Say French Deserting in Indochina

Reds Get Orders to Destroy Foe in Big Offensive

Loyal Troops Fighting Holding Actions to Halt Commie Advance

SAIGON, Indochina (UP) — The Communist Viet Minh radio claimed today that French Union forces were deserting to the Reds in wholesale lots as a mighty Communist offensive drove southward toward Saigon and Cambodia.

The Viet Minh slashed across Indochina's narrow waist to the border of Thailand Saturday, then wheeled southward in their biggest offensive of the war. Other rebel forces pushed northward along the tense Thailand border.

They were under orders to "destroy the enemy" wherever they found him.

The Communist radio in central Laos said a "vast area" between central Viet Nam on the coast and the Mekong River had been "liberated" and that "most" Laotian troops were deserting to the Communist Laotian government-in-hiding.

French sources reported loyal Laotian troops fighting guerrilla actions to delay the Communist advance from the Mekong River town of Thakhek toward Savannakhet, 50 miles to the south. A huge airlift poured French reinforcements into Savannakhet.

In Thailand, across the Mekong River from Thakhek, demobilization plans were canceled and troops were ordered to remain on duty for three more months.

The invasion of Laos, which followed repeated "peace" feelers by Rebel Chieftain Ho Chi Minh, caused concern throughout the free world.

In Taipeh, Formosa, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the U. S. Chiefs of Staff, said he did not believe the Reds would "be foolish enough to attack Thailand."

Radford said, however, he believed the shooting would be localized and wouldn't "bring about a world war" if the Communists poured into Thailand.

French newspapers in Paris appealed for outside aid or for help in arranging a truce to end the war in Indochina, now in its eighth year.

Born in Snowbound Plane, Infant Dies Before Rescue

WINNIPEG (UP) — A weary bush pilot told today how he delivered a baby in a downed plane and kept it alive for six days only to see death win the drama a few hours before Air Force rescue teams arrived.

Pilot Paul Rickey of Winnipeg acted as midwife to Mrs. Annanias Harper 24 hours after bad weather forced him to make an emergency landing in darkness on a snowbound nameless lake 280 miles north of here.

Mrs. Harper's two children, Robert 6 and Elizabeth 4, were his only assistants.

"It was a rough deal and I'm sorry the baby had to die," Rickey said in an interview from a hospital at Island Lawe, Man.

"Mrs. Harper and the two kids were wonderful. We had just enough food to feed the youngsters and attempt to keep the newborn child alive."

The infant died Sunday a short time before the downed Cessna plane was found by an Air Force Dakota piloted by F-L O. Koral about 40 miles north of Island Lake. Koral's navigator, F-O R. B. Jefferd, spotted it lying in deep snowbanks.

Seven RCAF search planes carrying para-rescue teams had scoured the area since last Wednesday, two days after Rickey had set out to fly the Indian mother to a maternity hospital and take her two children to a mission for Christmas.

"We were very lucky to have seen the Cessna," navigator Jefferd said. "It was half-covered by snow and under a line of trees by the shore of the lake, and could easily have been missed."

Rickey, 37, and his three passengers were taken out to Island

Army Prepares to Bring Troops Out From Korea

Decision on Units Not Yet Known; Planning May Take Some Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Army set out today to carry out President Eisenhower's order for reducing infantry forces in Korea, a dramatic first example of the "new look" military policy going into effect.

A spokesman said the decision on which two of the six army divisions in Korea would be withdrawn initially from the armistice-silenced front was one for the Far East Army Command to decide.

Officials of that command said departure of the divisions could not come immediately. There were indications that a procedure used in Europe at the close of World War II would be followed in Korea.

At that time, men whose overseas duty was nearing an end were transferred into a division earmarked for return and men in that division with short service were assigned to an outfit scheduled to stay.

That process takes several weeks at a minimum. The high level decision to start cutting Army ground force strength was not reached until about 10 days ago and the detailed instructions began to filter down to the working level of the Army only over the weekend.

Eisenhower, in the formal statement he issued at Augusta, Ga., left out all reference to overall military manpower policy changes. But the action obviously could have eventual influence on the size of the Army.

The goal of the Defense Department under Secretary Wilson is to reduce total Army strength from a present level of about 1½ million men to 1,165,000 by July 1, 1955. This, Wilson has contended, can be accomplished without impairing the combat effectiveness of the Army, by reducing support and service troops.

The return of two divisions from Korea can reduce some of the high maintenance required for troops on foreign station.

Death Steps In: Two Sleds Idle at Crescent Lake

Two sleds and a bicycle in front of a home at 5480 Brunswick Rd., Crescent Lake, stand as mute testimony to the childhood play that was interrupted by death Sunday.

Frank Drake, 11, and his sister, Katherine, 6, died in an auto crash with their parents, David, 35, and Alma, 32, near Addison.

The family left their small home Saturday to visit relatives in Hillsdale. The sled and bike were left in front of the home as the children joined their parents for the ride south.

Frank gave a Christmas present to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brittan of 5500 Elizabeth Lake Rd. as his father was getting his car readied for the trip at the Brittan's gas station.

"It's not much," Frankie told Mrs. Brittan, "but it's a gift from me and not from Santa Claus."

Then the family left.

The next day a skidding car crashed into their homeward bound auto and ended forever any plans the children had to continue the play that was interrupted.

POW Question Left Up to Foes

Neutral Majority Gives Issue Back to U. N. and Communists

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A three-member majority of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission today turned back to the U. N. and Communist commands the question of what to do with more than 22,000 war prisoners who have refused to go home.

An Indian command spokesman said that if the two commands reach no agreement by Jan. 22, "we do not appear to have any legal right to hold them (the prisoners)."

The majority report was signed by the Indian chairman and by Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Switzerland and Sweden filed a minority report saying it was "appropriate" to refer the prisoner problem back to the two commands. But the Swiss and Swedes said they could see no reason for a formal report at this time. They refused to sign the 44-page majority document which also charged South Korean interference in anti-Communist compounds and criticized the U. N. Command.

Official sources said there was little prospect that the majority report would lead to settlement of the bitter prisoner dispute.

The Allies hold that the armistice provides specifically that unrepatriated prisoners be freed as civilians 30 days after the close of a 90-day period for explanations. That would mean the prisoners must be freed Jan. 22.

The Communists just as firmly contend that they are entitled to 90 days of actual explanations rather than a 90-day period which ended Dec. 23. They have used 10 days. The Reds also insist that the prisoners remain in custody pending action by the peace conference, regardless of when a conference is convened.

2,200 Michigan GIs to Leave Far East

DETROIT (UP)— At least 2,200 Michigan servicemen will return from the Far East as a result of President Eisenhower's decision to reduce American forces in Korea, the Michigan Military District announced Sunday.

The President revealed Saturday he plans to recall two U. S. divisions from Korea in 1954.

Col. James Colson, commanding officer of the Michigan Military District, said the exact number of men from the state who will be affected by the recall depends upon which divisions are decided upon. Mr. Eisenhower did not specify the divisions.

Colson said, however, that regardless of which units were named, at least 2,200 state GI's would be affected, with "possibly 2,500 if the right divisions are chosen."

43 Plucked From Icy Sea After Vessel Splits in Two

NEW YORK (AP)—Rescue vessels plucked the last of 43 persons from open lifeboats on icy, wind-lashed North Atlantic seas yesterday, hours after the survivors' freighter had split in two.

The dramatic rescue operations, hampered by a heavy sea, were completed by the U. S. Military Sea Transport ship Bluejacket and the Finnish freighter Orion.

Both ships then continued toward their European destinations. But the Bluejacket went only about 15 miles before huge waves made it pull up to ride out the storm.

"Hove to due to mountainous seas and severe storm," the ship messaged the Military Sea Transport Service in New York.

The Bluejacket was first on the scene after the Swedish freighter Oklahoma sent out distress signals. The American vessel took 36 of the survivors aboard and reported all were in good condition.

The seven on the Orion could also be assumed to be unhurt, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The 43 survivors, including one stewardess, were the entire crew of the Oklahoma and the only persons aboard her. The Coast Guard said all are believed to be Europeans.

A message from the Bluejacket quoted the Oklahoma's skipper, Robert Kutschbach, as saying the vessel broke in two about midships.

Efforts to find the ship later were unsuccessful. Kutschbach messaged the ship's general freight agents, Furness-Withy & Co. of New York, that it had probably sunk. However, a Coast Guard spokesman said the search would continue today.

Kutschbach gave the position of the Oklahoma when she split as about 400 miles off Newfoundland. The 5,900-ton vessel was headed

Adenauer Sure of Big 4 Parley

Confident That the West Will Agree to Russian Delay Till Jan. 25

BONN, Germany (UP) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was reported confident today that the Western powers will accept a Soviet suggestion to hold the Big Four foreign ministers conference on Jan. 25.

Adenauer told friends attending a reception for his daughter at the chancellery that the United States, Britain and France always had felt the Russians would seek a delay from the originally proposed Jan. 4 starting date.

In addition, Adenauer and West German officials in general felt that there was no fundamental barrier to the conference in the Soviet objection to holding it in the building of the Allied Kommandatura in West Berlin.

The West had suggested this structure for the meeting, but the Soviets said this was a matter for settlement by the Berlin representatives of the four powers.

Feeling here was that the Russians will suggest holding alternate sessions in the west and east sectors of Berlin.

David F. Drakes Perish as Cars Crash Head-on

Accident Occurs Near Addison; State Traffic Claims 33 Victims

A Pontiac area family of four was killed Sunday in one of a series of holiday accidents that took at least 33 lives in Michigan and killed 711 across the nation, 519 in traffic.

The David F. Drake family, 5480 Brunswick Rd., Crescent Lake, perished in a head-on crash on U. S. 127, a mile north of Addison in Lenawee County.

Those killed instantly were David Drake, 35; his wife, Alma, 32, and a son, Frank 11. A daughter, Katherine, 6, died in Ann Arbor University Hospital shortly after the afternoon accident.

The Drakes were returning home from a Christmas visit with relatives in Hillsdale when a car driven by Mary Stover, 21, of Jackson, struck their auto head-on.

Miss Stover told Lenawee County sheriff's deputies her car skidded on snow-covered ice and spun into the oncoming car. She is reported in fair condition in the Addison hospital.

Drake, a Pontiac barber, and his family spent Christmas at home, then left Saturday for a visit with Mrs. Drake's relatives. The Drakes have lived at Crescent lake six years.

Five of the Michigan holiday deaths were members of Flat Rock's Ross Hurst family. The mother and four children were killed when their home burned down Christmas morning.

Among the latest reported dead were:

Edward N. Moore, 23, of Detroit who died Monday of introit who died today of incar missed a turn in Macomb County.

Judge Backs Council in Hazel Park Row

A show cause order on why the appointment of Louis Elias as Hazel Park mayor should not be nullified was dismissed today by Oakland County Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick.

The court was asked to nullify city council action in appointing Elias a second time on Dec. 14 by Charles K Lawson, president of the Hazel Park Civic Improvement Assn.

Council members appointed Elias a second time on Dec. 14 in a move to circumvent Lawson's suit.

Lawson said he oposed Elias as mayor because he is a stockholder in the Hazel Park race track.

In handing down his decision Judge Hartrick said the Dec. 4 meeting could not be considered a closed session since proceedings were recorded in the minutes.

Ike's Cabinet Members Report

End of World Tension, Tax Reduction Among '54 Goals

WASHINGTON (UP)—An end of world tension, better U. S. military defenses, exposure of Red leaders in this country, and reduced taxes are among the 1954 goals of President Eisenhower's cabinet.

The 10 cabinet members also want:

Early amendment of the Taft-Hartley Labor-Management Act.

Expanded social security and wage-hour law coverage.

These goals are described and discussed in separate signed articles by the cabinet members in the January issue of "Nation's Business," a monthly magazine published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Among 1953 achievements they listed the end of the Korea War, seizure of the "initiative" in the cold war, a $6,000,000,000 spending cut, and improvement of mail service.

The statements amounted to a preview of Mr. Eisenhower's State of the Union Message to Congress Jan. 7.

Discussing foreign policy aims, secretary of State John Foster Dulles said the free nations have seized the "diplomatic offensive" from Russia.

"We have, you might say, chased Soviet Russia across the map of Europe and Asia in our efforts to get its rulers to negotiate," Dulles said. "Now it is beginning to look as if we have caught them. . ."

Dulles said administration policies "are proving successful."

"The fighting in Korea has ended on terms which establish the principle that the weak shall not be the easy prey of great offensive forces," he said.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson hailed the end of the Korean War, the return of American prisoners, and the "orderly" $5,300,000,000 cut in the defense budget as first-year milestones of the Eisenhower administration.

He said the nation now has "the most powerful and effective air force in the world" with the best equipment and best pilots, and "we must continue to have air power second to none."

Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., indicated the Justice Department plans a new drive to convict known spies and uncover Red "higher-ups" if Congress grants two laws he has requested.

Brownell said his second request,

Marriage Links Royal Families

Archduke of Hapsburg Claims Bride in Rite at French Town

BOURG-EN-BRESSE, France (AP) —The royal families of Austria-Hungary and Italy were linked today by the marriage of Archduke Robert of Hapsburg to statuesque Princess Marguerite of Savoy-Aosta at a simple ceremony in this drab little market town's city hall.

Hundreds of Austrians and Italians still loyal to the new defunct crowns of their nations swelled the crowds of curious who stood in a cold mist outside the grim 18th century hall to watch the royal couple come and go.

Archduke Robert, 38 and 6 feet 2, is second in line for the Hapsburg throne, which toppled at the end of World War I. Princess Marguerite, 23, and a stately 6 feet herself, is somewhat farther down the line of inheritance for the crown of Italy, which was abolished after World War II. Her uncle, ex-King Umberto of Italy, was among the titled guests attending the ceremony. Robert's older brother, Archduke Otto, whom Austrian royalists call Emperor of Austria-Hungary, also was there.

The couple will go through a much more colorful and impressive church ceremony tomorrow in the 400-year-old church of Brou, which has been preserved by the state as an architectural monument and will be reconsecrated as a Holy place for one day especially for the royal wedding.

* * *

Mayor Amedee Mercier, sitting on a dais behind a curved, green-covered table in the high-ceilinged municipal council room, performed the civil marriage ceremony required by French law. The bride and bridegroom and their witnesses sat in a semi-circle on Louis XV chairs before him.

The bride was dressed in a blue-grey velvet gown under a beaver fur coat. Her hat was a matching blue-grey toque, set well back on her head. The bridegroom, looking thinner and taller than ever, wore a dark blue double-breasted suit.

The bridegroom's two witnesses, his younger brothers, Archdukes Charles and Rudolph, work in the United States--Charles in Washington with a Belgian firm and Rudolph in a New York City bank.

The bride's witnesses were Duke Filiberto of Pistoria and Duke Adelberto of Bergamo.

None of Europe's still-reigning royalty was represented at the ceremony.

Mrs. Harper, from Therese Point, Man., said the temperature dipped to 20 below one night as all four huddled inside the plane.

The Cessna was equipped with rations, heater, and blankets when it landed Monday night. Rickey said the craft had a radio, but it was not working properly.

The veteran bush pilot said he couldn't take off again after the emergency landing because of the heavy snow blanketing the bush country.

Authorities at Island Lake Hospital said the four were suffering from mild exposure and lack of food, but would be out of the hospital soon.

"They were in remarkably good shape for living six days in the bush," a doctor said. "The mother was worst off because of the childbirth, but she will be all right."

Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey repeated previous statements that the administration "will set a pattern o. (tax) reduction on which a modest start will be made, with provision for additional reductions" as the situation premits.

While he did not elaborate, informed sources said Humphrey will propose further tax cuts in addition to expiration of the excess profits tax and the 10 percent income tax cut, slated to take effect Jan. 1.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson said price supports, "properly used," are an "effective stabilization device" and "the price support principle must be part of any long-range farm program." But supports "should not be used in ways that will discourage needed shifts in production and in the use of our land and human resources."

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said "we are working toward early amendment of the (Taft-Hartley) Labor-Management Relations Act of 1947.

The goal of our changes will be to provide maximum encouragement of collective bargaining, peaceful relations between labor and management, and a minimum of government interference in labor relations."

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield wrote "Americans are getting better mail service today. Postal transportaion is being modernized along with the department's personnel methods. The Truman Administration's estimated deficit of $746,000,000 for the current fiscal year has been cut to about $440,000,000 thus far."

Deadline for receiving entries has been extended to Jan. 2 in the 1953 distinguished service award contest sponsored by Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Any individual, club or civic organization can nominate a local man, not necessarily a Jaycee, for the award.

Names plus a brief summary of the candidate's community service record should be sent to the Jaycee office, 34 E. Pike St. The award will be presented Jan. 11 at the Jaycee Bosses' Night dinner.

Assess Damage in Rail Mishap

Officials Report $5,000 as Cost of Train - Car Wreck Saturday

Grand Trunk Western Railroad officials said today the derailment of a locomotive and a mail car here Saturday near the Franklin road crossing caused an estimated $5,000 damage.

C. E. Stack, Pontiac general yardmaster, said the figures includes overall damage to the engine and tender, mail car, tracks and a switch.

The locomotive demolished a disabled auto, owned by Donald R. Ogg, 18, of 877 Stanley Ave. Ogg jumped to safety after he received warning from a passenger, that a train was approaching the crossing. A switch was tripped by the car after it was pushed about 1,000 feet by the westbound engine. Stack said eight cars were being pulled by the engine.

Stack said that maintenance crews worked from shortly after midnight Friday until 6:45 p.m. Saturday, when the engine and car were set upright. Neither the engine nor the car was seriously damaged, according to Stack.

The train continued to its destination in Muskegon after a two hour delay, when another engine was coupled to the cars.

Rome Court Backs British Oil Firm

ROME (AP)—A Rome court, ruling in a minor case, today handed down the first local decision favorable to the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. since the British firm began fighting to retain its Iranian oil rights.

The civil tribunal denied claims of damages by an Italian Company, Italpetroli, which had tried to import Persian oil into Italy.

Italpetroli claimed damages on grounds it was forced to cancel plans to import the oil because of action by AIOC.

* * *

The British company warned Italpetroli against the imports, claiming an exclusive right to all Iranian Oil. The company has threatened legal action against anyone buying oil from the Iranian government, which has nationalized its holdings in that Middle East country.

After canceling its import plans, the Italian firm asked AIOC to pay it back for "heavy expenses" already incurred in the project.

The court did not publish reasons for its decision, other than declaring Italpetroli had no grounds for the claims.

The last survivors were taken from the fourth life boat around 3:45 a.m. Sunday, nearly 12 hours after the Oklahoma radioed it had split.

A spokesman for Furness-Withy said the Oklahoma was owned by the Transatlantic Steam Ship Co. Ltd. of Goteborg. Although no details had been received yet, he said, the ship's crack-up was presumably due to the stormy weather.

Yeager Flight Blood-Chilling

Rocket Plane Went Out of Control in Historic 1,650 M.P.H. Test

WASHINGTON (UP) — Maj. Charles E. Yeager's historic flight at 1,650 miles an hour in a rocket plane was a blood-chilling experience which proves that such speed is not just around the corner for ordinary men and airplanes.

Informed sources disclosed today that the Bell X-1A rocket ship went out of control when the apparently nerveless test pilot had climbed it to an altitude of more than 70,000 feet and a speed of 2½ times the velocity of sound.

The experimental plane "dropped" approximately 50,000 feet, or some 10 miles, before Yeager had it under control again.

If the 30-year-old Air Force major lives to be 100, one government official said, he will have lived 70 years on borrowed time.

His flight was one of the great scientific achievements of the year just passed. It indicated that much scientific investigation has yet to be done before practical military airplanes can be designed to fly as fast.

Yeager, who in October 1947 became the first man ever to fly faster than the speed of sound, made his 1,650 m.p.h. flight on Dec. 12 from Edwards Air Force Base, California.

He retrieved his title of world's fastest man, being the first ever to travel 2½ times as fast as as sound. Sonic speed is 660 m. p. h. at the altitude where Yeager flew.

The flight was made just prior to the Dec. 17 celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Wright Brothers' first flight in 1903 at Kitty Hawk, N. C., and President Eisenhower mentioned the terrific speed in a speech here honoring the Wrights' memory.

It was learned there are some government officials who contend the quest for the record speed in a research airplane was pressed too hard. They argue the X-1A should have been pushed into unknown speed regions more gradually in a longer series of flights. Yeager made his mark on the X-1A's fourth flight.

The plucky test pilot conceded at a Dec. 17 news conference here that his ride was "not a gravy run. . . not a very soft drive" but he skillfully skirted questions about what went wrong, other than to indicate the controls gave trouble.

During his 50,000-foot descent, the plane apparently rolled violently. At about 20,000 feet he had control again and was able to glide to a landing, informed sources said.

SMILE HIS PROMOTION—Lee Dia Koon, Korean war orphan, flashes his promotion-winning smile for foster-father, Sgt. William Freer, of Toledo, Ohio, at a Fifth Air Force Base in Korea. New York Trains Collide; None Hurt

ROME, N. Y. (AP) — Three cars of a westbound freight train derailed near here early today, and one struck the New York Central express.

There were no injuries. The mishap occurred about 1½ miles east of the Rome station.

There were between 175 and 200 passengers aboard the passenger train en route from Chicago to Boston.

Cause of the derailment was not known immediately.

Three of the four main line tracks were blocked, leaving open one eastbound track. Westbound trains were routed over the Central's West Shore division, which is normally used for freight traffic.

Both trains apparently were moving slowly at the time.

Post Office Roof May Be Heliport

NEW YORK (INS)—The time is coming when every post office roof in larger U.S. cities will have heliport potentialties.

This prediction was made recently by Charles Froesch, Eastern Air Lines Vice President of Engineering, when he spoke before the American Society of Civil engineers.

Foresch said that New York, for instance, could use its spanning docks as a suitable location in future planning of a new post office because the heliport would require a roof of the size of a city block with clear approach paths.

Foreseeing the introduction of commercial helicopter transports, Foresch said this would produce a profound change in local patterns. He explained:

"This may happen in three stages, the first being that we have today, using three 10-passenger machines.

"The second phase may see operation of from 30 to 50-passenger helicopters. These will be commercial versions of present military designs.

"The third phase will be the integration of improved helicopters in all local schedule operation as feeders to trunkline stations and transferring to long range aircraft."

Retirement Age Open to Debate

But Civil Service Men Agree Fixed Limit Not Always Best

CHICAGO (UP) — A fixed age limit is the easiest but probably not the best way to decide when public employes should retire, according to the Civil Service Assembly.

Four top administrators gave that answer when the assembly asked them their preference between a flexible and a mandatory retirement age.

John Anson FORD, CHAIMN O

John Anson Ford, chairman of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, suggested rating by fellow employes as a possible solution to the problem.

A ballot listing the chief essentials of the job could be filled out by associates with an intimate knowledge of how the retiring employe works, Ford said.

H. Eliot Kaplan, chairman of the Presiden's Committee on Retirement Policy for Federal Personnel, said he formerly advocated arbitrary retirement but now believes that compulsory action may mean a great loss to public service.

Frederick N. MacMillin, executive secretary of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, felt that the retirement age should be set at 65, but that the administrator should decide each case on its merits.

Don C. McMillan, city manager of Pasadena, Calif., recommended setting an age — perhaps 60 — at which each worker must begin to submit to annual physical examinations to determine whether he is fit to continue in his job.

Siamese Cat Allergic to Census Bureau Mail

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When census enumerator Dan Kennedy found no one home after several visits to a residence here, he dropped a Census Bureau form into the mail slot.

It came flying right back out. He tried again. Same thing. Kennedy peered through the mail slot. Inside was a Siamese cat, which had been batting the envelope back at him with its paws.

Pet Crow Is Spooky

Open Annex for French National Library

PARIS (UP)—The French National Library, which has already burrowed deep underground with its millions of books, documents and art treasures is preparing to open an annex to handle the overflow.

Some 50,000 new items a year are driving the directors frantic. The card catalogue alone, which already occupies a huge room, is growing by 300,000 cards a year.

The 234-year-old mausoleum in the heart of downtown Paris is moving its surplus to Versailles.

The library's growing hoard of treasures, supervised by Julien Cain, already includes 6,000,000 books, hundreds of thousands of periodicals, 160,000 manuscripts, more than 5,000,000 engravings, 400,000 rate coins, and a huge collection of photographed documents, musical scores, precious jewels, ivory and bronze.

Since its gloomy old building couldn't be heightened or widened, the library long ago took to digging underground, and several subterranean floors now house huge book-lined vaults.

The annex in Versailles is a modernistic building, specially designed to house the priceless documents that are part of France's cultural heritage.

Nurses Numerous; Still Not Enough

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UP) — There are more nurses today than ever before, but the demand for them has surpassed the number that existing educational systems can supply.

Dr. Margaret Bridgman, consultant of the National League for Nursing, said persons giving nursing care exceed 700,000 less than half of whom are professional registered nurses. At least 250,000 have had little or no training, she said.

Over-all, some 72,500 nurses are in teaching, supervisory, and administrative positions.

Dr. Bridgman, dean for more than 20 years at Skidmore College, has written "Collegiate Education for Nursing" from ideas culled from her visits to more than 80 colleges and universities and discussions with educators, health groups, and community forums.

Dr. Bridgman does not advocate college degrees for all nurses, but stresses the need for extended and improved opportunities in higher education. She said nursing is a broad occupational field requiring preparations of different kinds and lengths.

Senate Worker Probe Is Flop

Failure to Vote Funds, Senators' Disinterest Halts Checkup

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed loyalty-security checkup on all the approximately 1,800 employes of the Senate has bogged down, although it was recommended by a unanimous Senate vote 10 months ago.

J. Mark Trice, Senate secretary, and several senators who asked that their names not be used, cited three reasons for the plan's failure:

(1) A legal prohibition against disclosure of FBI data to persons not authorized to receive it, (2) failure of the Senate to vote the FBI special funds to help with the checkup, and (3) disinterest on the part of some senators.

* * *

Last March 6 the Senate unanimously passed a resolution, which does not have the force of law, directing that each of the 96 senators, all Senate committees and all Senate officials having authority to hire ask an FBI check of their employes.

* * *

Trice said numerous conferences between Senate leaders, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and Justice Department officials had failed to untangle the legal snarl. The FBI is barred from turning loyalty data over to Congress, except for that on judicial appointees.

Sen. McCarran (D-Nev), who sponsored the move for a loyalty and security check on Senate employes, said all his staff "have been cleared."

But several other senators, who asked that their names not be used, said they had not asked a check on their employes. No figures are publicly available on how many have done so.

Big Drop in Disease Reported by Army

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Army medical service reports the disease rate in the armed services is steadily decreasing with the help of miracle drugs and new procedures and techniques in care and handling of sick and wounded soldiers.

During World War I, 41.5 of every 1,000 soldiers were not available for duty because of disease. During World War II the rate was reduced to 28.5 per 1,000 and in the Korean conflict to 18.4 for each 1,000.

Gilliland's Conviction

In convicting Clayton Gilliland of conspiracy to obstruct justice a Lapeer County jury has started another chapter in the 20 year legal fight over the failure of a mutual insurance association.

The eight men and four women who deliberated eight hours voted to acquit Gilliland's three co-defendants. All four were accused of conspiracy with others unnamed, to resist Sheriff Gregory's June 2, 1952, attempt to serve an eviction notice on the late Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens.

That notice followed Mrs. Stevens' refusal to pay a $172 assessment against her farm as a result of the failure of the Lapeer Farmers Mutual Insurance Association.

Though she could have settled the claim at one time for one dollar, on the advice of Gilliland she refused and lost her farm. It was the latter's contention that the eviction wasn't legal despite a contrary opinion by the State Supreme Court.

Though stunned by the verdict, Gilliland who has been advising the farmers since 1933, is expected to appeal his conviction. That action and the cases of several others awaiting trial on similar charges mean that the end of this long drawn out costly legal fight still isn't in sight.

One participant, however, has learned that law and order and the government of Michigan are stronger than any group of obdurate and ill-advised farmers. He is Erwin C. Russell, now serving a one and a half to two year prison term for manhandling Sheriff Gregory.

Ike's New Strategy

For one thing it is evident that the President has decided to play a dominant role in Administration relations with the lawmakers. He called the conferences himself and attended every session. Moreover, at the end of each session he gave newsmen a personal summary of the discussions.

Political experts haven't missed the fact that this display of Executive initiative has come on the heels of another significant development. That was the President's release for the first time in history of a tape recording of an entire White House press conference. This hints his intention of maintaining more direct contact with the people.

Another noteworthy feature of the conferences was the evident realization of all concerned that GOP success in the 1954 election depends on the party's record in the second session.

Also evident was the President's determination that the Administration program not only will be dynamic and progressive but Republican in spirit and appeal. More important, it will be largely his program, including a new farm policy, Taft-Hartley revision, defense economies to bring budget balance nearer and improved Social Security.

This doesn't mean the program is inflexible. The door was left open for changes in details. But the President made it clear that there would be no compromise on principles.

Finally, it was apparent that he would continue to propose forward looking legislation regardless of what Congress does with his program. This naturally would leave dissenters without any ground for asking re-election as members of the Eisenhower team.

On the whole the conference would be reassuring to all Republicans. The President has shown willingness to exert strong leadership while avoiding either surrender to Congress or any semblance of dictation to it.

Steel Prospects Good

Because steel is a basic industry, the market for it is one of the most accurate guides to business conditions in the months immediately ahead.

That fact lends added importance to a statement just released by the American Iron and Steel Institute. Though the year just ending was marked by an all time record high production, 112,000,000 tons, the institute says there is no indication of a substantial setback in the near future.

It is true that as the year wanes the industry no longer is operating at or above its full capacity. Nonetheless production is reported closely related to actual demand. Moreover, the institute says that the demand for steel is still brisk, although moderately reduced from the unusually high levels of a few months ago.

This is important news not only to the 685,000 employes of the steel industry, but to millions of others in industries dependent on steel.

Also encouraging is the institute's reminder that over the long pull the use of steel will increase with the rising demands of a growing population, new and higher living standards and the development of new products.

Daffynition

Talk: What if you do too much you'll listen too little.

"When did the electric trolley lines first feel the impact of the automobile?" asks

"Pontiac Old Timer,"

in a letter to this column. I am told by

Roy Annett,

who was superintendent of the Pontiac-Detroit electric line through its busiest years, that it was not until the early 1920s that it became apparent that there was a threat the world might go on rubber. He resigned his position in 1923, but recollects that it was on April 23, 1931, that the trolleys made their final run. According to

of 56 Moreland Ave., who was a conductor on the Pontiac city lines for many years, they made their last trip on Nov. 14, 1931.

Another young man from this area, now in Pasadena with the Michigan State College Band is of Walled Lake, who plays a saxaphone.

James Voorheis

The migrating birds put off their southbound trip until they were sure that we really were to have some winter. Several Pontiac area residents report an enormous flock of wild geese, estimated at from 200 to 300, flew low over this section just after last week's snow, honking a vigorous farewell.

A large inside Christmas tree, which will operate until after New Year's Day, has a miniature village beneath it at the home of

A. L. Branch Says Vote Is Up to Individual

The recent Michigan CIO News edition contained the following: (1) Implied criticism of the cut in military spending; (2) criticism of the rising cost of living; (3) a suggestion for extending non-military foreign aid; and (4) a proposal for cutting income taxes.

Cut taxes, raise expenditures and gripe about the consequences. Is this part of a coherent policy? Or is it a drunken mirage in a wishing well?

In the South the lack of a decent wage scale has forced many of us to seek employment elsewhere. The recent memory of this enhances the pride and privilege of being a union member.

But, can we not accept the advantages and responsibilities of collective bargaining and still decide how we want to vote?

His Wish

"What do you wish?" the waiter asked the glamorous blonde.

"I'll have soup, fish, chicken, vegetables, ice cream and wine," said the blonde.

"And what is your wish, sir?" the waiter asked her escort.

"I wish I hadn't brought her," he said sorrowfully.

Ike Plan to Withdraw GIs From Korea May Pave Way for Third World War

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Announcement of the proposed withdrawal of two divisions of American troops — about 35,000 men — from Korea is a step fraught with possible consequences of the gravest character.

It could conceivably be the genesis of World War III some day, if Soviet Russia makes a miscalculation based on this decision by America.

For it is unprecedented in military history to find any nation which has been fighting a war and has agreed to an armistice suddenly announcing that it will withdraw a substantial number of its troops from the fighting zone.

If there had been a peace treaty signed or some pledge given against new aggression by the enemy, the withdrawal might be rationalized as having been required by a peace agreement in return for concession of some kind.

But not only has there been no agreement on a time or place for a peace conference on the Korean question, but the very membership of the conference hasn't been decided upon. The two sides which fought the war are not even negotiating at the moment on any of these three points.

Just as Secretary Acheson in January 1950 by his speech which eliminated Korea from America's defense perimeter may have unwittingly encouraged the Communists to commit their aggression across the 38th parallel a few months later, so the withdrawal of the American divisions today may be misinterpreted and new aggression begun in a few months.

Certainly the impact of the American decision on the morale of the Korean people and their army will be disturbing. For America to start reducing her armed forces even before a peace conference begins is bound to be disconcerting to the Korean populace, which will be apprehensive about another attack from the north at any moment.

It is true that President Eisenhower has said that any such aggression would be met with retaliatory blows by American naval and air power, but the Communists know this is an empty threat.

They are well aware that American sea power and air power didn't prevent the crossing of the Yalu River into North Korea by a million Chinese Communists. Nor drive them out of North Korea — they are still there.

Besides, Great Britain is on record as opposing any future operations beyond the Yalu against the enemy bases. Without permission to conduct a strategic air campaign against such bases, air power is not decisive, as three years of warfare in Korea have tragically revealed.

Is there any other possible explanation for President Eisenhower's move? The only one that makes sense is that the United States is anticipating shortly an appeal from the South Korean government for money and supplies to train and equip more divisions of its own to replace the Americans.

At present the Korean government has 18 divisions of about 12,000 men each at the front and, together with its support troops, has about 700,000 men in all under arms. It costs America about $5,000 a year to support one of its own men in uniform, whereas Korea can do it for about a twentieth of that amount.

What South Korea needs is about 1,250,000 men under arms to maintain the armistice line, and if that should cost the United States somewhere about $315,000,000 a year, it would be inexpensive insurance in maintaining the "frontier of freedom" in the Far East. Also, all American ground troops then could come home.

If the purpose of the Eisenhower announcement is to pave the way for a buildup of the Korean Army, and if this is soon made plain to the Korean people, the move will be regarded with enthusiasm there.

Something has to be done to keep up the Korean morale, especially since it is now conceded by the American envoy, Arthur Dean, that the Communist Chinese government is integrating North Korea into the Manchurian economy.

It is believed, moreover, that the Chinese Communist government is planning to make North Korea a part of Red China. This form of annexation could happen if a peace treaty to unify Korea is never signed.

Possibly Eisenhower didn't know of the Communist intentions for a Christmas Day drive across Indochina when he arranged for the withdrawal of the two American divisions from Korea, and sent Adm. Arthur W. Radford and Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson to Seoul to explain the move to President Rhee.

But now that the Communists have completely disregarded the warning issued by Secretary Dulles last summer against further aggression in Indochina, it does look as if the Communists aren't taking any statements by the American government very seriously. This is the road to further aggression.

To cut Indochina in half at the 16th parallel in the face of all the strong words issued by the American government and in the light of the United Nations' resolutions against aggression does make it appear as if Moscow and Peiping think the Americans and their allies are committed to further withdrawals.

Appeasement in 1938 brought on World War II. The appeasement of 1953 in the Far East may be misconstrued by the Communists as weakness and could lead to a greater challenge which would make World War III inevitable.

Appeasement never pays. It's always more costly in the long run than firmness at the decisive moments of history.

'Sabbath Was Made for Man,' Exclaimed Jesus

Jesus even called Peter "Satan" so how do you think he would feel about Thelma's mother? Many of Christ's followers have caused great friction because they are too imbued with their man made rituals and not conversant with Christ's own words and deeds. Read the Bible and get the straight facts.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case J-379: Thelma R., aged 24, is engaged to a chemical engineer.

"Dr. Crane, my parents oppose my marriage very much," Thelma said as tears came into her eyes. "They believe I will never go to heaven if I leave my church. But my husband-to-be is a member of another church.

"And his parents feel that he will never go to heaven if he leaves his church.

"So we feel under the circumstances that we should join a third denominaton. Then each will be making the same sacrifice.

"But my mother objects bitterly for she says I will be sacrificing more than he will, since she says his religion doesn't count, anyway.

"Dr. Crane, what do you think about such matters?"

It might be better to ask what God would doubtless think of such church egotists, within the realm of Christianity. No church has a monpoly of the keys to heaven.

It is true, however, that a distinct difference exists between the products of the various religions of the world.

For example, Jesus has stood for the importance of man, whether he be rich or poor, prominent or inconspicuous.

So Jesus has produced a very different type of civilization than has the Hindu religion, where the caste system and poverty have gone along for centuries holding hapless individuals in eternal misery and hopelessness.

The Shinto religion of Japan has likewise not been able to compare with the ethics of Christ who preached no racial prejudice and indicted church organizations for trying to make the church superior to mankind.

"The Sabbath was made for man; not man for the Sabbath," Jesus caustically exclaimed, in condemning the High Priests for their emphasis on "form" versus "substance."

Even the wise pronouncements of Confucious and his own exemplary life have never been able to engender the humanitarian work of the YMCA or Red Cross, the Salvation Army and the other uplifting societies of Christianity.

For Jesus put a "heart" into ethics. But he never intended his followers to forget his fundamentals.

So when various sects within Christianity try to lay a monopolistic claim to Jesus or his Sermon on the Mount, you can immediately tell them to go back and read their New Testament.

Even while Jesus was on earth, his Apostles began to quarrel over matters of precedence, arguing as to who would sit on Christ's right hand in the world to come.

And when his Apostles found others doing good and healing the sick in Christ's name, they came to him as tattletales, thinking he would damn such preachers as impostors.

They wanted to establish a religious monopoly then and there and create a "one and only" Christian church.

But what did Jesus do? He recognized their selfish egotism and put his O.K. on the development of a rival Christian sect, even while he was still living here on earth. Read Mark 9: 38-40.

When Peter tried to alter Christ's teachings, Jesus rebuked Peter and actually called Peter "Satan." See Mark 8:33.

When Dr. Banting discovered insulin, he didn't try to limit its use to a privileged few doctors of his own fraternity or college.

No sirree! Any doctor can employ this lifesaving drug to help mankind.

Jesus said "Whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, believing ye shall receive," so he doesn't limit his benefits to any one church.

Read the Bible and get back to the "grass roots" of Christianity. Jesus said nothing at all about joining the Baptists or Lutherans or Catholics or Mormons or Methodists or any other sect to get into heaven.

Again Dr. Brady Answers Questions Which He Calls Pretty Dumb Perennials

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

THE MAIL BOX

It seems as though the average layman, who has had two years of high school, is as dumb as ever about questions of physiology, hygiene, health and disease.

The queries that come in the daily mail include these hardy perennials:

Q. Is it dangerous to let food stand in the can after opening the can?

A.—No.

Q. Please tell me something to put in my husband's coffee to make him stop drinking?

A.—There is no such remedy. Your husband can at least show his sincerity by attending a meeting of AA (address in your local telephone directory). If he does, he may call you blessed.

Q. Should a person with weak heart sleep on the back or on one side? If on one side, which side?

A.—It doesn't matter. Whether one has strong or weak heart one should sleep in whichever position one prefers.

Q. Is poached egg easier to digest than fried or hard boiled egg?

A.—Egg raw or cooked as you like is easiest for you to digest.

Q. Do you recommend taking the juice of half a lemon in hot water . . . for arthritis?

A.—If you like it, lemon or lemon juice is always healthful, whether there's anything the matter with you or not.

* * *

Q What do you think of a young woman who expects her first baby early in February standing on a table to paint her kitchen ceiling?

A.—Why not? She is intelligent enough to laugh at old wives, superstitions, so I assume she knows enough to have the kitchen well ventilated while she is painting and while the paint is drying.

* * *

Q. Argument among the girls in our dormitory is whether it is harmful in any way to have a shampoo when menstruating?

A.—No, nor to take a bath, nor to go in swimming.

Q. Is it not advisable to keep that throat covered with muffler or other clothing when one has sore throat or laryngitis?

Answer—Of course not, Tilly—but what's the use answering such a query? Any fool thinks he knows better than I do about such a thing.

Q. If a baby gets hold of a box of kitchen matches and puts them in his mouth is there danger of poisoning?

A.—The head of a match company discovered a phosphorus compound which is non-poisonous, philanthropically gave it to the industry, and so matches have been non-poisonous for some thirty years past.

Q. Our doctor says a well balanced diet supplies all the vitamins and minerals one needs.

A. — Yah-but without specific breakfast, lunch and dinner menus, who can tell whether a diet is "well balanced," whatever that means?

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered, by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

FORGOT TO DUCK—There's probably some archer around St. Louis, Mo., who is still looking for his arrow with very little success. However, Mrs. C. A. Diffey can supply the answer. The lead-tipped arrow pierced her favorite duck which is still spry and hungry as ever and shows little visible effect of the accident.

Texas' Size Follows in Its Prosperity

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP) — Texans have evidence that the nation's largest state is a land of prosperity.

While retail sales jumped 290 per cent nationally during the 13-year period from pre-war 1939 to post-war 1952, Texas showed a much larger gain of 429 per cent.

Figures cited by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research showed Texans also had more "disposable" personal income during that period than their fellow citizens in other states.

"Disposable" personal income in Texas was 320 per cent last year above the 1939 level, while the increase nationally was 235 per cent.

Even after taking dollar inflation into account, the research bureau said, the average Texas consumer had almost two and one-half times more purchasing power last year than 13 years ago.

Don't Kid Yourself

LONDON (INS)—A British doctor claims you're only fooling yourself when you think drinks cheer you up. According to Dr. J. M. Walker of Oxford University you only think you are stimulated by alcohol because it depresses your power of self-criticism and removes your inhibition.

Church Pew Safe Place

Bookbinder Started in Occupied France

ITHACA, N. Y. (UP)—The banning of Boy Scout meetings in occupied France during World War II started a young Parisian on a hobby that led him to the Cornell University library as a bookbinder.

When the meetings were banned in France in 1942, Max Adjarian and two other Scouts decided to teach themselves how to bind books. Two years later Adjarian packed a ton of equipment and set out for America. He visited Ithaca residents, liked the city and the Cornell campus. He applied for work and was quickly accepted.

Victor Emanuel of New York, Cornell alumnus and trustee who donated Cornell's Wordsworth collection, helps to sponsor Adjarian's work of restoring rare volumes from that collection and others in the library.

Whales can dive a mile below the surface and rise immediately without harm. A chemical adjustment of their blood cares for the variation in pressure.

Truckers Are Seeking Thick-Skin Watermelons

DAVIS, Calif. (UP) — Large trucking companies have complained to the University of California agriculture school here about "exploding" watermelons that shatter from traffic bumps and cost thousands of dollars in losses.

The Klondike variety of watermelon has proven so brittle that some shatter at the most gentle jostling. Damage losses paid by freight companies for ruined melons some years exceeded their total income from hauling Klondikes.

A breeding program is underway here to develop a tougher-skinned melon that will ship easier.

House Only 'Jarred'

KENSINGTON, Conn. (UP)—A home owner sued a dynamiter for $2,000, claiming the walls of his home had been cracked and the foundation weakened by blastings. The judge awarded him $25 saying he only proved the house had been "jarred."

Girl Gobs Learn to Fight Blazes

Sailors in Skirts Just as Fearless as Seamen in Trousers

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP) — When it comes to fire-fighting, sailors in skirts are just at fearless as sailors in bell-bottomed trousers, the U. S. Navy is learning.

WAVES and Navy nurses are studying fire-fighting methods right along with sailors at the Fleet Fire Fighting School, Manchester, Wash.

The girls aren't shown ay favoritsim, or handled with kid gloves. "We put the women in groups with the men," Lt. J. L. Wilkerson, the school's fire fighting officer, said. "Sometimes a tiny WAVE gets lost between two husky sailors on a hose-carrying detail, and it's hard to tell whether she's carrying the line or trying to hang on to it."

The school follows the theory of "learn by doing" so most of the time is spent putting out fires.

Full size concrete models of boiler rooms, fuel storage tanks, and aircraft carrier flight decks, are flooded with a mixture of oil and water which is ignited. When smoke and flames reach a terrifying height, the students put the fire out.

There have been no serious injuries. A few bruises from slipping in smoke-filled boiler rooms, a broken nail from wrestling a hefty fire hose and occasionally some wounded feelings are the only casualties.

Instructors agree the women are conscientious and industrious — sometimes too industrious.

"The girls try to move in on the fires too fast. When they wash off the soot at the end of the day, a lot of eybrows go down the drain," one instructor said. "Those who had 'Mamie' bangs usually wind up with a different type hairdo for a few months."

Singed hair and eyebrows don't bother the girls.

"We put on a little eyebrow pencil and who knows the difference. The poor men — they look like hairless dogs," a nurse said.

"I think I'll quit the navy and marry a fireman," one WAVE said. "Maybe I could get a job in a fire department with him."

New Fabrics Giving Cleaners Headaches

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The many new fabrics may be a boom to consumers but they're a headache to the cleaner.

Meyer Mednick, president of the Cleaners and Dyers Association, said the consumer believes "everything she or he reads in advertising" about the new synthetic fibers and fabrics, and the dry cleaner gets blamed if there are poor results due to "bad labeling and misleading advertising claims."

Often the label on a garment is not clear as to just what the synthetic fiber is being blended with, Mednick explained. Consequently, the cleaner is not sure how to approach the problem.

Mednick warned consumers to read labels carefully before purchasing a garment to make certain they are getting what they expect. Then let the cleaner decide whether the fabric can be properly cleaned and just how it should be processed.

Total area burned over by forest fires in the U. S. each year is about equal to the size of New York state.

Would Give Americans Say in Charter Changes

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Holland (D-Fla) says he thinks "as many Americans as possible" should have a chance to give their views on changes in the United Nations charter.

Holland said Saturday he planned to urge "that hearings be held in various parts of the country" by a special Senate committee on possible charter changes.

A member of the committee, Holland said he has received scores of suggestions in letters from all parts of the country.

Maori Warrior Waves Spear to Greet Queen

WHANGAREI, New Zealand (UP) — A fearsome, flax-skirted Maori warrior brandished his spear and grimaced awesomely at Queen Elizabeth II today on her arrival at New Zealand's most historic spot.

The fearsome greeting was the traditional Maori challenge which used to be made to any visitor to Waitangi village, site of the 1840 Maori Treaty under which New Zealand joined the British Empire.

Continuing their Commonwealth tour, the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh arrived at Waitangi this morning from Auckland, 200 miles to the south.

Hamburger Grease Fire Kills Tavern Handyman

STAMBAUGH (UP) — Fire from hot grease that flared up as he was cooking hamburgers cost the life of Stanley Jazdowski, 71, a bartender and handyman at a tavern in nearby Nelma, Wis.

Jazdowski was burned Christmas night. He died yesterday.

Despite Communist Rule Capitalism Begins to Bud Inside Young Giant Russia

Editor's note: Willis L. Ryan, AP foreign news analyst, is back from a three-month trip to the Soviet Union. He speaks Russian and he traveled alone through eight of the republics that make up the U.S.S.R. This is the first in a series of uncensored articles in which Ryan describes and analyzes post-Stalin Russia as he saw it.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign Analyst

The post-Stalin era has brought the Soviet Communist party face to face with a bloodless revolution it would like to ignore.

Neon signs in Moscow and other Soviet capitals are more than mere advertisement. They are portents of the future:

"Insure your personal belongings."

"Invest in bonds for your future."

"Save your money in a savings bank."

There was evidence of something which may prove one of the most significant developments since the Bolshevik revolution, and also one of the brightest hopes for a lasting world peace.

It is this: The Soviet Union seems to be undergoing a middle class revolution, no less powerful because it is non-violent and gradual.

In spite of Communist doctrine—in fact, in spite of itself—the U.S.S.R. is building a powerful middle class with an instinct for ownership. Some day it may engulf and overwhelm the Communist party.

Some frankly admit that Premier Georgi Malenkov's promise of a better life in "two to three years" was highly optimistic. There are at least 10 years of road building, home building, machine production and transport development ahead before the Soviet consumer front can be compared with that of any advanced Western nation.

The growing Soviet middle class is becoming impatient. Russians in Moscow eagerly snatch up American magazines to dream over the advertisements of consumer goods.

These people are to be found among second and third generation Communists and their families who have no memory of revolutionary Bolshevism—and also among the growing class of directors, managers, specialists, scientists, writers, engineers, professional people, army officers, "advanced" workers who earn high pay, and a whole layer of educated people necessary to the Soviet economy.

Out of a population of more than 200 million, these people may now number in the neighborhood of 40 million. These are the people who by their own efforts and talents or party favor—have been living better, getting a fair share of the good things of life. They include the empire builders in the farflung republics, a sturdy stock of stubborn colonists. All of these people are just as interested as their Western counterparts in maintaining their status and passing on the good things to their children.

Ironically, this is the "bourgeois revolution" for which Lenin and Trotsky could not wait. Marx had laid down the principle that a feudal country, such as czarist Russia was, had to go through capitalist development before becoming a "dictatorship of the proletariat." The Communists nipped the capitalist development in the bud.

When the time comes to attempt to call a halt on this development, the Communist party may find it is too late. No longer able to rely on the ruthless methods of a Stalin in a society several generations removed from czarism and violent revolution, the party may find itself unable to check the trend. Already it exhibits a growing nervousness at the demanding tone coming from the people.

If the Soviet Union accomplishes in 10 years what it claims it will accomplish in three, it can become a mighty nation, indeed. But if it accomplishes these things, Russia is likely to be a changed nation, too.

Man Is Thrown 35 Yards in Blast

GALUP, N.M. (AP)—Charles H. Challacombe, 51, yesterday was flipped 35 yards through the air by an explosion in an automobile paint shop. He escaped with third degree burns on the face and hands.

Witnesses said the explosion tore the roof off the building as Challacombe opened the door to enter.

"I saw the roof go up and down and then saw a man flying through the air about three feet off the ground," said Mrs. George Armstrong.

Prized Accessories

DALLAS (AP)—W. W. Brown complained to police yesterday that someone stole the Cadillac hub caps during the night from his 1949 Ford.

Security Desire Cuts Enterprise

Psychiatrist in Illinois Cites This Problem as Greatest

CHICAGO (UP) — A University of Illinois psychiatrist says one of the greatest problems of our time is to give people "reasonable security" without destroying their spirit of "adventure and enterprise."

"Whenever man has to expand all his energy for mere survival not much interest is left for experimentation with the unknown and for creation," said Dr. Franz Alexander, director of the Institute of Psychoanalysis.

Western civilization, he added, has been motivated by free expression of creativeness and by a trend toward exploration of the earth, nature, the universe, the animal and human body.

"There are definite signs of a slow reversal of this trend," he said. "The great depression of the 1930's can be considered roughly as the dividing line.

"There can be little doubt that a growing longing for security and the willingness to give up freedom and adventure for security characterized these past 20 years."

He cited polls showing that contemporary youth prefers modest careers offering security to those which offer possibilities for success but involve greater chances to fail.

"The constant threat of the cold war turning into a real war further contributes to insecurity," he added.

"The crucial question is whether we can pass through this temporary period of consolidation without destroying individual creativeness," he concluded, adding that the answer lies in "new frontiers of the mind—scientific research, artistic productivity—in general, a development of the art of living."

MONEY TO BURN—Take a good look—that's some $500,000 going up in flames at the Federal Reserve Bank in Cleveland, Ohio. It may make your hands itch, but it doesn't bother Joseph Ostendorf. He burns the stuff daily. The bills are discarded because they are dirty or mutilated. The currency is burned in a special 7½-ton incinerator, perfected last July.

Crow Fools Mothers

SPARTA (UP) — A talking crow that yells "Mama, come and get me," has Sparta in a dither. Mothers run out of their houses to see if their children are in trouble. The one-year-old bird answers to the name of "Jimmy" and belongs to the Hosmer family.

Their service in consuming weeds and insect pests far overshadows any crop damage birds may do.

Soviet Newspapers Lash Ad Men, Waiters, Tarzan

MOSCOW (UP)—Soviet newspapers have found three new targets for their ire—advertising writers, waiters, and Hollywood's Tarzan.

The admen are dull. The waiters reserve their best service for the best tippers. And Tarzan's jungle cry is scaring the chickens and pigs.

• • •

Trud, the organ of the Soviet trade unions, set its sights on the ad writers. It accused them, in writing about food, for example of "a heavy style and complicated language that don't make sense." It cited this example:

"Tangerine juice is liquid fruit—i.e., the liquid part of the pulp pressed from the tangerine, with all the nutritious parts dissolved in it. 100 grams of tangerine juice gives the body 40 to 60 milligrams of vitamin C, or as they say, one mandose."

A mandose, incidentally, is the dose of vitamins one man needs for a day.

• • •

That language, Trud commented, would "repulse the most ardent lovers of fruit juice." Let's have ads in verse—"clear, brief and bright"—the paper suggested.

Soviet waiters had their inning in Krokodil (Crocodile), the popular satirical weekly.

Presumably the Soviet citizen is well enough off so he doesn't expect or solicit tips. But it's a rare barber, waiter or taxi driver that refuses one.

Krokodil told the story of a Moscow worker and his family—man, wife, mother-in-law and two small sons—who visited a restaurant for dinner one Sunday night.

The doorman was surprised to see the children. The waiter wanted to seat a late-arriving party of Army officers in their stead but the officers refused. It took a struggle to get a waiter to take the order. The steak was so tough the mother-in-law couldn't chew it. And the waiter tried to overcharge the family.

• • •

As for Tarzan, as played by Johnny Weissmuller, he's one of the biggest drawing cards in the Soviet Union. Lately the jungle films, along with cowboy and pirate films, have been shown widely in villages from an open truck. Of this Pravda says:

"From the continuous screaming and shooting, chickens are awakened from their sleep and panic caused among the livestock in the barns and villages at night."

Skin Divers Conclude Starfish Campaign

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (UP) — "Operation Starmop" is over, and nearly 12 tons of starfish on the long outer breakwater of Los Angeles harbor have fallen to a victorious army of more than 250 skin divers.

The five-hour campaign was inspored by the California Department of Fish and Game. Sportsmen from member clubs of the Council of Skin Divers voluteered their services.

The rapidly-multiplying starfish, whose suction cup arms can pull open the most determined mollusk, were becoming a serious threat to the big barrier's shellfish population.

Hook and line fishermen were feeling the squeeze too, as perch and kelp bass were visiting the breakwater less frequently with disappearance of mussels and other food.

Among the thousands of starfish brought up by the goggle and swim-fin clan on a recent Sunday were some measuring 30 inches. A ton of the five-pointers was sent to an experimental processor to see if fish meal could be made of the pest.

Who Would o' Thunk It?

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP)—Lt. James T. Prater of the Florida Highway Patrol caught a speeding motorist the hard way. Prater was pursuing the speeder who crossed him up suddenly by obeying the law and stopping at a stop sign. Prater's patrol car crashed into the rear of the other.

Michigan Lumber Pioneer John A. Sherman, Dies

DETROIT (UP) — Funeral services will be held in Detroit today for John Abner Sherman, 90, a retired Upper Peninsula lumber and real estate pioneer. He died here Wednesday of a heart attack.

Sherman was a native of Ontonagon and long was active there and in Houghton and Calumet. Burial will be in Houghton.

Big 3 May Agree to Delay Talks

But West Will Maintain Pressure for Foreign Ministers' Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, Britain and France are considering their reply to a Soviet proposal for postponement of a Big Four foreign ministers' conference, amid signs they will agree to the delay and keep pressing for the meeting.

The State Department indicated this is the U. S. attitude, even though it implied the Russians might be maneuvering to lessen the chances of France joining the European Defense Community.

A British Foreign Office spokesman expressed confidence the three Western powers, which had proposed Jan. 4 for a meeting in Berlin, would accept the Russian counter suggestion that it be held Jan. 25 or later.

* * *

French official sources said only that the note Russia sent the three Saturday would have to be studied carefully.

But in Bonn yesterday Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, whose future would be high among the subjects discussed at any Big Four meeting, predicted the proposal would be accepted.

And the Soviets, in a broadcast yesterday that could be a propaganda prelude to the conference, blasted away again at the Western plan for free all-German elections.

Moscow radio, heard in London, aired an article from the official publication Izvestia saying "false talk about 'free elections' is needed by the Adenauer clique and its patrons to screen their endeavor to get full control of Germany for their aggressive aims."

The Izvestia article repeated the Russian idea of East and West German Parliaments joining in a temporary all-German government to supervise elections—a plan which the West says offers no guarantee of freedom in the East zone and gives the Communists undue influence.

Group Sees Some Vital Metals Scarce

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-House committee set up to keep an eye on the nation's defense mobilization says the program has worked well generally, but that some materials remain scarce.

"The nation is now able to sustain military production at current peak levels with little strain on the economy or dislocation of civilian markets," the committee headed by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) said in a report yesterday.

Shortages are hampering atomic energy power projects and the stockpiling program, the report said, citing diamond grinding wheels and these alloying materials as the scarcest: chromium, tantalum and nickel.

Vicious Dog Is Safe

Discuss New U. S. Troop Plan

Rhee, Foreign Minister Dislike Withdrawal of Two Divisions

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea's President and foreign minister conferred privately today on U. S. plans to pull two divisions out of Korea, an authoritative source said.

Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai flew to Chinhae where President Syngman Rhee is vacationing after voicing South Korea's displeasure over the proposed troop withdrawal.

President Eisenhower's Saturday announcement brought cheers from most American soldiers here, and there was enthusiastic speculation as to which divisions would leave Korea.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 8th Army commander, stressed that "it can be safely assumed that the departure of these divisions will not take place immediately."

Taylor said that soldiers with considerable time left to serve in Korea will be transferred to other units. Their places will be filled by men whose tours of duty are virtually complete.

* * *

The armed forces radio service today broadcast hourly a statement telling 8th Army troops, in effect, not to get excited.

South Korean officials were openly critical of Eisenhower's announcement.

Foreign Minister Pyun said the withdrawal of two divisions would weaken South Korea and indicated that in his opinion ROK troops are not ready to fill the gap.

Pyun and Prime Minister Paik Too Chin said they were not notified of the U. S. plan. President Eisenhower said Saturday the South Korean government was informed.

Patrick Henry, "the firebrand of the Revolution," made his famous "Caesar-Brutus" speech against the Stamp Act in the Capitol at Williamsburg, Va., on May 30, 1765.

Arrest 2 Youths Wearing Masks in Holdup Probe

PAW PAW (UP)—Two 18-year-old youths were held today at the VanBuren County jail for investigation of armed robbery after they were arrested outsidea South Haven filling station.

Police said the youths, James Walker and Dennis Roberts, both of South Haven were arrested shortly before midnight Saturday and one was armed with a .32 caliber pistol.

Patrolmen Frank Antonson and Edward Bierhalter Jr., were cruising past the filling station when they saw the youths outside. Both were wearing masks made of bedsheets. The officers drove around the block and arrested Walker and Roberts at gunpoint.

Station attendant Marshal Brewer said he knew nothing of the arrest until the youths were brought inside and that nothing had been taken from the station.

Walker said he attended Western Michigan College at Kalamazoo. Roberts was employed at his parents 'farm.

Prelate Spellman Nears End of Korean Tour

SEOUL (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman, who has talked to an estimated 24,000 servicemen in the past six days, neared the end of his Christmas tour of Korea today.

The prelate will spend his final two days touring Marine installations and visiting ships of the Navy's task force 77.

Short Necks Can Be Overcome

Some beauty problems are so easy to disguise that it is really amazing so many women fail to do something about them. Apparently it never occurred to them that they are suffering from the condition.

So, teen-agers, if you wish to look your best, know your worst. Now, for example, those of you whose beauty problem is a short neck can do several things to minimize the defect. You can lengthen your necks.

Hair styling should be no trouble at all. The current trend in coiffures is good for you. Wear your hair rather short and brushed back. Try to achieve an upward movement around the temples.

In necklines, a V-shape is excellent. All should be uncluttered. Chunky jewelry, chokers, round collars should always be avoided.

Hats that have turned-up brims or deep crowns are best. The big, floppy hats tend to push the head father down into the neck.

Collarless coats are best, but one with a very flat collar could also be good. Bulky fur collars should never be worn.

To lengthen the neck, try this exercise: Lie with knees bent close together, the base of the spine one inch from the floor and shoulders relaxed. Push head up away from shoulders so that you feel you are pushing up on top of your head. Push hard. Stretch, pushing neck down so that it touches (or nearly touches) the floor.

You won't actually grow, but you will learn to stand tall and that will make the difference in your neck measurement.

Cleaning Fluid Removes Wax

The holiday season is lighted by candles in most households. This poses the problem of wax stains on Mom's favorite table cloths.

Scrape the hardened wax from the surface of the cloth with a dull knife. Sponge the stain with cleaning fluid, as you would any grease spot. This is easier, says the Department of Agriculture, than lying the stained fabric on a blotter and pressing it with a warm iron.

If traces of color are left, they usually can be removed by sponging with a cloth dipped in a mixture of 2 parts water to 1 part rubbing alcohol.

If candlewax seems difficult to remove from glass or metal candleholders, run hot water over the wax until it melts off. Then wash the article with soap and water, and polish.

Couple Exchanges Vows

Christmas poinsettias and wreaths decorated the altar of Duns Scotus Chapel in Detroit Saturday morning when Adrienne Ann Glasper became the bride of David Girard Kline.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bell Glasper of Detroit, chose a ballerina-length gown of Chantilly-type lace with long pointed sleeves, a high neckline and buttons down the front.

The Rev. Cronan Kline of Cincinnati officiated for his brother's wedding. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kline of South Parke street.

A crown of pearls formed the bride's headpiece, and she carried a corsage of white shattered carnations and stephanotis on a white prayerbook.

Lois Germain was maid of honor in a ballerina-length gown of pine green tissue taffeta with a seed pearl headpiece and bouquet of carnations.

In similar gowns of red taffeta were Louise Casai, Nancy Ingalls and Mary Kline, the bridegroom's sister. They were the bride's other attendants.

Richard Martwick of Chicago was best man, and seating the guests were Louis Siciliano of Chicago, Edward Sheldon of Grand Rapids, Frank Spadafore and Lt. Edmund G. Hall of Detroit.

For the 9:30 o'clock service the bride's mother wore a gown of oyster white crepe trimmed in satin. Mrs. Kline wore navy blue velvet an taffeta.

For the wedding trip to Northern Michigan the bride donned a navy blue suit with white blouse and navy and white accessories.

Woods Varied in Furniture

NEW YORK (INS)—Fine woods used in distinctive ways made a decorating comeback in 1953 furniture.

Designers paid renewed attention to fine wood finishes, and found new ways to use old favorites. Instead of picking wood for uniformity, there was an emphasis on the markings and color of the same wood were used for eye-interest. One group of cabinets, for instance, had dark walnut frames and natural walnut drawer fronts. Another piece of furniture used pinstripe mahogany with flat-cut figured mahogany for contrast.

Wood was also used in combination with new materials — copper, brass, enamels, leather, pewter, cane, rattan and plastics.

In 1954, wood is expected to be even more important in furniture fashions. Exotic woods like zebra or Finnish birch burl will be used as accents for old favorites like mahogany, walnut and maple.

Mary Lelia Curtice, daughter of General Motors President Harlow Curtice, and Robert Clare Bishop of Almont will be married June 19.

Marcia Louann Nance, daughter of Packard President James J. Nance, will be married in a late summer ceremony to William Ellis Atcheson of Seattle, Wash. She graduates from Smith College and her fiance from Stanford University in June.

Miss Curtice, a graduate of Kingswood School Cranbrook and Bennett Junior College, is a student at University of Michigan. Her fiance is a graduate of Williams College and a son of Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Clare Bishop. He now is a third-year medical student at Michigan.

Mary Leila's engagement was announced at a holiday dance and supper given by her parents Saturday evening at the Flint Golf Club.

Marcia's engagement was revealed at a buffet supper party Sunday evening at the Nances' Bloomfield Hills home.

Dallas Couple Designs, Builds Own Furniture

DALLAS, Texas (INS)—If you like nice furniture but are short on cash, here are some tips from a Dallas couple who used talent and hard work to supply many things they wanted.

Mr. and Mrs. Fallon Snyder, the parents of two small girls, made many pieces of basic furniture to furnish their home.

Snyder designed and built their chests, a dressing tabl for the bathroom, a swing-down table for the kitchen, and a room divider bookcase for the living room.

Mrs. Snyder is the "finisher." She says it is a hard job but a satisfying one. She uses hot linseed oil first, then five coats of shellac and two coats of varnish, with plenty of sanding before and after each application.

The twin chests and dining room table are made of Philippine mahogany, and the soft sheen over the wood grain is a tribute to Mrs. Snyder's ability.

Her husband's favorite gadget is the kitchen table that swings down from its wall frame and extends over a washing machine, giving his wife much-needed working space in the area that would otherwise be wasted.

For a room-divider, Snyder built a well designed piece to separate dining and living areas. Shelves on the dining side hold books and bric-a-brac, and the living room side backs up to a studio couch.

Decide Laundry Gear Shall Adjoin Kitchen

Four couples with divergent activities and interests sat down together in Chicago to discuss house-planning. They agreed that if it is at all possible the laundry equipment must be handy to the kitchen but not part of it.

One of the conferring panel asserted that with the washer, dryer and ironer out of the basement, a basement is not worth its cost, for the kind of storage facilities it offers. On the other hand, bringing the laundry upstairs or installing a more compact heating plant may gain space in the basement to add a workshop or game room.

Don't Wash Eggs

Water destroys the protective film that keeps air and odors out of eggs. So don't wash them before putting into refrigerator.

SALOME SELOVER

Troth Told at Cocktail Fete in Hills

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — At a cocktail party in their home Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Robert Willis Budd of Vaughn road announced the engagement of their daughter, Salome Britton Selover, to Lt. William Bradford Saunders, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Woodruff of Puritan road, Birmingham.

"Sally" is a graduate of Kingswood School Cranbrook and is a senior at the University of Michigan.

Lt. Saunders, a member of the U. S. Marine Corps, stationed at Quantico, Va., was graduated from Proctor Academy and Hamilton College where he was a member of Sigma Phi fraternity.

Graceful Stance

Cultivate this graceful stance: Put heel of right foot to inner side of left foot, turning the left toe out a bit. This stance, employed by models, slims both hips and legs.

Coffee leaves a bitter oil in the pot that must be scrubbed away after each use.

Good Grooming Reflects Self-Respect

Good grooming implies both self-respect and consideration for others. Everyone prefers the company of those who are attractive to see as well as hear.

This is true of people regardless of their ages. Because one has grandchildren, there is no reason to think it is unnecessary or unbecoming to take care in grooming.

The older woman should be as concerned as her daughter that her hair is attractively arranged, that her hat is becoming and that her dress is dignified but not dowdy. Her shoes should be neither frivolous nor ungracefully sturdy.

Cosmetics can be used to avoid that faded look without acquiring a hard look in turn. A touch of powder, lipstick and eyebrow pencil can do wonders for the mature woman. Today cosmetics have such complete social acceptance that the woman who wears none at all is the one who now invites stares.

And there is no age limit to the use of perfume and jewelry. While the very heavy scents may no longer be appropriate, some of the delicate floral scents take on a special appeal when worn by older women.

Month-by-Month Check

Put Your '54 Resolutions in 'Homemaking Calendar'

Let's not call them New Year's resolutions. Instead, let's put them all into a 1954 "homemaking calendar."

JANUARY—Review homemaking habits honestly and carefully. Find out where time and energy are wasted.

FEBRUARY—Take a good look at the home to find faults and virtues. Is it easy to clean, with material like clay tile in the kitchen and bathroom? Is it livable? Is it light and airy? Is it designed for all ages to enjoy?

MARCH—Income tax time is a grim but perfect time to review the family budget and make adaptations of income.

APRIL—Based on findings in January and February, modernization of the home may ideally take place this month. Spring housecleaning can be worked into the same scheme of things, so that there is only one upset, not two. This is when you will first appreciate the new waterproof, clay tile counters installed in the improved kitchen, and the new bathroom lavatory.

MAY—The perfect month for sitting down in family council and planning the summer so that it will be pleasant, relaxed and productive for both adults and children.

JUNE—Take an audit of storage facilities and habits because this is both household and personal "changeover time."

JULY and AUGUST—Spend the heat wave quietly studying nutrition and menus, altering the children's school clothes, and sewing things for the home.

SEPTEMBER—Turn over that new leaf for yourself. Plan your schedule to get into the swim of things culturally and civically in your community.

OCTOBER — Make Christmas lists, begin preparing and shopping for gifts, and plan the holiday entertainment schedule in full to avoid last-minute pressures later.

NOVEMBER—Make an inventory of household equipment and kitchen utensils and plan their repair and replacement.

DECEMBER—Review the year and make firm resolutions to do better in 1955!

Santa Sheds His Woolies in Southland

Floridans Observe Yuletide in Sunny Warmth

By ETHEL TOMBRINK

MIAMI, Fla. — Santa had to shed his woolies when he reached Miami though his helpers shivered in their boots a few weeks earlier.

Flaming poinsettias bloomed in all their glory in front yards and backyards all around the town. Christmas tree lights glistened through palm trees and children swam or rode their new bikes on the sunny Christmas Day.

Two-year-old Johnny Parr got a tricycle from Santa — Helen and Clinton Parr, The Parrs (she's the former Helen Keller of Pontiac) had a tree-trimming party and among their helpers were Chuck and Jean Bolin, also formerly of Pontiac.

Up in Fort Lauderdale, Mr. and Mrs. Donald U. Bathrick are holiday hosts to her parents, Gov. and Mrs. Hill McAllister of Nashville, Tenn. And expected soon are Mr. and Mrs. Walter O. Briggs Jr. of Bloomfield Hills.

The Bathricks, who've been lodged in their Florida home since early fall, were hosts at the just-before-Christmas opening of Indian Creek Country Club.

Bright lights strung around the patio at the club, with the Miami skyline across the bay, provided one of the most glamorous party settings in the Miami area.

Enjoying the evening with the Bathricks were Col. and Mrs. E. W. Gregory of Culver Military Academy.

Col. Gregory is superintendent of the academy — Mr. Batrick attended Culver and is a past president of the alumni association.

Handkerchiefs Become Stylish

They have become important fabrics in such shades as wedgewood blue, grape red, apricot, and sea-foam are ideal. They can be tucked into the pocket for a dash of color, worn at the neck kerchief style, or placed at the belt.

Besides the solid colors, there are subtle ombred shadings and bolder plaid effects in the cotton handkerchiefs.

Some designers have dotted their kerchiefs with hand-clipped motifs tiny diamonds, four-leaf clovers, and chic polka dots.

For sheer glamour to accent evening ensembles there are beautiful squares of translucent cotton chiffon. These gossamer delicate squares, about 18" in size, make an eye-catching neckline filler or waistline accent, when pulled through a belt buckle and allowed to hand freely.

Another handkerchief for holiday glamour wear at evening parties is of cotton chantilly lace scrolled and sprinkled with rosebud medallions on a fine net background. These lace handkerchiefs are seen in shades ranging from pastels to jewel tones to accessorize gala evening dresses.

May Be Comfortable to Iron in Bedroom

Why iron in the kitchen? That's just a hang-over from the old coal-stove, sad-iron days. The average home has various spots that are far more attractive and comfortable.

If there is an ironer in the house its user can seat herself comfortably in the sunroom or a cheerful bedroom, or even the living room, if she likes. Keeping the ironer upstairs also can be sensible, because so many of the articles handled are used upstairs.

Coming Events

Young People's Class of First Church of the Brethren will meet this evening at 6 for a cooperative dinner. Dick Mishler, who has just returned from a work camp in Europe, will be guest speaker.

VFW 1008 Auxiliary will meet this evening at 8 in the American Legion Home on Auburn avenue. The party has been postponed.

Pontiac Unit of the WCTU will meet at the home of Mrs. Ray Fleming, 144 Cottage St., Tuesday for a cooperative luncheon at noon. Program will follow.

Cora M. Eves Tent Hive 247 of the Maccabees will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the VFW Hall, 398 S. Saginaw St.

Sewing Circle of Capt. David L. Kimball Auxiliary 23 will meet Wednesday for a Christmas party and exchange of gifts in the American Legion Home on Auburn avenue.

To reside in Norfolk, Va., are Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Nemeth who were married Tuesday. She is the former Donna Sue Presson, daughter of the Arlon Pressons of South Jessie street. The Bern Kelleys of West New York avenue are his parents.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT R. NEMETH

Donna Sue Presson Wed

Donna Sue Presson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlon Presson of South Jessie street, became the bride of Robert R. Nemeth Tuesday evening in the Baldwin Avenue Methodist Church.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bern Kelley of West New York avenue.

For the 7 o'clock ceremony the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white lace and satin with a fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses and white carnations.

Carolyn Wilburn of West Frankfort, Ill., was maid of honor. She wore a gown of blue velvet and net and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and yellow roses.

Shirley and Sandra Chick of Detroit were flower girls wearing dresses of pink and blue taffeta. Their bouquets were composed of pink carnations and yellow roses.

Paul Miller was best man and Jerry Kelley was ringbearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Presson wore a floor-length gown of blue taffeta and velvet, and the bridegroom's mother wore rose taffeta with lace.

After a reception held in the home of the bridegroom's parents, the new Mrs. Nemeth changed to a blue knit suit with a corsage of white roses. They will reside in Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Paul May Feted Sunday at Bridal Party

Mrs. Bengt A. Pulls and Pat Kohlhaas were hostesses Sunday afternoon at a bridal shower honoring Mrs. Paul May, the former Mickey Martell. The shower was held at the Pulls home on Miami road.

Guests included Barbara Fitzgerald, Sally Bridson, Mrs. Kenneth Stockman, Mrs. James Ebaugh, Mrs. Don Ginell, Mrs. Pat Reitmeyer and Mrs. Bud Beck.

Mrs. Howard Altman, Mrs. Joe Smith and Mrs. Louis Tanuta completed the list.

Check Washability

Study labels carefully when buying washable garments. There is no guarantee against shrinkage or color-fastness unless the label specifies that the fabric has been so tested. A "washable" tag, for example, means that washability experts have subjected the fabric to exhaustive laboratory tests to ensure that the colors won't run or fade if washed as recommended.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

"Mother," asked the ten-year-old, being reminded of his manners before he had a chance to remember them himself, "don't you think I know anything?" It isn't very good manners, is it, to keep reminding a child not to forget to do a thing long after the reminder is no longer necessary?

Sometimes it's our children who have to remind us of our manners.

Mother Promotes One Lad's Cause, Discourages Girl From Dating Others

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

Seven out of eight mothers balk rather stubbornly when their daughters settle down very early to going with only one boy. Letter after letter crosses my desk, loud in portest over parental objections to dating monopoly.

But there are exceptions like this one.

"Dear Miss Woodward: Last summer a very nice boy was here for his vacation. I went with him a couple of times and mother fell harder for him than I did.

"I see him about once a month now and though he says he will write, I've had only one letter from him in all this time. So I started going with other boys. But mother keeps saying what will Ken say to this?

"Frankly, I don't care what Ken would say. I know he's going with a girl in his home town, and I think he knows I have been going out with other boys. And the latter is what mother objects to.

"She finds something wrong with everybody I want to go out with. Must I stay home every night in the week just to please her?"

Mothers are prone to talk up the boys they like so they can paint "object lessons" for their daughters. They harp on qualities they think are attractive and important so daughters become more discriminating in their standards and ideals.

And, of course, they're likely to campaign for boys they know well, boys who have played up to them and made a good impression.

But it isn't often that mothers pick out one lad early in a daughter's dating career and announce that he is it, or else.

Such an ultimatum wouldn't be hard to take if the boy really liked you and you really liked him; if he lived near enough so you could see him every week; if he went to your school so you could take in the big and little things together.

Most girls want some sort of social-dating life right in the circle in which they travel. A boy who's on hand is of more practical use than some spasmodic, remote hero. So give your mother a chance to get acquainted with other boys you know.

Ask her to withhold her judgment until she does know them. Let her see that you appreciate her high standards—then maybe she'll compromise.

* * *

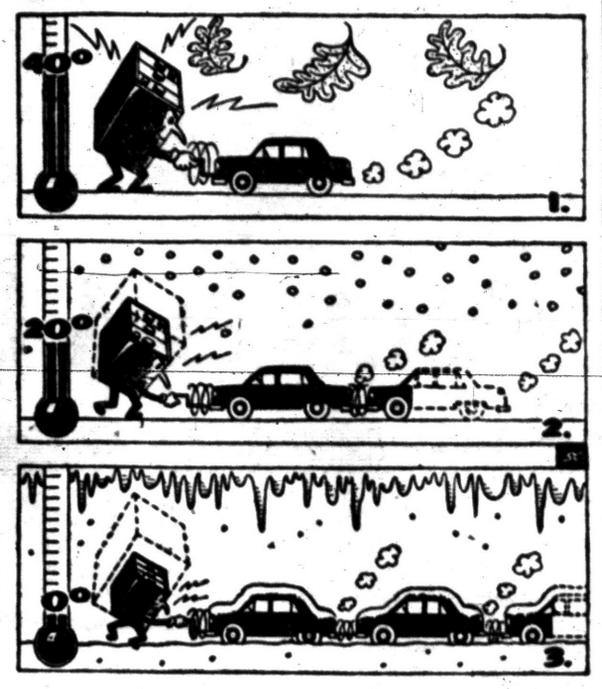
And it isn't often that two girls who like the same boy can like each other. Yet look at this:

"Dear Miss Woodward: My going steady with Bob was broken up by his parents. Then he started going with another girl and dropped me. I met her and, believe it or not, I find her to be very sweet and friendly, and we like each other.

"She talks a lot about Bob and it hurts me, and she says I can never get him back. What advice have you for me?"

Bob has good taste—any girl he goes with would be politely friendly and sweet. But that doesn't mean she's good for you. Your dating with Bob is over. There's no point in dreaming about him and leting her hurt you.

Avoid them both—consider them a closed chapter—and start something new for yourself.



Avoid Starting Failures

Check Battery Condition

These sketches dramatize why your car sometimes won't start in winter.

(1) A battery, even if not fully charged, may have plenty of power to crank your engine at 40 degrees F. (2) But a drop to 20 degrees F. stiffens engine resistance so that, to crank it, enough power for one and one-third cars at 40 degrees F. must be exerted by a battery which has been chilled down to 80 per cent efficiency. (3) To start at 0 degrees F. requires power athat would crank two and one-third cars at 40 degrees F., all of it supplied by a battery which cold has crippled to 50 per cent efficiency!

to avoid starting failures from such winter strains: Make sure battery is in good condition or replace, put ignition system in top shape. Use light winter oil and a winter grade gasoline.

Removes Fruit Stain

To remove fruit or fruit juice stain from washable fabric stretch stained part over bowl and pour water through it from height of two to three feet. Repeat if necessary; then launder. Use boiling water for white fabric, warm water for others.

Still Useful

Don't doom your knobless pot lit to the thrash can. Redeem it by pushing a sharp, pointed screw up through the hole and twisting cork into it. Cork is heatproof.

Cookie Is Called 'Crustoli'

New Citizens Group Treated to Delicious Italian Cakes

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Among the many interesting and tempting cookies served at the New Citizens League Christmas party was an Italian cookie called Crustoli. Made of braided dough and fried in deep fat, the cookies are shiny with a honey glaze.

Mrs. Theresa Dodaro who made the Crustoli, willingly gave us the recipe. As a new citizen, Mrs. Dodaro is a full time homemaker. She enjoys cooking and doing fancy cutwork.

CRUSTOLI
By Mrs. Theresa Dodaro

12 eggs
½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
Flour
Powdered sugar or honey

Beat the shortening and sugar together, add the eggs and beat well. Add the baking powder and enough flour to make a dough that can be rolled.

Roll the dough out thinly. Cut in strips about an inch wide. Braid three strips together to make a cookie about 4 or 5 inches long. Deep fat fry in 360 to 385 degrees hot fat. Drain and roll in powdered sugar or dip in honey and let dry. The honey glaze is the preferred one, Mrs. Dodaro says.

Got Mud-Trackers?

If you have trouble keeping the back hall clean because of the mud or snow tracked in by kids, provide an easily washed rubber mat for wiping dirty shoes or stacking wet boots.

Pick Up Dust at Its Source

Many women who use dust cloths simply ease the dust off a piece of furniture onto the floor, not realizing that unless a vacuum cleaner picks up the dust from the carpet very quickly the dust will sink deeper and deeper into the pile of the floor covering and do real damage.

The best way to get the dust from the furniture is to use a vacuum cleaner attachment and thus be sure the dirt is picked up at the source.

A traveling dress to wear now or later in the spring is this navy and white chiffon porella wool coat-dress (left) from Grabois. Designer Selma Golden cuts a deft silhouette in the princess tradition. Finest wool gabardine in a most unexpectedly fragile pink cues this Grabois dress (right). A tab fastening leads to an inverted pleat for free movement in the skirt.

Resort Collection Stresses Bodice Flattery

Breath-of-Spring Colors Are Featured

Breath-of-spring colors, softly manipulated bodices, and a superb selectiton of new and exclusive prints give great distinction to the resort and early spring collection of Grabois, designed by Zelma Golden.

Fabrics that include many silks in the honan, printed shantung and surah groups are balanced by pale moygashel linens, Swiss novelty cottons, and fine wool and woolen mixtures for suits.

Buttercream hues in palest pink and pale birch mirroleen gabardine are among the unexpected developments in one-piece wool dresses, while many of the surahs are to be noted for their brilliant prints, particularly against white grounds.

Slim lines prevail in skirts and the eye becomes attuned to a somewhat shorter skirt length that suddenly becomes very attractive. Princess lines are most distinctively shown in checked wool, as well as in linen and silk.

On the whole, however, it is in the bodice that greatest flattery is achieved for the wearer. Draping and shirring of every type conceivable is worked into the bosom line, sometimes enhanced by series of small bows or pehaps one large and graceful one.

Usually, necklines are open and airy. One pink shantung dress shows the draped line spreading across both shoulders with flatness created by a plastron set against the bodice.

Dickeys are favorites here and are shown in linen as well as in white Swiss eyelet batiste against a two-piece black silk dress with velvet-piped wide scooped neckline.

Boleros are used to top bare-shouldered dresses. There's a very handsome one in beige silk linen that's cropped and flared to give almost a capelet look. Its borders are heavily encrusted with pearl embroidery stenciled with gold and a smattering of glitter.

There's a periwinkle blue bolero of jersey collared in silk surah, printed in blue on white, to give the look of an ensemble to the matching dress. A good dosage of yellow is prominent in this collection and is found in a linen sundress with matching bolero that's appliqued with daisies.

Wool suits are generally in tans and beiges and some navy. These flaunt, in most cases, very short jackets, fitted and just hitting the hipbone.

The most exquisite refinements of trim are indicated by the finest pencil-line piping of crimson that sets off a white over-collar, culminating in tiny bows on each side. Eyelet trims and embroideries crop up everywhere to lighten the dark navies.

Tucking is ingeniously used by Zelma Golden. She presents it once in an allover pattern running vertically, then bands it by encircling it horizontally with more tucking.

Another imaginative presentation is found in a crisscross lattice work of tucking that ends just above the hemline to allow for slight ruffled fullness perking out where the tucking is released.

Finally, in the tradition of the dress and jacket, Grabois presents beautiful pearl-embroidered angora jersey sweater jackets in yellow and pink to wear with matching silk honan dresses.

Paris Exhibit Has Nursery Wonders

Reflects Strong Love of Children Arisen Since World War II

PARIS (UP)—A telescoping bed that expands as junior grows and a "safe" matchbox are the latest contributions to bringing up baby, French-style.

And the French, for population reasons, are making an all-out effort to bring up baby.

Some of the wonders for the nursery went on display at Paris' annual Children's Exhibition which has become a feature of French life.

The exhibition reflects the almost frantic love of children which the French have adopted since World War II.

Loss of population in two wars over a 30-year period from 1914 to 1944 has put a high premium on babies.

Pediatric and psychological experts report French infants are probably the "most admired, petted and pampered" in the world. There are so few of them —hence the packed crowds around the stands at the "Salon D'Enfance."

And the latest birth-death figures for France weren't hopeful for the future of the race and its growing competition with a revived Germany.

The birth rate is dropping. All the many family allowances, priorities for mothers and other state aids aren't helping.

Marriages dropped 2.1 per cent from 1952 to 1953. Births for the year ending last June 30, were only 800,900 — 15,000 below the previous year. The surplus of births over deaths won't be more than 240,000 this year, according to official statistics — the worst since 1946.

All of which didn't seem to make any difference at the children's show, with its answer to the daily dilemma of how to keep the tots amused.

The telescoping bed was just one attraction.

Other innovations were a "spaceship" ride that gives the French "garconets" and "fillettes" the illusion of zooming past Captain Video into outer space, and a television mirror in which the children can see themselves projected on a screen.

To bring to life the proverb, "Don't play with fire," the French attacked the match problem from both angles. There's a matchbox cover which no infant not born of Superman could possibly pry open, while to console the frustrated young arsonists, there's a magic lighter that seems to give off a flame.

French kids, pitched into serious schooling while their American brothers and sisters still are pushing building blocks around, also are strong in the reading department. The salon showed it, with a library chosen by experts of the best books for children. Foreign books — "Alice in Wonderland," "Pinocchio," "Snow White," and "Andersen's Fairy Tales"—sold as well as the French ones.

Spring Accessories White Next Year

It's white, white, white in spring accessories, according to the experts of the Accessories Committee of The Fashion Group, Inc.

White, these authorities say, is the predominant fashion "color" in handbags, belts, gloves, jewelry, shoes and stoles. Designers spotlight such bright uses of white or glass-flower decorated leather belts, white calf handbags with coral-paved handles, white organdy stoles — even a white jersey stole decorated with pale pastel shells.

Make Own Miniature Art Gallery With Truly Lovely Christmas Cards

Keep Best of Greetings This Year

Frame, Then Hang Them in Attractive Groupings

A miniature art gallery in your own home is yours for the making—from Christmas cards you received this year.

Nowadays, with so many famous artists contributing to card designs, you'll be able to salvage several from your annual take.

You'll probably find miniature paintings by such artists as Huldah, Doris Lee, Albert Pucci, John Hull and Thomas Vroman, as well as reproductions of famous Renaissance paintings.

A Christmas card art gallery poses definite problems and limitations, however. When you set about making one, pick only those cards that are not too obviously of a Christmas nature.

This eliminates many of the clever and well-designed cards with Santa as the central character. If you find six or seven suitable prints you're doing well.

Because cards are not very large, they look more imposing grouped together instead of scattered around individually.

A strip of wall between doorways or windows that won't take larger pictures can be used to good advantage for such a grouping.

Make your gallery layout on the floor before you put it on the wall. You can shift them around easily this way, and when you have the effect you want, measure the layout and indicate the dimensions with pencil dots on the wall.

It is easiest to pencil a dot where the top and side edges of the frame should be. Then juggle the hook accordingly.

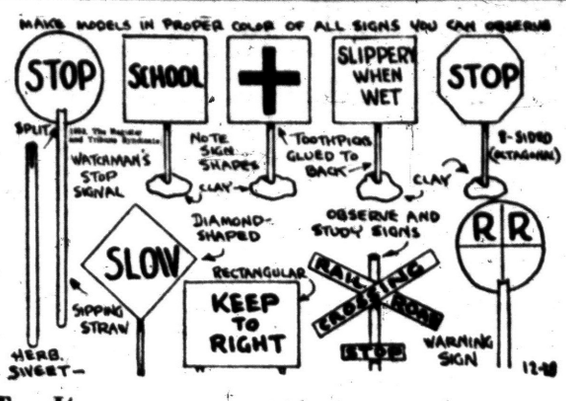
For the frames, you can use attic discards. Or shop around in junk and second-hand stores. Dark old frames can be lightened with paint or touched with gilt.

Unfinished wood frames can be rubbed down with a little white paint for a more modern effect. Whether or not you use glass on top is up to you.

Two cards last year reproduced Grandma Moses' ceramic tile designs, even to the glazed surface. These were glued to ordinary tiles backed with a piece of felt. A checked ribbon loop hung them up side by side.

Incidentally, if your landlord is easily upset by picture nails pounded into his walls, framed cards are light enough to hang on adhesive backed hooks that leave no mark on plaster.

Restore the lustre of rhinestone pins and buckles by soaking them in gasoline for about 15 minutes, then rubbing with a flannel cloth.



Try It

Create Miniature Signs

I have received many, many letters from you Try-Iteers telling me about the traffic signs which you make for your tiny towns, play truck roadways, and streets which you lay out with play blocks.

I am very much in favor of young people playing with signs which resemble those which are used by our highway departments. Even if rules are just kept in play, it is a wonderful lesson for young people who will soon be our automobile drivers of the future.

Signs can be made by using sucker sticks, toothpicks, and clay scraps for the bases. First make sketches of the signs in your city or town or those which are on the roadways around your home.

Then, copy their color, shape and wording. I have copied the signs which are used here where I live, and you will see them in the picture.

The stop sign is made by splitting the tip of a sucker stick and inserting a round yellow circle in the slit.

You can make a complete set of signs, then glue toothpicks to the back and set the other end of the toothpick in a standard made from clay. Pinch the clay up and around the toothpick. Obey the traffic rules.

Best Ways to Thaw Out Water Pipe

By HUBBARD COBB

There are two ways to deal with a frozen water pipe. One method is just to turn off the water and wait until summer.

By the time July rolls around the pipe will probably have thawed out and you will have saved a lot of energy. The other method is to thaw the pipe out by means of artificial heat.

Pipes don't always break when the water inside them freezes up but it's a good idea to assume that they have until you can know for certain, so before you start the thawing operation, shut off the supply to the frozen line and open the faucet at the other end.

The thawing operation should begin at a point nearest the open faucet and work back along the line. About the safest way to thaw a pipe is with lots of bathtowels and plenty of hot water.

The only drawback to this method is that it can't be used where painted surfaces or decorations might be harmed by all that hot water.

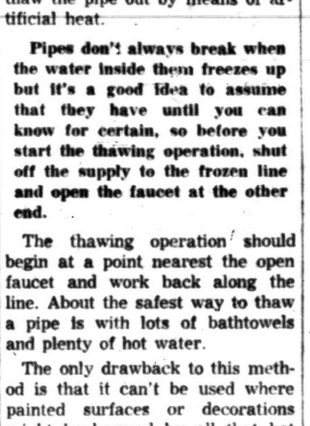
A blow torch is a good pipe thawer but you have to be careful not to use too hot a flame or hold the flame at one point for too long, because you may generate steam in the pipe and this can do a good deal of harm.

Electric heaters can be used but don't let them come in contact with the pipe and don't ever touch the heater and pipe at the same time.

If you do use an electric heater, put a piece of aluminum foil in back of the pipe, as this will increase the efficiency of the heater.

Sometimes you just can't get close enough to a frozen pipe to thaw it out yourself and your best bet then is to get hold of a plumber with a little steam thawing outfit.

Drain pipes that freeze can often be thawed out with a chemical sold at hardware and plumbing stores for this purpose, but you should never use one of these chemicals on the fresh water supply lines.



Edible Fat Use Up Since War

Consumption of edible fats—margarine, salad oils, vegetable shortening, and lard—has increased significantly in the years since World War II, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports.

In 1952, per capita use of fats and oils totaled 43.9 pounds. This was an increase of 2.3 pounds over the previous year.

This greater use of fats indicates an increasing awareness of their nutritional importance, the report noted. Fats have always been considered essential in the diet, but formerly emphasis was placed on their high caloric value as a source of energy. Now it is recognized that when fats from highly nutritious foods are limited, the diet may be inadequate.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Pierrot the Stateless Goat Wound Up Life as Cutlets

The clippings began coming and I said to myself "There's a goat in the news again" even before I heard about Billy, mascot of the Welsh Fuseliers who made headlines at the Big Three conference in Bermuda after Sir Winston Churchill called him darling, President Eisenhower fed him champagne, and his guardian revealed that the animal's great-great-great-grandfather had been at the Battle of Bunker Hill.

MISS McBRIDE

Every time some goat gets on the front page or even in the middle section (like the kidnapped Annapolis goat) the follies of other years rise up to haunt me by way of yellowed clippings showing Pierrot and me.

Pierrot was the goat I brought home from France, gift of my friend Juliette Nicole, dress and hat designer. Nikki buoght Pierrot on a whim and because she is a designer, I suppose, couldn't resist outfitting him with a chic blue bonnet and matching ruff. Pierrot was presented to me as I boarded the Ile de France.

When our ship docked, Pierrot in his hat and ruff and I, already beginning to fear that the joke was wearing thin, tramped down the gangplank into a week of really upsetting publicity.

Photographers took ridiculous pictures of me with my arm around my pet, reporters parodied "Mary Had a Little Lamb," ad nauseum. The late Joe Penner complete with duck was also a passenger on the Ile but Pierrot thoroughly upstaged the duck by eating his entrance permit right in the face of the immigration authorities.

I'd arranged ahead of time to board my goat out with a friend in Westchester and his chauffeur was at the pier with the family limousine to meet Pierrot.

I went thankfully to my apartment, relieved to be rid temporarily of such a noticeable possession. Next morning as I was looking ruefully at the photographs of Pierrot and me in all the papers, the telephone rang and a stern voice announced itself as being from the Department of Agriculture. It demanded to know where was my goat.

I thought it was a friend in a joking mood but the stern voice soon convinced me that I was up to my neck in trouble with the government. Pierrot, I was informed, came from an area suspected of being infested with hoof and mouth disease and would have to be deported instantly.

So the goat was brought back to New York, I was commanded to go to the pier and consign him again to the ship's kennels. I thought that was the end of the story, but when the little animal reached France the authorities refused to let him land on the grounds that he might have picked up goodness knows what disease during his brief American stay.

So Pierrot became a goat without a country, traveling back and forth across the ocean—how many times I don't know. The clipping I have before me is typical of the ones that continue to embarrass me. In the picture I'm saying goodbye to Pierrot and the verse underneath runs thus:

"Pierrot the goat is now afloat
An exile full of sorrow,
For he may be a fricassee
For luncheon on the morrow."

However this may have ranked as poetry, it was accurate prophecy. Months later I discovered that poor Pierrot actually did become cutlets on the ship's menu.

I haven't had a pet since.

Foot Soldier's Socks Restyled

The Army is dressing up its enlisted man all the way down to his toes.

Realizing that the soldier wants to look sharp from head to toe when he leaves the barracks, the Army has taken steps to provide a GI sock which dresses up the enlisted man's uniform.

The old sock was an "admirable foot covering" but contributed nothing to the soldier's appearance, the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers notes.

The new sock is a handsome ribbed style made of the finest mercerized cotton yarn. Hosiery experts have been working with the Army for months to get the best possible appearance in the sock while keeping the cost low enough to avoid extra burden on the GI uniform budget.

In commenting on the new item, an Army officer noted, "Lack of an attractive sock does to a soldier's uniform what lack of a front tooth does to his face. It may not be so important in itself, but it ruins the whole effect."

Carrying Wet Clothes Worst Wash Chore

In a study of "washday fatigue" it was discovered that carrying baskets of clothes came first on the list, with stooping as second. Naturally carrying baskets of wet clothes wears anyone down. Clothes weigh twice as much wet as when dry, and often there are basement steps to climb with the self-same heavy basket, and then on to the lines.

Stooping to pick up the wet clothes, stretching to pin them onto the line, is another unnecessary ordeal. Installing an indoor tumbler dryer banishes these two main reasons for washday fatigue, enabling the homemaker to drop the clothes into the dryer without any appreciable exertion. Best of all, she need give no consideration whatever to the weather.

Laws Allow Home Money-Making

CHICAGO (UP) — Most zoning laws permit residents to conduct money-making projects in their homes, according to the American Society of Planning Officials.

But they also provide in most cases that the home must not become more of an office than a place to live.

The society, which conducted a survey and published the results in a 24-page report, said a portion of a home could be used as the office of a doctor, lawyer or dressmaker without lowering the standards of a residential district.

But it said the important thing is that there be a "community history" of acceptance of certain types of home occupations.

The society said most zoning ordinances do not forbid home occupations unless they make a business location out of what is supposed to be primarily a dwelling.

Courts frequently have ruled that beauty shops, real estate offices and the like are business operations, instead of home occupations.

Locusts Menace Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan (UP)—The worst attack of locusts in 23 years is predicted for Jordan following an unusually early appearance of locust swarms. Normally locusts arrive later and their eggs hatch after most of the crops have been harvested. Action against locusts is not taken during the present stage—only after the eggs are laid.

Stray Horses Give Police Merry Downtown Chase

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (UP)—Two stray and very frisky horses got into downtown traffic here. Five peace officers joined the merry-go-round, with the stray cow ponies grabbing all the brass rings. The cops ineptly swung lariats to no avail.

Then, as the crowds cheered on the horses, Angel Luparcio, rode up on a horse, lassooed the ponies and led them off to the corral.

Collection of Famous Cigar Butts Is Costly

TARRAGONA, Spain (UP)—Pedro Ramirez Olastegui has a collection of famous cigar butts. It's cost him about $2,500. He has a network of theater ushers, hotel bellboys and nightclub and restaurant waiters working for him.

The butts are enclosed in glass cases with cards naming the owner and where the find was made. Most expensive so far was one ex-King Farouk of Egypt smoked in Rome. It cost $12.

Budgets Plague Berlin Women

Homemakers Trying to Equalize Income, Outgo of Money

BERLIN (UP) — West Berlin housewives, veterans of both hot and cold war, are fighting another battle — this one shared by women the world over.

It's the battle of the budget.

The average Berlin homemaker lived through the battle of Berlin and the numerous air raids of World War II. Then came the Soviet land blockade, when she was called the city's real heroine.

Now, she's trying to equalize income and outgo of money. Her troubles are typified by those of 41-year-old Kaethe Bornemann, wife of a West Berlin clerk and mother of two children, Helmut 11, and Inge, 8.

Husband Hans, 43, who works for a small textile firm, has a monthly income of about $95. But taxes and social insurance payments eat up about one-sixth of his salary.

Of his take-home pay of $83, Hans keeps only about $9.50 for himself. Part of this allowance goes for carfare, and in addition Hans can afford just six cigarettes a day, an occasional glass of beer and a rare evening at the movies with his wife.

Frau Bornemann spends a little more than half of the net income on food. "This means I have only about $1.50 a day to feed a family of four," she explains.

Butter is not included in the family budget and there is little meat, but Frau Bornemann manages to give her children milk and some fruit every day.

For breakfast the friendly dark-haired housewife usually cooks cereal soup. In addition, there are black bread, margarine and some cheap jam.

A vegetable stew cooked with lots of potatoes and sometimes a little meat is a frequent dish for the main midday meal. Tea and coffee are served at the Bornemanns' only as a special treat on Sundays.

The Bornemanns are lucky because they live in a relatively cheap two-room apartment with kitchen and bath in an old tenement house where they pay about $11 monthly for rent.

About 5 per cent of Mrs. Bornemann's budget is spent on electricity and on wood and coal for the old-fashioned cooking stove in the kitchen and the two pot-belly stoves that heat the apartment in winter.

The rest of the money goes for clothing.

Last month Helmut needed a pair of shoes that came to about $5.50 and little Inge must have a sweater and other warm things for school this winter.

What with her husband needing shirts, underwear and socks, the Berlin housewife feels she will have to stand back once more, as she has done often before, in favor of her family.

Too Much Rainmaking Can Cause Droughts

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Modern day "rain-making" can be overdone.

Dr. I. M. Levitt, director of Fels Planetarium here, said uncontrolled use of silver iodide which is sprayed through clouds of "rainmakers" can work in reverse.

The scientist claimed "overseeding" can easily lead to draughts because too much silver iodide in a cloud means too many nuclei and crystals do not get a chance to grow. The result. No rain.

The Northwest Mounted Police was organized in 1873.

Warns Taverns May Be 'Killed' by High Taxes

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (INS)—Thomas J. Donovan, Vice-President, Licensed Beverage Industries, Inc., warns the nation's 144,000 tavern owners face "a very real danger of extinction" because 88 per cent of the wage earners of America are being forced out of the legal liquor market by tax-inflated prices.

In an address at the National Licensed Beverage Association convention he said "Zane Grey's vanishing American could easily be the tax-ridden tavern owner of today."

Donovan said the tavern owner depends for his livelihood on the average person who is among the 88 per cent of city wage earners making less than $5,000 a year.

Donovan quoted Bureau of Labor statistics showing that this category of consumer is spending three per cent more than his earnings, and added:

"In other words, under today's tax burden, he's digging into his bank account or going into debt. He can't do that for long and when he stops, the tavern man will be the first to feel it."

11th Hash Mark Seen

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UP) — M-Sgt. William G. Reid, with 31 years of regular army service behind him, is heading for his 11th hash mark. At 18, Reid was driving a grocery wagon in his home city of Worcester, Mass., when an enlistment poster caught his eye. He pulled up his horse, went in and enlisted, and he's been in the service ever since.

Fisher Body to Expand Plant 1 in Grand Rapids

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — Fisher Body's Grand Rapids Plant No. 1 will be expanded early in 1954 for the fourth time since 1936, according to Manager T. Clinton Fletcher. New additions will add 258,000 square feet of floor space.

No addition to the work force is contemplated, Fletcher said. The plant, now employing 3,000 persons, produces and assembles automobile body parts.

Fire House Is Sanctuary

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP) — Rollin Leonard, 21, had no place to go after a fire destroyed his apartment at a motor court. So the suburban Parkrose fire department, which fought the blaze, gave Leonard lodging for the night at the fire house.

Granite Boulder on Kill Devil Hill

314 Acres, Famous for Wright Experiments, Now U. S. Park

WASHINGTON — Kill Devil Hill on North Carolina's Outer Banks —where man made his first powered flight nearly 50 years ago— is no longer where it was when the Wright Brothers first knew it.

The steady winds of Hatteras have blown it a tenth of a mile away. Until it was "anchored" in 1929 to seve as a permanent monument, the big sand hill had retreated over 500 feet southward from its original location.

The Wrights' real take-off point is marked by a granite boulder at a now level site north of the dune's base, the National Geographic Society points out.

Focal point for the four-day golden anniversary celebration of the Wrights' epochal flight, Kill Devil Hill's 91-foot-high summit is crowned with a gray granite pylon honoring the brothers and their plane, the Kitty Hawk Flyer.

The mound reportedly was named for a local brand of rum potent enough to do what "Kill Devil" implied. It is America's largest barkhan, or traveling mound of loose sand.

Originally crescent-shaped, its gently sloping convex front faced into the prevailing winds from which it slowly retreated.

When the national memorial was authorized by Congress in 1929, the marching hill's wind-sculptured beauty was sacrificed. Tough, wiry grass, nourished by leaf mold, was planted on its steep slopes.

After studying weather bureau records, the Wrights selected Kill Devil Hill for their aerial experiments because of the steady, strong air currents.

They made their first trip there, from their home in Dayton, Ohio, in 1900. For three years they experimented solely with gliders.

At last they managed to install power in a glider to their satisfaction, and in September 1903, they came down to their North Carolina camp. Beset by mechanical problems and bad weather, they were not ready to fly their sputtering machine until mid-December.

"On the morning of Dec. 17 with the wind 22 to 27 miles an hour, steady, from the north, they made the first of four flights.

Their frail contraption of wood, muslin and wire stayed aloft 12 seconds on the initial attempt — man's first successful powered flight. The fourth and longest flight covered 852 feet in 59 seconds.

Moments later a sharp gust of wind overturned the machine and damaged it badly. It could not be repaired in time for any more flights that year, and it was never flown again.

Fifty years ago Kill Devil Hill was accessible only by boat. Today the entire Outer Banks are connected with the mainland by highway, and in recent years the area has attracted increasing numbers of visitors.

A few miles due south of Kill Devil Hill and the village of Kitty Hawk is historic Roanoke Island, where Raleigh's Lost Colony of 1587 predated Jamestown and Plymouth.

KEY PLAY IN DRIVE—Detroit Lions claim this was the key play in their drive to the winning touchdown which gave them a 17-16 victory and the National Football League championship over the Cleveland Browns Sunday. End Jim Doran of the Lions is shown catching a pass tossed by Bobby Layne on 3rd down in 4th period. It was good for 18 yards and brought the ball to the Browns 45-yard line. Three plays later Doran caught another pass for the winning marker. Browns' player is back Warren Lahr.

Seeks Release of U. S. Citizens

Potter Starts Inquiries About Nationals Held by Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Potter (R-Mich) said today he is "talking to some people" in the administration about a new move to seek the release of U. S. citizens caught behind the Iron Curtain. He declined to give any details.

State Department sources estimate about 100 Americans are stranded in Communist China. Most of them are missionaries or business people who stayed too long and found themselves unable to leave when the cold war got too warm.

The State Department says the Kremlin has not replied to official inquiries raised about the reported imprisonment near Moscow of two Americans.

Potter conducted recent Senate hearings at which survivors told of Communist war crimes in Korea. He acted as a one-man subcommittee of the Senate investigations subcommittee.

Potter said today in an interview:

"One of the things we're looking into are the seemingly authentic reports that American citizens are being held in Siberia—who they are, just where they are held, and any — and what can be done to effect their release. I am talking to some people about this, and may have something further to announce before long."

But Who Wants to Eat Only Corn for a Year?

CHICAGO (UP)—A single acre of American corn-belt land could support three men for a year if they lived only on corn, according to an Illinois Institute of Technology professor.

But, Prof. Milton E. Parker said, the same acre could only support the men for three months if they lived on milk, and for less than two weeks if they ate nothing but steak.

Parker explained that the annual energy requirement for a man in a sedentary job is about 900,000 calories. Directly consumed, the corn would have a value of about 3,000,000 calories. Fed to cows for milk, the yield would drop to about 700,000 calories, and to cattle for steaks to about 100,000 calories.

Spartan Cagers May Lose Ayala, Godfrey

EAST LANSING (AP) — Rickey Ayala, 1st string Michigan State College basketball guard, and Walter Godfrey, top sophomore prospect in the guard position, may be ineligible to compete after Jan. 6.

If the ineligibility sticks, it will wind up the college basketball career of Ayala who is a senior.

College sources confirmed unofficially Wednesday that the grades of both men fell below the level required for eligibility after grading of fall term finals last week.

Station Attendant Does Corny Cleanup Work

HARRISBURG (AP) — Hoby Geeseman keeps ponies in a stable near his service station just outside Wernersville.

The ponies eat corn and up to a few weeks ago, Hoby had the problem of disposing of hundreds of corn cobs. Now he dips the cobs in water and uses them to clean windshields of automobiles.

Dons Give Ax to Co-ed Slacks in Oxford Halls

LONDON (INS) — Profs never give passes to girls who wear slacks to classes.

Or so the theory goes at tradition-drenched Oxford University where the co-eds have been notified that slacks peeking from under academic gowns will henceforth be frowned upon.

A notice headed "important" has appeared on the bulletin board at Oxford's Somerville College warning that it is "against proctorial regulations" to be improperly attired for lectures.

The women, normally willing to fight, fight, fight, for dear old Somerville, are up in arms at the ban which strikes such a blow at their newly-acquired fondness for American-style jeans and tight-fitting velvet trousers.

They say that slacks have proved the answer to drafty halls and chilly libraries.

Asked what women were expected to wear under their gowns, one student replied:

"Proper dress includes a black shirt and thick stockings. Nylons are considered too transparent."

Bullet Hits Home

A .22-caliber bullet shattered a window at the home of Edward Lorion of 7735 Maceday Lake Rd., Waterford Township Saturday passed through a screen door and lodged in a door casing, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies. Deputies were unable to discover the bullet's source.

Everyone in Big Hurry to Report Bus Holdup

DETROIT (AP) — Police knew within minutes that two men, one of them armed, had robbed a Detroit city bus.

The driver, Lee C. Davidson, after surrendering $49 in his change bag, ran half a mile to call police, losing $35 worth of bus tickets on the way.

Schools Serve 13,000 Lunches

Walled Lake Figures Show Number of Hot Meals Sold

WALLED LAKE—Nearly 13,000 hot lunches were served in Walled Lake school cafeterias during November, according to figures just released by James Forner, assistant superintendent of schools.

In addition to the full meals, 14,967 additional bottles of milk were sold to students who brought lunches from home.

The cafeterias operate under the federal lunch program and, in addition to surplus commodities, they receive a fixed amount of cash for each student meal and each additional bottle of milk purchased.

At present, the government rate is five cents per student lunch and two cents for each additional bottle of milk.

In addition to the meals purchased by the students, a total of 587 free meals were served to needy students during the month.

A system of mass buying is used whenever possible to get the best possible rates, Forner said.

"The more children we have buying lunches, the better the meals," he added. "We must be self-sustaining, aside from the approximately 15 per cent of the costs which we received from the government."

Two schools, Wixom and Glengary, showed losses of $30.62 and $42.85, respectively. All others registered profits.

First Disliked New Medium

At 31, He Is in Great Demand for Feature Drama Roles

NEW YORK (AP)—Jackie Cooper, once a child star of the screen, didn't think much of televison when he first got into it five years ago. Today, he says he wouldn't go back to the movies—unless the offer was too good to turn down.

Anyway, at 31 he is too busy in TV out of New York to think much about Hollywood. He has been averaging close to one starring role every two weeks. Since September 1952, counting out nine weeks in summer theater, he has appeared in 21 productions.

He hardly finishes one assignment before there is another, he is in such demand in the various network feature dramas. His 28 years or so in show business (he started when he was only three) have qualified him for almost any part.

"Now that I've gotten into television, I intend to stick to it," Jackie said. "It is much harder work than the movies or the stage, but I enjoy it. It's just that you have to know your parts better. You can't improve them the next night like on the stage or do it over in the movies. Once you are on the air, things must run like clockwork.

"The experience gained in my kid days has been highly valuable. In some respects the films and TV are alike, but of course TV production moves at a much faster pace.

"As to going back to the movies, I'd have to think a while first. It would have to be something that would help our my career.

"The movies I remember best are 'Skippy,' which I did when I was only 8, and 'The Champ', in which I appeared with the great Wallace Beery. Altogether I did more than 60 pictures."

As much as he loves TV, Cooper says it has its complications, such as changing costumes and scenes almost at the wink of the eyelash. Often this forces the wearing of one costume over the other.

In one recent play he had to be 18 and 54 years of age from one scene to the next. The aging process was done with dimmed lights as he wore a slouch hat pulled down over his face and with a raincoat thrown over a pair of pajamas, required for the next scene, a flashback in which he had to be lying in bed.

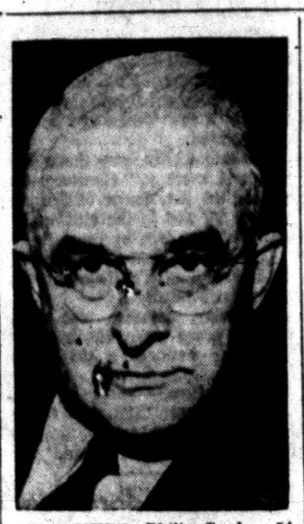
To help with the quick change, TV clothing is especially designed so it can be literally ripped off by a dressing aide. Special hooks and other devices are used. Sometimes it will be only half a costume, the part that shows.

After he grew up to an adult actor, Jackie had three years in the Navy, serving mostly in the South Pacific. As a hobby he turned to sports car racing. He figures since he got his first license in 1936 he has driven nearly 750,000 miles in various events. He does his own mechanical work.

At present he makes his home in a New York hotel. His most recent show was last Saturday night in the CBS-TV Medallion Theater when he played the lead in an aviation drama, "Twenty-Four Men to a Plane."

Time Lost in Strikes Lower During 1953

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor Mitchell said yesterday that strikes this year cost 26 million man-days, as compared with 59 million in 1952. A man-day is the time of one man for one day.



FAO CHIEF—Philip Cardon, 54, of Logan, Utah, is the new director general of the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization because Norris E. Dodd, the former director, withdrew as a candidate. Cardon has previous experience in the Department of Agriculture and was a former U.S. Treasury Department official.

2 Forest Fires Hit West Coast

400 Evacuate Homes in California Towns; No Deaths Reported

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two forest fires whipped by strong winds blowing from the desert raged out of control today, causing evacuation of at least 400 homes in a half dozen communities.

The wind lashed a 75-mile area from San Bernardino to the San Fernando Valley, knocking down trees and power lines and temporarily closing some highways because of the dust.

* * *

Both fires are in the San Gabriel Mountains. Flames swept into innumerable canyons and leaped from peak to peak. Burning down into the foothills, one fire crept into the outskirts of Monrovia, Arcadia and Sierra Madre.

There were no reported casualties. Fire fighters also said the flames had been kept away from houses in the communities up to 3 a.m. PST, when the wind had subsided, but the fate of many vacation-type cabins farther up in the canyons was undetermined.

Forestry officials and police ordered residents to evacuate for safety sake.

The fire's fingers to the north, away from the cities, were creeping along lower slopes of famed Mount Wilson.

In the same area 35 persons were evacuated from Chantry Flats. Here there were about 135 summer or vacation cabins. Firemen said the flames swept through the area and undoubtedly destroyed some cabins.

Battle Creek Merchant Dies After Long Illness

Polio Victim Learning to Type With Stick

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UP)—A game 16-year-old youngster, paralyzed from the neck down since stricken by polio two years ago, is learning to typewrite by clenching a stick between his teeth and using his tongue to guide it.

R. Gregg Hiles was inflicted with infantile paralysis while a junior at Port Washington (L. I.) High School. He was flown to the University of Buffalo Research Institute for treatment and doctors said he had to serve an "indefinite term" in an iron lung.

The plucky youngster overcame the lung by learning the technique of frog breathing— consciously forcing himself to inhale through his mouth. However, when he sleeps or eats he must use a rocking bed and iron lung.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling J. Hiles, and experts from Remington Rand, rigged an electric typewriter on a swinging table at a 50 degree angle. While lying on his back, he can "reach" the keys with the 12-inch stick.

Gregg also has learned to turn book pages with the rubber-tipped stick in his mouth. Teachers from Bennet High School tutor him daily.

New Drug Effective as Nausea Control

CHICAGO (UP) — The American Medical association reports that a new drug has proved effective in controlling nausea caused by other drugs, including some of the antibiotics.

The new antiemetic drug is known only as compound 2601-A, according to Drs. Dale G. Friend and James F. Cummins, of Boston. They described results of the drug's us. in an article in the AMA Journal.

The two doctors reported that the drug has been used on 70 patients "with gratifying results."

Otsego Pilot Hurt as Plane Hits Wire

FENNVILLE (UP)—A 29-year-old Otsego pilot escaped with only minor injuries when his private plane struck a power line and crashed during a landing on a farm near here Sunday.

Pilot Robert Meles was in "fair condition" with a fractured ankle and face cuts at Holland hospital. He told Allegan County sheriff's deputies his single-engine plane apparently hit an air pocket as he tried to land and the wheels caught on the power line. The plane was damaged.

Find New Lead for Cancer Test

Mouse Tumors Have More Thymidine Than Normal Tissue

BOSTON (UP)—A possible lead towards the development of a new diagnostic test for cancer was reported today to the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

Two university of Texas biochemists declared that in experiments with mice, they had found "a new and possibly significant biochemical distinction between tumor tissues and most normal tissues."

And, said researchers William Shive and Edwin M. Lansford Jr., "further consideration of this biochemical dstinction from the stand point of possible diagnostic applications . . . may be warranted."

They also declared the finding might aid toward better understanding of the cancer process itself.

* * *

Their researches were concerned with studies of a chemical called "thymidine" which can be found in both normal and tumor tissue. The scientists developed a special technique for determining the distribution of this chemical in tissue. And they found that the amount present "appeared significantly greater in several types of mouse tumor tissue tested than in a number of normal mouse, rat, and other animal tissues, with the exception of spleen and thymus."

* * *

Their studies of "thymidine" content were made possible by the use of chemicals called "antimetabolites"—compounds which prevent or retard certain chemical chances which occur in living cells.

Sunken Civil War Ship Found in Mississippi

KIMMSWICK, Mo. (UP)—The hull of a sunken Civil War craft has again been exposed by the low stage of the Mississippi River near here.

The heavily-constructed, armored 135-foot vessel has been called a gunboat but authorities now say it may have been used to ram enemy craft. It is not known whether the craft was used by the Union or the Confederacy.

Says Texas OK, but Not Deep in His Heart

HOUSTON (UP) — When 9-year-old Herman Rowland, a polio victim from Lexington, Ky., arrived at the Southwestern Respiratory Center here a few weeks ago he was disappointed.

"I came all the way down here to see a cowboy," Herman complained to his doctor. "You see 'em on TV and in the movies, but you don't see 'em in Texas."

The Houston Post asked the Harris County Sheriff's mounted posse to reassure the lad.

Yesterday, deputies who make up the posse gave Herman and the other patients a display of horsemanship. Herman watched from a window.

U. S. Considers Use of Percy Jones

BATTLE CREEK (UP) — A "plan" to use Percy Jones Army Hospital is under consideration by the Defense Department according to Rep. Paul W. Shafer (R-Mich).

What the plan is, however, was not revealed by Shafer in a statement released here during the weekend. The giant hospital has been placed on a standby status by the Army.

Use of Percy Jones as an Air Force academy or as headquarters for the Fifth Army were among proposals made by Shafer and other members of the House Military Affairs Committee.

Irish Music Publisher Looks to U.S. Market

DUBLIN (UP)—A Dublin music publisher who thinks there is a good market in the United States for native Irish songs in Gaelic is scouring Ireland for 50 new titles he hopes to bring out.

Martin Walton, the publisher, recently published sheet music for "The Whistling Gypsy" and "Cottage by the Lane," but this production of Irish phonograph records appears to be lagging.

According to Dublin's Gramophone Society, except for six tunes recently cut by an Abbey Theater actor, Joe Lynch, few Irish records are available.

Seek Director of State Prisons

Board Will Interview Three Candidates for $12,000 Job

LANSING (UP) — The State Corrections Commission will interview three men in Ann Arbor this week in an effort to find a permanent director for Michigan's prison system. The job pays $12,000 a year.

One will be Gus Harrison, currently acting director. Another will be Dr. Lloyd McCorkle, New Jersey State Prison warden.

The commission declined to name the third, saying that his $12,000 a year job in another midwestern state might be jeopardized by revelation of his candidacy.

Dr. Jesse McNeil of Detroit, commission vice chairman, came out in advance of the interviews in favor of Harrison, praising his handling of the recent 13-prisoner break from Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson.

While not committing himself on a final selection, Commissioner Talbott Smith of Ann Arbor said he liked "the way he (Harrison) took responsibility and pointed to the weaknesses in security" in the recent break.

Senate Leaders to Hold Huddle

Pre-Session Talks of Party Chiefs Together May Set Tone

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Republican and Democratic party leaders of the Senate arrive in Washington today for conferences that may largely decide whether controversy or cooperation predominates in the 1954 congressional session.

Aides said Senate Majority Leader Knowland (R-Calif) and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, will hold conferences in advance of the congressional meeting date, Jan. 6.

* * *

It is an election year session. Voting in November on all 435 House seats and 35 of the 96 senatorships will determine party control of Congress.

* * *

Tension therefore is bound to be greater than in 1953, when Knowland and Johnson worked harmoniously on most legislation.

Public statements during the weekend by three Democratic senators marked out some of the lines along which Democrats, almost as numerous in Congress as Republicans, intend to press the majority party. In the Senate the Democrats, although not in control of the legislative machinery, are actually ahead in numbers—48 to 47 Republicans and one independent. In the House the Republicans have 219 seats, to 215 Democrats and one independent.

* * *

Sen. Kefauver of Tennessee urged his fellow Democrats to take the helm and push a program aimed at reversing what he called "the trend toward government by monopoly and wealth."

* * *

Sen. Monroney of Oklahoma, taking strong exception to criticism by Republican Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York of the Truman administration's handling of the Korean War, accused the GOP of "hitting below the belt at the entire Democratic party," and said Democrats themselves could tackle hard.

Sen. Kerr of Oklahoma, a member of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, came out for an increase in income tax exemptions.

* * *

Much of the success or failure of the broad legislative program that President Eisenhower has promised to submit to the second session of the 83rd Congress may depend on personal relationships between Knowland and Johnson.

* * *

One of the first problems facing Knowland and Johnson will be a Senate internal dispute about important committee places for Democrats and Republicans because of the present freak situation with Republicans in control while Democrats hold a numerical majority.

Clogged Chimney Kills Couple by Gas, Fumes

Give Boy Shot Christmas Night a 7 to 3 Chance

DETROIT (UP)—James Emmons, 13, kept alive by blood donors recruited by television, was given a seven-to-three chance of surviving today.

James has peritonitis (inflammation of the abdominal cavity lining). He was shot accidentally Christmas night with a .32 calibre hunting rifle in the hands of a playmate. The bullet pierced his stomach and shattered a hip.

He was rushed to receiving hospital, but it had only two pints of his rare type blood, AB-RH negative, in its bank and James needed a series of transfusions. Dr. Austin Z. Howard asked Detroit's three television stations to appeal for donors. Two hundred responded. Forty-seven were accepted.

James has been given 11 pints.

The bullet was removed in a two-hour operation yesterday, and three infection-fighting wonder drugs given James.

The Muskegon, Mich., beauty made a reply as blunt as it was unexpected.

Pitching Horseshoes

Striking Truckers' Cause Aided by Bootleg Bagels

By BILLY ROSE

I think the American Federation of Labor ought to give my Uncle Charlie a gold medal for services above and beyond the call of duty. If not for him—and you can check this with almost anybody on the East Side—the truck drivers who deliver bagels in New York City would never have held out so long in their strike.

BILLY ROSE

Here's the inside story of what actually happened. . .

A couple of weeks ago, when I dropped in to see my aunt and uncle at their Rivington Street flat, I was surprised to find the usually fastidious Charlie kneading a big blob of dough on the porcelain-top kitchen table. He was wearing one of Frieda's aprons and a chef's cupcake hat, and singing somethng that sounded like "Beg A Land, Lock Sand, Grim Chess."

"What this all about?" I said.

"Ssssh!" said Frieda. "Charlie is a bootlegger."

"What's he bootlegging?" I asked

"He is making bagels," said my aunt. "On account the bagel strike, he is rolling for the Garfinkles, the Plotkins and—you should pardon—the MacKenzies who put on them marmalade."

(A bagel, for the benefit of the auslanders, is a small hole surrounded by gold-flaked cement—a sort of mahogany doughnut. According to sacred ritual, it is usually sliced sidewise, coated liberally with cream cheese, then heavily interlarded with slabs of flamingo-pink smoked salmon, better known as "lox.")

"I don't understand you running a bagel-easy," I said to my uncle. "Aren't you a good union man?"

"For thirty years, A. F. and L. and always paid up," said Charlie.

"Then how come this nonunion shop?"

"It's on account of principal" said my uncle. "To the four freedoms I'm adding a fifth — the freedom to eat bagels."

Charlie went back to his kneading and singing, and I realized the words weren't "Beg A Land, Lock Sand, Grim Chess" at all. They were "Bagels and Lox and Cream Cheese."

"Tell me about this illegal operation," I said. "For instance, how do you handle the deliveries?"

"Is simple," said Frieda. "Charlie is baking and Morris Slansky is taking from door to door in a baby carriage. Knock three short, one long, and the password is 'Lec Lindy.'"

My uncle took one of the petrified crullers out of the oven. "The stuff of life," he said. "Bite it—but not with the front teeth."

"How much profit are you making a week?" I asked.

"We don't make profit," said Charlie. "This we are doing, like they say on the radio, as a public service. For three weeks now, the bagel bakers aren't baking on account the truck drivers are on strike. Another week without bagels and we got here a ghost town. After that, who knows? Panics. Riots. Starving dead from hunger."

"Your uncle is right," said Frieda. "A world without bagels is like Imogene Cocoa without Sid Seizure."

"I don't like the idea of Charlie being a strikebreaker," I said. "A strikebreaker you should not call your uncle," reprimanded Frieda. "To him, the word is a aggravation."

"What else can I call him?" I said. "If the bakeries are closed because of the strike and Charlie delivers nonunion bagels to the public—"

"To the public we are not delivering," said my uncle. "Only to the strikers."

"What do the drivers want with bagels?" I said.

"Without them, how could they hold out against the bosses?" said Frieda. "Last Wednesday there was a meeting and certain strikers to who Charlie is not delivering are talking of going back to work. They are only holding out because your uncle is taking their addresses and agreeing to supply them with underground bagels, they should keep up their morale. . . ."

As for the gold medal the A. F. of L. should award my Uncle Charlie, may I suggest that it be cast with a hole in the middle.

Ramon Magsaysay---Man of the People---to Take Oath as President of Philippines

By IRENE C. KUHN

Under a blazing tropic sun at high noon this Wednesday, a 46-year-old ex-blacksmith will take office as the third president of the infant Republic of the Philippines

MISS KUHN

When six foot Ramon Magsaysay repeats the oath to protect and defend the constitution of his country there will be rejoicing among the poor and the lowly, and none will be happier than Tony Caldozo, a waiter in the Manila Hotel.

Tony was my waiter, assigned to my table when I lived in the Manila Hotel for several months last year.

One day I was lunching with an American friend and Senator Tomas Cabili. A big man in light slacks and a barong tagalog, the native shirt of cool, transparent pina cloth—hand woven frome pineapple fibers — came into the long, broad dining hall that opens out on the gardens fronting Manila Bay. Senator Cabili excused himself, crossed the room and brought the newcomer over to our table. He introduced him to us while Tony stood by, smiling all over.

The introduction over, the Secretary of Defense, Ramon Magsaysay, greeted Tony, the waiter, too, with a friendly "hello" and a quick smile, and asked him, please, just to bring him a fresh mango—he hadn't time to eat much, he had to be back at Camp Murphy .

I came to know this newly-elected president of the Philippines well in the months I was in the Philippines; and I came to know Tony Caldozo well, too. So I was not surprised to receive a letter from him about two to 1 November victory over his rival, Elpido Quirino.

Tony is a simple, hard-working, self-respecting Filipino, with the pride and dignity of a free man who has always been free, and the easy self-confidence of a man whose American teachers in Manila, when he was growing up, gave him only the example of American virtues and goodness, and none of our faults and vices.

He and Magsaysay can meet man to man—and do. For while both are Asians, they have completely absorbed that finest of all our American beliefs—that all men are equal in the sight of God.

Magsaysay's greatness, which has been revealed to his own people and to the world in a few short years, comes not just from his deeds, which are heroic, but from his humility, which is genuine.

Area Seeks Funds For Studying Water

Weak Unions Prey for Reds

Expert Says Opposition to Organization in 30's Helped Communists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prof. Philip Taft of Brown University said today a Communist group is likely to take over quickly whenever an employer "destroys" a labor union in his plant.

Communists always are trying to worm their way into labor organizations, Taft said, and succeed when unions are weakened and deprived of trained anti-Red leadership.

Taft's paper was prepared for a discussion of ways to curb Communist influence in labor unions — one of several panel studies featuring the annual three-day meeting of the Industrial Relations Research Assn.

The association is among 10 organizations of scientific and professional groups holding annual meetings here concurrently.

Among the scheduled participants in the decision of Communist influence in labor unions was a representative of the General Electric Co. That firm recently announced a policy of firing all known Communists from the company and suspending those who refused to deny Red connections.

Taft, author of a number of books on labor union history and practices, said the opposition of many employers to labor unions helped Communists infiltrate into unions in the 30s.

"There were not in the unorganized industries any group leaders who could take hold and keep the newly organized (workers) out of the reach of Communist influence," Taft said. "Industry had prevented such a possibility by not allowing free unions to exist in their plants."

Elusive Dollar Bill Has Special Destiny

KINGSTREE, S. C. (AP)—A Kingstree family set out for a drive-in movie with a $1 bill set aside for the ticket taker. On the way somebody mistook the money for a candy bar wrapper and tossed it out the car window.

They went to the movie anyway. Going home the mother suddenly called for a halt. "It must have been along here," she said, and the headlights just then were shining on the bill floating in a puddle beside the busy highway.

Deciding the bill was destined for some special use, they sent it to Thornwell Orphanage at Clinton in a special church offering.

Officials Fear Pontiac Is Dry

City Long Considered Oasis May Prove to Be a Mirage

Officials worried about shrinking water reserves fear the Pontiac area is a mirage rather than an oasis.

But they will find out definitely next year if the state shells out $115,000 in matching funds for a water survey in southeastern Michigan.

The proposed survey would include tests on the aboundance of underground water and surface reserves.

Pontiac is directly affected by the underground water hunt, for this general area has been chosen as the site for the study.

An advisory committe named by the Michigan Water Resources Commission recently recommended the two-pronged survey and State Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) plans to ask the Michigan Legislature for matching funds.

Pontiac City Manager Walter K. Willman, a member of the advisory group, said te general Pontiac area has been selected for "exploratory tests" on groundwater reserves.

He said geologists long have considered this general area rich in underground water.

But recent test-drilling here has indicated that the reserves are dwindling. Nineteen wells now supply Pontiac with water.

Willman said the water level has been dropping for the past 10 years and that city crews are constantly looking for new "pockets" of water.

Broomfield said the survey probably would get under way immediately after July 1, provided funds have been obtained by that date.

Secretary of State Reports on First Year

Says Free World Has Seized Diplomatic Initiative From Soviet Union in Cold War

By JOHN FOSTER DULLES
Secretary of State

(Editor's note: This is the first of a series of year-end reports by members of President Eisenhower's cabinet.)

The basic purpose of our foreign policy is today what it has always been—to protect the interests of the United States. This country has been fortunate during recent years in having a large measure of bipartisan support for its foreign policy. To deserve that support this Administration believes that the American people have the right to know about every part of our foreign policy, about its background, its planning, its intent.

Foreign policy is not the function of an elite corps; it is the result of the democratic process in action. To understand its aims is everybody's business. I conider that I have the obligation to use every means at my disposal to let the American people know about our foreign policy.

I have welcomed the opportunity to report to them and to meet and consult with their elected representatives in Congress. To me all this is not a chore but a great privilege.

I hope that it may help us to preserve the precious asset of bipartisan, or to use the word of the late Senator Vandenberg, "unpartisan," support in the Congress.

World at Peace Prime Objective

The interests of the United States are best protected by a world at peace. To bring about and maintain peace is always a dominant and overriding concept of our foreign policy. It is our constant objective to contribute, wherever we can, to removing the causes of international differences. "Peace" to us means more than a mere absence of open warfare.

It means a condition of constructive and creative effort. Poverty, fear and ignorance are the source of trouble on which despotism feeds.

In his speech of Dec. 8 to the general assembly of the United Nations, the President gave the world enduring evidence of a sincere desire to eliminate the threat of atomic war and to facilitate the harnessing of the great forces of atomic power for the benefit of all mankind.

Our efforts have been to help to build a world where men can live at peace under governments of their own choosing and where channels of trade, commerce and communication enable men to prosper from the exchange of ideas, techniques and products of their labor.

The objectives of the foreign policy of the Soviet Union have been exactly the opposite. Since 1945, some 600,000,000 people of 15 nations have been forced to live under Soviet dictatorship as exploited prisoners, cut off from access to the outside world.

Where we helped the nations of Europe rebuild from the damages of war, the Soviet rulers refused to participate; refused to allow their satellites to share in assistance; and attempted to nullify our assistance in Western Europe by fomenting internal disorders.

Where the Soviet Union could not amalgamate the peoples into its orbit, it has tried to create chaos. In Greece, in Malaya, in the Philippines, communist leaders have inspired internal aggression. In Indochina and in Korea they have resorted to outright war.

To counter the Soviet-led, monolithic unity of one third of the world's people, we have had to take the initiative in building up the strength and cohesion of the free nations, so that they could resist communist aggression. We have helped them build their military, their political and their economic strength. Their strength is an adjunct to our strength.

Moral Strength Also Essential

Important as the building of the material strength of the free nations is, it would be useless unless it was accompanied by the building of moral strength. It is the hope and the dedication to high ideals that has given the free peoples the will and the courage to resist Soviet domination.

The Soviet pattern is the pattern of coercion. Its rulers have built a power bloc of 800,000,000 people, all ruled from Moscow, which is the capital of the captive world. The peoples and nations of this captive world have been forced into conformity.

That is not our way. Soviet society cannot tolerate freedom of will and freedom of choice. Our society can tolerate diversity. We have been working and we shall continue to work for unity and cooperation among the nations of the free world.

Without unity the nations of the free world would perish. But that unity must not be coerced. Our society must be a society of consent. Its strength is the strength of its principles. The basic principles were written into the Charter of the United Nations: "Respect for the principles of equal rights and self-determination of peoples."

The Soviet Union, of course, signed the Charter of the United Nations and has since disregarded it.

U. S. Will Never Confirm Slavery

Our adherence to these basic principles has led Presiden Eisenhower and me repeatedly to make clear that this country will never give "apparent moral approval of the Kremlin's rule over people of 15 once-independent nations" or make "bargains with their masters that will confirm their captivity."

Our policies are proving successful. The fighting in Korea has ended on terms which establish the principle that the weak shall not be the easy prey of great offensive forces. There remains the problem of unifying Korea.

The division of Korea is wrong but war is not the way to right such a wrong. We shall have to work persistently and patiently for a solution.

Every day I receive great personal gratification when I look at our papers and observe the absence of casualty lists. I am sure that the parents and relatives of our young men find this a source of deep satisfaction after the long and agonizing war in Korea.

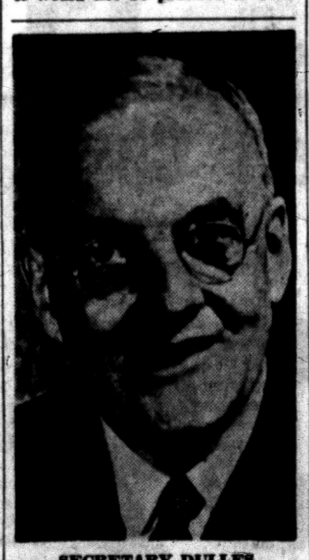
We should not overlook other favorable developments in the Pacific area. We have been for some time working out a pattern of security for the Pacific. In 1951, 48 nations signed a liberal treaty of peace with Japan in spite of the Soviet Union's violent objections. In the same year we signed security treaties with the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand and Japan. I had the privilege of negotiating and signing these treaties for the U.S.

Security Treaty Awaits Approval

Last fall in Korea we worked out the terms of a security treaty similar to those earlier ones. Of course this treaty does not become effective until approved by the Senate. If approved, it will constitute a clear warning that another unprovoked military attack on the Republic of Korea would involve the United States.

This proposed treaty should be considered in conjunction with the declaration of the 16 United Nations countries that fought in Korea.

This declaration said that, if the armistice is broken by unprovoked communist aggression, the 16 nations "would again be united and prompt to resist" and that "the consequences of such a breach of the armistice would be so grave that, in all probability, it would not be possible to confine hostilities within the frontiers of Korea."



SECRETARY DULLES

We do not wish another miscalculation about our intentions.

Nor do we wish any misunderstanding about the truce in Korea. We regard the war in Korea as part of the world-wide effort of communism to conquer freedom. Chinese communist aggression was not confined to Korea. It extended to Indochina in the south. Even if the armistice in Korea leads to a political settlement it does not end the United States' concern in the western Pacific area.

Warning Issued on Indochina

On Sept. 2, referring to Indochina, I said, "There is the risk that, as in Korea, Red China might send its own army into Indochina. The Chinese communist regime should realize that such a second aggression could not occur without grave consequences which might not be confined to Indochina. I say this soberly in the hope of preventing another aggressor miscalculation."

As President Eisenhower said in his April speech, the Korean armistice would be a fraud if it merely released communist forces to attack elsewhere.

The declaration of the 16 countries that fought in Korea is clear on this point. It said, "We are of the opinion that the armistice must not result in jeopardizing the restoration or the safeguarding of peace in any other part of Asia."

One of President Eisenhower's first acts was to end the so-called "neutralization" of Formosa. This had been implemented by orders to our Seventh Fleet to protect the communist China mainland.

It seemed to us that the burden of this protection should be thrown on the Chinese Communists themselves and that the U.S. Navy should not serve the Communists in this matter.

Last July the French made a declaration of independence for the Associated States of Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam. Today the Associated States and the French are taking practical steps to make that independence a reality. The United States has rejoiced that these states are gaining their independence and that they plan, it seems, to work shoulder-to-shoulder with France in the French Union. By working together as independent, but interdependent, states they can defeat communism in Indochina.

Just recently the Philippines held general elections under conditions of great strain. This new republic has had to endure great hardships to rebuild the terrible damage that it received during the war.

At the same time, in its first formative years it has had to fight internal communist aggression. Under these conditions a general election is a real test of the strength of democracy.

It was a thrilling demonstration of the capacity of the Philippine nation for self-government and the orderly fashion in which it was conducted was another proof of the capacity of the Philippine people to strengthen their democratic government.

In the Middle East it seemed for some time that Iran might be exposed to a Soviet communist seizure of one of the world's largest oil reserves. But the people of Iran have learned to distrust communism because they have lived next door to it and have had an opportunity to know of its ambitions.

Last summer they rose to the support of their Shah to prevent the illegal retention of power by a regime which was becoming increasingly identified with the communist party in Iran.

Today. Iran has a fresh opportunity to solve its internal problems and to strengthen its ties with the free nations.

Europe Continues Economic Recovery

In Europe the economic recovery of recent years has been continuing. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization continues to gain strength. To me the important thing is the cooperation and the ability to work together for the solution of common problems that is increasingly demonstrated in Europe.

European nations have regained their confidence in their ability to solve their own problems and their ancient political genius has been reborn.

This Administration attached great importance to the growing political, economic and military unity of Western Europe. The Coal and Steel Community that is now functioning and the prospective European Defense and Political Communities are evidences of political creativeness of the European peoples. They are the most valid and effective exhibits of freedom in action. They are bound to be contagious.

The political victory of Chancellor Adenauer has greatly increased the prestige and influence of a statesman who faces international problems not in the spirit of a narrow nationalism but in the terms of the long-range welfare of a Europe of which a democratic Germany is an indispensable part.

French political originality invented the concept of building a European defense community and European political community. The hard common sense of the German people and their leaders has endorsed this concept.

Conditions in the Eastern Zone of Germany have been in sharp contrast to conditions in the Federal Republic. Last June the people of East Germany held widespread protest demonstrations which made evident their resentment of oppression and their dissatisfaction with their lack of opportunity to work for Germany's reunification in freedom.

To say that we have been willing to meet with the Soviet Union and attempt to find a solution to the problems that disturb the world's peace would be an understatement.

We have, you might say, chased Soviet Russia across the map of Europe and of Asia in our efforts to get its rulers to negotiate. Now it is beginning to look as if we have caught them.

The Soviet Union has been afraid that, if they admit the possibility of greater liberty for anyone now living behind the Iron Curtain, restiveness will increase everywhere in their police and captive states.

Free World Takes Moral Offensive

The Soviet rulers are on a diplomatic defensive. The free world now has the diplomatic and moral initiative. We hope to keep that initiative. We have been ready, we are ready now and we shall stay ready to talk to the Soviet leaders about any concrete point of difference, wherever it may exist.

The peoples of the free world know — and the Soviet leaders should know — that we are also not going to accept as a prior condition to negotiation the abandonment of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the European Defense Community, and our mutual defense bases.

Nor do we wish to participate in an international conference which would be construed as an abandonment of the enslaved peoples of the captive nations.

Neither we nor our Allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are going to allow Europe to be made defenseless as a condition to negotiation with a totalitarian power armed with the world's largest military machine and with a record of absolute ruthlessness.

We shall negotiate from strength, not weakness. Also, we shall not accept the Soviet demand that, as a condition precedent to any talks about anything, the U.S. must recognize the communist regime as the government of China and seek its admission into the United Nations and into the councils of the great powers.

Some cautions must be borne in mind when we talk of meetings with the Soviet leaders. President Eisenhower spoke with great seriousness last spring about our desire to discuss the limitation of armament.

He spoke of the progress that could be made in the world if we could divert expenditures from the instruments of destruction to means of construction that would benefit the peoples of the underdeveloped areas.

He spoke of the terrible danger from the present weapons of destruction that hangs like a dark cloud over all humanity. We shall never stop our efforts to obtain a limitation of armament under conditions that will safeguard the U.S.

Must Not Ignore Real Dangers

But few things could be more dangerous than to have a meeting which vaguely produced the illusion that there was no danger. We should not invite a mist of words to obscure the peril that faces our world.

To mention areas where the strength of the free world is growing is not to indicate that we shall not continue to have problems and occasional setbacks. Some problems at this time seem far from solution.

Some of these obstacles may eventually be greater than they appear from today's perspective. The difficulties that lie in front of us should not prevent our efforts to find solutions, for nothing makes policy more cowardly and more feeble than the premise that no setbacks can be risked.

From the earliest days of the Republic our people have held a profound faith in the dynamic influence of a free society.

It was the determination of the men who built this republic that there should exist a society in which man would be free to develop his potentialities unhindered by any servitude or bonds of social structure.

Our ancestors believed, as the opening paragraph of the Federalist Papers said, that the American people had a unique opportunity by their conduct and example to show all humanity the possibilitie of a free society. It was because the United States represented this opportunity that men have wished to come to this country.

It has been the genius of the American people that has developed the possibilities of a free society more largely than they have been developed by any other country. This is our strength now.

Also, our people have continued their faith in the words of the Declaration of Independence that calls for "a decent respect to the opinions of mankind."

Today great numbers of men who for centuries have had no hope for their children are becoming aware that they may share in the benefits of the more technically advanced societies of the West. Throughout Asia the communists are telling these men that their hope to avoid their ancient servitude can be found best in the new servitude of the communist society.

We have offered them the opportunity for cooperation with the free nations.

If we are determined in our resolution to vitalize the possibilities of our free society I have complete faith that what we do will be more eloquent and persuasive than what the despots say.

SALMON PARISIENNE—Glamour galore for lunch or supper—when you serve canned salmon with broccoli and a smooth cheese cause. It makes a different and delicious casserole dish. You probably will find additional uses for the tangy cheese sauce.

Salmon-With-Cheese Dish Achieves Continental Tang

All salmon, be it pink or red or in between, is good to use. The Chinook or King salmon is the largest of all, soft in texture, rich in oil and separates in large flakes easily.

Half of the salmon canned is the pink variety. Popular everywhere, it has small flakes.

Salmon Parisienne

1 10-ounce package frozen broccoli
1 1-pound can salmon
Cheese sauce

Cook broccoli according to package directions; drain; cut into fork-size pieces; arrange in bottom of 4 individual casseroles (1½ cup size). Drain salmon; keeping pieces as large as possible, arrange salmon over broccoli.

* * *

Pour cheese sauce over salmon; broil with surface of food 3 inches below heat, until sauce bubbles and browns. Makes 4 servings.

Cheese Sauce

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 teaspoons grated onion
¼ cup flour
2 cups milk
1 cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
½ to 1 teaspoon salt
Several drops tabasco sauce
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Melt butter over low heat; add grated onion; cook a minute or two. Blend in flour. Add milk all at once; stir over low heat until thickened. Add cheese; stir until cheese melts. Add salt (amount will depend on saltiness of cheese), tabasco and Worcestershire sauces. Makes about two and two-thirds cups of sauce.

Try Brazil Nuts in Pilaf Platter

Brazil nuts with their delicate richness also contribute texture interest to main dishes. If you like browned-in-butter rice, you'll be delighted then by this combination of rice, Brazil nuts and cooked meat. This pilaf is a novel way to use a small portion of left-over turkey, chicken or ham and still have a company-beautiful course.

The thin Brazil nut petals used as a garnish can be made by cutting the big jumbo nuts with a vegetable peeler.

Brazil Nut Pilaf

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups packaged pre-cooked rice
¼ cup chopped onion
1 4-ounce can mushrooms
Water
3 bouillon cubes
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped toasted Brazil nuts
¼ cup raisins
2 cups diced cooked leftover turkey, chicken, duck or ham
¼ cup chopped parsley, divided

Melt butter in skillet or chafing dish. Add pre-cooked rice and cook, stirring occasionally, until browned. Add onion last few minutes browning time. Drain mushrooms; reserve liquid. Add enough water to make 2¼ cups.

Dissolve bouillon cubes in liquid; add to rice. Stir in salt, Brazil nuts, raisins, meat and 2 tablespoons of the parsley. Bring to a boil; cover tightly.

Reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes. Turn into serving platter or serve in chafing dish. Garnish with remaining 2 tablespoons parsley and Brazil nut curls. Yields 6 servings.

Brazil Nut Curls

Hoard 1 Cup of Turkey to Use Over Potatoes

Hoard at least 1 cup of cooked turkey for a dinner of creamed trukey on baked potatoes. Ideal for the cream sauce is 1 can (1¼ cups) of condensed cream of chicken or mushroom soup.

For seasoning, brown ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper in 1 tablespoon butter; stir in 1 can soup and ¼ cup milk; then add 1 cup diced cooked turkey (or chicken). Heat slowly, stirring constantly. Cook about 10 minutes to blend flavors. Finally put in ¼ cup chopped pimiento if desired. Pour over 6 split baked potatoes, or slices of toast.

Leave Baby Food in Can but Place in Refrigerator

Feeding the young fry today is big business! This year's expected total of new arrivals in our country is over the 4 million mark! That means a lot of little mouths to feed.

* * *

As the demand for more canned baby food increases, the cost has gone down with the result that today foods canned especially for baby are less expensive in most cases than those prepared and cooked at home. It saves you money as well as valuable time to buy foods catered to your baby's taste.

* * *

You'll find a wide variety of soups, vegetables, meats, vegetable-meat combinations, fruits and desserts on your grocer's shelves.

Canners take every precaution to insure the health and safety of our children by using the most rigid quality controls, the most modern equipment and spotlessly clean working conditions.

To answer a question mothers frequently ask—when part of a can of baby food has been used, it is perfectly safe to cover the can and refrigerate it right away for baby's next meal. There is no harm in leaving food in the can this way.

* * *

The canners of baby foods have simplified your problems by producing convenient, safe, economical, nutritious baby foods in cans all prepared for you.

Little Cheese Pasties Go Fine With Coffee

Remember, no matter what else you serve during the evening, the "one for the road" that will send your guests safely on their way is coffee!

To emphasize the importance of this parting cup, here's a recipe for quickly made, delicious little pasties to serve along with it. Bite-size, crispy, filled with a tasty mixture of ham and cheese, they're just right for the occasion.

Ham and Cheese Pasties

¼ pound cooked ham, ground
½ pound swiss cheese, ground
1½ teaspoons prepared mustard
1 teaspoon grated onion
1 to 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 package pie crust mix

Combine all ingredients except pie crust mix, adding enough mayonnaise to hold ingredients together. Prepare pie crust mix as directed on package. Roll out thin on lightly floured board. Cut in 3-inch squares. Place spoonful of ham mixture on each square.

* * *

Fold to form triangles and press edges together with floured fork. Prick tops. Bake in 425 oven, 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes about 1 pasties. May be baked ahead of time and reheated, if desired.

Chiffon-Type Pie Uses Eggnog

Perfect Dessert for New Year's

Alter Nutmeg Garnish for Use in Any Season of the Year

For a light dessert after a big meal, serve this chiffon-type pie, using bottled eggnog. Bits of candied fruit and nutmeg numerals provide a gay garnish. Serve it at any season of the year merely by changing the design of the garnish.

Holiday Eggnogg Pie

20 graham crackers, finely rolled (about 1⅝ cups croumbs)
¼ cup softened butter or margarine
¼ cup sugar
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
2 tablespoons sugar
2¼ cups bottled eggnog
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon rum flavoring
½ cup heavy cream, whipped

Blend together graham cracker crumbs, butter or margarine and sugar. Press into a 9-inch pie plate to cover sides and bottom of plate. Bake in 375 degree oven about 8 minutes. Cool.

Blend gelatine and sugar well in top of double boiler. Pour in 1 cup eggnog and cook until gelatine dissolves. Remove from heat; stir in remaining eggnog, nutmeg and rum flavoring. Chill until thickened but not set; whip until frothy. Fold in cream; pour into graham cracker crust. Chill.

To garnish, trace the New Year (or whatever message you want) on paper and cut out figures. Lay paper over pie, sprinkle nutmeg over cutouts. Remove paper, and there on the pie is your greeting.

HOLIDAY EGG NOG PIE — Gay and giddy as a masquerade, this is the pie for a party. Serve it for dessert on New Year's Day and garnish it with nutmeg numerals. It's a wonderful way to start the new year.

Do You Know These Odd Bits About Health?

Improved physical health of the family can be brought about by using planned menus and food selection, proper food storage and preparation.

Milk should be placed in the coldest part of the refrigerator as soon as it comes into the kitchen.

Tag ends of cheese can be grated and kept in a covered container in the refrigerator for instant use in casseroles, sauces, and salads.

Reluctant young milk drinkers may be encouraged to drink milk if a different cup or glass is given them each time. Vary the color, size and shape—the variety will interest them.

Start the New Year right by serving liberal quantities of cheese. Cottage cheese, a high quality protein food is ideal for luncheon, main-dish and salads.

Sardines, Muffins Used in Pizzas

As the popularity of pizza parties zooms upward, pizza-devotees are dreaming up more and more ways to make this popular Italian food without going to the trouble of starting from scratch. One of the most successful quick-pizza ideas is to use toasted English muffins as the base, because the true pizza is a yeast-raised bread, and so is the English muffin. Here's the National Fisheries Institute's pizza suggestion—a true quickie, because you make it with canned sardines, ready to use the instant the can is opened.

Sardines Pizzas

2 cans sardines, drained
1 8-ounce can tomatoes, drained
4 English muffins, split and toasted
6 slices American cheese
Lemon wedges

Spread the tomatoes on the toasted muffins. Top each with a slice of cheese and one or two sardines. Broil until cheese melts. Serve the muffins hot, with lemon wedges. Makes 8 servings.

For Cranberry Pie

Adding some spece to pie crusts is a wonderful way to add a little new flavor to your family's favorite recipes. For instance, ground ginger is wonderful with any kind of cranberry pie. Just mix ½ teaspoon of the ginger in with the flour for a two crust recipe.

Eggnog Now Traditional for Holiday Observance

By JANET ODELL

Eggnog has become as closely associated with the holiday season as mistletoe and New Year's Eve confetti. An eggnog party at this season of the year is appropriate any time you want to entertain informally.

Serving eggnog is an old American custom. Originated by Colonial innkeepers, the holiday eggnog was the center of the festive board. Strangers and townspeople alike were welcome at the Open House. This pleasant tradition is carried on in the old Williamsburg Inn each year during the Christmas season.

One early American inn served eggnog the year round. The huge quantities of "nog" that they needed were mixed right in the casks of West Indies rum.

Serving eggnog today is easy; you may buy the eggnog all prepared from your milkman. A non-alcoholic beverage, it may be used as the base of a number of eggnog drinks.

Add canned cranberry juice for a luscious looking, pale pink drink. Lemon juice, carefully beaten in, will give you a refreshing, tangy lemon eggnog. Top your drink for serving with generous mounds of whipped cream and sprinkle with grated nutmeg.

Keep simple the foods you serve with eggnog. Since it is such a rich drink you will do well to provide plain cookies, sandwiches or thin slices of fruit cake for your guests to choose from.

You might try this Party Sandwich Cake which can be prepared in advance of your party.

Party Sandwich Cake

2 packages hot roll mix
Deviled ham spread
Relish-butter spread
Pimento-cheese spread
Egg Salad spread
Tuna Fish Salad spread
1½ pounds creamed cheese
Milk

To make one large round loaf of bread: Prepare hot roll mix according to package directions. Bake in a greased 9-inch spring form pan in a moderately hot oven, at 375 degrees, for 30 minutes. Let cool in the pan.

Remove bottom crust and cut bread crosswise into 6 round slices about ½-inch thick. Cut off crusty edges from each slice with scissors.

Cover bottom slice of bread with Deviled Ham Spread. Top with second slice, covering this with Relish-Butter Spread. (¾ cup drained pickle relish mixed with 6 tablespoons softened butter).

Put on the third slice and cover with Pimento Cheese Spread. Put on the fourth slice of bread and spread with your favorite Egg Salad Spread.

Put on the fifth slice and spread with Tuna Fish Salad Spread. Put on the last, top slice.

Spread the outside of the cake with cream cheese that has been softened and mixed with a little milk and colored with a few drops of food coloring. Chill in the refrigerator for 3 hours or overnight. Serve garnished with shrimp, green and ripe olives, cauliflowerettes, carrot curls, radish roses and parsley. Makes a cake large enough for 15 to 20 servings.

Milk in Paper Containers Can Be Kept in Freezer

You can freeze pasteurized homogenized milk in the one-quart paraffined containers in which it is sold and store it in your home freezer for use when you run out of milk. It should keep its good flavor for about a month if stored at zero F.

Do not freeze milk that has not been homogenized and do not freeze milk in glass bottles. Milk can be frozen, however, in glass freezer jars leaving 1-inch headspace. Shake the thawed milk before serving it to your family or using it in cooking.

Frozen Cranberries Top Ice Cream Pie

Cranberry Ice Cream Pie

Ginger Snap Crust:
Blend together:

1½ cups finely crushed ginger snaps
2 tablespoons sugar

Line pie plate with crumbs, pressing well against plate. Bake in 350 degree oven 10 to 15 minutes. Cool. Then chill in freezing compartment.

Filling:

1 quart vanilla ice cream
1 pound can whole cranberry sauce

Turn refrigerator freezing control to normal. Spoon vanilla ice cream into ginger snap crust. Top with whole cranberry sauce. Place in freezing compartment of automatic refrigerator until serving time.

Martha Took Day Just to Bake Cake

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (INS) — Martha Washington needed about 12 hours to bake and to ice just one plain cake, according to recipes collected at the reestablished 18th century Bakery in "Colonial Williamsburg."

Four pounds of butter had to be beaten "soft like cream," sixteen egg whites separated and beaten with 19 more eggs, then flour and sugar beaten in for two whole hours.

The 24 egg whites and one pound of sugar in the icing had to be beaten "with a wisk" for two or three hours more.

The cake took three hours to bake and another hour in the oven to harden the icing. The colonial housewife did all this beating by hand, and, had to preheat the oven with a wood fire, a matter of another two or three hours.

The plain cake recipe comes from the seventh edition of "The Art of Cookery Made Plain and Easy," published in 1760.

New Dessert Made for Baby

Just before the holiday season—to eat—a new, exclusive, delicious variety of strained baby food dessert has been made available by famous packing company.

This one is called strained fruit dessert, and as a matter of fact it is certain to be loved by mothers as well as their babies. It's that delicious.

Strained fruit dessert is a unique and delightful combination of apricot puree, pineapple juice and orange juice, with a tapioca base.

The major ingredient, of course, is fresh and tasty apricot puree, but the overall flavor is actually a heavenly blend of these three delicious—and nutritious — fruits. In fact, they have been blended so smoothly that you can't possibly pick out any one predominating flavor.

Mothers will enjoy treating their babies to an entirely new flavor experience completely different from any other strained dessert variety available. And the babies will love this delicious and healthful addition to their diet.

While older members of the family are enjoying the likes of hot mince pie, baby will be having at least as much excitement over the new taste thrill of apricots, pineapple and orange, all blended together in a very interesting dessert.

Serve This Simple, Refreshing Dessert

Hot Buttered Grapefruit

2 large grapefruit
2 tablespoons butter or margarine (soft)
4 teaspoons white sugar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
Dash of salt

Cut grapefruit in half; remove any seeds and center membrane; loosen grapefruit from dividing walls with small sharp knife. Cream butter with sugars and salt. Spread sugar mixture over cut halves of grapefruit. Place fruit in shallow pan or in cupped aluminum foil in case juices bubble. Broil grapefruit, a few inches from source of fairly high heat, for 3 to 5 minutes or until tops are golden. Spoon any juice in pan or foil over fruit placed in serving dishes. These taste delightful when the top layer is hot, but the pulp and juice at the bottom are still cold. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

See Time, Temperature When Baking Cup Cakes

Even though handled carefully, over-baked cup cakes shrink from the sides of waxed paper cups. Make sure the cup cakes are baked at the time and temperature specified in your recipe.

If you use layer cake batter for cup cakes, remember that the baking time is about 5 minutes less than the baking time for layer cakes.

Mincemeat Fills Tender Muffins

Mincemeat, which is such magnificent filling for pies and tarts, is a useful ingredient for many other good things. For instance, it lends fruity goodness and pleasing texture to muffins.

The cake method, rather than the conventional muffin method, is used in combining these muffins, so they are especially tender and delicate in quality.

Served piping hot, fragrantly spicy mincemeat muffins are a delightful accompaniment for simple casserole or salad meals, or as a treat for leisurely breakfasts.

Mincemeat Muffins

¼ cup shortening
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg, beaten
2 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup evaporated milk
¼ cup water
1 cup mincemeat

Cream shortening. Add sugar gradually and continue creaming until light and fluffy. Add the beaten egg and mincemeat, and blend well. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and nutmeg. Mix milk and water.

Add flour mixture alternately with the milk to the creamed mixture, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full with batter.

Bake in hot oven (400) until lightly browned, about 20 minutes. Makes 12 muffins 2¾ inches in diameter, or 18 muffins 2⅛ inches in diameter.

Braunschweiger Makes Zesty Sandwich Filling

Are you in need of a new filling for sandwiches? This one would be good in the lunch box; or serve it open-face style, topped with thin onion slices.

Braunschweiger Sandwich Spread

½ pound braunschweiger
¼ cup hot-dog relish
1 tablespoon mayonnaise or salad dressing

Mash braunschweiger with a fork. Combine with remaining ingredients. Makes 1¼ cups sandwich spread.

This Fruit Candy Has Dividends

Home-made candy isn't a Yuletide exclusive. The teenager can make Turkish Fruit Paste any Saturday. Fine for February parties, too.

Adults and youngsters go for this wholesome candy with its generous fruit dividend.

Turkish Fruit Paste

2 tablespoons 2 envelopes plain gelatine
½ cup cold water
2 cups strained or junior fruit
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon grated orange rind or 1 teaspoon orange extract
Powdered sugar

Soften gelatine in cold water. Combine fruit and sugar and cook until thick (about 230). Add softened gelatine to hot mixture, stirring until gelatine has dissolved. Add grated orange rind or extract. Pour into a buttered 8 x 8 inch pan and let stand until firm.

Cut into 2-3 inch squares and roll in powdered sugar. Allow to dry and re-roll in sugar. Makes approximately 144 squares.

Apricot-Applesauce, pears and pineapple or applesauce make especially nice flavored candies.

Tip: Blend grated orange rind with 1 teaspoon of the sugar for better mixing with the hot fruit.

Ginger Is Versatile

Ground ginger is a most versatile spice and has all sorts of uses other than in the traditional ginger cookies. Try adding some to the salad dressing for that holiday molded cranberry salad. One-quarter teaspoon of the ginger to ½ cup mayonnaise gives a gentle flavor. Give it a taste and you may want to add a little more.

Potato Chip Trick

For a quick and fast hors d'oeuvre trick give potato chips a good sprinkle of ground ginger then pop them into the oven just long enough to make them toasty hot. These tangy chips make a good accompaniment for soups and salads too.

Firemen, Police Fuse in Towns

Seven U. S. Cities Join Departments; Study Is Made of Feasibility

CHICAGO (UP) — Seven communities in the United States and Canada have combined their police and fire departments, and the Public Service Administration has begun a study of the feasibility of such mergers.

The PSA will seek to determine how well the consolidated systems work, whether they could be used in big industrial cities, what improvements could be made and how the public has accepted the change.

Buena Park, Calif., is the most recent community to adopt the idea. Others having some form of an integrated system are Sewickly Heights, Pa., Grosse Pointe Shores, Mich., Huntington Woods, Mich., Montreal-East, Que., Oakwood, Ohio, and Sunnyvale, Calif.

Officials of the seven communities reported that a major advantage of the consolidation is that it saves money without reducing efficiency.

Montreal-East, with a population of 5,000 and a business district containing 22 stores and 29 industrial plants, has saved about $26,000 a year, its officials reported.

Sunnyvale, population 15,000, is the largest community to adopt the consolidated system, and Sewickly Heights, population 671, is the smallest.

Opponents of the plan often base their objections on the difficulty of training personnel for both fire and police duty.

According to the PSA experts disagree on the best way to carry out the functions. Some say the duties are so different that separate units are necessary.

Others assert there is only one safety function — the protection of citizens from hazards — and that the same persons should be responsible for the whole field.

Hal Boyle Says:

Turkey-Stuffed Citizenry Succumbs to Year-end-itis

NEW YORK (AP)—Did you bump into anybody on the way to work today? And did it kind of puzzle you, as your eyes were wide open at the time?

Well, don't let it worry you. You're just another victim of the "lost year end." Practically everybody is suffering from the same ailment. Check your own case by these common symptoms:

1. An overwhelming desire to work yourself into a lethargy instead of a lather.

2. An urge to postpone decisions of any nature, including even the question of replacing a broken shoestring.

3. A feeling that life can be beautiful, but who wants to go to the bother of changing it when it looks okay as it is?

4. A dreamy wonder about what the boss' stenographer would do if you hit her on the nose with a spitball—that is, if you felt like lifting your arm to throw a spitball.

5. An absence of all ambition, and a general sensation of well-nourished contentment, as if you were floating under a tropic sky in a sea of warm turkey gravy.

Anybody who has these symptoms has spent a normal holiday weekend, and there is no need to rush off to see a psychiatrist. For if you didn't yawn while telling him your troubles, he'd be sure to yawn while listening to them.

The calendar should list this as national sleepwalking week, as it is the period when everybody just goes through the motions of his daily life without exactly knowing why.

The real purpose of this lull, of course, is to rest up from saying "Merry Christmas" so you'll have the strength to say "Happy New Year" with a forceful air.

If man had the common sense of the woodchuck, he would follow the example of the woodchuck—which is to crawl into a hole, pull the hole in after him, and fall asleep. But man must pretend to go through his normal "hit that line" routine, even though he really is kidding nobody.

In most offices this interlude between holidays is a week of unofficial vacation. The boss knows it, but there isn't much he can do about it, as he is a victim of "year-end-itis" himself. If he tried to give his sales staff a pep talk, it would wind up in a snore.

It is a time when all that even the go-getting est go-getter can do is go get lost. The unfulfilled dreams of 1953 are now in the wastebasket. The goals of 1954 are still in the desk drawer.

A fellow makes a conscientious stab at his job, and what happens? Everything goes wrong. The important papers you want you can't find. The boy you want to reach on the phone has gone south. So have the smarter racehorses.

Everything is in abeyance. We stand relaxed on a bridge between a year and another year, kind of worn out by the year we're leaving forever and drawing a big deep breath before plunging into the year ahead.

So let us enjoy the haze of these final days and close them in a pleasant doze—if we can get away with it.

For when we take a look at the new calendar on our desks next week, everybody will start jumping as if time had lit a firecracker under him, and the slogan again will be:

"On, Elmer, on!"

Allies Ask Damages in Border Shooting

BERLIN (AP)—The three Western Allies in a sharp protest to the Russians today demanded punishment of Soviet border guards for the fatal shooting of a 16-year-old West Berlin youth and the wounding of his mother Saturday night.

The American, British and French commandants also demanded damages be paid the family of the slain youth.

The youth, Joachim Wozniak, was hit in the chest when Russian border guards opened fire at a car in which he approached the West Berlin border on a Soviet Zone highway. His mother, Isa, 40, was injured, and his father, driving the car, escaped unhurt.

The East German police seized the vehicle after the shooting but released it 30 minutes later.

Wozniak reported the incident at a Western check point, where he arrived with the front of the car pierced by five bullets, his boy dead and his wife badly hurt.

Radford Tells China Aid Will Continue

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, today assured Nationalist China that American aid "will be continued as presently planned."

Radford and Asst. U. S. Secretary of State Walter Robertson wound up conferences with top Nationalist leaders and left for Manila to attend the inauguration Wednesday of President-elect Ramon Magsaysay.

Government sources said the statements by Radford and Robertson tended to allay fears that American aid to Nationalist China would be cut drastically.

Wandering Boy Takes Wing, but Not for Long

NEW YORK (AP)—Luiz Ramirez, a 12-year-old Venezuelan boy with a yearning to travel to New York, made the trip yesterday. But he never left Idlewild airport and was on his way back home after less than five hours.

The youth turned up as a stowaway on a Venezuelan Airlines plane three hours after it left Maiquetia airport near Caracas.

Luiz said he was an orphan who made a living in Caracas by shining shoes and running errands.

Loaded Chance Game Proves Fatal to Gambler

NEW YORK (AP)—Berg Bagley, 19, gambled twice at Russian roulette yesterday. The second time he lost.

With two brothers present, he put a .38 revolver to his temple. Two of the six chambers were loaded.

The first time he pulled the trigger the chamber was empty. He spun the chamber and tried again. The shot killed him.

GOP to Meet in Capitol

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican National Committee will meet here Feb. 5-6 to plan for the 1954 congressional campaign and, perhaps, to talk about patronage gripes and finances.

THAT WAS A WHALE'S JAW?—This is the lower left jawbone of a blue whale, fossilized. Dr. Stephen C. Taber, geologist at the University of South Carolina, is shown measuring it. He says it is the "largest fossil bone I have ever seen." Blue whales still live and are the largest mammals known. This bone, nearly 12½ feet long, was found at low tide on the Myrtle, S. C., beach.

Gouzenko Sees Scores of Spies

Recommends That U. S. Lure Such Agents Into Aiding Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Igor Gouzenko, whose testimony cracked a Soviet spy ring in Canada, says he thinks there may be hundreds of Red agents operating in the United States.

And he recommended, in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report, made public today, that the government "make it worth while for some of them to quit and come out with their documents."

* * *

That is what Gouzenko himself did in 1945. He was then a code clerk in the Russian Embassy at Ottawa. He smuggled out documents which led to the cracking of an atomic espionage ring.

Since that time, he and his wife and two children have been living quietly in Canada, under assumed names, and with government protection.

The Senate internal security subcommittee is now arranging to interview Gouzenko in secret, in a search for leads in its search for subversion in the U. S. government.

* * *

Gouzenko, asked to estimate how many Soviet agents might be working in the United States now, replied:

"I think it might run into hundreds. As some indication, they spend several million dollars in telegrams alone."

Many of these agents, he said, work through rings, perhaps with embassy contacts, and others are "agents resident (who) would work independently and have direct contact with Moscow by radio."

* * *

He advocated a five-point program to encourage defections among Red agents. It would include 1) prompt U. S. or Canadian citizenship, 2) lifelong protection, 3) material security, 4) help in finding employment, and 5) formal acknowledgment "that his service . . . entitled him to all assistance and help."

Ike Aide Optimistic on Business Outlook

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gabriel Hauge, economic assistant to President Eisenhower, said yesterday the nation's economy is in excellent shape and that "we can look pretty optimistically on the business . . . outlook for next year."

Hauge, appearing on a radio and television debate with Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), said the administration has been preparing plans for use in the event of a depression, and that the President will outline them to Congress next month.

Douglas reiterated his contention that a "real recession" is in progress, and that the administration should move to cut taxes and to sponsor public works.

Blind-Aid Drive Gains Headway

Non-Seeing Are More Efficient, Employers in Massachusetts Say

BOSTON (INS)—A drive to place blind persons in industry so that they can be self-sufficient is gaining headway in Massachusetts.

Officials of the Massachusetts Division of the Blind say that blind workers see better in some jobs than those who can see.

"The blind don't look up when a blonde walks into the room. They get more done because they are subject to fewer distractions," says John E. Ferguson of the Bay State's taxpayer-supported organization devoted to training the blind and placing them in jobs where they can be self-supporting.

"Employers tell us blind employes are more efficient and productive than fellow workers who can see," says John F. Mungovan, director of the program.

All equipment operated by the blind in their training programs is standard, the same as that used by unhandicapped people. Miss Dorothy Forbush, who works with blind children, says that no special equipment is used. To do so would defeat the purpose of the program.

The Division of the Blind recently demonstrated to more than 150,000 people how the blind are taking their place in business and industry in Massachusets. Their exhibit at the 80th annual Brockton Fair drew record crowds.

Sightless men and women demonstrated their efficiency in secretarial work, operation of power-driven machines, weaving baskets, making toys and other occupations.

Visitors were amazed at the sight of blind person typing letters from recorded dictation with speed and accuracy superior to that of many whose eyesight is perfect.

"I've been studying the use of the Gray Audiograph dictating machine for six months, and now I'm ready to go to work," Clark said.

He demonstrated how the machine recorded dictation on a plastic record and then put on an ear listening device which resembles a stethoscope, sat down at a typewriter and transcribed the dictation without an error.

The record was amplified so that the visitors to the Fair could hear the speed of the dictation. Clark kept up with. Clark has a job arranged with a large Boston company near his home. Many blind workers are placed with insurance companies.

"Modern office machines are so simple to operate that only a few days are required to make expert operators of the blind men and women with whom we work," Ferguson says.

Super Farming Future Foreseen

Soil Expert Envisions Era of Coastal Dikes, Crops in Deserts

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (INS)—Rockets to the moon, atomic-powered factories, and crease-resistant trousers are scientific dreams that may become reality at 2000 A.D., but to a soil scientist the double millennium will be a time of super farms.

Dr. Firman E. Bear, who heads the soils department of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, peeked into the future for a group of Connecticut farmers meeting at New Haven and told them of wondrous things to come.

He saw great dikes holding the oceans back from America's shores, as in Holland, to provide more farmland for a tremendous population; crops growing in today's deserts and on the slopes of mountains and in the great swamps.

Dr. Bear predicted that the United States will have to turn these wasted areas into productive land because our present farms will not be able to feed the 200 to 300 millions of people living here by 2000 A.D.

He noted that every person requires about a ton of food a year but he is not worried about anyone going hungry. "The undeveloped resources of this country," he says, "are such that we could feed a billion people, if need be."

Dr. Bear, incidentally, thinks a large population is a fine thing. Full employment and high living standards favor large families, he pointed out, adding "If there are more people, you can sell more baby buggies, more houses, more automobiles and more of everything."

He told the farmers:

"We will reclaim large areas from the sea, drain the swamps, push farms up the mountain slopes and purify sea water to irrigate desert areas.

"We will utilize algae from the sea and yeast as sources of protein food that can be made by factory production methods."

But the age of the rockets and wasteland farms is a long way off. The immediate problem, said the scientist, is to increase production of food on the lands now under cultivation.

Child Sale Reported by Chinese Merchant

MANILA (AP) — Chua Tan, now a prosperous Chinese store owner wants his daughter back. Chua apologetically told National Bureau of Investigation officials he had sold his two-year-old girl, Emelinda, for $350 to Hing Huang. Chua said he was unable to support himself and the child.

He opened a trading store with the money from Hing. The store thrived. Now he wants Emelinda back.

The NBI said it is investigating the reported traffic of infants and young children in the Phillipines.

Golden Agers Active

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UP)—A year or so ago Springfield's senior citizens formed a Golden Age club. Since then there have been three marriages among elderly members.

Nudibranchs Flown to Institute for Study

WASHINGTON (UP)—The sea's most brilliantly colored creatures, the nudibranchs, are being shipped by air to the Smithsonian Institution.

The nudibranchs, tiny shell-less marine snails, are shipped in specially devised bottles of sea water so they can remain alive long enough for biologists to record their colors.

Ranging in size from a quarter of an inch to half an inch in length, the nudibranchs are found chiefly in pools left among shore rocks by the tides. Their habitats, however, vary from close inshore to deep water. Nudibranchs off the southern coast of the United States are little known, although Pacific Coast species—one, a giant eight inches long — are widely represented in collections.

The beauty of the nudibranchs may be protective. Some species develop colors in harmony with their environment. For example, those found living near red sponge are bright red.

The nudibranchs are carnivorous creatures, living chiefly on anemones found on the sea bottom. Some species migrate to shore to lay bright-colored, jellylike masses of eggs.

These tiny creatures have devised a way to protect themselves. They have the ability to ingest the stinging organs of anemones, which spread to the appendages of the nudibranch and provide the same defense they did for the original owner.

Cabbage Mixture Treats Ulcer Patients

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif. (UP)—Peptic ulcers yield as readily to cocktail-size doses of new cabbage juice concentrate as to quart doses of fresh cabbage juice, according to Dr. Garnett Cheney, San Francisco physician and clinical professor at Stanford School of Medicine.

He reported results of treating 100 ulcer patients with the concentrate. Pain usually vanished within five days, he said, and ulcer craters in most cases healed in an average of 13.4 days. This is nearly identical with results obtained in 100 previous cases treated with raw, fresh cabbage juice, which Dr. Cheney reported a year ago.

The new concentrate proved more palatable to most patients than the raw cabbage juice, he said. Instead of being required to drink a quart of the juice daily, they swallowed about three tablespoons—an ounce and a half—of the concentrate.

At the same time, the concentrate patients were allowed to eat whatever cooked foods they pleased. Raw foods were omitted only for reasons of experimental control.

Even Baptisms Curtailed by Recent Texas Drought

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Another Texas drought story popped up at the South Carolina Baptist Convention.

"The recent drought was so bad," a Texas minister reported, "that even baptisms were affected."

University Lab Used for Work in Deafness Aid

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—A $7,400 sound-treated laboratory at the University of Texas is being used to detect hearing loss in its early stages, thus preventing some types of deafness, the university has announced.

The money for the laboratory came from the late W. K. Shepperd of Corpus Christi, who sought futilely for many years to find a cure for his wife's deafness. His will set aside $10,000 for use in "perfecting the relief and cure of deafness."

Dr. William G. Wolfe, associate professor of educational psychology, directs the project. Persons with normal hearing will be tested first, then individuals with hearing loss will be examined.

Conventional tests will be followed by the psychogalvanic skin response test of hearing, which measures hearing by sweat-gland responses to sound and mild shock. Wolfe hopes to improve on the method, which is new.

Wolfe said the project is primarily for research rather than in itself an attempt to cure deafness, but results of the research may lead to some way to aid the deaf.

Exercise Caution in Use of An Electric Iron

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—Here are some basic precautions to follow in the use of an electric iron, often the cause of fires in the home.

Harriet Brigham, of the University of Nebraska, says a safe stand is one precaution. It should have an asbestos backing to prevent scorching or buring the ironing board cover. The iron's temperature control should be adjusted to the fabric being ironed.

Worn and frayed cords should be replaced, and when the iron is out of use, even if only for a few minutes, switch off the current, or disconnect the iron from the electrical outlet.

Old South Moves North

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — Planners of an "Old South" cotillion for a U.S.O. event here were abashed to learn that no bona fide uniforms of the Confederacy were available for loan or rental south of Philadelphia.

False Dental Ideas Shown by Survey

CHICAGO (UP) — Americans hold several widespread misconceptions about dental health, according to the Journal of the American Dental Association.

Its report was based on a survey of dental health habits and beliefs of 2,433 families representing a cross-section of the population.

The most widely held false notion, the survey showed, was that pregnancy causes tooth decay, a notion entertained by 79.6 per cent.

Another misconception, held by 69.7 per cent, is that eating foods with plenty of vitamins and minerals will prevent tooth decay. Dental scientists say there is no food that in itself, will prevent decay.

Still another myth, that the unborn child absorbs calcium from the teeth of the mother, was held by 63.4 per cent. Studies have shown conclusively that this is not the case, the Journal said.

American Composers Win Respect in Europe

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A college professor, just back from a year in Europe under a Fulbright research grant, said today there is a growing respect in Europe for America's serious composers.

Dr. Robert U. Nelson, associate professor of music at the University of California at Los Angeles, said Europeans are accepting American composers because they have developed distinctive styles of their own in the past 30 years.

"Before the 1920's," he said, "the music of our serious composers was largely indistinguishable from that of European composers. Now that America's composers are more original, they have come of age in the eyes, or

William B. Russell, vice president in charge of sales for Glowmeter, said the screen is being made for Radio City Music Hall in New York City for the showing of wide-screen films.

India Reds Ban Terror Tactics

1st Congress in 5 Years Emphasizes Peaceful Ways to Power

MADURA, India, (AP)—India's Communist high command told the first party congress in five years yesterday that it must keep trying to win power peacefully at the polls, rather than through the terrorist tactics used until two years ago.

The Moscow-backed policy directive was put forward by the convention's steering committee headed by the party secretary general, Ajoy K. Ghosh. Ghosh arrived in Bombay less than three weeks ago after a six-month visit to the Soviet capital for medical treatment.

* * *

The peaceful action program continues a policy adopted in October, 1951. The committee said "experience has proved its correctness."

The program rejects terrorism—which ousted Secretary General B. T. Ranadive had advocated—as unsuited to India's Gandhian tradition of non-violence. The party committee called for a "broad based united front able to establish a government of democratic unity."

* * *

Ghosh appeared firmly in the saddle. He assumed the top party post two years ago as a shaky compromise choice between the opposing factions, one favoring violence and the other the parliamentary approach to power. Red sources here indicated strong backing from Moscow had made Ghosh the closest thing to an accepted boss the quarreling Indian Communists have ever had.

* * *

The sources added that since Ghosh's return from Moscow, the Red leadership seems clearly to view Moscow, rather than Peiping, as the focus of control and support for Indian communism.

Resolutions adopted by the congress did not mention Chinese Communist Leader Mao Tze-tung but stressed instead that India's Reds would "further strengthen the bonds of friendship and brotherhood between the peoples of India and the Soviet Union."

Steering committee members denied earlier reports that a delegate named Koyint had arrived from Communist China to attend the Congress.

Narriman's Divorce Delayed Till Jan. 19

HELIOPOLIS, Egypt (AP)—A court hearing on ex-Queen Narriman's divorce suit was postponed today until Jan. 19 while lawyers for her and former King Farouk try to reach an "amicable settlement."

Such an agreement, the lawyers said in the Moslem (Sharei) court in this suburb of Cairo, would "avoid the airing of thorny questions before the tribunal."

In her divorce petition, the 19-year-old former queen charges the ex-king with adultery, maltreatment, mental cruelty and estrangement.

Heard in a Pontiac Church Sunday:

This Generation May See World's Date With Destiny

Speaking at the First Assembly of God Church on North Perry Street Sunday, the Rev. Wesley R. Wibley, pastor since 1951, used "A Date With Destiny" as the topic for his sermon.

The church was organized 20 years ago. Recently the congregation moved into a new church building.

Excerpts from the sermon follow.

It appears that all the issues of nearly six thousnad years of human history may reach a climax in this generation.

A glance into the prophicies of the Word of God might well bring from our lips the epression, "This is God's Zero Hour!"

One issue that must be settled is that expressed in Mathew 24:14, "And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come."

This is still Christ's great commission to His church. He said "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature" (Mark 16:15).

Again He said, "Ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto Me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth (Acts 1:8).

This plan comes from the heart of God. It will be consumated. It is not dependent upon human limitations but on the enabling power of the Holy Ghost. Therefore it cannot fail.

The Christians of the first generation of this church age, impelled by the power of the Holy Ghost and challenged by persecution and animosity, went everywhere preaching this Gospel. Some generation will be the last generation of this church age. It might well be our present day church.

There is a renewed pentecostal emphasis at work in the church today. The Spirit of God is searching out those who are willing to give ear to "what the Spirit saith unto the churches."

This genreation finds itself growing up in the midst of fulfilled prophecy—the rebuilding of Israel, the drift toward world federation among nations and among churches.

It is not by accident that God has laid upon us the burden of evangelization. Our Heavenly Father wants to get the job done and this generation finds itself with the means for its speedy accomplishment.

We are surrounded by scientific marvels—television, radio, radar, the jet, highways, printing presses, avenues of communication are ours. Under the direction of God an appointed generation is marching in a prepared way.

I am convinced that Christ will not settle for less than total world evangelization.

REV. WESLEY R. WIBLEY

He said, "This gospel shall be preached in all the world for a witness." The generation that brings His return must be like the generation which began the church dispensation—it must be a pentecostal generation.

That's why a great program of evangelism is important. We need to be aroused to action—to be alerted to a fullness of expectancy in the light of world events and Bible prophecy.

PARKER CARRIED FROM FIELD—Both fans and players joined in the celebration on the field after the Detroit Lions beat the Cleveland Browns, 17-16, for the National Football League championship Sunday. Coach Buddy Parker of the Lions is carried off on the shoulders of guard Schmidt (56) and center LaVern Torgeson (53).

Layne's Aerial to Doran, Walker's Boot in Closing Minutes Clinch Payoff Tilt

By JACK SAYLOR

DETROIT—Jim Doran is a tall, balding part-time farmer from Boone, Ia. He doesn't look much different than other football players to most, but to Paul Brown he appears more like a ghost.

When he nabbed Bobby Layne's drama-laden touchdown pass in the closing moments of Sunday's National Football League championship game at Briggs Stadium, Doran was merely putting the finishing touches on his annual haunting of Brown and his Cleveland club.

The Layne-Doran aerial and Doak Walker's subsequent conversion kept the NFL title in Detroit on a thrilling 17-16 decision before 54,577 fans.

Doran reported to the Lions two seasons ago with a brilliant pass receiving background at Iowa State, but was switched to the defensive platoon. His great work, particularly in rushing Otto Graham, was vital in the Lions' two wins over Cleveland last year, including the 17-7 title victory.

Sunday, Doran grabbed three passes in the final five minutes to pull the Lions from the seemingly-certain web of defeat spun by Lou (The Toe) Groza and Harry Jagade.

Cleveland came from behind in the 3rd quarter to gain a 10-10 tie, then Groza booted field goals of 15 and 43 yards to put the Browns ahead, 16-10 with five minutes left.

Detroit then showed the type of comeback spirit that has marked its play all year. With the ball on the Lion 20, Layne tossed 17 yards to Doran. Two passes failed to click and on the vital 3rd down, Doran speared Layne's pass for 18 yards and a 1st down on Browns' 45.

Layne hit Cloyce Box for 9 and made another 1st down himself on the ground at the 33. Then with the clock showing 2:08 to play came the payoff pitch to Doran and Walker's all-important extra point.

Following the kickoff, an interception by Carl Karlivacz sealed the verdict.

Lions are only the 3rd team in NFL history to successfully defend their crown. Key to the feat was the phenomenal manner in which the Detroit defense bottled up Graham's potential pass receivers.

Otto had his worst day in eight seasons as a pro. He completed only 2 of 15 tries for 20 yards. George Ratterman completed one. In addition, 29 yards were lost on attempted passes, giving Cleveland a net of only 9 yards in the air.

Detroit gained an early lead when Les Bingaman recovered Graham's fumble on the Browns' 13 after Graham had been jarred by Lavern Torgeson. Walker sliced over from the one six plays later.

Late in the quarter, Cleveland got the break back on Lenny Ford's recovery of Bob Hoernschmeyer's fumble on the Lion 6. Groza kicked the 1st of his 3 field goals on the 2nd play of the 2nd quarter after the Detroit line held.

Walker missed a field goal try in the 2nd quarter, but booted one from the 23 after Jim David's pass interception carried to the Browns' 20. Lions led 10-3 at the half.

Cleveland perked up in the 3rd period behind the fine running of Jagade. Ken Gorgal intercepted a pass at midfield and eight plays brought the Browns a TD with Jagade roaring over from the 9.

Jagade sparked another drive late in the quarter that ended in Groza's 15-yard 3-pointer at the start of the final 15 minutes. Detroit then drove to the 33 and again Walker missed a field goal.

Jagade, who gained over 100 yards, led the Browns back to the Lion 35 and Groza's 4th down 43-yarder made it 16-10. Stage was then set for the late heroics by Layne, Doran & Co.

Sidelights on NFL Title Tilt

By JACK SAYLOR

Brown's Browns have not beaten the Parker-coached Lions in six meetings. Detroit has won two exhibition games, one regular season contest and two championship tests. One exhibition game ended in a tie.

Cleveland defeated Bo McMillin's last Lion team in a 1950 exhibition game.

* * *

Jim Doran's touchdown was his 1st of the season, drawing a parallel to last year's title game. Doak Walker scored his only TD last year against the Browns in Detroit's 17-7 victory at Cleveland.

* * *

There was no love lost between individuals on the field Sunday. Scraps of varying degrees were carried on almost from the start and a wholesale melee nearly broke out in the closing seconds.

Many players came prepared for the ferocious line play. An unusually large number of nose guards were present. Otto Graham and Jim David wore face masks to protect old injuries.

* * *

Fans are usually awed by the tremendous punting of the Browns' Horace Gillom, but Detroit's Yale Lary out-kicked the Cleveland star this day. Lary booted four times for a 49-yard average, and his 2nd quarter 72-yard blast was the 2nd longest in NFL title-game history.

Also in the kicking department, Lou Groza's 3 field goals tied the playoff game record.

* * *

Lions joined the Chicago Bears and Philadelphia Eagles as the only teams to win two straight NFL titles. Bears did it in 1940 and '41 and the Eagles linked titles in 1948 and '49.

Sunday's victory was worth $2,424.10 to each of the Lions, while the Brownies can salve their defeat with $1,654.26 apiece.

Harry (Chick) Jagade was the day's leading ground gainer with 102 yards in 15 carries.

* * *

Detroit scored an apparent touchdown in the 2nd quarter when Doak Walker took a pitchout from Bobby Layne, ran to the right and tossed a pass back to Layne who carried into the end zone. Play was disallowed since Layne, as a T-formation quarterback, is an ineligible pass receiver.

* * *

Cloyce Box, Johnny Prchlik, Vince Banonis, Tulsa Bob Smith and Pat Harder are expected to hang up their Lion cleats.

Brown Doesn't Blame Graham for 17-16 Loss

Cleveland Coach Calls Sunday's Tilt Toughest Game He's Lost

DETROIT (AP) — Paul Brown, coach of the Cleveland Browns, refused to place the blame on his quarterback, Otto Graham, for Sunday's 17-16 defeat to the Detroit Lions in the National Football League title game.

Down the hall under Briggs stadium, where the Lions were whooping it up, coach Buddy Parker said his team's strategy was to stop Graham.

"I figured that if we won we would have to put the pressure on Otto Graham's passing — and our whole line took care of that," Parker explained. "I also figured our passing would be the difference — and it was."

Statistics bear out Parker. Graham, who seemed to have trouble getting his footing on the slippery turf, completed only two of 15 passes for 20 yards. That's like Ted Williams hitting .100.

Detroit quarterback Bobby Layne had a fine day, on the other hand, hitting 12 of 25 for 179 yards — and of course that payoff pitch to end Jim Doran.

"I went out and faked a block and then cut around a Cleveland defender. I raced toward the end zone and when I looked up, there was the ball."

1936 German-Film Recalled

Schmeling's Dislike of His Portrayal in Louis' Movie Draws Scoff of Scribe

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a report out of Germany that Max Schmeling is indignant at the portrayal of himself in the "Joe Louis Story" movie and is thinking about suing somebody. That would be a hot one, that would.

* * *

If Louis had ever seen the job they did on him over there in the movies of his first bout with Schmeling back in 1936, the one in which the German gave Joe an unmerciful beating and knocked him out, Joe still would be suing everyone who was even remotely connected with the production.

We happened to have been present at the official premiere of the German version in Berlin, and after all these years the memory of the evening remains the most vivid of any we ever spent in any theater.

The event smoked up rather slowly. For about a week beforehand the billboards all over Berlin were emblazoned with glaring yellow posters bearing the clarion call "Schmeling's Victory—A German Victory."

* * *

Well, sir, the fight began and you've never heard anything quite like it. The narrator was a radio announcer who frequently accompanied Schmeling to this country, and he was, shall we say, slightly prejudiced.

Early in the going he thought he saw Louis foul Schmeling, and, boy, did he give it to poor Joe. "You swine," he screamed, "you will pay for that! There, he's fouling our Max again, the swine!"

As one may perhaps imagine, it didn't take a great deal of that to get this particular audience stirred up. Before long many of the distinguished guests were heaping worse vocal abuse on Louis than the official cheer leader was.

Later, we sometimes thought it might have been a fine idea if the film with its German commentary could have been shown through a number of other countries, including this one in 1936. There would have been less surprise at the events of 1939.

Rice, 'Bama Clash

Cotton Bowl Contest Difficult to Analyze

By FRANK LEAHY

Notre Dame Football Coach

Cotton Bowl game in Dallas will always hold a soft spot in my heart as it was to this post-season contest that I led my 1st college football team, Boston College, after the 1939 season.

At that time we played Clemson in Dallas and the man who coached Clemson that day, Jess Neely, will on this coming New Year's day be coaching the Rice Owls, champions of the Southwest Conference and host team in the 1954 Cotton Bowl.

We can assure Alabama coach, Red Drew, that he will have his hands full as on that day 14 years ago we were beaten 6-3 by Coach Neely's Clemson Tigers.

The won-loss records of these two teams aren't quite as impressive as some, but when you analyze them more closely you realize that the reason they are not is because they play some of the toughest teams in the nation.

Alabama is a T team which uses a great deal of the basic Split T offense. They have played Maryland as well as the other mentioned teams so meeting a powerful team such as Rice will not be anything new to the Crimson Tide.

Rice will be playing in its own back yard and will be battling to protect that wonderful Texas pride which has played a big role in many intersectional football games.

Actually from the standpoint of prediction I would feel that this game is the most difficult of all bowl games to anayize. They operate in different leagues and have had no common opponent.

Jones a Winner in Annual Meet

East, which has never won, made its best show. Score of 125-122 was the closest in the history of the series.

One of the major surprises was the victory by Bill Yorzyh of Springfield, Mass., college over Bill Woolsey, Indiana's Olympic team member from Hawaii, in the 400-meter freestyle. Yorzyh was timed in 4:50.2.

Bumpy Jones of (Pontiac) University of Michigan, national 150-meter individual medley champion, ran off with that event in 1:49.2. Georgia's Reid Patterson, the NCAA and AAU 100-yard freestyle champ, won the 50-meter freestyle in 26.7.

Kovaleski Surprises Top-Seeded Mulloy

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Surprising Fred Kovaleski of Washington, D.C., takes on Archie Henderson of New Orleans and second-seeded Tom Brown Jr., of San Francisco meets third-seeded Grant Golden of Jackson in the Sugar Bowl tennis tournament semifinals today.

Kovaleski blasted top-seeded Gardner Mulloy out of contention yesterday in a blazing quarter-final upset. Kovaleski kept the veteran defending champion from Miami on the run with rifle shot services and bullet returns to win 11-9, 2-6, 6-2.

Another quarter-final upset victim was fourth-seeded Hal Burrows of Charlottesville, Va. Burrows bowed 6-4, 6-1 to the unranked Henderson.

Gray Gridders Rout 'Yankees'

Pontiac Press Wire Service

The outstanding running of Jerry Marchand offset a sharp passing offense by the Blue All-Stars to give the Southern Grays a 40-20 victory in the annual Blue-Gray game played Saturday at Montgomery, Ala.

Marchand, a fullback out of LSU, gained 112 yards as the Rebels came from behind three times. A crowd of 18,500 watched as the South won for the 5th straight time and the 11th time in 15 games.

Blues took the lead in the 2nd period, but the Rebels tied it up in the 3rd. Grays scored thrice in the last quarter to make the contest a rout.

Max McGee of Tulane scored two Gray touchdowns, while the others were tallied by Dan Ellis of Texas A&M, Clyde Bennett of South Carolina, Charlie Oakley of LSU and Mack Franklin of Tennessee.

Blue passing was paced by Lou Sorrentino of Lebanon Valley and Tony Rados of Penn State. Michigan's Bob Topp grabbed five passes for 83 yards. Touchdowns were scored by Jack Cross of Utah, Bob Leberman of Syracuse and Fred Prender of West Chester Teachers.

Lions Won, but Lost 1 Tally; Here's How:

Layne Took Pass, But Wasn't a Yard Back of Center

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Lions finally beat the Cleveland Browns, 17-16, to remain champions of the National Football League, after scoring one touchdown that didn't count Sunday.

Officials were as confused as sports writers, players and spectators. First they called it a touchdown. Then they said it wasn't and penalized Detroit 15 yards, plus the loss of the down.

The rule book says that for a back to be an eligible receiver on any play he must be at least a yard back of the line of scrimmage at the snap of the ball.

Quarterback Bobby Layne, who squats against the center's backside in Detroit's T-formation offense, scored the touchdown on a pass from halfback Doak Walker. But the play wasn't intended to go that way.

Layne handed off to Walker, who ran laterally to his right along the Cleveland 20-yard line, looking in vain for a receiver open in the end zone. Finally he spotted Layne standing across the field all alone, and pegged to him.

Love for Home Ice Keeps Red Wings on Top

Detroit Trips Bruins, 2-1, on Prystai's Goal in 3rd Period

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings were back in undisputed possession of 1st place in the National Hockey League today because of their ability to win at home.

Wings edged the close-checking Boston Bruins, 2-1, in Olympia Stadium Sunday night, to break a first place deadlock with the idle Montreal Canadiens. It gave Detroit 46 points in the standings to 44 for Montreal.

Metro Prystai clicked with the winning goal, scoring at 13:49 of the final period while Boston defenseman Frank Martin was sitting out a tripping penalty.

It was only Prystai's 6th goal of the season. But he's showing signs of breaking a slump which has plagued him all season.

Detroit has an impressive home record. Wings have won 15 games, lost two and tied one. That's good for 31 points.

Glenn Skov opened Detroit's scoring Sunday night by rapping in a 10-footer in the 2nd period. Boston's Johnny Peirson tied it at 11:24 of the 3rd period. But a few minutes later Prystai netted from the side of the goal.

Detroit Police Nab 4 Accused as 'Scalpers'

DETROIT (UP)—Four men arrested for scalping tickets at the Detroit Lions - Cleveland Browns National Football League championship game here Sunday have been ordered to appear in court today.

One of the four, William H. Johnson of Detroit, was held pending a hearing. The other three, Sam Sustin, Nicholas Lupo and August Kisa, all of Cleveland, were released on $25 bond.

Police said the men offered $3 bleacher seats for $5 and $5 reserve seats for $10 to fans eager to see the title contest, which Detroit won, 17-16.

Kickers in Spotlight

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Maryland and Oklahoma had little to kick about during the regular season, but the Terps and the Sooners were good kickers and that could be a factor in their Orange Bowl game on New Year's Day—if it's close.

Maryland's national champs had to punt only 37 times in winning all 10 games. Their average of 39.3 yards was the 10th best in the nation. Oklahoma was compelled to kick only 39 times while winning eight games, losing one and tying one.

The Oklahoma safety men were the 4th best in the country in running back punts, returning 25 for an average of 15.8 yards. Maryland was fifth with an average of 15.5 yards for 33 returns.

Bernie Faloney, who tore a knee ligament in the last game of the season with Alabama, is Maryland's leading punter as well as its best ball handling quarterback and defensive halfbacks. His 19 kicks averaged just short of 40 yards.

* * *

Charley Boxold, who will take Faloney's place if it proves necessary, has kicked only twice for an average of 20 yards.

With Boxold on the first team, coach Jim Tatum plans to pull Bill Walker, an end, back to kick. Walker in punting position however, will just about remove the threat of a fake and run or pass which is possible with Faloney.

Even this move was threatened Sunday when Walker sprained his right thumb in a scrimmage. An X-ray revealed no break but the hand was badly swollen, which may limit Walker's value as a pass receiver. He caught two touchdown passes in the Alabama game.

Maryland's Fred Heffner is the longest kicker on the squad with an average of 42.4 yards in 10 boots but Heffner can do nothing to send him in just for that purpose.

* * *

Oklahoma's best kicker, halfback Tom Carroll, who averaged 39.7 yards before he was laid up Nov. 14 with a knee injury, is down for only limited service. Buddy Leake averaged 32.4 yards on kicks for the Sooners.

Spartan Fans Heading West by the Trainload

EAST LANSING (AP)—Three train loads of Michigan State supporters are rolling westward today to see their Spartains tangle with UCLA in the Rose Bowl football classic New Year's Day. They left Saturday.

Elwood A. Voller, assistant dean of men, headed a staff of 40 chaperons staffing a student special carrying 916 from the East Lansing campus of MSC.

All Bowl Teams Appear Matched; Mountaineers Are an Experiment, but Seem to Be Powerful Outfit

By GRANTLAND RICE

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Bowl Week opens with all guns firing on many fronts. Although we are quite a distance from Florida, New Orleans and Dallas, active agents are keeping us up to date from various camps.

Word comes from Miami that Oklahoma backers still insist Bud Wilkinson's squad has more all-around team speed than Maryland has. Also, that much depends on the playing condition of Maryland's star passing quarterback, Bernie Faloney. If he isn't right for most of the route, Jim Tatum has only an outside chance.

* * *

Fred Digby, from the Sugar Bowl dugout, announces that of West Virginia's 42 players, 23 are from the home state, and 10 from right across the border. No far-range scouting for this squad, which is a wholesome situation.

* * *

"There's no white meat in West Virginia," coach Art Lewis countered. "All West Virginia meat is deer, bear and wild turkey, all dark and reasonably tough."

Fred Digby is also impressed with the power and speed — also the size of the West Virginians. Jacksonville is much excited about the 'Gator Bowl, where Auburn faces Texas Tech.

* * *

Here are two teams of better-than-average strength, evenly matched, which is all any bowl department can ask for. This is certain to be a close, exciting game for both have the needed manpower in backfield and line.

* * *

Looking over the five bowls listed headed by the 100,000 Rose Bowl session, we find this is one of the toughest selections in bowl history. Nearly every game is practically an even choice.

* * *

This is true of Michigan State and UCLA. UCLA has Paul Cameron to offer against a slightly better Spartan backfield. UCLA has a slightly stronger line.

* * *

Same measure is true in lining up Maryland and Oklahoma, Alabama and Rice, Georgia Tech and West Virginia, Auburn and Texas Tech. These are ten good, sound teams. West Virginia is the only experiment since Eastern teams have shown none too radiantly in their bowl affairs.

Rocky Says He'll Defend Title Feb. 24

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP)—Heavyweight Boxing Champion Rocky Marciano says he'll defend his crown against Danny Nardico of Tampa, Fla., Feb. 24 at Miami Stadium in a nationally televised bout.

Looking lean and rested despite his recent 37,000 mile exhibition tour of the Far East, the 29-year-old titlist said last night in an interview he was going to New York Thursday to sign for the fight.

Kentucky-Minnesota Game Features Cage Card

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — No fewer than 17 college basketball tournaments are scheduled across the country this week, but the big game is at Lexington, Ky., tonight when Kentucky and Minnesota battle it out.

Both clubs are undefeated and the Wildcats, back in action after a year's inactivity, will be striving for the No. 1 spot in the nation. Baron Adolph Rupp's lads have won all six of their games to date while Minnesota has seven victories.

Kentucky, rated No. 2 behind Indiana in the Associated Press weekly poll, stands a good chance to take over the top rung if it makes a good showing, since the Hoosiers were upset by Oregon State last week.

Rupp's team, of course, will be favored as it always is and should win pretty much as it pleases. Minnesota has looked extremely good but the suspicion of many experts around the Big 10 is that the Gophers are not quite as good as their record would indicate.

As for the tournaments, the big one is the Madison Square Garden festival, not so much because it's in the Garden, but because third ranked Duquesne is in it and probably will win.

If the Dukes should take it, they will be in a good position to challenge both Indiana and Kentucky for national honors.

The Dukes, undefeated in eight games, tackle Brigham Young, likewise unscathed in eight outings, in the feature semifinal tonight. LaSalle and Niagara play in the other semifinal.

At Oklahoma City in the all-college affair it will be Oklahoma A. and M., with a 9-1 record, against the field which includes Furman, Oklahoma City, Mississippi, Wyoming, Cincinnati, Santa Clara and Tulsa.

The Louisville Invitational has a strong field including Western Kentucky, Louisville, Eastern Kentucky, Murray, Siena, Villanova, Houston, and Xavier of Ohio. Western Kentucky, undefeated in nine games and No. 6 in the AP poll, is the favorite.

North Carolina State will be seeking its 5th straight Dixie classic title against Oregon State, Navy, North Carolina, Seton Hall, Duke, Tulane and Wake Forest.

Officials Will Convene in Cincinnati Sunday to Decide Policy

By LOU BLACK

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Former head of the National College Athletic Association's television committee today urged that the present nationally televised football game-of-the-week plan "be continued substantially as is."

"To do otherwise at this time would be disastrous," counselled Bob Hall, chairman of the NCAA's TV committee last year, and among the originators of the plan in 1951.

Hall spoke as officials of more than 300 universities and colleges prepared to head for the NCAA convention in Cincinnati where, starting Sunday, meetings will be held to decide—among other things—the fate of the game-of-the-week.

In Hall's opinion, best substitute for the present plan would be "pay-as-you-see TV, or subscriptiton TV, which could be a tremendous thing for college athletics if the receipts are spread among all football playing colleges."

How soon that may be expected, if ever, nobody knows but Hall commented, "it is hoped the federal communications commission will grant approval for pay-as-you-see TV as soon as possible.

Under the present plan, the telecast presents one game each Saturday from one of the eight NCAA geographical areas. No team can appear twice in a season. In cases of a sell-out, a college may televise its game locally with the approval of the NCAA TV committee.

Hall suggested that the committee's aim "should be to stimulate the interest of the fan, to whet his football appetite to the point of intresting him in wanting to go to a game, but at the same time to avoid satisfying his interest completely through TV."

Bucks Develop Big 10's Most Dangerous Unit

By TOM BRANAGAN

CHICAGO (AP)—While Indiana and a few other Big Ten basketball teams have been drawing most of the attention, coach Floyd Stahl of Ohio State has quietly developed the conference's most dangerous scoring unit.

His Buckeyes, in winning four of six games against outsiders, have produced three of the Big Ten's five top scorers. As a unit, Bucks are averaging 81.8 points a game. They're the only team in the conference besides Michigan (85.8 points for five games) to average more than 80.

Stahl has the conference's No. 1 scorer, senior center Paul Ebert, and the No. 4 and 5 men, sophomore guard Robin Freeman and junior forward John Miller.

Ebert, who trailed Don Schlundt of Indiana in Big Ten scoring last year, is averaging 25.2 points a game. Freeman is hitting an even 21 and Miller 20.4. Rounding out Stahl's starting five are Cleo Vaughn, sophomore forward (6.6 point average, and Dean Cook, junior guard (8.1).

East-West 11's in Final Drills

Quarterback Positions Still Wide Open for Shrine Contest

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Star-studded East and West football squads today began final week's drills for the annual Shrine game Saturday, but who will quarterback the clubs was anybody's guess.

East coach Ray Eliot, of Illinois had three top ball handlers to choose from — Dick Thomas of Northwestern, Pete Stark of Syracuse and South Carolina's John Gramling.

Judging from yesterday's practice, Stark and Gramling appeared to have the inside. Both saw considerable action before the club went sightseeing.

West coach Chuck Taylor of Stanford had two quarterbacks to choose from, but it's a toughie: His own Boby Garrett, top passer in the nation, or Baylor's Cotton Davidson, Southwest Conference's ace aerialist.

Garrett has put on the best show in practice, but Davidson has been pressing him.

DETROIT (UP) — Big Bill Mihalo of Detroit won another world's record in a walk Sunday when he covered a half mile in 2 minutes, 58.2 seconds at Belle Isle. The old half-mile walking record of 3 minutes, 2 seconds was set by M. H. Donovan in 1897.

Rodgers Looms as Tech's Key Player in Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Quarterback Pepper Rodgers, who won two-platoon football fame as Georgia Tech's field goal specialist, will be the key man in Tech's bid for a 2nd straight Sugar Bowl championship.

The 168-pound Rodgers must make Tech's offense effective and the Sugar Bowl could be the toughest assignment in his career.

Coach Art Lewis said, "nobody's run over our line this year."

Tech coach Bobby Dodd said, "with their great power and size we'll probably have to lean heavily on deception and speed. We have respect for their fine team, probably one of the heaviest we've ever faced."

U.S. Cup Hopes Kept Alive

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MELBOURNE (AP)—Tony Trabert enabled the United States to gain an even break in the opening singles matches of the Davis Cup challenge round against Australia today when he ground out a methodical 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Ken Rosewall, one of the Aussies' 19-year-old wonder boys.

* * *

The Americans' backs were against the wall when Trabert stepped onto the Kooyong Courts before a packed audience of 17,500. Lewis Hoad, the other young Aussie, had just licked Vic Seixas, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3 to send the Downunder lads into a 1-0 lead in their quest to hold the cup for the fourth straight year.

* * *

Seixas' defeat at the hands of Hoad was particularly galling for the American contingent since the Australian star never had beaten Vic in six previous matches. It was a point on which the United States was counting.

Now, with the doubles slated for tomorrow and the final two singles matches on Wednesday, there is no denying that the Australians are in the better position. United States Captain Billy Talbert has all but conceded them the doubles which probably will pit Hoad and Rosewall against Trabert and Seixas.

Trabert, in contrast to his teammate, played masterful tennis as he banged away at Rosewall's forehand according to plan. Tony simply would pound his shots to Rosewall's forehand, then rush into the net for the kill. He never varied his tactics.

From the very first game of the first set when he broke through, Trabert was the complete master.

But if Trabert supplied good news for the American camp, Seixas did just the opposite. Before today Hoad never had won a match from him. Instead of Hoad being nervous—as he should have since it was his debut in Davis Cup competition—it was Seixas who had a case of jitters.

* * *

"You have to give Hoad credit, though," he said. "He played marvelous tennis. He didn't let Vic in the match after the first game. Vic played well but it just wasn't enough."

Spartans Start Final Phase of Bowl Practices

UCLA Schedules Three More Sessions, Will Be Idle on Thursday

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A Hollywood tour in the morning and a hide-out practice in the afternoon were on schedule today for the Michigan State football team.

In the morning, the MSC squad will tour Warner Brothers' Motion picture studio and will have lunch at the studio.

As preparations for the Rose Bowl game with UCLA went into the last week, coach Biggie Munn planned a closed afternoon workout on his alternate practice field at East Los Angeles Junior College.

Munn likes the field better than the one at Brookside Park here because it has a better setup for privacy and also is a regulation football field.

"We're starting the final phase of our preparations," Munn said. "We'll try to iron out any problems we have left, today and Tuesday. There will be some contact work but nothing really vicious."

UCLA Bruins, whose workouts also will be closed, planned three more afternoon practices, with nothing scheduled for Thursday, the day before the New Year's day battle.

Last night the Bruins were entertained at a post-Christmas banquet by the Tournamenent of Roses Association. Friends of coach Red Sanders surprised him at the affair by presenting him with a new automobile in appreciatiion of his guiding UCLA into the Rose Bowl.

Michigan State halfback Leroy Bolden, who complained he had a headache and was feeling logy Saturday, reported he felt a lot better Sunday.

Schiesswohl ruptured some blood vessels in the arm during scrimmage, but he is expected to be back in shape by New Year's Day.

Pirates, Braves Both Pleased by Weekend Deal

Milwaukee Gets Dan O'Connell, Sends Six to Pittsburgh

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Both the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Milwaukee Braves report they have gained from the weekend trade which sent infielder Danny O'Connell to Milwaukee in exchange for six Braves players and an undisclosed amount of cash.

* * *

"O'Connell gives us added batting power and also speed," said Charlie Grimm, manager of the Braves.

* * *

O'Connell, one of the most highly regarded young players in the National League, batted .294 last season, made 173 hits, including 26 doubles eight triples and seven home runs, and scored 8 runs.

Branch Rickey, general manager of the Pirates, seemed more pleased than ever Sunday with the trade he concluded Saturday by telephone with General Manager John Quinn of the Braves.

"I was looking to the future in making the deal," he said. "One man isn't going to make the difference in the Pirates right now."

* * *

In return for O'Connell, the Pirates acquired Sid Gordon, a veteran outfielder; Max Surkont, a veteran right handed pitcher, Sam Jethroe, an outfielder who played with the Toledo American Assn. champions last season, and three farm club pitchers.

* * *

The young players are left hander Larry LaSalle, who had a 19-5 record with Jacksonville, Fla. in the Sally League; Curt Raydon, a Jacksonville right hander who won 11 and lost seven, and Fred Waters, a southpaw who had a 10-10 record with Lincoln, Neb., of the Western League.

Iowan Arrested in Drake Cage Bribe Attempt

New Law Is Invoked Against Businessman in Des Moines

DES MOINES (AP)—A new Iowa law making actual or attempted bribery in athletic contests a criminal offense has been invoked for the first time against a Des Moines businessman charged with trying to fix the score of the Drake University-Iowa State College basketball game Dec. 22.

* * *

Floren Dipaglia, 27, official of a building supply company here, was arrested Sunday on information filed by Detective Chief Robert E. O'Brien. He was accused of attempting to bribe Ben Bumbry, star Drake forward, to shave points off the Drake score.

* * *

Dipaglia was arraigned before Municipal Judge Don Tidrick and pleaded innocent. He waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the Polk County grand jury under $3,000 bond supplied by his brother Raymond.

The arrest came as a climax to an investigation which had been underway since last week when Bumbry told authorities he had been offered from $300 to $500 to see that Drake lost to Iowa State by eight to 10 points.

Bumbry said he declined the offer and reported it immediately to Drake Athletic Director Jack McClelland.

The Bulldogs lost the Dec. 22 contest to Iowa State 69-59 but Bumbry played an outstanding game and led his team in scoring with 17 points.

* * *

The law under which Dipaglia is charged was enacted by the 1953 Iowa Legislature. It carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison or a $10,000 fine or both.

* * *

Dipaglia is president of Walside, Inc., a firm whic hdeals in siding in the builders supply company here.

CASE—Too Much Shifting.

Opinion of Veteran Ward—Young bowlers today change their starting position too much, contends Cleveland's great Walter Ward, whose 205 average for more than 20 years and 12,000 games speaks for his sound form, solid footwork and unchanging ball action.

He looks exactly now as he did the first time I saw him send his short power hook down the alleys in the early '30s. Here's what he does: Picks a starting spot for his stride, selects a board along which to roll the ball and keeps his eyes on that board, watches the action of the ball, adjusts as little as possible if he must adjust, and then holds his position. Finishes with a slide. Left foot straight in line always (see sketch).

Says he: "How well you'll do depends on how well you can hold your course. And you'll hold it only if you're willing to practice. High bowling scores don't come easy. You've got to work for them."

Undefeated Tartars Put Record on Line

DETROIT (AP)—Unbeaten Wayne University, defending champion, will take a four-game winning streak into the second annual Motor City Basketball Classic tonight at University of Detroit.

High-Ranked Ralph Dupas Meets DeMarco Saturday

NEW YORK (AP)—Is Ralph Dupas as good as he's cracked up to be?

Fight fans will find out for themselves Saturday night when the 18-year-old schoolboy from New Orleans makes his national television debut against seasoned Paddy De Marco of Brooklyn in a 10-rounder at New Orleans Municipal Auditorium.

It will be the first network TV fight to be beamed out of New Orleans. The city, however, will be blacked out of the telecast. ABC starts the coast-to-coast telecast at 9 p. m., EST.

Middleweights George Benton of Philadelphia and Bobby Jones of Oakland, Calif., collide tonight in the main 10-rounder at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena. Dumont will telecast the bout to some parts of the country starting at 10 p. m., EST.

* * *

Welterweight contenders Johnny Saxton of Brooklyn and Del Flanagan of St. Paul clash in the Wednesday night headliner at the Minneapolis Armory. The 10-rounder will be telecast coast-to-coast by CBS starting at 10 p. m., EST.

* * *

Brooklyn's flashy Lulu Perez and scrappy Davey Gallardo of Los Angeles, meet in a "rubber" featherweight bout at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Perez won the first on Sept. 4 when he stopped the Californian on cuts in eight rounds. Gallardo avenged that defeat by trouncing the 20-year-old speed merchant in 10 rounds on Nov. 27.

The 10 p. m., (EST) 10-rounder will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) coast-to-coast.

Sanders Rose Bowl Prize—a New Car

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Friends of UCLA coach Red Sanders surprised him last night at the team's post-Christmas banquet.

A group of friends, with UCLA alumnus Howard Taylor as spokesman, presented the coach with a new automobile, as a token of their appreciation of the fact that Sanders guided the Bruins into the Rose Bowl.

Stradivari Rise in Value as They Become Rarer

CHICAGO (UP)— The value of the Stradivarius violin is increasing steadily, but you can't blame it on inflation.

The value of the 450 instruments remaining from the 1,000 that the master craftsman, Antonius Stradivarius, made 200 years ago increases no matter what the world's economic condition.

"Even during the depression the price of the Stradivarius stayed high," Leppert said.

"A few might have been sold for money for emergencies, but most of the violins are in the hands of experts. They won't sell because the instruments increase in value."

Leppert estimated that dealers today have for sale about 15 or so fine violins made during Stradivarius' "golden period" — from 1700 to 1730. Stradivarius died at 93 in 1737.

"There recently has been some increase in Stradivarius purchases for investment," Leppert said. "But usually people who buy a Stradivarius for investment have an interest in playing, though they may not be professionals.

Leppert gave as a reason for the increasing price of the famed violins the fact that through misuse or accident, more disappear from the market each year.

"There are some 15 to 20 violins from the golden period averaging about $45,000 each in the hands of dealers today," he said.

"A collection was bombed out in Germany during the war and several Stradivari were lost. It will be just a question of time until very few are left in the hands of dealers and experts."

As an example of investment potential of the rare violins, Leppert cited the case of a Wisconsin violin collector. Over a period of 25 years, the man acquired five violins. He called the collection the "quintet of the masters."

It included the "Giese" Stradivarius cello of 1731, the "Ave Maria" made by Joseph Guarnerius del Jesu in 1740, the "Sovereign" viola fashioned by G. B. Guadagnini in 1773, the "King Henry IV" Amati brothers violin of 1595, and the "Simandle," an old Brescian bass of about 1730.

The collector bought the last instrument three years ago, Leppert said. Now the collection is worth more than three times what was paid for it.

Leppert said violinists such as Mischa Elman, Isaac Sterne and Zlatko Balokovic place high values of $100,000 on their instruments because they feel that much money would be needed to find a replacement having the same tone and qualities.

"It was his Swan song."

67 Detroiters Arrested in Gambling Den Raid

DETROIT (UP) — Police today held 67 persons arrested early Sunday in a raid on the "East Side Fatemal and Social Club" where officers said liquor and gambling equipment was found.

Four men were held on charges of engaging in an illegal occupation and the other 63 for loitering.

Guide Found Dead in Michigan Cabin

TRAVERSE CITY (UP) — The results of an autopsy were awaited today to determine the cause of death of John Warner, 67-year-old fishing guide found dead in a pool of blood at his cabin near Williamsburg.

Sheriff Richard Weiler said Warner was found late Saturday by neighbors who went to his cabin after not seeing him for three days. Weiler said that despite the blood there was no indication of violence and death could have been caused by a heart attack or a fall.

The term "Spanish Main" originally referred to the Spanish colonies on the northeast coast of South America, to distingush them fro misland possessions. In later usage it was generally applied to the Caribbean Sea and nearby waters made hazardous by pirates and buccaneers.

TV Being Used to Catch Fish

Each Type Has Own Sound Helping Ocean to Ship Detection

MIAMI, Fla. (UP) — A unique television project here may help revolutionize the fishing industry.

You'll never see the show, for it will originate on the ocean floor and won't be transmitted any farther than the ship above from which it will be directed.

According to university scientists, the ocean-to-ship television, when perfected, will enable commercial fishermen to spot schools of fish in the water and save them the trouble and expense of the present hit or miss method of finding fish.

The laboratory is also using TV to test the efficiency of nets and other fishing equipment.

They're also using sound. Operating on the principle of sonar, or sound echoes, they hope to be able to pinpoint fish movements by sending out sound waves under the water.

The result was they would often depth charge whale by mistake or lose track of a U-boat because of an interruption by a school of fish.

According to the scientists, each type of fish has its own special sound. For example a school of shrimp makes a noise similar to gravel hitting a car fender.

And to round out the program the university scientists are working on electrical impulses which will attract some fish and frighten off others.

For instance, a certain electrical impulse will lure shrimp of a desired size from the craggy ocean floor, where nets would be torn, and bring them to a level where the nets could be used.

At the same time the impulses would frighten away undesirable fish which the fisherman must sort from his net at a cost of time and money.

The University of Miami experimenters hasten to point out the projects art still far from the stage of practical use for commercial fishermen. They say there are many problems still to be worked out.

Not only will they be pinpointed by television and sonar but they'll also be lured right into the fishermen's nets and eventually to a seafood platter.

Trucker's Reasons Save Him Arrest

TOLEDO, Ohio (UP) — Toledo police gave an Indiana trucker an escort out of town recently because he had 5,500 good reasons why he shouldn't be detained.

David E. Myers, 28, Hartford City, Ind., was just about to drive his truck across a bridge when the bridge tender stopped him and called a state patrolman. The truck's weight was far above the load limit of the bridge.

Myers was on the verge of being arrested when the patrolman realized it was Columbus Day and the courts were closed. In view of the truck's cargo of 5,500 gallons of high octane aviation gasoline, city officials felt they didn't want the truck around overnight because of the possibility of an explosion in which their "civic center might be blown right off the map."

Snail Shells Scatter Lime Through Soil

WASHINGTON (UP)—The lowly snail plays an important role in maintaining the balance of nature by producing the "backbone of agriculture"—lime.

Snails accumulate lime in their shells and at the end of their short lives, distribute it over wide areas. These mollusks of land and shallow water have been found in concentrations of 2,630 to the acre, accounting for a deposit of about 29 pounds of lime.

Snails, for all their leisurely meanderings, are victims of environment. Some must live in woodlands where beech and maple trees are found and other demand the society of wood nettles.

Man Misses Blanket

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—John A. Crilly was pretty broken up over the loss of an old horse blanket. He said it has sentimental value for him. For 20 years he has carried it in the back seat of his car and before that he used it to cover his horse. "I wouldn't have sold that blanket for a lot of money," he said.

Winds Carry Off Surface Water So Fishing Good

ITHACA, N. Y. (UP)—Cornell University scientists say excellent sport fishing in the Atlantic off northern New Jersey is due to an upsurge of deep waters.

Following a survey of the circulation of coastal waters between Massachusetts and New Jersey, they reported that a strong prevailing wind in the area, roughly between Sandy Hook and Bay Head, carries off surface water and causes deeper waters to rise.

"Since this area is just off New York harbor, refuse such as garbage from the city continually flows out into the ocean," said one scientist, Charles Bowers.

"This so-called 'polluted' water is actually beneficial because it serves as fertilizer for the microscopic creatures which the fish feed on and makes good feeding grounds in this area.

The Cornell researchers, working under sponsorhip of the Office of Naval Research, also located a meeting of waters flowing south along the coast with waters flowing out of Long Island Sound, just off Montauk Point. They called this the "Montauk Convergence."

By studying the rate of currents, they also estimated that more than two and one-half trillion gallons of water flow daily through the New York bight, an area adjacent to the coast from Montauk point to New Jersey's Barnegat Inlet.

Dairying is New York's largest and most widespread industry. Holland, noted for its milk and dairy products, does not compart with New York in this respect.

Inquest Delays Victims' Rites

Will Investigate Deaths of Mother, Children in Farm House Fire

DETROIT (UP)—An inquest into the cause of death of a mother and her four young children who perished Christmas morning in their blazing farm home near here caused a delay today in funeral services.

The inquest, originally scheduled for Saturday, was postponed until today by the Wayne County Coroner's office, which said State Police from the Flat Rock post failed to attend Saturday's hearing.

Troopers said they had not been notified.

Funeral services scheduled for today have been postponed until Wednesday for Mrs. Mary Hurst, 25, and her children, Patrick, 6, Hazel 5, Michael 2, and Daniel, 9 months. The only survivor was the father, Ross Hurst, 27.

State Police Sgt. Oramel O'Farrell said the cause of the disastrous fire "was, without a doubt, accidental" and blamed a defective oil heater in the kitchen of the two-story brick house 2 miles east of here. He said the inquest was "only a matter of routine formality."

Hurst said the delay in funeral services came as "added grief." The father stood outside the burning, 100-year-old house Friday and watched helplessly as flames consumed his wife and children.

Mexicans Use Jeeps to Begin Bullfights

DALLAS, Tex. (UP) — The American-built Jeep is taking over some of Old Dobin's chores in Latin American bull rings.

V. E. Doonan, a Dallas motorcar agency manager just back from a trip to Peru, said the Jeep is being used there to drag away the defeated bulls.

In Mexico, he reported, most ranchers use a man on horseback to chase fighting bulls around the range. A long pole was used to tease the bulls and get their dander up, thereby determining their fitness for fighting, Doonan said.

"Naturally, the horse was often gored or otherwise injured during this maneuver," Doonan said. "Now the pole-pusher rides in a Jeep with a companion at the wheel."

Find Japan Shallow

TOKYO (UP)—A new theory refuting the idea popularly accepted that the earth's crust in Japan is 31 miles thick will be advanced by a group of young Japanese scientists. Scientists experimenting with artificial earthquakes since 1950 have reached the conclusion that the crust of Japan is only 12½ miles in depth.

As the old year fades away and a new one bows in, our hearts sing out sincere wishes for your good health and happiness!

Tooled up to help industry build a great 1954

Two new bessemer converters are another example of Great Lakes Steel's readiness and ability to serve its customers in 1954.

Their job is to refine molten pig iron for the open hearth furnaces Great Lakes uses to make fine steel. This new installation doubles the capacity of the plant's bessemer facilities and contributes importantly to efficiency and quality in steel-making.

Big in themselves, these 25-foot high bessemers are only a small part of the major "tooling up" we've been doing at Great Lakes Steel. A new blast furnace, a new slab mill, new coke ovens—all are part of a program which now assures automotive and other manufacturers of more high-quality flat-rolled steel. All together, our enlarged and balanced facilities give us an annual capacity of four million ingot tons. And that's good because Great Lakes Steel was set up in the first place to provide industry in its area with a dependable first source of sheet, strip, and other shapes used here in vast volume. We've become that source largely because of our integration as a steel-maker. We start right with the ore, and work it through blast furnaces, bessemers, open hearths, blooming mills, hot and cold rolling mills and merchant mills, down to the finished forms. That gives Great Lakes flexibility that lets us do a real job.

Look for more great things from Great Lakes Steel—the nation's foremost specialist in flat-rolled products. We aim to serve well our customers in many fields . . . while we keep pace with the automotive industry's mammoth needs. Great Lakes Steel Corporation, Detroit 29, Michigan.

Buying Pushes Grains Upward

CHICAGO (UP)—A strong buying movement sent grains rolling upward on the Board of Trade in active dealings today.

The market opened with a rush, particularly in corn and oats. They responded to news of import restrictions on Argentine oats. But there also were a large number of buying orders in wheat, some of them for very sizable amounts. Soybeans joined the rest of the market on the advance.

Best prices were scored at or shortly after the opening. A slight dip occurred thereafter but the market showed no weakness.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ½-1⅛ higher, March $2.06⅝, corn 1-1¼ higher, March $1.55⅝, oats 1⅜-1⅝ higher, March 78½, soybeans 1-1¾ higher, January $3.07 and lard 18 cents lower to 3 cents a hundred pounds higher, January $17.35.

Ike Aides Draft 1st Year Report

Jan. 4 Radio, TV Talk Also to Outline 1954 Legislative Aims

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP) — President Eisenhower called on two speech-writing aides today to help draft a report to the American people on the administration's first year in office.

The Jan. 4 address, to be carried nationwide on television and radio, also will outline the general aims of the President's 1954 legislative program—a program with which he will deal in more detail in his Jan. 7 State of the Union message to Congress.

Eisenhower arranged to confer regarding the TV-radio address with White House aides Kevin McCann, on leave as president of Defiance College, and Charles Moore, another speech-writing adviser.

The session was scheduled in Eisenhower's new office above the pro shop at the Augusta National Golf Club, close by the little White House near the 10th tee.

McCann and Moore arrived yesterday and two more aides were coming by plane from Washington late today. Arthur Burns, chairman of the three-man council of economic advisers, and Dr. Gabriel Hauge, the President's personal adviser on economic affairs, will meet with Eisenhower tomorrow morning.

Burns and Hague were bringing along a preliminary draft of the economic report which will go to Congress a few days after the State of the Union message. Eisenhower also is working on that message here.

Later in the week Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge will arrive for conferences on the annual budget message, another document which will be sent to the capitol early next month.

Dewey Names Special Prober

William B. Herlands to Be in Charge of Gaming Investigation

ALBANY, N. Y. (UP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today appointed William B. Herlands, special assistant attorney general in charge of the Staten Island gambling probe, as chief of the state's new "watch dog" agency against crime.

Dewey said he had no immediate investigations for the new commissioner to undertake, but added "there will be a number of matters he will go into" at a later date. The governor would not specify what they were.

Herlands, 48, will have power to investigate the conduct of any public officer subject to removal by the governor. The list includes mayors, police chiefs, district attorneys, sheriffs and county clerks.

Herlands also will have power to investigate other public officials except members of the legislative and judicial branches, at the governor's direction.

He will be authorized to probe any department, board or bureau of the state government and any matter of law enforcement concerning the public peace, safety and justice.

Pole Sitter Feels Safer 40 Feet Up

MIAMI (UP)—Pole-sitter James A. Martin said today that the toughest part of his planned 365-day stay atop a 40-foot pole was the lack of sleeping room.

"The platform is so small I have to curl around the pole," he said.

"The only thing I have to worry about is falling off," Martin said. "You're not safe on the ground. A million and one things can happen to you on the streets."

Martin, who scampered up to the five-foot square platform Christmas day with a vow to remain until next Christmas, said his only previous endurance test was five days of standing on a street corner in San Francisco.

"But up here there'll be no reason to worry. I'll have a lot of time to think, study, better my education and generally get away from it all."

He'll have a radio and magazines to keep him from getting bored along with a telephone through which he will dispense commercials for the used car lot which promoted the pole-sitting stunt to advertise "down to earth prices." His meals will be hoisted aloft via a dumb waiter.

Welfare Group Objects to Aiding in Jail Break

SALT LAKE CITY (UP) — The Utah Welfare Commission likes to help persons in need, but it objects to state funds being spent for unworthy purposes.

Commission Chairman H. C. Shoemaker nodded with satisfaction, after he recovered from his astonishment, when he received the following recommendation that one person be removed from state welfare rolls:

"Aid to dependent children funds are not to be used to buy hacksaw blades so boy friend can saw way out of Carbon county jail."

French Air Workers End 7-Day Strike

PARIS (UP) — A technicians strike which tied up French aviation for a week ended today, but a Communist - led postal workers strike threatened to spread.

Control tower radio and radar technicians were ordered back to work after the air navigation union and action committee announced that agreement had been reached with the ministry of aviation on wage demands.

The aviation strike caused heavy financial losses to French and foreign air companies, and all rushed to restore cancelled flights and get service back to normal.

A walkout of postal sorters which has piled up mountains of mail at distribution points since Dec. 22 threatened to spread to previously unaffected local post offices.

Kinsey's Book Lauded

LONDON (INS) — Dr. Alfred Kinsey's controversial book on female sex behavior has won lavish praise from an authoritative British Medical journal, "The Lancet."

The Lancet called the book "a serious, well-conceived, and courageous attempt to provide factual information about a branch of social psychology in which legend and emotion still predominate over knowledge and sense."

Report Judge Lost Passport

Well-Informed Sources Say State Department Took Diplomatic Pass

MADRID, Spain (UP) — Judge William Clark, who rejected a State Department order firing him from his post in Germany, has surrendered his diplomatic passport to an American consul general in the Canary Islands, well-informed sources said today.

Clark was given an ordinary passport which requires him to return to the United States by Jan. 26.

Robert Hale, the consul general, flew on Christmas Day to Las Palmas, where Clark, ousted U. S. chief justice in Germany, was vacationing.

Hale was reported traveling under express instructions from Washington to "get" Clark's diplomatic passport. The consul general telephoned the Madrid Embassy Sunday and said Clark had surrendered it.

In return, the sources said, Hale handed Clark an ordinary passport with the proviso that the holder must return to the United States on or before Jan. 26.

Thus the United States government appeared to have solved the problem of getting the defiant Clark off the bench he refused to vacate on the ground the U. S. State Department, which declared him "surplus," had no right to give orders to a judge.

Detroit Man Shot at Royal Oak Party

Earl Greenfield, 25, of 10725 Hartley Ct., Royal Oak Township, is being held for investigation of felonious assault in the shooting of James C. Townsel, 26, of 20121 Mendotal Ave., Detroit, after Mrs. Greenfield ordered Townsel and a friend out of her home during a party.

Royal Oak Detective Samuel Whitfield said Townsel was ordered from the house because of some remarks he had made. His friend had left the house when the argument began.

The detective said Townsel was taken to Mt. Carmel Hospital, Detroit, after being shot by a 32 caliber pistol owned by Greenfield.

Business Briefs

Donald Gordon, chairman and president of Canadian National Railways, reports that CNR total earnings are expected to surpass last year's figure despite a last-quarter decline in freight traffic.

He said, however, that expenses have more than offset the increase in revenue and that the record revenue probably won't be sufficient to meet increased operating expenses. The increase in expenses was laid primarily to a sharp hike in wages. Wages this year were $36,000,000 higher than last year's, said Gordon.

Grand Trunk Western is a subsidiary of CNR.

Sheldon Moyer and E. McCord Mulock Jr. have been promoted to vice presidents of Grant Advertising, Inc., Detroit. Moyer, director of public relations in Detroit, becomes group chief on the Dodge passenger car account, while Mulock will continue as copy chief on the Dodge account. Moyer is a former Detroit and Lansing newspaperman.

Moyer lives at 4418 Sheidan Ave, Royal Oak and Mulock at 1045 Westchester Way, Birmingham.

ARMY'S NEW HOME-AWAY-FROM-HOME—It may not look like it, but this is the Army's new all-purpose cold-climate sledroom, to be used for quarters and office space. Called the Wanigan, it is heated by an oil stove, can house four people and is designed to be pulled around on ski runners. Developed by the Detroit Arsenal, it will soon be contracted out to private industry.

The house of Rothschild was the first money-lending organization to operate on an extensive scale. Founded in Frankfort-on-the-Maine, it had subsequent branches in Vienna, Paris, London and Naples.

Large 'Lenin' Factory Produces Very Little

ISTANBUL (AP)—Assisted by more than a score of Soviet experts, Bulgaria has completed the new "Lenin Steel Works" at Dimitrovo, outside of Sofia.

Radio Sofia broadcasts of opening ceremonies referred to the new plant as a "giant factory" which took 56,000 tons of concrete in the building. The broadcast said a train of railway cars 470 miles long would be required to carry away the earth dug out at the site.

Study Spanish Early
