Mystery Envelops Fate of Explorer II

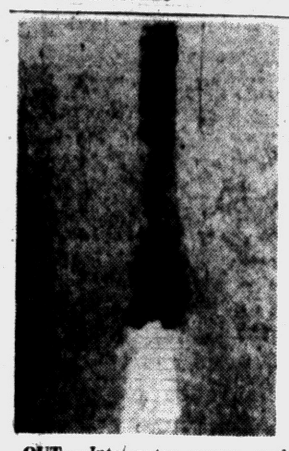
Korean Reds Shoot Down U.S. Jet



OUT — Into outer space, and mysterious silence, zooms the rocket.

GOING—The rocket rises higher in an apparently successful launching.

Scientists Hunt Possible Flaw in Army Rocket

2nd Satellite Missing; Ike Disappointed Over Apparent Failure

WASHINGTON (INS) — Mystery enveloped the fate of America's Explorer II satellite today and government spokesmen were silent as scientists sought to determine whether the Jupiter-C rocket launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., yesterday malfunctioned in flight.

Wernher von Braun, civilian chief of the Army satellite rocket project, returned from Cape Canaveral to his Huntsville, Ala., headquarters while other experts indicated it may be several days before a definite conclusion can be reached.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower was described as "disappointed" over the apparent failure of Explorer II to orbit after what looked like a spectacularly successful launching at 1:28 p.m. (EST) yesterday.

Scientists were working as rapidly as possible to "read" the radio data received from the launching to determine if there was a malfunction in the satellite vehicle.

There was indication that something went wrong with the vital final stage of the rocket although officials at the test center said all four rockets "fired."

Meanwhile, the Army had equipment ready to make another attempt, probably in a week or two. And the Navy went ahead with preparations for its third attempt to place a satellite into orbit with its Vanguard.

There was a slim chance that the satellite was circling the earth with its two radios dead. Tracking stations in the Bahamas picked up signals minutes after the launching vehicle was fired, but the satellite's radios and the tape recorder were silent after that.

DELAYED LAUNCHING

Lending some credence to this was the fact that the launching was delayed by 15 minutes because of trouble with the radios and recorder.

Another possibility was that the satellite crashed into the Atlantic somewhere between the Florida launching site and South Africa.

The third possible fate of the satellite was that it smashed through the earth's gravitational

Skywatch for Moon Scheduled

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Moonwatch teams geared themselves today for a sky search for the Army's newly launched and mysteriously missing satellite Explorer II.

Experts said that failure of the final stage to fire on cue would have meant that the satellite, even though it was at orbital altitude of 200 or more miles, would achieve a velocity of only about three miles a second as against the five miles a second needed to maintain an orbit — 10,800 miles an hour instead of 18,000.

This in turn could mean that the satellite would tumble into the South Atlantic, or into Africa or the Indian Ocean beyond.

The cylinder would have traveled less than halfway around the world before tumbling down through the atmosphere.

In Cambridge, Mass., the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said it was alerting Moonwatch teams to be on the lookout for Explorer II even though it had not been determined whether it was in orbit.

If in an orbit, the satellite would not be visible in the United States until next week, the observatory said.

Dressmakers' Strike Effective

Over 105,000 Stay Out Second Day; Settlement Expected Soon

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES

NEW YORK — The strike of more than 105,000 garment workers entered its second day today, with a union official saying the walkout is 100 per cent effective.

Signaling their first major strike in 25 years, members of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union left their jobs yesterday in nine Eastern states.

Sewing machines stopped whirring and scissors stopped snipping at exactly 10 a.m. yesterday in more than 2,000 shops which employ workers belonging to the powerful International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

In New York City, thousands of dressmakers, 80 per cent of whom are women, poured into the streets as soon as the strike began. They had received handbills announcing the walkout on arriving at work and sound trucks prowled the cluttered streets advising them to walk out.

The mood of the workers was gay; the mood of their leaders was defiant. There was a widespread assumption that the strike, coming as it does on the eve

Utility Workers on Strike Here

Consumers Power Co. Pontiac Employes Join Widespread Walkout

Several hundred Consumers Power Co. workers in Pontiac were on strike today as part of a walkout of 5,400 company maintenance, construction workers and linemen in 64 Michigan counties.

Members of Local 105 of the Utility Workers of America set up picket lines at midnight at the Pontiac service building on Wessen street and at the substation on Rapid street.

Supervisory personnel will be employed where necessary to avoid any service interruption for gas or electric users in the Pontiac area, according to Edward L. Karkau, district manager.

The union ordered its members out on strike last night after contract talks with the company failed.

Company service workers throughout Oakland County this morning had joined the strike.

A company spokesman said negotiations broke down over a union demand for the right to veto management decisions on changes in operation methods. The union said it broke off talks because the company wanted to "control job classifications already covered by the contract."

When talks were scheduled to resume was not indicated by either side.

The union also is seeking a 25-cent hourly pay hike in the new contract. The old one was to have expired at midnight Friday. It was extended until midnight Wednesday.

Olympic Hopes Fade

LANSING (INS) — Hopes of building a $15 million stadium at the Michigan State Fair Grounds to help attract the 1964 Olympic Games to Detroit have faded. The Metropolitan Affairs Committee of the State Senate has sent the bill to the finance committee, where it is expected to die.

Light Snow Adds Beauty to Bare Trees

Pontiac Press Photo

Forecast Cloudy Tonight, Predicted Low 26-30

Cloudy tonight and a little colder is the forecast for Pontiac by the U.S. Weather Bureau. Tonight's low will be around 26-30.

The high tomorrow will be near 35.

According to the Oakland County Road Commission roads which were snow covered and slippery this morning are clear and in good condition.

Highways in the Upper Peninsula are reported slippery and covered with snow.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 32 degrees. The thermometer registered 38 at 2 p.m.

North Koreans Release 26 From Hijacked Airliner

PANMUNJON, Korea (AP)—The North Koreans finally released today 26 passangers and crewmen from a South Korean airliner hijacked by the Communists in flight Feb. 16.

The two American pilots, a West German couple and 22 South Koreans were handed over at the Panmunjom truce headquarters after several hours delay caused by South Korean refusal to sign the release receipts provided by the Communists.

A representative for the South Korean Red Cross finally signed after a telephone call to Seoul. Representatives of the U.S. Embassy and the West German legation signed without any objection.

Eight Koreans from the airliner remained in the Communist North. The U.N. Command said they apparently were the seven Red agents the South Koreans charged took over the plane and the child of one of them.

The 22 Koreans—21 passengers and a crewman—were the first released. They walked through a cordon of military policemen from the Communist bus.

The 26 were taken by bus to the U. N. base camp in the neutral zone for a medical checkup. The two American pilots of the airliner, Willis P. Hobbs of Vallejo, Calif., and Air Force Lt. Col. Howard W. McClellan of Buchanan, Mich., appeared in perfect health

AF Pilot Jumps, Lands Beyond Truce Border

Plane on Practice Run Hit as Allies Dicker for Release of 26

OSAN AIR BASE, Korea (INS) — Communist ground-guns today shot down an American Air Force F86 Sabrejet fighter near the demilitarized zone of Korea.

The Air Force said the pilot, who was immediately identified, parachuted into Red territory.

The incident occurred as Allied and Communist delegates were talking at Panmunjom in the truce zone prior to the release today of 26 persons, including two Americans, who had been spirited into North Korea in the hijacking of a ROK airliner Feb. 16.

The sabrejet that was downed was flying in the lead with another F86 when the Communist guns opened fire.

First Lt. Ronald E. Martin of Rock Hill, Mo., pilot of the second sabrejet, said he saw the lead plane get hit and crash during a U.S. Air Force practice ground support mission.

The Air Force announcement, quoting Martin, said:

"According to the pilot of the second aircraft, the ground fire began while the two planes were in a simulated low level pass.

"He saw the lead aircraft get hit and crash and then momentarily saw a parachute with the pilot floating toward the ground just over the Communist side of the line."

The statement said the incident is being investigated by the U.S. Air Force in Korea and the United Nations Command.

Martin returned safely to the Osan Air Base south of Seoul. He was not injured.

The incident occurred, the Air Force said, while the two sabrejets were flying a "low level simulated ground support training mission for a friendly force about 65 miles northeast of Seoul."

The shooting was reminiscent of a similar incident about four years

Long-Distance Calls Explained

Phone Customers to Get Booklet on How to Dial Direct Across Nation

A booklet explaining Michigan Bell Telephone's new direct long-distance dialing system will be mailed to all telephone subscribers in the Pontiac district in the next few days.

According to Ray Storm, district manager, the new system will go into effect April 20 and will enable local residents to directly dial phones across the country.

The booklets being mailed give code numbers for cities throughout Michigan and 23 states, plus the District of Columbia and Ontario, Canada.

To reach a California number, for example, a local person dials 112, then the code number for the city, say 414, then the actual phone number he wishes to reach.

The new system in no way affects local calls, which remain the same as before.

The direct dialing is made possible by new equipment installed here during the past year. An entire new floor was added to Michigan Bell's local building last summer to accommodate the equipment.

Sullenberger's Attorney to Ask Hospital Records

Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams will be asked Monday to order heretofore secret Pontiac General Hospital medical records handed over to legal counsel for Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger.

The records are those upon which the hospital bases its charges that the ousted staff surgeon had violated professional medical standards in 25 of his cases at the public hospital, in six of which the patient died.

Up to now, the records have been guarded as evidence to use against Dr. Sullenberger during trial of his $250,000 damage suit against the hospital next month.

Dr. Sullenberger's attorney, Harry N. Dell, said he should be allowed to study the records in order to prepare the suit for trial.

City Attorney William A. Ewart, who represents the hospital, said today that he did not anticipate a legal fight to block the court order.

"Dr. Sullenberger and his attorney have a legal right to examine records," he said. The question to be decided Monday, he stated, is the extent to which the hospital files are to be opened.

In new legal moves yesterday, Dell also served notice he would

Car Liability Rates to Rise $4-$11 Here

Passenger car liability insurance rates will go up in the Pontiac area from $4 to $11, Joseph A. Navarre, state insurance commissioner, announced today.

The new rates will affect immediately all Michigan companies affiliated with the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters, he said, with actual increases varying in different parts of the state from $1 to $18.

Other insurance companies are expected to follow suit, he said. The companies affected today write about 19 per cent of the automobile liability insurance in the state.

The rate boost, Navarre stated, reflects the continued increase in the cost of medical and hospital care for the injured and the higher cost of repairing today's more elaborate cars.

The heaviest increase, he added, involves cars operated by men under 25, while farm cars will get a 30 per cent discount from the regular rate, compared with a 20 per cent discount under the old schedule.

Remember: Another Job Is Hard to Find

It's Wise to Apple-Polish the Boss

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The boss is the boss again.

The downturn in jobs has made this forgotten figurehead of business a person of importance once more.

It always happens that way.

When there are more jobs than people, nobody pays much attention to the boss. He tiptoes around the place talking to himself—for fear that if he says something out loud he'll hurt somebody's feelings, and the guy'll quit and go to work for a competitor.

But when there are more people than jobs—such as right now—the boss again becomes industry's "father image." The problem of the wise worker then becomes one of how to please his paycheck pappy.

So it is time to revive again a forgotten American art—the art of apple polishing.

Your older hired hands, who've survived bad times before, know how to do this instinctively, just as an old boxer never quite forgets his footwork or how to protect himself in the clinches. It's the young employes, who've never known a recession, who are likely through pure ignorance to get gored by a rampant boss now.

So here are a few tips on how to butter up a boss:

1. First, find out who the boss is. If there is a fellow in your office who used to sneak out to play golf at 2 p.m. but now goes around picking up paper clips off the floor to cut down expenses, look no farther.

2. Keep your feet off your desk while he is in view. If he speaks to you, rise to your feet and address him as "sir," a polite term used in ancient times to one's superiors. It is not necessary, however, to salute him—not unless times get really bad.

3. Maintain a serious mien at all times except if the boss tells a joke. In this case laugh first and longest—but don't overdo it.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

In summer, what can you learn by noting the height of the early morning clouds?

The height of summer cumulus clouds gives you an important weather clue. In the coming summer months you might want to take advantage of this weather omen in making the day's plans.

If the morning's early clouds are low, that means there is a considerable amount of moisture in the air, because the day's updrafts or thermals are not rising very high before they turn into visible moisture droplets.

No One Came to Party but Vet May Try Again

DETROIT (AP) — Eugene Dougherty whose birthday party last Sunday gained nationwide attention when 40 invited guests failed to show up, said today he's thinking of trying again next August on his first wedding anniversary.

The 23-year-old Korean war veteran who works as a $20 a week window washer said he has received eight letters sympathizing over the last party. And he said the Chicago Post Office called him saying it was holding some letters from Illinois residents.

Dougherty, reduced to tears last Sunday night when he finally realized none of his guests was going to appear, said "And you can bet I'm not going to ask any of those. I'm thinking of inviting people who have written me since reading about my last party. It's nice to know somebody cares."

He said his present financial condition prevents him from trying before next summer. In addition to his window washing business, Dougherty draws a disability pension from the government.

He said last Sunday's party cost him and his wife, Grace, 19, about $50. In addition he said publicity over the failure of invited guests to show up for the party has cost him four of his 16 window washing customers.

On the brighter side, Dougherty said a service company refunded the $5 he paid to rent an extra large table for last Sunday's party.

He said he has checked about all of the 40 guests who didn't show up and has received all kinds of excuses.

"Most of them seem to take it as a joke—their not showing up—because it was in the paper."

He added:

"It seems like some could apologize, but none did."

U. S. Jet Shot Down by Korean Reds

ago when an Air Force observation plane with two occupants was shot down by Red ground fire while flying near the demilitarized zone.

At that time a U.S. Army captain, who was flying as observer, was killed in the plane's crash, and the pilot was injured. The pilot was returned by the Communists in a frontline exchange about two weeks after the crash.

Other shooting incidents have occurred periodically around sensitive North Korea.

In August 1956 Chinese Reds shot down a U.S. Navy patrol plane, killing 16 persons aboard.

Several times Communist MIGs from North Korea and Manchurian bases have jumped patrolling American planes.

United Nations Command officials at Panmunjom said they knew little of the incident. One official said they had been informed and had notified the Communist side.

It was expected that the U.N. Command would call a meeting of the military armistice commission soon to discuss the incident and to arrange for return of the pilot.

Doctor's Attorney to Demand Records

move to enlarge Dr. Sullenberger's original bill of complaint for further injunctive relief, this time to halt alleged "influence by some of the defendants" to prejudice Dr. Sullenberger's reputation.

The notice alleged that because of the "influence" brought to bear after Dr. Sullenberger filed his suit against the hospital last December, the surgeon had been denied the right to practice at another hospital.

DOCTOR BARRED

It specified that Dr. Sullenberger was barred from practicing at the Leelanau County Hospital in Northport on Grand Traverse Bay Jan. 1 when he attempted to take over the practice of a vacationing colleague.

The Blue Cross Organization, the notice claimed, was "persuaded" to tell the Northport hospital it would stop insurance payments if Dr. Sullenberger were admitted there.

The notice further stated that a Chicago insurance company had refused to renew Dr. Sullenberger's professional liability policy last month, because of influence by some of the defendants.

The defendants include the city, the hospital's trustees, its director, medical staff and two of its committees.

The notice did not accuse anyone by name.

Dr. Sullenberger, 42, was suspended Nov. 13. He brought his suit for reinstatement and damages on grounds that the suspension had been brought about by a "ruling clique" of doctors, motivated by "professional jealousy."

Hospital Director Carl I. Flath charged in turn that Dr. Sullenberger had violated professional standards in 25 cases.

Meantime, a group of the doctor's supporters who turned petitions bearing 2,100 signatures of persons calling for his reinstatement over to the governor this week, will turn its attention to the upcoming Pontiac City Commission election.

"We hope to make the suspension an election issue on which each commission candidate will be forced to take a stand," said a leader of the group, Mrs. Kenneth W. Pawley, of Drayton Plains.

Records 17.59 Inches in 27 Hours

Rains Swamp Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Record breaking rains deluged Hawaii's principal island of Oahu last night and today and brought floods to some areas.

With no relief in sight, the Weather Bureau recorded 17.59 inches of rain at Honolulu Airport in 27 hours — breaking a 41-year record.

The storm flooded homes, forced postponement of at least 19 Military Air Transport Service flights, and put a big radio station off the air for 18 hours.

Two F8U Crusader jets crashed after taking off from the carrier Hancock, operating in Hawaiian waters. One pilot was killed; one rescued. Names were withheld. Seven other Hancock pilots landed at Navy or Marine air stations on Oahu.

Commercial flights operated on schedule to the mainland United States.

The glamorous Waikiki resort area was a sopping, dismal place. In the Reef Hotel's basement garage 100 cars were flooded to the headlights.

The Red Cross opened three storm shelters — one in Honolulu and two in suburban areas in southern Oahu.

Houses in the modern Aina Haina suburb had as much as 18 inches of water on their main floors. Water was waist-high in some Honolulu streets.

Rain, snow and cloudy skies dominated the nation's weather today. Only a few areas appeared out of the path of the extensive precipitation belt.

Light snow fell in most of the Great Lakes region during the night. To the south, rain hit areas to the Gulf Coast, and westward through Texas and New Mexico. Strong winds lashed parts of east Texas and Louisiana. A small tornado struck the Lufkin, Tex., area. No injuries were reported.

TAPE RECORDER ABOARD — This is a sketch of a magnetic tape recorder installed in Explorer II. It is designed to broadcast information to ground tracking stations, and is a new device not included in Explorer I.

pull and sped unimpeded into outer space. Satellite experts said this was highly unlikely, however, and scotched reports that the Army actually was attempting to hit the moon with the object.

Explorer I has an average speed of 18,500 miles an hour—only 500 m.p.h. faster than needed to get into orbit.

Explorer II was 10 per cent heavier and if it reduced the maximum speed of the rocket by this margin, it would not attain the speed necessary to get into orbit.

Some of the passengers gave this account:

At least five Communist agents actively participated in taking over the plane as it was flying between Taejun and Suwon south of Seoul.

One of the group, wearing a South Korean army sergeant's uniform, stood in front of the passengers with a carbine. Another brandished a shotgun.

Major Chung Moo Yung and another South Korean officer were knocked out with crowbars. The Communists then fired about six bullets from a pistol at the lock of the pilot's cabin door.

They forced their way inside and halted Hobbs' efforts to make radio contact with the ground.

The plane was landed a few minutes later at Sunan airport north of Pyongyang, North Korean capital.

A South Korean National Assembly member, Yoo Bong Soon, said the Communist agents were met by soldiers and were separated from the rest of the passengers. The rest were taken to an apartment building in Pyongyang.

Yoo said they were treated fairly well, were taken on guided tours and were given Communist propaganda lectures.

The Day in Birmingham

Believes Voting Precincts May Need Rearranging

BIRMINGHAM — Some re-arranging may have to be done in Birmingham's voting precincts, City Clerk Irene Hanley said today. "Three are in danger of exceeding the legal limit of 1,400 persons," she said.

A study of the precincts involved, particularly those in the Chesterfield Fire Station and Holy Name School areas, is being made, Miss Hanley said.

However, when cancellations are subtracted, registration in both may fall within the legal limit, she added.

The most pressing problem at the moment is to find adequate housing for voters in the precincts in the southwestern section of the city, Miss Hanley said.

The Birmingham YMCA Building and Pierce School currently are used in these districts. Because of the activities at these places, there is considerable inconvenience, both to the regular occupants and to the voters, she said.

She also reminded residents of Birmingham that Monday is the deadline for registration. It also is the final date when residents may notify the clerk of any changes in their addresses.

The office will be open Monday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The monthly fire report for February showed a loss of $11,150.

According to Fire Chief Park H. Smith, for the second time this year a monthly total exceeded damages for the entire previous year.

Birmingham also recorded its first fire fatality in several years when Mrs. Loretta Sidney, 39, died in a fire which gutted her Eton road home.

The first 40 persons who make reservations will be guests of the Birmingham Y's Men's Club at card party and social hour in the YMCA March 15. Family, community and civic members of the "Y" are invited to the 8 p.m. party.

Mrs. Albert Clouthier

Service for Mrs. Albert J. (Eulalia) Clouthier, 80, mother of Hugo Clouthier, a Birmingham electrical contractor, will be held at 9 a.m. Friday at the St. Columbian Catholic Church, Birmingham.

The rosary will be recited at 8:45 p.m. tomorrow at the Manley Bailey Funeral Home. Burial will be in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Detroit.

Mrs. Clouthier, a resident of 23935 Deanhurst, St. Clair Shores, died yesterday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Mt. Clemens.

Surviving besides her son are a daughter, Lucille at home; and two brothers, Cyril Donnelly of Toledo and Gerald of California.

It's Wise to Polish the Boss's Apple

It isn't wise to let the boss know how scared you really are.

4. Never interrupt his old joke to tell a new one of your own. The boss no longer wants you to be amusing on company time. The only reason he is telling you a joke is to keep his own spirits up.

5. When going to the water cooler, stride up quickly and self-confidently—as if you had really earned the right to a drink—gulp a fast one, and return to your desk. Do not linger around the water cooler to ambush the giggling stenographers. Those days are over—for the duration.

6. Around noon go into the boss's office, ask him if you can borrow some salt and pepper, then explain, "A little personal thrift doesn't hurt anyone, chief. I'm bringing my lunch to the office now."

7. Be more helpful in small ways. If you know your boss and his wife are going out for the evening, ask him if you and your wife can't baby-sit for them—for fun.

This, of course, is downright toadyism, but it will please your wife to visit the boss's home—and see that his wife is an even lousier housekeeper than she is.

8. Finally, if you are really worried about losing your job, tell your boss, "I want you to be the first to congratulate me, chief. My uncle just died and left me $100,000." For some reason every boss hates to fire an employe who has more money than he does.

U. S. Judge Medina Quits Active Duty

WASHINGTON (INS) — U.S. Circuit Judge Harold R. Medina's retirement from active service effective five days ago was announced today by the White House.

President Eisenhower, in acknowledging the prominent jurist's switch to inactive status, wished him "perfect health and many happy years of active retirement."

Medina, who won fame while presiding over the trial of 11 first-string Communist leaders at New York in 1949, has served on the Second Circuit Court of Appeals since 1951.

Dressmaker Strike Enters Second Day of the pre-Easter dressmaking season, would not last long.

Also idled by the strike are some 25,000 workers in such related fields as belt-making, embroidery and garment trucking.

CONFINED TO EAST

The dispute over wages and contract enforcement affects about 72 per cent of the nation's dress production — in New York state, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Delaware and Maryland.

An estimated 45,000 dressmakers in such cities as St. Louis, Los Angeles, Chicago and San Francisco were not affected.

The union struck for a 15 per cent wage raise and a 35-hour work week for piecework dressmakers — who make up 80 per cent of the strikers.

The employers offered 5 per cent and overtime after 37½ hours. Present wages average $2.10 an hour here, but are 50 to 75 cents an hour lower in some other areas.

Civil Rights Bill for State Dies

Speaker Van Peursem Disappointed by Action of Group He Appointed

LANSING (AP) — A legislative committee last night slapped down House Speaker George M. Van Peursem (R-Zeeland) and his civil rights bill.

Ignoring a last-minute plea by the Republican leader in the lower chamber, the GOP-controlled State Affairs Committee let the measure die in default in a situation marked by confusion and behind-the-scenes bickering.

It was one of a host of bills which fell by the wayside under a deadline for committees to take action on all but tax and appropriation measures.

Van Peursem, author of the bill to enlarge the powers of the Fair Employment Practices Commission, said he was "really disappointed" by the decision of the committee, which is made up of six Republicans and three Democrats.

But he added:

"That is the way the committee system operates. I appointed these men to the State Affairs Committee and they have a right to make their own decision. I won't attempt to upset it."

Without actually saying so, Van Peursem thus indicated he would have no part of announced moves to force the committee to release the measure and another backed by Gov. Williams to the House floor for a vote.

Gave His All to Satisfy Income Tax Office

ST. HELIER, Isle of Jersey (INS) — A man walked into the local tax office and put his income tax form, a loaf of bread and an overcoat on the counter.

"There's the bread out of my mouth and the coat off my back," he said. "Now you've got the lot."

At All Levels of Schooling

Hannah Comes Out for Free Education

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — The nation should be moving toward the ideal of free education for students at all levels of education, John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University, said today.

There is some magic, Hannah said, in the numeral 12.

"This magic operates to persuade some people that 12 years of schooling should be provided at public expense because that much benefits society generally, whereas, after 12 years a student would pay all or a major part of his expense because he, himself, now becomes the principal beneficiary of his experience."

Hannah said the absurdity of this reasoning is exposed by listing the tremendous changes that have been taken place in our society.

"But many," he said, "cling to the outmoded notion that 12 years of education is all to which a youngster is entitled at public expense.

"Ideally, we should be moving as a nation steadily in the direction of abolishing tuition charges for students at public institutions at whatever level of study, and finding acceptable means for helping privately-supported colleges and universities meet their mounting financial obligations," Hannah said.

"I repeat," he declared, "we should be moving in that direction. Granted, we should be content to take one step at a time. But to compromise at any point short of the ultimate objective would be unfaithful to one of America's most cherished ideals."

Williams' Proposal Their Target

GOP Senators Wondering How to Cut State Budget

LANSING (AP) — Majority Senate Republicans, still of a mind to whack Gov. Williams' proposed 1958-59 state budget, can't decide how to go about it.

So said Sen. Fred D. Beadle of St. Clair, caucus chairman, after another closed GOP meeting yesterday on the governor's 361-million-dollar spending plan.

Beadle said GOP senators still are of a mind to whack off 30 to 40 million dollars. House GOP leaders see a 20-million-dollar tax increase as the probable answer.

"We couldn't decide where and how much to cut," Beadle told newsmen.

Not susceptible to pruning, he said, were the governor's recommendations on payments against state indebtedness, welfare grants, tuberculosis subsidies, veterans homestead tax exemption obligations, crippled and afflicted child payments and for certain general government purposes, such as financial support of the judiciary and pension funds.

The Senate Appropriations Committee reportedly was ready to proceed by proposing heavy cuts in higher education allotments as a test application of present intentions.

The University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State are down in the governor's budget for a total of about 75 million dollars, up around 10 million dollars.

Beadle was asked if reductions appeared to be in order for the 30,000 state payroll.

"Sure," he replied. "I don't see how we can help but reduce the number of state employes if we make any substantial cuts."

Ending of "Fair Trade" Might Help Economy

Thirty-two states still have "fair trade" laws permitting a manufacturer to force all his retail outlets to observe a minimum price agreement signed by any one dealer in that state.

However, in 11 of these states including Michigan, such laws have been made unenforceable by court decisions that retailers not parties to the price agreements cannot be bound by them. Another court decision upheld the right of mail order houses to sell appliances at cut rate prices in states where "fair trade" was enforced.

Bowing to reality General Electric recently announced that it had given up its fight to control prices on small appliances. This action, followed by the Sunbeam and Ronson corporations, touched off price reductions of up to 40 per cent all over the country. General Electric admitted that adverse court decisions had made enforcement of "fair trade" laws impossible in some areas where dealers were located near states without such laws.

Over the years the courts have recognized that these laws have been unfair to honest and efficient merchants. Shoppers, naturally, would buy wherever prices were lowest.

Buyers resistance has been evident in several fields and it may be that abandonment of price fixing in small appliances will spread to other manufactured goods and touch off the most effective curb to a recession-consumer buying.

Canal Across Malaya Would Help Shipping

The government of Thailand has revived discussion of a long envisioned canal across the narrow isthmus between that country and Malaya.

First suggested by FERDINAND DE LESSEPS, builder of the Suez Canal, his dream included the Panama and a third across the Malayan peninsula linking the Gulf of Siam and the Bay of Bengal. Shipping could then bypass Singapore at the southern tip of Malaya and cut some 600 miles off the route from Hong Kong, for instance, to Europe. Bangkok, capital of Thailand would be 1,200 miles nearer. The shorter route also would benefit the Philippine Islands.

In the long ago Britain had a pledge from Siam, now Thailand, that the canal never would be built as at that time it would have left Singapore cut off and possibly destroyed as a great shipping port. By mutual consent the agreement was dropped. Japan, once vitally interested in the canal, is no longer a sea power and no threat to British or other shipping.

A 50 mile long canal is being talked of and would cost a tremendous amount of money. But the inter-Asian coastal trade is growing rapidly and Thais say the canal would mean a saving of $7,000 to $14,000 a trip.

If Thailand could get co-operation and some money from those countries in Southeast Asia which would benefit from the canal, it would spur the economic development so much needed in that part of the world.

Road Ahead Difficult for Argentine President

If all goes according to schedule, Argentina will have a new president on March 17 when its electoral college meets.

For Argentina it will mean an orderly transfer of government from Gen. PEDRO ARAMBURU, the provisional president since the revolution ousted PERON, to the first freely elected government in 30 years.

The president-elect, Dr. ARTURO FRONDIZI, left wing Radical Party leader, won nearly half the votes against 10 other candidates. While FRONDIZI has a record of opposing the PERON dictatorship, to win he had to accept support from Peronistas and Communists.

From his sanctuary in the Dominican Republic, Gen. Peron issued orders for his supporters to vote for Frondizi. However, the president-elect declares he has made no commitment to anyone and "will govern solely for the 20 million Argentines."

Dr. FRONDIZI has the tremendously difficult tasks of restoring economic health and freedom in a nation which has seen little of either in the past decade.

The Man About Town

Highest in City

Grave of the Founder of Pontiac on Elevated Spot

Fate: What makes relatives.
Choice: What makes friends.

A fact upon which Pontiac residents can reflect with pride is that the final resting place of our city's founder is at the top of the highest hill within its limits. The grave of is at the highest point in Oak Hill Cemetery, which also is at the geographical center of the city. Few other municipalities in our entire nation can boast of such a fact.

There he rests, with other members of his family, in graves that are suitably marked with modest but appropriate monuments. They are on a well-kept plot, and local organizations have seen that it is not neglected at the time of Memorial Day and otherwise.

When he died in 1826, only eight years after he had founded the city, he was buried in Pontiac's first cemetery, on a small plot of ground which he had designated to be such. It was on the south side of Pike Street and a short distance east of the Clinton River. This was near the present site of Pontiac's new city hall which stands on having been designated as such a few years ago by our city commission.

On Pontiac's original plat, prepared under the direction of Colonel Mack, he had set aside an area for a public park, located just east of the present Mack Square. After his death this was replatted and subdivided for building lots.

When Oak Hill Cemetery was opened in 1839, the body of our city's founder, and those of his family were moved there, and the little cemetery on Pike Street was abandoned.

That pioneer in the development of outdoor recreational facilities in the Pontiac area, County Treasurer is among the happiest about our becoming a ski center.

Charles A. Sparks,

Do You Suppose It'll Ever Come to This?

David Lawrence Says:

World Has Eye on U.S. Business

WASHINGTON — The business situation in America has become the most important news story in the world today. It is more important than any "summit" conference or the launching of "satellites." All Europe is anxiously watching the business trends here.

LAWRENCE

For if America's economic strength is sapped by a deep depression, the Communists would be given an opportunity for victories in many parts of the globe without firing a shot.

Which way will business go? Here are three directions in which the economic curve in America may be charted in the next 12 months:

1. The declines could go deeper. The psychological effect of this might cause a mood of hesitation and reluctance to go ahead even in businesses that are fundamentally sound.

2. There could be an upturn this summer or this autumn. A steady recovery would then ensue throughout next year.

3. There might be a sidewise movement as business bumps along the bottom for a while, with no sign as to just when in 1958 the upturn would start.

The most important information that businessmen are eager to get now is in the answer to the question: When will the bottom be reached?

If businessmen were convinced, for instance, that the bottom already had been reached—as a few observers seem to think—planning could begin now with real confidence. But it takes a little while to determine whether a bottom mark has actually been recorded.

Too often the weekly or monthly figures are changed by statistics the following week or month. There must be signs of a continuous trend in order to be sure of what is happening.

The February unemployment figures will become available about March 12, but the truly important figures are those for the month of March, which will not be ready for disclosure until the middle of April. If those figures show a decline in unemployment, the news will be heartening to the nation.

Unfortunately, there has been an overemphasis on unemployment figures as the sole indicator of business conditions.

For the truth is there were only 340,000 less persons at work in January 1958 than in January 1957. There were, however, more than 900,000 workers added to the nation's labor force in 1957, and these, together with the usual number out of jobs for personal or other reasons, brought the total of unemployed up to 4.5 million in January.

What can be done to create 900,000 more jobs a year and to absorb more and more workers from the normally unemployed total? There is only one answer—incentives to business enterprises.

Lots of talk has been heard lately about how the Soviets give incentives and stimulate their scientists by special treatment. But the principle is even more significant in a free economy.

Tax revision of the right kind is perhaps the most important stimulus that could be given American business of all kinds. It's the policy that performed a miracle in West Germany, just as the lack of incentives has retarded Britain's postwar recovery.

What ought to be done in America probably will not be done because there isn't as yet a majority in Congress willing to take a long look ahead and plan not just for the few months of 1958 but for several years.

Prosperity—bigger than any the United States has ever experienced—would, for example, follow the passage of a measure like the bill sponsored by Representative Sadlak of Connecticut, Republican, and Representative Herlong of Florida, Democrat.

It would revise the whole income tax structure, to take effect over a five-year period, so that eventually the country would have a rate schedule ranging from 15 to 42 per cent for individual incomes and an over-all rate of 42 per cent for corporations.

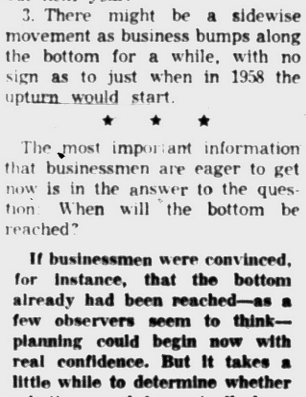
The Country Parson



"I'd think it would annoy God to have so many people publicly praying for divine guidance and then refusing to accept it."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Businessmen Substitute Mild Sherry for Cocktails

A New York businessman tells me that a number of New York banks which have private dining rooms for entertaining clients have switched from hard drinks to sherry because it leaves them and their guests fit for work.

DR. BRADY

In the workaday world in New York and elsewhere, the business luncheon is a "must." Advertising and public relations men, salesmen, bankers, brokers and others find it necessary to take clients, customers or prospects to luncheon as a matter of business and personal relationship.

"You know as well as I do what happens," my friend said. "As the agency man and his client sit down, the host asks, 'What will you have to drink?' The client suggests a martini (or highball, or vodka) and the agency man feels obligated to go along. How many more drinks the agency man has is governed precisely by the client's thirst."

Right here, being a rabid teetotaler, I rudely interrupted to ask why the host or the guest in such a situation may not take water, tea, coffee or whatever soft drink he prefers—if he must take a beverage before lunch? If the host and the guest are gentlemen or ladies or a gentleman and a lady, surely neither should raise an eyebrow at the other's choice.

"The result," my friend continued amicably, "is that when the agency man returns to his office, his efficiency has been seriously impaired—to put it mildly—and while matching drink for drink with the client may have improved a business relationship, it has seriously reduced the agency man's value to his agency so far as office work is concerned. Some of my neighbors in advertising tell me they are often 'no good' for the rest of the day.

"Sherry is a solution based on moderation which will get the agency man off the hook without offense to the client he entertains for refusal to take a drink with said client."

So the client is that sort?

"Some of our people who have been in Spain tell me the Spaniards have had a solution for centuries," my friend added. "At affairs from which they must depart to return to work they drink sherry. Spanish sherry is an elegant drink as compared with martini, highball and vodka—the slap of a baby as compared to the wallop of Mr. Dempsey.

"It is said to be a delightful beverage that can hold up its head in any company. It is a drink of moderation because it has only 20 per cent alcohol, whereas whiskey and other hard liquor has up to 50 per cent alcohol."

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Don't Hamper Cupid; Help Him

Marjorie forgot that old age tends to defeminize wives! Thus, instead of helping Cupid, she was hampering him by belching smoke from both nostrils and waddling with excess upholstery around her equator. You older wives can't hold your husbands by playing cards according to Hoyle. You must play them seductively according to Cupid!

DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case X-346: Harold M., aged 49, is the husband whom Marjorie described yesterday as having an affair with his office secretary.

"Dr. Crane, Marjorie is a wonderful woman," he confessed in my office during our interview.

"And she probably feels 100 per cent innocent of any cause for our domestic trouble.

"But for the last 10 years she has spent her time playing cards with a bunch of other fat, middle-aged females.

"And I abhor tobacco, but she took up the cigarette habit. When I see her belching smoke out of both nostrils, she looks more like a locomotive engine than a woman.

"And her fat, maternal figure has lost much of its earlier charm to me, so in recent years I have been platonic in my love life.

"It wasn't just the lack of children that precipitated this crisis. I used that argument partly to avoid offending her. For she has simply lost most of her physical appeal to me.

WIVES, FACE THE MUSIC

One of my male students at Northwestern University once told me:

"Dr. Crane, I never like to kiss a coed and smell a camel!"

Well, if young men with their excessive amount of ardor, have their erotic fervor curbed by tobacco smoke belched from the nostrils of a slender coed, you middle-aged wives better beware!

And that is especially true if you also are so fat you are tabbed as a "motherly old soul" instead of a seductive siren.

And if you further irritate your mates by what men usually consider an unfeminine trait, namely, gambling with cards for money, then you are rapidly exhausting your erotic motive force.

A man's ardor naturally grows somewhat less as he attains the age of 45 to 50, so he needs more seductiveness from his wife instead of less!

That's why he often succumbs to the sylph-like figure of an exotic doll at a night club.

She is slender. His wife may be fat.

She is gay and kittenish as regards amative advances.

"Oh, Harold, act your age!"

Well, if her middle-aged husband is trying to regain the romance he experienced with his wife at 25, and she thus coldly tells him to act his age, he subconsciously feels she has released him to find some other woman who fits into his 25-year-old frame of mind.

So I urged Marjorie to shed surplus poundage by dieting, for you can't feel like a sports roadster with the chassis of a truck!

And I helped her stop her tobacco habit.

Then I tutored her in a more realistic marital technique and advised her to fight fire with fire.

Most divorces occur in the bedroom! And this warning is just as applicable to young wives as to those of Marjorie's vintage.

So get hep to modern medico-psychology and keep your husbands devoted to you clear through your Golden Wedding Day.

Old age tends to de-feminize women, anyway, so don't help the process by belching smoke, gambling, telling risque stories and waddling like a walrus because of the excess upholstery around your waistline.

Help Cupid; don't hamper him! Marjorie won her husband back again by this new strategy.

Send for my booklet "How to Break the Tobacco & Liquor Habits," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

'Williams Urges Pay Raise as He Faces Short Payroll'

Does it ever occur to a politician to cut down on expenses instead of raising taxes? The story of the goose that laid the golden egg should be incorporated into the oath of office each one takes.

At a time when the Governor says he's uncertain of meeting the present payroll, he comes up with the following: "Unless these salaries are equalized now, the incumbents elected next fall will be in the same position the present ones are, stuck at $12,500 for the remainder of their term."

He is referring to an increase of $5,000 a year in salaries of the Auditor General, Attorney General and State Treasurer and the Lieut. Governor's present salary of $8,500 being increased to $17,500, more than double the present amount.

How would you like it, being stuck with $12,500 a year? For myself, I can't think of anything I'd like better.

'Get Women Out of Jobs Men Need'

With so many men with families laid off, especially in the plants, with bills piling up and unemployment pay done, it's time the union did some good to help. Why don't they investigate all the women working in plants?

They have lots of seniority since the last war, new homes, new cars, husbands with good jobs, no children or all grown. Have them give up their jobs to unemployed men. Some women with mothers to support, widows with children should have their jobs, but we all know at least 50 per cent of the women in these plants don't need their jobs.

They should have been hired in wartime with the understanding that they were to quit when the men needed those jobs again after the war. Work would be much better also, for no work, no money, no buying means everyone suffers.

INTEREST — ING?

If it is interest you have to pay, you can have a deduction for the interest paid on your personal borrowings if you itemize your deductions. Interest paid on a mortgage on your home, or on an installment contract, if separately stated, is deductible.

Interest on delinquent taxes is deductible, but the penalties are not deductible.

Carrying charges are not deductible; however, in most cases interest is included in the charges, and by a little computation you can still have a deduction. First — add up the unpaid balances at the beginning of each month during the year. Second — divide this total by 12. Third — multiply the answer by 6 per cent. This is your interest deduction but it must not be more than the carrying charges that pertain to the year.

Disability Issue Action Sought

Ike May Be Forced to Compromise to Obtain Action by Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration may have to compromise with House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) if it expects to get congressional action on the presidential disability issue.

Although bipartisan support has developed in the Senate for a proposed constitutional amendment which President Eisenhower and Atty. Gen. Rogers endorsed yesterday, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas displayed no enthusiasm for scheduling action on it.

Johnson is reported to have told colleagues he prefers to wait until the House acts. Rayburn not only says a constitutional amendment is not needed, but disagrees with Eisenhower's ideas on other phases of the problem.

Eisenhower and Rogers agreed that if the President became incapacitated, Vice President Nixon could step in to carry on the presidential duties without taking any new oath or becoming more than an acting president. They said this could include the signing or vetoing of legislation.

By their theory, when the President decided he was well enough he could take over again and Nixon would drop back to his present status as vice president. That is the essence of a working agreement between them.

Rayburn has stuck by the contention that under present law, a vice president who assumed duties of the office would have to take a presidential oath and in fact become president, after which his predecessor could not reclaim the office.

Rayburn has said the whole matter—which involves designating who shall decide when a president is incapacitated and when he has recovered — can be cleared up by an act of Congress. Eisenhower and Rogers said a constitutional amendment is necessary.

The bipartisan amendment proposal which Eisenhower endorsed would permit a recovered president to reclaim his powers on seven days notice, unless the vice president disputed his claim to recovery and was upheld by a two-thirds vote in both houses.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) voiced support, meanwhile, for Eisenhower's contention that Nixon could act temporarily without taking any new oath.

O'Mahoney, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee considering the question, said Eisenhower was "unquestionably right."

GOP Congressional Candidates

Seek President's Support

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) said today he is sure President Eisenhower's support would be invaluable to Republican congressional candidates "pretty nearly everywhere."

He and five other GOP senators whose terms expire this year—Thye of Minnesota, Watkins of Utah, Potter of Michigan and Revercomb and Hoblitzell of West Virginia—said they would welcome Eisenhower's endorsement and support in their states.

The question was raised by Eisenhower's observations at a news conference yesterday. He was asked about a comment by Sen. Schoeppel (R-Kan), chairman of the Senate GOP Campaign Committee, that it would be detrimental in some states for Republican candidates to base their campaigns on support of Eisenhower administration policies.

Eisenhower recalled that in 1956 more people voted for him "than ever supported a Republican candidate before," and commented he didn't believe that was very conclusive evidence that it is better to repudiate that 1956 ticket than it is to support it.

On the contrary, he added, "I think it would be better if they supported it."

Schoeppel said he had no comment on what the President had to say.

But Thye, who has not formally announced whether he will seek re-election, told a reporter: "The President is extremely popular in Minnesota. If I was a candidate seeking re-election, it would be beneficial to me if the President appeared in my state and announced his support."

Sen. Watkins, who, like Thye, is expected to seek re-election but has made no announcement, said in a separate interview: "If I should be a candidate for re-election, I would certainly welcome the President's support. It would be a distinct asset."

Flanders said he'd be glad to have the President visit Vermont, but thought it would be better strategy for Eisenhower to concentrate his activities in more doubtful states.

Revercomb said that "of course I would be glad to have the President's help — I want the President's support very much and I hope that I will have it."

Hoblitzell, who is serving out a short-term appointment succeeding the late Sen. Neely (D-WVa), agreed, saying: "I would certainly like for him to help me."

Potter said, "Sure, I'd like to have the President's support — I always like to have it."

New York's Garment District Jungle Where Fashion Rules

NEW YORK (INS) — Famed in song and story, locale for countless stage, movie and TV plays, New York's garment district — hit today by its first major strike in 25 years — is one of the most hectic, busiest, crowded and colorful areas of New York City.

Heart of the city's biggest industry, the "district" runs from 35th street on Manhattan Island to Times Square, sprawling on both sides of its north-south "main stem" — Seventh Avenue.

EMPIRE'S PULSE

This is the pulse of an empire that stretches its influence and sends its produce — American made dresses that sell for anywhere from $1.98 to $5,000 for "exclusive creations" — all over the world from Boston to Bombay.

It is a brick and steel jungle where fashion rules and the competition is fierce and without quarter.

The district is a fabled city within a fabled city, where pushcarts fight with taxis and trucks for street space, where the pedestrian passing through during the working day must elbow his way through rushing, gesticulating masses. Its traffic jams are legendary. Smart New Yorkers will drive far out of their way to avoid its virtually impassable streets, blocked by vans, packing cases, people.

'PRICE' BIG WORD

The big word in the district is "price" — nothing takes precedence when the job is being done.

Now the big word is "strike" — a strike nobody wanted, a strike everyone agreed couldn't have come at a worse time.

But the Ladies Garment Workers Union and its members voted it because they feel they deserve more money and more security — more than the industry feels it can afford.

What's behind the strike?

Ask a veteran pattern cutter like Herbert Simons, of Brooklyn, and you get a quick answer.

"This is something that's been brewing for 15 years," he replies. "We work seven or eight months out of the year. We get no vacations and no sick leave."

An older man — a sewing machine operator—is more specific.

"You used to be able to say you were a garment worker and be proud of it," he argues. "Now a laborer gets more money than we do."

Frank Fulginiti, is a truck driver and a member of the garment workers union, although not the striking local.

But he delivers Miss Jane Junior originals and he, too, will be out of work if the strike last more than a day or two.

DESERVE MORE

"I can't complain," he remarks. "They think they deserve more money. I can't argue with that."

On the other side of the fence are manufacturers and designers like Morris Newman and Izidore Heisler, partners in the New-Hi Dress Co.

"I can't understand it," Newman growls. "My people make a good living. My pressers . . . my cutters . . . they all make a good living. They work 50 weeks out of the year and we pay them for 52. They should strike against the sweat shops, not places like mine.

"How long a strike can I stand? Who knows? This is a day-to-day business. If we lose our Easter trade — well, your guess is as good as mine. It won't be any picnic for the worker either."

Heisler is even more vehement.

"They postponed the strike deliberately so it would hurt us the worst," he maintains. "It's like holding a gun to our head and saying 'either you pay us or you lose your Easter business.'

"It's like Russia. We got no choice."

Ceil Chapman, one of the garment district's top designers, admits frankly that she can't imagine the effects of a long strike.

But Harry Levitan, comptroller of the Chapman House of Fashion, deals more in facts and figures than in satin and lace.

"It won't hurt too much at first," he commented. "Most shops have ample inventories — at least through the middle of March.

"But it will kill re-orders on popular fashions. That's the bread and butter of the business. It will wipe out any cream there might have been in the spring lines.

"We have orders now for April and May delivery. We can't fill them if the strike lasts. Even if it's settled quickly, you still lose a certain amount of momentum. And you need every edge you can get in this business."

the "Bold Look" is the "Old Look"

Remember the "bold look?" You know — pillow-pad shoulders... hour-glass waist... wide-angle lapels ...shopping-bag drape. You see it on TV in those late movies. And (let's face it) you might see it right in your own clothes closet.

Yes, there's been quite a change in men's styles these past few years, leading up to today's "natural look" — trim, natural shoulders... slimming, natural lapels... flattering, natural lines.

Come in and let us show you how well you can look in the soft-spoken elegance of a natural-look Eagle suit. Hand-tailored Eagle suits slim you miraculously and pare a good ten years off your looks.

To Slow Down Evaporation

Cosmetics Offer Chemical to Conserve Water Supply

DENVER (AP) — A chemical commonly used in cosmetics, Hexadecanol, holds promise as an invisible lid on water reservoirs.

The chemical film slows evaporation. If tests being conducted in Colorado by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation prove successful, Hexadecanol would save billions of gallons annually for city water systems.

Experiments involve smearing a super-thin layer of Hexadecanol on a lake's surface. Many cosmetics include Hexadecanol, which is supposed to keep milady's skin smooth.

Charles Fisk, chief Denver water engineer working with bureau of reclamation experts, said there are "good possibilities" for reducing air water loss from 25 to 30 per cent. He said the experiment so far "has left me very much encouraged."

REDUCE EVAPORATION

Fisk said if evaporation from Denver's main reservoirs could be reduced 30 per cent it would save enough water to supply 40,900 persons a year.

Hexadecanol is a greasy white compound selling currently for about 60 cents a pound. Reclamation engineers are striving to perfect a system for spreading a pound of the chemical per acre.

Several methods of application are being tried. The chemical is sometimes sprayed in powder form over the water surface. Another way is to distribute flakes by hand. Or flakes can be spread through a doughnut shaped container floating on the water.

One of the chief problems — Hexadecanol's invisibility on the water's surface — has been licked. Researchers have developed a series of indicator oils of different weights. A drop of the oil on the Hexadecanol-coated water will show the film's presence and its condition.

NOT TOXIC

Field tests of Hexadecanol have also been conducted at Oklahoma City. Large quantities of the chemical were dumped in Kid's lake there to determine if there was any toxic effect. None was found.

Large scale tests are now in progress at Rattlesnake Reservoir, part of the Bureau of Reclamation's Colorado-Big Thomson project near Fort Collins in northern Colorado.

Researchers have known for many years about Hexadecanol's unusual properties in relation to water. In contact with water surface, individual molecules of the chemical literally march out over the water. One end of the slim molecule "loves" water, causing each particle to stand on one end.

So long as a piece of Hexadecanol is in contact with the water and generating film, the individual molecules in the film are compressed and lock in water molecules underneath.

JET JOCKEY— "Get a horse" might be a fitting phrase to hurl at Col. J. H. Bulkley, a jet pilot modeling his supersonic "spurs" at Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif. The heel attachments actually fit into the ejection seat of the Lockheed F-104A Starfighter, a twice-the-speed-of-sound interceptor which is the newest addition to the U. S. Air Force combat team.

Blacksmith at Work in Aircraft Plant

FORT WORTH, Tex. (INS) — Fifty-two-year-old Alton R. Cliett of Fort Worth has been a blacksmith nearly all his life.

He used to shoe horses and repair farm implements at Peoria, Tex., but now he uses his forge hammer and battered iron anvil to help make supersonic bombers.

Cliett is the only blacksmith among 21,000 employees at Convair's Fort Worth plant, where it was found a blacksmith is sometimes better than a machine even in the missile age.

The husky blacksmith said his job at Convair is "mostly bending things — such as tubular parts of aircraft assembly jigs."

He Falls Thirty Feet, Walks Into Police Station

COCKEYSVILLE, Md. (AP)—Richard Lee May, 25-year-old steel rigger who fell 30 feet, walked into the police station and said calmly:

"I think I've got a broken arm. Can you get me a doctor?"

May was right. At Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore, doctors found he had five fractures of his right arm, a broken wrist, fractured fingers and several broken ribs.

Bob Considine Says:

Celebrities, Prisoners Taking Same Course

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (INS)—Split a coffee today with one of the most intelligent and gifted men I know, the artist Al Dorne.

Dorne was born in cold-water-flat poverty in New York, never got beyond the seventh grade, had an unhappy career as a pug, began his career painting circular black eyebrows just like his own around the eyes of toy dolls, and for a long time has been a $100,000-a-year illustrator.

Moreover, he started his own school a few years back and remains its president. It is the Famous Artists School of Westport, Conn. It was formed on a simple premise, and that is that almost everybody would like to be able to draw a straight line or paint something anything. The school has no classrooms or studios. Its instruction is done by mail.

The faculty includes Norman Rockwell, Jon Whitcomb, Stevan Dohanos, Harold Von Schmidt, Al Parker, Bob Fawcett, Fred Ludekens, Peter Helck, Austin Briggs, John Atherton, Ben Stahl and other top commercial artists.

Who takes the courses? Well, undergrads include Charlie Wilson, former secretary of defense; C. R. Smith, president of American Airlines; Dinah Shore, Red Skelton, Van Johnson, nuns, bricklayers, big league ballplayers, bartenders, Wall Street brokers and inmates of prisons. Seven years ago a man wrote Dorne from the clink at Attica, N.Y., expressing a wish that he could afford the course. Dorne sent him a scholarship and art materials.

Now there are 55 prisoners among the school's students, all checked with the wardens and rehabilitation officers.

The famed faculty members meet face to face with their mail order Michaelangelos whenever business or pleasure takes them about the country.

Fawcett gave a lecture to students when in Detroit not long ago. One member of the class asked to be excused. He sent Fawcett a nice cartoon of himself behind bars in ball and chains, with the caption, "Sorry I can't make it—I'm all tied up."

Most popular themes among prisoner-artists: Religious pictures, followed by light, bright outdoor scenes—often featuring a blazing sun.

Applicants undergo the rigors of filling out a personal history sheet which makes the FBI and the AEC look slipshod by comparison. Drawings ranging from thin-line cartoons of the Otto Sogolow school to the lush beauties of Whitcomb are corrected on clear plastic over the original and returned. Sometimes a letter informs a student that he has a job.

Dorne's next project: An off-beat correspondence school in writing. "I never met a guy who didn't think he could write," he told us, "including you."

Produce Cotton Cloth

BOMBAY — Production of mill-made cotton cloth in India in the first half of 1957 totaled 2,709,000 yards. The comparable 1956 figure was 2,583,000 yards.

Junior Editors Quiz on NATURE

QUESTION: Does a hippopotamus really sweat blood?

ANSWER: Next to the elephant, a hippopotamus is the heaviest of land animals, often weighing more than four tons. Living in the swamps and streams of central Africa, it swims a lot and therefore does not have to work hard to support its great weight. It is adapted to marsh life also by having eyes and nostrils set high so that it needs lift only a small part of its head out of the water to see and breathe. Its name means "water horse."

Sometimes you hear that a person "sweats blood" when frightened. A hippo actually does sweat a red, oily substance, but it isn't blood. It's just reddish prespiration.

FOR YOU TO DO: Color this picture for your animal collection and mount it in a scrapbook or a cardboard. If you can, visit a zoo and see what this big mouthed animal looks like, alive.

Procedure Still Unclear

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Treasury Department has not yet cleared up the controversy of reporting expense accounts for income tax purposes. Internal revenue officials have agreed on a general formula which has yet to be approved at top treasury levels.

PTA Pledges Support to Arrested Principal

DETROIT (INS) — Officers and members of the Schulze School PTA pledged to support school Principal Marjorie V. Russ, 55, of Pleasant Ridge, who faces manslaughter charges after a fatal auto accident.

Miss Russ was arrested yesterday after her car smashed into another car in Detroit and killed Gayle Hockersmith, 44, of Highland Park.

She was released yesterday to her attorney, who advised her not to make a formal statement.

She said she was dazed, at the time of the accident.

More than 7,000 kinds of insects and 6,000 types of plant diseases attack United States crops.

Tourists Spend 2 Billion

BONN — Foreign tourists spent an estimated $400,000,000 in Germany in 1957. Total tourist expenditures in Germany during the year probably exceeded two billion dollars.

ANOTHER ADENAUER—Backed by an impressive campus tower, the Rev. Paul Adenauer, son of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, poses at Georgetown University in Washington. A 35-year-old Roman Catholic priest, Adenauer is studying American small business policies at the university. He seeks information useful to small businessmen in Germany.

Modern Student Matures Early

Many College Records of Campus Antics Make Panty Raids Mild Stuff

LOS ANGELES (INS) — Anyone who thinks the manners and morals of modern college students are a come-down from those of pupils of the past has another think coming.

In fact, says Adolph Brugger, assistant dean of students at the University of California at Los Angeles, today's scholars shape up very well by comparison with their predecessors in halls of learning.

The illusion that the medieval undergraduate was devoted to religious studies and monastic living, Dean Brugger explains, is quickly dispelled by early accounts of university life.

Thirteenth century Italian legal records contain a long list of petty and not-so-petty offenses by students, he points out, including quarreling with tradesmen, attacking citizens, dueling, robbery and "lesser riots."

GRADED PENALTIES

At Leipzig, university officials even had graded penalties "for him who picks up a missile to throw at a professor, him who throws and misses and him who accomplishes his purpose to the master's hurt."

Bruger also notes that in the 19th century, Princeton's Nassau Hall was damaged by dynamite explosions of scholarly origin on three occasions, while Harvard's student body engaged in repeated rebellions, with particular emphasis on window shattering.

Students at North Carolina, according to the dean, once had a habit of "shooting up the place generally," and a University of Virginia president was once shot to death by a drunken undergraduate.

By comparison, he added, today's panty raids and water fights are small campus potatoes indeed, and the present generation of students appears mature, hard working and well adjusted.

"Faced with a perplexing world, the students mature quickly," says Brugger. "Almost three-fourths of the students at UCLA are completely or in part self-supporting.

"Political extremes are infrequent: but a surprising number of students are active in civic affairs. And their academic work suffers little by comparison with other generations."

BY THE DOZEN — The cute kitty that cuter Kim Novak is cuddling is "Pyewacket," who has a prominent part in her new film "Bell, Book and Candle." But "Pyewacket" plays only one-twelfth of the role. The script calls for "Pyewacket" to do a lot of tricks. So, on the principle that you can't teach one cat to do 12 tricks but you can teach 12 cats to do one trick each, "Pyewacket" will have 11 "doubles" in the film.

Birth Control Tablet on Trial 2 Years

NEW YORK (INS)—The American College of Surgeons was told today of a new "simple and effective" birth control tablet that has been on trial at a New York hospital for two years.

Dr. Hilliard Dubrow of Mount Sinai Hospital said 649 women have used the new preparation successfully in tests.

The obstetrician also reported that supplies of the tablets, taken as a suppository, have been given to 60 hospitals and planned parenthood clinics across the nation for use during 1958.

"If the 60 centers find the tablet as effective as we have in the initial study," he said, "it will probably be marketed early in 1959."

Dr. Dubrow discussed the pill at the annual sectional meeting of the ACS in New York. He said one dozen of the tablets will cost probably $2.

Teachers Elect Negro

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The Topeka Teachers Assn. yesterday elected J. B. Holland, 49-year-old Negro, to become its president in April 1959. He will be the first of his race to hold the office. Holland teaches the sixth grade. He and another Negro were selected recently to teach in schools where most of the pupils are white.

Tells SEATO of Red Peril

Philippine Official Says World Communism as Aggressive as Ever

MANILA (AP) — Philippine Foreign Minister Felixberto Serrano today warned military advisers of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization that "international communism against which SEATO was primarily conceived remains as active and aggressive as ever."

The foreign secretary urged continued vigilance as the only insurance against Communist encroachment. "Weakness invites aggression, and peace without strength is peace without ease of mind," he said.

The military leaders of the eight SEATO nations — the Philippines, Pakistan, Thailand, Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand and the United States — opened a three-day meeting to review the status of the free world defenses in the area. The SEATO foreign ministers begin their fourth annual conference here Tuesday.

The rest of the military meetings will be private. In addition to reviewing joint defense plans, the advisers are expected to plan joint military exercises for the member nations. Sources said there are no plans to discuss the formation of any common military force such as NATO maintains in Europe.

Airman, 72, Loses Job but He's Not Retiring

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Even though they took his job away, the oldest man now on active duty in the Air Force still won't retire.

Randolph Air Force Base museum will be closed soon, Air Force officials said, but its 72-year-old custodian, M. Sgt. Horst Tittell, will be retained on active duty. He and other personnel now assigned to the museum will be reassigned.

Tittell is a veteran of 50 years of Air Force service.

Youth Swims River, Winds Up in Hospital

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—James C. Furlong, 22, Chicago, a Brown University senior, swam 100 yards across the Seekonk River last night—and wound up in a hospital.

Furlong was found on his hands and knees calling for help after the swim.

Patrolman Walter Cook carried him on his back 500 yards, so he could be treated at a hospital for immersion.

Manito District to Stage Scoutarama at Waterford

Saturday Event at High School

23 Troops, Cub Packs to Take Part in Exhibits, Two Shows

Twenty-three troops and packs of the Manito Boy Scout District will stage two scoutcraft shows Saturday afternoon and evening at Waterford High School.

Scouts will set up booths, each designed to demonstrate a phase of scout activity. The first show will begin at 4:30 and the other at 8 p.m.

More than 1,000 Boy Scouts, Cubs and Explorers will participate in the annual Scoutarama.

There'll be 47 booths at which Scouts will display their crafts, such as rope work, camping, safety, wild life and conservation, pioneering and first aid.

The two stage shows will include music, Indian dancing, skits and vocal solos.

Refreshments will be available in the high school cafeteria.

The Manito Scout District extends from Rochester across the northern part of the county to Holly.

Harry Walter of Andersonville, Troop 113—Physical arrangements.

E. Stuart Capron of Oxford, Troop 32—Publicity.

David Dorsick of Waterford, Troop 23—Safety.

George Ross Jr. of Rochester, Troop 40—Judging and awards.

Harvey Beach of Lake Orion, no troop, Roy Plauman of Rochester, Troop 63, and McMichael—Stage show.

ROMEO YOUTH IN CAPITAL SCIENCE EXHIBIT — Stephen Kent Burns, 17-year-old Romeo High School senior, displays his science project at Science Talent Institute at Statler Hotel, Washington, D.C. One of 40 winners chosen from among 25,000 entrants throughout the country, Stephen won a free trip to Washington and $250. His project concerned how a color picture is formed, transmitted and reproduced in a closed circuit color television system. Stephen's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John D. Burns of 147 Church St.

Extension Seen on School Aid

Both Houses Approve Bill Leaving Untouched State Formula

LANSING (AP) — Only the Senate concurrence in minor amendments today stood in the way of final legislative approval of extending the existing state school aid formula through 1958-59.

With help from four Democratic rebels, House Republicans yesterday passed a 296 - million - dollar school bill already approved in the Senate. Vote on the measure was 64-41, with 56 votes needed for passage.

The plan leaves untouched the $190 per pupil state aid level to schools, but would cost about $13,300,000 more because of an anticipated 70,000 net enrollment increase.

Republicans fought off a Democratic move to substitute a bill favored by Gov. Williams which would have boosted the aid formula to $197 and raised the total cost to about 302 million dollars.

The measure also would raise deductible millage from 2¾ to three mills to the advantage of so-called poor school districts with less taxable property.

Presumably, it was this feature which led four Detroit area Democrats from "rich" districts to side with Republicans on the vote. They are Reps. Charles M. Diggs of Detroit, Joseph I. Jackson of Highland Park, Walter T. McMahon of Hazel Park and Hiram McNeeley of Inkster.

Lawmakers soundly defeated a proposed amendment which would have banned educators affected by the bill from lobbying on school matters. Rep. Russell Strange (R-Clare), the sponsor, submitted it as a way of avoiding "educators who are spending government money to get more government money."

PLAN LIBRARY BENEFIT — Spring fashions will be brought out to help raise money to buy books for the Clarkston Elementary School Library. Making preparations for the show yesterday at the school were (from left) Mrs. William Hampshire, chairman of the Clarkston School Library Board; Mrs. Robert Morse, first grade teacher; Beverly Bell, school music instructor, and Rae Huffman, school librarian.

To Raise Money for Library Books

Style Show Slated at Clarkston

CLARKSTON—A spring fashion show is being sponsored by the Clarkston Elementary School Library Board to raise money to purchase new books for the school library.

The show, featuring four attractive models, will be held March 27 at Clarkston High School gym, beginning at 8 p.m. Smart fashions for spring will be modeled, furnished by Alvin's of Pontiac.

Mrs. William Hampshire, chairman of the library board, said there are approximately 2,500 books now on hand.

The library was started in 1954, with just a few mothers to help with cataloging and lending of the books. Thirty mothers now work on a volunteer basis, assisting Clarkston Community Schools librarian Rae Huffman.

Mrs. Paul Hood is co-chairman of the group; Mrs. Rockwood Bullard, secretary, and Mrs. Frank McCarrick, treasurer. Mrs. Bruce Emory and Mrs. Harry Horsch are responsible for all book repairs.

Taking Requests for Cost-Sharing

Government to Split Expense of Establishing Vegetable Cover

Agricultural Conservation Program practice sheets for 1958 have been approved for Oakland County and the county committee is accepting requests for cost-sharing on these practices, William Porritt, County Agricultural Stabilization committee chairman said today.

The government will share in the cost of establishing permanent vegetable cover on reserve acreage and on cropland that will be diverted to grassland uses, he said. Lime also is available where a legume seeding is to be established in 1958 or in 1959.

The government assists with the cost of approved tree plantings, the establishment of winter and summer cover crops and erosion control practices. Construction of open ditches and installation of tile drains done according to Soil Conservation Service regulations are eligible for cost-sharing.

Farm ponds may receive cost-share payments provided the ponds are needed on the farm for livestock water or for the irrigation of farm crops, Porritt said.

It is necessary that the farmer requests cost-sharing before the practice is started. This can be done by calling at the Oakland County ASC Office, 18 S. Perry St., room 321 Hubbard Bldg., Pontiac, he said.

ACP funds are limited, Porritt said, and farmers who are interested in the program should sign up as soon as possible.

In other business at its Monday meeting, the board invited the Dublin School Board to its regular meeting May 12.

This followed a request from the Dublin board for a joint meeting on the possibilities of combining the two districts.

Also announced was that bids for the purchase of four school buses will be opened March 10.

Van Dyke GI Held in Alabama

Secretary, 22, Says He Locked Her in Trunk of Car; Charges Denied

DOTHAN, Ala. (AP) — A Van Dyke, Mich., soldier accused of locking a secretary in the trunk of a car and leaving her there, was held today on $1,000 bond on charges of kidnaping and assault with intent to murder.

Sheriff Alvin Davis Jr. said civilian officers took custody of Specialist 3.C. John V. Welch, 22, at Ft. Rucker, Ala., yesterday and brought him to jail.

Davis and military authorities said the soldier denied locking Miss Eunice Clements, 22, in the trunk of a car near Dothan Thursday night. They said Welch told them he wasn't even with the girl that night.

Miss Clements was found locked in the trunk Sunday afternoon. Davis said she told officers she had been there since Thursday night.

Her father, J. G. Clements, signed a warrant charging Welch with kidnaping and assault with intent to murder. The soldier had been on a weekend leave and wasn't questioned until he returned to Rucker Tuesday.

Army authorities completed their questioning Tuesday and told civilian officers they could have custody of Welch.

The sheriff said Miss Clements didn't require medical attention despite her story that she had been in the car more than two days.

House Near Romeo Destroyed by Blaze

ROMEO — A family which moved to Detroit recently to await the birth of a fourth child lost their lakeshore home in a fire late last night

The Eugene Bader home, 650 Driscoll Dr., on Cranberry Lake, was leveled despite attempts of the Romeo Fire Department to save it. The house was located wst of Rochester road, about a mile south of 32 Mile Road.

A neighbor, Russell Pierce, called the Romeo volunteer fire fighters, but flames had already enveloped the roof by that time. Roads leading into the lake property were muddy and almost inaccessible, firemen said.

Firemen batled the blaze for more than four hours, but only the basement was left. They said the house was a total loss.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Groveland Restaurant Held Up

Masked Bandit Gets $30

GROVELAND TOWNSHIP — A bandit, face covered with a handkerchief, held up Mom's Restaurant, 14586 S. Dixie Highway, Groveland Township, yesterday.

The man entered the place while counterman David Wiley had his back to the door. "This is a stick-up," he announced.

Wiley, thinking he recognized the voice, did not turn around but his wife, Marjorie, coming from the kitchen saw the robber and said, "He's not kidding," to her husband.

The bandit asked for a paper bag, but Wiley said he did not have one. The man then ordered Wiley to empty the register and took $30 in bills and change.

He fled across the highway to where a car was waiting after sending Wiley and his wife to the rear of the restaurant.

During the holdup, the man did not show a gun, but held his hand in his right pocket, Wiley told police.

READY, LADIES, JUMP — Friday evening at Will Rogers School students will challenge their fathers to a basketball game. The winner of that game will then be challenged by mothers and teachers. Practicing for the event are Mrs. Donald Robinson and Mrs. Keith Parker while Vance Pierson acts as referee. Proceeds from the 7 p.m. game will go for the school's scholarship fund.

Beat-Bandit Satchel Termed Success

LONDON — A beat-the-bandit satchel that roars when it is stolen has been invented by a young British electronics engineer.

Pater Donaldson made the first one in his home at Staines — then resigned his job and founded his own company. His satchel is attached to the wrist by an electrical lead which is broken if the satchel is snatched away.

Immediately it emits a deafening roar which cannot be switched off except from the inside. The case is steel-lined and has a combination lock.

Even battering the case with a sledgehammer will not easily stop the alarm apparatus. London police say it is "outstanding." American manufacturers are said to be after the rights.

Pneumonia Toll Rises

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Health Commission Wednesday reported 175 pneumonia deaths in Detroit for the months of January and February. The commission blamed Asian flu for the increase from 97 pneumonia deaths for the same period a year ago.

Flint Firm Builds Home-Golf Garget

FLINT — A mechanism developed by a Flint concern permits golfers to use real clubs, balls and a full swing to "play" the equivalent of a nine-hole golf course—3,100 yards—right in their living rooms.

The device has a golf ball attached to a reduction gear that causes the ball's movement, when hit, to activate a slow-moving indicator, which shows how far the ball would have traveled if hit on a fairway.

State Court Halts Imprisonment

Guards Sex Psychopaths

LANSING (AP)—The State Supreme Court has ordered a halt to imprisonment of criminal sexual psychopaths and asserted anew its determination to protect pedestrians from careless motorists.

The court ruled yesterday that it is a violation of constitutional rights to confine in prison a person committed to state custody as a criminal sexual psychopath in a non-criminal proceeding.

Such a person belongs in a hospital, it said, until cured.

Commitments are made by courts to the State Mental Health Department for an indefinite period after a showing by medical and other evidence that the person is mentally ill and has a propensity for unlawful sex acts.

Currently, 225 criminal sexual psychopaths are confined at the Ionia State Hospital and 149 at the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson. Ionia has been unable to handle all of them.

"We are confronted here with a record that plainly shows a life sentence in state prison, based solely on medical diagnosis, can result from the administrative interpretation placed on this act," the court said.

APPEAL GRANTED

It granted an appeal by Embra Maddox, 48, from denial of a writ of habeas corpus by the Jackson County Circuit Court. Unless Maddox is placed in an "appropriate" institution within a month, he will go free, the court decreed.

In further defining a changed attitude toward victims of pedestrian-motorist accidents, the court said:

"As the power and acceleration of the automobile have increased, the effectiveness of evasive action of the pedestrian has declined. This court should not leave the pedestrian a legal sitting duck.

In this case, the Supreme Court ordered reinstatement of a $2,000 judgment awarded by a Calhoun County Circuit Court in favor of Henry M. Ware and against Dewey A. Nelson.

The verdict later was set aside by the judge on the defense argument that Ware, who was struck and injured while crossing a Battle Creek street, was guilty of contributory negligence.

ERRORS OF JUDGMENT

Justice George Edwards, who wrote both the Maddox and Ware decisions, conceded that Ware made errors of judgment as to the speed and course of Nelson's car but said they were insufficient to constitute contributory negligence.

Maddox was committed in 1952 after criminal charges, never tried, had been lodged against him in Detroit Recorders Court.

He was sent to Ionia, and a few months later transferred to Jackson where he has remained most of the time since.

Ninth Grade Test Could Tell

Do Russian Children Know More?

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — This is a strange dateline for a report on a project which could reveal the harsh facts on just how much more Russian kids might know about science and math than American kids.

But this watering hole for shapely dames also happens to be the home of an outfit called the California Test Bureau, one of the largest private educational testing organizations in the U. S. Last year more than 18 million U. S. youngsters in 48 states took some type of CTB exam.

COMPILES RESULTS

CTB is now compiling and analyzing the results of a unique state-wide test it has just given to 60,000 ninth grade pupils in Indiana to determine how much these youngsters really know about science and math.

In setting up the tests for the Hoosier kids CTB also made a spot check of ninth-graders all over the U. S. to establish a national average.

At the same time it has requested an exchange of comparable data with the Russian government so that a fairly exact comparison can be made between Russian and U. S. ninth-graders' knowledge of math and science.

TESTS SUPPLIED

CTB has offered to supply the Russian government similar tests to those given in Indiana for this international comparison. Reports from the Soviet Embassy in Washington indicate that the Russians will be willing to cooperate on this subject.

Dr. William M. Shanner, formerly with the University of Chicago and director of professional service for CTB, says:

"Obviously there are difficulties with languages and comparable grade levels and different units of weights and measures as far as giving an exact translation of our tests to Russian children. But they could be adapted and if we get the cooperation we hope to get from Russian education officials, we will come up with information very valuable to American educators."

Comely June Duran, CTB administrative vice president and the only suggestion of Hollywood-type glamour around the office, also makes this qualification:

"We will not use any results from the Indiana test for any comparison with Russian information which we might get without the specific permission of Wilbur Young, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction in Indiana. But our own data on the national average will be sufficient to provide useful information if the Russians do cooperate."

The idea of giving the test to Indiana kids came from a science-math study commission headed by former University of Notre Dame School of Law, Dean Clarence E. Manion.

"The basic purpose of the tests is to determine how we're doing in math and science at the ninth-grade level and decide whether it is necessary to improve the education in these fields," Manion says. "Our purpose is not to set up a crash program in response to alleged Soviet scientific achievements," he insists.

The Indiana tests are designed to disclose any weakness in Indiana school curricula in grades below the ninth. And they will reveal students with outstanding abilities in these fields so that they may be encouraged to specialize in them in high school and college.

CTB is scoring the tests electronically and will deliver the 60,000 results to the state some time in March. The results will then permit Indiana education officials to compare local school districts as to their efficiency in teaching these subjects.

It will also make it possible to compare teaching methods of rural and city schools and give a rating of a teachers' ability to get across these subjects to the pupils.

Try Answering These

These seven sample multiple choice questions are comparable to the ones in the state-wide test being given to Indiana ninth graders by the California Test Bureau. How well can you do?

ANSWERS: 1—E; 2—C; 3—E; 4—C; 5—D; 6—A, C, D, E; 7—A.

Man Named Smith

Plotting Foreign Policy

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

A man named Smith, a name not unusual anywhere, has one of the most unusual jobs in Washington — idea man in plotting this country's course in world politics at the embassies and at the summit.

As chief of the State Department's Policy Planning Staff, Assistant Secretary of State Gerard C. Smith is responsible for the "egg-head" task of keeping a steady flow of new strategic ideas going to his boss, John Foster Dulles.

Smith and his staff, the "ivory tower boys" of the State Department, must take each day's developments, interpret them in the light of current policy and devise tomorrow's actions from them.

One associate remarked that every basic policy document affecting foreign affairs has passed at least once through the hands of the youthful—he was born May 14, 1914—Yale-trained lawyer and has felt his influence.

This co-worker described Smith as a "fine legal mind" who "comes up with ideas all over the place."

Another State Department expert observed that Smith has a good working knowledge of two chief issues before the world today—atomic energy and disarmament.

From 1950 to 1954, Smith was special assistant to Atomic Energy Commissioner Thomas E. Murray, a post that led to his 1954 appointment as a special adviser to the secretary of state on atomic energy matters. In June of 1957, Smith also took on the job of coordinating State Department policy.

Two months later, Smith was named assistant secretary for policy planning, a post that carries with it an influential seat on the National Security Council Planning Board — the over-all government counterpart of his State Department disarmament policy.

When he gets away from Washington, Smith can go to his Long Island home or to his estate on Maryland's historic Eastern Shore, where his wife, Bernice, and their five children live amid a houseful of treasured antiques.

Obviously, Smith does not try to live on his government salary—his father had the foresight many years ago to be one of the original investors in General Motors.

AEC Shows Off Test Mountain

Newsmen Visit Tunnel Leading to Blast Room Under Nevada Desert

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission is disclosing today some of the secrets of what happened inside a mountain that was bounced six inches by an atomic explosion last September.

Newsmen were on hand to inspect for the first time the tunnel leading to the inferno-like chamber in which the blast was set off 800 feet below the top of an isolated desert mesa. At the end of the 2,000-foot-long tunnel are several holes which scientists have drilled into the blast chamber.

When the underground atomic blast was set off last Sept. 19, scientists at more than 600 earthquake recording stations were waiting at their seismographs. They hoped to learn what the earth is made of by studying the patterns of shockwaves as they raced through the various strata of the globe.

To a large extent, they were disappointed.

The only surface effects noticed at the site were puffs of dust and falling rocks.

AEC scientists announced shortly after the September explosion that all radiation had been contained within the mountain chamber. Extreme radiation hazards will prevent humans from actually going inside for at least a century.

Head of Schools Quits After Board Reverses Ruling

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — William R. Speer, superintendent of schools in this winter resort town, announced yesterday he has resigned because the school board rescinded his ruling that four high school pupils with low grades could not compete in a ski meet.

One of the pupils is 14-year-old Sharon Pecjak, rated the No. 2 girl skier in the southern Rocky Mountain area and daughter of the school board's chairman.

Speer said he ruled members of the ski team must maintain at least a "C" average in their studies. All four of the pupils averaged only "D" in mathematics, he reported.

After the board overruled the superintendent, the four pupils all placed in the junior championships last month of the Southern Rocky Mountain Ski Assn. and were named to its team in the National Junior Championships at Winter Park, Colo., March 20-23.

'Gunka-Munka' Stuff Ruled Out by Strikers

NEW YORK (AP)—Garment workers on strike here added a slogan which does not appear in the dictionary.

At their rally in Madison Square Garden, the strikers roared a warning to their employers they would tolerate no "gunka-munka business" in enforcement of future wage contracts.

As defined by David Dubinsky, head of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, the slogan means a blend of dilly-dallying and money business.

Algerian War Reaches Into Paris

PARIS (NEA) — Terrorism and gang warfare are darkening the City of Light as the outcome of the guerrilla war which the French have been fighting in Algeria for the last 30 months, and Parisians are getting alarmed.

Of the 400,000 Algerians registered in France, around 130,000 live in the capital and its immediate "zones" and suburbs.

Soon after the trouble started in Algeria the rival nationalists movements, the FLN (Front de Liberation National) and the MNA (Movement National Algerien) started taking the law in their own hands in France.

Scarcely a week has gone by without some Algerian being shot in broad daylight by one of his countrymen or executed in the cellar of either one of the terrorist headquarters after hours of grilling and torture.

The first week of November there were 19 killed and 20 wounded in the department of the Seine alone not counting shootings in Lyons, Lille and other industrial provincial towns.

In the near-slum district known as the "Goutte d'Or" (Drop of Gold) in Northeast Paris is the "medina" or native quarter where today few Parisians care to loiter.

SCENE OF BATTLES

Six thousand Algerians live here, and every weekend 25,000 more North Africans come in from the outskirts of the city. It is the market place, the meeting place and the scene of bloody battles.

The Paris "medina" (which starts some two blocks away from the Place Pigalle) dates back to 1900.

Nearly half a century later the occupation and the liberation of Paris speeded up the integration of Arabs, especially Algerians, who are French citizens.

While the majority were hired by the various industries in and around Paris, they also became very active in the black market.

The "sidis," as the Parisians call them, sold American cigarettes, small arms and other army supplies, which they acquired illicitly, as well as the traditional rugs, crudely-made native leather goods and baubles. They also peddled drugs.

Today the 45,000 French residents and shopkeepers of the Goutte d'Or sections are slowly but surely being squeezed out by the North Africans.

There is nothing picturesque or exotic about the Paris "medina." The streets are poor and gray and living conditions grim.

Over 500 Moslems occupy small lodgings. These are the "sheiks." The poorer ones pay an average of $8 a month for filthy, bare hotel rooms which they have to share with three or four, sometimes more compatriots. Sanitation is non-existent.

Some 60 out of 100 of these miserable "hotels" are Arab-owned. There are also Arab squatters in the area once occupied by the Paris ragpickers who at one time were the main suppliers of the Flea Market.

Few bring their families across the Mediterranean. Police records show that around 400 Frenchwomen have "set up housekeeping" with non-Europeans in the Goutte d'Or.

Naturally, prostitution exists all "houses of illusion" in Paris French the Arabs pick up. This is Contrary to the law on prostitu- these women are housed in bro- perhaps one of the reasons why tion passed in 1946 which closed thels reserved for them. today the Parisian underworld, once the bailiwick of Corsicans, is ruled by North Africans.

The moment you set foot in one of these miserable streets of the "medina" you find yourself transported into another, completely non European world. By nightfall they are a-swarm with Arabs buying or selling anything from a tattered overcoat or a pair of pants to packets of "kif" (drugs). They also act as fences for small-time thieves.

There are, of course, periodical police raids in the "medina" but the enforcement of the law is made difficult by the language barrier. Few Europeans can understand let alone speak the various North African dialects or the pidgin

Japan Closely Eyes Soya Sauce Sales

TOKYO (INS) — Japan is in for a rough time if department store sales are any indication.

A leading store disclosed that its top sales item—next, of course, to Sputnik type toys—was soya sauce. And soya sauce, the management said, has always in the past heralded a year of depression.

Tight purses apparently call for more soya sauce to flavor cheaper quality foods.

Poet Wins $10,000, Gets Extra Three Cents

DENVER (AP) — Thomas Hornsby Ferril, Denver poet who won the Denver Post's $10,000 play-writing contest, actually collected $10,000.03.

At the check presentation, Ferril explained he was superstitious about the round figure. So Post publisher Palmer Hoyt and two others in the office dug up a penny each to give to Ferril.

Collects $20 Fine From Ex-Con at Cost of $250

NEW YORK (AP)—The city has collected a $20 fine from an ex-convict — at an estimated cost of $250.

Esteban Quinones, 62, was released Tuesday from the federal prison in Milan, Mich. He served a three-year sentence for seditious conspiracy as one of the Puerto Rican Nationalist party members who planned to assassinate President Harry S. Truman in 1950.

Before Quinones was arrested on that charge, police here had picked him up for possessing policy slips.

Greeting Quinones when he gout out of the Michigan prison were two city detectives. They brought him back by plane to Brooklyn. Plane fares and incidentals for the three men amounted to about $250.

Quinones was taken into Gambler's Court, pleaded guilty to the policy slip charge, and paid a $20 fine.

Turks Protest End of Hunt for Bodies

IZMIT, Turkey (AP)—A crowd of men waiving shrouds staged a protest demonstration yesterday after the government announced the end of the search for victims of the sinking of the ferry Uskadar last Saturday.

"We want the bodies of our children," shouted the crowd. The government had reported 146 bodies were recovered from the sunken hulk. Gov. Ekmel Cetinel said more might be missing.

Officials said it was impossible to determine how many lives were lost.

Dubinsky Union Boss Since 1932

'Get a Whip ... Put It in the Refrigerator,' Says Ladies Garment Workers Boss

NEW YORK (AP)—David Dubinsky, now masterminding the first major strike in the women's clothing industry in 25 years, once said, "You've got to be on your toes not on your bottom."

As head of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union since 1932, he has obtained until now better wages and working conditions for his followers without striking.

"First you get a whip, and then when everyone knows you have it, put it in the refrigerator," he explained.

From conditions that injected the word "sweatshop" into the language, the union has won one of the most complete welfare programs in the United States. It is now one of America's richest unions with assets in the millions.

The 5-foot-5 Dubinsky, who makes up in energy what he lacks in stature, has built the union membership from 23,876 to 451,000 and restored order to the fiercely competitive, once chaotic industry which balances on milady's whims.

Peppery, with appraising brown eyes and thick gray-black hair, the 66-year-old Dubinsky alternately chuckles and shouts and bellows into a telephone in his Yiddish accent as he flourishes an unlit cigar. He is cordial to all, intimate with none. He's almost always smiling and in general radiating a cherubic artlessness that masks a quick mind.

Favoring conservative blue or brown business suits but unable to resist flamboyant ties, he directs the union from behind a blond curved desk that once was Edsel Ford's in a chromium and air-conditioned Broadway building once owned by Henry Ford.

The union is his life. He rules the union's wealth but is one of America's lowest paid major labor leaders, because he wants it that way. His salary is $26,000.

In his union, where women outnumber men 3-1, he is known as "Papa" behind his back, as "Dubinsky" or "D.D." to his face.

Born Dobnievski in Brest-Litovsk, Poland, Feb. 22, 1892, he led a strike against his father's bakery at 15. At 16 he was exiled to Siberia for political activity. At 19 he was in New York — a member of the ILGWU and the Socialist party.

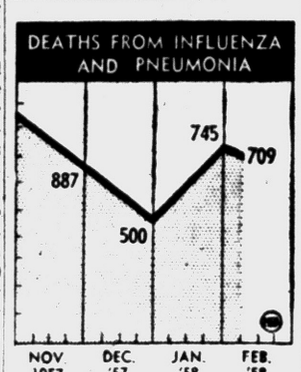
He became secretary-treasurer of the international in 1929 and its president three years later. His was the task of picking up the pieces left in the wake of a Communist-led strike. His union, once dominated by Communists, is now strongly anti-Communist.

He quit the Socialist party and became a Roosevelt elector in 1936. Later, he helped found the Liberal party in New York state and still is active in it.

Some rank-and-file members say Dubinsky is so occupied with politics he has neglected union affairs. He says his only real opposition inside the union comes from the few Communists still on the rolls.



HEALTHY TREND?—Following a peak in early November, nationwide deaths from influenza and pneumonia tumbled, then started a steady climb at the beginning of the year. U.S. Public Health Service officials watched it closely. Now, however, latest reports show a slight decline in the first week of February. As far as can be determined, Asian flu was not an important factor in the recent increase, though the Health Service still recommends vaccinations against it, especially for elderly persons who are hardest hit by respiratory diseases.

Irish 'Henhouse Boy' Reported Improved

BELFAST, Ireland—Special care has been paying off in the case of the "Henhouse Boy" in Northern Ireland. This is Kevin Halfpenny, an unfortunate youngster who was found neglected and living in a hen house a year ago in Belfast. He was crippled by rickets, his legs being twisted, and he moved about on his hands and knees.

Now, under the care given him at the Ulster Hospital for Women and Sick Children, he has started to walk, at the age of eight. He has never talked but some hope now is held that his speech may eventually be developed. He faces a series of operations.

The boy's mother was sentenced to nine months in jail for neglect.

Legislators Make Sure St. Patrick Gets His Due

LANSING (AP)—A band of lawmakers have joined forces to see that St. Patrick gets his due, come March 17.

Their names are O'Brien, Mahoney, Fitzpatrick, Kelly, Murphy, Copeland, Parker, O'Connor and Ryan.

They submitted a resolution to the House yesterday to recognize the week of March 10-17 as "The Week of the Irish." It was quickly adopted.

"On March 17," it read, "everyone agrees that none can compare among the peoples of the earth with the sons of Erin, be they from Dublin, Cork, Galway, Killarney or Tralee."

During Irish Week, the resolution recommended that "all Irishmen consider the sorry plight of less fortunate fellows who were not touched with the green."

Egypt Accuses Saud of Plotting

Nasser Appears Set on Campaign to Brand 3 as Arab Unity Foes

CAIRO (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser today appeared embarked on a campaign to brand King Saud of Saudi Arabia with Kings Faisal II and Hussein of the Arab Federation a an enemy of Arab unity.

A spokesman for Nasser's United Arab Republic, Syrian army intelligence chief Abdu Hamid Serraj, charged Saud with plotting to wreck the new United Arab Republic and kill the Egyptian President. Similar charges were made by an Egyptian witness in a Cairo court, and Nasser himself spoke of a Saudi plot.

From the other side of the Arab split, Tunisia accused a Tunisian extremist leader of launching a plot from Cairo to assassinate pro-Western President Habib Bourguiba. The Tunisian exile, Salah ben Youssef, said the charge was fabricated to divert Tunisian public opinion from pressing Bourguiba into joining the U.A.R.

(Nasser's campaign appeared to Western observers to be another attempt to unseat regimes standing in the way of his ambition to dominate the Arab world. Egypt and Syria tried unsuccessfully last April to foment the overthrow of Jordanian King Hussein, and both also have been accused of plotting against Faisal of Iraq, chief of state of the Iraqi-Jordanian Arab Federation.

(Saud so far has refused to join either the Arab Federation or Nasser's U.A.R., reportedly hoping to act as a mediator between them in the interests of Arab unity.)

Serraj told a news conference that King Saud's Syrian father-in-law, Asad Irbrahim, tried to recruit him to lead an army coup to prevent the Egyptian-Syrian union. Serraj was to become president of Syria after the coup Feb. 21, the date of a plebiscite on the union, he said.

Padding Goes Downward in Styles but Gals Won't Lose It Entirely

NEW YORK — (NEA) —Martin Schnur fumbled around in his breast pocket for a little while before deciding the papers were still in his unpacked luggage which had just come through customs.

"Anyway," he concluded, "I had a wonderful trip through Europe. I didn't have to sell anybody. Business just fell into my hands."

Martin Schnur is the world's leading salesman of padding — that spongey material used so widely in uh those, uh, ladies,' un, you know. His firm, which sold three million yards last year already supplies more than half of the American demand.

"But that foreign market," he said. "Oh boy! I don't mean it's booming. But we're off to a start."

In 12 nations, many with austere economics and restrictions on importing American goods, he had succeeded in getting trade barriers dropped on special orders.

Schnur's foam - padding, it turns out, has been admitted under the barriers as a hardship material — vitally necessary.

The same thing can be aid for this country. Industry figures show that American girls and women spent 60 million dollars on padded items last year. And if present plans work out, it should be far more next year.

According to Schnur's silhouette engieers, padding is goig to be used in a new way. The design is so revolutionary and so secret it is still being called, uh—what the devil, padded under-panties.

There is, strangely, a concurrence of opinion in the trade:

The inventor, a discouraged soprano from Kansas City, sees it as a way to help women fit their clothes better.

"It's not to fool anybody," she said, asking that her name be withheld. "Most girls will discuss their padding with relief." . . .

She hinted, too, at the satisfaction of deep-seated psychological needs: fears of femininity in jeopardy; the need to be ld tightly; being in the styles set by Hollywood stars.

And salesman Schnur sees it as the only logical way to bolter prolapsed sales of the uplift girdle and a new market for him.

Besides, he said, it's just following the Hollywood style of padding movies stars to make them look like other movie stars.

The result of this kind of thinking has created an enormous industry which is furrowing American womanhood with trusses, tricot and glorious euphemisms—all in blatant violation of the law of vector analysis, organic chemistry and mass communications, it has not been hard to convince women of what they already suspected:

Convincing foreign women — European women especially — is more difficult.

"It's a very delicate problem," Schnur said. "And it's got to be handled delicately. Of course I only had a few samples with me. But you should have seen the wonderful response I got — as soon as I explained what they were for."

The demand is there, he said. The Germans knnow it and they're working hard on a synthetic foam padding.

"You see. Women all over the world need padding. They just don't know it yet."

Advise Early Care for Foot Deformity

CHICAGO (INS) — If your child has a foot deformity, begin treatment immediately.

This was the advice given today by Dr. Alfred R. Shands Jr., medical director of the Nemours Foundation and Alfred I. DuPont Institute, Wilmington, Del.

Speaking at the annual clinical conference of the Chicago Medical Society, Shands said treatment of the foot in early childhood may prevent serious complications later.

He said a foot weakened by infantile paralysis may require the transplantation of muscles and tendons in a child under 10 and a bony stabilization in one over 10.

Clubfoot, he said, may be recognized at birth and it is then when treatment should be started.

He listed other deformities needing early attention as flat foot, claw foot, the so-called "painful heel" and toe, knee and leg deformities of various nature.

Early Training Sought

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — The British Columbia Automobile Assn., says that more than 20 surveys prove that good high school driver education courses reduce traffic accidents by one-half.

Locksmith's Students Do Practicing in Jail

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Sheriff Solon F. Russell told Fiscal Court yesterday a locksmith, while confined to County Jail, taught some inmates to pick two locks there.

The court agreed to buy two new locks when Russell said the unidentified locksmith had been moved to a penitentiary.

BB's Repel Radiation

WASHINGTON — Thirty - five tons of steel BB shot have been put to use as a shield in a radiation and nucleonics laboratory. The shot was poured between the walls of a new "hot cell" to give the same protection against atomic radiation as 10 inches of solid steel.

At the beginning of World War II there were 1½ million tractors on U.S. farms; by 1950 there were more than 3½ million and by the mid-1950s more than 4½ million.

Seminole Indians in Florida Venerate Pontiac Cars

By JOE HAAS

CORAL GABLES, Fla.—There's a definite connection between Pontiac and the Florida Everglades. The few surviving Seminole Indians, now driven back into the fastnesses of this largest of swamps in our entire nation (larger than some entire states) constituted the southernmost outpost of the great chief in whose honor our city was named.

HAAS

While his realm extended from Lake Superior to the Gulf of Mexico, he paid little attention to the Osceola or Seminole tribes at this far distant area.

He was an Ottawa, but the Indians under his domination at the height of his career, exactly two centuries ago, represented so many tribes that history does not definitely record them all.

However, in his conspiracy of 1763 white garrisons in both Georgia and Florida were included in those he wished to wipe out, and were attacked by his warriors.

The strategy for this concentrated attack on the same day had been planned at his war councils held on Apple Island in Orchard Lake. The orders were carried by Indian couriers through the forests, and their delivery covered a space of nearly two years.

While the conspiracy failed, and saw the end of Pontiac's domination, the Seminoles have passed the record down through the generations, and even now have a sort of veneration for a Pontiac car, many of which I find among them.

The Seminoles were driven from the higher lands into the Everglades swamps both before and after our nation bought Florida from Spain 131 years ago.

Chief Osceola declared the Seminole War in 1835, which lasted for seven years, when the white troops gave up any effort to subdue them, although Geneal Zackary Taylor and other military leaders of that period pressed the attack upon them.

They then were allowed to continue their nation, under a federal jurisdiction to which they never have paid much attention. Technically they still are at war with the United States, although in recent years it has been somewhat written off.

The Seminoles have been allowed to maintain their own enforcement, and generally have done a good job. They have their own court, and pass out rather unique justice — but it invariably is maintained. Crime among them is rare.

I endeavored to converse with a husky Indian who seemed to be ostracised from the others. He would not speak, even when offered some cigarettes, although he smiled a wan smile.

The leader of his settlement told me that this man had committed murder, and the court's sentence was that he never was to utter a word again. That was more than 25 years ago, but he never since had spoken.

I talked to a great grandson of Chief Osceola. His name is William McKinley Osceola. He has a college education and is doing a lot for his people.

Like most of the other residents of Florida, the Seminoles largely live off the tourists, their stock in trade including conducted tours, alligator exhibitions, air propelled boat rides and restaurants.

Biochemists Study Energy of Heart

CORVALLIS, Ore. (INS) — How the heart gets energy enough to beat 100,000 times a day and pump 3,400 gallons of blood is being studied by biochemists at Oregon State College.

Dr. Vernon H. Cheldelin, director of the Science Research Institute at O.S.C., and Dr. Robert Newburgh, biochemist at the college, are heading the study with a grant of more than $20,000 from the American Heart Association and the Oregon Heart Association.

Dr. Cheldelin estimates that at least 50 complex reactions take place to change blood sugar to energy in the heart muscle.

Spices, such as pepper, ginger and cloves, are a 150 million-dollar-a-year business in the United States.

Tuberculosis Officials in State React on Proposal to Close 3 Sanatoriums

LANSING (AP)—Tuberculosis officials say the state wouldn't save much money under a plan to close three of the four state-operated TB sanatoriums.

Spokesmen for the Michigan Tuberculosis Assn. and other health groups asked the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday to kill a measure which would shut down all but the state's largest TB sanatorium at Howell. Facilities at Hancock, Kalamazoo and Gaylord would be put to other uses.

Rep. Robert E. Waldron (R-Grosse Pointe) introduced the bill to make use of a growing number of empty beds in TB institutions as headway is made in controlling the disease.

Opponents called it "too drastic."

About 280 of the 835 beds in the four sanatoriums are unoccupied, said J. Irvin Nichols, MTA executive secretary. He recommended they be used for care of non-TB cases.

"This will permit the state to retain proper TB facilities in three important areas of the state," he said.

The amount actually saved by the Waldron proposal would be substantially less than $169,000, Nichols said.

Besides the four state-run sanatoriums, 12 others are run by counties, three by the City of Detroit and one by the American Legion.

The Parsons (Kans.) Sun tells of the oven that plays "Tenderly" when the roast is done, and adds, "Some wives need one that plays 'Smoke Gets in Your Eyes' " . . . The successful man is the one who does what he has to do at the time he hates to do it most.—Earl Wilson.

But All May Be Turned Down

House Has a Choice of 3 Budget Reform Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House had its choice today of three proposals for budget reform. It was possible all three might be rejected because of uncertainty over their provisions.

All but abandoned was a Hoover Commission proposal similar to one passed last year by the Senate and designed to limit annual congressional appropriations to expected annual spending by federal agencies.

Backers of the original measure have offered a compromise intended to overcome the main objection to the Hoover proposal. Drafted by Rep. Wigglesworth (R-Mass) of the Appropriations Committee, the compromise would prevent a return to the old practice of substituting contract authority for actual appropriations to finance long-term federal programs.

The compromise would permit continuation of the present practice of fully financing such programs, but would require an annual justification of the amount to be spent from previous appropriations. Such an annual accounting is not required now.

The Wigglesworth proposal would retain most of the other features of the original bill endorsed by the House Government Operations Committee and designed to put government financing on an annual basis by eliminatng large carryovers of appropriations.

The Government Operations Committee contends the change is necessary to give Congress greater control over government spending.

Appropratons Commttee members oppose the Wigglesworth proposal and are backing a compromise drafted by Rep. Taber of New York, senior Republican member of the purse-string group.

Taber's compromise in effect would continue the appropriation procedure now in effect but would give the Appropriations Committee more power over unexpended balances. It would prohibit contract authority.

Both Taber and Appropriations Committee Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) disputed contentions of Hoover Commission backers that the original proposal or the Wigglesworth bill would result in any substantial savings.

Japanese Develop New Antibiotic Drug

TOKYO — A new drug, kanamycin, said to be superior to streptomycin in some respects, has been discovered by Dr. Hamao Umezawa, chief antibiotics researcher in the National Institute of Health, Tokyo.

It prevents bacterial resistance and is less apt to bring on undesirable side effects, such as temporary loss of hearing, Umezawa says.

Experiments with the new drug are reported to have shown a remarkably low toxicity.

Electricity Sorts Mail in England

SOUTHAMPTON — A machine which will sort letters and printed papers, turn them around the right way and postmark them is being tried out at Southampton, England.

To make it possible a special printing of 2 cent and 3 cent stamps was made. They carry one or two very narrow black lines below the gum, consisting of a substance called naphthadag (a solution of graphite and naphtha).

These lines are, in effect, electrical conductors. As letters pass through the sorter, scanners pick out the lines on the stamps and high-voltage current will deflect the letter into its appropriate pile.

Shopping Center Slated

DETROIT (AP) — A three-million-dollar shopping area, including 15 stores and a 1,140-car parking lot, is scheduled to open this summer at Grand River and Seven Mile road, Panel Engineering Corp. announced Wednesday.

Writer Pulls Cork From Bottle Full of Bees

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — A writer often is a sensitive soul, possibly because it is hard to keep the chin up over the typewriter, or a stiff upper lip when you're chewing a pencil.

Anyway, when a reporter is besieged with unflattering letters (anything over three is besiegement when they're critical), he feels touchier than the reader might think.

The only thing that helps out, on a nasty-mail day, is the fact that virtually all of the really rabid critiques are badly misspelled—as in "Your a lousy lier!"

Upon receiving accusations like that, it is the writer's only morale-boost to reflect that the author of this suggestion would not know a fib from a fibula. And he should break the latter.

This week was a particularly bad one for me in the besiegement department, mainly on the subject of the chemise dress, which I discussed derogatorialy recently.

"Whom do you think you are?" wrote an enraged Seventh Avenue cutter. "This is the first brake weve had since the new look and your blasting it. Want to jinks the most important business in New York?"

Two people wrote to the effect that it was about time women had their legs "shown off agian."

An elderly man who professed to have "been threw the mill" on women's fashions said he didn't mind the de-accentuation of the bustline, in favor of the new "sack" line. "I say," he said, "if they put a potato in a sack, they can put a tomatoe in a sack just as easy."

The surprising part of the criticism was that, misspelled or ungrammatical, both men and women laid it in to me for taking a pot shot at the fashion which I would have thought, surely, 90 per cent of the people this side of Paris would deplore. The shapeless waist, the taut derriere, the skirt that shinnies o'er the knobby knee . . . and a world of hecklers supports it.

The mail may indicate one of three possibilities:

1) That women actually are rejoicing in the opportunity to hide their figures in the sack look;

2) That people remember the 1920's fondly and are nostalgically drawn to its wacky styles;

3) Or that it, as one impassioned critic put it, am simply being "preverse."

No Place Is A Place

LONDON — England has one of the world's strangest place names — No Place, a hamlet in northern England. The origin of the name is unknown, but a reporter who once stopped there was told, "It is home, and there is no place like it."

The surface of North America is worn down about one foot every 1,000 years by the processes of erosion, according to geological surveys.

Dulles Enjoys Playing With Model Train

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles played for 10 minutes with a 15-inch locomotive yesterday at the State Department —and obviously enjoyed it.

It was Dulles' boyhood ambition to run the original of the model. He told a luncheon on his 70th birthday Feb. 25 that when he was 10 years old his ambition was not to be secretary of state but to drive engine No. 999 of the New York Central Railroad.

Dulles said at the luncheon that No. 999 achieved an unprecedented speed of 60 miles an hour in 1898, when he was 10. The inscription on the picture politely reminded him that the famed locomotive could do far better than that and had reached a speed of 112½ m.p.h. in 1893.

"I was apparently lying," Dulles remarked with a broad grin, wearing the gray cap and red bandana scarf of engineers. Horning quickly reassured him that 60 miles was the regular scheduled speed of the locomotive and the record was established when Central was trying to get a mail contract.

Bushmen Painted Only 90 Years Ago

JOHANNESBURG — Up to less than 90 years ago, African Bushmen were painting on rock faces, carrying on the traditions of thousands of years, according to A. R. Willcox, of Johannesburg.

It has long been a question whether Bushmen artists still painted after the white men came, says Mr. Willcox, an authority. Studies have showed that the last group of Bushmen in the Drakensberg area of South Africa were annihilated in 1870 near Barkly East.

Until their destruction they had been painting everything they saw from their hideouts high in the mountains, Willcox said. They were termed "voel vry," which meant that anyone could shoot them with the same liberty that they could shoot vermin. They were great cattle and sheep thieves.

Miriani Not in Harmony With Symphony Request

DETROIT (INS) — Mayor Louis C. Miriani reportedly has spurned a request from the Detroit Symphony to permit the group to use Ford Auditorium rent-free for the next five years.

It was revealed that Symphony President John B. Ford made the request to the mayor informally. Ford said the symphony needs money to pay for a huge wooden shell that is to make music sound better.

Security for You

Check to See If Boss Is Paying Tax

By RAY HENRY

Household workers have a bigger responsibility than other workers in making sure their employers are meeting Social Security requirements.

The reason is simple: Most household workers—that is, maids, cooks, laundresses, gardeners, handymen, etc.—work for housewives. And housewives are usually a lot less familiar with Social Security requirements than other employers. Thus, there's a better chance they'll make errors or fail to report an employe's earnings to Social Security.

So, if you're a household worker, you should try to make sure your employer meets the Social Security requirements so far as your Social Security record is concerned. If she doesn't, your Social Security payments may be smaller.

Just what is an employer supposed to do when she hires you as a household worker?

If you receive at least $50 every three months in wages, she's supposed to deduct 2¼ per cent from your pay, add another 2¼ per cent from her own pocket, and pay the total to her District Director of Internal Revenue, at the end of each calendar quarter of the year.

A calendar quarter is a three-month period beginning Jan. 1, April 1, July 1, or Oct. 1. Your employer can get special forms for reporting your Social Security taxes through the nearest Internal Revenue Office.

It's not only important that your employer report your earnings, it's just as important that he report the right amount. This is because the size of Social Security payments, are, in general, based on your annual earnings. If your employer reports earnings smaller than those you've actually had, your future Social Security payments may be greatly reduced.

There are two ways to make sure your employer is doing the right thing.

If you know your employer is reporting your earnings and you only want to check on whether he's reporting the right amounts, all you have to do is drop a post card or letter to: Social Security Administration, Candler Building, Baltimore 2, Maryland. Give your full name and address, Social Security number, date of birth, and sign your name in ink the way it appears on your Social Security card.

Ask for a statement of wages. If the wage statement you get from Social Security doesn't agree with your own records, get in touch with your nearest Social Security office.

But suppose your employer is reporting none of your earnings? Your best bet in this case is to get directly in touch with your nearest Social Security office. Ask for an investigation of your work.

If it turns out that your employer should be reporting your earnings under Social Security, he'll be forced to do so. What's more, if there are any past-due Social Security taxes on your work, he'll have to pay both his share and yours.

The Social Security people urge you to check on your Social Security account at least once every three years. When an error in your account goes undetected for longer than three years, it's usually too late to correct it.

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service. You may obtain Ray Henry's new social security handbook by sending 35 cents in coin to this newspaper and requesting "Security for You" booklets.)

Europe's Roads More Deadly

By MARK EMOND

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The American driver, exposed to constant somber warnings about death on the highway, might properly feel he is taking his life in his hands everytime he slides behind the wheel.

But if it's any consolation, he may be interested to hear that his chances of reaching his destination at least are far better than most road travelers in Europe.

The connection between men on wheels and men below tombstones is not peculiar to the United States. In fact, road fatalities in Western Europe are about four times as great as those in the United States when figured both on a mileage basis and on number of passenger cars in use.

BLOODTHIRSTY ROADS

A World Health Organization periodical blame these surprising facts on what it calls "Europe's bloodthirsty roads." The publication claims that 9.9 persons died for every 62½ million miles covered by road travelers in 10 Western European countries in 1955 (the latest figures for all were available). The toll for the United States figured on the same basis is only 2.7.

For every 10,000 passenger cars in use, 31.1 persons died in Europe and only 7.4 in the United States during the same year. In 1955, there were 51,989,000 autos in use in the United States and 11,333,000 in the 10 European countries. A bit more than 38,000 persons were killed in U. S. traffic accidents that year; some 35,000 died in the 10 Western European countries.

The publication, World Health, estimated that about 70 per cent of Europe's traffic fatalities are due to faulty roads. A spokesman for the U. S. National Safety Council said he knew of no U. S. figure available to make a comparison, but he was sure the percentage here is much lower.

BLAME BIKES, COWS, ETC.

Drivers in Europe report that the great number of bicycles, motorbikes, scooters and other small motor-driven vehicles are a menace on the road. Because they cannot usually keep up with the normal traffic stream, they present a serious hazard on the predominant two-lane highways.

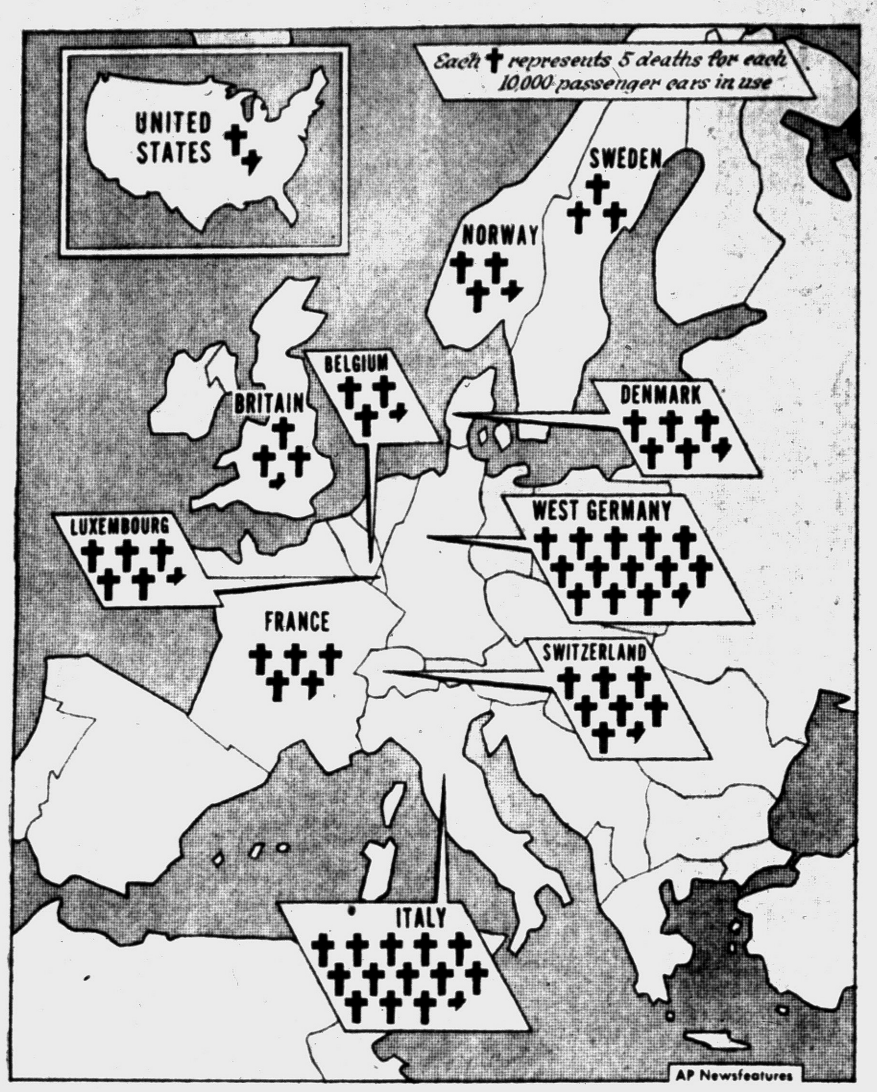
The roads are congested and generally too narrow. Farm animals are often found wandering on the highways. In some areas the roads are fantastically twisted. Fearless truck drivers on narrow mountain passes are said to terrorize even the hardiest traveler.



While most European road surfaces are good, the traffic engineering has simply failed to keep up with the modernization of vehicles. In West Germany, where the fact that the death rate is increased production and some roads are very modern, about nine times greater than speed limit are said to account for bad driving and the absence of a that in the United States.

French Youths Vote Modern

Poll Shows 53 Pct. Felt Lucky They Are Living in Present Epoch

PARIS (INS)—French youth has voted three-to-one in favor of the mid-Twentieth Century.

Frenchmen (and Frenchwomen) aged 18-30 were asked: "Do you find that you're rather lucky or rather unlucky to live in the present epoch?"

Fifty-three per cent said they were rather lucky, 18 per cent found themselves rather unlucky and 29 per cent chose not to choose.

One young housewife said: "I prefer to live in 1957 because it's no longer the time of slavery of women. I can work if I wish, I have the right to be independent, to go out, to breathe."

DEATH TOO NEAR

But another housewife voted against the present "because in other times fear of war was not as strong. We feel death too close to us."

The pollsters, in an attempt to learn who influences the minds of the new generation, drew up a list of ten French authors and asked:

"If you had to designate one of the following authors as especially representing the spirit of people your age, which would you choose?"

Forty-eight per cent said they were unable to answer. Almost 40 per cent of those who did answer chose Jean Paul Saartre, leader of French atheistic existentialism.

When asked which profession would now be the best choice for a 20-year-old male, 37 per cent said that of engineer or technician.

The strength and importance of the family in France was indicated by answers to this question: "Is there something for which you are ready to risk your life?"

A total of 41 per cent answered yes to the question and the most popular "yes" answer was "for the defense and safety of the home. For my family." Twelve per cent responded in this fashion, while only seven per cent said they were willing to risk their lives for their country.

Two-fifth of the area of the U.S. comprising most of 19 states is drained by the Mississippi river system.

Seen as 'Safety Valve'

Not Curbing Free Speech in Poland; Only Written Word Limited Today

WARSAW (INS) — Poles have fifty per cent freedom of expression.

They may not be able to write everything they want, but they can certainly speak. Freedom to say exactly what they think has not been curbed. In fact, it is encouraged as a "safety valve."

Many Poles believe that so long as they can say what they like people will not be too upset about what is written—and not written.

Polish writers admit frankly they have been curbed to an extent but they insist that on the whole the curbing is now self-imposed. One writer said: "Of course there is some fear now about writing freely but it is chiefly fear that as writers we may bring Soviet anger down on all of us."

Russian interference is not as direct as it used to be. A Soviet official can no longer directly interfere with Polish life. However, through normal diplomatic channels the Russians can ask Poland to explain why "an anti-Socialist writer or anti-Socialist publication" is permitted to continue.

Polish writers have come to a gradual realization of Poland's position in practical politics. On the whole they recognize the fact that Poland and Poles have become just about as free as they are going to be considering their position on the map and their relations with the Communist bloc.

With this realization has come disillusionment. Some have reacted with despair, some with cynicism and some with alcohol. But that stage too is passing and the writers are shaking down themselves into acceptance of whatever freedom they can hold on to.

And because there is such complete freedom of speech the party and government are well aware of what the people grumble about.

Poland today is in a situation of almost permanent economic and political emergency. It takes seasoned, skilled journalists and writers to properly cover her delicate situation.

The average Polish intellectual is among the world's greatest freedom lover. He believes in abstract values with a passion. But few have had any practical experience in politics and scarcely any have had any practical knowledge or experience in economics. Their work in assessing correctly their own nation's position is difficult.

And with the present freedom of speech there are as many conflicting opinions and reports about facts as there are Polish journalists.

Because of this the party and government have clamped down on stories about state affairs. One powerful Communist said:

"If our journalists hear about it they pass it on to you and they all have different versions according to what amount of the truth they have learned and also according to the view they take of the event themselves. So from now on about certain matters there will simply be no news at all." He was referring especially to the recent talks between Gomulka and Khrushchev.

The recent attacks in the Czechoslovak press against Polish writers and journalists have raised some eyebrows. One belief is that there has been trouble among Czech writers and the Czech party upbraids them by scolding the Poles who could be called the "bad example" set before the Czechs.

The majority view, however, is that the Czech action is a roundabout way of applying Soviet pressure on Poland. Either the Czechs believe such criticism pleases the Russians or they have been directly ordered to criticize the Poles as a hint to behave. This same device was used by Russians against Yugoslavs in the past.

It does not, however, bother the Poles. They claim that such attacks in the early days after Gomulka's rise to power would have been worrisome. Now they believe they are in a stronger position. Additionally, the Czech attacks are all about the Polish journalists' attitude toward theater and books and not about ideology.

A Communist said: "We have learned we can have socialism without making the people agree with us one hundred per cent. If they like abstract art they can have it although I personally hate it. I'm sure it will not affect in any way the Polish road to socialism and having a few Czechs say to the contrary doesn't bother me in the least."

SEES U. S. S. R. AHEAD — Soviet Russia's hydro-electrical power production now approaches and will soon surpass that of the United States. Individual power plants in the U. S. S. R. are far bigger than the largest installations in America. Those statements and many more as surprising were made by Maj. Gen. Emerson C. Itschner, Chief of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers in recent testimony before the Senate Interior and Public Works committee.

Want to Shift Funds to Lakes Project

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army engineers want to shift immediately one million dollars in construction funds to the great lakes connecting channels project around Michigan.

The engineers report they have made such fast progress on the channel deepening that they may have to halt work before the end of the fiscal year, June 30, unless additional funds are forthcoming.

They say similar progress has been made on six other projects in other parts of the country.

The money being sought already has been appropriated to the engineers, ~~but not~~ assigned to specific projects.

The request to shift already has been approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee and now needs only House Appropriations Committee action. This is expected to come next Monday.

Detroit Cardinal Sick With Diverticulitis

DETROIT (INS) — His excellency, Edward Cardinal Mooney, was confined to Providence Hospital yesterday for observation of what was first believed to be acute appendicitis.

Msgr. Joseph M. Breitenbeck, secretary to the cardinal, said:

"The cardinal was admitted early Saturday with a suspected acute appendicitis.

"Upon examination, however, no surgery was indicated. The inflammation was diagnosed as acute diverticulitis and it was thought advisable for the cardinal to remain in the hospital."

Good Fish, Egg Supplies to Hold Through March

March into your food store with confidence because you know the foods to expect during March. The season's the reason for many foods you'll find, reminds the MSU Marketing Information Agent. Meat in season is pork. There will be good supplies of fish and eggs. Supplies of winter fruits and fall potatoes grow smaller. In some markets spring items such as asparagus and pineapples have already made their appearance.

MEATS—Pork supplies in March are predicted to be at their seasonal peak. Farmers are expected to be marketing heavier animals so you are likely to find that individual pork cuts may be larger than they were during the past two months. There may be more sales of pork, but no great decline in price is expected.

Beef prices in March are assumed to continue at about the same level as they were in February. The importance of knowing what you are buying will bring the greatest satisfaction in dollar and eating value. Do you know:

1. What grade of beef the grocer sells?

2. Which and what grades of those cuts to buy for dry heat or moist heat cooking?

3. That you need not buy a Prime or Choice grade chuck roast for pot roasting? Lower grades are good when pot roasted. Moisture of the cooking will give the needed tenderness.

4. Fat covering on top beef grades does impart flavor. You may want the moisture of pot roasting to be some added flavor in form of tomatoes, tomato juice, sour cream, bouillon or soup.

5. All meat processing plants in Michigan are inspected for cleanliness and sanitation.

Fish are a good menu-catch. But you need to decide which fish lures the appetites at your house. Is it fresh, frozen or canned fish?

The Great Lakes fishing season has started with larger supplies expected within two weeks. At present, herring is one of the most plentiful varieties. Cost per serving is about twenty cents. Whitefish and smelt are in ample supply.

EGGS—Cold weather has temporarily decreased egg production. The large size, which is most plentiful at this season, now sell for 4½ to 5 cents each. This is very thrifty protein food when you compare a serving of two large eggs with most meat cuts.

Agricultural economists report that March will bring the seasonal high in egg production. There are 6 per cent less laying hens than last year, but the rate at which they lay is expected to be up slightly. Large and extra large sizes will be the better value if you figure cost per pound.

PRODUCE—Harvesting of fresh produce has been retarded due to rain in Texas and California. Supplies of fresh vegetables are medium to short.

Greater customer demand for potatoes and fewer supplies are reasons for the pennies per pound increase on potato prices. Still, a pound of potatoes will serve three for fewer pennies than most vegetables.

Other fresh vegetables to check for the low to moderate cost list are onions, carrots, spinach, rutabagas, turnips and lettuce.

Although apple supplies get smaller as the winter goes by, they are one of the top fruit buys. Most varieties are from 12 to 16 cents a pound and lower than last year at this time.

A pound of Michigan hothouse rhubarb can be the answer to something colorful, something tart. A pound will make about five one - half cup servings of sauce for about four cents each.

Grapefruit at 7½ to 10 cents a pound is another fruit value not to be overlooked. Neither should the 46-ounce cans of natural fruit juices be overlooked. Six medium grapefruit, one and one-half dozen medium juice oranges and one 46-ounce can contain about 6 cups of juice or twelve 4-ounce servings.

Prunes Adapt to Many Foods

Prunes may not be exactly girlish, but surely there's something feminine about their basic sweetness, and the ease with which they adapt to any situation with just a slight change in primping.

Home economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which lists dried prunes as a plentiful food this month, say some of the simplest changes in "primping" can be done with water.

Suppose you want to use dried prunes in a salad, or as a garnish for meat. Don't bother to soak the prunes. Simply cover them in a sauce pan with cold water; bring to a boil, reduce the heat and simmer for about half an hour. Pour off the water and the prunes are ready to use.

But suppose you want to serve the prunes for breakfast, and you would like to have them in a thick syrup. In that case, soak the prunes in water for several hours. Then bring to a quick boil and simmer about five minutes. Many people like cream over prunes prepared this way.

If you're going to use prunes in baking, or of they're to be cooked with some other food, don't cook them in advance. Soak them in cold water, about twice as deep as the prunes, for about 24 hours. Pour off the water and the prunes are ready to use.

And if you want to get some of the delicious juice from dried prunes, pour boiling water over them, and let the prunes soak 24 hours.

Use twice as much water as prunes. The juice extracted in this way will be about the right strength and flavor for drinking.

Velvety Smooth Texture of Cheese Cake Charms

Ever wish you knew how to make a real dessert masterpiece? A homemade confection so unbelievably delectable that you just couldn't keep the recipe to yourself? Well, look no further. Here we offer you a truly superb dessert. It is called Velvet Cheese Cake — and no adjective ever described a cake more beautifully.

Seriously, if you're yearning for a blue-ribbon reputation, wait 'til the next really special occasion and proceed with the recipe. Don't let the two and a half pounds of cream cheese frighten you — they are all a part of the velvet. Actually, you'll find the directions for making the cake quite simple. Just be sure to leave the cake in tthe oven one hour after the heat's turned off — that, too, is part of the magic!

Velvet Cheese Cake

½ cup butter or margarine, softened
1 package zwieback, crushed
½ cup powdered sugar
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
2½ lbs. cream cheese (bought in bulk)
1¾ cups granulated sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoons grated orange peel
½ teaspoon vanilla
5 eggs, unbeaten
2 egg yolks
¾ cup heavy cream

Grease bottom and sides of 9-inch spring-form pan with a little of the butter or margarine. Combine remaining butter or margarine, zwieback crumbs, powdered sugar and ½ tablespoon grated lemon peel. Mix well. Press on bottom and sides of spring-form pan, reserving about one-third cup for top.

Combine cream cheese, granulated sugar, flour, remaining lemon peel, orange peel and vanilla; beat until smooth and fluffy. Add 1 egg at a time, stirring in lightly. Add egg yolks one at a time. Stir in heavy cream. Spoon into spring-form pan, spreading evenly. Sprinkle remaining crumb mixture on top.

Bake in very slow oven, 250 degrees, 1 hour. Turn off heat and leave in oven 1 hour longer. Remove from oven. Let cool slowly to room temperature. Chill. Yield: 12 to 16 servings. This may be kept for three or four days in the refrigerator.

'Cookies' Cook in Syrup Butter

Perfect for easy entertaining are these brand new "Bread 'n' Syrup" cookies. Versatile, too—simply cut to match the occasion. About as easy to make, too, as a cookie can be—and in addition the ingredients are always handy; bread, butter, maple-blended syrup. Serve them at "coffee breaks" . . . at TV gatherings . . . at bridge parties . . . as well as for the youngsters' parties.

Try them topped with a rosette of cream cheese whipped with a little maple-blended syrup. Try serving them tucked at the sides of a dish of your favorite ice cream. You'll love their crispness, flavor and ease of preparation.

Breakfast Cookies

½ cup maple-blended syrup
¼ cup butter
6 to 8 slices bread

Heat maple-blended syrup and butter in a large skillet over medium heat. Meanwhile, remove crusts from bread and cut bread into squares, rectangles, or strips, or use cooky cutters. Place in skillet. Cook about 2 minutes. Turn. Cook for 5 minutes, or until golden brown. Turn again and brown. Remove from skillet. Place cookies on waxed paper to cool. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Makes about 24 cookies.

Note: If desired, sprinkle cookies with small decorettes or flaked coconut as soon as they are removed from skillet.

Spinach Is Fashionable

To bring out the full flavor of spinach, cook it (covered) in just the water that clings to the leaves from washing. And don't overcook it — a quick five to eight minutes is sufficient. Try it raw too: the chopped leaves are lovely in spring salads. Or . . . cook it with some onions; add a handful of raisins to the pot; pour some browned butter over it just before serving or dress it up with lemon slices.

YOUR CHOICE OF 6 HI-FASHION COLORS... At your WRIGLEY'S Gold Bell Gift Stamps SUPERMARKETS

Large White Onions Usually Milder

A good cook knows her onions. It is easy to get acquainted says the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

At the counter there is a wide selection of colors, sizes and flavors, but wisest selection is based on how you use the onion in the menu. Two general classes of onions include the large mild-flavored ones and the medium sized strong-flavored ones. Within these classes you may find red, brown, yellow and white onions. White ones are usually the mildest.

Whatever your choice, look for onions that are bright, clean, hard and well-shaped with mature dry skins. Moisture in the neck of the onion is a sign of decay.

Braise Stuffed Chops

To prepare stuffed pork chops, have chops cut double thick with a pocket on the bone side; put well-seasoned bread stuffing in pocket and braise slowly in heavy skillet on both sides; add small amount of water, cover tightly, and cook on top of stove or in oven until tender.

Jack Horner Turnovers Call for Ice Cream

Good way to use canned purple plums.

Plum Turnovers

2 cups flour
½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
¾ cup (1½ sticks) butter or margarine
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
5 tablespoons milk (about)
1 can (1 pound and 14 ounces) purple plums extra butter or margarine sugar
1 pint vanilla ice cream

Stir flour before measuring, sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in butter with pastry blender until particles are fine; sprinkle with grated orange rind. Stir in milk gradually with a fork, tossing mixture together lightly. Use only enough milk to hold ingredients together.

Roll out on prepared pastry cloth into a rectangle 18 by 12 inches; cut into six 6-inch squares. Drain plums and pit; put 2 or 3 plums in center of each pastry square; dot each portion of plums with a sliver of buter and sprinkle with 1 teaspoon sugar. Pinch edges together firmly so corners meet in center making a square.

Brush tops with milk but do not prick. Place on greased baking sheet and bake in hot (425 degrees) oven about 25 minutes or until browned. Serve hot with vanilla ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

Apricot Bits Color Bread

You'll want to bake Sunday bread on Saturday, toast it for Sunday breakfast and serve it with coffee on Sunday afternoon when guests drop in. We guarantee there'll be nary a crumb by Sunday night.

This delicious bread—full of apricots, raisins and nuts—is made in a jiffy and sliced the next day. Sunday Bread and lots of fresh, hot coffee—just the thing for a leisurely, languid, at-home day!

Sunday Bread

2 cups biscuit mix
1 cup rolled oats, uncooked
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup snipped dried apricots
½ cup golden seedless raisins
½ cup broken walnut meats
1 egg, well-beaten
1¼ cups milk

Combine first five ingredients by stirring (do not sift). Add fruits and nuts. Combine egg and milk and stir in. Beat hard with a spoon for half a minute. Spoon into greased 1½ quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 50 to 60 minutes.

Cool in casserole 10 minutes, then remove to rack. Cool. If desired, frost with a thin confectioners' sugar icing. Do not slice until the day after baking.

Bake Shell Until Golden

General directions for baking a pastry shell: prick the shell well all over with a fork and bake in a very hot (450 degrees) oven for 12 to 15 minutes or until gold colored. Remove from oven, cool and then fill.

Pickled Pears Excellent Served With Meat

A very, very old recipe book had in it a "receipt" for "Pickled Lily" . . . known today as "piccalilli." Better yet is this new recipe for Pickled Pears . . . which makes a splendid accompaniment for individual frozen meat pies . . . beef, chicken or turkey. Make the pears the day before serving, then chill overnight to develop those spicy good flavors.

Drain syrup from 1 can (1 pound 13 ounces) pear halves into a saucepan. Stir in 1-3 cup sugar, ¼ cup vinegar and 1 teaspoon cracked cinnamon stick. Poke each pear half with 4 cloves; add to syrup. Bring to boiling; reduce heat and simmer 4 or 5 minutes. Cool; then chill several hours or overnight. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

SHAMROCK FRUIT SALAD — St. Patrick's Day means green maraschino cherries. Use the cherries to make these Cherry Shamrock Salads.

St. Patrick's Day Calls for Special Salads

It's the homemaker who can plan on serving foods appropriate to the various holidays that is dubbed "the best cook in town." Actually, it requires little in the way of work, just some imagination.

When it comes to Saint Patrick's day what's the first thing you think of: Green, of course. And what's green that has a delightful flavor and can be used unlimitedly in decorating and enhancing foods? Green maraschino cherries, of course. With one or two bottles of green maraschino cherries on hand, you can go to town creating any number of St. Patrick's Day specialties.

If you're having the girls in for a light snack or "coffee and . . ." serve them a Shamrock Fruit Salad. Or you might want to serve this St. Patrick's Day Salad.

Shamrock Fruit Salad

13 canned pear halves
Green food coloring
2 cups cottage cheese
½ teaspoon mint extract
2 teaspoons dehydrated parsley flakes
Green maraschino cherries

Tint pears to desired shade, using food coloring. Drain pears. Combine cottage cheese, mint and parsley; mix well. Cut one pear half in quarters lengthwise. Arrange pears in shape of a shamrock, using lengthwise pieces as stems. Garnish with green maraschino cherries. Serves four.

St. Patrick's Day Salad

1 9-ounce can pineapple tidbits, drained
1 cup flaked coconut
½ cup salted peanuts
1 1-pound 13-ounce can apricot halves, drained
½ cup green maraschino cherries (about 18 cherries)

Combine pineapple, coconut and peanuts. Arrange pineapple mixture in center of serving plate. Surround with apricots and cherries. Serves about six.

Lemons Ripen Slowly Off Tree

Lemons are not picked but cut with a special clipper. Each lemon is clipped with a short length of stem attached and sized with a steel ring.

Since lemons are usually picked according to size rather than color they may be green when put into the storage rooms. During storage at point of origin, lemons usually are held at 55 to 58 degrees F. and 85 to 90 per cent humidity. Lemons that are of proper size and dark green color when picked have the longest storage life. This life is one to six months.

Tree ripened fruit does not keep well. When lemons are properly cured, they will give more and better juice than when allowed to yellow on the tree.

Forty to fifty carloads of lemons with a thousand cartons per load arrive at the processing plant each day. They are then carefully dumped onto conveyor belts, sorted by gloved hands to prevent bruising, washed in warm soapy water and given a light waxing to seal in the moisture preserving the precious flavor and juice.

Electronic color sorters are now used. They are then stored for several months to fully ripen. After curing to a uniform yellow, lemons are inspected, sorted and packed.

Check Pork Appearance in Place of Gradings

Have you wondered why pork does not carry grade markings like those found on beef? The main reason is that pork comes from young animals, so tenderness and flavor vary very little.

If you want the best pork use your counter-intelligence suggests the MSU Marketing Information Agent. Look for smooth, fine grained lean that is grayish-pink in color. The fat on the outer edges should be firm and white relates Mrs. Lawyer. Notice that most markets trim off much of the outside fat before putting the meat in the counter.

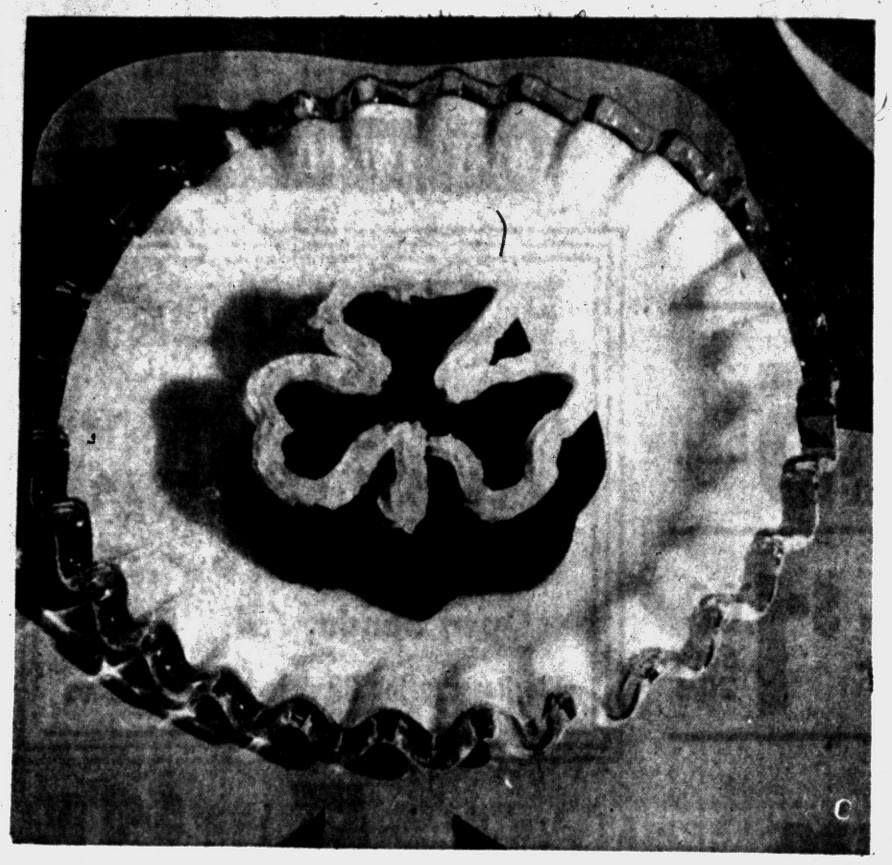
Puddings Climax Good Meals



ST. PATTY'S DAY PUDDING — The luck of the Irish holds good when there's steamed fig pudding for dessert. There's luck for the cook too with this one — it's so easy because its main ingredient is fig newtons.

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

When fish and eggs are the main course, the family occasionally feels less than satisfied if dessert is not forthcoming. Lent is the time when you can serve heartier desserts.

When planning desserts, consider them part of the meal and try not to repeat ingredients or flavors. For instance, if you were serving barbecued spareribs, you probably wouldn't have a spicy dessert. Something light and fruity would be good.

If your main course is an egg dish, you could have a less bland dessert, maybe this Spiced Lemon Cream.

Spiced Lemon Cream

1 package lemon gelatine
2 cups hot water
⅔ cup sugar
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup heavy cream, whipped
¼ cup graham cracker crumbs
⅛ teaspoon ground cloves

Dissolve gelatine in hot water. Add sugar, lemon juice, lemon rind and salt. Mix well. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Beat until fluffy. Fold in whipped cream. Lightly butter individual gelatine molds. Combine graham cracker crumbs and cloves. Sprinkle over the bottoms and sides of buttered molds. Pour in gelatine mixture. Cover with remaining crumbs.

Place in freezing compartment of refrigerator. Just before serving, turn out onto dessert dishes. Top with Spiced Chocolate Sauce. Yield: 8 servings.

Spice Surprise

1 cup light cream
1 cup milk
1 package butterscotch instant pudding mix
2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice*
16 gingersnaps

Pour cream and milk in bowl. Combine pudding mix and spices and add to milk. Beat slowly with egg beater just until well mixed, about 1 minute. Pour into serving dishes. Let stand 5 minutes to set.

Before serving, garnish with gingersnaps to form scalloped border and sprinkle lightly with nutmeg. Makes 4 servings.

*Or use 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg and ½ teaspoon ginger

The dessert in the accompanying photograph is hearty like all steamed puddings. To honor St. Patrick next week, steam it in shamrock shaped molds. It will taste equally good in any form.

St. Patty's Day Pudding

2 (7¾ ozs.) pkgs. fig newtons
½ cup milk
¼ cup butter
1 egg, well beaten
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon baking powder

Break fig newtons into milk. Let stand 15 minutes; stir to blend. Meanwhile cream butter; add egg, cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg, lemon juice, lemon rind and baking powder. Stir into fig mixture. Divide into 12 small greased molds; cover tightly with aluminum foil. Steam 30 minutes. Cool a few minutes before unmolding. Garnish with hard sauce or whipped cream.

A delicate pleasing dessert is Apple Snow. We think many young homemakers do not know about this good old-fashioned recipe. Children love it and dieters appreciate its low calorie count.

Apple Snow

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatine
2 tablespoons cold water
2 cups canned apple sauce
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
3 egg whites
½ cup sugar
Few grains salt
Custard Sauce, if desired

Soften gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes. Heat apple sauce; add gelatine, stirring until dissolved. Add lemon juice and rind; mix well. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites stiff; gradually add sugar, beating constantly, until stiff. Add salt. Fold egg white mixture into apple sauce. Spoon into sherbet glasses; serve with Custard Sauce, if desired. Yields 8-10 servings.

Plentiful Berries Flavor Dessert

Strawberry Cream Pudding

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup strained lemon juice
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen sliced strawberries
1 cup heavy cream
Confectioners sugar
Vanilla

Sprinkle gelatin over lemon juice in a cup and allow to stand to soften. Heat undrained strawberries to boiling point. Remove from heat and stir in softened gelatin until dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened; whip cream, sweetening to taste with confectioners sugar and flavoring with vanilla; fold cream into strawberry mixture. Chill thoroughly. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Chicken and Oysters Form Partnership

Chicken a la king is a well-known favorite in every home. But have you ever tried combining it with frozen condensed oyster stew . . . to win a gourmet's praise? If you haven't, you're in for a new taste treat. Follow this recipe for a quick-to-the-table delight:

Heat 1 can (10½ ounces) chicken a la king with 1 can (10 ounces) frozen condensed oyster stew until thawed. Blend 2 tablespoons flour with ¼ cup water to form a smooth paste; add gradually to hot mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Serve over toast to 4 hungry people.

Pan Frying Not Only Way to Cook Lenten Fish

Pontiac Press Home Editor

Thousands of Oakland County families become fish eaters at this time of year. Of course, with all the ardent fishermen in the area, many homes have fish on the table often. Today, however, we are speaking of ocean fish.

Pan frying is but one way of cooking fish. Fish needs only to be cooked until the flesh flakes easily. It never needs prolonged cooking the way a pot roast does.

Fresh or frozen salmon steaks are excellent poached. This keeps the fish moist and flavorful, says the National Fisheries Institute.

POACHED SALMON STEAKS WITH EGG SAUCE

Place salmon steaks on a heatproof plate or pie pan. Place plate or pan on a large square of cheesecloth. Bring corners of cheesecloth up over plate and tie securely. Put about a half inch of water in the bottom of a large frying pan or kettle (one big enough to hold plate or pie pan). Add ½ teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon pickling spices to water. Bring water to a boil, then turn heat down so that water simmers. Place plate of fish steaks in simmering water. Cover and let simmer 10 minutes. Remove steaks and drain. Serve immediately with egg sauce.

Egg Sauce

¼ cup butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup hot water or fish stock
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 hard-cooked egg, sliced

Melt butter in a saucepan. Remove pan from heat and stir in flour until smooth. Gradually add water or stock and seasonings. Return pan to heat and cook, stirring constantly until thickened, about 3 to 5 minutes. Add sliced egg and pour over poached salmon. Makes enough sauce for 3 to 4 salmon steaks.

Oven frying is a fairly new method of fish cookery. You use a high temperature of 525 degrees and cook the fish only 10-12 minutes. This means no odor, no turning, no watching.

Instead of dipping the fillets in bread or cracker crumbs try wheat germ. This will give your fillets a new nut-like flavor and will add extra nutrition to your meal.

OVEN-FRIED FILLETS WITH WHEAT GERM

1 pound fish fillets, fresh or frozen
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup wheat germ
1 teaspoon paprika
3 tablespoons melted butter
½ lemon

If frozen, allow fillets to thaw and dry thoroughly. Combine beaten egg, salt and pepper. Dip fillets, one at a time, into egg mixture, then coat on both sides with wheat germ mixed with paprika. Fold each fillet in half to form a double thickness, then place them side-by-side in a buttered shallow baking dish. Drizzle melted butter and squeeze lemon over fish.

Bake in preheated 525-degree oven 10 to 12 minutes, or until fish flakes easily with fork. Serve with additional lemon wedges, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Fillets may be used in another way. Steam, poach or bake your favorite perch, cod or haddock. Flake it and use it in a fish ring. This may be served with some sharp colored vegetable like carrots or broccoli.

FLAKED FISH RING

2 lbs. frozen fillets (ocean perch, cod or haddock), cooked
2 eggs
½ cup tomato juice
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup parsley, minced
3 tablespoons chopped celery

Flake fish. Mix in remaining ingredients. Place mixture in buttered ring mold and bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, for 30 minutes. Run a knife around edges and turn out on platter. Fill center with sliced carrots or broccoli. Garnish with chicory or other greens. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Five Minutes to Fix Dessert

Company dessert? Nothing to worry about—not even for unexpected callers.

Since new five-minute packaged pre-cooked rice made its debut with the new year, perfectly scrumptious desserts can be whipped together in no time flat. Take, for instance, this creamy "Lemon Rice Pudding" — equally delicious when served warm or cool and especially pretty with a lemon mint patty garnish.

This novel recipe is nutritious, too, since important vitamin enrichment has gone into this rice product along with the built-in advantages of greater speed and improved flavor-texture qualities.

You'll serve "Lemon Rice Pudding" again and again for the fun it is to make and the joy it is to eat.

Lemon Rice Pudding

⅔ cup packaged pre-cooked rice
½ teaspoon salt
1⅔ cups milk
1 egg, slightly beaten
⅓ cup sugar
2 to 3 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon butter

Combine packaged pre-cooked rice, salt, and milk in saucepan. Bring to a full boil, uncovered. Cover, remove from heat, and let stand about 5 miutes, fluffing occasionally with a fork.

Meanwhile, combine egg, sugar, lemon juice and lemon rind. Add a small amount of the hot rice mixture and stir well. Return to saucepan. Add butter. Cook and stir over low heat about 4 minutes.

Spoon into individual dessert dishes at once. Serve warm or cool. Garnish desserts with lemon-mint patties, if desired.

Tobasco Rice Pungent

Plentiful and thrifty rice is the basis of many popular main dishes. To avoid blandness, use Tabasco liberally during preparation of recipe. A liquid red pepper seasoning, Tabasco adds pungent flavor while blending smoothly with other ingredients.

Brownies Different Made With Coffee

If you'd like to serve something sweet and delicious with coffee, here's a remarkably easy recipe for Mocha Peanut Brownies. Be sure to make plenty of fragrant, hot coffee to go with them — they're the perfect coffee companion!

Mocha Peanut Brownies

1 package Brownie Mix
1 cup halved salted peanuts
Strong coffee

Prepare Brownie mix as directed on package, using strong coffee instead of liquid called for. Stir in peanuts. Bake as directed. Cut into squares to serve. If desired, frost with confectioners' sugar icing and decorate with melted unsweetened chocolate drizzled from teaspoon.

Lemon Juice Develops Flavor in Other Foods

Since lemon juice contains a natural balance of the four components of taste: sweet, sour, salty and bitter it has been used more extensively to enhance and to develop inherent food flavor than any other substance, except salt. Lemon juice will make the absence of salt less noticeable, and is highly recommended in low-salt diets.

Lemon is also a great beauty aid. This beautifying effect is probably one reason the ancient Chinese called it "li-mung," which meant "health to women."

Dry Milk Powder Like Kitchen Magic

Using nonfat dry milk is like having white magic in your kitchen. You get a four-way bonus for there is no waste. You mix as you need more. It is convenient to use. Takes little storage space. Costs so little.

Dry milk powder is easy to dissolve says the MSU Marketing Information Agent. Follow the package directions for the amount of powder to use in proportion to water. Simply sprinkle the powder on lukewarm water and stir gently with a slotted spoon. Vigorous stirring or using a whipping motion will produce excessive foam, reminds Mrs. Lawyer.

Nonfat dry milk can be used in all the ways any milk is used in cooking or for drinking. For drinking, chill thoroughly before serving.

Sweetbreads Don't Keep

Sweetbreads may be braised or fried without precooking but sweetbreads are always precooked if being used in salads, or for serving creamed with veal or ham. If the sweetbreads are not to be used immediately after purchase, they should be precooked regardless of tthe preparation method.

Bacon Graduated, Fits All Meals With Ease

Breakfast bacon has long since graduated to lunch, supper, dinner and snack-time. Its smoky-sweet flavor makes it one of the most versatile meats fitting into menus around the clock.

A pound of regular bacon will serve eight people, allowing 2 to 3 strips per person, says the MSU Marketing Information Agent. Regular bacon is sold in ½ and 1 pound packages with 12 to 20 slices per pound. Thick sliced bacon is most often found in two pound packages. Canadian bacon comes sliced, 22 to 26 slices per pound or in a whole piece.

3 Couples Preparing for Cruise

To Sail Ketch on Dream Vacation in Caribbean

By RUTH SAUNDERS

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — A dreamboat indeed might well be the name of the ketch three couples have chartered for several weeks to cruise to islands of the Caribbean.

The trip has been planned by ardent sailors Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Brewster of Bloomfield Township, Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Jackson of Birmingham and Mr. and Mrs. David Sutter of Grosse Pointe, who all have wanted to take this special kind of a vacation for years.

They will fly to Antigua via New York and Puerto Rico, and embark from there for various ports including those on the Windward Islands and the Virgin Islands. They plan to be away about a month.

CONCLUDE VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Armstrong left Tuesday for their home in New York after a visit at Bloomfield Hills Country Club. They formerly lived in Bloomfield Village.

Among their old friends who entertained for them were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Polk Jr., who gave a cocktail party; Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Jackson and Mrs. Ray Cunningham, who were cohosts for a dinner at Bloomfield Open Hunt; Mrs. Jack Davis, Mrs. Irving A. Duffy and Mrs. Hugh Loud, who each gave a luncheon for Mrs. Armstrong.

In New York the Armstrongs are neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Strouse, who are former Birmingham residents.

Mrs. Eldon J. Bemis will leave March 26 for Mexico City where she will spend several weeks with Mrs. Grafton Perkins Jr., who has taken a house there for a few months. Mrs. Perkins is from Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Kerr will entertain a group of friends at dinner next Saturday evening, March 15.

VISIT PARENTS

Lt. and Mrs. David Williams have been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Williams for a few weeks before Lt. Williams leaves for Korea.

Mrs. Williams is on her way to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harsen Smith, at their winter home there.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Maxwell are joining the Richard Flannerys of Perrysburg, Ohio, today and going to Aspen, Ohio, for a fortnight of winter sports.

Mr. and Mrs. Washburne Wright are expected home this weekend from a trip to Florida.

Robert Tricker (left), president of Pontiac Civitan Club, and Richard Jarvis (right), treasurer of Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls, present matching checks of $1,000 to John Wilson at the annual meeting of Camp Fire Girls. The meeting was held Wednesday evening at All Saints Episcopal Church.

2 $1,000 Contributions Enrich Camp Fire Girls' Trust Fund

Two contributions made at Wednesday's annual meeting enriched Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls trust fund by $2,000.

Civitan Club of Pontiac presented a $1,000 contribution which was raised from fruitcake sales. The Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls matched that amount by receipts from selling candy.

MONEY FOR CAMP

The trust fund, now totaling $11,000, was established, by the two groups in 1955 to raise money for resident camp buildings at Camp Oweki near Clarkston. Girls 7 to 18 now use the camp for day, group and pioneer camp activities.

Mr. Wilson was re-elected president while Mr. Jarvis will serve as first vice president. Other Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls officers are Mrs. L. Raymond Sampson, second vice president; Mrs. Leslie Seay, secretary, and Dr. Daniel McGeen, treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors were Eldon Gardner and Dr. McGeen. Other board members include Rita Smith, Mrs. I. J. Davis, Mrs. Monroe Osmun, Mrs. Charles Uligian, William McLean, Edward Ladd, Mrs. John Wilson and Mrs. Homer Osmun, honorary.

PICTURES SHOWN

The meeting, which was held at All Saints Episcopal Church, was concluded with colored pictures and a review of last year's activities by committee chairmen.

Highlights of the year included the launching of four new adult committees, expanding of service into the county, naming Camp Oweki and paying off its mortgage, collecting 700 pounds of clothing for Hungarian relief, adding swimming to the day camp program, holding the first pioneer camp and training new leaders and assistants.

Mrs. Monroe Osmun was chairman of the event, which 75 council members, directors, leaders, assistants and guests attended. Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls is a Pontiac Area United Fund agency.

Mrs. William Graves (right) and Mrs. Monroe Osmun (center) were photographed with Mrs. Neil Wasserberger, retiring executive director of Camp Fire Girls, before the annual meeting began.

Participating in the Wednesday meeting were Mrs. Theron Taylor, president of the group; Mrs. Russell Auten, leader for the day; Mrs. Watters, sponsor; Mrs. Erwin Christie, demonstration group leader, and Mrs. Joseph Panter, quiz conductor.

Dear Abby . . .

You'll Continue to Be Abused Unless You Turn to the Law

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband's ex-wife must take this place for an orphanage. He had three children with Wife No. 1 and we agreed to take them during the summer, but we have had them dumped on us for better than half the year.

ABBY

They are mean and hard to get along with and fight with our two children. His ex-wife is really batty. She goes from one trial marriage to the next and asks us to keep her kids while she is testing the marriage.

We are not set up for five children and we find this constant dumping of her kids on us an inconvenience. Isn't there a law or something?

ABUSED

DEAR ABUSED: (and you will continue to be "abused" as long as you hold still for it.) Of course, there's a law. See your lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I am 53 years old (a bachelor) and am trying to make up my mind between two women. Ella is 44, a divorcee who is very affectionate and lively, but keeps about three or four men on the string at one time. No children.

Barney's widow (42) is the quiet type. Drives her car over here almost every night and brings a home-cooked meal for two with her. Hard to warm up but doesn't look at other men. Has one child who is married.

I could have either one. Please help me decide.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: If you want high-frequency and low-fidelity, Ella is your girl. If you want low-frequency and high-fidelity, marry Barney's widow. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: I am a recently discharged soldier and am very much in love with an older woman. Although she is 50 there is a lot of life left in her. Her youngest child is older than me but that doesn't make any difference.

The only peace of mind we have is when we are alone, because when we go out everyone makes fun of us. Do you think we could make a go of our marriage? We do.

IN LOVE

DEAR IN LOVE: The odds are against a successful marriage between a man and a woman who is old enough to be his mother, but if you two are sure, that's all it takes.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl 15 years old and I go with a boy who was just 16. He has a driver's license and I KNOW he is a good driver. My father won't let me ride with him because he isn't sure the boy is a good enough driver.

The boy passed a driver's test put out by the state. How can I prove he is safe to drive with without asking him to take my father for a ride? It is very embarrassing.

"JACKIE"

DEAR JACKIE: If the boy has a driver's license and has never been cited for a traffic violation, I would say that he is a safe driver.

DEAR ABBY: I go with a fellow who is a med student (second year) and he keeps trying to analyze my every movement.

I like him but I have always kept my distance because I am not looking for any trouble with a fellow who makes it clear everytime he sees me that he can't get married for at least seven more years.

He keeps telling me that I am doing myself harm by not "letting myself go" and he is forever saying, "Let yourself go . . . let yourself go!" What should I do?" INHIBITED (he says).

DEAR INHIBITED: Let HIM go.

Six Pages Today in Women's Section

Members of the Village Woman's Club gathered Wednesday at Oakland Hills Country Club for a luncheon and program. Arriving early were (left to right) Mrs. Aryll E. Campbell, Mrs. John R. Ackerman and Mrs. Lee Durham, all of Birmingham.

Taking charge of tickets for the Village Woman's Club luncheon were Mrs. C. E. Irwin Jr. of Birmingham and Mrs. Robert Craig of Bloomfield Hills.

Mr. Van Leuven Addresses Club

James VanLeuven spoke to 19 members of Woman's Literary Club about Oakland County Children's Home. Mrs. Fred Bohlman opened her Coleman avenue home for the meeting.

Mrs. Dale Moats, president, announced the state convention will be held in Lansing Monday and Tuesday. The next meeting is to be held at Pontiac State Hospital April 8.

A blend of dacron-and-orlon is being used for these washable no-iron, dinner jackets. It's something to remember for the summer months, too.

Prepare to Sleep in a Sack

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (INS) — The well-dressed woman will sleep in a sack this spring.

That's the prediction from one sleepwear firm which has turned out a line of youthful chemise nighties to complete the 24-hours-in-a-sack look.

Necklines are high, as befits a chemise, and either square, cryed or collar-bone height.

Since Paris has decreed a shorter hemline, that's what this lingerie firm has done. Only the new nighties are a lot shorter than Givenchy ever dreamed of — they are well above Bermuda shorts level.

The chemise nighties have a dropped waistband below the unmarked waist, as is proper in this return to the '20s. Below the band are accordian pleats for femine appeal.

Polka dots, stripes and plaids are the fabric patterns, done in soft shades to add to the womanly appeal not evident in the waistless, shapeless silhouette.

Chance for Future

Science and mathematics shape up as the fields offering the best opportunities to ambitious youngsters. Engineers are wanted desperately by the aircraft industry, and anyone interested in the facts of the life of computers, planes and almost any other machinery stands in good stead.

MR. and MRS. RODGER MANNING

Sharon K. Bradley and Rodger B. Manning were married Saturday in First Church of the Nazarene. She is the daughter of the J. W. Bradleys and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Durward B. Manning.

Sharon K. Bradley Weds in Nazarene Church Rite

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday Sharon Kay Bradley and Rodger Blaine Manning were united in marriage. The Rev. K. A. Hutchinson performed the ceremony in First Church of the Nazarene.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bradley of Auburn Heights are the bride's parents, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Durward B. Manning of Seminole avenue.

The bride wore a floor-length Chantilly lace featuring a Sabrina neckline and long sleeves.

A headpiece of silk, lace and pearls held her fingertip veil in place. The bridal bouquet was of white stephanotis and ivy.

Joyce Morgan as maid of honor wore a pink crystalete gown with contrasting cummerbund and carried a bouquet of white carnations and pink rosebuds.

Bridesmaid Joan Roth was gowned like the honor attendant in aqua and carried an arrangement of white carnations with yellow rosebuds.

GOWNED IN PINK

James Erwin was best man, and guests were seated by James Brian, Clare W. Bradley and Robert Murphy.

For a reception held in Central Methodist Church parlors Mrs. Bradley wore a toast taffeta dress with lace overskirt and matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink camellias.

The bridegroom atends General Motors Institute in Flint.

Among the 65 leading industries of Ohio, two for which it is famous are the manufacture of such disassociated products as dirigibles and playing cards.

Packable Hats Made for Travel

NEW YORK (INS)—It's not enough for a hat to be pretty any more. Now it's got to be collapsible as well.

The record upswing in travel is responsible for this fashion news: Women tourists are just plain insisting on hats that can be packed—and the millinery industry is obliging.

PRINTED FABRICS

Crushable cloth hats—usually of the cloche shape or with stitched brims — are being made this year in printed or patterned fabrics. Gingham is one of the newest ideas.

Fine felts—the featherweight type that can be rolled up—also are big news in collapsible millinery.

But the biggest boost has been in collapsible straw—not only sewn but crocheted straws. You can get these in a variety of colors and shapes—ranging from little vamp bonnets to floppy brims with draped crowns.

CLIP CREATIONS

For dress wear, spring-clip hats are favored. These are the "hats" that look like a bicycle clip with a bit of bow or veil added.

You can get the clips covered in ribbon, flowers, feathers or fuzzy mesh. The most popular seems to be the clip bow — just a big bow sitting atop the head.

Cancer Pads Sewn by Beta Theta Phi

Cancer pads for the American Cancer Society were sewn by members of Beta Theta Phi sorority when they met at the Sylvan Shores home of Mrs. John Kinzler.

A guest at the meeting was Mrs. Felix Ballard. The next meeting of the sorority will be held March 18, at the home of Mrs. Walter Kinsler on Preston avenue.

The crab apple is a species of the wild apple.

Mothers' Club to Sponsor Father and Son Banquet

Final plans for the father and son banquet to be held at the Pontiac Boys' Club April 7 at 6:30 p.m. have been made by members of the Mothers' Club of the Pontiac Boys' Club.

Mrs. Harold MacKenzie and Mrs. Walter Peters will act as chairmen for the affair. They will be assisted by Mrs. Henry Warren and Mrs. Earl Luchenback of the dining room committee and Mrs. Walter Jeffres and Mrs. Delbert Hammett of the ticket committee.

Some Seem to Possess Talent for Tactlessness

These Women May Intentionally Make Remarks That Destroy Pleasure

By RUTH MILLETT

Some women always manage to say the wrong thing—Cut your hair, and instead of telling you they like it that way, they wail, "Why did you cut your hair? It looked so lovely long." (But of course these same women never told you how much they liked it long until you had it all chopped off.)

Hang blue draperies at your living room windows and they'll be sure to tell you that they hope you haven't made a mistake, since blue fades more easily than most colors. (Never mind if they get blue draperies, too, later on. At least you won't hear any more about fading.)

Say you have a vacation trip all planned, and if you intend to go by car, they'll tell you that you really ought to fly. (It doesn't really matter, since if you had said you were going to fly they would have asked, "Why don't you drive, so you can have your car to use when you get there?")

Tell them about your son's new, wonderful job, and instead of saying, "You have a right to be awfully proud of him," these women who have a knack for saying the wrong thing immediately start sympathizing with you because your son's job is going to take him to another state.

Show them your new camellias and they're sure to say that they used to grow camellias, but found them too much trouble.

Serve them a good meal and they'll wail about their diets until you wonder why you went to all the trouble to set such delicious food in front of them.

But I doubt that it's just a natural lack of tact that makes these women always say the wrong thing.

I sometimes think they give as much thought to saying the thing that will take away a little of your pleasure as some women give to saying the thing that will make you feel even more pleased with yourself.

Gold Star Mothers Conduct Memorial

At the meeting of the American Gold Star Mothers Chapter Nine held at Chapter 16 of the Disabled American Veterans on Auburn avenue, services were conducted in memory of Mrs. Nellie West.

Reports were given on the department board meeting held in Lansing the past week and attended by Mrs. Edna Olmsted, Mrs. Joe Doyle, Mrs. Lola Erb, Mrs. Lauretta Stockwell, Mrs. Sybella Stevens and Mrs. Edna Matheny.

ERNISTINE WRIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wright of Marshall, Tex., announce the engagement of their daughter, Ernistine Wright of Orchard Lake avenue, to the Rev. Richard H. Dixon Jr. of West Wilson avenue. He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. R. H. Dixon of Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Wright was graduated from Wiley University in Marshall, Tex., and her fiance was graduated from Wiley University, American Theological Seminary and Colgate Seminary. An April 13 wedding is planned in Trinity Baptist Church.

Hospital Aides Hear Speaker

Dr. Albert Wilson of the Pontiac State Hospital discussed the schizophrenic personality when members of Pontiac State Hospital Psychiatric Aide Association met Tuesday evening at the hospital.

In the business meeting five delegates were nominated to attend the annual mental health meeting to be held in Detroit. Present for the March 13 affair will be Mrs. Ethel Pettibone, Robert Larson, Mrs. G. A. Sossadina, Mrs. Georgia Meachum and Mrs. Eleanor Price.

The group also made plans for an Easter bake sale to be held April 3, at the hospital.

Executive Meeting Conducted by YTC

Executive meeting of Ethel E. Little YTC was held Wednesday in the Cottage street home of the Frank Deavers.

Plans were made for YTC Institute to be held March 18 in the Deaver home. Plans were also made for YTC Week to be held in April.

Picks Hair Off Jacket of Employer

Thoughtful Gesture Makes Boss Act Embarrassed

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: The other day my employer came over to my desk to discuss something with me. As I stood talking to him I noticed a hair on the collar of his jacket. I reached over and picked it off thinking that I was doing him a kindness as he is a meticulous person.

"However, he seemed rather embarrassed at my doing this and I have been wondering ever since whether I was wrong. I would very much appreciate hearing from you on this matter."

Answer: Had you noticed a trace of fresh paint on his sleeve you would have properly called it to his attention and offered to remove it with a little cleaning fluid, but it would have been better not to have done anything to show you were aware of the hair on his collar.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's employer gave him two tickets to a concert which he could not use. This was a real treat to me and I had a wonderful evening. My husband thinks I should write a note of thanks to his employer for having given us the tickets. I will be glad to do so if you think it is necessary."

Answer: Taking it for granted that your husband thanked his employer when he received the tickets, that is all that is necessary. If he had sent them to you with a note, then you would write and thank him. Of course if you have occasion to talk to him on the telephone you would certainly tell him how much you enjoyed the concert.

"Dear Mrs. Post: How soon after her engagement is announced it is proper for a young woman's friends to give showers and other parties in her honor? The friend I refer to particularly is not being married for almost a year, and some of us feel that it is as yet too soon to start giving parties for her."

Answer: A year is much too soon to start giving parties. When the wedding date has been set, her friends start giving parties for her.

Opti-Mrs. Gathers

Opti-Mrs. Club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Harold Davis on Berwick boulevard. Following a business meeting the group sewed on cancer pads.

Smile and Exercise Muscles

Don't Let Tension Freeze Face

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

American women are noted for their beauty, but also for the tenseness of their faces and the set expression of their mouths.

A friend of mine from another country once told me that he had stood at a busy intersection in a large city in America and watched passer by for an hour at a stretch, and not one person was smiling. Not one smile out of hundreds who passed!

Perhap that is due to the rushed lives we all live. One of the most characteristic reactions to strain is tension in the muscles of the face, and especially in the tongue.

If your tongue is relaxed, you probably are, too. When you are rushed or harried, you will discover that your tongue is about to push through the roof of your mouth. Your jaw muscles also become rigid.

Life seems to be getting more tense with each new bomb or missile, but that is no reason to get frozen-faced about the cold war. The mere act of being alive carries with it all kinds of danger—even in the most peaceful times.

GAINS DISTINCTION

People are apt to be jittery for various causes and that is why a truly calm person takes on distinction. Whenever we meet one we are comforted and soothed.

Facial exercises will relax you and also will aid you in remaining youthful in appearance or improving if you already have neglected yourself. Many readers write to tell me of the happy change in themselves after taking these for a few weeks.

Don't let a tense and rushed life keep you from smiling and enjoying yourself. Tenseness leads to nervous headaches.

Facial exercises and the habit of lying at a beauty angle both stimulate the flow of blood to the face, and therefore are helpful to attractive facial contour and complexion.

Try this exercise which is corrective to the lines from nose to mouth: Fill the mouth with air. Keep the lips closed. Blow the air into the right cheek and at the same time contract the muscles of the right cheek. Rest. Next time fill the left cheek and resist with the muscles of the left cheek. Continue.

Most of the women I know who look years younger than they are take facial exercises regularly. If you would like to have mine send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 9 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Determined to Have Heir

Second Wife for Shah?

COLOGNE (INS) — Rumors that the Shah of Iran intends to take a second wife continued today despite a denial from Iranian diplomats in West Germany where Queen Soraya is visiting her father.

Informants said the Shah is determined to have an heir to the throne, something the beautiful Soraya or his first wife have not been able to give him.

An envoy from Tehran arrived in West Germany this week reportedly with a demand from the Shah that Soraya agree to a divorce or to let him take a second wife, which is allowed under Moslem law.

Soraya was reported to have said no to a second wife but agreed to a divorce which probably would call for her exile from Iran.

She went to West Germany last weekend to visit her father, who is Iranian ambassador. He recently broke his leg and is confined to a nursing home in Cologne.

Soraya and the Shah were married seven years ago but have had no children. The Shah's concern over this was reflected last year when Soraya was sent to Switzerland to be examined by gynecologists.

The Shah divorced his first wife, a sister of ex-King Farouk of Egypt, in 1948 after 10 years of marriage in which their only child was a girl.

Founders' Day to Be Marked at Forest Lake

Cecil Estes Talks to First Philathea

Cecil S. Estes spoke to 19 members of First Philathea Class of First Baptist Church Tuesday evening in the Dwight avenue home of Mrs. Florence Harcourt.

Musical portion of the program was presented by a girls' trio. Mrs. Ethel Kennedy and her committee were in charge of refreshments.

Too much glitter washes out the quiet, little "mouse" who wants soft-toned stones and soft coloring in jewelry.

Metal that is all glitter looks hard whereas a dull metal is softer and may be very interesting on the reserved woman. It's the same in jewelry as in too bright color: It can swamp you.

MOMS Unit Meets at Schoolgirl Lunch

A schoolgirl luncheon was served to 13 members of MOMS Unit Two Tuesday in the South Johnson avenue home of Mrs. E. K. Vanderlind.

Mrs. Malcolm Scantland, national president of MOMS, and Mrs. Frank Palasek, state president, were guests. The group was invited to a March 19 goodwill luncheon at Jewish War Memorial Building in Detroit.

Soap and Water OK for Wounds

Official sanction for the soap-and water cleansing of small wounds — such as cuts — is given in the new edition of the First Aid Manual issued by the American Red Cross.

Wash hands thoroughly with soap and clean water first, then cleanse the injury by applying a soapy solution with a sterile dressing.

But Many Aren't Satisfied With Their Overall Education

High School Grads Put High Value on Math

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of the Gilbert Youth Research Co.

There is a growing feeling among the nation's leaders in both government and education that our schools must develop more future scientists to meet the Soviet threat of technological superiority.

How do our young people feel about changes in school curricula that this would call for?

Are they satisfied with the subjects they are required to take? Do they feel they are being adequately prepared for the future?

To sound youthful sentiments on these vital questions, we concentrated in one extensive survey of over 3,000 young people on those between the ages of 17 and 22 who already had completed their high school education.

We figured that younger boys and girls could hardly be expected to provide enlightening comments on subjects they had not yet taken or analyze a portion of their education that was still in the future.

ENCOURAGING ANSWERS

From a viewpoint of national security, the answers were encouraging.

From an educational viewpoint, they were less satisfying.

Mathematics, the survey showed, proved to be more popular than is generally thought.

More than one out of every four boys said if he had his high school years to live over, he would definitely take more math courses.

And 53 per cent of them said they would see to it that their children built their education on a strong foundation of mathematics in high school.

FEEL DISSATISFIED

But when it came to assessing their entire high school program, more than 50 per cent of all boys and girls interviewed expressed dissatisfaction with the cirrculum and felt it left them unprepared for making a living in the world.

Most of the complaints were directed against courses of a more classical nature.

"Take languages, for example," said 18-year-old Marvin Lazarus of Akron, Ohio. "I haven't even had a chance to read a Spanish menu since I left school."

Peter Mitchell of Seattle complained that his high school program was too generalized to be of real value when it came to finding a job.

"I know a little about a lot of things," he said ruefully, "But I really don't know too much about anything."

Even the girls in this age of science wished they had taken more courses in mathematics, and 38 per cent of them indicated that they will see to it that their children do not make the same omission in the curriculum.

BUSINESS COURSES

The girls put heavy emphasis on commercial and business courses. Nearly 4 out of 10 said they wish they had taken shorthand, typing and similar courses while in school and nearly six out of 10 said that their daughters would certainly be influenced to take these courses.

Those who took business courses in high school recommended them highly to others just starting out in school.

"My steno and typing in high school have paved the way for me," confided 19-year-old Sue Sommer of New York City. "I make a terrific salary for a girl, and school did it all."

Except for the salary reference (most youngsters are more coy about such things), her remark was typical.

Start Day Right

A teenage girl who struggles out of bed with 10 minutes to dress, eat and rush off to school is not doing herself justice. Allow time each morning for good skin care, a good breakfast and personal grooming.

Wash Before, After Caring for Patient

Wash your hands before tending to an ill person, and wash your hands immediately afterward, too. That's the most important rule for the home nurse to remember.

The only way to wash clean is to scrub with soap and water as hot as comfortable. Clean hands help protect the patient as well as the other members of the family.

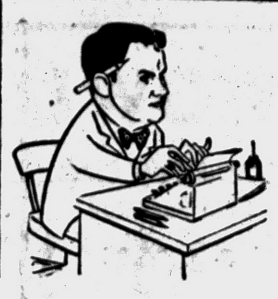
FEDERAL DEPT. STORES SAGINAW AT WARREN, PONTIAC



From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

LAKELAND, Fla. — "We should be 10 games better this year." This was Tiger coach Billy Hitchcock talking.

Doesn't sound like much of a statement but considering the fact that there is a "mum" policy in the Tiger organization this year, it does give some indication as to how the coaching staff feels about its chances.

After all the free talk last year about the Tigers being ready to push the Yanks, it was generally believed, from the front office down to the clubhouse man, that there was too much optimism and it hurt the team.

Neither Tighe nor general manager John McHale or anyone else has even implied where they thought the Tigers would finish this season.

To finish with 10 more wins this year would mean an 88-66 record. On the basis of last year's standings it would be good enough to move up only from fourth to third place about 10 games behind the Yankees.

Actually, the Tigers played as good as the second place White Sox at home last year. Both teams were 45-32 on the home field. And this was only three less wins than the Yank record at Yankee Stadium.

The failure then was on the road. The Yanks won 50 and lost 27 away from New York, and the White Sox had the same home and away record 45-32. But the Tigers, they won 33 and lost 44 away from Briggs Stadium. This was only 6th best in the league.

For the Tigers this was an exact reversal of the 1956 season. That year they won 45 and lost 32 on the road, but on home cooking they posted a record of 37-40.

FOES LIKE BRIGGS STADIUM

Unfortunately for Detroit, it seems that every team in the league likes the fences at Briggs Stadium better than the Tigers.

Only team the Tigers were able to outslug at Briggs Stadium was Baltimore. The Tigers had nine homers and the Orioles eight in Detroit, yet Baltimore was the only park where they failed to clear the wall last season.

Kansas City thrived on Detroit pitching more than any other team. The A's hit 17 homers at Briggs Stadium and 17 more in the KC Stadium, while the Yanks, Senators and White Sox all rapped out 14 in Detroit.

The Tigers could win those 10 more games as Hitchcock feels and move up in the standings. More fence power from Gus Zernial, Lou Skizas, Bill Taylor and Jim Greengrass would help at Briggs Stadium and in parks in Chicago, Baltimore and Kansas City where Tigers' slugging was the poorest.

But help will also have to come from the pitching department, with a few less gopher balls.

Bill Hitchcock didn't say this, but he and every one else knows that it will be pretty tough to move up even with 150 homers, if the opposition gets 200.

Mat and Ring Program Added by Boys' Club

A new, full-time boxing and wrestling program has been added to the Pontiac Boys' club physical education department, club director Mike Fiorillo announced today.

In charge will be Johnny Ferro, former boxer, tcainer and manager, and former head of the Michigan Managers and Trainers' Assn. Boys interested in wrestling or boxing should call the Boys' Club.

Ferro has trained such fighters as Baby-Face Jones, O'Neill Bell, O'Dell Ryley and Martin Doyle. He has worked with such prominent trainers as Whitey Bimstein and Ray Arcel.

Hady, Donovan in Mat Draw

Jim Hady and Red Donovan were signed to headline a March 19 wrestling card after battling to a draw in a "grudge" match which ended with both boys requiring treatment for head injuries at the Pontiac Armory last night.

Each had taken one fall before a wild final completed the feature clash.

The Masked Mystery Man and Louie Papineau posted victories in earlier matches on the program sponsored by the Pontiac National Guard 107th Ordnance Company.

Al Warshawski was the Masked Man's victim in two of three falls and Papineau whipped Bob Marion two of three. Matchmaker Bert Ruby has also scheduled the Mystery Man and Warshawski for a re-match on the next card.

Tighe Sees Open Race for 3 Tiger Jobs

1st Intra-Squad Tilt Gives Boss Line on Players

Kuenn's Play in Center Field Provides a Happy Note for Detroit

By BRUNO KEARNS
Pontiac Press Sports Editor

LAKELAND, Fla. The battle for positions has just begun as far as Detroit Tiger manager Jack Tighe is concerned.

After trying for four straight day, the Tigers finally played their first intra-squad game and the Hitchcock's defeated the Lund's 9-5 in a seven inning contest at Henley Field, and as result Tighe sees a wide open race for the jobs in left field, third base and behind the plate.

The game also had a strong Kansas City flavor as big Gus Zernial, Billy Martin and Lou Skizas all made good showings in their initial appearances.

Zernial got three for three as he lined out a trio of hard singles, driving in two runs, scoring twice plus a beautiful shoestring stab of a low liner in left field.

Martin scored twice with a single and a homer over the right field wall which cleared the 350 foot marker. Among the other hitters for the Hitchcock squad were Al Kaline with a triple and single in three trips, and Reno Bertoia's double, triple and a walk.

Skizas was on third for the Lund team and drove out a long single in his first trip, but hit the ball hard in flying out. Charley Lau's three-run homer and a single in three trips was the best effort for the losing side.

Big Ronnie Rozman, former U. of D. hurler who had a 15-1 record at Augusta last year, started for the Hitchcock team and was the victim of Lau's long blast over the right field fence.

The happy note for the Tigers was Kuenn's defensive work in centerfield. "We were worried that we might have to move Kaline to center and push Kuenn to right," said Tighe, "but he sure did a fine job in the middle field today."

On the first play of the game, Johnny Groth drove a high, long fly toward the right center wall. Kuenn raced back and made a great catch right near the fence. He had three putouts in center.

"Really gave you a baptism right at the start," Tighe said to Kuenn after the first inning following Groth's drive.

Phil Regan of Wayland, Mich., and Tim Shepherd followed Rozman on the hill, while Wyman Carey, Fred Gladding of Flat Rock, and Jerry Thomas pitched for the Lund's.

Gladding, who had a 16-8 record at Valdosta last year, showed good speed and control. He had six infield putouts in two innings.

Class B Negaunee Falls in Prep Tourney

One Defending Champ Exits

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One defending champion already has fallen by the wayside as the state high school basketball tournament enters its third day of district play tonight.

Negaunee, champion last year in Class B, was ousted last night in its tournament debut. Calumet (13-5) whipped the defending kings, 57-52.

Lakeview, the reigning Class C champ, came through with a victory as did all the other strong contenders. Lakeview had an easy time with Kent City in its opener, winning 74-34.

Other defending champions were idle last night. Muskegon Heights (Class A) and Hermansville (Class B) still were awaiting their first tournament action. Chassell (Class D) won its 58th in a row Tuesday.

Lakeview will have tough sledding in its quest for a second consecutive championship if Class C performances last nght were an indication.

Pigeon (17-0), Flint Holy Redeemer (18-0), Bay City St. Stanislaus (16-0), Flint Utley (17-0), Grosse Pointe St. Paul (16-1), Caledonia (16-1) and Shepherd (15-2) all won handily in their initial outings. Only Shepherd had any trouble, being forced into overtime before downing stubborn Merrill, 52-49.

It was the same story among Class B powerhouses shooting to replace Negaunee on the throne. Troy (17-0), East Lansing (16-0), Ludington (15-1), East Grand Rapids (15-2), Holland Christian (16-3), Inkster Roosevelt (16-1) and Flint Technical (17-1) survived their first tests.

A nip-and-tuck affair between two Class C clubs with mediocre records stood out as the thriller of the night. Harbor Beach (8-9) squeaked by Ubly (4-13), as Herb Hebner's shot that was rolling around the rim at the final buzzer plunked in. Don Zualuf scored 37 points, high for the tournament so far, for vanquished Ubley.

Class D action for the top teams was light with only Schoolcraft (17-0), Parma (15-1), Ashley (14-2) and Inland Lakes (16-3) taking to the court.

Schoolcraft trounced Martin 75-42, Parma beat Tekonsha 70-33, and Inland Lakes overwhelmed Wolverine 61-38. Ashley clobbered Carson City St. Mary 75-33.

The only upset was at Niles, where Dowagiac (6-9) downed St. Joseph (11-5), 60-56, in a Class B encounter.

Toronto Rallies to Down Hawks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Toronto Maple Leafs still face an uphill battle in their bid to qualify for the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs. But they have shown they can come from behind.

The Leafs did it last night, yielding two rapid-fire goals early in the first period and then rallying to defeat the Chicago Black Hawks 5-2.

The triumph enabled Toronto to move to within six points of the fourth-place Boston Bruins. Each club has nine games left to play.

Ted Lindsay and Ron Murphy sent the tailend Hawks into a 2-0 lead. But the Leafs pecked away and finally moved ahead of Chicago on Ron Stewart's goal at 6:28 of the second period. George Armstrong and Dick Duff got Toronto's first two goals while Barry Cullen and Tod Sloan drilled home the last two.

Four Avondale Starters Dropped for Tourney

Four starting players and two reserves on the Avondale High School hoop team have been dropped from the team for disciplinary reasons, it was announced today by Coach Dick Bye with the Yellowjackets slated to meet powerful Lake Orion in District B play at Pontiac Central tonight.

Top scorers Jerry Hill and Mike Walker, Dennis Evans, Chuck Nurek, Dick Hutchinson and Everett Peel were the boys suspended following a meeting of the school's athletic board, according to Bye.

Fans Six in Three-Inning Stint

Herb Score Impresses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland's Herb Score, who befuddled American League batsmen with his blinding fastball and crackling curve before suffering a damaging eye injury early last season, is back on the beam and the Indians may have to be reckoned with in this year's pennant race.

In his first appearance under game conditions since being hit in the right eye by a line drive off the bat of the Yankees' Gil McDougald last May 7, Score struck out six men in a three-inning intra-squad stint yesterday.

The 24-year-old lefthander fanned four of the first five batters he faced. He weakened a bit after that and gave up a run on two singles and a pair of walks. In his final inning, Score struck out two more batters and drew warm applause from the crowd of 1,500 as he left the field.

"I felt great," Score said later. "Had a little trouble getting my curve over, but my fastball was good and I was throwing as hard as I could."

If the Indians are to improve on their sixth place finish of last season and make a success of Bobby Bragan's first year as an American League manager, Score is the guy who'll have to carry most of the pitching load.

Herb won 16 games in his first big league campaign in 1955 and followed it with a 20-9 performance in 1956. He led the league in strikeouts in both seasons.

Score's apparent recovery tempered the rather gloomy reports that emanated from some of the other major league camps.

Outfielder Irv Noren sustained a possible fractured rib when he crashed into a grandstand wall in a St. Louis Cardinals' pepper game. The veteran was ordered to a hospital.

And outfielder Duke Snider, pitcher Johnny Podres and infielder Don Zimmer were injured when an automobile driven by Snider was in an accident. Snider re-injured his left knee, operated on last December. Podres hurt his neck and Zimmer came out of it with a bruised forehead.

Cincy All-America Nears Scoring Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, who makes it look easy when he's on the basketball court, may have clinched the season scoring title among major college players last night without lifting a finger.

While All-America Oscar was idlin', All-America Elgin Baylor of Seattle was hitting one of his season low marks, scoring a mere 21 points in a 73-60 victory over Idaho State.

Now, with each assured of two more games depending on how their teams go in the NCAA tournament, Robertson leads Baylor by eight-tenths of a point with a 34.76 average to the Seattle ace's 34.96.

Broken down on the basis of two more starts for each hotshot, it means Baylor would have to outscore Oscar by 20 points to top the amazing Bearcat sophomore.

Robertson closes his regular season against Xavier of Ohio Saturday night before moving into the NCAA regional at Lawrence, Kan., on March 14. Baylor has a pre-NCAA date with Bradley next Monday.

The 6-5 Seattle junior hit on nine field goals and three of seven free throws last night before fouling out with 5½ minutes left. Idaho State, in the NCAA tourney as Rocky Mountain Conference champs, had won an earlier meeting from Seattle, 71-68 in overtime.

Except for the Seattle-Idaho State game, most of last night's activity was in the East with much-thumped Duquesne furnishing the highlight with a 77-54 upset of a St. Bonaventure team that had won 15 in a row.

The Bonnies, seeded third for next week's National Invitation Tournament at New York earlier in the day, fell behind by nine points at halftime and never threatened the Dukes, only 10-11 for the season. Bernie Matthews' 21 points led Duquesne while Fritz Binder chipped in with 18 and Jack Sauer with 17.

Jones, Beach Oppose Bronco Ira Murchison

Two former Pontiac Central high sprint stars will battle each other, and Western Michigan's star, Ira Murchison at the Central Collegiate Conference meet, Saturday, at Kalamazoo. Aubrey Lewis of Notre Dame is another star in what is rated as the nation's best 60-yard field.

Both Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan and Walt Beach of Central Michigan have been close to world marks in the event, a favorite with Murchison. Hayes also runs in the high hurdles.

Beach, late in rejoining the Chip squad, only last week donned a track uniform, but did well in a quadrangular meet. He was a surprise entry for the CCC, Chips' Lyle Bennett said today.

Louisiana Derby Ends

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—It's not a novel situation, but horses from Florida are early favorites for the $40,000-added Louisiana Derby Saturday when the Fair Grounds brings its 83-day winter meeting to a close.

Hamner Making Baseball Comeback With Phillies

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Only 15 months ago Granny Hamner was advised by a doctor he would never play baseball again. Today, the veteran Phillie infielder is practically a cinch to open the 1958 season at second base.

"Only a miracle would enable you to play again," the doctor said. "It would be an act of God if you could swing a bat properly."

Six months before, Hamner had jammed his left shoulder diving for a ball. He ripped a tendon right next to an old injury — another torn tendon — that still had not fully healed after an operation. More than a year of sheer torture followed.

But the gritty Virginian refused to give up. He tried to start all over again as a pitcher. It didn't pan out.

When the Phillies ran into trouble at second, he stepped in and did a satisfactory job for a time but the pain became so severe that his hitting suffered and he finished the season with a subpar .227 batting average.

Still he refused to admit defeat. During the past winter he took a job as coach of the paraplegic basketball team at McGuire Veterans Hospital in his home town of Richmond.

NOTES ON THE CAMPS

Frank Bolling finally returned to the squad after being out with the flu for six days. He came back about 10 pounds lighter, and one of the players ribbed him, saying he would have to take the thinman honors away from Inman Veal, the stringbean shortstop.

Harvey Hansen, president of the Tigers, watched yesterday's intra-squad game wearing a warmup jacket. Hansen, who was in Puerto Rico during the Caribbean "world series," said, "if I had known it was so damp and chilly here, I might have stayed in Puerto Rico."

Ronnie Rozman passed Charley Lau when he walked off the mound in yesterday's squad game and remarked, "thanks roommate, for the ticket back to Augusta." Lau, who rooms with Rozman in Lakeland, hit a three-run homer off the righthander.

Lou Skizas, who had tape on his hands because of some blisters, let out with an ouch every time he fouled the ball. After three or four fouls he was hit in the leg with a pitch and he let out with such a loud ouch, he had all the fans roaring.

Billy Martin walked over to the bench where the writers were sitting and said to publicity man Doc Fenkell, "hey Doc, don't forget to save me a couple tickets for the World Series. I want to give them to Mickey Mantle so that he can watch us when we play in Milwaukee."

New Orleans Open Faces Threat of Rain Today

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Cloudy skies and wet fairways awaited a field of 150 today as the $20,000 New Orleans Open got underway with youthful Ken Venturi still tabbed as the man to beat.

Heavy afternoon rains pelted the city yesterday and a light drizzle fell during the night to make the course more difficult for Venturi and his fellow touring PGA professionals.

Venturi won the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open that ended Sunday and indicated he was ready to break the hold that Doug Ford, Lloyd Mangrum and a few of the other headliners have held for the past few years.

The tournament will be the first PGA event in the city since 1948 when big Bob Hamilton took top honors. City Park No. 1 course will again be the site, but host professional Henry Thomas said the visitors will find the 6,600-yard layout a good deal more difficult.

THIS IS BASKETBALL? — If it wasn't for the basketball in the picture above, you'd think this was an Australian tag-team wrestling brawl. Pontiac's Dick Whitmer (30) has an arm-lock on one of his teammates as well as Southfield's Jim McDonald (35) and another Southfield player retaliates by sticking his hand in Whitmer's face. The Chiefs drubbed Southfield, 68-26, in their Class A district tournament opener last night.

Two of Oakland County's top threats for state prep honors advanced into the championship rounds of different Class B district tournaments with victories last night.

Clarkston, champion of the Wayne-Oakland League, took a hard-earned 58-55 decision over surprisingly tough Durand at Grand Blanc while unbeaten Oakland B power Troy was walloping loop rival Clawson 55-28.

Bloomfield Hills, Brighton, Northville and Clarenceville were other W-O quintets to come out on top as Holly, Milford and Oak Park were among the area schools eliminated "B" play.

Clarkston had to hold off a big last half comeback by Durand to stay in the running and gain the right to meet host Grand Blanc in a Friday final.

The Wolves romped to a 22-12 1st period lead and increased it to 35-24 at halftime but a heavy load of personal fouls against Clarkston changed the complexion of the game in the last half.

Fred Wells, who topped all the scorers with 27, led Durand's rally with 19 in the last two periods. Leroy Parks hit 21 for the victors before fouling out. Bill Noles added 15 despite sitting out part of a quarter with four fouls.

Grand Blanc also came on with a rush in the last two periods in nipping Holly 65-63 with three players totaling 55 points.

Holly had led all the way before falling behind by five with two minutes remaining. The margin was too much to overcome as Grand Blanc held the ball.

George McDaniel was the scoring star of the night with 33. Holly made one more field goal but was beaten on free throws.

Troy had no trouble with Clawson after breezing to a 25-6 halftime advantage. The Colts, now 17-0, will meet tonight's Royal Oak Shrine-Romeo victor for the Troy district crown Saturday. Wayne Figley's 20 points paced the triumph.

Bloomfield Hills moved into a Friday semi-final at Oak Park by downing the host school 43-37 in overtime after Clarenceville had trounced Lutheran West 55-34.

Trailing all the way, the Bears rallied to gain a regulation game tie in the last 40 seconds of play and then dominated the extra period.

Bob Elston paced the comeback, made the tying point and led the scoring with 16. Mike Detmer tallied 19 for the losers who made 19 of their total on free throws.

Brighton ended Milford's season with a 63-60 triumph and Northville whipped Flat Rock, 70-53, in other games. Ralph Stowe caged 24 and Terry Hoy 20 for Milford. Brian Watson hit 22 for Brighton.

Eaglets Win 'C' Opener

By H. GUY MOATS

Opening gun was fired last night in the MHSAA district Class C basketball tournament in Pontiac Central High gymnasium, with Orchard Lake St. Mary's club bombarding a hard-trying St. Michael five, 59-39.

Victory was the 13th of the season for Rev. John Rakoczy's high-flying Eaglets, against five defeats. It was also the 3rd win over the Pontiac parochials during the winter.

By virtue of its successful start in District 38, Eaglets move into a semifinal bracket on Friday against Farmington's Our Lady of Sorrows, at 8:30 p.m. Almont (14-3) and Pontiac St. Frederick (11-4) collide in a 7 o'clock contest and winners of these will battle it out in the 7 p.m. finale on Saturday.

There is no "C" action tonight, but Class B teams take over with Oxford (0-16) against Rochester (12-5) at 7 o'clock, and Lake Orion (12-4) vs Avondale (8-8) at 8:30 p.m. Class B will be idle Friday.

Finals in both classes are set for Saturday, Class B at 8:30.

Shamrocks were never in contention. Their shooting, most of the game, was colder than the weather outside, while Eaglets were doing much better from the floor. In the 3rd period Mikes bagged a lone basket, (by Tom Dabbs) after all but 1½ minutes had elapsed, and after 20 futile tries.

Art Goisdzinski and Stan Monisuzko set the scoring pace for the Eaglets. Art, Eaglet center and biggest player, was the key man. He and Monisuzko controlled the boards all the time they were in action, accounting for most of the 43 rebounds credited to St. Mary. Art was top point-maker with 20 points. Stan collected 16. Art Robak, Mikes' freshman ace, was good for 12 to lead the losers.

Eaglets hit the first five tries at the hoops for a 10-0 count before Shamrocks got a single point. St. Mary hit 10 baskets in 15 shots in a hot 2nd period splurge that produced 23 counters. This frame also saw St. Michael's best performance, when six players contributed to the 17-point rally. North-Siders suffered a relapse, however, in the 3rd period and were chilled off to a bare five points.

In other Class C games involving area clubs RO St. Mary defeated Mt. Clemens St. Louis, 46-36, in Center Line's tourney opener. A 18-point 3rd period clinched the win after RO trailed up to that time. Bill Crawford's 24 was tops for game, and winners. Mary's plays Sacred Heart of Rosedale Friday at 8:30 p.m.

POINTERS ON POINTS

Fifth of a series on college and professional coaches and star players written for NEA Service and the Pontiac Press.

By CARL BRAUN
New York Knickerbockers

The two-handed over-head set shot is my bread and butter and it is most effective off a pick using the corner man.

I'll pass to him (No. 1), then go behind him (dark line) for a return pass (No. 2. Then I'll shoot. If the defender fights through, the corner man usually will roll out toward the basket and I'll feed him for a layup.

I never had the set until I came to the Knickerbockers. I always was a pivot man in college. But I had to have an outside set to stick with the pros. I'm 6-5 and most players guarding me are smaller. By shooting off the head it makes it almost impossible for them to block it.

12 Cagers Score as Chiefs Claim District Opener

PCH Battles Farmington in 'A' Final Saturday; East Detroit Wins

By BILL CORNWELL

Bob Burtch, Farmington High School's genial basketball coach, is not looking forward to Saturday night one little bit.

That's the night his Falcons have to play Pontiac Central in the final game of the Southfield Class A district tournament. The way the Chiefs massacred their hosts last night, you can't blame him at all.

The Chiefs didn't even work up a sweat while perpetrating a savage 68-26 scalping of helpless Southfield in the opening tussle of the five-game tourney.

There were a dozen Pontiac cagers in uniform at game time. Before the 32-minute war party was finished, all of them saw action and each one entered the scoring column.

Oddly enough, the Chiefs didn't have a single player with more than 10 points. Roosevelt Alexander and Dick Whitmer were tops with 10 apiece, Bill Hayward tallied nine and Harrison Munson, Jim Skinner and Jerry Williams each had eight.

Words can't describe how unbelievably lopsided this contest really was. Whitmer scored the first six points for Pontiac, Munson contributed the next four and the Chiefs were off and running to their easiest win of the season.

Despite the efforts of coach Art Van Ryzin to hold down the slaughter, the Chiefs continued to mount their superiority. Pontiac had quarterly leads of 17-6, 37-12 and 51-21.

Nine points in the 3rd quarter was Southfield's best output and the Jays were held scoreless during a four-minute stretch in the 2nd period. Bob Filar paced the feeble attack with nine points.

The Southfield tournament resumes Friday evening with Walled Lake tackling Detroit Catholic Central at 7:30 and Bentley engaging Redford Union in the 9 o'clock nightcap. The winner of each game also qualifies for the regionals.

East Detroit opened its Class A district tourney last night with a 56-48 victory over Detroit St. Joseph. Offensive stars Gary Ballman and Ron Emerick were missing due to injury and illness and five sophomores were pressed into duty. Don Petroff made 14 points for the winners.

Two Braves Holdouts Sign 1958 Contracts

MILWAUKEE (INS) — Shortstop Johnny Logan and first baseman Frank Toree ended their holdout status by agreeing to terms for 1958 with the world champion Milwaukee Braves and will leave for the club's Florida training camp today.

The only Braves who have not yet signed for the season are Lew Burdette and Wes Covington. Logan and Toree accepted their new contracts last night.

Mildred Molter Rolls 680 Series

Mildred Molter turned in the highest women's series rolled in Pontiac area this season recently when she hit a 680 actual score bowling in the Cooley Majorettes League.

She had games of 240, 183, 257 to make it possible. The 257 was also the high game of the night.

Competing in the Imperial loop, Mildred was not quite as hot but still was going good enough to lead the way there also in both high series and top game with totals of 550 and 215.

U.S. Hockey Team Plays Czechoslovakia Today

OSLO (AP) — A stocky, broad shouldered Russian in a brown overcoat and shaggy fur hat will watch intently today as the World Amateur Ice Hockey championships pick up in tempo with a tripleheader involving each of the contenders.

The United States, in fifth-place in the eight-nation competition, meets Czechoslovakia in the final game on the triple bill. In other games, pace-setting Canada goes up against defending champion Sweden and Russia faces Poland.

The sharp-eyed Russian who will study and analyze each move made on the ice is Pavel Korotkov, coach of the Soviet sextet. He has witnessed nearly all of the 14 matches played so far in the championships.

Korotkov sits quietly and impassively through each game. His mask-like expression never varies. He never shouts or talks to players.

Norwegian fans have tagged Korotkov, American Coach Cal Marvin of Warroad, Minn. and coaches Wren Blair of Canada, Bohuslav Rejda of Czechoslovakia and Eddie Reigle of Sweden the "five wise men" of the championships.

Unlike the Russian coach, Marvin shows some emotion during a game. He chews savagely on a cigar and keeps up a running commentary on the action.

Spieser Plans April Bout

DETROIT (AP) — Chuck Spieser will meet the winner of the Saturday night fight between middleweights Wilf Greaves and Cowboy Ernie Smith.

Promoter C. W. Smith said Spieser, sixth-ranked light heavyweight contender, has been guaranteed $2,500 for a bout planned in early April at Detroit Motor City Arena.

Smith is fresh from a victory over Tony Dupas in New Orleans. He took a loss at the hands of Greaves in 1956.

AMERICA'S LARGEST FAMILY CLOTHING CHAIN

School at Lawton Starts Training in 2nd Grade

Oklahoma 9-Year-Olds Rate A-1 as Drivers

LAWTON, Okla. (UP) — When a child is promoted from the third to fourth grade at Garfield Elementary School here, he's qualified as an A-1 automobile driver.

Chances are his knowledge of good driving habits surpasses that of his parents. For example:

Fifty third graders took the same written tests given persons applying for Oklahoma drivers licenses. They scored an average of 82.

Parents of the children took the same test. The average score was 58—12 points less than passing.

Second graders "drive" up and down the aisles in their classroom, using crayon-colored plates as steering wheels and giving hand signals when they turn.

THEY KNOW SIGNS

The second graders also learn to read and identify traffic signs, distinguishing those they cannot read by their shape.

They have a "traffic light" in the classroom made by their teacher, Mrs. Allen Priddy, of a broomstick, shoe box and Christmas lights.

After the second graders have mastered the inside drills, they move to an elaborate traffic training board. Laid out on a table are miniature streets, tiny traffic signals and little cars.

Here the children learn passing fundamentals, traffic lanes and other good driving habits.

In the third grade, the children move into the school auditorium which is marked off in make-believe streets, intersections and miniature traffic lights.

PEDAL ROADSTERS

They learn more safety habits by pedaling four bright red roadsters, complete with lights, horn, rubber tires and a make-believe engine under the hood.

The miniature cars cost about $90 each and were supplied by Lawton car dealers.

Before passing into the fourth grade, the children take the state drivers license exam, and are given "honorary" drivers licenses.

In the fourth, fifth and sixth grades, the youngsters move into bicycle safety, using the same habits they learned in the two primary grades.

The program is directed by the school's principal, Mrs. Mildred Colthart, and Oklahoma Highway Patrolman Wesley Miller.

"We catch the children before they have a chance to form improper conceptions about driving," Miller says.

Mrs. Colthart said most parents are as enthusiastic over the program as their children. Only one parent has complained.

A father said his 7-year-old daughter called him down six times on one trip when he dangled his elbow out of the window or exceeded the speed limit.

MINIATURE DRIVERS — Third graders David Altizer, 8, and Sandra Koriath, 9, put into playful practice some of the rules of good driving they have been studying.

Windjammer Skipper Dies at 71 of Cancer

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Capt. George Wigsten, 71, one of the last of the old windjammer skippers of the Pacific, died Tuesday of cancer.

Swedish born, Capt. Wigsten went to sea at 14 and boasted he "never earned a penny ashore" afterward. He sailed the seven seas in square rigged vessels until steam drove them out of business.

His final voyage was in 1941 when he took the last sailing ship around Cape Horn with a load of explosives for South Africa. He made port just hours ahead of German submarines.

743 Plants in Germany Manufacturing Shoes

BONN — The German shoe industry, with 108,000 employes in 743 plants, is producing at a rate 10 per cent above 1956, when 78,000,000 people.

000,000 leather shoes were made. They sold for $410,000,000. Germany's 14,500 retail shoe dealers

Son Sent to School for Killing Minister

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (UP) — John Boyett, 14, who shot his minister father to death a week ago as he prepared a switch, has been committed to the New Mexico School for Boys.

John was sent to the institution until he is 18 after a hearing in which his mother said she wished she had broken up the home two years ago as she had planned.

The Rev. Leonard J. Boyett, 41, pastor of the Grandview Baptist church, was shot while he prepared to punish John and his twin brother Jack.

"I wish I had followed my first intuition and left my husband two years ago," Mrs. Boyett told Dist. Judge W. T. Scoggin. "But I was afraid a broken family would be hard on the boys."

The distraught mother testified she once told her husband she would refuse to attend social functions if he did not stop "fusing at the boys in public."

Mrs. Boyett said her sons were not allowed to go the movies or attend school dances.

Dublin, Tex., Goes Irish for St. Patrick's Day

DUBLIN, Tex. (UP) — As anyone might have guessed, St. Patrick's Day, March 17, will be a big day here.

This central Texas town will be turned over to the Irish. Mayor M. Hoffman, Dublin's Jewish mayor, has agreed to change his name to Pat Flannigan for the day.

Parades, beauty contests and band contests will be featured.

Marie McDonald Claims Husband Back of Kidnap

CINCINNATI (UP)—A veteran Los Angeles detective hears today what actress Marie McDonald calls the real story of her kidnaping more than a year ago.

The 34-year-old actress, here for a night club engagement, called a press conference yesterday and sobbed as she told newsmen her estranged husband Harry Karl was responsible for the kidnaping 13 months ago.

The story enlisted the quick interest of West Coast police. Thad Brown, detective chief at Los Angeles, said: "This is the first time we have heard this story from her."

Detective Lt. Herman Zander, who investigated the kidnaping, was sent by plane, with Julian Blodgett of the Los Angeles prosecuting attorney's office, to question Miss McDonald today.

Also in Los Angeles, Karl scoffed at the story, which he said is "absurd and ridiculous," and said: "I feel quite sorry for Marie. She needs a great deal of help."

Karl has announced he is infatuated with a redhead and wants a divorce from Miss McDonald.

Karl and his wife were also estranged in January 1957 when she disappeared from her home and was located 150 miles away 24 hours later. She told of being kidnaped by two men.

Officials said she testified under oath at length before a grand jury, but no indictments were returned.

Yesterday, she said the kidnaping was authentic, but was "motivated by my husband by his own admission and by the admission of the two men who kidnaped me."

She said she paid $5,000 to the two men and they told her Karl was behind the action.

She said she still loves the millionaire shoe retailer and won't give him a divorce. She said: "I have three children to think of."

Waits at Wrong Corner

SASKATOON, Sask. (UP) — Arrested while his car was stopped at an intersection here, a man was sentenced to seven days for drunken driving. He said he was waiting for the traffic light to change. Police pointed out there is no traffic light on that corner.

Writer of Broadway Hit Cites Letters as Training

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ketti Frings, screen writer who penned the Broadway smash "Look Homeward, Angel," lived in 14 different states before she was 14.

As a writer, she views that as bad—and yet good.

"I never had any real roots in a community," she observes. "I was born in Columbus, Ohio, but I also lived in Dayton, Cleveland, Portland, Ore., and all over, since my father was a salesman. I've often thought this was bad for me as a writer.

"The really great American writers have all had one place to write about, where they grew up. They were able to watch the growth and development of people they knew. I never could do that.

"Yet, I think my very rootlessness had a lot do do with my becoming a writer. My mother died when I was 11, and my father was away a great deal. I still remained very close to my father by writing him letters.

"I think that's something we lack nowadays. This is the great age of communication. We can pick up a phone and talk to anyone. But we're losing the art of letter writing, of communicating with each other with the written word. My own daughter, who is away at school, never writes me; she always telephones collect. She isn't getting the training I got in expressing herself with letters."

Ketti Frings is a good-looking, expressive woman who has been turning out top-notch movie scripts ("Come Back, Little Sheba," "The Shrike") for years. Last fall, she left the relative anonymity of a screen writer to turn the Thomas Wolfe novel into a hit play starring Tony Perkins.

How she cut the massive Wolfe book down to an absorbing play has amazed many critics.

"It isn't a matter of cutting," she corrected. "It's more a problem of boiling down the basic ingredients, sort of like making a soup." Now she is cooking up another appealing project, a dramatization of the No. 1 best seller "By Love Possessed."

Students Strike Against Batista

High Schools Across Cuba Closed as Havana Teens Join Walkout

HAVANA (INS) — High schools throughout Cuba were closed today by students striking against the Batista regime.

The walkout, which began in the provinces three days ago, was completed yesterday when Havana teenagers joined the strike touched off by the killing of two 16-year-olds suspected of working with the rebels.

The bullet-riddled bodies of Raul Plascencia and Rogelio Paredes were discovered near Santiago de Cuba. Both had been arrested previously on sedition charges but released for lack of evidence.

Leaders of the student strike vowed to remain away from classes until President Fulgencio Batista resigns.

Nearly all anti-government factions contend the elections will be rigged to insure victory by Batista's hand-picked candidate.

Cars Now Outnumber German Motorcycles

BONN — Germans are switching to small cars and as a result the motorcycle is suffering. Until 1957, motorcycles outnumbered cars in Germany, but in the first six months of 1957 the ratio changed from 40 cars and 48 motorcycles per 1,000 inhabitants to 48 cars and 45 motorcycles.

As of mid-1957 Germany had 6,245,000 motor vehicles registered, not counting 2,000,000 motorized bicycles.

Steelways Tells Ice Aids Steel Industry

NEW YORK — There are some 120 men and women volunteers around the Great Lakes who spend their spare time every spring chopping holes in the ice and peering through binoculars to help the nation's steel industry keep its blast furnaces in full operation.

These volunteers, each with an intimate knowledge of local ice characteristics, take part in an ice reporting program aimed at getting the world's most heavily traveled waterway opened for navigation by the Lake Carriers' Assn. 300 iron ore carrying vessels.

Steelways, official publication of American Iron and Steel Institute, says the data supplied by the volunteers in addition to that furnished by the Coast Guard, airline pilots and other agencies, are relayed to Cleveland where the Ice Committee of the Association determines when shipments of iron ore can be resumed to the nation's steel industry.

SILENCED BY ICE

The publication says that from December to March or April, snow and ice silence the hooting whistles of the world's greatest fresh-water fleets. For four months the waterway is locked and helpless in winter's grip. The Soo Canal locks, that in eight months of operation handle more tonnage than the Panama, Suez and Kiel canals combined, are put out of commission by ice.

Steelways says that the Ice Committee, which represents 26 American shipping firms, is perhaps the most unique executive group in industry. Their objective is to set dates for the massive breakthrough of shipping from the North. It adds:

"The decisions are not arbitrary ones. They are made only when all the known factors and data indicate that a stage of deterioration has been reached when icebreakers can be used effectively. In these decisions the Coast Guard, which implements them, must concur."

Williams, Potter Exchange Barbs

Governor Can See No Reason to Testify at Kohler Probe

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams has countered one request for information with another in an exchange of accusations with Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich).

Williams made a reply to a statement by Potter that the governor should testify before the Senate Labor Investigating Committee on the John Gunaca extradition case.

The governor has refused to extradite Gunaca, a former labor organizer, to Wisconsin to face charges in connection with violence at the Kohler Co., contending he could not get a fair trial.

"He (Potter) knows very well that my reasons for delaying extradition in the Gunaca case have been repeatedly and fully stated," Williams said.

Williams said that several months ago he told the committee he was willing to give any assistance he could to the inquiry, and that was still his position.

"But I cannot see how my action in the extradition case could cast any light on the causes or circumstances of the Kohler strike," he said.

"Sen. Potter's zeal for bringing out testimony may offer some hope that he will now cooperate in fixing 'higher up' responsibility for the 'poison pen' letters which originated in Republican campaign headquarters in 1956."

Deluge of Red Strips Has VA Seeing Red

DETROIT (INS) — The Veterans Administration has issued a statement asking well meaning persons to stop donating the red plastic tear-off strips on cigarette packages.

The VA said hospitals are getting about 400 pounds of the red strips a year because of a false rumor that each band will get a free cigaret for a patient.

Another incorrect story says enough of the bands will buy a seeing eye dog for a blind person. The State School for the Blind said it doesn't want any more bands, either.

Army Needs Sexy Uniform, Urges Briton

LONDON (INS) — If Britain's new army really wants to step up recruiting there's one thing that must be done — give soldiers uniforms with sex appeal.

The advice comes from no less an authority than John Taylor, editor of "Tailor and Cutter," which dictates British male fashions. His recommendations appear in an article in "Soldier."

If the army wants to attract soldiers it must dress them to attract the girls, says Taylor. Now they look like "lumps on legs."

British army battle-dress, which is what the Tommy has to wear when he goes out with his girl, is "hideous," according to Taylor.

He says give the Tommy a scarlet jacket, black trousers with a narrow scarlet stripe, white shirt and black tie. The belt and buttons should be black, the cap should be like an officer's and have a scarlet band and the overcoat should be discarded in favor of a cloak.

"With a sexy-uniform like mine, they would recruit every red-blooded man in Britain," says Taylor. He conceded the battle-dress was OK for other occasions when there weren't women around.

An Army spokesman heard Taylor's suggestion with ill-concealed apoplexy. He said, "you know . . . we . . . ah . . . experiment all the time . . . trial and error you know . . . ah . . . that's all I can say."

In a more lucid moment, the spokesman said that the Army's dress committee is indeed working out a new uniform as one of a number of measures to make the army more attractive.

As for the Tommy, a soldier with the appearance of a lump on legs in front of Shelsea barracks, confronted with Taylor's design, said, "Looks like a bloomin' doorman."

Roger Touhy to File for Immediate Parole

JOLIET, Ill. (INS) — Roger Touhy, who has spent 24 years in Stateville Penitentiary on sentences for kidnaping and prison escape, will ask the Illinois Parole and Pardon Board April 16 to free him at once.

Sad State of Affairs Cited in English (???)

LONDON (INS) — Commenting sadly on the state of the English language, the president of Britain's National Teacher's Union quoted the following extract from a government form:

"Separate departments on the same premises are treated as separate premises for this purpose where separate branches of work which are commonly carried on as separate businesses in separate premises are carried on in separate departments of the same premises."

The New England Primer first published "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep" in 1690.

San Simeon Opens May 17

Hearst Castle Will Bare Art Splendor to World

SAN SIMEON, Calif. (AP) — Fabulous San Simeon castle, cresting a mountain top like a white crown, prepared today to reveal its long-hidden splendors to all.

For decades it has been the guarded setting of many of the world's great art treasures.

But its vaulted rooms will echo with the tramp of tourists' feet beginning May 17. By then it will be the property of the people of California, a monument to its builder, the late publisher William Randolph Hearst.

The Hearst family will turn over the twin-towered, 146-room castle, its untold wealth in statuary, paintings, tapestries and other art objects and 120 surrounding acres, to the state within the next few days. Between then and May 17 the state will complete arrangements for opening it to the public.

The glistening jewel in the mountaintop setting overlooks Pacific waves breaking against a rough coast 250 miles north of Los Angeles and 245 miles south of San Francisco.

The beauty of ancient Greece as depicted in Neptune Pool, bordered by the columned facade of a Greek temple and marble statues of gods and nymphs, introduces San Simeon.

The great assembly room of the castle is 100 by 40 feet. There guests gathered in lavish settings before being served in the austere refectory over which gently sway the banners of 16th century Italian noble families. Great figures of government, entertainment and society were hosted there in regal manner by Hearst.

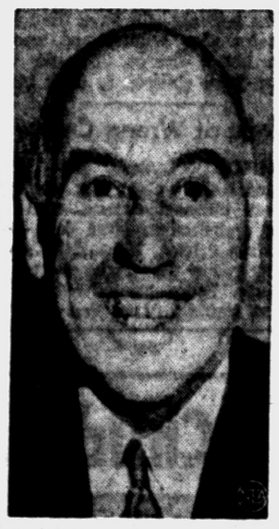
The tour will take visitors to the art-packed Morning Room, where guests awaited breakfast. Then to the billiard room, where the richest tapestry of all hangs. It is a French Gothic hunt scene valued at $150,000.

Next comes what perhaps to Hearst was one of the happiest rooms of all — the theater where he showed movies nightly to his family and guests. It is rich and deeply warm in scarlet and gold.



TO INDONESIA — Career diplomat Howard P. Jones, of Nyack, N.Y., is the new U.S. Ambassador to Indonesia. Jones, whose latest post has been that of Dputy Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, is en route to Indonesia and expects to arrive there March 5.

Warns Students on Draft Test

State Selective Service Director Says Only One Examination Slated

LANSING (AP)—College students were warned today that only one test will be given this year for deferment from Selective Service to continue studies.

Col. Arthur A. Holmes, state director of Selective Service, said the test given May 1 will be the only one offered during the 1957-58 school year. No make-up tests will be offered, Holmes said.

Scores made on the tests will be used by local boards as guides for considering requests for deferment from military service to continue studies.

In previous years, two regular and one make-up tests were given. Holmes said only one test would be offered this year because fewer men are applying.

Draft calls presently are for men over 22 years old and many students are able to finish study before an age when induction can be expected, Holmes said.

Students planning to take the test should apply for information to their local boards, Holmes said.

Seeking Dismissal of Renda Suit Trial

DETROIT (INS) — Detroit scrap dealer Carl Renda's $4.5 million damage suit trial has been adjourned until tomorrow to give defense attorneys time to prepare motions asking dismissal of the case.

Observers believe there is little chance the motions will be approved and expect jurors to be back in court Monday to hear the defense's case.

Renda seeks damages for alleged malicious prosecution because of his arrest in connection with the 1948 shooting of United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther.

Half the total book circulation of a campus library comes from only about 20 per cent of the student body, says Lester Asheim, dean of the University of Chicago's Graduate Library School. He says the laggard ones do only required reading necessary for their classes.

Propulsion System of Titan Test-Fired

DENVER (AP)— A new tool for the United States' scientific and military arsenal got its baptism by fire yesterday.

Martin Co. technicians test-fired the propulsion system of the Titan intercontinental ballistic missile being manufactured at Martin's foothills plant under a 358-million-dollar Air Force contract.

The brief captive test was termed successful. Martin spokesmen said other such tests would follow.

How many such tests are required before final acceptance is not known. But the latest firing suggested that the Titan may be ready for actual firing at Cape Canaveral, Fla., before year's end.

The test was conducted on one of four test stands that nestle in the foothills of the Rocky Mountains southwest of Denver.

It duplicated under captive conditions the actual firing of the complete missile insofar as its propulsion system is concerned, and marked a final phase in a long sequence of component and subsystem testing.

CARE Feeds 7 Million

NEW YORK — Every day 7,000,000 persons in 22 countries receive food through CARE distributions of United States farm surpluses, according to Richard W. Reuter, executive director. The recipients are 2,500,000 who share periodic gifts of family-size "Food Crusade" packages sent by Americans at $1 per package, and 4,500,000 reached in "Country Programs," in which host governments pay CARE's costs of conducting institutional feedings or organized ration distributions.

Cook Islands Dogs Have Had Their Day

The Island Council, in Avarua, has passed legislation to rid the place of the packs of hungry, diseased, unsightly mongrels which have long been a menace.

They disturb the night with their fighting and are a threat to people on the roads. Most of them, however, have been licensed by owners. Hereafter, however, female pups are to be destroyed forthwith and all female dogs destroyed within a year.

Thereafter, the remaining males will be permitted to live out a bachelor existence and as they die off, in theory at least, the Rarotonga dog will have had his day.

One-Cent Gains for Wheat, Soys

CHICAGO (AP) — New crop wheat and soybeans had gains of around a cent a bushel in early dealing on the board of trade today but other grains were steady to firm.

Traders in both the wheat and soybean pits said offerings were rather limited and somewhat less than demand.

The wheat buying, centered mostly in the deferred deliveries, was based largely on belief among traders that Congress finally will freeze the 1957 farm price supports for 1958 crops.

The soybean demand was well distributed among commission houses, processors and local traders.

Near the end of the first hour, wheat was ⅛ cent a bushel lower to ⅞ higher, March 2.23⅞; corn ⅝ to ⅞ higher, March $1.16¾; oats unchanged to ¼ higher, March 66½; rye ⅜ lower to ¾ higher, March $1.34; soybeans ⅞ to 1⅜ higher, March $2.22⅞; lard unchanged to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher, March $12.80.

U. S. Tells Reds of Meeting Plan

Tests Soviet Intentions by Proposal to Confer With Disarmament Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has informally advised the Soviet Union that the Western powers intend to ask for a meeting of the United Nations Disarmament Commission this month.

The move is designed to test the Soviet Union's declared intention of boycotting the commission. If the Soviets refuse to cooperate, the Western powers then will take the issue of disarmament negotiations into the United Nations Security Council.

The plan was developed in consultation with NATO allies. It was put in final form in Paris last week.

The Western governments decided that the whole operation should be handled in a friendly manner so the Soviets would have evidence that the Western powers were not simply trying to embarrass them.

The 25-member U.N. Disarmament Commission was created by the General Assembly late last year after the final breakdown of disarmament talks in a U.N. subcommittee made up of the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

The Soviets wanted a committee composed of the whole United Nations membership of 82 nations. They opposed the 25-member commission from the first.

Dog Attacks Three, Killed by Neighbor

FLINT (AP)—A boxer dog savagely attacked a man, the man's 11-year-old daughter and 76-year-old father Wednesday as the child attempted to pet the animal.

State Police said Clayton Newton, 43, of Geneseeville is in good condition at a Flint hospital today suffering bites of the left leg, right ankle and multiple body cuts. His daughter, Kathryn, and his father, Charles, were treated and released with less severe bites.

Police said the Newton family bought the boxer from the Genesee County Humane Society Saturday and were told by Mrs. Grace Smith, manager, that the dog would not take to children of any age. Mrs. Smith said the family insisted on buying the year-and-a-half-old male.

Officers said the dog bit Kathryn in the elbow when she tried to pet it. Her screams brought her father who wrestled around the yard with the animal. His father was bitten when he tried to intervene. A neighbor, Ronald Kelsey, 21, finally killed the dog with a shotgun.

Accident Hospitalizes 2 Port Huron Sisters

Two Port Huron sisters were admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital this morning with head injuries following a one-car accident in Troy.

In fair condition, according to a hospital spokesman, are Marian Elizabeth Pollock, 41, of 5014 Lake Shore Dr. and Vivian Holcomb, 45, of 2003 Stone Rd.

Sgt. Willard Schwandt, Troy Police, reports Mrs. Pollock was driving the auto south on Adams road near 13½-Mile road when she lost control of the auto because of the snow, ran off the road and struck a utility pole.

Missiles Plant Closed by U. S.

Kalamazoo Firm Shut in Attempt to Collect Tax Claim Against Owner

KALAMAZOO (AP)—A plant which manufactures parts for missiles was seized and closed by the government today in an effort to collect an income tax claim against a Kalamazoo industrialist.

The American Tool and Engineering Co. plant employs 65 machinists, tool and die makers and clerical workers. They were thrown out of work.

The industrialist, Alexander Pinto, was sentenced Monday in U. S. District Court in Grand Rapids to four years in prison on charges of income tax evasion totaling $424,156. Pinto pleaded guilty.

Pinto, president of the firm which he built from a small shop to a large business, was taken to the federal prison at Milan today to start serving his term. He will be eligible for parole in 16 months.

Employes protested their pay checks for last week were locked up inside.

Kalamazoo Chamber of Commerce and city officials took steps to see if the government could name some one to operate the plant. It makes precision parts for missiles and it makes parts for jet aircraft engines.

Unlicensed Barber Trimmed in Court

Ralph W. Kitchen, 47, of 469 Montcalm St., was placed on six months probation by Judge Cecil B. McCallum.

He was also ordered by the court to dispose of a barber's chair he owns and to confine his hair cutting to his own family.

The court also ordered Kitchen to give access to his home to Robert Scott, state barber examiner, who will make periodic checks.

Market Seeks 5th-Straight Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels were in demand as the stock market made further upward progress in quiet trading early today.

The market was riding a four-day winning streak and trying to make it five.

Key issues rose fractionally. Quite a few were unchanged. A few losers appeared.

Motors, coppers, chemicals, oils and rails were narrowly ahead. Airlines were easy.

The ability of rails to join the industrials in the rise was an encouraging technical sign. Further reassurance that the administration plans to fight the recession and news of higher copper prices abroad also helped.

Bethlehem, Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet rose fractionally. U.S. Steel was firm.

Chrysler erased a small early loss and added another fraction to its ⅝ rise of yesterday when its Jupiter-C missile fired another intended satellite skyward. General Motors and Ford were steady.

Area Lakes Ice Called Unsafe at Present Time

"Ice on Oakland County lakes is unsafe at the present time."

This warning came from Jack Weiler of the Michigan State Conservation Department, who said, "Fishermen have been urged to remove their fishing shanties from the lakes immediately and stay off until further notice."

He added that although there was 18 inches of solid, thick ice recently, it has since honey-combed because of the warmer weather and has lost its strength.

Weiler said that if a fishing shanty is allowed to go through the ice, the owner is subject to a stiff fine, plus the cost of hauling the building out of the lake. According to law, each shanty must be plainly identified on the outside.

"This is the kind of weather that fools people and many unnecessary accidents occur during this time of year because of lack of caution," Weiler concluded.

Natives of Iceland are largely of Scandinavian origin. Some Irish descendents also live on this Arctic Circle island.

'58 Called Decisive Year for Foreign Car Market

DETROIT (AP) — Ward's Automotive Reports says "a tense situation is developing that promises to make 1958 a year of decision for the imported car."

The trade publication continued: "American Motors Corp. and Studebaker-Packard Corp. by their own declarations, have regrouped their product lineups and are depending almost entirely upon the small-car market for survival.

WIDENS BITE

"In this respect, the foreign car is steadily widening i s bite of U.S. auto sales. While this gain is coming at the expense of both the big three and the independents, the latter group's modest volume makes it vulnerable to sales pressure. American Motors Corp., of course, is showing new strength.

"Thus any unusual reversals among the independents this year could dictate imposition of limits restricting importation of foreign cars.

"In 1957 import auto sales totaled 206,827 (units), up 110.6 per cent from 98,187 posted in 1956. The independents, at the same time, fell 18 per cent last year, to 177,622, from 216,534 a year earlier. Year 1957, in fact, marked the first time the imports topped the independents in annual sales volume."

The trade publication reports that imported cars accounted for 3.4 per cent of overall sales last year while the so-called U. S. independents took 3.0 per cent of the total. In December alone, it said, imports amounted to 4.2 per cent while the independents' share was 2.9 per cent.

Included in the imported cars were American Motors' Metropolitan line, built in England. The independents include all car makers outside the big three of General Motors, Eord and Chrysler.

Emphasizing the extent to which imported cars have cut into the U. S. market, Ward's shows that in 1953 they accounted for one-half of one per cent of total sales while the independents shared a total of nine per cent.

The independents at that time, of course, were building a stantial volume of larger cars, i. Hudson, Nash, Packard and Studebaker.

Bulganin Sends Another Letter

Outlines Soviet Position on Summit Conference in New Note

WASHINGTON (INS) — Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin today sent a new letter to President Eisenhower outlining Russia's position on a new East-West summit conference to relax world tensions.

The letter was delivered to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles by Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov shortly after 11 a.m. (EST).

The new letter is a reply by Bulganin to Eisenhower's Feb. 15 letter in which he told the Soviet leader that he saw nothing to be gained by a further exchange of written speeches that served only propaganda purposes.

Eisenhower then told the Soviet government that if a summit meeting was to be held the Kremlin would have to change its attitude.

Menshikov asked for the surprise appointment with Dulles without prior notice shortly before 11 o'clock this morning.

His sudden call at the State Department broke up a morning briefing that Dulles was holding with his top advisers on Soviet affairs, and Menshikov was kept waiting five minutes until Dulles could clear his office.

As he left the secretary's office, the Soviet envoy told newsmen who asked him if his call concerned preparations for a summit meeting:

"The only thing that I can say is that I have just handed over a message from Premier Bulganin to President Eisenhower."

Menshikov was asked by newsmen whether it was a reply to President Eisenhower's letter of Feb. 15 to Bulganin. He nodded affirmatively and said:

"Yes, it deals with the questions in that letter."

Menshikov said that was all he could say about the new letter.

2 Drivers Die on County Roads

Detroiter Killed as Car Skids Into Truck's Path on Slippery Pavement

Two drivers died on Oakland County roads in traffic accidents during the past 24 hours.

The latest victim, a Detroiter, was fatally injured shortly before 8 a.m. today when he lost control of his car on slippery pavement and skidded into the path of an oncoming gravel truck on 32 Mile road, one mile east of Rochester road.

He was identified as Ralph G. Sepulveda, 34, of 8450 Pierson St. He was apparently killed instantly. State Police said when he was thrown from his car onto the pavement. The truck driver, uninjured, was not held.

Lamont Haverkate, 63, of 21301 Telegraph Rd. Southfield Township, crashed into an abutment at the Eight Mile - Telegraph road viaduct early yesterday afternoon.

Haverkate, a Ford Motor Co. tool crib attendant, was driving south on Telegraph and apparently lost control about 50 feet north of the Wayne County line, state police said.

They are investigating to determine if he may have suffered a heart attack, causing him to lose control of the car.

Ford Races to Meet Thunderbird Orders

DEARBORN (INS) — Ford Motor Co. said today it is producing its new four-passenger Thunderbird on a heavy overtime schedule in an effort to meet the demand for the new car.

J. O. Wright, Ford vice president and Ford Division general manager, said the demand for the car is represented by a backlog of 5,000 advance orders.

"We are doing everthing we can to increase our production to meeting the demand," Wright added, "and our hopes are to be producing about twice as many Thunderbirds in April as we did in February."

The four-passenger T-bird was introduced by Ford Dealers three weeks ago.

He Denies Role in FCC Case

Mamie's Relative to Get Opportunity to Testify in House Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP)—Col. George Gordon Moore, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Eisenhower, will be given a chance to testify in a House investigation of alleged influence in the grant of a lucrative television license in Miami.

Moore denied that he had anything to do with the Federal Communications Commission's grant of TV Channel 10 to a National Airlines subsidiary headed by G. T. Baker, a friend of his. But Moore wrote Rep. Harris (D-Ark), chairman of the investigating subcommittee, that he is willing to repeat his denial under oath.

"Of course the committee will give him that opportunity," Harris told newsmen. He said no definite arrangements have been made.

The subcommittee hearings were in recess until Monday when Thurman A. Whiteside, Florida attorney, is expected back to finish testimony about his role in the Miami case and his financial favors to Richard A. Mack, who resigned under fire as an FCC commissioner earlier this week.

A. Frank Katzentine, a Miami radio station owner who lost in a bid for Channel 10, has testified before the subcommittee that he heard Moore "engineered" the award to Public Service Television, Inc., the National Airlines subsidiary.

Baker has denied getting any help from Moore and has said pressure was exerted by Katzentine and others on Katzentine's behalf.

Woman Collects for Her Injury on Coffee Break

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Supreme Court has ruled that injuries a worker suffers during a coffee break can be considered as occurring on the job.

The court ruled yesterday in the case of Mrs. Phyllis A. Clifford, 46, Worcester, an employe of the Worcester Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

She was awarded $1,860 against the insurer, the Aetna Insurance Co., for attorney's and doctor's fees, costs and compensation.

Mrs. Clifford fell downstairs while going for a coffee break in 1952. She lost no time from work, although badly bruised.

JANE ELIZABETH HOERATH

Committee Appoints New Area 4-H Agent

Oakland County new 4-H agent is Jane Elizabeth Hoerath, 3180 Runyon Rd., Rochester.

Mrs. Hoerath, 23, replaces Sue Sturgis Meyer who resigned last month.

Mrs. Hoerath was graduated from the University of Kansas where she received her bachelor's degree in home economics. Before coming to Oakland County, she taught junior and senior high school clothing classes in Junction City, Kansas and then served as a home demonstration agent in Bedford, Va.

Granted Access to Cass Lake

Supreme Court Ruling Backs Judge Holland on Non-Water Homes

Many families in the vicinity of Cass Lake can look forward to a summer of using the lake for the first time because of a Supreme Court ruling recently handed down.

High court justices have affirmed a 1956 decision of Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland that some 25 owners of lots not on the lake might use it and a boat basin.

Members of the Harbor Hills Assn., property owners in a subdivision by that name on the lake, had argued these back-lot owners had no legal right to lake privileges.

The C. E. Summers of 3850 Commerce Rd. asked the circuit court several years ago for a restraining order preventing the association from barring these families from using the lake.

Some 45 families in the association said deed restrictions prevented this. Judge Holland and the Supreme Court ruled otherwise.

Another Bus Victim Pulled From River

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (INS) —The body of a 12-year-old girl who died with 25 other children and the driver of a school bus when it plunged into the Big Sandy River near Prestonsburg has been recovered.

Searchers found the body of Joyce McPeak yesterday, bringing to 20—19 children and the driver—the number of victims taken from the bus and flood-swollen river.

They continued to hunt for the seven other children who perished in the tragedy last Friday.

Officials were inspecting the twisted wreckage of the bus to determine whether faulty mechanism caused it to crash into a tow truck and sideswipe a parked automobile before it tumbled down a 40-foot embankment into the river.

The driver, John Derossett, 27, was to be buried today.

Separate funeral services were conducted for 13 of the dead children in Baptist churches at Prestonsburg and Cow Creek yesterday.

8 Per Cent in Sweden Have Housing Problem

STOCKHOLM — About 8 per cent of the Swedish people are still wrestling with some housing problem although housing construction this year is expected to set an all-time record of 62,000 new dwelling units completed.

A public-opinion poll shows that one fourth of those with problems have no dwelling of their own and another fourth find their homes too small.

Wants Inquiry About Detectives

McNamara Cites Use by Kohler as Violation of Taft-Hartley Act

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McNamara (D-Mich) today demanded vigorous inquiry as to whether it was legal for the Kohler Co. to hire detectives to check on striking union pickets.

Lyman C. Conger, chief attorney for the Wisconsin plumbing fixtures firm, testified the company hired private detectives "to get information about violence."

"Spying on union gatherings is a violation of the Taft-Hartley (labor relations) Act," McNamara said. As a nonlawyer, he added, he isn't sure yet whether to direct his demand to the National Labor Relations Board or to the Justice Department.

The Michigan Senator's statement to newsmen came as the Senate Rackets Committee prepared to explore the beating of a Kohler nonstriker by William Vinson, an official of the United Auto Workers. Vinson was convicted of the assault and sent to prison.

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy said witnesses would include Vinson, an international representative of the UAW from Detroit, and Willard Van Ouwerkerk of Sheboygan Falls, Wis., whose injuries included a broken neck.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The scandal-torn Bakery Workers Union says it has cleaned house in a special congress here after handing a modest vote of confidence to its most controversial figure—President James G. Cross.

The union delegates shut down the convention yesterday after directing officers to seek ways to comply with rulings by the AFL-CIO—which kicked out the bakers several months ago on charges of corrupt leadership.

But the convention attached a proviso saying that any peace agreement with the AFL-CIO must be in accord with the Bakery Workers Union constitution.

Cross was unopposed when re-elected last Tuesday—although a number of delegates made a silent protest by not voting.

Kenyon, Eckhardt Gets Lincoln, Continental Ads

DETROIT (AP) — Selection of Kenyon & Eckhardt, Inc., to handle advertising for the Lincoln and Continental car lines of Ford Motor Co. was announced today. The company also has the Mercury account.

The advertising firm formerly had the Lincoln account from January, 1948, until introduction of the 1956 model in September 1955.

Selection of Kenyon & Eckhardt is part of the general shift in advertising accounts by various auto companies that began with the termination of Buick's 24 million dollar contract with the Kudner Agency, Inc.

Dividend Announced

DETROIT (AP)—American Metal Products Co. Wednesday declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share of common stock, payable March 31 to stockholders of record March 14. The company last November increased the annual dividend rate from $1.50 to $1.60 per common share.

'Omnibus' Producer Robert Saudek Plans Expansion

ROBERT SAUDEK

Hopes to Stage 2 Other Shows

TV Intellectual Defends This Year's Offerings, Sees Improvement

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Although Robert Saudek has difficulty in remembering who sponsored the program he produced a few years ago, he can practically recall the artistic content of each show.

This is not to say that he has no interest in the commercial TV system — he's a stout advocate of it — but it does indicate the depth of his absorption in what he programs on "Omnibus," of which he is the producer.

Saudek has been with "Omnibus" since its inception in the fall of 1952. The first five years, he served as the head of the TV-Radio Workshop of the Ford Foundation, under whose auspices the program was launched.

When Ford decided to drop it this year, he formed Robert Saudek Associates, purchased the show and the title, hired most of the personnel who had been putting it together, and now produces it for NBC-TV.

Actually, now that he has a thriving TV production company, Saudek is full of plans.

2 OTHER SHOWS

"Our target for next fall," he says, "is to have two other shows on the air, besides 'Omnibus.'"

He says he's been commisssioned by a sponsor to build one show. And there's another one his organization is creating, with the hope of selling it to a network or sponsor.

"I could tell you about them," he says, "but I don't want to say anything too soon — I'm afraid they might fizzle, like our first Sputnik."

Bob Saudek is unique in the flashy TV industry. He looks more like a lawyer and, in fact, he did study law after he graduated from Harvard.

He's serious, intense, deep-thinking, full of respect and hope for TV. Where you might expect him to be critical of this season on TV, he's not.

GETTING BETTER

"I don't think television this year is as bad as it's been painted," he says. "I think the top 10 per cent of the shows are getting better, and maybe now the top 10 per cent is 11 per cent."

This, of course, doesn't stop him from pointing to what he considers flaws in TV programming. He is particularly critical of the "spectacular" concept, the special shows which have been among TV's biggest selling points.

"Spectaculars," he says, "have the seeds of their own destruction in them. A show that has to recruit a full staff for a one-shot is not practical and not economic.

"The best people are already hired, so you either have to settle for second-best, or spend a lot of money to hire somebody away from an existing show. And he usually won't come for just one show."

He believes, therefore, that the spectacular on TV is doomed. But he does see a new form of programming evolving, or at least he knows what he thinks would be the ideal setup and has hopes it will come.

3 SHOWS YEARLY

"The ideal setup," as he explains it, "would be for Crosby and Sinatra, say, to do three shows a year. And Caesar to do three and somebody else to do three.

"TV, you see, inherited the old radio concept of weekly shows, programs on a regularly scheduled basis. This may be convenient for business, simplified billing and so on, but it's not good from an artistic standpoint.

"It's too hard for an entertainer or any entertainment show to be at its best every week, or even every month."

What he'd like to see, then, would be a sponsor to buy a regular segment of time and have stars or programs on a widely separated rotating schedule to fill that time.

As for the criticism that TV kisses off the so-called cultural shows — like "Omnibus" — by scheduling them in the less desirable Sunday afternoon period, Saudek disagrees.

THE PEOPLE KNOW

"I don't think that's necessarily bad," he says. "It's like all the big stock brokers being on Wall street—people know they're there, and they know we're on Sunday afternoons."

"Omnibus," which this season is having one of its finest years, is, of course, Saudek's pride and joy. He's proudest of the innovations the program began, many of which have been copied by other shows.

His program was, for example, the first 90-minute show — long before "Playhouse 90" or "The Hallmark Hall of Fame" or any of the others.

Detroit Jewish Council Plans Birthday Dinner

DETROIT (INS) — The Jewish Community Council of Metropolitan Detroit will celebrate its more than 20 years of service to the community at a special institute and dinner on March 9.

The council, which represents 340 affiliated Jewish organizations, will hold the dinner at 6 p.m. at will hold the dinner at 6 p.m. at the Rainbow Terrace, 19451 Wyoming. Rabbi Morris Adler, acting council president, will act as chairman at the dinner.

FLORAL QUEEN — Ruth Gissy is surrounded by lilies, symbolic of her selection to reign as the Queen of the Bermuda Floral Pageant in April. She's a junior at Manhattanville College in Purchase, N. Y.

Movies Influenced Boys Starting Fire?

DETROIT (INS) — Stanley F. Stefan, clinical psychologist of Detroit Juvenile Court, said today "hostility patterns" shown by three boys accused of setting fire to the Irving Elementary School last Sunday prrobably were influenced by recent juvenile delinquency movies.

Stefan made the observation after learning two of the boys, aged 10 and 13, claimed they were "mad at the world."

"The average delinquent," the court aide said, "can not verbalize such behavior. These boys are just too young to know why they would do such damage.

"They are just parroting the thoughts of others. They probably heard the statement 'mad at the world' at a movie . . ."

Probate Judge Nathan J. Kaufman has ordered the boys confined to the juvenile home until the psychological clinic decides whether their home life is "halfway decent." The third youngster is 11 years old.

A Detroit fire chief, Fred Bauman, 56, was injured seriously fighting the blaze.

Shirley Temple Fetching as Ever in First TV Role

By GEOFFREY GOULD

NEW YORK (AP)—Shirley Temple played her first full-length dramatic role on television last night in a somewhat padded version of Washington Irving's "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow."

On the whole it was an entertaining hour, though the classic tale surely held no surprises for anyone.

Miss Temple stepped down from her previous position as the narrator of Shirley Temple's Storybook. In her place was Boris Karloff, bewigged, urbane and the opposite of spooky.

Miss Temple stepped into the cast as Katrina Van Tassel, the saucy and very marriageable daughter of a wealthy Dutch settler in 18th century Sleepy Hollow, not far north of what is now New York City.

Both she and John Ericson, who played her inarticulate but handsome suitor Brom Bones, had a little trouble conveying Dutch accents.

Miss Temple is as dimpled as ever, and she made a fetching Katrina. In fact, with her blonde wig and tight braided curls, there were moments when one seemed to catch a glimpse of the Little Miss Marker of 25 years ago.

Jules Munshin, as the foppish schoolmaster who tried to win Katrina away from Brom, turned in a performance of great style that spelled the difference in making the show a smooth, professional one.

It Isn't Every Girl Who Can Work This

By EARL WILSON

MIAMI BEACH — That Linda Christian's the one! TV Star George DeWitt flew to Mexico City, picked her up, flew back here to the Racquet Club for a couple of days—and all the time she talked about "Baby" Pignatari, the fantastically rich Brazilian she expects to marry in April.

WILSON

"'Baby' got married in Switzerland so he may have to go back there for his divorce," Linda told me. "Looks like we'll get married right after that unless some act of God happens, and live in a fabulous house in Sao Paulo which will take two more years to finish building."

I asked Linda if she ever expects to act again.

"No," she said, "my little babies and this big 'Baby' will be keeping my hands full.

LINDA

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Ed Sullivan agreed to play four weeks this summer at Las Vegas for $100,000; same next year. He says "Their beautiful golf course won me." (Doctors told him he doesn't have to have an operation.) Steve Allen takes July, August off to tour Europe. . . . Pat Wymore's lawyer-shopping to divorce Errol Flynn . . . Jack Dempsey visited his Chicago doctor about a bothersome throat allergy . . . Danny Scholl, broke when Jack Paar rediscovered him, gets 2G's a week in "Oklahoma!" in Denver . . . Julie London and Bobby Troup say they'll wed in "a couple of weeks."

New Mexico Prison Near Escape-Proof

SANTA FE, N. M. (INS) — The New Mexico State Prison has probably one of the finest escape-proof institutions in the land judging from the record of exit attempts by inmates.

Since the prison was established at Santa Fe, there have been 763 convicts who attempted to gain freedom beginning with inmate No. 20, Charles Spencer, on Feb. 20, 1885.

But Spencer, like 758 of the other escapees, was recaptured and finished out his sentence. Of the prisoners who made good their break most were retaken within a few days, but one man was returned after 15 years' freedom.

More than half of the 763 recorded escapes have been made from the prison farm, but there have been no successful break made from New Mexico's new eight-million-dollar penitentiary which is theoretically escape-proof.

Six American railroads have installed tape systems to give passengers recorded music while they travel.

Surgery on Oldsters Deemed Safer Now

ANN ARBOR (INS) — A University of Michigan surgeon says modern surgical advances have made operations for older persons reasonably safe.

Dr. Frederick A. Coller says these advances in recent years have helped make surgery in persons over 70 a "safe bet:"

— Improved whole blood replacement.
— Surgical technical advances.

Dr. Coller says his studies of more than 600 operations in persons over 70 showed those between 70 and 79 had the best chance of recovering, although 84 per cent of those over 90 years of age survived surgery and left the hospital in good physical condition.

Farm Prices Still Off

Blind Nomads Left to Die in Desert Sun

OKAVANGO, S. W. Africa — Blind nomadic bushmen in the Okavango province of South West Africa are deserted by the tribe and left to die, this was reported in Windhoek by S. K. Wentworth, director of the Bureau for the Prevention of Blindness, after making a study of blindness among the bushmen.

As well as the blind, the aged and those who cannot fend for themselves are left to die in the desert, he said.

But they accept this fate with little fuss. Of the bushman, Dr. Wentworth said: "He is a very likable person—friendly and cooperative as far as we were concerned. They have only one interest in life—food, for which they are prepared to do anything."

Meter Stamping Used

WASHINGTON — The system of metered mail has replaced ordinary postage stamps on nearly half of all United States mail. Metered mail, it is estimated, accounts for more than $700,000,000 worth of postage a year.
