Union has recognized it.

On March 4, Moscow denied the trawler was responsible for the cables breaks. It said the United States had no right to board the vessel and that the action was undertaken with "provocative purposes."

Rejecting these arguments, the United Sates reserved the right to make claims for damages and requested that any who may be found guilty be punished.

The note gave a detailed breakdown of the cable breaks and said there was a total of 12 breaks in the five cables.

Four Float 2,500 Miles on Raft to Brazil Port

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Four Brazilian fishermen on a 3,000-mile voyage aboard a log raft have arrived in the south Brazil port of Rio Grande, about 500 miles from their goal.

The four left Fortaleza, northeast Brazil, last November to call on Argentine President Arturo Frondizi in Buenos Aires. They put in at Rio Grande Saturday out of food and water and with one of the party sick.

'The Babe and I'

By MRS. BABE RUTH with Bill Slocum

(Condensed from "The Babe and I." Copyright, 1959, by Mrs. Babe Ruht and published by Prentice Hall, Inc.)

One evening the Babe, my mother, Julia, Dorothy and I were driving downtown after a long, long double-header.

The Babe was exhausted. We were stopped by a red light beside a park in Harlem where a bunch of Negro kids were playing baseball.

★ ★ ★

They crowded around the car and said, "Come on, Babe. Let's see you hit a few."

Weary as he was, he climbed out, resplendent in white flannels. For 30 minutes he hit and the kids had the thrill of their lives.

He was ever so careful not to hit anything the little boys couldn't handle. But he knew they wanted to see him really belt the ball. Somehow he managed to hit towering flies where nobody could reach them and be hurt. Or he would soften his power and hit balls that could be caught by the children.

Kids understood Babe. Babe understood kids. Babe was bluff and blunt but he could reduce the shyest of kids to the status of a bosom companion in three minutes or less.

There was Johnny Sylvester. Johnny had been operated on and he was dying. His doctor asked the Babe to visit the boy. Medicine could do no more for him, the doctor said.

ONE FOR JOHNNY

Babe never turned away from a request like that. He visited Johnny, and when he was leaving the stricken boy said, "Babe, hit one for me today, please."

This was an occasion and my fellow could rise to an occasion. He hit one and Johnny got well.

The Babe went to see more sick kids than any man who ever lived. And every visit tore him to pieces. He always came home depressed and would sit for hours in a melancholy daze.

Whenever the Babe made a hospital visit he would find the kids in awe of their hero. He would sit on a bed and in a couple of minutes the kids would climb all over him, kiss him and hug him.

And many a kid climbed and hugged who hadn't been able to move his limbs that much in months or years.

Bill Slocum, one of the Babe's ghostwriters, had a bad moment one morning. There was a picture in the paper of the Babe at a hospital surrounded by grinning kids.

One of Bill's sons, speaking from the great wisdom of his 18 years, said "Pop, the Babe's sure a great guy. Always visit kids in hospitals. Accompanied by a photographer."

NEVER TOO TIRED

The elder Slocum straightened the boy out:

"For every picture you see of the Babe in a hospital he visits 50 without publicity. I know. I get him there."

★ ★ ★

In 1948 when the Babe was on the road for the Ford Motor Co. he was sick and tired.

But he met thousands of kids and loved every second of it. I think the most touching experience he had was in Minneapolis when he met 11-year-old Johnny Ross.

The Babe was supposed to be interviewed by three sports announcers but little blind Johnny was sitting in Babe's lap. And little Johnny interviewed his hero.

"How are you, Babe?" was the first question.

★ ★ ★

"I don't feel so good. I have a very bad throat and my head aches."

"Did you quit baseball because of injury or old age?"

The Babe chuckled until a coughing spell stopped him. He patted Johnny and said that old age had retired him.

He told the boy, as he told every interviewer who ever asked him, that the 29 scoreless innings he pitched in a World Series for the Red Sox was his biggest thrill in baseball.

KIDS WIN ALLIES

In a touching column he wrote for the Minneapolis Tribune, Joe Hendrickson told of Johnny's interview, and concluded with, "Babe had pitched another inning for the game he loves so much. He and Johnny."

In his playing days the Babe would sometimes end a tiresome exhibition ball game with the help of his good friends, the kids.

He couldn't play the outfield in these games because the crowds were so immense. If Babe got near such crowds they would break through the ropes. So he played first base.

Along about the seventh inning of a one-sided exhibition Babe would grin and wave to a group of kids. That always did it.

The kids would go over, under, or through broken rope and surround Babe. He'd sign a few hundred autographs always, so he gained no time by busting up the game.

In 1947 our attorney announced the formation of the Babe Ruth Foundation, Inc., devoted to the interests of under-privileged children.

His estate still gives 10 per cent of its income to the fund. The Babe was very proud of it. And would be as proud today, I am sure.

★ ★ ★

When Babe hit his 500th homer in Cleveland a few months after we were married in 1920, he arrived at the hotel with two baseballs, and said, "There is the ball I hit for my 500th big league homer."

Then he explained:

"A couple of kids showed up in the club house after game. Each said "I got the Babe's 500th homer ball." So I gave each of the kids 20 bucks for a ball."

"I pointed out 'You've wasted $40 because now you'll never know which was the real souvenir.'"

Babe laughed and said, "Yeah, I know. But what's the difference? Neither of the kids looked like he'd had a square meal in months."

(Tomorrow: How Babe got rich in spite of himself.)

Between 1921 and 1930 there were 28,250,000 births in the United States.

"He saw more sick kids than any man who ever lived. And every visit tore him to pieces."

Hospital Room With Four Holds 11 in Kinships

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Mary McCullough, her 5-day-old son, Michael Ray, her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Comley, and Mrs. Comley's day-old daughter, Mickey Ann, have the same room at a Wichita Hospital.

★ ★ ★

Can you figure out how many kinships that makes in one room? (There are two mothers, two daughters, a son, a brother, a sister, a niece, an uncle, a grandmother and a grandaughter.)

Grandmother Mrs. McCullough, incidentally, is 34. Mickey Ann is Mrs. Comley's first child.

Mysterious Fires Ravage Cuban Cane

HAVANA (AP)—Authorities are investigating mysterious fires that have destroyed more than 375,000 tons of sugar cane ready for harvest in Oriente and Las Villas provinces.

Reports said 325,000 tons of cane were burned on seven plantations in Oriente and 56,000 tons were destroyed on three plantations in Las Villas. Razing sugar crops was one of the harassing tactics used by Fidel Castro's rebel force in the civil war against former President Fulgencio Batista.

★ ★ ★

The total of executions by Castro's firing squads rose meanwhile to 452. Two former soldiers in Baracoa, Oriente province, were executed after being convicted of murders and torture.

Pontiac Outsells Buick in January

Nation's Car Dealers Pleased by Volume

DETROIT (AP)—The nation's auto retailers are highly satisfied with sales volume, moderately happy with profit and enthusiastic over the future, Automotive News said Monday.

Reporting on a cross-country survey, the trade paper said however, that "there were no strong indicators as to whether 1959 will prove—in the long run—to be a banner year for new car sales or simply a good one."

The paper also published registration figures showing Chevrolet outsold Ford in January, 106,500 units to 96,500; and Pontiac outsold Buick about 25,500 to 21,600. Compared with last year, Buick was down from approximately 27,000 deliveries, and only a step ahead of Rambler.

American Motors' Rambler registrations numbered about 21,000 compared with 8,600 a year ago. Studebaker was up to 9,400 against 3,500 in January a year go.

Imported car registrations for January numbered about 36,000 compared with 19,300 in the like 1958 month.

"There is No Question," Automotive News said, "that this year will top 1958."

Querying dealers in major marketing centers it found that:

"Sales have shown an encouraging growth so far in March and in most cases are far ahead of a year ago.

"Profits have slowly increased with passing of the winter drums and improved over the 1958 period.

"Price conscious buyers are looking for sizes with minimum equipment in the low priced field; there also is a mild swing to economy in other price brackets.

"Credit problems are NO more numerous than usual, although some dealers are attempting to hold down long-term paper.

"Competing dealers are impressed but NOT alarmed by sales of Rambler and Lark and are looking with interest toward the introduction of other small cars."

Automotive News figured Rambler's market penetration for January this year at 5.01 per cent compared with 2.27 a year ago; Studebaker—Packard at 2.24 compared with .92 and Buick 5.15 against 7.15.

Two U.S. presidents, John Adams and his son, John Quincy Adams, were born in Quincy, Mass.

Model U.N. Assembly Held at Hillsdale

HILLSDALE — For the 10th consecutive year, Michigan high schools—81 this year—joined in a Model United Nations Assembly during the weekend.

By actually playing the role of U.N. member nation's delegates, even to voting as each nation would vote on an issue, the 600 high school students gained in understanding the world forum which debates and determines the outcome of many world problems.

STARTED IN 1949

In 1949 the dream of one man, Dr. Windsor Hall Roberts, professor of history at Hillsdale College, became a reality when 45 high schools in Michigan responded to his invitation to attend a model assembly on the Hillsdale campus. During its 10-year history, the model U.N. has grown both in numbers participating and in importance as an educational venture.

* * *

Besides his own efforts, Dr. Roberts credits the 60 Rotary clubs throughout the state who have traditionally borne some of the expenses of the attending student delegates.

Many of the schools were participants for the 10th consecutive year, significantly pointing up that some of today's decisions in world affairs are being influenced by the first students to attend.

ISSUES DEBATED

Included among the issues debated were the peaceful use of outer space and the representation of Communist China. A special conference was held on the bannng of nuclear tests and the prevention of surprise attacks.

* * *

This year, as in the past, the assembly consisted of two sessions, on Friday and Saturday. At the banquet Friday night, sponsored by the Hillsdale Rotary Club, Dr. Frederick L. Schuman, of Williams College was the guest speaker on the topic "How Many Worlds?"

The "Turncoat," a reversible pique jacket that switches from a printed to a solid side, turns a dress into a costume. When the smart black and white paisley print is worn outside, the bolero is collared in black. When the jacket is worn solid side out, the print forms the trim.

* * *

Serving on the board of trustees are Mrs. Frank Jones, Mrs. Loren Beach and Mrs. Elden Showen.

The next meeting will be held jointly with the Barracks, April 19 at VFW Hall, with a cooperative dinner at 2 p.m.

New Look in Pants

Loosened at the ankle and the return of the modified pajama leg are new notes in long pants. Lengths vary from pedal pushers to ankle length. Very short shorts, and a new length that is about two inches shorter than Jamaica are abundantly in evidence; the natural result of the generally rising silhouette from hemline to bustline.

Gelatin Salad Molds Pickles and Pineapple

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Today we are giving you a recipe for a gelatin salad that has a real tang to it. It should be delightful with any kind of meat. It comes to us from Mrs. J. W. Ashton of Milford.

★ ★ ★

The Ashton sons are all married and away from home. Mrs. Ashton is active in Jobs Daughters work because her daughter is a member. Her hobbies are bowling and reading.

KENTUCKY SALAD
By Mrs. J. W. Ashton

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 small can crushed pineapple
1 dozen small sweet pickles, chopped
1 cup almonds, chopped
1 small bottle stuffed olives

Soak gelatin in 1¼ cups pineapple juice and water. Make a syrup of 1½ cups sugar, ¾ cup vinegar and ¼ cup water. Cook until it spins a thread.

Add gelatin to syrup while hot. Chill until partially set. Add rest of ingredients and pour into oiled mold. Chill.

A "Spring Festival of Fashion" was presented by the Auxiliary to the Oakland County Medical Society recently, with apparel by Davidson's of Birmingham. Among models for the show, which was held at Birmingham Community House, were, left to right, Mrs. N. E. Durocher, Mrs. H. L. Munson, and Mrs. William J. Donnelly.

Two of the show's models, auxiliary members Mrs. George N. Petroff, left, and Mrs. Eugene J. Nalepa, pause on their way to the stage to pose for our photographer. Proceeds from the program are to be used for the auxiliary's Nurses Scholarship Fund.

Dear Abby...

Dogs Talk? Don't Know 'Arf' of It

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: I am a woman of 62 years and before I die I would like to know the answer to a question that has been on my mind for years. Is there such a thing as 'dog language,? I mean when dogs bark, are they trying to say something? I have heard dogs bark at one another and I do believe they understand each other because they seem to reply. Please don't toss this away, Abby, thinking it is too foolish to answer because there might be others who have wondered about this, too."

ABBY

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: I have also observed canine communications and although I don't know who could be considered the final authority on this subject, I would say there is definitely a "dog language." (But we don't know the "arf" of it.)

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: I wish you could help me. I have 5 children and another on the way. My husband is good looking and is constantly getting into trouble. He likes the women. Last year it was my sister. I couldn't take it so I threw him out. Welfare has been supporting me since June. He has started coming back for meals and he wants his clothes washed and he even sleeps here.

"He isn't supposed to be here at all. If the Welfare finds out they'll stop my check. I told him if he liked it at home so much he should work steady and live here but he says he can't stand the kids. I would like to have him here, Abby, but should I let him stay if he doesn't support me? I am 23 years old."

TROUBLED

DEAR TROULED: Talk to your case worker. If your husband sincerely wants to live like a decent family man he will get a job and support you and quit tomcatting around. Before a 23-year-old woman brings five children into the world (and number six coming up) she should know whether her husband "can't stand kids."

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: Now I've heard everything! A grandmother who puts her 4-year-old grandchild into a cage because he touches objects he has been warned not to touch. Why doesn't she do what I do? I make up interesting little stories about each 'untouchable' object in my home and when my grandchildren go to touch it I tell these fantastic tales so convincingly that they wouldn't think of touching any of my 'untouchables'."

EXPERIENCED

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: That grandmother who put her 4-year-old grandchild in a CAGE sure had the right idea. What this country needs is more grandmas with bigger cages. Then we would see fewer kids with faded tight blue jeans and dirty white shoes smooching it up with girls in dark movie houses.

You Replace Record If Boy Doesn't

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I recently celebrated my 16th birthday and had a 'Sweet 16" birthday party at home. I asked a friend of mine to bring some of her records over as she has quite a collection of them. During the course of the evening one of the boys at the party accidently broke one of them. I would like to know if it is up to me to replace it or should the boy who broke it be the one to do this?"

Answer: As you asked her to bring her records, and as one of them was broken by one of your guests, you should replace it if the boy does not offer to do so.

"Dear Mrs. Post: In connection with our baby's christening, please tell us who pays the minister and who buys the christening dress? A neighbor thinks the dress is up to the godmother and the minister's fee should be taken care of by the godfather. I had never heard of these obligations and would hesitate to impose them on anyone."

Answer: The mother of the child buys the christening dress and the father gives the clergyman his fee. A godparent usually gives a present to the baby but should never be expected to share in any expenses of the christening.

Mobster to Face Rackets Group

Senate to Probe Juke Box Control in New Orleans Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carlos Marcello, denounced as a Mafia mobster with a police-protected grip on rackets in the South, faces questioning today by Senate investigators.

★ ★ ★

The labor-management committee also summoned underworld figure Mickey Cohen of Los Angeles in its quest for evidence of an interstate racketeering conspiracy. Cohen insists he has broken with the crime world.

The committee opened hearings Monday on charges that gangsters have taken over control of much of the coin-operated machine business in the New Orleans area, in part through alliances with corrupt public officials.

★ ★ ★

The committee left unanswered whether it also would call William Coci, sheriff of Louisiana's Jefferson Parish (County), a New Orleans suburb. Coci, whose name was linked with Marcello's in testimony Monday, was described as a one-time reform candidate who has since led "a very aggressive anti-good government movement."

Canadian Spy Buster to Head Mounties

★ ★ ★

Deputy Commissioner C. E. Rivett-Carnac, 57, on retirement leave since Jan. 1, was appointed Monday to succeed Leonard Nicolson, 54, who resigned as commissioner in a dispute arising out of the Newfoundland loggers' strike.

★ ★ ★

Rivett-Carnac, a Mountie for 35 years, was the first person to give credence to the story of Igor Gouzenko, the Soviet Embassy cipher clerk who defected in 1945 and gave the Canadian government information with which it uncovered an espionage network.

Rackets Probes Have Little Effect on Boom Prospects

Labor Unions Headed for New Era of Growth

(Despite Senate investigations and headlines about corruptions, America's labor unions are headed for a new boom. That's what NEA Service staff correspondent Ray Cromley found in weeks of digging into labor's economic power, plans for wage boosts, and political aims. Here's the first of his four-part report on the new horsepower in labor—and where it's heading.)

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Don't be kidded. Racketeering and corruption in labor unions are not going to be cleaned up in the near future.

That's true whether Congress votes the Kennedy-Ervin bill, the McClellan bill, the Goldwater-Administration bill, or any mixture of the three.

Take the Teamsters as an example. They've been "exposed" in Congress and by the press. They're being supervised "carefully." They've been thrown out of the AFL-CIO as punishment for their sins.

But the Teamsters are flourishing. Their membership gains have been phenomenal, even during the recession months when almost all unions were hard pressed.

They've made big wage gains, and have won possibly the best pension plan in the business for their members in large sections of the country.

Right now the Teamsters are in the midst of their biggest drives. One is an all-out effort to "teamsterize" Sears Roebuck throughout the nation. The other is a local drive to organize Puerto Rico. In both drives they are confidently meeting head on with the AFL-CIO.

At a time when some of the other major international unions are faced with serious unemployment and a major permanent loss of members due to automation — the Auto, Electrical, and Steel workers and the railroaders, for example—the Teamsters are branching out vigorously to organize small businesses other unions have passed by.

★ ★ ★

They're even making plans to organize city, country and state government workers. And they wouldn't pass by a federal worker if he offered to come their way.

Their program is scheduled to continue the same way whether the government succeeds in ousting Jimmy Hoffa or doesn't.

The Teamsters apparently are lolling in funds. Their newest pension and welfare fund plans alone are bringing them in close to 10 million dollars a month. And all the pension money is going into investments. Pensions are being paid wholely out of investment income.

TEAMSTER'S PRESIDENT James R. Hoffa (center) has spent many hours in this chair before the Senate Rackets Committee, but his appearances haven't slowed growth of his union.

★ ★ ★

Teamsters officials told NEA Service frankly that they're not worried about the Kennedy-Ervin bill or any of the other reform bills now before Congress. Teamsters don't like any of the bills, but regard them as pinpricks.

So much for what exposure has done to the Teamsters. And remember that exposure is the key weapon of all the reform bills now before Congress.

John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers also are against the congressional labor bills.

"More government controls and more government regulation are all these laws would mean," says one official. "If they want to catch crooks, there are enough laws on the books to do it now. More laws won't help any."

AFL-CIO officials say privately they're not enthused about the labor reform bills either. They believe only labor can clean itself up. In personal talks they echo the Mine Workers . . . "There are already enough laws to do the job."

★ ★ ★

There seems to be no doubt that AFL-CIO chief George Meany is sincerely resolved to clean house. There seems to be no doubt, either, that he has a long, slow and next-to-impossible task.

The big AFL-CIO problem: it has very little control over member international unions. Added to this problem: there's strong feuding between the old AFL and the old CIO unions, complicated by the growing weakness of some of the strong old unions and the growing strength of "upstarts."

And there's a personal scramble for power going on that muddies the whole business.

But the basic cause of union corruption and boss rule is indifference. Union members don't come to meetings. Union members don't vote in union elections — even when they're honestly run.

"So what difference secret ballots if there's only one slate," says one official.

As one ordinary union man put it:

"Suppose the top guy does put his hand in the till. He's got me more pay than I ever got before."

(NEXT: The boom in labor's nation-wide economic power).

Alcorn Doesn't Think Nelson Will Run in '60

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn doesn't believe Nelson Rockefeller will seek the 1960 GOP presidential nomination.

Alcorn, vacationing at nearby Redington Beach, was asked if he thought the New York Governor or Vice President, Richard Nixon would win the Republican presidential nomination. He said his position prevented him from taking sides, but added:

"I do not rule out the possibility that both might be on the national ticket. But I list myself in the minority which doubts that Rockefeller will seek the top spot."

Need Strength to Be No Punching Bag

DALLAS (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) said today the West needs greater military strength to become "more than Mr. Khrushchev's punching bag" in the struggle with communism.

★ ★ ★

Johnson, who heads the Senate which recently surveyed U.S. defenses, said second place in the missile and armament race can never be "the place of freedom."

★ ★ ★

He added, in a speech prepared for the Southwestern Cattle Raisers Assn.: "I do not believe that the free men in this nation — or any nation of the West — are ready to say or willing to say that we have done all we can do to strengthen freedom and that Mr. Khrushchev now can have his way with what remains not free.

Millage Transfer Asked in Avondale

AVON TOWNSHIP—The Avondale Board of Education last night decided to ask district voters to authorize the transfer of six mills from the Building Fund to the Operating Fund in a special election May 4.

Board members said they view the millage transfer as the means by which the school district could return to a pay-as-you-go financial basis after several years of deficit spending.

★ ★ ★

Everyone of some 75 persons at the open meeting in the Senior High School gymnasium received a copy of the board's financial analysis for 1959-60.

Gordon S. Hamilton, board president, explained each item, showing how the estimated income will fall about $77,200 short of the proposed budget of $789,290 for the coming year.

Based on 82 per cent tax collection, the millage transfer, if approved, would net the district $73,800, the board president said.

★ ★ ★

Adding this amount to the school aid for distressed districts expected from the state, there would be enough money to meet next year's proposed budget plus some to start paying off on short-term loans, Hamilton said.

Each board member spoke briefly on the proposal, emphasizing that the six mill transfer will mean no increase in taxation for the district.

Of the 13 mills being levied for current debt retirement, only seven are needed to meet the two bond issues now owing, school officials stated. This leaves six mills available for the operating fund if approved by voters.

★ ★ ★

The educators stated that last year the district was $37,000 in the red. And, even if the state meets its obligation, the district is about $200,000 behind in operational funds, they added.

"We have not lived within our budget for several years. We've gone as far into deficit financing as we can go," Hamilton asserted.

The board plans to levy the six mill tax for five years, or from 1959 through 1963.

Faced with just six weeks in which to inform district voters, a group of interested citizens immediately began plans to organize a group to distribute the facts regarding the millage transfer to the entire electorate.

Earl Wilson of 1781 Squirrel Rd. proposed that the Citizens Committee assemble all the questions and answers on a sheet to be given to every prospective voter. Board members also said they would be available to speak to groups at any time before the election.

Oxford Council to Pick Village's Two Presidents

OXFORD — Election of village president and president pro tem will highlight tonight's meeting of the Oxford Village Council to be held in the Municipal Building here.

Other business on the agenda will be installation of the three newly-elected council members and subsequent appointments by the new president.

Three or four Lake Orion Village officials are expected to be on hand to discuss the two villages' participation in the proposed sewage disposal plant for the area. These will include William Shoup, village president, and two or three council members.

Ralph Precious, Oxford village clerk, will present the budget for the next fiscal year at tonight's session scheduled to get under way at 7:30 p.m.

West Bloomfield Club Selects Broadway Hit for May Production

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Township Players of West Bloomfield have slated the production of "Anniversary Waltz" for May 14, 15 and 16 in the high school auditorium. It is a sophisticated domestic comedy.

★ ★ ★

This will be the suburban theater group's ninth production in three years. A broadway success, the play was written by Joseph Chodrov and Joseph Fields and starred Macdonald Carey, Kitty Carlisle and later Leif Erickson.

At this Thursday's meeting in the West Bloomfield Town Hall, the local thespians will elect directors. This will be followed by presentation of a workshop play.

★ ★ ★

Players membership chairman Mrs. Mary Onken has invited anyone interested in joining the troupe who is at least 18 years of age to attend this meeting.

Bradford-Willis Nuptials Said in Elmwood Church

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Elmwood Methodist Church here was the setting for the Saturday wedding of Billie Jean Willis and Larry B. Bradford.

The candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Henry Powell

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Willis of 3081 Devondale Rd., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bradford of 409 N. Squirrel Rd.

For her wedding, the bride wore a gown of white taffeta and lace trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. It had a Sabrina neckline and a chapel train.

She wore a crown of seed pearls with a fingertip veil, and carried a bouquet of carnations centered with a white orchid on her white Bible.

ATTEND BRIDE

Mrs. Simon Willey of Pontiac was matron of honor and Joan Daniels of Detroit was bridesmaid. The flower girl was the bride's niece, Sally McHaney.

Duties of best man were performed by Russell Gonyou of Lake Orion. Ushers were Martin Ashley of Waterford, James Lewis of Ann Arbor, Keith Barnhart of East Lansing and Darret Thorp of Auburn Heigths.

MRS. LARRY B. BRADFORD

A reception was held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony.

The newlyweds are honeymooning in New York and will reside in Detroit upon their return.

Church Women Plan Holy Week Breakfast

ROCHESTER — Members of the Women's Fellowship of the First Congregational Church here are completing plans for their annual Holy Week breakfast to be held from 10 to 11 Thursday at the church.

Mrs. L. R. Myers, chairman of the Spiritual Life Committee, will have charge of the devotional service.

"Preparation for Holy Communion" will be the title of the Rev. Ray Morton Hardy's meditation.

All women are invited to the breakfast, and a baby sitter will be provided for the children in a downstairs room of the church.

Witches Fly at Easter Swedish Visitor Relates

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Pretty Margareta Englund of Karlshoga, Sweden (where smorgasbords predominate) thinks that American food—especially in the Milford area—is "just wonderful."

Sponsored by the American Field Service, Margareta is visiting the Dennis Soja family at 671 Sweetbriar Dr. and is a high school senior here.

She is the daughter of an electrical engineer at the Nobel Institute in Karlshoga.

ENJOYS ICE SKATING

Although she likes to ski (everyone skis in Sweden), Margareta prefers ice skating to any other sport. And, while progressive jazz seems to be sweeping the country over there, the pert visitor says she prefers good classical music.

With Easter just around the corner, Margareta is looking forward to the event which is celebrated very differently in the United States, according to stories she has heard.

Swedish homes are decorated four weeks before Easter, Margareta explained. Branches from bare trees are covered with brightly dyed chicken feathers and tiny stuffed chickens, and the children have dolls dressed as witches.

WITCHES ON EASTER

"Your Halloween activities are more like our Easter celebration," she said, and added that the observance of Easter begins on Thursday. Small children dress up like witches in the evening, and "ride" brooms up to residents' doors begging for goodies.

On Good Friday, everything closes shop. There are no theaters, grocery stores, garages or any type of business place open, and most of the day is spent in quiet meditation.

However, everything breaks loose on Saturday, Margareta said. This is the time when families get together for a day of dancing and feasting, and from early morn until late at night, tables are heaped with smorgasbord food.

Sunday is another family get-together day. "Actually, you really have to rest up on Sunday from Saturday," Margareta said. If the weather is nice, picnics are arranged after a two-hour long church service.

SCHOOL PROGRAM DIFFERS

Schools look just about the same in Sweden as they do in America, Margareta said, but the similarity ends there. Pupils in Sweden are not permitted to choose their individual subjects. They are required to learn a variety of 13 designated courses during their 12 years in school.

"This is good," she said. "By the time you're 16 you begin to have an idea of what you are going to do—and with a variety of educational background, it's not too hard to branch into any field."

When Margareta began to think about her future career, she decided to become a lawyer. Now she's not so sure because— "It will take seven more years to finish this type of education."

★ ★ ★

The young lady—just turned 16—now is eyeing a position as airline hostess, and if appearance and intelligence are leading prerequisites, Margareta will have absolutely no trouble assuring airborne passengers a pleasant voyage.

Farm Program Threatening Nation's Solvency--Benson

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson said today that the present Federal Farm Program is a "costly, irrational, hodge-podge" which is threatening the farm economy and the solvency of the entire nation.

Benson demanded again in a speech prepared for delivery to a Farm and Home Week meeting at Cornell University that Congress act quickly on his request for authority to reduce price support floors and loosen production controls.

★ ★ ★

Critics of administration farm policy, Benson added, can't agree on a "constructive" solution to the problem of surplus farm production.

The only general agreement among his opponents, Benson said, is this: "Let's saddle Benson with all of the ills of agriculture, and especially with the cost of the mess we helped to make for him."

Benson said the cost of present farm programs is "indefensible." He pointed out the federal investment in price-supported farm commodities will probably top 10 billion dollars by July 1, 1960.

This mounting cost and the growing farm surplus pile, he said, is "the result of 25 years of political attempts to solve economic problems, seemingly with an assiduous determination to pretend that economics do not exist."

Benson added that to act "as though there is no limit to what the Treasury can spend is an open road to the destruction of private enterprise and its replacement by a socialist economy."

To Tackle Problems of Dairy Farming

Feeding and management problems in dairy farming will be tackled at a meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday, it was announced today by Jay Poffenberger, Oakland County extension agent.

The meeting will be held in the Board of Education Building at the County Service Center, 1025 N. Telegraph Rd., Pontiac.

Don Hillman of the Michigan State University Dairy Department will discuss individual problems with county dairymen.

Rochester Council Picks Head

ROCHESTER—Clarence M. Burr is the new president of the Village of Rochester.

Burr was elected last night during the annual meeting of the village council. He succeeds Sidney Q. Ennis.

President Pro Tem is John Boeberitz, newly elected council member.

Paul A. York was reappointed village manager; Roscoe Martin, attorney; and Maxine Ross, clerk.

Other appointments were Grace Crissman, assessor; York, treasurer; George J. Ross Sr., fire chief; and Sam Howlett, police chief. All were incumbents.

★ ★ ★

Continuing as superintendent of Public Works is Edwin Kage; as superintendent of Sewage Treatment, Glen Breakie; and as health officer, John D. Monroe of Pontiac

Building and Utility superintendent is Thomas Turkette; superintendent of water supply, R. B. Stark; superintendent of central garage, Ramon Zollner; commissioner of noxious weeds, George Ross and electrical inspector, Lee F. Wilcox.

The contract for the new water mains was awarded to J. Mancinelli Excavating Co. of Dearborn. The bid was $86,858.

The water tower contract was given to the Chicago Bridge and Iron Co. whose low bid was $165,400.

★ ★ ★

The electrical contract for work on wells and tank was awarded to Call-Ferguson Electric Co. of Birmingham in the amount of $2,340.

Pumps at the water works will be installed by the Dunbar Dully Co. of Swanton, Ohio at a cost of $4,399.

★ ★ ★

All contracts were awarded contingent on the forthcoming sale of the water program bonds.

White Brothers Co., which is developing the Mill Pond property, presented a proposal to put up $3,000 in escrow to cover cost of a bridge to span Paint Creek.

The council, pending approval by the village attorney, will then authorize the village engineer to proceed with the design for the bridge.

Boeberitz was named chairman of the Michigan Week program to take place early in May.

Avondale High PTSA to Host Foreign Group

AVON TOWNSHIP — A potluck supper will open the March meeting of the Avondale High School Parent-Teacher-Student Assn. at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the school cafeteria.

★ ★ ★

First order of business will be election of officers. Committee reports also will be given.

Mrs. Dean Wickham, regional director of the American Field Service, will be present with students from several foreign countries. The exchange students will participate in the program.

Rolls, butter and beverage will be furnished by the PTSA, and each person attending is requested to bring his own table service.

CHURCH STRUCTURE RISES — With a target completion date of Aug. 1, workmen are busy erecting the walls of the new St. Paul Methodist Church in Rochester. The new church, being built on a hillside on Romeo road at the east end of town will be the first unit in a projected two-unit building program spanning four years.

Lawmakers Get Williams' Seal of Quality Bill

LANSING (AP)—For the 10th time in 10 years, Gov. Williams' "seal of quality" bill came into the legislature today.

Prospects appeared brighter than in past years for the bill to win legislative approval. Several farm organizations have endorsed it.

Long championed by the Governor, it would authorize the State Agriculture Commission to authorize labeling of Michigan's top agriculture products with a "seal of quality." The commission would set the standards for qualification.

The measure was designed to boost sale of Michigan-grown products in other states and countries.

Expressway Work Halted as Homeowners File Suit

TROY — Three Troy city commissioners have been accused of voting for a route of the proposed Walter P. Chrysler expressway through the city which would best benefit real estate interests they allegedly hold.

The Troy Meadows Home Owners' Assn. filed suit in Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday seeking a restraining order against the selected route now being built.

★ ★ ★

Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland issued a temporary restraining order and ordered the defendants — the City of Troy and State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie — to appear April 13 to show cause why a permanent injunction should not be granted.

The property owners association charges in the suit that Commissioners Roy L. Duncan, Louis Yanich and Clifford Sutermeister Jr. have property near two alternate routes of the expressway, of which the city was to choose one.

The suit alleges further that on Jan. 14 the three, along with Mayor Frank Costello, voted for a so-called "southern route." According to a city charter provision, the suit goes on to say, Duncan, Yanich and Sutermeister should not have voted on the issue as they "possessed a personal and financial interest in the establishment of one expressway or the other."

Further, the suit says, no notice was given to property owners of the vote by the City Commission.

Acceptance of the southern route, which runs in a north-northwesterly direction from the southern city limits to 1,300 feet south of Square Lake road, will cost $1,000,000 more to build than if a northern route was selected, C.H. Wright, association president, contended in the suit.

He said Duncan would be able to sell his two business lots and 16½ residential lots to the highway department if the southern route is constructed.

This same route would boost the market value of Yanich's four parcels of 12 acres, while Sutermeister's 54-acre tract east of Livernois road would have decreased in market value had the northern route been selected.

Plans for Summer Recreation Service in Works, Says Director

AVON TOWNSHIP — Plans are being initiated now for the 1959 summer program to be offered by the Avon Youth Service and Recreation Assn., Robert Jereau, recreational director, announced today.

Currently the association is supervising basketball at Rochester Junior High School and at Avondale High School under the direction of Richard Bye.

Games are held mostly in the afternoon, during the early evening and on Saturdays.

Applications are now available for those who wish to work in the summer program. Those who want jobs are asked to call H. P. Kjolhede at OL 1-0596 for an application blank.

Newly-elected officers of the association are Daniel K. McCabe, president; Mrs. Lance Nutter, vice president; Kjolhede, program chairman; Jereau, recreational director; and Mrs. Fred C. Phillips, treasurer.

Others are Clifford W. Serre, financial chairman; Mrs. Henry S. Bright, membership; James Graham, administrative director; Mrs. David Freeborn, secretary; and Mrs. William Heichel, publicity chairman.

New Corn Hybrid Ready This Season

EAST LANSING (AP)—Crop scientists at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station have developed a new corn hybrid which will be available for farmers to plant this coming season.

Elmer Rossman, corn breeder at the station, says the hybrid is rated about 90 days relative maturity.

Rossman reports the hybrid, known as Michigan 300, has the best yield record of competitive hybrids of the same maturity date.

It is recommended for general use in North Central Michigan and in the south central part of the state for farmers who want an early variety or who plant late.

State's Future Farmers Convene in East Lansing

EAST LANSING (AP)—Some 2,000 rural schoolboys are expected to gather on the Michigan State University campus tomorrow for the two-day convention of the Future Farmers of America.

The youths will compete for honors in farm demonstrations, parliamentary procedure, public speaking and farm forum contests. All participants are winners of contests in the eight FFA regions in the state.

Couple Resides in Berkley After Drayton Wedding

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Making their new home together at 3451 Royal St., Berkley, are Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Giordano who were married Saturday.

★ ★ ★

The bride, the former Judith Rae Miller, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angus M. Miller III of 3139 Whitfield Dr. Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Giordano of 3782 Bacon St., Berkley, are the bridegroom's parents.

A floor-length gown of white organdy with embroidered lover's knots and an overskirt of tiered nylon tulle was worn by the bride. A coronet of seed pearls held a waist-length veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations.

Mrs. William Jackson of Oxford, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor and Domenico Giordano of Berkley, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Judith Ann Jackson of Oxford, the bride's niece, was flower girl.

★ ★ ★

The ceremony was held at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Drayton Plains, and the Rev. Waldo R. Hunt officiated.

A wedding dinner at the Villa in Lake Orion followed the ceremony.

Lindemer Raps Williams for Abandoning Michigan

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan's Republican State Chairman, Lawrence B. Lindemer, has accused Gov. G. Mennen Williams of abandoning the state in an hour of financial emergency to pursue the Democratic presidential nomination.

The GOP state chairman spoke last night to a model state convention held by the Republican committee in suburban Nankin Township.

"During the period of time in which the members of the legislature were attempting to find solutions for the fiscal problems confronting us all," Lindemer said, "The Governor chose to be absent from the state on trips designed to further his personal political ambitions."

Trouble Piles Up for Girl Who Loses Control of Car

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — It was bad enough for Annie Sisneras, 16, when she lost control of her auto and drove into three parked cars.

Then she learned the parked cars are owned by Sheriff John Krutka and two of his deputies.

Miss Sisneras was charged with careless driving.

All County Basketball Team 1958-59

Spotlighting the Stars

Meet the stars who comprise the 1959 Pontiac Press All-Oakland County basketball team, the fourth annual honor squad selected by coaches and writers throughout the county.

Today's honor roll consists of the six top Oakland prep cagers and the winner of the County-Coach-of-the-Year award.

The sixth position on the all-star team is reserved for Pontiac Central's Charley Barge, the flashy little guard who was a mid-year graduate.

Barge was a key figure in Pontiac's flying start as the Chiefs shot their way to the Saginaw Valley Conference title. He was named by almost every Oakland high school coach and wins an honorary spot on the squad.

Now it's time to officially introduce the All-County basketball team and the Coach-of-the-Year.

JOHN BANDY, Pontiac Central . . . 6-3 . . . senior . . . 17 . . . Bandy, along with Barge, was named on more ballots than any other player . . . a tremendous jump-shot artist and very adept at driving in for layups . . . scored 262 points in 14 games for an 18.7 average . . . Central's 3rd best rebounder.

DAVE BURRIS, Berkley . . . 6-4 . . . senior . . . 17 . . . definitely the kingpin of the Bears' march to a 15-1 season and their 4th straight Inter-Lakes title . . . a great rebounder who cleared the backboards better than 300 times during the campaign . . . also tallied 280 points for an average of 17.5 per game.

GEORGE McDANIEL, Holly . . . 6-6 . . . senior . . . 17 . . . the "big" man in Holly's march to a 14-2 year . . . won the Oakland County scoring championship with a 16-game total of 391 points for a 25 average . . . a strong rebounder.

HARRISON MUNSON, Pontiac Central . . . 6-2 . . . senior . . . 17 . . . maintained an 11-point scoring average and, what's more important, set a new season rebounding record at PCH with 277 grabs for an average of 18 per contest . . . an all-A student who plans to attend Yale University on a scholarship.

JOHN MEADOWS, Royal Oak Dondero . . . 6-5 . . . junior . . . 16 . . . the only underclassman on the all-star unit . . . also named to the 1958 Pontiac Press All-County football squad at end . . . a rangy, tough competitor on the boards who hauled down 278 rebounds . . . fired 253 points for an average of 18 per contest . . . good outside shot.

CHARLEY BARGE, Pontiac Central . . . 5-8 . . . senior . . . 17 . . . the "little" man among giants on the honor team . . . quick as a cat on the court . . . clever dribbler and play-maker and the club's floor general in the seven games he played before his mid-year graduation . . . scored 156 points for a 22.3 average.

ART VAN RYZIN, Pontiac Central . . . Oakland County's Coach-of-the-Year . . . the personable PCH mentor wins this award for the 2nd time in three years after guiding the Chiefs to their 2nd Saginaw Valley crown in the same span of time . . . except for a one-point overtime loss to Flint Central, Van Ryzin and his quintet swept the field in a 15-game schedule . . . won the honor by a large majority with Leroy Decker of Holly and Berkley's Eldon Rouse following at the polls in that order.

Munson Named to 2nd Team

Bandy, Barge on SVC Five

Pontiac Central, Saginaw Valley basketball champions, placed two players on the first team and one on the second unit of the 1958-59 all-conference squad selected by SVC coaches and writers and released for publication today.

John Bandy, the only unanimous choice, and Charley Barge, a mid-year graduate, represent the Chiefs on the top honor five. Pontiac's Harrison Munson was named to the second team while teammates Bill Hayward and Phil Rabaja received honorable mention.

Joining Bandy and Barge on the all-star quintet are John Gillian of Flint Northern, Dale Lucas of Flint Central and Bob Bishop of Bay City.

Bandy, who won the Valley scoring title while leading the Chiefs to the conference crown, drew a first-team vote on all 10 ballots for a perfect 30 points.

Gillian and Bishop each polled eight first-team votes and two seconds for 26 points while Lucas pulled 24 on eight firsts alone. Barge received 20 points on six firsts and two seconds.

Tigers Wallop Kid Hurler in 15-5 Romp

Score 12 Times in Five Innings on Cincy Leffy

Victory 4th Straight Over NL Contender; Kuenn Hitting .405

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — It's getting pretty hard for those high-powered National Leaguers to believe they're playing the Detroit Tigers.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers are treating the senior circuit's elite with a gruffness they'd only expect from the New York Yankees. And the National League strong boys are falling to the Tigers by lopsided scores — just as if the Yankees were doing the hitting.

Detroit bombarded the pennant-hopeful Cincinnati Reds 15-5 yesterday. The Tigers sprayed the Henley Field landscape with 19 hits in a Yankee-type assault.

For the Tigers, it was the fourth straight exhibition victory over a National League contender. They beat the champion Milwaukee Braves 10-4 Sunday and defeated them Saturday, too. The Pittsburgh Pirates, who were runners-up to the Braves, were the Tigers' victim Friday.

★ ★ ★

Of course, there was no Bob Turley among those pitchers the Tigers have been facing. But they were impotent against similar pitching last spring too when they faltered through Florida.

Claude Osteen, Cincinnati's 19-year-old left-hander, was the Tigers' favorite whipping boy yesterday. The kid hurled five innings and was battered for 14 hits and 12 runs.

Harvey Kuenn, who has responded to talk the Tigers might trade him, continued his hitting spree with two singles and a double. The center fielder drove in four runs as did Frank Bolling. Bolling and Rocky Bridges each had three hits and Al Kaline four, one a triple.

Kuenn vaulted his spring training batting average to .405.

The Tigers clobbered Osteen for six runs in the first inning. Osteen walked two and permitted five straight hits before he retired a batter. He allowed four more runs in the fourth and two in the fifth before Bob Mabe relieved him.

Don Mossi, the left-hander acquired in the Billy Martin trade with Cleveland, made his Tiger debut. He had been troubled with a sore forearm. Mossi gave up two Cincinnati runs and three hits in the two innings he worked.

★ ★ ★

George Susce went the next four innings and allowed five hits and three runs. Tom Morgan mopped up by pitching three-hit, shutout ball over the last three innings.

Frank Thomas socked two homers in defeat.

Match Play Starts in Seniors Tourney

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Match play began today in the American Seniors Golf Assn. tournament. Thirty-one linksmen in the championship flight seek the title won in 1958 by Ed Randall of Rochester, N.Y.

★ ★ ★

Randall was qualified automatically for defense of his crown but the others had to shoot 80 or better to make the top flight. Four entrants who wound up with 81s on the 18-hole qualifying test had to go into a playoff for one championship berth.

★ ★ ★

Tricky winds over the Ponce De Leon course yesterday caused scores of the second group of qualifiers to climb and the one over par 72 which Walcott Brown of Sea Girt, N.J., shot Sunday gave him medalist honors for the second straight year.

Tom Sturdivant is out to prove he's the "solid pitching insurance" Casy Stengel claims the New York Yankees need to win another American League flag.

A 16-game winner in both 1956 and 1957, Sturdivant suffered through a 3-6 campaign in 1958 and has frequently been mentioned as trade bait in the Yankees' attempts to swing a deal for a pitcher. But it's just possible the Yankees will have to look no further than their own clubhouse for the man they want.

Sturdivant made a big bid in that direction yesterday when he hurled five brilliant innings in the Yankees' 5-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles, whose six-game winning streak had established them as one of the hottest teams on the Grapefruit circuit. The Orioles managed only two hits off Sturdivant and both of them were "scratchy."

Elston Howard hit his second homer of the spring and Mickey Mantle weighed in with a run-scoring single as the Yankees evened their spring record at 7-7. Virgil Trucks, Ryne Duren and Jim Bronstad completed the shutout with a nifty combined six-hit performance.

★ ★ ★

The Yankees had some anxious moments in the eighth inning when Duren was forced to leave the game after stopping a line drive with his bare hand. Trainer Gus Mauch said he did not believe there were any bones broken and no X-rays were planned.

The Detroit Tigers crushed the Cincinnati Reds, 15-5, the Philadelphia Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 9-5 the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Milwaukee Braves, 10-6, and the Chicago White Sox beat the Kansas City Athletics, 8-3, in Monday's only other exhibition games.

The Phillies rocked 42-year-old Sal Maglie in a seven-run eighth inning rally featured by Dave Philley's grand-slam homer, Ed Keegan, a 19-year-old rookie who was 13-9 at Williamsport last season, held the Cardinals to one run and three hits for the first five innings.

Don Demeter and John Roseboro homered for the Dodgers who raised their spring record to 8-3 and handed the Braves their fifth straight loss and their eighth in their last nine games. Wes Covington had five hits and Ed Mathews had four for the Braves but pitchers Lew Burdette and Bob Rush were hit freely by the Dodgers.

Sam Esposito drove in four runs with three hits and Al Smith struck a key triple as the White Sox squared their record at 5-5. The White Sox got off to a 2-0 first-inning lead against Walt Craddock and added three more runs in the second. The Athletics have lost eight of 13 games, poorest record by an American League team.

Program at Birmingham

Prep Track Clinic Tonight

A coaches meeting and track clinic will be held tonight at Birmingham High School with 13 prep coaches participating.

Consisting of lectures and demonstrations, the clinic will start at 7:30 p.m., and area coaches are urged to bring only a limited number of their trackmen.

The following program has been arranged for the clinic: Weight training by Bruce Waha, Detroit Redford; High Jumping by Dean Wilson and Ray Lowry of Pontiac Central; Hurdles by Norb Badar and Gene Freed, Flint Northern and Farmington; Pole Vault by Mike Bowerman, Redford Union and Kermit Ambrose, Birmingham; Shot Put by Bruce Waha of Detroit Redford; Distance running and Baton Exchanges by Varnard Gay of Flint Central; Distance running (mile) by Don Dzina of Lincoln Park; Sprints and Starts by Irv Petross of Detroit Chadsey; Starting Races by Dick Ernst of Birmingham and the Broad Jump by Lorenzo Wright of Detroit Eastern.

Faragallis Fails in Title Defense

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Al Faragalli joined the gallery of unsuccessful title defenders when he rolled an 1,872 all-events total yesterday in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

The Paramus, N.J., star who triumphed in the nine-game category last year at Syracuse, N.Y., faced the near-impossible chore of besting the 2,116 total assembled by Detroit's Ed Lubanski on Feb. 25. Lou Campi, an inseparable tenpin companion of Faragalli, tallied an unspectacular 1,829 for the route.

The pair won the national doubles championship of the Bowling Proprietors Assn. in 1957, but mustered only 1,171 in the ABC's two-man event.

Despite the presence of some of the nation's better bowlers, there was no change in the top ten standings of any category of the tournament.

3 Boys' Club Boxing Stars in A.A.U. Meet

Three members of the Pontiac Boys' Club boxing team will compete in the Michigan A. A. U. ring championships at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Dearborn tonight starting at 7.

Light heavyweight Dave Blower, classy welterweight Dick Compton and Jim Singleton, a light or welterweight, will be the boys representing this area.

Blower, a power-hiter, was the 1957 state Golden Gloves champion and national runnerup. He won regional honors this year. Compton lost a close verdict in the regional finals here and was named the outstanding sportsman. Singleton was also a Gloves runnerup.

Bob Yahnke to Join 'B' Club

Ex-Clarkston High Star Signs Tiger Contract

Bob Yahnke, a former three-sport star at Clarkston High School was among five young pitchers signed to Minor League contracts by the Detroit Tigers yesterday.

Yahnke and Dick Ryan of Defiance College in Ohio have been assigned to Detroit's Class B farm club at Durham, N. C.

A 6-1, 170-pounder in high school, Yahnke sparked the Wolves to one of their best diamond seasons as a senior in 1955 with some outstanding hurling. The righthander's top feat was fanning 17 batters in a game.

Yahnke played on the diamond team as a junior but did not pitch. Athletic director Ed Hintz told The Press today that Yahnke became a hurler only because the team ran out of chuckers in '55 due to graduation and an auto accident which crippled the best prospect.

★ ★ ★

"Gus Birtsas, who was head coach then, and I sat down one night to decide on who was the biggest and strongest guy we had. We picked Yahnke. I worked with him for a week in the gym before we went outside," said Hintz.

Considered an outstanding competitor, Yahnke led the Wolves to the Wayne-Oakland League football crown in 1954. He is rated as the best grid passer at the school in recent years as well as being probably the top pole vaulter ever at CHS.

Yahnke moved on to Central Michigan after high school but then quit to enter the service where he continued to improve as a pitcher.

★ ★ ★

Horace Smallwood, a Duke graduate from Washington, will also report to Durham. Jim Hornibrook of Little Rock, Ark., was assigned to Knoxville, Tenn., in the Sally loop and Puerto Rican Jose Mejias will join the Class D club at Erie, Pa. The latter three are southpaws.

$500,000 for Pan-Am

Deserving Holly Cagers Paraded Through Town

By CHUCK ABAIR

Holly had to be content with 2nd place in Class B in the state tournament finals but the Broncos are finding out they are champions in the hearts of their home folks.

Returning home Sunday, the cage squad was met by Fenton police and given a special escort with sirens blaring away. A 75-vehicle caravan including fire trucks and more police cars met the team bus at the entrance to Holly Village.

The players were hoisted on to a fire truck and the coaches were transferred to a police car to be paraded throughout the town as hundreds of well-wishers lined the streets to cheer their heroes.

"There were more people downtown than there were V-J day," said happy superintendent George Coggins Sr., who had two boys on the varsity. "It was great," commented thrilled 1st year coach LeRoy Decker.

★ ★ ★

The parade won't end the festivities for these deserving youngsters who finished with a 21-3 record.

A Holly grocery store will stage a steak dinner for the team Wednesday night while the village's Board of Commerce and friends are making arrangements to take the squad to the Tigers' opening day game at Briggs Stadium April 10 with a dinner included.

Many more festivities are expected for the Broncos during the next few weeks to honor a remarkable showing in both regular season and tournament play.

★ ★ ★

The Oakland County school's performance against River Rouge certainly capped a terrific tourney showing and just missed being the 4th successive upset with the chips down.

Rouge coach Lofton Greene called an "off" day for his team the reason for the close contest. But Holly's strong defensive work, which completely halted the favorites' famed fast-break, may have had a lot to do with it. There was also the fact that the Deckermen refused to be bothered by the champs' excellent tight press. Holly might have forced that "off" day.

Champions or runnersup, such names as George McDaniel, Ron Morlan, Darrell Kinney, George Coggins, Glen Gromett, Al Moody and all the rest will live long in Holly and area history for a great season. Morlan, a deadly jump shooter, will be the only starter back when next year rolls around.

"Hold your heads up, boys," Decker had told his tearful charges following the final and they certainly had every right to. Today, looking back, he described the Bronco cagers as "gentlemen from the word go." He added: "I have the highest respect for them."

★ ★ ★

The little former Central Michigan star from Elsie will never forget his first year as head coach at Holly no matter what heights he reaches in years to come.

NHL Stanley Cup Semis Begin Tonight

Montreal Faces Hawks, Toronto Tackles Bruins

Canadiens Top-Heavy Choice in Best-of-7 Semifinal Series

By The Associated Press

Montreal's high-flying Canadiens tangle with the Chicago Black Hawks in the Forum at Montreal and the Toronto Maple Leafs face off against the Boston Bruins at Boston Garden in tonight's opening games of the National Hockey League's best-of-seven Stanley Cup semifinal playoffs.

The fearsome Canadiens ruled top-heavy favorites to sail through their semifinal series, but if the Black Hawks are worried, they're not showing it.

Hawk coach Rudy Pilous said his operatives have no illusions that they're going to have an easy time of it.

"The Canadiens aren't cocky," he observed. "They are a great championship club. But they could be just a trifle overconfident and if we get a bit lucky, you can't tell what might happen.

The Canadiens went about the task of preparing for the playoffs in their usual business-like fashion. This is old stuff to them. They have won the coveted cup the past three years and if they take it again this time, they will set a record. Toronto is the only other club to win it three years in a row.

Coach Toe Blake expects ace goalie Jacques Plante, who missed the last three games of the regular season, to be ready to take his place in the nets.

He also said he thought Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion might be ready. Boom Boom is recuperating from a strained stomach muscle.

Toronto's Cinderella Maple Leafs and Boston's battling Bruins represent hockey's hottest clubs plus a couple of "old men" in the goals.

The Maple Leafs won five straight in eight days to pull from far back and edge into the National Hockey League's fourth playoff spot. The Bruins won six of their last seven to secure second place.

A pair of forgotten men—Johnny Bower of Toronto and Harry Lumley of Boston—were key performers in their clubs' drive into the playoffs for pro hockey's world championship.

Boston and Toronto have not met in the playoffs since 1951. The Leafs have mastered the Boston entry in post-season competition, winning six series and losing two. One series ended in a tie when competition was scored on total goals.

Middlecoff Putts to St. Pete Title

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — If history repeats, Cary Middlecoff will win the Master's tournament this year.

In 1955 the gangling golf jitterbug won the St. Petersburg Open and then went on to win at Augusta.

Yesterday he completed half of that parlay by again winning the St. Petersburg Open, and doing it in a manner to convince any doubters that a six-month layoff from tournament competition had improved his game, if anything.

He was as fidgety as ever, but when he settled down to stroke a putt there was no fooling about it. He sank the ball from all parts of the greens in compiling rounds of 70, 69, 67 and 69 for a 13-under-par total of 275, three strokes better than the second-place finisher, Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla.

Middlecoff underwent a hernia operation last September, and now feels no qualms when he winds up to hit the ball. Before, he admits, he was a little apprehensive that he might hurt himself.

The towering guy outlasted several rivals in the bid for the $2,000 first money in the $15,000 event. He never led until the final day.

The first day he trailed George Bayer of Glen Eagles, Ill.; Tom Mahan Jr. of Danvers, Mass., and Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., by four strokes with his two-under-par 70.

★ ★ ★

At the half way point he still was four strokes back of Bayer, who was leading with 135, and after three rounds he trailed Bob Goalby of Bellesville, Ill., the new leader, by a stroke.

He caught up with Goalby on the first hole of the final round, and thereafter crept slowly ahead. Goalby faded to a 75 and a third-place finish at 280; Cooper, only a stroke behind Middlecoff at the start of the final 18, carded a 71 and finished in second place at 278.

Northern Boy Wins State Prep Crown

Lackey A.A.U. Mat King

Pontiac Northern's 154-pound star Maurice Lackey was among 12 high school champions honored Saturday night following a big weekend of wrestling in the annual Michigan A.A.U. tournament at the PNH Gym.

★ ★ ★

"Butch" Harris, 138, of Royal Oak Kimball and 175-pound Dan Ressler of Farmington also took titles as 111 competed in the prep division. Another 30 took part in the "open" class.

Several other Oakland County boys finished among the top four in their weight. They included Jerry Smith of Pontiac Central, Huskies Bruce Hynes and Jerry Fields, Dave Butler, Southfield, and Farmington teammates Jerry Cassell and Frank DePodesta.

The Hazel Park Athletic Club won team honors in "open" action paced by 136.5 victor Bill Riddle. Ex-Michigan great Mike Rodriguez wrestled for Hazel Park and had to settle for a 2nd place bowing to one of the several Canadien standouts in the meet. Ken Maidlow and Jim Ferguson of MSU were among the champs.

★ ★ ★

Little 95-pounder Jim Ball of Williamston was declared the outstanding prep with four triumphs.

Northern's Lackey had Bob Arvin of Ypsilanti on his back three times in the finals in a 3-0 victory.

★ ★ ★

Over 700 fans witnessed the 231 matches held during the two-day session.

Lakers Accused of 'Roughhouse'

NBA Play Resumes Tonight

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The action returns to the court tonight in the Western Division playoffs of the National Basketball Assn., after an idle day in which the St. Louis Hawks accused the Minneapolis Lakers of specializing in roughhouse.

Yesterday, Hawk owner Ben Kerner and coach Ed Macauley claimed that star backliner Slater (Dugie) Martin was deliberately tripped and elbowed in the first game of the playoffs Saturday by Ed Fleming of the Lakers.

In that game, Martin suffered a dislocated bone in his right leg and will be out for the rest of the series, possibly the final playoffs. The Hawks deeply felt his loss in dropping Sunday's game to the Lakers which evened up the series 1-1.

The Sunday game was marked by a brawl between Bob Pettit and Jim Krebs.

Kerner claimed that Sunday the Lakers were "throwing football blocks against us."

Macauley said he heard bench riders of the Laker squad shouting "Hit him (Pettit) again. It's money in the bank for us."

Kerner has movies of the Saturday game which he claimed proved that Fleming deliberately sent Martin tumbling to the floor. Macauley said it looked like that at him too.

Coach Johnny Kundla of the Lakers said the Hawks were "talking out of their hats," in the accusations.

He said, "The pressure must be going to their heads. All this howling proves that St. Louis is worried about losing the playoffs.

"I have never told my men to go out and rough up another player in all the years I've been in this league. What happened to Slater Martin Saturday was unintentional, I assure you . . . he's one of the finest guys I know and Ed Fleming would never hurt a guy deliberately."

★ ★ ★

There is action in the somewhat quieter Eastern Division of the NBA tomorrow night. Boston, leading the Syracuse Nationals 2-1 in the playoffs, meets the Nats at Syracuse.

But with the charges and denials flying back and forth in the Western Division, fans are looking for a red hot match in St. Louis tonight.

T&C, Buick 5's Meet Wednesday for Title

Towne & Country forced the City League Class C basketball playoffs to the double-elimination limit with a 49-32 victory over Oliver Buick last night at Pontiac Central. T&C grabbed a 26-13 halftime lead and never was headed.

Roger Reynolds fired 17 points and Harry Sugden and Earl Mudge each hit 11 to pace the T&C victory. Paul Emerson collected 11 points for the Buick quintet.

Both teams now have one loss in the "C" tournament. They will meet Wednesday night at 7 o'clock in the PCH gym for the Class C city crown. The T&C cagers won the regular season race.

Ill Schoendienst Hopes to Rejoin Braves in 1960

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Red Schoendienst, sparkplug of the Milwaukee Braves, left a tuberculosis hospital today, hopeful of regaining his second base position with the Braves in 1960.

Although happy about his discharge after a four-month stay in the hospital, Schoendienst refused to predict or even hazard a guess as to the date he would return to the Braves.

He was resigned to a season at home or possibly on the bench later in the year, but next year was a different matter.

"I'll be out there next year for spring training," Schoendienst said. "But I won't be doing much this year."

Moore NHL Scoring Champ

Howe Fourth; Goalie Plante Gains Vezina Trophy

MONTREAL (AP) —Montreal's Dickie Moore is the 1958-59 National Hockey League scoring champion, according to final league statistics released today.

★ ★ ★

And teammate Jacques Plante won his fourth Vezina Trophy for being the least scored upon goalie. Both honors carry a $1,000 stipend from the league.

★ ★ ★

Moore, whose late season spurt carried him from a six-player scramble, finished with 96 points, on 41 goals and 55 assists. This was a new NHL record, bettering by one Gordie Howe's 1952-53 mark. Moore was last year's scoring champ, too.

★ ★ ★

Plante, who sat out the last three games with a neck infection, had his worst season statistically of the four he won goalie honors. He had a 2.15 goals-against average but led the league in shutouts with nine, tieing his production of the last two seasons.

Resists Red Chinese Conquerors

Dalai Lama Son of Poor Peasants

By United Press International

The Dalai Lama is revered by Tibet's nearly three million people as a living Buddha, the 14th reincarnation of the god Chenrezi.

He is Chinese-born, the son of a poverty-ridden peasant named Chog Chu Tsering, and to the people of the Himalayan theocracy he is the greatest man alive.

He was born in a squalid shack in China's Tsinghai Province Dec. 17, 1933, supposedly at the exact moment his predecessor died in the mountain-top city of Lhasa.

His parents named him Kundun and for four years he lived the life of a peasant boy while the Tibetan priests and chieftains followed the signs and portents of the Lammist Buddhism which led to his home.

★ ★ ★

They told his startled parents that he was the new embodiment of the former Dalai Lama's spirit. Then they put him to the test.

They placed before the child a number of articles belonging to the late Grand Lama. The colorful objects were mixed with other items not belonging to the late Lama.

The boy reached for a cane and two necklaces that were genuine and an examination revealed he had three of the five physical signs associated with the incarnated divinity.

The boy was immediately proclaimed the true "presence" and he and his family taken to Lhasa, where the Dalai Lama began his training, with the wisest priests in the land tutoring the boy in the Buddhist religion.

A new world opened for the solemn-faced youngster when he was 10 years old. Austrian mountain climber Heinrich Harrer wandered into Lhasa and the boy asked to see him.

Then, showing the first sign of independence, he demanded that Harrer be included among his tutors. Harrer taught the Dalai Lama Western languages and culture, extending his outlook far beyond the cloistered barriers of the cold and forbidding Himalaya Mountains.

Despite his loneliness and the fact that he was allowed to see his mother only at brief intervals, the Dalai Lama grew up with a cheerful, outgoing personality. He loves to tell jokes and is a great story teller.

His favorite hobby is photography. He loves to take pictures and to run them on his own projector.

The young Buddhist leader grew up, however, into a world without cheer. He reached maturity only in time to face the Red menace from China, to see his tribes die in battle and finally to flee the Communist occupiers of his mountain nation.

★ ★ ★

He fled to India to seek aid in the Western world, but finding no nation willing to fight for Tibet, he returned to Lhasa in 1951 to make his peace with the Communists.

But even peace and co-existence did not mean complete subjugation to the Chinese. He has consistently refused to fly the Red flag over his Potala Palace and he has retained the spiritual and political leadership of his mountain people.

Annual Pre-Easter Event Planned for Holy Land

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Jerusalem and its surrounding countryside are normally at their prettiest at this season when pilgrims begin arriving for the ceremonies of Holy Week, starting with Palm Sunday which falls this year on March 22.

The event which starts the celebrations falls on Palm Sunday, when a high pontifical mass is celebrated by the Latin patriarch Msgr. Alberto Gori, and the plessing, distribution and procession of palms takes place in Christianity's most reverend church, the Holy Sepulchre.

This church was built by Byzantine Emperor Constantine around Christ's tomb and is now the property of several Christian denominations. The church is currently undergoing repairs but its interior is rich with old and priceless gifts.

In the afternoon of Palm Sunday, a religious procession starts from Bethphage, two miles outside Jerusalem, and wends its way past the Mount of Olives, Gethsemane and into St. Anne's Convent within the city walls, following the route Jesus took on his journey to Jerusalem.

The days following Palm Sunday are spent making pilgrimages that are linked to Christ's last week. The pilgrimages take place mainly on the Via Dolorossa or the Way of the Cross, composed of 14 stations at which Jesus stopped during the suffering He endured while carrying the cross from the Temple at Jerusalem to the Holy Tomb.

★ ★ ★

On Wednesday, March 25 this year, a morning pilgrimage starts to Gethsemane, a hundred feet below the walls on the road leading to Jericho and Bethlehem. In the afternoon, matins are sung in the Holy Sepulchre.

Maundy Thursday is filled with major events. In the early afternoon, pilgrims flock into Holy Sepulchre to attend the feet-washing ceremony held in the interior courtyard of the basilica, in front of the Holy Tomb. Here, Msgr. Gori washes the feet of 12 priests.

At night, thousands of pilgrims flock to the Gethsemane Basilica for an hour spent remembering Christ's agony. The beautiful modern basilica overflows with pilgrims. Some stay in the beautiful garden, filled with ancient olive trees and lovely flowers then in full blossom.

As the pilgrims return after 9 p.m., they start preparing for Good Friday's early-morning events, which start in the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre with a service on Calvary, the hill near Jerusalem where Christ was crucified.

At 11 a.m. on Good Friday, the biggest event of Easter Week begins as thousands of pilgrims from all over the world retrace Christ's steps as He carried the cross from the northeastern part of the walled city through the 14 stations leading to the Holy Tomb in the Holy Sepulchre.

The pilgrims form themselves into language sections, each of which has a huge cross. At every station, the procession halts for a short prayer. As it reaches its destination, the procession disbands and the pilgrims rest to prepare for the last ceremony of the day.

At 7 p.m., a burial service is held in Holy Sepulchre consisting of a procession to seven stations, with sermons recited in several languages. As the procession reaches Calvary, the figure of a crucified Christ is removed from a cross and wrapped in a sheet. At Unction Stone, it is anointed and placed in the tomb.

On Holy Saturday, the service of the Blessing of the Fire is conducted at Holy Sepulchre and a high pontifical mass is sung in front of the tomb. At 10:30 a.m., an hour-long procession in Holy Sepulchre to all the shrines within the sanctuary, for the ancient Church is a collection of buildings.

★ ★ ★

But all this is but a prelude to Easter Sunday with its high pontifical mass lasting four hours and its joyous celebration of that day nearly 2,000 years ago when Christ rose from the dead.

Fresh Fighting Engulfs Lhasa

Tibetans Reported Using Machine Guns Captured From Red Chinese

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Reports from the India-Tibet border today told of fresh fighting in embattled Lhasa, with Tibetan freedom fighters using light machineguns they captured from Red Chinese troops.

The sketchy reports from the Indian frontier town of Kalimpong gave no other details of the new outbreak in the Tibetan capital, where crowds of Tibetans attacked Communist occupation troops March 20. Rebellious tribesmen in the countryside have been fighting the Red occupiers for months.

Official sources in New Delhi said they had no word beyond Monday's statement by Prime Minister Nehru, who told Parliament the fighting in Lhasa apparently had subsided but that the situation was "delicate."

Red China kept silent about the reported revolt. Peiping radio talked about farming and industrial progress in Tibet under Red auspices, an apparent attempt to make light of revolt reports.

★ ★ ★

Nationalist Chinese officials on Formosa said they had received intelligence reports direct from Tibet saying Lhasa was in a state of war with some 25,000 rebels massed near the capital.

Goebel's Earnings, Sales Down Due to Beer Strike

DETROIT (AP)—A seven-week strike cut deeply into the Goebel Brewing Co.'s 1958 sales and net earnings, the firm said yesterday.

Goebel reported net sales of $16,861,524 and earnings of $20,594 last year compared to sales of $22,553,469 and earnings of $56,547 in 1957.

The company said the strike last spring cost the firm an estimated $4,250,000 in sales and more than $555,000 in earnings.

Grain Trading in Futures Slow

CHICAGO (AP) — There was not enough business in the grain futures pits to carry prices more than small fractions either way from previous Board of Trade closes.

Dealers said the market lacked any significant trade factors and that domestic and export business was slow. A cargo of wheat and one of soybeans were sold for shipment abroad.

New crop wheat months again were slightly lower in early dealings while soybeans and rye attracted light scattered buying.

After about an hour however the market was strong in spots with May wheat and rye up more than a cent.

Wheat was 1⅛ cents a bushel higher to ¼ lower, May $2.06; corn ⅜ higher to ¼ lower, May $1.18⅞; oats ⅛ higher to ⅜ lower, May 66⅝; rye ¼ to 1⅛ higher, May $1.40¾; soybeans ¼ to ½ higher, May $2.25½.

Shipping Coal by Pipeline Is Fast; Cuts Cost

NEW YORK (UPI) — Coal is being moved through a 108-mile pipeline in eastern Ohio these days, a swift, economical process that may someday be adopted throughout the country.

★ ★ ★

More than 1,350,000 tons of coal annually are expected to be funneled through the new $13 500,000 steel pipe that runs between the Consolidated Coal Co. bituminous field in Belmont County and the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. generating plant in Eastlake.

★ ★ ★

According to Steelways, official publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute, the coal is crushed and mixed with water so it can be pumped through the pipe at about three miles an hour.

Engineers are said to estimate that the pipeline will cut normal transportation costs by about 35 per cent.

Pays 15 Cent Dividend

DETROIT (AP)—Continental Motors Corp. Monday declared a dividend of 15 cents on common stock payable April 24 to stockholders of record April 3. Directors re-elected all officers of the company.

News in Brief

All four tires and wheels were stolen from a car belonging to Ethel Shuler, 8701 Cooley Lake Rd., Commerce Township, by thieves who broke into her garage, sheriff's deputies reported yesterday.

Effie Morris, of 16260 Kirkshire St., Birmingham, reported to Pontiac police Monday that someone had stolen her wallet containing $20.

A total of $38 was reported stolen from a vending machine which was pried open by thieves at the Pantry Restaurant, 111 N. Saginaw St., according to Pontiac police reports Monday.

59ers Hope to Reach Alaska Line Thursday

WATSON LAKE, Yukon Territory (UPI) — Detroit's 59ers, now traveling in the Yukon Territory, hope to reach the Alaska line by Thursday.

★ ★ ★

The caravan of pioneers who plan to homestead in the Kenai Peninsula pushed into the fabled Yukon yesterday, but still is 600 miles from the Alaskan border and more than 1,000 miles from Anchorage.

Stock Market Averages Down

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market edged lower on average in active trading early today.

★ ★ ★

Gains and losses of fractions to a point prevailed among leading issues. A good assortment of pivotal issues was unchanged.

★ ★ ★

Zenith recovered about 8 points of its 13¼-point loss of yesterday.

After yesterday's sharp decline an atmosphere of caution prevailed in Wall Street. The trend among steels and oils was slightly lower although some pivotal stocks in these groups were unchanged.

Rails showed very little change. Coppers were mixed. Drugs were a bit higher as Pfizer picked up a point and Merck a fraction.

Siegler spurted ahead in active trading for a gain of about 2.

★ ★ ★

A bullish news item was that the machine tool producers in February had the greatest total of new orders in 18 months, a good indicator of industry's plans for expanding production. Wall Street analysts, however, felt the market was still in a consolidation phase and may test recent support levels.

★ ★ ★

Moderate losses were taken by U.S. Steel, American Telephone, Goodyear, United Air Lines, Johns-Manville and General Electric.

★ ★ ★

Motors, after a sluggish start, began to pick up, General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors made moderate gains.

Friendly Greetings Turn Into Introductions

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP)—Dick Barden walked into a restaurant and spotting a man he hadn't seen for many years, waved a greeting.

"Hello, Jim! Long time no see," said the other man.

★ ★ ★

Barden said: "It's good to see you, too. But my name's Dick. How are you, Carl?"

The other man said:

"My name's Louis."

Shots Ring Out, Gunmen Flee

Police Corner Fugitive in Oak Park Field but He Escapes

Oak Park police are hunting for two men and possibly a third who eluded them and Detroit police in a hail of gunfire early this morning.

The hunted men were discovered at 3 a. m. attempting to break into the Lulkin Drugstore at 14601 Eight Mile Rd. in Dettroit.

Lt. Edwin Johnson of the Detroit Police Department said that two police officers were cruising in a scout car on Eight Mile Road when they saw a man on the roof of the drugstore and another standing on the ground outside in front of the store. When they saw police, the man on the ground started to run and the man on the roof jumped off and ran in the opposite direction.

One of the men ran across Eight Mile road into an Oak Park field, firing at the officers following him. The officer shot at the man twice but does not know if he was hit, Johnson said.

Police surrounded the area, using flares to pierce the darkness. About 10 Detroit police cars, two from State Police and three from Oak Park were on hand.

But somehow the gunman eluded the dragnet, although he continued to fire occasional shots at the officers.

Police continued to patrol the area, hoping daylight would bring a trace of the gunman. Officers went back to the drugstore and found a set of burglary tools on the roof.

UAW Sells Fruit in Flint to Pay for Jobless Trek

FLINT (AP) — The United Auto Workers reported today it netted $450 from the sale of apples in downtown Flint to send a delegation of jobless workers to the AFL-CIO unemployment demonstration in Washington April 8.

The apple sale, recalling the depression days of the 30s, embarrassed city officials in this automotive center where about 13 per cent of the labor force is unemployed. The labor force in the Flint area is about 140,000 persons.

A city ordinance prohibits the sale of apples or anything else on the streets without a permit.

The UAW informed the City Commission last Thursday of its intention to sell apples the following Monday. The union said it was requesting permission if it was necessary.

But the Commission was not scheduled to meet until Monday night.

Some 20 jobless UAW members took positions in the business area yesterday and sold apples without a permit.

One Stick Control on Experimental Car

DETROIT—The nation's major automobile manufacturers are trying to perfect an experimental car that has no steering wheel or brake or accelerator pedals. One such model is operated by a knobbed 4-inch stick, called uni-control.

If the driver wishes to go right he moves the stick in that direction and left when he desires to go left. To accelerate, he pushes the stick forward; to brakes, he pulls it backward.

★ ★ ★

The steering ratio varies with the car's speed. In effect, this means that a quick, abrupt motion of the control will not throw the car into a skid, such as would occur if a driver were to twist his steering wheel suddenly at high speed in a conventional car.

New Method Speeds German Road Building

STUTTGART, Germany (UPI) — The city of Stuttgart may have started a revolution in modern road-building — its new city roads are being constructed right in the factory.

The new method is faster than the old one by as much as four to five weeks, during which there is no need for traffic-paralyzing road blocks and diversions.

Otto Wisternitz, head of the Stuttgart road construction department, is credited with developing the method. He believes major cities throughout the world may be following his example before long.

This is how it works: First, the old road is completely excavated. Then, a bed of gravel and bitumen is laid and leveled to protect the road from frost.

Meanwhile, concrete blocks eight inches thick and five yards square are being turned out in a factory. They are fitted over the ground road layer and covered with asphalt. Thus, the four or five weeks usually needed for letting concrete dry are eliminated.

BRAINWORK — Airmen Raymond H. Turcotte and Roger V. Anderson demonstrate one method of communicating with the SAGE system's electronic brain by operating card-punch machines.

Takes Brains to Operate SAGE Electronic System

RICHARDS - GEBAUR AIR FORCE BASE, Mo. (NEA)—Machines may be getting smarter all the time, but they still can't think.

Which explains why the Air Force has set up a special school here to train human brain cells in using the wondrous electronic brains that are at the heart of the SAGE system of air defense.

SAGE's giant digital computers can figure as fast as one six-millionth of a second and store millions of items of information within their memory systems. But their multi-track minds must be animated by operators at 30 different positions.

From the computers' vast storehouse of knowledge, commanders around the country can glean the air defense picture in order to evaluate a tactical situation in the event of an enemy attack.

★ ★ ★

SAGE (Semi-Automatic Ground Environment) is a network of digital computer equipped direction centers, with interconnecting communications, for processing radar data and other information and for generating battle orders.

MAN BETTER

But despite SAGE's marvels, Maj. Gen. John D. Stevenson, commander of the Central Air Defense Force, says:

"Man is the best all-purpose computer known. It's still the man who counts and not the button."

The school for SAGE operators — officers and enlisted men — was established this January, and already has turned out its first class.

Air Force and Army personnel from all sections of the nation are trained at the school by educators from the Air Training Command. Upon completion of the specialized training course, the men are assigned to other SAGE centers.

Army personnel are given training in the use of the NIKE anti-aircraft missile in the SAGE system.

★ ★ ★

The highest ranking student of the first class, Lt. Col. John Allbritton, of the Detroit air defense sector, was impressed with the "tremendous responsibility of the airman in performing properly his role in the SAGE system."

"Each airman has at his fingertips a vital function," he observed.

An average of 250 students attend each eight-week course at the school, with more than 9,000 men scheduled to receive instruction during the next five years. The entire SAGE system, when in full operation, will employ 11,000 military operators.

U.S. Gross National Product Rate Rises

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Government economists estimated today that the nation's total production of goods and services has climbed to a record 464-billion-dollar annual rate.

That is the unofficial but reliable estimate for the first three months of 1959 now being circulated among top-level government officials.

It represents a gain of 11 billion dollars from the 453-billion-dollar rate of gross national product in the last three months of 1958.

Moreover, because most prices have been steady, the increase reflects a genuine spurt in the physical volume of production—not just a markup in prices.

Vodka Sales Jump

LANSING (AP)—The State Liquor Control Commission reports February sales of liquor and wine were up nearly 2 per cent over the same month in 1958. The rise was paced by vodka which showed an increase of about 7½ per cent.

No Pressure Cooker . . .

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (UPI)—Mrs. Elaine Williams heard a sound like gas escaping she knew she didn't have anything on the stove. Mrs. Williams searched the house, found a rattlesnake in her son's bedroom, and killed it with the help of a neighbor.

'Them's Folks' Town Cry Where 9 Killed in Mine

ONEIDA, Tenn. (AP) — This small east Tennessee town, where kinship bonds are strong, was hit hard by an explosion in a family mine that killed nine.

All nine men killed Monday in the mining accident at Robbins, 15 miles south of here, were related by blood or marriage. The victims all lived in or near Oneida, the Scott County seat.

★ ★ ★

"Every one of them was related to me except Elmer Phillips," said Lee West, director of the Oneida Funeral Home. "And he was related to my wife."

A spark from an electric motor is believed to have caused a pocket of gas to explode shortly after the mine ventilating system was turned off over the weekend.

W. O. West, a partner in the small truck operation, was the only witness and the only survivor. He was standing at the mine tipple, where he heard the explosion and saw smoke roll out of the mine shaft.

★ ★ ★

His brother and partner, Oscar, 47, was one of the victims.

The blast was the worst Tennessee mine accident since 10 men died in an explosion near LaFollette in 1943. It left townspeople in Oneida with little to say.

"The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away," one woman murmured. "But you're never ready. You're never ready."

The victims were Oscar West; another partner, Burl Phillips, 52, and his two sons, Hubert, 30 and Arzo, 17; Bernard, 33, and William Yancey, 36, brothers; John L. Pike, 46; Elmer Phillips, 38; and Ed Chitwood 50.

★ ★ ★

A woman, walking along the highway in Robbins, moaned:

"Oh, brother, it's a terrible thing. It's so bad, I been crying all morning. Them's folks, brother. Them's folks."

The mine usually employed 8 to 10 workers

Rescue workers from other mines quickly rushed into the area when W. O. West sounded the alarm. Audie Acres was one of the first miners to reach the victims, found burned beyond recognition 4,000 feet back in the mine.

Vets Warned to Beware of Unethical 'Land Sharks'

If you're a veteran and behind in payments on your house, beware of smooth-talking land sharks or offers you "can't afford to pass up."

This is the warning from Oakland County and Detroit area Veterans Administration officials in view of the increase in the number of veterans behind in mortgage payments.

"The total payment from the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund for shelter was higher than aid for any other reason in 1958," said Ray C. Jewell, veterans employment representative for the Oakland County Branch of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

"So far this year we've used well over half the total shelter disbursement for all of last year," Jewell said.

This comes on the heels of a warning by Lloyd H. Jameson, manager of the VA regional office in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Jameson warned that there exists in this area and throughout the state a racket known as "milking" or "equity skimming."

Jewell said the possibility of such a racket growing to major proportions is heightened by the increase in veterans applying for aid in mortgage payments here in Oakland County.

Of the $97,606.82 total disbursements to veterans from the trust fund in 1958, $81,193 for shelter led the list. The next highest disbursement was $16,191 for utilities.

So far this year more than $23,700 has been paid out to more than 300 veterans for shelter. The shelter totals are made up mostly of payments to prevent mortgage foreclosures. Rentals are seldom paid unless it prevents the eviction of a large family, Jewell explained.

Monthly mortgage payments range from $50 to $90 and will not be paid for more than three months back, he said, unless a veteran is confined to a hospital or disabled temporarily.

"We do have the so-called land sharks that have a way of learning when a veteran is in trouble and taking advantage of him, although most of our local mortgage companies are very reasonable and cooperative and will carry the veteran's obligation as long as it reasonably possible," he said.

The "land sharks" are individuals who offer veterans a sum of money, usually a few hundred dollars, in exchange for their signing a deed or other papers concerning his home.

This "salesman" will offer each veteran a nominal amount for his equity, plus a privilege for buying another home in a lower cost development. His signature is secured on a deed giving the right of possession in 60 days.

Later the vet is advised that no lower cost homes are available at the present time and he now faces eviction from the home he has sold.

The catch is that these practices are legal, regardless of their unethical nature.

Cases are known where an entire neighborhood has been convassed to learn which veterans are having trouble meeting their GI loan payments, Jewell said.

In view of these gyp artists preying on panicky veterans looking for any kind of a "good deal," and the constant rise in veterans applying for trust fund aid, Jewell has urged all veterans to seek legal advice.

If a veteran is approached with such an offer he should by all means — before signing any papers — contact his attorney, his lender, or the loan and service claims section, loan guaranty division of his regional VA office.

Santa Fe Priest Flips Records

Has Fun on Radio but Ad-Libs, Appeals for Aid for His Church

SANTA FE, N. M. (UPI)—The graying 48-year-old priest flips on the record, then tells his radio listeners in colloquial Spanish something that might be translated as: "Now dig this latest number from Mexico City."

Msgr. Glynn Patrick Smith is a disc jockey. He conducts his show, "Monsignor Pat's Music," three times weekly over a local radio station (KTRC) and has a lot of fun doing it. He ad-libs a bit about his perish in Santa Fe and the $250,000 debt that hangs over its new elementary school.

But the Roman Catholic clergyman cuts the talk short and the records spin from his private library of Mexican and Spanish music.

He has 6,000 to 8,000 recordings, and believes it is the largest collection of its kind in the American Southwest.

The most popular songs with his listeners are rancheras, Mexico's version of western music.

"They've always got a story to tell, which is not always true of our westerns," the cleric explained.

Next in order of popularity come boleros and huapangos (pronounced "wha-pan-goes") and called "yellers" in the trade). Waltzes, hymns and popular United States music, their lyrics translated into Spanish, fall somewhere in line.

Is the monsignor disdainful of what he plays? No sir, he loves it!

"I can't get enough of it," he said, relaxing in a plaid shirt at his broadcasting booth in a corner of the church rectory.

He is also a "ham" radio operator and has perfected an echo sound device to make bad singers "sound like a million dollars." He said this has baffled radio engineers.

Msgr. Smith was born in Chicago and educated for the priesthood there.

Twenty years ago he became parish priest in the little village of Questa in the northern New Mexico mountains. All his flock spoke Spanish, so he learned the language.

He prides himself on his command of Spanish slang, and his English vocabulary is spiced disk jockey lingo.

But from the pulpit of Cristo Rey Church in Santa Fe he is careful to speak grammatically in either language — mostly Spanish since he figures that is what 92 per cent of his parishioners also speak.

Fishing Tug Lost on Trip to Toledo

PORT HURON (UPI) — The fishing tug Della with two men aboard was reported missing today on a trip to Toledo.

The Della, owned by George Lixie of Port Huron and manned by Leonard Grayton, 49, and Cecil Turner, 51, was bound for Toledo to set out fishing nets in that area.

The tug should have arrived at Toledo last night, but Grayton's wife, Ethel, notified the Coast Guard today it had failed to arrive this morning.

The Coast Guard made checks of ports along the way. State Police were asked to assist, and the Coast Guard cutter Acacia, on ice patrol, was asked to keep an eye out for some trace of the missing tug.

Historical Group Cites State Tourist Council

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Tourist Council will be cited at its March 25-26 meeting here for its promotion of Michigan history. The award will be made by the Historical Society of Michigan.

The Historical Society says the council will be honored for "outstanding service in the promotion of increased interest in Michigan history" through a series of news releases.

Detroit City Workers Will Get Pay Increase

DETROIT (AP)—Mayor Louis Miriani of Detroit has decided to give all general city employes in tax-supported departments a pay increase effective July 1 under the city's new budget. About 27,000 city employes will get the pay boosts.

Miriani said that the pay increases will send city taxes up. He added that he has not decided how much the raises will be.

$14,000 in Gems, Stolen From Bacall, Recovered

LONDON (AP)—Police have recovered the $14,000 worth of jewelry stolen from actress Lauren Bacall last week.

Scotland Yard officers said they found the jewelry in a London building. They are still hunting the thief.

Miss Bacall, widow of Humphrey Bogart, is making a movie in London.

Ask New Procedure for Annexation

LANSING (AP)—A new annexation procedure hinging on a circuit court determination was proposed in the legislature last night.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Perry W. Greene (R-Grand Rapids) offered it as a possible solution for the thorny problems confronting rapidly expanding outstate cities.

Under the procedure, a city or village governing body could start the ball rolling by majority adoption of a resolution proposing annexation of specified contiguous territory.

The resolution would have to recite the necessity for taking in the territory and plans contemplated for its future management and improvement.

The city then would have 60 days to present the resolution in circuit court for a hearing in chancery by a visiting judge presumably uninfluenced by local pressures pro and con.

The court would be obliged to enter an order notifying each affected township and elector of the filing of the resolution and inviting them to show cause, if they had any, why the territory should not be annexed.

Grass Fires Cause Danger in Waterford

Waterford Township firemen answered eight calls to extinguish grass fires fanned by high winds yesterday.

Houses and stores were threatened and it took 10 firemen almost two hours to bring a blaze under control in the Elizabeth Lake-Airport road area.

Another fire covering some 80 acres near the Hatchery-Airport road area kept two companies busy for about an hour. In each instance rubbish burners were believed to have been the cause.

Elected Director

DETROIT (AP)—Henry T. Bodman Monday was elected a director of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. He is president of the National Bank of Detroit.

Firemen Ask 63-Hour Week

Waterford Proposals Include Adding a Man to Department

Proposals for another fulltime Waterford Township fireman, a reduction in the hourly work week for firemen, and a projected consideration for a new fire station were included in a fire department budget presented at last night's township board meeting.

Firemen asked that the present 72½-hour work week be reduced to 63 hours. This could be done, they said, by hiring an additional fireman with starting salary at $4,900. Total department budget amounted to $79,500.

Board members tabled the fire department budget until considerations can be made at the annual township meeting April 3.

In other business, Trustee Charles Pappas was authorized to circulate petitions requesting State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge and State Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson to take legislative steps allowing townships to control stray dogs.

At present, Waterford Township is overrun by packs of dogs, and there is no township ordinance for controlling their activities, according to Supervisor Elmer R. Johnson.

An antiquated state law is now in the process of revision. However, this may take a long time in becoming a reality, Johnson said.

★ ★ ★

Present petitions call for "immediate action" due to the many complaints of area residents, Johnson added.

The board awarded insurance agent Al Paull the township comprehensive general liability policy for $1,029. James Boaz was given the money and securities policy for $78.

The township will follow the same procedure as it has in the past regarding the application of chloride on township roads. The township will pay one-third while property owners will pay two-thirds of the application costs, it was decided.

Clerk James Seeterlin was authorized to pay the City of Detroit Bank $11,707 due on the Silver Shore sewer bond issue.

Robert Kelser was also authorized to proceed with bulldozing and covering the Cooley Lake township dump for $10 an hour.

Two From Lake Orion Open Used Car Lot Here

Two Lake Orion residents have opened a used car lot called Pontiac Auto Brokers, at 1260 N. Perry St.

William K. Thomas, former general manager of Davis Motors in Rochester, and Marion W. Russell, who was a salesman with the Bill Spence Rambler Sales and Service of Pontiac, are the owners of the new business.

Thomas lives at 600 Crescent St. and Russell at 365 N. Shore Dr.

Flannery Committed by Judge to Ionia State

HILLSDALE (UPI) — Circuit Judge Charles O. Arch signed papers yesterday committing 18-year-old Patrick Flannery of Berkley to Ionia State Hospital.

Flannery, a former honor student at Royal Oak Shrine High School, was found innocent by reason of temporary insanity last week in the fatal beating of his Hillsdale College roommate.

He beat Thomas Neitling, 21, of Tecumseh, to death with a shotgun as Neitling slept last November.

Lighting Plan Topic Tonight

Agenda of Commission Includes Fluorescents for Downtown Area

City commissioners will be asked tonight to approve details of the plan for fluorescent lighting in the downtown area.

City Manager Walter K. Willman said he would spell out costs to cover Saginaw street from Oakland to Parke and Huron street from Cass to Mill.

The lights, similar to the ones installed on an experimental basis at Oakland and Saginaw four months ago, would be erected by Consumers Power Co.

Scheduled for introduction tonight is a health measure to bring ice-vending machines within the scope of the city's ice laws.

The Engineering Department has cost estimates ready on nine public improvement projects, five involving street paving and four curbs and gutters.

Angry Words Follow Williams' Charge

LANSING (AP)—Sen. John P. Smeekens (R-Coldwater) last night assailed Gov. Williams as a political maneuverer so "low as to enable him to pass underneath a snake with his top hat on."

This and other remarks by Smeekens from the Senate floor drew answering comment from Sen. Charles S. Blondy (D-Detroit) that they were "disrespectful, incoherent and just plain gibberish."

The Coldwater Republican arose on personal privilege to deny a statement by the governor at a news conference Friday.

Williams said then, "I understand that Sen. Smeekens either directly, or through a corporation, has been selling to Michigan State University." He did not amplify.

There had been discussion about Wayne County Circuit Judge Victor Targonski and other state officials who engaged in privat. business activities with state agencies.

4 Persons Injured on Pontiac Streets

Four persons were injured Monday in accidents on Pontiac streets, police reported today.

In a pedestrian mishap, Anna Larsen, 69, of 6476 Greenview St., Detroit, suffered a broken hip when she fell on W. Huron street near N. Saginaw street.

She was described in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital today. According to police, the woman stepped in a hole and lost her balance.

A two-car collision at N. Cass avenue and Lafayette street injured Charlotte Ann Janicki, 11, of 632 Phillips St., Gary L. Marshall, 17, of 38 Short St., and his mother, Mrs. Quina B. Marshall, 46.

Mrs. Marshall, riding in a car driven by her son, is reported in fair condition with head injuries today. Her son was treated and released.

The young girl, a passenger in the car driven by her mother, Mrs. Beverly L. Monett, 33, was also treated and released.

Arizona Force Beckons to Four

2 City Officers Pass Exams, Await Hiring; 2 Others Still Hopeful

Four Pontiac policemen plan to move to Phoenix, Ariz., soon.

Two of them are patrolmen who passed examinations for the Phoenix Police Department and are waiting to be hired.

The other two are veteran officers who passed the test but were told after an oral interview that they had too much rank and seniority in Pontiac to make the change successfully.

But they plan to move anyway.

The four were among nine Pontiac officers who recently made the trip west in a bid to get on the expanding Phoenix police force.

Patrolman William Newman placed fourth on the civil service list in Phoenix and Patrolman Clarence Smith placed 11th. Both are ready to move as soon as they are hired.

★ ★ ★

Sgt. James Laponsie, an 11-year veteran of the Pontiac force, passed the test with a 97, and Det. Richard Evans, with eight years service, got a 96.

"But they believed we wouldn't be happy starting over again with less pay as patrolmen," said LaPonsie.

"They considered it a psychological disadvantage," explained Evans.

Both said they would move to Phoenix anyway, whether they got on the police force there or not.

LaPonsie hoped he would be reconsidered for a police post after establishing residency in Phoenix.

The officers said Phoenix was an attractive city, and liked the Arizona climate.

LaPonsie said all the Pontiac men were asked about their relationship with suspended Pontiac Police Chief Herbert W. Straley.

★ ★ ★

Straley got in communication with the Phoenix police after 16 officers announced last month they wanted to work there.

The five others who went with the first group last week were patrolmen. Another group plans to leave this week to take civil service tests Monday.

'Green Pastures' Is Good but Has No True Conflict

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation, I suspect, will be swamped with favorable reviews of last night's "Green Pastures" on NBC-TV and rightly so.

The Hallmark Hall of Fame's live repeat (the show was done previously in October 1957) of Marc Connelly's 1930 play was a stunning accomplishment for television, an exercise replete with humor, taste and inventiveness.

There were able performances by William Warfield as "De Lawd" and Frederick O'Neal as Moses and a roguish one by Eddie Anderson as Noah. The De Paur Chorus turned in a slick job—almost too slick—in manufacturing a musical backdrop of spirituals for the piece.

And now that I've said all the expected things and made everyone happy, I'd like to enter a few words of dissent about "Green Pastures" itself.

As a viewer, I found myself admiring the production, but standing outside it. I felt little involvement—the events taking place were moving events, but they pulled only an occasional response from within me.

★ ★ ★

I think the reason is this: There is a lack of dramatic tension in "Green Pastures." It is not so much a play as it is a series of charming tableaus.

There are no stresses or pulls within its structure. It merely proceeds in a straight line, pouring out its story like salt from a shaker. There is no true problem or conflict within the work.

I do not mean to dispute the play's theology. What I am trying to point up is that "Green Pastures" muddles its own material.

It is useless to say that "Green Pastures" is a naive work as explanation for its lack of incisiveness, because it is not naive. It is, in fact, a rather sophisticated piece, worldly, complex, glossy, advanced in its techniques.

★ ★ ★

No matter. Whatever the flaws of "Green Pastures," Hallmark Hall of Fame treated its parts brilliantly last night. It was an achievement in which all hands concerned can take pride.

Agent May Lose State Business

Salesman of Insurance to Michigan Teamsters Given Lansing Hearing

LANSING (AP)—A young Chicago insurance agent, accused of giving away insurance premiums to Teamsters Union officials, today faced loss of his annual four-million-dollar business with the Michigan Conference of Teamsters.

Allen M. Dorfman, 36, appeared before state Insurance Commissioner Frank Blackford yesterday to show cause why his licenses to operate in Michigan should not be revoked. An observer sent from Washington by the McClellan Labor-Management Rackets Committee sat in on the hearing.

Chicago Atty. Stanford Clinton, Dorfman's counsel, angrily protested the proceedings were "rooted in a nationwide attack on the Teamsters." Blackford rejected his plea for appointment of another hearing examiner.

Dorfman, who has already testified before the McClellan committee, stood accused of:

1. Paying the premiums on 13 insurance policies issued by one or more of his 14 agencies.

2. Temporarily appropriating for the use of his agency $51,461 in premiums paid by Teamsters group insurance plans in 1954, remitting them to the insurer, the Northeastern Life Insurance Co., three years later.

3. Obtaining a non-resident Michigan license last year as agent for the Northeastern company, with which he no longer had a contract.

★ ★ ★

Dorfman allegedly paid a $726 premium on a $50,000 life insurance policy issued to Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa of Detroit. He was accused of doing the same for 13 other policy holders.

Area Youth Is Hurt in Leap Onto Seats

A 16-year-old Waterford Township youth is in fair condition in Pontiac General Hospital today after he leaped from a 12-foot scaffold in the John D. Pierce Junior High School gymnasium last night.

Kenneth Brown, of 2512 Grandview Ave. was attempting to catch a basketball in midair, when he leaped from the scaffold, mounted on rollers, to some folded bleacher seats on the side of the gym.

He missed the bleachers and fell to the floor unconscious.

Waterford Township firemen were called by fellow teammates. Brown was partially revived with an inhalator. He then was rushed to the hospital.

World Keeps Laughing While Diplomats Stew

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The foreign news is very grim lately—with experts smelling war in Berlin and Baghdad—but my laugh scouts tell me that the ordinary Joes everywhere are living and laughing it up believing that Khrushchev is a fat clown who soon will be poured back in the bottle.

A couple of Berlin jokes are aimed at Khrushchev.

"When I was a boy," Mr. K. tells Mikoyan, "my ambition was to be a pirate, a murderer and a bandit." Mikoyan says: "Congratulations!"

"Khrushchev plays a fair game of bridge, don't he?" someone is saying in the Kremlin, and Mikoyan says: "Yes, if you watch him closely."

Well, Senor Niecomedes Garcia Gomez is making Spanish whisky in a man-made cave in Segovia, Spain. He says it'll taste like Scotch whisky but be one-third as costly. He doesn't know what to call this Spanish-type Scotch. Why not call it Scotch-type Spanish?

Anyway, just wanted to tell you that the foreign news isn't always as sad as it's printed. For example, Taffy Tuttle, the Broadway showgirl and model, thought "Moscow Mule" was the name of a Russian diplomat, or maybe Khrushchev.

$895 Worth of Clothing Taken

Rash of Break-ins Reported

Pontiac police detectives today were investigating several thefts and burglaries reported Monday.

★ ★ ★

Victoria Cisek, of 158 Baldwin Ave., told police someone broke into her house through a window and took $895 worth of clothing.

Bicycles were reported stolen from James McAleer, of 351 Auburn Ave., and Joseph Doyon, of 57 Park Place. The bikes, valued at $40 and $25, were taken from the Boys Club of Pontiac, 530 E. Pike St., police said.

Break-ins were reported at the Clark Oil Co., 695 Pershing St., and Kaiser Wholesale Co., 702 S. Paddock St. Both establishments were ransacked but nothing was reported missing.

In addition to reports by many residents this morning who found their tires slashed, police said there were several thefts from autos parked in the Pontiac Motor parking lot late last night and early today.

28 Ships to Open Seaway

Navy to Tour Lakes Ports

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Navy task force of 28 ships will move across the St. Lawrence Seaway this summer and tour 25 ports of the Great Lakes to mark the formal opening of the seaway.

Using 1,000 Marines, the ships will practice amphibious landings at five places. Under the command of Rear Adm. E. B. Taylor, the force will carry about 8,000 officers and men, and 1,100 midshipmen from the Naval Academy.

★ ★ ★

Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander of the Atlantic Fleet, said Monday the 27-foot minimum depth of the seaway will enable all the ships to reach Chicago. Smaller members of the force will go on as far west as Duluth, Minn.

★ ★ ★

The force, starting from Montreal, will comprise a heavy cruiser, a frigate, 15 destroyers, four submarines and several amphibious vessels and supply ships. The cruiser, the Macon, will be the largest warship ever to enter the lakes.

★ ★ ★

Tentative ports of call in Michigan include: Port Huron, Detroit, Marquette, Sault Ste. Marie, Muskegon, Mackinaw City, St. Ignace and Bay City. Toledo, Lorain, Cleveland and Ashtabula, Ohio, are also on the schedule.

The cruise will begin in Montreal on June 26, and will continue through July 27. All ships will be in Chicago July 6, but the rest of the dates remain to be worked out.

Bob Considine Says:

35 Volunteer Spacemen Ripe for the Picking

NEW YORK — You probably have your own choice as to the man you would like to see shot off the earth and put into orbit.

But the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is still in a dilemma. It has narrowed down a group of 110 test pilots who volunteered for this breath-taking role to a knot of a dozen men. The identity of the winner — if that's the word — will not be made known until sometime next month.

Sam Space will be 35 years of age, or younger, 5 feet 11, or shorter, and will have undergone a rigorous training period involving everything from appetite control to a proven ability not to fold up like an accordion on the takeoff.

Sam will be chosen well in advance of the creation of the hardware which will enable him to survive en route to his orbital path, during his 18,000 m.p.h. flights around the world, and his return to the Earth People. That may not be ready for several years, though it is being attacked by an all-out effort by our spatial people.

TO BE EXHIBITED

What these people hope is the answer to Spaceman No. 1's survival will be put on exhibition for the first time at the World Congress of Flight, Las Vegas, Nev., the week of April 12.

It is a capsule designed by the McDonnell Aircraft Corporation, an intricate shield in which the Spaceman will huddle, as in embryo, and be shot away from the missile's pay-load which served to get him up there and now is about to burn to a cinder as it plunges back into the jelly-like atmosphere in which the Earth People slosh.

The capsule is designed to fall back slower, its speed slacked by such things as reverse-rockets, air-brakes, ribbon chutes and finally a conventional chute.

Think of the thoughts that must be flitting through the minds of the remaining 12 men from whose number the choice will be made! One thought surely must concern the choice of landing places.

A comparatively minor miscalculation at the moment of ejecting the capsule might mean the difference between landing on the point of Mt. Everest or Brazil's Matto Grosso. The slant of the descent might ordain a landing in the middle of the Sahara or the North Pole, or the center of the Pacific.

Idle, random little thoughts like that . . .

You know how it is these days of early spring.

My new favorite columnist pin-up girl is Anne Scott-James, who writes for a London paper. Last Sunday she hauled off and belted out the following:

"If only I had had sense enough to stay stupid. We women are taking on a man's world — and it's hell. In 50 years' time there'll be only one sex, the way things are going.

"For my part, you can take back our education, our jobs, our cars, our votes, our independent money. I'd trade it all in for the pleasure of being clinging, dizzy, kittenish, wide-eyed, scatter-brained, frivolous, extravagant, or just plain dumb for just one year."

Spring came to Anne Scott-James a little late this year.

Edith Sampson, brilliant Negro lawyer from Chicago, was packed off on a United Nations mission. In New Delhi she was given a dinner, after which she spoke of the wonders and privileges of being a citizen of this country.

When she was finished, an Indian rose to say,

"In spite of this glowing picture of the United States, we know the difficulties that Negroes have there. We've raised the equivalent of five thousand dollars to use for the relief of your down-trodden people."

Mrs. Sampson responded on a note of thanks. She accepted the check and then she said, "I've seen the tragic poverty of your country, and I here want to contribute my personal check for five thousand dollars as a little gesture toward relieving it."

Britain's League Against Cruel Sports is out to stop the annual Grand National Steeplechase, which it describes as a "disgusting, bloody circus." Thirty-four horses, all equipped with jockeys, started Saturday's renewal of the classic. Four riders finished.

Holders of losing Irish Sweepstakes tickets, some of them still wet from the elevator operator's printing press, will shout approval.

Nervous Energy Theory Disclaimed

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK — If you've ever wondered what nervousness or upset emotions cost you in physical energy, a new scientific answer is that you use less physical energy while in those states than when you're quite calm—provided you happened to be standing upright.

This goes against the popular idea that emotional disturbances require a lot of physical energy, an idea which is perpetuated by TV and movie heroes and heroines who pant or gasp or give off other signs of intense body involvement when they get crossed emotionally.

Actually, the body output of energy is the same when people are disturbed or calm if they are lying down or sitting, according to the studies of Drs. P. H. Melville and A. G. Mezey. But stand the nervous and the calm guys side by side and the former is using less body energy than the latter.

The measurements were of oxygen intake and output. The oxygen the body retains is used to "burn" the blood sugar and from this combustion comes the energy which fuels every body activity, from the most hidden to the most obvious. These measurements were made in two groups of people.

One group comprised 32 whose emotional disturbances were enough to get them admitted to a London mental hospital. The other group comprised 10 members of the hospital staff who hardly could have been calmer since what they were doing was part of their routine.

The 32 were subjected to psychological tests first, to diagram the degree to which each was pent up with undischarged emotions and how deep each was buried in what is called "a highly nervous state."

By these tests, the scientist said, they were including the "essential features which indicate emotional disturbance of whatever kind, and are readily observable."

Then the scientists went on to the measuring of how much oxygen everybody consumed while sitting, lying down, and standing.

Necessarily it was all very complicated and took a long time, and to make sure that testing itself wasn't making the nervous even more nervous, the psychology tests were given again while it was going on. All this was taken into account when the scientists figured out the final results.

In their report to the technical journal, "The Lancet," they said they had expected the oxygen consumption to be related directly to the amount of emotional disturbance—the more disturbance, the more oxygen consumed. This would be most people's expectation.

But it didn't work out that way. Their results on a group mathematical basis showed quite the reverse. Some individuals in the group showed such wide variations, however, that the scientists noted "a person with very high (or very low) score of psychological disturbance could present with either high or low values" of oxygen consumption.

Area Youth Pleads Guilty to Burglaries

A 19-year-old Waterford Township youth, who police said has admitted to a string of burglaries, pleaded guilty yesterday and will be sentenced April 7 by Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland.

Gary M. Williams, of 3300 Elizabeth Lake Rd. admitted to township police that he broke into Whitey's Restaurant, 1430 Crescent Lake Rd.

Williams had $50, taken from the restaurant, on him when picked up by police. They said he admitted the break-in and 10 others during the past month.

He was remanded to the county jail to await sentencing.

95 Pct. of U.S. Drive-Ins Available for Advertising

NEW YORK (UPI) — The latest survey of drive-in theaters shows that 95 per cent are available for screen advertising, according to the Theater-Screen Advertising Bureau.

The bureau reported that weekly attendance figures for drive-ins using advertising has reached 19,835,400 paid admissions.

Fatalities on 19 major toll roads in the United States last year were 2.8 per 100,000,000 miles of travel, while the rate on other highways was 5.6. The figures come from the American Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Assn.

Plan Walkout in New York

City Employes Angry Over No-Raise Policy of Mayor Wagner

NEW YORK (AP)—Some 30,000 city employes plan a one-day walkout next Tuesday unless a pay dispute is settled by then, according to union leaders.

About 2,000 members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes voted Monday night to call the walkout in a protest over Mayor Robert F. Wagner's austerity program.

Wagner, a Democrat, failed to get all the tax powers he asked from the Republican-controlled state Legislature. As a result, he cut the proposed city budget, lopping off 32 million dollars in raises for 80,000 city workers. Policemen firemen, teachers and correction officers were the losers in the budget cutting.

Workers in other departments also have been demanding pay raises.

Meanwhile the New York Teachers Guild made known its resentment. The High School Teachers Assn. threatened a possible "mass resignation."

The Teachers Guild, with 6,000 members, expects to set a date for a one-day walkout of its own at a meeting Wednesday night.

In 1957, 1,555 national advertisers each invested over $25,000 in daily newspapers to advertise 3,818 products — a greater number than ever before. The top advertiser invested over $52,000,000.

FRIEND or FOE?

The Communists keep 70 million East Europeans captive behind the Iron Curtain.

Are they friend or foe?

The Communists keep feeding these people a diet of lies to make them hate America. The only way to combat these lies is with the truth.

Now you can send your own Truth Broadcast behind the Iron Curtain over Radio Free Europe.

And you may be flown to Europe to broadcast it yourself . . . or you may be awarded one of 200 high-powered Hallicrafters short-wave radios!

On a plain sheet of paper just complete this sentence in 25 additional words or less . . .

"As an American I support Radio Free Europe because . . ."

Double your award if you send one dollar (or more) with your entry! If you send a dollar to Crusade for Freedom, and your entry is selected, a member of your family may be flown to Europe with you . . . or you will receive a Westinghouse transistor radio along with your short-wave receiver!

Send your entries to:

Crusade for Freedom
Box 32-E, Mount Vernon, N.Y.

Truth broadcasts will be judged for appropriateness, clarity, sincerity and originality.

Competition closes March 31, 1959.

All contributions go in their entirety to Radio Free Europe.

Published as a public service in cooperation with The Advertising Council and the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association.
