County Eyes Solid-Waste Disposal Site, Airport Link

By JEAN SAILE

Can you make a solid waste disposal site out of an airport and still improve it as an airport?

Would such an arrangement be feasible and economical? And if you're an Oakland County supervisor, how does such a plan affect those who elected you?

These were some of the questions asked as development of the Oakland-Orion Airport was discussed yesterday before the supervisors' aviation and transportation committee.

The idea of solving two county problems at once was proposed by Wallace Gabler, R-Royal Oak, committee chairman.

TREMENDOUS PROBLEMS

"The county has tremendous problems in solid waste disposal," the chairman said. "It also is concerned with airport development.

"It logically follows to use land the county owns on the Oakland-Orion Airport site for solid waste disposal. Instead of pushing dirt around on the site, we could fill in the holes with solid waste," Gabler suggested.

★ ★ ★

Senate Unit Reports Out 2 Bills on Rec-Fund Split

LANSING (AP) — The Senate Conservation Committee yesterday reported out two bills advocating different formulas — one the choice of sportsmen, the other Gov. William Milliken's proposal—for dividing the $100 million in recreation bond funds.

The money-split question is "so controversial," the entire Senate should have a chance to debate the various methods, said Sen. George Fitzgerald, D-Grosse Pointe Park.

The House Conservation Committee, meanwhile, was reported preparing a substitute bill that would offer a 70-30 split of funds, but could assure that urban areas got a greater chunk than had previously been proposed.

★ ★ ★

One bill reported from the Senate committee splits the funds on a 30-30-40 basis as Milliken proposed. The bill was sponsored by Sen. Coleman Young, D-Detroit, and Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis.

Some $30 million would go to counties on a per capita basis, another $30 million to counties over 100,000 population and the remaining $40 million to the State Department of Natural Resources for state projects.

Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford, supported the governor's proposal, saying he believed much of the bond issue money should go to areas surrounding urban centers.

"The people who are there in the long, hot summers—the kids on the streets have no place to go," he said. "They can't drive clear to the north country."

The second bill, sponsored by Conservation Committee Chairman Gordon Rockwell, R-Mount Morris, divides the money on a 70-30 basis, with $70 million earmarked for state recreation projects and $30 million for local communities.

Some legislators and many conservationists contend that former Gov. Romney campaigned for successful passage of the bond issue with promises that the money would be divided 70-30 with a majority of it going to outstate areas.

Milliken proposed the 30-30-40 split after the bond issue passed and was showered with criticism from those who claimed he "broke faith with the people" who voted for the measure.

The reported campaign promises "cannot tie up my vote or that of this legislature," argued Sen. Basil Brown, D-Detroit, who voted against reporting out the 70-30 bill.

"We ought to talk about need and need only," Brown maintained.

Whitmer's Son Gets State Post

Richard Whitmer, a 29-year-old lawyer currently legislative counsel to the governor, was named today as director of the State Commerce Department at an annual salary of $25,000. Senate confirmation of the appointment will be required.

WHITMER

Whitmer is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Dana P. Whitmer, 43 N. Genesee, Pontiac's superintendent of schools.

★ ★ ★

The Commerce Department directorship was opened Tuesday when Herbert DeJonge resigned to accept a civil service appointment as deputy director of the State Department of Administration.

Whitmer, a 1965 graduate of the University of Michigan law school, served on the staffs of former Gov. George Romney and Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich. He left Griffin's staff in January to work with Gov. William Milliken.

Some Experts Say Lewd Publications Don't Provoke Unlawful Sex Acts

Experts Split on 'Smut' Harm

(Last of a series)

By DICK ROBINSON

Does sexually oriented literature provoke antisocial behavior?

Pontiac Police Chief William K. Hanger, who heads an investigation into the city's adult-only bookstores, thinks so.

★ ★ ★

But most psychiatrists and psychologists — the experts — doubt that obscene literature is harmful to children.

"I haven't seen much of a problem with this literature," Dr. Andrew T. Yang, Oakland County juvenile court chief psychologist, said, "It isn't harmful if the youth comes from a good family background."

BETTER ADJUSTED

In fact, a New Jersey clinical psychologist remarked that "Some adolescents started to get better adjusted to reality when they began to read pornography."

"The sexual offenders I have seen in 20 years of practice have been, without exception, shy, ignorant, bumbling middle-aged men, active in church, youth groups or some such organization stressing a sort of ideal conduct," a psychiatrist commented.

★ ★ ★

Other experts say that pornography implants in the young a morbid preoccupation with sex.

They say pornography encourages youngsters to view sex as the only part of the relationship between people in love—people who possess personalities and minds as well as reproductive organs.

CURBS FAVORED

A sampling of public opinions here draws views ranging from no censorship at all to a total ban on "smut."

"If that's what adults get their kicks out of, let them go ahead," advocated a 15-year-old Pontiac girl, who has bought titillating publications.

★ ★ ★

"I don't care for it. It's pretty rank, and I don't want to see it in the hands of kids. Quite a bit gets into the hands of boys at school. They keep it in notebooks, look at it in the halls and laugh."

Police quoted an 18-year-old clerk at one of the city stores as saying, "I'm glad someone is finally doing something about this mess."

"It's awful, it's vulgar and it's trash," ranted a mother of two children who admitted never seeing the provocative magazines. "If they sell this to a 15-year-old, no wonder there's so much crime."

"My parents wouldn't even let me read Modern Romance magazine."

★ ★ ★

A matronly woman wrote this to Hanger:

"I went to the door of one of the bookstores and thought it was a legitimate store. Then I saw a sign on the door — "adults only." I surely got out of there fast. It really frightened me."

CENSORS CRITICIZED

New Wage-Tax Plan Aids Middle Incomes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills says his committee is working on an income tax revision plan that would eliminate most deductions and cut taxes for those in the $10,000-$20,000 salary bracket.

★ ★ ★

Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said yesterday over-all tax rates for individuals then could be cut to vary from 5 to 50 per cent. The rates now range from 14 to 70 per cent.

★ ★ ★

The Treasury Department has been asked by Mills to check the plan on its computers to determine the effect on revenue.

The object would be neither to gain nor lose revenue over-all but to simplify preparation and auditing of income tax returns, Mills said.

DEDUCTIONS

Deductions for such items as medical expense, interest and local taxes would be allowed only to the extent the total exceeded 10 per cent of the taxpayer's gross income. A person earning $20,000 with total deductions of $2,500 would only be allowed to take off $500 under the new plan, Mills said. All charitable donations would remain deductible.

★ ★ ★

The standard 10 per cent deduction for those earning $10,000 or less would be eliminated entirely.

Meanwhile, Mills' committee is reported interested in a proposal to ban grants direct to individuals.

★ ★ ★

The issue was catapulted back into public attention this week with the charge that Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas received—but returned—a fee from the family foundation of Louis E. Wolfson, who has been imprisoned for selling unregistered stock.

FOUNDATION CRITICIZED

Earlier, the Ford Foundation was criticized in testimony to the committee for making grants to eight former aides to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

★ ★ ★

The regulation the committee is considering would prohibit grants to individuals by a general-purpose tax-exempt foundation like Ford. It could, however, supply funds to another tax-exempt organization, like a university, which in turn could make grants to individuals for approved projects.

News in Brief

LANSING (UPI)—A major reorganization of the embattled State Mental Health Department's central office was announced today by Gov. Milliken's administration. The reorganization comes six weeks fter a state audit turned up widespread inefficiency and waste within the department.

German Mark Soars

LONDON (AP) — The deutsche mark reached record highs in the Paris exchange market today as speculation grew about an early raising of the value of West Germany's currency. More than $150 million of speculative money flooded into West Germany in the single hour. The mark closed in Paris at 125.580 French francs for 100 marks, compared to yesterday's close of 125.295.

VC Offers Peace Plan

PARIS (AP) — The Vietcong today presented a 10-point peace plan, based mainly on previously rejected proposals but containing some new elements. The central point of the NLF plan was establishment of a provisional coalition government to arrange a general election and to rule South Vietnam between the time peace is attained and a constituent assembly is elected. The United States and South Viet — reportedly reacted unfavorably during a rebuttal period.

Nixon Aide Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wright Patman told the House today that Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy has violated three sections of federal law and a presidential order by maintaining financial ties with the Continental Illinois National Bank. Kennedy has repeatedly denied any conflict of interest, and cited Senate approval of the arrangement.

Swamp Ordeal Over for Pair

HOUGHTON LAKE (AP) — Two Holly men walked out of Dead Stream Swamp near Houghton Lake yesterday after they said they wandered lost for four days.

James A. LeGendre, 41, of 721 Richard and Robert P. Trantham, 35, of 103 Park entered the swamp Saturday morning and canoed 15 miles into the interior. They became lost when they set out on foot to find a hunting shanty.

★ ★ ★

After going four days without food and drinking only swamp water, the two found a fisherman about one-half mile from the point where they originally entered the swamp.

LeGendre and Trantham were reported none the worse for their experience.

Police Called to Quell College Strife in NY

Students Still Control 6 Howard Buildings

By United Press International

City College of New York reopens today with police guards to prevent a repetition of yesterday's fights between white students and black and Puerto Rican students.

In Washington, D.C. Howard University students remained in control of six campus buildings. The administration of the mostly Negro school gave them a 24-hour ultimatum—ending at midafternoon today—to allow the barricaded campus to reopen.

National Guardsmen and New Orleans police were at the campus of Southern University today, hoping to catch an elusive Lebanese professor who defied Dean Emmett W. Bashful's order yesterday to "vacate your office and the campus" and skipped ahead of police.

About 5,000 students from Indiana's four state-supported universities—Indiana, Purdue, Ball State and Indiana State—staged a peaceful demonstration outside the state house yesterday to protest tuition hikes next fall. The students carried signs calling Gov. Edgar Whitcomb "an outside agitator," recalling the governor's blast against "outside agitators" on campus.

The fighting at City College of New York, which left seven persons injured, came the day after classes were resumed following two weeks of disruption. Yesterday was the first day police were called to the school as 125 helmeted officers took more than an hour to part white and minority group students who went at each other with baseball bats, golf clubs and truncheons.

At Southern University, Dr. George Haggar, a political science teacher from Lebanon, led police on a merry chase —with the aid of the Afro-American Society—after Gov. John J. McKeithen ordered 280 Guardsmen on standby duty and Dean Bashful ordered the campus vacated.

★ ★ ★

Other student disruptions occurred at the University of Bridgeport in Connecticut and the University of Hawaii.

At Dartmouth in New Hampshire, about 300-400 students reportedly planned to disrupt some classes today to force consideration of proposals to abolish ROTC and give amnesty to 56 students arrested by police in the administration building yesterday.

COOL DEMONSTRATION—Temperatures in the mid-80s were too much of a temptation for one girl (center foreground) as she dipped her hair in a pool during a demonstration yesterday on the patio of the Indiana State Office Building. Area Man Killed in I-75 Mishap

A Birmingham man was killed when his van apparently blew a tire, left the road and rolled over on I-75 in Troy last night, according to Troy police.

Killed was Robert E. Langdon, 41, of 526 Catalpa. He was found dead at the scene one-quarter mile east of the Rochester overpass. His body was half-way out of the van window and pinned beneath the vehicle on the expressway median, police said.

MRS. ELDRED SWEENEY

She's Candidate Part and Parcel

Mrs. Eldred (Carole) Sweeney of 228 Orchard Lake purchased one square foot of land in Pontiac this week to qualify her as a property owner so she can run for the city school board.

Mrs. Sweeney, 30, bought the property for $1 in order to meet the requirements of a state law which specifies that a school board candidate must be a landowner within that district.

★ ★ ★

She bought the parcel from a friend, James Baldwin, at his home at 179 Augusta on Monday and legally registered it in her name for a deed fee of $2. She filed her nominating petition for the school board Tuesday.

Mrs. Sweeney's land purchase makes her the first black person to buy property in the all-white neighborhood near Pontiac State Hospital.

What is she going to do with her small plot of land? "I'm going to build a white picket fence around it with popsicle sticks, and plant flowers," she said.

Mrs. Sweeney, who has three daughters in the Pontiac Schools, is an active crusader for civil rights in the community.

She has been a foster parent for a number of girls and is a member of Voice of Oakland County Action League (VOCAL), the Urban League, NAACP and the Pontiac Black Cultural Center.

If elected, Mrs. Sweeney said, "I will push for the upgrading of black schools in Pontiac both physically and scholastically. I would also encourage meaningful integration in schools and expansion of the special education programs."

Mrs. Sweeney, who has attended every meeting of the board of education since last November, and many before that, said, "I feel that the board of education will be much more than just a hobby with me."

The deadline for candidates to file for the board of education is Monday. School district voters may register for the election June 9 until tomorrow.

School Debate Near in House

LANSING (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee yesterday reported out an $844.08-million state school aid bill and set the stage for one of the hottest debates of the legislative session—parochiaid.

Discussion of the bill could begin tomorrow, according to House Speaker William Ryan, D-Detroit.

The appropriations committee voted 10-3 for the bill after paring the schools allocation to $844.08 million — $120,000 less than the figure adopted earlier by the Senate.

Ryan, leader of the successful bid to add $100,000 for church and other privately run schools, said refinements must be made in the parochiaid rider, although no more money is involved.

"There will be efforts" to add to the bill, Ryan predicted.

Appropriations Chairman William Copeland, D-Wyandotte, declined to speculate what effect the bill—some $505,000 below Gov. William Milliken's recommended budget—would have on the state's hard-pressed schools.

★ ★ ★

"I'm a finance man, I'm not an educator," Copeland said. "It'll be up to the educators to say how they'll make out."

Unit Fails to Act on Bid to End Sex Education

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The board of education took no action on the recent request of several residents who asked for suspension of the district's sex education program.

★ ★ ★

The board invited protesting residents who appeared at the board meeting earlier this week to join the citizens committee which oversees and continually evaluates the materials and procedures used in the sex education program.

★ ★ ★

The committee now has 24 members. Fourteen residents asked to join the committee.

★ ★ ★

Norman Quinn, director of health, physical education and athletics, said "the communication lines are being kept open at all times and anyone wishing a voice in evaluating the program is invited to do so."

STEMS FROM ARGUMENT

The most recent protest stemmed mostly from the broad-based argument that sex education should not be the responsibility of the schools.

★ ★ ★

Sex education has been taught in varying degrees for several years in the district, Quinn said. However, currently it is limited to the elementary and junior high levels.

★ ★ ★

Sex education is treated on a familiy life basis and is only one of several studies in the field of health education.

The board has planned an informational meeting for May 14 at 8 p.m. at Pine Lake School, which will present the films, materials and procedures used in the course.

BIRMINGHAM — The Planning Board introduced a motion last night to hold the height limitations on (B1) nonretail business and (B2) neighborhood business to 30 feet.

Another motion was introduced to pare the present limitation on (B3) community business to 55 feet.

★ ★ ★

The proposed height alterations, which have yet to be adopted, is the result of a study of zoning procedures in the city. The height of structures in the business classifications is the first area to be considered in the study.

Harambee Buying at $250,000

Harambee Inc., a black community housing development corporation, has announced its land acquisition campaign has reached the $250,000 mark.

Latest purchasing agreements are for a 12-acre site across from Lakeside homes and a three-acre parcel at Bagley and Diston.

The larger piece is presently occupied by abandoned buildings known as Surfside. A housing development of medium-rise twin towers with one and two-bedroom units is planned for the site. Some town houses and commercial and community facilities also are projected.

Multiple-dwelling units numbering from 30 to 60 are planned for the Bagley-Diston site. An old structure known as the Kelly Foundry is presently occupying the land. It is to be demolished soon.

Last month Harambee was the successful bidder for a parcel that formerly contained the city's Department of Public Works, known as the Lake Street Yards, at Lake and Orton. The bid was $40,700 and the firm expects to build a $1-million, 60-unit housing development on the land.

Charles M. Tucker Jr., Harambee president, announced the architectural firm of Griffin, Ward and Agee of Detroit has been retained for the Bagley-Diston site.

Two Detroit firms — Howard Simms and Nathan Johnson — have been retained for the Surfside site.

Harambee also has a four-acre site at Bagley and Wessen in its land bank, Tucker said. The firm has also been engaged in obtaining single lots mostly in the southwest area of the city.

Harambee has been financed in its planning stages by grants from the Archdiocese Development Fund, Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority and by contributions. It has been working closely with city authorities in long-range planning.

The nonprofit organization was formed a year ago by black and Latin-American community members with the objective of providing additional housing.

Three Take Postal Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three assistant Postmasters General, including the first black person ever to hold the post, were sworn in yesterday. They were Ronald B. Lee, 36, a Negro professor from East Lansing, Mich., to head the new Bureau of Planning, Marketing and System Analysis; Frank J. Nunlist, 55, of Livingstone, N.J., former president and chief executive officer of Studebaker-Worthington Inc., to head the Bureau of Operations; and Henry Lehne, 54, Western, Mass., former senior vice president of Sylvania Electric Product Inc., to head the Bureau of Facilities.

Fortas Impeachment Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, has forecast an impeachment move in the House against Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas unless Fortas explains a $20,000 fee offered him by the Louis E. Wolfson family foundation.

★ ★ ★

"It all depends on what happens in the next few days," Taft said, adding that he doesn't now plan to file such proceedings himself but might later, depending on developments.

★ ★ ★

Taft said he and other House members think Fortas should be given an opportunity to make further explanation of the fee.

★ ★ ★

Fortas said the $20,000 was tendered to him for writing and research but rejected because of the court work load. Life magazine reported the justice kept the money 11 months and sent it back after Wolfson was indicted on securities and perjury charges. Wolfson is now in federal prison.

'MORE TO BE REVEALED'

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, D-Mich., said there is more information to come out on the Wolfson matter but added he could not say what it is.

A report from Boston today said that Fortas has canceled his share of a fee for a speech at Northeastern University.

★ ★ ★

Tom Conrad, student chairman of the committee sponsoring Fortas' appearance, said the fee was canceled Monday by the Harry Walker Agency in New York, which booked the speech.

Conrad said, "The agency called Monday and said the fee would be only $675, instead of the original $2,000." He said no reason was given.

★ ★ ★

The student chairman said the agency told him the $675 was to cover the agency's commission and Fortas' travel expenses from Washington to Boston.

Congress Gets $10,000 Request

Phenomena Hunt Funds Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Center for Short-Lived Phenomena is asking Congress for $10,000 to find such will-o'-the-wisps as migrating squirrels and a disappearing island.

The center is a branch of the Smithsonian Institution that alerts scientists quickly to unexpected whims of nature, thus improving research opportunities, according to S. Dillon Ripley, Smithsonian secretary.

Significant biological and geophysical short-lived events, including fireballs, earthquakes and volcano eruptions, are reported within hours by a network of 836 correspondents in 86 countries, said Ripley.

Members of a House appropriations subcommittee were not certain whether to believe Ripley when he also described items like seiche, red tide and migrating rare animals in asking for the $10,000 budget next fiscal year. The recent testimony was released today.

"What were the rare animal migrations?" inquired Chairman Julia Butler Hansen, D-Wash.

"One was of gray squirrels, throughout the central eastern states," replied Ripley.

Rep. Wendell Wyatt, R-Ore., wanted to know what a seiche is.

"It is very much like a tidal wave," said Ripley.

And the red tide, asked Rep. Joseph M. McDade, R-Pa.

"It is a small marine organism which is brightly colored red," Ripley explained. "When these aggregate in vast quantities, hundreds of millions of organisms, they create what is called a red tide because the water coming in shore is discolored by this." The growth cuts off oxygen, smothering marine life and creating a cleanup problem.

Ripley said the center took part in 70 fleeting events during 1968 including 20 major earthquakes, 12 volcanic eruptions including the birth and disappearance of a volcanic island, 11 fireballs, five major oil spills, five fish kills, one red tide, one seiche, one sea surge, and two rare animal migrations.

GI Escapee Is Improving

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Spec. 5 Thomas H. VanPutten, the Caledonia soldier who escaped after 14 months in a Vietcong prison camp, was discharged from a hospital here yesterday.

VanPutten had been admitted last Friday suffering with double pneumonia.

He was at Great Lake Naval Hospital in Chicago today for further debriefing and examinations.

Halley's comet is due to appear again sometime in 1985 or 1986.

No Land-Fill in Pontiac Twp., Wahl Urges County

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Supervisor Roy Wahl yesterday registered strong objections to the county's thoughts of operating a land-fill in his community.

Terming even the thought of such a move "a serious abuse of the rights of Pontiac Township to zone and enforce" the community, Wahl's letter of protest was mailed today to members of the County Board of Supervisors.

★ ★ ★

The county board May 1 tabled action until May 15 on a resolution which would allow the County Road Commission to operate land-fill sites in Pontiac and Commerce Townships.

The measure, recommended by the Public Works Committee, would allow the road commission to accept refuse in both areas. Two of the committee members — George Grba, D-Pontiac, and Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights — voted against the recommendation.

BALD MOUNTAIN SITE

In Pontiac Township, the county is eying a site it owns on Bald Mountain. Wahl writes:

"It seems to me that the primary purposes of a land-fill are to dispose of refuse and to create usable land.

★ ★ ★

"This land is easily reclaimed. It should not be used to take care of the refuse of the entire county.

"The rights of the community seem to have no bearing on the acts of Big Brother (the county board). The City of Pontiac annexed a piece of land (we have a better word for it) from us and turned it into a dump and a dismantling yard for private business.

READY TO FIGHT

"We hope to make a better fight out of this latest action than that of the last one.

"If you are looking for land to fill, I can show you some sites in more affluent townships that could only be reclaimed by filling," Wahl's letter declared.

★ ★ ★

Wahl also argued that the road commission has no business being in the land-fill business. He stated that he would fight the county's probable move "to the highest court."

Wahl will enlist the aid of Commerce Township Supervisor Robert H. Long and District Supervisor Niles Olsen in efforts to form a united front.

U.S. Sewer Grant Bid OK'd by Troy

TROY — City commissioners have given authority to the city engineering department to make application for a federal grant to help finance a sewer project throughout the city.

Total amount of the project is $2.6 million. The federal application will ask for $1.3 million with the city to provide the balance of funds, according to City Manager Paul York.

The sewer construction would apply to all unsewered sections of Troy.

The commission also recently gave the go-ahead to the city's consulting engineers to begin a master thoroughfare study for the city's traffic patterns and problems.

Two recent public hearings by the City Commission met no objections from citizens.

One hearing resulted in the final adoption of the city planning commission's Planned Neighborhood Development (PND) proposal that would outline regulations for land use in sites more than 300 acres in size.

The other public hearing had to do with the rezoning from residential to service commercial for the northwest corner of Big Beaver and Livernois roads. There is presently no service commercial development in the area.

Chief Admits Most Charges Against Officer Unsupported

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Police Chief Irving Yakes admitted last night that he could not fully support 10 of the 12 charges against Sgt. Earl Teeples with evidence.

Teeples, a 13-year police-force veteran, is appealing to the township's police trial board a two-week suspension and reduction in rank for alleged 12-count violation of a police code adopted by the township only last month.

★ ★ ★

The trial board, composed of township trustees, will continue the hearing at 7:30 tonight at East Junior High School.

Last night's session, the board's third, was attended by an overflow crowd of citizens who stood jammed against the walls for the entire four hours.

BEATING INCIDENT

Teeples' troubles began in February when he told an assistant Oakland County prosecutor he had seen two fellow officers beating a prisoner with handcuffs in the jail last July.

Because of his statements Teeples was suspended for two weeks, reduced from detective sergeant to sergeant and put on a year's probation.

★ ★ ★

Originally, Yakes claimed that Teeples hand done wrong in going to the prosecutor with his story. Testimony last week, however, disclosed that the assistant prosecutor, James Williams, had broached the topic with Teeples when the officer entered the prosecutor's office on another matter.

Last night, Yakes said Teeples had not done wrong and admitted that he too would have answered the prosecutor's questions had he been in Teeples' place.

Under persistent questioning by James Lawson, Teeples' attorney, the chief said he could not fully substantiate that Teeple had:

- Violated a department rule by going to the prosecutor's office with a story.
- Deserved punishment because he reported the beating incident while the prisoner, Foster Maier, filed no complaint.
- Brought discredit to the deparment by giving the information to the prosecutor's office.
- Violated the sections of the new police code by divulging information outside the department without the explicit orders of the chief.
- Been guilty of unbecoming conduct.
- Withheld criminal information for some form of personal advancement.
- Been assigned to work on or investigate The Maier case. (Testimony showed that it was Teeples' case for two and a half-days until other police officers asked Teeples' superior to relieve him of the case "because of hard feelings.")
- Misused police information.
- The chief also admitted that the charge against Teeples for "jeopardizing the case against the prisoner by talking to the assistant prosecutor" was only "his opinion." (Last week the assistant prosecutor indicated that the officer had not jeopardized the case in any way.)
- The last charge was eliminated because it stemmed from a letter to Township Supervisor Curtis Hall from the Farmington Police Officers Assiciation, headed by John Hedrick, one of the officers accused of beating the prisoner. Yakes admitted the letter asking that Teeples be punished was not actually a charge.

★ ★ ★

Chief Yakes clung to his initial contention, however, that Teeples' actions had undermined the department morale and that Teeples should have told the chief he made a statement to the assistant prosecutor .

The grim-faced chief, who was on vacation last July when the alleged beating took place, said he "didn't remember" Lt. Russel Conway ever mentioning the alleged beating.

★ ★ ★

Conway later testified that he had told the chief of Teeples' claim of a beating in a phone conversation shortly after the chief returned, but that he heard no more about the incident. Conway claimed that he did nothing because it was Teeples' case but admitted that he still did no investigation after he took over.

★ ★ ★

The chief also declared that there have never been any reports of police brutality leveled against any of his officers before. He mumbled "I don't remember" when Lawson asked him about three different incidents in which other persons claimed to have talked to Yakes about police brutality.

PRICE OF PROGRESS—A scarred landscape is viewed by motorists daily on this stretch of Walton west of Squirrel in Pontiac Township. The firm of D. J. McQuestion & Sons, Dearborn, has been hired by the County Road Commission at a cost of $691,934 to make grading and drainage improvements and provide 24-foot concrete paving and bituminous surfacing on Walton in Pontiac and Avon townships. The road is being widened from Squirrel east to just beyond Adams.

Farmington Twp. Officer Is Sued for $750,000

A $750,000 damage suit has been filed in Federal District Court in Detroit against the president of the Farmington Township Police Officers Association, who has been accused of involvement in at least five cases of police brutality.

★ ★ ★

In his suit, Walter Vetowich of Farmington Township charges he was falsely arrested by Patrolman John Hedrick, 32. Township Supervisor Curtis Hall, Police Chief Irving Yates and the township itself were named as codefendants.

★ ★ ★

Vetowich's attorney, Abel Selburn, said Vetowich was severely beaten by Hedrick in an incident at a gas station last July. The alleged beating occurred after Vetowich drove his tractor to the gas station and was approached by a township policeman. He was charged with careless driving two-months later.

★ ★ ★

As a result of the incident, Vetowich, 28735 W. 10 Mile, was charged with resisting arrest, but the charges were later dismissed.

3 OTHER INCIDENTS

Hedrick has been charged with involvement in three other incidents of alleged brutality during a one-month period by another attorney, James Lawson. Lawson was representing Sgt. Earl Teeples at a police trial board hearing.

Teeples had been given a temporary suspension and a demotion in rank for reporting two fellow officers, one of them Hedrick, for allegedly beating a prisoner last July.

★ ★ ★

Teeples was charged with violating a recently passed regulation prohibiting criticism of the actions of policemen from within the ranks.

★ ★ ★

Selburn also said he is investigating charges by a Southfield youth who says he lost one kidney, part of his intestines and the use of one hand after being shot in the back by Hedrick last summer.

Lapeer Set to Hire a Full-Time Urban Renewal Director

LAPEER — Harold Rose, assistant city manager who is acting as the temporary urban renewal director, reported that federal authorities have confirmed Lapeer's $2.7-million urban renewal contract.

★ ★ ★

The city will hire a full-time urban renewal director as soon as the federal contract is signed by Lapeer city commissioners, Rose said.

"I can't tell you who we will name director now. He is, however, presently working in the urban renewal division of another community. The man hasn't said anything to his present employers yet, so I don't want to reveal his name," Rose said.

★ ★ ★

Expected to be in full operation this fall, Lapeer's urban renewal district will revitalize the downtown area. Property acquisition is the first step in this seven-year project.

Rose, when he is relieved of his urban renewal directorship, will take on another project, senior citizen housing under a federal program.

U.S. to Observe Truce

SAIGON (AP) — The United States and South Vietnam will observe a 24-hour cease-fire to mark the birthday of Buddha on May 30.

★ ★ ★

The announcements today of the unilateral ceasé-fire came against a background of new Viet Cong terrorist attacks in Saigon and police said the enemy apparently had started a new campaign in the capital aimed at undermining the government.

Almont Approves $106,305 Budget

ALMONT — The Village Council has adopted a 1969-70 budget of $106,305 as presented by Village Manager Eugene King.

The budget would maintain the current tax rate of 10 mills operating and 2 mills for debt retirement. Also in the budget are pay increases for all seven village employes, averaging 7½ to 10 per cent.

★ ★ ★

Discussed at the recent council meeting was a plan for a general assessment ordinance for public improvements. Heretofore, the village paid costs of street improvements and the like from the general fund.

★ ★ ★

Village growth has necessitated planning for a general assessment ordinance, according to King.

Town-House, Apartment Plan Is Detailed

ORION TOWNSHIP — Plans for a low-density luxury town-house and apartment complex, on an 11-acre site adjacent to Indianwood County Club were presented to the township planning commission last night.

★ ★ ★

A crowd of more than 50 persons attended the meeting to hear the plans outlined by Ralph Nixon of Nixon Painting Co. and Charles L. Williams from Ladd's of Pontiac. Both men are Orion Township residents.

★ ★ ★

The proposed site for the development — to be partially cooperatively owned and partially rental property — is now zoned R-3, single homes with 40-foot lots, the lowest grade single dwelling zone.

Williams and Nixon asked for rezoning to multiple dwelling.

NATURAL, OPEN SETTING

Williams explained that the town-house project would "utilize a natural, open land setting. We won't just cut everything down and make it into a parking lot."

★ ★ ★

Williams said that the plans call for 80 units on the 11 acres and a population density of 8 persons per acre. The township density ordinance allows 13 persons per acre.

★ ★ ★

"The unique thing about our plans, I think," said Williams, "is that it will be entirely financed, developed and maintained by local businessmen. This will not be an absentee-owner situation. I feel that our middle-to-upper income development will add to the township. It will be a luxury living project."

★ ★ ★

Representatives from the nearby Indianwood Subdivision, other area homeowners and Lake Orion Chamber of Commerce representatives voiced their opinions at the public hearing.

$600,000 IN TAXES

Asked how many tax dollars, including school taxes, the project would yield, Township Supervisor John Lessiter estimated $600,000 to $700,000.

"This tax amount compares to about $300,000 to $350,000 if the site were allowed to remain R-3," Williams said.

★ ★ ★

Questions of nearby homeowners concerned tax yield, additional schoolchildren and the project's upkeep. Supervisor Lessiter said all were answered satisfactorily by Williams and Nixon. No serious objections to the proposal were voiced.

The planning commission took no action last night on the rezoning, but assured Williams and Nixon that a decision would be made at the commission's June 4 meeting.

START BY JANUARY

If approved by the Township Board on the recommendation of the planning commission, Williams said he hopes to get the $2.5 million project under way by January.

Hoover: Not Quitting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — J. Edgar Hoover today emphatically squelched rumors he might retire as FBI director. He said he looks forward to many years more in office to meet the "crisis" in American society.

More Barbers to Boost Prices

Barbers' prices in the western part of Oakland County will be going up May 12.

The prices in Union Lake, Milford, Walled Lake, Wixom, Highland Township and surrounding areas will be raised to $3 during the week and $3.25 on Saturdays. Prices the rest of this week are $2.75 during the week and $3 on Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Reason for the rising costs is to keep in line with current Pontiac-area prices, according to Robert Allen of Highland Township, president of Local 40, State Barbers Association.

Imlay City Adopts $264,762 Budget

IMLAY CITY — Budget adoption for the 1969-70 fiscal year and a state standardized retirement plan for all 11 village employes were the key items of business at the recent Village Council meeting.

★ ★ ★

Village Manager Alan Housler's $264,762 budget was adopted as presented, calling for an average seven per cent increase in wages for all employes and the maintaining of the current tax levy of 9 mills for operations.

★ ★ ★

In other action, the council rezoned from multiple dwelling to commercial service business an area adjacent to a foundry, near Fourth and White streets.

Lapeer Tax Reform Unit Plans Unified Pressure

By NED ADAMSON

DRYDEN — The Lapeer County Tax Reform Committee is organizing to generate unified pressure on the Legislature for rural tax reform, in cooperation with similar groups in other Michigan counties.

The organizing phase of the rural tax revolt follows the original soundings of dissent several weeks ago when more than 600 persons attended a rally at the County Center building in Lapeer.

★ ★ ★

Delegates from the county's nine townships have been chosen from citizens attending that meeting. The delegates have established a board of directors and various committees to work out the detailed arguments and counter-proposals to be presented in the organized protest.

Dissent from rural property owners across the state has been prompted by revaluations putting real estate assessments at 50 per cent of market value.

TWO-BARRELED CHARGE

Farmers have charged that much of the reassessing, which has resulted in tax increases of 20 to 30 per cent to as high as 150 per cent in some isolated instances, is neither justifiable nor in accordance with the present real value of the land.

The "unjustifiable" charge stems from the fact that much of the land being reassessed is near property which has boomed in value due to speculative purchasing by developers.

★ ★ ★

Property owners also maintain that much of the reassessing has affected property which is producing either no current income or an income not commensurate with the newly assessed value of the land.

Harvey Ferrando, cochairman of the organizing committee for the Lapeer County organization, said:

STATEWIDE PLAN

"Once all of the various tax reform groups are effectively organized at the county level it is planned to formally organize the statewide organization with delegates from each county."

★ ★ ★

"We then hope to present a program of support for one of the tax reform bills already submitted to the legislature. Or, if none of the present bills is suitable, we will develop an alternate proposal fairer to the rural property owner, and particularly the active farmer."

★ ★ ★

He added that statewide organization should come within eight weeks at the most.

PROPOSALS EVALUATED

Earlier attempts have been made to establish statewide organizations, the most recent being in Caro in the Thumb's Tuscola County.

The Lapeer group's legislative committee is evaluating pending tax reform legislation.

"We want to give all of the bills a long look and decide if any of them would really help our cause," Ferrando said.

★ ★ ★

"What we want is a method that would not simply shift the tax burden from one sector to another, but redistribute the tax load in a more fair and equitable manner," Ferrando said.

★ ★ ★

"One such method would be a bill now in committee which calls for rural property taxation in accordance with actual land production.

Ferrando noted that local citizen interest in organized protest against current property tax procedures has stayed at a high pitch.

INTEREST MOUNTING

"There seems to be little indication that residents are losing their interest in fighting the tax battle through legislative channels. If anything, interest is higher now than it was when we first began to organize last winter."

Sex Study Stirs Storm

There has been much controversy over the introduction of sex education in our primary educational system.

Opposition, where it exists, takes various forms: the children are too young for assimilation of such knowledge; its effect is to arouse an unhealthy curiosity and the urge to experiment in the minds of students; it is an insidious tool of communism aimed at undermining the morals of American youngsters.

We find little validity in the opposition to sex education programs now being given recognition in classrooms. Certainly the subject deals with a basic function of mankind, and to have it presented in a matter-of-fact manner devoid of lewdness has much to recommend it.

Moreover, it could be reasoned that if the generality of parents had met their own responsibilities in instilling sex understanding in the thinking of their offspring, educators might not have felt a scholastic need for it, and society might well have been spared a substantial number of sex offenses.

★ ★ ★

As for the charge that sex education in schools is a Communist plot, that sounds like a scare technique that's been around for a long time.

We Salute 'Music Week'

In progress is National Music Week, the 46th annual recognition of one of humanity's foremost arts.

The Week was first proclaimed by President CALVIN COOLIDGE in 1924, establishing a precident followed by all his successors in the White House.

There could be no more fitting theme than the one chosen for this year's anniversary: "Music Enriches Life."

★ ★ ★

Since the beginning of time, music has been the universal language of mankind, in countless national and tribal tongues. It is safe to say that no form of human expression has greater emotional and stimulating appeal than music. Indeed, even animals respond to it.

It is particularly gratifying to note the growing extent to which music is being brought into the lives of our children — in homes, schools and by public events — by music organizations that dot the Country. Its effect on young minds cannot fail to exert a salutary and lasting influence.

★ ★ ★

The PRESS commends leaders of the music community, local and national, who are devoting themselves so faithfully to "fostering understanding and appreciation of the value of music as a common bond between peoples and as an instrument of world peace."

Voter Residency a Jumble

While we decry the trend away from state regulation of its established governmental prerogatives toward centralization under Federal statute, there is one right of citizenship that we think should be subject to national uniformity.

It is the residency requirement for the right to vote in presidential elections.

At present, such requirements range from less than three months in New York State to Mississippi's two years. The majority of states have a one-year residency requirement. Michigan stipulates six months, while a handful of states has established voter eligibility on the basis of shorter periods of residence.

According to a poll conducted last December, 5 million Americans were denied a vote in the presidential election a month earlier because of conflicting and irrational voter residence requirements from one state to another. The poll pointed out that the large number of unqualified voters might have changed the outcome of the election had they been able to cast their ballots.

The U.S. Supreme Court will have an opportunity to rule constructively on the issue at its next session, when it will hear a case initiated by a Colorado couple against Colorado's six-month residency requirement on the ground that it is unreasonably long and deprived them of opportunity to vote after they had moved to that state from California.

★ ★ ★

The high tribunal has handed down some weird decisions in the past. It will be interesting to see whether it will continue the pattern by ruling negatively on a question as clearly in need of standardization as the voter residency requirement.

'70 Governor Races Worrying GOP

LEXINGTON, Ky. — The Republican party has reason to worry over holding at least four of its seven biggest governorships in 1970.

BIOSSAT

Presently occupying 30 of the 50 governors' chairs, the Republicans have not enjoyed this much statehouse prosperity since the early 1950s.

Keeping governorship control may not be easy in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan. New York also could be shaky.

★ ★ ★

Altogether, 24 of the 30 GOP governorships are on the block in 1970. About 16 of these may be fairly secure, the rest not.

Whoever controls most governorships and state legislatures in 1971 will have the largest voice in the major congressional reapportionment which will follow 1970 census.

The Republicans have need to fret.

In Massachusetts, Gov. Francis Sargent, who succeeded John Volpe when he went to the President's cabinet, may be a bit too patrician for today's population mix in the state.

★ ★ ★

Moreover, a strong-running Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (up in 1970) could pull in any halfway suitable governor nominee with him.

The one-term limit in Pennsylvania bars Gov. Raymond Shafer from another try. Lt. Gov. Broderick may emerge as his successor nominee, but his edge does not seem as clear as was Shafer's when he served with William Scranton. A swing state, Pennsylvania ought to be due for a shift.

COULD BE TROUBLE

HUD Secretary George Romney's Michigan successor, Gov. William Milliken, is a warmly appealing fugure. But some GOP strategists fear he is not achieving Romney's high visibility and needs to move around much more.

A good Democratic choice teamed with the popular Sen. Philip Hart next year could be trouble.

★ ★ ★

With Gov. James Rhodes bowing out (he may go for the Senate), Ohio's GOP governorship slot is wide open. There is some fear of a chaotic primary, though this may simmer down later.

Here, too, the Democrats have some name types, like John Gilligan, who could increase GOP difficulties.

★ ★ ★

Some Republican strategists believe New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's assertion of interest in a fourth term and some do not.

If he is in, his edge over a fuzzy Democratic field is sharp. If out, New York could tighten up, though a GOP advantage would remain.

In the lesser states, Republicans presently in command are concerned chiefly over Oklahoma, New Mexico, Minnesota and Colorado. But the Democrats' Kansas, Tennessee and Virginia (1969) might be seized.

And It Still Goes Up!

David Lawrence Says:

Voting Curb May Be Invalidated

WASHINGTON — There are approximately 120 million men and women of voting age in America, but 48 million of them—or 40 per cent—did not vote in the 1968 presidential election. It is estimated that at least 5 million who did not vote were ineligible because of state laws requiring that they must have lived in the state for various specified periods of time before they can register or vote.

LAWRENCE

It is beginning to look now as if the residence requirements of the states may be invalidated. There are cases pending involving this very issue, and these will be decided by the Supreme Court in the term which begins next October.

The issue arises because a recent decision by the high court declared unconstitutional any residence requirement before a person is permitted to receive welfare assistance.

This has strengthened the belief that such a qualification will also be wiped out when it comes to determining eligibility for voting.

Justice Brennan, who wrote the majority opinion in the welfare case, said the effect of the waiting period is to create two classes of needy resident families, indistinguishable from each other except one has lived within a particular state for a year or more and the other for less than a year.

DISCRIMINATION

This was held to constitute a discrimination which denies the latter "equal protection of the laws."

Many people will wonder why residence requirements have been imposed at all on persons who are otherwise qualified to vote.

The citizen theoretically has a right to go to the polls anywhere to choose a president of the United States. The mere fact that he has changed his home address does not alter the rights of citizenship.

But residence has been considered a "qualification" for voting as the term is used in the Constitution, and the supposition has been that only an amendment to the Constitution could change the rule.

While millions of persons did not vote in 1968 even though they were eligible, a great number never fail to exercise their privilege of casting ballots for federal, state and city officials.

NOT SURPRISING

It would not be surprising if, in the 1972 election, a substantial increase will be noted in the number who are permitted to vote as the residence requirements of the states may be erased.

Most states have absentee ballots available, but the red tape involved in using them has discouraged voters.

★ ★ ★

The ballot in some states has to be taken to a notary public for an affidavit to be signed. In 1968, a million otherwise eligible voters failed to obtain absentee ballots. Sickness or disability prevented 7 million from going to the polls.

Bob Considine Says:

Cigarette Fears Boost Chew-Tobacco's Stock

NEW YORK — A friend of mine does public relations for chew-tobacco. Madison Avenue doth not live on bread alone. Chew-tobacco is one of the perimeter products that is making money these days when the American Cancer Society's and other drives against cigarets are alarming a great number of smokers.

CONSIDINE

What the above says, in fact, is that cigarets may be waning but the tobacco industry in general is not. Addicts simply move to another realm of it, as they moved from straight to filters.

★ ★ ★

Chew-tobacco is grown chiefly in Pennsylvania and Wisconsin. The northern leaf is heavier than the southern and border states; more like cigar tobacco. It is aged for a year, a process called "natural sweating." When ready for processing, it is steamed for an hour to moisten it and for the removal of stems.

Then it is doused with licorice, sugar, salt and glycerine (not nitro), permitted to marinate for 12 hours, and then dried under heat up to 200 degrees. Before it is stuffed into pouches, or whatever it is stuffed into, today's chew-tobacco is run under detectors that spot foreign objects.

COMMENTS IN PAST

Several foreign subjects have commented on the "chaw" in the past.

Amerigo Vespucci, the fellow who gave us our name, noted in his diary during a trip to what is now Venezuela in 1498, "Indians . . . chewing a green herb which they chewed like cattle to such an extent that they could scarcely talk."

★ ★ ★

Charles Dickens found the stuff worthy of his contempt, during his acid tour of the U.S. He was shocked to see the number of congressmen expectorating in the halls of Congress. Dickens suggested that the spittoon replace the eagle as the national symbol.

All Pullman cars once had a cuspidor at each seat. It was not a crusade against the practice that cleaned out the receptacles. The Pullman porters union voted against cleaning them!

Just before the turn of the century, chewing tobacco represented half of the leaf's consumer market, the other half being shared by smokers (mostly cigar) and snuffers.

Speaking to Pontiac school district administrators last week, Dr. William B. Pollard, coordinator for school decentralization, Milwaukee Public Schools, used a few of these questions to illustrate a point.

That point was quite clear: You can't relate to people if you know nothing of their culture.

Voice of the People:

'Urge Mothers to Write to Try and Save Sons'

As Mother's Day nears I think of all mothers who have lost or who are yet to lose their sons in wars. One of Eisenhower's famous lines to his minister was "your job is to see that mine is not necessary." But where are Christians who would stand up for righteousness or justice, let alone save sons.

★ ★ ★

If each of us who feel these boys' lives are our responsibility would write to our President and representatives, perhaps our boys would have the same chance at life theirs have. We discuss all the ills in the great society and attend tax meetings but do nothing about their greatest cause. Let's write this year and try and save our boys.

Reader States His Opinion on ABM System

In view of the ABM controversy it would be interesting for all Americans to note how the USSR got where it is today, under such a regime. If the public knew the truth about foreign aid and the Internal Revenue Service, the missile defense controversy would not exist. The hidden power in our government has us in a fix. Even though we shouldn't be in jeopardy defensewise, as I believe we are, I have to put my faith in Mr. Laird's proposal.

Comments on Incidents Involving Teachers

Not long ago a teacher who allegedly beat a small child was reprimanded, ridiculed and criticized by many dedicated and concerned citizens of Pontiac, until the teacher was acquitted of any wrongdoing in the courts. Now that another incident that is dissimilar and more severe has occurred in another public school where a 32-year-old male schoolteacher has beaten a 14-year-old boy, I hope the same outrage and concern is expressed by these same citizens and that The Pontiac Press will give equally good coverage to this as was the first incident.

Question and Answer

Many in Waterford are concerned about the sewer line. When will it be put in, what will it cost per lot and for being connected and on what terms can people pay for it?

LAVERN MILLER

REPLY

Completion of the first section is expected to be finished approximately October 1971. Residents have a year to hook up after it is ready for use on their street. Estimating with current cost approximations, it will be probably from $2,000 to $2,500, plus connecting charges, which would depend on the contractor you hire, distance from the line, etc. Ordinance determining terms of payment has not been established yet, but long term payment arrangements will almost certainly be available.

Is there an air condition and refrigeration school in Pontiac? I want to learn the trade, but more for refrigeration.

HISTORIC DOCUMENT SOLD—Ira G. Korn Jr. Dallas and Detroit businessman, looks over a first printing of the Declaration of Independence. He paid $404,000 for it in a Philadelphia auction yesterday. Unrest Costs Funds at Some Universities

By the Associated Press

Alumni contributions at some major colleges and universities have dropped in the wake of student demonstrations and unrest at a number of schools.

Spokesmen, at some schools hit by student disorders say fund drives are sagging although the fall-off has not yet hit a critical point.

★ ★ ★

The effect is far from uniform however, as other schools plagued by student unrest report that at least as yet, alumni contributions are continuing at normal levels.

Alumni contributions have decreased at the University of Wisconsin, Indiana, Colorado, Rutgers, Duke, Michigan State and the University of California at Berkeley.

NOT FEELING DROP-OFF

So far, the drop-off has not been felt at Harvard, Columbia, Yale, North Carolina or the University of Chicago.

Bob Shackleton, director of the Alumni Development Fund at Michigan State, said he has received many letters from alumni refusing to contribute.

★ ★ ★

He said many of the letters of refusal cited the fact that the national convention of Students for a Democratic Society, the group that has led many of the recent campus demonstrations, was held on the MSU campus last summer.

Shackleton said many alumni are also unhappy about MSU's new ability-to-pay, sliding-scale tuition plan and cited that as a reason for not contributing. In all, about 100 fewer people have contributed to the fund this year than last.

NOT TRUE INDICATION

However, Shackleton said the letters of refusal do not necessarily indicate a falloff in contributions caused by alumni unhappiness with events on the campus. "Many of these people were not contributors in the first place and may have been looking for an excuse," he said.

At the University of Michigan, which has been relatively free from student disorders, alumni contributions are continuing at a normal pace. Robert Forman, director of the U-M Alumni Association said, "Our alumni fund is higher this year than it has ever been. In terms of contributions to the alumni fund, there is no indication that student activism has made any change in the amount of contributions."

★ ★ ★

But while Michigan schools have not been hit hard, the situation is not as hopeful at other colleges in the Midwest. Robert Rennebohm, executive director of the University of Wisconsin Foundation, said alumni gifts to the school, whose Madison campus has been wracked with a series of disorders, are down 10 per cent this year. The Wisconsin Alumni Association also reports a decline in membership from 39,000 to 37,000 in two years.

William Armstrong, executive director of the Indiana University Foundation, said the school has lost about $1 million in gifts following campus disorders.

Hare Reports That Elderly, Women Are Safest Drivers

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's senior citizens have a better driving record than any other age group in the state, reports Secretary of State James Hare.

Hare said women rate above men as safe drivers both in the older groups and all other age brackets.

★ ★ ★

The safety information was compiled by a check of more than 1 million driver records over a two-year period.

It showed that less than 10 per cent of the drivers 65 or older had been convicted of a motor law violation during that time.

36 PCT. CONVICTED

"On the other hand," Hare said, "36 per cnt of the drivers in the 20- to 25-year age bracket had been convicted at least once."

The survey by the driver and vehicle services division showed the age group with the next highest percentage of convictions was the 25-to 30-year bracket with 30 per cent.

★ ★ ★

Above the age of 30, the conviction percentages declined until they reached the low level for senior citizens.

The records showed only 4.5 per cent of the women drivers in the oldest age group had been involved in an accident during a two-year period. This compared with 6.8 per cent for the men.

In the 20-to-40-year age group, only seven per cent of the women drivers had accident records compared to 15 per cent for the men. In the 40-to-60-year age group, eight per cent of the women and 12 per cent of the men had accident records.

"These figures tend to dispel the often-heard notion that many of our older drivers are not safe drivers," Hare said. "This survey seems to prove that highway safety wisdom improves with age."

★ ★ ★

"Years spent behind the wheel bring a greater regard for our traffic laws and for the need to think safety at all times," Hare observed.

"I wish there was some way to combine this cool - headed experience with the sharp reflexes of youth," Hare said. "Perhaps our senior citizens should be encouraged to take a more active role in helping to educate our younger drivers."

The moose, known in Europe as the elk, is the largest living member of the deer family.

CARRY-OUT SERVICE — Denver, Colo., patrolmen carry a protester down the steps of the state capitol following a demonstration in the Colorado Senate chambers yesterday. About 14 demonstrators protesting the lack of action on social legislation were removed.

Fit for Flight Duty

Early Space Hero Reinstated

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Alan B. Shepard Jr., the first American rocketed into space, has returned to the ranks of the active astronauts six years after an ear ailment clipped his wings and landed him behind a desk.

Shepard, 45, was declared healthy and ready to fly Wednesday by flight surgeons at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center.

★ ★ ★

His return to flight status came eight years and two days after the lean Navy captain led America into the manned space flight era with a 15-minute trip aloft on May 5, 1961.

In the Mercury capsule "Freedom 7" he soared to more than 100 miles in a suborbital flight. Shepard later referred to it as America's "first baby step" in manned space flight.

MISSION SCRUBBED

He was named to fly the Mercury Atlas 10 flight in 1963, but the mission was scrubbed when NASA officials decided to start the two-man Gemini program instead.

ALAN B. SHEPARD JR.

★ ★ ★

Shepard got the call to command the first Gemini flight, but he suddenly found he was unable even to fly solo in a small airplane. He had contracted an inner ear disorder called labyrinthitis. The disorder, attributed to an infection, caused dizziness and nausea, and Shepard was grounded by flight surgeons.

★ ★ ★

Shepard took annual checkups and kept in shape.

He took over a desk job as chief of the astronaut office, guiding the astronaut training program.

UNDERWENT SURGERY

Last May he underwent surgery on the bothersome ear. After a year of healing he has been declared flight-fit once more.

Shepard is one of the original seven American astronauts named in April of 1959. Only he and Air Force Col. L. Gordon Cooper are still on active space duty. Of the others in the original seven, John Glenn, Scott Carpenter and Walter M. Schirra Jr. have resigned from the space program.

★ ★ ★

Virgil I. Grissom died in a 1967 fire during a spacecraft ground test.

Donald K. Slayton, the only one of the seven who has never flown into space, is grounded with a heart ailment and is head of the flight crew operations division here.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The mayor of Glendale, Calif., is the "fastest broom in the West."

Mayor Warren Haverkamp swept clean a 75-foot path strewn with tree bark chips faster than anyone else to capture the mayor's division and the over-all title.

The contest yesterday was sponsored by the California Antilitter League in conjunction with Gov. Ronald Reagan's proclamation of May as official "Cleanup Month" in California.

Colorado Senate Cracks Down

DENVER (AP) — The Colorado State Senate, stung by demonstrators' brief seizure of its rostrum, reacted quickly with antitrespass, antidisturbance legislation.

Using roundabout parliamentary maneuvering Wednesday, the Senate—just a few hours after the incident—approved measures providing fines of up to $500 and jail sentences of up to a year for conviction of trying to take over a public building.

The 14 young demonstrators —including three clergymen and a nun—elbowed their way through a side door of the Senate chamber, took over the rostrum and held it until carried out, limp, by police.

They were protesting the legislature's failure to act on 22 pieces of legislation dealing with farm labor, welfare, law enforcement, consumer protection and school aid for the underprivileged.

PRIOR SUPPORT

Some members of the group, all Mexican-American or Anglo-American, had participated in earlier marches and fasting in support of the same social legislation.

Lt. Gov. Mark Hogan recessed the Senate when the protesters headed for the platform. Most of the 33 members left the floor.

The demonstrators were booked on disturbances charges on complaints signed by Hogan and Sen. William L. Armstrong, the majority leader.

Gov. John Love, who was not present, said such disruptions would not be tolerated. "We will take such precautions or will use such force as necessary to insure the legislative bodies . . . are allowed to operate in an orderly and peaceful manner," he told newsmen later.

CIRCUITOUS ROUTE

The Senate took a circuitous route to pass its antidisturbance bill. It took two bills dealing with trespass and disturbance —neither of which had passed the House—and tacked their provisions onto a House bill dealing with postdated checks. The check bill had passed both houses and was in the Senate for final amendment or passage.

The Senate approved the amalgamated version 26 to 3 and sent it to the House for concurrence today, which is intended to be the final day of the session.

50 New Bills Are Added to Senate Docket

LANSING (UPI) — Senate committees, working against a midnight deadline, today added more than 50 bills to an astonishingly long debate calendar.

Many of the measures may get lost in the shuffle as lawmakers press for a mid-July recess of the 1969 spring session. More than 1,000 bills are before the Senate.

★ ★ ★

Among the proposals propelled from committee yesterday was a measure to make the state Liquor Control Commission (LCC) an autonomous unit within the Commerce Department. A Senate study released earlier this week was sharply critical of the department's administration of the LCC.

★ ★ ★

The Corporations Committee recommended approval of two major banking bills. They would permit corporations to own bank stock, something now forbidden by law, and establish procedures for the formation of bank holding companies.

TIGHTEN ADC

Approved by the Senate Health, Social Services and Retirement Committee was a bill to tighten up payments to aid to dependent children (ADC) recipients. It would stop any supplemental aid, except in "emergency" situations as defined by the director of the Social Services Department.

ADC mothers have been staging sit-ins and protests for the past year demanding supplemental clothing allowances. Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley ruled the situation was an emergency last fall, and the women won additional money to outfit their youngsters for school.

★ ★ ★

In brief floor action, Sen. George W. Kuhn, R-W. Bloomfield Township, sponsored a resolution to amend the state constitution to freeze the present income tax levels. Currently, the personal tax is 2.6 per cent, the corporate tax is 5.6 per cent and financial institutions pay 7 per cent.

★ ★ ★

A measure to provide compensation for victims of crimes resulting in death or personal injury was sent to the appropriations committee. It also sets up a state Crime Victims Compensation Board to handle claims.

Catholics Boost State Urban Agency

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Catholic Conference has urged the Legislature to establish a new State Department of Community Affairs to coordinate efforts to revitalize Michigan's cities.

"The rapid deterioration of our cities is the biggest problem facing Michigan," Francis Coomes, conference executive director, told the House Committee on Urban Affairs Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

"One out of four of our citizen live in inadequate housing, and slum and blighted areas comprise 20 per cent of the resident area of our major cities," Coomes said.

★ ★ ★

At present, Coomes said, seven out of every 10 Michigan citizens live in urban areas. He estimated 95 per cent of the state's population will live in urban areas by the year 2,000.

Mass transportation is inadequate in most cities, Coomes said.

Milliken Approves Unit Bonding Plan for State's Aides

LANSING (AP) — A bill to provide bond coverage for state employes and officers has been signed into law by Gov. William Milliken.

The measure permits broad bond coverage rather than the present individual coverage. It is expected to reduce the cost of such bonding.

★ ★ ★

Also signed by the governor was a bill providing that House of Representatives membership in the Legislative Council will be composed of the House majority leader and six other members selected by the speaker of the House.

The law previously called for the speaker to be a member of the council.

$20.3-Million Bill for Extra State Costs Introduced

LANSING (AP)—A $20.3 million supplemental appropriation bill to pay extra state expenses for the current fiscal year was introduced in the Senate Wednesday as lawmakers met briefly before breaking for last-minute committee sessions.

An estimated two-thirds of the nearly 3,000 bills introduced this session still sat in committees awaiting consideration before tonight's midnight deadline for reporting out all but appropriations bills.

★ ★ ★

Appropriations committees have an extra week in which to take up spending measures.

A major chunk of the supplemental bill, more than $11.7 million, is earmarked for the State Department of Social Services for welfare, medicaid and nursing service payments.

★ ★ ★

The bill, sponsored by Senate Appropriations Chairman Charles Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, includes $12,500 for Gov. William Milliken's expenses and housing allowance and another $1,200 to pay expenses of the new State Officers Compensation Commission.

Some $94,400 would be appropriated to the State Supreme Court to equip and furnish offices in a new building behind the State Capitol complex.

★ ★ ★

The high court move from offices in the State Capitol is expected to free space for more legislators' offices in hopes an addition would not be necessary before completion of the proposed new Capitol.

The State Department of Education would receive more than $101,841 of the supplemental money, with all but $1,501 earmarked for moving the State Law Library from the Capitol to the new office building.

The remainder would be spent for vocational rehabilitation services.

"I believe the persons who demand censorship of reading matter on the base of sexuality are hypocritical, self-righteous, sexually hung-up individuals with a sense of values warped beyond easy repair.

★ ★ ★

"Nearly invariably, they are persons projecting their own libidinous fears and repressions upon a situation from which they are so far removed in terms of understanding that objectivity is impossible.

"In addition, they are the same persons who fail to relate to the basic human problems such as race relations and social evolution and revolution in a changing world.

'POMPOUS NEUROTICS'

"Who are these lifeless, bitter, tongue-clucking, patronizing, self-assured, pompous neurotics that they will choose and control the source and use of my senses.

"They are the killers by remote control who make war holy and belittle love and who'd sooner napalm a child than watch one created."

★ ★ ★

An area psychiatrist maintains that parental permissiveness and downright indifference to what young sons are doing helps the smut seller.

Parents should say to their children, "This is what I think is right on the basis of my experience and that of others before me, and I'm going to do what I think is best for you," he advises.

MORE BITE IN LAWS

Hanger said he urges citizens to put pressure on public officials and legislators to put more bite in obscenity laws. President Nixon has called for a "citizens' crusade against the obscene."

"I think the community should get involved in stopping this even though we can't get arrest warrants for adult sales because of unrealistic Supreme Court decisions," Hanger said.

"I'm sure 90 per cent of the people in Pontiac don't know this type of material is being sold, and I'm sure 99 per cent of them would support us in removing it from the bookstands," he added.

In Denmark, where all censorship on reading matter has been abolished, the sex crime rate has reportedly dropped, but such a drastic step is unlikely in the United States, so the dispute rages on.

Even if pornography were completely illegal, chances are that some would get into the hands of young persons anyway.

So the basic responsibility still lies with the parents. If they are concerned about their children, they must instill moral values with which the child can do his own censorship, the only kind that is really effective.

Pollution Parley

LANSING (AP)—A Michigan delegation will attend a federal conference on pollution of Lake Superior May 13 at Duluth, Minn. Michigan will be represented by Ralph Purdy, executive secretary of the State Water Resources Commisison, and John Vogt of the Public Health Department. Michigan local units of government, industries, conservation groups and others also have been invited to attend.

Disposal Site Link With Airport Eyed

gested that a compaction process more sophisticated than that currently used for land-fills would be necessary.

He spoke of a Japanese system in which solid waste is reduced to bricks and encased in concret for building purposes. The public works chairman said more information regarding the process would be available in six weeks, after committee members have had a chance to gather data regarding other solid waste disposal system now in use.

The plan, called an inovation by its sponsor, was considered of sufficient merit that it was referred to the public works committee for study. Voting in favor of referral were Supervisors Mahlon Benson, R-Waterford Township, George Grba, D-Pontaci and Gabler.

OPINION REAFFIRMED

Philip O. Mastin, D-Hazel Park, and Niles Olson, D-Orion Township, voted against the study. Mastin reaffirmed an opinion by Board of Supervisors chairman Charles B. Edwards Jr. that residents consider both airports and solid waste disposal sites prime nuisances.

Gabler suggested it sometimes "takes guts to get something done."

★ ★ ★

And Mastin replied, "But it takes fewer guts when it's in the other guy's township."

Discussion of the plan followed a brief review of the county's involvement in the development of the former Allen Airport in Orion Township.

PRIOR APPROVAL

Murphy stressed that at no time had action been undertaken in purchase or development of the airportt withou prior Board of Supervisor approval.

★ ★ ★

Members were assured that even with final FAA master plan approval, there is no commitment on the part of the county to develop the airport.

The committee plans to discuss the matter with airport and land development experts.

Switch OK'd in Children's Village Plans

Probate judges have agreed to a switch in original plans for the development of Children's Village at the Service Center.

They haven't done it happily, and they've done it only on the basis that the Oakland County Board of Supervisors will confirm as permanently as possible that plans will not be altered again.

The switch involves giving up land along Watkins Lake Road, originally earmarked as the location for future neglected children's cottages, and accepting land to the north and west of the present site.

The new land, giving the village its original 68.5-acre area, is now partially within the Waterford-Oaks recreation development.

REIMBURSEMENT REQUIRED

The switch will require a reimbursement to the federal government of funds it invested in the recreation area under the open space land program.

"You've set us back two years (in development of the village)," said Judge Donald Adams. "And the needs are now."

★ ★ ★

Top priority projects at the village are the construction of a school for delinquent youth and a girls' work education unit.

The switch in land came about as the county embarked on a master plan for the Service Center. The location of the new Department of Public Works and drain commissioner's facility next to the road commission uses land originally intended for the village.

Agreement was reached yesterday at a meeting between the judges and Niles Olson, D-Orion Township, chairman of the planning, building and zoning committee, and Robert Patnales, R-Royal Oak, chairman of human relations.

Job Project Teaches RCA to Expect the Unexpected

By DICK KLEINER

VERNON, Calif. — (NEA)— When a big industrial firm gets an attack of public spirit, it may get involved in things it hasn't expected—such as traffic tickets and bad debts.

It happened that way with the Radio Corp. of America here.

★ ★ ★

Under a Department of Labor contract, the company has opened a training program for the hard-core jobless.

Vernon is smack in the middle of two of Los Angeles' most difficult areas — midway between the Negro ghetto of south-central Los Angeles and the Mexican-American barrio of east Los Angeles.

BEGAN PROGRAM

RCA rounded up 120 jobless men, between 18 and 35. It converted a warehouse into a school, hired nine instructors, four guidance counselors, a director, three secretaries.

And it began a program of training the men to be television repairmen, with jobs guaranteed when they finished in six months, to 18 months' time.

It is part of a nationwide program in which the company is training 120 men in Chicago and 80 each in Newark and Camden, N. J.

★ ★ ★

The trainees are paid $80 a week while they learn. For many, this is the most money they have ever earned, and they are simultaneously learning a trade and there is a job waiting for them.

AMBITIOUS

"It's a good deal," says one trainee, Billy Kendrick. He is originally from Knoxville, Tenn., and spent seven years in the Air Force. He was discharged in California and elected to stay here. But he had no training for a civilian job and things have been tough ever since.

Now he is consumed with ambition. After he finishes his training here, he hopes to work as a television repairman in the day and study engineering at college at night.

The company has some selfishness in its corporate heart in all this.

★ ★ ★

There is, they say, a critical shortage of well-trained television repairmen, and they can eagerly absorb all they turn out.

They want men who not only know their business but make a good appearance (for the sake of the corporation image) and are trustworthy.

NO EX-FELONS

Because of this, they will not accept, as trainees, anyone who is a parolee or has a felony conviction.

The four guidance counselors are kept busy with the personal problems of the 120 trainees.

★ ★ ★

One, Paul Marian, a psychologist, believes in giving them responsibility—he has put one in charge of handing out the payroll checks, another in charge of the library.

Another counselor is former principal Kenneth R. Haas.

BEGIN AT BEGINNING

He says he has to begin at the beginning with many of the men, explaining to them about such things as the income tax deductions on their pay checks.

Many of the trainees have traffic ticket warrants outstanding, occasionally involving as much as $300.

Haas arranges with the court for these to be paid off in installments. Similarly, he works out plans for the men to pay off outstanding debts a bit at a time.

"Most of these men, he says, "have been kicked around so long that you have to show them people are helpful. Then you can get them to help themselves."

BRIDGING THE GAP — They say spring cleaning is a woman's job. At least that's what these two girls — Sandy Gustafson (left) and Janice Steiner, both of St. Ignace — thought when they spied Mel LaChapelle perched on a cable in need of a helping hand. The two girls decided stretching was better than climbing.

Dean Martin's Son Changing His Image of a Go-Go Playboy

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "That Dino Martin," said Lucille Ball recently, speaking like a Beverly Hills housewife. "He has really straightened out. His big ambition now is to go to UCLA and play on the tennis team, and what's more, he's got the grades for it. I'm hoping that will rub off on young Desi."

THOMAS

The transformation in the teen-age son of the Dean Martins is indeed the talk of film colony parents. Once Dino was considered the playboy of the western slope, a go-go kid who owned a fabulous sports car before he could legally drive it, who haunted the discotheques until early hours.

★ ★ ★

Once Miss Ball was concerned about Dino's influence on her son, since the boys constitute two-thirds of the successful rock group, Dino, Desi and Billy (Hinsche). Now she is his strongest supporter.

"Gee, did Desi's mother say that?" young Martin asked. "I can't believe it! I always thought she considered me a bad influence on Desi."

DISCUSSES FUTURE

Dean Martin Jr. — that's his real name — failed to live up to his wild reputation in an interview. The slender six-footer sprawled on a couch at the family manse and discussed with utter seriousness his future career in acting, music and education.

His acting is exposed for the first time in a new film, "A Boy . . . A Girl" directed by John Derek and produced by Jack Hanson, owner of the Daisy and the Jax sportswear stores.

★ ★ ★

"I hardly remember the picture," said Dino. "I made it more than two years ago, when I was 15. It was fun to do. We shot it all over California, and I got a chance to ride my motor bike a great deal. I was riding it before I could drive a car. Steve McQueen taught me."

The film is one of those poetic portrayals of young love, but Dino assured that he performed no sex scenes with his costar, Arion Fromer.

NUDE SCENE

"We couldn't," he explained. "A welfare worker was on the set at all times, and nothing like that was allowed. There is a nude scene in the desert that takes place behind a white screen. But it isn't me. They had to get another actor to do it. That was silly because you don't really see anything; I could have done the scene with tight trunks."

★ ★ ★

His acting future? "No time," Dino replied. "I expect to enroll at UCLA this fall in premed. It looks now as if I'll have a tennis scholarship at the university. So there won't be any time for acting; I'll be too busy with my studies, my tennis and my music.

RESEMBLES MOTHER

"I want to keep up with the music, making records and playing a few dates every year at times when the kids are on vacation. We now have two companies, one for music publishing and one for production."

★ ★ ★

With his longish blond hair and narrow face, Dino more closely resembles his mother, Jeanne, than he does his Italian father. Dino admitted that he was less disciplined as a youngster.

"I went to Catholic grade school, and they were always throwing me out of catechism for asking too many questions," he said.

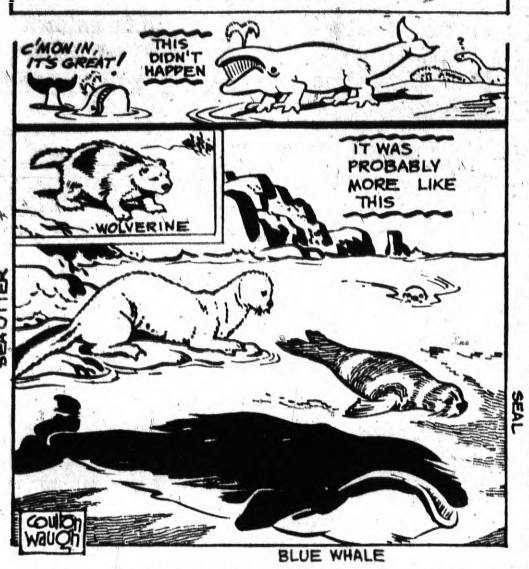
Junior Editors Quiz on WHALES



QUESTION: If the whale is a mammal, how come it lives in the sea?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Did whales come from land? Scientists say yes, which may make us think of something like the purely imaginative beast at the top of the picture, which never existed.

Yet whales, say the experts, did come from four-footed land animals. In many whales, there are tiny bones out of sight where the legs used to be.

We don't know exactly what the whale's land ancestor looked like, or how it came to take to the water. The best we can do is to guess.

We show three puresent-day creatures which, linked together, might suggest how whales changed from land to water animals. We are not saying whales actually developed from these particular animals. We use them only as suggestions.

Such an animal as the hairy, shortlegged wolverine might have developed an appetite for fish, turned into a shorter-haired streamlined creature like the sea otter, then into something resembling a seal and finally into the present whale form.

The fact that the water held him up allowed the whale to grow to his present enormous size.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Success Key to Long Life, Reports Exec

MONTREAL (AP) — Your chances of living to 65 are directly related to education and success in career and marriage, insurance statistician Jules V. Quint says.

Quint, from the Metropolitan Insurance Co., told an underwriters association Tuesday that death rates among men 25 to 64 decline in relation to educational attainment, and married men have considerably lower mortality rates than bachelors or divorced men.

★ ★ ★

"Prominent professional and business men live on the average distinctly longer than men in the general population," he said.

"Scientists register the lowest mortality rate among prominent men, while the highest mortality is registered by correspondents and journalists."

Palestinian Vows to Fight an Accord

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The leader of one of the most active of the Palestinian guerrilla organizations has vowed to sabotage any peaceful solution of the Middle East conflict which might emerge from Big Four talks.

Dr. George Habash, leader of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, rejects any settlement that provides for the continued existence of the state of Israel.

★ ★ ★

"We should go out of our way to prevent the conclusion of peace along the lines of the U.N. resolution," Habash said in an interview.

"To us, a peaceful solution means injustice. It means we remain in the squalor of our refugee camps, without a country, without dignity, without hope. We cannot continue to live as sheep."

CALLS FOR WITHDRAWAL

The U.N. resolution of Nov. 22, 1967, calls for Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory, an end to Arab belligerence and free navigaiton for Israeli shipping through the Suez Canal and the Tiran Strait.

★ ★ ★

Habash's organization has spurned the drudgery of routine day-to-day commando raids into Israel and concentrated on sensational attacks that make headlines. Its commandos hijacked an Israeli airliner over the Mediterranean last summer, shot up two other El Al jets in Athens and Zurich and planted a bomb in a Jerusalem supermarket which killed two Israelis and injured 26.

★ ★ ★

Habash, a Marxist who graduated from the American University in Beirut, said the Popular Front regards Communist China as its principal ally. He came close to saying front guerrillas were trained by the Peking regime.

SCIENTIFIC GUIDE

"We have to cooperate with any country that sees the problem as we see it," he said.

★ ★ ★

"We describe our organization as Marxist because Marxism is our scientific guide. We seek to escalate the struggle into a long war of liberation such as was waged in China. It is the only way a gackward people can face a highly technical society such as Israel.

"Our way is revolution, organization of the revolutionary classes, a long war. Marxism to us is the only way to victory. If the war continues for 20 or 30 years, we must have victory."

★ ★ ★

Eventually, he said, the Popular Front aims to establish what he called a "mobile foothold" on Israeli-held territory.

Habash and the Popular Front have stayed outside the Palestine Liberation Organization, a sort of Palestine government in exile. Several guerrilla movements, including Fatah, the largest, are grouped in it. The front has stayed out because it refuses to subordinate its Marxism for the sake of poitical and military unity, but Habash said:

★ ★ ★

"Any contradiction between Fatah and the front is a minor one. To the front, political thought is something of great importance. We cannot imagine a revolution without it."

IMPERIALISM IS ENEMY

Marxism, said Habash, enabled the front to define its enemy and its allies.

"Our enemy is not Israel," he added. "Israel is backed by imperialist forces. It could not survive without the millions that imperialism is pouring in.

★ ★ ★

"If the West continues to back Israel, we have to regard the West as part of our picture of the enemy."

Habash, 43, is a medical doctor who classifies himself as a Christian Arab and Palestine refugee. He says his group depends on contributions to keep going.

None of TV Movies Place in the Top 30

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The sharp slip of televised movies in the ratings is indicated by the fact that not one of the weekly lineups of motion pictures placed among the season's top 30 series.

A list of the top 40 prime time network series of the 1968-69 season reveals the movies' popularity as follows:

NBC-TV's Monday night films ranked 32nd among all programs. CBS-TV's Friday night motion pictures were 33rd. The same network's Thursday movies and NBC-TV's Saturday night films finished in a tie for 34th place. And NBC-TV's Tuesday motion pictures came in tied for 36th.

★ ★ ★

This accounts for five of the seven weekly movie series on the three major commercial television networks. The two movie series that didn't even rank among the top 40 entries were the Sunday and Wednesday night films of ABC-TV, the smallest network with, naturally, the smallest and weakest lineup of affiliate stations.

ABC-TV invariably suffers in these national ratings, and does better in the statistics that measure the bigger city markets.

NEW SERIES

Only half a dozen new series finished in the top 40. They were "Julia" (seventh), the Glen Campbell Show (15th), "The Mod Squad" (tied for 28th), the Doris Day series (30th), "Lancer" (31st) and "The Good Guys" (tied for 36th). "Julia" is on NBC-TV, "The Mod Squad" on ABC-TV, and all the others belong to CBS-TV.

When four new series on one network can comprise one-tenth of the top 40 shows for the season — as was the case with CBS-TV — there is no question it can be considered a strong showing by that network.

State Cycle Fatality Rise Tied to Helmet Law Lack

LANSING (AP) — Safety experts report Michigan's motorcycle death rate has taken a startling jump since a court decision wiped out a law requiring all motorcyclists to wear crash helmets.

Secretary of State James Hare and Lt. Bryce Gray of the State Police Safety and Traffic Bureau agree the higher death rate can be blamed largely on the lack of a helmet law.

★ ★ ★

Hare reported that in 1966, 104 motorcycle riders were killed on Michigan highways.

This prompted the Legislature to enact a law making the headgear mandatory.

DROP IN FATALITIES

"In 1967, motorcycle deaths dropped to 86 despite a marked increase in motorcycle registrations," Hare said. "But a Michigan court then ruled the helmet requirement was unconstitutional."

Last year, without the helmet law, the deaths jumped to 122, Hare said. Five pedestrians also were killed by motorcycles.

Gray said there have been 17 motorcycle deaths through May 1, a figure identical with the same period in 1968.

"But this is only the beginning," Gray said. "The motorcycle season is just starting. There will be more and more of them on the roads from now through October."

REDUCTION OF DEATHS

Hare said 40 states have helmet laws. Reports from 30, Hare said, show a reduction in deaths. New York State reports a 50 per cent motorcycle death decline.

California, without such a law, reported a 9 per cent increase during the same period.

★ ★ ★

The current legislative session, meanwhile, is being asked to pass a new compulsory helmet law that can't be overturned by the courts.

The proposed new law would require helmets as part of motorcycle equipment — with the assumption that the riders would wear them rather than just carry them.

All Eyes on You, Granny; Better Watch Your Posture

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is widowed and spends a lot of time with our family. She's a good soul and we wouldn't want to hurt her for anything.

The problem is that she is about 60 pounds overweight, and she's not very careful about the way she sits. Her dress hikes up and she shows more than people care to see.

Last night our sons (ages 10 and 12) had some friends over, and they were all sitting on the floor supposedly watching TV. Grandma was there in her usual position, and those kids barely took their eyes off Grandma.

She sits "side saddle" at meal time, instead of putting her knees together under the table. She says it's more "comfortable."

We keep telling her to watch how she sits. She'll be careful for a day or two, but then she goes back to her old ways.

How can we effect a permanent cure without hurting her feelings?

NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: You probably can't. But just keep "reminding her" gently — and often. And by the way, this lady is old and obese, but what excuse can there be for some of those young, slim gals for sitting that way?

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: We are having a family argument. If a 16-year-old girl has a date with a boy she has never dated before, should the girl be expected to take the boy down in the recreation room to meet her father? Or shouldn't the father come upstairs? This was a formal, and the girl would have had to take the boy through a rather messy kitchen and down the basement stairs. The mother CAME up to meet the boy, the father stayed downstairs. Who was right?

THE GIRL

DEAR GIRL: If the father really wanted to meet the boy, he'd have come upstairs. Perhaps the father was "relaxing" — shoes off, unshaved, engrossed in reading or watching television, in which case, he obviously chose to pass the introduction, which is his privilege.

Who's complaining? If the father complains because his daughter didn't bring the boy downstairs, shame on HIM. If the daughter complains because her father didn't come upstairs, shame on HER.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Please be fair and print this for "DISGUSTED": I realize that you are young and gullible as you are only 16, but if you actually believe that the army reserve turned down a volunteer because his hair was too long, you had better do some further checking on your armed services.

If this volunteer qualified in every other way, the army would have given him the oath one minute and had him sitting in the barber's chair the next.

If you swallow hogwash like this (which you supposedly saw in the newspaper), then I am not so sure we wouldn't be better off if you did pack your bags and move to Australia.

R.C.G. (PROUD NAVY MAN)

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I would like to reply to the 16-year-old girl who was indignant about a man who wanted to fight for his country but was turned away because his hair was too long.

★ ★ ★

If a man truly wants to "fight for his country," he can always join the regular army. A man's civilian hair style is one problem the army solves most easily.

Very truly yours,
"RESERVIST" (FOLEY, ALA.)

Astronaut Nixes Idea of Female on Crew

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Astronaut James A. McDivitt says he wouldn't choose a woman astronaut for any space flights in the near future.

"Criteria change, but if it was up to me I wouldn't select a woman astronaut unless more money was available to modify space craft," Col. McDivitt told a news conference in Ann Arbor recently.

He said problems in design of existing space craft make it "undesirable" to have women astronauts aboard.

First Lady Would Like to See Woman on the Supreme Court

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon said Wednesday she thinks women have equal rights "if they want to exercise them," and she's in favor of a woman on the Supreme Court.

She made her comments to reporters while entertaining some 80 chairmen of state and city commissions on the Status of Women. They are in Washington for an annual two-day meeting.

★ ★ ★

Among their high priority topics is the need for expanding child-care centers so women can get jobs outside the home.

Mrs. Nixon was asked if she felt women have equal rights today.

"I feel women have equal rights if they want to exercise them," she replied, adding that all the women she knows who really want to get out and do things are able to.

While Mrs. Nixon was talking, a group of about 100 women pickets, representing the National Organization for Women (NOW), demonstrated outside the White House grounds.

★ ★ ★

They carried placards saying "Nixon is unfair to women" and chanted loudly "Freedom for women now" and "Promise us nothing, give us right now!"

Ivy Bottini, president of the New York City chapter of NOW, relayed the word to the picketers that Mrs. Nixon had said she doesn't think there's discrimination against women and neither does the President. This whipped up chanting of "We want action now."

★ ★ ★

With a vacancy coming up on the Supreme Court, the Preident's wife was asked how she felt about a woman serving there. "Why not?" Mrs. Nixon said, "I think we need one."

But she added cautiously that her husband "doesn't choose anyone unless they're qualified."

★ ★ ★

To a reporter who pursued the question of a qualified woman on the court, Mrs. Nixon said, "Well, now, do you have a woman to suggest?" With that, the subject was dropped.

Political Disunity, Marital Harmony

EAST GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Miss Gillian Martin, 28, daughter of John B. Martin, U.S. commissioner on aging, reportedly will be married June 28 to Theodore Sorenson who served as special counsel to the late President John F. Kennedy.

Television station WZZM in nearby Grand Rapids reported the wedding plans Wednesday night, and newsman Mike Nolan said the information came from "a very reliable source."

★ ★ ★

The wedding would bring together the daughter of a prominent Republican and a twice-divorced well-known Democrat.

Her father for many years served as Republican national committeeman from Michigan until joining the Nixon Administration this year.

Sorenson, who turned 41 Thursday, served not only as a special adviser to the late President Kennedy but also as a chief campaign organizer for the late Robert F. Kennedy.

★ ★ ★

Sorenson was divorced last Jan. 21 in New York from his second wife, the former Sara Ann Elbery, on grounds his wife abandoned him two years earlier. They had been married in June 1964 in Cambridge, Mass., about a year after Sorenson's divorce from the former Camilla Palmer, to whom he was married 14 years.

Sorenson and his first wife had three children.

Wearing Gloves Was Correct for Reception

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of the Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: An account of the Nixon's first reception said that Mrs. Nixon kept on white gloves while she was in the receiving line. This seemed strange to me as I thought of the White House as Mrs. Nixon's home; but my sister suggested that where she was receiving was really a public place. Do people in receiving lines nowadays keep gloves on? — Harriet P.

★ ★ ★

Dear Harriet: Mrs. Nixon was 100 percent correct. Women keep their gloves on in all receiving lines — whether in a private home or in a public hall.

"IN LOVING MEMORY"

Dear Mrs. Post: In church there was an announcement that the flowers in the sanctuary were in loving memory of Mrs. John Doe, whose surviving husband has since remarried. Wasn't it in poor taste to refer to the deceased as Mrs. John Doe, and should not the minister have tactfully suggested another form, particularly as Mr. and Mrs. Doe are members of the church? — Mrs. E.

★ ★

Dear Mrs. E.: The announcement should have read "Mary Doe" or better yet, "Mary Jones Doe." There can be only one "Mrs. John Doe" and it was unkind to Mr. Doe's present wife to refer to the deceased lady by her name.

The minister may not have noticed the error, but if he had he should have brought it to the family's attention.

Former Sweater Girl Pulls on New Name

LAS VEGAS Nev. (AP) — Lana Turner, a movie glamour queen of the 1940s, early today married night club hypnotist Dr. Ronald Dante.

The marriage was the seventh for Miss Turner, 49, and Dante's second.

Miss Turner's previous husbands were bandleader Artie Shaw, restaurant owner Stephen Crane, Bob Topping, actor Lex Barker, sportsman Fred May and businessman Robert Eaton.

Make Terry Cover

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. B. R. G. wanted to know about dust covers for her furniture. Terry cloth, blind-hemmed with matching seam tape, makes excellent couch and chair throws. It has a nice texture, is cool and comfortable while in use, does not "creep" and is easily laundered.

Many colors are available or she could tint the white so her cover is the same color as the upholstery fabric on the piece. This avoids that ghostly look so many dust covers have. — EVELYN

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — When making shirts, blouses and little dresses, I have found it is much easier to put the sleeves in before sewing up the side seams as most patterns suggest. It is easier to fit and ease in the sleeve and the entire side seam can be sewn at one time. — ELLA

DEAR POLLY — I do hope this will help save stove cleaning chores for some of the girls. When frying foods that spatter, put the pan lid or pie pans over the adjoining burners to prevent burned-on spatters that may be the result if greasy spots are not wiped off right away and the burners are turned on again. — MRS. J.K.

DEAR POLLY — To get rid of that telltale line when I let down the hems in my little girl's dresses, I cut a piece a bit wider than the hem from a brown paper bag, wet throroughly on the side to be placed next to the dress and then press the dry side of the paper with a hot iron.

A really stubborn mark may take a repeat performance. Three cheers for your helful column. — FRAN.

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — It always seems such a shame to throw away beautiful used gift wrappings and ribbons. Our house is just not big enough to store everything, including these things.

Does anyone have any suggestions for using such wrapping paper in an attractive fashion so I will not have to throw so much of it away? — RUTH

HUDSON'S

Oldsters Need Patience With Dentures

By DR. HOWARD E. KESSLER

On my desk is an interesting letter from a middle-aged woman whose husband is much older than she.

KESSLER

"My husband expects me to kiss him without his teeth. It's not only unromantic; it's horrible.

"I just cannot get him to wear his new dentures. They are beautiful teeth, and make him look 20 years younger when he wears them.

"We have been back to our dentist, and he says the dentures are perfect and that it is simply and entirely up to my husband to get used to them."

★ ★ ★

Yes, patience in great abundance is what her husband needs.

Usually an older person requires a longer period of time to learn to wear dentures than does a younger individual. This is due to the older patient's changes in the nervous system and in control over muscle functions.

SMALL PORTIONS

Older denture wearers, especially those who have received full dentures for the first time, should put only a small amount of food in their mouths at a time, chew that thoroughly and swallow it before taking another portion.

They should select foods that are proper and nutritious and which can still be chewed easily.

They should take more time for chewing. It may be necessary for them to allow twice as much time to eat their meals as it takes the other members of the family.

Some senior citizens expect too much of dentures and sometimes become a bit unreasonable.

A dentist friend recently wrote me about a 72-year-old denture patient of his who insisted upon chewing hard bread crusts and other difficult-to-chew foods which he never dreamed of attempting when he had his natural teeth.

★ ★ ★

Elderly denture wearers should be both reasonable and patient.

Pupils Ponder Presidency

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — "What would you be thinking about as you were being sworn in as President of the United States?" Teacher Anna Geonetta asked her 4th graders. These were some of the replies:

"I would be thinking someone would shoot me"; "I would be thinking of a way to make peace between us and other cities and countries."

★ ★ ★

"I will have to work with Republicans and Democrats and the Vice President and to always know what I am going to say."

One girl wondered "Would I be happy as President?" She would solve problems by talking them over with others, but commented, "Some you can and some you can't."

Husband Cooks and Wife Writes

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hermes observed their 60th wedding anniversary just as they "observe" every other day. Hermes cooked dinner and Mrs. Hermes wrote another verse.

"He took over the kitchen three years ago and has been running it ever since," explains the 82-year-old Mrs. Hermes, who thus has been able to devote more hours to her longtime hobby of writing. Her husband, 83, enjoys cooking and has converted the former broom closet in the kitchen to a shelved area full of pots and pans and other utensils.

"Christian Science Brings True Freedom to Mankind"

Should it be you?

In a time when it's 'every man for himself,' to love your neighbor as yourself may seem to carry a hollow ring.

But to do so can be vital to each of us. To love even our enemies is to discover something of the richness of love itself. It can open the way to greater accomplishment in our lives, restoring health and blessing others. And the way is to begin to see our true nature — and that of our fellowman — as fashioned in the image and likeness of God.

You are invited to hear this subject explored in a challenging lecture by Francis W. Cousins, C.S.B., of Manchester, England. Mr. Cousins is a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

Admission is free and all are welcome.

IT'S A DANDY LYIN' SPOT — Five-year-old Tessa Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stone of Harrisonburg, Va., finds just the spot among some dandelions to take a breather — and a flower child she's not.

Public Apathy Blamed for Mediocre Schools

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — "The public demands mediocrity in education, and that 's just what it gets," says Dean David L. Clark of Indiana University's School of Education.

"If society were intolerant of the educational system, that system would change. But it's built into the fabric of our society. We do just well enough to get by — until a noneducational crisis such as Sputnik, or riots in the ghettos, forces us into some kind of action."

★ ★ ★

Clark said that Indiana University, which produces the largest number of initially licensed teachers in the nation, is actively engaged in research to improve both teaching and learning.

But, he said, "There is a tremendous gap between what is already known, and what we're doing. We do a great deal of talking about education, but little is happening in the real world of the schools.

"No one in his right mind would seriously contend that jumbo size lectures make for the best instruction.

"We already know, too, that a large proportion of a teacher's time is spent not in teaching students, but actually in distracting them from learning. The time is spent in control — 'sharpen your pencil,' 'sit down' and 'don't talk without raising your hand.'

Clark also declared that the graded system of education, where pupils march through the first, second, third grades, etc., in educational lockstep, "is an absurdity."

"A second-grade student who can do fifth grade work in science has to wait an unnecessary three years to reach that level; a fourth grade student reading at the second grade level never gets a chance to go back and catch up."

"Social decisions made in education," Clark said, "would indicate that society is not willing to pay the money necessary to produce the best learning-teaching situations.

"People think that if a school has one teacher for every 30 students, and the buildings aren't falling down, everything is in pretty good shape."

No Food Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Midland County in Michigan was mentioned by President Nixon as one of the 440 counties not having any type of federal food program as computed April 25.

Lose 10 Lbs. in 10 Days on New Grapefruit Diet

This is the revolutionary new grapefruit diet that everyone is suddenly talking about. Literally thousands upon thousands of copies have been passed from hand to hand in factories, plants and offices throughout the U.S. and Canada. Word of its success has spread like wildfire, because this is the one diet that really seems to work for most overweight people. A well known Toronto columnist recently praised it to the skies. He reported losing 20 pounds quickly and easily long after he despaired of ever getting down to his wartime weight of 165 pounds. All this without cutting out the occasional beer or rye. If it is followed exactly the average overweight person should lose 10 pounds in 10 days. There will be no weight loss in the first four days. But you will suddenly drop 5 pounds on the 5th day. Thereafter you will lose one pound a day until the 10th day. Then you will lose 1½ pounds every two days until you get down to your proper weight. Best of all there should be no hunger pangs. Now revised and enlarged, the new diet plan lets you stuff yourself with foods that were formerly 'forbidden'. Such as big steaks trimmed with fat, Southern fried chicken, rich gravies, mayonnaise, lobsters swimming in butter, bacon, fats, sausages and scrambled eggs. You can eat until you are full, until you cannot possibly eat any more. And still you should lose 10 pounds in the first ten days, plus 1½ pounds every two days thereafter until your weight is down to normal. The secret behind this new "Quick weight loss" is not generally known. Fat, it has been theorized, does not form fat. Perhaps fat fights fat. And the grapefruit juice in this new diet might act as a catalyst (the 'trigger") to start the fat burning process. You stuff yourself on the permitted foods listed in the diet plan, and still lose unsightly fat and excess body fluids. When the fat and bloat are gone you will cease to lose weight and your weight will remain controlled. A copy of this new and startlingly successful diet plan can be obtained by sending $2 to The

Unconditional money-back guarantee. If after trying the diet plan you have not lost 7 pounds in the first 7 days, another 6 pounds in the next 7 days, and 1½ pounds every two days thereafter, simply return the diet plan and your $2 will be refunded promptly, and without argument. Tear out this message as a reminder. Decide now to regain the trim attractive figure of your youth, while still enjoying hearty breakfasts, lunches and dinners. Thieu to Uncover Patchwork Political Alliance Soon

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu and his top advisers are trying to nail together a national political alliance they hope to unveil within about two weeks.

There are signs the new grouping may be more for appearances than real, but Thieu's aides express confidence it will serve the intended purpose of uniting many fragmented parties behind the president.

★ ★ ★

A national convention will be held soon in the Saigon City Hall. Unless there are last-minute defections, one of Thieu's counselors said, 630 delegates from 14 political groupings with roots in all sections of South Vietnam will show up for the one-day affair.

The aim is to give Thieu's essentially military regime a broad political base for any future confrontation with Communist political forces in the South.

HANDIWORK

Thieu and his secretary-general, Nguyen Van Huong, will personally display their behind-the-scenes handiwork, begun after Thieu issued a call April 7 for a "capable political union."

Many of the leading or rising figures in the country are either playing hard to get or frankly cold-shouldering Thieu's grand design.

Sen. Tran Van Don, the former general who masterminded the overthrow of Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963, has said he will keep his National Salvation Front out of Thieu's alliance. Not a word has been heard from Maj. Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh, the widely admired but erratic leader of that coup. As a unity gesture Thieu let him return from exile last October.

The three factions of the National Kuomintang party, which dates to the 1920s and led the first major anti-French uprising, are showing signs of drawing together, but they are still noncommittal on Thieu's alliance. The semisecret party still commands a following because of its nationalist and anti-Communist position.

ON SIDELINESE

Dr. Phan Quang Dan, a respected nationalist and outspoken politician who last year called for negotiations between the Saigon government and the National Liberation Front, remains on the sidelines. This despite the fact that Thieu has now picked up Dan's theme by repeatedly calling on the NLF to hold private talks.

Prof. Nguyen Ngoc Huy, more representative of the nation's intellectuals and a member of the Saigon delegation to the Paris peace talks, is busily pushing a new Progressive Nationalist Movement.

"We are still examining President Thieu's program," Huy said last weekend — but his movement appears more likely to go over to the opposition.

Floridian's Gardening Efforts Are Shot

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Manuel Starling has a garden that produces bullets instead of tomatoes, and he's unhappy about it.

Starling, 26, was planting flowers and tomatoes one day when his spade started turning up bullets. When the number reached 300, he called police to haul the ammunition away and resumed with the gardening.

Again Starling dug up bullets. This time Starling called police and asked them to finish the job. Police declined. The FBI did, too.

Starling suggested police bring a mine detector. But he said they told him they can't do that until he uncovers a major community threat — like a hand grenade or mortar shell.

"With the price of tomatoes going up," he said, "I'd like to grow my own. But you can't eat bullets."

Snake Stolen for 10 Skins

LA PUENTE, Calif. (AP) — The theft of a six-foot boa constrictor was reported to sheriff's officers—by an 18-year-old boy who said he did it for money.

The youth said his conscience bothered him after he and a 15-year-old companion had taken the snake, named Charlie, from its cage Sunday at Bassett High School. They sold it to a pet shop for $10.

★ ★ ★

Remorseful, the older boy went back Wednesday with the $10, returned Charlie to school and confessed. He got a stern lecture.

KEEPS BUSY — Tony Deni, a Pontiac shoemaker with new hope for restored sight, keeps busy in his shop at 156 Auburn while waiting for the second in a series of four cornea operations which will brighten his dimmed sight. He hopes to encourage people to donate corneas so that doctors may continue with more miracle sight-restoring work.

Donors of Corneas Saving His Eyesight

By MARY SUNDSTROM

Tony Deni, a Pontiac shoe repair shop owner who has had impaired vision nearly all his life, has only three more operations to go until his sight is corrected to near-perfect.

Deni underwent a cornea rebuilding operation in November in Chevy Chase, Md. During this procedure, a donated cornea was placed over his own left cornea. Late this fall he will go back to Chevy Chase for rebuilding of his right eye.

★ ★ ★

In another six months or so, Deni's surgeon, Dr. John Harry King, a renowned specialist in the cornea-transplant field, will remove both corneas from his left eye and transplant another cornea. The same procedure will be done eventually on his right eye, and then he should be able to see better than he can ever remember.

Deni has been suffering from a condition called keralocorneus, which means that the cornea the clear, colorless tissue covering the exposed part of the eye) stretches and bulges, causing the blood vessels in the eye to break, distorting vision.

FOUR DONORS NEEDED

Four cornea donors are needed to correct keralocorneus.

Deni has been under the care of Pontiac eye specialist Dr. Robert J. Netzel, who suggested the operations which will save his eyesight. He said he could have gone completely blind if it weren't for the operations and the cornea donors.

★ ★ ★

Deni has been using contact lenses which cover the entire surface of his eyes since 1939. He also wears eyeglasses to supplement the contacts.

When the series of operations is complete, he will no longer have to wear either the contacts or glasses.

NEED FOR DONORS

"I owe my chance for continued eyesight to the person who donated this cornea and to Dr. King," Deni said. He often emphasizes that the doctors could help so many more people with impaired eyesight if there were more cornea donations.

Deni's eyesight has been steadily dwindling over the last few years, and he had become quite discouraged as doctor after doctor told him there was nothing they could do.

★ ★ ★

"I would rather die than be blind. If I was blind I couldn't work. I love my work — it is my life. To be able to see is like a miracle," said Deni, who lovingly repairs each shoe, belt or boot as if each one were an artistic masterpiece. (A close look at his work shows this.)

"When I went into the hospital, I had to wait until a cornea donation was available. The doctor told me I would get the next one that came in unless there was an emergency case," he said.

DEMAND FAR EXCEEDS SUPPLY...

Deni's brother, Don, of Waterford Township, accompanied him to Maryland and waited for the cornea with him.

The demand for cornea donations is much greater than the supply. A cornea has priority on almost anything. Even a commercial airliner can be made to wait for a cornea to be flown to a hospital, Deni explained.

★ ★ ★

His corneas are being made available through the American Eye Bank, which has constant radio contact with every local eye bank in the country.

When a cornea is donated, action for a transplant or rebuilding process must be speedy, since the live tissue in the cornea can only be useful for a short period of time.

RECRUITING POSSIBLE DONORS...

As Deni waits for his next operation, he keeps busy in his shoe shop at 156 Auburn, which he has owned since 1932. He tells his steady stream of friends and customers about his operations. He hopes to interest people in donating their corneas.

"The doctors are so dedicated. If only more people would contribute corneas to the eye banks — so much more good could be done," Deni said.

Rogers Is Giving Press the Silent Treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's foreign affairs chief, William P. Rogers, is setting a modern-day mark for not holding Washington news conferences as a new secretary of state.

A month ago today Rogers opened his first formal news session here as secretary of state by "apologizing for being so slow in having a press conference.

"From now on I intend to have a press conference on a fairly regular basis, every two or three weeks or four," he said.

Rogers is yet to schedule his second Washington press conference. It is now doubtful he will hold one before taking off Monday on a 17-day, round-the-world visit to Vietnam and three international conferences.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said "I just don't think that time permits" Rogers to have a news conference this week before his departure.

"There are other considerations also," McCloskey said, without specifying them.

★ ★ ★

Rogers is going first to South Vietnam, then on to Bangkok for the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization meeting. Then he meets with leaders in India, Pakistan and Afghanistan and attends the Central Treaty Organization ministerial parley in Tehran before returning to the United States May 29.

★ ★ ★

Between World War II and the tenure of Dean Rusk, secretary of state under Presidents Lyndon B. Johnson and John F. Kennedy, on-the-record sessions between secretaries of state and inquiring newsmen were a regular feature on the Washington scene.

ONCE A YEAR

Secretaries of State George C. Marshall and Dean Acheson or their undersecretaries fielded questions from reporters publicly about once a week.

John Foster Dulles, secretary of state during the last Republican administration, held Washington news conferences roughly once a fortnight.

Rusk was irregular with his news conferences, but held approximately eight a year here during his eight-year term. By this point in his first year in office, Rusk had four compared with Rogers' one.

Twenty-four million people are sufficiently disabled by headaches each year in this country to need to consult a physician.

IT WAS EASY — Mom told 6-year-old Joey Palladino to stack up some logs at their Pottstown, Pa., home — and some of them looked pretty big. But they were hollow, and the job turned out to be child's play.

It's a Hairbrained Idea, According to Astronauts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Hair is a fire hazard in spacecraft, a researcher reports, but astronauts won't take the safety precaution that experts propose.

"Our information is that astronauts simply will not shave their faces and heads daily," Dr. R. L. Durfee of Alexandria, Va., told the annual meeting of the Aerospace Medical Association Monday. "So we have been trying to find other ways."

★ ★ ★

Hair is extremely flammable in the oxygen-rich atmosphere of spacecraft.

Durfee, a chemical engineer for the Atlantic Research Division of the Susquehanna Corp., said several fire retardant chemicals have failed tests. The best alternative so far to shaving seems to be wrapping the head and face in fiberglas bandages.

And on that, Durfee said, the astronauts haven't commented.

Queen's English Takes a Beating

LONDON (AP) — English as sometimes spoken developed this dialogue in the Old Bailey Criminal Court yesterday:

Yorkshire witness: He said it is a doddle.

Prosecutor: Is that a Yorkshire expression?

Witness: Yes, it means it is a walkover or it is easy.

Judge: You mean it is a piece of cake.

Apollo 10 to Start Busy 8 Days in May

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The United States plans to fire a pair of Sentry satellites and four other spacecraft into distant earth orbits during the eight days Apollo 10 is flying to the moon and back.

★ ★ ★

Apollo 10 astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan are scheduled to blast off for the moon May 18, and three days later the space agency plans to launch a communications satellite for the Comsat Corp.

★ ★ ★

It will be followed May 23, if all goes as planned, by the launch of two Defense Department nuclear detection satellites and three small hitchhiking research satellites by an Air Force Titan 3C rocket.

★ ★ ★

The Titan will propel its five spacecraft into earth orbits reaching 69,000 miles away — nearly a third of the way to the moon. The communications satellite will be shot into a 22,300-mile-high orbit.

MONITORING NETWORK

The twin 755-pound Sentry satellites, called Vela, are part of the government's nuclear-explosion monitoring network. They will be able to spot the telltale signs of an atomic test anywhere from the surface of earth to as far away as Venus.

Besides looking for violations of the test-ban treaty, the space sentinels are expected to be able to monitor nuclear test in Red China.

★ ★ ★

They will join eight other Vela satellites launched in Paris by the Air Force in 1963, 1964, 1965 and 1967. All were built by TRW Inc. of Redondo Beach, Calif.

There are about 900 lakes in Illinois suitable for fishing, boating and swimming.

PLANNED FOR GHETTO — This is an artist's conception of a $20-million, 20-story state office building to be located in the hub of central Harlem in New York City. It is part of more than $100 million worth of housing, hotels, office buildings and college facilities planned or now under construction in that section of the city. Some black leaders see the investment as yet another encroachment by the white man in the four-square-mile area.

Harlem Building Plans Gaining Favor

NEW YORK (AP)—Harlem is getting an economic shot in the arm. More than $100 million worth of housing, hotels, office buildings and college facilities is planned or under construction, most of it funded by whites.

Some skeptical Negroes see the new money as yet another attempt by the white man to dominate the four-square-mile area of Manhattan and its tightly packed population of 300,000.

★ ★ ★

To them, the white man is a slum lord, a racketeer or a storekeeper who charges exorbitant prices.

Harlem Congressman Adam Clayton Powell calls a planned state office building "just an effort to bring Charlie back into Harlem. To hell with that. Let's put up a high school for black students."

SMALL PART

But such militancy represents only a small part of Harlem's thought.

Resentment has been fading away, or has been overcome with concessions and promises of employment and partial ownership by Negroes.

Insurance companies have committed to Harlem more than $20 million of a nationwide $1-billion fund for slum housing. Savings banks are offering many millions more to groups that can provide housing in poverty areas.

The only major project canceled because of community opposition was the $13-million gymnasium planned by Columbia University for Morningside Heights Park, adjacent to the campus. The university is seeking another site.

IN OPPOSITION

Among groups that have opposed various projects are Massive Economic Neighborhood Development—MEND—which has some 130 staff members, the Harlem chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality — CORE—and the Ad Hoc City Board for a Better Harlem.

Columbia canceled plans for its gym—to have been built on city land—after residents of the community complained the gym would lack sufficient facilities for Harlemites and was a "racist encroachment" on community parkland.

Columbia students joined the protest, and the gym became one of the key issues in last spring's demonstrations on the campus.

The most publicized project is the state office building, designed by Negro architects and intended to coordinate scattered state offices, give jobs to Harlem residents on construction and encourage others to build in the area. Construction will begin soon, with completion scheduled for mid-1971.

BLACK SUPPORT

A spokesman for the state Office of General Services said the project is supported by many Harlem leaders, including black nationalists, and has been endorsed by the Amsterdam News, a Negro weekly.

Shearson, Hammill & Co., a brokerage firm, signed a 10-year, $500,000 lease for space across from the planned state office building and said it would use 7½ per cent of the gross securities sales commissions generated by the new office—estimated at $100,000 a year—to set up a job training foundation.

★ ★ ★

Victor Solomon, chairman of Harlem CORE, immediately attacked the plan as part of a "conspiracy by state, municipal and Wall Street high finance interests to take over Harlem."

In January, however, CORE and the brokerage firm agreed on a plan whereby Shearson, Hammill promised eventually to sell the business to the community, hire a predominantly Negro staff and insure that two-thirds of the job foundation's directors would represent the Negro community.

CONFLICTS

CORE and MEND also opposed the 33-story hotel and office complex, saying it conflicted with their programs in the area. However, Robert Sherrill, head of the sponsoring real estate group, said he felt most problems had been worked out.

There are some groups taking a more positive approach. Among them is Architects Renewal Committee in Harlem—ARCH—created in 1964. It includes architects and city planners and is funded by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity and private foundations.

It opposes programs it does not think are in the community interest and offers alternates.

ARCH advocates a Harlem jazz center, an African center and a Spanish cultural center. It has contributed ideas for a proposed community facilities building and increased park activities on the site where the Columbia gym was to have been built.

Television Reflects Violence in Society

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.

The current controversy about violence on television sometimes sounds a bit silly. If there is excesive violence on the home screens, there is also excessive violence in our society.

YOUNG

The brutalities shown on some TV shows don't begin to compare to the brutalities of oppression faced by millions of poor people every day.

Television is like a mirror held up to our society. If the image is sick, it's easier to blame the mirror than cure the illness.

But that doesn't mean broadcasters don't have a special responsibility to the rest of us. Their job isn't just packaging programs so they can sell cigarettes and gasoline in commercials.

RESPONSIBLE TO PUBLIC

They use the public airwaves and so are responsible to the public.

Lord Thompson, a British press lord who expanded into TV stations, once said, "A TV license is a license to print money."

★ ★ ★

Along with the responsibility to the real owners of the airwaves, the public, comes the responsibility for controlling such a powerful medium of communication.

There are more television sets in America than there are bathtubs some 80 million sets in 57 million homes.

CONSTRUCTIVE USE

So broadcasters have to use this immense power constructively. Since the burning question of our time is that of race relations, they have to use the airwaves to communicate to their viewers important aspects of this great social problem.

Not only must they educate white Americans about the nature of the problems of poverty, racism and urban decay, but they've got to show black people, and especially black youth, that the airwaves are theirs, too.

Some stations are doing a pretty good job of hiring Negro actors and newsmen, while others support special documentary programs that inform the public.

But by and large, TV has a long way to go before it fully uses its potential for instructing a mass audience and it fully utilizes the talents of black people.

Some stations won't even go halfway; their microphones are opened to racists and their studios closed to blacks.

The Federal Communications Commission, the regulatory agency that licenses stations, ought to revoke the license of any station that discriminates in this manner.

Booming Brazilian Metropolis Running Out of Burial Space

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — On of the many problems facing this booming industrial metropolis of 5½ million is that it's fast running out of cemetery space.

Where to bury the dead when all the cemeteries are full and there's no more land to be had for the purpose?

★ ★ ★

Sao Paulo is more spread out than Los Angeles or Paris, but it is also considered the world's fastest-growing city. And land within its environs is either too scarce or too expensive.

At least 4,500 people die here every month, and the city's 18 cemeteries are already stacking bodies on each other.

★ ★ ★

The population is increasing so rapidly, Sao Paulo expects to have three times as many people in 25 years.

One of the possible solutions advanced by city officials is the use of crematoriums, a new idea in Brazil.

City hall recently asked a number of companies to submit bids on construction and installation of one such apparatus in a cemetery.

Only one firm in the city though it knew how to make them. It got the job but then failed to meet specifications and the city scratched the effort and asked for new bids.

A FLOWER FOR DADDY — Little Michelle Walkup never knew her father, one of four men who died in a mine disaster a year ago this week and a month and a day before she was born. Mrs. Walkup said she, Michelle and her three other children sent flowers to the little church down the road Tuesday, the anniversary.

On First Anniversary of Accident

Hominy Falls Recalls Mine 'Miracle'

HOMINY FALLS, W. Va. (AP) — Little Michelle Ann Walkup may always wonder why they call the coal mine accident that killed her father and three other men the "Miracle of Hominy Falls."

The name "miracle" was applied because six men—presumed dead along with Eli Walkup and his three co-workers—were rescued after 10 cold, damp and almost hopeless days of being trapped in the flooded No. 8 mine.

★ ★ ★

Michelle's mother, Mrs. Hilda Walkup, says the family observed the first anniversary of the accident Tuesday by sending flowers to their church.

Of the six men saved, three still work in the eastern West Virginia mine near Richwood. A fourth wants to return but can't because of arthritis. Another works in a nearby mine, and the sixth has left the state.

FADING MEMORY

Joe Fitzwater, 34, one of the trapped miners, says the tragedy is now a fading memory.

"Most of the guys have forgotten about it," he said recently as he left the mine.

But the sobering memory of the 10-day ordeal still is fresh for Fitzwater, Gene Martin, 35, and Larry Lynch, 29.

★ ★ ★

They and the other three were trapped May 6 when the five-man crew Martin was working with—which included Walkup—chipped through to an adjacent abandoned water-filled mine.

The brackish water rushed in and swept Martin around a corner, heaving him into a safe spot near where the other five men were stranded. The rest of Martin's crew drowned.

5 DAYS LATER

Nearer the mine entrance, the water trapped 15 others. Rescue operations began immediately, but it wasn't until May 11—five days after the mine was flooded—that the 15 men were brought out.

Hope dimmed for the others. Rescuers knew the men still inside had little food when they went in. They had no water but that which had swept through the mine, and that was acidic. The odds were great that they'd drowned.

Still, rescue efforts pressed on because of the coal miners' creed of continuing until a man is rescued or his body found.

On May 16, 10 days after the accident, the water had receded enough to let the rescuers penetrate deeper. Someone spotted a footprint in the mud.

Beyond that were the six men who had been given up for dead, huddled asleep on higher ground.

MEN CHANGED

Recalling their ordeal, the three men said they believed they would be rescued. But those 10 terrifying days changed them.

Martin, quiet and shy, says the accident made him "appreciate things more than I did before."

He adds: "I go to church now."

Fitzwater says he doesn't "carry on like I did before," that he's "calmed down quite a bit."

"I found the Lord while we were in that mine," he said.

For Lynch, a religious man even before his brush with death, it was "the presence of God that kept us all calm while we were down there."

He says he now works "for God more because He decides my future. I'm in His hands." He says he'll stay in mining.

But Fitzwater and Martin have decided to quit mining. Fitzwater is trying to get a job with a construction firm. Martin says he's looking around for other work.

There was no decision for John Moore Jr., at 47 the oldest of the six men. His doctors say the cold and dampness he endured caused a disabling arthritic condition.

WANTS TO RETURN

Moore tried working after the accident but had to quit because of the pain in his back, shoulders and legs. Still, he wants to return "if I can, but the doctors won't sign a release yet."

Jennings Lilly, 31, never went back. He quit his job with the Gauley Coal and Coke Co. and took another mining job nearby.

Tokyo Chief Dispels Fears of His Marxism

TOKYO (UPI) — When Ryokichi Minobe was elected governor of Tokyo two years ago, newspaper headlines proclaimed that a Marxist had become the chief administrator of the world's largest city.

Conservatives in the capital city were alarmed. They had nightmares of Red flags flying over metropolitan office buildings.

★ ★ ★

Minobe's convincing victory over Masatoshi Matsusshita, a member of Prime Minister Sato's ruling conservative and pro-American Liberal Democratic party, prompted the worried prime minister to remark that "it may be impossible to cooperate with that man."

Minobe, 65, an economist and former professor, was elected April 15, 1967, with the support of Tokyo's Socialists and Communists; but he belongs to no party.

WON'T ENGAGE IN POLITICS

"Although I am a Marxist, I will not engage in politics devoted to a single party or faction," the city's first leftist governor told the Metropolitan Assembly.

After two years of Minobe's four-year term, the Red flags have not been hoisted and Minobe's administration has won the support of the majority of 60 per cent of the voters.

★ ★ ★

The emphasis is on welfare in the metropolitan budgets for fiscal 1968 and 1969. Previous administrations emphasized such things as road construction, but Minobe's administration has shifted the emphasis toward the people in general.

Critics claim Minobe supports popularity-winning policies that aid women and children and neglects long-range metropolitan planning.

APPLY CONSTITUTION

In a recent speech to the Metropolitan Assembly, Minobe said it was his intention "to apply the constitution fully to Tokyo, not so much through socialism as through postwar democracy."

Confrontations with the central government have not been as frequent as many conservatives expected, but Minobe currently is in conflict with the national administration over his desire to remove U.S. military installations from Tokyo.

★ ★ ★

Minobe continues to maintain his popularity, but Tokyo taxpayers are beginning to complain about the imbalance between their living standard and Japan's productive and economic strength.

Housing in Tokyo is costly and inadequate. A survey by Japan's economic planning agency shows that Tokyo housewives pay higher food prices in relation to per capita income than any other housewives in the world.

BEAUTY RESEARCHES CANCER — Lawana Rhea Miracle, 18, of Loyal.. Ky.. fabricated a tube-coffee can-plastic bottle ring to use in her project studying the effects of Vitamin C on bladder cancer. Her project was displayed at the International Science Fair in Fort Worth, Tex. Benzidene, an acid-produced chemical compound, was vaporized in the bottle and piped through to two white mice in the cans. The chemical caused bladder cancer in the mice, while two other mice, treated with the vitamin, contracted no cancer.

Fashion Revolution Even Reaching Into 2 Houses of Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capitol Hill, once a fortress of painstaking sartorial orthodoxy, is giving ground to the peacock revolution in men's fashions.

Congressmen's sideburns are creeping down, their suits have more shaping, and the once-standard white shirt is moving aside for rainbow hues.

★ ★ ★

At first glance the chambers still are a sea of banker's gray and blue suits with unobtrusive ties on white shirts.

But with study the exceptions pop out.

MIDEAR SIDEBURNS

Rep. M. G. Snyder, a 41 year-old sophomore Republican from Kentucky, sports midear black sideburns and a midnight blue shirt.

Democratic Rep. Richard T. Hanna, wearing a peach, spread-collar shirt, strolls past Republican Charles E. Wiggins, a fellow Californian in a yellow sport coat.

★ ★ ★

Nearby, Rep. Seymour Halpern, a Republican resplendent in full gray sideburns and moustache, chats with another New Yorker, Democrat Bertram L. Podell. Podell's pepper-and-salt sideburns reach the bottom of his ears.

Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-Ill., complements his longer sideburns with a lime shirt.

PINK ON PINK

Rep. Frank J. Brasco, D-N.Y., adds a pink-on-pink shirt and tie combination to his sideburns. Rep. William J. Scherle, R-Iowa, favors a mustard shirt-and-tie ensemble.

"It's true," remarks Rep. Peter N. Kyros, D-Maine, "sideburns are coming down and there is more color in shirts." His shirt that day was dark blue and his sideburns noticeably longer.

★ ★ ★

Younger congressmen have dropped the once-popular crew cut for longer hair styles. But none can yet match the flowing white manes of Republican Whip Leslie C. Arends of Illinois and armed services Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C.

Prominent moustaches adorn the upper lips of Reps. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., John H. Dent, D-Pa., Daniel J. Flood, D-Pa., John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., and Lester L. Wolff, D-N.Y.

★ ★ ★

Other notable sideburns belong to Reps. James C. Cleveland, R-N.H., Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., Gilbert Gude, R-Md., Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., George E. Brown Jr., D-Calif., Andrew Jacobs Jr., D-Ind., Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., Alphonzo Bell, R-Calif., Thomas M. Rees, D-Calif., and James J. Howard, D-N.J.

An economist predicts that by 1975 the service sector of the economy, now providing half the jobs, will demand almost two-thirds of the country's total manpower.

SYDNEY (UPI) — Australia's current boom is beginning to change the balance of sexes in the Australia work force at a gradual but accelerating rate.

★ ★ ★

Two significant trends toward feminine departure from hearth and home to workbench stand out in current figures:

- The total number of women actually in employment is growing much more rapidly than the total number of males.
- The number of registered unfilled jobs available for women is growing so far this year, in both actual and proportional terms, much more rapidly than the number of unfilled vacancies for males.

LEAPING AHEAD

New seasonally adjusted figures available from the Commonwealth Employment Service (CES) show unfilled job vacancies for women, on an Australia-wide basis, leaping ahead while the male trend remains relatively static.

Since January the trend in registered vacancies for women has, in fact, jumped 23 per cent while over the same period the male vacancies trend has moved up only 0.6 per cent.

★ ★ ★

This growth in unfilled jobs for women has been the largest single factor in a brisk narrowing between the pool of unemployed labor in Australia and the level of unsatisfied demand for labor as represented by job vacancies register with the CES.

The future course of this most carefully watched of economic indicators looks like it depends more and more on whether more Australian women can be enticed from waiting for the children to come home from school in suburbia into a variety of areas of employment and job-training

★ ★ ★

And this acceleration of unfilled job vacancies for women now apparent in the economy suggests underlying economic dynamics at work which will do more toward unobtrusively narrowing pay levels between men and women in like jobs in Australian than all the deliberations of committes of inquiry and tribunal judgments.

Rocket Fuel Work Pays Off in a Twist

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Back in 1955 Dr. Paul Dergarabedian and Dr. Francis Fendell of TRW Inc., Redondo Beach, Calif., went to work on fuel flow problems then besetting the Atlas missile.

The last thing they had in mind was tornadoes, or the possibility of every developing a tornado early warning system.

★ ★ ★

What concerned them was the fact that fuel in the Atlas tanks sloshed. It swirled, too—the way water does when you drain a bathtub.

The funnellike motion tended to form bubbles in the pumps and hinder precise flow-rate measurement.

THEORY DEVELOPED

So Dergarabedian and Fendell did a lot of thinking and researching. They must have found answers. In any case, today's missiles and rockets appear not to be critically affected by flow-rate difficulties.

What the two scientists could not have guessed at the time was that their investigations might lead to better understanding of another swirling phenomenon, the tornado, the most vicious of nature's sudden storms.

But after the fact, says TRW, "It was noticed that a mathematical theory developed for solving" the liquid flow problem "could also be applied to tornadoes to determine their maximum wind velocity."

The theory, according to TRW, makes it possible to predict the characteristics of a tornado funnel for the first time. Given the height of a cloud ceiling, Dergarabedian said, "We can scale the shape and length of the funnel to determine its whirling speed."

The scientists hope their studies will show what weather conditions breed tornadoes and why not all dirty looking thunderstorms turn into tornadoes.

Former President Truman Marks 85th Birthday Today

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — "I wish they would forget about my birthdays," Harry S. Truman once said. "They only make me a year older."

The nation's 33rd president is 85 today and it is turning out to be a quiet, family day at the white frame home in suburban Independence.

★ ★ ★

Although reported in good health for a man of his years, Truman rarely makes public appearances these days and plans to make no exceptions for his birthday anniversary.

★ ★ ★

"He's feeling fine," said Mrs. Truman, who is nine months younger than her husband and keeps a close eye on his activities. "He's doing a lot of walking now, and that helps."

NO BIG CELEBRATION

There are the usual congratulatory telegrams and telephone calls, but no big celebration is on the agenda.

The Trumans' daughter, Mrs. Clifton Daniel, and her four sons are not expected to come from New York because the older boys are in school.

Truman's sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, 79, said she probably would drop in from her home in nearby Grandview.

The former president is not scheduled to attend, but there still was to be the traditional birthday luncheon in his honor in a downtown Kansas City hotel. Truman last attended one of these parties in 1966.

STARTED IN 1953

Henry J. Talge, a retired industrialist, began giving the stag luncheons in 1953 when Truman returned from the White House. There were only 22 guests at the first one, but the affair has grown to number several hundred persons.

"I've told him when he reaches his 100th birthday he's on his own," Talge chuckled.

★ ★ ★

About a dozen members of the unit Truman commanded in World War I Battery D of the 129th Field Artillery Battalion, were to be on hand at the luncheon.

Truman is official custodian of an old bottle of cognac which will go to the last surviving member of the battery. There were about 85 known members still alive at last count. Still the conscientious commanding officer, Truman continues writing letters of condolence to relatives of deceased comrades.

★ ★ ★

In another ceremony today, the Independence post of the American Legion dedicated an "eternal flame of freedom" at the Truman Library. The former chief executive is one of the post's five surviving charter members.

Truman used to work at the library every day, often leaving his desk to escort tourists on a personally conducted tour or to talk to visiting schoolchildren. He handed out ballpoint pens inscribed, "I swiped this from Harry S. Truman."

Javits Sees Nixon Boosting War on Hunger if Necessary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican senator who played an important role in reversing the Nixon administration on the politically loaded hunger issue says he is confident President Nixon will supply more money if needed.

★ ★ ★

The prediction was made by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, ranking GOP member of the special Senate hunger committee, after Chairman George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said Nixon's recommendations are "a step in the right direction, but it's a very limited step."

★ ★ ★

When it came his turn Wednesday to question Secretaries Clifford M. Hardin of the Agriculture Department and Robert H. Finch of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Javits said the committee and the administration agree on objectives of a hunger program.

★ ★ ★

"We've got to be sure the bridge isn't built a yard too short," Javits said.

WAIT AND SEE

Later, a reporter asked Javits if he thinks the President's bridge is too short.

"I think we have to see," he replied, adding: "I think the disposition of the President will be to supply the yard if we need it."

Javits' statement is significant because twice in recent weeks the New York Republican has moved in to help the Nixon administration off politically dangerous hooks on the hunger issue.

When the McGovern committee was getting considerable news coverage from a field trip through the slums of Washington, Javits arranged for Hardin to announce a program to supply nutritional food packets for needy infants and mothers.

SENATE SPEECH

Last week, after McGovern sent invitations to Hardin, Finch and Budget Director Robert P. Mayo, Javits stood in the Senate and expressed the hope that widespread reports the administration had decided against a major hunger program were untrue.

"I would hope very much that it has not yet been taken and that the subject will be most carefully reviewed in terms of what should be our national priorities," he said.

★ ★ ★

Faced with the prospect of fire from the committee's Republicans and Democrats, the administration took Javits' advice. By Tuesday afternoon the President had prepared and released a special message to Congress advocating more funds to fight hunger.

The size of any new program is still far from settled.

★ ★ ★

McGovern advocates a program that would give free stamps to all families with incomes of under $80 monthly.

The Nixon proposal would give free stamps to families with incomes under $30 monthly, the figure used in a pilot program now under way in Beaufort and Jasper counties, S.C.

Project to Aid Youths on Probation Begun

A countywide drive was launched last night by Oakland County's Juvenile Court to recruit at least 400 volunteers to work with youngsters who have been placed on probation by the court.

The program was outlined to some 250 representatives of school, church, civic and service groups by Juvenile Court Judge Eugene A. Moore at a dinner at Camp Oakland in Oxford Township.

★ ★ ★

Most of these youngsters could succeed on probation if they had a continuing relationship with an individual they can trust — someone who cares," said Moore.

The majority of those placed on probation do not receive the necessary love, discipline and affection in their own home that they so badly need, Moore explained.

COULD HELP

Volunteers could help correct this lack of interest by providing their time, perhaps only a couple of hours a week, to build a relationship with the youngster, the judge said.

The volunteer probation program closely follows one that has proved successful in the Boulder-Denver, Colo., area, and another initiated in the Royal Oak area by former Judge Keith Leephouts.

★ ★ ★

Alfred B. Casey, a Juvenile Court referee who will coordinate the local program, said, "We think the volunteers can give that little extra something that the courts cannot give."

Plans are being made to train the volunteers before they are teamed with a youngster, according to Casey.

MORE APPEALS

The county's other two probate judges also made appeals to the dinner guests for help. Probate court has jurisdiction over juvenile matters.

"We're asking, pleading, with you to help us pioneer this program in the county," said Senior Judge Donald E. Adams.

Judge Norman R. Barnard said that it was his hope that as time goes along "we won't have to expand the Children's Village because of an effective probation program."

While the rise in crime among juveniles in the county is far below the national level, the case load is far too large to be handled adequately by probation officers, all the judges noted.

Persons interested in volunteering for the program can contact the Juvenile Court in the Oakland County Courthouse.

Osteopaths' State Leader Cites Growth

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Osteopathic physicians may eventually outnumber medical doctors in Michigan if the two professions continue growing at their present rates, the new president of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons predicts.

Dr. John W. Ziegler of 1184 Northover, Bloomfield Hills told the annual convention here Wednesday Michigan has been gaining about 150 osteopathic doctors a year, while the medical doctor profession has been averaging 72. The rapid growth rate and influence, he said, is also evident in the state's support of a new osteopathic college at Pontiac.

Ziegler charged the American Medical Association has been attempting to destroy the osteopathic profession through a merger.

Dr. Henry F. Olen of Grand Rapids, outgoing president of the association, said he does not forsee any serious obstacles in the adoption of the new osteopathic college bill.

It is only practical, Olen said, that if the state provides educational opportunities for medical doctors, it should provide similar opportunities for osteopathic medicine.

Milliken Gets a Big Pitch From 1st Grade

LANSING (UPI) — When the first grade class at Coldwater's Lincoln Elementary School wrote to Gov. William G. Milliken for a picture, they made sure their letter didn't get lost in the shuffle.

The request was printed in 1½-inch high letters on a 2-by-2½-foot paper, more than enough room for the 18 youngsters to make their point and sign their names.

"We know that you are our new governor," the jumbo letter said. "We want to know what you look like."

Milliken got the point. He sent the students a 2-by-1½-foot picture, with this comment:

"It is not quite as large as your letter, but is the biggest I have."

Immigration Official at Windsor Is Shot

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — A Canadian immigration official was shot today when he stepped from his booth to question a motorist at the Ambassador Bridge, which connects Windsor and Detroit.

The official, Joseph Litkowich, was reported in fair condition in Grace Hospital, where he underwent surgey for the wound in his lower abdomen.

He told customs officers who ran to his aid that he said nothing to his assailant.

Ten minutes after the incident, Windsor police arrested a 23-year-old man two miles south of the bridge. No charges were filed immediately.

Officials said he was shot with a sawed-off 22-caliber rifle.

Power Strike Talks Broken Off Again

JACKSON (UPI) — Contract negotiations between the Consumers Power Co. and the Michigan State Utility Workers Council broke off again yesterday, ending new hopes of settlement to end a 29-day-old strike.

Representatives of both sides went back to the bargaining table Monday and Tuesday after nearly a monthlong recess, but broke off talks yesterday afternoon with the deadlock unbroken.

No new negotiations were scheduled.

Renewed Peace Hopes Help

Stock Mart Continues Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued higher in fairly active trading early this afternoon, with brokers reporting renewed hopes of progress in the Vietnam peace talks giving it some of its buoyancy.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.17 at 962.77.

Gains led losses by better than 150 issues.

Brokers said the market apparently was stimulated by the news of the 10-point peace plan put forth at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris by the Vietcong. The 10-point plan calls for establishment of a coalition government and leaving to the Vietnamese people the question of dealing with Vietnam armed forces.

HELPED OFFSET PHASE

They said this seemed to encourage investors and helped the market to offset the consolidation phase that set in Wednesday, after the market's recent sharp advance. The Dow slipped 2.46 Wednesday to post its first loss of the week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 340.2, with industrials up 1.5, rails off .1, and utilities up .1.

Great American Industries was the most-active issue on the American Stock Exchange, up ⅝ at 8¼.

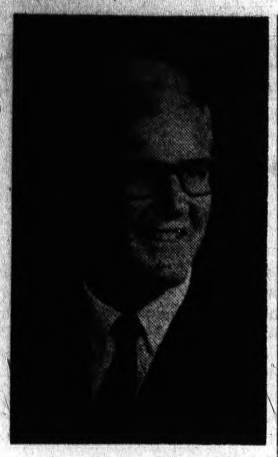
Ex-Nehru Aide Is Running Hard for Parliament Seat



LARRY BURNS

KHARAGPUR, India (AP) Dressed in immaculately white homespun cloth, V. K. Krishna Menon rose to the rostrum and delivered a fiery denunciation of the Congress party. He spoke in English, a language his enthusiastic but mainly Bengali-speaking audience did not understand.

More than 15,000 persons turned up in this West Bengal railway town, 80 miles southwest of Calcutta, to hear India's former defense minister, who is fighting, with powerful leftist support, to get back into the Indian Parliament.

★ ★ ★

Thunderous cries of "Krishna Menon Ki Jai (Long Live)," rolled over Victoria Square.

His Congress party opponent, Krishnadas Roy, a 41-year-old teacher, is trying to make political hay out of the fact that Kerala-born Menon, 72, is an outsider to Bengal, but the issue so far has not been a problem.

"I have been furthering the cause of the suffering people of West Bengal for quite some time," Menon tells his audience, observing that he campaigned for the state's Communist-led United Front that swept to power last February.

TRANSLATOR

A prominent member of the front accompanies Menon wherever he speaks, translating his remarks into Bengal.

Menon bolted the Congress party in 1967 after it denied him a ticket for the Bombay constituency he had represented for 10 years. He was defeated twice in trying to regain the Bombay seat as an independent.

At the rally here Menon was flanked by politicians, including the West Bengal chief minister, Ajoy Mukherjee, who is revered in the Midnapore area from which Menon is running.

★ ★ ★

Mukherjee heads a breakaway group from Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's nationally ruling Congress, the Bangla-Bengal—Congress, which is officially sponsoring Menon's candidacy.

To date, the former defense minister, fired by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru after the 1962 border war with Communist China, looks like the odds-on favorite to win the Midnapore special election next Sunday.

★ ★ ★

His Congress opponent has tried to revive the issue of Menon's responsibility for the 1962 debacle, but Menon has spiritedly retorted that Nehru himself absolved him from any personal guilt.

While Menon is backed solidly by the United Front, whose major constituent is the Marxist Communist party, he has declined to support its program categorically. It calls for greater autonomy for West Bengal.

"This is a state matter," says Menon, sliding off the issue. "The Lok Sabha (Parliament) is a nation forum."

In the past he has been a firm proponent of a strong central government—a proposition that is anathema to the United Front.

Teen of Week an Athlete and Scholar

Larry Burns, a busy senior at Kettering High School who has been selected Waterford Township's Teen of the Week, is a scholar and an athlete.

Larry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shufer Burns of 2056 Highfield, is a member of the National Honor Society with an A-plus scholastic average. Sponsored by the Warren Tech Center, he plans to attend General Motors Institute next fall.

★ ★ ★

Treasurer of the varsity club and vice president of the senior class, Larry is also busy as a member of the student attitude committee and the student council board. He has served as chairman of senior activities and was coordinator of Kettering's recent spirit week and senior cleanup days.

Under his athletic activities, Larry lists three years on the football and wrestling teams. He made the second all-conference wrestling team this year and is the recipient of the award for outstanding participation and achievement in physical education.

★ ★ ★

Larry's advice to others is "Honesty and respect are two essential qualities in a person and, in order to receive both, you have to possess both."

Execs Seeking Jobs for Youth

"Give a kid a job."

This is the request of about 30 Detroit area executives who are calling businesses listed in Yellow Pages directories in a job hunt for inner-city students from Pontiac, Detroit and surrounding areas.

★ ★ ★

Coordinated by the National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB) the job hunt will seek to duplicate the success of a March drive which netted 1,000 job pledges.

The campaign will feature a telephone campaign of employers in the tricounty area (Oakland, Macomb and Wayne) and a door-to-door canvass of inner-city firms.

The Michigan Employment Security Commission is behind the summer jobs program, and plans to match applicants and jobs as quickly as pledges are provided, according to Edward N. Hodges III, director of urban affairs for Michigan Bell Telephone Co., and metropolitan director of NAB.

N.Z. Surgeon Mends Colt's Cleft Palate

AUCKLAND (AP) — A New Zealand foal was eating grass two hours after a unique cleft palate operation.

Nobody attending a conference of the Royal Australasian College of Surgeons, at which the operation was described, had heard of other treatment for the trouble being successful.

★ ★ ★

When born, the valuable colt was unable to suck and had to be fed via a tube.

A plastic surgeon from Auckland's Middlemore Hospital first examined the palate with a speculum made from a length of chromium plated auto exhaust pipe.

NECK INCISION

But unlike surgeons in Britain who were reported to have tried to reach palates through the mouth, the Auckland surgeon worked from an incision made along the neck.

Montana, N.D. Governors Voice Opposition to ABM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Governors of both states chosen by the Nixon administration as initial sites for antiballistic missiles have declared themselves opposed to the controversial Safeguard program.

The two Democrats, first-term Gov. Forrest H. Anderson of Montana and fourth-term Gov. William L. Guy of North Dakota, contend the short-term economic benefits of Safeguard sites in their states wouldn't be worth the long-term problems they could cause.

And they say they don't want their states to become nuclear junk yards.

As the controversy rages in Washington, a possible referendum on the antiballistic missile —ABM—issue is building up through a special congressional election in the normally Republican 2nd District of eastern Montana where one proposed site is located.

MINUTEMAN MISSILES

That site is Malmstrom Air Force Base in Great Falls, Mont. The other proposed site is Grand Forks, N.D., Air Force Base. Both have Minuteman missiles which ABM supporters say would be protected by the Safeguard system.

Democratic nominee John Melcher, a veterinarian from Forsyth, has opposed the ABM in his contest against Republican William S. Mather, a Billings lawyer and state legislator. They seek the seat surrendered by Republican James F. Battin, now a federal judge.

Anderson, who beat GOP incumbent governor Tim Babcock last year in one of the few Democratic bright spots nationally, gave his position in a statement inserted by Rep. Arnold Olsen, D-Mont., in Wednesday's Congressional Record.

"I do not wish to see Montana become the nuclear ammunition dump—and later junk yard—of the United States," Anderson said. "I have yet to find any scientific authority outside the industrial-military complex who can offer assurance the system will operate at all."

Anderson also said "the economic gains from short-term military construction programs frequently bring long-term financial headaches.

"Communities are required to provide additional services and facilities for the families employed on the projects. When the projects are completed, the families often move away and the recently constructed real property is not taxable. The community facilities remain and must be paid for."

Guy, in a letter last week to Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he had heard the arguments that he should not oppose the ABM system because it would be good for this state's economy.

"I wish to state emphatically that there are priority needs such as education, health services and reclamation projects that would have a higher social priority and would be far better for this state's economy than the ABM system," he said.

Guy said the Safeguard promises to "BE LIKE OTHER North Dakota military facilities —obsolete before it can be built."

Although the congressional battle isn't along strict party lines, there is a partisan division in North Dakota and Montana delegations.

Democratic Sens. Mike Mansfield and Lee Metcalf plus Rep. Olsen of Montana have opposed ABM, as has Democratic Sen. Quentin Burdick of North Dakota. Republican Sen. Milton R. Young and Reps. Thomas Kleppe and Mark Andrews of North Dakota support the project.

NO MORE STRIPPING — Gypsy Rose Lee leaves the stripping these days to the off-Broadway stage and the movies. But in her heyday she could tease a standing ovation from an audience of tuxedoed admirers.

Gypsy Rose Talks About 'New' Nudity

NEW YORK (NEA) — Every night in a Broadway theater on 47th Street, a dozen or so young men and women lie on the stage and undress beneath what appears to be a long muslin tablecloth.

Then, as the orchestra plays something appropriate for slipping out of tablecloths, the cast of "Hair" rises and stands — jaybird naked — before its audience.

★ ★ ★

The patrons stiffen momentarily, blink and then nod absently to show their sophisticated upbringing. "That's what I call tasteful nudity," gulps a man in a tuxedo.

People never gulped like that when Gypsy Rose Lee walked offstage back in the 1930s and '40s. No sir. People whistled.

STANDING OVATION

In class burlesque houses like the Republic, the Irving Place and the 42nd Street Apollo, men in tuxedos stood and applauded as though they had just heard Caruso sing in "Rigoletto."

As perhaps the most famous stripteaser produced by burlesque, Miss Lee was more tease than strip. She winked, she sang seurrilous ditties and she looked absolutely scrumptious, but all her audience ever saw was a flash of flesh as she sidled off to the wings.

★ ★ ★

There were more basic, less scrupulous characters in burlesque in those days, to be sure, but none remotely challenged the attention on-stage nudity gets today. The human body has not been so discussed since the invention of the bustle.

Now 54, Gypsy Rose Lee is amused at the uproar, sort of.

NOTHING NEW

"I don't think people are seeing anything the world didn't know about," she says, smirking. "It's just that now, suddenly, people are talking about it."

★ ★ ★

As one might suspect, Gypsy Rose Lee is fairly broadminded on the subject of undress. "I saw 'Hair' in California and liked it," she said. "I was hardly aware of the nudity. It seemed like natural development in the play."

★ ★ ★

Recently, however, Miss Lee has observed nudity not so natural.

"Topless waitresses bother me," she admits. "For myself, I'd much rather see bare bosoms on the stage than at the dinner table.

'LOVELY CANTALOPES'

For one thing, it makes it difficult to order sometimes, you know . . . 'Do you have any roast breast — I mean, duck?' or maybe you find yourself discussing 'the lovely cantalopes on the menu' or something.

"One place here even has topless billiards . . . now, if that isn't hazardous, I don't know what is."

Computer-Plotters Turn Out Art

In addition to producing contour maps, various kinds of flow charts, market research graphs and the like, the computer-plotter can be used to create art.

★ ★ ★

To prove this and to "humanize" computer-plotter technology, California Computer Products sponsored an international contest which attracted hundreds of entries from all over the world.

★ ★ ★

In creating plotter art, a programmer first determines which combination of mathematical formulas for certain geometrical figures will produce a desired design.

The formulas, which may be distorted for artistic effect, are fed into a large-scale computer. After thousands of calculations, the computer sends a set of drawing instructions to the plotter.

The plotter, a mechanical arm holding a pen, moves horizontally and vetrically across a sheet of paper according to the instructions of the computer tape until the drawing is completed.

Towns' Names Prove Oddities

State Education Dept. Library Book Tells All

LANSING (UPI) — Ever wonder how your town got it's name?

One quick way to find out is ask the State Education Department. Its library section has a book with 8,000 or so answers to questions about geographical nomenclature.

★ ★ ★

The book, started by the late Theodore G. Foster, a Lansing newspaperman, tells, among other things, that:

● Bombay Mills Township, in Midland County, used to be the site of a hangout for logging railroad drifters and was derisively called "Bum's bay." Later settlers changed it to Bombay Mills.

★ ★ ★

● A town in Clyde Township, Allegan County, needed a new post office name in 1867. The postmaster jokingly shouted "bravo" at a meeting to pick a name — and it stuck.

● Freesoil Township, Mason County, is one of seven townships commemorating the winning of the civil war. Five are named for generals, and another is Victory Township.

★ ★ ★

● Rattle Run, in St. Clair County, reflects the noise of a small stream running over the rocks.

Hot Issue in Washington

Do Germs Come Out in Wash?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — You spell the name p-a-t-h-o-g-e-n-s, and they're bad for you.

These disease-causing bacteria survive the laundering process "to a frightening degree," Democratic Reps. John D. Dingell of Michigan and James C. Corman of California told a news conference.

★ ★ ★

They are doing what they can to remedy the situation, they said, and outlined this battle plan:

● The Federal Trade Commission has been asked to investigate advertising claims of "germproof" products. According to Dingell and Corman, one product for which such a claim is made inhibits growth of the bacteria but does not kill.

● The Department of Health, Education and Welfare was asked to determine whether washing machines and cleansing products really do an acceptable job of destroying bacteria.

★ ★ ★

Recent studies by the National Institutes of Health and the Agriculture Department indicate that a 30-minute cycle in water heated to 160 degrees is essential for total bacteria kill.

Education Confab

EAST LANSING (AP) — The State Education Department is sponsoring a conference Friday and Saturday at Michigan State University on ways to broaden humanities programs in Michigan schools. Some 200 experts on art, music, languages, social studies and science will attend.

California Campus Paper Plane Battle a Soaring Success

NORTHRIDGE, Calif. (AP) — The air battle lasted three hours and occupied 196 professors and students of San Fernando Valley State College.

A plane put together by Mike Tharnow, 19, was the distance winner with a flight of 135 feet, 2 inches. The longest floater was Tim Wyndham's four inches of tissue, which stayed aloft 35 seconds.

The pilot of all the paper planes Wednesday was Dotty Heitz, a 51-year-old coed and the only volunteer to climb to the top rung of the 30-foot ladder.

A new chain saw is available which weighs only 6½ pounds.

Dr. Oaks Says:

Arguments Take Special Skills

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is another in a series of weekly columns from the Oakland County Medical Society. Dr. Oakes is the collective voice of the society.

Communication is action and reaction. Hence, "how goes your argument" might be an appropriate inquiry as to a person's efforts at communicating with his neighbors.

The promise outlined here is that each person can speak for himself only after he has first restated the ideas and feelings of the previous speaker accurately. And, most importantly, the restatement must be to the first speaker's satisfaction.

In addition to restatement, the first speaker's intensity for his topic must also be reproduced accurately and to his satisfaction.

Learn to be silent in order that you may know how to speak. Tried it? No doubt about it, it's difficult, but practice helps.

A good device in conversation (for use when the adrenaline starts to run fast), is to stop the discussion. Say, "Hey chum, hold it. Did you say . . . . . "

When each combatant begins to feel the heat engendered by his failure to convince the other fellow, the action and reaction is immediately defused. Each speaker loses an unattractive attribute, namely anger, noise, etc.

Usually there is less defensiveness, fewer exaggerated statements and a decrease in critical judgment. There is a risk that he might have a logical argument.

In the heat of the moment, it often is impossible to really "see" the other person's view. Emotion reduces the vision.

Debates are staged with a jury, detached from the respective views, deciding the best argument. Personal discussions might be carried on somewhat the same way with an observer directing discussion.

However, a third-party mediator plays a dangerous role. The first person addressed may feel the mediator is favoring the other side. The opposite also may result.

★ ★ ★

The mediator, however, serves best when he attempts to clarify the issues, making sure each side fully appreciates the view of the other. The pattern of the argument can be changed, if not the content.

The concepts of handling misunderstanding by the restating method is foreign to our competitive society. The human condition is to adopt a win-lose approach to problem solving. It is foreign to offer an opponent an inch, but the meaning of the concept is to defuse emotion from the method of problem solving.

Once emotions are at least under control, real solutions are possible.

Smaller, Cheaper Kidney Machine Closer

By SCIENCE Service

A significant step toward a more compact and cheaper home kidney machine has been taken with the development of new ultrathin cellulose membranes, says Dr. Robert J. Petersen of North Star Research and Development Institute in Minneapolis. Present kidney machines are about the size of a bed and cost $4,000 to $5,000.

Previous membranes made of cellophane material were .0005 of an inch thick; the new membranes are less than a tenth that thick.

They promise more efficient waste material removal from the patient's blood and will permit greater control over water removal.

The results of three to eight years of laboratory field and outdoor control tests have demonstrated "the exceptional performance of silicone membrane as roof covering," reports the Silicone Products Department of General Eelectric Co., Waterford, N. Y. GE envisions the rubberlike silicone membrane as a replacement for asphalt in roof protection. Silicone membranes .022-inch thick can provide the same protection as two to four inches of asphalt.

★ ★ ★

Tests conducted by Ethyl Corp. Research Laboratories show that atmospheric lead does not appreciably accumulate in late types of crops.

Dr. Gary Ter Haar has found that, in crops ranging from wheat to carrots to rice, hardly any lead absorption takes place in the edible portions of vegetables and grains comprising a major part of the American diet. Some lead absorption was detected in edible parts of plants.

He Booms Sound Solution to Stressing Age Problem

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Regretably, the Pulitzer Prizes announced this week did not include an award for journalistic prescience.

WEST

Had there been such a category, I feel certain the judges would have given me at least an honorable mention for the accuracy of a prediction I made more than two years ago.

★ ★ ★

It was based on some testimony presented at a congressional hearing on the supersonic transport plane.

Supporters of the project were attempting to allay concern over possible damage from sonic booms the SST would create during overland flights.

SST OPPONENTS

They gave me the impression that SST opponents mainly consisted of a few cranks and soreheads who objected to having their composure, if not their eardrums, shattered by man-made thunderclaps.

Indeed, they discounted the menace to such an extent that I predicted someone eventually would discover that sonic booms were good for us. And now it has happened.

'SLOW AGING'

H. H. Wiggins Jr., a geophysicist who conducted a government-sponsored study, recently reported that occasional mild sonic booms "slow down deteroriation and aging of houses."

He theorized that the shaking a house receives from a sonic boom prevents structural defects from developing by relieving accumulated stress. Yes.

★ ★ ★

Heartened by having my prediction borne out by Wiggins, I shall now venture another prognostication. As I crystal ball it, future studies will show that sonic booms also slow down deterioration and aging of people.

★ ★ ★

Look at it this way: the stress that a house accumulates is really nothing compared to the stress that the owner of the house accumulates.

★ ★ ★

I've got structural defects all over my anatomy, thanks to the stresses of owning a house.

Now assume that an overstressed homeonwer is tossing fitfully in his sleep some night and is suddenly jolted out of bed by a sonic boom.

★ ★ ★

He naturally assumes that the furnace has exploded and, picking himself upon the floor, does what any homeowner would do under the circumstances. He panics.

Imagine his relief when, after chopping a hole in the wall with the fireax he keeps under his bed, he discovers he was needlessly alarmed. It should do wonders for his stress accumulation.

Some day, I predict, we'll all be saying, "Thank God for the SST."

Colony's Use of Site Is at Issue

N. M. Springs—Hippie Haven

TAOS, N.M. (AP) — Four hippies—three young men and one woman—were splashing, nude, in the hot springs pool.

What does a visitor do—look, not look, or stare 'em straight in the eye?

"Do what you like," said Peter Werneck, one of the members of the settlement. "They're not going to be bothered."

Adam Worker, another resident of the Ponce de Leon Hot Springs colony in northern New Mexico's Taos Valley, talked about the hippies' land problem.

He said the owners of the land and springs originally had agreed that the group of about 24 long-haired newcomers could live there if it cleaned up the debris and improved the land.

But the owners said they didn't promise that. The colony retained an attorney, and filed a mechanics' lein of $3,000-$5,000. Negotiations continue.

The springs once provided a going commercial operation with several concrete bottom pools.

The hippies talked wistfully of "liberating" the land where they've settled. Worker said, "It would take more than $75,000."

Where would the money come from?

"From people who are interested in liberating the land," Worker said.

Suzie Werneck, Peter's wife and cook for the group, said, "You have to work hard here just to survive."

Peter added, "The makeup of this group constantly changes. People drift in for a while, then drift along. If they don't work, we ask them, politely, to leave."

On this day, the settlement had two or three new arrivals, one of them a young man just out of three years in the Army.

"They haven't started to work yet," said Suzie. "I think we ought to set a limit—maybe two days at the most."

Dinner prepared by Suzie was simple, filling and satisfying—pinto beans with a good sauce, a salad of fresh vegetables and bread.

She washed the dishes in a small stream diverted from the hot springs.

"We have a built-in dishwasher," said Peter. "One thing you sure can't call us here is dirty hippies. We are in those springs every day."

As the sun shot its last red streak into the sky, the group gathered at the back of the panel truck Peter and Suzie call home. They had coffee and a sip of some carefully rationed "Mu" tea, a delicate blend to which the hippies ascribed strength-giving power.

The bone-chilling cold of the mountains descended and the hippies—including those who had been swimming nude—donned a variety of wraps. Old Army or Navy coats, flight jackets. Anything heavy.

Sing a Dirge for Money: It's Good Only for Burial

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Let us sing a dirge today for money. It appears to be going the way of the dodo.

BOYLE

In another generation it may become extinct.

There was a time, and not too long ago, when the three most respected things in America were motherhood, the flag and the almighty dollar.

The two most common signs you'd see in a trip across the country were "Keep Off the Grass" and "In God We Trust —All Others Cash."

The surest way to show you were a person of importance was to carry in your back pocket a bankroll big enough to choke an ox. Pretenders to wealth carried what became known as "Philadelphia bankroll"—one $5 bill wrapped around 20 $1 bills to give an impression of bulky affluence.

Today a well-to-do man rarely carries around a bankroll big enough to make a mouse gag. Anyone who flashes large bills is regarded as a crude and illiterate show-off, more to be laughed at pityingly than censured.

Money simply isn't money any more. A penny, once the bright shrine of childhood, is simply a nuisance, useful only in paying nuisance sales taxes, the bane of the present day.

Other coins have been similarly downgraded. The half-dollar piece has practically disappeared from circulation, and you can go weeks or months without seeing one.

Dimes and nickels haven't much purpose now except to be shoved into machines that dispense coffee or candy bars. The quarter has suffered the most dismal fate of all. You can hardly tell one from a nickel, and it will hardly even buy what a nickel did at one time.

If you give a quarter to a panhandler these days, he looks at you as if you had shortchanged him.

Worst of all is what has happened to the almighty dollar. It seems to be stricken by an incurable pernicious anemia, and is strength visibly ebbs year by year. About all you can buy for one is a shoeshine and a thin magazine.

Yes, let us sing a sad song today for what has happened to money. It has fallen upon evil, evil times. Purchase a suit in a department store and offer to pay for it with cash, and the salesman stares down his nose at you as if you were a hermit or an uncouth pariah. He takes the cash in his reluctant fingers as if it were infected and would soil him.

* * *

Order a meal in a name restaurant, and when the waiter brings the check he automatically hands you a pen to sign it. He thinks cash belongs to another era, too.

Money has been replaced by the charge account, the checkbook and the credit card. A man's status today depends upon the number of credit cards he carries in his wallet; if he has fewer than three you can figure he is probably receiving public assistance of some kind.

He Gets Draft Notice—Again

French Stake Claim to Ex-GI

KNOWVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The U.S. Army drafted Ralph Earl Neal Jr. and sent him to Vietnam.

Now the French army is trying to draft him. And Neal says he wants no part of it.

★ ★ ★

Neal was born 23 years ago in Marseilles, France, to a French mother and an American father. His parents brought him to the United States at the age of 3 months.

"The French claim I have dual citizenship," Neal said Tuesday.

OBLIGATED TO SERVE

Under French law, Neal is obligated to serve in the French armed forces unless he can prove he has completed his obligation to the U.S. military.

Last December Neal received a letter from the French consulate in New Orleans, ordering him to report there for his army physical.

Instead, Neal forwarded a copy of his U.S. Army discharge papers to the consulate.

★ ★ ★

This document, said the French, was unacceptable because it wasn't "properly authenticated."

★ ★ ★

Now Neal is asking Pentagon officials in Washington to send him an authenticated document of his service dates.

Hungry Nations' Gardens Growing but Still Weed-Plagued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "green revolution" is what some farm experts call new seeds and technology that they say are paving the way for chronically hungry nations to feed themselves.

Remarkable advances in food production have been reported the past two years, notable in sections of Asia where improved varieties of rice and wheat have boosted outputs of food grains.

★ ★ ★

Is the green revolution here to stay, or is it merely a flash and not a guiding light?

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin says major breakthroughs have been made and that — with some reservations — the trend toward self-sufficiency among many hungry countries is permanent.

SETBACKS INEVITABLE

But, Hardin cautions that the struggle has not been won. Setbacks are bound to occur, and until the increased food production pattern is firmly set, the United States must continue its programs to hasten self-help.

★ ★ ★

Evidence of what Hardin has referred to as "setbacks in localized areas" was indicated last week in a review of Far East agriculture by the Economic Research Service.

★ ★ ★

Total agricultural production in the Far East — excluding Red China — gained about 3.5 per cent last year, but there were some wide variations.

★ ★ ★

Drought cut into the rice crops of much of the area, including India, Cambodia, South Vietnam and South Korea. This emphasized that despite marvelous advances in seed and methods, weather quickly and frequently is the deciding factor.

U.S. OPPOSITION

Recently, the National Association of Wheat Growers, alarmed at lagging U.S. exports, particularly shipments of wheat under Food for Peace, proposed that the United States de-emphasize programs aimed at making deprived countries agriculturally self-sufficient.

★ ★ ★

Instead, the association proposed that the United States help boost the earning power of people in those countries so they could buy more food — which could be supplied, in part, by American farmers.

★ ★ ★

Last week the department released comments by Hardin in which he rejected the proposal for a change in U.S. food-aid policy.

Hardin noted that the food situation for some poor countries has improved from the low levels of the early 1960s, a period many experts felt heralded world famine.

"But let's not decide so soon that there has been a permanent change in the world food situation," Hardin said in his statement. "Shortages can appear again. My offhand impression is that we are not putting too much effort into self-help, in the economic development context."

Hardin said in an interview that farmers in developing nations probably will have to produce larger crops consistently before those countries can build the storage and processing facilities needed to handle the extra production.

★ ★ ★

"It's pretty daggone hard to convince people that they ought to spend money to build elevators and roads for trucks to move stuff to market when they haven't seen it yet," Hardin said.

"You just can't do it. You've almost got to create the surplus and the need, the desire for the stuff, then you can get the investment to move it to market."

ARGUMENT CONTINUES

Thus, in Hardin's view, farm production in many hunger areas has not improved to the extent that U.S. food-aid programs can be scrapped or shifted drastically.

Economists argue on both sides of the fence whether agricultural development must come before massive capital investment and industrialization.

Needy Students Can Use Barley to Pay Tuition

SASKATOON, Sask. (AP) — About 30 needy rural students at the Saskatoon campus of the University of Saskatchewan will be able to pay next year's tuition with barley.

The idea originated with last year's student council secretary, Albert Chambers, who approached Prof. J. M. Bell, head of the animal science department. Bell said his department could use about 15,000 bushels of barley for feed.

★ ★ ★

The university board of governors approved the plan last week.

★ ★ ★

"I just wish we could do it for 3,000 students, not just 30," the university vice president, Dr. L. I. Barber, said.

MSU Will Expand Medical Classes

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University reports it will enlarge its first- and second-year medical classes from 26 to 30 students each next Semptember.

"While the number is small, it represents a 15 per cent increase per class for us," said Dr. Andrew Hunt Jr., dean of the college of human medicine. "It means eight more students will have a chance to learn medicine."

★ ★ ★

The student increase, Hunt said, is being made without an increase in budget or resources.

Some Parochial Schools See Hope in Shared-Time Programs

By The Associated Press

Some parochial schools in Michigan are finding at least temporary financial salvation through a so-called shared-time program with public schools.

Under such a program parochial pupils take such secular courses as shop, physical education, home economics, arts, music and science at a public school for half a day, while receiving instruction in such subjects as English, religion, reading, spelling and social studies in parochial classrooms.

★ ★ ★

Some parochial schools do not have adequate equipment for such subjects as shop, home economics, science and some of the other subjects for which their students switch over to public schools.

Two Monroe Catholic junior high schools have had a shared-time program and a third has announced its intentions of adopting a similar schedule for the 1969-70 school year.

GRAND RAPIDS

At least one Grand Rapids Catholic junior high has a similar program.

A school executive of the Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit reported in 1968 there were then 28 Catholic junior and senior high schools in the eight-county archdiocese which operated on a shared-time basis.

★ ★ ★

Dr. M. J. Stelmachowicz, superintendent of Detroit's two Lutheran high schools, said his faith is "not opposed to the (shared-time) concept, but doesn't push it."

There are some instances, Dr. Stelmachowicz said, where Lutheran pupils "who want to take a course we don't have" are given time out to take it in public schools, and Lutheran pupils take driver-training at public schools, but after their parochial schools close for the day.

FEELING PINCH

While conceding his schools "feel the pinch of an inflated economy," Dr. Stelmachowicz said he did not believe they "have quite as acute financial problem as the Catholics," adding that "we are used to paying salaries" of teachers and religious instructors.

Because of what it says are financial difficulties, the Detroit Catholic archdiocese has announced it will close 21 schools and consolidate four others at the end of the current school year.

★ ★ ★

Catholic spokesmen say a declining number of women entering the church's various orders as nuns and a decrease in teaching priests are major causes of the financial pinch Catholic schools are experiencing.

To replace the formerly unpaid religious instructors, Catholic schools are having to turn to lay teachers, who, they say, are demanding salaries and fringe benefits similar to those of public school teachers.

'LIMITED SUCCESS'

Adrian Catholic Central High, which tried a limited shared-time program for a couple of years is among those which it has been announced will be closed.

Dr. Richard Wilson, principal of Adrian High, described the shared-time program with Catholic Central as "a limited success," and said students did have "some difficulty in deciding which school to identify with."

★ ★ ★

At Grand Rapids 70 junior high pupils from the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic School go across the street to Riverview Junior High each afternoon for physical education, mathematics, science, shop and home economics.

The Grand Rapids program was inaugurated four years ago.

'FINE RESULTS'

"The children go over to Riverview and they are mixed right in with the regular classes," said Sister Marie Emile, Immaculate Heart principal. "As a result we've had fine cooperation and fine results."

There are 67 nonpublic pupils among some 500 from other high schools who are enrolled in courses at Grand Rapids' experimental Educational Park, to which pupils are bused.

★ ★ ★

Specialized courses such as auto mechanics, electronics and interior house design are offered there.

Surveying sentiment of pupils taking part in Monroe's shared-time program early this year, the Monroe Evening News reported it got such comments as: "A unique experience . . . School is more exciting this year . . . Chance to meet more people . . . I think the shared-time program is really great."

Seventh and eighth grade pupils from St. Mary's and St. Michael's Catholic Schools currently are participating in the Monroe program, and St. Joseph's has announced it will join in next fall.

St. Mary's has 130 pupils and St. Michael's 116 participating. St. Joseph's expects to have 60.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Harold Rapson, superintendent of Monroe Public Schools, said he was unable to estimate offhand how much the program had added to public school costs, but described himself as "very happy" with the program.

He said public schools "have a responsibility to take care of anyone applying" adding that his system had added sufficient personnel to keep class sizes and pupil-teacher ratios where they were previously.

$325 PER STUDENT

He said it costs approximately $650 per pupil per year to operate Monroe schools and said any switching from nonpublic schools for a half - day would represent an added cost of approximately $325 each, or half the full-time pupil cost.

★ ★ ★

Sister Harriett, principal of St. Michael's, said: "I see participation in such programs as a partial answer to some of the problems facing us today."

★ ★ ★

Sister Angelique, principal of St. Mary's, said: "The junior high program has been most beneficial for our students, from an educational and social, as well as financial, viewpoint.

"Students have been given a perspective of another school system, teachers, curriculum and facilities. The additional classes have given students an awareness of their potential.

3 New Jersey Cities Not Out of Trenches in War on Rats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal funds for a war on rats are creeping through one state's bureaucratic pipeline while grants made directly to cities in 10 other states already are paying off in carcasses.

Progress in the 12 cities getting direct funds ranges from organizational activity in Cleveland, to wiping out 75 per cent of the rats in one area of Nashville, Tenn.

★ ★ ★

But three New Jersey cities, inlcuding riot-scarred Newark where rats have been an issue for years, still are dickering with the state health department over $2.8 million in federal funds.

"I'm an old-line bureaucrat," declares Dr. Oscar Sussman, New Jersey's chief of veterinary medicine and the man who holds the purse strings.

PART OF $15 MILLION

"If there's a holdup it's because they haven't followed the guidelines we've put down," Sussman adds. "We don't want the money going down a rat hole."

★ ★ ★

The New Jersey money is part of $15 million Congress appropriated last year for rat control, which only began to filter down to the 12 cities and the states of New Jersey and New York in January.

★ ★ ★

The funds were authorized in a bill that finally passed in December 1967 after a year of sometimes derisive debate, but Congress did not appropriate any money until fiscal 1968.

★ ★ ★

Under the bill, only a small part of each grant actually is intended for killing rats. Guidelines call for major efforts in cleaning up neighborhoods and removing nests and food sources.

BLANKET APPLICATIONS

New York and New Jersey chose to submit blanket applications and handle the money on a statewide basis.

★ ★ ★

Although funds have moved slowly through the New York pipeline, they have now reached most of the local programs. Federal officials also point out that New York state has been pumping millions of dollars into its own successful rat program.

★ ★ ★

Officials in Newark, Trenton and Hoboken, N.J., eager to get their hands on the money, are reluctant to talk publicly about their delays.

★ ★ ★

Private discussions with these officials and with Sussman, however, indicate two issues are at the center of what has developed into a near-classic case of bureaucratic delay.

ATTITUDE CHANGE SOUGHT

One issue is whether to kill rats or go after the situations causing the problem.

"We can kill a lot of rats with $2 million, but we don't want to just kill rats. We want to change people's attitudes," says Sussman. "We want to make sure a rat-feeding program doesn't start again as soon as we're through."

★ ★ ★

The second issue involved in the New Jersey delay concerns whether traditional city agencies will run the program rather than being administered under a new approach—Model Cities.

Model Cities planners want to incorporate the rat-killing project in their own wide-ranging program, which is aimed at rehabilitating slum neighborhoods, including riot-torn areas.

"They've limited the program to the Model Cities neighborhoods, and for one thing that's not where the rats are," said Newark's public health officer, Dr. Aaron Haskins. "For another, all the rats over there are going to run away to the rest of the city."

Under the Model Cities approach, the money goes directly to the cities and bypasses the state.

★ ★ ★

"This is a real problem—whether or not the money should go directly to the cities or through the states without the federal government playing one off against the other," Sussman says.

★ ★ ★

Model Cities officials in New Jersey say the money would have reached them much quicker had it gone straight to the cities with whom they say they have been able to work well.

★ ★

"This model cities isn't so much," Sussman says. "We should make existing groups do their jobs instead of setting up new ones."

The trouble, he adds, is with "bureaucrats who don't do any work. For 50 years we've had housing inspectors who haven't done a thing.

Pueblo Crew Tax Break Passage Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's decision not to bring disciplinary action in the Pueblo case apparently clears the way for House action on a bill to give the ship's crew a tax break.

A pending bill would waive income tax on the pay of enlisted men and on the first $100 monthly pay of officers for the 11 months they were held captive in North Korea.

★ ★ ★

Navy sources said some men found themselves in financial difficulty because they received lump-sum payment upon their release, without income tax withholding, and spent the money promptly.

The bill was approved by the House Ways and Means Committee more than two weeks ago, but was held up because of a feeling that if the Navy took action against the men the measure would have been in trouble. Plans now are to bring it to the House floor next week.

Prestige Medical Schools Vigorously Seeking More Negroes

Many of America's prestige medical colleges are vigorously seeking to enroll more Negroes, now outnumbered by white students 100 to 1.

The schools, all with outstanding reputations and long lists of applications, are using various means of seeking out the Negro student. Some get help from leaders in the Negro communities, some use teams of recruiters, and some use special summer research programs.

★ ★ ★

Others offer financial assistance, through scholarships and loans, for the long, costly journey to an M.D. degree.

Others are providing scholastic help to Negroes with academic deficiencies by easing the rigid admission requirements, by offering enrichment programs and insuring tutoring assistance.

WAITED IN PAST

In the past, these medical schools had been content to wait for the application from a qualified Negro.

Few applied. Even fewer were admitted.

★ ★ ★

As a result, the Negro became an almost solitary figure on the medical college campuses, in the North and in the South.

For instance, there are five Negroes in an enrollment of 500 at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School; four among the 589 medical students at the University of Texas; three in the 330-member student body at the Duke University Medical School.

LESS THAN 1 PCT.

Negroes also comprise less than 1 per cent of the enrollment in the medical colleges at the University of Michigan, at Stanford, and at Johns Hopkins.

A survey of leading medical schools, embracing both state-supported and privately endowed institutions, disclosed, however, a new, determined effort to increase the number of Negroes studying to be physicians.

Dr. William Cregar, associate dean of the Stanford Medical School, says it has become clear that "minority race students may have a lot of brains and a lot of desire, but because of disadvantaged secondary schooling they have not been able to meet the criteria of grades and performance in the college admission tests.

"What we have come to recognize," Cregar continued, "is that this does not mean they don't have the ability to do well. And now when we admit them to Stanford Medical School, we are not going to desert them in a sink-or-swim way. We are going to give them every tutoring help."

FACE APATHY

The dean of the Harvard University Medical School, Dr. Robert H. Ebert, said the nation's medical colleges must overcome "apathy, cultural differences, and economic deprivations to convince Negroes they have a bright future in medicine."

Dr. Louis W. Sullivan, a Negro and hematologist at Boston University, said the reason for the small number of Negro students "is that we are not getting applications from black premedical students. We must let the black student know that Boston University and other New England medical schools are very interested in considering their applications."

★ ★ ★

Dr. Edward S. Cooper, also a Negro and a member of the admissions committee at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, agreed it is not easy to recruit Negro students, "but an organized effort, as is now under way here, will help in the future."

"Our main goal is to facilitate admission of blacks and assure graduation. We don't want to enroll blacks and have them flunk out in a year or two," Cooper said.

CAUGHT IN VISE

Medical college administrators generally agreed that the Negro has been caught in the vise of insufficient funds and inadequate secondary education and that recruitment and assistance must be directed to an easing of these pressures.

At Harvard, faculty members have pledged more than $40,000 in financial support of a project for disadvantaged students.

★ ★ ★

And a new program has been launched to recruit the disadvantaged high school pupil, whether he is prepared to enter the medical school or not.

Promising students with academic problems are being sent to Harvard College for as long as a full year before entering medical school.

The University of Pennsylvania has enlisted the help of the National Student Health Association, the Medical Committee for Human Rights and the Quakers, in the recruitment of Negro students.

"So far we have a list of about 300 black students who are interested in medicine, Cooper said. "We have written letters to all of them and invited an application.

★ ★ ★

"Also," Cooper said, "32 boys and girls are coming in from high schools in predominantly Negro neighborhoods to work with members of our faculty. These are extraordinary, bright youngsters and we hope we can interest them in the health sciences."

The Boston University School of Medicine has reserved two full four-year scholarships for Negro students. Recently, the school invited 21 predominantly Negro colleges, mostly in the South, to select a premedical student for a visit to Boston and a firsthand look at the opportunities of studying medicine at the university.

The University of Chicago Medical school has sent teams of recruiters to southern colleges to seek out qualified and interested applicants.

The University of Michigan started a special research program in the summer of 1968 to bring Negro students to the campus. Negro undergraduates work in one department of the medical school with a doctor who is engaged in research work. The full cost of the program is paid by the university.

Dr. George De Muth, associate dean of the Michigan medical school, said, "Obviously, what we want to do is interest them in coming to the medical school. We had 15 Negroes in the program last summer, and we have hopes we'll get at least five as medical students."

Dr. David E. Rogers, dean of the Johns Hopkins medical faculty, said "vigorous efforts" are being made to recruit Negro students.

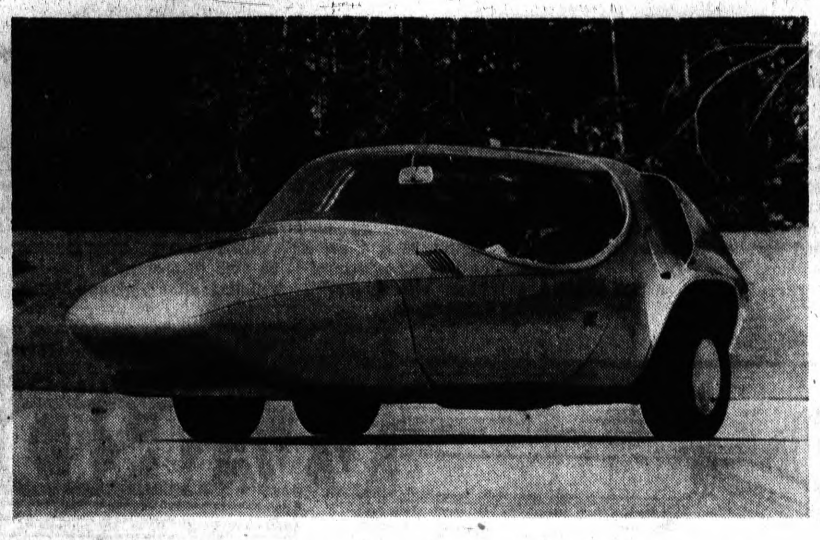
ADVANCED BATTERIES — GM secretary Elsie Goetzinger shows off one of the advanced experimental electric batteries being investigated by scientists at the General Motors research laboratories. This zinc-air battery pack — at 110 pounds — performs as well in the golf cart as lead-acid batteries weighing 300 pounds.



THREE WHEELED VEHICLE — The 511 commuter vehicle drives through a test area at the GM Technical Center. The three-wheeler, gasoline-powered vehicle features exceptional stability, fuel economy and maneuverability.

GASOLINE-ELECTRIC HYBRID — This vehicle is one of three experimental 512 series of special-purpose cars developed by General Motors engineering staff.

GM Demonstrates 5 Experimental Special-Purpose Vehicles

WARREN — Five experimental special-purpose vehicles for limited urban transportation were demonstrated here yesterday as part of the General Motors Progress presentation.

Two of the small sized cars were gasoline powered, one electric powered and a fourth was driven by a hybrid gasoline-electric system. The fifth was a mock-up body and chassis with a hybrid system power plant.

★ ★ ★

Design and development of the four operational vehicles was directed by GM Engineering Staff in collaboration with GM Styling Staff and Delco-Remy Division. The fifth, XP883, was initiated by the GM styling staff.

The five cars were included in three separate projects. One was the three-car 512 series powered by gasoline, electric and hybrid units.

3-WHEEL SUSPENSION

The other, the 511 car, featured a three-wheel suspension — single wheel in front and two in the rear — with a conventional four-cylinder engine.

The fifth, XP883, is designed as a special-purpose two-plus-two passenger commuter vehicle to accommodate a hybrid gasoline-electric power system with front-wheel drive.

★ ★ ★

Following is a summary description of each of the 512 series, the 511, and XP883:

● 512 Hybrid gasoline-electric — This vehicle has a 50-inch wheelbase, 66-inch length, 56-inch height and 52-inch width. Curb weight is 1,250 pounds.

Construction is a combination of aluminum panels and tubular steel frame. For easy access it has a front canopy door and two-passenger bench seat.

★ ★ ★

The hybrid's power system consists of a 12-cubic-inch gasoline engine coupled with a series DC electric motor through an electromagnetic or hybrid mode.

In the hybrid mode, the peak horsepower is 13.8, top speed is 35 miles per hour, and the car accelerates from 0 to 30 miles per hour in 16 seconds. Its range at 30 miles per hour in the electric mode is 5.2 miles. It is approximately 150 miles in the hybrid mode with three gallons of gasoline.

● 512 electric — The exterior body is fiberglas with a steel-chassis floor pan and roll bar.

Wheelbase is 52 inches, over-all length is 86.3 inches and width 56 inches. Curb weight is 1,250 pounds with an 84-volt power battery pack.

The car's range at 25 miles an hour is 58 miles. At 30 miles ar hour, the range is 47 miles.

● 512 Gasoline vehicle — Of the three-car experimental 512 series, the gasoline-engine version emphasizes the sporty appearance. It is a roadster with integral plastic construction, 52-inch wheelbase, 86.3-inch over-all length, 55-inch width and 51.8-inch height. It weighs 950 pounds.

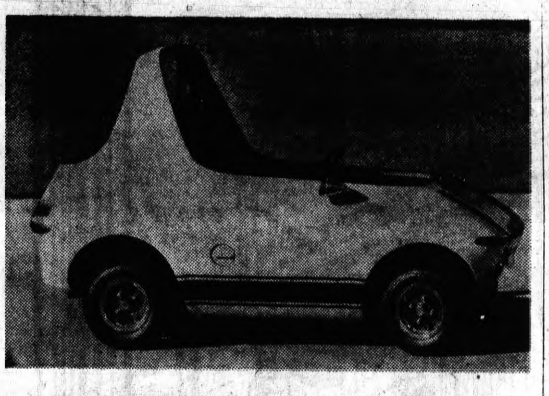
The power source is a 19.6-cubic-inch, two-cylinder 12-horsepowr aluminum engine with 11-1 compression ratio.

Top speed is 45 miles per hour and the car will accelerate from 0 to 30 miles per hour in 18 seconds. With a four-gallon fuel tank, its range is approximately 280 miles.

● 512 Commuter — The 511 commuter vehicle with its three-wheel suspension is a departure from conventional automotive practice. A special-purpose car, it is designed to transport two people from suburbs to downtown offices at freeway speeds.

The three-wheel design — one in front, two in the rear — provides excellent stability and maneuverability. It reduces weight, simplifies steering and allows for an uncomplicated "backbone" type of frame and makes possible a streamline shape.

The rear-mounted engine is a four-cylinder 66 cubic-inch Opel capable of 67 horsepower at 6,000 r.p.m. The transmission is a three-speed automatic torque converter type unit.



UTILIZES NEW SYSTEM — The 512 gasoline vehicle is powered by a 19.6-cubic-inch, two-cylinder, 12-horsepower aluminum engine with an 11-to-1 compression ratio. The car features an automatic transmission operating on the variable ratio V-belt principle with a centrifugal clutch, the first use of this system on an American vehicle.

Miniature Pigs Sub for Astronauts in Nausea Tests

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI) — Hanford miniature swine, a special strain of pigs developed for research, are being used in a search for a way to guard astronauts against nausea in outer space.

According to Dr. Maurice F. Sullivan, Battelle-Northwest Laboratories manager of physiology, astronauts run the risk of radiation exposure, and that risk increases as the length and duration of manned space missions increases.

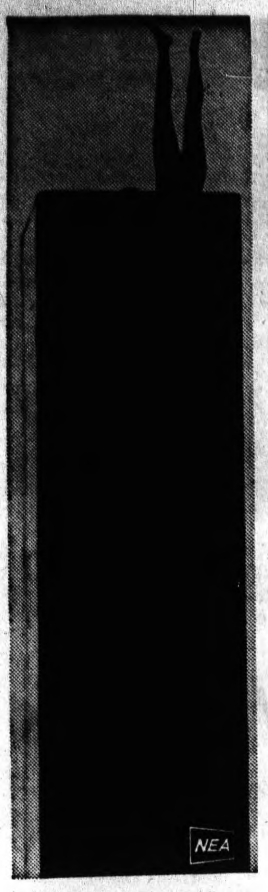
"A radiation dose that might not otherwise be harmful could be so in space because it produces such effects as nausea or vomiting which are only temporarily incapacitating under normal conditions, but are exceedingly difficult to control in a weightless atmosphere."

Consequently, Battelle-Northwest is conducting a study aimed at determining the specific regions of the body which must be shielded from radiation and the drugs that can be used to prevent nausea and vomiting after exposure. These shields and drugs, of course, must not impair performance.

Hanford's little pigs are being used in the study because they are more like people than some people — from a physiology standpoint, at least.

These swine are similar to man in diet and circulatory and digestive tracts. Their vomiting reflex is like that of man and they also have similar physical responses to stress. In fact, they even develop ulcers like man does.

About 300 of these pigs are being given varying amounts of ionizing radiation in various regions of their bodies. Those which are expected to vomit easily or show early signs of nausea are treated prior to exposure with anti-emetic drugs, which inhibit vomiting.



WHOOPS!—Motorists crossing the 12th Street viaduct in St. Louis were confronted with this unsettling sight — a pair of legs protruding from one of the pillars that is to support a highway overpass. On closer inspection, it was learned the legs belonged to a manikin left by some prankster.

Reds Return Sofia Cloister to the Church

SOFIA (UPI) — With the naming of the vicar of Sofia, Archimandrit Joan, as abbot, the world famous Bulgarian Rila Cloister is back in the hands of the Orthodox Church.

Thousands of worshipers are again gathering at the national shrine which was seized by the government shortly after the Communist take-over in World War II, church authorities said.

The thousand-year-old cloister was built at the time of, or shortly after, the death of St. Ivan Rilski and was a symbol for Bulgarian nationalism through numerous invasions and some five centuries of Ottoman rule.

One of the largest cloisters in the Balkans, Rila is a huge square building which can house more than 2,000 people.

An ancient church stands in the monastery yard next to a stone battle tower built in the 14th century by the then district chief Khrelyu.

NATIONAL MUSEUM

After World War II, the shrine was turned into a national museum in which visitors could admire the cloister's many art treasures.

The government first spoke of turning the cloister back to the church during the visit to Bulgaria of the Orthodox leader Patriarch Athenagoras I in the fall of 1967.

★ ★ ★

The newly named abbot, Archimandrit Joan, was a monk in Rila for some years before it was siezed by the government. He served in recent years as assistant to Patriarch Kyrill of Sofia and was observer for the Bulgarian Orthodox Church at the Second Vatican Council.

During the time the clositer was in government hands, it was completely restored, and running water and central heating were installed.

At the same time, shops, a new hotel and first-class roads were added, making life easier for the clositer monks and tourists alike.

Montreal's Gangland War Shows No Sign of Letup

MONTREAL (AP) — Forty-one persons have died violently over the past 15 months in gangland warfare that has made Montreal resemble Prohibition Chicago with a French-Canadian accent.

Police fear innocent bystanders will get caught in the middle one day if the gun battle for control of Montreal's underworld does not stop. But there is no sign of a letup.

The latest rub-out came before dawn Sunday.

Robert Allard, 24, described by police as a member of a protection racket, was gunned down from a passing car while Montreal detectives looked on.

The detectives had been keeping watch on Allard, who was said to have defied the underworld establishment for two years. Three men were arrested after a machine-gun battle with police who swarmed into the area.

"One of these days you're going to have a pitched battle downtown, and before the shooting stops there will be seven or eight more added to your list," a worried detective said. "Some of them will be innocent bystanders."

The rampage—worst in Montreal's history—began Feb. 23, 1968, when the bullet-riddled body of Raymond Bonefant was found in an abandoned car. At about the same time, a workman near St. Lazare, 30 miles southeast, found the body of Bonefant's pal, Michel Marleau, sprawled in a ditch.

Subsequent killings came in nightclubs, homes, parking lots, alleys and taverns. Scores of other victims have been wounded by gunfire, knifed and beaten.

DDT Fight May Affect Nation

Battle to Ban Pesticide Rages in Wisconsin

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Silent Spring" of the late achel Carson in 1962 is turning to a noisy clamor over sticides in Madison, Wis., in 69.

With a battery of scientists stifying against the use of rtain strong pesticides, and me members of the U.S. nate supporting them, even e Department of Agriculture knowledges that the Madison earings could be DDT's Dien ien Phu, or at least the ormandy beachhead for the onservationists.

Sought in Madison by a rivate group called the nvironmental Defense Fund is statewide ban against the use f DDT.

If achieved, both sides agree could have widespread effects n the nationwide use of the esticide, long under attack by onservationists who claim it is filtrating earth's total environment and threatening nimal reproductivity.

ISING COSTS SEEN

Arrayed against them are rong farm groups and farm hemical companies, who say e harmful effects of DDT are xaggerated and that banning it ould raise food prices conderably.

"It is my opinion that the tail cost of fruits and egetables would increase by 50 er cent or more with a ibstantial restriction in sticide use," said Duane aldwin, president of the ichigan Agricultural Conrence.

"Animal products would very on increase drastically in rice as the cost of feed for ilk and meat animals adanced."

"We're not antipesticide," id Dr. Charles Wurster of the niversity of New York at ony Brook, a member of the nvironmental Defense Fund EDF). "We're opposing the ore 'persistent' ones such as DT. There are plenty of sticides that can be used efectively in its place."

ETAIN POTENCY

"Persistence" in pesticides eans those chemicals which tain their potency indefinitely. herein lies the complaint about e chlorinated hydrocarbons, of hich DDT is a member.

DDT residue has been found cow's milk, fruits and, in one elebrated case, in salmon. prayed on a field or city park kill insects, its residues can e washed by rain into a lake nd remain there for 10 years.

Taken in by a fish, which ay then be eaten by a bird of rey, it then becomes an active esidue within the bird.

What happens to the bird was art of EDF's scientific resentation in earlier hearings Madison this year, in linking DT residue with the decreased eproductive capabilities of irds of prey.

Commentary From Foreign Press

'Profs Must Rally Students to Repel Strife in U.S.'

LONDON (AP)—A British newspaper said American professors and teachers have to rally the mass of students to repel campus violence or face the end of the university.

"It is a challenge to the academics," said the London Times. "The very fact that Gov. Reagan of California is building a new political reputation on denouncing student violence should be the best indication of that."

Other views about America from abroad this week concerned President Nixon's first 100 days in office and the appointment of Armin H. Meyer, a career diplomat, as ambassador to Japan.

On Nixon, the London Financial Times said: "It is no longer enough to appear cool and efficient . . . From now on Mr. Nixon will increasingly be judged by results."

Meyer's appointment to the Tokyo post was a surprise because he has no diplomatic experience in Japan or any other Southeast Asian country. The Osaka City newspaper Sankei Shimbum wasn't surprised.

Fuji Kamiya, a university professor, wrote: "The United States must have judged that the age has arrived when (it) no longer has to rely on ambassadors who invoke emotional familiarity among the Japanese."

Parade for Beauty

REED CITY (AP)—Lisa Brenner of Reed City, who will represent the state of Michigan in the Miss USA Contest at Miami Beach, Fla., will be honored by a parade through her hometown Friday. Miss Brenner, a student at Ferris State College, leaves next Thursday for Florida and the national competition.

SOME MAMA! — Actress Sophia Loren, who gave birth to a baby boy late last year, seemed in good shape as she arrived for the opening of a new play in Rome recently.

Ceylon Doing a Balancing Act With Aid

COLOMBO Ceylon (AP) — This is a country where East meets West and both bring along their checkbooks.

The Russians recently completed a flour mill which is currently refining wheat imported from Australia.

★ ★ ★

Soon the mill is expected to switch to American wheat, thereby making possible a reduction in the amount of flour provided as aid from the United States. Flour imports from America last year totaled 150,000 tons, triple the Soviet mill's capacity.

The Russians have also built a tire factory to use Ceylon's own rubber and a steel mill to handle ore imported from India.

OTHER CONTRIBUTORS

Canada has completed a multimillion-dollar airport. Other contributors of foreign aid include both East and West Germany, Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Communist China helps meet Ceylon's perennial food shortage by selling 200,000 tons of rice annually at prices well below those prevailing on the world market. Ceylon, in return, sells rubber at favorable rates to Peking.

Only India, with a population 50 times Ceylon's 11 million, has such a wide range of nations involved in aid projects. But India, due to its bitter border dispute with China, lacks Ceylon's friendly trade relations with Peking.

The successful balancing act between East and West is regarded generally as a major triumph for Prime Minister Dudley Senenayaka, but he has been denounced by his opposition as friendly to Western "imperialists."

AID CUT OFF

Senenayake's predecessor, Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike, was cut off from U.S. aid in 1962 after seizing the assets of British and American oil companies. Senenayake got the program restored after working out a settlement with the oil companies.

"A poor country such as Ceylon must take help wherever it can be found," Senenayake said in an interview. "But we have done it without giving up any of our independence."

Although the variety of foreign aid is unmatched by any other country, most of the projects are small, and the impact on Ceylon's underdeveloped economy does not appear to have been large.

Pacifist's Life Has Put Duty to Mankind Above Duty to U.S.

SALINE (UPI) — Throughout his life, Harold Studley Gray felt his duty to God and mankind was greater than his duty to America.

In a federal prison and for four years in China, he lived his visions with a quiet, intense dignity.

★ ★ ★

Thirty-seven years ago, Gray turned his dreams of peace and plenty to the land. He founded a cooperative farm in this fertile, wooded corner of southeast Michigan 25 miles west of Detroit.

There, he provided the needy with food, work and shelter, and they all lived a form of cooperative socialism.

VISIONS FADING

But today, Gray's visions are fading. Sometime next month, his Saline Valley Farms will be sold to the Teamsters Union, if the members of James R. Hoffa's Local 299 in Detroit approve a $2 per month dues increase to buy the farm for $800,000.

The Teamsters plan to turn the 650 acres of rolling pasture, ponds and streams and woods into a recreation and retirement haven for the local's 19,000 members.

★ ★ ★

"I have mixed emotions about selling," says Gray, now 75.

"As a life, I have no regrets for having tried it. When I think of the alternative of a life in banking and Birmingham, I'm doubly glad."

PROTESTED DRAFT

Gray was one of the nation's early pacifists. On April 27, 1918, he attracted national headlines when he and 70 other young men at Camp Custer in Michigan declared themselves conscientious objectors.

Although he was charged with refusing to take the parade ground, the judge advocate demanded the death penalty.

★ ★ ★

But four days after the armistice was signed, he was sentenced to life at hard labor. Gray was pardoned and freed after 11 months in federal prison.

While working with German prisoners of war in England during World War I, Gray wrote to his mother, "For my part, I am a conscientious objector from the word go. They may shoot me if they like, but they won't make me fight."

AGAIN REFUSES

In 1942, in a letter to then Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle, Gray again refused to register under the Selective Service Act, although he was 47.

"I am conscientiously opposed to all war," he wrote. "The backbone of war is conscription. This is made possible by an unfortunate sense of loyalty that demands allegiance to a part of mankind at the expense of the whole.

★ ★ ★

"For me, conscription represents a dividing line between my allegiance to God and my allegiance to the state. I believe that a man's highest duty is to live up to the light as he sees it."

Unwilling to jail a 47-year-old pacifist, federal agents collected the information they needed from Gray's friends, and filled out the forms themselves.

TAUGHT IN CHINA

In 1922, Gray went to China, and having earned bachelor's and master's degrees at Harvard, taught economics for four years.

He returned to the United States when civil war ravaged China.

★ ★ ★

"I was at loose ends for a couple of years — didn't know what to do," he said. "I lived in Birmingham and was mildly in social life. I was never cut out for that."

All the time, Gray had had the vision of a cooperative farm.

DREAM CRYSTALLIZED

"I was appalled at the great unemployment during the depression — the lines of unemployed I saw outside of city hall — and it crystallized my determination to go ahead."

★ ★ ★

"It was my answer for a few families who were really down and out," he said. "It was my alternative to the capitalist system, which I despised. My idea was not to destroy it, but substitute something better, a cooperative system."

Gray tried to run the farm on a self-sufficient basis. But only once "were our books actually in the black. Every year we ran a deficit of $2,000 to 10,000."

Throughout that time, he took in "fellow travelers" — Socialists, Republicans, Democrats. "One of my closest friends was Norman Thomas," the late Socialist leader, he said.

"The people around Saline thought I was a little odd. But I never had any trouble with my neighbors," he said. "More to the point, I never had any trouble taking in two Nisei (Japanese-American) families" at the height of American hostility to the Japanese in the mid-1940s.

Farming operations dwindled and stopped for good in 1952. The livestock and equipment were sold.

Gray began to rent to outsiders. Area church groups, scouts and a nursery school used the facilities.

Now, the Teamsters say they'll continue the community activities if they buy the farm, as they expect.

As for Gray, he'll move to Interlochen in northern lower Michigan.

"And I'll do some more writing, perhaps an extension of "Character Bad," his 1934 book on pacifism.

What influence his past and future work may have on the present generation of protesters Gray doesn't know.

"I haven't very much sympathy with the protests of some conscientious objectors these days," he said. "I question how constructive they are.

"When I got out of prison, I tried to find a substitute for what I didn't like. I tried to build."

Current Books

THE GREAT AIR WAR by Aaron Norman ($10, Macmillan): Comprehensive account of the men and battle planes of World War I, complete with illustrations.

This book claims to be the "first comprehensive account" of the aerial fighting of World War I. It isn't, of course. Comprehensive works on the same subject have been published for the past decade.

★ ★ ★

However, the book, written in readable and fast-moving style, easily stands in the front rank of the books dedicated to — as the subtitle says — "the men, the planes, the saga of military aviation, 1914-18."

The author, a pilot and freelance writer, acquaints the reader with the great aces of the "war to end wars" as well as many less famous — but equally brave — airmen. Some of the individual exploits rank with the classics of adventure literature.

★ ★ ★

The book is filled with colorful biographies of the top fighter pilots, and the various war planes of those dogfighting days also are described in rich detail.

A PARISIAN'S GUIDE TO PARIS by Henri Gault and Christian Millau translated by Patricia Allen Dreyfus (Random House $7.95): Three messages come through distinctly in this amusing and well-informed guidebook.

First, the French do indeed have some favorite little restaurants, bistros, nightclubs, hotels and shops largely unknown to tourists.

★ ★ ★

Second, the food, wine and ambience at eating establishments ranges from so-so to sublime.

Third — and most important, to the average tourist — few are cheap, even by U.S. dollar standards. But then, as the authors write, "sublime food is never cheap."

★ ★ ★

Both authors are Paris newspapermen and magazine writers who cover gastronomy, night life and travel.

IF ISRAEL LOST THE WAR by Richard Z. Chesnoff, Edward Klein and Robert Littell (Coward-McCann, $5.95): Some critics of group journalism feel that the result of a joint effort at reporting the news reeks more of fiction than of fact.

They should be delighted to see that the collective style works splendidly in this startling and upsetting novel written by three of Newsweek magazine associate editors.

★ ★ ★

All three authors were, in one way or another, deeply involved in the historic events of June 1967 — either on the spot or at Newsweek's home office.

The plot of the book is simple: Israel loses the war for the reason that she won it; the Arabs attack swiftly and just about demolish the Israeli air force.

★ ★ ★

Obviously pro-Israel, the authors have written their book as a warning. In this it succeeds with bloodcurdling effect. It also makes for fascinating reading no matter what one's own point of view is.

FIGHTING AIRMAN: WAY OF THE EAGLE by Major Charles Biddle ($4.95 Doubleday): The combat memoirs of one of America's top fighter pilots of World War I. Illustrated.

In this latest book in the air combat classic series currently being released by Doubleday, Biddle has captured the spectacle and the drama of his flights and fights with the French Air Service, the legendary Lafayette Escadrille, and the U.S. Air Service.

★ ★ ★

Biddle, a lawyer today in Philadelphia, was among that small group of brave young Americans who rushed to France's aid before America's entry into the war.

A serious student of aviation, his exceptionally well-written memoirs are replete with graphic accounts of aerial combat and vividly recall the very essence of what those days were like.

LETTERS FROM 74 RUE TAITBOUT OR DON'T GO BUT IF YOU MUST, SAY HELLO TO EVERYBODY, by William Saroyan; (World, $5.50):

Saroyan, now an American expatriate living in Paris, has given us a charming collection of letters written to all sorts of people — some famous, some unknown; some recently dead and some dead a long time.

★ ★ ★

A letter to Adolf Hitler is sandwiched between letters to Yeghishe Charentz, the Armenian poet; and Carl Sandberg, the American poet. In all the letters Saroyan examines the mysteries of life and tries to make them a little more understandable through his deep, humanitarian simplicity.

Once more, Saroyan has shown us the value of simplicity in an increasingly complex world.

HAUNTED HIGHWAYS by Ralph Looney (Hastings House, $12.95):

This offbeat picture-textbook is subtitled "The Ghost Towns of New Mexico," to which Looney proves an engaging guide.

★ ★ ★

New Mexico was a land of golden promise a century back, a wide-open desert land where men fought for mines, women and water with equal finality.

The text, done in an easy gait, is fat with vignettes, like the sign old Henry Lambert posted on the wall of the St. James Saloon in Cimarron: Gents Will Please Leave Their Six-guns Behind the Bar While In Town! This Will Lessen The Customary Collections For Burials.

Looney's photographs of each outpost he visits are imaginative and nostalgic. He supplements his camera work with snapshots from the days when the ghost towns of New Mexico were alive, and the ghosts looked for gold.

Amid the Azaleas, Virginia Theater Blooms

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia's unique theater is alive and hustling despite the sometime hazards of skeptical solons and flower festivals.

"As long as we have tickets to sell and friends to help we should be all right," says Morton C. Thalhimer, a civic leader who has been instrumental since the project began 14 years ago.

By the time "Peter Pan," performed by amateurs but equipped with all the high-flying apparatus of the original Broadway musical, completes this season on June 7, about 50,000 spectators will have attended shows since October in the company's elegant little auditorium at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts.

In addition, a guest cast of professionals recently woundup a month-long tour of 21 cultural outposts from Accomac to Winchester with "In Search of Dylan," a play more vivid and compelling in some ways that a different drama about Welsh poet Dylan Thomas that glittering earlier with Alec Guinness on Broadway.

"The tour wasn't a howling money success, even though everyone who came enjoyed it," according to Fred Haseltine, publicity director. "And attendance continued to show an uptrend everywhere over trips in 1967 and '68."

If part of the less-than-capacity turnout can be attributed to a slower-than-hoped growth of cultural interest, the competition of other attractions cannot be ignored either. In one city the troupe arrived amid the annual Azalea Day festivities with Tricia Nixon the guest of honor.

The chronic ambiguity of the Museum Theater, however, is its stepchild existence.

Opening lead—♦3

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

West opened the three of diamonds against South's three no-trump contract. It was the same lead any normal bridge player would have made and West was mildly happy when South overtook dummy's 10 of diamonds with his jack. If South had only two diamonds one more lead would clear up the suit for West.

West became even more happy when South led the jack of hearts at trick two and East gathered in the trick with the queen after South played low from dummy. It looked as if the three no-trump contract was headed for trouble.

★ ★ ★

East led back a diamond and when South produced the six, West's feeling of well-being disappeared. That nasty South had started with three diamonds to the king jack and the suit was still stopped.

Then West began to do a little serious thinking. He was sure that East would get in with the king of hearts. If West could persuade his partner to lead a spade, they might beat the contract. With a third diamond lead South would surely romp home.

★ ★ ★

Finally West figured out a way of asking for a spade lead. He played his queen of diamonds. South took dummy's ace of diamonds; returned to his hand with a club; led a heart and played dummy's eight spot. East was on lead with the king.

★ ★ ★

Now it was his turn to think. He did so and decided that the queen of diamonds play was intended to tell him that declarer held the king. Then East led a spade and three quick spade tricks saved the game and rubber.

What do you do now?

TIGER TAKES THIRD—Detroit Don Wert swipes third base in the seventh inning last night at Tiger Stadium. Joe Foy is the Kansas City Royals' third baseman who is awaiting for an unnecessary throw from the catcher. The host Bengals snapped their four-game losing skein with a 6-2 victory that was iced by a two-run outburst in the seventh. Wert walked to ignite the uprising. He and Dick Tracewski both scored on an error.

This Time 6-2 Lead Holds Up

'Keep the Faith!' Tigers Win

DETROIT (AP) — A telegram outside the Tigers dressing room read: "We're keeping the faith— sock it to 'em Tigers."

The fans who sent that message were rewarded Wednesday night, as Detroit ended a four-game losing streak with a 6-2 win over the Kansas City Royals with Jim Price's two run homer and Mickey Stanley's solo blast leading the way.

★ ★ ★

"Maybe this will give us our confidence back," said third baseman Don Wert hopefully.

★ ★ ★

Mickey Lolich pitched a masterful game until the eighth. To that point he scattered three singles and struck out seven. But he tired and Manager Mayo Smith walked to the mound and, despite many boos from the 9,000 fans, brought in Pat Dobson to relieve after the Royals rallied for two runs.

GAIN GAME

The win gave Detroit a 12-14 record and moved the Tigers to fourth place in the East Division of the American League and six games behind first place Batlimore.

Lolich didn't want to come out, but the move was successful as Dobson retired the last five men.

★ ★ ★

"You know pitchers," Smith added. "But the fellow's been away too. When you've been out in the Army for two weeks you don't do much throwing."

Lolich recently completed two weeks of duty in the Air National Guard.

"Lolich pitched a real good game against us," said Royals Manager Joe Gordon. "You have to figure you can't give up many runs to him. He's a good pitcher."

Kansas City was behind by the same 6-2 score Tuesday night but collected five runs in the ninth inning to win 7-6. Smith was asked if Wednesday night's 6-2 score going into the last inning had him worried.

"You think I sit around thinking up superstitions," he smiled. "I never even thought about that."

SECOND HOMER

Price's homer, his second in two games, bounced off the facing of the upper deck in leftfield after Jim Northrup doubled. Stanley's solo shot, his third, hit the upper deck in right and came in the fifth. Both homers were off starter and loser Jim Rooker, 0-1. It was the former Tiger's second major league start.

★ ★ ★

4 Kansas City's eighth-inning rally netted two runs when Ed Kirkpatrick was hit by a pitch, Jackie Hernandez doubled and Jerry Adair singled home two runs.

Detroit scored twice in the seventh when left fielder Lou Piniella dropped Al Kaline's fly at the wall for an error, scoring Wert and Dick Tracewski who both walked.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers first score came with an unearned run in the third on a single by Stanley, a throwing error by Rooker, and a single by Tracewski.

★ ★ ★

Earl Wilson (1-3), out since last Friday when he pulled a thigh muscle against Boston, is scheduled to pitch Friday in the first game of a three-game home stand against Minnesota. Dean Chance was the Twins probable. The Tigers were idle today.

3 State Hoopsters Among NBA Picks

NEW YORK (AP) — Three Michigan college seniors were snatched Wednesday in the fourth round of the National Basketball Association player draft.

Michigan forward Dennis Stewart went to Phoenix and Michigan State center Lee Lafayette was taken by San Francisco. Both Stewart and Lafayette won honorable mentions on the AP All-Big Ten team this year.

★ ★ ★

Western Michigan's Gene Ford was drafted by the Baltimore Bullets.

Wednesday's draft began with the third round, the first two rounds have been conducted earlier by telephone.

The Detroit Pistons had traded their third-round choice to Phoenix and on the fourth round they took 6-foot-8 Ed Wiermer of Washington State.

OTHER CHOICES

Later Piston picks included 6-foot-6 Steve Mix of Toledo, 6-foot-3 Larry Jeffries of Trinity Texas, 6-foot-7 Steve Vandenberg of Duke, 6-foot-5 Bob Arnzen of Notre Dame and 6-foot-4 George Reynolds of Houston.

There had been speculation that Piston coach Paul Seymour would announce his plans for next season Wednesday, but there was no announcement after the meeting.

The Detroit Free Press said Bill van Breda Kolff, coach of the Los Angeles Lakers who is feuding with his star Wilt Chamberlain, is being mentioned as the possible new coach.

BUCKS' CHOICES

The Milwaukee Bucks may have two-fifths of UCLA's NCAA championship team in their line-up next year.

The Bucks grabbed the Bruins' Ken Heitz, a 6-3½ forward-guard in the fifth round Wednesday as the NBA completed its college player draft.

UCLA teammate Lew Alcindor, the No. 1 pick, was signed for $1.4 million after the NBA skimmed off the cream of the crop in the first two rounds of the 14-round grab bag on April 8.

★ ★ ★

Two other UCLA players also were chosen — Bill Sweek, a 6-2½ guard, by Phoenix, and Lynn Shackleford, a 6-5 forward, by San Diego, both in the seventh round. Another UCLA star, Lucius Allen, went to Seattle in the original draft.

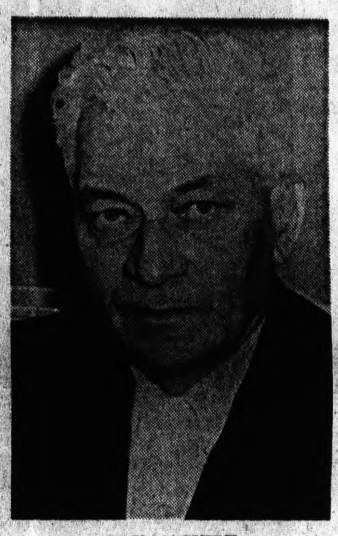
DETROIT SELECTIONS

Terry Driscoll, Boston College; Willie Norwood, Alcorn A&M; Ed Wiermer, Washington State; Steve Mix, Toledo; Larry Jeffries, Trinity, Tex.; Steve Vandenberg, Duke; Bob Arnzen, Notre Dame; George Reynolds, Houston; Bill English, Winston Salem State; Rusty Clark, North Carolina.

Teen-Age Kicker Worth $240,000

SHEFFIELD, England (AP) — Tommy Craig, 18-year-old British soccer star, was obtained by Brtiain's Sheffield club Wednesday for $240,000.

Soccer experts said Craig is the youngest player ever to change clubs for such a figure. Craig, sho played brilliantly at wing-half for Aberdeen in the Scottish Leauge, had been sought by several British teams.



RAY MAGUIRE

State PGA Picks Maguire Michigan 'Golf Pro-of-Year'

By FLETCHER SPEARS

A fellow who made the climb from bottom to top on the golfing ladder is the Michigan Golf Professional of the Year.

Ray Maguire, 56-year-old silver-haired head pro at Birmingham Country Club, was accorded the honor by fellow professionals in the Michigan PGA Section and he'll be honored along with several other personalities at a Golf Day Dinner May 20 at Hillcrest Country Club in Mount Clemens.

'PAT ON BACK'

"I'm real pleased, of course," beamed Maguire after receiving word of his selection. "After being in the golf game so long it's a great honor . . . we all like to get a pat on the back."

★ ★ ★

Maguire's golfing education began as a caddy at Oakland Hills, and his rise up the ladder began with the post of starter at the same club in 1925.

Later, he served as caddymaster at Birmingham Country Club — 1935 and 1936 — and returned to his old job at Oakland Hills in 1937.

BREAK ARRIVES

Ray's break came in 1945 in a three-way shift, and he wound up with the head pro's job at Birmingham CC.

★ ★ ★

"I was 33 when I got the job," said Maguire. "When I was 28 and 29 I was really wondering if I'd ever get a head pro's job.

ANOTHER OFFER

"Funny thing though. When they came over from Birmingham to tell me about the job, I had just received an offer in the mail from Midland Country Club."

★ ★ ★

At the time Chick Rutan was head pro at Birmingham. Claude Harmon held a similar post at Lochmoor. But Harmon moved to Winged Foot Golf Club in Mamaroneck, N. Y. Rutan then switched to Lochmoor which opened the Birmingham job for Maguire.

RARE FEAT

Ray's long career included an unusual feat which came during a U.S. Open sectional qualifying round in 1949 at Plum Hollow.

★ ★ ★

He scored two holes-in-one in the same round. The first came on the 205-yard No. 5 but the sun was in his eyes and he never saw it. The second one he saw. That came on the 164-yard 14th. For the day, Ray had a 36-hole total of 147 but failed to qualify.

★ ★ ★

Heading the list of personalities on hand for the Golf Day Dinner will be Leo Fraser, national PGA president, who'll discuss, among other topics, the now-ended war between the PGA and the touring professionals.

Talk Realignment

Pro Owners Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Pro football club owners were to resume merger meetings today with discussion expected to focus on the shift of three teams from the 16-team National League to the 10-team American League.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle reportedly was ready to name the three teams. If both leagues agree, the pattern of realignment in the AFL would include three divisions, two of four teams each, and one of five. One of the NFL transfers would be in each group.

The teams most prominently mentioned as possible contenders for moving include New Orleans and Atlanta, the two most recent NFL franchises; Philadelphia, now under new ownership, and Minnesota and Baltimore.

★ ★ ★

The meetings began at Palm Springs, Calif., in mid-March, continued last week, and recessed again without any firm plan emerging over realignment, Rozelle caucused with the NFL owners Wednesday to prepare a proposal to submit at today's joint meeting.

★ ★ ★

When last week's meetings broke up, Rozelle said he would not reconvene the owners until a solution was possible and then would meet on through until a decision was reached.

Paddy Wagons at Race Track

NEW YORK (AP) — There were helmeted police and paddy wagons and arrests. The scene could have been a strife-torn college campus—but it was a day at the races at Aqueduct.

Racing resumed at the Big A Wednesday in an atmosphere of grumbling and distrust for the first time since horsemen boycotted the entry box April 25 in a dispute over a proposed pension plan for backstretch employes.

★ ★ ★

And although the dispute still is unresolved and many trainers are still keeping their horses in the barns, a nine-race card was scheduled to be held today.

"There definitely will be racing tomorrow," Thomas Trotter, racing secretary for the New York Racing Association, said shortly after Wednesday's program began two hours late.

NBA President Overrules Draft

Warriors Want Coed Cage Star

UNION, Iowa (AP) — "I was shocked and surprised when they told me about it," but "I still think it's kind of cute," said Denise Long after becoming the first woman in history to be drafted by the National Basketball Association.

★ ★ ★

The San Francisco Warriors picked her in the 13th round of the NBA draft Wednesday, but league President Walter Kennedy said, "Not allowed."

★ ★ ★

Denise is a 5-foot-11 high school star from Union-Whitten High School and finished out her prep career this year with a total of 6,249 points in four seasons. She once scored 111 points in one game.

TEAM SERIOUS

"We were serious," said Frank Mieuli, owner and president of the Warriors.

"We weren't trying to belittle the draft or the caliber of players available in the late rounds. We didn't intend to use her in NBA games. We wanted to use her in a league we have for preliminary games," he said.

"I think I could have played with them. I always practice by boys' rules. But, they're bigger than I am, and stronger, I guess," Denise said.

★ ★ ★

"I'd probably have trouble keeping my eyes off the boys. And maybe they would have trouble keeping their eyes off me," she said after admitting she "might have accepted the offer."

Denise would not have been the first girl to invade the professional basketball ranks.

SHE'S NOT ALLOWED—Iowa's hot-shooting girls' basketball whiz Denise Long (dark uniform) became the first female ever taken in the National Basketball Association draft yesterday but league president Walter Kenndy nixed the move by the San Francisco Warriors who wanted to use the high-scoring Union Whitten High School star in preliminary games. She is shown dribbling around a guard in the state tournament last March.

Cale Yarborough Realizing Dream

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — Cale Yarborough raced in soap box derbies back in 1951. He dreamed of someday starting on the pole and winning a race at Darlington Raceway, then the only big stock car racing track in the South.

★ ★ ★

Half the dream came true last fall when he won the Labor Day Southern 500 at the track only 10 miles from the farm where he grew up.

★ ★ ★

The other half came true Wednesday when the 29-year-old Mercury team driver blitzed the newly revamped speedway at a record 152.293 miles per hour to win the pole for Saturday's $68,000 Rebel 400 race, fifth superspeedway event on this year's schedule.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jim Wynn slugged a three-run homer and Larry Dierker set a major league season high with 14 strikeouts as the Houston Astros ended Philadelphia's five-game winning streak 6-1 Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

Dierker opened the three-run fifth against loser Jerry Johnson with a single. One out later Norm Miller singled and Wynn hammered his fifth homer into the lower left field stands.

★ ★ ★

The tall Houston right-hander struck out the side in the first and seventh and fanned at least one batter in every inning but the fifth. He whiffed Richie Allen and Larry Hisle four times each.

GETTING HIS KICKS—Montreal manager Gene Mauch earned the umpire's thumb for his gridiron technique around the pitcher's mound last night at Atlanta. The Explosive Expo booted rosin bag twice in venting his displeasure over the calling of a balk on his pitcher. The balk let the host Braves tie the game, 3-3, and they went to win, 5-3, though Mauch wasn't around to kick anymore.

Pirates Defeat Padres, 2-0

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gene Alley's cure may be Bob Veale's medicine.

Both made their own kind of comebacks Wednesday night as Pittsburgh defeated the San Diego Padres 2-0.

Veale scattered eight hits and struck out 13 before he needed help in the ninth.

★ ★ ★

Alley, who's sore right shoulder has kept him out of action since spring training, was activated in time for the game and played third base in place of an ailing Richie Hebner.

★ ★ ★

The 28-year-old Alley, who usually plays at shortstop, didn't have to field one grounder.

Famed Boat Sails Sold at Auction

LONDON (AP) — The sails of Gipsy Moth IV, which helped take Sir Francis Chichester around the world in 1966-67, were sold for $1,348 at Christie's Wednesday.

The well-worn canvas sails were sold separately. Chichester, who was at the sale with his wife, bought one for $120.96. The money will go toward construction of a drydock at Greenwich in which the Gipsy Moth will be put on permanent display.

Jl Wiechers, young touring golf pro, made seven straight birdies in the 1968 New Orleans Open.

Javier's Fingers, Mauch's Foot Provoke Thumbs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Julian Javier's five finger exercise was a study in futility, the kind of futility the St. Louis Cardinals are getting all too used to.

★ ★ ★

Javier was just disgusted, but Vada Pinson was so enraged he got ejected from a game he wasn't even playing in all because of a play at home plate in the San Francisco Giants' 5-3 victory over the Cardinals Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

Manager Red Schoendienst of St. Louis also was booted out.

The Giants were ahead 3-1 in the sixth when Lou Brock singled off winner Gaylord Perry, 5-3.

STEALS SECOND

Brock stole second and scored on Javier's double. Javier went to third on an infield out and was thrown out at the plate by Perry on a tap to the left of the mound.

Javier figured he wasn't out no matter what umpire Augie Donatelli said.

"The first thing he said was that I didn't touch the plate," Javier said.

★ ★ ★

"Then he saw the marks my five fingers made on the plate and said Hiatt (Giants catcher Red Hiatt tagged me. He couldn't even decide.

"That was the whole ball game right there," Javier added.

"Tim McCarver gets the hit and then Mike Shannon is up with the pitcher in trouble. I don't know; it looked like Donatelli wasn't ready to call the play. I don't think he saw me touch the plate."

Donatelli wasn't available for comment.

MAUCH EJECTED

ATLANTA (AP) — Gene Mauch isn't expected to win with the expansion Expos, but the Montreal manager just doesn't like to lose.

The fiery former Philadelphia field boss threw a tantrum Wednesday night during a 5-3 loss to the Braves that ranks as the wildest ever in Atlanta Stadium.

A balk called by third base umpire Stan Landes in the fifth inning, which brought in a run and dropped the Expos into a 3-3 tie, touched off the outburst.

Mauch argued vehemently with Landes, repeatedly going through the motions of a pitcher. No soap. Still a balk. Mauch charged the plate umpire, Billy Williams, and got nowhere.

Back to Landes, and snubbed again. Mauch then charged to the mound, kicked the pitchers' resin bag 10 feet, ran after it and booted it another 20 feet.

Then he waved for a new pitcher, grabbed the ball from starter Mike Wegener and punted it high into the air.

Mauch was booted from the game.

CHICAGO (AP) — Willie Davis' second homer of the game capped a three-run spurt in the 12th inning Wednesday for a 4-2 Los Angeles Dodger victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs rallied in the last of the 12th for a run on a double by Randy Hundley and a pinch single by Willie Smith. The game ended when pinch runner Nate Oliver was picked off first.

Hardwick Leads Finals of All-Star Keg Meet

MIAMI (AP) — Veteran Billy Hardwick of Louisville and Shirley Garms of Chicago surged into the lead Wednesday night after the first round of finals in the 28th annual $65,000 All-Star Bowling Tournament.

Hardwick, a former Bowler-of-the-Year, won seven games in a row and ended the day with 4,155 pins for 16 games, including 600 pins for 12 games won. He averaged 222.

His lead was 210 pins over second-place George Pappas of Charlotte, N.C., who had 3,946 after winning 11 games, losing four, and tying one. In third was Allie Clarke of Akron, Ohio, with 3,940.

Defending champion Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., had trouble winning games and was sixth with 3,715.

Mrs. Garms, a 44-year-old housewife, dominated the women's field as she sought her second title. Shirley won the 1962 crown in the Miami Beach Auditorium.

Shirley finished with a total of 2,902 for nine games, in which she won eight for a 400-pin bonus.

'Tish' Preuss Advances

2 Favorites Sidelined

ATLANTA (AP) — Defending champion Phyliss 'Tish' Preuss still was in the running today for the Women's Southern Amateur Golf Tournament title, but two of the other favorites were on the sidelines.

Latest victim of an upset was Mrs. Judy Eller Street of Chattanooga, two-time champion.

Mrs. Street, who won successive crowns in 1959 and 1960, was upset 1-up Wednesday in the second round of match play by Dena Dills of Muskogee, Okla.

Mrs. Dills, two-time runner-up for the Oklahoma title, moved into the quarter-finals against young Bobbie Joe Gabrielsen of Athens, Ga., who ousted Marjorie Bruns of Greensboro, N. C., 3 and 2.

★ ★ ★

In the first round, medalist Connie Day of Cleveland, Tenn., and former champion Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., were upset.

★ ★ ★

Miss Preuss disposed of Vi Givens of Charlotte, N.C., 6 and 5, and moved into a match against Betty Probasco of Chattanooga, who ousted Grace Clay of Atlanta, 3 and 1.

Grand Slam Helps Romp

Two innings did it for Carpentry Engineering Wednesday night as it squared its Walled Lake Industrial Slowpitch Softball "A" division mark at 1-1 with an 11-2 romp over winless Mobile-Temp of the "B" League.

The winners put four runs on the scoreboard as Leonard Lamp clubbed a grand slam home run in the second inning.

Mrs. Cova Fst Victor in WMGA

The going was somewhat rough — particularly on the back nine — Wednesday as the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association opened the season at Sunnybrook Golf Course.

A sparkling 40 on the front nine enabled Mrs. Midge Cova of Novi to endure a 47 comin back and register an 87 low gross. The six-time 1968 winner had a birdie and two pars going out.

Mrs. George Schade of Detroit matched her 40 but soared to a 49 on the back nine and finished third. A steady 43-45 by Birmingham's Mrs. David Mortimer earned her a runner-up 88. Mrs. Schade did take low net honors wihh a 77.

Mrs. Harold Weit of Dearborn Heights won a first-hole playoff to take the first flight laurels; while Mrs. James Frye of Royal Oak and Birmingham's Mrs. James Suddath ruled the second and third flights.

Next Wednesday the women will test the Braeburn GC course. The opening day outing lured 60 players.

PREPARING FOR MEET — Coach Roger Shepler (right) and assistant mentor Earl McKee go over Pontiac Central's track strategy with miler Jon Costello. The Chiefs will be seeking the Saginaw Valley Conference championship at Flint tomorrow. Costello is defending titlist and record holder in the mile.

Relays at Groves, Oxford Meet Slated

Chiefs Bid for SVC Track Title

Pontiac Central is expected to be in the thick of battle for the last Saginaw Valley Conference track championship involving the nine current member schools.

The meet will be tomorrow at Flint Northwestern at 5 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Another meet tomorrow will be the Birmingham - Bloomfield Relays. The Oxford Invitational will be Saturday.

The SVC will add three schools after this school year and break into two divisions.

TOP CONTENDERS

PCH, Midland, Flint Northern and possibly Flint Southwestern are rated leading contenders for 1969 honors. Others entered are Flint Central, Saginaw, Arthur Hill, Bay City Central and Handy.

★ ★ ★

The Chiefs are expected to win the mile and place 1-2 in the long jump. Other points could come in the long jump, pole vault, shot put, 440, 880 and mile relay.

★ ★ ★

Jon Costello, the defending mile champion, already has bettered the SVC record of 4:22.7 he set in last year's meet.

Likewise, long jumper Rolly Garcia is capable of breaking Hayes Jones' 1956 record of 23-3. He is heavily favored, but will have to keep a wary eye on teammate Horace Davis who is on the verge of clearing 23 feet.

KEY EVENT

The mile relay, last event in the meet, could be the decider. Southwestern's quartet has been clocked in 3:21.9. Midland has gone 3:23.8 and Pontiac Central's team of Costello, Ken Long, Daryl Wilcox and Larry Moses has been timed in 3:24.8. All three clockings are better than the Valley record.

The Birmingham - Bloomfield Relays will be at Groves. The pole vault will get under way at 5:30 p.m. and the other field events an hour later. Running events will start at 7 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Brother Rice is favored. Groves also is given a chance at the team title. Others entered are Seaholm, Andover, Lahser, Cranbrook and Country Day. However, Country Day may have to withdraw because of a conflict in dates.

★ ★ ★

Waterford Township is the defending champion at Oxford, but the Skippers are having an off year and the favorites role for Saturday's meet has been taken Rochester. Holly and West Bloomfield also are leading contenders.

★ ★ ★

Other schools competing will be Oxford, Warren, Romeo, Warren Woods, Warren Fitzgerald, Clarkston, Avondale, Troy, Waterford Mott, Waterford Kettering and Warren Mott.

STARTING TIMES

Preliminaries in the hurdles and dashes are set for 1:30 p.m. Finals will get under way at 6:30 p.m.

Given good weather, athletes could establish several new marks.

★ ★ ★

Oxford's Jim Goodfellow, Steve Moffat of Waterford Township and Keith Wattles of Rochester will be after the two-mile standard of 9:59.

Kettering's Kevin Reabe is favored in the 880 and could break the record of 2:00.6.

The win keeps Rochester undefeated in the Oakland A League and it is 8-1 over-all.

Seaholm, Hazel Park in Tie

10-Inning Game Wasted

Southfield and Berkley came up with one-run decisions while Birmingham Seaholm and Hazel Park labored for more than three hours for nothing in Southeastern Michigan Association baseball yesterday.

Ferndale was a 5-4 loser to Southfield, Berkley shaded Royal Oak Kimball, 7-6, and a league rule halted Seaholm and Hazel Park after the two battled to a 5-5 standoff through 10 innings.

LIGHTS FORBIDDEN

SMA rules forbid night games so Seaholm and Hazel Park couldn't continue. Also, ties are not recognized by the loop. However, if the game would determine the championship, it will be replayed in entirety at a later date.

★ ★ ★

Seaholm and Hazel Park are at the head of the pack at present with 3-1 records. Berkley is 3-2, Kimball 1-3, Southifeld 2-3 and Ferndale 1-3.

DEFENSIVE STAR

Hazel Park right fielder Mike Jones, who picked up a double and a pair of singles at the plate, came up with the defensive play of the game for the third out in the bottom of the 10th.

★ ★ ★

With Seaholm runners on first and second, John Bratton lifted a Texas-leaguer to right. Jones raced in, scooped up the ball and fired it to catcher Jim Skoczylas who put the tag on Mike Boston.

George Metcalf paced Seaholm with three singles and one RBI.

SPURS SOUTHFIELD

Jim Manchel, who doubled in a run in the second, singled home the winning run for Southfield in the bottom of the sixth inning.

★ ★ ★

Berkley built up a 7-1 lead and then held off the Kimball Knights who made it close with a five-run seventh. Berkley collected eight hits. Ken Tye picked up two and his home run in the top of the seventh turned out to be the winning marker.

★ ★ ★

Carl Roehling rapped out three hits to lift his average to .322 for Kumball and the big catcher drove in two runs. Fred Shellnut also collected three safeties for Kimball.

In other meets, Utica whipped a young Lake Orion squad, 80-38, Milford romped past Clarkston, 90-28, and Brother Rice stopped Flint Northwestern, 86-32.

Oaks Win ABA Crown

OAKLAND (AP) — "It's the most satisfying victory in my whole life," says Alex Hannum, the only basketball coach to win titles in both the National and American basketball associations.

Hannum's Oakland Oaks defeated the Indiana Pacers 135-131 in overtime Wednesday night to take the ABA playoffs, four games to one.

After the game, the Oaks sent a telegram to the Boston Celtics, NBA champs, asking, "How about a game between the world champions?"

Oakland finished last in the ABA Western Division last season. This season, former NBA scoring champ Rick Barry helped the Oakt to a fast start, but suffered a knee injury and missed nearly half of the games. Barry didn't play at all in the playoffs.

Indiana, trailing by as much as 12 points in the third period, pulled even at 122-122 with four seconds left as Ron Perry sank two free throws.

OCC Sees Bright Spot in Golf Event

An invitation to the national junior college golf tournament looks a little more promising today for the Raiders of Orchard Ridge-OCC.

★ ★ ★

The Raiders produced the lowest score of the season for a state junior college squad yesterday with a 301 total in a triangular at Burroughs Farms near Brighton. Jackson (313) was second and Concordia (344) third.

★ ★ ★

Setting the pace for the Raiders was sophomore Troy Hornberger with a two-under-par 69. Hornberger shared 12th in the national tournament last year. Helping the sophomore ace were Paul McIntosh (72), Mike Sauer (80), Mike Church (81) and Tim Houran (81).

★ ★ ★

Both the team and Hornberger's 69 are school records.

O'Brien's 2-Hitter Aids Double Win

It took coach Sid Fox and the Raiders of Orchard Ridge—OCC a while to find the winning formula, but since finding it they've striied up only victories.

★ ★ ★

After dropping their first three games, the Raiders suddenly reversed themselves and now own a seven-game winning streak and a 7-3 record.

TAKE TWO

Their latest success was a twinbill decision over Auburn Hills yesterday, 4-3 and 2-1.

★ ★ ★

Chuck O'Brien flipped a neat two-hitter and fanned eight as the Raiders took the opener, and although outhit 9-2 in the second game, the Raiders made the most of their bat attack.

★ ★ ★

Mike Zipser's tripple sent home the winning run for the Raiders in the top of the sixth in the opener, and Chris Norton, who picked up an RBI in the opener, doubled home both runs in the fourth inning of the second game.

Walled Lake Takes Aim at Golf Crown

The Vikings of Walled Lake indicate they're ready to take a shot at the Pontiac Press Invitational Golf crown now in possession of Southfield.

The tournament is on tap May 23 at Pontiac Country Club, and Walled Lake took on another probable contender yesterday — Bloomfield Hills Lahser — and emerged with a 146-163 victory.

Jim Wallace set the pace for Walled Lake with an even par 35 over the Twin Lakes layout. Dennis Lacey and Bill VanHorn followed with 36s and Chuck Baldwin added a 39. The Vikings are 9-1 on the season.

In other matches, Avondale nipped Lake Orion, 174-176, Milford topped Holly 178-190, West Bloomfield posted a 201-210 decision over Waterford Mott and Orchard Lake St. Mary ran its record to 5-2 with a 179-211 verdict over Mount Clemens St. Louis.

LEAD AVONDALE

Larry Davis carded a 38 and Bruce Farrell a 43 at Bald Mountain to pace the Avondale (7-1) win. Hoyt Frericks had a 41 for Orion.

★ ★ ★

Dave Baker's 38 at Holly Greens enabled Milford to raise its record to 8-4.

Louis Meldman posted a 38 and Bob McClelland a 39 at Pontiac Country Club to spur West Bloomfield (9-2). Gary Slocum carded a 39 for Mott.

Ted Hejka and Rick Trzeinski posted 43s at Pontiac CC to lead OLSM with help from Rick Strzalkowski (48) and Dennis Glanden (49).

Oak Park in Groove After Forfeit Decision

Oak Park is back in the winning groove while North Farmington continues to look for its first victory of the season.

After losing a forfeit decision earlier this week, Oak Park picked on Livonia Franklin for an 8-2 triumph that raised the Parkers record to 10-1 and their mark in the Northwest Suburban to 5-1.

SEVENTH LOSS

North Farmington, meanwhile, suffered its seventh loss in a row in a 5-4 setback at the hands of Wayne John Glenn.

★ ★ ★

Dave Wiener's grandslam home run in the top of the fourth made the road easy for right-hander Elliot Blumberg who racked up his eight victory.

SLIPS AWAY

North Farmington appeared to have victory No. 1 all wrapped as Glenn came to bat in the top of the seventh trailing , 4-1.

But a single, double and triple produced two runs and Bob Griggs clouted a two-run homer to give the decision to Glenn.

Pat Hickey and Jay Hazelroth collected three hits apiece for North Farmington.

Pitches One-Hitter

Mott Lefty Earns 'Promotion'

A newcomer sparkled, a veteran sizzled and another pitcher turned from goat to hero on the high school baseball front yesterday.

"He's sneaky fast," says Waterford coach Mike Kulinski after watching his sophomore left-hander Bob Carter set down Hartland on one hit as Mott triumphed, 9-1.

FIRST START

It was the first varsity start for the 6-foot, 130-pound Carter, who earned the promotion from the junior varsity after striking out 30 batters in two appearances with the younger Corsairs.

★ ★ ★

The youngster was equal to the task. He fanned 10, walked five and yielded a fourth-inning triple.

NICE SURPRISE

"He's a real pleasant surprise," says Kulinski of Carter. "He has good control, a good curve, and a sinker that he uses for strikeouts."

Bill Poe clubbed a three-run homer and Roger Strader and Terry Ruffatto checked in with two hits apiece to back Carter.

FLIPS ONE-HITTER

Senior Bruce Carlson, a veteran of baseball circles, set Waterford Kettering down on only one hit in a 9-0 decision for Waterford, and Andy Gordon staged a one-man show to lead Cranbrook past Bloomfield Hills Lahser, 2-1.

Carlson came as close as you can get to a no-hitter. There were two outs in the top of the seventh and he had a 3-2 count on relief pitcher Ron Waldrup. Then zip Waldrup rifled a pitch to rightfield and Carlson finished with a one-hitter.

The Waterford right-hander struck out four in raising his record to 4-1. Mike Sheldon led the attack at the plate with two hits in three trips as Waterford upped its record to 14-3.

BUSY CATCHER

Catcher Andy Gordon picked up a base hit in the second inning but was promptly caught napping and picked off first base. But he redeemed himself by lashing a two-run single in the last of the sixth and emerged as the winning pitcher.

★ ★ ★

Gordon went to the mound in the fifth in relief of Howard Jones. After toiling through the sixth, he turned the mound chores over to Jerry Iwanski and returned to his job behind the plate.

The victory raised Cranbrook's record to 5-6.

Doug Wagner's single scored Ken Rump for Lahser's only run in the first inning.

Big Innings in Waterford Recreation

A three-run third inning enabled Timberlanes Lounge to crack the win column, but Midget Bar needed four runs in the fifth to offset an earlier identical spree by Colonial Village in their Waterford Township men's softball encounter.

The Midget nine came from behind after Villagers built a 5-0 lead on four singles, three walks and an error. The barmen (1-0) moved in front, 6-5, with their four-spot, and Gary Hayward's solo homer in the sixth wrapped up the 7-5 triumph.

Duane Delling had a run-scoring double in the second to start the uphill struggle, while Brian Rudd and Dave Diehm each cracked RBI-two-baggers in the big fifth. Delling drove in the tying run with a safety and scored the go-ahead marker.

★ ★ ★

Timberlanes big inning broke open a 2-1 battle. Mouse Beers' two-run single ignited the scoring and setnt the loungemen (1-1) to a 5-2 conquest of Lighthouse Lanes (0-2).

Ralph Long scattered four hits and 10 walks to get the win.

Tonight's twin bill at the Drayton Plains Park will be played Sunday afternoon if the diamond is too wet to permit play today.

15th Net Win for Clarkston

Unbeaten Clarkston breezed to its 15th straight dual meet victory in the last two years and eight in a row in the Wayne-Oakland League this spring with a 4-1 win over Milford Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Clarkston will tangle with once-beaten Bloomfield Hills Andover, the only team to beat the Wolves in a dual meet over the past three seasons, tomorrow afternoon at Clarkston.

★ ★ ★

No. 1 singles player Pete Warner of Bloomfield Hills Lahser won his seventh match without a defeat as the Knights (3-4) shut out Kettering (1-10) in six matches.

Chisox Rip Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Chicago White Sox unloaded 11 hits, including Carlos May's seventh home run and Bill Melton's two-run triple, and defeated the Baltimore Orioles 6-4 Wednesday night.

Consecutive singles by May, Don Pavletich, Melton and Duane Josephson gave the White Sox a 2-0 lead in the fourth against loser Mike Cuellar, 3-3. The Orioles got one back in their half on Brooks Robinson's sacrifice fly.

But Chicago wrapped it up in the fifth. Luis Aparicio walked, May singled and with two out Melton tripled, knocking out Cuellar, then scored himself on a wild pitch by reliever Mike Adamson.

RED SOX RALLY

SEATTLE (AP) — George Thomas, atoning for a costly error in the first inning, drove in the winning run with a bloop double in the seventh as the Boston Red Sox edged Seattle 5-4 Wednesday night for their fifth victory in a row.

Boston chipped away at ex-teammate Gary Bell with a run in the third on Rico Petrocelli's eighth homer and went ahead by scoring three runs with two out in the fifth. Siebert walked and Thomas and Mike Andrews singled for one run, with Andrews taking second on the throw home. After an intentional walk to Carl Yastrzemski, Tony Conigliaro drilled a two-run single.

OAKLAND (AP) — Ted Kubiak raced home with the winning run on Del Unser's throwing error as the Oakland Athletics rallied for two runs in the eighth inning and nipped Washington 5-4 Wednesday night.

Golf Big Business for Frank Beard

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Frank Beard, who says he's a businessman, set out in the first round of the $10,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament today with all the emotion of an executive walking into his office.

"It's a business with me now," the studious, articulate man from Louisville, Ky., said before his round on the 7,138 yard, par 71 Pecan Valley Country Club course.

And he's made it quite a good business, this quiet perfectionist who lacks the color of Doug Sanders and Lee Trevino, the name of Arnold Palmer, the power of Jack Nicklaus.

But he's got the game. The figures prove it. He hasn't won a tournament since 1967, but already has collected $41,593.26 in official money this year and won $101,986.84 last season.

Beef Prices Continue to Go Up, Up

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor,
The Pontiac Press

Just two weeks ago, we discussed the price of meat, especially the price of beef. At that time, we gave you some fairly economical recipes.

Usually we do not repeat the same subject in such a short time. But a report this week from the Agriculture Department is disturbing.

★ ★ ★

"The strength in livestock and meat prices in the face of larger supplies is due to rising consumer incomes, unusually low unemployment rates and increases in population," the report says.

★ ★ ★

More people have more money to buy more beef. So the price goes up for all of us. USDA officials now think that food costs will rise about three per cent this year.

COMPARISONS

We looked at food ads in file copies of The Pontiac Press, picking April of 1967 and 1968. We wanted to see the overall prices of meat, not just that of steaks. We tried to get an average price for each item, using various supermarket ads.

★ ★ ★

Round steak went in two years from 75 cents to 99 cents a pound, a 25 per cent increase. Cube steak went from 99 cents a pound to $1.39, a jump of nearly 29 percent.

★ ★ ★

It was possible in 1967 to buy 49 cent hamburger. It is still possible today to buy 49 cent hamburger. But if you want ground chuck, you will pay 20 cents a pound more than you did in 1967.

★ ★ ★

Chuck roasts in 1967 varied between 49 and 79 cents a pound; today, they vary from 59 to 79 cents. Remember, these are sale prices.

LAMB

Lamb shoulder has stayed about the same in price. In fact, a year ago, it was higher than it is now.

What is unusual about this is that some of the lamb we buy now is being shipped frozen from New Zealand. The imported lamb is selling cheaper than the lamb raised in this country.

★ ★ ★

Bacon rose in price a year ago and has stayed about the same. Here again, you can find rather inexpensive bacon on sale. But the name brands are consistently 69 to 89 cents a pound or more.

★ ★ ★

Ham prices, except for fully cooked boneless ham, did not vary much in price over the two years. Seasonably, say at holidays, prices are lower.

What has happened to pork chops is interesting. The most desired cuts — center-cut loin chops — have risen about 10 cents a pound in the past two years.

★ ★ ★

But more and more stores are advertising a mixed package of chops; in the package, you will find perhaps rib and blade chops. Why this is beng done, I don't know. Perhaps the stores were not selling enough of the more expensive chops.

BONELESS COSTS MORE

Pork roasts haven't advanced drastically in price, although if you want boneless roasts for rotisserie cooking, you will pay more. You always pay more for boneless cuts, but there is no waste.

Ads for frankfurters show only about 10 cents a pound hike and that occurred a year ago. Like bacon, frankfurters come at several prices, depending on their meat content.

What does all this mean to the average shopper?

- It means she has to hunt harder than ever for bargains.
- It means she has to know what she's getting when she chooses a cut of meat.
- It means she must estimate the number of servings to determine her costs.
- It means she has to decide how much she can spend on meat and buy accordingly.

We're a nation of beef eaters and we don't seem about to change. But you do not have to pay top prices to get good nourishing cuts of meat. Nor do you have to serve beef seven days a week.

★ ★ ★

One-soup sauce . . . good! Two-soup sauce . . . even better! Main dishes take on an extra dimension when you use two condensed soups instead of one as a sauce for meat, poultry, or fish.

★ ★ ★

For instance, mix condensed golden mushroom and tomato soups. Ladle the resulting double-rich, double-thick sauce over brown beef strips. Then add an Italian accent of crushed oregano leaves and a hint of garlic. When beef strips have cooked for a time in the sauce, add vegetables; small white onions and Italian-style green beans.

★ ★ ★

With these few steps you've concocted a new dish, Golden Beef Strips Italienne, that is bound to find a favored place in your recipe file.

GOLDEN BEEF STRIPS ITALIENNE

GOLDEN BEEF STRIPS ITALIENNE

1½ pounds round steak, cut in strips
2 tablespoons shortening
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed golden mushroom soup
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed tomato soup
½ cup water
1 teaspoon oregano, crushed
1 large clove garlic, minced
1 pound (about 16) small whole white onions
1 package (9 ounces) frozen Italian style green beans

In skillet, brown beef in shortening; pour off fat. Add soups, water, oregano, and garlic. Cover; cook over low heat 40 minutes; stir now and then. Add onions; cook 20 minutes more. Add beans; cook 20 minutes more. Stir now and then. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

★ ★ ★

The meat industry is close-trimming all pork cuts to save a higher proportion of lean meat. For economy, buy a large cut and let it serve as the basis for several meals.

CUP UP LOIN

The loin roast, if properly cut, will give three different fresh-cooked meals. Ask your meat man to saw through the ribs high enough to leave an inch-thick layer of meat on the backbones.

★ ★ ★

Have him cut the backbones into serving-size pieces. Once the backbones have been removed, it is easy to slice between the ribs to cut as many pork chops as you need.

★ ★ ★

The remaining piece will be just the right size for a one-meal pork roast.

ROAST LOIN OF PORK

Wipe meat with a clean, damp cloth. Season with salt and pepper. Place roast, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not add water, do not cover, do not baste.

To accurately determine doneness, use a meat thermometer. Insert it carefully through outside fat into center of thickest muscle and do not allow bulb to rest on bone or fat.

★ ★ ★

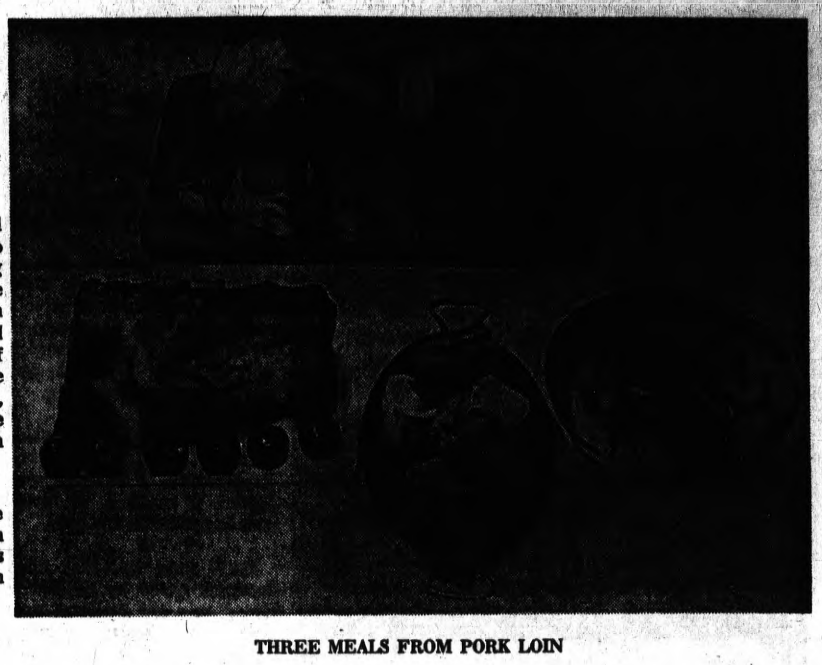
Roast in a pre-heated slow oven (325 degrees F.) 35 to 40 minutes per pound or until meat thermometer registers 185 degrees F.

BARBECUED COUNTRY STYLE BACKBONES

2 tablespoons molasses
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon pepper sauce

Place backbones in shallow baking pan. Combine molasses and prepared mustard. Stir in vinegar, Worcestershire sauce and pepper sauce. Brush backbones with sauce.

Roast in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1½ hours, brushing several times with sauce. Makes 4 servings.



THREE MEALS FROM PORK LOIN

BRAISED PORK CHOPS

4 rib pork chops
Salt
Pepper
½ to ½ cup liquid (water, tomato juice, bouillon, etc.)

Sprinkle chops with salt and pepper. Melt small amount of fat in skillet. Brown chops slowly on both sides, 15 to 20 minutes. Add liquid; cover.

Simmer 45 to 60 minutes, (depending on thickness of chops) or until fork-tender, adding additional liquid during cooking if necessary. Turn chops occasionally. Makes 4 servings.

Spicy Veal New Tempter

Veal generally tastes better when prepared with a well-seasoned sauce. Try this one. It is spicy and adds greatly to the enjoyment of the meat.

Serve with wide noodles or rice.

VEAL IN CINNAMON-TOMATO SAUCE
(Greek Style)

2 pounds boneless veal stew
¼ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
2 tablespoons butter or oil
2 cups (1 lb.) canned tomatoes
1 cup hot water
2 sticks cinnamon, 2 inches long
1 tablespoon parsley flakes

Trim off and discard excess fat from veal. Cut into 1½-inch cubes. Combine flour with salt and black pepper. Toss meat with flour mixture.

★ ★ ★

Heat butter in a Dutch oven. Add veal and brown on all sides. Add tomatoes, hot water and cinnamon. Cover and simmer 1½-hours or until meat is tender.

★ ★ ★

Add parsley flakes 5 minutes before cooking time is up. Six portions.

BLUE CLUB—Plan a meal around this Blue Club Sandwich that can be prepared in a jiffy and served with a fruit, vegetable or dessert complement. A combination of sliced turkey, tangy American blue cheese and sliced ham, this sandwich creation is sure to abound with great appetite appeal.

French Fry Cheese Club Sandwich

Sandwiches are Mom's best friend!

With the sandwich meal becoming one of the most valuable and exciting concepts of meal planning. You'll want to try this whole meal sandwich that is quick to make and absolutely mouth-watering to eat.

You need only serve a salad, soup or vegetable accompaniment, a beverage and dessert to make a full meal suited to all tastes and ages.

★ ★ ★

You'll make this Blue Club Sandwich easily by combining turkey, ham and American blue cheese into a hearty and tasty fare for the family, impromptu entertaining or as a special favorite for teenage parties.

The American blue cheese gives this club sandwich its extra special flavor and once you've tried it, the sandwich will become a regular treat. Zesty American blue is economical, too, and a little bit goes a long way.

★ ★ ★

To make this delicious sandwich, trim the crusts from three slices of white or whole wheat bread. Atop the first slice of bread, place several generous slices of pre-cooked turkey and some crumbles of American blue cheese. Then place another slice of bread over this layer and atop this several slices of pre-cooked ham.

USE TOOTHPICKS

Again put some crumbles of blue cheese over the ham and complete the sandwich with the third slice of bread. To hold the sandwich intact while cooking, secure with several toothpicks.

★ ★ ★

Carefully place the sandwich in the basket of your deep fat fryer and lower it into hot oil. Be sure to have enough oil so that the sandwich will be completely immersed while cooking. Fry the sandwich till golden brown and serve immediately with a few crumbles of blue cheese over the top as a garnishment.

The same cotton cloth can be finished to appear as chintz, gingham, moire, denim, matelasse, or pique.

Cereal Topiary Tree Is Edible Centerpiece

The making of the ornamental topiary trees that grace gardens is a true art and requires skill and training. But a topiary "tree" is more than ornamental, it's edible — and easy!

Peppermint Topiary is a centerpiece made from tasty puffed rice candy: a winsome centerpiece - snack for a children's party or a colorful addition to a spring luncheon table.

★ ★ ★

Green-tinted puffed rice candy tops a "trunk" made from a cardboard tube wrapped with ribbon or tape. (Save tube from paper towels, aluminum foil or waxed paper.) Clay secures the tree in a flower pot and the clay is covered with paper grass. Gumdrop roses are the final decoration; see recipe for easy instructions for making the roses.

★ ★ ★

Decorate Peppermint Topiary to match your party color scheme.

PEPPERMINT TOPIARY
Makes 1 centerpiece

10 cups puffed rice
One 10½-oz. pkg. (about 6 cups) miniature marshmallows
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
1 teaspoon green food coloring
½ teaspoon peppermint extract.

Heat puffed rice in large shallow pan in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) about 10 minutes. Pour into greased very large bowl.

Melt together marshmallows, butter and corn syrup in top of til smooth. Stir in food coloring double boiler over boiling water, stirring occasionally unand peppermint extract. Pour mixture over puffed rice, stirring vigorously until evenly coated.

★ ★ ★

With greased hands, shape puffed rice mixture to form a large ball. Pressing firmly, insert about 2 inches of wrapped 12-inch cardboard tube in one side of ball to form "trunk." With thumb, make several shallow impressions (approximately 1 inch in diameter and ½ inch deep) in ball at irregular intervals.

Invert ball in greased round-bottom bowl so cardboard tube is on top. Let stand several hours or overnight. Turn ball occasionally in bowl during first 2 hours. Round out any flattened sides by pressing gently with fingers.

★ ★ ★

When ball has hardened, invert "tree" and place "trunk" in flower pot. Use clay to secure "trunk" in flower pot. Cover clay with paper grass. Place a gumdrop rose in each pre-formed impression. Secure by inserting toothpick through center of rose.

To make each gumdrop rose: On a board sprinkle with sugar, roll out 3 medium-sized gumdrops each to form a 2½-inch oblong. Cut oblongs in half crosswise to form "petals." Roll up one "petal" tightly to form the center; wrap 5 more "petals" around the center to form a rose.

PEPPERMINT TOPIARY—Here's a colorful centerpiece for spring parties, an edible topiary "tree" made from puffed rice candy and gumdrop roses.

SWORDFISH AND PEACHES — Drain one can (No. 2½) cling peach halves. Cut 3 swordfish steaks about ½-inch thick into 6 serving pieces. Place fish in shallow pan and sprinkle with mixture of ½ cup melted butter, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 2 tablespoons A-1 sauce. Sprinkle generously with paprika. Place under broiler for 10-12 minutes, basting once or twice. Place peaches around fish and broil five minutes longer. Serves 6.

JAMAICAN SALAD BOWL — Salute the Spring season with "Jamaican Salad Bowl" — a lilting medley of sliced Chiquita banana, chunks of western iceberg lettuce and strips of ham or chicken tossed with a dressing well worth singing about.

Mix Meat and Fruit in Salad

Give a hearty welcome to Spring at your house with savory "Jamaican Salad Bowl." It will bring a touch of the tropics to a luncheon party, a day of bridge-playing or a relaxed family dinner.

Everything about this salad spells refreshment. Chilled chunks of western iceberg lettuce, husky slices of Chiquita banana and thin strips of ham or chicken are tossed with an exciting dressing created to enhance just such a combination. It's a creamy dressing enlivened by lime juice, sesame seeds, curry powder and mustard.

Should there be any dressing left over, simply store it covered in the refrigerator and use it later to enrich any number of other salads.

★ ★ ★

Never discard the outer leaves of western iceberg lettuce. For one thing, they make an ideal lining for salad bowls, whether they be large bowls as in "Jamaican Salad Bowl" or smaller ones for individual servings. They add crunchy texture to sandwiches, too, besides providing eye appeal with their crinkly edges.

These outer leaves also supply extra flavor and moisture when cooked with green peas, green beans, carrots and other vegetables. And they are right at home in that popular standby, wilted lettuce salad.

JAMAICAN SALAD BOWL

1 head western iceberg lettuce
3 large bananas
3 cups thin strips cooked ham or chicken or combination of both
Lime-Sesame Dressing

Rinse, core and drain lettuce thoroughly; chill in plastic lettuce crisper or disposable plastic bag. When ready to serve, cut or tear lettuce into bite-size chunks and turn into chilled salad bowl.

Peel bananas. Cut into large diagonal slices or into longer fingers. Arrange banana and ham (or chicken) on lettuce. Toss with Lime-Sesame Dressing. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

Lime-Sesame Dressing

2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
¼teaspoon curry powder
1½ tablespoons flour
¾ cup rich milk
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
3 tablespoons lime juice
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1½ tablespoons sesame seeds

Blend sugar, salt, curry powder and flour together in top of double boiler. Stir in milk, egg and mustard. Slowly stir in lime juice; mixture will thicken slightly. Cook over hot (not boiling) water 10 minutes, stirring often until mixture becomes thick and smooth.

★ ★ ★

Remove from heat, add butter. Cool, then cover and refrigerate. Toast sesame seeds by stirring over moderate heat in skillet until golden. Add to dressing before serving.

Dressing may be thinned slightly with cream, real mayonnaise or dairy sour cream. Makes about 1¼ cups dressing.

Rice and Fruit Complete Meal

Desserts prepared with rice are numerous. According to U.S. Department of Agriculture food tradesmen, supplies of rice are plentiful. Thus, USDA home economists suggest treating the family to either of the following:

Drain ⅔ cup juice from a No. 2 can of crushed pineapple. Combine crushed pineapple with 1½ cups miniature marshmallows and ¾ cup shredded coconut. Stir in 2 cups chilled rice.

Whip 1 cup whipping cream and sweeten with ⅓ cup sugar. Fold rice-fruit mixture into whipped cream and chill.

Recipe variations: Use chopped peaches in place of pineapple or add ½ cup pecans. Makes 8 servings.

Mix 2 cups cooked rice, 4 cups sliced apples, ¼ cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Pour into a buttered 9-inch square baking dish. Add ¼ cup water. Cover apple and rice with toffee mixture.

Bake in 350 degrees F. oven 45 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

(Toffee mixture: Combine ½ cup flour with ¾ cup brown sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Cut in ½ cup butter or margarine until the mixture is the size of small peas.

Molasses Sauce Is Ice Cream Topper

West Indies molasses has a mellow taffy flavor and smooth texture that goes beautifully with vanilla, chocolate or coffee ice cream. For a tropical touch, try a molasses pineapple sauce.

Molasses Pineapple Sauce

1 can (9 ounces) crushed pineapple
¼ cup West Indies molasses
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon rum flavoring (optional)

Pour pineapple with the syrup from can into a saucepan; add molasses and butter. Bring to a boil; simmer 5 minutes; add flavoring. Serve warm or cool over ice cream or cake. Yield: Approximately 1 cup.

To satisfy a sweet tooth, the Consumer and Marketing Service suggests blending until smooth equal amounts of peanut butter and dark brown sugar with butter or margarine and cinnamon. Spread on bread and toast in oven until bread is brown on the bottom.

Cocoa Cake Displays Sunburst Fruit Design

Montezuma and his cohorts worshipped the sun, and, in a different way, they worshipped cocoa — enjoying it in countless ways in food and drink. So what more appropriate name could be given this striking and delicious cocoa-pear upside-down cake than Aztec Sunburst?

Do try your hand at it, for it's nowhere near as difficult to make as its appearance might suggest. It's sure to cause your girl friends to compliment you if you serve it at luncheon, bridge or tea.

Even families known for their restraint greet its appearance at table with an enthusiastic "Wow!"

AZTEC SUNBURST
Topping

2 cup butter or margarine
¼ cup light brown sugar
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
1 can (16-17 ounces) pear halves (about 4 halves)
¼ cup quartered maraschino cherries
¼ cup chopped pecans

Batter

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup cocoa
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1¼ cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs, unbeaten
½ cup buttermilk

Melt butter in a 9-inch square pan. Add brown sugar and corn syrup; mix well. Spread evenly over bottom of pan. Slice each pear half into 4 sections and place in a sunburst design over mixture in pan. Arrange cherries and nuts between pear sections, in center and at corners.

Sift together flour, cocoa, soda and salt. Set aside. Cream butter, sugar and vanilla together thoroughly. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

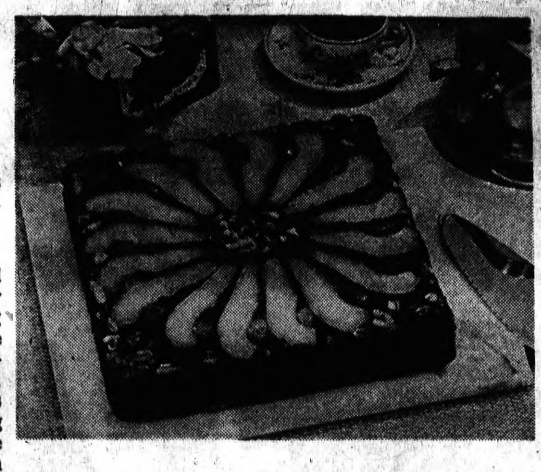
Add flour mixture alternately with the buttermilk to the creamed mixture. Blend well. Pour batter over fruit and nuts in pan. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 45 to 50 minutes or until done.

Immediately invert pan on serving plate. Serve warm, with whipped cream, if desired. Yield: 9 to 12 servings.

BOOKLET

Hershey's has just published a colorful, three-by-five folder offering 13 recipes featuring cocoa as a main ingredient. The variety is surprising — six different types of cake, a souffle, a cocoa cheese pie that looks positively dreamy, an intriguing confection called No-Bake Cocoa Orange Balls, and for a Mexican touch, Cocoa Spoonburgers.

The folder is free. Just write "Cocoa Folder" on a post card, along with your name and address, and mail it to Dept. NCF, Hershey Foods Corporation, Hershey, Pa. 17033.



AZTEC SUNBURST—Pears, cherries, nuts and cocoa combine in this showy upside-down cake to make a dessert worthy of an Aztec emperor, your family and your dearest friends.

Toast Snacks and Serve Hot

An interesting filling goes into these toasted snacks.

MUSHROOM ROLLS

½ pound mushrooms, chopped fine (2 cups not packed)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon onion powder
12 (about) thin slices bread, crusts removed and flattened with rolling pin
Extra butter, softened

Into a 10-inch skillet turn all the ingredients except the bread and softened butter. Cook quickly, stirring several times, until mushrooms wilt—about 5 minutes. (Little liquid should collect in pan.)

★ ★ ★

Spread bread slices with extra butter and then with mushroom mixture; there will be about 1 tablespoon for each slice; roll up. Spread outside of rolls with extra butter and place in jelly roll pan.

Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven until browned — 10 minutes or longer, turning halfway through baking time for even browning. Cut rolls in half crosswise and serve at once. Makes 24.

Mushroom Caps Given a Filling

For a delicious and elegant appetizer or cocktail snack, try stuffing jumbo mushroom caps with a tasty bread crumb filling.

Combine already-seasoned dry bread crumbs with bits of crispy crumbled bacon and horseradish for extra zip. Add enough melted butter and sherry to moisten the dry mixture. Brush muchrooms with melted butter and broil, unfilled, for 2 minutes.

★ ★ ★

Spoon filling into stem cavity, brush again with butter and broil about 3 minutes. Better make a lot — these go fast.

ZOO'S WHO AROUND THE WORLD — Some new additions to world zoos include triplets born to Juanita, a 4-year-old cheetah, at England's Whipsnade Zoo. In Portland, Ore., a 220-pound elephant became the seventh of its species to be born in the United States. And the birth of two thorn-backed rays in Cleveland, Ohio, is rated as a first for an inland aquarium. One was slightly misformed, but otherwise healthy. Two recent offspring of Rajah, son of the first white tiger ever captured, brought to 26 the number of white tigers now living in captivity. Most reside in the New Delhi, India, zoo.

Student Beaten by Four Youths

An 18-year-old Pontiac Township boy remains in satisfactory condition today in a Flint hospital after he reportedly was beaten by four boys in Holly Township.

★ ★ ★

James Gray, a dormitory student at Adelphian Academy at 820 Academy, Holly Township, reportedly was beaten Tuesday night near the school. His home is at 202 Cherryland.

★ ★ ★

He was taken to Flint Osteopathic Hospital with a damaged spleen, broken jaw, punctured kidney and internal bleeding, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies. The incident was reported to them yesterday morning.

Gray told deputies the youths who beat him were 18 to 20 years old. He said they punched and kicked him. Deputies are searching for the four assailants.

Lions' Owner Hits Detroit Stadium Lag

DETROIT (AP) — The owner of the Detroit Lions pro football team has complained about lack of action by Detroit to build a new sports stadium.

★ ★ ★

William Clay Ford said in a letter to State Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, "It's time now for Detroit's business and political leaders to take some constructive action.

★ ★ ★

"As you know, a number of (stadium) sites have been proposed, including one by the Detroit river front," Ford said in the April 25 letter. "We are told that a stadium at that location will help revitalize Detroit, and this may be true. Still, no property has been acquired nor has anyone come forth with a plan for financing a stadium there.

"Meanwhile, cities smaller than Detroit have gone ahead and accomplished what we merely debate," Ford said.

PONTIAC PLAN

(The city of Pontiac has a plan for a stadium at I-75 and M59 on city-owned land which could be built with the city's bonding power. The proposal is expected to be presented to the teams later this month).

Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh unveiled his proposal for a downtown stadium last Feb. 14. It would be located west of Cobo Hall at the Detroit River.

Other proposed sites are in Southfield, Troy, Walled Lake the State Fairgrounds in Detroit.

Cavanagh and some other city officials denied any delay, saying efforts to find and acquire a stadium site have to be carried out quietly.

"The city's working on it," said Thomas Ashcraft, industrial development coordinator for Detroit. "We're going about our business very diligently."

Finance Unit Okays Area Drain Bonds

The Michigan Municipal Finance Commission has approved the issuance of $70,000 in drain bonds for construction of the Case Drain in Bloomfield Township.

Opponents see the action as another breakthrough on Oakland County's 15-mill tax limit.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Maxine Virtue, an assistant attorney general, argued that the drain code allows such novoted taxes to be spread outside the limit. A legal opinion which she authored earlier this year held that for a county to spread bonding payments outside the limit was illegal, except on a temporary basis.

★ ★ ★

Jim Nichols, deputy county drain commissioner, said application for bond approval had been before the finance commission since January. He said the drain was built three months ago and paid for with funds advanced from Bloomfield Township.

★ ★ ★

Mariner Shots Find That Sun Is Not So Hot

PASADENA Calif. (AP) — The sun isn't quite so hot as thought, it seems.

Engineering data from Mariners 6 and 7, both en route to Mars, shows heat from the sun is 125.7 watts per square foot instead of 129.5 shown by previous tests, Joseph A. Plamondon said today.

★ ★ ★

Plamondon, an engineer for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory's Marine '69 project, said a new direct value for thermal radiation has resulted from the flights.

★ ★ ★

The new value used in simulating the sun's heat is nearly twice as accurate as previous measurement, Plamondon said.

The data is provided by special instruments which have monitored solar radiation since Mariner 6 was launched Feb. 24 and Mariner 7 on March 27.

Half of all drivers involved in fatal car crashes had been drinking beforehand, a four year study shows.

Cocky Tommy Smothers Shines at 'Lights On' Show

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Tommy Smothers, out of the largeness of his heart, flew from Dayton and Chicago to m.c. our Fight-For-Sight "Lights On" show at Lincoln Center Philharmonic Hall . . . and many a friend made he.

Probably he made enemies, too, for at 32 he's pretty cocky.

WILSON

"Hitler is still alive!" he shouted at one point about the alleged dictators of TV who have taken him and brother Dicky off the air. You can hardly expect anybody in the top ranks of TV to regard that as funny because the top guys in TV aren't very funny guys.

"We're blacklisted, nobody will touch us," he said later. "The C in CBS stands for Censorship and you know the rest of it stands for."

Thinking of teasing him, we said maybe his speeches introducing some stars at the show should be censored.

"That's not funny, Earl!" he said (though laughing at the time). "You're talking to a man that's unemployed."

In jest he sank to his knees. "You've got to tell it for me, man. I got no medium. The electronic medium reaches nobody, anymore." He said though that he'd be doing some ABC TV specials but as for a series . . . "ABC is . . ." he made a fluttery wave of his fingers.

★ ★ ★

"Where's Dicky?" we asked.

"Racing, in California," he said. "I don't know whether he won, lost or got killed."

Tommy breezed through it all with great independence of spirit. He told Jackie Mason: "There's nothing you can do to help us — or louse us up, anymore." We got the feeling from Tommy that he felt very very disconsolate about the coming TV season for the Smotherses.

★ ★ ★

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Joe Namath shaved his mustache and goatee again — not on TV for 10Gs this time, but just because it itched . . . Tricia Nixon's first White House party will have entertainment by The Temptations and The Turtle . . . Norman Mailer pushed his campaign for the NYC mayoralty — he shook hands with the kitchen staff and Frankie & Johnnie's.

Singer Jane Harvey'll marry TV director Sidney Smith . . . The Lila Motley League's Peacock Ball enjoyed caviar sent by the Shah of Iran. (It arrived at JFK Airport two hours before the party started) . . . Barbra Streisand's estranged husband, Elliot Gould, was offered the Jean Paul Belmondo role in a musical version of "Big Deal on Madonna St."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Every year it takes less time to fly across the Atlantic and more time to drive crosstown to the office."

★ ★ ★

EARL'S PEARLS: Alcohol and gasoline don't mix. Besides, they taste terrible.

Joan Rivers reports her cousin is being divorced because of his interest in gardening: "I think that's what it was — his wife said she found he had a couple of tomatoes in the suburbs." That's earl, brother.

A Look at TV

'White-Ins' Lighten Hour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Glen Campbell's CBS variety hour, one of the few evening programs that has not gone into reruns, reversed a familiar theatrical device last night.

Instead of a series of blackouts — short sketches or gags that end with a suddenly black screen—it presented a series of "white-ins." They consisted of bits of dialogue spoken when the screen was black, with the gag coming when the lights flashed on. One sketch had an employer firing a man, explaining that he acted the part of the "office clown." On came the lights and the fellow actually was a clown, complete with makeup and fright wig.

★ ★ ★

It was not earth-shaking and some of the "white-ins" didn't come off. But, after all, little in TV's entertainment sector this season has been very original or has lingered long in most viewers' minds.

A single picture that might summarize the past season is a close-up of someone's fingers plucking a guitar. There must have been thousands of such shots since singers with guitars were the most popular commodities of the three networks.

BRIGHT SPOTS

As for the one-shot specials shows that put some class in the schedules — there has been a scattering of memorable ones. This viewer's choice as the best would be NBC's "Male of the Species" with Paul Scofield, which did not receive any Emmy nomination although Scofield did. Another favorite was ABC's "Thanksgiving Visitor" and Geraldine Page's moving performance.

NBC's original play, "Teacher, Teacher" about a mentally retarded boy also sticks in the mind. But those highly exploited "CBS Playhouse" and NBC "On Stage" originals were disappointing for the most part.

★ ★ ★

"Laugh-In" in its irreverent, uninhibited way, remains a distinct and distinctive TV phenomenon and certainly has been the brightest spot in the weekly schedules. The Smothers Brothers war with their network was more interesting than most of their programs or their editorializing.

N-Power Plants Could Warm Great Lakes' Waters for Swimming

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Bathers who complain that the Great Lakes are too cold could swim in warmer water in the future if nuclear power plants heat waters along popular summertime beaches.

The idea of using hot water discharged by nuclear generating stations to warm beach waters was proposed this week by Roman H. Koenings, U. S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation regional director at Ann Arbor.

"You have to be a relatively hardy individual to swim in several lakes for extended periods—and I'm not just talking about Lake Superior," Koenings told the Great Lakes Research Conference.

"It is possible that the warmer water from atomic power plants could be utilized in improving the water temperature at some beaches," he added.

Conservationists have opposed construction of atomic power plants along Lake Michigan because of possible harm to acquatic life.

★ ★ ★

"I don't think it would have much of an effect on aquatic life in the Great Lakes," Carr said.

"Many rivers flowing into the lakes in the spring are 15 degrees warmer than the lakes."

Swimmers favor temperatures in the high 70s, Carr said, adding that water temperatures along Lake Michigan beaches sometimes hit 80 degrees during extremely hot summers.

★ ★ ★

Temperatures of inshore waters will peak at 70 degrees in Lake Superior and between 70-75 degrees in Lake Ontario during prolonged heat waves, he added.

"I think it's a good idea, especially along the North Shore of Lake Ontario," added J. P. Valentine of Winnipeg, Man.

"I was raised along Lake Ontario, and you have to wait until July 1 to go swimming—and then you still freeze."

Vallentyne, a member of the Fish Research Board of Canada, discounted possible detrimental effects of higher water tempreatures.

"All the heat does is take you down about five degrees latitude," he said.

He added, "Protected bays should be sought out and acquired for this purpose."

Six nuclear generating stations have been built or proposed for construction on Lake Michigan, Koenings said.

★ ★ ★

Atomic power plants use lake water for cooling purposes before returning it to the lake at higher temperatures ranging from 15 to 20 degrees Farenheit, said John F. Carr, a member of the U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries at Ann Arbor.

In theory, waters could be warmed by discharging heated water along beaches, Koenings suggested. He did not elaborate.

Carr doubted whether this method could be used to warm large masses of water.

"I don't think you're going to change the temperature over a large area," he said. "Most of the heat loss is to the atmosphere and not to the lake."

"All the bathers would be crowded into a pretty small area because the heat dissipates rapidly," he said.

"I really can't see it as objectionable if you're living in Canada."

"If I had to bet money on it, I'd bet in the northern latitudes it would be a good thing," he added.

Robert Reinert, a U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries biologist, warned of possible dangers.

"You don't just do something to change one small part of a lake without having it affect other areas of the lake," he said.

"Temperature is one of the things that fish are extremely sensitive to—even minute changes of less than one degree."

"A few degrees change in temperature can affect reproduction and hatching time in certain species. This could be a problem," he said.

County Eyes Solid-Waste Disposal Site, Airport Link

By JEAN SAILE

Can you make a solid waste disposal site out of an airport and still improve it as an airport?

Would such an arrangement be feasible and economical? And if you're an Oakalnd County supervisor, how does such a plan affect those who elected you?

These were some of the questions asked as development of the Oakland-Orion Airport was discussed yesterday before the supervisors' aviation and transportation committee.

The idea of solving two county problems at once was proposed by Wallace Gabler, R-Royal Oak, committee chairman.

TREMENDOUS PROBLEMS

"The county has tremendous problems in solid waste disposal," the chairman said. "It also is concerned with airport development.

"It logically follows to use land the county owns on the Oakland-Orion Airport site for solid waste disposal. Instead of pushing dirt around on the site, we could fill in the holes with solid waste," Gabler suggested.

★ ★ ★

Senate Unit Reports Out 2 Bills on Rec-Fund Split

LANSING (AP) — The Senate Conservation Committee yesterday reported out two bills advocating different formulas — one the choice of sportsmen, the other Gov. William Milliken's proposal—for dividing the $100 million in recreation bond funds.

The money-split question is "so controversial," the entire Senate should have a chance to debate the various methods, said Sen. George Fitzgerald, D-Grosse Pointe Park.

★ ★ ★

The House Conservation Committee, meanwhile, was reported preparing a substitute bill that would offer a 70-30 split of funds, but could assure that urban areas got a greater chunk than had previously been proposed.

One bill reported from the Senate committee splits the funds on a 30-30-40 basis as Milliken proposed. The bill was sponsored by Sen. Coleman Young, D-Detroit, and Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis.

Some $30 million would go to counties on a per capita basis, another $30 million to counties over 100,000 population and the remaining $40 million to the State Department of Natural Resources for state projects.

Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford, supported the governor's proposal, saying he believed much of the bond issue money should go to areas surrounding urban centers.

★ ★ ★

"The people who are there in the long, hot summers—the kids on the streets have no place to go," he said. "They can't drive clear to the north country."

The second bill, sponsored by Conservation Committee Chairman Gordon Rockwell, R-Mount Morris, divides the money on a 70-30 basis, with $70 million earmarked for state recreation projects and $30 million for local communities.

Some legislators and many conservationists contend that former Gov. Romney campaigned for successful passage of the bond issue with promises that the money would be divided 70-30 with a majority of it going to outstate areas.

Milliken proposed the 30-30-40 split after the bond issue passed and was showered with criticism from those who claimed he "broke faith with the people" who voted for the measure.

★ ★ ★

The reported campaign promises "cannot tie up my vote or that of this legislature," argued Brown, who voted against reporting out the 70-30 bill.

"We ought to talk about need and need only," Brown maintained.

Whitmer's Son Due State Post

Richard Whitmer, a 29-year old lawyer currently legislative counsel to the governor, reportedly was to be named today as director of the State Commerce Department at an annual salary of $25,000. Senate confirmation of the appointment will be required.

WHITMER

Whitmer is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Dana P. Whitmer, 43 N. Genesee, Pontiac's superintendent of schools.

★ ★ ★

The Commerce Department directorship was opened Tuesday when Herbert DeJonge resigned to accept a civil service appointment as deputy director of the State Department of Administration.

Whitmer, a 1965 graduate of the University of Michigan law school served on the staffs of former Gov. George Romney and Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich. He left Griffin's staff in January to work with Gov. William Milliken.

Some Experts Say Lewd Publications Don't Provoke Unlawful Sex Acts

Experts Split on 'Smut' Harm

(Last of a series.)

By DICK ROBINSON

Does sexually oriented literature provoke antisocial behavior?

Pontiac Police Chief William K. Hanger, who heads an investigation into the city's adult-only bookstores, thinks so.

★ ★ ★

But most psychiatrists and psychologists — the experts — doubt that obscene literature is harmful to children.

"I haven't seen much of a problem with this literature," Andy Young, an Oakland County juvenile court psychologist, said. It isn't harmful if the youth comes from a good family background."

BETTER ADJUSTED

In fact, a New Jersey clinical psychologist remarked that "Some adolescents started to get better adjusted to reality when they began to read pornography."

"The sexual offenders I have seen in 20 years of practice have been, without exception, shy, ignorant, bumbling middle-aged men, active in church, youth groups or some such organization stressing a sort of ideal conduct," a psychiatrist commented.

★ ★ ★

Other experts say that pornography implants in the young a morbid preoccupation with sex.

It doesn't help youngsters to view sex as the only part of the relationship between people in love — people who possess personalities and minds as well as reproductive organs, they insist.

CURBS FAVORED

A sampling of public opinions here draws opinions ranging from no censorship at all to a total ban on "smut."

"If that's what adults get their kicks out of, let them go ahead," advocated a 15-year-old Pontiac girl, who has bought titillating publications.

★ ★ ★

"I don't care for it. It's pretty rank, and I don't want to see it in the hands of kids. Quite a bit gets into the hands of boys at school. They keep it in notebooks, look at it in the halls and laugh."

Police quoted an 18-year-old clerk at one of the city stores as saying, "I'm glad someone is finally doing something about this mess."

"It's awful, it's vulgar and it's trash," ranted a mother of two children who admitted never seeing the provocative magazines. "If they sell this to a 15-year-old, no wonder there's so much crime."

"My parents wouldn't even let me read Modern Romance magazine."

★ ★ ★

A matronly woman wrote this to Hanger:

"I went to the door of one of the bookstores and thought it was a legitimate store. Then I saw a sign on the door — "adults only." I surely got out of there fast. It really frightened me."

CENSORS CRITICIZED

Tomorrow: Cool After Rain

Showers and thundershowers moving out of the Pontiac area today are expected to leave temperatures somewhat cooler with the low dipping into the 40s.

Partly cloudy and cooler with the high of 57 to 63 is the Friday forecast. Fair and pleasant is the outlook for Saturday.

Winds southeast to south at 10 to 20 miles per hour today will become southwesterly late today and west to northwest tonight.

Probabilities of precipitation in per cent are 100 today, 40 tonight, and 20 tomorrow.

Sixty was the low temperature before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. The mercury climbed to 74 by 12:30 p.m.

New Wage-Tax Plan Aids Middle Incomes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills says his committee is working on an income tax revision plan that would eliminate most deductions and cut taxes for those in the $10,000-$20,000 salary bracket.

★ ★ ★

Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said yesterday over-all tax rates for individuals then could be cut to vary from 5 to 50 per cent. The rates now range from 14 to 70 per cent.

★ ★ ★

The Treasury Department has been asked by Mills to check the plan on its computers to determine the effect on revenue.

★ ★ ★

The object would be neither to gain nor lose revenue over-all but to simplify preparation and auditing of income tax returns, Mills said.

DEDUCTIONS

Deductions for such items as medical expense, interest and local taxes would be allowed only to the extent the total exceeded 10 per cent of the taxpayer's gross income. A person earning $20,000 with total deductions of $2,500 would only be allowed to take off $500 under the new plan, Mills said. All charitable donations would remain deductible.

★ ★ ★

The standard 10 per cent deduction for those earning $10,000 or less would be eliminated entirely.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, Mills' committee is reported interested in a proposal to ban grants direct to individuals.

★ ★ ★

The issue was catapulted back into public attention this week with the charge that Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas received—but returned—a fee from the family foundation of Louis E. Wolfson, who has been imprisoned for selling unregistered stock.

FOUNDATION CRITICIZED

Earlier, the Ford Foundation was criticized in testimony to the committee for making grants to eight former aides to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

★ ★ ★

The regulation the committee is considering would prohibit grants to individuals by a general-purpose tax-exempt foundation like Ford. It could, however, supply funds to another tax-exempt organization, like a university, which in turn could make grants to individuals for approved projects.

Impeachment Eyed for Fortas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, has forecast an impeachment move in the House against Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas unless Fortas explains a $20,000 fee offered him by the Louis E. Wolfson family foundation.

★ ★ ★

"It all depends on what happens in the next few days," Taft said, adding that he doesn't now plan to file such proceedings himself but might later, depending on developments.

★ ★ ★

Taft said he and other House members think Fortas should be given an opportunity to make further explanation of te fee.

★ ★ ★

Fortas said the $20,000 was tendered to him for writing and research but rejected because of the court work load. Life magazine reported the justice kept the money 11 months and sent it back after Wolfson was indicted on securities and perjury charges. Wolfson is now in federal prison.

'MORE TO BE REVEALED'

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, D-Mich., said there is more information to come out on the Wolfson matter but added he could not say what it is.

A report from Boston today said that Fortas has canceled his share of a fee for a speech at Northeastern University.

★ ★ ★

Tom Conrad, student chairman of the committee sponsoring Fortas' appearance, said the fee was canceled Monday by the Harry Walker Agency in New York, which booked the speech.

Conrad said, "The agency called Monday and said the fee would be only $675, instead of the original $2,000." He said no reason was given.

★ ★ ★

The student chairman said the agency told him the $675 was to cover the agency's commission and Fortas' travel expenses from Washington to Boston.

Finally, 99 of the 100 pigs were without tails, Callicott said. The guilty little piggy went to market.

COOL DEMONSTRATION—Temperatures in the mid-80s were too much of a temptation for one girl (center foreground) as she dipped her hair in a pool during a demonstration yesterday on the patio of the Indiana State Office Building. Students Still Control 6 Howard Buildings

By United Press International

City College of New York reopens today with police guards to prevent a repetition of yesterday's fights between white students and black and Puerto Rican students.

In Washington, D.C. Howard University students remained in control of six campus buildings. The administration of the mostly Negro school gave them a 24-hour ultimatum—ending at midafternoon today—to allow the barricaded campus to reopen.

National Guardsmen and New Orleans police were at the campus of Southern University today, hoping to catch an elusive Lebanese professor who defied Dean Emmett W. Bashful's order yesterday to "vacate your office and the campus" and skipped ahead of police.

About 5,000 students from Indiana's four state-supported universities—Indiana, Purdue, Ball State and Indiana State—staged a peaceful demonstration outside the state house yesterday to protest tuition hikes next fall. The students carried signs calling Gov. Edgard Whitcomb "an outside agitator," recalling the governor's blast against "outside agitators" on campus.

The fighting at City College of New York, which left seven persons injured, came the day after classes were resumed following two weeks of disruption. Yesterday was the first day police were called to the school as 125 helmeted officers took more than an hour to part white and minority group students who went at each other with baseball bats, golf clubs and truncheons.

★ ★ ★

At Southern University, Dr. George Haggar, a political science teacher from Lebanon, led police on a merry chase —with the aid of the Afro-American Society—after Gov. John J. McKeithen orderd 280 Guardsmen on standby duty and Dean Bashful ordered the campus vacated.

★ ★ ★

Other student disruptions occurred at the University of Bridgeport in Connecticut and the University of Hawaii.

At Dartmouth in New Hempshire, about 300-400 students reportedly planned to disrupt some classes today to force consideration of proposals to abolish ROTC and give amnesty to 56 students arrested by police in the administration building yesterday.

Area Man Killed in I-75 Mishap

A Birmingham man was killed when his van apparently blew a tire, left the road and rolled over on I-75 in Troy last night, according to Troy police.

Killed was Robert E. Langdon, 41, of 526 Catalpa. He was found dead at the scene one-quarter mile east of the Rochester overpass. His body was half-way out of the van window and pinned beneath the vehicle on the expressway median, police said.

MRS. ELDRED SWEENEY

She's Candidate Part and Parcel

Mrs. Eldred (Carole) Sweeney of 228 Orchard Lake purchased one square foot of land in Pontiac this week to qualify her as a property owner so she can run for the city school board.

Mrs. Sweeney, 30, bought the property for $1 in order to meet the requirements of a state law which specifies that a school board candidates must be a land-owner within that district.

★ ★ ★

She bought the parcel from a friend, James Baldwin, at his home at 179 Augusta on Monday and legally registered it in her name for a deed fee of $2. She filed her nominating petition for the school board Tuesday.

Mrs. Sweeney's land purchase makes her the first black person to buy property in the all-white neighborhood near Pontiac State Hospital.

What is she going to do with her small plot of land? "I'm going to build a white picket fence around it with popsicle sticks, and plant flowers," she said.

Mrs. Sweeney, who has three daughters in the Pontiac Schools, is an active crusader for civil rights in the community.

She has been a foster parent for a number of girls and is a member of Voice of Oakland County Action League (VOCAL), the Urban League, NAACP and the Pontiac Black Cultural Center.

If elected, Mrs. Sweeney said, "I will push for the uprading of black schools in Pontiac both physically and scholastically. I would also encourage meaningful integration in schools and expansion of the special education programs."

Mrs. Sweeney, who has attended every meeting of the board of education since last November, and many before that, said, "I feel that the board of education will be much more than just a hobby with me."

The deadline for candidates to file for the board of education is Monday. School district voters may register for the election June 9 until tomorrow.

School Debate Near in House

LANSING (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee yesterday reported out an $844.08-million state school aid bill and set the stage for one of the hottest debates of the legislative session—parochiaid.

Discussion of the bill could begin tomorrow, according to House Speaker William Ryan, D-Detroit.

★ ★ ★

The appropriations committee voted 10-3 for the bill after paring the schools allocation to $844.08 million — $120,000 less than the figure adopted earlier by the Senate.

Ryan, leader of the successful bid to add $100,000 for church and other privately run schools, said refinements must be made in the parochiaid rider, although no more money is involved.

"There will be efforts" to add to the bill, Ryan predicted.

Appropriations Chairman William Copeland, D-Wyandotte, declined to speculate what effect the bill—some $505,000 below Gov. William Milliken's recommended budget—would have on the state's hard-pressed schools.

★ ★ ★

"I'm a finance man, I'm not an educator," Copeland said. "It'll be up to the educators to say how they'll make out."

Birmingham Area

Unit Fails to Act on Bid to End Sex Education

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The board of education took no action on the recent request of several residents who asked for suspension of the district's sex education program.

★ ★ ★

The board invited protesting residents who appeared at the board meeting earlier this week to join the citizens committee which oversees and continually evaluates the materials and procedures used in the sex edducation program.

★ ★ ★

The committee now has 24 members. Fouteen residents asked to join the committee.

★ ★ ★

Norman Quinn, director of health, physical education and athletics, said "the communication lines are being kept open at all times any anyone wishing a voice in evaluating the program is invited to do so."

STEMS FROM ARGUMENT

The most recent protest stemmed mostly from the broad-based argument that sex education should not be the responsibility of the schools.

★ ★ ★

Sex education has been taught in varying degrees for several years in the district, Quinn said. However, currently it is limited to the elementary and junior high levels.

★ ★ ★

Sex education is treated on a family life basis and is only one of several studies in the field of health education.

The board has planned an informational meeting for May 14 at 8 p.m. at Pine Lake School, which will present the films, materials and procedures used in the course.

BIRMINGHAM — The Planning Board introduced a motion last night to hold the height limitations on (B1) Non-retail business and (B2) neighborhood business to 30 feet.

Another motion was introduced to pare the present limitation on (B3) community business to 55 feet.

★ ★ ★

The proposed height alterations, which have yet to be adopted, is the result of a study of zoning procedures in the city. The height of structures in the business classifications is the first area to be considered in the study.

Harambee Buying at $250,000

Harambee Inc., a black community housing development corporation, has announced its land acquisition campaign has reached the $250,000 mark.

Latest purchasing agreements are for a 12-acre site across from Lakeside homes and a three-acre parcel at Bagley and Diston.

The larger piece is presently occupied by abandoned buildings known as Surfside. A housing development of medium-rise twin towers with one and two-bedroom units is planned for the site. Some town houses and commercial and community facilities also are projected.

Multiple-dwelling units numbering from 30 to 60 are planned for the Bagley-Diston site. An old structure known as the Kelly Foundry is presently occupying the land. It is to be demolished soon.

Last month Harambee was the successful bidder for a parcel that formerly contained the city's Department of Public Works, known as the Lake Street Yards, at Lake and Orton. The bid was $40,700 and the firm expects to build a $1-million, 60-unit housing development on the land.

Charles M. Tucker Jr., Harambee president, announced the architectural firm of Griffin, Ward and Agee of Detroit has been retained for the Bagley-Diston site.

Two Detroit firms — Howard Simms and Nathan Johnson — have been retained for the Surfside site.

Harambee also has a four-acre site at Bagley and Wessen in its land bank, Tucker said. The firm has also been engaged in obtaining single lots mostly in the southwest area of the city.

Harambee has been financed in its planning stages by grants from the Archdiocese Development Fund, Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority and by contributions. It has been working closely with city authorities in long-range planning.

The nonprofit organization was formed a year ago by black and Latin-American community members with the objective of providing additional housing.

Three Take Postal Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three assistant Postmasters General, including the first black person ever to hold the post, were sworn in yesterday. They were Ronald B. Lee, 36, a Negro professor from East Lansing, Mich., to head the new Bureau of Planning, Marketing and System Analysis; Frank J. Nunlist, 55, of Livingstone, N.J., former president and chief executive officer of Studebaker-Worthington Inc., to head the Bureau of Operations; and Henry Lehne, 54, Western, Mass., former senior vice president of Sylvania Electric Product Inc., to head the Bureau of Facilities.

Ex-Road Aide Faces Trial

A former Oakland County weighmaster was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday to stand trial on charges of embezzling funds while employed with the road commission.

Tom Kennedy, arrested a year ago this month, waived any further preliminary hearing on the charges when he appeared yesterday before District Judge Kenneth H. Hempstead.

★ ★ ★

The waiver was announced by Kennedy's attorney, Robert K. Anderson, and was a surprise to the court since it had set aside two days to complete the proceedings. Anderson is a partner with attorney James Lawson who has represented Kennedy in previous hearings.

Kennedy, 50, of 2908 Voorheis, Waterford Township, was arrested and charged with the embezzlements following an extensive investigation by State Police.

SURETY BOND FUNDS

The charges against Kennedy stem from accusations that he kept funds that truckers had given him in lieu of surety bonds.

The bonds insure truckers against damage that they might cause to county roads.

The three separate offenses allegedly occurred Oct. 22, 1964, March 1, 1966, and May 31, 1967, and involved sums of $400, $600 and $250, respectively.

The hearing today was to have been a resumption of the first case which began last July, but which had been adjourned on numerous occasions because of the unavailability of attorneys and later the changeover in Michigan's court system from justices to District judges.

Kennedy resigned his weighmaster post in October 1967, shortly after being confronted with reports about irregularities in his department. He had been with the road commission for 15 years.

Kennedy is a former pro football player with the Detroit Lions and a long-time area high school coach.

Congress Gets $10,000 Request

Phenomena Hunt Funds Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Center for Short-Lived Phenomena is asking Congress for $10,000 to find such will-o'-the-wisps as migrating squirrels and a disappearing island.

The center is a branch of the Smithsonian Institution that alerts scientists quickly to unexpected whims of nature, thus improving research opportunities, according to S. Dillon Ripley, Smithsonian secretary.

Significant biological and geophysical short-lived events, including fireballs, earthquakes and volcano eruptions, are reported within hours by a network of 836 correspondents in 86 countries, said Ripley.

Members of a House appropriations subcommittee were not certain whether to believe Ripley when he also described items like seiche, red tide and migrating rare animals in asking for the $10,000 budget next fiscal year. The recent testimony was released today.

"What were the rare animal migrations?" inquired Chairman Julia Butler Hansen, D-Wash.

"One was of gray squirrels, throughout the central eastern states," replied Ripley.

Rep. Wendell Wyatt, R-Ore., wanted to know what a seiche is.

"It is very much like a tidal wave," said Ripley.

And the red tide, asked Rep. Joseph M. McDade, R-Pa.

"It is a small marine organism which is brightly colored red," Ripley explained. "When these aggregate in vast quantities, hundreds of millions of organisms, they create what is called a red tide because the water coming in shore is discolored by this." The growth cuts off oxygen, smothering marine life and creating a cleanup problem.

Ripley said the center took part in 70 fleeting events during 1968 including 20 major earthquakes, 12 volcanic eruptions including the birth and disappearance of a volcanic island, 11 fireballs, five major oil spills, five fish kills, one red tide, one seiche, one sea surge, and two rare animal migrations.

GI Escapee Is Improving

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Spec. 5 Thomas H. VanPutten, the Caledonia soldier who escaped after 14 months in a Vietcong prison camp, was discharged from a hospital here yesterday.

VanPutten had been admitted last Friday suffering with double pneumonia.

He was at Great Lake Naval Hospital in Chicago today for further debriefing and examinations.

Halley's comet is due to appear again sometime in 1985 or 1986.

Some Parochial Schools See Hope in Spare-Time Programs

By The Associated Press

Some parochial schools in Michigan are finding at least temporary financial salvation through a so-called shared-time program with public schools.

Under such a program parochial pupils take such secular courses as shop, physical education, home economics, arts, music and science at a public school for half a day, while receiving instruction in such subjects as English, religion, reading, spelling and social studies in parochial classrooms.

★ ★ ★

Some parochial schools do not have adequate equipment for such subjects as shop, home economics, science and some of the other subjects for which their students switch over to public schools.

Two Monroe Catholic junior high schools have had a shared-time program and a third has announced its intentions of adopting a similar schedule for the 1969-70 school year.

GRAND RAPIDS

At least one Grand Rapids Catholic junior high has a similar program.

A school executive of the Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit reported in 1968 there were then 28 Catholic junior and senior high schools in the eight-county archdiocese which operated on a shared-time basis.

★ ★ ★

Dr. M. J. Stelmachowicz, superintendent of Detroit's two Lutheran high schools, said his faith is "not opposed to the (shared-time) concept, but doesn't push it."

There are some instances, Dr. Stelmachowicz said, where Lutheran pupils "who want to take a course we don't have" are given time out to take it in public schools, and Lutheran pupils take driver-training at public schools, but after their parochial schools close for the day.

FEELING PINCH

While conceding his schools "feel the pinch of an inflated economy," Dr. Stelmachowicz said he did not believe they "have quite as acute financial problem as the Catholics," adding that "we are used to paying salaries" of teachers and religious instructors.

Because of what it says are financial difficulties, the Detroit Catholic archdiocese has announced it will close 21 schools and consolidate four others at the end of the current school year.

★ ★ ★

Catholic spokesmen say a declining number of women entering the church's various orders as nuns and a decrease in teaching priests are major causes of the financial pinch Catholic schools are experiencing.

To replace the formerly unpaid religious instructors, Catholic schools are having to turn to lay teachers, who, they say, are demanding salaries and fringe benefits similar to those of public school teachers.

'LIMITED SUCCESS'

Adrian Catholic Central High, which tried a limited shared-time program for a couple of years is among those which it has been announced will be closed.

Dr. Richard Wilson, principal of Adrian High, described the shared-time program with Catholic Central as "a limited success," and said students did have "some difficulty in deciding which school to identify with."

★ ★ ★

At Grand Rapids 70 junior high pupils from the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic School go across the street to Riverview Junior High each afternoon for physical education, mathematics, science, shop and home economics.

The Grand Rapids program was inaugurated four years ago.

'FINE RESULTS'

"The children go over to Riverview and they are mixed right in with the regular classes," said Sister Marie Emile, Immaculate Heart principal. "As a result we've had fine cooperation and fine results."

There are 67 nonpublic pupils among some 500 from other high schools who are enrolled in courses at Grand Rapids' experimental Educational Park, to which pupils are bused.

★ ★ ★

Specialized courses such as auto mechanics, electronics and interior house design are offered there.

Surveying sentiment of pupils taking part in Monroe's shared-time program early this year, the Monroe Evening News reported it got such comments as: "A unique experience . . . School is more exciting this year . . . Chance to meet more people . . . I think the shared-time program is really great."

Seventh and eighth grade pupils from St. Mary's and St. Michael's Catholic Schools currently are participating in the Monroe program, and St. Joseph's has announced it will join in next fall.

St. Mary's has 130 pupils and St. Michael's 116 participating. St. Joseph's expects to have 60.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Harold Rapson, superintendent of Monroe Public Schools, said he was unable to estimate offhand how much the program had added to public school costs, but described himself as "very happy" with the program.

He said public schools "have a responsibility to take care of anyone applying" adding that his system had added sufficient personnel to keep class sizes and pupil-teacher ratios where they were previously.

$325 PER STUDENT

He said it costs approximately $650 per pupil per year to operate Monroe schools and said any switching from nonpublic schools for a half - day would represent an added cost of approximately $325 each, or half the full-time pupil cost.

★ ★ ★

Sister Harriett, principal of St. Michael's, said: "I see participation in such programs as a partial answer to some of the problems facing us today."

★ ★ ★

Sister Angelique, principal of St. Mary's, said: "The junior high program has been most beneficial for our students, from an educational and social, as well as financial, viewpoint.

"Students have been given a perspective of another school system, teachers, curriculum and facilities. The additional classes have given students an awareness of their potential.

THREE WHEELED VEHICLE — The 511 commuter vehicle drives through a test area at the GM Technical Center. The three-wheeler, gasoline-powered vehicle features exceptional stability, fuel economy and maneuverability.

GASOLINE-ELECTRIC HYBRID — This vehicle is one of three experimental 512 series of special-purpose cars developed by General Motors engineering staff.

GM Demonstrates 5 Experimental Special-Purpose Vehicles

WARREN — Five experimental special-purpose vehicles for limited urban transportation were demonstrated here yesterday as part of the General Motors Progress presentation.

Two of the small sized cars were gasoline powered, one electric powered and a fourth was driven by a hybrid gasoline-electric system. The fifth was a mock-up body and chassis with a hybrid system power plant.

★ ★ ★

Design and development of the four operational vehicles was directed by GM Engineering Staff in collaboration with GM Styling Staff and Delco-Remy Division. The fifth, XP883, was initiated by the GM styling staff.

The five cars were included in three separate projects. One was the three-car 512 series powered by gasoline, electric and hybrid units.

3-WHEEL SUSPENSION

The other, the 511 car, featured a three-wheel suspension — single wheel in front and two in the rear — with a conventional four-cylinder engine.

The fifth, XP883, is designed as a special-purpose two-plus-two passenger commuter vehicle to accommodate a hybrid gasoline-electric power system with front-wheel drive.

★ ★ ★

Following is a summary description of each of the 512 series, the 511, and XP883:

● 512 Hybrid gasoline-electric — This vehicle has a 50-inch wheelbase, 66-inch length, 56-inch height and 52-inch width. Curb weight is 1,250 pounds.

Construction is a combination of aluminum panels and tublular steel frame. For easy access it has a front canopy door and two-passenger bench seat.

★ ★ ★

The hybrid's power system consists of a 12-cubic-inch gasoline engine coupled with a series DC electric motor through an electromagnetic or hybrid mode.

In the hybrid mode, the peak horsepower is 13.8, top speed is 35 miles per hour, and the car accelerates from 0 to 30 miles per hour in 16 seconds. Its range at 30 miles per hour in the electric mode is 5.2 miles. It is approximately 150 miles in the hybrid mode with three gallons of gasoline.

● 512 electric — The exterior body is fiberglas with a steel-chassis floor pan and roll bar.

Wheelbase is 52 inches, over-all length is 86.3 inches and width 56 inches. Curb weight is 1,250 pounds with an 84-volt power battery pack.

The car's range at 25 miles an hour is 56 miles. At 30 miles ar hour, the range is 47 miles.

● 512 Gasoline vehicle — Of the three-car experimental 512 series, the gasoline-engine version emphasizes the sporty appearance. It is a roadster with integral plastic construction, 52-inch wheelbase, 86.3-inch over-all length, 55-inch width and 51.8-inch height. It weighs 950 pounds.

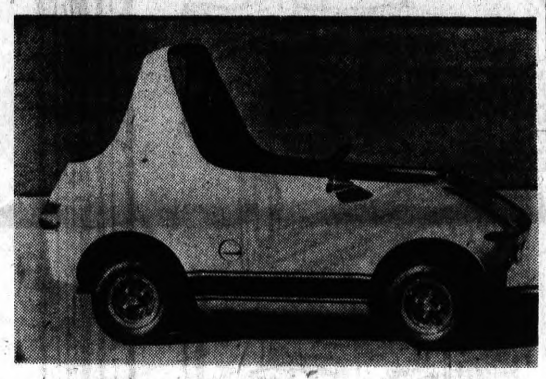
The power source is a 19.6-cubic-inch, two-cylinder 12-horsepowr aluminum engine with 11-1 compression ratio.

Top speed is 45 miles per hour and the car will accelerate from 0 to 30 miles per hour in 18 seconds. With a four-gallon fuel tank, its range is approximately 280 miles.

● 512 Commuter — The 511 commuter vehicle with its three-wheel suspension is a departure from conventional automotive practice. A special-purpose car, it is designed to transport two people from suburbs to downtown offices at freeway speeds.

The three-wheel design — one in front, two in the rear — provides excellent stability and maneuverability. It reduces weight, simplifies steering and allows for an uncomplicated "backbone" type of frame and makes possible a streamline shape.

The rear-mounted engine is a four-cylinder 66 cubic-inch Opel capable of 67 horsepower at 6,000 r.p.m. The transmission is a three-speed automatic torque converter type unit.



UTILIZES NEW SYSTEM — The 512 gasoline vehicle is powered by a 19.6-cubic-inch, two-cylinder, 12-horsepower aluminum engine with an 11-to-1 compression ratio. The car features an automatic transmission operating on the variable ratio V-belt principle with a centrifugal clutch, the first use of this system on an American vehicle.

Current Books

THE GREAT AIR WAR by Aaron Norman ($10, Macmillan): Comprehensive account of the men and battle planes of World War I, complete with illustrations.

This book claims to be the "first comprehensive account" of the aerial fighting of World War I. It isn't, of course. Comprehensive works on the same subject have been published for the past decade.

★ ★ ★

However, the book, written in readable and fast-moving style, easily stands in the front rank of the books dedicated to — as the subtitle says — "the men, the planes, the saga of military aviation, 1914-18."

The author, a pilot and freelance writer, acquaints the reader with the great aces of the "war to end wars" as well as many less famous — but equally brave — airmen. Some of the individual exploits rank with the classics of adventure literature.

★ ★ ★

The book is filled with colorful biographies of the top fighter pilots, and the various war planes of those dogfighting days also are described in rich detail.

A PARISIAN'S GUIDE TO PARIS by Henri Gault and Christian Millau translated by Patricia Allen Dreyfus (Random House $7.95): Three messages come through distinctly in this amusing and well-informed guidebook.

First, the French do indeed have some favorite little restaurants, bistros, nightclubs, hotels and shops largely unknown to tourists.

★ ★ ★

Second, the food, wine and ambience at eating establishments ranges from so-so to sublime.

Third — and most important, to the average tourist — few are cheap, even by U.S. dollar standards. But then, as the authors write, "sublime food is never cheap."

★ ★ ★

Both authors are Paris newspapermen and magazine writers who cover gastronomy, night life and travel.

IF ISRAEL LOST THE WAR by Richard Z. Chesnoff, Edward Klein and Robert Littell (Coward-McCann, $5.95): Some critics of group journalism feel that the result of a joint effort at reporting the news reeks more of fiction than of fact.

They should be delighted to see that the collective style works splendidly in this startling and upsetting novel written by three of Newsweek magazine associate editors.

★ ★ ★

All three authors were, in one way or another, deeply involved in the historic events of June 1967 — either on the spot or at Newsweek's home office.

The plot of the book is simple: Israel loses the war for the reason that she won it: the Arabs attack swiftly and just about demolish the Israeli air force.

★ ★ ★

Obviously pro-Israel, the authors have written their book as a warning. In this it succeeds with bloodcurdling effect. It also makes for fascinating reading no matter what one's own point of view is.

FIGHTING AIRMAN: WAY OF THE EAGLE by Major Charles Biddle ($4.95 Doubleday): The combat memoirs of one of America's top fighter pilots of World War I. Illustrated.

In this latest book in the air combat classic series currently being released by Doubleday, Biddle has captured the spectacle and the drama of his flights and fights with the French Air Service, the legendary Lafayette Escadrille, and the U.S. Air Service.

★ ★ ★

Biddle, a lawyer today in Philadelphia, was among that small group of brave young Americans who rushed to France's aid before America's entry into the war.

A serious student of aviation, his exceptionally well-written memoirs are replete with graphic accounts of aerial combat and vividly recall the very essence of what those days were like.

LETTERS FROM 74 RUE TAITBOUT OR DON'T GO BUT IF YOU MUST, SAY HELLO TO EVERYBODY, by William Saroyan; (World, $5.50):

Saroyan, now an American expatriate living in Paris, has given us a charming collection of letters written to all sorts of people — some famous, some unknown; some recently dead and some dead a long time.

★ ★ ★

A letter to Adolf Hitler is sandwiched between letters to Yeghishe Charentz, the Armenian poet; and Carl Sandberg, the American poet. In all the letters Saroyan examines the mysteries of life and tries to make them a little more understandable through his deep, humanitarian simplicity.

Once more, Saroyan has shown us the value of simplicity in an increasingly complex world.

HAUNTED HIGHWAYS by Ralph Looney (Hastings House, $12.95):

This offbeat picture-textbook is subtitled "The Ghost Towns of New Mexico," to which Looney proves an engaging guide.

★ ★ ★

New Mexico was a land of golden promise a century back, a wide-open desert land where men fought for mines, women and water with equal finality.

The text, done in an easy gait, is fat with vignettes, like the sign old Henry Lambert posted on the wall of the St. James Saloon in Cimarron: Gents Will Please Leave Their Six-guns Behind the Bar While In Town! This Will Lessen The Customary Collections For Burials.

Looney's photographs of each outpost he visits are imaginative and nostalgic. He supplements his camera work with snapshots from the days when the ghost towns of New Mexico were alive, and the ghosts looked for gold.

Amid the Azaleas, Virginia Theater Blooms

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia's unique theater is alive and hustling despite the sometime hazards of skeptical solons and flower festivals.

"As long as we have tickets to sell and friends to help we should be all right," says Morton C. Thalhimer, a civic leader who has been instrumental since the project began 14 years ago.

By the time "Peter Pan," performed by amateurs but equipped with all the high-flying apparatus of the original Broadway musical, completes this season on June 7, about 50,000 spectators will have attended shows since October in the company's elegant little auditorium at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts.

In addition, a guest cast of professionals recently woundup a month-long tour of 21 cultural outposts from Accomac to Winchester with "In Search of Dylan," a play more vivid and compelling in some ways that a different drama about Welsh poet Dylan Thomas that glittering earlier with Alec Guinness on Broadway.

"The tour wasn't a howling money success, even though everyone who came enjoyed it," according to Fred Haseltine, publicity director. "And attendance continued to show an uptrend everywhere over trips in 1967 and '68."

If part of the less-than-capacity turnout can be attributed to a slower-than-hoped growth of cultural interest, the competition of other attractions cannot be ignored either. In one city the troupe arrived amid the annual Azalea Day festivities with Tricia Nixon the guest of honor.

The chronic ambiguity of the Museum Theater, however, is its stepchild existence.

Defending champion Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., had trouble winning games and was sixth with 3,715.

Mrs. Garms, a 44-year-old housewife, dominated the women's field as she sought her second title. Shirley won the 1962 crown in the Miami Beach Auditorium.

2 Favorites Sidelined

ATLANTA (AP) — Defending champion Phyliss 'Tish' Preuss still was in the running today for the Women's Southern Amateur Golf Tournament title, but two of the other favorites were on the sidelines.

Latest victim of an upset was Mrs. Judy Eller Street of Chattanooga, two-time champion.

Mrs. Street, who won successive crowns in 1959 and 1960, was upset 1-up Wednesday in the second round of match play by Dena Dills of Muskogee, Okla.

Mrs. Dills, two-time runner-up for the Oklahoma title, moved into the quarter-finals against young Bobbie Joe Gabrielsen of Athens, Ga., who ousted Marjorie Bruns of Greensboro, N.C., 3 and 2.

★ ★ ★

In the first round, medalist Connie Day of Cleveland, Tenn., and former champion Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., were upset.

★ ★ ★

Miss Preuss disposed of Vi Givens of Charlotte, N.C., 6 and 5, and moved into a match against Betty Probasco of Chattanooga, who ousted Grace Clay of Atlanta, 3 and 1.

Seaholm, Berkley Remain in Tie

10-Inning Game Wasted

Southfield and Berkley came up with one-run decisions while Birmingham Seaholm and Hazel Park labored for more than three hours for nothing in Southeastern Michigan Association baseball yesterday.

Ferndale was a 5-4 loser to Southfield, Berkley shaded Royal Oak Kimball, 7-6, and a league rule halted Seaholm and Hazel Park after the two battled to a 5-5 standoff through 10 innings.

LIGHTS FORBIDDEN

SMA rules forbid night games so Seaholm and Hazel Park couldn't continue. Also, ties are not recognized by the loop. However, if the game would determine the championship, it will be replayed in entirety at a later date.

★ ★ ★

Seaholm and Hazel Park are at the head of the pack at present with 3-1 records. Berkley is 3-2, Kimball 1-3, Southifeld 2-3 and Ferndale 1-3.

DEFENSIVE STAR

Hazel Park right fielder Mike Jones, who picked up a double and a pair of singles at the plate, came up with the defensive play of the game for the third out in the bottom of the 10th.

★ ★ ★

George Metcalf paced Seaholm with three singles and one RBI.

Oaks Win ABA Crown

OAKLAND (AP) — "It's the most satisfying victory in my whole life," says Alex Hannum, the only basketball coach to win titles in both the National and American basketball associations.

Hannum's Oakland Oaks defeated the Indiana Pacers 135-131 in overtime Wednesday night to take the ABA playoffs, four games to one.

After the game, the Oaks sent a telegram to the Boston Celtics, NBA champs, asking, "How about a game between the world champions?"

Oakland finished last in the ABA Western Division last season. This season, former NBA scoring champ Rick Barry helped the Oakt to a fast start, but suffered a knee injury and missed nearly half of the games. Barry didn't play at all in the playoffs.

Indiana, trailing by as much as 12 points in the third period, pulled even at 122-122 with four seconds left as Ron Perry sank two free throws.
