Midsouth Tornadoes Kill 31

Twister Spreads Death in Southern States

PATH OF DESTRUCTION—A destructive tornado which ripped through the mid-south late Tuesday afternoon caused at least 30 deaths and left some 100 injured. About 100 Hurt in Three States by Deadly Winds

Mississippi Counts 28 Corpses in Single Town; Property Damage Soars

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Deadly tornadoes ripped through three Midsouth states yesterday, leaving 31 dead and about 100 injured along their haphazard paths.

The storms, probing from the furious clouds of a squall line, struck in Arkansas and Alabama—with a bloody jackpot in Mississippi. Extensive property damage was reported.

Twenty-eight were killed near Commerce Landing, Miss., about 30 miles south of here, including an unidentified young girl who died today in a Memphis hospital. Three perished in another twister at Olive Branch, Miss., 18 miles south of Memphis.

Hop - scotching tornadoes also caused considerable damage near Marianna, Ark., and Huntsville, Ala., but no one was seriously injured.

Many of the Mississippi dead and injured were schoolchildren. Each twister had an elementary school dead center in its path.

National Guardsmen patrolled the Commerce Landing area today as survivors searched the Leatherman plantation's splintered tenant houses for possible additional victims.

Most of the damage at Olive Branch centered at Wiggins Negro elementary school. Twenty-three students were at their desks when the twister struck. A teacher and two children were killed.

Ambulances from towns in the surrounding delta area moved the injured to hospitals in Memphis and Tunica, Miss.

The 25-bed hospital at Tunica, about 15 miles south of Commerce Landing, was soon jammed. Volunteers, some of them pretty girls in party dresses, were organized to help the staff. A school was converted into a makeshift dormitory for the homeless.

The Commerce Landing tornado cut a swath 200 feet wide through the 8,000-acre Leatherman plantation, destroying a row of tenant houses, a Negro church, a school and a cotton gin.

W. V. France said the school was whipped away before his eyes, as if a giant hand had snatched it up and tossed both wreckage and bodies into the boiling clouds.

Says Congress Made American Position Clear

Believes Vote Serves Peace by Preventing Commie Misjudgment

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the fight-if-we-must Formosa resolution voted by Congress last week serves peace by preventing any Communist miscalculation as to America's determination.

The President told a news conference his immediate aim is to make certain the Reds understand that the United States is absolutely determined to defend Formosa as part of the great island barrier in the western Pacific.

He said he thinks the steps which have been taken certainly have removed from anyone's mind any doubt about that American determination.

Eisenhower said that, without trying to put the blame on anyone, he thinks the Korean conflict broke out in part because the Communists had not been given to understand the United States would defend South Korea against aggression.

The President parried a number of questions about the Formosa situation. He said it is a highly delicate matter and any statement by him at this time might serve only to muddy the waters.

He said he has given no thought to the opposition by Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican Senate leader, to the present wording of a resolution proposed by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) to voice congressional support of United Nations efforts to bring about a cease-fire in the region off the coast of Red China.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday postponed action on the resolution for a week and Knowland said he feared the current wording of the resolution, reportedly backed by the administration, would imply a "blanket endorsement" of appeasement.

Eisenhower said any comment he might make would be so much in the nature of a shotgun opinion that he would rather not comment at all.

Similarly he declined to say whether "hot pursuit" orders have been sent to the 7th Fleet—that is, whether U.S. planes have been em-

Tachen Refugees Reach Formosa After Hard Trip

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — The 538 refugees who reached Formosa today from the Tachen Islands had a harrowing 200-mile journey.

Small junks carried them under cover of darkness from the Tachens to Nankishan, a Nationalist island 80 miles south.

They embarked there on a 3,000-ton transport that was to carry them to Formosa and safety—and almost immediately found themselves threatened by four Communist gunboats.

Nationalists warships escorting the transport raced to meet the challenge and the Reds beat a hasty retreat.

During the trip a baby was born to Mrs. Chang Yu-hua. Her husband was killed in the recent Red invasion of Yikiangshan.

There are still some 15,000 civilians on the Tachens. They are to decide whether they want to stay or leave. Most are expected to choose evacuation.

The U. S. 7th Fleet has been poised in Formosa waters for 10 days to take some 30,000 Nationalist Chinese soldiers and civilians off the Tachens.

A week ago it looked as though the fleet, under President Eisenhower's "fight if we must" plan, would evacuate the Tachens whether the Reds liked it or not.

Since then, however, U. N. discussion of a possible cease-fire and a slim but persistent hope that the Peiping regime might have 5,066 and District 3 would have 5,626, according to Donaldson's statistics.

Districts 4, 5, 6 and 7 would not be affected by the charter

Coffee Break Hit but Not Dented or Even Daunted

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The American custom of a coffee break came in for criticism before the City Council.

Executive Secretary Paul Wilcox of the Associated Property Owners told the Council yesterday that city employes were wasting time "unnecessarily, unjustifiably and dishonestly" by taking coffee breaks.

When Wilcox finished, Mayor George Vermillion announced:

"Council will now recess for a coffee break."

Precinct Shuffle Placed on Ballot

City Will Vote April 4 on Amendment Which Affects Three Districts

The spring election took on added significance for Pontiac voters last night when the City Commission placed on the April 4 ballot a charter amendment calling for shifting boundary lines of three West Side city districts.

The action came on a 6-1 vote, with only Commissioner Floyd P. Miles, of District 4, dissenting. There was no debate or discussion on the move.

Initiated by Mayor William W. Donaldson, who represents District 3, the charter amendment calls for moving Precincts 4 and 39 from District 1 to District 2, and Precincts 30 and 31 from District 2 to District 3.

It is designed to bring to closer balance the number of voters in each of the city's seven districts.

According to figures complied by Donaldson, District 1 now has 7,385 registered voters while District 3 has 3,994 voters. District 2 has 4,996 voters.

If the electorate approves the charter revision, District 1 would have 5,683 voters, District 2 would

Two Killed, One Hurt in Canadian Air Crash

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—An airplane carrying six passengers and the pilot on what was to have been a 20-minute flight crashed in the Queen Charlotte Islands yesterday, killing two of those aboard and injuring the others seriously.

Only meager details were available of what happened to the B.C. Air Lines, Ltd., plane on the short hop from Alliford Bay to Aero Camp. Scene of the crash was about 500 miles northwest of here.

Chiang Bombs Red-Held Isle

Tachens Paralyzed by Heavy Commie Raids, Refugees Reveal

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — Chiang Kai-shek's warplanes hurled new strikes at Communist Yikiangshan early today and Nationalist refugees told how Red bombers in turn had brought civil activities on the nearby Tachens to a virtual standstill.

Nationalist bombers flew through intense antiaircraft fire in their strike at Yikiangshan, official reports said. The Nationalists said all returned.

While the U.N. Security Council awaits Communist China's reaction to its invitation to talk over a cease-fire, air and sea actions swirl almost continuously around the Tachens. Meanwhile, powerful U.S. 7th Fleet forces supported by swift Air Force Sabrejets await orders to evacuate the Tachens.

U.S. Ambassador Karl L. Rankin conferred for 75 minutes with Chiang Kai-shek today. Details were not disclosed, but the two are believed to have discussed announcements to be issued on the projected withdrawal from the Tachens.

Gen. Earle E. Partridge, commander of the U.S. Far East Air Force, is expected tomorrow for conferences with top Nationalist and American officers and an inspection of U.S. Air Force units on Formosa. There was speculation his visit might be followed by a buildup of U.S. Air Force strength here.

Police Seeking Marilyn

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — There's a warrant out for the arrest of Marilyn Monroe, issued yesterday by Municipal Judge Charles J. Griffin, who fixed bail at $100.

The actress is charged with failing to answer a traffic summons last Nov. 21 accusing her of driving without a driver's license.

Ground Hog Goes to Ground

Weather-Wise Marmota Gives Us Chilling News

Marmota Monax, one of the best known and most believed weather forecasters in the nation, today predicted at least six more weeks of winter weather.

Old Marmota (ground hog to you) peeked out of his burrow today, shivered a few times, recoiled at his shadow, and decided spring is still a long way off.

And today's temperatures seem to bear out Br'er ground hog's prediction, although newfangled weathermen scoff at his powers. At 6 a. m., the mercury stood at a chilly 18 degrees, dropped to 15 by 9 and crept up to 19 by 2 p. m.

Tonight's temperatures are expected to range in the 15 to 19-degree zone, rising to a relatively warm 26 to 30 tomorrow. This was the U. S. Weather Bureau's forecast. Br'er ground hog could not be reached for comment.

What's My Line appears today on page 19.

It seems many states lay claim to originating the Ground Hog Day tradition. Citizens in Punxsutawney, Pa., barely admit the existence of other areas when this controversial subject arises. They even have a club.

Quarryville, Pa., residents feel the same way as the "Slumbering Lodge of Ground Hogs" holds an annual ground hog watching session in long robes and top hats.

Sun Valley, Wis., residents maintain their respective Marmota Monax are the only reliable weather prophets.

Senate Ratifies Far East Pact

Langer Casts the Only Vote Against Southeast Asia Alliance

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate ratified by an 82-1 vote late yesterday the Southeast Asia Defense Treaty designed to combat either open aggression or subversion in the Far East.

Sen. Langer (R-ND) cast the lone dissenting vote, saying he thinks this country "ought to mind its own business and keep out of foreign entanglements all over Europe and Asia."

Parties to the treaty, negotiated at Manila last fall, are the United States, Great Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Pakistan and Thailand.

The treaty area specifically embraces three nonsigners: Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

Among the signers, only the Philippines has not yet ratified the treaty.

Terms of the treaty say that any military action to be taken in the event of aggression will be in accordance with the constitutional processes of each nation. In the event of threats to security by subversion, they are pledged to consult on what counteraction to take.

3 to Be Quizzed About Breakins

Woman Nabbed in Car Filled With Loot; Two Youths Also Arrested

Two youths and an 18-year-old mother, two of whom were arrested by Detroit Police last night, will be questioned today by State Police of the Pontiac Post in connection with a series of Oakland County breakins.

Mrs. Rosemary Anderson of Royal Oak was arrested in a parked car filled with five rifles, beer, cigarettes and burglar tools near downtown Detroit, according to State Police. A companion, Robert Isaacs, 18, also of Royal Oak, was taken into custody when he approached the car.

Another young man fled when he saw police near the auto. State Police Detective Charles Leaf said the second youth, 18-year-old David LaMaster of Royal Oak, was arrested later by Royal Oak Police at his home.

LaMaster is being held in the Oakland County Jail. Police said another man is being sought for questioning.

State Police began a search for the suspects yesterday when three business establishments reported burglaries.

Leaf said thieves entered the Deer Lake Lumber Co. in Independence Township and stole an undetermined amount of money, and a quantity of rifles and tools were taken from the Waterford Hardware.

A grocery store in Berkley also reported a breakin last night when cigarettes, candy, beer and money were stolen.

Enrollment Biggest

Motorist Killed as Car Hits Tree

J. Smith Dies in Mishap Near City Limits Early This Afternoon

A motorist, identified by Pontiac Police as J. R. Smith, 33, of 78 S. Edith St., was killed this afternoon when his car smashed into a tree at Perry St. and Giddings Rd., near the city limits.

Police taking statements from witnesses at the scene said the auto was traveling north on Perry.

Quoting witnesses, Police said a mail truck drove onto Perry from Giddings, scraping against the Smith auto. The car, according to witness, bounced off of guard wires on the right of the road and crashed sideways into a tree on the opposite side of Perry.

The force of the impact cut the auto in half, pinning the driver between the tree and the front seat. He was pronounced dead by deputies from the Oakland County Coroner's office.

Police said they would further investigate the accident today to determine the part the truck played in the mishap. Today's traffic fatality is the third here since Jan. 26 of this year.

Churches Plan Relief

NEW YORK (AP)—The Church World Service, overseas relief agency representing 35 Protestant and Orthodox denominations, has set a 9½-million-dollars budget for relief work in 1955. The fund, to be raised in a current "united appeal," is 1½ million more than the sum spent last year.

They Call It Rat Poison

Fluoridation Foes Seek to Frighten Public

Pontiac's City Commission has authorized the fluoridation of city water to protect the teeth of growing children. Records in other cities where this has been done, or where there is natural fluorine in the water, has shown a reduction of all the way up to two-thirds of the dental cavities encountered elsewhere.

However, opposition to the plan has been voiced by some citizens so petitions are being circulated to ban the water fluoridation program.

The same arguments are being used here that have been used in many other cities where fluoridation has been introduced. Before the issue comes to a vote the Press will publish the detailed arguments for and against the proposed program.

In the meantime, lest citizens be misled by the fear propaganda that has always been used against this as well as other forward steps in health preservation, a few of the stock charges are listed here.

Opponents of fluoridation refer to fluorine as rat poison and infer that the City Commission's action may poison all of the city's residents.

Fluorine is a poison. If you swallow enough of it at a time it will kill a man. So will a thousand other things. But it is proposed to place in the water only one part of fluorine to one million parts of water. In this proportion it will protect children's teeth and reduce tooth decay. It has been so used in Grand Rapids for the past 10 years with remarkably fine results.

The program has the backing of:

The United States Department of Public Health,

The American Medical Association,

The American Dental Association,

The American Public Health Association,

The National Research Council,

The American Nurses Association,

The American Hospital Association,

The Oakland County Health Department,

The Oakland County Dental Association and many other organizations whose business it is to guard the public health.

These organizations base their stand on innumerable studies, tests and investigations over a period of many years.

But to get back to the poison scare word. Many cities put chlorine into their drinking water to kill dangerous germs. Yet chlorine was the basis for the poison gas of World War I.

You can say exactly the same thing about chlorine that they are saying about fluorine. If you swallow enough chlorine you can kill yourself, yet taken in the quantities put in Detroit's water, for example, it is a protection to the city's health and a preventive of disease. Almost every Pontiac resident has drunk water in Detroit and suffered no bad after effects.

You can say the same thing for the use of X-rays. By an over dose of X-rays you could kill yourself, yet through proper use of them many lives are saved.

The same thing is true of vaccination for small pox. Actually the vaccine is, in effect, a tiny bit of small pox. It might be fatal if the doctor gave you 20 times too much, yet in proper amounts vaccination has practically wiped out small pox as a disease. You almost never even hear of it any more.

So, when you read or are told that some people fear fluoridation of the city's water because fluorine is a poison, just remember that you undoubtedly have had poisons administered to you as a health measure or to prevent disease, and that the great weight of medical and dental opinion backs the fluoridation of drinking water as a safe and effective way to protect the teeth of growing children.

Here and there a doctor may be found who fears the use of flourine but the same thing was true when vaccination was introduced. A few people still oppose that. Some refuse to let X-ray be used, but an overwhelming majority of those who have studied fluoridation have become convinced by the tested results that it is a safe and effective way to safeguard children's health through protecting their teeth from decay.

State Stockpiles Relief Supplies

Area CD Official Says Medical Goods Cached in Central Michigan

Nearly $4,500,000 in medical supplies for disaster relief have been stockpiled at a point in central Michigan, according to Oakland County Acting Director of Civil Defense Ransford Bromley.

The exact location was not revealed, but it is only three-and-a-half hours drive from Pontiac, he stated.

The stockpiling is part of a current civil defense program to provide both for evacuation of a stricken area and the inflow of supplies needed to care for victims of enemy attack or a natural disaster, he explained.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture has accumulated food and other relief necessities in warehouses which could be dispatched immediately if needed, Bromley stated.

Meanwhile the county road commission, plan commission and sheriff's department are working with Bromley in determining which county roads would serve best as evacuation routes from the Detroit area.

The road commission will provide figures on amounts of traffic roads could handle in event of an evacuation. Then certain roads will be marked as primary civil defense routes to carry a major portion of refugees, Bromley said.

The sheriff's department will be concerned with controlling traffic on escape routes, he added.

After Oakland completes a tentative mapping, comparisons will be made with plans being drawn by Wayne and Macomb Counties and a routing made for the three-county area, the civil defense worker stated.

Key to the evacuation would be an expected two to six hour warning from the Air Force allowing distribution of refugees in outlying areas, he added.

Army Nurses Celebrate 54th Anniversary

Army nurses in the United States and 15 foreign countries are today celebrating the 54th anniversary of the Army Nurse Corps.

Oldest of all women's military services, the corps has grown from 10,400 in World War I to a peak of 57,000 during World War II. In 1901, when the corps was established as part of the Army, nurses drew $40 a month pay and held no military rank.

Today food and quarters allowances supplement the $222.30 for a second lieutenant. Through passage of the Army-Navy Nurses Act in 1947, women became eligible for permanent commissions in the regular Army.

Suffers Leg Injuries When Struck by Car

Ray Post, 62, of 103 Fairgrove St., suffered leg bruises yesterday when he was struck by a car driven by Pedro Brioso, 46, of 38 park Pl., at Perry and Oak Hill Sts., according to Pontiac Police.

Police quoted Brioso as saying he was making a left turn from Perry when he struck Post who was crossing at the intersection. Post was treated by a private physician.

County School Offices to Move to Telegraph Site

The Oakland County Board of Education offices will probably be moved from the office building at 1 Lafayette St. to the contagious hospital on North Telegraph road within a month.

County Auditor John C. Austin yesterday said the switch would be the first in a series of steps planned to ease congestion in Oakland's governmental offices.

Another shift to see the Probate Court's juvenile division transferred to the Welfare Building on North Telegraph will take longer, Austin explained.

The basement of the Welfare Building first must be altered so it can house stores now kept on the first floor of the building where the juvenile division will be located, the auditor explained.

Following transfer of the school offices, the Equalization Department will be moved into the present board of education quarters, he added.

Planners Seek Highway Advice

Tentatively OK Hiring of Engineering Firm to Direct County Program

The Oakland County Plan Commission has tentatively approved hiring an outside engineering firm to help in formulating a future plan for highway construction and expansion in the county.

The commission will probably recommend to the supervisors that money for the project be included in the 1956 budget, according to George N. Skrubb, director.

Skrubb has contacted three such companies who said they could do the job for $50,000 to $80,000 and have it completed in about 2½ years.

If the Plan Commission staff does the work alone it would probably take from 5 to 10 years, Skrubb previously suggested the commission might provide $30,000 over the next three years and the road commission do the same to finance the program.

A proposal that the planners be allotted $10,000 over their original 1955 budget request to start the survey immediately has been decided against, the director stated.

The long-range plan is termed necessary to help coordinate the county's road-building efforts.

"After the program is completed, individual groups can push their part of the project, but it will benefit the whole county," Skrubb said.

Maximum Road Speed Suggested for Michigan

LANSING (AP) — The State Safety Commission today probed the idea of asking for a maximum highway speed limit in Michigan—but put off a decision pending a full review of the proposal.

State Police Com. Joseph A. Childs pushed for a speed limit of 60 miles an hour in daylight hours and 50 miles an hour at night, arguing "this year is the year; the people are in favor of it."

Childs said that "a maximum speed limit, plus reasonable enforcement, plus good public support" might reduce highway fatalities in Michigan from the present 7.3 per one hundred million miles of travel to 5.8.

Alaska Relying on Big Bases

U.S. Wouldn't Fight Off Invasion of Wilderness, Commander Says

ELMENDORF AIR FORCE BASE, Alaska (AP)—An enemy attacking this northern stepping stone to the United States would face a tough tussle for big military bases and cities but he couldn't draw American forces into struggles over remote areas, top military commanders say.

This plan of defense of Alaska's tremendous territory — it's more than twice the size of Texas—was laid out in a news conference yesterday by Lt. Gen. Joseph H. Atkinson, commander in chief, Alaskan Defense Command. He was seconded by Maj. Gen. George R. Acheson, chief of the Alaskan Air Command, and Maj. Gen. James F. Collins, commander of Army forces.

"People ask," Atkinson said, "what we would do if an enemy landed at some place like a little splot over on the coast."

In the first place, he said, "the enemy wouldn't be interested, and if he was we would just leave him there."

Acheson said the military's mission is "not to defend all of Alaska" but to keep big installations and important centers out of enemy hands.

Big Alaskan installations mentioned were Elmendorf, Ladd and Eielson Air Force bases, with Anchorage and Fairbanks listed as "important centers."

Atkinson was asked if he believed there was a possibility of attack by Russians on the ground as well as in the air.

"I don't think there would be any big land campaigns," he replied. "I do not rule out the possibility of at least limited airborne operations. As a matter of fact, that is the only way he could get in except for the possibility of attempting amphibious operations in a few spots."

He expressed doubt there would be more major defense construction in Alaska except for the possibility of fighter plane strips.

Acheson said the approaching advent of guided missiles tends to rule out fields too far forward.

Gen. Collins said plans are being worked on for locating Nike anti-aircraft guided missile sites in Alaska but that no construction has been started.

The Army commander expressed the belief Alaska now is garrisoned by adequate military forces and "if the situation developed we could get more in a hurry from the United States by air."

agree not to oppose such an evacuation have brought delays.

Officers and civilians, American and Nationalists alike, are beginning to think the issue has passed into the arena of diplomatic negotiation. Thus, it may be weeks before an American ship points its bow toward the Tachens.

In Keelung, a bent, white-whiskered old man squatted on a rolled up blanket, his head in his gnarled hands, and muttered, "Hon cha" over and over again in a tired voice.

"Hon cha" is "bombing" in the dialect of the Communist-threatened Tachen Islands.

The old man was one of 838 civilians evacuated from the bomb-pocked islands 200 miles north of here who landed in this picturesque harbor aboard a Nationalist Chinese troop ship today.

His name is Liu Yu. He was a storekeeper on the Tachens—two high cliffed rocky islands that house some 30,000 Nationalists soldiers and civilians.

The old man said the Communists have bombed the Tachens repeatedly in the last few days."

"They have bombed every place on the island," he said in a shaky treble voice. "It was terrible.

"They were bombing again when we left."

The old man slung his rolled blanket over his shoulder and was helped into a waiting American-built truck to be taken to a relief station.

Long lines of men, women and children from the Tachens filed down the gangplank of the American-built transport ship all morning. They carried a few pitiful belongings.

Nationalist sailors sprayed each with DDT powder. Most were children. And 214 of the 838 aboard were dependents of soldiers who remain on the Tachens expecting to fight, although American warships and planes are standing by to cover their withdrawal if it is ordered.

The children were dressed in black, high-necked school uniforms. They looked like little penguins with the white DDT powder spilled down their fronts.

They were gay and smiling, but their elders were solemn. Many women carried babies in arms.

Lee Tsui, 30, a school teacher said: "We left because of the bombing and the Communists, but the soldiers who stayed behind are ready to fight."

OCKC Seeking 7th 'Hero Dog'

Winner to Be Settled at Annual All-Breed Show, May 22

Oakland County Kennel Club is seeking its 7th Hero Dog so that it may award it the annual Hero Dog Trophy at the 19th All-Breed Dog Show to be held Sunday, May 22, at the Detroit Artillery Armory, 15000 West Eight Mile Road, Oak Park, Michigan.

This award is given the winner of a contest open to all hero dogs, regardless of breeding. Only requirement is a letter or newspaper clipping stating full particulars of the heroic act of the dog.

There is no entry fee. The winning hero dog will be on exhibition and the trophy awarded at the show on May 22. The dog and owner will be guests of the club at the show with all expenses paid.

A panel of prominent newspaper sports writers will decide the winner.

All entries should be mailed to E. A. Kraft, 5470 Telegraph Road, Route 3, Pontiac.

Fritz Kreisler, 80 Today, Gets Note From President

NEW YORK (AP)—Fritz Kreisler, among the finest of violinists for many years and now an elder statesman of the music world, is 80 years old today.

Among tributes to the dean of violinists, sent from admirers around the world, was this from President Eisenhower:

"Your musical artistry has become an unforgettable part of the experience of people the world over . . . You have my best wishes for many happy years to come."

Kreisler, who made his American debut in 1888, last performed in public in 1950. He now confines his playing to the privacy of his home but still keeps an alert interest in the music world beyond.

Kreisler's busy birthday schedule today included a reception in his honor by the Hospitalized Veterans Service and Musicians Emergency Fund, an organization for which Kreisler has been chairman since 1950.

A Kreisler fund of $80,000, to be administered by this organization, is being collected by his friends and associates. The money is to be used to help promising beginners and needy older musicians and to provide musical therapy for hospitalized veterans.

Navy Seeks Recruits for Service School

High school graduates who meet the physical and mental requirements may now enlist in the U. S. Navy service school, Chief Alan D. Simonson said today.

Simonson, recruiter for Oakland and Macomb Counties said study is available for aviation electrician's mate, aviation electronics technician, aviation machinist's mate, engineman, yeoman, gunner's mate, machinist's mate, hospital corpsman, dental technician, photographer's mate, radarman, radioman and sonarman.

Details may be obtained through Navy recruiters in the Post Office building here; Elk's Hall, Royal Oak; or Civic Recreation Center, Mt. Clemens.

change. Donaldson's figures reveal that those districts now have respectively, 5,825, 6,380, 5,412 and 5,696 voters.

Miles had said previously that the move was one that "involves changes that should be made after study and not on the spur of the moment."

The shift was suggested for the first time at the Jan. 18 meeting, although Donaldson said he had been considering it for several months and had not realized the deadline for placing it on the ballot was approaching.

Another charter amendment was put on the ballot by the Commission at last week's meeting.

It calls for revision of a pension plan amendment passed in November, but incorrectly phrased.

Ponfiac Foundation Gets $1,000 Bond

Purchase of a $1,000 savings bond for the Pontiac Foundation was authorized by the Pontiac Kiwanis Club directors last night.

The foundation, a non-profit organization for civic improvement, at year's end had assets of $11,597 in cash, plus stocks and bonds currently valued at $9,958, for a total of $21,555.

First goal of the foundation is a building for community activities.

2 Juveniles, Youth Quizzed in Jackson

Two juveniles and an 18-year-old youth, all of Pontiac, are being held in Jackson today for investigation of four breakins in that city and another here last night at Riemenschneider Bros. auto sales, 232 S. Saginaw St.

The trio was picked up by Jackson Police, who had been given the description of a 1952 Nash Rambler stolen from the Riemenschneider garage last night. Police said the auto was registered to M. L. Twaddle of 304 Glengary, Walled Lake, and had been left at the Riemenschneider garage as a trade-in.

Detective Sgts. John A. DePauw and Olin Hoffman, investigating recent burglaries here, said they will attempt to question the trio about numerous breakins in Pontiac. Jackson Police reported they will question the youths about four breakins which occurred in Jackson prior to the trio's arrest.

Capt. Clark M. Wheaton, chief of detectives, identified the 18-year-old youth as Charles Williams of 321 Fisher Ave.

Remodeling Work Begun at County TB San

Work is under way on $49,600 in improvements at the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium, according to Robert Y. Moore, chairman of the county board of auditors.

Main part of the work consists of constructing two new rest rooms, he explained.

NEW YORK (UP) — The chain letter craze has expanded to kitchen recipes. When a housewife's name gets to the top of the list in a letter currently going around she gets 216 tested recipes.

4 Youths Charged With Having Beer

Four Avon Township youths were charged with illegal possession of beer by minors today, according to Undersheriff Elmer McQuern.

Armed with the description of the youths' auto, Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies Jesse Whitlock and Wilson Gardner arrested Robert Samson, 19, of 2500 Longview, James Maybee, 18, of 2627 Frankson, Clement Berger, 18, of 3035 John R, and John Crase, 17, of 2540 Frankson.

Whitlock and Gardner said they stopped the youths at Featherstone and Opdyke Rds. and found beer in the car. The boys had been drinking the officers said.

The father of a 15-year-old boy furnished the description of the auto after he learned from his son that the youths had taken newspapers from him while he was making his deliveries yesterday. The youngster said the four youths stopped him and forced him to give up his papers. They tore the papers to shreds in front of the boy, according to police.

Ike Restates Aim to Defend Formosa powered to pursue any attackers over Red China itself.

The President made his most definite statement on Formosa when a reporter told him that in spite of White House and other assurances there seems to be considerable uneasiness that the new Formosa policy might lead to fighting.

Eisenhower replied he could say with certainty that the purpose of the declaration is to make certain no conflict will occur through a miscalculation on the part of the other side as to this country's determination to defend Formosa.

He said the purpose of the policy, enunciated by the White House and endorsed almost unanimously by both houses of Congress, is honestly and hopefully to prevent war.

At least, the President said, it should remove any doubt from anybody's mind as to the determination of the United States to see that the great island barrier of Formosa is going to be maintained, that this country is not going to let an international Communist spearhead penetrate Western defenses at that point.

To that extent, Eisenhower said, the American declaration ought to be helpful in keeping the peace.

U.S. to Test Bypass of 5th Amendment

NEW YORK (AP)—A new federal law, designed to get answers from witnesses who claim protection of the Fifth Amendment, will get its first test in the questioning of William Ludwig Ullman.

Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld yesterday granted immunity to Ullman under the law which was passed in the last session of Congress. This means Ullman cannot be prosecuted for any federal offenses on the basis of his answers and therefore cannot claim under the Fifth Amendment that these answers might incriminate him.

Water Authority Nearing Contract Awarding Date

BIRMINGHAM — Almost set to roll is the $6,067,000 Southeastern Oakland County Water Authority system that will feed Birmingham and at least six other neighboring communities water from Detroit.

City Engineer L. R. Gare said yesterday he hopes to see contracts for the water mains, "... which will be in the vicinity of $1,800,000," awarded next Wednesday.

Gare, the authority's board of trustees chairman, said he anticipates a March starting date and completion by late summer or fall of 1956.

At a meeting yesterday Royal Oak, Pleasant Ridge and Huntington Woods, all authority members, submitted proportionate bids on the $717,000 North Woodward water system. Bonds received from sale to the authority will revert back to the authority as a cash replacement.

Construction contracts for storage tanks, pumps, valves and electric motor starters totaling close to $700,000 were awarded today, Gare said.

Other authority members are Southfield Township, Berkley and Clawson.

Parents of seven Birmingham High School students, all boys, will meet with school and police officials on Friday to discuss restitution for between $350-$400 damage done when windows and doors were broken at the school two weeks ago, police said today.

Police Lt. Henry Timm said the boys, all juveniles but one, have been suspended from school until restitution is made, and have admitted breaking four windows and three plate glass entrance doors. Complaints will probably be signed against four of the youths, Timm said. Six of the boys are aged 16 while Gordon Degener, of 3560 Roland, is 17.

Fire Chief Vernon W. Griffith said today the department will investigate last night's blaze at Restrick Lumber Co., 425 S. Eton Rd., which his men extinguished in 20 minutes. Griffith said the fire burned cartons and other residue discarded by workers constructing a new building next door.

Flames were about 20 feet from the lumberyard proper, Griffith said.

Oxford Resident Asks Wrong Man to Cash Check

A 22-year-old Oxford man, who sheriff's detectives say intended to pass a bad check, asked the wrong person to okay it for him yesterday.

Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor Robert D. Long was busy at his desk when a man poked his head in the door and asked, "Will you authorize a check for a friend of mine?"

Long invited the stranger in and was handed a check made out to Ronald A. Leach, of 3181 Dartmouth, for $19.23 against the Orion State Bank and signed with the name of Frank B. Leach.

The name rang a bell.

Long recalled that sheriff's detectives had been looking for a Ronald Leach for the past several days on suspicion of illegal check passing.

He stepped out and phoned Undersheriff Elmer McQuern while Chief Investigator for the Prosecutor's Office Robert C. Miller kept him engaged in conversation. McQuern rushed from the jail to the courthouse and made the arrest.

Leach was booked for investigation of uttering and publishing. He had been implicated last week by a juvenile who said Leach gave him a bogus check to cash, detectives said.

Frank B. Leach is reported to be Ronald's father, Long stated. The elder Leach has had no account at the Orion bank since 1949, the prosecutor added.

Ronald's brother, Herbert, 20, same address, Monday was charged with the same offense. Detectives allege Herbert passed about 15 illegal checks in the past six weeks.

Police Seek Girl in $1,301 Theft

19-Year-Old Girl Took Cash, Endorsed Checks, Says Distributor

Pontiac Police today are seeking an 18-year-old girl who a Pontiac businessman claims duped him out of $599 in cash and $702 worth of endorsed checks.

William Spadafore, 46, of 621 Irwin St., told police today he parked in front of the Pontiac State Bank night deposit box Monday evening to leave the day's receipts.

"Before I got out of the car, I saw Rose Gibins, a girl I know, and her girl friend," said Spadafore, "coming out from a cigar store. They asked me if I would give them a ride home because, they said, they lived on my way."

When Spadafore told them he had to deposit the receipts from his beverage business at 922 Oakland Ave., Miss Gibbins offered to drop the official bank bag in the box for him, Spadafore said.

"I suspected she didn't deposit the money," said Spadafore. "I was bothered all night, thinking maybe she didn't put the money in the deposit box."

Checking with bank officials yesterday, Spadafore learned that the money hadn't been deposited.

Today police learned from a woman who had known Miss Gibins that the girl was on her way to Florida with a man identified as William Schubert, 22, no known address. Spadafore told police that Schubert had worked for him at one time.

Spadafore told police he drove the two girls a distance on Oakland avenue and let them out. Police are attempting to locate the other girl who is know only as Sue. Miss Gibins, Spadafore said, lived in Drayton Plains but he doesn't know her address.

He said he was introduced to the girl by Schubert when she visited the beverage company.

Pontiac City Affairs

Hearings Set Next Week on Improvement Projects

Public hearings on intention to construct 12 improvement projects were set for next week by the City Commission last night.

The projects include 11 street paving jobs and the laying of a water main on Second and Laurel avenues.

In addition, the Commission passed a resolution of public necessity for 2-inch blacktop pavement on three streets.

The governing body also agreed to sell nine parcels of city-owned property in the Dixieland Subdivision, out Oakland avenue. Lot 46 was sold to Howard C. Hill for $200. Eight others went to Carolyn McQuaid for a total price of $2,050.

In other action, a special assessment roll was confirmed for a combined sewer on Columbia avenue from Barkell to a point 400 feet east.

A communication was received from the Retail Merchants Assn. commending the Commission and city officials for "progress made in 1954."

The 11 paving projects, calling for 2-inch blacktop, include the following streets:

Bondale avenue from Earlmoor to east line of Woodward Estates Subdivision.
Smith drive from Josephine to James K.
Florence avenue from August to Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee Railroad.
Stout street from Green to Palmer.
Rundell street from Saginaw to Baldwin.
Rutgers avenue from Baldwin to University.
St. Clair street from Montcalm to Kennett.
Strathmore avenue from Baldwin to University.
Summit avenue from Hudson to Montcalm.
Tennyson avenue from Baldwin to University.
Wisner street from Cass to Short.

The city engineer was ordered to prepare cost estimates for blacktopping California avenue from Franklin to Bagley, Wing street from Montcalm to Kennett, and Young street from Montcalm to Kennett.

The water main will run along Second from Ivy to Laurel, and along Laurel from Second to Third.

Williams Threatens Veto of GOP's Road Program

LANSING (AP)—Gov Williams virtually threatened today to veto a Republican highway program which is building up strong support in the House.

He condemned at his press conference the so-called "package" bill sponsored by Rep. Emil R. Peltz (R-Rogers City) and endorsed by about 30 other Republican representatives.

This "package," a combination of two bills Peltz introduced earlier, has been signaled for a vote Monday by Speaker of the House Wade Van Valkenburg (R-Kalamazoo).

It would ask the voters to raise the gas tax from 4½ cents a gallon to 6½ cents and permit local governments to use part of the money to finance revenue bonds for road construction.

Williams attacked the proposal because, he said, "it puts the whole burden of the increase on the driver of the family car and holds no promise whatsoever of giving Michigan an integrated highway system."

"I sincerely hope the people who are interested in developing an integrated program will squelch this immediately," Williams said. "It is a system for political feather-bedding rather than road building."

He said it would "merely provide more bits and patches and political free spending."

At the same time Sen. Louis G. Christman (R-Ann Arbor) proposed still another solution to highway problems.

Christman introduced bills to increase the gas tax two cents and revise the formula under which state and local units share highway funds.

Christman said his plan would skim off 15 per cent of the highway revenues for State Highway Department construction.

Then he would give the state 40 per cent of the remainder (now 44 per cent of the total), the counties 39 per cent (now 37 per cent) and the municipalities 21 per cent (now 19 per cent).

The result, Christman said, would give the state 87 million dollars, 26.3 millions more than now. The counties would go up 7.5 millions to 59.6 million, he said, and the municipalities up 5.3 millions to 32.1 millions.

With federal aid, the state could expand its trunkline program three times, he said.

Friendless Convict Dies After Serving 43 Years

CRANSTON, R. I. (AP)—Biennin Crovagreer, 75, who served 43 years as a convicted murderer without a single visitor or letter from the outside world, died yesterday at the state infirmary, where he was transferred in 1941 under conditional pardon.

He spent 26 years in bed, hopelessly paralyzed.

Crovagreer, a Polish immigrant, was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1912 for the shooting to death of Joseph Brigham at West Kingston, R. I., after a violent argument. He had neither relatives nor friends.

Your Heart's in Your Hands

If You Have Had, or Fear an Attack, There Are Precautions You May Take

By DR. WILLIAM A. BRAMS

(First of five articles)

NEW YORK (NEA)—If you've had, or are due for—a heart attack, the chances are better than good that you're one or more of the following:

A man over 45 who works in a busy office. Hurried and overworked. Inclined to be too ambitious. A victim of constant worry. Restless, unhappy at home. A hearty eater, 10 or more pounds too heavy, who tends to be fond of stimulants.

Heart specialists have learned to expect this type of person when they are called to see a patient with coronary thrombosis. But millions of men fit the picture, and only a smal fraction of them ever develop heart trouble.

What determines which ones? Why do some people get it while others who lead a similar life have hearts that are sound?

Exactly how does it happen?

And how can you keep yourself well, once the attack is over?

First, let's recall your attack. Though yours may have differed in details, the story commonly runs like this:

You are 50 years old and work in an office. For weeks you'd been feeling tired, and had noticed a passing sensation of pressure inside your chest. In the last few days it had happened oftener, but you drove yourself on.

That day everything seemed to go wrong. After a hectic morning, you stopped for lunch. You ate your usual big meal, gulped with the usual haste, and talked the usual shop talk.

You went back upstairs in a hurry, for hurry is one of your habits. Then, as you reached the top, you were suddenly overwhelmed by a crushing pain in your chest, as if you were caught in a vise which was tightly squeezing your ribs.

You had to fight for breath. You felt so nauseated that you went to the bathroom to vomit. Sweat rolled down your face and great weakness came over you. By now you were sure afraid and sure you are going to die.

With your last strength, you staggered out of the washroom and slumped on the floor outside. Someone summoned a doctor.

You remember he told you not to move and injected some stuff in your arm. It was morphine. Soon it began to take effect: the pain eased and you grew drowsy. An hour and a half later you awoke in a bed at the hospital.

Now you are most comfortable in body for the agonizing pain is gone, but you're still scared. Through your mind race a hundred questions, and the one you want answered first is, "just what has happened to me?"

Your doctor tells you the answer. He says you have just had a heart attack. Coronary thrombosis.

As you lie there feeling depressed, you ask yourself still another question: Why did it happen to me?

That is a hard one to answer. Perhaps the best we can do is to look again at the victims to learn more about who they are.

The usual victims are men. We do not know whether it is the kind of life that men lead, or whether there's something in sex itself that makes the difference. The fact remains: for every woman who dies of coronary thrombosis, four men are taken.

They are usually "older" people, from 45 to 70. This is because, in part, we survive the many infections with the help of the wonder drugs, only to be attacked later in life by diseases of wear and tear.

We do not know enough about causes to blame any occupations, though people in high-powered jobs do seem especially prone. It is often said, for instance, that a factor which helps to cause heart trouble is hard physical work.

Yet farm laborers are not particularly subject to coronary thrombosis, while barbers and bartenders, whose work is lighter, seem to have more than their share.

Especially puzzling is the fact that Negroes, who have plenty of hard work and worry, are not as subject to it as whites.

One fact seems to be clear: it is much more likely to strike if you tend to be overweight. Extra flesh is a curse, putting unrelieved strain on your body which makes it prey to disease.

Does coronary thrombosis run in families? Again, we have no precise information, but we do notice, that, time after time, our patients tell us of others in their families with the same trouble. Whether this is due to hereditary influences or to conditions of environment or to other factors is impossible to say.

At any rate, now that you've had your own attack, you'll be glad to know that the outlook is good. Of every 10 persons who have one, eight or nine get better and live to a ripe old age.

We will see how they usually do it in the four installments to follow.

Tomorrow: What went wrong?

Gas Fumes Turn Coffin Truck Into Death Trap

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—A coffin-loaded truck proved a death trap yesterday for Alonzo Dukette, about 60, of Worchester, Mass.

Dukette was killed and Roland Gaboury, 29, also of Worcester, was overcome as they napped in the cab of the truck at a gasoline station. Police said the motor was running, apparently to provide heat in the cab. Carbon monoxide was blamed for the death.

The truck is owned by Frank Sessions Co., Worcester casket manufacturers.

Sees GOP Apology as Aid to Cooperation

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) says he believes the Democrats want to cooperate with the Republican administration but he does not believe such cooperation fully possible until the Republicans apologize for what he called their "smear tactics" in last fall's congressional campaigns.

Douglas spoke to about 500 persons at the seventh annual Roosevelt Day Dinner sponsored by the Americans for Democratic Action last night.

"Such smear tactics threaten the foundation of American democracy by misleading the people and inflaming their passions to hatred," he said.

Douglas attributed what he called a growing unwillingness to fight communism to a Republican emphasis on "peace at any price."

Calling "tyranny worse than war," he said, "if we say that we will not fight, the Communists will take full advantage of this and push from victory to victory."

Dems Discuss Cities Bidding for Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats start talking today with cities interested in playing host to their 1956 national convention.

A subcommittee of the Democratic National Committee assembled at party headquarters to listen to bids.

Chicago and Philadelphia are the leading if not only serious contenders, as they were in bidding for the Republican convention recently. The GOP National Committee will meet here Feb. 17 to select a date and city.

Since both parties are now talking of August conventions, Atlantic City appears to be out of the running. The resort is packed with vacationers then. The tentative Democratic date is Aug. 13.

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler told a National Press Club luncheon yesterday party officials "hope to come up with some novel ideas" for the convention next year.

"I think it will be a streamlined, interesting and really entertaining convention," he said.

Oil Painter, 10, Exhibits Work

Parisians 'Oh' and 'Ah' at One-Man Show by Very Young Artist

PARIS (AP)—Crowds of art lovers are milling about a gallery on Paris' fashionable Rue Faubourg St.Honore to view with "ohs" and "ahs" the oils of a completely unheard-of painter who is 10 years old.

Thierry Vaubourgoin is the youngest artist to have a one-man show within the memory of gallery goers here. There are 45 of his paintings in the Alex Cazelles Gallery.

He paints when he feels like it. His father is a dircetor of an orchestra of the French radio network. His mother is a violinist.

Thierry, a frail, straw-haired boy, began drawing six years ago. He took up oils three years later and has had no formal instruction.

Most of the paintings are still life. The gallery manager thinks a painting of a dish of pears, soft gold against a subdued background, and a plate of silvery, blood-stained fish are among Thierry's best works. He did them in his "early period" — in 1952.

Not all the paintings on exhibit are for sale. But 10 were sold — at $57 to $110.

Ex-GIs Go Native Getting Educated Japanese Style

TOKYO (INS)—For the sake of a college education in Japan some 50 American veterans have given up the comforts of sleeping in a bed, living in heated houses and sitting on chairs.

All of them are veterans who served in the Far East. Most were so attracted by Japan's tea-drinking, kimono-clad atmosphere they decided to return to Japan to study under the GI bill of rights.

Many are married to Japanese girls, or have Japanese girl friends. Most live "Japanese style" on straw mat-covered floors, sleep in bulky quilts on the floor, take boiling hot "ofuro" baths and eat with chop sticks.

They supplement their government checks with such part-time jobs as nightclub manager, bartender, magazine writer and movie actor.

Their study, for the most part, is the same as that of any college student at home, with the exception of such required courses as Japanese language, and courses on Japanese culture.

The married students mostly live in Japanese houses in non-American neighborhoods.

Paraplegic Graduated in Wheelchair at Wayne

DETROIT (AP) — A 36-year-old paraplegic hospitalized for the past 17 years graduated with honors last night from Wayne University. Nick Kobane attended the graduation ceremonies in a wheel chair and received a degree of bachelor of arts in chemistry.

Ten prominent Detroiters, members of the Nick Kobane Club, have spent $16,900 to supply Kobane with tutors and books.

Crime Costly to Bandit

FITCHBURG, Mass. (AP) — A masked gunman held up the Saxon Theatre last night—and wound up with a loss. Police said he robbed the cashier of petty cash only and in fleeing from officers dropped the loot, his gun, his gabardine coat and hat.

Turkey's Press Law

The Press has received a letter from Nuri Eren, director of the Turkish Information office in New York, in regard to an editorial in this newspaper last December 14.

In it we deplored the reported arrests and indictments of certain Turkish newspaper men, saying in part: "Influential friends of Turkey . . . are disheartened by what seems to be a serious interruption of its progress toward true democracy.

"This has taken the form of growing harassment of the domestic and foreign press . . . made possible by a law . . . (whose) provisions make it an offense to 'insult the honor of the Turkish Nation, impugn the moral personality of the Grand National Assembly or injure the reputation of the Prime Minister'."

Mr. Eren does not contend that no such arrests were made or that the law mentioned doesn't exist. He feels, however, that the editorial tends to obscure the position of the press in Turkey and the great social, political and economic evolution that has established the individual as the basis of Turkish life.

That, of course, wasn't our intention. In fact the editorial referred to the "magnificent achievements" of Turkey in the recent past. Background material supplied by Mr. Eren shows that up until 1950 the government could suppress a paper without notice.

The material points out also that because the Turkish press hasn't developed the self discipline prevailing in the United States, it has been found necessary to revise laws governing libel and slander to curb irresponsible writing.

This newspaper has nothing but admiration for the people and accomplishments of modern Turkey. As we did in the original editorial, we again hope that its leaders will recognize the danger of too repressive press laws.

A Good Health Program

It is too early yet to predict the ultimate fate of President Eisenhower's health reinsurance program.

But there is no secret about the fact that the President hopes it will win the lawmakers' approval on its second trip to Capitol Hill.

That is the case despite the unmodified opposition to the plan voiced by the American Medical Association. The country's organized doctors still consider it "an entering wedge for socialized medicine."

Heart of the plan is its $25,000,000 reinsurance feature. Under this the Government would guarantee that no loss would be incurred by insured private companies as a result of claims for especially long or catastrophic illnesses.

These companies say they haven't had enough experience with such risks to know what premiums to charge. Mr. Eisenhower argues that the Government would lose little or no money in underwriting such health insurance.

How the matter will be handled by a Democratically controlled Congress is anybody's guess. It was defeated last year by Democrats in the Republican controlled Congress. The vote in the House was 238 to 134.

We endorsed this plan in 1954 and we still do. Our hope is that this year it will win the approval of the 84th Congress.

U.S. Sells Rubber Plants

Administration officials are well pleased with the prices offered for the 24 U.S. owned synthetic rubber plants now being sold to private business.

Because Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor shut off our supply of natural rubber from the Far East, these plants were hurriedly constructed to meet an emergency need. Their original cost was $458,000,000 and the reported sales prices add up to about $300,000,000.

One top Administration official indicated the Government is well pleased with this price, which he said was nearer the original cost than present book value of the plants.

Certainly, the private rubber interests can well afford to pay it. Not only are they buying these plants but they are getting an entire industry which up to now has been a Government monopoly.

The sales climaxed a Government success story and at the same time have the beneficial effect of getting the Government out of a business which should be operated by private enterprise.

The reason the average person isn't contented with his lot is that he wants a lot more.

The Man About Town

Wise Woodchucks

Feed Is Good So They Do Not Hibernate This Winter

Fluid drive: Woman's tears.

On this Ground-hog day, this column's long time weather watcher.

Jake Vandewalker

of Pontiac Trail, offers something new on the subject. According to that old belief, the ground hog (woodchuck in common language) rouses from his underground hibernation and comes out to look for his shadow. If he sees it, he ducks back for another six weeks, convinced that we are to have a long winter. But if it is a cloudy day, and he doesn't see his shadow, he remains awake, sure that spring is near at hand. On a year to year observation for a half century, Jake says the woodchuck's predictions have been wrong 60 per cent of the time. And to further complicate matters, he says a pair of the beasts which he has been feeding all winter did not go into hibernation at all.

A street that leads off the Dixie Highway in Waterford and then circles around and returns to the Dixie bears the appropriate name, "Comeback Trail."

Oakland County Drain Commissioner,
Ralph A. Main,
tells me that the Michigan drain law was enacted 31 years ago when the southeastern corner of our county had a small population. Now with ten times its inhabitants, its drainage troubles have also multiplied at least tenfold, and it is difficult to handle them under an outmoded law.

Most western railroads now are running dome cars on their fast passenger trains, and Harold F. Wright,
Pontiac ticket agent for the Grand Trunk, says the business is going to the roads that have them. Domes are still quite rare in the east, but some of the lines now have such cars building. They are said to cost $120,000 each.

Three of Oakland County's rivers, the Clinton, Huron and Shiawassee, all rise within a couple of miles of each other, in Springfield Township, and all flow in different directions.

Our newspapers got real nasty in their stories about other towns in our pioneer days. In an article in the
in 1869 I learn that "Everything is so quiet in Flint that its cemetery is complaining about the competition."

That Gingellville community out Baldwin Road is one of Pontiac's most enterprising suburbs. Its Community Club, of which is president, continues its monthly dinners with a patronage crowding the thousand mark. The proceeds go toward completing its community house.
Ed. Knickerbocker

There may be other city projects that will have to come first, but
is one city commissioner who is urging action on the long delayed plan to establish a fire station in the western part of Pontiac. The city owns a site at Genesee and West Huron Street. If traffic was tied up by a train, as occurs fairly frequently, and a fire broke out on the west side, a bad loss might result, Patterson points out.

This may not be a wide open winter, but Arthur Menninger
of Keego Harbor dug parsnips from his garden all through January.

You Can't Get Blood From a Stone?

David Lawrence Says:

SEATO Vote in Senate Confirms U. S. as Leader

WASHINGTON—Again the United States Senate has given a stimulating impetus to United States leadership in the world—this time by ratifying by an 85-to-1 vote the new treaty which calls for the establishment of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Just as the Senate and House by overwhelming vote only a few days ago gave a dramatic demonstration of American unity and firmness in passing the resolution to defend Formosa, so the action which lines up the United States behind the defense of Southeast Asia as a whole will have an impact far greater overseas than inside this country.

The new treaty commits the United States to an immediate consultation with seven other nations—Australia, New Zealand, Great Britain, France, Thailand, Pakistan and the Philippines—whenever there is an attack on any of the Southeast Asia countries named.

Even when there is no military action by the enemy but a conspiracy to acquire control of the countries in the area by subversion, there is an obligation on the part of the signers of the treaty to get together and determine what is best to do in the circumstances.

The treaty reserves to each government that signs it the right to take action only in conformity with its own "constitutional processes," which means that Congress alone can declare war or ratify steps taken in an emergency amounting to war.

The moral obligation, however, is clear. The plain implication of the treaty's provisions is that Communist aggression in Southeast Asia will be resisted. Ratification of the treaty is in itself another warning that the principle of collective security will be applied if the aggressor strikes.

The fact that the United States is among the first to ratify will have a favorable effect on the other countries. Both New Zealand and Australia are naturally desirous of lining up American potential help, as they recall how powerless they were when the Japanese swooped down on them in 1942.

As for Pakistan and Thailand, they are closer to Communist China geographically and are not so easily defended by sea-power as are New Zealand and Australia and the Philippines. But the signing of the treaty seals the friendship of America and the other nations with both Pakistan and Thailand. In a sense, this draws a longer line against Communist aggression, of which both Peiping and Moscow are bound to take notice.

While the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, usually called "SEATO," is somewhat different from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, known as "NATO," the principle of collective security is imbedded in each.

Incidentally, there are some academic persons now writing letters to the newspapers declaring that no nation can take a unilateral step while it is a member of the United Nations and that hence the recent resolution passed by Congress should not have been adopted without first getting the approval of all the members of the U.N.

But this wasn't the case with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and, indeed, Article 551 of the United Nations Charter specifically provides for the right of individual members to adopt measures for their own defense.

To say that the United States cannot defend itself without asking permission of the United Nations or that it cannot defend its own vital interests in the far Pacific without the consent of the United Nations is to assume the existence already of a world government in which individual nations have yielded their sovereignty. The spread of such concepts does much harm to the true purposes and opportunities of the United Nations as a mediator for peace among independent countries.

While there is no direct connection between the defense of Formosa and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, it can be said that the new treaty is supplementary to the defense of Formosa, which already is an integral part of the western defense line that the United States considers important to the defense of the Philippines.

What is happening in the world is that the United Nations, which has not been able to function as the world's policeman, is performing other duties in the realm of conciliation. But the big tasks of actual military defense as a deterrent to aggression have been taken over by a group of free nations which, in both Southeast Asia and in Europe, are pledged to consult each other about how best to fulfill their commitment to resist Communist aggression.

PTA Member Is Proud That Organization Backs Resolution for Fluoridation in City

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

As a PTA member I am proud of the Pontiac Council for submitting the resolution favoring fluoridation to the city commissioners. All over the city, PTA's will observe Founder's Day this month. PTA was organized in 1897.

In all of these years you cannot find one instance where we have acted hastily in matters concerning the welfare of children, but you can find many accomplishments that have helped children all over America.

All of this has been done after careful study and because we believe in the objects of PTA, one of them being to promote the welfare of children and youth in the home, school, church and community.

We have half enough fluorine in our water now and I am sure putting the other half in can do no harm, but will only decrease the decay of the children's teeth.

At least, I prefer to take the opinion of the American Dental Association, the Michigan Health Department, and other people who have studied fluoridation. The opposition claims fluorine is poison; so are many other things we consume in our diet, if taken alone and in large enough quantities.

If everyone would take the time to read both sides as I have done, I am sure it would be voted in unanimously.

Local Doctor Favors Fluoridation Program

In the light of the present evidence, small amounts of fluorine added to drinking water will reduce dental decay.

I would like to go on record in favor of the proposed fluoridation program.

Says Test Inconclusive; Still Against Fluoridation

On Wednesday, Jan. 26, I read a very interesting, as well as, a real convincer on fluoridation in the Pontiac Press. But I'm still opposed to fluoridation even if Grand Rapids had it for 10 years.

My reason is that the records prove nothing because the experiment did not go the full 10 years. Had Muskegon carried on for five more years, the record could have proved something of real value. Therefore, it is as unconvincing as the Salk test for polio.

Too bad that all the efforts of such fine men as Drs. Jay and Dean had to be curtailed by eager politicians. I thoroughly disagree with Dr. Werthheimer. How he can make such a comparison. After all, chlorination and pasteurization are used to kill harmful bacteria that killed men, women and children irrespective of age, color or creed.

I've had dental caries for 36 years and I hope to live to a ripe old age, providing they don't poison our drinking water. I have no intentions of committing murder or suicide, so please, let's bring this issue to the polls, an American way of settling all issues.

'Fact Finder' Quotes Doctor on Fluorine

Since the controversy on fluorine in our drinking water has occurred, I have read some very interesting facts concerning same.

From Jonathan Forman, M. D., Milwaukee, Wis., I quote: "I insist that it is a form of compulsory medication and not a public health measure. This type of medication can be given effectively by the dentist to the individual child who needs it without doing the least bit of harm to anyone.

"With good oral hygiene and the application of fluorine to the teeth that are soft by painting on directly, we can go a long way in controlling this disease without taking risks, calculated or otherwise.

"It cannot be emphasized too strongly that if the people of the community accept fluoridation to the neglect of the restriction of sweets, the use of a diet containing all the essential nutrients, and a sound program of oral hygiene, the community will no doubt be worse off than it is today without fluoridation."

Fact Finder

Too Many Chemicals Be Cause of Cancer?

Could the shocking increase of cancer in this country possibly be due to the fact that we have gone chemical crazy? They are sprayed on our fruit trees, mixed with the soil, doused on our vegetables and dumped into drinking water.

Pick up any can, box or jar and get an eyeful of the chemicals it contains. Yes, we are composed of chemicals and who has proof that an over-balanced body chemistry can't possibly cause cancer?

I am a young mother of five small tots with as genuine a concern for their oral health as any P. T. A. member, only I prefer to do my own thinking on this fluoride issue. Its proponents can quote health authorities from Grand Rapids or any place else. There are some who are opposed.

Like Saginaw, some other cities are throwing it out. Some of the business men who have voiced opposition could do the community a fine service by announcing places where citizens can sign the petitions which would put this menace on the ballot where it belongs.

Veepee Nixon is having some trouble winding up his last campaign. The Democrats refuse to let sleeping dogs snore.

Nix made some good speeches from the observation platform in 1954. But his punctuation was bad. He didn't pull the bell-rope soon enough.

The one that ferments in the Democratic rankle-craw was published in Richmond, Calif., "We saw the effect of the Democratic astigmatism to the flow of secret documents that let the Russians develop the atomic wallopus."

At Los Vegas he broad-gabbed, "If Stevenson's Congress is elected, the commies, fellow-travelers and security risks will again be chinning themselves on the government payroll."

Nixon also went after that old land-locked Red herring of the Truman equinoxes. The kid follows the line of the old Tammany politicians who called a spade by what's on it.

Lots of Parents Don't Know Children Get First of Permanent Teeth at Age 6

Tommy's parents have already cost him two permanent teeth! And it was all due to the fact they didn't realize the value of that Number 66 in dental care. Make every week Children's Dental Health Week, so be sure your child has no cavities. Your teeth are the foundation stones of good health and long life.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case N-339: Tommy T., aged 6, is just entering the first grade.

"Dr. Crane, this may not be in your field," his mother began, "but should a child's baby teeth be filled when they show cavities?

"You will notice that Tommy has two teeth that are pretty well decayed. My husband says let them alone for they will be replaced in a few years by his permanent teeth."

Unfortunately, Tommy's two decayed teeth were not the so-called baby teeth! They were permanent molars that come in only once and are never replaced by a second set.

"But I didn't know children got permanent teeth at the age of 6," his mother protested.

Neither do millions of you other intelligent parents realize that at the age of 6 (sometimes at 5 years) the child gets his first permanent molars.

There are 4 of these. They are the 6th tooth from the midline in front, and are in both the upper and lower jaws.

Remember the Number 66, for it symbolizes that 6th molar that erupts at the 6th year.

Most of you readers, if you have had any dental work done, will find that these 6-year molars are usually the ones you had filled or covered with gold crowns because your parents also thought they were baby teeth and hence neglected to have the cavities treated early.

Throughout America the first week of February is Children's Dental Health Week, but take a second close look at your youngster's teeth at least every month.

Teeth are the foundation stones for good health and long life, so don't try to economize by ignoring small cavities, even in the 20 baby teeth which are shed and replaced by a second set.

Those first 5 teeth on each side are called baby teeth (deciduous) for they are replaced by a second set.

Beginning with the 6th molar, however, your child does not get "seconds." They come in but once!

Teach your child to value his teeth above diamonds and rubies, for they are far more precious.

And educate him to use his toothbrush early. Pastes, powders and even salt or baking soda are good dentifrices.

But no dentrifrice is very good unless supplemented with a great deal of "elbow grease" on the opposite end of his toothbrush. It is the vigorous brushing which is most valuable.

Children nowadays don't dread dental visits, for our modern dentists are deft psychologists.

As such, too, they realize the grave personality conflicts that develop in youngsters with protruding or buck teeth. Many teenagers become shy wallflowers because they are embarrassed about their uneven teeth.

Teeth can be straightened early. The cost may run from $300 to $500 but it is a good investment for your child's future social poise and happiness.

Don't be penny wise and pound foolish by buying TV sets and other luxuries while you ignore your children's teeth. Warn them:

"Always be true to your teeth or they'll be false to you!"

Unidentified Physician Blasts Brady on Tonsillectomy, Rabies and Hernia

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

A reader sent me a clipping of what the reader said is from the editorial column of an unidentified newspaper. The item stated that an unidentified physician who is interested in medical and health questions "blasts" Dr. William Brady's teachings about rabies, tonsillectomy and hernia, and says Brady is a menace etc. etc.

Presumably the doctor who "blasts" me from his place of concealment expects that by the sheer weight of his authoritative position in the dinky town where the paper is published his dicta will prevail and my "unaccepted" views and teachings will no longer endanger the public.

To be sure, my column may disappear from the unidentified community, but will that make any difference to people in a hundred other communities who will continue to be menaced by Dr. Doc Brady and his dangerous teachings?

Take tonsillectomy, for instance. Here is what the chief of the pediatrics department of the University of Miami's School of Medicine said about it, at the recent clinical meeting of the AMA in Miami:

"A conscientious physician recognizes the need for an occasional tonsillectomy, but all too often it is done for no particular reason."

The pediatrician said the size of the tonsils means next to nothing because they are normally enlarged in children between five and eight years of age.

In this contumacious column I have cited the observation made by Dr. Barron of Addison (not to be confused with Mr. Roth's Addison Sims of Seattle). In the routine examination of school children in the winter term Dr. Barron and other school physicians found most of the children had enlarged tonsils and sent notes to their parents suggesting that the tonsils should be removed. Few if any of the parents followed the suggestion. Again after school reopened in the autumn the same doctors re-examined the children — and were astonished. Dr. Barron reported, to find that the enlarged tonsils had shrunk to what the doctors considered normal.

If I kept Dr. Barron's original report (published, I believe, in the N. Y. State Jour. of Medicine years ago) it is buried somewhere in my maddening files. So I can't say positively whether Dr. Wm. E. Barron of Addison, N. Y., or Dr. Wm. (Nought) Brady pointed the moral: Decide after summer vacation is over whether to expose the child to the grave risk of tonsillectomy.

An editorial article in the Jour. A.M.A. March 16, '40, cited the statement of Drs. F. K. Hansel and C. S. Chang, in "Arch. Otolaryngology, for January, '40, that 13 per cent of the annual total of more than 1,250,000 tonsillectomies are unnecessary—that is, no less than 160,000 persons subjected to this major operation in the course of the year have only allergy.

I hope you — you credulous parents will understand that these are not just my pipe dreams, as your trick specialists and clinic racketeers would have you believe, but the conclusions reached by medical authorities that can't be brushed off by the ever ready operators.

Signed letters not more than one page or 300 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to diagnosis, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

47 Die in Rash of Fires in U.S.

12 Killed in New York This Morning to Boost Weekly Toll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Forty-seven persons—most of them children—have lost their lives this week in a tragic outbreak of fires occurring in six states.

At Amsterdam, N. Y., a 10-family tenement was destroyed early today and 12 persons perished. Eleven were children. Only eight bodies were recovered immediately.

Six were identified as those of Juan Rivera and his five children. Their bodies were found huddled in the kitchen of their apartment.

An overflowing oil stove was blamed for the fire.

Another tenement fire in New York City, caused by an exploding kerosene heater in an East Side Manhattan building, took the lives of three children and three adults.

Seven other persons died in New York City blazes, most of them similarly ignited.

Other fire deaths:

Virginia—Six children of Robert L. Eley, ranging from 3 to 14 years, succumbed when flames engulfed their frame home at Chuckatuck, Va.

Georgia—A 29-year-old mother at Rossville, Mrs. Alta Wright, died trying to save her four children after an oil stove exploded. The children, ranging from three months to 10 years, also perished. At Augusta, Army Sgt. John T. Smith Jr. burned to death with his three young children in their home at Camp Gordon.

Indiana — Three children lost their lives in a blaze caused by an overheated oil stove while their mother was away on an errand.

Kentucky — Mrs. Charles E. Hodge Sr. and her two daughters were trapped in their blazing farm home near Liberty. The fire apparently started from kerosene being used to kindle a fire.

New Jersey—An oil lamp upset and touched off a fire which killed a 58-year-old man living in a farm shack.

At Baltimore, a million-dollar conflagration gutted an auto agency, and Stanbrook Lodge near Rhinebeck, N. Y., was swept by a $100,000 blaze.

Suspend Berlin Cop for Contacting Reds

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin police announced today that an officer of its criminal department has been suspended on suspicion of "state-endangering contacts" with the East German Communist secret police.

Police said the officer, identified only as "D", reported to his superiors last Sunday that he had visited the Soviet sector several times in the past two months at the suggestion of an Eastern agent.

The announcement said there was no proof as yet that "D" had transmitted any important information to the East but he was suspended pending completion of the investigation.

Poets and Writers Find News Has Many Faucets

NEW YORK (INS) — Some thoughts on news . . .

Voltaire, in a letter to Count D'Argental, wrote, "In the case of news, we should always wait for the sacrament of confirmation."

Dorothy Keeley Aldis, when told she was to become a mother, wrote these exhuberant lines:

Why, when I was told the news
I felt wings upon my shoes
And gallivanted down the street
Wanted to be indiscreet
And shout to all the world that I
Was about to multiply.

Plutarch mourned, "Ill news goes quickly and far," and Sophocles, anticipating a generation of public relations men, opined, "It is the merit of a general to impart good news and to conceal the bad."

De Quincy assumed that the word news was created by the arrival of "mails from the North—the East—the West—the South, whence comes the magical word N E W S."

William Aytoun expressed the spirit of news in front page language:

News of battle!—News of battle!
Hark! 'Tis ringing down the street;
And the archways and the pavement
Bear the clang of hurrying feet.

Ralph Waldo Emerson, in his "Society and Solitude," had these kind words to offer. "We have the newspaper, which does its best to make every square acre of land and sea give an account of itself at your breakfast table."

Woodrow Wilson spoke of newspapers in more lyrical fashion:

Carrier of news and knowledge
Instrument of trade and Promoter of mutual acquaintance
Of peace and goodwill
Among men and nations.
Messenger of sympathy and love
Servant of parted friends
Consoler of the lonely
Bond of the scattered family
Enlarger of the common life.

Many of the masters were concerned with bad news. "None love the messenger who brings bad news," said Sophocles. And Shakespeare chimed in a bit later with "yet the first bringer of unwelcome news hath but a losing office, and his tongue sounds ever after as a sullen bell, remembered knolling a departing friend."

"Suspense in news is torture," John Milton commented. The Old Testament, speaking of good news, said of it "as cold waters to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country." And Churchill said with his customary surety:

"It is better to be making the news than taking it, to be an actor rather than a critic." So he quit newspaper work on the spot.

Driver Without License Hard Man to Convince

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP) — Dist. Judge Warren A. Woodruff fined Vernon Ward, 32, $50 for driving his car after his driver's license had been revoked.

The judge glanced out the window a moment later. Ward was getting behind the wheel of his car again. He drove off.

A sheriff's deputy had Ward back in court within half an hour. This time he got five days in jail.

Hal Boyle Says:

Money Stinks — but Only When It's Old and Soiled

NEW YORK (AP)—Money stinks.

Not all kinds of money, of course. Just old dirty, beat-up money—the kind a man would hesitate even to give to a relative.

This worn out currency is accumulated by the Federal Reserve banks before it is destroyed.

"One of our biggest problems recently was designing air-conditioning for two Federal Reserve vaults," said John Moser, executive vice president of the 107-year-old Mosler Safe Co. "They had to have fresh air ducts to take away the money fumes.

"Most people like the smell of crisp new money. But the smell of stacked old money will knock a horse over."

Getting rid of this repulsive fragrance is only one of the troubles with old money. It is also hard to get rid of the money itself. You may find money easily burns a hole in your own pocket, but the government has found it so difficult to destroy bundles of old bills that it now has a money shredder to chop it up before it is put to the torch.

(Editor's Note: Does the government have a monopoly on these money shredding machines?)

(Boyle's Note: Well, there is a rumor that several Texas multi-millionaires keep one or two around the home. By shredding their old bills and throwing them in the furnace they avoid a long, tiring trip to the bank to make a deposit. It enables them also to brag, "man, I bet it takes more money to heat my house than it does yours.")

There is so much cash in America today that the care and proper protection of it has boomed the safe-and-vault business into a 50-to-60-million-dollar-a-year industry.

It has also developed several new gimmicks to make the chore of depositing or withdrawing money easier for bank customers.

"Banking today is a highly competitive business," said Mosler. "Bankers, after all, are salesmen—they sell money for a price. And since they generally have the same price for it, they are learning they have to offer special services to get new business."

One of the new devices is the "snorkel" for drive-up banking. The snorkel sits at the curb outside the bank and looks like an automatic vending machine. The motorists drive up, reach out and put the deposit or the check they want cashed into an elevator tray which descends to the teller, who is beneath the pavement but can see the depositor through an overhead mirror. He completes the transaction by sending up the bankbook or cash in another elevator tray.

Another device is the pedestrian window, built in the walls of the bank. A shopper can do business without ever entering the building. The pedestrian windows are proving highly popular with housewives who find it hard to push their baby buggies through a revolving door, or don't feel they are dressed well enough to go into the bank.

"Women now are doing more and more banking," said Mosler. "And they are dictating many of the changes."

The latest wrinkle is "skytop banking." A suburban St. Louis bank soon will inaugurate this. The bank is built on a hillside and has two snorkel machines on the roof. Motorists will be able to drive from the hill onto the roof, make a deposit, and roll down the other side on a ramp.

"Putting snorkels on the roofs makes the customer feel even safer from bandits," said Mosler, adding:

"Even helicopters could be used, and has anybody ever held up a helicopter? Helicopter banking lies in the future, but it will come."

Many people now have safes in their homes—one lady asked for a pink safe with a carved gold knob to fit the decor of her boudoir. But a surprising number, who for one reason or another want to keep their wealth away from prying eyes, actually have real bank vaults built into their homes.

"Most of them are art or jewel collectors," Mosler said tactfully.

The price for putting one of these Ft. Knoxes in your home starts at $12,000. For a really big vault—25-to-50 tons—you can pay up to a million dollars.

Of course, the big job has an added advantage. It not only will safeguard the family silverware—it makes a swell pace for the kids to play in on a rainy day.

Sixth Atomic Artillery Unit Headed Overseas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army, in a move to strengthen its atomic striking force overseas, said today it will send a sixth battalion of 280-mm. cannon to Europe in the near future.

The unit is the 216th Field Artillery Battalion, now completing training at Ft. Sill, Okla. Like the other five already in Europe, it has six of the cannon capable of hurling both conventional and atomic ammunition up to 30 miles.

Town's Singing Baker Retires With His Arias

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. (UP)—Residents of this historic village no longer get their bread delivered to the tune of operatic arias. "Pete the Baker" has retired.

After 34 years and eight months as a bakery route man, Peter Alotta is devoting himself to his hobbies — music, raising chickens and goats, and gardening.

Pete's rich Italian tenor used to herald the arrival of his bakery truck with arias from such operas as "Il Trovatore" and "Aida."

Two generations of children remember him also for his liberal handouts of free cookies and doughnuts. When asked how he balanced his book at day's end, Pete replied:

"Add up happy faces instead of money."

CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY

You can take it over for only $2267.88* delivered locally!

Most people still don't believe it. But it is true.

And when you look into the facts, you'll find these two solid truths:

Buick is one of the "Big Three" in sales volume—and hotter this year than ever before. And Buick is one of the "Big Three" when it comes to prices which make such popularity possible. The price we show here proves it.

So why not get what a Buick has to offer, if you are in the market for a new car?

You find that the dollars you pay for Buick buy you a lot more automobile—and the sheer satisfaction that comes with bossing a brawny traveler of this caliber.

You find it in the record-high V8 power that gives life to this spirited performer. You find it in the soft and level and cruiser-steady ride that comes of all-coil springing and torque-tube stability. You find it in the extra roominess, the extra frame strength, the extra tread width, the extra silencing—all part and parcel of every Buick.

We could tell you about the little things, too. Things usually charged for as "extras" in other cars, but yours as standard equipment at no extra cost in every Buick. Things like direction signals, oil-bath air cleaner, full-flow oil filter, automatic lighting in glove and trunk compartments—and so on.

But—you get the idea. This is a buy, this '55 Buick—a great buy—and a thriller from the instant you press its gas pedal. Come in this week and check things for yourself, won't you?

*2-door, 6-passenger Buick SPECIAL Sedan, Model 46, illustrated. Optional equipment, accessories, state and local taxes, if any, additional. Prices may vary slightly in adjoining communities. Even the factory-installed extras you may want are bargains, such as: Heater & Defroster . . . $81.70; Radio & Antenna . . . $92.50.

McCarthy Blasts Plans to Oust 7 of His Aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) protested as "cheap, dirty politics" today what "the Democrats" on the Senate Investigations subcommittee in asking seven staff members to resign.

It is not unusual for committees to have a staff shakeup when party control of Congress shifts, but McCarthy said the present case violates a rule adopted by the subcommittee last year—at the Democrats' insistence, he said.

He said he has advised the staff members not to resign, and that he will resist any effort to vote them out of their jobs when the subcommittee meets next, presumably late this week or early next week.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said in an interview that "the chairman (McClellan himself) has advised some members of the staff he would not submit their names for confirmation" to continue in their jobs, "and offered them the opportunity, if they cared to, to resign." He declined to name them.

McClellan said that if they decide not to resign, the matter will be submitted to the full subcommittee for a vote on whether to replace them.

Jobless Benefits Increase Asked

AFL Asks Congress to Boost Unemployment Pay Levels, Duration

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—AFL leaders said today that "polite appeals" from President Eisenhower to states to boost unemployment compensation payments have failed and it is time for Congress to impose higher benefit levels.

An increase both in the amount of benefits and their duration for jobless workers was advanced by the AFL Executive Council in winter session here as a major step toward maintaining the nation's purchasing power.

The council said the revisions are particularly needed now because the AFL expects unemployment, measured by the latest government count at 2,838,000 in December, to rise to 3½ to 4 million in February or March.

At present, states pay an average $25 per week to workers insured by the unemployment insurance system. Eisenhower has twice called on states to raise the payments to equal half a worker's regular pay for as long as 26 weeks or half a year, of unemployment.

Few states have heeded this advice. There have been several attempts to have Congress boost benefits, including one last year, but they have never gotten very far.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the 10-million-member AFL has refused, out of dissatisfaction with the policies of Secretary of Labor Mitchell, to appoint a representative to a labor advisory council which Mitchell is trying to form.

The AFL, along with the CIO, United Mine Workers and the Independent railroad unions, were invited to name representatives to the group, which is to advise Mitchell on labor legislation and other matters. All except the AFL have named representatives. The AFL council may reconsider.

Parents Wise Not to Make Rigid Demands of Their Children Counselor Says

Inflexible Rules Alienate Children's Confidence

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Just when I made the rule that required my daughter to tidy her room before leaving for school, I don't remember. It doesn't matter. What matters is that the rule was made and persistently broken.

It was the spring of her second term in high school. I can still recall that Monday morning and the appalling disorder in which she left her room. That afternoon, I reminded her of the rule. Silence.

The next morning, the disorder was more chaotic than before. For a week, with mounting impatience, I protested and my protests were received with the same silence.

On the following Monday as I surveyed her unmade bed, the litter of clothing and jammed wastebasket, I thought, "This is the end. Now I shall explode, for what we have here is a tailspin into real defiance."

So, that afternoon, I duly detonated. When my child came home from school, I said, "Go to your room and tidy it. I will not have its disgraceful condition one more day. You are growing up and..."

She sank down upon the nearest chair. "Oh, mother please stop," she wailed. "All my stage sets for the drama club play have had to be redesigned. Please don't fuss. I'm so tired of trying to please so many people at the same time."

I drew a deep breath. Then opening the eyes I had closed, I said, "Will you kindly inform me why you could not have explained this last Monday? Why could you not utter your need for help with your room this week?"

She gave it to me straight. "Because you seemed to think your rule was more important than I am, that's why," she said.

Since then, when rules have been made, I've said, "If you need a suspension of this rule, speak up."

It's an economical thing to say. For the word "rule" conveys inflexible demand. If we don't make it clear to children that our rule can always accommodate special circumstances, they will break it to accommodate them themselves.

Believing that we feel about our rule as Communists feel about their Party Line, they will have to defy it secretly, resorting to the silence, plots or lies that are used by any deviationist living under rigid Authority.

Thus, unqualified rules can alienate us from children's confidence shutting us out from the special circumstances which represent their problems. We lose touch with their feelings and thoughts.

That is the price we pay for subordinating their importance to the importance of the child's external behavior.

Lemon Pie With Milk Is Unusual One

Mrs. Martin Makes Creamy Version of Traditional Dessert

By JANET O'DELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

When your husband won't eat a certain food, you do something about it. Mrs. Leland Martin changed her method of making lemon pie because her husband didn't like the filling made with water. Maybe this is just the recipe you've been looking for, too.

Mrs. Martin makes many of the clothes she and her daughter wear. She is co-leader of a 4-H cooking project in which her daughter participates. The Pontiac Junior Women's Club counts her in its membership. For recreation shared with her husband, square dancing with the Allemanders Club takes first place.

LEMON CREAM PIE
By Mrs. Leland Martin

2 cups milk
1 cup sugar
6 tablespoons flour
Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon
2 eggs, separated
Speck of salt

Heat 1½ cups milk. Mix the other ½ cup milk with the sugar and flour and add to the hot milk. Beat egg yolks slightly, add lemon rind. Add a small amount of the hot mixture to the eggs, then pour it all into the hot mixture and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add lemon juice. Pour into a baked pie shell. Make a meringue from the 2 egg whites, a dash of salt and 3 tablespoons of sugar. Brown in the oven.

Military Housing Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) has proposed a program for supplying 300,000 additional housing units for military personnel in the next three years. Private contractors would build the units, then the government would take title and rent them out, retiring the three-billion-cost over a 32 - year period wih mortgage loans.

Little girls love a variety of pretty clothes for school and playtime. Blouses are a charm to any fashion minded little day dreamer. One, here, is in gay red and white plaid gingham and the other is pale blue broadcloth with barrel cuffs and short sleeves.

Two Bright Young Girls Seek Jobs Far From Home

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"My girl friend and I are both secretaries," a young woman writes, "and good ones, too. She has had six years of experience, and I have had eight. Now, we are tired of working here, and are very anxious to get jobs overseas. We have tried all the companies we can think of, with no luck.

"Somebody suggested the Foreign Service, but we don't know how to go about it. We're anxious to get going, and we want to be together, preferably in France.

Both of us have excellent, fast, accurate steno and typing, and good experience. Please tell us how to find out about jobs in the Foreign Service."

First, the chances are you will not get the specific country you request, because openings are filled wherever they are, and in order. Second, you will most likely not be assigned together.

Before applying, better face the fact that you will be sent where they need you, and your friend will be sent where they need her.

However, the jobs are usually very interesting, and you will of course later on be transferred, in many cases, so you can usually count on seeing several foreign countries.

You should write to the Recruitment Section, Division of Foreign Service Personnel, Department of State, Washington 25, D. C. Preference is usually given to people who are single, with no dependents, and who have been citizens of the United States for at least five years.

The preferred ages are from 21 to 35, and you must be in good health, and willing to take an assignment to any part of the world.

There will probably be some delay, since this is a popular service and you will be put on a waiting list. But many girls I know have gotten jobs of this kind, and of course you never know, you might be accepted more rapidly than you think.

There are other agencies which use stenographers for overseas assignments and you can look them up in your library, in a book called "American Foreign Service," by J. R. Childs, published by Henry Holt and Company.

Oriental Touch Gives Designers Wider Field

NEW YORK (INS) — Recommended recipe for the latest in home decoration — a pinch of pagoda, a trifle of Oriental tapestry and seasoning with Far Eastern accessories to taste.

Oriental touches in modern furniture are top decorating news, and bits of Bali and points east are now even included in traditional room settings.

One large New York department store is showing in its traditional furniture line a hutch cabinet top with turned up, pagoda-like edges. Cane back chairs are upholstered in velvet for formal dining room use.

In the modern mode, teak and brass are an oriental-inspired combination that blends in well.

The light wood table is a large, circular coffee table that can be pulled apart into three pieces by tugging on the brass, cut-out handles that ring the piece.

Wall decorations to go with the "trans-orient" theme include Japanese silk tapestry or even sketches made on fuzzy Japanese paper. Accessories include brass hand-warmers and screens painted to look like bamboo on black.

"Acoustic blankets" on walls of passenger cars on British railways

The angle at which you wear your hat should reflect feminine charm and dignity. Avoid floppy angled skimmers and rollers.

Mrs. F.—A bulkier look for spring is featured in hats that have more depth. This balances the slim easy line in the coats, suits and dresses. Flowers and fruit with new emphasis on delicacy of detail is another feature.

Floor Board Flaws Need Mending

By HUBBARD COBB

We know a man who spent a good many hours one summer filling up cracks in the floors of his house. Came the winter and the cracks appeared again. This made him unhappy.

What he didn't realize was that in summer the wood in his floor had absorbed moisture and expanded so that the cracks between boards were at their smallest. In the winter, when the heating system was on, the wood dried out and shrank around the filler he had applied, leaving unsightly cracks. The thing to do then, is to fill cracks between floor boards in winter when their size is the greatest.

There is no easy way that we know to fill a crack between floor boards. The first thing to do is to clean out the crack because no filler will stick and hold to the dust and dirt usually found in cracks.

The next step is to select a filler and the choice here depends on the size of the cracks and how well you want the finished result to turn out. Small cracks, for example, can be filled with plastic wood but using this material to fill large cracks can become an expensive undertaking.

Some people prefer to make their own filler for cracks by mixing sawdust with wood glue. It's best if you use sawdust from the same wood as the floor is made of to get a good color match. But whether you use plastic wood or sawdust and glue, let it come slightly above the level of the floor and then, when it is dry, sand or plane it down level with the rest of the floor.

The best remedy for filling large cracks is with a strip of wood which you glue into the crack. The strips can be cut for you by a lumber yard or mill if you don't have a power saw —sawing them by hand can be done but it takes an awful lot of time.

Glue should be applied to the Girls Told to Be Kind but Firm

Too Persistent Males Irritate Distaff Side

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I liked him once, but not any more. I've been trying to tell him, but I didn't want to hurt him. (I'm the first girl who ever dated him and he's not the handsomest boy in the world!)

He still likes me and he gave me a lovely Christmas present. Mother says I shouldn't have taken it if I didn't like him. But it's too late now—or is it? How could I go about giving it back to him?"

It is a bit too late now to give him back your Christmas present. And I suspect any move in that direction would cause more than a little drama. Keep the present and continue to be grateful to him for it.

Grateful for his thoughtfulness and his generosity and the spirit that prompted him to remember you so nicely. Grateful for the attention and the devotion he has shown you since you've known him. None of those things should be taken lightly.

You can't just dismiss them because you no longer find him Mr. Dazzledust.

It's unfortunate that you don't feel romantic about him any longer. But the opposite of romantic needn't necessarily be loathing. The opposite of dating him needn't necessarily be not speaking to him.

He still likes you in that special way, and out of respect for him and his affection, you can at least be friendly, polite, and interested —if not quite as available.

"Dear Miss Woodward: When he asked me to go with him I really didn't want to, but my girl friend talked me into it. After a few days of going with him I broke off. He still likes me, but he can't take a hint, and still bothers me.

All he does for me is get me in trouble with my friends. I don't want to tell him I don't like him for it might hurt his feelings. But what else can I do?"

You can be quite polite and nice when you're face to face with him and can't avoid it. And you can be completely unconscious of him when you're with your friends, and don't have to bother with him directly.

You broke off with him, which is no slight hint. It's something real and tangible, and he should understand that you aren't going to go with him any more. You needn't go into detail and explain that your interest in him (if any) has withered and died.

You can just be surrounded with your friends most of the time, impossible to pry loose. And the sooner some other boy takes up most of your time the better. That's a hint he'll take.

Newest Trends Seen at Show

CHICAGO (UP)—Some of the new home furnishings trends which you will see in 1955, as shown at the winter market here:

A group of Spanish-inspired furniture designed by Dorothy Draper, of New York. The presentation included fabrics and wallpaper to carry out the gay motif.

Leather - topped and leather-trimmed tables.

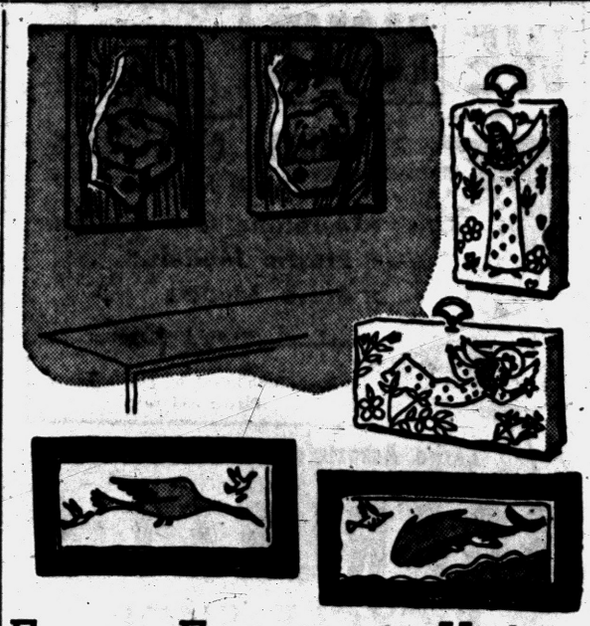
A table-top of specially processed sea shells.

A modern sofa with legs shaped like sling-shots.

Furniture upholstered in harris tweed.

An increased popularity of pink tones in interior decoration.

"Distressing" wood finishes — treating the wood to give a well-worn "heritage" effect.



Fresco Fragments Unique for Wall Decoration

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

Two fragments of fresco brought from Europe several years ago began a new career for artist Evie Fort.

Quite a career, because the demand for her colorful drawings of plaster has had her turning out one new series of designs after another ever since.

There was something so appealing about that original pair of angels in pink and in gold that she began to design more of them, but even greater was the appeal to others of the unique idea they were for wall decoration.

Larger fresco fragments, in pairs and in groups to be hung together, followed the angels, from other inspirations from other parts of the world.

There is a recent series of Egyptian figures, and now the pair (sketched at top left) which echoes ancient cave paintings of primitive animals.

These like the new bird and fish designs, two of four of which are shown, mount the plaster on backgrounds of stained wood.

PTA Founders' Day Banquet Held Tuesday at Wever

Pontiac Council of PTA held its annual Founder's Day dinner Tuesday evening in Wever Junior High School. Mrs. William Wright, council president, introduced the guests of honor to the 450 members present.

Honored guests included Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of Pontiac schools and Mrs. Whitmer; J. Cecil Cox, assistant superintendent of schools and Mrs. Harry E. King, member of the Board of Education and past president of the Michigan Congress of PTA.

Others were F. N. Thiefels, Robert Oliver, Dr. Walter Godsell and Louis Schimmel, board members, and Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. Godsell and Mrs. Schimmel.

Also introduced were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Temple, Mrs. Beryl Sherman, Mrs. William Mihalek, Mrs. Wayne Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson, the Merlin Sandersons, Vera Mae Adams, Mrs. Fern Perrin and the Rev. D. B. Pawley, who gave the invocation.

Past presidents of the Pontiac Council introduced were Mrs. C. H. Greve, Mrs Lee Hill, Mrs. Frank Schmidt, Mrs. Gordon Rice, Mrs. Leon Wolverton, Mrs. Paul Gorman, Mrs. Donald North and Mrs. King.

Dr. Whitmer spoke briefly and a pageant, "A Child Went Forth" was presented. Miss Adams, of Pontiac High School Radio Workshop wrote the pageant and it was narrated by Mrs. Fern Perrin.

Taking part in the pageant which followed the emotional growth of the child through adolescence were Mrs. Lyle Cox and her son, Brett, Kathy Hoisington, Dennis Garner, Mrs. Sydney Olsen, her son, Paul and Mrs. Byford Laur.

Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts and Brownies aided by Mrs. Frank Phelps, Mrs. Mattie Manley and Mrs. Edmund Hadden had a hand in showing how the growing child adjusts to group activity.

Jeanette Wright and Bill Mihalek portrayed the early adolescent period, and Karen Barling and Carolyn Hawn presented the telephone skit illustrating a later phase in adolescent development.

The pageant closed with the thought that the child needs reassurance. He must be loved, understood, cared for and respected.

Mothersingers of LeBaron School directed by Mrs. Richard Royal were on the program. Organ accompaniment was played by Melvin Staebler and the back drop was made by Mrs. Samuel Hale.

Assisting Mrs. Mihalek were George Yansen, William Willson, William Wright, Lillian Davidson, Mrs. Sanderson and Mrs. Weaver.

Working on the stage crew were Bob Abney, Bill Hoisington, Ronald Rose and Harold Kinder.

Others assisting were Mrs. Roland Stephison, Mrs. Reon Baldwin, Mrs. Francis Oak, Mrs. Marvin Hillman, Mrs. Earl Luchenbach and Mrs. Alfred Watson.

Also serving on committees were Mrs. Charles Evans, Mrs. Arthur Herald, Mrs. Clarence Kloka, Mrs. Fred Wheeler, Mrs. Robert Galbraith, Mrs. John Thomas, Mrs. Jack Chesister, Mrs. Adams Admonitis, Mrs. William Fielding and Mrs. Otis Rainey.

"A Child Went Forth" was the title of the pageant given at the annual Founder's Day dinner of Pontiac Council of PTA held Tuesday evening in Wever Junior High School. Among those taking part were Mrs. Lyle Cox and son, Brett (center) of North Perry street, Carolyn Hawn (left) of Chippewa road and Karen Barling of West Iroquois road.

Gentlemen Turn All Colors Now in Formal Wear

NEW YORK (INS)—Remember those dear old days when a gentleman asked a lady the color of her evening gown so he could provide the proper corsage?

Well, girls, this summer you'll be asking the gentleman the color of his dinner jacket so you can wear the proper dress.

If the formal wear institute has its way, the elegant American male will blossom forth at evening with pink, pale blue, light green, creamy beige and dull yellow dinner jackets—with linings to match—and with stripes on the trousers to match the linings!

To complete this bird-of-paradise plumage, the well-dressed gentleman will also be expected to sport a silver or gold evening bowtie and cummerbund.

If pastel dinner packets do become the thing for summer formals, ladies probably will have to overhaul their date wardrobe.

Travel All Right for Unborn

CHICAGO (UP) — Travel does not increase the complications of pregnancy.

Dr. Joseph A. Guilbeau Jr., and his associates at the Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama reported on a study of 1,917 pregnant women who traveled 300 miles or more.

Guilbeau said threatened and actual abortions were under 5 per cent, well below the accepted figure of 10 per cent.

But Guilbeau warned women who are threatened with miscarriage symptoms to refrain from long trips for a period of four to six weeks after the symptoms have ended.

Paris Says Beads Are the Thing

PARIS (INS) — Women of Paris, like little girls, are playing with beads this season.

Colorful beads, strung to make four or five foot-long rope-strands, are this winter's most popular costume jewelry.

In Paris the beads come in the colors of precious and semiprecious stones, imitating rubies, garnets, emeralds, topazes, turquoises or jet. They are either crystal cut or are pea-sized, round and polished to form long glittering strings.

Parisiennes wear these long "sautoirs" either wound around the throat to a chunky choker or draped in several loops to fill in a neckline or simply in the 1920 manner and tucked into the belt.

But the real Parisian chic consists in combining two or three different colored rope-strands wound together. Garnet red and topaze colored crystal-cut beads are good combination.

A long string of displayed pearls can be combined with round-cut turquoise and black jet beads to make a smart necklace with black.

Mature Working Woman Often Has Big Problem

"Young career girls," Dr. Sorkin pointed out, "generally go into business with the idea of interim employment until they marry. Then they realize that a double income enables the family to maintain a standard of living that would be impossible on one pay check."

On the problems of the mature working woman, she said:

"A recent survey of the National Federation shows that 21 per cent of our members pay all the family expenses and that 36 per cent support dependents. This means that the mature worker is responsible for her own financial future and that of those dependent upon her."

Dr. Sorkin believes that women over 65 particularly need help and a "bread and butter sideline." She explained:

"They need it to furnish extra income and aid in mental adjustment after they have been legislated out of a job on their 65th birthday.

"Age should never be the measuring rod of employment. Some men and women die at 40 but are not buried until 80, and some are young at 65."

Dr. Sorkin thinks increasingly long vacations would help the retirement age worker. She suggests:

"Postpone retirement with vacations two months of one year, three months of the next, four and even six months of the following year.

"By the fifth year the worker might have broadened her interests, and will have had time to adjust to retirement.

"At the same time, her working years would have been lengthened and the firm would have been able to profit by her experience over a longer period of time.

Idea for Gift to Mother

Here is an idea which you can make for an ornament, and since Valentine's Day is close, you could make one of these as a gift for Mother.

Today is the day for winner of the week! This two-way suggestion is from Mary Sacco of Utica, New York. Her Try it book and surprise is on its way. Will you be a Winner like Mary? I wonder! Try it.

She suggests that you see what kind of pearls you may have around the house, If you can find only two, use this first idea. Lacquer a large safety pin with gold. When it is dry, use a household cement to glue one pearl over the loop in one end and the other over the closing part.

Let it stand for 24 hours to dry completely. If you find many odd pearls, take the loop out of the end of the pin with pliers, then paint it. Slip 4 or 5 pearls on the upper part of the pin, cementing the last one in place. These make expensive looking lapel pins.

Mother would like to have one or a pair of these for her coat.

Writer Says Old Styles Practical

Manufacturers Keep New-Fangled Gadgets Appearing

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

A little note in one of the business magazines declares that some manufacturers of kitchen equipment are going in from now on for "planned obsolescence," a phrase that takes my fancy.

It means, I suppose, that these companies will bring out each year fresh models of refrigerators, ranges, washing machines and toasters so different from last year's that everybody, perforce, will trade in the old and buy the new.

Automobile makers have practiced planned obsolescence for years and perhaps it's time the people learned what hits them when they get all steamed up at the prospect of acquiring a 1955 model though they must know that, in spite of its dented fenders, there are thousands of good miles left in that old 1953 heap.

Part of the lure of the gleaming two-toned new car with its automatic clutch and extra horses under the hood undoubtedly is the fact that all the neighbors will know that you have the LATEST.

It's the same—it must be—with clothes. The industry has operated always on the basis of planned obsolescence, no matter what it was called. Only a very rugged individualist in our country ever waits for dresses, coats or even shoes to wear out.

We keep them just until, fashionwise, they are obsolete. The function of the designer is to engineer an old model garment into discard regardless of its functionability. This is done by moving a hemline up or down, switching a waistline from high to low, a neckline from heart shape to square.

In the men's field, shoulders change from padded to unpadded, lapels from narrow to broad, trousers from wide to skimpy.

I suppose that way madness lies, but I can't help trying to think how they can so far improve on my faithful old pop-up toaster that I'll be ashamed of it in company. And it does seem to me that when I got that refrigerator with a place to keep butter at spreading temperature I'd found the ultimate. But I know there is more, much more, to come.

I simply CAN'T imagine, though, what a new-fangled washing machine could do that the old one with its automatic mangle and dryer doesn't doght now irshrd dryer doesn't do right now. But I'm waiting with my eyes ready to bug out.

Mind you, I'm not against any of this, for I believe that the quickest way to work ourselves into bankruptcy would be for everybody to use everything until it wears out. Buying new products is undoubtedly what keeps our industrial and business wheels moving and puts us ahead of the rest of the world.

Still, the old Scotch in me makes me just a little unhappy at the thought of a deliberate effort to junk perfectly good clothes and machinery—for the sake of having the latest thing. But then, come to think about it, I don't HAVE to do it, do I?

Cheery note on a rainy day is this white cotton lace over black worsted and cotton water repellent raincoat with unattached hood. Matching rain boots are also water repellent.

Rude Guest Is Offensive to Hostess

Visitor Should Be More Tactful, Mrs. Post Says

By EMILY POST

A reader writes: "I would very much like your opinion on the following incident. After dinner the other evening when cigarettes were passed with coffee in the living-room, all of my guests, except one, seemingly found a brand of cigarettes they liked from among those I proffered.

This one guest looked over my assortment, said "no thanks," and then left the room to get her own. Wasn't this rude?"

If she said with a smile something like, "I'm sorry but I really like only X brand and I have some in my bag," her going out to get her own would not have been rude.

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me, first, if it is proper to use unlighted candles (in candelabra) on the buffet merely as decoration? Second, if it is proper to use them, then should the candles be new or should they be lighted and snuffed out, leaving charred ends as though they had been used.

Answer: If by a buffet you mean a sideboard, candelabra are suitable decoration. There is no rule about burning off the ends, but if you did this the candelabra would at least look as though they were sometimes used on the sideboard between times.

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiance's mother has written me, and signed her very friendly note, "Jack's Mother." I want to answer this but the several times I've sat down to write I can't get off to a start because I don't know what to call her.

"Mother" seems unnatural and a bit premature and "Dear Mrs. Brown" may, to her, sound stiff after she signed her letter as she did. Will you tell me what to do?

Answer: You might write, "Dear Mother of Jack" or perhaps "Dear Mother of mine to be."

Fullerton Coed Kept Very Busy

FULLERTON, Calif. (UP) — Fullerton Junior College claims the youngest coed grandmother in the nation. She is Mrs. Beaulah Reid, 31.

Mrs. Reid and her husband, Norman, a psychiatric technician at a state hospital, are grandparents, thanks to 14-month-old Pamela Kay Yokee, daughter of Mrs. Margie Ried Yokee, 17.

Mrs. Reid, whose schoolwork-housework schedule is on the tight side, is a native of Little Rock, Ark.

Feminine Styles Provide Escape From Boredom

PARIS (INS)—One way to escape from feeling trapped by daily chores is to dress romantically for evening.

Day-time clothes must adapt themselves to a busy everyday life, but in the evening women can—and should—escape into really feminine styles.

Put on a fresh blouse and pin a flower to the neckline. Change your sweater for something more decollete. In case you wear slacks and a sleek top add a bright cummerbund or drape a silk sash around your waist.

If you wear a robe or dressing-gown, it shouldn't be straight bedroom apparel. Make it look more dressy by choosing it in a fabric you would take for a dress.

Among the loveliest at-home fashions are ground-length, full skirts. They are comfortable, look romantic and can be made of washable material.

Whirlers Plan Dance February 12

According to members of Western Whirlers Square Dance Club, their caller Pete Lergen is the only "western" caller in and around Pontiac.

The second season is just beginning for the club and a Valentine dance is scheduled for Feb. 12. New members, the W. J. McLeans and Mr. and Mrs. Sid Moase will join the group at that time.

Mel Sheffer has turned his duties over to Ed White of Royal Oak who was recently elected president.

Other officers of the group are Les Mehlberg, vice president; Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Hamp, secretary and treasurer respectively and Ella Luvisch, membership chairman. Mrs. Doris Cullen and James Thompson serve on the board of governors.

Analyze Tasks to Ease Work

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UP) — Housewives can save time and energy on any household task if they only will analyze and improve their way of performing it.

And they don't need to be time-and-motion study experts to do it, says Mrs. Agnes Ridley of Southern Illinois University's home economics department.

Here are seven simple rules Mrs. Ridley drew up:

Use two hands whenever possible.

Arrange utensils, materials and containers close to the point of use.

Have work well-lighted.

Sit down to work as much as possible.

Use feet and other parts of the body as well as the hands in doing chores.

Choose utensils and household tools designed to fit the hand.

Develop a rhythm for every task and learn to make curved instead of straight-lined motions that involve sharp or sudden changes of direction.

Christian Dior Adds More Hip to 'H' Line

PARIS (INS) — Christian Dior added bigger hips to his small-busted "H" line and came up with his fashion silhouette for 1955 — the "A" line.

The balding fashion designer, top name in Paris styles, retained the revolutionary "H" look except in evening wear, where he showed about as much bosom as the law allows.

More than half of the 170 dresses in Dior's spring collection, however, were ideal for women with narrow, sloping shoulders, not buch bosom, and large hips.

Dior literally built his dresses in the shape of an "A."

The "A" line is thin on top and flaring out toward the hemline. A "traveling waistline" forms the cross-bar of the letter "A", and Dior places it anywhere from just under the bust to around the hips. This "traveling waistline" was marked mostly with contour belts.

A typical "A" line suit consists of a three-quarter length jacket over a flat, jumper blouse and a pleated skirt. The jacket was made with a funnel peplum, double-breasted to form the "A".

Dior continued to ignore the bosom and flatten the tops of his day dresses, but in two dozen after-dark designs, Dior revealed 50 per cent of a lady's upper physique with bold decolletes cut square or in widely - spread "V".

The necklines stopped just short of the point of indecent exposure, and Dior cut the bodices to make visible bosom area round and curvy.

One typical Dior decollete dinner dress of striped brocade was worn by a healthy model whose bosom seemed to explode over a straight, horizontal neckline held up by off - the - shoulder straps. The bursting bosom topped a slim waist and billowing skirt.

Dior's new "flat on top, broad at bottom" A-line included some high-necked afternoon dresses, and some simple shirtwaist styles with normal waistlines and easy bodices over full skirts. Dior also showed "vest dresses" for afternoon wear that featured peplums buckled to a belt in front.

Long jackets were combined with collarless, sleeveless dresses in what Dior called "the ideal outfit" for day wear.

The French fashion dictator didn't do too much changing of hemlines. He showed them ending just over the top of the calf. Formal evening wear was floor-length.

Dior's favored colors for the collection were suntan brown, dull beige-gray, black and navy.

While Dior used conservative shades, the collection also shown by Designer Hubert de Givenchy favored striking tones of butter yellow, parsay, deep purple and much black.

The young Givenchy gave the nod to the youthful silhouette — slim and long torsoed with high, gently subdued bosom and boyish hips.

Neckline interest featured by Givenchy was either the cape collar or low heart-shaped necks filled in with dickies.

He introduced pockets on the stomach or at the knee in a belt-less sheath dress high in front and low-cut in back.

Givenchy coats were skimpy—made too narrow for fastening so they would swing back to expose dress fronts.

Use Patterns, 'Don't Design It Yourself'

NEW YORK (INS)—There's a new twist in the do-it-yourself movement—it's called "don't design it yourself."

Instead use the patterns made up by famous furniture designers for pieces with a professional touch.

Booklets are now available giving details on how to build items designed by well-known furniture creators.

The booklets give the plan for a smart room divider in birch plywood. It has a cabinet base with three compartments, as well as top shelves for decorations. The center counter is high enough for a tall plant or other ornaments, or it can be used for books.

The upper shelf has a scalloped double valance so that fluorescent lighting can be installed if desired.

Orange Brightens Slaw

Add juicy orange chunks to the cole slaw that goes with your main fish dish. For an extra touch serve in orange cups and garnish with parsley. Truly refreshing flavor.

Flavor apple juice with a little mint for a refreshing drink.

Hair Reconditioning

The new short hair styles are much easier to manage if the hair is in good condition. There are many misconceptions about hair and its care, a few of which I will try to clear up.

I overheard a lady the other day make the statement that her hair did not take a good permanent wave because of her poor health. Now I imagine that in rare cases this could be true. The hair receives its material for growth from the blood stream and if the health is poor and the blood deficient it is logical it would have some effect on the hair. However these cases are rare. Damaged hair is more apt to come from external causes.

The hair is alive at the roots but strictly speaking the hair shaft isn't. The hair shaft has no nerve and blood supply. So deterioration of the hair begins the moment the hair gets away from the root. Mother Nature seeks to preserve the hair, by furnishing a natural oil to keep it lubricated and protected from the elements. Next week I will discuss how hair can be damaged by improper care.

LIFE IN THE ARCTIC

The Husky Dog—3

This is Kessuh's big dog, Husky, who helps pull the sledge you made yesterday. So that he can do his work, he wears a leather harness. If his feet get cut or sore from the ice, he wears seal boots made by Kessuh's mother.

1. With crayon or paint you can color the dog brown and give him a white tail. His collar and harness are bright red.

2. Use white library paste to mount this picture smoothly on cardboard. Then cut out Husky and the ground he stands on. Fold the bottom strip forward and the side panel back. Then Husky will stand up.

3. Put a string through the hole in Husky's collar and pass the ends through the holes in the ends of Kessuh's sledge runners. Now he's ready to go to work.

Urges Fluoridation

Guard Children's Teeth, Urges U.S. Dentists' Head

Well-meaning parents still too frequently are sentencing their children to an adulthood as dental cripples, the president of the American Dental Association said today.

In a message issued in conjunction with the seventh annual National Children's Dental Health Week, Feb. 7 to 13, Dr. Daniel F. Lynch, of Washington, D. C., said emphasis on a child's dental health is the only sound approach to the nation's dental disease problem.

"The toll taken by dental decay alone in terms of tooth loss, difficulty in eating, blighted appearance and even facial deformities is staggering and needless," Dr. Lynch said.

"The cold truth is that ignorance about dental health is wide-spread. Not until sound preventive measures are translated effectively by parents into consistent and continuing use by our children, can they avoid the dental crippling of their elders."

The dental executive urged that the following procedures be carried out for all children as a means of helping to assure a substantial measure of life-long dental health:

1. A nutritious diet low in sweets.

2. Proper use of the toothbrush right after eating.

3. Early detection and treatment of dental defects to prevent more serious ills later.

4. Fluoridation of community water systems to reduce dental decay among children by as much as 65 per cent.

Premiers Eye Industrial Atom

Commonwealth Nations Discuss Development of Resources

LONDON (AP)—The British Commonwealth prime ministers turned today to discussion of the industrial use of atomic power to help release the vast economic resources of their far-flung territories.

Informants said Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill was expected to open the discussion today of an atomic power blueprint for the Commonwealth's economic future.

One of the main questions at the 10-day conference, it was understood, is how best the nine countries could cooperate in developing atomic power and put it to practical use in industrializing undeveloped areas in Australia, Asia and Africa.

The goal is a higher living standard, and with it a new weapon to fight communism.

Conference sources foresee an atoms-for-industry program developing through the Commonwealth, beginning with Britain training her sister nations' scientists and then encouraging British atomic engineers to join them in the field to help establish atomic power plants.

These probably would be subsidized heavily by the governments at the start, with private industry gradually taking over.

The conference yesterday was told of British plans for a flying "fire brigade" to nip small wars that might break out in Asia, the Middle East and Africa. Informants said Defense Minister Harold MacMillan told the premiers his government is establishing a mobile strategic reserve of two British divisions, based at home but with a fleet of air transports to fly them to meet Communist penetration.

New Ferry Will Join Mackinac Straits Fleet

PETOSKEY (AP)—Addition of a 250-foot passenger ferry to the Arnold Transit Co. fleet in the Straits of Mackinac has been announced by C. E. Lang, company president.

The new vessel, to be christened "Huron," is being built at Erie, Pa. It will enable the company to divert one of its other ships for sightseeing tours during construction of the Mackinac Straits Bridge.

Lang said the company may order construction of a second ship or convert the SS Mackinac Islander so it can be more fully utilized than at present.

Broomfield, Cramton Make Bid to Rid Michigan of Out-Dated Laws

LANSING (UP) — Michigan laws—which cover everything from a two-cent bounty on sparrows to a penalty for stealing trains—are "littered" with outdated provisions, top lawmakers agreed today.

"Instead of cluttering the books with new laws we could well spend a whole session getting rid of some of the antiquated ones we now have," Sen. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) said.

"Our laws are all littered up with outdated sections," Rep. Louis C. Cramton (R-Lapeer) said.

Both lawmakers agreed some of the laws that "filled a big need 100 years ago actually are comical now."

For instance, a person could go behind bars for:

Inciting Indians to violate peace treaties; dueling; floating a log down a river the wrong way; "making a noise" in church; untieing another man's horse from a hitching post; and stealing a "locomotive with an express car or mail car attached" (There's no provision for stealing just the locomotive).

Many of Michigan's so-called "blue laws" are violated hundreds of times every day of the year.

It's not only against the law for persons under 21 to buy cigarettes, but it's also against the law for a person to "harbor" someone under 21 who is smoking, Cramton said.

Section 435 of the "blue laws" provides for a $5 fine for anyone attending "any public diversion" or "taking part in any sport" on Sunday.

Although the section was weakened in 1909 when the Supreme Court held the law "excluded baseball," a move is on in the senate to repeal the entire section "to bring our laws up to date with society."

"There are all kinds of gaps in our law," Alfred B. Fitt, legal aide to Gov. G. Mennen Williams, said. "It's a popular belief that Michigan has no capital punishment, for example."

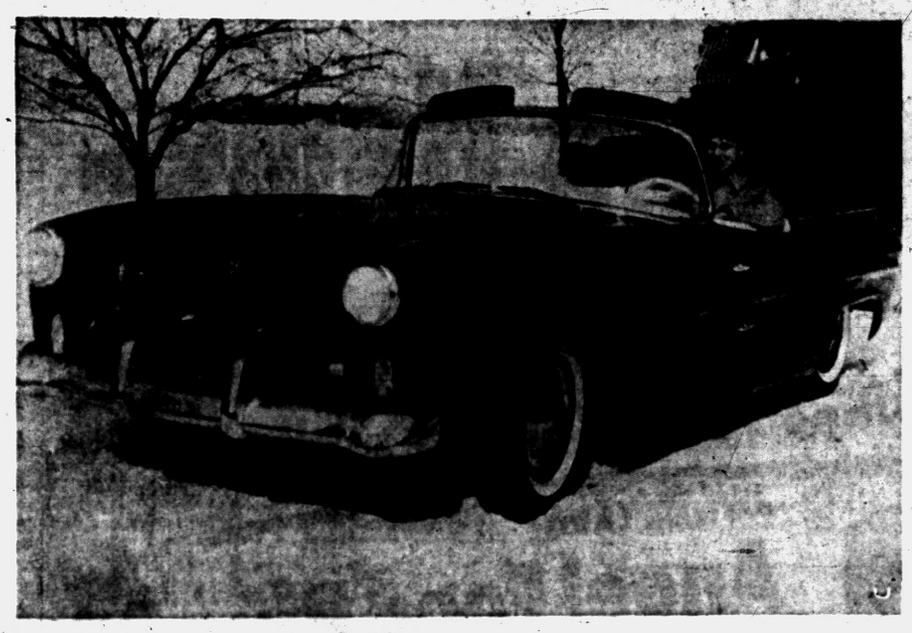
But a person can be put to death for "treason against the state."

Although treason against the state is hard to define, this statute brought death to a bank robber in 1937 who was given a sentence by a federal judge "equal to the maximum penalty of the state."

A person also can be put to death for committing rape on federal property in Michigan.

Those who say "there ought to be a law" should look at the compiled laws of Michigan.

Chances are there is.



SPARE TIME PROJECT—Do-it-yourselfers can sit up and take notice when the "La Saetta" roars by, for this sleek, low-slung sports car never saw an automobile assembly line. Builder-engineer Jack Uhrick, Keego Harbor garage owner, is pictured here with the car he spent ten months building. It's now for sale at only $15,000.

Pontiac Press Photo

Custom Made Sports Car Produced in Keego Harbor on Sale at $15,000

Want to buy a sports car cheap?

There's a man out in Keego Harbor who's willing to sell one for one-fourth price—not one-fourth of retail, mind you, but one fourth of what it cost to build.

The price? Just $15,000.

The sports car in question is actually a bargain at that price, since it's the first and only one of its kind.

Named "La Saetta," the sleek, low speedster is built of American parts on a hand-made chassis, and wrapped up in one-piece fiberglass body of Italian design.

And this one is only the beginning, says engineer-manufacturer Jack Uhrick, Keego Harbor garage owner, who saw the shiny car evolve from drawing board to shop to the open road.

It all began last year about this time when an American-built sports car was hauled into Uhrick's garage for repairs. After working on the pint-size vehicle for a few hours, he was convinced he could build a better car.

Uhrick had heard that a pair of brothers named Geno and Caesar Testaguzza, who operate a boatyard in Oxford, knew something about sports car design. He called on them, and found they not only had automobile design experience, but a set of plans as well.

From these drawings, with subsequent changes, the "La Saetta" began to take shape. The Testaguzza brothers moulded the one-piece fiberglass body at their shop in Oxford, while Uhrick got busy chopping down a conventional auto frame and selecting parts for the car.

The car was assembled in the small repair shop behind Uhrick's service station in Keego Harbor. Conventional American parts were used throughout for the chassis and suspension, but a modification in the steering linkage was made to give better handling.

Powerplant selected for the pilot model was a Hudson 6 with twin carburetors and twin exhausts, but Uhrick pointed out that any combination of engine, gearing and rear end could be used, since the car is custom built from the ground up.

With the chassis completed, the body was brought in and installed. Uhrick and his employes spent hundreds of hours polishing down the deep maroon fiberglass, giving it a soft, metallic luster.

When the buffing was completed, the chrome trim was added, and a Pontiac upholstry shop installed interior padding and deep, leather-covered seats.

Donald L. Stone, sales manager and associate of Uhrick, estimated the total cost of the first car at somewhere near $60,000, counting labor that stretched on into the early morning hours on many nights.

The car took ten months to build, and, as Uhrick recalls with a wry grin, "everything had to be done three or four times before it was right."

He estimates, however, that the next car will take less than half as long to build, and cost less than half as much. In time, he said, he expects to get the sale price down to about $7,500 for a custom-built sports car, tailored to the customer's specifications.

The next "La Saetta" already started, will have the same body, but motive power will be supplied by an Oldsmobile V-8 engine. Plans are already on the drawing board for a third car, this time using a 300-hp. Chrysler V-8.

From behind the wheel, the "La Saetta" is a car-lover's car in every sense of the word. Instantly responsive to a touch on the wheel or accelerator, the low-slung vehicle gives a smooth, floating ride more often associated with much larger, heavier cars.

Full road visibility is provided by the wrap-around windshield, and the controls and instruments are all located where they seem to fit the hand or eye best. Selector lever for the automatic transmission is on the floor at the driver's right, in the approved sports car tradition.

The car is open, but a fiberglass top can be installed in seconds for sloppy weather.

The short, 108-inch wheelbase makes for easy turning, parking and handling, while the low (39 inches) overall height gives high stability in turns and good visibility in all directions.

The "La Saetta" looks longer and wider than its actual dimensions (16 feet, 4 inches by 76 inches), due mainly to the clean, flowing lines and careful use of chrome trim.

Salesman Stone pointed out that orders will be taken for future cars on a strictly custom basis, with the customer specifying the color, accessories, engine and other fittings he wants. Basic specifications will stay the same.

"She'll probably wind up in some millionaire's stable," Uhrick said as he rubbed a hand along the car's sleek finish, and he may well be right. The "La Saetta" is a car any millionaire would be proud to own.

Explains Status of Incorporation Bid

Vote Proposed for Southfield

Merritt Says Supervisors Must Reconsider Petition for County Area

The status of Southfield Township's petition to incorporate its entire area as a home-rule city was explained yesterday by Oakland County Corporation Counsel Harry J. Merritt.

The incorporation petition was submitted at last September's board of supervisors' meeting.

"It was approved in form and sufficiency, but a move to submit the proposal for a decision by township voters in last November's election was tabled on a motion by Southfield Supervisor William Roeser," said Merritt.

Roeser indicated he would like to keep the matter tabled until it could be put up at a special election when voters would have only one question to rule on, the counsel stated.

Last Jan. 21, Bingham Farms, a one square mile area of the township located east of Franklin, submitted a petition for incorporation as a village. The move created in question as to which petition should be set for a vote first, if neither is withdrawn.

State law requires an incorporation petition to be filed at least 30 days before one of the three regular meetings of the supervisors.

If found valid, it must be voted on in the next general election if such an election falls within 40 to 90 days after the meeting. Failing this, a special election may be set. A general election did come within the allotted time span, but the Southfield petition had been tabled.

"In my opinion," said Merritt, "the Southfield petition will be taken up first." It was valid, and "the people have a right to vote on it."

If the township's incorporation is approved, then the Bingham Farms petition will be ruled out, he added. If not, a vote can be set on the second group's proposal.

In Merritt's opinion, he stated, a motion to take the Southfield proposal off the table and set a special election date will be all that's needed to get action when the supervisors' hold their regular April meeting.

New 'Magic Metal' May Revolutionize Refrigeration

NEW YORK (INS) — A "magic metal" which promises to turn kitchen cabinets and other drawers into built-in "cold bins" was unveiled today.

The building of the world's first electronic refrigerator using the metal, and development of a "cold light" which engineers hope will make wall television possible, were announced by the Radio Corp., of America.

Gen. David Sarnoff, chairman of the board of RCA, described the silent, motorless and flexible freezer—which can also heat—as the forerunner of cellar to attic home air conditioning.

"An electronic air conditioner is on the way and encouraging progress is being made" with the new metal created by RCA scientists, Sarnoff told the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Sarnoff also reported RCA researchers have built a 300-tube "robot orchestra" which creates, plays or can simulate the finest music without instrumentalists or instruments. The "composing" is done by "musical typewriter."

Prior to Sarnoff's talk, newsmen were shown the potentially revolutionary experimental models in a tour of the guarded RCA research center at Princeton, N. J.

Sarnoff said the laboratory successes, including the creation of "electronic photography" in color with tape that needs no developing, hold "great promise for the future."

Discussing the small electronic refrigerator, Sarnoff said:

"To the best of our knowledge it is the first refrigerator to achieve practical storage and freezing temperatures entirely by electronic means."

"And ultimately, through the application of electronic light, the present television picture tube will be replaced by a thin, flat screen that can be hung on the wall like a picture. That will be 'mural television' with the screen under complete control of a little box. The electronic light amplifier will eliminate the need for using the picture tube . . ."

His audience heard excerpts from "Polonaise" by Chopin, "Holy Night," "Blue Skies" by Berlin and Brahms' "Hungarian Dance No. 1" and then was told the music was "synthesized" by electronic tones.

In a laboratory demonstration, a scientist stood before a three-rowed keyboard and punched out music in a roll, much like a piano player of old. Ten huge cabinets filled with 300 tubes created every tone known to man, and dozens never heard, at the touch of a finger.

FEUDIN' FIDDLE—Gun Collector Dr. William A. Irwin displays a lethal relic of the famed Kentucky feuding families, the Hatfields and McCoys. The fiddle is designed with a 44-caliber gun in its neck which may be fired while the player is fiddling. Owned by the Hatfield family, the weapon has been handed down for 75 successive generations, according to the Detroit doctor. If an argument developed during a square dance, the player could erase an enemy without missing a beat. (Note the trigger on the underside of the neck.)

Accident Death Toll Hits 91,000 in '54

CHICAGO (AP)—Accidents in the United States last year took a staggering toll, killing 91,000 persons and injuring 9,200,000. The estimated economic loss was nearly 10 billion dollars.

The nation's No. 1 accident killer, as in the last several years, was the motor vehicle.

The National Safety Council, which today reported the various mishaps in 1954, said 36,300 lost their lives in traffic. That was a reduction of 5 per cent from the 38,300 motor fatalities in 1953 and the lowest total since 1950. The all-time record high was 39,969 in 1941.

Traffic accidents last year also caused about 1,250,000 nonfatal injuries.

The 1954 over-all accident death toll compared to 95,000 in 1953, a decrease of 4 per cent. The 1954 death rate for accidents of all types was 56.5 per 100,000 population. That was the lowest rate on record and 26 per cent under the 1941 rate.

However, the council said one out of every 17 persons in the United States suffered a disabling injury last year.

The estimated economic loss of $9,700,000,000 from mishaps in 1954 covered both fatal and nonfatal accidents. The total included wage losses, medical expenses and overhead costs of insurance, production delays, damage to equipment in work mishaps and property damage from traffic accidents and fires.

The value of property destroyed and damaged by 1954 motor vehicle crashes was estimated at $1,600,000,000. All costs, including medical expense, overhead costs of insurance and motor vehicle property damage, were $4,350,000,000.

Accidents in the home claimed the second largest number of lives, 28,000, a decrease of 1,000 over 1953. The council, which said all figures are estimates, said another 16,000 persons lost their lives in public (not motor vehicles) accidents, the same number as in 1953, and 14,000 were killed in mishaps at work, a decrease of 1,000 over 1953.

In a breakdown of the mishaps, the council said there were 10,000 persons killed in falls—always a heavy killer; 6,500 died from burns; 6,000 drowned, and firearms deaths decreased 8 per cent to 2,300.

Any Gal Carrying Ticket Can Ride Success Train

By MARGARET LATROBE

Lady, you want to run for President of the United States? Don't depend on candidacy in 1956—it isn't in the cards. And let's hope it never is.

Some of the female contingent talk too much and say too little, which perhaps is no worse than talking too little and saying too much. But those of the feminine gender who continually upbraid the public prints with protests that they are discriminated against in business just because they are women—these lassies give me a pain in the neck.

Recently a career woman, self-designated, wrote the editor of a large weekly magazine stating that tweren't only Russian women who were "citizens second-class." She herself felt very second-class, right here in the good old U.S.A. (Wonder if she could have meant "second-rate"—?).

Well, girls, if you want to feel that way about the business world (and this is usually the bone of contention) go ahead and feel that way. Just don't ask me to join in the lament. It would appear to this observer that any gal with the tickets can board the train to success—in just about any field of endeavor which appeals to her. And all the yipping about men grabbing off the better salaries, the better jobs, the better deals is typical sour applesauce.

"Equal pay for equal work," they want. I wish I knew of any field which was sharp enough to determine exactly what wages anyone is worth. Even in professions inhabited solely by men (if such there be), equality in work and pay doesn't exist. How can it? How can the human equation be measured so accurately?

"Field of competence" is a lofty-sounding phrase of which I am fond. It means that, if lucky and industrious enough, you have a special line, a particular interest in which you are exceptionally qualified.

Discrimination? The brightest scientist carries a big stroke in his field of competence, but how would he do at a grocer's convention? Wouldn't get the right time of day, that's how. A professional football player is consulted respectfully about his specialty. Not sought after by a liberal arts college for the seminar lectures in Latin.

Why make womanhood the point at issue? It seems to me that inherent aptitudes as well as ability must limit to some extent the work best suited to men and to women. And for the gals to insist that they can do everything as well or better than men—nonsense. Stick to your field of competence, dearie. That is, if you have one—which, after all, is the whole point.

Korean Situation Wearies Neutral Truce Watchers

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—Members of the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission in Korea say they feel a little like the unwilling hosts in the play "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

They didn't expect the stay to be so long, nor so thankless.

Gen. Tage Gronwall, head of the Swedish delegation, told the United Press, "When Sweden accepted the invitation to join the supervisory commission, it was never imagined that the work would last so long.

His sentiments were echoed by Lt. Victor Stoll, spokesman for Minister Alfred Escher, head of the Swiss team.

"If a peace is not realized in the near future," he asked, "then what do we do?"

It's a good question. They have been on the job, along with representatives of "neutral" Poland and Czechoslovakia, ever since July, 1953.

And as of now there's no end in sight. A firm peace looks as remote now as it did during the hectic months of negotiations at Panmunjom which produced the present uneasy truce.

The restiveness of the Swedes and Swiss has been reflected in their recommendations that each of the four nations on the supervisory commissioin reduce its personnel in Korea.

Gronwall said there is nothing urgent about the suggestion. "But quite frankly, we'd like some indication when our work will be finished."

Neither the Swedish nor the Swiss delegates would discuss what is believed to be the primary reason for their discouragement—the non-cooperation and oturight interference with their duties by the Communist north.

"I think they are getting fed up with their jobs, which now have only a symbolic value," said one official, who asked not to be identified.

For the present and the foreseeable future, the supervisors will have to be content with the thought that "he also serves who only sits and waits."

Churchill Completes Second History Series

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill has completed "A History of the English-Speaking Peoples."

The history, which Churchill began before World War II, will appear in three or four volumes, with the first expected early next year.

It follows Churchill's five-volume history of World War II, on which he worked around 10 years.

Princess Margaret Resting in Trinidad

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP)—Princess Margaret rested this morning in breeze-swept Government House, gathering strength for her rigorous tour of Trinidad and nine other British islands of the new world.

Government authorities said they were "overwhelmed" by the public turnout which welcomed the radiant 24-year-old princess when the royal airliner Canopus landed her yesterday afternoon at sunny Port of Spain to start her month-long good will visit.

Officials estimated 40,000 to 50,000 people jammed the roadways and city streets to cheer and wave Union Jacks as the smiling princess drove by on her way to the home of the British governor, Sir Hubert Rance.

Output of Electricity Now at Record High

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation reached a new milestone in the age of electrical living last week—output of 10 billion kilowatt hours in a single week.

Power production has doubled in a little more than seven years and has quadrupled in about 15 years, partially due to increased use of home electrical appliances.

Edison Electric Institute, trade association of the power companies, reported that electric output reached 2½ billion kilowatt hours for the first time in the second week of September 1939, just after the start of World War II.

Production of five billion kilowatt hours came in the second week of September 1947, the institute said.

Average U. S. corn crop is about three billion bushels.

U.S. Coed Sees Monaco Prince

Flies to Monte Carlo to 'Propose' to Handsome Bachelor-Ruler

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — American coed Jo Ann Stork has met Monaco's ruling Prince Rainier III and says she'd "love to be a princess and live in this country" There was no indication today that bachelor Rainier would grant her wish.

The 20-year-old University of Illinois student flew to Monaco last week on the blind chance of meeting the handsome, 31-year-old prince after reading in a U.S. magazine that his subjects want him to get married and some would like the bride to be an American.

At first she couldn't get past the palace gates. Then the prince's Roman Catholic chaplain, the Rev. Francis Tucker, interceded and she visited Rainier for two hours yesterday afternoon. Father Tucker and Rainier's sister Princess Antoinette chaperoned.

Joan said they discussed football, yachting, music, the prince's private zoo and Joan's plans for the future. They toured "the Green Room, the Blue Room, the Throne Room, the corridors with pictures of his ancestors on the wall," and the terrace, which has a "marvelous view."

Rainier, she bubbled, was "a real prince charming . . . more handsome than all the pictures I have seen of him."

Joan didn't say what further plans she has. The prince wasn't available for comment.

When Serge Paid Tab Folks Disliked Him Less

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "What kind of a guy was he — this Serge Rubinstein?

Many have asked that. What an irony there was to his end! That he should duck the draft fearing death on a bloody battlefield—and be murdered in his normally peaceful bedroom.

I knew him but slightly—but Saloon Society was aware he'd been living it up furiously lately . . . outwardly happy . . . eager to make a date with any "new talent," meaning any new beautiful girl.

He'd pick up a tab for a party of 25 to 50—and of course that made some people dislike him less than formerly.

Still an old joke almost applies. I refer to the one saying: "The list of suspects has been narrowed to 10,000."

He could be pretty chilly to the male escort of some girl he liked. He often said that his father was a thousand times greater financial wizard than he was.

I saw him a few weeks ago with the biggest drink I'd ever beheld.

A "Coupe Rendezvous," it was served in a tall, 20-ounce glass, containing strawberries, sugar, brandy, Grand Marnier and a split of champagne.

Price: $4.50 for one.

He boasted of being part owner of a film company. And in Hollywood I saw him quarreling one night not long ago with a waiter.

He accused the waiter of giving him change for a $20 bill when, he said, he'd handed the waiter a $50 bill.

"How can you be sure it was a $50 bill?" the restaurant proprietor asked Rubenstein, for the waiter was an old and trusted one and Rubinstein was a little unsteady on his feet. Besides, the hour was late.

RUBINSTEIN

"Because," flung back Rubinstein, "I only carry $50 bills!"

A man with Rubinstein apologised for his conduct, and assisted him into his car, and they shot away.

I've told this incident to a couple of close friends of his who said it wasn't like him at all, and insisted that he had many good qualities.

Surely he had no premonition of his fate, because he made a reservation, the day before his death, for a big supper club opening the following Wednesday night. He had planned on living it up for a long time to come.

"Judge not that ye be not judged," it says in the most famous Book of all. We shall try, but it does seem, as somebody on Broadway said, that Rubinstein pyramided not only his wealth but his enemies.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Heredity," defines Sammy Kaye, "is when a teen-age boy winds up with his mother's big brown eyes and his father's long yellow convertible." That's earl, brother.

Says Scientists Lost to U.S. Through Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Hinshaw (R-Calif) said today the draft is largely responsible for a "shortage of scientific and technical manpower" which he claims has put this country behind Russia.

"Several hundred PH.D.s," he said, "have been inducted into the Army and are serving as enlisted men. Their scientific talents are frequently lost."

Hinshaw said this in an interview prior to testifying before the House Armed Services Committee today as one of several witnesses urging a new draft plan for prospective scientists.

Nikes Guarding 13 Cities in U.S.

Antiaircraft Rocket Sites Now Near Completion Called Best Defense

GRAND RAPIDS (INS)—A high Army official has revealed that within a matter of weeks nearly 100 bases around 13 American cities will be ready to fire Nike antiaircraft rockets.

He described the new devices as "one of the most extraordinary weapons ever devised by man."

Assistant Army Secretary George H. Roderick told the Grand Rapids Lions Club that the 20-foot Nike is "your and my best hope of safety" from atomic or hydrogen attacks.

Roderick warned that perfect air defense will be impossible "for a long time yet," but said the Army's rocket "has an accuracy that has never previously been dreamed of in antiaircraft weapons."

The assistant secretary continued: "An enormous effort is being made to set up a really effective air defense, and I think we are succeeding.

"In 13 cities, including Chicago and Detroit, Nike defenses are at various stages of completion, with some of them already operational.

"Early this year, almost all of them will be at combat readiness, including over a hundred sites.

"As soon as possible, the Army will have Nike defenses around other major cities. It is a constantly expanding program, involving hundreds of millions of dollars."

Roderick also disclosed that there are now a total of 1,200 jet interceptor planes, all in the 600-mile-an-hour class, that "stand ready to rise from airfields to shoot down intruders with conventional and rocket weapons as soon as they appear."

Wyandotte Picketing Will Be Regulated

DETROIT (AP) — Company and union attorneys are scheduled to meet with Circuit Judge Joseph A. Moynihan today to set up picket line regulations in the strike at the Wyandotte Chemical Co., now in its fourth day.

Company attorneys and representatives of District 50 of the CIO United Mine Workers also met with Judge Moynihan yesterday after the company filed a petition seeking to prevent mass picketing.

The company also sought to stop strikers from preventing office workers from entering its three plants.

Some 2,300 union workers walked off their jobs Sunday in a dispute over contract negotiations.

The contract, which expired Jan. 21, had been extended by agreement until the walkout.

Virginia Mayo Ready to Begin 'Black Pearls'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — The RKO Studio will be lighted up again when Virginia Mayo reports to Ben Bogeaus for "Black Pearls," an original story by Jesse Lasky Jr. and Talbot Jennings.

Virginia, borrowed from Warners, plays a woman missionary with a questionable past who becomes involved with a half-caste who is guarding a fortune in black pearls.

Veteran director Allan Dwan has been engaged by Bogeaus. There's a long location trip ahead. Virginia and two top male stars leave Feb. 14 for Kauai, in the Hawaiian Islands.

At Columbia they tell me that when Rita Hayworth reports at the studio next Monday Dick Haymes will not check in as a script writer as was announced by Rita's lawyer in New York. It's true that Haymes may be doing scripts for some other studio, but not at Columbia.

Rita's dressing room has been completely redecorated and made into an apartment—the latest gasp From Feb. 7th to the 21st she will work on her costumes, hair styles and have other consultations.

From the 21st to the 6th of March she will have photographs, interviews, etc. From March 7th until she makes the picture she will rehearse with the cast and director William Dieterle.

"Law Man," by Lee Leighton, the Western tale which won the Western Writers of America Award in 1943, has been bought for Joel McCrae by U-I.

With a baby on the way, I could say that Joel has to work harder, but that wouldn't be quite true because he has plenty of money. He just likes to work.

According to U-I, Joel will play a sheriff in this ride 'em cowboy epic, and, of course, he'll play it well because being a rancher himself he knows how to portray these Western characters.

"I'm so happy about Tony's (Bartley) wonderful job with CBS," writes Deborah Kerr. "He's had a long hard struggle with many obstacles—one of the biggest of which is being my husband."

I don't agree with that. I know Tony, who is one of the most charming men in the world, does not think that Deborah's fame has held him back. Many famous wives who love their husbands are inclined to feel that way at some time or another.

Deborah says she's looking forward to meeting her co-star in "The King and I," Yul Brynner, in Chicago.

"Incidentally," she adds, "I'll take singing lessons there and we'll see what comes out."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Peggy Lee and Dr. Lew Merrill, who are steady dating, were together again Saturday night after Rhonda Fleming moved out of the house.

Sorry to hear that Broderick Crawford's wonderful mother, Helen Broderick, is ailing again. Zsa Zsa Gabor and Harry Karl dined first at La Rue, and then went to the Mocambo for the show. Dominican papers please don't copy—Rubirosa is there.

Does Muggs' Road Show Spell End to TV Career

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — They can hedge all they want to over at headquaters for the TV show, "Today" — but J. Fred Muggs, the cocksure Cameroon, is on his way out.

The chimp was a chump. He had the world in his paw and he let it go; he lived off the fat of the land and its prime pureed baby foods; he made upwards of $500 a week, his clothes were sculptured by the finest tailors, his fanmail was astounding. And what did he do?

He lost his humility.

Now Dave Garroway, who runs the show "Today" is not at all of the temperament of Arthur Godfrey, who runs a dozen or so other shows and fired a man allegedly for losing his meekness. But it has long been an authoritative whisper around town that Dave could hardly be boss on his own show when the chimpanzee was on camera, and even the kindliest employer can take just so much monkey business and he's through.

You simply do not, literally, bite the hand that feeds you and get by with it, this day and age.

"Muggs is not being eased off the show," claims Bob Bendick, the producer, when asked for the facts. "He is just going to travel more—go out and meet people, coast to coast, and spread good will."

"(What does that sound like to you, friends, but the squeeze?)

"We have another, younger chimp which we are going to use on the show while J. Fred is on the road."

Just like big business, eh? Mr. Brown, meet young Horace Jones, who will take over some of your duties. After all, you've been working for us 35 years and . . .)

"This replacement is a cute little female chimp named Phoebe B. Beebe," explains Bendick.

(Your services are no longer required, Mr. Muggs. It's a woman's world, you know.)

"She's only nine months old, and kind of scared of it all, but she does all the childish sort of things Muggs did when he was first on. She climbs clocks, and all that."

(There's a world of difference between a clock-watcher, and a clock-climber, Fred, and you are now neither.)

"But Muggs is not off the show. He'll just be traveling more," says Bendick. He had to admit, however, that he didn't know exactly what the tour itinerary would be. "All over," he said. And probably far away.

When he first came on "Today," Muggs was a cuddly mass of wrinkles who had been observed by an NBC producer in the hallway outside his studio. The dainty J. Fred had just been up to "casting," where his owners—ex-NBC pageboys—had been told there were no chimpanzee roles in the offing.

The owners were sluggishly sad, but Muggs was alert. He wanted to get the heck out of there and back to his friends in the New Jersey pet shop where he lived. So he reached out and punched for an elevator.

Even blase producers are interested in anthropoids with gumption. Muggs was offered a job. He was soon on a sliding-scale contract, and insured by Lloyd's for $50,000.

But Muggs, who cost his owners $600 when he was shipped in from the Cameroons had more gumption than was called for; and the bigger he grew, the harder it was to handle.

He also developed an enormous appetite — which was annoying, indeed, to the people on whose fingers and ears he sometimes indulged.

Now it is obvious that he is being eased out, like the main-office salesman who gets hot-headed and must be shipped off to the suburban branch. Poor Muggs. Too big for his bristles!

Detroit Moonshiners Still Working at Stills

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit and Philadelphia are running neck and neck for the title of moonshine capital of the north.

Ronald L. Greenberg, assistant United States attorney, says home-style whisky making has increased so rapidly in the Detroit area that the staff of federal agents has been doubled since Jan. 1. He said 76 stills were seized in 1954, more than three times the number taken in 1953. Fifty persons were convicted.

Experimental Plastic Hull Boat Burns in Bay City

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP)—Fire swept through the main shed of the Defoe Shipbuilding Co. early today, destroying the plastic hull of an experimental 57-foot U.S. Navy minesweeper under construction.

Damage was not estimated officially but unofficial estimates placed it at several hundred thousand dollars.

The fire wiped out 10 months of work on the project. The minesweeper, known as the MSB23, was a prototype of a nonmagnetic vessel under development by the Navy.

A Navy official hinted that the loss of the hull may result in calling off further work on the experimental project valued roughly at 1½ million dollars. The project reportedly was half completed.

Cause of the blaze could not be learned.

Rochester, Oxford, Inter-Lakes 5s Are Victors

Rochester and Oxford each marked up victories and Inter-Lakes Conference teams enjoyed a perfect night in non-league play to highlight prep basketball activity in the county area Tuesday.

Gene Konley's Rochester club registered its 4th straight win by beating Lake Orion, 63-43. Oxford tumbled North Branch for the 2nd time, 64-47.

Four of the six Inter-Lakes' quintets saw action and won. Walled Lake and Southfield each gained revenge for earlier losses as the Vikings downed Plymouth, 46-41, and the Bluejays shaded Redford Union, 53-50.

Berkley nipped Hazel Park, 46-44, for the Bears' 6th straight triumph, and Farmington came from behind on the strength of Jerry Rice's 25-point performance to trip Clarenceville, 56-51.

Utica remained the area's only unbeaten five by topping Lake Shore, 54-43. Lou Haase led the Chieftains' 9th consecutive success with 14 points. Shrine made it 9 wins in 10 tries by lacing St. Gregory, 68-50, as Hugh Kirtek bagged 21, and Roseville ran its record to 9-1 by drubbing Mt. Clemens St. Mary, 66-44.

Imlay City, sporting a 10-2 record, handled Capac easily, 63-55, as Leon Gibbard tossed in 21 points. Gibbard, a 5-8 senior, is averaging 22 points for the Spartans.

Rochester held only a 5-point advantage at halftime against Lake Orion, but with Earl Kitchen showing the way, out-rebounded the taller Dragons and pulled away in the 2nd half.

Sophomore Dave Peters led the Falcon scoring with 16 points, with Pat Nunn and Kitchen close behind at 14 apiece. Substitute guard Ralph McLaughlin led Orion with 15.

Too much rebound strength was the story of Oxford's win over North Branch. Dwight Spiker's 8 points pushed Jean Harkness' team off to a 1st quarter lead, then Larry Spencer netted 10 as the decision was sealed in the final period.

Big Fred Bergin sparked the Wildcats with 21 points. Spencer had 16, Dave Thomas 12, and Spiker 10.

Walled Lake, which had dropped an overtime decision at Plymouth, almost went into overtime again after losing a 7-point lead in the last quarter. The score was knotted at 41 points with 25 seconds left, but a free throw by Dick Woodworth, two by Dedo Aughenbaugh and Woodworth's basket broke it up.

Myrel Taulbee was high with 17 points.

Southfield held a slim 1-point edge with 17 seconds remaining when Steve Klamik dunked a pair of free throws to insure the win over Redford Union.

Klamik, who sat out the 1st half of the season because of a football injury, made his 1st appearance and scored 11 points for the 'Jays. Ken Moser was high with 16.

Top 'D' Teams Grab Wins; Elks Collect 8th in Row

Top teams in the City Basketball League's "D" division came through with easy victories last night to retain their high standings.

Elks Lodge No. 723 won its 8th consecutive victory, dumping Lakesiders 47-33 as Felix Brooks pumped in 18 points.

Police Association won its 7th victory in eight starts by routing the Hawks, 81-21. Five starters waste all the way for the Police, and four of them hit double figures. Ted Wharry led the onslaught with 24 points, while Al Hayward had 22.

Boys Club boosted its record to 6-1 with a 55-24 triumph over West Bloomfield Kiwanis. George Thrasher led scoring with 16 points, while teammates Butler and Barron had 14 apiece.

Twice-beaten Blue Devils were held to three points in the last half, but still edged Spartans, 22-21, in the final Class D contest.

TONIGHT'S GAMES — Clarkston vs Chuck's Shack (Class A, PHS, 7 p.m.); Courtesy Floors vs Griff's Grill (Class B, PHS, 8:30 p.m.); Slaybaugh's vs. Meteors (Class D, Lincoln, 7 p.m.); Boys Club vs Lakers (Class D, Lincoln, 8:30 p.m.)

Jones Sets Up Record in Army Medley Event

'Bumpy' Pacemaker as UM Tankers Add Two Swim Marks

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Michigan's perennially strong swimming team launched its weeklong invasion of the eastern seaboard Tuesday, swamping Army 64-20.

The Wolverines, featuring a host of NCAA, AAU and British champions, took eight of the 10 events and set three pool records in the process.

Bumpy Jones, Michigan captain, added an Army medley record to his collection, breezing to an easy victory in 1:39.2. The time cut five-tenths of a second off the old record set by Jon Glover of Dartmouth last winter.

Jack Wardrop, defending NCAA 220 champ, broke the pool record of Yale's Jim McLane set in 1952. He was clocked in 2:07.0, six-tenths of a second under the old standard.

Michigan ended its display of power by churning to a 3rd record in the 400-yard relay. The Olympic team quartet of Jack and Bert Wardrop, Jones and Ron Gora covered the distance in 0:26.5.

It bettered the time set by Yale eight years ago by more than two seconds.

TO COAST — Pontiac's Jim Engleman, former all-around sports star at PHS was sold yesterday by the New York Yankees to the Solons of Sacramento, in the Pacific Coast League.

Yankees Sell Jim Engleman to Sacramento

Pontiac Player Will Leave N. Y. System After Five Years

Jim Engleman, Pontiac minor leaguer who has been a New York Yankee "farmhand" for the past five years, last night was sold to Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League.

Engleman, who celebrated his 26th birthday last month, was an outfielder for Binghamton of the Class A Eastern League for the past two years.

He hit .232 and had 75 RBI's and 14 home runs last season. In 1953 at Binghamton, he posted a .286 batting average. His best season was in 1950, when he hit .373 for Newark, O., in the now-defunct Class D Ohio-Indiana League.

Jim entered minor league baseball in 1949, playing for the Class D Easton, Md., team in the Eastern Shore circuit, since disbanded. In 1951-52 he was in the army, stationed at Camp Atterbury, Ind.

He said this morning that he was notified last Thursday that he was being sold conditionally to the Solons. "I haven't heard as yet from Sacramento," he said, "but I should hear any day when and where to report."

Engleman, a former all-around sports star at Pontiac High, has been keeping in shape by playing recreation basketball and doing construction work in Pontiac this winter.

Loss of Stars Fails to Stop Holy Cross 5

Crusaders Now Have 12-2 Mark; NC State, Dayton Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Lester (Buster) Sheary began coaching basketball at Holy Cross in 1948, he had some mighty big shoes to fill. He replaced Alvin (Doggie) Julian, whose Crusaders had won 65 and lost 10 in his three seasons at Holy Cross.

But Sheary, in making the jump from high school to college coaching, has done a good job. Under him, the Crusaders have won 148 games against only 31 setbacks—including a 12-2 record this season.

Holy Cross won the Sugar Bowl and NIT tournaments last year, but the outlook didn't appear bright at the outset of the current campaign. Graduation had taken its toll with high-scoring Togo Palazzi and playmaker Ronnie Perry among the missing. In addition, last year's freshman squad was poor.

Nevertheless, with Tommy Heinsohn taking up the scoring slack, the Crusaders have been nearly as strong as ever.

Idle for the past two weeks because of midyear examinations the Crusaders, ranked 14th in the weekly Associated Press poll, returned to action last night with an 82-56 triumph over St. Francis of Brooklyn. It was Holy Cross' sixth straight victory.

Heinsohn came off the bench and scored 20 points to break open a tight game.

Three others of the nation's top 20 teams, North Carolina State (No. 6), Dayton (No. 15) and Missouri (tied for No. 17), played last night.

Vic Molodet tallied 34 points as N. C. State came from behind to turn back Virginia 96-91 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. Dayton, paced by big Bill Uhl's 23 points, bowled over Western Kentucky 73-67. Missouri moved into undisputed possession of second place in Big Seven with an 84-67 triumph over Iowa State.

In another Big Seven test, Kansas State put on a second-half surge to whip Oklahoma 71-60 as Dick Stone scored 25 points. Wichita, sinking 30 free throws, downed Detroit 80-75 in a Missouri Valley fray.

Murray Bailey set a Baylor season scoring record as his team trimmed North Texas State 88-73. Bailey scored 20 points to give him 350 for the season. The previous mark was 348, set by John Starkey in 1953.

Sammy Baugh to Coach Hardin-Simmons Eleven

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Samuel Adrian Baugh, the "slingin' Sammy" of George Preston Marshall's old Washington Redskins, is coming back to football as a college head coach.

The gangling guy from Sweetwater, whose passing records with the old 'Skins may always be the goal of the youngsters, signed a 5-year contract Tuesday night to coach Hardin-Simmons University's Cowboys, an aggregation sometimes strong and always colorful.

H-SU officials said they thought it was Baugh's great love of football, not any financial gain, that brought about his decision to take the job. Only pressure from the athletic committee persuaded him, Baugh said, adding that he had been offered better salaried coaching jobs in the past.

He succeeds Murray Evans who resigned Sunday under what he termed pressure from the athletic committee. Baugh then said he wouldn't take the head coach job but would continue to "help out" as an associate.

It was Baugh, who made Southwest Conference football history at Texas Christian as a standout passer, who first brought capacity crowds to Washington Stadium. He did it with explosive touchdown passes thrown from every corner of the field.

And it was Baugh, following such football greats as All-Americas Bobby Wilson of SMU and Harrison Stafford of Texas in the Southwest Conference, who brought Texas Christian up from an unknown denominational school to one of the nations most widely known football powers.

Baugh never made All America, and redfaced sports writers have been explaining why ever since he left TCU.

Upon joining the Redskins in 1937 soon after Marshall moved the club from Boston, Baugh began a skein of records and accomplishments that still are talked about whenever football fans gather.

Shockers Win on Free Throws

Guy Sparrow Nets 25 Points, but Titan Five Loses, 80-75

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—The University of Wichita excelled from the free throw line last night and won its 2nd Missouri Valley basketball game of the season, defeating the University of Detroit 80-75.

The Shockers never were headed after the 1st two minutes, but Detroit was never far behind. Titans climbed twice to within one point in the last half after trailing 49-34 at intermission.

Detroit scored one more field goal than Wichita but the Shockers sank 38 of 50 free throws and won despite a low 28 per cent field goal percentage.

Guy Sparrow, Titan forward, led the evening's scoring with 25 points.

Boat Show Opens Friday

CHICAGO (AP) — The 22nd annual Chicago National Boat show opens a 10-day run at the Amphitheatre Friday.

Heading for Big Season

'Bumpy' Jones and His Wolverine Tank Mates Give Stager, Harlan High Hopes

By H. GUY MOATS

For several years, since Burwell (Bumpy) Jones came out to Oakland County, with his parents, to live, this area has had some kind of a proprietary interest in Jones' swimming activities in Olympic, National Collegiate and Big Ten Conference competition.

The handsome, youthful Jones is a many times champion, mostly in his specialty, the medley. He holds the world mark for the 400-yard medley at 5:20. His latest exploit was a pool record at the Indianapolis invitational last week. He is the current NCAA and Big Ten champion in the 150-yard medley.

Incidentally, Bumpy is unbeaten at his specialty at 150 yards.

It's getting so that Jones either makes a new mark or breaks one of his own every time he swims in a big test.

Bumpy's going to head his Michigan team (he's the captain) into what coaches Gus Stager and Bruce Harlan figure to be a very successful year of competition. Stager doesn't think Jones has yet reached his peak, but figures that by the time the 1956 Olympics roll around he will be ready for possible all-time greatness. However, Bumpy is planning a medical career and says he probably will not be available for the Olympics.

Along with Jones, in the campaign just getting under way are several other All-Americas. They include the Wardrop twins, Bert and Jack, both juniors, all-around competitors. They spent the last summer swimming in Europe, British Isles and in Canada. There is also Ron Gora, Olympic free styler, and a senior. Jimmy Walters is the Wolverines' best diver. Some promising sophomore talent also is available to help round out one of the country's best college swimming teams.

Jones made an auspicious start this winter by swimming his favorite event, the 150-yard medley in 1:28.7 for a new pool, Michigan and collegiate record, against Iowa State as the Wolverines downed their rivals, 60-24. Jones lowered his own record eight-tenths of a second in setting the mark and also won the 550-yard free style just to keep warmed up.

Last year Jones won the NCAA in the time of 1:38.1 and swam on Michigan's free style relay team which covered the distance in 3:28.1. Jones also won the conference 200 yard breast strike event last spring to win by a single stroke over Clemons of Illinois and Dudeck of Michigan State.

In setting one of his latest records, the handsome Wolverine leader, describes part of his success to a change in the rules which permits use of a fishtail kick and also to a summer spent in Hawaii, training with such noted Ohio State Hawaiians as Ford Konno and Dick Cleveland.

Solons May Pressure Navy

Baltimore Is Seeking Annual Middie - Terp Football Game

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Maryland's U. S. Senators may be asked to throw their weight behind pressure for annual football games between Navy and Maryland in Baltimore.

A resolution to that effect was introduced Tuesday in the Maryland House of Delegates. It was the upshot of an apearance there last week by Coach Jim Tatum of Maryland.

"The Navy-Maryland game ought to be played every year in Baltimore," he said. "I'd like to see us play Navy and it ought to play us now that it has such a fine team."

Navy posted a 7-2 regular season record in 1954 and beat Mississippi 21-0 in the Sugar Bowl.

Former Sen. Millard Tydings was credited with convincing the Navy to renew the rivalry with Maryland in 1950. After three games, all won by Maryland, Navy has shied away from any more.

Gavilan Starts Comeback Friday Against Durando

NEW YORK (AP)—What a difference one fight makes! Ask Kid Gavilan and Sugar Ray Robinson. The last ones for each cost them at least $50,000 apiece.

Gavilan's miserable showing in losing his title to Johnny Saxton and Robinson's sad performance against Ralph (Tiger) Jones ruined a third meeting of the two for Miami late this month. It was going to be a big outdoor promotion with a coast-to-coast telecast.

Now that's out and the big money, too. It's going to be a long road back—if they make it—for two of the brightest names in boxing of the last decade.

Gavilan starts his comeback Friday night in Madison Square Garden against Ernie (The Rock) Durando, a hard-hitting but easy to hit opponent. Robinson, who never looked for even a fleeting moment like the Sugar Ray of old in losing to Jones, is pondering whether to try again or call it quits for good when he's through. It could be that the 29-year old Keed from Camaguey is all washed up. But the veteran of 11½ years of pro battling and 117 scraps doesn't think so.

When you discuss the drab Saxton fight with him all that Gavilan recalls is that he was "robbed." He doesn't talk about how bad he looked on that Oct. 20 night in Philadelphia.

"I not washed up," said Gavilan at his Summit, N. J., training camp. "I show plenty people Friday, you see. I got new manager and I happy now."

Jimmy Fashions a 62 to Become Big Threat in Phoenix Open

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Jimmy Demaret, golfdom's fashion plate who seems to have a liking to Phoenix competition, today stamped himself as a definite threat in the $15,000 Phoenix Open tournament which gets under way Thursday.

Demaret, winner here in 1949 and 1950, shot a sizzling 62 Tuesday. Right behind him with a 63 tuneup round was Mike Souchak, a sudden-death loser in the Palm Springs, Calif., Open playoffs Monday.

Shelley Mayfield edged Souchak, former football player at Duke, on the 20th hole at Palm Springs.

Today, at the Arizona Country Club, first time the tournament has been held at that course, the pro-amateur preliminary will be staged.

Ed Furgol, National Open champion last year, is the defending titleholder here.

Crevolin's Imbros Is San Carlos Favorite

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — The leading money winner of the Santa Anita race meeting, lucky Andy Crevolin, has the favorite today in the $23,650 San Carlos Handicap at Seven furlongs. His Imbros is the handicappers' choice to win the event, which is loaded with very capable sprinters.

Imbros, world record holder for seven furlongs at 1:20 3-5, has been assigned 130 pounds. While he can pack weight, it still is a question whether he can do it and still shade such good horses as Berseem, Cyclotron, Porterhouse, Joe Jones, Mark-Ye-Well and six others who will be flying at him in the stretch of the charity week event.

Wild Swinging Results in TKO for Other Boxer

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP)—Heavyweight Gene White of Canonsburg, Pa., won his bout from Willie Moore, Pittsburgh, by a TKO Tuesday night, but it wasn't his punching that did it.

The freak ending came in the second round of a scheduled four-round preliminary of a pro boxing card.

Moore, 183, unleashed a wild swing and went out of the ring. He was counted out at 1:14 and the bout went into the record books as a kayo for White. White weighed 193.

In the feature 10-rounder Don Alderson, 148, of Canonsburg, fought to a draw with Guido Piccone, 150, of Canton, Ohio.

Hungry Deer Lose Caution

By JACK PATTERSON

Supplementary winter feeding of deer may be useful, as many hunters believe, or it may aggravate the evils of a severe winter as game division men maintain. But the basic question becomes of secondary interest when one sees deer throw all normal caution to the wind for the promise of food. That they will do just this we'll shortly see.

PATTERSON

Last weekend saw seven members of the Alcona County Firewater and Flapjack Society take time out to do a little hay strewing for the local deer.

Within five minutes of the first unbailing, shadows moving in the brush gave mute evidence that the word was getting around. Ten minutes after we dropped a pile of alfalfa within 50 feet of the cabin, seven deer were knocking each other over trying to get at the choicest sprigs.

This, mind you, while we were all between the deer and the cabin, with a tractor engine roaring, much hammering and clanking on an oil drum, and the usual noise and confusion that several people produce when trying to do a job best done by one.

After some preliminary dog-in-the-manger tactics by the bigger deer — kicking and chasing the smaller ones away from the hay — the bunch settled down to some serious feeding, and nothing would drive them away for more than a few minutes.

Those deer were hungry. There's lots of snow up there and little available browse. A local man, who has fed deer in that area for 13 years, and witnessed the above activities claimed he'd never seen deer so hungry. So, maybe it's better to stand aside and let nature take its course and thin the deer out, but it would take a more calloused gang than ours to refuse them a hand-out.

Throughout the area where deer are fed regularly, we saw a great many and they appeared to be in good shape, to the non-scientific observer, although appearances can be deceptive. In non-feeding areas we saw no deer.

These observations are not intended to provide an answer to the deer-feeding problem. Nor do they necessarily imply that supplementary feeding is good for the deer herd as a whole. What they do indicate, in the area observed, is that where regular feeding is practiced, deer are plentiful, and apparently in good condition. Whether this is good or bad we'll leave to the reader's judgement.

Conservation Magazine Discusses Winter Bait

LANSING — "Anglers' baits need to be especially tempting to attract fish in the winter," states the article "Fishin' Chips," in the January - February issue of Michigan Conservation, bi-monthly conservation department magazine.

The recently - published issue discusses why this is the case and gives several other tips on ice fishing.

A year subscription to the magazine is available for 50 cents from the conservation department in Lansing.

The American Bowling Congress tournament annually draws an average of 25,000 entrants.

Sturgeon Will Provide Real Action for Angler

By MORT NEFF

Sturgeon spearing through the ice of Black, Burt and Mullet lakes is enjoying a good season, and probably will set records before it legally ends the last day in February. Considering the man hours of effort devoted to the sport one might consider the action a little slow. Literally hundreds of fishermen spend a total of thousands of hours per week in dark little shanties from which may emerge, by week's end, maybe a dozen sturgeon. BUT, take a look at the "catch!" Wow! It may be almost 7 feet long and weigh better than 150 pounds!

NEFF

The Lake Sturgeon, or Rock Sturgeon as it is sometimes called, is the real giant among all of our fishes. The record stands at 310 pounds for a 7½ footer taken from Lake Superior in 1922. The fish was estimated to be more than 100 years old!

In appearance the sturgeon resembles no other fish. The odd shaped tail is unevenly forked with the longer lobe at the top. The body is covered with bony shields or plates instead of scales. The head terminates in an ugly snout from which extend four whiskers extending downward.

It is a known fact that sturgeon establish regular feeding runways and paths along a lake bottom. If a fisherman is lucky enough to set up a spearing shanty directly over a runway he's pretty sure to have action. Spearing is done in water up to 20 feet deep.

The spear is never thrown, merely dropped. Twenty pounds of lead is cast on the handle just above the tines, which must obviously be very, very strong. A heavy line, approximating clothes lines, is attached to the end of the 6 foot handle. If the spear strikes home you're in for some violent action.

So, if you're after a really big one, try sturgeon spearing in Michigan Outdoors this winter!

Diving Gear May Be Used by Researchers

LANSING (AP)—Snorkel tubes and fins may soon become standard equipment for conservation department fish researchers.

Merle G. Galbraith Jr., department employe, said in a report today fish survey teams used underwater diving gear successfully last summer.

The workers were able to make spot checks of lake bottoms to a depth of 30 feet, he said, although most of the work was done in shallower water.

Check Frozen Meat

LANSING — Hunters are again urged to check game meat in frozen food lockers. Law requires permits be obtained if such meat is kept more than 60 days after the close of the season. This grace period has now elapsed on most game species.

Mesnard Heads Springer Club

Howard Mesnard, Walled Lake breeder and trainer of hunting springers, has been unanimously elected president of the Southern Michigan Springer Spaniel Training Club for the 8th consecutive year.

Other officers recently elected were Dr. James Stover of Highland Park, vice-president; Sam Moorehatch, Grosse Pointe, 2nd vice-president; Keith VanDusen, Detroit, recording secretary; Mrs. Roy D. Chapin Jr., Grosse Pointe, correspondence secretary; and Eric Hedberg, Detroit, treasurer.

Directors elected were John Blanock of Detroit 2nd, Robert Williams and William Peschel, both of Royal Oak.

Fenton Lakes' Club Conducts 'Fish Derby'

Third annual "Fish Derby" will be held by the Fenton Lakes Sportsman's Club Feb. 6. The public is invited. The affair will be held at Bayport Yacht Club, on Lake Fenton. Site is six miles north of Fenton on U.S. 23 and a mile west on North Long Lake road. Direction markers will point the way.

Event runs from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. and prizes will go to anglers taking biggest pike, biggest perch, "speck" and sunfish, and the one landing the smallest fish. An award will also be given for the largest pike speared during the day.

A display of hunting and fishing equipment and clothing will be set up in the clubhouse lounge.

Shooting Dates Set

Two shooting dates have been announced for the Birmingham Gun Club. One match will be held this Saturday, while an International shoot has been scheduled for Feb. 20. Announcement of the dates was made by Warren E. Bertolet, secretary-treasurer.

WL Youth Wins Expert Rifle Medal Award

Expert Rifleman Medal, 2nd highest award in American junior shooting has been won by William A. Bush, 14, of 7085 Pontiac Trail, Walled Lake.

William attends Walled Lake School and is a member of the Multi-Lakes Gun Club, Junior Division.

$67,200 Was Paid in 1954 Bounties

LANSING (AP)—Michigan hunters and trappers collected $67,200 in bounties on wolves, coyotes and bobcats during 1954, according to the Department of Conservation.

Bounties were claimed for $3,715 coyotes, 23 wolves and 627 bobcats, the department said.

Half of State's Deer Hunters Answer Cards

LANSING — Nearly 5,500 deer hunters have answered questionnaires thus far in Michigan's annual postcard poll of hunting information.

About 10,000 cards were mailed to hunters in January asking where and when they hunted and whether or not they bagged a deer during either the regular or special seasons.

Reminder cards were sent late last week to the 4,500 who have not yet answered the poll.

Pitcher Don Newcombe, the heaviest player on the Brooklyn Dodgers' 1955 roster, weighs 225 pounds.

USGA Alarmed by Loss of Standouts

NEW YORK (AP) — Golf's new "gold rush"—the mad break for professional ranks by many of the sport's brightest youngsters — is creating alarm in the game's higher circles.

Isaac B. Grainger, president of the U. S. Golf Assn., sounded his concern in a talk before the ruling body last Saturday and today re-emphasized:

"There's nothing we can do about it. We can merely appeal to their consciences."

Four of the last five amateur champions—Sam Urzetta (1950), Billy Maxwell (1951), Gene Littler (1953) and Arnold Palmer (1954) — have deserted to the money game along with such other leading amateurs as Frank Stranahan, Al Mengert, Bud Holscher, Dow Finsterwald, Tom Nieporte and Wesley Ellis.

Mengert was runner-up of the British Amateur and countess other titles and Nieporte and Ellis were prominent in college ranks.

To these names as fresh young professionals has been added that of 19-year-old Mickey Wright, acclaimed the most promising among the women, who quit the amateurs shortly after gaining the finals in the Women's National last year.

"We have no complaint against players who having decided they have reached their pinnacle as an amateur decide to become professionals," Grainger said.

"Professionals are vital to the game and we have only admiration for those who seek to make golf a career. But we are concerned over those who use our amateur events as stepping stones to further their pro ambitions."

The USGA executive said he had no particular individuals in mind "because I cannot look into their minds and know what their intentions were."

"But if they knew they were going to turn pro and decided to use their amateur success to help in the big switch," he added, "then I think it was grossly unfair to the true amateurs."

The USGA has a rule making a nonamateur of anyone who professes pro ambitions and the pros, in order to discourage hasty decisions, don't permit a newcomer to collect a purse for six months.

Dwyer Thinks He Is Ready to Give Wes Santee a Battle; Nielsen and Ollen Insure Fast Pace

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred Dwyer, another in the long list of would-be mile record breakers, faces Wes Santee for the first time in the Wanamaker Mile in the Millrose Games Saturday, and while he won't exactly predict victory, the Army private thinks he's "ready."

Gunnar Nielsen, the Copenhagen pressman, who fell victim to Santee's 4:03.8 indoor world mile record in Boston last Saturday, will toe the Millrose mark armed with new strategy.

Dick (Peter Rabbit) Ollen of Northeastern University, the lad who pulled Santee along with a 2:00 half in Boston, promises an equally fast pace in the Wanamaker.

And Wes himself said he will take no chances with Bob McMillen, who was the 1952 Olympic runner-up in the 1,500-meter event.

About the best all four can hope for is to force Santee into breaking his own record of one week.

This will be Dwyer's first indoor meeting with the Kansas Komet and he has some definite ideas on the subject.

"Ollen's being invited to run should mean another fast first half," he said Wednesday. "I am back in good shape and hope to take advantage of it as Santee did. What happens after Ollen starts to slow down will tell the story of the race.

"If Wes or someone else decides to go at it from the half, it could mean another record. I reached the three-quarter mark in Boston three weeks ago in 3:03.3, 1.2 slower than Santee. But then I could not maintain my speed over the final quarter as Santee did. My training has come along nicely and I should be ready this time."

That three-quarter clocking of Dwyer's indicated he would break the then world mark of 4:05.3, but he slowed to a crawl in the last quarter. If he can do the same this time, he certainly should force Santee into another record.

Lion Officials Surprised by Amount of Profit

Pro Football 'In Black' in Motor City for Fourth Straight Year

DETROIT (AP) — If there be a more financially successful pro football team than the Detroit Lions, let it be known.

The Lions made so much money last season they even fooled themselves.

President Edwin J. Anderson of the Lions said Tuesday that the pre-season forecast for 1954 indicated the team would make a net profit of $120,000.

Pretty good, but the forecast was short by a resounding $60,000.

In their biggest financial success in history, the Lions made a net profit of $178,355.67 last season, Anderson said. This compared with the $108,562.35 the club made in 1953 and marked the fourth straight year the Lions operated in the black.

The remarkable success of pro football in Detroit is clearly reflected in the following profit-and-loss table, which shows the rise of the team under its present ownership:

1948—Minus $93,000.
1949—Minus $112,000.
1950—Minus $15,000.
1951—Plus $66,000.
1952—Plus $115,000.
1953—Plus $109,000.
1954—Plus $178,000.

Anderson said the increase in profit last season stemmed in part from additional radio and television revenue. But the backbone of the profits came from the gate receipts.

In six home games, the Lions drew a record 326,028 in paid admissions — an average of 54,338 per game. Their home field, Briggs Stadium seats approximately 52,500.

Last fall the Lions sold 28,000 season tickets. They hope to boost this figure to 35,000 in 1955, and probably will.

Injury to Bradley Hurts Rams as They Bow, 45-35

St. Frederick's Rams lost their 6th game of the Suburban Catholic League basketball season here last night, bowing to cellar-dwelling St. James in a 45-35 upset.

Rams, playing without mid-year graduate Del Chaves, were further handicapped when Capt. Lionel Bradley went to the bench with a sprained ankle after the 1st half.

Dales, who had won only one of 10 previous starts, took a 7-6 1st-quarter lead and stretched it to 21-15 by halftime. Tom Ortbals paced the victory with 19 points, while teammate Bob McDonald had 12. Dick Doyon led the Freds with 11.

St. Benedict dumped Royal Oak St. Mary, 43-19, to stay in a 1st-place tie with idle St. Michael. The scheduled Orchard Lake St. Mary St. Rita game was postponed until next Monday.

Prothro Is Named Oregon State Coach

CORVALLIS, Ore. —J. Thompson (Tommy) Prothro, backfield coach for UCLA, Tuesday night was named head football coach at Oregon State College.

Terms were not disclosed by the 10-member OSC athletic board which announced the selection. However, the board said Prothro was hired on a "three-year basis."

Prothro, who succeeds Kip Taylor, said he expects to use the single wing at OSC. The same formation that UCLA used in its undefeated season last year.

Wiener Hails Monopoly Move

Pennsylvania Chairman Says Government Right in Hitting IBC

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Chairman Frank Wiener of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission said today that the "government is on the right foot" in its efforts to press an anti-trust suit against the International Boxing Club.

"The IBC certainly is a monopoly," Wiener declared in an interview.

He suggested that all the state boxing commissions get together, with backing of their governors, and "limit TV and the IBC."

The Supreme Court Monday ruled boxing was subject to anti-trust laws.

Wiener's attack on the IBC was made as he revealed that he had written to Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania that he "would welcome the opportunity to join with you and the attorney general in furthering any inquiry" into Pennsylvania boxing.

British Gridders Tour

Holly Residents to Ballot Again on Sewage Plant

Council Decides to Resubmit Plan

March 14 Voters Face $348,000 Bond Issue for Disposal Unit

HOLLY — Village residents will again vote on a proposed bond issue to support a new sewage disposal plant in Holly's village elections March 14.

This was decided unanimously last night by the village council.

The proposed bond issue calls for the loan of $348,000 to the village, by both revenue and general obligation bonds, on a 30 year basis.

The proposal was vetoed by villagers last year.

At present, only one quarter of the homes are served by the present sewer system. The state has forbidden the village to expand any of the present lines, until adequate disposal means are taken.

Commenting on the sewage disposal plan, village president Worth Hitchcock, said 'the taxpayers of the village must be educated to the facts of a new plant, and we have a short time to do it. If we can get this project through this year, it would be a great stride in the community's future development.'

Councilmen have decided to discuss the plan with individual organizations. The proposed plant which has been approved by the Michigan Department of Health, would cost $232,000, while the main sewer trunk line would cost $116,000.

Village lawmakers commented that studies have shown that assessed valuation on homes will not have to be raised to cover the expenses.

Captured Prowler Gives Most Unlikely Excuse

DALLAS (UP) — Police said today the prowler Mrs. George Weiss held at gunpoint had a ready explanation for his presence on her front porch.

Donelson School Carnival to Be Presented Saturday

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — A ham dinner and a carnival midway will highlight the traditional Donelson School winter carnival, to be held Saturday at the school.

A magic show, a balloon animal booth, a mystery house, fish pond, and movies will be provided for the entertainment of the youngsters.

There will also be other activities for the children, in addition to a needlework booth, white elephant sale, a fortune teller and a snack bar.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moss, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wagner and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bigger are chairman of the carnival, with Mrs. Preston Clark running the carnival activities, and Mrs. John Madole in charge of the dinner, to be served from 5-7 p.m.

Proceeds from the event will be used to purchase additional visual aids and library books for the school.

Engineering Costs Studied by Officials

How to finance the preliminary engineering costs of a proposed interceptor sewer to handle the Waterford, West Bloomfield, and Farmington townships, and Farmington City area were discussed by representatives of these areas and Oakland County Drain Commissioner Ralph Main yesterday.

Main said the preliminary engineering costs would be about $4,000, Waterford has already approved paying its share.

Also present to aid in the financing discussions was bond attorney Claude Stevens.

Soviet Industry Registers Gains

U.S. Is Challenged as Red Machinery Output Zooms Up

NEW YORK (AP) — The biggest news story from Russia rarely breaks into the headlines: It's the fact that the Soviet Union continues year after year to register big gains in industry. Production of machinery — capital goods and war material — is zooming upwards.

Figures make dry reading. But they are much more potent to tell the final story of war or peace and who wins out in the race for world leadership than conflicts within the Kremlin.

Kremlin leaders agree on one thing — that the industrial building of the U.S.S.R. must be pushed.

Only last night the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party published a new decree reminding the party that its "major duty" is the "further increase of heavy industry."

Here's how the Soviets compared in 1954 with the United States in production of four major industrial commodities generally regarded as reflecting over-all economic strength of nations:

Commodity	U.S.S.R.	U.S.
Steel	41	80
Coal	346	373
Petroleum	58	513
Electric power	148	544

(Steel, coal and petroleum measured in millions of metric tons, electric power in billions of kilowatt hours.)

Except for coal, U.S. production of these basic items is from two to five times that of the U.S.S.R. but the U.S. margin used to be much higher in some items.

In coal, not only a basic fuel but also a raw material for the chemical and metallurgical industries the story is quite different. Because American coal production has dropped sharply during recent years, the U.S.S.R. is about to capture first place in the world unless there's a quick upswing in U.S. output.

The Soviet leadership has many serious problems in its economy, particularly in agriculture. But none was serious enough to prevent the Soviet Union from increasing steel output in 1954 by more than 3 million tons, coal by 26 million, cement by 3 million, petroleum by 6 million tons and electric power by 15 billion kilowatt hours.

She will work with Mrs. Freida Bennett, the conuty's other home demonstration agent.

Mrs. Hixon served in the same capacity for the University of Maine Extension Service from 1952 to 1954. She is a graduate of Framingham (Mass.) State Teachers College, where she received a B. S. degree in education. She has also taught home economics.

A Birmingham resident, Mrs. Hixon attends the Congregational Church there and is a member of the Women's National Farm and Garden Assn.

Fluoride Toothpaste Used in Experiment

CHICAGO (AP)—A team of Indiana University scientists today reported an experimental toothpaste containing fluoride has cut tooth decay in a group of children by about 50 per cent.

A preliminary report was published in the Journal of the American Dental Assn. by the group, headed by Dr. Joseph G. Muhler of the university's School of Dentistry.

The fluoride dentifrice was given to 214 school children ranging from 5 to 15 years old, for daily, unsupervised home use during the past year.

Results were compared with 209 children given a dentrifice which did not contain the fluoride.

The group given fluoride showed a 51 per cent drop in tooth decay in teeth examined a year ago and 49.3 per cent in new teeth.

The journal termed the fluoride dentrifice "promising" but added that exhaustive clinical studies still are needed.

Ousted Official Charges DSR Going Bankrupt

DETROIT (INS)—O. H. Frisbie, DSR commissioner fired yesterday by Mayor Albert E. Cobo, said today the DSR is being driven into bankruptcy because the mayor would listen only to the system's general manager, Leo J. Nowicki.

Frisbie accused Cobo and Nowicki of ignoring the commission, which is the DSR's board of directors, and called the board a "rubber stamp agency."

Yesterday, Cobo made no attempt to hide his anger and discharged Frisbie, his only appointment to the commission, for alleged lack of co-operation and failure to behave in a businesslike manner.

Frisbie charged today DSR policy is dictated by the "almighty dollar" and has neither "heart nor soul."

Cobo said he had appointed more than 300 other unpaid commissioners to city posts and that his was "the first time I have found it necessary to terminate the services of one of them."

Bus Route Protest Brings Arrest of 3

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Three fathers in nearby Cannonsburg have been ordered arrested for refusing to send their children to school because of a change in school bus routes.

Asst. Prosecutor Joseph A. Renihan issued warrants yesterday for the arrest of Frank Zaidel, Gail Mosher and George Clemence. He said five children of the three men have not attended school since Jan. 3 as a protest against a change in school bus routes ordered by the Cannonsburg School Board.

The fathers said they will ask Dr. Clair Taylor, state superintendent of public instruction, for a hearing to require the school board to restore bus routes in use prior to Jan. 3.

An attorney for the parents said the children would have to walk from one-quarter to three-quarters of a mile to catch the school bus with present routing.

Mixed Opinions Voiced on Proposed Incorporation Law Changes

Representatives of four Oakland County communities have voiced mixed opinions on proposed legislation which would change the incorporation laws.

The four areas are Walled Lake, Keego Harbor, and Madison Heights, all of which have just incorporated, and Rochester, which is considering the subject.

Officials generally favored two of the measures suggested by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors to the Michigan Legislature, but questioned a third change.

Under the present law, incorporation petitions are filed, and if found to be valid, a voting date is set. But if a census of the area to be incorporated is required to discover what class city the area will become, it is impossible to set an election date, until the census is completed.

This delay would be eliminated in legislation recommended by the supervisors. It would allow a vote before the census is complete.

The second recommended change is that areas incorporating not become cities when the residents vote in favor of it, but when the charter for the area is completed, approved, and filed with the county clerk and secretary of state.

At present, if no charter is approved after the residents vote for incorporation, the area reverts back to its township or village status.

A third proposal encompassed the financing of the incorporation process.

In the midst of work brought about by voters approving incorporation Dec. 14, 1954, Keego Harbor charter commissioners Benjamin E. Covey, Lylia Ross and Wilma Webb have spoken in favor of both advancing the vote date and staying under township rule until the charter is approved.

Their area is one which waited until a census was completed before voting. This trio agreed with the county supervisors that the area incorporating should foot the costs of the change-over.

Both officials of the newly formed city of Madison Heights in Royal Oak Township, and the village

COMMISSION AT WORK—It takes more than a few votes cast to start a city, as these members of the Keego Harbor Charter Commission will tell you. Seated at their weekly work on the charter are commission members Lylia Ross, Ralph O'Dell, and Wilma Webb, while standing are commissioner Charles Leaf, the commission's attorney, John Estes, and commissioners Jack Loveland, Ed Covey and Ben Moshier. Slone said that the incorporation petitions as drawn up in his area stipulate the raising of $500 to cover the costs of incorporation.

The supervisor's third recommendation would prevent the county from getting stuck with the costs if the incorporation fails.

The law provides for any group of citizens to petition to become a village or city, and regulations which make such action difficult or impossible are wrong, the statement concluded.

County Assistant Corporation Counsel Charles A. Davis said the $500 deposit required with incorporation petitions is enforced by printing the ballots, paying the election board, and for the canvass of the votes, are deducted from the deposit, and the remainder returned.

"This is a practical solution as far as the cost is concerned, and we feel that the supervisors have the power to require the deposit," he concluded.

DETROIT PEOPLE
TELL ABOUT THEIR RHEUMATISM - ARTHRITIS

"For the first time since 1946, I can do housework without awful pains in my back and fingers. I am anxious for others to know of your successful medicine, as I sure feel like a different person since using O-Jib-Wa Bitters." Mrs. F. S., Detroit.

"I was very delighted and surprised with my results from O-Jib-Wa. I didn't think anything could help my arthritis so quickly." Mrs. H. J., Van Dyke.

"For 15 years I suffered terrible pains and stiffness, especially in my wrist, fingers and ankles. The fear of becoming helpless terrified me. I took O-Jib-Wa faithfully and in two months my arthritis completely disappeared." Mrs. A. Z., Detroit.

"O-Jib-Wa Bitters not only did wonders for arthritis in my wrist, but at the same time gave me lots of pep and energy. I feel better than I have in years." Mr. C. N., Dearborn.

"I had arthritis so bad that I could not move my hands or arms to feed myself. O-Jib-Wa is the only medicine that helped me. In six weeks I could do all my own housework again." Mrs. A. S., Detroit.

"If you spent a month and a half propped up in bed with rheumatism and arthritis like I did, you would know how grateful I am for O-Jib-Wa Bitters, as I am up and around again as good as new." Mrs. E. G., Detroit.

"The very first bottle of O-Jib-Wa helped me," says Mr. C. J., Wyandotte.

"I would have shipped a lot of misery and suffering if I had known of O-Jib-Wa Bitters 20 years sooner." Mrs. E. J., Detroit.

"Before taking O-Jib-Wa Bitters, I was nervous, run down and had no appetite. Now I eat like a horse and feel like a million dollars." Mrs. A. M., Detroit.

"O-Jib-Wa not only took all the pain and swelling from my legs and ankle, but greatly helped my digestion and circulation." Mrs. E. W., Detroit.

"I was awfully discouraged as for over five years, rheumatism in my hip and arms caused me intense pains. I tried O-Jib-Wa Bitters and am pleased to write that it has helped me greatly." Mrs. L. B., Inkster.

"After spending lots of money for arthritis medicines without help, I want to tell you how very thankful I am for O-Jib-Wa." Mrs. L. B., Detroit.

"In 25 years of suffering from rheumatism, I have never found anything that equals O-Jib-Wa Bitters. Results were marvelous." Mr. H. B., Detroit.

"Rheumatism and stomach trouble bothered both my wife and me for years. We both feel fine now thanks to your wonderful medicine. We recommend O-Jib-Wa to everybody." Mr. and Mrs. J. V. G., Detroit.

"My back was so sore that I was forced to walk all stooped over. I found that there is nothing better than your Bitters." Mr. C. W., Detroit.

"I had to quit my job because of painful arthritis. After a treatment of O-Jib-Wa, it seemed like a miracle, for I was back in good health again, and able to work everyday." Mr. W. A., Royal Oak.

"My husband, sister and I have all used O-Jib-Wa Bitters with remarkable results. I have told many people about your medicine, and all of them have thanked me for recommending it." Mrs. M. A., Highland Park.

"My knees swelled so bad I was practically an invalid. After using O-Jib-Wa for 30 days, I was all better and have only taken a few bottles for your medicine." Mrs. A. S., Detroit.

Wolfson Wins 1st Court Test

Judge Outlaws Ward's Staggered System of Electing Directors

CHICAGO (AP)—Louis E. Wolfson has won an important legal skirmish in his court fight to gain control of Montgomery Ward & Co.

Management, however, will carry the fight to a higher court.

In a ruling yesterday, Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher declared unconstitutional Section 35 of the Illinois Business Corporation Act. This is the legal foundation for the Ward staggered system of electing directors.

The effect of the ruling is to direct Ward to elect a full board of nine directors in April, instead of only three. Thus Wolfson's chances of gaining control of the board appeared increased.

However, Robert Cushman, attorney for the huge merchandising firm headed by 81-year-old Sewell Avery, announced the decision will be appealed immediately to the Illinois Supreme Court.

A test of strength between Avery and Wolfson, 43-year-old New York and Florida Financier, will come April 22 at the annual meeting of Ward stockholders in New York.

Wolfson filed suit Nov. 1 to force election of all nine directors Nov. 1. The ruling, if upheld, also would affect numerous other Illinois firms which use the staggered system of electing directors.

In his opinion, Judge Fisher agreed with Wolfson's attorney that the staggered elections thwarted the intent of the Illinois constitution to provide proportional representation to stockholders.

Management had maintained that "staggered elections preserve stability and continuity of business management."

Radar Outposts Guard Northern U.S. Approaches

SOMEWHERE IN ONTARIO (AP)—a radar station in this area, staffed by 280 men and women of the Canadian Air Force, is a part of the Pine Tree chain designed to give North America a line of defense in the event of air attack from the North. Two thirds of the chain's coast was borne by the United States, the remainder by Canada.

Reporters permitted to visit this station found it situated atop a hill in an area where temperatures plunge to -30.

For each such station, there is at least one fighter squadron, Canadian or American. Though Pine Tree is a warning chain, its more vital task is control of interceptor aircraft, the long-range, all-weather CF100 twin-engine jets.

In event of air attack on this continent, it would be the duty of this station and others like it to plot the route of the enemy planes, marshal the interceptors from fighter bases and bring them into position where they could shoot down the attackers.

Construction of another radar line along the 55th parallel will start soon and plans are being laid for a third line in the arctic.

Costa Rica to Try Two Assemblymen

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—Costa Rica's Legislative Assembly yesterday lifted the congressional immunity of two deputies accused of complicity in the recent unsuccessful revolt against President Jose Figueres' government

The two, Mario Echandi and Guillermo Jimenez, had been implicated by a rebel prisoner captured Jan. 15. The Assembly voted 31-10 to have them stand trial.

After the turbulent session, an angry mob of 350 civilians pursued the accused deputies. They fled into the exclusive Union Club and apparently escaped by a rear door. Civil guards later were set around the club and the two men's homes.

Collie Rescues Master Knocked Down by Bull

ROHRERSVILLE, Md. (AP)—Bozo, a 3-year-old collie, went to the rescue of his master Frank L. Beard, 57, who had been knocked to the ground by a bull.

As the bull pawed at Beard, Bozo nipped at the animal's legs and head. The distraction enabled the farmer to crawl to safety through a gate. He was treated for bruises. Bobo was not hurt.

Grains Steady in Dull Barter

CHICAGO (AP) — Steady prices ruled for most grains in relatively dull trading on the Board of Trade today. The market lacked any important news incentive and therefore was allowed to drift along in an aimless manner.

At the outset March wheat showed a little strength, possibly in reflection of overnight sale of 2,880,000 bushels of hard wheat to Greece. Tye upturn was very quickly lost, however. New crop soybeans, recently strong, were unable to continue their advance.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ½ lower to ⅛ higher, March $2.30⅛; corn ⅜ lower to ⅛ higher, March $1.54; oats unchanged to ¼ lower, March 78⅛; rye unchanged to ½ lower, March $1.26⅝; soybeans ½ lower to ¼ higher, March $2.79¼; and lard 8 cents lower to 3 cents a hundred pounds higher, March $12.65.

CHICAGO GRAIN:

Wants Unions to Incorporate

Beardsley Submits Bill Providing Semi-Annual Financial Reports

LANSING (UP) — A bill to require unions to incorporate and file semi-annual financial statements was introduced in the House today.

The bill, sponsored by Fred G. Beardsley (R-Oxford), is similar to legislation that has failed passage in previous sessions.

If passed by the Legislature, the proposal would go before the voters.

Meanwhile, lawmakers hinted that other controversial labor laws will come before the Legislature. Sen. Charles R. Feenstra (R-Grand Rapids), said he is gathering material for introduction of a "right to work" law.

Labor unions regard such laws as a threat to the "closed shop."

Other legislation introduced today would:

Require an annual audit of all county employes handling funds; require a four-month waiting period before filing of testimony once a divorce case is started involving a minor under 18; make Oct. 12 a bank holiday; allow liquor dealers to use proof of a minor's falsification of identification as testimony in the dealer's defense during liquor law hearings.

Small Aircrafts Leading Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Many low and medium priced aircrafts were strong today in an otherwise lower stock market.

Prices in the early afternoon moved over a range of around 2 points in either direction.

Trading volume was moderate at a rate around three million shares for the entire day. Yesterday's total in a high market came to 3,320,000 shares.

Aircrafts going higher included Northrop, Fairchild Engine, Curtiss-Wright, Rohr, Grumman, and Glenn Martin. On the losing side were United Aircraft and Boeing.

Important losers included Bethlehem Steel, Western Union, Anaconda Copper, Northern Pacific, Standard Oil and Pan American World Airways.

American Bosch Arma, yesterday's most active issue off ⅛, opened today on 3,000 shares up ¼ at 18¼.

Montgomery Ward lost 1¾ yesterday when its largest stockholder reported selling its holdings. Today the stock jumped ahead 2¼ at 84 on an opening block of 5,000 shares on the strength of a Chicago court decision ruling out piece-meal election of directors, a move favorable to the forces of Louis E. Wolfson in seeking to get control of the company.

A block of 15,000 shares of Peabody Coal traded at 7¼ up 1⅝. A block of 10,000 shares of Electric & Musical Industries traded up ¼ at 4⅛.

$3,815,000 Budget Approved

Atomic Power Plant Work Will Be Pushed This Year

Almost $4 million will be spent this year by a group of 33 utility and industrial firms in work toward achieving commercial production of electric power by means of atomic energy.

Three and a half million already has been spent by the Atomic Power Development Associates, and a $3,815,000 budget has been approved for 1955.

Michigan members of the group include Consumers Power Company, Detroit Edison, Bendix Aviation Corporation, Commonwealth Associates and Ford Motor Company.

Construction of sections of full-scale atomic power plant components — pumps, piping, heat exchangers and other devices for handling liquid metals at extremely high temperatures—is included in the program.

Announcement of the 1955 plans came today from Dan. E. Karn, president of Consumers Power Company and member of the APDA management committee.

Karn said the heat exchangers and other components would be assembled in Detroit, in a new test facility to be established at the Detroit Edison Company's Delray power plant on the Detroit River.

There the equipment, which also will include a special high-temperature boiler or steam generator, will be tested under simulated reactor plant conditions.

Membership in the Atomic Power Development Associates includes 25 electric utilities and eight manufacturing, engineering and research firms—a total of 33 companies. The group is engaged in the AEC's industrial participation program to work out an economically practical means of using nuclear fuels in thermal-electric power generation.

Member companies of APDA pool the special talents of their personnel. Member - owned research and development facilities are used wherever possible, although a very large part of the work, due to its specialized nature, is being done by contractors.

A present, a staff of more than 50 is at work in headquarters furnished by Detroit Edison, and some additional help will be required at the Delray Testing Laboratory.

All the associates are shering in the cost of the work.

Business Notes:

Pontiac Output Up 50 Per Cent

Last Month's Increase Boosts GM's Share of Big 3 Production

A production record improvement of almost 50 per cent over January 1954, by Pontiac Motor Division, helped General Motors Corp. share in a record production month for the auto industry's "Big Three" in January.

GM, Ford and Chrysler turned out a total of 634,287 passenger cars in the United States during the month. This topped the January 1954 total by 203,600 units.

Pontiac production hit 48,000, compared with 32,834 in January 1954.

The three big producers reported vast increases over last year. Percentage-wise, Chrysler accomplished the biggest improvement, almost doubling its production over January a year ago.

Chrysler reported production of 135,304 cars and trucks in January, compared with 73,585 for the same month last year.

General Motors built 327,455 passenger cars and 31,691 trucks in the United States and 16,063 cars and 2,295 trucks in Canada for a grand total of 377,544. This was an increase of 108,487 over 1954.

GMC Truck & Coach Division produced 5,985 units, compared with 8,638 manufactured in January 1954.

U. S. passenger car totals also included 154,517 hCevrolets, 48,416 Oldsmobiles, 62,427 Buicks and 14,135 Cadillacs.

Ford's U.S. production included 179,050 passenger cars and 32,348 trucks in January for a total of 211,398 compared with 185,342 in January last year.

This included 143,761 Fords, 32,883 Mercurys and 2,906 Lincolns.

New offices of the Pontiac Plumbing Contractors Assn. were installed last night at a meeting in the Hotel Waldron.

The roster for 1955 includes Lloyd S. Thornton, president; Howard Wright, vice president, and Ezra Mason, secretary-treasurer.

The organization meets at 7 p.m. the first Tuesday of each month, at the Waldron.

William H. Graves has been elected vice president and director of engineering of Studebaker-Packard Corp., James J. Nance, president, announced yesterday.

Graves, 56, joined Packard in 1919 and became its chief engineer in 1950. Herbert L. Misch will succeed him as chief engineer.

Grand opening of a new one-hour dry cleaning service in Tel-Huron Center was scheduled today by the French-Glo Valet chain, which also has branches in Detroit, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo and Akron.

Accordinng to manager Clyde Turner, the firm will operate on an "on the hour" schedule for garments which do not require special attention.

Prisoner Admits Arson

JACKSON (AP)—Thomas E. Kanause, an inmate at Southern Michigan Prison, was sentenced to an additional 2 to 10 years Tuesday after pleading guilty to arson before Circuit Judge Harry Boardman. Kanause, 35, admitted setting fire to a barn on a prison farm where he was a trusty. He currently is serving a 15 to 30 year term for armed robbery.

Boost Facilities for Gas Storage

Consumers Unit Plans for Increased Service in Coming Year

Michigan Gas Storage Company will invest more than $2,500,000 in 1955 on new construction projects designed to speed the flow of increased amounts of natural gas to the many areas in Michigan served with gas by Consumers Power Compan, its parent company.

Two major projects were outlined today in the storage company's program by Dan E. Kern, president of both MGSC and Consumers.

He said that a new 16-inch gas main, 36 miles long, between Mt. Pleasant and Zilwaukee, near Saginaw, will bring increased volumes of gas from underground storage fields in central Michigan to Flint and the Saginaw Valley cities.

The Freedom Junction compressor station, near Manchester, will be enlarged with the addition of a 3,300 horsepower compressor engine to handle increased supplies of natural gas for transmission to the storage fields.

Consumers added 25,000 additional space heating cutsomers to its lines during late 1954 and early this year, Karn said.

Flint Escapees All Back in Jail

Last of Six Fugitives Surrenders Meekly to Two Policemen

FLINT (AP) — Six knife-wielding prisoners who overpowered two guards and fled the Genesee County Jail Monday night were back in their cells today.

The last fugitive, Leslie Edinger, 51, of Flint, was spotted by two policemen last night on a street near the jail and surrendered meekly.

Patrolmen Ronald Harwood, 22, and William Elia, 26, said they recognized Edinger from a police radio description.

The six men escaped Monday night when Turnkey Art Harmon, 59, and Deputy William Marshall, 48, opened the door to the recreation room in the cellblock to order inmates to bed.

Harmon was jumped and dragged inside the room. Marshall, also overpowered, was stabbed in the arm with a knife fashioned from a coffee spoon. Both men were shut in the recreation room behind a door which locked automatically.

The six prisoners then raced downstairs and through the jail kitchen.

Mother Charged With Neglect of Five Children

DETROIT (INS)—A 24-year-old mother today was awaiting sentence for contributing to the neglect of her children whom police found dirty, cold and hungry under the supervision of a drunken baby sitter.

But Mrs. Elizabeth Harrington wants Detroit Recorder's Judge John P. O'Hara to give her another chance "to show I can be a good mother."

Brought into court on neglect charges, Mrs. Harrington heard police tell of finding four of her children locked in a back room under the care of James Moffitt, 44, who, police said, was intoxicated.

A fifth child, six-year-old Linda, was found wandering the streets at midnight.

Judge O'Hara released Mrs. Harrington on personal bond and referred her case to the Probation Department. She will be sentenced Feb. 15.

Says Panama Canal May Get New Route

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Sentiment is growing in Congress for a new Panama Canal route, says George H. Roderick, assistant secretary of the Army and board chairman of the Panama Canal Co.

The proposed route, he said, would be a relocation in Panama of the present one and would be at sea level to make it less vulnerable to enemy action. Ships now go through locks taking them 85 feet above sea level.

The new route was proposed by the Army in 1947 and won approval of the joint chiefs of staff. Estimated cost then was $2.5 billion.

Speaking before the Grand Rapids Lions Club, Roderick told of three concentric radar lines across the arctic and Canada protecting the United States.

4 Departments Answer Lumberyard Alarm

Four fire departments answered an alarm at Burmeister's Northern Lumber Yard, 8197 Cooley Lake Rd., Commerce township, at 10:30 a.m. today when a stove exploded in a saw shack, endangering the entire yard.

The blaze was extinguished in 30 minutes by the Commerce Township Fire Department, assisted by units from West Bloomfield, Waterford and Union Lake. The fire was contained in the saw shack, which was badly damaged.

4-Cent Mail Rate Not So Expensive by Comparison

WASHINGTON (UP)—Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield maintains that a four-cent stamp "will still be a bargain" compared to the cost of mailing out-of-town letters in other countries.

For instance, he has stated it costs 8.5 cents to mail such a letter in Sweden, 9.6 cents in Germany, 4.17 cents in England, and 5 cents in Canada.

Summerfield wants the rate for first class mail boosted from three to four cents an ounce along with other increases. President Eisenhower has asked Congress to raise the postal rates to wipe out the post office's annual losses.

However, Eisenhower's proposal, faces a rough future. Leading Democrats are opposed to raising the price of the three-cent stamp although some other postal increases may get consideration.

Summerfield said that most other countries run their postal services at a profit or on a break-even basis. In contrast, this country has piled up a $4,000,000,000 postal deficit since World War II.

Judge Grants 'A' to Scot Mistaken for an Irishman

DETROIT (AP) — Norman McDonald, 56, had A problem yesterday which might be considered minor to some but was earthshaking to McDonald.

It brought him before Probate Judge James H. Sexton, where McDonald said:

"Judge, I'd like an 'A' added to my last name between the 'M' and 'C'. I'm a Scotchman born and bred, but my name is spelled like an Irishman. The extra 'A' would make me known as a true Scotchman. The 'A' was dropped from my birth certificate through an error in Scotland."

Judge Sexton, an understanding man, sent Norman MacDonald home a happy man.

Wants Sponsor's Name on Political Advertising

LANSING (AP)—Sen. Clarence F. Graebner (R-Saginaw) wants advocates and opponents of public issues on the ballot to show their faces.

Graebner filed a bill in the Senate which would require newspapers, periodicals and advertising media publishing "paid matter" for or against constitutional

Truthful, simple language sells more cars and makes more friends. That's why OLIVER BUICK rolls on and on. We DO NOT give you nine years to pay — we DO NOT make your payments — we DO NOT give you a lifetime guarantee.
BUT we DO sell at the lowest price possible — we DO try to recondition to the best of our ability and we DO figure the lowest payments possible at a fair interest rate. And above all—our salesmen are courteous.

Hit Parade Cast Has 100 People

Producers Plan Show 11 Days Ahead, Must Anticipate Top Tunes

NEW YORK (AP)—Dressing old tunes in new togs is the biggest problem on Your Hit Parade but one of the slickest teams since television comes up with ear and eye-pleasing solutions.

The backstage brigade that provides the settings for songs by Dorothy Collins, Gisele MacKenzie, Snooky Lanson and Russel Arms is headed by Dan Lounsbery, producer.

Any song that keeps turning up in the top seven week after week is problem enough, says Lounsbery, recalling 19 times for If and All My Love, many for 17 and 16 times, and 13 times this season for I Need You Now.

But it's even tougher, he declares, if the song is about a specific locale or subject, such as Harbor Lights, Little Shoemaker and Shanghai.

He says one of their toughest jobs was to keep Doggie in the Window from looking dog-eared after the first few weeks. They used windows of all shapes and forms, and big doggies and little doggies and black doggies and white doggies. Finally, he recalls, they decided to let the camera be the doggie, and gave the audience a pup's eye view with only a dog's paw showing—a stuffed one.

There are many other complications smoothed out by the backstage team so viewers never know they exist.

Lounsbery says that ordinarily "we try to rotate the songs among the singers and rotate the singers on the No. 1 song.

"But there are some that can be done only by a girl, such as Let Me Go Lover. Another thing that has been a problem has been the popularity of group arrangements such as those for Mr. Sandman, Naughty Lady of Shady Lane and Teach Me Tonight."

Each show is born 11 days in advance when Nichols and Lounsbery huddle in the latter's office "and make up a routine of what we think will be on." They have to assume, says Lounsbery, that next week's top seven will be the same as for the current week.

"Then," he continues, "we decide who's going to do each song."

It takes more than 100 people—including nine dancers, full orchestra and technical personnel — to produce each week's show.

Wooden Records of St. Peter Burial Believed Phonies

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A Vatican spokesman said today that wooden tablets purporting to shed new light on St. Peter's final burial place are doubtless false.

The tablets were unearthed recently at Bettona, 90 miles north of Rome near Assisi. Latin inscriptions on them said the ashes of Peter, first pope of the Roman Catholic Church, had been transported from Rome.

Msgr. Giulio Belvederi, a member of the Vatican's Pontificial Commission for Sacred Archaeology, said today that he believes that the tablets are "absolutely false."

Msgr. Belvedere said that he had inspected one of the three wooden tablets dug up by peasants and expressed a belief that it "most likely dates from the 11th or 12th centuries." Inscriptions on the tablets indicated they dated from the 3rd century.

A first word of caution on the much-touted discovery was expressed yesterday by Bishop Giuseppe Placido Nicolini of Assisi, who termed the finding "still a very vague matter."

Dem Believes Cease-Fire May Mean Yielding Isles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) said today the United States will have to consider the possibility of yielding some small Nationalist-held islands to Red China if this country follows through on United Nations efforts to work out a cease-fire in the Formosa area.

Sparkman, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Far Eastern subcommittee, said in an interview he has no doubt that if the Chinese Communists accept a U.N. Security Council invitation to talk about a truce, "the least of their demands will be that the Chinese Nationalists give up Quemoy, Matsu and the Tachens."

These islands — close to the Chinese mainland — are regarded as covered by the defend-Formosa resolution passed by Congress last week, but Sparkman said the administration's attitude toward defending them remains "foggy."...

"The Communists have made it very clear that they will insist on getting these islands," he said.

"If the islands are necessary for the adequate defense of Formosa, then we ought to tell the world that we are going to fight for them. If they are not essential, I don't think we ought to spill American blood over them."

Some of those who attended a conference of Republican congressional leaders with President Eisenhower yesterday said they came away with the impression that any Red Chinese attack on the offshore islands will be met with immediate American countermoves.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, has said he would fight any move to give these islands—or any other Nationalist-held territory—to the Communists to gain a cease-fire.

Knowland said an amendment of this nature would be proposed if Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) renews attempts to get Foreign Relations Committee approval for a resolution that would put the Senate on record as backing administration moves to seek a cease-fire through the U.N.

The committee yesterday delayed consideration of the resolution for a week on the insistence of Knowland and others. But Humphrey said in an interview he will bring it up again next Tuesday.

He said he would fight against amendments "because they might include some reservations that the administration would not want included."

"The President has proposed the cease-fire action and we have been led to believe that he would not favor appeasing Red China," Humphrey said. "Personally, I am willing to trust the President to work out an honorable cease-fire, but it appears that some of the Republicans are not."

Record 304 Women Now in Legislatures

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican National Committee said today a record total of 304 women are serving in state legislatures.

Miss Bertha S. Adkins, director of women's affairs for the committee, said a survey showed 188 of the women lawmakers are Republicans, 116 are Democrats and 2 have no party designation.

Only five states—Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia and Oklahoma—have no women in their legislatures, according to the survey.

Bob Hope Turning Down Contracts for TV Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope, tired and determined to take life easier, is turning down all offers for a regular televison show next season.

He plans to confine his activities to an occasional TV guest appearance, making independent movies and, presumably, his radio show.

Hope's agent James Saphier said last night that Hope is not renewing his NBC or General Foods TV contracts, both expiring in May.

Unknown Donor Sends $1 to Feed Bereaved Puppy

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A little dog that kept a lonely vigil over another killed by a car has a dollar's worth of biscuits waiting for him.

But Works Director H. T. Meiners can't find the black puppy with the white-tipped tail.

His search started yesterday after an anonymous writer explained he saw a picture of the vigil and sympathized with the "dog who is left behind. I hope this dollar brings him happiness."

If the puppy can't be found within a week, Meiners is going to buy dog biscuits for inhabitants of the pound.

"After all, they have been 'left behind' too," he said.

Commies Bilk Attorney Into 3-Cent Gift to Party

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A Salt Lake City attorney says he was bilked into contributing 3 cents to the Communist party.

He was angry enough about it to take his story to the FBI and a Salt Lake newspaper. But he declined use of his name.

The attorney says a letter, with no return address, was delivered to his office yesterday with 3 cents postage due.

After paying the 3 cents, the attorney says he discovered the envelope to contain a mimeographed sheet telling about the Communist party, over the name of "The Communist Party of Utah."

Sees Stalemate Over Formosa

New York Times Says Government Is Betting on Uneasy Balance

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today the Eisenhower administration believes an uneasy stalemate in the Formosa Strait is more likely than either fighting or a formal cease-fire.

A Washington dispatch to the Times said:

If the Chinese Communists challenge the United States, either by a testing action or a full-scale attempt to take Formosa or one of the islands related to its defense, the administration is prepared to engage in limited war. This would include "hot pursuit" to the mainland of the attacking aircraft or naval vessels.

No need is seen for United States ground troops in such a program, the story said. The highest military authorities, it said, believe the job can be done with U.S. air and naval arms, plus Chinese Nationalist troops.

Authors of this policy were said to regard it as defensive and resembling "containment" more than "liberation."

"The doctrine of instant, massive retaliation is out the window so far as this area is concerned," the story continued. "The United States might bomb airfields and ports from which attacks on United States forces are launched, but the administration is not thinking of atomic attacks on Peiping. All the probabilities are that the United States would let the Chinese Reds strike the first blow."

Four City Officials on State Committees

Four Pontiac city officials are currently serving on Michigan Municipal League committees.

Heading the list is City Manager Walter K. Willman, who is chairman of the highway committee. Mayor William W. Donaldson is a member of the committee on federal-local relations.

Assessor W. Raymond Ransom is assigned to the plat law committee, while Joseph B. Jewell, DPW head, is a member of the training committee.

15 Reds Captured

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — The Nationalist Defense Ministry reported tonight 15 Chinese Communist prisoners were aboard the transport that brought 538 refugees from the Tachen Islands today. They had been captured near Nankishan, 80 miles south of the Tachens.
