Grandma's 99 Today

Ike Flies Back to U.S. to Ready for Khrushchev

By-Passes Iceland Stop Due to Bad Weather as European Trip Ends

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP) — President Eisenhower ended his 13-day swing through Europe today and flew back to Washington to prepare for his meeting eight days hence with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Because of bad weather in Iceland, the President canceled his plan to lunch there with Icelandic President Asgeir Asgeirsson.

Instead, the chief executive's yellow-nosed jet airliner sped him to Washington via Gander, Newfoundland.

The President looked relaxed and sun-tanned after his three-day golfing vacation in Scotland.

He took the vacation to rest up after a series of conferences with European leaders—a tour which his doctors called one of the toughest jobs of his presidency.

After long and intimate talks with West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Ike went to Paris to see President Charles de Gaulle.

Then he flew to Scotland to relax at his 16-room apartment in Culzean Castle.

On leaving Culzean, he shook hands with his host and hostess, the Marquis and Marchioness of Ailsa.

His final words to Lord Ailsa, who had lived in a wing of his ancesteral home during Eisenhower's visit, were: "It's been just wonderful."

Weather permitting, the President's plane will land this afternoon at Washington's National Airport. Otherwise it will go to Andrews Air Force Base about 12 miles from the capital.

On his way to the airport the President went an extra three miles to the village of Alloway to visit the birthplace of the Scottish poet Robert Burns.

In the nearby town of Maybole a crowd of several hundred waved goodby and called, "Good luck, Ike."

Eisenhower spent his last day in Scotland attending church, receiving a life membership in the Turnberry Golf Club, and rushing to get through one last round of 18 holes under threatening skies.

The President's decision to return to Washington was not motivated, Hagerty said, by any special political development. There had been some thought he might remain in Scotland for another day.

"He just decided he wanted to be home Monday afternoon," Hagerty said.

Knight Had Nothing to Tell Her

LEAVES FRUITLESS MEETING — Clara Souden, wife of missing state trooper Albert Souden, leaves State Police headquarters in East Lansing after pleading with ex-convict Alvin W. Knight to tell her what happened to her husband. The trooper vanished last Thursday after going to question Knight about a burglary. With Mrs. Souden are Mrs. Adolph Ploehn, left, and Mrs. Donald Hermanson, both wives of state troopers.

'Please Tell' She Begs Ex-Convict

Rejects Pleas of Trooper's Wife

EAST LANSING (AP) — Hardened ex-convict Alvin Knight turned his back on the wife of missing state trooper Albert Souden last night as she pleaded with him to tell her what happened to her husband.

"I'll pray for you and forgive you, but please tell," Mrs. Clara Souden, 23, mother of a seven-months-old baby, told Knight.

Knight, 48, whose prison record dates back to 1930 on Ohio and Michigan burglary convictions, replied, "I am sorry for you and your baby but I can't do anything for you."

Then he choked back tears.

"This isn't any indication I'm weakening," he said. "I'm sorry for you."

But Police Supt. Howard Seiler, who listened to the dramatic interview at State Police headquarters here, thought Knight was reaching a breaking point. He said the hours-long grilling of Knight will continue.

"Neither he nor I are going to get any sleep," Seiler said.

Seiler said it was the first time Knight showed any great emotion.

State Police said that as of 7 a.m. today Knight had undergone continuous questioning for 24 hours except for brief recesses. Troopers said the ex-convict appeared alert and apparently unnerved by the examination.

SHE INSISTED

Mrs. Souden, who insisted on the interview despite police objections, looked pale and drawn.

Asked about Knight's reaction to her surprise visit, she said, "He turned right away. I think he was shocked."

Souden, 29, disappeared last Thursday after going to question Knight about a $75 burglary at a factory.

Arrested Friday in a northern Michigan cabin, Knight admitted being in the trooper's car Thursday. But he insisted he knew nothing of what happened to the trooper. He had Souden's service revolver. He said he bought it for $10 from a hitchhiker.

The search for Souden has centered in a southeast Michigan area where his patrol car was found. Four 12-man police squads, working in relays with the help of 400 volunteers, have combed hilly farms and woodlands around the town of Argentine, 20 miles southwest of Flint. The area is dotted with lakes and streams which have been searched by skin diving teams.

Weary Searchers Find Search Rugged Going

ARGENTINE (AP) — Two squads of state policemen trudged slowly into Argentine Township Hall and dropped wearily onto rows of wooden chairs.

"Boy," said one red-faced trooper, wiping his brow with a sleeve of his fatigue uniform, "I never knew there was so much rugged country around here."

A small army of searchers hunting for missing Trooper Albert W. Souden learned early that the terrain surrounding this Genesee County crossroads hamlet was tough to cover on foot. It is a patchwork of hilly farms and woodlands, marshes, dirt and gravel roads, lakes and narrow, twisting streams bordered by thick cover.

If Souden's body is buried there, or lying at the bottom of a lake and that is the prevailing theory — searchers could easily pass within a few feet of the grave and never see it.

That's why they're combing the territory so carefully, often going over the same ground more than once. This, says State Capt. Burt L. Yungfer, is the search will continue to be concentrated unless fresh leads point to other areas.

From dawn to dark the operation continues. Four fresh 12-man squads moved into the area today, the fourth day of the search, replacing men who had been on the job two days.

400 VOLUNTEER

More than 400 volunteers joined in. Farmers who live nearby, deputy sheriffs from Genesee, Livingston, Oakland and Washtenaw counties, state conservation men, and policemen from as far as Detroit and Lansing.

Methodically, they plodded through corn fields and woodlands, their eyes always on the ground.

Two National Guard helicopters and a third from Selfridge Air Force Base roared overhead.

A 10-man skin diving team, all state policemen, searched along lake and river bottoms. Members of a skin diving club from Ann Arbor gave assistance.

Nine State Police detectives went from door to door, asking farm families for bits of information that might put searchers on the right trail. They poked into barns and woodsheds, into abandoned wells, into boats tied up at docks.

SEARCHERS RETURN

Each new shred of evidence sent troopers hurrying to the scene in a line of bright blue patrol cars.

At noon and as darkness neared, searchers converged on the little township hall where women from farms and nearby communities are serving meals

BULLETIN

EAST LANSING (AP) Ex-convict Alvin Knight, under constant questioning for more than 24 hours in the disappearance of state trooper Albert Souden, agreed today to accompany state police to "show where the body is."

State Police Capt. Thomas Grant said Knight made no formal statement. But he said Knight agreed to acompany state police immediately to an area near Argentine where the search for Souden has been concentrated. Grant said Knight apparently broke down after hours of qestioning.

Disarmament Talks to Start

After Two-Year Halt, Big 4 Nations Plan to Meet Again in Geneva

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y (AP)— The Big Four were expected to announce agreement today to start arms talks again in a balanced 10-nation East-West group in Geneva at the start of 1960.

Diplomatic sources said Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States would announce today how they planned to resume the disarmament negotiations they dropped two years ago.

They forecast that the U.N. Disarmament Commission would be summoned to meet late this week to hear from the four, take note of the agreement and report to the General Assembly convening next Tuesday.

Informants said the agreement was that:

1. The negotiating group will be the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Romania from the Communist world and the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy from the Western world.

2. The negotiations will be private and outside the United Nations. But they will make use of the U.N.'s Geneva building and clerical aid and will submit regular reports to the Disarmament Commission and through it to the Assembly.

U.S. Asks U.N. to Send Mission; Reds May Veto

North Viet Nam Angry at Little Nation's Plea for Military Aid

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States spearheaded a move today to call on the U.N. Security Council to send a fact-finding mission to troubled Laos.

The U.S. delegation and several others were expected to submit a resolution proposing such a mission to the council meeting on Laos' plea for a U.N. emergency force to meet any aggression from Communist North Viet Nam.

North Viet Nam early today said it had asked the U.N. to reject Laos' request for a U.N. force and branded it illegal.

"The government of the democratic Republic of Viet Nam is highly indignant at these actions," said the Red Viet Nam News Agency.

"It points out that the deep-seated root of the present tension in Laos is the interference of the United States aimed at turning this country into one of its military bases and seriously threatening the peace of Viet Nam."

North Viet Nam is not a member of the United Nations.

If the Soviet Union should veto the resolution seeking a fact-finding mission, the sponsors could get an emergency session of the General Assembly within 24 hours by a vote of any seven of the 11 countries on the council.

Some diplomats said they had word the Soviets had drafted a resolution of their own favoring revival of the dormant Canadian-India-Polish International Control Commission for Laos, a product of the 1954 Geneva conference agreements for peace and independence in French Indo-China.

Laos opposes this plan. So does the United States and Britain.

The council was to hear a report from Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on a letter he received from Laotian Foreign Minister Khamphan Panya.

TROUBLE STARTS

The letter reflected trouble the royal government of Laos has had with Communist Pathet Lao rebels since last May, when a shaky 1957 national unity and peace

Holiday Death Toll Rises to 3 in Oakland County

The Labor Day weekend accidental death toll in Oakland County mounted Sunday as two traffic deaths and a drowning were recorded.

In addition, a Royal Oak man, William Sevald, 76, was struck and killed by a car Saturday night while he was fixing a tire of his car on the Detroit-Brighton Expressway in Livingston County.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies also reported several "near drownings" on area lakes in what is fast becoming Oakland's worst three-day holiday weekend in recent years.

Dead in Sunday mishaps are: Floyd A. Farmer, 70, of 368 Tower Rd., White Lake Township; Craig P. Curran, 2, of 5975 Upper Straits Blvd., West Bloomfield Township; and Robert D. McClusky, 28, of 2700 Vendome St., Pontiac.

Farmer and McClusky were traffic victims. The Curran boy drowned in Upper Straits Lake.

Farmer died at 9:30 last night at Pontiac General Hospital, less than an hour after being struck by a car on Farnsworth street near Union Lake road, in White Lake Township.

The distraught driver, Jean E. Allen, 16, of 9496 Portage Trail, White Lake Township, was also taken to the hospital where she spent the night under sedation.

She told deputies that she was going north when Farmer suddenly stepped in front of her car and she was unable to stop before striking him.

Deputies said Farmer was knocked 20 feet from the point

14 Die on Highways, 8 Drown as Holiday Draws to a Close

By The Associated Press

Traffic and drowning accidents claimed at least 22 victims as the long Labor Day weekend went into its final day.

Fourteen persons lost their lives in traffic accidents as cars jammed highways on their way to parks and lakes.

The drowning toll climbed to eight today as state police searched the shores of Lake Michigan near Manistique for two teenage girls missing since Sunday when they apparently went swimming in rough waters.

The Associated Press fatality count begins at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight tonight.

DROWNINGS

Two Manistique teenagers were missing and presumed drowned in Lake Michigan. Joan Marie Ryerse, 15, and Sheryl Longtine, 12, apparently went swimming near a breakwall off Manistique Sunday, state police said. Their clothing was found lying on the beach.

Ideal weather and the last extended holiday weekend of the summer combined to produce a mounting death toll on the nation's highways over the Labor Day weekend.

The National Safety Council, sounded this warning: "There is only one way to hold down the toll and that is by drivers doing their part. The toll continues to mount alarmingly. Unless there is a definite improvement in the drivers' behavior, the toll could approach the all-time high.

The count was moving at a rate of more than five dead from traffic accidents an hour.

During last year's three-day holiday, there were 420 persons killed by motor vehicles. The council estimated this year's holiday would take a toll of 450.

It's 'Anti-Labor Day' Says Leader

Bitterness Marks Union Statements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bitterness etched the Labor Day statements of union leaders today as they pictured labor defending itself against a powerful onslaught by big business.

On the other hand, President Eisenhower issued a statement stressing the giant gains made by American labor in the twentieth century.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, agreeing with the President's estimate of progress, added that labor should move forward and try to raise the low economic status of the migrant farm worker.

Two issues rankled labor leaders as they tried to marshal union strength on the nation's 55th Labor Day. One issue was the new labor control bill. The other was increased resistance by employers to union demands for higher wages, an issue emphasized by the steel strike.

Today "might as well be called anti-labor day," said James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers and a vice president of the AFL-CIO.

But the AFL-CIO officially named the day "Support the Steelworkers Day" in a move to help the 500,000 steel workers who have been on strike for eight weeks.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said labor would have to fight big business with a new program of education and political power.

"Big business leaders are doing everything in their power to weaken and destroy our trade union movement," Meany said in a statement.

Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers an AFL-CIO vice president, said "We are in trouble in America."

This has happened, he continued, "because giant corporations exercising monopoly control over vital sectors of the American economy are motivated by selfish policies which deny workers, farmers and consumers their fair share of the increased productivity made possible by our developing technology."

Eisenhower's statement, released by the White House in his absence, said "One cannot look back over past Labor Days without a compelling awareness of the broad and constant improvement in the condition of our people, in the real wages they receive, and in the benefits they enjoy."

"American labor has advanced continuously to new heights of accomplishment," Eisenhower continued.

"The rise in our level of living —the social and economic progress of American working men and women—gives promise of continuing achievement."

Trying to Raise $200 for Mate—Togetherness

An 18-year-old wife and her husband, married only a month ago and separated Friday, are once again living under the same roof. But that roof covers the Oakland County Jail.

Jack G. Wells, 22, of 3382 Harvard St., Royal Oak, was arrested Friday for littering the highway. He pleaded innocent in justice court, and was jailed when he failed to post his $200 bond.

Trying to raise the cash, Sunday morning his wife, Sharon, took a cab from Royal Oak to the home of relatives in Birmingham. Asking the cab driver for change as she approached her destination, she drew a knife as he drew his wallet, police said.

The driver gave her $59, but spotted which house she entered when she left him. Birmingham police recovered his money, and reunited the couple in Oakland County Jail. But he's on the third floor and she's on the fourth.

Parachute Traps Flier in Mid-Air

Sylvan Lake Man Hurt When Banged Against Plane Doing 90

A 27-year-old Sylvan Lake man was injured seriously yesterday when his parachute caught in the tail assembly of a private plane as he tried to parachute over Howell Airport.

John C. Flounders, of 185 Josephine St., started to jump and his foot got caught in a seat. Trying to regain his balance he was yanked through the open door of the plane.

The lines of his chute became entangled in the left elevator of the tail assembly, causing the plane to stall.

Flounders was banged against the plane for 10 to 15 seconds while it was traveling at 90 miles per hour. When the lines broke loose, he completed his jump.

The injured man belonged to the Wolverine Sky Divers, a parachute club, and was riding with two other club members in the plane piloted by Airport Manager L. M. Miller.

The Day in Birmingham

New Secretary Begins Organizing 'Y' Activities

BIRMINGHAM — The new program secretary of the Birmingham branch of the Young Men's Christian Assn., Conrad Ekkens, has begun organizing "Y" activities for the forthcoming school year.

Ekkens has the responsibility of the Gra-Y program and Hi-Y at Birmingham (Seaholm) High School, thus relieving Youth Secretary George Ewing so that he may enlarge other areas of the youth program.

In addition, the new program secretary will have charge of the new and expanding program in the areas of junior high school youth, informal education classes and other adult programs.

Plans are being made to expand the Gra-Y program in all schools where interest is present and leadership available, Ekkens said. Last year's Gra-L clubs at Pierce, Valleywoods, Baldwin, Beverly Adams and Bloomfield Village schools will be given first preference in reorganizing, he added.

Registration now is being taken for Tuesday night swim classes at Barnum pool. The sessions will start Sept. 29 and are open to any "Y" member.

The Toastmasters Club begins meeting tomorrow night. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. Guests are welcome.

The Birmingham "Y" Men's Club invites all service-minded men to join as the fall schedule of meetings get under way. The sessions are held the second and fourth Monday evening of every month.

The "Y" Square Dance Club will hold its opening class Oct. 3. This group will meet the first and third Saturdays of each month in a 12-session course.

The first in a series of 10 bridge lessons will be offered from 1 to 3 p.m. Sept. 28 at the Birmingham "Y" under the instruction of Mrs. Marie Bosshart. Classes will be divided into beginners, intermediate and advanced groups.

Another "Y" program will be four two-hour sessions on Thursday evenings on "Investing" beginning Oct. 1 at 7:30.

The "Y" Young Adult Club invites all single men and women between the ages of 20 and 40 to join the organization and attend the bimonthly activities planned for the fall and winter seasons. A picnic supper and campfire program for this group is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Friday on the "Y" grounds.

Registrations for all ballet classes now are being taken at the "Y" office for girls 4½ to 13 years of age. The series of 12 lessons will start Wednesday, Sept. 23.

Quebec Premier Taken by Death

Maurice Duplessis, 69, Was Chief of Province; Called Political Genius

SCHEFFERVILLE, Que. (AP) —Premier Maurice Duplessis, 69, controversial, iron-fisted chief of Quebec province for 20 years, died today.

The bachelor lawyer from Trois-Rivieres succumbed to a series of cerebral hemorrhages that first struck him Thursday while on a tour of the mineral-rich area he helped develop.

Duplessis became premier of the province in 1936 after founding the Union Nationale party and molding it into one of the greatest political machines the province has ever known.

Defeated in 1939, the party bounced back in 1944 and Duplessis held sway until his death. He represented his home constituency continuously in the legislature since 1927, breaking from the Conservative party to organize his own.

He was hailed by some as a savior and denounced by others as a dictator, but was recognized by all as a political genius. He was a fierce advocate of provincial autonomy. He decried federal interference in what he considered provincial affairs.

He fought against federal aid to universities, refused to participate in the Trans-Canada highway program and did not commit the province to the National Hospital Insurance Plan.

He refused to participate in federal-provincial tax-sharing agreements, making Quebec the only province to levy its own income tax.

In between the two talks Mrs. Souden had with the prisoner, Warden William Bannan of Southern Michigan Prison and Prison Guard Inspector Chester Powers, who knew Knight as a prison inmate, visited him.

Powers told Knight, "Cut out the lying to these officers. Tell them the truth. You made up that story about the hitchhiker."

Knight had nothing to say.

Police said Mrs. Souden didn't expect Knight to break right away when she confronted him. He had said he didn't want to see her. But she reasoned that she could impress him with her worry about her husband and that he eventually would make a statement.

Before Mrs. Souden saw the prisoner, Seiler reported yesterday's police grilling appeared to have had some effect.

"It don't think it will last too much longer," he said. "I think he is getting to the point where he is going to crack. He just doesn't care any more."

Governor Crowns Romeo Peach Queen

ROMEO — Beauty and pageantry marked the coronation last night of Romeo Peach Queen Lorelei Hoxie, 18, of Armada by Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

Paying his 10th annual visit to Romeo the governor placed the gold lacework crown on the queen's dark curls while some 1,400 spectators witnessed the ceremony in Romeo's Memorial Stadium.

Herbert A. Miller, Festival president, gave the welcoming address.

Local attorney Gary Corbin was master of ceremonies.

Among the dignitaries introduced to the crowd were Congressman James G. O'Hara (D-Macomb) and the queen's chaperone, Mrs. W. A. Parks of Romeo.

The stage was decorated to resemble a medieval castle, and the lights were dimmed as the 10 members of the queen's court and her majesty stepped into the spotlight.

The attendants and the towns they represented were Diana Roberts, Lake Orion; Sheila Dahn, Romeo; Gwen Beer, Utica; Caroline McMillan, Oxford; Mary Martell, Romeo alternate; Veachel Bilyeu, Ortonville; Sonja Schutz, Dryden; Carole Bird (second maid of honor), Rochester; and Fran Goff (first maid of honor), Waterford Township.

Flower girl and crown bearer were Peggy and David Lock.

After the governor performed the traditional function of his office, Barbara Moskow, standing in for last year's queen, presented the sceptre to this year's reigning beauty.

The three-day festival continues today opening with the children's parade at 10 a.m. The giant floral parade starts at 2 p.m. and features 25 floats, 10 high school bands, the Chrysler Kiltie Band and other marching units.

The 27th annual celebration closes tonight with the Mummers' Parade at 8 p.m. and a spectacular fireworks display at 9:30.

without charge. Salvation Army workers handed out snacks from a station wagon in the fields.

Nerve center of the operation is a 33-foot trailer the State Police mobile communications center. Inside, officers directing the search keep in steady contact with men in the field equipped with walkie-talkie telephones.

Capt. Yungfur, first district commander, is directing the search. Standing by is Commissioner Joseph A. Childs, a quiet spoken, pleasant faced veteran of police work.

As the hours in the day passed by, hope that Souden will be found alive all but vanished. But searchers passed grimly on.

"We're not going to give up," said Childs. "We're going to look and keep on looking. That's the only thing to do."

U.S. Asks for Facts on Troubled Laos agreement between the two broke down.

It said that since July 16, foreign troops had been crossing Laos' northeastern frontier with Communist North Viet Nam.

On Aug. 30, it said, a new and more violent attack came in which there were elements from North Viet Nam and artillery fire from across the border.

It urged that an emergency force be sent as soon as possible "to stop the aggression," and asked Hammarskjold to apply "the appropriate procedure."

Hammarskjold, then on a two-week South American tour, cut it a day short, flew into New York late Saturday and conferred with Laotian representatives and the Security Council president for September, Egidio Ortona of Italy. Ortona called the council meeting at Hammarskjold's request.

of impact. They estimated the speed of the car at about 30 miles an hour.

Farmer suffered compound fractures of the left leg and pelvis, and extensive abdominal injuries, according to Oakland County Deputy Coroner Dr. Gregg L. Dunlap, of Sylvan Lake.

The Curran boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Curran, drowned in three feet of water about eight feet from shore next to a dock behind his home.

His father found him in the water at 5:40 p.m. The tot had been with his father at the home of a neighbor, O. C. Eakins, of 5945 Middle Straits Blvd., but the boy had wandered away about 20 minutes before he was found, deputies said.

His father and Eakins applied artificial respiration and two doctors living nearby administered emergency first aid until deputies and West Bloomfield Township firemen arrived with an inhalator.

All attempts to revive him failed and the boy was pronounced dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital by Oakland County Deputy Coroner Dr. E. F. Collins.

Deputies said they believed the tot fell from the dock. He was the third Oakland drowning victim this weekend. Two Flint men drowned in Holdridge Lake, Holly Township, Friday night.

McClusky died at 9:35 Sunday morning at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital of severe head injuries.

Deputies said he drove a motorcycle belonging to a friend into the side of Davis' Market, 3996 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, at about 1:55 a.m.

The motorcycle had been impounded Thursday by deputies and was being held at Wall's Service Station, 3985 Auburn Rd., for the sheriff's department.

According to witnesses, McClusky went to the gas station, got on the motorcycle, started it and then drove at a high rate of speed directly west across Adams road into the side of the grocery store.

Nation Will Be Fair and Hot, Rainy Later On

By The Associated Press

The weather will be fair over most of the country today.

But later in the afternoon and early evening there will be some widely scattered rain and thunderstorms.

The Weather Bureau said the rain and thunderstorms would occur in a belt from New Mexico and Texas eastward across the lower Mississippi Valley and from Tennessee and the Gulf states to the Carolinas.

Some light rain fell late Sunday and early today in the South, but at Anderson, S.C., one inch of rainfall was noted in six hours.

Temperatures Sunday were mostly seasonal with a few exceptions.

Betters World Record for Consecutive Hits

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Trapshooter Arnold Riegger of Castlerock, Wash., hit 200 registered clay targets in a row Sunday and bettered the world's record for consecutive hits.

Riegger has hit 1,207 registered targets in a row this year. The old record of 1,179 was set in 1938 by Hoe Hiestand of Hillsboro, Ohio.

He Was Big Help

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rev. John C. Murrett, of Buffalo, N.Y., a Maryknoll missionary, said today he had just completed months of intense research for a book on the influence of the Bible on Shakespeare's writing when he got a letter from a man in Cranston, R.I. "Heard about your scholarly intentions regarding Shakespeare," the letter said. "Am forwarding 300 Biblical expressions which I compiled over the last 10 years."

Ad Tells Story of Man's Life

Sells Bees That Have Been Close to Him for Many Years

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The classified advertisement in a Pittsburgh newspaper said simply:

"16 colonies Honey Bees—Good condition. Sell part or all."

The telephone number listed at the end was that of Charles Spellman, 57, garage foreman for a baking company. The story behind the ad is the story of Spellman's life.

As a boy living on a farm near Harrisonburg, Va., Spellman was intrigued by the bees that gathered honey in the rich apple orchards which cover the country. He followed their "bee-line" to their combs.

In 1925, he left the rolling Virginia hills to come to Pittsburgh and take a job on the railroad. He met and married Mary Koleno, farm girl from Washington County, in 1927.

He continued to work in the city but both he and his wife were country lovers and they spent their spare time at the home of Mrs. Spellman's parents near Burgettstown.

On a summer day around 1929, Spellman spotted a swarm of bees, and, as he had as a boy in Virginia, trapped them with sugar water and a comb.

That swarm grew into as many as 30 colonies over the years.

"I gave the honey away to friends," Spellman recollects. "I was interested in the bees. They have personalities, just like people. Some are mild, gentle. Others, when you open them up, sting you, just like that."

Spellman and his wife spent many happy hours with the bees. But last July 14, Mary died.

"I was broken up," Spellman said. "I still am. I'm trying to carry on. But there's nobody left down at the bees except my brother-in-law. He lives alone. Mary's parents are dead. Mary's dead.

"So I put up the bees for sale."

British Pilots Want $16,800 to Fly U. S Jet

LONDON (AP) — British jet pilots gave notice Saturday they want 6,000 pounds — $16,800 — a year for flying the U. S.-made Boeing 707.

The state-owned British Overseas Airways Corp. expects delivery of 15 of the planes this December.

They will be the airline's biggest and fastest planes and will reinforce BOAC's fleet of Comets. Top-rank British Comet pilots now get about 3,800 pounds—$10,640—a year.

Said a BOAC spokesman: "The pay claim is being dealt with through normal channels, and we hope the first discussions with the pilot' representatives will be held very shortly."

Counting No Sleep Aid

TORONTO (AP) — Ever have trouble getting to sleep counting sheep? Dr. Daniel Cappon, University of Toronto professor, says some volunteers have kept themselves awake 88 hours in his experiments with counting. He draws no conclusions but suggests you try something brain-tiring, like algebraic problems.

Classmate Describes Dutch Princess

'You Know When Beatrix Is Around'

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands (AP)—"You always know when Beatrix is around. She takes the lead and laughs and yells at the top of her voice. She is immensely cheerful."

That's a classmate's description of Princess Beatrix, 21-year-old heiress to the Dutch throne who is en route by sea for her first official visit to the United States.

The blue-eyed, reddish-blonde haired princess left Rotterdam Wednesday for New York aboard the new flagship of the Holland-America line, the Rotterdam. The 38,645-ton ship, on her maiden voyage, is due in New York Friday.

The main purpose of the princess' visit is to attend celebrations marking the 350th anniversary of Henry Hudson's explorations in the new world. She will be a luncheon guest of President Eisenhower at the White House Sept. 14. She returns home by plane Sept. 21.

Although this is her first official trip to America, the princess visited the States during World War II when she was living in Canada.

Princess Beatrix admitted in a recent interview she was "of course a little scared" about the trip and said she was glad her speech making schedule has been cut to a minimum.

"I do not think about it all too much," she added, "because when you start worrying, that does not help."

The princess is a law student at the University of Leyden, where she has two more years to go.

At school Beatrix shares rooms with a girl friend in one of the old gabled houses along a canal in the city. She does her own shopping for quick, self-prepared meals. But she does not hesitate to make clear that she has no liking for domestic chores.

She does like sailing and skiing and she likes to spend some of her leisure hours sculpting. She says clothes do not interest her much except evening clothes: "These I love because they make you feel quite different."

Asked about rock 'n' roll, the princess said she liked to watch it "but it is not for me."

"I am not good at it and therefore don't like it," she added.

London Razzes Spain . . . and London

Editorial Salutes Bulls

2C 17 and OL MON. EDITORIAL

LONDON (UPI) — The Daily Mirror has taken note that 35 Spanish bullfighters recently had been injured, and gave a rousing salute to the bulls of Spain.

The Tabloid newspaper presented its anti-matador views in an editorial. It also printed the editorial in Spanish "in case Spanish newspapers wish to copy."

"Salute to the bulls of Spain," the Mirror said. "They are fighting back at their tormentors. In the last five weeks they have tossed, gored, dented or otherwise damaged 35 professional bullfighters.

"On one triumphant Sunday recently, the Spanish bulls bagged eight matadors . . .

"But even if the tortured bulls continue their successes, there is small hope of the supply of matadors running out. Who is to blame for the continuation of this barbarous sport?

"The Spanish crowds who shout for more thrills and gore. The tourists—many of them British—who flock to bullfights instead of shunning them.

"Bullfighting is a repulsive business—just as bad as stag-hunting in England."

Watch Out for School Children!

EAST LANSING (UPI) — More than a million and a half children will enter Michigan schools this fall and State Police have asked motorists to be especially vigilant for them.

About 180,000 of the children are expected to be attending schools for the first time. Police caution motorists about the school bus law, which became effective last year, requiring drivers to stop from both directions when a school bus stops to take on or discharge passengers.

Last year, 237 school age children were killed and more than 15,000 injured in traffic accidents.

Most of the fatalities occurred after school hours when children were playing.

Bergman Wants Court to Get After Rossellini

ROME (UPI)—A Rome civil tribunal will consider Ingrid Bergman's complaint that Roberto Rossellini is holding their three children in violation of a legal agreement Wednesday.

Under the agreement, the children were to be returned to Miss Bergman on Aug. 25. But they are still at Rossellini's villa north of Rome and Miss Bergman charged he has shown no indication of sending them to her.

Ex-Solon Heads Two Huge Firms

Texan Undefeated as Congressman, Building Business Empire

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — A Texan who retired undefeated from Congress at the age of 34 has made such a mark on Houston's fast-moving business circles in just four years that he is already being linked with those legendary Texans who "built things big."

He is Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. and he is the head of not one but two multi-million-dollar firms.

As a politician from the Rio Grande River, Bentsen was a sensational success, having first been elected to Congress when he was only 27.

But that success may have been surpassed already by his swift rise in the ranks of high finance in the South's fastest growing city.

His financial growth started in 1955 when he retired from Congress after serving in the House of Representatives for seven years to devote his time to private business.

After leaving Congress, Bentsen, with the backing of his father and an uncle, founded the Consolidated American Life Insurance Co., with initial capital and surplus of $5,337,000 which was then a record for an insurance firm in the United States at the time it was formed.

In its first 28 months, his insurance company recorded sales in Texas of 30 million dollars.

Still "wanting to build," Bentsen merged his company last year with Lincoln Liberty Life, which had its home office in Lincoln, Neb. He paid seven million dollars for the company in one of the largest cash transactions in American business in 1958.

Bentsen's most recent business venture was the announcement that construction will begin soon on a 15-million dollar center in downtown Houston which will house an 800-room luxury hotel and will serve as southern headquarters for his Lincoln Liberty Life Insurance Co.

The Sheraton Corp. of America signed a long-term lease to operate the hotel, which will be completed in 1961.

Bentsen, a tall wiry Texas, has always enjoyed fierce competition. When he was the youngest member of the 80th Congress, at 27, he had five times as many bills passed as any other freshman congressman.

Before that, he had defeated a strong political machine to become a county judge in the Rio Grande Valley when he was 25. He piloted his own private plane in hectic political campaigns along the Rio Grande.

Ask for National Park Along Cape Cod Shore

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass) have introduced legislation to establish a Cape Cod national seashore park.

They said in a joint statement that the bill would protect present private residential land ownership and allow some further development within the park area on Cape Cod.

Labor and Management Must Share Responsibility Equally

(In keeping with our policy of running guest editorials from time to time, our Labor Day message has been written by Andy Wilson, president of UAW Local 594.)

ANDY WILSON

Today is Labor Day—with its customary activities, parades and speeches about workers and the labor unions of America. Labor is responsible to the people and has consistently endorsed programs and legislation beneficial to all, such as hospital and housing improvements, better education for our children, social legislation — and will continue to strive for the betterment of our great country.

Organized labor everywhere should close ranks and be on guard against those persons who create or cause suspicion against the entire labor movement. Unfavorable publicity given to a small segment of labor casts disgrace upon honest labor leaders and union memberships. It should not be used as a yardstick with which to judge all unions.

The cooperation of management and labor, acting through collective bargaining, has been an important factor in the vast changes in industry during the years.

In labor-management disputes or other economic tensions, people should beware of hasty judgments and move toward informed and thoughtful weighting of the rights and responsibilities of all involved.

We believe that the basic interests of employers and employes are the same. However, at times, employes and management have different ideas on various matters affecting their relationship. Each is convinced that there is no reason why these differences cannot be peacefully and satisfactorily adjusted by sincere and patient effort on both sides.

Management cannot prosper without labor any more than labor can get along without jobs. Both are in the same business and the success of that business is vital to all concerned. Organized labor and organized management possess the ability and owe the duty to society of maintaining, through cooperative effort, a mutual satisfactory and beneficial employer-employe relationship based upon understanding through the medium of conference.

The worker does not seek to usurp management's functions but merely asks for his rights. Management invests thousands of dollars in the business. The worker's investment in the business is his sinew, his blood and his life.

The organized worker seeks a place at the conference table, together with management, when decisions are made which affect the amount of food he, his wife and family shall consume; the extent of education his children may have; the kind and amount of clothing they may wear; and their very existence.

Economic recessions are not to be taken lightly. No amount of wishful thinking or whistling in the dark automatically brings them to an end. Nor should the government alone be expected to cure them, even if this were possible.

On the contrary, the American way to cure it is to harness the combined intelligence and good will of labor and management and other segments of the economy in a joint effort to discover and correct its underlying causes.

The deepest tragedy of unemployment is that work ceases for millions when there is so much work to be done. To conserve and improve our nation at home and to better the situation of people of other nations urgently requires the cooperative energies and the intelligence of all.

All men are created equal. They are endowed by God with certain inalienable rights, among which are Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness. On this Labor Day, 1959, let us dedicate ourselves to use our material abundance to meet the opportunities and challenges of this era.

Cass Lake Tops

Largest Attendance of Any Inland State Park

Labor Day: A holiday planned to honor honest labor — not for highway slaughter.

The Labor Day crowds will undoubtedput the 1959 attendance at our Cass Lake State Park very close to the one and one-half million mark. According to its Superintendent, the last tabulation on which the figures were completed was on Aug. 30, when the exact number was 1,207,505.

Jack Weiler,

To this must be added eight days, some of which are the largest of the year: With a warm September the number may crowd the two million mark.

This park already has been visited by more people this year than any other inland park among Michigan's 60 odd state parks. It is exceeded only by a couple of the parks that are on one of the Great Lakes, and is crowding them.

Does Nikita Think We Won't Fight?

WASHINGTON — On the eve of Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the United States, he brazenly gives support to a war designed to conquer the remainder of Asian territory not yet controlled by Communists.

LAWRENCE

Along a front of approximately 3,000 miles, Communist armies and munitions now have been mobilized and small bands of troops have already crossed over to invade free countries, including Laos, Burma and India.

Americans are unfamiliar with the names of the places where the war is taking place or with the geography of the area. But what has just happened is about the same thing as if the Communists held all of Canada and sent troops across into Idaho, Minnesota, Michigan and New York.

Since the military operations are widely separated, the plot is not so readily apparent. But the whole movement is a concerted one and it is aimed at conquering all of the continent of Asia. Presumably as soon as the conquest of the mainland is completed, the way will be open for the invasion of the Philippines, Japan and Formosa.

This military action, coming as it does in the midst of Khrushchev's protestation of peaceful intent and his advocacy of "peaceful coexistence," is truly startling. For evidently he thinks Americans and the free world generally will acquiesce rather than risk giving any military support to the victims of aggression.

This is precisely the view Hitler had when he invaded the Rhineland and Czechoslovakia and when he finally attacked Poland in 1939. He was convinced that the West wouldn't fight.

FACTS CLEAR

The facts about the war in Asia have been plainly set forth in an official statement issued on Saturday by the United States government. It says in part:

"It is now clear that the Communist bloc does not intend to let the sovereign Laos government to remain at peace. The Communist bloc apparently intends to foment and direct a rebellion within Laos and to give extensive support to the attempt to seize important areas and otherwise to prevent the establishment of those peaceful conditions necessary to implement basic economic and social programs. . . .

"That outside Communist intervention exists is demonstrated by the assistance evidently being received by the Communist forces within Laos, including supplies and military weapons that could be provided only from Communist territory. . . .

"And by the fact that the military outbreak in Laos has followed conferences in Moscow and Peiping between Ho Chi-minh and Soviet and Chinese Communist leaders and also conferences in Moscow between two members of the North Viet Nam politburo and Deputy Prime Minister Anastas Mikoyan. . . . It is appropriate that this matter be thus brought to the world's attention."

The United States is joining with other nations to bring the situation before the United Nations Security Council and—if a Soviet veto is interposed there—a request for a United Nations General Assembly meeting will then be forthcoming.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Many Cases of Diabetes Unrecognized by Doctors

A reader writes me that her fried died of diabetes. Her friend never took care of her feet, and the doctor said that's why she got so bad — it went to her feet. What has sugar to do with the feet, and what are the symptoms of diabetes, the reader asks.

DR. BRADY

Symptoms? In a health column?

Instead, I'll quote what the American Diabetes Association, Inc., says are signals which point to the possible existence of diabetes:

Excessive thirst
Excessive urination
Loss of weight
Intense itching
Excessive hunger
Changes in vision
Easy tiring
Pain in the extremities
Slow healing of cuts and bruises

Diagnosis of diabetes is made on finding sugar (glocose, dextrose) in the urine and too much sugar (glucose, dextrose) in the blood. Remember that in a healthy person there is always a certain amount of sugar (blood sugar, glucose, dextrose) in the blood — from 12 milligrams per 100 cc. during fasting to 20 milligrams per 100 cc. after a full meal.

For ever four cases of diabetes recognized by physicians, whether the patients are under treatment or not, there are at least three other cases undiagnosed either because physicians neglect to test the urine or surgar or because the diaetic individuals choose to "try" this and that nostrum or just worry along without medical advice.

Most likely to have diabetes are people in whose family there are known diabetes, people past forty, and people who are overweight.

Diabetic gangrene occurs in the feet of overweight individuals past middle age who have had diabetes for years. It usually begins in a toe or around a callus following some slight injury. Often, indeed, a sore toe is the first sign of unsuspected diabetes.

On account of the tendency of gangrene in diabetes one who has the disease should never attempt to cut corns or remove calluses or treat ingrown nail. Any such trouble should be treated by a qualified chiropodist, one the physician will recommend.

The tendency of gangrene or other complication to occur is minimized by careful regulation of the diet and by proper use of insulin or, for patients past 40, orinase, which, in many cases, is as effective as insulin and so much more acceptable to the patient because it is taken by mouth, in tablet form.

In this piece I am trying to say only what I think may do good and nothing I think may do harm. For any one with more than general interest in diabetes I have a booklet titled Training For Diabetes. For a copy send me 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan

'Hope No One Else Feels My Tragedy'

In May 1953 every Carroll Lake road resident signed a petition to have speed limits posted. The signs must have been very expensive, as all we got was a device to count cars or their speed (I don't know which) for a few days.

If I can be of any help to those worried about speeders, let me know, for I don't want anyone else to feel as I did six years ago. There's twice as much traffic now, twice as much speed and dust, because the road has been widened, and the little white cross where my little son died is gone.

'Now We Won't Need Excuses'

After Dr. Ekelund's words on continuing education, maybe it won't be necessary for housewives to make up excuses anymore why she's running off to night classes after the children are in bed.

Up to now some had the thoughts, "Isn't she the restless one?" or "She doesn't get credit for it, what's her aim?"

Let them now read Dr. Ekelund's theory on how education just grows and grows with each passing decade and no person can lay his pen, pad and book down until the Old Man with a Sickle pushes them gently aside for greater things.

Many Lawmakers Abhor State's Patchwork Taxes

By DALE ARNOLD

LANSING (UPI) — Early in the 1959 legislative session there was talk about complete revamping of Michigan's "patchwork" tax structure.

That sort of talk largely has disappeared.

However, many lawmakers think revision was a good idea. To many, the Legislature's adoption of the use (sales) tax amounted to another patch.

Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton), head of the House Taxation Committee and opponent of the use tax, said the need for revision was obvious but that in "perhaps four or five years something will be done about it, or maybe sooner, depending on the situation."

Sen. Clyde Geerlings (R-Holland) Senate taxation head, charged Gov. G. Mennen Williams "scotched the whole thing (revision)" when he made an early-session appeal for a graduated income tax.

Geerlings said he initially favored a flat rate income tax, but blamed Williams for causing a change in thinking.

"I never saw anything like it," said Geerlings. "People were incensed about the graduated tax idea."

TO AID REVISION

Alfred B. Fitt, Williams' legal aide, said revision would have been helped by the "current exhaustive study" made by the Citizens Tax Advisory Committee.

Some lawmakers see earmarking of tax revenues as the biggest hurdle to overcome in any revision.

It is estimated that about 65 per cent of the state's tax revenues are earmarked by the constitution for various uses.

This leaves a relatively small percentage of revenue for legislative appropriation.

What of the future for the so-called patchwork tax set-up? Will it continue to be added to in order to meet money demands?

"There is hardly any limit to ingenuity of people determined to avoid giving us a sensible tax structure," said Fitt, referring to Republican opposition to Democratic tax views.

COMBINED TAX

Fitt said studies on a nationwide basis indicate taxes will be combined sales, personal, and corporation levies in the future.

Geerlings partly defended the Michigan tax structure by saying: "It's not as bad as it seems."

He said attempts to remedy inequities in other areas, making the overall situation worse.

Conlin claimed more mending of the present structure would "further distort an already bad system."

One thing nearly all legislators agreed on is that changes are needed in both the local and state levels of taxation.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Jurors Need Legal 'Horse Sense'

Jay so ably outlines his views that I shall offer them without comment. Pilate also let political expediency change his court into a mere pawn of the propagandized mobs. And some of our American courts are likewise pandering to the litigant who represents the most votes, regardless of legal evidence.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-437: Jay W., aged 27, is a brilliant attorney.

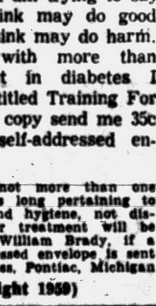
"Dr. Crane," he began, "I wish you'd stress the need for more legal 'horse sense' on the part of jurors.



DR. CRANE

"For example, a sailor on a commercial line dated a girl in a bar room and took her home.

"While making love to her in her apartment, he was surprised to find her husband enter the front door.

"The sailor jumped out of the window to the ground 10 feet below and injured himself.

"So he demanded that his employers pay his medical bills. The court then sustained his charge and made the company liable.

LEGAL 'HORSE SENSE'

"In New York, earlier this year, a mother was bathing her baby in the kitchen sink.

"She left the child on the drainboard of that sink, with the hot water running.

"While she was absent, he slid into the sink and was severely scalded. She says the hot water turned to steam, so sued the corporation owning the building.

"And she was awarded $350,000 damages for the baby while her husband got another $250,000 for medical expenses, making a total of $600,000.

"Yet that mother was grossly negligent and far more blameworthy than the company owning the apartment, for even if there had been no steam in the pipes, the child could also have been severely burned just by hot water alone.

"Any mother should know the folly of leaving a baby at the sink, especially if she also leaves the hot water faucet turned on.

"Alas, some of our courts are now penalizing the person who is regarded as having money, regardless of legal facts.

"For example, it was tragic that this baby got burned. But sympathy should not becloud our judgment as regards logical facts.

"It seems that courts often keep their ear to the ground to favor the individual who influences the most votes.

"Since there are fewer employers, compared to workers, the awards tend to go to the workers, often in complete disregard of facts.

"A trainman, for instance, aged 62, recently lost a leg while working in the freight yards. He alleged it was all the company's fault.

"Nobody was sure whether he was lazy and negligent or whether the shunted freight car was to blame.

"However, he was not only sustained in his suit but was awarded an excessive amount of damages, totaling over $300,000.

"Even if it had been proved that the railroad was completely to blame, he still didn't deserve that exorbitant sum for a mere loss of one leg at the age of 62.

"Why, he had only three more years to work before he would have been compelled to quit his job at 65, anyway. So he lost only about $15,000 in wages.

"And a missing leg doesn't disqualify most men nowadays from staying on the job, so he wasn't even a disabled man thereafter.

"But, granting for argument that he couldn't work again, he was not deserving of more than $15,000 lost wages, plus maybe $10,000 for pain and medical fees, making a total of $25,000.

"But laymen on juries seem to think any employer and certainly any corporation is rolling in wealth, and should be tapped for outlandish sums, regardless of legal evidence or logic.

"This is a dangerous trend in America, for courts should not stoop to cheap politics, like Pilate, and pander to voters."

Use 10-15 Pct. of National Income

Russians Bolster Schools in Fight for Supremacy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia is pouring from 10 to 15 per cent of its total national income into its schools in the conviction that a superior educational system is the best means of winning world supremacy.

That is the finding of 10 leading U. S. educators who spent a month visiting Soviet schools in May and June, 1958. Their report, entitled "Soviet commitment to education," is published by the U. S. Office of Education.

Dr. Lawrence G. Derthick, who heads the office of education and who also headed the mission to Russia, told a news conference that it is a "sobering experience" for an American to see the zeal with which the Russians are building up their educational system for the avowed purpose of getting ahead of the United States in the "race for knowledge."

He pointed out that the United States is spending about 5 per cent of its national income on education—only one-half to one-third as large a proportion as Russia.

Derthick said direct comparisons of the quality of education in the United States and Russia are impossible because the two school systems have such sharply different goals. Russias' schools exist to serve the needs of the state, he said, while American schools try to help each child develop his own potential as a "free individual."

Pressed for an overall judgment whether U. S. or Russian schools are better, he said:

"What we saw in the U.S.S.R. gave us renewed assurance about American education—as it is reflected in our better schools. But we came home with increased concern about our poorer schools which are suffering from neglect."

Since the U. S. delegation visited Russia, Premier Nikita Khrushchev has announced "reforms" in Soviet education which will put far more emphasis on vocational training. Russian high school students will be expected to work part time in factories or on farms while completing their education.

Derthick said recent information from Russia indicates that the changes "are not nearly as radical as they sound" and that there will be little if any "watering down" of the heavy diet of science, math, foreign languages and other academic studies fed to all Russian children.

The 135-page report covered much of the same ground as an earlier office of education study entitled "Education in the U.S.S.R.," which was published in the fall of 1957 shortly after Sputnik I was launched.

Pamphlet on Mackinac Worth $1,500

MACKINAC ISLAND (UP) — You might check your attic for a small yellow pamphlet published in 1854 on the History of Mackinac Island. If you find a copy, it's worth $1,500 on the rare book market.

The title of the volume is "Ancient and Modern Michilimackniac, Including an Account of the Controversy Between Mackinac and the Mormons."

W. S. Woodfill, operator of the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island, is the authority for the price. Woodfill said there are only two known copies of the 1854 edition in Michigan libraries, one at the University of Michigan and the other at the Burton Historical Collection in Detroit.

The pamphlet was written by James Strang, head of the Beaver Island Mormon colony, who told of his struggles with the "gentiles" on Mackinac Island.

Woodfill recently published a 500-copy reprint of the account edited by George S. May of the State Historical Commission.

Quemoy Nationalists Score Hits on Reds

TAIPEI (AP)—Nationalist batteries on Quemoy blazed twice today against approaching Communist vessels and both times scored a hit, the Defense Ministry reported.

The ministry said four small vessels were discovered approaching Quemoy from the east.

Nationalist gunners opened fire on them and hit one. The others fled. At 3:45 a.m., 19 vessels were discovered approaching Quemoy from the north. Nationalist gunners again opened fire and hit one. The others fled.

Residents Fight to Keep Industry

Memphis, Emmett Call Mass Meeting to Raise Road Building Funds

MEMPHIS (UPI) — Residents of Memphis and Emmett will hold a mass meeting Wednesday in an effort to raise road building funds which would encourage the area's major industry to stay where it is.

The Empire Tool Manufacturing Co. has threatened to move somewhere else in Michigan, probably to the Charlevoix area, because poor roads in the Memphis area hinder its operations.

Memphis Mayor M. G. Snyder, St. Clair County Road Engineer Charles Ash and a building inspector are scheduled to report to the meeting on how much it would cost to surface a section of Lambs road from M29 to the plant, located between Memphis and Emmett.

The area residents will then be asked to raise the necessary money by popular subscription in order to save the only industry in the area.

U. S. A-Cannon Wins Battle With Farmers

GRAFENWOEHR, Germany (AP) — Atom-Annie, the big U. S. atomic cannon, won her battle today with the Bavarian farmers.

The farmers near this U. S. training area complained that every time the gun went off it shook up their houses. They asked the state claims office for "damage from detonation pressure."

The claims office ordered noise and air pressure from the firings measured with precision instruments, then returned this verdict: the farmers' houses are shaken no more than if a truck had passed by.

Record Pounds of Food Given Away by U. S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department reports today it gave away a record 2,970,000,000 pounds of surplus food in the year ending last June 30th.

The foods, acquired under price support programs, went to school lunchrooms, charitable institutions and individual needy people and families in the United States and overseas.

While the record amount of food distributed was up 5 per cent from the previous fiscal year, the dollar value of the gifts declined from 458 million dollars in fiscal 1958 to 413 million dollars in 1959.

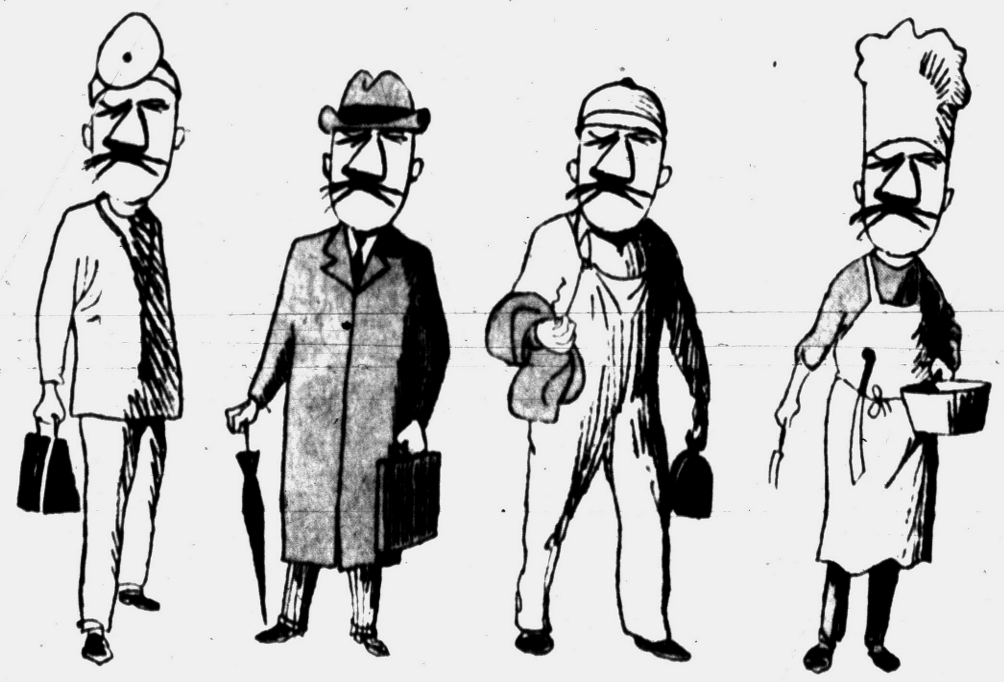
Sees Big Step-up in Borrowing Next Generation

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Americans in the next generation will be borrowing more than twice as much money as this one does, according to a University of Michigan expert.

Consumer credit, which now runs something over $45 billion, will be at least $80 billion and probably more than $100 billion by 1890, says Associate Prof. Thomas G. Gies, former economist with the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City.

Gies says four factors will contribute to the increase: population growth to approximately 70 million families; a rapid increase in the proportion of young families who use credit most; a step-up in the trend toward suburban living and home-owning; and rising income bringing more families into the good credit-risk category.



THIS TOWN IS MINE

I am everybody. I am everybody who lives in my town.

A town is made of many things but mostly a town is made of people. A town is made by people, mostly by the people who live there.

A town grows and prospers or it declines, because of many things. Sometimes because of things beyond the control of the people who live there. But more often because of the activities of these people—what they do and say about their town.

There are no finer people than the people who live in my town. I believe in them and I believe in my town.

This town is mine. To me it is the greatest town in the world. It deserves and will get the best I can give to make it so. It deserves and will get a good word from me always.

Those Souvenir Hunters!

Wrecked Planes Suffer

MOUNT CLEMENS (UPI)—Officials at Selfridge Air Force Base say souvenir hunters pose a major problem for the Air Force.

They said such hunters flock to plane-wreck sites and make off with parts of the wrecked plane. In some cases, the parts could help investigators determine the cause of the crashes.

The officials said souvenir hunters also endangered themselves.

They cited a crash near Toledo, Ohio, last year in which a souvenir hunter was spotted making off with two 2.75-inch rockets. The rockets were armed and could have exploded easily.

British officials were never able to determine the cause of a crash last fall of a Vulcan Delta-wing bomber in Detroit because so many pieces of the plane were carted away by curious persons.

State Medicos Set Convention

Professional, Business and Social Events Are Slated in Grand Rapids

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Professional, business and social activities are scheduled starting Sept. 29 in the 94th annual convention of the Michigan State Medical Society. The organization is meeting at Grand Rapids.

Its policy-making house of delegates open sessions two days before the first general convention assembly.

Scientific clinical meetings include reports to the convention by 31 medical authorities on new treatments in cancer, epilepsy, emotional disorders and the heart and circulatory systems.

Delegates also will select Michigan's foremost family physician for 1959 and present 50-year awards to eligible doctors.

Dr. Milton A. Darling of Detroit is scheduled for installation as 1959-60 president of MSMS.

Total attendance for the convention is estimated at more than 3,000 persons, including representatives at concurrent sessions of the MSMS auxiliary and its medical assistants' society.

Extradition Due for Motherwall

Accused Killer Will Go to California to Face Murder Charge

ATLANTA (UPI)—Accused killer Larry Lord Motherwell will face extradition charges here Wednesday at a hearing with California authorities.

Sierra County (Calif) Sheriff Wilbur D. Johnson and California Bureau of Investigation Agent Kenneth Horton arrived here last week to take Motherwell back to California to face charges of murdering a wealthy Washington, D. C. widow, Mrs. Pearl Ida Putney, 72.

Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver yesterday reduced by two weeks the usual delay on a hearing so the two California officials would not have to make another trip here to pick up the prisoner.

Motherwell, 43, was arrested by FBI agents here Aug. 25 on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for Mrs. Putney's murder.

Part of the woman's skeleton, identified by dental plates, was found Aug. 16 by a tourist in Sierra County. Motherwell and Mrs. Putney had made a trip to California together last year.

Allegan County Man Gets Post in Holland

HOLLAND (UPI)—Sam Stephenson, 33, Allegan County sanitarian for the last two years, has been named sanitarian for the city of Holland.

Pulitzer Prize Historian Will Attend Meeting

LANSING (UPI)—Pulitzer Prize historian R. Caryle Buley of Indiana University will appear at the 85th annual meeting of the Historical Society of Michigan Sept. 25 in Kalamazoo.

Buley, awarded the 1951 Pulitzer Prize for his study "The Old Northwest," will speak on pioneer medicine in the middle west.

Annual awards to newspapers and other media for work in promoting Michigan history will be announced Sept. 26.

Nobody Wanted to Be Boss; Sell Out Shop

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Five barbers and three manicurists, willed a barber shop by their late employer, found working together happily for a long period of time put them out of business.

The heirs decided to sell the barber shop because no one would take over as the new boss. Attorney Tom P. Mitchell, administrator of the estate of the late owner, A. D. Weaks, said "they worked together so happily so long nobody wanted to be boss."

The barbers and manicurists operated for a month after Weaks' death but only broke even. Finally, they tried to select a boss among them but were unable.

Each heir got $600 as part of the sale of the shop.

Tells Tall Tale of Japanese Mighty Mice

TOKYO (AP)—Red China radio has been putting out a fable of mighty mice on Japan's Hokkaido Island.

"The rodents have already destroyed as much as 98,800 acres of forests," it said. "At this rate 50 per cent of government-owned and 46 per cent of private forests in Southern Hokkaido are expected to be wiped out before long."

A Hokkaido government official, acknowledging some mouse trouble among the crops, replied: "I have never heard of mice that can destroy forests. Most of our trees are 100 feet tall." Apparently almost as tall as the China radio tale.

Driver Helps Police but It Cost Him $1

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—Randall Parker came to the aid of police and it cost him a dollar.

Parker happened to be nearby when officers broke up a card game. There were so many participants to be jailed that police called on Parker to help haul off the defendants.

Parker loaded five of the men into his car and sped off. But he took a different route from that of the police car and was stopped en route to the jail.

The judge let him off with the $1 fine instead of the usual $25.

Requests Traffic Ticket

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) —Police Chief Fenger Eriksen of Ringkoebing failed to stop as required on entering a highway from a side road. He asked a policeman in the car beside him to report the violation. When the report got to the chief's office through channels he recommended the customary $8.60 fine and paid up.

Russians Interested, Curious at U.S. Exhibit

(The U. S. exhibition in Moscow closed last week. What impressions did the Soviet visitors make on the Americans who came in closest contact with them? What were the Russians' reactions? Wayne Hall of Cincinnati, Ohio, one of the 80 Russian-speaking American guides at the exhibition, sums it up in this article written exclusively for the Associated Press.)

MOSCOW (AP)—It's hard to determine just what the thousands of Soviet visitors got out of the U. S. exhibition here, but the multiple reactions witnessed by their American guides makes a fascinating story.

The Soviet press was anything but cooperative during the early days of the exhibit, which closed Friday, but the average Soviet visitor showed open, interested curiosity. Mingled with this attitude was a strident note of self-assertion.

In one breath a visitor would ask motor specifications, look under the hood of an American car—and boast about the features of a forthcoming Soviet automobile.

Reactions to sailboats, camping equipment, home appliances and other displays were frequently prefaced with the comment, "We have these in Russia, too."

Economic interpretation of life and years of competition with the West were evident in the questions asked. How much did the average American worker earn? How many could afford cars, or refrigerators, or three-room apartments? Does money determine elections? And why aren't there workers in Congress? How much unemployment compensation is paid—and why is there unemployment? Do people die for lack of medical care?

Racial discrimination was an issue in many a conversation, especially around the four Negro guides. These competent young men were bombarded with questions about educational, cultural and economic discrimination in the United States.

Usually even questions of this nature were asked sincerely, but there were those visitors whose main purpose seemed to be the harrassment of guides. Such individuals wandered around the fairgrounds mechanically mouthing loaded questions.

Many visitors complained of a lack of technical material and machinery. The public seemed to expect a display of industrial power rather than a colorful reproduction of how Americans live—yet on the other hand, they also expected to see more luxury goods.

Fashions and dancing in the airy, outdoor pavilion drew attention twice a day, with strollers peering over the boundary fences to catch the show. Women guides were asked, "Why are the models so thin? Don't they get enough to eat?" Then, after listening to a short talk on U. S. fashions, the same questioners wanted to find out how they, too, could be slender.

Footwear fascinated the visitors. They expressed appreciation of leathers, but most didn't like pointed shoes. Information that the average U. S. family buys 14 pairs of shoes a year was received with incredulity or disparaging remarks about quality. One Soviet veteran of World War II even complained that the U. S. Army boots he had received then had worn out.

* * *

Souvenir hunts were intense. Guides who distributed souvenir buttons were swamped by old and young alike. Each visitor clutched a handful of brochures and plagued guides for more.

* * *

Crowds rushed from a demonstration kitchen to a cut-away supermarket to learn about ready-prepared and frozen foods. They just didn't believe it tastes as good as the fresh. A guide was horrified one day to see a visitor tear open a package of frozen potatoes and devour them on the spot.

Eastern Newspaper Offers Nikita's Book

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Inquirer has announced that it would publish selections from the first major book written by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The newspaper said it would be the first publication in the free world of the book, entitled "For Victory in Peaceful Competition with Capitalism."

Publication was arranged through negotiations between Khrushchev and Walter H. Annenberg, editor and publisher of the Inquirer. The negotiations began when the book was published in Moscow last April 17, the 67th anniversary of Khrushchev's birth.

The newspaper said that Khrushchev reveals in the book his "battle plan" through which, by peaceful means, he hopes that Russia eventually will be able to displace the United States as the world's foremost power.

TRANSLATED BY REDS

The serialization of the book will comprise about 25,000 words. The first of a series of seven articles, entitled "Khrushchev's Blueprint for Future," will appear in the Inquirer Tuesday.

The newspaper said that to insure an accurate translation Annenberg requested Khrushchev to have the translation made by the Soviet government and approved by him, which was done. A special introduction, appearing in the Sunday Inquirer, also was written by Khrushchev.

In announcing the publication, the newspaper stated that it does not constitute an indorsement, or a recommendation, of the ideas or ideals expressed.

"It is presented to give Americans a better insight into the man who will begin a tour of this nation the day after publication of the final installment, and of the political theory for which he stands," the newspaper said.

Halt Anthem Abuse

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Holding that the Mexican national anthem is being abused in background music and commercials, the Communications Ministry has ruled radio stations must have specific permission to play it. Also, it's reserved for special occasions.

'Honor Thy Father . . .'—Abby

Doesn't Feel 'Trapped' by Care

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Wanting to Live" who complained because she had to stay home and care for her sick and aged mother:

I was born on a small farm. My parents worked from dawn to dark trying to feed and educate their seven children. When I was 15 my father died and my mother had a stroke. Being the oldest, I stayed on while my brothers and sisters left one by one to find work in the city or to get married. My mother became my responsibility.

ABBY

I have worked hard. But God was good to me and I prospered. I have been able to provide my mother with a modern, comfortable home.

Take care of Momma. You'll never regret it. You are not "Wanting to live." You are living! "Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long upon the earth. (Exodus 20:12).

FORTY-ONE, SINGLE AND HAPPY

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor never misses a single day to come to my house. She stays until just before my husband comes home for supper. If friends or relatives come from out of town, she stays here till they leave. I can't visit with them as she runs her mouth all the time talking about her family or her sickness. I have heard the same stories from her a hundred times.

My husband gets so mad at me for not going ahead with my work. But how can you work with that talking machine going every minute? Is there a way to get rid of her earlier? I don't like to break the friendship completely.

PESTERED

DEAR PESTERED: Be friendly but firm when you tell your neighbor that you have only so much time to visit with her. Set your timer (if you don't have one, use an alarm clock) and when IT goes off—lead your neighbor to the door and see to it that SHE goes off. If she hasn't sense enough to leave when you have guests and you haven't the courage to tell her you'd like some privacy, you'll have to put up with her.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I'm crazy, but I am allergic to one partciular girl. Whenever I come in contact with her, my face and neck break out with little reddish bumps. And these bumps itch. This doesn't happen with any other girl. The bumps quit itching and disappear in about two days, but as soon as I go near her again, they come back. If you have a solution for me I'd be very grateful as this girl is sure worth the bumps.

"BUMPY"

DEAR "BUMPY": Be of good cheer! You are probably allergic to the cosmetics or perfume the girl is using. See a dermatologist (when you are at your bumpiest and itchiest) and let him take it from there.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "GINSEY": Read Kinsey!

Richard Kirby of Flint was best man. Ushers were Larry Phillips and Robert Phillips, both brothers of the bridegroom; George Pratt of Ann Arbor, Ronald Sullenger and Robert Alexander both of Flint.

A buffet supper followed the ceremony in the church parlors. Before leaving for a honeymoon to the Pocono Mountains, the bride changed to a grey and brown cotton dress with a checked jacket and the white rose corsage from her bridal bouquet.

They will live in Kalamazoo where the bridegroom is attending Western Michigan University. The bride attended Hurley Hospital School of Nursing.

Fall Classes in Art Ready at Bloomfield

The fall term of art classes at the Bloomfield Art Association will begin Sept. 14. Classes will be offered in sculpture composition, ceramic sculpture, life class, portrait drawing and painting, studio art and a Saturday young peoples workshop. In addition there will be courses in watercolor painting, oil painting, interior design and decoration and creative dance.

Instructors will be Svea Kline, Clifford West, Mildred Williams, Albert Mullen, Mary Jane Bigler, Dorothy Siddall, Kathleen Birch, Walter Ludwig, Claire Levine and Roger L. Bracy.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Florence Kingsepp or Mrs. Laura Cowman or through the Bloomfield Art Association.

Feet Affect Face

Keeping feet in good condition also helps keep a smile on your face. Thorough scrubbing when bathing, a massage and creaming will make them feel better. Curb calluses by running a moistened pumice stone over the soles at the end of a bath.

Did you know that 50 years ago a daily bath indicated your social position? It seems a magazine columnist believed a "thoroughbred girl" took the daily dunking while a "middle class girl" didn't.

Aching feet at the end of the day hits many homemakers. Check the shoes you work in. They should provide substantial support. Wearing shoes with runover heels and popped seams is not worth the money you believe you saved by wearing old shoes.

Shampooing Often Can Aid Teenage Skin

Teenagers benefit from more frequent hair shampoos: Sometimes it is beneficial to have more than one a week. This is true because of very active oil glands at this growing-up period.

Added oiliness encourages dirt to cling to the scalp and clog the pores, just as it does on the face at this time.

More soap and water scrubbings will help ease resulting skin eruptions.

All Eyes Upon You

The way you look in the privacy of your own home, in the trying weather of a rainy day or in your neighborhood supemarket is important. It makes an impession on every single person who sees you.

Hang-up Chairs Were a Good Idea

A rather ingenious aid to cleaning is attributed to some fastidious housewives of the early 1800's. They got their husbands to build peg rails around the rooms, then "hung" up chairs and tables when it was time to scrub the floors!

While modern women are not likely to use furniture as mobiles, it's smart to keep cleaning in mind when you select furniture. The floor does get dirty, and it does need frequent mopping with soap or detergent suds. So, try to get furniture that is easy to move or is built high enough off the floor to permit mopping underneath.

Trimmed Veils

Those ever-popular cage veils now come with feather trim for autumn. They're done in many different colors, of course.

Let Child Experience Others' Disapproval

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

The red cardboard horn was tied to the baby's stroller. As Alan's mother hadn't yet emerged from the supermarket, he decided to blow it while he had the chance. Certainly its owner didn't seem to mind. At the sound of the horn's hoarse peep, he just went on placidly sucking his thumb.

So Alan was preparing to blow it again when the lady rushed at him, grabbed it and cried, "Freshie! Don't you know you can spread germs by doing things like that?"

So shocked was Alan by this disapproval that he ran into the supermarket to find his mother. But instead of sharing his shock, she said, "She was just scared you might hurt her baby. After all, that's not so strange. She doesn't know you, does she?" So the strange lady's disapproval lost its shock effect and soon became tolerable to Alan.

As he's entering school this fall, this was a good thing.

His acceptance of the strange lady's disapproval will help him to live more comfortably with the possibility that another strange lady called teacher may be occasionally disapproving, too.

Little children about to enter school need to discover the fact that the world isn't wholly peopled by adoring Mommies and Daddies.

And they do discover it, if we don't interfere. Aunt Mable glares at Jane when she spills her milk; the supermarket clerk blows up at Eddie's investigations of his fruit counter. Jane and Eddie are quite aware that these grownups do not feel parental affection for them and are quite able to stand this reality if we can.

But if we habitually try to protect them against other adults' disapproval by protesting it or pretending it doesn't exist, we suggest that it's not to be tolerated. Jane and Eddie get the idea that all grownups should love them.

Then, as school time nears, they begin to wonder if teacher will. And becoming scared that she won't, they may either insist on our staying around to see that she does or refuse to approach her at all.

In the preschool weeks the more easily we can tolerate other people's criticism of children, the less disturbed they are by the prospect of teacher's. Then they can approach her with realistic expecta-

Cuticle Cure Takes Time

Getting cuticle back in condition after it becomes ragged requires patient care. Each time you wash your hands in warm water and soap, press the cuticle back gently.

For a manicure, soak fingers in warm oil for at least 10 minutes and then go to work with a cotton-wrapped stick. Never cut cuticles although it may be necessary occasionally to nip a hangnail.

Don't Squeeze With Washables

Glass fiber curtains should be washed, rinsed and rehung without wringing or ironing. Smooth seams and hems with the fingers as curtains dry.

Senate Makes Plans

Discuss Problems of Aged

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

An extremely important and interesting meeting was held in Washington, D.C. between this past July 23rd and Aug. 6th.

Senator Pat McNamara, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on Problems of the Aged and Aging, invited many leaders to testify before his subcommittee. Officials from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Department of Labor, the Veteran's Administration, the Housing and Home Finance Agency, and the Civil Service Commission, private citizens and representatives from labor, business and social welfare organizations testified.

THE IDEA

The idea of the meeting was to gather information and to make plans concerning what is being done and what needs to be done for the aging population. When you consider the fact that in the United States in 1900 there were only 3,000,000 people over the age of 65 and that today there are more than 15,000,000 past that age, it is easy to see that these are crucial problems. Today there are more than 5,000,000 persons over 75 years of age.

Some of the problems which were considered were: the housing needs of the elderly and the responsibility of the federal government; job discrimination against the worker over 45; financing adequate medical care for the aged and aging; conditions in nursing homes; measures to prevent physical and mental deterioration; adequate incomes for those who have retired; and ways of insuring a productive, meaningful life for those who retire.

In Senator Pat McNamara's words, "If we continue our present practice of relegating older persons to the sidelines, the financial burden for the country in the way of institutions for the aged will be too fantastic to conceive."

Tomorrow: "Why Make Man Retire On Basis of His Age?"

Senator Pat McNamara does not believe we should "continue our present practice of relegating older persons to the sidelines . . ." He states the financial burden for the country "will be too fantastic to conceive!"

Restaurant Designer Pampers Desire

Women Like Elegant Dining

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

When a woman takes a holiday from her own kitchen to eat out, she wants the works in luxury and service, says William Pahlmann, a man who has made a thorough study of feminine psychology in his work as an interior designer.

"A woman who has to cook three meals a day at home and then wash the dishes wants the greatest possible contrast when she goes out to dine," says Pahlmann. "She wants exotic food perfectly served in an atmosphere of elegance. What's more she deserves it. Few women have domestic servants any more, so they make up for it by seeking out the ultimate in service when they go out."

That's why Pahlmann has concentrated on creating a lush, rich and luxurious atmosphere in two of Manhattan's newest and most expensive restaurants—the Forum, with the decor of the 12 Caesars, and the Four Seasons, latest and most lavish addition to the cafe circuit.

The latter, recently opened, features a marble swimming pool with bubbling chartreuse colored water in the middle of the main dining room. Diners don't swim in it, but they may reserve poolside tables and imagine they are luxuriating at some gilded salon on the French Riviera as they nibble on truffles and pate de foie gras while attentive waiters hover near.

The decor, menus and waiters' uniforms are changed four times a year, with the change of the seasons. In summer the room rits with red geraniums. In fall there will be chrysanthemums, in winter poinsettias and holly, in spring tulips and daffodils.

Pahlmann at present is brooding on how to change the 20-foot tubbed trees around the pool in order to have flaming maples in fall, evergreens in winter and blossoming dogwood in spring.

HAIR BEAUTY

by Rowena Wilson

The real beauty of any hair style depends on keeping the tresses clean and shining-bright. This means frequent shampooing and all the brushing you can give it. Dermatologists say that washing your hair daily won't harm it any more than daily washing harms your face. Models shampoo their hair every night to have it perfect for photographic highlights. This isn't necessary for the average woman but anyone with oily hair should certainly count on shampooing two or three times a week.

To bring out the real beauty in your hair it is necessary to keep regular beauty appointments. In this way you are in tune with the latest trends. Rowena's Beauty Salon, 4631 Dixie Highway, Drayton Plains, OP 3-3541, 14 S. Main, Clarkston, MA 5-1000, 1216 Baldwin, Pontiac, FE 5-3735.

Excuse Self to Guests Then Work

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Frequently I have office work which I must do at home. When guests drop in unexpectedly in the evening, is it permissible for me to excuse myself so that I may work, or must I, under all circumstances, help entertain the guests?"

Answer: You may quite properly say to the arriving guests, "I'm terribly sorry but I'll have to leave Mary to entertain you because I have some important office work that simply has to be finished before morning."

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have a boy friend who sends me flowers whenever we have anywhere special to go. I think he is very sweet and thoughtful to send them, but I do not like to wear flowers and always feel conspicuously over-dressed with them pinned on.

"Furthermore, flowers are expensive and I do not like to see him spend his money on something that does not give me pleasure. Is there a tactful way I could tell him this without seeming unappreciative of his kindness?"

Answer: It seems to me that it would be better to risk seeming unappreciative than to continue receiving expensive flowers you don't like. Tell him how much you appreciate his kind thought in sending you flowers but that you honestly don't like to wear them.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Last week my husband and I were invited to the 25th wedding anniversary reception in honor of his niece and her husband. She introduced us to several of the guests, who were strangers, as Mr. and Mrs. John Jones. Wasn't this wrong. Shouldn't we have been introduced as her aunt and uncle?"

Answer: She most certainly should have introduced you as her aunt and uncle.

Donna Irene Larrance Wed in Evening Rites

First Church of the Nazarene was the scene of the Saturday evening wedding of Donna Irene Larrance and Frank Harmon Britton. The Rev. Kenneth Hutchinson officiated at the ceremony before 200 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin M. Larrance of Waterford and the bridegroom, who is from Bourbonnais, Ill., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Britton of Mt. Zion, Ill.

The bride wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace over satin with a Sabrina neckline, long sleeves and a bouffant skirt with a scalloped hemline. A cap of orange blossoms held her fingertip veil of French illusion and she carried a large bouquet of white glamellias.

Carla Chaplin of Clare was maid of honor. She wore a French blue sheath of nylon eyelet over taffeta with a short veil attached to a matching wreath. She carried a nosegay of white daisy pom pons and blue wheat.

MRS. FRANK H. BRITTON

Bridesmaids were Joan Kissock, Marilyn Kremer of Milwaukee, Wis. and Sharon Nyhus of Brainerd, Minn. Their dresses were like the honor attendants' but in ice blue. Sherryl Bass, flower girl, wore a floor length dress of white nylon eyelet over taffeta with an ice cummerbund bow.

John Britton of Mt. Zion, Ill. was best man. Ushers were Philip Roach of Kankakee, Ill.; Daryl Larrance of Waterford and Kenneth Larrance of Roseville, both brothers of the bride. Ring bearer was Kenneth Daryl Larrnace.

A dinner reception was held at Roosevelt Temple.

Before leaving for a honeymoon to Kankakee, Ill., where both are attending Olivet Nazarene College, the bride changed to a brown print dress with moss green accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Larrance wore a dark beige crepe dress with a contrasting cummerbund and drape of dark brown satin and a yellow rose corsage. Mrs. Britton was dressed in a black sheath dress with light blue accessories and a white rose corsage.

Wonderful to Look Pretty in Clothes

By RUTH MILLETT

Today's bouquet of compliments comes under the department of giving the devil his due.

When the fashion designers had us in sack dresses and trapeze skirts and wobbling along in shoes with needle thin heels and pointed toes, the columns I wrote in protest brought in a lot of "Amen" letters from women readers.

Apparently we made our feelings known — for it's a joy for a woman to go shopping again. And this fall no man will have to cover his mouth to hide an incredulous smile when he sees a woman dressed in the latest fashion.

The dresses are designed to bring forth the compliment, "how pretty you look." You can even bend over, sit down, or cross your legs while wearing them. They are as easy and comfortable as they are flattering.

The pointed toe is being rounded off — to give the feet a chance to look like feet instead of flat boats.

Fur trim, so flattering to a woman's face, is back in style.

Crazy pants — which aptly described the way women looked in them — are out.

Even hair styles are soft and fluffy and designed to frame the face — making girls and women look pretty and feminine once more.

So thanks to all the designers who this year have not only relented and permitted women to look like women — but have gone even further to make it possible for women to look their prettiest and most feminine.

Just one further request of the designers. Now that you've given us what we want and shopping for clothes is an exciting adventure again, how about letting us keep these styles long enough to wear out the clothes on which we are eager to splurge.

SPORTS

Off-Tackle Slant Is Power Play

By PAUL DIETZEL
Head Coach, Louisiana State

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — This is a basic off-tackle slant or a power play which we feel must click if you care to use the winged T offense.

It's very basic because it happens to be one of the first plays we ever used at Louisiana State University. It's something in which the boys must have confidence. It's the play that must go when everything else fails.

Starting off we are in a winged T which means the right halfback is lined up just outside the right end. The back plays about one yard back and one yard outside the right end. That places him in a position to two-time block the defensive end.

The idea is to create a hole, and the way we do that is with a two-time block. This block is between the right end and the right tackle.

The right tackle drives his head in the middle of the defensive tackle in what we call a post block, post meaning that it is a hinge on which the gate is opened. Actually we try to stop the defensive man's penetration long enough for the right end to drive into that man and to drive him down the line away from the hole.

Our right guard tries to keep the linebacker from getting into the hole. He blocks the linebacker away from the hole. The center also trys to maintain the man lined up over him in the same relative position to keep him from pursuing through the hole.

The left guard, who is away from the hole, pulls and goes down the line of scrimmage and turns up field to lead through the hole. We call this leading through the hole on the most dangerous man he meets at the hole. The left tackle's responsibility is to cross through the area, from where the left guard pulled to keep anyone from breaking through from the back side. That is, to keep a linebacker or a tackle, who might be charging down the line, from getting to the backfield. The left end covers through the position vacated by the left tackle and together they go downfield to get in front of the play for a downfield block.

Our right halfback starts at the defensive end, fakes a block at him to draw his attention, and then our right halfback turns out on the corner linebacker.

We call that influencing. He draws the linebacker's attention away from the man who actually will block him. It's the equivalent of a mouse trap on an interior man.

The fullback starts directly at his own offensive right end and blocks out the defensive end who has been influenced by our right halfback.

The quarterback takes the ball from the center on a direct exchange and retreats almost straight back, starting with his left foot, and hands the ball to the left halfback. The left halfback, having started directly for the sidelines, takes two steps.

On his second step he plants his foot and goes directly for the hole, running off the fullback's tail. He follows the fullback and the left guard through the hole. Naturally, what he's trying to do is run for daylight wherever the hole happens to be if it doesn't turn up exactly as planned.

After the quarterback hands off the ball to the left halfback, he then puts both hands on his right hip and continues to run on beyond the play, rolling to the outside to fake the play. His job is to make the secondary men believe he has the football. He is the outside faker.

TOMORROW: The Off-Tackle Option.

Series Sweep Completed by Win Over A's

Bengals in Cleveland Today for Two Games With Tribe

DETROIT (AP) —Say, those Detroit Tigers are beginning to act like real Tigers!

They edged the Kansas City Athletics yesterday 7-6 for a sweep of the three-game series and their eighth victory in their last 10 starts.

As they invade Cleveland today for a holiday twin bill against the still-hopeful Indians, the Tigers held a one-game edge over the fourth-place New York Yankees.

Those who might call this a salary drive might also ask: what does it mean, really, if the Tigers do finish third, if they still are 14 or 15 games out of the lead?

For one thing, it means money, and quite a bit of it for each player.

Right now, the Tigers are playing like they are flat broke.

They had considerable help from the Athletics in Sunday's contest, witnessed by 13,434, as the downtrodden Kansas City crew blew leads of 2-0 and 6-2. But the fact remains that Detroit batters rattled out 40 base hits in the three-game series, scored 21 runs and collected 16 extra-base-hits.

That made it seven in a row for the Tigers over Kansas City, a club they have defeated 14 times in 20 meetings. The Athletics now are in the midst of their longest losing streak of the season, eight in a row. Twice previously the A's suffered through seven-game losing streaks.

They began yesterday's proceedings in a robust fashion that made it look like the streak would soon end. The A's scored twice in the first inning off Frank Lary, one of the runs scoring on Bob Cerv's 18th home run.

The Tigers tied it in the second when Frank Bolling hit his 11th home run behind a walk to Charlie Maxwell.

Lary couldn't survive the fifth inning, when the Athletics rattled off five straight singles.

Reliefer Pete Burnside took over with the bases loaded and no one out. One more run scored on a force play and the fourth run of the inning came in on Cerv's single to left.

Burnside, who has worwked in fewer games than any of the Detroit regulars, gave up only two more hits. Both came in the ninth inning with two out.

The Tigers tied it for him in the fifth with four runs, three coming on Al Kaline's 23rd home run. A single by Maxwell routed A's starter Ray Herbert and two more singles off Murry Dickson chased Maxwell home with the tying run.

Tom Sturdivant held off the Tigers until the bottom of the ninth. Harvey Kuenn led off with a double and Sturdivant gave Kaline an intentional walk. Maxwell promptly ripped a single to right field, scoring Kuenn with the winning run.

Paul Foytack and either Dave Sisler or Ray Narleski will oppose the Indians today. Manager Joe Gordon said he had not decided on his starters, but they most likely will be Gary Bell and Mike Garcia, or possibly Herb Score.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING — Pontiac Northern High School will make football history this year by fielding its first varsity grid squad. Like most prep schools around the state, head coach Ed Heikkinen has put the Huskies through workouts for the past week. The PNH varsity made its debut in shiny red and white uniforms for the photo session and immediately changed into working togs for double sessions daily. Northern opens its first football campaign Friday night September 18th at Lake Orion.

Grid Debut to Launch New Era in Sports Here

PNH Preps for 1st Game

By CHUCK ABAIR

A new era in local sports officially begins the night of Sept. 18 when Pontiac Northern's 1st varsity football team is unveiled at Lake Orion.

The historic event will complete a full program of sports for PNH since the cross country contingent will be making its debut the afternoon before against Berkley here.

All other sports started a year ago on the varsity level while the two newcomers were fielding sophomore teams.

Head football coach Ed Heikkinen has been fairly well pleased with the progress of his "green" charges during the 1st week of workouts. The interest and attitude has been good and the boys are in "fair" shape.

He has kept 36 of 51 candidates on the top unit while 15 others will help form the jayvee squad which begins drills soon in preparation for a seven-game schedule.

"We have a long row to hoe. We are starting from scratch since the kids are very, very inexperienced," says Ed.

Stan Hertel of last fall's Pontiac Central team is the only Husky with any previous varsity combat under his belt. A gritty little halfback, Stan ran well in a Saturday scrimmage. He was used mostly on defense at PCH.

Otherwise, the bulk of the Northern team will consist of members of last year's soph team, which had a 1-2-3 record, and seniors who have never played organized ball.

"We will be small with no one over 180. The backs will average about 140 and line 160," commented the head man. All positions are still wide open especially for tackles, ends and halfbacks.

Fullbacks George Graves and Larry Bland, guards Don Davis and Earl Hewitt and lineman Winfred Miracle have been among the boys who have impressed the Husky staff. Basketball teammates Bruce Norton and Steve Thompson are waging a spirited battle for the important quarterback job.

The Red and White have been operating from variations of the "T" and will get an idea of how well they are doing when they scrimmage new Flint Southwestern here Saturday.

PNH is taking on a rugged nine-game schedule right at the start with five games in the Inter-Lakes League. Hazel Park, Rochester and Grand Blanc go along with Orion to complete the slate. Home games will be at Wisner Stadium with Farmington, Southfield and Grand Blanc appearing here.

Previous plans had called for the Huskies to meet future city rival Central this fall but arrangements could not be made after PCH cancelled a game hoping to make it possible. The 1st meeting comes up in 1960.

Heikkinen, who played at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and was an assistant coach at Central, feels he has a "well-balanced" staff of assistants in Arnie Wilson, John Backman, Tony Pizza and Jack Fear.

Ed works with the backfield while Wilson and Backman concentrate on the line and the others help in the overall work. Pizza and Fear will later handle the junior varsity while helping with the varsity. Fear will also serve as football trainer and equipment manager.

Wilson has background as head coach at Millington and assistant at Central. Backman played at Marquette and later tutored Grand Ledge. Pizza was a college lineman at both Toledo and Miami of Ohio before becoming an assistant coach at 1st PCH and then St. Frederick. Fear played at Waterford and Purdue. He was on the Waterford staff a year ago.

Heikkinen and his staff refuse to make any predictions on what might happen in the 1st season but they have hopes of winning at least "two or three games" if all goes well.

First Entry in Bowlerama

The ink on the entry blanks for the 1959 Pontiac Press Bowlerama was hardly dry when the first form was turned in by Ken Craft of Clarkston, a 170 average bowler with the Waterford Merchants League.

In the next few days entry blanks will be available at most of the 40 bowling establishments in Oakland County for the third annual singles handicap tournament.

The first tournament in 1957 drew 500 entries and 60 bowlers shared the prize list. Last year almost 600 entered and 76 bowlers, which was one out of every seven entries, took home part of the prize fund.

Defending men's champion is Richard Cork of Pontiac who took first place of $475.50 by rolling a 673 total with handicap last year.

Pat Donner, runnerup in 1957, won the Women's Bowlerama title last year. Mrs. Donner of Drayton Plains made a dramatic finish last year at Huron Bowl to overtake Donna Verhey, the 1957 champion, for the $250 first prize.

Every bowler who qualified last year took home at least $7.50.

This year the men will qualify Oct. 4-11-18 and the women on Oct. 18. Finals in both divisions are Oct. 25th.

Qualifying sites for each respective date have not been assigned although the places designated for qualifying are Westside Recreation, Maple Lanes in Walled Lake and Rochester Lanes for men, and Lakewood Lanes for the women.

Alternate qualifying house is Sylvan Lanes in event entries should be in excess of anticipated number.

Men should designate on the entry blank which date they prefer to qualify. There is no designation for choice of alley.

Men who desire to qualify October 4th must submit their entries by midnight September 30th. For the other desired qualifying dates entries must be in by midnight of each preceeding Wednesday.

All bowlers of Oakland County and non-county bowlers who belong to leagues in an Oakland County establishments are eligible.

Although the guaranteed top prizes for men and women both have been increased, there has been no increase in entry fees. For men the entry fee remains at $6 and for women the fee has been cut to $5.00.

Top three guaranteed prizes for men are $500, $250 and $125 and for women $300, $150 and $100.

Skier Clears 103 Feet

JACKSON (AP)—A water skier from Virginia cleared 103 feet in the men's jumping event at a tourney on Clark Lake yesterday but he placed only third.

Bob Noble of Triangle, Va., made the leap in the fourth annual water ski derby of the Jackson Citizen-Patriot.

Noble, performing with 160 others before 5,000 spectators, placed third on points in the men's jumping. Ray Fullerton of Whitmore Lake was first and Tom Geiger of Devils Lake second. Fullerton had 223.5 points, Geiger 222 and Noble 220.

The day's best other jump was 92 feet.

Bill Bilbie of Whitmore Lake won the men's slalom in a ski-off after 10 competitors had tied for first with perfect scores. Phil Willis of Wolf Lake was second and Ed Coblentz of Fort Wayne, Ind., third.

Betty Comisky of Whitmore Lake won the women's slalom.

In the veterans slalom, Bud Warren of Wolf Lake, Walt Neuron of Columbus, Ohio, and Henry Holmes of West Palm Beach, Fla., tied for first with perfect scores.

Paul Boal of Cass Lake won the veterans jump. His best jeap was 78 feet. Dave Finkel and Linda Levitt of Columbus won the mixed doubles.

Rathmann Hospitalized

CARPENTERSVILLE, Ill. (AP) —Jim Rathmann, former Indianapolis 500-mile winner, was hospitalized for observation last night after his sports car overturned more than 10 times during a race Sunday.

The Miami driver was listed in fair condition in a nearby Elgin Hospital after X-rays indicated he suffered a minor concussion.

Jimmy Dykes Expected to Sign Again for '60

DETROIT (AP)—General Manager Rick Ferrell said today he will select the Detroit Tigers' 1960 manager when the club returns home from its current road trip.

Chances are it will be Jimmie Dykes, who has led the Tigers to a 67-52 mark since he took over for Bill Norman on May 3.

"I don't want to look ahead to 1960 too soon," said Ferrell, who brought Dykes here from the Pittsburgh Pirates' coaching lines after dismissing Norman.

The Tigers were 2-15 under Norman, currently are two games over the .500 mark with a good chance to finish third.

"Dykes has done a tremendous job," said Ferrell. "He was a little rusty on the American League when he came here. He knew little of his own ball club. But he learned quickly and I'm well pleased with the job he has done."

Dykes, who will be 63 in November, had made it plain he would like to return here in 1960 for a full season's shot.

The club has played at a .563 percentage for Dykes, and that is better than any Tiger club has done since Red Rolfe nearly won the pennant with the 1950 team.

The Tigers will return home in two weeks. Ferrell said the decision to fire, or rehire Dykes is his alone. Ferrell siad he has not made up his mind about 1960, but added quickly that he has not discussed the job with anyone else who might qualify as a candidate.

"I don't think it's good to make any kind of an announcement at this time — no matter what the club or the situation," said Ferrell. "I just don't believe in doing things that way. Anyway, the Tigers are doing well now and it's our responsibility to concentrate as much as we can on what is left of 1959."

Bill Stead Sets Mark for Unlimited Hydros in Buffalo Race

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Maverick, W. T. Waggoner's red and gold hydroplane from Phoenix, Ariz., won the Buffalo Launch Club's 1959 International Sweepstakes Trophy Sunday and set a course record for unlimited hydroplanes.

Maverick, with Bill Stead of Reno, Nev., at the controls, sped around the 15-mile, three-lap Niagara River course in 8:45.4 in the semifinal heat.

The boat's average speed of 102.778 m.p.h. broke the old record of 97.879 for 15 miles, set last year by Miss Bardahl of Seattle.

The Arizona boat took first-place honors on the basis of two firsts and a second in the competition. The performance was worth 1,100 points.

Maverick, with four victories in its last five outings ran its national point total to 2,075.

Willard E. Rhodes' Miss Thriftway, the Seattle boat with Bill Muncey at the wheel, held the runner-up spot in the point standings with 1,300 total on a third-place finish.

HE'S SMILING NOW — Coach Sid Abel of the Detroit Red Wings was smiling this morning when he welcomed his skaters to the opening of fall training camp on Olympia Stadium ice. Will he be smiling like this after the Wings begin their 1959-60 National Hockey League schedule? They finished in the cellar last season. Their home opener is Oct. 11 with the New York Rangers.

"Don't print them blankety blank series tickets too soon," a Cleveland coach warned the White Sox yesterday after the Tribe had won its 2nd straight over Chicago and cut the difference between the clubs to 4½ games. "We could be only 2½ behind by tonight," said manager Joe Gordon today while waiting for Detroit to move in.

An official of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Assn. and U. S. Tennis Committee for the Pan-Am Games has defended net ace Althea Gibson, who has been under fire from the Pan-American Congress for hinting she might turn pro. "Althea never requested to play, she was invited," said George Barnes today.

Leslie Williams, well known in Detroit bowling circles, has assumed the duties of manager at Montcalm Centre, it is announced by proprietor Stan Mayes.

The Tigers need only seven home runs in their 18 remaining games to break the club record of 150 set in 1937. They are already 90,410 over their 1958 attendance mark with five home dates left.

Frank Lary learned there is no short-cut to winning 20 games yesterday. He requested a chance to face Kansas City rather than the rough Indians today in hopes of gaining No. 18 but was blasted out in the 5th inning. Frank has about four chances left. Jim Proctor joins the club today becoming the 1st Negro hurler ever to wear a Detroit uniform.

Press 'Big Fish Derby' Ends Today

At midnight tonight "curfew will ring" for Oakland County anglers trying for one of the $50 awards awaiting winners of the triple-pronged Pontiac Press "Big Fish Derby."

The 1959 angling contest for the biggest black bass, biggest bluegill and biggest northern pike, latest of a score or more annual piscatorial tournaments for area fishermen, is still wide open.

some smart—and lucky—Oak-Before the midnight deadline land County devotee of the rod and reel could tie into a husky finny scrapper big enough to take the lead away from the present top entries, all of whom have held on for several weeks.

Oakland County's fishing waters are among the best in the state and each summer some of Michigan's huskiest fish have come from them.

Leaders on this final day of reckoning include:

Arden Beckett of Ortonville, whose 6-pound largemouth bronzeback was by several ounces the contest's heaviest. It was 21⅛ inches long and was captured on Lake Louise. Only one other bass, heavier than Beckett's entry was reported in the area this summer. It was a near-seven-pounder taken by a Tennessee visitor.

The 9¼-pound leading pike was landed on Schoolhouse Lake by Winfred Baker, of Pontiac. It was 30 or more inches long and put up a real battle.

There were several bluegill entries that topped the 1958 winner in this division. But the one-pound-4-ounce specimen taken by Pontiac's Howard Gordon is the current leader. It was landed on Round Lake.

Winners will be announced Wednesday, on The Press outdoors page. A $50 Savings bond will be awarded each winner.

Pair of Aces —One on Fly

Two holes-in-one were scored on Oakland County courses during the weekend, one dropping in the cup on the fly.

Ellis J. Premo performed the "on the fly" stunt Sunday with a 5-iron shot on the 168-yard 5th hole at Edgewood Country Club. He fired 80 for the round.

Nilo A. Boff posted the other ace, a wedge shot on the 120-yard 17th hole at Sylvan Glen. He carded 94. It was Sylvan's 6th ace this year.

Browns, Bears, Cards and Giants Grid Victors

By The Associated Press

Jarrin' Jimmy Brown, who set a National Football League record of 1,527 yards gained in one season, is up to his old antics.

Contained while Cleveland dropped three successive exhibitions, Brown found his script Saturday and scored two touchdowns as the Browns won their first preseason game by edging Los Angeles 27-24.

Pounding up the middle and sweeping the flanks, Brown rolled up 179 of the 244 yards the Browns gained on the ground. The former Syracuse All-America averaged 8.1 yards a carry for 22 tries at the Ram defense.

In other games, the undefeated Chicago Bears rolled to their fourth victory, thumping Washington 52-14; New York's touted defense chalked up its second straight shutout as the Giants defeated Green Bay 14-0, and Chicago's Cardinals whipped San Francisco 27-24.

Brown scored on runs of 30 and three yards as Cleveland moved to a 17-7 halftime lead. Despite his efforts, the Browns needed a Lou Groza field goal in the final period to insure the triumph. Quarterback Billy Wade hit Del Shofner on TD passes of 18 and 25 yards and rolled up 400 yards in the air for Los Angeles.

Rick Casares trigged the Bears in their awesome display of offensive power, scoring three times as the Chicagoans kept pace with Baltimore's defending NFL champs as the only undefeated clubs in the league. Ed Brown heaved three TD passes, a pair to rookie end Willard Dewveall. Eddie LeBaron accounted for Washington's points with two scoring aerials.

Alex Webster scored twice from inside the 3-yard line as the Giants evened their record at 2-2 by stifling the Green Bay offense. Quarterback George Shaw engineered both Giant scoring drives and was particularly effective on passes to halfback Frank Gifford.

The Cardinals raised their record to 4-1, tops among Eastern Division teams, as Bobby Joe Conrad's 17-yard field goal with 7½ minutes left beat the 49ers. Conrad accounted for 15 Chicago points, collecting another three-pointer, scoring on a 12-yard run and kicking three extra points.

Foreign Netters Show Strength

Olmedo-MacKay Score 2nd Round Victories in Nationals

NEW YORK (AP) — Never before in the history of the National Championships — and this is the 79th edition—have foreigners won both the men's and women's titles.

It could happen this year, though.

This year, the only U.S. men who appear capable of coming through Alex Olmedo and former University of Michigan star Barry MacKay, who is seeded third.

Both won their second round matches with no trouble yesterday. Olmedo polished off Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., 7-5, 6-8, 6-4, 6-2, and MacKay battered ancient Gardnes Mulloy of Miami, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

Olmedo is top-seeded, but only because he won the Wimbledon championship. Neale Fraser No. 2 seeded but the favorite off his Davis Cup showing, cut down Mike Green of Miami Beach, Fla., 8-6 6-4, 6-1, while Rod Laver, another Aussie seeded No. 4, had no trouble getting past Frank Froehling 3rd, 6-4, 6-0, 6-2.

Detroit Opens Training Camp on Olympia Ice

New Faces Dot Roster as Redshirts Rebuild for New NHL Season

There was a lot of uncertainties when the Detroit Red Wings began their annual fall training camp this morning at Olympia Stadium in Detroit.

But general manager Jack Adams and coach Sid Abel were sure of one thing about their redshirted charges — they can't finish any lower in the standings in the 1959-60 campaign than they did last season.

When the regular 70-game schedule ended last March, the Detroiters were in last place—a mighty dead last — as they missed the Stanley Cup playoffs for the first time since 1935.

With the exception of Gordie Howe, a big leaguer in every respect, the Red Wings were strictly an also-ran outfit during the 1958-59 slate and Adams and Abel have made it known that there are many jobs up for grabs.

A few new faces dot the rebuilt Red Wing roster, some acquired in trades with rival National League clubs and others recalled from farm teams for another crack at the big time.

Among the newcomers bidding for regular jobs will be Gary Aldcorn and Barry Cullen, both acquired from the Toronto Maple Leafs, and "problem child" Real Chevrefils, who dons a Detroit uniform for the 2nd time after previous failures with the Wings and Boston Bruins.

The leading farm prospects include Stuart McNeill and Jerry Melnyk, who enjoyed good point-scoring seasons at Edmonton, and Cummy Burton, back for another trial with the Redshirts after a productive year at Seattle.

A porous defense, which wrecked many a Detroit effort last season, has been strengthened—so Adams and Abel hope—by the addition of veteran Jim Morrison in a trade with the Bruins.

This may be the last chance for Chevrefils to stick in the NHL. Always considered a solid hockey player with good scoring ability, Chevrefils has seldom lived up to his potential and he frequently ignores training rules, a huge factor in his earlier failures.

A total of 74 players—42 professionals and 32 amateurs—took the ice this morning at Olympia at 9 o'clock. Detroit again is the 1st NHL club to begin training for the coming season.

Actual workouts start tomorrow and the camp will run through Sept. 21 when the Red Wings and their Edmonton farm club go on a 10-day, 9-game tour around western Canada. A skating session was planned today. Detroit's home opener is Sunday, Oct. 11, against the New York Rangers.

Spectators are welcome to view the workouts. Donations of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children under 16 will be given to the United Foundation Torch Drive charities.

It's Hard to Tell Who Really Wants NL Flag

By The Associated Press

The team that will eventually capture the National League pennant could be the "cheesiest" champion in the modern major league history.

That goes for the Giants, Dodgers, Braves or Pirates.

At present, it doesn't look like any of these four contenders really want it. Just look how each fared in the last two weeks.

San Francisco has lost eight of 13 and still leads the rest by three games.

Los Angeles has lost eight of 13, too, and is in second place, a half game in front of the Braves.

Milwaukee has lost seven of 12 and is in third place, two lengths ahead of the Pirates.

Pittsburgh has won six of 11 but has dropped four of its last five and trails the Giants by 5½ games.

All but the Braves lost yesterday. Milwaukee defeated Cincinnati 6-2 but St. Louis shut out San Francisco 1-0, Philadelphia shaded Pittsburgh 2-1 and Chicago swept a doubleheader from Los Angeles 3-0 and 5-3.

The Giants' won-lost record is 76-60. Should they continue at their present pace, they will wind up with 86-68 for a .558 percentage. The lowest percentage for a champion is .578, posted by the two St. Louis clubs. The champion Cardinals of 1926 won 89 and lost 65, the same record achieved by the Browns when they won the American League flag in 1944.

Larry Jackson spaced five Giant singles as he chalked up his 13th victory. Young Mike McCormick was almost as good. The Giant southpaw allowed only four hits and St. Louis' only run was unearned. It came in the eighth. Don Blasingame singled and raced to third when left-fielder Orlando Cepeda's return rolled into the Giant dugout. Alex Grammas' squeeze bunt scored Blasingame with the only run of the game.

A pair of three-run homers accounted for the Dodgers' double loss. Ernie Banks walloped his 39th homer, with two aboard in the 10th inning of the opener to break up a scoreless duel between the Cubs' Art Ceccarelli and the Dodgers' Sandy Koufax. Walt Moryn cracked a homer with two mates aboard in the ninth inning of the nightcap to enable the Cubs to overcome a 3-2 deficit. Don Drysdale, who had bailed out starter Larry Sherry in the eighth when Banks socked his 40th homer, was the victim of Moryn's blow. It was Don's 12th loss, sixth in a row.

Koufax established a major league strikeout record for three consecutive games. He fanned 10 to boost his three-game total to 41, three more than the former record held by Walter Johnson and Bob Feller.

Juan Pizarro hurled a seven-hitter and drove in two Milwaukee runs as the Braves closed to within a half game of the Dodgers. Ray Boone hit his first National League homer for the Braves. Jim O'Toole was the Reds' loser.

Robin Roberts outpitched Vern Law of Pittsburgh and scored the winning run as the Phillies broke through for two tallies in the eighth to overcome a 1-0 Pirate lead. Carl Sawatski started the rally with a single. Roberts, who won his 13th, also singled. When outfielder Roberto Clemente allowed the ball to go through his legs, Sawatski scored and Roberts raced to third. Joe Koppe singled home Roberts.

5 Ex-PCC Schools Begin Operations

No Favorites for New West Coast Loop

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Football's newest major conference, the Far West Five, numbering four California schools and the University of Washington, opens operations this fall with no firmly established favorite.

With the demise of the Pacific Coast Conference, the new group came into being last July 1 and numbers California, UCLA, Southern California and Stanford in addition to the Huskies up north.

USC, with a veteran powerhouse line averaging 215 pounds and a speedy backfield, might rate a slight edge in pre-season prognostications. But both UCLA and California, each with a solid nucleus of lettermen, appear strong.

Coach Jim Ownes at Washington lost only five men off his first two teams of 1958. With quarterback Bob Hivner to engineer the offensive, the Huskies should prove tougher. At Sanford, Coach Jack Curtice continues rebuilding and faces the unenviable task of replacing his guards and tackles, two deep.

California won the 1958 PCC crown with quarterback Joe Kapp and right halfback Jack Hart winning all-West Coast recognition. Both have graduated, so Coach Pete Elliott has his problems. He hopes Wayne Crow, a left halfback last season, can take over at quarterback with letterman Steve Bates at right half. Sophomore Bob Wills, a speedster from Michigan, could win the latter spot. Up front, California has an all-veteran bunch returning.

Coach Don Clark at USC possesses a line with such big performers as Mike and Marlin McKeever, a pair of 215-pound twins; 235-pound tackle Dan Fleck; and George Van Vliet, a 195-pound end. The backfield has Willie Wood back at quarterback, speedster Angelo Coia and fullback Clark Holden among others.

Juniors Kurt Gegner and Bill Kinnune, a pair of 210-pounders at tackles, guard Chick Allen and center Roy McKasson probably will anchor the Washington line. Back this season is Don Millich, an outstanding back in 1957 who was out last year.

Standford comes up with another of its outstanding quarterbacks with Dick Norman and veteran backs including Rick McMillen and Dick Bowers. But the squad lacks experienced depth at guard and tackle.

This year the west's Rose Bowl nominee will be chosen from among the teams of the defunct PCC including Oregon, Oregon State and Washington State. Starting in 1961, the western team will be from the Far West Five.

Pontiac Teams Are Sidelined

Knights, Griff's Grill Eliminated in Michigan Baseball Tourneys

It's all over for Pontiac baseball teams in state amateur tournaments. Both the Knights of Columbus and Griff's Grill were eliminated Saturday in the double elimination playoffs.

Host Battle Creek knocked out the Knights, 8-0, in the state Class A event after Jackson had saddled them with their 1st loss last Friday. The Grill team absorbed back-to-back defeats at the hands of Detroit Roostertail, 14-0, and Detroit Everseven, 7-2, in the Class B competition.

The Knights made only five hits, all singles, and left nine runners on base as they were shut out at Battle Creek's Bailey Park. Don Piemann was the starting and losing hurler. Larry Demrick relieved Piemann in the 7th inning when the winners tallied five runs.

Griff's lost a tough 11-inning decision to Everseven after taking a bad thumping from Roostertail.

Larry Cates pitched 10 strong innings before giving way to Terry Zellhart with the score tied at 2-2. Everseven jumped on Zellhart for five runs in the top of the 7th to tag him with the defeat and Bob Garrett had to put out the fire. Denny Evans made two hits for the Grill.

Garrett was the starter and loser in the Roostertail massacre with Dave Conway and Zellhart working in relief. Bruce Johnson picked up two of Griff's four hits. The Grillers beat Ecorse-River Rouge last Friday in their tournament opener.

Defending champion Wyandotte and Kalamazoo clash at Battle Creek today for the Class A tourney crown.

1st Major Win in 3 Years for Cornelius

ROCKTON, Ill. (AP) — After waiting three years for another major triumph, Kathy Cornelius of Lake Worth, Fla., captured the Cosmopolitan women's open golf tournament yesterday with 214 for 54 holes.

In her first such victory since winning the National Open in 1956, she fired a 2-under-par 70 after being four strokes off the pace going into the final round on the Macktown Forest Preserve course. She collected $997.

Tartars Report Tuesday

Wayne State Opens Drills

DETROIT — Wayne State University will call its 1959 football candidates into camp Tuesday morning at Tartar Field.

Hard work will start Wednesday, following an initial day of gear issue, physical examinations and picture taking. The Tartars will hold two-a-day practice sessions until classes begin on Sept. 21.

Between 50 and 60 gridders, 15 of them lettermen, are expected to report to Coach Herb Smith. The WSU mentor, now in his sixth season as head coach, had anticipated a squad of around 70, but eligibility took its toll and several others indicated that they did not plan to play this fall.

Smith's biggest problem will be to find a replacement for quarterback Mike Soluk. The former Detroit Chadsey gridder recently was declared ineligible because of a scholastic deficiency.

The three other men from last season's starting backfield will also be missing. Jim MacMillan, All-Presidents' Athletic Conference halfback, fullback Hartford Smith, and righthalf Don Pentecost are gone.

HAPPY ANGLERS — The two smiling youngsters above had, only a short time before the picture was made, collaborated in landing the sleek, fat rainbow trout they are holding up for inspection. At left is Bobby Decanter, 14, of Bloomfield Township, who caught the 4-pound, 19-inch trout on a nightcrawler. Jerry Carp, of 12-Mile and Greenfield was with Bobby. Catch was made on Square Lake, off Bill Periard's boat livery.

Tito Francona Gets Key Hit in 2-1 Victory

Rally in 9th Inning Moves Indians to 4½ Games of Leaders

By The Associated Press

The statistics show it is virtually impossible for Tito Francona to win the American League batting title.

The standings show the team has about the same chance of overtaking Chicago for the pennant.

It would be a miracle but miracles have happened before in baseball.

Thanks to Francona and Vic Power, Woodie Held and Jim Grant, the Indians are still breathing today although they are still 4½ games behind the White Sox with only 20 games to play. This quartet was responsible for Cleveland's 2-1 triumph yesterday, it's second straight one-run decision over Chicago. Had the Indians lost those two they would have dropped 8½ lengths behind and certain of extinction.

Blanked by Dick Donovan through eight innings, Cleveland rallied for two runs in the top of the ninth to snatch the game out of the fire. Power drove in both runs with a two-base hit but it was Francona, who ignited the winning thrust with a one-out single, his third of the game. After Rocky Colavito became the second out, Held kept the rally alive with a single, setting up Power's game-winning blow.

Detroit took undisputed possession of third place, nipping Kansas City 7-6. Baltimore dropped New York into fourth place, beating the Yankees 5-4 and Boston edged out Washington 2-1.

The Cleveland victory went to Grant, the first of his career over the White Sox. He had lost eight straight to the league leaders, six last season and two this year.

It was the second straight day that Francona had combed White Sox pitching for three hits for a .500 (21 for 42) average against the league-leaders. His overall batting mark is .385, thirty points higher than Harvey Kuenn, the nominal league batting leader.

Yet Francona is almost certain not to win the bating title. Under the rules, a man must come to bat a totial of 477 times to be eligible. Including 23 walks, one hit batter and nine sacrifices, Tito has batted 368 times. Even if he were to bat five times each in Cleveland's remaining 20 games —highly unlikely—he'll still be nine at-bats shy of the required figure.

Gene Woodling drove in three runs against his former mates with a home run and bases-loaded single as the Orioles moved to within a game and a half of the Yankees and the first division. Tom Brewer hurled a five-hitter and socked a home run to win a pitching duel from Washington's Pete Ramos.

GRIDDER DIES — Charles (Sunny) Lohr, 19-year-old sophomore center at the University of Maryland died yesterday as the result of heat exhaustion. He collapsed after last Wednesday's scrimmage and was taken to University hospital with a temperature of 108 degrees. He was from Bladensburg, Md. He was the first college fatality of the current season.

Comiskey Park Sideshow

'Indian' Whoops It Up With Flag, 'Sox' Scalp

CHICAGO (AP)—A man in full Indian regalia jumped onto the Comiskey Park Field Sunday delaying the Cleveland - Chicago White Sox game for five minutes.

The fan, garbed in feathered head-dress and complete chieftain apparel, circled the field on the run waving his arms at the laughing crowd in the stands. In one hand he carried a Cleveland Indian pennant and in the other an object resembling a scalp.

He jumped over the short wall down third base line at the start of the fifth inning. All the players stood and watched his antics except Sox pitcher Dick Donovan, who left the mound and sat in the dugout.

Police didn't bother to eject the fan. Sox President Bill Veeck, in the press box at the time, assured Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane, sitting next to him, that it was not a staged act and ordered the fan thrown out of the park.

Lane quipped: "Let the guy alone. He may be the only Indian I'll see circling the bases."

Publinx Loop Titles Settled

Sunnybrook and Bob-O-Link won divisional titles Sunday in the Michigaan Publinx Golf League. Sunnybrook wrapped up the White Division crown with a 14-8 conquest of Sylvan Glen while Bob-O-Link took Red Division honors by defeating Brae Burn 17-5.

John Kurach shot 72 and Dick Preston 73 to pace Sunnybrook's victory. Mike Andonian and Veikko Juhola each fired 73 for Sylvan. Ray Cane and Walt Nossal both carded 71s to feature the Bob-O-Link win.

Dick DeWitt posted 73 to lead Bald Mountain to a 13-9 triumph over Morey's team while Doug Wilson shot a blazing 66, yesterday's best score, to highlight Idyl Wyld's 20½-1½ rout of Glenhurst. Rochester and River Bank were idle yesterday.

Lions Loaded With Pass Receivers

The Detroit Lions have an abundance of receivers and backs, so head coach George Wilson is talking trade with several other National Football League clubs.

The current roster lists seven receivers — Steve Junker, Dave Middleton, Jim Doran, Jerry Reichow, Jim Gibbons, Hopalong Cassady and Perry Richards.

The running backs are John Henry Johnson, rookie Nick Pietrosante, Gene Gedman, Danny Lewis, Ken Webb, and of course Cassady.

Wilson says he probably cannot keep all of these players as he seeks to trim his roster to the required 35 players.

Some of the receivers are listed as ends — like Doran, Gibbons, Junker and Richards. Others are flankers or slot backs. This group includes Cassady, Reichow and Middleton.

The National Football League opener is just three weeks away and the experimenting at the Lions' camp is nearly over. Wilson and his aide pretty well know by now what rookies are going to make the grade.

Wilson insists that a couple of veterans still are on the doubtful list. This group likely includes Gedman, who will be effective as a runner only if his knee has responded well to surgery. Up to now, Gedman has given the knee only one minor test.

Richards' status is even more clouded. The Lions certainly cannot keep all their receivers, and have the team balance Wilson hopes to achieve.

The early showing of youngsters like Ben Paolucci, Jim Steffen, Mike Rabold, Dick Guesman, Bob Grottkau and Jim Wagstaff has produced a touch-and-go situation at several spots.

Wilson is satisfied that the Lions have a good rookie crop, despite the fact that the third and fourth draft choices—linemen Ron Koes and back Art Brandriff—failed to survive the early squad cuts. Pietrosante, the first draft choice, is a cinch for the club and his presence may give the Detroit team its most powerful running in several years.

Wilson has juggled the offense so that in spots, both of his fullbacks—Johnson and Pietrosante—can be in the same backfield.

The club's third draft selection, tackle Ron Luciano of Syracuse, may not see action at all this year. He was injured in the college All-Star camp and has been taking light drills with the Lions. If he does not play this year, his salary and expenses would be paid by the All-Star group.

There is no doubt that the Lions feel he is a good enough lineman to keep around—just as they kept Paolucci around last year. Paolucci is the former Wayne State lineman and state college all-star who couldn't make the Lions' club last year. His bid this year is much stronger.

Dow, Goalby Share Lead

Last Round Today at KC

KANSAS CITY (AP)—At least three of the more successful pros on the golf tournament trail believe in the old adage that practice makes perfect.

Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., and Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla., who start today's final round in the $20,000 Kansas City Open as co-leaders at 206, found time after yesterday's third round to practice more than an hour just hitting the ball off a tee.

Finsterwald, who shot a third round 69, and Goalby, with a 71, were joined by Jim Ferree, another of the golfing stable from Crystal River, in the practice session. Ferree played his third round in four-under-par 68 for a total of 207. That put him in a tie with Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., for the runner-up spot at the start of the final round.

On the money side and also proof of durability, Finsterwald has won about $26,000 in 24 tournaments this year, Goalby about $18,500 and Ferree in the neighborhood of $13,000.

There were no major casualties yesterday on the wind-swept 6,542-yard, par 72 Blue Hills Country Club course, although Tommy Bolt didn't get along very well in his try for the Ryder Cup team. Tommy, who has to win this tournament to qualify for the team, shot an even par 72 that left him four strokes off the pace at 210.

Shooter Paced Yanks in Pan-Am Romp

CHICAGO (AP)—A guy named Puckel today stole the Pan-American show from the brilliant swimmer Chris von Saltza and the crushing United States team as the third Western Hemispheric games closed a 12-day run.

Puckel—first lieutenant Daniel Puckel of Marion, Ind.—wound up with 11 medals—nine gold and two silver—in rifle shooting much to the surprise of everyone but the shooters.

This fantastic collection of prizes was the major topic of conversation in Pan-American circles—even more so than the 15-year old Miss von Saltza's unprecedented sweep of five Pan-Am swimming gold medals and the Yankee giants' harvest of 120 gold medals, 72 silver, and 52 bronze. The other nations collectively won 43 gold edals, 89 silver and 107 bronze.

Today the sports carnival ends with an equestrian show climaxed by the prix des nations, and the impressive closing ceremonies in Soldier Field.

Miss von Saltza, a tall, 15 year-old blonde from Saratoga, Calif., yesterday completed her expected five-gold medal sweep by capturing the 400-meter freestyle in the Games' record time of 4:55.9 and leading a quartet to a world record time of 4:44.6 in the 400-meter medley relay. Her other gold medals were garnered in the 100 and 200 meter freestyles and the 400-meter freestyle relay.

But Chris, it turned out in all of the confusion was just a piker compared to Puckel, a farmer's son who began shooting at tin cans when he was 11.

The U. of Tennessee graduate climaxed a double-barrelled exhibition—in medal winning and shooting—by breaking three world records in the 300-meter free rifle event. He won five gold medals for this.

Every Pan - American swim mark was broken and rebroken, eight American records were splintered and Nancy Ramey of Mercer Island, Wash., broke her own listed world mark with a time of 1:09.1 for the 100-meter butterfly in the finals. She lost in the finals, however, to Becky Collins of Ohio.

In track and field, the U.S. men won 18 of 22 events. They took care of 15 of the 17 Pan-Am marks that were broken. The women track and fielders captured eight of ten firsts and figured in five of the seven eclipsed Pan-Am standards. Sprinter Ray Norton of San Jose State won three medals for sprinting (100, 200 and relay) and tied the world mark of 20.6 seconds for the 200 meter dash around a curve.

Lucinda Williams of Tennessee State completed a triple gold medal harvest in the women's sprints for the 100, 200 and relay.

In rowing the U.S. swept six of the seven championships yesterday. Previously the Yanks had captured all eight wrestling titles and four of ten boxing championships.

Oscoda Canoers Win Marathon

OSCODA (AP)—A pair of strong armed paddlers from Oscoda had to drag their canoe home to win the 13th annual Michigan canoe marathon this weekend.

Winners were Jerry Wagner, 29, and Ralph Sawyer, 22, both of Oscoda. Their time was 17 hours, 4 minutes for the gruelling 240-mile down river course.

Both blamed low water and said if they didn't have to drag the canoe across sand bars, they could have set a record.

They split $1,200 for the first place finish.

Other places in the first five: 2. Gary Kolonich, East Tawas, and Ed Wojohn, Tawas City; 3. Sam McGuire, Mikado, and Ervin McGuire, Mikado; 4. Al Widing, Holly, and Le Roy Widing, Holly; 5. Dick Wright, Whittemore, and Nelson Jacalke, Dimondale.

Towns Bypassed by Highways Survive

(The great federal highway building program is underscoring a problem that has many merchants and city fathers worried: What happens to small and middle-sized communities when the grand new highway passes them by? Does it mean economic stagnation? A detailed study of some typical instances in Michigan holds out a measure of reassurance.)

By A. F. MAHAN JR.

MASON (AP)—If the main highways haven't bypassed your town too, chances are they will soon.

All states are sharing in the 37 billion dollars earmarked for rebuilding the nation's interstate highway system. The law says these roads must bypass all towns, or have limited access in those through which they run.

What effect will the bypass have?

That question has scared a lot of people, especially those running motels, restaurants and gas stations along the old routes. It also has scared main street where the highway used to run.

On the other hand, bypasses have made a lot of people happy—those who want to get somewhere in a hurry, those who have lost the rumbling traffic from their street and those with suddenly valuable land around the super highway interchanges.

Among the happy ones is Nelson Brown, editor of the Ingham County News, whose town of Mason (pop. 3-514) has been bypassed for four years.

Admittedly he's "a little prejudiced, because U. S. 127 used to come right by my front door and I had trouble keeping plaster from shaking off the walls."

"But," Brown adds, "we haven't lost a single gas station and we've got more restaurants than when we weren't bypassed. I haven't heard one single complaint since it happened although there were a good many fears beforehand.

"Most of our auto dealers were along old U. S. 127. I guess they thought that was a good place to be. But since the highway moved I'm sure they're convinced they didn't sell any cars to folks just driving through.

"Our particular section, here to Lansing (13 miles north), wasn't limited access, like the new interstate highways, when it was built. One grocer moved out there and he says he does more business now in a day than he did in a week back in town. But it was a case of getting to him. He's got parking and acreage now that he didn't have. A couple of restaurants and a new gas station were built out there. But we've still got what we had and they seem to be doing all right."

Morse's Restaurant in downtown Mason confirmed Brown's assessment. The report there was that generally travelers would rather stop in a small town to eat than get tied up in a big one. A competing restaurant lost some truckers when the highway shifted, but it's still in business.

South of Mason, U. S. 127 becomes a strictly limited access highway with so-called frontage roads paralleling it between overpasses or major connecting roads. This will be the pattern for the entire interstate system.

Alfred Wardowski operates Blossom Orchards between Mason and Leslie. His roadside apple stand fronted right on the highway. Now it has been bypassed and he's back on a frontage road, 1000 feet from one entrance and three-quarters of a mile from another. Wardowski used to sell half of his 20,000-bushel apple crop to drive-in trade. He still does.

The superhighway has made the big towns of Jackson and Lansing much closer in time, and Wardowski says his customers don't have to risk life and limb in turning into and out of his stand any more. Then there's another thing about his trade today—98 per cent of those who stop buy something. He used to figure at least a third were just window shoppers attracted by the other stopped cars.

Leslie, a town of 1,543 population down the road from Mason, is completely bypassed by the new U. S. 127. But most everybody downtown seems happy "we don't have the truck plague any more."

Business is off in some spots but most of the merchants appear philosophical about it.

Leonard Robinson estimates his drug store did 7 to 8 per cent less business last year than in 1957. But he quickly points out factors other than the bypass could be responsible. For instance, 1958 was a recession year in Michigan while in 1957 Leslie was headquarters for the highway construction crews building the bypass.

"The one place where it is obvious," Robinson said, "is in my sales of camera film and picnic supplies. I used to sell worlds of film. I don't any more and I don't remember selling any suntan lotion at all last year."

Two gas stations in Leslie report their gasoline sales down quite a bit. But they have picked up a downtown competitor since the bypass was built and their gross business isn't off much.

One operator said he finds more time for grease jobs and oil changes for Leslie folks so he can keep them happier and coming back.

Russell Eckert, a Leslie restaurant owner, reported "business actually was better last year because we have kept up with the times, given them a nice place and good food and get a lot of repeat tourist business. What traffice we do get in Leslie now stops. It comes for a purpose."

Compact Cars to Test Styling Appeal

By JACK VANDERBERG
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT — The long-standing belief of the auto industry that a car must have sleek, long, low lines to appeal to the American motorist will be given its first real test during 1960.

The compact cars the auto industry will offer to the American public in a few month will have a wide variety of styling, ranging from low sleek lines of Chevrolet's rear-engine Corvair to the abrupt, high headroom styling of American Motors' Rambler.

The new "big three" compact cars will base their appeal to the public, in varying degrees, on the attraction of sleek styling.

But the Rambler and Studebaker-Packard's Lark, which got a head start in the field, hope styling built around interior roominess will continue their lead in the field.

"We have a different concept of what constitutes good styling," said AM President George Romney. "We have not permitted styling or other objectives to compromise the basic engineering of our product.

"We won't change our styling if it sacrifices comfort. We will change our styling only to improve, not to obsolete last year's model."

He said he felt styling could be modern without having long low lines.

The 1960 Rambler carries out Romney's ideas of styling. It is not drastically changed from the styling of the 1959 Rambler. However, it looks like a bigger car and feels bigger inside.

The Studebaker - Packard Lark, which surprised many with its interior roominess in its initial year, will have basically the same styling in 1960.

Both the Rambler and the Lark have modern appearances in good taste but neither of them have long or low lines.

Chevrolet's Corvair will have the lowest lines of any of the new compact cars. Its rear engine eliminated the need for a tunnel on the floor of the car to permit passage of the transmission and drive shaft from the front to the power wheels in the rear.

While elimination of the transmission tunnel gave GM engineers an opportunity to provide additional headroom in the Corvair they chose to use it largely to give the car sleeker, lower lines.

Ford's Falcon and Chrysler's Valiant, while still containing the transmission tunnel, are designed as much as possible to get long, low lines which have become traditional in styling of larger cars because of the sales appeal these lines had to buyers of the standard cars.

For years the motoring public has said it wanted more interior room in cars. But, from experience, the auto industry has learned the public doesn't always state its case precisely. The industry felt the public wanted more interior room without the sacrifice of long, low styling lines.

Engineers constantly strove to increase interior room but refused to sacrifice sleek styling in the process.

When the Ramler and the Lark were successful without the long, low lines, the industry figured it was because they had no competition in the compact car market.

In 1960, for the first time, cars aiming at the same market, will offer contrasting styling, one aimed primarily at sleek styling and the other at attractiveness built around interior roominess.

High School Diploma Aim of Singer Fabian

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It's back to school this week, and one of the most conspicuous pupils will be rock 'n' roll singer Fabian.

Fabian will be working for a diploma from South Philadelphia High School. But he'll be doing it in absentia.

The 16-year-od singing sensation is unable to attend regular classes because of various personal appearances, recording sessions, and movies which are expected to net him $250,000 this year.

But he has a desire to finish high school and possibly go on to college.

Fabian now in Hollywood filming "Hound Dog Man," is expected back home this week to clear tutoring arrangements with the Board of Education. He would be a junior this year.

Fabian will pay the tutor at the rate of $10 an hour.

Joseph J. Rossi, principal of South Philadelphia High, explained that since Fabian is 16 and regularly employed he could ask to be dropped from the school's rolls.

"But he doesn't want that," Rossi said. "Both Fabian and his parents are very anxious that he obtain a diploma from South Philadelphia High."

Until he was discovered about two years ago, Fabian had proved himself a good student.

"He was doing very well," Rossi said, "before he started missing school because of television and other appearances."

Fabian's real name is Fabian Forte. He is the son of a city policeman. He did not study music in high school.

Japan Won't Help U.N. 'Fight' Reds in Laos

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's foreign minister, Aiichiro Fujiyama, said today Japan will not take part in any miltary acton against Communist North Viet Nam, even if the U.N. decides Laos has been a victim of Red aggression.

The minister said constitutional restrictions make such a move impossible, but indicated there were could help the world body on the Laotian issue.

Japan's policy toward the Laos situation has not been clearly defined because of lack of information on the dispute, Fujiyama said in a speech to the Foreign Correspondents Club of Japan.

Ask Greater Morality, Responsibility

Religious Leaders Appeal to Labor for Aid

NEW YORK (UPI) — Religious leaders are appealing to unions and employers alike on this Labor Day to dedicate themselves to greater morality and responsibility in their activities.

The Roman Catholic Church asks for less cynicism in labor relations. The Protestants appeal for greater understanding of the need for collective bargaining. The Jews urge labor and management leadership to maintain and strengthen democratic ideals.

The social action department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference said in a statement that the biggest labor-management problems today are basically moral problems.

Msgr. George G. Higgins, director of the department, warned of the danger of over cynicism or pessimism in labor-management relations.

The plea came at a time when 500,000 steel strikers had been idle for nearly two months in a nationwide walkout and congressional investigations of alleged labor corruption were under way.

"We are confronted today with at least a minor crisis in the field of industrial relations, as witness, for example, the cynical hardening of attitudes between labor and management to which a number of expert observers have recently called attention.

"The crisis, in our opinion, will not yield to purely technical solutions. Technical improvements in the art of collective bargaining and similar improvements in the field of labor legislation are admittedly desirable and possibly even necessary.

"They will accomplish very little, however, unless the responsible leaders of labor and management at every level of authority are convinced that they have a moral responsibility to deal with one another sincerely and generously in a spirit of mutual respect for one another's rights and, equally important, with a deep sense of their joint responsibility for safeguarding and promoting the public interest.

"In other words, the only adequate solution to the crisis currently confronting us in the field of labor-management relations is a profound renewal of moral and spiritual values, which, of course, will never come to pass unless employers and workers throw themselves on the mercy of God in a spirit of humble prayer."

Rabbi Max D. Davidsoon, president of the Synagogue Council of America, the national coordinating agency for orthodox, conservative and reform Judaism, said that in the highly organized American society, the methods of organization and the needs of employers and employes are constantly changing.

"Only by long range vision by management and labor alike of both the spiritual and physical needs of the nation, the community and the individual; only by the highest standards of ethics, justice and cooperation, can the welfare of all of us be made secure," Davidson said.

"The translation of this vision into a living day-by-day reality becomes all the more urgent against the background of the present international situation. Practice of free and responsible cooperation between employers and employes in open good faith for the commonweal of our citizenry emerges as a major force for democracy.

"The leadership of both labor and management have a fundamental responsibility to assure that this achievement of American society be maintained and strengthened."

The division of Christian Life and Work of the National Council of Churches called on churches to recognize and stress the vital role of a free labor movement and the institution of collective bargaining.

"We believe that free collective bargaining is a necessity for economic freedom in an orderly society," the Protestant body said. "The alternative is for labor and management to have imposed upon them undue restrictions or even outright dictation by government.

"We as citizens, however, may justly expect both management and labor to consider and respect the rights of the vast majority of our people who are not participants in collective bargaining."

The council said it is right for church people to worry about malpractices and corruption by some labor leaders but that they must not forget there has been corruption among some managements as well.

"On this Labor Sunday it is important for our churches and their members to see not only the instances of corruption in labor but also to recognize the essential function and permanent contribution of organized labor."

Leukemia Takes Life of Actress Kay Kendall

KAY KENDALL

LONDON (AP)—Beautiful Kay Kendall who rose from a chorus line to stardom of film and stage, died Sunday at the age of 32.

The enchanting sophisticated actress never knew she suffered from leukemia — cancer of the blood — which took her life. But her husband, actor Rex Harrison, knew it when he married her two years ago.

"Darling, I love you very much," Miss Kendall told Harrison before she slipped into unconsciousness at the London Clinic.

The slender English beauty entered the hospital eight days ago. She had been in poor health for 20 months. But Harrison, star of the musical "My Fair Lady," told her up to the last that she would soon be well again.

Dr. Carl Goldman, Miss Kendall's long-time physician, said the star's malady was first diagnosed in New York four years ago.

Doctors, who knew Harrison planned to marry Miss Kendall as soon as he was divorced from his previous wife, told the actor about the illness.

"He showed her great love and affection," said Dr. Goldman. "No one could have been more wonderful than Rex was to Kay."

The doctor said Harrison was completely broken up by his wife's death. "It has been a long and difficult strain for him."

Miss Kendall was born in York, England. Her family had a theatrical history going back four generations. She began her career in the London Palladium chorus when she was 12.

Miss Kendall married Harrison in New York in 1957. It was her first marriage, his third.

New Bill Changes T-H Law, Controls Unions

By JOHN W. BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new labor bill just passed by Congress has two general divisions—measures dealing with internal union reform, and amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act.

The controversy that accompanied its passage dealt almost entirely with the Taft - Hartley amendments. The various bills proposed were in wide basic agreement on reform measures.

Here, in brief, are the broad provisions of the bill compared with the House and Senate versions out of which it was fashioned and existing provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. In the case of the reform measures there is no existing federal legislation.

HOT CARGO AGREEMENTS

Under these, an employer, usually a carrier, agrees to boycott goods coming from another employer with whom the union has a labor dispute. The Taft - Hartley law contains no ban against them.

The House banned all such agreements. The Senate banned only those involving motor carriers in interstate commerce. The final version adopts the House provision.

SECONDARY BOYCOTTS

provisions aga

The Taft-Hartley Act prevents a union from trying to persuade groups of employes to boycott goods. But loopholes have permitted a union to achieve the same result through individual workers and employers.

The Senate bill contained no provisions against secondary boycotts. The House drew up a general ban closing the loopholes. The final version contains the House provisions but permits continuance of existing agreements in the garment and construction industries against farming out work to nonunion subcontractors.

AFFIDAVITS

The Taft-Hartley Act requires non-Communist affidavits to be filed with the National Labor relations Board by union officials. The House bill repealed the section. The Senate bill extended it to employers seeking NLRB services. The final version adopts the House provision.

NO MAN'S LAND

Under present Taft-Hartley law the NLRB, as a practical matter, frequently declines to intervene in small labor disputes. Courts have held that state agencies cannot act in such cases, thus creating a no man's land in which the small labor dispute is neglected.

The House provided that state labor boards and court could assume jurisdiction in such cases and apply state law. The Senate said only state labor boards could intervene and would have to apply federal law. (Only 12 states have labor boards). The final version includes the House provision in full.

PICKETING

There is no Taft-Hartley ban at present against picketing to force an employer to recognize a union. The House bill prohibited such picketing where an election for union recognition had been held within 12 months, where another union had been recognized, or where the picketing union could not show it spoke for at least 30 per cent of the employes.

The Senate limited the ban following an election to nine months rather than 12. It also ruled out had been recognized.

The final bill includes the House provision in full.

ECONOMIC STRIKERS

Taft-Hartley law prevents workers on strike for higher wages or better working conditions from voting in representation elections. The House provided that a representation election could not be held for at least a year during a strike, but did not go into the question of voting.

The Senate bill permitted economic strikers to vote as long as they were on strike. The final version permits them to vote during a period of one year from the time the strike begins.

Those are the major Taft-Hartley changes. The finally adopted union reform measures are close to both the House and Senate versions, which differed mainly in their smaller details.

In the Bill of Rights section both House and Senate made violation of a union member's rights a federal crime. The House fixed maximum punishment at one year in jail and a $1,000 fine. The Senate made it two years in jail and a $10,000 fine. The final bill makes enforcement a matter of civil action in federal court with no criminal penalties.

Both House and Senate called on unions to make public full financial reports and to account for all financial transactions between officers and members and outside parties. The Senate bill exempted unions with fewer than 200 members from the reporting requirement, but the final bill includes the House provision that no unions are to be exempted.

The House and Senate were generally agreed on procedures under which a union could assume temporary control over a local, but the House set an 18-month limit for such trusteeships and the Senate a 12-month limit. The House 18-month limit was adopted.

In the section dealing with union elections the Senate banned ex-convicts from holding union office. The House added present or former Communists to the list and the final version includes the House provision.

The bill provides that the Taft-Hartley amendments will take effect 60 days after the President signs the bill. The union reform measures will take effect at varying times to permit unions to make the necessary adjustments.

Water Levels Changed by Yellowstone Quake

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The earthquake which shook the country around West Yellowstone, Mont., last Aug. 18 sent water levels up and down in wells as far as 3,200 miles away, according to the U. S. Interior Department.

The quake caused wells in Hawaii to rise or fall from one quarter to three quarters of an inch, the department said.

Automatic water-stage recorders operated by the department's geological survey showed increases up to 7 inches in other states, including New Jersey, Idaho and Florida.

Pompeii was buried by the eruption of Vesuvius in 79 A.D.

Big One Didn't Get Away

TOKYO (UPI)—Crewmen of the two-ton fishing boat Shoei Maru were almost sorry today about the one that didn't get away. The boat reached its home port on Shikoku Island well overdue after hooking a 528-pound Tuna that dragged it for 22 hours before finally giving up.

Fewer Children Die

The infant mortality rate in Hawaii has declined from 44 per 1,000 live births in 1940 to less than 24 per 1,000 today.

AF to Try Out Small Capsule

Wants Men's Reactions to Closet-Size Space for 48-Hour Period

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Air Force has started an experiment to find out how man might react on a two-day journey in a space capsule so small he can barely move.

The experimental capsule is broom closet size—5 feet long, 2 feet high, 2¾ feet wide.

Trial confinements started in mid-July. They will continue until 40 men have been tested at the rate of one a week.

Each of 20 volunteers will spend 48 consecutive hours in the capsule throughout a six-month period.

The 20 others will be able to spend a fair amount of free time outside the capsule during the 48-hour period.

Half the members of each group will eat a special space diet of fruit juices, meat cubes, cheese, roast beef and candies. The others will be on a conventional diet.

The experiments at Wright Air Development Center, Dayton, Ohio, were described in connection with an Air Research and Develbit at the Air Force Assn. convention which closed Sunday night.

3 Auto Accidents Injure 4 in County

Three accidents in which cars ran off the road Sunday resulted in injury to four people, according to Oakland County sheriffs deputies.

William M. Clarkson Jr., 19, of 2323 Silver Circle, Pontiac Township, driving south on Baldwin road near Gallogly road, missed a curve and overturned, said deputies.

The accident occurred in Pontiac Township at 1 a.m.

Clifford J. Goodson, 25, of 552 Meadow St., struck a tree when he ran off Bald Mountain road in Orion Township at 8:50 a.m. A passenger, Robert L. Sims, 37, of 141½ Oakland Ave. was also injured.

Clarkson, Goodson and Sims were all treated at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

Gerald D. Reynolds, 17, of 489 Going St. is listed in satisfactory condition at the hospital with facial injuries. His auto ran into a ditch at a curve on Clarkston road in Orion Township at 12:20 a.m., deputies said.

Fraternity Lifts Membership Bans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Racial and religious restrictions on membership have been removed from the by-laws and rituals of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

The removal was voted 134-37 Sunday at the fraternity's biennial meeting. Officers said it means that the fraternity's chapters at 148 colleges in the nation now can select members without regard to race or creed.

Membership had been limited to white males of Christian birth.

First Man to Enter Space Next Summer---for 5 Minutes

(There have been recent and persistent reports that the Soviet Union plans an attempt to send a man into space in September or October. Here is a report on how the U.S. man-into-space program—Project Mercury—is shaping up.

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—With the troubles they're having, the best U.S. scientists expect is that an American will spend a brief five minutes in space some time late next summer.

If all goes well, the Astronaut will be shot up in a ballistic orbit, go about 140 miles, and be parachuted down.

It won't be until the winter of 1961-62 that an American can be sent into orbit around the earth.

Even if things go right, he'll make only three circuits, then drop into the Caribbean.

In his four and a half hours circling the earth at 17,400 miles an hour, he'll study the world 100 miles below through a built-in periscope. On command, he'll practice minor satellite "maneuvers"—rock his capsule back and forth, make it face in different directions.

It won't be until well into 1962 at the earliest that an American will circle the earth a day and a night—eat, sleep, stomp around weightlessly in his tiny capsule—for 18 trips around the globe.

The reason for these far-off dates is that the space scientists have some thorny problems to solve.

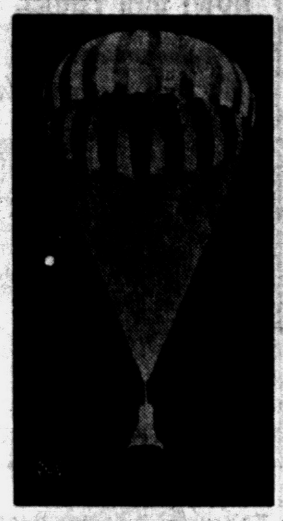
They've got to find out if their ungainly-shaped space capsules—with their squashed-out bottoms—will hold together in the terrific air shocks of missile blast-offs. The gadgets have proved sound in wind tunnels and in minor flights. But can they stand the rugged shock provided by an Atlas missile takeoff?

Space scientists have figured with paper and pencil how to keep these man-carrying high-speed capsules from burning up when they hit the earth's atmosphere. But they're not sure their ideas will work.

For one, they're going to experiment with coating the capsules with a special heavy layer designed to turn to gas when it heats—leaving the capsules and their men intact.

The third problem is making the complicated mechanisms work every time, as they must in space. Yet this man-in-space system is so complicated something is almost certain to fail.

Eventually there will be a 16-foot escape mechanism on top of a three-foot parachute tube, on top of a seven-foot man-carrying capsule, on top of a 65-foot Atlas missile.



RETURN TRIP—It will be late next summer before the Mercury capsule comes parachuting back from space with a man inside.

FASHION TREND—First astronaut will wear a variation of this Navy flight suit on his trip to space, but extensive tests remain before he dons it for lanuching.

The launch missile is fired. If it misfires the capsule and escape mechanism must automatically blast away from the missile, then separate in tow, actuating a small stablizing parachute and setting off a cargo parachute to let the man-in-capsule down gently.

If the missile works, this is what must happen automatically.

Sixty to 80 miles up, the capsule-escape mechanism separates from the missile; the escapse mechanism separates from the capsule. The man-in-capsule floats through space for its allotted period—five minutes, four and a half hours of 24 hours, while jets make it face in the right direction.

Then a jet in the capsule's bottom slows it down to re-enter the atmosphere. At 100,000 feet, a small parachute opens to keep the capsule from tumbling end over end. At 10,000 feet, the big parachute opens. Meanwhile, aluminum foil is released so the capsule can be tracked by rescue radar squadrons.

When the capsule hits the sea, chemicals are released that color the water for miles. A revolving light begins turning. Several radios broadcast homing signals that can be heard for hundreds of miles.

That's a lot to go right automatically.

The fourth major problem is finding out whether man can "take it" in space. Before any of the seven human Astronauts are allowed into space a series of carefully-nurtured, specially intelligent, alert Rhesus monkeys and chimpanzees will pave the way.

Once in space, the monkeys and chimpanzees will be ordered—by light signals—to press buzzers, do other "tasks." By TVs planted in the space capsules, ground scientists will watch the primates to see if space confuses their senses.

Solving these space problems will require a series of 20 to 30 special space and orbit launches before man, himself, circles the earth.

So with trial and error—and time—the first American will get into space. But not tomorrow.

Richmond Woman, 78, Hurt in Plane Mishap

RICHMOND (AP)—Mrs. Lena Breiholz, 78, was injured yesterday when a light plane overturned during an attempted takeoff from an abandoned auto race track here.

The pilot, Clare H. Breiholz, 55, said he applied the brakes when he thought he didn't have sufficient power to get the plane safely into the air. The four-seat Stinson Voyager turned over on its side.

His mother, Mrs. Lena Breiholz of Richmond, was treated at the scene for leg cuts, shock, bruises and back injuries.

Breiholz, who was flying his mother to Ann Arbor for the weekend, was uninjured.

Gives Concert Violinist Kreisler's Stradivarius

NEW YORK (AP) — Benno Rabinof, the concert violinist, recently was invited to dinner at a restaurant by a violin enthusiast.

After dinner he opened a violin case.

There was an exquisite instrument of red-brown, still glowing with the varnish applied by the master violin maker Antonio Stradivari. It was made in 1734.

"Why are you giving this to me?" Rabinof, in a story in the New York Times, said he asked the man. "The man said 'I want to hear it sing again. It has been silent too long.'"

The donor then made one stipulation—his name never was to be revealed.

Rabinof said the violin once was owned by Fritz Kreisler and was last played by him in Carnegie Hall more than a decade ago. In 1946 it came into the possession of Jacques Gordon, first violinist of the Gordon Quartet. Two years later Gordon died. Then it came into the possession of the man who does not want to be known.

"This violin is cut from a master's hand. When I play it, I have thrilling feelings going down my neck. My chin is on it — where Kreisler's chin was. He looked at it. I look at it," Rabinof said.

"It's like coming into a big cathedral and spiritual things are there."

Jaycee President Sees Shiny Knives for Sale

In New York City on Youth Work

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK—The national president of the "Jaycees," or Junior Chamber of Commerce, is aged 30, married, two kids, wears tortoise-rimmed specs, and has a crewcut that is only one vitalizing treatment beyond Yul Brynner.

He represents 3,700 local organizations of young men (aged 21 to 36) who are very much like him. Eager and energetic about today, anxious about tomorrow, and unworried about yesterday . . . or, as he puts it, "not beat down too many times yet."

Bob Clark came to the big city from his national Jaycee headquarters in Tulsa to help peptalk New York City into taking quick and positive action against the appalling juvenile delinquency that has killed and injured a number of teenagers. Fighting delinquency is sort of a Jaycee civic specialty.

"So the first thing I saw, when I took a stroll around the neighborhood where the last murders took place," Bob said, "was a window full of knives and guns. They had switch-blades there, all shiny and good looking if you like switch-blades, and there was a big sign: 'On Sale, 97 Cents.'"

He poked thoughtfully at the bridge of his professional spectacles. "Maybe that's the place to start, for our men. In Houston, Tex., that's what the Jaycees did. They set up a crime commission, which forced through legislation making it harder for citizens to obtain knives and guns, and the crime rate dropped fantastically.

"But then again, maybe the first way we can help in New York is to pitch in for more recreation for kids, I don't know. The delinquency problem here seems to me to be much more complex than it is other places, with the mixture of races, and the remoteness of places where teenagers can indulge in good physical activities to work off their energies.

"Like back in the Middle West, in some towns there's hardly a kid of 14 who can't drive a ball down the middle of a fairway 225 yards. In New York, there are kids who'll never see a fairway. If you'll excuse the pun, the opposite of fairway is unfair way. They've got problems they never made.

"One thing I know—helping to combat this problem is a job for everybody, but it's especially set up for young men. Like ours. The average Jaycee man is married, has two children, so obviously the delinquency problem is something in which he has the greatest interest. When you add this personal interest to the drive and ambition a guy has when he's under 36, you ought to have effectiveness."

Clark's organization, which summarily retires its members when they reach 36 (they are called "Roasted Roosters," and are resigned to approaching senility), was formed in 1920. It is nonprofit. Its aim, "to build leadership among members by providing services to the community."

There are 22 national projects the Jaycees are working on for the benefit of their communities—five of them dealing with young people's problems. But each local group has its own specific civic schemes; St. Paul, Minn., Jaycees, for instance, tackled 178 local projects last year.

The New York City chapter is, undoubtedly, the most undermanned per population capita of the 3,700 locals. For the obvious reason that "in New York City, most young men must struggle so hard against competition in their own careers that they feel they don't have time to work outside on civic activities."

The members New York does have, however, are dedicated: "The kind of guys who would rather put their foot down, than put their feet up on a divan and watch TV."

Plan to Name Missile Frigate After Halsey

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new guided missile frigate will be named in honor of the late Fleet Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey.

Navy Secretary William B. Franke said the warship was expected to be launched at the San Francisco Naval Shipyard in September 1961. It is scheduled for commissioning the latter part of 1962.

Guided missile frigates are a new class warship, designed to provide speed, endurance and other qualities required to operate with a carrier task force.

They will be armed with terrier missiles for air defense in addition to anti-submarine weapons.

Halsey led carrier task forces to victory in the Pacific during World War II. The retired admiral died in his sleep last month.

Hollywood Headlines:

Talent Scouts Searching for Monarch-Type Actor

By JOE FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Wanted, one "Theseus."

Twentieth Century-Fox has thrown its vast network of talent scouts into the search for a young unknown actor to play the role of "Theseus," youthful monarch in a multi-million-dollar production of "The King Must Die."

The Westwood studio doesn't intend to leave a stone unturned in efforts to find a performer to portray the part and Fox boss Spyros Skouras has personally taken a hand in the hunt.

Fox production chief, Maurice E. (Buddy) Adler, is heading up the task force turned loose on the world to find an unknown who'll be destined for stardom.

"We are faced with a grave dilemma in regard to this picture," Adler said fearfully. "As a novel, 'The King Must Die' attracted worldwide interest as a story of heroics, romance and action.

"Hollywood has been canvassed and searched thoroughly in our determined efforts to find a young actor who has the many attributes which the role of 'Theseus' demands."

Of course, this isn't the first time Hollywood has sought an "unknown" for a role, nor will it be the last, but Adler insists the desire for a newcomer isn't predicated on a longing for publicity.

"Remember, that this is no ordinary romantic role," Adler cautioned. "In addition to the dramatic and romantic situations with which the story abounds, 'Theseus' is called upon to perform almost astounding feats of physical bravery and skill.

"Whoever plays the role therefore must have not only an assured dramatic flair but also remarkable athletic ability and the courage to face and overcome danger.

"You can see, therefore, that it is no mere acting personality we must unearth, which is why the search has been so difficult and our efforts thus far thwarted.

"Hollywood has failed us in this instance," Buddy complained.

And, besides, a filmland "name" wouldn't approach the stature of the picture, Adler insists.

"Unquestionably, 'The King Must Die' is so epical an undertaking that the production is bound to transcend any boxoffice name we could select, just as in the case of such great spectacles as 'The Ten Commandments' or 'Around the World in Eighty Days'.

"For this reason, we feel that an unknown, given the necessary qualifications, could play the role. This would result in the creation for us of a new box-office star."

What should this young man look like, Adler asked himself.

"For one thing he should be tall and virile, with a physique suggesting one of the early Greek gods, since the story is laid in the martial days of that world-dominating empire.

"'Theseus' should be close to six feet tall, from 180 to 200 lbs., with a body exuding dynamic power, supple, hard sinued and agile enough to perform Herculean feats of skill and daring.

More than one of today's current crop of stars hit the big time in their first picture. Millie Perkins did in "Diary of Anne Frank" and she was preceded by such as Ginger Rogers, Linda Darnell, Anne Sheridan and Jean Seberg.

For Your Next Party Try a Sausage Tree

That's what we always say . . . "Eating is"—(what was that clever expression we thought up?)—"an adventure!" Like, for example, a neighbor of ours, George Lang, a big man in the restaurant business remarked to us one night recently that we should toss a sausage festival for some out-of-town visitors, providing, of course, they liked sausage.

WILSON

"Who doesn't like sausage?" we whooped. "Great idea!" We dozed off a little, as we'd had a nice dinner, and were soon dreaming of sausages.

"You could borrow my sausage tree," we next thought we heard his say—but we put it down to our dreaming.

"You hang all these exotic sausages from it," he said — and then we knew we were wide awake.

He gave us addresses of marvelous shops where we could buy Spanish, Polish, German, Chinese and even Venezuelan sausages. The Beautiful Wife and I spent three delightful hours in Yorkville, Chinatown, Second Avenue, and Amsterdam Avenue, filling up shopping bags with spicy sausages from the old country.

Finally we had a test run in our kitchen.

Tossing down sudsy beers, I enjoyed it, but I was the only one.

"What's the matter with everybody?" I roared. "Don't you like these sausages?"

"I don't like any sausages!" the B.W. said, and her mother and Slugger came in on the chorus. Just because I had learned to love sausage back in the old country (Ohio), the B.W. had gone along. I think she should be awarded the Croix de Saussage for bravery under and over the kitchen fire.

Another eating adventure I had was partaking of the French bean specialty—cassoulet.

I would walk a mile or sit a day waiting for beans. Once on the Liberte I had the cassoulet at its best—traveling through France later, I bored the B.W. countless times by stopping off to ask for a cassoulet, which seemed to be served always some other season.

We returned, not exactly without a bean, but close to it, and one night our old friend, maitre d Robert, told us we could have a cassoulet any season as long as we ordered it a day ahead.

"Tomorrow, then!" we screamed.

We were there and so were the beans. Delicious, they were. We had asked our French friends, Lilo, the Can-Can girl, and her husband, Marquis de la Passerdiere, to join us. As Frenchmen, they would enjoy this wondrous sample of French cuisine which it had taken us Americans to remind them of.

And it worked out just as we hoped.

Except that as Lilo and I were spooning out our hunks of beans (and sausages), Lilo turned to Robert and said:

"Beans! It's just like being in the Army again, isn't it?"

WISH I'D SAID THAT: The secret of economy is to live as cheaply the first few days after payday as you did the last few days before.

Those politicians who insist they aren't candidates for the presidency sound so sincere that Ike may have to serve a third term . . . That's earl, brother.

'Men of Two Worlds'

U.N. Guards Israeli-Arab 'Peace'

By ELIAV SIMON

JERUSALEM (UPI) — When the British quit Palestine in 1948, the Jews established the State of Israel in part of the territory and the Kingdom of Jordon annexed the rest.

But at the same time a third power came onto the scene—the United Nations. Although the physical area it controls extends for no more than a few hundred square yards, its authority affects both Israel and Jordon and its moral influence is perhaps greater than that of any other power in the world.

The world organization was the midwife of the 1947 decision to solve the Palestine problem by partition. When, in 1948, Jews and Arabs tested this solution by force of arms, it was the UN which stepped in to try to restore peace.

Now, 11 years later, the midwife is still on the scene, but in the guise of a guardian to watch over the uneasy armistice on the Arab-Israel borders and to see that, even if no official peace treaty has yet been signed, war does not flare into the open again.

The nerve center of the UN Truce Supervision Organization is a palatial building on the southern outskirts of Jerusalem which once was the residence of the High Commissioners in the days of the British mandate. Old traditions die hard in the Holly Land, and to this day it is still referred to as "Government House."

Sandwiched between the Israeli and Jordonian lines, the building is in neither country. The legend over the main gateway proclaims it to be the Headquarters of the United Nations Truce Supervision Organization in Palestine — probably the only spot in the whole country still officially designed as Palestine.

The headquarters staff are literally men of two worlds, and among the privileged few permitted to enter both worlds at will. One gateway out of Government House leads into Israel, the other into Jordon. The UN personnel, in white-painted jeeps bearing huge UN markings on the sides and roof, are a familiar sight in both halves of divided Jerusalem.

Altogether there are about 100 UN observers from 12 different countries, ranging from the U.S. to Ireland and from Belgium to New Zealand. But the majority of these are "in the field" and serve with the various Mixed Armistice Commissions on Israel's borders with Jordon, Lebonon, Syria and Egypt, respectively.

At Government House itself is the headquarters staff of some 10 officers, headed by UN Chief of Staff Maj. Gen. Carl von Horn, of Sweden. In addition to the UN observers, there are a number of personnel who serve in a purely administrative capacity as secretaries, drivers, telephonists, etc.

The observers serve for a two-year spell of duty, on loan from the armed forces of their own countries. They draw the same pay as they would in their own army, but an additional UN allowance of $10 a day. There is also the advantage of duty-free liquor and other goods provided by the UN commissary.

At present there are 32 UN observers attached to the Israel-Jordon Mixed Armistice Commission (referred to as MAC for short). This is based in Jerusalem and holds its meetings, attended by Israeli and Jordonian representatives, in a shell-scarred Gate border, a few miles north of Government House.

Biggest of the UN MAC staffs is on the Israel-Syrian Mixed Armistice Commission — 45 observers based in Damascus (Syria) and Tiberias (Israel). The size of the Israel-Lebanese MAC, which has only three UN observers, is indicative of the peace and quiet on this border.

The Israel-Egypt MAC has a mere seven members, but this is because its work is curtailed due to the fact that Israel decided to boycott it some years ago on the grounds that Egypt was continually violating the armistice agreement on which the MAC was based.

The 10 officers headed by Maj. Gen. von Horn who are based at Government House in Jerusalem perform all the functions of a military headquarters group. They keep in contact with the UN representatives on the Mixed Armistice Commissions and are also in close touch with the UN Secretariat in New York.

To assist them on the spot are a handful of civilian advisors and a press officer, Albert Grand, of Belgium — one of the very few men in Jerusalem who has two telephones on his desk linking him with two mutually hostile countries.

As men of peace whose job is to stop any fighting which might flare up, the UN observers are unarmed. They are familiar figures in Israel as well as in the neighboring Arab countries, but especially in Jerusalem itself, site of the Israel-Jordon MAC as well as of the UN Headquarters staff.

Today, more than 10 years after the end of the Palestine War, there is still no peace in the Holy Land and shooting may blaze up along the frontier for almost any reason—or for no reason at all. But until a proper peace is concluded between Israel and her neighbors, the UN will be around, in strength and on the spot, to put down the flames.

Williams Hits GOP in Speech

Need 'Elbow Room' in Economy, Says Governor on Labor Day

DETROIT (AP)—Gov. Williams said in a Labor Day speech today that the American economy needs "elbow room, not suffocation."

Williams, addressing Detroit's Labor Day celebration, attacked Republican economic policies. He said the GOP and President Eisenhower are overdoing the inflation threat with a tight money policy.

The Democratic Governor said Eisenhower's veto of the housing bill was an example of "his penny-wise, pound-foolish policy." He said this reflects a policy that results in stagnation instead of economic growth.

Asserting that Eisenhower needs an "imaginative policy," Williams said America should have a national administration which is "anxious to use all the tools at its disposal and to invent some new ones if it has to."

"The Republicans don't comprehend the nature of the inflation threat," Williams said. "They operate as if the inflation danger comes solely from consumers with too much spending money. The fact is that the danger comes as much from those corporations in a position to set their own prices. Republicans are unwilling to recognize this."

Williams, defending labor wage demands, proposed a permanent fact-finding bureau for Washington to publicize data on wages and costs. He alo advocated more antitrust prosecutions "as a means of eliminating the number of corporations able to administer prices."

London with a population of about nine million is by far the largest within the British empire.

Alert Guard, Residents Keep Drownings Down

Oakland County's weekend drowning toll, already higher than for any weekend this year, might have reached a higher total if it weren't for a quick thinking lifeguard and several alert Waterford Township residents.

Near tragedies were reported by Oakland County sheriff's deputies on Elizabeth and Lotus Lakes Sunday afternoon.

A Madison Heights woman, Mrs. Ada McDonald, 36, of 26523 Brenttonwood St., was swimming at Walter's Beach, on Elizabeth Lake, with her husband, Robert, 25, and relatives.

"We were all splashing around and playing near a rubber raft 20 feet from shore in about three feet of water when she fell against the raft and swallowed some water," her husband told deputies.

He carried her to shore. She has only one lung and the water intake had caused her to stop breathing, deputies reported.

A 16-year-old lifeguard, Bohdan Ukrainec, son of the owner of the beach, Walter Ukrainec, began applying artificial respiration.

"It didn't work," he explained later, "because she had only one lung."

The teenager then turned her over and immediately began applying mouth-to-mouth breathing until the Waterford Township Fire Department arrived with an inhalater and oxygen.

She was rushed to Pontiac General Hospital where her condition is described as fair. Deputies, firemen, and doctors all agreed the fast-thinking youth saved her life.

Two hours earlier at about 4 p. m. a boat foundered on Lotus Lake and left five persons, one of them a five-year-old girl, thrashing about in the water some 200 feet off shore.

John Hobby, 37, of 3749 Percy King Rd., Waterford Township, owner of the 16-foot, six-passenger outboard told deputies he struck a log and ripped a hole in the bottom of the craft.

The boat took on water rapidly and sank. Deputies identified the passengers as Paul Leduc, 37, his wife, Wanda, 35, and their daughter, Christine, 5, all of Waterford Township, and Marvin Young, 50, of Grosse Pointe.

Two brothers, Douglas and Everett Sweet, of 4277 Windiate Dr., and William Jackson Jr., of 4425 Sedum Glen, Waterford Township, were standing on shore and swam out to rescue the victims.

Young and the girl couldn't swim at all, deputies said. The others were splashing about trying to help the non-swimmers when the three bystanders reached them.

"If there had been no one nearby, the mishap could easily have resulted in several drownings," said Deputy Roy A. Juhl.

respiration to the Leduc girl and Young until Waterford and Clarkston Fire Department rescue units arrived.

No one was hospitalized.

In another water accident Thomas Russell, 36, of 68 Park Ct., Lake Orion, nearly drowned behind his home, in Lake Orion late Sunday afternoon.

His brother, James, told deputies that Thomas had been playing horseshoes all day and apparently fainted upon going for a swim.

"He dived in and didn't come up," James related. "I went in, grabbed him and carried him into the house."

Lake Orion firemen revived Russel! and he was treated by Oakland County Deputy Coroner Dr. W. W. Oliphant, of Lake Orion, at the scene.

Ex-Politician May Dies; Involved in '47 Bribery

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP) — Former Rep. Andrew Jackson May, 84, around whose name a sensational wartime scandal swirled, will be buried near his home here Tuesday.

May died Sunday of a kidney ailment.

May was a lesser-known Democratic congressman in the 11 years before World War II. Then he became chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee by virtue of his seniority and piloted the draft act and the GI bill of rights through Congress.

In 1947 he was convicted of accepting $53,000 in bribes from munitions makers Murray and Henry Garsson and sentenced to from eight months to two years in prison. President Eisenhower, then a general, was among witnesses who testified May sought favors for the Garssons.

ANDREW J. MAY

May swore he was innocent, the victim of a political persecution.

He went to the federal prison at Ashland, Ky. after two unsuccessful appeals to the Supreme Court, and was released after nine months and 13 days.

President Truman restored May's citizenship and the Kentucky Court of Appeals reinstated him as a lawyer.

May's funeral will be at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist church where he was a deacon.

During his trial he declared "I was superintendent of a Sunday School and taught Bible class in Kentucky. I have never tasted liquor, wine or beer and I have never used tobacco.

"I have never received a dollar that was not honestly earned."

Federal Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut refused to reduce May's sentence, saying "the integrity of the national Congress is at stake."

'Santa Claus' Actor Is Dead

Edmund Gwenn, 81, Known for His Roles as Kindly Old Men

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — British-born actor Edmund Gwenn, who won an academy award for playing Santa Claus, died Sunday at the age of 81.

The veteran performer was named best supporting actor of 1946 for his portrayal of Santa Claus in the movie "The Miracle on 34th Street," capping a career that spanned 64 years on stage, screen and television.

He would have been 82 on the 26th of this month.

He died of complications of pneumonia at the Motion Picture Country Hospital where he had been hospitalized since May, 1957, following a stroke.

Gwenn, who was best known as a movie performer for his characterizations of kindly, humorous old men, was born in London on Sept. 26, 1877.

In May, 1957, he suffered a stroke following an earlier heart attack and kidney trouble. He entered the Motion Picture Country Hospital in nearby San Fernando Valley in October, 1957, where he was confined to bed or a wheelchair.

He returned to London twice in 1956, hoping to improve his health with a change of scenery and climate, but came back here to spend the rest of his days.

Friends said he was survived by a brother and two sisters in London and had no family here.

Gwenn's real family name was Kelloway. He was the son of an official in the British Civil Service who wanted him to follow in his footsteps.

At the age of 17, when Gwenn definitely announced his intention of going on the stage, his father disowned him and threw him out of their home. There followed 10 years of struggling, during which he toured and played in anything and everything.

It was George Bernard Shaw who recognized Gwenn's talent and picked him for a role in a Shaw play which gave Gwenn, at the age of 27, his first real success. It was Shaw also who selected him for his first talking picture.

Smoke Overcomes 30 Firemen in Flint

FLINT (AP)—Thirty firemen were overcome by smoke Saturday in battling a fire that swept through the four-story S.S. Kresge building in downtown Flint.

Firemen estimated damage at one million dollars.

Twenty-five firemen were treated and released and five remained at a hospital for observation.

Dense smoke came from merchandise stored on upper floors. The fire was believed to have started in a doughnut machine on the second floor.

Mike Cameroon Is Smart Mammal

Chimpnaut in Training for Space

LONDON (UPI) — An amiable little fellow named Mike Cameroon is going into orbit around the earth some day just to show those seven astronauts of Project Mercury how it's done.

Mike doesn't say much about his chances of being the first mammal to return safely to earth from orbit—or anything else for that matter.

That is, unless you can understand chimpanzee talk.

"But he's a bright little chap," said Dr. Harold J. Von Breckh, technical director of the aero-medical field laboratory at Holloman Air Force Base, N.M.

"And unless he changes by the time we're ready to make a recovery attempt — say late in 1960—he could be the most famous chimp of all time."

Von Breckh talked at the 10th International Astronautical Congress about Mike and 30 other chimps at Holloman who are being used in what he described as "direct preparatory tests for manned flights."

A former luftwaffe test pilot with 20 years experience in aviation medicine, Von Breckh was responsible for some tests which determined the human body could withstand most of the stresses of space flight.

"Now we're well along in tests that will lead, we hope, to the first manned flight in orbit around the earth," he said.

"But first we're going to use our chimps — ballistic trajectories to start, gradually becoming longer and longer until there's a complete orbit. We would like six or eight successful recoveries of chimps before we start with humans and since Mike's the smartest of the chimps in training he'd probably be our first choice for orbit."

Mike is one of six chimps purchased in the Cameroons, hence his name.

He and the other "chimpnauts" are being trained to perform tasks while in orbit in order to shed light on human efficiency under similar conditions of weightlessness.

Instead of reacting to an instrument panel, the chimpnauts watch three lights. When one flashes they know they must pull a certain lever within five seconds or get a mild electric shock.

Mike is quick to pull the lever now. Von Breckh is anxious to know whether he will be just as quick in the unfamiliar environment of space in a weightless condition.

Two other lights are red and green. If the chimps pull the lever near the green light they get food. If they pull the one near the red light they get nothing.

Waterford Girl Bitten by Snake Is 'Doing Fine'

A Waterford Township eight-year old is "doing fine" today according to doctors at Pontiac General Hospital after being bitten by a rattlesnake Sunday afternoon.

Laurie Jo Kuder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Kuder, of 6219 Waterfront Dr., was playing on the front lawn while her parents prepared dinner over a barbecue grill some 40 feet from her.

She bent down to touch her shoe and suddenly the unseen snake struck at her, hitting one hand. Laurie screamed. Her father rushed to her side.

"Our biggest problem was solved by state troopers from the Pontiac Post," Kuder related. He said he and his wife hustled Laurie into their car and started for the hospital.

"The traffic was terrible. We couldn't get anywhere. Then we saw the troopers and told them what had happened. They took Laurie and rushed her to the hospital."

Death Notices

FARMER, SEPT. 6, 1959, FLOYD A., 368 Town St.; age 70. Funeral arrangements pending from the Pursley Funeral Home.

Rockefeller Calls Crime Meeting

To Talk Tuesday About Outdoor Work Camps for Young Hoodlums

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has indicated the state may try a new cure for young hoodlums — outdoor work camps.

Rockefeller meets Tuesday with state, city, religious and social agency leaders in an effort to step up the war against juvenile crime.

The meeting came as a result of a recent sharp increase in teenage violence in New York City, but the governor said Sunday in a TV interview the problem wasn't limited to the city, but existed throughout the state, throughout the country and even throughout the world.

Meanwhile, New York police reported 189 youths under 21 have been arrested since a drive to curb young troublemakers began Friday.

Rockefeller said the work camps, if established, would be statewide, and operated in connection with the Conservation Department.

A pilot program, with about 100 youths, has been in operation for some time, he said, and has proved very successful.

Another proposal that will be discussed, he said, is the old question of whether parents should be made legally responsible for any crimes committed by their children.

He said a third proposal—a curfew to get teen-agers off the streets at night would be too difficult to enforce.

Hopes to Avoid Hike in Price of Steel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell says he is still hoping the steel strike can be settled without adding to inflationary pressures.

"An increase in (steel) prices doesn't necessarily have to happen," he said in an ABC-TV interview Sunday. "It seems to me that there is a possibility in this steel settlement, when it comes, of a settlement that will be noninflationary both in terms of wages and in terms of prices."

He reiterated it may be necessary for the government to step in by early October if the strike has not been settled by then. Negotiations resume in New York Tuesday. The strike has continued since July 14.

Ike to Form Investigative Commission

Americans Need Peacetime Goals

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower believes that Americans need something besides Communist competition to spur them on. His strong conviction that the nation requires new incentives may result soon in the appointment of a special White House Commission.

The commission would be composed of distinguished Americans from every field of useful activity—educators, scientists, union leaders, corporation executives, clergymen, bankers, doctors, farmers and so on. Its job would be to establish National Goals—targets of peaceful achievement for the American people to shoot at during the next five or ten years.

This may sound like an echo of the "five-year plans" so dear to the hearts of Communist bureaucrats. But there would be a profoundly significant difference. The Communist plans are dictated from the top by political leaders. America's National Goals would be set by private citizens, acting as the representatives of a free people.

Eisenhower attaches great importance to this distinction. Although he first broached the idea of a commission in his State of the Union message to Congress last Jan. 9, he has held up its actual appointment for more than eight months.

The delay has been caused by his determination not to spend one cent of government money on the project. He believes it should be entirely financed by private funds. Several of the big philanthropic foundations have indicated a willingness to underwrite the commission's expenses, but the details of financing are still being worked out.

When that hurdle is cleared, the President is ready to name the members of the commission. He has already picked, from a list of thousands of possibilities, a broadly representative group of men and women who will be asked to serve.

The President's thinking about the project runs along these lines:

The American people have proved repeatedly that they can achieve prodigious feats in wartime, when they are united by a common peril and spurred on by the knowledge that their homes and freedoms are at stake.

But in peacetime, Americans let down. They become complacent about their high living standards and take their freedoms for granted. Teamwork gives way to disunity, sacrifice is succeeded by individual and group selfishness. Difficulties which would be an inspiring challenge in wartime become insurmountable obstacles to peacetime progress. Instead of dreaming and working for a better world, Americans start thinking of a shorter work week, a longer vacation, an easier life all around.

The cold war with Russia, and the necessity of keeping up in the nuclear-missiles-space race, have offset this tendency to some degree. But these stimuli are clearly not enough. The public's response to the cold war alternates erratically between near-hysteria when the Russians beat us into space and national relaxation when we finally get one of our own rockets off the pad.

What America really needs is what a famous philosopher called "the moral equivalent of war"—positive, constructive goals that will call forth in peacetime the same kind of all-out effort that the nation expends so readily in a hot war.

In his State of the Union message, Eisenhower put it this way:

"If progress is to be steady, we must have long term guides extending far ahead, certainly five, possibly even ten years. They must be goals that stand high, and so inspire every citizen to climb always toward mounting levels of moral, intellectual and material strength. Every advance toward them must stir pride in individual and national achievements."

People Leaving Farms

WASHINGTON — Less than one-seventh of America's people live on farms today. In 1850 almost two-thirds of the population was found on farm lands.

Dry ice weighs considerably less than natural ice.

To Cost $18½ Million

AEC Plans N-Ship Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission has started development of a new and simplified nuclear power plant for submarines and ships. The work will cost 18½ million dollars.

The new power plant will use natural convection currents to circulate hot water, the same way a hot water heating system works in a house.

It will have these advantages.

1. A number of large, complicated and noisy pressure pumps and valves will be eliminated. With less machinery, the plant will be more reliable and quieter, both important considerations for submarines.

2. The plant will be smaller and probably the eventual cost per unit will be less than the present pressurized plants used in nuclear submarines such as the Nautilus, Skate and Seawolf.

Congress earlier this year authorized construction of a pilot plant on land for the current fiscal year. The AEC Thursday assigned the job to its laboratory at Schenectady, N.Y., which is operated by the General Electric Co.

Just Didn't Know Value of Money

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — The Canadian dollar is worth a few cents more than the U.S. dollar, but not everybody knows this.

Recently, a nine-year-old bootblack stole $300 to $400 in American and Canadian money from a drugstore here and went on a spending spree — with the U.S. bills only.

The boy told police who nabbed him that he had torn up all the Canadian bills because he thought they were worthless.

Quality of Mercy Undergoes Strain

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — The Harvard Alumni Bulletin tells this story about the late Prof. Zechariah Chafee of Harvard Law School:

Chafee was posing for a portrait by artist Gardner Cox one day when a colleague told the professor: "I hope Cox does you justice."

Replied Chafee: "I don't want justice. I want mercy!"
