Ohioan Slays Three, Leaves Suicide Message

Steel Workers Prepare Strike as Parley Drags

Negotiators Will Meet Again Today; Company Offer Rejected

NEW YORK (AP)—Tinged with new bitterness, the steel labor contract negotiations continue today in the face of an inexorably approaching strike deadline, now only eight days away.

Government officials today privately expressed increasing concern over the possibility of a strike but said, for the time being, they intend to keep out of the bargaining.

Accusing the industry of "conspiracy" to force a shutdown, the United Steelworkers went methodically about the task of setting up their strike machinery. Should it come, the strike could idle 650,000 workers immediately and play havoc with the economy.

The companies were standing fast, but there was a faint hint that the giant U. S. Steel Corp., might not be as unyielding as the others.

The "Big Three" of steel — U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic — sent letters to their 350,000 workers praising the industry proposal for a five-year contract. There was a note of finality in the Bethlehem and Republic texts not noted in U. S. Steel's.

As the company negotiators put it last week, Steel's offer is not a floor from which the companies will be bargained upward.

In general terms, the companies figure they are offering fixed annual pay hikes of 7.3 cents an hour. Wages now average $2.46. The companies estimate the first year's cost of their "package" at 14 to 15 cents.

The union estimates the fixed annual pay boosts would amount to only a nickle a day in take-home pay.

The day also saw these developments:

1. David J. McDonald, the steelworkers president, issued a statement saying:

"If the industry persists in its ultimatum to the union to 'take or leave' it, it should be crystal clear to the American people that the 11 steel companies, for reasons

For August Primary

To Open Vote Registration

To encourage non-registered voters to get out and register for the August primary, registrations will be taken in both downtown banks beginning Monday.

City Clerk Ada R. Evans said Monday, July 9 is the last day to register for the primary.

The establishment of voting registration tables in both the Community National and Pontiac State Banks brings to eight the number of places at which Pontiac voters may register.

Other places are at the clerk's office in the City Hall, the Oakland County CIO Council, 21½ E. Lawrence, local 653, 594, 596 Union halls, and at 141 W. South Boulevard.

To date, there are approximately 37,500 registered voters in Pontiac. Mrs. Evans said she "hoped" for 40,000 by the primary.

"We are setting up these extra voting areas to accommodate those people who find it hard to get downtown to register," she said. "If they want to take the opportunity, we want to give it to them."

Oak Park Man Electrocuted

Repairing of Basement After Sunday Flooding Proves Fatal

A father of three children was electrocuted yesterday while cleaning up the flooded basement of his Oak Park home.

Harold N. Jamieson, 41, was working on the wet floor with an electric drill. Police said his shoes were wet and he was perspiring profusely.

His wife, Frances, and their daughter, Ruby, 18, were upstairs. The other children, Neil, 14, and Gale, 7, were out.

Ruby found her father lying on the floor with the drill cord stretched across his body. He had been electrocuted.

Police said he suffered severe burns in the area of his heart.

Ike Begins Third Week in Hospital; No Politics Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower started his third week in the hospital today—walking a little more, receiving visitors a little longer, but apparently still not talking politics.

A Republican committee was making plans in downtown Washington for the Aug. 20 GOP presidential convention, but White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen Eisenhower would send it no message.

Hagerty denied yesterday a published report that word was passed to White House aides that Eisenhower would stand by his Feb. 29 decision to accept a second term. Hagerty said the question was never discussed with Eisenhower.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, the North Atlantic Alliance commander, spent 45 minutes with Eisenhower yesterday.

Hagerty said they talked about two things — Gruenther's secret testimony on the foreign aid bill before the Senate Appropriations Committee yesterday, and "the general problems of NATO." Asked whether there was any discussion of politics, Hagerty replied:

"I think I can flatly say that there was not."

Huge Road Bill Set to Become Law by July 1

House - Senate Group Completes Work Upon $32.9 Billion Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) —House-Senate conference committees finished their work yesterday on the huge highway bill and everything was set for it to become law by July 1. It is a $32,900,000,000 project.

Leaders of the conferees issued exultant statements:

"The greatest public works program in the history of the world," Sen. Chavez (D-NM) called it. He added:

"It will be a wonderful thing for our economy and it will bring untold benefits to the American people."

Similarly, Rep. Fallon (D-Md) called it "the greatest governmental construction program in the history of the world."

SIGNING EXPECTED

Both the House and Senate are expected to approve the conferees' report next week, and President Eisenhower is similarly expected to sign it at once.

There never has been much quarrel over the need of better highways, but progress has lagged because of disputes over financing and lesser details.

The bill provides for new federal taxes amounting to $14,800,000,000 during the 16 years the program is to run. This money would be combined with taxes already levied on highway users to raise the total needed.

Chief among the new revenue raisers will be a one-cent-per-gallon increase in the present two-cent federal tax on gasoline. Other new taxes apply to tires, tread rubber, fuels other than gasoline, trucks, buses and trailers.

The conferees on the tax sections of the bill restored the revenue figure to $14,800,000,000 voted by the House instead of $14,500,000,000 as passed by the Senate.

ACCEPT PROVISION

They did this by accepting the House provision on a new annual use tax to be put on heavy trucks. This provision applies the tax at the rate of $1.50 per 1,000 pounds on the full weight of each vehicle weighing 20,000 pounds or more.

And Still They Seek a Winner

MANY ANSWERS — NO WINNERS — The desk is piled high with entries as POT-O-GOLD judges Bonnie Vradenburg (seated), of 25 Gage St., and Pat Hartman, of 1611 Alma St., begin another futile search for a winner in the Press' summer word contest. The stack of postcards above was only a small portion of the 3,015 that were sent in this week.

Marlene Hagge Draws Gallery

Shoots a Sizzling 69 Yesterday in Opening LPGA Event

A big gallery watched the amateurs and pros tee off this morning and early afternoon in the second round of the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. Championship and Wolverine Amateur Open at Forest Lake Country Club.

Most of the fans however were waiting for the last two threesomes before moving down the fairway.

The last threesome scheduled to tee off included first round leader Marlene Bauer Hagge, whose red hot 69 was 6-under-par yesterday. Louise Suggs who fired a 72 and Marilynn Smith with 74.

Seven minutes earlier, Patty Berg with 71, Joyce Ziske with 73 and Gloria Fecht with 74 were on the starting tee for the second round.

Early amateur scores for the first nine holes showed Miss Midge Cova of Detroit with a 37.

Other scores were Mrs. Donald Watkins, Birmingham Country Club, 41; Mrs. J. G. Israel, Knollwood Country Club, 46; Mrs. S. W. Nunneley, Forest Lake Country Club, 45; Mrs. Phyllis Mehas of Pine Lake Country Club, 44; Mrs. J. O. McLaughlin, Country Club of Detroit, 45; Mrs. Hazel Heincelman, Twin Beach, 46; and Mrs. Evelyn Vershure, of Twin Beach, 54.

Another Unhappy Week

Pot-O-Gold Fills to $400, Hunt for Winner Goes On

"Well ... maybe next week."

This remark by a weary judge was the only glimmer of hope in the gloom that hung over the chair-tops of a room in which 3,167 POT-O-GOLD entries lay scattered and forlorn this morning.

Not one of them was good enough to earn its author a $300 prize.

In fact, just 3,015 of the completed forms in the pile got a good look from the judges, for alas!—40 others missed the Tuesday deadline. 168 came to us in envelopes and three lacked names and addresses.

And one (whose sender perhaps feels that "one newspaper is as good as another") was addressed to some character called "Banana Joe" or something. He doesn't live here.

But, there's always a next time in the Press' fascinating summer word game. The jackpot now jumps to $400, plus another $25 if our first winner is a subscriber of record.

Unsuccessful entrants can redeem themselves — in their own eyes and ours — by turning to page 24 of today's Press where the last copy of Puzzle No. 4 appears. And because we want a winner so badly we have included a list of words which includes all you'll need to fill out a correct solution.

Pointers: Just read the rules included with the puzzle and remember that just because the letters are A, T and R the solution isn't necessarily RAT—it could be TAR.

There'll be other weeks, of course. But — please! — won't someone take that $400 off our hands? That pot is getting too heavy for the janitor to move around when he cleans up the joint, and the clanking of unclaimed "gold" is driving us crazy.

Words for Puzzle No. 4 entrants: Axe, bat, bet, board, broad, buds, bulk, bunk, draw, dubs, foil, fool, gang, gong, hep, kiss, lap, nub, nut, pal, pan, pen, pep, pet, plant, pun, rep, skin, slant, smug, snoop, snug, spoon, tab, tax and ward.

Readers who want to torture themselves can turn to Page 12 for the answers to last week's puzzle.

Crazed Gunman Kills Teenager, Sisters-in-Law

Also Wounds Friend in Death Spree Directed at His Wife

WARREN, Ohio (INS)—A repentent suicide note was found today in an abandoned auto belonging to a crazed, Luger-toting gunman who killed his two sisters-in-law and a 16-year-old girl he kidnaped in his flight from Trumbull County, Ohio.

The auto belonging to 37-year-old Alfred Wilson, who murdered three persons in a midnight shooting spree, was found on a road one mile north of Windham in Portage County, a short distance from where the body of his kidnap victim, Nancy Worthington, was discovered earlier.

The suicide note found in the auto was addressed to his wife, Juanita, whom he said he wanted to kill in the first place.

A state highway patrolman explained that the note said Wilson "was sorry for killing the other three people" and for "causing all this trouble."

"Maybe I'll see you in another world," Wilson wrote to his wife, who barely escaped the fate of the three victims, including her sisters, 30-year-old Mrs. Geraldine Brown of Leavittsburg, Ohio and 33-year-old Mrs. Hazel Botts of nearby Courtland, Ohio.

* * *

Authorities converged on the Windham area in search of Wilson, not knowing whether he had carried out his threat to take his own life or was lurking in the woods ready to use the Luger that had wiped out three lives already.

AREA SCOURED

Bloodhounds were rushed to the scene and police began scouring the area with an airplane.

* * *

The body of the Worthington girl was found near Windham about 7 a.m., less than six hours after Wilson had snatched her away from two teenaged companions.

Coroner Dr. John Turner said she was shot in the left temple.

Guard Pilot Unhurt as Plane Hits Lake

A Keego Harbor National Guard pilot escaped without a scratch after being forced to make an emergency landing in Pine Lake, West Bloomfield Township, early last night.

Capt. Robert Scott, 36, was recovered by nearby fishermen before his single-engine craft sank in 35 feet of water. He said the plane hit the water at about 90 miles an hour and sank in one minute.

Scott was returning the plane to the Guard airstrip at Eight Mile road, Southfield Township when there was a muffled explosion and the engine quit at 3,000 feet.

The Army aviator, for the 46th Division Artillery, had taken off from Pontiac Municipal Airport shortly before the forced landing. The plane will be recovered.

Reservists Practice on McCoy Target Range

Reservists Working Hard--but Like It

By PETE LOCHBILER

If employers back home only knew!

Pontiac Army Reservists are working like beavers up at Camp McCoy, Wis. on two-weeks annual training duty, and enjoying every minute of it.

From commanding officer down to lowly recruit, everyone is pitching in, seemingly filled with the knowledge that he and his fellow reservists play the lion's share in our nation's projected defense program.

"I'm going to stay in this outfit from now on," is the way one 17-year-old recruit put it.

The reservists are members of the 703rd Tank Battalion, a unit of the 70th "Trailblazer" Division, mostly from Michigan, and part of the Fifth Army.

Area reservists train at the Pontiac reserve training center for two hours every Monday night and culminate the year's experience with summer camp.

For members of a tank outfit, this means driving one of the spectacular, lumbering M4's or M47's available at McCoy and firing its gun. Then reservists with specialties can turn to practice at other jobs.

But the outfit's senior "A" company stays in the field every day. It's members are practiced in tanks and are expected to take over every job — driving, loading the cannon, firing the cannon accurately and commanding the entire operation.

In 90-degree heat at McCoy performing these tasks every day are Sgt.'s Leo Nicholson, Charles T. Boberg, Walter A. Garlow and Harry E. Hague, helped by Specialists Bennie Bushell Jr., James Wright, Harry Peckham Jr. and Albert Biron.

But they have other jobs to do also. For instance Boberg is in charge of the mass of inter-com and inter-battalion radio installations in each tank, and Garlow is assigned to tank headquarters under the command of Capt. Robert V. Cissell.

Bushell and Peckham double as mechanics, specializing in repair of turrets in which the heavy cannons are mounted; while Biron spends much of his time training in radio repair and Wright learns how to tow damaged tanks out of a combat area.

Monroe Wedding Date Kept Secret

NEW YORK (AP)—Marilyn Monroe and Arthur Miller, the newest leap year leapers, kept their wedding date a lovers' secret today. But they let the world know it would be "before July 13" in either Connecticut or New York.

The oft-rumored romance between the blonde movie star and the Pulitzer prize-winning dramatist became official yesterday when Miller picked an unusual locale to disclose their wedding plans.

He announced it to reporters during a brief recess in his testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities in Washington.

Marilyn, vacationing in New York, confirmed the announcement in a terse press statement and later at a news conference in the hallway outside her fashionable apartment.

ADMITTED RED TIES

Miller acknowledged to the committee that he supported Communist-dominated causes in the early 1940s because "it suited the mood I was in." But that's all past and gone, he said, hoping the State Department would change its mind and grant him a passport so he can accompany his bride to London. Marilyn leaves July 13 to make a movie with Sir Laurence Olivier.

Both said the wedding will be in either New York City or Roxbury, Conn., where Miller has a nine-room house on a 26-acre plot.

The blue-eyed Miss Monroe met the press in a skin-tight, sleeveless black jersey, cut low fore and aft, a black skirt, black pumps and a black cape.

She fluttered her long eyelashes and said "no comment" when asked about Miller's appearance before the committee.

But on the subjects of love and life, she provided a variety of candidly wide-eyed, innocent answers that have become a Monroe trademark in the movie industry.

Was she planning to have any children? — I'm not married yet."

What kind of weddings did she like? — "Any kind."

What quality about Miller attracted her? — "Everything, have you seen him?"

Who proposed first? "Well," said Marilyn, smiling her traditional wet-lipped smile, "I guess he sort of initiated it, but you could say it was simultaneous."

Midway through the interview, Miller suddenly stepped out of an elevator and hurried into the apartment, brushing off a barrage of questions. Marilyn, returning inside to greet him, later told reporters he was tired after the trip to Washington and had nothing to say.

MM'S THIRD MARRIAGE

It will be the third marriage for the comely orphan girl who rose to cinema fame on the strength of a nude calendar photograph and a series of dumb-blonde roles. At 16, she married Jim Daugherty, a West Coast aircraft mechanic. The marriage ended quickly in a separation and then a divorce in 1946. In 1951, after hitting the box office heights, she married Joe DiMaggio, former New York Yankee baseball star, and divorced him nine months later.

Miller, 41, won the New York drama critics award with "All My Sons" in 1944, and both the critics award and the Pulitzer prize with "Death of a Salesman" in 1948.

Wilson Raps Air Power Debate

Pick Successor to Sen. Barkley

Kentucky Road Head Robert Humphreys Will Serve Interim Term

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. A. B. Chandler today appointed highway commissioner Robert Humphreys to serve in the U.S. Senate until the general election in November.

Chandler said he "had not intended" to appoint anyone immediately, but had been advised an important defense bill is coming up in the Senate next Monday.

• • •

Humphreys, 61, has been a close adviser to Chandler. He said he would fly to Washington Saturday night.

• • •

The governor named Bert Kiser, 47, Olive Hill, as highway commissioner. Kiser has been deputy commissioner.

The announcement was made at a news conference with the governor, Humphreys, Kiser and Joe Leary.

Chandler had appointed Leary to serve in the interim period Monday, but yesterday Leary declined to serve, saying it was not in the best interest of party harmony.

The Democratic State Central Committee Tuesday nominated former Gov. Lawrence Wetherby to run for the four years remaining in the unexpired term of the late Alben W. Barkley.

The Republicans delayed selecting a nominee to oppose Wetherby in the November election.

The union has asked for a "substantial" wage increase, a 52-week layoff pay program, double time for Sunday work, time and a half for Saturdays, company-paid insurance and other benefits. It has been offered the layoff pay among other things.

The current contract expires at midnight June 30. Great Lakes offered the union the same plan the industry's "big three" presented to the USW in their current negotiations.

Two Babies Injured in Three-Car Crash

A baby boy, 3 months, and his sister, 18 months, received minor injuries in a three-car pileup yesterday afternoon.

Howard and Ivonne Rocheleau, children of Ernest Rocheleau of Clarkston, were released after treatment for slight cuts and bruises, authorities at Pontiac General Hospital said.

The driver, Mrs. Marie A. Rocheleau, 35, of 743 Bigham Ave. was not injured when her car rammed the rear of another on W. Walton boulevard at New York avenue, Pontiac police said.

The second car in turn rammed the rear of the third car, stopped for a traffic light, police said.

The first shipment of voting machines for use in the coming August primary in Pontiac arrived in the city yesterday.

The 25 machines, arriving by truck from Jamestown, N. Y. will be followed by another 55 by next week according to City Clerk Ada R. Evans.

After the trial, it will be up to the commissioners to decide whether to purchase the machines at $1,355 each with the rental price to be applied to the cost.

Man Wishing Wells to Aid Auditorium

The Junior Chamber of Commerce seeks pennies to promote fund-raising for a civic auditorium in 1961.

Starting tomorrow and continuing for four weekends, JayCee members will man cardboard "wishing-wells" at four downtown locations.

The idea is, pennies tossed in by passers-by will be a reminder that the venture is publically supported and lacking in funds.

Locations this weekend will be at the county court house, S. S. Kresge department store, Community National Bank and at the Pontiac State Bank.

The wells will be moved on the following weekends to Kinsel's drug store, Waite's department store, Sears Roebuck and Company and to Federal's department store.

Too Old at 90— Marries at 89

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—A man 90 years old is too old to get married, says Jim Teilborg, so he's getting married tomorrow — one day before his 90th birthday. His bride-to-be is also 89.

Teilborg and Mrs. Annettie Hendershot, both widowed, met two months ago at a rest home. And that's where they'll live after the ceremony tomorrow.

"Some people might say we're in too much of a hurry," Mrs. Hendershot said yesterday when the couple applied for a marriage license. "But we like each other very much and I think we'll get along just fine."

Senate Efforts Called 'Phony'

Defense Chief Declares Red Bombers Cannot Match U.S. Jets

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson, tagging as "phony" Senate efforts to increase Air Force funds, has left open the question of whether he would use the extra money if it is voted.

Wilson delivered his judgment of the money-boosting proposals during a news conference last night at this Marine Corps base where many of the nation's top military officials are gathered for the fourth annual "Secretaries' Conference."

After the "phony" remark came out, Wilson apparently felt it may have been too strong. "Well, maybe I shouldn't have said it," he told newsmen.

However, he added he "would just like to see the people that vote for the expenditure, vote for the taxes to produce the money to pay for it, the same people, stand up and be counted."

In Washington, some 30 miles to the northeast, the Senate yesterday took up a defense money bill totaling $34,938,000,000. Debate on the measure was suspended today to allow consideration of a bill to extend the Defense Production Act. Voting on the defense bill is expected next week.

Wilson's "phony" comment was aimed at a Senate Appropriations Committee recommendation to add $1,160,000,000 to President Eisenhower's budget requests for bases. Asked about a compromise proposal by Sen. Bridges (R-NH) to limit the increase to 500 million dollars, Wilson said: "I look at it the same way."

When newsmen asked Wilson what he would do if Congress voted the extra Air Force money, the defense secretary said he would "cross that bridge" when he came to it. "But at the moment I don't think I need it," he added.

Opening debate on the huge defense measure, Sen. Chavez (D-NM) called for its approval as the best way of "maintaining our air superiority" over Soviet Russia.

The Senate bill contains $1,300,000,000 more than the House voted for the Army, Navy, Air Force and other defense agencies. Because of Senate committee reductions in non-Air Force requests, it totals only $36 millions above the Eisenhower defense budget.

On another Air Force subject, Wilson yesterday disputed reports that the Bison, Russia's long range jet powered bomber, is a better craft than this country's strategic bomber, the all-jet B52.

Wilson said the B52 is "greatly superior" to the Bison, both in altitude and range.

He also challenged statements that the Bison is an imminent menace to American cities. He told reporters he didn't believe the Bison could reach American cities without refueling from tanker planes—and he said there is no evidence the Red air force has such tankers.

Wilson said "the popular impression is that the B52 and the Bison are about equal," adding that "is not true at all."

Here, Wilson seemed to be in conflict with Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air Command. LeMay told a Senate armed services subcommittee a few weeks ago that "if our estimates as to the performance characteristics of the Bison are accurate, then it is comparable to our B52."

LeMay is attending the meeting here. He was not at Wilson's news conference.

Wilson also said that in testimony about B52 production "Gen. LeMay acted like he didn't know what our plans are."

LeMay had testified concerning a production rate of 17 B52s a month. Wilson said "we already had planned more than he used in his figures."

Wilson said Gen. Nathan F. Twining, the Air Force chief of staff, had agreed with him that B52s can be produced at the rate of 20 a month under the program contemplated by the Eisenhower administration budget request.

The defense secretary also stressed he has no idea of changing the B52 production schedule, saying:

"I think we have a good program now that should be followed."

MSU Plans Increase in Driving Teachers

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University expects to train 125 new driver education teachers this summer under a program stimulated by the 1955 legislative enactment.

A six weeks summer session, two workshops for beginning teachers and an advanced workshop for present driver education teachers have been scheduled to meet growing needs for additional teachers.

The Legislature voted to require all public high schools to provide driver education for their students, greatly increasing demand for trained teachers.

Classes for the six week summer session for new teachers will begin June 28. All courses will carry graduate or undergraduate credit.

Orders Officers 'Wear Civvies'

Wilson Directive for Washington Area Brings Rush of Protests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson has issued an order directing that military officers on duty in government departments in the Washington area shed their uniforms July 1 and wear civilian clothes while on duty.

The order has thrown the Pentagon into something of a tizzy. An official said privately that strong opposition has already developed among service officers and that their feeling has been transmitted to the White House.

For junior officers, particularly reservists serving two or three years of active duty, the order poses something of a financial crisis. As one said, "I've put $500 into uniforms it appears I won't need, and about all the civilian clothes I have now are sports clothes."

The order, dated June 21, was addressed to the secretaries of the Army, the Navy and the Air Force and was distributed late yesterday.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) told a reporter he understood the "idea behind it is to try to play down the role of the military in our government and the extremely large number in evidence in this capital."

But Mansfield said this would "be a mistake" because "in a government such as ours, we should have a daily reminder of the influence of the military in our government."

Pentagon records show that 10,949 officers are assigned to departmental services out of a total of 20,387 in the Greater Washington area. This includes the District of Columbia, the Virginia cities of Alexandria and Falls Arlington and Fairfax and the Church, the Virginia counties of Maryland counties of Montgomery and Prince Georges.

Waives Examination on Bad Check Count

Gordon F. Wakefield, 37, of Royal Oak, waived examination in Justice Court yesterday on a charge of cashing checks without an account and was lodged in the Oakland County Jail.

He failed to post a $1,000 bond after the arraignments before Allen C. Ingle, of Farmington Township.

Wakefield will be arraigned in county Circuit Court June 25 on a charge of issuing a false $20 check at a Southfield Township shopping center May 2.

He was arrested Wednesday by Redford State Police. State police detectives reported Wakefield had allegedly cashed four checks without account at the same store during the May 2-4 period.

Detain Three Youths in Theft of Motor

Two county residents were being held in Oakland County Jail and another was in the Juvenile Home today awaiting investigation on a grand larceny charge.

Arthur Bentley, 17, of Keego Harbor, and Charles Welch, 19, of Novi Township, are being held in jail.

They were arrested early this morning after allegedly taking an outboard motor from a boat on Pine Lake in West Bloomfield Township. Township police said one of the boys had admitted the theft.

Base GOP Parley Plans on Assumption Ike to Run

WASHINGTON (AP)—Working on the assumption that President Eisenhower will run again, a committee on arrangements meets today to approve final plans for the Republican National Convention.

• • •

The 46-member committee, headed by GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, expects no direct word from Eisenhower, who is recuperating from an operation in Walter Reed Hospital.

• • •

The GOP arrangements group faced the task of picking a keynoter and other officials for the convention opening in San Francisco Aug. 20.

• • •

It also was expected to debate a proposal to shorten the convention from four to three days, a step looking to the quick approval of an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket, with Vice President Nixon again in the second spot.

San Francisco officials have been strong for sticking to the four day schedule lest the city lose financially. San Francisco businessmen have contributed $150,000 toward convention expenses and the city has given $100,000 out of its treasury.

• • •

Several dozen names have been recommended for convention keynoter, including those of several women. Selection of a woman would set a precedent.

• • •

Sens. Saltonstall (Mass) and Dirksen (Ill) and Rep. Halleck (Ind) are among legislators mentioned, while governors include Christian A. Herter (Mass), William G. Stratton (Ill), George N. Craig (Ind), and Arthur B. Langlie (Wash). Douglas McKay, former secretary of the Interior now running for the Senate in Oregon, also has been proposed, as has U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

• • •

Women's names mentioned in the speculation include Clare Boothe Luce, ambassador to Italy; Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (Maine); Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, U.S. treasurer; and several House members.

The arrangements group planned a closed session at a downtown hotel. The entire morning was to be given over to reports from nine subcommittees which have been working on technical details of the convention for many months.

State Liquor Chairman Subpoenaed in Probe

LANSING (AP) — Frank Blackford, chairman of the State Liquor Control Commission, was subpoenaed today to appear before a special Senate committee investigating the agency.

Williams denied that he was "uneasy" about the investigation. He said he simply feels the action "out-McCarthys McCarthy."

The Day in Birmingham

Discuss Baseball Tourney for Youth on 9 Saturdays

BIRMINGHAM—Teams of boys will be playing invitational tournament baseball on Birmingham's Eton Park Field for nine Saturdays this summer, if city commissioners concur with the Recreation Board.

The games will be telecast.

Granting of permission was authorized last night by the City Recreation Board, providing maintenance beyond a regular game is paid for by the Little League or WWJ-TV, co-sponsors.

Participants will be teams invited from the Detroit area, which includes Port Huron teams, in the Little League plan.

Fencing for the "iron horse" planned for Eton Park was voted down by recreation members last night, but permitting the locomotive's placement was approved.

• • •

Coyt Allee indicated he would carry his dissent to no-fencing to the city. He feels safety would not be possible if children were allowed free access to a retired locomotive.

Crowded swimming pools were reported by Robert Girardin, recreation director, as he summed up the week's start of summer activities. About 450 boys and 270 girls participated in first swimming programs. But radio and dramatics may be dropped, since only eight enrolled.

Eton Park's use increases each day, with the new tennis courts especially popular, he says.

A representative of the National Recreation Assn. will visit here Monday to furnish ideas for the 66-acre area near the high school.

• • •

Reaching 2200 parents through talks at Parent-Teacher Assns. and 6,000 school children through pamphlets, Chief Ralph Moxley concluded his warning campaign this week.

With local concern over sex deviates who try to entice youngsters into cars, the campaign sought to educate children to not only beware but to take license numbers of cars of offenders.

Only two or three incidents were reported during the past few months when the system was in force, Moxley says, but in each case much more information was furnished than in other years. "We feel we have educated the children on this problem," he says.

Pamphlets, paid for by Exchange Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary clubs, went to public school children just before vacation, and remainder of a new 10,000 re-printing will go to parochial schools this fall.

Other communities are copying Birmingham's warning systems.

• • •

Dwight Baldwin, boosting for a locomotive in Eton Park, says the railroad brought Birmingham's change from industrial to residential type of community. Foundries were found in this isolated community in the early 1800's, but the train's coming, along with disastrous fires in the industrial area, caused the swing to residential, he says.

• • •

Past Chiefs of the Pythian Sisters end their club season tonight with an 8 p.m. meeting at Mrs. Bill Findley's home, 133 Farnum, Royal Oak.

• • •

Gerald F. Hines

Gerald F. Hines, 52, 762 Colonial Court, died suddenly yesterday at his home of a coronary attack.

Here 15 months, he came from Philadelphia. He was sales representative for Republic Steel Company.

Surviving are his wife, Alma, and two brothers, Marvin and Francis, both of Rock Island, Ill.

His body will be sent to the Leo J. Sauer Funeral Home, Buffalo, N. Y., from Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Company.

Ohioan Kills Three, Pens Suicide Note

and the bullet came out the back of her head.

Also shot in the bizarre affair was 40-year-old Emmett Denison, a Warren, Ohio, man described by police as a friend of Wilson's. Denison was released from the hospital and is being held as a material witness by Trumbull County sheriff's deputies.

• • •

A multi-state alarm was sounded for Wilson after the slayings.

Trumbull County sheriff's deputies said Wilson's death spree started shortly before midnight when he shot his sister-in-law, Mrs. Brown, in her Leavittsburg home. She was shot in front of the left ear.

10-YEAR RECORD

Wilson, who has a criminal record dating back to 1946 and currently was free on $100 bond on an assault charge, then headed for nearby Courtland, where his wife, Juanita, was staying with her sister, Mrs. Botts.

• • •

Authorities said that while on the way to Courtland, Wilson spotted Denison driving another auto with Wilson's 10-year-old son in it.

He forced Denison to stop the car and then ordered him and the boy out of the auto. He fired one shot at Denison, striking him in the right arm, and the boy fled. Denison staggered into a field and Wilson chased him, beating him with his fists.

Wilson returned to his car and drove into Courtland. Mrs. Wilson looked out the window and saw him coming. She herded Mrs. Botts' three young children into the bathroom and locked the door.

• • •

When Mrs. Botts came out of the bedroom Wilson fired two shots through the window, both of them hitting her in the chest, killing her instantly.

The berzerk gunman returned to his auto and started back for Leavittsburg, about five miles away.

• • •

On the Kale Adams road, he spotted a parked auto bearing the Worthington girl, 17-year-old Tom Heidelberg of Champion, Ohio, and 17-year-old Arthur Johnson of Warren.

At gunpoint, he forced them out of the car and ordered the Worthington girl into his auto and sped off. That was the last time she was seen alive.

Speediest Golden Jetliner to Travel at 609 M. P. H.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The newest entry in the race for the jet age commercial market is a 609 m.p.h. airliner that will be gold in color instead of the conventional silver.

Plans for the new plane, to be called the "Golden Arrow," were announced Wednesday by industrialist Howard Hughes and the heads of Delta Airlines, Convair and General Electric.

* * *

Convair, a division of General Dynamics Corp., will build the airframes, General Electric will supply the engines and Delta Airlines and Trans World Airlines, a Hughes Tool Co. subsidiary, will fly the planes.

* * *

The plane, described as the world's fastest jet airliner, is being designed for the medium range market, it was announced. Both Douglas and Boeing are already at work on 550 m.p.h. long range jetliners and Lockheed is working on a medium range plane.

The new craft will be able to fly from Los Angeles to Chicago in 3 hours, 24 minutes; from Chicago to Miami in 2 hours, 22 minutes and from Chicago to New York in 1 hour, 33 minutes, it was announced.

* * *

The planes are expected to be ready for delivery in late 1959. TWA has ordered 30 and Delta 10. The combined contracts were said to be more than two hundred million dollars.

Fabric Still in Use for Modern Aircraft

LIMESTONE, Maine (AP) — You may have thought fabric-covered aircraft went out with prohibition. But some of the biggest and most modern planes have fabric on their control surfaces, such as ailerons, rudders and elevators.

* * *

Loring Air Force Base in Limestone, one of the nation's largest, has a field maintenance squadron that keeps busy repairing the fabric on 45 huge KC-97 aerial tankers which refuel fighters and bombers in the air.

* * *

The maintenance men have a machine, that tells when the fabric is wearing too thin for safety. Then all the old fabric is replaced. It takes five coats of clear dope and two coats of aluminum dope—with plenty of sanding between—to put a flyable finish on the new control surface.

Dutch Exodus Seen Ready for Canada

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—A Dutch newsman says about 20,000 Netherlanders are expected to move to Canada next year and join 120,000 of their former countrymen who have emigrated since World War II.

* * *

Harry Vanderlek, a 24-year-old writer for the Daily Niewe Apeldernse Courant in Apeldeern, Gelder Province, recently completed a four-week tour of new Dutch settlements in Canada.

He said his countrymen are leaving their crowded homeland by the thousands in favor of Canada's vast prairies and bustling cities. Vanderlek reports Canada is a natural attraction because of its new and growing industries, vast farmlands and liberal immigration policy.

Many Netherland residents would like to come to the United States, he adds, but are hampered by such restrictive immigration measures as the quota system and the Spenser Plan.

Canada has no such requirements, Vanderlek states.

Vanderlek hopes, after acquiring a better knowledge of the English language, to come to the United States for newspaper work. He is visiting at present with Mr. and Mrs. Douwe Wynia of Grand Rapids, relatives of his fiance.

Flood Victims' Protests Heard by Commission

With obvious sympathy for protesting victims, the City Commission heard about Pontiac's sudden flood problem and wisely decided to do something about it.

The protests came from residents of that section of the north side in which most damage was done by last Sunday's unprecedented four inch rain. An especially hard hit area was First Street, between Ivy and Laurel, and householders there were understandably insistent on corrective action.

★ ★ ★

As a result, the first step was taken toward an enlarged drainage system for Pontiac. Commissioner Miles moved that City Manager Willman review a 1947 engineer study of such a project and his colleagues unanimously supported it.

There isn't any doubt that those protesting have suffered serious inconvenience and loss. Neither is there any question about the need for better drainage. But, as City Manager Willman pointed out, the problem is not one that is susceptible of easy solution.

★ ★ ★

While that was of no comfort to the householders, it is hard to disagree with Mr. Willman's opinion that "there is no quick answer to this problem and the only relief is by a general obligation bond issue."

The Commissioners may not have cheered the audience by recalling that a part of the engineer plan was defeated at the polls three years ago. But flood sufferers should be reassured by the decision to review that 1947 project.

OTC Bill in Trouble

There is some bad political news for President Eisenhower on the House front.

Latest report is that the bill to make the United States a member of the Organization for Trade Co-operation (OTC), the Administration's key foreign trade measure of this session, is in trouble. Last ditch protectionists are said to be blocking it.

★ ★ ★

An indication of how important the President considers the bill can be found in a memorandum from Commerce Secretary Weeks. In it he told the Cabinet that creation of OTC is "absolutely essential" if American farmers, workers and industry are to get maximum benefits from reciprocal trade agreements.

★ ★ ★

Membership in OTC is important because it is an enforcement agency. It would give the United States a weapon against countries which use quotas and embargoes to discourage American imports. Other members are the 35 countries now belonging to the General Agreement on Tariff and Trade (GATT).

★ ★ ★

A poll shows fewer than 50 Republicans endorsing the bill, a hundred more ready to vote against it and another 50 unwilling to say where they stand. Naturally, it is to be hoped that enough foes of the bill will change their minds to insure its passage.

The truth is that OTC would help American exporters. It also would strengthen the free world economically at a time when Russia is aggressively pushing its new trade campaign.

New Drives Increase GM Truck Flexibility

What undoubtedly will be a popular improvement, four wheel drive on six basic models, has just been announced by GMC Truck and Coach Division.

In revealing this important innovation, Philip J. Monaghan, GMT general manager and GM vice president, was justifiably enthusiastic. He pointed out that it would be available as factory installed optional equipment on pickups, panels, suburban station wagons and stake trucks.

★ ★ ★

"This wide selection of truck types and engineering options," said Mr. Monaghan, "make our new four wheel drive vehicles the most flexible in the trucking industry."

The simplicity of operation is noteworthy. Shift of a separate lever into either high or low position sends power surging to the front wheels. With this drive, the trucks can climb very steep grades and plow through deep mud, sand and snow.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Monaghan's announcement is just another instance of why the trucks and buses turned out at the giant South Boulevard plant have such wide and steady sales appeal. The division's products sell because the men who design them never cease working to create better vehicles.

Michigan Takes Top Place With Current Honeymooners

Filing cabinet: A device for losing things alphabetically.

Niagara Falls no longer is the top honeymoon point. It is being replaced by Michigan. A check of 100 wedding notices in our own and other newspapers shows that 33 couples were bound for Michigan points, only 12 were Niagara bound, 11 went to New York City, 8 to "western points," 7 to "points east," 7 to other sections of our nation or Canada, and 22 of the notices did not state where the honeymooners were going. Incidentally, a couple who live at Niagara Falls, Ont., are spending their honeymoon with relatives in Pontiac, and seeing the many attractions we have in this area.

You're Just as Young as You Feel

David Lawrence Says:

Will Wealth Hurt Harriman?

WASHINGTON—If Gov. Averill Harriman of New York is nominated on the Democratic ticket, he will be the wealthiest man who ever ran for the presidency. Estimates of his fortune vary from $80,000,000 to $100,000,000, and some people in the financial world say this is on the low side.

When Harriman's father—E. H. Harriman, the railroad king—died about four years ago he left around $80,000,000 to his four children. So, if the New York governor inherited $20,000,000 when he was about 25 years old and hasn't increased that sum four or five times by careful investment since, he is an exception to the rule. The New York governor told a "Meet the Press" audience the other day on NBC television that he would gladly reveal his assets if it was considered desirable to have all candidates make such a disclosure.

The posesssion of such immense wealth may not be a handicap at all to Gov. Harriman—in fact, it may prove to his advantage. The average man in the electorate wants to see integrity and honesty in public office and, if it is known that a public official has a lot of money of his own, the immediate assumption is that he is above corruption.

TR'S VIEWPOINT

Theodore Roosevelt, after he left the White House, wrote an article for a magazine, of which he was contributing editor, saying that anyone who took a responsible position in government should have at least $100,000 in investments so that the income from it would be adequate irrespective of whether or not he was in public office. The theory was that a man who had an independent income could afford to be independent of wrong influences that might arise to try to sway his judgment in a governmental office. Those were the days when an income from $100,000 at six per cent was a lot of income so far as purchasing power went.

The normal prejudices in the electorate would be against a man of wealth if it be assumed that he has a viewpoint hostile to the man of low income. There aren't many men in America today who have such a viewpoint, though the use of the argument in class warfare remains because it has been found to be vote-getting demagoguery.

Gov. Harriman, on the other hand, has made it a point to criticize big business and powerful economic groups. He is known as more "radical" than Adlai Stevenson. The New York governor—whether because of a consciousness of wealth in a political sense or because he thought it was good politics in seeking the Democratic nomination — has painstakingly striven for the support of the labor unions. Having been an investment banker in Wall Street, Harriman says he has been in a position to know the weaknesses of his former brethren in finance. This may not be important now but, if a depression overtakes the country, presumably another "new deal" or "new vision," as Gov. Harriman calls it, might encompass some more reforms in the banking and business world.

AVE ASSUMING RADICALISM

What seems strange about Averill Harriman's strategy in assailing the "moderation" of Adlai Stevenson is that the New York governor or his advisers assume this is a period in which radicalism has a better chance than moderation. It might be the case in the preconvention battle inside a party which has a record like the Democratic party in recent years but, once the nomination is made, if Gov. Harriman is successful in winning it, he will probably find himself trying to woo the conservative or what has been called the "middle class" vote in the electorate. The large number of home-owning citizens and voters in the middle bracket has made this present era of prosperity one of conservatism, though perhaps "moderation" is the more euphemistic word to use for those who don't like "conservatism."

So it could be that, if Gov. Harriman is the Democratic nominee, his supporters will be found pointing to his large fortune with the argument that such a man would not sign legislation or take any action that would be inimical to the property-owning citizens of the country and that hence he might be regarded as a promoter rather than a destroyer of prosperity.

The "curse or riches" would seem to be less dangerous in politics today than it ever was. There are plenty of millionaires in the Democratic party in Congress. Taft, Hoover, Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt were all relatively rich men. Hoover gave most of his salary back to the treasury, and Harriman, if nominated and elected, might do the same.

DEMS SCORN Landon's plea to bolt FDR.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Make Certain You Learn How to Use Your Bellows

The third ingredient in my prescription for heart trouble is natural breathing. If you're curious about the other two ingredients, send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for the C V D booklet about heart and artery troubles. Can't use the limited space I have here reviewing what I said in earlier pieces in this series.

Even if you haven't any particular heart trouble, high blood pressure or poor circulation, torpid liver, cold feet, emphysema, asthma, dysmenorrhea, insomnia, varicose veins, bronchiectasis or hemorrhoids, reactivating your bellows can do you no harm and may do you good.

The word bellows is derived from the Anglo-Saxon belg, bag or, N. Webster says, belly.

Children would breathe as efficiently as savages do if parents and teachers did not make them try to expand the chest.

The trouble is that parents and teachers are usually ignorant of elementary anatomy and physiology, for when they were in school these subjects were regarded, if at all, with contempt, just as physical education is today.

Insurance companies today are no more concerned about chest expansion than about what the applicant uses, if anything, to brush his teeth.

In short, breathe with the bellows. Never mind the chest.

Natural breathing is the most efficient, not only while you are asleep or at rest or doing light work or play but also when you are exerting yourself to the utmost.

At any time or in any emergency where one needs more oxygen — say when angina pectoris impends—a few inflations of the bellows will relieve the distress as rapidly or more rapidly than that other emergency remedy, nitroglycerin. The purpose of both emergency remedies is the same—to bring a little more oxygen as soon as possible to the ischemic (blood deficient) area.

One authority advises the belly breathing exercise as routine in the treatment of chronic joint disability. Another recommends it for persons with winter cough (chronic bronchitis), bronchiectasis or emphysema.

As you ought to know by now, I'm no authority, just—I recommend belly breathing for everybody.

The bellows (belly) breathing exercise two or three times a day faithfully practiced according to instructions is in my opinion as important in the successful treatment of any kind of heart trouble as is graduated exercise and the real heart tonic which I recommend in place of digitalis.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Not All Teens in Favor of Presley Rock 'n' Roll

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

The other day I noticed an article by a fan of Elvis Presley. Now, as far as I'm concerned, anyone who classifies "shaky"' as an entertainer has no music appreciation.

I have heard more teenagers speak against him than for him. There is a great deal of difference between an entertainer and a fourth rate, so-called musician. Why, with hundreds of capable and good singers, such as Como, Fisher, Damone, cater to EP?

Concerning the comment about listening to G. Heatter, if the few who adore EP would dial in on Heatter, they would have a wider knowledge of the happenings in the world today.

I think it's an insult to even put the kid on radio. TV people wised up and censored "glamor boy" right off. How about the radio people doing the same?

Agrees With 'R. W.' About Highway 59

I fully agree with "R. W." in regards to highway 59. Police don't seem to pay any attention to the speeders and those who cut in and out of traffic lanes. You can well violate all speed and traffic rules, and if you do see an officer coming in an opposite direction, he just raises his hand in salutation.

No law and order in Huron Gardens, either. You can tell that right away as one stands on the corners trying to cross West Huron or South Telegraph. There is always someone inching his way ahead to beat the other fellow.

My motto too: "Drive slow through here or else you'll get a ticket." I've lived here 15 years and haven't even been asked to show my driver's license, with the exception of at the bank.

Why haven't the officers and city officials thought of construction of an overpass at West Huron and Telegraph while negotiating the Orchard Lake and Telegraph overpass?

Commies Outside Russia Criticize Kremlin Bosses

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

Strange things are happening in the Communist world.

* * *

Palmiro Togliatti, Italian Communist leader, has criticized the "collective leaders" in the Kremlin. So have French and other European Communists outside the Iron Curtain.

These are the same leaders who once obeyed dictator Stalin so much that they asserted publicly if war came it would find them on the side of the Soviet Union.

Togliatti, who in the old days had blasted Tito only to find things swiftly changed after Stalin died, says in effect that Soviet Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev is slipping a few mental cogs in his debunking of Stalin.

* * *

The Italian Red leader says that Khrushchev and his pals in the Kremlin must share the blame for the murderous mistakes made by Stalin since Khrushchev himself was a close ally in Stalin's days of power.

LAUGHS IT OFF

Khrushchev laughed it off in Moscow, telling reporters that he had not read the Togliatti statement but was sure the Italian Red had made "a good speech."

* * *

Some Italian anti-Communists think that Togliatti is not only a puzzled Red, but a worried man who is losing his hold on Italy's huge leftist faction.

They think Moscow might back Pietro Nenni, left-wing Socialist, as the next favored man in Italy because of his showing in the recent elections.

French Communists also appear to be angered at the anti-Stalin speech in February by Khrushchev, the details of which they did not learn direct from Moscow but through the U. S. State Department's recent publication.

* * *

The French Reds said in their Politburo statement that it was unjust to cast all the blame on Stalin for "all that was negative in the activity of the Communist Party in the Soviet Union."

MORE INFORMATION

The implication is that they want more information from Khrushchev and that Khrushchev and his associates were in a position to stop the one-man ruthless rule of Stalin, the man they so belatedly denounce after his 1953 death.

* * *

British and American Communist newspapers also have criticized Moscow's successors to Stalin.

And after Togliatti's blast, other Reds have joined the chorus. Prague Radio on Tuesday praised what they called Togliatti's "political and theoretical effort to weigh Stalin's policy in the light of a given historical perspective."

The Czechoslovakian Red broadcast recorded Togliatti's plea for more information on Stalin's "errors."

And it is believed to be the first station behind the Iron Curtain to refer to the so-called "secret report" in which Khrushchev called Stalin a demented mass murderer.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Dr. Crane Says 'Feign', Wives

Mabel is partly at fault for the dangerous marital condition confronting her. But her husband likewise has the wrong notion about woman's sex desires. A normal wife is about 25 per cent sweetheart and 75 per cent maternal. Her husband, however, is about 75 per cent sweetheart and only 25 per cent paternal.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case R-389: Mabel G., aged 42, is a very attractive wife with three children in school.

"Dr. Crane, we don't get along very well," her husband glumly admitted.

"Mabel is so interested in the children and the PTA and her church work that she is indifferent much of the time regarding physical affection.

"It makes me angry, so I bawl her out as a frigid wife. Oh, I admit I am caustic and hypercritical.

"But if she'd show as much interest as I do in marital relations, all would be wonderful. What's wrong with Mabel?"

THE FRIGID SEX

Mabel is acting about like the normal wife. For women are not passionate creatures as measured by the masculine standard.

A woman might be considered to be about 25 per cent "sweetheart" and 75 per cent "maternal" in her make-up.

In contrast, the normal male is about 75 per cent "sweetheart" and only 25 per cent "paternal."

During courtship, the difference is not too evident, for novelty and mystery whet the girl's 25 per cent. Moreover, she is able to sublimate some of her 75 per cent maternal interests by "mothering" her boy friend in roundabout ways, as by sewing on loose buttons or manicuring his nails, etc.

But after a year or two of marriage, when the newness wanes and their marriage levels off on its basic pattern, she begins to make the shift to her home and children.

As they grow older and she becomes involved in many civic, church and PTA affairs, she may show scarcely a 10 per cent interest in physical ardor.

* * *

She then mothers her husband about as much as she does her children, and her kisses for him are scarcely more romantic than those she bestows on her youngsters.

PONCE DE LEON MALES

But her husband is doubly conscious of sexual matters after the age of 40, for he is secretly fearful lest he lose his vigor.

And his very fear may undermine his ardor so that he becomes a victim of his own dread. Most impotence in males after 40 is above the eyes.

It is due to a defeatism complex based on their secret fear! And unless the physician can command great prestige in their eyes, the patient can consume testerone shots by the hundreds without a change in his sexual ardor.

For the mind can beat all such injections!

The "Ponce de Leon Complex" in males applies to those men who have become panicky about waning ardor, but who have found that the novelty of a clandestine affair with a younger woman, then restores them functionally.

For a time thereafter they may be emotionally berserk. They may humiliate their wives and children and disregard their former moral standing in the community.

* * *

Mentally they are still able to handle their jobs, but in the realm of their emotions, they may go haywire.

If you wives will just fein more ardor, especially after your husband passes the age of 40, you can keep him devoted forever!

Send for my booklet "Sex Differences Between Men and Women," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents in coin.

It will clarify man's mistaken notion about women's sex ardor and thus stop much caustic criticism now coming from embittered husbands who don't understand woman's modest sex desire.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Bob Considine Says:

New Film Inspires Collection of Naval Lore

NEW YORK (INS)— In connection with the impending opening of Universal-Inetrnational's film "Away All Boats," a pal digs up some alarmingly diverse items on navies and naval terms, gear, etc. Like these.

* * *

The first sailors to sail at night were the Phoenicians. Bosun pipes have been used since the Crusades. Henry VIII designed the one chiefly used now, while Prince of Wales and serving in the Royal Navy.

Columbus' discovery of American cost $2,115—paid out for wages, ammunition, food and outfitting. He made $250 a year as an admiral.

Nobody knows who wrote the words to the Marine Hymn. The first U.S. Navy Band was a string quartet. Nobody made admiral until the Civil War. The word admiral comes from the Arabic "amir-al-bahr," or lord of the sea.

* * *

Columbus introduced hammocks into the world's navies. He saw Bahamans sleeping in them and borrowed the idea for his crew.

* * *

Taps comes from a Dutch word "taptoe," meaning its time to close up the taverns and taps. The quarterdeck is saluted today by personnel coming aboard ship because Greek sailors put their idols there, a few eons ago.

'FEARS NOTHING'

Dreadnaught meant "fears nothing." The real star of U-I's "away All Boats" doesn't get billing. It's the USS Randall, the attack transport that plays the fictitious USS Belinda.

* * *

Julius Caesar invaded England with 600 ships. We give 21-gun salutes because we once fired a shot for every state in the union, and froze the salute in 1818 when the 21st state was admitted.

Fourteen Congressional Medals of Honor, 10 of them posthumous, were award for bravery during the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

The man responsibile for the action shots in "Away All Boats," Tom Tutweiler, shot most of thoes superb bomber sequences in "Strategic Air Command."

* * *

Son-of-a-gun comes from the day when sailors were allowed to take their wives along on certain voyages and children sometimes were born under the gun emplacements.

* * *

Congress was so pleased with Oliver Hazard Perry's naval victory on Lake Erie it awarded him and his crew $225,000 in prize money. The Maine took 267 down with it. "Away All Boats," detailing a great adventure in the South Pacific, was shot in the Atlantic.

IT'S NO JOKE

They laughed when the man sat down at the piano and told a joke about the Fuller Brush Company. But the company is no laughing matter, nor is its founder and chairman of the board, Alfred C. Fuller.

* * *

Fuller told the recent 42nd annual convention of the National Association of Direct Selling Companies in Chicago that direct selling changed American living strikingly.

Its target is the American housewife, the nation's most important purchasing agent, he went on. It is growing, this direct selling method, rather than decreasing.

Many large companies use it as a complement to the sales of their established retail houses. Fuller added that his own people reach as many as 30,000,000 homes annually.

* * *

Excuse me, somebody's ringing the doorbell.

Oops, my wife answered it.

LABEL IT 'HOAX'

I'm no science fiction buff, and believe that any literature or film about "flying saucers" should be plainly labeled "hoax" or "hallucination."

* * *

But here is a plug for "Forbidden Planet," Metro's venture into inter-stellar exploration.

Here is some of the most arresting imagination at play. It is so wonderfully schemed you don't see the wires and seldom hear the clank of the script.

Divorce Is Granted to Judge's Wife

FLINT (AP) — A divorce was granted Wednesday to Mrs. Francese Roth, wife of Genesee County Circuit Judge Stephen J. Roth.

* * *

The divorce was granted by Circuit Judge Fred N. Searl of Grand Rapids on a cross bill of complaint filed by Mrs. Roth.

Roth originally charged cruelty and Mrs. Roth countered with the same charge, stating the judge had left her and the two Roth children "upwards of 175 times from periods of one night to as long as six weeks within the last ten years."

Included in the terms was a provision that Roth pay $300 monthly alimony for their children, aged 9 and 12, until they turn 18 or finish high school and that he pay $115 a month alimony to Mrs. Roth for the next two years plus $1,000 of her attorney's fee.

Library Won't Collect $180 on Overdue Books

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP)—An absent-minded professor returned two books to the Victoria Public Library 12 years overdue.

Library officials said the fines would total about $180 but no attempt will be made to collect.

The unidentified professor borrowed the books while he was teaching armed forces personnel here in 1944. They were left in his own collection of books when he left and recently caught up with him at the University of London.

There are half a million members of Parent-Teacher Societies in Pennsylvania.

The bulletin board at the Plaza Hotel recently carried an interesting announcement of a meeting of the Rubber Bureau. It said, in code, "Meting-Ruber Buraua-Rm. 115."

JUNIOR EDITORS

DINOSAURS AND CAVE KIDS — 5
Stone Age Girl

Here is a girl of the Stone Age, holding a big fish caught by her brother, whom you will meet tomorrow.

With her knife of chipped stone the girl will cut off and throw away the head and other parts that are not good for eating. Then she will cook the fish over the fire burning among the stones.

By the end of the Stone Age man had made many necessary tools and weapons. He lit his cave dwellings with pine torches, cooked his food and warmed himself with open fires, and made fur clothing to wear in cold weather. He worked with others like him to get food and defend himself against beasts and other tribes.

In the world today there are still a few races — such as the aborigines of Australia—who have not developed far beyond Stone Age standards.

Color this picture with crayons, using bright yellow and orange for the fire, green for the fish, and purple for the flowers. The girl is well tanned as she lives a great deal in the open air. Cut out carefully, and fold the front panel forward and fold the support back so it will stand.

(Jane Duck, Lynchburg, Va., wins $10 with this idea. Send in your suggestion for Junior Editors care of this newspaper, and it will be worth $10 to you if it is used. Violet Moore Higgins, AP Newsfeatures.)

Woman Watches Thief Drive Off With Her Car

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (AP)—Miss Virginia Zimmerman arrived on the scene just as a strange man drove off in her parked car. An obliging locksmith had opened the vehicle after the man said he had lost his keys.

State police later arrested John Moore, 35, as he drove the car on Rt. 35 in Raritan Township near Keyport. They charged him with theft of a motor vehicle.

Bolivian Chief Faces Troubles

Inflation Mounting Up, Mines Not Paying Off, Peasants Dissatisfied

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Bolivia's president-elect Hernan Siles Zuazo has anything but a rosy path before him.

He must find a way to end the inflation crippling Bolivia's economy, reorganize the government-operated tin mines — biggest source of the country's wealth—to make them pay, and find productive land for thousands of impoverished and resentful peasants.

* * *

He is certain to be fought not only by the conservative Falange party and both orthodox and Trotskyite Communists but also by factions within his own National Revolution party.

Siles Zuazo is 42. His mild, schoolteacherish appearance and manner and short stature belie his strong leadership. He masterminded the 1952 revolution which overthrew a military junta and brought Victor Paz Estenssoro back from exile to be president.

* * *

Inflation has dropped the exchange rate on the boliviano from 200 to 6,700 to $1. Siles Zuazo's party sees a remedy in diversified industry and continued development of oil fields in southern Bolivia. It hopes to end economic dependence on the tin mines, but foreign investment will be required. That is a sure way for any South American government to provoke howls of protest.

* * *

Siles Zuazo hopes to develop now idle but fertile lands in the Santa Cruz area, but that will mean big expenditures.

While the new president attempts to carry out his program and for many years to come, Bolivia will be dependent on U.S. aid.

Harriman Schedules 3-State Western Tour

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Averell Harriman of New York will carry his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination into Iowa, Minnesota and North Dakota in a three-day speaking sortie June 30 to July 2.

* * *

The governor's office announced Harriman would be in Iowa City June 30 for a breakfast meeting with delegates to the Democratic national convention. He will then visit Oxford and Des Moines.

* * *

On July 1 Harriman will fly to Montevideo, Minn. The next day he will have breakfast with convention delegates and local Democratic candidates in Fargo, N.D., lunch with delegates in Cavalier, N.D., and spend the night in Minneapolis.

He is slated to return to New York City July 3.

At the beginning of 1955 the value of U.S. farm machinery and motor vehicles was 26 per cent above 1950.

Civil Defense Charges Aired

'No Effective Planning' From Administration, Says Harriman

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Gov. Averell Harriman charged today in testimony before a House subcommittee that the Eisenhower administration has failed to come up with "a realistic effective plan for civil defense."

* * *

Harriman testified at a civil defense hearing of the House subcommittee on military operations.

"The present national administration," he said in a prepared text, "has failed to recognize the enormously increased responsibilities for civil defense which are imposed on it under today's conditions and has failed to exercise the necessary leadership, either in a Congress or before the people."

Harriman, a contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, said it "is absurd that we are today operating under the Civil Defense Act of 1950 which leaves primary responsibility of civil defense to the states and the communities.

* * *

"In the intervening six years, many of the basic concepts of warfare have changed. The range of blast damage from a single nuclear weapon has increased from an area of 50 square miles to an area of 1250 square miles. The dangerous effects of radioactive fall - out from a hydrogen bomb explosion covers huge areas, as large as several states."

Propaganda Weapon Lost as Financial Ax Falls on Berlin News Sign

BERLIN (INS)—One of the free world's most effective weapons against Communist propaganda in Berlin has been doomed by a cut in the U.S. Information Service budget.

* * *

This hardy veteran of the cold war—the famed electric news sign on Potsdamer Platz—stands right on the border of Communist East Berlin.

Every night for more than five years, it has flashed news of the free world across the Iron Curtain to residents of East Berlin.

* * *

Although it resisted all sorts of Communist attacks, including mobs which tried to tear it down, the news flasher sign—which resembles the one of New York's Times Square—will be darkened permanently on July 1.

BUDGETARY REASONS

The United States Information Agency in Washington decided to discontinue operating the sign for budgetry reasons. It costs $12,000 a year to run.

(In Washington, the U.S.I.A. said the decision was made in line with its policy of cutting expenditures in Europe in order to expand its operations in the Middle East and Asia.)

* * *

West Berlin civic leaders and the West Berlin Publishers Association protested the American decision.

They argued that if the sign was turned off the Reds would gain a propaganda victory the west could ill afford.

Erected in October 1950, the sign was used to give East Berliners a chance to get news from the West.

When crowds of easterners gathered on the Platz to read the free news the first night, the Reds immediately fought to demolish the sign.

First, Communist firemen tried to flush the sign away with high pressure fire hoses. But the sign kept blinking out news. It had been waterproofed.

"AMERICANS GO HOME"

Then the reds brought up a sound truck with records shouting: "Americans go Home." Amused Berliners stood laughing while they continued reading the free news.

Some time later, the Communists put up a similar electric news sign in the middle of Potsdamer Platz. But it was too small to block the view of the western sign.

So the Reds erected a huge canvas screen shutting off the Western sign from Eastern eyes.

Before they had hardly finished gloating over this triumph, the Westerners were throwing anti-Soviet movies on the "Eastern Screen." It was removed in hurry.

In the following years, the Reds several times sent screaming mobs of Communist toughs who tried to rip down the news sign. But West Berlin police managed to fight them off.

Cobo to Start Stumping in Southwest Michigan

DETROIT (INS)—Mayor Albert E. Cobo will make his first major bid for out-state votes for the Republican governor nomination tomorrow in a jaunt through seven Southwest Michigan communities.

The trip will begin early tomorrow morning with Cobo flying to South Haven followed by a noon speech and a luncheon in Benton Harbor. A dinner meeting will be held in Niles.

Under tentative plans Cobo will make one final stop in Gaylord after his Niles appearance. During the day he will also be in Berrien Springs, Dowagiac and St. Joseph.

Cobo's aides said the trip would be an old-fashioned stumping affair with handshakes, parades through town and speeches.

2 Traffic Counters Stolen From Road

The Oakland County Road Commission was missing two traffic counters valued at $375 apiece today, it was reported by Detective Leo Hazen of the county Sheriff's Department.

He said the counters were taken from the opposite sides of Drake road at the intersection of 13 Mile road, Farmington Township, sometime between Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning.

Each weighed approximately 85 pounds. Two other similar counters in use at the same area were left behind, according to Hazen. He said the entire apparatus of the missing counters was taken. All four machines had been in use to record traffic at the intersection.

Lutherans Decline 'Organic Union' Bid

ST. PAUL (INS)—The Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church has declined an invitation to join two other bodies to form an "organic union" of all Lutherans in America.

In a voice vote yesterday of some 1,000 delegates to the St. Paul convention, the Synod rejected the bid almost unanimously, repeating its position that "organic union should not be considered before doctrinal unit has been established."

The delegates are attending the 43rd trienniel session of the Synod.

Michigan Book Adopted by Federal CD Agency

LANSING (AP) — A "Michigan food source book" to aid Civil Defense workers in finding emergency food has been adopted by the federal government as a model for similar books in other states.

The book was developed by the State Agriculture Department. It contains maps showing concentrations of food and dairy products which can be drawn on in the event of disaster.

The department said the Federal Civil Defense Agency has borrowed the Michigan book to help officials of other states draw up similar guides.

In 1950 about half of U.S. spending units (families and single people) had incomes under $3,000 a year compared with half under $4,000 a year in 1955.

Hits Legislature on Jobless Pay

Reuther Accuses State Solons of Shirking Task at Special Session

DETROIT (AP) — UAW President Walter Reuther today accused the State Legislature of failing to "face up" to the unemployment crisis and dealing a "cruel blow" to the thousands of jobless workers in Michigan.

His charge came after the Legislature, called into special session to consider the unemployment problem, recessed for the second time — this time until July 17.

"The Legislature was called into special session to decide whether present unemployment compensation benefits and duration should be increased," the UAW president said. "Now the Legislature has decided to delay action and to recess to see if more or less workers will become unemployed in the next few weeks."

Reuther said the number of unemployed is "not relevant to the question of inadequacy of benefits. If the benefits are inadequate, they are inadequate whether one or 100,000 are unemployed."

He said "optimistic statements" from auto industry officials on an expected rise in employment is of little value to currently unemployed workers "striving desperately to provide themselves and their families with food and housing."

Red-Faced Police Look for Stolen Microphone

OKLAHOMA CITY (INS)—Red-faced Oklahoma City police went all out today to nab the culprit who stole a radio microphone from a cruiser parked at the station.

They think it might have been a form of retaliation.

Detectives J. W. Rankin and R. C. Patterson, (from whose car the microphone was taken,) arrested Thomas Lee Ryan, 23, for "bop dancing" in a tavern, and said some of his friends followed when he was transported to jail and waited until he was released on bond.

Wants Iceland Reds Out

REYKAJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—Iceland's No. 2 political party today broadened its election campaign fire to include the island's Communists as well as U.S. forces stationed at its big NATO air base.

* * *

The move came two days before national parliamentary elections which may chart the strategically located island's future role in the north Atlantic Treaty Organization.

* * *

The organ of the second-ranking progressive party declared Iceland's Communists "serve a foreign power," and said "it is a matter of honor" that the voters reject them.

* * *

It appeared highly likely the Icelanders would do just that. The Communists held only 5 of the 35 seats in the lower House of the last Parliament, and there has been no indication that their following has increased.

Meanwhile Foreign Minister Kristinn Gudmundsson, a progressive leader, asserted Iceland is determined to get rid of U.S. troops. He said the results of the election will not alter that position.

Gudmundsson indicated that he favored "mothballing" the U.S.-manned NATO Air Base on the Icelandic Peninsula of Keflavik. He said the United States wants a base on Iceland to "protect its own security, but this is not security for Iceland."

* * *

NATO leaders consider Keflavik, almost midway between Moscow and New York, a key warning point in the North Atlantic network of anti-Soviet defenses.

From 1860 to 1913 the number of lightships in the world increased from 136 to 800, says the National Geographic Society.

Solution to Pot-O-Gold

16 Words Unravel Fourth Pot-O-Gold Puzzle

1. OPUS—a musical work—is the choice here. If a composer, newly engaged as orchestra conductor, shows "too much self-interest," it it likely that he would seize the opportunity to have his own work played, deservedly or not. This is more to the point than too much self-interest in his Post, or job, since this is only the means by which he can push his OPUS. Pose or Spot wouldn't fit as neatly.

2. An exceptionally LOW chair is instinctively avoided by an obese person, who finds it a heavy weightlifting job to ge up again. Special thoughtfulness is involved in the hesitation to sit in a very old chair which at a superficial glance might not look old.

3. PACES, of course is correct, for a five-year-old. You'd hardly expect him to know how to measure paces, since he would rarely know even how to count. How to measure space is so beyond his range not even to be thought of in connection with a small child.

4. Her ONLY European tour is suggested by the clue "repeated accounts." Someone who has never traveled before is much more likely to be impressed and keep dwelling on her trip than, in more comprehensive terms, someone who has made a long, or lone tour.

5. ~~A LEAF~~ in motion presents a large enough target for a kitten to catch. A flea, which jumps unexpectedly, is too tiny an object for a kitten's claws to pin down very successfully.

6. The torpedo would blow a huge hole in the ship's side, causing it to incline to one side or LIST. But not for long, the ship would soon sink. Afloat or on the bottom, it would last a long time.

7. DUO, or pair, is a favorite theme of poets; love and romance are basic subjects for poetry. An ode, or special verse form of exalted style, is ruled out by the clue "almost every poet;" many poets did not write ODES. God is is the theme only in poems of a religious nature. Dog, doe and other possibles would hardly qualify in the clue. "Almost every poet has concerned himself with this."

8. PEA is suggested by the well-worn phrase, "as alike as two peas in a pod." One ape certainly may be of different size markings etc., than another, which would be evident if one bothered to look closely.

9. GAP is the word here—a break in continuity. Broadcasters are always alert to make sure that there is no "dead air" at any time during the program; that, through some mishap, the material doesn't fill in all the time, etc. A lag is less noticeable—sometimes it is necessary to slow up somewhat if the program seems to be running ahead of schedule.

10. GYP accurately, in the slang term, is a swindler, or cheat, so a man who was swindled would certainly want to avoid the GYP who did it. Guy—also slang—just means a fellow, so it is not so apt here.

11. An employer will usually PROD a worker who is lazy and careless, that is, spur him on to better efforts. It is not easy for an employer to drop an inefficient worker; there is, in general, a great deal of red tape involving the worker's union.

12. ASPIC—a meat jelly—is the word. As any good cook knows, ASPIC requires especially strong seasoning to have any taste at all. On the other hand, spice is often used for a delicate background flavor, rather than a strong one.

13. HAVOC, meaning complete destruction, may be the result of a hurricane in "a small community" where all the houses are demolished etc. Chaos—confusion, disorder—is fairly certain in the wake of a hurricane, which "will" leave chaos, but "may well" leave HAVOC.

14. His MUG, or child's drinking cup, is likely to be left on a chair or anywhere else that a toddler could reach. Toddlers, as a rule, have not reached the age where they are permitted to have gum.

15. CORAL is becoming to most brunettes, so a dark-haired girl might feel that she looked her best in a dress of bright CORAL. This would not be true of just any bright color, such as certain violent shades of blue, which are not good on brunettes.

16. A special EPOCH in history, in which a student has no interest, would be hard to concentrate on. Some of the protracted wars of succession, for example, may prove very confusing and dull. A special chore, or task—a particular assignment in homework—would in itself be no more nor less hard to concentrate on than history as a whole.

Indonesia May Accept U.S. Aid

No Strings Attached to $35 Million Grant for Economic Help

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesia may soon accept a no-strings-attached American offer of 35 million dollars in economic assistance for fiscal 1957.

Announcement of the aid is expected after President Sukarno returns from a goodwill trip abroad. American officials do not want it to appear that Sukarno asked for the money in Washington, although the subject is believed to have been discussed.

Indonesia is currently considering a five-year plan aimed at building up the country's natural resources and industry. It will cost about a billion dollars and the deficit-spending Indonesians will need plenty of outside capital, either in the form of loans or foreign investment.

* * *

The U.S. offer to Indonesia is small compared to other American aid programs in Asia. South Korea received 20 times that much in fiscal 1956, Viet Nam six times as much. But the significance of such an offer to Indonesia goes far beyond the boundaries of economics. It would indicate the United States is prepared to help any country as long as it is not obviously in the Communist camp.

Since the end of World War II, the United States has extended about 242 millions in loans and grants to Indonesia. This includes a 100-million credit from the Import-Export Bank which the Indonesians hope to repay by Sept. 1, 1970. With that loan, they have built a cement plant in East Java, purchased 35 diesel locomotives, a fleet of commercial planes for the government-controlled airline, and helped rehabilitate railroads and public utilities.

Recently, the United States agreed to sell the Indonesians about 105 millions in agricultural surplus commodities and allow them to pay in local rupiahs. This seemed to be the first in a series of American steps aimed at winning Indonesia's confidence.

Sukarno has said he will accept aid from whatever source it comes as long as there are no conditions attached.

Both the Russians and Chinese can be expected to make large-scale efforts to woo the Indonesian president when he goes to Moscow and Peiping this fall.

Chemical Kills Algae Without Harm to Fish

NEW YORK (AP) — United States Rubber Co. is offering a new chemical to help solve the multi-million dollar summertime problem of controlling slimy green algae in ponds and canals.

* * *

The company reported four years of testing have shown that a fungicide produced by its Naugatuck chemical division will effectively and economically kill algae and some water weeds, without harming fish.

* * *

The fungicide is Phygon-XL, known chemically as Dichlone, which the company has been selling for years as a spray material to fruit and vegetable farmers.

Tests by the University of Wisconsin, which was searching for a means of controlling algae in the state's lakes, first showed the chemical's value as an algicide, the company said.

Civil Rights Bill Okay Impeded

House Backers Work Against Time as Dixie Solons Stymie Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — House supporters of civil rights legislation, outmaneuvered at a critical point yesterday by Southerners, worked against time today to get a Rules Committee vote on their bill.

* * *

A quick adjournment of yesterday's committee meeting, for lack of a quorum, snatched away a chance to get clearance of the bill to the House. Apparently the next opportunity proponents will have is next Wednesday. The committee meets again on that date.

Meanwhile, Rep. Roosevelt (D-Calif), who has been urging that the House itself take the bill away from the Rules Committee through a discharge petition, said his "present inclination" is to redouble efforts to get the required 218 signatures. He said 145 members have signed the document.

Since the Democratic leadership hopes to adjourn Congress by mid-July, each passing day increases the threat to the civil rights bill supported by most Northern Democrats and Republicans, but bitterly fought by Southerners. Possibility of Senate passage has practically been written off, but supporters still are eager for a vote that will put members—and parties—in the House on record.

The bill would provide for a civil rights commission, a special Justice Department division and an easier way for government and private civil rights suits in federal courts. It is charged with political potential in this election year.

Camp Fire Girls Embark on Outdoor Adventure

Getting the dock's lumber ready for construction were (left) David Ladd and Richard Jarvis. Mr. Jarvis is a member of the Camp Fire board of directors and of the Civitan Club. They helped get Camp Fire Girls' day camp spruced up for the opening day Monday.

Painting the cabins for day camp was a project of Civitan Club of Pontiac, sponsors of the Camp Fire Girls' day camp. Painters above are Elmer Betts (left) and Hiram H. Smith, members of Civitan. When the girls entered camp Monday they were thrilled over the camp's new equipment and the brightness of the old.

Edward Ladd, chairman of the camp committee, and William McLean, president of the Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls, were photographed as they helped construct a boat dock for the day camp session which opened Monday. Three boats were donated to the day camp by the Kiwanis Club of Pontiac.

Leadership training for day camp is essential for any well-established camp. Mrs. Phyllis Zamorski (right), field director of the Camp Fire Girls and day camp director, demonstrates nature crafts to two leaders, Mrs. Robert Bouden (center) and Mrs. Donald E. Pike. The attractive nature flower vase was fashioned from a tin can with twigs used for decoration. The first camp session ends June 28 and the second session runs July 9 through 19.

Alice Krueger, a Blue Bird, and her mother, Mrs. Albert Krueger, registered for day camp with the Camp Fire Girls' office secretary, Audrey Burnham. Camp opened Monday and will continue through July 19.

Activity Gets Under Way at the Group's Day Camp

Camp Fire Girls of Pontiac are enjoying their camping equipment and exercising their vocal chords as they embark on their annual day camp venture.

* * *

The first session opened Monday and ends June 28. Second session starts July 9 and continues through July 19, each session running Monday through Thursday.

Civitan Club members under direction of Edward Ladd, camp committee chairman of Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls, have been active during the past weeks preparing the campsite at Gulick Lake near Clarkston for summer activities.

Some of their duties included mowing grass around the cabins, fixing up the beach and caring for athletic courts.

* * *

They have painted cabins and added shelves for storage. A boat dock has been built to accommodate three boats which were given, complete with life jacket and pillows, to the Camp Fire Girls by the Pontiac Kiwanis Club this year.

Training classes were held at the office and at the campsite under the direction of Mrs. Phyllis Zamorski, field director and camp director of Camp Fire Girls.

Boating will be taught under the direction of Mary Ellen Wyngarden, director of Camp Fire Girls of Pontiac.

Camping is the culmination of several studies and activities of the organization. It is considered a necessary part of youth training.

* * *

The campers bring an individual sack luncheon the first day of each session, and following that meals are cooked over an open fire. Milk is furnished by the camp.

Much Crying Spoils Appearance

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "What is good to take away the puffiness from around the eyes after crying, cold or hot applications? The druggist said hot applications and a nurse said cold. Is there any cream or oil or anything that will do this? I cry so much and it makes me feel even worse when I see what it does to my eyes."

A. The first and most important remedy is to stop crying. I do not know why you are unhappy, whether because of illness of a grief or just the habit of a dreary outlook.

Whatever your trouble, remember that it probably will pass and then you will want to kick yourself for ruining your appearance by crying while going through it. Your probably cannot help crying sometimes, and this is a good safety valve if not taken to extremes, but do not indulge in it as a routine.

I think that alternate hot and cold applications are best. The following is a trick from the theater. Many actresses use it in emergencies. Dip a little tea bag in warm water and place it on the swollen area. Leave it there for 10 or 15 minutes while you relax.

* * *

Q. "I would like to know if I am overweight. I am 19 years old and weigh 130 pounds. I am 5 feet, six inches tall. My bust measures 34, my waist 25½ and my hips 37½ inches."

A. Your weight is just about right but do not allow yourself to gain any more. Take hip reducing exercises to decrease that measurement a bit.

Q. "Is my figure right? I am 13 years old and am 5 feet tall. I weigh 95 pounds. My bust measures 31, waist 26 and hips 33 inches."

A. Your weight is perfect and your measurements are usual for a girl of your age. You will just naturally slim down through the waist and build up in the bust as you grow older and your build assumes a more mature form.

* * *

Q. "Please help me. I am 15 years old. Some of the meaner kids at school make up rhymes about me like 'She's a carpenter's dream, she's got a shape like a board.' I am 5 feet, 4 inches tall and weigh 110 pounds. My bust measures 32½, waist 25 and hips 35 inches. Do you think if I put on five pounds it would help fill out my bust or would I then be overweight?"

A. You are about 10 pounds underweight. Gain those pounds. They will fill out your bustline and will not make you overweight. Those who make up the rhymes about you are the ones who should feel embarrassed because they are so rude.

They probably do it because they know it bothers you. Pay no attention and they will stop it.

Some Mind Exchanging of Presents

Bride-to-Be Hurts Friend Who Gave Duplicate Gift

By EMILY POST

A soon-to-be-bride asks: "Is it proper to ask friends to exchange duplicate presents received at a shower? At a recent shower, I received two toasters—one from my sister and another from a friend.

"As I liked the one my sister gave me better than the other one, I asked my friend if she would mind exchanging hers for something else.

"From her attitude I suspected that she was hurt and annoyed because I asked her to do this. Will you please tell me if such a request was out of order?"

Answer: Unless you knew where the toaster was bought so that you could have exchanged it yourself, I think you should have asked your own sister to exchange hers as her feelings were not as likely to have been hurt as those of your friend. Some people mind very much having their presents exchanged and others do not mind it at all.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I work in an office with several other young women. When my employer hands me my paycheck each week I always say thank you.

"None of the others do this—their reason being that they are entitled to this money, having worked for it, and therefore 'thank you' is not necessary. What is your opinion?"

Answer: Good manners exact that you thank everyone who does anything for you—even handing you your own salary check.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it the obligation of a godmother or godfather to remember a godchild every year on her (or his) birthday by giving the child a present? I have been told that it is. I would appreciate hearing from you on this matter."

Answer: It is not obligation, but there are many parents who do expect this of godparents—especially if they can easily afford to do so.

Lovely Hair Depends on Conditioning

Lovely hair is more than a hairdo . . . it's your hair's texture, gloss and tone. To keep it lovely, means constant home brushing . . . brushing up from the neck, not down . . . brushing away from the scalp.

It means using properly chosen, scientifically compounded hair preparations . . . and it means a little time each day set aside for conditioning and grooming.

350 Meet About Huron-Clinton Park

Plans Revealed by Authority

Petition Is Circulated About 3,500-Acre Park in Oakland, Macomb

ROCHESTER—Some three hundred twenty-five property owners, some protesting, some just interested, met last night at North Hill Elementary School here.

They were from the Stoney Creek Mt. Vernon and Dequindre areas, and the subject of their discussion was a proposed 3,500 acre park, plans for which have been announced by the Huron Clinton Metropolitan authority.

The proposed area is in Macomb and Oakland Counties, between 26 and 28 Mile Rds., and is bounded on the east and west by Mound and Sheldon roads.

The Authority would include an 800 acre artificial lake, created by damming Stoney Creek, which was picked as the most beautiful and cleanest spot.

Proposed beaches would accommodate as many as 50,000 persons. There would also be large wildlife, sports and picnic areas.

Officials say it will take about two years just to acquire the proposed property, at a cost of about $2,000,000.

Members of the authority are Charles H. Sutton, chairman; K. L. Hallenbeck, director; John H. Nunneley of Mt. Clemens and Clare Cummings of Pontiac.

Robert H. Hendee of 3555 West Road, Washington, superintendent of schools in Fraser, and whose home lies in the proposed area is one of the persons who reportedly headed the group of property owners.

Since the creation of the Huron Metropolitan Authority in 1944 and the levy of ¼ mill property tax against property in Oakland, Macomb, Wayne, Washtenaw and Livingston Counties, millions have been spent on Metropolitan Beach, Lake St. Clair, and also on Pontiac Lake Recreation Area and Kensington Park located on the Huron River west of Milford, but so far nothing has been done in eastern Oakland, or western Macomb County with parkways, lakes and recreation facilities as was outlined in 1944, officials said.

Farmers Union Urges Approval of Wheat Prices

WASHINGTON (INS) — The National Farmers Union and its affiliated cooperatives are urging a "yes" vote in the 1956 wheat referendum to be held July 20.

A spokesman for the American Farm Bureau Federation, meanwhile, pointed out that his organization has never made any recommendations on such matters in the past. But he added that it "is conceivable" that the Farm Bureau Board, which meets in Chicago next week decide on a stand at that time.

The 700,000-member NFU plans "an intensive educational campaign" on the merits of marketing quotas and acreage allotments.

According to NFU president James G. Patton, "wheat farmers stand to gain a minimum of 75 cents a bushel by voting 'yes'."

Farmers will be asked to vote on July 20 on whether they wish to abide by acreage restrictions and marketing quotas in exchange for a firm support price, or whether they prefer no quotas.

* * *

If more than one-third vote no, wheat farmers can either abide by their acreage allotments in exchange for a maximum support price of 50 per cent of parity, or take their chances on the open market with unlimited production.

Refugee Claims Russians Tried to Make Him Spy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Newsmen prepared to ask U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold today what action he plans if inquiry supports a Russian refugee's charges that a U.N. employe tried to enlist him as a Soviet spy.

* * *

The U.N. employe, a Russian citizen named Aleksei Petukhov, labeled the charge by the refugee Michale Shatov, "false from top to bottom."

CONFERENCE SET

Correspondents were to meet Hammarskjold this morning at a news conference the secretary general had scheduled as a routine matter about the time Shatov's charges became public.

* * *

U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. announced he would protest strongly to the U.N. if investigation bore out Shatov's charges.

A former Soviet army captain, the refugee is now employed at the Columbia University Library. He told a news conference that Petukhov and Rostislav Shapovalov, a member of the Soviet U.N. delegation, had attempted to "pressure me to try to make me a spy." Petukhov is junior programming officer in the U.N. Technical Assistance Administration.

CAN'T BE REACHED

Shapovalov could not be reached for comment. But his delegation chief, Arkady A. Sobolev, said the charges were "a lie and a fabrication, nothing more."

* * *

Shatov claimed Petukhov and Shapovalov had worked on him while all three were members of his English class at Columbia. He said they had hinted they could discredit him with U.S. security agencies and implied that Sobolev was aware of what they were doing.

Shatov gave secret testimony to the same effect a week earlier before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

2 Radio Stations to Be Operated at Field Day

Two complete portable radio stations will be operated by members of the Detroit Amateur Radio Association participating in the annual field day of the American Radio Relay League to be held Saturday and Sunday at Davisburg Park.

Thousands of stations throughout the country will take part in the 24-hour test of emergency communications equipment and training.

All power will be obtained from portable gasoline driven power units and the radio equipment will be small units of the type used by radio hams.

It will be the sixth straight year the Detroit group uses the Davisburg site for its operation. The park is considered ideal for radio transmission. The test commences Saturday at 4 p.m.

Drayton Resident Fined

Kenneth Wagner, 24, of Drayton Plains, paid a $25 fine and $15 costs yesterday after pleading guilty in Justice Court to a reduced charge of being drunk and disorderly.

He had been arraigned earlier by Waterford Township Justice Willis D. Lefurgy for allegedly driving under the influence of liquor and had pleaded not guilty.

Capitol May Get Wiretap Check

Senate Furor Set Off by Pentagon Inspection of Lehman's Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — An electronic search of the entire Capitol for wiretapping and secret recording equipment became a possibility today in the wake of a security inspection of one senator's office.

The office to which Defense Department agents went uninvited was part of the suite of Sen. Lehman (D-NY). It adjoins a hearing room in which other senators have been receiving secret military information.

NOTHING WRONG

The agents found nothing wrong. But their search, aided by Capitol police, touched off a Senate furore yesterday that pushed aside debate on a 35 billion dollar defense appropriation bill.

Lehman, who protested what he called "careless snooping," was promised apologies from the Defense Department. Sen. Symington's (D-Mo) Special Armed Services subcommittee occupying the room adjoining his office, and, through Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), the entire Senate.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) called on the Senate to hire "experts in electronic devices" to check whether snoopers are tapping telephones of senators or planting microphones in the walls of hearing rooms.

Sen. Green (D-RI), chairman of the Senate Rules Committee which would pass first on any such investigation, was out of the city. But committee attaches started looking into the matter.

CALLED 'STUPIDITY'

Johnson said that the incident was "outrageous" and "typical bureaucratic stupidity," that he viewed it with "utter horror" and that he had asked the Capitol police force for a report on their part in the affair.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) called the ballooning affair "a lot of political baloney and a waste of time."

Symington called a quick meeting of his group after Lehman protested the "methods used" in the unusual security check. Testimony developed that it was "routine" for Defense Department security agents to check committee rooms and adjacent areas to make certain no secret listening devices are in use.

But Lehman declared it was "an insult to the Senate," and complained that no one ever asked permission to check in his office.

"I not only would have given my permission," he said, "but I would have cooperated with the officers."

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) told Lehman the subcommittee was sorry about the incident but said the security agents were trying "to do their duty."

Start Detroit Building

DETROIT (AP) — Ground-breaking ceremonies yesterday launched construction of Detroit's dazzling 35-million-dollar glass and marble convention-exhibits building.

Couple Marries for Fifth Time 'to Thank God'

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—An American Army couple yesterday went through their fifth marriage ceremony since they were wed in 1943 in Los Angeles.

"We love each other more every year," Maj. Douglas Patrick Harper, 35, of Los Angeles explained.

"To us this is a sort of way of thanking God for bringing us together and giving us such happiness — and at the same time of reminding ourselves of the vows we have made which we intend always to keep."

The major added he and his 34-year-old wife, the former Dorothy Ann Humrick of La Crosse, Wis., hope to make the wedding ceremony an annual event.

Lt. Gen. Yu Pak-chuen, deputy chief of the Chinese Nationalist general staff and a British-qualified attorney, officiated at the civil ceremony here. More than 90 guests attended, including the couple's 7-year-old son, Douglas Dewey II, born in Germany.

It was the Harpers' first civil ceremony. Both Episcopalians, they were married in the church Dec. 24, 1943, at Los Angeles.

The repeat ceremonies have been held in Los Angeles on Dec. 13, 1945, at Southern Pines, N.C., Dec. 13, 1946, and at Ft. Bragg, N.C., Dec. 13, 1948.

Paint to Replace Ivy; College Chops Tons

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—Some colleges take great pains to nurture the growth of ivy on building walls. Union College is putting the hatchet to the stuff—five tons of it.

The reason is a restoration and repainting project on the oldest group of college buildings, some dating as far back as 1812. They were last painted in 1847.

Officials hastily assured old grads the project was no revolt against the ivied-wall tradition. The roots have been preserved and botanists say the ivy will be back stronger than ever in a few years.

Cutworms Hit Muck Farmers, Says MSU

EAST LANSING (AP) — Muck farmers are being hit hard with cutworms, entomologists at Michigan State University said today.

The worms, mostly black ones are a half inch to an inch long, are hitting mint and corn mainly, they reported.

The pests are defoliating or cutting off plants in the Bath Lansing and Stockbridge areas.

Farmers were urged to consult county agricultural agents on control measures.

Scientists think the first men to reach America thousands of years ago sometimes killed a species of bison which might have weighed 2,250 pounds with horns six feet from tip to tip.

Costa Rica was the first Central American country to cultivate coffee.

Sylvan Lake residents are expected to flock to Sylvanite Haven Beach Monday to register for the opening of the city's waterfront program.

* * *

City Manager Ernest L. Ethier said registration will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Residents five years and up may participate in the program of swimming and life saving classes.

Mrs. Barbara Dempster, a MSU graduate, will be beach director and instruct in classes for beginners to senior life savers.

Ethier emphasized that the program was limited to Sylvan Lake residents and property owners.

In other Sylvan Lake affairs, Ethier said tax statements and second quarter water bills would be in the mail soon.

The water bills are payable for 30 days without penalty while the tax statements will have a penalty of 2 per cent plus a half per cent per month added after Aug. 1.

July 14 has been set as "pick-up date" for papers and magazines for city residents. They are urged to tie them in bundles and place by the curb.

British Poet, 83, Taken by Death

Walter de la Mare Was One of Few Members of the Order of Merit

TWICKENHAM, England (AP) — Walter de la Mare, 83, internationally known British poet, died today.

* * *

De La Mare was one of the few members of the Order of Merit, a nontitle honor reserved for no more than 24 living persons of special eminence. Queen Elizabeth II named the poet to the order in 1953.

He was taken ill only yesterday.

De La Mare was 29 when he published his first book, "Songs of Childhood." It started him on an almost endless series of poems and stories for children and their elders. His long literary life began while he was a clerk in the London office of the Anglo-American Oil Co., where he worked for 18 years.

* * *

Last year he and American-born sculptor Sir Jacob Epstein were awarded certificates of honorary membership in the American Academy of Arts and Letters.

His novel "Henry Brocken" was published in 1904, two years after the publication of "Songs of Childhood." Other works which brought him to the front rank of his contemporaries included "The Return" in 1910, which won the Polignac prize, "The Listeners and other Poems" (1912) "Peacock Pie" (1913), "Motley and Other Poems" (1918), and "Collected Poems" in 1920.

* * *

He continued a steady production of poems, essays and volumes of stories through his later years. "A beginning and Other Stories" was published in 1955.

Pontiac Posts Represented at VFW Meeting

The 37th annual state encampment of Veterans of Foreign Wars posts was in its second day at Bay City today. The Ladies Auxiliaries of Michigan are meeting at the same time.

Pontiac Posts 1370 and 1008 are both represented at the event which concludes Sunday. No area men or women are known to be candidates for state office.

Over 5,000 veterans and their ladies from 400 posts are taking part in the activities. State Commander Don M. Drahner, of Royal Oak, will preside at all business sessions.

Business meetings got under way yesterday and will continue today and Saturday. A memorial service featured the opening day program.

A parade and the Pageant of Drums head the Saturday events. Units from throughout the state will compete for honors in the Pageant.

Highlight of the entire conclave was set for today when National V. F. W. Commander Timothy J. Murphy, of Milton, Mass., addresses the convention. Governor G. Mennen Williams spoke to the group this morning.

Giant Paddlewheeler Bought by Detroiters

DETROIT (AP)—The 7,700-ton vessel Greater Detroit, largest paddlewheel steamer in the world, was sold yesterday but she may once again cruise the Great Lakes as a luxury liner.

The 600-foot passenger ship and the two other sidewheelers of the Detroit & Cleveland Naviagion Co. were bought by two Detroit businessmen for an undisclosed sum. The ships have been idle since 1950.

They were bought by Robert L. Rosen, president of the Lake Shore Steel Co., and Abraham Siegel, president of the Siegel Iron and Metal Co.

The new owners said they may outfit the Greater Detroit as a luxury cruise ship on the Great Lakes.

The Greater Detroit, launched in 1924 at Lorain, Ohio, was on the Detroit-Buffalo night run before the D&C ceased cross-lake operations in 1950.

The other vessels included in the sale are the City of Detroit III, built in Detroit in 1912, and the Eastern States, built in Wyandotte, Mich., in 1902.

Writer Admits Red Ties, Says He Made Big Mistake

WASHINGTON (INS)—Pultizer prize-winning playwright Arthur Miller told newsmen yesterday covering his appearance before a House un-American Activities subcommittee that he would gladly sign a note swearing that he is not a Communist, not under Communist discipline and has not been a contributor to Red causes.

But he did admit lending his name to Communist-sponsored movements in the late 1940's, saying he did so because "it suited the mood I was in."

He was an extremely cooperative witness, but he declined to identify certain persons who might have attended some Communist writers' meetings in which he participated 17 years ago.

HOLDS BACK NAMES

The pipe-puffing dramatist, whose biggest Broadway hit was the Pulitzer prize-winning "Death of a Salesman," said his conscience would not permit him to bring the names of others into the House subcommittee hearings.

His impending wedding to Miss Monroe will be her third. Miller was recently divorced from his first wife at Reno, Nev.

In his appearance before the subcommittee, Miller admitted he had made a "great error" in giving aid to the Communists during the period immediately following World War II.

He said it would be disastrous if the Reds were to take over the U.S., that "there has been nothing written of any value" in Russia during the past 25 years and that he hopes to direct his talents toward fighting the Communists from now on.

At the conclusion of his three hours of testimony, Miller was complimented by subcommittee chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) and Rep. Clyde Doyle (D-Calif) for the change in his attitude toward Communist.

ARTHUR MILLER

Walter said: "By the errors you made you are sounding a very loud note of warning to other people who would also make errors."

When subcommittee staff director Richard Arens noted that the Communists had produced one of Miller's plays, the writer reported: "I take no more responsibility for who plays my plays than General Motors does for who drives its Chevrolets."

Although Miller admitted making an error in supporting Communist causes, he did not apologize for his activities.

He said: "I was looking for a world that would be perfect, and I think it was necessary." At another point, he said he "had to go to hell to meet the Devil."

ADMITTED CONNECTIONS

Miller admitted backing a number of movements that later were branded Red fronts.

He said: "I'd like to say that in those times, I supported causes that I would not support now . . . I would not support now a cause which was dominated by Communists."

Miller was called before the subcommittee to air his passport difficulties. The State Department refused him permission in 1954 to go to Brussels, Belgium, for the opening of his play, "The Crucible," a powerful denunciation of witch-hunting.

Miller explained, however, that he did not push the case at that time because he needed the passport immediately or not at all.

Child Falls 60 Feet, Escapes With Bruises

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — Five-year-old Gerald David Buff of Glen Alpine fell 60 feet into a dry well and escaped with slight bruises and a minor cut on his chin.

Burke County Sheriff Ray Sigmon said the child fell into the abandoned well while playing with other children. Sigmon said boards covering the well apparently had been removed by the children.

Firemen lowered a 10-year-old boy, Wayne Powell, into the well to tie a rope around Gerald. Both boys then were hauled out.

Poker Stakes Too High— Divorce Granted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Her husband, not the deuces, was wild when she refused to play strip poker. That story won a pretty blonde cocktail waitress a divorce.

* * *

Mrs. Juanita Bradley, 27, testified yesterday that her husband, John, 29-year-old shipyard worker, was so angry he almost drowned her when she declined to enter the strip-tease card game in mixed company.

* * *

"He took me down to the beach and dumped me in the water," she said, " and told me he was going to drown me. He held my head under water."

Mrs. Bradley got the divorce. She says she doesn't even know how to play poker.

Japanese Named to A-Study Group

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS) — The United Nations has announced the appointment of a Japanese scientist, Ezio Tajima, to serve on the worldwide study of the effects of atomic radiation.

* * *

The appointment was made by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. He also appointed a British and a French nuclear expert to serve as scientific secretaries for the committee.

Tajima is expected to arrive at U.N. headquarters in New York by the end of the month. The 43-year-old Japanese scientist has been given leave from his job as a professor of physics at Bunri University in Tokyo.

* * *

Japan, although not a member of U.N., was invited to participate in the radiation study because it is the only nation that has actually experienced an atomic attack.

'Anonymous' Contributor Fails to Sign Check

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The Episcopal charities fund certainly does not object to anonymous contributions, but . . .

In a front page story this week, the Rhode Island Churchman, the Episcopal organ, says it would appreciate it if the anonymous donor of $20 would identify himself long enough to sign the check.

Bolt Broke Butts' Bottle

VAN ETTEN, N.Y. (AP)—A bolt from the blue broke Butts' bottle.

During a thunderstorm, said Fire Chief Pete Butts, he reached into a cooler for a bottle of pop. At that instant, lightning struck the firehouse. The bottle shattered in Butts' hand.

"I wasn't hurt," he said, "but I felt a little numb for a while."

Handed Over Letters as Per Instructions

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—A small elderly woman went to the American Red Cross chapter house and wound up in the office of Miss LaRue Courtney, director of home service.

And what could she do for the visitor? Miss Courtney inquired.

"I don't want nothing special, thank you," the woman said. "I just brought you my letters." She handed over a batch of unopened personal mail.

Each letter bore a cancellation stamp reading "Give to the Red Cross."

The story thus far: In my old home town out West nothing stranger ever happens than the time Old Zeb Griscom hauled off and dropped out of sight. The pioneers around asked what happened to Old Zeb and soon three of Zeb's best friends go off toward Greenhorn mountain to find him. The search party never does come back. People get to thinking about injuns or outlaws grabbing the old fellows and a posse of old pioneers is formed and set out in an old wagon with guns and liquor. Latest report is that my grandpop, who is in the posse, takes a shot at a sheepman—and misses at 200 yards. This sets Grandmaw to thinking . . .

By Damon Runyon

Well, sir, a week goes by and no word comes from the rescue party, although they promise to let people know how they are getting along.

* * *

Another week goes by, and there is talk of asking the governor to call out the State militia. Every morning you can see Mrs. Griscom, Mrs. McCullough and all the other wives of the missing, except my Grandmaw, down in front of the mayor's office demanding that Mayor Joe Heintzman do something or other.

My Grandmaw does not go visiting the mayor, because she says in the first place Joe Heitzman is an old fool and has been such for many years. In the second place she says she will go find those old scalawags herself if they do not show up pretty soon, and when she does find them they better make themselves mighty scarce, especially my Grandpap.

My Grandmaw will not believe anything very terrible happens to any of the lot, although everybody but her in my old home town is in pretty much of a sweat. Finally, she commences to worry a little herself, because, say what you please, my Grandmaw rather likes my Grandpap.

SHE SAYS 'UH-HUH'

Old Jake Warburton, one of Grandpap's best friends, starts in organizing a new posse to go in search of the missing, and somebody notices that he is picking only old pioneers, and asking none of the young squirts of the town to go along, which old Jake explains by saying that this looks like a big fighting job, and he wants experienced fighting men.

When my Grandmaw hears of old Jake's posse she says "uh-huh," like that, and the next thing anybody knows she makes me hitch up old Silver, our gray horse, and away she goes off toward the Greenhorn Mountains in our light buggy, all alone and looking very determined.

It is a good day's drive to the mountains in those days but my Grandmaw knows the roads and she has many friends on the ranches out that way, and nobody will worry about her whatever, if it is not for what happens to the different missing parties.

Three days later my Grandmaw comes driving back again, and who is with her but my Grandpap looking none too brash. Furthermore, not far behind them comes all the parties who are missing, even old Zeb Griscom with a new set of whiskers, and looking very wild. In fact all of them look wild, and they look still wilder after my Grandmaw tells their wives a thing or two.

It seems that what happens is as follows:

Old Zeb Griscom gets sick and tired listening to Mrs. Griscom after many years, and so he tells a few of his old friends that he is going out into the Greenhorn Mountains to live in a cave and have a good time the rest of his life.

Of course many wish to go with him, but Zeb shows them how it will look too suspicious if they all start off at once. So they figure out they can go searching for each other in bunches until they are all together in the cave, and living happy.

The scheme works out great until my Grandmaw gets to worrying about my Grandpap, which of course is something they do not figure possible. And it seems my Grandmaw knows enough about Indian fighting to know that Indian fighters do not need as much liquor to do their fighting on as my Grandpap and his searching party takes with them, and she judges that some dirty work is going on somewhere.

FINDS A MEXICAN

She is pretty sure of it when Jake Warburton starts picking out only old guys, and while she does not wish to spoil anybody's fun she decides that it goes far enough. So she starts searching herself, and the first thing she does when she hits the mountains is to find herself a mexican who lives in those parts, and who naturally knows what is going on.

Everybody's looking very happy indeed, until they see my Grandmaw.

This Mexican leads my Grandmaw to the cave, and she busts right into as jolly a party as anybody will wish to find with Mr. Hathaway, the banker, doing some cooking over a big fire, and my Grandpap dealing out drinks, and everybody laying around looking very happy indeed, until they see my Grandmaw.

Well, that is all there is to the great disappearance, except that old Jake Warburton is missing for several days after the lost ones return and it comes out that he is in the Greenhorn Mountains looking for the Mexican who guides my Grandmaw.

* * *

It seems that old Jake is so sore over losing out on the party that he wishes to cut the Mexican's ears off and keep them for souvenirs, but the Mexican out-runs him through the Hardscrabble Canyon, and old Jake comes back to town to spend the rest of his life listening to the stories of the others about the good time they have, and feeling sore at the Mexican.

Clogged Chute Yields Fat Bag of Money

EAST ALTON, Ill. (AP) — LeRoy Harrison, one of the owners of an inn, tried to deposit the night's receipt in the chute of a night depository at his bank. The chute was clogged with a sack of money.

* * *

When he tried to manipulate it so he could make his own deposit, it came out of the chute and he couldn't get it back. He took it to the police who locked it up for the night in the jail. A deposit slip in the bag indicated it contained $763.32 and was to be deposited for the United Cerebral Palsy Fund of Madison County.

Reserve Unit Girds for Role in Emergency

All these jobs and many more is called to active duty. The re- are necessary if the 703rd ever servists now training then would be responsible for teaching newcomers.

The 703rd, as part of the 70th division and like units in 11 other divisions in the nation, is of "cadre" strength—meaning the personnel are expected to be the top officers and non-commissioned officers in case of another general call to arms.

The Army relies on these divisions under the Reserve Act of 1955 to form almost three-quarters of the four million soldiers required by law.

* * *

Right now, according to Brig. Gen. L. S. Bork, Pontiac reservists are among 5,400 active in the state. Bork is commander of the Michigan Military District which is in charge of units such as Pontiac's.

But he says the law will require that number to be expanded to about 23,750 by 1960, meaning that expansion is projected for every hometown unit, including Pontiac's.

According to Lt. Col. Lloyd A. Gabler, commander of the 703rd, about 50 more enlisted men are needed for replacements and to form a new company, as well as about 15 company level officers.

* * *

This need is expected to increase in Reserve outfits of every branch of service as the reserve program really swings into action.

As Bork points out, the reserve system has been considered ever since the end of World War II, but the recent act puts "teeth" into the movement.

* * *

Under the new system, the Army has one plan to enlist youths 17 to 18½ for six-months of active duty and a mandatory seven and one-half years in an active unit such as Pontiac's.

With little experience at the training center, the youngest recruits are practicing the infantryman's basics — marching, close-order drill and how to manage the M1 rifle.

Low as they are in the Army's hierarchy of rank they are "sold" on the Reserve system. Although other youths back home did not join up, believing that the draft would not last, the ones in the Reserve unanimously acknowledged that duty in service is part of the scheme of things from now on.

Their way of serving is backed in the 703rd by the older men, mostly veterans of World War II and Korea, who see the advantages for younger men.

These veterans including Gabler, his top officers and his top sergeants, say they are in the reserve mostly because they believe in its purpose.

This seems surprising, in view of the fact that top-rankers receive good pay for their Monday night and summer camp duty, but M-Sgt. William E. Bennett put it like this:

"For all that trouble, work and worry, the $110 a month I get during the year as first sergeant of the battalion is not worth it by itself alone.

* * *

"But I like the Army," he said, "and I believe that we still have a duty to our country in times like these. Reserve meetings help us to keep in touch with the latest Army weapons and developments. Everyone who participates will be ready just in case trouble comes."

Bennett is primarily in charge of office workers—the company clerks and first sergeants who work with paper just as hard as do the tank-crews in the field.

Reservists have varied jobs at Camp McCoy. Clayton Sims is the driver of Col. Gabler's jeep, an important task in a motorized outfit. Frank Newman and Robert J. Conklin are cooks in the enlisted men's mess and able to serve their fellow soldiers dinner in the field.

Willie Jacob is a medic, ready to treat minor injuries at tank operations. Helping to plan field training is Sgt. Florian Funke.

Eugene Davis is in charge of small arms, a task which includes care of the battalion's .45 caliber pistols as well as machine guns.

Several are assigned to trucks, and jeeps, driving equipment and personnel to far reaches of the 63,000 acres in Camp McCoy. They are Donald Thompson, Howard French, Richard Lundgren, Robert White and Charles Anachos. They sometimes double as mechanics.

* * *

Principally charged with the maintenance of tanks are Sgt.'s Bernell Vollmar, Thomas Pappas, Frederick Genaw and Pvt. Richard Drew. They as well as others in the transportation pool are learning the know-how.

* * *

Heading the complicated communications division is Capt. Donald W. Kaiser, helped by Earl Johns, Gary Smith and Arthur McQuinn.

Others who much of the time are in the field driving the tanks are Lt. John A. Gillespie, Sgt.'s Homer Howard, Louis Taylor, Ted Pearson and Homer Whitfield and Pvt.'s Roosevelt Blackmon Jr., Ronald Laidlaw, James Pittman and Charles Harris.

* * *

While all these men are busy at their tasks, the top group of officers is busy planning, sometimes far into the night. Besides Gabler, they are Maj. Franklin Thompson, executive officer; Maj. Charles Clement, in charge of the training; Capt. Theron R. Arms Jr., intelligence officer; Capt. Thomas Councell, commander of the newly formed "C" company and temporary adjutant; Capt. Dale Rector, commander of "D" company; Capt. Simpson, commander of headquarters company and Lt. James W. Helmrich, acting commander of "A" company.

Included in the plans is bivouac training next week and preparations for return home Saturday.

Bivouac is among the most realistic of the activities carried on during training for it is here that the Reservists function under field conditions which soldiers might encounter in combat.

During this phase of the program members of Pontiac's 703rd will camp out in the hills and forests around McCoy to learn about existence away from buildings and other permanent installations.

It's all a part of keeping the Pontiac-area's "citizen soldiers" in top trim for the possibility of attack by enemy forces.

FIELD PROTECTION — Every man in the 703rd got a steel helmet issued at Camp McCoy for use when bullets started flying. That's because every man, no matter what his specialized job is, was required to fire arms. Above, supply lieutenant Glen Alday, left, and Cpl. Ronald D. Anderson, center, both of Lake Orion, issue regulation helmets to Sgt. Frederick Genaw, Marien City.

Veteran Lauds 'New Look' Among Reservists of Today

The country's reserve system is undergoing a radical change and one Army veteran on two-weeks reserve training at Camp McCoy, Wis. is happy to tell about it.

M-Sgt. William E. Bennett of Brandon Township thinks the new look is "wonderful."

As first sergeant of Headquarters Company of Pontiac's 703rd Tank Battalion, Bennett is assistant to the commanding officer in just about everything.

In his three years with the battalion, Bennett has seen what he calls "draft dodgers" drop out of the unit to be replaced by newcomers under the nation's new Reserve laws.

"Once the Reserve was a place for youngsters to hide out from the actual service," he explained. "But we weeded out those who weren't interested.

"After all, this is a serious business — and the reservists most interested are the ones who enjoy it most.

"The Reserve is what you make of it. Most of us older fellows are in it because we believe in it."

Bennett, a barber in civilian life, thinks the new Army program of enlisting youngsters for six-months active duty followed by seven and one-half years active service in a hometown unit of their choice is a fine opportunity all around.

"Nearly every youngster is going to have to serve one way or the other, according to the present law," he said. "This way, active duty is over in a short time, the rest of the enlistment is spent with friends and a youngster has a chance for a good rank.

"I think that the six-months enlistees will fit in fine with our program."

Eye County Site to Train Troops

Reserves Would Adopt 22 Acres at Rochester for Field Exercises

The Army hopes to find a 22-acre site near Rochester to train reservists.

The land would be used for weekend field practice and as a target area for small arms, including machineguns, according to Maj. Gen. Clyde E. Daugherty, commanding officer of the 70th Infantry Division.

Over 100 reservists in Pontiac's 703rd Tank Battalion are members of the division, and many of them are training now at McCoy.

Dougherty also announced that expanded reserve activities would be met by 30 new armories constructed throughout the state, eight of them in the Detroit area and each costing $250,000. None of them are planned for the Pontiac area, though, he said.

The construction will be completed by 1960, when the number of reservists training in active units is expected to climb from the present figure of 5,400 to 23,750.

Part of the plan, Dougherty pointed out, is to train each reservist as near as possible to his hometown—necessitating the new training centers.

The Army also plans to change the training schedule of many units from the present two hours one night a week, to one weekend each month.

The weekend schedule would allow time for field practice at locations such as the projected one near Rochester and at another planned near Monroe.

The increase in the number of active reservists is required by federal laws, Dougherty said, pointing out the the reserve system is the cheapest way to maintain a military program.

CHALK UP ANOTHER — Success in any military training program is measured in combat effectiveness, and the tank crew above came up to Reserve standards. Commander of the 703rd Tank Battalion, Lt. Col. Lloyd A. Gabler, Royal Oak, proudly points to a hit during firing of .75 mm. guns at Camp McCoy. With him is Capt. Robert V. Cissell, Ferndale. The average score for tank crews was nearly two hits out of five shots.

Difference Is in 'Degree'

Civilian, Army Jobs Same for 703rd's Tank Expert

M-Sgt. Bernell E. Vollmar tests tanks as a civilian in sub-zero temperatures.

This week he's repairing them in 90-degree heat.

For Vollmar, 40, of Utica and on two-weeks annual training duty with Pontiac's 703rd Tank Battalion at Camp McCoy, Wis., the whole thing is two sides to the same coin.

He's been a factory expert since his release from the Army after World War II. In fact, the Army recalled him to serve in testing tanks during the Korean conflict.

Afterwards, he joined the Pontiac battalion to become its chief tank mechanic.

"At work I've done everything from testing to assembly," he said. "I helped build the M47 tanks we're using. We started from scratch, practically, and I was in on the whole thing."

The experience in his civilian job helps Vollmar and his crew perform complete engine changes in the field within 30 minutes.

Another Reservist also is performing at his favorite job. It's not his way of making a living, however.

Frank Newman, 40, of Berkley, works in the shipping department of an automotive plant. Sometimes, though, he'd rather whip up an apple pie.

Newman was an Army cook in World War II and that's what he is in the post-Korea Reserve. "I like baking best," he says, "but here at McCoy I'm more in a supervisory job than a cooking job."

Newman wistfully watches Regular Army cooks prepare food for 800 enlisted men in one of the numerous messes at McCoy.

At home, his wife, Henrietta, fixes most of the meals, but Newman won't say who is the better cook. "Do you want me to get shot?" he asked.

Greyhound Boosts Commuter Tickets

Commuters using the Greyhound Lines will pay more for their tickets beginning July 1, according to Everett J. Farr, division superintendent of the Birmingham terminal.

At the same time, the 35-cent commuter ticket for 10 rides will be eliminated while 10-ride tickets for 65, 70, 75, and 80 cents will be offered for the first time.

The 40-cent commuter ticket for 10 rides will be boosted from $3.40 to $3.60 while the 45-cent ticket will go from $3.60 to $4.05. Other increases will be: 50-cent ticket, $4 to $4.50; 55-cent, $4.40 to $4.90; 60-cent, $4. 80to $5.40.

The rate of the new tickets will be: 65-cent, $5.85; 70-cent, $6.30; 75-cent, $6.75; and 80-cent, $7.20.

Horse Hit by Auto, Driver Leaves Scene

An unidentified driver struck and killed a horse at M15 and Hubship early this morning. Deputies of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department reported the driver had left the scene on their arrival.

The car involved is being held by county officials pending further investigation. The horse was owned by James O. Benke, of Clarkston.

Press Puts $100 in Pot-O-Gold Puzzle No. 4

Time to sharpen your pencil again, dust off the dictionary and play the Pontiac Press' new word game, POT-O-GOLD. This week, for the first time, the prize is $300 — plus an extra bonus of $25 if the winner happens to be a subscriber of record. Read directions and rules carefully, fill out the entry below and send it in.

The puzzle consists of (1) a number of circles which contain a few scrambled letters, and (2) a corresponding list of clues to these words printed below. The object is to arrange each group of circled letters into a word that best fits its clue. The word which you select for Circle No. 1, then, would be the one which you would print in the space to the right of (1) below.

You'll notice that some circles contain $ signs in pots of gold. You may use such a symbol as any letter you wish. However, it and all letters in that circle must be used. The $ sign, of course, can represent ANY letter in the word.

Do the same in all the other circles. Study the clues carefully and arrange all the letters into words that you believe best conform to these clues. Use your $ signs to help you spell out the right words.

That's all there is to it. Good luck!

Brownell to Ease Up on Prosecution of HST Aides After Latest Convictions

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (INS) — Office holders under the Truman administration can now relax.

* * *

With the conviction of former appointments secretary Matthew J. Connelly and assistant attorney general Theron Lamar Caudle, the Justice Department has closed its books on prosecutions of alleged graft and corruption during the presidency of Harry S. Truman.

This is the word from Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., who told this correspondent that he plans no further indictments against Truman appointees.

The attorney general further revealed that the administration has completed its security screening program of government employes and is now concentrating on the checking of applicants for federal jobs.

* * *

He said the recent Supreme Court decision ruling out the dismissal of non-sensitive job holders as security risks will not affect the department's work.

The court ruling automatically returned to office 17 employes who had been under suspension. Brownell said he disagreed with the finding that non-sensitive job classifications should not be probed, "because the man who empties my wastebaksets could discover more secrets than a carefully screened executive." He stresses, however, that he will abide by the court's decision.

* * *

Brownell, President Eisenhower's first cabinet appointee, looked back over 41 months of office today and expressed satisfaction at the progress made.

"We've carried out our promise to prosecute Communists," he said, "and have convicted 70 in the last three years, compared with only 31 during the entire Truman administration. An additional 36 have been sent to prison for denying Communist affiliation."

Often called a "human thinking machine," Brownell takes pride in the fact that during his tenure criminal convictions for income tax evaders have increased 116 per cent over the yearly average of the Truman administration.

* * *

Fifty-three labor racketeers were also convicted last year for exploiting the legitimate interests of labor.

The department has urged federal judges to curtail their long summer vacations in order to clear the dockets, and several district courts have already agreed to waive the traditional three-month hiatus.

PROSECUTION CONTINUES

Brownell said the "present vigorous prosecution of antitrust violations" will continue unabated under Judge Victor R. Hansen of Los Angeles, if the Senate confirms him for the assistant attorney generalship recently vacated by Stanley Barnes.

Brownell, who master-minded the Ike-for-President drive in '52 and previously served as campaign manager for Thomas E. Dewey in his two unsuccessful tries for the presidency, is convinced that Eisenhower will run for re-election, and win.

He is making no plans of his own, however, until after the November ballots are counted. One of seven children of a Nebraska professor, Brownell made a fortune at law after graduating from Yale with a Phi Betta Kappa key.

Whether he would continue to sacrifice money-making for politics in Ike's second-term cabinet remains unanswered even for Brownell's four college-age youngsters, who are clamoring to know.

The attorney general insists that the "shape of the department" will have a lot to do with his decision. If everything is functioning smoothly after January, he is more apt to resign, than if some unexpected problems arise.

Hunt Minnow Murderer

MUSKEGON (AP)—Bait dealer Wilber Hammond has asked police to investigate suspected poisoning of thousands of minnows in his stock pond. Hammond says he lost about $2,000 worth of minnows, believed poisoned over the weekend while he and his wife were away.

To Install Lie Detector

ROCKFORD (AP) — Capt. Leroy Hunt, commander of the sixth State Police district, says a lie-detector unit will be installed at the Rockford headquarters to accommodate law officers in the area. He said it will be the sixth unit in operation. Others are at Paw Paw, East Lansing, Detroit, Marquette and Traverse City.

Adrian Couples See Queen and Duke

Do-It-Yourself European Trip Is Cheaper Than Agency Tours

(Three Adrian couples, following a careful budget, planned their own five-week tour of Europe. Their experiences are described in the following account by one of the group, Waldron S. Stewart, county editor of the Adrian Telegram.)

LONDON (AP) — Although its 8,000,000 people make it the largest city in the world, the most difficult thing about London for us was getting here.

• • •

Crossing the channel from Calais, actually is a simple matter. Ferries run regularly both ways and trains meet the boats on both ends. But, because we had thought there was nothing to it, we found it pretty much of an entire day.

There was customs inspections at both ends, money changing duties to accomplish and innumerable tickets to buy and cards to fill out. The cost is $16.28 per couple, including the ferry and train to London. The crossing itself was smooth. It takes an hour and a half.

We found the customs inspections interesting. The inexperienced traveler approaches boundaries with more than a little concern. But in practice, we found it's a cinch.

SEE HOLLAND'S TULIPS

We have been asked to open only two suitcases of the 16 we're carrying between the three couples. We've never been delayed more than 20 minutes and we've crossed borders 10 different times.

We visted Amsterdam before leaving the Continent and found Holland's famed tulips in full bloom, delayed almost a month by the cold spring.

Garlands of tulips decorate cars, buses, streets and the countless bicycles. Every residence has its own garden. Tulips grow in hotel lobbies, restaurants, public buildings and the sightseeing boats in the maze of canals.

• • •

Bicycles, both human and motor powered, are a considerale concern for anyone planning a motor trip through Holland. From children to grandparents, the bicycle is the thing.

DUTCH HAVE MANNERS

We had unusually good luck — we only hit one, and that was a slight brush with no damage. Other Americans tell us they have had as high as one collision a week. There's something about a black mob of bicycles silently bearing down in a narrow street that unnerves the motorist.

We found English is spoken without exception in Holland by hotel keepers, waiters and anybody you happen to ask a question. They do it to show friendship and courtesy. Natives in a group with only one American present consider it rude to speak a language the outsider would not understand.

The climax of our trip came in London, however — and it was entirely accidental. We had been in the city less than four hours and after dinner walked three blocks to Buckingham Palace as a sort of orientation to London.

WITH NO FANFARE

We were standing in front of the palace when, with no fanfare, a car moved down the driveway and through the gate. We turned and looked squarely into the faces of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. Both smiled and waved.

A bobby at the gate told us they were going out for dinner. We expressed amazement that they were unescorted.

"You blokes wouldn't let your President do that, would ya?" he said. "Well, nobody's gonna' harm 'er. Sirens and all that sort of thing just cause a lot of confusion. We don't go for it."

We had a hard time with English money. It's hard to make sense from a system which isn't based on 100. The pound is valued at $2.80. The English were patient with us, however, as we counted out our half crowns, florins, bobs, shillings and ha' pennies.

Ready to head home, we haven't been able to figure out whether we proved what we set out to do on this trip — that it's cheaper to take a do-it-yourself European tour than one arranged by a travel agency.

COST BREAKDOWN

We traveled 2,970 miles by rented auto at a total cost of $560.14, or $186.71 a couple. Hotel rooms for 25 nights cost $158.57 a couple; meals for the five weeks totaled $226.32.

Each couple spent another $42.[illegible] for admissions to buildings, bus and taxi fares and $32 in tips, port taxes and baggage costs, counting our $738 passage fare, the entire trip cost $1,383.70 per couple. Our original budget was $1,500.

We didn't include the cost of film, postcards, stamps, gifts and souvenirs. We also couldn't total up such personal expenses as baby-sitting. Travel agency rates don't cover those costs either, however.

Other travelers told us that tour costs vary considerably according to the class of accommodations. We did find one couple who covered much the same territory we did in a group of 33 other persons.

Their trip, including tourist class transportation, hotels, meals, a chartered bus, fares, tips, taxes and baggage charges came to $1,793 a couple.

Some who traveled in guided tours told us they'd never do it again. They disliked the lack of choice in hotels, restaurants and lengths of visits. They said itineraries were so crowded it was a physical strain to keep pace.

We are convinced we took the right kind of trip. We saw Cherbourg, Mont St. Michel, Paris, Biarritz, the French Riviera, Monaco, Zurich, the Rhine Valley, the Netherlands and had five days in London.

Parents Still Arrange Marriages in Japan

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—This being stil the month of weddings, there are perhaps 10,000 couples in this country who are right now chewing nervously on nails, toothpicks and cigar butts, and saying:

"Who got me into this?"

* * *

The next thought that comes to the agitated prenuptial mind is, "And what makes me think she'll (he'll) be better for me than the next girl (man)"?

If the marriage plan doesn't blow up there, one more idiotic idea comes to mind. "All right, I got myself into it. I've only myself to blame, and it's too late now.

"You think I could break her (his) heart?"

* * *

This sort of mental mish-mash has been preceding Lohengrin's march for many decades now, ever since society decided to put the right of marital choice into the hands of lovers.

Before modern times—and still, in some Eastern lands—civilizations have taken the attitude that lovers are insane and therefore in no condition to select a mate.

ELDERS SEE FAULTS

In other words, it takes an old and mellowed parent to observe that the girl with the freckling nose and loving arms also has a heckling disposition and muscles.

* * *

Come to New York this week with some new ideas on this old-fashioned theme is Mrs. May S. Aoki, a professor of the Toita Woman's College of Tokyo.

Mrs. Aoki is a fashion designer, dean of the college's Fashion Institute, but she is also a recent bride and her almond eyes are tender. Let us speak, she said, of koi and ketkon. Which is an alliterative Japanese way of saying love and marriage.

* * *

"We have a few divorces, but not many, in Japan," said May, "because we are still old-fashioned and think a parent is a wise, wonderful being.

* * *

"A young girl, she needs protection. In Japan, the young girls now work at last, but they do not work so hard."

JUST KILLING TIME

Mrs. Aoki took several minutes to explain that statement, and it added up to: Japanese girls work mainly to kill time until a hubby is picked for them, and though they are getting to like money, they still don't sincerely enjoy work.

* * *

"Japanese girl is littler than American woman, and although she wears western dress down the street and admires to have her small way (or slight independence) in life, she still wants to be a wife, and that only. How she becomes a wife is still the old way."

The "old way" goes like this. Usually, a man sees a girl and decides he would like to marry her. He approaches her parents and if they like him, it may be a deal. "Although," May quickly defends, "the girl has the right to turn down."

Occasionally, the parents still arrange a marriage when a girl child is quite young, but this is not usual. When a boy and girl go out at night, they still must be chaperoned—although the afternoon dates are their own, alone.

* * *

Frequently, the first a Japanese girls sees of the man she is to marry is in a photograph bestowed upon her bureau by her parents.

Asked if she approves of this old-fashioned system, May responds, "I think a person has to be helped, somehow, about marriage. It is oh, so very much easier.

"Any young girl would rather have her decisions made for her, don't you think?"

* * *

Michigan Man Quits Job to Help Montana Indians

MT. CLEMENS (AP) — "Someone has to do something about it. I'm able to do it and would feel like a heel not to."

* * *

So 42-year-old Henry Burgoyne is giving up his job and his home to move to the dry plains of Montana where remnants of the North Cheyenne Indian tribe eke out a meager living.

This firm-spoken, energetic engineer is matter of fact about his goal — to build a "clean, safe community" for an all-but-abandoned people.

"It's not a noble sacrifice," Burgoyne says. "It is something I feel I have to do."

Burgoyne first became acquainted with the desolate life of the North Cheyenne tribe when a friend invited him in 1952 to come out and help repair the power plant at the reservation along the Tongue River.

DESCRIBES FINDINGS

He spent a year there and tells you what he found:

"The tribe is about 2,000 strong and their way of life is worse than it was some 75 years ago when their ancestors fought Custer. Some 65 per cent of all babies die shortly after birth and 69 per cent of the people have tuberculosis.

"Filth is the greatest problem. They live in flimsy canvas tents and shacks. Lice and bed bugs swarm through the dirty rags they use to cover themselves. Running water is unheard of.

"Campfires are all they have for heat and it gets as cold as 50 degrees below zero in winter. In summer it goes to 112 above.

The barren land is all but worthless for agriculture. Tribesmen live on the $21 a month pensions they get from the government.

The Catholic Capuchin society has undertaken missionary work at the reservation and now maintains a high school there.

OPTIMISTIC OUTLOOK

"I feel the community can be built through employment," Burgoyne says earnestly. "If they have money to spend we can raise the standard of living."

He hopes for a day when laundromats, a theater, stores, recreation areas and a housing project will blossom from the bare soil, giving the Indians a share of "the American way of life."

These hectic days Burgoyne is hitting the trail seeking aid for such friends as Johnny Wooden Leg and Julia Big Head. He and the Capuchins have interested others in the tribe's plight.

A labor leader who wished to remain unknown agreed to equal Burgoyne's regular salary from General Motors until the electronics plant is completed.

MACHINERY DONATED

From other sources have come donations of machinery worth at least $12,000. Union men said they would transport equipment free. Right now Burgoyne is seeking electrical contracts for the plant when it gets into production.

Burgoyne will leave for the reservation in a few weeks. His wife and six of his seven children will follow shortly to live in the nearest town, Billings. Another son is attending medical school here.

In his "spare" time, Burgoyne has been brushing up on his algebra and science in night school so he can teach those subjects at the reservation school.

* * *

"It keeps me busy," he says, "but it has to be done. I hope this is only the start of better things for those people."

The coastline of Florida is longer than that of any other state, 472 miles along the Atlantic Ocean and 675 miles along the Gulf of Mexico sector.

To Sneak Up With

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Police Department has ordered 30 new police cars, painted various pastel shades. Commissioner James M. Hepbron said the department eventually will be fully equipped with vari-colored autos instead of the present black ones.

The idea is to make them harder to spot.

Hollywood Headlines

Doris Day's New Picture Will Be Adapted to Opera

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Many movies have been made from operas ("Carmen," "Romeo and Juliet" etc.) but "Julie," Doris Day's new drama, is the first movie to be adapted to opera.

Leonard Pennario, who wrote the score for "Julie," and author-director Andrew Stone are collaborating on presenting Doris' drama —not as grand opera—"but more along the lines made famous by Gain Carlo-Menotti's 'Saint of Bleeker Street' and Gershwin's 'Porgy and Bess,'" Pennario tells me.

I was also very interested to hear that the dramatic musical version of "Julie" will first be presented at the Experimental Opera Workshop of the University of California at Los Angeles before being taken to New York.

An all-out search has been made to get another picture for Victoria Shaw, the Australian beauty who is such a hit in "The Eddy Duchin Story." Victoria is getting the same buildup that hoisted Kim Novak to stardom so rapidly, and she's expected to become a big star.

In New York, George Sidney, who directed "The Eddy Duchin Story," read "A Little More Time," David Chandler's new novel, and bought it for Victoria.

Everything has come this girl's way—her marriage to Roger Smith on July 28, plus the treatment the studio is giving her.

ROLE FOR VERA

Vera Miles' boss, Alfred Hitchcock, thinks so highly of her that he is costarring her with James Stewart in "From Amongst the Dead," which Hitchie plans to start Nov. 1.

This means, of course, that Jimmy won't do "Designing Woman" at MGM even if Dore Schary finds a substitute for Grace Kelly.

Just before Hitchie took off for London and Africa to set up Flamingo Feather," his next production, he had a telephone call from Cary Grant in Spain.

Cary invited the master of thriller-dillers to come there and talk with him about a coming-up picture before Hitchie returns to the U.S.A.

Tomorrow William Holden returns from Europe and the first date he has is right in the projection room at Warner Brothers studio where he'll see "Toward the Unknown," his independent picture which he made with Mervyn Leroy directing.

As I told you, Bill didn't get into Russia—he couldn't get his visa—and maybe it's just as well.

WEDDING EXPECTED

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Edward G. Robinson is expected to marry Jane Arden, high fashion designer in New York, after Gladys obtains her divorce.

The irony of why Susan Hayward didn't get an Oscar for "I'll Cry Tomorrow" comes up again when the Laurel Award of Motion Picture Exhibitor magazine acclaims Susan the top actress of the past year. This is the poll which theater owners conduct.

Ten-year-old Tim Hovey confides to friends that he has a crush on Portland Mason. Tim is the "older" type that Porty likes. She's 7.

I like the title of Western actor Monty Hale's new song. "The Sugar in Your Sweet Talk Ain't Worth the Salt in My Tears."

Penny Singleton, at the Mocambo for only one week, had a first night to remember. Hate to brag, but she used the idea I originated of one star introducing another. Mitch Leison, who staged Penny's act, introduced Liberace, who, in turn, introduced Penny.

Pilar and John Wayne vacation for a few weeks in Honolulu before John takes off for location on "Wings of Eagles."

Officials Discuss Water Problem

Commission Seeks to Expand State Powers to Help Local Units

LANSING (AP) — State officials say they will try once more to enlarge the state's power to solve local water problems.

* * *

The need for more state control was agreed upon at a special meeting of the State Water Resources Commission in the office of Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Kavanagh, assigned by Gov. Williams to handle water problems.

"The law needs to be changed to give the commission more authority in helping local units solve their problems," said Milton P. Adams, executive secretary of the commission.

Adams said the underlying problem in most of the state's water and sewage troubles is money.

"Cities and towns are asking for money. They want the state to back local financing. They don't want us to draw plans for projects and construct them," Adams said.

Adams lamented the defeat of a legislative proposal to set up a 200 million dollar revolving fund to provide state backing for local water and sewage bond issues.

The proposal, a constitutional amendment which would have required voter approval, was defeated at the last regular session of the Legislature.

* * *

Despite agitation from cities and towns for this kind of backing, the proposal received almost no support and was killed in a Senate committee, Adams said.

Amvets Meeting at Grand Rapids for Convention

Three Pontiac posts were represented as the Michigan Amvets opened their 12th annual state convention at Grand Rapids today.

Attorney Anthony Renne, of Post 46, will be a top candidate for State Commander at the election of officers scheduled for Saturday. Jerry White, senior vice commander of Bemis-Olsen Post 113, is an aspirant for the post of state judge advocate.

Jimmy Dey Post 12 is the other local group taking part in the two-day event with three delegates. The other city posts each sent four delegates to the convention.

Malcolm Oswald is representing Post 113 and over 2,500 Amvets at General Motors Truck and Coach.

Local beauty contest winners, Janet Anderson, of Post 16, and Nan Harleyvetch, Post 113, will compete in the state contest to select Miss Michigan Amvet.

State Commander Edwin L. Numbers, of Detroit, called the convention of 2,100 Amvets to order today. Governor G. Mennen Williams and Congresswomen Martha Griffiths will be the featured speakers.

Reduction in VA pension benefits, an extension of the GI Home Loan Program, and the starting of new legislative attempts at establishing Communist-control laws, will be among the main items on the agenda at the convention.

English May Become Yankees Before Long

By EARL WILSON

LONDON—Our first stop on the way to Moscow was Merrie Old England where son Slugger complained, "It sounds like they speak a foreign language here."

"Yeah, it's foreign to you—it's English," Pop said.

But the English will be speaking American soon, for the Great Yankee Invasion grows astonishingly each year in this city of 9½ million.

"Jack Benny did a special TV show here," one of the chaps said, "which was the best we've ever had—except maybe one by Bob Hope."

They love the little gal from Carolina, Eartha Kitt, at the snooty Cafe des Paris—and the pretty girl who's such a hit at the Stork Room turns out to be a boy, "Ricki Renee," a female impersonator from Miami Beach, Fla.

One of England's most sophisticated gents tried to make a date with ravishing Renee, not knowing that Renee's real name is Jack.

A British driver told me four touring ladies from Evanston, Ill., had completely Americanized him on a trip—taught him to play gin rummy, drink whisky sours and eat apple pie "with a bit of cheese on it."

Even though so many Americans are here, the humor remains British. (We have to allow them to keep something of their own). There was one in the Sunday Times about a certain Duke. A guest asked the butler how His Grace was today.

"His Grace is in excellent spirits, Sir," replied the Butler. "He helped me button on his braces this morning."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Frank Sinatra's mother was hospitalized . . . Eva Gabor has an offer to broadcast the wrestling matches from Las Vegas.

Mae West flew to L.A. to sign a leading man for her summer stock show, "Come On Up, Knock Twice" . . . Gloria de Haven's tight gown split and fell during her show at El Rancho Vegas . . . Actor Charles Coburn will tour this fall, lecturing for the repeal of the income tax . . . Mrs. Will Rogers, Jr., is a patient at the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital in Saranac, N. Y.

George Sanders will unveil his cafe act—as a singer—in the fall . . . The Jim Jordans (he's the son of Fibber McGee and Molly) cancelled divorce plans.

Vera Ellen was offered the lead in the Folies Bergere in Paris . . . "The King and I" movie racked up a total of seven million bucks.

Earl's Pearls . . .

No one has more trouble keeping up with the Joneses than Old Man Jones—Clark (Kans.) Clipper.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "A bathing suit is like this—it'll either show you off or show you up."—Robert Q. Lewis.

Comic Tom Cozzi, who used to be a baseball player, was asked to name the most difficult position in the field. His answer: "Between two rookies." That's earl, brother.

Beethoven Tops Rock, Gotham Study Shows

NEW YORK (INS) — The rock 'n' roll craze may be taking the nation by storm these days, but in New York, it's Beethoven, three to one.

A survey at a New York area supermarket chain revealed that shoppers bought three times as many Beethoven records than rock 'n' roll the past two weeks.

The survey was shown at New York's Grand Union markets, which recently added classical records. It showed that Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony" topped rock 'n' roll by 300 per cent.

One estimate is that a quarter of the world's electricity will be produced by atomic energy in 1957.

Soviet Satellite Changes Hinted

Loose Commonwealth of Socialist States May Evolve Behind Curtain

MOSCOW (INS)—Western observers believe the present Communist bloc of nations may be replaced by a loose grouping of Communist countries roughly along the lines of the British Commonwealth.

The possibility was discussed following the Yugoslav-Soviet declaration ending the rift between the two Communist countries over differences of policy.

Such a "socialist commonwealth" phase would provide "liberty of action" which the joint declaration reserved for the Russo-Yugoslav Communist parties.

Yugoslav sources reportedly feel the Soviet Union is already moving toward a system of loose political, economic and military coordination with the satelites behind the Iron Curtain.

* * *

The sources said Marshal Tito advised Moscow to take such a course in his talks with top Soviet leaders.

Ninth Marriage Is Quite Enough—Charlie's Quitting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Orchestra leader Charlie Barnet, 42, his ninth marriage now behind him, say he may retire from the matrimonial scene.

* * *

His ninth wife, Linda Joyce Johnson, 23, yesterday in Superior Court obtained an annulment of their proxy Mexican marriage. They were wed less than two months.

Miss Johnson's attorneys told the court that the proxy papers were not legally notarized and therefore the marriage was invalid.

When asked about his future matrimonial plans, Barnet told a newsman:

"I think I had better retire."

Allot More Water for Thirsty Town

BETHANY, Mo. (AP) — Water-pinched Bethany, its municipal reservoir down to a two - week supply, could take heart today. Its pleas for help have not gone unheeded.

* * *

Yesterday, Gov. Phil M. Donnelly called on Army engineers for a proposed 20-mile pipline which would tap the North Grand River.

Meanwhile, this northwest Missouri town of 2,714 awaited an emergency truckload of water from neighboring Pattonsburg, 17 miles south.

* * *

Also, Fort Smith, Ark. — with two lakes "spilling over"—has offered Bethany a trainload of water, if the railroads agree to haul it.

But as if to remind Bethany of its plight, a fire yesterday destroyed a private garage, including two automobiles.

Firemen hosed down nearby buildings with only five minutes of water allowed, then helplessly watched the garage go up in flames.

Slate Cadillac Election

CADILLAC (AP)—The City Commission has scheduled a special election Aug. 21 on a proposal seeking to bond the city for $1,700,000 in revenue and general obligation bonds to finance water system improvements.

BIG RAPIDS (AP)—Dr. Karl G. Merrill, vice president of Ferris Institute since 1941 and a staff member for 36 years, plans to retire from his post effective July 1. A Ferris alumnus, he had been designated vice president emeritus by the board of control.

Hal Boyle Says:

U.S. Men Rated as Real Beau Brummels

NEW YORK (AP)—Hey, Joe, you wear your pants too long.

Your coatsleeve is too long also.

But in spite of that, Joe, you are the male peacock of the world the best dressed man on earth.

HE SAYS SO

Who says so? Michael Daroff says so. Daroff is president of H. Daroff and Sons, a Philadelphia firm which this year expects to turn out 900,000 men's suits and sport outfits.

* * *

Many an American wife thinks her husband is downright skillful when it comes to taking out the garbage or drying the dishes, but she complains that too often he looks like a walking gunnysack. When she thinks of a well dressed man, she thinks of a Continental type, a suave European.

Daroff, who just returned from an extended visit to Europe, says this is all nonsense—that American wives are married to Beau Brummels and don't know it.

* * *

"They should see how European men really dress," he said. "Stylewise, they are miles behind the times. The fashion center for men's clothing isn't over there. It's here.

"American men are the best dressed in the world."

YANKS ENVIED

Daroff said a proof of this is that European men, who tend to look down on American husbands as kitchen slaves to their wives, do envy them their clothing.

* * *

"They are hungry for American styles," he said. "A 'Made in America' label on men's clothing has come to mean comfort and fashion leadership on the Continent.

"They'd all wear American suits if they could afford them, but they can't—because of high import duties and taxes. On the other hand, if European manufacturers shipped over here the same style of clothing they make for their own people, we couldn't sell them. We'd have to give them away. Some of their styles are the same they were showing in 1939."

Asked which European men were the best dressed, Daroff said flatly:

"None of them. The English still go around in bowler hats and suits that look two sizes too small for them. On the Continent the suits are more comfortable but they have a box-like look.

TO LOOK TALLER

"American clothing is designed to flatter a man and make him look taller. In Europe they don't bother to flatter a customer—they just cover him up."

Daroff, who is as full of statistics as he is of sartorial patriotism, gave these further facts and style conjectures.

"The somber charcoal look is on the way out in America. (At last!) It was too old mannish. A brighter gray, and of course blue, will be the favorite colors this fall.

* * *

"Double breasted suits are coming back. So is the squarershaped shoulder.

PANTS TOO LONG

"What are the most common mistakes men make in their clothing? They wear their pants too long—they should just reach the shoe top, not break over the instep—and their coatsleeves, too. At least a half inch of shirt cuff should protrude from the coatsleeve.

* * *

"About 51 per cent of American husbands are accompanied by their wives when buying a suit. But men should listen even more to their wives when picking out the shoes, ties, socks and shirts to wear with their suits. Women are better at selecting a good color ensemble. They should be. They've got more time to think about such things.

"Half the men's suits sold in America are priced around $65.

BASIC WARDROBE

"For $700 a man can be well dressed on a basic wardrobe consisting of three winter suits, three summer suits, two sport coats, four pairs of slacks, two topcoats and a raincoat. He can keep up such a wardrobe for less than $200 a year."

Daroff is probably his own best customer. He gets 20 new suits a year—and buys them from himself.

Tough Luck

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Grace Kirkwood's Pekinese caught its tail in the drive shaft of her washing machine. Firemen found the tail wrapped round-and-round the mechanism. They emptied the washer, turned it upside down and turned the shaft in reverse, by hand, and slowly the tail was unwrapped. Mrs. Kirkwood says her pet's tail has a kink in it, but she hopes it won't be permanent.

About 200 different kinds of mosquitoes can transmit malaria.

Church Contracts Let

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — Contracts totaling $320,000 have been let for construction of a new St. Patrick's Catholic Church to replace an 80-year-old structure which was razed to make way for relocated U.S.31 through Grand Haven.

Tiny Microphone Assists Doctors in Heart Cases

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Medical science has developed a tiny microphone, smaller than a pin head, that is inserted into the heart so doctors can locate the exact spot and record the precise sound of cardiac trouble.

* * *

Actually, microphone might be the wrong word. The device, produced at the Philadelphia General Hospital by Dr. David H. Lewis, is a miniature "transducer" —a medical application of naval acoustic technology developed for anti-submarine warfare.

Dr. Samuel Bellet, chief of the division of cardiology at Philadelphia General who has aided Dr. Lewis in his discovery, said "this is the first time we have been able to listen to the heart sounds direct.

"Always before we had to listen with a stethoscope, through the chest wall, the lungs and the heart muscle," he said.

Marlene's 69 Baffles Back-9 Blues at LPGA

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The story of the LPGA and the Wolverine Amateur can be found in the rugged back nine at the Forest Lake Country Club.

Only 7 pros and 1 amateur of the 54 entries were able to better the ladies par 39 coming in, and it was Marlene Bauer Hagge who stole the show in the first round of the 72-hole championship, with a blazing 6-under-par 69.

This is a new women's record for the course, breaking the 71 mark which was set by Marlene herself along with Fay Crocker and Pat Devany.

In the amateur ranks, it was 16-year-old Mary Mills who conquered the back nine and as a result took the lead in the Wolverine with a 39-36-76.

* * *

Two strokes behind Marlene is veteran Patty Berg who equaled the little blond's first nine 35 to go with her 36 going out for a 71.

Two birdies on the short two and four holes enabled Marlene to post a 2-under 34 for the first nine, but it was a breath-taking putt on the 18th that brought a roar from the gallery.

SIZZLING 69 — Marlene Bauer, who is currently carrying the hottest win streak in the LPGA, lived up to her role as favorite in the first round at Forest Lake yesterday by firing a 6-under-par 69 to take the lead.

Marlene chipped short and the ball stopped 15 feet away from the cup. She took careful aim and the ball went uphill and dropped.

"I wanted to get that 69 so bad," she said coming off the green. It gave her a par for the hole.

Marlene continued her red hot putting which has made her the current top money maker in the LPGA with three titles in the last five meets.

Ten pros fired 35 and under on the first nine with Betty Dodd joining Marlene at 34. Miss Dodd however zoomed to 43 on the back nine for a 77.

* * *

Louise Suggs was third behind Miss Berg with a 35-37-72 including an eagle-2 on eight.

Joyce Ziske, who has been taking runnerup honors this year, was in 4th place with a two-under-par 73.

* * *

In a 4-way tie for 5th position with 74's were Betty Jameson, Mickey Wright, Gloria Fecht and Marilynn Smith, the associate pro at Forest Lake.

The amateurs especially found the going rough on the back nine. Miss Mills, with a 39-37-76, was one of only two amateurs in the Wolverine division, who had par or better coming in. Women's par is 36-39-75.

Miss Jean Hopkins hit par 39 on the last nine holes after a 41 going out.

Helen Grinnell, who teamed with Mickey Wright to win the pro-am best ball on Wednesday, was second behind Miss Mills with a 37-41-78.

Favorite Sally Sharp ran into trouble on 10 and 12 in going out of bounds, to finish 40-44-84.

This morning the amateurs started teeing off at 10:43. The proettes were scheduled for 12:50 with Sally Sessions and Irene Bretzlaff starting the second round.

It was announced yesterday that the amateurs would play 72 holes through Sunday and not 54 as early publicity had indicated.

Sharp Shots at LPGA

Somebody goofed. All the publicity that went out about the Wolverine Amateur tournament gave the information that the amateurs would play 54 holes and finish up Saturday.

SALLY SHARP Many of the amateurs had trips and other activities scheduled for Sunday so today the mad rush is on to get ready for an additional 18 holes.

* * *

It was learned yesterday, however, that amateurs will play the 18 holes on Sunday for a total of 72 holes.

* * *

Couple holes are still soggy in the back nine from the heavy rain early this week and as a result a couple of imbedded balls brought out the rules committee for interpretations yesterday. Rulings were interpreted about lifting imbedded balls.

* * *

Alice Bauer said she is going to be extra cautious about the 10th hole. She took a bogey 6 after her second shot went into the rough and found it plenty tough.

* * *

Concentration plus was the description of Mary Mills, the 16-year-old Mississippi Amateur champion who shot a 1 over par 76 yesterday. Mary really did a great job on that rugged back nine.

* *

The singing in the clubhouse Wednesday night was a greeting for Diane Garrett who celebrated her 19th birthday.

* * *

That new rabbit's foot, Marilynn Smith has clipped to her skirt must have something to it. If it guarantees to bring 74's then all the girls will be wearing one.

INTERPRETER NEEDED — Fay Crocker of Montivideo, Uruguay, rambled out some Spanish when she missed a putt on the 18th green at Forest Lake yesterday. Miss Crocker, winner of the Wolverine last year, found her putter napping as she shot a 37-41—78 in the LPGA opening round. In the background to the right is Peggy Kirk, member of the threesome who shot a 36-41—77.

Final Olympic Bids Begin in AAU Meet

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — The National AAU Track and Field championships get underway on a two-night run tonight with around 550 competing for more than just AAU medals.

At stake for such as the Rev. Bob Richards, Mal Whitfield and Harrison (Old Bones) Dillard is the final chance to try out for the 1956 U.S. Olympic team next week in Los Angeles.

Parry O'Brien of shot put renown; sensational Bobby Morrow of the sprints; half-miler Arnie Sowell and quarter-milers J.W. Mashburn, Lou Jones and Jim Lea have already qualified for the Olympic team tryout finals.

They qualified either in the National Collegiate or the armed forces interservice meets last week.

But Richards & Co., plus marathon man Horace Ashenfelter, javelin stars Bud Held and Cy Young, and discus artist Fortune Gordien, must do it here to get to Los Angeles, the very last step in the formation of the U.S. team which will go to Australia this fall.

Nine finals are on tonight's schedule, starting with preliminaries at 6 p.m. (PDT) and running events at 8 p.m. in Bakersfield College's Memorial Stadium.

The track is a composition of clay and crushed brick, the latter the salvage of an earthquake here four years ago.

Abilene, (Tex.) Christian's young Mr. Morrow will find out how fast it is in the 100 prelims and finals tonight.

* * *

So will such runners as Lea and Jones in the 400 meters, Jack Davis and Lee Calhoun in the high hurdles; Eddie Davis, the Texas freshman, and Glen Davis in the 400 meter hurdles.

How the track suits the long-range wanderers will be discovered in the 10,000-meter grind by Joe Tyler of the U.S. Navy and ex-Penn Dick Hart, along with no less than 54 others, if all start as entered.

Midget Tigers Crowding Hose for First Place

Tigers continued their climb toward 1st place yesterday by defeating the Red Sox 9-3 in a Federal Savings Midget League game played at Boys Club.

* * *

Now only about one game out of 1st place, Tigers scored in four innings to down the Red Sox. Marvin Merwin led the 9-hit attack with three singles for the Tigers. Doug Johnson was winning pitcher, while Jay Shimmick was credited with the loss.

Athletics did not help the White Sox solidify their 1st place position as they beat them 5-1. Bob Goff limited the Sox to three hits in a stellar mound performance.

Tigers Meet Orioles

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, with 10 setbacks in the last 15 starts, will try to bolster a sadly slumping won-lost average at the expense of Baltimore tonight.

The Orioles open a three-game stand at Briggs Stadium, now becoming known as the happy hunting grounds of Mickey Mantle — a batsman, alas, for the New York Yankees.

Mantle and his fellow New Yorkers slammed almost too many home runs to tabulate in their three games here earlier this week. The Yankee wins were revenge for the three straight games the Tigers took in their last appearance at Yankee Stadium.

Tiger fans like to talk 'bout the time the Bengals took those three from the Yankees because they came during an impressive road tour that brought new hope to Detroit boosters.

Detroit had a seven-game winning streak on the tour and ended the road tip with 11 wins against 5 setbacks, rising at one point to within two games on second place.

The Tigers are in 5th place now with a puny 27-31 won-lost average despite some rather impressive team statistics.

The Bengals have a team batting average of .268 with three players over the .350 mark. They've collected 61 homers and 84 doubles in 58 games, and in 26 games have banged out 10 or more hits.

Any attempt at finding the trouble always seems to lead back to Briggs Stadium, where the Tigers have compiled a miserable 9-18 record.

"It makes you sick to lose all those games in your own park," comments manager Bucky Harris.

His lament is being increasingly echoed around the Motor City.

Fightin' Farmer 9 Stays at Loop Top

Third week of a 9-week schedule for the Free Methodist Church Softball League finds Fightin' Farmers emerging in the lead with three victories and no defeats. Three remaining teams are tied, each having one victory and two losses.

Crusaders gave Farmers a close call last night, coming from behind to tie the score 20-20 in the 7th, only to lose out in the 8th.

Bulldogs came through with a victory, beating the Sluggers 19-9.

Taylor's Homer Paces 9-3 Win

Shortstop Mel Taylor blasted a three-run homer in the 1st inning as the CIO Local 594 routed Oliver Buick, 9-3, in a Class A City League baseball game Thursday night at Wisner Field.

* * *

Two big innings accounted for all of the CIO's runs and Taylor's circuit smash against pitcher Hudd Johnson got the Union club off to a flying start. The winners scored four times in the 1st and added five more in the 4th.

* * *

John Wagner started on the mound for the CIO and worked until the 4th stanza when he was chased by a three-run Buick uprising. Jim Wagner hurled the rest of the way.

Lone Safety Unnecessary as Elks Beat Royal, 1-0

Elks No. 810 garnered only one hit and it failed to produce any runs, but Royal Bar still suffered a 1-0 setback in City League softball play last night at Beaudette Park.

Royal's Cal Atwood pitched hitless ball until the 6th inning. Then, with one out, Ron Geiger was safe on an error by Chuck Nichols. A throwing error by catcher Jerry Beck and a repeat miscue by Nichols permitted Geiger to race home with the game's lone run.

Jim Davis followed with the Elks' only safety off Atwood, a wasted double. Pete Mihay hurled for the winners and scattered six hits while striking out eight.

Sam Benson scored three times in the 5th stanza to deadlock Shaw's, but the Jewelers rallied in the 6th and 7th frames for a 6-3 victory. Percy McConner fanned six batters in the last two innings in relief of pitcher Clell (Mutt) Morse, who received credit for the win.

North Side Auto Parts battered Gingellville, 22-2, in girls activity at North Side. Toni Galante clouted a grand-slam home run for the Auto Parts team and Nancy McCarter smacked a two-run homer for the losers.

Pulver Tire defeated Michigan Bell via forfeit, 7-0, in the other scheduled girls game.

Midget Cars Race Sunday

Make First Appearance of Season at Pontiac Speedway

Two slightly injured drivers plus plenty of spills and thrills marked Wednesday night's old model stock and modified hardtop auto racing program at the Pontiac Speedway.

Bob Gatton triumphed in the old model feature, Bill Crans won the dash and pursuit races, Don Baden and Phil Metzler were heat winners, and Gatton recorded the best time in the preliminary trials.

In the hardtop half of the show, John Wallace captured the feature and Benny Howell won the dash, pursuit and 3rd heat in addition to posting the top qualifying time. Bill Hubbard and Jerry Lafner were other heat winners.

Chuck Allen's hardtop rolled over seven times and Allen spent the night in the hospital for X-rays and treatment of shock. He was released Thursday. Don Farnsworth rolled over three times in his old model car, but received nothing worse than a severe shaking. Chuck Rogers twice rammed the wall, but was uninjured.

Midget cars invade the M39 oval Sunday night for their 1st appearance of the season. Time trials start at 7 o'clock, with the 1st race at 8:30.

Hurls Softball No-Hitter

Glenn (Wimpy) Johnson hurled a no-hit game to lead Emmanuel Baptist's 7-1 conquest of White Brothers and Gidley Electric rallied in the 7th to defeat Thrifty Drug, 3-2, in Waterford League softball action last night at Drayton Plains.

Johnson turned in the league's 1st no-hitter, struck out 15 batters, and altogether assisted in 19 of the game's 21 putouts. A hit batsman, passed ball, wild pitch, and infield out in the 2nd inning prevented a shutout. Johnson also drove in three runs with two singles and a double.

Gidley scored three runs in the final stanza for its decision over Thrifty. Ryson singled to tally the winning counter and pin defeat on Ed Farnsworth, who walked three men in the inning after hurling six stanzas without issuing a pass. Jim Cuthrell pitched the route for the winners.

Program Set for OCBC Regatta

By H. GUY MOATS

One of Southeastern Michigan's most colorful powerboat regattas is set for a big weekend at OCBC's Sylvan Lake headquarters.

The two-day APBA-sanctioned regatta gets under way Saturday, carries over Sunday afternoon and winds up with award of trophies and prizes at Oakland County Boat Club's clubhouse.

Event is the 40th annual power boat regatta sponsored by the club that in past years has presented some of the fastest boats and most skillful drivers in the business. Sunday's races will probably be no exception, with a number of top hydroplane drivers already on the list.

Public may witness the exhibition of expert water-skiing Saturday afternoon, starting at 1:30 p.m. and also the big races of Sunday, when 10 tests will be run, half of them opening heat. Heats start at 1:30 with the 48 CI hydros. Then, in order follow the 136, the 135, 225 and 266 hydros.

Club commodore Ken Smith heads the arrangements body for which Tom Comps is general chairman.

Among entries today were J. D. Smith of Cincinnati, O., in the 48s; Bill Muncey of Detroit with his 100-mile-an-hour 266; Don and Stuart Wilson of Dearborn, with 135 and 136s; Frank Heaven of Toledo with a 135, last year's fastest heat driver.

Owner Gordon Deneau will have his new Gold Cupper, What A Pickle, on display and the speedy craft may be seen in an exhibition run. Saturday it runs in the Canadian Maple Leaf Regatta.

Among personalities expected for the presentation ceremonies are Hon. Martha Griffiths, congresswoman and auditor-general Frank S. Szymanski. They were expected to make the awards, Comps reports.

Saturday night's Regatta Ball, in the gaily decorated clubhouse is set for 9 p.m. with music by Charles Lundgren.

If I had my choice of winning a headline sport event, I'd take the Bermuda yacht race. Some might select the Kentucky Derby or the World Series.

But a horse or a jockey, or both, win the Derby for you and a whole roster of ball players, scouts and coaches combine to share glory for the October classic.

If you win a Bermuda race you stand apart as a wise captain, a shrewd navigator and a man who successfully braves the mighty elements.

New York Rider Wins Trophy

By BILL CORNWELL

A 26-year-old New York City man who rides for a hobby made it pay handsome dividends yesterday.

James R. Greene, employed by the Sterling Lumber Co. of Chicago, stuck a "king-sized" feather in his cap Thursday at the 30th annual Detroit Horse Show by winning the Midwest United States Equestrian Team Challenge Trophy.

Riding Moonflight, a chestnut mare, Greene negotiated the difficult 16-obstacle course without a jumping fault to win the important test in his first attempt at a U.S.E.T. trial.

Greene, completed the only his 5th horse show, completed the course in one minute and 15 seconds to exceed the time limit by five seconds. He was penalized with a 1¼ time fault, the only mark against him.

A former law student at Washington University in St. Louis, Mo., where he played polo, Greene spent approximately two years training Moonflight for major competition. It is presently the only horse he owns.

Greene resumed the conditioning of his animal in earnest after his discharge from the Army in November of 1955. He served a 21-month hitch, the last six months in Korea where he attained the rank of sergeant.

The New Yorker terms his mount "an excellent horse" and Moonflight's performance in last night's U.S.E.T. class certainly bears out his praise. The mare cleared all hurdles with effortless grace.

Victory in the Equestrian event is a major step toward winning the jumper championship. The Professional Horsemen's Association class and the F.E.I. "big jumping event" still remain in Greene's path.

Countryside Lane and Poppy, both owned by George W. Jayne of Chicago, took 2nd and 3rd respectively. Charles Dennehy, last year's winner, finished out of the running when Altmeister spilled an obstacle. Max Bonham ran into trouble with Velvet Lassie and was disqualified.

Four Oakland County exhibitors were winners yesterday at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club.

Zander Duffield of Rochester, astride Nick Nack, won the Junior F.E.I. "big jumping event" and Skip Dowd of Birmingham, riding Earncraft, captured the U.S.E.T. Equitation medal class.

Dragnet, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson of Lathrup Village, beat all comers in the green hunter hack class and Triple Shot, belonging to Mrs. G. J. Graham of Bloomfield Hills, won the hunter hack.

ON WAY TO FINALS — Howard Miller, Junior horseman from Rochester, takes his mount over an obstacle in Thursday morning's A. S. P. C. A. White Sox Sign MSU Pitcher to Contract

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox have signed Eddie Bobaugh, Michigan State University pitcher and 1955 baseball captain, to a contract with the Class B Waterloo, Iowa, farm club in the three I League. Hobaugh signed yesterday, had an overall college record of 15-8.

Fabius Tops in Ohio Derby

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fabius and Canadian Champ top a 10-horse field for the $40,000-added Ohio Derby at Thistle Down tomorrow.

Calumet Farm's Fabius—winner of the Preakness, second in the Kentucky Derby and third in the Belmont—figures to be a strong favorite in the 22nd running of Ohio's oldest and richest horse race.

• • •

The distance, a mile and an eighth, seems made to order for Fabius, who was nosed out by Needles in the mile-and-a-half Kentucky Derby, and led the Belmont by 7 lengths at the top of the stretch.

• • •

Canadian Champ, owned by W. R. Beasley, has won his last eight starts, including the $35,000 Queen's Plate. He turned in a sharp :48.3 for the half mile in a workout at Thistle Down yesterday, on a track slightly sluggish from an early morning rain.

• • •

Other starters named before entries closed last night are C. V. Whiteny's Born Mighty; Blue Grass Stakes winner Toby B., owned by G. Van Deren and O. S. Racetracker; the Exchange Stable's Perfector; Bernburgoo, owned by G. Holtsinger and J. McIlvian; Courtney Burton's Helicopter and Roman Battle, and Royal Dasher, owned by R. Fisher.

Tam Wins First Leg of 3-Way Tourney

First "leg" of the three-way inter-club round robin golf series among thre Oakland County clubs, Knollwood and Franklin Hills CC was won yesterday by Tam O'Shanter's 12-man team. Tam's dozen took 43½ points to 35 for Knollwood and 29½ for Franklin Hills. Next round will be in July at Knollwood. Three matches are played each season.

This is an annual event between the clubs, won last year by Tam O'Shanter. Yesterday's play was over the revamped Tam layout, with the home club champion, Maury Werny medalist with a sizzling 74. Rosenburg of Knollwood was closest with 79.

They collected a 7-under-par 65. Match play starts today, with the field of 128 teams finishing on Sunday.

Hawkins Holds Lead in Philadelphia Test

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Texan Fred Hawkins set out today to nurse a first-round lead in the $20,000 Philadelphia Daily News Open Golf Tournament, an advantage he picked up with a birdie-studded three-under-par 65 yesterday.

Hawkins, an El Paso pro, was only one stroke over the record for the par 68 Cobbs Creek course here.

He birdied the final three holes, coming home in 32 after heading out in 33.

Cary Middlecoff, the newly-crowned U.S. Open golf champion, didn't fare so well. He was seven strokes behind Hawkins and birdied only one hole against five bogeys, including three straight on the 15th, 16th and 17th holes.

Chestnut Wins Trot

DETROIT (AP) — Theo A. Abbe, 10-year-old chestnut, won the featured 8th race for class BB pacers at Wolverine Raceway last night. He returned $30.20, $9.80 and $7.40 across the board. A crowd of 7,954 wagered $316,594 on the nine races.

Chisox, Orioles Play in One-Hit Exchange

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In 1953, Jack Harshman gave his wife a catcher's mitt for Christmas. He wanted to practice all he could before making his bid as a major league pitcher the next spring, and after seven futile years as a first baseman, they both figured he had a lot of catching up to do.

Yesterday, he caught up with the record book.

* * *

Only twice since 1900 had major league pitchers battled each other with one-hitters in one game. Yesterday, the third such game went into the books—and Harshman won it 1-0 for the Chicago White Sox against Baltimore's Connie Johnson and George Zuverink.

The victory left the second-place Sox five games behind the American League-leading New York Yankees, who open a four-game series in Chicago's Comiskey Park tonight after an open date yesterday. In Thursday's other games Cleveland beat Boston and Tom Brewer's jinx 5-0 behind Early Wynn's four-hitter, and Kansas City slammed Washington back into the cellar, 15-6.

* * *

In the National, Milwaukee's Braves won their sixth straight under new Manager Fred Haney and retained first place with a 7-2 job on Pittsburgh's slumping Pirates. Brooklyn held on to second in the only other game played, beating St. Louis 9-8 as Roy Campanella hit a pair of three-run homers, his second tying it in a winning four-run ninth-inning rally with two out.

Rain postponed Chicago at New York in the only other game scheduled.

* * *

Harshman, a three-time loser as a first baseman with the New York Giants, has won only four of eight decisions with the White Sox this season. But three have been beauts. He beat Cleveland and Herb Score 1-0 in a double two-hitter in his first start April 19, and he beat Washington 7-0 on four hits June 16. He gave seven hits in the other victory, edging Baltimore 3-2.

The only hit the 28-year-old southpaw allowed yesterday was a seventh-inning double by Gus Triandos. But Harshman, who has a string of 20 scoreless innings going, nailed him at third after fielding Hal Smith's attempted sacrifice.

The only White Sox hit off Johnson, who went to Baltimore from Chicago last month, was a first-inning double by Nellie Fox. But it followed a leadoff walk to Jim Rivera, who then stole second. Johnson, who fanned seven, was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

* * *

It was the first double one-hitter since Bobby Cain and the St. Louis Browns (Baltimore's predecessors in the AL) beat Bob Feller and Cleveland 1-0 April 23, 1952. The winning run was scored in the first inning of that one, too, with Marty Marion, now White Sox field boss, driving it in as player-manager of the Browns.

Oldest State Angler Ohio Visitor, at 89

LANSING—Popularity of fishing in Michigan increases each year and there doesn't seem to be any age limit on the group that enjoys this recreation.

Zachary Veldhuis, 86, of Hamilton, was the oldest resident fisherman reported in 1955 fishing license sales and he still didn't hold the distinction of being the state's oldest angler. That honor went to a woman from Ohio, 89-year-old Grace Davey of Toledo.

Quizzing the Gardener

Q—Please suggest a few evergreens tolerant of city conditions, especially partial shade.

A—Evergreens will not long survive where smoke and soot abound. Exhaust fumes from trucks and automobiles likewise are damaging to plant life. However, where the air is not contaminated you can depend upon the several varieties of Japanese yew, inkberry, Korean boxwood, mahonia and the spreading English yew.

* * *

Q—Why don't my sweet peppers produce peppers? My plants blossom well, but do not bear.

A—Sweet peppers are sandy loam soil crops yield best on a well-drained soil that has been sweetened with lime. On heavier soils they invariably produce a luxuriant foliage with very little fruit. I believe that your soil should be lightened by working in a lot of sandy gravel and humus — plus lime at the rate of ten pounds per 100 square feet of garden area.

* * *

Q—What evergreens and flowers could be planted on the north side, which gets some sun?

A—You will get some results from perennials such as bleeding heart, Virginia bluebells, plantainlily, Japanese anemone, foxglove, lily-of-the-valley, primroses, baneberry; and the following annuals: tuberous begonias, torenia, nicotiana, browallia, pansies and balsam.

While rhododendrons, azaleas, and mountain laurel will be happy in strong shade, they will bloom but sparsely. Other good shade - tolerant evergreens are leucothoe, mahonia, English hew, Japanese holly and evergreen bittersweet.

* * *

Q—My French hybrid lilac bush, bought in bloom two years ago, has not bloomed, although it was moved last fall. What fertilizer shall I use? I was told to put bonemeal on this spring and dig it in a bit.

A—Lilacs thrive best in an open location and a rich, well-drained soil to which lime was added prior to planting. Yearly dressings of rotted manure and bonemeal are good. Since it was moved at the time of purchase and again last fall I am inclined to believe the plant is putting its efforts into re-establishing its root system. Do not be in a hurry—give it another year and it will bloom. In the meanwhile, do no pruning; just treat it according to directions.

New Pistol Prunes

Pistol pruner is the name given to a tree pruner and flower cutter that is shaped like a pistol. The cutter is at the end of the pistol and it is operated by pulling the trigger. The pruner, nearly nine inches long, will cut branches up to a half inch in diameter. Maker maker is Pistol Pruner Co. of Rockville Center, N. Y.

Home Melons Require Care

Food, Water Will Help Gardeners Grow Top Vegetables

It is a proud home gardener who can feast his friends on sweet muskmelons or watermelons grown in his own garden. Melons and squash are usually the last vegetables sown in the spring, as they require warm weather from start to finish.

* * *

A light, well drained soil, lots of water and more plant food than you are accustomed to using on other vegetables pays off especially well with the melons. The vines of squash and muskmelons can be grown as climbers, provided large fruits are supported. A mesh bag such as often used for fruits in supermarkets provides a good support.

With melons the time required from seed sowing to maturity will determine the variety you sow. Muskmelons take from 80 to 100 days. Seed cannot be sown until at least a week after the frost-proof date when the ground is thoroughly warm. If nights continue cold it may be desirable to protect seedling plants with waxed paper tents at first.

Both muskmelons and watermelons are usually grown in hills, which may be as close together as three feet each way, in small gardens. Such close spacing is likely to reduce the size of the fruits, and more room should be given where possible.

Heavy fertilizing pays well. As much as a pint of balanced plant food may be mixed well with the soil beneath each hill several days before the seed is planted. Or use a shovel of well rotted manure, and half a pint of plant food. Sow ten seeds to the hill and thin out to the two strongest plants that develop.

* * *

Do not harvest watermelons or muskmelons until they are ripe, as they improve in flavor very little after they are picked. It takes some study to determine when a watermelon is ripe, without "plugging" it. Thumping is one test, ripe melons giving a dead flat sound, green ones a ringing sound. The color of the spot where the melon lay on the ground usually changes from greenish white to yellow as it ripens.

Squash are not so demanding as melons, though some are just as sweet. Italian marrows, which produce mature fruits weighing pounds, are delicious when a few days old. You can select your squash from many different types, some maturing in 60 days and others 100 days. Many are splendid winter keepers, and sweeter than melons when properly cooked.

WANDERING VINE — This athletic wisteria has climbed to the top of a windmill at the J. L. Van Wagoner home, 6545 Andersonville Rd. It's quite a picture to see the windmill in the lovely lawn setting at the VanWagoner's. Mrs. VanWagoner says that the vine has been on the property for many years and gets many comments when in bloom.

From the Garden Editor

Texas is at it again trying to produce a new kind of oil and this time it's an oil from roses known as attar of roses or rose absolute, the basic ingredient used in the manufacture of perfume.

* * *

Some 30,000 rose bushes of a special plentifolja variety imported from France have recently been planted in deep east Texas and when the roses bloom, a special extraction plant will be ready to take the precious oil worth $750 a pound in France from the petals.

The hard rain last Sunday fixed quite a few of the local flower beds. Mrs. Leo Bex, 37 Moreland, called to say how pretty her roses (American Beauty) had been before the rain. Lemon lilies and white peonies added to the scene in her garden that literally stopped the passersbys.

A call from her daughter revealed that Mrs. Thomas Campbell, 169 Cadillac, has a most beautiful garden. The hybrid roses are at their loveliest. One rose we always like to hear about, the Peace rose, has 20 blooms as big as saucers. That's a sight worth seeing.

Giving a summer's glance through the nursery company catalogue, I'm taken with the lovely pictures of flowering trees. The crabs, dogwood and magnolias were so lovely this year.

City Forester Names Tree Insects

By DONALD E. NAGEL
City Forester

Some of our most destructive shade tree insects are the chewing insects. We can further divide them into the type of tissue they feed on. Some are surface eaters, some are leaf miners, and still others are leaf rollers.

The surface eaters are those adults or larvae that feed on the surface or the entire leaf. Surface eaters are the most easily controlled by applying poisons to the surface of the leaves. Examples of this type of leaf eater is the cankerworm, Red Humped Oak worm, Gypsy moth, Fall Army worm, and Pine Saw flies to mention some.

The leaf miners are insects that feed between the upper and lower layers of the leaf. They are among the smallest of the insects. They destroy all the green tissue of the leaf and it turns brown.

In other cases the infestation may consist of only an occasional tunnel and upon close examination the insect can be found. Examples of leaf miners are the Birch miner, Arborvitae miner, Elm miner, Oak miner and Lilac miner.

Control of the miners is more difficult. Nicotine Sulfate must be applied after the eggs are deposited and before the mines exceed one and one-fourth inches in diameter. Infected leaves can be picked and burned also as a control measure.

The leaf rollers are a type of insect that roll the leaf and tie it with silk, or construct a bag-like structure or a case. These insects tie the leaves about themselves and feed on the inside layers.

The tent makers and bag worms build their bags and tents around small twigs and leaves and feed on the enclosed leaves. It is obvious to see that this is the most difficult insect to control. The trees must be sprayed early in spring as soon as the foliage has opened.

Much can be done in reducing the population by collecting and destroying egg masses during the winter, when the egg masses can be seen on the twigs. It has been reported that for every 10 egg masses destroyed, 1,500 to 2,500 caterpillars will be destroyed.

Fortunately there are numerous parasites and predators that prey on this group of insects. Examples of this type of insect are Basswood leaf roller, Locust leaf roller and Grape leaf roller.

The most common tentmaker is the eastern tent caterpillar. This insect must not be confused with the web worm. The web worm spins its silken net around several leaves whereas the tent maker uses a crotch and several small branches for the framework for the silk tent.

Summing up, then, the following are the most prevelent insects found in Pontiac on trees are the canker worm, the tussock moth, the tent caterpillar, the web worm, the box elder bug, the aphids, elm bark beetle and borers.

Perennial and Biennial Seeds Can Be Planted

Perennial and biennial seeds can go into the ground from now on. Set them into seed-bed rows (water the soil down thoroughly ahead of time if the weather has been dry) and thin out later.

They may be transplanted into permanent positions in the fall or next spring.

Extra Irrigation Can Increase Farm Yields

COLUMBUS, Ohio (INS) — Supplemental farm garden irrigation, even during periods of normal rainfall, can increase yields by as much as 50 per cent.

D. M. Byg, an Ohio State University extension agricultural engineer, says irrigation at the right time insures better and more even germination of seeds, more uniform growth of plants and greater yield and higher quality products.

Use Precaution Sowing Now

Hot Weather Methods Differ Soil-Wise From Those in Spring

Most amateurs have small difficulty in growing plants from seed in cool, moist, spring weather. But in the hot, dry weather of summer it is often a different story.

There is no reason to fail with hot weather sowing if a few precautions are taken, but careless methods which are successful in the spring, may fail.

Soil conditioning experiments, following the introduction of chemical conditioners, have focused attention upon the top inch of garden soil. Rain and sun beat down upon it and if it contains much clay a few hours' sunshine on damp soil will bake it into a hard crust which neither air nor water can easily penetrate.

The easiest way to avoid this is to prepare a special soil with which to cover seeds in hot weather. The quantity needed is relatively small. It should contain no clay whatever, and at least one-half organic matter such as peat moss or compost, the other half sharp sand. Use it to cover all seed after June 1.

Practically all late sowing can be done in drills (shallow trenches) and these should be made two or three inches deep. The next step is to fill the drill with water several times, so the ground is soaked deeply. Sow seed on top of the damp soil and cover it with your special soil.

This in turn should be soaked. It will hold moisture well and cannot form a crust. It may be necessary to sprinkle it daily to prevent the seed drying out. High temperatures combined with abundant moisture will speed germination so your seeds should soon emerge from underground.

Until the seedling plants have begun to grow and become established, the soil should be sprinkled frequently. This is the only time when light and frequent sprinkling is advisable in the garden.

Throughout the summer it will be necessary to make sure that the garden receives at least one inch of water a week, either from rain or from the hose.

Keep Cut Flowers Fresh, Longer

Flowers should be cut in the cool, cool, cool of the evening—or the same climate-time in the morning.

That's the advice of Ruth Jamison, house furnishings specialist at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Stand the flowers up to their necks in cold water in a dark place several hours or overnight before arranging them. Cut stems with a sharp knife on a slant to enable each to absorb more water.

Burn with matches the stems of flowers with milky sap such as poppies and hollyhock, then place in cold water.

Hollow-stemmed flowers such as dahlias, delphiniums, lupines and larkspur can be best conditioned by dipping the cut ends into boiling water for a short period. Place them in cold water overnight.

* * *

Strip off any foliage that will be under water before arranging the more runs. Of Ott's years eight flowers. Cut flowers when in bud and let them open up in the ar-

Iris stalks should be cut when the blooms wither and not permitted to seed. Leave the foliage alone, however.

Digging, Storing Time Has Come for Narcissis

Bulbs of the narcissis family — daffodils and all the rest — may have ripened enough by this time for digging and storing . . . if such a procedure is necessary.

However, if the newly formed bulbs have developed root systems, they should not be stored but replanted instantly.

Time enough for dividing and breaking up clumps later if that is required — but make certain the spot is marked for the foliage may have withered away later on.

Copy Other Gardens

If your garden suffers from an early-summer slump in bloom, take your garden diary in hand and go out looking at other people's gardens. Make notes on what you see that you like—and copy their ideas shamelessly.

GM Windshields Safest Made, Declares Official

DETROIT — Charles A. Chayne, General Motors Vice President in Charge of Engineering Staff said today that "General Motors panoramic windshields are far and away the safest windshields we have developed."

"We have built over 7,000,000 cars with this type of windshield," Chayne said. "In checking with and all five General Motors car divisions, we do not have a single owner complaint of windshield curvature affecting driver vision."

"Further, and surprisingly," Mr. Chayne said, "the occasional dual or 'ghost' image condition experienced with flat windshields has been practically eliminated."

11,000 Okay Strike in Chrysler Plants

DETROIT (INS) — Employes in the Automotive Division of Chrysler Corp. have voted 94 per cent in favor of striking in a dispute over working conditions.

In a two-day vote 11,000 of the 18,000 members of Local 212 of the United Auto Workers cast ballots but approval of the strike must still come from international headquarters.

In the event of a strike, six Chrysler plants employing Local 212 members would be affected, plus 7,000 other employes in the Plymouth assembly, axle and engine plants.

The strike vote climaxed a series of disputes which saw the Mack Ave. Plant shut down by wildcat strikes six times between June 7 and June 15.

$2 Million Estimated to Pave Straits Bridge

LANSING (AP)—It'll cost $2,247,013 to pave the Mackinac Bridge and a 700-foot adjoining viaduct, the Mackinac Bridge Authority said today.

The authority said the low bid was entered jointly by Johnson Greene Co. of Ann Arbor and Louis Garavaglia of Center Line.

The authority said it expects to award the contract promptly and that construction will begin shortly afterwards.

An earlier group of bids was rejected by the authority because they were too high. The $2,247,013 was some $60,000 less than the lowest bid entered earlier.

Hitchhiker Safe

DANVILLE, Va. (AP)—Mrs. Arlon Loving heard a strange sound as she drove her station wagon for several miles. She stopped at a service station, had the vehicle raised on a grease rack for a quick inspection. Perched precariously on a rear spring and straddled over the axle was a tiny kitten. The kitten seemed none the worse for its buggy ride.

She Was Excited

CLEVELAND, Tenn. (AP)—Fifteen firemen answered a call to extinguish a grease fire in a housewife's stove. One man put it out—smothering it with a wet dishrag.

Stocks Continue Moderate Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices stepped ahead moderately in early afternoon today as the Stock Market continued its rallying phase.

Key issues gained fractions to around a point as advances were the rule in nearly all divisions.

* * *

Some specialties raced beyond that range and there was a scattering of losses as well.

Steels, however, were mixed and following issuance of strike instructions by the United Steelworkers preparatory to the June 30 deadline.

Motors were most actively traded. The fundamental current of business and industrial news remained good.

Ford was up more than a point and later shaded this gain slightly. Chrysler remained firm despite union approval of strike action.

Volume for the day was estimated at around 1,700,000 shares compared with 1,820,000 yesterday.

The associated press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 cents to $182.50, with the industrials up 30 cents, the rails up 50 cents and the utilities unchanged.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CHARTER OF THE VILLAGE OF WOLVERINE LAKE

Notice is hereby given that a proposed charter amendment to the Village charter entitled

We the people of the Village of Wolverine Lake by virtue of authority of the Constitution and Public Act 278 of 1909 do hereby ordain and amend this home rule charter for the Village of Wolverine Lake.

CHAPTER 16
BONDS

Section 16.1. The village council may borrow money on the credit of the village and issue the bonds of the village therefor, for any purpose within the scope of its powers, provided, that the net bonded indebtedness incurred for all public purposes shall not at any time exceed ten (10) percentum of the assessed valuation of all real and personal property in the village; provided, further, that in case of fire, flood or other calamity the legislative body may borrow for the relief of the inhabitants of the village and for the preservation of municipal property a sum not to exceed one-quarter (¼) of one (1) percentum of the assessed valuation of all real and personal property in the village, due in not more than three (3) years, even if such loan would cause the indebtedness of the village to exceed the said ten (10) percentum limitation; and provided, further, that in computing the net bonded indebtedness for the purposes hereof there shall not be included bonds issued in anticipation of the payment of special assessments, even though they are also a general obligation of the village, mortgage bonds which are secured only by a mortgage on the property or franchise or a public utility, and any other bonds which are excluded therefrom by law, and the resources of any debt retirement or sinking fund pledged for the retirement of any outstanding bonds which are included within said ten (10) percentum limitation, shall be deducted from the amount of such bonded indebtedness.

Section 16.2. The council may borrow money and issue the bonds of the village therefor in anticipation of the payment of special assessments made for defraying the cost of public improvements, after the special assessment roll shall have been confirmed. Such bonds may be an obligation of the special assessment district only or may be both an obligation of the special assessment district and a general obligation of the village. Such bonds shall not exceed the amount of the special assessments in anticipation of the collection of which they are issued, and shall bear such interests as the council may determine, not exceeding five (5) percentum per annum. Collections on special assessments pledged for the payment of bonds, shall be set aside in a special fund for the payment of such bonds. In no event shall such bonds be sold or otherwise disposed of at less than their par value. The issuance of special assessment bonds shall be governed by the provisions of the general laws of the state applicable thereto. Bonds may be issued in anticipation of the collection of special assessments levied in respect to two or more public improvements, but no special assessment district shall be compelled to pay the obligation of any other special assessment district.

Section 16.3. Whenever any portion of the cost of a public improvement shall be assumed by or changed to the village-at-large and the balance of such cost assessed to the property benefited, if the council shall provide for the payment of the village's portion of such cost in installments, then in such case bonds may be issued in anticipation of the payment of the amount assessed to the village-at-large, the same as they may be issued in anticipation of the payment of the amount assessed to the benefited property. In such case, there shall be appropriated each year an amount sufficient to pay the bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments against the village, when the same fall due. Nothing in this section contained shall be construed to require the financing of the village's portion of the cost of any improvement in the manner herein specified. It shall not be necessary to issue a separate series of bonds for the village's portion of the cost of any such public improvement, but such bonds may be included as a part of a total issue against all special assessments, including those against the village.

Section 16.4. The council may also issue the following obligations of the village, to-wit: tax anticipation notes, revenue bonds, refunding bonds and any other obligations authorized by law, subject to the provisions of such authorizing law.

Section 16.5. No bonds shall be issued unless approved by three-fifths (3/5ths) of the electors voting thereon at any general or special election; provided, that the foregoing shall not apply to bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes actually levied and uncollected or for which an appropriation has been made; or special assessment bonds, whether solely an obligation of the special assessment district or both an obligation of the special assessment district and a general obligation of the village; or bonds for the village's portion of local improvements; or refunding bonds or emergency bonds, and any other bonds which by law are not required to be approved by the electors.

Section 16.6. Every bond issued by the village shall contain on its face a statement specifying the object for which the same is issued.

Section 16.7. If term bonds be permitted in any case and such bonds be issued, then a sinking fund shall be created for the payment of the same, which sinking fund shall conform to all requirements of the state law.

Section 16.8. Bonds of the village shall be signed by the village president and clerk under the seal of the village. The coupons evidencing the interest upon said bonds shall be executed with the facsimile signatures of the village president and the clerk. A complete and detailed record of all bonds shall be kept by the clerk.

Section 16.9. The issuance of bonds by the village shall be subject to the provisions of the general laws of the state applicable thereto in so far as the same are applicable to the village, and that a certified copy of the proceedings of the Village Council meeting at which the bonds are authorized, and a certified copy of the bond register, shall be filed with the Municipal Finance Commission of the state of Michigan.

Section 16.10. The village council may by resolution submit to the electors of the village at any general or special election the question of issuing bonds for any purpose within the scope of its powers, stating in such resolution the purpose for which the proposed bonds are to be issued, the amount of bonds proposed to be issued, the maximum rate of interest to be paid thereon, and the maximum number of years in which the bonds will be paid. If a majority of the electors voting thereon shall vote in favor of the issuance of such bonds, the council may issue the bonds for the purpose and amount specified, but not exceeding the maximum rate of interest and the maximum number of years in which the bonds will be paid, as stated in the resolution submitting the question to the electors.

Section 16.11. Bonds issued in anticipation of the payment of special assessments shall be paid in full within six (6) months after the last installment of the assessment shall become due, and bonds issued in anticipation of the payment of taxes shall be paid in full within one (1) year after the date of issue.

Section 16.12. Bonds issued in anticipation of the payment of special assessments shall be issued only in an amount not exceeding the amount of special assessments remaining unpaid, and bonds issued in anticipation of the payment of taxes shall be issued only in an amount not exceeding the amount of taxes assessed upon the roll, less any portion thereof already collected.

Section 16.13. Upon the sale of any bonds, the proceeds thereof shall be deposited in the village treasury and shall be used only for the purpose specified in the proceedings authorizing the issuance of such bonds, except that any premium received upon the sale of such bonds shall be used to pay the principal of or interest on such bonds, and except that any proceeds remaining after the completion of the improvement for which the bonds were issued may be used to pay the principal of or interest on such bonds. The proceeds of taxes levied for the payment of bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes shall be deposited in the general fund of the village when collected.

Section 16.14. Whenever bonds issued by the village shall have been paid, the village clerk shall write "paid" across the face thereof and shall cancel the coupons attached thereto as they are paid. The village clerk shall maintain a record of all bonds and coupons paid, and of the date of payment.

Section 16.15. Bonds issued by the village may be sold to the state of Michigan at private sale without publication or notice.

Section 16.16. Bonds issued by the village may be purchased by the village for the sinking fund or other funds of the village, and may be resold by the village.

Section 16.17. Bonds issued by the village may be made callable at such price and upon such terms as may be determined by the council.

Section 16.18. Bonds issued by the village shall be negotiable, notwithstanding their payment from a special fund only.

Section 16.19. Bonds issued by the village shall be exempt from taxation to the extent provided by law.

Section 16.20. Bonds issued by the village shall not be subject to limitation by law upon the rate of interest which they may bear.

Section 16.21. Bonds issued by the village shall be sold in such manner as the council may determine.

Recreation Is Crippled as Domino Table Stolen

HUGO, Okla. (AP)—The summer recreation program for the elder citizens of this southeast Oklahoma town has been crippled.

Someone stole the domino table from under the trees in a downtown vacant lot. A reward of $15 was quickly posted. Deputy Sheriff Ed Thornton said the table, with attached seats, was so heavy it would take at least two persons with a truck to haul it away.

Uncle to Whole Class

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP)—The whole class cried "uncle" at the Little Red Schoolhouse on Patagonia road when State Rep. Robert Hathaway came to speak at the graduation exercises. The only member of the class was Glenn Hathaway, the speaker's nephew.

Declares Elvis Has No Talent

Rock 'n' Roll Vocalist Scheduled to Appear on July 1 Show

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—An open letter to Steve Allen:

Dear Steve:

Word comes to this department that you're planning to book Elvis Presley, the hysterical shouter of rock 'n' roll, for your second regular weekly NBC-TV show Sunday evening, July 1. Why?

* * *

Until now I've refrained from joining in the chorus of public and critical condemnation of Presley's primitive exhibition on the Milton Berle show a couple of weeks ago. My theory is that characters like Presley thrive on a bad press. The more they're condemned, the more people are aroused to watch and listen to them.

WISHFUL THINKING

Obviously, however, my thinking that something unpleasant would go away if ignored was wishful and foolish. For now, so soon, you apparently plan to bring Elvis the Pelvis back to a national television network to titillate teenage girls and cause numbskull boys to imitate him.

* * *

I'm not taking a moral stand in this case. Better watchdogs than I already have bayed a warning and the patrols are out.

* * *

My purpose in asking why you're booking Presley has another basis. Your television career has been marked by a high sense of humor and a great respect for talent. Presley certainly is not funny—though that is not my complaint against him. My argument against his appearance is simply lack of talent. I can't for the life of me see why you want to have such an untalented guy on your program.

NO TALENT INVOLVED

A very small but very noisy minority of the immature have been infected in recent years by the digga-boom convulsions known as rock 'n' roll. There is no talent involved in their rigorous efforts at self-torture.

* * *

Possibly you feel that Presley should put on one of his performances on your program because he is somehow an "American phenomenon." There are lots of American phenomena. One, for example, is Niagara Falls. You could train TV cameras on the Falls for five minutes and you'd have a phenomenon all right—but you wouldn't have much of an audience left. Because the Falls, for television purposes, are untalented and noisy and all wet.

Egyptians to Vote on Constitution, Single Candidate

CAIRO (AP)—Egyptians will go to the polls tomorrow for the first time in six years. They will elect a president and ratify a new constitution on the same day. The election is supposed to usher in a new era of constitutional life after four years of military dictatorship headed by Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser.

* * *

The only candidate is Nasser. In future elections, there likewise will be only one candidate, but he will be nominated by a popularly elected Parliament. Since there is no parliament at present, Nasser has been nominated by the Revolution Command Council, the nine army officers who have held supreme power in Egypt since they overthrew King Farouk in 1952.

* * *

"Do you agree to the election of Gamal Abdel Nasser as president of the republic?"

* * *

Those voting yes will fill in a red circle. Those dissenting will fill in a black circle. This sytem is supposed to help illiterates vote in secret, something never known before in Egypt.

From 70 to 80 per cent of Egyptians are illiterate.

Truman Warns Britain, U. S. of Communist Peril

LONDON (AP) — Harry Truman warned Britain and the United States last night not to let the "silvery illusions of election years" blind them to the common peril he said they still face from the Communists.

* * *

Speaking at a dinner of the pilgrims, a British-American friendship society, the former U.S. president cautioned that other alliances of the two English-speaking nations "are less effective, in their mutual benefit, if Britain and America should get at cross purposes."

Truman conceded that "like most other nations we are more impelled to unity by common danger than by common aspirations."

But "those who look candidly and honestly at the world about us," he continued, "must see that that common danger has rarely been greater, though it has often been more strident and spectacular. There is plenty to pull us soberly together on common appraisals and policies."

* * *

He did not mention Russia by name, but he left no doubt he was referring to the revamped post-Stalin foreign policy trumpeted recently by the Kremlin.

"I am not prepared," he said, "to throw away all we have learned by hard experience — to believe all who claim to have been converted have in fact cast out the old Adam."

* * *

He took considerable pains to counteract any British concern over effects the U.S. election campaign might have on American foreign policy.

Truman drew loud applause when he said, "I am very happy today because dispatches from home show our President is well on his way to recovery."

In a toast to the American guest of honor, the Earl of Halifax, wartime British envoy to Washington and president of the Pilgrims, said

* * *

"In homely language, Mr. Truman, you are the sort of person we would all be happy to go tiger hunting with."

You Can't Blame Him for a Little Publicity

PARIS, Ky. (AP) — O. T. Sharon Jr., denies selecting his new son's name to promote business.

Sharon is a partner in a petroleum firm.

The son, born Wednesday, was named Glen Allen Sharon.

Wags accused Sharon of picking the name for the inititals: G.A.S.

Plane Crash Victim

Boy's Life Revealed Through Briefcase

By ROBERT H. PRALL
New York World-Telegram and Sun staff writer

NEW YORK, (NEA)—I never knew George Louis Witter, of North Hollywood, Calif. I couldn't have known him because he died 12 hours before I knew he had ever lived.

Actually, all I know about George is what I've pried out of his briefcase, but I rather imagine he was a fine young man.

George died Wednesday morning in the fiery crash of a blazing airliner which plunged its 74 passengers to death in the dark waters of the Atlantic Ocean.

And the first I knew there was a boy named George Witter was late yesterday afternoon when I fished his pigskin briefcase out of the oily, bloody ocean at the scene of the crash.

You don't learn a 12-year-old boy's biography from a torn, blistered briefcase, but I learned quite a bit about this one. He was studying the piano and that handsome briefcase housed his favorite selections.

His oldest sister, Dorothy Ann, 13, apparently had thought enough of her kid brother to give him her prized Bela Bartok album. George then had gone on, studied his Bach, and mastered his "preludes, offertories and postludes."

But George wasn't limited to Bach and Beethoven. He liked the "Red River Valley" and "The Bible Tells Me So." George was quite a young man.

I spent two hours looking through his briefcase. At first, I thought it was his sister's because she died with him yesterday. But then I decided that the sheet music with her name on it had been passed down to the kid brother who loved music, too.

George Witter mixed up his music. "In a Persian Market" bordered Joyce Kilmer's "Trees." "Hearts and Flowers" was stuck fast—with airplane oil—to "The Shoemaker's Holiday." And the "Choo Choo Boogie" touched "The Yellow Rose of Texas."

And in the last compartment of that battered, blackened briefcase was the music for "On Wisconsin," which young George probably loved to play and sing.

I never knew George—but I'll never forget him.
