ASSOC. FOR ASIAN STUDIES MEETS IN NYC, MARCH 27-29

Asian studies, now the darling of the academic realm, are getting much publicity these days, according to Robert C. Howes, Chairman of Oakland University's Area Studies Program, one of the nation's more sophisticated undergraduate programs.

With the vital opening of negotiations with China by President Nixon, and with U.S. foreign policy reappraisals now in focus, the higher-education schools which have addressed themselves to Asian studies are in demand and in the limelight.

Dr. Howes, in commenting on Oakland University's role, cited the growing number of meetings and seminars going on around the country. For instance, the 24th Annual Meeting of the Association for Asian Studies, being held in New York City on March 27-29, is the largest and most prestigious American professional organization dealing with Asia.

OAKLAND UNIVERSITY SINGERS SPRING CONCERT, MARCH 23

The Oakland University Singers, under the direction of John Dovaras, will present its annual spring concert on Thursday evening, March 23, at eight o'clock. Free and open to the public, it will be held in the Varner Recital Hall.

Noted for its ability in performing music ranging from the traditional to the experimental avant-garde literature, the ensemble will present a newly-published work entitled "Choral Triptych" by the noted black American composer, Ulysses Kay. This will be the first Detroit-area performance of what is considered Kay's finest choral composition. "Choral Triptych" is scored for mixed chorus, solo quartet, and string orchestra.

A seldom performed choral work, "Elegy" by Beethoven, will also be featured on the program. Overshadowed by the master's more grandiose works, the "Elegy" has remained, even among professional musicians, comparatively unknown. The piece is scored for mixed chorus and strings.

The OU Singers will be assisted by the newly-formed Bloomfield Chamber Ensemble in the performances of both the Beethoven and Ulysses Kay works.

The ensemble will also premiere the contemporary Swedish composer Barne Slögedal's "Antiphona De Morte," an avant-garde composition which employs whispering, speaking, shouting, tone clusters, and singing. Other works on the program include music by Bartok, Arkhangelsky, Gibbons, Vivaldi, MacGimsey, and selections from Jerry Bock's "Fiddler On The Roof."

SERVICES OF THE STUDY ABROAD OFFICE

The Study Abroad Office assists undergraduate and graduate students who wish to study overseas. Students may enroll directly in a university overseas, join a group-study program sponsored by an American university, study independently or combine a study program with travel and a study field-term semester.

The Study Abroad Office is on campus to help students locate a program and provide them with information in the following areas of international education: part-time and permanent employment job opportunities overseas; international voluntary programs; trainee programs overseas for economics, business administration, engineering and natural science majors. Exchange programs and scholarship and fellowship opportunities for study abroad are available.

Students wishing to study overseas are encouraged to begin planning now since much written communication is involved. Application deadlines for summer and academic year programs are generally the first of March, April, and May. For further information, contact Robert Anson at 418 Wilson Hall or call 377-2060.

The announcement was made by President Roger W. Heyns of the American Council on Education in Washington, D.C.

The Program, established in 1964 under a grant from the Ford Foundation, is designed to strengthen leadership in American higher education by enlarging the number and improving the qualifications of men and women available for key positions in academic administration. Candidates are nominated by the chief executives of their institutions, and not more than forty are selected each year in the national competition.

Approval of 251 candidates receiving bachelor's degrees:
Bachelor of Arts - 221; Bachelor of Science - 30.

Approval of 2 candidates receiving diplomas in Dramatic Art.

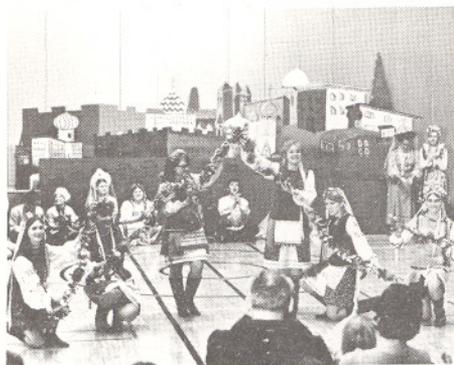

Per request by the Legislature that tuition rates be established by April 15 of each year, it was recommended and approved by the Board that Oakland University's tuition rate not change if funding remains as proposed to the Legislature by Governor Milliken. However, the Board agreed existing tuition rates ($15 credit/$20-graduate credit) could vary in the event there are major unforeseen expenses or significant changes in the proposed funding.

Adjustment of stipend for graduate assistants was recommended and approved by the Board, from $2500 to a new base of $2700 and, under special circumstances, up to $3200 on the basis of merit and longevity. This adjustment was made to improve OU's stipend comparison with other schools.

The second year reappointment of the independent auditor, Arthur Anderson and Co., for the year ending June 30, 1972, was approved by the Board.

Following the formal agenda, the Board heard food service employees in a discussion concerning Catering

MEADOW BROOK BALL MARCH 11

It was a lovely party. It didn't necessarily have to be but it truly was. And it was, because people cared and in turn, persuaded others to care. Just as simple as that.

Pryale House began it all with a key group of girls. They established the timing, the theme, and work committees to get everything done on time.

Someone made all those hundreds of tiny sandwiches, ordered the other foods, planned the help and serving assignments, scheduled the welcoming in the entrance foyer. Someone saw to it that well-informed spokeswomen were throughout the home to chat about the details.

Someone filled, and filled, and re-filled the champagne punch bowls and moved invisibly among the guests picking up and keeping the Hall sparkling. Someone continually adjusted the windows in the ballroom to keep the temperature comfortable. Hundreds of details were handled on a "first-see, first-do" basis. It was a pleasure to be there.

There were sparkling eyes and coiffures, flower-fresh gowns and Edwardian ruffled shirts, easy manners and gentle ways; introductions and small-talk; corsages and hand-in-handing.

Full-throated orchestra sounds wafted through that lovely home--penetrating to the groups in the library--to clusters of people before the glowing fireplaces. Twinkles from jewelry and pretty eyes--in cadence to music and dancing firelight.

Someone stayed very late to help with the cleanup and room checking. It was time to turn out the lights in the 100-room home--the party's over--yawn--it was a lovely party.

APPLY NOW FOR COMMUNITY SERVICE COURSE

BETTER DAYS FOR EXAMINATIONS SET

The earlier dates had originally added a day to the April series and had only two days in May.

This revision was made by the Registrar's Office as a convenience for many of the students by eliminating a Saturday.

COMMENCEMENT DATE, SUNDAY, JUNE 4, 1972

Please note the proper date for Commencement on your calendar.

Other publications earlier reported incorrect information.

It was agreed by the Board that, prior to any decisions on contract renewal in July, 1972, the representatives of the unionized food service employees (AFSCME), student employees, and the Inter-Hall Council Food Service Committee should confer with the university administration. The AFSCME representatives and student workers at the Board Meeting requested the university not renew the contract with CMI in July, 1972. No CMI representative was at the meeting.

ASIAN STUDIES cont. from pg. 3

One of our modern languages professors, Amitendranath Tagore, will discuss artists and Marxist poets and will be a panelist on Asian socialist realism.

Our sixth man, from history, Richard Tucker, will deliver a paper on Brahman and other Indian ideologies.

Dr. Howes states that student interest is rising. He noted that Oakland University was able to "do its homework" some years before and create the staff and the expertise in these vital areas.

Howes stated that O.U. has nearly 500 students in area studies, 300 of which are in Chinese studies. Howes also added that nine of the eleven faculty teaching Chinese studies speak and read Chinese. Oakland offers 13 Chinese language courses and numerous others on Chinese politics, history, art, and philosophy.
