Tax Issue Loses, Defeating Courthouse Plan

Irons Beats Hubbell in GOP Sheriff Race

County Voters Approve Bonds, Shy From Levy

Project Needs Approval on Both Propositions to Become Valid

Oakland County voters Tuesday turned down immediate construction of a new courthouse.

They gave approval to a $4,500,000 bond issue to build a courthouse, but rejected a necessary one-half mill tax to guarantee retirement of the bonds.

The plan required approval of both propositions to become valid.

The unofficial vote by property owners on the bond issue was 20,493 "yes" and 18,529 "no." The ballot by all eligible voters on the tax increase found 20,443 in favor and 21,596 opposed.

The Pontiac vote was a heavy contributor to the plan's downfall. Local voters opposed the bond issue by a majority of about 700 votes and said "no" to the tax increase by some 1,100 ballots.

County Corporation Counsel Harry J. Merritt said the bond issue was "a dead duck" without the tax hike.

"We can't issue bonds without assurance that money to pay them off will be available," he said.

"Now it would take another vote on both questions to approve a new building."

The vote in the county's south end yesterday split over the proposed building. Sizable "yes" majorities were recorded in Birmingham, Royal Oak and Ferndale. Hazel Park, Berkley and Oak Park were opposed.

Sections of the county north, east and west of Pontiac split about evenly.

Five Defeated by Broomfield

GOP Nominee for State Senate Tops Rivals by 8,000 Votes

William S. Broomfield of Royal Oak left the nearest of five opponents more than 8,000 votes behind in winning the Republican nomination as state senator.

With the unofficial tally completed, Broomfield amassed 14,144 votes. His nearest rival, Royal Oak Mayor Howard K. Kelley, received 5,835 votes.

On the Democratic ballot Fred Elias of Hazel Park defeated Fred L. Hanscom of Royal Oak 9,857 to 7,299.

Broomfield, who had served as a state representative from the Fourth District since 1948, will face Elias in November.

Third highest in the Republican Senate race was Frank M. Granger of Ortonville who polled 3,653 votes. Richard D. Kuhn of Pontiac was given 3,428 votes; Edward Morey of Milford, 2,163, and Anthony Renne of Pontiac, 1,089.

The Republican race was without an incumbent, as State Sen. George N. Higgins of Ferndale decided not to seek renomination. Higgins has announced his candidacy for the Michigan secretary of state post.

Berkley Chief to Face Hicks on November 2

Candidate Polls 7,000 More Votes Than the Incumbent

Frank Irons, Berkley Police chief, won the Republican nomination for sheriff in Tuesday's primary when he piled up more than a 7,000 vote margin over the incumbent sheriff, Clare L. Hubbell.

Irons, 55, of 2660 Sunnyknoll, Berkley, polled 17,573 votes to Hubbell's 10,232 in an unofficial tally of the county's 208 precincts.

The new Republican candidate will oppose Democrat George D. Hicks, 48, of 16 N. Johnson Ave., Pontiac, in the Nov. 2 election. Hicks was unopposed for the nomination.

Taking an early lead, Irons kept piling up votes in south Oakland County and Waterford Township.

In Waterford, where voters have been involved in a battle to reinstate ousted police chief Frank Van Atta, an admitted Irons backer, Hubbell tallied only 378 votes to Irons' 1,838.

In Irons' home city, voters rallied to give the victor 1,701 to Hubbell's 79. Hubbell carried only 21 of the total number of precincts counted and those by narrow margins. They are Farmington city and Township, four precincts; Addison Township, one precinct; Avon Township, six precincts; Pleasant Ridge, two precincts; and six Pontiac city precincts.

The other two Republican candidates fared as follows:

Robert R. Copeman, 1,799, and Gordon W. Deneau 2,157.

Irons, a resident of the county 31 years, has been chief of the Berkley department since 1926. He joined the force in 1924.

City Democrats Nominate Hudson for Legislature

Incumbent Leaun Harrelson of Pontiac was defeated in his attempt to win his fourth nomination as Democratic state representative from the second district Tuesday by Leslie H. Hudson.

Incomplete returns gave Hudson a two to one margin in the three-way race with a total vote of 3,364. Harrelson polled 1,629 votes while Odin H. Johnson received 904.

Hudson will face unopposed Republican nominee Ernest Huthwaite, a Pontiac attorney, for the second district seat in the November election.

Hudson, 32, of 69 W. Colgate St., was Waterford Township clerk from 1947 to 1951 and is past member of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors. He is the owner of a drug store here.

Approximately 42,000 votes were cast in yesterday's primary, 17,000 below the primary vote of 1952 which was a presidential election year, but 11,000 more than the number cast in 1950.

Sutton Opposes Rep. Dondero

Royal Oak Democrat Wins by Wide Margin in Primary

Paul Sutton of Royal Oak, a first-time candidate for public office on the Democratic ticket, will oppose veteran Congressman George A. Dondero in the November election in the 18th district.

The 44-year-old radio actor defeated Zigmund J. Niparko, 34-year-old Hazel Park mayor, and William A. Welsh, 55, a Royal Oak attorney, by a wide margin in yesterday's primary.

Sutton garnered 9,559 votes to Niparko's 5,482 and Welsh's 4,290. He will face Dondero, also of Royal Oak, in the Nov. 2 general election.

Unopposed on the Republican ticket, Dondero received his party's nomination. He is seeking his 13th term in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Although active in Royal Oak city politics, Sutton never sought office before. He has been a member of the Royal Oak Democratic Committee since 1951

Will Oppose Williams in November Balloting

Hopes to Block 4th Term; Voters Choose Hart for 2nd Spot on Dem Ticket

By JACK I. GREEN

DETROIT (AP) — Donald S. Leonard, nationally known police authority, won his second try at the Republican nomination for governor today and the assignment of trying to block Gov. G. Mennen Williams' hopes for a fourth consecutive term.

Leonard, 51, unleashed a torrent of votes in both Wayne County and outstate to defeat three more experienced campaigners. Upsetting predictions, he carried the up-state areas as well as the metropolitan district.

At the same time, Gov. Williams, 41, was riding unopposed to renomination on a record-breaking Democratic vote in Wayne County.

Election officials estimated when more than half their precincts were counted that the Democrats had polled more than 70 per cent of the total vote there.

With 3,792 of the state's 4,783 precincts reporting Leonard rolled up a total of 152,679 votes. D. Hale Brake, veteran state treasurer, was running second in the voting with a total of 103,074.

Secreary of State Owen J. Cleary polled 83,493 and Dr. Eugene C. Keyes trailed the field with 63,421.

It looked as though Williams might be polling a vote of 300,000 or better.

As if that weren't enough, Williams' handpicked choice for lieutenant governor and running-mate, Philip A. Hart of Birmingham was sweeping to victory.

With 3,736 of the states 4,783 precincts tallied, Hart was leading George S. Fitzgerald, 52, of Detroit 206,700 to 69,550.

This seemed to justify Williams' unprecedented appeal to the party to give him Hart for a running mate and read Fitzgerald out of the party. Fitzgerald was the candidate of the powerful AFL Teamsters' Union.

Patrick V. McNamara, 59, of Detroit, another AFL official, won the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator hands down.

McNamara polled 145,095 votes from 3,507 of the state's 4,783 precincts.

But there was an amazing "memorial" vote for the late Blair Moody whom death removed from the primary race two weeks before the election. Moody received 80,892 votes from the same number of precincts.

Ike Hits Senate Foreign Aid Cut

Says Reduction Shows Lack of Comprehension of Kremlin Activity

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the foreign aid cut voted by the Senate is too deep and will hurt the United States badly. He also said it reflects some lack of comprehension as to what the people in the Kremlin are doing.

The President told a news conference that before the bill went to Congress the administration already had trimmed the program as much as it felt was justified.

Eisenhower asked Congress for nearly 3½ billion dollars for foreign aid. The Senate late yesterday voted to put the figure in an authorization bill at $2,610,000,000. The House had voted $3,368,000,000.

The President also came up with a ringing defense of Gen. George C. Marshall when asked

Sale of 6 City-Owned Lots and Charter Amendment Approved in Birmingham

(From Our Birmingham Bureau)

BIRMINGHAM—In a light vote yesterday, two proposals were passed approving a charter amendment and the sale of six city-owned lots.

Of the 11,971 registered voters, 3,832 turned out for the primary.

The highest number of votes cast — 2,467 — was for the charter amendment which now gives the city the right to grant irrevocable permits enabling the Southeastern Oakland County Water Authority to construct water mains within the city.

The six city-owned lots to be sold face back-to-back at the eastern end of the blocks bounded by Coolidge, Maple, St. Andrews and Yorkshire.

A count proposition and a tax limitation proposal to finance construction went down to county-wide defeat, but was given an affirmative nod here. Voters in Bloomfield Township and Bloomfield Hills also favored the issue.

Leonard Chosen on GOP Ticket

out opposition and Lt. Gov. Clarence A. Reid of Detroit also won the Republican nomination again without contest.

Leonard, the man who rose from State Police Trooper to command the Michigan State Police and the Detroit Police at different times, immediately pitched his attack on Williams' desire for a fourth term unique in Michigan history.

Expressing himself as "humbly grateful," Leonard promised to confer at once with his defeated opponents and other party leaders to set up the fall campaign.

Brake conceded defeat at 4:30 a.m. from his home in Stanton. He telephoned congratulations to Leonard and promised him full support.

Cleary, who had made the bitterest attacks on Williams in the campaign, folded early and conceded he had been bested.

Dr. Keyes of Dearborn virtually gave up before the polls closed at 8 p. m. last night. He told newsmen to say he was congratulating the winner and headed north on a fishing trip.

The Democrats, torn by inter-union rivalries between the CIO and AFL over the senatorial race, embraced McNamara quickly.

Neil Staebler, the party's state chairman, wired McNamara that the party would make his victory over Ferguson a No. 1 goal.

Despite the fact that Leonard had run a strong second against Fred M. Alger in the 1952 primary, politicians were surprised at the strength of his sweep against such veteran Republican leaders as Brake and Cleary.

Leonard carried 28 of the 83 counties to 33 for Brake, but Leonard's votes were in the big population centers largely. Cleary carried 10 counties and Keyes 7. A few were still undecided.

In Wayne county, which cast a larger vote than expected, Leonard was rolling 4 to 1 ahead of Cleary, who was second in the metropolitan area and better than 6 to 1 ahead of Brake. Leonard was taking big Oakland County 4 to 1.

Largely due to the unexpectedly big Wayne County vote, Michigan apparently polled well over a million votes. This compares with 896,000 in the comparable off-year primary of 1950.

Williams statewide vote was not counted in the unofficial returns but in Wayne County he appeared to be polling more than twice as many votes unopposed as all the Republicans put together.

The votes gathered by Williams, Ferguson and Reid will not be known until the state board of canvassers completes the official count in about two weeks.

House Pension Bill Denies Subversives

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed yesterday a bill to deny government retirement pensions to federal employes convicted of subversive activity or claiming possible self-incrimination in refusing to talk before Congressional committees.

The measure would not apply to retired government workers already receiving pensions.

The bill was aimed primarily at Alger Hiss, former State Department employe convicted of lying when he denied associations with espionage agents. It also covers a wide range of activity as grounds for denial of government retirement pay.

Hiss, now serving a term in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., is eligible to receive a federal pension upon reaching the age of 62.

He and others similarly convicted would be denied their pension rights but would be refunded their contributions to the pension fund.

Author of 'Gigi' Dies at Age 81

Gabrielle Colette Won World Fame for Her Novels of Love

PARIS (AP)—Gabrielle Colette, 81-year-old French writer whose novels of love and passion won world acclaim for over half a century, died last night at her Paris apartment.

She was best known in America for "Gigi," which had a highly successful Broadway run after American playwright Anita Loos adapted it as a stage play.

Colette personally picked Audrey Hepburn, a little-known British actress, to play the Broadway lead in "Gigi." Miss Hepburn's performance skyrocketed her to stardom.

Writing under her last name only, Colette was one of France's most popular modern novelists and a darling of the critics as well.

At 20, she married Henri Gauthier-Villars, a Paris writer in his 40s.

She started her career as a ghost writer—authoring books that bore her husband's pen name, Willy. Later they published their works as collaborations under the name of Colette Willy.

Their greatest joint success was the "Claudine" series of novels, begun in 1900 and based on Colette's own experiences.

Colette finally decided she was not receiving the credit due her, divorced her husband and took up writing under her own name.

Colette married twice after Willy and had a daughter by her second husband.

GOP Policies 'Alarm' Adlai

Democrat Is Disturbed Over Soil Conservation Service Changes

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said last night he is "alarmed at all of the Republican policies on natural resources."

"We seem to be approaching another crisis in this field," he said.

The 1952 Democratic presidential nominee made his comments after a trip in Lolo National Forest with Forest Service officials.

He planned to visit Bitter Root Valley today.

Republican power policies alarm him, Stevenson said, because of what he called the GOP's "partnership" approach.

He said he was concerned over Republican changes in the Soil Conservation Service and accused the GOP of taking the important jobs in that agency out of Civil Service and injecting "the spoils system and political patronage."

Stevenson came here after a tour of the Pacific Northwest and Alaska. He is scheduled to leave by plane tomorrow morning for Kansas City, where he will confer with former President Harry S. Truman.

2 State House Veterans Defeated in GOP Primary

By UNITED PRESS

Two veteran members of Michigan's House of Representatives were defeated Tuesday in their bid for their party's nomination.

At least a half dozen other incumbents faced possible defeat but outcome of these close races will not be known until returns are complete.

Rep. Harry Hermann (R-Saurium), who was chairman of the House Labor Committee, was upset by D. J. Massoglia, Saurium, for the Republican nomination in the Houghton district. Massoglia received 2,118 votes to 1,495 for Hermann, who was running for his eighth term.

In another upset, Rep. John D. Kruse (R-Manistee), who has been a member of the Legislature since 1942 and was chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, was defeated by Charles A. Boyer, Manistee, for the GOP nomination in a four-man race in the Wexford district. Boyer held a 500-vote lead.

Another incumbent to fall by the wayside was Rep. Leaun Harrelson (D-Pontiac) who was defeated by Leslie H. Hudson, Pontiac, 3,295 to 1,607 for the Democratic nomination in Oakland County's Second District.

When final returns are in, 218 candidates will have been chosen to face each other in the final election for 109 House seats. There will be no November election contest in Gogebic County where Rep. Louis Mezzano (D-Wakefield), who was unopposed for the Democratic nomination, has no Republican opponent.

Next year's 110-member House will be the largest in state history. It was increased from 100 members earlier this year under provision of a reapportionment proposal adopted by voters in 1952.

In all, 592 candidates battled for the 218 nominations.

In Wayne County alone, 254 Democrats and 96 Republicans ran for the county's 38 House seats.

In one of the most torrid races outstate, James P. Mielock, Whittemore, won the Republican nomination over six other candidates in the Alpena district.

Mielock, 50-year-old farmer, received 1,350 votes to 1,200 for Raymond J. Bushey, Alpena. Two former representatives, Richard H. Deadman and Henry Douville, both of Alpena, were out of the running.

Mielock will oppose Democrat John J. Mack, Alpena, for the seat vacated by Rep. Gerald W. Raves (R-Alpena).

In one of the closest races, Rep. Adrian DeBoom (R-Owosso) defeated former Rep. Thurber Cornell, Howell, by approximately 200 votes in the Shiawassee district. Unofficial returns gave DeBoom, a school teacher, 4,500 votes to Cornell's 4,300.

Clarence B. Meggison, Charlevoix, defeated two other candidates for the GOP nomination in the four-county Charlevoix district. He will oppose G. Archie Bedell, Bellaire, in November for the seat now held by veteran Rep. Louis Anderson (R-Northport), who retired.

As to the controversy in the Senate over whether Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) be censured, Eisenhower said in reply to a question that of course that controversy will have an effect on Republican party unity.

The President added that anything which tends to divide the party concerns him and means he must take some steps with respect to the situation.

REP. GEORGE A. DONDERO

PAUL SUTTON

Vying for the U. S. House of Representative seat in the 18th congressional district on Nov. 2 will be Paul Sutton (D-Royal Oak) and Congressman George A. Dondero (R-Royal Oak). Sutton was nominated on the Democratic ticket yesterday. Dondero was the unopposed nominee for the Republican Party.

Woman Whets Appetites With Her Wax Products

NEW YORK (UP) — Just about the worst trick that could be played on anyone would be an invitation to eat ice cream or watermelon at Mary Inman's place in Brooklyn.

Not that Miss Inman's cupboard lacks either — she has ice cream in all the favorite flavors and watermelons which look like they were just plucked from a Georgia vine.

Trouble is, both would be indigestible. They are made of wax.

Miss Inman is president of a food display company which for 28 years has turned out an assortment of foods calculated to make the mouth water but not affect the tastebuds. They are used for advertising display purposes.

Right now, she said, ice-cream —some of the cones are five feet tall — is most in demand. And strawberry is the favorite flavor. Five feet of imitation ice cream costs $25. Life-size watermelons cost $8.

If your taste buds run to cold cuts, Miss Inman's establishment, which she says is the largest of its kind, will supply you with imitation liverwurst, bologna, sliced ham, tongue or a whole or half wax salami. All of them a steal at five bucks — and guaranteed to make your mouth water.

She will sell you a paraffin sirloin for $4, a pork chop for $1.50, and a roast suckling pig — complete with a wax apple in mouth —for $15.

Bread is no problem at the Inman house. She can supply rye, white, whole wheat, and a variety of rolls ranging from parkerhouse to those for hamburgers. Her establishment turns out shrimp cocktails, 26 varieties of vegetables, eclairs, cream puffs and six kinds of pies.

"Making inedible food is much harder than making the edible kind," she said. Her staff includes a sculptor who broods for days over real hams, bundles of asparagus, and double popsickles before he carves out plaster models; an expert mold maker; and an artist, who makes like Rembrandt, dauber mustard on frankfurters or painting the bumps on wax pickles.

The finished products have almost as many uses as rubber bands.

Butcher shops, delicatessens, restaurants, soda fountains, and refrigerator stores used them for display purposes. And of course, the wax snacks are in constant demand for photographic work, in theaters for movie making.

Among the more curious orders she has taken on are a pizza which would shatter elegantly on a comedian's head, a gray tomato for a television show, and a bunch of rotted grapes. The grapes were used to show how sad food looks when it isn't put on ice.

Miss Inman said she'd had many compliments on her "food," but believes she herself paid the highest compliment of all. It happened at a friend's house where she was having dinner. It was a wonderful meal until dessert rolled around, and she noticed the chocolate eclair had a peculiar taste.

"It was one of my own eclairs served as a joke," she said. "And here I was, half way through before I noticed."

Schine on Duty After Brief Visit With His Family

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—One of the Army's more widely known privates—G. David Schine—has resumed duty with a military police unit at nearby Camp Gordon after a three-day pass spent with his family in New York.

Schine, a wealthy hotel heir but more readily identified with Republican Sen. McCarthy's wrangle with the Army, had been assigned to the MPs and service detachment of the 3441 Area Service Unit.

The Army reported yesterday he will be with the Camp Gordon provost marshal's office.

G. R. Pinilla Elected Colombia's President

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Colombia's National Constituent Assembly overwhelmingly voted last night to continue Gustavo Rojas Pinilla as the nation's President for the next four years. He ran against ousted President Laureano Gomez, in exile in Spain.

Rojas Pinilla received 66 votes against 8 for Gomez. Both are Conservatives.

Twenty of the 34 Liberal deputies in the Assembly boycotted the election. The other 14 voted for the winning candidate.

Rojas Pinilla was army commander under Gomez until he seized power in a bloodless coup in June, 1953. The Assembly then authorized him to occupy the presidency until Aug. 7 this year, when Gomez' term would have expired.

Says Japs Should Start A-Bomb Ban

KYOTO, Japan (AP)—Hideki Yukawas, Nobel prize-winning physicist, said today Japanese have a duty to lead in urging a ban on nuclear bombs because they are the only people who have been atom-bombed.

A message from Yukawa to the atom-bombed city of Hiroshima was released by Kyodo News Service. The message will be read at Hiroshima Friday, 9th anniversary of the A-bomb explosion there.

The scientist said atomic energy should be used only for "the promotion of the welfare of the human being," Kyodo reported.

The motorcycle went out of control and ended up in a ditch. Both Bentons had to be hospitalized.

Charles C. Diggs Defeats O'Brien

Detroiter May Become First Negro From State in Congress

By GLENN ENGLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Charles C. Diggs, 31-year-old state senator and Detroit Negro undertaker, unseated seven-term Congressman George D. O'Brien in Michigan's primary Tuesday.

By winning the Democratic nomination, Diggs stands a chance of becoming the first Negro ever to represent Michigan in Congress.

All 18 of the state's incumbent congressmen sought renomination. Twelve of them faced no primary opposition at all and five were renominated with ease.

With 173 of the 13th district's 261 precincts counted, Diggs had amassed 12,177 votes to 6,240 for O'Brien. Diggs' father also was a state senator. The 13th district spans Woodward Avenue in central Detroit.

Only two of Michigan's 13 Republican Congressmen were opposed. They were Jesse P. Wolcott in the 7th district and Ruth Thompson in the 9th.

Wolcott, dean of Michigan's delegation in Washington, won renomination handily over Mt. Clemens attorney Frank C. Lawson. In early complete returns, Wolcott had a 2-1 margin.

Miss Thompson, the only woman ever to represent Michigan in Congress, took an early lead over Albert J. Engel Jr., of Muskegon, son of Miss Thompson's predecessor.

Returns from four counties in the district gave Miss Thompson, of Whitehall, 6,633 votes and Engel 4,785. These included complete figures from Engel's own Muskegon County.

George Apostle, Muskegon Heights, led a three-man field for the Democratic nomination in the 9th district, but Theodore E. A. Engstrom, of Muskegon, was close behind.

O'Brien was one of four Detroit area Democratic incumbents with opposition. The other three—John Lesinski, John D. Dingell and Thaddeus M. Machrowicz—all had sizeable leads over their opponents.

Landon Knight, 30-year-old Detroit newspaperman, was running better than 2-to-1 ahead of George T. Ames for the right to run on the Republican ticket against the winner of the O'Brien-Diggs contest.

Pedestrian Accuses Driver of Stabbing

A pedestrian told Pontiac Police that he was stabbed by a motorist last night when he tried to halt a car which "attempted to run him over" at Parkdale and Hollywood Aves.

Elmer J. Couture, 30, of 27½ Parkdale Ave., who later identified the driver, police said, was treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for a left arm wound.

Detective Sgt. William Hanger said that Elsworth Giles Moore, 45, of 199 Raeburn St. is being held for investigation of felonious assault.

U. S. Seen Going to War If China Tackles Formosa

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Communist China makes a major attack on the Nationalist island of Formosa, the United States will go to war. Every top official willing to discuss American policy publicly or privately agrees on that.

But the Eisenhower administration is not willing, at least for the time being, to make that pledge in a formal treaty with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of the Chinese Nationalists.

Almost no responsible authority wants to talk about this aspect of American policy. It is too much of a diplomatic hot potato.

Yet it is a fact that the American leadership now gives evidence of being whipsawed on a global scale over a policy issue which seems to be deeply involved in the problem of an alliance with Formosa.

The issue is this: Is the United States preparing for war in the view that it is inevitable, or is it directing all its efforts toward avoiding war, without losing honor, in the hope of success?

At one extreme on this issue is South Korea's President Syngman Rhee, who has gone about this country on his current visit vigorously advocating combat to solve the problems of Asia, and particularly of divided Korea.

Rhee was rebuffed by President Eisenhower. Instead of the strong public statement he wanted, Rhee was persuaded to join Eisenhower in a general declaration of desire to unify Korea by peaceful means.

At the other extreme is India with its policy of neutrality, as between communism and the West, in the cold war. India's position is important because of Prime Minister Nehru's influence in Asia, generally assumed here to be great, and of his capacity to influence British policy.

In trying to build a system of anti-Communist alliances in Asia, the United States has been following a course far removed from the extremes as typified by Rhee and Nehru. But these positions exert constant pressure on the American course.

Chiang Kai-shek has publicly dedicated himself to leading a Nationalist Chinese liberating army from Formosa against the mainland, from which he was driven by the Reds.

American diplomats say he appears convinced the Chinese people would rise in wrath against the Reds to join his crusade. State Department officials, however, are not convinced this would actually happen. They have discouraged such ambitions in Chiang while seeking to build up his defensive strength.

The Eisenhower administration seems clearly to conceive of Formosa as a defensive position essential to the security of the American defense line in the western Pacific—not as a base from which a successful assault could be launched on Red China except as one phase of a much larger strategy.

The Chinese Reds, however, have been as belligerent about Formosa as the Nationalists have been about the mainland. They are continually threatening to seize it, and their threats have sounded much louder in Washington since the Indochina settlement.

Secretary of State Dulles reminded newsmen yesterday the U. S. 7th Fleet is in the area to protect Formosa in event of a Communist attack. But Dulles added that while some thought has been given to bringing Formosa into a treaty with this country, there has been no decision and no change of policy. Dispatches from Formosa have given evidence of a desire on the part of Chiang for such a link.

Tax Issue Beats Courthouse Issue

er discussions of a new building dating back to 1929.

The planned building was to be located between Telegraph road and the city's West Boulevard boundary line in what is known as the "county center" where several county institutions already stand.

On request of the county and with consent of Waterford Township, Pontiac annexed 111 acres of the site in June to bring the new building inside the city which is the county seat.

County officials said today they thought the favorable bond-issue vote indicated approval of the proposed site by voters.

If approved the building would have included county circuit court rooms, offices and the health department.

During the campaign numerous officials and civic leaders asked support of the plan.

Main arguments advanced included statements that present county facilities in downtown Pontiac were inadequate to handle constantly expanding county services.

Construction of the new building, they said, would concentrate county facilities in the West Boulevard center, provide ample parking space and room for future expansion.

Crump Nods for Pat Sutton

And Political Bigwig's Favor May Mean That Kefauver Will Lose

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Rep. Pat Sutton shouted to a reporter over the roar of his helicopter yesterday that E. H. Crump, long-time Tennessee political bigwig, has given last-minute support to his bid to unseat Sen. Estes Kefauver in tomorrow's Democratic primary.

But Crump said: "We're not asking our friends to vote for either candidate and we'll maintain that position throughout election day."

Jim Gunter of the Memphis Commercial Appeal reported today that Sutton told him during a flight late yesterday that Crump would make no public endorsement but had passed the word quietly to his Memphis organization.

In the old days before Kefauver turned Crump's "pet-coon" epithet into a campaign asset in 1948, even such quiet support from Crump as Sutton said he had could almost assure victory for a hard-working candidate.

Sutton's mid-air announcement was the latest bizarre note in a Senate campaign of gimmicks, name calling and high-tension stumping that has competed for headlines with one of the roughest gubernatorial campaigns in the state's history. The winners in the Democratic primary are virtually assured of election in November predominantly Democratic Tennessee.

In the contest for Tennessee's first four-year governor's term, former Gov. Gordon Browning is trying to oust Gov. Frank Clement —with assists from members of Clement's own official family. Clement ousted Browning two years ago.

A third candidate, Judge Raulston Schoolfield of Chattanooga, is campaigning almost entirely on his promise to retain segregation in Tennessee public schools regardless of a Supreme Court ban.

Browning also has taken a pro-segregation stand, while Clement has said only that school segregation would continue at least until the court opinion is clarified.

Both Secretary of State G. Edward Friar and the state comptroller, Mrs. Jeanne Bodfish, have aired their rift with Clement in the final weeks of the campaign. Both were leaders in his 1952 campaign.

Whistles for Her Cat, Human Wolf Appears

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Miss Olga Maltsberger, 50, always uses the traditional wolf's whistle when she calls her cat. But this time, she told police yesterday, she got a wolf.

When he ventured into her yard she ordered him away, threatening to call the law. A neighbor did put in a prowler report, and the man fled before a squad car arrived.

Chap Tries to Get License for Pal; Things Blow Up

DETROIT (AP)—Women screamed, tables flew and there was an awful rumpus at police headquarters yesterday, but Mize Moore, 18, didn't get his pal's driver's license.

Moore had all the credentials—even his friend Ivan Buford Harmon's wallet.

Everything went smoothly when Moore identified himself as Harmon until he signed his buddy's signature. A patrolman spotted the difference in handwriting and bedlam broke loose.

Desks were overturned by Moore, chained poles to keep crowds in line were scattered and the crowd was in a frenzy until Moore was subdued.

Moore, who was held for fraudulently obtaining an operators license, said he didn't think his pal could pass the written test.

Seek Injunction to Stop Bees Stinging Bathers

HACKENSACK, N.J. (UP)—Honey bees, who have found a happy hunting ground among the bareskins at the Arcola Pool, better carry on their buzz business somewhere else in the future.

The pool obtained a temporary injunction against the nearby Tally Ho Inn, where five bee hives are kept, ordering the Inn owners to show cause why they should not confine the bees to their own back yard.

Pool operators claimed the bees have stung 40 bathers.

Grotewahl Says John in Asylum

Reveals Letter From Former Bonn Official Expressing Thanks

By JOSEPH H. SINGER

BERLIN (INS) — East German Premier Otto Grotewohl told the Parliament of his Soviet puppet state today that former West German Security Chief Dr. Otto John had been granted political asylum.

Grotewohl read a letter to the People's Assembly meeting in East Berlin that he said had been sent to him by John.

In the letter, the Bonn government ex-official purportedly thanked Grotewohl for giving him asylum in the East Zone which he entered two weeks ago.

John also pledged to continue his work for the unification of Germany.

The former chief of the West German office for the protection of the constitution gave previously as one of his reasons for going over to the Communists the desire to take a step that would dramatically point up what he considered to be the importance of joining his divided homeland.

Although John's voice was heard on several East Zone radio broadcasts since he crossed the Iron Curtain, today's announcement by Grotewhol was the first official word that John had received the asylum he apparently sought.

There has been considerable debate and speculation about the circumstances of John's crossing the border. Two days ago the West German interior minister said it still was impossible to determine whether John went willingly or was lured by the Reds.

Most Allied intelligence officers were convinced, however, that John defected to the Communist government.

Video Writer Settles Suit With Cummings

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Television writer-producer Mort Greene has announced settlement of his $119,600 suit against actor Robert Cummings.

Also named in the action were Cumming's wife and Don Sharpe, TV producer. Greene charged that the defendants, at Cummings' urging, had breached a contract.

The settlement, Greene's counsel said yesterday, was for a five-figure sum. Greene had alleged the contract provided for his employment for 48 weeks at $600 a week on a TV show called "My Hero," starring Cummings.

The contract was broken by Sharpe because of "innuendo and slander" by Cummings, Greene charged. He had contended $19,600 was still due him in salary and had also asked $100,000 punitive damages.

Peace Uneasy in Guatemala

President Armas Still Rules After Surrender of Irregulars

GUATEMALA (AP)—President Carlos Castillo Armas and Guatemala's regular army still governed their nation in shaky shotgun political union today after surrender of holdout dissident troops at the Aurora base just outside the capital.

The defiant units, apparently hopng to force Castillo Armas out, had refused to honor the agreement Monday night pledging the army's full support to the governing junta in exchange for the disbanding of the President's "liberation army" of irregular.s

Castillo Armas announced the Aurora units had surrendered last night after the President's honor guard blocked all roads to the base and threatened to attack. He said the base commander and his second in command had been imprisoned and the junta had put Col. Ramon Gonzalez in command of the base.

Castillo Armas insisted army commanders loyal to the junta were in complete control of the country and "absolute calm" prevailed. But he made no move to countermand his order earlier yesterday halting dissolution of his irregular units in the key provincial cities of Zacapa and Chiquimula.

The 700 "liberationists" in Guatemala City were disarmed Monday night after they had battled for 12 hours with cadets of the national military academy and troops from the Aurora base. Twenty-five persons were killed and 70 were wounded.

The battle resulted from a drunken brawl between a group of cadts and a group of irrgulars in a house of prostitution.

The order to disband the irregulars brought thousands of protesting demonstrators before the national palace yesterday, many in mourning for those killed in Monday's battle. Castillo Armas in a balcony appearance pleaded for calm. He said he was keeping his personal force under arms in the two provincial centers because "new lamentable clashes could occur" if their disbanding was ordered.

8-Year-Old 'Scared' Under Tractor Wheel

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP)—"I didn't feel so good. I was awfully scared."

That is what eight-year-old James C. O'Shea of Council Bluffs had to say about having a wheel of a 2,500 pound tractor parked on his chest.

Jams said it happened when his pants leg caught in the sprocket chain of his bicycle.

"I took one foot off the bike and tried to get my pants loose," James related. The next thing he knew he was off the bike and under the tractor.

Tractor driver E. T. Jackson, 59, said James skidded into the tractor and when Jackson stopped it the boy was under a wheel. His injuries were but bruises.

Captured were James Darrell Holland, 25, and James Earl Spangler, 23. Bobby Joe Rine was still being sought.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 4, 1954

Mr. Moyer Moves Up

We lose — at least in part — a valuable and highly honored citizen in the promotion of Carl W. Moyer.

Along with the entire community, the Press is happy over Mr. Moyer's elevation to the post of general factory manager in charge of all Fisher assembly plants in Michigan.

While we lose him as daily associate, we still have him keeping a fatherly eye on the big plant in the north end of the city. Under his ministrations in the past few years, the local division has developed in size and efficiency and it is an important unit in the industrial and economic life of this community.

In addition to his industrial activities, Mr. Moyer has been on the Pontiac Area United Fund board since its inception and has been a faithful and loyal member throughout that time. He has always been ready to attend meetings and this area has profited through his intelligence and willingness to participate. In fact, in the minds of many board members, Mr. Moyer was unofficially ticketed to act as the head of the drive a year from this Fall.

Whether Mr. and Mrs. Moyer will continue to live in this vicinity has not been announced. Friends of both are hoping this will be the case.

Pontiac has provided many ranking General Motors executives with a liberal portion of their experience. Always we see old friends depart with a definite sense of regret, but everyone rejoices at their advancement and the fact that we have been blessed with such capable administrative people.

On behalf of the entire community, the Press extends a hearty welcome to Mr. M. J. Olson, who replaces Mr. Moyer. He comes to us from Hamilton, Ohio, where he ran the Fisher fabricating plant. Mr. Olson, friendly greetings to you, sir, and all the members of your family.

You are with a great organization here and we know you must be worthy.

Junior Colleges Urged

Lansing was the scene of an informative discussion on the value and need of two year community colleges to relieve the pressure on the State's four year institutions of higher learning.

Dr. Clair L. Taylor, State superintendent of public instruction, told the legislative committee on higher education that State and local funds should finance these two year schools.

Fifteen of them were operated last year with the State contributing $130 per student. The rest of the cost, estimated at $400 to $500 a student, was made up locally.

Behind the proposal for tuition free home town higher education is increased congestion in our State colleges and universities. Members of the committee said 60 junior colleges would be needed to meet Michigan's needs.

Beyond doubt this idea deserves consideration by Legislators, educators and the public. It obviously would be viewed more sympathetically if more details about cost were available. It was high cost which prompted Pontiac's Board of Education to discontinue its junior college program in 1936.

There is no doubt that eventually increasing population will force enlargement of our four year colleges and universities unless some method of relieving the pressure is provided.

Alaska's Salmon Troubles

The people of Alaska, as well as leaders of the industry, are deeply concerned by the steady decline in the Territory's annual salmon catch.

In the last five years the value of fish canned has declined from $97,000,000 to $58,000,000. This has happened despite a steady increase in the retail price.

There are two schools of thought about the cause of this decline. For 20 years every Territorial Legislature, both Republican and Democrat, has sought permission from Congress to ban fish traps. These requests have been based on the argument that the traps ultimately will exhaust the world's largest supply of sockeye salmon.

On the other hand, Alaska Salmon Industry, Inc., an association of 50 canning companies, disputes the trap argument. The industry's managing director says that as long as there are 40,000,000 to 100,000,000 fish they are going to be caught regardless of method.

It seems reasonable to believe, however, that as long as the present method of hunting salmon is used, there is danger of a serious depletion of this valuable food source. The sane course seems to be consideration of sound conservation measures, including elimination of the traps.

While taking a rest cure in a hospital, a Tennessee woman gave birth to her 19th child. It might seem that the idea of taking a rest cure occurred to her a bit late.

There must be something wrong with the advice that on hot days we keep a pan of ice cubes in front of the electric fan. We tried to do this, and they melted.

The Man About Town

A Popular Period

Travel Sources Say We Now Are in Best Vacation Mood

Daffynition

Primary election: Only a preliminary bout to determine the entries for the main event.

According to local travel sources, we now are in the midst of the most popular vacation period of the year. Conversation with

Manager Emerson Alston

of the Pontiac AAA office;

Harold Wright,

Grand Trunk ticket agent, and

local Greyhound manager, the period between July 15 and Aug. 15 is the one most talked about in inquiries for trips. All three assert that the 1954 business looks like a record breaker.

Pontiac's election boards continue to be a fair sex job in the large majority. In Tuesday's primary, the men serving in that capacity were very much in the minority.

Two Oakland County stalwarts of the Democrat party,

Murray D. VanWagoner and Clark J. Adams,

both are being strongly pressed to accept nominations for offices at the coming state convention.

The ideal place to live is in a quiet community just outside a hustling city, according to who does that very thing. He lives in Sylvan Lake.

Never completely strapped for funds is of Auburn Road. He has a couple of the 25-cent "shinplasters," the fractional paper currency issued in Civil War times.

Some young pheasants, hatched by a Brown Leghorn hen in the poultry house of

in White Lake Township after their mother had been killed, are mixing quite harmoniously with his other chickens.

In charge of the forthcoming 1954 Oakland County 4-H Fair,

Superintendent John Bray

says it should eclipse all previous such occasions.

Perhaps it is a good suggestion that comes in a letter signed, who advises that we put off renewing our subscriptions to magazines. He says that many of them make a big bargain offer if the first renewal notices are ignored.

Recent Political Ad Arouses Curiosity; Did It State True or False Opinions?

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

I read in the paper what happened to Mr. Van Atta when he expressed a political preference for Sheriff of Oakland County.

Saturday I saw the full page political ad in the Press, surrounded by photographs of the employees of the Sheriff's Department, asking for the re-election of Clare Hubbell.

I, for one, would be interested in knowing if this was their own opinion or the only one they could express and still keep their jobs.

Case Records of a Psychologist

A Woman's Nagging Is Really an Attempt to Spur Her Mate Into More Dominance

Seneca diagnosed Marshall's case over 1900 years ago, for Roman youths had the same sex problems. And Shakespeare gave Marshall the remedy over 300 years ago when he wrote "The Taming of the Shrew." Nagging is woman's attempt to spur a man into more dominance.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case L-375: Marshall P., aged 24, is in love with a charming girl.

"But Helene treats me like a door mat," he ruefully admitted, "and maybe it is because I spoil her too much.

"For I love her with all my heart. Anything she wants, I try to give her.

"But she gets angry at me over trifles. Then she will scold me and even stand me up on a date.

"I always forgive her. But she keeps puting off our engagement, though I have proposed to her several times.

"So, Dr. Crane, what is my difficulty? I want to marry Helene."

When a young Roman lad also asked Seneca for advice about handling women, Seneca said:

"Go to the archer. See how he handles his bow. With one hand he pulls it back but with the other he pushes it away from him."

Translated into modern slang, that means, "Keep them guessing."

Shakespeare understood women like Helene when he wrote his famous "Taming of the Shrew."

Marshall's chief trouble is the fact he is too meek and self-effacing. He gives in to Helene so much she has lost her feminine respect for his masculine dominance.

When women nag and irritate their male friends, it is a subconscious attempt on their part to spur those males into greater physical dominance.

The women crave a greater amount of he-man treatment. They vaguely feel their men are semi-effeminate.

Most men, however, are too rough and ungallant, selfish and demanding of their girl friends.

But occasionally a male like Marshall will be so cultured and courteous, that he almost worships his sweetheart. Then he may become a victim of his own tender regard for her, and thus lose the girl to some fellow who makes her cry occasionally.

This is a delicate dilemma to discuss in public lest the usual uncouth, boy friend mistake my advice.

But Marshall is the genteel type who needs to reassert his dominance of male over female.

He should call Helen's bluff, as by dating somebody else. If Helene sees him with another woman, after she has mentally tagged him as her own private property, it will jolt her.

For one of the quickest ways to awaken love, is to become an emotional crutch to the other person. Helene has thus learned to lean upon Marshall for fun and compliments, good times and hilarity.

So he can wake her up to her dependence upon him by figuratively knocking the crutch out from under her when she sees him dating somebody else.

And if she then goes into a jealous tirade, either in person or over the telephone, Marshall should call her bluff in no uncertain terms.

He should get tough with her. If she is there beside him in the car when she starts the fireworks, the best remedy is to seize her roughly and kiss her as she has never been kissed before. Stop her palaver with kisses.

Her tirade will soon subside into tears and she'll finally cuddle on his shoulder with the proper respect of a female for her sweetheart.

A shrew or Maggie (vs. Jiggs) type of woman craves greater masculine dominance.

David Lawrence Says:

Liberals Forget Fair Play and Judge Emotionally

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The Roman Senate called it "ad hominem," which means an attack on the man rather than the issues he raised, and evidently senatorial habits haven't changed through centuries of time.

The effort to "Get McCarthy" is slowly reaching the proportions of a widely instigated hysteria.

Even United States senators of the so-called "liberal" school are saying that, while the Constitution declares that no citizen shall be deprived of his right of free speech, the Wisconsin senator nevertheless must be publicly "censured" for the opinions he expresses.

The Constitution says in an article about the rights of members of Congress:

"And for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place."

This now is being construed by a small number of anti-McCarthy senators as meaning that a senator can be punished for his views by the Senate itself, which is but another way of saying that, because each house of Congress makes its own "rules" of procedure and passes on credentials after elections, this gives Congress the right to invoke that same authority to censure a member publicly for his attitude toward public policies.

This is a form of "thought control" which does not square with the utterances of so-called "liberals" who have been claiming that citizens were being punished for being members of the Communist party.

The courts have ruled that leaders of that party are engaged in a conspiracy to overthrow the government. McCarthy ought at least to have the same civil rights as Communists claim.

Far from being a disadvantage to the anti-Communist crusade in America, the controversy initiated by Sen. Flanders of Vermont is turning out to be a salutary development.

It is exposing to full view the arbitrary methods of the anti-Communists, and it will probably lead now to a full-dress debate in the Senate or before the new select committee on every phase of the charges made against the Wisconsin senator.

It will presumably give him a larger audience than before to reveal all the tricks and intrigues of Communist-connected witnesses who have refused to give their own government even the simplest facts concerning their knowledge of the Communist activity of others.

As for the charges against McCarthy, the man, these continue to be spread without the slightest evidence of guilt, and there are many who call themselves "liberals" who are so emotional that they are ready to convict Sen. McCarthy without hearing or reading any of the evidence from his side.

They justify this as "a dose of his own medicine" thus ignoring the age-old maxim that two wrongs never make a single right.

The specific charges or "bill of particulars" given by other senators in their attempt to get a "censure" resolution passed relate to incidents that have already been dealt with.

The Truman administration investigated Sen. McCarthy's income-tax returns and, if it could have prosecuted him, it would have done so.

The Department of Justice examined all the other charges and found no violation of law. As for the article written by Sen. McCarthy for publication as a booklet on housing for veterans, the manuscript of which was bought by the Lustron Corporation, a newspaper which was called to account in a libel suit for its attack on Sen. McCarthy on this very charge finally acknowledged in a public statement it was "convinced that Sen. McCarthy's part in this transaction was on the same plane as the common practice among legislators of accepting fees for speeches and earning other fees for legitimate services."

Yet United States senators on the "liberal" side have been demanding that the Senate, without taking any further testimony, without giving any hearing and without getting all the facts, should render a verdict of "guilty" against the Wisconsin senator.

That's the trend now among the "liberals"—to forget all the rules of fair play and to condemn the senator from Wisconsin just because many of their constituents, swept with an emotional prejudice, are demanding his scalp.

If that isn't "witch-hunting," then the anti-McCarthyites have been misusing the term.

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(International News Service)

Make no bones of the doubt that the White House is up for refills. There's something about that job that makes the incumbent hate to have his mail forwarded elsewhere.

It cannot be the morose portraits of distinguished predecessors frowning up around the plate rail. Nor the haunting lilt of the Missouri Waltz clinging to the acoustics.

Neither is it the fascination of the extra porch rockers swinging to the standard cadence of two-thirds plurality. Every president except Washington wanted the repeater to vindicate his campaign promises. It takes the public eight years to forget 'em.

Ike's handling of the Army-McCarthy embrawlio proofed that he had reached political maturity. All good politicos wear kid gloves when kicking an opponent in the parliamentary shins.

Whether you gaze high or low on the bifocals Ike is now a statesman. He put over his Farm Bill on the fly-leaf of mail order catalogues.

In 1952 Ike knocked over four southern states and picked up legislative corn in North Carolina and Virginia. In Ike's good neighbor policy the other guy doesn't necessarily have to live next door.

We agree with Ike's flexible dollar policy with everything loose except the change. The Senate endorsed his tax-reform program even though the Democrats played it down like a solo on an oboe.

Ike wants to make taxes easier. But doesn't say whether he means to pay or collect.

He figures the agenda-in-being will elect a nodding Congress come what November. Including the star-lettered Tuesday in 1956 when the moving finger plays touch-tag with the man of destiny.

Prices for farm products are adjustable. So is a fat man's belt but always for an extra notch.

Taking it all in all we would corroborate that Ike is off his old Homburg stand and performing like he was born in a silk hat.

You'll see the Homburg again in 1955, same style, same size.

Letters to Dr. Brady Tell Him of Relief to Sinus Polyps From Vitamin Tablets

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Recently I began keeping certain letters on file—letters from readers who have used the treatment I recommend for the rheumatiz (in the booklet The Ills Called Rheumatism).

I thought it might be helpful to have the spontanous opinion of the treatment from a representative group of people who have followed my instructions.

In the course of two or three months the special file was bulging with letters from people who expressed more or less fervent thanks and some of them invoked blessings upon me.

Perhaps half a dozen of them gave essential details, but most of them told how much they had spent on this or that treatment, how many doctors or what eminent specialists they had consulted or which mineral spring resorts they had visited, but not (a) how long they had been subject to the rheumatiz, (b) how long they had followed instructions in the booklet nor (c) whether the trouble had at any time or still did cause partial disability.

Oh, well, we can't change human nature, can we?

Here's a laconic note from an Arizona lady: Dear Dr. Brady: For a year I have been going to say how much good kalion did my sinus polyps.

(Signed .....)

I wish I knew how this woman got the idea that kalion (tablets of KCl with vitamin C) might have any effect on polyps, although I do say in the pamphlet Relief for Allergy (for which send stamped, self-addressed envelope) that remedies which relieve allergic reactions may give considerable comfort to sufferers with what purports to be chronic sinusitis.

Polyp or polypus is a soft grape-like projection or growth from mucous membrane (in nasal cavity, sinus, or elsewhere) with a narrow neck or stem.

It is usually the consequence of some long standing trouble, such as sinusitis, and therefore removal of polyps is likely to give relief only.

Other names for polyp are myxoma ($50), mucocele ($75) and myxofibroma (with nurse, blonde, $100; auburn or brunet, $150).

Symptoms which suggest polyp or polyps in the nasal cavity are lack of nasal resonance in voice (or as is commonly described, nasal voice) or obstruction of nostril greatly increased in damp weather.

Sometimes there are asthmatic symptoms and obstinate ineffective cough, which may be almost instantly relieved by removal of the polyp or polyps; impairment of the sense of smell; polyp high up in nasal tract gives rise to eye symptoms by obstructing the tear duct.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Three Men Test Marksmanship on Automobile

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Three "Dan'l Boones" couldn't find a bar to test their marksmanship on yesterday.

So they riddled Frank Jasgarzewski's automobile with nine .45-caliber automatic slugs and 10 from a .22-caliber rifle, peppering the right tires, rear glass and right side.

He said he noticed three men shooting at a neaby tree when he parked to go fishing in the Ohio River. He returned to find his car shot up and the men gone.

Interview Given by Archbishop

Dr. Fisher Says People Must Be Better Before Peace Is Possible

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — "We must make people better before we can have peace and a better world," says the Archbishop of Canterbury, here for tonight's start of the World Anglican Cogress.

Dr. Geoffrey Francis Fisher went on last night in an interview to discount any growth of friction between his native England and America.

"It is pure nonsense that anybody is driving a wedge between England and America," he said. "We criticize you and you criticize us. But criticism is the function of friends—and thank God for it."

Dr. Fisher said that the free world should be busy trying to settle its own "troubled waters" rather than fighting communism.

"Communists love to fish in troubled waters, so it is these troubled waters rather than communism with which we are dealing."

The archbishop, with Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill of the Protestant Episcopal Church of America, will lead a religious procession of the 600 delegates from all over the world as the congress convenes tonight.

It will be the first such meeting in 46 years, the last having been held in London in 1908.

Leaders call the Anglican family the most decentralized orgaization in the world, with 14 separate national churches and 327 provinces. The Book of Common Prayer is the basic tie of the Anglican family.

CHAPTER 31

"You didn't like Capt. Queeg, did you, Lieutenant?"

"I did at first, very much. But I gradually realized that he was a petty tyrant, and utterly incompetent."

"Did you think he was insane too?"

"Not until the day of the typhoon."

"Did Maryk ever show you his medical log on Queeg?"

"No."

"Did he ever discuss the captain's medical condition with you?"

"No. Mr. Maryk never permitted criticism of the captian in his presence."

"Come to the morning of 18 December, Mr. Keith. Was your decision to obey Maryk based on your judgment that the captian had gone mad, or was it based on your dislike of Capt. Queeg?"

Willie stared for long seconds at Challee's livid face. There were sharp steel teeth in the question. Willie knew what the true answer was; and he knew that it would probably destroy himself and Maryk. But he felt unable to carry off a lie. "I can't answer," he said at last, in a low voice.

"On what grounds?"

"Must I state grounds?"

"It is contempt of court to refuse to answer a question except on sufficient grounds, Lieutenant Keith.

Willie said thickly, "I'm not sure. I just don't remember my state of mind that long ago."

"No more questions," said Challee. He turned on his heel and sat down.

Willie was abolutely certain, in that instant, staring at the surgically cold faces of the court, that he had convicted Maryk and himself with his own mouth.

He shook with boiling impotent rage at the flummery of court routine which prevented him from breaking out and shouting his self-justification; and at the same time he realized that he could never quite justify himself in the Navy's eyes.

In plain truth, he had obeyed Maryk for two reasons, first because he thought the exec was more likely to save the ship, and second, because he hated Queeg. It had never occurred to him, until Maryk took command, that Queeg might be really insane. And he knew, deep down, that he never had believed the captain was crazy.

Stupid, mean, vicious, cowardly, incompetent, yes—but sane. The insanity of Queeg was Maryk's only possible plea (and Willie's too); and it was a false plea; and Challee knew it, and the court knew it; and now Willie knew it.

Greenwald rose to cross-examine. "Mr. Keith, you have stated you disliked Capt. Queeg."

"I did dislike him."

"Did you state under direct examination all your reasons for disliking him?"

"Not at all. I wasn't given the chance to state half the reasons."

"Please state the rest of your reasons, now, if you will."

Words formed in Willie's mind which, he knew, would change the course of several lives and land him in trouble from which he might never extricate himself. He spoke; it was like punching his fist though a glass door.

"My chief reason for disliking Capt. Queeg was his cowardice in battle."

Challee started getting to his feet. Greenwald said quickly, "What cowardice?"

Willie told about Queeg's running from the Saipan shore battery which had fired on the Stanfield. He narrated in detail the episode at Kwajalein which had resulted in Queeg's being nicknamed "Old Yellowstain."

He saw for the first time a change in the expressions of the court as he spoke. The frigid solemnity with which they had peered at him gave way slowly, and instead there were seven faces of men listening with interest to an amazing tale. Challee, frowning bitterly, scribbled pages of notes.

"Mr. Keith, who coined this name, 'Old Yellowstain'?" said Greenwald.

"I'm not sure, sir. It just sprang into existence."

"What did it imply?"

"Well, cowardice, of course. But it also referred to the yellow marker. It was one of those naturals. It stuck."

"Have you told all the incidents of cowardice that you recall?"

"Well, in any combat situation Capt. Queeg inevitably would be found on the side of the bridge away from the firing. When we were patrolling near a beach, every time the ship reversed course the captain changed wings.

"Everyone noticed it. It was a common joke. All the bridge personnel will corroborate what I say, if they're not afraid to talk."

"No further questions," Greenwald said, and went to his seat.

He felt a powerful grip on his knee under the table. He quickly sketched a revolting cross-eyed pig in a steaming cauldron, labaled it "Queeg," showed it to Maryk, and shredded it into the wastebasket.

Challee re-examined Willie for twenty minutes, probing for contradictions and misstatements in his stories about Queeg; he got off a great deal of sarcasm at Willie's expense, but he did not manage to shake the testimony.

Willie looked at the clock as he left the stand. It was ten minutes of eleven. He was amazed, just as he had been on the morning of the typhoon, by the slow passage of time. He imagined he had been in the witness chair for four hours.

Bobo Entertains Her 6 Attorneys Following Decree

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Her second society marriage ended by a Nevada divorce, Barbara (Bobo) Sears Rockefeller, blonde daughter of a coal miner, had a small dinner party with her six attorneys last night.

"All I want to do now is relax," the 37-year-old Bobo told newsmen a few hours after she was granted a divorce from Winthrop Rockefeller, 42. With the decree went a reported 5½-million-dollar settlement.

She will have custody of their 5-year-old son Winthrop Paul.

The onetime Chicago beauty contest winner said the settlement funds will be used for yearly payments for her and her son—"enough to live on."

Dist. Judge John S. Belford granted the divorce after a 15-minute closed hearing, on grounds that she had been separated from her husband since October 1949. They were married Feb. 14, 1948.

"The past is over, and I'm looking forward to the future," said Mrs. Rockefeller, he did not disclose any plans except that she and young Winthrop would remain in Nevada "for a while."

Hospitality, Cheap Prices Mark Scandinavian Trip

(Editor's Note: An American family of five—Bill Becker, his wife Rae and their three daughters — visit Scandinavia on the second leg of their European motor trip on their $20-a-day budget.)

By BILL BECKER

COPENHAGEN (AP)—No matter where you turn in Scandinavia, you're bound to find something that will remind you of home.

Denmark and southern Sweden resemble the Midwestern farm states. Central Sweden, with its hills and lakes, is a composite Minnesota-Wisconsin, and Norway and upper Sweden are much like the Pacific Northwest.

Being Westerners, Mama, the three girls and I liked nearly all we saw in Scandinavia on a series of motor trips. Hospitality and good food abound. Prices are reasonable, except coffee at $1.50 a pound, and gasoline 43 cents a gallon in Denmark to 53 in the Norwegian highlands.

It was easier to stay under our $20-a-day budget in Denmark, Sweden and Norway than anywhere else in Europe. For example—on a three-day swing through Goteborg, Sweden, and Olso, Norway, $60 covered everything, including mementoes.

We didn't reach the Land of the Midnight Sun, but we did get within the 11 o'clock shadow.

That's one of the joys of touring Scandinavia in the summer — there are 18 to 24 hours of daylight if you want to stay on the road late. A word of advice: make reservations ahead, especially in Sweden, where the hotel situation is tight.

The logical place to start your tour is Copenhagen, although arrivals from England or Germany will find the short trip across Denmark rewarding, especially at Odense, the birthplace of Hans Christian Andersen. Our three girls, spoon-fed on Andersen's fairy tales since they could walk, spent a wonderful couple of hours in the museum at the writer's old home.

American servicemen in Germany like Copenhagen for leaves because Danes are perhaps the world's most hospitable people—offended if you don't have a beer or coffee with them.

Denmark's most interesting sights lie within a 30-mile radius of the capital. Copenhagen itself, with unique Tivoli amusement park, scores of outdoor cafes, fine shops and much joie de vivre, is a snare the motorist finds hard to escape.

Huge red barns, many with masonry foundations a foot thick and five feet high, are the trademark of rural Sweden. Rye and wheat stand tall over much of the land, giving way to thick forests of aspen and pine as you head north.

The drive to Stockholm from Halsingborg is a one-day trip of 400 miles through some of Sweden's finest lake country.

Stockholm, attractively draped over a half-dozen islands, is more modern in some respects than Copenhagen, but not so lively. From Stockholm you can drive 600 miles along the Gulf of Bothnia, separating Sweden and Finland, up to Lapland and the midnight sun.

You enter Norway over the Swinesund Fjord Bridge and customs officers usually want to see only your passports and international carnet (driving permit.) Oslo, regally situated at the end of one of Norway's longest fjords, is reached by a drive via Goteborg which compares scenically with Coast Route 101 in Oregon and Washington.

Says Commie Started Strike

Rep. Kersten Claiming Square D Trouble Was Begun by Red

WASHINGTON (INS) — Rep. Charles J. Kersten (R-Wis) today branded the seven-week strike against the Square D. Electric Co. in Detroit as Communist dominated.

In remarks which were written into the Congressional Record, Kersten charged that one of the key figures in the strike is Philip Saba, a United Electrical Workers' International representative, whom he named as "a prominent Communist fuctionary from Philadelphia."

He said Saba reports to Dave Mates, also a UEW International representative, who was named a Red by Bernice Baldwin, a former FBI spy within the Communist party.

Kersen pointed out that Square D produces parts for military aircraft, and supplies products to the atomic energy commission, and makes elements used in the nation's guided missiles program.

Kersten said the 1,200 workers at the company are engaging in a strike "in what may be a test run of the United Electrical Workers ability to close down plants vital to American defense efforts.

In 1949, the UEW was ousted from the CIO for alleged Communist domination.

Waterford Police Report Busy Month

Generally there was more work for the Waterford Township Police Department last month than during June, according to a report issued today by Millard Pender, officer in charge.

Only the number of traffic tickets issued, 250, was below the June figure of 298. Of these, Township Justice Willis D. Lefurgy handled 111 cases, Township Justice Donald White heard 131, and eight others were juvenile summonses.

The department last month answered 433 calls, 89 of which were auto accidents. There were nine larcenies reported during July.

Four arrests each for assault and battery and investigation of breaking and entering marked the high point for any type of arrest out of the 29 persons jailed during the month, Pender said.

Cartoons Not Funny

PORTLAND, Me. (UP) — Don Kelley is a father who keeps his word, but he is fed up with horse operas, spaceship serials and cartoons featuring mice. Kelley promised his seven-year-old son, Dick, "anything you want," if the boy would improve his school grades. Dick got grades of 100 three weeks running and asked his dad to take him each Saturday to movie matinees.

Resigns Chamber Job

LUDINGTON (UP) — Douglas A. Farley, secretary-manager of the Ludington Chamber of Commerce since July 1, 1952, has resigned effective Sept. 1 to become secretary of a Scottville feeds firm. Farley, during his stay in office, was credited with initiating "Operation Facelift," a community project that drew nearly 1,000 area residents to refurbish Ludington State Park.

A Variety of Beds Helps Baby Adjust

Make it easy on baby by seeing to it that he gets used to sleeping under varying conditions. Place him sometimes in his crib, sometimes in his carriage, in order to allow him to adjust to the idea of being moved about if you travel or visit.

Other wise, he may form fixed habits and be awake and uneasy in a strange place. And never give him medicine to make him sleep. If it becomes absolutely necessary to give him something to make him sleep, ask your doctor to write a prescription.

Baby Learns Easily So Don't Spoil Him

Baby will learn quickly to take advantage of any uncertainty you show. By the age of six weeks, he may know that if he cries, he'll be returned to the place where there are people and lights.

And as Baby gets increasingly tired, he also gets more demanding. So when you put him to bed at night, make sure he's comfortable and then leave him alone, even if he does cry for a short while. If you start walking or rocking him, you may have to continue it.

Coming Events

Families and friends of the Oakland County Order of Eastern Star will gather at Martindale Beach No. 4 in Kensington Park on Sunday for a basket luncheon. Edward Pritchard is chairman.

Residents of Sylvan Manor Subdivision will meet Sunday at 11 a. m. at Kensington Park for a basket picnic.

For you teen-agers who are dissatisfied with the way your figure looks in a bathing suit, what about a summer exercising program that will get your figure in perfect shape for the new school term?

Find out what your figure problems are and do the exercises that will help to correct them. By September, your figure should show vast improvement.

To take inches off your waistline (so you'll have that doll-sized waist for your new fall skirts) try these simple exercises.

First, sit on the floor with your legs extended flat in front of you, feet and knees together. Try to touch your toes with your nose. Of course, you can't expect to do this the first time your try it. But each day you try it, you'll get closer and closer.

Next, in standing position, with feet far apart, bend at the waist and touch the floor at right with both hands.

All Brides Dream of Perfect Rite

Whether your wedding is simple or elaborate, you want it to be a perfect ceremony in keeping with the importance and solemnity of a marriage. The first thing for a bride-to-be to decide is what kind of wedding she is going to have.

If you're a bride-to-be who has always dreamed of a wedding veil and your closest friends as attendants, by all means have the traditional wedding if it is important to you, if it is within your family's means, and meets with whole-hearted approval from your husband-to-be.

If a large wedding is decided upon, both wedding invitations and separate announcements are used. Close friends of the couple and all relatives, even if they are at distant points, receive invitations to a large church wedding even though it is understood that many will not be able to attend.

Then come all the close friends of the parents, neighbors, and business associates of the two fathers and of the bridegroom.

A card list is then made of the following: (1) Those receiving invitations to the wedding; (2) those who receive a reception card as well; (3) those receiving announcements and "at home" cards if any.

For a formal wedding, either in church or at home, the bride wears a bridal dress. This is sometimes full length with a long train or at other times, depending on the current fashion, shorter length with a shorter train — or none at all. Veils may be long or short.

For civil marriage, a wedding dress is never worn. Instead the bride chooses a simple street-length suit or dress. With such a costume she never carries a wedding bouquet, either, but wears a corsage.

At an informal morning wedding, either in a rectory, in church or at home, the bride wears a suit or street dress and hat, or an informal afternoon dress and hat.

Don't Become Slave to Toy Retrieving

By the time he's four months, baby will be able to hold a rattle for a few minutes, to wave his arms, to hit at toys which you can string across his crib. This is the beginning of play. He'll amuse himself for stretches watching his fingers and trying to grab his feet.

But toys won't hold his interest for long since he likes many things to play with. Later on, he'll start throwing things, from crib or pen or high chair.

This is because he first developed ability to hold objects, then to let them go. But don't hand his toys back at once or he'll start throwing them regularly for you to retrieve.

Logs 800,000 Miles

Woman Is Veteran Driver

BOONTON, N. J. (UP) — Mrs. Pearl H. Doremus, a sprightly 79-year-old great-grandmother who drove 800,000 miles in 32 years without an accident, advises young motorists never to dispute the right of way.

Mrs. Doremus, who prefers the road to the rocking chair, said driving is lots of fun, but "you have to observe the rules, particularly where the other cars are concerned."

A veteran of 24 cross-country trips, her record should put to rest once and for all the male contention that women are poor drivers.

Her first tour was in 1922 in her first car, an Essex which she affectionately remembers as a "box on wheels."

She took a trip to Wyoming and got lost. But after 36 hours in the wilderness and traveling over the "most awful country imaginable," she found her way back to the main road.

Other trips were no less eventful. She logged 8,400 miles on her latest jaunt to visit her son in Goleta, Calif.

When she returned, she said she felt "wonderful," despite a doctor's warning before the trip that the strain might be too much.

Three times she drove over the Pan-American Highway from Laredo, Tex., to Mexico City, once before the highway officially opened.

In 1929 she followed the territorial boundary and coastlines of the United States but later swung up into Canada, driving as far north on the continent as anyone had ever driven. That point was Prince of Wales Ranch. Log of the trip was 16,000 miles.

Mrs. Dancey Feted at Pink, Blue Party

Mrs. Donald Dancey was honored at a pink and blue shower given Saturday by Mrs. Norman Decker in the Harold Kruger home in Drayton Plains.

Guests included Mrs. C. Clair Decker, Mrs. Roy Dancey, Mrs. Francis Goplen, Mrs. Vance Davis, Mrs. Charles Blair, Mrs. Herbert Rohn and Barbara Kruger.

Karen Kruger, Julie O'Brien and Mrs. Lewis Doyle completed the list.

Be Bright, Alert; Sleep 8 Hours in Airy Room

Smart teenagers know how important it is for them to get eight hours of sleep each night. They realize adequate sleep is essential for both health and beauty.

As you glance at your teenage friends, you can usually tell which girl has been getting sufficient sleep. She's the girl with the dazzling clear skin, and bright, uncircled eyes.

She's also the girl who's last to feel tired at a party or dance. In other words, she's alert, radiant, and full of pep and energy.

During your summer vacation, you're bound to engage in some outdoor sports. And a day spent playing tennis, swimming, cycling or hiking certainly should be followed by a good night's sleep and rest.

Check your bedroom before going to sleep. Is the ventilation sufficient? Will you have plenty of fresh air? If you go to sleep in a slightly stuffy bedroom, you'll awake feeling slightly drowsy and you may have a slight headache.

Make sure your windows are open at the top and bottom. If you have only one window, however, leaving the door open will help to circulate the fresh air.

Your sleeping attire depends entirely on your own preference. Cotton plisse "shortie" nightgowns are the most comfortable for hot weather.

You should have a good mattress, and clean, smooth sheets. For a cooling effect, try sprinkling talcum powder on your bottom sheet. Then, spray your top sheet gently with a light, fragrant cologne.

Remember, for youthful good looks you need plenty of sleep and the prettiest face is a rested one.

You Needn't Be Haunted by Disorder

Plot Your Closet Carefully to End Wardrobe Woes, Confusion

By ANITA COLBY

Saturday coming and you haven't got a date? All right, let's closet-plot.

Your aim is to be a well-groomed, handbox-fresh, spic-and-spandy girl, isn't it? Hats fresh as daisies, gloves whiter than snow, suits brushed and pressed, nylons flawless, shoes gleaming.

But you always seem to miss—just a little, here and there.

Let me make you a small bet. You're closet hexed.

You're haunted—not by any skeletons in your closet, but by the helter-skelter in there. There's just too much unpretty confusion.

Let's reorganize your closet—or closets if you're lucky—today. Set your wardrobe up elegantly—and you'll look more elegant.

Make double use of this time to let cream soak into your skin. Twenty minutes will do the good—while you are working on your closet.

Once more, don't leave cream on overnight. I'll tell you the reason why. There are some oils and waxes in most creams to hold them together—keep them fluffy—which, when left on the skin long enough, clog the pores. So—put it on, but take it off, too, after you have gotten the benefit of it.

Cleaning First

First thing, take every single thing out of your closet. Clothes, shoes, hats, boxes and bags—and that carton of hole-y sweaters and short skirts you were going to fix.

Dump everything on the bed—we'll come back to that later. Now as you work, make it all exercise.

Keep a straight back, and squat to pick up things from floor.

Pull your stomach taut every minute of the time, standing, stooping, or squatting.

All right. You've exercised your way clear to the walls. Your closet's empty. Stand back and examine that yawning space.

What color is it? Just closet-colored—dark and shadowy? Attack it with paint and brush—have some of that quick four-hour drying paint, and your closet will be ready when you're ready to reinstall things.

Paint it to match—or better, brilliantly contrast—your room. Or paper the door with do-it-yourself paper, or use just the border papers—very easy to handle—and edge the panels and outsides of your door.

Make that door so attractive that it will improve the looks of your bedroom to leave it standing open.

Now the Planning

Now consider your cubic space—are you getting the most out of it? How many hanging rods do you have? Just one, running lengthwise?

Could you possibly get in two, one above the other; or by running them the other way, even at the cost of shortening them?

ANITA COLBY

Two shorts are equal to more than one long, if it means you can separate your clothes into full-lengths and half-lengths.

Plan to put all your jackets, skirts, blouses on one rod, and put that rod low, with hat shelves above—or high, with shoe shelves below.

Get added space here for storage cartons for out-of-season shoes, hats, sweaters, etc. If you're still very cramped for space, bring your shoes out into a shoe bag on the closet door.

Remodeling Next

Make yourself the ingredients of a custom-made closet. With brilliant papers, wallpaper or oilcloth, cover your hat and shoe boxes, make storage closets by wallpapering heavy cartons from the grocer.

Orange crates are great boons—line them with bright paper, set them on end, you have shoe compartments . . . separated hat boxes for the fluffy, don't-touch-me types, sweater files, or what have you.

Make your own shoe bags of chints or oilcloth—laundry bag, too. And monogram them with your initials sewn on in velvet ribbon, bright cording or colored tapes. If your budget will stand it, add shelf edgings.

One inexpensive trick I've seen Mona Freeman use is to tie empty perfume or cologne bottles on ribbon streamers—they scent the place up charmingly.

Cover your hangers with the bright-colored ribbons you've saved, velvet perhaps. Another bright idea is to paint plain wooden hangers—pastel or bright, whatever your color scheme.

It's the ingenuity you expend—not the money—that will turn that Black Hole of Calcutta into a place of light and gaiety, of law and order.

If you can't afford sachets and perfumed lacquer paint jobs, make perfumed cotton pellets and stitch them into tiny bags made from ribbons off your last gardenia.

Time to Rearrange

If you've done one-third the carpentering, papering or painting I've talked about here, your four-hour paint has dried, and you can start redoing your closet.

Put out-of-season hats, hair flowers, veils, etc., in boxes at back of highest shelf. Put hat stands for most-used hats in front.

Put evening and out-of-season shoes in boxes and label them. Stuff toes with tissue balls, or use shoe trees. Range in stacks or at back of lower shelves, range current hats on stands in front of them.

Have at least one big, evening-length garment bag—fill with light and perishable dresses as well as evening things. Hang in back of long rod.

Even if you haven't been able to get two hanging rods arranged, you can put two or three of the straight, strong, nickel rods hardware stores have now to replace old-fashioned closet hooks—6 to 7 inches long.

If all else fails, you can put two on your closet door. There are lots of uses for them anyhow—to hang furs that must not be crushed, to keep clothes ready for the cleaners, for belts or umbrellas. Inside your closet they'll hold four to five loaded hangers.

Tackle That Pile

Now let's turn to that pile on the bed. You can't face it? Well, open the window wide . . . No . . . No, don't heave it all out . . . Just take time out and get your 40 deep breaths—pulling your lungs full, puffing out your rib cage, up to the explosion point. Now, ready?

Put "bests" in one pile at head of bed, possible rejects at foot.

Pin tags on savable things, like "let hem down," "sew on button," to expedite a repair job at the end.

Have the courage to disown never-worn clothing. Give a swap party next week and make everybody happier. Lots more of this goes on in Hollywood than you might think.

Separate your clothes—dresses, jackets, skirts. (Betsy Drake finds separating suit jackets and skirts makes her see more possibilities for mixing them.)

To help yourself keep this order, put cardboard dividers along your rod, like the size signs on department store racks. Hang everything in its sector, and see your wardrobe at a glance!

Promise yourself a trip to a store's "Closet Shop" for a few eye-opening looks at what the manufacturers have done about your overcrowded-closet problem. Make a list of possibilities to give yourself, as time goes by.

Now you've taken the biggest step toward breaking the habit of untidiness, of thrown-together dressing. It was a hard day's work—but rewarding; and you will show its benefits every time you get dressed.

If you've kept your good posture steady during this clean-up, had your 40-deep-breaths break, you should be just pleasantly tired.

Put your lubricating cream on after you've cleaned your face, lie on the Hollywood Slant, then (after removing cream) read yourself to sleep.

Glossy Car Takes Lots of Polishing

Unless Job Is Done Right, Automobile May Be Streaked

RACINE, Wis. (INS)—Summertime is the time when motorists want their cars to shine.

A gleaming finish takes work, however, and if the job is done incorrectly, you'll wind up with a streaky-looking car that's better seen in the garage.

Cars that are very dirty should be washed with a shampoo, household detergent or soap to remove all abrasive grit that might otherwise be rubbed into the surface.

Then use a good cleaner, applying it with a soft cloth folded into a pad. The pad should be dampened, wrung out dry and then saturated with the cleaner. This method insures an even application.

Spread the cleaner on the car, rubbing as hard as necessary to loosen all dirt and "dead" paint. You can tell by the feel under your hand whether you have done the job well.

Allow the cleaner to dry thoroughly and then wipe it off with a clean cloth. The dirt and the cleaner will come off together; frequent turning of the cloth will prevent the redeposit of dirt.

The car is then ready to be waxed.

Again fold a soft, clean cloth into a pad, wet thoroughly with the liquid polish and spread it thinly over the entire car surface, redamping the pad as needed. Avoid too heavy a coat or it may streak.

Let the polish dry thoroughly (about 10 minutes, longer in damp weather) and then wipe off the haze that forms with a clean, soft cloth, again turning the cloth frequently. The haze is excess wax not required for shine or protection.

Here are a few extra tips:

Be sure and shake the cans well before using to get an even mixture.

Do not apply liquid wax to a car in the hot sun or with a hot surface. This results in streaking and smearing.

Never dry-dust your car. You may scratch the finish.

Between waxings, wash the car occasionally with plenty of clear, cool water. If this does not suffice, use a car shampoo or a mild household detergent. Harsh detergents of soaps will remove the wax.

How do you know when to do the next wax job? Just spill some water on the hood. If the water beads up, it still doesn't need it. If the water flattens out and spreads over the surface, get busy.

Don't Miss 'Goodbye, My Fancy'

Will-O-Way Show Earns Enthusiastic Applause

By DONNA ANDERSON

Double-barreled praise for the current Will-O-Way production is rightfully deserved.

In other words, you're missing something if you don't take it in sometime before Aug. 15.

There are reasons:

One is that the play is Fay Kanin's "Goodbye, My Fancy," which speaks for itself. Another is the return of Minnie Jo Curtis to the West Long Lake road playhouse.

Reason No. 3 is Michael Keith who has played on Broadway in "Mr. Roberts"—in the original company, no less.

If you like to dig around in the deeper things in life, like ideals and integrity as applied to education and business — and still laugh yourself right off your chair, "Goodbye My Fancy" is really fertile soil.

Adeline Hirschfield, the newspaper woman who ends up in Congress, holds the shovel in this respect. George C. Scott slips right into the role of the "educaterer" who finally winds up reforming himself—if for dubious reasons.

Others helping the congresswoman's poker-faced secretary (that's Minnie Jo resorting to ad libitum on occasion) question the possibility of going crazy in one weekend are Bettie Toti, Robert Bryson, Larry Johnson and Frances Hamburger.

A few more reasons for the play's success are Helen Raytis, Margaret Kausch, Mary Ann Wilson, Kemal Kasem, Kenneth Krezel and Martha Buhs.

Providing some typical college dorm humor are Linda Lewis, Lois Raisin, Mary Schorn, Marilu Crumback, Lois Banta and Bonnie Johnson.

And the story? Simply about a woman who had ideals and a man who had different ones—so she changed men.

"Here Comes Mr. Jordon" with Paul Barry and George Scott is scheduled for Aug. 17 through 29, excluding Mondays, at the Bloomfield Hills straw-hat theater.

'Y'oung Adults Club Schedules Dance

Members of the "Y"oung Adults Club of the YMCA are planning a record dance for Thursday evening.

The Green Room of the YMCA will be air-conditioned upon the arrival of club members who will be entitled to free admission if they bring a fan.

It has been announced by Jean Widdis, program chairman, that anyone interested in spending the Labor Day weekend with the "Y"oung Adults at the YMCA Camp at Torch Lake may make arrangements at the Thursday event.

Use Blanket Skid

When you give the kitchen floor a new linoleum cover, you can move the refrigerator and other heavy objects back into place without scarring the floor if you use an old blanket as a skid.

MR. and MRS. JACK EWER

Gloriadean Bennett and Jack Ewer spoke their marriage vows Saturday in First Church of God. She is the daughter of the Benjamin Bennetts of North East boulevard, and he is the son of the Fred Ewers of South Marshall street.

Gloriadean Bennett Wed in the First Church of God

A chapel-length gown of lace and tulle over satin was worn by Gloriadean Bennett when she spoke her marriage vows with Jack Ewer Saturday evening in First Church of God.

Her parents are the Benjamin Bennetts of North East boulevard and he is the son of the Fred Ewers of South Marshall street.

Geraldine Bennett attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a gown of white net and lace and carried a bouquet of lavender glamellias. The bride carried an orchid and rosebud bouquet.

Mrs. Robert Ewer and Carol Elliott, the other attendants, wore lavender dresses identical to the honor maid's. They carried bouquets of lavender and white glamellias.

Sharon and Bobby Ewer, niece and nephew of the bridegroom, were flower girl and ringbearer, respectively.

The bridegroom's attendants were Robert Ewer, his brother, as best man, and Howard Lenigan and Richard Green.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bennett wore a dress of cobalt blue trimmed in lace of the same color and a corsage of pink and white roses.

Mrs. Ewer wore a dress of dusty rose with navy accessories and a corsage of yellow and white roses.

A reception was held in the church parlors after which the bride changed into a gray dress with white accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet for the honeymoon trip.

Hospital Group Is Entertained at Lankey Home

Mrs. H. V. Lankey and Mrs. William H. Bedard were cohostesses at a luncheon and social afternoon in the former's home on West Huron street Tuesday.

The luncheon served in the garden honored the visiting women of Pontiac General Hospital Auxiliary, of which Mrs. Bedard is chairman.

The hostesses and Mrs. Ralph Babbington presented Mrs. Roberta Tripp and Mrs. William McClure with a check to be used for the "Follies," which the hospital auxiliary is planning to present this fall.

Lauretta Paul, hospital director, spoke on the activities of the hospital.

Old Leather Couch Was Really Bathtub

Just about 70 years ago, our grandparents might have been holding hands on a black leather couch that was really a bathtub. When not in formal use, it opened to reveal a camouflaged bathtub with faucets attached.

This sofatub combination had a drain, too, but the bather had to spread a rubber apron around it to protect the carpet from soapsuds and splashes.

Don't Count on Job Overseas

Do You Long for Faraway Places?

Hong Kong in summer is incredibly beautiful. Outside Lima, ancient Inca ruins lie in a land of eternal spring. Paris is everything gay and lovely anyone has ever claimed. You have wanderlust, but your present income won't let you indulge it.

If you're in a rush to start today, you're in for a difficult time. Job opportunities abroad have declined steadily since the war, while competition for them has increased.

The woman with a real skill will find the best opportunities. Although nurses, teachers and social workers are all high on the list, even here the chances of being sent overseas immediately are slim indeed.

If you are a teacher you can apply for a foreign position with the U. S. State Department, business firms and church organizations having an international service program. Chances improve in direct relation to advanced degrees, additional experience and specific language ability, but the minimum is usually three years — and allow a year for clearing red tape.

The picture for social workers is similar. In Red Cross you must agree to serve wherever needed for at least a year; through the Methodist and Friends Service Committees a limited number of jobs are available. The U. S. Foreign Service is open to almost no new recruitment, although this is a situation which could change at any time.

If you're thinking that you'll just leave and find a job overseas, don't do it — unless you've got much more than passage tucked away. To work in any foreign country you'll need a permanent residence or permit (some, already over-populated, are not quick to grant them).

Many countries won't let you pass their borders without several hundred dollars lest you become a public liability.

Today's Young Successes Seldom Brag About Their Early Struggles

Send Clergyman Tickets to Ease Travel Expense

By EMILY POST

A bride writes: "We have asked a clergyman friend of ours to officiate at our forthcoming wedding and he has accepted. He is not from this city and will have to travel a distance of 200 miles for the wedding. I would like to know if it would be proper to send him a check to cover the cost of his train fare?"

Answer: It would be much nicer to buy the tickets (which you can do through a travel agency). It might embarrass him to send the money, but sending the tickets would be a great convenience as well as a saving of money.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been invited to a friend's wedding which is taking place at an evening hour. However, it will be a simple wedding and none of the guests is wearing evening clothes.

I am going to wear an afternoon dress and with it I had planned to wear a very pretty picture hat. I have been told, however, that a large hat is not correctly worn in the evening, and that I should wear a small hat instead. Will you please tell me if this is true?

Answer: Ordinarily a big hat is not worn in the evening, but I see no objection to your wearing the hat that looks especially well with your dress.

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you kindly tell me what is correct in regard to marking silver for a wedding present? As a young woman (many years ago) whenever I sent a wedding present of silver to a bride-to-be, I was told that the correct marking was with the bride's maiden initials.

I have heard that this is no longer correct and that silver should be marked with her future initials. I would appreciate hearing from you on this matter.

Answer: It is much more practical to mark it with the initials which will be hers when she is using the silver. In other words, her married ones. The old rule has proved very inconvenient and is seldom observed today.

Soak, Pamper Feet On Summer Days

Feet can be a double problem in summer. Revealing new shoe styles mean that your tootsies have to look pretty. And they must feel comfortable, even though soaring temperatures and hot pavements make them ache and burn. There's one simple solution to both problems—a sudsy foot bath.

Soak your feet in warm soapsuds for a few minutes, then go over any callused spots with a soapy pumice stone. Rinse, dry well, then sit or lie down with your feet placed higher than your head. After this, both you and your feet will feel fine and look lovelier.

Mother Exaggerates Camping Perils

She Wants to Be Son's Only Protector

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Bill's Boy Scout troop is planning a week's camping. His father wants him to have the adventure; his mother doesn't.

If Bill is to do any camping, she wants it done in a cottage, not a tent; she wants trained nurses and dieticians about to look after his scratches and vitamins.

"My wife has so exaggerated the dangers of this experience that the boy himself is losing all his own enthusiasm," writes Bill's father. "As another woman, perhaps you can make some sense to her through your column . . ."

I don't think I can. When we exaggerate dangers to control children's actions, we are apt to have a purpose we would just as soon not know about. But I'll do what I can.

We enlarge on the perils that await children on a good adventure —infected bites, subversive germs, deaths by drownings in woodland lakes, broken legs — to convince him that we are his Only Protector.

Once we've convinced him, we have him exactly where we probably want him—immobilized.

Without any experience of adventures himself, he has to accept our experience. He is not old enough to say, "Now why does this woman see only death in a woodland lake? Why does she she see me helpless instead of strong? This is a woman who does not see things whole." And refuse to trust the judgment of such a woman.

What hurts has Bill's mother suffered as results from her own independent adventures?

Did her judgment or childhood friends turn out to be good? Or was she so hurt by one that her mother could say, "I warned you that Mary didn't like you enough to ask you to her party?"

Was she right about the first boy she really liked — or did her hopes about him end in humiliation?

Choices like these were adventures into independent judgment, and if they resulted in hurt—if the hurt was hidden and never healed by loving awareness and encouragement — it was easy to decide to play life safe by avoiding it.

And just as a small child will justify his feelings of helplessness by imagining a tiger under his crib, so Bill's mother may be trying to justify hers by imagining infection into mosquito bites and death into a woodland lake.

Could she consider the idea that the evil image of the world she's giving Bill projects like a movie screen the anger she still feels at her own defeats—and that for her own peace, she needs release from that anger?

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Older Stars Love to Tell of Lean Days

It must be that money is easier to make or young people today are more reserved. At any rate, you don't hear youthful successes bragging so much anymore about their lean days.

Any self-respecting star on Broadway or overnight best-seller novelist used to have a fine poignant tale to tell of past hunger, and though I've sometimes suspected that the stories had been strengthened by the passage of time, I know there was often real suffering in the name of art and ambition.

While I can't remember any time when I was actually in need of a handout, there certainly were periods when the cash was so low that I had to figure frantically to get through to the next paycheck.

Once in my cub reporter days I lived for a week on baked macaroni and store cheese at 20 cents a meal. And I'm sure I'd never have gotten through college if it had not been for hospitable handouts from friendly townsfolk in Columbia, Mo.

John Golden, colorful, amusing dean of New York theatrical producers whose 80th birthday was recently observed with a county-wide celebration in his section of New York, enjoys telling of the days when, an ambitious young playwright, he kept himself fed writing poems which a local newspaper bought for $2 each—and of his joy when a friend tipped him off that, if he could get someone to write music to go with the words, he could up the price to $10.

Actor Guy Kibbee once confided to me that during a long penniless period when he was waiting for hs break in the theater he stayed alive mainly because he found a free source of slightly damaged turnips and potatoes.

"Of course," he admitted, "I could have gone to work in a legitimate business, but I didn't want to."

Henry Fonda, when he was getting his start, went through a two-week nightmare when he subsisted on nothing but boiled rice. I suspect he hasn't eaten much rice since.

David Niven found the most ingenious solution of all to the no-money problem. He was young, flat-broke and determined to be an actor, but nobody encouraged him. He was pretty hungry one day when he heard that a man might pick up a few bob by advance sale of one's body to a hospital for post-mortem dissection.

David, confident that the delivery date was far, far away, visited three London hospitals and sold himself to each. What's more, he picked up an extra 30 shillings because he didn't smoke.

"I quited my qualms about the wholesale transaction," he told me, "by arguing that they could share me."

The problem of sharing never will have to be faced, however, for a solvent brother got wind of David's activities, went to each of the hospitals and bought back the corpse.

"Then he gave me to myself for Christmas," said the actor.

To Produce Carved Pattern

Cotton Carpeting Tufted

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

Cotton rugs and carpet zoomed to great heights of fashion and quality in such a short time, and they're due for even greater success.

Color has had a lot to do with it. Cotton began its rise as color scheme trends began to swerve away from drab to clear, fresh colors. Cotton could be dyed colors that no other material then could, and immediate demand started cotton on its way.

Since then, quality, quantity and variety have stepped up until almost every big carpet mill has tufting machines today beside its time-honored Axminster and Wilton looms.

And those tufting machines do new tricks. Here for example, is a new cotton broadloom called "Dramatic," which will make a dramatic bow this fall.

A new method of tufting makes possible its carved, deeply textured pattern, the first of its kind for cotton.

Two Ways to Prepare Vegetable

Mrs. Thompson's Recipes for Squash Are Delicious

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

This is the season for summer squash. It is at its best when it is picked fresh from the garden and cooked in a way that will bring out all its tender goodness.

Mrs. Rick Thompson gave us two recipes for preparing this delicious summer vegetable. We think you'll like them.

Mrs. Thompson is active in PTA, as she has two school-age children. She is a member of the Berean Class of her church. Her hobby is cake baking, and she contributes many a fancy cake to church affairs.

SUMMER SQUASH
By Mrs. Rick Thompson

Slice two zucchini squash and one green pepper. Saute in butter until tender. Add one can Mexican-style corn and let simmer about 40 minutes. Makes four servings.

To cook yellow crookneck squash: Slice in thin slices. Saute in butter or steam until tender. Add one-half cup cream, salt and pepper to taste. Heat thoroughly. Serve at once.

Floor Wax Shouldn't Be Gummy

By HUBBARD COBB

When a floor is waxed, the wax is supposed to produce a hard non-absorbing protective film.

If the wax on your floors is gummy and walking over the floor feels as if you were a fly on flypaper, something is amiss.

Before wax is applied to a floor, the surface must be clean and free of all the old wax. Removing the old wax can be done easily with a commercial wax solvent. As far as the dirt goes, this will respond to warm soapy water.

The great trick to keep in mind when applying wax is to make the coats just as thin as possible, give them time to dry and then give them a thorough polishing. If any of these steps are omitted, you'll get a slippery or gummy job for your troubles.

If you are using paste wax, apply about three coats for best results. Apply the wax in just as thin a coat as you possibly can and then let it sit for about 30 minutes.

At the end of this time, take an electric polisher and give it a good polishing. Do the same with the second and the third coats.

Now once you have the wax on, you shouldn't have to bother with it for quite a spell.

Clean by dusting with a dry soft mop and if the floor is stained, wipe off the stains at once with a damp cloth.

If all goes well, the wax job should last for a good many months. When it finally shows signs of wear and imbedded dirt, remove the old coating and apply a fresh one.

BISHOP-BRACKEN

Wife Serves as Partner, Speeds Mate's Promotion

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Betty was a really serious career girl with a wonderful secretarial job that she loved, in a city that she adored.

Then Betty fell in love with a young trainee in the sales department of a big firm, and no sooner were they married than the company assigned Bill to a rural territory, miles from anywhere.

"I was sick at first," Betty admitted, "and so was Bill. It really seemed like being sent to Siberia, and the chances were we'd be there at least five years—unless Bill really set the world on fire and got an early transfer.

"Well, the company put us up in a hotel in the middle of nowhere while we looked for a house. We had to live in that particular town, because then Bill could cover his whole territory most conveniently.

"It meant he'd be away weeks on end, and I'd be stuck in a tiny town where you couldn't dig up any kind of job. And the houses were so big and so expensive.

"Finally," Betty continued, "Bill and I made a decision.

"We got a very cheap furnished room for headquarters, and decided that I would accompany him on his travels. It wouldn't cost much more, we'd be together, and I could help him.

"You see, Bill had to make his sales calls all day, then write his reports at the hotel the same night and route his calls for the next day.

"With me along, it was much easier. At night, in the hotel, he would dictate his reports to me, and while I was typing them on my portable, he would route his calls.

"We finished in half the time it would otherwise have taken, and his reports were really quite professional. Also, we could cover more calls per day because we didn't have so much night work.

"It was really fun," Betty concluded, "and we had so much time together and saw so much of the country. And besides, the head office was so impressed with Bill's output, which was much higher than most of the salesmen, that in exactly a year and a half he got assigned to the main office.

"We're back in the city now, and I have a wonderful obj.adn and I have a wonderful job, and Bill is doing beautifully. And just think, we might have been stuck in Siberia for years and years!"

If you really know what you want, you can find a way to do it even though circumstances may appear to be against you.

Very Poor Girl Likes Very Rich Boy

Financial Differences Shadow Love

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'm 16, my family is very poor, and I'm in love with a boy whose family is very rich.

"I don't know what I'd do if he ever wanted to come over to my house, or if I were ever invited to his house to meet his parents. I would be embarrassed to death.

"He calls me a lot but doesn't know about my family's financial condition, nor does he think I know about his.

"I'm not so much afraid of what he would think, but of what his parents would think and say. I need your advice badly."

Your friendship with this boy seems to have proceeded and progressed entirely outside of your homes. If he likes you as much as you like him, it's because of your personality, your appearance, your disposition, your attitude toward things. It's not because of the worldly goods your family may or may not possess.

But you — the girl he likes — are the direct result of your family's love, care and upbringing.

The sunniness of your disposition may be your mother's example. Your generosity and bigheartedness are the result of your having to share. Your ingenuity and resourcefulness are the result of having to make do with what there is.

If he likes you just as you are, he will like your parents who helped to make you that way. He will appreciate the happiness and helpfulness that can be found in your home. He will recognize real riches when he sees them.

There's pride to be taken in the most modest home that is clean, tidy and happy. There is no pride to be taken in an elaborate mansion if it is not a happy home.

Why should you be embarrassed? Your home is where you live with the family you love. You certainly are not ashamed of them. His home is where he lives. Should you be invited there, behave in your normally quiet, simple, well-mannered way.

The occasion may never arise for you to meet each other's parents. Many teenage romances bloom and wither before they reach that stage. So why churn now over something that may never happen? And why worry about the possibility that it should?

If the sight of your home blinds him to your attractiveness and desirability, he just doesn't like you enough. That, and that alone, should persuade you to forget him.

Easily Washed Leather Is Tops

Say it with leather. That's one of the latest theme songs among fashion designers. And it's no wonder for new processes have made leather an entirely practical proposition for sports, leisure, and even dressy clothes.

Not the least of their charms, of course, is the fact that leather fashions can be kept clean by simply wiping them off with a soapy cloth—you can even "wash" your leather outfits after you put them on, if need be!

It's significant in this soap-and-water age that designers didn't promote leather fashions on a wide scale until they became easily washable. If we can't wash it, we don't want to wear it!

It isn't the minutes you put in at the table that make you fat—it's the seconds.

Lightening the Hair

Do you want to be a blond? Perhaps you can remember when your hair was that gleaming shade you so admire. Has it darkened with the years:

Lightening or bleaching the hair has long been frowned upon by many because of a light, brassy shade which is so common. This particular kind of lightening is very artificial and also damaging to the hair.

This does not have to be. Hair can be lightened to a soft blond shade that no one would guess was artificial. This process will not only brighten and add highlights to the hair but will give soft, fine hair more body. Hair properly bleached may be successfully permanent waved. We will be glad to advise you about lightening yours.

Designer Shuns 'Trimmed Look' for Fall

2 Silhouettes, Narrow and Ample, Dominate Derby Collection

Two silhouettes dominate the fall collection of Jane Derby. One meager and narrow, with slim natural shoulders and close sleeves . . . the other, ample but soft and controlled to show the figure.

Even pale satins, imported wool-and-satin mixtures, Italian satin worsteds, and lace over organza follow the wide-belted, ultra-easy full silhouette, and are further "casualized" by absence of trimming or buttons . . . There are narrow shirtwaist sheaths under dramatically sweeping coats . . . The covered-up look is notable in cocktail and informal evening clothes.

The collection reflects a constant search for special treasures in fabric of luxury and color: Magnificent tweeds especially selected in weight for daytime, cocktail and evening; crocheted wool and jersey set over thin China silk.

There is lavish use of beautiful materials to achieve unique double textures—chiffon over taffeta, crocheted wool over silk, organza over jersey.

Throughout the collection there is the theme of "hidden riches." The undersides of sleeves and cuffs are lavishly embroidered with brilliant stones and jewels which, as the cuff is turned back, combine with Jane Derby's specially done bracelets to produce glitter.

This theme follows through in suits, wool dresses and cocktail clothes. The "trimmed look," however, is steadfastly avoided and the majority of clothes appear to be completely untrimmed, depending on the luster or color of the fabric and the importance of cut and shape for their effect.

Colors feature bronze green combined with black, "Spun Candy Pink," shades of blue from palest aquamarine to navy, a modicum of black, browns ranging from potter's beige to deep rust; tweeds flecked with brilliant flashes of color, oranges, sapphire, gold, off-white, jade and scarlet.

Suits cover a variety of shapes from the dressmaker look to the famous Derby little suit," always depending on exceptional fabric, interest of color, cut and shape, with a minimum of detail.

The black silk dress that Jane Derby is so well known for is again present for wear from day to evening.

A country coat of brilliant flecks of orange, black, yellow and tones of brown has military revers of orange velveteen and is worn over a narrow shirtwaist sheath of black crocheted wool on black China silk.

Cocktail and dinner dresses are done in satin, laces, soft fine wools, silk failles, chiffon over taffeta, thin tweeds and jersey. Faille and velvet ribbons are set in at the necklines and at the waist and tied in softly tailored bows.

A white imported silk faille theater dress is stark and dramatic in its covered-up simplicity, relying on its sculptured shape—the skirt cut to resemble an inverted bluebell. This is worn under a black velveteen coat cut in the same manner and lined in white faille.

For full evening, gowns are long and sculptured with a giant sweep to the back. Black silk satin is combined with black wool broadcloth.

Another is in bronze green faille with a border of black faille appliqued in an irregular geometric pattern at the hemline. A bouffant embroidered net has the skirt fullness controlled to mid-thigh and bursting in a flare of fullness to the floor.

Dixie Jean Klinert wore a light blue dress with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of pink carnations as maid of honor.

Theron Brooks of Ferndale was best man and Jerry Suddeth and Jack Hedrick of Drayton Plains were ushers.

Follow These Rules for Washing Dishes

These simple rules make dishwashing quicker and easier:

1. Wash dishes as soon as possible after use.
2. Scrape and stack at your right; work from right to left to save waste motions.
3. Wash in soapsuds as hot as the hands can stand, preferably using a dish-mop.
4. Change to clean, lively suds as soon as soiled suds die down.
5. Drain dishes and rinse with hot, hot water; then only glasses and silverware will need to be wiped dry.

Help Shape Face With Pearl Strands

Ex-Premier of Thailand Seems to Be With Reds

By CHARLES M. McCANN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

The Chinese Communists appear to have picked Thailand as the next target in their attempt to stir up revolt in Southeast Asia.

United Nations headquarters in New York received a report in mid-June that the Chinese Reds had set up a puppet "Free Thailand" regime in Yunnan Province in southernmost China.

The report was not taken too seriously at the time in Bangkok, accoding to dispatches. It happened, however, that the Thailand government started a round-up of known Communists at the same time.

Now onetime Thailand Premier been accused of leftist tendencies, has turned up in Peiping.

In a broadcast by the Peiping radio, Pridi called on Thailanders to "wage a struggle against their rulers—American imperialism and its puppets, the government of Thailand."

Officials in Bangkok are quoted as believing that the publication of Pridi's article was the first move in a new campaign against Thailand.

Pridi was ousted as the result of a coup in Bangkok in 1947. He disappeared after fleeing to Singapore. He was reported to have lived in various Asian and European capitals.

It is now suggested that he has been in Red China for some time, and that he may have been in Yunnan Province organizing the "Free Thailand" movement.

Radio Peiping broadcast Monday a charge that Gen. William J. (Wild Bill) Donovan, United States ambassador to Thailand, was plotting with nationalist China Generalissimo Chaing Kai-shek to form an anti-Communist army of 60,000 men from the Chinese who live in southeast Asian countries.

There are about 525,000 Chinese and about 2,500,000 persons of mixed Chinese blood out of Thailand's population of 17,400,000.

According to Peiping, Donovan and Chaing discussed such an army during Donovan's recent visit to Formosa.

By coincidence, a dispatch from Formosa said Monday that possibility of calling a conference of anti-Red Chinese leaders living in foreign countries is being considered at a current meeting of Chiang's Kuomintang political party.

The "anti-Communist army" charge by Peiping seems linked with the sudden emergence of Pridi Phanomyong.

Bangkok dispatches talk of the possibility of a Red Chinese "attack" on Thailand. Any such attack would have to be made through Indochina or Burma. Further, the United States is committed to defend Thailand against Communist aggression.

But Pridi, conspiring with the Red Chinese in Peiping, could cause plenty of trouble for the Thailand government. Despite his seven-year absence, he is reported to have considerable support there, especially among intellectuals.

ROBERT O'CONNELL

FREDERICK C. ZIEM

O'Connell, Ziem in Race for County Prosecutor Post

Robert L. O'Connell, 27, of Birmingham eked out a narrow victory over his Democratic opponent for nomination in the prosecutor's race Tuesday to earn a chance to face Republican incumbent Frederick C. Ziem in the November election.

O'Connell, of 1587 Henrietta St., tallied 8,946 votes in unofficial returns to his foe's, Maurice E. Tripp, 7,591.

A University of Detroit graduate, O'Connell has a private law practice and is a World War II veteran.

Ziem, unopposed in the primary, is seeking his second term as prosecutor. Living at 2127 Garland, Sylvan Lake, he served as assistant prosecutor in 1947 and chief assistant in 1950.

Uncontested primary candidates for other county offices who will appear on the November ballot include:

Clerk: incumbent Lynn D. Allen, Republican; and Neil R. Crowe, Democrat; treasurer: Donald E. Barrett, Democrat; and incumbent Charles A. Sparks, Republican; register of deeds: Hazel A. Kuschinsky, Democrat, and incumbent Orion McQuaid, Republican; drain commissioner: Glenn D. Harper, Democrat and incumbent Ralph A. Main, Republican; and surveyor: incumbent Omar E. MacNutt, Republican.

In Race for Representative

8 Communities OK Street Use for Public Works

Voters in eight southeastern Oakland County communities yesterday gave their governing bodies "irrevocable permission" to use public streetts for sewers, drains and water mains.

The measure was passed by large majorities in Birmingham, Royal Oak, Ferndale, Huntington Woods, Pleasant Ridge, Berkley, Clawson and Royal Oak Township.

Passage of the authorization was necessitated in order to finance and construct needed additional water facilities in the eight communities. The eight are all joined in the Southeastern Oakland County Water Authority.

Crash Kills Boy, 4; Four Others Hurt

MOUNT CLEMENS (INS) — A four-year-old boy was killed and his parents, brother and another woman injured in a two-car collision early today at Hall Rd. and M29, two miles north of Mount Clemens.

William Taylor of Port Huron was killed instantly.

His father, Harrison, 31, a Port Huron theater manager; his mother, Rolla, 24, and brother, Richard, 2, were taken to St. Joseph Hospital in Mount Clemens with serious injuries.

Mrs. Dorothy M. Bush of Oak Park, who was alone in the other car, is in tempararily serious condition.

Crew Lauded for Safe Crash

All 37 Aboard Unhurt as Airliner Plunges Into Potato Field

NOWRICH, Conn. (AP) — A Civil Aeronautics Board official has recorded "an excellent job" for the Air France crew who brought an airliner to a fiery crash landing in a potato field without death to any of the 37 persons aboard.

Joseph O. Fluet, chief regional safety investigator for the CAB, talked with members of the crew last night.

He declined to say what might have caused the crash of the transatlantic Constellation, but told newsmen:

"Under the circumstances, the crew did an excellent job in getting the plane down without fatalities."

Two other CAB investigators accompanied Fluet. State officials also were on hand.

Six passengers and two crewmen were hospitalized after the plane, bucking rain and a low ceiling, plowed into the field and burst into flames yesterday at nearby Preston, Conn. One of the passengers was in critical condition today.

Co-pilot Jean Rousseau said last night that gasoline was running low, "and the forced landing was the only thing to do to avoid a major catastrophe."

"We just didn't realize the terrain below was as rough as it turned out to be," he added.

An Air France representative, Frank J. Foley, said here last night that the airline would issue a statement in New York today concerning the crash.

The four-engine airliner, en route from Paris to Mexico City, had a scheduled stop at Idlewild airport in New York City. The pilot, Capt. Jean Caboche, 43, missed an approach at Idlewild in bad weather and decided on an emergency landing at Preston, 130 miles away.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration's regional office in New York said the plane could have landed at Idlewild. The CAA said it was raining hard there, but conditions were far above minimums for safety. Records showed planes landed at Idlewild before and after Caboche missed his approach.

Twelve among the 29 passengers and 8 crew members were listed as injured, some only superficially. Three children on the plane—aged 2 years and 9 years—escaped injury.

The plane came to a halt with flames shooting from a wing.

The passengers scrambled out to the field before the flames reached them. The plane burned two hours and was destroyed.

Millard Rules on Checking Petition Names

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Frank G. Millard held today that the state can investigate the validity of signatures on partisan nominating petitions filed with the secretary of state—but not any filed with the county clerks.

Millard said the county clerks do not have statutory or constitutional authority to go behind the face of petitions and that therefore such power cannot be given it by the state board of canvassers or the secretary of state.

County clerks are limited, he said, to determining whether petition signers are registered voters.

No agency, Millard said, has authority to check the signatures on non-partisan judicial nominating petitions.

In another opinion, Millard held that neither the state nor justices of peace should return suspended driver licenses to a person who has been convicted of drunk driving and appealed.

Giant Birthday Fete Aug. 10 Marks Hoover's 80th Year

WEST BRANCH, Iowa (AP) — A birthday celebration, the like of which Iowa has never before seen and probably can never duplicate, will be his native state's newest tribute to Herbert Hoover.

Thousands will gather Tuesday, August 10, in this community of 750 population, where the former President of the United States was born to a village blacksmith and his Quaker schoolteacher wife, 80 years ago.

Iowa is going all out to honor Hoover that day.

He comes to West Branch by special invitation, extended in formal resolution last year, by the Iowa legislature. Gov. William S. Beardsley has proclaimed Aug. 10 "Herbert Hoover" day; and urged attention to the "industry, integrity and sense of public obligation which made this native Iowan one of the world's great men."

So, Tuesday will be West Branch's biggest day in years.

There will be many reminders of those great times when Hoover held the highest office in the land. Associates of Hoover administration days and a number of other specially invited guests will reflect the eminence of the guest of honor.

President Eisenhower will be represented by Vice President Nixon. Among those who have made hotel reservations in nearby Iowa City and Cedar Rapids are governors, former governors, generals, college heads, close friends and relatives.

The latter will include both sons, Herbert Hoover Jr., and Allan Hoover, and their families.

Already Congress has extended its felications to Hoover on his 80th birthday's imminence. That was by concurrent resolution last month.

Members of the second Hoover Commission, now working on recommendations for reorganizing the executive branch of the federal government, are offering him a honorific scroll which notes:

"The new Hoover Commission and the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report present this distinguished service citation to the Honorable Herbert Hoover on the occasion of his 80th birthday, with warmest congratulations and in recognition of his unflagging devotion and out-standing contributions in behalf of federal reorganization to eradicate waste and insure better government for all Americans."

The scroll, bearing the names of 125 commission members, will be presented by John Stuart, Chicago, board chairman of Quaker Oats Co.

The State University of Iowa throws aside tradition Tuesday to join those honoring Hoover. Ordinarily it confers honorary degrees only at the inauguration of a new SUI president and then on the campus.

But the university president, Virgil M. Hancher, will give Hoover an honorary doctor of laws degree, and here at the birthday program.

Hoover will dedicate a new elementary school named in his honor. He will visit his birthplace cottage, now preserved as a historic shrine; attend a picnic with friends in the community park, and receive the Hoover Commission scroll.

The afternoon's formal program will include tributes in addresses. Hoover's own speech will be televised by CBS, NBC and independent Iowa TV stations and carried by the four major radio networks.

Hoover then goes on to Iowa City for dedication of another Hoover school and to Cedar Rapids and Mason City for the dedication of two more.

Defeated Leaders Pledge Support of the Winners

DETROIT (UP) — Comments of Michigan political leaders on Tuesday's primary election:

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who was renominated for governor on the Democratic ticket: "Phil Hart's decisive victory (the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor) proves he is an excellent vote getter and strong campaigner. . . . I am happy that the Democratic voters of Michigan have chosen him as my running mate."

D. Hale Brake, state treasurer who failed to win the GOP nomination for Governor: "I concede the election to Mr. Leonard and cogratulate the victory. I will carry out my pledge of support in the coming campaign."

Donald Leonard, successful GOP nominee for Governor: "I am very happy at the results and humbly grateful to the people of Michigan . . . I wish . . . to express my admiration and respect for my opponents who have contributed . . . to unity by conducting a clean campaig . . . I feel, after talking with citizens all over Michigan, that they are opposed to an unprecedented fourth term. . . ."

Neil Staebler, Democratic state chairman: "The vote . . . clearly shows that this can be a Democratic year. The voters want Democratic government restored to Washington, retained and increased in Lansing, and extended in county offices throughout the state. The election of McNamara, Hart, and a Democratic state ticket, the removal of incumbent Republican congressmen and the election of more Democratic state legislators . . . are the goals of the Democratic party."

George Feikens, GOP state chairman: "We are going to unite solidly behind Donald S. Leonard . . . I want to congratulate the primary candidates for their fine campaign and for their sportsmanship in this election which all knew that only one could win. Unlike the opposition, the Republican party has come through this campaign unscarred and is united to make its nominee . . . the next governor of Michigan."

Secretary of State Owen Cleary: "I extend my heartiest congratulations to Don Leonard . . . and wish him all success in the campaign ahead. I was a Republican yesterday and I am a Republican today. I shall bend every effort for complete victory for our party in November."

National Guard to Get Extra Grub 1st Week

LANSING (AP) — The National Guard plans to issue extra rations during the first week of the field training starting Aug. 7 for Michigan Guardsmen, Brig. Gen. George C. Morn reported today.

More than 8,700 Guardsmen will start training at Camp Grayling Saturday.

Gen. Moran said that previous experience has shown that appetites are heightened during the first week by the vigorous northern atmosphere and the activities of field training.

Twenty per cent more bread, 10 per cent more meat and potatoes and five per cent more eggs and flour than usual will be drawn during the first week of training to meet the demand for extra calories, Moran said.

Capehart Heads Probe Group

FHA Suspends Chief Los Angeles Appraiser for Clamming Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) said today the "deep underworld" is "up to its neck" in an organized swindle of thousands of home owners talked into shoddy home repairs financed with government-insured loans.

Capehart heads the Senate Banking Committee, currently looking into reports of irregularities in government housing progams.

It called today for testimony from New York builder Ian Woodner, described as sponsor of 2 government-backed apartment projects, and Edward Carmack, of Murfreesboro, Tenn.

The Federal Housing Administration announced suspension of its chief Los Angeles appraser, John W. Salmon, for "refusal to answer questions regarding certain financial transactions involving builders operating in the Los Angeles area."

A brief FHA announcement last night said that "preliminary investigations" by the government's chief housing cleanup official, William F. McKenna, indicate "payments of large sums of money by builders doing business with the FHA for the use or benefit of Mr. Salmon or members of his immediate family."

Capehart was careful to make clear in an interview that he was not alleging any connection between Salmon's dismissal and his accusation that big-time racketeers are abusing the home-repair program. On the latter point, he said:

* * *

"There is no question now but that the deep underworld has had its paws in this till, up to the elbow. The boys have really gone to town on this government-insured repair program."

Capehart's comment followed a refusal by a Chicago man to answer questions at a committee hearing yesterday.

The witness, Richard Vidaver, pleaded the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer all questions except those asking his name and address. Among other things, he refused to say whether he had ever worked with a man named Harry Cane.

Harry Cane, committee investigators said, is the brother-in-law of rackets figure Mickey Cohen, now serving a five-year sentence for income tax evasion.

Committee subpoenas have been ordered served on Cane three times within the last few weeks, staff members said, but he cannot be located.

Capehart declined to say whether his committee plans to seek testimony from Cohen. But other committee sources said such an effort would be made.

Aluminum Co. Walkout Ends

Reynolds Workers Get Contract With 5-Cent Wage Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—A strike by CIO steelworkers at two aluminum plants of the Reynolds Metals Co. was ended early today after negotiators drafted a new contract granting workers a 5-cent hourly wage increase.

J. Lewis Reynolds, a vice president of the company, said improvements in fringe benefits (pensions, insurance, etc.) also were agreed to under a new two-year contract retroactive to Aug. 1.

The settlement, negotiated with the help of federal mediators, ended a threat that the strike would extend to six other company plants.

Some 2,500 union workers struck Sunday and Monday at Reynolds plants at Phoenix, Ariz., and Troutdale, Ore. another 7,500 workers at the six other plants had been expected to walk out if an early agreement had not been reached.

The new contract follows the pattern of a recent contract settlement at Aluminum Co. of America plants, which also provided for a 5-cent-an-hour wage boost.

Contract talks had collapsed over union demands that clauses covering vacations and weekend premium pay be made uniform in the eight plants. Reynolds said the new contract "is in the direction of uniformity."

Union officials could not be reached immediatly for comment.

Plants where walkouts had been threatened are at Arkadelphia, Jones Mill, Hurricane Creek and Little Rock, all in Arkansas, and at McCook and La Grande, Ill.

UM Botany Classes Attract 75 Students

ANN ARBOR—Open air classes in botany and zoology have attracted 75 students to the University of Michigan's biological station near Cheboygan.

Established 46 years ago, it is the largest such station in the world. Covering 9,000 acres, the camp has many types of soil, tree and water conditions, thereby supporting a wealth of plant and animal life for the student-researchers.

The field station consists of some 150 buildings, including libraries, photographic rooms, aquarium and 16 laboratories. The rows of cabins housing the students and faculty border the beach overlooking Lake Douglas. Swimming, boating and picnics are planned for the students' off-hours.

The summer courses will be completed August 14, while independent investigators and advanced students may continue to stay at the camp.

Sightseeing Bus Skids; Holland Woman Injured

SUDBURY, Mass. (AP) — A sightseeing bus carrying 18 members of the International Society of Christian Endeavor — including a woman from Holland, Mich. — skidded out of control and overturned on rain-soaked route 20 yesterday, injuring all occupants.

Miss Joyce Van Liere, 20, of Holland, suffered deep head cuts.

Explosion Kills Worker

DETROIT (UP) — A 58-year-old worker was injured fatally Tuesday when a refrigeration unit exploded at ABCO Iron and Metal Co. here. The victim was Abraham Glass, Detroit.

UM Slates Meet on Improving Judge Selection

ANN ARBOR—Should Michigan judges be elected or appointed? When their terms end, should they seek to win a competitive re-election or should they be voted on only according to their records?

These are among a number of vital questions to be discussed by lawyers and laymen alike at the University of Michigan Aug. 20 when the law school holds an institute on improving the method of judicial selection in Michigan.

Topic of considerable talk will be the Michigan plan of selecting judges which, according to the State Bar of Michigan (SBM), combines the best of the elective system and the best of the appointive system.

Under the plan, a judicial vacancy would be filled by one of three persons whose names had been submitted to the governor by a judicial commission of seven persons.

At the end of about two years, the person appointed would come up for election by the persons in his district who would vote only on the man's record as to whether or not he was to continue in office.

He would not have to compete with others seeking that post. If he was not elected, the commission would again select names for submission to the governor.

The institute will be held in the University's Rackham Building and will get under way at 9:30 a.m. with a talk on "The Methods of Selecting Judges," by Prof. Charles W. Joiner of the U-M Law School.

Haggerty Elected Again

DETROIT (UP)—James E. Haggerty, incumbent, and William J. McBrearty were elected Wayne County district commissioners for the State Bar of Michigan, it was announced today.

Pontiac Major Warns of Korean Danger

By JOSEPH K. SFAIR

A crucial tenseness now gripping divided Korea may explode into another shooting war, a recently discharged Pontiac major told the Pontiac Press today.

Maj. John McCormick, 34, of 24 Euclid St., after spending 3½ years with 8th Army Headquarters in Seoul, said the tension "could only lead" to an end of the year - old armistice between the Reds and the United Nations troops.

Active hostility draws closer, McCormick said, as Communist and U. N. forces are still face-to-face on firing lines, only separated by a mile of no-man's land.

"Our soldiers are still in their bunkers. Our guns are pointed toward the Commies in the hills, said McCormick who was separated from the Army last week.

"We are maintaining a strong force at the front, even though our main lines of resistance are pulled back slightly."

The heavily guarded South Korea front, explains McCormick, is prompted by increasing rearmament, building up of supply lines and man-power reinforcements by the Reds north of the 38th Parallel.

JOHN McCORMICK

Infiltration by harassing Red spies into the Republic of Korea has added to the tense situation, he said.

An "extensive program" not generally known in recent months, McCormick disclosed, is being carried out by U. N. commands to halt the Reds if the new build-up in power means attack.

"Although soldiers are being sent home on rotation plans, new men are being poured into position as replacements," also disclosed McCormick, recently completing 12 years of service with the Army.

He said tension is hightened by the embittered attitude of the South Koreans.

Peace in Korea is impossible until the country is unified."

South Koreans would force an immediate war against the Reds for unification, if it weren't for President Syngman Rhee's restraint upon ultra - nationalistic groups.

McCormick said, "People in the south are anxious to invade the Red-held North and eliminate the Communist pressure.

Usually in contact with civilians, McCormick also quoted a South Korean attorney as saying, "The people know they can't live as a divided nation, with constant impending fear caused by the truce violations from North Korea."

McCormick said that U. N. inspection teams are aware of the present condition, especially the tension hanging over the neutral zone, separating both sides.

A major flare-up could also stem from minor incidents occurring in the mile-long neutral zone.

As head of the ordnance section for all U. N. troops, McCormick said he was involved in such an incident while salvaging equipment in the demilitarized zone.

"I was struck on the head by a Red infiltrator. When I regained consciousness my assailant had fled," McCormick said. He explained that a rifle shot by the attacker could have attracted the attention of friendly troops.

The former major, decorated with the silver star by Gen. Mark Clark in World War II, could offer no solution for permanent peace in Korea.

"Division of the country and the attitude of the people make it impossible for a long-lasting peace in Korea," he said.

Reports by civilians, U. N. inspection teams and front - line soldiers — that the Reds are building a powerful war machine prohibited by truce negotiations — creates a situation beyond peaceful solution, he pointed out.

North Koreans and Red pilots who have sought U. N. asylum, also report continuous war building by the Reds.

Some Koreans coming from the north, he added, also report that Russians are aiding the Reds' efforts for greater armament, future planning and providing technical information.

McCormick, summarizing South Koreans skeptical attitude, said, "When you can't accomplish real peace at a Geneva Conference, it must be done in the battle fields.

"Koreans feel they have learned that much when we stopped at the Yalu River."

New House Bill Aims at Loyalty

Would Deny Protection of Fifth Amendment in Cases of Treason

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill designed to deny the self-incrimination protection of the Fifth Amendment to some witnesses in cases involving the nation's security was called up for House action today.

House leaders predicted passage of the bill, similar to one urged by Atty. Gen. Brownell, although there was evident opposition to some features.

The House, with little opposition, already has passed three other measures recommended by Brownell as part of the administration's antisubversive program. Several others have been shelved.

Those sent to the Senate would legalize use of wire-tapped evidence in national security cases, revise the espionage laws and provide the death penalty for peacetime spying, and strip citizenship rights from persons convicted of conspiring to seek forcible overthrow of the government.

None has passed the Senate except a witness-immunity bill, which differs sharply from the House measure. Several of Brownell's half-dozen or more measures have tentatively been scheduled for Senate debate, but whether any will get final approval is questionable.

The House bill up today would apply to witnesses called to testify on matters involving treason, sabotage or other subversive activity.

Witnesses who might otherwise refuse to testify on the ground of possible self-incrimination could be promised immunity by a congressional committee only upon (1) a two-thirds vote of the committee, (2) prior notice to the attorney general, and (3) approval by a U. S. district court.

In the case of witnesses before federal courts or grand juries, the application for immunity would be made to a district judge by the U. S. attorney.

The attorney general in each instance could, if he wished, oppose the request for an immunity grant in court before an order was issued.

The companion bill passed by the Senate last year would permit the House or Senate to override a denial of immunity by the attorney general, would apply only to witnesses before congressional committees, and would not be limited to national security cases.

Under both bills, witnesses granted immunity from federal prosecution would be subject to contempt penalties if they still refused to testify, and to prosecution for perjury if found to have lied. And there would be no guarantee against prosecution in state courts.

Show Business

Judy Garland 'Lives' Life of the Stage, Takes Advice From Georgie Jessel

By EDDIE CANTOR

When you think of show business history being made, you visualize old-timers. The year 1951 at the Palace Theater in New York changed that. A young bubbling bundle of talent gave a performance that will forever be remembered as genius inspired.

That was the record-breaking engagement of one Judy Garland. The only thing to equal it, is another performance by the same gal in the long-awaited picture, "A Star Is Born."

I've never seen such showmanship in one so young. The punch in Judy always puzzled me until the day I had lunch with her at the Warner Brothers studio.

She was being interviewed by a newspaperman, who asked: "Just how do you feel about show business?" Judy looked surprised, "Is there any other business?" she asked.

What makes her success more remarkable is that the Garland gal has never really studied a line of dialogue in her life. Even as a kid attending school on the MGM lot, she rarely opened a book.

Mickey Rooney told me that one time he said to her, "Pal, you'd better concentrate or you'll be at the bottom of the class." Judy, then a hep youngster of 12, came back at him with the old gag, "So what? They teach the same at both ends!"

When Judy started out in life, her last name was Gumm. Playing on the bill with George Jessel at the Oriental Theater in Chicago, he advised her to change her name to Garland.

This was pretty unusual for Georgie. He usually changes girls' names to Jessel.

Mental Illness Biggest State Health Worry

ANN ARBOR—"One out of every 20 children born in Michigan today will occupy a bed in a mental hospital at some period during his lifetime.

Dr. Roscoe W. Cavell, assistant professor of psychiatry in the University of Michigan's Medical School and the Veterans Readjustment Center at the University, uses this startling ratio to emphasize his conviction that mental illness is still our biggest public health problem.

In a recent medical talk Dr. Cavell declared, "More beds are occupied by patients suffering from mental illness than from all other illnesses and diseases combined."

According to the physician, of every 100 hospital beds in the United States, 55 are occupied by mentally ill patients.

The problem is even more acute because state hospitals in Michigan today are caring for 4,000 patients more than they were designed to hold.

Although the statistics are discouraging, the future is considerably brighter than it was 20, even 10 years ago. "Mentally ill patients are curable," said the doctor. "Forty per cent of all new admissions are out of the hospital and at home within five years after their admissions."

Baby-Care Tax Deduction Allowed for Work Hours

Third in a series.

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON (AP)—An entirely new idea is being imbedded in tax laws: a special break for people who have to pay for care of their children while they work.

This concept goes into effect for the first time in the huge, 1,000-page tax revision bill just passed by Congress.

Experts figure it will cut taxes for about 2,100,000 persons by a total of 130 million dollars a year.

The new bill permits many taxpayers to deduct from their income, before figuring their tax, actual expenses of up to $600 a year for care of children, but also for any dependent who is mentally or physically incapable of caring for himself.

That means an actual tax cut of $120 for those in the lowest, 20 per cent tax bracket, a bigger saving in higher brackets.

This is how you can qualify under the child-care provision:

If you file your return as a single head of a household—a widow, widower, divorced or separated person—you can claim the $600 deduction regardless of your income if you meet the other conditions.

And if you are a working wife, you can still qualify if your husband is incapacitated.

You also can benefit if you file as a married couple, where both husband and wife work and file a joint return. If your combined income is $4,500 or below, you can deduct the full $600. Your deduction is reduced by the amount of your income above $4,500.

Thus, if your income is $4,800, you can deduct only $300. But if your income is $5,100 or more, you are not entitled to any deduction.

One very important point to remember—it you claim this deduction, you must itemize your dependent-care expenses and all your other deductions. You can't benefit from this provision if you take the standard, automatic deduction of 10 per cent of your income offered to most taxpayers.

The provision applies to expenses in this calendar year, which started Jan. 1. You can deduct them in your income tax return due next April 15.

So if you qualify, you might want to start now keeping a record of your deductible expenses.

You can't deduct child-care expenses if they are paid to your own dependents. And of course you can't deduct baby sitter expenses while you are out frolicking.

The theory is to permit a deduction for expenses you must incur to make a living—just as regular business expenses are deductible.

New Wash Methods Leave Blues Behind

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP) — Women no longer sing the Monday wash day blues, according to Harriet Brigham, home economist at the University of Nebraska.

Thanks to equipment developments, washing is less of a dreaded chore. But she said, "modern machines will give full returns only if the right methods are used with them."

She recommended doing a little washing every day instead of a lot at once. This, she said, is "less of a tax on the hot water supply, on the space for drying, and even on the space for storage of clothes."

The specialist also said that many women have found that frequent washings reduce the quantity of clothes needed for children.

Guam is the largest of the Mariana islands and lies 1,500 miles east of Manila. It has been a U. S. possession since 1898.

Wins Bet, Loses Life in Jump From Bridge

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Delmar R. Willingham, 38-year-old painter, won 50 cents yesterday but lost his life. He leaped from the Anthony Wayne bridge into the Maumee River on a bet and drowned.

Willingham lost a game of pool and then two games of shuffleboard to a drinking companion, Niles Niemi, whom he had met several hours earlier at a tavern here, police said.

"There must be something I can beat you at," Willingham told his companion. "I'll bet you I can jump off the bridge."

The two rode to the bridge and Willingham then dove off, yelling: "It's a long way to Tipperary," police said.

Efforts to Rid Starlings Costs Man $25 Fine

BELLEVUE, Ohio (AP)—With nary a starling to show for his efforts, James Welch, a retired railroad conductor, paid a fine of $25 and costs of $6.80 before Judge J. Allen Vickery yesterday.

It seems Welch was trying to get the starlings out of the trees in front of his home. His efforts with a shotgun violated an ordinance about shooting in the city without a permit.

What aroused the local police was the fact his blast cut through a high tension wire. This fell on two distribution wires of the city's electrical system, and the whole town tf 8,000 persons was blacked out Monday night for four hours.

Susan Hayward Suit Blocked by Husband

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A legal maneuver to block Susan Hayward's divorce suit has been instituted by counsel for her husband, actor Jess Barker.

A petition of recrimination was filed yesterday by Barker's attorney, S. S. Hahn, with the judge who has the divorce case under submission. Hahn said he resorted to the little-used petition because Barked did not want to file a cross-complaint for divorce.

"He wants her back," the lawyer explained. "He wants her divorce denied on the grounds that she did things to him just as bad as the things she says he did to her."

Miss Hayward has said Barker tossed her into the swimming pool and paddled her. He said she provoked these acts by "unwifely behavior" that included burning him with a cigarette.

Voice Student Learns Phone Is Not the Way

BOSTON (AP)—Mona Lisa Taft, 18, a student of voice, has learned that making day and night telephone calls to an impressario is no way to impress him.

Superior Court Judge Edward J. Voke placed the girl on probation yesterday after she promised not to call Boris Goldovsky any more.

The girl said she was seeking a singing part from Goldovsky, head of the New England Opera Theatre.

Studio Suspends Mature for Failing to Appear

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Victor Mature's studio has suspended him and replaced him in the cast of a picture for failure to appear for wardrobe tests.

The suspension was ordered yesterday by 20th Century-Fox and was followed immediately by the assignment of Richard Egan to Mature's role in "Untamed," with Tyroe Power and Susan Hayward. Mature was reported golfing at Del Mar.

Fall Into Bucket Drowns Baby

Avon Township Child Left With Relative and Neighbor

AVON TOWNSHIP—A 10-months-old child drowned Tuesday of water in the living room of an of water in the livingroom of an Avon Township home where he was being cared for while his parents were at work.

He was Carleton D. Tinker Jr., an only child of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton D. Tinker of 1545 Auburn Rd.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Sheldon Stites said the child had been left in the care of his aunt, Mrs. Goldie Sharp, 40, of 3776 Dearborn St. Stites, quoting Mrs. Sharp, said she later left the baby with Mrs. Robert Brady, 16, of 2910 Corinthia St. when she went to Pontiac.

According to Sheldon, Mrs. Brady was resting on a couch when she noticed the child toppled over in the pail of water. Mrs. Brady said she immediately carried the child to the home of neighbors who called police and firemen who were unable to revive the baby.

Dr. I. C. Prevette, deputy coroner, said the death apparently was accidental drowning but said an autopsy would be held today to establish positive cause of death.

Assistant Prosecutor Robert Long also planned to take statements today from the two women.

The child's mother, who came here with her husband and child Sept. 1953, from Cortland, N. Y., is employed by Dearborn Motors at Birmingham and the father was reported working near Marlette.

Funeral services are pending at the Dudley H. Moore Funeral Home.

International History Slightly Repetitious

ANKARA (AP) — President Grant beat President Truman to the punch by more than 70 years with military aid to Turkey. Shukru Kasabolu, local historian says the sultan sought to buy 600,000 Springfield rifles from the United States some months before Russia declared war, in April 1877.

The makers couldn't fill the hurry-up order so President Grant authorized drawing 50,000 rifles from government stores for immediate shipment. Records indicate the American guns proved far superior to the rifles used by the Russians. The sultan was so pleased, Kasabolu adds, that he dispatched a specially-woven Turkish carpet to Grant as a gift.

Under the aid program, which began in 1947, the United States has furnished Turkey with more than a billion dollars in military and economic aid. The purpose is the same: to bolster Turkey against Russia.

Border Incident Spurs Hunt for Fence Thief

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Someone stole a strip of the United States-Mexican border, as represented by barbed wire, a border patrolman reported here.

The missing length of wire, which he estimated was about as much as could be loaded on a jeep, was gone from the Pacific ocean end inland. Jeep tracks were noted.

DRAYTON PLAINS — An evening concert of serious music will be presented by the organist of St. Andrew Episcopal Church, a local soprano and a 10-year-old piano prodigy from Detroit this Sunday.

Featured will be Ivan Rouse Jr., church organist who is leaving soon for advanced study at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago.

The concert is set for 8 p.m. in St. Andrew Chapel Hall, 4386 Dixie Hwy., and is open to the public.

GOP Segment Gains in Kansas

Party-Backed Nominee Trails Present Deputy in Statehouse Revolt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A revolt against the Republican Statehouse administration in Kansas took the spotlight from two U. S. senators and 41 House members seeking renomination in state primaries yesterday.

While most of the incumbent Congress members won easily, Lt. Gov. Fred Hall of Kansas held a mounting lead in his challenge to the administration of retiring Gov. Edward F. Arn. Party control is at stake.

Hall, seeking the GOP nomination for governor, was trailed by George Templar, former U. S. district attorney, who had the support of the state's party leadership.

All incumbent congressmen won their races in Kansas, Missouri and West Virginia.

Sen. Matthew M. Neely (D-WVa) was renominated to a fifth term, topping the closest of his three opponents 4-1. In Kansas, GOP Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel triumphed easily over two opponents.

Among the successful congressmen was Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. He admitted his primary opponent, State Sen. Noel Cox, "gave me a little scare for a while." But Short won by a comfortable margin.

Late returns gave Short 33,630, Cox 24,367.

Balloting in all three states was unusually light. With few exceptions, campaigning had been listless and many Congress members did not campaign at all.

West Virginia Republicans nominated Thomas B. Sweeney of Wheeling to oppose the veteran Neely in November. Sweeney had one opponent.

Garden Club to Hear Talk on Landscaping

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—Mrs. Albert Games will speak on landscaping at tomorrow's 1 p.m. meeting of the Waterford Branch of the National Farm and Garden Club.

The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Hrbert Bayle, 2894 Orangegrove Rd., Williams Lake.

Jesse Wolcott Wins Primary

Will Be GOP Candidate for House; Garnered 2,665 Lapeer Votes

LAPEER — Jesse P. Wolcott garnered a total of 2,665 votes in Lapeer County's primary contest yesterday to insure his race this November as Republican candidate for the U. S. House of Representatives.

In other Lapeer contests, Republican gubernatorial candidate Donald S. Leonard received 1,268 votes to win that nomination, while Owen J. Cleary got 655 tallies D. Hale Brake, 704, and Eugene C. Keyes, 673.

Incumbent Clark Greggory won the Republican nomination for Lapeer county sheriff with a total vote of 2,507, and John Conley received 2,017 votes in his bid for nomination as county clerk.

Mrs. Ethel LaFortune took 414 votes to win the Democratic nomination as county clerk.

C. Clyde Arbaugh will carry the Democratic hopes in November for the post of congressman from Lapeer.

With all the Democratic returns in except for Imlay City, Dortha Collier leads in the race for county recorder of deeds, and Percy Crawford enjoys a comfortable 200 vote margin in his bid for nomination as county drain commissioner.

The state vote saw Lapeer county Democrats favor Philip A. Hart as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor against George S. Fitzgerald.

Mrs. Ralph Perkins Heads Legion Auxiliary

AUBURN HEIGHTS — Elected president at a recent meeting of the ladies auxiliary of Hill-Gazette American Legion Post was Mrs. Ralph Perkins.

Other new officers include Mrs. Kenneth Collins, first vice president; Mrs. Walter Leitner, second vice president; Mrs. Clifford Best, secretary, and Mrs. Ralph Bogart, treasurer.

Rounding out the list are Mrs. Norma Palmer, chaplain; Mrs. Gerald Hill, historian, and Mrs. Paul Elwell, sergeant-at-arms.

Imlay City Youth Wins Medical Scholarship

IMLAY CITY — Donald Bosker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Bosker of Imlay City, was awarded the Dr. William D. Kay Medical scholarship by the Lapeer County Medical Foundation.

The scholarship offers $500 per year for four years. The recipient agrees to practice medicine in Lapeer County for a minimum of four years.

Bosker, a graduate of Lapeer High School in 1948, will attend the University of Michigan Medical School.

Farmers Appeal Jail Sentences

Imprisoned Lapeer Pair Ask Review of Ruling on Eviction Action

LAPEER (AP)—Two Lapeer County farmers serving terms for obstructing justice in the eviction of a widow appealed to federal court in Detroit yesterday in an attempt to gain their freedom.

Writs of Habeas Corpus were asked on behalf of Erwin C. Russell, 58, and Floyd Schriber, 60. They are serving 18 months to 2 years in Southern Michigan Prison for interfering with Sheriff Clark Gregory in the 1952 eviction of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens.

Mrs. Stevens was among farmers who refused to pay assessments and defied court orders in the collapse of a Mutual Insurance company. Gregory finally evicted her, although he was roughed up and run off in his first attempt.

The petitions claim that civil rights of Russell and Schriber were invaded without due process of law and the several jurors who voted to convict them were "prejudiced."

No date was set for hearings on the petitions. Russell's went to Judge Arthur A. Koscinski and Schriber's to Judge Theodore Levin.

'Dog Days' Myth Exploded; Term Comes From Star

WASHINGTON—Dog days — the hot days of deep summer—are settling over the land. But they return this year shorn of one of their last myths: That most dog madness occurs in summer.

In place of the superstitions of old, dog days now stand for the season when newspapers prove that an egg can fry on a sizzling city street, when small boys set up neighborhood lemonade stands, and when dogs, far from being mad, sensibly laze in the shade.

The term "dog days" goes back to the time when the ancients studied the stars, says the National Geographic Society.

According to early legends, Sirius, the brightest star in the heavens, was known as the Dog Star. Its clear blue-white light marked the constellation Canis Major (the Greater Dog), trailing along southeast of the spectacular constellation of the hunter Orion.

The Greeks and Romans noted that Sirius rose with the sun just before mid-summer, at the start of the driest, hottest period of the year. Thus the warmest season became associated with the Dog Star and the Romans called that part of the year "dies caniculares" or dog days.

Mistakenly, many ancients believed the Dog Star itself caused hot, muggy weather. They blamed Sirius for field-withering droughts, midsummer sickness, and the death of farm animals.

To appease this inimical star, the Romans sacrificed red-haired puppies in spring.

One of the oldest and most persistent superstitions has been the fallacy that dog days bring unusual outbreaks of dog madness. Some historians actually believe that the term "dog days" stems from the supposed prevalence of canine disease during the summer.

But today the theory that most dog madness arises in summer has been exploded as a myth. Medical reports show that rabies occurs more frequently in spring and fall than in the summer months.

Other superstitions, taken less seriously, have lingered into modern times. One holds that a tree slashed during dog days will die, no matter how slight the injury.

Another fallacy is that snakes go blind at this time, a notion that grew out of snakes' temporary impairment of vision during hot weather shedding of skin.

Sirius, the Dog Star, has long fascinated astronomers. It is one of the nearest stars, appearing so brilliant because it is only 8.8 light years or 51 million million miles away.

Although it is 28 times as bright as the sun, its luminosity is not exceptional. Its mass is more than twice that of the sun's, its surface temperature (about 10,000 degrees) much higher, its light whiter.

Ovid Sow Wins 1st Prize

By BURDETTE B. ASHLEY
Associated Press Farm Writer

A 15-year-old Ovid Future Farmer of America has raised Michigan's sow-of-the-year, proving once again that veteran farmers and livestock men can't rest on their laurels and expect to win any titles. Not with these ambitious youngsters around.

Dennis Martin, lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Martin, on a small part-time farm near Ovid, raised his prize registered Duroc Jersey Red Sow, Lady, from a piglet given to him four years ago by his brother, Larry, 19.

In the Michigan State College sow testing project Lady carried off honors by producing a litter of 12 young porkers that weighed 623.2 pounds at the eight-week weaning stage.

Lady's litter was a good 60 pounds heavier than the runner-up, a Yorkshire sow owned by Johnson F. Hackney of Durand, whose litter consisted of 14 piglets.

In winning the year's honors for Dennis, Lady produced the second highest litter weight recorded in the nine years the project has been running.

Dennis had a bit of help at the right time from his younger brother, Norman, 13. They were up all night when Lady farrowed protecting the young pigs. And when the pigs weren't eating the boys gathered them up in baskets to await hungry squeals indicating it was time to eat again.

Such care saved all but one of Lady's 13-pig litter.

Scarecrows and costly tree covers may go out of fashion in Michigan orchards if an experiment being conducted by two MSC experts proves effective.

Horticulturist G. M. Kessler and zoologist G. J. Wallace are placing in orchard phonographs with recordings of bird distress calls, hoping that the recorded trouble calls will keep robins and starlings away.

The system, if demonstrated practical, economical and effective, would be of particular value in cherry orchards.

Researchers at Pennsylvania State University used recordings to keep starlings away from an entire town for part of a season. They did it by using a tape recorder to play starlings' troubled calls for 30 minutes each night for three nights.

Less than 400 Michigan farmers have taken advantage of a 14-year-old law which permits them to register their farm name with the state director of agriculture. It costs only a dollar and affords a number of advantages in addition to a handsome certificate.

When a farm name is registered no other farm name similar enough to cause confusion can be registered. The registered name can be used for exclusive advertising and in legal documents. It can also be used in connection with pedigreed livestock and crops.

The Agriculture Department thinks the relatively small number of registrations is a matter of lack of awareness of the law and its advantages rather than indifference.

ARTHRITIS PAINS WERE UNBEARABLE SAYS CALUMET LADY

"Rheumatism pains struck me whenever I moved my arms or legs, and lots of times I would have done anything to stop the pains," says Mrs. Peter Stella, 71 County Road, Calumet, Michigan.

"For seven years I suffered the awful pains of rheumatism, arthritis and lumbago. Any movement that I would make sent pains shooting through my arms, legs and back. When I bent over I never knew if I would be able to straighten up or not. I could hardly get out of bed in the mornings, and it was very painful when I walked. It's terrible to say, but there were times when I wished I was dead because of the unbearable pains. I went to a clinic in Wisconsin and after a thorough examination, they told me that I was in good health except for the rheumatism and arthritis. They couldn't help me, so I tried about every medicine under the sun, but nothing I tried helped me until my husband saw an ad in the newspaper for O-JIB-WA BITTERS. It told about the good results O-JIB-WA had brought to another person that was suffering the same way I was. He wanted me to try it, but I was discouraged with all medicines, and didn't want to. He brought home a bottle of O-JIB-WA BITTERS anyway, so I started taking it. It was almost a month before I saw much results, but in four months I was all better. I get around fine now and do all the things I couldn't do before. I have my own garden in which I do all the work, and I even painted our house this year. My husband says it seems like he's got a new woman in the house. I give many thanks to O-JIB-WA BITTERS for making my new health possible and hope other people who are suffering will give it a try. I know they will be as pleased with O-JIB-WA BITTERS as I am."

Chicago Man Offers 4 Millions for A's Club

By BEN PHLEGAR

NEW YORK (AP)—A firm offer backed with an estimated 4 million dollars in ready cash was pending today to end the Mack Dynasty in Philadelphia and move the money-troubled Athletics to booming Kansas City.

Arnold Johnson, a Chicago business executive whose interests run from being landord of Yankee Stadium through banking, book publishing, construction and real estate, is trying to swing the deal.

Last night he confirmed reports which have been circulating for almost a month that he is dickering with the Mack family and the board of directors of the Athletics.

"I have made a very fair and full offer for the club," Johnson said while in New York on a business trip. "I have reason to believe they are considering it."

In Philadelphia, a source close to the Athletics said Johnson's bid has been received. He called it the only firm offer that has been forthcoming.

Roy Mack, who shares ownership in the A's with his father, Connie, and his brother Earle, has denied vigorously all previous reports the club might move. But after Johnson's announcement Roy backed off slightly and declared:

"The only thing I will say right now is that I am doing my utmost to keep the ball club in Philadelphia."

Roy has been trying to find backers in an effort to buy out his father and brother. The board of directors has given him until Aug. 11 to raise the cash.

There have been no noticeable signs of success in his campaign.

The elder Mack is in Chicago where he was quoted in an interview with Hy Hurwitz of the Boston Daily Globe as saying:

"We're washed up in Philadelphia. Mr. (Will) Harridge (president of the American League) has approved it and also approved of Mr. Johnson and his partners. I want to sell, Earle does, but I can't understand why Roy doesn't. The club is through in Philadelphia. There is no more interest in the team there."

A Philadelphia source in a position to know the inner workings of the club said the board of directors probably would give Roy 60 or 90 days extra time beyond Aug. 11 in his search for cash if he needed or asked for it.

After that, the source said, the Johnson offer would be acted upon.

Although no one was speaking for publication there were indications the American League owners would urge a shift of the franchise out of Philadelphia if the deal looked practical.

President Harridge called reports of the deal "premature." The first concrete details of the Johnson offer were disclosed yesterday by Sports Editor John P. Carmichael of the Chicago Daily News. Harridge pointed out that franchises can be shifted only between Oct. 1 and Dec. 1. The 60 to 90 day delay in Philadelphia would take care of that angle.

One of the last major obstacles in Kansas City was cleared up when voters yesterday approved a 2 million dollar bond issue to buy Blues Stadium, now owned by Johnson. The money would be used for the purchase and improvements of the park which would increase the capacity from 17,000 to 33,000 by the start of next season. Johnson plans to lease the park back from the city.

Kansas City was mentioned a year ago when the St. Louis Browns moved to Baltimore but lack of a suitable ball park killed any chance of the move West.

"Kansas City will be a red hot major league town," Johnson said.

Carter's Hopes for Regaining Title in Danger

CHICAGO (AP)—Jimmy Carter, the 30-year-old battler who twice won and lost the lightweight championship, endangers his hopes of regaining it again in a 10-round bout with Glen Flanagan tonight.

Carter has set up a return match with Paddy DeMarco, the last man to dethrone him, for Sept. 22 in San Francisco.

He rules a 3-1 favorite over Flanagan, who has moved up from the featherweight division and at 135 pounds will be carrying the most weight of his career. He is a brother of Del Flanagan, a leading welter contender.

A defeat in tonight's nationally-televised (9 p.m, EST) match at Chicago Stadium would be a serious setback for Carter.

Michigan Qualifies Two

CHICAGO (AP)—Two Michigan entries qualified yesterday in the first day of qualifying for the rich Tam O'Shanter golf tourney. They are:

John Barnum, Grand Rapids, 33-35—68.

Jimmy Johnson, Northville, 34-38—72.

Another Burke Hits Headlines for Golf Game

Tom, Cousin of Jack, Fires 66 to Top Field at Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO (AP) — A well-known Texas golfing name popped into the headlines again yesterday as previously unheralded Tom Burke Jr., made a bid for professional fame.

Burke, formerly of Houston and now a Chicago pro, smacked a six-under-par 66 in the opening qualifying round for professionals in the All-American golf tournament.

It topped a field of 150 who were shooting for the 60 places open in the All-American, which starts Thursday.

* * *

Another 150 take to Tam O'Shanter's fairways today for their 18-hole qualifying rounds.

Burke, a cousin of Jack Burke Jr. a pro circuit regular, bagged eight birdies, scoring a 32-34.

A stroke behind were the former Canadia Open champ, George Fazio of Clementon, N.J. and Smiley Quick of Los Angeles. Both shot 34-33—67.

It appeared that at least a par 72 would be needed to qualify for the tourney proper. That figure was tied or beaten by 35 swingers yesterday.

The play yesterday also produced nine qualifiers, from a field of 42, who will participate along with a group of exempted players in the Women's Amateur division of the All-American, also starting Thursday.

Men amateurs qualified for their allotted positions Monday.

The feminine qualifiers were headed by Marilyn Klumb of West Bend, Wis., whose 40-38—78 was two over women's par. Barbara Little of Wauwatosa, Wis. was runner-up with 42-39—81.

Filly Stands Good Chance in Hambletonian

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP)—This is the day of the big whirl around Good Time Park and it could be that another filly will outslicker the colts in the famous Hambletonian Trotting Stakes.

Sixteen of the best 3-year-old trotters in the land are ready for the starter's gate to battle it out for a purse totalling $106,830, second richest of all time, and a pert lass named Stenographer is the probable favorite.

Owned by Max Hempt of Camp Hill, Pa., and driven by the clever Del Miller, Stenographer has copped eight of her last nine races, and seems ready for the biggest afternoon of her career.

But, it will be a tussle, perhaps one of the most memorable in the history of this great sulky derby since it was invented in 1926. There are half a dozen horses capable of trotting those mile heats in 2:02 or better, and few Hambletonians are won in that kind of clocking. The first heat is set for 2 p.m. EST, and heats follow every hour until one horse has won two dashes.

Stenographer will start from the favorable No. 2 post position, alongside of Pronto Boy, a speedy colt from the Hayes Fair Acres Stable, Duquoin, Ill. Pronto Boy can travel, and from the No. 1 spot might grab the first prize of $57,581.

Others given the best chance to grab the Blue Ribbon Classic are the Newport Stock Farm's Newport Dream, South Plainfield, N.J.: Cronus, from Goshen's Arden Homestead Stable; Prince Victor, owned by Sam Huttenbauer, Cincinnati; and Harlan, property of C. M. Provost, Pittsburgh, Pa.

A year ago the filly Helicopter upset the dope, showing that unlike the Kentucky Derby the gals can match the gents in this trotting scramble. Regret won the Kentucky Derby in 1915, the only filly ever to win the classic.

Hot Tiger 'Prospects'

MUSKEGON (UP)—Jack Tighe a talent scout for the Detroit Tigers, told this story to James F. Henderson, sports editor of the Muskegon Chronicle, who wrote it in his column:

"During my first year as a scout for the Tigers a couple of boys from upstate wrote me a letter saying they were ready for the majors, and would I please come up and look them over," Tighe said.

"I looked them over. One was 13 years old and weighed 96 pounds. The other was 14 years old and weighed 103. real prospects."

Stits Regarded as 'Poor Risk'

Lion Draft Choice in Ticklish Position for All-Star Game

DETROIT (AP)—A Detroit sportswriter has reported the Detroit Lions believe UCLA halfback Bill Stits was considered a "poor football security risk" by the All-Star football camp.

Stits reported to the Lions' Ypsilanti training camp July 21 from California. He is a Lions draft choice. He received an invitation to play against the Lions in the All-Star game at Chicago Aug. 13 as part of the college squad.

Stits left the Lions camp for Lafayette, Ind., where the All-Stars were training. When he arrived back at the Lions camp July 25, he said he was told the All-Stars had too many halfbacks and he could rejoin the Lions if he liked.

Sportswriter Watson Spoelstra of the Detroit News, wrote that although there was no controversy over Stits rejoining the Lions, Detroit coaches figured he was considered a poor risk at the All-Star camp because he could report progress and plays back to Lions Coach Buddy Parker. Stits now is training with Detroit.

Chataway Shakes Runnerup 'Complex' to Win Empire Games' 3-Mile Grind

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — John Landy and Roger Bannister may be kings of the cinder oval to the rest of the world, but here in Vancouver the man of the hour today is flame-haired, happy-go-lucky Christopher John Chataway.

Yesterday on a drizzly afternoon he came pounding around the final curve to win the British Empire Games three-mile event and 11,000 fans mentally ran every step of the way with him.

They had nothing against Fred Green, the ex-paratrooper who beat Chris John in world record time earlier this year but couldn't catch him yesterday. They didn't dislike Frank Sando, who made it a 1-2-3 finish for England, or barefooted Nyandika Mayioro of Kenya who placed fourth.

But Chataway was their favorite before he started because he had paced Landy and Bannister to their sub-4-minute miles and chased Green to the record 13:32.2.

Chataway burst away from the field to finish in front by 15 yards.

And the hometown fans adored him for saying in all seriousness, "I love this cool weather for running."

Mainly because of their solid finishes yesterday in the three-mile and half-mile the English recaptured the lead from Australia in the unofficial team standings. At the day's end England had 180 points, Australia 137, Canada was back in third with 91, South Africa had 86 and New Zealand 38.

In the half-mile, Derek Johnson cracked the games record by half a second in 1 minute, 50.7 seconds. Finishing at his heels were two fellow Englishmen, Brian Hewson and Ian Boyd. Another gold medal for England was earned by Kenneth Wilmshurst when he clicked off 50 feet, 1½ inches to win the hop, step and jump.

Records were put to the scythe mercilessly. South Africa's Stephanus Du Plessis stretched the Empir Games discus mark 13 feet½ inch by pitching the platter 169 feet, 7½ inches. New Zealand's David Lean won the 440-yard hurdles in 52.4 seconds, a tenth slower than his own record time in Saturday's prelims.

Layne, Dublinski Highlight Lions Scrimmage Session

YPSILANTI (AP) — Battered muscles and possible answers to two problems emerged from a heavy scrimmage yesterday at the Detroit Lions nearby training camp.

Coach Buddy Parker sent his divided veterans slamming into each other for slightly less than two hours. Bulk of the rookies in camp also came in for some head-bumping.

The highlight of the scrimmage was the passing — a necessity in professional football.

However, Parker was busy trying to find likely material to bolster his fullback and tackle posts. The Texan was pleased with the showing of the linemen in carrying out blocking assignments.

Parker was especially pleased with the showing of tackles Charley Ane and Bob Miller. The two are veterans who have been moved into new positions to offset the retirement of John Prchlik and the loss of Ollie Spencer to the armed forces.

Gil Mains, Bob Dove, George Parozzo and Gerald Perry — the latter two are rookies — showed they too can fill the vacancies.

In the backfield, Parker has been searching since last season for a steady, hard-running fullback who can block as well as carry the ball. On T-formation plays, the fullback holds a key blocking assignment on pass plays.

But such a combinaton in one man is hard to find. However, Parker may have one in Lew Carpenter, who looked particularly with a sprained ankle. or Bob Smith, sidelined temporarily with a spraied ankle.

Bill Bowman, a rookie, also has been impressive in the fullback slot.

So Parker, as he looks forward to the fast-approaching All-Star game and the opening of the professional grid campaign, has two of his toughest problems nearing a solution.

99 Players Are Listed for DDGA Tourney

Up to this morning there were 99 entries for the annual Detroit District Golf Association's championships, at Pine Lake. The event opens Thursday with an 18-hole round of qualifying play. Friday, through Sunday the field will engage in match play.

Bob Babbish is defending champion. He defeated Pontiac's Roy Iceberg last year in a 39-hole battle at Meadowbrook. Roy is again one of four publinx players invited to participate in the big private club affair.

Gene Woodward, Lakepointe a amateur, who made a strong bid for the Michigan Open last weekend, is one of the favorites.

Mrs. Weber, Theobald Win at Silver Lake

Mrs. Earl Weber of Waterford and Mrs. Glenn Theobald of Pontiac took low gross honors in Tuesday's play in the Women's Silver Lake Golf League at Silver Lake Golf Club. Mrs. Weber was the Flight A winner, while Mrs. Theobald won in Flight B.

Low net awards went to Mrs. Elbert Looney of Pontiac in "A" and Mrs. Fred Collins of Pontiac in "B."

Sports 9 Racks Up 16th Victory

Dick & Wes Sports, already assured the regular season championship of the Waterford Township Softball League, marked up its 16th win in 18 games and the 5th in a row Tuesday by lacing Gidley Electric, 10-3.

Sports nine broke a 3-3 tie in the 3rd on an error and Bob Ferree's single. Bob Thatcher led the winners with a pair of triples. Gidley's had some consolation as their Dean Parmenter took over the league batting leadership.

Parmenter collected 3 hits in 4 trips to hike his average to .444.

Motor City Ring Fans Boo Kennedy Decision

DETROIT (AP)—The crowd booed last night when a unanimous decision was awarded to Allen Kennedy, 140, Bay City, over Dick Perkins, 139¾, Milwaukee, in a six-round co-feature at the Motor City Arena.

There were no knockdowns in the bout although both fighters scored frequently to the head and body. But the referee and two judges apparently awarded the match to the Bay City boy on the strength of his heavier punching.

In the other half of the twin bill, Henry Hank, 153¼, Detroit, stopped Jean Poirer, 153, Niagara Falls, Ont., at 2:33 of the first round.

Parker Asks Waivers on Pair of Players

Detroit (AP)—Detroit Lions coach Buddy Parker Tuesday asked waivers of two players and placed another on Detroit's reserve list.

Waivers were asked for tackle Milt Schwenk of Washington State, and fullback Clarence Johnson from Northwestern. Gordon Cooper, an end from Denver, was placed on the reserve list.

Detroit's squad now numbers 52 and must be cut to 33 by Sept. 26 when the National Football League season opens.

Tiger Tales

DETROIT (AP) — Overheard in Briggs Stadium:

Harvey Kuenn continues to boost his once-sickly batting average. Two hits in four tries yesterday pushed it up to .285. When the Tigers returned home last week, Kuenn was hitting .259.

Tigers do not announce player salaries, but in press box mathematics, writers reached the conclusion that Ned Garver is the highest salaried player at about $22,000. Ray Boone was figured next—but guess who was the 3rd pick?

None other than Hoot Evers, who has only one hit all year, as a member of the Tigers, Red Sox and Giants. That includes spring training, too.

Garver, the league's leading pitcher in earned runs, goes for his 9th victory today. He probably will be opposed by Conrado Eugenio Ramos (Guajiro) Marrero—Connie Marrero to you.

Dupas Too Speedy

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—"He must be the fastest fighter in the world," said Bobby Woods of Spokane, Wash., after losing a 10-round unanimous decision last night to Ralph Dupas of New Orleans, third-ranked lightweight.

"I knew he was fast," continued Woods, "but not that fast. I've fought a lot of fighters, including (Cisco) Andrade, but I never saw one as fast as Dupas."

More Action Thursday

4 Teams Eliminated for City Junior Playoffs

Four teams fell by the wayside in the city junior baseball playoffs Tuesday. Action will resume Thursday in the 2-game knockout tests in D, F and Knothole Classes, while the stage is set for the finals in Class E.

Rosebud Market handed Boys Club its 2nd straight loss and qualified to meet regular season champ Lytell-Colegrove, starting Thursday. Bob Reeves started for Rosebud, but yielded in the 3rd because of wildness.

What he lacked on the mound, however, was more than made up for at the plate. The Market 9's cleanup hitter did just that, blasting grand slam homers in both the 1st and 2nd innings. He added a run-producing single in the 3rd for a total of 9 runs batted in.

In Class D, Griff's gained the finals on a 9-2 win over Pontiac Police, and Don Nicholie Realty eliminated Rochester, 5-0, as Steve Kebler gave only a 1st-inning single to Marv Evans.

Lunsford continued its bid for a 2nd straight title (this year in Class F) by downing Boys Club, 10-6, and Avondale bounced Williams Lake from the playoffs, 4-3, in 8 innings as Duane Lau's single sent home the clincher.

Two well-played contests were played in the Knothole loop as the Senators put Dick & Wes out on Henry West's 1-0 shutout, and Boys Club tripped Avondale, 4-2, as Tom Mayes twirled a 2-hitter and fanned 12. Loser Darrell Thorpe whiffed 11.

Remember?

Immortalized in baseball's Hall of Fame in 1947, today's figure was named the American League's Most Valuable Player with 2 different teams. He was always over or near .300 throughout his playing days. His identity is on today's final sport page.

Sickles Image Co-Favorite in Chicago Race Feature

CHICAGO (AP)—Arlington Park bowed out of the Chicago racing scene with pockets bulging and turned over the spotlight today to its sister track, Washington Park.

The Washington oval starts its 30-day run with the $20,000 added Clang Handicap.

The feature drew a 15-horse field headed by Bernard W. Landy's Spur On and Clarence Hartwick's Sickle's Image, the latter the 1953 champion mare and winner of this year's Modesty at Arlington.

Hartwick is a resident of Oxford, Mich.

Winner's share in a 15-horse field is $14,425. Spur On, winner of the American Mile, carries high weight of 117 pounds for the seven-furlong sprint.

Other entries are Le Monde, Happy Go Lucky, Hi Billee, Blue Dare, Revolt, Sun David, Blackamoor, Precious Stone, Baybrook, Pictus, Smackover and the Hasty House entry of Mister Black and Torch Of War.

Other rich races coming up during the Washington Park stand include Saturday's doubleheader, the $25,000 added Sheridan Handicap and the $15,000 George Woolf Memorial; the $100,000 American Derby; the $50,000 added Meadowland Handicap, the $100,000 Princess Pat Stakes and the $170,000 Washington Park Handicap.

Yogi Berra's Blazing Bat Narrows Tribe's Lead

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sportswriter

Cleveland's best chance of slowing up the New York Yankees' pennant drive is to cool off Yogi Berra's blazing bat.

The sturdy Yankee backstop is red hot right now. In his last games, Berra has hit safely 14 times in 27 times at bat for a torrid .519 average. The Yankees have won six of those seven games. Two weeks ago, Berra was hitting .287. Today he's .306—and climbing.

It was Berra who proved the difference in New York's 2-1 victory over Cleveland last night that chewed up a full game off the Indians' American League lead and sliced their margin over the Yankees to 1½ games.

With Yankees on second and third in the third inning, Berra cracked a single off Art Houtteman, scoring both runners. That was the ball game.

The National League race remained unchanged as the top three clubs—New York, Brooklyn and Milwaukee—added to their victory column. The league-leading Giants maintained their five-game advantage over Brooklyn with an easy 7-1 triumph over Chicago's crippled Cubs. The Dodgers had to go all out, edging the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 as Carl Erskine bested Vic Raschi in a pitching duel. The third place Braves, 10 lengths off the pace, outscored Philadelphia's Phillies 3-1.

The Chicago White Sox served notice they were still in the American League race by drubbing the Boston Red Sox 6-2. The victory advanced them to within six games of the Indians. In other games played under the lights, Cincinnati overpowered Pittsburgh 7-2 and Philadelphia's Athletics downed the Baltimore Orioles 6-2. Detroit shut out Washington 2-0 in the only game played in daylight.

Except for the third inning when Raschi singled and scored on a triple by Wally Moon, Erskine was complete master of the Cardinals who bowed to the Brooklyn right-hander for the 10th straight time at Ebbets Field. Erskine also had the satisfaction of driving in the winning run.

The Giants swatted Bob Rush for 12 hits including Hank Thompson's 19th home run with two on base to extend their latest winning streak to five straight.

Back-to-back doubles by Eddie Mathews and Hank Aaron, followed by Joe Adcock's single, produced two fifth inning runs that enable the Braves to break a 1-1 tie with Philadelphia.

Veteran first baseman Phil Cavarretta drove in two runs with a double and single, and scored another to give rookie southpaw Jack Harshman all the runs he needed to beat the Red Sox for his eighth victory.

Three hits apiece by Chuck Harmon and Jimmy Greengrass and shutout pitching by lefty Joe Nuxhall until the ninth featured Cincinnati's victory over Pittsburgh.

The Athletics made only five hits off three Baltimore pitchers but took advantage of five errors to pick up six unearned runs, all they got, as they moved to within two percentage points of the seventh place Orioles.

Old Models Added Speedway Feature

One race involving non-Ford old stock cars is an added attraction to the regular hardtop racing card at the Pontiac M-59 Speedway tonight. Time trials for the events start at 7 p.m., with the 1st race going at 8:30.

The M-59 track has a big weekend of racing planned with late model (1950-54) stocks running Saturday night as well as the usual Sunday hardtop show. The Central States Association championship midget race will be held Saturday, Aug. 14.

Caddie Test Set

Knollwood's annual caddie golf tournament is scheduled for Monday. Fourteen teams, of six men each, have entered the tourney and post entries will be accepted until 8:30 a.m. Monday. Defending champion Steve Uzelac will not defend his crown.

Ford Delighted With Effective Hurling Effort

'Really Had Wonderful Stuff,' Yankee Pitcher Says After 2-1 Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I've been getting a lot better this last month, but tonight I really had wonderful stuff," said southpaw Whitey Ford, whose four-hit pitching brought the New York Yankees a 2-1 victory last night over the league-leading Cleveland Indians.

The 25-year-old hurler struck out six and walked four Cleveland batters in the game, the opener of a three-game series, which cut the Indians' lead to a game and a half.

Ford, who posted his 11th victory against six defeats, said that besides using his fast ball, I "came in with curves on the inside to the left-handers, like Doby."

It was Doby, blasting his 23rd home run of the season, who tallied in the first inning for Cleveland's only score.

That didn't happen on a bad pitch, the Yankee lefthander declared, adding:

"I wouldn't be afraid to throw it to him again. I came in with that one right in on his fists and he didn't really hit it good. You ask him and he'll tell you that. The thing is, he's so strong he can hit a ball badly and still hit it over the fence."

Ford, admitting to occasional wildness, said "I didn't have perfect control, and I got behind on a lot of batters, walked a couple.

Besides Doby, only Vic Wertz, Wally Weslake and Jim Hegan managed to get as much as a single off the chunky lefthander.

Milford Merchants Win in City Softball Playoffs

Milford Merchants advanced to the double-elimination lower bracket phase of the City Men's Softball League playoffs last night.

Merchants defeated CIO No. 594, 5-1, to win the preliminary single-elimination upper bracket section of the tourney. CIO outhit Milford, 5-4, but the Merchants took advantage of eight Union errors to score four runs.

Girls' League regular-season action ended last night, with Avondale edging Gingellville, 13-11, and GMC downing Shaw's, 5-4.

Girls' playoffs open tonight, with two games scheduled at Northside Park.

2 Top Contenders Still in Tourney

LANSING (AP) — Women's Western Michigan District golf tourney reached the semi-final stages today with two of the top contenders still in the running.

One of the favorites dropped by the wayside in yesterday's round.

Mrs. Jack Scripsma, Grand Rapids city champ and tournament medalist, was to meet Mrs. George Martucci of Jackson in today's match while the other semi-final round sends Mrs. Edgar Reynolds, state women's amateur champion from Lansing, against Mrs. Ralph Fuce of Lansing.

Favorite to go by the boards was Judy Reynolds of Kalamazoo.

Titans Regain Haase

DETROIT (AP)—Don Haase, a sensation on the University of Detroit's freshman basketball team in 1951, will be back at the school this fall after two years in the army.

Haase, who led the Titans in scoring in 1951, stands 6-5 and weighs 220. Coach Bob Calihan said he plans to play him at center.

Trout Fishing Rule Changes to Be Studied

Hunting Regulations Also Due for Possible Revisions

LANSING (AP)—Changes in trout fishing regulations and recommendations for the general deer hunting season will be considered at the state conservation commission meeting in Lansing, Aug. 12 and 13.

The commission will be asked to recommend to the legislature that the creel limit for trout be cut from 10 to eight a day and that the size limit be boosted from seven to eight inches.

It also has been recommended that additional stretches of water be set aside for fly fishing. Proposals for fly fishing only will include stretches on the Fox river, in the Upper Peninsula; on the Boardman river, near Traverse City, and on the main stream of the Au Sable river.

It is proposed that the trout season open on the 2nd Saturday in May instead of the last Saturday in April and close on Labor Day instead of the Sunday following Labor Day.

Recommendations for land acquisitions for state forests and game areas also will be considered.

Questions Right to Bar Anglers

Lake St. Helens Club Sought to Keep Public Out in Duck Season

LANSING (AP)—An attorney general's opinion said today there is doubt that the members of the St. Helens Shooting Club can block public fishing on Lake St. Helens during the duck hunting season.

The issue was raised by Gerald E. Eddy, state conservation director. He said the state owns 316 feet of frontage and one acre on the lake which is used as a public fishing access site. The hunting rights over the lake are owned by the club.

Eddy reported that Robert Marshall of the club has accused fishermen of interfering with hunting despite a state-posted sign warning them not to do so. Marshall has demanded, Eddy said, that the state close the fishing access site during the duck hunting season and post a guard to keep fishermen away.

The attorney general held that the courts have held the right to fish is a public trust and that any conflicting use may be held to be against public policy if it goes to court. He said hunting rights and fishing rights normally must be used reasonably to avoid as much conflict as possible.

The opinion endorsed Eddy's proposal for a study of the problem this fall to determine the amount of conflict.

Ranger Lineup Switched

Hunting Regulations on Commission Slate

LANSING (AP)—Next fall's regulations covering deer and waterfowl hunting were slated to be the main items of business before the state conservation commission at its Aug. 12 and 13 meeting here.

Regulations covering small game hunting were approved at the July meeting. The commission still has to set seasons on waterfowl and to decide on regulations for extra deer shooting to cut down the surplus in the Lower Peninsula.

Youthful Angler Lands Smallmouth During Trip

Nine-year-old Joan Grahek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Grahek of 975 Voorheis Road, had the thrill of her young life on a recent fishing trip in the north.

Joan landed a 3-pound smallmouth without assistance while fishing in Townline Lake near Munising with her parents. She used a double spinner and nightcrawler on a spinning rod.

Land Fat Panfish

A brother-sister angling act Monday night produced some nice panfish at Duck Lake. Ronald Hannenberg, 13, of 4371 Hunters Drive, Duck Lake and his sister, Barbara, 10, took identical-sized bluegill and sunfish, in addition to a "mess" of smaller panfish. Ronald, carrier for the Pontiac Press caught the bluegill and Barbara the sunfish. Both were 8¼ inches long.

'Hoppers' Shouldn't Be Overlooked as Bait

By JACK PATTERSON

This column doesn't often reprint materials from other sources but now and then an item turns up that bears repeating. Ralph Curry, city editor of the Flint Journal, commenting on a recent fishing trip to the Algoma fishing camp of former Pontiac resident Clarence Moen, writes: "Ragsdale (Ed. Ragsdale, general manufacturing manager of Buick) continued to sleep through a continuation of stories and guffaws by Bob Oliver, Buick dealer in Pontiac, who knows virtually every bewhiskered story ever told, but very few new ones, and usually starts off with 'If you've heard this don't stop me—I want to hear it again myself.'". Looks as though even the Canadian wilderness isn't big enough to hide Robert.

PATTERSON

But on the occasions when this party did some fishing it did very well, with one day seeing 66 good-sized brookies brought to net. This bears out the information picked up at Sonny Dale's Seaplane dock at the Canadian Soo the other day—to the effect that midsummer trout fishing has been pretty good this season in the Algoma country. Not as fast and furious as spring fishing, of course, but well worth the effort. Flies and mosquitoes have thinned out considerably by now, too.

In waters closer by trout fisherman should take heed that grasshoppers have reached an appetizing bite-size and should not be overlooked as bait. A grasshopper plunked into a shadowy run, preferably near a grassy bank, can do wonders for a trout's jaded appetite. They're mighty good for shallow water work on bass and bluegills, too.

Only trouble is grasshoppers move faster than they used to and are come by at the expense of considerable effort. But the effort is apt to be worth it. For the purist, the turkey-winged dry fly known as the "Michigan Hopper" will serve about as well. As for rubber, plastic or preserved natural specimens, we've never had much success with them.

Ralph Norvel poses an interesting problem that confronts local bass fishermen at this time of year. What to do about those oversize linesides that cruise around in shallow water in plain view but ignore everything tossed at them.

Ralph was speaking specifically of Orchard Lake but the problem is common to all bass lakes in the area. Well, there's no surefire formula we know of to provoke a strike but many years ago when big bass were taken with some consistancy from Orchard Lake under these same conditions, the following method worked pretty well.

We'd fish from the bank in the sandy shallows early in the morning—after sun-up but before the sun was above the trees. Sometimes we used a garden worm but more often a small minnow, or a single small hook and long, rather fine leader.

Wait for a bass or a school of them to heave in sight, then toss the bait well ahead of them, and wait and hope for the best. Sometimes they'd cruise back and forth several times before showing interest but now and then one would pick up the bait without hesitation.

This was not a never-fail method under all circumstances, but it did lead to the seizure of some very nice bass.

For the fly-rod addict a small popper bug fished from late afternoon until sundown will give him lots of action on most any of Oakland County's lakes right now. We like an all black or black and white best. They'll take everything from crappies to smallmouths.

Pontiac Press Photo

DIVER'S REWARD—10-year-old Bernard Weisberg beams as he holds an 18-pound carp he captured with his bare hands last week in Cass Lake. Bernard spied the 31-inch carp in shallow water, evidentally resting after feeding, dove in and wrestled the specimen to shore unassisted. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. A. Allen Weisberg, of Detroit and Keego Harbor.

State Hunters Had Big Year

Pheasant, Deer Seasons Attracted More Than Million Nimrods

LANSING (AP)—The State Conservation Department has reported it figured that Michigan pheasant and deer hunters enjoyed about 12,000 man-years in the outdoors last year.

From computations based on hunter report cards, the department said that some 445,000 persons went afield during the regular deer season and each hunted an average of 5.5 days. Another 100,000 were out for the special deer season and they each hunted something under one day on the average.

An estimated 520,000 hunted pheasants, and they were out about 3.5 days each.

In the last five Motor City Opens in Detroit, Dr. Cary Middlecoff has earned $9,020. He won the golf event twice and ties for it once.

State Laws in Control of Motorboat Operation

By MORT NEFF

Nary a day goes by but what this writer receives at least one letter lamenting the disturbing qualities of outboard motors. Invariably the writer will wind up with the old saw "There oughta be a law!" Few people seem to know that the State of Michigan has the situation pretty well in hand as far as making laws may help the matter. There are two relevant statutes from which we'll quote in part: "Any motorboat, launch or other watercraft the motive power of which is an internal combustion engine . . . on the inland waters of this state or the connecting waters of the Great Lakes, carelessly or heedlessly in willful or wanton disregard of the rights or safety of others . . . shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

NEFF

The other statute on the Michigan books is a little more explicit: "No such motorboat shall be operated on any of said waters in a reckless manner or at an excessive rate of speed so as to endanger the life or property of any person in or on said waters . . . and no person shall operate such motorboat in said waters at a rate of speed greater than will permit him to bring it to a stop within the assured clear distance ahead."

If you feel that you have a logical complaint against the operator of a speedboat here's what to do: Get in touch with local police, state police or your conservation officer giving time, place and name (if possible) of violator. You will probably have to sign a complaint against the party—and it's a good idea to have witnesses.

3,116 Acres Damaged as Result of Fires

LANSING (AP)—The Conservation Department reports that 14 acres of Michigan forest and grass land were damaged in 31 reported fires last week. This brings the year's toll to a total of 3,116 acres damaged in wildland fires so far this year.

Hoeft's Pitching, Boone's Hitting Beat Senators

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—Billy Hoeft is whipping his own worst enemy—a fellow by the name of Billy Hoeft.

Ever since he came into the American League in 1952, the southpaw from Oshkosh, Wisc., has given promise of becoming the Detroit Tigers' finest pitcher since the glory days of Hal Newhouser.

But Hoeft's carefree attitude minimized his development. But, now, in his 3rd season, that all may be behind him.

The 22-year-old lefthander was at his brilliant best yesterday, spinning a five-hitter as he blanked the Washington Senators, 2-0. Ray Boone knocked in both Tiger runs, with a force-out grounder and with his 15th home run of the season.

After the game, Hoeft said, no, he wasn't doing anything different on the mound. Yes, he was pitching with the same motion and throwing the same stuff.

"I was just getting them out, that's all," he commented.

However, his manager, Fred Hutchinson, had a much different view of Hoeft's pitching.

"He's starting to get serious about his job," Hutchinson said. "Those losses have been piling up and he's beginning to worry about them."

Does Hoeft have the potential of becoming a great pitcher?

"I think so," Hutchinson said. "He's been lazy and he's acted like a kid. But he's pitched well lately and . . . well he's got the stuff to do it. His curve is good and so is his fast ball."

Hoeft was razor sharp, walking only one batter and fanning five. He gave up only singles—and only one in the last 6 1/3 innings.

The victory was his second straight. Last week he defeated Philadelphia, then allowing only two hits over the final 6 2/3 innings.

Boone's home run was his 1st since July 5 (if you discount his All-Star homer). He drove one of loser Chuck Stobb's pitches on a line into the lower left field seats in the 6th inning.

He also knocked in a run in the 1st inning. Harvey Kuenn, who is hitting again, opened the 1st with a double. He took 3rd on Bill Tuttle's single to left and scored as Boone forced Tuttle at 2nd.

The win widened Detroit's lead over the 5th-place Senators to 1½ games and squared the four-game series at one apiece.

Bubba Church Fires PCL's 1st No-Hitter

LOS ANGELES (AP)—To Bubba Church, Los Angeles righthander, goes the distinction of pitching the first no-hit baseball game of the 1954 season in the Pacific Coast League.

Church, former "Whiz Kid" with the Phillies, had his fast ball literally "taking off," and his curve breaking sharply last night, as he hurled the Angels to a 3-0 victory over the Portland Beavers.

The junior national sailing championships will be held at the Macatawa Bay Yacht Club, Holland, Mich., beginning Aug. 30.

Big Field Jams Entry Lists for AAU Tank Meet

Heavy Turnout Forces Hours of Eliminations Each Morning

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A solid field of 213 women and 204 men jammed final entry lists today for combined National AAU Swimming and Diving championships Thursday through Sunday at Broad Ripple Pool.

The heavy turnout will make hours of elimination heats necessary each morning of the meet except Thursday. Only the 1,500-meter free-style events, for both sexes, will be held opening day and heats will be final on a time basis.

Ford Konno of Honolulu and Ohio State University and Carolyn Green of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., are solid favorites in the metric miles.

Konno is defending champion in the men's 1,500, which he has swum faster outdoors than any other American citizen, 18:25.6. He won the AAU event at 19:20.0 in the same pool last summer and holds the NCAA indoor record of 18:14.4.

Wayne R. Moore of New Haven, Conn., six seconds behind Konno in the 1953 AAU outdoor meet, will try again to catch the tireless Hawaiian. George Onekea of Hawaii, third last year, also is entered Thursday.

The field of 27 men includes John Marshall and William A. Yorzyk of New Haven, Bert McLachlan of Mascoutah, Ill., and David Radcliff of San Diego, Calif., all with times well under 20 minutes.

Miss Green holds the American Women's outdoor 1,500-meter record at 21.20.8. She won both the 880-yard and one-mile free-style events in the 1953 Women's AAU outdoor championships, which were not held at metric distances.

Best-Ball Test Held

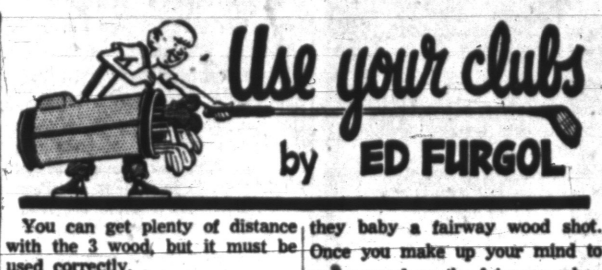
Mrs. Donald Weiss and Mrs. Victory Ryden carded a 76 yesterday to win top honors in the Women's District Golf Association best-ball golf tourney at Orchard Lake Country Club. Mrs. Don MacFarland and Margaret Watkins had a 68 for low net honors.



You can get plenty of distance with the 3 wood, but it must be used correctly.

You are taking a club an inch and a half shorter than the driver and playing it without the use of a tee.

There is less length to the swing, a smaller trajectory.

To compensate for the shortened arc, the right shoulder, knee and hip dip a little more.

I play the 3 wood off the left heel, the same as the driver.

Many get into difficulty because they baby a fairway wood shot. Once you make up your mind to use a wood on the fairway—when distance is required and the lie is favorable—go all the way with it.

Holding back only spells trouble.

Today's Identity

Area baseball fans will be sure to remember this great catcher, who was named most valuable with the Athletics in 1928 and again with the Tigers in '34. A great leader of men, he piloted the Tigers in their happy pennant-winning days of 1934-35. It's "Black Mike," Mickey Cochrane.

Young Passengers Need Close Watch

Parents motoring with young children were asked to be especially watchful to see that the youngsters do not open the car doors accidentally and fall out, Oakland County Sheriff Clare L. Hubbell said today.

Many of these accidents occur, Hubbell said, when a parent is alone with the children and can not watch them and the road at the same time.

Over the weekend three youngsters, all two years old, fell from moving autos. Two of these were four-door cars and points to the need for some device that will keep the children from being able to open the doors by themselves, Hubbell pointed out.

Probers Sought for McCarthy

But Senators Not Eager to Take On Sizzling Political Task

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders combed a list of about 20 senators today in the hunt for what they called a middle-of-the-road committee to investigate the conduct of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

High on the lists compiled by Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic chieftain, were reported to be the names of Senators Millikin (R-Colo), George (D-Ga), Russell (D-Ga), and Byrd (D-Va).

Knowland had called for the naming before the day is over of three Republicans and three Democrats to serve as a special group to sift 46 accusations—some of them duplications—offered as the basis for a move to censure McCarthy.

Meanwhile, the seven senators who sat as judges in the 36-day hearings into McCarthy's row with high Army officials arranged a closed meeting, to sound out prospects for agreeing on a verdict before Congress adjourns.

There were indications Knowland and Johnson were running into difficulties and delays in picking the new inquiry group as senator after senator whose name was mentioned ticked off objections to serving.

There was an obvious reluctance to undertake in Washington's summer heat a job most senators regarded as likely to be even hotter politically.

Knowland's GOP list, apparently compiled largely from suggestions made by Republican Policy Committee members, was said to include Senators Payne (Me), Case (SD), Carlson (Kan), Hickenlooper (Iowa), Barrett (Wyo), Crippa (Wyo), Bennett (Utah), Thye (Minn) and Martin (Pa).

Efforts were being made to prevail on Millikin, chairman of the Conference of All Republican Senators, to head the Republican trio. Millikin didn't voice a positive "no," but he told a newsman he had "a lot of other work to do in Washington and in Colorado."

Johnson was reported to have told George, Russell and Byrd he feels he must have one of the three of them among Democrats on the committee. All three said they didn't feel they could serve.

The population of Lower California has nearly tripled from 1940 to 1950.

RUNNER-UP — Martha Rocha Brazilian runner-up in the recent "Miss Universe" contest at Long Beach, Calif., shows off the hips that some people say cost her first place in the beauty contest and may ruin her movie career. ## Three Vehicles Crash, 13 Hurt

Ambulance, Car, Truck Collide at Telegraph and Schoolcraft Roads

DETROIT (INS) — One man today was in critical condition and another man and a boy were in serious condition in Detroit's Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital as a result of a truck-ambulance-passenger car collision yesterday in which 11 others suffered injuries.

Thomas Murtha, 46, of Detroit, is in critical condition with a fractured spine and internal injuries. His son, Thomas Jr., 15, is seriously hurt with a possible leg fracture. And Earl Reeds, 36, of Ann Arbor, is in serious condition with burns and possible leg fractures.

Police said Reeds was an injured passenger in an ambulance which hit a truck. Murtha drove the truck with his son as passenger.

Robert Lynn, driver of the ambulance, said Murtha did not yield the right of way to the emergency vehicle.

The colliding ambulance and truck hit a passenger car in which two women and nine children were riding to a swimming class. None were injured seriously.

The crash occurred at Telegraph and Schoolcraft.

Judy Garland Seeking Rights to 'Carousel'

By DOROTHY MANNERS

(While Louella Parsons is on vacation her column is being written by Dorothy Manners).

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — It's supposed to be hush hush, but Judy Garland and Sid Luft are hot after the screen rights to "Carousel" from Rodgers and Hammerstein.

If they connect, it will be a great coup. Not only is "Carousel" a smash Broadway musical, but the story is based on "Liliom" which made a star out of everyone who has played it.

With Jack Warner so high on "A Star Is Born" and in the frame of mind to go along with Judy and Sid on anything they do, this probably would be a Warner release of Jpdy and Sid's independent production.

From London Louella Parsons writes: "My first night back in London after two weeks in the country, I dined at the Wardrobe Club and ran into Shelley Winters. She is slimmer than I've ever seen her and looks very well.

"She tells me her British movie, 'Million Dollar Baby,' is finished and she's packed up ready to leave for home and Hollywood on Friday.

"In the same party were Joanne Dru and John Ireland with London actor John Gregson. Joanne is here for Errol Flynn's next, 'Black Prince.'

"Pierre Galante is in London visiting Olivia De Havilland before leaving for Greece to interview the king and queen for Match Magazine. Livvie and Pierre tell me that they will be married in Hollywood as soon as she finishes 'Not As a Stranger.'"

This should rattle the rafters of the Metropolitan Opera House: Rodgers and Hammerstein are talking to Helen Traubel about the role of the madam when they transfer John Steinbecks "Cannery Row" to Broadway.

Amendment Is Tabled Limiting High Judges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee has tabled a proposed constitutional amendment resolution fixing the Supreme Court membership permanently at nine justices and requiring all federal judges to retire at 75. The resolution was sponsored by Sen. Butler (R-Md) and passed the Senate several weeks ago.

Hal Boyle Says:

Ancient Indian Sun Dance Leaves Young Sioux Cold

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP)—The old Sioux, in the days when they ruled the great plains, had a festival that combine in theme several of the white man's holidays.

It was called the sun dance, and to the Indians it was Christmas, Easter, Thanksgiving and a family reunion all wrapped in one.

In those times the wandering Sioux bossed the land and chased the buffalo from Kansas to Canada, from the Mississippi River to the Rocky Mountains.

But once a year the roving tribesmen came together and were knit into a nation by the sun dance, a ceremonial that symbolized their unity and common faith in the Great Spirit.

The government, in an effort to destroy a tradition which it feared always held the danger of stirring up the fierce Sioux in fresh outbreaks, banned the sun dance in 1886. But it was revived more than 20 years ago, and last week Indians came hundreds of miles to the spraling Pine Ridge reservation here for a renewal of the symbolic centuries-old festival.

In earlier times no formal date for the ceremony was set. The Indians simply drifted together as if pulled by a magnet by nature's signals—the time when the buffalo were fat, when the choke-berries ripened, when new sage sprouts sprang foot-high, when moccasins made a crisp echo in the drug grass of summer.

This year Frank Fools Crow, sent out the call. Thousands of Indians came by horse and wagon, on foot or in beaten up automobiles. They pitched their modern tents and faded tepees around a great enclosure of willow poles hung with green pine boughs.

In the center of the enclosure stood a slender young cottonwood tree. The tree, selected in advance by a medicine man, had been carried to the site and erected by strong Braves who took care to see that none of its leaves touched the ground. To the Sioux the leaves of this sacred tree stood for human hearts, and must not be bruised.

Sheafs of sweet-smelling sage—standing for purity—were placed in the crotch. From them dangled a piece of buffalo robe and man-shaped figure cut from a piece of buffalo skin, symbolizing the Sioux dependence on the buffalo.

The sun dance itself is designed to demonstrate the four great Sioux virtues—bravery, generosity, fortitude and integrity.

This year three young Braves volunteered for the ordeal. Two were veterans who had pledged themselves to perform a sun dance in gratitude for their safe return from Korea.

To purify and prepare themselves, the three first took a sweat bath in an "Ini", or sweat house, made of willow bows covered with buffalo skins. Steam was provided by pouring water over hot rocks in a pit within the sweat house.

The dancers were then painted—red for the sun, blue for the sky, yellow for the rocks, green for the earth.

Without food or water the three men then danced around the cottonwood tree to the music of beating tom-toms and the eerie, high-pitched chants of singers. They danced in turn in the direction of the four winds, pausing only when the tom-tom beaters had to rest.

I watched the dance for part of each day, but to me the dance, monotonous in itself, was less interesting than the faces of the old Indians and their squaws on the sidelines.

They wore a look of mingled pride, mystic exaltation and sadness. To them this was no dance of celebration—it was the pageant of mankind's terrible struggle to survive, a victory of man's spirit over all the enemies he meets in his brief life under a blazing sun.

The look on the faces of the young Braves in the audience was different. Few seemed stirred by the symbolism of the dance. They were more interested in making eyes at the young Indian maidens. For them the sun dance was just another opportunity for courtship.

Frank Fools Crow, who wears long braids as his forefathers did, said sadly:

"The young Indians no loner care much for our old customs. This may be our last sun dance."

The young Braves and their maidens prefer to jitterbug. Slowly but inevitably the once mighty Sioux are taking the white man's roads, roads that will scatter them to the four winds.

Grains Scoring Modest Gains

CHICAGO (AP) — Most grains scored modest gains on the Board of Trade today. Buying was based in part on a private crop forecast which lowered estimated production of corn and soybeans from a month ago.

Trading was not particularly active but there was a noticeable lack of selling pressure in all pits. Oats alone had a tendency to lag. The technical position of soybeans seemed to be improved after the sharp declines of the two previous sessions.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ⅝ to 1 cent higher, September $2.07¼, corn unchanged to ⅜ higher, September $1.61, oats ⅛ to ¼ lower, September 72⅞, rye ½ to ¾ higher, September $1.13¾, soybeans ¼ to 1 cent higher, September $3.13 and lard 8 to 13 cents a hundred pounds higher, September $15.05.

Koreans Watch Poles, Czechs

ROK Police to Arrest Red Truce Inspectors Caught Spying

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea's national police chief said today Communist members of neutral nations truce inspection teams will be arrested if and when his investigators find they have been spying.

Police Chief Kim Chang Heung said activities of Czech and Polish truce inspectors have been under investigation for a long time.

Kim said he saw no reason for suppressing recent demonstrations demanding the withdrawal of Polish and Czech inspectors. He added, however, that his police will continue to provide protection and "will try to prevent any violence against them."

* * *

"Technically speaking, it is not the duty of the Republic of Korea to protect persons who have lost their legal right to remain in Korea," Kim declared.

There have been reports that Polish and Czech inspectors have been replaced by Russian secret agents, but this has never been proved.

The police chief's statement to newsmen was the latest turn in a mushrooming Korean campaign to halt truce inspection activities in South Korea.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference in Washington yesterday that the United States would be sympathetic toward a move to disband the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission.

Dulles expressed belief that the commission could be junked without starting the shooting war again.

He said the Communists have made genuine inspections impossible in North Korea and the Red actions might come before the United Nations this fall. He added that the Communists probably have built up their airpower beyond limits allowed under the 1953 cease-fire agreement.

The other two members of the four-nation commission—Sweden and Switzerland—have complained repeatedly that the Communists were hampering their work in North Korean ports of entry.

Under the armistice, the inspection teams are responsible for checking on any increase of war potential both in North and South Korea.

There were no reports today of demonstrations against the Poles and Czechs. There have been almost daily demonstrations since last week when South Korea's provost marshal called the Polish and Czech truce inspectors Red spies and demanded that they be ousted from the country.

Steep Downturn Strikes Stocks

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned down sharply today when a sudden wave of profit-taking produced a late tape for half an hour. A recovery movement began when the selling flurry ended.

Steels were off sharply. Aircrafts lost most of their earlier gain (as much as three points in some cases) and motors, copper mining and railroad securities were under heavy pressure.

Brokers said the wave of selling was to be expected in view of the market's sharp rise in recent weeks. Losses were mostly confined to issues which have participated strongest in the general upturn.

Among the decliners were U. S. Steel, Goodyear, International Harvester, Radio Corp., Homestake, Union Carbide, General Dynamics, Westinghouse, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, and Loew's.

Holding firm were Boeing Aircraft, National Distillers, General Motors, Allied Chemical and General Electric.

U. S. government bonds were firm while the corporate bond market was narrowly mixed.

Lightning Damages Illinois Liquor Plant

PEKIN, Ill. (AP)—Fire apparently started by lightning during a violent thunderstorm destroyed 42,000 barrels of whisky and several buildings of the American Distilling Co.'s 61-acre plant near Pekin early today.

Office manager Al Weston estimated the loss at between 3½ and 4 million dollars.

Towering flames visible for 12 to 15 miles raged for more than four hours before fire departments of eight communities brought them under control.

A wind shift saved the alcohol storage building, but other buildings, including the custom house where whisky is bottled for export, were ignited.

Only guards were on duty when the fire broke out and no one was injured. The plant, which employs 600, will not be shut down.

Gibraltar Stymies Spain, Britain Pact

MADRID, Spain (AP)—The authoritative newspaper Arriba said today Spain will not join any coalition of nations that includes Britain as long as Gibraltar remains a British colony. Spain claims the Rock at the western entrance to the Mediterranean Sea.

Arriba, the organ of the Falange party, published an editorial calling for return of the rock to the "true owner" and said concord between Britain and Spain "is not possible while the terrible breach of Gibraltar is opened." The Falange is the only legal party in Spain.

Gibraltar was captured by the British Aug. 8, 1704.

Business Briefs

Directors of Gerber Products Co., Fremont, has named three new vice presidents for the baby food manufacturing firm. They are Stephen S. Nisbet, director of public relations; Joseph H. Bagley, general sales manager, and Fred S. Wyatt, Oakland, Calif., produce manager.

Fruehauf Trailer Co. reported today in Detroit that its sales and net earnings were down for the first six months of this year compared with the same period of 1953. President Roy Fruehauf reported to stockholders that the company had sales totaling $72,990,013 through June 30, compared with $105,399,642 for the same period last year.

The United States defense programs, including atomic energy, received 18 million tons of steel direct from mills in 1951 through 1953, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute. Shipments in 1951 were 5.6 million tons; 1952, 6.3 million tons; and 1953, 6.1 million tons.

Insurance Broker, Son Travel in Old Hearse

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (UP) — An old hearse, converted into a home on wheels, has taken a Somerville insurance broker to almost every state in the nation.

Earle W. Edwards, 70, already has made two tours with his 17-year-old grandson, Richard Johnson of Braintree. A third trip which they are now planning will complete the list of 48 states.

Either Way—a Sneeze

MECHANIC FALLS, Me. (UP) —Of Mrs. Nellie Hayford's childhood memories, the one about the snuff is most vivid. Observing her 100th birthday, she recalled that one day as a girl she reached into a jar for a pinch of snuff to see what it was like. She got the pepper jar by mistake.

Easily Understandable

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UP) — The daughter of the prime minister of Thailand says that practically no one at Rhode Island School of Design, where she is a student, calls her by her right name — Pacharabul Pibulsonggram. Everyone calls her "Noy."

From 12 to 15 bushels of apples are required to produce a barrel of cider.

School Probes Plane Accidents

Almost 1,000 Crashes Each Year Caused by Bad Flying Weather

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UP) — The University of Illinois Institute of Aviation is trying to find out how to prevent the most common cause of fatal accidents involving private planes.

Most of the 1,000 persons killed annually in private aircraft die when their planes are trapped in bad weather and they try to make blind landings. The pilot either goes into a spin or makes a series of up and down swoops ending in a crash.

Under a $4,000 grant from the American Aircraft Owners and Pilots Foundation, the Institute is trying to set up methods for training pilots to turn safely though blindly, land, or go above clouds and fog.

Most such accidents result because the pilot never learned to fly on instruments or is rusty on these procedures.

The most promising lead so far is for a single instrument combining a turn indicator needle together with proper setting of controls for keeping the craft level while it slowly rises or descends.

The university hopes to prepare methods so any instructor can train non-instrument pilots in these blind maneuvers. The APOA plans to award a special "lifesaving rating" to pilots who complete such training.

Autumn Games Start August 28

U.S. Programs on Air at Later Hour Usually but Not Always

The following is the second of four stories on the televising of football.

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Broadcasting Co. has in its ranks some hard-headed businessmen and it is making a big experiment this fall.

NBC is bringing Canadian professioinal football to American TV viewers on Saturday afternoons.

Eyebrows were lifted. Why should American sports fans be interested in games played in another country and under another system of rules? Could Canadian footbal istand up to direct competition with big American games?

But many think the project is sound. For one thing it probably cost only a fraction of the millions that ABC and Dumont are spending on football this fall.

For another, a flock of big name American college stars are playing in Canada. And finally, the game is fast and open—ideal for television.

Actually the Canadian rules do not vary enough to puzzle casual observers, and their tendency is to make for a more open game. The chief spur to this is the fact Canadian football has only three downs, which means the offensive team must go for the long gain each time rather than trying to buck the line.

And Canada has signed up some American players whose names are well known: Tex Coulter of Army, Chuck Hunsinger of Florida, Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa, Gene "Choo Choo" Roberts of Chattanooga, Ray Poole of Ole Miss, J. D. Roberts and Larry Grigg of Oklahoma and Dick Tamburo of Michigan State.

Furthermore the atmosphere of the Canadian games almost exactly resembles the American collegiate atmosphere—bands, pretty cheer leaders, tidy stadiums. The teams are backed as civic enterprises, and draw high class crowds.

NBC has another advantage. Canadian football starts early—on Aug. 28. The first game to be televised will be Ottawa at Toronto. After that, NBC will select the best game available in the eastern division each Saturday. The programs start at 1:45 p.m., New York time.

The NCAA football program via ABC starts Sept. 18, but the game is Oklahoma at California, which kicks off after the Canadian game finishes. The next Saturday, Sept. 25, when ABC televises Michigan State at Iowa, the American game still starts two hours after the Canadian.

Oct. 2 is a World Series playing day. ABC is televising Illinois at Stanford, which starts after the baseball game usually ends. NBC will have stand-by crews in Canada ready to bring Canadian football to American fans early in the afternoon if the series is rained out.

On Oct. 9 when ABC televises Rice at Wisconsin comes the first real test. The Canadian game starts one hour earlier than the American. If it happens to be good, and if the American game happens to be dull, which will viewers prefer?

The world's oceans cover an estimated 71 per cent of the earth's surface.

LEGAL TIFF — City Council in Los Angeles, Calif., is checking the law books to see whether they can cancel the $10,000 contract for this statue designed for their new police building. Bernard Rosenthal was commissioned to do the statue two years ago. Councilman Harold Harby said the modernistic statue, symbolic of the typical American family under police protection, was "just junk."

Dr. John's FBI Getting Shakeup

One-Time Nazi General Sure to Be Top Man for Chancellor Adenauer

BONN, Germany (AP)—A general from Hitler's Wehrmacht, now engaged in anti-Soviet espionage for the United States, seems certain to win top command of West Germany's intelligence operations as a result of the John scandal.

Since Dr. Otto John, head of the Federal Security Bureau, vanished into Communist East Berlin July 20, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has turned increasingly for advice and help to former Lt. Gen. Reinhold Gustav Gehlen. The angry Chancellor is preparing a drastic shakeup of John's German "FBI" and may replace it with an entirely new office.

Gen. Gehlen is described by competent sources here as the Chancellor's choice to direct government intelligence activities as soon as West Germany receives its sovereignty and starts rearming for Western defense.

Gehlen was chief of military intelligence on the Russian front from 1942 to 1945. Captured by the Americans, after a few months he was put in charge of a small staff of captured German intelligence officers to evaluate information that the fallen Nazi regime had collected on Russia.

When the cold war sharpened after his release, Gehlen was handed a more important task—to collect new intelligence on the Soviet Union. He is now reputed to have a staff of 4,000. He maintains a tightly guarded headquarters at Pullach near Munich in Bavaria. German newspapers say the Gehlen organization receives about six million dollars a year from the United States. American officials call Gehlen "priceless."

Senate Blocks CD Transfer

Refuses to OK Funds to Move Headquarters to Battle Creek

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has refused to vote the necessary appropriations to move the Federal Civil Defense Administration headquarters from Washington to Battle Creek.

The Senate last night defeated on a roll-call vote of 44-29 an amendment by Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) to add $350,000 to a supplemental appropriations bill to pay for the move. The vote followed a heated and sometimes humorous debate.

Meanwhile, the House kept the bill alive by defeating an amendment designed to block the transfer while considering its version of the bill.

It now will be up to a Senate-House conference committee to decide on whether to include the appropriation in a compromise version of the measure.

In testimony before the Senate Appropriations Committee, Civil Defense Chief Val Peterson said the move to Battle Creek would be "consistent with the need for dispersal" and would "get our agency and our people out of the critical target area of Washington." His plans are for the agency to occupy quarters in the government-owned Percy Jones General Hospital.

Most of the debate last night was between four Republicans—Ferguson and Potter of Michigan, who favor the change, and Butler and Beall of Maryland, who want the training center to remain in their state.

Said Butler: "It just sounds silly to me to pick it up from the lovely state of Maryland and move it to Michigan."

Mt. Waialeale on the island of Kauai, Territory of Hawaii, is said to be the wettest spot in the world with an annual average rainfall of 476 inches.

TV Writers Cancel Strike Against Nets

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A strike against three networks by the Television Writers of America, an independent union, has been called off.

Ben Starr, union president, said yesterday the strike lacked the support of other writers.

The union called the walkout July 21 against the Columbia Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co. and the American Broadcasting Co. Union demands including "equitable minimums, reuse fees and the union shop."

For a half-hour commercial script the union had asked $715, whereas the best offer from the studios had been $450 and, when negotiations were suspended, this offer had been reduced to $425. There are no fixed scales at present.

Foreign Aid Bill Faces Slashes

Senate Leaders Appeal to Committee to Save Ike's Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders faced a tough job today trying to head off additional multimillion-dollar cuts in the administration's foreign aid program.

They appealed to the Senate Appropriations Committee to save all possible of President Eisenhower's request for 3½ billions of new funds for the global anti-Communist effort in the year which started July 1.

Chairman Bridges (R-NH) called the purse-string group into closed session to vote on actual amounts to recommend in the final money bill of the session.

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles received a setback yesterday when the Senate slashed another half billion from the separate foreign aid authorization bill. It set a ceiling 800 millions less than the President asked, along with restrictions he did not ask.

And it created the unusual situation of authorizing less than the House already has voted to spend.

Authorization measures normally are passed to establish maximums before Congress appropiates the actual money. But this time the House went ahead and voted to appropriate $2,895,944,000 in new funds after fixing a limit of $3,368,000,000. This latter authorization bill is the one trimmed yesterday by the Senate to $2,610,000,000, or about 286 millions less than the House appropriation.

The conflict thus puts the Senate and House at odds over two sets of figures at once, with little time remaining for agreement on how much to spend.

The House-passed money bill, on which the Senate Appropriations Committee continued work today, also allows some $2,313,000,000 in funds previously voted but not yet obligated for a total aid program of about $5,200,000,000.

Sen. Long (D-La) led the drive to chop an extra half-billion dollars from the authorization on a 45-41 Senate vote that found 26 Democrats and 19 Republicans opposing the administration. Earlier, Long was beaten 48-38 in an effort to cut more than a billion dollars from the measure.

Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) of the Foreign Relations Committee opposed both cuts in vain. He was aided by two veteran Democrats, George of Georgia and Hayden of Arizona.

The reduced bill finally passed on a 67-19 vote with 15 Republicans and 4 Democrats opposed.

Finds Gas on Farm After Losing Job

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP)—Eight months ago August Jurgens, 49, was laid off his job. Bad? Jurgens says certainly not, for now he owns a gas well as a result.

When he couldn't find work in town Jurgens decided to try farming at which he once worked. Wanting only some land so he could "have a place to work," he swapped two houses for the land.

It wasn't long before an oil company asked if it could drill on his land. The company brought in the gas well.

Report Israel Fearful of Anglo-Egyptian Pact

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS)—Israel was reported authoritatively today to be seriously concerned over the preliminary Anglo-Egyptian agreement on evacuation of the Suez Canal Zone.

It is understood that Israel's anxiety over the pact stems primarily from Israeli fear that Egypt will take advantage of the vastly increased military and political powers likely to develop from the accord.

Police Guard Welch After Death Threat

BOSTON (AP)—State and local police today continued guarding the Walpole, Mass., home and Cape Cod summer retreat of Joseph N. Welch, Army counsel in the recent Army-McCarthy hearings, after word from Washington that an attempt might be made to kill him.

The armed guard was set up last night after Washington police informed Boston authorities that the man was reported by his wife to have left his home in Montgomery County, Maryland, with a German Luger pistol.

Police quoted the woman as saying her husband has had a grudge against Welch since 1941. Washington police did not say from what incident, if any, the grudge stemmed.
