These are the dates for The Pontiac Press big special plane-theater trip to New York.

Arrangements are complete.

Reservations accompanied by a check for $182 will be accepted starting tomorrow.

The theater list is settled and you're going to see the five top theatrical attractions in all Gotham. Three are musical shows and two are the funniest comedies there.

Here's the list:

"Happy Hunting"
"My Fair Lady"
"The Bells Are Ringing"
"Tunnel of Love"
"Visit to a Small Planet"

★ ★ ★

In the first named you'll see Ethel Merman and Fernando Lamas. In "My Fair Lady," you will watch Rex Harrison and Julie Andrews. Of course, Judy Holliday has been one of the sensations of 1957 in "The Bells Are Ringing." Tom Ewell is the tremendous star in "Tunnel of Love" and Cyril Ritchard is headlining "Visit to a Small Planet."

These are the top actors and actresses on Broadway. They're the cream of the crop.

The group flies down in two luxurious United Airlines super planes, leaving Willow Run Monday morning and arriving in New York at LaGuardia airport.

Private chartered buses will take you from The Pontiac Press Building to Willow Run airport. When you reach LaGuardia, again private buses will take you to the Paramount Hotel which is in the very heart of the theatrical district. The hotel is completely modern and every room has a private bath.

★ ★ ★

Monday, on arrival, after the party has reached the hotel and been assigned to rooms, a general reception will be held at a cocktail party, followed by a buffet. This will be without extra charge.

Later in the week, you will enjoy a conducted tour of the United Nations Building and be allowed to see some of the work there in action. Also, you will be taken around Manhattan in a private boat which commands a wonderful view of the city.

On Friday evening, an after-the-theater supper will be held at Leone's famous restaurant, and several of the top performers whom you have seen in the five shows will attend as guests of The Press.

★ ★ ★

The price is $182 a ticket and that includes deluxe air transportation both ways, your hotel room, all theater tickets, the trip around Manhattan in the chartered boat, and after-theater supper at Leone's and a get-acquainted buffet dinner at the Paramount Hotel on Monday.

Application blank for the tour appears on page 2 today.

President Still Confined to Bed at White House

Doctors Rule Out Link With Heart Ailment or Ileitis Operation

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower was confined to bed today with an upset stomach but his doctors reported at mid-day that he was "progressing very satisfactorily."

Three doctors who were called to the White House one late last night, found no indications that there was any relation between the digestive upset and either the President's ileitis operation or his heart attack.

Mr. Eisenhower vomited three times during the night but had experienced no further nausea since 6 a.m. (EDT).

He was "sleeping comfortably" when the latest bulletin on his condition was issued at about 12:30 p.m.

Presidential News Secretary James C. Hagerty emphasized that there was no plan to take Mr. Eisenhower to the hospital.

He declined to say whether the ailment was considered serious, sticking to the statement prepared by the doctors, but there was no indication that there was anything serious about his condition.

The mid-day bulletin said the President's pulse, temperature, respiration and blood pressure remained normal.

STILL UNKNOWN

The doctors thought the upset stomach was caused by something Mr. Eisenhower ate but had not yet succeeded in pinning down the precise cause.

Hagerty said the President has been taking some liberties with his diet recently and ate more than he should have on his cruise last Thursday and Friday aboard the carrier Saratoga.

Mr. Eisenhower dined alone with the first lady at the White House last night, topping off the meal with a piece of blueberry

Estranged Wife Suffers Injury in Gun Duel

Willis O'Neil Struck by Shotgun Blast; Mate Hit in Chest

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

A Waterford Township real estate agent died early this morning from wounds inflicted in a gun duel with his estranged wife Saturday night.

Willis O'Neil, 42, of 3636 Shaddick Ave., and his wife, Kathryn, 27, of 1260 Eason Ave., shot each other after a family quarrel at Mrs. O'Neil's residence, while her two children by a former marriage huddled in a bedroom.

O'Neil was struck in the abdomen by a charge from a 20 guage shotgun, and his wife was hit in the left side of the chest by a .38 calibre bullet.

Mrs. O'Neil's condition was reported good this morning at Pontiac General Hospital. The prosecutor is expected to take a statement from her today, as well as from the children, Kathie Kelly, 8, and Fred, 7.

Waterford Township police believe Mrs. O'Neil and her husband were on opposite sides of a bookcase room-divider when the shooting started.

She was in the living room and he in the kitchen. Both were shot at close range.

O'Neil apparently broke into the home through the back door, police said. They found the lock forced.

MR. AND MRS. O'NEIL

He was under a court injunction restraining him from visiting the house.

Neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ellis, of 1268 Eason, told police they heard the sound of breaking glass then the shots. Mrs. O'Neil staggered to the Ellis' home for aid and they called police.

Mothers Back Brother of GI

WASHINGTON —An Illinois auto mechanic arrived here today with signatures of 6,800 mothers backing his appeal to the White House that his older brother, William S. Girard, be tried by an American court in the death of a Japanese woman.

Louis Giard, 27, and his blonde wife, Shirley, 30, arrived in Washington by train and went immediately to confer with their attorney here.

The Girards and a delegation from Ottawa, Ill., the family's home town, had an appointment to meet at the White House with Edward A. McCabe, associate counsel to President Eisenhower.

The group hopes to win reversal of an American government Army specialist 3rd class to be tried in a Japanese court.

Asked how he thought the case was going in behalf of his brother, Louis told reporters at union station "not too bad."

BRING PETITIONS

He and his wife said they carried with them 325 petitions containing the names of 6,800 mothers of Ottawa and surrounding communities, gathered for them by sympathetic townspeople.

Coming by airplane, Girard said, was a 180-foot scroll, which had been placed in front of an Ottawa theater for passersby to sign in behalf of Girard. It contains 20,000 signatures, he said.

Hatless and wearing slacks, a dark blue zipper-front sports jacket and a tieless sports shirt, Girard stepped off the train with his wife for what was their first trip to the capital.

Asked if he was seeking a trial here for his brother because he didn't think William would get a fair trial in Japan, Louis said he didn't know too much about it

Myrtle Blackby Jumps to Lead in Weather Derby

With nine days of the June weather contest behind us, the highest temperature so far has been 83 degrees. It was recorded at 3:56 Tuesday, June 4.

Leading the field of prognosticators thus far is Myrtle Blackby of 382 Auburn Ave. Her prediction was that the highest temperature would be at 3:48 p.m. on June 4.

Will she win the $100 savings bond? We don't know. June can pack a lot of heat yet; she also can be a coolish dame when she's contrary.

Only the temperature on the final day of the month can clinch the matter.

Plane Crashes Birthday Party

Four Passengers Killed but 8 Persons at Dinner in Home Unhurt

PACOIMA, Calif. (AP)—A plane hit a house last night, killing the four passengers, but eight persons sharing a birthday dinner in the home were unhurt.

Neighbors in this plane crash-conscious San Fernando Valley suburb of Los Angeles today were calling it "a miracle."

Barry Worth, 30, and his family were finishing hamburgers and corn. A cake with candles was on the table in honor of his mother-in-law's 57th birthday.

Then the rented, single-engine Piper Tri-Pacer plunged down onto the one-story, stucco tract home.

It tore a jagged gash across the roof over the dining and living rooms and wound up in a jumble of wreckage in the patio.

Glass from a shattered picture window showered around the diners, who were only 10 feet from the wreckage, but none of them were even hurt. There was no fire.

Stocks Go Down and Up

NEW YORK (INS)—The stock market reacted violently with a wave of selling to initial news of President Eisenhower's illness today, but prices later improved. Losses reached as much as about six dollars in some industrials and one to two-dollar deficits were widespread among market favorites in mid-morning.

School Trustees Being Selected

4 Candidates Compete for Pontiac Posts, 8 in Waterford

Voters in the Pontiac and Waterford school districts are going to the polls today to choose two board of education members in each district.

Polls opened at 7 a.m. today and will stay open until 8 p.m. tonight. Anyone in line at 8 p.m. will be allowed to vote.

In Pontiac, four candidates are contending for the two seats. They are: Louis H. Schimmel, Robert B. Oliver, William H. Anderson and Lloyd R. Ludy.

Schimmel and Oliver are long-time board members, while Anderson and Ludy are making their first bids for the school board seats.

Pontiac School District has a seven-man board and members serve four-year terms.

In Waterford there are eight candidates in the scramble for two seats.

They are: Mrs. Donald E. Adams, incumbent, and Jerome K. Barry Jr., Lester Carson, Mrs. Melvin E. Inglehart, Williard V. Johnson, Richard D. Kuhn, Frank R. Rudlaff, and Charles W. Walters.

The two elected will serve three-year terms on a five-member board.

Headless Body of Frogman Found in Harbor by British

CHICHESTER, England (AP) — The headless, handless body of a man dressed in a frogman's dark rubber suit has been found floating 11 miles from where British frogman Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb mysteriously disappeared 13½ months ago.

Experts were attempting today to identify the body, which had long been immersed in water.

GEAR MISSING

A British Admiralty spokesman said Crabb was the only person wearing frogman's diving gear known to be missing in the area.

The body was found yesterday by a fisherman in the Chichester harbor, which adjoins the Portsmouth harbor where the ace World War II frogman disappeared on a mysterious diving operation near a Russian warship.

Tides and currents have often pushed the bodies of drowned persons from Portsmouth to the Chichester area. It was speculated the body came to the surface after the heavy oxygen cylinder which frogmen carry on their back became detached.

NEVER EXPLAINED

Crabb's mission has never been officially explained. Sir Anthony Eden, then prime minister, was questioned in the House of Commons about whether Crabb had been spying on the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze, which brought Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev to Britain in April last year. Eden declined to answer, hinting that a reply might stir up international complications.

Russian seamen on the Ordzhonikidze reported they saw a frogman — presumably Crabb— near their vessel in Portsmouth Harbor. Russia protested. The British reply expressed regret and said that what Crabb was doing was "completely unauthorized."

The British Admiralty would say only that Crabb, 46, was presumed dead after failing to return from a test dive April 19, 1956.

Frank Lloyd Wright, 88, Tells Success Formula

SPRING GREEN, Wis. (AP)—For some 125 persons helping him celebrate his 88th birthday during the weekend at Taliesin, architect Frank Lloyd Wright summed up his attitude in a sentence:

"I love my work and my wife and tell the truth and that's all I know about what it is that keeps me active and working better than ever at my age.

Outlook Is Cloudy, Showers Tomorrow

The weather outlook for Pontiac and vicinity tonight is partly cloudy and mild with a low of 60 to 64.

Temperatures are expected to average near the normal 72 to 79 degree high and normal 52 to 58 low for the next five days.

Partly cloudy and warm with scattered thundershowers, high 80 to 84, is tomorrow's forecast.

The lowest temperature recorded in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 57. At 2 p.m. the mercury registered 81.

Dinner Planned Wednesday

Flag Day Celebration Set

Fly Old Glory proudly, properly and often.

That's the message behind Flag Day observances this week in Pontiac.

A dinner and a public contest are planned by the Pontiac Elks Lodge Americanism Committee, headed by County Clerk Lynn D. Allen. The dinner is schduled Wednesday, although Flag Day is Friday.

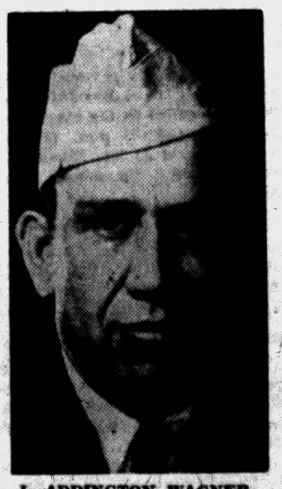
J. Addington Wagner, last year's national commander of the American Legion, will take part, said Allen.

Wagner will address a banquet gathering at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Elks Temple. Allen estimated this year's attendance at the annual dinner will reach a record 400.

Wagner is a 43-year-old World War II veteran who once was Michigan State American Legion Commander. He is a Battle Creek attorney.

The public is invited to the dinner, Allen said, at a cost of $1.50 a person.

Tickets should be reserved by Tuesday, Allen said, at his office in the Oakland County courthouse or at the Elks Temple.



J. ADDINGTON WAGNER

Other banquet events will include a patriotic presentation by Oakland County 4-H Clubs; honoring of about 60 newly-naturalized American citizens of the Pontiac area; and presentation of a $25 U.S. savings bond to the winner of the flag-flying contest.

Allen explained that every year the lodge selects the outstanding flag flown from a Pontiac home.

Committee members this weekend will scout the area, he said, judging home displayed flags for cleanliness, newness, properness and other attractive display features.

"Our big aim is to encourage everyone to take more interest in the flag, and to display it proudly at home — not only on Flag Day and other national holidays, but every day," Allen explained.

'Time on My Hands' Makes Detection Easy

DENVER (AP)—City detectives report this one:

A shoplifter slipped an alarm clock under his coat in a downtown store. Before he reached the door, the alarm went off and a store detective collared him.

Vatican City is a tiny but sovereign state covering a walled-in area of less than 110 acres. Many nations send accredited representatives.

Swans are peaceful birds; therefore live to 30 and 40 and sometimes 100 years old.

President Still Confined to Bed at White House

Doctors Rule Out Link With Heart Ailment or Ileitis Operation

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower was confined to bed today with an upset stomach but his doctors reported at mid-day that he was "progressing very satisfactorily."

Three doctors who were called to the White House one late last night, found no indications that there was any relation between the digestive upset and either the President's ileitis operation or his heart attack.

Mr. Eisenhower vomited three times during the night but had experienced no further nausea since 6 a.m. (EDT).

He was "sleeping comfortably" when the latest bulletin on his condition was issued at about 12:30 p.m.

Presidential News Secretary James C. Hagerty emphasized that there was no plan to take Mr. Eisenhower to the hospital.

He declined to say whether the ailment was considered serious, sticking to the statement prepared by the doctors, but there was no indication that there was anything serious about his condition.

The mid-day bulletin said the President's pulse, temperature, respiration and blood pressure remained normal.

STILL UNKNOWN

The doctors thought the upset stomach was caused by something Mr. Eisenhower ate but had not yet succeeded in pinning down the precise cause.

Hagerty said the President has been taking some liberties with his diet recently and ate more than he should have on his cruise last Thursday and Friday aboard the carrier Saratoga.

Mr. Eisenhower dined alone with the first lady at the White House last night, topping off the meal with a piece of blueberry

Estranged Wife Suffers Injury in Gun Duel

Willis O'Neil Struck by Shotgun Blast; Mate Hit in Chest

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

A Waterford Township real estate agent died early this morning from wounds inflicted in a gun duel with his estranged wife Saturday night.

Willis O'Neil, 42, of 3636 Shaddick Ave., and his wife, Kathryn, 27, of 1260 Eason Ave., shot each other after a family quarrel at Mrs. O'Neil's residence, while her two children by a former marriage huddled in a bedroom.

O'Neil was struck in the abdomen by a charge from a 20 guage shotgun, and his wife was hit in the left side of the chest by a .38 calibre bullet.

Mrs. O'Neil's condition was reported good this morning at Pontiac General Hospital. The prosecutor is expected to take a statement from her today, as well as from the children, Kathie Kelly, 8, and Fred, 7.

Waterford Township police believe Mrs. O'Neil and her husband were on opposite sides of a bookcase room-divider when the shooting started.

She was in the living room and he in the kitchen. Both were shot at close range.

O'Neil apparently broke into the home through the back door, police said. They found the lock forced.

Mr. AND MRS. O'NEIL

He was under a court injunction restraining him from visiting the house.

Neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ellis, of 1268 Eason, told police they heard the sound of breaking glass then the shots. Mrs. O'Neil staggered to the Ellis' home for aid and they called police.

Mrs. O'Neil's father, Edward Rockwell, of 5344 Tubbs Rd., a

Mothers Back Brother of GI

WASHINGTON —An Illinois auto mechanic arrived here today with signatures of 6,800 mothers backing his appeal to the White House that his older brother, William S. Girard, be tried by an American court in the death of a Japanese woman.

Louis Giard, 27, and his blonde wife, Shirley, 30, arrived in Washington by train and went immediately to confer with their attorney here.

The Girards and a delegation from Ottawa, Ill., the family's home town, had an appointment to meet at the White House with Edward A. McCabe, associate counsel to President Eisenhower.

The group hopes to win reversal of an American government Army specialist 3rd class to be tried in a Japanese court.

Asked how he thought the case was going in behalf of his brother, Louis told reporters at union station "not too bad."

BRING PETITIONS

He and his wife said they carried with them 325 petitions containing the names of 6,800 mothers of Ottawa and surrounding communities, gathered for them by sympathetic townspeople.

Coming by airplane, Girard said, was a 180-foot scroll, which had been placed in front of an Ottawa theater for passersby to sign in behalf of Girard. It contains 20,000 signatures, he said.

Hatless and wearing slacks, a dark blue zipper-front sports jacket and a tieless sports shirt, Girard stepped off the train with his wife for what was their first trip to the capital.

Asked if he was seeking a trial here for his brother because he didn't think William would get a fair trial in Japan, Louis said he didn't know too much about it

Myrtle Blackby Jumps to Lead in Weather Derby

With nine days of the June weather contest behind us, the highest temperature so far has been 83 degrees. It was recorded at 3:56 Tuesday, June 4.

Leading the field of prognosticators thus far is Myrtle Blackby of 382 Auburn Ave. Her prediction was that the highest temperature would be at 3:48 p.m. on June 4.

Will she win the $100 savings bond? We don't know. June can pack a lot of heat yet; she also can be a coolish dame when she's contrary.

Only the temperature on the final day of the month can clinch the matter.

Plane Crashes Birthday Party

Four Passengers Killed but 8 Persons at Dinner in Home Unhurt

PACOIMA, Calif. (AP)—A plane hit a house last night, killing the four passengers, but eight persons sharing a birthday dinner in the home were unhurt.

Neighbors in this plane crash-conscious San Fernando Valley suburb of Los Angeles today were calling it "a miracle."

Barry Worth, 30, and his family were finishing hamburgers and corn. A cake with candles was on the table in honor of his mother-in-law's 57th birthday.

Then the rented, single-engine Piper Tri-Pacer plunged down onto the one-story, stucco tract home.

It tore a jagged gash across the roof over the dining and living rooms and wound up in a jumble of wreckage in the patio.

Glass from a shattered picture window showered around the diners, who were only 10 feet from the wreckage, but none of them were even hurt. There was no fire.

Stocks Go Down and Up

NEW YORK (INS)—The stock market reacted violently with a wave of selling to initial news of President Eisenhower's illness today, but prices later improved. Losses reached as much as about six dollars in some industrials and one to two-dollar deficits were widespread among market favorites in mid-morning.

Nixon Backs Decision

School Trustees Being Selected

4 Candidates Compete for Pontiac Posts, 8 in Waterford

Voters in the Pontiac and Waterford school districts are going to the polls today to choose two board of education members in each district.

Polls opened at 7 a.m. today and will stay open until 8 p.m. tonight. Anyone in line at 8 p.m. will be allowed to vote.

In Pontiac, four candidates are contending for the two seats. They are: Louis H. Schimmel, Robert B. Oliver, William H. Anderson and Lloyd R. Ludy.

Schimmel and Oliver are long-time board members, while Anderson and Ludy are making their first bids for the school board seats.

Pontiac School District has a seven-man board and members serve four-year terms.

In Waterford there are eight candidates in the scramble for two seats.

They are: Mrs. Donald E. Adams, incumbent, and Jerome K. Barry Jr., Lester Carson, Mrs. Melvin E. Inglehart, Williard V. Johnson, Richard D. Kuhn, Frank R. Rudlaff, and Charles W. Walters.

The two elected will serve three-year terms on a five-member board.

Headless Body of Frogman Found in Harbor by British

CHICHESTER, England (AP) — The headless, handless body of a man dressed in a frogman's dark rubber suit has been found floating 11 miles from where British frogman Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb mysteriously disappeared 13½ months ago.

Experts were attempting today to identify the body, which had long been immersed in water.

GEAR MISSING

A British Admiralty spokesman said Crabb was the only person wearing frogman's diving gear known to be missing in the area.

The body was found yesterday by a fisherman in the Chichester harbor, which adjoins the Portsmouth harbor where the ace World War II frogman disappeared on a mysterious diving operation near a Russian warship.

Tides and currents have often pushed the bodies of drowned persons from Portsmouth to the Chichester area. It was speculated the body came to the surface after the heavy oxygen cylinder which frogmen carry on their back became detached.

NEVER EXPLAINED

Crabb's mission has never been officially explained. Sir Anthony Eden, then prime minister, was questioned in the House of Commons about whether Crabb had been spying on the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze, which brought Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev to Britain in April last year. Eden declined to answer, hinting that a reply might stir up international complications.

Russian seamen on the Ordzhonikidze reported they saw a frogman — presumably Crabb — near their vessel in Portsmouth Harbor. Russia protested. The British reply expressed regret and said that what Crabb was doing was "completely unauthorized."

The British Admiralty would say only that Crabb, 46, was presumed dead after failing to return from a test dive April 19, 1956.

Frank Lloyd Wright, 88, Tells Success Formula

SPRING GREEN, Wis. (AP)—For some 125 persons helping him celebrate his 88th birthday during the weekend at Taliesin, architect Frank Lloyd Wright summed up his attitude in a sentence:

"I love my work and my wife and tell the truth and that's all I know about what it is that keeps me active and working better than ever at my age.

Dinner Planned Wednesday

Flag Day Celebration Set

Fly Old Glory proudly, properly and often.

That's the message behind Flag Day observances this week in Pontiac.

A dinner and a public contest are planned by the Pontiac Elks Lodge Americanism Committee, headed by County Clerk Lynn D. Allen. The dinner is schduled Wednesday, although Flag Day is Friday.

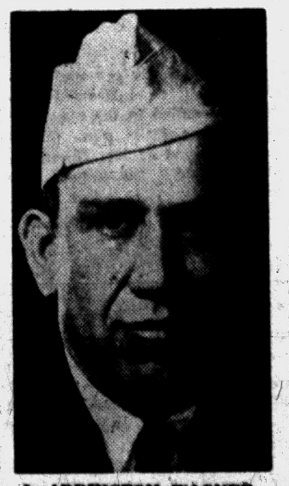
J. Addington Wagner, last year's national commander of the American Legion, will take part, said Allen.

Wagner will address a banquet gathering at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Elks Temple. Allen estimated this year's attendance at the annual dinner will reach a record 400.

Wagner is a 43-year-old World War II veteran who once was Michigan State American Legion Commander. He is a Battle Creek attorney.

The public is invited to the dinner, Allen said, at a cost of $1.50 a person.

Tickets should be reserved by Tuesday, Allen said, at his office in the Oakland County courthouse or at the Elks Temple.



J. ADDINGTON WAGNER

Other banquet events will include a patriotic presentation by Oakland County 4-H Clubs; honoring of about 60 newly-naturalized American citizens of the Pontiac area; and presentation of a $25 U.S. savings bond to the winner of the flag-flying contest.

Allen explained that every year the lodge selects the outstanding flag flown from a Pontiac home.

Committee members this weekend will scout the area, he said, judging home displayed flags for cleanliness, newness, properness and other attractive display features.

"Our big aim is to encourage everyone to take more interest in the flag, and to display it proudly at home — not only on Flag Day and other national holidays, but every day," Allen explained.

Nixon Defends Aid to Poland

95 Million Loan 'Good Gamble'

May Boost Freedom in Red-Dominated Land, MSU Graduates Told

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Vice President Nixon describes economic aid to Poland as a "gamble worth taking."

It pits "the explosive power of freedom" against communism, he said yesterday in defending the administration's agreement to loan Poland 95 million dollars to buy U.S. farm products and mining equipment.

★ ★ ★

In a speech at Michigan State University commencement exercises, the vice president also said that if labor legislation results from the Senate rackets investigation, Congress must avoid blaming "an entire movement for the blunders and crimes of a minority." It must not "weaken or destroy unions," he said.

OPPOSES KNOWLAND

Nixon's stand on the loan to Poland opposes the views of Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California.

Knowland said recently such aid would tend to beef up Communist regimes in the satellite nations.

★ ★ ★

"There is no question but that Poland is a Communist country," Nixon said. "But the Polish people have been displaying determination to follow a course independent of the Soviet Union."

★ ★ ★

The vice president cited two alternatives. He said one would be to "drive the Polish people and government back to complete domination by Moscow in the hopes that Poland will then be an economic burden on the Soviet Union."

"If we follow this course," he said, "we are in effect saying that there is no evolutionary road to independence for a people dominated by communism and that violent revolution is their only resort if they want to be free."

FEED FREEDOM

He said the other alternative would be to assist Poland toward increasing independence from Russia. This would be done "with the hope that Communists in other lands will see that freedom and freedom alone brings out the best qualities in men," he said.

★ ★ ★

"We do this not because we approve of communism but because we believe that the explosive power of freedom is great enough to destroy communism once it is given a chance to flourish," he said.

★ ★ ★

However, the administration is "under no illusions that our policy is certain to succeed," he told an audience of 25,000.

He said the Poles and their government still might be forced into complete subservience to the Soviet Union.

"But certainly here is a gamble worth taking," he said.

DISCUSSING UNIONS

Turning to labor, Nixon said the congressional committee is doing a good job in exposing activities of union officials "who broke faith with their union membership." The "more difficult question," he said is just what legislation should result.

★ ★ ★

Nixon said "legislation of the most drastic character" would be the wrong approach.

"The aim of any legislation in this field must not be to weaken or destroy unions, but to give union members the tools they need to make all unions follow the good practices which many unions follow today," he said.

DEGREE AWARDED

The vice president was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Nixon apparently has decided his best chances for winning the 1960 Republican presiedential nomination is to be labeled as an "Eisenhower" Republican.

★ ★ ★

In the last few days Nixon has gone a long way toward severing the ties he once had with the conservative wing of Republicans. He has lined up beside Eisenhower on foreign aid and spending needs.

Ike's Condition Improves but He Remains in Bed

pie. The rest of the menu was not disclosed.

Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland of California talked with one of the President's top aides, Wilton B. Persons, and then told newsmen: "They're feeling much better over there (the White House) about his condition."

★ ★ ★

The President suffered the stomach upset Sunday evening, and it caused him distress throughout the night.

The White House emphasized that the chief executive's pulse and temperature were normal and that there was no intention of taking him to a hospital. But all his appointments were canceled.

As a routine precaution, an electro-cardiograph tracing of Mr. Eisenhower's heart action was made and physicians said it ruled out any possibility of a recurrence of the President's coronary ailment.

LAST NIGHT

Mr. Eisenhower's latest illness occurred last night. It was exactly one year from the date of his ileitis operation, June 9, 1956.

But the White House stressed that the discomfort was digestive and in no way related to either the ileitis or to the heart attack he suffered on Sept. 24, 1955.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon told newsmen of Mr. Eisenhower's condition: "Most of us expect to see him back in the office tomorrow morning."

Mr. Eisenhower holds his regular weekly conference with congressional GOP leaders every Tuesday morning.

★ ★ ★

Knowland said, however, the President's Tuesday appointment schedule was "still up in the air."

Nixon said he received a phone call about 9:30 a. m. EDT from persons who informed him of the President's stomach upset and that White House News Secretary Hagerty called him later to inform him of the news announcement about the President's illness.

★ ★ ★

Nixon's only comment was: "There is no reason for me to make a statement. When most of us have a cold or an upset stomach it's not news. When he does, it is."

The President's personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, was called to the executive mansion at 10:20 p.m. (EDT) and remained at Mr. Eisenhower's bedside throughout the night.

The operation the chief executive underwent at Walter Reed Hospital a year ago was for removal of an obstruction in the lower part of the small intestine.

SPARKS CONTROVERSY

The 1956 surgery touched off a medical controversy over the possibility of a recurrence of ileitis, the ailment which made the operation necessary.

Dr. Snyder was in and out of the President's room several times during the night, Hagerty reported.

CALL SPECIALIST

Hagerty also said that as a routine precaution, one of the specialists who treated Mr. Eisenhower at the time of his heart attack of Sept. 24, 1955, was called to the White House early this morning.

He was Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, chief of cardiology at Walter Reed Army Hospital, who made an electro-cardiograph tracing of Mr. Eisenhower's heart action.

The test showed no deviation from the series of such tracings made since the President's heart attack recovery, ruling out the possibility that the Chief Executive might have suffered another mild coronary.

★ ★ ★

The White House announcement of the President's illness gave newsmen chilling recollections of the heart attack and ileitis disclosures.

In each case the President's ailment was first described as an upset stomach, as it was today.

All of the President's appointments for today were canceled.

Hagerty said he did not know how long Mr. Eisenhower might remain in bed but said there was no thought of transferring him to a hospital.

The White House news secretary also said he had made a mistake Saturday in announcing that Mr. Eisenhower was no longer receiving blood-thinning anti-coagulants for his heart condition. Hagerty said he misunderstood a report from Dr. Snyder that the drug was now being administered to the President only six days a week, instead of seven.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

Why does a cold front often arrive unexpectedly, without warning? Does it move faster than its counterpart, the warm front?

A cold front often speeds along at 25 to 35 miles an hour and gives no high-in-the-sky advance notice, as does the cirrus clouds of a warm front. This is because the cold front, unlike the warm, arrives on the surface before it passes over you high above.

Its leading edge slants backward. Therefore, the first notice you may have is one of gusty, chillier winds, and often the cold front produces short, intense showers—followed by colder, and clear, weather.

Cold fronts arrive all through the year and do not necessarily produce precipitation. In summer you may notice nothing other than a cooling of the weather. This usually means a cold front has passed in unnoticed, bringing with it more pleasant—and usually drier—air. In winter the fronts bring wth them correspondingly colder weather as would be expected.

Charged on 2 Embezzling Counts

Thorpe Couple Arraigned

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—Anna and Floyd Thorpe were arraigned today on two counts of embezzling more than $75,000 in state auto license fees.

They stood mute before JJustice Francis A. Castellucci and were held on $50,000 bond each pending Municipal Court examination June 24.

Mrs. Thorpe, who returned with her husband from Texas last Friday after a 15-month flight, was charged with embezzlement and conspiracy to embezzle.

Her husband was charged with aiding and abetting embezzlement and with conspiracy to embezzle. Each count carries a maximum sentence of four years.

The couple, who said they had less than $22 between them when they were brought back to Michigan, failed to make bond and were returned to the Macomb County jail.

ACCOUNT FOR MONEY

Macomb County Prosecutor Cecil A. Byers said the Thorpes in weekend questioning had accounted for all but $5,300 of the missing auto license fees from the St. Clair Shores Branch managed by Mrs. Thorpe.

Byers said the Thorpes agreed to be questioned on a polygraph (lie detector) as to how they spent the money. Formal statements were taken by state police detectives.

According to their statement, Byers said, the Thorpes took $72,000 when they fled to Mexico in March 1956. Another $9,000 was taken before their flight, of which about half is still in a St. Clair Shores bank.

MAY RECOVER

They spent $56,000 in investments. Byers said part of this may be recovered.

The prosecutor said the Thorpes told of putting $46,000 into a hotel and bar at Mazatlan, Mexico. Originally they had said the investment was $65,000.

Another $4,000 went for a down payment on a bar at Corpus Christi, Texas, where the couple was arrested last Tuesday by the FBI, Byers said, and they spent $6,000 on a 1956 station wagon purchased in Mexico City.

LIVING EXPENSES

Byers said the Thorpes spent the remaining $16,000 for living and travel expenses and for improvements to the Mexican bar and motel.

Dead Tots' Mom Held in Hospital

Await Medical Report on 3 Children's Bodies Found in Home

DETROIT (AP)—A young Detroit mother who said she killed her three children was held in a hospital psychiatric ward today.

Action against Mrs. Constance Wheeldon, 29, was held up pending a complete medical examiner's report on the deaths of her children, James, 4, Deborah, 1½, and Diane, six months.

Mrs. Wheeldon called police from her northwest side home Saturday and said she had killed her children. When officers arrived, they found the mother partially overcome by gas. Bodies of the two older children were in the partly filled bathtub. The baby was in her crib.

Preliminary examination indicated all had been suffocated. Asst. Prosecutor Ronald Prebenda said Mrs. Wheeldon told him she tried to choke the children first, then placed them in the bathtub.

SHE WAS AFRAID

Detective Sgt. Robert Grindle said Mrs. Wheeldon told him she killed the children because she was afraid the younger ones would be taken from her.

She told detectives she recently discovered that Jack Clark, a crane operator she married last March 29, is still legally married to a previous wife. He was the father of Deborah and Diane, she said.

Mrs. Wheeldon was divorced in 1956 from James L. Wheeldon, whom she married in 1952 in Germany where she was stationed as an army nurse.

Detectives said Mrs. Wheeldon has been "highly distraught, distressed and weeps easily." They quoted her as saying, "I don't want to see or talk to anybody on earth."

Mrs. Wheeldon was employed as a registered nurse at Metropolitan Hospital.

An open house was held today preceding formal opening tomorrow of the 400-space garage. Another 600-car section will open Oct. 15.

The Day in Birmingham

Commissioners to Discuss 1957 Road Oil Program

BIRMINGHAM—Public hearings will hold the spotlight at tonight's city commission meeting. Four of the hearings will be on the 1957 road oil program, one on the amendment to the zoning ordinance and the final on the legal advisors report of a revised off-street parking ordinance.

Commissioners also will hear the managers reports on the access drive request for a small shopping development at Pierce street and 14 Mile road.

Relief is being sought by Helen Holmes of Bates street for a condition created by tree roots clogging sewer pipes. She has already spent nearly $600 replacing pipe and asks the city if something can't be done to curb the planting of willow trees near city service lines.

Further discussion on the north Evergreen sewer disposal authority the Bates Maple alley and its preliminary cost are to be discussed.

Harold K. Turner is again repeating his rezoning request in the Bowers-Elm area. Now zoned for single dwelling, Turner asks a change be made to permit him to store used cars in the area.

A sophomore at Western College for Women, Dianna Forshew has been named Business Manager of "Scope," the literary publication of the college. Miss Forshew is an English major and last fall was named to the Dean's list. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Forshew of Glengary road.

Birmingham police are launching a community wide drive to curb the number of thefts of hub caps within the city. Juvenile officer Det. Robert Schaule said motorists are being asked to have car motor numbers or some other identification marked on the caps.

Stolen hub caps are one of the major items appearing in police records. Schaule said he felt that by proper identification lessening the chance of sale of the caps the activity could be sharply curtailed. It is mainly the work of juveniles, who would hesitate to try peddling the stolen caps if the theft were plainly indicated by identification markings.

Police have in the past prosecuted buyers of stolen material. This, too, is difficult since too often there is no way of telling whether or not the material has been stolen. Schaule stated that in addition to the request of owners cooperation, additional checking would be made in parking lots particularly those drawing night theater trade where the activity is heaviest.

Friends of Girard Confer at Capitol

over there, "but I don't think he would."

BROTHER ON TV

Tonight, Louis Girard and his wife Shirley are scheduled to appear on the ABC television program Press Conference.

William Girard, 21, is charged with fatally shooting Mrs. Naka scavenging for scrap metal on a firing range used by American forces in Japan. Girard has said the shooting was accidental.

The case has generated considerable controversy here and in Japan. Some members of Congress have demanded cancellation or revision of a Japanese-American agreement under which U. S. soldiers may be tried by Japanese courts for offenses committed while off duty.

Opponents of a Japanese trial for Girard contend he was on duty at the time of the shooting incident. They cite his orders to guard American equipment on the firing range. The Japanese argue Girard's orders did not go so far as to allow him to shoot.

Detroit Red Wings Get Terry Sawchuk

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings today brought Terry Sawchuk back to big league hockey, giving the Boston Bruins left winger John Bucyk and an undisclosed amount of cash for the veteran goaltender who retired last December because of a nervous condition.

Sawchuk, 27, thus returns to the team that brought him into the National Hockey League in 1950 and traded him off after five sensational seasons in the Red Wing nets.

Sawchuk quit the Bruins in the middle of the 1956-57 season after a siege of mononucleosis, a blood disease. He returned to action for a short time but later left the team, saying he could no longer stand the strain.

The trade leaves the Red Wings, champions of the NHL eight times in the last nine seasons, with two goalies. It is expected that the Red Wings will announce before the summer's end a trade that will send goalie Glenn Hall to another team, possibly the Chicago Black Hawks.

News Flashes

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams said today he still is undecided whether to approve a whisky-cigarette financing plan for state school aid in 1957-58. He announced he will give his decision in a statewide television talk Thursday night (10:30 p.m. EST).

SCOTTVILLE (AP) — An explosion-racked blaze, believed started in a hardware store, left damages estimated today at $300,000 in the business district of this small west Michigan community.

Fire Chief Burton Moore reported the Mattix Hardware Store a total loss. He said an adjacent variety store, a restaurant and a grocery suffered extensive damage. Five stores across the street lost display windows because of the extreme heat.

This Thief Was Thirsty

Oakland County Deputies reported today the breaking and entering of the Auburn Beverage Store, 3955 Auburn Rd., Pontiac Twp., sometime after it closed at 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

Deputies said that the thief escaped with various bottles of beer, ginger beer, wine and soft drinks valued at at estimated $70.

Detective Cuts Ankle in Gas Station Arrest

Detective Orville Johnson, Pontiac Police, cut his ankle last night as he and two officers were attempting to apprehend two Detroit men who allegedly broke into a local gas station and were caught at the scene.

Johnson was treated for lacerations of his left ankle and then released from Pontiac General Hospital. He was injured when he kicked out a window of Omans Sunoco Station, 18 Orchard Lake Ave., after the two men inside the station refused to open the door, according to Inspector Clark M. Wheaton.

The two Detroit men, Oscar Coleman, 23, of 5015 Spokane St., and Robert Coleman, 29, of 1734 Chicago Blvd., were to be arraigned in Municipal Court today, charged with breaking and entering.

Lt. Donnie Ashley and Officer Thomas Larrison assisted Johnson in apprehending the men after police received a telephone call that two men were seen breaking into the station about 10:45 p.m.

QUESTION: Where were the first American apartments?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: The ruins of strange dwellings in Colorado, Utah, Arizona and New Mexico are all that is left of apartment-like dwellings built by early Americans called cliff dwellers.

These Indians made pottery, cloth, baskets and stone tools. More warlike Indians would often attack them.

For protection, they built tall homes in caves, high on rocky ledges. Some of these homes held several hundred families. They would use ladders to climb the cliffs, and take the ladders up after them. Their homes, several stories high, were built of flat stones, plastered with clay. Each building had one door and several air-hole windows.

The Indians kept gardens in a valley below, but would store grain and water in their high village. These supplies would help them outlast enemy attacks.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: This summer, try to model a cliff dweller's house out of clay. You may color this picture, remembering the western mountains are sandy and orange-tinted in the sunset.

Bob Considine Says:

'Formers' Keep Joiners in Action

NEW YORK (INS) — You've heard of joiners, of course. But how about my handsome and handsomely named friend F. Darius Benham, Esq. Fred (a name he abhors, understandably) is a Former. He forms clubs and organizations for joiners to join.

Somebody's got to take care of things like that or the Joiners would soon spill all over the place. Wars have been caused by such imbalances in supply and demand and for want of lebensraum. F. D. Benham, who used to be a newspaperman himself, stands ready to serve in this continuing emergency.

His latest club, of which he hopes to make Lowell Thomas president, is the Interplanetary Exploration Society. It is primarily for goateed writer-joiners who go in heavy for life on our moon and the love life of the Venusians, though others are welcome.

We were standing at the bar at the Press Box, scene of the last meeting of the IES, when a lady member came in carrying a caged parrot, apparently also a member.

* * *

Several members, I understand, have taken rides on flying saucers, though it is not a strict requirement in the minds of the admissions people.

FAST ON THEIR FEET

Eager Joiners must be fast on their feet to get into the IES before the quota is filled, and they must be wholeheartedly in favor of the proposed exchange of students between Earth and Pluto.

* * *

Benham formed the Seraphic Club years ago on the advice of his great good friend and former World boss, Herbert Bayard Swope. "Cultivate secretaries!" the great man boomed at Benham one day, without warning. "Every big man in the United States has a great secretary and 70 per cent of them are women!"

Benham needed no further word from his leader. He formed the Seraphic group, a contraction of secretary and stenographer, one is forced to presume.

The right-hand girls of the biggest tycoons of New York now meet regularly, and in great style, and command some of the top speakers of the times.

* * *

One of Benham's good pals through the years was (and is) Louise Hachmeister, who commanded the White House switchboard during the administrations of Roosevelt and Truman.

Fred was browsing about Washington embassy and legation row one season, offering his estimable services as a public relations man to all in need, and found to his chagrin that few seemed to be in need. He found it increasingly hard to explain his credentials to one particular ambassador—until he remembered Hackie.

'CALL ME THERE'

"Hackie," he said, "I'm going to be at the Lower Slabovian Legation at 3:30 today, would you be a pal and call me there?"

* * *

Fred was sweating it out with the guy, and not doing too well, when a legation aide burst in. "It's the White House on the phone, your excellency," he shouted. "The White House is calling Mr. Benham!"

Fred sighed wearily. "Will you pardon me, please?" he asked the now deeply impressed man. And he stepped over to the phone and passed the time of day briefly with Hackie.

P.S. He not only got the job but formed Tops—a club for Joiners who are telephone switchboard supervisors.

* * *

Benham's Circus Saints and Sinners emerged from a feature he wrote years ago about a down-and-out clown. It has expanded to 20 cities, raises $25,000 a year for circus relief funds, has had such Fall Guys as Dwight D. Eisenhower, Sen. Taft, Alben Barkley and Toots Shor. Its luncheons at the Waldorf are tremendous affairs, rivaling Broadway musical comedy productions.

Fred, Wythe Williams, Charlie Ferlin, Irene Kuhn and a couple others formed the Overseas Press Club of America in the late 1930s, an organization which now has 1,700 Joiners, a fine clubhouse, no mortgage and is almost as solvent as Fred's new leader, Bill Zeckendorf.

States Give Cities Break on Car Tags

CHICAGO — A survery by the American Municipal Association has gound that most states exempt from regular automobile-license fees cars, buses, and trucks owned by cities, counties, and school districts.

Only seven states do not provide for especially low registration fees for all motor vehicles owned by their political subdivisions.

Twenty-eight states charge no fee at all for municipal, county, and public - school-owned vehicles. Other states charge local governments from 50 cents up to $10 for each one. The usual fee among those making a charge is $1 per vehicle.

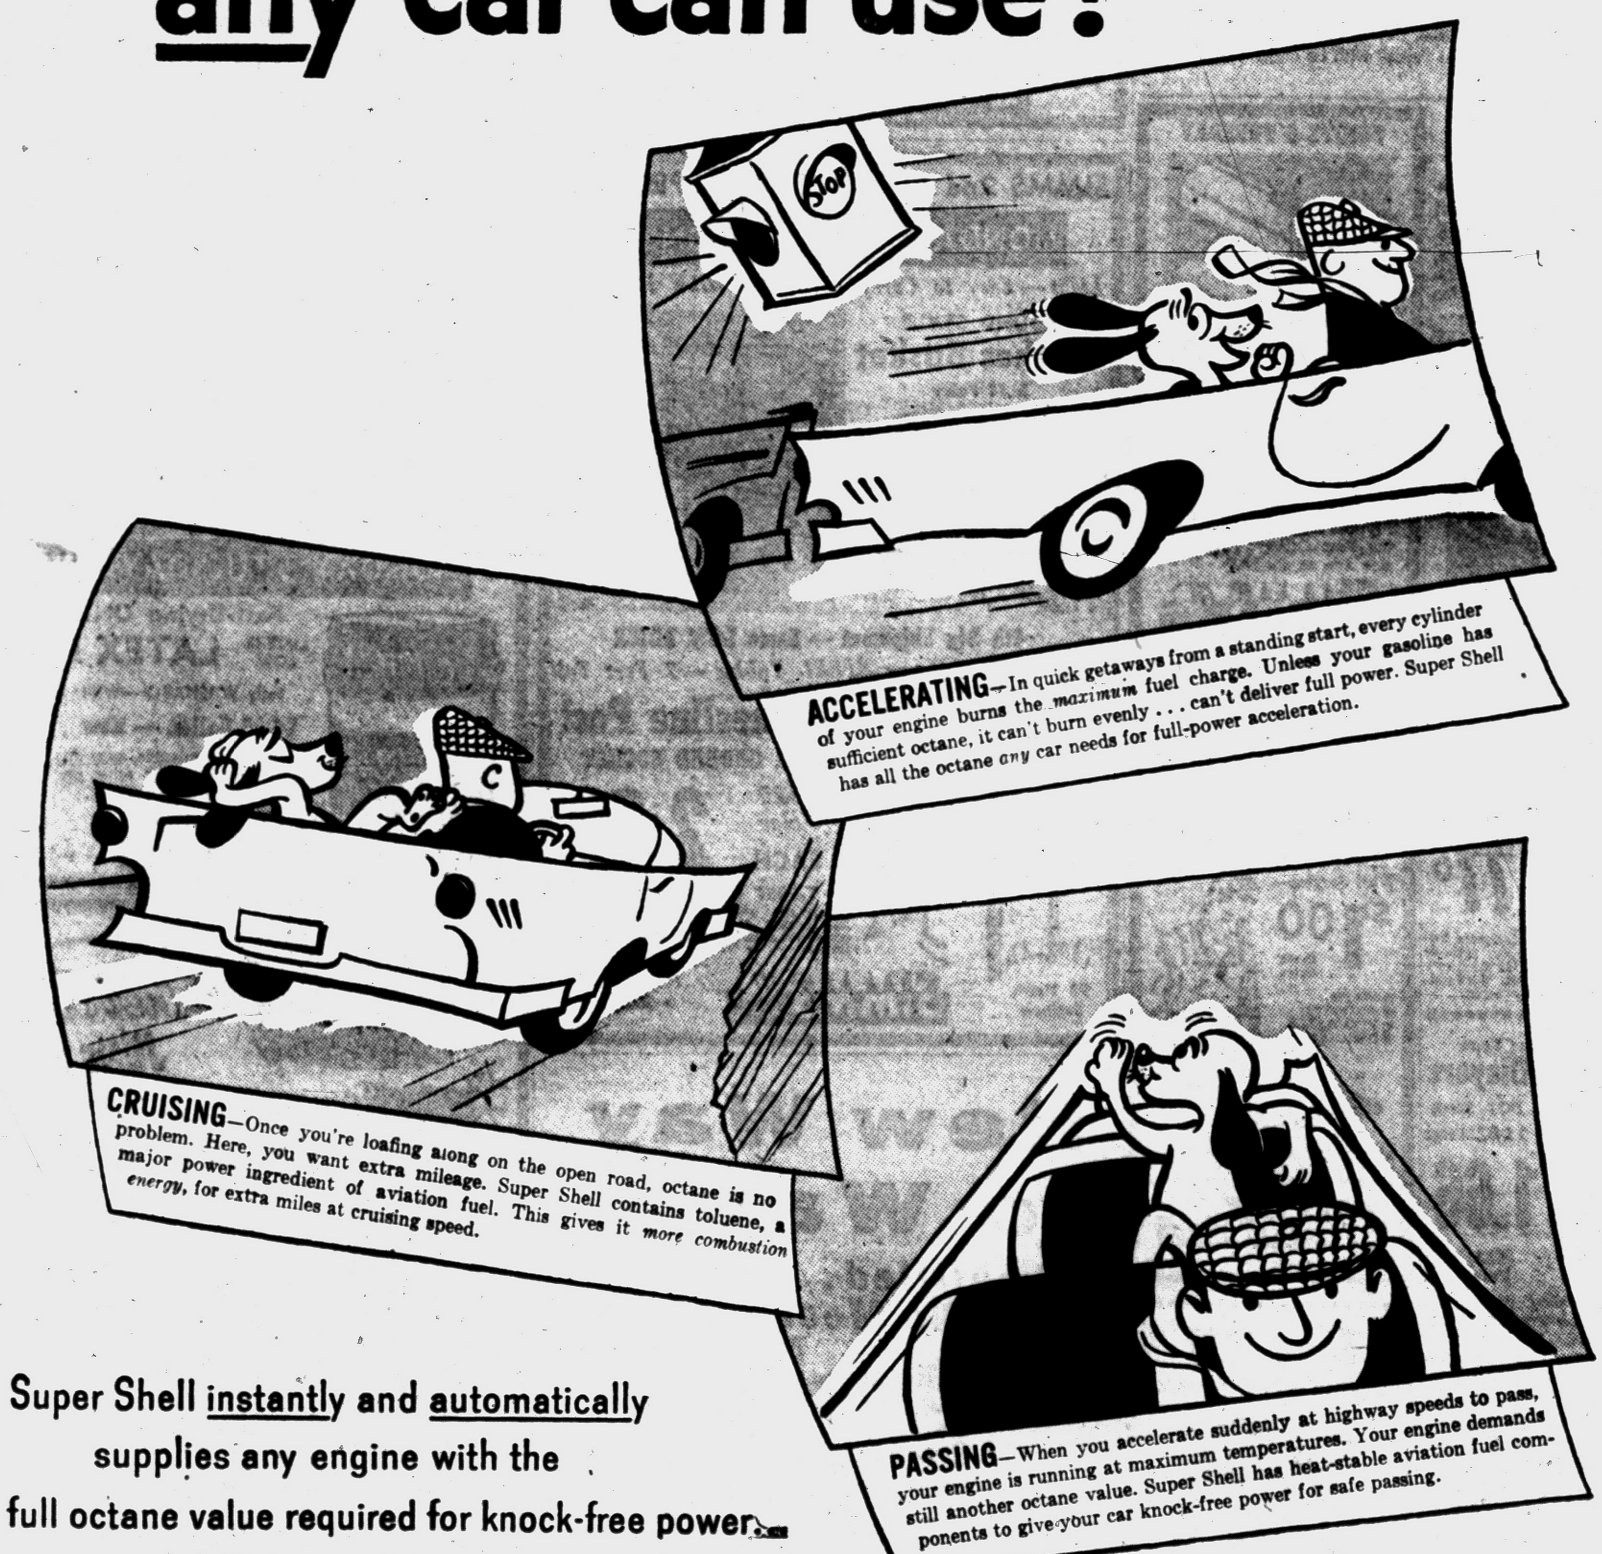
The most powerful gasoline any car can use!



ACCELERATING—In quick getaways from a standing start, every cylinder of your engine burns the maximum fuel charge. Unless your gasoline has sufficient octane, it can't burn evenly . . . can't deliver full power. Super Shell has all the octane any car needs for full-power acceleration.

CRUISING—Once you're loafing along on the open road, octane is no problem. Here, you want extra mileage. Super Shell contains toluene, a major power ingredient of aviation fuel. This gives it more combustion energy, for extra miles at cruising speed.

PASSING—When you accelerate suddenly at highway speeds to pass, your engine is running at maximum temperatures. Your engine demands still another octane value. Super Shell has heat-stable aviation fuel components to give your car knock-free power for safe passing.

Super Shell instantly and automatically supplies any engine with the full octane value required for knock-free power under every driving condition

SUPER SHELL is a new grade of gasoline from the molecules up! It's a higher grade of gasoline—developed to meet the critical power demands of today's high-compression cars and the even more powerful cars of the future.

At the same time, Super Shell delivers better performance than ever in cars now using premium gasoline. That's because Super Shell Gasoline automatically supplies the octane value any engine needs under every driving condition.

This means you get maximum acceleration from a standing start . . . more miles from every gallon while cruising . . . extra power for safe passing at highway speeds.

And Super Shell has TCP* additive to guard your power. TCP neutralizes harmful engine deposits and unleashes the full power of high octane, mile after mile.

So stop in at your Shell Dealer's and fill up with Super Shell . . . the most powerful gasoline any car can use!

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research.

Marshall Plan Served in Revitalizing Europe

When a commemorative silver medal was presented to Gen. GEORGE C. MARSHALL recently in Washington on behalf of 17 European nations, it marked the tenth anniversary of the Marshall Plan.

President EISENOWER joined European leaders in honoring Gen. MARSHALL and said that the recovery aid suggested in his Harvard University speech June 5, 1947, prevented economic and political chaos in Europe.

In a letter to the former Secretary of State and wartime Army Chief of Staff, the President wrote "that this tragedy was averted is due in large measure to the bold and imaginative undertaking which you proposed and which rightfully bears your name."

★ ★ ★

When this aid first was suggested an air of insecurity and impending disaster hovered over Europe. Much of the Continent was in ruins. Russian and Chinese expansionism had shattered the dream of East-West co-operation. Britain was no longer able to help Greece and Turkey against Communist subversion and Russian threats. Severe weather and crop failures had added to the distress.

★ ★ ★

An American editor recently returned from the Continent found Western Europe "flourishing, vigorous, optimistic . . . People in many countries are living better than they have in years . . . Communist subversion is much less a threat."

The editor also found real enthusiasm about the many programs aimed at European unity such as the Common Market, Euratom and the Coal and Steel Community. He pointed out, however, that prosperity there does not reach down deep enough and does not approach that of the United States.

Between 1948 and 1950 through the Marshal Plan, the American taxpayers gave $12 billion to 17 nations of Western Europe. This help turned despair into hope and laid the foundation for the free world system of mutual security and co-operation.

As WINSTON CHURCHILL has so aptly said of the plan "nothing like this has ever been seen in history."

A Readymade Job

The magazine Vision, specializing in Central and South American affairs, reports that a new Red headquarters is being set up in Montevideo, Uruguay.

Until 1940 Montevideo was headquarters for the South American bureau of the Comintern, Red international organization. At the present time Uruguay has only two diplomatic representatives in Moscow, while Russia has 50 in Montevideo.

From there Communist propaganda is distributed to all Spanish speaking countries. Anti-American and pro-Communist posters appear on billboards and anti-American radio programs have top spots.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps of greater interest is the fact that JACOB ARBENZ, president of the Communist controlled Guatemalan government in 1954, has been granted exile in Uruguay. He lived for a time in Switzerland and France after fleeing Guatemala. But most of his exile has been spent in Czechoslovakia and other Communist satellites.

★ ★ ★

ARBENZ says he is not a Communist and has no Communist connections. It's strange, however, that his government was Communist controlled and that he lived in Communist countries after he left Guatemala.

Now that a new Communist headquarters is opening in Montevideo, Arbenz no doubt will be of inestimable value to these enemies of free people in South America.

Safety Belts Approved

Traffic experts have been arguing for some years as to the effectiveness of safety belts in automobiles.

Some critics point out that any sudden stop would throw you forward striking your head on the instrument panel or windshield. Others say and truly enough, that there might be times when a belt could prevent your getting out of the car quickly enough if you drove into deep water.

★ ★ ★

Now comes Cornell University's Committee on Transportation Safety Research to tell us that after 10 years of study, properly designed and installed seat belts will increase a car occupants' chances of escaping accident injury by nearly 60 per cent. This conclusion was reached after studying more than 5,000 case histories of injury producing accidents.

★ ★ ★

JOHN O. MOORE, director of the study, said that one of the obvious reasons for the success of safety belts is the protection they afford by keeping passengers inside a car when the doors fly open. In 50 per cent of all accidents involving cars manufactured prior to 1956, he pointed out, passenger ejection is the second most important cause of injury.

★ ★ ★

The Cornell Committee warns that there are many belts now flooding the market which do not afford proper protection. A safety belt should meet the standards of the Society of Automotive Engineers and be securely anchored to the chassis.

Of course, the best belt in the world is of no value unless it is in use when the accident occurs.

"Be Kind to Animals, I Always Say"

David Lawrence Says:

Reds Plot to Frighten Americans

WASHINGTON — Will the Communists be successful in their conspiracy to scare America into halting tests of weapons vitally necessary for the protection and survival of the American people in a nuclear war?

The answer is that they will not succeed if President Eisenhower and the officials of the Atomic Energy Commission can have the help of loyal Americans in exposing and refusing to participate in the propaganda which Communist sympathizers, as well as their unwitting stooges here and abroad in the scientific world, have been stimulating now for more than three years.

LAWRENCE

RISKS NEGLIGIBLE

Over and over again reputable scientists with access to all the official data and information derived from the tests and from authoritative reports on the "fallout" have assured the American people that the risks involved are negligible compared to the knowledge gained to assure the defense against nuclear weapons of the enemy.

But, despite this, the propaganda of confusion has persisted. Members of Congress and leaders of the British Parliament have denounced it as Communist propaganda.

President Eisenhower himself told his press conference last week that there are many honest people engaged in the controversy but many of them "seem to be out of their own field of competence" and that it "looks almost like an organized affair."

NO AXE-GRINDING

He said that he would rather accept the report of the National Academy of Sciences, "which has no axe to grind of any kind and is not looking for publicity." This report, after an exhaustive investigation, stated that the dangers of "fallout" due to tests were not as much as from ordinary X-rays and such radioactivity as results from the sun's rays and other natural phenomena.

Attention has been called by high officials here and abroad to the fact that the agitation against nuclear tests grows vociferous only when the British and Americans engage in them and not when the Russians explode their test bombs.

The reading public as a whole doesn't know one scientist from another, and the newspapers, of course, have to print the news as it arises.

NO KNOWLEDGE

Just the other day big headlines announced that 2,000 scientists had signed a petition against further tests, and a few days later Dr. Joel Hildebrand, professor emeritus of chemistry at the University of California and a past president of the American Chemical Society, said that not one per cent of those who had signed the petition has a specialist's knowledge of the subject.

Last week Representative Lawrence H. Smith of Wisconsin, Republican, and Representative Francis E. Walter of Pennsylvania, Democrat, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, lashed out at Dr. Linus Pauling, head of the chemistry division of the California Institute of Technology, who announced the petition of the 2,000 scientists to the press.

Walter read into the proceedings of the House of Representatives data showing Dr. Pauling's relationships to petitions signed in behalf of a list of organizations alleged to be Communist fronts.

SUBVERSIVE GROUP

Among them was a petition he signed in behalf of the "Civil Rights Congress," which was cited by the Attorney General's office as "subversive" in December 1947 and was included in the list issued by the Department of Justice as late as September 1954. Representative Smith also denounced Dr. Pauling's activities and made this statement:

"The Communist conspiracy is seeking to disarm America. By clever propaganda it is seeking to create a national hysteria so the people will demand that our H-bomb testing be stopped. The campaign is under way and its objective is to spread fear among Americans and thus eventually disarm our country."

Former President Truman a few days ago said that the dangers from "fallout" tests involved "a small sacrifice" compared to the advantages, and added:

"We must not be panicked by the Soviet campaign of fear incitement either through threats of the use of the bomb or by their propaganda of the horrors of the 'fallout' intended primarily to cripple the defense efforts of the West."

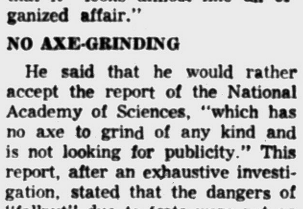
LI'L ONES



"Hey, mister, can I have any worms you find?"

Dr. William Brady Says:

Blood Pressure Goes Up Along With Doctor Bills

Here's a poor soul in danger of being exploited by racketeers that have invaded the field of medicine in recent years. She writes:

DR. BRADY

"I am a working mother, 42 years old, and I wish you would enlighten me in reference to the statement in your pamphlet (The Menopause, for which send stamped, self-addressed envelope) that high blood pressure does not occur from the change.

"My doctor, of the — Clinic, is keeping a check on my blood pressure. It goes up very fast and comes down in a few minutes when I relax. Taking pills, which do not help. Never had high blood pressure before, but now it seems . . ." (Mrs. D. S. A.)

In the first place, ma'am, from the data you give, I'd say your "high blood pressure" is iatrogenic—doctor-caused. In the next place, the "clinic" you mention is a phony institution.

Aside from that, it seems to me as quackish to tell a patient what her blood pressure reads as it is to encourage her to believe that "change" causes whatever complaints she may have.

NOT ABNORMAL

As your letter shows, your chief and only complaint is "high blood pressure." It would not be abnormal for the blood pressure of a man or a woman of your age to show just such variations as you mention, under similar anxiety.

I don't know enough about your way of living, ma'am, to recommend a specific remedy. But I do advise you to get your mind off your blood pressure, cut loose from the phony "clinic," and adopt some sort of regular program which will give you adequate, daily physical activity or general exercise—such as five or six miles of oxygen on the hoof every day or housework or other exercise.

Or, if you already have enough daily work or play to meet your requirement of general physical activity, let your two or three hours of recreation be spent in reading, gossiping, watching TV, or whatever loafing you enjoy.

Your letter indicates that you think "high blood pressure" is an ailment. It isn't. A real doctor can determine by ordinary examination of the arteries and the heart whether blood pressure is higher than it should be—and in some instances high blood pressure is necessary or advantageous to the patient.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Brothers' Personalities Different

Jimmy and Bobby are brothers. Their mother thinks their home life has been about the same. Yet they have had a very different family environment. It isn't different heredity that makes their personalities so unlike, but their position in the family sequence. Scrapbook this case and compare it with the follow-up tomorrow.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-307: Jimmy and Bobby are brothers, aged 6 and 4.

"Dr. Crane, they are so different in personality," their mother explained.

CRANE

"In fact, they are hardly alike at all. Jimmy is shy and slow in getting dressed.

"He daydreams a great deal and hoards his candy, as well as his toys. He pushes Bobby forward to contact the strangers, while he stands behind and tells Bobby what to do or say.

"Bobby, however, is more affectionate and a friend to everybody. He has no fears and takes more chances.

★ ★ ★

"He also devours his candy, instead of saving it for a later time. He is popular and likes to mingle with other children.

"Do you think these traits are due to different inheritance?"

INTROVERT VS. EXTROVERT

No, we experienced psychologists find that most of these differences are simply a result of a child's different position in the sequence of birth.

The firstborn, for instance, meets a family situation that is quite unlike that confronting the second born, especially if they are of the same sex and only about two or three years apart in age.

If Jimmy and Bobby had inherited the very same chromosomes which they now possess but had simply been reversed in the family sequence, we feel they would be reversed in their personality.

For Jimmy would then be the second child and thus more friendly, talkative and inclined to eat, drink and be merry, a la the Prodigal Son, who also was the second boy.

TRAITS OF THE ELDEST

While there are occasional exceptions, notice this "profile" of the oldest child:

He is usually slower to get dressed and more inclined to daydream.

★ ★ ★

He is more shy, but also more determined and persistent in following through to his goal.

He is less affectionate as regards words and kisses to his parents. But he may try to make life easier for his mother, as by buying her a new washing machine and other household conveniences.

He may argue with her and be sharp of tongue, yet he is more likely to pay her board and room and try to see that her physical comfort is improved.

Meanwhile, his younger brother talks a good line, kisses her and tells her in words how much he loves her, even while he may borrow the very $20 bill which his reticent older brother slipped to her as a birthday gift.

★ ★ ★

The eldest is also more inclined to carry a grudge. He gets far more "burned up" if reprimanded publicly, as by a traffic policeman.

He is generally more conservative in his clothing and slower to adopt slang, as well as new fashions.

He is more careful with his money. Oh, he may be very generous to worthy causes, but he keeps a record of his expenditures and doesn't waste his funds.

He is a "counter" or "teller" of his possessions and plans ahead for the rainy day. He is more likely to budget his money and keep a diary.

As a typical introvert, he thus prefers jobs that deal with inanimate objects, so he probably becomes a chemist or machinist, accountant or carpenter, farmer or musician.

★ ★ ★

He has fewer friends but retains them longer. He is less likely to vote a split ticket and he is the faithful wheelhorse of the church and other constructive bodies.

He accepts responsibility and worries more about mortgages or debts.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Boy Tells His Appreciation for Reading Improvement

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

During the past year I've had the opportunity to take Reading Improvement at senior high school. I'd like to praise the school officials for starting this course. When I began it, I had serious trouble remembering facts I read. My reading speed was only 79 words a minute with less than 60 per cent comprehension. Now I read 300 words per minute with 80 to 90 per cent comprehension.

The new reading equipment helps students increase reading ability and helps slow readers increase speed. Many students have received higher grades in academic classes after taking the course. I have raised my grades from Ds to C and C-plus. My parents and I are very well pleased with the help this program offers.

Readers Defend Billy Graham

Billy Graham's "sure fire way of collecting the heavy sugar" is nothing more than fulfillment of Biblical promise. Find a Bible, Envious, and read Matt. 6; 25-33. You may find the words aimed straight at you.

Believing

★ ★ ★

Did Sort of Envious stop to think Billy Graham is presenting Christ to a lost, dying world? Christ told us to go and preach the Gospel to all the world. New York isn't any exception. Think of the physical weariness of such a task and the heartache at sin that's so obvious which he sees day after day. I'm sure he'd do it even if there weren't a dime in it. Do you have any idea how much Billy gives back to the Lord? Let's pray God will send more Billy Grahams.

One Who's Praying

★ ★ ★

Let's get it straight — Billy Graham is not collecting heavy sugar. He's collecting souls for Christ. He's a Christian and a real one, not a business man. What are you, Sort of Envious? I feel sorry for you.

One of Millions Who Respect Billy Graham

★ ★ ★

Sort of Envious sounds a bit wistful. If he has a Bible, he might read Matt. 6; 25-33, with deep concentration on 33. Many a business man has found stupendous success through Christian living. It is simply a fulfillment of God's promise.

Counting My Blessings

★ ★ ★

I resent having Sort of Envious charge Billy Graham with being a cold blooded business man. He is one of our greatest religious leaders. He is one of the greatest influences we have for good in this country. He is a direct interpreter of the Lord's message to mankind. Of course he has to take in money. His expenses are enormous. I am sending him five dollars tonight.

J. Brown

★ ★ ★

How could Billy Graham reach so many people without that huge organization and huge costs? Sort of Envious should change the signature to "Very, Very Envious."

Whole Neighborhood

★ ★ ★

Aren't most of these evangelists smart business men? Is Graham any different than the others. No one has to attend his services. They go and give because they want to go and give.

Send Comments on Auto Industry

It is most difficult for me to weep with you over the plight of General Motors so far as Michigan taxes are concerned. GM has thrived in Michigan as well as other states, and its profits are so tremendous that, by comparison, its taxes must seem insignificant even to Mr. Curtice.

No one argues that a worldwide industrial giant such as GM should not make a reasonable profit. The price GM must pay for such a profit should be substantial tax to states and municipalites in which it does business.

George Conibear, Jr.

The greedy auto industry's monthly profits and output soar while hundreds of long time, faithful employes are laid off. Those still hanging on can't afford to buy cars they help produce. This can't go on forever, and if industry doesn't wake up soon, they'll have a long time to be sorry over the outcome.

According to figures, they can more than afford to cut car prices, thereby creating more jobs, a secure five day week, more cars, more money with which to buy them and still more staggering profits for themselves. Automation is a wonderful thing and you can't fight progress, but you can't get blood from a stone, either. When we all wind up on welfare, is GM going to take its cars and peddle them in Siberia?

Visits Hair Expert

Genes, Chromosomes Fix Elmer

By ELMER WHEELER

I was duped. The doc had sold me out.

How could I go home and explain that the "great medical discovery" to keep hair from falling off the noggin, was plain old glue?

So instead, I visited the guy the doc recommended, Peter J. Michael.

He took me into a room and sat himself in front of a large window. He didn't fool me at all. That was an old bald boy's trick, sitting in the window light so you couldn't see, from the strong light, his lack of hair.

Michael's was fast receding.

At least, I would get some information from a doomed baldy.

He was most sympathetic. He bared his soul, and his head, and told me how he had read volumes on the hair, on diet, on disorders of the scalp and skin and the mind of the condemned bald boy.

"It all comes down to chromosomes," he told me, and when I asked him what new disease this was he laughed and explained.

"It all comes down to chromosones and genes."

IT'S PRE-DETERMINED

He told me that the male and the female each have chromosomes in them, and that the uniting of these at conception determines many things, such as the color of the skin, eyes, and whether the child would be a boy or girl, tall or short.

Further, it told whether you'd be bald.

Here is how he explained this point:

It seems every part of us, from our fallen arches to our fallen hair, is made up of cells. Trillions of them.

In each cell there are the chromosomes, 24 pairs of them—48 in all.

What's a chromosome? It's a chain of genes.

Let it be sufficient to say that the 24 chromosomes in the male will pair off at conception with the 24 chromosomes in the female to become the newborn child.

★ ★ ★

By some unknown process the chromosomes split, each half going into a different cell to mutiply.

If these 24 pairs match, the child is a girl; if not, well you guessed it, the unmatched become a boy.

Still with me?

This is the process that determines what we will inherit from pop and mom at birth; and if it sounds complicated, remember losing the hair is complicated, too.

A NASTY GENE

Now here is what Peter J. Michael told me gives or takes away our hair.

Inside one of the chromosomes is a gene that is bad. A malicious gene. For if we get it, we lose our hair. That's science's own explanation.

"Just remember this," said Peter, the near-bald, "the next time some ad or someone tells you he can grow hair on the proverbial billiard ball."

Now, if you are a woman, you've a better chance of not getting this gene that roulettes itself around with the good genes. You see, to "win" the bad gene if you are a woman doesn't count. You must get two of them. Then you are a bald woman.

"Of course, if you haven't inherited the bad gene, and yours is one of those curable cases, you have hope.

"Did your doctor tell you about how the clogged-up condition of the sebaceous gland may be causing premature falling of hair? Did he tell you that the hole in your hair may be from a nervous, upset, worried or just plain curably diseased condition?"

I said no to both.

★ ★ ★

He told me to make sure the doc covered these two situations while I still had some hair left, and that if these were not my causes of loss of hair, then to return to him.

"I'll give you the psychosomatic cure," he said.

I asked him what in thunder this discovery was.

★ ★ ★

He told me it was for the "incurables," the doomed bald boys, the "Curlys" in life.

I was determined not to give up. Didn't Michael and the doc both tell me that while there was fuzz, there was hope?

I walked home. I was so absorbed in these final "hopes" that I actually forgot to wear my hat until a friend yelled:

"Hi, Baldy!"

When I got home I kicked the dog into the yard. He was shedding nice long handsome hairs all over the den rug.

The beast!

NEXT: Doc gives Elmer a stern lesson in hair hygiene.

Stray Sparks Fly Around Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Stray electricity from abandoned trolley tracks has been jumping around the city and causing all sorts of trouble.

★ ★ ★

The problem occurs when a trolley line is abandoned but the track system and substantion still serve other lines. Then electricity still flows through the unused track even if it's covered by paving.

★ ★ ★

And when a break occurs in the track the current, unable to flow along the rail, starts jumping around. It looks for the nearest metal conductor and leaps. Officials say the galivanting current often winds up in nearby water and gas mains and the electricity is corroding the metal at the rate of a ton a year.

CONSTIPATED?

New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be remoistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONAID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONAID's great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONAID's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONAID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONAID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98c for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Report Elizabeth Ready to Visit U. S. During Fall

WASHINGTON (INS)—Authoritative sources say that Queen Elizabeth will accept President Eisenhower's invitation to visit the U.S. —but only for six days instead of the planned three weeks.

The sources said the British government has alread 'nformed the White House that the Queen will accept.

FORMAL INVITATION

They added that the President's formal invitation will be conveyed to London sometime next week and the formal acceptance will be returned quickly.

According to present plans, Queen Elizabeth will make the trip early in October. She will visit Jamestown, Va.—where the 350th anniversary of the landing of the first English settlers in the U. S. is being observed—and New York City in addition to Washington.

President Eisenhower's formal invitation will be given to the British Foreign Office by American Ambassador John Hay Whitney, following strict diplomatic protocol.

CLOAK OF SECRECY

Actually an informal acceptance by the Queen was made some time ago and details for the visit have been passing back and forth between London and Washington for several months now under a heavy cloak of secrecy.

President Eisenhower and other American officials as well as British diplomats in Washington, had hoped that Queen Elizabeth would be able to spend at least three weeks touring the U.S.

They felt that a long visit would have a greater healing effect on the British-American friendship which has been somewhat shaky since last October when Britain invaded Egypt despite American opposition.

★ ★ ★

Washington officials were certain the sparkling young Queen would have been warmly welcomed throughout the U.S. and won millions of friends for Britain if she could have spent the time.

However, London ruled out any lengthy visit because she has already been on three state visits this year outside Britain, and also because it was feared Canada might feel slighted if the Queen spent three weeks in the U.S before going there.

Queen Elizabeth is scheduled to visit Canada next year for a rather long tour.

I AM NO LONGER RESPONSIBLE FOR MY WIFE'S ACTIONS

(Since she got her new kind of Ford)

"If she is unbelievably happy at 7:00 A. M. every morning, I now hold her 1957 Ford responsible. If she is off for the day at 7:02 A. M., I suggest that it is the power of Ford's Thunderbird V-8 engine. If she appears vastly more style-conscious, it is the longer, lower lines of her new kind of Ford that have made her so.

"If she arrives home remarkably refreshed, I refer you to the lower, more comfortable seats, the wider wrap-around windshield and the other peace-of-mind features of her new "Inner Ford." If she's just a bit more spoiled, don't blame her. With optional power steering, power brakes, power windows and seat—who wouldn't be?

"And if she is constantly raving about the savings her new car brings her, she's merely confirming what I've been telling her about Fords for years! Sure, we're a two-Ford family now. But even having one Ford in the family was more fun than you can imagine! Try a new '57 Ford at your house. It's Terrific!"

Hal Boyle Says:

Marilyn Tells About Blonde's Woe

NEW YORK (AP)—Marilyn Monroe, whom gentlemen prefer, says blondes have a woe that other women are spared.

"If you're a blonde," she said, "it is considered that you have to be told what to do — that someone else has to decide things for you."

Miss Monroe today certainly has no chip on her shoulder. But she has made it abundantly clear that, whenever her mind is to be made up, she'd like to pitch in and help, too.

As Hollywood's most shapely producer since Sam Goldwyn gave up barbells, Marilyn is here for the premiere of her first production, "The Prince and the Showgirl," in which she stars with Sir Laurence Olivier.

★ ★ ★

"In all fairness, he should probably be called the producer. I'm the owner," she said.

But Marilyn says she shouldered her full share of production worries.

"I was an actress from six in the morning until noon," she recalled, "and a producer during lunch. Then I was an actress the rest of the afternoon — and a producer from 6:30 until 9:00 p.m. when we looked over the day's rushes."

When I first met Marilyn several years ago, she was an uncertain kid with an unsure foothold on fame, and I couldn't be sure whether she was frightened or amused by what was happening to her.

★ ★ ★

Today I had the same sensation of doubt. It is hard to figure whether Marilyn, who retains a kind of breathless, small girl quality, is scared inside herself — or secretly laughing at you because she's a step ahead of you, and knows it.

The interview began on a note of unreality. I was admitted to her apartment by a press agent who confided casually that he was 35 years old, used to be a stockbroker, but sold his seat on the New York Stock Exchange in 1951.

★ ★ ★

A picture of Abraham Lincoln hung on one wall. Among the books scattered around the living room were "The Philosophy of Spinoza," the tales of Edgar Allen Poe, a volume by architect Frank Lloyd Wright, and a smaller one entitled "Film Culture," which may have been a mystery.

★ ★ ★

Then Marilyn entered, as tousled and lovely as ever.

"I'd rather not be asked whether I'm pregnant or not, or to discuss anything political or religious. Otherwise, I'll talk about anything," she said.

She was asked what she thought was the biggest public misconception about her.

She laughed and replied: "People identify me personally with the parts I play. It isn't so much that I mind, but it just isn't so. But I've played so many different parts by now they must be confused."

She indicated she is still a bit mystified why some critics thought it uproariously funny a few years ago when she expressed an ambition to play the role of Grushenka in "The Brothers Karamasov."

"Most of those who thought my ambition funny had never read the book," she said.

"Grushenka was an earthy girl. Her name in Russian means 'juicy pear.' I love that!

"I'd still like to play Grushenka, with Marlon Brando playing Dmitri. I'd go see that picture myself."

★ ★ ★

Marilyn feels the recent crowded years haven't basically changed her outlook.

In a childhood of hardship in which she moved from pillar to post Marilyn knew plenty of rugged lonely years. I asked her if she was broke and friendless again, what she'd miss most in her present life of comfort.

★ ★ ★

"Not jewelery; I really don't care for it. Not expensive stockings; I could go bare-legged. Not a car; or fine food or a big house.

"It's a bed, I guess — a big comfortable bed. I'd hate ever to be so poor again that I didn't have a bed of my own."

Pakistan Leader Hits Neutralism

President Reports It's Even More Dangerous Than Communism

KARACHI (AP) — To Maj. Gen. Iskander Mirza, president of Pakistan, "neutralism is more dangerous than communism."

★ ★ ★

"Neutralism—and some of it is aggressive neutralism — is more dangerous because it is more subtle and deludes people as to well being," he told this correspondent.

"Ninety per cent of the statements of neutralist leaders are against the West."

★ ★ ★

He was obviously referring particularly to Prime Minister Nehru and other leaders of India, a neighbor Pakistan distrusts.

★ ★ ★

"The psychology of the Pakistan people is against neutralism," Mirza said. "If Iran or Iraq or Turkey, for instance, were in trouble, the sentiment of Pakistanis would be to go to their aid."

★ ★ ★

"The food shortage is the number one problem in Pakistan," he said, "in west Pakistan our agriculture is going downhill because it has been discovered the irrigation canal system has seepage which causes salinity in the soil and makes it sterile. Americans discovered a way to correct this through a drainage system and tube wells. Our government is now fully aware of the problem and must tackle it soon.

"I am inclined to go slow in industrial development until the food problem is solved. We hope to solve it in three years.

Ceylon to Pay Britain

COLOMBO (AP)—Ceylon agreed to pay 22 million rupees—about $4,200,000—to Britain for fixed assets of air and naval bases and claims arising from the British withdrawal. The Trincomalee naval base will be handed to Ceylon formally Oct. 15 and the air base at Katunayake Nov. 1.

An average inter-city motor truck in the U. S. travels about 40,800 miles per year.

2 Brooklyn Men Catch Giant Lizard at Home

NEW YORK (AP)—A Brooklyn housewife glanced out her window yesterday and was astonished to see a four-foot lizard munching on bits of bread left in the back yard for the birds.

Mrs. Dorothy Jannotte's cry aroused her husband Salvatore. He ran to the cellar for a crab net.

Jannotte and his brother Larry bagged the ugly reptile after considerable maneuvering.

Ike's Brother in Hospital

BALTIMORE (AP)—Further tests were scheduled today for Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, 57, Johns Hopkins University president hospitalized with what a preliminary diagnosis showed to be a kidney infection. A university spokesman said Eisenhower became ill late Saturday.

Toronto Man Kills 5, Self

Murders Own Family, Parents After They Objected to Drinking

TORONTO (AP)—Police said a 37-year-old electrician killed his wife, parents and two children yesterday because the parents and wife objected to his drinking and way of life.

After the multiple slaying James D. Sinclair rammed his car into a bridge abutment and killed himself. Friends said he was a moderate drinker.

★ ★ ★

Police said Sinclair apparently got up at 5 a.m. and took a 15-inch pipe from the cellar.

He bludgeoned his sleeping parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Sinclair Sr., his 35-year-old wife Margaret and son Ian, 7. Then he strangled his 2-year-old daughter Joy with a necktie in her crib.

★ ★ ★

After washing and changing his clothes, Sinclair left in his car. He drove west on Queen Elizabeth Highway half a mile, turned around and headed at high speed into the concrete abutment.

Police said Sinclair left six disjointed notes, saying his wife and parents interfered with his way of life and objected to his drinking.

Ku Klux Klan Warns Minister in Alabama

SYLACAUGA, Ala. (AP) — The family of a young minister who knocked over a Ku Klux Klan cross faced an ultimatum today —leave town or be bombed.

★ ★ ★

The Rev. Dan Whitsett yesterday said an unidentified caller warned the wife of the Rev. Newton Malony Saturday night that unless the Malonys and Whitsetts leave town within 10 days, "your house and child will be blown to bits."

The Malonys have a 1½-year-old son.

★ ★ ★

Whitsett is pastor and Malony associate pastor of the First Methodist Church here. Whitsett, who has taken a stand for moderation in race relations, said his own family had received numerous threats in the past.

The minister said he planned to report the threat to police, probably today.

Milady Can Show Off Cocker Spaniel With Diamond-Trimmed Ears

Top Paris jewelers have these available:

For a lady of the "horsey set": Cartier has a diamond pin for $5,700 representing the heads of two diamond-studded horses neck to neck straining at their bits of baguette diamonds as a new piece of "jewelery in action." There is also a golden "bay horse" with a mane of diamonds.

For the gal who likes farming: A hen made of a barok pearl with a black onyx head and a comb of rubies, sitting on three pearl eggs each set with a diamond.

★ ★ ★

There is also a jewel-pin looking like a lady bug, as well as an amber potato bug and even a distinguished looking jewel housefly.

BEJEWELED PETS

For the lady who wants a "pet": Cartier offers a gold cocker spaniel with flapping, diamond-trimmed ears. There are also birds ranging from a diamond warbler in a golden cage to a wise owl with ruby eyes.

For women who don't mind being "catty": Van Cleef Arpel's black onyx pussy-cat with long gold whiskers and diamond eyes.

For ladies who don't have time to go to the hairdresser: Mellerio has some modish "platinum hairstreaks" all ready. They are wisps of platinum sprinkled with diamonds to be fixed into the hair on small combs.

For girls who like to see their names spelled in diamonds: Mellerio's bracelet composed of a gold chain with gold dice set at regular intervals. Each gold cube is studded with diamonds in the shape of one letter of the wearer's name. Price varies according to the number of lettered dice.

★ ★ ★

For practical-minded females: Bracelets which can be prolonged to become a necklace, or necklaces to be halved into two bracelets.

These jewel pieces are on show in the salons of top Paris jewel designers as part of their biannual exhibition of new shapes and new trends in precious ornaments.

Egg Whites Beaten Stiff, Added Last

BY JANET ODELL

Sometimes only a white cake will answer the need for a cake. This is true in the traditional season of weddings and showers. Mrs. Frank Shotwell's Cavalier White Cake should be excellent for these purposes.

As a past matron of the Eastern Star, Mrs. Shotwell is a member of several past matron groups. Her friends say she is an excellent cook. She likes to sew and to tat.

CAVALIER WHITE CAKE.
By Mrs. Frank Shotwell

½ cup vegetable shortening
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cup sugar
2½ teaspoons baking powder
2¼ cups sifted flour
¾ cup milk
3 egg whites

Combine shortening, salt and lemon rind and blend well. Add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Add baking powder to flour and sift three times. Add small amounts of flour to creamed mixture alternately with milk, mixing each time until smooth.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold carefully into mixture until well blended. Bake in moderate oven at 375 degrees either in loaf or layer pans. Bake layers about 25 minutes, loaf about 40, or until top springs back when touched.

Marionettes Reveal Hidden Talent

BY ANNE HEYWOOD

Sometimes the indirect attack is much more effective than a direct one.

Remember in Aesop, the battle between the Wind and the Sun? They wanted to remove the man's cloak. The Wind blew and blew in an effort to get it off, but the man only held it tighter around him.

The Sun won by shining so hotly that the man removed the cloak of his own accord.

Sometimes a vacational problem gets solved in basically the same way.

We try and try to find our proper talent, the thing that will make us creative and successful, but have no luck at all.

Then we forget about it and enter spontaniously into some activity just for fun and — presto! — our talents begin to blossom out.

Bertha is a typical example. She has given me permission to quote from her letter:

" wanted so much to find some real talent, but I'm just an ordinary kind of person, with no perticular thing I do better than any other.

"I read a lot of books and analyzed myself, but still couldn't find the answer. I began to feel more and more like a failure.

"Then a funny thing happened," she continued. "One day I began thinking about marionettes — I saw some on television, I guess. I thought it would be fun to make some and maybe dream up a little skit for them.

★ ★ ★

"I went to the library and got some books on that subject and was really fascinated.

REAL PROJECT

"The children became interested, too. The next thing you know, we had a real project. I wrote the sketches, my hsband built the set and our oldest girl did some of the costumes.

★ ★ ★

"We've had a fine time with the puppets, for almost a year now. But the strangest part is, it has gotten me started writing children's stories!

"I'm not the most talented person in the world, but I've sold one story and am now working on a children's book.

"Even if nothing spectacular comes of it, I do know that I love to write. I am working on it and really feel like a person with a talent — after years of feeling like a nonentity!"

★ ★ ★

Many times working with marionettes can spark you in any one of a number of directions — writing, costuming, acting, designing.

If this field interests you, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, care of The Pontiac Press, and I'll send you a list of books on it.

George R. Yansen (right) principal of Madison Junior High School, greeted Linda Lankford and Douglas Brown, the Queen and King of the second annual Christian Youth Banquet. They were chosen by the 250 Pontiac area high school graduates at the banquet Saturday night in the Madison School.

Royalty Crowned at Youth Banquet

"Linda Lankford, I crown you Queen of the second annual Christian Youth Banquet," said Francis Staley, principal of Pontiac High School, as he placed a golden crown on her dark curls, "and Douglas Brown, I crown you King of the banquet."

★ ★ ★

The two young people were chosen King and Queen by the 250 Pontiac area high school graduates attending the banquet Saturday night in Madison Junior High School.

More than 40 churches participated in plans for the semi-formal affair. Each church was asked to send a candidate to the banquet for the King and Queen contest. Linda and Douglas represented Memorial Baptist Chruch.

Dr. Walter C. Godsell introduced the principal of Madison and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Yansen; wives of the speakers, Mrs. Richard Broach and the master of ceremonies, Bert North of Port Huron.

★ ★ ★

"If the incentive is strong enough, you can do about anything. Look toward the heavens and walk by faith with God," said the Rev. E. W. Martin of the First Nazarene Church of Detroit, speaker of the evening.

The Rev. Jimmy Meena, a teacher of the Detroit schools, presented a humorous skit, "This Is the Life."

He was also heard in trumpet solos with the help of a hand puppet monkey.

Kyle Wilson sang "He Knows the Way."

Songtime was led by Ethan Rogers, with Mrs. Rodney Atwater at the piano.

The banquet was sponsored by the Christian Men's Club with the following serving as committee chairmen: Floyd Evens, Dr. Godsell, Kenneth Hempstead Jr., Captain Michalsen, Floyd Miles, William Spence and Mr. Wilson.

Miss McCarthy Reveals Plans for July 13 Rite

Maureen, the daughter of Draper of Fred J. Slavin Jr., announced her bridal attendants at a recent shower given by Jean Slavin of Woodbine drive.

Backyard Styles Gay and Saucy

"Backyard" fashions are gay and saucy — cottons with skirts no longer than just barely thigh length, or full and fluttering almost to the ankles.

These pretties are hot-suds washables—easy laundering that calls for no special attention.

Look for the muted colors such as putty or rust or shades of gray.

Don't Let Aching Feet Ruin Your Vacation

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It is sad but true that many returning vacationists find that their memories of world-famous museums or mountain or seaside resorts are marred by the recollection of smarting, tired feet. Vacation time is usually hard on our underpinnings!

★ ★ ★

If you are going to do a lot of sightseeing or a lot of walking, you can safeguard the pleasure of your trip by giving thought to the shoes you take along. Podiatrists recommend shoes that are leather throughout; soles and linings as well as uppers. The millions of little pores allow your feet to breathe and the leather gives you support you need.

It is also a good idea to take some closed toe and heel models since these are best when you are to be on your feet a lot. And, if your vacation spot has cobblestone streets, you'll want to be prepared.

If you expect to do much looking about, you should have two pairs of walking shoes so that you can change them each day—even during the day when possible. This is restful.

★ ★ ★

These should have a sturdy, well-based heel not more than 2 inches high. These requirements, and those of fashion, too, are filled by the slenderized Cuban heel or the new contoured wedge heel.

You also can find heels of this sort on pumps, spectators and the new, dressy oxford that is low-cut and tapered. You can buy daytime pumps in white, bright or light-suede, or patent leather.

END OF THE DAY

When you buy your vacation walking shoes you would be wise to select them at the end of a shopping day. Feet swell after a day of this kind. If they feel comfortable they will be right for the many miles you will walk during your trip.

Feet also tend to swell when you are seated for long periods such as when on a bus or train or plane trip.

★ ★ ★

Don't let your feet ruin your vacation, or your vacation make your feet and you unhappy!

EXCITEMENT CENTERS ON MRS. AMERICA

Today and for the next few days I am going to bring you some of the excitement which electrified the very air we breathed in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., at the finals of the Mrs. America contest. This year I was one of the judges.

★ ★ ★

The new Mrs. America is the lovely Mrs. Lindwood Findley of Arlington, Va., who represented the District of Columbia. You no doubt have seen her pictures many times by now.

The decision the judges had to make this year was extremely difficult because there were so many attractive, charming women among the contestants. In fact, it seems to me that they were all charming.

I had had no idea what a tremendous production the Mrs. America contest is. As you may know, this begins at the local level in cities all over the United States. The winners then compete for the state title.

★ ★ ★

Four days before the final contest began the 49 contestants and their husbands were flown into Fort Lauderdale where they relaxed at a beautiful seaside hotel. The city itself is a glamorous and beautiful one. It has more than 300 miles of canals which are lined with lovely homes, and boasts one of the finest beaches in Florida. It even provided us with a moon.

STAFF ARRIVES

On the weekend before the week's judging began the sponsors and judges and handsome Bill Berns, master of ceremonies, appeared on the scene. Long before that Bob Ensworth, who made movies of the pageant, and television and movie technicians were preparing for the coming event

★ ★ ★

Perhaps you would like to know who the judges were. Here they are: Florence La Ganke Harris, food editor, the Cleveland Press; Louise Morgan, radio and television personality of the Yankee Network, Boston; Dr. Gladys Stevenson, head of the Home Economics Department, Whittier College, Whittier, Calif.; Iris Davenport, woman's editor, Farm and Ranch Magazine, Nashville; Arthur William Brown and Russell Patterson, famous New York illustrators, and myself.

The home economics expert selected 15 out of the 49 contestants, after observing and grading them while they cooked, sewed, ironed and set tables. Then the seven judges selected the six finalists.

On Saturday night at the auditorium Russell Patterson, Arthur Brown and I cast our votes for Mrs. America and the women who would take second and third places. You can imagine how exciting it was for all of us because we did not know who had won until a sealed envelope was given to Bill Berns and the winner was announced from the platform.

★ ★ ★

It was a very stimulating week. For a couple of days now I want to tell you something of the contestants and their husbands and let you in on some of the questions which were asked in the interviews. This was a cross-section of American life. The contestants came from many walks of life and, as you know, from every part of the country.

If you would like my leaflet "The Most Attractive You," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 72 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

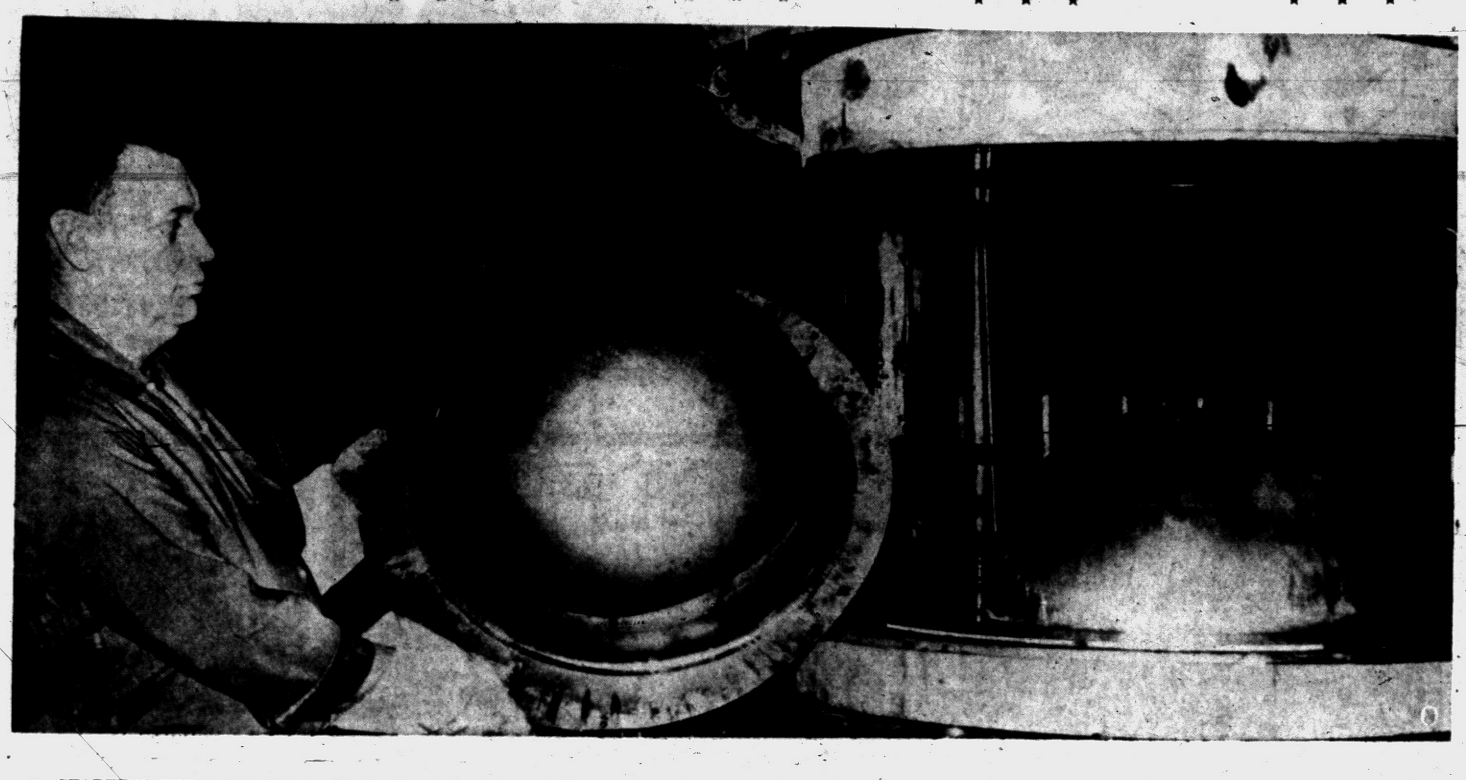
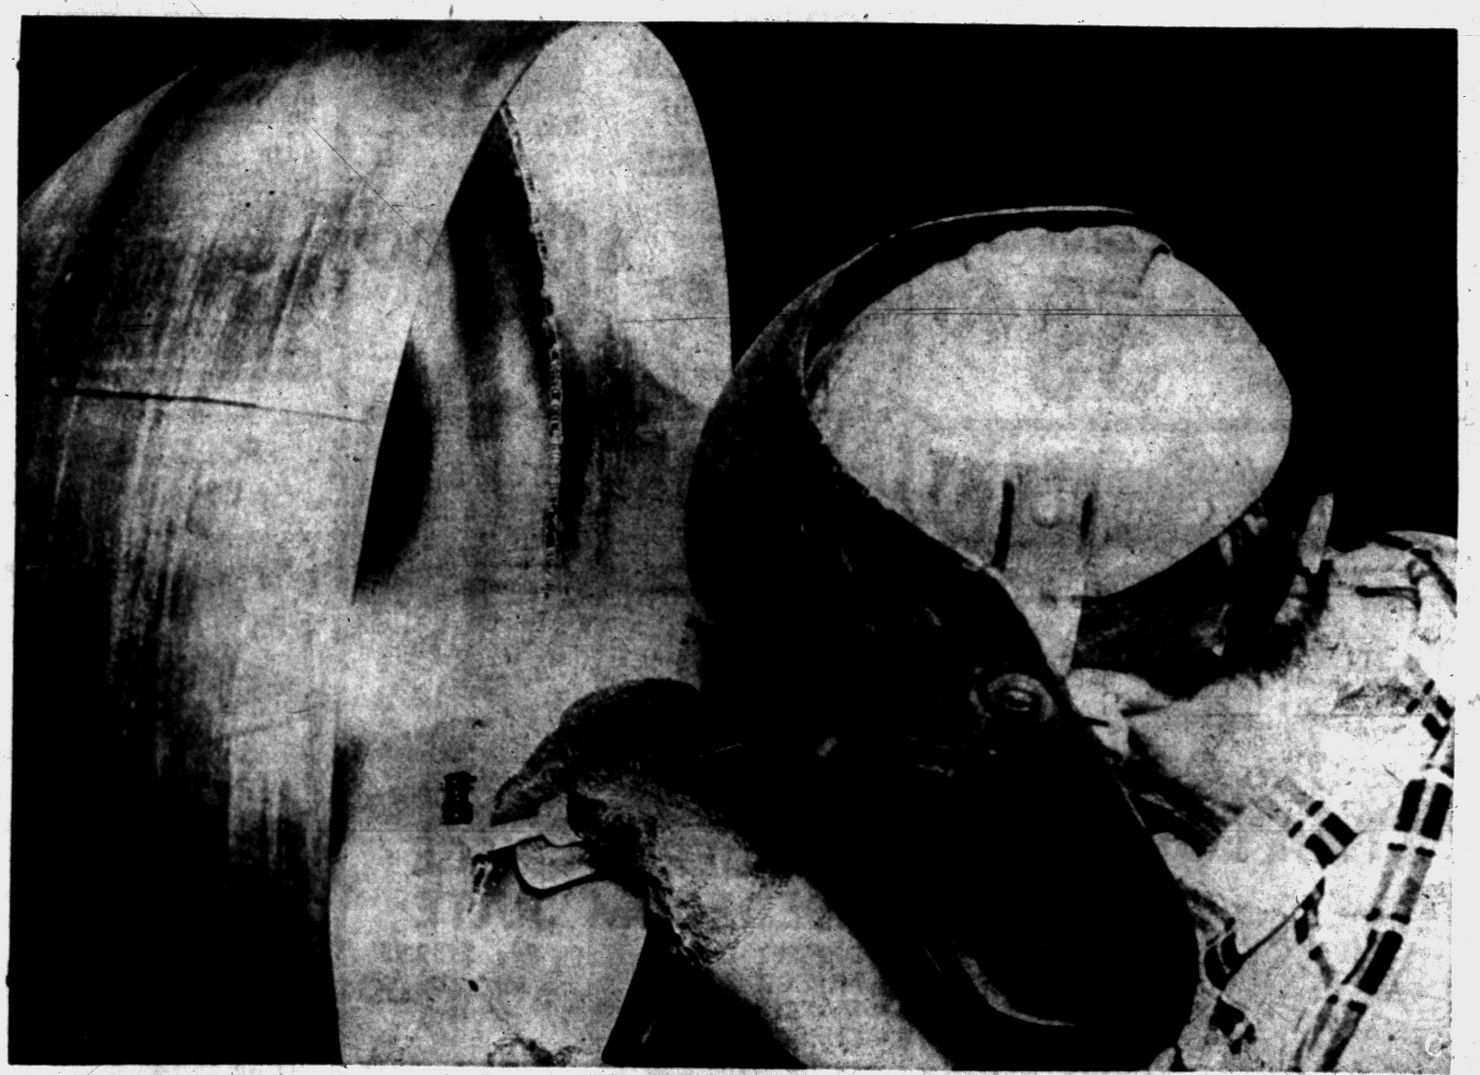
High Technical Skills Help Build Satellite

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★



STARTING THE SATELLITE — Basic structure of the satellite consists of two hemispheres and certain other structural parts, chiefly inside the sphere. The drawing operation, done with one stroke of a press, is shown above. The material is an alloy of magnesium, aluminum and zinc and is heated to 650 degrees Farenheit for the punching operation.



WELDING INSIDE SPHERE — In another step in manufacture of the satellite, the depressed contour portion of the spinning is trimmed out. Two fittings are welded in and it is then welded into the proper location in the interior of the satellite hemisphere. A portion of the welding operation is shown above.

HIGH POLISH — The hemispheres and frame, together with any other parts, are buffed to a high mirror-like polish. Above is shown a polishing operation on the interior of one of the hemispheres.

PROTECTIVE COATING — After the satellite is finished the exterior must be protected for shipping. Here Robert Szymanski, of Brooks & Perkins paint department sprays the satellite with a strippable plastic coating. This will protect the highly polished surface during shipping and handling for final assembly of globe's contents.

Area Men Build Shells for Artificial Satellites

BY DICK SAUNDERS

An Oakland County father-and-son team is playing a vital role in man's first attempt to probe outer space.

Their magnesium firm has constructed the outer coverings for a dozen man-made 'moons' soon to be launched into an orbit high above the earth.

Headed by E. Howard Perkins Sr., of Royal Oak, and Edward H. Perkins Jr., of Birmingham, the firm of Brooks & Perkins Inc., Detroit, has announced completion of a year-old government contract for constructing the shells. It is the only such contract in the United States.

According to Perkins Jr. each shell consists of two hemispheres connected to a central framework. One half is riveted to the frame, while the other is connected by millions of tiny jewelers screws to allow its removal in order to install the highly intricate instruments.

GOLD PLATED

The sphere is 20 inches in diameter, made of magnesium plated with gold, with a skin thickness of approximately 28-1000 of an inch. It weighs exactly 5½ pounds when finished, and will weight 21½ pounds after instruments are put in.

Perkins said that "the shell is plated with gold inside and out." When it reaches Washington, the Naval Research Lab adds four more coatings on the outside.

The vaporized coatings are extremely thin, "only one or two millionths of an inch," and the final coat protects the aluminum and provides an insulating barrier to protect instruments against temperature changes.

The results of careful plans, according to Ralph G. Gillespie, public relations manager, show it will take a three-stage rocket weighing about 11 tons to hurl the 21½ pound sphere into its desired orbit, 300 miles above the earth.

Although these satellites may give some indication of how soon earthmen may expect to contact the moon, any informatin of this type will be gained more-or-less indirectly, according to Gillespie. The main objective is to find out more about the earth.

The Naval Research Lab hopes to determine the exact shape of the earth and also to chart the exact location of continents.

COSMIC RAYS

The scientists hope to compile much more information about cosmic rays and ultraviolet radiation, and find out more about meteors and meteoric dust in outer space, as well as the possible effect of a collision with any solid objects of this nature, said Gillespie.

Also, the scientists want to gather data which will make possible more exacting long-range weather forecasts.

Gillespie pointed out that while some of the aims may sound like old stuff, the satellites should give "exact proof of things that for years have been taken for granted."

★ ★ ★

Although production figures are not available, Gillespie said the Navy has planned to launch a dozen satellites during the International Geophysical Year, July 1, 1957 through Dec. 31, 1958.

★ ★ ★

The company is the largest magnesium assembly fabricating concern in the country, and one of the two largest in the nation that roll sheet and plate magnesium.

German Navy Slates Tests

60 Boats to Participate in First Sea Maneuvers in Western Baltic

KIEL, Germany (AP) — The German navy has almost concluded its first phase of reconstruction.

Starting June 18 some 60 of the navy's 70 boats will take part in West Germany's first sea exercises in the western Baltic and off Cuxhaven. A month later, several German naval units will engaged in NATO sea maneuvers.

There are 10,000 officers and sailors in the navy. It expects to reach full strength of 25,000 men by 1960. The Germans will then have 18 squadrons of all types of smaller ships and boats, including three squadrons of fast destroyers and two submarine squadrons.

The Anthony, first of four American destroyers to be leased to the Germans, is being taken out of moth balls. A German crew is tentatively scheduled to take her over in the fall and bring her to Germany from the United States.

In a few weeks, the navy will put into service two submarines scuttled by German crews when the allied armies approached north Germany in World War II. Salvaged and overhauled in German shipyards, they will be used for training.

Brucker Is Unhappy

Girard Case Tones Down Energetic Army Secretary

By International News Service

Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker, usually one of the most energetic and spirited executives, is an unhappy man these days.

As a member of the administration and a subordinate of Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, Brucker can say nothing about the government's decision to permit Japanese trial of Corporal William S. Girard on manslaughter charges.

But the Army secretary is known to have recommended strongly against this step, and to have been under the impression for some time that his recommendation had been accepted. He so advised a number of Congressional leaders.

MAY BRING OUT TRUTH

The legal maneuvering in the Girard case may bring the truth into the open. The secretary has already been subpoenaed to appear at a federal court hearing on the case Tuesday, but may not be required to testify in person.

Brucker is usually highly articulate. A former Michigan governor, he is the type of orator who can deliver a two-hour address on a moment's notice without stumbling over a sentence.

Now approaching is 63rd birthday, he was born June 23, 1894, in Saginaw, and was graduated in 1916 from the University of Michigan Law School.

★ ★ ★

After a term as prosecutor for Saginaw County and another as assistant state attorney general, Brucker was elected governor and served from 1930 to 1933.

He first entered the Pentagon as defense department general counsel in 1954, and has been secretary of the Army since July 21, 1955.

Brucker seldom refers to his political triumphs, but likes to recall that he served as a second lieutenant of infantry with the Rainbow Division in World War I.

★ ★ ★

He took part in the battles of Chateau Thierry, Saint Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne and was awarded a silver star for bravery under fire.

The secretary is married and has one son, Wilber Jr., and two grandchildren. The family home is Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich.

A Street's Name Reflects Living in Red Hungary

BUDAPEST (AP) — One of Budapests most beautiful streets, whose successive names have mirrored Hungary's recent history got a new name today. The change indicated the tightening of Communist rule.

★ ★ ★

Before World War II the tree-lined bulevard was known as Andrassy Street after a liberal political leader of the last century. Then came the Communists and it was called Stalin Street.

Last fall anti-Russia students tore down marble plaques that bore Stalin's name and it was proudly renamed "The Street of Hungarian Youth." For six months the pro-Russian regime of Premier Janos Kadar did not change it.

★ ★ ★

Now the Executive Committee of the Budapest City Council has decided a new set of signs will go up. They will read "Street of the People's Republic."

It's Position, Old Chap, Not Vulgar Money

British Perfect the Art of Snobbery

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

LONDON (INS) — There are countless exciting sights to see in London—Westminster Abbey, Big Ben, quaint old scribblings from Jack the Ripper, and so on—but the most attractive of all is "the perfect snob."

★ ★ ★

Some readers may claim to have observed snobs in America, say on Park avenue or Beacon street, but they are speaking out of false local pride. England is the home of snobbism, and there is not an American alive who can lift noses with a practiced Britisher.

The reason for this is that the typical American snob is a person with money who makes his fellow man feel inferior, while an English snob is a person with position but no money who makes his fellow man somehow feel cheerier.

The British make no bones about their rank-n-file system, and even the file people seem to accept it. They even rather like it.

★ ★ ★

The nubbed cane in Berkeley Square and the homburg at Claridges are not only traditional, but they're a source of combined reverence and amusement for the people; and there's a touch of sympathy, too, an occasional tear in the beer for nobility.

LITTLE READY CASH

It is generally accepted that many of the top-hat snobs have less ready cash than a resourceful New York City delinquent, taxes on estates and manses being what they are, but they maintain their social standing anyway.

★ ★ ★

"In order to eat, the upper class blokes must send their children to work," explains a spokesman for the cabbie drivers of the United Kingdom (the official outfit for distributing tidbits to visitors).

"It's quite sad, but the children like working. It's an idea they picked up from you Americans, I believe."

The younger uppercrust take positions as clerks, typists—whatever they can get. It's considered particularly "fashionable," according to the British Travel Association, to work in an advertising agency these days. And the agencies are delighted, of course, to employ the youthful and titled.

★ ★ ★

They make good "contact" executives since, owing to the national snob appeal, an earl is even better than an early bird for getting the worm.

It is suggested here that would-be American snobs visit England at the earliest opportunity, to learn how to be a snob with finesse . . .

SMALL TIP EXPECTED

See how the gentleman in the topper indulgently smiles the waiter out of any expectancy of a generous tip. (If an American tipped like a nobleman, he would not receive a full-blown smile.)

Observe the chap in striped trousers and morning coat exchange aloof pleasantries with a Mayfair doorman. The doorman is not jealous, he is proud.

★ ★ ★

Watch the engaging sight of a shabbily dressed youth requesting, and receiving, the best table at the best restaurant.

The youth, threadbare enough to be picked up for vagrancy in Pittsburgh, is practicing what is referred to here as "inverted snobbery." Experts on "IS" say it's nothing new. To "dress in a suit off the peg" has been the snobby thing to do for decades.

★ ★ ★

The real reason snobs in England can behave so charmingly is that all the people except the radical snobs appreciate them, either because they are impressive or amusing. Few men are jealous of them.

★ ★ ★

In America, snobs must operate under unfriendly circumstances, since money is their chief claim to the lorgnette. And anybody working in an unfriendly atmosphere is bound to feel self-conscious, not to say downright nasty.

To be a truly perfect snob, you should not have pressures. And wealth is so frightfully oppressive.

BONN — Employment in West German industry during 1956 averaged 6.5 per cent higher than in 1955.

NOW HEAR THIS — Umpire Bill Summers gestures to Tiger manager Jack Tighe, partly hidden by Ray Boone (8) after Boone's fight with Yankee pitcher Tom Sturdivant in game in Detroit Sunday. Behind umpires are Yanks' Manager Casey Stengel, partly hidden by Yanks' catcher Elston Howard (32) and Yanks' Gil McDougald (12). Boone charged Sturdivant tried to bean him. Both were ejected for fighting.

Tiger Mistakes Help Yanks Win, 5-4

DETROIT (AP) — The anti-Yankee contingent claims the New York club "gets all the luck." The pro-Yankee crew, of course, argues that the Yankees make their own breaks and take advantage of the mistakes of others.

It was a little bit of each yesterday as the Yankees copped a 5-4 victory from the Detroit Tigers, after trailing 4-0 after six innings.

As 41,189 spectators cheered, the Tigers were well on their way to what apparently was going to be their 5th straight win over the Yanks.

Then a home run that manager Jack Tighe always will think was just a two-base-hit and a pair of "legitimate" hits — a single by Bob Richardson and a home run by Hank Bauer — made it 4-3.

★ ★ ★

Bill Skowron's ninth home run to open the Yankee seventh was the first run off Tiger starter Duke Maas. The ball struck the foul pole in left field. Leftfielder Charlie Maxwell, the bullpen crew, the Tiger infielders and manager Tighe contended the ball hit the pole below the screen.

Tighe argued at length with third base umpire John Flaherty but got nowhere.

Everything happened in the eighth inning, with Lou Sleater pitching for the Tigers.

Here's the way the Yankees turned a "boner" into a victory and gained one and one-half games on the first place Chicago White Sox:

Gil McDougald led off with a single off Harvey Kuenn's glove at short. Skowron singled to left, sending McDougald to third. Skowron took second on the play at third. The runners held as Elston Howard lined to Al Kaline in right field.

Richardson was purposely passed, filling the bases. Don Larsen batted for pitcher Bob Grim and lined to Bill Tuttle in Centerfield. McDougald scored after the catch and the other runners took a base on Tuttle's throw to third, on which he drew an error.

★ ★ ★

An intentional pass was ordered for Hank Bauer. On a pitch to Enos Slaughter, Bauer raced for second — trying to steal a base that already was occupied. Catcher Frank House threw to first baseman Earl Torgeson, who threw to third baseman Jim Finigan. But by that time Skowron had a big jump and scored the deciding run on a belly slide.

Maxwell and Frank Bolling each collected his eighth home run and Torgeson his first, but each clout came with the bases bare.

Steady pitching by iron-man Paul Foytack and some timely hitting by his teammates, including a two-run homer by Maxwell, brought the Tigers a 7-4 win over the Yankees on Saturday.

The four-game series closes today, with Frank Lary trying to resume his role of a "Yankee killer" as he opposes Bob Turley.

California, Penn State Win Again

Field Narrowed to Six in NCAA World Series Tourney

OMAHA, June 9 (AP)—California, winner of the first NCAA College Baseball World Series in 1947, earned a second victory in the 1957 meet last night with an 8-2 victory over Iowa State.

★ ★ ★

The win sends the Golden Bears against Penn State at 9 p.m., EST today in a clash of the only two remaining unbeaten teams. In other third round games Connecticut plays Iowa State at 3 p.m., EST and Notre Dame faces Texas at 7 p.m., EST.

Earlier, Cal Emery's three-hit pitching and run-producing double helped Penn State to a 4-1 victory over Texas, Notre Dame hammered 19 hits off four Colorado State pitchers to oust the Bears, 23-2, and Connecticut eliminated Florida State, 5-3.

State, Michigan Place Two Each on Big 10 Team

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan and Michigan State have each placed two players on the 1957 All-Big Ten baseball team, selected over the weekend by conference officials.

New conference champion Northwestern also had two picked for berths on the honor team.

Michigan players who made the squad were second-baseman Ken Tippery and Third-baseman Steve Boros.

Second team places went to Michigan State's Frank Palamara, second base, and Ron Perranoski, pitcher. Michigan's second team representative was pitcher Glenn Girardin.

AFTER YOU, SIR — Umpire Bill Summers gestures the way to the clubhouse for Yankee pitcher Tom Sturdivant after the New York righthander and Detroit first baseman Ray Boone tangled between the plate and mound in game Sunday in Detroit. Boone charged Sturdivant tried to bean him. Both were ejected from the game after their fight led a general melee of players from both benches. Tigers lost 5-4.

European Cup Matches Start

Belgium and France Battle Elimination in Quarter-Finals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Belgium and France have their backs to the wall today as they prepare to meet Mexico and England, respectively, in quarter-final singles matches in the European zone Davis Cup tennis eliminations.

★ ★ ★

Belgium lost its doubles match yesterday to the Mexican duo of Francesco Contreras and Mario Llamas, to fall behind 2-1, while the French pair of Paul Remy and Jean-Claude Molinari rallied to bring their team its first victory in the series.

★ ★ ★

Sweden and Denmark are pitted against each other in singles play today, but the Swedes have the series clinched on the basis of a snappy 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 doubles sweep yesterday by Sven Davidson and Ulf Schmidt over Torben Ulrich and Kurt Nielson. They won the first two singles Saturday.

Edge Into 6th Place

Orioles Start 'Run' on White Sox

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You can call them the Baltimore giant killers from now on after the job the Orioles did on the Chicago White Sox and the New York Yankees over the last two weekends.

Paul Richards' birds edged into sixth place yesterday by sweeping a pair from the league-leading White Sox to make it three out of four in the series. Only a week ago they took three out of four from the Yanks.

Billy O'Dell, a 24-year-old southpaw making his first start of the season, struck out 11 White Sox in his second-game 5-0 shutout. Homers by Tito Francona and Bob Nieman helped the Orioles' ace reliefer George Zuverink win his sixth in the opener 7-5.

The second-place Yankees took advantage of some crazy baserunning and a defensive lapse to whip Detroit 5-4.

Cincinnati's determined Redlegs held Brooklyn to only one run in 18 innings while taking two from the Dodgers 3-1 and 3-0. That gave Cincinnati a 1½-game lead in the National after a one-day drop into third place.

The Dodgers and Phillies are tied for second because the Phillies lost to Chicago 7-3 and had to settle for a 4-4 tie in the second game, called by the Sunday curfew in Philadelphia.

Milwaukee stumbled again at Pittsburgh. After winning the 11-inning first game 2-1 on Roberto Clemente's error and Johnny Logan's single, the Braves bowed to Ronnie Kline in the second game 5-3.

St. Louis also edged into the thick of the race by taking two from New York.

Stan Musial hit his 12th homer and played his 821st consecutive game, only one short of the National League record.

Boston hit seven homers in downing Kansas City twice 8-4 and 9-5. Ted Lepcio and Jimmy Piersall each hit two and Ted Williams slammed No. 13.

Cleveland settled for a split with Washington, winning the opener 7-2 on Early Wynn's six-hitter, but losing the second 7-6.

Don Hoak was the big man for Cincinnati, driving in four of the six runs with a homer in each game. George Crowe also homered for the Redlegs and Gil Hodges' eighth was the only Dodger run of the day.

Jets, Shaws Win Handily

The Pontiac Jets buried Thomas Die & Stamping under a 13-hit landslide for a runaway 16-1 triumph and Shaw's Jewelers trounced Griff's Grill in Class A City League baseball games Sunday afternoon at Wisner Field.

The Jets' heavy artillery really cut loose against Thomas, which has scored only two runs in four games.

Felix Brooks clouted two home runs, each with a mate aboard. Judge Booker banged out three hits in three tries, giving him eight safeties in his last eight trips to the plate. Ben Roberson made three blows and Loue Seay two for the Jets.

John Keel and Octave LeDuff shared mound chores for the Jets, with Keel getting credit for the win. Lynn Wright was the starter and loser.

Griff's held Shaw's to a 3-2 lead until the 4th inning. Then the Jewelers scored six runs through the 4th, 5th and 6th stanzas to ice the decision. Dave Kringe led the Jeweler attack with three hits, followed by Bob Thomason and Joe Sato with two apiece.

Jerry Taylor, who relieved starter Tom McCormack in the 3rd, was the winning pitcher. Jim Jones was tagged with the defeat.

The Jets clash with the CIO Local 594 in today's City League contest at Wisner Field. Game time is 5:30 p.m.

Pitching Battle, Double Forfeit in City Softball

Birmingham's 2-1 victory over Elks No. 810 in a sparkling mound duel and Oxbow Pavillion's forfeiture of a doubleheader because of an ineligible player highlighted Sunday night's City League softball activity.

★ ★ ★

Cal Atwood outpitched Dean Wilson in the Birmingham-Elks battle at Beaudette Park. Birmingham broke a 1-1 tie in the 3rd inning when Dick McHugh scored from 3rd on Roger Reynolds' sacrifice fly. The run proved to be decisive. Atwood gave up three hits while Wilson allowed four.

Deni's Corner walloped Dostal Foundry, 14-4, with 10 safeties and the help of 13 enemy errors. Play was halted after three innings by the league's 10-run rule.

Over at North Side, Oxbow was taking part in both ends of a twin bill against the UAW-CIO Local 653 and Louie's Tavern. Oxbow held a 9-7 lead over the CIO after 5⅓ innings of the opener when it was determined that the Pavillion team was using an ineligible man.

The illegal player was shortstop Dan Fulgenzi, who had been signed as a non-playing coach. The infraction cost Oxbow the Union game plus the nightcap with Louie's.

In girls' league action yesterday, Micki Mora hurled a nifty five-hit shutout as Commerce Theater defeated Gingellville, 9-0.

Kell and Francona Lost to Baltimore

CHICAGO (AP) — Third baseman George Kell and outfielder Tito Francona will be lost to the Baltimore Orioles indefinitely following injuries suffered in yesterday's 7-5 and 5-0 triumphs over the Chicago White Sox.

Kell, 34, was hit in the head by a pitch thrown by Dick Donovan of the Sox in the second inning of the second game.

Francona, 23, suffered a fracture of the index finger of the left hand when he attempted a shoe string catch.

Birdie Says Hurlers Tops

BROOKLYN (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts thinks National League pitching is better this year than at any time since he became manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs in the winter of 1953.

★ ★ ★

The personable manager, back in his best oratorical form following the Reds' 3-1 and 3-0 doubleheader sweep of the Brooklyn Dodgers, took time out to make a couple of other observations of the National League race as his team headed for Pittsburgh today back in first place.

"I said back in March that Brooklyn was the team to beat for the pennant," said Tebbetts, "and I've seen nothing to change my mind although Milwaukee has been knocking us down every time they've played us.

★ ★ ★

"With the possible exception of Philadelphia, Brooklyn has the finest young pitching in the league. The way Johnny Podres, Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax have been going, the Dodgers haven't missed Sal Maglie in the least."

Cincinnati finally received some pretty good pitching of its own yesterday as Brooks Lawrence, Tom Acker and Hal Jeffcoat limited the Dodgers to one run in 18 innings, boosting the Reds back into first place, a game and a half in front of Brooklyn.

Pros Unhappy at Inverness

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—After one look, the golf pros are yelling "bloody murder" over the tightened Inverness Club course, scene of the National Open tournament starting Thursday.

★ ★ ★

"I don't know what they're trying to prove," groaned Sam Snead, one of the top favorites. "This is nothing like the course we used to play on in the four-ball tournaments. They're making golf drudgery instead of fun."

★ ★ ★

Jimmy Demaret, three-time Masters champion who like Snead has never won the Open, said, "it's utterly ridiculous the way some of these holes are laid out. I predict on Sunday, we'll be paying homage to another fluke champion."

★ ★ ★

Julius Boros, Vic Ghezzi, Cary Middlecoff and Peter Thomson were others to voice mild protest over the gun-barrell fairways, tenacious rough and lightning fast greens.

★ ★ ★

"There's not a birdie hole on the course," said Middlecoff, the defending champion. "The only par five hole on the course is almost impossible to reach in two. The course plays awfully long. I think 285 will be good enough to win."

★ ★ ★

The Inverness Club, where Scotchman Ted Ray, 43, won in 1920 and Billy Burke triumphed in 1931 after a record 72-hole playoff with George von Elm, measures 6,919 yards and plays a par 34-36—70.

★ ★ ★

Main objections were to the par five 12th hole, measuring 527 yards. The fairway undulates 250 yards from the tee, giving the long driver a sidehill lie. A ditch crosses the fairway 150 yards farther on and then there is about 60 yards of high grass fronting an elevated well-trapped green.

★ ★ ★

Boros called the hole a "nightmare" and said the committee should look into it.

★ ★ ★

The pros also entered complaints over the tightness of some of the fairways and the length of par four holes such as the 446-yard ninth and 479-yard 14th.

Purdue Star Wins Sunnehanna Tourney

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Joe Campbell, 21, fast-rising amateur golf star from Knoxville, Tenn., and Purdue University, has added the Sunnehanna Invitation golf championship to a growing list of titles.

The Indiana state amateur and open champ won the fifth annual Sunnehanna medal play tourney yesterday, defeating Bob Pratt of Seattle, Wash., on the second hole of a sudden death playoff.

Oldtimers Trip London Nine in Opener, 10-2

The Pontiac Oldtimers opened play in the International Oldtimers League in impressive style Saturday by walloping London, Ont., 10-2 at Wisner Stadium.

Bob Ragland, a fine wrestler on Pontiac High's 1st mat team last winter, will switch to boxing this week when he fights on the Waterford fight card slated for Saturday for the benefit of a swim pool for the Williams Lake Swim Club. Bob is a 138-pounder.

★ ★ ★

When the Michigan Giants scored a five-inning 6-4 victory over Shaw's Jewelers last week in a Class A City League baseball game at Wisner Field, it marked the 1st defeat for a Paul Parks-coached team in 42 starts.

★ ★ ★

That homer J. W. Porter hit Friday against the Yankees was his 1st in major league play. It came in his 84th game.

★ ★ ★

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Arnold Palmer believes Doug Ford will win the National Open golf championship this weekend at Toledo's Inverness course.

★ ★ ★

Palmer, 27, former National Amateur king from Latrobe, Pa., made his prediction yesterday after defeating Ford of Mahopac, N.Y., on the sixth hole of a sudden death playoff for the Rubber City Open laurels.

★ ★ ★

Two chip shots which found their way into the cup for birdies were the big difference. Palmer, first to win three PGA-sponsored tournaments this year, went into the final 18-hole round tied with Dow Finsterwald, 27, of Tequesta, Fla., at 204.

The two had a comfortable three-stroke lead over Ford, fiery Tommy Bolt of Los Angeles, and surprising Bill Trombley of Dallas.

★ ★ ★

But Finsterwald couldn't get a birdie or a bogey in the final round, matching the card for a 71. Palmer, Ford and Bolt made up the final threesome. On the first hole Palmer got a birdie, Ford a bogie, and Palmer's edge jumped to five. But Ford birdied the seventh, eighth and ninth to go only two down—and it was on the ninth the big fireworks started.

Palmer missed the green with his second, but flicked a 40-foot chip shot into the cup for a birdie. Ford, 35, promptly sank a 30-foot putt to match it.

A bogie on the 11th cost Ford a stroke, and he was down three, but he got it back with a bird on the 14th. Still two back, with two holes to play, the Masters champion and leading money winner for the year gained one on the 17th when Palmer three-putted for his only bogey of the day.

★ ★ ★

Ford drew even with a birdie on the last hole, his approach sticking just about two feet from the stick, and they went into extra holes. For the climactic round Ford had a 32-33-65, best round of the four-day meet, while Palmer had 68.

On the second hole of the playoff Palmer hooked his shot into a row of trees, but the ball banged a galleryite and rebounded to the fairway. They halved the first three extra holes in pars.

★ ★ ★

Ford almost locked it up with a 20-foot birdie putt on the fourth, but Palmer countered with an 8-footer. Two holes later Arnie chipped in from 25 feet out for the birdie which ended it.

Palmer's 272 for the 72 holes was good for $2,800 of the $22,000 prize money, giving him $16,269 for the year. Ford's $1,900 prize boosted his 1957 take to $28,931. They are one-two in the money list.

Ward Big Car Race Winner

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Rodger Ward squeezed into the lead for keeps on the 51st lap yesterday and hung on to win the Rex Mays 100-mile national championship big car race at State Fair Park and pocket first place money of $4,522.

★ ★ ★

Ward, of Los Angeles, averaged 97.78 miles per hour to post a winning time of one hour one minute 21.39 seconds, 45 seconds off the record set last year by Chicago's Pat Flaherty, winner of the 1956 Memorial Day 500 mile race at Indianapolis.

★ ★ ★

In taking his first victory here in a big car, Ward finished nine seconds ahead of Johnny Thomson of Boyertown, Pa. The next four finishers in the tight race were only seconds behind Thomson.

Macias Defends Title Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Raul Macias, the National Boxing Assn.'s world bantam champion, will risk his title Saturday at the Cow Palace in San Francisco against Dommy Ursua, a 4-11 battler from the Philippines.

★ ★ ★

The 15-round match, originally scheduled for May was set back by Macias who still hopes to meet Alphonse Hailimi of France, recognized as champ by everybody except the NBA.

The slugging school teacher from Cut and Shoot, Tex., Roy Harris, gets his big test Tuesday at Houston when he takes on highly-ranked Willie Pastrano of New Orleans in a 10-round heavyweight match.

3-Way Dead Heat in WLYA Contest

Skippers of three snipes, in Watkins Lake Yachting association's fleet sailed their fast craft over the finish line in Sunday's race in a dead heat, a rare occurrence. They were Blueboat (Bob Newman skipper, Ron Newman, crew); Gee Wiz (Guy Duffield, skipper, Nancy Duffield, crew); and Byaes (Chuck Morris, skipper, wife Carol, crew).

★ ★ ★

Shifty, variable winds made the races interesting affairs.

Busy Bees, sailed by Fred Brede with Bruce Brede and Fred Brede Sr. crew, was the lightning winner over Jo-Dee, sailed by Glen Fries, Joe Fries and Neal Wheeler, crew; Cygnet (Ben Weber, Jerry Eldred, Judy Eldred) was third.

★ ★ ★

Krietz Kraft (Kark Krietz) won the thistle race, with Seaweed (Don Zannoth, Phyllis Seabald) 2nd and Tar Baby (Jim Parshall, Harm Gillam) 3rd.

Giants Meet Lions in Detroit Contest

DETROIT (AP) — The world champion New York Giants and the Detroit Lions will play a National Football League exhibition game here Sept. 22.

★ ★ ★

It will be the second home preseason game for the Lions. They will face the Cleveland Browns in a charity contest here Aug. 14.

Wiffi, Hagge, Suggs Knotted

Triple Tie in Ladies' PGA

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Three girls who missed big chances to wrap up one of the most coveted titles in women's golf set out to decide it today in the final round of the Ladies PGA championship. And if you have to pick a winner among them, the name of Louise Suggs probably would come out first.

★ ★ ★

The reason is experience.

Wiffi Smith, 20, a golf pro for only about six months, led the way into the final round with a score of 214 strokes to 217 for Miss Suggs and tiny Marlene Bauer Hagge, the defending champion.

★ ★ ★

But Wiffi faltered at the crucial point of the third round yesterday — on the last five holes where her closest rivals also were having trouble. So, instead of having the championship in her pocket, Wiffi still was in a contest.

Miss Suggs, 33, a wiry girl, has been on the pro golf circuit since 1948. She has won almost everything in sight at one time or another and isn't likely to be afflicted by tension in a showdown.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Hagge, who won the LPGA title at Detroit last year and showed she can master the short Churchill Valley course by winning an open tournament here in 1956, also has had plenty of experience. But Marlene also ran into difficulties on the last five tricky holes yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Wiffi, needing only to protect a comfortable lead, made her big mistake at the 356-yard 17th. She tried to hook an approach shot to the green, hit a tree and wound up with a double bogey six and a score of 73. Marlene, burning up the front nine with a two-under-par 34, struck a spell of wild shooting, landed in the creek once and bogeyed four of the last five holes.

Louise shot 5-3-4-5, two over par, on the last four holes, and that cost her a chance to gain.

Moore Hoping to Meet Sugar Ray for Title

MANNHEIM, Germany (INS) — Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore said today he was go to New York to discuss arrangements for a title fight with Sugar Ray Robinson.

★ ★ ★

Moore said the fight would be promoted by actor Frank Sinatra.

He added that there are "all indications" at the moment that the fight will be staged in Los Angeles.

Moore predicted such a bout would bring in $1,000,000.

"It would be the biggest match I ever had—bigger than that with Rocky Marciano—if it comes off," he declared.

Mike Beats Old Partner to Win State Tourney

Iceberg Yields, 1-Up, as Andonian Takes 2nd Publinx Title in Row

By BILL CORNWELL

Match play or medal play — it's all the same to Pontiac's Mike Andonian.

The Pontiac High School mathematics teacher proved this convincingly Sunday afternoon by winning the Michigan Publinx Golf Association's state championship for the 2nd year in a row.

And he had to beat an old golfing friend to do it.

Shooting one-under-par golf, the steady Andonian defeated Roy Iceberg of Pontiac, 1-up, in yesterday's 18-hole match play finals at Saginaw's Rolling Green Golf Club.

Last year Andonian nailed down the state crown with a one-under-par 279 over the same Rolling Green layout in a 72-hole medal play tournament. Match play was adopted this time and Mike disposed of six foes on his march to the titel, clipping one stroke off par for 93 holes.

Andonian thus becomes only the 2nd player in publinx history to win the state title twice in succession. Ziggy Zawadski was champion in 1939 and 1940.

Only three other public links golfers have won the crown more than once. Jay Law of Utica is a three-time champ while Art Pomy and Jack McGivern eoch own two titles.

Iceberg and Andonian, teammates at the University of Detroit in 1951 and often best-ball partners, waged a nip-and-tuck battle yesterday.

Mike took three of the 1st four holes, but Iceberg rallied with three birdies to square the match on the 8th hole. Andonian gained the lead for keeps with a birdie on the 13th hole and went 2-up on the 16th when Roy hooked his tee shot out of bounds.

Iceberg bounced back to win the 17th with another birdie, but the two men halved the 18th and the championship belonged to Andonian for the 2nd straight year.

THIRD-ROUND RESULTS

Mike Andonian, Pontiac, defeated Chuck Mitchell, Saginaw, 3-2; Fred King, Dearborn, def. Art Tiexiera, Gaylord, 3-2; George Schmidt, Saginaw, def. Jim Briegal, Ann Arbor, 1-up; Karl Mieller, Saginaw, def. Jim Partain, Jr., Royal Oak, 4-3.

John Horn, Saginaw, def. Bob Brooks, Birmingham, 1-up, 20 holes; John McLaughlin, Ithaca, def. John Lock, Dearborn, 2-up; Ty Caplin, Plymouth, def. Vince Tata, Detroit, 2-1; Roy Iceberg, Pontiac, def. Dick Robertson, Pontiac, 2-1.

QUARTER-FINAL RESULTS

Andonian def. King, 5-4; Mueller def. Schmidt, 3-2; McLaughlin def. Horn, 3-2; Iceberg def. Caplin, 5-4.

SEMIFINAL RESULTS

Andonian def. Mueller, 3-2; Iceberg def. McLaughlin, 3-2.

FINAL RESULTS

Andonian defeated Iceberg, 1-up, for state championship.

Pot-O-Gold Has $1,200 for Your Right Answers

Pot-O-Gold is now holding $1,200 in store for the person who successfully solves this week's puzzle. You could do a lot with that much money if it were suddenly dumped into your own pocket. Why not try your luck?

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the sentence. You then write the number of that word in the puzzle square marked A.

Do the same with all other squares. Read all the clues carefully and be sure the right numbers are in the right squares.

Professor Says Both Fields Strive to Build Character

Take Lesson From Religion, 'Modern' Psychiatrists Told

ATLANTA (INS)—Many modern psychiatrists would do well to take a lesson from old time religion, an Atlanta psychiatrist today advised.

Dr. Harry R. Lipton, former Emory University faculty member, and a practicing psychiatrist, said he believes religion, "the old character builder," and psychiatry, "the newly-developed technique for changing people," have a lot in common.

Psychiatrists "who believe that psychotherapy can somehow be divorced from the problem of values," should take a longer look at the good points of religion, he said, and added:

"Religious persons have always believed that a man can, through study, prayer and introspection, ultimately come to know himself and his true nature better.

LOSE RESPECT

"In contrast some psychiatrists have lost respect for what one can discover about himself."

Dr. Lipton, who talks with the kindly mannerisms of a father-confessor, advised psychiatrists who place too great an emphasis on psychotherapy to "study those religious persons who have observed and changed themselves."

Such a study, he said, "May teach psychiatrists to cast off traditional restricts and return to self-study and efforts at self-changing."

★ ★ ★

He pointed out that clergymen and psychiatrists have teamed up to help "sick" individuals with excellent results. Dr. Lipton, president of the national committee on alcoholic hygiene, cited the success in helping previously "incurable" alcoholics.

"Boil down psychiatry and religion," he said, "and they both teach pretty much the same thing." He explained:

"There is really no basic conflict between the two—they both strive to develop character. Both have the task of helping man to be happy and both promise a more abundant life—but not in terms of money."

★ ★ ★

Dr. Lipton called his profession "more of an art than a science . . . no more an exact science than religion."

He criticized present society for breaking away from basic religion by striving to "get something for nothing."

"Many individuals believe an abundant life requires some stealing if it can be done within the law," he said, "or without getting caught." He added:

"Covetousness invariably leads to destruction of character and creativeness.

"The unconscious guilt feelings thus fostered leads to abnormal reactions, which in turn leads to neurosis and mental illness."

Dr. Lipton defended psychiatrists against some of the criticisms often levelled by the clergy. He said:

"Psychiatrists do not advocate divorce, sexual promiscuity, immorality or any other specific type of conduct. They do not reject those who commit such acts, nor do they condemn them as individuals. They consider them to be sick individuals in need of treatment.

"Individuals receiving proper psychiatric treatment will become healthier persons in every way. They will not be weakened in their religious outlook, but strengthened therein. After all there can be no real conflict between any truths—since all truth is from God."

Zoli Government Wavers in Italy

Premier Plans to Quit if His Winning Majority Depends on Fascists

ROME, (AP)—Adone Zoli's new Christian Democratic government was reported wavering today in the midst of the most confused political crisis in Italy's postwar history.

★ ★ ★

Sources close to the courtly, 69-year-old Premier said he had confided to associates he would resign in a few days if a recheck of Friday's parliamentary confidence vote showed his winning majority depended on Fascist support.

Zoli, a staunch anti-Fascist, had said a few hours before the vote he would substract any Fascist votes from his total.

★ ★ ★

The outcome of the recheck is to be announced in the Chamber of Deputies Tuesday.

Newspapers said two deputies—a Fascist and a Communist—who had been listed as abstaining had voted, both against Zoli.

By the official count, Zoli needed 281 votes. He was credited with 305, 23 of them from the Fascists, or 282 without the Fascists.

★ ★ ★

However, the newspapers said because of the two additional votes, Zoli needed 282 for a majority ,and that his 305 votes included 24 Fascists. That would only give him 281 non-Fascist votes, one short of the majority.

Hollywood Headlines

Marilyn Monroe Planning to Make 'The Blue Angel'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Happy-sounding Marilyn Monroe telephoned me to say that she expects to make "The Blue Angel" as her next picture at 20th Century-Fox. Spyros Skouras, she said, had talked with her about the picture that brought fame and fortune to Marlene Dietrich.

I asked Marilyn about the Jean Harlow story and she said she hadn't discussed it with 20th, but that William Powell had once told her she reminded him of Jean, who was once his fiancee.

Marilyn said that she and Arthur Miller are buying a house in Connecticut and they will move there July 15. She said she is confident that he will be exonerated.

"I am appearing at the New York premiere of 'The Prince and the Showgirl' on June 13 for Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's milk fund and we move to the country right after that show," she said.

When Hal ($64,000 Question) March was here a few weeks ago, he made 15 tests with girls for "Hear Me Good," his Paramount picture. One of the girls he particularly liked is Merry Anders, whom Don McGuire has now signed for the March movie.

Merry will play a pretty process server, and she will be ready to report for work when Hal arrives here June 28 to start two weeks of rehearsals.

ALL-STAR MOVIE

I have just heard from New York that Katharine Cornell is busily lining up an all-star cast for her motion picture, "Candida."

Kit reveals that her wardrobe for the George Bernard Shaw play may be the least expensive item on the film budget because she will wear the same costume designed for her theatrical debut and which she used in five subsequent productions of "Candida," spanning a period of 22 years.

She could well afford a new gown but she has a sentimental attachment, and she feels she would never be able to find a designer who could create one better suited to "Candida."

Carol Haney, who made such a Broadway hit in "Pajama Game," is just as big a standout in the film version, thereby reversing the old yarn about understudy-makes-good.

Carol's understudy, Shirley Mac Laine, got to Hollywood first and kicked up plenty of stardust, via Paramount, Hitchcock and "Around the World in 80 Days," while Missy Haney, under an MGM deal, didn't do so well.

She's handled like a space weapon in Warner's "The Pajama Game" and looks set to go just as far.

The whole picture is a comedy riot anyhow, its sharp score wonderfully sung by Doris Day and John Raitt, and its frequently wicked lines snapped across by such accomplished clowns as Eddie Foy Jr. and Ralph Dunn. But I could have done with more of Doris Day.

LOOKS SERIOUS

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Nicola Michaels, Pansy and Nick Schenck's youngest, and Helmut Dantine have discovered each other—and it looks serious.

Ava Gardner spent one entire day at the UCLA Medical Center for her first complete checkup by an American doctor in at least three years. So far, Ava hasn't been near the MGM studio.

Ann Sheridan has bowed out of the road company of "Auntie Mame." The reason given was that it was impossible to get a theater in San Francisco.

Cary Grant became so ill on the set of "Kiss Them for Me" that he had to go home.

Karen Sharpe, who was engaged to marry actor Chet Marshall, has given back his ring.

Stopped in briefly at the Rowan and Martin party at the Beverly Hills Hilton ballroom. The sound went out on their gag movie and the boys, who had only seen it once, improved the lines, which are very funny.

A luncheon twosome at Schwab's drugstore was Joanne Dru and Joe Kirkwood Jr.

Buried in Tennessee

MEMPHIS — Meriwether Lewis National Monument, in West Tennessee, commemorates the death and burial place of the famed leader of the first expedition to the Pacific Northwest.

Although famous as the inventor of the telephone, Alexander Graham Bell gave his profession as "a teacher of the deaf," his lifetime interest. Helen Keller was taken to Dr. Bell as a six-year-old, deaf, blind, and unable to speak. He helped direct the education that enabled her to communicate with others.

Recovery Starts After Sharp Drop

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined sharply today in a heavy wave of selling on news that President Eisenhower had been stricken with an "upset stomach" and that heart and intestinal specialists were summoned.

Early this afternoon, however, some of the worst losses were trimmed as a recovery movement got under way.

★ ★ ★

The high-speed ticker tape fell behind the rush of transactions for one hour and ten minutes. At the worst, it was 14 minutes behind the pace of trading—the greatest lag since Feb. 29, 1956, when it ran 19 minutes behind on word that President Eisenhower would seek re-election.

Oils and steels, which have been the best gainers recently, took the worst losses today.

Prices of key stocks were down as much as 5 points or so when selling was most active. But as turnover slowed and prices came back a bit the losses were cut to around 3 points.

Some stocks recovered entirely, posting gains of from fractions to a point.

Based on the decline in the average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York stock exchange dropped about 2 billion dollars as of noon.

Today's break recalled the two other big "Eisenhower setbacks," on June 8, 1956, when the President suffered an attack of ileitis and on Sept. 26, 1955, when the market reacted to the news of his heart attack on the weekend preceding that session. In neither case did the ticker tape run as far behind as today. How the losses would compare remained to be seen at the end of today.

Terrorist Bomb Kills 7, Hurts 83

Death, Injury End Dance

ALGIERS (AP)—A terrorist bomb exploded under the bandstand last night as French couples danced the cha-cha-cha in a fashionable seaside casino. It killed seven young people and wounded 83—many of them members of prominent Algiers families.

★ ★ ★

Authorities assumed the bomb was planted by Algerian nationalists, who have stepped up their campaign of bombing and killing to press their independence demands on the French government.

ARMS, LEGS BLOWN OFF

Arms and legs were blown from about a dozen of the 300 persons attending a tea dance at the Casino de la Corniche, a stucco building in a palm garden overlooking the sea at suburban St. Eugene.

None of the dead were over 25. Most of the casino's "Lucky Starway" orchestra were killed outright. The dead, dying and wounded included young children attending the dance with their families.

★ ★ ★

French police searched the Algiers area for an Algerian steward who vanished from his job at the casino before the bomb went off. One policeman said: "This is not politics, this is murder."

★ ★ ★

Just a week ago bombs planted in three lampposts near crowded bus and streetcar stops killed four persons and wounded 84 in Algiers.

★ ★ ★

Officials say the bombings apparently are aimed at getting a favorable settlement to the 31-month-old Algerian rebellion from whatever new French government replaces Socialist Premier Guy Mollet's caretaker regime.

Believe Suicide in Canada Death

Police Reject Theory That Man Was Attacked in Ontario Wilds

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (AP)—Police said they now believe John G. McCombe, 56, wealthy mining company president, committed suicide at an isolated camp late Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

They said they have rejected an earlier theory that he was attacked while in the Toll Lake area 60 miles northeast of here restaking claims with his nephew and another man.

Inspector Robert Waddell of the provincial criminal investigation branch said he believes it a case of suicide. Friends of McCombe, president of Fundy Bay Copper Mines, say he was in a depressed mental state last Monday when he flew to Toll Lake with his nephew, Robert, 30, and Robert Harris, 58, of Sioux Lookout, Ont.

Late Saturday, police released McCombe's two companions. No others are being held.

★ ★ ★

"Up to now, we have no evidence of foul play," said provincial Police Inspector James G. McBain, who flew into the area Saturday with a fingerprint and photograph expert.

Authorities said the dead man's body bore considerable signs of violence and suggested the wounds may have been self-inflicted. Police said the nephew found his uncle in critical condition bleeding from deep wrist, arm and body cuts at the camp Tuesday. The nephew applied tourniquets to stop the bleeding, but McCombe died.

Both McCombe's companions said they had to wait three days after the death until the scheduled Friday arrival of a private aircraft. They were 32 miles from the nearest settlement, cut off by dense brush and rocky terrain.

★ ★ ★

On hand under subpoena were carpenter's union President Maurice A. Hutcheson, Vice President O. William Blaier and Chapman, all slated for questioning about the right-of-way deal.

'You Won't Find Much Company There'

Billy Graham Believes Hell Is Lonely

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Graham says a lot of people believe they'll have plenty of company if they go to hell.

But the evangelist told 19,000 people at Madison Square Garden last night, "I've got an idea you won't even see anyone else. I believe that's part of hell—the great loneliness of it."

★ ★ ★

He also said a lot of people feel that when they die, the good and the bad things they've done are separated and, if the good outweighs the bad, they go to heaven.

"That's not the way it is at all," he said. "You're judged entirely on the way you stood with Christ."

Graham was on television twice yesterday — first on Meet the Press over NBC-TV and later on the network's Steve Allen Show, which devoted five minutes to the evangelist in a remote telecast from the Garden.

★ ★ ★

On Meet the Press, Graham described Russia as ripe for "the greatest religious revival in history."

He said he would like to preach there "without any strings attached.

"I don't believe they have stamped out faith."

★ ★ ★

He said he was approached two years ago by Baptist leaders in Russia and invited to visit the Soviet Union. He said he liked the idea but made his visit conditional on having no "strings attached."

Relations between the United States and Russia worsened soon thereafter, the evangelist said, and the matter was not pursued.

Steve Allen asked Graham how he felt New York was reacting to his sermons.

★ ★ ★

The evangelist replied that "the people of New York have responded more enthusiastically" than had been anticipated. He said there is a "great spiritual hunger" here.

Last night's capacity audience included 500 standees and pushed to 467,000 the number who have heard Graham at the Garden since the meetings began May 15.

There were 701 "decisions for Christ" last night. The total for the revival so far is 15,831.

Graham's text was Hebrews 9:27—"and as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment;" and Revelations 20:11—"and I saw a great white throne, and Him that sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away; and there was found no place for them."

Area School Elections Held Today

AVONDALE

Albin Hus, 40, of 6704 Livernois has lived in the Avondale District for 35 years and will have four children in the system next fall.

The third candidate, Herman F. Lamb, 44, of 3783 Mildred has been a resident of the district for 10 years and has three stepchildren attending the schools.

★ ★ ★

Completing the list is Earl Wilson, 38, of 1781 Squirrel Rd. He has lived in the area his entire life and has two children who will be enrolled in the school system next fall.

The Citizens Committee urges everyone to assume his duty to his school and community by voting today.

OXFORD

An election will be held today at the North Oxford School to determine if that school district shall consolidate with the Oxford Area Community Schools. Last September 11 surrounding districts combined with Oxford, leaving North Oxford as an isolated district.

Three proposals will be presented to the voters at the polls which will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. All must pass to allow annexation. All registered voters may vote on proposals one and three, which provide for the union and raise and limit the millage rate.

Only property owners and their husbands or wives may vote on the second proposal which would have North Oxford assume the present indebtedness, about $1,500,000, of the consolidated district.

WEST BLOOMFIELD

The annual West Bloomfield School Board election will be held today.

Edwin R. Dreyer, Orchard Lake, has served for six years and will be unopposed for this third term. Kern H. Murphy, Keego Harbor, has served for nine years and will be unopposed for his fourth term.

Voters will also be asked to approve the transfer of $152.62 which is left from a paid up bond issue, to the Building and Site Fund.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. at Roosevelt School, Cass Lake road; Scotch School, Commerce road and West Bloomfield Town Hall, 4460 Orchard Lake Rd.

DRYDEN

A special bond election is being held today in the Dryden School District. The election is being held at the Dryden Town Hall and the amount of the proposed bond issue is $240,000.

The members of the Board of Education state that educational needs will be very well met if the program is approved by the voters today.

Among some of the benefits to be gained will be a new gymnasium, a clinic for sick school children and a high school principal's office. Four new class rooms, including a modern home economics room, a new science and agriculture room and two class rooms, will also be built.

Replica Battles Stormy Seas

Mayflower Nearing U. S.

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — The replica of the bark Mayflower today battled stormy seas as it neared the mainland in a repeat of the original Atlantic crossing of the Pilgrims in 1620.

The Coast Guard reported at dawn that the seas were "rough" in the area of Nantucket Island, where the Mayflower II was last reported.

★ ★ ★

Cmdr. Alan J. Villiers, skipper of the square-rigged bark, last night reported his position as about 90 miles south-southwest of the Nantucket lightship off the Massachusetts coast and proceeding at five knots.

He also radioed that he expected to be off Provincetown late tonight or early tomorrow. From Provincetown, the vessel must sail 24 miles across Masachusetts Bay and enter Plymouth Harbor at high tide.

★ ★ ★

Villiers reported by radio that the vessel "lost 10 hours (Saturday. We hove to under bare poles in Gulf Stream gales but are battling northward again."

★ ★ ★

On arrival in Plymouth, the vessel's crew will go to Plymouth high school for baths and a hot meal and then will be escorted to a large amphitheater near Plymouth Rock for official welcoming ceremonies.

Mrs. Nancy Villiers, wife of the Mayflower captain, arrived in Plymouth yesterday after a flight from London.

★ ★ ★

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry Truman flies back to his Independence, Mo., home today. Mrs Truman will stay on here for several more days.

Truman dropped by Doctors Hospital yesterday for a chat with his daughter Mrs. Clifton Daniel and another peek at his 5-day-old grandson. He had a present for the baby—a bib.

★ ★ ★

Earlier in the day, Truman delivered a commencement address at Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass. He received an honorary degree of doctor of laws.

★ ★ ★

He said a "wave of hysteria" over Communist conspiracy in this country seems to be ebbing.

"We have seen a great wave of fear and panic about the domestic conspiracy of communism sweep over this country," said Truman. "We have seen it threaten the right of Americans to say what they think — if it is unpopular.

★ ★ ★

"This wave of hysteria attacked the sense of fair play and decency which is the spirit of the Bill of Rights.

"Today, this wave of hysteria where it is inflamed by racial feeling, it appears, for the time being to have run its course. But we must be ever on our guard against its reappearance."

'Real McCoys' to Begin Oct. 3

3-Time Oscar Winner Will Play Grandpa in Family Comedy

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Walter Brennan, only actor ever to win an Academy Award three times, has been coaxed and badgered into doing a film series for television.

★ ★ ★

"Fella name of Pinkus talked me into it," he said. "Irving Pinkus. He's been at me two years. A real nice fella. We hit it off fine and we finally made this pilot film. Everybody who's seen it likes it."

ABC-TV has bought the series and scheduled it to begin Oct. 3. It's called "The Real McCoys" and concerns a West Virginia family who inherit a California farm — or ranch, as they call it out there.

"I play Grandpa," said Brennan. "I've got a son named Luke and he's married to a girl I claim is too skinny a woman to be fittin's fer farm work. And then there's little Luke and his sister. Hessie. I call her Aunt Hessie and I tell her she's goin' to be an old maid because here she is 11 years old already and ain't got a steady fella yet.

★ ★ ★

"I think this program is off-beat and has class. I don't like cheap stuff and we aim to see this isn't cheap. I hope I'm all right in it. I never do like myself much anyway. A funny thing, a lot of motion pictures I've been in I never even went to see."

Brennan is 63, but nobody would believe it if he didn't say so. From seeing him in the movies I had thought he was on the scrawny side. He's not. He's tall and sturdily built and his skin is healthy and sun-burnished. His eyes are bright and penetrating and his grip is as powerful as a woodvise.

★ ★ ★

He owns a 12,000-acre cattle ranch near Joseph, Ore., which one of his sons runs for him. He has three children and nine grandchildren and a wife "who never orfice has given me a mite of trouble."

All Rest, No Canapes Make Eddie Well Man

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — It was about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. "I'm calling you from bed," Eddie Cantor said, up at his hotel on Central Park.

★ ★ ★

"This is the only way to lick a heart attack," he said. "Another thing, don't let them feed you canapes at parties!

"Make a big pretense. Say 'Geez, these are WONDERFUL!' But don't eat them. Your weight's so important."

"Can you have a drink?" I asked.

"I'm a 3-ounce-a-day-guy. I don't lose my temper. Years ago I would have screamed, 'Wilson is a no-good bum'—now you forgive everybody."

"Can you do more TV?"

★ ★ ★

"Sure. 'Playhouse 90' in the fall. And 'The Big Record.'"
"Will you dance?"
"Oh God no! I don't want to put Ray Bolger out of business."
"You have to clap hands and sing 'If You Knew Susie.'"

★ ★ ★

"No, you don't. You'd be surprised what you don't have to do."
"But—" I said.

"See you around," Eddie said. "Just look a little past George Jessel's toupe and you'll see me. Unless it's after 10 at night. You can't get into too much trouble if you're in bed every night by 10 o'clock."

SMALL-TOWN STUFF: Whatever happened to the "crank" telephone, "central," and the eavesdroppers who forgot to stop the grandfather's clock from ticking—and it tipped you off? . . . French Use of Suez Cleared 'Technically'

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt has technically cleared the way for French ships to use the Suez Canal again. For France to do so would represent a sharp rollback in her policy.

A responsible source in the Finance Ministry said yesterday President Nasser's government is ready to accept free sterling in transit tolls for French shipping.

Originally Egypt wanted hard currency — U.S. dollars or Swiss francs — from British and French ships. Recently she agreed to accept sterling from the British.

★ ★ ★

The final decision on whether France will send her ships through the canal must await the formation of a new French government to succeed that of Premier Guy Mollet, who resigned May 21.

France still boycotts the canal, insisting the waterway must be kept free of Egyptian politics and that tolls must be agreed upon by both Egypt and user nations.

THE BERRYS By Carl Grubert

"Fifty families will start up the canyon as soon as I get back, Beeson," John Mathers said to me. "People who would have gone on living in the stink and smoke and refuse of a great city if I hadn't brought them out here.

"Every man has been carefully picked. Some are farmers. Some are carpenters. Blacksmiths. We have one gunsmith, a teacher, a doctor, a preacher and a lawyer. We will have a community of our own which will operate on the only premise that will ever bring happiness to mankind. One for all. The profit we make will be shared equally. We ask just one thing, Beeson, a very simple thing: Let us alone."

"And you called me a fool," I said. "Think a crackpot scheme like yours will work? Why, it's been tried a thousand times. Think of the early days of the Virginia colony. What happened? They'd have starved if they'd kept on with it. And what about these socialist colonies? They all failed. You claim to be a leader and a smart man, but you haven't got sense enough to know that if a man doesn't work for himself he's not going to work at all."

"You're wrong," Mathers said hotly. "This plan has never been tried under circumstances like these, with a picked body of men in an area with virgin soil that can be tilled. But you don't have to believe me. I'm not trying to convince you of anything. We just want to be let alone."

"You're making a lot of noise for a man who don't want to convince nobody," Gene Dillingham jeered.

"Go back to your camp, Mathers," I said wearily.

"Beeson, I promised Mrs. Pardee that we would not touch an acre of your range. We're settling on the West Fork above Carlton."

"There isn't room for fifty families on the West Fork," I said. "Besides, what do you think Alec Dodson will do? You're headed for his range."

"Will!" Curly King was on his feet, a forefinger pointed at a rider on the road south of us. "It's a woman! She just came out of the brush."

Dillingham swore. I guess we saw her at the same time, a second after Curly pointed her out.

"Who is she?" I lined my rifle on Mathers. "Where's she going?"

"Don't!" Mathers shouted. He was looking at Gene Dillingham. "Dont shoot her!"

I wheeled on Dillingham just as his finger was tightening on the trigger. I knocked the barrel up a split second before he could get a shot off. He might have missed anyhow, for the girl was a long way away, and moving fast; but he might have hit her, too, and that was the worst thing I could think of. My voice trembled when I said: "That's the finish for you, Gene. You're fired!"

He tipped his big head forward, scowling. "Sarah Pardee will have to say that before I believe it. Besides, you're going to need me. There's just the three of us, Mathers. Nobody up there on the hill. Come and get us. You can wipe us out."

"It won't be necessary," Mathers said. "That was my daughter Nela. She's gone after Mrs. Pardee."

He waded back across the creek and strode down the road toward where he had left his colonists. We might as well go home, I thought miserably. My one great hope had been to hold Mathers in the canyon so that he would have no chance to see or talk to Sarah. Sarah.

If I had been able to turn Mathers back, I could have faced Sarah and told her what we had done. She could tongue whip me, but she couldn't change what had been done.

Now everything was different. Dogbone would harness the buggy and half kill our team of bays getting Sarah here. I couldn't face her, knowing that the job wasn't done and that in a matter of hours Mathers would be leading his pilgrims up the canyon regardless of us.

"We're going home," I said, and motioned for Dillingham to go ahead of me.

I expected trouble with him, but he was docile enough. We mounted and started back the way we had come, a smile on Dillingham's heavy-lipped mouth. I didn't understand it, but I didn't think much about it just then. I was nagged by another thought, one that was far more important than any which concerned Gene Dillingham.

I was a coward. Not physically, but morally. Maybe that was worse. I knew I was right, but that didn't give me the strength I needed to defy Sarah.

When we reached the Box P, I saw that Mathers' daughter had beaten us. She had pushed her horse hard, and she must have been a good rider. As we pulled up in front of the house, she was standing beside her horse, a tight, defiant smile on her lips as she watched us ride in.

Dogbone had harnessed the bays and hooked them to the buggy. Now he came out of the house, pushing Sarah in her wheel chair. I stopped beside the buggy, Curley and Dillingham behind me, and waited, not looking at Nela Mathers. She had reason to lord it over me, I thought bitterly. Because of her the colonists had won without firing a shot.

We sat our saddles, motionless, until Dogbone stopped Sarah's chair beside the buggy. I forced myself to bring my gaze to Sarah. I expected her face to be dark and lined with fury. It wasn't. She seemed as serene as ever, and when she spoke her voice was soft and courteous.

"Get down and come into the house, Will," she said. "Dogbone, you can unhook. I won't be needing the buggy."

I stepped down and handed the reins to Curly. I said: "I fired Gene. He says he's got to hear you say it."

"Then he'll hear me say it," she said crisply. "You're fired, Gene. Pack your war sack, then come to the house and get your time."

He didn't say a word. He rode to the bunkhouse, smiling again, as if enjoying a secret joke. Just Sarah and the Mathers girl and me remained in front of the house.

Sarah said: "Will, I want you to meet Nela Mathers. Nela, this is my foreman and partner, Will Beeson."

I was forced to turn to her. She held her hand out, a quick, direct motion, and when I extended my hand she gave it a firm grip. "I'm glad to meet you, Mr. Beeson. My father has spoken of you many times."

"You can go back and tell your father he can bring his wagons up the canyon," I said. "He will have no more trouble with the Box P."

She nodded as if that was what she expected to hear. "Thank you. I understand why you aren't happy to meet me."

We were silent for a moment, facing each other. She studied me very carefully, in no way abashed, and looked back at Nela Mathers and despite the fact that I was prepared to hate her I found myself admiring her self-possession and calm courage.

Nela Mathers was not a beautiful girl, and hardly even a pretty one. She was wearing a dark brown riding skirt, a tan blouse, and a leather jacket, with a broad-brimmed hat that was held in place by a chin strap.

She was about twenty, I judged, but more mature than most girls of that age, full-bosomed, of average height, and neither too slender nor too heavy. Her eyes were gray, her hair dark brown, her chin strong.

A man could see these things in one glance, but there was more to her than that, more than a man would see in a thousand glances. I brought my gaze to Sarah's face, and looked back at Nela Mathers the next second, my eyes pulled there by some force which I did not understand.

"I've had the short end of the stick from the day Joe died, and now I'm gonna give it back. Take off your gun, Beeson."— Will's challenger makes his threat a reality in Chapter 16 of "Gunlock" tomorrow.
