Urban Renewal Project Outlined in Final Report

300 Families Probably Will Have to Be Moved in $4 Million Program

Pontiac's $4 million urban renewal program — 18 months in the planning stages—came another step closer to reality last night when the final project report was outlined before the City Commission and Plan Commission prior to submission by Sept. 30 for federal approval.

Commissioners learned from Robert A. Stierer, assistant city manager who's coordinating the project, that some 300 families living in 240 homes probably will have to be relocated to make way for the project.

Phase one of the project involves an area bounded roughly by Pike street on the north, Saginaw on the west, Osmun on the South, and an irregular line along Paddock, Perkins and Parkhurst on the east.

At next Tuesday's City Commission meeting a resolution will be adopted forwarding the detailed final project report to the Chicago office of the Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA).

Stierer said it probably would take the HHFA and Urban Renewal Administration (URA) two to three months to review the report, make any changes, and return it to Pontiac.

A public hearing will then be held on the project, after which the City Commission must again put its stamp of approval on it. Then back it will go to the HHFA for final approval.

"It is hoped that all this can be accomplished by February, 1960," Stierer said.

"If so," he added, "the carrying out phase of the project can begin, including second appraisals leading to offers to purchase and land acquisition, rehabilitation programs, site improvements, and related matters.

"Experience in other cities indicates that it will require three to five years to carry out all the phases of the project," Stierer told commissioners.

They also learned that the federal government's two-thirds net share of the project (the city pays one-third) has been upped to $2,756,940 because the city has been able to add local improvement projects ,credited as part of the city's net share.

Will Give U.N. New Plan for Disarmament

Tells Newsmen He's Not in U.S. to Beg or Force Anything on It

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON (AP)— Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said today that "all countries will gain" by "abolition of the cold war."

He told a National Press Club luncheon that "we have come to your country with an open heart."

He announced that he intends to submit a new proposal on disarmament to the United Nations. He will address the world organization General Assembly in New York Friday.

He said he hopes this proposal "will play an important part in the solution" of the disarmament problem, "The most burning issue of our time."

"We are not here to beg for anything or to force anything on you.

Our aim is to see your country, its great people, which has made a tremendous contribution to the development of mankind, to meet your statesmen and public leaders, and to have useful discussions on all questions which today agitate the peoples of our countries and the whole of mankind."

"We want to reach agreement with the strong and thereby reach agreement with all countries on the abolition of the cold war," he said.

"All countries will gain by this in equal measure."

He said it seems "strange" that some people have expressed "apprehensions" about his exchange of visits with President Eisenhower, as if the Soviet Union had "some sinister designs in expressing readiness to improve its relations with the United States."

"These allegations are simply ridiculous," he said. "We have no intention of producing a quarrel between anybody.

"On the contrary, we are taking every measure to have good relations not only with the U. S., but also with its Allies. We would like the meetings between statesmen of the U.S.S.R. and the U. S. to contribute in turn to the further improvement of relations between the Soviet Union and the United Kingdom, between the Soviet Union and France and other Allies of the U. S."

HIGHLIGHTS 2ND DAY

The speech was the highlight of Khrushchev's second day in the United States.

William H. Lawrence of the New York Times, president of the National Press Club introduced Khrushchev with the quip that "today we have moved you into the ballroom and out of the

Kills 6 on Playground With Suitcase Bomb

HOUSTON (AP)—"A man walks across the street with a bomb and kills children."

W. S. Hawes had just identified the body of his only son.

William S. Hawes Jr., 7, was one of six persons killed when a man pushed a button and blew up a suitcase of explosives Tuesday on the playground at Edgar Allen Poe Elementary School.

Paul Harold Orgeron, 47, pressed the doorbell type button minutes after enrolling his red-haired son, Dusty Paul, 7, in the school.

In addition to young Hawes, the blast killed Orgeron, Dusty, another pupil, a teacher and a custodian.

The 18 persons hospitalized included the principal, Mrs. H. E. Doty, 64. Four children remain in critical condition. Several are in serious condition with leg amputations and internal injuries.

William Hawes and John Cecil Fitch Jr., 8, died as they ran ahead of the class when they were released for recess.

Jennie Kolter, 54, a second-grade teacher, and James Montgomery, 56, school custodian, died while aiding Mrs. Doty in trying to persuade Orgeron to leave the school grounds.

Two incoherent notes were found on the playground but police and the FBI could find no specific reason why Orgeron, a former convict, set off the explosion.

STOPPED IN HALL

Orgeron and Dusty entered the school and stopped Mrs. Doty in a hall to inquire about the son enrolling. Mrs. Doty sent them to the office to talk with a clerk, Juanita Weidner.

He told Mrs. Weidner he had just moved into the area from New Mexico, that he was a tile contractor.

"He did not appear to be angry at all," Mrs. Weidner said, "but he did talk rather fast and loud."

A few minutes later, the father and son appeared on the playground where about 100 pupils were playing.

Mice-Carrying Jupiter Explodes

Missile Lasts for Only 10 Seconds Before It Has to Be Destroyed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A Jupiter missile carrying 14 pregnant mice and two frogs exploded today 10 seconds after launching.

★ ★ ★

The shot was to have been a test of the effects of space flight on the tiny animals and several other biological samples packed in the nose cone.

The would-be space travelers met a fiery death when the Jupiter blew apart about 1,000 feet in the air.

Pieces of the vehicle fell back on the launching area.

★ ★ ★

No one in the area was hurt.

The 60-foot rocket rose from its pad at 6:45 a.m. It veered sharply off course almost immediately.

As it climbed unsteadily it belched a long tail of fire from its powerful engines. Suddenly it erupted in a huge ball of fire and smoke as it was ripped by exploding fuel.

★ ★ ★

Flaming pieces of the broken Jupiter showered down on the launchers. It appeared most of the missile pieces landed on the Cape rather than the nearby ocean.

DESTROYED MISSILE

The Department of Defense announced several minutes later that the range safety officer deliberately destroyed the big missile when his instruments detected a malfunction.

C-C-Chilled? The N-North Had Snow

Will there be a fall season this year?

The experts say summer will exit a week from today, but snow-bound residents of northern Michigan and chilled Pontiac area residents wonder if maybe summer will give way to winter with no autumn in between.

★ ★ ★

Temperatures tumbled to record lows throughout the state last night with Detroit registering 41, Pontiac shivering at 40 degrees at 5:45 a.m., and Ishpeming getting a half-inch of snow and a low of 30.

The lowest temperature on record for Sept. 16 in the Pontiac area was 43 in 1916, until early this morning.

Today's high in the Pontiac area is expected to be 55 and tonight's low may be freezing.

★ ★ ★

Skies will be cloudy to partly cloudy turning fair tomorrow and Friday. Northeasterly winds at 12-20 miles per hour will become light and variable tonight.

Frost is likely.

For the next five days temperatures will average about 8 to 10 degrees below normal. Normal high 73, normal low 54. Little temperature change until a slow warming trend over the weekend. Little or no precipitation indicated.

Northerly winds were a mild four miles an hour at 1:15 this afternoon. The temperature at 2 p.m. read a brisk 48.

Man, You Cats Should Tune Up Your Eardrums

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two would-be beatnik bandits were beat from the start Tuesday. They just couldn't communicate.

★ ★ ★

"Man, I mean this is it," said one of the tough guys. "This is a stickup."

Albert Heineman, 43, bartender at the hungry i, busy polishing glasses, only half heard him. He turned to waiter Clarence Quinn: "I think these guys are pulling a heist."

★ ★ ★

Quinn didn't hear too well, either. He thought Heinman said they were pulling a knife.

Quinn walked over to the pair, shook them both up, then tossed both out into the street.

"Man, I mean you don't get the picture," was the last word heard.

Smiles and Headaches

Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev Wears Her 'Best' Gown

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev brought modest grandmotherly elegance to the White House last night.

But Christian Dior might not have thought so. If the late high priest of fashion had seen the Soviet first lady at the White House dinner, he probably would have described her as "dowdy" in a room full of exquisitely dressed guests.

Mrs. Khrushchev wore a teal blue, taffeta-like gown with a black thread running through the fabric. It had a low "V" neck and a fairly narrow skirt with no folds, pleats, or fancy arrangements.

A large gold rimmed broach with green and white stones decorated the center of her dress. She carried a black beaded evening bag. Her graying hair was groomed in a soft, long page-boy style. On her lips was just a touch of lipstick.

But the Soviet premier's wife looked her very best, and it was obvious that painstaking preparation had gone into her appearance.

We Aren't Buying

WASHINGTON — The visible reaction of Americans so far to Nikita Khrushchev resembles the attitude of the housewife who finds that a salesman somehow has poked one foot in the door.

He talks. She listens. But she isn't buying.

Khrushchev talked, smiled, waved, hugged little girls, winked at photographers. But, among the people at the airport and lining the route into Washington Tuesday, he got little applause, only scattered waving in answer to his own waving, and mostly a grim, curious silence.

Dems Stressing Loyalty for '60

Committee Adopts '56 Convention Plan Hoping to Halt South Revolt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee today adopted a 1960 convention rule designed to lessen chances of a Southern revolt against the convention nominees.

Surprisingly, the action was taken without debate.

★ ★ ★

The rule is the same one adopted in the 1956 convention. It provides that states in sending delegations to the convention undertake to assure that voters of the state will have a chance to ballot for the convention nominees, and that electors will be named who are pledged formally or in good conscience to the convention candidates.

★ ★ ★

Democratic Chairman Paul M. Butler proposed readoption of the 1956 rule and his plan was presented to the committee today by George F. Rock, Colorado member, and seconded by Herman F. Jessen of Wisconsin.

Butler then called for discussion. When no one rose to speak he put the plan to a voice vote and it carried with a few scattered calls of "no."

Southern members had erupted violently against Butler several weeks ago when he first suggested the readoption of the delegate good faith proposal and it was expected they would fight it today with all their strength.

They apparently decided that they had little chance of defeating the plan on a roll call vote, so avoided a lengthy debate on it.

Pontiac Weekend of Fun, Bargains

Festival to Start Thursday

Almost continuous entertainment from 4 to 10 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, will highlight Pontiac's Downtown Festival Days this weekend.

The Downtown Merchant's Association has gone all out to make the festive event a booming success.

Amateur shows, clown acts, trained animals, bands, trampoline acts, sports and antique cars, recording stars, and many other forms of entertainment will begin moving into the downtown area Thursday.

Carnival rides will begin tonight with merchants' free tickets being honored.

Sidewalk cafes and trading posts will transform downtown streets into a fantasyland. A western roundup parade will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday morning with floats, bands, horses, sports cars, midget racers and a miniature stage coach pulled by six Palamino ponies.

OUTDOOR STAGE

An outdoor stage has been erected on W. Huron street in the first block west of Saginaw. A kangaroo court with authentic portable jail of the late 1800's will be set up next to the Oakland County Courthouse.

Nikita Raps Cold War as Harm to All Countries kitchen where you debated with Vice President Nixon." Khrushchev smiled broadly at this.

Khrushchev began his address with a little quip of his own.

He said he would like to remain here for a year so he could answer all questions put to him.

But, he said, "I have to return to Moscow to receive your esteemed President in our own country."

He promised that in his speech "I will try to satisfy your curiosity and tell you some of the projects connected with my visit to the United States."

He continued:

"Many of you will indeed be my Sputniks on my tour of the U.S. I would like you to be good, honest, objective companions on my visit. You will report my speeches. I beg you to report correctly everything I say."

Earlier in the day, the bouncy and jovial Soviet Premier told Americans they and the Russians would be better off if they concentrated on peaceful pursuits — such as raising fine turkeys.

"If we don't give a capitalist turkey and a Communist turkey a passport no one can tell the difference," quipped the beaming boss of world communism during a tour of the Department of Agriculture's huge experimental farm at Beltsville, Md.

If Khrushchev was in a gay mood, his host, President Eisenhower, displayed a more somber outlook. The President told two White House callers this morning he hoped the Khrushchev visit might do some good toward easing world tensions.

Khrushchev, nattily attired and apparently none the worse for wear after the long first day of his historic trip, showed his usual ebullience at the experimental farm.

The Communist boss, exponent in his own country of thoroughgoing agricultural reform, was told at Beltsville by Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson that capitalism helped the American farmer develop food production to a degree unequalled anywhere in the world.

Khrushchev invited Benson to take along farmers and agricultural scientists when the secretary visits the Soviet Union soon.

Khrushchev was said to have prepared in advance the speech he would read to an audience made up of members of the National Press Club, the Women's National Press Club and the overseas writers.

But he consented also to subject himself to questioning after the formal address, possibly the most important of his 13-day visit.

Places were reserved at the luncheon for his wife, Nina Petrovna Khrushcheva, and the two daughters accompanying him on the tour, Julia and Rada.

President Eisenhower had about two hours of private conversation with the Soviet leader late yesterday.

The talk had been described as candid, and today the President was expressing some hope of results.

On the 20-mile drive into Maryland, few people were out to see the Premier. Perhaps there were two or three hundred, all told. None of them applauded.

Besides the Beltsville trip and the Press Club appearance, Khrushchev's schedule today called for an informal get-together at a "tea" given by members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at 5 p. m. and a dinner for President and Mrs. Eisenhower at the Soviet embassy tonight.

He will leave Washington tomorrow morning for New York City and a cross-country tour that will take him to six American communities. He addresses the United Nations Friday.

it worse for us," one high police official said.

One thing worrying police officials is that they don't know what the Russian prime minister will be doing during the free time on his schedule. Another headache is the probability of mass picketing by various anti-Communist and refugee organizations.

Three of the Soviet Union's top intelligence agents also are traveling with Khrushchev's official 70-man party, keeping a trained and watchful eye on everything around them.

Stories Don't Agree

MOSCOW — Moscow newspapers told readers today Washington's welcome to Premier Nikita Khrushchev was the greatest in the history of the American capital.

Stories appearing in Pravda and Izvestia said the Soviet leader was greeted by "friendly shouts" and "stormy applause" from a smiling crowd so big "there was not even a place to drop an apple" on the street.

Not even the end of World War II brought such a sea of people onto the streets of Washington," said the Communist party organ Pravda.

Indians to Dance During Round-Up Days

It's Boots, Saddle for Miracle Mile Event

Pontiac area residents better polish up their best boots and saddles if they expect to visit the Miracle Mile Shopping Center Thursday, Friday or Saturday.

The shopping center will be celebrating Round-Up Days, a gala event guaranteed to be full of thrills and excitement for the whole family.

Cowboys, Indians and midget car racing, plus bargains galore, should keep shoppers on the move.

Sagebrush Shorty, well known TV personality, will be there for performances Friday evening at the center's parking area.

Where one finds cowboys, he's got to find Indians first, and this will be no exception.

The Mar-Pee-To-Pah Indian Dancers, a nationally known group of interpretative dancers, will arrive Thursday in all their colorful regalia.

Sponsored by the Mar-Pee-To-Pah Indian Society of Clawson, they will set up an Indian village and start whooping it up at 6:30 p.m.

Performances will be continuous every 45 minutes beginning at 6:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday and at 11 a.m. Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Friday night shoppers will see a racing exhibition when the Miracle Mile ¼ Midgets perform at 9:45. There will be more than 50 cars in action on the center track.

All stores will remain open daily from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. All of the special shows are free.

Chemistry Set Blast Shatters Youth's Hand

A 17-year-old Walled Lake High School senior almost lost his left hand and was burned about the chest and stomach Tuesday afternoon when a chemistry set experiment exploded at his home.

Raymond Zalenski of 895 Laguna Dr., Wolverine Lake Village, was transferred from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital last night to Harper Hospital, Detroit, where specialists are trying to rebuild what remains of his hand.

The youth was packing an explosive compound he had concocted into a lead container to use for underground demolition in certain types of construction work, said Det. Sgt. Leo Hazen of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

The mixture exploded, shattering the container. Wolverine Lake police rushed Zalenski to the hospital. He had been alone at the time of the accident.

His father told Hazen that the boy had "been fooling around with chemistry sets since he was six years old."

County Dems to Hear Sen. Humphrey Talk

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) will be the guest speaker at the Oakland County Democratic Congressional Dinner Oct. 30 at the Elks Temple in Pontiac, it was announced today by Geraldine Clemmons, publicity chairman of the Oakland County Democratic Committee.

The dinner is being sponsored by the county Democratic Committee as a fund-raising affair for the county's congressional candidate and for the Democratic party.

Lecture Series to Open Oct. 8; Three to Follow

BIRMINGHAM—Plans for a new series of lectures to be open to the public have been announced by Holy Name Catholic Church as sponsor.

The forthcoming Ecumenical Council (called by Pope John XXIII in an attempt to unite Christianity into one church) will be the subject of the first lecture scheduled for Oct. 8.

The speaker will be the Rev. Placid Jordan, O.S.B., who, prior to his ordination eight years ago, was known to the world as Dr. Max Jordan, the journalist who scored a worldwide news scoop when he broadcast Hitler's declaration of war from Berlin.

It was Rev. Jordan's exclusive broadcast as a newsman from Switzerland which first announced the end of World War II.

Altogether, there will be four speakers presented in this season's series. Each lecture will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium of Holy Name School located at Greenwood and Harmon streets in Birmingham.

On Dec. 10, foreign news correspondent Edward Wakin will speak on "The Key to Peace in the Middle East."

Dr. Melvin J. Ravitz of Wayne State University will talk on the "Social-Economic Factors of the Modern Community," and Dr. Noland Heiden of the Oakland County Planning Commission on "The Physical Structure of the Modern Community."

The other two speakers are Dr. Christopher Sower of MSU, whose subject will be "The Community as a Social System," and Richard F. Huegli, managing director of the United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit. His topic will be "Social Welfare Planning in the Modern Community."

Details of the day-long program were made yesterday by a planning committee headed by Robert Langer, assistant director of the Pontiac Area United Fund, which met at MSUO.

The program itself is designed primarily for social agency volunteer leaders, board members and professional staff, clergy and church volunteer leaders of Macomb and Oakland Counties.

Dr. Ravitz will moderate the panel whose discussion will take up the major portion of the morning's agenda.

The Institute will focus on the theme, "Dynamics of the Modern Community."

Based on the premise that the "community of today is a very complex structure," the purpose of the seminar is to familiarize the citizen with social, economic, political and physical factors in the modern community.

★ ★ ★

It is also formulated "to show the interdependence of these factors and to enable the citizen to draw upon this knowledge in arriving at enlightened decisions."

★ ★ ★

Following luncheon in the new Student Center cafeteria, the conference will break up into groups to discuss the panelists' presentations.

The separate groups then will return to the general session to present two questions, each to the panel for further clarification.

Ten members of the Lay Leadership Assn. have been asked to direct the discussions in the individual groups.

According to Langer, this program resulted from the "tremendous response" to the more modest initial institute held last year in the university's temporary classroom facilities.

Over 125 persons attended that session and the requests for continuing educational opportunities has been overwhelming, Langer said.

It is now planned to continue this series with periodical institutes conducted in which subject-matter of concern to volunteers and their agencies will be studied with the cooperation of MSUO's academic faculty.

"The University offers opportunity for upgrading of our agencies' effectiveness that could come from no other source," explained Langer.

"We hope that the community will take advantage of MSUO's commendable and somewhat unique philosophy of service in extending educational opportunities to adults as well as youth of the community," he concluded.

★ ★ ★

Members of the planning committee, in addition to Langer, are Mrs. Mildred E. Bennett, executive director of the Oakland County Red Cross; Mrs. G. F. Craig, executive secretary of the Macomb United Community Services; and Charles Mentzner, executive secretary of the Council of Community Services, Birmingham.

★ ★ ★

Others are Mrs. John K. Bagby, president of the Birmingham Junior League; Mrs. Robert Craig, Birmingham Junior League; Richard Flaharty, executive secretary of the United Community Services of Southern Oakland County; and Dr. Lowell R. Eklund, director of the continuing education at MSUO.

Eklund's office at the university is accepting reservations for the Institute which should be made early to assure accommodations, he said.

Urban Renewal Plan Report Presented

cash local grants-in-aid projects such as improvement of the Clinton River, parking lots, a main fire station, the loop perimeter road, and others.

★ ★ ★

"We're aiming for a very favorable financial plan for the city whereby its costs will be made up by these projects," said Jack Driker of Geer Associates, consultant on the project.

He said it would also involve the city's buying a "substantial" amount of property, roughly $800,000 at a vacant land price.

Last night's report, supported by colorful maps showing proposed new land uses in the urban renewal area, climaxed a study begun in March of last year with a planning advance of $90,112.

MSUO STUDENT LOAN GIFT — Louis H. Schimmel (right), a member of the Michigan State University Oakland Foundation, hands Chancellor Durward B. Varner his personal check for $2,000. The money represents the 10 per cent needed under the federal student loan program which will provide upwards of 100 students at MSUO with loans to continue their education under the National Defense Education Act. The federal government has granted the school $20,000. "This kind of private benefaction is evidence of the unique community support and affection that exists," Varner said in accepting Schimmel's generous gift.

MAP INSTITUTE PROGRAM — Three members of the committee planning the program for the MSUO Volunteer Leadership Institute Sept. 29 at the new university go over last minute details. They are (from left) Charles Mentzer, executive secretary of the Council on Community Services, Birmingham; Mrs. John K. Bagby, president of the Birmingham Junior League, and Robert Langer, assistant director of the Pontiac Area United Fund, who is the committee chairman. The group met yesterday at MSUO.

"LONGHAIR" GETS CLIPPED — Celebrated U. S. "longhair" musician, Leonard Bernstein, gets clipped at an open air beauty parlor surrounded by Russian visitors at the American Exhibition in Moscow. Director of the New York Philharmonic, Bernstein jokingly asked for a haircut at the beauty parlor, and was promptly taken up. He was the only man to use the beauty parlor, which was designed to show U. S. hair styling and beauty treatment to Russian women.

U. S. on Credit Card Jag; Most Carriers Honest

CHICAGO (UPI) — The United States is on a credit card jag the likes of which have never been seen — but it works fine because the plain fact is most people are honest.

An estimated 70 per cent of American families hold credit cards or have charge accounts of one kind or another.

In modern America many's the man — and woman — who now carries cash only for tips and to buy the daily papers.

How does it work? A man who is up to his neck in the credit business, Carl Hobbet, general manager of the Credit Bureau of Cook County (Chicago) Inc., says 85 per cent of card holders pay their bills promptly.

Of the other 15 per cent, most are not crooked, he says — just "problem children" who over-estimate what they can afford. A mere three per cent of credit card users, Hobbet estimates, are deliberately dishonest.

Hobbet's firm employs 140 persons to keep its files up to date on two to three million credit applicants. They check Federal tax liens and municipal court judgments, and clip newspapers for character-revealing stories about drunken driving or refusal to testify before Congressional committees.

600,000 PROBE

Last year the bureau investigated the records of 600,000 persons all over the country. If an applicant has established charge accounts, the procedure is comparatively simple.

Within minutes a credit bureau can report the date the applicant was investigated, his largest purchase and his "pay habits."

The bureau relays these and other pertinent facts, and the subscribing organization then decides whether its credit requirements are satisfied.

★ ★ ★

Hobbet advises his clients not to explain why credit is refused, but to refer the applicant to the Credit Bureau "which is happy to go over the record with him. Sometimes we can straighten out why a bill hasn't been paid and reestablish credit," he said.

Wealth is not always a guarantee of good credit, he said.

★ ★ ★

Hobbet recalled an applicant with an annual income of $100,000 and a $50,000 home who was refused a charge account at an expensive Michigan Avenue store on the basis of the Credit Bureau's report. He arrived at Hobbet's office fuming and threatening suit.

LET WIFE WORRY

"But he had to admit he had allowed his charge accounts to go unpaid for as long as 216 days," Hobbet said. "He said he wanted to make his wife worry about the bills."

Petroleum companies and organizations like the Diner's Club or American Express have the most rigid requirements, Hobbet said.

Their credit cards amount to blank checks, he explained, with no security but the character of the applicant.

Occasionally a bad risk slips past the Credit Bureau's close scrutiny. One of the major oil companies now is trying to track down a card holder who ran up a bill of $20,000 in one month, Hobbet said.

Credit bureaus increasingly are going into the collection business for their clients, he continued, but the day of the traditional bullying bill collector is past. The agent smiles as he requests payment of an overdue bill.

"The average person wants to pay his bills," according to Hobbet. "We're collecting over $50,000 a month just by salesmanship — selling the family on the idea that it's character that counts."

Hope to Keep Leaning Tower From Falling

LONDON (UPI) — A British engineer said Tuesday he has worked out a plan which may prevent one of Italy's most famous tourist landmarks from becoming "The Falling Tower of Pisa."

Fordham Pryke visited Pisa recently at the request of municipal authorities to consider means of securing its leaning tower, now 13½ feet out of true and tilting more dangerously each year.

Pryke said his plan envisions jacking the 17,000-ton tower back to a lean of 9½ feet — still perceptible but considerably less dangerous than the present angle — and settling it on a new foundation.

He said he will send his proposals to Italy later this week.

Install French Canadian as Governor General

OTTAWA (UP) — Canada got a new governor general Tuesday. He is Maj. Gen. George P. Vanier, the first French-speaking Canadian to hold the post. Prime Minister John Diefenbaker hailed his installation as a milestone in Canadian unity.

Vanier, 71, a retired lawyer, scholar, soldier and diplomat, succeeds Vincent Massey, as the personal representative of Queen Elizabeth II in Canada.

Massey, 72, retired after 7½ years as the first Canadian in the largely ceremonial job. Vanier was installed in Canada's Senate chamber.

Spain's Economic Fight Welds Him In

Franco's Position Solid---Now

(This is the third of four dispatches on Spain today.)

By HENRY F. SCHULTE

MADRID (UPI) — The future of Spain hinges on the success of an ambitious fight for economic stability which began in mid-July, and no one knows it better than the opponents of the regime of Francisco Franco.

★ ★ ★

They are clearly aware of the long-term repercussions of the plan, whether it succeeds, fails or falls somewhere between.

But for now, they admit that the plan has knocked out any hopes for a change of regime in the near future.

Earlier this year, Franco's foes, especially Spain's monarchists, expressed hope that economic catastrophe might topple the Caudillo within a fairly short time.

OPTIMISM FADES

But by mid-summer, their optimism had changed to resignation.

On July 20, the Franco government announced the first in a series of drastic measures aimed at overhauling the national economic setup and putting new life into its international commerce.

Part of the program put Spain in line for massive injections of foreign aid, an estimated 400 million dollars.

This was a blow to Franco's opponents.

"We had hopes that no aid would be forthcoming, or that it would be made contingent on a change in regime," a top monarchist spokesman said. "The aid has given the Franco regime a new lease on life."

GEN. FRANCISCO FRANCO

On that, there was agreement among all elements of the opposition — but on little else.

For instance, there are the extremists, including the nation's small but well-organized Communist Party, who presumably desire complete failure of the government's attempts to bolster the sagging economy so they could capitalize on the political chaos that would follow.

For that reason, the monarchists and socialists do not want complete failure.

EYE PARTIAL SUCCESS

But realizing that an unqualified triumph would entrench the Caudillo more firmly than ever, they hope for a partial, nonspectacular success.

If that happens, the middle-of-the-road opposition believes, Franco may tire of facing the problems of ruling Spain and arrange for an orderly and early succession.

Most "middle-roaders" believe that the logical step after Franco would be restoration of a king to Spain's vacant throne.

The monarchists, who form perhaps the largest segment of the opposition, look upon the return of a king as the ultimate solution to the question, "After Franco, what?"

★ ★ ★

The socialists, on the other hand, look upon the restoration of the monarchy as no more than a transitional step toward a socialist-democratic state.

★ ★ ★

But there is one thought that is common to all shades of the opposition!

Any change in Spain's leadership will be made whenever and however Franco wants it.

Meany Calls for Labor Vote

Declares Union Men Should Ignore Their Party Affiliation

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, says union men should disregard party affiliations.

He told the International Labor Press Assn. Monday that labor figured it had done well last year in helping elect Democrats to Congress, "but another victory like that might ruin us."

★ ★ ★

Passage of the labor law revision indicated he said, that organized labor should support its friends whether they are Democrats or Republicans.

He asserted that labor is on the defensive and must step up its political activities.

★ ★ ★

Meany blamed James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, for congressional approval of the labor legislation.

In referring to labor's enemies, he said he particularly had in mind Southern Democrats. Some of these, he said, "are more conservative than any Republican."

Juvenile Criminals Too Much for N.Y. Officials

Juvenile hoodlums in New York City are a national disgrace.

Up to now, Gotham officials have been woefully inept and bungling in their attempts to restore "law and order."

★ ★ ★

Apparently, the juvenile criminals are too much for Mayor Wagner and so some earnest and agitated citizens have turned to the Governor in desperation. News stories from New York indicate discipline in the largest city in the country has about collapsed.

★ ★ ★

Three young punks were just photographed laughing away as they were booked on the charge of savagely beating a 74-year-old man in Brooklyn. Such cowardice as this deserves a dozen lashes every morning for two weeks. They snickered and made mockery of the law.

★ ★ ★

New York statutes are a joke to them.

Some twenty have been fatally knifed in the recent past.

A fourteen and a fifteen-year-old bully were just sent to the reformatory after they were convicted of robbing and brutally beating a 65-year-old man while they kept a gun trained on him. Here is a yellow streak in its lowest form.

★ ★ ★

These are the news stories that find their way to Russia, post haste. They are faithfully reproduced and all of the United States suffers because of this weak-kneed administration. And the black reputation isn't important compared to the deaths, destruction and terror left in its wake.

★ ★ ★

New York City can—or can not—handle the situation with her current officials.

Which is it?

Up to now, the answer is "can not."

China's Peace Offers Ease Indian Tension

Regardless of what prompted Red China's conciliatory message to India with regard to the dangerous situation on their borders, tension has been eased somewhat.

Premier Chou En-lai pledges to respect Bhutan and Sikkim as Indian protectorates. China's position with regard to these provinces never before had been spelled out. In the recent border troubles Bhutan charged that Red troops had crossed its frontier and it threatened to ask the United Nations for aid.

These small areas in the Himalayas are between Tibet and India. Until 10 years ago they were British protectorates. India then assumed responsibility and now handles foreign relations for the areas and subsidizes the governments headed by native maharajas.

★ ★ ★

However, the note from Peiping is not encouraging in a related boundary matter — the MacMahon line — which was drawn before World War I by a British administrator in India. The Indians accepted it but the Chinese never ratified the treaty.

Chou En-lai now accuses Indian troops of aggression but offers to settle disputes "through friendly negotiations." The arrogance of the charge together with Prime Minister Nehru's policy of neutralism do not give rise to much hope of an equitable agreement.

★ ★ ★

The offer itself may have been necessary because of the alarmed and angry outcries in India against Red China's invasion of the border. Coming so soon after the Tibetan outrage, Peiping couldn't afford to lose more face in Asian countries. Then, too, India's help again is needed to press for Red China's membership in the United Nations at the current General Assembly meeting.

The Wise Ones Make Early Start in Quest of Prize

New courthouse: What is to quit dragging its feet.

Make a check mark before the team you think will win each of these football games. If you feel that any game will be a tie, don't check either team.

Then attach it to a paper bearing your name and address, and send it to Football Contest, The Pontiac Press, and you're on the way to win that prize of $300 in U.S. savings bonds, given for the nearest correct answer.

Every member of your family can compete, but each entry must be on a separate piece of paper. For the rest of the family you can write out the list. Here are the games:

Sept. 26—☐ Marquette vs. ☐ Detroit.

Oct. 3—☐ Michigan vs. ☐ Michigan State.

Oct. 9—☐ Waterford vs. ☐ Pontiac Northern.

Oct. 10—☐ Texas vs. ☐ Oklahoma.

Oct. 16.—☐ Pontiac Central vs. ☐ Saginaw.

Oct. 17—☐ Michigan State vs. ☐ Notre Dame.

Oct. 25—☐ St. Fredericks vs. ☐ St. Michaels.

Oct. 31 — ☐ California vs. ☐ Southern California.

Nov. 7—☐ Washington vs. ☐ Oregon State.

Nov. 8—☐ Pittsburgh Steelers vs. ☐ Detroit Lions.

Nov. 14—☐ Princeton vs. ☐ Yale.

Nov. 21—☐ Michigan vs. ☐ Ohio State.

Nov. 28—☐ Army vs. ☐ Navy.

Dec. 6—☐ Detroit Lions vs. ☐ Chicago Cards.

All entries must be received by Friday noon, Sept. 25. Right now's a good time to go after that $300, and watch others sweat it out later.

Too Much Silence in the Courtroom

David Lawrence, re Khrushchev, Says:

Hearts of People Far, Far Away

WASHINGTON—The moon is far away. So seemed the hearts of the people as they watched Soviet Premier Khrushchev when his car moved slowly through the streets of the national capital. It was a dignified reception — as solemn as a funeral procession.

LAWRENCE

One couldn't help feeling sad and sorry and wondering why such a visit wasn't postponed until conditions were ripe for it. Khrushchev himself appeared friendly and somewhat bewildered. He knew the crowds were restrained. He must have felt the silence of the 200,000 who lined the thoroughfares.

There were some spectators, of course, who look upon the Soviet leader as a criminal, and there were others no doubt who know little of his background but regard him as a symbol of communism — indeed, as a hostile symbol.

It is difficult to show friendliness to a potential enemy. There has been nothing in recent months to indicate that the Soviet ruler will do anything constructive to advance the cause of peace—he was treated, therefore, with natural suspicion and distrust.

The entrance of Nikita Khrushchev to Washington, with all the fanfare and ceremony that is officially bestowed on a head of state, made an impressive picture. Kings and queens and foreign dignitaries have passed along the streets of Washington before, and the people here are not as demonstrative as in other cities. They are used to officialdom in Washington.

But the people here do cheer. They do express themselves. They do smile, and they do show their enthusiasm in countless ways.

But this time there was a strange mood of quiet acquiescence—a staring at the headline maker whose threats and boasts have been given front-page play in the press in recent years. Even President Eisenhower seemed grave and perhaps worried.

Maybe the Soviet Premier will be unable ever to interpret the curious reception he got. It was not artificially contrived. It was the spontaneous expression of people who feared that the man they were watching might someday push a button and start a world war.

Normally, when a head of state comes to Washington, the people here feel that, in honoring him or her, the tribute is also for the people of the foreign country who have sent their representative on a mission of friendship and good will. Many Washington people must have wished there were on this occasion some way to show the friendship felt in America for the people of the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev, of course, in his opening address at the airport, spoke about the friendship and good will he brought and managed to introduce a jibe about the Soviet achievement in hitting the moon. But, unfortunately for him, the same words are not as meaningful as when they come from a foreign visitor who is trusted and whose government has repeatedly manifested its friendship for the American people.

There have been times in the last 26 years since the United States extended formal recognition to the Soviet government when there might have been applause and outbursts of enthusiasm if the head of that government had visited Washington.

Such a visit, for instance, during World War II might have been the occasion for cheers for an ally—for the people of Soviet Russia who were making supreme sacrifices for our common cause. But since 1945 the Soviets have steadily forfeited the respect of the American people. Even Khrushchev, in public speeches in 1956, had to denounce what happened during the Stalin regime, though everybody knows he himself played an influential part in some of the same acts of the Stalin government.

To attempt to present to the American people today the head of a government which has for the last 14 years broken pledges, dishonored its written agreements, and carried on acts of aggression and brutality in many countries of the world, is to ask that crime be ignored and applause be given to the man who is responsible for the continuance of the same kind of policies and programs in the Soviet Union today.

Nikita Khrushchev's mind dwells in a world of his own making—as far away from American ideals and the spirit of freedom as the distance to the moon. Only a miracle could transform him into a different being.

There are those who hope for such a miracle. The next 12 days could convey to the Soviet Premier some idea of what was really back of the coolness in the courteous reception he received here on Tuesday.

The Country Parson

"We admire the beauty of roses in spite of their thorns — we ought to do the same with men."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Trainers and Coaches Have Strange Notions

Watching the boxing matches on TV—which I think far less interesting than the wrestling matches, for all the fakery knowing ones say makes professional wrestling a joke—I often wonder why boxers between rounds are allowed to take a mouthful of water which they must immediately eject.

★ ★ ★

If the boxer is thirsty he should have a drink of water. That is, unless the trainer knows more about physiology and hygiene than a doctor does — and to the best of my knowledge no physician of standing has advanced a reason why the boxer should not drink any water in the course of a bout.

DR. BRADY

Then, too, I wish some one who knows more than I do would explain why, when the pitcher gets on base, the manager makes such a show of hustling his sweater out to him to wear while he is running.

★ ★ ★

If the pitcher is capable of running at all the physical activity is all he needs to keep him warm or to prevent too rapid cooling.

It seems to me that it would be better baseball if the pitcher kept so busy that the opposing pitcher could not be so darn certain that nothing was going to happen, and so concentrate on the batter.

Being all bundled up the pitcher can't make such a good try at reaching second as he might make without the handicap.

That's the way it looks to me anyhow. Bundling the pitcher up when he is required to run the bases makes the game a little slower, a little tamer and a little less interesting.

I don't care much what any coach or trainer may say, but I'll listen attentively to any comment a physician or physiologist may care to make, either publicly or confidentially.

★ ★ ★

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'I'm Aged, Poor, Glad They Chose Sales Tax'

In answer to P. J. From Pontiac, I'm in the poor and aged class with a limited income. I still prefer the penny sales tax to the army of persons that would have to be put on the State payroll to collect an income tax.

★ ★ ★

We aged, poor, retired, blind, etc., would have to pay their wages. It would be nice if we could all get on the payroll and get a nice check each month. There's just one catch. Could we make the money to pay ourselves? If not, where would the money come from?

★ ★ ★

Of course, we could all vote for the party that put us on the State payroll so we wouldn't lose our job and there will be another election, I hope.

Wondering

'Place the Blame Where It Belongs'

A recent Press editorial praised the Chamber of Commerce for protesting State expenses. Some of the quoted figures were fantastic. The Citizens Research Council shows New York paying $92.18 per capita for highways, education and health and hospitals only, far more than the Press figure of $20.51.

You also called this "Governor Williams' unhealthy economic climate." How could this be true when Williams doesn't make the laws which state where the money is to come from and where it is to be spent?

We've had a great Governor, but we wouldn't have witnessed the recent spectacle in Lansing if he had as much power as his opponents say he has. But ask one of the 22 Republican Senators and he'll tell you the Republicans had control of the Legislature and were responsible for the legislation. The Governor isn't responsible for the inaction of the 22 Senators.

'Ask Blue Cross for Reasons'

To disgusted who was comparing emergency rates at General Hospital and St. Joseph. On Labor Day, we took our 6-year-old son in with possible appendicitis, but thank goodness it was only a bad infection.

He was examined and given a penicillin shot. We had presented our Blue Cross card before he was even examined and told that Blue Cross would pay the bill. In fact, we have no idea how much it was.

I just can't believe they would accept the Blue Cross card of a few people and turn the others down. Disgusted are you sure they didn't give you a good reason why Blue Cross wouldn't pay the bill? If you aren't satisfied why don't you contact Blue Cross. Surely they could get this mess cleared up.

It's too bad Alvin Knight wasn't protected while he was in jail laughing at the law and telling everyone how tough he was. And that young officer lying out in a field in the hottest weather we ever had in Michigan—dead.

A group of attorneys should put their pictures in the paper and maybe on TV for everyone to see while they work to try and set that creature loose again. Our State Police are Michigan's finest, and I am all for capital punishment in cases like this.

Why don't they put the blame where it belongs. I want to know who is responsible for turning that Knight loose with the record he has. I hope who ever it was sleeps well nights because he is as much to blame as Knight is.

Everyone should have a warning that now is the time to watch out for school children around school areas. Many of the youngsters are going for the first time and are bound to be careless. Case Records of a Psychologist:

Urges Church to Be Matchmaker

Nora's case fulfills the urging Jesus made about the spiritual hungers that need to be satisfied. The Red Cross does a wonderful job furnishing medicine and food for the stomachs of refugees from flooded areas. "But man does not live by bread alone," said Jesus, meaning that spiritual hungers for love and companionship, are likewise essential.

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

CASE C—445: Nora G., aged 36, is an attractive widow with two daughters, aged 7 and 9.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I certainly am most grateful for what the Scientific Marriage Foundation has done for me.

"Last winter you introduced me to a man, aged 41, who had lost his wife five years earlier. He had no children, but belonged to the same church denomination and had similar interests and hobbies.

"We correspondended for four weeks and then met at my church, for my pastor is one of the Counsellors for the Scientific Marriage Foundation.

"We felt a little constrained on that first date, but he was a fine man and soon we began to date regularly.

"I had wondered how he would react to my two daughters, but they were delighted with him and he seemed to love them, too. At any rate, two months after our first date, we were married by my pastor. And life has been so wonderful ever since.

"My daughters are crazy about their new Daddy and he seems just as delighted with them. And I have been in seventh heaven ever since.

★ ★ ★

"We are both active in the same church. In fact, we attended church the very first Sunday of our honeymoon.

"Maybe some folks would think we married after too brief a courtship.

"But we knew we had been checked and double checked by the Scientific Marriage Foundation as to religion, ideals, hobbies, educational and racial backgrounds, etc., so we figured there was no point in prolonging our courtship.

"As long as we loved each other, that was enough, for all the other basic foundations for a happy marriage had already been checked and approved in our case."

SCIENTIFIC MARRIAGE

At present, 11,000,000 women and 8,000,000 men in America are 21 or over and unwed.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps half of that number could be introduced to congenial members of the opposite sex so that romance and happy marriage would follow.

Until the development of the Scientific Marriage Foundation, no interdenominational and nationwide organization was available to help introduce these fine unmarried people.

For 20 years I had urged such foundations as the Rockefeller and Ford Foundations to realize this acute need.

In fact, I even wrote to see if they wouldn't expand their helpful work to include this vast humanitarian project.

But they seemed preoccupied with medical problems, like how to combat cancer or heart attacks and polio.

Yet the founding of HAPPY homes is basic to the progress of all our churches and the protection of this great Republic:

Besides, think of the unhappiness that could be averted by helping introduce such fine Americans as Nora in today's case and her new husband.

★ ★ ★

So I was finally prodded into helping launch this Scientific Marriage Foundation on an interdenominational basis.

It helps Jewish, Catholic and Protestant folks of all denominations get acquainted with certified members of the opposite sex. And it is doing a wonderful job, as Nora's case shows.

Ex-Rockford Executive Given Commerce Post

ROCKFORD (UPI)—Richard H. Krause, a retired business executive, has been appointed director of the field services office of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Krause, former president of a Massachusetts shoe company and executive vice president and treasurer of the Wolverine Shoe & Tanning Corp of Rockford, will direct the work of commerce department field offices in 33 major cities in the country.

Krause is a prominent native of Rockford.

Wander Over Indonesia? Red Tape to Hinder You

JAKARTA (UPI) — Officials here plead with visitors not to judge Indonesia by its capital city of Jakarta alone but to "get out and see the rest of the country, the real Indonesia."

Good advice. But just try to follow it.

Attempting to travel outside Jakarta is not only frustrating and time - consuming. Sometimes, it's almost impossible.

In order to leave Jakarta, foreigners must obtain a permit from police or military authorities, whether it is only a short drive to Bogor for a look at one of the presidential palaces and the famed botanical gardens or to the far reaches of the archipelago. Some areas are closed completely.

The regulation was put into effect recently by the army which said "in connection with the security conditions at present an intensification of control over foreigners is necessary."

The real reason, it is generally agreed, is to exercise a tighter control over alien Chinese.

* * *

Officials said the tourist on a brief visit is exempt from the permit. But many who have attempted to go from Jakarta to Bandung or other nearby points without one have been turned back.

Obtaining the permit is only half the battle. A bigger problem is actually getting from one point to another.

Rail travel in 20th century Java is slow and dangerous. There are frequent wrecks and attacks by rebels or bandit gangs and almost every train is escorted by armored cars filled with soldiers.

Anyway, the would-be traveller must first get a ticket and that is no easy matter either.

Under a new regulation issued by the War Administrator, every person who wants to travel by rail to points outside the commuter areas from Jakarta must first obtain a letter from police or military authorities approving his travel. Only those persons in possession of such a letter may obtain a ticket, which is nontransferable.

After the ticket there is the reservation. The trains are crowded and reservations must be made well in advance. Even then the military may suddenly take over part or all of the train, leaving ticket-holders stranded.

* * *

Flights to such boasted tourist attractions as Bali are frequently cancelled without notice. Tourists making reservations from abroad, either direct or through travel agencies, seldom get confirmation.

As for going by automobile, the police and military maintain so many checkpoints that even a supposedly one-hour drive into the mountains takes three to six hours.

Once the traveller reaches his destination he must report within 24 hours to the local police and register or face a year in jail or a fine of up to 100,000 rupiahs ($3,000).

In some areas hotel managers have been instructed not to accept guests from other areas who have not registered with the police.

An Indonesian News Agency story from Pandang, Sumatra, reported recently that travelers were forced to sleep in the streets because the hotels were not allowed to accommodate them. The police office was closed, making it impossible to register until the following day.

Key West Loses to Hawaii Point

Ka Lae (South Cape) Is Land South of Any Other State

WASHINGTON — Key West, Florida, has lost its distinction as the United States' southernmost point to Ka Lae, Hawaii.

Ka Lae or "South Cape" forms the lonely land's end of Hawaii island, the largest land mass in tthe 50th State.

The entire island lies considerably south of Florida, and Ka Lae itself is on a parallel with Mexico City, the National Geographic Society says.

The Nation's most southerly soil is a wild coastline that has not been fully surveyed. Steep bluffs are broken by lava flows. The area is thinly populated. A lunar probe station now stands at Ka Lae, but the point is best known to fishermen and mariners. A white skeleton tower holds a beacon that can be seen 14 miles at sea.

IN MAUNA LOA'S SHADOW

A bluff at Ka Lae slopes inland for several miles, rising in height to a spectacular dark cliff. Farther on are the streaked flanks and smooth, snow-covered summit of 13,680-foot Mauna Loa, the largest active volcano in the world.

The historic Kona coast, where temples of pagan worship have been replaced by resort hotels, stretches from Ka Lae to a bay 75 miles north.

In contrast to the brooding silence of Ka Lae is the bustling activity of the island as a whole: Kona's fishing industry and coffee plantations, the port city of Hilo, orchid nurseries, vast sugar cane fields, cattle ranches, truck farms, and a national park embracing restless volcanos.

On the "big island" and the neighboring isle of Maui, the National Park Service is preserving 362 square miles of volcano-built scenery.

In folklore the Hawaiian archipelago is the creation of the demigod Maui and embellished with the handiwork of Pele, the goddess of volcanoes. At present, legend says, Hawaii island is her home.

In both 1935 and 1942 American airmen dropped bombs to divert lava flowing from Mauna Loa toward Hilo. Kilauea remains almost continuously active.

Judge Chides Lawyers for Bad Penmanship

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—U. S. Judge Waldo Rogers recommends that some of New Mexico's attorneys brush up on their penmanship.

The judge, speaking to a group of attorneys assembled in federal court Monday, requested the lawyers stop filing "illegible and unreadable papers."

He said the writing on legal papers and exhibits filed with the court often appears to be "a bunch of hen scratchings."

WASHINGTON (AP) — According to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, the moon's weight as of now is 162,000,000,000,000,000,858 lbs.

SUN GETS IN MY EYES — Khrushchev uses his hat as a shield from bright sun which glowed as he arrived at Andrews AFB. He and Eisenhower are shown on the officials' stand there before they exchanged greeting speeches.

AP Wirephoto

GOOD MORNING — Khrushchev may be a believer in the saying about the early bird getting the worm. He was out on the Blair House portico at 7:40 this morning to take a look around. He spent five minutes outside surveying the local geography.

Let Trees Breathe

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — Horticulturist Charles M. Drage of Colorado State University advises home owners with evergreen trees in their yards to give them a weekly bath. He says this will remove dust and allow the trees to "breathe." It also will reduce the possibility of insect infestation.

All brands of Norwegian sardines are slowly smoked over slow burning oakwood fires to enhance their tangy flavor.

Drives Baby Carriage

ITHACA, N. Y. (UPI) — Mrs. Donald Farley was given a ticket for "driving an unregistered vehicle and parking illegally, threatening the safety of Cornell University personnel" when she left a baby carriage near the emergency exit of a campus building.

Little in So Much

CHICAGO — One 200-pound hog contains about 21 pounds of marketable shoulder meat.

More Meat for Less

CHICAGO (UPI) — Last year, the average person parted with one per cent less of his spending money for meat than in 1948, yet he got nine more servings (averaging all meats at ¾ pound per serving), the American Meat Institute reported.

New York Traffic Deadly

NEW YORK — Almost 650 persons were killed in New York City traffic mishaps in one year.

Compare Liquor Taxes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Since the end of prohibition 25 years ago the federal government has collected more than $46,200,000,000 in liquor, beer and wine taxes, according to the Licensed Beverage Industries. This is equal to the cost of running the U. S. government for the first 129 years of its existence.

Bread Has Long Colorful History

Most Primitive Cultures Had Some Form of Staff of Life

WASHINGTON — Man has been eating bread for at least 10,000 years without growing tired of it.

Primitive peoples first ate the seeds of wild grains, then learned to grind them into a crude flour. No one knows when the first bread was made, but the Swiss Lake Dwellers already had developed a baking industry 10,000 years ago, the National Geographic Society says.

The lake dwellers mixed pulverized wheat, barley, or millet with water, rolled the dough into sheets, and baked it on hot stones. Like other early breads, it was unleavened.

Egyptians apparently discovered that bread could be lightened by letting the wheat dough ferment to create gases. Triangular loaves 2,500 years old have been found in Egyptian tombs. Bread was the principal food and often was used to pay wages.

★ ★ ★

Ancient Greeks also cooked a leavened bread, but in the Golden Age they preferred a coarse barley cake.

Baking was an important industry in classic Rome. By 100 B. C. there were more than 250 bakeshops in the capital. Two centuries later, Emperor Trajan established a school for bakers.

Bread was given away as a sop to the populace, leading the famous satirist, Juvenal, to write that Romans required only two things, bread and circuses.

In Australia's Arnhem Land, aborigines grind water lily seeds to paste, mold it into loaves, and bake it. The bread is palatable but heavy and coarse.

★ ★ ★

American Indians of the Pacific slopes made a flour from acorns which they soaked in boiling water. The flat cake was cooked in the sun.

The natives of the Moluccas, or Spice Islands, cut out the starchy pith of the Sago palm for a wholesome but relatively tasteless bread.

The Wai Wai Indians of British Guiana in South America grate the poisonous cassava root into pulp, squeeze out the deadly juice, and turn the meal into crisp, thin cakes.

In the United States, 14 billion pounds of bread are consumed each year. Most is the soft, white variety or standard bread. Bakers call all other kinds, even whole wheat and rye, "specialty breads."

One of the most special specialties contains dates, oranges, lemons, apricots, peaches, and prunes.

In mythology, a three-headed dog, Cerberus, guards the entrance to Hades.

CALL ON ALL — Standing beside the oak tree emblem of the PTA, Mrs. James C. Parker of Grand Rapids, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, prepares to sow symbolic acorns in an effort to extend PTA membership beyond the 12 million mark. She urges PTA members to "call on all."

California Housing Unit Has Message for Nikita

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—When Nikita Khrushchev drives along Bayshore Freeway next Monday he'll see a sign erected for him by a housing development.

In English and Russian it reads: "Every person in this new Los Prados neighborhood is a free, happy home owner."

Says State Can Still Be Tops

Stress the Positive, Executives Are Told by Consumers Official

CHARLEVOIX (UPI)—Michigan can regain its role as the nation's leading industrial state if the citizens accept the challenge, and both business and labor fight for what is fair for all, Robert P. Briggs, executive vice-president of Consumers Power Co., said Tuesday.

Briggs told the Association Exeecutive of Michigan at their meeting here that Michigan's citizens should accentuate the positive to overcome unfavorable publicity about the state. They should emphasize the news of progress, he said.

Briggs also called upon business people to take an active part in political affairs, and to encourage their employes to do the same—no matter what their political affiliations.

The formation of a state chamber of commerce, now under way, Briggs said, is an important forward step in increasing the voice of businessmen in state affairs.

About 95 per cent of the world's boron is mined in the United States.

Rest, Shoppers, You Can Thank Local Merchants

Shoppers can now take a load off their feet on the sidewalks of downtown Pontiac. Ten redwood benches have been purchased and set up at points on Saginaw and Huron streets by the Downtown Merchants' Association.

"We have heard several complaints that there isn't any place in downtown Pontiac where shoppers can sit down for a few moments," explained George Richman, association president.

"So we bought the benches and designated their positions, and the Department of Parks and Recreation installed them with the comfort and convenience of shoppers in mind," Richman added.

The association got approval for the project from the city commission and hopes to add more benches in the future if the present ones aren't misused and the project receives favorable comment.

★ ★ ★

All 10 benches are located on Saginaw within two blocks on either side of Huron and on Huron just off Saginaw.

"The Old Oaken Bucket" was written by poet-publisher Samuel Woodworth in 1817.

Steel Strike Hasn't Hurt Michigan Much

DETROIT (UPI) — Michigan so far has felt only a limited effect of the nationwide steel strike, according to the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Except for about 17,000 workers immediately idled in this state when the walkout started 64 days ago, only another 2,000 have been idled because of the strike.

★ ★ ★

The MESC said these included railroad workers, truck drivers and crewmen on Detroit-based ore carriers.

However, Michigan construction projects and some industrial plants will be closed if the strike lasts two more weeks.

In the course of each year, the City of Vienna commissions major works from nearly 200 painters and 150 sculptors.

Would Require All Cars to Have Speed Lights

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—State Sen. William V. Mullin has introduced a bill that would require every car in Pennsylvania to have a system of outside flashing lights that would indicate speed.

Mullin said the lights would be visible to the driver and anyone within 500 feet of the vehicle.

He explained that one light would come on when the auto reached 30 miles an hour, a second light would flash for 40, a third for 50, and a fourth for 60. When the vehicle reached 70 miles per hour, a red light would flash.

Kiwanis Urged to Plug Safety

Those at Convention Are Told of Mounting Danger on Highways

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan Kiwanians have been urged to join a "nationwide, combined and vigorous campaign to promote safety on the highways of America."

The plea came from Cecil L. Morris of Springfield, Ill., a trustee of Kiwanis International, in a speech to the 42nd annual convention of Michigan Kiwanians here Monday. The state has 148 Kiwanis Clubs.

"With a continuing heavy increase in automobile traffic, and with more and more new expressways and turnpikes," Morris said, "some immediate action on the part of service clubs is needed to help curb highway deaths and the maiming of our people.

"There are campaigns against the spread of cancer, polio, cerebral palsy and many another such scourge, but we have neglected the tragedies of the highways.

★ ★ ★

"Why, we haven't even scratched the surface in any all-out effort to halt highway accidents.

Almost 100,000 persons per year are disabled in highway accidents throughout America. That means a million of our population are being crippled by automobile crashes every 10 years."

Frank G. Staiger of Port Huron, Michigan secretary, was presented a check by District Governor Sidney F. Main of Harrison "to help defray your expenses on your coming vacation trip to Scotland."

Norstad's Daughter to Wed Childhood Friend

PARIS (AP) — Kristin Norstad, daughter of Gen. Lauris Norstad, Supreme Allied Commander for Europe, will marry a childhood friend Thursday.

The bridegroom is Nicholas Wesson Craw, an amateur pilot and sports car racer. He is the son of Mrs. Demas T. Craw of Charlottesville, Va.

His father was a U. S. Air Force colonel from Traverse City, Michigan who was killed in action at Port Lyautey, Morocco, in 1942. He was posthumously awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Both Miss Norstad, who is 21, and Craw, 22, were born at Ft. Jay, N. Y.

Miss Norstad, who has attended schools in the United States and Europe, made her debut in Washington in 1956 and a year later in Paris. She has lived here with her parents for the last nine years.

★ ★ ★

Craw was graduated from Princeton University this summer. He will enter the Johns Hopkins School for Advanced International Studies in Washington in October.

Prisoner Sends Blind Girl Chest of Gifts on Birthday

PUEBLO, Colo. (UPI)—Little Cynthia Solano, who is blind, celebrated her fifth birthday with a surprise party to which the host couldn't come.

★ ★ ★

The unexpected "party" began when an express truck unloaded a huge package at Cynthia's home.

Inside were a cedar chest with "To Cynthia on her fifth birthday" burned into it, and a variety of hand-made leather items, including a purse, belts, key containers and wallets. There was even a purse for her mother.

The card accompanying the gifts had the name of the donor —and his prison number.

★ ★ ★

Warden Harry C. Tinsley of the Colorado State Penitentiary didn't think it so unusual.

★ ★ ★

"We have had many cases where articles in newspapers telling of people who have suffered serious injury or illness or other trouble have prompted prisoner reaction.

Many inmates, for example, are willing to contribute blood. It is their way of helping someone that is, perhaps, less fortunate than they, although they are in an institution," Tinsley said.

The prisoner who surprised Cynthia on her fifth birthday, Tinsley explained, had read about the cancerous tumors which robbed her of eyesight. Tinsley said the prisoner wished to remain anonymous. He has served 15 years and is in his 50's, the warden said.

Motorist Hits Parked Cars: Was Seasick

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Seasickness was listed on a police report as the cause of a motorist striking two parked cars.

Officers said the 32-year-old driver was treated at a hospital for his ailment. He told police he and his wife attended a movie entitled "Abandon Ship." After about an hour of high waves and storm-tossed ships, he said he became ill and went out to his car while his wife saw the rest of the film.

An attack of nausea struck him on the way home and he lost control of the car, the man told officers. No one was reported injured.

Grand Rapids Republican to Be Sworn In Today

LANSING (UPI) — Martin D. Buth, Grand Rapids Republican, will be sworn in today as state representative from Kent County.

Buth was picked in a special election to fill the vacancy created by the death of Rep. Glenn Hunsberger (R-Grand Rapids).

The swearing-in will give Republicans a 55-54 membership edge in the House.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams is expected to call a special election to fill the vacancy created earlier this month by the death of Rep. Charline White (D-Detroit).

Von Braun Hits Fund Shortage

Claims Saturn Rocket Money Requests Were Slashed in Half

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The rocket scientist Wernher von Braun says the Army got only about half the money it requested for work on the giant Saturn rocket.

The Saturn is under development as the United States' first moon rocket carrying a pay load comparable to the Soviet's successful moonshot.

★ ★ ★

Von Braun told a news conference Tuesday the Saturn probably is one to three years away from a moonshot.

As the space race stands today, Von Braun said, he believed the United States could catch the Soviet Union in two or three years—if the Soviets quit work.

The U.S. Patent Office has issued more than 2,890,000 patents on inventions. It expects to issue 52,500 in 1959 — or about 1,000 a week.

Want Miss Universe Contest in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles is bidding for the Miss Universe beauty contest.

City council Tuesday adopted a resolution urging that the pageant be moved here. Councilman Ransom Callicott said the new sports arena would be an ideal site.

The swim suit company which owns the pageant is pulling it out of Long Beach, Calif., because of a disagreement with the local producers.

An average sleeper changes positions 35 times a night.

3 More Negroes at Central High

Little Rock Proceeds With Integration; Quiz Klan Man in Bombing

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Little Rock School Board has proceeded with its plan for limited integration in the city's high schools by assigning three more Negroes to once all-white Central High.

In another development related to the school situation, police questioned—and released—a Ku Klux Klan member in connection with the Labor Day bombings here.

★ ★ ★

School Board President Everett Tucker Jr., said the three Negroes probably will begin classes at Central Friday. They will join a Negro boy and girl who have been attending integrated classes.

Tucker said Tuesday no additional Negroes were assigned to Hall High, where three Negro girls have attended classes since Aug. 12.

★ ★ ★

Fifteen other Negroes who asked for reassignment to Central from Mann were turned down. Nineteen of 32 white students who asked to be transferred between Central and Hall were granted reassignment.

Questioned in connection with the bombing of the fire chief's station wagon, the mayor's business office and the school board administration building on Sept. 7 was Richard K. Heiney, 51, a house painter.

★ ★ ★

The bombings had been linked to the integration crisis. Five men already have been charged with dynamiting property. They face arraignment Friday.

Student Loan Plan Is Asked by Johnson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson has introduced a "study now—pay later" college student loan program to help keep the United States from being outstripped by Russian brainpower.

His bill would have the government guarantee $100 million worth of loans a year to students. The loans, ranging in size from $1,000 to $4,000, would be repaid from the students' future earnings as graduates.

The Texan said he hoped his measure would be appraised during the congressional adjournment and receive "meaningful action" next year.

Johnson noted that the Russian moon shot underscores the fact that "we have a lot of catching up to do, and we ought to do it."

He said the case for his bill did not rest upon the need to outstrip Russia. But, he added, "it would be foolish to ignore the fact that we are in bad need of educated brain power in the modern world."

The nation's forests grow enough in just one day to build 15,500 one-family houses.

Yes sir! When it came time for me to install a new furnace last year I had a heck of a time trying to make up my mind what type to install. After a lot of checking, I finally decided on oil—and that's the smartest thing I ever did.

Do you know—I discovered that you can heat your home more economically with oil than with any other type of fuel. As a matter of fact—oil is the safest and cleanest method of home heating yet devised. That's mighty important, and something many people don't know. Yes sir, Jim, if I were you I'd look very carefully into the matter, and I'd check with a member of the Oakland Oil Heat Council for some good, sound advice, too.

Huge White Oak 420 Years Old

Wye Giant Standing in Maryland State Park Has Loving Care

WASHINGTON —A scarred but unbowed forest giant, the Wye Oak, is enjoying a healthy old age in its own Maryland State Park.

The tree, largest white oak in the United States, is about 420 years old. It stands 95 feet tall, with branches spreading in a symmetrical fan for 165 feet. The gnarled, buttressed base measures 53 feet in circumference.

★ ★ ★

The Wye Oak, near Wye Mills on Maryland's eastern shore, was bought by the state in 1929. It was the first tree purchased by a state solely for its preservation. It is surrounded by a one and one-half-acre park, one of the smallest state parks in the country, the National Geographic Society says.

HUGE LIMBS FALL

The mighty oak has dropped two huge limbs in the last six years, but regular care, steel cables, and massive meals of tree food are helping preserve it.

How long the Wye Oak will live is "anybody's guess," according to H. C. Buckingham, maryland state forester. Considering its age, the tree is in excellent health, he said, but existence is precarious for a 420-year old.

A huge lateral limb weighing about 24 tons dropped off the tree three years ago, leaving a six - foot scar. Loud cracking noises came from the oak for five minutes before the branch—the tree's largest—fell.

"The limb just dropped off," Buckingham said. "There was no wind and the wood was sound. It just seemed to have lost its strength." In 1953, a slightly smaller branch fell.

A system of heavy steel wires supports many branches, and the oak, which often is struck by lightning, is protected by lightning rods.

Buckingham believes the Wye Oak's beautiful symmetry has contributed to its long life.

"It's shaped like half an egg shell," he explained. "The winds can't get into the tree and it is able to withstand them. Without that shape, it would have been gone long ago."

Adult Education Decision Due

Waterford Twp. Learns State Aid for Program Has Stopped

A decision on continuance or changes in the Waterford Township School District adult education program is expected to be made at tomorrow night's meeting of the Board of Education.

According to Supt. William Shunck, the state has discontinued its financial support of the program.

However, the state's share, $206, is relatively small compared to the total expenditure of $3,303 for the program.

Tuition fees from enrollees totaled $1,392 last year, with the remainder coming from the Board of Education's general fund, Shunck said.

★ ★ ★

In other business, further consideration will be given to the possibility of installing exterior lights at the Cooley Lake Elementary School.

Employe payroll deductions for the United Fund and consideration of future school sites will be discussed, along with the possibility of part payment of a traffic signal light for the Schoolcraft School on Williams Lake road.

A summary of special meetings held the last three Thursdays will be presented along with the total enrollment figures and a report on the school's present financial status, Shunck said.

Red China Paper Hints India Peace

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China's chief newspaper predicted today that the rift with India over Himalayan boundary lines will soon be patched up.

★ ★ ★

"After a heated round of argument," said the Peiping Peoples Daily, voice of the Red regime, "there is reason to expect an easing of the tension that has existed in Sino-Indian relations in the past."

★ ★ ★

The editorial, broadcast by Peiping radio, absolved Indian Prime Minister Nehru of any major responsibility in stirring tension. But it held that Indian troops have violated the border and should withdraw.

Nikita Quizzes Politicians on 2-Party System

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev may not know too much about America's two-party system, but he knows where to get information about it.

At the White House dinner in his honor, the bouncy Soviet leader cornered Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.).

Khrushchev asked the trio question after question on how the two-party system works.

Set Bargaining Election at Grand Rapids Firm

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Labor Relations Board ordered a collective bargaining election today at the Avion Coach Corp., Benton Harbor, Mich.

About 60 production and maintenance employes' warehouse employes, truck drivers, general laborers and janitors will vote on representation by Local 7 of the Teamsters Union.

Reds Fly Food From Russia

Borscht on Menu Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower will not have to eat Borscht tonight when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev presents a dinner in their honor.

The menu for the Soviet Embassy dinner lists a choice of soup Borscht for those who like the beet soup; perch soup for the others.

The dinner, mostly of food flown from the U.S.S.R. and prepared by a chef also flown from the Soviet Union, will give the President a sample of the kind of food that he will have during his visit there in the fall.

Vodka, two wines and juice will be served at a pre-dinner cocktail party. Hors d'oeuvres will come when the guests sit at the dinner table. Waiters will bring in fresh caviar, salted and smoked fish, crabmeat, smoked partridge, and more vodka.

★ ★ ★

After the soup, fillet of flounder, cooked in champagne, will be served.

As entree, the guests will have beef, prepared in a special Russian way. But a non-Russian vegetable, asparagus with holl a n d a i s e sauce, will be alongside.

Another non - Russian dish, baked Alaska, will be the dessert.

36 Safe as Liner Lands on Belly

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. (AP)—An airliner with 36 people aboard circled nearly four hours early today while the pilot tried to lower the wheels for landing. Then the plane skidded in on its belly on a foam-covered Air Force runway.

★ ★ ★

No one was injured. The starboard engine caught fire but the flames quickly died.

★ ★ ★

Said James R. Nolan, 19, a college sophomore from Albany: "The stewardess, the pilot and co-pilot were wonderful. They had us under control all the time. We were informed of everything that was going to happen. I don't think there was any great fear on the plane. It was as smooth a landing as if the wheels were down."

Explosive-Laden Car Report Seems False

WASHINGTON (AP) — An apparently false report of a car laden with explosives sent police scurrying Tuesday along the route to be followed into Washington by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Maryland state police, acting on a tip, searched the area between the city and Andrews Air Force Base, Md., where Khrushchev landed a few minutes later.

★ ★ ★

They found nothing. Later, Inspector Michael Torina of the Secret Service said "from our inquiries, the rport appears to have been groundless."

Press Will Honor Ike Before 69th Birthday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower has accepted an invitation to attend a dinner to be given in his honor here Oct. 12 by the White House Correspondents Association.

Girl's Slayer Escapes Custody in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — U.S. Army specialist Gregory Kupski of Detroit, convicted of strangling a Japanese girl, escaped from custody last night at Tachikawa Air Base where he was held pending a Supreme Court hearing on his appeal.

The Army said Kupski, 25, "a minimum custody prisoner under his own parole," escaped after going to the base library.

Kupski was convicted in June 1958, by a Yokohama court of the strangling of Kazue Eikawa, 25.

The conviction was upheld by Japan's Court of Appeals. Kupski later appealed to the Supreme Court.

Idea Tried in Many Cities

America Taking Malls to Its Heart

By WALTER BREEDE JR.
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The modest new $65,000 Kalamazoo mall is a prototype of shopping malls — some running into many millions of dollars — now being planned or talked about in scores of American cities. The object: to regain some of the retail sales shabby downtown business centers have lost to plush suburban shopping centers.

The mall favored by many city planners aims to do this by converting a traffic-clogged, slum-ridden central business district into walks, fountains and flowers lined with bustling department stores and smart shops.

The result is a kind of pedestrians' Heaven. You park your car in a huge underground garage or on a nearby lot. Instead of dodging buses and trucks, you do your shopping safely and comfortably on foot.

Eager to give the idea a trial, shopping mall planners closed off four blocks on two parallel streets in the heart of downtown Toledo, Ohio, about six weeks ago.

★ ★ ★

They buried the drab pavement under 80 tons of topsoil, 350 square yards of lush, green sod, 100 trees, 100 shrubs and 10,000 flowering plants, all supplied by Toledo nurserymen at cost. Other embellishments: brightly colored walks, tiled patios, reflector ponds, piped music, a kiddie playground, swans and penguins. Total cost was a mere $20,000.

TRAFFIC REROUTED

Traffic, including 16 bus lines, was rerouted. There were some complaints about lack of nearby parking space. But, the Toledo planners say, most merchants and shoppers like it just fine.

Seventy per cent of the stores fronting on the mall reported an upswing in business in the first few weeks despite a scorching heat wave. Thirty per cent said business was down from a year ago — a trend the mall sponsors blame on the steel strike and the heat. Merchants away from the mall also favored the idea, but by a much smaller margin.

Retailers, architects and city planners from far and near have inspected the Toledo project. Monday the city council voted to continue the experiment one week. Decision will be made later on whether to extend it to Nov. 15.

★ ★ ★

By that time, backers feel they'll have enough facts and figures on traffic patterns, sales trends and the like to support their belief that the mall should be made permanent.

ROCHESTER'S AMBITIOUS

Probably the most ambitious project in the works right now is a 10-acre, 30-million-dollar mall and shopping center under construction in Rochester, N.Y. It will include a three-level underground garage with room for 1,900 cars.

Above ground, Rochester's Midtown Plaza will feature a 15-million-dollar air-conditioned shopping center, a 14-story office building and an enclosed mall. The mall will be closed to all motor traffic except buses.

Here's what's cooking on the shopping mall front elsewhere in the nation:

City fathers in Dallas, Tex., may include a vehicle-free pedestrian mall in a master plan for redeveloping the downtown business section. Lloyd Braff, director of Dallas' Central Business District Assn. said: "The mall permits people the luxury and pleasure of walking, strolling, browsing and shopping in an atmosphere freed from the noise, congestion, odors and general ugliness which have been choked into our downtown cities by the automobile . . . It is the most important means whereby the downtown city can be turned back to the people, where it rightfully belongs . . ."

The Houston, Tex., city council is getting merchants' and taxpayers' views on a proposal to convert parts of Main St. into a shopping mall.

In Madison, Wis., the city council has voted to study a plan for converting the square around the state capitol into a shopping plaza. Pedestrians could amble to their hearts' content along a broad walkway which would replace a busy street now carrying three lanes of traffic.

Mall sponsors say much of the traffic in downtown sections is through traffic that brings no trades and scares away bonafide shoppers.

Newark, N.J., includes a covered, air-conditioned mall in its plan for a 191-million-dollar downtown redevelopment project.

Other downtown malls have reached the planning stage in Green Bay, Wis.; St. Paul, Minn., and Baltimore.

A grandiose plan was drawn up for Fort Worth, Tex., but abandoned as too costly. It included expressways leading to the edge of the downtown business center, huge underground parking garages and a sprawling shopping center which would have closed downtown Fort Worth to practically all vehicular traffic.

Last fall, Fort Worth merchants made a temporary mall by roping off six downtown blocks and prettying up the streets with art displays, flowers, shrubs and artificial fountains. It worked so well and cost so little that they're trying it again this month.

Plans for a downtown mall in Milwaukee ran afoul of police and fire department objections. Safety officials didn't want major traffic arteries blocked off.

A mall is little more than a gleam in a city planner's eye in such cities as Akron, Ohio; Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Politics killed plans for a mall in Kansas City. City officials who wanted the mall were defeated in the spring election.

Lady Attlee Injured in 2-Car Collision

AMERSHAM, England (UPI) — A two-car collision Tuesday injured Lady Attlee, wife of former prime minister Clement R. Attlee, who now is an earl.

Lady Attlee was taken to Amersham hospital where officials said her injuries were not serious.

Russia Plans Data Sender for the Moon

LONDON (AP) — A Soviet astronomer said today the U.S.S.R. plans soon to plant an automatic information transmitter on the moon.

★ ★ ★

Viktor Bazykin, director of the Moscow Planetarium, said the transmitter will be similar to the unmanned weather stations now used to obtain data from remote polar regions.

★ ★ ★

"Such a station will supply a wealth of scientific information which will make possible the next stage—man's flight to the moon," Bazykin wrote in an article in the newspaper Signal quoted by the Moscow radio.

Expensive Uranium Sits in Wooden Olive Barrel

HAVERFORD, Pa. (UPI)—The Atomic Energy Commission loaned Haverford College $100,000 worth of uranium, and what did they do with it? They put it in an old wooden olive barrel.

★ ★ ★

It should be mentioned though, that with the addition of a few other items, Haverford soon had an atomic reactor. Technically, the device is known as a "subcritical" uranium reactor, which means it is capable of producing fission at a safe rate only.

Here's what the boys at Haverford did: They placed uranium-filled tubing in the barrel and filled it with water. Then a mixture of plutonium and beryllium in a very small cylindrical box was placed in the water, producing fission.

Dr. Aaron Lemonick, head of the school's physics department, says the idea is to give students direct experience with problems and techniques of nuclar fission reactors.

But why an old wooden barrel?

★ ★ ★

Dr. Lemonick admitted there are special metal barrels made for just such purposes—at about $2,000 each. But Haverford's old olive barrel, the professor said, cost $1,990 less, and it does the job.

McElroy, Gen. White to Tour Pacific, Far East

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Neil M. McElroy and Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White will make a one-month tour of the Pacific, Far East, Australia and New Zealand, starting next week, the Defense Department announced.

They will visit Alaska, Japan, Korea, Formosa, Hong Kong, The Philippines and Hawaii. They will depart on the trip Sept. 20.

'Citizens' Group to Meet Monday

Romney Calling First General Gathering on State Problems

DETROIT (UPI)—George Romney, American Motors president and head of the "Citizens for Michigan" committee, said today the group will hold its first general membership meeting Monday in Lansing.

★ ★ ★

Romney said more than 300 citizens from 78 communities have indicated they plan to attend the meeting at the Lansing Civic Center.

The vigilante-like committee, spawned in the eight-month tax deadlock in the Legislature, will be presented with a four-point program aimed at solving Michigan's ills.

A temporary sub-committee will propose:

—What services do Michigan's citizens need from their state government?

—How should needed state government services be paid for?

—How should the state government be structured to carry out its responsibilities?

—What can be done to accelerate Michigan's economic growth and its cultural and social development?

★ ★ ★

The first mass-meeting program also calls for election of permanent officers and directors and agreement on problems to be studied.

Man, 78, Struck by Car; 2 Hurt in Collision

A 78-year-old Pontiac man was struck by a car Tuesday night at Pike and Paddock streets and two drivers were injured this morning when their cars collided at Franklin and W. Wilson streets, according to city police.

★ ★ ★

Fred Walker of 243 E. Pike St., was struck by a slow moving car driven by Thomas L. McCleary, 26, of 590 Second St., as he crossed Paddock street about 8:15 p.m., police said.

Walker was treated for minor injuries at Pontiac General Hospital and released. McCleary said his vision was obscured by oncoming traffic and that Walker was directly in front of his car before he saw him.

Joyce A. Egress, 22, of 839 Inglewood St., and Joseph Walls, 33, of 380 Howland St., were treated for leg and head injuries and released after their cars collided at 5 a.m. today.

3 Injured in Smashup in Pontiac Township

Three persons were injured Tuesday afternoon in a collision of a pickup truck and car at Walton boulevard and Dexter street, Pontiac Township, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

One of the drivers, Eva L. Litchfield, 35, of 2070 Dexter St., her son, Roger, 4, and the truck driver, Thomas R. Rogers, 57, of 1593 Park St., Rochester, were taken to Pontiac General Hospital.

Rogers and the youngster were treated and released. The boy's mother was admitted with a broken leg and face and neck injuries. She was reported in fair condition today.

Solons' Blunder Worth $5 Million

Legislature Back in Session With a New Tax Headache

LANSING (UPI) — A five-million-dollar blunder in the Aug. 29 legislative tax settlement today haunted state lawmakers reconvening after 17 days at home and summer vacation retreats.

★ ★ ★

The cost of the error, a closely kept secret for more than two weeks, was estimated yesterday by Clarence W. Lock, deputy state revenue commissioner. He said it could be even higher.

Lock and some lawmakers agreed prompt correction was necessary to keep medium and high profit business concerns from reaping an unintended tax windfall.

★ ★ ★

The process was certain to take a minimum of five days assuming no hitch developed.

COULD ERASE INCREASE

The blunder threatened to wipe out the bulk of the $8,500,000 tax increase the Legislature thought it was placing on business.

"Somebody goofed," said Rep. T. John Lesinski (D-Detroit), a member of the six-man House-Senate Conference Committee that put together the defective amendment to the Business Activities Tax (BAT) Act.

He pointed the finger at Sen. Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo). Morris denied responsibility and said the error could have been caught by numerous legislators and administrative officials.

★ ★ ★

The blunder showed up in a section of the BAT revision seeking to extend tax relief to losing and low profit concerns.

It had the effect of giving tax credits up to 25 per cent to thousands of firms not in this category—besides the ones lawmakers intended to reach.

Lesinski said it was the same as if Congress would allow a person to take the 10 per cent standard deduction on his federal income tax and then, on top of this, to deduct for dependents, charitable contributions and so forth—rather than one or the other.

In somewhat the same fashion, businesses in computing BAT liability for tax credit purposes could take the standard 50 per cent of gross receipts deduction always allowed plus deductions for payroll costs and personal property depreciation expense.

Any business with over 50 per cent of gross receipts going into payroll thus would be entitled to a 25 per cent credit on tax.

"The real trouble here," Lesinski said, "is that tax relief would be afforded to many firms that need it least."

Slams Regulation of Aeronautics Board

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Louis J. Hector resigned today as a member of the Civil Aeronautics board. He told President Eisenhower that civil aviation is far too important "to be hobbled by a regulatory system which does not work."

In an exchange of correspondence made public by the White House, Eisenhower accepted the resignation with an expression of regret. He thanked Hector "for a job well done" but made no comment on Hector's remarks about the board's role.

"After two and a half years on the board," Hector wrote Eisenhower, "I have come to the belief that an independent regulatory commission is not competent in these days to regulate a vital national industry in the public interest.

Best Education

Better Hold Down Sports for Busy 'High' Student

By DR. BENJAMIN FINE and LILLIAN FINE

At the beginning of the ninth grade, your boy or girl must decide at least tentatively whether to prepare for college, a business career to begin right after high school, or prepare to enter a skilled trade.

If your child is certain he does not want to go to college but does want a business or technical or technical career, it may be worth while to let him commute to the nearest city where appropriate training is available.

But if a youngster is undecided about what he wants to do after high school, the college preparatory course is probably the best choice.

Subjects studied in the ninth grade are considerably more difficult on the whole than those studied in the seventh and eighth grades. All pupils continue to study English. Pupils who find the selections too difficult may acquire a lasting dislike for serious literature.

Parents can assist by talking about the plays and stories, helping youngsters to appreciate their quality.

BIOLOGY IS BASIC

College preparatory students usually take biology, taught as a laboratory science. Many pupils enjoy the laboratory work, but fail the final examination.

Parents can help by discussing the subject, showing youngsters how to take notes and review, having quiz games on scientific subjects, and arranging field trips.

A good many schools now require college preparatory students to take mathematics in the ninth grade. They usually take elementary algebra. Encourage your child to play with mathematical puzzles and riddles. The nations need for trained mathematicians and the rich opportunities awaiting them should be pointed out.

College preparatory students usually begin their study of a foreign language in the ninth grade. Whichever language your youngster chooses, he may have difficulty.

* * *

Parents who have studied languages can help a good deal, but even if you you haven't you can help your youngster by asking him the meaning of words in his homework assingment. There are some reasonably priced record albums that can be helpful or perhaps you can purchase a foreign-language newspaper or magazine which your child can take to class.

* * *

The big thing is to show your interest in the child's progress and let him know you are proud of him.

CHOOSE "TOUGH" TEACHERS

By the eleventh grade your youngster is carrying a really heavy scholastic program. He needs all the encouragement you can give him.

A large number of pupils leave school at the beginning of the eleventh grade. They give all sorts of reasons but seldom admit the most common one, inability to do the work.

We all want our own children to take a good high school program, with courses in general education as well as specialized ones. President - Emeritus James B. Conant of Harvard makes these recommendations.

"Each child should be required to take four years of English, three or four years of social studies (including two years of American problems or American government, one years of social science) and a year of mathematics (algebra or general mathematics)."

Along with a choice of courses, many schools permit students to choose their teachers, at least in later high school years. Parents can encourage youngsters to choose the good teacher. "the teacher who makes you learn."

If there are two geometry teachers and one of them has the reputation of being top-flight, ask the principal to have your child assigned to the good one. In some schools the principals may resent your interference, but informed parents have a right to this type of interference.

STUDY THOSE GRADES!

Any parent who sincerely wants his child to get a good education will study each report card carefully and discuss it with his youngster.

Most report cards carry a notation asking parents to discuss the card with the school authorities. Do you accept the invitation? If you do, you are the exception.

What can you do if it seems likely that your son or daughter will fail a subject?

For certain youngsters, one failure may be truly an educational experience. It shocks them into getting down to work.

A child should not be allowed to fail repeatedly, however. Worse than the loss of time in school may be the psychological effect.

What can you do if a youngster really tries but for some reason can't seem to comprehend a subject? It may be poor teaching; it may be that the student was absent or not feeling well when key concepts were taught, or it may be that the subject is beyond the child's comprehension at this particular age. When all else fails, you might consider getting special help for your child.

TRUANCY A SIGN

One rather reliable indication that a youngster is having trouble in school is repeated truancy. If a "talking to" doesn't bring about an improvement, perhaps the youngster should transfer to another school, or find courses more in line with his interests. Perhaps he should go to boarding school.

There is another major cause of failure in high school: neglect of practice in the basic skills of reading, spelling, arithmetic and written English.

High school pupils need to broaden and deepen their reading ability. They need encouragement to keep reading for pleasure.

Secondary schools often provide a wide variety of extra-curricular activities, such as sports, clubs and social affairs.

We are convinced that in this a youngster can steer a middle ground. To be a "grind" is not healthy. Nevertheless, the primary purpose of going to school is to learn. Let us put first things first!

* * *

College officers are seldom impressed by the applicant who has barely passing marks and a long string of extracurricular achievements.

Luebke Is Second Head of West Reich

BONN, Germany (UPI)—Heinrich Luebke took the oath as the West German Republic's second president Tuesday and pledged the country anew to fight for a united Germany.

Speaking to a joint session of parliament, Luebke said what was uppermost in the minds of all Germans on this 10th anniversary of the founding of the republic, and the 10th anniversary of Konrad Adenauer's accession to the office of chancellor.

"We Germans know only one Germany," he said.

* * *

Luebke, 64, agricultural minister in Adenauer's government for six years, succeeded Theodor Heuss, 75, whose second five-year term ended Saturday.

21 DeMolays Back From Meet in Marquette

Twenty-one boys and advisors from the Pontiac Chapter of the Order of DeMolay returned this week after attending the DeMolay State Conference in Marquette.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere.

Jet Boat May Change Industry

Has No Propeller or Rudder; Powered by Stream of Water

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —The newest wrinkle in boating, America's fastest growing sport, is a "jet-propelled" runabout whose method of power could conceivably revolutionize the industry.

★ ★ ★

Propellerless and rudderless, the boat is driven and steered by the force of a tremendous stream of water which is sucked through a vent in the bottom and shot out a special device in the stern.

The water exit looks somewhat like the end of an oversized garden hose with big deflectors at the nozzle which guide the boat when pulled either left or right by the steering wheel.

The craft, known as the Beuhler Turbocraft, is built by the Indiana Gear Works in Indianapoois from a New Zealand design.

★ ★ ★

According to local distributors, the Turbocraft is from every point of view the safest thing of its size and type ever to cut the water.

★ ★ ★

Charles M. Byrne, vice president of Jet-Craft here, said the absence of a propeller permits the boat to travel in four inches of water or less. And there's much less danger to swimmers than froma boat with a propeller.

"As long as there is water for propulsion the boat will go anywhere, including over sandbars which stick above the surface," Byrne said.

He said maneuverability of the craft is so great it can turn around in its own length at a speed of 35 miles an hour. It can even back up.

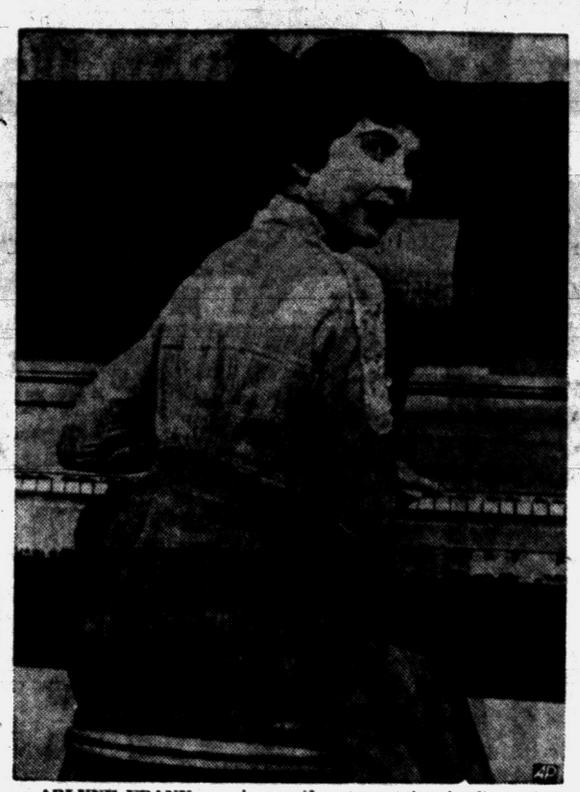
Byrne said the 16-foot Fiberglas hull is specially designed for the propulsion unit and that at the moment installation in more conventional hulls is impractical.

But he said Indiana Gear may have modified power units available next year for other types of power boats and sailing craft.

★ ★ ★

The Turbocraft should be a delight to water skiers — because of fast acceleration — and to fishermen — since theoretically the boat could take them over a dewy lawn.

The Turbocraft sells for approximately $3,400, f.o.b. Indianapolis.



ARLYNE FRANK . . . housewife-actress takes leading role in "The Music Man."

Back to the Mop, Mom

Stage a Cinch? 'Tain't Necessarily So

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Housewives—would you chuck mop and dish towel for the glamorous life of the Broadway stage?

Come along, and see how it's done. It's a cinch, if—

★ ★ ★

You can sing, dance, have fresh good looks, and have worked hard in off-Broadway shows, on the summer circuit and on television.

The latest heroine of the real-life Broadway success story is Mrs. Jack P. Green, wife of a Yale University pharmacology professor.

You may know her better as Arlyne Frank, playing the lead role of Marian the librarian in "The Music Man." She recently replaced Barbara Cook opposite Robert Preston.

★ ★ ★

"Despite what you may have heard otherwise, there's only one way to get a job," says Miss Frank, "and that's to work hard.

"People think there are all kinds of short cuts — there aren't any short cuts."

★ ★ ★

She spends more than three hours a day commuting between New York and New Haven and her two lives of Broadway star-to-be and Yale faculty wife.

★ ★ ★

What about hubby?

"If he should object," says the little lady, "I don't imagine I would work."

But she addes quickly that there is no danger of that. The question of her career was settled—with an understanding it would continue — before their marriage last fall.

Besides, she says, "he's very excited and very proud."

Or, as she commented about her decision to leave her native Minneapolis, Minn., "The performing bug just was too strong — somehow I felt I had to go on with it."

★ ★ ★

Like many singing careers, Miss Frank's began during childhood.

"I've always sung—all my life," she says, "and I guess a performer needs an outlet. Eventually I found myself thinking about getting into it professionally."

It wasn't long before she was in New York City, working in the fashion service department of a magazine and taking singing lessons on the side.

"When I arrived I knew I needed more work," she says.

A year later she decided she was ready to make the theatrical rounds. Within a few months she had her first job — a lead in an off-Broadway review

Then came other off-Broadway parts, major roles in 20 summer circuit musicals, and television—soap operas, serious dramas and the lead in the "Omnibus" production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial By Jury."

★ ★ ★

She was considering a summer tour in "H.M.S. Pinafore" with Martyn Greene, a veteran savoyard, when the job in "The Music Man" opened up.

She owes much to her stock company experience — including her husband. While playing in New Jersey last summer, she was introduced to a young man who had come down from New Haven to watch a friend in the show.

That's right, it was Dr. Green. Time did the rest.

P. S. She still spends time pushing that mop, and twirling that dish towel.

Telephone Association Opens Annual Confab

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — The annual convention of the Michigan Independent Telephone Assn. opened here Tuesday.

About 400 persons from independent telephone companies throughout the state are expected to attend the three-day meeting.

Snake Sings for Dinner, Gets Death Instead

ROME, Vt. (UPI)—Mrs. Myra Treglown Stansell was walking in her backyard on her way to feed the chickens when she heard a pleasant sound like something or someone "singing."

Mrs. Stansell looked in the direction of the sound just in time to see a rattlesnake. She leaped back before the reptile could strike.

The five-foot snake, who apparently was "singing" for his supper, just didn't have a chance. Mrs. Stansell summoned a neighbor and they shot the snake with a shotgun.

Just to make sure it was dead, they fired several rifle bullets into the snake's body and beat it with a large stick for good measure.

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FUNNY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Drop Out of College Before They Drop In

MONROE (UPI) — Half of the students registered for the fall semester at a so-called branch of Great Lakes College in Monroe have dropped out before they dropped in for classes.

★ ★ ★

There had been 30 students registered, but 15 withdrew their registration when they learned the college was not accredited and its records would not be accepted by other universities and colleges in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

About 150 persons attended an open-house celebration at the college Sunday afternoon, unaware of the action.

During London Visit

Search Baby Carriages for Nikita's Safety

LONDON (NEA) — Sewers and baby carriages will get close attention during Nikita Khrushchev's visit to U.S. cities if the same security cautions are taken as were during his visit to Britain.

Scotland Yard took no chances. London sewers along the route Khrushchev was to travel were searched for time bombs, prior to his actual arrival. In Portsmouth, where the Soviet cruiser bearing Khrushchev docked, babies were lifted from their prams by police looking for explosives that might be hurled at the Soviet dictator.

More than 4,000 police were detailed for special guard duty during the visit, including 50 officers from Special Branch of Scotland Yard, who took turns guarding Khrushchev night and day.

"Never have so many wanted to get at so few," a London police inspector on duty outside Claridge's, where Khrushchev stayed explained to me. He was referring to the thousands of anti-Communists who have taken refuge in the British Isles — from White Russian emigres of World War I days to East Europeans of the 1950's.

Some of the more fanatical of these anti-Communists — those who would not stop at assassination — were interviewed by the police and their movements closely checked during Khrushchev's visit.

As for the others, it was Scotland Yard's job to restrain their anti-Soviet "enthusiasm," which might prove embarassing to Her Majesty's government.

LONDON BOBBIES and Soviet security police (second from left) were close at hand during every moment of Khrushchev's British travels with former colleague Nikolai Bulganin.

So efficiently did Scotland yard work that there was no public incident, though shouts of "Khrushchev go home" formed a sort of background music to the Red chief's tours through city streets.

When Khrushchev traveled it was in a bullet-proof car with an escort of 16 motorcycle police, all wearing bullet-proof vests, and three radio patrol cars.

Khrushchev brought his own personal bodyguard of two dozen Russian plug-uglies in plain-clothes, and this gave rise to some comic incidents. More than once the plug-uglies were mistaken for anti-Communist demonstrators and pushed around by London Bobbies.

The visit was not without other comic relief, such as the reception Khrushchev gave for 1,500 guests at Claridge's just before leaving.

The reception offered the spectacle of the Red Dean of Canterbury talking to a Tory Member of Parliament, and Harold Stassen being jostled by a British Communist leader.

At the height of the festivities, Khrushchev drew film comedian Charlie Chaplain into a side room for a private talk. Sample dialogue:

Chaplain: "Your noble words will live in history."

Khrushchev: "You are a genius. The Americans repudiate you, but we recognize you."

Britons will not soon forget the visit of the vain, stolid, essentially humorless Soviet leader. They wish the Americans better luck, but would warn them to count the silverware when Khrushchev leaves.

Report New Schedule for 'Beeliner' Service

MACKINAW CITY (UPI)—The New York Central Railroad has started a new daytime schedule on its "Beeliner" passenger train service between here and Detroit.

Eliminating mail and express handling north of Bay City has cut two hours off the running time of the single unit, stainless steel diesel passenger car between the two terminals.

The railroad said this has improved connections with other trains at Detroit for southbound passengers.

See Similarity in Arson Jobs

Teamster Home Fired Tuesday in Indianapolis Like O'Brien Blaze

Arson detectives in Michigan and Indiana see a similarity between the intentional firing of Detroit Teamster Charles O'Brien's Bloomfield Township home in July and that yesterday of the Indianapolis home of a close friend of Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa.

Sgt. Oramel O'Farrell, Michigan state fire marshal, said a liaison has been set up between the two states with a member of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

"They've promised to keep us informed on any possible links between the two fires," O'Farrell said. He added he didn't plan to travel to Indianapolis to view the suburban home of Gene San Soucie, president of that city's Teamsters Local 135 and Hoffa's close friend.

Michigan state police arson detectives, headed by O'Farrell, are apparently without clues or suspects in the July 17 burning—which they say was deliberately set—of the home of O'Brien, 20 Harrow Circle.

O'Brien, as was the case of San Soucie, was not at home at the time of the fire. O'Brien is a business agent for Hoffa's home Detroit Local 299.

The fashionable Bloomfield home was owned by O'Brien's mother, Mrs. Sylvia Paris, a former union official herself, who was at home alone minutes before the fire.

Four empty five-gallon fuel oil cans were later found in the home.

"The only difference in the two cases seems to be that a fuel line was cut to soak the furnishings in San Soucie's home," O'Farrell said.

Indiana authorities said a preliminary investigation showed a fuel line leading to a basement oil burner in the home was cut, the basement flooded with fuel, and furniture and other floors saturated with oil before the fire was touched off.

Huge Skywritten Cross Floats Over Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — A skywritten cross a mile and a half long floated over Washington Tuesday as Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev drove into the city.

Nicholas T. Nonnenmacher, president of Christianform, said that Anti-Communist Information Organization hired a New York skywriter to put up the cross in white smoke "just as a symbol of our faith."

More Imagination Than Anger

Nikita Protests Quiet, Solemn

By The Associated Press

Up and down the land symbols of mourning are cropping up and prayerful services are being held as some Americans express their protest or concern over the visit of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

But few of the demonstrations have personally touched the Soviet leader and they are generally quiet and solemn, not violent.

★ ★ ★

The American people appeared to be almost unanimously adhering to President Eisenhower's request for polite, courteous treatment of an important foreign visitor.

Many of the protests showed more imagination than anger.

★ ★ ★

A Hungarian refugee tried to put a black blindfold over the eyes of the Statue of Liberty, but the cloth dropped from the statue's crown was torn away by the wind.

A paper plant at Holyoke, Mass. and St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Cathedral in Buffalo, N.Y., both flew flags upside down. A cathedral spokesman explained the upside down flag was a distress signal.

★ ★ ★

A skywriting plane drew a huge cross over Washington skies as Khrushchev was driven into the capital—"Just a symbol of our faith" sponsored by an anti-Communist religious group.

The Soviet Premier may also have been able to hear the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers" tolled by church bells as the caravan went past the White House.

★ ★ ★

But he did not see a sign reading "Tyrants Not Welcome USA" which two Georgetown University students tried to put up outside the White House. The youths, wearing black armbands, were ordered away.

Several small flags with skull and cross-bones were waved along the caravan's route. Their bearers were quickly removed.

★ ★ ★

Boston's Richard Cardinal Cushing led some 15,000 persons in prayer at the foot of Bunker Hill Monument. He warned that communism "could happen here," but urged that the Soviet leader be treated with "true, genuine courtesy."

A memorial mass of protest was held at the Russian Orthodox church of St. Alexander Nevsky in Richmond, Maine, about the time Khrushchev reached Washington.

★ ★ ★

In New York another Hungarian refugee was found handcuffed to a fence railing in front of the United Nations building. Police released him and charged him with disorderly conduct.

New Oil Well at McBain May Revive Boom

McBAIN (UPI) — The on-again-off-again oil boom in the Missaukee County community was on again Tuesday.

The boom started early this summer when two wells were brought in. The strikes touched off a number of wildcatting ventures in the area.

★ ★ ★

Then the boom died down when a third drilling attempt proved to be a dry hole.

But the fourth attempt was a success. Officials of the gas and oil division of the Michigan Conservation Department say the new well, which is flowing naturally at the rate of 10 to 12 barrels an hour, "looks like a nice one."

Oil was struck at 4,451 feet, a foot and a half deeper than the first well which is now producing about 100 barrels a day.

Pick Grand Rapids for Kiwanis Meet

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan Kiwanians, closing their annual convention here yesterday, voted to meet next year in Grand Rapids.

Charles C. Saur, Grand Rapids industrialist, was elected governor of the Michigan district to succeed Sidney Main of Lake on Jan. 1.

The convention recommended Walter F. Patenge of Lansing for the office of international president at the conclave in Miami next year. Patenge now serves the organization as treasurer.

Building in Italy Falls, Kills 14

Five-Story Apartment on Weak Foundation Housed 106

BARLETTA, Italy (AP) — A five-story apartment building based on the foundation of what was once a one-story garage collapsed here today, killing at least 14 persons.

Rescue teams removed 15 injured and dug in the debris for dozens of other residents of the building not accounted for.

★ ★ ★

Officials said 106 lived in the building.

The upper floors were added about six months ago. Apparently the weight was too much for the foundation. The entire building caved in.

Barletta is on the Adriatic coast about 30 miles north of Bari.

Monoxide Kills Man Repairing His Car

A Commerce Township man died of carbon monoxide poisoning in his garage Tuesday while repairing his car, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

George W. R. Worsey, 37, of 633 Apalachi Dr., was found shortly after 9 by a neighbor, Ronald Elliot of 624 Apalachi St. He was slumped in the front seat of his car in the closed garage.

Deputies said there were tools lying near him and that a new set of spark plugs had just been installed in the car. The old set was on the garage floor, deputies reported.

Detectives surmised that fumes overcame Worsey as he ran his car motor to test the new plugs.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by Oakland County Deputy Coroner Dr. Wellington Gibson of Walled Lake.

U.N. Probe Starts in Laos

Reports Say Prisoners Captured to Support Aggression Charge

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — United Nations fact-finders began their investigations today amid reports the royal government has captured prisoners to support their charges of Communist aggression in Laos.

Premer Phoui Sananikone assigned the U.N. mission an air-conditioned headquarters—a rarity in this steaming capital—in his own offices.

A U.N. source reported that Laotian officials said they had caught five Red soldiers to supplement circumstantial evidence against Communist North Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

There was no official confirmation of the report—and no indication whether the prisoners were North Vietnamese or rebel Laotian tribesmen in North Viet Nam uniforms.

The U.N. mission found the tiny Asian kingdom calm amid indications the Communists were holding their fire.

★ ★ ★

Red China threw its weight behind a Soviet proposal for a new international conference — bypassing the U.N.—to bring a negotiated settlement of the Laotian revolt.

The United States has rejected the Soviet call for the conference of the same powers which framed the Indochina armistice at Geneva in 1954.

Phoenix Projects 10th Birthday Brings Chiding

DETROIT (AP)—U. S. graduate schools must take the lead if this country is to catch up with Russia in the crucial areas of scientific progress, University of Michigan President Harlan H. Hatcher said yesterday.

Speaking at the 10th aniversary celebration of the Memorial Phoenix Project, Hatcher said this country "already has fallen behind Russia in the crucial frontiers of science."

He said graduate schools must furnish the personnel and research needed to narrow Russia's scientific lead over the United States.

Hatcher cited the recent Russia moon shot as evidence of that country's "advancement and miraculous progress in science."

Round Trips to Campus

Bee Line to Serve MSUO

The Bee Line, Inc. bus service will start a new schedule of seven trips daily between Pontiac and Rochester and a round-trip to Mount Clemens on Sept. 17 to accomodate the special needs of Michigan State University Oakland students, it was announced today by Robert Reakes, president of the bus line.

Four buses will make the round trip daily in the campus area to permit a student coming from the direction of Pontiac to meet a class as early as 8 a.m., and one from Rochester to meet a 9 a.m. committment.

The bus from Mount Clemens will arrive on campus by 9 a.m. and depart at 4:15 p.m. for arrival in Mount Clemens at 5:07 p.m.

The Martin Lines of Royal Oak, the Great Lakes Transit Lines and the Greyhound Lines, which operate in Oakland and Macomb counties, will provide a connecting service to one of the basic lines operated by the Bee Line in order to give more complete transportation coverage in this area.

Since MSUO has no dormitories a present, all members of the campus community are commuters. This has posed a challenging problem for officials of the campus located miles from regular public transportation routes.

This newest university in the country is located in the northwest corner of a rectangle bounded by Squirrel, Adams and Butler roads and Walton boulevard.

Roy J. Alexander, director of student affairs, said university officials have been in consultation with several bus companies for some time to provide the best possible service.

He said: "Student patronage is important so the companies can expand service and include more stops in more areas.

"The Bee Line has agreed to keep its bus service operating as long as they can at least break even. MSUO has no ties with any other companies participating in this service."

Waterford Township Recreation

Activities Begin Saturday

The fall and winter program of activities scheduled by the Waterford Township Recreation Department will get under way Saturday morning, according to Director Tom Belton.

Eighteen major activities have been set up for every hour of every day and evening. Among them are exercising classes, ballet, archery, camera guilds and dog obedience training classes. They'll be held at the big Community Activities Center on Williams Lake road.

All day Saturdays, games, arts and crafts, table tennis, checkers and other quiet games will be in progress for both young and old.

For six consecutive Saturdays, Sept. 19 through Oct. 24, younger boys will have the opportunity to "get the feel" of playing organized football. Then in November the same boys and others interested may sign up for the junior basketball teams and real league play.

Two divisions have been set up for the men's basketball leagues with class A for advanced players and class B for the fathers looking for not-too-strenuous exercise.

Mother will have a chance to shed a few pounds in two completely different activities. On Tuesday nights from 7 to 9 p.m. there will be organized exercising and free play in the gymnasium.

On Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m., the Fashion Your Figure Club meets, with "collective interest and moral support for losing weight" the prime object. Speakers and films on the latest fashions take up part of the meeting period. However, each member will be required to "weigh-in" before a meeting. Those who gain weight during the one-week period, will take home a little pig trophy while the women with the most willpower for losing weight will receive an honor award.

Another "for ladies only" activity that drew a large enrollment last year was in the cake decoration class. There are sessions for rank beginners, or for those who wish to know how to make the fancier cake decorations.

Stubborn dogs who refuse to learn the fundamentals of everyday conduct will have a few rough lessons in how to behave in the Wednesday night dog obedience training classes. By the time "recital time" arrives he will prove himself truly as man's best friend, Belton promised.

Not only will the Camera Guild present outstanding speakers and demonstrations for better photography, but contests for the best pictures will get under way on the first and third Tuesday of each month. Visitors are always welcome to these group meetings, Belton said.

Besides all of the planned programs scheduled daily, the Recreation Department sponsors Halloween and Christmas parties for various age groups, and the recreation library for public use has many ideas for organizing and conducting a large variety of programs.

Two new projects, the Theater Guild and the Golden Age Group, are in the organization stage, and enthusiasm for these two major programs has been astounding, Belton said.

Already plans for the presentation "Our Town" are under way by the Lakeland Players and the first social get-together for people of retirement age has been set for 7:30 p.m. Oct. 15.

Because of the good response of Waterford Township people to the recreation program, an assistant director has been hired this year and even more activities will be available, Belton concluded.

Typhoon Sarah Nearing Korea

Hits Southern Ryukyus With 145-Mile Winds; No Okinawa Report

TOKYO (AP)—Typhoon Sarah roared into the East China Sea today after raking the southern Ryukyus with 145 m.p.h. winds. Unless it veers it will hit the Korean Peninsula Thursday.

★ ★ ★

There was no word from the American base at Okinawa but it was within range of 50 m.p.h. fringe winds.

★ ★ ★

The Shanghai area of Red China was within range too.

Center winds of the typhoon missed Formosa Tuesday, although it was deluged with rain and buffeted by 50 m.p.h. winds.

Five persons were reported killed and 33 injured in southern Okinawa.

Heir to Beer Fortunes Charged With Indecency

OCONOMOWOC, Wis. (UPI) — Walter Tallmadge, 27, heir to the Schlitz beer fortunes, pleaded innocent Monday to four charges of child molestation.

Tallmadge is charged with taking indecent liberties with a 13-year-old girl June 26 and July 17. He was freed in $10,000 bail pending trial Sept. 29.

Maria Callas, Aristotle at Greek Night Club

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Maria Meneghini Callas and Aristotle Onassis made a surprise appearance in a Greek night club early today. The shipping magnate lost his temper when newsmen and photographers showed up.

★ ★ ★

Miss Callas, who has quite a reputation of her own for temperament, kept quiet.

★ ★ ★

The 35-year-old diva whose marriage to Italian industrialist Giovan Battista Meneghini, 62, went on the rocks last week, arrived Monday with 55-year-old Onassis off Glyphada, a fashionable resort near Athens, aboard the Greek millionaire's yacht.

Deaths in Pontiac and Nearby Areas

BABY BOY HARKNESS

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP—Graveside service for Baby Boy Harkness, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest C. Harkness of 2764 Davista Dr., was held today at Perry Mount Park Cemetery, Pontiac, under the direction of the Pursley Funeral Home.

The baby was stillborn Sunday at Pontiac General Hospital.

Surviving besides his parents are two brothers, Charles B. and Dennis E., both at home.

WILLIAM L. McCLURG

MILFORD—Service for William L. McClurg, of 801 Cedar Bay Court, will be held at 8 p.m. today at the Harvey Neely Funeral Home, Detroit. Burial will be in Brownhelm, Ohio, tomorrow.

Mr. McClurg died Monday in Ontario, Canada.

Surviving are his wife, Lucile; a daughter, Mrs. Caroline Anderson of Detroit; and two sons, Richard H. and William L. also of Detroit; and six grandchildren.

DR. ANDREW W. STUART

WALLED LAKE — Service for Dr. Andrew W. Stuart, 85, a dentist in Walled Lake for 13 years, will be held at 9 a.m. Thursday at the Clayton Thomas Funeral Home in Crescent City, Fla. Burial will be in the Eden Cemetery.

A 32nd degree Mason, Dr. Stuart leaves his wife, Helen M.; two sons, Gordon H. of Klamath Falls, Ore. and John R. of Walled Lake; six grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Dr. Stuart died Monday after an illness of several months in Crescent City where he made his home.

'59 Congress Approved Biggest Peacetime Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1959 Congress voted the biggest peacetime appropriations total in history.

In only four previous years — two during World War II and two during the Korean War—has the money total exceeded the $81,975,368,352 Congress approved in the session ending Tuesday. The amount exceeded by a small margin the previous peacetime record of $81,119,818,276 voted in the 1958 session.

★ ★ ★

Even so, the legislators cut President Eisenhower's requests this year by $1,881,000,000 or slightly more than 2 per cent of the total.

The Democratic-controlled Congress succeeded in whacking something off every money bill of the 1959 session but one, in an effort to blunt Republican charges the Democrats are wild spenders.

By far the biggest cut was the $1,204,000,000 slashed from foreign aid, the program which Eisenhower made the strongest effort to save from heavy reductions. This included 500 million in development loan funds for the year starting next July 1 which was denied, but which will come up again next year.

The only years in which the appropriations total exceeded 1959 figures were 1942, when 147 billion was voted, 1943, with a 115-billion total, 1951, with 101 billion, and 1952, with 86 billion.

This year's allotments continued the upward trend of every year of the Eisenhower administration except the first and second. During those years Republicans controlled Congress. Appropriations totaled 65 billion in 953, dropped to 58 billion in 1954, and have mounted steadily since.

Despite the cuts made in 17 of the 18 money bills this session, Budget Director Maurice H. Stans has said he expects no reduction in spending for the current fiscal year, 1960, which ends next June 30.

★ ★ ★

Stans said this would be so because the cuts mostly affect long-range construction items taking two or three years to complete, such as foreign aid projects, while the increases will be effective at once.

The one bill raised over the budget this session, the Health-Education - Welfare Department measure boosted by 259 million, will have an immediate effect on the spending budget. All of the increase was for health research and hospital construction grants to the states.

Houston Chronicle Editor Is Dead

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Roderick John Watts, managing editor of the Houston Chronicle, died today at Hermann Hospital following a heart attack suffered at his home last night. He was 55.

Watts was managing editor of the Chronicle for 11 years and spent 32 years with the paper.

He was vice president of the National Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. and had served as president of the Texas Associated Press organization.

Employed as reporter for the Houston Press in the spring of 1926, he has been engaged in newspaper work in Houston ever since. He has been associated with the Chronicle since December 1927.

Korean War Armistice General Dies of Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. Olaf H. Hyster Jr., 58, who as senior U.S. member of the United Nations Military Armistice Commission was instrumental in negotiations leading to release of 25 South Koreans and one American held by the North Koreans, died Monday of cancer.

Claims Rights Group to Stay

Members Will Remain Despite Their Desire to Quit, Hannah Says

EAST LANSING (UPI)—Michigan State University President John A. Hannah yesterday denied reports that he or others would resign Civil Rights Commission posts if the commission's life were extended by Congress.

Hannah has been chairman of the commission since it was established in 1957.

"I made the statement that if the commissioners voiced their personal preference, they would not wish to continue," Hannah said.

"But I think the bulk of the commissioners would continue on the job," he said.

★ ★ ★

Hannah said he would make no other comment because the bill extending the commission's life had not been passed by Congress.

The Senate voted to continue the commission Monday night by a 71-18 vote. The extension amendment was tacked onto a catch-all appropriation bill. It has not yet reached the House.

Baraga County Official Found Drowned in Bay

L'ANSE, (AP) — Abel M. Osterlund, who recently resigned under fire as Baraga County treasurer, was found drowned in Keweenaw Bay in front of his fishing camp home late yesterday.

Osterlund, who was legless, had been missing all day, after paddling into the bay on a raft. Coroner H. J. Winkler ruled his death a suicide.

State police said Osterlund, 54, admitted in a signed statement that he falsified 50 tax receipts and took $1,000 in county funds over a two-year period.

Osterlund resigned when discrepancies were found in his books about two weeks ago.

Pennsylvania State University researchers are trying to find a processing system which might reclaim tons of anthracite coal refuse from the silt basins of Pennsylvania rivers.

119 Died Aboard SS Noronic Near Toronto 10 Years Ago

By R. J. ANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

On A deck the younger set frolicked.

The smudge with its wisp of smoke became a glow.

Revellers who had spent the evening ashore straggled aboard.

The glow became an angry red in the darkness.

The wind was refreshing as it swept a deck from astern and blew through the open ports.

★ ★ ★

One by one, lights in the buildings lining the waterfront went out. The cabin parties broke up, reluctantly. Another day of fun was ahead.

The master came aboard.

The angry glow became a flicker of flame, unnoticed, unconfined.

Finally, even the A-deck youngsters headed for their bunks in the maze of little cabins that extended below the water line.

Peace settled over the cruise ship. It was 2:15 a.m.

Two decks below, the flicker of flame became Fire — one of the greatest fears of a mariner at sea.

★ ★ ★

But the SS Noronic was not at sea that warm September night. She lay in her dock, snugly moored to pier 9, the Queen's Quay, in Toronto harbor.

Safety for all was inches away.

Yet 119 persons died Sept. 17, 1949, in the worst ship fire in a century on the Great Lakes. Not since Nov. 21, 1847, when the SS Phoenix burned in Lake Michigan with a loss of 247 lives, had there been such a disastrous fire on the lakes.

An investigation found that the fire broke out in a linen closet on C deck, third deck down from the top of the $5,000,000 ship that had cruised the lakes for 36 years.

★ ★ ★

The cause never was learned. There was no evidence of incendiarism . . . perhaps a carelessly discarded cigarette.

More than four years after the disaster awards totaling $2,724,916 were made to 575 claimants in United States Federal Court at Cleveland, Ohio.

Claims totalling $19,000,000 had been filed against the Canada Steamship Lines Limited, the Noronic's owners, by more than 600 persons. The settlement was one of the largest ever reached for a maritime disaster.

The 30,000-word report of a royal commission tabled in the House of Commons two months after the fire blamed destruction of the ship and the high loss of life on failure of the owners and the captain to assure proper fire-fighting precautions aboard ship.

Capt. William Taylor of Sarnia, Ont., was blamed for failing to take general charge of the situation after fire broke out. His certificate was suspended for a year.

The 68-year-old captain had spent part of the evening ashore. He returned to the ship shortly before flames spread through the 6,900-ton vessel. He was seen below decks fighting the fire as, Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock's report said, "an ordinary seaman."

It was the Noronic's last cruise of a busy season. She had put into Toronto on Friday night, a few hours before the disaster enroute from Detroit to the Thousand Islands. Aboard were 527 passengers, most of them Americans, and a crew of 171. Sixteen crew members were on duty aboard the ship at the time of the fire.

Death did not come easily to the 119 men, women and children who died that night as the warm wind drove the flames into every part of the Noronic. All but one were Americans.

Most — the lucky ones — were asphyxiated in their beds. Some, clothing and hair afire, died at the rails as the flames, feeding on the tinder-dry, painted wooden fittings of the old ship's interior, cutting their escape. Others were trapped below decks.

Hundreds escaped by leaping to the pier, by swarming down ropes or by jumping into the slip on the port side of the ship. Rescued, they mingled in the mob of bystanders gathered in the smoke-filled, flame-shot darkness and disappeared to hotels, boarding-houses or homes of friends.

At the time they were listed as missing, feared dead. The first excited "official" casualty figures issued by police and fire department officials placed the toll as high as 250. Incomplete passenger lists also hindered the check. It was days before the toll was established at 119.

The fire was first reported to the Toronto Fire Department at 2:38 a.m. When firemen were able to board the debris-filled hull, which finally settled by the stern to the bottom of the slip, they hauled out burned and broken bodies, wrapped them in tarpaulins — sometimes three or four at a time and sent them by police car to a temporary morgue.

The morgue had been set up in the Flower Building in the Canadian National Exhibition grounds four miles away. The bodies were little more than charred, twisted remains. In most, sex was indistinguishable.

★ ★ ★

Then began the long, slow process of identification of the remains. When the last death certificate was issued Dec. 15, four victims had not been positively identified. They lie today in Toronto's Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Sen. Wiley Opposes Chicago Water Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis) said Tuesday he is hopeful the Senate Foreign Relations Committee next year will bury legislation to divert additional water from the Great Lakes to aid Chicago sewage problems.

Wiley was one of the leaders in the fight against the proposal to allow for a trial period of one year diversion of an additional 1,000 cubic feet of water a second. Chicago now is permitted to use 1,500 cubic feet a second for sewage purposes.

Similar legislation has been before Congress for years. Those opposing it this session were successful in having it sent from the Senate floor to the Foreign Relations Committee.

★ ★ ★

Wiley, a committee member, said he and others opposing the House passed bill will seek to have the committee decline to send it back to the Senate for action.

Canada has strongly objected to the proposed additional diversion and President Eisenhower has twice vetoed similar legislation.

Flight Bears Strongly on Future

What's Ahead Before the X15 Enters Space

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — If all goes right:

The X15—the U.S.'s first plane designed to carry man into space—should make its maiden flight under its own power some time around the end of the summer.

By early fall, the X15 should make a flight over 20 miles high into the sky—higher than man has ever flown before.

★ ★ ★

Some time before winter, two X15 planes should be turned over to the Air Force, Navy and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for "real" testing.

Probably by the spring of 1960 the X15 will hit a speed of around 3,600 miles an hour, faster than man has ever flown.

Perhaps in the fall of 1960—but more probably in the summer of 1961—the X15 will go 100 miles into space. That's as high as a low-flying satellite.

ONLY UP 5 MINUTES

Though the pilot of the X15 will only stay in "space" for about five minutes, his feat will aim at paving the way for three major military and civilian goals, although these will be many more years in coming.

The first probability is a boost glide bomber that could be rocketed maybe 100 or 150 miles into the atmosphere at a speed of perhaps 5,000 or 8,000 miles an hour, then "glide" over Russia, drop its bomb load and "glide" on to a landing in the U.S.

This bomber would be much more effective than a ballistic missile.

It could maneuver—once it got into the atmosphere—thus evading enemy missiles. It could drop its bombs more accurately.

The pilot could decide not to drop his bombs at all if the "war" proved to be a false alarm.

Thus the U.S. would no longer have to wait in time of war for Red bombers to arrive before returning the attack. Ballistic missiles, once fired, can't be recalled.

So you have to wait and make absolutely sure you're being attacked before firing. That may be too late.

The X15 experiment will also give the first elementary knowledge needed for controlling a space vehicle.

In space, planes can't be guided as they are in the atmosphere because there is no air. Guiding presumably will have to be done by small jets — facing in different angles on the space ship.

★ ★ ★

The X15 will have small jets in its wings. During his approximately five minutes in outer space the pilot will use those jets to tip his plane to the precise angle he wants.

How well this works will determine how engineers proceed in their plans for steering other space ships.

The X15 experiment is also designed to find the most practical way to take men up to space stations, and to bring them down.

That, in turn, will make space stations practical.

But there's considerable work to be done before the U.S.'s experimental X15 "space plane" gets a hundred miles into the air.

Airport, Library Optimism Cited

City Manager Willman Says State May Help, Costs Can Be Cut

Optimistic reports came from City Manager Walter K. Willman that the city stands a good chance of finding additional funds to meet construction bids for the airport terminal project and new library.

Bids for the terminal ran $44,000 above available funds, while low bids submitted Monday on the $500,000 library ran to $520,895.

About the terminal, Willman told the City Commission:

"There might be a possibility that the state would advance the $43,680 we need from our 1960 allocation."

About the library: "I've received word from the architects that it is very possible to get down to the $500,000 and award contracts without breaking the building down in quality."

★ ★ ★

The city manager promised more detailed reports on both projects at the Commission's Sept. 22 meeting.

Most of the commissioners went on record — as did Willman — as favoring pulling out all stops so that the much-needed terminal and tower project would not have to be scrapped because the city could not meet its share of matching funds.

An example of the support given the project came from Commissioner Robert Landry.

He said it would be a "grave, great mistake" if the project were to go down the drain after years of waiting.

"We owe it to our people and industry," Landry said.

In other business taken up in a brief 40 minute session, commissioners accepted with regret the resignation of H. Robert Ryerse from the City Plan Commission. Ryerse, on the Commission since 1956, said he had to resign since he had moved out of the city and was no longer qualified for it.

First reading, by title only, was held of a new city ordinance to redefine voting precinct boundaries to correlate with laws governing number of voters in each.

Willman promised a report on a new trophy manufacturing business being carried on in the old Sno-Boi factory, 23 Chamberlain St.

Public hearings were set for next Tuesday on construction of sanitary sewers on Harvey street from Ditmar to the south end of the street, and on Richmond avenue from Brooklyn avenue to the alley.

Commissioner Floyd P. Miles and other commissioners approved three assessment payments for a similiar project on Brooklyn avenue from Stanley to Richmond.

On Borrowed Time

NOTTINGHAM, England (UPI) —Robert Tait, 22, was disqualified yesterday from driving for two years. When he told the Magistrate's Court he did not have train fare home, the court postponed his suspension until he drove the 156 miles back to Newcastle.

Cancer Society Back in Detroit

Motor City Fund Group Terms It an Attempt to Hit Below the Belt

DETROIT (UP) — The American Cancer Society, which ousted its southeastern Michigan division for participating in Detroit's United Foundation torch drives, says it will open its own fund raising headquarters here.

John L. Swan, 32, of New York, who has moved to Detroit to serve as executive secretary of the society, and Dr. Harry M. Nelson, chairman of the ACS committee for southeastern Michigan, said yesterday the new headquarters will be opened within 10 days.

ACS officials said they didn't want a dispute with the Michigan Cancer Foundation — the name under which the ousted Michigan group continues to operate under United Foundation backing.

The ACS several months ago ordered its local affiliates across the nation to sever connections with UF groups. It said such foundation sponsored fund raising efforts had not been successful.

DETROIT AN EXCEPTION

The society later admitted that Detroit was an exception but refused to except Detroit from the order.

Officials of the Michigan Cancer Foundation said the ACS action was ill-advised and doubted whether it would succeed.

Walter C. Laidlaw, executive vice president of the United Foundation, called the action "an attempt to hit below the belt."

The new ACS office will have to operate on national funds until it conducts its first fund raising effort next April.

The Detroit Torch Drive will open its annual fund raising drive next month.

UF officials said they weren't worried about a drop in foundation revenues because of the ACS action.

Hastings May Purchase Building for City Hall

HASTINGS (UP) — City council is studying an offer to buy an insurance firm's building and two lots for $65,000 to use as a new Hastings City Hall.

Attorney Paul Siegel was instructed to plan for a bonding election on a proposed purchase from Hastings Mutual Insurance Co. The firm's two-story brick building is located across the street from the present city hall which was built in 1896.

Insurance firm officials said if the transaction is approved, their company would buy the bonds at less than current interest rates. The firm, celebrating its 75th anniversary next year, then would build a new Hastings home office as part of an expansion program.

Dr. D. M. Harris Heads State Health Officers

LANSING (UPI) — Dr. Donald M. Harris, director of the Branch-Hillsdale health department, is the new president of the Michigan Health Officers Association, the State Health Department announced Tuesday.

He succeeds Dr. C. E. Reddick, director of the Bay County Health Department.

Knew Burglar Alarm System

Toronto Thieves Smart to Grab Off 6 Paintings

TORONTO, Ont. (AP)—Officials expressed belief today that knowledge of the Toronto Art Gallery's burglar alarm system enabled thieves to make off with $640,000 worth of masterpieces.

"There were literally dozens of times when someone who didn't know how the system operated would have set it off," said the gallery director, Martin Baldwin.

★ ★ ★

During Monday night's robbery, one of the thieves tried to cut the center panel out of a fire door, apparently aware the alarm system would go off if the door was opened.

The thieves worked through the night, hacking six masterpieces from their frames and damaging two others.

Stolen were two Rembrandts valued at $150,000 and $250,000, two Frans Hals paintings worth $120,000 and $80,000, one Rubens at $20,000 and a Renoir at $20,000.

Slashed at the edges in an unsuccessful attempt to remove them from their frames were a Gainsborough valued at $450,000 and a Van Dyck, the value of which was not disclosed.

★ ★ ★

Royal Canadian Mounted Police and FBI agents joined in the search for the stolen pictures. Customs men on both sides of the border tightened checks at Niagara Falls, Fort Erie and Windsor.

★ ★ ★

Baldwin said he was confident they would turn up: "No one can steal paintings like these without getting his fingers burned."

Adult Education Helps

Ease Your Tensions at School

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Space age tensions got you jumpy? Then try going back to school this fall.

That's the opinion of National Education Assn. experts who help design and promote adult education courses.

They believe the program is essential to the personal well-being of Twentieth Century Americans.

The tensions for which these experts view adult education as a cure have little to do with the troubled world situation.

Ironically, they stem from a booming economy, an increasing amount of leisure time and just plain easy living.

★ ★ ★

Arthur C. Burman, Assistant Executive Secretary of the National Association of Public School Adult Educators, declares:

"A large segment of the American population have already obtained their economic goals. They have the material things that they want out of life. Sooner or later, they start asking themselves, 'Now what?' "

Burman says that many persons fail to develop enough interests outside of their jobs. When they become successful and don't have to work so hard, they don't know how to use free time.

Resulting restlessness often leads to tensions that can damage health and happiness. Doctors have implicated such tensions with heart disease and mental illness.

Sociologists blame them for divorce, crime and other social problems.

★ ★ ★

Burman explains that establishing more courses and encouraging increased participation in them would help broaden adults interests so they could make better use of free time.

He believes the courses should include all academic subjects in addition to hobby courses that are already widespread.

Agreeing with him is Adult Education consultant Bill Van Orman. He believes more courses are needed for millions of retired persons. Fifteen million Americans already have retired or plan to do so in the near future. Many are completely bewildered about how to adapt themselves to their new life.

★ ★ ★

Burman believes special courses for retired workers should include tips on how to live on a retirement income and how to maintain proper health. They also should be taught hobbies to help make proper use of leisure time.

Such courses already are being sponsored by public school systems of several New York cities. Others, aimed at workers who are nearing retirement age, have been started by industrial firms.

Another group of Americans which the experts believe would benefit from an adult education expansion program are the nation's 10 million illiterates.

This covers all persons who have no more than a fourth grade education. The education association officials explain that reducing illiteracy is important in maintaining a strong nation.

★ ★ ★

About 40 million Americans already are taking part in adult education. Courses are sponsored by colleges, public school systems, government departments and private and civic organizations. Teaching techniques include television, correspondence courses and classroom instruction.

★ ★ ★

As an example of the variety of subjects offered, educators point to courses recently started. They include:

A course on space travel in Joliet, Ill.

A course on state government and politics for new members of the Minnesota legislature.

A course on civic responsibility in Baltimore, Md.

★ ★ ★

A course, sponsored by several farm organizations, on the relation of world affairs to farm markets.

WOMEN IN A MILLINERY course are typical of the 40 million Americans now taking part in adult education.

Dutch Defense Costs to Establish Record

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—Military and civil defense will cost the Netherlands a record 1,702,000,000 guilders (450 million dollars) in the next fiscal year, according to the budget introduced in parliament Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

A total revenue of 8,280,000,000 guilders ($1,180,000,000), it was estimated, will leave a deficit of 951 million guilders (250) million dollars).

Has Little Arable Land

Japan has only about 15 million acres of arable land.

World corn production in 1958 is estimated at a record 7,300,000,000 bushels.

Shutdown Costs State $60,000

Vocational School Is Delayed by Shortage of Progress Payments

LANSING (AP)—A shutdown of work on the new Boys Vocational School at Whitmore Lake already has cost the state at least $60,000, Aud. Gen. Frank S. Szymanski reported Tuesday.

Work was halted July 9 after contractors protested that the state was more than $200,000 behind in progress payments. They said they could not afford to continue.

Szymanski appraised the resulting expense in presenting a suspension agreement to the state administrative board.

The board approved the contract which spells out state obligations to the contractors while the project remains on a standby basis. It also covers close-down expenditures and project reopening costs.

★ ★ ★

Szymanski said the main items covered were costs of boarding up partially completed buildings, insurance, supervision of close-down and reopening operations, five per cent interest on unpaid invoices and watchman expense.

Nothing was included for special work on the case required of the attorney general's office and the state department of administration. This would run between $5,000 and $10,000, he said.

"The cost to the state will continue to run up unless more funds are provided. These figures are what it would cost the state if the legislature approved more money tomorrow," he said.

★ ★ ★

Money to resume work is provided in the 17 million dollar capital outlay bill for 1959-60, still awaiting a final legislative okay.

Try to Display Flags Picturing Bones for Nikita

WASHINGTON (AP) — A couple who gave their names as Robert and Hope Stevens, both 32, of Leesburg, Va., tried Tuesday to display flags picturing skulls and crossbones on the parade route of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev. They were hustled away by police.

Stevens identified himself to a reporter as a son of former secretary of war Robert T. Stevens. He said he felt the Khrushchev visit was something to be mourned, and added "we're being run off the street for what we believe."

★ ★ ★

A police sergeant grabbed Stevens and walked him a block away from where he had been standing but did not arrest him.

Nikita Gets Subscription to Grand Haven Paper

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is being made an honorary subscriber of the Grand Haven Daily Tribune for the duration of his United States tour.

The newspaper is being mailed directly to him at the Russian Embassy in Washington with the publishers' compliments.

★ ★ ★

"Maybe the Soviet premier will be interested in the coverage he is getting here in the heartland of America," said editor Almon W. McCall.

Judge Lays Down Law to Justices

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Circuit Judge James R. Breakey Jr. Tuesday laid down a set of strict rules for Washtenaw County municipal judges and justices of the peace to follow, including the holding of night court at 10:30 p.m. on Saturdays.

Judge Breakey acted under a 1908 law, which he says gives circuit courts supervisory powers over municipal and justice courts.

★ ★ ★

The state bar judicial procedures committee is expected to recommend at the bar's convention Sept. 24 that it urge all circuit judges to institute rules similar to those made effective today by Breakey.

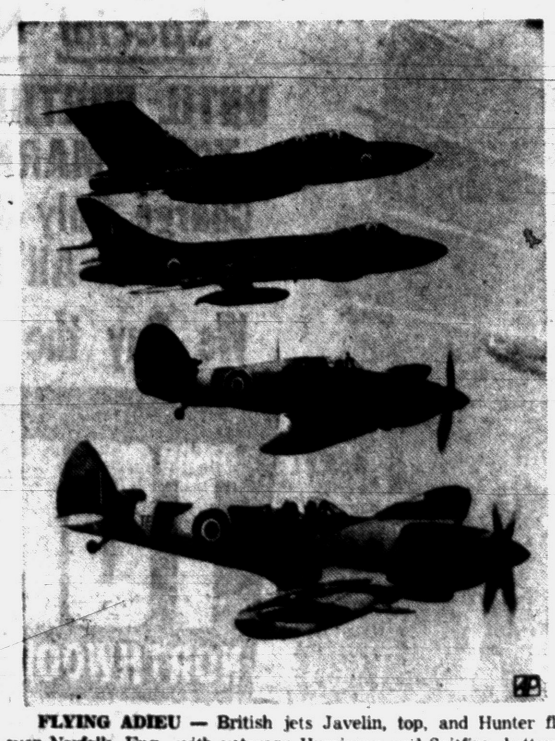
Russian Embassy Children Hold Grandstand Seats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three little girls and a boy had real grandstand seats for the arrival Tuesday of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

★ ★ ★

They were allowed to perch themselves on the official reviewing stand ahead of the premier's arrival. They were favored because they are children of Russian Embassy officials and among them they had six enormous bouquets of American Beauty roses to present to the arriving Russians.

They were Galina Smyrnovsky, 10, Nadya Filipov, 11, Galya Zhuravlev, 10, and Igor Osepov.



FLYING ADIEU — British jets Javelin, top, and Hunter fly over Norfolk, Eng., with veterans Hurricane and Spitfire, bottom. Prop craft are to be retired.

U. of M. Cancer Institute Plans Annual Retreat

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The University of Michigan cancer research institute will hold its sixth annual cancer retreat at Baldwin Sept. 18-20.

Several of the nation's leading cancer specialists will appear as guest speakers, the university said.

The retreat is intended to permit research workers to share ideas and experiences. Discussions this year will center on fundamental abnormalities occurring in the chemistry and genetics of cancer cells.

About one - fifth of all state employes are normally engaged in the construction of new highways or maintaining the existing ones.

Chrysler Parts Depot to Open in Antwerp

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP)—A spare part depot of Chrysler Products will be opened here, Robert A. Winger, regional executive of S. A. Chrysler International, said Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

The depot will serve Europe, the Middle East and North and Central Africa.

★ ★ ★

Chrysler assembly line operations are being transferred from Antwerp to Rotterdam, Holland, where Chrysler International has acquired a new plant in which Simca cars are assembled. Chrysler owns a part of Simca.

Child Study Club Meets for Tea

Pontiac Press Photos

Junior Unit Marking 30th Year

Mrs. Adolph H. Magnus of Brookside drive in Bloomfield Hills was hostess for the 30th anniversary tea of the Junior Child Study Club Tuesday afternoon. Her cohostess was Mrs. Hugh Hales, assisted by Mrs. Edward H. Vieriech, Mrs. Allan Denham, Mrs. Donald O. Newman, and Mrs. Peter Aldo.

★ ★ ★

Following the tea Mrs. Leslie Ware, gresident, announced that the group's theme for the year is "Better Homes and Safer Living."

Mrs. Magnus, program chairman, gave a resume of the past 30 years of the club.

She also reported that a program, "Hi-Lites" of the year, will feature a conducted tour through Michigan State University Oakland on Oct. 27.

★ ★ ★

Additional plans include a Christmas luncheon to be held Dec. 15 at Fox and Hounds and an exchange student panel on Jan. 19, 1960.

Past presidents attending the tea were Mrs. William McClure, Mrs. G. R. Sayers, Mrs. Frank Moreau and Mrs. Neil Gray. Mrs. Magnus is also a past president.

Mrs. McClure and Mrs. Moreau presided at the tea table.

We Must Be Crazy

Even Our Fruit Juicers Have Fins

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK (UPI)—We Americans have become so car-crazy that we want everything to look like an auto, says an industrial designer.

"Vacuum cleaners have tail fins, fruit juicers have tail fins, and so do outboard motors," said J. Gordon Lippincott, who is a partner and co-founder of a design firm here.

"That's just the first of a long list of design cliches which are derivative of auto styling but not always appropriate to the function of the product," he added. "Look at the run of ads for small appliances in any magazine or newspaper.

★ ★ ★

"Time was, when radiator grills were found only on the front end of the family transportation. Now you find the same motif on everything from gas heaters to radios. Chrome strips and two-tone color jobs are just as common."

Who is at fault — consumers or designers?

★ ★ ★

"Both," Lippincott said. "Americans are primarily interested in Active Products—products that, like the automobile and the airplane, go places and get things done."

BLAME SOCIETY

Our society determines taste, the designer continued. In the middle ages, people primarily were interested in spiritual values and the life to come. Their creative energies went into Gothic churches and illuminated manuscripts.

"While we of 20th century America haven't totally abandoned the contemplative, our aims are different. The more things a given product does and the more efficiently it does them, the more we admire it," he said.

★ ★ ★

Automobiles, phonographs and household appliances are essentially a coordinated blend of many of the same mechanical processes, he explained. So it's natural that their visual appearances reflect this.

But designers also must shoulder some blame for falling into "unnecessary ruts" just because they think "people will insist on an air-conditioner that looks like a box in the window or a car that looks the way cars have always looked," Lippincott said.

★ ★ ★

"Who knows? Someday we may have a car with the four wheels in different positions or an air-conditioner that looks like a room divider of graceful sculpture," he concluded.

Installation Is Scheduled

Pontiac Chapter 228 Order of Eastern Star, met for the first meeting of the season Monday evening at the Masonic Temple. Mrs. Theodore Marchbanks, worthy matron, presided and annouced that a semi-public installation for new officers will be held Oct. 26 at 8 p.m. in Roosevelt Temple.

Mrs. Clarence Curry assisted by Mrs. Ambrose Powers and Mrs. Richard Young served refreshments.

★ ★ ★

Sixty-two members and guests were present for the draping of the altar and charter in memory of Charles Cross, past grand patron of the Grand chapter of Michigan OES, Estella Slavin and Wineford Humphries of Pontiac chapter 228 OES.

On Sept. 28 a service will be held at 7:30 p.m. in memory of all members who have died during the past year. Their families and friends are invited to attend.

★ ★ ★

The worthy matron and worthy patron will honor their officers and committees of 1958-59 with a dinner at 6:30 p.m., Sept. 26 at the Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building. Reservations should be made as soon as possible.

Mrs. Marchbanks, Robert Calvary, Clarence Curry and Frank Gooden have been invited to visit Ovid chapter Sept. 22 to take part in the initiation.

Harriet Rose Meyers and Robert Stanley Dunsky were married Tuesday evening at Hotel Sheraton-Cadillac. Their parents are Dr. and Mrs. M. P. Meyers and Mr. and Mrs. David Dunsky.

MRS. ROBERT S. DUNSKY

Couple Speak Vows in the Crystal Ballroom

Harriet Rose Meyers, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Philip Meyers of Detroit and Robert Stanley Dunsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Dunsky of Waterford Township and Detroit were married Tuesday evening in the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Sheraton-Cadillac. The couple spoke their vows before Rabbi Morris Adler and Rabbi Jacob Segal.

★ ★ ★

The bride was dressed in a gown of bridal white bouquet taffeta with Alencon lace. The pearl-studded lace appliqued bodice featured a bertha collar and long sleeves. The full hoop skirt formed a chapel train and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis and Amazon lilies. Her fingertip, two-tiered veil of Elizabethan illusion was held by a Juliet cap outlined in pearls. The cap had been worn by her matron of honor, Mrs. Samuel Millstone of Gettysburg, S. D. at her wedding last December.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Walter J. Rubiner of Southfield and Sandra White of Birmingham. All the attendants wore dresses of peacock blue chiffon over taffeta with jewelry necklines. The dance length skirts featured pleats at the sides and backs. The attendants wore matching headdresses and carried bronze Fugi chrysanthemums.

★ ★ ★

Bert Bez of Detroit was best man. Ushers were Joel Dunsky, C. Robert Wartell, both of Detroit, Marshall Badt of Coloma and Sheldon Schwartz of Southfield.

Following a reception, the couple left for Carmel-by-the-Sea and San Francisco, Calif. for their honeymoon. They will live in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Meyers wore a gown of sapphire blue Chantilly lace and peau de soie with long sleeves and a high neckline. She wore a lace and peau de soie headpiece and matching accessories. Mrs. Dunsky wore a dress of Alencon lace over mauve satin with cap sleeves and a V-neckline. She wore matching accessories. Both had white cymbidium orchids pinned to their purses.

Thorne-Freeman Rites Repeated at Gingellville

Before an altar decorated with white gladioli and candelabra, Mildren Louise Freeman married Russell Elmer Thorne in a double-ring candlelight ceremony Saturday evening at Gingellville Baptist Church.

The Rev. C. L. Hawthorne performed the rites before 400 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Freeman of Georgia drive and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Thorne of Washington street.

The bride wore a full length gown of embroidered tulle over white taffeta with a lace panel down the front and long pointed sleeves. The skirt was tiered in back and fell in a chapel train. A double crown of iridescent sequins and pearls held her finger tip veil of French silk illusion.

WHITE ORCHID

She carried a white orchid on a prayer book, with feathered carnations and lily of the valley streamers.

★ ★ ★

Pauline Freeman, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of rose silk organza featuring a half cummerbund and a butterfly bow of rose satin in the back. She wore a rose tiara of seed pearls and carnations dyed to match her ensemble in a cascade arrangement.

★ ★ ★

Ruth Freeman, another sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, as were two cousins Kay Hayward and Gene Morrison. They wore gowns and tiaras similar to the maid of honor, but in emerald green organza.

★ ★ ★

Flower girl Carol Davis wore a light pink floor length dress and a carnation headband. James Davis was ring bearer.

Royce Davis was best man. Ushers were Joe Hayward, of Drayton Plains, James Freeman, Jerol Hamilton, Clayton Carter, Ken Freeman, all of Pontiac, and Sam Story of Lake Orion.

MRS. RUSSELL THORNE

Following a reception in the church parlors, the bride changed to a green wool suit with a white collar and gray accessories. She carried the white orchid from her wedding bouquet.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Freeman wore a beige lace sheath dress with moss green accessories and a yellow orchid corsage. Mrs. Thorne wore a blue lace dress with navy accessories and a yellow orchid.

Card Benefit Is Planned by Panhellenics

Plans for a benefit card party were initiated when the Pontiac City Panhellenic Association held its September meeting Monday at the home of Mrs. Richard Kuhn, president, of Gateway drive.

Proceeds of the affair will benefit the annual scholarship given each year to a Pontiac area girl attending college.

★ ★ ★

The organization's October meeting will be a "Guest Night" program to be held at the home of Mrs. W. Hudson Ragsdale on Loch Lomond street, Birmingham. Any young woman who has been affiliated with a national collegiate sorority has been invited to attend the meeting.

Hostesses Mrs. Robert Passineau and Mrs. Robert Anderson served refreshments at Monday's meeting.

Beth Jacob Sisterhood Holds Tea

Sisterhood of Temple Beth Jacob officially opened the season Tuesday afternoon with its annual silver tea and regular meeting.

Rabbi Nathan Hershfield of the temple extended greetings and a program of Hebrew music through the holidays was presented by Mrs. James Rosenthal. Mrs. Martin Kabcenell was program chairman and Mrs. Charles Gersten is president of the Sisterhood.

On the Silver Tea committee were Mrs. Ben Swimmer, chairman; Mrs. Harold Goldberg, cochairman; Mrs. Sidney Barnett, Mrs. Charles Golde, Mrs. Irving Gordon and Mrs. Abe Zamek.

Mrs. Hershfield and Mrs. Herman Stenbuck also took part.

Poised Before Spectators

Mrs. K. Fresh Upon Arrival

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Mrs. Nina Petrovna Khrushchev looked fresh and collected upon her arrival Tuesday despite a tiring 12-hour jet flight from Moscow.

Mrs. Khrushchev was poised and smiling as she walked with her husband from the giant Russian TU114 plane which brought them to this country.

President Eisenhower greeted the Russian first lady with the words "I am delighted to meet you." But Mrs. Eisenhower was not on hand to greet her.

No slight was intended. Mrs. Eisenhower was merely following her practice, observed even when Queen Elizabeth made her state visit two years ago, of first greeting foreign dignitaries at the White House.

The grandmotherly wife of Russia's premier broke into a wide smile when one of the Russian embassy children, following the Russian custom handed her a big bunch of red roses at the airport.

Mrs. Khrushchev sat to the President's left in the rear of an open limousine for the drive into town. She smiled and waved continually to the crowds.

Mrs. Khrushchev and her family apparently did not expect the Indian summer weather which greeted them on their first visit to this country. They were dressed in fall attire.

Mrs. Khrushchev was wearing a heavy blue-gray suit, sober black hat and black shoes.

Mrs. Khrushchev and her daughters, 42-year-old Yulia and 29-year-old Rada, drew considerable interest from the spectators who watched their arrival.

One young woman in a light yellow summer dress said while waiting on a streetcorner for the motorcade to appear, "I am not interested in Khrushchev. I want to see his wife. They say she never wears a hat."

Variety of Art Forms Opens Group's Season

Stages in the development of murals in the Penobscot Building in Detroit, inspirational sketches of a ceramic sculpture that won first prize in the United Nations garden contest and a series of exhibits in every imaginable form of art highlighted the opening of the Bloomfield Art Association's fall season Sunday. The premiere of the show included displays from each of the association's nine instructors.

A painting and drawings for five murals by Clifford West are on exhibit. Stressing the value of art in city planning, West illustrates how a commission can become a heritage.

★ ★ ★

Svea Kline, who created a tile mural at the Detroit Broach Company in Rochester, is showing sketches of it and also "Girl With Peach Bird," a ceramic sculpture that won first prize in the UN garden contest.

Dorothy Siddall is showing a number of still life arrangements from which she has painted abstract canvases.

Other instructors showing their work are Albert Mullen, Walter Ludwig, Kathleen Birch, Mary Jane Bigler, Mildred Williams and dancer Claire Levine.

UNMATTED ART

A permanent feature of the association will be a portfolio of unmatted art that is for sale to the public. Its contents will vary from month to month and will include watercolors, prints, drawings, casein, and gouache and photographs.

Artists who will contribute to this portfolio are Joseph and Ray DeFrancisco, Frederick Simmper, Albert Mullen, Carolyn Hall, Susan Bolt, Dorothy Siddall, Jane Kilgour, Mary Ellen Dohrs, Svea Kline and the Birmingham Women Painters.

Mrs. Al E. Sanders and Mrs. L. Jerome Fink were chairmen of the show. Assisting them were Mrs. Joseph Oros and Mrs. James L. Coquillard.

Child Growth to Be MSU Prof's Topic

Dr. Guy Hill of Michigan State University will speak on the question, "What Can We Do to Help Our Child Grow Up?" at the Central Elementary School PTA meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. The group will meet in the school's multipurpose room.

All present members and those interested in becoming members have been invited to attend the meeting and to assist the PTA in developing a closer relationship between parent, teacher and student. Fathers especially have been invited to attend.

Refreshments will be served following the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin D'Arcy of North Anderson street announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon, to Air Force Lt. Winston Boyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Boyer of Myrtle street. An October wedding is planned.

Nikita Gets Formal Service

Dinner on Gold Plates

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, made no concession to American standards of formal dress, at turkey and more than the usual trimmings Tuesday night at a White House state dinner.

Although the affair was as formal as Washington can get, Khrushchev arrived wearing a black business suit and a gray silk four-in-hand tie.

He appeared to be wearing the same suit, shirt and tie that he had on earlier in the day. At least they looked alike.

The Russian visitors mingled with a group of dinner guests as varied as the White House could make it—from the mayor of Des Moines, Iowa, to the president of the New York Stock Exchange.

ON GOLD SERVICE

The elaborate dinner on the White House gold service was followed by a musicale featuring more Americana for the Russian leader — a performance by Fred Waring and his "Pennsylvanians" singing old-time and familiar American songs.

Sitting at the head of the big E-shaped table with President and Mrs. Eisenhower, the premier and his wife enjoyed a turkey dinner made elaborate to fit the formal occasion.

Leading off was melon with prosciutto ham followed by curry soup with whole wheat Melba toast. Then came molded crab Louis with cole slaw in a tomato basket and Boston brown bread sandwiches.

20 RUSSIANS INVITED

The roast young turkey came next, accompanied by corn bread dressing, gravy, whole cranberry sauce, scalloped sweet potatoes and pineapple, French green beans almondine, and bread sticks.

Tossed bibb lettuce Parmesan topped by "Green Goddess" dressing and toasted sesame crackers followed the turkey and, in the last spot, came lime glace with lady fingers, and nuts, candies and coffee.

★ ★ ★

Twenty Russians were included in the dinner for 100, including the Khrushchevs' son, two daughters and son-in-law, the Russian ambassador, a group of Russian officials and a Soviet newsman.

★ ★ ★

Also present were Vice President and Mrs. Richard Nixon and Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn. Other members from Congress were Republican Sen. Hiram L. Fong and Democratic Rep. Daniel K. Inouye, both of the new state of Hawaii.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover and Allen W. Dulles, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency—two men most concerned with combatting communism —also were guests.

No Coffee Breaks

Never Neglect Exercise

How would you like to do this on your coffee break—exercise! In Russia, instead of coffee breaks there are exercise breaks lasting from five to seven minutes, and it has been proven that they lessen fatigue and increase productivity.

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Yesterday I mentioned my recent visit to the Russian Exhibit at the Coliseum in New York City where I interviewed some of the people who were here from Moscow. I was interested in learning about the sports they enjoy and their program of Physical Culture.

Football is their most popular game. This is not like out football but like our soccer. This is literally a game of the masses. Practically every school, factory and village in the Soviet Union; has its own team. More than a million players take part regularly in official games.

Make no mistake about it, the Russians have an extensive physical fitness program and they take it seriously. The Soviet Union is constantly increasing the sums it spends on this. Physical fitness is considered a matter of great national importance and it encompasses all age groups.

There are two branches of Physical Culture in the Soviet Union. There is the official or state branch and there is also the voluntary branch. I have been informed that the number of factory and office workers who take part in sports increased by almost four million during 1956 alone.

Instead of coffee breaks there are exercise breaks in many of the factories of the Soviet Union. These last from five to seven minutes and it has been proven that they lessen fatigue and increase productivity.

BGTO BADGE

To show you how imbued the Russians are with this idea I will tell you that school boys try hard to get the BGTO badge which gets its name from the Russian words which mean "Be ready for Labor and Defense."

The Russians do not play golf but they ski and skate and play football, tennis, and ping pong.

When I thing of all the conveniences we have and of all the cars we have — when I remember that our teenagers don't like to walk a mile unless they are running a mile in competition — I am convinced that we have a great need for our President's Physical Fitness program

Five Concerts Scheduled by Cranbrook Guild

Robert Gerle, Hungarian violinist, will perform at the first concert of the Cranbrook Music Guild's winter series Oct. 24.

The series of five concerts continues with the traditional Young Artists Concert Nov. 21 featuring winners of 1959 Grinpell Scholarships. Iris Bala, mezzo-soprano winner of the 1959 operatic scholarship, and Karen Louise Taylor, winner of the 1959 piano scholarship, will perform.

* * *

For the third concert on Jan. 26, the Guild has scheduled the Detroit Symphony Wind Quintet. Composed of Detroit Symphony soloists, this group has made numerous appearances in the Detroit area and was a star attraction at Cranbrook Gardens Summer Music Festival this year.

The Netherlands String Quartet will appear at the Feb. 23 concert. This will be the only local appearance for these virtuoso musicians, all members of the famed Amsterdam Concertgebouw Orchestra.

* * *

The final concert of April 26 brings back Mischa Kottler, Detroit's well known concert pianist. This will be his second appearance with the Music Guild.

This final program will be held in Kingswood School Auditorium while the first four concerts will take place at Cranbrook House.

Understanding of Problems Comes Slowly

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

The son of a divorced mother fell in love with a girl of different religious faith and announced his intention of marrying her.

As she told me herself, his mother fought the plan in every way she could. She first refused to meet the girl. Then she agreed to meet her, but unable to control her resentment, treated her so badly that she was ashamed to meet her again.

She warned her boy of the misery ahead when his views on duty, God and sin came into conflict with his wife's and would make the training of their children an endless argument. Finally, he quietly married the girl—and his distraught mother removed herself from the intolerable situation by taking an ocean voyage.

As soon as she departed, she found herself overwhelmed with memories of other inconsiderate people in her life.

She recalled how her mother, who had favored her younger sister, had once loaned the sister her new belt without asking her permission. She remembered the aunt who was always threateing her with God's wrath if she failed to "love" her sister. She remembered her husband's infidelity and his habit of delaying his support checks in order to make her ask for them.

And so for some time she took to her cabin with what she thought was seasickness.

One morning as she was reclining pale and weak in her deck chair, she said half aloud to herself, "They never—any of them, considered my feelings." And at once she knew with absolute certainty that she had expressed a protest of profound importance to her life.

She was right. Gradually her realization spread until she saw that the intensity of her resentment at the child who had married without considering her feelings belonged not to him but to other important people who had disregarded them. And she began to understand the inappropriateness of her anger at him.

At her trip's end she became engaged to the man to whom she is now happily married.

Perhaps her experience may have meaning for a Mrs. F. who writes, "My daughter who attended Methodist Sunday school is planning to marry a Jewish boy. When I asked her how she expected him to join in family celebrations at Christmas and Easter, she said she didn't expect him to. My heart is broken. I have lost my child."

MOMS Plan Fall Supper

Mrs. Leander Arnold was hostess Wednesday afternoon at her home on North Opdyke road to MOMS of America Unit 21 of Galloway Lake. Mrs. George Scheppleman was co-hostess for the luncheon.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Earl Kaul and Mrs. Oscar Bouck took part in the program. Plans were made for the fall supper and bazaar and for the unit's visit to Howell Sanatorium for Veterans.

Names were drawn for monthly hostesses for the coming year. The next meeting will be at Mrs. Bouck's home on Pontiac road.

Methodist Group Meets Thursday

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church held a business meeting Thursday morning at the church parlors. A luncheon followed the executive meeting.

Mrs. Dudley Colby led the worship service and Mrs. Chester Caughell was program chairman for the day.

Some of the members plan to attend a seminar this week at Owosso. W.S.C.S. circles will hold their meetings this week at the homes of various members.

Legion Auxiliary Meets Saturday

The auxiliary to the American Legion Chief Pontiac Post 377 held a meeting Saturday evening at the Post home.

Delegates to the fall conference were selected and Junior Activities Chairman, Mrs. Lewis Tate, showed dolls which the junior members will make as gifts

Hostesses were Mrs. Richard West and Mrs. Mitchell Rampart.

Zeta Eta Entertains

Zeta Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held a progressive dinner Tuesday evening to entertain its pledges.

The first course was held at the home of Mrs. Joe Galardi at North East boulevard. The main course was at Mrs. Richard Templeton's Ogemaw road home, and dessert was served at the home of Mrs. William Debniak in Drayton Plains.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Karl Dole, Mrs. E. W. Watchpocket, Mrs. John McDonald, Mrs. James Anthony and Mrs. William Motzny.

Mrs. Alfred Hutchinson, Drayton Plains, Mrs. Milton Reddeman of Oxbow Lake, and Mrs. Norman Davison of Clarkston (left to right) get right down to the business of rehearsing. Mrs. Reddeman and Mrs. Davison are charter members of the Pontiac Mothersingers.

Pontiac Press Photos

Getting into the swing of things are Mrs. Charles Chapman, left, Mrs. J. W. Maguire, pianist, and Mrs. Roy Parden. The three are rehearsing for the opening program of the Pontiac Mothersingers this fall.

Pontiac Mothersingers group is starting its 25th year as rehearsals get under way for fall and winter programs. Started in 1934 by Lylia Brewer Tabor with groups and McConnell and Wisner schools, the organization still has three of its charter members: Mrs. Sidney Fellows of Pontiac, Mrs. Milton Reddeman, Oxbow Lake, and Mrs. Norman Davison of Clarkston.

★ ★ ★

From a small beginning, the Mothersingers grew to 135 members in the first few years. In 1940 a triple trio sang every two weeks on a PTA program carried by a local radio station.

The main work for many years has been participation in the state convention of the PTA Congress.

★ ★ ★

The Mothersingers have entertained at PTA meetings, council meetings, church dedications, the World Day of Prayer, mother and daughter banquets, community clubs, childrens' programs and the tuberculosis sanatorium.

★ ★ ★

Members buy their own music and pay a director and accompanist. The director is Mrs. Charles Chapman and Mrs. Wayne Maguire is accompanist at the present time.

★ ★ ★

New members are always welcome. The only requirement is to be a member of some PTA group, and to want to sing and to meet socially with the others in the group.

Save Your Neighbors a Long Trip

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: We are planning to have an "unveiling of a monument" in memory of my husband's parents, which is a brief religious service at the cemetery usually attended by family and close friends. Then according to the custom, after the service, our guests will come to our house for refreshments.

"We live on a street where our neighbors are very friendly. A few of these neighbors have made it known that they would like to attend the service. In order to avoid hurt feelings, we feel that we should send invitations to our neighbors—about ten in all. However, we do not want them to feel obliged to come to the cemetery since a number of them may find it a hardship to come to the cemetery which is about twenty miles from here.

"Would it be proper to write a short note on the printed card giving information as to where the service will be held and the time, etc., to the effect that we would certainly understand if they do not make the trip to the cemetery and also that they will be welcome to stop at our house later?"

Answer: Your idea is entirely proper.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When the centerpiece on a dinner table is of fruit rather than flowers, isn't it proper for a guest to help himself, or herself to a piece of fruit after dessert? A friend of mine says it is not proper to disarrange the fruit and that it is purely for decoration. Is she right about this?"

Answer: If the fruit is so arranged that there is any danger of causing an avalanche of the rest by taking out one piece, don't risk it. If there is no such danger, you may help yourself.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am to be married shortly and a question has arisen as to who should pay for the liquor and other beverages served at the wedding reception. I have always believed that the bridegroom was supposed to pay this part of the expense, but have been told that this is definitely the bride's family's obligation. Will you please tell me if I am right."

Answer: I'm sorry, but you are wrong. The bride's family pays for all the expenses of the wedding reception.

August Group Holds Meeting

July-August group of First Presbyterian Church met Friday at the West Iroquois road home of Mrs. W. Hannon Hubbard. Cohostesses for the luncheon meeting were Mrs. Lola Kemp, Mrs. Clyde Underwood and Mrs. Harry Windiate.

Mrs. Hugh Little was named chairman of the nominating committee with Mrs. Leon Belknap and Mrs. Ted Koella Jr. assisting.

Mrs. Little and Mrs. Mary West took part in the program. Members are asked to turn in their experience money at the next meeting to be held Oct. 9 at the home of Mrs. Paul Maize of Davisburg. A rummage sale is planned for Oct. 17.

Alabama has had four capitals. In 1817 it was at St. Stephens; in 1820 it was Cahaba; in 1826 at Tuscaloosa. It was permanently established at Montgomery in 1846.

Abby Advises:

Let Your Silence Be Golden Instead of the Anniversary

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been married almost 20 years to a man who was married before. His first wife died about 30 years ago. Next month my husband would have been married to his first wife 50 years if she had lived. But she didn't live, you understand. She died.

ABBY

My husband wants us to celebrate his 50th wedding anniversary. I told him it was not proper as we have been married to each other for only 20 years. He said that 50 years of married life was 50 years of married life and it didn't matter who he started out with. He was finishing up with me. How can I stop him from making a fool of himself? We've been quarreling about this all month. CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: You are not "confused" . . . your husband is "confused." A wedding anniversary marks the number of years people have been married to each other. If you can't convince your husband of this fact, perhaps your clergyman can. Celebrate your 20th. The anniversary may not be golden — but your silence will be.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I are both 15. Lots of people think we are too young to talk about sex. Others think it isn't proper for a boy and a girl to discuss sex at all. But, Abby, we feel it is a big problem for lots of teenagers and it should be discussed together. Please give us your opinion. Are we right or wrong? R. or W.

DEAR R. or W.: A discussion of "sex" can be wholesome, illuminating and constructive only when an "authority" contributes to it. Two 15-year-olds cannot learn much in a discussion of this kind. When questions arise, ask an experienced adult (perhaps a parent or teacher) to guide the discussion and answer questions. Then you'll be sure the information is correct. There is nothing wrong with teenagers discussing sex in the presence of an enlightened adult.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am a respectable woman, 26, who had the wrong man when I was 19. My marriage lasted only one year but it seems that I must carry the stigma of this "disgrace" forever.

I've been going with a young man for the past two years. He has put off introducing me to his family until finally he ran out of excuses. He finally admitted that his mother wouldn't like me because she is against divorce.

I love this man, Abby, and I know he loves me. But I want to get married. What is a divorcee supposed to do? Kill herself? SANDRA

DEAR SANDRA: Is divorce against the religious principles of this man's family? If so, you are fighting a losing battle and you would be wise to give him up. If this is not the reason, your friend is simply not adult enough to face his mother with the facts, in which case you are lucky to know it now.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TRYING HARD": You married a man who is emotionally in knee-pants. But he is your husband. Lead him—do not push him.

★ ★ ★

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Every Teenager Wants To Know," send 25c and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to this paper.

Auxiliary Will Hold Membership Dinner

Plans for a membership dinner to be held at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 17 at the Post home were made at the meeting of Cook-Nelson Unit 20, Auxiliary to American Legion, Monday evening at the Post Hall.

★ ★ ★

There will be a reception for Girls State Oct. 19 at the Post home. Girls will report on their stay there.

The next district meeting will be at Cook-Nelson Post at 8:30 p.m. Oct. 2. The next membership meeting will be at 8 p.m. Sept. 21.

Win at Bridge

The Pontiac Duplicate Bridge Club met at the Elks Temple Monday evening with 13 tables in play. Winners were: Mr. and Mrs. Ericson Lewis; Mary Malchie and Harold Fineberg; Mrs. S. Holden Simons and Mrs. Ernest Clinton; M. K. Thompson and Hugh Anderson; Joseph Nouse and Al Wallace and Mrs. Thomas Hollis and Robert Shorey.

ALEXANDER H. SARROS

Son of Mrs. Afrodite Sarros of Palmer street, Alexander H. Sarros, received his bachelor of science degree in physics this summer from the University of Michigan. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Mother's Club Hears Welfare Report at Meet

A meeting of Pontiac Navy Mothers Club was held Thursday evening at the Naval Training center. Mrs. William Christie reported on welfare work done at Battle Creek and that a birthday gift had been sent to founder Mrs. Emma Jones in California who is confined to the hospital.

Mrs. Charles Bryson reported that flowers had been sent to two mothers who recently lost their babies.

★ ★ ★

The social meeting of the club will be held Sept. 25 at the South Shirley street home of Mrs. Loren Palen. The next business meeting will be Oct. 1 at the training center when plans for the turkey dinner will be made and tickets put on sale.

★ ★ ★

~~Home~~ Loan Advice Given

By FAYE HENLE
NEA Feature Writer

You've looked at other people's homes and now you're more convinced than ever that your abode doesn't sport just a lived-in look, but instead is falling apart at the seams.

This fall, you are going to modernize.

Sure you have read that it is tougher to borrow, and expensive. Perhaps you have also discovered that home prices are firm and mortgages costly, harder come by. So you are going ahead with improvements.

Here is counsel, not from builders that want to sell you a big job, but from bankers who have no great desire to finance your project because their loan business is booming. They say:

Don't be satisfied with doing a little at a time. Get the entire job done at once. Get several bids from reliable contractors. Shun, above all, the hourly rate. Insist on knowing what the entire job will cost.

When you know what the entire job will cost, you have the following choices for home improvement loans:

A conventional bank installment loan. The maximum amount you may borrow here usually is $2,500. The repayment period can almost always be extended to three years — to five years in some states. The cost will vary with the type of conventional loan you seek.

★ ★ ★

The choice here is between a secured loan, where the bank will accept some asset like your mortgage or securities as collateral, or an unsecured loan where you pledge nothing and the loan rate is somewhat higher. The cost of the loan also depends upon the length of the repayment period.

TYPE OF LOAN

Title I loan. This is granted by the Federal Housing Adimnistration. The maximum amount you can borrow under such an arrangement is $3,500 for up to five years for loans over $600. The interest charge is generally 5 per cent discount per $100 a year. Discount means that the full charges for the loan are deducted from the amount of the loan at the time that you borrow. Title I loans are limited to basic home improvements. They cannot apply to such a nicety as a swimming pool, for example.

★ ★ ★

If yours is an open-end mortgage you may be able to get additional funds on the same mortgage without taking out a separate loan. While the interest rate on the original mortgage remains constant, your monthly payments may be increased slightly to pay off the additional debt or the time of repayment extended beyond the original expiration date.

If your mortgage does not have an open-end clause, but you have been meeting your monthly payments, your lending institution may extend you another loan for improvements.

This in effect is a second mortgage which is usually consolidated with the first and results in a rewritten mortgage. This usually involves a new title search and other expenses, but your interest rate could be lower than under Title 1 or other short-term loans.

Shop for a home improvement loan just as I've been advising you to shop for any other loan. Check to see whether instead of the above methods of financing it might be cheaper, easier or better for you to get a personal loan from your bank, a credit union or a small loan company.

Cuban Against American Base

Says Guantanamo Bay Station Makes Area Target for Missiles

HAVANA (AP) — Dr. Ernesto Guevara, the Argentine-born lieutenant of Prime Minister Fidel Castro, said Monday night Cuba was in danger of being a target of nuclear weapons because of the presence of an American naval base on its soil.

Guevara, who recently returned from a four-month tour of African and Asian countries, said on a television program that Cuba was obligated by treaties to be on the side of the United States in event of war and "we stand only to lose."

Without mentioning the Soviet Union by name, he went on: "If they can hit the moon they surely can hit us. We have Guantanamo (the U.S. Navy base). We would only be a target."

Guevara approved the action of the union of Cuban restaurant, bar and hotel workers in refusing to serve Jules Dubois, the Chicago Tribune correspondent for Latin America, because his writings allegedly defamed the Castro revolution.

Guevara called Dubois a "jackal" and a "gossiper" and said he represented interests opposed to Castro's agrarian program.

Manistee Board Studies Election on Bond Issue

MANISTEE (AP) — A recommended Nov. 9 election on an $800,000 bond issue and millage assessment to finance a new county hospital was under study today by the Manistee County Board of Supervisors.

The present 90-year-old hospital on U.S. 31, two miles north of Manistee has been condemned by the state fire marshal's office for lack of an emergency fire sprinkler system. The supervisors' building study committee determined that renovations would be more costly than a new structure.

Better Meals Build Better Families

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

All this week and next you will be bombarded with the slogan, "Better Meals Build Better Families." The entire food industry and the newspapers of the country are cooperating in an effort to bring to your attention the importance of a good diet.

We are what we eat. The longer I work in the food field, the more impressed I am with that fact. Experts who are studying nutrition constantly find evidence to support it.

Never before has there been so much information available to the layman as there is now in the nutrition field. Anyone who cares enough to study up on what constitutes a good diet has her pick of half a dozen articles in magazines and newspapers.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has a "Food for Fitness Guide." Back in your grade school days you undoubtedly learned about the Seven Basic Foods that you should eat every day. These have now been regrouped into four: Milk group, Meat group, Vegetable - Fruit group and Bread-Cereal group.

Choose foods from each of the four groups for your pattern of daily menus and you WILL have a better family. Your teenagers will eat sensibly; father won't skip breakfast, only to gorge later in the morning on doughnuts and sweetrolls; mother will fix herself a good lunch even though she is alone every day; and the younger children will be healthier.

FOR EVERYONE

No matter what your income, you can have a well balanced diet. There are always low cost substitutes for expensive foods. No matter how little time you have, you can eat well; look at all the convenience foods on the market today. If you care enough about eating right, you can do it.

The food industry is more than happy to supply the raw materials for you. It is our job as a newspaper with a conscience to suggest some ways to make your job easier and to give you correct information.

As a starter, here's a recipe for a salad that can be a whole meal with the addition of a beverage and dessert. It not only has the usual fresh vegetables in it, but also elbow macaroni for heartiness and ham and cheese for protein. Start eating well today.

Hearty Luncheon Salad

1 tablespoon salt
2 quarts (13 cups) water
2 cups (8 ounces) elbow macaroni
1 envelope cheese-garlic salad dressing mix
1½ cups sliced celery
½ cup sliced carrots
¼ cup sliced radishes
1 medium green pepper, chopped
1 small onion, sliced
2 medium tomatoes, cut in eighths
Spinach leaves
½ pound sliced boiled ham, diced (or use about 2 cups of bite-size cubes of ham)
½ pound sliced processed American cheese, cut in thin strips
¼ cup mayonnaise

Bring salt and water to a boil in a 4-quart kettle. Gradually add the macaroni. Cook until tender, stirring occasionally. Drain macaroni, rinse with cold water and drain again.

Meanwhile, prepare salad dressing mix with vinegar, water and oil as directed on the envelope or cruet. Measure ⅓ cup and add to the drained macaroni. Allow to marinate several hours or overnight.

When ready to serve salad, drain macaroni, reserving dressing. Arrange macaroni, vegetables, ham and cheese in an attractive pattern on a large salad plate. Blend salad dressing drained from macaroni and an additional ¼ cup salad dressing with the mayonnaise. Serve over salad. Makes 8 entree salads.

Note: Salad may be tossed together, if desired. Combine marinated macaroni with dressing, the vegetables, ham and cheese in a salad bowl. Mix mayonnaise and ¼ cup salad dressing. Pour over salad ingredients and toss together. Serve on tender spinach leaves.

Pickle Drums Please

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eat—don't beat—these pickle drums. Cut ends off a dill pickle, and slice crosswise into 1-inch sections. Cut criss-cross slits on side of each pickle piece to resemble drum strings. Insert pimiento slices in slits. Place drums on toothpicks and use as a garnish for sandwiches or cold meats.

To Save Your Time

To make even hamburger patties, press raw meat into an empty, opened-ended milk carton and slice through the carton to the desired size.

CORNY BUT NICE—Corn on the cob is a treat that is truly American. It is a favorite with everyone. Serve it this summer with a little Tabasco sauce in the butter. Brush this on the hot corn.

Tabasco Butter Adds Zesty Taste to Corn

There's one thing that's best when it's "corny" and that's fresh corn! The abundance of this all-American vegetable is one of the nicest happenings of the summer months.

Lucky you are if you grow your own corn because then you can enjoy it really fresh. The sooner corn is cooked after picking, the better it is. Next best is to buy local corn and keep it cold and damp until you cook it.

To be sure corn is fresh, open the husks a little and inspect kernels. They should be firm but tiny, and spurt a milky substance when pierced. Don't remove husks until just before cooking time, and never overcook corn.

Butter is customarily served with corn. But the simple butter sauce can be vastly improved by the addition of Tabasco. The red pepper seasoning in liquid form is often used with vegetables because it is good in white, Hollandaise and Bearnaise sauces. Many people like to add small amount of Tabasco directly to the water in which they cook vegetables.

Directions follow for cooking corn and for combining interesting ingredients with Tabasco Butter Sauce so that you'll be able to eat lots of corn during its short season with no fear of monotony.

To cook corn, remove husks and silk from corn. Drop into salted, boiling water (1 teaspoon salt per quart water). Cook only enough corn to serve everyone at once. Cover; boil 5 to 6 minutes.

Tabasco Butter

⅛ teaspoon Tabasco
½ cup melted butter

Add Tabasco to melted butter. Use to brush on hot corn.

★ ★ ★

1 teaspoon fresh snipped chives
⅛ teaspoon curry powder
½ teaspoon thyme
⅛ teaspoon garlic salt

Egg Foo Young Perfect Dish for Luncheon

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor

If you never learn to prepare another Oriental dish, we beg you to consider trying the Chinese omelet called Egg Foo Young. So simple, thrifty, and interesting, capable of endless variations, and so possible to cook for two or 20, it's our idea of a perfect main dish for lunch.

★ ★ ★

This version of Egg Foo Young was patterned after that served in our favorite New York Chinatown restaurant. You'll need a six-inch skillet for it. In fact we use two such skillets on two burners of our gas range so we can cook a couple of the omelets at one time.

Sometimes Chinese cookbook recipes for the dish call for making it in a large frying pan of deep oil, but we find this small-skillet system easy to manage. In our method, we put just one tablespoon of corn oil into the skillet before each portion of the egg mixture.

The sauce to go with this omelet we pirated (and adapted) from Calvin Lee's wonderful "Chinese Cooking for American Kitchen" (Putnam) because after trying a number of similar recipes, his most pleased our tasters.

Fancy Egg Foo Young

4 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons thinly sliced celery
¼ cup French-style raw snap beans
¼ cup sliced raw or drained canned mushrooms
1 tablespoon thinly sliced scallion or shallot
2 tablespoons thinly sliced drained canned water chestnuts
¼ cup diced cooked chicken or shrimp
¼ cup corn oil

Beat eggs and salt until foamy—about 1 minute. Add vegetables and meat. Heat 1 tablespoon of the corn oil in a 6-inch skillet over low to medium heat.

Measure out a scant 1/3 cup of the egg mixture for an individual omelet and pour into heated oil in skillet. Cook until bottom surface is delicately brown; turn to cook on other side keeping heat medium or slightly lower.

Turn out omelet, drain lightly on absorbent paper. (Omelets may be stacked and kept warm in low-temperature oven or on grill.) Repeat for remaining 3 omelets, adding 1 tablespoon oil to skillet for each. Serve with rice and Calvin Lee's Egg Foo Young Gravy. Makes 2 main-dish or 4 first-course servings.

Egg Foo Young Gravy

1½ teaspoons cornstarch
½ cup cold water
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
½ teaspoon soy sauce

In a small saucepan stir the cornstarch until smooth with a couple tablespoons of the cold water; add rest of water and remaining ingredients. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until thickened and a clear light brown.

★ ★ ★

Allow to stand while making Egg Foo Young, then stir and reheat rapidly. Makes enough to serve with four 6-inch omelets.

Try Pudding, Bananas

Small-fry treat: chocolate pudding spooned over sliced bananas.

Cooked broccoli makes a colorful salad or first course when dressed with a mixture of 3 tablespoons olive oil, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 crushed or minced garlic clove, ¼ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Broccoli should be cooked until barely tender, still a little crisp. Serve topped with sieved egg yolk and strips of pimiento.

EXOTIC FARE — Egg Foo Young is the most popular Chinese egg dish in the United States, and you can learn to prepare it in your own home.

Make up your favorite spicy tomato aspic and chill. Flake with a fork and spoon into avocado halves for an elegant first course.

Newest Mustard Sauce Dresses Meat Salads

Since it's warm weather, why not try turning that leftover roast beef into a salad!

If Sunday's leftover roast yields 3 cups of cubed or julienne beef, combine it with juicy bits of kosher dill pickle, some chopped celery and onion. Then toss it lightly in a dressing of mayonnaise and the new mustard sauce that is on the market.

★ ★ ★

This sauce is a tangy, sweet-sour sauce, the idea for which was imported from Australia. It's of pour-on consistency, so it mixes well with other ingredients and easily coats the meats on which it is served.

Roast Beef Salad

3 cups cubed or julienned cooked beef
½ cup chopped kosher dill pickle
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
¼ cup bottled mustard sauce

Combine first 4 ingredients. Blend mayonnaise and mustard sauce. Mix lightly with meat mixture; chill. Serve in lettuce cups; garnish with pimiento or green pepper. Make 4-6 servings.

★ ★ ★

If your yield of leftover beef is smaller, you'll enjoy this recipe for Fresh Vegetable-Beef Salad. To cubed or julienne cooked beef, grated carrots, radishes and celery are added. Again, the new mustard sauce helps make an unusual salad dressing.

Fresh Vegetable-Beef Salad

2 cups cubed or julienned cooked beef
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup candied dill strips
½ cup coarsely grated carrots
½ cup chopped radishes
¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
¼ cup bottled mustard sauce
1 teaspoon salt

Combine first 5 ingredients. Blend mayonnaise and remaining ingredients. Mix lightly with meat mixture; chill. Serve on lettuce or romaine; garnish with radish rose or carrot curl. Makes 4-5 servings.

Unscorched Drippings

Save your bacon drippings and use them in cornbread. But be sure you cook your bacon over extremely low heat so the drippings will be a pale color, unscorched.

Big Tom Moves Into 3rd Round at Broadmoor

Birmingham Golfer Is 4 Under Par; 2 Other State Players Win

From Our Wire Services

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Tom Draper, former Michigan Amateur champion from Birmingham, and veteran Lou Wendrow of Lansing conquered 2nd round foes Tuesday in the U. S. Amateur Golf Championship at Broadmoor Golf Club.

The paunchy Draper, who won the State Amateur title in 1949, is making his Silver Anniversary appearance in the National Amateur tournament and thus far he's celebrating the occasion in bang-up style.

For the 2nd straight day, the 45-year-old Draper fired the best golf in the tourney as he eliminated Ronald Moore of Denver, 4-2, in the 2nd round of match play.

★ ★ ★

The slow-gaited Draper toured Broadmoor's front side in 32 strokes, four under par, to post the best nine-hole score by any player in the star-studded field.

While big Tom was disposing of Moore, Wendrow, another ex-Michigan Amateur king (1946), polished off Alfred Bell of Columbus, Ga., 1 up.

(Michigan's other surviving golfer, Frank Connolly of Gowanie, also advanced to today's 3rd round. Connolly, who drew a bye Monday, scored a 2-1 triumph over Frank Garvin of Englewood, N. J.

John Schubeck, a Detroiter who did not qualify in the Michigan sectional trials at Orchard Lake Country Club, lost to Lawrence Bell of Bethleham, Pa., 5-3. Schubeck was playing from Fort Knox, Ky.

Defending champion Charlie Coe, Bill Hyndman and some older golfing golfers also have been performing right well, but the real test for creaking bones begins today.

The grind steps up to two rounds a day on the mile-high, 7010-yard Broadmoor course. And from here on it will take stamina as well as savvy to beat the rarified atmosphere, long fairways and young hot shots.

Coe, the 45-year-old Walker Cup captain, and Hyndman, his 43-year-old teammate, scored the most impressive victories among the "name" players yesterday. Coe ousted John Mallery of Spokane, Wash., 6-5, with a two-under-par performance. Hyndman sidelined Bob Loufek of Rock Island, Ill., 6-5.

Dee Replogle, an unheralded 19-year-old Oklahoma oilman, pulled the greatest upset of the tourney to date. Replogle eliminated 21-year-old Deane Beman, U. S. Walker Cup member and British Amateur champ, with a stunning 4-3 victory.

Several NFL Veterans Are Cut From Rosters

From Our Wire Services

A handful of veterans and a hatful of rookies were given their walking papers yesterday when National Football League teams cut rosters to meet the 38-player limit.

★ ★ ★

Those who survived will not be able to breathe easily until next Tuesday when the squad is cut once more to meet the 36-player limit.

Among the players cut were such names as Babe Parilli of Green Bay, Len Lyles of the Baltimore Colts, Bob Riefsnyder of Los Angeles, Max Boydston of the Chicago Cards, and Dick Deschaine, kicking specialist of the Cleveland Browns.

The 49ers traded kicker Bobby Luna to Pittsburgh for a draft choice and San Francisco also cut quarterback Bobby Newman, its number two draft choice.

★ ★ ★

The Chicago Bears gave releases to linebackers Joe Robb of TCU and Rommie Laudd of UCLA and the Eagles placed waivers on quarterback Jim Grazione and Willmer Fowler, ex-Northwestern halfback.

WESTERN DIVISION

Baltimore—Lyles, halfback Jack Call, Colgate.

Los Angeles—Riefsnyder, halfback Jim Jones, Washington; tackle Byron Beans, Notre Dame; halfback Del Rogers, Fresno State; halfback Floyd Iglehart, Wiley, placed on reserve list.

San Francisco — Newman; linebacker Hogan Wharton, Houston; halfback Tom Osborne, Hastings. Linebacker Frank Geremia, Notre Dame.

Detroit—Gedman, tackle Dick Guesman, West Virginia; halfback George Gillar, Texas A&M; halfback Jim Wagstaff, Idaho State.

Green Bay—Parilli; halfback Alex Hawkins, South Carolina; tackle Tom Daldock; end Steve Mellinger, Kentucky, placed on reserved list.

Chicago Bears—End Rommie Loudd, UCLA; tackle Joe Robb, TCU.

EASTERN DIVISION

Cleveland — End Gene Cook, Toledo; halfback Harold Williams, Miami, Ohio; punter Dick Deschame, no college.

New York—End Howard Glenn, Linfield, Ore.

Washington — Fullback Stan Flowers, Georgia Tech; guards Jack Davis, Maryland, and Joe Nicely, West Virginia, placed on reserve list.

Pittsburgh — Tackle George Belotti, BYU; end R. K. Brown, Georgia; quarterback Dan Nolan, Lehigh. Linebacker Claude Billingsley, N. E. Oklahoma; fullback C. R. Roberts, Southern California; guard Bill Krisher, Oklahoma.

Philadelphia — Quarterback Jim Grazione, Villanova; tackle Nick Mumly, Purdue; halfback Willmer Fowler, Northwestern; center Mike Huddock, Miami, Fla.

Chicago Cardinals—Cut five players, will not be identified until season begins due to club policy.

New Englander Leads Sailors for Mallory Cup

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Robert Sides, Gloucester, Mass., held a four-point lead in Mallory Cup sailing competition today.

After the first three of eight races Sides and his crew maintained their lead over Harry C. Melges Jr. of Lake Geneva, Wis.

★ ★ ★

Melges won yesterday's first race in 1 hour and 25 minutes. Sides was runner up and then came back to take the day's second race in 2 hours and 25 minutes. Sides also was the winner of Monday's opening race.

Darkness forced cancellation of a third race.

POINTING TO THE FLAG? — Manager Al Lopez directed the Chicago White Sox to a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees yesterday and coupled with the Cleveland loss last night to Boston, 1-0, the Chisox went 5½ games in the lead. Lopez thought it was the crucial game in the drive but refused to comment on his pennant thoughts.

White Sox Hike AL Edge to 5½ Over Cleveland

Giants Increase Their Lead to 2 in NL Race With Dodgers, Braves

By United Press International

Get the champagne ready, Looie!

The White Sox may be asking you to pop the cork this weekend. And by that time, the Giants should let you know definitely one way or the other.

For the White Sox, it's virtually all over but the gala formality of celebrating their first pennant clinching in 40 years. Their "magic number" now is down to four and for those whose mathematics may be a bit rusty, it simply means the Sox can wrap up the whole business by Friday night.

That was made possible when Cleveland fell 5½ games behind last night by losing to Boston, 1-0, after the White Sox had won a 4-3 thriller from the Yankees.

The Giants are in good shape, too, although not quite in the commanding position the White Sox are. San Francisco is two games in front of both Milwaukee and Los Angeles, and the Giants meet the Braves in a two-game series at home starting today, then play host to the Dodgers in a three-game set.

Everything worked out perfectly for the Giants yesterday. They crushed the Reds, 13-6, while the Dodgers beat the Braves, 8-7, in 10 innings.

So now all the Giants need is a do-it-yourself kit, because no one is going to do it for them in their next five games with their two chief contendens. They're sending Sam Jones, their rubberarmed 20-game winner against Milwaukee today and the Braves are countering with a 20-game winner of their own, Lew Burdette.

The Giants hammered out 13 yesterday in routing the Reds. They shelled rookie Jay Hook with a five-run burst in the first inning and added three more in the second when Daryl Spencer homered with two on. Willie McCovey had three hits, including his 12th homer. Southpaw Mike McCormick was far from flawless, yielding 12 hits, but he went the distance to break a personal four-game losing streak and earn his 12th triumph.

Reliever Don McMahon walked in the winning run in the 10th inning to enable the Dodgers to climb back into a second-place tie with the Braves.

The Braves trailed 6-3 at one point but tied the score in the top of the ninth and went ahead in sacrifice fly scored Joe Adcock, who had homered earlier. Reliever Chuck Churn was the winner.

St. Louis Defeated Philadelphia, 6-4, in the only other N. L. game played. The game between the Cubs and Pirates was postponed because of cold weather.

The White Sox' victory over the Yankees marked the 34th game this season they won by one run. The White Sox scored three of their runs — including the winning one —with sacrifice flies to offset Mickey Mantle's 30th and 31st home runs. Then they killed a final Yankee threat and ended the game with a spectacular double play started by rightfielder Jim Rivera.

Left-hander Billy Pierce evened his record at 14-14 with help from Bob Shaw. Ralph Terry carried a 2-1 Yankee lead until the eighth when he was relieved by Whitey Ford, who turned out to be the loser.

Frank Malzone broke up a brilliant pitcher's battle between Tom Brewer of the Red Sox and Jim (Mudcat) Grant of the Indians. Malzone's ninth-inning single scored Pete Runnels from second base with the only run of the game. Brewer, now 10-11, allowed six hits as did Grant, who is now 9-7.

Washington and Kansas City split a twi-nighter, the Senators winning the opener, 1-0, on Camilo Pascual's three-hitter and the A's taking the nightcap, 6-2, on Johnny Kucks' five-hit effort.

Pascual struck out nine in the opener, bringing his season total to 167 — tops for a Washington pitcher since Walter Johnson fanned 188 in 1917.

Little Albie Just a Gridder at Heart

Pearson Kayoes Big, 'Bad' Lou Berberet in 11th

Ex-Linebacker D'rops Ball at Plate as Tigers Lose to Orioles, 2-1

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Little Albie Pearson of the Baltimore Orioles rammed into Tiger catcher Lou Berberet, a former football star, knocked the ball out of his hands and Detroit out of a victory yesterday.

The 145-pound Pearson bested the 215-pound ex-linebacker, Berberet, at the plate in the 11th inning of what had turned into a pitching contest between Paul Foytack and Hoyt Wilhelm. When the dust cleared at home plate, Pearson was safe and the Orioles won, 2-1.

It was loss No. 7 for Detroit in the last nine games, a slump that may drop them down into the second division. Baltimore moved into a fourth-place tie with Detroit via the win yesterday.

Disappointed Foytack walked off the mound with a 13-14 pitching record in spite of a seven-hit performance which was his steadiest in three weeks.

Wilhelm went to the showers with his 5th victory against 11 losses.

In that decisive collision at the plate, Pearson raced home from third on Gus Triandos' grounder to shortstop Ted Lepcio. The throw was a few feet ahead of the runner. In fact, umpire Hank Soar had thrown up his arm to signify "out."

There was a scramble. Berberet lost the ball. Down went the umpire and Pearson. It was all over. He was safe.

The miscue broke up the pitching duel. Wilhelm and Foytack each allowed one run in the first inning and then settled down to match frame for scoreless frame until the bottom of the 11th.

Wings Add Seattle Rookie to Roster

DETROIT (AP) The Detroit Red Wings have dipped once more into their minor league system for a hockey player they hope will add spark to the club's drive back toward the top of the National Hockey League.

★ ★ ★

The Wings have purchased left wing Val Fonteyne from their Seattle club in the Western Hockey League. Fonteyne, 25, who played every game for the Totems for the past four seasons and scored 108 goals, has been working out here in the Wings' camp.

★ ★ ★

He has been working on a line with center Jerry Melnyk and right wing Billy McNeill. Fonteyne, only 5-feet 9 and 160 pounds, scored 32 times last year as his club won the Western title.

1960 Dates Set for Harmsworth

TORONTO (AP) — Canada will make its first defense of the Harmsworth Trophy, emblematic of world speedboat racing supremacy, Aug. 19, 20, 22 next year on a Lake Ontario course off Picton, Ont.

The dates were announced tonight following a conference between Bob Finlayson, Canadian Boating Federation commodore and Mayor Harvey J. McFarland of Picton.

The trophy was brought to Canada for the first time last month when Miss Supertest III, owned and designed by Jim Thompson of London, Ont., set several records in upsetting the United States defender, Maverick, in two out of three heats on the Detroit River.

Eagles Cut Quarterback

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles trimmed their squad to the National Football League limit of 36 by dropping No. 3 quarterback Dick Jamieson.

Jamieson admitted he could not play the defensive halfback spot and we just could not afford the luxury of three quarterbacks," Coach Buck Shaw said.

Jamieson played football at Bradley University.

Golfing Powers Agree on Minor Rules Changes

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The United States Golf Assn. and the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews (Scotland), the world's two principal ruling bodies of golf, yesterday agreed upon a series of minor rules changes will allow players to clean balls on the putting green at any time and to repair ball marks on the green by any means except stepping on the damaged area.

★ ★ ★

Another change agreed upon by the two ruling bodies says that a ball may be replaced in its original position without penalty if it is moved when a player moves a loose impediment on the green. The previous rules calls for a one-stroke penalty and the ball to be payed as it lies.

Midget Football Program to Start This Saturday

The Midget football program sponsored by the Pontiac Recreation Dept. gets under way this weekend at many of the elementary schools throughout the school system.

The program of football is for boys 10 through 12 years of age. It is set up to provide a program of learning of fundamentals and sportsmanship and a basic understanding of the game under trained supervision and guidance.

The boys in the required age groups are divided into two weight classifications, the heavyweights and lightweight teams.

Lightweight team will be under 85 pounds. The heavyweight teams are boys between 85 and 125 pounds.

★ ★ ★

All boys must provide their own helmets, shoulder pads and tennis shoes.

The program runs through October 17th and it is climaxed on the night of the 17th by a Midget Night all-star game at Wisner Stadium. It is conducted on a local school level.

Under the present schedule boys from Alcott, Bagley, Bethune, Crofoot, Emerson, Franklin, Hawthorne, Herrington, LeBaron, Malkim, McConnell, Owen, Webster, Wever, Whittier and Wilson schools have supervision.

★ ★ ★

The program will take place after school and on Saturday mornings.

★ ★ ★

Boys who are not under any of the schools mentioned should report to Wisner Stadium Saturday morning at 9:00 a.m. Others will report to their own school teams.

All-Star Pin Points

KEEP BACKSWING LEVEL
By Ed Lubanski

We talk about the pushaway and now, in trying to talk about the backswing, you wind up with the same topic. The pushaway is that important.

The ball at its highest point during the backswing should be at shoulder level. No higher and not much lower. It should reach this point as you finish the third step.

If the ball isn't where it should be, the fault is in the pushaway. If the ball is too low, you have to use a heftier pushaway. Too high means the reverse. It is a simple thing to adjust. If you don't you're in constant trouble.

★ ★ ★

Acquiring the correct motion is nothing more than a matter of practice.

Keep the right arm straight all the way.

BREAKING EVEN — As Ed Lubanski shows, the backswing should go no higher than shoulder level and little lower.

High Stakes for Bout

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The stakes will be high for Eddie Machen and Willi Besmanoff when they meet tonight in a scheduled 10-round nationally televised (ABC, 10 p.m., EDT) heavyweight bout here.

Machen, a Portlander, is rated No. 4 among the heavyweights. He wants a return bout with world champion Ingemar Johansson who knocked him out and handed him his only defeat.

Says Grid Game's 'For Animals'

Knox Turns to Writing

TORONTO (AP)—Ronnie Knox, with a passion to become a poet and novelist, Tuesday proclaimed that football is a "game for animals."

Ronnie, who quit the Toronto Argonauts Monday night, flew to California with plans of finishing a novel in Paris, Spain, Venice or Mexico.

The 24-year-old quarterback, whose contract with the Argos called for $1,250 a game, turned his back on more than $11,000 he would have received if he had finishe dout the Big Four football season.

"I just had enough of the game," Knox said. "Money isn't everything and I decided I just couldn't continue. I've been playing football for 13 years now and I'm sick to the teeth of it. It's a game for animals and I like to think I'm above that. The better things in life interest me more."

His decision came as a surprise to Managing Director Lew Hayman and Coach Hamp Pool who tried to talk him into staying.

"I tried to pin him down to give a reason but he just talked in circles," said Hayman. "He's a pretty mixed up kid. It's a shame to see all that talent go to waste."

Wins Governor's Cup

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — The pennant-winning Springfield (Mass.) Giants Tuesday night won the Eastern League's Governor's Cup playoff by defeating Williamsport 4-3 before 503 cold fans. Springfield won the best-of-five series 3-1.

17 Horses Entered in Wolverine Race

DETROIT (AP)—A field of 17 horses has been entered for the $22,050 Brown Jug trial tomorrow night at the Wolverine Harness Raceway.

The trial for 3-year-old pacers will be run in two heats with the top five finishers in each heat coming back for a third.

Meadow Maid, owned by Delvin Miller of Meadow Lands, Pa., is rated the favorite in the first heat, ahead of Wonderful Time, owned by George Tipling of Cleveland, and King Scott, owned by Robert Iseman of Ford City, Pa.

Others entered in the first heat are Adios Forever, Ohio Time, Culver Pick, Time to Pace, and Royal G. Forbes.

Dearborn Woman Fires Hole-in-One at Morey's

Barbara Hammond of Dearborn yesterday became the 3rd golfer to score a hole-in-one at Morey's this year when she aced the 165-yard 7th hole on the white course.

Witnessing Miss Hammond's ace were June and Bob Hammond, also of Dearborn, and Pontiac's Ray Nikolai, who made Morey's 2nd hole-in-one of the season three weeks earlier.

END OF CAREER — The football career of Detroit Lions' halfback Gene Gedman is probably at its end. It is at least for this season. Gedman was given his release by the Lions after physicians advised him not to play football because of his injured knee.

Lions Release Vet Halfback and 3 Rookies

Knee Injury Refuses to Mend as Doctors Advise Retirement

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The football career of Detroit Lions' halfback Gene Gedman has probably reached its end.

The six-year veteran of the National Football League who came to the Lions via Indiana University was given his release yesterday after physicians at University Hospital in Ann Arbor advised him to retire for this year.

"We did not want to risk permanent injury to him so we gave him his release," said Lions' coach George Wilson.

Gedman is now available to be picked up by some other team but in view of his injury this appears unlikely.

★ ★ ★

The versatile back injured his knee in the next to the last game in 1958. He had surgery performed during the off-season but in training camp at Cranbrook the knee swelled during workouts.

Before his injury it was rumored several times that Gedman would be traded to the Pittsburgh Steelers. His home is in the Pittsburgh area, but he works in Detroit in the off-season.

Others released yesterday were George Gillar and Jim Wagstaff a pair of backs who were also handicapped most of the exhibition season with injuries. Lineman Dick Guesman is the other player released.

★ ★ ★

The Lions meanwhile prepared for their final exhibition game against the Washington Redskins Saturday night at Briggs Stadium.

Coach Wilson put the team through drills in the rain yesterday at Wayne State University's practice field after devoting Monday to moving out of the Cranbrook training site.

The Lions' squad is now down to 38 players, which is two over the limit which must be met by the regular season opener at Baltimore, Setpember 27th.

Dearborn 9 Advances in Amateur Tourney

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—Defending champion Glendale, Ohio, meets once-beaten Dearborn in a key fifth-round game today in the Eastern Division playoffs of the American Amateur Baseball Tournament.

Glendale captured its fourth straight victory last night with an 18-0 trouncing of previously undefeated Nashville.

In other fourth-round games yesterday, Tyndall Air Force Base of Florida eliminated Chicago 15-7, Dearborn eliminated Kalamazoo, Mich., 3-1, and Fort Wayne, Ind., eliminated Pittsfield, Mass., 10-2.

Weather Halts Tuesday Races

Unseasonable cold weather cancelled last night's program at the Pontiac Speedway, but the stock cars will race Friday at the track in their "Crashorama" program.

Ike Welch is considered top candidate to win the main event Friday.

★ ★ ★

Before the program was cancelled last night Mickey Katlin tied Joy Fair's one-lap track record in 16.1.

Next Tuesday the "Rusty Kelly Memorial" race has been scheduled at the track. Kelly, long time favorite of local race fans, was killed in a racing accident early last season at the Raceway in Toledo.

State Cyclists Win Two Events in Spartan Test

Michigan bicycle racers captured two of the three events in the recent series of runs held by the Spartan Bicycle club of Detroit.

State champion junior, Don Meyers of Detroit won the 10-Mile junior trial over a fast field, with Detroiter Larry Dickerson runnerup. Jeanne Melenchuk, a star ice-skater during the winter, took the women's three-mile race, defeating the national champion, Jeannie Specklin. Ruth Olsen of Detroit was third.

The 50-mile senior men's race was a hot contest, won by Bob Tetzlaff, from the U.S. Army California team, and a member of the recent U.S. Pan-Am road team. Willie Krow of Chicago was runnerup. Chicago's Dave Senechall was 3rd, George Van Metre (St. Louis, Pan-Am team member,) 4th and Karl Napper of Indianapolis, 5th. Tom Augustitis of Detroit was 7th.

Peterson Will Head Winter Sports Area

MANISTEE (UPI)—Leslie Peterson of Manistee has been appointed manager of the Manistee Winter Sports Area, it has been announced.

The Manistee Winter Sports Club said Peterson will replace Holland Capper.

Few Hunters in Fields First Day

Preserve Shooting Opens

By The Press Outdoors Editor

The sound of shotguns echoing about the area between Holly and Fenton, yesterday, signaled the beginning of the fall bird-shooting season. The blasts came from the Fayerweather Shooting Preserve, where about a dozen hunters tried out their reflexes on pheasants in the earliest start for licensed preserve shooting in many years.

This fall's preserve shooting is 47 days longer than a year ago. It started six weeks ahead of the Oct. 20 small game season, and several weeks ahead of the Oct. 7, waterfowl opener.

Although the number of shooters at Fayerweather farm was comparatively small, the opener satisfied the owner, W. A. Fayerweather.

FIRST DAY'S BAG 36 RINGNECKS

"We were afraid that the hot weather of last week would spoil the shooting, but when we experienced the change to cool temperatures, it changed the whole picture," Fayerweather said this morning.

Yesterday's bag totaled 36 birds, says the preserve operator. "That's a pretty good take," he added. "And they missed a few, too."

Fayerweather's dogs (he has a dozen or so, of several fine hunting breeds), worked well, at the opening.

★ ★ ★

Teh Holly area preserve is the only public, or semi-public shooting area in Oakland county. There are several private preserves in the section, also.

★ ★ ★

On the Fayerweather's rolling acres may be found a half dozen different types of shooting for the short-timed shotgunner who hasn't the leisure for a several days trip upstate, or one who is anxious to get in some target work ahead of the regular seasons.

There are the "regular" ringnecks, sturdy chukars, Asian (Cortunix) quail, a South African "pat" later on, and ducks. The preserve has some 3,000 pheasants which the shooter can take, at a cost of about $5 for each bird.

SECOND YEAR UNDER MICHIGAN REGULATIONS

The Fayerweather preserve, first to be licensed in Michigan, covers an area of around 400 acres.

★ ★ ★

This is the 2nd year for the 18 public and 22 private shooting preserves, most of them in southern Michigan. They have 47 more days of operation this fall, starting yesterday, and winding up March 31, 1960.

Preserve hunters must have a small game license (state residents), while a special permit is required for non-residents.

★ ★ ★

TRAGIC NOTE FOR DOG SHOW

A tragic note was injected in the recent Livonia Kennel club dog show, when the handler of a group of Shetland sheep dogs suffered a heart attack and died just before his entries were to be shown.

★ ★ ★

This area's winning Dane puppies (owned by the Hank Roberts Ravens Hill Kenenls), Sugarfoot and Suzie, continue to roll up blue ribbons, with firsts at Genesee Kennel show, seconds (Suzie's first time off the top this year) at Livonia. They are in the 6-9 months class, will be entered for the Oct. 4 Progressive Dog show, at the State Fair Grounds.

THE LITTERBUG'S STILL WITH US

There are still far too many persons who ride the state's (and Pontiac area) fine highways who have little regard for keeping the borders clean and attractive. On a recent Sunday motor jaunt over some attractive countryside, this observer counted many heaps fo refuse, and garbage, patently tossed from cars. Too few of these offenders against common decency are caught and penalized.

★ ★ ★

Seven years ago Ferndale's Grover W. Smith, downed his first deer with an arrow. He has taken his deer each season since by the same means, and will be back in the Michigan woods this fall. He has also taken several black bears, the 470-pounder, last fall, being the largest recorded in the state for a bowhunter. His methods for bowhunting provided a very interesting article by him in a recent issue of Outdoor Life.

You're the Skipper

By JOHN BOHANNAN
Syndicated Boating Writer

If you do your boating alone and like it, you've often wished for an extra pair of hands, especially when docking one of the larger outboard or inboard cruisers. And that's where an after bow spring line can do a neat job for you.

★ ★ ★

Let's suppose you are making a landing with starboard side to the dock. Get a couple of fenders over the rail and have a long bow line ready as you make your approach at slow speed.

In neutral and with way off, step ashore when alongside and make the bow line fast to the dock at a point about even with the stern. In this position it becomes an after bow spring line.

Then get back aboard quickly and put the engine in forward gear at idling speed with full left rudder on an inboard or with the motor pointed to port on an outboard.

★ ★ ★

The strain on the line and the action of the propeller stream will combine to hold the boat against the dock while you leisurely put on the stern line and make it fast.

Now shut off the engine, step ashore and take off the spring line from the dock, leading it forward of the hull to become a bow line.

The same operation can take place when landing with the dock on the port side, except that the strain on the spring line is made with hard right rudder on an inboard or with an outboard motor pointed toward the starboard side.

Another consideration in making single-handed boating easier and more enjoyable is to have all items you may need while under way within reach of the steering position.

Charts, parallel rules, dividers and other navigation instruments should be handy. A padded rack is fine for binoculars. Thermos bottles of cold water and hot coffee can be held nicely in a double-shelf rack with holes for the bottles and glasses in the upper shelf.

Obviously one should avoid falling overboard when alone on a boat. It's smart to shut off the engine or put it in neutral when walking about, and to wear a life jacket when the going gets rough. If under sail, keep a safety line attached to your belt.

Record Entry Seen for Show

When entries close on Sept. 22 for the Oct. 4 all-breed dog show and obedience trial at the dairy cattle building on the State Fair grounds, a record entry is anticipated by the Progressive Dog Club of Wayne County.

At the same time the Progressive show is under way, two others will be holding national specialty shows on the grounds. They are the Staffordshire Terrier Club of America and the Bulldog Club of America.

Breed clubs supporting the Progressive show include Irish Setter Club of Michigan, Detroit Cocker Spaniel Club, Poodle Club of Southeast Michigan and the Michigan Chow Chow Club.

Takes Patience to Breed 'Fins'

CHICAGO (AP) — George J. Maier may be the only American fish fancier with the patience to breed Peruvian longfins.

After Maier's longfins laid eggs in their tank, he collected the eggs and placed them in trays of damp peat moss. The eggs lay there 12 weeks, because they must lie dormant as they do in Peru.

After the dormant period, Maier moistened the eggs with stagnant water, because bacteria in swamp-like water is needed to digest the egg casings, releasing the baby fish.

Hold Demonstration

An obedience demonstration will be held at the Clara Barton Junior High School in Royal Oak at 8 o'clock tonight, under auspices of the Southern Michigan Obedience Training Club. Regular dog training classes begin next week.

Similar demonstrations will take place at Daniel Whitfield School, Pontiac, Thursday at 8 p.m. Information for the Pontiac affair can be had by calling Reg Armstrong, FE 2-7749.

Boxer Club Holds Fall Puppy Match

Michigan Boxer Club holds its fall puppy match Sunday at the Grosse Pte. Neighborhood Club, 17145 Waterloo, Grosse Pte. Match, for which judging begins at 1 p.m., is for boxers only from 2-12 months and 19-months for over-age.

A special attraction will be a showing of some prominent G. P. dogs and their progenies. A catalog of entries and owners, unusual for a puppy match, will be made up when entries close.

7 Fish at One Cast

SEYMOUR, Ind. (AP) — Harold Sweaney cast a line into the White River and gaped in surprise as he hauled in seven fish in one strike. Sweaney then discovered he had hooked a stringer of fish, apparently caught upstream by some angler who then lost them.

CHECK NEW COURSE — Ed Murray, Pontiac Northern High miler, and coach Dick Marsh "walk" to check the new cross-country course at the north side school where the Huskies run their first formal harrier meet tomorrow. Murray (left) is one of PN's best harriers. Huskies run with Berkley at 4 p. m. Thursday.

Oh, Sing to Us, Ingemar—We'll Pay to Hear It

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Philadelphia's Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain and Boston's defensive wonderman, Bill Russell, will clash for the first time as pro basketball rivals Oct. 14 in an extravagant promotional scheme by the Minneapolis Lakers.

As an added lure to raise $80,000, the Lakers plan to bring in heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson to croon Swedish ballads between the Boston-Philadelphia and Minneapolis-Detroit games of a doubleheader exhibition.

The Lakers, National Basketball Assn. Western Division playoff champions, need the money to underwrite remodeling of the Minneapolis Armory this year. To get it they plan to ask $100 a seat.

Detroiter in TV Bout

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Billy Hunter of Detroit and Argentina's ranking heavyweight contender, Alex Miteff, have signed for a 10-round television bout at War Memorial Auditorium, Friday, Sept. 25.

Promoter Norm Rothschild said he signed Hunter and Miteff as a replacement for the scheduled feature between Charlie Powell of San Diego and Mike DeJohn of Syracuse. Powell was forced to bow out because of a virus infection.

Time Running Out for Skippers to Beat PCH

Waterford 11 Has Only Two More Chances

Chiefs, Skippers Tangle Friday Night at Wisner; Series Ends Next Year

If Waterford ever intends to whip Pontiac Central on the football field, the Highland Road school better make fast tracks. There are only two years left in which to turn the trick.

Under future scheduling commitments, the Skippers and Central will not be able to meet on the gridiron after 1960 unless some unexpected changes develop.

This seems unfortunate in view of the natural local rivalry involved, but that's the way matters stand at the moment.

The crux of the situation is this: In 1961 the Saginaw Valley Conference becomes a nine-team circuit with the addition of Midland, Bay City Handy and Flint Southwestern.

★ ★ ★

The Valley's expansion will require the Chiefs to play eight league games every season under present rules drawn up by the SVC. Add crosstown foe Pontiac Northern to the list and the Chiefs have a full nine-game schedule, thus forcing the ouster of Waterford from the slate.

Central and the Skippers clash for the 4th time this Friday night at Wisner Stadium at 8 o'clock, then the two schools will tangle again next year for the last time.

The Skippers have yet to beat the Chiefs in three tries. Their 1st meeting came in 1954 at Wisner and the final score was 39-0. They met again the following year, also at Wisner, and that time the count read 24-6.

★ ★ ★

Last season they collided at Waterford. After holding the Chiefs to a scoreless tie at halftime, the Skippers tumbled to a 26-0 defeat.

Tickets for Friday night's PCH-Waterford game are on sale at Tel-Huron and downtown Osmun's as well as the Central school offices. Ducats also will be sold on the Cass avenue side of Wisner Stadium, starting at 4 p.m. on the day of the game.

Dragons Welcome Huskies Into Grid World

Orion Awaits Debut of PNH

Lake Orion wants very much to be the perfect host in helping Pontiac Northern launch its first history making football season but don't count on it Friday night.

Orion has the edge in two big respects. The Dragons have the experience and they eagerly await the Huskies in their own back yard.

Pontiac fans are hoping Northern will be "up" for the occasion with Orion still in the midst of rebuilding. But the followers of Frank Kownacki & Co. say talented tackles Dean Callison and Ross Waite plus others with some playing background will give the host eleven the edge.

★ ★ ★

Each team has a scrimmage against an outside foe under its belt and the coaches have been busy since correcting flaws in both the offenses and defenses.

Spirit has been the most promising factor in the Huskie camp where there is little size or experience.

Coach Ed Heikkinen and his staff have worked long hours installing the T-formation at PNH. Bruce Norton and Steve Thompson have worked well at the quarterback posts with George Graves, Bob Cox, Stan Hertel and Bob Hocking among the promising runners thus far.

The success of the line may depend upon such boys as Don Davis, Dave Fox and Earl Hewitt.

The passing of Craig Hawn and ball carrying of Gary Hunter are expected to feature Kownacki's Split-T.

★ ★ ★

Ends Jim Schultz, guards Don Julien and Keith Brodkorb and Roger Williams, who can play quarterback or end, are other Dragons attempting to spoil the Huskies' debut.

Next week Pontiac Northern travels to Hazel Park and the following week the Huskies make their home debut against Farmington in their opening game in the Inter-Lakes Conference.

WEMBLY, England — Freddie Gilroy, 120, Ireland, outpointed Mario D'Agata, 119¼, Italy, 10.

CHATHAM, N.B.—Yvon Durelle, 190, New Brunswick, stopped Al Anderson, 182, New York, 4.

BEAUMONT, Tex.—Rueben Munoz, 126, Odessa, Tex., outpointed Bobby Bell, 123, Youngstown, Ohio, 10.

RICHMOND, Calif.—Sixto Rodriguez, 174, Richmond, outpointed Eddie Cotton, 165, Seattle, 10.

RENO—Frankie Ramirez, 141½, Mexico, outpointed Willie Morton, 147½, San Jose, Calif., 10.

PITTSBURGH — Bobby Gordon, 138, Charleroi, Pa., outpointed Al Hauser 140, Philadelphia, 10.

Huskies Field First 'Official' Team

Area's Harriers Get Away, Thursday

Prep athletes who go for the hill-and-dale sport were ready today for the start of the 1959 cross-country campaign. For most area high school squads the season gets away Thursday.

Only Northern High, of the two big Pontiac schools, will be in action on Sept. 17. And this opener for the Huskies will be one of considerable moment. It will mark the first official cross-country competition for Dick Marsh's school. Northern High had only a token team last fall, ran two meets. A full schedule has been set up for this fall.

PNH's first opponent will be Berkley, and the meet will be run over the newly laid-out twice-around, two-mile course at the school.

Dean Wilson's SVC runnerup team, last year, from PCH does not open its season until Sept. 25. Waterford will provide the opposition, at Beaudette Park.

Walled Lake's unbeaten (dual) squad with 7 straight wins as Inter-Laeks champions entertains the Waterford runners on Thursday.

Huskies have built their squad around several distance runners from the school's first track team, including capable and improved Eddie Murray, a junior; Arnie Johnson, also a junior, who may be the No. 1 man. Marsh also has junior Ted Lorenzen, Dennis Vincent, a sprinter and jumper, along with Gary Holtz from the cage squad, George Toth and Lynn Locklier. Locklier is making a bid for his first sports team.

Chiefs' veteran foursome, Joe Anderson, Maurice Johnson, Jim Nelson and Ken Byrd, all juniors, are looking good. Anderson was last fall's regional champion.

With 27 out for the sport, Don Smith's Walled Lake squad is paced by an outstanding runner in Jack Hobbs, as one of four returning lettermen.

Mrs. Wright Faces Mrs. Fox in Semis

Mrs. W. D. (Edith) Wright, former Pontiac city champion, and Mrs. Charles F. Fox collided in the feature semifinal match of the annual Women's Metropolitan Golf Association match play championship.

Mrs. Wright scored a 2-1 victory over Isabel Burrell in Tuesday's quarter-finals. Mrs. Fox advanced with a 6-4 rout of Mrs. T. F. Carmichael.

Mrs. Charles Zahm and Mrs. William Rodgers clash in today's other semifinal duel. In yesterday's remaining quarter-final action, Mrs. Zahm eliminated Mrs. John Menefee, 4-3, and Mrs. Rodgers ousted Mrs. Max Evans, 3-2.

WHAT'S THE STORY ON THE NEW FORD FALCON?

Come in and we'll tell you all we know!

HOW BIG WILL THE ALL-NEW FORD FALCON BE? HOW MANY PEOPLE WILL IT CARRY? HOW ABOUT POWER?

To start with, in the all-new, New-Size Ford—the Ford Falcon—you save, but never "do without!" You get modern, fine-car styling . . . six-people-big room and comfort . . . a car that's born and bred for the American road! And you get it from Dearborn, Michigan, automotive capital of the world.

LET'S TALK ABOUT STYLING FIRST!

You're going to be amazed by the Falcon's beauty. It has a low, sleek, European flair in new, beautifully proportioned style. It has safe, "wide open" visibility all around. Interior styling is fresh and new, with smart looking, durable upholstery. In a nutshell, the Falcon is Ford's way of proving that a true economy car doesn't need to look, ride or feel like one.

LET'S TALK ABOUT THE ALL-NEW FALCON'S SIX-PASSENGER SIZE!

Available in both 2- and 4-door models, both models will have full-width seats accommodating six. There's room for all their luggage, too, with 265% more luggage space than the two most popular foreign cars. Pretty amazing, isn't it? The main reason is the way the Falcon is built.

SO LET'S TALK ABOUT THAT!

The Falcon uses the latest type of single-unit construction (like the fabulous Ford Thunderbird). This adds extra inches everywhere inside—and it makes the car one solid, silent, integrated structure.

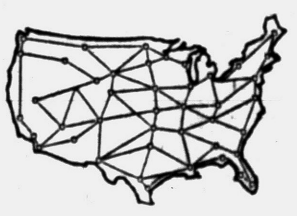
Along with its all-new size . . . there are lots of other things, like extra-big brakes and light-finger steering, that make the Falcon a delight to drive. And the Falcon is so maneuverable, it makes driving in city traffic a cinch!

LET'S TALK ABOUT THE FALCON'S PERFORMANCE!

The all-new engine is up front, where exhaustive crash tests, skid tests and handling tests prove it should be, for safety and stability. It has six cylinders . . . is of the world's most modern design . . . yet it's built on full-proven principles. It will deliver up to 30 miles per gallon on regular gas, only needs oil changes every 4,000 miles. The engine is also water cooled, which permits use of a water-type heater that's safer and never robs you of gas mileage! Unlike many cars of its size, the Falcon's available with automatic drive, too.

AND NOW WE'VE SIMPLY GOT TO TELL YOU ABOUT THE FALCON'S FABULOUS EXPERIENCE RUN!

It tops off a rugged 3-year, 3,000,000-mile test program. A fleet of Falcons is now traveling over every numbered U. S. highway in the country. It's from the drivers' logs on this run that we got the "30-miles-to-a-gallon" mileage figure. Some of the Falcons are driving around-the-clock—and new records are rolling in every day.



BUT THE FALCON'S ECONOMY IS MEASURED IN MANY MORE WAYS THAN GAS AND OIL SAVINGS!

Take the price. Though we can't give you the figure just yet, we can tell you this: the low, low price of the Falcon will help prove to you that it's the savingest car, right from the start! What's more, the main body understructure is heavily zinc-coated to protect it against corrosion through the years. Front fenders are bolted on for easier, more economical servicing. Insurance will probably cost you less. And Falcon service will be available everywhere, using standard American tools.

We've just been able to scratch the surface of the Falcon news here. Come in. Bring all your questions. But make it soon. We have many orders already.

Addison Twp. Development Group Is Created

Two-Township Planning Group Elects Officers

Rochester attorney L. Rex Bebout last night was elected chairman of the Avon-Pontiac Townships Regional Planning Commission.

He succeeds E. Tilson Peabody who resigned recently because of the press of other business. Peabody will remain a member of the commission.

Lloyd Ludy, chairman of the Pontiac Township Zoning Board, became vice chairman of the planning commission. And Mrs. Peter T. Garland, who formerly served as recording secretary, was elected secretary-treasurer.

During the business session, members made plans for two forthcoming meetings, one to be held Oct. 6, the other on Oct. 20 at Michigan State University Oakland.

The commission will meet at 7 p.m. on Oct. 6 to get its routine business out of the way before its joint meeting with the boards of education from Avondale, Pontiac and Rochester school districts which is scheduled to start at 8.

★ ★ ★

The school officials have been invited to hear a presentation of the tentative guide plan for the university community which encompasses the three school districts. The plan, as it affects anticipated school growth in the area, will be explained to the educators.

The meeting on Oct. 20 will be of more areawide importance, commission members said.

Members of the two township boards, their zoning boards and planning commissions and other township personnel plus sub-committees of the two-township commission will be invited to be present.

They will hear study director Robert H. Hotaling present the tentative guide plan for the university community. Hotaling is a specialist in urban planning at MSU who has been directing the efforts of the workers in the two townships toward formulation of a guide plan for orderly development of the 20-square-mile area which surrounds the new university.

Also at last night's meeting the commission voted to establish a guide plan committee, a zoning committee, a capital improvements committee and a subdivision plat committee.

The chairman was authorized to appoint members to the four committees subject to approval by the commission.

The plat for the first 42 lots in University Hills subdivision, located at Avon and Old Perch roads, was approved.

As the plat stands, 14 lots will be a minimum of 90 feet at the building setback line and the other 28 will be in excess of 100 feet at the building setback line.

With commission approval, the developers next present the plat to the Avon Township Zoning Board for its decision. The commission was organized merely to make recommendations to the proper governmental bodies.

A Birmingham developer, C. T. Armbrust, presented a drawing of a proposed 10½-acre commercial development to be located at the Five Points intersection.

His request was tabled for further study as it was not on last night's agenda.

Walled Lake Council Meets on Improvements

WALLED LAKE — Last night's city council meeting was concerned primarily with city improvements.

★ ★ ★

Estimates of the cost of draining the Barnstorm — Northport—Market streets area are being obtained. Also under consideration is the cost of sidewalks for a portion of W. Walled Lake drive and Decker road.

The city will install a streetlight at Witherell and Nicollet streets, the council decided.

Since there are a number of private roads whose owners are requesting maintenance from the city, the council asked City Manager George Shaw to draw up an agreement setting forth the procedure for dedicating these roads to the city.

Area Man Head of Beer, Wine Group

A Bloomfield Township man, Harold A. Cousins, of 691 South Hill Dr., Bloomfield Twnship, has been named first vice president of the Michigan Beer and Wine Wholesalers Assn.

Seymour Podolsky of Detroit is the new president.

Named to other top association posts Monday at the group's 22nd annual convention in Grand Rapids were Richard E. Ward, of Marquette, second vice president, and A. W. Reuter of Port Huron, re-elected treasurer.

Detroit was named the group's 1960 convention city. More than 700 delegates attended this year's three-day meeting which ends today.

Glacier national park has more than 250 lakes.

Industrial Zoning Plan Undergoes Revision

ADDISON TOWNSHIP — Two major steps were taken last night to provide for the orderly expansion of Addison Township.

One was the creation of the Addison Township Development Assn. with Hiram Terry named to serve as temporary chairman.

The other was passage of a revision to the township zoning ordinance by the zoning board. According to board chairman Richard A. Young, the new revision establishes the limitations under which those applying for industrial zoning may operate.

In answer to a question from one of the some 30 persons present at last night's public hearing, Young explained that there is no industrial district in the township at the present time.

He added that the zoning board could not arbitrarily set up industrial districts. It had to have a specific request to act upon before one could be created.

After the hearing, the board held its regular meeting and made one minor change in the zoning ordinance revision before passing it. Under green belt and buffer zones the revision provides that manufacturing operations may not be located closer than 300 feet from any previously existing residence.

The addition was "or 150 feet from a residence property line."

In other action the zoning board denied the request of Richard H. Wingett to rezone his property from agricultural to commercial classification to allow him to process used cars for old parts and scrap.

Terry was attending his first zoning board meeting as a member, having been appointed by the township board the night before. He fills the post left vacant by Elmer DeCou, who resigned recently because of ill health.

After the public hearing, the audience remained to organize the development association.

Other temporary officers elected were Dr. Bert Campbell, vice chairman, and Mrs. Melvin Thorman, secretary.

A six-man board of directors was named to start work on the organization programs and meetings. This group also is serving in a temporary capacity.

Members are Robert Trask of 730 Leonard Rd.; Russell Davidson, of 445 Army Rd.; Carl Kuechenmeister of 4624 Rochester Rd.; Donald Tripp of 2600 Ray Rd.; Mrs. Frank Webber of 1783 Brewer Rd. and Jesse Sutherby of 300 Elmwood Rd.

Suggested as possible projects for the association were a park, a library, improvement of roads, promotion of industry, and investigation of sources to provide financing for construction of new homes.

Township Supervisor Frank Webber offered his services to the group.

The first Thursday of the month was set as the association's regular meeting night.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. next Tuesday at Rowland Hall, Leonard, to plan for the next general session.

School Bond Sale Okayed

Issue of $500,000 in Securities to Finish High School Projects

WALLED LAKE — The Board of Education here has authorized the sale of $500,000 in bonds to complete the master plan of the Clifford H. Smart Junior High School and for an addition to the Union Lake Elementary School.

School architect Walter T. Anicka has been instructed to draw preliminary plans.

The $500,000 represents the last of the $1,500,000 bond issue which was approved in an election February of 1958.

The School Board is re-advertising for bids for workmen's compensation insurance since it did not receive any bids on its previous advertising.

The Board also is advertising for bids for three driver training cars. These bids will be opened at the Oct. 12 meeting of the school Board.

The Board reports that over 6,000 students enrolled in the Walled Lake schools this semester.

Novi Kills Incorporation by Overwhelming Vote

NOVI—Incorporation of the Village of Novi as a home-rule city lost by a landslide in yesterday's election.

Voters in the 6,700-population village rejected the change in government 766 to 175. Officials of the village deemed the turn-out "very good" considering that it rained here throughout the morning. There are 1,528 registered voters in the 32-square-mile village.

It was only a year ago that voters here favored making Novi Township a village. Since then a part of the old township formed the City of Wixom through an election.

This loss to the village is what prompted the present election on incorporation as a move to prevent any further split of Novi or annexation of any areas by Wixom.

Supporters of incorporation had claimed that it would save tax dollars by eliminating township taxes and the duplication of offices filled by both village and township officials.

SAW BENEFITS

They also felt that Novi would have been able to offer more efficient services as a city and would have had a louder voice in county affairs.

Opponents to incorporation claimed that increased services provided by a city would cost more, necessitating higher taxes instead of less for area residents.

Voters also approved Arthur Heslip's request to rezone his 114 acres bordering on both sides of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad track and north of Nine Mile road from agricultural to general manufacturing. The vote was 532 to 388.

★ ★ ★

A vote on this issue became registered at the time Heslip made his request.

Voting to elect nine members to a charter commission was made void with the rejection of incorporation. Seventeen names had appeared on the ballot.

Your PTA Is Planning:

Opening Sessions Tomorrow

LAKE ORION—A get-acquainted period will highlight tomorrow night's opening meeting of the Webber School PTA. The session will start at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The program for the evening is entitled "Your Child, His Problems and What They Mean to You." It will be a panel discussion between parents and teachers with George Rachels acting as moderator.

A question and answer period will follow.

Refreshments will be served by the executive committee.

AVON TOWNSHIP—The Stone-Auburn Heights PTA will hold its opening meeting of the year at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the multi-purpose room of Stone Elementary School.

Russell Williams, PTA president, will introduce the new principal of Stone School, Bernard I. Bland, and new members of the teaching staff.

A social hour with refreshments to be served by members of the executive board will follow the business meeting.

AVON TOWNSHIP — The first meeting of the Avondale Junior High School PTSA at 8 p.m. tomorrow night will be a get-acquainted session. All junior high school teachers have been invited to meet the parents who will attend the opening meeting.

★ ★ ★

The new superintendent of the Avondale Schools, LeRoy R. Watt, will be introduced at the opening meeting of the Elmwood School PTA at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow. The new teachers at Elmwood also will be presented to the audience.

Principal speaker of the evening will be Mrs. William Porter, president of the East Oakland Area PTA Council. Her topic will be "The Goals and Objectives of PTA."

DRYDEN—Final plans for the Oct. 1 dinner meeting to honor teachers and staff members of the Dryden Community Schools will be made by the Dryden Area Development Assn. when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the high school.

Guest speaker at the forthcoming special event will be Professor William Kimball of Michigan State University. A full program of entertainment also is planned, according to Jay Dittman, DADA president.

The potluck dinner will be served at 7 p.m. on Oct. 1 in the clubhouse at the county park, a mile and a half south of the village.

CLARKSTON — The annual get-acquainted PTA meeting will be held at the Sashabaw School tomorrow at 8 p.m.

New teachers and PTA officials will be introduced. Refreshments will be served by the executive board.

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP—The new principal of Dublin School, Dale Shaffer, and all of the teachers will be introduced when the PTA meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the school.

Newcomers to the district have been urged to attend the meeting. Coffee and pie will be served.

Agriculture to Establish New Record This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture is well on its way toward establishing a new production record this year.

An agriculture department report puts the prospective volume of crops within less than one per cent of last year's outstanding record.

The volume of livestock products — meats, milk, poultry, eggs and wool — will top last year's enough to place the combined volume of crops and livestock above last year, officials said.

But farmers themselves are not likely to benefit from the increased volume. Total farm income is expected to be around 10 per cent below last year, largely because farm prices are averaging considerably less than last year.

The big production will add to surpluses of some commodities and create marketing problems for others of a perishable nature, particularly pork and poultry products.

★ ★ ★

As the nation's top producer of dry beans, Michigan will have an indicated yield of 1,150 pounds per acre and a production of 6,164,000 hundredweight.

The estimates on other Michigan crops:

Corn—62 bushels per acre and production of 138,942,000 bushels.
Oats—41 bushels per acre and 39,852,000 bushels.
Sugar beets—16 tons per acre and production 1,200,000 tons.
Apples (production only)—12,800,000 bushels.
Peaches (production only)—3,200,000 bushels.
Pears (production only)—1,250,000 bushels.
Fall crop potatoes—135 hundredweight per acre and production 8,360,000 hundredweight.

Avondale Club to Stage Annual Ball Saturday

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Avondale Metropolitan Club Spirit 83 will stage its annual ball beginning at 9 p.m. Saturday at the American Legion Hall in Auburn Heights.

The Four L's will furnish music for dancing, and refreshments will be available. The affair is open to the public.

Over 700 Bug-Watchers Stand Guard in Nation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department says more than 700 volunteer and professional entomologists are watching for insect pests.

It is largely upon this small army that the government depends in keeping destructive insects from getting a big foothold and causing widespread crop damage.

These entomologists are a part of an insect survey and detection system maintained through federal and state cooperation. Government agencies have found that early detection can lead to early control of pests before extensive damage is caused.

Bird Slides Scheduled

ROCHESTER — Slides of marsh and water birds will be shown at tomorrow night's meeting of the Rochester Audubon Club to be held at 7:30 in Room 134 of the Rochester Senior High School.

Traveling Art Dealer 'Discovers' Old Master

LONDON (UPI) — A traveling art dealer who tried unsuccessfully to sell a painting at American Air bases in Britain for $1,400 has discovered it is an Italian old master worth possibly $28,000, the Daily Express reported today.

It said national gallery experts identified the painting of Venetian merrymakers as the work of 16th century Flemish artist Ludovic Pozzoserrato. Llewellyn Evans, 72, bought it at a gallery.

Architect to Be Guest Speaker for Rotary Club

AUBURN HEIGHTS — Robert Bills, landscape architect for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, will be the guest speaker at the noon meeting tomorrow of the Auburn Heights Rotary Club.

Th event will take place in the Community Hall on Squirrel road.

Wesley Newmyer, president of the Rotary Club, said that Bills will present a movie entitled "Recreation Unlimited" which tells the story of the recreational areas designed and developed by the authority in the five-county area which it serves.

Two of the most widely known parks of the authority are Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford and Metropolitan Beach on Lake St. Clair near Mount Clemens.

V. L. Drew, program chairman for the Rotary Club, said the John K. Sterling Jr., Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority public relations director, also would be present.

GOP Vote Record Goes to Highland Woman, 109

An honor certificate signed by President Eisenhower has been presented to Michigan's oldest known Republican voter, Mrs. Eliza Beaumont Taylor, 109, of Highland, for her record of voting for the Grand Old Party for as long as she can remember.

Right after woman suffrage in 1929, Mrs. Taylor voted for Warren G. Harding for President, and she hasn't stopped voting a straight Republican ticket for the last 36 years. An absentee ballot assures her choice of candidates in government.

Sponsored by the newly organized Huron Valley Republican Women's Club, a special certificate was designed and drawn by Milford's Stephen Gerrard, then forwarded to Congressman William Broomfield (R - Oakland County) to present to the President.

Yesterday the certificate was returned along with a special autographed picture of the President, and a congratulatory letter on her devotion to the GOP.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Taylor arises every morning, gets dressed and occasionally goes out in the shaded yard of her home at 250 N. Center St. Her grandniece, Mrs. Olive Clark, who takes care of her aunt, claims that she is surprisingly alert as to Eisenhower's activities but refuses to predict the outcome of next year's election.

Mrs. Taylor will be 110 years old Dec. 10.

Upwards of 80 million board feet of lumber is required in a normal year for the production of matches.

Ceremony to Observe 10th Year of REA Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A simple ceremony will be held here Oct. 28 to observe the 10th anniversary of the rural electrification administration telephone program.

Under this program, the government makes long-term loans to rural cooperatives, companies and other operators to help develop and expand telephone service in rural areas.

The REA reports that 65 per cent of the nation's farms now have telephone service, compared with 28 per cent 10 years ago.

Public Misinformed on Farmers' Life

KENT CITY (UPI) — Farmers aren't having things nearly so easy as the general public believes, Michigan State horticulture expert Harold B. Tukey said yesterday.

Tukey, head of the MSU horticulture department, said people are told farmers are taking it easy while the taxpayer supports them.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," Tukey told listeners at the annual apple smorgasbord here.

For of every five farmers get no support payments and the fruit industry gets none at all, he said.

About 485 billion dollars worth of goods and services were sold by Americans last year, he said, yet farmers received only 20 billion dollars for all foodstuffs they sold.

Edison Ad Director Picked for 'Week' Post

LANSING (AP)—Paul L. Penfield, advertising director for Detroit Edison Co., has been named chairman of the 1960 Michigan Week public relations board.

The appointment was announced by Austin Saunders of Muskegon, president of the General Telephone Co. of Michigan and state chairman for the observance to be held May 15-21.

Nursing School Graduate

CLARKSTON — Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Snover of 6221 Orion Rd. announce the graduation of their daughter, Phyllis Ann, from the Harper Hospital School of Nursing, Detroit. Graduation exercises were held in the Rackham Building in Detroit with a reception following at the nurses' residence.

5 Michigan Week Chairmen Are Listed

LANSING (AP)—Five of the nine 1960 Michigan Week regional chairmen were named today by T. Austin Saunders of Muskegon, general chairman for the observance to be held May 15-21.

The regional chairmen and the counties they cover are:

Southeastern Michigan — Thomas B. Adams, president of the Campbell-Ewald Advertising Agency in Detroit; Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne Counties.

Upper Peninsula—Lincion Frazier, president of the Campbell Supply Co., Marquette; Alger, Baraga, Chippewa, Delta, Dickinson, Gogebic, Houghton, Iron, Keweenaw, Luce, Mackinac, Marquette, Menominee, Ontonagon and Schoolcraft Counties.

★ ★ ★

Northwestern Lower Peninsula—George E. Schraut, Traverse City executive; Antrim, Benzie, Charlevoix, Emmet, Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, Leelanau, Manistee, Missaukee and Wexford counties.

Northeastern Lower Peninsula—William MacDonald, manager of the Huron Portland Cement Co. in Alpena; Alcona, Alpena, Arenac, Cheboygan, Crawford, Gladwin, Iosco, Montmorency, Ogemaw, Oscoda, Otsego, Presque Isle and Roscommon Counties.

★ ★ ★

Thumb area — Clare Sperry, president of the Sperry Department Store in Port Huron; Huron, Lapeer, St. Clair, Sanilac, and Tuscola Counties.

Really, Old Chap, Smoking Has Good Points, Too

LONDON (UPI)—The benefits of smoking are being neglected, the annual report of British tobacco manufacturers said today.

"In recent years considerable attention has been given to possible harmful effects of smoking, but much less to the benefits it may confer," the report said.

★ ★ ★

"Certainly the reasons for the widespread acceptance of tobacco and the nature of the basic effects of smoking — whether physiological or psychological — have not yet been elucidated."

Clinton Valley Boys Eye 1960 in Colorado

Scouts Saving Cash for Jamboree

Boy Scouts of the Clinton Valley Council in Oakland County are starting to save now so that they might attend scouting's fifth national Jamboree in Colorado next summer.

★ ★ ★

This Jamboree will mark the 50th year jubilee celebration of the Boy Scouts of America. It is to be staged just outside the new Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., in July.

Cost per boy to join the expedition will be under $215, according to scout leader William Genette of Milford, who is heading the local committee to screen scouts to fill three troops as the Clinton Valley delegation.

Local units will each have a reservation for one boy until Oct. 10, when applications will then be on a first come, first chosen basis, Genette explained.

MANY ACTIVITIES

The Jamboree at Colorado is only one of many activities planned for the jubilee year.

The occasion will be observed locally across the nation as Cubs, Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts camp out for council camporees.

Location of the site where Clinton Valley boys will camp out is yet undecided.

★ ★ ★

On this same weekend (July 22-24) all Explorer Scouts in the local council as well as those across the country will hold a field sports program, and all Cubs will hold their own special events.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jones of Waterford are heading the local Cub program committee.

William J. DeGrace of Birmingham, council public relations chairman, has been appointed chairman of a committee to host three foreign scouts who will be guests in local scout homes next summer, prior to attending the jubilee Jamboree.

Donald Newman of Pontiac has been named chairman of a committee to gather scrapbooks for sending from local units to scouts in foreign countries. He will be assisted by Art Kaminski of Utica.

ASSIST WITH CAMPOREE

Assisting Genette with arrangements for the Colorado camporee will be Harold Wright of Pontiac, in charge of transportation; Ervin Schilke of Rochester, responsible for gateway design and construction; and Everett Sherrick of Orchard Lake, heading the pre-Jamboree training weekend.

Chairman of the Clinton Valley Council celebration program is John W. Hunt of Farmington, immediate past president. He explained that all of the special events of the jubilee year are in addition to regular scouting activities.

Other programs are being planned for National Boy Scout Week in February and for the annual meeting of the council in May.

Proposes U.S., Russia Build World Peace Ship

MOSCOW (UPI) — Rep. Victor Anfuso, (D-NY) today proposed that the United States and Russia together build a "world peace ship" that would fly men to the moon.

Anfuso, now visiting Moscow, said he would make the proposal in a meeting with space scientist Leonid Sedov, a member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences and president of the International Federation of Astronautics.

Roman soldiers received a special stipend to buy their ration of salt. They called it "salarium," which evolved into the English world "salary."

De Sapio Squeezed, but Holds Tammany

NEW YORK (AP)—Carmine De Sapio appeared today to have kept control of Tammany Hall against an all-out drive supported by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and other nationally known Democrats.

But it was the closest call of his career for the Tammany leader, principal target of growing charges of "bossism" in the New York state Democratic party.

★ ★ ★

National Committeeman De Sapio barely won over an insurgent candidate in his own Greenwich Village district. The insurgent group claimed seven victories in 20 contests in other districts.

De Sapio's reply to the claim was that only one of the seven winners was really "anti-Tammany and anti-De Sapio."

OUSTER SUPPORTERS

The movement to oust De Sapio won support from former U. S. Sen. Herbert Lehman, former Air Force Secretary Thomas Finletter and a number of other well-known Democrats.

★ ★ ★

Their aim was to elect enough insurgent Democrats to vote De Sapio out at a meeting of district leaders next week. But with 13 of 33 leaderships uncontested in Tuesday's primary, De Sapio needed to keep only three other loyal leaders and the primary vote seemed to insure that he had done so.

★ ★ ★

In his own district De Sapio polled only an unofficial 4,857 votes to 4,271 for his opponent, Charles E. McGuinness, a 28-year-old corporation lawyer.

Even this margin, fantastically slim in view of the Tammany leader's long-time power in the party, was being questioned by the insurgents and 40 voting machines were put under police guard at McGuinness' request.

POWELL WINS

Another defeat for De Sapio, unconnected with the Lehman-Roosevelt-Finletter effort, put Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-NY), a Negro, in as leader of a Harlem district. He defeated an incumbent backed by Tammany.

Lehman said "I think De Sapio's days as powerful boss are numbered."

★ ★ ★

The traditional cry of "boss" against Tammany leaders gained new impetus last year when De Sapio was accused of forcing the U. S. senatorial nomination of Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan, later defeated by then Rep. Kenneth Keating. Lehman and others had sought the nomination for Finletter.

BOSSISM ISSUE

Later the Republicans used the "bossism" issue so effectively that many Democrats held him responsible for the election of Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

De Sapio himself claims he is just as much of a liberal Democrat as any of the reform group. He has offered to consult with its leaders on possible changes in the party's Manhattan organization.

Mother Begins School Term With a Punch

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Louise Leadbetter, mother of eight, started the new school year with a bang. She punched her daughter's kindergarten teacher.

Mrs. Leadbetter, 35, was placed on six months probation by Recorders Judge George Murphy yesterday after she pleaded guilty to hitting Mrs. Maudice Vandenburg, 36, in the face and neck.

The woman explained that she was agitated because her daughter Pearline, 5, had been reported missing from Pattengill School by another daughter and that school officials wouldn't help her.

Police said two other teachers intervened when Mrs. Leadbetter entered Mrs. Vandenburg's school room and began striking her.

Pearline was found five blocks from the school.

Pretty Former Model Must Stand Trial for Slaying in Finch Case

POMONA, Calif. (UPI) — Pretty Carole Tregoff lost her fight Tuesday for dismissal of a murder charge and wept silently as Judge James G. Whyte ruled she must stand trial for the slaying of her sweetheart's estranged wife.

Still to be decided was whether the 22-year-old former model must stand trial at the same time as her boy friend, Dr. R. Bernard Finch. Both are accused in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Barbara Finch outside the wealthy doctor's home in West Covina, Calif., on July 18.

Robert A. Neeb Jr., attorney for Miss Tregoff, sought dismissal of the murder charge on grounds her constitutional rights had been violated when she testified at a preliminary hearing for Finch. He described the auburn-haired Carole, 22, most recently a cocktail waitress in Las Vegas, Nev., as a "young girl, inexperienced in the ways of criminal court."

Neeb contended deputy district attorney Fred Whichello asked "loaded" questions about the so-called "murder kit" and the events of the night of the shooting.

Whichello contends Finch, 41, and Miss Tregoff plotted to drug Mrs. Finch, and put her body in a car pushed over the cliff.

Roosevelt Dam Named Theodore . . . Officially

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower signed a bill Monday changing the name of the Roosevelt Dam in Arizona to the Theodore Roosevelt Dam.

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) introduced the legislation to underscore that the dam was named after the GOP president — not the late Democratic President, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The first forest fire law in America was passed by the Massachusetts Bay Colony, in 1631.

Children Seem to Want Them

Bigger Toys Are Becoming Popular

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — I remember unclearly that when I was about two my parents gave me a doll named "Molly." She was a so-called baby doll, with eyes that blinked when you slugged her, but she was bigger than I was—almost as big as my brother who was five.

If she had been a real baby they'd have put her in a circus at 10 cents a peek, and I recall a neighbor remarking snidely that she ought to be called "Marie" instead of "Molly," after Marie Dressler who was all the rage at the time.

But I loved her. Mainly because when older friends came to call, with their pipsqueak Raggedy-Anns and smalltime teddy bears in little baby carriages, I felt a great surge of self-confidence and security. Molly was not only a status symbol—she was something to hide behind if they started anything.

I discovered today that this was a very good thing, having an outsized toy. The "Toy Guidance Council" revealed that 500 new playthings, including life-size three-year-old dolls, will be available for Christmas this year and that: "Larger toys are what children want."

★ ★ ★

For some years, it seems, the trend has been for small kiddies' items—toys that parents admired and bought, probably because they were dainty and would not clutter up the slick, polished, on-exhibition ranch house that is America's middle class standard.

COULD BE EATEN

Smaller toys were inadvisable, however, because a child who did not respect the little train or the little doll-house oven, might just show his contempt by eating it.

"Now," says Emma Sheehy, the guidance council's top educational advisor, "we have many larger toys that are 'handleable' by children." This includes junior sized (he-man priced) sports cars that should wow the tricycle set at $375 apiece.

Miss Sheehy is professor of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, but her salaried hobby is playing with toys, and watching children play with them, to ascertain their safety and suitability for America's adolescents.

★ ★ ★

She has determined this year that, besides size, the "TV-associated" toy is an even greater trend than ever.

A child can have real-life symbols of whatever TV dream world he lives in—from rifles to pistols to poker chips to cute toy skulls, bleached realistically as in the desert sun.

"As long as we're in a shooting world, let's face it, the toys are going to reflect it," said Professor Sheehy.

Girls can have not only huge three-year-old dolls, but replicas of some of their favorite television stars, equipped with wardrobes that are more expensive than the dolls. This is a realism gift too: Trains a child to know the value of a good evening gown.

SCIENTIFIC TOYS

For boys and girls who like science, there are machines so technical looking that if I were an atom with any spirit of self-preservation I'd remain elsewhere; for ambitious kids there are geiger counters to detect uranium, and for ambitious but lazy kids there are ready-made swimming pools and other niceties, like crisp new money.

Parents are bound to go wild about the new toy selection, but Miss Sheehy cautions that "a child can develop frustrations" if the parent—as often happens—buys the wrong toy for the right child because he or she, as an adult, happens to like it.

If a toy is too young for the child, he will be embarrassed to play with "baby stuff." If it is too advanced, the child probably will break it, and be in danger of being censured.

"A child can be tolerant of us grown-ups sometimes," said the professor.

★ ★ ★

But the selfish parent who chooses toys to his own liking, without considering the child, deserves a bop on the head from an Amazon like Molly . . . but then, she is unavailable now. Molly is currently in the arms of a three-year-old niece named Barby, who will be an excellent mother when she gets as big as her baby.

Slides of Alaska Will Be Shown

Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service members will be treated to action color slides of Alaska from 9:45 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. Wednesday at the Waterford CAI Building on Williams Lake Road.

Guest speaker G. B. Pritchard, Michigan Bell Telephone Co. plant engineer, spent eight months in the 49th state in 1956. At that time he worked on the micro-wave network to provide communication throughout Alaska for the Air Force in conjunction with the "Dew Line."

Lunch will be served by the Woman's Club at noon. Hostess for the event will be Mrs. Clair Johnson, Waterford district representative.

All Quiet Again at Cross Plant

Police Afraid Trouble May Start Once More Where 750 Fought

FRASER (UPI)—Police in Macomb County reported "all's quiet" today on the strike front here compared to the howling, fighting mob of about 750 pickets who battled police yesterday at the Cross Co. plant.

Fraser police chief Herman Jacob said, "You never know about this bunch. They may be calm, but they may just be laying low too. We have no trouble this morning — so far, anyway."

About 24 hours ago, the mob jammed Fourteen Mile and Grosebeck Roads with their cars, stalling a wrecker trying to reach an overturned vehicle with seven men trapped inside.

Only one of the men — John Farkas, 58, — was hurt. He suffered a twisted ankle.

Police said pickets stoned cars, splashed others with ink bombs and struggled with police and non-strikers trying to enter the plant.

A fight with state police Sgt. Max McCall landed United Auto Workers International Representative Joseph Ferris of Detroit in jail.

Six Detroit-area state police posts rushed extra troopers to the riot scene yesterday. They swelled the ranks of Fraser police and county sheriff's deputies already on the job.

This was the most violent demonstration since the strike began Aug. 4 when members of Local 155 of the UAW walked out claiming the company refused to negotiate a new contract.

Steel Negotiators Meet Again Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steel contract negotiators meet again today in an attempt to break the deadlock in the 64-day-old nationwide steel strike.

Negotiators representing 12 major steel producers and the United Steelworkers Union met for two hours yesterday, but there was no indication they made progress toward settlement of the strike.

AT ANNUAL MEETING — J. Lyle Littlefield (left), chief of the Foods and Standards Division of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, spoke at the second annual meeting of the Advisory Council of the Marketing Information for Consumers Program. With him are Mrs. Frank Anderson, incoming chairman, and William L. Belaney, retiring chairman. The dinner meeting was held Tuesday evening at the Roosevelt Masonic Temple.

Food Standards Unit Needs Help of Public

More than 75,000 food products sold in the state come under the jurisdiction of the Foods and Standards Division of the Michigan Dept. of Agriculture. The duties in connection with supervision of foodstuffs and weights and measurements were the subject of a talk by J. Lyle Littlefield, chief of the Department.

★ ★ ★

About 60 members and guests of the Advisory Council of the Marketing Information for Consumers Program met at Roosevelt Masonic Temple Tuesday evening for their second annual meeting.

Littlefield said that his department does not measure the effectiveness of its work by the number of violators it prosecutes. But he reminded the group that only a watchful public could help the authorities by rechecking the weight of prepackaged foods and by being on the alert for errors in pricing.

New officers were elected at this meeting.

Mrs. Frank Anderson is chairman; James McCollum, vice chairman Mrs. Daniel Peterson, secretary. Elected to a one-year term on the executive committee were Charles Leach and Mary Slater.

William L. Belaney, retiring chairman, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, consumer marketing information agent for Oakland County, presented a report of the past year's work.

Benton Harbor Group Won't Join Teamsters

BENTON HARBOR (UPI)—By a vote of 35-11, employes of the Avion Coach Corp. have rejected efforts by the Teamsters Union to organize them.

The firm's workers defeated the proposal calling for Teamsters Local 7 to represent them in collective bargaining at a National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) election yesterday.

The firm, which manufactures small aluminum mobile homes, employs 60 maintenance men, warehousemen and truck drivers. The employes are not represented by any union at the present time.

Actress Warms Up Pontiac for Premiere

By HARVEY ZUCKERBERG

Pontiac warmed up a bit this week when Elaine Edwards, a gushy young Hollywood actress, breezed into the city for the Mid west premiere of her movie, "The Bat," opening at the Strand Theater tomorrow.

If, as rumored, Hollywood is hopeful of rejuvenation through the eccentricities of its starlets like sirens of old, Miss Edwards fills the bill . . . with a modern wist, of course.

Strawberry blonde hair atop green eyes, a saucy provocative mouth and the rest of her curvacious 5-foot-5 and 119 pounds speaks for itself.

Miss Edwards adds, "I drink liger's milk for breakfast. It's really good for you, you know. It has everything.

"You see," she explains, "I'm a lay nutritionist. I've always been interested in it. So has Bob Cummings. He has given me a lot of tips on nutrition and acting. I've done eight of his shows on television."

Miss Edwards is a sensible girl, too, and up to date. Not only has she performed in a number of stage productions, appeared on a host of television shows and emoted in eight films, but she hopes also to direct some day.

"It's another end of creativity," she says.

Astute she is, studying psychology at UCLA. Charitable and civic minded she is, volunteering her services for social work.

And, she's home grown. Miss Edwards is the daughter of Farris Nunn, a retired Dearborn policeman, and his wife, Bonnie.

She graduated from Dearborn High School and went to New York to become a John Powers model.

She married Ed Kemmer, actor and one-time star of TV's "Space Patrol," and became interested in an acting career for herself. She began by studying at the Pasadena Playhouse and starring in its production of "Berkeley Square."

Miss Edwards has appeared in "The Harder They Fall," with Humphrey Bogart ("rather quiet and difficult to get to know") "Guns, Girls and Gangsters," "The Faceless Man," "It Happened to Jane" and other movies.

She will also be seen in "Battle Flame," opposite Scott Brady, scheduled for showing in Pontiac's theaters sometime in October.

In "The Bat," Miss Edwards is co-starred with Agnes Moorehead and Vincent Price. Her life is menaced throughout the picture by "the deadliest criminal in theatrical annals."

The starlet closed the interview with a wink, "I can't tell you anymore. The end is a secret."

Demand Firms Prices of Grain

CHICAGO (AP)—A renewed general demand firmed up grain futures prices all around on the Board of Trade today for the first time this week.

September corn, under fairly stiff pressure for several days, was among the leaders with an advance of a cent during the first several minutes. Other corn months which have dipped lately to a succession of new low prices for the season moved up moderately.

Some of the corn and soybean buying appeared to be linked with forecasts of frost in parts of the northern Great Plains and Great Lakes states tonight.

After about an hour wheat was 1/8 to 3/8 cent a bushel higher, September $1.91 3/8; corn 3/8 to 1 cent higher, September $1.14 3/8; oats 1/8 to 3/8 higher, September new type contract 65 5/8; rye 1/2 to 1 1/8 higher, September $1.29 1/4; soybeans 3/8 to 3/4 higher, September $2.07.

Red China Won't Get U.N. Seat This Year

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The U. N. steering committee today brushed aside Soviet objections and voted to shelve for another year the question of seating Red China in the world organization.

The postponement was proposed by the United States.

The vote in the 21 nation committee was 12-7 with one abstention.

It still has to be ratified by the full 82-nation General Assembly, but approval was assured.

City Director Will Conduct Bands at MSU

Dale C. Harris, instrumental music supervisor in the Pontiac school system, will be a guest conductor during the halftime show of Michigan State University's football opener against Texas A. & M. on Sept. 26.

Massed bands and music by approximately 2,600 bandsmen from 35 high schools (Pontiac is not represented by a band) will be featured in the program.

The high school bands will join the Spartan Marching Band in honoring the 25th anniversary of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

Speaks at Dedication for Reynolds Building

DETROIT (AP) — French auto designer Jean A. Gregoire says one current tendency of automobile construction throughout the world is reduction of weight.

The choice material for this reducing process, he said, is aluminum.

Gregoire spoke at the dedication of new Great Lakes Region Headquarters Building for Reynolds Metals Co. The building, designed by architect Minoru Yamasaka, is made basically of aluminum. It sets on stilts over a pool and is covered with a gold anodized aluminum grille that gives it the appearance of a honeycomb.

Motors Higher in Active Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved higher in a mild recovery move early today. Trading was moderate.

Most key stocks rose from fractions to about a point. There were scattered losers.

Motor stocks were especially active and mostly higher.

American Motors advanced about a point following a prediction by President George Romney that 2,225,000 compact cars would be sold in 1960.

★ ★ ★

Studebaker-Packard resumed the upside with a fractional gain. Ford rose close to a point. Chrysler eased. General Motors was firm.

The market was continuing the rebound which halved the market's losses yesterday. The indifferent volume reflected little enthusiasm. Short-term traders were reported looking for bargains.

Chemicals also showed life. Gains of a point or so were made by Du Pont and Air Reduction. Most leaders in the group made fractional gains. Allied Chemical fell more than a point.

Waterford Man's Autopsy Shows No Violence

An autopsy performed today on the body of a Waterford Township man accused by his wife of beating her and their three children shortly before his death last night will result in no legal action from the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office.

County Coroner Dr. Leon Cobb ruled that the death of Donald Pachoud, 35, of 2827 Walton Blvd., was due to natural causes of a hemorrhage, possibly induced by a minor head injury previously incurred.

Mrs. Roseann Pachoud, 30, called police three times last night to complain that her husband was beating her and the children. The last call summoned police to the home after the woman said, "My husband is ill."

★ ★ ★

Owner of a wrecking company on Dixie Highway in Drayton Plains, Pachoud was home on convalescent leave from Pontiac State Hospital, police said.

New Chrysler Cars Are Shown to Press

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Chrysler Corp. today held a national press preview of its 1960 cars and trucks here.

Details on most of the cars will be released tomorrow but pictures will not be permitted until closer to public introduction dates next month.

Included in the showing will be Chrysler's two new cars — the Dodge Dart and the Valiant. The Dart is a Plymouth-sized car which will compete in the Plymouth-Chevrolet-Ford price class.

The Valiant is Chrysler's compact car and will vie with Ford's Falcon and Chevrolet's Corvair.

Morris Doesn't 'Plan' to Run for Governorship

LANSING (UPI) — Sen. Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo), who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor, said today he does not plan to run—but he didn't rule out the possibility.

★ ★ ★

"I do not expect to seek the governorship," Morris said. "I've been too busy keeping the income tax off the back of the people to think about it."

★ ★ ★

It is Morris' role as the chief architect of the Republican use (sales) tax law that has put him among those GOP "conservatives" might support for the nomination in 1960.

Fibber and Molly Surprise With Good Comedy Show

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fibber McGee and Molly arrived last night on NBC-TV and all signs indicate we have a worthy successor to such classic TV comedy shows as I Love Lucy and the Phil Silvers-Bilko series.

★ ★ ★

Frankly, I didn't think it would come off. Because of some mystical faith in the indestructibility of the imagination, I harbor reservations about the fate of a successful nonvisual show when it is brought to TV.

Many successful transfers to the visual fields of motion pictures and TV should have destroyed this silly attitude by now—but there it was.

Happily, Bob Sweeney turned into Fibber McGee in my mind within minutes. And Cathy Lewis became Molly equally fast.

★ ★ ★

I thought the success of last night's opener was mainly due to Sweeney and his superb sense of timing, his masterful control of movement.

The way he tried to conceal a block-long house trailer from Molly by jumping around before it with his coattails held out was a delight to behold.

My only quibble comes with the appearance of Mayor Latrivia, played by Hal Peary.

★ ★ ★

Decked out in a slapstick vaudeville costume—the only player not dressed realistically—Peary's scene was irrelevant, unfunny and slowed the show.

Wyatt Earp, now in the real estate business, began a new season on ABC-TV last night by taking off his guns and entering the untamed town of Tombstone.

Before the half-hour ended, Wyatt—played by Hugh O'Brian—was wearing guns again and about 15 men were wearing bandages, thanks to his fists and bullets.

Just like the good old days in Dodge City. And here we go again.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: There will be only 21 categories when the 1959-60 Emmy Awards are handed out—half the number that cluttered up last year's voting. Separate awards will be given for humor, drama, music, variety, news and public affairs shows.

CASTING NOTES: Comedian Jack Carter has a part in "The Hours Before Dawn," the U. S. Steel Hour drama set for CBS-TV next Wednesday . . . Arthur Godfrey's first guest on his new CBS radio show next Monday morning will be Garry Moore . . . Jose Ferrer and Rosemary Clooney appear on Sunday's Ed Sullivan Show.

AFL-CIO Confab Starts Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 1959 AFL-CIO national convention will open Thursday with assurances from the administration that labor will get a fair shake under the new labor law.

★ ★ ★

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell told the AFL-CIO Metal Trades Department Convention Tuesday "honest, legal unions have nothing to fear from the way we'll administer the law in the Labor Department."

★ ★ ★

The president of the labor organization, George Meany, told the convention of one method of counteracting unfavorable provisions of the new bill — heartier boosting of union-made goods.

Watchers Spot Egyptian Geese in Everglades

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Strange travel-worn birds spotted Tuesday in Everglades National Park are believed to be Egyptian geese. They have the bird watchers atwitter.

Did the geese come all the way from Egypt? Could they fly that far? Even the experts don't know for sure. They call them Alopochen aegyptiacus, a high flown term for the kissing kin of the ordinary mallard duck.

Their natural home is Egypt and Palestine.

Londoners Find Sunshine Mixed Blessing in '59

LONDON (UPI) — An idyllic summer has brought Londoners 178 more hours of sunshine this year than they got in all of 1958, the weather bureau reported today.

All that sun took its toll, though. Britons are in the midst of a drought and severe water shortages.

Khrushchev Takes Top Spot in Comic Chatter

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — New York's swinging again—now that Joe E. Lewis is at the Copacabana, Jack Carter's at the Latin Quarter—and visitors June Allyson, Esther Williams, Cary Grant, Gene Barry, Mel Ferrer and Audrey Hepburn are all over town.

WILSON

Khrushchev was gag fodder for both Lewis and Carter in their openings. Referring to Mr. K's drinking habits, Lewis said, "Khrushchev is the Joe E. Lewis of the Ukraine."

"Better not let Khrushchev take a walk in Central Park," warned Carter, adding that he lives near there and on a clear day can see the stabbings.

Lewis gems included: "With elections coming up, the Democrats don't know whether they should lose the third time with Stevenson or the first time with Kennedy . . . Show me a man who can hold his liquor, and I'll show you a serious kidney condition . . . When we were kids we never heard of juvenile delinquents — we were already full-fledged criminals . . . If my jokes appear a little old, don't forget, I'm no kid any more."

JUNE

Jack Carter attained greatness, especially when he kidded Harry Belafonte and Jose Greco. He called Billy Eckstine "the Holland Tunnel with lips" and said Lauritz Melchior "looks like Helen Traubel in a tuxedo." Complaining of the way New York's torn up, he said, "I don't know what Wagner's looking for, but wherever O'Dwyer hid it, he'll never find it."

June Allyson, here plugging her TV series, told me her voice is so deep that when she asked a hotel clerk, "Is there any mail for Dick Powell?" the clerk without looking up, replied, "No, sir, Mr. Powell, there isn't."

Comic Alan King, who lost $40,000 at the crap tables last time he worked in Las Vegas, returns Sept. 30—to work, not play . . . The McGuire Sisters will join the Jack Benny TV special Nov. 7.

Will Disclose Plan for Algeria

De Gaulle to Broadcast Tonight Over Radio, TV Proposal to End War

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle tonight discloses his master plan for ending the nearly five-year-old Algerian rebellion, France's top problem.

De Gaulle prepared his statement behind a cloak of secrecy at his country estate at Colombey les Deux Eglises. This morning he was to read it to his Cabinet and later broadcast it over radio and TV.

★ ★ ★

Little officially is known of what De Gaulle will propose for ending the rebellion, but it has been disclosed he will "affirm the principle of self-determination."

This has been interpreted to mean Algeria's nine million Moslems will be able to vote on how they wish to be covered. Nothing official has been reported as to De Gaulle's timetable for bringing this about.

★ ★ ★

To achieve maximum attention the French President has ordered radio and TV channels cleared in France and Algeria to carry his statement. The speech, expected to last about 15 minutes, will also be heard throughout the vast French community embracing 12 semiautonomous states in Africa and Madagascar.

De Gaulle's words will also be broadcast in Arabic and Berber, the main languages of Algeria, as well as several other foreign tongues.

Sees Big Potential for U.S. Economy

CHICAGO (UPI) — Robert J. Eggert, managers of Ford's market research department, said Tuesday the U.S. economy has the potential for a 65 per cent increase by 1975.

Eggert said this would add $325 billion to the $500 billion level expected by early 1960.

Eggert spoke at the 29th annual meeting of the Central Motor Freight Assn. Inc. Eggert said this average of 3.3 per cent growth a year would require intensive effort by private and public agencies alike. He said a "marriage boom" in the midst of the expanding economy would trigger demand for more consumer goods.

Ingrid Bergman Learns Fast

Sleeps Through TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Ingrid Bergman, back here on her first working visit in 10 years, learns fast. On her first night in New York, Miss Bergman dedicated herself to watching television and fell asleep, just like a seasoned viewer.

NO GIMMICKS — Straight-from-the-holster western entertainment is what is forecast for Joel McCrea in "Wichita Town."

film star is here to make her TV debut. In spite of the succession of problems complicating her private life, Miss Bergman looks radiant and is excited about attempting what is, to her, a new acting medium.

★ ★ ★

"I am a little nervous about it," she confesses. "But I love acting in motion pictures. I think I shall love television because it seems like a combination of the two."

The modern miracle of tape recording and a new adaptation of Henry James' classic ghost story, "The Turn of the Screw," persuaded Miss Bergman to make her debut on television via NBC's Oct. 20 Ford special.

★ ★ ★

"It is going to be very hard work, and I don't see how we can do it with so little rehearsal time," she says. "But I am happy to try it. I've had many offers to do live television shows of course, but I've always turned them down because I was afraid it wouldn't be good — there was no way to take it back and do it over."

Miss Bergman, who lives with her three young children and her new husband on a big place outside Paris, does not have a TV set in her home.

★ ★ ★

She says: "I did not want the children to neglect their studies by watching it. So I have seen very little, too."

During her three-week stay in New York, Miss Bergman will rehearse for 2½ weeks in a rehearsal hall and for another four days in the studio. Then the show will be taped in 90 minutes—and the star jets home to Paris. With a lot of American money.

Dems Talk Compromise on Convention Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats talked of compromising today a proposal by National Chairman Paul Butler to revise the state-by-state vote on the nomination of their 1960 presidential candidate.

Butler, whose ouster has been demanded by some Southern critics, called the national committee together to consider not only the voting change but approval of a party loyalty rule for next year's Los Angeles convention.

Despite renewed demands that he resign, Butler appeared confident he could overcome any ouster move.

Southerners seemed likely to challenge a proposed revision under which the 1960 convention would cast 1,475 votes in picking its nominee. This would compare with the 1,372 total vote in 1956.

Butler has proposed changes in the basic rule which gives a state two votes for each senator and one for each House member—plus a whole series of bonuses that have grown through the years. Instead, he wants each state to get three votes per senator, 2½ for each House member and ½ vote for each national committee member.

★ ★ ★

While the 11 Southern states would gain a net of eight votes, the influence of the Dixie area on the outcome would be diminished proportionately by the over-all increase of 103 convention votes.

Even before Butler sent his two proposals to committee members for study, some Southern members were demanding his ouster because of his insistence on a strong civil rights plank in the 1960 platform. They pumped new steam into their demands when the two proposals were distributed.

★ ★ ★

Some Northern members like Gov. David Lawrence of Pennsylvania and Col. Jacob Arvey of Illinois also have opposed Butler, but for other reasons.

Birth on TV Very Popular; Set Polio Show

DETROIT (UPI) — Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield claimed today that over 80 per cent of all Detroit television sets were tuned to a TV station last week that showed the birth of a baby by Caesarean delivery.

The company said a telephone poll made within 24 hours of the new program, "Lifeline," showed "exceptional viewer response." "Lifeline" was shown on WJBK-TV, Channel 2, in Detroit.

A Blue Cross-Blue Shield spokesman said the second program in the series will tell of a boy suffering from polio being prepared for a leg operation. It will be aired at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Red China Produces 1st Highspeed Computer

TOKYO (UP) — Communist China reported Tuesday it has produced its first highspeed computer with Soviet technical assistance.

"On April 19 this year, this giant computer solved its first problem — the calculation of technical data for the designing of underground waterways in northeast China," Peiping radio said.

State Jobless Up in August

Michigan's Idle Stand at 275,000, or 9.4 Pct. of Total Labor Force

DETROIT (UP)—With auto factories shut for model changeovers, Michigan unemployment stood at 275,000 on Aug. 15, an increase of 25,060 over a month.

Of the total unemployed, 162,000 were in Detroit, which had 20,000 of the gain over July 15.

Michigan employment at mid-August stood at 2,459,000, according to the latest summary of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Of those working, 1,245,000 were in Detroit.

The state's idle Aug. 15 equalled 9.4 per cent of its labor force. The Detroit rate was 11.3 per cent.

MESC reported that its benefit fund, despite August payments of $9,356,507 against income of $6,311,180 had grown from a recession low of around $100,000,000 last year to $232,417,027 on Aug. 31.

Royal Couple Expects First Child in March

TOKYO (UPI) — The imperial palace confirmed Tuesday that Crown Prince Akihito and Ccrow nPrincess Michiko expect their first child early in March.

Akihito took common-born Michiko as his bride last April 10. The news of her pregnancy caused a wave of rejoicing throughout the country.

China Seat Expected to Be Denied Again

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States was expected to win quick approval today of a move to shelve for another year the question of seating Red China in the U. N.

The U. S. proposal was slated for debate in the General Assembly's 21-nation steering committee.

Although the outcome appeared certain, the debate on the China question was watched with unusual interest because of its possible bearing on the atmosphere of East-West relations during the three-month session.

★ ★ ★

The proceedings have added significance because they come almost on the eve of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's speech before the assembly Friday afternoon. Regardless of the steering committee's decision, Khrushchev was expeced to put in a strong bid for his Peiping partners.

Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon was leading the fight to have the Assembly act now on the China representation question. The Indians insisted they still felt Red China should be in the U. N. despite India's current difficulties with the Peiping regime.

★ ★ ★

A Chinese Nationalist spokesman said the Chinese Communist actions during the past year in Tibet and on the Indian border—as well as their alleged aid to Laotian rebels—would result in a setback for those who want Red China admitted.

The 82-nation Assembly last year approved a similar U. S. proposal 44-28 with 9 abstentions. The United States was reported confident the vote this year would be as large, if not larger, in favor of deferring action.

★ ★ ★

Chinese Nationalist sources said the Chinese delegation will boycott the Khrushchev speech. They also said chief delegate T. F. Tsiang will turn down an invitation to a dinner for the Soviet Premier by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

The steering committee hoped to complete its recommendations for the agenda today. There seemed little doubt that it would vote to take up all the 70 proposed items except the China representation question.

★ ★ ★

Those items included a report of the Soviet-boycotted U. N. committee on the peaceful uses of outer space, disarmament, the Algerian problem and the controversial Arab refugee question.

Churchill, 84, Candidate for Parliament

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill, 84, was announced Tuesday as a candidate for reelection to parliament in the constituency he has represented for 35 years.

Conservative Party officials at Woodford announced that Sir Winston would be the party candidate in the Oct. 8 general election.

The former prime minister, who first entered parliament in 1900, has represented the Essex town of Woodford since 1924. He never has had any trouble getting elected.

Recommends Grant for Station in Gladwin

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Communications Commission examiner has recommended a grant to Paul A. Brandt for a radio station at Gladwin, Mich., to operate on 1450 kilocycles, 100 watts, unlimited time.

Brandt is the owner of stations WCEN, Mt. Pleasant, Mich., and WCBQ, St. Helen, Mich.

New Auto Accessory: Dashboard Refrigerator

NEW YORK (UP)— A handy refrigerator that fits under an automobile dashboard and uses vapor in the car's fuel line as a refrigerant is among new products this week.

Called "strata-freeze," it has no moving parts and its only "motor" is the car engine itself. Offered by Pol-Air Inc., Morgan City, La., the refrigerator can be installed easily in any car in less than two hours, it's claimed.

Brasilia, the new capital of Brazil, will be ready for occupancy about April, 1960. The location is about 600 miles inland from the present capital of Rio de Janerio.

Mr. K's TU 114 Uses Long Runway

Plane Biggest in World

ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, Md. (UPI) — The Soviet plane which brought Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to this country is the largest passenger aircraft in the world, and this Air Force base had its troubles accommodating it.

The mammoth TU114, a jet-powered turboprop but not a true jet plane, brought Khrushchev and his party 5,000 miles from Moscow in 12 hours 20 minutes.

Strong headwinds over the Atlantic caused the plane to arrive nearly an hour late. It was to have made the flight non-stop but, as a result of battling the weather, it had to stop at Gander, Nfld., for refueling.

The 185-ton plane brought Khrushchev to this one-time headquarters of the Strategic Air Command 15 miles from Washington because the Capital's National Airport runways were too short to handle it.

If Khrushchev looked closely on landing, he could see the supersonic jet interceptors based here which stand guard against any Russian bomber attack against the Capital. The interceptors were well away from the area where the welcoming ceremonies for the Soviet premier were held, however.

★ ★ ★

Even with the more spacious area here, the TU114 used the full length of the runway in landing.

The TU114 cruises at about 450 miles an hour, 50 to 70 miles an hour slower than American jet transports. It can carry from 120 to 220 passengers, depending on the distance flown.

SPEAKING of BEAUTY

Treat Yourself Royally

THE FAIR LADY . . . Fashion's darling! Now it's smart to be truly feminine. Indulge yourself with an extra-lacey petticoat or a sheer chiffon blouse. Pin a rose at your throat, choose a rosier lipstick. You'll be lovely as a portrait by Gainsborough — and men will remember you always!

Your Crown of Beauty

Start your own "fair lady look" with the best foundation: a fine professional permanent wave. (Hair is the most beautiful of all feminine features. Be sure yours says lovely things about you always! Never let it look limp or shaggy.)

Benefits from Experience

When we give you a permanent wave you get something extra: All the benefit of our years of skill and practice . . . our thorough knowledge of hair and what it is composed of! As we brush your hair before your shampoo, we study it. Before we choose the waving lotion for your permanent we determine whether your hair is extra-porous, so that it will curl in minutes . . . whether you require a lanolin-base lotion for gleaming new beauty to replace the dried-out look . . . whether or not you need a revitalizing pharmaceutical treatment prior to your wave. That's why you can count on such a romantic new look when your wave is completed.

Donnell Hair Stylists, Miracle Mile Shopping Center, S. Telegraph at Square Lake Rd. Hours: 10 to 9 p.m. daily. FE 8-9639, with or without appointment. Air Conditioned.
