Republicans Hail Western Victory for Lipscomb

Heals Party Wounds Over Late Dem Wins in Three States

State Rep. Glenard P. Lipscomb's convincing victory in the 24th District—despite a split GOP ticket and a heavy Democratic registration — also salved Republican wounds suffered in recent Wisconsin, New Jersey and New York elections.

Republican State Rep. John Collier, who stubbornly refused to withdraw in favor of Lipscomb, polled only 3,616, and Democrat Irving Markheim got 1,158.

The Republican victory, regarded as an upset by both parties, came on the heels of the sensational disclosures concerning the late Harry Dexter White, but it was difficult to assess the impact of the White case on the election.

The news that White's disloyalty was allegedly ignored by the Truman administration came too late to be included in campain speeches, and Lipscomb would not say whether he thought it helped his cause.

The election widened the GOP margin in the House of Representatives to three, 219 Republicans, 215 Democrats and one Independent. There are now no vacancies in the House.

The 24th District has returned a Republican to Washington five times in the last six elections.

Republican National Committee Chairman Leonard W. Hall hailed the vote victory as "an endorsement of the Eisenhower administration . . . a good omen for 1954."

The 38-year-old Lipscomb declared that "even more important than the winning was the vote of confidence given to President Eisenhower and the 83rd Congress.

"This proves that the people are desirous of continuing the administration's accomplishments of the last 10 months," said Lipscomb, who takes over the seat left vacant by Norris Poulson when Poulson resigned to defeat incumbent Fletcher Bowron for mayor of Los Angeles.

Arnold, the son of former Democrat trust-buster Thurman Arnold and the son-in-law of columnist Drew Pearson, said:

"I have no way of knowing that the attack on Truman through the White charges had anything to do with the election. I hope not."

16 Injured as Firemen Battle Paint Blaze

GM Buys Plant at Willow Run for $26 Million

To Be Permanent Site of Hydramatic; Livonia Rebuilding Dropped

DETROIT (UP)—The giant Willow Run plant, which turned out a four-engined bomber every 55 minutes during World War II, appeared today to be the permanent home of General Motors Corp. hydramatic transmission production.

GM President Harlow H. Curtice, who announced Tuesday that his firm has bought the sprawling plant from Kaiser Motors Corp. for $26,000,000, said there were "no plans at present" to rebuild the burned-out Livonia transmission plant.

Curtice said the purchase of Willow Run, the largest manufacturing space under one roof, would enable GM "to continue manufacturing and assembly operations for production of hydramatic transmissions there."

GM leased about one-third of the 67-acre layout shortly after its original transmission plant at Livonia was destroyed by a $50,000,000 fire last Aug. 12.

Curtice said GM submitted a bid for purchase of the plant "upon the invitation" of Edgar F. Kaiser, president of Kaiser Motors.

Kaiser said his company will use the entire purchase price, plus an additional $613,000 to reduce its debt of $45,235,000 to the Reconstruction Finance Corp. to $18,640,000. Kaiser owed the government nearly $75,000,000 at one time.

Terms of the purchase give Kaiser Motors one year to vacate Willow Run. The company, which now uses less than one-third of the 4,402,110-square-foot plant for automobile production, announced it was moving to its Willys Division at Toledo, where production of Henry J., Kaiser and Willys cars and trucks will be consolidated under one roof.

Kaiser said his company and Willys Motors, Inc., its wholly-owned subsidiary, now would be "meshed into a well-integrated manufacturing operation." Kaiser Motors automotive headquarters already has been transferred to Toledo.

Kaiser, whose firm lost a consolidated $10,000,000 in the first nine months of this year, said the $18,640,000 balance still owed the RFC was the "last remaining government loan on any Kaiser-managed property."

President Ike Remembers War I Soldier

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, keeping an uncertain truce in Korea, remembers today another armistice 35 years ago.

President Eisenhower arranged to go to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier of World War I, there to place a memorial wreath at the base of the white marble block on a hilltop in Arlington National Cemetery.

The Chief Executive, himself a soldier by profession, thus planned to symbolize the nation's tribute to the dead of that earlier war. He arranged no address, leaving that for Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens.

Overtoning the addresses of national leaders who spoke throughout the country was the theme of a quest for enduring peace, which World Wars I and II failed to win.

Arthur J. Connell of Middletown, Conn., national commander of the American Legion, in remarks prepared for the ceremony at Arlington, said the Korean armistice "has yielded no firm promise of peace," and he added:

"There are some who say that wars are a part of our destiny and it is futile to try to escape them. We of the American Legion . . . believe that peace is an attainable goal and that it can and will be won by an America united in determination and devotion to it."

Doesn't Believe Ex-President Would Hurt U.S.

Eisenhower Admits He Cleared White Expose by Brownell

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower declared today he doesn't believe former President Truman would knowingly do anything to damage the United States and, personally, he never would have subpoenaed the ex-President in the Harry Dexter White case.

For 18 minutes, Eisenhower talked at a news conference about the roaring political controversy touched off by Atty. Gen. Brownell's charge that Truman promoted White, a treasury official, in 1946 after the FBI reported to the White House that White was a Russian spy.

These points stood out:

1. Eisenhower confirmed he had advance knowledge that Brownell was going to talk about White and the Truman administration in a speech at Chicago last Friday.

But, the President said, Brownell did not say in talking with him that Truman personally had knowledge of FBI reports on White when White was promoted.

Further, Eisenhower said he had told Brownell he would have to follow his own conscience and decide what his duty was. White House Press Secretary James Hagerty had said last Friday that Eisenhower told Brownell it was his duty to report to the American people.

Asked by a reporter whether he felt Truman would knowingly have appointed a Communist spy to office, Eisenhower replied with a crisp no—that such a thing was inconceivable to him.

2. Eisenhower would not have subpoenaed Truman, as the House Un-American Activities Committee has done, and probably would not have similarly summoned Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark who was Truman's attorney general in 1946.

The President said those were his personal views and that he was not telling Congress how to run its business.

Truman, in New York, said he was "not in position to answer now" whether he would heed the committee summons.

Eisenhower said he was not going to prejudice anyone's case but that neither was he going to be a party to rank injustice to anyone. He said that while the nation

Cloudy and Cool Weather Seen for Pontiac Area

Cool weather and partly cloudy skies are in store for the Pontiac area tonight and Thursday, reports the U. S. Weather Bureau.

A low near 35 degrees tonight and a high of from 43 to 47 Thursday are forecast. The mercury rose from 40 degrees at 8 a. m. today to 43 at 2 p. m. in downtown Pontiac.

To Add 9 City Vote Precincts

Change in Ordinance to Split Areas Goes to Commission Nov. 17

An ordinance change providing nine new voting precincts in Pontiac will be submitted to the City Commission Nov. 17.

Last night commissioners directed City Attorney William A. Ewart to draw-up the proposal as suggested by City Clerk Ada R. Evans.

The change would bring the number of precincts to 44.

Some precincts were overtaxed in the last presidential election, according to Mrs. Evans, with over 1,000 persons voting.

State law requires that precincts be split when the vote in any one precinct exceeds 650, she added.

UF Geographical Division Over the Top With $14,960

House-to-house canvassers of Pontiac Area United Fund's geographical division marched "over the top" today with $14,960—almost $1,000 more than their quota.

And the entire United Fund campaign team found itself "on the two-yard line with goal to go" as campaign headquarters opened this morning.

The geographical division's Waterford districts, headed by Mrs. Donald Weaver gave a big share of the extra push that shoved the division over its $14,000 goal.

Waterford canvassers rang up $4,015 on a goal of just $3,000. Pontiac City districts had raised $9,006 on a $9,000 quota and Pontiac Township had $1,939 on its $2,000 goal.

Mrs. E. L. Bradley, geographical division chairman, praised all volunteers for "outstanding work in every respect." She said many had offered to work next year.

Mrs. Bradley urged anyone who wants to donate to the United Fund but hasn't been called on to contact her at United Fund headquarters, FEderal 2-0159, or her home, FEderal 5-6624.

The geographical division was the second this year to pass its goal. The industrial division zoomed over its $322,700 quota last week, raising $336,729 under the chairmanship of Earl A. Maxwell.

Detroit United Foundation already has set aside $15,000 for the local United Fund from its canvassing in the Birmingham-Bloomfield-Franklin area.

Frank S. Lyndall, commercial division chairman, had optimistic comments as he viewed today's commercial total of $102,566 — about 80 per cent of the division's $129,000 goal, including Waterford.

"We're ahead of our division's work last year," he said. "The outlook is very optimistic—if only those men and women who have not finished their job keep working."

The commercial division's professional group, headed by Dr. George N. Petroff, stood close to its quota today with $11,083 raised or 87 per cent.

Carroll Osmun's finance group workers had collected $15,717, or 85 per cent; and Harold Goldberg's volunteers in "retail group

33 Are Injured in Train Wreck

22 Hospitalized as Cars Derail on Bridge Near Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A crowded Pennsylvania Railroad commuter train derailed on a bridge over the Schuylkill River today injuring 33 passengers. One of the derailed cars was cut nearly in half.

Twenty-two passengers aboard the Chestnut Hill to Philadelphia train were taken to hospitals. Others were given first aid at the PRR's 30th Street station.

No fatalities were reported.

The wreck occurred just outside the huge 30th Street station, on a bridge difficult for rescue workers to reach.

The bottom was ripped out of the first car of the 8-car train, which smashed into a concrete protection wall. The car scraped along the wall, churning up stones and ties for about 20 feet.

A bridge girder knifed into the twisting car and out of the gaping hole injured passengers spilled onto the tracks.

U. N. Will Air Atrocity Claims

General Assembly Votes to Hear U. S. Charges of Red Brutality

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly today agreed to air American charges that Communists in Korea committed unspeakable atrocities against U. N. prisoners.

The vote in the 60-nation body was 53-5 with 2 absententions. The overwhelming approval represented a resounding rejection of Russian claims that the United States brought the charges only to torpedo the Korean political conference.

Chief Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky charged the United States was trying to inflame public opinion with "flagrant lies" about atrocities.

India, which heads the Neutral Prisoner Repatriation Committee in Korea, abstained in the vote. However, India's top diplomat Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, said the Chief U. S. delegate, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., had "shown he has a case."

Guatemala, left-wing Central American Republic, was the other abstainer. Only the Soviet bloc voted against taking up the charges.

50 Contractors in County Facing Loss of Licenses

Despite the large volume of new construction in Oakland County, only about 50 of some 2,000 contractors in this area face loss of builders' licenses due to unscrupulous or fraudulent operations.

James C. Allen of Birmingham, head of the Michigan Corporation and Securities Commission (MCSC), said the commission's Detroit office has received serious complaints against the 50.

One contractor who has operated in the Pontiac area faces a hearing Nov. 20 on his appeal for relicensing under state provisions requiring contractors to get new licenses.

The 50 county contractors are among about 300 builders in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb Counties who have been refused new licenses by the MCSC on charges that they have operated unscrupulously and in some cases fraudulently.

"We estimate only about 50 of the 2,000 or so contractors in Oakland County have been denied licenses," said Allen. "The rest are located in the other two counties."

Allen's estimate indicates that only 2.5 per cent of the county contractors were refused licenses.

After checking over the list of 300, Allen expressed surprise that the number of license denials in Oakland County was so low, especially in the light of the fast building pace in this area.

He pointed out, however, that much of the new construction in some sections of the county is being done by outside contractors.

Allen said refusal to relicense the 300 contractors was based upon field investigations following complaints against them.

Once notified that his application has been rejected, the contractor has 10 days to ask for a hearing before the MCSC.

"Some of these cases will be cleared up without hearings," explained Allen, "as many of the contractors undoubtedly will correct their errors to the satisfaction of the complainants."

He said the 300 contractors are not being named until the hearings, even though most of them have been notified that their license applications have been rejected.

Ferguson Dislikes Truman Subpoena, Wished Voluntary Statement

By ROBERT E. MAHER

Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) said last night that he disagreed with the House Un-American Activities Committee's action in issuing a subpoena to former President Truman in the Harry Dexter White spy probe case.

"I think all the facts in the case should have been brought out in Washington. If the situation was handled that way, I'm sure Mr. Truman would have made it a point to come to Washington voluntarily and give his side of the story," said Ferguson.

He pointed out that there was nothing legally wrong with issuing the subpoena, but that such an action would tend to antagonize Truman and make him an adverse witness.

Earlier, while addressing the Pontiac Hi-Twelve Club, and at a meeting in Ferndale's Jefferson School, the senator said the White case is just another example of the former administration's policy of appeasement.

"White should have been exposed as a spy as soon as FBI reports identifying him as such were made known to high government officials," Ferguson told both groups.

White, who died in 1948, was at one time an assistant treasury secretary in the Truman administration.

"Continuous appeasement is only asking for another hot war," the senator declared.

"And a program of appeasement can be held responsible for the enslavement of every country behind the Iron Curtain."

The senator addressed the Hi-Twelve Club at its luncheon meeting in Pontiac Masonic Temple. He addressed about 500 persons at the Ferndale meeting last night sponsored by the South Oakland County Republican Clubs.

He told his audiences the only way to rid our government of Communists is to expose them to the American public.

"If the people aren't told of spies operating in this country they'll (the spies) remain. They must be exposed so that the people will rise up and get rid of them."

SEN. HOMER FERGUSON

Some Democrats in Washington say the expose of White's activities is only the pointing out of 'dead coals,' Ferguson told his audience last night.

"What they shouldn't forget is that dead coals are usually found on top of a live fire and that when those coals are raked off the fire is exposed. In this case that fire is Communism."

Sen. Ferguson, Congressman Charles Oakman of the 17th District and State Rep. George N. Higgins, (R-Fernale) participated in a panel discussion to wind up last night's meeting. John Feikens, chairman of the state central committee, acted as moderator.

* * *

During the discussion the Republican leaders touched upon a public opinion poll of various issues confronting the present administration.

In answer to a question about whether or not Congress was going to vote to reduce taxes without balancing the budget, Sen. Ferguson replied:

"I believe that taxes and the national debt should be reduced simultaneously. If the national debt still remains slightly higher than proposed tax cuts I don't believe the subsequent deficit spending program will hurt our economy."

Persons answering the question in the poll voted, 72 per cent, not to reduce taxes before balancing the budget and 88 per cent opposed balancing the budget by raising taxes.

Sen. Ferguson replied to queries concerning amendment of the Taft-Hartley Act that such amendments

Birmingham DPW Ready to Battle Winter Weather; Requests Help of Citizens

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — DPW superintendent Robert Kenning today pronounced his department ready for whatever the winter may bring and listed two suggestions for city residents during the winter months.

"We have the snow plow adapters on two trucks, our two road graders are ready, and the snow loader is all set—we're ready for battle," he said.

Large stones in the roadways, the type used as driveway markers do interfere with our plowing, and should be removed, Kenning admonished.

Island Vote Goes to Magsaysay

Quirino in Philippines Delays Conceding Top Post to Young Rival

MANILA (UP) — Youthful Ramon Magsaysay today took a commanding lead over President Elpidio Quirino in the Philippines presidential race and appeared to have unseated the aging, ailing chief executive.

Magsaysay has not claimed victory and Quirino has not conceded defeat. But a government spokesman said the president might have an announcement in a few hours.

The first official returns from yesterday's election gave Magsaysay 68 per cent of the votes or 255,691 to Quirino's 118,936.

Unofficial tabulations, far ahead of the official, showed Magsaysay 982,077 and Quirino 341,007. That would give Magsaysay about 73 per cent of the votes to Quirino's 27 per cent.

An estimated 4,760,000 votes . . . a record . . . were cast.

Magsaysay, 46-year-old former guerrilla and recent defense secretary under Quirino, told newsmen, "it's too early . . . to form any definite opinion; we must wait for further reports and developments."

But he talked like a victorious candidate when he said he had no plans to visit the United States before taking office and would wait "three weeks or more before I name a cabinet."

should be made but that labor has enjoyed its highest degree of success under the law. A total of 82 per cent answering the poll question favored retaining the law.

On the question, "Does Congress intend to continue its investigation of subversives?" Congressman Oakman replied "definitely."

He was then told by Feiken that 87 per cent of persons answering the poll agreed that such investigation should continue.

Other poll results showed that 91 per cent favored building the St. Lawrence Waterway and 54 per cent are against the continuation of farm price supports.

Sen. Ferguson's address last night completed an 11,000 mile tour of the state begun at Ionia Aug. 12. During the tour he visited 74 out of the state's 83 counties, personally met more than 100,000 persons in addition to the audiences he addressed, and made 144 radio and television broadcasts.

The senator's trip was made to obtain the opinions of many persons in the state on vital issues facing the federal government.

"This is a government of the people," Ferguson said, "and I want to know what kind of legislation these people want before I return to Washington."

3 Hurt in Head-on Auto Collision

Three persons were injured yesterday in a head-on collision on U.S.10 north of Scott Lake road when the hood of a north-bound auto flew up and the car swerved in the south-bound lane, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

The injured were James D. Montgomery, 31, of 1369 Decker Rd., Walled Lake, driver of the south-bound car his wife, Mary, 30; and Richard Stevens, 21, of 1808 Dakota, Flint, operator of a north-bound car. They were taken to Pontiac General Hospital.

Mrs. Montgomery was admitted to the hospital with a possible concussion. Her condition today is good, according to the hospital Stevens and Montgomery were treated for minor injuries.

Montgomery told deputies that the hood of Stevens' auto flew up and his car then veered into the north-bound traffic lane.

must exercise eternal vigilance against communism it must avoid any un-American effort to accuse anyone unjustly.

The President's pronouncements delighted Democrats who have been crying "low politics" since Brownell first voiced his charges. Sen. Ellender (D-La), for one, called it "a courageous statement for Mr. Eisenhower to make."

"No one," Ellender added, "could ever make me believe that Harry Truman is not a patriotic man or that he would deliberately damage this country."

It was not immediately clear how much effect, if any, Eisenhower's pronouncements might have on the rush by congressional Republicans to bring the whole notable cast before them for an investigation.

Both the House Un-American Activities Committee and the Senate internal security subcommittee have moved toward inquiries.

Getting the jump, Chairman Velde (R-Ill) of the House group has issued subpoenas for James F. Byrnes, who was Truman's secretary of state, and Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, who was Truman's military aide, to appear before it tomorrow. Velde has subpoenaed Truman and Clark for Friday morning.

Vaughan figures in the matter because Brownell said the FBI reports on White were given to Vaughan for delivery to Truman.

Clark's name came into the Brownell-White controversy when Brownell said copies of the FBI reports were turned over to a number of high officials in the Truman administration.

Brownell first leveled his charges in a speech in Chicago last Friday.

Eisenhower related to his news conference today that Brownell called on him a week ago last Monday, said he had evidence of subversive activity, and added that high government officials under the Truman administration were aware of this activity.

• • •

Eisenhower said it is up to Brownell to continue making a cleanup, as the President put it, in his own way. Eisenhower said he is not going to prejudice Brownell's case by commenting in advance.

Neither, added the President, is he going to be a party to rank injustice to anyone.

Sharply, Eisenhower took issue with Raymond P. Brandt of the St Louis Post-Dispatch when the newsman asked a question suggesting the administration had pictured Truman as a traitor.

The chief executive glared at Brandt and told him he wouldn't answer that — that he rejected the premise.

Brandt, who in the past has questioned Eisenhower intensively on various matters, began by saying he had a series of questions he wished to put.

Frowning, the President said some of the other reporters might like a chance to do some questioning, too. He allowed Brandt to continue, however, after the newsmen assured him his questions would be of general interest.

One question was whether Brownell was justified in branding White as a spy after a federal grand jury in New York had investigated the official and failed to indict him. Eisenhower said he did not know the details of the matter.

• • •

Another newsman asked if the FBI didn't have a moral obligation to make public whatever evidence it has against White since its reports impugned his loyalty.

No, Eisenhower answered quickly, there's too much material, apparently meaning unevaluated material in all FBI reports, to allow them to be made public in their entirety.

As a matter of fact, he said, he himself will not look at such reports unless it is essential.

Does the President, a reporter asked, feel that when an accusation is made it should be accompanied by written evidence so that the public can discuss it.

Eisenhower replied he believes the essentials should be made public.

But he added later that exactly how Brownell should proceed is up to the attorney general.

In similar vein, he referred to Brownell a question as to why the White matter was brought up in a luncheon speech by the attorney general rather than laid before some official body such as a grand jury.

Anthony Leviero of the New York Times asked whether — if a grand jury has decided there is insufficient evidence against a man to indict him — it is proper for an attorney general to accuse the man of being a spy and accuse a former President of harboring him.

The President replied that he is neither a judge nor an accomplished lawyer; He added questions along that line should be addressed to Brownell.

Andrew Tully, Scripps-Howard Newspapers, put in that the trouble is Brownell won't see reporters. He asked if the President would use his influence with the attorney general to get him to answer more questions.

Smiling, Eisenhower said it looks to him as if newsmen probably are getting more impatient than Brownell thinks they should.

Hunter Gets His Bear With Only .22 Rifle

LANSING (UP) — Dr. Frank P. Noyes, a retired dentist, refused to panic when a rampaging 350-pound bear stomped into his camp and caught him without his high-powered rifle.

Noyes grabbed up his .22, the only gun available, and fired at the bear in an effort to frighten it off.

Fire Levels Shed in Waterford Area

A fire of undetermined origin destroyed the shed at 1451 Hendricks, owned by W. B. Jacob of 1325 Beachland Dr. Boss set damage to the structure and contents at $500.

A cigarette tossed from an upper story window at 7335 Pershing was blamed for a blaze between an oil tank and the side of the house, Boss said. The home, owned by Mrs. Marion Callom, suffered an estimated $25 damage.

Army Sets Aside Murder Conviction

WASHINGTON (UP) — An Army Board of Review today set aside the murder conviction for which Sgt. Daryl V. Best of Roseville, Mich., faced execution.

Best had been convicted in a court martial of murder in the slaying of a South Korean soldier.

He had been sentenced to die.

Life sentences for two companions, also convicted of murder, were set aside under today's decision.

Truman Cagey on White Issue

Refuses to Say Whether He Will Obey Subpoena to Face House Probers

NEW YORK (UP)—Former President Harry S. Truman laid the Harry Dexter White case to Republican "snollygosters" today and said "I don't know" when asked if he will make an appearance before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

"In case you're wondering about that word 'snollygaster' it's a Southern word meaning a man born out of wedlock," he said.

Mr. Truman said he had talked over the White matter with former Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, a member of the White House staff during his administration, but he declined to say whether Rosenman might serve as his counsel in an appearance before the committee.

The former President indicated he might break his formal silence in the political uproar Thursday morning. He told reporters it would be a good idea for them to wait for his regular morning appearance outside the hotel Thursday.

The former President was served with a subpoena late Tuesday demanding his appearance at 10:30 a.m. Friday before the Un-American Activities Committee in Washington.

When asked during his customary morning walk today if Rosenman might serve as his counsel, Mr. Truman replied:

"I don't know, since I don't know whether I'm going or not."

Then he laughed and added: "What I mean is — you don't know whether I'm going."

A crowd of 30 reporters and cameramen pressed around Mr. Truman during his 15-block walk in the neighborhood of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel. The presence of the newsmen and their rapid-fire questions led to his use of the word "snollygosters," which had served him previously in political battles.

4 Children Perish in Kentucky Blaze

Several other youngsters were cleared from the building, a former Army barracks converted into apartments.

The victims — the children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Rayman Jr. — were Irene Elizabeth, 6; Robert Walter, who would have been 4 in January; Leonard Anthony, 2, and Edward Merle, 1.

The parents fled in a daze when they smelled smoke. Rayman cut his wrist slightly when he smashed a window in a desperate effort to re-enter the apartment.

Firemen said the blaze was believed to have started in an electric light socket and spread to a plastic-covered couch. It was confined to the Rayman apartment.

Patrolman Hit by Car, Motorist Gets 2 Tickets

Patrolman Herschel Cogdill, 26, of 275 Raeburn St., was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for ankle injuries suffered when he was struck by a car driven by Julian Hollis, 32, of 19 Chapman Ave.

Hollis, driving east on Pike street, was turning left when he hit the patrolman. The motorist was later ticketed for failure to yield right of way to a pedestrian and for driving with an obscured windshield.

To Study Traffic Plans for Center

The Pontiac Chamber of Commerce Safety Committee has decided to take under study several types of traffic plans for the new shopping center now under construction at Telegraph Rd. and Huron St.

After consulting with Samuel J. Levine, traffic engineer of the State Highway Department and Police Chief Herbert W. Straley, the committee said it will recommend a plan in the near future.

Levine introduced a three-phase traffic plan still in its formative stages, which the committee indicated it would probably recommend. The new plan according to Levine, would facilitate left and right turns.

Straley said he would make further investigation of the shopping area and forward his findings to the committee at a future meeting. He added that street parking probably would be banned in the immediate area. Off-street parking facilities will be available when the shopping center is open.

Dedicates New State Building

Governor Accepts Keys From Non-Profit Body Financing Structure

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams, dedicating the new Stevens T. Mason State office building, told an audience largely of state employes to "remember that these wide windows are ever open upon us."

"The people will always be looking through them," he said, "to see if we are doing our jobs and to see if they can help us."

Williams accepted the keys to the building from former Lieut. Gov. Vernon J. Brown of Mason, president of the non-profit corporation which financed the $5,250,000 structure.

Sen. Harry F. Hittle (R-East Lansing), chairman of the Legislative Building Committee, said that in times of "overemphasis on federal government, this structure will serve as a reminder of the importance of state government."

A luncheon for state officials and contractors preceded the dedication ceremonies.

State Building director A. N. Langius reported at the luncheon that the eight-story building contains 3,326,000 cubic feet.

The 253,000 square feet of floor space cost $20.40 a foot, he added. He said it will cost $250 a day to heat the building in the dead of winter and $150 a day to light it with 9,000 lights.

When construction began in August, 1951, it was estimated the building would cost $5,600,000 and take two and a half years to build.

The Highway and Corrections Departments and part of the Department of State have already moved in, and the Conservation Department is expected to start moving in shortly. Completeion of the building is three months ahead of schedule, Langius said.

Good Anecdote: How Wilson Puts Foot in Mouth

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson, former president of General Motors Corp., told this story on himself in a talk to the National Press Club yesterday:

"A senator decided that his Plymouth car was getting old and out of date, and he wanted to buy a new automobile and took up the matter with one of my General Motors friends, asking which one of the General Motors products would be best to buy. He said he did not want to buy a Cadillac because that might make him too conspicuous. My General Motors friends said that they all were good and suggested that he try one with an automatic transmission.

"The senator said, 'Well, maybe that would be all right, but when there is no clutch pedal, where do I put my left foot?'

"My General Motors friend said, 'Put it in your mouth like my former boss does.'"

California Digs Terrible Tunnel

Work Is Going Ahead Despite Scalding Water and Nauseous Vapors

GOLETA, Calif. (UP)—When Tecolote Tunnel is completed—and California's Bureau of Reclamation vows it will be—it should be a cinch for the title: "toughest tunnel anywhere."

Its hissing hot gases, nauseous vapors and scalding waters—caused by volcanic activity in the area—several times have brought digging to a stumbling halt. Last summer work was suspended because of what the contractor termed "intolerable" conditions.

Tecolote Tunnel, when completed, will cut 6.4 miles through the Santa Inez Mountains, carrying water from Cachuma Dam to Santa Barbara, surrounding communities and farmlands. The area is about 80 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

Outside the tunnel mouth the weather is balmy. Inside it's like a dream of Hades—air temperatures of 107 degrees, water temperatures of 112 and 100 per cent relative humidity.

Between four and five million gallons of water flow out daily, seeping or spurting from porous rock walls. Paradoxically, steaming workers in the giant hot springs occasionally walk into jets of ice cold water which create thick clouds of sulphurous smog.

The air reeks of hydrogen sulphide, and the constant pater of heated droplets from overhead stings the eyes like an acid rain. A foot of odorous water gushes over the tunnel bottom, submerging the tracks of the work train taking men to the tunnel head.

Veterans of 50 years in tunnel building say Tecolote is the toughest they've encountered.

Last month the Bureau of Reclamation told the contractors to hit it again, "with provision for equitable adjustment to cover increased costs due to coping with hot water."

Coolers and ventilators are being installed to relieve the heat. At the downstream end 1,200 feet are being lined with concrete to prevent the flow of scalding water from tunnel sides. A concrete-lined stretch upstream seals off an underground river which roars against the two-foot walls, creating furnace heat.

• • •

Despite hardships and hazards, engineers say the remaining 4,700 feet will be completed. But they refuse to estimate how long it will take.

Political Phrasing Depends on Whose Goose Is Cooked

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Some new expressions have become a part of the political vocabulary of the hour.

It was supposed, for instance, to be "bad timing" and "low politics" for Attorney General Brownell — or at least so the Democratic national chairman says—to declare that, although Harry Dexter White was a "Russian spy," he had been nominated in 1946 to a high post by former President Truman.

Apparently it wasn't "bad timing" or "low politics" for Robert F. Wagner Jr., successful Democratic candidate for mayor of New York City, to make a sweeping charge that an influential person, high in the Eisenhower administration, had asked Governor Dewey to parole Joseph S. Fay, labor leader convicted of extortion.

Wagner, who received the plaudits of Truman when he was elected last week, had referred—without naming him — to one of Governor Dewey's "closest political associates on the national scene" and "a national figure whose every word and action carries tremendous weight throughout the country."

There was no complaint from the Democratic chieftains then that this was a smear attack, even though the plain inference was that the reference was to somebody in the Eisenhower cabinet—in fact, it was taken by many people to mean Attorney General Brownell, and rumor was that the incident happened when he was in private law practice.

Brownell promptly denied that he had at any time directly or indirectly interceded for Fay. Yet no apology came from the Democrats. The Wagner statement was never withdrawn.

The former President ought to be the last to complain about the way the White controversy has developed. He himself first gave it momentum by saying he didn't recall the FBI report and that he "fired" White as soon as his disloyalty was discovered.

• • •

The facts now turn out to be that there was quite a lot of fuss inside the administration about it and that at the time—February 1946—James F. Byrnes, then secretary of state and now governor of South Carolina, discussed the whole thing with Truman, saying he was well aware that the FBI had reported White to be a member of the Soviet espionage ring.

• • •

A theory has been advanced that Truman may not have wanted to expose White at the time when the FBI report reached him, preferring to have the investigative process continued. There is no record of such a course of action in the Department of Justice.

But even if this were so, then why did Truman on April 30, 1946, send such a complimentary letter to White when he resigned as assistant secretary of the treasury to take the post of U. S. director of the International Monetary Fund?

The most plausible explanation is that Truman, like so many people in his administration, was gullible and that someone in whom he did have confidence probably went to bat for White and flatly denied the truth of the charges.

It has been suggested also that Truman couldn't at that time—February 1946—determine the guilt or innocence of White, since there had been no trial or indictment.

The FBI report had in it enough testimony to have brought about dismissal from the government.

Today, although the president of Harvard University, for instance, says that refusal by a professor to testify before a congressional committee on the ground of self-incrimination is not a "confession of guilt" and hence does not merit dismissal by Harvard, President Eisenhower has ordered that any government employe who takes refuge in the fifth amendment and refuses to say whether he is a Communist or has been engaged in espionage must be instantly fired from the government service.

Trucks Pile Up, Rip Bridge at Goodison

Two trucks collided yesterday on Orion road in Goodison, tearing out sections of a bridge where they crashed, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

One of the drivers, Joseph L. Kanakry, 39, of 15617 Leona Dr., Detroit, was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for shock, after his truck and gravel-filled trailer skidded 300 feet past the point of collision deputies said.

Raymond E. Dibble, 49, of 3658 Samuel St., Rochester, the other driver, told deputies that Kankry made a wide turn and forced Dibble's vehicle into the bridge. The trailer of Kankry's truck then swung around and hit Dibble's truck, deputies said.

Germ Warfare Charges Appear Being Renewed

TOKYO (UP)—The Communist Peiping radio today launched what appeared to be a major renewal of germ warfare charges against the United States and promised an important broadcast tomorrow concerning the alleged crimes.

The broadcast, heard in Tokyo, said the North Korean and Chinese side "has released the depositions of 19 U.S. Air Force officers who carried out germ warfare missions in Korea and northeast China."

The charges repeatedly have been denied by U.S. military and government leaders.

Bomb Blasts Shake Havana

No Casualties Reported in Explosions Following Communist Party Ban

HAVANA (UP) — Bomb explosions echoed through this tropical capital Tuesday night and early today, less than 24 hours after the Cuban government had outlawed the Communist Party.

At least three blasts were heard during the night, and an unexploded bomb was found in suburban Vedado. No casualties or serious damage was reported immediately.

One bomb, described by police as "moderately powerful," was set off in a park a block from the home of Interior Minister Ramon O. Hermida.

The unexploded bomb, a pipe seven inches long and two inches in diameter stuffed with explosive, was found in a vacant lot. It had failed to go off because of a defective fuse.

Police were seeking some 50 top Reds ordered arrested under the terms of the decree outlawing the party. Early today, no sizeable number of arrests had been reported.

Juke Box Racketeer May Be Extradited

LANSING (UP) — Herman "Turk" Prujanski, accused juke box racketeer, will be returned to Michigan to face trial if Gov. Williams has his way.

Williams yesterday requested the governor of California to extradite Prujanski to Michigan, rejecting arguments of Prujanski's attorney that the request was illegal.

Prujanski was indicted by a one-man grand jury on charges of extortion and conspiracy growing out of atempts to organize juke box, coin machine and parking lot operators in Wayne County.

Find Bones of 2 Buried an Estimated 30 Years

MANISTEE (UP)—Bones from two skeletons buried an estimated 30 years beneath a lumber mill site were unearthed Tuesday by two boys digging a den.

Dr. John Konopa, city heath officer, said the bones appeared to be those of a teen-age female and a male in his early 20s. Positions in which the skeletons were found did not indicate an ordinary grave, he said.

Dentist Pulls 7 Teeth to Conceal Bad Fillings

NOTTINGHAM, England (UP) — A dentist was accused yesterday of pulling seven of a patient's teeth to conceal slipshod fillings.

The local tribunal of the government's National Health Service said the dentist, Mrs. Anne Gwynne, went into action after hearing that the woman patient had arranged for an inspector to look at the teeth.

Bride of a Few Months Killed as Car Hits Tree

BIG RAPIDS, Mich. (UP) — Mrs. Carl Hull, a 24-year-old bride of but a few months, was fatally injured near Woodville in Newaygo County, Tuesday when her car struck a tree.

Mrs. Hull, of route 3, Big Rapids, was en route to pick up her husband from his work when the accident occurred.

What people see is registered on their eyes upside down and the mind turns the image over to put it in proper perspective.

Tornado Victim Finally Regains Consciousness

FLINT (UP) — Kathleen Warren, an 11-year-old injured in a June 8th tornado that took 119 lives here, finally has regained full consciousness.

Approximately 1,000 were hurt, but only Kathleen still is hospitalized.

She had been unconscious or only semi-conscious until yesterday and had required a 24-hour special nursing care for more than five months. Kathleen suffered head injuries as the storm wrecked her home in Flint's northern outskirts.

Girl Is Hospitalized After Being Hit by Car

A Drayton Plains girl was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital last night with multiple bruises suffered when she was struck by a car on U.S. 10 in Drayton Plains, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Sharon E. Kennedy, 14, of 3128 Frembes St., was reported in good condition today.

James Murphy, 23, of 188 Andy St., Vassar, driver of the car which struck the girl, told deputies he swerved to avoid one girl and struck Miss Kennedy as she was attempting to cross U.S. 10.

Armistice Day Reminder

It is fitting on this 35th Armistice Day to refresh our memories and appreciation of the liberties so many of our heroic fighting men have died to preserve.

On that glorious November 11, 1918, the victor nations were delirious with joy. Millions in this and allied countries believed that war had been banished from the Earth. How soon that dream was shattered is common knowledge.

We know now that our basic freedoms never can be taken for granted. Because they are under ceaseless attack, it is ever more important that we remember what they are and stand always prepared to defend them.

Elsewhere on this page appears the full text of the Bill of Rights. Nowhere outside these First Ten Amendments to our Federal Constitution are the fundamental rights of Americans so concisely stated.

We urge all our readers to restudy this text and preserve it for future reference. The more we know about our basic freedoms the better able all of us will be to defend them against those who would destroy us.

St. Lawrence Power

A Presidential order at long last has cleared the way for joint participation by New York and Ontario in the construction of the St. Lawrence River power project.

This order removed the last international obstacle to this long needed power source. It also named the New York State Power Authority as the Government's construction agent. The Canadian government previously had made the Ontario Hydroelectric Commission its agent.

These two authorities will unite in creating a great hydroelectric power installation in the International Rapids of the St. Lawrence River between Massena, N. Y., and Cornwall, Ont. Cost has been estimated at $450,000,000 and eventual generating capacity is expected to be 1,100,000 horsepower.

While the President's order climaxed a movement begun 22 years ago, some legal obstacles remain. At least three private agencies, one of them in Ontario, have launched suits to block construction. It is believed, however, that these will have been disposed of before actual work can be started.

Seaway advocates are cheered by this development. They see in it one more step toward construction of the waterway to which the power dams are essential.

They were encouraged further by the prediction of Senator Homer Ferguson, at Flint, that Congress next year would approve U. S. seaway participation.

Reds Don't Want Peace

Whatever hope existed that Russia really wants to ease international tension has been blasted by the Kremlin's answer to a renewed invitation to confer on Germany and Austria.

Anyone hoping for a new look in Soviet foreign policy won't find it in this document. Instead, the note makes it crystal clear that Malenkov and company have no desire to settle anything except on terms long ago rejected as suicidal to the West.

These include:

(1) A Five Power conference to include Communist China to settle matters with that government and to establish its "legitimate rights" in the United Nations.

(2) A Four Power conference of foreign ministers on Germany if (a) the West abandons the proposed European Defense Community and efforts toward European unification. (b) Acceptance of the Russian plan for German unification by admitting the Communist regime in an all German government neutralized under Four Power control to give the Soviets access to the Ruhr.

★ ★ ★

In other words the note, instead of showing a desire for negotiation is just another Red maneuver aimed at splitting the Western Allies. However, it does reemphasize the fact that the West's best hope of ending the cold war lies in building up greater strength through the European Defense Community.

Lessons in Crime

For those who wonder why juvenile crime has increased alarmingly in this country, Dr. Frederick Wertham, a psychiatrist, has some thought provoking answers.

These add up in his article in the current Ladies Home Journal to a sweeping and voluminously documented and illustrated indictment of so called comic books.

It is the author's contention that these lurid picture books teach their young readers the technics of crime from petty theft to robbery, rape, sadism and murder. A further charge is that insufficient emphasis is given the punishment crime brings.

Dr. Wertham emphasizes the difference between the comic or adventure strips in most newspapers and those in comic books. Comic strips, he pointed out, "function under a severe censorship exercised by some 1,500 newspaper editors of the country who sometimes reject details or even whole sequences."

For comic books there exists no such censorship. If the comic book publishers won't supply it, only parents can do the job.

Take time to find out what your child is reading. The quickest way to eliminate this evil is to destroy the market for these lessons in crime.

The proposal to change the course of Paint Creek at Rochester to make room for a civic center has county wide historical echoes. It was near this point on Paint Creek in 1817 that the first white settlement in Oakland County was made. The location long has been designated as such. This was one year before the first settlement at Pontiac.

A Pontiac professional man was given a parking ticket the other day in Garden City, just over the line in Wayne County. On reading it over he discovered that the usual fine is two dollars for the first offense, but it can be settled for 25 cents if you report at police headquarters within one hour after your car has been tagged.

Crescent Lake Resident Believes Person Who Discarded Cats Should Feel Ashamed

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

Perhaps the cad who dumped out a half dozen kittens and young cats last week on a subdivision road at Crescent Lake can eat a good meal and lie in a warm bed with a good conscience. I could not!

I feel sure that in the eyes of God such a person is as guilty as though he had thrown a child out to the mercy of the first winter snow and cold winds.

No one wants these kittens, so I must take them several miles to the Animal Welfare Society, a duty which belonged to the people who allowed them to multiply.

Asks What Good Soldiers Would Be Minus Humility

Recently a correspondent came back from Korea and claimed our boys were not conditioned to make good fighters and blamed too much "momism."

While we might remedy that by feeding them C rations, throwing them out in the mud to sleep and shooting them full of holes to keep them in good condition, what good would they be if they didn't have humility?

Believes Godfrey Hasn't Done Wrong by LaRosa

I've just read a few words from "Still a Godfrey Fan," and I agree with him. Godfrey always has been "Mr. TV." He's made his show the best on both radio and TV. It didn't get that way by itself, so I give him credit for knowing what he is doing.

If it weren't for Godfrey, La Rosa would be working for $60 a week, so I'd say he hasn't been done so wrongly by the great "A. G."

Some Jobs Pay Well, but Will Nauseate Your Soul

Are you job-hunting? Then be careful. Don't grab the job that pays the most unless it also permits you to do something noble or constructive for mankind. There are jobs which only tear down happy homes and promote misery. They pay higher wages in order to "fog" your conscience. Don't be a Judas.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case J-339: Larry W., aged 38, is a college professor in Michigan.

"Dr. Crane, I'm quite disturbed," he informed me as we had luncheon together recently.

"Some of my students have intimated that I must be 'tetched' to be teaching school when I could make far more 'dough' in other fields.

"One of them even asked me last week, 'Why don't you get into a real racket where you can rake in the coin?'

"Is that the general attitude of American youth nowadays? Don't people realize that there are psychological values one gets out of his work in addition to cash?

"It is shocking to think young Americans are so mercenary nowadays! I can hardly believe it."

Teen-agers, take heed! When you pick your life work, consider the following challenging facts.

First, there are jobs which will pay you well but which will nauseate your soul as you look backward over your life's futile efforts.

For instance, if you are involved in the manufacture or sale of products which don't furnish people their money's worth in happiness, health or protection, then you will feel guilty of cheating your fellowmen.

You will grow disgusted like Judas Iscariot who sold Jesus for 30 pieces of silver. And when he looked backward over his work, he committed suicide in his bitter chagrin.

Oh, you will probably be offered higher wages by such firms, because it takes a bigger starting salary to "fog" your conscience.

Early this year in New York City, a famous court case involved a wealthy young man who was operating a vice ring. He would sell girls into immorality, and actually take a commission on their earnings.

He made big dough! But most Americans wouldn't even speak to such a revolting type of person.

Others engage in the liquor industry which breaks up homes and causes drunken husbands to beat up their wives, terrify their children, spread venereal disease and produce thousands of deaths on the automotive highways.

To try to appease their consciences and "fog" their memories of such devastation to their fellowmen, such concerns offer cash scholarships in chemistry and donate millions to colleges and even to churches!

Then there is the tobacco industry, which promotes heart attacks, high blood pressure, cancer of mouth, lungs and stomach.

It meanwhile causes the average smoker to burn up $90 per year on the ends of his cigarets, though he can ill afford such wastefulness.

A third taboo field is the gambling racket, where people are hoodwinked out of their much needed cash by the vain hope that they will make a financial killing.

But the vast majority always lose. So gambling does not offer a fair exchange for one's money. And the narcotics racket is another taboo field.

In contrast, consider the legitimate food industry or the automotive and manufacturing fields, etc., which really give the buyer something that helps his family enjoy happier, healthier homelife.

Also, please consider the fields of religion, nursing, journalism and school teaching. The workers therein seldom become wealthy in silver or gold.

But they have a rich "feeling" as they grow older and look backward at the happy homes and higher morals and more cultured standards of living which they have nurtured among thousands of their fellow citizens.

Now they also pack along a bushel of oats for the general's hoss.

The Chinese invented the re-loading armistice when we had 'em licked both directions from the middle.

Which gives us the feeling that Armistice Days are losing their meaning. Or we need a couple more.

This Armistice Day is for World War I. There's none for World War II.

If we could flatten that hassel in Asia we could have the quickest Armistice Day in history. Just an hour sigh of relief.

We had this thing well in hand once with an economic blockade. The way to catch a rat in a pipe is to put a fox-terrier at either end.

Today we celebrate an armistice diluted by uncertainty and poisoned by double-crossing.

Brady Tells Why He Fights the AMA, Also Advises Lots of Citrus Fruit Juice

By WILLIAM BRADY M. D.

One time, when visiting American Medical Association headquarters, I came to the Journal's "morgue." One of the hundred thousand odd doctors, near-doctors and queer-doctors whose records were on file was mine.

Fearfully I rolled out the casket to view — the dossier included clippings of some of my alleged health talks with questions from readers and typical answers by the arrant . . .

Also a typed slip stating that Dr. Brady writes for newspapers and magazines, evidently for personal publicity . . .

So, ever since, the AMA and I have been in each other's hair — except during a brief later period — when various officers, trustees and committee chairmen sought support of their belated attempt to recover the dignity of what purported to represent organized medicine.

All this goes to show that I am indeed a quack by circumstance, as when a casual reader picks up the paper and learns that I say citrus fruit or fruit juice is generally good for you.

If you'd rather not eat or drink it, don't. You can always take enough vitamin C to prevent or cure scurvy, tender bleeding gums, irritable disposition, slow or delayed healing of wounds or sores, peptic ulcer, excessive "black and blue" discoloration from trifling bumps or bruises, in tablet form.

Ascorbic Acid tablets, U. S. P. —one 100mg. tablet represents as much vitamin C (ascorbic acid, cevitamic acid) as one gets in a glass of fresh orange juice.

I mean to say that a casual reader is likely to believe what some doctor says in the paper is so, isn't he?

All I know about citrus fruit and citrus fruit juice is what I read in books, scientific magazines and the like.

From these sources I have learned that not only the citrus fruits but other acid fruits (including tomatoes) and their juices have no particular effect on the normal acidity of the stomach, but are oxidized into carbonates which increase the alkalinity of the blood and tissues and decrease the acidity of the urine.

So, if I had the rheumatiz and my wiseacre friends manifested concern at my fondness for grapefruit, sour cherries, tomatoes, lemon juice, etc., I'd tell 'em "Don't make me laugh."

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Composers Ask Juke Royalties

Backing Bill to Receive Larger Share From Their Records

WASHINGTON (NEA) —America's popular song composers are writing a brand new serenade for the juke box operators of the nation. The title: "Brothers, the Free Ride Is Ended."

Whatever your personal reaction is to the blaring, blatting, bleeping, jumpin' jive of the juke box, it happens to be big business in the U. S.

Americans pour about $250,000,000 worth of nickels, dimes and quarters into about 500,000 juke boxes each year for the privilege of subjecting their ears to this form of culture.

All the composers ask is about a $10,000,000 cut of the plum.

Up until now, thanks to a loophole in the 1909 copyright law, all they have gotten for their creative efforts has been 2 cents per record. This is peanuts, says composer Joan Whitney.

"On my two top record sellers, 'Candy' and 'Far Away places,' my royalties were slightly in excess of $3,000 and $7,000, respectively," she explains. "'You'll Never Get Away' netted me $200 in record royalties notwithstanding its popularity.

"I have had a greater measure of success than many other writers, yet my record royalties for the past 10 years have not averaged more than $2,000 per year."

The composers are going to sing their sad ballad to the Senate Judiciary Committee this year in behalf of a bill which would plug the loophole. Introduced by Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev), it opens the way to make juke box operators pay song writers for the right to play their compositions.

Should the composers convince Congress of their right to this fee, the tentative plan is to charge a flat rate of $20 per juke box per year. This money would then be divided among the composers on the basis of how many popular tunes a composer turns out each year.

There are approximately 6,000 song writers in the U. S. If the law is passed and the blanket license plan installed it would mean an average of $1,667 per year for each one of them.

Objection of the juke box operators to the bill is that the cost will break them and that the 2 cents per record is enough royalty.

Two Boys Survive Cave-In of Tunnel

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — Two small boys were saved from suffocation after a cave collapsed and buried them under sand for about 15 minutes Tuesday.

The boys, Dale Reitsma, 9, and James Sturrsma, 8, were rescued by the former's father, Peter Reitsma and fireman John Monsma, who used shovels to extricate the pair.

Kelly Reitsma, 10, a brother of Dale, sounded the alarm after the cave-in and brought aid. The three boys had been digging sand tunnels at the rear of a school yard where the near tragedy occurred.

They were revived by first aid and hospitalized for a short time.

Saar Eyes Role as Europe Hub

Franco-German Border Territory Fast Regaining Industrial Importance

WASHINGTON — Europe's most densely populated region—the coal rich Saar on the Franco-German border — is bidding to become the center of the proposed European Federation.

The Saar, a 990-square-mile section of the Moselle River basin, might acquire a status similar to the District of Columbia if nations of Western Europe unite. Both German and French officials favor the change-over.

Once part of Germany, the area has been a semi-independent state since 1947, linked economically and politically with France, says the National Geographic Society.

Leveled by wartime bombing and shelling, Sarr industry is again operating at capacity. Over 16,000,000 tons of coal were mined last year. Reserves are estimated at more than five billion tons, enough for three centuries. Its six huge steel mills produce 3,000,000 tons of steel anually. Total production in 1952 was valued at $538 million, one-third higher than in 1938, the previous peak.

Some 70,000 workers, a fourth of the total Saar labor force, produce seven per cent of the steel of "Little Europe," the six-nation group that pools its output under the Schumann Plan. Minimum wage is $60 a month, not much below the average wage in neighboring Germany. Unemployment is less than one per cent.

All the Saar's iron ore for steel comes from the nearby French province of Lorraine. Most of its food also comes from France. The Saar could live only 50 to 60 days on its own agricultural output.

Other leading Saarland industries include chemicals, ceramics, foodstuffs, glassware, and building material. Its goods are marketed in 88 countries, with France accounting for 87 per cent of its wholesale trade.

The Saar, an area only half the size of Long Island, is almost solidly German. There is not even a French minority of permanent residents. Language, culture, traditions, and educational system are all German. Native Saarlanders, however, are often smaller and darker in coloring than Germans, suggesting traces of early pre-German peoples.

France occupied the territory following both World Wars. In 1935 a plebiscite returned it to Germany by a nine-to-one vote. During World War II, 65,000 Saar dwellings were demolished, leaving more than a fourth of the 960,000 inhabitants homeless. One house in fifteen was destroyed, compared to one out of 22 in France and one out of 65 in Great Britain.

In postwar years the Saar has been a member of the French custom union and shares in revenues. It uses the franc as currency. France operates the region's 18 coal mines under a 50-year lease and is responsible for its military protection and foreign relations.

3 Withdraw Bids for Escanaba Paper

The Escanaba School Board, principal beneficiary under the will of the late publisher, John P. Norton, has recommended that a bid by employes of the Daily Press be accepted.

Executor James Frost, however, has not acted finally on half a dozen bids submitted at the same time.

Employes offered to lease the paper for $25,000 a year for 10 years, with an option to purchase at the end of the lease for $225,000.

Frank J. Russell, publisher of the Iron Mountain News, announced yesterday that he and George Osborne, publisher of the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News, and John W. Rice, publisher of the Houghton Mining Journal, were withdrawing their joint bid.

Sen. Williams Tells Why

New Laws Are Needed to Halt Income Tax Evasion

The Pontiac Press published an editorial Oct. 29 quoting U.S. Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, in which he urged new legislation which would enable the government to collect all of the income taxes owed by certain government employes in Washington who, he said, were evading them.

Several local government employes took issue with Sen. Williams' statements, claiming such employes could not evade full payment of their income taxes.

Following is a more detailed statement by Sen. Williams, together with a statement by L. Alfred Chamberlin, director of the Baltimore District of the Treasury Department's Internal Revenue Service. This latter statement shows that the Treasury Department also feels new legislation is needed.

"Evidently these employes are basing their contention upon a prior ruling which was issued by the Civil Service Commission wherein they ruled that employes can be suspended for nonpayment of bills to the United States government," says Sen. Williams.

"The catch, however, is that under the rights of appeal from discharge which are extended to all federal employes the procedure makes it so expensive from the government's standpoint that it loses its effectiveness. While some employes would accept dismissal without objections I am sure that you have read of certain glaring cases where the government would be forced to spend several thousand dollars fighting these appeals before being able to discharge the employe.

"Also, under existing law the government cannot withhold from the salaries of the employes any amounts, not even during the period of appeal. There is no provision whereby the government can attach or withhold the salaries of a government employe for the nonpayment of income taxes such as they can from employes in private industry.

"It is true that the government can sue these employes in the civil courts and attach bank accounts or other outside assets; however, in many instances these employes have no bank accounts or assets which can be attached. The only fixed source of income which the government can locate is their salaries, and these are untouchable.

"As evidence that I am not alone in my concern or recognition of this loophole, I quote a recent article entitled 'Tax Delinquents in Area Called Worst in Nation' which appeared in the Washington Post Nov. 3, 1953. Mr. Chamberlin, director of internal revenue in the Baltimore and Washington area, points out the glaring conditions which exist, with particular reference to their inability to deal wth the situation under the existing laws. This shows that the Treasury Department recognizes the need of corrective legislation. The article follows:

An internal revenue service official said today the rate of delinquency in income-tax payments is higher in the District of Columbia and Mont gomery and Prince Georges Counties in Maryland than anywhere in the nation.

L. Alfred Chamberlin, director of the Baltimore District, including all of Maryland and Washington, said the condition is attributable to the large number of federal employes in Washington and its suburbs.

Chamberlin said his collectors cannot distain wages and salaries of government employes, as in the case of ordinary citizens. Consequently, the revenue agents are handicapped when they try to collect from the delinquent federal workers. The result, Chamberlin said, is his door-to-door canvass in Washington and the two counties in an attempt to collect the taxes—only area he knows where such measures have been used.

Crops Almost Equal 2nd Largest Volume

WASHINGTON (AP)—Helped along by nearly ideal weather, U. S. farmers are completing harvest of crops which almost equal last year's second largest volume in history.

Reporting this in its monthly crop report yesterday, the Agriculture Deartment also said prospects for the fall-sown winter wheat to be harvested next summer are considerably better than a year ago. This year's winter wheat yield was down about 16 per cent from last year's.

The report did not change prospects that Secretary of Agriculture Benson will set up acreage planting allotments for next year's corn crop. The new estimate for this year's corn crop was 3,180,000,000 bushels, down 16 million from the forecast a month earlier.

Britain Plans Speed-Up of Atomic Research

LONDON (AP)—Britain is setting up an atomic energy corporation to speed the development of atomic weapons and nuclear power for industry.

Plans for the new government-controlled body—similar to the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission—were disclosed last night in a government white paper. It said a preliminary transfer of authority from the Ministry of Supply, which has run Britain atomic program thus far, would take place Jan. 1.

Club Discusses Baby Sitters

Waterford Child Study Club Tackles Problems, Fair Arrangements

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Baby sitters, both good and bad — came up for discussion Monday at a meeting of the Waterford Township Child Study Club.

Meeting at the home of Mrs. Gerald Rustem with Mrs. Clarence Novess Jr. as co-hostess, Mrs. Irwin Greer and Mrs. Gordon Bennett discussed "We Look at the Baby Sitter" and then threw the subject open to the group.

In general the group decided that there were three main reasons for having baby sitters.

1. They are needed in view of the prevailing shortage of servants.

2. Women are more independent today and find more time for activities outside the home, making is necessary for someone else to mind the children.

3. Living quarters are smaller today. Relatives who used to tend children while parents were out, no longer live in the same home.

Some parents in the group were dissatisfied with baby sitting service.

They mentioned a tendency of some sitters to "over-play" with children, preventing them from going to sleep. Other sitters, they said, "under-play" with the children while spending too much time talking to boy friends on the telephone.

Other members viewed with alarm the recent crime wave in connection with baby sitting. They said their husbands often were dubious about letting their daughters baby-sit.

But parents themselves came in for some criticism. It was suggested that parents "treat their baby sitter as an employe and she will respect you as an employer."

Too many parents, the group decided, fail to live up to agreements with baby sitters. They often fail to pick up her baby sitter at her home on time and then telephone saying that they will be out later than expected.

And then, too, some parents leave home without giving complete instructions to the baby sitter.

In all, some 14 points regarding baby sitting were discussed. Among them were salaries, leaving complete instructions for the baby sitter, telephoning, and what time to take baby sitters home.

Salaries, it was agreed, should be set according to the prevailing rate in the community.

Henry Axford Makes Offer; Meeting Is Set for Tomorrow at 8

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

ROCHESTER—"Remember the kids," may be lost in the clamor for "We want our site," if some quick compromise isn't arrived at in the Rochester Community School District within a few days.

SITE, in capital letters, once again steps to the head of the school issue with three much discussed pieces of property.

1—New offer made last night by Henry W. Axford and reported to special meeting of Rochester Board of Education with members of the Citizens Advisory Committee.

He will give the district 50 acres, including the Rochester road frontage which was not available before and was considered highly desirable by the citizens of the district, for $50,000. Located at the corner of north Rochester and Tienken Rds., is is adjacent to water, sewer and will require roads and sidewaks to develop.

2—The 52 Townsend acres at corner of Livernois and Walton Blvd. Can be purchased for $60,000 and includes a $16,000 house suggested for board of education and administrative office use. Within one quarter mile of Rochester village limits. Will require water, sewer and sidewalks to make it ready for school.

3—Plans for the utilization of the McGregor site, offered to the district if they can show full use of the land, are ready to be presented to the Howard McGregors (senior and junior) today for their consideration.

A topographical survey of the 22 acres of land, located on the east side of north Rochester road with Tienken road on the north boundary has been completed. Plans for an elementary school from kindergarten through sixth grade are to be given the McGregors. This design utilizes the higher portion of the site for school building, set back 150 feet from the highway, with lower areas designated for play for the school children but developed to provide recreation for children of the entire area.

This site has been offered free to the district and its use is contingent upon the decision of the McGregors after their approval of the plans.

Architect's approximate cost estimate was reported as $20,000 for the preparation of this property. Future additions have been planned for on this site.

"Unbiased engineers in the area feel that this $20,000 estimate is very high," said Bill McClelland, member of the citizens' committee.

Leonard Harding, president of the Rochester Board, named Dr. Eve Schlecte, board member, and Earl Dean to go with Wallace Hodges, chairman of the citizens' committee and Supt. Don Baldwin to present the plans to the McGregors.

The Rochester Citizens' Advisory Committee invites all citizens of the community to a meeting in the Rochester High School, Thursday at 8 p. m. They will present their findings and the recommendations they will give the board of education on the school problem.

Discussion over the McGregor site brought citizen committee comment that it is mandatory that this land be used by the district if plans are acceptable to the McGregors.

Dec. 15 has been suggested as a bond issue date. Final decision will be made at next Tuesday's regular board meeting when all legal angles have been checked.

EDWARD HOLMES

Edward Holmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Holmes of Commerce, will be installed as master counselor of DeMolay tonight at 8 in a public ceermony in Masonic Temple at Commerce.

To Conduct Job Survey

U. S. Census Bureau to Get Facts From Panel of Residents in Poll

The U. S. Bureau of Census, which has been conducting a sample survey of retail trade in area since February, will begin collecting facts from a panel of residents this month as part of a current population survey.

The population survey, conducted for more than a decade by the bureau, provides up-to-date national information about the numbers of persons employed and unemployed.

It also provides information about persons in school, retired or unable to work, the availability of manpower for both defense and civilian production and similar facts.

Industry, labor and government use the information for programs and to measure general levels of business activity.

Mrs. Carolyn J. Howell of Royal Oak has been named as enumerator for the survey.

Edward T. St. Arnold, supervisor of the bureau's district office at Detroit, said the survey is authorized by law and all individual informatio nis kept in strict confidence.

Frogmen Project to Prove of Aid With Atom Subs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy says it is now a "routine accomplishment" for one of its "frogmen" to swim under water for two hours.

This was reported to the annual meeting of the Association of Military Surgeons yesterday by Capt. Charles W. Shilling, senior medical officer at the U. S. Naval Academy.

Shilling said that with the "potential enemy" able to outdo this nation in manpower and raw material, the Navy is vigorously planning for the launching of the first atomic submarine.

He said two major research projects will be of special help in the operation of atomic subs:

1. The recent field trial at New London, Conn., known as "operation hideout." This was a test of living conditions in a submerged teers spent two months sealed in a submarine.

California Train Piles Into Rock Slide

OROVILLE, Calif. (AP)—The Western Pacific's swift streamliner California Zephyr piled into a huge rock-slide in the Feather River Canyon late yesterday, and the lead diesel locomotive unit plunged 150 feet down the canyon.

A WP spokesman said none of the 165 passengers was injured, and that Engineer R. E. Luzzadder and Fireman M. W. Snow, in the cab of the locomotive were only shaken up.

Heavy rains were blamed for the 300-ton slide.

The train, en route from San Francisco to Chicago, was detoured over Southern Pacific Tracks to Winnemucca, Nev., and will reach Chicago about 10 hours late.

Keeps Plants During Absence

Wrap your house plant in polyethylene plastic before vacationing and you can leave it for as long as three weeks without watering it. These plastic sheets eliminate sweepers and there's no leakage to mar the furniture.

Rootings wrapped in this material will also thrive for weeks without water and you can isolate cuttings or plants in separate sheets of plastic.

Be sure to scrub the plastic thoroughly with thick soapsuds each time you use it. Rinse well and allow to air dry. This is a precaution in case one of the cuttings or transplants might have been diseased.

Be adventuresome in choosing a new fragrance for fall and winter. Experiment with the free testers that are available in most stores, then invest in a tiny bottle to carry in your purse.

Party-Giving Girl Is Reluctant to Ask Some Boy to Serve as Her Partner

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'm having a boy-girl party and I need an extra boy. I've invited five other couples, but I need a boy for myself.

"Since I don't go with anyone special, would it be all right if I asked a boy I don't know too well? I'm not the prettiest girl in town, so would it seem bold"

That sixth boy is just to even up the numbers—he wouldn't be a real date, so you shouldn't feel shy about inviting any boy you know. You're not going to have too much time to spend with him, you know, so you needn't worry about any hidden meanings in your invitation.

Just ask a boy you know—preferably someone who knows the other people you're inviting. If you plan a party that will mix up the couples a bit anyhow, you'll find him and yourself dividing your time with all the others.

"Dear Miss Woodward: We're planning a "hard times" party at our church and we're expecting a big crowd of people of all ages.

"The committee is a bit stumped as to how to get such a party under way and how to organize guests into having a good time. Have you any suggestions?"

As soon as your guests have assembled, have a leader with a good strong voice organize a grand march. This is to show off costumes, of course, and get everybody moving around a bit.

Get everybody in it so the judges can get a really good look, then award a flock of very "white elephant" (since the times are hard and you can't afford better) prizes for the funniest, the most amusing, and most original couple and individual.

While they're catching their breath from the march, line them up once more and ask them to parade single file past the old oaken bucket to draw for the first stunt.

You will have had time to take a quick count of your guests and divide the total by 10. For each 10 people, put in the bucket 10 slips of paper bearing the same "hard times" slogan.

Bearers of the same slogan will team up for the first game. You might use slogans like these: "Overdrawn Account," "Fire Sale," "Hobos," "March 16," "Overdue Bills."

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

People Can Learn How to Take One Step at Time

I've always felt sorry for the confused centipede that playwright John Van Druten once told me about. It seems the insect was asked to explain how it ran with its many legs.

It had been navigating perfectly up to then but in no time after the query came it was found paralyzed in a ditch trying hopelessly to figure out which leg went over which!

MISS McBRIDE

Just today, when I was vacillating over a difficult decision, I remembered the poor centipede and decided I was behaving exactly like him. Nor am I the only one. Everywhere in this complex world are men and women so perplexed by the many problems they feel must be solved all at once that they have quite lost the power to act.

A businessman who had a nervous breakdown caused by worry, described the feeling of futility that overwhelmed him.

"I'd go to the office," he said, "and I'd sit at my desk brooding over my health and the merger we hadn't quite decided about and the question of sending our oldest boy to boarding school to stop him from becoming a mother's darling.

"Work was piling up besides and since I didn't know what to do first, I didn't do anything and pretty soon I was incapable of making a decision or taking a step."

We all know how he felt. I understood perfectly — it's that dreadful sense of urgency and confusion. It is paralyzing when there are several things you feel ought to be done how, this very minute. The worst is that you can get as worked up about the unimportant as the important.

One afternoon not long ago I was snapping at those around me, tormenting myself and sending my blood pressure up merely because a godchild I hadn't seen for months was coming to tea, two books for next day's radio program remained unread, my hair needed washing and I felt I ought to go see a friend in the hospital.

What finally happened was that I stopped thinking about all my problems except the godchild. She came on schedule and proved so adorable and refreshing that I felt a new woman when she left two hours later.

I telephoned the friend in the hospital who said with relief, "My, I'm glad you didn't come today. Everyone in the world was here and I'm so tired I just want to sleep for a week. How about next Tuesday?"

The books that had promised to be hard work turned out to be fun, and I gave my hair a good brushing after I read in one of them that you oughtn't to wash your hair so often anyway.

I'm afraid this is an oversimplification of the perplexities that plague us but at least it proves that a human being can do what a centipede apparently cannot— figure out how to take one step at a time.

My friend Jean, a free-lance writer, said it perfectly. After a frightening time when she sold nothing at all, she was suddenly deluged with orders for three articles, a series of television programs and the revision of a play.

"How on earth," asked a friend, harried for her, "are you going to manage all that?"

If only the distraught centipede could have heard, understood and heeded!

Saturday in St. Benedict Church, Theresa M. Cognac became the bride of Roy E. Ball. Mrs. Rose Cognac of South Josephine avenue and the Harry Balls of Gladstone place are their parents.

Planning to reside on Lakeside drive are Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Ball, who were married Saturday in St. Benedict Church.

Mrs. Ball, the former Theresa May Cognac, is the daughter of Mrs. Rose Cognac of South Josephine Avenue, and the Harry E. Balls of Gladstone Place are the bridegroom's parents.

For the 1 o'clock ceremony the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle. The dress was fashioned with an illusion neckline and panels of lace down the skirt.

Wearing similar gowns in aqua were bridesmaids Sally Bridson and Mrs. Jay Olsen. They carried cascades of yellow carnations.

New Israel Is Painted in Melody

Hadassah Program Is Given by Detroit Choral Group

By DONNA ANDERSON

An intermingling of old world cultures with the hope of new Israel characterized the spirited program given Tuesday evening in Congregation B'nai Israel.

In commemoration of the 11th annual Hadassah Roll of Honor, the Detroit Music Study Club Choral Group, with its director, Don Frohman, and accompanist, Rose Bassin Stein, presented a program which would find its equal only among the best.

Palestinean folk music revealing the problems, tensions and joys of the new state of Israel found its place among beloved classics from the American musical scene.

Mendelssohn's long loved "On Wings of Song" opened the program, thus early displaying the songsters' ability for perfect balance of parts.

"Herbst Lid," another Mendelsshon selection, preceded the modern Palestinean "Al Tiro" by Ziara, the story of a dream.

Sung in a joyful vein, "Al Tiro" is characteristic of the modern form of folk music, written as an hora, a Jewish dance. All through it one could feel the pulse of Palestine, the throbbing dream of her people.

Mamie Lawson sang the alto solo for this number. Her voice was of a quality not often heard in a small choral group such as this.

It would be well to mention here that this choral group possesses an outstanding alto section, an asset that is difficult to obtain.

One should not feel, however, that the other parts are being slighted, for blending and balance were excellent.

But, during interludes of pure alto part, it was very noticeable that the quality was outstanding both in a general sense, and in interpretation of the characteristic of the type of music being presented.

Brahms familiar Dance No. 5, in the form of "Around the Gypsy Fire," showed what can be done with contrast. The deep richness of the alto section mingling with the melodic airiness of the other parts did justice to the delightful work.

"God took away my eyes so my soul might see" seized the listener with a feeling of humility and thanksgiving as the group sang "The Blind Ploughman" by Clarke.

The light "Meidelach Ihr Sheininke" by Dargomischsky was next, followed by the well-known "Giannina Mia" from "Firefly" by Friml.

A note of pride burst forth in the singing of the last number, "Haganah" by the modern composer, Weinberg.

Such spirit can be accounted for by the fact that the Haganah is the fighting Jewish army that made possible the new state of Israel.

It is said that the folk music of a country paints a picture of the times. If this is true, Tuesday evening's performance brushed profound spirit onto the canvas of new Israel.

Top news in fitted double-breasted coats is this Oxford gray astrakhan wool. The bodice is loosely cut and rounded with shorter sleeves set in low at the shoulder.

MR. and MRS. HAROLD E. ALLARD

Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Allard, were married Saturday in Oakland Avenue Presbyterian Church. The bride, the former Shirley Eastman, is the daughter of the Worth Eastmans of Pine Grove avenue, and the Harold Allards of Cresthaven drive are the bridegroom's parents.

Shirley Eastman Married

In a candlelight service Saturday evening in Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church, Shirley Esther Eastman became the bride of Harold Elton Allard, son of the Harold Allards of Cresthaven drive.

The bride, daughter of the Worth E. Eastmans of Pine Grove avenue, chose a gown of white lace over satin for the 5 o'clock ceremony. The bodice was fashioned with long sleeves and the skirt was styled in a ballerina length.

White roses and carnations formed the bridal bouquet, and she wore a fingertip veil.

Mrs. Robert Parrish was matron of honor in a pink dress with net stole and a bouquet of green carnations. Other attendants in similar gowns of pale green were Mrs. Robert Bosley and Mrs. Karl Allard. They carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Mr. Bosley was best man, and seating the guests were Karl Allard and Orley Grosebeck.

Lora Lynn Sparks was elected president of Senior Jelome Club of First Methodist Church when the group met Monday evening at the home of Nancy Jackson on East boulevard.

Clumsy Ironer Thing of Past

If you still are thinking of a household ironer as one of those heavy, ungainly things that were in vogue when "mother was a girl," get acquainted with the new, up-to-date models. They are so simple and easy to operate you can learn in just a few minutes to iron plain, flat pieces, as towels and napkins.

It takes a little practice to iron shirts and dresses, but once you get the hang of it you will wonder why you ever hesitated to invest in one of these labor and health-saving appliances.

Wool Beach Bloomers Back Again

By JAMES BACON

LOS ANGELES (AP)— That relic of the Charleston era — the bloomer girl in a wool swim suit — may make her comeback on the beach next year.

However, though swimsuit makers preach a trend away from nudity at the seashore, they'll never make the bikini unpopular. That was demonstrated yesterday at a preview of the 1954 California swimsuits which showed more bloomers than a 1925 YWCA volleyball tournament.

The occasion was the opening of the third annual Press Week of the California fashion creators. Some 50 of the leading women fashion editors attended.

But the lone Bikini model stopped the show for the lone males — one reporter and two photographers.

Shirley Teege, the blonde model who displayed the brief attire said:

"I have a husband and a job. It's more important that I keep the husband."

A Gantner official merely said: "We don't expect this suit to sell in Boston but we have plenty of orders from France."

Gantner predicted that the wool suit will make the big beachwear news of 1954.

Rosemary Reid also came up with a version of the bloomer in doubloon panties that looked like something out of an Errol Flynn costume picture. And with jewels yet.

Man Fails to Tell Wife of Invitation

Now She Wonders How to Apologize to Neighbor

By EMILY POST

A wife writes me: "A little over a week ago a neighbor came to see me and invited my husband and me to dinner at her house. As I was not home at the time, my husband said that he did not know whether I had made any other engagements for that evening but that he would give me the message and have me call her back.

"However, my husband completely forgot to tell me and I have only just learned of this dinner invitation, which was for the night before last. I feel terrible about this and I am sure she must think me very discourteous.

"This person is not an intimate friend but is well-known in the community. Since we are newcomers, I'm afraid this will hurt our social standing in the community. Will you please tell me what I can do to make amends?"

Answer: Go to see her at once and tell her exactly what you have written me!

Dear Mrs. Post: When going down the receiving line at a large reception, who goes first—the man or the woman? If your answer is the woman, then will you please tell me if there is ever a time when it is proper for the man to go first?

For example, when the wife is a stranger, would it be proper for the husband to go first in order to introduce his wife to those in the receiving line?

Answer: Ordinarily she would go first. If the crowd is very dense, he would go first so that she could more easily follow in his wake. He would introduce her before shaking hands himself.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it an obligation of the bride's family to send a car to pick up the bridesmaids and the maid of honor to take them to the bride's house before going to the church, or is it up to them to get there themselves? Also, is it necessary to provide a car to take the ushers to church?

Answer: Usually the bridesmaids get to the bride's house themselves and from there they go together to the church, conveyances provided by the bride's parents.

The ushers meet at the church, and if they have no practical way of getting themselves there, the bridegroom's family provides a conveyance.

How to Get Most Out of Radiator

By HUBBARD COBB

Just in case you didn't know, the reason that a particular radiator in a certain room is the size it happens to be is because whoever installed the heating system figured that was the size radiator necessary to produce comfortable heat in cold weather.

If you do anything to reduce the output of the radiator, the chances are that the room or rooms may not always be too comfortable.

One way you can reduce the efficiency of a radiator is to paint it with metallic paint. What this does is to reflect the heat right back into the radiator where it does you precious little good.

The nice thing about all this is that if you just paint over the metallic paint with a radiator enamel or flat wall paint you will restore the radiator to its normal efficiency.

Another way to reduce the effiency of a steam or hot water radiator is to cover it with an improperly designed enclosure. A properly designed enclosure has a good deal of open space, and there should be sufficient clearance between the radiator and the enclosure to insure a good circulation of air.

If you have an enclosure with no openings at the top and none near the base, it is reducing the efficiency of the radiator by a considerable amount.

Radiators are often set against outside walls and unless the wall is insulated, a good deal of heat is flowing through the wall to the outdoors.

What you can do here is to set a piece of aluminum in back of the radiator to reflect this heat back into the room.

If you can't get hold of sheet aluminum, take some aluminum foil and cement it to a heavy cardboard backing. This will do the trick nicely.

Certain Rugs Can Be Shampooed at Home

If washable and color-fast, rugs can be shampooed at home. Use a cloth, brush, or sponge to apply "dry" suds made by beating soap and a little water to a thick lather. Work on one section at a time, overlapping to avoid rings.

Remove soiled suds with a clean rinse cloth and blot all possible moisture with a clean, dry cloth. Work quickly, avoid saturating moisture, and keep the windows open to speed drying.

Beauty Clinic

GLASSES

The hairdo should be carefully chosen for those who wear glasses . . . not tailored to severity nor of an intricate design. Softly feminine, moderately off the face lines are best. If the hair is too forward the face has a cluttered look . . . if combed back too severely the glasses stand out conspicuously.

Brush your hair until it shines is a good rule for all but especially applies to those who wear glasses.

Make your hair truly a crowning glory and attract attention to it rather than to your glasses.

Keep your eyebrows neatly shaped so that no untidy hairs will detract from the smart line of your glasses.

Hats with an uneven or curving brim are the most becoming with glasses. Don't wear dangling earrings . . . ever!

by Anne Adams

Sew-easiest ever! Two main pieces! Run several up in a jiffy for thrifty Christmas gifts! Be sure to make one for yourself, too —it's such a sweet slumber-number with those feminine drawstring bows. A nightie you'll enjoy making and wearing!

Pattern 4651: Misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 16 takes 3¾ yards 39-inch fabric.

Embroidered Hanky Serves as 'Modesty'

A lovely embroidered handkerchief makes a beautiful neckline "modesty" to fill in a low-necked dress; fold it diagonally and pin the three corners securely on to your slip.

Nothing could better liven up last year's left-over dress. Also, because a hankie opens flat for pressing, it will be much easier to launder than the average dickey.

Matching Coveralls for Mom, Daughter

Now Mother and little or older daughter can work or play in matching coveralls and dusters made of that washable favorite—cotton flannelette.

Featured in a gay herringbone stripe, they're designed for indoor or outdoor wear, and the only care they need is frequent tubbings in lots of rich soapsuds.

Use Your Mirror

Taking time to study yourself in the mirror is not vanity; it is good-grooming sense. Learn what people see in you. Then accent the good points and eliminate or disguise the bad. That's one way to self-confidence.

Guest Musician Traces Fascinating History of Folk Songs and Ballads

Sings, Talks to Musicale on Tuesday

Harvest Time Tea Concludes Meeting and Program

Folk songs are intimate stories or narratives passed on orally from one generation to another, accumulating differences in the passing, but essentially the same, according to Mrs. Florence Hall of Royal Oak, who told of them to the Tuesday Musicale Club Tuesday afternoon in Grace Lutheran Fellowship Hall.

With her guitar slung from her shoulder, in the simple style of a ballad singer, Mrs. Hall fascinated her audience for more than an hour, telling about the origin of songs and people singing of their sorrows and troubles, all as a natural result of living.

Mrs. Hall pointed out the differences in version caused by locations, forgetfulness and interpolations. The first song she sang was one version of "Barbara Allen," of which there are many.

She also explained that the story being sung is more important than the voice, which is used only as a medium for imparting the narrative, but many of the tunes are classical in melody.

Mrs. Hall's performance was much enjoyed as her presentation ranged from love ballads through historical tales and revenge songs. Her natural, sweet voice and guitar accompaniments were especially suited to this type of entertainment.

Mrs. John B. Nicolls Jr., chairman of the junior clubs, told of their growing activities. A report on the southeastern district meeting held recently in Wyandotte was given by Mrs. Gordon Woolcock.

Mrs. Bliss Wells, former state president and past president of Tuesday Musicale, greeted the gathering. A project to purchase a new grand piano for the club was inaugurated by Mrs. Harold Euler.

Mrs. Donald Hogue presided at the business meeting and Mrs. Woolcock was chairman for the day. Mrs. Vernon Abbott and Vera Bassett greeted members and guests at the door.

The tea table accentuated the abundance of harvest time with an arrangement of fruits, vegetables and foliage, planned by Mrs. Cecil McCallum and Mrs. W. O. Kline. Mrs. C. E. Galloway and Mrs. T. E. Nelson presided at the tea table.

Heading the social committee were Mrs. A. W. Palmer and Mrs. W. H. Mustard, with Mrs. C. A. Hudson, Mrs. D. G. Brown, Mrs. W. H. Eustice, Mrs. W. A. Kent, Mrs. H. T. Rombough and Mrs. George Cram assisting.

Mirror May Be Dirty

If you suddenly notice that your skin doesn't look right, it may be the mirror. Perhaps it's covered with film and needs a good sudsdown since mirrors attract dust specks and smudges very quickly. See that you always reflect cleanliness with a clean-faced mirror.

In South Pacific for 14 Months

Left Broadway for the Movies, but Also Likes Latest Medium

NEW YORK—Ezio Pinza is one of the most versatile artists before the public today, having appeared in virtually every kind of entertainment medium.

As star of the new "Bonino" show on TV, he again will use his acting and singing talents.

Ezio Pinza was born in Rome, Italy, the seventh child and the first one to live. His parents moved back to their native Ravenna shortly after his birth and settled there.

Accompanied by his father, Pinza, at 15, went to Bologna to audition for the great Vezzani at the Conservatory. The answer was no.

Undaunted by this refusal, Pinza went to another teacher, Maestro Ruzza, and the answer this time was yes.

Upon Ruzza's death, Vezzani changed his mind and took the young man into the conservatory. Pinza's progress was sufficiently remarkable for the mayor of Ravenna to arrange a scholarship for him.

However, expenses ran high and Pinza worked at nights in a carpenter's shop to pay for his board.

In the fall of 1914, Pinza made his debut in the role of Oroveso in Bellini's "Norma" in the small Opera House of Soncino near Milan.

World War 1, however, soon followed and the promising beginnings of his career were interrupted. For the next six years, Pinza was in the army.

A member of the artillery corps, he spent most of the time at the front where he won the Bronze Cross for distinguished service.

Gatti Casazza, manager of the Metropolitan Opera, heard him in 1925, and signed him for the 1926 season. He made his debut at the Metropolitan on Nov. 1, 1926.

Acclaimed by critics and public alike as the greatest bass since Chaliapin, he was given immediately during his first season an imposing array of roles.

For years he received offers from many Broadway producers to appear on Broadway, but it wasn't until Rodgers and Hammerstein offered him the starring part of Emile de Becque in their musical play "South Pacific" that he found the role in which he wanted to make his bow on the legitimate stage.

He was an overnight sensation and became Broadway's newest matinee idol.

To anyone who had seen him in opera, it was no surprise that he was acclaimed by the critics as an actor of extraordinary stature, but to the many millions who saw him for the first time in this play it was indeed a great revelation to discover that an opera singer could be an actor at the same time.

As a matter of fact, "South Pacific" and Pinza have written one of the most fabulous chapters in the theater history.

He left "South Pacific" 14 months after it had opened on Broadway, because Hollywood had tempted him with one of the most spectacular movie contracts offered anyone in recent years.

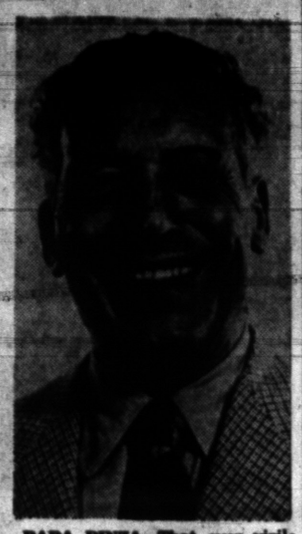
He is married to the former Doris Leak of Larchmont, New York, and lives in a charming new house in Stamford, Conn. They have three children, Celia, Pietro, and Gloria.

Pinza leads a quiet life and rarely goes to New York City, except for professional appearances.

By a previous marriage he has a daughter Claudia who made her big-time operatic debut in this country with the San Francisco Opera Co., as Marguerite in Faust, opposite her father's Mephisto.

He bicycles, likes boating, fishing, hunting and motoring, carpentering around the house—and prefers sports-clothes to other apparel.

However with his title role in the weekly TV "Bonino" show he will have little time for any hobbies.



PAPA PINZA—That ever virile male, Ezio Pinza, takes over a new kind of role in the TV series "Bonino." As father of eight motherless children, opera star Bonino finds he has his hands full of trouble. The pleasant, homey atmosphere, combined with classic art makes for a pleasant and original half-hour.

Wealthy Indian Youth Gets Bike Costing $560

Lauds Human Dignity Concept

NAM Head Declares Religions Teaching Idea Are Basic to Freedom

LANSING (AP) — Religions which preach the dignity of human beings are the basis of political and economic freedom, Charles R. Sligh Jr., of Grand Rapids, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, declared last night.

Addressing a business group assembled in a local church, Sligh declared that American business is "at the cross-roads." Byways he said, lead to a "marked recession" or to "deep depression." The "main road," he said, is the "free enterprise competitive way to prosperity in the future."

The byways, Sligh said, lead to a controlled state, which, in turn, results in a "slave society."

Both ways, he said, "deny the sanctity of the man an the sanctity of the man and the power of God."

The free enterprise road, he said, is based on these premises:

That the system of free choice is the best economic system.

A free economic system is possible only in a free society.

A free society may exist only when "individual worth" is recognized.

We are most apt to have political and economic recognition of individual worth when the prevailing religious conception teaches dignity of the human individual."

Sligh repeated previous declarations that American business is in a sound condition and that the chances of either depression or recession are slight.

Local Physicians Attend Clinic at Kellogg Center

Several Pontiac physicians are attending the seventh annual fall postgraduate clinic of the Wayne County and Michigan Academies of General Practice at Kellogg Center in East Lansing today and Thursday.

Local physicians attending include doctors L. F. Cobb, D. F. Hoyt, J. R. Bikeney, Matthew J. Gill, Joseph Nosanchuk, and Harry Arnikoff.

Some 500 physicians—all general practitioners—are present at the session, aimed at keeping the family doctor abreast of late developments in medicine and surgery.

JAYNE'S P-W Kills! KILL PIN-WORMS (You may have them and not know it)

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Boy Survives Heart Stoppage During Operation

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—An 11-year-old boy whose heart stopped beating for 28 minutes during an operation will return to his home Saturday.

Physicians say he has made a good recovery from the experience, during which he was kept alive by the skill of a surgeon's trained hands and modern equipment.

The boy is Robert Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hudson of Idaho Falls, Idaho.

His heart not only stopped beating, but several times went into a disordered type of movement known as ventricular fibrillation, which medical men say usually is fatal. A total of 21 electrical shocks were applied to the heart before it resumed normal beating. The surgeon also massaged the heart repeatedly.

Robert underwent the operation Oct. 20 to correct a "blue baby" condition. He was born with a narrow heart valve, which prevented normal flow of blood to the lungs.

Doctors reported today Robert's recovery was good, except for slightly blurred vision which is said to be the result of the long heart stoppage.

Yugoslavia Asks Trieste Solution

Wants to Compromise but Says Italy Tries to Make Trouble

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslav leaders have called for a compromise solution to the bitter quarrel over Trieste, accusing Italy of attempting to use the issue to force a breach between Yugoslavia and the West.

The government's position was outlined last night by two of President Tito's top aides, Vice President Edvard Kardelj and Vice President Moshe Pijade in electioneering speeches at Ljubljana and Belgrade.

Kardelj, the administration's foreign policy maker, took a more optimistic line than some other members of the government have done since the British-American Oct. 8 announcement of their decision to turn Zone A of the Trieste free territory over to Italy.

"Let us sit down at the green table and let us look for a compromise solution with our perspective on future Italian-Yugoslav relations," Kardelj said. He was careful to emphasize, however, that Yugoslavia would never participate in any talks which had Italian occupation of Zone A as an advance condition for the meeting. Pijade followed much the same line.

Britain and the United States still say they intend to carry out their pledge tooturn Zone A over to Italy but have avoided setting any date for withdrawal of the 7,000-man Allied garrison. Yugoslavia, which controls the territory's Zone B, has threatened to march on Zone A the moment Italian troops enter.

Although Kardelj's remarks appeared to reflect increasing Yugoslav confidence that the Big Three Western Powers, Italy and Yugoslavia will be able to arrange talks on a possible solution, Rome reports indicated little progress had been made there.

U. S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce conferred with Italian Premier Giuseppe Pella for 70 minutes yesterday but told newsmen on emerging: "There is nothing new in the Trieste situation. All the old problems still are with us."

Eisenhower Nominates Social Security Director

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has nominated John William Tramburg, 40, to succeed Arthur J. Altmeyer as commissioner of social security.

Tramburg, a Republican, has been executive director of the Wisconsin Department of Public Welfare since 1950. A native of Fall River, Wis., he is a World War II Navy veteran, former schoolteacher and former juvenile court probation officer.

U. S. Newsmen Get Red Carpet in Philippines

By FRED HAMPSON

MANILA (AP) — American correspondents covering The Philippines' heated and sometimes bloody presidential election found themselves in a unique position—they invariably were treated as favorite sons wherever they went.

Even out in the dusty villages—where gunfire sometimes stopped voting and tension ran high—American newsmen received cordial welcomes. Armed guards at polling places would readily step aside if a correspondent asked to be admitted. And registered voter lists were willingly displayed for comparison with the ballots cast.

* * *

The publicity given to American correspondents was thorough indeed. Even far out in the countryside this correspondent was readily recognized as "one of the United States' newspapermen." Most Filipinos insisted the Americans were there to keep the election honest.

I went to the town of Bacoor in explosive Cavite province a few hours after four men had been killed in an election day shooting. The driver I hired was reluctant to go and took a Magsaysay sign off his jeep before we arrived. The precaution was unnecessary.

* * *

Virtually everyone indicated some degree of welcome. I was permitted to roam the street where the shooting occurred, and had no trouble finding two eyewitnesses who talked freely.

Voters said the presence of the newsmen would discourage terrorism.

Estimates of the weight of blood in the human body vary from one-thirteenth to one-twentieth of the weight of the body and it is believed the proportions vary from time to time.

Turbo-Prop Plane Sets Altitude Mark

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has disclosed that the world's first light airplane to harness jet power to its propeller has climbed more than seven miles to a new altitude record for small planes.

The announcement said Bill Thompson, test pilot for Cessna Airplane Co., Wichita, Kan., set the record in a single-engine Cessna XL19B, a modification of the Army's Birddog observation plane. His mark of 37,063 feet last July 16 wiped out the 30,203-foot record set in 1951 by a Piper Super Cub.

The XL19B's Boeing engine is basically a jet but harnesses the normal exhaust thrust, through a secondary turbine, to drive a conventional propeller.

Gen. Dean Returns to Boyhood Home

CARLYLE, Ill. (AP) — Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, the Medal of Honor winner who survived more than three years as a Communist prisoner in Korea, came back to his home town yesterday to a hero's welcome.

Cheering citizens lined the downtown streets of this community of 2,700 persons. Dean was born here, but moved to California with his family when he was 18.

A reception was held for the general and his wife last night at the home of Lewis Gross, a Carlyle businessman and long-time friend of the Deans.

An unidentified man said to the general:

"We thought about you a lot during those years in prison and prayed for your safety."

Smiling, Dean replied: "There was no need to. I was just resting—just taking it easy."

City Electricians Ask Pay Hike

INHERIT A CASTLE—Sir Adrian Ivor Dunbar, former Maryland farmer-handyman, and his wife, Lady Dunbar, (top) arrive at Southampton, England, en route to Scotland where they will take possession of Mochrum Park (below). Dunbar is the 12th holder of the 259-year-old baronetcy which includes 3,400 acres of land and a 40-room castle. The ex-handyman was unabashed when shown this picture of the rambling, weed-choked, windowless ancient mansion. "I've repaired houses before," he explained.

Request Made to Commission

Union Seeks 42 Cent Increase Over Present $2.31 Hourly Wage

Pontiac City Commission last night agreed to consider the request of city-employed electricians for a hike in their 1954 wage scale.

Kenneth MacGillivray of Local 58, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), made the request on behalf of the electricians.

He said the current top pay for city electricians was $2.31 per hour and stated the five per cent increase planned by the city was insufficient. The electricians are asking a 42 cent per hour raise, said MacGillivray.

The commission approved the revised constitution, by-laws, rules and regulations of the Pontiac General Hospital medical staff.

A bid of $15,600 from the Royal Development Corp. for lots 39, 40 and 42 through 63 inclusive of the Robert Herndon - Pontiac Apartment Subdivision was referred to the city attorney to be prepared for ratification.

The commission confirmed special assessment rolls for:

Curb, gutter, drainage, eight-inch reinforced concrete and related work on Baldwin from Walton to the north line of Colgate, and for drainage, eight-inch reinforced concrete pavement and related work on Baldwin from the north line of Colgate to the north city limits.

Recap with curb replacement and widening on the south side of existing pavement, with curb, gutter, gravel base, bituminous concrete surface course and necessary drainage on Montcalm from Baldwin to Lakeside. Also widening pavement with eight-inch reinforced concrete, curb, gutter, drainage and a two-inch bituminous concrete recap on Montcalm from Lakeside to Oakland.

Sidewalk on the west side of Branch from Gillespie 150 feet south, and on the south side of Gillespie from Branch to Howard McNeil.

Commissioners approved transfer of an SDD liquor license and SDM beer and wine license from Louis Savas to Donald F. Schroeder and Sophia Tenjeras.

Second reading of the proposed ordinance regulating city water supplied to air-conditioning and refrigeration units was postponed for two weeks. City Manager Walter K. Willman requested more time to complete a study of the ordinance.

The commission approved the signed contracts for the Gillespie street bridge and directed the city manager to execute them.

In other action the commission:

Received a special assessment roll prepared by the city assessor for sidewalk on the north side of Parkdale from Kennett to the northwest line of lot 97, Lakeside Park Subdivision.

Held a public hearing and deferred confirmation on a special assessment roll for sidewalk on the west side of Joslyn from Columbia to Walton.

Referred a request for rezoning lots 15, 16, and 17 of the replat of lot 594, Modern Housing Corp., on the southwest corner of Edison and Lewis to the City Plan Commission with a recommendation that it be rezoned to C-1.

Received a request from Frank R. Stadler of 82 S. Eastway Dr. for rezoning of his lots at East Boulevard and E. Pike and moved to instruct Stadler to circulate a petition.

Declared a public necessity for improvement of an alley running parallel to Lowell from Ivy to Glenwood.

WAR ORPHANS—Youngsters at the Seoul Sanatorium and Hospital pose for an Army photographer outside a dormitory. The children include more than 50 orphans taken in by the 326th Communication Reconnaisance Company at Seoul early in the winter of 1951. Oakland County men stationed with the unit say winter clothing donations from the United States are still urgently needed. Candy and toys are also near the top on the youngsters' Christmas lists.

PLAYTIME—War left these Korean orphans at the Seoul Sanatorium and Hospital little to play with except what their imaginations can provide. Here, stones and a wooden tub filled with water keep one group occupied. Oakland County men stationed with the 326th Communication Reconnaisance Company at Seoul, who are helping to support the youngsters through pay-day contributions, have asked the folks back home to lend a hand with food and clothing donations.

Two Diseases Rise in County

Sharp Increase Seen in Measles, Chicken Pox Outside City

Chicken pox and measles increased on Oakland County Health Department reports for last week, with 47 and 61 new cases listed, respectively.

The report was released by Dr. John D. Monroe, department director. The department, which covers all of Oakland County except Pontiac, reported only 10 new cases of chicken pox and 34 of measles the week before.

Oakland GIs in Seoul Beg Clothing for Korean Waifs

Oakland County men stationed with the 326th Communication Reconnaissance Company at Seoul, Korea have sent an appeal to Pontiac for warm winter clothing for scores of homeless Korean children their outfit has adopted.

According to Pvt. Armond Dickens of Walled Lake, the unit's relief program for Korean war orphans has been snowballing ever since the grim winter of 1951 when a tiny Korean girl, lost and hungry, broke down and cried for food at the rear of the company area.

As the winter progressed, more children were taken in, given warm food and a place to sleep.

When war tensions at Seoul began to lessen, Dr. George Rue, director of the Seoul Sanitarium and Hospital, offered to relieve the 326th of more than 50 children who had taken up residence with the company.

Although the transfer was made, the men voted not only to continue to help support their former charges but expanded their relief program to include more than 200 other youngsters living at the Seoul Hospital.

They are able to do it through monthly pay-day donations and clothing sent them from the United States.

"We don't expect miracles or anything of that nature," Dickens writes.

"We just want a little help and kindness from the folks back home. Believe me, any assistance you can give us will be deeply appreciated.

County men serving with the 326th include Cpl. Maynard Piersall and Pvt. Don Reynolds of Keego Harbor; Pvt. Frank Gibson of Farmington; PFC Richard Brown of Walled Lake and Pvt. Thomas Lemaster of Waterford.

Clothing donations may be sent to Commanding Officer, 326th Comm. Recon. Co., APO 301, c-o Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif., and marked "For Orphanage."

Set Deadline for Pupil Policy

Public School Insurance Plan Must Be Signed for by Nov. 25

Parents of Pontiac Public School students have until Nov. 25 to insure children against school accidents under a plan approved by the Pontiac Board of Education.

Letters explaining the plan and return envelopes were sent home with all public school students recently. Any parent not receiving a copy of the letter may obtain one from his youngster's school.

The school board approved the plan, which has a premium of $1.25 per year per child, as a service to parents. Low rates are possible, the insurance company explains, because of the large group which usually signs up.

The insurance plan pays all medical expenses up to $2,000 for each accident, plus up to $7,500 in benefits for loss of eyes, arms, legs and other specific parts of the body.

Youngsters are protected while traveling between school and home, in school, and on school grounds—for an hour before and after the school session.

The insurance also covers accidents which happen on school-sponsored trips, or during school athletic contests—except high school football.

Eight Long Years

Reds Jammed POW Camps

Thousands Forced to Exist in Space Meant for Hundreds

This is the third in a series of articles by Frank Rohrbacher Jr., a prisoner in Soviet and Hungarian slave labor camps for eight years. Today he tells of crowded conditions in POW compounds and the brutality of his Red captors.

By FRANK ROHRBACHER JR.
As Told to International News Service

VIENNA (INS)—After the Russians captured me and refused to pay any attention to my announcement that I was an American, they put me first in a prisoner of war enclosure, Camp Stockerau.

Theat was in April, 1945, near Vienna, and I soon learned how the Reds treated their prisoners.

Stockerau had room for hundreds, under crowded conditions. There were thousands in the camp. We had no place to sit. Hardly room to stand. And to lie down was to risk being trampled to death.

Day after day scores of POW's bodies were carried away.

Mine would have been carried out, too, if I'd been kept there, but one day the camp was virtually cleared out. Eighteen hundred of us were put into cattle cars—100 to each car of an 18-car train.

We had cheered our removal from camp, but that train was even worse. Crude wooden platforms had been built into the car to give them two "floors," 50 men to a floor.

How many of my fellow prisoners died during that terrible trip I don't know. But in my car alone, about two POWS died every day — and the journey took a month.

Our destination was a concentration camp near Tiflis in Russia. It was the first of three such camps in which I was to pass my five years in Soviet captivity. The others were at Stalingrad, and Voronesh.

During that seemingly endless train journey from lower Austria, we were fed — when the guards remembered to feed us — only small pieces of hard bread and preserved fish.

Many days we had no food at all, but our worst hardship actually was lack of water. This was almost never rationed out and most of the time we had to depend on rain water dripping down from the roofs of the cattle car.

One day some of the prisoners started a chant for water. I joined in. "Water! Water!" we shouted.

Once, when an officer came by to check our car, we pleaded with him for more food, and especially for water. We told him how many were dying.

He seemed not to care. "Don't worry," he shrugged. "More will die."

Through all those years, I managed to keep with me my birth certificate showing I was a native of New York City. Most of the time I carried the certificate in my boots. But there are other hiding places, when that which you are hiding may mean the difference between freedom and a lifetime of slavery ending in a miserable death.

'Little Fugitive' Is Tops; Penny Pinching Made It

By BILLY ROSE

In the hungry years following the war, the Italian movie studios, as you may have read, were virtually broke.

However, they did have a little credit at the banks and so, cutting their cloth to fit their purse, they cast unknown players in the lead parts, substituted sunlight for Technicolor, and used the streets and back alleys of Rome and Milan for scenery.

BILLY ROSE

The result, as you know, was a series of movies which, for realism and quality, made most of our native product look silly.

Sure, our "Tootsies At The Waldorf" outgrossed the European films but, by any artistic standard, we couldn't help but admit that our stuff was second-rate compared to, let's say, Rosselini's "Open City" or DiSicca's "Bicycle Thief."

Our "The Little Fugitive," however, compares favorably with anything out of Europe in recent years. Without any fake heroics, it tells the story of a seven-year-old who, tricked into thinking he has killed his kid brother, runs off to Coney Island to hide.

A sensitive camera takes the boy apart and puts him together again as he winds in and out of merry-go-rounds, frozen custard stands and a million people on the beach.

That's about all there is to the plot, and yet the result is a movie which generates more fire power than half a dozen Errol Flynn epics.

Recently, the day after I saw "The Little Fugitive," I got in touch with its producers — a trio of unknowns — and asked them some questions.

"How much did your picture cost?" I said.

"Eighty-seven thousand dollars," said Ray Ashley.

"The initial overhead in a big studio is usually $250,000," I said. "What was yours?"

"Something less than $2,000," said Morris Engel.

"How much music?"

"We only had $1,000 to spend," said Ruth Orkin, "so we used one harmonica. A big one, however—three octaves."

"What did you pay your star?"

"Richie Andrusco got $250 a week," said Ashley. "It might amuse you to know his mother was scared to death when we handed her the contract — she thought she had to pay us $250 a week."

In other words, "The Little Fugitive" was produced under the same pinchpenny conditions as the Italian classics. Its producers couldn't afford to build a gingerbread version of Coney Island, so they settled for the photogenic treasures of the original.

"The Little Fugitive," to get back to my original point, shows that quality pictures can be produced on this side of the Atlantic if the bank roll isn't permitted to overwhelm the brain.

This two-penny paradox, of course, shouldn't surprise anyone. If the art books are to be believed, darn few masterpieces have been painted by millionaires.

Mounties Hunt Trapper's Kin

Search From Yukon to Bay City; $80,000 Estate at Stake

BAY CITY (AP) — The people are gone — and a trail that led from a lonely trapper's cabin in the Canadian Yukon to a house on Van Buren street in Bay City has led to a dead end — a dead end worth $80,000.

Canadian Mounted Police started on the trail Dec. 30, 1952, when an 82-year-old German immigrant, Otto Kellerman, died in his cabin on Adams Hill in the Yukon.

Kellerman, who had turned to trapping in the winter months since 1944 when he retired, had long been employed with the Yukon Consolidated Gold Corp.

The Mounties found that he had an estate in cash and securities worth a minimum of $80,000. Their trail led them from the cabin where he died through several banks and most of the Yukon.

They discovered that Kellerman had died "single and intestate" although he had been heard to mention "friends and relatives in Bay City."

In Bay City, however, the trail ended. No trace of a Kellerman family listed in the city's 1897 directory has been found.

Deadline Set for Parents to OK Fluoride

Tomorrow is the deadline for parents of second and third graders at Longfellow and Central Schools who want their youngsters' teeth given decay-preventing fluoride treatments at school next week.

Pontiac Public Schools' mobile "fluoride treatment center" will set up shop at Longfellow Tuesday, Nov. 17, to treat the two school groups. Parents who want their youngsters' teeth treated must send their written consent and $4 for each child to the school by Thursday.

Josephine Seeley, school health coordinator said the mobile center will finish its work at Bagley and Whittier Schools Friday. The low-cost fluoride treatment has the endorsement of Oakland County Dental Society and Michigan, Oakland County and Pontiac Health Departments.

Coast Guard to Hold Exams for Academy

Entrance examinations for the U. S. Coast Guard Academy will be held throughout the United States Feb. 23 and 24, according to Rep. George A. Dondero.

Applications, available at Coast Guard headquarters in Washington, D. C., must be postmarked not later than Jan. 15. The examination is open to young men between the ages of 17 and 22.

A high school diploma, including at least three units of English, two of algebra and one each of physics and geometry, is the minimum educational requirement. Seniors assured of graduation by next June 30 are also eligible.

Car Hits Woman as She Runs to Ring Fire Alarm

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — Mrs. Manuel Vera, 24, was struck and injured by an auto when she ran across the street to pull an alarm box after her kitchen caught fire Tuesday.

Mrs. Vera suffered cuts, bruises and shock and was hospitalized after being struck by the auto driven by Everett J. List. A passerby turned in the fire alarm. Damage to her kitchen by the flames, which started when she was filling a kerosene lamp, was about $35.

Naval ROTC Exam Dec. 12

Applications for Officer Training in '54 Must Be Received by Nov. 21

College-bound men wishing to enter the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps in September, 1954, must arrange to take a competitive examination on Dec. 12, the Navy announced recently.

Applications for the exam must be received by Nov. 21. They are obtainable at high schools, colleges, offices of naval officer procurement and Navy recruiting stations.

Approximately 2,000 students will be selected for the program from those who obtain qualifying scores. The University of Michigan has the only NROTC unit in the state, but there are 51 other such units in colleges throughout the country.

Accepted students will be appointed midshipman, U. S. Naval Reserve, and will have tuition, books and normal fees paid by the government. The student will receive an additional $600 per year for other expenses.

Trainees take six to eight-week summer cruises between academic years to provide working knowledge of the Navy. Program graduates are commissioned as ensigns in the Navy or second lieutenants in the Marine Corps and ordered to active duty.

These officers may request retention in the regular service. Otherwise, after three years of active duty, they return to civilian life as reserve officers.

Tennis Star Sues Horace E. Dodge

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP) —A $300,000 damage suit on file in Palm Beach Circuit Court today charging Detroit playboy Horace E. Dodge with directing "obscene and defamatory remarks" at tennis star Gardnar Mulloy.

The former National Doubles champion, who also is a Miami attorney, filed the suit in person Tuesday. It failed to state the circumstances, time or place of Didge's alleged remarks.

Dodge, who made headlines here last year when he married showgirl Gregg Sherwood, lives at nearby Palm Beach during the winter. He could not be reached for comment.

By GEORGE S. SCHUYLER

The Communist-inspired turmoil in British Guiana is symptomatic of a rapidly developing Caribbean pattern which makes this teeming region the soft under-belly of the United States.

SCHUYLER

This vestibule to the Panama Canal is one of the earth's most explosive regions.

In March, 1951, British troops from Jamaica crushed a newly-organized catch-all union in Grenada which had precipitated a class war. The Dutch-ousted leader from Aruba was tried and jailed; but today his union dominates the island and influences legislation.

The largest union of Canal Zone workers was snatched from Communist leaders by deporting them to New York. Riots and strikes suggest Red influence is still operating.

In August 1951, several British Honduras editors were arrested as seditionists, and the left-wing Belize City Council barred the King's picture from its walls.

Costa Rico today is controlled by Socialists and neighboring Guatemala by Communists. The rulers of the latter "republic" are confiscating American businesses in the name of "national interest" and "land reform."

The biggest nest of Communists is in Mexico where labor leader and Red agent Vincente Toledano controls a powerful bloc of voters. He helped found the World Federation of Trade Unions. Its (U. S. deported) roving Caribbean ambassador is Ferdinand Smith, a Jamaican, once secretary of the National Maritime Union.

Communist influence is almost as strong in Jamaica as in Trinidad. In March 1952, the socialist People's Nationalist Party of Jamaica, purged its suspected Communist mayor of Kingston. The island's catch-all unions are periodically guilty of the most outrageous and irresponsible hoodlumism.

Trinidad has been disrupted time and again by struggles between Red and anti-Red groups. Here the largest and most influential labor group is the Oil Workers Union whose president Rojas is an official of the WFTU. Over the desk in his office I noted a large lithograph of Josef Stalin.

In the smaller islands of Antigua, St. Kitts, Martinique and Guadeloupe, the controlling politician, labor leaders have no qualms about ordering their impoverished followers to burn canefields, hinder commerce or disrupt communications.

For many years the spark plug of Communism in Cuba has been the labor leader Lazaro Pena. He is currently on trial for heading a recent abortive uprising. It was in Cuba under the last two presidents before dictator Batista that a left-wing expedition was recruited and trained to invade Rafael Trujillo's Dominican Republic.

These problems are aggravated by the declining death rate and soaring birth rate which now give this deforestated, eroded, low production area 70 million people—nearly one-half that of the U. S.

With little industry, little export, a deficiency in food and consumer goods; (overlooking lack of schools, housing, libraries, clinics and hospitals) with half the population living in towns, under-employment and unemployment are chronic.

These half-starved, idle masses are made to order for Marxist-Lenin or Fabian socialist "intellectuals" with an aversion toward work.

Group Forecasts Cuts in Federal Hospital Aid

State Representative Arnell Engstrom (R-Traverse City) said that an economy minded Congress and fears of socialized medicine left "not too much hope of Congress expanding hospital and health services."

Honey Storage Place Found to Be Unbearable

SCARBOROUGH, Me. (UP)—Jasper Leavitt wished the bees had gone elsewhere to store their honey rather than to the eaves of his tool shed.

He returned home one night to find a black bear squatting on the roof of the shed, tearing off the shingles to get at the honey. He shooed the bear away and got out his hammer and nails to reshingle the roof.

TV Stretching Life of Lowly Possum

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UP)—A curious result of the popularity of television and movies is that life is becoming safer for the southern possum.

The night-time sport of hunting this animal is fast losing popularity because more and more people prefer to stay in their comfortable homes instead of tramping the frosty woods behind a pack of possum dogs.

Conservation officials deplore the passing of the "time - honored southern sport," which they blame on the "trend of the times."

Time was when the woods in October resounded with the yaps of possum dogs hunting for the night prowlers, and "possum and taters" were a seasonal southern delicacy.

Bob Considine Says:

Makers of Lead Pencils Laugh at Recession Talks

NEW YORK (INS)—There's going to be no depression, says the Lead Pencil Manufacturers Association.

The group claims that whenever the pencil business is good, business in general is good. And the pencil business is bewilderingly good.

About 1,400,000,000 pencils will be sold this year. Biggest consumer is industry, next biggest school kids, and Uncle Sam comes third.

There were some 350 kinds of pencils, including 17 different black leads alone.

Queen Elizabeth I ruled the world's toughest pencil monopoly. She would permit England's great graphite mine to be worked only six weeks a year, and the ore was heavily guarded on its way to London.

Napoleon broke the monopoly. He ordered his scientists to find a substitute for the British graphite pencils, from which France had been cut off.

One of his men came up with a mixture of cheap graphite and powdered clay, which he fired like a piece of pottery in a kiln. This remains the basic process used in making pencils throughout the world. Can't say what happened to Bess' graphite mine.

John Foster Dulles has thrown out a hint or two that the U. S. is willing to give up its veto power in the United Nations, if, of course, Russia, Britain, France and Chiang Kai-shek's China also will.

We will get no support in that field. The firmest opposition will come from Britain, whose delegation is said to reason: "We can't have all those little nations making big decisions committing us to do this or that in the world."

If we did come forward with a clear-cut offer to dispense with the veto, and talked Britain into siding with us, there would still be Russia.

Russia, which casts a veto at the drop of a head, takes a real dim view of the 1955 conference to revise the U. N. Charter. The chief monkey-wrench thrower in U. N. wants the world organization apparatus to remain exactly as it is.

And, through the veto, have the power to wipe out any change which might be heartily endorsed by the 59 other nations.

In answer to an occasional query as to why the other nations in U. N. don't kick Russia out, let us say the charter was phrased in such a way that every nation might want to expel Russia but Russia can say "Niet," and stay a member in good standing just as long as she pleases.

It is estimated that U. S. farmers have about 750,000 horsepower available to them in various types of machines on their farm.

Deserted in Tavern

SAGINAW (UP) —Victor Hollerback and Carl Cook telephoned police to get them out of their predicament. The pair walked into a tavern washroom shortly before closing time. When they emerged they found the proprietor had closed for the night, leaving them locked inside.

Seeks Accord With Yugoslavia

King Paul Says Greece and Turkey Are Hoping to Better Relations

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—King Paul of Greece, in a scheduled off-the-record speech that he insisted be reported on its merits, said Greece and Turkey hope to better relation with neighboring Yugoslavia.

"No one would have thought 30 years ago," the King told the pres and Union League Club last night "that the old enemies, Greece and Turkey, could reach an accord and stretch out their hands to one another as allies.

"But now the citizens of Turkey and Greece have the greatest admiration for each other and always will. This sets an example the rest of the world could follow and we hope to reach such an accord with Yugoslavia."

Paul, expressing gratitude for U. S. aid while Greece was fighting Communist rebels, said his nation and Turkey "will be an example to the world as strong allies for the West."

"Our armies will guard the bulwark to the East," he declared The King was given a long ovation.

He Went That-a-Way

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Police figure this fellow may have seen one Western too many.

He entered a Kansas City tavern, rapped two astonished patrons over the head with a pistol butt, fired a few shots into the ceiling, and calmly stalked out.

The Only Solution Was a Divorce

CINCINNATI (AP) — The marital complications of Alvin C. Savige and his wife, which started during World War I because of some false impressions, have been finally solved by divorce.

Savige, 61, of nearby Milford, told a Common Pleas Court yesterday his wife Ida Pearl, 55, of Dayton, Ohio, left him when he was in the Army in 1918. After he returned from overseas he was unable to locate her, he testified.

Believing he had divorced her, he said, she married Albert Williams in 1924. They had six children. Under the impression she had divorced him, he married Marie Ward in 1936.

Later they discovered neither had obtained a divorce, he told Judge John M. Renner. The judge granted Savige a divorce on grounds of wilful absence.

King Ibn Saud's Successor Well Educated but Untried

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

The late, fierce King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia was a product of sand and the sword. His son and successor, Emir Saud, is a more modern product of dollars and diplomacy.

With the help of his Wahhabi armies, Ibn Saud conquered a vast and sandy kingdom which covered most of the Arabian Peninsula.

As a man he was described as the greatest Arab since Mohammed.

The fact that a vast pool of oil under his sandy kingdom made him one of the world's richest, as well as most all-powerful, men was an accident.

Now it remains to be seen whether, in the son, the softening qualities of oil have destroyed the abrasiveness of sand.

Desert legend has it that Emir Saud was born the same night in January 1902, that the elder Saud began his own Arabian Nights career.

On that night, with only about 10 followers, he scaled the crumbling walls of Riyadhi and started a campaign which eventually was to unite the Nejd and Hejaz and place under a single ruler 6,000,000 subjects and 700,000 square miles of territory stretching from the Red Sea to the Persian Gulf. Riyadhi and Mecca became his twin capitals.

It was also the beginning of a feud between Ibn Saud and the Hashemite rulers of Iraq and Jordan which, despite various surface friendly gestures, has continued to this day.

It was in an atmosphere of violence that Emir Saud entered the world and grew to manhood, but under conditions vastly different from his father.

He preferred to sleep on the ground and to live the life of a simple Arab whose food consisted primarily of camels milk, meat, rice and dates.

He lived strictly according to the Koran, including the number of his wives. He never had more than four, although he divorced and continued to support around 120.

The new king is more cosmopolitan. He has travled in the United States and throughout Europe where he represented his father at the coronation of King George VI of Britain.

Emir Saud's training began early and at the age of 13 he already had headed a delegation for his father to neighboring Qatar.

He has fought at the head of his father's warriors in the desert, and once helped fight off an assassination attempt against himself and his father although wounded by a knife thrust in the shoulder.

He also has shown interest in modernizing the country and educating the people. And, like his father, he is a firm friend of the West.

But, despite his long training, it was only a month ago that his father named him premier and gave him any real power. Even then, Ibn Saud held veto power in his own hands.

So as a ruler he is relatively untested. And the tumultous Middle East, with its restless peoples and vast oil riches, has little room for weakness.

Bird Out of Season

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP) —The hot St. Louis summer was especially nerve-wracking this year for the Russell Bell family. The family parakeet insisted on warbling the song "Baby, It's Cold Outside."

Prison Trusty Escapes, Promises to Come Back

SPEIGNER, Ala. (AP)—L. C. Roberts hasn't kept his promise.

The convict, a trusty truck driver serving eight years for forgery and larceny, escaped from Draper Prison in a state-owned truck. Afterwards, he hired a young man to "work" for him at $50 a week and sent him back to the prison with the truck.

In the glove compartment was a note to Warden B. R. Reeves saying "Be back tomorrow."

Big 3 Expected to Plan Defense

Conference at Bermuda May Spur France to Act on EDC Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials are preparing for the Big Three conference at Bermuda next month in the belief it should spur lagging Western defenses against the Soviet threat.

Diplomatic authorities here say British Prime Minister Churchill may press upon President Eisenhower and French Premier Laniel his interest in meeting with Russian Premier Malenkov.

But there is no expectation that Eisenhower will change his recently expressed view that a Big Four session under present conditions would be perfectly hopeless.

* * *

The key to the American approach to the Bermuda conference opening about Dec. 4 lies in the toughness, as it is regarded here, of the Soviet note on Nov. 3 rebuffing a proposal for a foreign ministers meeting on Germany. The note in effect told the Western Powers negotiations were impossible so long as they persisted in building up their defenses under the North Atlantic Treaty and the proposed European Defense Community.

High authorities here said today the Western answer must be to get on with the defense job, regardless of what opportunities for negotiation may continue to be offered to Moscow.

* * *

This means primarily that Eisenhower and Churchill can be expected to press upon Laniel arguments for quick French action on the EDC Treaty, presumably emphasizing these two points:

1. There are not enough defense troops in Western Europe now, without West Germany, which would be rearmed under the EDC pact.

2. With Congress coming back in session in January, concrete evidence must shortly be provided that Western Europe is getting on with its defense arrangements if Congress is to be expected to vote more funds for foreign aid.

Ridgway Against Cutting of U. S. Army Overseas

CLEVELAND (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway spoke out last night against "any premature withdrawal or ill-advised weakening" of U. S. Army strength overseas.

Such a reduction would be a "grievious blow to freedom," the Army's chief of staff declared in a pointed reference to recent high-level suggestions that new weapons and new strategies might eventually lessen the role and strength of the Army around the world.

Ridgway spoke to the American Ordnance Assn.

PW Interviews Canceled Again

Communist Explanation System Moves Closer to Collapse

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Interviews with North Korean and Chinese war prisoners who have refused to go home were canceled today for the sixth consecutive day as the tottering explanation program moved nearer collapse.

The Indian custodial command almost automatically called off interviews scheduled for tomorrow after the Communists insisted again on seeing 365 Chinese prisoners missed last Thursday by stalling Red persuaders.

* * *

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission (NNRC) stayed at his headquarters here, apparently ready to make a second trip to Kaesong to talk with the Red high command.

Thimayya went to Kaesong Monday in an unsuccessful effort to restart the stalled program.

There was no indication the Reds were ready to accept new rules laid down by Thimayya. The Indian general has told the Communists to interview entire compounds of 500 men each in a day or skip those who are not interviewed.

* * *

Thimayya has said Indian troops would finish screening the prisoners if the Communist explanation program is called off.

The present deadlock developed after Red persuaders dragged out interviews, leaving many prisoners unprocessed at the end of the day.

There has been speculation that the Communists would welcome a breakdown in the program since only 3 per cent of the prisoners interviewed so far have elected to return to their Red-controlled homelands.

Wolverines Lean on 'Psychological Weapon'

UM Underdog for Annual Tilt Against State

By JOHN F. MAYHEW

ANN ARBOR (UP) — Michigan had several weapons for its important football meeting with powerful Michigan State Saturday.

But probably none were as strong as its psychological weapon.

Coach Bennie Oosterbaan's team, beaten decisively on two occasions this season, was a distinct underdog to the nationally-ranked Spartans.

In these parts its hard to find anyone who will predict a Michigan victory. It's the size of the Michigan State margin that seems to be the subject of conversation.

And that puts Michigan in just about the same spot the Wolverines were in in 1949 when they ran into a Minnesota team that held a national respect comparable to Michigan State's present status.

Michigan had lost 21-7 to Army and 21-20 to Northwestern and appeared ready to hit the skids. Minnesota, 40-0 victor over Ohio State, was riding the crest. Game was judged no contest.

But from the first play on, it was evident that the super-charged Wolverines were determined to pull an upset. Michigan scored in the first and in the second periods and won 14-7.

Now, it's a lot to expect the Wolverines, who were high and lost to Illinois last week, to regain the same peak and upend a deep and versatile team like Michigan State.

But if the possibility did not exist, there would be little interest in football.

Most of the practice session yesterday was devoted to defensive play. It was the intricacies of the MSC offense that won all but one game in the last 21.

However, Oosterbaan didn't neglect offensive maneuvers. He went through Michigan's whole bag of tricks using many plays that haven't been seen by the fans this season. The only one missing the heavy work was halfback Tony Branoff, who was favoring a sore neck and shoulder, stemming from the Illinois game Saturday. X-rays were taken of the affected area as a precautionary measure. But the durable wing back from Flint was expected to be ready by Saturday.

LAST OF CLAN—Keego Harbor High School football teams have had the presence of at least one O'Shaughnessy in the lineup for the past decade, but the era comes to a close Friday night when the Presidents battle Northville for the Wayne-Oakland League championship. Jerry (left) and Lester are the last of seven sons of Mr. and Mrs. Carl O'Shaughnessy of 2173 Willow Beach, Keego, to play leading athletic roles for the Presidents.

O'Shaughnessy Era Closing

By JACK SAYLOR

Keego Harbor bids "hale" and farewell to its football-playing O'Shaughnessys Friday night as the Presidents close their season at Northville.

Backfield stars Jerry and Lester are the last of seven brothers who have made the O'Shaughnessy name a legend in Keego lineups for the past decade.

He was followed, in order, by Marshall, Nelson, Wayne, Earl, and now the last two. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Carl O'Shaughnessy, 2173 Willow Beach, Keego.

Up to now, all the boys have made all-conference teams and all-state mention. Lester and Jerry are in good position to keep this tradition alive.

Junior played under coach Bob Devaney, now a Michigan State assistant, while Charlie Guinnip has coached the rest. All played in the backfield. Marshall started in the line, but quarterbacked Guinnip's 1st championship team at Keego in 1946.

There's no telling how many touchdowns the brothers have scored, but the biggest spree was the night Earl tallied eight times in leading Keego to a 55-19 rout of Saginaw St. Peter & Paul.

This year, Jerry is among top point-getters in Oakland County. He has 10 touchdowns going into Friday's final game.

The setting for the O'Shaughnessy's swan song couldn't be better. Friday's game with Northville will determine the Wayne-Oakland League championship.

After playing a scoreless tie with Waterford, the Presidents won five of their next six games, losing only to Brighton (6-0), in an upset the week after ending Holly's 13-game winning streak.

Northville has won six of eight losing only to Holly (7-6) in league play. Each has 4-1 loop records. This is Keego's 1st season in the Wayne-Oakland after leaving the Inter-Lakes.

Future isn't too promising at present. Marshall is working in Pontiac, Nelson is a member of the football team at Hillsdale College, while Wayne and Earl are both in the Army, Wayne in New York, Earl in Korea.

Writer Warns College Coaches, Alumni, Officials to Listen to NCAA Prexy, A. B. Moore of Alabama

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK—More than two or three years ago we were talking one day with Tad Jones, one of Yale's most famous football men. By famous I mean Tad was a fine player and an excellent coach with a thorough knowledge of football ways and developments.

• • •

"I'll tell you about football," he said. "Football is too fine a game to be wrecked. There is nothing that can take its place. It belongs not to college life, but to the life of our nation.

• • •

"But it has many faults that must be cured. If they are not cured, the game will die. These are the faults of alumni, coaches and college presidents. I have had to deal with them all.

• • •

"Alumni demand too much. Coaches try to carry out these demands and the college presidents ignore it all. They are not the fault in any way of the college students.

"I don't know what will happen," he said. "The game will grow and grow. Maybe it will get too big. College football can't stand up under real scouting, paying the football players and athletic scholarships.

"Scholarships are needed, but not those to bring in football players only. If they don't watch out, these alumni are going to kill our finest sport. And it can be saved so easily by just a little plain common sense."

• • •

Aside from this, Mr. A. B. Moore, president of the NCAA, brings up the same point. Professor Moore of Alabama and the deep South admits the fine features of this game, but also admits that college football is today packed with hypocrisy, cheating and undercover action.

• • •

There are a few smart coaches, smart alumni and smart presidents. Will they get together and clean out the hypocrisy, cheating, under-table maneuvering, and put the game back where it belongs? They should listen to President A. B. Moore.

Special Playoff Planned in NFL

Two-Game Series Will Be Held if Race Ends in Deadlock

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Commissioner Bert Bell said today a two or three way tie in the Western Conference of the National Football League will be settled in the playoff — details of which would be determined at a meeting on Nov. 23.

At present reading three teams — Los Angeles Rams, Detroit Lions and San Francisco 49ers are tied for the Western Conference lead with five wins and two losses each.

In the event a three-way tie should continue through the remaining five games of the current season, Bell said, the three teams would draw. One team would get a bye and the other two would meet in the first playoff game.

The winner then would meet the bye team the following Sunday and the winner of that game would be the Western Conference representative in the title clash with the Eastern Conference leader.

Yanks' Allie Reynolds Lists Self 'Unemployed'

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP) — Allie Reynolds, New York Yankees' pitcher whose baseball future is doubtful, set members of the Hillcrest Golf and Country Club to buzzing last night.

At a meeting of charter members of the new club, each was asked to introduce himself and state his occupation.

When it came to the Super Fire Chief, who has said a back injury may already have ended his pitching career, he rose and spoke out:

"I'm Allie Reynolds, unemployed."

Condition Still Critical

Rifle Mishap by Boy, 9, Kills His Pal of Eight

CHARLOTTE (UP) — Eight-year-old Terry Lee Day was killed Tuesday when he was struck in the chest by a bullet from a .22 caliber rifle which accidentally discharged.

Eaton County sheriff's deputies said the Day boy and Larry Davis, 9, found the rifle while searching for a toy car in a closet of the Davids' home. Deputies said the weapon accidentally discharged when the Davids boy picked it up.

Lowry Appears Sharp in Beating La Grutta

The 147-pound Lowry, looking sharper than in months, got the unanimous decision in the action-packed fight that kept 1,234 fans screaming. Neither, however, went down.

Gross gate was $3,175.

It's Time Out!

Loss of Wells Biggest Worry for MSC's Boss

Biggie Points to Lack of Real Depth, Team in Bad Shape, Physically

By ROBERT E. VOGES

EAST LANSING (UP)—"We hope to pull a team together for the Michigan game," said Michigan State Coach Biggie Munn.

Munn, who hates the role of a favorite, was contending that injuries and sickness have taken a telling toll of Michigan State manpower. He was particularly concerned about the loss of Billy Wells.

"I'm not bluffing," he said, "we are probably in our worst physical shape of the season."

"They talk about Michigan State depth," Munn said. "Now look who we've got behind Wells. There's Bert Zagers, who has played in only a few games, and Travis Buggs, a sophomore with almost no game experience."

Michigan State practice session yesterday offered some evidence that Munn is serious about what he's preaching.

All but working newsmen were barred from the long drill in the secret practice field.

Munn had his squad polishing up a series of new plays and staged an hour-long scrimmage after the group work was completed.

• • •

One group scrimmaged on the offense against a practice eleven of freshmen and junior varsity players. A second outfit went on the defense against another team running Michigan plays.

"We figure Duncan McDonald will be throwing a lot of passes Saturday," said one of the coaches. "We did pretty well on pass defense against Ohio State and don't want Michigan to catch us napping."

Munn, a man with a long memory, still smarts when he recalls the 55-0 defeat by Michigan in 1947 in his debut as MSC coach. He'd like to make it four in a row against Michigan—especially with a nationwide television audience watching.

Munn was asked if he thought his Spartans had reached their peak in the victory over Ohio State.

"We could still be sharper on some of our blocking and tackling," he said. Then he admitted: "I hope we reach our peak against Michigan."

Tartars Beat Hope

DETROIT (UP)—Wayne University's cross-country team defeated Hope College 20-35 Tuesday in a meet held at Rouge Park. Wayne's Owen Clinton and Joe Babb ran a dead heat to take top individual honors. Hope's Ren Den Uyl was third.

Troy and Sandy in TV Match

Washington, D. C., Boy Rates 7-5 Favorite in Middleweight Bout

WASHINGTON (UP) — Willie Troy meets Randy Sandy here tonight in a nationally televised 10-round middleweight bout and no matter how you look at it, Al Weill stands to win.

Weill, manager of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, also manages the 22-year-old Willie Troy, who has been guaranteed a crack at middle weight champion Bobo Olson if he can defeat Sandy, as he is favored to do.

Even if Sandy wins, however, Weill still has a chance for Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, says that if Sandy wins he'll match him with Ernie Durando of Jersey City. The winner of that fight would take on Olson. And Weill also manages Durand.

Troy is rated a 7-5 favorite for the fight at Turner's Arena which will be sent out over the nationwide facilities of CBS-TV (10 p. m. EST).

'Keed' Plans Surprise for Friday Title Bout

CHICAGO (UP) — Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan has "a big surprise" ready to reveal Friday night when he defends his world title against a veteran challenger, Johnny Bratton.

"I'm not going to say what it is," Gavilan said, "but I have a big surprise ready for the whole world. And it will be a surprise to Bratton too. And I'll show it to him."

The two scrappers meet in the Chicago stadium at 10 p.m. (EST). Their battle, over 15 rounds is slated for a national television net work with the Chicago area blacked out.

New York Horse Winner of Open Jumping Crown

NEW YORK (UP) — Black Watch, a coal-black gelding who failed in a tryout for the United States Olympic team, today held the coveted open jumping championship of the National Horse Show.

His rider, Ray Burr, managed to guide him to only one class victory over the finest jumpers on the continent, but he piled up enough seconds to win by one point over Lariat, defending champion, owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Dipaula of Baltimore.

In the international events, Canadians surprised by winning five to four for the United States, three for Britain and one for Ireland.

Editorial Urges Notre Dame to Take Bowl Bid

The newspaper said it believed the university was "justifiably correct" in pursuing a policy of avoiding annual post-season bowl games, but that it thought an exception could be made this year.

The editorial noted that the Irish play their final game of the regular season Dec. 5 and that they could expect a two week layoff from practice after that.

Thus, the editorial said, football players need not miss any class time—the reason Notre Dame officials have advanced in the past for turning down bowl games.

The newspaper believed Notre Dame might well be invited to the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, only major NCAA-approved game open to independent schools, if it reverses its stand.

Arizona's Cardella 'Bundle of Dynamite'

TUCSON, Ariz. (UP) — University of Arizona has a 157-pound bundle of dynamite in its backfield who can pack the ball with the nation's best and bring down power runners with teeth-jolting tackles.

It was no surprise when Cardella, whose running has been likened to the gambols of a scared jackrabbit, began piling up the 715 net yards he claims today. He was a top ground gainer last year.

Titan Gets N-S Berth

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UP) — Detroit tackle Tim Moriarty is the second player to join the Northern squad for the 16th annual Blue and Gray football game here Dec. 26.

The 215-pound Titan lineman joins Kansas State guard Tom O'Boyle who accepted a Yankee bid earlier in the week.

Ten Cities Are Revolting Against Winter Circuit Tournament Plans

DETROIT (UP)— Horton Smith of Detroit will head the Professional Golfers Association for another year and the 1954 PGA tournament will be a match play affair, as in 1953.

• • •

That much was certain, but whether the PGA will be able to buck a revolt by a 10-city combine against its winter circuit tournament plans wasn't.

Middlecoff, himself, claimed that some of the 10 western and southwestern cities represented by the Winter Sponsors Association were coming to terms, despite the walkout Sunday of its president, M. P. (Monk) Wilson, of San Antonio, Texas.

Wilson said his members planned to go ahead with scheduled tournaments, whether or not they got PGA sanction. One of the points on which he bucked was a PGA demand for a minimum purse of $15,000.

• • •

The Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the Los Angeles Open, had agreed to stage its tournament without a contract but to meet PGA demands.

Middlecoff said 17 cities were seeking winter tournaments, but there were only 14 weekends after the bowl football games and before the Masters golf tournament scheduled at Augusta, Ga., April 8-11. He conceded it likely would be impossible to make everybody happy.

A proposal to decide the winner of the 1954 PGA tournament at St. Paul on a medal play (overall score) basis was voted down yesterday. Now the PGA is decided on match play (man eliminating man, round after round.)

• • •

President Eisenhower was invited to become honorary chairman of PGA, and three vice-presidents were chosen to serve with Smith. Other officers were re-elected.

New vice-presidents are Gene Marchi, Dayton, Ohio; Al Cuici, New York City, and Eddie Schulz, Troy, N. Y.

Pontiac High Ends Grid Season Friday

By BILL MARTIN

Since neither Pontiac nor Saginaw High has yet won a Saginaw Valley Conference start, the league's spotlight will be focused on two games involving unbeaten co-leaders Flint Northern and Central.

If both Flint teams win, they will settle the title in their final game on Thanksgiving Day. A Bay City victory over Central would create the possibility of a 3-way tie for the crown.

Chiefs are expected to go into the Saginaw game without the services of Jimmy Williams, one of the Valley's most dangerous break-away threats. The fleet little halfback suffered a combination bruise and shoulder separation against Northern last week and isn't expected to see action.

Saginaw's Trojans won't match Pontiac's speed, but they boast one of the biggest teams in the league. Running from both the "T" and single wing behind an unbalanced line, Trojans offer an attack that is very similar to that of the Royal Oak team that defeated Pontiac, 21-7.

Halfbacks Bob Maturen and 180-pound Russ McLane spark the Saginaw offense.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

Bratton Overcomes Biggest Title Handicap, 'Glass Jaw'

* * *

They were jaw fractures that three times destroyed fight careers he had built to the peak. Each time, broken financially by inactivity and medical expenses, he had to stoop and build anew.

Gavilan was the third man to break Bratton's jaw. He did it in the first round of their championship fight in New York May 18, 1951. Johnny also broke a bone in his right hand in the first round. Although he stayed with the Cuban Kid the entire 15-round distance, he lost the NBA welter crown he had taken over two months earlier.

* * *

* * *

But the Chicago "Brat" says broken jaws are a thing of the past. "I don't have to worry about it any more," he says. "It's as strong as ever."

Hymie Wallman, Bratton's manager, said his fighter's jawbone became susceptible to fractures because of a couple of bad wisdom teeth and improper diet.

Since the last break, Bratton has had the offending teeth removed and consumes two quarts of milk a day and plenty of vegetables to strengthen his bone structure.

Crafty Admiral Likely Favorite

American Horse Picked Over Defending Champ in International

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Armistice Day will be celebrated today at Laurel Park when 10 horses from six nations do battle in the $65,000 Washington, D. C., International.

* * *

* * *

Last year's winner of the Laurel International, England's Wilwyn, owned by Robert C. Boucher, is back to defend his crown. The favorite, however, is expected to be the United States horse Crafty Admiral from Charles and Frances Cohen's Charfran Stable.

Crafty Admiral, winner of the Empire Gold Cup by 10 lengths in his last start Oct. 31, will be ridden by Bill Boland and is listed at 3 to 1.

* * *

There is plenty of support for Wilwyn this time, as well as for two French horses, Paul Duboscq's Silnet and Worden, owned by Ralph Strassburger, Norristown, Pa., publisher now living in France.

Cage TV No Problem

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—National Collegiate Athletic Association council, concluding a two-day meeting here today, was told by a special NCAA committee that televising of basketball games is not a national problem and immediate action is unnecessary.

St. James Ace Takes Scoring Lead in County

But Shindorf and Nash Have Opportunity to Overtake Ruhlman

Joe Ruhlman of St. James closed his activity for the prep football season by scoring all 13 points in the 'Dales 13-13 tie with St. Rita Sunday. His effort boosted him into 1st place in the individual scoring race in Oakland County.

Russ Shindorf of St. Michael's, whose lead Ruhlman eclipsed, has 14 touchdowns to equal Ruhlman's output, but trails by three extra points. Shindorf has one more game to play, Friday night at Oxford.

Royal Oak's all-state candidate Dick Nash could pass both parochial stars since he has two games remaining, Highland Park and Birmingham. He has 61 points to trail Ruhlman by 26.

Top scorers last week were Fred Burnard of Troy and Toby Aldrich of Avondale with three touchdowns each. Burnard also had an extra point. Ruhlman, Jerry Hunter of Holly and Max Powell of Rochester tallied two TD's each.

The 14 touchdowns scored by Ruhlman and Shindorf top that division, while Nash and Jim Simmons of Southfield are the extra point leaders with 13 and 10, respectively.

Parker in Key Role

DETROIT (AP) — Coach Buddy Parker played a key role in both of the Detroit Lions' National Football League championships. In 1935, as a player, Parker scored an important touchdown as the Lions defeated the Giants, 26-7. As head coach he engineered the 1952 team to another title.

Turkey Day Tilt Set for 11 A.M.

DETROIT (UP) — The National Football League game between the Detroit Lions and Green Bay Packers will start at 11 a.m. Thanksgiving Day, it was announced today.

The traditional Thursday game, only Thanksgiving Day league action, has started at noon for the past several years.

However, Detroit general manager Nick Kerbawy said the time was moved ahead an hour so more television stations can carry the game. Kerbawy said 89 stations have signed to handle the contest. (Michigan and Toledo, O., will be blacked out in the TV coverage.)

Bowling Clinic

CASE — Low At The Line Insures Body Balance — One of the most difficult things for beginners to acquire, and better bowlers to maintain, is balance at the foul line. The instinctive thing for pupils to do at the outset, I find, is to move carefully in stride, body erect all the way.

You've got to get down low at the line, and you can do that only by swinging the ball, and by finishing with a slide. You can't carry the ball back and be a good bowler.

Swing is the thing, and swing is the natural result of pushing the ball away at the very outset, timed with your first step, as Steve Nagy of Cleveland, uncrowned match king, is doing in the illustration. More of Nagy's form will be shown and explained in following articles.

Dressen Says He Passed Up Post With Orioles

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Chuck Dressen says he could have managed the Baltimore Orioles in the American League next season . . .

"But I already had given my word to Brick Laws," president of the Oaklnad Oaks, to manage his Pacific Coast League team.

He told a civic meeting yesterday that New York Yankee officials promised to get him the Oriole berth. He didn't name them or give any details.

Lattner Named Back of Week in AP Balloting

Irish Ace's One-Man Job Brought Ramblers Victory Over Penn

NEW YORK (AP)—Almost without argument, Notre Dame's All America Johnny Lattner gets this week's call as Associated Press Back of the Week for his performance against Pennsylvania last Saturday.

* * *

A number of other good runners and passers, including Stanford's Bob Garrett, Jimmy Wade of Tennessee, Larry Grigg of Oklahoma and Bobby Cavazos of Texas Tech, were tabbed for standout performances Saturday. But none could match Lattner.

* * *

Lattner's one-man job made the difference between a victory for the nation's No. 1 college team and a shocking upset. And he did it before a huge crowd in a game on which national attention had been focused even before the kickoff.

Others named by sports writers and broadcasters included:

Shoemaker Hits 434

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—Jockey Bill Shoemaker rode the daily double winners at Bay Meadows yesterday to hike his world record of triumphs in one year to 434.

Efforts Being Made to Form 'TV League'

CHICAGO (UP) — At least one effort has been made to organize a conference of nine or 10 major football colleges whose games would be televised weekly in defiance of the NCAA restriction policy, it was learned today.

Athletic director Ed (Moose) Krause of Notre Dame confirmed that the Irish had been approached to join such a conference, but said that the proposal had been rejected.

White Sox Plan 'Beat Yankees' Drive for '54

It will be the Sox first full-fledged pow pow since general manager Frank Lane turned down an offer from the Baltimore Orioles early last month.

Lane said to have received assurance of security and a good salary until at least 1960 to stay with the Sox.

Carter Favored to Keep Title Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE

MONTREAL (AP)—There are two Jimmy Carters—Carter the non-title performer and Carter the lightweight champion of the world. Montreal's Armand Savoie, who beat the over-the-weight fighter, gets a crack at Carter the champion in a 15-round title bout at the Forum tonight.

The result is expected to be entirely different this time. Carter, a tight-lipped, dead-panned stalker when his crown is on the line, is a 2½ to 1 and up favorite here to whip the local boy, a rangy, 23-year-old French-Canadian.

There will be no broadcast or telecast of the bout.

Savoie's chief claim to fame is the nontitle 10-rounder he won by split decision over Jimmy in this same city last Feb. 16. Although there are few here who give their hopeful a chance, the fans are being lured by Montreal's first world title fight since Panama Al Brown twice defended his bantam crown 22 years ago. A $60,000 gate is expected.

"I beat him before and I can beat him again," said the bony-faced dark-haired challenger. "I know his style and he doesn't change.

"I hope to win," said Carter modestly. "I never make predictions. He's awkward and strong but I know I can get to him.

In his two title fights this year, the strong-armed champ flattened Tommy Collins in four rounds and stopped Georgie Araujo in 13. In his last fight this year, he stopped Carlos Chavez in six rounds Oct. 15. His record is 63-16-7.

Savoie, who stands 5 feet 8 to Carter's 5-6, has a 5-4 record for the year and a lifetime record of 43-13-5. He is ranked sixth among the 135-pounders, chiefly on his win over Carter.

Ivy Is Cooking Up Secret to Stop Illini Duo

Caroline, Bates Carry Big 10, Rose Bowl Hopes Against Wisconsin

CHICAGO (AP) — Ivy Williamson, Wisconsin football coach, has the best secret in the Big Ten.

"It's not impossible to stop Caroline and Bates of Illinois," he said today. "It's just difficult."

Williamson would not elaborate on how the two Illinois sophomore halfbacks, J. C. Caroline and Mickey Bates, can be stopped. He's keeping this strictly to himself.

If Wisconsin can collar the pair Saturday at Madison, Wis., the Badgers should defeat Illinois and scramble the Big Ten title chase and Rose Bowl outlook.

The game promises to be unbeaten Illinois' most risky assignment of the season. Wisconsin, ineligible to return to the Rose Bowl, has been defeated only once in a drive for the conference crown.

Coach Ray Eliot of Illinois said Rose Bowl talk is banned for his team and then proceeded to wax poetic over Wisconsin.

"Wisconsin is one of the finest teams in the country," he said. "It has two wonderful fullbacks (Alan Ameche and Chuck Thomas) four fine halfbacks (Jerry Witt, Harland Carl, Bob Gingrass and Clary Bratt); a terrific quarterback (Jim Miller), and a beautifully moving line."

If Williamson can gear the Badgers to stop Caroline and Bates he will be the first Big Ten coach to do it this year. They have combined for 1,579 rushing yards. Bates has scored 11 touchdowns, two short of a school record first set by Red Grange in 1923.

Caroline has accounted for 1,354 yards in all phases—rushing, kickoff and punt returns, pass interceptions and receptions. This overshadows Grange's unofficial record of 1,260 set 30 years ago.

Much Credit for Baseball's Victory Before Court Is Due Commissioner

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Much of the credit for having forced through baseball's great victory before the Supreme Court is due Commissioner Ford Frick, who was determined from the day he took office that the game should not continue to operate in a twilight state.

* * *

Before Frick took over, the owners were a frightened, leaderless group of men who blanched every time a new lawyer sent in his card. They preferred to pay off—and did—rather than risk a full dress test of the constitutionality of the reserve clause.

* * *

Many of the magnates were convinced that they would lose the decision and that chaos would envelop the game. We know, because we heard them say so. Frick did not think so, and he had no patience with those who did. Before he was appointed commissioner he said once with sulphuric asides:

"This thing of being blackmailed about the reserve clause can't go on. If we're running an unlawful business we'd better find it out right now and look for a means to correct it. I don't believe the reserve clause is unlawful or that any court will find it so. Let's get this thing settled once and for all."

It is to be seriously doubted that Frick received much encouragement from the game's lawyers.

We have heard the complaint voiced that the new commissioner did not appear to be running the game with an iron hand; specifically, that he appeared to have let the recent demands of the players for certain reforms and benefits take him by surprise.

In Frick's defense, it may be said that he had been immersed to his ears for months in law books as he and the baseball barristers prepared to present their case before the highest court.

Now that the big test of his stewardship has been fought out and won, we ask leave to predict that Frick will go on to prove himself the most able of the three commissioners the game has had.

Proposal Offered to Cut Olympic Program

PARIS (UP)—A proposal to reduce the program of the 1956 Olympic games in Melbourne, Australia, by two days by cutting the number of participants from 6,000 to 5,000 was being forwarded today to the executive committee of the International Olympic committee.

Reduction proposal was drawn up by a special IOC "axing" committee after a two-day meeting here as an effort "to simplify the games and dampen nationalist ideas."

Noble Leads Cuban Loop; Nats Eyeing Johnny Groth

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Latest Cuban League averages have the Giants' Ray Noble tied for the batting lead with Angel Scull, a Washington Senator farmhand, each with .442. Other major leaguers in that circuit are Lloyd Merriman, Dick Littlefield, Don Lenhardt, Connie Marrero, Mike Fornieles and Minnie Minoso.

With Ted Kazanski soon to be tabbed for military service, the Philadelphia Phillies are expected to shift Granny Hamner back to shortstop. In which case, Ben Tompkins, former University of Texas star, would be a real second base possibility. With Terre Haute last season, Tompkins hit .316 with 15 home runs.

Manager Bucky Harris reportedly is angling for Johnny Groth, Baltimore outfielder. An outfield trio of Groth, Jackie Jensen and Jim Busby would give the Nats just about the best fielding combination in either major league.

* * *

It wouldn't surprise too many people if Coach Tom Ferrick did some pitching for the Cincinnati Redlegs next season.

Pitched Double Victory

No pitcher in the major leagues has won two complete games the same day since Emil Levsen of the Cleveland Indians did it in 1926.

State Nimrods Set 2 Records

Triple Grouse Kill and 640-Pound Bear Mark Year's Hunting

LANSING (AP) — State conservation commission today reported two new records have been set so far this year by Michigan hunters.

Lewis Michelson of the Heights at Houghton Lake scored an unprecedented triple kill of grouse with one shot. And a 640-pound black bear shot with a bow and arrow in Chippewa County last month sets a new Michigan record.

Michelson bagged three flying grouse with one shot from his 20-gauge choked shotgun with No. 7½ chilled shot near Houghton Lake, the department said.

He reported that the grouse, none of which had been hit by more than two pellets, fell within three feet of each other.

The bear, brought down by Leo Kovisto of Sault Ste. Marie near Dryburg, as the largest ever killed in Michigan by any method since records have been kept.

3-Way Deer Contest Set for Start Nov. 15

Duck Shooting Best in Years

By JACK PATTERSON

With the curtain rung down on pheasants and pats off the legal list except in Zone 3, wingshooters can now devote full time to waterfowl. Until Nov. 24 they can take part in the best duck shooting season in recent years. We got a touch of it up at the Bay a few days ago with Ed Barrett, Paul Vollmar of Macon and Bob Patterson of Ann Arbor.

PATTERSON

* * *

For once in our lives we got to a base of operations and they didn't tell us, first thing, we "should have been there last week." Although when we mentioned this to Pop Hinnes at Rose Island he did say that the week before had been the best he'd seen in 47 years—couldn't keep them out of the decoys.

* * *

Well, we didn't have any trouble in that respect. They just weren't decoying. But we sat in an offshore blind in a dusty nor'easter and marvelled at the hordes of fowl, rising like smoke from the outer bay and swinging in to quieter waters behind the islands.

No, they didn't decoy, but as they swept by in companies, in battalions, in divisions and in corps, now and then one or two would pinwheel out of formation and splash into the choppy bay, victims of a properly calculated lead.

On they came, wave after wave, and Barrett put on a demonstration of extreme-range pass shooting that was strictly out of character for a guy who, as an upland hunter, can't tell a partridge (or a pheasant for that matter) from a tufted titmouse.

Along toward noon the jug was empty, we were about out of shells and anyway we had our limits, so we hit for the beach through waves that at times tested the seamanship of three former navy people and an ex-marine.

Yes sir, it was duck hunting at its best. And for you people to whom being cold, wet and half-expired for want of sleep is a trifle, to be dispelled instantly by the quick slashing pass of a bunch of canvasbacks across the decoys, it's all there waiting for you. Better get with it. The office will still be there after Nov. 24. The duck hunting won't.

Much Lighter Deer Kill Seen for This Season

By MORT NEFF

Michigan Conservation Department's latest predictions on total deer kill for 1953 tell us not to expect a harvest of more than 80,000 animals, including those killed during the one-day "any deer" season on December 1st. This is just about half the total taken last year. There are many folks who live in the north central counties of our lower peninsula who don't believe that figure will top 50,000 — and these same skeptics have told this writer that the buck kill won't be more than 30,000 which is quite a drop from the 100,000 estimated kill just a few years ago.

NEFF

Far from dismayed at the current smaller size of our deer herd, game men feel that the population is now being fitted to the amount of available food in their range, and that the future health of our Michigan deer will be greatly improved.

They look for more multiple births in coming years, plus a normal rate of growth which will produce bigger bucks. Winter starvation has stunted thousands of animals in the past.

Last year about 110,000 deer were killed in the 3-day any-deer season.

"These "extra" days included a weekend bringing out a huge army of hunters. This year several factors will work against any such kill. First, of course, there won't be as many deer. Next there will be less territory open for hunting (lower peninsula only, above M-55 as against area above M-20 last year).

Finally, December 1st falls on a Tuesday when lots of would-be hunters are kept on the job. Still another factor is the weather. A storm can cut the hunting turn-out and give the animals more protection, too.

So that extra day of hunting "any deer" may not prove much one way or the other.

Deer Hunters Heading North Starting Today

Biggest Movement of Nimrods Is Expected Friday and Saturday

LANSING (UP) — First of an estimated 400,000 deer hunters headed north today to prepare for opening of the season Sunday.

Conservation department officials said a few sportsmen have appeared in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula and in the Upper Peninsula to set up camp in preparation for Sunday's opening.

Biggest movement northward is expected to come Friday and Saturday when highways will be jammed with deer hunters. The 16-day regular season, which will be the 94th year in which Michigan has had a regulated deer season, opens at 6 a. m. Sunday.

First regulated deer season was in 1859 when the season, which had been an all-year affair before then, was limited to last five months of the year.

Conservation department officials warned hunters that game officers will be in the field in force Saturday to prevent sportsmen from shooting deer before the season opens.

Officials in the department's game division, meanwhile, said about four out of every five deer hunters will go home empty-handed this year. Last year, nearly one out of every three hunters got a deer.

Ilo Bartlett, division's deer expert, predicted that between 50,000 and 90,000 deer would be killed this year compared to 162,000 last year.

Idaho, Texas Elevens Picked in Bowl Tilt

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UP)—Undefeated College of Idaho and once-beaten Sam Houston State have been named to play in the sixth annual Refrigerator Bowl game here Dec. 6.

The bowl committee confirmed the selections Tuesday after Sam Houston State coach Paul (Red) Pierce announced the school had accepted a bid to the game.

Sam Houston State's only loss this year was to East Texas State, which is undefeated in 27 games.

Pioneers Back on Top of Prep Grid Standings

By LLOYD NORTHARD

United Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (UP) — Ann Arbor, which led the Class A schools in last year's United Press high school football ratings, was back on top again today.

Coach Hank Fonde's "college-like" Ann Arbor took over 1st place from Port Huron, beaten by Grosse Pointe, 7-0, last Friday for its 1st loss in 27 starts.

While Port Huron was being upset, Ann Arbor blanked Jackson, 14-0 for its 22nd straight victory and its 2nd unbeaten, untied season in a row.

Port Huron dropped from 1st to 7th place in the Class A ratings. Flint Northern jumped to 2nd place, Grand Haven 3rd, Detroit Catholic Central 4th, Bay City Central 5th and Flint Central 6th.

Hockey Player Cleared of Manslaughter Count

BARRIE, Ont. (AP)—A young Canadian hockey player has been acquitted of all criminal charges in the death of a rival player during a game in Collingwood, Ont., last March 4.

A jury last night found 19-year-old Walter Fines of Aurora innocent of manslaughter, assault causing bodily harm and of common assault.

Robert Gillies suffered a skull fracture when he crashed into the boards during an Aurora-Collingwood game and died en route to a Toronto hospital. Fines was accused of causing Gillies to hit the boards.

Heaviest Deer, Finest Head and Rack Offer Hunters Choice

By H. GUY MOATS

Successful trips into deer-hunting areas of Michigan can also be successful from a monetary slant, as well as from that of securing game, for full-time Oakland County residents.

The Pontiac Press today announces its annual 3-way contest. For more than a score years now, this annual event has attracted many splendid entries, and produced some interesting and unusual deer-hunting stories.

As in the past there are 3 rewards. For the heaviest deer; the finest head and best rack (not necessarily the largest) there will be rewards of $100 U. S. Savings Bonds.

Rules are unchanged. Season opens Nov. 15, closes No. 30, same as in 1952.

The rules:

Only FULL-TIME county residents are eligible (Pontiac Press employes or members of their families are barred.) No part-time (summer residents) may enter.

All entries must be filed not later than four days after the close of the season (Nov. 30). This permits hunters in the Upper Peninsula time to reach home after season ends.

CERTIFIED weight slips MUST accompany all "big deer" entries and none will be accepted which have not been dressed out. All weights MUST be made on approved standard scales. Slips must bear signatures of hunter, the weighman and one other disinterested person.

Complete information and clear photos, where available, must be provided, when such entries are not brought to this office for measurement and photography. Entries will be received between 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. daily except Saturday, when none will be taken after 12 noon, and on Sunday, when none will be taken.

Wherever possible heads and racks should be brought to this office for checking and formal entry, and for photographing.

Best rack—antlers only considered in this connection, and extreme size is not necessarily the mark of a fine rack. Racks MUST NOT be detached from the heads.

Celler Lists Four-Point Program for Major Loops

LONDON (AP)—From the citadel of cricket an American congressman has drawn up a four-point program which he says baseball must follow unless it wants Congress to intervene.

Emanuel Celler, a Democrat from Brooklyn who in 1950 headed a committee investigating monopolistic practices in baseball, outlined his ideas during a stopover here en route to India.

Celler's program calls for:

1. Relaxing the reserve clause. "Binding a player for his entire baseball life, even against his will, is peonage," he declared. "No contract should be more than five years without mutual consent."

2. Westward expansion of the major leagues. "Big league teams should be established further west of the Mississippi River, or a new Pacific Coast big league must be established to embrace cities such as Los Angeles and San Francisco."

3. Clarifying the job of the commissioner of baseball, who, he said, "must represent not only owner, but players and public."

4. Protection of minor leagues against radio and television on major games. "The majors need the minors as breeding and feeding grounds for players."

Grand Rapids 6 Routs Milwaukee Chiefs, 13-2

Grand Rapids Rockets scalped the Milwaukee Chiefs, 13-2, in an International Hockey League game here last night. Rockets got three goals within 57 seconds in the first period, two of them by Stan Warecki, who turned the hat trick before the night was out.

Hero of Iwo Jima Returns to Tribe

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pima Indian Ira Hayes, who helped raise the American flag on war-torn Iwo Jima, has gone back to his family on the Bapschule, Ariz., reservation.

Hayes, who was arrested twice this month for drunkenness, was sentenced yesterday to pay a $20 fine or serve four days in jail, but Judge Mark Brandler suspended the sentence and directed that the former Marine be put aboard a bus for Arizona.

Hayes, arrested recently in Chicago on a drunk charge, came to California when Mrs. Elizabeth Martin, divorced wife of comedian Dean Martin, heard of his plight and hired him as a chauffeur.

Betty Grable, Harry James to Hit Road

By BOB THOMAS

The beauteous blonde and her trumpet-playing husband, Harry James, open at a Chicago theater late this month. They'll play for one week only at fabulous terms—70 per cent of the gross.

Mrs. James, who proclaims her own tendency to laziness, is hard at work these days in dance rehearsals for the act. I nabbed her between numbers and she confessed a sinking fear of facing an audience.

The Chicago date will be a baptism of fire for her.

"I'm not going to slough it off," she explained. "I've seen too many stars go out on the road and give the old 'I'm glad to be here' routine and that's all. I think you're cheating the public when you do that. They want entertainment and I'm going to give it to them.

"For the first number, I'll come out in a real show-type costume with leopard so they can see my legs. After all, that's what they expect to see, and I'm not going to disappoint them. I've got two other outfits, and I'll do nine numbers in the 50-minute show."

The Jameses plan to do six or seven shows a day, and I mentioned to Betty that would amount to 63 numbers daily.

"I'm sure glad I didn't go to school," she replied. "I would have been able to figure that out, and it would have scared the dickens out of me."

Betty said she would be more scared except for the fact that she will be surrounded by people who worked with her at Fox. Her designer, Bill Travilla, did the costumes. Billy Daniels, who has done her dances in films, will direct the show and dance with her. Al Seigel, formerly dance coordinator at the studio, will stage-manage, and her long-time hairdresser, Marie Brasselle (Keefe's mother), will be along, too.

But the thought of the audience gives Betty chills. She wouldn't even attend last week's premiere of her swan song at 20th-Fox, "How to Marry a Millionaire."

"I've never been to a premiere in my life," she said. "Any of them would terrify me, and one of a picture I was in would be even worse. I'm just like Alice Faye and Marilyn Monroe in the fear of such occasions. I remember I picked up Marilyn to go to a big party once, and she was shaking, she was so scared."

Speaking of nerves, Harry James has some of his own to conquer for the Chicago engagement. He hasn't played a movie theater in 10 years.

"The last time was in 1943 at the New York Paramount," he recalled. "I had three days to go on a six-week engagement and had been doing eight shows a day, the first at 8:10 in the morning. The bandstand is on an elevator and it would rock so I couldn't stand up without leaning against something.

"That morning I was trying to play, but I couldn't. I told the band they would have to carry on without me.

"The theater got all up in arms and sent a psychiatrist to see me. The guy spent a whole hour asking me questions. He finally went out and told them: 'You know something—He's right.'"

The James troupe may play a few one-night stands on the way back from Chicago. Any further plans to tour will have to wait until next spring.

In January Betty will do her first picture since the end of her long association with Fox. Oddly enough, it's the same one that caused the fuss that resulted in her freedom. Columbia, which wanted to borrow her before, has altered the setup to her satisfaction, and she has finally agreed to do the film, "Something to Shout About."

William Howard Taft was the only man to have held the office of both President and Chief Justice of the United States.

Film Actors Guild Sees End of Decline in Movies

The guild, representing 8,000 actors, pledged at its annual meeting yesterday to wage a continuing fight against the inroads of runaway foreign picture production and to do all in its power to promote additional production in this country.

The most serious problem facing the actor," said Leon Ames first vice president, "is lack of employment."

Homeowners' Hot Ashes Burn Rubbish Trucks

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The directors of streets and sewers complains that people who live in coal-heated homes shouldn't throw out hot ashes.

About 20 of the city's rubbish trucks are gradually going up in smoke, says Director Frank Kriz. Here's why:

Folks toss hot ashes into ash pits for collection. The ashes are tossed into the rubbish trucks. Then the speed of the trucks fans the ashes into flames, burning the paint of the trucks and causing the drivers to head for the nearest fire house.

New signs have been posted on the rubbish trucks:

"Be Sure Your Ashes Are Not Hot," and "Don't Burn Me Up."

Hoping to Bring Gas Pipe North

Louisiana Firm Asks OK for $130 Million Line to Michigan

DETROIT (AP) — The American Louisiana Pipe Line Co. is asking the Federal Power Commission to permit it to build a $13,000,000 natural gas pipeline from Louisiana to Michigan.

American Louisiana, a subsidiary of American Natural Gas Co., claimed it could furnish gas "adequate to supply all present and future requirements of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.," another American Natural subsidiary.

Michigan Consolidated now is served by Panhandle Eastern and Michigan Wisconsin, the latter pipeline also a subsidiary of American Natural. Panhandle Eastern has proposed that it build a new pipeline into the mid-west.

The Michigan Public Service Commission recently ordered Michigan Consolidated to connect 9,600 new home heating customers 8,185 in Detroit, 808 in Grand Rapids and 307 in Muskegon—and to cut industrial customers.

If American Louisiana gets to build the new pipeline, Michigan Consolidated predicts it could add 93,000 more space heating customers before the end of 1955, an additional 73,000 in 1956, around 45,000 in 1957, and 35,000 in 1958.

In a petition filed with the Federal Power Commission yesterday, American Louisiana claimed that also would enable Michigan Consolidated and other utilities served by the American Natural Gas system to supply "all of the demands for gas for industrial, commercial and other uses."

Spuds Named for Indians Take Prizes

Between the Chippewas and the Pontiacs, the Lake Orion Middleton cousins have decided to stick to the Indian names in the potato growing business.

Fourteen-year-old Billy Middleton took top spud honor Tuesday at the annual Pontiac Kiwanis-sponsored potato growing fair with his Chippewas.

Twenty-six years ago Pontiac Kiwanis launched this potato, corn and grain competition with farm youngsters. All 4-H members, they bring samples of their crops each fall to a special Kiwanis meeting. Judge for the affair was Kart D. Bailey, district horticultural agent.

BERKLEY VOSS

Named to Head Loan Group

Berkeley Voss to Serve as Michigan Consumer Finance President

Berkeley Voss, president of the Home and Auto Loan Co. of Pontiac, was elected president of the Michigan Consumer Finance Assn. today at its 37th annual business meeting in Detroit.

"We have come a long way in these past 37 years," he said, "and we are challenged by unlimited possibilities in the future for more and better service to our customers and increased public knowledge and understanding of the small loans business.

"Small loans have become an important factor in enabling the American family to maintain a standard of living without equal in the world today. In 1952 alone, 541,811 loans were made to Michigan residents in the total amount of over $161,000,000. This clearly indicates the wide acceptance of small loan services in this state."

Other officers elected were Victor E. Williams of Jackson, vice president; Earl F. Ganschow of Saginaw, treasurer; and Murn Smith of Plymouth, secretary.

Minority Housing Problems Outlined

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Heads of two federal housing agencies told the nation's mortgage bankers today there still is a big unfilled demand for better dwellings for minority groups, older couples and low rental families.

Albert M. Cole, administrator of the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency, said he felt a program for meeting the demand must be carried out "in large measure by private industry" with government primarily playing a role of "assistance and encouragement."

Commissioner Guy T. O. Hollyday of the Federal Housing Administration suggested prefabricated houses "may well be of assistance in attacking the old problem of providing adequate housing for minority groups."

Hal Boyle Says:

Spendthrift Santa Claus Now Raking In the Dough

NEW YORK (AP) — Santa Claus always was a kindly old fellow, but a mighty poor businessman.

"Charity begins at home," his wife kept telling him. But every year Santa came home each Christmas dawn, broke but happy from the world's oldest giveaway program. He never made a cent through the centuries.

The financial transformation of Santa began in the gnomish mind of Harold Fortune, an ex-horse show enterpreneur who had turned into a country club rescuer. A country club rescuer is a man who, for a fee, saves insolvent golf pastures from going back to the bankers and the chipmunks.

Fortune had a friend, Julius Reiss, a wealthy Lake Placid, N. Y., auto dealer, who liked to tell Christmas stories to his daughter, Patricia. In 1948 Reiss mentioned to Fortune a wistful remark by little Patricia:

"Gee, I wish sometime I could see Santa's workshop."

Bang, bang, bang! Bells rang in Fortune's promoter head. He forgot all about rescuing country clubs. Who wouldn't want to see Santa's workshop? He and Reiss began planning.

Several months and perhaps 500 thousand dollars later, they opened on July 1, 1949, a 15-acre Christmas village at North Pole, their own community on Whiteface Mountain in the Adirondacks.

"We have ten log buildings done in fairyland style," said Fortune. "Santa's elves dressed in costume make toys, and operate a pottery shop. Two hundred animals — reindeer, peacocks, goats, ducks, and rabbits — wander through the village. There are a number of nursery rhyme characters, including Bo-peep, who is followed by her sheep."

Children under ten are admitted free. Adults pay a dollar each. The fairyland village has had 2,234,826 visitors in four years, thousands of whom toss coins in a wishing well to buy Christmas toys.

The corporation that operates Santa's Workshop chips in a share of receipts for this purpose, too. By Christmas this year it will have distributed since the opening date some 67,710 toys costing $143,075.

The Esso Standard Oil Company supplies an airplane for Santa's journey. This year his safari includes stopovers at 34 airports, where groups of orphan and other underprivileged children will be given candy and Christmas presents.

Is the whole project philanthropy or just another Christmas business? Both, said Fortune.

"We are a commercial venture," he said, "and we pay an income tax. But we do a lot of good that otherwise wouldn't get done, and I don't mind telling you I feel good on Christmas morning."

Fortune, who devotes a third of the year to organizing the toy distribution program, would like to find a way to do more for orphans than give them a Christmas handout.

"You know, at a certain age they have to push them out in the world, to make room in the orphanages for the younger ones," he said, "and often they aren't ready.

"I'd like to establish a craft school of some kind at Santa's Workshop to teach these kids a way to make a living. If I could do that, I wouldn't mind if I died the next day."

He pause, and smiled.

"What am I saying? But that's my goal."

Expedition to Conduct Varied Survey Through 1958

WASHINGTON — Ten Australian scientists and technicians will sail from Melbourne this winter to set up Australia's first scientific station on the mainland of Antarctica.

The expedition is expected to base on the coast at a point southwest of western Australia, reports the National Geographic Society.

Detailed weather studies will begin early in 1958, as will research in geology, biology, cosmic rays and geophysics. Each expedition member will do a 12-month tour of duty. The frigid outpost will be maintained through 1958.

The Austrian government began its long range plan to explore and develop the neighboring Antarctic area six years ago, when weather stations were established at Heard and Macquarie Islands. On these lonely, windswept land spots meteorologists conduct a 24-hour-a-day study of an eight-mile-high column of air to classify Antarctic weather sweeping up into the temperate zones.

Antarctica is known to contain huge deposits of coal and other valuable minerals—possibly uranium. Its seas hold tremendous food resources in whales, fish, seals, birds and plankton, to which the world might eventually be obliged to turn. Flights between South America or South Africa and Australia may some day be routed over the Antarctic.

Australia's Antarctic territory lies between longitudes 45 degrees east and 160 degrees east. The area embraces 2,472,000 square miles and is almost as large as Australia itself. At its nearest point, Antarctica is only 1,500 miles south of Australia.

Most of the men in the advance party have already served on Heard or Macquarie Islands. They will sail to Antarctica in the 1500-ton Danish motor vessel, Kista Dan. It has a speed of 12 knots when fully loaded, a range of 14,500 miles, and is one of the world's most modern ice ships.

Strapped to the ship's decks will be two light aircraft. Mounted on floats or skis, they will be used for reconnaissance flights, flown and serviced by Royal Australian Air Force personnel.

Expedition members will be equipped with polar ski boots from Norway, windproofs of Australian design, eiderdown jackets from France, and polar tents made in Britain. On land they will travel in "weasels," tracked snow vehicles manufactured in the United states for use in World War II. Dog sledges will be hauled by huskies bred and trained at Heard Island.

Statistics Show Women Will Live More Years Than Their Mates

New York, N. Y. — Couples marrying today can look forward to a longer lifetime together than those who married in years past, but at the same time the likelihood that the wife will eventually become a widow has increased materially, a large life insurance company's statisticians report.

The explanation is that while average length of life has increased for both sexes, the increase has been greater for wives than for husbands. One result of this, the statisticians note, is a growing excess in the number of widows as compared with widowers.

Currently in the United States about 660,000 marriages are broken by death each year, and in two thirds of these families the wife is the survivor. Fifty years ago the corresponding proportion was close to one half.

The chances that a wife will outlive her husband, it is pointed out, depend essentially upon the difference in their ages. Where husband and wife are the same age, the chances that the wife will outlive her husband are 60 to 100, but the chances rise to 70 to 100 where the husband is five years older, and to almost 80 in 100 if he is 10 older.

The statisticians state the median age at which wives enter widowhood is about 56 years, and point out that most women still have many years of life before them after their husband dies.

"Three quarters of the women who are widowed at age 50 will live 20 years longer," the statisticians observe, "and the same number of years of life also remain for nine out of every ten wives who lose their mates before age 40.

"Even at age 65, fully one half of the widows can expect to survive for 15 years, and almost one third for 20 years."

Lapeer Farmer Finds Ancient Mastodon Bones

Discovery of the bones was believed to be a highly important geological find, according to experts.

Size of the bones indicate the animal may have been as large as a full-grown elephant, the experts stated. Mastodons, a large elephant-like beast covered with coarse hair, roamed this part of the world about 8,500 years ago.

The initial find, a tusk more than seven feet long and six inches in diameter, was discovered by Russell when he was digging a pond outlet.

Afterward, an excavation was undertaken by the Genesee County Historical and Museum Society, and the additional bones were unearthed.

Charles M. Barber, museum director, said the animal possibly had been slain and butchered by man. Tests will be conducted to find their possible age and whether the bones have any stone or axe marks as if made by hunters.

Barber said the bones were found under a two-foot layer of marl which probably contributed to their unusual state of preservation.

Harry Truman Won't Be Glum Even for Photo

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Truman and a photographer had this exchange at a dinner last night, just a few hours after Truman was subpoenaed by the House Un-American Activities Committee.

The photographer — "You are fouling me up. My office told me to get a picture of you looking glum and all you have done is smile."

6 Commies Get Holiday Respite

Detroit Court Recesses Conspiracy Trial for Armistice Day

DETROIT (AP)—Six Michigan Communists being tried for allegedly conspiring to advocate and teach the violent overthrow of the U. S. government got a holiday from court today.

This is Armistice Day, the one on which World War I ended in 1918. It is a legal holiday. Federal Judge Frank A. Picard ordered the trial in abeyance until Thursday.

They are Mrs. Helen Allison Winter and Saul Wellman. Her husband, Carl was among 11 top Communists sent to jail for conspiracy by New York's Judge Harold Medina. Wellman is a former Michigan chairman of the Communist Party.

The man who placed them at the 1948 New York convention is John Lautner, 51, a former Communist now employed by the Justice Department. He said he was a security officer at the convention, charged with checking credentials of delegates and seeing that only bona fide ones got in.

Lautner testified also that the American Communist Party, following its re-establishment in 1945, adopted completely the revolutionary teachings of Marx and Lenin.

Lautner said that from 1945 to 1949 he was an instructor in the party's training schools in New York and was told to teach that "a change from capitalism to communism would be impossible without a Communist Party to provide leadership for the revolution by the proletariat."

Man Finds Dynamite Cap Inside His Auto

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Walter Sexton, 35, had a mangled hand today after deciding to repair his auto's headlights, out of commission for two weeks.

Where the light fuse should have been Sexton found what looked like a piece of copper tubing. "I took it out and started to cut off the end," he related.

That's when the dynamite fuse exploded. Sexton maintains he has no enemies, that somebody was just joking.

Veep Has No Comment on Truman Subpoena

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Former Vice President Alben W. Barkley says he can't comment on the Harry Dexter White "spy" case because he knows nothing about it.

Barkley, who addressed a dinner here last night on behalf of State of Israel bonds, also declined comment on the subpoena served on former President Truman in connection with the case.

'Sirens' Meet Match

MANILA (AP) — Police recently rounded up men dressed as women in Luneta Park in the heart of Manila. American sailors had complained they were robbed by these "seductive sirens" who often turned out to be tough hoodlums.
