Space-Age Cost to Up Debt Ceiling

GIANT EAR FOR U. OF M. — This is a drawing of the huge radio telescope to be constructed near Ann Arbor next June for University of Michigan astronomers. The giant ear, 85 feet in diameter, will "listen in" on celestial objects ranging from such nearby bodies as the moon and sun to galaxies hundreds of millions of light years distant. It will be the second largest steerable radio telescope in the world. The largest is 250 feet wide, located at the University of Manchester in England.

Congress to Get $73.8 Billion Budget Monday

Report Also Expected to Show 1958 Spending Will Create Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will send to Congress Monday a missile-age budget calling for $73,800,000,000 or more in spending and an increase in the federal debt ceiling, government informants said today.

The new budget, covering the 1959 fiscal year starting next July 1, will be precariously balanced, as Eisenhower hinted in his State of the Union message yesterday.

But the President will notify Congress that the supposedly balanced budget for the present government year is now expected to show a small deficit instead of a planned 1½-billion-dollar surplus, officials disclosed.

Eisenhower reportedly will attribute the return to deficit financing to two factors: (1) A $1,300,000,000 increase in scheduled defense department outlays; and (2) a drop of about a billion dollars in estimated revenues, caused by declining business profits and personal income.

The deficit will be well under half a billion dollars, informants said, but the return to red ink is a major disappointment to the administration.

Only three months ago the administration announced it would have its third balanced budget in a row.

The same causes — faster military spending, slower tax collections—will oblige Eisenhower to seek a temporary "slight" increase in the 275-billion-dollar ceiling on the public debt, administration sources said.

The expected budget request of close to 74 billion dollars will be about two billions higher than Eisenhower's original estimate to this fiscal year and roughly one billion higher than this year's actual outlays.

This will represent the highest federal spending since World War II.

Mild Weekend Ahead for City, Scattered Rain

Tonight will be partly cloudy and not much change in temperature, with the low 28-32.

Saturday's forecast is partly cloudy and a little colder, high near 36-40. Sunday is expected to be mostly cloudy with little change in temperature with scattered showers.

In a five-day forecast, the U.S. Weather Bureau predicts temperatures will average about four degrees above the normal high of 33.

Twenty-five was the lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. At 2 p.m. the reading was 41.

Lumber Market Burns in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Fire destroyed the warehouse and salesroom of the Mohawk Lumber Co.'s east-side super mart last night causing damages estimated at $750,000.

FIREMEN HURT

Two firemen suffered minor cuts in fighting the blaze which broke out at the peak of rush hour traffic.

Harry Smith, president of the lumber company said the loss was 80 per cent insured.

Firemen said winds blowing in the opposite direction probably saved the contents of a lumber yard behind the destroyed buildings.

Prefers Men Over 30

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Actress Inger Stevens says: "I prefer older men. They must be at least over 30. Younger than that, they don't interest me. I find men of this age and older more settled, not so impressed with themselves and with a more mature outlook on life."

Another Attempt to Launch Moon Expected Soon

Fifty-Ton ICBM Fired With Impressive Results for Second Time

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (INS)—An Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile was fired in an apparently successful test today.

The silvery missile was triggered into the cloud-draped Florida skies and soared out over the Atlantic.

It was the second time in less than a month the 5,500-mile range Air Force projectile called The Beast by its builders, and designed to carry a nuclear payload, has been test-fired with impressive results.

The giant 50-ton device roared from its launching pad on the shores of Cape Canaveral in a billowy burst of orange flame at 10:48 a.m. (EST.)

Struggling out of the fireball that momentarily engulfed it the 90-foot missile rose slowly at first and then steadily climbed, gaining momentum as the orange plume marking its jet exhaust grew smaller in the skies.

At a height of several thousand feet the big bullet - shaped device started a precision arc that swung its nose southeastward out over the Atlantic.

Downrange it roared, streaking almost parallel with the beach. It darted into the high-hanging clouds and eventually was lost from view.

SEEN FOR SECONDS

Observers were able to see the missile for a few additional brief seconds between cloud separations before it finally disappeared.

Earlier, the red ball signifying an imminent launching was hoisted over the cape shortly after 8:30 a.m. (EST), but was hauled down an hour later.

Attorney for Sullenberger Files Reply to 25 Charges

By PETE LOCHBILER

Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger today made a full denial of charges that he had violated professional medical standards prior to his suspension from Pontiac General Hospital.

Claiming that "false, malicious and irresponsible allegations" had been made against him, Dr. Sullenberger's denial was filed in Circuit Court as the third step in his $250,000 damage suit against the hospital.

The allegations under fire were those made by Carl I. Flath, Pontiac General director, in answer to Dr. Sullenberger's suit.

Flath had listed 25 instances in which he alleged Dr. Sullenberger had violated profession standards. In six of the instances, Flath said the patient died.

A reply to these charges, filed for Dr. Sullenberger by his attorney, Harry N. Dell, made a sweeping denial that Dr. Sullenberger was at fault in any of the 25 cases, including the deaths.

Going into detail about the cases, the reply outlined what Sullenberger believed were involved, explained his decisions about the operations, and argued that there was nothing unprofessional about his standards.

The reply consistently denied charges by Flath that Dr. Sullenberger had visited his patients

Doctor-Hospital Issue Brings on New Resolution

An overflow attendence of some 140 members of the Oakland County Medical Society last night adopted a resolution supporting high standards of practice in hospitals.

The resolution, prepared by the executive committee before the meeting, won support of two-thirds of the doctors present following a discussion of Pontiac General Hospital's controversy with Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger.

The resolution placed the society on record as approving hospital regulations "to insure the professional qualifications of those practicing therein" and as "vital to the public interest."

The action was taken at a closed meeting, according to Dr. John D. Monroe, president, "to permit members to express themselves freely on the Dr. Sullenberger matter."

New York State Medics Approve More Fluoride in Michigan

LANSING (AP) — New surveys show more than a million Michiganians are drinking fluoridated water, the State Health Department said today. Six cities in the state began adding fluoride to their water last year, raising the total to 58.

Backing the program, the department said fluoride in drinking water reduces tooth decay by two-thirds among children who consume treated water from birth. It causes no undesirable side effects in persons of any age, the report added.

NEW YORK (AP) — The policy-making council of the Medical Society of the State of New York yesterday approved the proposal for fluoridation of New York City's water supply.

The society president Dr. Thurman B. Givan of Brooklyn, said the group had concluded that "beyond any reasonable doubt water fluoridation is an effective and safe procedure for preventing tooth decay."

Democrats Want Ike's Blueprints

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats called on President Eisenhower today to back up with specific blueprints for action the eight-point program he laid before Congress yesterday.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas set the show-me tone of reaction to the proposals Eisenhower outlined in his State of the Union message. Eisenhower said they are needed to meet the threat of what he repeatedly called "Communist imperialism."

"The President has in general terms set forth some worthy objectives," Johnson said in an interview.

"He has called for strengthening of our allies, greater understanding and commerce between nations and attempts to bring peace to the world. These have long been Democratic objectives.

"Now we are waiting for his blueprints for meeting those objectives. As soon as he lays them down, our committees will promptly consider his recommendations."

Although Johnson and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) both praised Eisenhower's speech, there was mounting evidence of Democratic disappointment that Eisenhower did not make any spectacular proposals for an immediate buildup in American military might.

An analysis of the President's proposals circulated among Democratic senators said that basically the message was "long on proposals and short on performance."

"Even the program to step up

Worker Editor Quits Party

NEW YORK (INS)—John Gates, one of the nation's top Communist leaders, said today he has quit the party.

Gates said he will "talk with people" and try to form a new party within Communist ranks.

The 44-year-old editor called a news conference for later in the day to announce his break with the badly-split party and his resignation from the Daily and Sunday Worker which he bossed.

Gates has been the leader of a faction within the American Communist party which has been demanding more democracy within the group and less blind obedience to Kremlin dictates.

Gates was the highest ranking U. S. Communist to defect from the party which has been losing members in droves because of its "Moscow First" policies.

The curly-haired veteran Communist, one of the seven national "secretaries" of the party, decided to quit when the "take orders from Moscow" wing, headed by William Z. Foster, forced the shutdown of the Daily Worker.

Both the Fosterites and Soviet Communists recently have attacked Gates as a "revisionist" for his expressed beliefs that the U. S. Communists should stop regarding Marx, Lenin and the Soviet Union as infallible.

Gates' departure could be the signal for wholesale desertions from the ranks of the Communists, by members who want to have some semblance of independence from iron Moscow rule.

Still Freezing in Balmy Florida

Report Crop Losses Mounting in Face of Sinking Temperature

MIAMI (INS) — Subtropical Florida still shivered today in subfreezing weather and new crop losses were reported.

One of the worst winters since the 1890s was expected to bring additional difficulties to citrus growers and farmers during the night as temperatures again sank to the upper 20s in the northern part of the state. Some 40 degree reading were reported in the extreme southern part of Florida with Miami listing 42 at midnight.

Freezing temperatures were expected to take another wallop at the state's multimillion dollar citrus crop and what vegetables survived other freezes.

Tourists wore fur coats at Miami Beach resort hotels but authorities insist the cold has not dampened the spirits of northern vacationers even though they cannot go swimming or sunbathing.

Many Miami homes lack heating systems and families converged around electric heaters for warmth. Miami firewood prices shot up from $18 a half cord to $23 while fuel oil operators in the Tampa area reported a 20 per cent increase in business.

Groves which caught the brunt of the cold for the past two days expected more of the same today.

Oakland Medical Society Favors Establishment in County

Supports Psychoanalytical Institute

The Oakland County Medical Society went on record last night in support of establishment of a psychoanalytical institute for Oakland County.

They adopted a resolution of support for the institute which is a project of a newly incorporated group known as Septim (Society for the Establishment of a Psychoanalytical Training Institute in Michigan).

Formed by 12 Detroit metropolitan area doctors the corporation plans an institute at which top men in the country will lecture on psychoanalysis.

Dr. James Clark Moloney of Birmingham is chairman of the corporation's board of directors.

Other directors are: Dr. L. Jerome Fink, Dr. Maurice Willis and Dr. Clinton J. Mumby, all of Pontiac; Dr. Eugene Donovan of Dearborn; and attorney B. Morris Pelavin, of Flint, the secretary.

CONTACT TOP MEN

The group has established a curriculum and gotten commitments from a number of top men as lecturers, Dr. Fink said today.

The institute will be open for credit to MD's who have begun their residency in psychiatry. They will receive diplomas of graduation only after they complete their three-residencies.

Other doctors and interested persons can take the courses to be offered, but without credit, Dr. Fink said.

★ ★ ★

He added the institute is generally patterned after the William Alanson White Institute in New York.

"Our purpose," he continued, "is to help raise the standards of psychiatric treatment in Oakland County and throughout Michigan to the highest level possible."

Dr. Fink said that no definite decision had been made on just where the institute would locate.

On a previous occasion he had offered the services of staff personnel for the proposed county facility for emergency mental patients, if the county would supply a building for the institute.

WILL LOCATE IN OAKLAND

Although open to persons from any part of the state, he added, the institute will definitely be located in Oakland County.

It will operate on a year-around basis, Dr. Fink said, with staff members chipping in to pay the lecturers' fees.

In its resolutions, the medical society instructed its mental health committee to work with Septim to help bring the institute into being.

Cabinet Resigns in Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The entire Venezuelan Cabinet resigned at midnight last night. President Marcos Perez Jimenez was expected to announce a new cabinet soon.

The resignation followed a Cabinet meeting for almost an hour late yesterday at the President's palace. The move, which had been expected, was interpreted as an effort to prevent a repetition of the one-day revolt Jan. 1 by the air force and some army units. Caracas has been calm since then.

The short-lived New Year's Day revolt was the first major challenge to Perez Jimenez's military-backed dictatorship since army leaders installed him as provisional president Dec. 3, 1952. A constituent assembly named him president for a five-year term four months later, and last Dec. 15, after a plebiscite in which he was the only candidate, he won another five-year term.

Foreign observers considered the revolt the result of dissatisfaction among younger officers. They reportedly felt the plebiscite was too flagrant a disregard of democratic practices and also that the regime did not give younger men the chance to advance to positions of power and profit.

Open House Slated for Safety Building

Open house at the city's new Public Safety Building will be held the weekend of Jan. 25 and 26.

The open house will last two days in order to give as many Pontiac residents as possible a chance to view the facilities in the new $950,000 building, located next to the City Hall in the civic center area.

Dedication and ribbon-cutting ceremonies were scheduled for 3 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 26, with commissioners and other city officials participating.

Has this winter's weather—thus far—seemed to support the theory that we are experiencing a trend back to colder winters?

Yes, the winter temperatures this season have been lower than the average in recent years, though the winter isn't over and the complete seasonal average is not yet determined.

Sustained cold weather systems from the polar regions this winter have been impressive in behalf of the argument that we are experiencing a reversal of the trend for some forty years toward warmer and warmer winters.

If this winter's tentative clues are proven accurate in future years, by the middle 1960's the nation will be experiencing winters of severity more comparable to those experienced just before the turn of the century.

Shopping Center Request Studied

Miracle Mile Sewage Tie-In Could Determine City's Future Policy

The Miracle Mile Shopping Center company has asked for a tie-in with the Pontiac sewer system.

"You shouldn't make a hasty decision on this," City Manager Walter K. Willman told them, "until you decide whether to adopt a new policy about extending municipal services outside the city limits."

The city's policy for many years has been "no services without annexation." Recently, commissioners have questioned the wisdom of this policy, thinking that extension of services such as sewage disposal could profit Pontiac while benefiting surrounding communities.

★ ★ ★

The Miracle Mile shopping center is in Bloomfield Township. The company offered to pay the cost of the sewer connection plus pay metered rates on its use of the service.

★ ★ ★

The question of annexing the shopping center land originally came up when center was first proposed. The company asked for annexation but the city turned the idea down.

JAMES C. O'CONNOR

County Official Retiring Today

Retiring today after 32 years of service with Oakland County is James C. O'Connor, 68, of 814 Menominee Rd.

O'Connor began his job with the county back in 1926 when he became superintendent of the former Contagious Hospital on Telegraph road. He held this position until December of 1956 when the building was leased by the City of Pontiac for use as the Pontiac General Hospital Annex.

He then took a job with the county Board of Auditors, a position he has held until his retirement.

"I will miss all the fine and cooperative people I worked with over these years," said O'Connor.

He said he had no immediate plans for the future. "I'll always keep in contact with my old friends," he declared.

Search Nation for Detroit Man

Wanted in Connection With Sadistic Attack on Housewife

DETROIT (INS)—A nationwide search was under way today for a 24-year-old clerk accused of torturing and criminally assaulting a middle-aged Detroit housewife.

Sought in the sadistic attack on the 45-year-old woman, whose name was withheld by police, was Thomas Joseph Fry.

The hunt was launched last night after the woman recovered sufficiently from shock and numerous wounds to tell police what happened.

Authorities said the woman told them a man approached her when she stepped from a bus Wednesday night and forced her at knife-point to accompany him to a residence.

Police detective inspector Thomas R. Cochill said the man bound the woman at the house, then cut away her clothing and beat her with a knotted clothesline.

Cochill quoted the victim as saying the man cavorted in a wild dance, screaming that he hated women, then attacked her.

The woman, who said she was stabbed repeatedly with a hatpin and slashed with the knife, finally managed to kick out a window and scream. She told police the man then took $8 from her purse and left, saying she could go home.

Police said Fry attacked his estranged wife, Jean, in a similar fashion. She now lives in Washington, D.C.

A Detroit psychologist told police he had been treating Fry.

Snowstorm Halts Search for Boy, 5

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn. (AP) — A driving snowstorm brought a halt to the search for missing 5-year-old Dannie Lamon shortly before midnight last night.

Sheriff Ed Anderson said resumption of the hunt today would depend upon severity of the storm sweeping this Canadian border country.

Anderson said he "simply could not understand" why no trace of the child was turned up by some 2,000 volunteers in the shoulder-to-shoulder search of a 10-mile square area around the Lamon home, a mile south of the city.

The child disappeared Wednesday morning. His father, Lawrence Lamon hadn't been to bed since then until the search was officially called off. Lamon is a worker at a local paper mill.

Mrs. Lamon was under sedation after collapsing yesterday. The couple has two other children, Allen, 3, and 18-month-old Carol Ann.

German Pupils Work Harder, Tells U.S. Youth

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — High school student John H. Gunnell, just back from three months in Germany, says "German students work much harder than ours do."

"They have to," says the 17-year-old. "If they lag behind, they get kicked out of school."

Orion Prowler Nibbles Way to Untimely Death

The prowling days of a nocturnal invader of an Orion Township home are over, due to his own carelessness and greed while on a job Thursday night.

Mrs. Berkley Reeves, of 3462 Waldon Rd., and her niece, Mary Henderson, 15, were preparing to turn in for the night when they heard a loud noise in the basement.

"We were frightened and didn't want to take any chances, since someone broke into the house a few months ago and has tried to break in several times since," said Mrs. Reeves.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies James W. Stites and Raymond A. Pilon were dispatched to the scene. They cautiously descended the basement stairs, ready for action.

After a short search they found the culprit, a mouse, killed by his own nibbling. He had dislodged a brace under some plumbing and the pipes had fallen, pinning him beneath them.

2 Minors Found Guilty of Possessing Liquor

Frederick Harris, 17, of 3473 S. Elder, Walled Lake, and Robert Hickey, 18, of 9245 Halfacre Dr., White Lake Township, were found guilty yesterday of being in possession of intoxicating beverages.

Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum fined them $25 and two days jail or seven days.

They were arrested New Year's Day.

County Deputies Said Mending Following Crash

The two Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies injured Thursday in an accident at Oakland and Johnson are improving somewhat, according to Pontiac General Hospital reports.

REPORTED SATISFACTORY

IN FAIR CONDITION

Deputy Ferris Holcomb, 42, of 52 N. Holcomb St., Clarkston, who was in poor condition yesterday, is reported in fair condition today, with a fractured hip and pelvis.

★ ★ ★

The deputies were bringing a prowler suspect, Ronald Wininger, 24, of Detroit, to the Oakland County Jail when their car collided with one driven by Gilbert C. Smith, 57, of Grant City, Ill.

★ ★ ★

Wininger, who was actually a private detective with the Pinkerton Agency in Detroit, was treated and released. Neither Smith nor his wife, Violet, 52, were injured. The cause of the accident has not yet been fully determined.

Democrats Ask Ike's Blueprints

national security boils down to pumping a little more money into existing projects and promising vaguely to reorganize the defense structure," the analysis said.

Republicans were practically unanimous in their praise of Eisenhower's personally delivered message. Some Democrats lauded it but many of them were critical.

Eisenhower was interrupted 41 times by applause during the 44 minutes he addressed a joint session of Congress in the House chamber. Republicans provided most of the applause, but Democrats often joined in and occasionally led the outbursts.

The show of enthusiasm, like the world situation, differed sharply from that at the start of 1957. Only five rounds of applause interrupted the entire 1957 address to Congress.

The White House described Eisenhower as "very pleased" with the reception he received.

But Mamie's biggest moment was yet to come. The President, after receiving his own ovation, prefaced his formal address by announcing that "Mrs. Eisenhower would like to join me in wishing for you and your families a bright and prosperous New Year."

Legislators, momentarily forgetting their election-year differences, rose in a body to cheer the first lady who, smiling as graciously as a hostess, acknowledged their applause with a wave of her royal blue gloves. Ike, looking pleased as punch, also waved his glasses to his bubbling spouse.

Bipartisan applause also greeted Ike's next extemporaneous remark—a happy birthday wish to Speaker Sam Rayburn and Vice-President Richard M. Nixon who shared the dais behind him.

No one — not even Rayburn, who commented on the fact later to reporters — noticed any speech impairment during the President's 44-minute address. Occasionally, he stumbled, but no more than any person would have done under similar circumstances.

Rayburn said he was "glad to know the President is alive to what the American people are disturbed about" and this is the bickering and dissension among the services in the Pentagon."

"I hope he gives Secretary McElroy the authority to get the job done regardless of who stays or who has to go." Rayburn said.

★ ★ ★

A high administration official said Eisenhower had in mind a move to bolster the secretary of defense with additional authority over military spending.

City May Continue Army Center Lease

The City Commission is favorably considering extending the Army's lease on the city-owned building in which the Army Reserve Center is located.

The building, at 37 W. Lawrence St., has been rented to the Army in the past for $800 a month.

The defense department has notified the city that it wants to continue this arrangement for another two years. By that time, the department indicated, it hopes to have completed its own Pontiac reserve center.

Madison Speeds Own Drain Plan

County to Ask Legal Decision on Withdrawal From 12-Town Project

The City of Madison Heights moved ahead today with its own $1,500,000 sewage project despite a legal manuever by Oakland County to keep the city in the Twelve Town drain project.

Meanwhile, Harry J. Merritt, Oakland County's corporation counsel, prepared a declaration of rights petition in which he will ask Circuit Court to determine whether Madison Heights can pull out of the $41 million project.

Merritt asks also that the court enjoin Madison Heights from selling bonds, voted last month, to finance its own project.

"It's a friendly suit, or difference of opinion," Merritt said. "Are they entitled to get out or not, is the question."

The southern Oakland County community voted 1,094 to 431 to construct its own sanitary and storm sewer network.

Sweitzer contends that the city is not, and never was, a part of the larger project which is designed to relieve flooding in 13 southeastern Oakland County communities.

Merritt counters that the city is in for 6.33 per cent, or roughly $2,600,000 of the Twelve Town job.

"What's going to prevent other municipalities from pulling up stakes if Madison Heights does," he said. "Suppose Royal Oak pulled out. Its share, 30 per cent or $13,000,000 would have to be spread over the other communities."

Another legal battle is presently blocking the long-delayed project from getting off the drawing boards.

Judge H. Russel Holland is expected to rule whether Southfield Township and Troy are correct in their charge that the county drain board assessed their share of the total project wrongly.

County officials in the meantime were confident of a favorable ruling based on a December decision of the State Supreme Court, which they say moves in their favor.

Attorney for Sullenberger Files Reply to Charges

Of the charges, the reply said they were "typical of the false and erroneous statements which have been made (about Dr. Sullenberger) . . . In not a single instance is there any fact or basis for the false, malicious and irresponsible allegations made directly or by innuendo.

"Such allegations are untrue and libelous and . . . the persons responsible for their authorship and publication are guilty of libel . . ."

The reply argued that Dr. Sullenberger "in no way" was involved in the hospital being put on one-year probation by the Joint Commission on Hospital Accreditation.

In reply to arguments that Dr. Sullenberger's qualifications were suspect, it was argued that "virtually every member of the staff engaged in surgery" had called upon him for surgical assistance over the past several years.

Great variance between the hospital charges and Dr. Sullenberger's version of the happenings appeared yesetrday, as the doctor met with Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem and state investigators.

Following the 3½ hour session, Ziem said, "Dr. Sullenberger's version was as different from Flath's as night and day."

Under discussion were two of the six deaths listed in the hospital's answer.

Dr. Sullenberger furnished the names of approximately a dozen persons who had witnessed the operations, and investigators for Ziem and the State Board of Registration in Medicine immediately began contacting them.

Of the meeting yesterday, Dr. Sullenberger said, "This is the first time that I have been officially asked to give my side of the story. I'm most anxious to have this investigation continue so this matter can be cleared up."

The hospital has been reluctant to open up its files and produce records and witnesses' names for fear of hurting its presentation in the damage suit.

Ziem said he planned to ask the doctor to go into more details about some of the cases today, and hinted that his investigation might be lengthy because of the complexities of the case.

Ziem is trying to determine if a criminal law has been violated by Dr. Sullenberger. The state board is considering the possibility of license-revoking proceedings.

Waterford Sewers Project Finished

After more than a year of construction trouble, the Sylvan Shores sewer system in Waterford Township has finally been completed.

Only the replacement of lawns, re-ditching and street repair need to be finished by the Weissman Construction Company, contractors for the project said.

The Day in Birmingham

YMCA Ready to Launch Drive for New Members

BIRMINGHAM—Six divisions of 10 workers each Monday will launch the 1958 membership drive of the Birmingham YMCA. The campaign will get under way with a kickoff dinner at the "Y" building at 400 E. Lincoln Ave.

Arthur Blakeslee, general chairman of the membership committee, and Harold M. Kalbfleisch, campaign chairman, said the drive will last through Feb. 28. An attempt will be made to secure 900 members of all ages and bring in more than $5,000 for the operating budget.

The Birmingham "Y" has a program for junior and senior groups, sponsors special interest activities, Day Camp and informal education classes for adults.

With the opening of the new building next September, the facilities and programs will be expanded, according to Edwin Kirbert, executive secretary.

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins was received by an enthusiastic Town Hall audience yesterday at the Birmingham Theater.

Dr. Hutchins, president of the Ford Foundation and former president of the University of Chicago, today presented his second of two lectures on "Where's Education Going?"

Park Smith, Birmingham fire chief, has announced an estimated fire loss of 21 cents a person in the city of Birmingham. Only once, in 1931, has the per capita loss been lower. In that year it was 16 cents per person.

The department answered 252 calls for fires and fire investigation, 30 for investigation of gas leakage and other items, for a total of 419 alarms.

For the first time in many years, no general alarm was sounded, requiring the assistance of the volunteer department.

Mrs. Raymond Bishop

Service for Mrs. Raymond Bishop, 55, of 18289 Devonshire Rd., who died Wednesday at William Beaumont Hospital, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. Officiating will be Dr. Arnold E. Runkel of the First Methodist Church. Burial will be in Acacia Park Cemetery, Southfield Township.

A native of Pennsylvania, she was a resident of Birmingham for 18 years. Mrs. Bishop was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Atlas (The Beast) Roars Over Ocean

FIRED SUCCESSFULLY

Two previous tests, in June and September of last year, proved unsuccessful although the Air Force subsequently announced that the experiment was "95 per cent successful from the standpoint of data."

The mighty weapon is expected to be ready for combat use in 1960 after another year of flight testing. It will be deployed at bases throughout the U. S., the first of which will be located near Cheyenne, Wyo.

Each of the big missiles will cost about two million dollars, exclusive of the hydrogen bomb warheads with which they will be equipped.

Today's firing was expected to be quickly followed by another U.S. attempt to launch an earth satellite.

There has been considerable activity around the Vanguard launching tower in recent days and many of the top people connected with the project already are on the cape.

Hoping to avoid further embarrassment in the event of another failure, officials have clamped a tight security lid on information regarding the new attempt to put a man-made moon into space.

The new satellite attempt is expected to take place early next week.

Today's Atlas launching very nearly caught observers looking the other way. The huge missile was fired a little over an hour after the red warning ball signifying a shoot had been lowered.

The text of the Defense Department's announcement on today's firing said:

"The intercontinental ballistic missile, the Atlas, was fired today at the Missile Test Center, Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Department of Defense announced. The launching was successfully carried out at 10:48 a.m. (EST).

Later, the department added: "The test, which was not full range, was successful."

Governor to Speak to California Dems

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams was to head west today to keep a speaking date to California Democrats.

The governor was billed tonight as keynote speaker to the convention of the California Council of Democratic Clubs — in effect, the Democratic state convention in these times of cross filing for political office.

Williams planned to attend a reception prior to the evening speech session in Fresno.

He was to fly Saturday morning from San Francisco to Chicago and then to Ishpeming to spend the balance of the weekend at a ski meet there.

Loosens Hold Over Central U.S.

Cold Grips Atlantic Coast

CHICAGO (INS)—Cold air continued over the Atlantic Coast states today while warmer weather over the central part of the country spread eastward and rain was reported in the far West.

A blanket of cold air continued over the Atlantic Coast states from Maine through Florida during the night and most temperatures were as low, or lower, than 24 hours ago.

The mercury ranged from below zero in portions of New England to the teens in the mid-Atlantic Coast states to the upper 20s in northern Florida with some near 40 degree temperatures in the extreme south portion of the state. It was 42 at Miami early today.

The warming trend in the central portion of the country continued from Texas to the eastern Dakotas, spreading eastward into the western portion of the Atlantic Coast States. Temperatures were 10 degrees higher than what they were 24 hours ago from western New York into western Georgia. The central United States listed the mercury in the 30s and 40s.

Rains were rather general in the far West from Washington through the western half of Oregon and into the northern two-thirds of California. Precipitation amounts were light but some stations near the coast in northern California reported six hour rainfalls of a little over an inch. San Francisco measured .69 inches of rain.

Vodka Prices Are Hiked

Drunkenness Now Troubles Soviet

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

Drunkenness, often labeled by Moscow as a product of a decadent West, is becoming a serious problem behind the Iron Curtain.

The Soviet government has hiked the price of vodka, ostensibly to discourage the excessive consumption of alcohol but also to enrich the state treasury.

TARGET OF PRESS

Alcoholism, among younger age groups, frequently is a target of press and radio not only in Russia, but also in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

A Warsaw newspaper last week complained that the big Russian-built palace of culture, the city's most prominent landmark, was a night haunt for rowdyism, drunkenness and debauchery.

The palace, built by an army of Russian workmen as a Soviet gift to Warsaw, formerly was known as the Stalin Palace of Culture and Science.

ABUSE FREEDOM

Youthful loafers were reported taking advantage of free public entrance to the palace to abuse the freedom of its cozy lounges, big washrooms and movie halls.

Current consumption of vodka per head is estimated at two and a half times higher in Poland than it was in 1938, before the war and before Soviet conquerors planted a Red regime in the country. In the first half of 1957 consumption increased by about 30 per cent.

Similar figures of increases have been published in Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

The official Red press says that heavy drinking leads to hooliganism, disease, crime, accidents—and absenteeism in industrial plants. The last result, of course, is a blow to Red regimes trying to fulfill heavy work quotas.

Communist newspapers have not made much effort apparently to find out the causes of the heavy drinking. Often American "jazz age culture" has been blamed as a corrupting influence on young Communists.

One possible cause of the increased use of hard liquor is the forced-rate of industrialization. Factors also could be the divisions in family life, bad housing, frustration and resentment of Red leadership in satellite lands.

One Polish writer has warned that hiked prices might only encourage illegal vodka manufacture, and has recommended wider use of an American soft drink, saying even such an "imperialistic" drink is preferable "to the ideologically purest vodka."

French Buy More Cars

PARIS — The French people in 1956 bought three times as many automobiles and five times as many refrigerators as in 1949.

Says U.S. Scientists 'to Cackle Later'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Dr. Wernher von Braun, one of the nation's top missile experts, said here last night that American scientists have decided to "lay our eggs first before we cackle."

The German-born expert stopped here briefly while returning from Washington to Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Ala., where he is director of development operations for the Army's ballistic missile program. He talked briefly to newsmen.

Von Braun said he has no doubt about the availability of American brain power to overtake Soviet Russia's lead in space research, but said it might take several years.

There will be no advance publicity on the firing of the Army satellite.

Security for You

Some Pensions, SS Payments Tax Free

By RAY HENRY

There are four general rules covering the payment of federal tax on income received by people 65 or over:

1. If your 1957 income—including wages, private pensions or annuities, or insurance — was less than $1,200 a year, you don't have to pay any income tax or file a tax return. (A man and wife who've both reached 65 and who file a joint tax return are exempt from income tax if their combined income in 1957 was less than $2,400. But, if either had an income of more than $1,200, a return must be filed.)

2. If you received Social Security payments, railroad retirement payments or veteran's pension or compensation in 1957, you don't have to pay any tax on them. They're tax free. If you had income from other sources which makes it necessary for you to file a tax return, you don't even have to enter your veteran's Social Security or railroad retirement payments on the return.

3. If you received a private annuity or pension—such as a company pension—you have to report the entire amount as income if you didn't contribute to the fund from which the pension or annuity was paid.

4. If you received a pension or annuity based on contributions made by both you and your employer, part of the pension or annuity is taxable and part of it isn't.

There are two rules on this:

The first rule applies to a pension or annuity from which you'll receive in payments within three years after you retired an amount at least equal to what you contribute.

If you fall under this rule, none of the payments you receive are taxable until you've been paid an amount equal to what you put into the pension or annuity. After that, you must report the payments on your return and pay any required tax on them.

FOR EXAMPLE

Suppose you're now getting a pension of $100 a month and your total contribution while you worked was $2,500. At the $100 a month rate, you'll receive a total of $3,600 in payments during the first three years of retirement. The first $2,500—your contributions—of this total is tax free. But, any money you receive after that is taxable.

Incidentally, this rule usually applies to persons who retire and receive federal Civil Service retirement payments.

The second rule applies to a pension or annuity from which you will not receive in payments during the first three years of retirement an amount equal to what you've contributed to the pension or annuity.

Under this rule, as long as you receive payments, part of each year's payments will be taxable and part won't.

The way in which the tax is figured depends on your life expectancy, total expected payments, total contributions and yearly payments.

If your pension or annuity payments are covered by this rule, you should consult the nearest Internal Revenue Service office which can provide you with the proper formula and life expectancy

Bob Considine Says:

Inside Dope on How Things Are in Russia

LOS ANGELES (INS) — Bill Hearst, Frank Conniff, Irving R. Levine of NBC, Dan Schor of CBS and every other person who has recently returned from Russia share a unique problem.

No matter how many millions of words one writes and speaks from Moscow the first thing a friend asks when he see you is: "Well, how were things in Russia?"

So you tell him a few things that you've repeated ad infinitum in your stories and the fellow says, "Great stuff; you should have gotten that into your stories."

The No. 1 question asked is "Will there be a war with Russia?" The answer is "We don't think so." Then comes the No. 2 question, "How can that fellow Khrushchush manage things when he's drunk all the time?"

All we can is that we saw him four or five times and never saw him drunk. If Khrushchev drank as much as most people seem to think he does his enemies in the jungles of Kremlin politics would have bumped him off years ago.

HE'S SHARP

The fact that he weathered one appalling purge after another during the 40 years he has served the Communist Party, and bobbed up as the Top Banana, must mean tha the fellow kept a pretty clear head on his shoulders and a fast pair of legs under him for the footwork unquestionably involved in that saga of survival.

★ ★ ★

But Time, in its man-of-the-year cover story, had him rolling about like a Bowery wino, and there have been enough pictures taken of him with a glass in his hand to provide the rest of the legend.

At receptions where we saw him, he nursed a glass of champagne until it was bubblesless as cider, and, on another occasion, a pale scotch highball. He'd lose his franchise at Shore's bar.

"How about the girls over there?" a guy will ask. "Any good-lookers?" If there are, the Russians kept them indoors while we were in Moscow.

"Any antagonism shown to you, on the streets, in restaurants and so forth?" None. The Kremlin has been telling the people to hate Americans for the past four decades. Somehow, it doesn't seem to have gotten through.

And, always, there's a question that goes, "Those bums have violated every pact they ever signed, so why should we listen to them when they say they want to sit down and talk to us on the highest level?"

That's a hard one, but it seems to us that if we automatically turn our backs every time they suggest a talk, or a meet, we're not intelligent—and we'll further alienate the affections of friendly nations who are saying, louder than ever, "Why don't you two big stiffs get together?"

There are even tougher questions than that. And we've devised a conclusive answer. We just deny we were ever there.

Detroiter Under Bond for Hitting Bus Driver

DETROIT (INS) — John W. McKinnon has been placed under a peace bond for a year for hitting the driver of a bus that rammed the rear of his car.

McKinnon said he jumped on the bus and struck Horning after the minor accident because he was "hopping mad."

Twin Sisters, 83, Die

ST. LOUIS (AP)— Mrs. Janette Hamlyn of St. Louis and Mrs. Rose Herley of Grantsburg, Ill., twin sisters who would have been 84 Jan. 26, died yesterday within an hour and 45 minutes. Mrs. Hamlyn was in a St. Louis hospital with pneumonia. Mrs. Herley died at Grantsburg, 120 miles southeast of St. Louis.

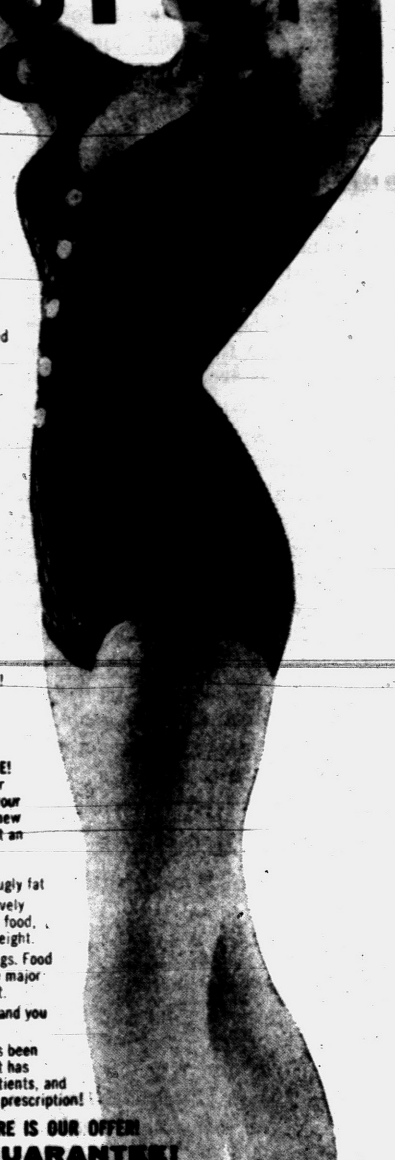
PROVED SAFER AND MORE EFFECTIVE BY DOCTORS IN CLINICAL TESTS... NOW... SOLD WITHOUT PRESCRIPTION.



■ Wonderful News! The amazingly safe, tested way to reduce, you've heard spoken about in whispers, at last approved for sale without prescription!

■ Yes, the same kind of safe, effective, reducing agent used successfully by thousands of doctors . . . tested successfully on thousands of patients . . . yours at last in Prescription 812. Weight losses recorded show pounds the first week, pounds and pounds more the first month, actually up to 25 pounds or more in a reasonable length of time, without exercise, without doing a single unpleasant thing!

■ Imagine! Many overweight people have lost as much weight as they wanted to lose, safely, easily, without dieting, without consciously making an effort to restrict their food.

■ You'll still eat luscious steaks and chops, fried chicken, potatoes, desserts and pastries, but with Prescription 812, in place of iron will power, you'll actually be eating less, and you won't overeat as you did before, and gone will be those ugly, stubborn clinging pounds of fat!

■ YOU'LL HARDLY BELIEVE YOUR SCALE! You'll look better, feel better, have so much more pep and energy as ugly pounds disappear! What a wonderful feeling! Your friends will be amazed as pound after pound of ugly fat vanishes. It's all so easy . . . all so delightfully simple, you'll bless the day you first tried this marvelous reducing tablet!

■ HOW PRESCRIPTION 812 WORKS TWO WAYS AT ONCE! Before each meal, simply take one tiny tablet, hardly larger than an aspirin. You eat, sleep, work, play just like any of your thin friends. And all the while, the amazing ingredients in new Prescription 812 go to work for you. Prescription 812 is not an old-fashioned expanding pill that fills your stomach, not a sickening-sweet wafer! The tested, proven ingredients in Prescription 812 work two ways at once to help rid you of ugly fat

■ 1. Prescription 812 appeases your appetite more effectively than anything sold direct to the public. You still enjoy your food, but automatically you eat less and down comes ugly overweight.

■ 2. Prescription 812 helps overcome gnawing hunger-pangs. Food stays in your stomach longer, thus helping to eliminate the major cause of those empty-stomach blues that make you overeat.

■ You lose ugly pounds and inches, safely, quickly, easily and you feel well, too, while those pounds are coming off!

■ The amazing principal ingredient in Prescription 812 has been tested in hospitals and clinics all over the United States. It has been used successfully on vast numbers of overweight patients, and now for the first time ever, it is available to you without prescription!

■ SO IF YOU SINCERELY WANT TO REDUCE, HERE IS OUR OFFER!

Foreign Aid Debate to Stir Up Congress

Some Congressmen are inclined to join outspoken Sen. MIKE MANSFIELD in his determination to cut President EISENHOWER'S foreign aid program and put more money into scientific and military efforts.

In his Paris NATO address the President announced that he would ask Congress to increase the lending authority of the Export-Import Bank by $2 billion. This means that he hopes to double the economic phase of foreign aid.

The aim is to strengthen the economies of underdeveloped countries to the point where they do not have to accept Russian deals and are thereby more secure against internal unrest caused by economic hardships.

As pointed out by ERIC JOHNSTON, soon to be appointed co-ordinator of foreign aid, and by JAMES HOPKINS SMITH Jr. new head of the International Co-operation Administration, "Russia is running around the end to carry out extensive economic and political subversion." The Soviets have approved $145 million in aid programs to Afghanistan in the past two years while the United States aid over the last 8 years totals $89 million—a large part in the form of a loan from the Export-Import Bank.

★ ★ ★

Since World War II Mr. JOHNSTON says, Russia has given Communist China and iron curtain countries of Europe, $7 billion in economic credits. Russia also has granted $1.8 billion in credits to countries outside the iron curtain in the past two years. Of this $715 million went to Egypt and Syria. Our aid to those countries since 1952 totals $64 million.

★ ★ ★

Many other nations including India, Ceylon, and Nepal have had help from both Russia and Communist China. Where the aid has been in the form of loans, the interest rate of 2.5 per cent is much below our rates. In the underdeveloped free countries some 2,000 Russian and Chinese technicians are working with the people.

★ ★ ★

To counter this infiltration we must have stepped up economic and political programs of our own to strengthen the independence of non-Communist nations. Much of our foreign aid may have been used unwisely. Programs should be reviewed constantly. It is becoming apparent that the most good can be done by working directly with people to teach them how to produce more and live better.

Maltese "Secession" Not Taken Seriously

Recently the feasibility of closing the Royal Navy dockyards there came up for discussion in the Admiralty. The installations provide the main source of employment for Malta's workers.

Prime Minister DOMINIC MINTOFF says he will "secede" from Britain if the dockyards are closed. The British have promised that should this be done, measures will be taken to relieve the resulting economic distress, otherwise, being entirely dependent on Britain, the Maltese would starve.

Malta has been a British possession since 1800. Its area is 98 square miles with two small adjoining islands containing 24 square miles. The total population, 207,000, mostly in four cities, is of Arabic stock but English is used in the university and two secondary schools.

During World War II Malta held out against intense German and Italian bombing. After the war the people of Malta were given the George Cross for their valor.

As head of the Labor Party Prime Minister MINTOFF'S threat is pretty much of a political grand stand play. He is a fiery orator and has been known to use his fists as a substitute for words. This time he is relying on the influence and votes of his 12,000 Navy yard supporters.

There isn't much danger that Britain will desert Malta and the Prime Minister knows it.

Local Ski Resort Tops All Others in Its Attendance

Mount Holly Ski Club,

20 miles up the Dixie Highway from Pontiac. All slides and tows are in operation, and if the supply of natural snow is not sufficient they have the means of making their own. Skiers there total four figures most every day and night, and the spectators number several times that figure. It has become the largest attended ski resort in a state famous for such projects, with over 100 in operation.

In last month's ship model contest under the auspices of the local navy recruiting office, of 165 Elizabeth Lake Road, was one of the winners. His entry was a replica of the U.S.S. "Constitution." This entitled him to compete with the same model in the state contest held in Detroit last week, where he also was a winner.

Edward McLean

"The robins surely read the Florida weather reports in your newspaper," phones of Rochester, who asserts that's why so many of them are staying over.

Absolutely in accord am I with the following letter from under a Pontiac postmark: "I wonder why it is that those who do not smoke must forever inhale the stinking fumes from those nicotine addicts who chain-smoke. Is there any way in which this deplorable situation can be corrected? What do your readers think?"

Yes, the ice now is safe on our smaller lakes. But beware of the larger lakes, especially those which have streams flowing through them.

of Flint calls us "backwoods Oakland County." He says we've gone wild. Driving to Detroit the other day, he killed a cock pheasant that flew against his car just northwest of Pontiac, and a few minutes later saw a flock of quail. When returning the same night he almost ditched his car dodging a pair of deer near the same location.

Capped, but Still Rather Messy

David Lawrence Says:

Ike Expresses Hope for the World

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower delivered on Thursday perhaps the greatest State paper of modern times. It was not just a "State of the Union" message. It was a message on the "State of the World." It was not addressed just to the American people but to all the peoples of the world.

LAWRENCE

Far beyond its appraisals of domestic problems and the special issues that face America, Mr. Eisenhower made his first dramatic appeal to the people of the Soviet Union, over the heads of the Communist government in Moscow. This passage in his address will be of transcendent significance in winning the hearts and minds of people around the globe:

"My call for action is not primarily addressed to the Congress and people of the United States. Rather, it is a message from the people of the United States to all other peoples, especially those of the Soviet Union. This is the spirit of what we would like to say:

"'In the last analysis there is only one solution to the grim problems that lie ahead. The world must stop the present plunge toward more and more destructive weapons of war, and turn the corner that will start our steps firmly on the path toward lasting peace.

"'Our greatest hope for success lies in a universal fact: the people of the world, as people, have always wanted peace and want peace now.

"'The problem, then, is to find a way of translating this universal desire into action. This will require more than words of peace. It requires works of peace.'"

OFFERS FRIENDSHIP

The President outlined various means of cooperation in "works of peace" and, as a beginning, suggested cooperation in research projects in the field of cancer and heart disease. He recommended broad cultural and scientific programs, too, and showed clearly that America wants to extend the hand of friendship to the Soviet people.

Small wonder that leaders of both political parties here praised the address. For in it was a statement of American idealism which reflects the heart and mind of the American people today.

KEYNOTE OF CONFIDENCE

There was in the President's speech a balanced emphasis on military matters — a careful exposition of how firmly the United States stands today well prepared against any possible attack and of how strong America expects to be in "deterrent power" in the not-far-distant future. But basically the keynote was confidence and reassurance.

On the domestic situation, with a business decline going on that has increased unemployment, the President was forthright and outspoken. He said.

"There are solid grounds for confidence that economic growth will be resumed without an extended interruption. Moreover, the Federal Government, constantly alert to signs of weakening in any part of our economy, always stands ready, with its full power, to take any appropriate further action to promote renewed business expansion."

Controversies there will be on mutual aid, tariffs, and the size of the appropriations for defense and nondefense items. But it is significant that the speech was interrupted with applause at least 35 times, and many of the outbursts were prolonged. The President looked healthy and spoke with his accustomed ease. It seems incredible that only a few weeks ago impulsive-minded politicians were calling on him to "resign."

Mr. Eisenhower opened the door to the making of peace in the world. He pleaded for disarmament and promised that "we, as a Nation, will always go the extra mile with anyone on earth if it will bring us nearer a genuine peace."

Mr. Eisenhower reviewed particularly the past efforts at disarmament negotiations and challenged the Soviets to resume the parleys which they have up to now refused to reopen.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Mothers Scared of Colds or of Gossipy Neighbors?

In Canandaigua in the golden days, Chapel Street and all the other streets were unpretentious dirt roads.

DR. BRADY

The Chapel Street roadway was as fine a playground as kids could want—guarded by majestic elms with horse chestnuts here and there to provide ammunition.

On Sundays, if we edged off the porch and started passing the ball back and forth, the shouting inevitably brought an investigation and this comment from mother: "Boys! Boys!! Aren't you ashamed? Get into the back yard at once! What will the neighbors think?"

I was reminded of this by Mrs. C.B.'s letter:

"We moved here to Topeka last year. To our neighbors' horror, we allowed our children to play outdoors in sunsuits on a warm January day. They certainly were more comfortable than the neighbors' children in their heavy, cumbersome winter dress. We had no more illness than they."

A child knows better than a guardian does whether or not he or she is comfortable. If the child is uncomfortable from too much clothing, for health's sake give him a break — let him throw off whatever he doesn't want to wear!

HAD GOOD TIME

Mrs. C.B.'s children probably enjoyed playing in sunsuits. The children of the horrified neighbors were so heavily bundled that they couldn't enjoy playing.

On any question of exposure to cold, dampness, drafts, sudden changes, insufficient clothing and the like, most readers probably think they know more than I do; and in the unlikely event that one of them should ask his trick specialist or clinic racketeer about it, he will probably be assured that the 19 Century view is correct.

Nostrum mongers spend a large portion of their take, keeping sophomorons preoccupied with germ-killing and maintaining "resistance" — whatever that may be.

Insurance companies spend a lot of policyholders' money by advising sophomorons to eat good, nourishing, easily digestible food —whatever that may be — and to button up their overcoats.

It was Josh Billings who said "It is better not to know so much than to know so many things that ain't so."

Says Socialist Workers Party Can Do No Harm

I see some of our citizens are urging voters not to sign a petition to put the Socialist Worker's party on the ballot. Why not? You don't have to vote that way if you choose not to.

For years we've had only one party — the Capitalist party — leaving us no other choice. This isn't fair, so what's wrong having a party for the working class? From the general outlook we're going to need it.

It can do us no harm but could do a lot of good. So come on, you red-blooded Americans, be realistic. Sign the petition whenever you're asked and let's put the party on the ballot. It's the only way our citizens will ever have any choice.

Armed Forces to Help Space Weapons Agency

WASHINGTON (AP)—The armed forces are expected to contribute both manpower and money to the Pentagon's new agency for planning weapons of space warfare. That organization eventually may work with a fund approaching half a billion dollars.

★ ★ ★

President Eisenhower, in his State of the Union message, gave a brief outline yesterday of the mission of the "Advanced Research Projects Agency" which Secretary of Defense McElroy is now organizing.

Eisenhower said McElroy is concentrating into the single organization "all the antimissile and satellite technology undertaken within the Department of Defense."

The President also said elsewhere in his address that "we must be forward-looking in our research and development to anticipate and achieve the unimagined weapons of the future."

The antimissile missile problem comes within the scope of the new agency's activity for two reasons: (1) the weapons will be those of the future; and (2) they will work out in the fringes of space to intercept and destroy intercontinental ballistic missiles arching toward American targets at speeds of more than 10,000 miles an hour.

Eisenhower's reference to "satellite technology" presumably means the application to military requirements of discoveries made in the development of purely scientific research satellites like the Navy Vanguard and the Army Jupiter-C projects.

This would mean exploration and then development of satellites into actual space vehicles and whole weapons systems for outer space.

One of the earliest efforts of the ARPA probably will be to perfect a television-equipped, unmanned satellite to serve as a vehicle for reconnaissance over literally the whole world.

The Defense Department plans to transfer about 10 million dollars from its own fund to get the ARPA started. No further financing details were disclosed.

Reports indicate a total of about 400 million may be shifted from funds of the Air Force, Navy and Army to support ARPA.

Scientists and technicians from the three services also are expected to be transferred to the space agency.

It is a topsy-turvy world . . . When you consider it . . . A sort of jigsaw puzzle with . . . The pieces hard to fit . . . The children want to be grown up . . . They make like Mom and Dad . . . As they play house, and they pretend . . . Their kids are good or bad . . . And when the years go by and when . . . They raise a family . . . They sigh because they have so much . . . Responsibility . . . They wish, if only for a day . . . They could be small again . . . As carefree and protected and . . . As gay as they were then . . . Until at last the jigsaw fades . . . When all the pieces fit . . . As now they realize they are grown . . . And they are stuck with it.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

Why not let up on the teenagers and give 'em a chance to grow out of it? We wouldn't have wanted to live next door to the Edisons when Tom was a boy.

You would have more gimmicks on your gadgets than a Ubangi at the smorgasbord table.

Do you know the worst thing the teenagers of America ever did? They fought the Civil War.

That goes for the North and South both. Ever read Stephen Crane's Red Badge of Courage?"

They were in uniform too. Eighteen and nineteen are the correct dimensions for the tailored certificates in the government fish bowl.

Peck's Bad Boy was a terror fifty years ago. But he never was the boy marble champion with glass eyes.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Teachers Should Apply Psychology

Dr. Sam was ridiculed by some of his psychology colleagues at Pittsburgh because he attended church regularly and injected a moral influence in his psychology. But not all psychologists are atheists. We have thousands of applied psychologists who are splendid teachers and who know how to motivate pupils enthusiastically. So send for the "Test for Good Teachers" below.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, I certainly enjoyed your lecture tonight," he generously began, after my recent address at Pittsburgh.

DR. CRANE

"But I am a devotee of yours, anyway, for I have taught from your college textbook and relish your practical slant concerning psychology.

"Some of my colleagues dislike your textbook because you included that chapter 18, 'Psychology Goes to Church.'

"But they are semi-atheistic, anyway, for they used to poke fun at me, too, when I was working on my Ph. D. thesis. For I was brought up to attend church regularly.

"I find that your chapter on religion is the most popular among my students, so don't feel disturbed when some of the 'ivory tower' psychologyists try to knife you behind your back."

Last week I cited the psychologist in Washington State who said he wanted his classes to remain small.

Can you imagine a clergyman saying he didn't want a large attendance in his church?

Or a missionary who didn't want to be popular with the natives to whom he was sent?

Jesus deliberately tried to enlarge the crowds who heard him by sending his 70 disciples ahead, two by two, to publicize his coming.

A good teacher should thus try to "sell" every student on majoring in his department. He should be a zealot, trying to make his courses so popular that enrollments would grow larger and larger.

And that is the type of teacher who will ultimately help pull colleges out of their red ink and justify higher salaries for the faculty.

DYSPEPTIC TEACHERS

A teacher who wears a sour puss and takes a dyspeptic attitude toward his own field of knowledge, is destined to failure and low salary.

Teen-agers enter college with enthusiasm for knowledge. They want to learn things worth knowing.

That's not true. Old-fashioned faculty members better wake up to reality and modern pedagogy.

Science doesn't have to be dull and boring. We medics learned long ago that you can sugar-coat bitter pills.

Good teachers likewise have learned that you can sugar-coat courses in chemistry and biology and psychology, without losing any of their scientific value.

And they know how to rate superb teaching vs. the boring, dyspeptic sort.

So send for the "Test for a Good Teacher," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20c (non-profit). This test is widely used in rating college and high school teachers.

It weeds out the poor professors from the topnotch variety, and only the inefficient teachers are afraid to be rated thereon.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

SHARON I. GLENNIE

The engagement of Sharon I. Glennie to George H. Lang Jr. has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Glennie, of 165 N. Main, Clarkston. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lang Sr., of 6185 Orion Rd., Clarkston. Both are students at Kalamazoo College. No date has been set for the wedding.

Romeo School Building Lags

Only 2 Per Cent Gain Made in Construction During December

ROMEO — Building progress on the new Romeo High School lagged during the past month, Superintendent of Schools T. C. Filppula told board members at their regular meeting last night.

Recent frigid weather, plus delay of roofing and gypsum workers to report on the job were blamed for the slowup. Only two per cent progress was recorded in December.

Filppula reported, however, that he is confident work will proceed satisfactorily in the near future. He expects the June 27 completion deadline to be met.

In the meantime, purchases of equipment and the hiring of personnel for the new building were authorized by the board. It directed the administration to begin interviewing three new hot lunch cooks, three custodians and three secretaries.

Instructor Rudolph Kamische will be released from his contract to accept the position as principal at Anchor Bay High School at the end of this semester.

Mrs. Dorothy M. Semrau was employed to replace Miss Joan Cavanagh, who resigned recently as high school English teacher.

The final fire loss adjustment of $6,387.69, incurred Oct. 1 when the present high school heating plant was damaged by fire, was accepted by the board.

County Clerk Allen Reports Record Year

LYNN D. ALLEN

Business boomed as usual last year in the Oakland County clerk's office. In fact, records were set in most business transacted, according to County Clerk Lynn D. Allen.

He said a record number of $2,788,450 in alimony payments were made during the 12-month period through the Friend of the Court Department. This compares to $2,272,000 the previous year.

Of the 2,393 divorce petitions filed, Allen said, there were 1,351 divorces granted during the year. There were 2,356 petitions filed in 1956.

There were 2,125 law and 683 criminal cases filed in the clerk's office in 1957. At the year's end, there were 2,043 and 282 of these cases pending, respectively.

Comparable figures for the previous year were 1,999 law and 699 criminal cases.

Figures released by Allen showed that there were 885 chancery suits submitted. Pending on Dec. 31 were 886 such cases, Allen said.

In 1956, there were 612 chancery suits filed and 622 pending at the conclusion of that year.

Showing increases also were the number of births and deaths recorded last year. There were 10,999 new arrivals and 4,476 deaths. This compares to 10,820 births and 4,419 deaths for 1956.

There were only 65 more marriages reported to Allen's office last year than the previous year. Figures showed 3,649 of these for 1957 and 3,584 for 1956.

The number of honorable discharges from the armed forces recorded in 1957 dropped considerably. These were 705 last year and 906 the previous year.

Those naturalized during 1957 were 167. In 1956 there were 146.

The number of times the Board of Supervisors met did not change from 1956. Supervisors gathered 14 times both years.

Orion 4-H Member Wins Scholarship

LAKE ORION — Frank Lessiter, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lessiter, of 501 Baldwin Rd., has been awarded the annual J. R. Watkins Co. University Scholarship for outstanding 4-H Club work in 1957.

★ ★ ★

Selected by State 4-H Club and school officials on the basis of his achievements in the fields of agriculture and electricity, Lessiter will continue his studies at Michigan State University.

A 1957 graduate of Lake Orion Community High School, he has been active in 4-H Club work for the past eight years.

In announcing the selection of the Lake Orion youth as the winner of the Watkins Scholarship, Kenneth Ousterling, assistant State 4-H Club leader, called attention to his outstanding record in soil conservation and dairy production.

The 1957 Watkins 4-H Club Home Economics Scholarship Award will go to Nancy Jo Kelsey, Vermontville, said Ousterling.

Commerce Roads Considered Tonight

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — The possibility of improving roads in Commerce Township will be discussed at the monthly meeting of the Township Board at 7:30 tonight.

The board will meet in the Commerce Township Hall, 2840 Fisher Ave., next door to the Oakley Park Fire Hall.

★ ★ ★

Because a proposed road improvement plan calling for a special tax levy was turned down by voters last year, the board has been trying to find a way to improve roads without additional taxation.

Red Feather Group Meeting in Marlette

MARLETTE — The annual meeting of the Marlette Township Community Chest Corporation will be held Monday evening at 8:30 in the American Legion Hall. All contributors to the Community Chest are members of the corporation.

Two new members will be elected to the Board of Directors. One will represent the South Township, the other will be from the Village.

Take Valuable Whisky

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Thieves made off with one of the world's most valuable whisky bottles. Paul Rimmer told police that contents of the bottle taken from his home, were worth $1,400. The 2-foot-tall display-size bottle contained a blend of $1 and $5 bills, Rimmer said.

Rochester Takes In $170,000

'57 Postal Receipts Climb

ROCHESTER—Gross receipts of the Rochester Post Office totaled about $170,000 in 1957, reports Postmaster Cole M. Neumann. This is an increase of $38,000 over the previous year.

Neumann attributes the marked increase to the steady growth the past year of Rochester and Avon Township.

The new North Hill Shopping Center, the increase in new families in Christian Hills, Rochester Heights No. 1 and Parkland Subdivisions, and substantial increase of business from the National Twist Drill and Tool Co. helped hike the postal receipts, he said.

Neumann also reports that metered postage has increased $29,000 and that in the past three years there has been an increase of 3,000 patrons of the office. The Rochester office now supplies 13 routes, 6 mounted routes, 1 rural, 5 foot routes and 1 parcel post route.

"There is a definite need of the proposed addition to the office," the postmaster said. An $80,000 addition was approved by the Post Office Department recently, but if the constant growth keeps up, service is bound to be impaired without more room, Neumann said.

Township Plans School Spending

$340,000 Is Proposed; Will Be Decided at Polls if Electorate Approves

WEST BLOOMFIELD TWP.—The West Bloomfield Board of Education has directed its attorneys to prepare a resolution on the proposed $340,000 bond issue to be placed before the electorate for approval, and to present it at the next board meeting Feb. 3.

★ ★ ★

Should the resolution be approved by the board, a registration period will be set for voters and an election date announced.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

An estimated $200,000 is earmarked for the remodeling of Roosevelt Elementary school. The balance will be for equipment, furniture, landscaping and a parking area for the high school, Scotch and Green schools. It also would cover the cost of installing a new boiler and an acoustic tile ceiling in the old building of Scotch School.

★ ★ ★

The board also signed a teaching contract with Miss Marlyn Hollis, a graduate of Michigan State University. She will be in charge of the art program in the West Bloomfield High School.

Walled Lake Drops Violations Bureau

WALLED LAKE—The City Council has repealed the ordinance which established violations bureau and replaced it with a resolution setting up rules and regulations for a justice court.

The board also eliminated the fee schedule for the traffic bureau.

Next month the council will be called upon to appoint a member to the Board of Review. Also expiring are terms of three members of the planning commission, Hiram Sims, Mrs. Eva Kopitz and V. Warner Liepprandt.

Hal Boyle Says:

'King of Kiddie Records' Got Idea in Army

It did even better by Cy Leslie, a big ex-sergeant in the Signal Corps. It gave him the initial idea that led to a multimillion-dollar-a-year business.

Cy, who is 35 and has the height and the heft of a professional football tackle, today is known as "the king of the kiddie records." Last month his firm pressed its 100 millionth record for children.

"Looking back, I guess I owe a lot to the Army," he said.

At the time—during World War II — Leslie didn't figure, however, the Army was doing him much of a favor by sending him to such places as New Guinea and the Philippines. He was lonely, as all soldiers are lonely.

★ ★ ★

If only a greeting card could talk. Cy brooded over the thought. Well, why couldn't a greeting card carry a vocal message? He decided it could.

"I had only $1,100 — and I put every penny into it," Cy recalled. "We wrote our own lyrics and music. I slept on the desks at night because I was too tired to go home. My mother even helped by trimming the paper-based records with her scissors.

"The cards caught on fast. The first year we took in $25,000, the second year $300,000. Then we couldn't give them away. The cards were a fad, and the fad was over."

Cy then decided to take an even bigger gamble — to enter the kiddie record field in competition with the major companies. He decided the only way he could win was to put out a 25-cent product and aim for a new mass field through supermarkets, toy stores, and mail order houses.

"I picked up a number of then unknown singers and used them to make children's records," he recalled. "Later on some of them went on to fame in the adult music field."

And Cy, who now has three childrn of his own, made one other major decision — that none of his musical versions of classic fairy tales and fables would have frightening endings.

"We'd rather take a few liberties with the story then scare a child," he said. "In our record of little Red Riding Hood, the bad wolf is caught and tied up — but he isn't axed. We don't want to give kids nightmares."

Leslie's cricket label line for tots succeeded so phenomenally that now he has begun a new line of low-priced albums for the adult market.

How was this ex-sergeant able to go out and carve his own growing empire in a 400-million-a-year industry ruled by giant companies?

"Guts and ignorance," said Leslie. "There were many times when, if we really had known what we were up against, we probably should have quit — but we didn't.

★ ★ ★

"We work on the theory that dollars are what count — not percentages. If you have the volume — and you'll get the volume if your product is good and your price is low — you'll get the dollars."

Fulbright Warns Ike of Foreign Aid Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) said today President Eisenhower will have to use all the power at his command to prevent Congress from slashing foreign economic aid "below the danger point."

★ ★ ★

Fulbright and Senators H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), Humphrey (D-Minn) and Sparkman (D-Ala) agreed with Eisenhower that it would be "reckless folly" to develop and produce these weapons "and expand our economic aid program abroad at the same time."

Eisenhower is expected to propose about $3,900,000,000 in military and economic aid for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Won't Pay Cash to Support Troops

BONN, Germany (AP)— Finance officials said today West Germany will refuse to pay in cash for the support of British troops stationed in Germany.

A decision of the NATO Council yesterday favoring Britain was not regarded as a binding instruction to West Germany to pay, officials in the Finance Ministry said.

They said rising German defense costs and the strain on the Bonn budget excluded the possibility of paying in cash the 140 million dollars Britain asked to support its four divisions and a tactical Air Force in Germany the next year.

★ ★ ★

Bonn was ready, however, to help Britain overcome the difficulty of finding the German marks required for the local expenses of the British forces, Finance Ministry officials said.

Store Robbed, He Quits

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Robert Ratliff, 35, has had enough. He announced he was quitting his job after the grocery store he manages was robbed for the fourth time in six months. The bandits beat him over the head with a pistol in the last robbery.

A Junior Editors Quiz About YOU

QUESTION: Why doesn't your blood run to your feet when you stand up?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: You are so used to standing that you probably don't notice just what your blood does do. But actually, more blood goes to your feet when you stand than when you are lying down. The reason that a good share of it doesn't settle there is that your arteries and veins—the tubes through which blood circulates in your bodies—contain little valves. Blood can pass through these valves in one direction only. Every time your heart pumps blood into the arteries, it can travel therefore in one direction only, without piling up at any one point. It can return to the heart only by going the long way around, through the veins and back again.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Try standing on your head, instead of your feet, and you will notice quickly enough that your face gets flushed, a sign that your blood is trying to collect in one spot. But, right side up or upside down, those valves will keep it pretty well under control.

Singer Gets Heart's Desire---Pink Kitchen!

By OLGA CURTIS

NEW YORK (INS)—Singer Abbe Lane owns two mink coats, a chinchilla stole, an 18-carat diamond ring, a dark green sports car, a husband named Xavier Cugat, a starring part in a Broadway musical and a brand-new pink kitchen.

★ ★ ★

But is she happy?

"Now I am," enthused Miss Lane. "I finally got what I wanted—a pink kitchen."

A pink kitchen?

"It's been my secret ambition for years," said Miss Lane, staring modestly into her 18-carat diamond. "I've been in show business since I was a child, and what with singing and movies and TV, I didn't learn to cook until three years ago.

"And then my cook wouldn't let me into the kitchen to practice."

But not even a large Swedish cook can keep a determined girl out of the kitchen. Especially if the girl has red hair, 12 new potholders and a spare $6,000 with which to build a dream kitchen of her own.

Miss Lane's little $6,000 dream, occupying one whole end of her New York apartment, is a tribute to womanly impulse. It is a symphony of pink sinks, built-in copper ovens, pink electric stoves, pale purple shutters, copper toasters and built-in TV sets.

"None of this roast beef and mashed potatoes," she emphasized. "I shall make lentil soup with little sausages and onions, salad with lots of olive and garlic and onion, steaks marinated in garlic and vinegar, chili and maybe cornbread.

Miss Lane won't let her passion for cookery interfere with such practical matters as making money, though.

"You can bet I won't do any cooking on stage," she said emphatically. "The men at home watching me have their own cooks in the kitchen; from me they don't want cooking.

"So I shall, um, sing."

Miss Lane swears that it's only by pure coincidence that her part in the forthcoming Broadway show "Oh Captain" is that of a sexy wench who really yearns for the pots and pans.

Hattie Carnegie's checked tweed dress and costume has a back-paneled jacket. The sleeveless dress is unfitted with banded square neckline.

With Quiet Colors, Soft Curves

Classic Suit Holds Favor of Designers

By OLGA CURTIS
INS Women's Editor

NEW YORK (INS) — Fashions come and go, but the classic suit made famous by the late Hattie Carnegie apparently goes on forever.

The Carnegie collection for spring 1958 again features this slim-skirted, gently-curved suit in quiet colors—just about the same delicately-detailed suit women have loved for years.

This year, the suit has a hipbone-length jacket, semi-fitted to stand slightly away from the body. One exception is a "horseshoe" suit, whose short jacket is cut away in front.

Back detailing is important in the new Carnegie clothes: Gentle back blousing on dresses, seam detailing on the backs of coats. Dresses, incidentally, are slim to fit their name — "Arrow Silhouette" — and most often bare-armed and boat-necked.

STICK TO CLASSIC

Two other fine clothing makers, Ben Reig and Maurice Rentner, also pay tribute to the "classic" this spring.

The bloused silhouette is Reig's concession to new trends, but waistlines in front remain contoured and the blousing is kept at back. Suits and dresses that are bloused usually have belts marking the waistline above slim or peplumed skirts.

Rentner offers a "mobile" silhouette which loosens his classic suits ever so lightly. Some dresses, however, are straight chemises, but with belts offered if the wearer wants her waistline.

Most day dresses are not nipped in at the waist; several add hemline interest with a tiny flared flounce. Ensembles, however, make the most of curves with draped midriff cummerbunds showing under little jackets.

Evening clothes at Rentner are full-skirted and definitely waisted. But they all have hemline interest, dipping up in front, down in back.

Viernes to Hold Second Party

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cousins have been named chairmen for the dancing party to be given by the Viernes Dancing Club Jan. 17 at the Elk's Temple Ballroom. Assisting the two will be Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bonner, Mr. and Mrs. John Streit and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Galloway.

This will be the group's second party of the season.

Do-C-Do Marks 11th Birthday

Among the new officers of Leal Emes Group of First Presbyterian Church are Ethel Graham, chairman; Mrs. Lawrence McDowell, vice chairman; Barbara Hall, secretary and Harriet Gates, treasurer.

MR. and MRS. SHELLEY K. PRESNELL

Celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary are Mr. and Mrs. Shelley K. Presnell of Fourth street. Their six children are C. R. Presnell of Indianapolis, Mrs. C. F. Oglesby of Detroit, Elmer W. Presnell of Mark street, William H. Presnell of Clarkston, Orman Presnell of La Habra, Calif., and Mrs. Laverne Alsbrook of Nortonville, Ky.

Officers Are Elected by Church Auxiliary

Officers were elected when the Women's Auxiliary of All Saints Episcopal Church gathered in the Rose Kneale Room of Stevens Hall Thursday, with Mrs. James Hampton presiding.

Mrs. Robert Nienstedt was elected president for the coming year. Assisting her will be Mrs. Frederick Cockle, first vice president; Mrs. Loren Sheffield, second vice president; Mrs. Don L. Harrison, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Evans, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Elmer Quine, treasurer.

REPORTS HEARD

Annual reports of the twelve guilds of the parish, outlining their activities and earnings of the year, were presented.

Announcement was made of the Jan. 20 meeting at Christ Church, Cranbrook. Speaker will be the Rev. William Norvell and Mrs. David Thornberry.

Baroque Trio to Play for Pontiac Musical

Performing Jan. 14 for members of Pontiac Tuesday Musicale will be the Baroque Trio. The concert will be held in Fellowship Hall of Grace Lutheran Church.

Artists will be introduced by Mrs. Rebecca Gould, program chairman of the day.

Formed in 1954, the Baroque Trio, presents three musicians of established artistry and national repute. Nelson Hauenstein, a founding member of the University of Michigan Woodwind Quintet, has won high regard as a solo flutist.

Florian Mueller, solo oboe of the Chicago Symphony for many years, came to the University in 1954.

Marilyn Mason Brown, a faculty member of the University, has attained acclaim as an organ soloist.

SELECTIONS SLATED

On the program for the Jan. 14 concert is "Trio Sonata in C" by Johann Christoph Pepusch; "Sonata in D for Oboe and Harpischord" by Thomas Vincent and "Trio Sonata in A Minor" by Karl Phillip Emanuel Bach.

★ ★ ★

Following the intermission, "Sonata in C for Flute and Harpischord" by Johann Sebastian Bach will be played. Completing the program will be Tommaso Albinoni's "Sonata da Chiesa a Tre."

Wellesley Club Members Plan Dinner-Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Willard H. Parsons of Detroit will speak and show slides of Hawaii. He is professor of geology at Wayne State University and a trustee of Cranbrook Institute of Science. Mrs. Parsons is an alumna of Wellesley College. Their talk will include geographical and sociological observations gathered over the year when the Parsons studied the extinct volcano, Kilauea, in Hawaii.

Queen Mary Needlework Guild Meets

The Queen Mary Needlework Guild met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. George Bickley at her home on Mechanic street for a business and social meeting.

Reports were heard from the Welfare Committee regarding the Christmas Cheer given to needy families. Letters of thanks from those receiving the gifts were read.

Mrs. Alex Joss, knitting chairman, distributed yarn to members to begin the year's knitting project.

A social hour was held after the meeting. Mrs. Walter Galbraith invited the group to her home for the Jan. 23 meeting.

Presbyterian Unit Installs Officers

Officers of November Group of First Presbyterian Church were installed when that group met Wednesday evening in the Pioneer drive home of Mrs. William De Roo. As part of the installation, retiring officers presented candles of service to the newly elected officers.

Mrs. Robert Pritchett served as cohostess for the 14 members present. Kay Pitchett was a guest.

Mrs. Francis Is Speaker

Zonta Club Aims Defined

Mrs. George Francis of Saginaw, vice president of Zonta International, spoke to 63 members and guests of the Pontiac Zonta Club Thursday evening.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Francis told the group gathering at Kingsley Inn that Zonta's purpose is to build a well-ordered community. She discussed the early organization of Zonta Clubs and said that today there are 367 clubs with a total membership of 13,944.

PROCLAMATION READ

A proclamation from Gov. G. Mennen Williams was read, proclaiming this week as Amelia Earhart Week, in honor of Michigan Zonta clubs.

Mrs. Chadd Mellinger, president of the local club, presented the proclamation to Mrs. Francis, to be kept for District Five.

Mrs. S. B. Wattles, service chairman, reported that $1,250 of the $2,000 pledge the club has made to Girls' Ranch has been reached.

PLANS TRIBUTE

Other service activities were outlined, and the group voted to make a permanent tribute at Girls' Ranch in honor of the late Mrs. Lloyd Burnes. The group will furnish a room of Girls' Ranch, at its completion, as the memorial.

★ ★ ★

Helen Davidson of Highland Park Zonta Club was a special guest, and welcomed as a new member was Dorothy Olson.

Tells European Way

Teachers Hear Student

Teachers' Exchange Club heard Eckart Keller, American Field Service Exchange student from Dortmund, Germany at a meeting Thursday.

The student, who is attending Avondale High School, compared the school system in Germany with U. S. methods, pointing out that in Europe there is specialized training of high school students. With this specializing, there is a gradual elimination of students after the age of 15, he noted.

Shoes Made of Aluminum

CHICAGO (INS)—The latest material for women's shoes is woven aluminum.

Pair Finds Bridge Club Uncongenial

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Several months ago my husband and I were invited to join a bridge club. We had substituted at this club on two occasions and thought the group very congenial. So when one of the couples moved to another city and my husband and I were asked to join permanently, we were delighted to do so.

"However, after playing with them regularly, we find we really do not enjoy these evenings as much as we thought we would and somehow feel out of place. We would like to drop out. Can you suggest a tactful exit for us?"

Answer: Find something, a series of lectures for instance, that you can say your husband and you very much want to attend, and which will be on the same evening the bridge club meets.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Last week my boy friend surprised me by giving me an engagement ring. It was a lot sooner than I had expected to get it. We cannot be married until next year and I would rather have my parents wait for awhile to announce the engagement in the newspapers. Does this mean that I may not wear my ring before they make the announcement?"

Answer: If you wear your engagement ring it will certainly announce to all those who see it that you are engaged.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Occasionally my boss will introduce me to a business acquaintance who comes into the office. Should I shake hands upon being introduced, or do I just say, 'How do you do, Mr. Jones?' "

Answer: You simply say "How do you do, Mr. Jones?" with a smile. You of course should be ready to shake hands if he starts to extend his.

Officers Are Named by Wilson PTA

Mrs. Charles Butler was named mother vice president of Wilson School PTA by the executive board to fill an unexpired term. Others named were Charles Butler, father vice president and Mrs. John Egbert, secretary.

Program chairman, Mrs. C. Stait Lloyd, introduced Mrs. James Hereford who spoke on duties of the visiting teacher. Refreshments were served at the Thursday afternoon meeting by third and fourth grade mothers.

You Must Diet Several Days Before Losing

Weigh Self at End of Each Week

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Friday Question Box)

This week I am using the Question Box for the entrants in my Eight Week Self - Improvement Marathon. I want to make your endeavor in self-improvement as helpful and personal as possible. I wish that I could talk to each one of you individually.

Q. "Should I weigh every day?"

A. No. This is discouraging and has no meaning. You will have to diet several days without any loss. Then suddenly you will drop 2 or 3 pounds. Weigh yourself at the end of each week.

★ ★ ★

Q. "What time of day should I weigh?"

A. In the morning after going to the bathroom and before dressing.

Q. "Will steam baths help in my reducing efforts?"

A. No. They will simply fool you. The loss in poundage from steam baths is a temporary water loss. You will gain all of the lost weight back after drinking liquids. These baths have other values but not for losing those extra pounds of fat.

Q. "Shall I exercise during my menstrual periods?"

A. Many physicians feel that it is better to eliminate strenuous exercise for a few days at this time.

Q. "Is exercise safe for everyone?"

A. You should not start an exercise routine without first having your blood pressure and heart checked by your phyician.

Q. "Is it dangerous to cut down on calories?"

A. No. Not if you do so scientifically. Eat a well-balanced diet but cut down on amounts. For eight weeks hold your daily intake to about 1,200 a day not lower than that or more than 1,400.

Q. "How long must I exercise each day in order to get results?"

A. Twenty or 30 minutes.

Q. "Are exercises more effective at one time of day than another?"

A. No. Do them at the time most convenient for you, except when digestion is at its height.

If you haven't yet joined the Marathon and would like to do so, there is still time. Send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of the Pontiac Press.

In order not to get discouraged with slow weight losses, weigh yourself at the end of each week, instead of each day.

January Meetings Held by Presbyterian Women

Women's Association of Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church held January meetings this week.

Lucille McBane Group met in the Summit street home of Mrs. Fred Froede with Mrs. William Bray as cohostess. Mrs. John Martin gave a report on the background of Japan. Mrs. Donald Upton Jr. also participated in the program.

★ ★ ★

The West Hopkins street home of Mrs. Herman Reeder was the setting for the meeting of Eleanor Vanlierop Group with Mrs. Walter Napersky as cohostess. Mrs. James Talmage and Mrs. Reeder participated in the program.

MEET IN CHURCH

Eleanor Creswell Group met in the church with Mrs. Vern Dillahunt outlining "What is a Missionary." Mrs. E. J. Schultz and Mrs. Donald Wilson took part in the program.

Ann McGeough Group met in the Neome drive home of Mrs. Omar McNutt. Mrs. Ernal Lloyd and Mrs. William Coffing participated in the program.

The East Third street home of Mrs. Donald Upton was the setting for a meeting of Margery Peters Group, with Mrs. Leon Verwey as cohostess. Mrs. Ralph Osborne reviewed the book, "The Triumph of John and Betty Stam," Mrs. Verwey also took part in the program.

Tell the Bald Truth When Hair's Down

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Last year the husbands of us married women kicked up such a fuss because they weren't invited to the Christmas party that they were all invited this year.

ABBY

Here is how my husband acted: When my foreman asked me to dance, my husband practically pushed me into his arms and then as we danced away, he yelled, "Take her outside if you want to!"

I was so embarrassed I shook like a leaf and couldn't even follow this here foreman. When I see him at work, I get red and can't even look at him. Now do you think husbands ought to be invited to Christmas parties?

RED FACE

DEAR RED: Not yours!

DEAR ABBY: I am seriously interested in a man who has a pleasing personality. He makes a nice appearance except for one thing. He wears a toupee which is very artificial looking, especially from the back.

I would much prefer him bald. How can I get this message over to him without hurting his feelings?

LADY FRIEND

DEAR LADY FRIEND: One day when you get to know each other better — he will "take his hair down" — and when he does, tell him to leave it down.

DEAR ABBY: My mother always told me to stay away from soldiers, but I fell in love with a sergeant. We went around together for about five months and I really cared for him a lot.

He said he never knew what love was till he met me. All of a sudden he disappeared into thin air. I got worried so I called his base and all the information I could get was that his outfit had been transferred.

One of his buddies kind of dropped a hint once that my boy friend was married down in Oklahoma and had three kids. Do you think this could be true and how can I find out?

JILTED

DEAR JILTED: Your boy friend didn't disappear in thin air—he disappeared in HOT air. If he didn't bother to say goodby—write him off and forget him.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am having trouble with my husband again. He doesn't like to bathe in the winter. He says it opens his pores and he might get pneumonia or the flu or something.

Not only that but he sleeps in his underwear and keeps right on wearing it. What am I going to do with him? This is the only thing I have against him. What can I do about it?

TIRED OF ARGUING

DEAR TIRED: He needs a doctor to convince him that bathing in winter is as necessary as bathing in summer—and no more dangerous. As for the underwear—you'd have to start from scratch.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO PHOTOGRAPHER'S MODEL: I don't trust him. If you must pose—watch the MAN not the birdie!

★ ★ ★

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

PTA Features Bake Sale

A bake sale was held in connection with the first PTA meeting of the new year in the Herrington Hills School multi-purpose room Wednesday evening.

Roll call was won by the afternoon kindergarten class. Refreshments, following the meeting, were provided and served by the fourth grade mothers.

She May Believe Mate's Dark Prophesy

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Mrs. K. writes, "If one of our children lies or does something wrong, my husband says it's my 'bad blood' in them. He is reminding me that my father died of alcoholism.

★ ★ ★

"God knows, I don't need reminding. His drunkenness was my girlhood's nightmare. I tell my husband that I can't stand hearing that the children have inherited my father's weakness, but he goes right on."

I have a message for Mrs. K. It's from Dr. George S. Stevenson, noted psychiatrist and national consultant to the National Association for Mental Health. It's this:

"While there is a suspicion among some scientists that there is a predisposition to alcoholism, the bulk of evidence suggests that it is not inherited."

Mr. K. may not stop accusing his wife of poisoning their children's blood because the accusation is unreasonable.

ANOTHER WAY

Sometimes a person's need to make us feel helpless is stronger than his reason. If we disprove the charge that we have transmitted a bad inheritance to our children, he'll just locate another way to make us feel helplessly victimized by forces beyond our control.

So Mrs. K.'s answer may not be to correct her accuser but to correct her response to his accusation.

To do this she may need the kind of help her local Family Service Association can make available to her.

If we have had an alcoholic parent, we can be easily infected by his sense of helplessness. Without being at all conscious of what we're doing, we can allow our long, painful experience with his uncontrollable behavior to distort our response to children's.

If Bobby tells a lie or Mary neglects chores for movie magazines, we'll bring to their irresponsibility all the discouragement aroused by their grandfather's.

We'll imagine we're as powerless to help Bobby learn to trust the truth as we were to stop our father's drinking. In Mary's carelessness we'll see his fatal submission to impulses.

WE'RE PROJECTING

Psychiatrists would say we were "projecting" the helplessness we felt toward our father on to our children.

★ ★ ★

Thus, Mrs. K.'s real problem may not be her husband's unreasonable prophesy of more suffering ahead; it may be her own expectation of it.

Make Babysitting Chore Pleasant for Grandmother

Consideration by Parents Prevents Resentment From Developing

By RUTH MILLETT

Here are a few rules designed to make your mother or mother-in-law happy to sit with your children occasionally.

Every one of them has been suggested by letters from grandmothers who say they resent babysitting with their grandchildren because of the lack of consideration on the part of the parents.

Pick her up and take her home at the end of the evening. Don't expect her to drive her own car alone at night.

If you are going out for dinner and expect her to eat with the children, have a good meal prepared and ready to go on the table. Don't leave her to cook the meal or eat leftovers.

Invite her to your home as a guest more often than you ask her to babysit while you are out.

Don't insult her with a long list of instructions about what to do and not to do. If she managed to rear a family of her own, she can look after your children for an evening without a lot of advice and rules.

Encourage your children to love and mind their grandmother, so that taking care of them is a pleasure to her.

Take time when you return home to tell her about your evening, instead of rushing her out of the house so that you can fall in bed.

Show your appreciation by more than routine thanks. Letting her know how much it means to you to be able to go out without having a worry on your mind will make her feel that she is contributing to your happiness.

Even though she is generous enough to offer, never let her give up plans of her own to take over your responsibilities.

Sunlight cannot penetrate water more than one-quarter of a mile. Below that depth there is little plant life in lakes or oceans.

Joyce Elaine Finzel Wed in California Ceremony

Chapel of Wedding Bells, Bellflower, Calif., was the setting for the wedding of Joyce Elaine Finzel of Downey, Calif., and David Parker, also of Downey.

Mrs. James Campbell of Filer street and Leo Finzel of Clarkston are the bride's parents, and the bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Jesse Parker of San Leandro, Calif. The Rev. Mr. Parker performed the ceremony.

For her Dec. 20 wedding, the bride wore a white lace gown, cocktail length, with scoop neckline and long pointed sleeves. A tiara of lace and seed pearls held her shoulder - length veil, and the bridal bouquet was an arrangement of white orchids, and carried white camellias.

Miriam Stelzer was honor maid and Rosemarie Zumstein was the bridesmaid. Both were gowned in red satin cocktail-length dresses and carried white camellias.

Panel Studies Segregation

St. Mike's 10th Grade English Classes Discuss Many Topics

By MICHAEL BUCHANAN

In an effort to develop group participation, ability and poise in speaking before an audience, and to stimulate thinking, the tenth grade of St. Michael High School is holding a series of classroom panel discussions.

Topics include segregation, cancer and cigarette smoking, earth satellites, hot-rods and drag-strips. The discussions are prepared in addition to regular classroom work in fundamentals of English.

Five boys from St. Michael's are going to Cranbrook School for Boys in Bloomfield Hills tomorrow to participate in a nationwide college entrance examination. Part of the group are taking it in order to qualify for the General Motors Scholarship, while Michael Biallas is taking it for the National Merit Scholarship program.

★ ★ ★

LINCOLN, Neb. (INS) — The University of Nebraska is going to construct a greenhouse made of plastic instead of glass.

Agronomists say the plastic windows will cost about one-fifth what glass would cost and will offer more insulation than single-pane glass.

Lincoln Choir to Sing at U. of M. Conference

The Lincoln Junior High School Concert Choir travels to Ann Arbor tomorrow to sing a half hour program at the Midwestern Conference on School, Vocal and Instrumental Music held on the campus of the University of Michigan.

The program will open with "Theme Song" written by the director, Jerry Smith, and will continue with "Hear My Cry, O God", by Lekberg; "When the Saints Go Marching In" by Howorth; "Holiday Song" by Schumann; sections from "Annie Get Your Gun" by Berlin; and "Give Me A Song To Sing" by Elliott. Jill Hicks will be the accompanist.

Lincolites are participating in a city school - wide drive to collect used clothing for redistribution to needy children. Paul Allison of the Child Accounting Department heads the committee with Philip Wargelin as collector for Lincoln. The filling of clothes boxes will start January 13 when all homerooms will make contributions. The Salvation Army; St. Vincent dePaul Society, and The Dorcas Society of the Seventh Day Adventists will check the donations for redistributions.

Saving nickels and dimes is being done by the 128 students in the ninth grade who have signed up for the annual trip to Washington, D. C. from April 30 to May 4. A man and a woman faculty member will be assigned to each of the four busses making the trip under the sponsorship of Ralph Forman, assistant principal.

The Teen Age Dance Night was held at Lincoln on Wednesday in the school gym for an evening of square dancing. Russell Frid and Norbert Daul were sponsors with the Pontiac City Recreation Department.

An unusual project was developed in printing class when Ronald Mansen designed an emblem featuring the printing classes of Lincoln Junior High. Through a silk screen process the emblem is transferred to the white T shirts of the class members. The Lincoln lettering surrounds a silhouette of Abraham Lincoln: George Gary is the printing instructor of the class.

Washington Students Vote for Councilmen

Candidates are president—Gary Henry, Loretta Nosanchuk, and Susie Newhouse; vice president—Darlene Woodhull and Alan Buchman, and secretary - treasurer — Nancy Crawford and Linda Olds.

The bi-weekly dances, sponsored by the Student Council and the city recreation department were resumed on Wednesday after an omission of four weeks due to the holiday vacation. These alternate as square and social dances.

The most recent faculty wedding was that of the former Faith Cook, music instructor, who became Mrs. Arthur Berg. Berg is principal of Bellevue, Michigan high school.

Joining the faculty this week was John English who will teach English and social studies. English will also act as adviser for an eighth grade homeroom group.

Gerald Smith of Michigan State University is a new student teacher. Smith is working with Vern Riemenschneider in English and social studies.

FAMILY DAY AT ST. FRED'S — In observance of the feast of the Holy Family, St. Frederick High School students will attend the Holy Family Hour Sunday at St. Vincent's Church. Left to right are students who will participate in a skit. They are Julie Slowik, 691 N. Squirrel Rd., Auburn Heights, chairman; Judy Armel, 311 Dick St., and Rose Marie Sclesky, 3014 Bessie St., Auburn Heights.

Eastern Gals Favor Kickball

Kickball has been a favorite girls' sport at Eastern Junior High School this year. In a recent tournament the ninth grade champion team and all-school champions was the "Just Between Them and Us" team captained by Pamela Pullis.

★ ★ ★

The champion eighth grade team was the "Blue Bobbers." Their team was composed of Maxine King, captain; Dianna Rounding, Gale Taylor, Cheryl Adler, Diane Agar, Deborah Boone.

The seventh grade champion team was the "Sideburn Rockers." The team consisted of Orlene Trammell, captain; Carol Farner, Debby Swain, Janet Crocker, Sanday Anderson, Carol Avery, Beverly Lowe, Charlotte Mellor and Judy Williams.

Clarkston Students Attend Detroit Play

Members of the sixth hour speech class and the senior chorus at Clarkston High School attended the play, "The Most Happy Fellow," at the Riviera Theater in Detroit last night.

Barton Connors heads the instrumental program of music at Clarkston High School. His senior band, composed of some 60 members has participated in many events this year, including parades, concert, and playing at pep assemblies and football games.

The band marched in two parades here in Clarkston this past summer, took part in a Milford centennial celebration, and, by special invitation, played and marched at the Annual Band Day held at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

The band has also actively participated in the sports activities here at school. Playing at most of the home football games and several away games, they prepared before-game and half-time shows for the fans.

4 MSU Student Teachers Begin at Madison

James Blackburn will do his work in Industrial Arts under the direction of John Blake; Beryl Bremen will teach in the physical education department under Arlene Oates; Joan Detmers will train in the art department with Pauline Woodin, and Sandra Shaw is doing her practice teaching in social studies with Dea Hall as her critic teacher.

During the week of January 13-17, clothing collections will be made during the homeroom period throughout Madison. The collection will be part of the city wide "Share The Clothing Week". All of the clothing donated will be distributed to needy children in this area.

Half of Newsprint in U.S.

CHICAGO — More than half the world's annual output of newsprint is consumed by the United States. Daily and Sunday newspapers account for 93 per cent of the newsprint used in this country.

St. Fred Pupils to Observe Holy Family Day

By PATRICIA FOSTER

After having enjoyed two weeks of leisure, students at St. Frederick High School returned to classes Monday to begin discussions in the home sodalities on the observance of the feast of the Holy Family this coming Sunday.

Family Holy Hours are being held throughout the Diocese and we will have our own Holy Family Hour Sunday at St. Vincents from 4 to 5 p.m.

The future teachers club are participating to encourage attendance at the Holy Hour by instructing grade school pupils to have their families present and to join in the Family Holy Hour and Communion Crusade.

The high school students will produce a short skit. The skit was written and acted out by members of the Senior Girls Sodality.

Youths Start Mugging Early, Officer Learns

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Police Private Chris F. Preston had stopped for a traffic light when the pair wielding knives approached and one said, "Wanna feel my blade, man?"

Preston said he could barely see them from the car. One was 9, the other 10.

Judge Emmett H. Nanna said the youngsters were "a little young to be in the mugging business," told their parents to "lay on a little wood."

Begum Aga Khan Holds Great Power

PARIS — The Begum Aga Khan intends to be the power behind young Prince Karim, the new Aga, she made plain in her first interview.

At her villa in Cannes, the Begum — who as Yvette Labrousse won a "Miss France" beauty contest in 1930, said "Karim would be foolish not to take my advice."

The late Aga Khan directed in his will that for at least seven years after his death his wife should guide his successor. "To me that is a sacred document," she said. "Now that my husband is dead I think I have more insight into Ismaili problems than anyone."

She said her husband decided two years before his death that his grandson Karim, eldest son of Aly Khan, should succeed him.

Fuchs Doggedly Treks Closer to South Pole

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

"We will find our own way out."

This message, from Dr. Vivian Ernest Fuchs, reminded Britons today of the glory that once was theirs in man's struggle to conquer nature . . . before the United States and Russia made the race into space their own private competitive concern.

Fuchs, as he plods ever closer to the South Pole, is making what has been called "the last great journey" on earth: Up to now, no one has succeeded in traveling across the Antarctic continent by land, a distance of some 2,100 treacherous miles.

To Britons, as one remarked when the Fuchs expedition got under way last November, "It is fitting that the last great adventure left to challenge the human spirit on the earth should be carried out by the British" since England "has always led in terrestrial exploration."

And it is equally fitting that Fuchs should be leading the adventure. He looks like an explorer, a 6-foot-tall, handsome, chunky man with bushy eyebrows and light brown hair that is graying at the temples, the only outward evidence that he's nearly 50 years old.

His message was "fitting" too, a proud rejection of a sugestion by New Zealand's Sir Edmund Hillary that Fuchs and his party of 11 call it quits for this year.

There have been charges that Hillary, through his apparently impetuous dash for the South Pole last week, has endangered the Fuchs mission, since the New Zealander was supposed to have provided support for the British party instead of going off on his own as he did.

How Fuchs feels about Hillary can only be guessed. The antarctic expedition is something the proud Englishman had been planning for six years, the culmination of a career that had sent him to both poles as well as to the tangled depths of Africa in the past 29 years.

Fuchs, the son of a German emigrant who became a prosperous English farmer, had planned the venture as a means of drawing the British Commonwealth closer together, one of the reasons a New Zealander was chosen to play such an important part.

Perhaps, Hillary's alleged "thirst for glory" has endangered the success of the Fuchs expedition in that respect, too. But, if so, Britons refuse to believe it. They have Fuchs' word for it that "We will find our own way out."

Cooing, Billing Replace Drill Sergeant's Bark

Pigeon fanciers from Canada and many midwestern states as well as Michigan are expected to enter from 500 to 600 birds in the event. Scheduled Jan. 10-13, it is the first pigeon show in 40 years in Grand Rapids.

The Grand Banks consist of a shallow section of ocean off Newfoundland, where the cold Labrador Current meets the warm Gulf Stream. The swirling waters provide conditions favorable to the growth of plankton, and make a rich oceanic pasture for fish. Fishermen have been filling their ships with cod from the banks for 450 years.

Tony Curtis Keeps Busy With Tight Film Schedule

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—"The Defiant Ones," which is Stanley Kramer's first on his six picture contract with United Artists starts March 15 with Tony Curtis and Sidney Poitier as the stars. That gives Tony a pretty tight schedule because he won't finish "The Perfect Furlough" until the end of February, and "Defiant" precedes "Porgy and Bess" for Poitier.

I asked Stanley to tell me something about "The Defiant Ones." He said, "It's exactly as its title indicates, a story of the defiance of youth in our society today.

"The principals are a white boy and a Negro chained to one another as both try to escape from a chain gang." The script is by Nathan E. Douglas and Harold J. Smith, and it's a very dramatic story which gives both actors an equal chance."

Virginia Palance tells me she has never been more excited in her life. She'll leave for Paris the first of next month with the three children, to play one of the top femme roles in "The Extra Edge," the picture Jack Palance is making with Jeff Chandler.

She said Jack intends to stay in Europe for two years and she and the children will take a house outside of Paris.

Mrs. Palance will use her stage name of Virginia Baker. "I was an actress for many years, you know," she told me, "before I married Jack, and I hope to resume my career again."

"How is everything going?" I asked her.

"Everything is all right at the moment," she said, "but I never know. I just have to do the best I can."

There has been so much talk about Ava Gardner's beautiful face being badly scarred after her accident in a bullring in Spain that I am glad to be able to say the doctors believe she will be able to start her picture "Goya" in March.

As I exclusively reported, Ava came to America to consult one of the top plastic men, who advised an operation. Then she made two visits to a London specialist. Those who saw her say that at that time her face was in a pitiful condition, but time takes care of everything, and she'll be able to cover any disfiguration with makeup.

While Ava's making "Goya" she will live in the villa formerly occupied by Ingrid Bergman and Rossellini outside of Rome.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Alan Jay Lerner's bride, the former Micheline Muselli, is a direct descendant of Napoleon and was before her marriage a successful lawyer. The Lerners will only stop in Hollywood one day on their way from La Quinta to New York.

Saturday Lita Baron Calhoun is entertaining Debbie Reynolds Fisher's chums at a luncheon and baby shower — the color will be blue—for a boy.

Arriving in Hollywood are Abbe Lane and Xavier Cugat, who have reservations at the Bel Air Hotel.

Says Polio Remains at the Level of 1943

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A University of Michigan pediatrician says there is just about as much polio now as there was 15 years ago.

Dr. James L. Wilson, a consultant to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said the Salk vaccine has caused an 80 per cent reduction in polio. But he added that the remaining 20 per cent is comparable to the incidence of polio in 1943.

The discovery of the Salk vaccine was announced almost three years ago by the university, where Dr. Jonas Salk did his research.

Dr. Wilson said several "holes" remain in our knowledge of polio. He said doctors have yet to learn why the disease is seasonal and why most respirator patients are now adults.

Calls Indiana Toll Road One of Safest Highways

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Northern Indiana toll road was named one of America's safest highways in 1957 in a report made public this week by Capt. Alva R. Funk, commanding officer of the Indiana State Police Department which patrols the 150-mile highway.

The traffic fatality rate was reported at 2.6 per 100,000,000 vehicle miles of travel. This was approximately one-half the death rate on the Indiana highways.

Welfare State Doesn't Bring Happiness

Envy of Privileges Stirs Britons' Apathy

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

LONDON (NEA) — Once upon a time the people of Britain arose and slew the wicked dragons of poverty and unemployment.

They then proceeded to build the welfare state — "the new Jerusalem in England's green and pleasant land," as the poet William Blake called it.

First, they nationalized the coal mines, the railways, the steel industry, gas and electricity, and the Bank of England.

Then they built themselves new houses (2,000,000 of them) and schools, and every third house sprouted a TV aerial.

There were free spectacles, false teeth and wigs for those who needed them. Free maternity care for mothers, free orange juice for the kiddies, sickness and industrial accident benefits, widows' and retirement pensions, family allowances — all were paid for by the State.

And, having completed their revolution, the people lived happily ever after. Or did they?

What has happened to them is this: They have entered their new Jerusalem, hung a "Do Not Disturb" sign on gates, and turned on the television.

The Conservatives and the Labor Party alike have been hammering on those gates for the past 10 years to no avail. Having found security, the average Briton means to enjoy his plenty in peace.

Neither the threat of inflation nor exhortations to greater production effort will budge him from his Cloud Cuckoo-land.

GAITSKILL GAUGES MOOD

None has gauged this mood better than Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the British Labor Party, and none has been quicker to trim his sails accordingly than this opposition leader who may be Britain's next Prime Minister.

Britain is in no mood for further Socialist experiments? Very well, Socialism must be watered down, Gaitskell counsels. A few years ago he would have been burned as a heretic for such an attitude.

Gaitskell has even succeeded in taming Aneurin Bevan, the wild Welshman of the Socialist left. For six stormy years Bevan led his band of left-wing guerrillas in hit-and-run attacks on the Labor Party's official leadership.

But now that he sees himself as Britain's future Foreign Secretary, Bevan is as tame as a Persian kitten.

One reason Gaitskell has been so successful in his two years as Labor Party boss is that he represents what one commentator has called the politics of envy.

ENVIES PRIVILEGE

The new industrial working class to which the welfare state has given rise may be better paid, housed, clothed and fed than many of its middle class brethren, but it envies the latter their class privileges.

It is still the only country where drinking saloons are rigidly partitioned into the private bar, the saloon bar, the public bar, etc. Just as a British workingman would never dream of penetrating the saloon bar, so an upper-class Briton would never dare invade the precincts of the plebian public bar.

Class privilege remains the last bastion for the children of the welfare state to assault, and in Hugh Gaitskell they see a champion, a battering ram who resembles the detested middle class in everything but outlook.

There are no callouses on Gaitskell's palms; his hands are soft, white and well-manicured. He has never done a day's manual labor in his life. He comes from a comfortably middle class home, and he had the best education (Winchester Prep and Oxford University) that money can buy.

He is a striking contrast to the trade unionists who formed the British Labor Party. Yet Gaitskell represents the new managerial type, the escape route by which the new working class hopes to break its narrow confines and climb into the middle class.

ANTI-SNOBBERY

Just how important this class issue is in British politics is shown in the recent by-election in Gloucester (pop. 56,570). The the people who count in elections are the 15,000 aircraft workers who comprise over one-third of the working population.

To win these votes, the Tories chose the son of a baronet, the Hon. Francis Dashwood, 32, who wears a bowler hat and refers to men as "chaps."

Against him was Labor's Jack Diamond, whose job as chartered accountant was one to which the son of an aircraft worker might aspire, and who campaigned in workingman's lingo.

The results were not unexpected. Not only was Diamond elected, but Labor increased its majority from 748 to 8,374 votes. The Tories, on the other hand, dropped 10,585 votes.

The same pattern is traceable in the 29 other by-elections to fill vacant seats in the House of Commons that have been held since May, 1955, though the Conservatives have, in most cases, been more fortunate in their choice of candidate.

The question is inevitably asked: how would Gaitskell act in office? What sort of a Prime Minister would he be?

If Gaitskell were ever to attain Britain's highest office, the nation could expect government by conference, if not by contact men, in the opinion of most observers.

The great danger, these observers feel, is that Gaitskell, as premier, would sit around too many tables. He would spend his time conferring not only with trade unions, but with trade associations, farmers, societies for the prevention of this and the protection of that, the Russians and the Chinese, Mr. Nehru, Arabs on the rampage, the London County Council and Miss Vivien Leigh — in short, anyone who has a grievance.

★ ★ ★

"This is not a recipe for a very wild Socialist government," as The Economist points out. "The apprehension is rather that it would be a recipe for a very weak one."

Next: Who are Britain's future rulers?

FREE TREATMENT — Britain's national health scheme lured this crowd to the London Hospital in Whitechapel. But now the mood has changed, and Britons no longer seem interested in future welfare state experiments.

One Drowns as Boat Sinks

Pair Marooned 3 Days on Detroit River Island

DETROIT (AP) — A 45-year-old woman and her son have been rescued by Navy helicopter from a small Detroit River island where they were marooned for three days after their boat capsized and one of their party drowned.

The Pierces, caretakers of the only house on the privately owned island, were on their way back with Swanson after a shopping trip.

Mrs. Pierce said the trio had traveled about three miles in their 16-foot aluminum boat when waves began breaking over the sides near the Grosse Ile bridge. She said the three began bailing but the water filled the craft and it started to sink.

She said the last words she heard from her husband were: "Jump, we're going down!"

★ ★ ★

Swanson stated he swam to shore, turned and saw his stepfather going under with his hands over his head. He said he jumped back into the river and brought his mother to safety.

SIGNALS UNNOTICED

Mrs. Pierce said they had to break into their home because she lost her key when the boat went down. She related how they rang an old ship's bell to attract attention and tried to signal planes from the Grosse Ile Naval Air Station, two miles to the east.

★ ★ ★

The island is located on the Trenton Channel, midway between the mainland and the southern tip of Grosse Ile.

Mrs. Pierce said they could see children skating on a pond a half mile away but were unable to attract their attention. She told rescuers about 20 planes were overhead at one time.

"Thursday, we were getting discouraged," Mrs. Pierce said. "No one had seen our signals and we had shouted ourselves hoarse. Some children on shore stopped skating and started in our direction but I guess they thought we were just cutting up."

She said her son finally traced the word "help" in the sand, filled the grooves with wood and was waiting for darkness to light a fire.

★ ★ ★

Help came at last after someone on shore apparently heard the bell and signaled with a piece of white cloth. Minutes later they were picked up by a helicopter from the Grosse Ile base.

Ike Schedules 3 Conferences, Stays in Capitol

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower had three conferences scheduled today, a day after delivering his brief but exhausting State of the Union speech to Congress.

Indications are that the president will remain in Washington over the week-end.

The President met with the Cabinet this morning and then conferred with Dr. Raymond Saulnier, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors.

The President's next message to Congress will be on the budget Monday. He will send up the economic report on Monday, Jan. 20, and later in the week, he will send his special message on labor legislation.

Marine Denies Cruelty Charges

Sergeant Tried on 28 Counts of Mistreating Prisoners in Japan

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—Marine Sgt. Robert J. Barbuti of Schenectady, N. Y., today denied before a military court that he stomped on a Navy prisoner's bare feet, rammed a pencil up a man's nose until it bled or banged two sailors' heads together to the rhythm of a Mario Lanza record.

The burly former assistant warden at the Sasebo naval base brig in south Japan said he only used his foot to shove the feet of several prisoners into the proper position for attention, tapped a man's forehead with a pencil while bawling him out and struck the sailors' shoulders together—not their heads—"to shake them up."

"In time to the record?" asked his civilian defense attorney, Frank H. Scolinos of Tokyo and Los Angeles.

"No, sir, it never happened," Barbuti replied.

The 205-pound, 23-year-old sergeant denied all 28 counts of cruelty to prisoners charged to him except one slugging. He said that man told him, "Sir, I believe you are the fattest man in the brig."

The charges carry a total maximum penalty of more than 30 years in prison.

Barbuti is the 15th of 16 Marine guards at the Sasebo brig to be tried on charges of mistreating prisoners. Eight have been convicted and six acquitted of lesser charges, but the Navy Pacific Command at Hawaii reversed four of the convictions.

SOME OF FLORIDA STILL BALMY — To offset the adverse publicity Florida is receiving today when snow fell in the Northern and Central sections of the Sunshine State, the Miami publicity department quickly enlisted the services of Val Phillips (above) to pose in a bathing suit on Biscayne Boulevard. Val didn't shiver an ounce with the temperature at 52 degrees and a northwest wind blowing at a Brrr-isk 24 mph, but she took no chances with her camera and had it covered with a mink fur piece.

Auto Industry Entitled to Get Into Missile Field—Brucker

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Army Brucker told Michigan's Republican congressmen today "The automotive industry is entitled to get into the missile business."

But Brucker said he could not promise anything to alleviate the congressmen's complaints about a lack of defense contracts for their unemployment-plagued state.

The Army secretary invited Sen. Potter and Michigan's 12 Republican house members to a breakfast meeting at his Pentagon office for discussion of the situation.

"While I can't promise any preferential treatment for Michigan as against the other 47 states," Brucker told a reporter after a 1½ hour conference, "I told them I would tell my colleagues here at the Department of Defense about the advantages of Michigan for missile production."

The congressmen deferred to Brucker, a former Republican governor of Michigan, in briefing newsmen about the closed meeting. But the lawmakers said privately they were reassured that Brucker is doing the best he can for Michigan.

"They (the congressmen) felt that most of the defense contracts have been going to the aircraft industry in California and Michigan has been neglected," said Brucker.

He added there was "a great deal of merit in their argument" that the know-how of Michigan's automotive-centered industry and the pool of unemployed auto workers provides a fertile ground for missile production.

Brucker said he felt it likely that a 50 million dollar contract recently granted Chrysler Corp. to build Army missiles at Warren, Mich., will be followed by other missile contracts for the state.

There has been wide difference of opinion over how many unemployed auto workers could be absorbed by the Chrysler contract to build 1,500-mile range Jupiter missiles and continue building 200-250 mile range Redstone missiles.

Brucker said today that will be a question for Chrysler to decide.

"We did talk Michigan politics," said Brucker, "but there was absolutely no mention of candidates."

Seaway Estimate $7 Million Lower

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has been told the cost of building the U. S. portion of the St. Lawrence Seaway will be about seven million dollars less than what was estimated last year.

The newest estimate came yesterday from the St. Lawrence Seaway Crop., the agency designated by Congress to construct the U. S. portion of the 27-foot-deep international project. The estimate is in the agency's annual audit report to Congress.

The previous estimate, the corporation said, was about 133 million dollars. Now, because of a reduction in the estimated costs of dredging in the seaway's Cornwall Island section, the figure is $125,935,000.

Juvenile Court Judge Declines Circuit Post

DETROIT (AP) — Juvenile Court Judge Nathan J. Kaufman said today he had declined an offer of appointment to the Wayne County Circuit Court bench.

Judge Kaufman, 49, said he had been offered the vacancy created by the death Dec. 28 of Circuit Judge Thomas Maher.

Kaufman declined to identify the Democratic Party officials who made him the offer. Gov. Williams has the authority to name a successor to Judge Maher.

Kaufman said he declined the offer because of the "urgency" of his present duties.

Mrs. Graves Heads Waterford Figure Club

Mrs. Claude Graves has been elected president of the Waterford Township Fashion Your Figure Club for 1958.

Others elected were Mrs. John Guenther, vice president; Mrs. Joseph Moery, treasurer; and Mrs. Nazarre Dugaw, secretary. Mrs. Robert Owen is recording secretary, assisted by Mrs. James Moore.

Rockefeller Invited to Discuss Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigating senators today invited Nelson A. Rockefeller to detail publicly his recommendations for drastic reshaping of the nation's military command and a sharp increase in defense spending.

★ ★ ★

Rockefeller was called by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee a day after Presient Eisenhower proposed "unified direction" of military planning and control, and called for a speedup in space age weapons.

Last weekend, a special 21-man study group headed by Rockefeller urged greater unification of the armed services in part through a recasting of the role of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Stolen Switch Engine Later Found Abandoned

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Somebody stole a diesel switch engine last night from the Union Pacific Railroad yards. It was found abandoned half an hour later — near the mouth of Weber Canyon, east of here.

When yard crews saw the engine rolling onto the eastbound mainline tracks, they called police and ordered a westbound freight train halted at Morgan.

Claims Election Taint Proven

Lawyer for Teamsters Seeking to Oust Hoffa Cites Delegate Illegality

WASHINGTON (AP) — Counsel for 13 New York teamsters seeking to upset the election of James R. Hoffa as Teamsters President said today "We have shown the election proceedings were obviously tainted."

★ ★ ★

This statement came from Joseph Blumenfield as lawyers for the dissident teamsters prepared to wind up presentation of their case in Federal District Court.

The New York group has filed suit to cancel Hoffa's election on grounds the teamster convention in Miami Beach last October was rigged to name Hoffa as successor to Dave Beck as union president.

"We've given a very substantial demonstration of illegality in the selection of delegates," Blumenfield told newsmen.

The New York group seeks a court order to cancel election of Hoffa and all other international officers of the big union, and to direct a new election.

In Chicago an agreement for higher wages and increased welfare benefits was approved yesterday by representatives of Teamster Union locals in 13 central states.

The boosts will amount to 42 cents an hour over a three-year period, according to Hoffa, president-elect of the union.

The agreement covers some 53,000 cartage drivers and 80,000 inter-city drivers. Hoffa said it will set a wage pattern for 500,000 other drivers in the United States.

Covered by the agreement are Teamster Union locals in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and the city of Louisville, Ky.

U.S. Still Cold to Red Proposal

Bulganin Asks Summit Conference in Geneva in Message to Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's latest and most insistent demand for an East-West summit conference on crucial cold war issues got intensive study—and a cold reaction—today in official Washington.

★ ★ ★

In a message to President Eisenhower, Premier Bulganin said he proposes to call an East-West summit meeting, perhaps in Geneva, in the next two or three months. Moscow radio said similar letters went to 18 other countries, members of the NATO and Warsaw pacts.

There was no evidence the United States intends to change its basic policy against having a new top level meeting under present conditions.

The policy is that any such conference must be preceded by careful diplomatic exploration and evidence that the Soviet government is prepared to make concessions in its position on such issues as disarmament and German reunification.

Officials here were aware, however, that Bulganin's new diplomatic broadside may generate new hope in Europe for reducing the dangers of a devastating nuclear war.

In London, Bulganin's proposal for summit talks blunted the impact on Western European opinion of President Eisenhower's call for peace through strength yesterday.

Instead of having the newspapers all to himself, Eisenhower had to share space with Bulganin and in some cases took second place to the Soviet Premier.

MAJ. HOWARD CURRAN

U.S. Flier's Release Promised by Albania

PARIS (AP)—Communist Albania promises to release a U. S. Air Force flier and his jet trainer as soon as the weather clears.

The Albanian legation in Paris telephoned the U. S. Embassy last night that Maj. Howard Curran and his T33 jet would be freed. The Tacoma, Wash., pilot disappeared Dec. 23 while flying from France to Italy.

Curran, a 39-year-old veteran of 18 years in the Air Force, was unable to land at Naples, his original destination Dec. 23, because of fog. He apparently headed toward Italy's east coast, looking for a clear field, and overshot the coast.

Seek 2 Detroit Bank Bandits

Gunmen Get $6,288 During Daylight Holdup of Westside Branch

DETROIT (UP) — Police today sought two gunmen who robbed a westside branch of Manufacturers National Bank of $6,288 in a daylight holdup yesterday.

The bandits forced a teller and assistant manager to place bills ranging in denomination from five to 100 dollars in a grocery bag. They fled in a stolen car after ordering four bank employes and three customers into a back room.

One of the customers, the Rev. Harold R. Kreig, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical United Brethren Church in Southfield Township, said one of the bandits was masked.

The clergyman said the two men ordered tellers to fill the bag with money from the cash drawer and then told John T. Carlin, 27, assistant manager, to open the bank vault in a back room.

When Carlin said there was no men herded the employees and customers into the room and fled.

Carlin said he saw the men escaping in a car.

The getaway car was found an hour later 11 blocks from the bank. Police said it had been stolen.

Ex-Baby Sued for Taking Sitter From Husband

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UP) —A former baby was sued for damages yesterday on a charge of enticing his former sitter away from her husband.

Robert King, 41, asked 250 pounds ($700) heart balm in a legal action against the ex-baby, Neil Dunseith, now 21.

★ ★ ★

King said his wife, now 36, used to baby-sit 18 years ago with Neil, whose parents lived next door. As the boy grew older, King related, the relationship changed, and his wife has now left him to live with Dunseith.

The court took the case under advisement.

Americans Learn How It Feels

Tokyo Night Clubs Bar Aliens

TOKYO (INS)—Scores of Americans in Japan are getting the cold shoulder from landlords and night club owners — because they're foreigners.

For many Americans it was the first time in their? lives they had encountered discrimination because they were aliens.

"I guess the shoe's on the other foot. Now I know how it must feel for an Oriental to be discriminated against in the United States."

A newspaper survey showed that Tokyo's newest and most plush apartment houses and approximately ten per cent of the cabarets in Tokyo, Nagoya, Kobe and Osaka — Japan's largest cities — are off limits to non-Japanese.

It is a far cry from occupation days when Americans came and went everywhere as they pleased.

NOT PREJUDICE

But Japanese were quick to point out that restrictions against foreigners in public places is not a reflection of Japanese prejudice against Americans and other Westerners — or even a revival of old-time Japanese Xenophobia.

So many Japanese have lots of money in their pockets these days, according to Tokyo night-club operator Takao Kamijima, that they keep business humming for him without foreign customers.

Most Tokyo cabaret owners, when pressed for the explanation of why doormen gently but firmly keep out "Gaijin" (foreigners), told two western reporters, one of whom spoke Japanese:

"It's just too much bother to entertain an American in here. They don't speak Japanese and often they don't understand what their bill means and start scenes over high prices."

The night spot proprietors added, however, that an American accompanied by a Japanese "is welcome because there's no language problem."

But most cabaret owners said: "When we say our places are off limits to Americans and other foreigners, we mean mostly the GIs."

The survey turned up the fact that many American servicemen in the 12 years of occupation in Japan have earned an unfortunate reputation as brawlers among the Japanese.

'Eyewitness to Death' . . .

Copyright 1957.. by Agatha Christie

THE STORY SO FAR: A blind in a train passing hers snaps up and respectable Mrs. McGillicuddy, on a prosaic trip to visit her friend, Miss Marple, fluttery old woman with a shrewd brain and a gift of solving crimes, see a man strangling a woman. When she tells the conductor he puts it down to her imagination. Only Miss Marple believes her and together they go to the police, who advise that no body has been found. Miss Marple obtains a large scale map of the particular area and makes several trips over Mrs. McGillicuddy's route. Too old for physical effort, she writes to Lucy Eyelesbarrow a brilliant young woman who has made for herself a unique profession—taking temporary charge of households and running them like magic. Miss Marple figures the body must have been thrown out as the train passed the neglected park of Rutherford Hall built by Mr. Crackenthorpe a rich manufacturer. Lucy gets herself employed at Rutherford Hall by Emma Crackenthorpe's daughter. Miss Marple is installed the neighborhood posing as Lucy's aunt. The Crackenthorpe family is a large one. On the pretense of playing golf Lucy searches for the body.

CHAPTER 8

As Lucy went out of the room carrying the coffee tray she heard the old man say, "Slick young woman that, always got all the answers. Cooks well, though — and she's a handsome kind of girl."

Lucy Eyelesbarrow took a light iron out of the set of golf clubs she had had the forethought to bring with her, and strolled out into the park, climbing over the fencing.

PLAYS SHOTS

She began playing a series of shots. After five minutes or so, a ball, apparently sliced, pitched on the side of the railway embankment. Lucy went up and began to hunt about for it. She looked back towards the house. It was a long way away and nobody was in the least interested in what she was doing.

She continued to hunt for the ball. Now and then she played shots from the embankment down into the grass. During the afternoon she searched about a third of the embankment. Nothing. She played her ball back towards the house.

Then, on the next day, she came upon something. A thorny bush growing about half way up the bank had been snapped off. Bits of it lay scattered about. Lucy examined the tree itself. Impaled on one of the thorns was a torn scrap of fur. It was almost the same color as the wood, a pale brownish color. Lucy looked at it for a moment, then she took a pair of scissors out of her pocket and snipped it carefully in half. The half she had snipped off she put in an envelope which she had in her pocket.

SEARCHES

She came down the steep slope searching about for anything else. She looked carefully at the rough grass of the field. She thought she could distinguish a kind of track which someone had made walking through the long grass. But it was very faint — not nearly so clear as her own tracks were. It must have been made some time ago and it was too sketchy for her to be sure that it was not merely imagination on her part.

She began to hunt carefully down in the grass at the foot of embankment just below the broken thornbush. Presently her search was rewarded. She found a powder compact, a small cheap enameled affair. She wrapped it in her handkerchief and put it in her pocket. She searched on but did not find anything more.

On the following afternoon, she got into her car and went to see her invalid aunt. Emma Crackenthorpe said kindly, "Don't hurry dinner time."

"Thank you, but I shall be back back. We shan't want you until at six by the latest."

No. 4, Madison Road was a small drab house in a small drab street. It had very clean Nottingham lace curtains, a shining white doorstep and a well polished brass door handle. The door was opened by a tall, grim looking woman, dressed in black with a large knob of iron gray hair.

She eyed Lucy in suspicious appraisal as she showed her in to Miss Marple.

Miss Marple was occupying the back sitting room which looked out on to a small tiny square of garden. It was aggressively clean with a lot of mats and doileys, a great many china ornaments, a rather big Jacobean suite and two ferns in pots. Miss Marple was sitting in a big chair by the fire busily engaged in crocheting.

Lucy came in and shut the door. She sat down in the chair facing Miss Marple.

PRODUCES FINDS

"Well!" she said, "it looks as though you were right."

"Perhaps one ought not to feel so," she said, "but it is rather gratifying to form a theory and get proof that it is correct!"

She fingered the small tuft of fur. "Elspeth said the woman was wearing a light colored fur coat. I suppose the compact was in the pocket of the coat and fell out as the body rolled down the slope. It doesn't seem distinctive in any way, but it may help. You didn't take all the fur?"

* * *

"Quite right. You are very intelligent, my dear. The police will want to check exactly."

"You are going to the police with these things?"

"Well — not quite yet . . ." Miss Marple considered — "It would be better, I think, to find the body first. Don't you?"

"Yes, but isn't that rather a tall order? I mean, granting that your estimate is correct. The murderer pushed the body out of the train, then presumably got out himself at Brackhampton and at some time — probably that same night — came along and removed the body. But what happened after that? He may have taken it anywhere."

"Not anywhere," said Miss Marple. "I don't think you've followed the thing to its logical conclusion, my dear Miss Eyelesbarrow."

"Do call me Lucy. Why not anywhere."

"Because, if so, he might much more easily have killed the girl in some lonely spot and driven the body away from there. You haven't appreciated—"

Lucy interrupted.

"Are you saying — do you mean —that this was a premeditated crime."

"I didn't think so at first," said Miss Marple. "One wouldn't — naturally. It seemed like a quarrel and a man losing control and strangling the girl and then being faced with the problem of disposing of his victim—a problem which he had to solve within a very few minutes. But it really is too much of a coincidence that he should kill the girl in a fit of passion, and then look out of the window and find the train was going round a curve exactly at a spot where he could tip the body out, and where he could be sure of finding his way later and removing it. If he'd just thrown her out there by chance he'd have done no more about it, and the body would, long before now, have been found."

LUCY STARES

She paused. Lucy stared at her.

"You know," said Miss Marple thoughtfully, "it's really quite a clever way to have planned a crime — and I think it was very carefully planned. There's something so anonymous about a train. If he'd killed her in the place where she lived, or was staying, somebody might have noticed him come or go. Or if he'd driven her out in the country somewhere, someone might have noticed the car and its number and make. But a train is full of strangers coming and going. In a non-corridor carriage, alone with her, it was quite easy — especially if you realize that he knew exactly what he was going to do next. He knew — he must have known — all about Rutherford Hall — its geographical position, I mean, its queer isolation — an island bounded by railway lines."

"It is exactly like that," said Lucy. "It's an anachronism out of the past. Bustling urban life goes on all around it, but doesn't touch it. The tradespeople deliver in the mornings and that's all."

"So we assume, as you said, that the murderer comes to Rutherford Hall that night. It is already dark when the body falls and no one is likely to discover it before the next day."

"No, indeed."

"The murderer would come — how? In a car? Which way?"

* * *

Lucy considered.

"There's a rough lane, alongside a factory wall. He'd probably come that way, turn in under the railway arch and along the back drive. Then he could climb the fence, go along at the foot of the embankment, find the body, and carry it back to the car."

"And then," continued Miss Marple, "he took it to some place he had already chosen beforehand. This was all thought out, as I say, that he would take it away from Rutherford Hall, or if so, not very far. The obvious thing, I suppose, would be to bury it somewhere?" She looked inquiringly at Lucy.

"I suppose so," said Lucy, considering. "But it wouldn't be quite as easy as it sounds."

Miss Marple agreed.

"He couldn't bury it in the park. Too hard work and very noticeable. Somewhere where the earth was turned already?"

"The kitchen garden, perhaps, but that's very close to the gardener's cottage. He's old and deaf —but still it might be risky."

"Is there a dog?"

"No."

"Then in a shed, perhaps, or an outhouse?"

"That would be simpler and quicker . . . There are a lot of unused old buildings, broken down pigsties, harness rooms, workshops that nobody ever goes near. Or he might perhaps thrust it into a clump of rhododendrons or shrubs somewhere."

QUITE PROBABLE

Miss Marple nodded.

"Yes, I think that's much more probable."

There was a knock on the door and the grim Florence came in with a tray.

"Nice for you to have a visitor," she said to Miss Marple, "I've made you my special scones you used to like."

"Florence always made the most delicious teacakes," said Miss Marple.

"I think, my dear," said Miss Marple, "we won't talk any more about murder during tea. Such an unpleasant subject!"

After tea, Lucy rose.

"I'll be getting back," she said. "As I've already told you, there's no one actually living at Rutherford Hall who could be the man we're looking for. There's only an old man and a middle aged woman, and an old deaf gardener."

* * *

"I didn't say he was actually living there," said Miss Marple. "All I mean is that he's someone who knows Rutherford Hall very well. But we can go into that after you've found the body."

"You seem to assume quite confidently that I shall find it," said Lucy. "I don't feel nearly so optimistic."

"I'm sure you will succeed, my dear Lucy. You are such an efficient person."

"In some ways, but I haven't had any experience in looking for bodies."

"I'm sure all it needs is a little common sense," said Miss Marple encouragingly.

Lucy set to work systematically the next afternoon.

POKED AROUND

She poked round outhouses, prodded the briars which wreathed the old pigsties, and was peering into the boiler room under the greenhouse when she heard a dry cough and turned to find old Hillman, the gardener, looking at her disapprovingly.

"You be careful you don't get a nasty fall, Miss," he warned her. "Them steps isn't safe, and you was up in the loft just now and the floor there ain't safe neither."

Lucy was careful to display no embarrassment.

"I expect you think I'm very nosy," she said cheerfully. "I was just wondering if something couldn't be made out of this place —growing mushrooms for the market, that sort of thing. Everything seems to have been let go terribly."

* * *

"That's the master, that is. Won't spend a penny. Ought to have two men and a boy here. I ought, to keep the place proper, but won't hear of it, he won't. Had all I could do to make him get a motor mower. Wanted me to mow all that front grass by hand, he did."

"But if the place could be made to pay—with some repairs?"

"Won't get a place like this to pay — too far gone. And he wouldn't care about that, anyway. Only cares about saving. Knows well enough what'll happen after he's gone — the young gentlemen'll sell up as fast as they can. Only waiting for him to pop off, they are. Going to come into a tidy lot of money when he dies, so I've heard."

"I suppose he's a very rich man?" said Lucy.

"Crackenthorpe's Fancies, that's what they are. The old gentleman started it, Mr. Crackenthorpe's father. A sharp one he was, by all accounts. Made his fortune, and built this place. Hard as nails, they say, and never forgot an injury. But with all that, he was openhanded. Nothing of the miser about him. Disappointed in both his sons, so the story goes. Give 'em an education and brought 'em up to be gentlemen —Oxford and all. But they were too much of gentlemen to want to go into the business.

* * *

"The younger one married an actress and then smashed himself up in a car accident when he'd been drinking. The elder one, our one here, his father never fancied so much. Abroad a lot, he was, bought a lot of heathen statues and had them sent home. Wasn't so close with his money when he was young — come on him more in middle age it did. No, they never did hit it off, him and his father so I've heard."

Lucy digested this information with an air of polite interest. The old man leaned against the wall and prepared to go on with his saga. He much preferred talking to doing any work.

"Died afore the war, the old gentleman did. Terrible temper he had. Didn't do to give him any sauce, he wouldn't stand for it."

"And after he died, this Mr Crackenthorpe came and lived here?"

"Him and his family, yes. Nigh to grown up they was by then."

"But surely — Oh, I see, you mean the 1914 war."

"No, I don't. Died in 1928, that's what I mean."

Lucy supposed that 1928 qualified as "before the war" though it was not the way she would have described it herself.

She said: "Well — I expect you'll be wanting to go on with your work. You mustn't let me keep you."

"Ar," said old Hillman without enthusiasm, "not much you can do this time of day. Light's too bad."

Lucy went back to the house, pausing to investigate a likely looking copse of birch and azalea on her way.

She found Emma Crackenthorpe standing in the hall reading a letter. The afternoon post had just been delivered.

"My nephew will be here tomorrow — with a schoolfriend. Alexander's room is the one over the porch. The one next to it will do for James Stoddart-West. They'll use the bathroom just opposite."

"Yes, Miss Crackenthorpe. I'll see the rooms are prepared."

"I bet they will," said Lucy. "Roast beef, do you think? And perhaps treacle tart?"

"Alexander's very fond of treacle tart."

The two boys arrived on the following morning. They both had well brushed hair, suspiciously angelic faces, and perfect manners. Alexander Eastley had fair hair and blue eyes. Stoddart-West was dark and spectacled.

They discoursed gravely during lunch on events in the sporting world, with occasional references to the latest space fiction. Their manner was that of elderly professors discussing palaeolithic implements. In comparison with them, Lucy felt quite young.

The sirloin of beef vanished in no time and every crumb of the treacle tart was consumed.

Mr. Crackenthorpe grumbled: "You two will eat me out of house and home."

GLANCE REPROVING

"We'll have bread and cheese if you can't afford meat, Grandfather."

"Afford it? I can afford it. I don't like waste."

"We haven't wasted any, sir," said Stoddart-West, looking down at his place which bore clear testimony of that fact.

"You boys both eat twice as much as I do."

"You mustn't pay attention to my grandfather. He's on a diet or something and that makes him rather peculiar. He's terribly mean, too. I think it must be a complex of some kind."

* * *

Stoddart-West said comprehendingly:

"I had an aunt who kept thinking she was going bankrupt. Really, she had oodles of money. Pathological, the doctor said. Have you got that football, Alex?"

After she had cleared away and washed up lunch, Lucy went out. She could hear the boys calling out in the distance on the lawn. She herself went in the opposite direction, down the front drive and from there she struck across to some clumped masses of rhododendron bushes. She began to hunt carefully, holding back the leaves and peering inside. She moved from clump to clump systematically, and was raking inside with a golf club when the polite voice of Alexander Eastley made her start.

"Are you looking for something, Miss Eyelesbarrow?"

"A golf ball," said Lucy promptly. "Several golf balls in fact. I've been practicing golf shots most afternoons and I've lost quite a lot of balls. I thought that today I really must find some of them."

"We'll help you," said Alexander obligingly.

"That's very kind of you. I thought you were playing football."

"One can't go on playing footer," explained Stoddart-West. "One gets too hot. Do you play a lot of golf?"

"I'm quite fond of it. I don't get much opportunity."

"I suppose you don't. You do the cooking here, don't you?"

"Yes."

"Did you cook the lunch today?"

"Yes. Was it all right?"

"Simply wizard," said Alexander. "We get awful meat at school, all dried up. I love beef that's pink and juicy inside. That treacle tart was pretty smashing too."

"You must tell me what things you like best."

"Could we have apple meringue one day? It's my favorite thing."

"Of course."

Alexander sighed happily.

"There's a Clock Golf set under the stairs," he said. "We could fix it up on the lawn and do some putting. What about it, Stodders?"

"Goodoh!" said Stoddart-West. "He isn't really Australian," explained Alexander courteously. "But he's practising talking that way in case his people take him out to see the Test Match next year."

Encouraged by Lucy, they went off to get the Clock Golf set. Later, as she returned to the house, she found them setting it out on the lawn and arguing about the position of the numbers.

"We don't want it like a clock," said Stoddart-West. "That's kid stuff. We want to make a course of it. Long holes and short ones. It's a pity the numbers are so rusty. You can hardly see them."

"They need a lick of white paint," said Lucy. "You might get some tomorrow and paint them."

"Good idea." Alexander's face lit up. "I say, I believe there are some old pots of paint in the Long Barn left there by the painters last hols. Shall we see?"

"What's the Long Barn? asked Lucy.

* * *

Alexander pointed to a long stone buildng a little way from the house near the back drive.

"It's quite old," he said. "Grandfather calls it a Leak Barn and says it's Elizabethan, but that's just swank. It belonged to the farm that was here originally. My great-grandfather pulled it down and built this awful house instead."

He added: "A lot of grandfather's collection is in the barn. Things he had sent home from abroad when he was a young man. Most of them are pretty frightful, too. The Long Barn is used sometimes for Whist drives and things like that. Women's Institute stuff. And Conservative Sales of Work. Come and see it."

Lucy accompanied them willingly.

There was a big oak nail-studded door to the barn.

Alexander raised his hand and detached a key on a nail just under some ivy to the right hand of the top of the door. He turned it in the lock, pushed the door open and they went in.

* * *

At a first glance Lucy felt that she was in a singularly bad museum. The heads of two Roman Emperors in marble glared at her out of bulging eyeballs, there was a huge sarcophagus of a decadent Greco Roman period, a simpering Venus stood on a pedestal clutching her falling draperies. Besides these works of art, there were a couple of trestle tables, some stacked up chairs, and sundry oddments such as a rusted hand mower, two buckets, a couple of motheaten car seats, and a green painted iron garden seat that had lost a leg.

"I think I saw the paint over here," said Alexander vaguely. He went to a corner and pulled aside a tattered curtain that shut it off.

They found a couple of paint pots and brushes. The latter dry and stiff.

"You really need some turps," said Lucy.

They could not, however, find any turpentine. The boys suggested bicycling off to get some, and Lucy urged them to do so. Painting the Clock Golf numbers would keep them amused for some time, she thought.

BOYS GO OFF

"This really could do with a clear up," she had murmured.

"I shouldn't bother," Alexander advised her. "It gets cleaned up if it's going to be used for anything, but it's practically never used this time of year."

"Do I hang the key up outside the door again. Is that where it's kept."

"Yes. There's nothing to pinch here, you see. Nobody would want those awful marble things and anyway they weigh a ton."

Lucy agreed with him. She could hardly admire old Mr. Crackenthorpe's taste in art. He seemed to have an unerring instinct for selecting the worst specimen of any period.

* * *

She stood looking around her after the boys had gone. Her eyes came to rest on the sarcophagus and stayed there.

That sarcophagus . . .

The air in the barn was faintly musty as though unaired for a long time. She went over to the sarcophagus. It had a heavy close fitting lid. Lucy looked at it speculatively.

Then she left the barn, went to the kitchen, found a heavy crowbar, and returned.

Slowly the lid began to rise, pried up by the crowbar.

Hungarian Regime Asks Youths Back

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Hungary's communist government has asked a U. N. agency to help it get back young people who fled the country after the failure of the 1956 revolt.

* * *

Jozsef Karpati, head of the Hungarian Red Cross, said the Red regime handed over "full data" on 629 young Hungarians in Austria to Auguste Lindt, U. N. high commissioner for refugees. Lindt visited Budapest secretly over last weekend.

The parents of all the young people had asked for their return, Karpati said.

Auastria has been unwilling to return them without some guarantee that th parents' requests were not the result of pressure. Some Austrians say that the children have heard through unofficial channels that their parents were urging them to stay abroad.

Park Man Weds Couple, All Hunt Missing Minister

CEDAR CITY, Utah (AP) — Th bride and groom were both on hand. So were some 200 wedding guests. But a search had to be organized for the minister, the 53-year-old Rev. Raymond L. Wilson of the Community Presbyterian Church.

* * *

He turned up the next day — trudging out of the rugged Kolob Plateau country south of here. He said he had walked some 20 miles through mountain snows after his truck stalled during a sightseeing junket.

* * *

By CHUCK ABAIR

Can anyone use $1,000? You can win that much and a great deal more by entering the 2nd annual Pontiac Press Bowlerama coming up next month. All one has to do to take home the big prize is roll a 300 game.

Such a feat is naturally easier said than done, but it is noted that only two such games were bowled in the Pontiac area during 1957.

Walter Rennhack turned the trick at Motor Inn last March and Bill Furlong followed Dec. 13 at Huron Bowl, both in league play.

Rennhack's was the first sanctioned 300 game in Pontiac in 14 years and Furlong's was the first in the eight-year history of Huron Bowl, site of the Bowlerama championship round again this season.

Clyde resident George Miller turned the trick at Pontiac Recreation in 1952 but it was during a practice session. Others have hit 298 and 299 so maybe the luck is changing around these parts.

Could there be another one in the Huron Bowl alleys so soon? Wonder what the chances are at Motor Inn, Howe's Lanes and Montcalm Centre? These are questions to be answered Feb. 8-9, 15 and 22.

Men's qualifying will be at Howe's and Montcalm the opening weekend and all women will compete at Motor Inn on the 15th. The top 10% in both divisions will be eligible for the finals.

Although one hears of men hitting the big 300, The Press' $1,000 offer is not limited to men. Women, too, have an equal opportunity to grab the big check.

It only takes one hot game and a lot of luck to turn the trick. A 300 bowled in any game in the tournament, qualifying or finals, would earn the prize.

This gives every contestant at least three shots at the award. Qualifiers will have the extra three games in the finals to "go for broke."

The perfect game prize is an added attraction to the tournament and will not take anything away from the regular prize list. It would be possible to win the $1,000 and many other awards at the same time.

Every sanctioned bowler who is a resident of Oakland County is eligible to compete for the big bonus award, the 1st place prizes of $450 and $250 and any other of the long list of awards to be announced soon. They include cash, trophies, merchandise and gift certificates.

If a bowler resides in Oakland County but bowls in another county he can enter the tournament, however if he resides in another county and bowls in Oakland he is ineligible.

Deadline for entries is getting closer. Men have only until midnight February 2nd and women have until February 10th to get in their entries.

Averages must be those of the 1957-58 season. If 18 games have been bowled from the start of the season, considered to be September 1st, then the average must be given as of November 1st.

Those who have not bowled 18 games prior to November 1st will use their average as of December 31. No averages for the 1956-57 season will be accepted.

Every bowler who qualifies will share in the prize fund which is being returned 100% to the purse. The tournament is sanctioned by the ABC and WIBC, and all decisions rest with the tournament manager who is the sports editor of The Press.

Had Success in Canadian Football

Cardinals Pick Ivy

CHICAGO (AP)—Now that the Chicago Cardinals have named 41-year-old Frank Ivy from the Canadian Football League as their 19th head coach, the question is—

Can Ivy, well versed in winning under Bud Wilkinson at Oklahoma and a successful coach in Canadian football, revive the cellar-dwelling cards into a real contender in the National Football League?

Ivy, who was appointed last night succeeding the resigned Ray Richards, faces a stiff challenge—a challenge that has seen eight Card coaches shuffle out of Chicago in 10 years.

In announcing Ivy's appointment Wolfner told newsmen:

"Ivy's the man we wanted since Richards resigned Saturday and we feel he'll do a fine job. He's got the winning touch and it's bound to rub off on the players. He's hard-working coach. He's the answer to our problems."

Ivy played six years as a defensive end with the Cards intermittently from 1940-47. In four years of coaching in the pay-for-play ranks, Ivy won four Canadian Western divisional titles and grabbed the All - Canadian championship three years running—1954-55-56.

As a coaching aide under Oklahoma's Wilkinson from 1948-1954, the personable Ivy saw the Sooners win 31 consecutive games. From Oklahoma, Ivy jumped into Canadian Football as head man of the Edmonton Eskimos.

"We'll use the T-formation with some variations this fall," said Ivy. "And we'll be throwing quite a bit. That's the way to win in the pro ranks. Outside of that, I can't say too much about the team. I do know that any team can win on any given day in the NFL and we'll do our best with that in mind."

Both Wolfner and Ivy declined to comment on the amount and tenure of the new coach's contract.

Bowlers at Pontiac Elks Lodge 18 have plenty of keg action coming up during the next three months.

Some 79 teams are slated to take part in the organization's state tournament at Muskegon during the weekends of Jan. 18-19 and Feb. 1-2, while 120 teams will go to the national meet in March.

A host of individuals are also planning to enter the big Pontiac Press Bowlerama starting Feb. 8-9.

Wings Occupy 3rd Place After 6-1 Win

Boston Victim as Detroiters Hit Peak Form

Six Red Wings Divide Goals Evenly in Rout of Visiting Bruins

By BILL CORNWELL

DETROIT—There's still a lot of life stirring in the Detroit Red Wings. They proved it here Thursday night.

The hard-skating, close-checking Detroiters continued to show signs of a revival under new coach Sid Abel by routing the Boston Bruins, 6-1, before 9,414 delighted cash customers at Olympia Stadium.

Red Wing patrons hadn't seen anything like it yet this season and they enjoyed the slaughter to its fullest measure as the Redshirts scored twice in each period to compile their highest single game total of the season.

Six different players—Bob Bailey, Jack McIntyre, Al Arbour, John Wilson, Nick Mickoski and Gordie Howe—drilled the puck past Al Millar, the Bruins' substitute goaltender.

Millar, pinch-hitting for the injured Don Simmons, was credited with 33 saves while going down to his 3rd defeat in four games since leaving the Quebec Aces to don a Boston uniform.

Detroit netminder Terry Sawchuk, in the meantime, was forced to stop only 18 shots. Ex-Detroiter Vic Stasiuk produced Boston's lone goal with a swift blast from 20 feet away in the 12th minute of the 1st period.

Bailey started the Detroit scoring parade with a hard angle shot which caromed off Millar's pads into the cage. The time was 3:55 and it was Bailey's 1st tally in a Detroit suit.

It took just 37 seconds in the middle stanza for the Wings to boost their lead as Arbour tallied his 1st goal of the season on a 30-foot screen shot. The score became 4-1 at 11:21 when Wilson counted by deflecting Marcel Pronovost's shot from the Boston blue line.

Mickoski made his 1st goal as a Red Wing when he flicked Alex Delvecchio's pass into the cage at 11:07.

Robertson Breaks Record in Gardens

Cinci Soph Hits 56 Points

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oscar Robertson, a hep Hoosier who scores points and shuns stardom, was the big man of college basketball today.

The sophomore from Indianapolis had 'em off their seats and thumbing record books last night, scoring 56 points as Cincinnati's barrelling Bearcats whipped Seton Hall 118-54.

Out-scoring the Pirates all by himself, Oscar bettered the all-time record by a collegian in Madison Square Garden for total points and field goals — and was every bit as good a team man as he was a scorer.

The show by the 6-foot-5 kid boosted the twice - beaten Bearcats, ranked seventh in this week's Associated Press poll, to their ninth victory.

Third - ranked and once beaten North Carolina pulled away late in the game and defeated Virginia 82-66 in an Atlantic Coast Conference scrap. The Tar Heels, now, 11-1, were the only other top 10 team in action.

Robertson's production bettered Harry Boykoff's 54 points for St. John's (Brooklyn) against St. Francis (Brooklyn) in 1947 and topped by one the field goal the record set by DePaul's all-time great, George Mikan, with 21 against Rhode Island in 1954.

There was varied response to the question of just how good Oscar is, but Joe Lapchick, who coached Boykoff at St. John's, switched to pro ball, and then returned to St. John's, called Robertson the best sophomore he's ever seen.

"Up until last night, it was Tom Gola," said Lapchick. "Now it's this boy."

Gola, the former LaSalle ace now with Philadelphia in the National Basketball Assn., was the only three-time All-America in the history of the AP selections.

"Gola had something going for him this boy doesn't," said Lapchick. "Gola was with a relatively poor team. Robertson's with a great ball club, still he stands out."

Oscar took it all pretty quietly. In the dressing room he admitted "playing in the garden is a thrill," but said he was more nervous in his first varsity game for the Bearcats. (Scored only 28 points in that one, at a point-a-minute clip against Indiana State.)

Robertson said he didn't know what or whose record he had broken until after being pulled from the game following a pair of three throws for his 55th and 56th points with 2:46 left. His greatest thrill is still being a member of two state high school championship teams in Indianapolis.

His 56 points were nowhere near the national, major college record (Furman's All American Frank Selvy scored 100 vs. Newberry in 1954), nor did it push him past Kansas' Wilt Chamberlain in the season scoring race. Oscar now has scored 353 points for a 32.1 average. Wilt has a 32.2 average on 322 points in 10 games.

Oscar's 22 field goals came on 32 varied shots. He missed only three tries from the field in the second half and hit a perfect 12-for-12 from the foul line. He had 30 points at the half, when the Bearcats, beaten only by Bradley and Oklahoma State, led 58-20.

Cincinnati's total also set a garden record, bettering the one-team mark set at 116 by Bradley in the NIT last March.

Several Future Pros in Lineups

Senior Bowl Tomorrow

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Tomorrow's ninth annual Senior Bowl game is made to order for South coach Paul Brown in at least one respect.

He'll get a comparative look at two quarterbacks he'll probably be seeing a lot of later on. Both signal-callers have been drafted by his Cleveland Browns.

North coach Joe Kuharich, whose Washington Redskins have only two draftees in the ninth anunal all-star game as compared with five for the Browns, will use Michigan State's Jim Ninowski as his starting quarterback. Ninowski was Cleveland's fourth draft pick last fall.

One of the North's halfbacks will be Washington's top draft choice, Mike Sommer of George Washington. The other Redskin draftee is Tennessee's Bill Anderson, who will play safety for the South squad.

Other Senior bowlers drafted by Cleveland are Fred Dugan, Dayton offensive end for the North; Curry Juneau, Mississippi Southern, defensive end for the South; Gene Hickerson, Mississippi, offensive tackle for the south; and Charles Mitchell, Florida, offensive guard for the South.

In adidtion to Ninowski and Sommer, the North offensive backfield includes halfback Walt Kowalczyk, Michigan State, and fullback Ray Nitschke, Illinois.

'Turkey Shoot' Sunday

The Lake Orion Gun Club will sponsor a "turkey shoot" this Sunday at its outdoor range, 2700 Stanton Rd. Both rifles and shotguns are permitted in the competition. Starting time is 10:30 a. m.

Hurry, Hurry, Hurry!

Tickets for the Pontiac Central-Waterford prep basketball game next Tuesday night on the PCH court will be on sale today and Monday from 1:15 to 4 p. m. in the faculty manager's office at Pontiac Central High School.

This is a general admission contest and season ducats do not apply. There are no reserved seats and tickets will be sold on a first come-first served basis.

Local Mat Teams Win

The Chiefs won their 2nd match in four starts defeating Port Huron 26-18 featuring a pin by Mel Nosanchuk and decisions by Jack Keller, Ray Ronquillo, Dave Payne Erasmo Travino, John Herron, Duke Relyea and Willie Duncan.

Lou Jankowski of the Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League and Len (Red) Kelly of Detroit in the National Hockey League are brothers-in-law. Jankowski is married to Kelly's sister.

Fleck, Dietz Near Top; Rosburg Is Pace-Setter

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (INS)—Bobby Rosburg burned up the Monterey Country Club course with a seven under par 65 today to capture the lead in the first round of the $50,000 Bing Crosby national pro-amateur tournament.

The Napa, Calif., professional swung a putter that couldn't miss while putting together nines of 32-33 on the par 72 layout. His sparkling round included six birdies and an eagle.

Tommy Bolt and Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., were second in the individual play category with cards of 67. Each had a card of 34-33—67.

San Francisco's Ken Venturi, penalized two strokes for inadvertently picking up an out of bounds marker in the vicinity of his ball, racked up a 68.

Fleck put together a 35-33—68 to be tied with five others three strokes behind the leader, while Dietz shot a 34-35—69.

Chick Harbert of Northville was one of 12 tied with 71's. Wally Burkemo of Franklin Hills shot a 72 and Gene Bone of Pontiac had a 39-39—78.

Roseburg and Nelson Cullenward, San Francisco Call-Bulletin sports writer, tied for the lead in the best ball division with Johnny Weissmuller and Bolt at 11 under par 61.

Second place in the best ball was taken over at 62 by the veteran Jimmy Hines and Barney Leonard of Palm Springs.

Motorcycle Ice Racing Sunday

Two Pontiac drivers will be among the field competing in Sunday's motorcycle ice races at Hidden Lake Park, 545 N. Rochester Rd., two miles south of Lakeville and 1½ miles north of Romeo Rd.

The Liberty Motorcycle Club of Detroit is sponsoring the event and racing has been sanctioned by the American Motorcycle Association.

Roy Wallace and Gus Rallas are the Pontiac entries. Other drivers entered in the races are Earl Buck of Hazel Park, Bernie Hiden of Royal Oak, Oliver Beracie of Hazel Park, Ted Johnson and Gardener Durfee.

4th Swim Victory for Hazel Parkers

Hazel Park's swimming team chalked up its season's 4th win Thursday night in the home pool, swamping Ferndale 59-37. One pool record was set up, with Parkers' Bill Dyker splashing out a 1:09.2 mark for the 100-yard butterfly. Old mark was 1:09.6.

Big 10 Relays Saturday

EAST LANSING, (AP)—An event billed as the Big Ten relays will actually be a dual relays swim meet between Michigan and Michigan State here Saturday.

No other conference schools are sending swimmers to the meet.

Most other Big Ten schools apparently feel they wouldn't have much chance of beating out State, the conference champ last year, or runnerup Michigan.

The 44 yard free style relay and the 400 yard medley relay races are expected to be the best of the nine events.

Michigan State won the free style relay in the Big Ten meet. The rivals tied in the medley in the NCAA championships.

Williams Picked as AP 'Athlete-of-Year'

Boston Slugger Is Selected by Wide Majority

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ted Williams, king of the batters at the age of 39, today was named the outstanding male athlete of the year for 1957 in the annual Associated Press year-end poll.

It was the first time in his long, stormy and dramatic career that the tall Boston Red Sox slugger was chosen for the honor, one of the great prizes in sports.

The recognition came seven weeks after he was nosed out by Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees for the Most Valuable Player award of the American League.

The selection by a committee of baseball writers kicked up a mighty storm because one writer picked Williams for ninth place and another named him tenth.

In the AP poll, Williams won by a whopping margin over Milwaukee pitcher Lew Burdette, the star of the World Series, with middleweight boxing champion Carmen Basilio a trailing third.

Williams received 85 first place votes from the 214 sports writers and sportscasters who participated in the poll, and 434 points. Points were counted on a basis of three for first, two for second and one for third.

Behind Williams, Burdette and Basilio this year, came All-America back John Crow, Texas A&M (67); Stan Musial, St. Louis' National League batting king (46); Wilt Chamberlain, the tower of Kansas basketball (42); Dick Mayer, the Open golf champion (44); Jimmy Brown, rookie power back of the football Cleveland Browns (40); heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson (34); Bill Russell and Bob Cousy of the pro champion basketball Boston Celtics (27 each); Hank Aaron, Milwaukee slugger and series star (24), and then Mantle and Lennie Rosenbluth, all-America of North Carolina's all-winning college basketball champions (14 each).

Bolling Needs Weight

Looking at Tiger Stars During the Off-Season

DETROIT (AP)—Frank Bolling is a steady, sure-handed infielder whom many clubs have tried to lure away from the Detroit Tigers.

Because he can come up with a sensational play in the field or at the plate and because he hustles all the way, Bolling is likely to stay with the Detroit Tigers for quite some time.

The club has one wish that isn't likely to come true: Manager Jack Tighe and general manager John McHale would like the slender second baseman to put on some weight.

"I'm still wearing the same suits I wore four and five years ago," said Bolling the other day from his Mobile, Ala., home. "I haven't worked too hard this winter and it seems like all I do is eat but I've gained only three or four pounds since the season ended."

Bolling "weighed out" at about 170 pounds. Since then, for the first time, he has been selling insurance with his father, who has his own firm in Mobile.

"I've done some fishing in Mobile Bay and other places, too," said Bolling. "That's the good thing about working with my father. I generally can slip out and do some fishing and relaxing without too many squawks from the boss man."

STRIKES AND SPARES
By Joe Wilman

If tough shots are your meat, you should enjoy shooting at this 4-7-9 split we show today. It requires a very delicate touch, and there's no margin for error. Lucky pin action won't make this one for you; you've got to hit it just right.

Take your stance on the right side of the approach because this is a split on the left side of the alley. Release the ball on the right side of the alley, but angle it across sharply so it strikes the 4-pin very lightly on the left. The ball will continue on into the 7; and if the 4-pin is shaved lightly enough on the left, it is sent into the 9.

The 31-year-old defending champion's biggest backing came from the men who know best—rival hotshots who regard him as the finest bowler in the land.

The quest for more than $36,000 in cash prizes starts tonight in a "parade of stars" feature which is not actually part of the tournament proper.

At stake tonight is $3,600 in prize money, divided among two shifts of men bowlers and one for women.

The blue chip firing starts tomorrow over the Armory's 24 lanes and won't let up until a week from Sunday. By then the opening field of 288 bowlers will have been whittled down to 16 finalists for match play competition in both divisions.

Bay City Quint Always Trouble for SVC Teams

Chiefs Seek 4th Win of Year Against Fast Wolves

Pontiac Central may be highly favored to beat Bay City Central tonight, but coach Bill Ullenbruch of the Wolves feels this could be a surprising night for the Chiefs.

"We can run and we have the potential shooters," said Ullenbruch, "and with a few breaks I know we could beat Pontiac."

Could be that Ullenbruch may have something up his sleeve for tonight's game which is a must for Pontiac Central in the Saginaw Valley Conference race.

"People have judged us by the 83-41 lacing we took at Flint Central just before Christmas," said Ullenbruch, "but I'm sure we will never have another night like that. It was one of those nights when nothing went right, even though we hustled all the way."

Pontiac, currently the 7th ranked team in the state among class A schools, with a 3-1 mark, has only to look back to the Flint Central game to remember what a short but speedy team accomplished.

Bay City has some height in the front line and the Wolves are fast which could spell trouble for Pontiac again.

Coach Ullenbruch, who operates a revolving offense which does not actually employ a center, will have three forwards, Bob Bishop (6-2), Larry Piotrowski (6-3), and Jim Kanicki (6-3) up front and guards Jerry Gross (5-9) and Butch Kokaly (5-10) in the outer court.

Ullenbruch has plans on starting little Guiles Brashaw, a 5-foot-6 guard who worked his way into the first unit after the Saginaw game, but Brashaw sprained his ankle in a sidewalk fall last week and is expected to be out indefinitely.

Roosevelt Alexander and Harrison Munson were given the opportunity to start and they performed well. Jerry Williams also started along with John Bandy and Charley Barge at the guards.

Royals Hold Lead, Knights Threaten

The Lakeside Royals maintained their grip on 1st place in the Class A City Basketball League, but they had a new contender after Thursday night's results at Pontiac Central High.

The Knights of Columbus moved into 2nd spot on a 3-1 record with a 73-56 victory over Shaw's Jewelers. John Keller sparked the K. of C. upset with 18 points while Shaw's Bob McManus netted 24 for game honors.

The Royals boosted their record to 4-0 with a 64-54 triumph over CIO Local 594. John Jackson scored 19 points for the winners. CIO's Felix Brooks took individual honors with 20.

The holidays are over and it's back to work for everybody tonight as far as Oakland County area high school basketball teams are concerned.

League action falls into the spotlight with important games scheduled in every conference on the heaviest prep card of the season to date.

Top spot or a share of the same will be this evening's target for area powers in the Inter-Lakes, Oakland B, Wayne-Oakland, Saginaw Valley and Suburban Catholic circuits.

Berkley and Van Dyke, tied for leadership of the Inter - Lakes, tackle tough foes. Unpredictable Walled Lake invades Berkley while the Abes meet dangerous Waterford on the Skipper court.

Troy and Avondale, deadlocked for 1st place in the Oakland B, will unravel the knot when they collide on the Troy floor. Title favorite Lake Orion, still stalking the leaders, is host to Madison while Fitzgerald goes to Clawson.

There's plenty of action planned in the Wayne-Oakland loop with the No. 1 attraction taking place at Northville where Holly risks its undefeated record against the rangy Mustangs.

Northville, defending co-champion with Clarkston, is just beginning to "jell" and the Broncos, who have serious title ambitions of their own, will have all they can handle.

Clarkston, also protecting an unbeaten record, entertains West Bloomfield, Milford visits Bloomfield Hills and Clarenceville moves into Brighton for other W-O games.

Tonight marks the inaugural of the Eastern Michigan League campaign. The ball starts rolling with Birmingham at Mt. Clemens, East Detroit at Hazel Park and Ferndale at Port Huron.

Southern Thumb activity finds league - leading Almont playing host to Armada, Memphis invading Dryden and Brown City the guest of Capac. Front-running Imlay City comes to Oxford and Ortonville greets North Branch in South Central scraps.

1st Place Fight in SCL

By H. GUY MOATS

Two Suburban Catholic league basketball clubs "lay it on the line" tonight, when St. Frederick Rams and St. Benedict square off in a battle for first place, in the unbeaten Bens' gymnasium.

★ ★ ★

Wright's club is at full strength, led by its ace scorer Tom Derocher who has averaged better than 20 points a game, and Nick Nickerson, with a 12-15 point average. Other starters will probably be Dick Nichols, Joe Keller and Dick Kast.

Bob Mineweaser's St. Michael Shamrocks also are on the road tonight, along with St. Mary's Eaglets of Orchard Lake.

Mineweaser said he would start Bob Mineweaser and Art Robak at forwards against St. Rita's in Detroit. His other starters will be Tom Dabbs and Pat Campbell at guards and George Draké at Center. Lack of height is one problem the Shamrocks worry about. They are shooting to square their league mark at 1-1, after losing to St. James in the SCL opener.

Eaglets collide with St. Clements on the latter's floor and Royal Oak St. Mary's go against St. James, at home. Lourdes is at Shrine in a non-loop contest.

Lane Is Unanimous in 10-Round Bout

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Kenny Lane, the No. 1 lightweight contender from Muskegon, Mich., unanimously outpointed Johnny Gonsalves of Oakland last night in a 10-rounder.

It was the second time in five months that Lane beat Gonsalves and it was his 18th straight victory.

Waterford Loop Tied

White Swan battled all the way back from a 22-7 1st period deficit to nip Hutchins Mobil 50-48 and throw the Waterford Recreation Men's basketball league lead into a three-way tie last night.

Dennis McConkey scored 14 and Mel Karrigan 12 to spark the comeback. Joe Umphrey tallied 15 and Dick Hall 14 for the losers. White Swan will play an exhibition Tuesday and the Jaycees will meet M59 Sunoco Tuesday.

ENTERTAINS PRESS — Representatives of press, Michigan Tourist Council and other public relations groups were guests, last night, at Mt. Holly Ski Area. Host Mort Graddis (center) of Birmingham, is flanked on the right by The Pontiac Press' Joe Haas and at left by Don Kennedy of the tourist council. A large company enjoyed the visit to the popular winter sports area, north of Pontiac, now in full swing after a slow start.

"THE MONEY I'VE SAVED BUYING FORD DEALER USED CARS IS HELPING ME MAKE THE PAYMENTS ON MY HOUSE"

But Mr. Gouine isn't the only one who has found that it pays to buy Ford Dealer A-1 Used Cars . . .

"When I buy a used car from my Ford Dealer, he always gives me a top trade on my old car," says William R. Gibbs.

Charles Simmons says, "I buy used cars from my Ford Dealer because he has always stood behind every used car he sells me."

Says Suburban Shopping Centers Change Buying

CHICAGO (AP)—A newspaper advertising executive says the increase in suburban shopping centers has changed buying habits of many Americans.

"The overwhelming response to regional shopping centers makes clear the shopper wants and enjoys far more from a store than a warehouse atmosphere," Pierre Martineau said yesterday.

He said newspaper studies show shoppers often pass judgment on merchandise "not so much in terms of merchandise values as in terms of store personality."

Pontiac Motor Planning School on Used Cars

A used car reconditioning school for Pontiac dealer personnel will be conducted by Pontiac Motor Division in all 30 General Motors Training Centers across the nation beginning Feb. 3.

Designed to familiarize dealer service employes with appearance reconditioning procedures, the program will continue until all Pontiac dealer training requirements are satisfied.

Specifically the classes will deal with the following processes: Cleaning, retinting and dyeing of upholstery (leather and cloth); cleaning of headlining and door panels; replacing loose upholstery; dyeing of floor mats (rubber and carpet)) cleaning and restoring trunk compartments; restoring instrument panels and garnish mouldings; patching holes in rubber mats; and polishing bright metals on car exteriors.

All of the Pontiac materials utilized in reconditioning are designed to recondition any make or model used car and are available for General Motors dealers through GM Parts Division warehouses.

The first automobile manufacturer to inaugurate a used car reconditioning program in 1947, Pontiac has pioneered the development of numerous reconditioning materials and processes.

Prices on Grains Weak to Lower

CHICAGO (AP) — The government report of grains impounded under the support program was considered a bearish factor among most grain dealers today and prices in early dealings on the board of trade were weak to lower all around.

Near the end of the first hour, wheat was ½ to ⅝ lower, March $2.20; corn ¼ to ¾ lower, March $1.14⅛; oats ⅛ to ½ lower, March 64⅞; rye ¾ to 1¼ lower, March $1.30; soybeans 1 to 1½ lower, January $2.28⅛; and lard was 2 cents lower to 17 cents higher per hundred pounds, January $11.82.

Bulk Cargo, Tonnage on Great Lakes High

CLEVELAND (AP)—The tonnage of coal, limestone and grain hauled on the Great Lakes in 1957 was less than in 1956, but increased iron ore tonnage made the total bulk cargo tonnage higher than in any other year except 1953, the Lake Carriers' Assn. reported yesterday.

Lake vessels hauled 199,696,932 tons of bulk cargo in 1953 when Korean War needs boomed fleet traffic. Last year the bulk cargo total was 192,206,230.

Kasper Shares Cellblock With Several Negroes

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., (AP)—Segregationist John Kasper is working in the warehouse of the Federal Correctional Institution at Tallahassee, Fla., and sharing his 50-bunk cellbock with several Negroes.

This was the report today of Deputy U.S. Marshall Billy Robinson, who said he saw Kasper Wednesday when he took some other Knoxville prisoners to the prison.

Decline Follows Ike's Speech

Meanwhile, layoffs and cutbacks in the auto industry held down production. While Federal Reserve Board Chairman Martin hinted further credit-easing moves if conditions worsen, the board's seasonal cut in open market credit made loanable funds of commercial banks less plentiful.

General Dynamics and North American Aviation erased early losses but Douglas Aircraft was down close to two before halving its loss and Boeing cut a point loss to a fraction.

★ ★ ★

Three Youths Guilty of Assaulting Man

Three youths pleaded guilty yesterday to aggravated assault and were sentenced in municipal court.

Richard P. Denihan, 20, of 29 S. Paddock St.,; Phillip G. Asbell, 19, 102 S. Saginaw St.; and Robert E. Vallard, 18, of 2185 Pompey St., Waterford Township; were sentenced to 30 days in jail and payment of $20 restitution each, or 35 days in jail, by Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

The three, and a juvenile, were accused of assaulting a man on the street and stealing his wallet. They were originally charged with armed robbery.

★ ★ ★

Denihan was also convicted of being drunk and disorderly in a separate case and fined $15 or three days in jail.

Car Production Seen Lagging

World's Reports Show Output 16 Pct. Behind Same Period in '57

DETROIT (INS) — Ward's Automotive Reports said today the first full week of U.S. car production in 1958 was 16 per cent behind the same period last year.

The statistical agency estimated this week's output at 121,292 cars and 18,748 trucks as compared to 147,129 cars and 20,322 commercial vehicles during the like week in 1957.

Wards said strikes at Chrysler Corp. and the Lincoln Division of Ford Motor Co. and a "softening in production" contributed to the decline. It declared work on Saturdays has been eliminated by many manufacturers who were recently making constant use of overtime.

The agency added General Motors Corp. accounted for 53 per cent of the industry's car production during the first complete work week of this year as compared to 48.5 per cent for the initial week in 1957.

Ford produced a reported 26.5 per cent this week as against 30.5 per cent a year ago and Chrysler dropped to 16.5 per cent, a decline of two per cent from last year. Ward's stated American Motors doubled its output from 1.5 per cent to 3 per cent, while Studebaker remained at one per cent of production this week.

New Heavy Truck Line Introduced by Ford

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Ford Motor Co. said it has started producing a new line of heavy trucks here, the largest in the company's history.

A company source said yesterday the new line will have 10 different models and production plans call for a level of about 15,000 units annually.

He 'Loses His Speech' Over Polio Contribution

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Shop owner Louis Prow said he "lost his speech" when an unidentified man walked into his store and stuffed $20 into a March of Dimes container.

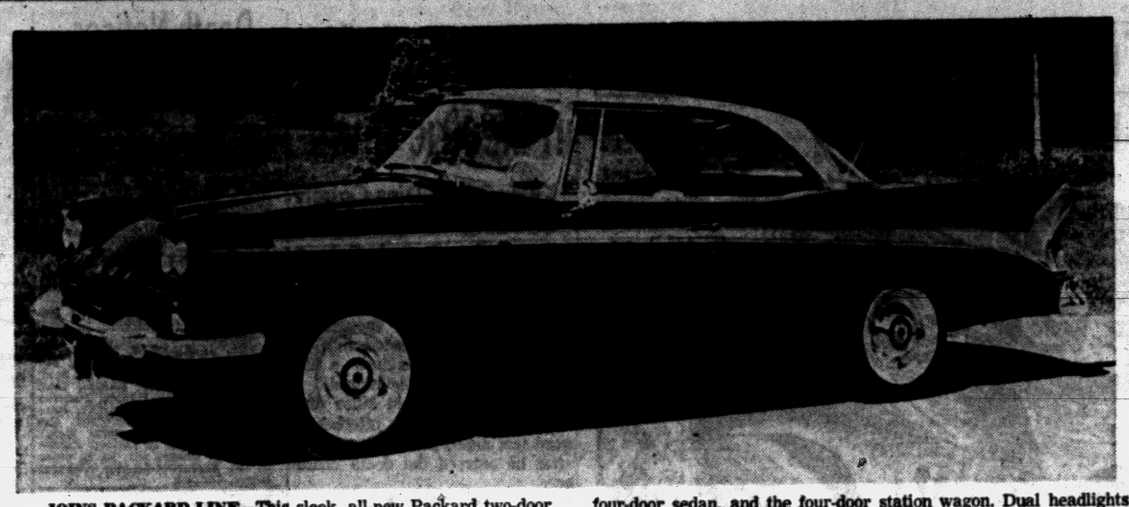
Prow said the anonymous contributor told him he had read about such a container being stolen Tuesday, and stuffed the money inside the new container.



JOINS PACKARD LINE—This sleek, all-new Packard two-door hardtop is a current addition to the expanded line of Packards for 1958, bringing the line to four models — the Packard Hawk, the four-door sedan, and the four-door station wagon. Dual headlights are contained in a jet-type nacelle and the lowered, flowing roof line is reminiscent of the symmetry of an airfoil.

3 New Packard Models Revealed at South Bend

SOUTH BEND (AP) — Studebaker-Packard Corp. today announced three new Packard models — a two-door hardtop, a fourdoor sedan and a station wagon — to complete the Packard line for 1958.

A Packard Hawk model was introduced last November.

Power brakes and automatic transmission are standard equipment on the new units. Also standard is a four-barrel carburetor. The V-8 engines develop 225 horse power at 4500 revolutions per minute.

In styling the newest models present a long, low silhouette with large upswept tail and brake lights and dual headlights. The forward sloping hood has an airscoop at the front.

Beck's Son Refused New Trial by Judge

SEATTLE (AP) — Superior Judge George H. Revelle yesterday turned down a plea by Dave Beck Jr., son of the retiring president of the Teamsters Union, for a new trial on grand larceny charges.

Young Beck and his father were both convicted in separate jury trials late last year of misappropriating the proceeds, $6,550, from the sale of three union-owned cars. Both asked for new trials on grounds of juror prejudice, errors in instructions to the jury and denial of due process of law.

In dismissing young Beck's motion, Judge Revelle said he could find nothing to justify a new trial and indicated he would pronounce sentence next month. The conviction carries a maximum sentence of a 15-year prison term.

Issuance of Warrant Depends on Autopsy

Whether a warrant will be issued against her husband in the Dec. 23 death of Mrs. Frank W. Henson, of Hazel Park, will depend on the autopsy report to be made to Oakland County Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor today.

"I'll make a decision within 48 hours based on this report and the facts and circumstances," said Taylor.

Taylor has said the death of the woman in the Henson home at 62 W. Maxlow could have been "murder, manslaughter, suicide or even accidental death."

First Case of New Court Term

Drew to Be Tried Feb. 4 in Area Slaying

A date of Feb. 4 has been set for the first degree murder trial of Edward Drew, 26, confessed slayer of a Commerce Township grocer in his store Oct. 23.

According to Chief Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor, the Drew trial will be the first of the new court term. Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick will preside.

Drew, a Commerce Township ex-convict, admitted shooting Karl Kolm, 63, with a rifle in his small store at 1010 Oakley Park Rd., two miles north of Walled Lake.

He has been held in Oakland County Jail since he stood mute to the charge of first degree murder at his arraignment Nov. 19.

Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem will handle the case, according to Taylor.

Also scheduled to come up for trial during the first term of court is Brezie Reed, 32, of 295 Howard McNeil St. He is charged with manslaughter in the fatal stabbing Sept. 1 of James Quiet, 27, of 241 Wilson St.

Examining the number of cases pending from last year, Ziem said there were cases in which 107 defendants must yet be brought to trial.

He further said it takes an average of four months new for a case to come to trial. "Of course," he said, "this depends on the nature of the case and the plea involved."

Among other homicide cases Ziem said he would attempt to have tried during the first term of court, will be the second degree murder trial of Clisby Watkins, 23, of 415 Bloomfield St.

Feast of Lights Service Planned at Rochester

ROCHESTER—The annual Feast of Lights Service commemorating the Epiphany will be held in St. Philip's Episcopal Church Sunday at 7 p. m.

Mrs. Walter Swords will have the honor of lighting the Epiphany candle and of being "The Keeper of the Light."

Each member of the congregation will be given a candle upon entering the church. During the service the candles will be lighted and carried home that way. This is the symbol of Christ, the light of the world, being carried throughout the world.

★ ★ ★

Commission to Fill Vacancies Tuesday

Commissioners decided in an informal session to fill this and other posts Tuesday night.

There are vacancies on the Board of Tax Review, the Zoning Board of Appeals, the Fair Employment Practices Commission and the Historical Commission.

★ ★ ★

Another vacancy may develop soon on the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees. Brewer, who recently took on the new job of Oakland County Road Commission Co-Ordinator, has announced he may resign next week from that board also.

★ ★ ★

The Commission began consideration of a possible successor. Brewer has been chairman of the board since last July.

City Projects for '58 Listed

Roughly $1 Million After Hospital Addition Cost of $317,000 This Year

There will only be roughly $1 million available for the program this year, stated City Manager Walter K. Willman, due to the city's financing of the Pontiac General Hospital addition.

To finish the addition, the city has earmarked $317,000 out of this year's taxes which otherwise would have gone into public and capital improvements. The city plans to spend a total $950,000 on the addition over the next three years.

★ ★ ★

Last night, a tentative list of projects totaling about $875,000 were recommended by Willman.

★ ★ ★

These were selected from a list of $19 million in projects that could be undertaken this year. Willman recommended that Commissioners decide first which projects should be given top priority.

There was little discussion of the 1958 budget recommendations. A public hearing on the budget has been scheduled for Jan. 21. Approval may also be asked that night following the hearing.

The budget recommendations total $5,683,595.

30,781 Renault Cars Sold in U.S. Last Year

PARIS (AP) — The French-owned Renault auto plant sold 30,781 cars to the United States, mostly small size models, last year—about nine times as many as in 1956.

Altogether, the company said in its annual report, exports of Renault cars increased by 59.9 per cent last year to 117,044 units.

475 Laid Off by Ford

ST LOUIS (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. announced the indefinite layoff of 475 workers at its Mercury assembly plant in St. Louis yesterday as part of a nationwide production cutback. This reduced the work force to about 1,500.

County Studies Airport Plans

Board of Supervisors Tables Question; Seeks Further Information

Oakland County is still studying the pros and cons of a proposed Northeastern Airport in Sterling Township in Macomb County.

The Detroit Aviation Commission said Wednesday it planned to enlist the cooperation of Macomb and Oakland counties in the development of the airport.

At an Oct. 15 meeting, the Miscellaneous Committee of the Oakland Board of Supervisors tabled the matter until further information was available.

Winson S. Moberly, committee chairman from Pleasant Ridge, said yesterday further study might be made at a meeting next week. "We have decided nothing so far," he said.

★ ★ ★

The Aviation Commission said it has received acceptance of its plans from Macomb County. Plans are for the commission to acquire a four-square-mile area bounded by Seventeen, Nineteen, Dequindre and Mound roads for the field.

Republicans, Dems Praise Ike's Talk

A number of top Democrats—notably House Speaker Rayburn of Texas, Senate Leader Johnson of Texas and House Leader McCormack of Massachusetts — crossed party lines to say in effect "fine speech."

Republicans, almost to a man, saw the address as reassuring to the nation but a large number of Democrats, in spite of the example of their leaders, said "old stuff" or wanted something more specific before they would applaud.

Johnson praised the message for its "idealism" in regard to security and peace, and went on in a statement:

"It must be emphasized that it is necessary for all of us to cooperate so the specific steps that lead to security and peace can be found and built into a program of action."

STRONG SPEECH

Rayburn said the message was strong— the strongest I think the President has presented to Congress . . . I'm glad to know the President is alive to what the American people are disturbed about . . . "

* * *

McCormack said it was "a very fine message, very much like what Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman would give."

"I hope the applause of the Republicans will be manifested by their votes," McCormack went on.

Even Sen. Symington (D-Mo), a frequent critic of administration defense policy, had words of praise. He said "fine message" and added: "in the main I agree with it, particularly what he said about peace and disarmament."

DEMS COMMENT

On the other side of the Democratic fence were such remarks as these:

Sen. Johnston (D-SC) — "President Eisenhower sounded just like Rip Van Winkle. He just woke up."

Sen. Morse (D-Ore)—"It was a sermon of apology delivered at the wake of a dead administration."

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn)—"The question is what is to be done . . . the follow-through."

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California said Eisenhower "has forthrightly pointed out the dangers arising from Communist imperialism . . . the country will expect Congress to measure up to its responsibilities."

House GOP Leader Martin of Massachusetts said the message was "a most encouraging and reassuring one."

* * *

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) said the overall tone was "one of leadership and an understanding of our needs."

Other Republican samples:

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) — Unquestionably his best speech."

Sen. Wiley (R-Vt)—"A tremendous message."

Should Democracies Study Issue of Preventive War

(Howard Handleman roams Europe, where he is chief correspondent for International News Service. He has been reporting from abroad for more than 15 years.)

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

PARIS (INS) — Will Soviet successes make Nikita Khrushchev too eager for a great place in history?

Will he become so cocksure that he will push the button for nuclear war in an effort to become the father of a Communist world?

These questions are most serious for NATO diplomats and generals.

They are so serious that already there are minority suggestions that perhaps the democracies should re-examine the whole question of preventive war, so far a banned area for allied thought.

"For the last 40 years the Soviet Union has been satisfied, or resigned, to work for the erosion of the free world.

THE VITAL QUESTION

"The question of war or peace, therefore, may very well rest now with the question of whether Khrushchev ever feels strong enough to strike. In his world the temptation and possible rewards are tremendous.

"Everything the Soviets have done is aimed at a single objective. That is domination of the entire world.

"Therefore if Khrushchev strikes and wins he almost automatically will become the greatest Communist of them all, greater even than Lenin or Stalin.

* * *

"He would be the father of a Communist world.

"That would be quite a place in a history written by Communists."

WHAT ABOUT US?

The talk turned to the question of preventive war. The military man asked:

"In this situation where Soviet confidence, which is growing, carries a real threat of war, can we afford to increase the temptation by giving them the assurance that they can strike first, when and where they choose?

"With the new weapons, can we or anyone else bounce back from the first blow? We think we can, now. We are pretty sure we can. But what about the next year or the year after?

"Preventive war is a nasty thought. In America it is part of folklore that Americans never started a war. That is not quite true when you think of the Revolution, the Mexican War and the Spanish-American War, but it is part of folklore and belief.

"All through history new weapons have required new thinking, new concepts, new strategy.

"Now, perhaps, it is necessary for us at least to reassess our thinking about preventive war, decide with our eyes open whether in face of the new weapons we still can afford to renounce it as a concept."

Unsanitary Property Brings Jail Term

A tenant was convicted yesterday in Municipal Court and sent to jail for keeping his property in an unsanitary condition.

Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum found Kennet B. Downing, 43, of 120 Parkdale St., guilty of two violations of city ordinances.

He was sentenced to 30 days in jail and a $100 fine or 50 days on each count. Sentence was suspended on one of the counts.

Establish Youth Athletic League at Marlette

MARLETTE — An organization called the Marlette Church Athletic League has been formed. Churches participating are Baptist, Bethel Undenominational, St. Elizabeth's Catholic, Methodist and Presbyterian.

* * *

This organization was established to promote wholesome recreational activities for the youngsters of Marlette and the surrounding area.

The program is for boys in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. They must attend one of the churches mentioned, not missing more than one Sunday service at his church each month, except in case of emergency.

* * *

League basketball activities will be held in the Methodist Church gymnasium.

Career Ended in Electric Chair

Killer Burke Dies Calmly at Sing Sing Prison; Once Predicted Fate

OSSINING, N. Y. (INS)—Elmer (Trigger) Burke's spectacular crime career has ended in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair—a fate he once predicted for himself.

The wiry 39-year-old killer died calmly and without uttering a word last night, just three minutes after he entered the death chamber.

* * *

The guards had difficulty adjusting the head straps and Burke smiled at their embarrassment. Then he took a deep breath and waved to one of the 20 witnesses.

There was a loud crack as a switch closed. Burke seemed to take three slow, deep breaths and it was all over.

* * *

Burke died for the 1952 drunken slaying of Edward (Poochie) Walsh, a longtime pal who had stopped him from kicking a man in a west side bar. The execution was stayed three times during Burke's 25 months in the death house while he appealed all the way to the U. S. Supreme Court.

In dying, the hired killer, who stood only five feet, seven inches and weighed 130 pounds, perhaps carried with him the answers to many unsolved crimes. Police believe he murdered at least four persons in New York, plus an unknown number elsewhere.

Bodies of Four Found in Home

Mother Killed Children, Turned Gun on Self, Reno Police Decide

Her bullet-torn body and those of the couple's three children were found side by side yesterday on a bedroom floor of their $50,000 home.

* * *

Victims of what police described as child killing and suicide were Mrs. D. Yvonne Cavenaugh, 34, recently released from a mental hospital, and her children, Anthony, 9, Carol, 8, and Kevin, 4.

Robert Cavenaugh, who had been separated from his wife more than six months, was in Chicago when the shootings occurred — apparently after the two older children returned from school Wednesday. Cavenaugh is secretary of the Illinois Commercial Men's Assn. of Chicago.

* * *

Asst. Dist. Atty. William Raggio told of blood-spattered and bullet-pocked upstairs walls, indicating that Mrs. Cavenaugh may have chased and shot the children in various rooms before bringing them downstairs to lay them in a row on a blanket in her lavish bedroom.

* * *

Police said more than 20 shots had been fired.

Oak Park Receives Honors in Contest

OAK PARK—Oak Park, one of Michigan's newest cities, has received honorable mention in the 1957 All-American Cities contest. The Oakland County city was one of 22 finalists presented at the National Municipal League convention last November.

The contest is sponsored by the league and Look Magazine.

A 12-man jury selected 11 cities for the All-American award,. They are Albuquerque, N. M.; Clarksburg, W. Va.; Galesburg, Ill.; Ketchikan, Alaska; Miami-Dade County, Fla.; Middletown, Ohio; Neosho, Mo.; Omaha, Neb.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Vancouver, Wash., and Yankton, S. D.

Township Officials to Meet in Lansing

FARMINGTON — The Michigan Township Association will hold its annual convention at the Hotel Olds in Lansing Jan. 14, 15 and 16.

Mrs. Elise P. Avery, Farmington Township trustee and director of the Oakland County Township Association, has urged all township officials in the county to attend.

"We will have an opportunity to vote on proposed legislation affecting our townships," she said. "It is important that officials arrange their schedules to enable them to attend."

Admits He Delivered Dope to Comic's Girl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An unemployed film technician has admitted, narcotics officers said, that he delivered dope to Barbara Burns, daughter of the late comedian Bob Burns.

David J. Mack, 26, booked on suspicion of violating the narcotics law, denied, however, that he started Miss Burns on the habit and said he didn't sell her any narcotics, only delivered them for a man he has never seen.

Miss Burns, 19, arrested at her Hollywood apartment Wednesday, told officers that "I'm really hooked" as a heroin addict. She is free on $500 bail pending a court appearance next Tuesday.

Sgt. John O'Grady of the Police Narcotics Bureau, said Mack admitted he is a user himself.

Halsey Quits Fight to Save Old Carrier

NEW YORK (AP) — Fleet Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey, USN retired, says ill health will take him out of active leadership in the campaign to preserve the aircraft carrier Enterprise as a national monument.

★ ★ ★

Halsey, who was hospitalized last July by a stroke, said he would have to leave the job to others who are "younger and better able to tackle it."

★ ★ ★

For more than a year, Halsey has sought to raise $350,000 to save his old flagship from the scrap heap and permanently tie it up in San Diego, Calif. It is now at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Burroughs Computer Guides Atlas Missile

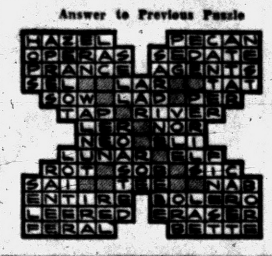
DETROIT (INS) — Burroughs Corp. revealed today it has built a large-scale electronic guidance computer used in the current Air Force Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile test program at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Burroughs said it was awarded contracts totaling "several million dollars" for design, development and production of the most advanced type of giant electronic data processing systems. The company said these systems make up the "heart of the Atlas guidance system."

Little Goes Long Way

DALLAS — Texas researchers say they have discovered that about an ounce of molybdenum added to 2,000,000 pounds of poultry feed can mean an extra $18,000 worth of chicken at market time.

Answer to Previous Puzzle



Now Very Successful, Boone Was Fired Often

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Today I'll give you ladies a break and fling my candid questions at Richard Boone, who's such a TV byword that a doctor's put out a card saying "Have Knife, Will Travel," while Jimmy Durante advertised, "Have Nose, Will Travel."

WILSON

"Yeah, Michael Redgrave fired me from 'Macbeth' in '47. You're always fired for one thing—a lousy performance.

"And I got fired from 'The Closing Door' by Lee Strasberg, Cheryl Crawford and Alexander Knox—and I was playing a doctor!"

Boone chuckled. "To think that after that I played 'Medic' for two years. Why when they cast me as Paladin in 'Have Gun, Will Travel,' somebody upstairs at CBS said, 'He's a doctor, ————, not a cowboy!' "

★ ★ ★

"Were you ever broke?" . . . "I was bad broke. Lived on Third St. Had no fuel, so I burned the cotton-pickin' furniture in the fireplace."

"Were you any good as a dancer when you tried that?"

"Martha Graham, a great gal, said, 'You can't dance at all.' I wasn't any kid when I started. I was already 30.

BOONE

"So then Gadge Kazan asked if I wanted to work in a screen test. It was for Lenka Peterson. All you saw of me was one ear. I got a movie contract and she didn't."

"Is your real name Boone?"

"Yes, I'm a descendant of Stuart Boone, Daniel's brother. That makes me related to Pat Boone. Cousin Pat! I've never met him."

"Yeah, I'm enjoying the fact we've got a successful TV film. I'd be lying if I said I wasn't!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Robert Merrill and other Met Opera stars are petitioning Ike to up the U.S. budget for the Brussels Fair, claiming our $11,800,000 vs. the Soviet's $60,000,000 will prove "another Sputnik." The Met stars offer to work gratis.

Milton Berle said he'd leave for Europe to meet his wife "even if I have to be carried aboard" . . . Tony Bennett and his long-time manager, Lloyd Leipzig, busted up amicably . . . Roz Russell, when she leaves "Auntie Mame" Jan. 18, will have grossed $3,250,000 in 70 weeks . . .

EARL'S PEARLS: When women play cards, they care less about a good hand than they do about a good earful.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "The reason airplanes have a lower accident rate than autos is that there are no pedestrians up there."—Tony Pettito. That's earl, brother.

ABBE LANE

Sultry Singer Turns to Acting

Musical on Broadway Follows Successes in Movies and TV

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — As a member of the Indoor Star-Watching Society, I can report today that Abbe Lane is no longer just a gorgeous satellite beeping cha-cha-cha in close orbit around husband Xavier Cugat.

She zoomed out of orbit in eight Italian movies. She is now appearing in a Hollywood flicker and as a frequent TV guest star, and is warming up for "Paradise," the Broadway-bound musical based on the movie "Captain's Paradise."

And now the sultry red-haired Abbe is fast becoming sort of an "adult" Jayne Mansfield, with hubby of five years Cugat in the supporting cast of her career just like Jayne's Mickey Hargitay. Except Cugat, of course, has an orchestra instead of just muscles.

It may mean pistols at dawn for Cugat and Hargitay, but in a cool voice over a hot bowl of minestrone, Abbe commented to me on the "adult" Mansfield comparison:

"Jayne may turn the boys into men, but I take them from THERE."

It's the role of a South American temptress for Abbe in Cornel Wilde's "Maracaibo" at Paramount and she doesn't sing.

WORST MISCASTING

She made two movies in Hollywood before going to Italy three years ago, but is was the worst miscasting since a myopic producer selected a photo of Elvis Presley as a candidate for "Little Men."

She was a barefoot Mexican girl in one and a barefoot Indian maid in the other and she played both roles with black wigs.

But in Italy, says Abbe, "they let me play everything—drama, comedy, American girls and even a lady doctor."

Abbe Lane, M.D.? Yes sir. Man's Delight.

A "Latin" from Manhattan who was first a Broadway chorus girl and then a nightclub singer, Abbe hit the big time first as Cugat's band singer and then as his wife.

THE HARDEST THING

"But proving I could just be myself was the hardest thing I ever tried," she told me. "It was a deliberate move, with Cugie's approval, but Hollywood wouldn't take me seriously. But the movie producers in Europe did and you can imagine how happy I was when Vittorio DeSica approved me for the role of his leading lady."

★ ★ ★

The DeSica-Lane teaming was for "My Wife Is a Doctor," in which Abbe plays a lady medic in a comedy plot, and it's one of her four Italian films for U.S. release.

"I'm loaded with temper," she said, "but I'm not tempermental. Cugie—cured me of it by telling me that in show business you can't have a single enemy. 'There are no small enemies,' was the way he put it."

★ ★ ★

Still a Rover Boy who like to keep Abbe in eyesight, Cugat will play the role of the captain's mate in her Broadway show, "Paradise."

A CLOSED DOOR

"But when he's singing," Abbe laughed, "I'm going to keep my dressing room door closed."

★ ★ ★

After working in Europe for three years, the Cugats admit they have a "small fortune" in frozen money tied up there.

"We'll have to keep going to Europe for the next 10 years to spend it," says Abbe.

But there's sure no evidence of the Cugats being short of cash here. They have a home with eight acres of land in exclusive Brentwood, near Los Angeles, and they just paid $150,000 for a penthouse apartment in New York with an annual $30,000 maintenance.

Here Is Correct Puzzle Solution

A. (2) CORKER. A remarkable person, the slangy meaning of CORKER, will surely be the popular one. A real Worker may have the sort of disposition that would make him very unpopular.

B. (3) PECK. Pick of a farmer's apples, the quantity gathered at one time, may very well be too large a portion of the crop to be saved for personal use. A farmer uses his windfalls, and may keep a PECK of apples for himself, besides these.

C. (5) CLUSTER. A Clutter would be a disorderly assemblage and would not be very enjoyable, even if the flowers themselves are beautiful. But the CLUSTER of orchids — a number of flowers of the same kind held together in some fashion — would surely give enjoyment to the passers-by.

D. (8) PAUNCH. The size of a Pouch or moneybag may indicate wealth, but not necessarily good living (enjoyment of luxuries). Many a rich man lives frugally. PAUNCH could mean that its owner indulges too often in the rich foods that go with good living.

E. (9) REVERSE. An actor must Rehearse with the rest of the company, to do it properly. He can REVERSE himself (change his mind about what he will do) when he gets annoyed, such as deciding to quit.

F. (11) QUOTABLE. All Notable sayings were extremely apt at the time of saying them. That's why they are called notable. But trying to find a QUOTABLE saying for a particular occasion requires hunting through notable sayings for the right one.

G. (13) MEANDER. To Maunder would be to drivel senselessly. This would surely bore his class. "Probably" indicates some doubt, apt for MEANDER. To MEANDER, or stray from the subject, may be quite entertaining, but it could also turn out to be somewhat boring to the class.

H. (15) PRIMACY. During an emergency, for example, the boss would expect his Privacy to be broken. He must be informed immediately of certain things. But his PRIMACY (his being of first importance) must always be respected.

I. (18) CANNONADE. If the CANNONADE (discharge of cannon) is efficient, then you know the Carronade (a type of cannon) is in good working order, and being well used, too. The carronade may be in good order, but poorly aimed.

J. (20) VENERABLE. "Somewhat" is the deciding word. Any man who is frail is rather Vulnerable, open to attack, either actually or physically, as by disease. This is more than "somewhat" sad. It is very sad. But a frail VENERABLE man is respected because of his high character. He is subject to physical infirmity, however, so the situation is somewhat sad.

K. (21) SUBJECT. Any person watched by a private eye is called the SUBJECT. Not every one will be a Suspect, someone possibly guilty.

L. (23) FATAL. With a Futile mistake, there may still be a chance to correct it. This is less frustrating than a FATAL mistake. A FATAL mistake dooms a particular project.

M. (26) EUPHEMISM. Any Euphuism is already too high-flown. The meaning of the word is affected, ornate language. A EUPHEMISM, substitution of a mild expression for a harsh one, can be ridiculous, if it is high-flown. Not all EUPHEMISMS are, of course.

N. (28) STIGMA. How to resolve (explain or handle) a STIGMA, a blot on one's name, "may" puzzle a philosopher. However, being a philosopher, he may not think it necessary to try. But resolving an Enigma would certainly puzzle him. An enigma is a very puzzling problem.

O. (30) VERNAL. The VERBAL efforts, being spoken impromptu, must decidedly be inferior. The word "likely" indicates some doubt. This is apt for Vernal. A versifier, or indifferent poet, who writes merely seasonal spring poems, can very well write them less successfully than his more inspired pieces.

P. (31) PROMINENCE. PROMINENCE, or outstanding position, will do. Pre-eminence, or unrivaled top position, is too rare a goal, even for the ambitious career man. This is the right of a genius.

Q. (33) YAMMERING. A fond mother will be deeply concerned for her child's Stammering. She will try to correct it somehow. His YAMMERING, crying, incessant jabbering, or complaining, could well fray her nerves.

R. (36) PETTY. A man who is Putty (easily handled) may be just what the boss wants. If a man is PETTY (small-minded and spiteful) the boss could want to get rid of him.

S. (37) MANGLES. Since the clue specified "wet wash," MANgles doesn't mean "irons" but "cuts or slashes." So when the laundry MANGLES wash carelessly, it not only Tangles, but cuts or tears as well. This is enough cause to complain. If the wash is returned tangled, it is something of a nuisance, but not enough for a real complaint.

T. (40) RANGY. A RANGY dog would be a lean one. This suits "fatten up," of course. A Mangy dog would be in need of treatment to cure him.

Clash Turned Into Advantage

Strength of Macmillan May Rise After Row in Conservative Cabinet

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan seems to have turned a serious clash inside his Cabinet to the political advantage of himself and his Conservative party.

Instead of finding his position with the general public weakened, Macmillan actually may come out stronger from the dispute over the new government budget which produced the surprise resignation of Chancellor of the Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft.

For now Macmillan, as he tours the Commonwealth, stands at home as the defender of the welfare services—as the moderate politician who refused to cut back government expenditures on such things as free milk for children and aid to expectant mothers.

The announced reason for Thorneycroft's resignation Monday was that he insisted the relatively small sum of 50 million pounds (140 million dollars) should be cut from the estimate of government expenditures for the fiscal year that begins April 1. This would have kept 1958-59 spending at this year's level.

Macmillan's letter accepting the resignation made it plain the Prime Minister thought welfare services would have to be cut if the chancellor won his fight.

After naming Derick Heathcoat-Amory the new chancellor, Macmillan took off on schedule the next day for a 39-day Commonwealth tour to India, Pakistan, Ceylon, New Zealand and Australia.

Army General Fined $25 for Duck Hunting

BALTIMORE (AP) — Duck hunting over a baited area cost Lt. Gen. Edward T. Williams, deputy commander of the Continental Army Command at Ft. Monroe, Va., $25 yesterday.

It was the same fine paid earlier by his hunting companion, Maj. Gen. Rinaldo Van Brunt, chief of staff o the 2nd Army at Ft. Meade, Md.
