Several Ranking Officers Arrested

Coup Against Thieu Is Thwarted

SAIGON (AP) — A coup against the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu was thwarted last night, a reliable government source said today.

Other informed sources said several ranking Vietnamese marine officers, ranging from majors to colonels, had been arrested.

Disclosure of the coup attempt follows by hours an announcement that South Vietnamese armed forces had been placed on full alert yesterday afternoon.

The high government source said, "You can expect a lot of people to be arrested in the next few days, all as a result of the coup attempt that failed."

INSTIGATOR UNKNOWN

This source said details of the coup attempt were still incomplete and it was not yet known who was behind it or how widespread it was.

The fact that several marine officers were arrested could indicate the involvement of Lt. Gen. Le Nguyen Khang, the marine commandant and a close political ally of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, the president's political rival. This could not be confirmed. Khang's whereabouts were not known.

Marine units in the Saigon area reportedly were replaced by rangers at the order of Thieu, reportedly because he feared a coup by Khang.

Since he became president last October, Thieu has been consolidating his power, mostly at the expense of Ky. As part of this, Thieu stripped Khang of his posts of 3rd Corps commander and commander of the capital military district.

Khang kept his marine command, however, but it was thought that Thieu would take that away eventually.

★ ★ ★

The exact number of marine officers arrested was not immediately known, but it was thought to be about six.

House Struggles Through Delays to TV Debate Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House fought and muddled its way through almost 20 hours of delaying tactics before taking up today a bill to facilitate a Hubert H. Humphrey-Richard M. Nixon-George C. Wallace television debate.

★ ★ ★

Records and precedents fell like tenpins during the continuous day-and-night struggle between Democrats bent on passing the bill and Republicans staging the House equivalent of a filibuster.

For the last 2¼ hours of preliminaries, members were physically locked in the House chamber by majority vote—the first such instance, veteran members said, in more than 50 years.

★ ★ ★

The idea was to block the favorite Republican delaying tactics — to partly empty the chamber and then force one time-consuming roll call after another to establish a quorum.

RECORD FOR ROLL CALLS

Before the motion to consider the bill could be called up there were 36 roll calls—by a wide margin a record for one continuous session. Thereafter Republicans continued to find ways to force roll calls, each consuming about half an hour.

The Democrats had charged filibustering Republicans with trying to prevent the presidential debate and at the same time shield their candidate from blame for ducking the encounter.

The bill Democrats support would allow networks to arrange the debate without giving equal time to numerous minor candidates.

The motion by Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., not only called for locking the doors—which was done immediately—but for the sergeant at arms to seek out and bring in absent members.

GOP RAISES STORM

This part of the procedure apparently was mainly symbolic. Democratic absentees were summoned by telegram.

Republican members raised a storm of protest over the locked doors.

Some said it was an illegal use of powers under the House rules and Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, said the restriction on the freedom of the members violated their constitutional rights.

House Speaker John W. McCormack said he was bound by the majority vote in support of Adams' motion and insisted that the doors would remain locked until the business before the House was completed.

RALLY FOR NIXON — Richard M. Nixon, Republican candidate for President, moves through crowded IMA Auditorium in Flint yesterday during a campaign stop. Mrs. Nixon (to his left, front) leads the way. Nixon spoke out against George Wallace in the noon appearance.

TRYING TO HIT ALL SIDES — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is shown in a double exposure as he addressed a conference of editors and publishers in Washington. Humphrey said he would, if elected president, have a new administration and a new team.

Presidential Aspirants Fire Salvos

By the Associated Press

Republican Richard M. Nixon says a vote for Democratic presidential opponent Hubert H. Humphrey would be expensive and one for third party candidate George C. Wallace would be futile.

Humphrey "would be the most expensive president we'd ever have," Nixon said yesterday. And he said protest votes for Wallace would be discarded for a "moment's satisfaction" that would bring no change.

Humphrey, meanwhile, said Nixon is assuming voters are unhappy and desperate enough to elect Nixon. But although there is still a lot wrong with the country, Humphrey said, "Richard Nixon and the Republican party can't fix it."

Wallace, drawing a crowd police estimated at 20,000 people to Boston Common, pledged anew to repeal the open-housing law, restore law and order and end the Vietnam war militarily if peace talks fail.

COST OF PROPOSALS

Nixon claimed in Minneapolis that Humphrey's proposals so far would cost taxpayers $50 billion, and said the campaign is only half over.

Earlier Nixon turned his guns on Wallace in Flint.

"Do you just want to get something off your chest?" he said, "or do you want to get something done?"

American workers know lax law enforcement cannot end crime and they know the United States "cannot let other nations treat the American flag like a doormat and hope to establish peace in the world," Nixon said in the auto-producing city.

JUST AS FUTILE

"But we cannot swing to a third party extreme," he continued, "because that would be just as futile."

Aides described Nixon as believing Wallace's greatest northern strength is in the industrial states of Michigan and Ohio but that the strength is waning.

Humphrey attacked Nixon's anticrime proposals today as sounding "like either a call for the vigilantes or for more talk about crime" and said both Nixon and Wallace spend more time talking about crime than proposing solutions.

★ ★ ★

"The time for talking is over — we need action," Humphrey said in remarks prepared for a National Association of Retail Druggists session in Boston.

Meanwhile, Humphrey advisers released a Sindlinger poll which shows that the vice president is now within 3.9 points of Nixon. A Sindlinger poll two weeks ago had Nixon leading by nine points.

Wallace's running mate, retired Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, told newsmen in Los Angels yesterday one reason he joined the third party ticket was that Republican Nixon plans to stack his Cabinet with "left wingers."

★ ★ ★

LeMay declined to name who he had in mind but said he had been a Nixon supporter until he saw press reports of Nixon's proposed Cabinet "in which every left wing member of the Republican party was listed."

★ ★ ★

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, said in Miami that Wallace represents a "philosophy of violence and overkill." Muskie said Wallace would "make the policeman a member of an occupation force among a hostile people."

NO ENDORSEMENT

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy made his first major political speech Tuesday night since losing the Democratic presidential nomination and declined again to endorse Humphrey.

County Dems Adopt Platform

The Oakland County Democratic Executive Committee last night adopted a platform on which party candidates for the Board of Supervisors will wage their campaigns.

It's believed to be the first document of its kind in the nation, according to Philip Mastin, vice chairman of the Democratic committee.

★ ★ ★

Based on testimony taken by a committee from county department heads, and concerned citizen groups and organizations the last two weeks, the eight-page platform establishes a set of priorities with human needs being the first recognized.

The platform calls for improved welfare services, mental health services, housing, job opportunities and training centers, transportation, youth and retiree services, and law enforcement.

'ELABORATE PROJECTS'

"We deplore the budgeting of surpluses for elaborate projects rather than services for people," the platform reads.

Mastin, a Hazel Park councilman and a candidate for the reapportioned board of supervisors from that city, said the platform encourages the scheduling of board meetings for times convenient to the people "and the consulting of people on major projects like the Oakland-Orion Airport."

The platform also urges that the new board be made a part-time job, "with reasonable remuneration." It also calls for the streamlining of committees. (Presently there are 28 committees and the new board will have only 27 members.)

Included in the platform is the establishment of an information center where county residents can call with questions about services.

Senate Will Skip N-Spread Treaty Vote This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders have decided not to bring the nuclear nonproliferation treaty to a vote in this session of Congress, informed sources say.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield has not made a public announcement, but, he is said to have abandoned any possibility of seeking ratification this year.

★ ★ ★

The treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons has been in increasing trouble in the Senate since the Soviet Union invaded Czechoslovakia in mid-August.

The pact suffered another major setback yesterday when Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., whose views on military matters carry great weight with many senators, announced he opposes action on the treaty at this time.

'NO PROTECTION'

"It has no inspection provisions worthy of the name," Russell said. "It would not protect us at all."

While several senators have advocated delay because of the Soviet intervention in Central Europe, Russell's objections to the terms of the treaty itself could signal long-range difficulties in obtaining Senate approval when the new session of Congress opens next January.

★ ★ ★

"I am opposed to acting on it until there can be further investigation of its terms," Russell said.

Nuclear nations signing the treaty pledge they will not transfer nuclear weapons or the know-how for making them to nonnuclear countries.

The have-nots agree they will neither seek nor acquire such weapons. Provisions are made for sharing peaceful uses of atomic energy, however.

Moon-Shot Rocket Goes Into Position

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A mammoth Saturn 5 rocket that may hurl men around the moon in December rolls to a launch pad today as preparations move flawlessly toward Friday's launching of the three Apollo 7 astronauts on an earth orbit voyage.

With the Apollo 8 spaceship perched on top, the 363-foot rocket makes the eight-hour, 3.5-mile trip to launch pad in an upright position aboard a huge tractor-like transport called a crawler.

★ ★ ★

The Apollo 8 crew — Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders — were among those planning to witness the roll-out.

The astronauts' hopes of flying Apollo 8 into orbit around the moon depend on the results of Apollo 7, which is scheduled to ride a smaller Saturn 1B rocket into earth orbit at 11 a.m. EDT Friday.

Rain Threatens Series' 6th Game

Denny Gets Another Chance

By JERE CRAIG

ST. LOUIS — Denny McLain, a 31-game winner during the regular season but a bust so far in the World Series, was named the Detroit Tiger pitcher today for the rain-threatened sixth game.

A light rain was falling on Busch Stadium when the Tigers and St. Louis Cardinals arrived at their respective clubhouses, but it was expected to stop by the 2 p.m. (EDT) starting hour.

★ ★ ★

Commissioner William Eckert's office said the game was still on and no decision would be made until starting time.

Although he has lost both of his series starts, McLain's appearance is expected to make the odds to even for game. The Tigers must win or St. Louis will have its second straight world title.

CARDS A GAME UP

The Cardinals lead the best-of-seven series, three games to two.

McLain's mound opponent is to be Ray Washburn who beat the Tigers in Detroit Saturday. Should the Bengals square the series, Mickey Lolich is Manager Mayo Smith's choice for the deciding seventh game. It is scheduled for St. Louis.

But then the shadow of Bob Gibson lurks in the background should it go into the 7th game tomorrow.

When Gibson isn't pitching, the Tigers' biggest task is to stop Lou Brock who is hitting .524 in the five games played while stealing seven bases.

Most frustrated of the Tigers is catcher Bill Freehan who has yet to hit in 16 trips to the plate, and who has been victimized by nine Cardinal stolen bases, seven by Brock.

FIRST INNING

Tigers — Dick McAuliffe strikes out. Mickey Stanley flies to right. Al Kaline strikes out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Cardinals — Lou Brock bounces out, pitcher to first. Curt Flood lines to short. Roger Maris bounces out, third to first. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING

Tigers — Norm Cash walks. Willie Horton doubles to left scoring Cash. Jim Northrup strikes out. Bill Freehan singles to left scoring Cash and Freehan goes to third when the ball gets through Brock in left field for an error. Don Wert walks. Denny McLain bounces into a double play, short to second to first. Two runs, two hits, one error, one left.

Cardinals — Orlando Cepeda singles to left. Tim McCarver lined to right. Mike Shannon bounces into a double-play, short to second to first. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Harriman's Call to Hanoi Hints of Slight U.S. Shift

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman called on North Vietnam today to display some sign of a serious wish to scale down the war and begin "fruitful peace talks."

The envoy's statement to newsmen before entering the 25th session of the conference on Vietnam seemed to indicate a shift in emphasis in the U.S. position although Harriman said there has been no change in the basic principles.

The American diplomat had been asked if the U.S. position has been modified, and he replied: "We've made it very plain it's the other side that's holding up the negotiations. We've made offer after offer. They've stood firmly and stubbornly on the position which they took when we first met in May.

"It's up to them to meet us, as the President has indicated, (with) some restraint on their part.

'MUST BE SERIOUS'

"We are of course repeating that, as the President said, he cannot stop the bombing entirely unless he has reason to believe that Hanoi is serious in desiring to have a mutual de-escalation and seriously desiring to have fruitful peace talks."

The United States in the past has sought some assurance from Hanoi that a bomb halt would be matched by Communist military restraint.

★ ★ ★

But Harriman's words today indicated the United States now would accept an indication that Hanoi seriously desired to scale down the war and to negotiate productively.

There appeared to be a difference of emphasis from the military to the political factors in the situation, judging by Harriman's words.

Leaders of North Vietnam have repeatedly stated a bomb halt would produce "positive effects" in the search for peace.

But in calling for an unconditional cutiff of American attacks they have deliberately avoided defining what those "positive effects" might be.

With Harriman was his deputy, Ambassador Cyrus Vance, who returned shortly before midnight last night from Washington where he had been engaged in a top-level review of Vietnam policy.

On the North Vietnamese side today were delegation leader Xuan Thuy and Politburo member Le Duc Tho.

There had been reports that Vance and Harriman wanted President Johnson's authority to risk an unconditional ending of the bombing. But Vance on his return gave no evidence whatsoever to support this speculation.

Relatives Aiding Search

Indian Still Hunted

TISHOMINGO, Okla. (AP) — Loy Factor has eluded hundreds of searchers for eight days in the timbered hills of southeastern Oklahoma, but today he is fleeing trackers who can match his skill in the wilderness — Chickasaw Indian relatives.

★ ★ ★

Male members of the family took to the roadless hills yesterday after hundreds of searchers, bloodhounds and even airplanes had failed for seven days to find any trace of the 43-year-old one-legged war veteran, and the frail, 4-year-old son he took with him.

★ ★ ★

"They're Chickasaw. They know the country as well as he knows the country," said Johnston County Sheriff Herman Ford, who had led the earlier search efforts.

The brothers and cousins entered the search after McElroy Factor of Dallas, a brother of the hunted man, came to Tishomingo Tuesday and began gathering the relatives for a conference that lasted until dawn.

FACES DEATH

Fear for the little boy was as strong as concern for Factor, who faces death from lack of medication for a diabetic condition and epileptic seizures.

Factor is sought on a murder warrant in the death of his wife, Juanita, 31, whose body was found last Wednesday in a shallow grave at the edge of the woods near their farm outside Fillmore. She had been strangled to death by a leather belt forced down her throat, an autopsy showed.

★ ★ ★

Officers were led to the grave by Factor's 14-year-old daughter, Deborah, last Wednesday. She said she last saw her mother Sept. 20 and that her father had held her and six brothers and sisters in the wilderness since then.

★ ★ ★

Doctors estimated Factor could survive five days without the medication to control his medical conditions. That was eight days ago.

AT GRANDMOTHERS

Deborah and the five younger children who fled from their father are now at the home of their maternal grandmother in Ada, 40 miles north. Factor refused to let the 4-year-old, Donald, go with them.

Youth Arrested in Kidnap Case

A 19-year-old Waterford Township youth was arrested yesterday by township police for allegedly kidnaping at gunpoint and attempting to rape a junior high school girl who was walking home from school.

Michael Lemon, 19, of 3867 Iris may be questioned by police in at least two other reported attempted kidnapings and rapes at gunpoint in the past several days.

★ ★ ★

A youth abducted the junior high school girl near her home in midafternoon and drove her to a wooded area and attempted to rape her, according to police.

She escaped and the youth drove off, police said. The girl gave a description of the man, his car and two letters of the license plate number to police.

ARRAIGNED TODAY

Waterford police later spotted the car and arrested Lemon. He is in Oakland County Jail and was arraigned this morning.

Earlier, a woman reported to police that a man threatened her with a gun in a parking lot as she was walking home. He threatened to kill her if she didn't get into the car and lie down on the floor.

The woman replied, "Shoot me if you want, but my husband is probably watching us. I live near here." She then proceeded to walk home.

Police said they may question Lemon in this attempted abduction and one that happened last Friday.

County Board to Weigh Higher ADC Payments

The three-week picketing and sleeping-in at the Oakland County Social Services Building ended with a compromise yesterday. Protesters had been supporting higher payments for persons receiving Aid to Dependent Children (ADC).

County officials have agreed to place the group's request before the Oakland County Board of Supervisors Ways and Means Committee Monday at 11 a.m.

★ ★ ★

One of the leaders of the protest group, Carol Sweeney of 228 Orchard Lake, replied, when asked what she felt the protest had accomplished, "We've have opened the eyes of a lot of people to the problems of the ADC mothers."

The entire issue of welfare and ADC payments will be examined tomorrow night by a group formed in response to picketing of county facilities.

TAXPAYERS' VOICE

The meeting, called by a group named Taxpayers' Voice, will be 7:30 p.m. at the county auditorium, on the west end of the courthouse, Telegraph and Pontiac Lake Roads.

★ ★ ★

Organizing the meeting is Mrs. Charles La Veque of 518 N. East Blvd., Pontiac. She said all aspects of welfare will be discussed and studied from what it is to what's wrong with it and how it could be improved.

Several county officials are to be on hand to explain technical details, Mrs. La Veque said. However, the objective of the meeting is to gather opinions of taxpayers for presentation of a reform program to be sent to the State Legislature, she said.

Mrs. La Veque and her supporters have been circulating petitions in most county communities. The petitions are being signed by those who object to the present program.

DISCUSSION POINTS

A definite format has been arrived at for the meeting which will be limited to seven points of discussion plus question-and-answer periods, she explained.

★ ★ ★

Taxpayers Voice was formed after the group of ADC mothers and sympathizers began picketing and sleeping-in at the social services building at the county center.

Boys School Is Founded

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—A sixth private school has been founded in the Bloomfield Hills area.

Kensington Academy, a new independent Catholic school for boys, was founded this summer by Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Darin, 3830 Crestlake, Bloomfield Township, and Mr. and Mrs. James J. Yaw, 111 Linda, Bloomfield Hills.

★ ★ ★

The new school is on the grounds of the Academy of the Sacred Heart on Kensington Road. It is expected to be open for students next September with grades one through six. One grade will be added each year after that until all 12 grades will be represented, according to Headmaster Raymond J. Maloney, 2600 Albeston.

The average class size will be 12 to 15 students, he said.

PORTABLE CLASSROOMS

Portable classrooms will be used on the academy grounds, and the boys will share the gymnasium, cafeteria and auditorium with the academy.

Maloney said that permanent building for classrooms and activities are being planned for construction in 1971.

★ ★ ★

While it will be on the same grounds as the Academy of the Sacred Heart, the school will be completely separate in administration and will be privately financed, Maloney said. The land for the school is being leased from the academy.

Maloney plans on spending this year planning the curriculum, interviewing teachers and prospective students for the school.

BEST RESOURCES

The curriculum and policies of the school will be established after extensive research and visits to several schools throughout the country so that Kensington Academy will be offering the best educational resources, Maloney said.

Judge to Decide if Mother Keeps Her Children

Oakland County Probate Judge Norman R. Barnard will decide tomorrow if a mother convicted Monday of cruelty to her children will retain custody of the youngsters.

Barnard heard arguments yesterday during a closed-door hearing concerning Mrs. Florence Lewis, 31, of Clarkston.

The hearing had been requested on a emergency basis by Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson, who said he was "absolutely opposed to permitting either legal or physical custody by Mrs. Lewis."

"No crime is as vile as that of abuse, physical or mental, of one's own children," Bronson said.

GUILTY OF CHAINING SONS

Mrs. Lewis and Paul Maczko, 57, of 9052 Ortonville, Independence Township, were found guilty by a jury of chaining two of her sons in a garage. Mrs. Lewis and Maczko are to be sentenced Oct. 30 by Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams. They face prison terms of up to four years each.

★ ★ ★

The prosecutor's office said that four of Mrs. Lewis' five children are living with her at her mother's home in Clarkston.

The children are Ricky, 8, Catherine, 7, Bernadette, 5, and Joseph, 3.

Mrs. Lewis' oldest son, Fred, 9, is living with his father, Richard E. in Duluth, Minn.

It was Fred who testified during the trial that he was chained to Ricky by Maczko. Ricky, however, denied that he had ever been chained.

The incident for which the couple was specifically charged reportedly occurred in September, 1967, while Mrs. Lewis was Maczko's housekeeper.

County Dems Adopt Platform

creased county support to the antipoverty program, implementing the Kerner Report as it affects the county, the discontinuance of discriminatory practices, and the encouragement of municipalities to work toward better housing.

Wholehearted support is given in the platform to the Southeastern Michigan Council of Government (COG), the purchase of land banks for future recreational use and a model-cities programs.

★ ★ ★

Prime consideration will be given by the Democrats to making the Oakland a home-rule county, according to the platform.

★ ★ ★

"We view with alarm (Delos) Hamlin's opposition to home rule," said Mastin. Hamlin is serving his 14th term as chairman of the board of supervisors.

★ ★ ★

Topping the list of priorities in the platform is the county mental health program. "Oakland entered it early," said Mastin, "but it has been allowed to lag."

Democrats on the board, according to the platform, will work toward improving the county road system, using its appointive powers to make changes in the road commission if necessary.

U.S. Says '69 Cars Average $40 More

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government report says 1969 automobiles will cost buyers an average of $40 more than in 1968 and price increases will be even higher on station wagons and some better model cars.

Suggested retail prices for new cars average $41 higher, and include $24 worth of quality improvements, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

But a $23 cut in the value of warranties wiped out most of the value of quality improvements, it said.

"As a result, increases in quality accounted for only $1 of the higher prices," the report said.

General new car warranties that covered 24 months or 24,000 miles in 1968 have been cut in half on 1969 models to 12 months or 12,000 miles, it said.

The results of the study will be reflected in government price indexes to be issued in November.

Griffin Defends Role on Fortas

By JIM LONG

U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., said last night that had President Johnson nominated Abe Fortas for a Cabinet post rather than chief justice of the Supreme Court he probably would have voted for the confirmation.

"I think the President should have the prerogative in choosing people in his Cabinet," said Griffin, who had led the fight which caused Fortas to ask that Johnson remove his name from nomination.

★ ★ ★

Explaining his position to over 300 persons attending a meeting of the Oakland County Young Republicans in Royal Oak, Griffin said, in spite of some reports he never questioned the power of the President to make the appointment.

"He has that power up unto the last hour of office," added Griffin.

'2 PARTS TO NOMINATION'

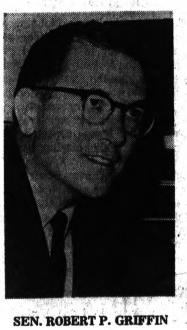
"What people forget is that there are two parts to a nomination. The President first makes the appointment. Then Congress' advise and consent powers come into play."

★ ★ ★

Griffin said that he first became concerned after reading a report in the Wall Street Journal last summer that Chief Justice Earl Warren was going to resign and would confer with the President.

"It shocked me and many other people regarding the apparent deal to create a vacancy," said Griffin, pointing out that Warren had given no notice of intention as to when he would step down.

Griffin does not go along with the argument that a lame duck President shouldn't appoint a high officeholder, "but there is a serious question of wise and sound policy to approve an appointee in the waning months of an administration."



SEN. ROBERT P. GRIFFIN

"I took the position that the people should be allowed in November to pick a man who would reflect what they want," the senator added.

When the President named Fortas and Homer W. Thornberry, a U.S. Court of Appeals Judge, as his successor, "Johnson left himself open to a charge of cronyism," said Griffin.

"No president in history had ever gotten himself in that position (of naming two friends) before," he said. Noting that Fortas had been Johnson's private attorney for years, Griffin said he believed that it was the "responsibility of the Senate to ask if he is best for the job or just being rewarded."

He said that he hoped that the future selection of high court jurists would be based on their outstanding service on the bench "and not for their political activities."

Asked if he would approve of Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., one of several names reportedly being considered by Johnson for chief justice, Griffin said, "I understand that Hart's name won't be sent out for nomination. I don't think I'm going to cross any bridges that don't have to be crossed."

Student Return Urged

CHICAGO (AP) — Some 1,000 Negro and white youths at six schools have been urged to return to classrooms and end walkouts that have disrupted classes for two days.

Classes were disrupted or dismissed Tuesday at the six Chicago and suburban schools when Negro students, pressing demands for greater representation in school affairs and more Negro teachers, staged walkouts or sit-ins. White students at one of the schools also walked out in protest against the Negro demands.

* * *

Six students were arrested Tuesday on charges which included disorderly conduct and attempting to incite violence.

Negroes and whites at Austin High School on the West Side said they will stay away from classes today unless tensions cool.

Schools Supt. James F. Redmond and three associate superintendents met Tuesday with seven white and seven Negro students from Austin in an attempt to iron out the problems.

"I hope the students see well the need to get back in school and get off these streets," Redmond said after the meeting.

* * *

Some 300 white students walked out first at Austin in protest against a meeting between Dorothy L. Martin, principal, and Negro student leaders. They rode public transportation to the downtown Civic Center Plaza near the offices of the board of education, where they shouted "white power" slogans.

Later more than 300 Negro students marched the five miles downtown and also paraded around the plaza.

The student meeting with Redmond took place during the demonstrations.

* * *

Besides Austin, classes were disrupted for the second day in a row at Harrison High School on the Southwest Side, at Morgan Park High School on the South Side, at Orr High School on the West Side, at the Hay Upper Grade Center, near the Austin and Orr schools and at Arco High School in south suburban Summit.

* * *

The incidents stemmed from Negro demands for courses in Afro-American history and more Negro teachers for the history courses and other courses.

* * *

Meetings were scheduled for later this week among students, community leaders and education officials in the neighborhoods of the Austin and Harrison schools, Redmond said.

Smith, Sitter Still on Jobs in Troubled Troy District

TROY — Dr. Rex B. Smith remains as superintendent of troubled Troy School District today and Ronald G. Sitter is still business manager, but just barely.

A threat of citizen recall of the board and a state investigation of board members hangs over the situation.

An attempt by three board members last night to have Smith reassigned as a teacher, prior to a possible discharge, and to discharge Sitter failed due to parliamentary footwork by other board members.

A motion to table the agenda item called "status of administrators" took precedence over Trustee Leonard Lucas' announced intention to move for administration changes. The tabling was approved 4-3, with Lucas, Treasurer Harold Janes and Trustee James McFarland dissenting.

ACT EXPLAINED

Lucas said he had the item placed on the agenda "based on the board's recent review of the system's lack of financial responsibility and control in the '65 site fund and the '67-'68 fiscal operating budget and other administration acts."

His statement precipitated a heated exchange between the two board factions.

★ ★ ★

Trustee John D. Vagnetti interrupted Lucas to call any such action "completely contrary to our (the board's) plan of action."

Vagnetti said several weeks ago the board was made aware of the condition of the school district and members had agreed on a plan of action. He did not say what that plan was.

Turstee Robert Dolmage interrupted to move to table the matter indefinitely.

"Until we can act as a unified board in this district, I will not support this type of motion," continued Vagnetti. There was applause from some the 50 people present.

★ ★ ★

An attempt by Treasurer Harold Janes to suspend the rules of order was ignored.

After the vote for tabling, Janes retorted, "This matter won't rest. If you can't see right from wrong, I pity you."

A summary of the situation — including the fact that the board has been invited to appear before the State Attorney General's staff and the State Department of Education sometime during the last week of October — was offered by President Richard C. Snoad.

Snoad said the board late last November sat with Smith and a couple of other administrators, identified by another board member as Sitter and Assistant Supt. Boyd Larson, and set Feb. 1 as the date when these men would suggest what their plans were for the future.

★ ★ ★

"Some members felt they would submit their resignation," said Snoad, "but I felt they would tell us what progress had been made in their individual plans."

He said that just prior to Feb. 1 the matter of misuse of site funds from the 1965 issue was taken to the state for investigation.

"We, as a board cannot take action until the state reports on the '65 site fund and places the real responsibility," Snoad said.

Janes, who admittedly initiated the state investigation and whose action was later backed by the entire board, said the firing request had nothing to do with the state investigation.

"We have overspent to the tune of $129,000 in the site fund," Janes said. "The superintendent says that some money can be transferred from other funds. He has also recommended selling $125,000 worth of property to make up the amount. This is a serious condition."

A man in the audience, Gene Spilman of 6454 Canmoor, rose to say that if no action is taken by next month the public could ask for a recall of the board or a state investigation of board members.

"You've been pussy-footing around and tabling indefinitely," Spilman charged.

The meeting was marked by a series of pointed questions in relation to financing. Payment of the bills revealed that some carryovers from the 1967-68 budget are being paid for from the present budget.

"That's why we need an audit," said Janes. "We've got to find out the payables and receivables and cash balances in each fund."

A recommendation by Smith to hire the auditing firm of Plante and Moran of Detroit and Farmington was tabled for further study and interviews by the board.

Smith said he had picked the firm from a field of four candidates for the job.

Apple Island, In Orchard Lake, Is Up For Sale

Legend-Rich Island's for Sale

ORCHARD LAKE — The legends of Apple Island, which is being put up for sale tomorrow, are the result of the gradual mixing of history and tradition with fiction.

The 38-acre island, near the center of Orchard Lake, is almost completely covered with cedar trees, which have grown wild for about the last 20 years.

★ ★ ★

Indian tribes that once inhabited the area called it Me-nah-sa-gor-ning, which is Ottawa for "apple place."

History books say Chief Pontiac once held secret tribal meetings there during the siege of Detroit in 1764. Another tale is that the famous Indian chief is buried on the island.

ARTIFACTS FOUND

Occasionally, arrowheads, hatchets and other Indian tools have been found on the island by past owners or curious tourists.

In 1965 the present owners of the island, Mrs. Fredrick S. Strong and her brother, Harold Ward, attempted to present it to the City of Orchard Lake Village. Voters chose not to accept the scenic gift primarily due to its tax revenue as private property.

★ ★ ★

So the property remained the possession of Ward and Mrs. Strong, the children of Willis C. Ward, who purchased the island in 1916 from Colin Campbell, a Detroit merchant at a cost of $40,000.

The island will go up for sale again tomorrow. Price tag is estimated to be near $150,000.

Mrs. William A. Richardson, a representative of Weir, Manuel Snyder, Ranke Inc., the firm handling the sale, said the island must be purchased as a whole.

She added it is expected to be developed for summer homes.

Mrs. Richardson is also the daughter of Mrs. Strong, who owns all but four acres of the island.

"My brother and I have agreed to sell the island only to a group of people or a single person, who will agree to keep its natural beauties intact," Mrs. Strong said.

The island has not been inhabited since 1930, when the last of its few cottages were either torn down or destroyed by fire.

Campbell wrote of childhood summers on the island, "The island seemed to float in a sort of fairyland."

★ ★ ★

He said there were groups of old gnarled apple trees along the north shore and he often wondered how they came to be there.

The source of the apple trees was also a mystery to Samuel M. Leggett, one of the early settlers of Oakland County who wrote "The Legend of Me-nah-sa-gor-ning," in verse form in 1909.

The poem is based on an old Indian tale which tells of a young Indian maiden who long before the memory of the tribe became insane after the death of the young chief to whom she was betrothed.

Escaping from her guardians she would cross the lake with his body in a canoe to return it to the place where his lodge had stood, then bring it back again.

The tribe, wearied by this fantastic devotion, killed her on the advice of their medicine man.

This was said to offend the Great Spirit, who gave the young maiden the power to assume her material form and complete power over the tribe. She could compel their presence by beating a drum. At this signal the warriors would await her arrival with the body of her dead chief. Later she would bear him back to his burial place on the shore. All had to be done between sunset and sunrise — a foggy night being chosen to elude observation.

This legend and other stories, based upon fact and fiction, are still circulated among some of the area residents.

Rochester-Avon Merger Not Being Pushed Much

BY JEAN SAILE

The trial balloon for merger between Avon Township and the city of Rochester, sent up last spring by some leading citizens, has apparently disappeared.

With a vote due March 10 on cityhood for the township, there is presently little evidence of any work being done toward merger of the two communities.

★ ★ ★

And the prevailing opinion seems to be that the incorporation of the township has good chance for success.

A favorable vote in March would confirm two separate communities — two sets of local government — for the eastern Oakland County area.

MRS. SAILE

1967 CITYHOOD VOTE

Rochester voted to incorporate as a city in 1967 — separating itself from township government completely.

Before incorporation had become effective, the township filed incorporation petitions as a means of stopping the city from annexing any of its remaining territory.

★ ★ ★

A vote last January in the township narrowly confirmed its right to proceed to cityhood. A charter commission was elected which has duly prepared a charter.

This charter will be voted on in March. If it is approved, Avon Township will become the new City of Rochester Hills. Only a short time lapse for the charter to become effective would remain.

ONLY RECOURSE

The only recourse apparently open to residents, many of whom claim they would like to see the two communities united, is to elect to both city governmental bodies candidates who are truly interested in merger, providing such candidates present themselves.

Both the Rochester City Council vote and the charter election for Rochester Hills fall on March 10. Included on the latter ballot will be a list of candidates for council.

Merger backers in the area have noted the similarity between the Rochester charter and the one proposed for Rochester Hills.

A major difference is that the charter proposed for the township carries a 10-mill limitation with the possibility of extending it to 15 mills should an emergency arise. The city has no limitation on taxes other than the 20 mills imposed by state law.

MECHANICS UNCLEAR

Acutal mechanics of unification still remain unclear despite several studies, including one conducted by Michigan State University a year ago.

News Analysis

Mentioned as possibilities are specially enacted state legislation, common resolution by the two governing bodies and, of course, the referendum method.

★ ★ ★

Should unity become a reality, it would mean that officials of the two communities would be merged into a common system, which could precipitate loss of job ratings for some.

An actual cutback in the number of employes is doubtful, observers say, in that the same amount of work would remain to be accomplished.

SHARING OF WEALTH

What merger would do would be to share the wealth more evenly over the entire area. The present city of Rochester, defined by set boundary lines, has little room for the expansion which is hitting the township around it.

Million-dollar shopping centers planned communities, and increasing residential development all are under way outside the city.

There is a fear that Rochester's downtown area might be bypassed by merchants in favor of new suburban shopping centers and the consequent effect on the property tax bill is real.

Yet the feeling remains that Rochester itself is the focal point for the entire area.

Novi Rejects Bids on Sewer; All Over Engineer Estimates

NOVI — The Village Council has rejected bids received for construction of a sanitary sewer for the remainder of Orchard Hills subdivision and the Orchard Hills School. All bids surpassed engineer's estimates.

The school is adjacent to the subdivision located at 10 Mile and Meadowbrook.

★ ★ ★

Construction plans were submitted to 14 contractors but only three submitted bids. The low bid was submitted by the John Cavaliere Cement Co. for $97,204. The highest of the three bids was $123,802 submitted by the Pacitto and Forrest Co., Detroit.

Johnson & Anderson, village engineers, said the high bids may have been the result of a building machine operaters' strike which began on Sept. 30.

NEW BIDS EYED

Village Manager Harold Ackley said the Council will solicit new bids for the construction project after the strike has ended.

In other recent action, Council passed a resolution allowing developers to build model homes prior to final plat approval under certain conditions.

★ ★ ★

The conditions include posting of a bond in the amount necessary to furnish the area to be developed with services — roads, sewers and water, Ackley said.

Arthur Young and Co. were approved as the new village auditors to replace Carry and Olson who are revamping their organization.

PLAT GOES OK

Preliminary plat approval was given for the proposed Los Almas subdivision located at 10 Mile and Haggerty.

Council will meet again Monday. Matters to be taken up include appropriation of money for the police department for temporary help and equipment for the Village Department of Public Works.

Troy OKs Pacts to Buy Goods for Motor Pool

TROY — Contracts totaling nearly $160,000 for equipment for the city's motor pool have been awarded by the city commission.

Birmingham Chrysler Plymouth Co. was given a contract to furnish 19 sedans and police cars, with a trade-in of 17 cars, on its low bid of $30,507. Six bids were submitted.

★ ★ ★

Contractors Machinery bid $3,849 to win the contract to furnish the city with a brush chipper. There were three bids.

Two underbody scrapers will be furnished by Shults Equipment, which submitted the low bid of $4,046.

AIR COMPRESSOR

Ten bids were submitted to the commission for a skid-mounted air compressor. W. E. Phillips Equipment was awarded the contract on its low bid of $2,428.

A $4,300 contract was given to R. G. Moeller to furnish the city with two salt spreaders at its low bid price. Four bids were submitted.

Hunter Dodge won two contracts for its low bids on a flatbed dump truck for $4,368, the lowest of five bids; and four Model D-800 dump trucks for a total bid price of $28,253.

In other recent action, the commission made three three-year appointments to the city parks and recreation board. Named were James Pattison, of 800 Troywood, George Ishimaru of 283 W. Square Lake and Ralph Qualmann of 6430 Canmoor.

Ham Dinner Planned

LAKE ORION — The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will serve a baked ham dinner family style from 5 to 7 p.m. tomorrow at the church, 531 E. Flint. Proceeds will benefit the church building fund.

Almont Child Killed

Driver Charged in Traffic Death

ALMONT — An Almont man has been charged with manslaughter in connection with the traffic death of an 11-year-old girl here last Saturday.

Arraigned before Justice Edward Huff Monday, William F. Greenman of 311 S. Main stood mute and was released on $400 bond.

His examination date was not set.

Police said Greenman was driving east on St. Clair and the girl, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Lane, 724 St. Clair, was riding a bicycle west when she was struck and killed by the Greenman automobile.

Romeo Schools Stress Levy

ROMEO — The necessity for approval of a 4-mill renewal at a special Dec. 9 election here was illustrated at a recent special meeting of the Romeo school board and district principals.

"With the problems we have now, we will need that revenue to continue operating the schools on a basis similar to present operations," said T. C. Filppula, superintendent of schools.

★ ★ ★

The groups met to attempt to balance the 1968-69 school general fund budget, which showed a $119,000 deficit early this fall.

Filppula was directed to make cuts in the system's $2,200,000 budget at that time.

DEFICIT STILL $10,000

"Even with cuts made in all areas, including instructional supplies and capital outlays, as well as a few increases in recepits, the budget still shows a $10,000 deficit," Filppula said.

The budget does not allow a needed additional high school counselor, nor any assistant principals on the secondary level, he said.

The system presently levies 27.61 mills for operating expenses, and 8.98 mills for building.

Filppula said the operating deficit for this year is due mainly to increases in teachers' salaries and staff additions.

★ ★ ★

Final action will be taken on the budget at a later date.

Uniform National Registration Needed

One idea to emerge from the oratory of the election campaign that shouldn't be allowed to be buried once the dust of the battle settles is Sen. EDMUND MUSKIE'S suggestion for national registration of all voters.

The Democratic vice presidential candidate envisions a computerized national registration system, possibly using Social Security numbers for identification, that would permit a citizen who moved from one state to another to vote in a presidential election without going through the process of reregistration or meeting residence requirements in the second state.

The aim is to re-enfranchise those millions who are disfranchised in every national election simply because they happen to have moved and have not yet become eligible to vote in their new location.

Voting on local and statewide issues and candidates is one thing, and residence requirements serve a valid purpose there. But a president is supposed to be president of all the people all over the Nation.

A person who is qualified to participate in his selection in one state ought to be automatically qualified to participate in any other state—barring some few exceptions, perhaps, such as an 18-year-old who might move from Georgia or Kentucky, where he could vote, to a state where the age limit is 21.

★ ★ ★

The very thought of centralized registration of any kind scares a lot of people, however. And since 14 states already reduce residence requirements by various amounts for voters from another state when voting for president and vice president, pursuing the goal of a truly national voting citizenship at the individual state level might be a more fruitful approach.

Gold Still International Monetary Policeman

One of the strongest arguments put forth in support of the 10 per cent surtax passed by Congress this year was the need to put our financial house in order so that foreign nations would regain confidence in the dollar and thus slow the rush to convert foreign-held dollars to gold.

There is a puzzling contradiction in all this.

For years we have been told that gold is an anachronism that should be done away with in today's monetary picture. U.S. citizens, in fact, were separated from their gold coins many years ago, and the gold backing of our money has gradually disappeared.

The educational process of convincing everyone that gold, as a medium of exchange, is as dead as the Latin language is very nearly complete.

★ ★ ★

That is why it is disconcerting at this late date to find that gold is playing an imporant part in forcing fiscal responsibility on our own government which, so far as the ordinary person is concerned, has been off the gold standard all these years.

Apparently, gold is still a monetary policeman which governments have failed to rid themselves of as yet.

Peanut Butter Study Gets Bite of Federal Tax

How about this one, taxpayers? The Federal government has been spending your tax dollars to study peanut butter.

That's right . . . peanut butter.

The kids of the Country are supposedly getting a break this fall from the latest spending, which has resulted in a new regulation of the Food and Drug Administration.

★ ★ ★

The regulation is that peanut butter must be 90 per cent peanuts and no more than 10 per cent other ingredients.

Some prominent brands now contain only 87 per cent peanuts, and that is bad, says Food and Drug.

The agency spent nine years conducting numerous hearings in reaching this earth-shaking conclusion. The "Federal Register" devoted 11½ columns—more than 5,000 words—detailing the new rule.

To most kids, peanut butter has been a yum-yum spread since 1890, when its manufacture began, and they couldn't care less about the rule. But the taxpayer cares—about the way his money is spent.

★ ★ ★

He'd prefer the Federal agencies would spread the fiscal sandwich with some economy instead of things like peanut butter investigations.

The New Pill

David Lawrence Says:

HHH Must Win Dems Back

WASHINGTON—Can Humphrey close the gap between himself and Nixon?

It seems clear that the Democratic nominee can build up his strength in the remaining weeks of the campaign only by winning back many of the Democrats who have decided either to vote for Wallace or Nixon or else not go to the polls.

LAWRENCE

While the Democratic party got a massive majority in the presidential race of 1964, it was because a large bloc of Republicans voted for Johnson, and he attracted the independent vote, too. Now, however, all this appears to have crumbled.

★ ★ ★

Most of the Republican vote which went to the Democratic nominee in 1964 has since turned back to Nixon.

It may be inferred that the regular Republicans, plus the independents and dissident Democrats, are sufficient in number today to give Nixon a big edge in the popular as well as the electoral vote.

UNDECIDED VOTE

There are, to be sure, plenty of people who have not finally made up their minds and will come to a decision in the next four weeks.

On the surface, it might seem that voters are merely choosing between three personalities — Humphrey, Nixon and Wallace.

★ ★ ★

The speeches made by each are, of course, given wide attention, but this could be one of those years in which it doesn't make much difference what the candidates have said. Demand for a change could supersede all else.

Humphrey is a part of the Johnson administration and, therefore, inherits blame for many of the grievances of the voters.

CANNOT DO IT

The vice president has been urged to disassociate himself from the administration, but he cannot do this without alienating a lot of Democrats who are loyal to the party and who would stay home on election day if he engaged in such a course.

The truth is that, no matter who might have been chosen as the Democratic nominee, he would nevertheless be up against the problem of how to retain Democratic voters and at the same time convey the idea that his administration would make a fundamental change in public policies, domestic and international.

★ ★ ★

The polls thus far have shown Nixon way ahead, but it sometimes happens that in the last four weeks of a campaign the candidate who seemingly is losing can gain ground.

The most puzzling aspect of the whole campaign today is the effect that the race by Nixon, Humphrey and Wallace is going to have on the election of members of the House and Senate.

Bob Considine Says:

White Man Is Ruining Headhunter - - Expert

NEW YORK — Some of Lewis Cotlow's best friends are headhunters and headshrinkers, and I'm not talking about the Park Avenue psychiatrists he knows.

CONSIDINE

Cotlow, a New York insurance broker who became a world famous authority on primitive man, is fresh back from an extended stay with a Jiberos clan which lives along the Morona River on the border of Ecuador and Peru. He has been in Jibero country before: In fact, his films of those people have been shown all over the world.

★ ★ ★

His latest trip was the beginning of an ambitious year's research for a book he has been commissioned to do for MacMillan to be called "Twilight of Primitive Man."

The rigorous schedule will take him back to the land of the Eskimos, then to the Stone Age aborigines of New Guinea, and then to the pygmies of the Congo.

SEES PARALLEL

He sees a parallel between what is happening to the Jiberos and that which befell the American Indians.

"They are wonderful people, those headhunters," Cotlow said with affection. "But the white man ruins them whenever he intrudes and changes their way of life.

"The white man brings them his diseases. He takes their lands away from them and then forces them to work for him like coolies. He tells them it is sinful and wicked to continue to hunt heads of enemies and ceremonially shrink them, though this has been the discipline of their lives for centuries, probably thousands of years.

Cotlow has never experienced much trouble among these people. They know he never killed one of them or shrank a head. This clan he visited recently—using as his guide a Jibero named Shura who was educated by the Salesian fathers — was delighted when he showed them illustrations from his books.

REENACT RAID

They lent themselves enthusiastically to the film Cotlow shot there, after comprehending that it was to be about a people and a way of life that in time would disappear from the ranks of man. They even reenacted a raid on an "enemy" settlement, the dragging out of the victim's wives and children, the burning of his hut and other grim particulars.

"You mean they cut some guy's head off and shrunk it just for you?" I asked Cotlow.

"No, thank God," he said. "Luckily, they had a spare head around, nicely shrunken, so we used it as a stand-in."

Religious Publications Put to Test

By DAVID POLING

One does not have to travel far in the United States to feel the uneasiness, anger and tension welling up in our society. A political campaign churns some of this but other forces are at work besides the taunts and digs of men seeking office.

Much of this sour mood is caused simply by the collision of one group with another. Students versus administration. Black militants and white police. Antiwar and win-the-war.

★ ★ ★

Then add the flammable concoction of scientific change, religious uncertainty and 200 million people wondering about taxes, lung cancer and Czechoslovakia. Dwell on this enough and a slight feeling of calamity follows the news.

With this in mind, Joe Arnstein, senior vice president of Esquire, traced the program of his magazine on its 35th anniversary:

★ ★ ★

"Our editors feel that there is only one important area of service now, and that is to do whatever is possible to hold our society together."

CROSSCURRENTS

Editors are sensitive to the crosscurrents troubling the American community. Secular publications are staying close to the alarms of the hour.

Said John Johnson, editor of Ebony, to an audience in Chicago: "All signs tell us that we are entering a new mood phase which will shape and guide editorial direction. The confusing groping of the American people constitutes a rare opportunity for magazine editors. It is an opportunity for us to define, clarify and resolve."

★ ★ ★

We should hope that religious publications will assume a great deal of the burden that comes with interpreting the times and giving guidance and understanding to perplexed people.

Some of the most thoughtful articles I have read and some of the most accurate predictions of things to come are found in small monthly magazines.

FRIGHTFULLY HONEST

In the religious field, this means some with only 3,000 readers, no advertisements and no newsstand circulation. They are terribly independent, frightfully honest and generally short-winded. Religion can use all of these qualities and you should consider reading as many of these as possible

On the Catholic side of things, Jubilee ($6 per year, 232 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y.) has sparkle and polish. Its July interview with William Sloan Coffin may be the best in print.

Commonweal ($10 per year, weekly, 232 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y.) is put out by laymen. It discusses topics like parochial education, birth control, priests marrying without any script from Romer. Very quotable.

The Protestant underground is led by Here and Now ($3 per year, 111 W. Monument, Dayton, Ohio). Great commitment to the Christian faith and large worries about the church. Had excellent piece on Martin Luther King and Robert Kennedy. Excellent weathervane on the mood of young clergymen and radical laymen.

Christianity and Crises ($7 per year, bi-weekly, 537 W. 121 St., New York, N.Y.) small circulation but powerful readership. Sen. McCarthy quotes C and C. May be the leading Christian intellectual magazine in the world today. Not found in cathedrals or airplanes.

Worldview ($4 per year, 170 E. 64 St., New York, N.Y.) connects religion and international affairs. No stained glass or chimes. Close to the peace groups. July article on Daniel Berrigan's trip to Hanoi will make you thing.

Reviews Senate Action on Fortas Nomination

After only four days of debate, the Senate on October 1 refused by a vote of 45 to 43 to shut off debate on a motion to take up the nomination of Mr. Fortas as Chief Justice. Observers in some quarters have characterized the vote as a defeat for the majority by a "willful minority." Examination of the Congressional Record (page S. 11688) reveals that the will of the majority was not frustrated.

GRIFFIN

If every Senator who made his position known in the Congressional Record had actually been present and had voted, there would have been 47 votes for the cloture motion and 48 votes (a majority) against the motion. There is no indication in the Record as to how the other five Senators would have voted.

★ ★ ★

Even before discussion on the Fortas nomination began, the debate was characterized in many quarters as a "filibuster." The Senate devoted only four days of debate to this historic issue. Other much longer Senate debates in the past were not characterized as filibusters.

★ ★ ★

I am confident that scholars will look back on October 1, 1968, as a proud day in the history of the Senate — a point of beginning again in establishing and maintaining the kind of checks and balances envisioned by our forefathers.

On talking with the Borden Company, we learned the investigation involved only one batch of powdered milk which caused some suspicion. The products involved have all been approved by the Government and are back on the market.

Question and Answer

A Michigan Civil Rights Commission task force found that in Pontiac "Negro sixth graders tested nearly two years behind grade level in reading." Why? Does the task force know the answer? It does no good to know of a problem unless it can be corrected.

JOSEPH ST. JOHN
4898 MAYCREST

REPLY

The school board made a presentation to the Civil Rights Commission outlining the school situation in Pontiac. So far no report has been sent back from the Commission. The board feels the deficiencies are the result of a complicated combination of causes which the board is working to overcome, consulting as many outside educators as possible. In June a 150-page report was published on Equality of Educational Opportunity by a citizens committee which had studied the problems for 18 months. The board is now having study sessions to see how this report can be implemented. Mr. Lacy at the board office says he will be glad to discuss this with you if you want to call him at 338-9151.

Cure Needed

Bennington (Vt.) Banner

The finding by the Department of Transportation that alcohol figures in half the 50,000 yearly deaths on American highways is arresting and important, but it doesn't make road safety easier to come by.

Getting sober people to drive at reasonable speeds, obey the rules of the road and strap on their seat belts is a simple task compared with barring the lushes from behind the wheel.

Americans set great store by their "right" to drive and their "right" to drink. If pressed, they might champion a right to drink and drive. They won't sit still for infringements upon these ingrained practices.

It is not exactly news that drinking causes crashes, though the report's claim that it is involved in 50 per cent of the fatalities is new. Everyone who has looked into the problem affirms the old truism that alcohol and gasoline don't mix.

★ ★ ★

But keeping drinkers away from the wheel — there's the difficulty. So far, no one has come up with a workable system that does not require more stringent controls than the public is willing to accept at this time.

It would be fairly easy to institute a program of spot breath tests on the highways, mostly in the evening and on weekends, when the drinking is done. It would be easy to station cops outside restaurants and roadhouses, poised to nab departing celebrants perparing to drive off.

★ ★ ★

But people understandably resent such harassment. An energetic attempt to check out every drinking driver this way might ignite a mass uprising that would make Newark look like a covered-dish supper. The obvious solution just is not politically feasible.

So we have halfway measures instead: stiff penalties for people caught driving while under the influence, usually after an accident, but very little in the way of prevention.

★ ★ ★

Some states go about as far as politically permissible with their new "breathalyzer" tests for drivers suspected of inebriation. Results in Britain, which uses breathalyzers, are encouraging.

But highway safety experts still are seeking a system to separate drinking and driving without unduly curtailing the two pleasures. With 25,000 lives yearly at stake, it is a search worth making.

Threats

Nationen (Oslo)

The Soviet Union must stop its traffic in threats before greater damage is done to a detente in Europe. If not, the world will have to draw the conclusion that aggressive forces are on the point of getting the upper hand in the Kremlin, which would result in permanently increased preparedness in Europe.

★ ★ ★

The Potsdam agreement covered the whole of Germany and the idea was to prevent new aggressive threats from German territory. But it is from East Germany, not West Germany, that the threat has materialized.

Marines at Khe Sanh Pay Homage to Victims of Siege

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — The U.S. Marines paid homage today to 3,000 comrades killed or wounded in the 77-day siege of Khe Sanh.

The bearded, hollow-eyed men who held the base early this year might have smiled at this if they could have foreseen the memorial service that finally was held.

★ ★ ★

There were generals, a band, and two honor guards drawn up in neat formations on an aircraft parking ramp that during the siege was constantly pounded by North Vietnamese rockets, mortar and artillery shells. Before the siege was broken in April, a military formation like this one would have been madness.

At the height of the siege, up to 1,500 rounds fell on the small camp in a single day. Men lived and sometimes died in sandbagged bunkers. The camp air was heavy with the smell of unwashed bodies.

'MEANIST MAN'

Capt. John E. Goller, a Navy chaplain from Bonita Springs, Fla., looked across the shell-pocked landscape today as he recited: "Yea, though I walked through the valley of the shadow of death. . ."

A Marine at Khe Sanh during the siege had the same words inscribed on his helmet, but finished the prayer this way: ". . . for I am the meanest man in the Khe Sanh valley."

★ ★ ★

The memorial service was made possible because the Marines once again are in the Khe Sanh valley on a wide-ranging sweep searching for any enemy strong points. The Khe Sanh combat base was abandoned and destroyed in July when the Marines closed down permanent operations in the valley. The decision to close the base was made to give the Marines enough men for mobile warfare instead of being tied down in static defense.

The siege which started in January tied up 5,500 Marines at Khe Sanh and, by the time it was lifted, 300 Americans and South Vietnamese had been killed.

NEVER AGAIN

Senior Marines say now they will never be caught in defensive positions like Khe Sanh again. The far-ranging mobile operations launched following the abandonment of Khe Sanh have proved highly successful and have carried the Marines inside the demilitarized zone and into other areas never before visited by U.S. troops.

As Sgt. Herbert Day of Chattanooga, Tenn., played taps under the fluttering American and Vietnamese flags, only two men here could recall the days of the massive shelling during the siege.

★ ★ ★

Capt. John Gilece of Forest Hills, N.Y., had last seen Khe Sanh from a medical evacuation helicopter after a sniper's bullet smashed into his knee in January.

Maj. Joe Donnelly of Kailua, Hawaii, had been the executive officer of one of the infantry battalions during the siege.

The men of the 26th Marine Regiment who defended Khe Sanh are now operating in other areas in the 1st Corps region, but they no doubt would have approved heartily of this honor guard—men of the 3rd Battalion, 4th Marine Regiment, who had been slashing their way through the jungle for four days and looked it.

★ ★ ★

Some could have used a shave and others had faces blackened with greasepaint for camouflage. Not a few Leathernecks had stripped off their shirts and wore flak jackets festooned with grenades and crosscrossed with ammunition bandoliers.

★ ★ ★

The honor guard was commanded by Lt. Col. Frank Bourne Jr. of Savannah Ga., the battalion commander.

Directors' Head Tells Trends

Elaborate Funerals Dying Out

DETROIT (AP) —Funerals are becoming shorter. Eulogies are not exactly out yet, but they're not "in." Recorded music is being heard at more and more funerals.

William G. Hardy Jr., president of the National Funeral Directors Association, spoke frankly in Detroit on subjects some people refuse to discuss until absolutely necessary and subjects many others only joke about, nervously.

"Embalming is a procedure much like surgery" Hardy said. "It's part of the service we provide and not very mysterious. It has its own implements, techniques and purposes."

Hardy is a fourth-generation funeral director in Detroit for the 87th annual convention of the funeral directors association. He said embalming is something many people seem to associate with black magic.

CRITICIZED RECENTLY

Hardy spoke of his industry which has come in for its share of criticism in recent years.

"A funeral service is very personal and parochial," he said. "Each community and every family is different. Styles change, but the purpose of the funeral remains the same."

★ ★ ★

He says the purpose is twofold: "A funeral gives the family a chance to grieve. That sounds strange, but we know it's necessary to establish the reality of death and experience grief before we can adjust to the loss of someone important to us.

"The funeral helps establish that reality," Hardy continued. "It also fills the need for ceremony, which people always feel at important times in their lives or in the lives of those close to them."

FUNERAL A-GO-GO

He told of one unusual service he conducted at his business in Louisville, Ky.

A go-go dancer in the city died and her family requested, rather insisted, that the funeral home remain open all night "because her people are night people. He went along with the request, but with some reluctance.

★ ★ ★

"By 10 p.m. there had been one or two visitors. At midnight they started arriving and by two or three in the morning the place was full," Hardy said.

The trend to recorded music for funerals is becoming most pronounced in rural areas, Hardy said, where accomplished musicians are hard to find. He says people are becoming more resentful of death. The time between death and burial is shrinking, especially in cities.

"They don't buy the traditional religious comforts," Hardy said. "So they try to avoid the funeral, the appearance of death. It brings home their own mortality." Closed caskets are being used more and more.

Hardy said an average full-service funeral last year cost $931 including vault, casket, clothing, use of cars, and other incidentals. The funeral director, Hardy said, received $56 profit after all expenses....a profit he said is a reasonable return on investment.

Nixon Advice in Flint: Don't Waste Votes

FLINT (AP) — Richard M. Nixon told working men Tuesday that a vote for third-party candidate George Wallace would be futile.

Aware of a marked sentiment in this auto - making city for Wallace, Nixon asked, "do you want to get something off your chests or do you want to get something done?"

★ ★ ★

The Republican presidential candidate spoke to nearly 5,000 persons at the IMA auditorium during a noon rally. But observers said the crowd consisted largely of school pupils.

Many of them quietly walked out during his talk, witnesses said.

BUSES PROVIDED

Nixon aides admitted that shuttle buses were provided for pupils from area schools who wanted to attend the rally.

Aware that two United Auto Workers locals in the area gave the nod to Wallace in unofficial presidential preference polls, Nixon said, "This is the time to realize that either the nominee of the Republican party, Richard Nixon, or the nominee of the other party, Hubert Humphrey, is going to be elected.

★ ★ ★

"And this country can't afford four more years of Humphrey in the White House," he said.

He did not mention Wallace by name. But he asked potential protest voters if they wanted "to make a point or make a change?

'LIKE A DOORMAT'

"The American working man knows we cannot make it easy for criminals and hope to end crime in our streets," Nixon said. "He knows we cannot let other nations treat the American flag like a doormat and hope to establish peace in the world."

Earlier, in talking to reporters at the airport, Nixon said "I think it (Michigan) is going to be Nixon territory in November.

★ ★ ★

"It was close in 1960," Nixon noted. The late President John F. Kennedy carried Michigan in that election.

"This time we think we can make it go the other way," Nixon said.

★ ★ ★

Nixon planned to return for a fourth visit to Michigan Oct. 23 on a railroad whistle - stop tour featuring speeches in Monroe, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Battle Creek and Grand Rapids.

HANDS OUT — Young arms extended to greet Richard M. Nixon when he made a side trip to visit the Michigan School for the Deaf during a campaign stop in Flint yesterday. Nixon's wife, Pat, joined the presidential candidate in greeting the youngsters.

Ex-VP Visits a School for Deaf in State

FLINT (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon stopped off for a brief visit with a group of deaf children Tuesday and told them "Your country needs you."

Standing under an elm tree on the campus of the Michigan State School for the Deaf, Nixon and his wife, Pat, circulated through the children, shaking their hands and touseling their hair.

★ ★ ★

While Robert Millard, dean of students at this school, translated his words into sign language, Nixon told of his own deaf aunt who served as a Quaker missionary in Africa despite her handicap.

'BIG FAMILY'

"I came from a very big family — five boys," Nixon said. "My mother's family was bigger — seven sisters and two brothers.

"Her younger sister, my Aunt Olive, was deaf but she was and is one of the loviest ladies who ever lived.

★ ★ ★

"Aunt Olive, now 72, went on a trip to Africa as a missionary for a year. She's a Quaker, you know."

The children, about 30 or 40 of them ranging in age from about 10 to 18, stood quietly while Nixon talked and applauded him afterwards.

Court Cancels Ballot Reprint

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The Indiana Supreme Court Tuesday issued a formal order which cancels out an Appelate Court directive for reprinting of the Nov. 5 election ballots.

Chief Justice David Lewis, who informally had advised Monday that such action would be taken, said the opinion, or opinions, on the question raised by the Socialist Labor party would be written "soon."

★ ★ ★

Kenneth Kern, attorney for the Socialst Labor party, said a decision is to be made by officials of the party in New York City as to whether to attempt an appeal to a federal court.

★ ★ ★

Kern said he had been prepared to allege that the Indiana election board clerk, Edward Bell, was in contempt of the Friday Appellate Court order to reprint the ballots because he (Kern) learned nothing had been done over the weekend.

Wallace Handles Hecklers With Ease at Boston Rally

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — George C. Wallace has a knack of turning to his own use the heckling that has become a fixture of the 1968 presidential campaign.

"Well, my goodness," said Wallace after a particularly noisy rally on the Boston Common Tuesday, "I ought to know how to handle those folks, I've put up with them for 5½ years."

★ ★ ★

Between paragraphs in his speech, Wallace, aided by powerful sound equipment, exchanged taunts with a chanting group of dissenters interspersed among the largest crowd he has drawn so far in his campaign.

"Why don't you hire the hall tomorrow and see how many folks you can get here?" jibed Wallace early in his speech, obviously pleased with the vast sea of faces spread before him.

POLICE ESTIMATES

Police estimates of the crowd ranged as high as 20,000, but in the imprecise art of guessing crowd sizes, other opinions went from 40,000 to Wallace's own judgment of 75,000.

The hecklers were in no way violent, but did distract Wallace with their cries of "Go home!" and "Peace now!" Their signs and placards were typical of those in Wallace's crowds.

★ ★ ★

The majority of the crowd did not react vocally to Wallace's pledges to end the busing of schoolchildren, repeal the open-housing law, restore law and order to the streets and conclude the Vietnam war militarily.

Of those who responded emotionally, about half seemed to be for Wallace and half against.

'SICK AND TIRED'

To those who were against, Wallace said: "You're the sort of people the folks of this country are sick and tired of."

After the rally, he said in an interview: "They don't hurt me, they help me. When the public sees them in action the public is on my side."

Wallace appeared in Boston after speeches at an airport and an aircraft engine plant in Stratford, Conn., and a visit in Boston Harbor aboard the historic frigate, USS Constitution.

Wallace posed at the wheel of the old, three-masted warship and said: "We're going to steer the Constitution right."

Pentagon Friends Provide Data on Viet, Says LeMay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay says he keeps abreast of developments in Vietnam "through friends in the Pentagon who give me defense information."

The retired Air Force general did not elaborate on the statement as he met newsmen Tuesday. He told them that one reason he joined George C. Wallace on the third-party ticket was that Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon planned to stack his cabinet with left-wingers if elected.

★ ★ ★

He said he had seen press reports of the proposed Republican cabinet "in which every left-wing member of the Republican party was listed."

LeMay meets with his campaign advisers today before a speaking trip to Florida. He scheduled a news conference Thursday at Orlando, Fla., and Friday at Raleigh, N. C.

Blasts Nixon Proposals

HHH Talks on Crime

BOSTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey today attacked Richard M. Nixon's anticrime recommendations calling for nationwide town hall conferences as sounding "like either a call for the vigilantes or for more talk about crime."

★ ★ ★

America doesn't need either one," the Democratic presidential nominee said. "The time for talking is over—we need action."

★ ★ ★

The vice president turned to the crime issue in a speech prepared for the National Association of Retail Druggists, charging that both Nixon and third-party nominee George C. Wallace have done more talking about crime than proposing solutions.

★ ★ ★

Humphrey said that Nixon "forgets in his statement to talk about the additional resources urgently needed by state and local police," adding that "in present circumstances, these additional resources must come from the federal government."

SUBJECT OF ADDRESS

Humphrey plans to make the law-and-order issue the subject of his second nationally televised address of the campaign on Saturday night.

He said that if, as seems likely, the present Congress fails to pass legislation to require registration and licensing of firearms, "the next Congress must do so.

★ ★ ★

"But where does Mr. Nixon stand on this important question?" he asked. "He says he has spoken out on 167 major issues. Gun control is evidently not among them."

Earlier, the vice president flew to the central New York Democratic stronghold of Utica, where more than 6,000 people inside the Memorial Auditorium, and another 3,000 outside, heard him say that the nation's problems can only be solved by the "liberal Democratic faith" that sustained Presidents Harry S. Truman, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

On the return flight to Washington, Humphrey aides supplied reporters with the latest Sindlinger poll, showing that Nixon's lead over Humphrey has dropped from nine per cent to 3.9 per cent in the past two weeks.

A survey shows that women outnumbered men 4 to 1 among Japanese who are at least 100 years old.

Muskie Lashes the Policies of Third-Party Foe

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, campaigning in Florida, has condemned the policies of third-party presidential candidate George C. Wallace.

★ ★ ★

The Democratic vice presidential nominee said Tuesday that Wallace's philosophy is "an illusion which runs counter to all decent instincts."

★ ★ ★

It "would make the policeman a member of an occupation force among a hostile people," Muskie said.

★ ★ ★

Muskie campaigns today in Philadelphia with two rallies, two speeches, a television interview and a ground-breaking.

Use Rights Act for Protesters, Clark Is Asked

DETROIT (UPI) — Twenty-three law professors from two major Michigan universities have urged Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark to invoke the Civil Rights Act in future confrontations between police and demonstrators, such as those during the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

The professors from the University of Michigan and Wayne State University told Clark in a Sept. 26 letter, "If it becomes apparent to the attorney general's office that local authorities cannot or will not enforce the laws, we urge that resort be made to the Civil Rights Act calling for federal enforcement of the civil rights of all citizens."

Clark has assigned the Federal Bureau of Investigation to look into the confrontations, which resulted in mass arrests and injuries to many demonstrators and several policemen.

Michael S. Josephson, an assistant professor of law at Wayne State, circulated the petition. It was signed by about one-half of the WSU's law faculty, and five members of U.M.'s 60-man law faculty.

The letter said, "We think the pictorial and testimonial evidence made available to the American people by television, radio and newspapers is persuasive that some of the conduct of law enforcement officials in Chicago was reprehensible. We also think that a full-scale investigation to determine the nature and scope of the possible provocation is required before final judgment can be made."

Detroit Sued in Riot Case

DETROIT (AP)—A New York insurance company has charged negligence on the part of Detroit Mayor Cavanagh and former Police Commissioner Ray Girardin during the 1967 riot. The firm seeks to recover $1.8 million it says it paid in riot-caused claims.

Wayne County Circuit Judge James Canham has ordered Alfred Sawaya, assistant corporation council, to determine if Cavanagh and Girardin, along with the City of Detroit, are liable for damages totaling $1.8 million at 52 places of business damaged during the Detroit riot.

Louis Rosenzweig, attorney for the Home Insurance Corp., contends there is no governmental immunity for individuals and that during the riots "police were ordered not to shoot looters."

The suit claims the order resulted in policemen "ignoring looters and not even attempting to arrest them" in many instances.

In all, there are more than 70 cases for damages against the City of Detroit totaling nearly $9 million.

Junior Miss Briefing Near in Waterford

The Waterford Junior Miss Pageant Committee is holding sessions tomorrow and Tuesday for senior girls interested in learning about the pageant.

The girls and their parents are invited to attend either the 7:30 p.m. session tomorrow at Waterford Township High School or the 7 p.m. meeting Tuesday at Waterford Kettering High School.

Any senior girl who attends a Waterford high school and will be between the ages of 16 and 19 on May 15, 1969, may enter the Nov. 30 pageant.

Girls are judged on the basis of poise and appearance, scholastic ability, fitness, personal interviews with thee judges, and creative and performing abilities.

The winner of the Waterford pageant next month will receive $250 worth of scholarships and other prizes.

BELAUNDE 'ESCORTED' — Ousted Peruvian President Fernando Belaunde Terry (center) was taken away by police at the airport in Buenos Aires last night. Israel Tells 9-Point Peace Program

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Israel, in what it calls a nine-point blueprint for peace, has expressed willingness to negotiate immediately on permanent boundaries with the Arab states, but indicates it will not withdraw forces from occupied territories until a permanent peace is secured.

★ ★ ★

In a major foreign policy address before the U.N. General Assembly Tuesday, Foreign Minister Abba Eban renewed Israel's demand for a "just and lasting peace, duly negotiated and contractually expressed."

★ ★ ★

Cairo radio said the Israeli program was no more than a repetition of previously stated Israel views on a Mideast settlement. Syria's Damascus radio said the plan "reaffirms Zionist expansionist intentions."

The central point in Eban's speech, Israeli sources said, was a call "to replace cease-fire lines by permanent, secure and recognized boundaries" and "to carry out the disposition of forces in full accord with the boundaries agreed under the final peace."

ARAB CONDITIONS

Arab nations, backed by the Soviet Union, have insisted Israel relinquish Arab territory won during the June 1967 Middle East war as a first condition for peace talks.

Eban made clear Israel's intention is to keep the Old City of Jerusalem, but expressed readiness to discuss the status of Christian and Moslem holy places with those "traditionally concerned." This, too, was expected to draw strenuous Arab dissent.

★ ★ ★

But in a new gesture, the Israeli foreign minister proposed an international conference of Middle East countries to develop a five-year plan for solving of the Palestine refugee problem. He said the conference could be called in advance of peace talks.

Eban also made these points in his peace blueprint:

- Israel and the Arabs should sign a pledge of mutual nonaggression.
- Israeli and Jordanian citizens should be allowed freedom of movement across the two countries' borders. Israel would be willing to afford Jordan free port facilities on the Mediterranean coast.

★ ★ ★

- Israel should have unreserved rights to use the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

★ ★ ★

As an interim measure and because of the approaching winter, the Israeli government has decided to make it easier for refugees who fled to the east bank of Jordan River during last year's war to be reunited with their families in Israeli-occupied territory.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, everyday, clashes between Israel and Jordan continued. Jordanians hurled six mortar rounds at an Israeli potash plant near the Dead Sea early today, an Israeli army spokesman said. All fell short of their target, and no damage or casualties were reported, the spokesman said.

Detroit Pensions Overpaid

DETROIT (UPI) — A campaign by police and firemen against a proposed change in the retirement system was severly jolted Tuesday when it was revealed the retirees may have been getting more pension than they are entitled to.

City Controller Bernard Klein said through an "honest mistake" the pension board, since 1942, has been giving retirees an annual pension amounting to half their last working year's salary instead of averaging the last five years' salary.

Under the error, Klein said, a patrolman or fireman retiring in 1968 would receive a pension of $5,150 a year instead of $4,131. He said he was studying whether the city should seek repayment of any retirement funds.

The fire fighters and police have been campaigning against a charter amendment that will be on the Nov. 5 ballot and if passed, Klein said, would apply the same pension computations as those that have been used for the last 26 years.

Suspect Held in Knifings of State Couple

HASTINGS (AP) — David Dodd, 33, whose last known address was Adrian, was held today for questioning in connection with the knifings Tuesday night of a Barry County couple in the bedroom of their home about five miles northwest of Hastings.

★ ★ ★

Dodd was held at the Eaton County Jail. The victims, Mr. and Mrs. Greydon Wood, were reported in fair condition at Hasting's Pennock Hospital.

★ ★ ★

Barry County Deputy Sheriff Maynard Sutton said the Woods escaped from their home following the knifings and drove to the sheriff's department where they asked for help to reenter the home and rescue their two sons, 2 and 4, still in the house.

★ ★ ★

Sutton said the Woods were taken to a hospital by ambulance while officers went to the home. Dodd was apprehended at the rear of the home, Sutton said. The children, sleeping in an adjoining upstairs bedroom at the time of the knifings, were unharmed.

★ ★ ★

Sutton said deputies have been unable to establish a motive for the knifings and have been unable to question the Woods.

Jobless Must Get Work AND Training—Expert

DETROIT (AP) — Merely providing jobs to the hard-core unemployed without making sure that they have opportunities for training, coaching and advancement will result in increased job dropouts, an authority in job training said Tuesday.

"We have a great penchant these days for assuming that jobs are the answer to riots and rebellions," said Dr. Frank Riessman, "We do this despite the fact that the evidence overwhelmingly is to the contrary."

Reissman, director of the New Careers Training Laboratory an psychiatrist at New York's Albert Einstein College of Medicine spoke before a Michigan Society for Mental Health symposium on adapting ghetto youth to industry.

He said that in some industries the turnover rate for such workers is about half-again higher than for old-line employes.

Without a new approach to help the worker hold his job, said Riessman, "The unemployables will be recruited and employed at least three times every year and we will have beautiful inflated figures embroidered by much publicity and self-praise, but with little effect on the poor and their alienation and anger."

The answer, he said, is a concept worked out in his job training laboratory.

Part of the solution, said Riessman, is to provide financial incentives to supervisors when they succeed in keeping the turnover rate low.

Wife's Work Never Done

Ask Husband for Help—Slowly

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Ron and I have been married for four years. We have three small children, and I think I'm pregnant again.

Ron expects me to wash his hair, manicure his nails (fingers and toes), pick up his dirty clothes, keep the car washed and in running order, and no matter how tired I am, I have to stay up until he's ready to go to bed.

ABBY

He also expects me to get up before he does so his breakfast will be on the table as soon as he opens his eyes.

I loved him when I married him, but I'm not so sure any more. I think you have the picture. What I want to know is, how do you get a man who expects so much to settle for less?

"HAD IT" IN CHICAGO

DEAR HAD IT: Don't throw the whole book at him at once. Let him have it a page at a time. Start by telling Ron he's expecting too much. And for a wife who's not "sure" of her "love," you're expecting too often.

DEAR ABBY: My 16-year-old daughter has lots of cute young girl friends who come to our house often. I don't mind that, in fact I enjoy having them, but my husband enjoys it too much.

He puts the records on, and asks them to dance. He is overly familiar with them, squeezing them, hugging them, and even trying to kiss them. He tries to get them to sit on his lap, and in general he makes an old fool out of himself.

Not wanting to hurt his feelings, they go along with it, but I can see how pained they are when he tries to pull one of them down on his lap.

Should I tell these girls to discourage him? Or should I tell this old jackass to act his age?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Why not cover all the bases, and do both?

DEAR ABBY: My problem isn't a big one but it irritates me no end. After 12 years of marriage, my husband and I adopted a beautiful four-month-old baby. Every time we tell someone he is adopted, they say, "Oh, he's so sweet. How could his mother give him away?"

Abby, I'm so tired of hearing this I could scream! What can we say? Sign me . . .

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: No really intelligent person would ever ask such a stupid question, and stupid questions do not deserve to be answered. But if you must say something, say "His mother gave him away because she loved him as much as we do."

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Ahah. I knew if I followed your column long enough I would eventually catch you in a mistake.

You said, "No man ever proposed to a woman when his feet hurt."

Well, I did. On Christmas Eve, 1935. I donned new clothes from head to foot for my date with Kathleen. My feet were killing me when I asked her to marry me. When she said yes, although I was walking on air, my feet still hurt.

Now, 32 years and three grandsons later, the first thing I do when I come home at night is to take off my shoes.

So, Abby, if you would like to correct the record and print this, go ahead. And I won't object if you use my real name.

STAN MORRIS, VAN NUYS, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a mail order house and would you believe that about 20 per cent of the people who place an order, send us cash, but they forget to send their names and addresses?

We have no idea who they are or where they live. We could just cry. All we can do is wait until they write again, complaining that they have not received their order, then we can fill it.

Please print this. It may help.

DISTRESSED IN DECATUR

★ ★ ★

DEAR DISTRESSED: Move over. I, too, am distressed when a desperate reader writes with an urgent and serious problem, but neglects to send his name or address. Freud said, "There are no accidents." I wonder.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I just read that letter from the fellow who finally told his wife that he never cared for raspberry pie after she'd been serving it to him for 28 years.

It sure took him a long time to get enough crust to raise a little hull. Why didn't he tell her the first time she served it to him that her dessert was a crummy failure?

★ ★ ★

Until recently I had the same problem. My wife served me chilled, canned applesauce when we were first married. I remarked that I didn't like cold applesauce, so from then on she would warm it up first.

Well, to get to the core of the problem, I didn't like warm applesauce either, so I can sure sympathize with the guy who got the raspberries for 28 years.

Guarneri Quartet Becomes Trio; Delivers Lively Performance

By BERNICE ROSENTHAL

Cranbrook Music Guild presented the first in a series of five concerts last night at Kingswood Auditorium. The Guarneri String Quartet, which turned out to be the Guarneri String Trio, due to injuries to one of its artists, played a lively program of chamber works by Beethoven, Dohnanyi and Mozart.

Trio playing is an exacting and demanding art. The ensemble must be perfectly matched in tone, timing, dynamics, intonation, technique and temperament, in order to be smooth and effective. When that is achieved, the result is a truly rewarding experience in the rarified upper air of intellectual music.

The trio consisted of John Dalley, violinist; Michael Tree, violist, and David Soyer, 'cellist. The sound they produced was strong, vibrant and virile, with a comfortable feeling of togetherness, which was sure and direct. Their technical facility was unlabored and flowing.

The only defect that marred their otherwise flawless playing was a harshness and occasional lapse from pitch on the part of the violin. In spite of this, the Beethoven Trio was beautifully treated, its changing moods well delineated, with the rollicking good humor of the last movement especially delightful.

DELIGHTFUL CONTRAST

Dohnanyi's "Serenade for String Trio" was the highlight of the evening. The semi-modern, semi-romantic, free spirit of the composer was in strict contrast with the more classical Beethoven style. Its march was light, yet intricate and humorously pompous. The romanza, a charming viola solo, displayed Tree's mellow viola tone to fine advantage. The scherzo which followed was fast, furious and busy.

The parallel runs which the instruments played simultaneously, were beautifully precise, yet carefree. A theme and variations comprised the fourth movement, a fine example of Dohnanyi's crisp, direct idiom. The final rondo was forceful and sardonic.

★ ★ ★

With Mozart's "Divertimento in E Flat Major for String Trio," the group was not quite as successful. The tone was too heavy for Mozart and a lack of clarity and definitive melodic line marred an otherwise fine performance. The second concert of the series, on December 3, will feature James Dick, vocalist, and will take place at Cranbrook House.

The PAUF campaign will run through Nov. 8, and has a goal this year of $1,130,000.

A Good Start Is Important When Moving

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Fall is moving time for thousands of Americans. Even though you are not being uprooted yourself, you may find newcomers moving into your neighborhood. The ins and outs of becoming acquainted are important to old and new residents alike. You should be able to spot eight errors in the following story by either the newcomers or their neighbors.

★ ★ ★

Joan and Jack moved into their new home on a Saturday. By that evening they had their barrels unpacked and Jack disposed of the excelsior by piling it in the road and burning it. When the fire died down, Joan started to prepare supper and found she had no salt, so she ran next door to borrow some. Helen, the neighbor, was just on her way out, but told Joan she would find salt on the back of the stove.

★ ★ ★

The next morning Joan and Jack were up early. They intended to work on their new garden, but found their youngsters, Billy, 2, and Cathy, 4, continually underfoot. Joan said, "Cathy, take Billy and go play in the sandbox next door." Jack, seeing that leaves and grass clippings had blown over onto his lot, raked them up and threw them back on the property next door. While they were working, the neighbor's cat wandered over, and Joan promptly gave it some milk.

★ ★ ★

Later, some of the other families came out to relax or work in their yards. Joan, thinking the couple to their left particularly attractive, asked them to dinner that night. They refused, but Joan felt she had made a friendly move.

★ ★ ★

Several days later, Joan was washing windows when Helen dropped in unannounced. Joan offered her a cup of coffee. They chatted for a few minutes and Helen asked Joan to join the neighborhood Mother's Club. Joan accepted at once, and that night she and Jack decided they had made their move most successfully.

★ ★ ★

Their mistakes, mostly not of a serious nature, were:

● Burning packing is dangerous, if not illegal.

● Joan should not have borrowed from someone she had not met.

● She should not have sent her children to her neighbor's sandbox without permission.

● Throwing clippings—even his own—on a neighbor's lawn is not the way to make friends!

● People resent others who feed their animals, causing them to wander away from home.

● Joan should have let the older residents invite her to a meal first.

● Helen should have called first to let Joan prepare for her visit.

● Joan should have waited a bit before joining any group. Once in, it may be hard to get out.

War on Crime Is Topic

The Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service will be exploring "What You Can Do About Crime" on Tuesday, 9:30 a.m.-12:00 at the Pontiac Mall Community Room.

MRS. BEEBE

* * *

All Extension members and the general public are invited to come and hear Michigan's only woman senator, Mrs. N. Lorraine Beebe from Dearborn. Mrs. Beebe explains how every woman and her organization can wage war against crime. "You CAN do something about it," she insists.

Mrs. Beebe is a graduate of Western Michigan University, earned an MA degree from the University of Michigan and is now a Ph.D candidate at Wayne State University.

* * *

She is a mother of a Yale University Divinity student and her daughter attends Dearborn High School.

For further information, contact the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service on North Saginaw Street.

Help Needed to Transport

Volunteer work need not be specialized or complicated. One of the very worthwhile services performed by volunteers in our community is driving the blind, the handicapped, elderly people, or children to appointments with doctors or social welfare agencies.

* * *

Most adults take for granted their ability to hop in a car and go wherever they need to go. But to a person who cannot drive, the opportunities offered by health and welfare agencies may be severly limited.

Driving these people is an easy way to spend your time in a worthwhile manner. Drivers are needed now by the Oakland County Volunteer Bureau, located in Birmingham.

Pontiac Clubs Tell Plans for New Season

Future activities of the Pilot Club of Pontiac, Inc. were discussed at the recent meeting of the group in the Holiday Inn and included a Halloween party for shut-ins at Seminole Hills Nursing Home; a fair slated Oct. 19 at the Oakland County Market to raise funds for service work at Children's Village and the Nursing Home; and a membership tea Oct. 26 in home of Mrs. Joseph Ferris which will be attended by District 15 officers.

* * *

District Governor, Mrs. Clifford Lighthart of Muncie, Ind., made her official visit to the Club and held a Council meeting for all members following the general meeting.

SIGMA BETA

Delegates to the National Convention of Sigma Beta Sorority from Psi chapter will be Mrs. James DeFlorio and Mrs. Michael Clever.

Mesdames Ezio Bisogni and James Chartier were named as alternates at the chapter meeting held Thursday in the Lake Oakland Shores home of Mrs. Carmen Tosto. Mrs. Bisogni served as cohostses.

* * *

The chapter's candidate for national office, Mrs. Morgan Siple, treasurer, will be introduced to the convention at a hospitality hour in the Knickerbocker Hotel, hosted by Mrs. Robert Lenz. The convention will take place Oct. 18-20.

New members Mrs. John Keller and Mrs. Freeman Stalions will be formally initiated Sunday in the Lake Angelus home of Mrs. Siple.

In the last five years the American toy industry has grown about 54 per cent, as compared to the 43 per cent growth of the gross national product.

Try a Humidifier

DEAR POLLY—The reader who is having trouble with her Mexican furniture will find that a home humidifier is a boon in such a case and will make her home more healthy. All objects made in the tropics or semitropics tend to dry out when brought to more temperate zones. I have actually seen some pieces fall apart.—MRS. D. M.

DEAR GIRLS—An importer of Mexican furniture advised me that one should first find out the sort of finish put on the furniture. Some are finished like American pieces and others have a typical Mexican treatment with a combination of gasoline, roofing tar and floor wax. If the latter treatment has been used, continue to use heavy floor wax.

American finish is treated as such. Take the piece—a drawer will do—to a good cabinet maker for information as to the type finish on your furniture.—POLLY

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY—We have a terrible red ant pile in our back yard and NOTHING seems to work on it. Can someone help us? — MRS. K. V.

DEAR POLLY—I have found still another use for nylon net. I doubled a piece, placed it in my colander and used it to strain fruit for jelly. This worked very well and rinsed out immediately and easily.

It also seemed more durable than cheese cloth or other loosely woven material. I am indeed grateful for the column.—EVELYN

* * *

DEAR POLLY—I work in my yard quite a bit and hate the problem of dirty and red knees and dirty spots on my slacks. I took a pair of my husband's old cotton socks and cut off the bottoms up to the heels.

I took another pair of cotton ones, doubled them, then sewed inside of the others to make protective pads for my knees. I now wear these to garden in shorts or a house dress. They also are good to wear when waxing floors. I still have dirty knees in my slacks but otherwise the problem is solved. Sure are softer to kneel on than the dirt or a hard floor.—JEANNE

Change Noted With Female Investments

By JOAN SWEENEY

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Women as stock investors have been accused of basing their decision to buy and sell on emotions instead of facts to a far greater extent than their male counterparts do.

Not true, says Shirley Chilton, an attractive, auburn - haired vice president of the brokerage house of Hayden Stone Inc. but she adds, "not everyone feels the same way I do."

* * *

She said that during the 1962 market skid, for instance, male brokers said many of their women customers panicked and rushed to sell but this was not true of her own women customers.

WOMEN CUSTOMERS

Mrs. Chilton, who served for a time as director of Hayden Stone's Women Investors Division, said she could not understand why her experience had been different until recently when some male brokers said they might sell securities differently to their women customers.

They said that perhaps they would appeal more to what a woman feels and to her desire for security rather than to present a stock merely as a long term investment. They also said they would spend more time listening to their women customers.

* * *

Mrs. Chilton, who in 1966 became the first woman ever appointed a vice president of a major brokerage firm, said women have been part of a "great transition in the last 10 years" in the securities industry.

"Women particularly are interested in becoming knowledgeable about investing," she said. "Men, too, are anxious to have their wives become knowledgeable because they work awfully hard for their assets, and they would like to see them cared for if something should happen to them."

ATTENDING SCHOOL

However, she would like to see this education come at an earlier age—in grade school. So strongly does she feel about educating children, she is now going to school nights to earn a master's degree and a teaching credential.

How does she manage to juggle a demanding job, a home, a husband, three sons, college classes and still find time to indulge in such hobbies as tennis and oil paintings? "I have a very cooperative and understanding family and a high metabolism rate," she said.

* * *

She herself could be considered part of the "great transition" she talks of in the securities industry. She admits her appointment as vice president "shook up some people."

She majored in math and sociology at the University of Washington.

The nation's footwear manufacturers are expected to ship 615 million pairs of shoes and slippers this year, the Department of Commerce estimates.

James Peacocks Exchange Vows in Washington

Mr. and Mrs. George Rivar of Washington announce the recent wedding of their daughter, Sherry, to Cpl. James Peacock, USMC, son of the Ralph Peacocks of Leonard.

First Baptist Church of Washington was the setting for the double ring exchange assisted by Nancy Ziolkowski, maid of honor, and the bridegroom's brother, as best man.

Carrying a bouquet of whtie orchids atop a white Bible, the bride was gowned in a day length waffle lace Empire gown with long fitted sleeves. A tiara secured her velling.

Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents, the couple departed for a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

The following is part of a letter from a reader:

I am writing this letter to you with crossed fingers, hoping that you can help me. I have a figure defect, flabby arms. Please don't laugh! I am very self-conscious about this, and I refuse to go out of the house in anything sleeveless. I am abut 10 pounds overweight and am on one of your fabulous diets.

I am a working woman and have to leave the house before 6 a.m. and I don't get home from work until 4:30 p.m. Then I have a family and house to care for. So I really do not have time for a lot of exercise.

* * *

I have recently been hearing a lot about women using weights to work with. They say it does wonders for the arms and bust. Is this true? I wish you would print this letter and devote a column to the subject of flabby arms. I am sure that I am not alone with this problem.

FAITHFUL READER

The flabby upper arm and the flabby inner thightline are two of the most difficult figure defects to combat. They are also two that every woman will probably acquire, to a certain degree, as the years pass. Specialized exercise is the one way to beat them.

The use of weights does increase the effectiveness of exercises for firming the muscles of the arms and chest and thighs. Isometric exercises are also excellent for toning. They have the great advantage of taking only a few seconds a day, and the results are rapid.

An isometric exercise is simply the contraction of a muscle or a group of muscles against an immovable object or against each other.

This is how you do it. Hold the contraction for six seconds when the tension in the muscle is greatest or close to maximum.

Here are two isometric exercises for the upper arms. Stand tall. Make a loop 2½ to 3 feet long out of a strong cord or rope. Hold the loop up in front of you, with elbows slightly bent, palms facing.

Now try to separate your arms more widely, or move them outward, while still holding onto the rope. At the point of greatest tension hold for 6 seconds.

* * *

The following is a very easy and effective exercise for preventing or correcting the flabby upper arm. You can do it before getting up in the morning. Lie on your back with your arms resting on the bed at your sides. Spread your fingers and bend them slightly. Now push down on the mattress with your fingers as though you were going to push them through the mattress. Hold for six seconds at point of highest tension.

* * *

You can change your MEASUREMENTS with isometric exercises and spend only a few seconds a day doing it. If you would like to have my booklet of isometric exercises which were chosen especially for you, send 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Thought I'd give you a little tip that I have learned from experience. As your little girls grow from 14 to 16 years of age, it is almost unheard of to have to change the length of their skirts. Each year the fashions for teens become a little shorter, so you have eliminated the necessity for changing the hems as they grow taller.

However, they usually do develop in the bust area, and their jumpers and dresses are too tight. Don't discard them. Simply cut the center front of the garment, spread it the correct distance for ease and sew each side of the cut area evenly onto a firm piece of fabric.

★ ★ ★

With all of the attractive striped, woven, and braided ribbons available, you can design your own creation by adding trimming and plan a decorative panel down the center front. You will be surprised in many instances to have a more attractive garment than the original.

Visit the trimming sections of your favorite shop. You'll probably gets lots of good ideas for changing last year's dress to this year's sensation!

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I am trying to renovate an old dress by adding the lovely new beaded trimming to the neckline. I purchased some that was fairly expensive and now that I have it, I can't seem to get it to curve around the neckline. I'm just sick about it and wonder why the sales girl didn't tell me that it couldn't be used. Can I use it in another way?

Mrs. B. K.

Dear Mrs. B. K.:

Your experience is unfortunate and has happened to many women according to my letters from readers. Too often the sales girls in fabric shops have no experience in sewing and don't realize how important a little knowledge on the subject would be.

There are two kinds of beaded trimmings. One kind is very rigid and will not bend. This can be used to outline the hem of a dress, the edge of sleeves, cover pocket detail, or simply add to the seams of a dress.

The other kind is applied to a woven braid and can be eased in to fit a curved neckline or any curve.

My advice to you would be to add it in one of the places I have mentioned, or to make a small stand-up collar (mandarin type) and add the trimming to this

A little tip for the woven braid beaded trimmings, always place it around the neckline smoothly, working with the edge of the trim that is farthest away from the neckline. Never pull or stretch this edge. Then you will know exactly how much you will have to ease in the edge closest to the neckline.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Lee Foster, San Diego, Calif., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

"This little sewing tip has saved me lots of time through the years so I thought I would send it along and perhaps your readers will enjoy it. I keep a small swatch of cloth, double thickness, about 2 inches square on my sewing machine. When completing a seam, I sew off on the swatch of fabric and clip the thread from my material. When ready to start a new seam, I only have to start sewing off the swatch of fabric and onto the garment, again clipping the thread.

"The swatch can be used over and over again and can be easily replaced. This has kept me from snipping lots of threads and having to pick them up. Also I never have to worry about the thread from the needle or bobbin since they are never cut loose until I need to change thread. This alone helps keep one's temper under control!"

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I wish to make a sport coat out of the new corduroy and have seen a very attractive one at a store that was trimmed in leather. If I do this, which really makes it look expensive, how can I wash my coat?

Mrs. R. R. T.

Dear Mrs. R. R. T.:

If you want to wash any garment, you must use lining, interfacing and trim that can be washed without damaging your garment. The coats you are speaking about (which incidentally cost over $55) have been trimmed in the new washable vinyl leather. If you can't purchase it in strips, you can purchase a very small amount and cut it into strips yourself.

Soap in your sewing basket? It's not as crazy as it sounds. The National Cotton Council says that soap rubbed over the end of cotton thread will make the needle easier to thread.

College-Bound Students Need Allowance

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

As parents of a college-bound daughter, we (as well as many other parents) wonder how our daughter can make a healthy transition from her present coke and potato chip allowance to the first-year college campus type. For weeks now she's been shopping for clothes.

MARY FEELEY

The look in her eyes tells us she dreams of being Queen of the Campus. The way she is spending our money, she thinks we have a Paul Getty checkbook. We lie awake nights wondering how she can still keep her dream without giving us a financial nightmare. Any suggestions?

Mrs. C. A. B.
Fredericksburg, Va.

Dear Mrs. B.: She'll soon find out that clothes don't make the Queen. But I realize you don't want to go broke in the process. Maybe the solution can be found in how one family handled the college allowance problem.

They opened up a bank account in the student son's name to cover more than enough money for all the first month's expenses. The son was made to understand he would have to account for how the money was spent. Small notebooks were supplied in which each day's expenses were entered. At the end of the month the notebook was mailed back to the parents. It was emphasized: "No record book, no money."

Upon receipt of this systematic accounting, the parents promptly mailed a check to cover the amount. However, in your case, knowing your daughter's easy-spending habits, maybe you'd better make it clear that you will analyze the first month's expense items, and if she goes overboard, you'll have to agree on a top limit for the future. After all, neither of you knows now just what she will need.

This kind of daily record keeping puts your daughter on her honor, provides a feeling of independence, and serves as an important part of her education. It may be the best way to teach a home course in thrift.

Dear Mary Feeley: I am a widow and have never handled any finances before. Now I needs some figures to go by, so I can have some idea what the family groceries should cost. We are:

Daughter, age 33; son, 22; boy 12; girl 11; myself, 59.

M.E.H., Birmingham, Ala.

Dear Mrs. H: National averages show that a family of five, with ages and sexes you mention, spend about $37 a week for food on a moderate standard of living. These figures apply especially to the southern area of the country, says the Department of Agriculture, where food costs are somewhat less expensive than in other sections.

★ ★ ★

To break down that total per week; young man 22, $8.70; boy 12, $7.60; girl 11, $7.50; woman 59, $7.50. While that adds up to $39 a week, you should deduct 5 per cent when there are as many as five in the family in order to get a more realistic figure. The more members, the less cost per person.

(To get Mary Feeley's booklet, "Financial Building Blocks," send a stamped, self-addressed, long envelope in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

The long and the short of it belongs in your wig boutique because one hair style is not enough for today's fashionable beauty. There's nothing like using two or more hairpieces for a quick switch in coiffure and now a girl can change her hairdo with her mood. The layered look can start the day with the razor boy cut (a wig) . . . (right) and end it in an aura of pure romance by adding a fall and perky ribbon. Hairpieces need grooming to keep their fresh, natural look and one company has a trio of aids to do it at home. There's a spray-on cleaner that only needs brushing to restore loveliness. The sheen, when sprayed on adds lustre that makes it gleam and the clear, non-flake spray puts the finishing touch to your hairdo.

Bad Habits Can Kill Us

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE G-582: Damon T., aged 37, is a smoker.

DR. CRANE

"Dr. Crane," he began, "my blood pressure is 175/90, so my family physician says I should quit tobacco.

"But I have tried to do it several times in the past, yet always failed.

"My wife also has a fault, for she is 30 pounds too heavy. So I have dared her to diet while I try to stop my cigarettes.

"But she says it is harder to diet than to quit smoking. Is that true?"

Bad habits, such as smoking, alcoholism and over-eating, are really fifth columnists that stab us in the back!

They are saboteurs who shorten our life span, reduce our romantic verve, and often injure our loved ones, too.

For example, the alcoholic often humiliates his children socially and may even beat them during drunken sprees.

Meanwhile, he jeopardizes their lives when he is driving, even though he has had only a couple of beers.

★ ★ ★

For even one beer will slow down your reaction time, thus adding to our terrific automobile highway death rate.

In about 50 per cent of auto fatalities, one or both of the drivers have been drinking.

And they aren't dead drunk!

For the drunks weave around till other drivers are on guard.

It is just the moderate drinking driver (ostensibly sober), who produces 50 per cent of auto fatalities!

The smoker, too, injures his family by dying five years early and thus depriving them of five year's extra earnings!

At medical and dental meetings I have thus showed those doctors the actual cash cost of the cigarette habit.

Smokers burn up $7,500 on the ends of their cigarettes by the time they die at age 65, whereas non-smokers live to 70.

But their earnings average at least $10,000 per year, so the cigarettes reduce their income by $50,000, in addition to the $7,500 spent on tobacco.

But surveys also show that doctors lose many patients who don't relish inhaling the second-hand tobacco halitosis of smoking doctors.

This loss in patients probably amounts to another $50,000 at a minimum.

★ ★ ★

But the definite, documented financial loss to a smoking doctor is at least $57,500.

Obesity, too, shortens life, predisposes to cancer, diabetes, arthritis, foot troubles, backache, etc.

But it is actually harder to diet than to stop the liquor and tobacco habits. Why?

★ ★ ★

Because the dieters can't cut out all food intake but must taper off. The smoker or drinker can quit entirely, and we have found that it is easier to stop a bad habit all at once than to taper off.

MRS. C. W. WAGNER

Sister Attends Valli Smartt for Nuptials

Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church was the setting Saturday for vows exchanged by Valli Lynette Smartt and Pfc. Chris William Wagner, USA.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis K. Smartt of East Pike Street and Mr. and Mrs. James Wagner of Lindholm Street, White Lake Township.

★ ★ ★

Attended by her sister, Alecia, the bride wore a day length taffeta sheath with lace overlay. Pearl accents highlighted the velvet headpiece securing her shoulder length veil.

★ ★ ★

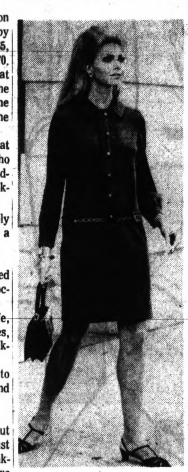
★ ★ ★

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds and other members of the wedding party, Ardyce Vitales, Robin, Rich and Melvin Wagner Jr., and Bob Brown, joined guests for a reception at the Milford home of the bridegroom's aunt and uncle, the senior Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wagner.

They then departed for a honeymoon trip to Traverse City.



Always elegant and classic is this shirt dress from Dalton of America's new late fall collection. It features a back belt and chain front. Colors range from winter white to garnet red.

Flower Talk

THE AMAZING PLANT BULB

The bulb is a special underground stem which enables a plant to live through the winter. Like a seed the bulb holds within itself the undeveloped future plant. Unlike a seed the bulb has much stored-up nourishment, and a plant grows more quickly from a bulb than a seed.

The tulip, narcissus, lily, and hyacinth are flowers grown from bulbs. The gladioli are grown from corms. Corms are like bulbs, except bulbs live on from year to year and corms die each year.

Our most important job is to have the flowers you want, when you need them. Our stock is always complete, and we happily supply your needs whenever you call.

Cranbrook Academy of Art Announces Faculty Changes

The appointment of two new faculty members at Cranbrook Academy of Art is announced by Glen Paulsen, Academy president.

In accord with the Academy's desire to establish a closer relationship between the design program and industry, Robert W. Veryzer, head of the experimental design studio at General Motors, has been named head of the design department.

Robert L. Kidd, who holds two master's degrees from the Art Academy, will head the fabric design department, which includes weaving.

Veryzer joined the GM styling staff following graduation from the School of Industrial Design of Pratt Institute in 1949. After serving in various areas he was named head of design development and the experimental design studio in 1964.

In this capacity his responsibilities include directing the annual summer student transportation design program, developing new media and techniques for design expression and directing the investigation and development of advanced transportation systems and vehicle concepts.

"The disigner is a key figure in shaping man's environment through his influence on the forms, materials and techniques of a rapidly changing society," Veryzer said.

IDEAL LOCATION

"Cranbrook Academy of Art is ideally situated near one of the great industrial centers of the world. The design department plans to utilize the resources of this center to develop students' ability to acquire knowledge, to synthesize it, and use it to assist him scientifically, as well as visually, in creating a better way of life."

Kidd studied business administration at Ohio Wesleyan University, received his B.F.A. degree from Miami University, Oxford, O., and was granted his first M.F.A. from the Art Academy in design (1962) and the second in fabric design (1964).

★ ★ ★

He was a graphic designer for William Schmidt Associates in Grosse Pointe and was then named chairman of the art department at Kingswood School Cranbrook, the position he held before coming to the Academy.

He is accredited by the American Craftsmen's Council and has exhibited widely, winning two top prizes in the 1967 Exhibition for Michigan Artist-Craftsmen. His works are owned by many individuals and are hung in North Park Towers and Michigan State University.

In other faculty changes, Zoltan Sepeshy, an authority on painting in tempera, has assumed the rank of Professor Emeritus. While not a full-time member of the teaching staff, he will conduct a series of informal seminars open to all painting students and others.

Sepeshy came to the Art Academy in 1931 and in 1947 succeeded the late Eliel Saarinen as president, a position he held until two years ago when he relinquished the administrative duties and continued as a painting instructor.

Donald Willett, painting instructor since 1962, has been named head of the painting program. Willett studied in Paris in 1961-62 under a Fulbright grant and last year received a Louis Comfort Tiffany grant.

Cranbrook Academy of Art, located in Bloomfield Hills, is a college of art accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and grants the degrees of Bachelor of Fine Arts, Master of Fine Arts and Master of Architecture.

Beauty Salon More Like a Hall of Horror

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — We women may come out of the hairdresser's looking like a million dollars, but I wouldn't give two cents for the way we look when we're inside.

These establishments are popularly known as beauty salons, but that's a misnomer. They're more like a chamber of horrors.

The posher places perform the rites of rehabilitation in the privacy of individual booths, but the less ritzy parlors such as the one of which I am customarily a customer leave us all out in the open where we can see and be seen.

★ ★ ★

They do, however, charitably undertake the hair-coloring process in a more remote section of the shop where women with red, brown or purple locks can drip a little less publicly under their peaked plastic caps.

Their only consolation in this situation is that the incipient blonde across the way looks even worse than they do.

★ ★ ★

There is no end to the various adornments the operators can place on a woman's scalp for her session under the dryer. There are curlers the size of orange juice cans, clips in various colors, pink plastic pads to cover the ears, nets that hang stringily down the back and strips of sticky tape across the nape of the neck.

★ ★ ★

Nobody proposes to win any beauty contests in this getup, but these gals are potential Miss Americas compared to the women in various stages of the comb-out process.

With their hair teased straight out in every direction, and solidified in that position with streams of hairspray, they resemble a cross between Medusa and the three witches of Macbeth.

★ ★ ★

Given time, these towering tresses can be coaxed down into less Vesuvian proportions and commanded to remain in that state through the application of still more lacquer. As a matter of fact, not one hair thus stiffened would have the temerity to move until the next week's appointment.

All this maneuvering takes place to the accompaniment of constant chatter conducted in voices loud enough to outpoint the decibel system of the whirring dryers. It is not the place to spend a quiet Saturday afternoon.

Fortunately, except for the male operators, beauty salons are no man's land. Lucky women — and lucky men!

In 1899, when the Post Office Department began using trucks to haul mail, the public was assured that "each was equipped so that a mule may be hitched to it should it refuse to run."

Vows Spoken by Morangs on Saturday

Pvt. Joseph Lee Morang, USA, and his bride, the former Jennifer Lynn Kempf, are honeymooning in northern Michigan following vows in St. James Methodist Church.

★ ★ ★

For the ceremony Saturday evening, the bride chose a traditional lace wedding gown with sequin and pearl accents. Complementing the ensemble, fashioned with sabrina neckline, Basque waist and five-tiered bouffant ruffled skirt, was a matching lace chapel train.

★ ★ ★

Swirls of pearls and crystals secured her veil of illusion, and she held a cascading arrangement of white miniature carnations with a lavender orchid corsage.

Paula Vogel was maid of honor for her cousin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morley A. Kempf of Ascot Street. Bridesmaids were Kathleen Messler and Rebecca Putnam.

★ ★ ★

The son of Mrs. Joan Morang of Elizabeth Lake Road was assisted by his uncle, Floyd Albright, as best man with Lee J. Beauchamp and Roger Kempf, the bride's brother, as ushers.

Prior to their honeymoon departure, the newlyweds were feted with a reception at the Fisher Body Union Hall.

Tan Fading? Pack Gives a Fresh Look

If you find that your coveted golden-summer skin is beginning to fade or go unattractively yellowish, why not try a whitening face-pack twice a week to bring out a new, fresh luster this fall.

Simply beat the white of an egg, add a teaspoon or two of lemon skin freshener and a teaspoon of tropical moist oil and smooth the mixture generously over your face and neck. Leave on for 20 to 30 minutes before rinsing away with tepid water.

★ ★ ★

Another recipe for helping to fade away a tan is one which grandmother often used and which has stood the test of time, even in the face of modern preparations.

Make a lotion by adding a tablespoon of oatmeal and three tablespoons of lemon freshener to half a pint of water in which parsley has been brewed. Apply the lotion to your face, neck and if necessary, your back and shoulders and allow to dry. Rub the skin with a soft towel and then massage with light oil to nourish and revitalize the tissues.

CHANGE

As your skin gradually regains its normal tone, it may be necessary to change to a paler shade of foundation, pretty pastel eye make-up and a rose or coral lipstick teamed with a light, delicate blusher on the cheeks.

Jewelry Changes

Plastic jewelry takes on the look of the precious rather than the pop. Jewels simulating lapis and crystal are replacing enamel. Wood jewelry for resort living is combined with the real jewelers' touch in both natural wood colors and very bright ones.

Gals Losing Professional Bout to 'Stag' Image

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A member of the President's Commission on the Status of Women formed during the Kennedy Administration calls "stag" thinking in government and the executive ranks in business a waste and a "brain drain."

Margaret Hickey, senior editor for Public Affairs, Ladies Home Journal, said the United States does not "use women's gifts as inteligently as the Russians." Her remarks are published in this month's issue of National Business Woman, publication of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. Miss Hickey was national BPW president in 1944-46.

★ ★ ★

She also said that for the first time families in which the husband is not the sole breadwinner are plainly in the majority. "Working wives form 57 per cent of the female labor force.

Fifteen million wives have paid jobs and these working wives are responsible for over one-third of the income of the multi-pay-check family.

"So much of the talent of women is being tragically wasted because of bias and tradition. The 'brain drain' of women's abilities is a sad picture of 'stag' government and executive ranks in business.

"Our historic patterns of leadership are antiquatedly masculine in orientation and we know little of female genius. We do not use women's gifts as intelligently as the Russians and some other peoples of necessity do. In getting at the vast problems of economic and social development, imbalance in any area cannot be corrected until something is done about the appalling misery, poverty, disease, and overpopulation which afflicts women and children in so many parts of the world."

SERVED

The article is one of a series associated with the National Federation's observance of its 50th Anniversary. Miss Hickey was president during the 25th year anniversary of the BPW organization which began in St. Louis in 1919.

She also said she was "not in accord with the popular cult, though, which denigrates the home role. The family today is not a retreat. There is no more dynamic, creative spot to be in; it is at the heart of the turmoil where battles are being lost or won from slum to suburb, from ghetto to garden condominium.

★ ★ ★

"Problems have changed radically with the great rural-urban shift, accompanied by an increased proportion of women who combine home making and careers. We mustn't forget the role of the home in nurturing those values which cannot be quantified and do not appear in the GNP (gross national product) but are basic to the solution of our social dilemmas."

She said that child care arrangements have not kept up with the need and that solutions would call for increased voluntary efforts in addition to new legislation and professional training.

Can Control Sweat Glands

CHICAGO (UPI)—Science calls the "ailment" hyperhidrosis.

In plain terms, it is excessive perspiring, often annoying but not harmful. That's the word from the American Medical Association's Today's Health which notes that some parts of the body, such as the palms, the soles and forehead have greater concentration of sweat glands than other parts and are common sites for localized excessive perspiration.

Since sweat glands of the palms respond to emotional stimulation, they are apt to become dewy just when you don't want them to. What can you do about it? Try to remain calm, cool and collected. Avoid caffein-containing beverages which are stimulants.

If the problem is severe, take it to your doctor who may prescribe a sedative or tranquilizer.

Plans are under way to improve the quality of the Potomac River above Key Bridge in Washington so that it will be clean enough for swimmers.

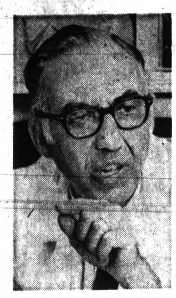
New Practitioners to Meet Child-Care Crisis



DR. HENRY K. SILVER

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A new kind of medical practitioner will be trained at the University of Colorado Medical School in an attempt to meet an impending crisis in health care for children.

The work will have a range broader than a nurse's but narrower than a doctor's. The workers will meet the medical needs of children who don't require special attention or care for serious ailments.

★ ★ ★

This new category of medicine — it doesn't have a formal name yet — is the brainchild of Dr. Henry K. Silver of the medical school's department of pediatrics.

Silver said vast numbers of children already are "receiving grossly inadequate total health care." And, he said, "It's going to get much worse."

CAN'T MEET QUOTA

He said estimates place the child population of the United States at 76 million by 1980. To provide adequate health care for these children, an additional 100,000 pediatricians need to be trained by then, he said.

The quota cannot be met, even allowing for a drastic increase in the present rate of fewer than 1,000 pediatricians entering practice each year.

Silver's plan will begin to become a reality when the first group of trainees starts classes next summer.

With this specialized training, the new practitioner will be ready to see patients after five years of post-high school study, compared with 11 years to put a pediatrician into practice and nine years for a general practitioner.

★ ★ ★

This is not a substitute for a doctor, but entails more actual responsibility than a nurse or some form of medical technician," he explained.

SHORTER TRAINING

The training period can be shorter, he said, because the courses will be focused mainly on the needs of children. This abbreviated training should make the program attractive to those — such as women who want a medical career along with marriage and family — who don't want to spend the time required to become a doctor, Silver said.

"This opens the health profession to people who might have had to select another area of study," Silver said. The pay, he said, is expected to start at $10,000 to $12,000, with increases up to $15,000.

★ ★ ★

The training would include two years of undergraduate study, two years at the medical school in basic sciences and clinical experience, and a one-year internship. Those completing the courses would be awarded bachelor's degress.

These new workers — they may be called "child care associates" or some similar name — would undergo examinations and certification by the Colorado State Board of Medical Examiners before starting practice.

The associates will work under supervision in offices of private physicians or public health departments. They will be able to handle about 80 per cent of the patient load seen by a pediatrician on a normal day.

The doctor would be freed for more seriously ailing patients, those with special problems, for research or for keeping himself up to date.

★ ★ ★

Medical societies in Colorado have approved the plan, and an advisory committee from these groups is drawing up enabling legislation to be placed before the Colorado legislature when it convenes in January.

Parking Ban Set

LANSING (AP) The State Highway Department has announced that parking will be banned on several highways in northwestern Lenawee County this weekend, in an effort to quickly move traffic expected for inaugural ceremonies and races at the new Michigan International Speedway near Cambridge Junction. The department said it has assigned observers to check the traffic and their notes will be used to plan for future traffic control in the area.

Bridge Warning

LANSING (AP) "Watch For Ice" signs soon will be posted on bridges of Michigan's freeway system, the State Highway Department reports. Highway bridges sometimes become coated with ice even though the highway may be clear and dry, the department says. This can happen when air temperatures fall below freezing, but warmer ground temperatures keep road surfaces above the freezing mark.

State Private Trade Schools Have Grown by 33 in 1968

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan's private trade school industry, which offers courses in everything from dog grooming to data processing, has added another 33 schools this year.

A report issued Monday by the State Education Department showed a total of 140 schools in Michigan. Largest gains were in the key-punch and data processing areas.

★ ★ ★

Business and industrial trade schools were at the top of the heap with 27 schools each. Piano tuning, truck driving, broadcasting, dog grooming and motel management schools were at the other end of the pile with two schools apiece.

Twelve schools closed during the year.

The average cost of courses ranged from a low of 82 cents per hour for income tax programs to $6.67 for broadcasting. Other highs were $5.93 for modeling and $5.77 for truck driving.

★ ★ ★

Currently 92 out-of-state schools are authorized to solicit students in Michigan. Most of the complaints over private schools came from students enrolled by agents of these institutions.

★ ★ ★

All agents operating in Michigan are required to obtain a solicitor's permit and a $1,000 bond covering fraud. Out of 560 active solicitors in the state, only 81 represent Michigan-based schools.

Michigan schools also are required to be bonded for the amount of money taken for tuition as a student's security against fraud.

There is no such law for non-Michigan schools.

HIGH-LEVEL TRAINING

"Most Michigan licensed schools are providing high-level training which results in immediate job placement or upgrading existing employment," the report said.

★ ★ ★

It added that the private schools most successful in their programs are those with good placement departments.

★ ★ ★

The education department is in charge of licensing and controlling private trade schools in Michigan.

Wallace Strength in Area: Anybody's Guess

By JIM LONG

Determining the strength of George Wallace in Oakland County has turned into one huge guessing game with no one taking the outcome lightly.

Democrats are running scared, Republicans are seemingly blase but cautious, and Wallace people downright sure that their third-party candidate can't lose.

★ ★ ★

Critics of the former Alabama governor contend that Wallace support has been blown out of proportion.

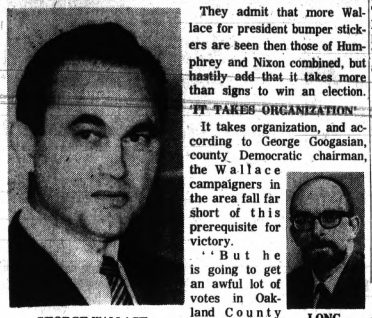
★ ★ ★

They admit that more Wallace for president bumper stickers are seen then those of Humphrey and Nixon combined, but hastily add that it takes more than signs to win an election.

'IT TAKES ORGANIZATION'

It takes organization, and according to George Googasian, county Democratic chairman, the Wallace campaigners in the area fall far short of this prerequisite for victory.

"But he is going to get an awful lot of votes in Oakland County from frustrated people," Googasian added.



GEORGE WALLACE

LONG

Googasian estimates that Wallace, the American Independent Party candidate, may receive from 15 to 25 per cent of the total vote in the county.

Nathan Collier, Wallace campaign chairman in Oakland County, is naturally more optimistic.

'HE'LL WIN'

"I think he's going to take the state," said Collier.

★ ★ ★

Collier avoids discussing what percentage of the vote Wallace will get Nov. 5, but believes that the votes will be siphoned off equally from both Richard M. Nixon and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

★ ★ ★

As to strategy, Collier says, "We are just getting to the people by passing out literature and talking to everyone we can."

★ ★ ★

Undoubtedly, Wallace's power relies heavily on factory workers and transplanted southerners, though a number of conservative Republicans are tending to lean in his direction.

ONLY PART OF SUPPORT

Collier says, however, that laborers are only a part of the movement.

★ ★ ★

Much support for Wallace comes from Pontiac, Waterford Township, Madison Heights and Hazel Park, with pockets in the Bloomfield - Birmingham and West Bloomfield Township areas.

★ ★ ★

Union officials deny claims of the overwhelming Wallace support in Pontiac plants.

Harold Julian, subregional director of Region 1B of the UAW, places Wallace backers at about 20 per cent of the labor force in Pontiac.

RECORD ATTACKED

In an effort to counteract the Wallace campaign, the union began passing out leaflets at the plant gates, pointing out Wallace's record as governor.

A number of workers at General Motors Corp. Truck & Coach Division objected to the leaflets and submitted a petition to Local 594 President Joseph Arthur protesting the use of union money to print and distribute what they termed "smear literature."

★ ★ ★

James Lovelace, 970 Pontiac, Orion Township, one of the originators of the petition, said that he felt the information was distorted, but not necessarily untrue.

"The information is factual," said Julian. "We have a responsibility to give our people information about this joker (Wallace) and we will continue to let them know."

Julian said the cost of printing the first 5,000 leaflets that were distributed cost about $50.

"We'll be putting them into other plants to let the workers know they are being misled and have a lot to lose if Wallace gets in," said Julian.

★ ★ ★

The Democratc party in the county is also considering the distribution of similar material.

One area legislator who has revised his thinking about Wallace's chances is State Rep. Donald E. Bishop, R-63rd District.

'ONLY 10 PCT.'

"After reading accounts about the crowds he drew in Michigan, we had better sit up and take notice," said Bishop, an Avon Township resident.

Even then Bishop puts Wallace's statewide popularity at only 10 per cent, with the most harm being caused to Democrats. "But even then I'm not sure. Wallace supporters are a determined bunch."

★ ★ ★

Pontiac's veteran legislator, Arthur J. Law, D-62nd District, is of the opinion that despite all the talk about Wallace, the presidential hopeful will not carry Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

"He may get 18 to 20 per cent, but the Democratic party will win as it usually does," said Law.

'SYMBOL OF TRANQUILITY'

Law said that he still is amazed at the reaction Wallace has received. "He's hitting the popular imagination of the average man. He is not a reactionary as such but a symbol of tranquility—that time when we didn't have some of the many problems of today."

Saying he would be "surprised" if Wallace pulled a great amount of votes was State Rep. Clifford H. Smart, 60th District, Walled Lake.

★ ★ ★

The Republican lawmaker said that from his observations Wallace's strength in his area is not significant.

The same coolness is expressed by Rod Tolman, executive director of the Republican party in Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

"We really haven't been concentrating on what Wallace is doing. We just want to have our people elected. It will be no problem for us to take the majority of the vote.

★ ★ ★

"Wallace may get more votes from Humphrey, but he won't take any way from Nixon," said Tolman.

Prominent Lawyer Dies

DETROIT (AP) — Funeral services will be Thursday for Renville Wheat, 75, senior partner in a Detroit law firm, who died Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

A native of Leavenworth, Kan., Mr. Wheat moved to Ann Arbor as a child. He received his law degree from the University of Michigan. Recently he received the Sesquicentennial Alumni Award for distinguished service to U-M. During World War I, he was wounded in action and decorated with the Silver Star and the Croix de Guerre with star.

★ ★ ★

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth, two daughter, a son and seven grandchildren.

when you spend 89.50 for a Van Carr 2-trouser suit in pure virgin wool you get a lot more than an 89.50 suit.

Any way you look at a suit, you'll find more than your expect for your money—in a Van Carr. Fabrics? Touch them, rub your hand over them, wear them. They're smooth, finely woven, pure virgin wool worsteds that carry the celebrated Woolmark label to prove their superiority. Tailoring? Take a hard, close look at the stitching, the buttonholing, the shaping of the suit, the drape of the fabric. They're excellent—from collar to cuffs. Styling? If you think 2-trouser suits look like Grandpa's go-to-meetin' suit, you're really in for a surprise. You see, Van Carr suits are made only for us; to our very exacting specifications. And we insist on above-average quality at below-average prices. The people who make Van Carr can do it, because we order in big quantities. As you'll see when you see our current selection of Van Carr 2-trouser suits . . . in two-button and three-button models . . . in clear and multicolor Glen plaids, herringbones, hairline stripes, checks, and fancy patterns . . . in shades of brown, olive, navy, blue or grey . . . and in an encompassing range of proportioned sizes. The name Van Carr is synonymous with style and value, and it's just about our best selling 2-trouser suit. And do you know what? More than half our Van Carr sales are to people who are buying their second Van Carr, or third, or fourth . . .

Legislature Will Study State Retirement Plans

LANSING (AP) — With an eye toward clearing up "fuzzy, gray areas," a special House-Senate committee will meet in Lansing next week to begin study on state retirement programs.

★ ★ ★

"This system has grown in a topsy manner without searching out all the facts," said Rep. James H. Heinze, R-Battle Creek and committee chairman.

★ ★ ★

Committee members plan to look into the five state-supported retirement programs that include Detroit teachers, outstate teachers, state employes, State Police and the Legislature.

The study "hopefully will lead to a general revision of existing retirement laws and a restatement of the programs with an eye toward possible integration, standardization and consolidation of our current program," Heinze said.

If you haven't driven a Ford lately, you're one of the reasons we built this one!

The '69 Ford is the car that's creating all the talk. And when a car packs crowds into our showrooms . . . and sets sales records this fast . . . you ought to know the reasons.

The '69 Ford hugs the road with a track as wide as Cadillac . . . smooths your ride with a longer wheelbase than Chevrolet. This '69 LTD is designed to ride quieter than the LTD that was quieter than Rolls-Royce. The 1969 Ford has more front headroom, legroom and trunk space than cars costing hundreds of dollars more. With a completely redesigned front passenger compartment so spacious everybody calls it the Front Room. Yet even with a longer wheelbase, the 1969 Ford is easier to handle, easier to park.

This is a new luxury-size Ford at a very popular price. Big. Strong. Quiet. A great road car. It could change the way you think about a lot of cars. Drive one at your Ford Dealer's now.

Junior Editors Quiz on HORSESHOES

QUESTION: Since horses hoofs have no feeling, why do they need iron shoes?

ANSWER: Nature has provided the horse with hoofs of hard, horny material which give him a grip on the ground, enabling him to run rapidly.

This material grows out as fast as the hoof wears off by contact with the ground. But when man domesticated the horse, the animal was used for riding and pulling, putting extra weight on the hoofs. This made the natural hoof wear off too rapidly; so iron horseshoes were invented to protect the animals' feet. The horny hoof still keeps growing, however, so the shoe must be removed every now and then, and the hoof trimmed.

When they see a horseshoer filing down a hoof, people often fear that this might give the horse pain. But when you file your fingernails or clip your toenails you feel nothing. Since the horse's hoof is made of the same horny substance as your nails, you need not fear that he experiences discomfort.

It is when a horse is not correctly shod that he will be uncomfortable. His shoes are adjusted for his particular needs; in winter, for instance, he may have cleats to enable him to get a grip on ice or snow.

Illness Often Accompanies College Start

EAST LANSING (AP) — New friends — and new germs — meet incoming students at a university.

Up to 40 per cent of the new students are sick with minor respiratory illness within 10-14 days after they register for classes, says Dr. James S. Feurig, director of the Michigan State University health center.

Feurig says the "start-to-school" sickness varies in kind and seriousness, as it does with location and group size. It strikes college freshmen, as well as kindergarten pupils, he says.

Feurig explains the sickness this way: suddenly the students are living in large groups. They move into dormitories carrying their own germs, to which they are resistant.

CLOSE LIVING

But the close living exposes them to germs from others—germs to which they may be vulnerable.

Fatigue is a factor, the doctor says. "They arrive from a final fling of partying," he says. "They get here, burn the candle at both ends and then give us plenty of business."

* * *

Feurig says accident rates also are high during the early days of the school year.

"The MSU campus is like a big park," he says. "The students sometimes think they are walking only among trees and coeds. The pedestrian feels he owns the place. So we get a few grazes or bruises and now and then a fracture.

Repair Bill Put at $500,000

Annex-Airport Swap Hit

The 35-year-old county annex building at 1 Lafayette, now owned by the city, will take about $500,000 worth of work to bring it up to 1970 standards, according to an architectural report received last night by the Pontiac City Commission.

Receipt of the report touched off a round of arguments by the commission, with District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin, saying, the city made a bad move when it accepted ownership of the building.

★ ★ ★

The building, now housing a number of county agencies, was transferred to city ownership two years ago in a general exchange with the county.

In the deal, the county took over the Oakland-Pontiac Airport in Waterford Township.

"I think that was the best deal the county ever made in its life, palming that thing off on us," Irwin said.

CAN BE USED

Three other city commissioners, including Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., disagreed, saying that the city can utilize the building in the future with or without expensive repairs.

Taylor called Irwin a "Monday morning quarterback," and said "if we had followed your (opinions) we would still be fooling around with the airport."

★ ★ ★

Taylor and City Manager Joseph A. Warren said the city transfered ownership of the airport to the county because it lacked operating funds to run it.

Warren said management of the airport was a more natural function of a county government than a city.

REPAIRS LISTED

The report said that to bring the building up to 1970 code at least the following repairs would be necessary:

Air conditioning and ventilating system, $250,000; a new electrical and wiring system, $100,000; replacement of boilers and related equipment, $46,000; replacement of control valves and remote thermostats on radiators, $30,000; replacement of plumbing fixtures, $25,000; replacement of elevator, $30,000; redecoration of walls and ceiling, $15,000. Total, $496,000.

★ ★ ★

The architects, Denyes & Freeman Associates, said to replace the building would cost $2.5 million. The land is worth about $95,400, the architectural firm said.

The firm recommends leaving the building in its present condition and renting space to various governmental agencies as the city is now doing.

'COST PROHIBITIVE'

"The cost to remodel it into any other use such as offices, stores, apartments or whatever would be prohibitive," the report said.

In other action, the commission:

- Received a report showing the city's sale of land fund has a $57,393 balance.
- Authorized a public hearing Oct. 29 to consider placing water mains in the North Hills Farms rent supplement project.
- Authorized negotiating contracts for construction of a sanitary sewer and main road into the North Hills Farm rent supplement housing project on West Kennett adjacent to Alcott Elementary School.
- Denied a petition to rezone five lots on Columbia between Highwood and Laurel to commercial zoning to accommodate a restaurant and bar.
- Denied a request to rezone from R-1 to C-1 the southeast corner of West Kennett and Stanley.
- Gave final approval to an ordinance outlining procedures for disposing of surplus city property.

City Affairs

County Aide Named to City Rights Unit

City commissioners last night named John Davey of 493 W. Iroquois to the city's Human Relations Commission.

Davey, an attorney on the Oakland County Prosecutor's staff, replaces Ronald Covault, chief trial lawyer for the prosecutor, who resigned because of demands on his time.

★ ★ ★

The commission also accepted the resignation of Wayne Gabert of 349 Auburn from the police trial board. Gabert is moving from the city.

Bus for Mall, County Center?

Routes Considered From Downtown Area

City Manager Joseph A. Warren said last night that the Pontiac Transit Corp. may add a new bus line to serve the Pontiac Mall and the Oakland County Service Center.

He said officials of the corporation studying ways to improve service are considering a line from downtown Pontiac to the Mall, and service center.

There now is no bus service to these locations.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. and District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin suggested that before any line is initiated the county government and Mall merchants should be approached to consider helping subsidize the line, which is not expected to pay for itself through fares.

BUS LINE BACKER

Carl Ingraham, a member of the county board of supervisors from Birmingham, said at last night's commission meeting he has believed for some time that the service center is not accessible for some persons and that the county should help provide bus service to the center by subsidy or any other feasible method.

Warren said he will meet with county officials to discuss the possibilities.

★ ★ ★

The city now pays a subsidy to the bus corporation — the difference between the losses being taken by the company and the break-even point, roughly $72,000 per year.

Judge Delays Decisions in Water Case

An Oakland County Circuit judge this morning postponed decisions, for at least a week, on a motion to dismiss a suit over Bloomfield Hill's proposed water system and a counteraction for an injunction to prevent the city from taking further steps on the project.

Judge Farrell E. Roberts heard both arguments today, but deferred making a ruling until the attorneys submit written briefs.

★ ★ ★

David Pence, legal counsel for the city of Bloomfield Hills, had petitioned the court to dismiss the lawsuit brought by Jack Baldwin, a Bloomfield Hills justice of the peace.

Baldwin had started the suit last week, saying that when voters approved a water system in April they gave the city commission a "blank check" because no plans or costs were available.

'NOTHING TO EVALUATE'

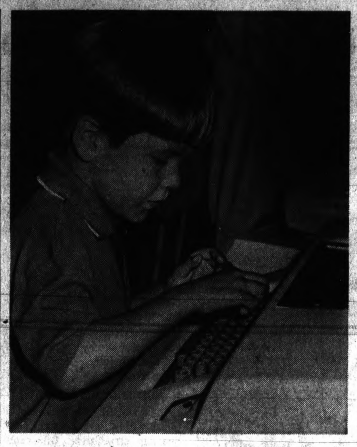
"The voters had nothing to evaluate," said Baldwin, who today had asked for the injunction.

While delaying a decision on the two motions, Roberts did reject another proposal by Baldwin that two more judges be assigned to the case when it comes up for a full-scale hearing.

★ ★ ★

A three-judge panel, said Baldwin, would eliminate or greatly reduce the likelihood of a time consuming appeal regardless of the decision.

The written briefs are expected to be received by Roberts either Friday or next Monday.



KID ON THE KEYS — Sending a message to California via a teletype computer system at Waterford School District's Riverside Elementary is Danny Trudeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Trudeau, 5847 Sutherland, a second grader. The new system, called Indicom, uses a California-based computer as a teaching aide.

Militant Student Sees Decline in Campus Protests

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A leader of Students for a Democratic Society says less civil disobedience will take place on U.S. campuses this fall.

"The stakes are too high for many students, who don't want to be thrown in jail again, or thrown out of school," Mark Rudd told 150 students Tuesday at California State College.

★ ★ ★

Instead, he said there will be more street demonstrations and attempts at "disrupting classes where we can't get caught."

Rudd, 21, formerly headed SDS at Columbia University. He now is a full-time worker for the activist campus group.

First Ballot In; Nixon Leads, 1-0

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — At least one vote has been cast in this year's presidential election.

★ ★ ★

Marvin Manning, 32, Bristol, Conn., voted Monday when ballots for newcomers became available. A new law permits nonresidents of Oklahoma, who would have been qualified voters in their home state, to vote for president by using applications available through Oct. 21.

★ ★ ★

Manning said he cast his vote for Richard M. Nixon.

A Czechoslovak chemist has synthesized a hormonelike substance that imparts contagious sterility to insects.

Indicom Setup a Midwest First

The first public school Computer - Assisted - Instruction (CIA) project in the Midwest is now operational in the Waterford School District, Dr. Don O. Tatroe, schools superintendent, said today.

Called Indicom (individual communications), the project places the pupil in direction communication with a computer in Palo Alto, Calif., headquarters of Indicom.

★ ★ ★

The pupil operates his individual teletype machine receiving information and tests (according to grade-level skill) on the machine. Answers to test questions are typed out on the teletype and in fractions of a second the California station replies if the answer is correct or not.

Waterford's Indicom director, Dr. John Pagen, said the objective is "to fuse the best thinking in education with the latest in technology to permit each child to learn at his own rate and in the style that is most effective and efficient for the child."

DISTRICT TEACHERS

Pagen pointed out about 40 classroom teachers from the district take part in preparing materials for presentation. The Indicom setup with 32 teletype positions is presently located at Riverside Elementary 5280 Farm. Grades two through six take part.

The new Mott High School also will have the equipment when open.

★ ★ ★

The Indicom program is financed by the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 and is a Title project. It is administered entirely by public school personnel.

The Heat's On!

A budget - conscious thief made off with the "bottom unit of a pair of thermal underwear" valued at $4.99 from Ace Budget Store, 5070 Highland, Waterford Township, yesterday, it was reported to police.

Burglars Loot Catholic Office

Burglars made off with business machines valued at more than $5,000 in a break-in reported yesterday at the Catholic Social Services office, 53 Franklin Boulevard.

An employe told police that she found a window smashed out on the west side of the building when she arrived at work.

★ ★ ★

Investigators said the burglars apparently reached through the window and unlocked a door to make entry.

Taken were five electric typewriters, three dictaphones and two dictaphone transcribers, according to officers.

★ ★ ★

Identification officers were called to the scene to check for prints, police said.

Yearbook's Here

The 1968 Waterford Kettering High School yearbook Kismet was delivered this morning. Purchasers may pick up their copies tonight through Friday from 7-9 p.m. at the high school, 2800 Bender, Waterford Township.

GTW Seeking Commuters From MSU

Grand Trunk Western Railroad officials went ringing doorbells in Lansing recently to attract Michigan State University students who leave the campus for weekends.

The railroad announced passenger trains will be stopping near the MSU campus on Friday and Saturday and will connect with Pontiac, Birmingham and Detroit and with a westward route.

The door-to-door drive is part of an over-all effort to attract customers for Grand Trunk commuter trains.

Railroad executives were showing the latest in train equipment in Lansing while their representatives were talking up train transportation to those answering the doorbells.

A similar drive is planned in Pontiac next spring.

CUSTOMER SERVICES

"We'd like to tell potential customers about our services westward to Battle Creek, South Bend and Chicago and eastward to Detroit, Flint, Port Huron and major Canadian cities," a spokesman said.

Man Is Wounded by 3 Assailants in Front of Home

Pontiac police are investigating an incident yesterday in which a 33-year-old man was wounded by three assailants in front of his home.

Officers said John Dickens of 330 Franklin Road was struck in the legs and left arm by shotgun pellets about 8:30 p.m.

Dickens was treated at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

He told investigators that three men drove up in a late-model car and that one of the men got out and fired at him seven times.

U.S. Has Expanses of Land Almost Nobody Wants

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

RED ROCK CANYON, Nev. — There is a strangely orphaned land in America, empty, the leftover after the best has been taken. It is the land almost nobody wants.

In a nation where cities press people together and each square foot is dear, it is the last vast vacant lot. Desert and mountain, canyon and bluff, sagebrush and pinon pine — it is huge.

★ ★ ★

Its grand expanses and small weed-filled lots stretch from Florida to Alaska across 26 states. In the connected 48 states, it totals an area larger than California, Oregon and Washington combined. Counting Alaska, it amounts to one-fifth of the United States.

It is neither Indian reservation, National Forest, National Monument nor National Park. Yet it is public land. For nearly 150 years it has been there for the taking, and nobody took it.

BRUTAL ACRES

It is just too dry, too rugged, too wild or too remote. Ruled by disappointment, these brutal acres break the men who seek to tame them.

But now land-hungry eyes turn to these lands, mostly in 10 western states. Some want the lands for expansion, some for taxes. Some see them preserved forever as natural wilderness and watershed. Some seek gold in the hills and oil in the ancient strata. Some want them only as open range for cattle and sheep. Some covet them for speculation. Some dream of the land reborn with the miracle of water. But chronically there is not enough water, and too much land.

Technically these vast acres are "unappropriated land" — those acres remaining from the original public domain, which was everything except the original 13 states.

The land is held by the Department of Interior's Bureau of Land Management, now trying to catalog the uses of these immense holdings. More than 3,900 laws, many of them on the books for a century, govern these lands. The laws are anachronistic, contradictory and complex, wormed through with loopholes. Only in the last few years have Americans been able to begin a philosophy to guide the future of these approximately 452 million final acres, which represent about 60 per cent of all federally owned lands. Other federally owned lands are national forests, wildlife refuges, military bases, national parks, etc.

RED ROCK

Here, at the base of the Red Rock escarpment, is a piece of this orphaned land. The eastern sun glints off the devil's crimson of its cliffs and pokes into the canyons. Indian petroglyphs on the wall of a cave portray a primitive stick man, arms and legs akimbo. Ten miles away, modern stickmen clear the losers' bets from the crap tables of Las Vegas.

At the foot of the mountain is the tumbled ruin of a homesteader's tenative home, a crumpled dream in native stone. Nearby, a small forgetful trickle of water emerges from a cave and blinks in the sunlight. It twists and wastes itself in a thin wet trail through rock to sand, a puny giver of life with fragments of green clinging to its skirts. A few cottonwood trees haunt its boarder, disappearing bed, trading shade for sustenance. In a dry land, this is a precious year-round spring.

Ignored for years, this canyon was visited by only a few campers escaping the clatter of coins in the neon-lit valley below. The Bureau recognized its potential as a camping and picknicking area. But then the Girl Scouts of Las Vegas filed for a key part of it as a premanent camp site of its own. Thus began an awesome contest: The Girl Scouts of Las Vegas versus the United States of America.

The bureau kept putting off the claim, and in public print found itself in the worst mismatch since Gretel popped the old witch in the oven. But the bureau stuck to its point, compromised at length and gave the Girl Scouts another tract considered separate but equal. Now, with limited funds, the Red Cahyon site is being developed into a general recreation area. Ludicrous though the dispute was, it phased a basic question about public lands: federal ownership for general use, or ownership and use by special interests?

STRETCHING FAR

But let's not quibble over small parcels. The public domain lands stretch far away. They include for instance 77 per cent of Alaska, 68 per cent of Nevada, 43 per cent of Utah, 28 per cent of Wyoming, 25 per cent of Oregon, 23 per cent of Idaho.

Gov. John Love of Colorado, where public lands total only 13 per cent of the state and all federal lands total 36 per cent, decries what he calls the federal fiefdom. The land isn't taxable, isn't salable, isn't really Colorado.

★ ★ ★

In all, the federal government holds 87 per cent of Nevada, a state of endless, isolated, mountain-rimmed basins, high desert, low rainfall and three wilderness counties where the total population of some 2,000 is greatly outnumbered by the cattle.

Many ranching families have used the open range for generations. Some tend to look at it as their own. For a time it almost was. In the early days ranchers sent their cowboys out to stake claims on all the water points. Controlling the water, they controlled the range.

GRAZING LEASES

The federal government organized the use of the range with the Taylor Grazing Act of 1934, setting up districts with the authority to lease or grant permits for grazing. Just as the open range was an enhancement to the value of the old ranches, so now the leases and permits enhance the value of the present day ranches, even figure in the selling price.

★ ★ ★

Not all ranching on federal lands is profitable. In the Southwest, the land is stingy, yielding mesquite and small patches of indian wheat amid the cactus. But ranchers graze cattle on these lands too. The desert is one long arid trek from Texas westward to California with few interruptions.

One old-timer says the only differences are temperature and elevation. "Pick up a handful of any of it, and it's all the same," he says. "The people are spittin' images of each other. The only difference is the size of the brim of their hats. Bigger brims to the west. One man may run a few more cattle than another, but none of them has enough to survive. All they talk about is the drought, the market, and what kind of cows are coming out of Mexico this year, and don't bring in any south Texas cattle because they don't know how to rough it in this desert."

But there are other ways to get rich on federal lands besides ranching. The real promise is oil.

HANDSOME ROYALTIES

The United States retains those lands with known oil-bearing structures. Oil companies pay handsome royalties to drill and pump them. But there are other lands that hold promise, and the chances are distributed in a drawing system that amounts to a lottery.

This is the way the drawing works. Once a month, the federal government publishes lists of land parcels available for gas and oil exploration. Any citizen, 21 and over, can file. He is allowed one application per parcel, for as many parcels as he wants or can afford. The only practical limitation is that he may not hold leases on more than 246,080 acres in any one state. He must pay a $10 filing fee and put up cash to cover the first year's rent at a standard price of 50 cents an acre. The federal government publishes names of winners.

A winner may drill for oil himself, or he may sell the lease to another party. Since oil exploration is chancey and expensive, most of those who win valuable plots choose to sell. The profit may be small, or it may range to more than $100,000. The federal government can't lose. It retains a 12½ per cent royalty on all oil or gas discovered.

Oil drillers are not the only ones the United States allows to put holes in the ground. The mining Law of 1872 bared the land to more shovels than any other piece of legislation, encouraging the search for valuable minerals. There are, for instance, an estimated 5,000 to 10,000 holes in Riverside County, California, on public lands, on the sites of old mining claims. Such claims were and are easy to file.

HOLD FOREVER

All any citizen need do is file a description of the land with the county, and each year expend $100 in materials and labor improving the claim. He may hold it literally forever as a claim. Not until he seeks title to the land must he file with the federal authorities. Consequently, the federal government's public lands are pocked with claims belonging to individuals whom the government neither knows nor in some cases can find.

Some claims offer a disguise to other uses of the land. A mining claim may, for instance, hike the use of valuable timberland, or other operations. It usually takes a court fight to reestablish federal rights.

Thus do men tug and pull at the land, mark it off with straight property lines over nature's rivers and gulleys. They have long used it for barter and currency. In 1681, 100 English pounds would buy 5,000 acres of Pennsylvania. In 1721, two pounds would buy 100 acres of Maryland. Virginia offered 100 acres to anyone who would volunteer in the Continental Army. Congress offered 50 acres to any British soldier who would desert.

GOOD LAND'S GONE

On the same day Lincoln issued the Emancipation Proclamation, the Homestead Act became effective opening vast Western acreage to a flood of settlers for the price of $1.25 an acre. Today, the good land is gone. Homesteading is dead.

5 Good Days for Field Work

State Farms Had Good Week

LANSING (AP)—With nearly five days considered suitable for field work during the past week, Michigan farmers had the most favorable conditions in several weeks, says the State Crop Reporting Service.

Generally, soil moisture was considered adequate throughout the state and most crops remained free of killing frost. Pockets of frost were reported over the past weekend, however.

★ ★ ★

Some three-fourths of the corn crop is mature and safe from frost damage, the service says, with one-fifth of the crop in the dent stage and the balance in the dough stage.

Many farmers have completed the silo-filling operation, the service adds, although some are waiting for the first major frost of the season. That will open the husks so that the moisture content of the grain will be lowered to levels considered safe for storage.

BEANS HARVESTED

Also about three-fourths complete is dry field bean harvest. Late potato harvest is nearing the halfway mark, but some potato acreage in the northeast Lower Peninsula has been lost because of excessive moisture.

Sugar beet harvest is just getting underway — one of the earliest starts in recent years, the service reports.

Less than 10 per cent of the soybean crop is out of the field, with progress slightly behind average for this date.

The apple harvest is "moving along at a good pace," the crop reporting service says. McIntosh harvest was nearing completion as pickers moved into the Jonathan and Delicious crops.

HARVEST DAMAGED

Grape harvest was well along, but the damage of spring frosts was "very apparent," the service says.

Cabbage, cauliflower, carrot and other fall vegetables continued to be harvested. Some onions remained to be pulled. And some blueberry picking is reported, but harvest of the bulk blueberry crop has been completed.

Claim on 'Treasure' Snarled

GUTHRIE CENTER, Iowa (AP) — A judge has awarded 12 boys nearly half the buried treasure they found three years ago, but the American Red Cross now says it has a right to all the money—more than $11,500.

The Red Cross filed a petition in U.S. District Court in Des Moines, Iowa, Tuesday as Guthrie County District Court Judge Robert O. Frederick was approving a settlement between the boys and three other persons.

★ ★ ★

"Some people might criticize us for not going after what is rightfully ours," explained John Howard of Des Moines, executive director of the Central Iowa chapter of the Red Cross.

The treasure—old gold coins and currency with a face value of $11,524.91 but believed to be worth more—was discovered by the youths on June 1, 1965, as they dug in a vacant lot in Bayard, Iowa.

CLAIM FILED

The owners of the lot, Mr. and Mrs. John Rosenbeck, filed a claim for the money, as did Lois Tallman of Guthrie Center, the niece of the man who had lived on the lot and presumably buried the money. He died in 1953.

Judge Frederick approved a settlement under which the boys, now aged 9 to 15, would get 40 per cent of the net worth of the treasure, and Miss Tallman and the Rosenbecks each would get 30 per cent.

★ ★ ★

But the Red Cross, in its petition, said the money belongs to it because the late owner of the lot, Fred Beardsley, had willed his entire estate to the Red Cross. This was discovered only last week, Howard said.

Bayard banker Leonard Siedhoff, who has held the money for more than three years, was angered by the Red Cross action.

★ ★ ★

"This is a lot of poppycock," said Siedhoff. "Yes, I'm unhappy, and so are the other parents. The Red Cross should have filed their petition before.

"Why should they be given the chance to come in through the back door at this late date?"

Hundreds of Police on Alert

N. Irish Move to Cool Trouble

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's government acted today to cool tempers and ward off street clashes in Belfast between Roman Catholic and Protestant demonstrators.

Hundreds of police were on alert in the capital as 1,500 Queen's University students gathered for a mass march today. The students, many of them Catholics, were parading to protest the way police broke up a civil rights demonstration in Londonderry last weekend.

Authorities gave permission for the Belfast march—but banned a counterdemonstration planned by the Rev. Ian Paisley, a Protestant extremist.

Paisley had warned that members of his "Ulster Volunteer Force" would barricade part of the parade route keep the marchers away from Protestant neighborhoods.

BOMB THROWN

"Now I have been served with a police order forbidding our demonstration," the clergyman said. "But I will be there just the same, and I have asked thousands of other Protestants to be there too."

A homemade gasoline bomb was thrown at a side door of Broadway Presbyterian Church Tuesday night, and police dispersed crowds of youths gathering on street corners.

★ ★ ★

The church, located in a largely Catholic district, was not badly damaged. Police blamed "hooligans" for the attack.

All leave was canceled for members of the constabulary.

Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second city where 96 people were injured in the weekend rioting, was reported quiet.

MARCH BANNED

William Craig, minister of home affairs, banned another march called for Saturday in Londonderry—one week after the disorders began.

"We will certainly not tolerate anyone trying to provoke further actions of that kind," Craig said.

★ ★ ★

Next Saturday's march had been billed as "a peaceful demonstration" for fair employment and housing policies. The Catholics maintain they are victims of discrimination by Protestant authorities over the right to vote and work.

The march organizers issued a statement calling for an end to rioting and support of the march.

SYMPATHY FOR MARCHERS

Owners of shops and offices in Londonderry also were asked by the organizers to close down for an hour Friday afternoon as a gesture of defiance.

Some sympathy for the demonstrators was evident in London.

Low Prosecutor Pay Is Decried by Kelley

LANSING (AP) — A survey of Michigan counties shows most prosecuting attorneys are "shockingly underpaid," reports Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley.

According to the survey, salaries range from $3,600 in Benzie County to $29,500 in Wayne County.

★ ★ ★

Oakland County was only one of five in the state that pay their prosecutors more than $20,000 a year. The Oakland prosecutor makes $24,000 annually.

Other top paying counties are Macomb, $28,500; Genesee, $25,000, and Washtenaw, $22,500.

STATE SUPPORT

Kelley is proposing the next session of the Legislature be asked to provide for a state supported minimum salary for prosecutors and approve a requirement that every county have a full-time prosecuting attorney with provisions for an adequate staff.

★ ★ ★

In the case of smaller counties, Kelley said, two or more counties could be served by one prosecuting attorney.

★ ★ ★

"There is a shocking gap between citizen concern about crime and the willingness of citizens to take the steps necessary to fight crime," Kelley said.

"Yet in most cases," he said, "the people and their representatives, the county board of supervisors, have been unwilling to provide minimum decent salaries, staffs and working conditions for their prosecutors."

60 COUNTIES REPLIED

Kelley reported that 60 of the state's counties replied to his salary survey.

Counties paying their prosecutors more than $15,000 include: Kent, $19,250; Ingham, $18,900; and Saginaw, $16,000.

★ ★ ★

The lowest pay reported for a prosecutor was $3,600 by Benzie County. Arenac and Keweenaw counties reported prosecutor salaries of $3,800.

$1,500 Bond Set for Area Driver

David Garnett, 24, of 4976 Hobson was arrested yesterday on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in Waterford Township and was released on a $1,500 personal bond. His preliminary examination was set for Nov. 26 before Waterford Township Justice Kenneth H. Hempstead.

★ ★ ★

Police charge that the car he was driving struck and killed Mary C. Nolan Friday night.

Injuries Minor as Car Careens

A Waterford Township man escaped with minor injuries last night when his speeding car rolled over off a road.

William J. Ecarius, 29, of 3562 Mariner was treated at Pontiac General Hostpital and released.

★ ★ ★

He told Waterford police a car forced him off West Walton Boulevard near Main.

Police said his car went 500 feet off the north shoulder of Walton, flipped over, crossed the road to the south shoulder, hit an embankment and flipped over again.

★ ★ ★

Police ticketed him for speeding and driving to the left of center.

Griffin to Speak

LANSING (AP) — U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., will be the featured speaker at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner tonight at Alma College. Griffin was a leader in the recent fight to block senate confirmation of President Johnson's nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

NO TICKEE FOR ORIENTAL LICENSE — Ticket book in hand, a Chicago policeman peers at the rear license plate of an auto parked on the north side. He had trouble establishing identity because of oriental characters. It turned out the car belongs to an American serviceman in Japan, and the policeman issued no ticket.

Michigan Apples Are Excuse for Many New Recipes

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, The Pontiac Press

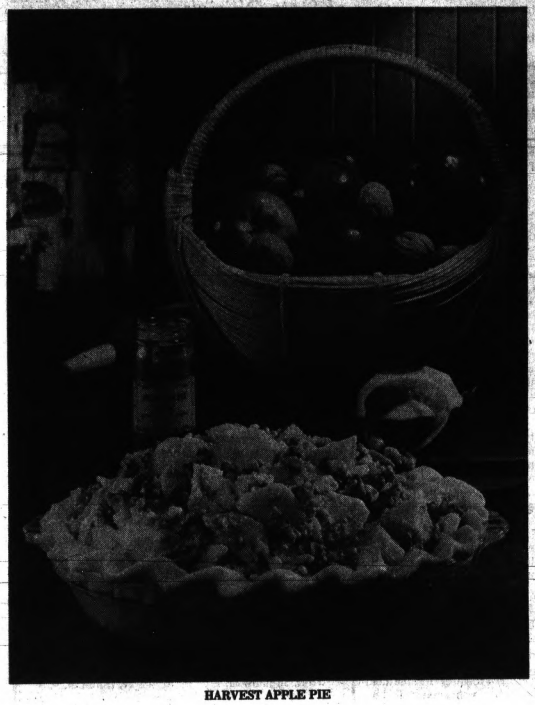
One of the nicest things about living in Michigan is its fruit which at this time of year means apples. They are known all over the country.

In fact, Michiganders who have gone to other parts of the United States to live get positively maudlin when they talk about Michigan apples.

At Oakland County Farmers' Market we've seen Wealthies, Winesaps, Jonathans, Delicious, Greenings and McIntoshes. All but the Greenings are good for eating. Jonathan, Wealthy and McIntosh are all-purpose apples. Winesaps cook well.

Apples require little care at home to keep them in good condition. We keep ours in the refrigerator because we like them a bit on the green side and cold.

But you can leave a bowl of apples on the table for a few days if you want them readily available.



HARVEST APPLE PIE

ARE STORED

Many of the State's 15 million bushels of apples will either be processed or go into Controlled Atmosphere (CA) Storage.

The right combination of oxygen and carbon dioxide in a sealed and temperature-controlled room keeps the apples in good condition for many months. That is the reason you can buy most kinds of apples in the spring and summer months.

★ ★ ★

Should you need any other reason for eating apples than their goodness, you can list their vitamin content; their action as "nature's toothbrushes" and their high pectin content.

★ ★ ★

Pectin, say researchers, is a factor in reducing the cholesterol level in the blood stream and may be helpful in maintaining desired cholesterol levels.

CHUTNEY

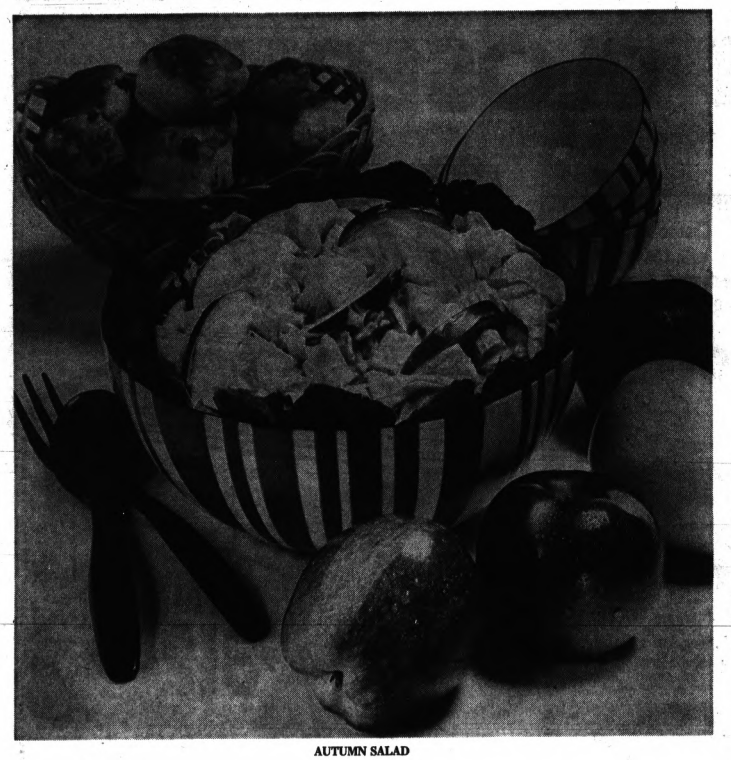
Apple chutney is just what roast pork, or duckling, or turkey calls for. Here's a new chutney recipe — no cooking — just blend, chill, and serve.

★ ★ ★

Place in blender about 4 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 6 tablespoons grated or shredded coconut, 4 onions peeled and quartered, and 4 or 5 apples, pared, cored and quartered. Add the juices of 1 lemon, and about ½ teaspoon salt. Blend a few minutes until well mixed. Chill. Makes 4 to 6 cups.

★ ★ ★

Use in relish tray with celery, olives, watermelon pickle — yummy with any roast.



AUTUMN SALAD

JOHNNY APPLESEED

The reward of family applause when you finish off the meal with this fragrant crumb-topped version of everyone's favorite dessert will be worth the effort.

Harvest Apple Pie

5 cups sliced tart apples
1 cup brown sugar
1 to 2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
9" unbaked pastry shell
Spicy Walnut Topping

Spicy Walnut Topping

½ cup brown sugar
½ tsp. pumpkin pie spice
¾ cup graham cracker crumbs
½ cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup butter, melted

Toss apples with sugar, cornstarch and pumpkin pie spice. Turn into pastry shell. Sprinkle with Spicy Walnut Topping making sure all apples are covered. Place a piece of aluminum foil over top of pie.

Bake on lowest oven shelf in a preheated 425-degree oven 20 minutes. Remove foil and bake 20 to 25 minutes longer until golden brown and bubbly around the edges. Cool before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Spicy Walnut Topping

Combine sugar, pumpkin pie spice, crumbs and walnuts. Stir in butter until crumbly.

Keep some apples in the refrigerator for cool, crisp munching while watching TV. Bake some in the first apple pie of the season. And for luncheon or supper, try this delightful salad.

Autumn Salad

2 cups sliced celery
¾ cup slivered toasted almonds
1 can (1-lb. 4-oz.) pineapple chunks, drained
½ lb. sharp cheddar cheese, cubed
3 red apples
½ cup dairy sour cream
½ cup mayonnaise
Salad greens

Combine celery, almonds, pineapple and cheese cubes. Core apples; do not peel; slice thin; add to pineapple mixture. Combine sour cream and mayonnaise; add. Toss until thoroughly combined. Serve on salad greens. Makes 6 servings.

Select your favorite eating apples and use them as first-course salads, appetizers, or in fruit cups and large mixed salads. Here's an easy appetizer and one the men of the family will approve—so will guests .

Apple-Herring Appetizer

Herring tidbits packed in wine sauce are served with crisp slices of unpeeled red apples, and crunchy salted crackers — a melding of flavors indescribably good — an appetite provoking pre-dinner appetizer intriguingly different. Add small glasses of well-chilled apple cider for an added flavor fillip.

To please your family, here is a recipe for ever-popular pork chops, this time browned in a mixture of honey and Kitchen Bouquet, seasoned with spices and combined with two autumn favorites — tart red apples and moist golden yams.

Pork Chop, Yam and Apples

4 pork chops, about 1 lb.
2 tablespoons honey
1 teaspoon Kitchen Bouquet
4 medium-size yams
2 medium-size, tart apples
½ cup apple juice or cider
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg

Trim excess fat from chops. In a large skillet, combine honey and Kitchen Bouquet; place over low heat. Place chops in skillet, turning to coat meat on all sides with Kitchen Bouquet mixture. Increase heat to medium and brown chops.

Meanwhile, pare yams and cut into ¼-inch rounds. Pare and quarter apples and cut into thick slices. Remove chops and add a little apple juice to skillet, stirring to loosen browned bits.

COOK IN SKILLET

Arrange yams and apples in skillet and top with chops. Combine remaining apple juice and seasonings; pour over chops. Bring skillet to boil, then cover and cook over low to medium heat until chops and yams are tender, about 45 minutes.

Baste chops with apple juice now and then; if necessary, add a little more apple juice. If desired, garnish with a little chopped parsley. Makes 4 servings.

"Beau Knot" Apple Dumplings are stuffed with walnuts and spices, then enveloped in a cheese pastry. Topped with a jaunty bow, baked to a golden brown, then served warm with Hot Lemon Nutmeg Sauce, these are a special treat.

Beau Knot Apple Dumplings

3 cup sifted flour
1½ tsp. salt
1 cup shortening
1½ cups (6 oz.) sharp Cheddar cheese, grated
½ cup water
6 small Winesap apples, peeled and cored
4 tablespoons (½ stick) butter or margarine
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup walnut meats, chopped
¼ teaspoon cinnamon (optional)
¼ teaspoon nutmeg (optional)
Hot Nutmeg Sauce

Sift flour and salt into large mixing bowl; cut in shortening and cheese with pastry blender (or 2 knives) until mixture is crumbly. Sprinkle water over mixture, a tablespoonful at a time, stirring with a large fork until dough holds together. Measure out ½ cup dough and save for making bow knots.

Peel and core apples. Cream butter or margarine with brown sugar in small bowl; add walnuts and spices; stuff this mixture into prepared apples.

Divide dough into 6 parts, then roll each part to an 8-inch square on a lightly-floured pastry cloth or board. Place a stuffed apple in the center of each square; using a pastry brush, moisten edges of dough with water. Fold pastry up and around apple; pinch edges to seal.

Place each of the 6 dumplings in a 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan. Roll out the dough saved for bow knots into a 6-inch square; cut into 12 strips, each ½ inch wide.

DOUGH BOWS

To make bow, loop ends of one strip of dough toward center, fold a second strip over the middle. Moisten top of dumplings (attach 2 strips of dough as streamers, if desired) and place bow on each dumpling, pressing down lightly at middle. Attach to top of dumplings with wooden picks.

Make 12 small rolls of foil, about 1½ inches long (by shaping around handle of wooden spoon) and stick through loops so bows will hold shape while baking. Bake in hot 425-degree oven until pastry is just golden and apples are tender. Test fruit with a long thin metal skewer or wooden pick.

If pastry browns before apples are soft, reduce temperature to 325 degree after first 15 minutes. Be careful not to overbrown. Carefully remove foil rolls by twisting gently to loosen; remove wooden picks.

Serve warm with Hot Nutmeg Lemon Sauce. Makes 6 dumplings.

Hot Nutmeg Lemon Sauce

½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch dash salt
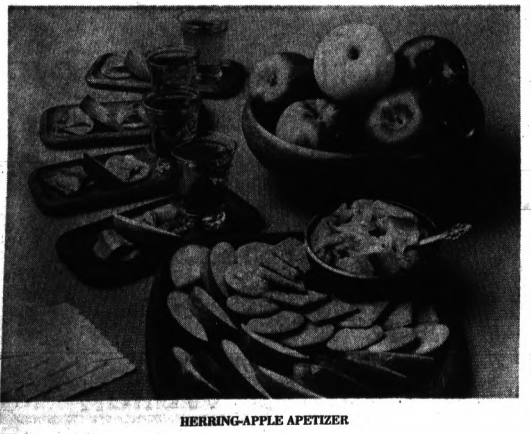
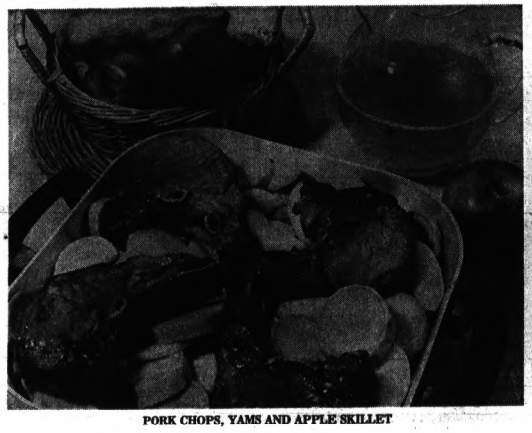
dash nutmeg
1 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ tablespoons lemon juice

Mix sugar, cornstarch, salt and nutmeg. Gradually add water. Cook over low heat until thick and clear. Add butter and lemon juice; blend well. Serve over Beau Knot Apple Dumplings. Makes 1½ cups sauce.

You don't have to wait for the holidays to make these yummy good apples-on-sticks—the children love them. They are tops for selling at church, club and school bazaars — they make party-table decorations if you indulge your taste for fancy toppings.



HERRING-APPLE APETIZER



PORK CHOPS, YAMS AND APPLE SKILLET

BEAU KNOT APPLE DUMPLINGS

Bright Pimientos Add Color to Bread

Bread-making is such a satisfying task — helps fulfill that creative urge we all have. And nothing beats the wonderful aroma of home-made bread, just as no other bread tastes so good.

There are two types of home-made bread (in addition to the packaged mixes, which need no explanation). They are: (1) the quick breads, which use baking powder or soda as a leavening agent, and are baked immediately after mixing; and (2) the yeast breads, which require yeast, of course, and need a little advance planning to allow time for shaping and rising before baking.

Below are two recipes in the quick bread classification: Pimiento Nut Bread and Pimiento Muffins. Following these is Pimiento Skillet Bread, which is made from a packaged mix which has yeast in an envelope in the package, so perhaps it should be classified as "easy-yeast" bread.

And following that is a recipe for Pimiento Spoon Bread. People don't make spoon bread much any more, so it might be fun to occasionally bake and serve this old-fashioned dish.

Pimiento Nut Bread

2½ cups all-purpose flour
¼ cup sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 cup milk
1 jar or can (4 oz.) pimientos, drained and cut in pieces
1 cup chopped walnuts

Sift dry ingredients together; mix egg and milk. Add egg-and-milk mixture to dry ingredients and mix quickly until ingredients are all moistened. Stir in chopped pimiento pieces and nuts.

Turn into a greased 8-inch by 1½-inch round pan, or use a 7-inch by 5-inch loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 45 to 50 minutes. Makes 1 loaf.

PIMIENTO MUFFINS

2 cups all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
1 cup shredded sharp cheese
½ teaspoon caraway seeds
1 jar or can (4 oz.) pimientos, drained and chopped
1 egg
1 cup milk

Sift dry ingredients and cut in shortening (using two knives or pastry blender) until particles are about the size of rice. Stir in cheese, caraway seeds and pimiento. Beat egg into milk and add this mixture all at once to dry ingredients.

Fill greased muffin cups ⅔ full and bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 1 dozen muffins.

PIMIENTO SKILLET BREAD

1 package hot roll mix
¾ cup lukewarm water
1 egg
1 jar or can (4 oz.) pimientos, drained and chopped
½ cup grated sharp cheese
Butter

Dissolve yeast (envelope in hot roll mix) in lukewarm water. Stir in remaining ingredients, following label directions. Round up and place in a greased bowl; cover and let rise about 40 minutes, or until double in bulk.

Spoon dough into a greased baking dish, skillet or casserole, approximately 7-inches by 2-inches (or use an 8-inch square pan). Brush top generously with melted butter, cover loosely and let rise 30 minutes.

* * *

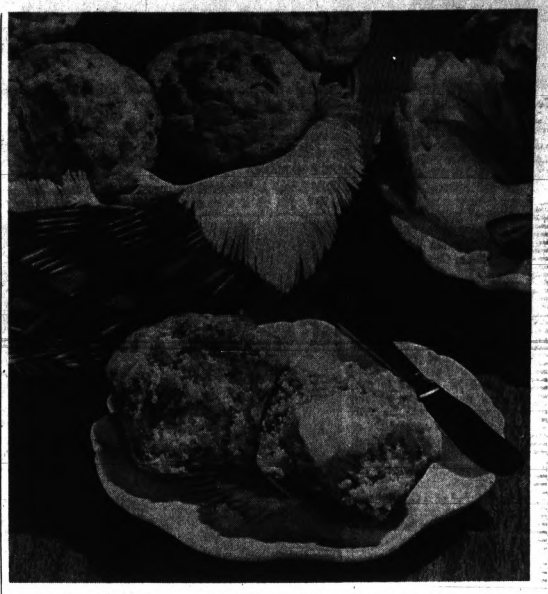
Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, about 30 minutes, or until golden brown. Makes 1 loaf or pan.

PIMIENTO SPOON BREAD

¾ cup corn meal
1½ cups cold water
2 cups shredded cheese
¼ cup butter or margarine
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
1 cup milk
4 egg yolks, beaten
½ pound bacon, cooked and crumbled
1 jar or can (4 oz.) pimientos, drained and chopped
4 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Cook corn meal and water to a mush. Add cheese, butter, salt and garlic powder; stir in milk, egg yolks, bacon and pimientos; fold in egg whites and turn into a greased 2-quart casserole.

Bake at 325 degrees for 65 to 75 minutes. Serve warm with butter. Makes 6 servings.



PIMIENTO BREADS — Don't you love the smell and taste of home-made breads? Shown here are two quick breads (the spur-of-the-moment kind): Pimiento nut bread and pimiento muffins. In the center of the photograph is pimiento skillet bread, which is made from a hot roll mix, and which might be termed an "easy-yeast" bread.

ONION 'N' HAM MUFFINS — Combine 2 cups biscuit mix; 1 can (3-½ oz.) french fried onions, crumbled; ½ teaspoon salt and a dash of cayenne pepper in a large bowl. Blend 1 well beaten egg with enough milk to make 1⅔ cup liquid and a small can deviled ham. Gradually add to dry mixture, stirring with a fork until dry ingredients are just moistened. Do Not Overmix. Fill 12 greased or lined muffin tins ⅔ full. Bake at 400 degrees until golden brown, about 25 minutes. Makes 1 dozen muffins.

Easy Shrimp Dish Has Italian Flavor

Before World War II, oregano was a herb seldom used in this country. With the return of American G.I.'s, who had acquired a real affection for Italian foods, oregano became so popular that its use increased 5200 per cent during the next two decades. Oregano adds zest to seafoods, vegetables, salads, and, or course, pastas.

If you have never tried cooking with oregano, the International Shrimp Council suggests you start with this recipe for Shrimp Roma.

SHRIMP ROMA

1 pound peeled and deveined shrimp, fresh or frozen
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon butter
1 clove garlic, minced
1 medium onion, sliced
2 (8-ounce) cans tomato sauce
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dried oregano
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
½ pound shell macaroni, cooked and drained

If shrimp are frozen, let thaw on paper toweling to absorb moisture. Heat olive oil and butter in skillet. Add garlic and onion; saute until tender but not browned. (If desired, garlic clove may be added whole and removed before serving shrimp.)

Add shrimp and saute about 2 minutes, until cooked through. Add tomato sauce, salt, oregano and parsley to skillet; simmer over low heat 5 minutes. Serve over hot cooked shell macroni; garnish with parsley.

* * *

If desired, sprinkle with grated Romano or Parmesan cheese. Makes 4 servings.

Bean Relish Has Touch of Curry

Cury is the surprise ingredient that adds zest to this unusual relish.

Kidney Bean Relish

1 can (15 ounces) red kidney beans, drained and rinsed in cold water
3 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
¼ teaspoon curry powder

In a bowl lightly toss together all the ingredients. Makes about 2 cups.

BEANS AND FRANKS CHILI — In a saucepan, cook ¾ cup chopped onion in 1 tablespoon butter or margarine until tender. Add 1 can (16 oz.) beans and franks in tomato sauce, ½ cup cooked corn and 2 tablespoons chili sauce. Heat; stir now and then. Makes 2-3 servings.

Police Chiefs Defend Use of Chemical Spray as 'Humane'

HONOLULU (AP) — "Since we started using chemical sprays, we have practically eliminated the nightstick. It's better than hitting a man over the head," says Police Chief Joseph C. Hall of Asheville, N.C.

His endorsement of chemical spray devices was typical of the reaction of police chiefs interviewed today at the 75th annual conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

★ ★ ★

Police Chief Thomas Cahill of San Francisco, the association's first vice president, said city supervisors there have prohibited police from using chemical agents because of possible eye injuries, but "I personally think we should be allowed to use chemical agents under certain conditions." He said he felt pressure spray devices "are a valuable weapon in the control of violence with a minimum of hazard involved."

"It is a substitute for the gun or nightstick," said Cahill, "and I have seen serious injury and even death as the result of the gun and club."

'LESS HARMFUL'

"Certainly chemical agents are less harmful than shotguns, rifles, clubs or even handcuffs," said Chief Silver Suarez of Springfield, Ill. but he cautioned police should not become careless in their use of such items.

"In the hands of an untrained policeman, the use of a chemical agent could result in a charge of police brutality," Suarez added. "We cannot become careless in their use or else we will destroy any good to come out of them."

★ ★ ★

Chief Paul Shaver of Albuquerque, N.M., said there has been "a lot less use of the nightstick since the introduction of chemical agents.

"We have found to our experience that it has not caused any ill feeling. The men on the beat are very strong in favor of the use of chemical agents."

'MORE HUMANE'

Chief Elmer A. Briscoe of Reno, Nev., felt "it is a lot more humane than using the nightstick or another weapon."

★ ★ ★

J. Prestom Strom, chief of the South Carolina Law Enforcement Division, said one policeman can immobilize four or five people without doing any permanent injury by using a chemical spray device, so "it gives the policeman an added sense of security."

★ ★ ★

Chief Edmund McNamara of Boston, Mass., said "chemical agents are a police tool just as the gun, vest, helmet or anything else."

"We have used chemical agents 50 or 60 times and have found it to be most humane," said Chief Dana Hummer of Topeka, Kan.

Daniel P. McMahon, sheriff of New York's Westchester County, said "there has been no conclusive proof that the use of chemical agents will cause permanent injury. This is a more desirable weapon than being forced to use firearms."

Lloyd Robertson, deputy superintendent of the Arizona Highway Patrol, feels a report by the U.S. surgeon general on the use of chemical agents was taken out of context by critics. The report said there was a need for additional research on the use of chemical agents.

★ ★ ★

The president of the association, Chief Leonard G. Lawrence of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, said chemical devices are the "most humane way to handle disorders. They are preferable to other means of restraint."

★ ★ ★

However, he said, the association believes an "exhaustive investigation is needed to determine the best chemical to use."

State to Check Northern Road Office Closings

LANSING (AP) — Two northern Michigan lawmakers have won a pledge from the State Highway Commission that it will give further thought to plans to close its offices in Alpena, Escanaba and Cadillac.

But the commission declined Tuesday to overturn a resolution it approved last month, which would reduce the number of highway district offices in the state from 10 to 8 at an estimated annual saving of $306,000.

★ ★ ★

Reps. Charles Varnum, R-Manistique, and Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena, urged the commission to reconsider closing the three northern offices. Another proposal, to replace the Pontiac and Detroit offices with an office in Southfield, was not opposed.

Swallow and Frank McCourt, president of the Alpena Chamber of Commerce, said State Commerce Department studies indicate future growth in northern lower Michigan will radiate from Alpena and Traverse City.

CALLED UNWISE

The offices, Swallow said, should remain in the east and west portions of the area, rather than being merged into an office at Gaylord, in the central portion.

Varnum opposed a proposal to close the Escanaba district office and merge its duties with the offices in Crystal Falls and Newberry.

Closing the Escanaba office, with its 25 employes, "means we'd lose a payroll of $232,775 a year," Varnum said. "There isn't a community in the Upper Peninsula that can afford to lose anything of this type."

U. S. Army Does About-Face on Viet Salute-or-Fight Order

SAIGON (AP) — The commander of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division withdrew today his order that soldiers who failed to salute be sent into combat.

Cancellation of the order was announced in Washington Tuesday after officials admitted that the Army had been embarrassed by its disclosure.

★ ★ ★

Maj. Gen. Charles P. Stone, division commander, was quoted by a spokesman in Saigon as saying that the order was rescinded because of "widespread misinterpretation."

The salute-or-fight order appeared in the division's daily bulletin on Sept. 7. But a spokesman said it had been in existence since February and that the bulletin announcement was only a reminder of the order.

ORDERED FORWARD

It said that men in rear base areas who did not salute would be sent to forward areas.

Four soldiers were sent to combat zones under the order before Sept. 7, a spokesman said, and another four had been sent since.

★ ★ ★

There was no indication in Washington as to who acted to get the order canceled. But a statement from the Pentagon indicated the problem was thrown into the lap of the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams. The statement said, "The Army considers this a matter of concern for the local command."

Stone said Monday that the order came "only after a flagrant violation" of the custom of saluting superior officers.

COUNSELED ON SPOT

"Most often," he said, a soldier "is counseled on the spot and he may or may not be referred to his unit commander for additional training or other appropriate action."

★ ★ ★

The 4th Division has its headquarters at Camp Enari, just outside Pleiku in the central highlands. It numbers about 15,000 men.

"The enforcement of military discipline in the Camp Enari base camp area," Stone said, "has as its purpose the improvement of responsiveness and alertness in this garrison.

★ ★ ★

"This area has approximately 8,000 personnel. The effectiveness of our effort to maintain a high state of military discipline at Camp Enari is attested to by the fact that in the two years the division has been located in this area it has suffered only two fatal casualties as a result of enemy action against this installation."

7 Set to Serve Lawyer Probe

DETROIT (AP) — The president of the State Bar Association, Gilbert H. Davis, named seven lawyers Tuesday to serve on a special grievance committee to probe charges of alleged misconduct filed against certain Livingston County lawyers.

The committee, vested with subpoena power, will be chaired by George E. Bushnell Jr.

★ ★ ★

Davis said the bar procedures provide for the implementing of censure, suspension or disbarment of lawyers found to have engaged in misconduct.

The trial by the committee will be open to the public only if requested by the lawyers charged.

OTHERS NAMED

Others named to the special committee are Avern L. Cohn, Harold E. Mountain Jr., Thomas L. Munson, Louis F. Simmons Jr., Robert C. Winter and Richard C. Van Dusen.

★ ★ ★

The misconduct charges grew out of criticism of the county's judicial system. James C. Turner, a magazine publisher alleged that a number of estates have been plundered, including one in which one of the heirs was on welfare.

★ ★ ★

Circuit Judge James R. Breakey Jr. of Ann Arbor convicted Turner on a contempt charge and sentenced him to 15 days in jail and fined him $150. Turner has appealed.

Blue Shield Will Expand Its Benefits

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Association of Blue Shield Plans yesterday amended its regulations to provide for an all-expense medical insurance program.

The expanded benefits should be available not later than next April, the association announced.

★ ★ ★

The association includes 72 U.S. Blue Shield plans, nine in Canada and one in Puerto Rico, providing medical insurance protection for 63 million persons.

John W. Castellucci, association president, said the paid-in-full benefits program would be based on physicians' "usual, customary and reasonable" charges.

★ ★ ★

The program would include such things as physical examinations, outpatient psychiatric care and dental care along with the usual hospital and post-operative items.

New Potato Dishes Are Easy

A campaign to discredit what is today America's favorite vegetable, the potato, is thought to have brought about its nickname, spud.

When potatoes were introduced in England several hundred years ago, British wheat growers feared competition from this new food. They even made up rumors that potatoes were dangerous to eat and started a league against them, the Society for the Prevention of Unwholesome Diet. From its initials came spud.

★ ★ ★

A native of the Western Hemisphere, the potato was discovered as a leading food crop in the Andes from Columbia to Chile by 16th century Spanish explorers. They brought samples back to Spain, and from there potatoes gradually spread throughout Europe.

IN 18th CENTURY

Irishmen settling at Londonderry, N. H., in 1719 are credited with raising the first potatoes in quantity in the United States; and today the vegetable is grown in every state of the union.

One of the best potato producing areas is still in the northeast, however. It's the state of Maine, where 1/7 of the country's spuds are grown.

Though baked, fried and mashed potatoes are always popular, the Maine Potato Commission suggests trying them in Katahdin Casserole and Fort Kent Foiled Potatoes.

KATAHDIN CASSEROLE — Katahdin is a place in Maine. What better title for a casserole made with one of the state's famous products — potatoes?

KATHADIN CASSEROLE

4 cups diced potatoes
1 small onion, minced
½ cup minced celery and leaves
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning

Cook potatoes in small amount boiling water for 5 minutes. Drain. Stir in remaining ingredients and turn into greased shallow baking dish. Bake at 375 degrees about 30 minutes. Serves 5.

FORT KENT FOILED POTATOES

4 medium potatoes
Onion salt
Celery salt
Freshly ground pepper
½ cup Parmesan cheese
½ cup butter or margarine
Aluminum foil

Scrub potatoes and cut into julienne strips, as for French fries. Divide on 4 squares of aluminum foil.

★ ★ ★

Sprinkle each pile with onion salt, celery salt, pepper and 2 tablespoons of the Parmesan cheese, as uniformly as possible. Then dot each with 2 tablespoons butter.

Close foil loosely, allowing room for steam to escape. Bake at 425 degrees for 30 to 60 minutes. Serves 4.

Fresh Cauliflower Baked With Ham

Orchids to the cook who does right by the cauliflower! This is one of the most convenient of all the fine, fresh foods Mother Nature provides for our enjoyment.

Once a rich man's delicacy, cauliflower is now year-round, easy on the budget, easy to cook, even easier to eat. It teams up with almost any red meat, poultry or fish and its nippy flavor makes it a general favorite with men.

★ ★ ★

Cauliflower is so quick and easy to cook — that it sometimes gets away from cooks. Overcooking is fairly common with a resulting loss of texture, color and flavor.

INCH OF WATER

To cook cauliflower most appteizingly, run an inch of water into a saucepan. Add a teaspoon of salt, and possibly a teaspoon of fresh lemon juice to keep the "curd" white, then bring to a boil.

★ ★ ★

Cook flowerets five minutes without a lid, then cover and cook another 7 to 10 minutes, or until just "crisp-tender" when tried with a fork. A whole head should cook for an additional 5 minutes covered, but in any case, try under-cooking cauliflower if your previous cooking method hasn't been too successful.

★ ★ ★

Another successful hint: don't start cauliflower too far in advance of the meal, for it can overcook while it's being kept warm.

★ ★ ★

There are ever so many ways of serving cauliflower. A cheese sauce poured over a whole head is delicious. Or, sprinkle flowerets with fine bread crumbs browned in butter.

★ ★ ★

Another idea is to slice cauliflower very thinly, marinate in French dressing for a half hour, add to a tossed green salad. Or, try these excellent and unusual cauliflower recipes which come to us from the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association.

★ ★ ★

Like its cabbage cousins, cauliflower is a good source of vitamin C, some of the vitamin B group and contains calcium and iron. Weight-watchers will be delighted that a whole cup of cooked cauliflower yields a trifling 30 calories! What more can you ask of a vegetable?

CAULIFLOWER AND HAM CASSEROLE

4 cups sliced fresh cauliflower
½ cup boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1¼ cups milk
1½ teaspoons salt
¾ cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
2 cups diced cooked ham or luncheon meat
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ cup soft bread crumbs
Cooked cauliflowerettes for garnish

Place cauliflower, water and the 1 teaspoon salt in a saucepan. Bring to boiling point, uncovered, and cook 3 minutes. Cover and cook until partly done, about 3 minutes. Drain and set aside for later use.

★ ★ ★

Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan. Blend in flour. Gradually stir in milk. Cook until of medium thickness, stirring constantly. Add ½ teaspoon of the salt and cheese. Stir until melted.

★ ★ ★

Arrange cooked cauliflower and ham in alternate layers in a 1-quart casserole, sprinkling each layer with remaining salt. Pour cheese sauce over all. Melt remaining 1 tablespoon butter or margarine in a saucepan, mix with bread crumbs and sprinkle over the top.

★ ★ ★

Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 35 minutes or until crumbs are brown. Arrange whole cooked cauliflowerettes around edge of casserole for garnish. Yield: 6 servings.

Flavor chocolate pudding mix with Great Western Solera Sherry and a sprinkling of cinnamon. Serve topped with shredded coconut or chopped walnuts.

Broiled Bananas Start Day Right

Crumble-top bananas make great breakfast bait. Combine ¼ cup each of firmly packed brown sugar and melted butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon of lemon juice, ½ teaspoon of cinnamon and 3 crumbled round shredded wheat biscuits.

Peel 3 large bananas and cut in half crosswise, then slice lengthwise. Place on broiler rack. Spoon topping over each banana slice. Broil 1 to 2 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 6 servings.

Quick Sauce Made for Salmon Steaks

Use a convenient frozen vegetable with its sauce!

Glazed Salmon Steaks with Creamy Onions

1 package (9 ounces) frozen small onions with cream sauce
4 salmon steaks, ½ inch thick (about 1½ pounds)
Minced fresh parsley or dill
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon seasoned salt

Cook onions with cream sauce according to package directions. Remove skin from around salmon and place in a greased shallow baking dish into which steaks just fit. Sprinkle with remaining ingredients.

★ ★ ★

Pour onions with sauce over fish. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes or until fish flakes easily with a fork. Broil for a few minutes to glaze. Makes 4 servings.

Cook With Coffee

Make coffee custard from a 3¼-ounce package of vanilla pudding mix. Combine mix with 2 cups of cold brewed coffee and ½ cup of light cream in saucepan. Bring to full boil, stirring constantly. Chill covered. Serve with whipped cream or prepared whipped topped. Makes 5 servings.

TEEN AGE PARTY PIZZAS — Place one package (10) flaky biscuits on a baking sheet. Bake 10-14 minutes at 375 degrees or until golden brown. Cool and carefully split in half crosswise. Spoon 2 to 3 teaspoons tomato paste onto each half. Cut 8 slices American, pimiento or Swiss cheese into quarters and place one on each pizza. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan, and Romano cheese. Return to 375-degree oven for 3-5 minutes or until cheese melts and tomato paste is thoroughly heated. Makes 20 pizzas.

Low Calorie Milk Shake Is Nutritious

Busy homemakers can get a quick lunch by beating up in an electric blender six ounces of milk, two tablespoons of wheat germ and one-half banana. Milk should be cold. The shake is tasty, nutritious and relatively low in calories.

Send for a Party Book

For planning party knackery and snackery, California ripe olives are on the scene, if not stealing it. With this in mind, "Ripe Olive Boutique Book of Party Ideas" was designed for teen cooks. It includes little and not so little recipes and party suggestions for quick dips and nibbles, snacks and sandwiches and special occasion dishes.

★ ★ ★

California ripe olives are real smoothies—smooth skin, smooth flavor and smooth texture. They come in cans, instantly ready to use.

Interesting background on the ripe olive industry is highlighted in a folder "Ripe Olives — California's Exclusive Fruit." They are a multi-million dollar industry in California.

About 30,000 acres in Central Valley produce 99 per cent of all American grown olives. Canned ripe olives are available everywhere in the United States and in some foreign markets as well.

★ ★ ★

Both the industry folder and the "Ripe Olive Boutique Book of Party Ideas" are available without cost. Send your request to: Olive Administrative Committee, Dept. HE, 516 North Fulton, Fresno, California 93728.

STAYING LOOSE — Flipping a ball during a brief workout at Tiger Stadium in Detroit yesterday is outfielder Al Kaline, the Tiger's star so far in the series, and the club is hopeful he'll deliver when the Bengals take on the St. Louis Cardinals in St. Louis today.

Brown Awaits Right Moment

Tigers Really Feeling 'Pinch'

By JERE CRAIG
Sportswriter, Pontiac Press

ST. LOUIS — The St. Louis Cardinals may have found the secret to containing one of the Detroit Tigers' most potent assets during the 1968 American League pennant race:

Gates Brown.

The "Gater," as he is affectionately known, has only been to bat once in the World Series — he hit a weak fly ball off Bob Gibson in the opener — after leading all Tiger hitters during the season.

Of course, his chief value was as a pinch hitter, stroking 7 clutch safeties for what is believed a club record and posting a .474 average in the pinch. Over-all, Gates swung at a .370 mark and hit six home runs.

Before the classic with the St. Louis Cardinals began he said he wouldn't mind not playing in the series. "I would like that," he said. "Anytime I'm in the game, then I know we're in trouble."

* * *

It hasn't worked that way. Gates hasn't seen action since last Wednesday and the Tigers are in trouble. The Host Redbirds need just one more win to clinch the rich winning player's share of about $11,100 per full share. The losers are due $7,200. What has happened is that St. Louis has managed to build such big leads that manager Mayo Smith of the Bengals hasn't had but a couple chances to go with his ace pinch hitter at a key point.

One of those was Monday in the seventh inning of the fifth game. But the Tigers' pilot elected to stay with pitcher Mickey Lolich who promptly singled to ignite the game winning three-run rally.

How did Gates react to the move? "We were only a run down, and Mickey was in the groove. Mayo's been pulling the strings all year," the rugged lefty swinger noted. He made the right move."

* * *

Then Gates gazed thoughtfully, "What day is this?" It's been a week since the Series started . . . I haven't swung a bat in a week . . . ," he said shaking his head slowly.

CLEANING UP — Detroit manager Mayo Smith takes care of some last-minute paper work yesterday as Tiger Stadium before he and the Tigers headed for St. Louis where they'll meet the Cardinals in the sixth game of the World Series today. The Tigers went through a light workout in Detroit before the trip to St. Louis.

Stanley Believes Infield Is Tougher

ST. LOUIS — When Mickey Stanley switched from center field to shortstop, he also switched his thinking. Now he believes infielders deserve higher pay than outfielders.

"Maybe other people" — outfielders, perhaps? — "don't agree, but after playing shortstop, I believe it," Stanley said as the Detroit Tigers prepared to try and even the series at three games each today.

Stanley is recognized as one of the best defensive outfielders in the American League, but Manager Mayo Smith asked him to play short against St. Louis so the Tigers could have the benefit of Al Kaline's potent bat.

* * *

"Playing shortstop is more work," said the 26-year-old blond who played the position in only eight games before the Series. "Playing the outfield is like taking a vacation. It really is.

"There's a lot more mental strain for an infielder. Ball games depend on him more.

"You can get a bad jump on a ball hit to the outfield and still catch it, and people won't notice it. But if you don't get a ground ball hit a few feet in front of you, everyone sees it.

* * *

"An infielder who has a comparable year with the bat should make more money than an outfielder. He's worth more."

Nevertheless, Stanley says he'd rather play the outfield — "unless there's a difference in the money I'd make."

Smith intends to put Stanley back in center field next spring, but he's completely satisfied with the way his gamble has turned out.

WORKING OUT — St. Louis pitcher Ray Washburn gets the kinks out of his legs in a workout in Busch Stadium in St. Louis yesterday in preparation for the sixth game of the World Series with the Detroit Tigers today. He's the Cards' probable starter.

McLain, Sparma, Wilson or Hiller Could Get Call

ST. LOUIS — By the time you read this, manager Mayo Smith of the Detroit Tigers may have decided on his starting pitcher for today's sixth game of the World Series.

After working out in Detroit Tuesday, the Tigers arrived late in St. Louis and no one except Smith knew who would start against Ray Washburn of the Cardinals.

In fact, Smith admitted he wasn't even sure saying, "But even if I make up my mind, I won't announce until I get to the park."

Denny McLain, Earl Wilson or Joe Sparma are the three of whom Smith was deliberating.

Maybe, even John Hiller, a southpaw like Mickey Lolich, could be considered.

DENNY READY

McLain, who was shelled in his first two Series starts, had a cortisone shot Monday to treat his inflammated right shoulder and pronounced himself ready after warming up during the workout.

"It feels real good. I haven't been able to do this for two months," he said after throwing hard for 13 minutes.

* * *

Wilson, the loser in game No. 3, is nursing a pulled hamstring muscle in the back of his right leg. He also worked out Tuesday and reported some improvement.

Sparma, hit hard in relief in the fourth game, has spent much of the season in Manager Smith's doghouse.

"Mayo told me earlier if someone got hurt, I would be the fourth pitcher," Sparma said during the workout. "But he hasn't said anything."

The Tigers left the firm imprint of their backs on the wall by prolonging the Series with a 5-3 victory in the fifth game. Now they face another problem, even if they win today's sixth game.

GIBSON WAITS

In the wings for the Cardinals is the imposing figure of Bob Gibson, the ace right-hander who already has beaten them twice and has tied a Series record with seven consecutive victories and set another with a 17-strikeout performance in the opener.

"I don't want to pitch anymore," said Gibson, obviously hoping the Cardinals don't need a seventh game to clinch their second consecutive world championship.

Both teams went into the sixth game with two regulars in prolonged slumps which bordered on Series records. Bill Freehan, Detroit's slugging catcher, and Dal Maxvill, the Cardinals' smooth-fielding shortstop, are both 0-for-16 and closing in on the 0-for-21 frustration record set by Gil Hodges with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1952.

Lou Brock of the Cardinals has been the major thorn in the side of the Tigers. He is hitting .524 with 11 hits in 21 at bats, including two homers. He has stolen a record-tying seven bases and pledged to go for No. 8 if he gets an opportunity.

The Series was following the pattern set in 1967 when St. Louis and Boston split the first two games and then the Cards took two straight, leaving the Red Sox on the brink of elimination.

Boston bounced back to win the fifth and sixth games but lost the seventh and the Series when Gibson beat them for the third time.

Bengals Hope for Overcast

Weather Threatens Sixth Game

ST. LOUIS — Baseball's image as a sunshine sport, given a brief lift Monday after its fearful battering Sunday in Detroit, may have another jolt today if the forecast of showers and thunderstorms is realized.

The sixth game of the 1968 World Series is assured of a capacity crowd of more than 54,600 in beautiful Busch Memorial Stadium in downtown St. Louis with near 70-degree temperatures but under less than sunny skies.

TIGERS HOPEFUL

While the players, fans and news media undoubtedly have had their fill of wet weather after Sunday's miserable condition, the underdog Detroit Tigers likely are hopeful of an overcast day.

The players were unanimous during games one and two in the Mound City of evaluating this spacious new ball park as a fine place to see the ball delivered by the pitcher, but a terrible one for picking it up off the bat.

FEW SHADOWS

There are no shadows behind the plate and the box seats are low, making for a difficult backgound for the fielders. If there is a bright sun, the glare only compounds the problem.

The Bengals, trailing three games to two, are having enough trouble with their defense, being charged with nine errors to just one by the St. Louis Cardinals. The Tigers, naturally, are hoping to repeat their improved defensive efforts of Monday when they stayed alive in the series with a 5-3 victory.

DUBIOUS RECORDS

Should the Detroiters falter this afternoon, catcher Bill Freehan and first sacker Norm Cash, two of the better glove men at their positions, may get their names in the record book.

Freehan already has equalled the mark for most errors by a catcher in the Series with two, and Cash is one shy of former Detroit star Hank Greenberg's three at the initial sack. Both are six-games marks. Neither Cash nor Freehan is close to the record for seven games.

On the positive side, Tiger star Al Kaline could become the 13th player in Series history to hit safely in every game of a six-game Series. Similarly, Cardinal's Lou Brock and Curt Flood have cracks at joining the list if they can produce today. Should the Series go seven games, 17 players already managed a hit in every game.

The list includes two former Tiger stars, Pete Fox in the six-game 1935 classic, and Charlie Gehringer in 1934's seven-game epic. Cardinal ace Bob Gibson's 27 strikeouts this fall set a new record if the series ends in six. Otherwise, he will need five more for a seven-game series mark.

Washburn Faces Detroit

'Dead Body' After Big Kill

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A 'Dead Body' the St. Louis Cardinals refused to leave behind hopes to make the big kill in the 1968 World Series.

Ray Washburn, whose nickname, Dead Body, seemed appropriately maudling when his pitching arm gave out five years ago, goes after the series clincher for the Cardinals in Wednesday's sixth game against Detroit.

"It's coming down to the wire now," the husky right-hander said Tuesday. "I'd like to be able to end it tomorrow."

* * *

The role of Series undertaker would be an ironic twist for Washburn, whose big league career appeared doomed in 1963 when he twice tore muscles in his pitching shoulder.

"He was practically finished," said Manager Red Schoendienst. "But he wouldn't quit. We sent him down to the minors and he started to strengthen the arm. Each year he's been progressing a little further.

* * *

"He was there all the way for us this year. He did a really good job. We have a lot of good pitchers on this club but I don't know where we'd be without him.

"You've got to give him a lot of credit for coming back the way he did."

* * *

After winning 30 games in three previous years, Washburn recorded a 14-8 mark in 1968 and pitched a no-hitter against San Francisco. He won his first Series start 7-3 last Saturday with relief help from Joe Hoerner.

Warden Lists Chances to Play: Slim, None

ST. LOUIS — Detroit Tiger relief pitcher Jon Warden says he has two chances of playing in the World Series — "slim, and none."

He is the only Tiger who hasn't seen at least token action in the first five games of the Series, which St. Louis leads three games to two.

"I'd like to get in a game, there's no doubt about it," said the easy going rookie southpaw, who turned 22 Oct. 1.

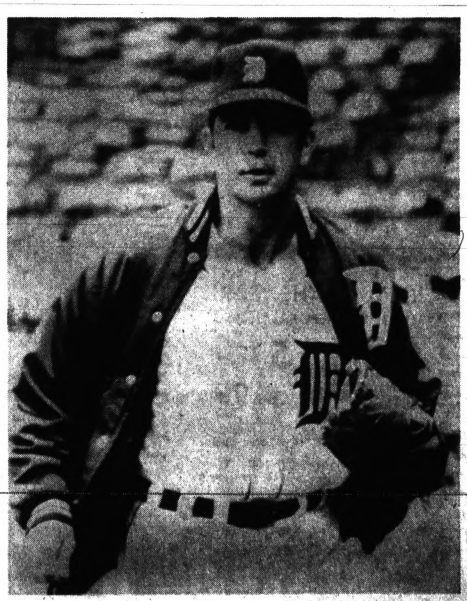
Ex-Yank Martin, Twins' Cal Griffith in Baseball Huddle

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP) — Minnesota Twins President Calvin Griffith said he met Tuesday with Billy Martin, but they did not discuss formally the vacant managerial post on the American League baseball team.

Griffith said Martin, former N. Y. Yankee star, managed some of the players the Twins might protect at Denver during the 1968 Pacific Coast League season.

Griffith said the Twins definitely have decided to protect these players: Harmon Killebrew, Tony Oliva, Rod Carew, And Ted Uhlaender.

The complete list of protected players will not be made public, he said. Griffith said he would not name at this time what pitchers the Twins will protect.



AP Wirephoto

MAY GET CALL — Hoping he'll get the call on the mound for the Detroit Tigers in the sixth game of the World Series today is St. Louis is Tiger right-hander Joe Sparma. The names of Sparma, Dennis McLain and Earl Wilson were being tossed about as today's probable starter. Manager Mayo Smith was mum.

Bump, Duffy Wary as Big Game Nears

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Coach Bump Elliott, saying "I'm not surprised at State at all this year," paced his Wolverines through a long, hard workout Tuesday to get ready for the rivalry — charged Michigan-Michigan State battle this Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Michigan's trouncing of Navy last weekend left the Wolverines with just one injury — flanker Paul Staroba battered his knee and will be out for at least one game, Elliott said. However, Staroba had been replacing John Gabler and he's fit to return to the lineup.

There were indications that Michigan would be taking to the air as it sought its first win over MSU since 1964.

EAST LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan State Spartan defensive backs and linemen rushed through a heavy tackle session Tuesday in an attempt to toughen up an already strong point.

The Spartans take on the University of Michigan Saturday and Coach Duffy Daugherty hinted he might even be a little afraid.

Daugherty called U-M's quarterback Dennis Brown "a dangerous threat," adding Michigan has "two fine tight ends in Jerry Imsland and Bill Harris."

SELLOUT AGAIN

Saturday's match at Ann Arbor will be the 21st straight sellout dating back to 1948.

During these years, it is estimated 1.9 million football fans have packed the games in the Michigan or Spartan Stadium.

With another sellout of 103,000-plus assured, the attendance total will top the 2 million mark after this weekend.

★ ★ ★

Michigan holds the lead in the series with 36 wins to 19 losses and five ties. But State has the edge in recent years with a 13-3-2 won, lost and tied count since 1950.

Last year, despite a poor season, Michigan State won by a surprising 34-0 score. The last Michigan win in the series was 17-10 in 1964 at East Lansing.

Finley Is Undecided on Two Players

OAKLAND (AP) — Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland Athletics, revealed Tuesday the players he will protect from the major league expansion draft later this month.

The Oakland Tribune reported that Finley has decided on 13 of the 15 players he will protect and will choose between three more to fill the remaining two spots.

The Tribune said Finley, now at the World Series in St. Louis, will protect:

Pitchers John Odom, Jim Nash, Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Chuck Dobson and Lew Krausse; infielders Danny Cater, Dick Green, Bert Campaneris, Sal Bando and Ted Kubiak; outfielders Reggie Jackson and Rick Monday and catcher Dave Duncan.

NEW YORK (AP) — Six American players will participate in the Olympic Games Tennis Tournament later this month, it was announced Tuesday by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

The men are Herb FitzGibbon of Garden City, N.H., Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., and Jim Osborn of Honolulu.

Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., Valerie Ziengenguss of San Diego, Calif., and Julie Heldman of New York will play in the women's tournament.

The Games tennis tourney is classified as a demonstration sport and no medals will be awarded.

Titan Harriers Post First '68 Victory

The Titans of Pontiac Catholic checked in with their first cross-country win of the season yesterday, a 20-35 nod over Riverview Gabriel Richard.

Sophomore John Cassani broke his own record with a time of 10:49 — the old mark was 10:54 — in pacing the win. Trailing Cassani for the Titans were Pat Lenz (2), Rudy Martinez (4), Chuck Gallagher (5) and Steve Hoffman (8). The Titans are now 1-1-1 on the season.

OCCUPATIONAL HAZARD — Northwestern quarterback Dave Shelbourne has to be impressed with the Purdue defense. Only Shelbourne's feet at showing here beneath a stack of Purdue defenders whose weight totals 893 pounds. In on the tackle are Bob Yunaska (58), Chuck Kyle (60), Bill Yanchar (72) and Billy McKoy (88). Play such as this is one reason why the Boilermakers are ranked first in the nation.

Highland Lakes Keeps Winning

The barrier Highlanders of Highland Lakes campus of Oakland Community College show no sign of letting up.

★ ★ ★

In a quadrangular at St. Clair Community College yesterday, the Highlanders took five of the first six places in winning the meet with 18 points. Washtenaw (48) placed second, followed by Macomb (81) and St. Clair (97).

★ ★ ★

Leading the Highlanders was freshman Roger Cleaver with a time of 15:45. Helping Cleaver with the scoring were John Nadolni (2), Brian Schultz (3), Harold Boone (4) and Julian Gloomis (6).

Ed Bailey placed seventh and Craig Owen ninth in unscoring positions for the Highlanders.

Brawny Buckeyes Next for Purdue

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A football coach doesn't believe in turning the other cheek . . . particularly if his name happens to be Woody Hayes.

The Ohio State pilot has been laying for Purdue ever since his Buckeyes took a 41-6 thrashing from the Boilermakers last fall.

Saturday at Columbus, Hayes gets his rematch in a game that could swing the Big Ten championship to the survivor.

★ ★ ★

Purdue goes in with an unblemished record and the top spot in the national rankings. But the brawny Bucks are unbeaten, too, and Hayes has enough talent at his disposal to avenge Ohio's darkest day in 1967.

You can bet he'll do just that . . . despite Leroy Keyes.

★ ★ ★

This is the way some of the coming weekend's other key pairings are picked by the Associated Press:

Penn State over UCLA: The Bruins' offensive shortcomings were evident in last week's loss to Syracuse. Penn State's rugged defense should compound the problem.

★ ★ ★

Mississippi over Georgia: The Rebs are flexing their muscles after knocking off Alabama for the first time since 1910.

Kansas over Nebraska: One vote for Jayhawk quarterback Bob Douglass in this Big Eight archrivalry.

Oklahoma over Texas: The Sooners have a score to settle too . . . Texas handed them their only regular season setback in 1967.

Michigan State over Michigan: Duffy Daugherty has something going again at East Lansing.

Texas A&M over Texas Tech: The Aggies have had their usual early troubles . . . but they're going to make plenty of late trouble in the Southwest Conference.

Miami, Fla., over Louisiana State: Miami's Ted Hendricks is big enough to put the Tigers in his tank.

Wildcat Harriers Improve Record

Oxford's Wildcats ran their record to 7-1 yesterday with a 19-44 cross-country victory over Lutheran East.

Leading the way for the Wildcats was Jim Goodfellow with a time of 10:23. Following the leader for the 'Cats were Dennis Clack (2), Jim Acheson (3), Lee Royer (6), and Steve Brill (7).

Mark Sheldon and Dave Schlach ran four-five for Lutheran East.

Chief Harriers in Loop Win

Jon Costello checked in with a 10:07 time yesterday in leading Pontiac Central to victory in a triangular cross-country meet.

★ ★ ★

The Chiefs totaled 25 points, followed by Saginaw Arthur Hill (51) and Saginaw (52).

Ken Long ran third for the Chiefs and Mike Martin took the No. 4 spot.

Harrier Triumph for Hazel Park

Warren Krueger cracked the course record yesterday in 10:97.4 to lead Hazel Park to victory in the Redford Union Cross-Country Invitational.

The Hazel Parkers totaled 48 points, followed by Redford Union (93), Livonia Franklin (117), North Farmington (124), Farmington (145), Dearborn (169), Pontiac Northern (177) and Milford (308). Bloomfield Hills Lahser was 13th and Bloomfield Hills Andover 18th.

Unitas Tests Sore Arm for First Time

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Colt quarterback Johnny Unitas moved from the sidelines to the practice field Tuesday to test his sore arm under playing conditions for the first time in a month.

★ ★ ★

Coach Don Shula hasn't ventured any predictions, however, about the availability of his ace passer for this weekend's National Football League clash on the West Coast against the San Francisco 49ers.

★ ★ ★

"How can I say anything now?" said Shula after watching Unitas perform during the brief workout. "It (the arm) is just like it was last week.

★ ★ ★

"If he keeps improving in practice, and that is the only way I can tell if he is ready, then I will make the decision."

Earl Morrall, who led the Colts to a 35-10 victory over the 49ers in his Baltimore debut four weeks ago, has quarterbacked the team to four straight victories.

Rally Earns Victory

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — The Boston Celtics, defending National Basketball Association champions, rallied in the second half to defeat Cincinnati 98-86 in an exhibition game Tuesday night.

Wings' Bergman Signs 2-Year Pact

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings announced Tuesday the signing of defenseman Gary Bergman to a two-year contract and the signing of three other Wings to one-year pacts.

Others joining the fold were goalie Roy Edwards, and defensemen Ron Harris and Bart Crashley, leaving only veteran left winger Dean Prentice unsigned.

★ ★ ★

Bergman, who turned 29 earlier this week, is a four - year veteran of the National Hockey League and has played two consecutive seasons without missing a game. Last season he was the second highest scoring defenseman in the league with 13 goals and was named to the NHL All-Star team at midseason.

AFTER ILLNESS

Edwards, 31, is battling Roger Crozier for the regular goaltending job. After recovering from an off-season bout with pneumonia, Edwards appeared in seven exhibition games and posted a 1.38 goals against average. He came to the club last year when Crozier quit for several weeks in midseason and played in 41 games.

★ ★ ★

Harris, a 26-year-old converted defenseman, came to Detroit in a trade with the Oakland Seals. As a right wing last year he scored four goals and six assists with the Seals.

★ ★ ★

Crashley, at 22, is starting his second NHL season. In 57 games with Detroit last year, he scored two goals and picked up 14 assists.

The Wings open the regular season Friday in Boston after a successful exhibition showing in which they won eight, lost two and tied one.

Two of the preseason victories were against their top farm club, Fort Worth. The rest of the schedule included NHL competition.

★ ★ ★

Highlight of the exhibition season was back-to-back shutouts against Toronto. The Wings also counted a 4-2 victory over defending East Division champion Montreal.

Against the Bruins, Detroit split a pair, losing 7-5 and coming back the next night to win 5-4.

Firebirds After Revenge

The Pontiac Firebirds, out of the Midwest Football League title race, will be playing a role of spoiler with an attitude of vengeance Saturday night.

The Lackawanna Lancers, a big rugged team from the Buffalo area, visit Wisner Stadium still in strong contention for the MFL crown.

The Lancers defeated Pontiac 6-0 earlier this season, winning the game after a pass interception in the closing minutes.

The Firebirds did everything but win that game with its defensive unit, but as it happened both quarterbacks then Bill Harrington and Bob Pomeroy were sidelined by the 4th quarter and the Pontiac offense was at a standstill.

Things may be different for this contest as the Firebirds are planning to start newcomer Doug Holcomb against Lackawanna.

Holcomb made his first appearance last week in the final quarter against Dayton and threw a 26 yard touchdown pass to Greg Hanson.

He had four completions for 85 yards in his short appearance.

Dayton coach Ed McCracken offered a sigh of relief after the Colts took a 15-7 decision from Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

"I'm glad he wasn't in there sooner, "McCracken said of Holcomb, "he throws the ball real sharp."

★ ★ ★

Holcomb, a 23 year old coach at Lake Orion, was a backup quarterback at Purdue when All-American Bob Griese was leading the Boilermakers.

Game time Saturday is 7:30 p.m.

Orr Will Play Against Detroit

BOSTON (AP) — Coach Harry Sinden says All-Star defenseman Bobby Orr now is definitely expected to play in the Boston Bruins' National Hockey League opener against the Detroit Red Wings Friday night at the Garden.

The 20-year-old Orr, who has been stepping up his conditioning program gradually after knee surgery last summer, was held out of exhibition games but is participating in scrimmages now after receiving medical clearance.

Australia Favored in Golf Tournament

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — The host Australian team was tabbed the favorite today in the scheduled opening round of the 1968 Eisenhower Cup world amateur golf championships.

The Aussies were rated the favorite because of their familiarity with the two separate 18-hole layouts at the Melbourne Golf Club.

Wet and blustery cold weather conditions curtailed practice rounds Tuesday.

Golden Boy Tag Awaits Spitz

Holds World Records in Butterfly Events

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mark Spitz, a lean 18-year-old marvel with swimming speed to match his confidence, could be the Golden Boy of the 1968 Olympics.

Don Schollander, his teammate on the Santa Clara S.C. of California, was the outstanding aquatic star of the 1964 Games in Tokyo when he won four gold medals.

The handsome, dark-haired Spitz has a solid chance to win five and possibly six gold medals here because of the expanded swimming program.

BIG SCHEDULE

The 6-foot, 160-pound kid with hands like shovels, will swim in the 100 and 200 butterfly events, the 100-meter freestyle, the 400-meter freestyle and medley relays and possibly in the 800-meter freestyle relay.

He holds the world record in the two butterfly events and is one of the best in the world in the freestyle.

* * *

Spitz qualified for the 800-meter relay team but Coach George Haines said he would have to wait and see before deciding whether his protege at Sanata Clara will swim a 200 meter leg in that relay.

"He has the 100 butterfly final the same night and we'll wait and see whether he should try a double," said Haings.

Mark would like to give it a try.

"We all came down here to win," said Spitz, who arrived with the full swimming squad Tuesday.

Spitz said he had a little cold during the high altitude training at Colorado Springs, Colo., but feels fine now.

"I've become acclimated to the altitude," he said. "I'm swimming faster now than I ever have."

Army Major 'Marked Man'

Czech Sports Hero Speaks Out

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Czechoslovakia's Emil Zatopek, one of the all-time sports heroes of the Communist world, told today how he risked imprisonment and perhaps death in speaking out against the Soviet-led occupation of his country six weeks ago.

"I talked on the street corners and on television," he said. "My friends warned me of the danger—that the intruders had been instructed to shoot to kill at the rise of any demonstration.

"I was not afraid. I told my friends that the Russians were more frightened than we were. They were acting out of fear. They were afraid that their political system might fall under the weight of freedom and social progress."

The slightly built Zatopek, who established an unbelievable and unmatchable feat of Olympic endurance in 1952 at Helsinki by capturing gold medals in the 5,000 and 10,000-meter runs and the marathon, is a visitor at the 19th Games as guest of the international olympic committee.

RELUCTANT

He and his wife, Dana, winner of the women's javelin in 1952, are quartered at a fashionable hotel. They are reluctant to go to the Olympic Village.

"It is very bad for me," Zatopek said. "The Russians were my friends and fellow competitors in many Olympics. They come up to me and say, 'Emil, we are glad to see you. Come visit with us.'

* * *

"The Soviet track coach, Gabriel Korobkov, visits me and wants to talk. I can't say, 'go away.' I am a sportsman. I smile and try to be nice.

"One of the heads of the soviet delegation says, 'Emil, Vladimir Kuts (famed Russian distance runner) is coming into the airport Thursday. He is most anxious to see you.' Vladimir and I run in many races together. But I cannot be seen at the airport greeting him. Then I am a collaborator."

Zatopek is a major in the Czechoslovakian Army and an important member of the Ministry. He is now bald and at 154, 20 pounds heavier than when he broke the tape at Helsinki with thousands yelling in unison: "Zat-o-pek! Zat-o-pek!"

But his body still is muscled and firm, and his blue eyes still spark with fire when he talks of long-distance running or the social problems of the world, both of which are important in his life.

Those blue eyes welled up a bit with water as he sat beside the hotel pool, after a two-hour swim, and talked of his harrowing experiences after Warsaw pact tanks roared into his beloved Prague last Aug. 21.

"I was instructed that I might be a marked man," he recalled. "I went to the home of a friend and dropped from sight for three days.

"After three days, it became obvious that there was not too much danger. The Czechs were united. 'Don't worry, Emil,' a Ministry official told me, 'if the Russians try to arrest you, we will arrest them.'

Viking Back Tops Scoring; Kicker Second

NEW YORK (UPI) — Halfback Bill Brown of the Minnesota Vikings is giving a pair of kicking specialists a run for their money in the race for the National Football League's scoring championship.

* * *

Weekly NFL statistics released today showed Brown leading the scorers with 48 points. Kicking specialist Pete Goglak of the New York Giants was runnerup with 40 points while another kicker, Mike Clark of Dallas, was third with 33.

Both Gogolak and Clark accumulated their entire scoring output by field goals or conversions.

* * *

Brown retained the scoring lead with a pair of touchdowns in last Sunday's 24-10 win over Detroit.

Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants replaced Don Meredith of Dallas as the league's top passer. Tarkenton has 46 completions in 80 attempts for a 57.5 completion average and 803 yards.

Gayle Sayers of the Chicago Bears retained his status as the league's top ball carrier, with 361 yards in 58 attempts for a 6.2 yard average.

Lineman on Waivers

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Veteran lineman Dudley Meredith was placed on waivers Tuesday by the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

Large Buck Bypassed During Western Hunt

By DON VOGEL

"There's a buck; he's a big one!"

Floyd Engebretsen pointed toward a group of large rocks along a hillside on his eastern Wyoming ranch. We were a half mile away as Floyd stopped the pickup truck and reached for his binoculars.

* * *

The mule deer was lying down, but looking at us. His head and antlers were clearly outlined against the large rock. Floyd figured he would go at least four points (western count.) The antlers were very heavy.

"That's the best one we've had around here for a number of years," he said. I sighed, put down my field glasses, and we drove off. The deer season didn't open for another week. Already that day we had seen eight other bucks, including five in a bunch — each with a rack that would have made most Michigan hunters more than happy.

And they are going West in greater numbers each year for this reason.

Earlier in the day I had taken the antelope that was the reason for the brief trip West. The Engebretsen ranch and those adjoining it are dotted with herds of pronghorns.

POSSIBLE PROBLEM SEEN

"We could use more antelope hunters," said Floyd. "Right now they (antelope) aren't hurting our pastures too much, but if the herds keep growing like they are, we could be in for trouble."

This area near Lusk is cattle ranching land and pasture is the most important item. Antelope join the cattle in the fields, feeding on the same weeds and grasses.

* * *

Although we saw a good number of buck mule deer among the draws, rocks and pine covered hills, hunting for the long-eared cousin of the whitetail isn't the best.

"The deer can't stand too much pressure," said Floyd, who has spent 25 years ranching his present spread. "A few years ago they had a two-deer limit in here and it cut the herd way down."

There will be about 20 hunters — nine from Oakland County — after the bucks on his ranch and the one to the north when the season opens tomorrow. Although the land is open, these hunters will find that the mulleys are about as spooky as antelope, hard to see (they blend with the background), and very adept at using the available draws, crevices and rocks to escape.

SOME TURKEY HUNTING

A huntable flock of wild turkeys has been established north of Lusk and the range continues into the Black Hills of South Dakota. An effort is being made to establish elk in the hills southwest of Lusk near Glendo reservoir.

Poaching has been a problem, but the Wyoming game commission issued 30 hunting permits to area ranchers as a test season.

Once a major cattle sale center, Lusk has now yielded to its neighbor of Torrington, 85 miles to the south. The 1970 census probably will show that the population has decreased slightly from the 1,800 of the last count. This is the local speculation.

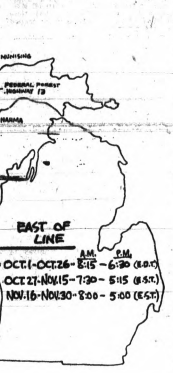
* * *

Niobrara County has several tourist attractions, offers good antelope hunting and is within easy driving of Mount Rushmore.

There is a sufficient number of motels. We stayed at the Covered Wagon and were more than satisfied. Restaurants can be inconsistent in service, but the food is generally good and reasonably priced.

Groceries are quite high and I would recommend anyone planning to camp in that area to take along all the nonperishables possible.

Getting a deer or antelope processed, frozen and packed for trip home can be costly. This can be cut by skinning the animal out yourself before having it processed, packaged and frozen, and doing your own packing and icing.



New Hunting Hours on Migratory Fowl

Shooting Times Changed

Local Duck Outlook Good

The local outlook is good for Thursday's opening of the duck and goose season. But the overall prediction for the entire season is far from bright.

"There are plenty of local ducks," said Howard Greene, game biologist at the Conservation Department's Pontiac Lake district office.

* * *

"Duck populations are starting to build up at the St. Clair Flats. But we aren't sure whether these are ducks moving south or being chased across the lake by hunters on the Canadian side."

Duck hunting in Ontario opened Saturday.

CHANGES MADE

There are several changes in regulations for Michigan's season. The two biggest are restricted bag limits and a change in the shooting hours.

Shooting cannot begin Thursday until 11 a.m. EDT. Thereafter, shooting hours will be 8:15 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. EDT through Oct. 26. When the state goes back on standard time Oct. 27, the shooting times will be 7:30 a.m. to 5:15 p.m. EST through Nov. 15. From Nov. 16 to 30 the time will be 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. EST.

* * *

The above times are for the Lower Peninsula and eastern U.P.

The duck season has been cut 10 days and it will end Nov. 8. Geese may be hunted until Nov. 30. A small game license and duck stamp are needed to hunt ducks and geese. Snipe, rails and coots also become legal targets Thursday.

BAG LIMITS

Under this fall's basic bag quotas on ducks, there are special restrictions on several species in short supply.

* * *

By day and in possession, hunters may have only one mallard, one black duck, two wood ducks, and one canvasback OR one red-head duck.

* * *

Whatever the kill combination for these and other birds covered by the basic bag limits, the overriding quotas are three birds per day and six in possession.

* * *

Goose hunting, already under way in Northern Michigan, will be extended to cover the southern third of the state. There will be two major exceptions, namely in the managed hunting units of the Allegan State Game Area and the Sagiaw County Goose Management Area where goose shooting will be delayed until Oct. 22.

* * *

That postponed opener is part of a plan to help build up the 2 areas' resident goose populations. The Saginaw County Area will be open to duck shooting on October 10, but there will be no hunting action in the Allegan State Game Area until October 22.

SOME TEAL

Black ducks and mallards make up a good share of the local duck population along with the usually moderate supply of wood ducks, said Greene. There are a few concentrations of teal.

The curtailment in bag limits was triggered by a nesting season on the Canadian prairies rated a "near-bust" by waterfowl experts.

There will be a special season on bluebills (scaup) Nov. 9-24 on the Lower Detroit River and upper Lake Eries. There will be a daily limit of six bluebills, but only during this special season.

Lamprey Control Resumes

After a delay of more than a year, chemical treatment of lamprey-producing streams on the Lake Huron front shifted back into gear last week, the Conservation Department reports.

The Lake Huron program was resumed to gain lost ground when federal crews moved into the Ossineke area of Alpena County where they are headquartering their treatment operations for this fall.

* * *

On the list for immediate treatment are Devils Creek in Alpena County, Black River in Alcona County, Silver Creek in Iosco County, and the Au Gres River in Arenac County.

* * *

Carefully measured doses of lampricide may be applied in other Lake Huron tributaries this fall if treatment of these first four streams can be carried out in time.

Chemical treatments on Michigan's Lake Huron side have been stalled since last year because of a lack of federal appropriations.

* * *

Some 9,000 applicants will receive the good word or get the bad news this week stemming from the Conservation Department's machine drawing to determine which 1,500 of them will be issued permits for the Nov. 1-10 turkey season in the Mio and Baldwin areas.

* * *

The computerized drawing was held last week and the department is mailing results.

FREE DIRECTORY AVAILABLE

Free copies of a directory listing licensed shooting preserves open to public hunting in Michigan during the current 1968-69 season are now available through the Conservation Department's Game Division in Lansing.

* * *

The directory gives the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of some 30 such pay-to-hunt areas. It lists their game targets and groups them according to the conditions under which they are open to the public. Many of them require reservations and some are open only under memberships.

Waterfowl Club to Hear Dingell Discuss Controls

Congressman John Dingell (D-Detroit) will speak before the Oakland County Duck Hunters Club Oct. 16.

* * *

Dingell, one of the leading exponents of conservation on the Washington scene, will discuss gun control and wetland acquition legislation.

* * *

The meeting will be at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club and start at 7:30 p.m. It is open to the public.

Rainbows in Maceday

The Conservation Department stocked 10,000 rainbows in Maceday Lake Tuesday. The fish range in size from six to 10 inches.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By John Carter

How well do you know your pro football? . . . Here's a little quiz for you on five of the biggest stars in pro football today . . . See if you can name the college where each of these men played before becoming stand-outs in the pro leagues . . . Here they are . . . Johnny Unitas . . . Gale Sayers . . . Fran Tarkenton . . . Joe Namath . . . and, Bart Starr . . . Where did they each go to college? . . . Here are the answers . . . Unitas, Louisville . . . Sayers, Kansas . . . Tarkenton, Georgia . . . Namath and Starr, Bath Alabama.

* * *

Of all the men who have ever played big league pro football, which one scored the most touchdowns in one season? . . . The answer is Gale Sayers . . . He holds the all-time major league pro football record, set in 1965 when he scored 22 TDs in that one season.

* * *

Can you imagine a football team having 64 yards to go for a first down! . . . That actually happened to Northwestern in a game several years ago . . . A series of penalties gave them 2nd down and 64 yards to go . . . That may be a record.

* * *

I bet you didn't know . . . that our 4-ply Douglas Wide-Oval tire is giving outstanding mileage and performance. They really drive and handle far better than conventional tires. I should know — I've got them on my '65 Chevy Wagon.

D. C. Negro Shot; Police Limit Unrest

WASHINGTON (AP) — A neighborhood still bearing the scars of last April's riots was hit by a brief but violent racial disorder Tuesday night after a white policeman killed a Negro man he had stopped for jaywalking.

* * *

Helmeted police moved in quickly to saturate the slum neighborhood after word spread rapidly on the streets that a man had been "shot for jaywalking."

* * *

Moving from corner to corner in shotgun-armed cars, they fired tear gas to disperse crowds of 250 persons or less in the half-dozen blocks of 14th street just north of U street.

This is an area whose honky-tonk character disappeared behind damage-hiding sheets of plywood in the wake of the riots following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

DAMAGE LIMITED

Tuesday's damage was confined to one five-gutted three-story auto supply store, and two dozen or so smashed windows, notably those in the showroom of an automobile display room.

By midnight, the streets had been cleared of all but a few stone-throwers, but were littered with glass, bricks and concrete easily found in the still uncleared rubble from April, and overturned trash cans. Only one arrest was reported.

* * *

There was some discrepancy between eyewitnesses and police, and among eyewitnesses themselves, as to what actually happened to provoke the shooting of Elijah Bennett, 22.

* * *

Acting Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson said the officer, Pvt. David A. Roberts, was riding his motorcycle to the scene of an accident when he saw a truck stopped in 14th street blowing its horn at a man crossing in front of it.

MAN KEPT WALKING

When he reached the curb, Wilson said, Roberts asked him to stop but he kept walking. The patrolman then parked his motorcycle and walked up to the man, the acting chief said, telling him "Sir, I want to talk to you."

At that point, Wilson related, the man struck Roberts in the shoulder, still saying nothing, then pummeled the officer's face and mouth. Roberts, feeling he was losing consciousness, drew his pistol and fired once, the acting chief said.

One eyewitness, Interior Department Clerk Leroy Marshall, told the Washington Post that after Roberts had parked his cycle, he grabbed the man by the arm.

The man wrenched his arm away, slapping Roberts across the face in the process, Marshall said, and the officer pushed him back, stepped backwards himself, bent to one knee and fired.

WITNESSES AGREE

Several other eyewitnesses agreed with Marshall, but still others said that the man struck Roberts down and was "getting the better of him" when the policeman fired from a crouching or prone position.

Last July 14th a Negro civilian was shot and killed by police, who said the man attempted to flee a supermarket burglary.

* * *

That brought a statement from the city's Black United Front that if the shooting of Negroes by police was to be ruled justifiable homicide, then the shooting of police by Negroes should get the same ruling.

That shooting did bring a justifiable homicide ruling.

PROTEST LAUNCHED

Tuesday night's trouble started after 60 to 75 persons drawn together by word of the shooting held an impromptu protest meeting in front of the New School for Afro-American Thought, two blocks from the shooting scene.

An estimated 60 young persons at the meeting decided to protest by jaywalking en masse in the 14th and U. Streets intersection. Shortly afterward attempts were made to break into the safeway supermarket just south of U Street.

Police moved in, but several store windows were smashed, trash barrels along the street were set on fire, traffic was blocked and several bricks, bottles and other missiles were thrown at cars before tear gas scattered the estimated 250 protestors. An unoccupied police cruiser was destroyed during the disorder.

The hermit crab lives in abandoned mollusk shells for protection and eats food which gathers on the shells.

Brinkley Rips Daley 'Myth'

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — NBC newscaster David Brinkley told an audience of 550 students at Princeton University Tuesday night that "the American people are being told a myth that what they saw happen in Chicago during the Democratic Convention did not really happen."

* * *

The newsman said Chicago officials were accusing network television of "visual trickery to make police look bad" during demonstrations outside the convention.

* * *

"The truth is that some of the demonstrators were pretty obnoxious, but even if they did everything that Chicago City Hall has accused them of, that would still not justify all the brutality, the viciousness and the savagery of Mayor Richard Daley's police," he said.

County Board OKs School Land Transfer

A land transfer from the Waterford School District to the Huron Valley School District was approved last night by the Oakland Schools Board of Education.

A second request for a land transfer from the Walled Lake to the Waterford School District was denied by the board.

A jagged portion of land which jutted out into the Huron Valley School District but belonged to the Waterford Schools, located east of Oxbow Lake has been assimilated into the Huron Valley district.

The move now makes the Huron Valley district's boundary a straight line.

* * *

IN WHITE LAKE

The property involved in the transfer has an assessed evaluation of $79,950. It is located in White Lake Township.

Only one student David Popovich, of 9650 Highland, is affected by the transfer. He is a 14-year-old ninth grader at Mason Junior High School. The Huron Valley Board of Education will pay his tuition until he graduates from the Waterford school.

After considerable discussion and map study, the board denied the mutual request from the Walled Lake and the Waterford School districts to transfer about nine acres at Union Lake and Elizabeth Lake roads.

* * *

The land, also north of the Huron River, was requested to be transferred to the Waterford District. But regardless which district the unoccupied property belongs to, the river blocks the easy flow of traffic.

The assessed value of the property is $20,950.

CLASSROOMS APPROVED

In other action, the board approved addition of two adjusted study classrooms and two rooms for perceptual (sensory) development for the fourth elementary school in the Huron Valley School District. The cost will be $122,530.

A contract for $34,710 for the improvement of existing classrooms for trainable mentally handicapped students was approved for the Morse Elementary School in the Troy School District.

* * *

The rooms were built in 1956 and will be changed for the special education use.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

Muriel Humphrey took on Jane Muskie and Lady Bird Johnson in a bowling match on the White House lanes. Was she after the sporting vote?

"You betcha—any and all," said Mrs. Humphrey, wife of the Democratic presidential nominee.

MRS. HUMPHREY

The women kept up a running patter during yesterday's match. "Oh, stay up there," said Mrs. Humphrey as her ball edged toward the gutter and later, "That was an accident," as she made a strike.

"That's the story of my life," Mrs. Muskie joked when she bowled two balls and still had one pin left standing.

The score after four frames: Humphrey, 50, Muskie, 44, and Johnson, 36.

Dem, 75, to Marry Girlfriend of 50 Years Ago

Rep. Wright Patman, 75, D-Tex., marries Mrs. Pauline Tucker, 71, today in Texarkana. His Washington office said the wedding would take place at 5:30 p.m.

PATMAN

"She and I went together for a couple of years when I was 21 and she was 17. Then she married, and I married, had children and grandchildren. Now she's a widow and I'm a widower," Patman said.

Patman, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, has been in Congress since 1929. His wife died 16 months ago. Mrs. Tucker is the widow of Ben Tucker of Texarkana, who died six years ago.

Baltimore Girl Throws Out Her Chest

Jeanne Cairoli, 50-26-38, of Baltimore, thinks she can top the other attractions in the bust-watching craze that has Wall Street agog.

"I feel they're not so great," she says. "I think I'm bigger."

Miss Cairoli, an Argentine exotic dancer with the stage name of Miss Wow Wow, would like to walk down Wall Street "just to prove to myself that I'm better than the other ones."

But New York girl watchers will have to wait because she's booked through November.

Miss Cairoli doesn't think its ridiculous that 5,000 businessmen should crane their necks to look at a big-busted girl. "I think a nice looking girl with a big bust could stop anybody in the world."

Oscar-Winner Seeks to End Contract With Studio

George Kennedy, who won an Academy Award last April as best supporting actor for his role of the tough-talking, soft-hearted convict in "Cool Hand Luke," wants to end his 1967 contract with Universal City studios.

In a Superior Court suit filed yesterday, he said the contract doesn't meet provisions of producers-Screen Actors Guild agreements.

The contract calls for Kennedy's appearance in the film, "The Epic of Josie" and for him to make seven more films for the studio, one each year. The suit did not mention his salary.

Lady Bird's Press Aide Says LBJ Is Relaxed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first lady's press secretary, referri gn otherself as "a mere pinfeather on a lame duck," says Presidnet is so relaxed these days that he's leaving the White House lights on.

Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, who is returning to private when the Johnsons return to Texas in January, included the crack in her repertoire as she addressed yesterday's windup banquet of the two-day annual conference of UPI editors and publishers. John Fitzgerald, editor of The Pontiac Press, attended the conference.

* * *

Another Carpenter crack: creating a new inage for "Richard Miltown Nixon" is "Like putting another coat of paint on an Edsel."

Still another: "only the press could get Wall Street to replace the Dow Jones averages with 47-25-35."

FROM THE SHADOWS

The master of ceremonies at the banquet, UPI White House Reporter Merriman Smith, told the guests Spiro Agnew has "brought American ethnic groups out of the shadows of their hyphens into the good clean air of the derogatory idions."

Smith also said that the press had done all three presidential candidates a great disservice: "We've uqoted them accurately."

* * *

Earlier yesterday, H. L. Stevenson, UPI Managing Editor, told the editors and publishers that "braoder and deeper reporting" can hold newspaper readership against the competition of electronic media.

"We are insisting," he said, "that our men and women wxpand and background, examine and explain an issue, seek the interesting facets of a story often overlooked in the first reports, or relate an event to similar events."

Stevenson emphasized that UPI's "basic business continues to be the reportiny, swiftly and accurately, of spot news." But he said there also is a quest for new ways to present this news in context in order to make "tomorrow's newspaper perishable."

Another speakers, Prof. Edmund C. Arnold of the Syracuse University School of Journalism, said newspapers remain the mainstay of communications.

* * *

"If the American people are to be well-enough informed to keep our Democracy viable," Arnold said, "they must receive most of their information via the printed word."

Arnold suggested one reason so many people are critical of the press is that newspapers are doing a conscientious job of informing the public.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF our beloved husband Sergey Rosin, who left us seven years ago today, Oct. 9, 1961.
Dear husband, out of sorrow
Your absence has brought to my heart
Have grown fragrant flowers of memory,
To bloom all the years we are apart.
Sadly missed by your wife Lena Rosin.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF my dearest father, Sergey Rosin, who passed away seven years ago today, Oct. 9, 1961.
Dear Dad, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with me,
As you always were before.
Sadly missed by your daughter Sonia Schiff.

Borge Leads With His Chin Calling the Missus 'Hippie'

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "Do you like hippies?" we asked Victor Borge who replied, "Only my wife."

"Your wife?"

"She's getting a little hippy lately."

Borge will probably get murdered for that remark especially since his wife isn't a bit hippy. But this is one of those observations which he can't resist. Once, Mrs. Borge saw Sonja Henie across the room in a night club. "She looks wonderful," Mrs. Borge said.

"She should," Borge said. "She's been on ice for years."

WILSON

An interviewer asked him, "How long does it actually take to play 'The Minute Waltz'?" Borge answered: "Fifteen years."

Borge, the Unmelancholy Dane, is trying to be serious lately, especially with the benefit of the "Thanks to Scandinavia Scholarship Fund" he heads Oct. 20 at Lincoln Center. We don't think he'll ever succeed because the quips come too easy as he goes around America concerting, guest-starring for Rowan & Martin and "The Beautiful Phyllis Diller Show."

There was the time the gifted pianist hurt his foot seriously on a concert tour. A doctor, binding up the injury, asked, "But what will you do at the concert tonight?"

"I'll just have to play with my hands," he said.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Paul Sann's book, "Fads, Follies and Delusions of the American People," has been optioned by the Barbra Streisand-Elliott Gould company, "Elbar," for development as a TV special. Barbra's considering portraying some of the faddists . . . Herb Alpert buying the 2½-acre long-vacant Charles Boyer estate in Beverly Hills for 1970 occupancy. (Gotta get tennis courts, etc., in first.)

Boxing champ Nino Benvenuti says he'll fight Don Fullmer in San Remo in December . . . Broadway theaters'll be asked to dim their marquees Oct. 22 — a tribute to Gertrude Lawrence — when "Star" opens . . . Barbra Streisand and Elliott Gould (joined by the Gen. Sarnoffs) sang a happy birthday to "Funny Girl" producer Ray Stark at the La Mirabelle.

EARL'S PEARLS: You're at the awkward age when you're too old to be fired and too young to be retired.—Arnold Glasow.

Peggy Lee tells Copa audiences, "When I started singing in the cafes I got $3 a night and dinner. Now I don't get dinner." . . . That's earl, brother.

A Look at TV

CBS Still Has Mondays

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The season's first national television ratings in which the three networks' new shows competed head-on indicates CBS-TV's Monday lineup is still video's top powerhouse.

That lineup consists of "Gunsmoke," Lucille Ball, "Mayberry R.F.D.," "Family Affair" and Carol Burnett.

★ ★ ★

Covered by the national rankings is the week of Sept. 23-29, in which NBC-TV was broadcasting its second episodes and CBS-TV and ABC-TV were offering premieres.

Although the ratings for the following week — in which there were no premieres — will perhaps be more indicative of viewer reaction, there seems little doubt CBS-TV's Monday series have held rather firmly against NBC-TV's attempt to unseat them nationally.

IMPROVED LINEUP

There is no question that NBC-TV's new Monday lineup — "I Dream of Jeannie," "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" and a movie — is doing much better than the network's original series of last season. And some observers feel this will help NBC-TV greatly in its effort to unseat CBS-TV as the perennial ratings leader.

But Monday on CBS-TV is still that network's cornerstone of ratings success. The top three shows in the national ranking were "Mayberry R.F.D.," Miss Ball's series and "Family Affair."

★ ★ ★

Whether "Mayberry R.F.D." holds up is the only question. It is the successor to Andy Griffith's show, and since his fictional marriage was featured on the debut, it certainly accounted for the episode's great success.

Miss Burnett's series, meanwhile, finished in a tie for seventh and "Gunsmoke" was 20th. Every one of CBS-TV's Monday series finished in the top 20, a spectacular showing — and consistent with last season.

LAUGH-IN FOURTH

"Laugh-In," as indicated in the earlier 30-market survey, is highly successful against tough opposition. It came in fourth in the national rankings, only two positions lower than in the 30-market sampling.

While it is doing very well against Miss Ball and "Gunsmoke," it is quite clear from the ratings these two series are also alive and well in Hollywood.

★ ★ ★

The companion NBC-TV series to "Laugh-In" on Monday did not help it much in the first national rating showdown. "I dream of Jeannie" came in 53rd, and the movie tied for 40th place.

This was an improvement over last season's original NBC-TV lineup of "The Monkees," "The Man From U.N.C.L.E.," The Danny Thomas anthology and "I Spy." But it will take much more firepower to unseat CBS-TV on Mondays. And no one's going to unseat Miss Ball anyway.

Crime Hits Home for Queens Police

NEW YORK (AP) — Councilman Joseph Modugno wrote a letter Tuesday to Police Commissioner Howard Leary saying "that things are getting so bad — and the criminals so brazen — that even the homes of police captains are being burglarized."

Modugno, a Queens Republican, said Capt. Charles McNulty's home had been looted of jewelry and money. At Capt. Martin J. Ryan's home a television set was taken and Detective Sgt. Carl Clark reported theft of a deep freezer. All three live in Queens.

McNulty has "complained to civic leaders about the inadequacy of police protection," the councilman wrote.

Flint TV Station Sold to Iowa Firm

Meredith Corp. announced Tuesday the purchase of WNEM-TV, which serves the Flint-Saginaw-Bay City area of Michigan.

Darwin Tucker, president and chief executive officer of Meredith, said Gerity Broadcasting Co., which owned WNEM-TV, will retain WNEM-FM radio.

If the Tigers win the sixth game of the World Series, the seventh and deciding game would be telecast from St. Louis. Game time is 2 p.m., with pregame shows a half-hour earlier on Channels 2 and 4.

Church Units Like New Film Rating Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — A new film rating system backed by the movie industry was endorsed Tuesday by the movie offices of the Roman Catholic Church and the National Council of Churches.

The system is "consistent with the rights and obligations of free speech and artistic expression, as well as with the duty of parents and society to safeguard the young in their growth to responsible adulthood," said a joint statement by the National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures and the Broadcasting and Film Commission of the National Council of Churches.

★ ★ ★

The classification system, to go into effect Nov. 1 and to be voluntarily enforced by theater managers, would rate films as suitable for general audiences, mature audiences, young people with parents or guardians, or not for young people. The age line is generally 17, but may vary between 16 and 18 in some places.

The church groups said the industry must rate films after "prudent and judicious deliberation." The exhibitors must enforce the restrictions and advertising must clearly indicate the rating.

The jaguar, which may be six to eight feet long, and weigh up to 250 pounds is the largest member of the cat family known to exist in the Western Hemisphere.

Wallace Law-and-Order Record Examined

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — In every campaign speech, George C. Wallace talks about "the breakdown of law and order." He blames the two major political parties and the federal courts.

And, says the third-party candidate, if he is elected president "Your wife can walk to the supermarket or ride the transit system" in safety.

★ ★ ★

Late in September, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey began questioning Wallace's own record for law and order as governor of Alabama.

Humphrey, the Democratic nominee, told the Wisconsin state AFL-CIO convention at Milwaukee, "Wallace, who says he will restore law and order, was governor of a state which has one of the highest murder rates—roughly twice that for the whole country."

CRIME RATE ROSE

During Wallace's administration from 1963 to 1967, he said, the crime rate in Alabama rose 55.6 per cent, exceeding the national average.

At Jacksonville, Fla., on Oct. 2, the vice president charged that the third-party candidate "could not maintain order in his own state—where he had the power—but now he promises to maintain order in every city and state where he will not have the power."

Later that day, he told a crowd at Charlotte, N.C., that he had a better record for keeping law and order as mayor of Minneapolis some 20 years ago than his opponent had as governor.

Wallace had been confronted with Alabama's crime rate before, mostly at news conferences and in interviews. His response on CBS' "Face the Nation" television show Sept. 22 was typical.

SPRINGING ASHORE — French actress Annie Buron hops off a canal boat in Venice, Italy. The willowy star was on hand for a special screening of a film in which she appears.

Alabama has 900,000 Negro residents (about 35 per cent of the population), he said, "and I do not mean to reflect upon people because of color at all, but the crime rate among them against each other, crimes of violence, of assault and murder, is astronomically high.

"Now, I don't know why that is. I don't know why Negro citizens attack and assault one another."

Police departments in Alabama for the most part say they do not keep cumulative crime records by race, but generally they say most of the homicides and assaults are committed by Negroes against Negroes.

★ ★ ★

One police official at Mobile agreed to go back through every murder and assault report for June through August and found, he said, that all five slayings in the city in those three months were crimes where Negroes killed Negroes.

'CRIME IN STREETS'

Of the 97 assaults with gun or knife, he said 80.4 per cent were committed by Negroes against Negroes.

In the context of his campaign speeches, Wallace talks of law and order mostly in reference to "crime in the streets." Most of the offenses in Alabama are committed in homes or beer joints, he says, and frequently involve relatives or acquaintances.

★ ★ ★

He distinguishes between that type of crime and the type which, he says, makes it dangerous to walk in the streets of some of the nation's major cities.

To almost every audience, he illustrates his point in words like these: "If you get knocked in the head when you leave here, the person who knocks you in the head will be out of jail before you get to the hospital, and on Monday morning, they'll try a policeman about it."

NECESSARY STEPS

Alabama has managed to escape disastrous rioting, the public safety director says, primarily because "The people who are prone to riot know the law enforcement officers will take whatever steps are necessary to meet it."

Mann says he has laid down a color-blind policy of enforcement. "My instructions are to treat everybody alike regardless of race and enforce the law equally and impartially."

While Wallace was governor, he increased the strength of the Highway Patrol from approximately 440 officers to 640. He sent them to school to learn riot control, gave them better equipment—including air-conditioned squad cars—and got their pay raised.

Color Flexibility

One of the advantages of light colored woods, such as Southern Pine, for interior paneling is complete flexibility of color. With stain-type finishes, any hue in the spectrum can be applied.

Another Kroger first!
New! full view meat packages that let you

Kroger

SEE BOTH SIDES OF MEAT BEFORE YOU BUY

Any way you look at it... the Kroger cut gives you more meat for your money

Now! Kroger introduces a new clear-plastic tray for all Kroger meat cuts. Together with our transparent film wrapper, this new tray offers you more advantages than any other self-service meat packaging.

* See all sides of meat so you can carefully examine each cut before making selections.
* Ready for your freezer no need to re-wrap or label meats you intend to freeze.
* Meat won't stick to tray even when frozen. No cardboard fuzz to stick to meat.
* Natural juices are preserved no blotting away by cardboard—no leaking out.
* Clean sanitary trays won't change meat flavor—just protect it.
* No extra cost to you for enjoying the advantages of Kroger meats in clear-plastic trays.

* Remember, if you don't see what you want in our self-service cases, press the buzzer and a meat expert will care for your needs.

VEAL CUTLET Tender meat trimmed of excess fat and bone all around. See for yourself!

T-BONE STEAK Entire long, fatty tail removed—excess bone and waste cut off. See for yourself!

PORK CHOPS Meatier—with just enough fat for flavor. See for yourself!

ROUND STEAK Excess center fat removed—outside fat trimmed to no more than ½-inch. See for yourself!

SIRLOIN STEAK Less-tender end removed—excess fat and bone trimmed off. See for yourself!

Status of Major Legislation in U.S. Congress Listed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Status of major legislation:

GUNS — President proposed to ban all interstate gun sales under controls enacted in June for handguns. President also called for registration and licensing of guns. House: Passed rifle-shotgun bill with some exemptions. Senate: Passed similar rifle-shotgun bill. Differences to be reconciled.

DEFENSE — House passed and sent to Senate record-high Defense Department appropriation of $72.2 billion for fiscal 1969. Senate: Approved $71.9 billion version. Conferees working on differences.

★ ★ ★

TRAVEL — Johnson proposed a graduated tax on Americans traveling outside Western Hemisphere. House: Rejected the tourist tax proposal but approved a 5 per cent tax on airline tickets and a reduction in duty-free purchases. Senate: Finance committee approved ticket tax and duty-free reduction.

JOBS — Administration asked extension of Manpower Development Training Act. House: Passed. Senate: Labor and welfare committee approved. House and Senate committee hearings have been held on nonadministration bills to authorize $4 billion to create 1 million new public service jobs.

DRUGS — President endorsed stiffer penalties against peddlers and users of dangerous drugs. House: Passed. Senate: Passed.

TRUCKS — Senate passed and House Public Works Committee approved, a measure to allow larger and heavier trucks and buses to travel on the interstate highways.

FOREIGN AID — President asked for $2.9 billion in overseas economic assistance. House and Senate cut it to a compromise $1.9 billion authorization. House: Passed appropriation cut to 1.6 billion. Senate: Passed $1.9-billion appropriation.

TRADE — Johnson asked for bill extending President's authority to enter tariff cutting agreements through 1970. Senate: Voted import quotas on textiles but plan killed in House-Senate conference. House: Hearings completed, but no action planned.

COTTON — Vetoed Aug. 12, a bill to ban imports of extra-long staple cotton from Egypt. Awaiting signature.

EDUCATION — $7.2 billion, three-year extension of student college loan programs and university construction and teaching grants, plus provision to deny aid to students who riot on campus.

CITIES — $625 million appropriation for model cities and $30 million for rent supplements.

Easily Applied

Oak flooring is easily applied over old surfaces. Nail strip style oak right over old wood flooring.

And oak in the handsome unit-block style can be nailed to wood or laid in mastic over any hard surface.

A&P

what does A&P stand for?

(Besides The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., Inc.)

Fairness, honesty, dependability and quality.
Our founder established these business guides for A&P over 100 years ago.

It is from this basic foundation that so many of our current-day policies have grown:

Our Raincheck policy, for example, which assures you that you will never miss out on an advertised item.

Our policy of packaging meats, that guarantees that the side you can't see is equal to or better than the side you can see.

Our complete and unconditional guarantee of anything you buy at A&P, no matter who makes it.

Our dedication to quality in the production of our own brands. Quality standards so high that we guarantee any product bearing the A&P Seal is equal to or better than the nationally famous brands.

You can probably sum it up in one word, "CARE."
We care about you.

When you think about it... shouldn't A&P be your store?

Moon Made of Green Cheese? Geologist Prepares to Find Out

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — A University of New Mexico geologist is preparing to solve a mystery that has intrigued man since the beginning of time: What's the moon made of?

Dr. Klaus Keil has been hired by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as one of the principal investigators of the moon's composition once America's astronauts return samples of lunar rock and soil.

★ ★ ★

Among the collection of equipment Keil will use in analyzing the lunar material are a $25,000 laser-beam microprobe and a $110,000 electron microscope, used for determining the texture, structure, chemistry and mineralogy of materials.

★ ★ ★

"This is the most exciting thing a geologist could visualize in his laboratory," Keil said. "We'll actually have a piece of another planet."

LUNAR ROCK

The little piece of rock the doctor will receive to study may reveal such secrets as whether the moon's surface was ever molten and whether volcanoes were once active there.

His findings could also go far in deciding whether the "cold moon" or "hot moon" theory of the moon's origin is correct.

The "cold moon" theory, proposed by Dr. Harold Urey of the University of California at San Diego, claims the moon never had a molten core like the earth, but was an independent body older than earth, captured by the earth's gravitational pull.

The "hot moon" theory, more generally accepted, claims the moon was formed at the same time as the earth, had a molten core and volcanic activity.

MOON PREDICTIONS

U.S. scientists at White Sands Missile Range in the southern New Mexico desert are already able to make some predictions about the moon's surface by measuring holes in the ground.

The men measure craters in the desert floor created as missiles crash to ground after test flights, and compare the form, size and structure with lunar craters pictured in satellite photographs relayed to earth.

★ ★ ★

The comparison, said project engineer Robert Ball, allows the geologists to predict the hardness and physical characteristics of the lunar surface.

"They know from the missile impact the size and shape and materials thrown out of the hole and distance which they land and can determine how much energy was used in making the hole," said Ball.

By comparing these facts, he said, the geologists can tell quite accurately what size meteor created a given lunar crater and what speed it was traveling when it crashed into the moon.

The geologists can also tell the general composition of the lunar material. However, Ball said their studies have not been able to pry loose the secret of how thick the lunar crust actually is.

★ ★ ★

"However, in my opinion, I would assume that it is thick enough that a device could be designed to land on the moon without breaking through the crust," he said.

The study, being conducted by White Sands, the U.S. Geological Survey and NASA's Ames Research Center, has a large choice of lunar craters with which to make comparisons.

So far more than 30,000 craters have been charted by telescope, some ranging from a mile to 180 miles in diameter.

While the largest, scientists almost unanimously agree, were caused by meteors, it was not until 1966 that photographs from Lunar Orbiter II dealt the "cold moon" theory a harsh blow.

★ ★ ★

The photos showed in detail many irregularly shaped domes similar to domes found in the northwestern part of the United States which were formed by volcanic activity. Many scientists also believe that many of the smaller lunar craters were also formed from volcanic activity.

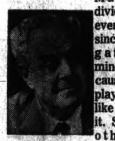
Opening lead—♠K

BY OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

Today's hand was played almost 40 years ago. South still winces when reminded of it.

The event was the Life Masters' Individual. This event has long since been relegated to a minor role because the top players don't like to play in it. Somehow or other an individual brings out the worst in everyone. Thus, South's four-heart call was a rather bad bid.



JACOBY

Three no-trump would have been far better but in an individual there is a really strong tendency not to let your partner play the dummy.

★ ★ ★

Anyway, South did bid four hearts and the way the cards lie it should have brought him a top score.

He won the spade lead with dummy's ace and promptly finessed his jack of hearts. If West had risen with the queen he would have collected a spade trick and South would have made five odd. Since the rest of the field was in three no-trump making four or five, diamonds making six, he would have had his top but West produced the deuce of hearts instead of the queen.

★ ★ ★

South entered dummy with the ace of diamonds and took a second heart finesse. This time West won the trick. Then West cashed the queen of spades and shifted to his last diamond. South won that trick but the rest of the diamond suit was about as useless as an ice machine at the North Pole. He had to go down two.

Why does South still wince when he is reminded of this hand?

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	2♠	Pass	3♠
Pass	4♠	Pass	5♥
Pass	5♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

♠K94 ♥AK654 ♦QJ2 ♣43

What do you do now?

A—You pay your money and you take your choice. If your partner is inclined to make bad forcing two bids you should pass. Otherwise go on to six and hope for the best.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding five spades your partner has bid six clubs over your five hearts. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

It seems that he congratulated West on his magnificent play. Instead of accepting the accolade, West replied, "Thanks very much but I didn't really make a good play. I was really surprised when I found that I had played the deuce and not the queen on that first heart lead."

Astrological Forecast

BY SYDNEY OMARR

For Friday

"The wise man controls his destiny — Astrology points the way."

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on ideas which can help you complete important project. Don't be bogged down with minor doubts, doers. Spread influence. Enlarge scope of interests. Break from sew rut.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Originality today. Think and head your own counsel. Stress independence of thought, action. Indications are you should add to possessions. A debt is paid; you are beneficiary.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Lunar cycle continues high. Obtain hint from TAURUS message. Strive to be a self-starter. Waiting for others could prove costly. Don't permit opportunity to fly away. Grab it—and run!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Excellent for behind-scenes work, study. Obtain necessary privacy. Being alone is not the same as being lonely. Learn to live with yourself. Tap inner resources—then you succeed.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Emphasis on friends, hopes, wishes. Social activity indicated. You can be a winner if confident. Others today are able to perceive your moods, feelings. Know this—sound goal will.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Stress ways to arrive at desired goal. Make necessary changes, but don't lose sight of basic emotional needs. Accent prestige standing in community. Aim high. Stick to principles.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Keep lines of communication open. Be receptive. No time to close mind. Opportunity for success abounds. Key is to receive, to know, to dare and experiment. Fine for travel plans.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You may have right idea about money, practical matters, but others are proving stubborn. Know this—and use plenty of diplomacy, especially in dealing with mate or partner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Respect rules, laws, regulations. Be thorough. When you are proficient, you can innovate. Gain confidence through added knowledge. Accent on dealings with public.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Concentrate on essentials. Be sure you have proper tools for job at hand. A double check could save time, money. Older individual willingly shares experience.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be creative. Welcome changes. Sharpen techniques. Review lessons. Member of opposite sex plays prominent role. People are attracted to you. Sales ability is high. You succeed.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Spotlight on security, home improvement. Value of possessions can be enhanced. Know this—and begin program of construction. Be original. Stress self-reliance. Get started today.

★ ★ ★

IF THURSDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are attracted to medicine, willing to sacrifice for welfare of others. Some take advantage of this factor. Financial situation will improve.

★ ★ ★

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for GEMINI, CANCER. Special word to AQUARIUS: some who neglected your talent now are in your corner.

Several Ranking Officers Arrested

Coup Against S. Viet's Thieu Is Thwarted

SAIGON (AP) — A coup against the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu was thwarted last night, a reliable government source said today.

Other informed sources said several ranking Vietnamese marine officers, ranging from majors to colonels, had been arrested.

Disclosure of the coup attempt follows by hours an announcement that South Vietnamese armed forces had been placed on full alert yesterday afternoon.

The high government source said, "You can expect a lot of people to be arrested in the next few days, all as a result of the coup attempt that failed."

INSTIGATOR UNKNOWN

This source said details of the coup attempt were still incomplete and it was not yet known who was behind it or how widespread it was.

The fact that several marine officers were arrested could indicate the involvement of Lt. Gen. Le Nguyen Khang, the marine commandant and a close political ally of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, the president's political rival. This could not be confirmed. Khang's whereabouts were not known.

Marine units in the Saigon area recently were replaced by rangers at the order of Thieu, reportedly because he feared a coup by Khang.

★ ★ ★

Since he became president last October, Thieu has been consolidating his power, mostly at the expense of Ky. As part of this, Thieu stripped Khang of his posts of 3rd Corps commander and commander of the capital military district.

Khang kept his marine command, however, but it was thought that Thieu would take that away eventually.

The exact number of marine officers arrested was not immediately known, but it was thought to be about six.

In announcing the military alert, government military and civilian spokesmen said they did not know the reasons for it. There was confusion as to how many troops were alerted. The two spokesmen said troops all over the country were affected but a joint general staff spokesman said the alert covered only the Saigon area.

U.S. Embassy sources said they had no information to indicate a coup attempt against the Thieu government.

House Struggles Through Delays to TV Debate Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House fought and muddled its way through almost 20 hours of delaying tactics before taking up today a bill to facilitate a Hubert H. Humphrey-Richard M. Nixon-George C. Wallace television debate.

★ ★ ★

Records and precedents fell like tenpins during the continuous day-and-night struggle between Democrats bent on passing the bill and Republicans staging the House equivalent of a filibuster.

For the last 2½ hours of preliminaries, members were physically locked in the House chamber by majority vote—the first such instance, veteran members said, in more than 50 years.

★ ★ ★

The idea was to block the favorite Republican delaying tactics — to partly empty the chamber and then force one time— consuming roll call after another to establish a quorum.

RECORD FOR ROLL CALLS

Before the motion to consider the bill could be called up there were 36 roll calls—by a wide margin a record for one continuous session. Thereafter Republicans continued to find ways to force roll calls, each consuming about half an hour.

The Democrats had charged filibustering Republicans with trying to prevent the presidential debate and at the same time shield their candidate from blame for ducking the encounter.

★ ★ ★

The bill Democrats support would allow networks to arrange the debate without giving equal time to numerous minor candidates.

The motion by Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., not only called for locking the doors—which was done immediately—but for the sergeant at arms to seek out and bring in absent members.

GOP RAISES STORM

This part of the procedure apparently was mainly symbolic Democratic absentees were summoned by telegram.

Republican members raised a storm of protest over the locked doors.

★ ★ ★

Some said it was an illegal use of powers under the House rules and Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, said the restriction on the freedom of the members violated their constitutional rights.

House Speaker John W. McCormack said he was bound by the majority vote in support of Adams' motion and insisted that the doors would remain locked until the business before the House was completed.

Senate Will Skip N-Spread Treaty Vote This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders have decided not to bring the nuclear nonproliferation treaty to a vote in this session of Congress, informed sources say.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield has not made a public announcement, but, he is said to have abandoned any possibility of seeking ratification this year.

★ ★ ★

The treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons has been in increasing trouble in the Senate since the Soviet Union invaded Czechoslovakia in mid-August.

The pact suffered another major setback yesterday when Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., whose views on military matters carry great weight with many senators, announced he opposes action on the treaty at this time.

'NO PROTECTION'

"It has no inspection provisions worthy of the name," Russell said. "It would not protect us at all."

While several senators have advocated delay because of the Soviet intervention in Central Europe, Russell's objections to the terms of the treaty itself could signal long-range difficulties in obtaining Senate approval when the new session of Congress opens next January.

"I am opposed to acting on it until there can be further investigation of its terms," Russell said.

Nuclear nations signing the treaty pledge they will not transfer nuclear weapons or the know-how for making them to nonnuclear countries.

The have-nots agree they will neither seek nor acquire such weapons. Provisions are made for sharing peaceful uses of atomic energy, however.

Presidential Aspirants Fire Salvos

Republican Richard M. Nixon says a vote for Democratic presidential opponent Hubert H. Humphrey would be expensive and one for third party candidate George C. Wallace would be futile.

Humphrey "would be the most expensive president we'd ever have," Nixon said yesterday. And he said protest votes for Wallace would be discarded for a "moment's satisfaction" that would bring no change.

Humphrey, meanwhile, said Nixon is assuming voters are unhappy and desperate enough to elect Nixon. But although there is still a lot wrong with the country, Humphrey said, "Richard Nixon and the Republican party can't fix it."

Wallace, drawing a crowd police estimated at 20,000 people to Boston Common, pledged anew to repeal the open-housing law, restore law and order and end the Vietnam war militarily if peace talks fail.

COST OF PROPOSALS

Nixon claimed in Minneapolis that Humphrey's proposals so far would cost taxpayers $50 billion, and said the campaign is only half over.

Earlier Nixon turned his guns on Wallace in Flint.

"Do you just want to get something off your chest?" he said, "or do you want to get something done?"

American workers know lax law enforcement cannot end crime and they know the United States "cannot let other nations treat the American flag like a doormat and hope to establish peace in the world," Nixon said in the auto-producing city.

JUST AS FUTILE

"But we cannot swing to a third party extreme," he continued, "because that would be just as futile."

Aides described Nixon as believing Wallace's greatest northern strength is in the industrial states of Michigan and Ohio but that the strength is waning.

★ ★ ★

Humphrey attacked Nixon's anticrime proposals today as sounding "like either a call for the vigilantes or for more talk about crime" and said both Nixon and Wallace spend more time talking about crime than proposing solutions.

"The time for talking is over —we need action," Humphrey said in remarks prepared for a National Association of Retail Druggists session in Boston.

Meanwhile, Humphrey advisers released a Sindlinger poll which shows that the vice president is now within 3.9 points of Nixon. A Sindlinger poll two weeks ago had Nixon leading by nine points.

Wallace's running mate, retired Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, told newsmen in Los Angels yesterday one reason he joined the third party ticket was that Republican Nixon plans to stack his Cabinet with "left wingers."

★ ★ ★

LeMay declined to name who he had in mind but said he had been a Nixon supporter until he saw press reports of Nixon's proposed Cabinet "in which every left wing member of the Republican party was listed."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, said in Miami that Wallace represents a "philosophy of violence and overkill." Muskie said Wallace would "make the policeman a member of an occupation force among a hostile people."

NO ENDORSEMENT

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy made his first major political speech Tuesday night since losing the Democratic presidential nomination and declined again to endorse Humphrey.

"The call goes out for party unity, just as it did a year ago," McCarthy said. "It

Soviet Gesture Hikes U.N. Hope

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. diplomats expressed guarded hope today for an easing of East-West tensions in Europe following the surprise meeting between the foreign ministers of the Soviet Union and West Germany.

Delegates were heartened that the half-hour talk Tuesday between Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko and Willy Brandt of West Germany was initiated by the Soviets.

The meeting was described by Brandt as useful. Later the German mission in a communique said the talk deal with "the well known questions of Germany and Europe which are of interest to both partners." The Russians had nothing to say.

The meeting, first contact between Moscow and Bonn in six years, was seen by some as a possible move by the Kremlin to establish a detente in a Europe still shaken by the Communist bloc thrust into Czechoslovakia.

It was the first such contact since Gromyko met West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder in Geneva in 1962.

Danish Foreign Minister Poul Hartling echoed the views of many delegates when he said his countrymen follow with sympathy West Germany's desire to negotiate with the Russians.

The move apparently caught the United States by surprise, despite two meetings within one week between Gromyko and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

American officials remained dubious, noting that Moscow had not noticeably changed its threatening posture toward West Germany.

Delegates recalled, however, that Gromyko's comments on West Germany in his policy speech before the General Assembly last week had omitted the usual Soviet reference to U.N. charter provisions pertaining to enemy states.

Soviet Pullout Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford said today there have been "some indications recently of the withdrawal of some Soviet Union troops from Czechoslovakia."

But Clifford said the U.S. government does not have details on the reported Soviet troop withdrawal or the number involved.

Showers Expected Late Today

Showers and thundershowers are due to arrive late today in the Pontiac area. Occasional showers are expected to continue through the night.

Temperatures will drop to 50 to 56 tonight.

Moon-Shot Rocket Goes Into Position

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A mammoth Saturn 5 rocket that may hurl men around the moon in December rolls to a launch pad today as preparations move flawlessly toward Friday's launching of the three Apollo 7 astronauts on an earth orbit voyage.

With the Apollo 8 spaceship perched on top, the 363-foot rocket makes the eight-hour, 3.5-mile trip to launch pad in an upright position aboard a huge tractor-like transport called a crawler.

★ ★ ★

The Apollo 8 crew — Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders — were among those planning to witness the roll-out.

The astronauts' hopes of flying Apollo 8 into orbit around the moon depend on the results of Apollo 7, which is scheduled to ride a smaller Saturn 1B rocket into earth orbit at 11 a.m. EDT Friday.

Series Weather in Doubt, Too

Tiger Pitcher Is a Toss-Up

By JERE CRAIG

ST. LOUIS — Everything from the weather to the starting pitcher for the Detroit Tigers is in doubt for today's sixth game of the World Series.

Remembering Sunday's miserable rain in Tiger Stadium, the St. Louis weatherman has his doubts that the sun will shine and his forecast says rain is possible.

★ ★ ★

Tiger manager Mayo Smith, like the weatherman, was also unsure about his choice of the starting pitcher to go against Ray Washburn of the Cardinals.

Last night when the Tigers arrived in St. Louis after working out in Detroit, Mayo was asked, "Would McLain start?"

POSSIBILITIES

"It's possible," was the reply.
"Would it be Joe Sparma?"
"That's possible," he said.
"Could Wilson be the starter?"
"That's also a possibility," he replied.
"I'll be decided when I get to the ball park for the game," Smith added.

As another capacity crowd of 54,000 jammed Busch Stadium with their eyes on the warmup mound, some experts pointed to McLain as the likely starter, trying for the third time to gain his first World Series triumph.

St. Louis was favored to end it today, but the oddsmakers were figuring that Sparma would pitch. With McLain on the mound the oddsmakers probably would give the Tigers an even chance of squaring the series at three games.

But then the shadow of Bob Gibson lurks in the background should it go into the 7th game tomorrow.

It would be Tiger southpaw Mickey Lolich, who has a 2-0 won-lost record in the Series, going against Gibson a winner seven straight times in World Series play.

When Gibson isn't pitching, the Tigers' biggest task is to stop Lou Brock who is hitting .524 in the five games played while stealing seven bases.

Most frustrated of the Tigers is catcher Bill Freehan who has yet to hit in 16 trips to the plate, and who has been victimized by nine Cardinal stolen bases, seven by Brock.

One more steal for Brock would give him 15 in over-all series competition, a record.

Cardinal catcher Tim McCarver, in defense of Freehan, said, "No catcher needs to take the rap for Brock's base stealing."

"People spend too much time trying to analyze it and the fact is that Lou has outstanding speed, is a good base runner and no arm in baseball is going to stop him," said McCarver.

Should rain interrupt today's game, it will be interesting to see what decision is made for postponement in view of criticism directed at the handling of Sunday's game in Detroit when it rained from start to finish and play continued.

Harriman's Call to Hanoi Hints of Slight U.S. Shift

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman called on North Vietnam today to display some sign of a serious wish to scale down the war and begin "fruitful peace talks."

The envoy's statement to newsmen before entering the 25th session of the conference on Vietnam seemed to indicate a shift in emphasis in the U.S. position although Harriman said there has been no change in the basic principles.

The American diplomat had been asked if the U.S. position has been modified, and he replied: "We've made it very plain it's the other side that's holding up the negotiations. We've made offer after offer. They've stood firmly and stubbornly on the position which they took when we first met in May.

"It's up to them to meet us, as the President has indicated, (with) some restraint on their part.

"We are of course repeating that, as the President said, he cannot stop the bombing entirely unless he has reason to believe that Hanoi is serious in desiring to have a mutual de-escalation and seriously desiring to have fruitful peace talks."

ted States in the past has sought some assurance from Hanoi that a bomb halt would be matched by Communist military restraint.

But Harriman's words today indicated the United States now would accept an indication that Hanoi seriously desired to scale down the war and to negotiate productively.

* * *

There appeared to be a difference of emphasis from the military to the political factors in the situation, judging by Harriman's words.

Leaders of North Vietnam have repeatedly stated a bomb halt would produce "positive effects" in the search for peace.

But in calling for an unconditional cutiff of American attacks they have deliberately avoided defining what those "positive effects" might be.

With Harriman was his deputy, Ambassador Cyrus Vance, who returned shortly before midnight Tuesday night from Washington where he had been engaged in a top-level review of Vietnam policy.

On the North Vietnamese side today were delegation leader Xuan Thuy and Politibudo member Le Duc Tho.

There had been reports that Vance and Harriman wanted President Johnson's authority to risk an unconditional ending of the bombing. But Vance on his return gave no evidence whatsoever to support this speculation.

Relatives Aiding Search

Indian Still Hunted

TISHOMINGO, Okla. (AP) — Loy Factor has eluded hundreds of searchers for eight days in the timbered hills of southeastern Oklahoma, but today he is fleeing trackers who can match his skill in the wilderness — Chickasaw Indian relatives.

* * *

Male members of the family took to the roadless hills Tuesday after hundreds of searchers, bloodhounds and even airplanes had failed for seven days to find any trace of the 43-year-old one-legged war veteran, and the frail, 4-year-old son he took with him.

* * *

"They're Chickasaw. They know the country as well as he knows the country," said Johnston County Sheriff Herman Ford, who had led the earlier search efforts.

The brothers and cousins entered the search after McElroy Factor of Dallas, a brother of the hunted man, came to Tishomingo Tuesday and began gathering the relatives for a conference that lasted until dawn.

FACES DEATH

Fear for the little boy was as strong as concern for Factor, who faces death from lack of medication for a diabetic condition and epileptic seizures.

Factor is sought on a murder warrant in the death of his wife, Juanita, 31, whose body was found last Wednesday in a shallow grave at the edge of the woods near their farm outside Fillmore. She had been strangled to death by a leather belt forced down her throat, an autopsy showed.

* * *

Officers were led to the grave by Factor's 14-year-old daughter, Deborah, last Wednesday. She said she last saw her mother Sept. 20 and that her father had held her and six brothers and sisters in the wilderness since then.

* * *

Doctors estimated Factor could survive five days without the medication to control his medical conditions. That was eight days ago.

AT GRANDMOTHERS

Deborah and the five younger children who fled from their father are now at the home of their maternal grandmother in Ada, 40 miles north. Factor refused to let the 4-year-old, Donald, go with them.

Youth Arrested in Kidnap Case

A 19-year-old Waterford Township youth was arrested yesterday by township police for allegedly kidnaping at gunpoint and attempting to rape a junior high school girl who was walking home from school.

Michael Lemon, 19, of 3867 Iris may be questioned by police in at least two other reported attempted kidnapings and rapes at gunpoint in the past several days.

* * *

A youth abducted the junior high school girl near her home in midafternoon and drove her to a wooded area and attempted to rape her, according to police.

She escaped and the youth drove off, police said. The girl gave a description of the man, his car and two letters of the license plate number to police.

ARRAIGNED TODAY

Waterford police later spotted the car and arrested Lemon. He is in Oakland County Jail and was arraigned this morning.

Earlier, a woman reported to police that a man threatened her with a gun in a parking lot as she was walking home. He threatened to kill her if she didn't get into the car and lie down on the floor.

The woman replied, "Shoot me if you want, but my husband is probably watching us. I live near here." She then proceeded to walk home.

Police said they may question Lemon in this attempted abduction and one that happened last Friday.

Salazar Has Relapse

LISBON (AP) — Ex-Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar spent a quiet night after suffering a circulatory collapse yesterday afternoon, reports from the Red Cross hospital said.

County Board to Weigh Higher ADC Payments

The three-week picketing and sleeping-in at the Oakland County Social Services Building ended with a compromise yesterday. Protesters had been supporting higher payments for persons receiving Aid to Dependent Children (ADC).

County officials have agreed to place the group's request before the Oakland County Board of Supervisors Ways and Means Committee Monday at 11 a.m.

* * *

One of the leaders of the protest group, Carol Sweeney of 228 Orchard Lake, replied, when asked what she felt the protest had accomplished, "We've have opened the eyes of a lot of people to the problems of the ADC mothers."

The entire issue of welfare and ADC payments will be examined tomorrow night by a group formed in response to picketing of county facilities.

TAXPAYERS' VOICE

The meeting, called by a group named Taxpayers' Voice, will be 7:30 p.m. at the county auditorium, on the west end of the courthouse, Telegraph and Pontiac Lake Roads.

Organizing the meeting is Mrs. Charles La Veque of 518 N. East Blvd., Pontiac. She said all aspects of welfare will be discussed and studied from what it is to what's wrong with it and how it could be improved.

Several county officials are to be on hand to explain technical details, Mrs. La Veque said. However, the objective of the meeting is to gather opinions of taxpayers for presentation of a reform program to be sent to the State Legislature, she said.

Mrs. La Veque and her supporters have been circulating petitions in most county communities. The petitions are being signed by those who object to the present program.

DISCUSSION POINTS

A definite format has been arrived at for the meeting which will be limited to seven points of discussion plus question-and-answer periods, she explained.

Taxpayers Voice was formed after the group of ADC mothers and sympathizers began picketing and sleeping-in at the social services building at the county center.

General, 100, Is Very Ill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. John L. Hines, 100-year-old former Army chief of staff, is reported in serious condition in Walter Reed Army Hospital after developing pneumonia.

Hines was Army chief of staff from 1924 to 1926 after fighting in the Spanish-American War and World War I. He tried to return to active duty at age 73 during World War II.

Birmingham Area

Boys School Is Founded

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—A sixth private school has been founded in the Bloomfield Hills area.

Kensington Academy, a new independent Catholic school for boys, was founded this summer by Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Darin, 3830 Crestlake, Bloomfield Township, and Mr. and Mrs. James J. Yaw, 111 Linda, Bloomfield Hills.

* * *

The new school is on the grounds of the Academy of the Sacred Heart on Kensington Road. It is expected to be open for students next September with grades one through six. One grade will be added each year after that until all 12 grades will be represented, according to Headmaster Raymond J. Maloney, 2600 Albeston.

The average class size will be 12 to 15 students, he said.

PORTABLE CLASSROOMS

Portable classrooms will be used on the academy grounds, and the boys will share the gymnasium, cafeteria and auditorium with the academy.

Maloney said that permanent building for classrooms and activities are being planned for construction in 1971.

* * *

While it will be on the same grounds as the Academy of the Sacred Heart, the school will be completely separate in administration and will be privately financed, Maloney said. The land for the school is being leased from the academy.

Maloney plans on spending this year planning the curriculum, interviewing teachers and prospective students for the school.

BEST RESOURCES

The curriculum and policies of the school will be established after extensive research and visits to several schools throughout the country so that Kensington Academy will be offering the best educational resources, Maloney said.

Judge to Decide if Mother Keeps Her Children

Oakland County Probate Judge Norman R. Barnard will decide tomorrow if a mother convicted Monday of cruelty to her children will retain custody of the youngsters.

Barnard heard arguments yesterday during a closed-door hearing concerning Mrs. Florence Lewis, 31, of Clarkston.

* * *

The hearing had been requested on a emergency basis by Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson, who said he was "absolutely opposed to permitting either legal or physical custody by Mrs. Lewis."

"No crime is as vile as that of abuse, physical or mental, of one's own children," Bronson said.

GUILTY OF CHAINING SONS

Mrs. Lewis and Paul Maczko, 57, of 9052 Ortonville, Independence Township, were found guilty by a jury of chaining two of her sons in a garage. Mrs. Lewis and Maczko are to be sentenced Oct. 30 by Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams. They face prison terms of up to four years each.

* * *

The prosecutor's office said that four of Mrs. Lewis' five children are living with her at her mother's home in Clarkston.

The children are Ricky, 8, Catherine, 7, Bernadette, 5, and Joseph, 3.

Mrs. Lewis' oldest son, Fred, 9, is living with his father, Richard E. in Duluth, Minn.

It was Fred who testified during the trial that he was chained to Ricky by Maczko. Ricky, however, denied that he had ever been chained.

The incident for which the couple was specifically charged reportedly occurred in September, 1967, while Mrs. Lewis was Maczko's housekeeper.

Guns-by-Mail Bill in New Peril

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bill outlawing mail order sales of guns and ammunition, battered for months in House and Senate, faces new danger as it nears what should have been the end of its long trek through Congress.

The measure was approved by a House-Senate conference committee late yesterday, but the possibility of new trouble was raised when some Senate conferees did not sign the committee report.

* * *

There also were doubts that the House would accept the ban on mail order sales of all ammunition, since it had exempted this category when its version of the bill was passed.

The conference bill must be approved again in each chamber before going on to the White House.

SIGN-UP NOT INCLUDED

The legislation goes part way to meet the appeals of President Johnson for tightened gun controls but does not include his request to require registration of all firearms and the licensing of owners.

The assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., in early June touched off a renewed drive for the legislation after it had been stymied for years by the opposition of the National Rifle Association and other groups.

* * *

A section of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act passed in June prohibited interstate mail order sales of pistols and their over-the-counter sale to nonresidents of a state.

But an effort then to include shotguns and rifles was rejected.

U.S. Says '69 Cars Average $40 More

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government report says 1969 automobiles will cost buyers an average of $40 more than in 1968 and price increases will be even higher on station wagons and some better model cars.

Suggested retail prices for new cars average $41 higher, and include $24 worth of quality improvements, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

* * *

But a $23 cut in the value of warranties wiped out most of the value of quality improvements, it said.

"As a result, increases in quality accounted for only $1 of the higher prices," the report said.

* * *

General new car warranties that covered 24 months or 24,000 miles in 1968 have been cut in half on 1969 models to 12 months or 12,000 miles, it said.

The results of the study will be reflected in government price indexes to be issued in November.

'Would Have Backed Him for Cabinet'

Griffin Defends Role on Fortas

By JIM LONG

U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., said last night that had President Johnson nominated Abe Fortas for a Cabinet post rather than chief justice of the Supreme Court he probably would have voted for the confirmation.

"I think the President should have the prerogative in choosing people in his Cabinet," said Griffin, who had led the fight which caused Fortas to ask that Johnson remove his name from nomination.

* * *

Explaining his position to over 300 persons attending a meeting of the Oakland County Young Republicans in Royal Oak, Griffin said, in spite of some reports he never questioned the power of the President to make the appointment.

"He has that power up unto the last hour of office," added Griffin.

'2 PARTS TO NOMINATION'

"What people forget is that there are two parts to a nomination. The President first makes the appointment. Then Congress' advise and consent powers come into play."

* * *

Griffin said that he first became concerned after reading a report in the Wall Street Journal last summer that Chief Justice Earl Warren was going to resign and would confer with the President.

"It shocked me and many other people regarding the apparent deal to create a vacancy," said Griffin, pointing out that Warren had given no notice of intention as to when he would step down.

Griffin does not go along with the argument that a lame duck President shouldn't appoint a high officeholder, "but there is a serious question of wise and sound policy to approve an appointee in the waning months of an administration."

* * *

"I took the position that the people should be allowed in November to pick a man who would reflect what they want," the senator added.

When the President named Fortas and Homer W. Thornberry, a U.S. Court of Appeals Judge, as his successor, "Johnson left himself open to a charge of cronyism," said Griffin.

* * *

"No president in history had ever gotten himself in that position (of naming two friends) before," he said. Noting that Fortas had been Johnson's private attorney for years, Griffin said he believed that it was the "responsibility of the Senate to ask if he is best for the job or just being rewarded."

He said that he hoped that the future selection of high court jurists would be based on their outstanding service on the bench "and not for their political activities."

Asked if he would approve of Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., one of several names reportedly being considered by Johnson for chief justice, Griffin said, "I understand that Hart's name won't be sent out for nomination. I don't think I'm going to cross any bridges that don't have to be crossed."

Seek Students Return

CHICAGO (AP) — Some 1,000 Negro and white youths at six schools have been urged to return to classrooms and end walkouts that have disrupted classes for two days.

Classes were disrupted or dismissed Tuesday at the six Chicago and suburban schools when Negro students, pressing demands for greater representation in school affairs and more Negro teachers, staged walkouts or sit-ins. White students at one of the schools also walked out in protest against the Negro demands.

★ ★ ★

Six students were arrested Tuesday on charges which included disorderly conduct and attempting to incite violence.

Negroes and whites at Austin High School on the West Side said they will stay away from classes today unless tensions cool.

Schools Supt. James F. Redmond and three associate superintendents met Tuesday with seven white and seven Negro students from Austin in an attempt to iron out the problems.

"I hope the students see well the need to get back in school and get off these streets," Redmond said after the meeting.

★ ★ ★

Some 300 white students walked out first at Austin in protest against a meeting between Dorothy L. Martin, principal, and Negro student leaders. They rode public transportation to the downtown Civic Center Plaza near the offices of the board of education, where they shouted "white power" slogans.

Later more than 300 Negro students marched the five miles downtown and also paraded around the plaza.

The student meeting with Redmond took place during the demonstrations.

★ ★ ★

Besides Austin, classes were disrupted for the second day in a row at Harrison High School on the Southwest Side, at Morgan Park High School on the South Side, at Orr High School on the West Side, at the Hay Upper Grade Center, near the Austin and Orr schools and at Arco High School in south suburban Summit.

★ ★ ★

The incidents stemmed from Negro demands for courses in Afro-American history and more Negro teachers for the history courses and other courses.

★ ★ ★

Meetings were scheduled for later this week among students, community leaders and education officials in the neighborhoods of the Austin and Harrison schools, Redmond said.

Wife's Work Never Done

Ask Husband for Help—Slowly

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Ron and I have been married for four years. We have three small children, and I think I'm pregnant again.

ABBY

Ron expects me to wash his hair, manicure his nails (fingers and toes), pick up his dirty clothes, keep the car washed and in running order, and no matter how tired I am, I have to stay up until he's ready to go to bed.

He also expects me to get up before he does so his breakfast will be on the table as soon as he opens his eyes.

I loved him when I married him, but I'm not so sure any more. I think you have the picture. What I want to know is, how do you get a man who expects so much to settle for less?

"HAD IT" IN CHICAGO

DEAR HAD IT: Don't throw the whole book at him at once. Let him have it a page at a time. Start by telling Ron he's expecting too much. And for a wife who's not "sure" of her "love," you're expecting too often.

DEAR ABBY: My 16-year-old daughter has lots of cute young girl friends who come to our house often. I don't mind that, in fact I enjoy having them, but my husband enjoys it too much.

He puts the records on, and asks them to dance. He is overly familiar with them, squeezing them, hugging them, and even trying to kiss them. He tries to get them to sit on his lap, and in general he makes an old fool out of himself.

Not wanting to hurt his feelings, they go along with it, but I can see how pained they are when he tries to pull one of them down on his lap.

Should I tell these girls to discourage him? Or should I tell this old jackass to act his age?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Why not cover all the bases, and do both?

DEAR ABBY: My problem isn't a big one but it irritates me no end. After 12 years of marriage, my husband and I adopted a beautiful four-month-old baby. Every time we tell someone he is adopted, they say, "Oh, he's so sweet. How could his mother give him away?"

Abby, I'm so tired of hearing this I could scream! What can we say? Sign me . . .

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: No really intelligent person would ever ask such a stupid question, and stupid questions do not deserve to be answered. But if you must say something, say "His mother gave him away because she loved him as much as we do."

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Ahah. I knew if I followed your column long enough I would eventually catch you in a mistake.

You said, "No man ever proposed to a woman when his feet hurt."

Well, I did. On Christmas Eve, 1935. I donned new clothes from head to foot for my date with Kathleen. My feet were killing me when I asked her to marry me. When she said yes, although I was walking on air, my feet still hurt.

Now, 32 years and three grandsons later, the first thing I do when I come home at night is to take off my shoes.

So, Abby, if you would like to correct the record and print this, go ahead. And I won't object if you use my real name.

STAN MORRIS, VAN NUYS, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a mail order house and would you believe that about 20 per cent of the people who place an order, send us cash, but they forget to send their names and addresses?

We have no idea who they are or where they live. We could just cry. All we can do is wait until they write again, complaining that they have not received their order, then we can fill it.

Please print this. It may help.

★ ★ ★

DEAR DISTRESSED: Move over. I, too, am distressed when a desperate reader writes with an urgent and serious problem, but neglects to send his name or address. Freud said, "There are no accidents." I wonder.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I just read that letter from the fellow who finally told his wife that he never cared for raspberry pie after she'd been serving it to him for 28 years.

It sure took him a long time to get enough crust to raise a little hull. Why didn't he tell her the first time she served it to him that her dessert was a crummy failure?

★ ★ ★

Until recently I had the same problem. My wife served me chilled, canned applesauce when we were first married. I remarked that I didn't like cold applesauce, so from then on she would warm it up first.

Well, to get to the core of the problem, I didn't like warm applesauce either, so I can sure sympathize with the guy who got the raspberries for 28 years.

APPLE JACK IN FLOURTOWN, PA.

Guarneri Quartet Becomes Trio; Delivers Lively Performance

By BERNICE ROSENTHAL

Cranbrook Music Guild presented the first in a series of five concerts last night at Kingswood Auditorium. The Guarneri String Quartet, which turned out to be the Guarneri String Trio, due to injuries to one of its artists, played a lively program of chamber works by Beethoven, Dohnanyi and Mozart.

Trio playing is an exacting and demanding art. The ensemble must be perfectly matched in tone, timing, dynamics, intonation, technique and temperament, in order to be smooth and effective. When that is achieved, the result is a truly rewarding experience in the rarified upper air of intellectual music.

The trio consisted of John Dalley, violinist; Michael Tree, violist and David Soyer, 'cellist. The sound they produced was strong, vibrant and virile, with a comfortable feeling of togetherness, which was sure and direct. Their technical facility was unlabored and flowing.

The only defect that marred their otherwise flawless playing was a harshness and occasional lapse from pitch on the part of the violin. In spite of this, the Beethoven Trio was beautifully treated, its changing moods well delineated, with the rollicking good humor of the last movement especially delightful.

DELIGHTFUL CONTRAST

Dohnanyi's "Serenade for String Trio" was the highlight of the evening. The semi-modern, semi-romantic, free spirit of the composer was in strict contrast with the more classical Beethoven style. Its march was light, yet intricate and humorously pompous. The romanza, a charming viola solo, displayed Tree's mellow viola tone to fine advantage. The scherzo which followed was fast, furious and busy.

The parallel runs which the instruments played simultaneously, were beautifully precise, yet carefree. A theme and variations comprised the fourth movement, a fine example of Dohnanyi's crisp, direct idiom. The final rondo was forceful and sardonic.

★ ★ ★

With Mozart's "Divertimento in E Flat Major for String Trio," the group was not quite as successful. The tone was too heavy for Mozart and a lack of clarity and definitive melodic line marred an otherwise fine performance. The second concert of the series, on December 3, will feature James Dick, vocalist, and will take place at Cranbrook House.

The PAUF campaign will run through Nov. 8, and has a goal this year of $1,130,000.

A Good Start Is Important When Moving

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Fall is moving time for thousands of Americans. Even though you are not being uprooted yourself, you may find newcomers moving into your neighborhood. The ins and outs of becoming acquainted are important to old and new residents alike. You should be able to spot eight errors in the following story by either the newcomers or their neighbors.

★ ★ ★

Joan and Jack moved into their new home on a Saturday. By that evening they had their barrels unpacked and Jack disposed of the excelsior by piling it in the road and burning it. When the fire died down, Joan started to prepare supper and found she had no salt, so she ran next door to borrow some. Helen, the neighbor, was just on her way out, but told Joan she would find salt on the back of the stove.

★ ★ ★

The next morning Joan and Jack were up early. They intended to work on their new garden, but found their youngsters, Billy, 2, and Cathy, 4, continually underfoot. Joan said, "Cathy, take Billy and go play in the sandbox next door." Jack, seeing that leaves and grass clippings had blown over onto his lot, raked them up and threw them back on the property next door. While they were working, the neighbor's cat wandered over, and Joan promptly gave it some milk.

★ ★ ★

Later, some of the other families came out to relax or work in their yards. Joan, thinking the couple to their left particularly attractive, asked them to dinner that night. They refused, but Joan felt she had made a friendly move.

★ ★ ★

Several days later, Joan was washing windows when Helen dropped in unannounced. Joan offered her a cup of coffee. They chatted for a few minutes and Helen asked Joan to join the neighborhood Mother's Club. Joan accepted at once, and that night she and Jack decided they had made their move most successfully.

★ ★ ★

Their mistakes, mostly not of a serious nature, were:

- Burning packing is dangerous, if not illegal.
- Joan should not have borrowed from someone she had not met.
- She should not have sent her children to her neighbor's sandbox without permission.
- Throwing clippings—even his own—on a neighbor's lawn is not the way to make friends!
- People resent others who feed their animals, causing them to wander away from home.
- Joan should have let the older residents invite her to a meal first.
- Helen should have called first to let Joan prepare for her visit.
- Joan should have waited a bit before joining any group. Once in, it may be hard to get out.

College-Bound Students Need Allowance

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

As parents of a college-bound daughter, we (as well as many other parents) wonder how our daughter can make a healthy transition from her present coke and potato chip allowance to the first-year college campus type. For weeks now she's been shopping for clothes.

MARY FEELEY

The look in her eyes tells us she dreams of being Queen of the Campus. The way she is spending our money, she thinks we have a Paul Getty checkbook. We lie awake nights wondering how she can still keep her dream without giving us a financial nightmare. Any suggestions?

Mrs. C. A. B.
Fredericksburg, Va.

Dear Mrs. B.: She'll soon find out that clothes don't make the Queen. But I realize you don't want to go broke in the process. Maybe the solution can be found in how one family handled the college allowance problem.

They opened up a bank account in the student son's name to cover more than enough money for all the first month's expenses. The son was made to understand he would have to account for how the money was spent. Small notebooks were supplied in which each day's expenses were entered. At the end of the month the notebook was mailed back to the parents. It was emphasized: "No record book, no money."

★ ★ ★

Upon receipt of this systematic accounting, the parents promptly mailed a check to cover the amount. However, in your case, knowing your daughter's easy-spending habits, maybe you'd better make it clear that you will analyze the first month's expense items, and if she goes overboard, you'll have to agree on a top limit for the future. After all, neither of you knows now just what she will need.

This kind of daily record keeping puts your daughter on her honor, provides a feeling of independence, and serves as an important part of her education. It may be the best way to teach a home course in thrift.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mary Feeley: I am a widow and have never handled any finances before. Now I needs some figures to go by, so I can have some idea what the family groceries should cost. We are:

Daughter, age 33; son, 22; boy 12; girl 11; myself, 59.

M.E.H., Birmingham, Ala.

Dear Mrs. H: National averages show that a family of five, with ages and sexes you mention, spend about $37 a week for food on a moderate standard of living. These figures apply especially to the southern area of the country, says the Department of Agriculture, where food costs are somewhat less expensive than in other sections:

★ ★ ★

To break down that total per week; young man 22, $8.70; boy 12, $7.60; girl 11, $7.50; woman 59, $7.50. While that adds up to $39 a week, you should deduct 5 per cent when there are as many as five in the family in order to get a more realistic figure. The more members, the less cost per person.

★ ★ ★

(To get Mary Feeley's booklet, "Financial Building Blocks," send a stamped, self-addressed, long envelope in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

The long and the short of it belongs in your wig boutique because one hair style is not enough for today's fashionable beauty. There's nothing like using two or more hairpieces for a quick switch in coiffure and now a girl can change her hairdo with her mood. The layered look can start the day with the razor boy cut (a wig) . . . (right) and end it in an aura of pure romance by adding a fall and perky ribbon. Hairpieces need grooming to keep their fresh, natural look and one company has a trio of aids to do it at home. There's a spray-on cleaner that only needs brushing to restore loveliness. The sheen, when sprayed on adds lustre that makes it gleam and the clear, non-flake spray puts the finishing touch to your hairdo.

Bad Habits Can Kill Us

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE G-582: Damon T., aged 37, is a smoker.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "my blood pressure is 175/90, so my family physician says I should quit tobacco.

DR. CRANE

"But I have tried to do it several times in the past, yet always failed.

"My wife also has a fault, for she is 30 pounds too heavy. So I have dared her to diet while I try to stop my cigarettes.

"But she says it is harder to diet than to quit smoking. Is that true?"

Bad habits, such as smoking, alcoholism and over-eating, are really fifth columnists that stab us in the back!

They are saboteurs who shorten our life span, reduce our romantic verve, and often injure our loved ones, too.

For example, the alcoholic often humiliates his children socially and may even beat them during drunken sprees.

Meanwhile, he jeopardizes their lives when he is driving, even though he has had only a couple of beers.

★ ★ ★

For even one beer will slow down your reaction time, thus adding to our terrific automobile highway death rate.

In about 50 per cent of auto fatalities, one or both of the drivers have been drinking.

And they aren't dead drunk!

For the drunks weave around till other drivers are on guard.

It is just the moderate drinking driver (ostensibly sober), who produces 50 per cent of auto fatalities!

The smoker, too, injures his family by dying five years early and thus depriving them of five year's extra earnings!

At medical and dental meetings I have thus showed those doctors the actual cash cost of the cigarette habit.

Smokers burn up $7,500 on the ends of their cigarettes by the time they die at age 65, whereas non-smokers live to 70.

But their earnings average at least $10,000 per year, so the cigarettes reduce their income by $50,000, in addition to the $7,500 spent on tobacco.

But surveys also show that doctors lose many patients who don't relish inhaling the second-hand tobacco halitosis of smoking doctors.

This loss in patients probably amounts to another $50,000 at a minimum.

★ ★ ★

But the definite, documented financial loss to a smoking doctor is at least $57,500.

Obesity, too, shortens life, predisposes to cancer, diabetes, arthritis, foot troubles, backache, etc.

But it is actually harder to diet than to stop the liquor and tobacco habits. Why?

★ ★ ★

Because the dieters can't cut out all food intake but must taper off. The smoker or drinker can quit entirely, and we have found that it is easier to stop a bad habit all at once than to taper off.

Flower Talk

THE AMAZING PLANT BULB

The bulb is a special underground stem which enables a plant to live through the winter. Like a seed the bulb holds within itself the undeveloped future plant. Unlike a seed the bulb has much stored-up nourishment, and a plant grows more quickly from a bulb than a seed.

The tulip, narcissus, lily, and hyacinth are flowers grown from bulbs. The gladioli are grown from corms. Corms are like bulbs, except bulbs live on from year to year and corms die each year.

Our most important job is to have the flowers you want, when you need them. Our stock is always complete, and we happily supply your needs whenever you call.

MRS. C. W. WAGNER

Sister Attends Valli Smartt for Nuptials

Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church was the setting Saturday for vows exchanged by Valli Lynette Smartt and Pfc. Chris William Wagner, USA.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis K. Smartt of East Pike Street and Mr. and Mrs. James Wagner of Lindholm Street, White Lake Township.

★ ★ ★

Attended by her sister, Alecia, the bride wore a day length taffeta sheath with lace overlay. Pearl accents highlighted the velvet headpiece securing her shoulder length veil.

★ ★ ★

A wrist corsage of yellow and white roses with lily of the valley completed her look.

★ ★ ★

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds and other members of the wedding party, Ardyce Vitales, Robin, Rich and Melvin Wagner Jr., and Bob Brown, joined guests for a reception at the Milford home of the bridegroom's aunt and uncle, the senior Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wagner.

They then departed for a honeymoon trip to Traverse City.

Always elegant and classic is this shirt dress from Dalton of America's new late fall collection. It features a back belt and chain front. Colors range from winter white to garnet red.

Cranbrook Academy of Art Announces Faculty Changes

The appointment of two new faculty members at Cranbrook Academy of Art is announced by Glen Paulsen, Academy president.

In accord with the Academy's desire to establish a closer relationship between the design program and industry, Robert W. Veryzer, head of the experimental design studio at General Motors, has been named head of the design department.

Robert L. Kidd, who holds two master's degrees from the Art Academy, will head the fabric design department, which includes weaving.

Veryzer joined the GM styling staff following graduation from the School of Industrial Design of Pratt Institute in 1949. After serving in various areas he was named head of design development and the experimental design studio in 1964.

In this capacity his responsibilities include directing the annual summer student transportation design program, developing new media and techniques for design expression and directing the investigation and development of advanced transportation systems and vehicle concepts.

"The disigner is a key figure in shaping man's environment through his influence on the forms, materials and techniques of a rapidly changing society," Veryzer said.

IDEAL LOCATION

"Cranbrook Academy of Art is ideally situated near one of the great industrial centers of the world. The design department plans to utilize the resources of this center to develop students' ability to acquire knowledge, to synthesize it, and use it to assist him scientifically, as well as visually, in creating a better way of life."

Kidd studied business administration at Ohio Wesleyan University, received his B.F.A. degree from Miami University, Oxford, O., and was granted his first M.F.A. from the Art Academy in design (1962) and the second in fabric design (1964).

★ ★ ★

He was a graphic designer for William Schmidt Associates in Grosse Pointe and was then named chairman of the art department at Kingswood School Cranbrook, the position he held before coming to the Academy.

He is accredited by the American Craftsmen's Council and has exhibited widely, winning two top prizes in the 1967 Exhibition for Michigan Artist-Craftsmen. His works are owned by many individuals and are hung in North Park Towers and Michigan State University.

In other faculty changes, Zoltan Sepeshy, an authority on painting in tempera, has assumed the rank of Professor Emeritus. While not a full-time member of the teaching staff, he will conduct a series of informal seminars open to all painting students and others.

Sepeshy came to the Art Academy in 1931 and in 1947 succeeded the late Eliel Saarinen as president, a position he held until two years ago when he relinquished the administrative duties and continued as a painting instructor.

Donald Willett, painting instructor since 1962, has been named head of the painting program. Willett studied in Paris in 1961-62 under a Fulbright grant and last year received a Louis Comfort Tiffany grant.

Beauty Salon More Like a Hall of Horror

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — We women may come out of the hairdresser's looking like a million dollars, but I wouldn't give two cents for the way we look when we're inside.

These establishments are popularly known as beauty salons, but that's a misnomer. They're more like a chamber of horrors.

The posher places perform the rites of rehabilitation in the privacy of individual booths, but the less ritzy parlors such as the one of which I am customarily a customer leave us all out in the open where we can see and be seen.

★ ★ ★

They do, however, charitably undertake the hair-coloring process in a more remote section of the shop where women with red, brown or purple locks can drip a little less publicly under their peaked plastic caps.

Their only consolation in this situation is that the incipient blonde across the way looks even worse than they do.

★ ★ ★

There is no end to the various adornments the operators can place on a woman's scalp for her session under the dryer. There are curlers the size of orange juice cans, clips in various colors, pink plastic pads to cover the ears, nets that hang stringily down the back and strips of sticky tape across the nape of the neck.

★ ★ ★

Nobody proposes to win any beauty contests in this getup, but these gals are potential Miss Americas compared to the women in various stages of the comb-out process.

With their hair teased straight out in every direction, and solidified in that position with streams of hairspray, they resemble a cross between Medusa and the three witches of Macbeth.

★ ★ ★

Given time, these towering tresses can be coaxed down into less Vesuvian proportions and commanded to remain in that state through the application of still more lacquer. As a matter of fact, not one hair thus stiffened would have the temerity to move until the next week's appointment.

All this maneuvering takes place to the accompaniment of constant chatter conducted in voices loud enough to outpoint the decibel system of the whirring dryers. It is not the place to spend a quiet Saturday afternoon.

Fortunately, except for the male operators, beauty salons are no man's land. Lucky women — and lucky men!

In 1899, when the Post Office Department began using trucks to haul mail, the public was assured that "each was equipped so that a mule may be hitched to it should it refuse to run."

Vows Spoken by Morangs on Saturday

Pvt. Joseph Lee Morang, USA, and his bride, the former Jennifer Lynn Kempf, are honeymooning in northern Michigan following vows in St. James Methodist Church.

★ ★ ★

For the ceremony Saturday evening, the bride chose a traditional lace wedding gown with sequin and pearl accents. Complementing the ensemble, fashioned with sabrina neckline, Basque waist and five-tiered bouffant ruffled skirt, was a matching lace chapel train.

★ ★ ★

Swirls of pearls and crystals secured her veil of illusion and she held a cascading arrangement of white miniature carnations with a lavender orchid corsage.

Paula Vogel was maid of honor for her cousin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morley A. Kempf of Ascot Street. Bridesmaids were Kathleen Messler and Rebecca Putnam.

★ ★ ★

The son of Mrs. Joan Morang of Elizabeth Lake Road was assisted by his uncle, Floyd Albright, as best man with Lee J. Beauchamp and Roger Kempf, the bride's brother, as ushers.

Prior to their honeymoon departure, the newlyweds were feted with a reception at the Fisher Body Union Hall.

Tan Fading? Pack Gives a Fresh Look

If you find that your coveted golden-summer skin is beginning to fade or go unattractively yellowish, why not try a whitening face-pack twice a week to bring out a new, fresh luster this fall.

Simply beat the white of an egg, add a teaspoon or two of lemon skin freshener and a teaspoon of tropical moist oil and smooth the mixture generously over your face and neck. Leave on for 20 to 30 minutes before rinsing away with tepid water.

★ ★ ★

Another recipe for helping to fade away a tan is one which grandmother often used and which has stood the testof time, even in the face of modern preparations.

Make a lotion by adding a tablespoon of oatmeal and three tablespoons of lemon freshener to half a pint of water in which parsley has been brewed. Apply the lotion to your face, neck and if necessary, your back and shoulders and allow to dry. Rub the skin with a soft towel and then massage with light oil to nourish and revitalize the tissues.

CHANGE

As your skin gradually regains its normal tone, it may be necessary to change to a paler shade of foundation, pretty pastel eye make-up and a rose or coral lipstick teamed with a light, delicate blusher on the cheeks.

Jewelry Changes

Plastic jewelry takes on the look of the precious rather than the pop. Jewels simulating lapis and crystal are replacing enamel. Wood jewelry for resort living is combined with the real jewelers' touch in both natural wood colors and very bright ones.

Wallace Strength in Area: Anybody's Guess

By JIM LONG

Determining the strength of George Wallace in Oakland County has turned into one huge guessing game with no one taking the outcome lightly.

Democrats are running scared, Republicans are seemingly blase but cautious, and Wallace people downright sure that their third-party candidate can't lose.

* * *

Critics of the former Alabama governor contend that Wallace support has been blown out of proportion.

They admit that more Wallace for president bumper stickers are seen then those of Humphrey and Nixon combined, but hastily add that it takes more than signs to win an election.

GEORGE WALLACE

'IT TAKES ORGANIZATION'

It takes organization, and according to George Googasian, county Democratic chairman, the Wallace campaigners in the area fall far short of this prerequisite for victory.

LONG

"But he is going to get an awful lot of votes in Oakland County from frustrated people," Googasian added.

Googasian estimates that Wallace, the American Independent Party candidate, may receive from 15 to 25 per cent of the total vote in the county.

Nathan Collier, Wallace campaign chairman in Oakland County, is naturally more optimistic.

'HE'LL WIN'

"I think he's going to take the state," said Collier.

Collier avoids discussing what percentage of the vote Wallace will get Nov. 5, but believes that the votes will be siphoned off equally from both Richard M. Nixon and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

* * *

As to strategy, Collier says, "We are just getting to the people by passing out literature and talking to everyone we can."

Undoubtedly, Wallace's power relies heavily on factory workers and transplanted southerners, though a number of conservative Republicans are tending to lean in his direction.

ONLY PART OF SUPPORT

Collier says, however, that laborers are only a part of the movement.

* * *

Much support for Wallace comes from Pontiac, Waterford Township, Madison Heights and Hazel Park, with pockets in the Bloomfield - Birmingham and West Bloomfield Township areas.

* * *

Union officials deny claims of the overwhelming Wallace support in Pontiac plants.

Harold Julian, subregional director of Region 1B of the UAW, places Wallace backers at about 20 per cent of the labor force in Pontiac.

RECORD ATTACKED

In an effort to counteract the Wallace campaign, the union began passing out leaflets at the plant gates, pointing out Wallace's record as governor.

A number of workers at General Motors Corp. Truck & Coach Division objected to the leaflets and submitted a petition to Local 594 President Joseph Arthur protesting the use of union money to print and distribute what they termed "smear literature."

* * *

James Lovelace, 970 Pontiac, Orion Township, one of the originators of the petition, said that he felt the information was distorted, but not necessarily untrue.

"The information is factual," said Julian. "We have a responsibility to give our people information about this joker (Wallace) and we will continue to let them know."

Julian said the cost of printing the first 5,000 leaflets that were distributed cost about $50.

"We'll be putting them into other plants to let the workers know they are being misled and have a lot to lose if Wallace gets in," said Julian.

* * *

The Democratc party in the county is also considering the distribution of similar material.

One area legislator who has revised his thinking about Wallace's chances is State Rep. Donald E. Bishop, R-63rd District.

'ONLY 10 PCT.'

"After reading accounts about the crowds he drew in Michigan, we had better sit up and take notice," said Bishop, an Avon Township resident.

Even then Bishop puts Wallace's statewide popularity at only 10 per cent, with the most harm being caused to Democrats. "But even then I'm not sure. Wallace supporters are a determined bunch."

* * *

Pontiac's veteran legislator, Arthur J. Law, D-62nd District, is of the opinion that despite all the talk about Wallace, the presidential hopeful will not carry Pontiac.

* * *

"He may get 18 to 20 per cent, but the Democratic party will win as it usually does," said Law.

'SYMBOL OF TRANQUILITY'

Law said that he still is amazed at the reaction Wallace has received. "He's hitting the popular imagination of the average man. He is not a reactionary as such but a symbol of tranquility—that time when we didn't have some of the many problems of today."

Buzzer Betrays Book Buccaneers

EAST LANSING (AP)—Books that buzz are the latest gimmick to cut down on student thefts from the Michigan State University library.

All books on open shelves carry a magnetized metal plate. Unless the book is de-energized at the check-out desk, the plate will lock the turnstile and sound a buzzer if a student attempts to smuggle the book out of the library.

* * *

Dr. Richard Chapin, director of libraries, said the new system will eliminate long check-out lines and the necessity of searching briefcases and other packages carried by students.

Another item in the new security system is a small sensing rod that will flick back and forth to locate any hidden library book.

SYSTEM NOT PERFECT

The new system is not completely perfect, Chapin admitted. Other metallic objects such as umbrellas, typewriters and cameras may also activate the buzzer, he said, causing some temporary embarrassment.

Police Chiefs Defend Use of Chemical Spray as 'Humane'

HONOLULU (AP) — "Since we started using chemical sprays, we have practically eliminated the nightstick. It's better than hitting a man over the head," says Police Chief Joseph C. Hall of Asheville, N.C.

His endorsement of chemical spray devices was typical of the reaction of police chiefs interviewed today at the 75th annual conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

★ ★ ★

Police Chief Thomas Cahill of San Francisco, the association's first vice president, said city supervisors there have prohibited police from using chemical agents because of possible eye injuries, but "I personally think we should be allowed to use chemical agents under certain conditions." He said he felt pressure spray devices "are a valuable weapon in the control of violence with a minimum of hazard involved."

"It is a substitute for the gun or nightstick," said Cahill, "and I have seen serious injury and even death as the result of the gun and club."

'LESS HARMFUL'

"Certainly chemical agents are less harmful than shotguns, rifles, clubs or even handcuffs," said Chief Silver Suarez of Springfield, Ill. but he cautioned police should not become careless in their use of such items.

"In the hands of an untrained policeman, the use of a chemical agent could result in a charge of police brutality," Suarez added. "We cannot become careless in their use or else we will destroy any good to come out of them."

★ ★ ★

Chief Paul Shaver of Albuquerque, N.M., said there has been "a lot less use of the nightstick since the introduction of chemical agents.

"We have found to our experience that it has not caused any ill feeling. The men on the beat are very strong in favor of the use of chemical agents."

'MORE HUMANE'

Chief Elmer A. Briscoe of Reno, Nev., felt "it is a lot more humane than using the night stick or another weapon."

★ ★ ★

J. Prestom Strom, chief of the South Carolina Law Enforcement Division, said one policeman can immobilize four or five people without doing any permanent injury by using a chemical spray device, so "it gives the policeman an added sense of security."

★ ★ ★

Chief Edmund McNamara of Boston, Mass., said "chemical agents are a police tool just as the gun, vest, helmet or anything else."

"We have used chemical agents 50 or 60 times and have found it to be most humane," said Chief Dana Hummer of Topeka, Kan.

Daniel F. McMahon, sheriff of New York's Westchester County, said "there has been no conclusive proof that the use of chemical agents will cause permanent injury. This is a more desirable weapon than being forced to use firearms."

Lloyd Robertson, deputy superintendent of the Arizona Highway Patrol, feels a report by the U.S. surgeon general on the use of chemical agents was taken out of context by critics. The report said there was a need for additional research on the use of chemical agents.

★ ★ ★

The president of the association, Chief Leonard G. Lawrence of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, said chemical devices are the "most humane way to handle disorders. They are preferable to other means of restraint."

★ ★ ★

However, he said, the association believes an "exhaustive investigation is needed to determine the best chemical to use."

State to Check Northern Road Office Closings

LANSING (AP) — Two northern Michigan lawmakers have won a pledge from the State Highway Commission that it will give further thought to plans to close its offices in Alpena, Escanaba and Cadillac.

But the commission declined Tuesday to overturn a resolution it approved last month, which would reduce the number of highway district offices in the state from 10 to 8 at an estimated annual saving of $306,000.

★ ★ ★

Reps. Charles Varnum, R-Manistique, and Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena, urged the commission to reconsider closing the three northern offices. Another proposal, to replace the Pontiac and Detroit offices with an office in Southfield, was not opposed.

Swallow and Frank McCourt, president of the Alpena Chamber of Commerce, said State Commerce Department studies indicate future growth in northern lower Michigan will radiate from Alpena and Traverse City.

CALLED UNWISE

The offices, Swallow said, should remain in the east and west portions of the area, rather than being merged into an office at Gaylord, in the central portion.

Varnum opposed a proposal to close the Escanaba district office and merge its duties with the offices in Crystal Falls and Newberry.

★ ★ ★

Closing the Escanaba office, with its 25 employes, "means we'd lose a payroll of $232,775 a year," Varnum said. "There isn't a community in the Upper Peninsula that can afford to lose anything of this type."

OCC Exec Head of Information Unit

The director of community relations at Oakland Community College has been named president of what is believed to be the nation's first statewide association for community college information officers.

Mitchell Tendler heads a new professional association for public information and community relations administrators and staff members at the 28 public community colleges in Michigan.

The group is called the Michigan Association of Community College Public Information Officers (MACCPIO).

U.S. Army Does About-Face on Viet Salute-or-Fight Order

SAIGON (AP) — The commander of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division withdrew today his order that soldiers who failed to salute be sent into combat.

Cancellation of the order was announced in Washington Tuesday after officials admitted that the Army had been embarrassed by its disclosure.

★ ★ ★

Maj. Gen. Charles P. Stone, division commander, was quoted by a spokesman in Saigon as saying that the order was rescinded because of "widespread misinterpretation."

The salute-or-fight order appeared in the division's daily bulletin on Sept. 7. But a spokesman said it had been in existence since February and that the bulletin announcement was only a reminder of the order.

ORDERED FORWARD

It said that men in rear base areas who did not salute would be sent to forward areas.

Four soldiers were sent to combat zones under the order before Sept. 7, a spokesman said, and another four had been sent since.

★ ★ ★

There was no indication in Washington as to who acted to get the order canceled. But a statement from the Pentagon indicated the problem was thrown into the lap of the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams. The statement said, "The Army considers this a matter of concern for the local command."

Stone said Monday that the order came "only after a flagrant violation" of the custom of saluting superior officers.

COUNSELED ON SPOT

"Most often," he said, a soldier "is counseled on the spot and he may or may not be referred to his unit commander for additional training or other appropriate action."

★ ★ ★

The 4th Division has its headquarters at Camp Enari, just outside Pleiku in the central highlands. It numbers about 15,000 men.

★ ★ ★

"The enforcement of military discipline in the Camp Enari base camp area," Stone said, "has as its purpose the improvement of responsiveness and alertness in this garrison.

★ ★ ★

"This area has approximately 8,000 personnel. The effectiveness of our effort to maintain a high state of military discipline at Camp Enari is attested to by the fact that in the two years the division has been located in this area it has suffered only two fatal casualties as a result of enemy action against this installation."

7 Set to Serve Lawyer Probe

DETROIT (AP) — The president of the State Bar Association, Gilbert H. Davis, named seven lawyers Tuesday to serve on a special grievance committee to probe charges of alleged misconduct filed against certain Livingston County lawyers.

The committee, vested with subpoena power, will be chaired by George E. Bushnell Jr.

★ ★ ★

Davis said the bar procedures provide for the implementing of censure, suspension or disbarment of lawyers found to have engaged in misconduct.

The trial by the committee will be open to the public only if requested by the lawyers charged.

OTHERS NAMED

Others named to the special committee are Avern L. Cohn, Harold E. Mountain Jr., Thomas L. Munson, Louis F. Simmons Jr., Robert C. Winter and Richard C. Van Dusen.

★ ★ ★

The misconduct charges grew out of criticism of the county's judicial system. James C. Turner, a magazine publisher alleged that a number of estates have been plundered, including one in which one of the heirs was on welfare.

★ ★ ★

Circuit Judge James R. Breakey Jr. of Ann Arbor convicted Turner on a contempt charge and sentenced him to 15 days in jail and fined him $150. Turner has appealed.

Blue Shield Will Expand Its Benefits

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Association of Blue Shield Plans yesterday amended its regulations to provide for an all-expense medical insurance program.

The expanded benefits should be available not later than next April, the association announced.

★ ★ ★

The association includes 72 U.S. Blue Shield plans, nine in Canada and one in Puerto Rico, providing medical insurance protection for 63 million persons.

John W. Castellucci, association president, said the paid-in-full benefits program would be based on physicians' "usual, customary and reasonable" charges.

★ ★ ★

The program would include such things as physical examinations, outpatient psychiatric care and dental care along with the usual hospital and post-operative items.
