Court Upholds Dismissal of Lattimore Charge

4 Puerto Ricans Sentenced

Accident Victim

FRANK C. VORE

Pontiac Youth Killed by Train

Body of Frank Vore, 20, Found Beside Track in Waterford Twp.

The body of a Ponitac television repairman was found beside Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks about one thousand feet south of Williams Lake road Wednesday by Waterford Township Police.

Frank C. Vore, 20, who roomed at 33 Gingell Ct., according to Police Chief Frank J. VanAtta, apparently had been struck by a train about five miles north of Pontiac. His body was found about six feet from the tracks.

Oakland County Deputy Coroner Dr. I. C. Prevette said Vore had been dead about 13 hours when found shortly after 1 p. m. yesterday. He suffered a fractured skull and a broken right leg. VanAtta and Dr. Prevette termed the death accidental.

T. O. Hamp, engineer of a train traveling from Pontiac to Durand yesterday afternoon, reported to police the sighting of the body, according to VanAtta.

The son of Mr. and and Mrs. Clellan O. Vore of 4920 Hatchery Rd., Drayton Plains, the victim had been employed at the Mitchell TV store, 109 N. Saginaw St., since December.

Notified of her son's death, Mrs. Vore told police that Frank was planning to get married late this month.

A Korean War veteran, Vore had been out of the Army one year. He had spent four years in service, according to his mother.

Besides his parents he is survived by three brothers, Clellan Jr., 18; Jerry Lee, 17; Donald Kenneth, 13, and two sisters, Linda, 8, and Christina, 22.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Coats Funeral Home in Drayton Plains.

Boy, 14, Kidnaps Jackson Man to Take Joyride

From INS & UP Dispatches

JACKSON — A Jackson engineer was kidnaped last night by a 14-year-old boy, and forced to drive 100 miles with a shotgun pressed against his neck before he finally overpowered the youth this morning.

Robert B. Lehr, 32, was spirited away from his porch by a youth identified by police as Gary E. Kintigh of Holt, Mich.

Lehr was kidnaped by the neatly dressed boy between 10 and 10:30 p. m. and spent a terror-filled night as he was forced to drive to Indiana.

Lehr overpowered the youthful kidnaper in a gasoline station at 2 a.m. at Waterloo, Ind., five miles north of Auburn.

Kintigh, who stands 6 feet tall and weighs but 138 pounds, said he decided to run away from home, so he packed a suitcase with two changes of clothes.

In a statement to FBI Agent Dudley S. Horth and Sheriff Frank E. Carpenter of De Kalb County, Kintigh said he dismantled a 16-gauge shotgun and packed it in the suitcase with four shells.

He said he hitchhiked from Lansing to Jackson (43 miles) beginning at 8 o'clock last night and couldn't get a ride when he got to Jackson.

"Then I realized it was getting late," Kintigh said, "and I would

Boy, 15, Injured in Wild Chase

Berkley Police Fire 3 Shots at Speeding Auto; Car Rolls Over

A 15-year-old Southfield Township juvenile is reported in good condition today in Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital following a 70 mile an hour chase last night in which Berkley policemen fired three shots at his car, hitting it twice.

According to police, Patrolmen Don Cole and James Cole and Sgt. John Wilson began chasing the youth when they saw his car speeding on 12-Mile road in Berkley.

Unable to catch him after several miles, the officers opened fire, striking the youth's car in the trunk and rear fender.

The youth lost control of his car on Pierce street, and it rolled over twice. The officers found him lying in weeds a few feet from the car.

Police say the boy's father told them he had taken the family car without permission. According to hospital officials he is suffering head injuries.

JUDGE CHARLYE FERRIS

In Wichita Falls, Tex., 25-year-old Charlye Ferris made history when she became the first woman and the first Negro to serve as county judge in Wichita County and probably the first in the South. Members of the Wichita County Bar Association named Miss Ferris to serve in the absence of County Judge Guy H. McNeely. She was admitted to the bar in November of 1952.

Demand Return of Kidnaped GIs

U. S. Requests Czechs Release Captain and 6 Enlisted Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has served Red Czechoslovakia with a brusque demand for the "immediate return" of seven U. S. soldiers who this government charged were kidnaped last Sunday.

The State Department disclosed last night that an exceptionally stiff note was delivered to the Czech Foreign Office in Prague yesterday.

That note dismissed as unfounded Czech claims that the seven — a captain and six enlisted men — were spying when they were seized by a Czech border patrol near the West German town of Baernau July 4.

But a few hours after the U. S. note was handed to Cech diplomatic officials, the Communist satellite government repeated its espionage charge in a Prague radio broadcast heard in Vienna.

The U.S. note, protesting "in the strongest terms this abduction of American soldiers," said the Americans "were proceeding innocently without arms along the (Czech-German) border . . . when they were seized by a Czech patrol."

The men, whose home towns and ages have not been disclosed by the Defense Department, were identified by Prague Radio as Capt. Jack Davis, Pvt. Richard Jumper, Pfc. Leonard Tennis, Cpl. John Glasson, Pvt. Ross McGinnis, Pfc. George Switzer and Pfc. Jerry Griffith.

However the Czech reply note to the United States as read over

Terrorists Get Maximum Terms in Solon Attack

Three Men Get 25-75 Years, Woman, 16-50 for House Shooting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four Puerto Rican terrorists who shot up the House of Representatives March 1 and wounded five of its members today were given maximum prison sentences ranging up to 75 years.

A fiery brunette, Lolita Lebron, 34, self-styled leader of the group, received a sentence of from 16 years and 8 months to 50 years.

Her three male companions received sentences of from 25 to 75 years each.

U.S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtoff said he felt maximum sentences were justified because the crime was "so heinous, so infamous, so daring and so atrocious as to shock the conscience of the nation."

The longer sentences for the three men resulted from the fact that a jury convicted them last month on five charges each of assault with intent to kill and five charges each of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Mrs. Lebron was convicted only on five charges of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Before hearing their sentences, the four Puerto Ricans protested anew that they merely staged a demonstration in behalf of Puerto Rican independence, and did not intend to kill anyone.

In their own minds, the Puerto Ricans said, they did not feel they were guilty of any crime.

Judge Holtoff took a different view. He called the pistol attack on the House "dastardly, wicked and ruthless." Except for the skillful work of surgeons, the judge said, the Puerto Ricans would have been before him to hear death sentences, instead of sentences on lesser charges.

Their lawyers said they would file notices of appeal.

The men are:

Rafael Cancel Miranda, 25; Andres Figueroa Cordero, 29; and Irving Flores Rodrigue, 28.

All are from New York City, as is Mrs. Lebron, 34.

Appeals Judges Vote 8-1 Against Perjury Count

Term of 'Sympathizer' Is Called Too Vague to Sustain Indictment

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals today upheld, 8-1, dismissal of the main count of the perjury indictment against Owen Lattimore—that he lied in denying he was a Communist sympathizer or a promoter of Red causes.

The court reinstated by a 5-4 vote two more counts which a district court judge had thrown out when the controversial Far East specialist was called to trial. But these two were accusations which attorneys had treated as side issues.

Today's ruling confronted the Justice Department with this choice:

1. To ask the Supreme Court to put the key count back in force; or

2. To go to trial on the two reinstated counts plus three which U.S. Dist. Judge Luther W. Youngdahl had let stand with a comment that he doubted they would "pass the test of materiality so as to present a jury issue."

When the trial court threw out the charges government lawyers said they planned to go all the way to the highest court if necessary to get them back.

Today, however, the department said the appeals court opinion will have to be studied carefully before a decision is reached on the next step.

Lattimore himself, reached at his home in Baltimore, said the ruling was "clearly a major victory."

And in Washington his lawyers, Joseph C. O'Mahoney and Thurman Arnold, said the 8-1 vote of the court of appeals on the major count "has destroyed any substantial case" against Lattimore. They added in a statement:

"The remaining counts are trivia, involving Lattimore's

House, Senate Attempting to Resolve Housing Split

WASHINGTON (UP) — House and Senate conferees squared off today for a pitched battle to try to resolve their sharply conflicting positions on President Eisenhower's public housing program.

Advance statements from leaders of both sides indicated agreement would not come easily. Each predicted the other would back down.

Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott (R-Mich), powerful chairman of the House Banking Committee and ardent foe of government-subsidized housing, said he expects the Senate to retreat and adopt the House provision to ban all future public housing starts.

But Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) said his Senate colleagues have no intention of giving in. He said they would stand by the administration's request to build 140,000 public housing units over the next four years.

Battle lines over the public housing issue were drawn after the conference group agreed Wednesday on legislation to make it easier for millions of Americans to buy their own homes by slashing down payment requirements on government-insured home mortgages.

The conferees, ironing out differences in the Senate and House versions of the administration's housing bill, resume their compromise efforts this afternoon.

Under the compromise, a down payment of only five per cent would be required on homes costing $9,000 or less. A $16,000 house could be bought with a $2,200 down payment instead of the $3,200 now required.

Home buyers would have to put $700 down on a $10,000 home, compared to the present $1,250.

Mercury Hits Record Low

Lowest Temperature in 82 Years for July 8 Recorded at 4 A. M.

The lowest temperature on this date in 82 years was recorded at 4 a. m. today in Pontiac when the mercury dived to 48 degrees.

It fell one degree below the previous record low established in 1891 and made this the coldest July 8 since the Bureau began keeping temperature charts in 1872.

Other Michigan communities reported low readings. The thermometer plunged to 34 degrees in Cadillac, only two degrees above freezing. Traverse City and Houghton reported 43s.

Another cool night is forecast, with a low ranging from 50 to 54 in the Pontiac area.

A warming trend Friday may push the thermometer to a high of 80 degrees here. More fair weather is expected.

The mercury rose from the 48-degree low early today to 71 degrees at 2 p.m. in downtown Pontiac. Yesterday's temperature ranged from 62 to 69 degrees.

U. S. Would Use Veto on China

Dulles States Position on Keeping Chinese Out of U. N.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today the United States would use its veto, if necessary, to keep Red China out of the U.N. Security Council.

Dulles expressed complete confidence the Red China regime would be unable to gain admittance at the fall session to any of the principal U.N. organizations, including the Assembly.

At a news conference, Dulles denounced the Peiping regime for flouting the United Nations in Korea, supporting the Communists in Indochina and generally failing to fulfill international obligations.

Dulles said firmly, in answer to questions, he did not believe there would be any occasion for the United States to withdraw from the United Nations if Red China is admitted, as Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) has proposed.

Talk of pulling out of the United Nations, he said, strikes a note of defeatism which is entirely unjustified because the United States and like-minded countries have a powerful case for blocking Red China's membership.

Turnesa, Demaret Lead U. S. Pros in British Open

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., and colorful Jimmy Demaret of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., each fired sub-par rounds today for 144 totals to lead the small American constingent in the second round of the British Open Golf Championship.

The two New York pros were three strokes behind the leader, Bill Spence, 42-year-old English pro who added a 72 to his opening 69 for 141.

Antonio Cerda of Argentina put together his 2nd 71 to move into 2nd, a stroke behind Spence. Cerda went out in 37, a stroke over par, and came home in 34, two under par.

Al Watrous, 55-year-old pro from Birmingham, Mich., shot a fine 72 in the rain for a total of 148 which appeared good enough to make the top 50.

Police at Miami Grill 30, Hold 7 in Child's Slaying

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—More than 30 men were questioned and seven were being held by police today to crack the kidnap-murder of 7-year-old Judith Ann Roberts.

Lt. Chester Eldredge, head of the homicide bureau, said however that his men were without a "definite" suspect.

The police still had about 40 men listed for questioning, all known sex perverts and child molesters.

The body of blue-eyed Judith Ann was savagely beaten and ravished when found yesterday a few blocks from Miami's City Hall at Dinner Key.

"We will work around the clock until this vicious killer is in jail," said Eldredge.

A report that the FBI was calling signals in the case was denied by Edward J. Powers, special agent in charge of the Miami office.

He pointed out that the FBI lacked jurisdiction because the body was not taken across state lines and there was no ransom demand.

One suspect seized in a South Miami bar when the bartender noticed blood spots on his clothing was among those still being held. Laboratory tests were being made of his clothing. He denied being in the area of the crime.

Judith Ann, daughter of a Baltimore lawyer and labor leader, was raped and murdered and her body left in a palmetto thicket off fashionable South Bayshore Drive, a few miles south of downtown Miami.

Five hours earlier she had been taken in her sleep from the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rosenberg, about 2½ miles away in Miami's southwest section.

She had been strangled, beaten on the head and criminally assault-

His Warning May Cause Delay in Showdown

U.N. Halls Echo With Ike's Forceful 'No' on Red China

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS) —President Eisenhower's forceful warning against seating Red China in the U.N. jolted many Western diplomats today into re-examining their position on the issue of the showdown.

Eisenhower's emphatic "no" to replacing Nationalist China with Peiping's Communist regime next September in the Assembly resounded through all the corridors of U.N. headquarters.

It overshadowed pointedly the impact of Britain's absention in yesterday's voting on Free China's credentials in the U.N. Trusteeship Council.

Britain's U.N. spokesman insisted that Sir Alan Burns' absention from the vote which approved by 9 to 2 the Formosa regime's credentials for this Council session "constituted no change in British policy."

Russia and India cast the negative votes.

The British spokesman drew attention to the London foreign office's comment on the heated issue in which his government stated in effect that its policy on Red China remained the same as outlined by Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison on June 27, 1951.

Morrison said at that time that the Peiping regime should be admitted to the U.N. but that consideraion of the question "should be postponed in view of that government's persistence in behavior inconsistent with the purposes and principles of the (U.N.) charter."

Eisenhower's broadside gave impetus at the U.N. to the growing impression that U. S. opposition would become so well organized that postponement of the showdown from the September session to next year's assembly would be a logical possibility.

One reason that many Western allies of the U. S. are reluctant to have a showdown on the dynamite - laden issue of seating Communist Peiping is that the Soviet Union hopes to make the most virulently anti - American propaganda in Asia, Europe and the Middle East.

The Russians are hopeful also of recouping the heavy losses propaganda - wise sustained by the ousting of the Communists from control over Guatemala.

The Soviet is pressing its attack on the U. S. from another direction. It has submitted a formal resolution to the Trusteeship Council calling for an end to America's hydrogen and atom bomb tests in the Pacific.

Russia based its move on a petition from the Marshall Islanders requesting the end of tests and complaining of injuries caused to inhabitants during the explosions last spring.

The U. S. assured the Marshall Islanders in a U.N. statement that all protective measures have been taken for future tests. At the same time, the U. S. made it clear she reserves the right to continue the nuclear explosion experiments so long as needed.

U. S. High Commissioner Frank E. Midkiff, in charge of the Pacific trust territories, gave unqualified assurances to the islanders that they would receive compensation for injuries and property damages.

Midkiff said that those inhabitants removed from some of the atolls within the explosion radius would be returned, and that some had been taken back.

Pautke First to Gain Spot in State Amateur

JACKSON (AP) — William Pautke of Jackson became the first to win a place in the Michigan Amateur field today when he added a 35-42—77 to his opening round 76. Only a few threesomes had completed the two qualifying rounds by noon.

Bill Raymond of Adrian made a neat comeback with a 74 at the Country Club after an 86 in Wednesday's downpour. His 160 total however was not expected to win a place.

Although playing conditions were ideal today, the contestants were having trouble with the slick greens. Dick Norton of Grand Rapids whose 74 was one of the best yesterday started with a par 36 today.

Birmingham's 1970 Plan Shows Adams as West Limit of Business District

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — There are only two major differences in the city's existing zoning as compared with the preliminary 1970 land use plan, City Planning Director Robert Boatman told members of the South Oakland Planning Council at a meeting here last night.

One is that the central business district extends east to Adams road, except for a small residential section, and Woodward is strip zoned for business.

Boatman said the plan also shows the industrial area east of Eton road extending south of Lincoln, while city planning calls for designating Lincoln as the southern boundary.

With an eye to future sewage and water needs for outlying areas, along with other joint problems, the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission started development of a master land-use plan several years ago.

Listing some statistics, Boatman said Birmingham's population now stands at 22,600 and shows a 46 per cent increase since 1950. Mass production building is over except for Porritt property development, because there are no large properties remaining, he said.

Assessed valuation has jumped from $30,604,020 in 1950 to a 1954 figure of $48,807,260. He estimated that Birmingham is now 85 per cent developed, residentially, and 50 per cent, commercially.

The local Civil Air Patrol has again been honored and for the third consecutive year will play host in this summer's foreign exchange program.

Marking the first time that girl cadets have visited the United States under the exchange system, eight Alaskan CAP cadets will spend next Tuesday through Thursday in the community.

Accompanied by a WAF member and a senior CAP officer, the young women will be flown into Selfridge Air Force Base by the Military Air Transport Service in cooperation with the CAP. The Alaskan group will proceed to Flint following activities here.

Barely recovering from this whirlwind, the Birmingham CAP will greet a second exchange group on July 28, when six boys in the Chile equivalent of CAP stop here.

Cadets from Portugal and Great Britain were guests of the local CAP in 1952 and 1953, respectively.

Still another honor has come to the CAP here — Cadet Capt. Robert Owen, 18, of 303 Park St., was named by the CAP and the Air Force to represent the local group in the overseas exchange, and leaves next Thursday for Belgium, via France and Germany.

James Spencer, chairman of the three-man board investigating possible negligence on the part of the Fire or Police Departments at last month's fire in which three persons died and firemen rescued a fourth, said yesterday the committee will hear the facts as presented by firemen and policemen at meetings tonight and tomorrow.

Sessions with residents in the area are about over, Spencer said, and added he hoped that all statements would be taken by the end of next week.

The investigating committee was formed when several residents complained to the City Commission.

Low Bid on Infirmary Job Given by Bundy Co.

The $10,000 estimate of the Bundy Construction Co. of Pontiac was the lowest bid received for building a new porch on one of Pontiac State Hospital's infirmary buildings.

Michigan State Building Division in Lansing took bids today on the Pontiac project, a field house at Michigan State Normal College, maintenance shop at Northville State Hospital and new boiler for the state tuberculosis sanatorium at Gaylord.

Bloodmobile Here Monday

Donations to Be Taken at All Saints Episcopal Church

Harold B. Euler, chairman of Oakland County Chapter, American Red Cross, today urged everyone who can to give blood at Monday's bloodmobile visit here.

The mobile unit will take donations from 2 until 8 p.m., July 12 at All Saints Episcopal Church, West Pike and Williams streets. Red Cross offices are taking calls for appointments from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. today and Friday.

"We need 200 blood donors," Euler said. "Blood donations throughout the whole Detroit area have dropped off since summer started."

Euler commented that the Red Cross, like a baseball team, has blood workers lined up "two deep," so if one leaves for vacation, another can pinch-hit. He urged organizations with blood banks to follow the same system with blood donors.

"But baseball has a season," he said, "and the need for blood knows no season. Hospitals need about the same amount of blood for our sick and injured people now as they do during the winter."

The children and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Roberts, arrived Sunday night from Baltimore for their annual two weeks visit with the Rosenbergs, parents of Mrs. Roberts.

The father was on a night club tour with Mrs. Dorothy Lawrence, 21, a client and friend, when Judith Ann was kidnaped about 1 a.m. Mrs. Lawrence came to Miami with the Roberts family and said she planned to get a divorce here.

The killer apparently entered the Rosenberg home through a front door which was left unlocked because Roberts did not have a key. Then, police theorized, the kidnaper went to the bedroom, where he took the car key from Rosenberg's trousers, took Judith Ann from the couch in the living room where she was sleeping, and left.

* * *

He drove off in the automobile and the sound of the machine roaring away awakened Mrs. Rosenberg, who noticed the front door ajar and awakened the others. They searched the neighborhood, thinking the child had wandered off, before notifying police.

Roberts returned home about 2:45 a.m. He kept saying over and over, "Nobody would take a little girl and hurt her."

The Rosenbergs and Mrs. Roberts said they were convinced the killer was familiar with the duplex apartment and knew the children would be there.

Hazel Park Pair Waives Hearing

Two Hazel Park brothers waived examination Wednesday when they appeared before Hazel Park Justice Robert C. Baldwin on charges of breaking and entering in the nighttime.

Larry Alexander, 18, and his brother, Allan, 17, of 98 W. Elza St., were bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for arraignment Monday. They were remanded to Oakland County Jail when they failed to post $1,000 bond each.

They are charged with a break-in at Westfall Hardware at 20840 John R, on or about June 20.

MRS. EDWARD VAN TASSEL

Margaret Ann Moves to Larger, Remodeled Store in Riker Bldg.

What began nearly 19 years ago as a knit shop on Lawrence street today had its grand opening as the new, enlarged Margaret Ann Shop, featuring a complete line of children's apparel.

Located at 37 W. Huron St. in the Riker Bldg., the store has an additional 600 feet of sales space compared to the store five doors away which the firm occupied for the past 14 years.

Owned by Mrs. Edward Van Tassel of 51 E. Iroquois Rd. and her sister, Mrs. T. F. Carson of Toledo, the Margaret Ann Shop was named after the partners' mother.

"We thought it made an ideal name for a knitting shop," recalled Mrs. Van Tassel. "And, of course, we didn't know we were going to have a children's shop, but the name worked out just fine."

After five years as a knit shop, the firm moved to 55 W. Huron St. and began carrying a line of children's apparel.

In completely remodeling the new location, Mrs. Van Tassel selected an aqua and sand beige color scheme "to tie in with children's apparel."

National brands for infants, girls through sub-teens and boys through 12 are carried at the shop.

In addition to the modern counters, cases and display boards, and new flooring and dressing rooms, the shop features fluorescent lighting fixtures, making shopping easier, said Mrs. Van Tassel.

Mrs. Van Tassel is the mother of three children, Jo Ann, 16, Susie, 13, and Edward III, 10. Her husband operates a business in Rochester.

The grand opening will continue through tomorrow and Saturday. The shop will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily and until 9 p.m. Friday.

Pontiac Boy Injured in Fall From Truck

James H. Hudson Jr., 14, of 309 N. Paddock St., suffered a possible skull fracture Wednesday when he fell from the rear of a pickup truck at Baldwin and Strathmore Aves., according to Pontiac Police. He is reported in good condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

Lt. Joseph Koren, head of the traffic and accident bureau, said police have been unable to locate the driver of the truck, Charles Ford, 24, of 84 Lincoln St., for a statement.

Police quoted Joseph McCaulley, 15, of 101 Kemp St., 1 of 3 youths riding in the cab, as saying Ford swerved his truck which hit a curb, throwing James onto the pavement.

Ford, according to McCaulley, let the three youths out of the vehicle and drove off. Police, summoned by the youngsters, took the boy to the hospital.

Vernor Estate Goes to Family

Widow to Get Home; Son, 2 Grandchildren Also Beneficiaries

The will of James Vernor, president of the Vernor Manufacturing and Bottling Co. who died in his Bloomfield Hills home June 30, named his widow, son and two grandchildren as beneficiaries.

His widow Emma F., was bequeathed the family residence, a 178-acre farm at 4805 N. Harsdale Ave., and 40 per cent of the estate's residue plus all personal property and furnishings in the home.

His son, James Vernor Jr. of 707 W. Long Lake Rd., Bloomfield Hills, was left the remainder of the Bloomfield Hills property.

The Detroit Trust Co. was named administrator and Detroit attorney Raymond Berry was named executor in the 15-page will.

Vernor directed that a trust fund be established with all remaining real and personal property for the benefit of his son and grandchildren, James Vernor III, 14, of the Long Lake road address and Grayce Shannon Vernor, 13, of Garden City.

Evaluations of the estate filed with the will in Oakland County Probate Court listed real estate at $200,000 and upwards and personal estate at $50,000 and upwards.

Real estate in the Vernor holdings include the sprawling Arcadia Farms near Lapeer and one of the most modern and complete bottling plants in the country at 4501 Woodward Ave. in Detroit.

James Jr. was designated to receive two shares of the trust fund and the two grandchildren one share each, according to terms of the will.

The fund is to be distributed one-fourth in 1965; one-half in 1970 and the balance in 1980.

Birmingham Officer Now Detective Head

BIRMINGHAM — Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley announced yesterday that Det. Sgt. Merlin Holmquist has been promoted to the rank of detective lieutenant.

Moxley said in addition to heading the detective bureau, Holmquist will be in charge of department training.

Holmquist has been a detective sergeant since 1952 and is a graduate of the FBI National Academy.

Moxley added that a promotion examination for one detective and several sergeants is scheduled for the end of this month.

the Prague radio insisted that "their confession and behavior confirm the group entered Czech territory to conduct an espionage mission."

The Czech note said further the soldiers confessed that they entered Czech territory by illegal means and that films found on them revealed that they had photographed objects on Czechoslovak soil.

The Prague broadcast said the Americans were arrested after trying to elude the border guards.

Walled Lake Man Hurt as Auto Rams Tree

William H. Dempsey, 34, of 2907 Welch, Walled Lake, is reported in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital today after his auto hit a tree on 12 Mile road near Drake road in Farmington Township this morning.

Dempsey, who told Oakland County sheriff's deputies he "didn't know what happened," suffered head bruises, chest injuries and a chipped rib, according to hospital authorities.

Solution Is Found for School Crowding

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — After holding a reorganization meeting last night, the Board of Education found a temporary solution for minimizing overcrowded condition at Vaughan School until the new high school is opened in about a year.

The board authorized immediate construction of four temporary sub-standard classrooms, subject to state approval.

The board felt that coupled with the new Wing Lake School addition the temporary structure would adequately provide for next year's increased enrollment.

Estimated cost of the project, which should be completed by mid-August, is $20,000.

The proposed classrooms would be constructed by adding a fourth wall to three existing walls at the rear of Vaughan School.

At the meeting, the board selected Robert C. W. Sadler as president, Merrill O. Bates, secretary, and David W. Lee, treasurer. Other members are Mrs. Rita McKenzie and Douglas L. Jocelyn.

have a hard time hitching another ride. I saw this car in the driveway and saw the man in front of the house smoking a cigarette."

Lehr said the youth, carrying a 16-gauge shotgun, jumped from the bushes Wednesday night when he stepped out on his front porch to smoke a cigarette before retiring.

"Do you have a car?" Lehr quoted the youth.

When Lehr said his automobile was parked in front of the house, the youth ordered him to get the keys.

"I want to go for a ride." Kintigh demanded, holding the gun at Lehr's back. "Don't worry, I'm not going to kill you."

Lehr said Kintigh covered him with the gun from the back seat while he drove over back roads into Indiana. He reached around and grabbed Kintigh by the neck when the youth put the gun on the floor while they were getting gas.

The attendant saw the struggle and came to Lehr's aid. The 6-foot youth was taken to De Kalb County Jail at Auburn, Ind.

Lehr telephoned his wife from Waterloo shortly after midnight to tell her he was safe.

"She didn't even know I was gone," he said. "She went to sleep shortly before the boy appeared and slept through the whole thing."

Federal District Attorney Joseph Lesh at Fort Wayne, Ind., said no immediate decision was made as to Kintigh's prosecution. He said the youth either could be charged with kidnaping under federal law or tried on a lesser charge at Jackson.

Lattimore Perjury Charge Is Dropped

memory as to unimportant events in his long career which happened from 10 to 15 years before the indictment."

They made a point of the 5-4 division putting the two counts back into force.

In addition to the count alleging Communist sympathy and promotion of Communist causes, the appeals court upheld the dismissal of a charge that Lattimore lied in telling the Senate Internal Security subcommittee it was not necessary for him to have the permission of Communist authorities for a visit to Yenan, former Red stronghold in China, and that he had no prearrangement for a visit he made.

The vote on that issue was 8-1 as on the main charge but a different judge dissented. On the principal accusation the dissenter was Chief Judge Harold M. Stephens. On the Yenan visit issue the dissent was filed by Judge John Danaher.

Judge E. Barrett Prettyman, writing for the majority in upholding the dismissal of the two counts, said:

"We are of the opinion that this first count of the indictment is void for vagueness.

"The word 'sympathizer' is not of sufficiently certain meaning to sustain a charge of perjury. The count is that Lattimore said he had never been a sympathizer whereas he had been a sympathizer. There is no definition of the term 'sympathizer' or any concrete specification of its content either in the indictment or in the statute. Without such definition or specification the term has no certain meaning."

The two counts reinstated by the court related to the question whether Lttimore knew certain writers for the magazine "Pacific Affairs" which he formerly edited, were Communists.

In the 5-4 split for reinstatement of those charges, the court majority was made up of Chief Judge Stephens and Judges Prettyman, Charles Fahy, George T. Washington and Danaher.

The minority consisted of Judges Henry W. Edgerton, Bennett Champ Clark, Wilbur K. Miller and David L. Bazelon.

The counts the court reinstated were based on this testimony by Lattimore:

That he didn't know that Asiaticus, a writer for Pacific Affairs, a magazine of the Institute of Pacific Relations which Lattimore edited, was a Communist. Asiaticus is alleged to be a German Communist, Hans Mueller, who was a protege of Communist Gerhart Eisler.

Also that he never published articles in IPR magazines by persons he knew to be Communists, other than from Russian contributors.

VA Can't Give Confederate Vet a Hearing Aid

HOUSTON (AP) — Walter W. Williams, Veterans Administration doctors say, "is practically blind, has lost a few pounds and his hearing is bothering him."

But the 111-year-old Confederate veteran, oldest of four Civil War survivors, is in pretty good shape, everything considered. Dr. R. S. Wolfe said the old soldier's condition had changed little in the last year.

Williams comes to the VA regional office here for an annual checkup. He lives at Franklin, Tex. 50 miles north of here.

"We would like to furnish him with a hearing aid," Wolfe said, "but we simply haven't the money." He explained that federal law does not provide for care of Confederate veterans.

Lipstick Truck Upset; Freeway Painted Red

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The harbor freeway was smeared with red after a panel truck went out of control yesterday and rolled three times.

But it wasn't blood and the driver was only slightly hurt. Max Factor Co. said the load of lipstick in the truck was worth $10,000.

Bob Considine Says:

Quiet Chemists Perfecting Weapons for Cancer War

NEW YORK (INS) — Suppose we could come up with a defensive weapon against Russian missiles and suicide bombers, a super-nike, let's say. A weapon that might save tens of thousands of American lives. The inventor would be hailed as a 24-karat genius, even though a dingbat never had to be used.

Well, a few quiet men and women of chemistry who will never be decorated have produced an arsenal of superlative defense weapons which are being tentatively used against a killer much more terrifying than almost any gun-toting enemy we ever faced — cancer.

News of those wondrous developments is contained in the seventh and most encouraging of the progress reports of the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research.

This report speaks positively. It speaks, to be sure, positively only of cures effected in cancer-afflicted animals. But even that note of complete assuance is rare. There is no more conservative group on earth than the patient laborers at Sloan-Kettering. The progress reports issued under the signature of Dr. C. P. Rhoads, director, have corresponded roughly to those of a baseball writer who says in effect that the New York Yankees — winners of five straight pennants — are a pretty good team but let's not go out on a limb and say they are very good, even though they are far and away the best in the history of that particular line of sports.

Let me quote from one of the best science writers of our time, Ruth Abramson, who works for Sloan-Kittering Institute. For anyone familiar with cancer, it is a stirring quote:

"One hundred per cent of animals bearing one type of transplanted cancer can be cured by chemical injections. Of 2,866 animals with many types of cancers, 1,700, or 59 per cent, were cured by one or another compounds tested in the institute's program.

"The regular cure by chemicals of cancer in animals is hoped to foreshadow similar results in man, according to the report. Evidence for this optimism can be found in the history of other public health problems whose conquest has been preceded by their control in the laboratory.

". . . Over 23 different types of solid tumors . . . are used routinely in the experiments. Ten compounds have been found that produce permanent cure in one or more of these types of animal cancers . . ."

All of which compounds cost money. This tremendously important work — which provides fresh hope for those cancer victims who are beyond surgical or radiological cure — is supported by the American Cancer Society, the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund, the National Cancer Institute of the U. S. Public Health Service, Black-Stevenson Fund, and by direct contributions from the public.

So what about man? Again, let's quote, to be sure and save possible heartbreak:

". . . The report emphasizes that no chemicals have been found that cure any type of cancer of leukemia in man, although compounds have been developed that temporarily restrain certain types of human cancer, particularly the leukemias.

"A few years ago, when there were no chemicals available for the treatment of acute Leukemia in children, only 5 per cent of the youngsters survived for one year. After the discovery of amethopterian and cortisone, 29 per cent could be kept alive for one year. Now that 6-MP, the newest agent, has been added to the group, 52 per cent are living for at least one year after the start of their disease."

Industrial Defense Plans

In the new climate in Washington a policy has grown up in respect to industry's planning for defense. Where once Washington would have laid down the law from above, industry is now working out its own plans.

Briefly, that policy is to encourage each company making essential war goods to work out its own plans for getting back into production in event of an attack. A Business and Defense Services Administration has been set up under the Department of Commerce. William Haines, chief industrial planner, explained the agency was not working out any master industrial defense plan. Each company is free to draw its own.

"We think a thousand company plans are better than one master plan," Haines explained.

But industry is not being left in the dark about how to plan. For one thing the defense agency is now making up a directory of the 2,500 or so plant facilities regarded as essential to continuing war production. Companies operating these plants will soon be notified.

Next, the defense agency has been working closely with a few industries on their own plans. One company that has already put its preparations on paper is being used as a sort of model. It is the Koppers Company, Incorporated. John H. Redmond, its assistant production manager, has been added to the defense agency as consultant.

Koppers has taken the following steps to reopen key plants knocked out by attack: 1—it has trained management teams that could be assembled at once to take over any damaged plant; 2—it is stockpiling both raw material and production machinery near its key plants; 3—it has microfilms of all production blueprints and records stored in mountain vaults.

This model plan has been written up and will be made available to all companies operating plants on the essential list for their guidance. Without much question, the Nation will prefer this method over the old.

Canada Getting Impatient

With diligence the Canadian Government is moving to speed up actual earth moving on the St. Lawrence Seaway. Last week Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent completed the personnel of the Authority that will supervise construction and operation of the big ditch for Canada.

Named to head the Authority is Lionel Chevrier. He resigned his Cabinet post as Minister of Transport to take charge of the digging. Aiding him will be Charles Gavzie and Charles W. West.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile the United States is moving more slowly. President Eisenhower has appointed Lewis G. Castle, Duluth banker and veteran Seaway backer, as Administrator of the St. Lawrence Seaway Corporation. Castle is Chevrier's opposite number. The Canadian Authority and the American Corporation will work together in planning, contracting for and operating the international section of the channel.

★ ★ ★

Impatiently, Canada's External Affairs Minister, Lester B. Pearson, has given notice to Washington that negotiations over joint construction of the international section must not delay the entire project. In other words, Canada is now ready to go ahead on its own portion of the work, its statutory organization being complete. International cooperation is so essential to successful operation of the Seaway that it behooves the United States to speed up its end so there will be no delay on our part. After all, Canada has waited a long time for our participation.

Texas Is Always Texas

Last Spring the topsoil of Texas was transplanted by disastrous dust storms to other states that didn't want it. This month Texas has been suffering from disastrous floods along the Rio Grande and its tributaries.

The Lone Star State, of course, never does things by half measures. Even Nature behaves in the Texan manner in Texas, producing a drought one moment and a flood the next.

★ ★ ★

But according to Agriculture Department experts, the Texans themselves are partly to blame for both the drought and the floods. Texas farmers, tempted by high prices, grew too many crops on light soil that should be pasture land. When the winds came, the soil blew away. And when the rains came there was no vegetation to hold the run-off water in check.

★ ★ ★

Texas' soil is part of our national, natural heritage. Its loss is our loss. But as Texans are accustomed to doing things in a big way perhaps the successive drought and flood will convince them it's time to apply conservation practices in a big way—before it's too late.

Should Use Some of Railroad Subsidies to Benefit Towns Trains Pass Through

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

Should an individual, by some means, cause smoke and soot to cover an entire city block including all the people and items therein, I am sure he would be reprimanded.

Should an individual persistently hold up traffic, sometimes for ten or fifteen minutes, with apparent total disregard for those waiting in their autos to proceed, I am certain that he also would be severely reproached and probably be required to pay a steep fine.

The railroad companies have dirtied our city and citizens, held up traffic, and created a hazard with no apparent city reprimands and few apparent efforts to do anything about it.

The common man is not subsidized for the excessive money he must pay to have a decent road placed before his house. I feel that it is about time something were done to stop this inconvenience and hazard caused by the railroads due to their traveling through our city and across its busy streets and see to it, perhaps, that some of the railroad subsidies are used for the benefit of the towns and people of the towns through which the railroads pass.

I am sure that this would promote better relations between the people and the railroads, eventually make everyone happier, and especially bring about cleaner, safer towns in which to live.

Let's Wake Up, Organize Urges Irate Dairy Farmer

I read an article in your paper recently by "A Dairy Worker." He wanted to know how many men besides dairy workers work every day of the week, Sundays, holidays, rain or shine.

The dairy farmer works seven days a week, 365 days a year. No overtime and no paid holidays. I would like to ask how many days that dairy worker had off last year? I didn't have any! Every day of the strike I milked my cows, twice a day, and then dumped the milk!

The dairy farmer didn't get a cent out of the strike! Does he know we only get six to seven cents a quart for milk? After we send it to the dairy plant, hauling, equipment, cows, feed and labor has to come out of this. Even advertising! When the cow gives out and we send her to the yards all we get is 9 to 10 cents a pound for a cow that cost $200 to $300 a couple years before.

How many strikes have the dairy farmers had? Maybe a little good will come out of this strike. It showed the dairy farmer he can no longer stand alone. He must demand a just price for his product. He can write his own ticket if only he gets a union. No dairy farmer is getting 50 cents an hour clear, so let's wake up, get organized and earn a decent living.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Overconfident Athletic Team Is Stronger Than One That's Taught to Fear Its Foes

Arnold coaches a professional baseball team and wants to know whether to keep his players afraid of their foes or to let them get cocky and sure of themselves. High school and college coaches can use this Case Record to good advantage with their teams, so paste it in your scrapbook.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case L-352: Arnold M., aged 35, is a baseball coach.

"Dr. Crane, what do you psychologists think about overconfidence in a team?" he began.

"Some coaches try to build up fear in their players, figuring that such an attitude will make them work harder.

"But in my experience, I prefer to have a team feeling sure of itself and confident.

"Do you have any facts on this point, one way or the other?"

Yes, we know that confidence actually makes you stronger than fear or defeatism.

And this is well supported by the data from a hypnosis experiment with soldiers who competed in a handgrip contest. Their average grip was 101 lbs.

Then they were hypnotized and informed they were very weak, sickly, anemic, etc., but told to grip the machine as tightly as possible.

Now, under this fear or defeatism attitude, their average grip was only 69 lbs. per man.

But before they were awakened from the hypnotic state, they were then given the reverse suggestion and told that they were strong, powerful, Herculean.

Now their grip averaged 140 lbs. That was double what it had been under the negative thought of weakness or defeatism.

In the normal waking state, we don't attain quite the heights nor the depths shown under hypnosis. But we tend to go in those same directions. So a confident team should be stronger than a frightened team.

"But isn't it bad for a team to be overconfident?" somebody may ask.

Yes, if that team ignores essential drill and thus skips practice sessions because of its cocksure attitude.

But on the basis of the mental outlook alone, I'd rather have a team that was overconfident than one that was timid, afraid or already resigned to defeat.

For a good coach can see that the overconfident players do their proper stint of drill.

Notre Dame's football team and the Yankees in baseball, illustrate what confidence will do.

They feel pretty sure of themselves, and well they might, for their previous successful records justify that egotism.

Incidentally, here is a good place to distinguish between conceit and egotism. The conceited person thinks he is good, but isn't.

The egotist thinks he is good, and really is. He has a demonstrated basis for his high opinion of himself.

Dr. Elizabeth B. Hurlock, one of our leading psychologists, also performed a somewhat similar experiment with school children in which she found that praise produced a better result than scolding children.

However, the scolded youngsters did better afterwards than those kids who were ignored, being neither praised nor reprimanded.

So the positive assurance that goes with confidence and praise, seems to produce higher school marks and better muscular output than defeatism or fear.

Just beware of ignoring vital drill during overconfidence. It is the carelessness instead of the overconfidence that leads to the downfall of the cocky team.

Aunt Het

You don't see so many widowers with a house full o' children, and that's one reason you don't see so many widowers either.

David Lawrence Says:

Ike Puts Red China Stand on Highest Moral Plane

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower has undertaken to mobilize the moral force of the world to make sure that the aggressor government of Red China will not be admitted to the United Nations.

No longer is the issue one of domestic controversy here since both the Republican and Democratic leaders in Congress have expressed themselves against the proposal. For the President now has wisely taken the case to the court of world opinion.

Eisenhower does not say what America's position will be if outvoted in the United Nations Assembly, but he does say that he hasn't reached a decision on it because he feels confident that the battle against admission of Red China can be won.

The President is right in exercising that caution and leaving the matter open. In this regard he differs from those who either want to serve warning now that the U.S. will withdraw or those who wish the United States to stay in the U.N. if outvoted.

If the United States were merely to give the impression that it would oppose Red China's entry and yet would accept the result without affecting its own relationship to the United Nations in the future some governments abroad might think this is a tipoff to them to go ahead and vote for the admission of Red China anyhow because they would not thereby risk incurring America's disfavor.

The truth is that Sen. Knowland and Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the Republican and Democratic senators, speak for American public opinon when they not only oppose Red China's admission, but when they say Congress will then discuss, if the Peiping government is admitted, whether or not to continue financial support for the United Nations by this country and continuance of the U.N. treaty.

But President Eisenhower has with characteristic fairness and calmness taken the issue out of the realm of coercion as it affects other governments by simply saying he doesn't know yet what American policy toward the U.N. would be if Red China gets in.

He prefers to argue at present the merits of the admission issue itself. His words are of historic importance. He says:

"There is a moral question first of all that is involved. The United Nations was not established primarily as a supergovernment clothed with all the authority of supergovernment and of great power to do things.

"It was, among other things, an attempt to marshal the moral strength of the world to preserve peace, to make certain that quarrels were composed through a decent respect for justice and fairness and right, and to see whether we couldn't avoid resort to force.

"Now today we have Red China going to Geneva, and instead of taking a conciliatory attitude toward anything, it excoriated the United Nations. As a matter of fact, in Geneva, it demanded repudiation of the United Nations' position.

"On top of that Red China is today at war with the United Nations. They were declared an aggressor by the United Nations in the Assembly and that situation has never been changed.

"They are occupying North Korea. They have supported this great effort at further enslavement of the peoples of Indochina. They have held certain of our prisoners unjustifiably, and they have been guilty of the worst possible diplomatic deportment in the international affairs of the world.

"Now how can the United States, as a self-respecting nation, doing its best and in conformity with the moral standards as we understand them, how can we possibly say this government should be admitted to the United Nations?"

Thus Eisenhower answers the critics abroad who have brushed aside all moral considerations. The London Times, for instance, has said that it is a question of law and "not of morals."

The issue, moreover, isn't one of diplomatic recognition. Many governments which are members of the United Nations have already extended diplomatic recognition to the Red Chinese Communist government, but now oppose its admission to the United Nations on the ground that the Peiping regime is an aggressor and has not purged itself of aggression.

The President's forthright statement will ring around the world and will place the issue on the high moral plane where Americans have placed it before.

Of course, Europeans, influenced by expediency, will try to rationalize an acceptance of the Communist regime in Peiping despite the record of dead and wounded for which the aggressor government of Red China is largely responsible.

Certainly, the fathers and mothers of the 40,000 American dead and 100,000 American wounded would never understand acceptance of the aggressor government as worthy of admission to an international organization designed to be the principal vehicle for the exercise of moral force in the world.

Looks like President Eisenhower has finally got things sized like a hat, measured like a city lot and pegged like a tent rope.

Ike never was a politician and went in there as innocent as an egg in an incubator. Sooner or later they all hatch.

After two years Ike has been all over the stage like a piano in Carnegie Hall.

Everything the politicos put over on him was not an umbrella.

The Good Book bewares us of the anger of a righteous man. And when Ike finally flipped he blew his top like a yeast cake.

The one that finally bobbled his floater was the payment of government pensions to convicted commies.

The pension was no bigger than a man's fist on the horizon. But that's too close.

Too Many Persons Substitute Alcohol for Calcium Their Bodies Really Need

By WILLIAM BRALY, M. D.

One of the physiological functions of calcium, I quote from Samson Wright's Applied Physiology, is—"Regulates excitability of nerve fibers and nerve centres."

When a discussion develops into an argument and the argument into a quarrel, one of the participants may keep cool and self-possessed while the other raises his voice and uses intemperate language.

The latter is generally considered uncultured, ill-bred. But that isn't all. A person's nutritional condition has a good deal to do with his or her calmness or excitability under everyday circumstances.

I know of no nutrition authority who rejects the teaching of Sherman (Chemistry of Food and Nutrition), that the ordinary diet of Americans is probably more often deficient in calcium than in any other chemical element.

The best food sources of calcium are milk, cheese, egg yolk, peas, beans, greens, nuts, and peanuts.

Today it is difficult for a growing child or youth to get enough calcium unless he or she consumes 1½ pints (three glasses) of milk daily. A sedentary adult can perhaps get along on only a pint (two glasses) a day.

Millions of growing children and youths and mature adults in Yankeeland try to get along with much less milk (or equivalents such as cheese, buttermilk, skim milk, evaporated milk).

They do not get along very well. They just drag along. And they are quite likely to resort to stimulants for their poor starved "nerves," such as tea, coffee, cocoa, chocolate, pop and other sweetened, flavored, colored, carbonated beverages.

In their late teens many begin to take aspirin or acetanilid or various mixtures of these calculated to keep the victims unconscious of their malnutrition, and still later they prefer such dope as the barbiturates and alcohol.

Indeed it is increasingly evident, though doctors and people would rather not acknowledge it, that indulgence in these poor substitutes for good nutrition is a symptom and an index of the national malnutrition.

A periodic drinker, or maybe a steady drinker who went on bouts which sometimes ended in jail or in the hospital, tried to account for his weakness thus: "At times I drank to excess because I felt the need of a stimulant or rather I just wanted to feel better."

Of course his rationalizing was wrong — alcohol is in no sense a stimulant, but only a narcotic, and he didn't feel the need of a stimulant, he just wanted something that would make him forget for a while, and the ever ready narcotic, alcohol, does that, as every drinker knows.

I'm always glad when someone tells me how much less frequent and less distressing his or her headaches—"nervous" headache, neuralgic headache or periodic sick headache (migraine)—since the poor soul learned how to correct calcium deficiency.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Guzman Named in Rival Slaying

Ex-Guatemalan Leader Accused of Plotting '49 Political Murder

GUATEMALA (AP)—Charges of murder and mismanagement mounted today against ousted President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman. The latest accusation sought to tag him with the 1949 slaying of his arch political rival—armed forces chief Col. Francisco Javier Arana.

In a move paving the way for Arbenz' arrest should he leave the Mexican Embassy where he is reported hiding, a tribunal of the ruling junta heard a friend of the slain man, Jose M. Palacios, formally charge the ex-President with masterminding the assassination.

Arbenz and leaders of his regime already face assorted charges of murder, torture and looting. In addition, the junta is trying to find out what happened to a million dollars which Arbenz's treasurer, Roberto Garcia Ortiz, said he turned over to the shortlived military regime which succeeded the leftist President.

Palacios blamed the Arana slaying on Arbenz and his agrarian department chief, Maj. Alfonso Martinez, who pushed through the Communist-backed regime's disputed land reforms.

Both Arbenz, who was then defense minister, and Arana had been considered strong possibilities to succeed President Juan Jose Arevalo, who was not permitted by the Constitution to run again. Arana was considered the more popular of the two.

Arana was machinegunned at a nearly resort in July 1949, touching off a bloody army revolt in which Arbenz led the pro-Arevalo army faction.

The other faction protested Arana's death and demanded Arbenz's overthrow. It was led by Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, who was later jailed but escaped into exile and led the June 18 revolt which smashed Arbenz regime. Castillo has long charged that Arbenz masterminded the assassination of his army chief.

Interior Minister Jorge Serrano told newsmen the new regime is trying to sift through some 2,000 suspected Reds now in Guatemalan jails to weed out the small fry and concentrate on the leaders.

In its quest for missing funds, the government was told by Garcia Ortiz that under orders from Arbenz's Finance Minister, he turned over one million quetzals (a million dollars) to Col. Carlos Enrique Diaz during the one day Diaz headed the government following the President's resignation.

Other sources have said that during the week preceding Arbenz's ouster, funds were withdrawn from various banks and government agencies and turned over to the presidential and executive offices.

Mother, 23, Accused of Burning Children

FAYETTEVILLE, W.Va. (AP) — A 23-year-old Meadow Bridge mother was indicted here yesterday on three counts of arson.

Mrs. Gloria June Vandall was accused of burning her 7-month-old illegitimate twin sons and her 4-year-old niece in a fire at her home in April, 1953. She gave herself up last April and confessed to starting the fire.

Police said she told them she wanted to get rid of her sons to marry her present husband. The niece was staying with Mrs. Vandall at the time.

Later the woman denied the story, saying she "just made it up" because she was angry with her husband.

Court Echoes Gangland Past

Volney Davis Pleads for Freedom; Belonged to Barker-Karpis Mob

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Echoes of the notorious Barker-Karpis gang are resounding in a federal courtroom here today as Volney Davis seeks freedom from a life sentence for his part in the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, a St. Paul brewer.

Davis, now a slim and white-haired 52, was brought here from Leavenworth Penitentiary to present his case before Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye. He has been in prison, first at Alcatraz and then at the Kansas institution, ever since he was sentenced after pleading guilty June 3, 1935. He charges he was denied the services of an attorney.

* * *

On the law-enforcement side, another famous name—Melvin Purvis—is listed among the government's 30 witnesses. Purvis, then FBI agent in charge of the Chicago office, and his men captured Davis June 1, 1935.

Purvis gained earlier and more lasting fame when he and his agents shot down John Dillinger, another headliner of the gangster era, outside a Chicago theater.

On the stand all day yesterday, Davis told how he grew up in his native Oklahoma with Fred and Doc Barker. Later, when the Barkers joined Alvin Karpis in a wave of crime that claimed headlines throughout the 1920s and early 1930s, Davis said he went along.

* * *

"The Barkers spent thousands of dollars in 1932 to get me out of a life term for murder in Oklahoma," the witness said. "After that I traveled with them and they supplied me with money. But I didn't know their business."

Records disclose the Barker-Karpis boys were responsible for slayings, bank robberies, holdups and other crimes in a dozen states. The spree ended when Bremer was snatched from a St. Paul street, with a $200,000 ransom paid for his release.

Davis claimed to have known nothing of the kidnaping and said he entered his plea of guilty to it only because he feared he would be returned to Oklahoma to finish out his term.

* * *

The witness said that after June 3 he was denied food and shackled in solitary confinement until his sentencing four days later.

But Alex Dim, assistant U.S. district attorney, drew from him an admission that he had been permitted to consult an attorney regarding disposition of the car he owned in Kansas City during the time he alleged he was held in solitary. The government also introduced evidence that newspaper reporters were allowed to interview the prisoner during that period.

Texas Has Negress as Temporary Judge

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — County Judge Charlye Farris was in her second day in office today and was serving without a hitch.

The 25-year-old Negro woman was the choice of the Wichita County Bar Assn. yesterday when a fill-in was needed for the regular county judge.

A graduate of Prairie View Normal School in Texas and Howard University in Washington, D.C., the woman attorney was picked to serve yesterday and today.

Black Hills Supply Almost Half of Beryl

WASHINGTON — A newly discovered beryl deposit in the Black Hills of South Dakota yielded nearly 40 per cent of all United States production of this valuable mineral last year.

The find was of special significance, for beryl is the only source of beryllium, a metal now in growing demand for atomic energy work.

Many people are familiar with beryl as a green or bluish green gem stone, says the National Geographic Society. In nature it is a silicate of beryllium and aluminum, and is extremely hard. Aquamarine and emerald are varieties of it.

For industrial use, the extracted beryllium is outstanding as an alloy to harden and strengthen copper, aluminum, nickel and other metals.

Old Dogs Learning New Tricks in New York

NEWBURGH, N. Y. (UP) — Nearly 9,000 persons who are 65 years of age or older now go to school in New York state, according to a report from a joint legislative committee.

The committee, headed by Sen. Thomas G. Desmond, is urging that an additional 500 schools with special courses for oldsters be set up by 1963.

The greatest foe of old age, Desmond said, is pessimism. That pessimism, he said, includes "the pessimism of our families, of management and physicians and educators, and above all, pessimism of the aged themselves."

Texas, due to its position, size and shape, has a great variety of climatic conditions. It has mountains, plains, forests and seacoasts, embracing an area of 265,896 square miles, which is 8 per cent of the entire nation.

Virtuous Doublecross

DELAND, Fla. (UP) — Mrs. Eva Burris of Bethel, Me., a winter visitor here, is afraid that virtue may be its own—and only—reward. A year ago, Mrs. Burris found a wallet containing $2,000 on a park bench and didn't rest until she found the owner. Now, Mrs. Burris has lost her own wallet containing $385 and all her papers, and no one has stepped forward to return it.

Fire Descendant of John Alden

Massachusetts Teacher Anne Hale Ousted for Red Party Membership

WAYLAND, Mass. (AP) — Miss Anne Hale Jr., 46, who claims she is a descendant of Pilgrim John Alden, has been fired as a public school teacher for having held membership in the Communist party.

The School Committee voted 2-1 to fire her last night. The dissenting vote was cast by Chairman William A. Waldron, who immediately announced his resignation as chairman until after the town elections next March.

The second-grade teacher, under suspension since last spring, was charged with being unfit to teach, conduct unbecoming a schoolteacher and membership in the Communist party.

* * *

Her attorney, Oliver S. Allen, said he has not decided yet what future action he will take in Miss Hale's behalf.

Waldron said he would have voted for Miss Hale's dismissal if her refusal to answer questions were one of the charges, but he said the charges against her were not substantiated during a series of public hearings last month.

His committee colleagues — Cornelius J. Maguire and Harvey C. Newton — noting that the Communist doctrine favors overthrow of the United States government, said:

"We cannot believe that Miss Hale in her years of activity in the Communist party did not learn this doctrine or hear it advocated or know of the distribution of literature advocating it."

* * *

Miss Hale admitted she was a Communist from 1945 to the latter part of 1950 but said she never advocated the overthrow of the government by force and violence.

At the time of her suspension Miss Hale sent the following letter to the parents of the 28 children in her class with a request that it be read to the youngsters:

"Dear children:

"Your family will tell you that different people have different ideas about how the country should be run.

"I have been working for a long time in the best way I know to make sure that the liberty and justice for all of which we speak every morning, is always with us, and that it will grow better.

"Those who don't agree with me may say harsh things.

"Just remember these things, which I am sure you know — I love my country and I love you."

Turns in False Alarm to Get Extension Ladder

CHICAGO (AP)—Fire engines sped to a South Side home yesterday in response to an alarm and the firemen found Clifton Gooch, 38, waiting for them.

"There's no fire, boys," Gooch told the firemen. "But I need one of your long ladders. I live on the third floor and lost my keys."

Gooch, a cook, was arrested for turning in a false alarm and for disorderly conduct. He was fined $10 and costs on each charge.

Money Preserved

ATLANTA (UP) — Claude Ridley, of Chatsworth, Ga., protested a $106,674 federal income tax lien for the 1941-51 period although he did not deny a government claim that he bought $98,500 worth of government savings bonds during that time, yet filed no tax returns. Ridley testified at his civil trial that he had buried his earnings in fruit jars from 1935 to 1941 and dug up the money to buy bonds when World War II broke out.

Mendes-France Wants Draftees

Premier Will Ask OK for Sending Conscripts to Indochina War

PARIS (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France said today he will ask the National Assembly to approve the sending of draftees to reinforce French forces in Indochina if the Geneva negotiations end in failure.

The Premier also told the lawmakers he would be leaving soon to take personal charge of the French delegation at Geneva.

"I have already said that the reasons to hope for a favorable and honorable outcome are present," he declared. "That is still my opinion today."

The Premier told the Assembly there would be no means of assuring the safety of French soldiers already in Indochina if conscripts were not sent.

Since the war started in 1947, all the fighting in Indochina has been done by French volunteers, North African troops, and Foreign Legionnaires. The dispatch of draftees to a combat zone was specifically forbidden by the National Assembly.

Mendes-France reminded the deputies he has promised to resign unless he can bring an end to the fighting by July 20. He also reminded them he has promised to take all necessary measures in the meantime to provide for the safety of French forces already on the scene.

The Premier said French military leaders concurred in his decision to call on conscripts if the attempts for a negotiated settlement fail. The Premier recently conferred with Gen. Paul Ely, France's new commander-in-chief in Indochina.

Mendes-France took office June 18 with a promise to resign as Premier if the Geneva conference did not result in a cease-fire by July 20. He since has assured France he does not mean to surrender Indochina to the Communist-led Vietminh, but will fight on if he cannot get a settlement.

Hearing Aids Hasten Repair of Television Sets

NEW YORK (UP) — The hearing aid has a new use—helping television repairmen to spot trouble in faulty sets.

These precision instruments, according to the American Hearing Aid Association, enable the TV serviceman to "tune in" quickly on a wide range of vibration noises, including transformer hums. This cuts down the time required to repair the set.

The garment trade is the leading industry in New York City.

Deputy Sheriff Is Clown in Off-Duty Moments

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (UP)—Everett Fuller, a deputy sheriff by profession, is a clown by choice.

For 20 years, he's been known in show business at "Arlington, the Clown." He has spent recent vacations with the Mills Brothers Circus.

Before joining the Schenectady County sheriff's department some 40 years ago, Fuller worked at the Van Curler Theater here. He still possesses the threshold of the threater dressing room over which Barrymore and many other stars of the day stepped.

Hal Boyle Says:

Silver Pipes Too Costly, Better for Gals to Chew

NEW YORK (AP)—Will American women now turn to smoking pipes or cigars?

There has been considerable hopeful tub-thumping that this will happen as a result of the recent discovery that cigarettes can't take away wrinkles or build either muscle or character.

* * *

The pipe manufacturers already are joyously rushing into production with a series of dainty-stemmed, colorful little chimneys designed to match milady's purse, belt and shoes.

* * *

The cigar boys are less optimistic about invading the feminine market on a mass basis. But here and there you can hear them murmur wistfully "After all, ladies of fashion in some European countries have enjoyed cigars in public for generations. Why not here?"

Well, if women care for what one man says (and what women do), they'll either stick sturdily to cigarettes or, if they insist on changing their tobacco habits, switch to chewing tobacco or snuff.

For years I was a voice in the wilderness, crying for women to take up cigars or pipes. I pointed out that cigars helped Amy Lowell write fine poetry; they made "Poker Alice" one of the best card gamblers in old Deadwood, S.D., palmy mining days.

* * *

It seemed reasonable that since women wanted more and more to act like men, dress like men and talk like men, they ought to smoke cigars and pipes like men. This held out the possibility that in time they could even BE like men—reasonable, thoughtful, easy-going, peaceful, and less quick to detect and find fault with those small flyspecks that mar even the best of husbands.

This illusion has vanished. I have thought the whole thing through and decided that a nation of cigar-or-pipe-smoking women would be a national disaster—from the male viewpoint.

Take the simple matter of cost. No family budget today is large enough to support two serious cigar smokers. And if somebody has to scrimp on his stogies, it won't be mama. It'll be papa. He'll be wandering around the house cadging her stumps from the ashtrays.

* * *

The cost factor also will enter into pipe smoking. Do you think for a moment that a wife will be satisfied with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's famous corncob model? Nay, indeed. She'll need a separate pipe for every house dress or cocktail gown she buys. A pipe will become just another accessory to her wardrobe, and don't think the pipe she wears out in the evening won't have to be plated with silver or gold and studded with something more expensive than rhinestones.

* * *

There is still another problem. America doesn't produce enough matches or lighters to keep the ladies supplied if they switch to cigars or pipes.

Nor would the gallantry or muscle of American manhood be equal to the task of keeping mama lit up. I figure some man has to scratch three matches for every cigarette a woman smokes today. Think how arm-weary men will become if they have to keep her pipe or cugar fuming. All it can result in is more divorces, with the husband whining:

* * *

"Judge, she smokes 4 cigars a night, and I have to light each cigar 40 times, and that's 160 matches, and I'm so worn out I can't do my work next day. Give me the kids, judge, and I'll be glad to pay her cigar alimony."

* * *

No, the sensible thing for women to do, if they must change at all, is to switch back to chewing tobacco. Some pioneer mothers used chawin' terbaccy—and when has the world created a finer breed?

When a wife is gnawing on a cud of good old Peachy Plug you can be sure of one thing—she'll be too happy and contented to burn out her old man's ear with small mean talk. It'll bring peace and quiet to the home.

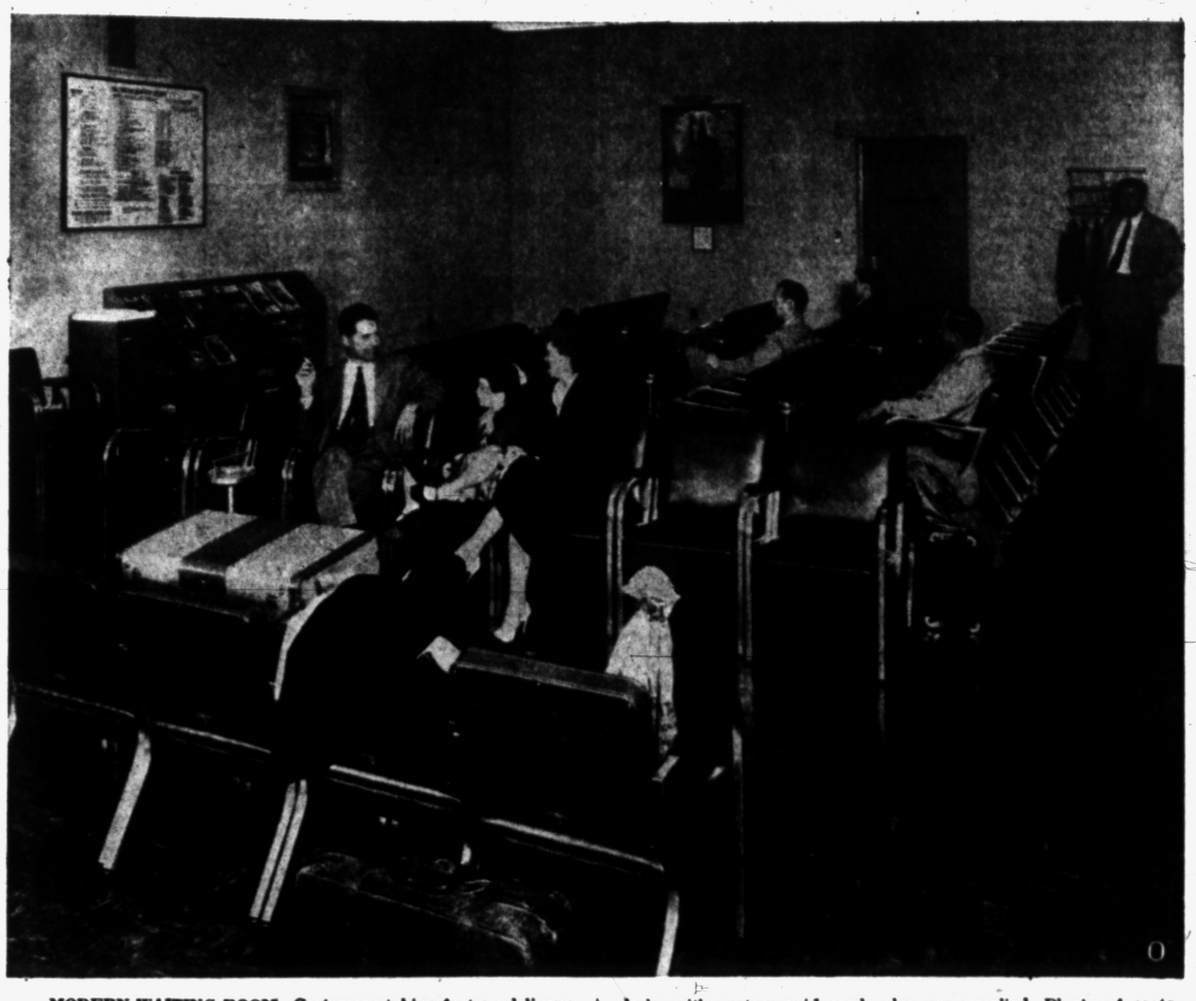
Pontiac Motor Customers Get Cars at New Building



MODERN WAITING ROOM—Customers taking factory delivery on their 1954 Pontiacs will find a modern, air-conditioned waiting room complete with television and periodical reading rack. Writing desks with postage-paid cards also are supplied. Plenty of seats are available.

Out-of-State Retail Buyers See Vehicles Prepared

Pontiac Motor Division's new retail delivery building, popular with out-of-state visitors, is in full operation, according to plant officials.

Last summer, they report, more than 8,500 out-of-staters came here to accept factory delivery of their new Pontiacs.

Many buyers plan their Michigan vacations with an eye to picking up their new car, thereby saving freight charges.

The 26,400 - square - foot addition, completed early this year, houses a modern waiting room and facilities for servicing and storing customers' cars until called for.

An air-conditioned waiting room is equipped with television, a magazine library and writing desks where postage paid cards are supplied.

Waiting customers are also entertained.

They have an opportunity to view the complete service line where cars are washed and prepared for drive-away.

They can also take a plant tour, via comfortable tour trains, to see how their cars are built. Guides are supplied to explain steps in manufacture.

Plant officials say that the majority of people coming here for cars are from the West Coast. The freight saving, larger for the west than any other section, attracts buyers from California, Washington and Oregon in large numbers, they report.

As an example, officials point out that during June last year, of the 1,388 retail factory deliveries for the month, 1,207 of them were made to customers from Pontiac's Pacific sales region.

Officials point out that although the firm has spent large amounts of money preparing for delivery to retail customers, the system is still a retail dealer transaction. The local dealer must order the car, arrange for license plates to be sent to the factory and handle payment.

A HIGHLIGHT OF VISIT—Highlighting the customer's visit to Pontiac Motor Division is a tour of the plants where his new Pontiac is built. The customer rides in comfort through the assembly and stamping plants on the tour train.

City Lot Paving to Begin Soon

Finish Meter Islands; Wiring for Light Poles Ready

Blacktopping of the new 250-car city parking lot at the northwest corner of Parke and E. Pike Sts. may begin Monday, weather permitting, according to Pontiac City Engineer Lewis M. Wrenn.

All but about 10 per cent of the lot surface will be paved immediately, said Wrenn, with the remainder done after a retaining wall on the north end is completed.

The cement islands for installing the meters are finished, the engineer stated, and the underground wiring ready for placement of light poles.

Some 1,500 cubic yards of gravel were dumped into the site to establish the proper grade. A barrier will be built at the lot's west limit along the Clinton River. The bridge over the Clinton connecting the lot and city - owned market building at 40 Mill St. will be placed on a more level plane.

Saarland Coalition Forced to Resign

SAARBRUECKEN, Saarland (AP)—Premier Johannes Hoffmann's coalition government resigned after a dispute over labor legislation last night but Hoffmann was expected to form a new cabinet soon made up only of members of his Christian People's party.

The Premier's party has a majority in the 50-member Parliament with 29 seats but had included the Socialists in the governing coalition.

The two factions split when the Socialists abstained from voting for a new workers law put forward by the Christian People's group. The Premier then said he could see no basis for continuing the coalition.

Boy Wounds Brother in Television Argument

DETROIT (UP) — A 16-year-old boy was recovering today from a bullet wound he suffered during a scuffle with his younger brother over television.

Police said the boy was struck in the right arm by a .22 caliber slug fired by his 14-year-old brother. Police said the argument started Wednesday night when the older boy insisted on using a chair from which the younger brother was watching television.

FAN-CY SIGNS—At last a system of answering noisy blasts from horn-blowing motorists has been devised. When the guy behind you blasts away without let-up, just wave an appropriate sign out the window. You can tell him thanks or show him the nose-thumbing signal (top)—or just ask him to be "quiet" On hot days the signs can be used as fans.

Museum Porter Helps Himself

Smuggles Treasures, Fixes Up Humble Home but Is Caught

LONDON (AP) — Humble John Nevin, whose tiny dwelling made some of the stately homes of England look like poorly furnished barns, drew three years in prison yesterday for looting a museum of 2,000 exhibits.

Nevin, 58, had been a trusted porter at the Victoria and Albert Museum since 1930. He made 9 pounds ($25.20) a week.

In suburban Chiswick he and his wife Mary lived in an outwardly modest four - room house which rented for 25 shillings ($3.50) a week.

But the interior, police witnesses said yesterday, was opulent beyond belief.

* * *

A beautiful piece of old Flemish tapestry was used as a bedspread. The window curtains were made of exquisite lace. The carpets and rugs were princely products of the looms of Persia and India. The tables were rare antiques. Objects d'art, jewelry, glassware and pottery stood on every shelf and in every corner.

A garbage can held 21 jeweled sword hilts and a jade figurine.

And when 54-year-old Mrs. Nevin washed the dishes, her apron was a piece of 18th-century tapestry.

Detectives said Nevin had piled up his treasure over a period of 20 years by carrying pieces home from work under his clothing. He took the antique tables apart, smuggled out the legs and tops separately and then put them together again. He wrapped the tapestries and lace around his body.

Museum officials discovered the thefts during a recent inventory of their exhibits, which number about one million. They put a nominal value of 3,500 pounds ($9,800) on Nevin's loot, but said much of it was priceless and irreplaceable.

Said Nevin's lawyer, F. H. Lawton:

* * *

"He thought the museum didn't know how to look after the articles as well as he did. He has got this silly idea in his head that his appreciation of this kind of article is greater than that of the museum."

* * *

Sentencing of Mrs. Nevin, accused of receiving stolen goods, was deferred pending a report from a probation officer.

Man Killed, 3 Injured as Knifer Runs Berserk

CLEVELAND (AP)—A man wielding a butcher knife ran into an East Side rooming house early today, killed one man and injured three other persons.

Dead was Walter Russell, 35, who lived at the rooming house.

Adrian Harvey, 17, Dorothy Johnson, 22, and Robert Fisher were treated at a hospital for cuts on the backs and hands. They were not seriously injured.

Homicide detectives said the slasher was described as a 28-year-old man who had a jealous hatred of Russell. He was not identified.

SERVICE LINE—While waiting for his new Pontiac, the customer has a chance to see the complete service line where cars are washed and prepared for drive-away. The line assures the customer his car will be clean and properly prepared for driving away.

Police Fight Delinquency by Calling Parents First

By EARL HOFELDT

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — The other day I talked with a high school freshman whose parents are members of the Late Hour and Elbow Bending Society. Jokingly, I asked: "Do you think you'll be a delinquent?"

"Well," he responded, "I've got the right background."

As everywhere else, the causes and responsibilities for delinquency lie mainly with parents. Youngsters know this, as the lad I talked with indicated clearly.

Monterey is an unusual area, in some ways. This city, and Carmel, both on the coast, are areas of expensive homes. Carmel is a widely known art colony. Monterey's population is about 20,000. Carmel's 8,000. Inland is rural King City, primarily agricultural, with 2,600 persons in the city limits.

Yet it was here that the peninsula's worst riot occurred one night last summer. It stemmed from a dispute over whether a gang of Mexican or Swiss-Italian youths had primary rights to "drag"—as they call it—the main street in their souped-up cars. Sixteen Mexicans and 31 Swiss-Italians met in a vacant lot. When it was over, one of the latter was dying of a knife wound, two others were seriously hurt. Police rounded up every youth, lectured each of them and their parents on their responsibilities. Since then, not one of the boys has been back in court.

The peninsula's over-all rate of juvenile delinquency is slightly under California's state average, well below the big metropolitan areas.

But it's climbing steadily, particularly on car thefts and burglaries.

Sophisticated Carmel has had other problems, too.

Police Chief Clyde Klaumann had to warn parents they could serve their own children drinks in their own homes—"but not other people's children or we'll have you charged with contributing." Easter "Hell Week" in this resort town was long a problem, with an influx of youngsters from other cities to this resort area. They were destructive, insulting, defiant.

Klaumann's men started picking them up and writing letters to their parents. It has helped keep the kids in line. They were tough just so long as Mama didn't know.

Klaumann firmly believes that the parent should be linked—through moral and legal responsibility—to the acts of his child.

When a boy is picked up after Carmel's strict 10:30 p.m. curfew, for example, he is taken to police headquarters and his parents phoned. They are told they must come and take their child home.

* * *

Perhaps Pop has to roll out of bed to come and get Junior. Perhaps the police call broke up a party. Whatever the case, the parents have been inconvenienced. Thus their responsibility is brought home with emphasis.

"We don't want to send youngsters to court unless they're absolutely hopeless or if they're three-time offenders," says Klaumann. "Usually, by maintaining a close link between the youngster and the parents, we can work out the problem right here. This works to everyone's benefit. The youngster is not placed in official custody and no jail record is written up against him."

Here's the program of Monterey Police Chief Charles E. Simpson for building sound parent-child relationships:

1. Start working with your youngster when he's very young, from the time he's able to walk.
2. Be a real friend to your child. Talk his language. Be wise to modern slang. Thirty years ago you said, "Hot ziggity." Today your son says, "Real George."
3. Build trust. Don't deceive your child. Don't lie to him.
4. Build faith. Don't let your youngster catch you boasting of some unlawful act you got away with or some crooked deal you put over successfully.
5. Get out and play with your child. Play catch. Boot a football.
6. Make your youngster conscious of spiritual things, of the great unknown.

State May Legislate to Protect Rattlers

OKEENE, Okla. (UP) — The rattlesnake may be put under the protection of Oklahoma game laws to prevent the reptiles from being wiped out here.

The International Association of Rattlesnake Hunters is planning to ask for legislation making it illegal to kill rattlers out of season.

Joe Durham, spokesman for the group, said the law is needed because wiping out rattlers would "upset the balance of nature."

"In the past three years we have had a drouth which has offset the balance of nature," he said. "Insect life has gained in leaps and bounds. The crows have been hopelessly slaughtered, and this has thrown a load on other animal life such as the skunk and snake."

He said insect life was left to rattlers and other snakes which gorged until they were unable to escape hunters.

Being "lazyful," Durham said, the rattler has been easy prey for the hunter during the past 15 years."

Durham said the association will recommend a hunting season on them from March 15 to May 1 and "other rules which correspond with those for other hunted game."

New Zealand Labor

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (UP) — New Zealand's 1952-53 laboring population was 766,900. The increase of 15,300 over last year included 14,100 male and 3,400 female migrants.

Unwary Streetsweeper Snares Curious Canine

ATHENS, Ga. (UP) — With advent of a new leash law in Athens, even the mechanical streetsweepers are picking up dogs.

City Engineer Jack Beacham said recently a small dog barked at a streetsweeper, got too close to the rotary broom and, unknown to the driver, was swept into the dirt compartment.

Later a small boy appeared at the city incinerator, pointed an accusing finger at the driver and said, "you've got my dog."

The surprised operator opened the dust bin of his sweeper and sure enough, there was the dog, dizzy but still alive.

The pup recovered quickly at the sight of his master and went home with him.

Husband, Wife Internes

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UP) — Dr. Harold A. Wilkinson, 28, and his wife, Dr. Rosefise H. Wilkinson, 26, are interning together at Rhode Island Hospital. It's the first husband - wife team of internes in the institution's 86-year history.

Forbid Catholic Participation

Cardinal Bans Study of Outside Meetings by Observers

CHICAGO (AP) — Roman Catholics in the Archdiocese of Chicago, in a pastoral letter from Samuel Cardinal Stritch, have been forbidden to take part in meetings or assemblies by "men outside the church" who seek to establish Christian unity.

"The Catholic Church does not take part in these organizations or in their assemblies or conferences," said the cardinal, who is archbishop of Chicago. There are some 1,800,000 Roman Catholics in the Chicago archdiocese, one of the world's largest.

* * *

The cardinal's letter did not mention by name the World Council of Churches assembly in suburban Evanston Aug. 15-31. But Dr. William A. Visser 't Hooft, of Geneva, Switzerland, the council's general secretary, said in a statement he felt the cardinal's decision is "regrettable."

Dr. Visser 't Hooft, who is here making final arrangements for the meeting, said it had been hoped that Roman Catholics might attend the second assembly of Protestants as observers.

He expressed surprise that the pastoral letter did not refer to an official Vatican instruction of 1949, under which, he said Roman Catholics have been observers at previous World Council sessions.

* * *

He said the Vatican instruction "left the door open for certain conversations between Roman Catholics and non-Roman Catholics and even for participation of individual Roman Catholics in ecumenical gatherings, if the necessary ecclesiastical authorization had been given.

The World Council, Dr. Visser 't Hooft said, recently had expressed its readiness to invite some Roman Catholic observers to attend the assembly in Evanston if they could obtain permission from the authorities concerned.

Modern Note for Amish: Buggy-Parking Meters

MILLERSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Amishmen are going to have to pay five cents to park their buggies along the east side of the courthouse in Millersburg.

City Council has voted to replace hitching racks there with parking meters but to continue reserving the block for buggies.

Asks Accounting of Foreign Aid

Senate Seeks to Cut Stassen Program Fund by 2 Billion Dollars

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee asked Harold E. Stassen today for an accounting of unspent foreign aid funds in the face of a call by Sen. George (D-Ga) for a two-billion-dollar cut in new money.

Acting Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) said he has asked Stassen to outline at a closed committee session just how much money voted by Congress in the past has not been firmly committed by the Foreign Operations Administration (FOA), which Stassen heads.

"Nobody has given us a clear explanation of just where the FOA stands with regard to its funds," Smith said. "There has been a lot of talk about the tremendous carry-over of funds in this field and we want to find out what the facts are."

George said in a separate interview he believes the FOA has about 2½ billion dollars already appropriated by Congress which it has not firmly committed.

• • •

"If that is true, I see no reason why the request for new money ought not to be reduced by at least two billion dollars," he said. "I intend to offer an amendment of this kind and if the administration exercises good judgment and wants help in balancing the budget, it would support it."

The House already has approved an authorization measure for a proposed 3½ billion-dollar outlay in new foreign aid funds. This was nearly what the administration asked.

The FOA makes commitments far ahead and contends it needs the new authority to project its program with certainty. Smith said that before the Senate committee acts it wants to know if any sizable amount of money remains uncommitted.

Communist Girl's Church Wedding Irks Red Paper

MOSCOW (AP)—Can you imagine how the secretary of a Young Communist League committee could backslide so far that she would get married in a church?

This happened recently at Nukha, a city of considerable size down near Baku, capital of the Azerbaijan Republic. And the newspaper Baku Worker made it the point of a major article to increase the anti-religious drive of Soviet youth.

These articles have been appearing more and more frequently in the Moscow press as well as in provincal papers. The anti-religious drive has to be increased because churches appear to be making inroads, especially with the youth.

Baku Worker's complaint stated:

"A long procession was moving from the house of the bride to the house of the bridegroom. In the first car sat the bride, with an oil lamp and mirror in her hands, according to Oriental custom. In the other cars were many friends of the bride and the bridegroom.

"Then they all went to the city cemetery, where is the grave of a 'holy Mohammed.' The cars stopped and the caretaker of the grave began to read a prayer. . . .

"It is not the first time that marriages have been blessed by this man and that young girls and men have followed these ancient prejudices.

"But this time it was even more serious—the secretary of the Young Communist League committee and her husband, who himself is a teacher in one of our institutes!"

Reaches for Rosary, Gets Shot in the Leg

OMAHA (AP)—Francis E. Torphy, 29, was preparing to retire and reached for his rosary on the top of a dresser.

As he pulled it toward him, the beads caught in the trigger of an automatic pistol lying on the dresser. Torphy tugged at the rosary—and was shot in the thigh.

Child Driver, 3, Loses Control of Family Auto

MALONE, N.Y. (AP)—James Hughes, 3½, told his grandmother, Mrs. Carl Ornstedt, he "lost control for a minute" when he took the family's new automobile for a joyride.

The car went down the driveway and across the road, sideswiped a neighbor's garage, circled back onto the Ornstedt lawn and struck a tree. The car damage was estimated at $300.

Young Hughes, who had learned how to shift the car gears, promised never to touch the keys again.

Egyptians Release 20 Political Prisoners

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser's regime has released 20 army and police officers who had been detained on grounds of collaborating with the Moslem Brotherhood against the government.

The announcement of their release yesterday was made simultaneously with an official statement wiping out a previous decree outlawing the semireligious, semipolitical organization.

Admits Food Oils Scarce in China

Peiping Regime Acts to Aid Flow of Needed Cooking Fats

HONG KONG (AP)—Oil for the mouths of China is in such short supply that Peiping has at last admitted it and decided to do something about it.

Because China's millions eat almost no dairy products and not much meat, the oil in which they cook their food is their chief source of fat. Last year peanut and vegetable oils began to be scarce. For many months, despite rationing, housewives have had to line up to get oil. People still complain about scarcity and about adulteration—mostly the mixing of wood oil with vegetable or peanut oil.

The Reds admit that cooking oil is scarce in an editorial in the Tientsin Ta Kung Pao entitled: "Strive for a Balanced Supply and Demand of Edible Oils." They claim that under state management edible oil production went up 41 per cent from 1950 to 1952, but last year no gain was made.

Peiping has created a complete state monopoly in edible oil, eliminating China's age-old free market in oils and fats. Private wholesalers, retailers, oil pressers may become agencies of the state but cannot operate independently. Control of supply has also been ordered, but how this is to be exercised is vague.

• • •

Peiping has called for increased production. The increase is to be achieved without devoting any more presently cultivated acreage to cooking oil plants—no grain, cotton or rice acreages are to be diverted. Unused ground should be planted, the government says. Also higher yields will be attempted, along with better processing to give more oil per pounds of nuts or vegetable.

• • •

Peiping admits there has been a nationwide complaint that the shortage is due to too much exportation. This is not true, says the Tientsin Ta Kung Pao, but in the next line it announces that "this year oil exports will be decreased 26.7 per cent."

Brazil Arrests 29 Reds

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Police say they have arrested 29 members or fellow travelers in Brazil's outlawed Communist party in the last 10 days. It appears to be a pre-election crackdown.

Dem Says GOP Used Pressure

Rep. Abernathy (Miss.) Claims Republicans Bitter on Farm Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Abernethy (D-Miss) said today he has been told House Republicans were subjected to "terrific pressures and stringent disciplinary action" to line them up last week for flexible farm price supports.

Abernethy is a member of the House Agriculture Committee and a backer of the present system of rigid price supports, which the House refused to extend, voting instead for a flexible plan modified somewhat from administration proposals.

"Many Republicans quietly complained that every possible method of disciplinary action was exercised to whip some of their colleagues in line," Abernethy said in a statement.

* * *

"It was strongly rumored . . . . that officials in the offices of the Republican National Committee had told members who were inclined to vote for the committee bill that unless they voted with the administration . . . that no money would be made available for their forthcoming campaigns."

Abernethy said one Republican who was "very bitter about it" told him Republicans were "subjected to terrific pressures and stringent disciplinary action." He did not name this GOP member.

The test came on an amendment, approved 229-170, providing flexible price supports for basic farm crops ranging between 82½ per cent to 90 per cent of parity, a standard said by law to give farmers a fair return in relation to their costs.

* * *

The Agriculture Committee had recommended rigid supports at 90 per cent of parity. The administration asked for flexible supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity.

Abernethy said the plan finally accepted was a "surprise compromise" offered by Republican leaders.

President Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday he did not regard the House action as a compromise, since it embraces the principle of flexible price drops.

He said he regarded the House vote as "a great and sweeping victory" for the administration.

Capt. William J. Stannard was the first leader of the United States Army band, being appointed by General Pershing in 1923, after competitive tests for the position.

The Caine Mutiny

Copyright

Synopsis: Willie Keith, a Princeton man, finds himself in the Navy in the fall of 1943. His assignment is on a minesweeper, the Caine, which he soon discovers is a filthy, dirty, old tub, due to the bad command. As decoding officer, he is overjoyed when he gets the message that the ship is to have a new officer, a Captain Queeg. Sometimes Willie thinks of the girl he left behind him, May Wynn.

CHAPTER 8

After four days of repairs, the Caine was ordered to sea for minesweeping exercises in waters near Oahu.

Roland Keefer came aboard that evening for dinner. "Well," said Roland as they sat down, "looks like I'll be saying good-by to you all for a while. Staff's piling aboard the Yorktown tomorrow. Guess the admiral wants some sea pay."

Tom Keefer's face darkened. He threw down his knife and fork. "Wouldn't you know. A new flattop."

"That hurts, doesn't it, Tom?" said DeVriess, grinning.

"What's the matter, Tom?" said Maryk. "Don't you like minesweeping?" all the officers laughed at the standard joke about the communicator.

The first lieutenant, who resembled a prize fighter or drill sergeant with his bullet head, short wide nose, and close-clipped hair, had a surprisingly innocent, affectionate smile which changed his whole appearance.

"Why don't you send in another transfer request, Tom?" said the captain. "I'll approved it again."

"I've given up. This ship is an outcast, manned by outcasts, and named for the great outcast of mankind. My destiny is the Caine. It's the purgatory for my sins."

The Caine left Pearl Harbor at dawn in a rain squall, but the squall passed and the sun came out brilliantly as she cleared the channel entrance.

When Willie came off watch he went to the forecastle to enjoy the view of Diamond Head and Oahu's green hills. He was agreeably surprised at the old minesweeper's brisk speed. There were traces of destroyer grandeur yet in the rusty ruin. For the first time since his arrival on the Caine Willie felt moderately happy.

A few hours later Willie was on the bridge again with Maryk for the noon-to-four watch. Captain de Vriess dozed in his narrow chair on the starboard side of the pilothouse.

The first lieutenant peered constantly seaward, sometimes making a slow sweep of the horizon with his binoculars. Willie imitated him, but the sea was empty, and he soon became bored.

After a while Maryk said, "There they are."

"Where, sir?"

"One point to starboard."

Maryk woke the captain. "Three cans hull down, sir, about three miles west of rendezvous.

The captain mubled, "Okay, go to twenty knots and close 'em."

At four o'clock the minesweepers formed a slanting line, a thousand yards apart, and began to launch their sweep gear. Willie went to the fantail to watch.

He could make no sense of the activity. The equipment was a foul tangle of greasy cables, shackles, floats, lines, and chains. After twenty minutes of bawling and brawling, the boatswain's mate in charge of the deck hands' war dance, a chunky, frog-voiced, frantic chief named Bellison, shouted, "All set to starboard, Mr. Maryk!"

The sailors cranked an egg-shaped paravane up on a crane. At a word from Maryk, they dumped all the gear over the side. Came clanks, rattles, spashes, yells, puffing of steam, creaking turns of a windlass, and a frenzy of running around, and a great cadenza of obscenity.

Then suden quiet ensued. The paravane was streaming neatly outward to starboard in a fanning arc, sinking slowly beneath the surface with a red float above it to mark the place.

The wild scramble began again with the gear of the port paravane. Splash, grind, yowls, curses, silence — and the second paravane was streaming as neatly as the first. "I'll be damned," Willie said aloud.

The other minesweepers got their gear launched and an afternoon of practice maneuvers began. Willie was dizzied by the turns and twists and changing formations, but he gathered at last by using his eyes that the ships were pretending to be in a mine field and simulating various emergencies and disasters.

When word came over the p.a. to recover the sweep gear, the minesweep detail worked in a fever, racing against time. They kept a constant watch on the two black balls hanging on the yardarms of the other ships; the drop of a ball would mean that a paravane had been recovered.

In fifteen minutes the Caine dropped its ball on the port yardarm; but when the starboard paravane was in sight there was a calamity. A sailor who was pulling the little red float out of the water, juggled it and dropped it. The float bobbed away in the ship's wake, free.

Maryk sent word to the bridge. The Caine stopped and then backed slowly. Then Maryk tore off all his clothes, wrapped a line around his waist and dived over the side.

The sun had set. The float was a red dot on the purple waves, about two hundred yards off the port quarter. The sailors lined the rail, watching the first lieutenant's head slowly approach the float, and Willie heard them muttering about sharks.

Somebody was tapping Willie on the shoulder. He turned impatiently, "Yes, yes, what is it?"

A radioman stood behind him with a flapping dispatch in his hand. "This just came over Fox, sir. We're the action addressee. Mr. Keefer says you got the coding duty—"

Willie took the message and glanced at it. "Okay, okay. I'll break it in a few minutes." He thrust the sheet in his pocket and looked to sea. Then Maryk's shout came feebly on the wind. "Okay, haul in!"

The sailors began to pull the wet line back aboard frantically. The float came cutting through the water with Maryk clinging to it.

Willie, tingling with excitement, scampered down the ladder to the fantail. He lost his footing on the slippery deck and fell. A wave of warm salty water broke over him, drenching him. The dripping float clanked onto the deck.

When Maryk clambered aboard his eye fell on the bedraggled figure of Willie. "What the hell happened to you, Keith? Did you dive in, too?" The sailors noticed Willie now and snickered.

"Got too interested watching you," said Willie. "That was great work."

Maryk swept water from his broad brown chest and shoulders with his palms. "H-I, I've been looking for an excuse to take a dip. Come on, Keith, you and me need new clothes."

Willie dumped his sodden khakis in a heap in a corner of the clipping shack. He had completely forgotten the dispatch in his pocket. There it lay, dissolving to a pulp inside the crumpled khakis, while the ship steamed through maneuvers for the next two days.

On the third day the formation moved in to shallow waters near a beach and swept some dummy mines. Willie was sitting on the deck, deep in a thorny analysis of his recent experiences.

"Ensign Keith, report to the captain's cabin on the double!" The announcement rasped through the loudspeaker, bringing him to his feet. As he ran to the wardroom he rapidly reviewed possible reasons for the summons.

De Vriess, in trousers and undershirt, sat at his desk, glowering at a long list of dispatch headings, one of which was circled in heavy red crayon. Beside him stood Tom Keefer and the radioman who had brought Willie the forgotten message three days ago.

The sight told Willie all. He experienced a longing to vanish or die.

"Willie," said the captain in a level, not unkind tone, "three days ago this ship received a dispatch addressed to us for action. I learned this interesting fact for the first time five minutes ago while making a routine check of the headings of all dispatches received while we were at sea.

"I always do that when we come into port. These dull habits sometimes pay off. Now, the radio shack has orders to shoot action dispatches to the coding officer the instant they come in. Snuffy Smith here claims he gave the message to you three days ago. Is he lying?"

The radioman blurted, "Sir, I gave it to you on the after deckhouse while they were recovering paravanes. You remember!"

"You did, Smith," said Willie. "I'm sorry, Captain. It's my fault."

"I see. Have you decoded the message?"

"No, sir. I'm sorry, but it—"

"Very well, Smith, lay up to the radio shack and bring Lt. Keefer the Fox sked on the double."

"Aye aye, sir." The sailor darted out of the cabin.

The "Fox skeds" were the log sheets on which all dispatches sent to Navy ships at sea were copied by the radio operators. These were preserved for several months, then destroyed.

Dispatches concerning the ship were recopied on separate forms. It was such a retyped form that lay moldering in Willie's khakis in the clip shack.

"The next thing, Tom," said the captain calmly, "is to break that message faster than you've ever done anything in your life."

In a few minutes the coding machine began clicking in the wardroom. The Captain went out. When Keefer had whirled through the message De Vriess returned and handed the breakdown to Willie.

Lieutenant Commander William H. de Vriess USN detached when relieved. Report to BuPers by air transportation for further assignment. Class two priority authorized. Training duty of Lieutenant Commander Philip F. Queeg has been canceled and he is proceeding to relieve at once.

Willie returned the dispatch to the captain. "I'm sorry, sir. It's incredible stupidity and carelessness on my part," he said, choking over the words. "I don't know what else to say, sir, except—"

De Vriess leaned his head on his hand for a moment. "Have you any idea, Keith, how serious the mislaying of an action dispatch can be?"

"Yes, sir."

"I'm not sure you have."

The captain picked up a stack of long yellow forms on his desk.

"By a coincidence which is perhaps unlucky, I've been filling out the work sheet of your fitness report this morning, together with those of the other officers. I have to submit them to the Bureau when I'm detached.

"What just happened called for me to give you an unsatisfactory fitness report. It's an unpleasant, dirty thing to do. These sheets lie in the Bureau forever. I don't like to wreck a man's naval career, even when he regards it lightly."

"I don't regard it lightly, sir. I've made a bad mistake and I'm desperately sorry. I've made that as clear as words can make it."

"Maybe now is the time to clean up your report," said the captain. He pulled out one of the forms from the batch, picked up a pencil, and wrote several lines in his unexpectedly neat small hand. He gave the report to Willie. Underneath General Remarks he had written this:

Ensign Keith seems a bright and apt young man. He has been aboard less than two weeks. He shows promise of becoming a competent officer. But he must first overcome a somewhat light and careless approach to his duties.

Willie returned the sheet to the captain, trying to keep his face blank of emotion.

"Thank you very much, sir." Willie was trembling. "May I go, sir?"

The captain tossed the fitness report on his desk and swiveled his chair back and forth slowly. Perhaps that will drive the feathers out of your head.

On second thought," he added, "confinement to the clip shack would be cruel and unusual punishment, no doubt of that. Let's say you're confined to the limits of the ship for three days."

"Aye aye, sir."

"Well, I guess that's all."

Willie turned and walked out, closing the door rather hard. He dashed up the ladder an ran to the clipping shack. His course was clear to him now.

"I can, and I will, erase that description from my record, so help me God," he swore to himself. "But not on the Caine. Not on the Caine!"

Late that afternoon four dirty weather - stained sacks of mail were delivered to the Caine. Willie's share was a number of old crumpled letters from May and his mother, and a few others; also a battered oblong package that looked like a book.

His nerves were shocked when he saw his father's handwriting on the package. He tore it open, and found a black - bound Bible with a wrinkled note protruding from it.

"Here's the Bible I promised you, Willie. Luckily I found one right here in the hospital bookstore, otherwise I'd have had to send out for it.

Take a look at Ecclesiastes 9:10, will you? I'll let that stand as my last word to you. Nothing more now, but good-by, and God bless you.

Dad.

Willie turned to the Bible passage with shaking hands.

Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, wither thou goest.

Willie turned out the light, threw himself on his bunk, and buried his face in the sooty pillow.

The next morning, Lieutenant Commander Philip Francis Queeg reported aboard the Caine.

Lady-in-Waiting Should Keep Morale High

If you're an expectant mother, you can give yourself a very simple morale test.

Since the first day you put on your maternity dress or suit, how many times have you thought — "How I wish I had my figure back!" If it's more than twice, you need to revise your beauty routine.

First of all, as your own doctor will tell you, a happy frame of mind is of vital importance for the general health of you and your baby.

The expectant mother who becomes disinterested in outside activites is creating problems for herself.

So is the woman who is very self-conscious of her appearance and neglects herself, thinking: "What's the use?"

Maternity fashions are so pretty and inexpensive that there's no excuse for the expectant mother not having a few smart outfits.

This is the time to pay special attention to your groomung habits.

Two hundred strokes with your hairbrush will give your hair a beautiful luster. And your skin will look baby-smooth if you scrub it several times a day with a complexion brush.

Use a light, natural - looking makeup. It's amazing what a touch of powder and lipstick will do

And a prettily made-up face will you feel relaxed and comfortable. go a long way towards helping for your morale.

Another neglected invention for the car that stops on a dime is a putty knife to scrape the driver off the windshield.

Indians of New Mexico have 10 written language and their myths have passed orally from generation to generation.

Talk-causing toss cushions in this enchanting group will lighten any corner they land in, from bedroom to sunporch. They are made of brilliant, hand-appliqued felt.

Spray With Hose

You can save laundry time by sprinkling clothes for ironing before they're taken off the line. Set the nozzle of your hose on a very fine spray and gently play water on the starched clothes. The clothes should be sprinkled on one side only since the entire garment will absorb moisture when it is folded.

Pink and Blue Lose to Mint and Maize

NEW YORK (INS) — Worried about whether to buy blue or pink for that baby who hasn't arrived yet?

Well, don't worry, for a survey has just revealed that as of now the most popular colors in baby garments and accessories are mint and maize. Since neither color is the exclusive property of the male or female baby, it's safe to buy the infant's wardrobe in advance.

Aids Hair Coloring

NEW YORK (UP) — The latest in hair coloring aides is applied much like lipstick. It's designed for the woman who wants to cover new growth between bleaches or dyes, or who wants to disguise the first few gray hairs. The coloring agent is packaged in a lipstick-like tube, and is available in eight shades.

GI May Have Reasons for Not Writing

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I've been writing to a boy in the Army for six months, and he has been answering my letters promptly, writing me two or three times a week.

"Almost two weeks ago, he stopped writing. Before that, he said he would come to a party for one of my friends but he didn't show up or write.

Now I understand that, in an Army training camp, lots of things could happen to prevent his writing, and I can easily forgive him if he has a good excuse. But I think I should discontinue writing to him if he doesn't get in touch with me.

"Or am I being too hasty? Should I continue to write to him—as I would really like to do? It seemed by his letters that we had the beginning of a very good friendship, but now I don't know."

Your worry and wonderment are understandable, but all sorts of things may have happened since you last heard from him. If he has been transferred to another camp, he may have had no time to write. And he may have missed your last few letters if they haven't yet been forwarded to him.

If you can think of nothing you've written that might have offended him, keep on writing and speak out frankly about your concern over his silence.

Meantime, compare notes, if you can, with his family or any mutual friends—see if they know whether he's ill or has been transferred.

Two weeks is too short a time for giving up hope entirely. Give him one or two months before tying up his letters in a blue ribbon and tucking them away in your bottom desk drawer.

* * *

"Dear Miss Woodward: I went with her our whole freshman year and most of the summer. Then she went on vacation and came back—and it seemed that she didn't like me any more. Tnis made me mad.

"The girls told me that she met a boy while she was away and liked him. I asked her if it was true and she said yes. This made me madder yet, and I said some things for which I am very sorry.

"Now their romance is over. We've only spoken to each other a couple of times this past year. But I still like her very much and I'd like to go with her again. How can I show her that I really care for her?"

First off, you'll have to start speaking to her again. And now that school's over you'd better try the phone. Ask her for a date and see how she reacts.

If she accepts, keep mum about ancient history. Her vacation romance and your harsh words are things of the past. Don't hash them over. Start in fresh to get acquainted all over again. If the date was fun, repeat it soon. Call her often in between times.

Let her see by your attentions that you are interested again. Lots of flattering attention will convince her that you like her.

Matchsticks Do the Trick

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

Do matchstick draperies belong only in a room that has a tropical flavor? It's true that they were originally shown with rattan furniture in tropical designs, but their great practicality and good looks soon brought them to favor for rooms in other style.

Mrs. V. V. S. asks, "Will you tell me if matchstick draperies would be appropriate in our living-dining room?

The furniture is modern. The rug is pewter gray, and I have chosen tropic beige paint for the walls."

Matchstick draperies look very good in rooms where there's simple modern furniture, Mrs. S., and they should smooth into your room plan particularly well color - wise. The natural color of the matchstick will relate closely to the beige- paint to produce a one-color look for the walls.

This effect of matching draperies and walls is very much in fashion now and a means of making a room look more spacious.

Love, Respect Outweigh Rules

LOS ANGELES (INS) — A specialist in child behavior believes textbook techniques of child raising can be violated without harming the child — if the parent only shows that the child is loved and respected in the family circle.

Dr. Harry Bakwin of New York City, while attending a national meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics in Los Angeles, said:

"The techniques of child raising are not so important as the spirit behind it.

"If a child feels he's loved, respected and esteemed in the family circle, if some attention is paid to his opinions and feelings, you can raise him all wrong and he'll probably turn out fine."

The specialist added that children who lack this affection but are raised by the rule book can and do develop into delinquents. He continued:

"Kids are sturdier than most mothers and fathers think. They can take a lot of pushing around if only they are sure of their parents' love.

Baby Likes to Chew

Don't allow baby's desire to put things into his mouth disturb you. Remember, all babies attempt it. It's part of their effort to learn and to relieve pain from teething. Keep a supply of chewables on hand for Baby.

Teens Advised to Avoid Slouch

Most teenagers are keenly aware of the importance of good posture for beauty and health's sake. The way a girl walks, sits or stands contributes a great deal in making that good or bad first impression.

The teenage slang term "slouch" is often applied to the girl whose posture detracts from her personality.

How does your posture rate with your friends?

For a really beautiful line, your back should be absolutely straight, but not stiff, your buttocks tucked in and under, your ribs pulled up out of your middle and your shoulders back but relaxed.

If you're taller than most of your girl friends and some of the boys in your crowd, don't stoop to cut off an inch or two.

In a few years, your friends will catch up with you. And then, you'll be left with some very poor posture habits to undo.

Unusual Bridal Gifts Are Easy

NEW YORK (UP) — This year when bridal showers are in order, the future housekeeper will appreciate an unusual gift.

One you can make yourself is a set of waste paper baskets. Start with a couple of large popcorn or potato chip cans and cover with decorative wall paper. If the rim of the can is to show, paint it one of the more prominent colors in the wall paper, before pasting on the paper.

Shellac the outside of the cans and apply a coating of wax for double protection. If you want to make a companion piece for the baskets, cover a semi - circular clothes hamper with the same wallpaper, shellac and wax.

Mother Should Ask Friend's Permission to Use Name for New Baby

Pony-tail Hairdo Should Be Trim

The carefree pony-tail hairdo that was introduced several seasons back has won the hearts of many teenagers.

In addition to being gracefully casual and cool, it rates high in adaptability, going from sports tog to formal gown with ease.

But some teenagers tend to abuse the style's adaptability. One can't expect it to make the transition without an assitance.

For example, a bold plaid or check ribbon is fine to tie the tail when outdoor fun is in the offing.

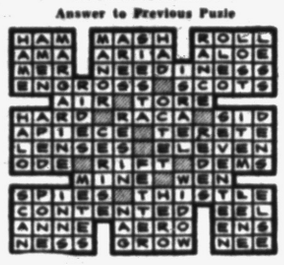
But when a girl slips into a date dress, she should replace the ribbon with something dressier.

And it's a good idea, too, to arrange a few soft curls near the temple for less casual occasions.

Another essential point is that the pony-tail looks well only when it is kept trim. Otherwise its casualness soon becomes messiness.

Generally, this style is most attractive when worn no longer than 2 inches below the collar line.

Answer to Previous Puzzle



Parents Given Crime Symptoms

DALLAS, Tex. (INS) — Dallas County probation officers are trying to educate parents about "crime symptoms" in children as a means of combatting delinquency.

William McKay and Charles Hull, the county's probation officers, list these seven "danger signals" they say nearly always show up in delinquents who wind up facing felony charges:

1. Poor attendance at school and lack of interest in graduation.

2. Bad companions.

3. Secretiveness at home; lack of confidence in parents and sisters and brothers; unwillingness to discuss friends and dates with parents.

4. "Drifting" from job to job, if old enough to work.

5. Minor law violations and success in escaping formal charges or a court appearance.

6. Drinking.

7. Failure to respect the property of others.

The last symptom is the one common to all, they said.

McKay and Hull believe that the appearance of youths in court reflects a breakdown in parental control — not just before the crime was committed but more than likely around the age of 13 or 14.

Wax Finish on Furniture Not Difficult

Sand Old Varnish, Then Use Filler and Paste Coats

Most people become pretty excited at the idea of refinishing a piece of furniture and this excitement holds up pretty well until they find just how much work is actually involved.

Then they are inclined to take another look and to decide finally that the old finish is not too bad really and that they'll wait another year before doing anything about it.

Now many finishes do involve a tremendous amount of time, effort and equipment but you can't say this about a wax finish. It's real easy and it goes on in a hurry.

After the old finish has been removed, either with sandpaper or with a liquid varnish remover, give the wood a coat of stain, if you want, and then apply a filler.

Sand the surface after the filler and apply two thin coats of shellac. When the final coat of shellac is good and hard, go over it lightly with fine steel wool and then apply a coat of paste wax.

This should be a rather heavy coat but try to get it on as evenly as possible.

Let the wax dry for about an hour and then go to work and rub the wax down with a piece of clean felt.

After this has been done you have nothing to do for a day or so. The following day, apply a second coat of wax considerably lighter than that first coat and rub this down. Several more coats of wax should be applied in the same manner.

Give about a day for each coat of wax to dry. If you've rubbed each coat of wax down well you'll end up with a nice hard finish that will not only look attractive but will be easy to maintain and won't be easily damaged.

Wide, scoop-neck repeats wide face lines but close-fitting oval slims broad neck and flatters large face.

Miss A. N.—New versions of the decorated sweater are introduced for fall. Keep it vertical to flatter both face and neck in your case. When the neckline is pulled wide, it emphasizes the width of face and neck.

There is no place where slacks are more in order than on the golf course. The gentleman at left wears a light blue pull-over shirt and sweater with pale yellow linen slacks. Navy blue is worn with the deep pink slacks at right.

Free to Pick Ordinary One in List

But If It Is Family or Unusual, Better to Talk It Over

By EMILY POST

A letter tells me: The daughter of one of our friends has a very lovely and unusual name. I am expecting a baby soon and if it is a girl I would like very much to give her this same name.

Would there be any objection to this? Should I ask the mother if she minds my giving our daughter this name, before doing so?

If it is a name that can be found in a recognized list of girl's names, you are perfectly free to use it. But if it a very unusual or especial family name, you should most certainly ask her permission to use it.

And if she shows any hesitancy in giving you her permission, it would be better to choose another name.

Dear Mrs. Post: We were married about six months ago and at that time bought our own house. Because we had to wait a considerable time for our furniture, and were unsettled, we did not entertain.

Now that our house is in order, we would like to let our friends know that we are ready to receive visitors. Would it be proper to send out At Home Cards, and if so, just what is put on them?

Answer: Since the message would be sent only to the people you know well and really want to see, I would suggest that you either telephone your friends, or write across your visiting card, "We are always home Sunday (or whatever day) afternoons. Do come in and see us soon!"

Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening after a movie, my boy friend and I stopped in at a drugstore and sat at the soda fountain to have a cold drink. My friend did not take off his hat which I believe a gentleman should do when he is with a lady. Wasn't this bad manners on his part?

Answer: At the typical drugstore counter, there is no place for him to put it except on his head. His lap would be too slanting to hold his hat securely, and he certainly couldn't lay it on the counter.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Plans to Go Round World in Six Weeks . . . but Why

Everybody else has been so busy trying to help me plan what to do with my three months of freedom this summer that I haven't had many ideas myself, but the other evening I announced that I'd just about made up my mind to use six weeks of precious leisure to fly round the world.

A few exclamations of enthusiasm and expressions of envy from members of the group rewarded me.

So I elaborated about places I planned to visit: Tokyo, New Delhi, Tel Aviv, Beirut, Istanbul, Cairo and was working myself up into real enthusiam when the amateur naturalist who had so far been silent asked gruffly, "Why on earth do you want to go bucketing around the world in six weeks?"

I said, well, I'd never flown round the world, other people I know fly round the world all the time, so why shouldn't I?

"Do you think that you could really see much if you cover so much territory in such a short time?" my disagreeable friend pursued. "Just about all you could say after a trip like that is that you'd touched ground in 31 or—what does it matter?—131 countries. But maybe you like long plane flights . . ."

There was a short pause while I tried to marshal good arguments, but the nature-lover beat me to them.

"The trouble today," he went on thoughtfully, "is that it's so easy to jump into an airplane and be transported thousands of miles away to another climate, another civilization that we are more concerned with the distances we travel than what we see.

"I suppose your routing agent will hate me for this, but before you cross half the world to send back postcards of the Taj Mahal and Cambodian hairdresses, why don't you take a walk down the road and through the woods to Tuskaway and the water-fall? Or have you done that?"

"W-e-l-l . . ." I countered wittily, privately registering astonishment that I hadn't been for a walk in those woods for seven years although they surround this old mountain farmhouse.

"Instead of racing the wind around the world, go out for a stroll," invited the naturalist. "Sit on a fallen log and watch the squirrel leaping from branch to branch in the big white ash tree.

"Notice how he uses his tail, sometimes as a rudder to steer in his big jumps and again as a tightrope walker manipulates a parasol for balance. Finally if he misses his footing, the tail will plume out and become a parachute to break his fall.

"If you're quiet, you may be lucky enough, too, to see a raccoon at the brookside washing his food, dousing it sometimes several times before he finds it clean enough to eat.

"Listen to the delightful notes of the thrush. Did you know a thrush can get a disease exactly like appendicitis? That phoebes, toads and even snakes can pick up malaria? That mosquitoes bite birds, snakes and mammals as well as humans?

"You have an unexplored wonderland right here, so for heaven's sake, Mary Margaret, stay home. Don't be like the tourist who boasted he got through the Louvre in 20 minutes—by wearing track shoes! Buy some books and look around you at home for those six weeks."

And do you know, I thing maybe I will.

Picking Up Babies Good, Expert Says

Some young mothers have a difficult time deciding just how often to pick up Baby. Psychologists now tell us that it's good for both you and Baby to pick him up several times during the day, to talk to him softly and pat him gently.

Picking him up when he's good, you will train him to think of it as a reward for being good.

Tipacon Chapter Hears Speaker

The July meeting of Tipacon Women's Association was held Wednesday evening in Hotel Waldron. The invocation was given by Lillian Laska, president.

Dale J. Madden of the Detroit Dale Carnegie Leadership Training Group was guest speaker. His topic was "Pursuit of Happiness," in application to the follow-through programs in the course.

A business hour concluded the meeting, with announcement of a dinner Aug. 4 at the Watkins Lake home of Miss Laska.

Couple to Wed in October Rite

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Dean of Oakland avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Charlotte Thomason, to Donald K. Beck, son of the Donald S. Becks of Ward road. Charlotte and Donald have set Oct. 23 as their wedding date.

MR. and MRS. WILLIAM D. COLE

Touring the Smoky Mountains are the William Coles. She is the former Virginia E. Elmy, daughter of the Roy W. Elmys of Roselawn drive. He is the son of the Ross Coles of Third avenue.

Virginia E. Elmy Speaks Vows in Double-Ring Rite

Virginia E. Elmy became the bride of William D. Cole Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church.

Dr. H. H. Savage performed the 7:30 ceremony before 100 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Elmy of Roselawn drive, and the Ross Coles of Third avenue are his parents.

An altar banked with white gladioli and snapdragons formed the background for the double-ring candlelight ceremony.

The bride approached the altar wearing a gown of Chantilly lace and silk yarn-dyed taffeta with a lace bodice and long tapered sleeves. Lace ruffles at the side of the taffeta skirt formed a sweep train.

Her fingertip-length veil was attached to a queen's crown of orange blossoms and she carried a cascade bouquet of shattered white carnations centered with a white orchid.

Doris Elmy attended her sister as maid of honor wearing a gown of aqua nylon net over taffeta, fashioned with a shirred bodice. She carried a bouquet of yellow shattered carnations.

Mozelle Seaman and Patricia Stone were other attendants wearing identical gowns of pale yellow and carrying bouquets of aqua shattered carnations.

Robert E. Cole, twin brother of the bridegroom, was best man and John Hendry and James Hilty seated the guests.

An ice blue linen dress with lace appliques, white accessories and a corsage of pelargonium carnations were worn by the bride's mother.

Mrs. Cole chose a light blue dress with hand-drawn work on the bodice and white accessories. She wore a corsage of Scarlet King carnations.

Following a reception in the church parlors, the new Mrs. Cole changed to a blue print dress with white accessories, for the wedding trip through the Smoky Mountains. Her corsage was the orchid from her bridal houquet.

The bridegroom attended Wayne University.

Heads Delta Zeta

Mrs. Russell T. Costello has returned to her Pine Lake home after attending the national convention of Delta Zeta sorority at St. Louis, where she was elected national president of the sorority and was one of 39 women serving on the Panhellenic board.

Barbara Zoch Feted at Shower in Detroit Home

Barbara Jo Zoch was honored with a bridal shower given by Mrs. Stanley Cooper at her home in Detroit.

The daughter of Mrs. Sonja R. Zoch of Linabury avenue, Barbara will speak her vows with Robert A. Bell of Detroit in a ceremony Aug. 14 at First Congregational Church.

Attending the recent shower were guests from California, and from Richmond, Drayton Plains, Highland Park and Oak Park.

The bride - elect will announce her attendants at a shower July 15 which will be hostessed by Mrs. Richard Radtke and Mrs. Lloyd Mayo.

Mothers Save Time by Washing Tricks

Many busy mothers don't have time to sterilize Baby's bottle as soon as he's finished with it. Yet they know that allowing it to stand for a time results in the formation of sticky solids that are hard to remove.

To avoid that work-making alternative, put a teaspoon of baking soda in the bottle and fill it with warm water. Then when you're ready to sterilize it, there will be no problem with sticky solids.

Coming Events

Royal Neighbors of America will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in Grotto Hall, West Pike street.

Frances Willard Unit of WCTU will hold its annual noon picnic Friday at the home of Mrs. L. L. Marion, 1105 James K Blvd. Mrs. Julia Hutton, state secretary, will be special speaker.

Elegance by Madeline Fauth is evidenced in a paisley printed pure silk taffeta. The low, wide V neck, back and front, is most becoming. A high empire princess waistline which opens into a billowing skirt is a guarantee to figure flattery.

BARBARA IRWIN

The George R. Irwins of Hudson avenue are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Robert M. Young, son of the Manley E. Youngs of Cherokee road. He is a student at Michigan State College. A Sept. 11 wedding is planned.

Make Waist Look Trim

Work for Erect Posture

More of you shows in summer—so take this wonderful opportunity to show yourself off to best advantage.

Begin with your figure. Cultivate the priceless habit of sitting, standing, and walking straight. Hold your shoulders back, your chest up, and pull your stomach in.

Make a conscious effort to do this for several days, and you'll find yourself doing it automatically. Before you know it, your stomach muscles will have tightened and your waist will look slimmer.

Touch your toes each morning, your feet together. Knees straight. Remember it isn't how many bends you do—it's how you do them and how often.

Start with five, and add one a day until you're doing ten. Do them slowly, but not lazily, and never with a fast, jerky tempo. Use the same even and rhythmic pace for summer sports too.

The best trick for pretty hair is the simplest: Wash it often and rinse it well. If you've got a short cut like Audrey Hepburn's and Jeanmaire's, shampoo daily. Otherwise your hair will look stringy because of irregular cutting.

And, of course, brush, brush, brush for glossiness. The sun is apt to dry your scalp so it's wise to massage a good treatment cream into your scalp once a week.

A free-and-easy hairdo is best for summer. Try letting it grow. Let it fly with the breezes during the day, and tuck it under a sophisticated chignon when night comes.

Practice Patience in Teaching Child

When Baby gets to the toddler stage, you'll need a good deal of patience to teach him to obey. For example, five mintues before dinner time, you might tell him he will have to put his toys away and get ready. If he ignores the command, ignore him in turn and put the toys away yourself. At this point he probably will be quite angry and tearful.

But don't scold him for bad behavior. Instead, take him to wash his hands, continue to ignore his protests and chatter pleasantly. As you wash his hands, tell him a story. By then, he will have forgotten his toys and his annoyance, and you should be fast friends again.

Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Auto Accidents Claim Three Deaths in Family

CHEBOYGAN (UP) — Services were scheduled today for Lee Thomas, 27, who was killed Monday near Hessel.

He was the third member of his family to be killed in auto accidents. His father, Justie, and a brother, Joe, were fatally injured in a 1950 train-auto collision.

Aussie Immigration Policy Reiterated

CANBERRA, Australia (UP)—Immigration Minister Harold Holt has reiterated Australia's determination to retain restrictive immigration—the "white Australia" policy.

A government statement issued over Holt's name yesterday followed newspaper suggestions that India would soon ask Australia to allow a small annual quota of Indians to enter Australia.

"Our policy of restriction is not based on any notion of racial superiority but on frank, realistic recognition that there are important differences of race, culture and economic standards which make successful assimilation unlikely," Holt's statement declared.

Survey of State Timber Continued by Foresters

LANSING (UP) — State foresters are continuing their long range survey of Michigan's timber resources this summer, the State Conservation Department said today.

Work will be completed this summer in Lake Superior and Mackinac state forests and, if time permits, in Munuscong State Forest. About 600,000 acres are included in the three tracts.

Plan Infantry Reunion

LANSING (UP) — The annual reunion of the 125th Infantry World War Two Association will be held July 24-25 at the Flint armory, Brig. Gen. George C. Moran, state adjutant general, said today.

Iran Protests Red Attack on Policies

TEHRAN, Iran (UP)—The Iranian Foreign Ministry has protested to the Soviet Embassy against a Pravda attack on Iranian oil policies.

The protest said the Iranian government was striving to remove differences between Iran and the Soviet Union and that the Soviet government should not permit an official newspaper to publish "such an insulting article."

Pravda had said: "Aggressive plans of the United States" are intended to "regain domination of foreign oil companies and drag Iran into the aggressive bloc of the Middle East and Near East."

Commission to Consider Public Fishing Sites

LANSING (UP) — The purchase of public fishing sites on Lake Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, and on Lake Medora, Keweenaw County, will be considered at the July 19-20 meeting of the State Conservation Commission at Haven Hill.

The commission also will discuss a proposed 92-acre flooding project on Hudson Lake in Houghton Lake State Forest to improve waterfowl and muskrat habitat.

Jellies Dress Up in Rich Colors

Combine Fruits for New Flavor

Raspberry - Strawberry Jam Is Simple to Make, Wonderful to Eat

The well dressed jelly shelf will be wearing hues of richly pink coral, dark purple, a touch of deep maroon and gold this summer. The sparkling, quivering colors of homemade jams and jellies will taste as good as they look now and on into next winter too.

Nowadays combining fruits to make tasty homemade jellies and jams is gaining in popularity . . . and is just as easy to do as using one fruit.

By using the short-boil method and natural fruit pectin the fruit requires only a one-minute boil, and after the fruit has been prepared your jams and jellies are in the glasses and paraffined in just 15 minutes. What could be easier!

Raspberry and Strawberry Jam

3½ cups prepared fruit
4½ cups sugar
One 2¾ oz. box powdered fruit pectin

First, prepare the fruit. Crush completely, one layer at a time, about ¾ quart each fully ripe red raspberries and strawberries. Measure 3½ cups fruit into a large saucepan.

Then make the jam. Measure sugar and set aside. Add powdered fruit pectin to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar.

Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit.

Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover jam at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin. Makes about 8 medium glasses.

SUMMER JAM AND JELLY FASHIONS—Strawberry, raspberry and blackberry jam and jelly are colorful and tasty favorites on the jelly shelf and never go out of style. Make them separately or combine two of them for a distinctive and intriguing spread.

Try Unique Ideas to Make Oranges Everyday Fare

Here is a check list showing ways of serving oranges every day in the week, an excellent idea for good health.

Sunday: Make a fresh orange sundae. Cut large chilled oranges in half crosswise. Remove seeds. Run a sharp pointed knife around the inside of rind separating it from the pulp.

Now, separate the pulp from the membrane dividing the sections. Snip out the center core with scissors or sharp knife. Top each half with a small scoop of lemon or pineapple sherbet or ice.

Monday: Fresh orange juice for breakfast.

Tuesday: Arrange alternating sections of fresh orange and fresh grapefruit on a bed of watercress or lettuce. Serve with French dressing or mayonnaise.

Wednesday: Fresh orange in lunch boxes.

Thursday: For fresh orange eggnog, combine in a quart jar or mixer 2 cups fresh orange juice, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, 1 whole egg, a pinch of salt and ¼ cup cracked ice. Shake well. Makes 4 glasses.

Friday: Fresh sliced oranges; arrange slices of peeled fresh oranges on a plate. Serve for breakfast or for dessert.

Make Sandwich Variety for Good Summer Eating

The swing toward more informal living and entertaining makes the ever-popular sandwich a mighty important dish. The homemaker who has a variety of sandwich recipes to choose from will find it easier to make interesting, appetizing summer meals with fewer hours spent in the kitchen.

If sandwiches are to be the main part of a meal, take care that they provide essentials for good nutrition. Try to include as many as possible of the elements of a balanced meal in your sandwiches.

Combinations like meat-vegetable or cheese-vegetable fillings supply a variety of food essentials and also give more flavor interest.

A valuable addition to sandwich fillings is wheat germ. Wheat germ, as you know, is a popular new cereal food. And it is also one of the most nutritious and versatile ingredients you can use. It adds nut-like flavor and you will find that it combines well with cheese, eggs, peanut butter, minced meats and fish. Here are several new sandwich filling recipes planned especially for good eating and good nutrition in summer meals.

Chopped Liver Sandwich

⅔ cup cooked liver, ground
½ cup diced celery
½ teaspoon chopped onion
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup wheat germ
Mayonnaise to moisten

Spread mixture on whole wheat slices. Makes filling for 6 sandwiches.

Cucumber-Egg Sandwich

3 hard cooked eggs, chopped
¼ cup wheat germ
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
½ cup diced celery
½ cup diced cucumber
1 teaspoon chopped onion
Salad dressing to moisten

Spread mixture on white or whole wheat bread. Makes filling for 6 sandwiches.

Tomato Chive Cheese Sandwich

2 3-ounce packages cream cheese with chives
3 tablespoons coffee cream
¼ cup wheat germ
12 slices tomatoes

Blend cheese and cream with wheat germ. Spread on slice of bread. Top with tomato slices; cover with slice of bread lightly spread with butter or mayonnaise. Makes filling for 6 sandwiches.

Deviled Ham Spread

1 3-ounce jar deviled ham
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup cottage cheese
¼ cup wheat germ

Spread mixture on rye or brown bread. Makes filling for 4 sandwiches.

Honey Cheese Sandwich

2 3-ounce packages cream cheese
½ cup strained honey
½ cup peanut butter
½ cup wheat germ

Blend ingredients. Spread on thin slices of bread from which crusts have been trimmed. Roll each slice into tight roll. Wrap in waxed paper and chill for 2 hours. Leave whole or cut in half to serve.

An average Canadian ate 140 pounds of meat in 1953.

● Helps greatly when washing clothes, less soaking, less rubbing.

Suggestion for Cereal

To perk up your breakfast, serve chilled chocolate milk on crisp "bite-size" shredded wheat or rice biscuits instead of regular milk and sugar.

Carton of Ice Cream Not Difficult to Pack

Exclamations of delight will come from the kiddies as well as the oldsters when ice cream is included in the picnic fare. It's probably easier than you think to take ice cream along when you go picnicking.

The carton of ice cream should be wrapped with several pieces of dry ice in heavy paper, or packed in a corrugated box and tightly sealed. It will keep without refrigeration from two to eight hours, depending on the amount of dry ice used and careful wrapping to exclude air.

Cereals Top Vegetables

Why go to the trouble of rolling out toast or cracker crumbs? Instead, top scalloped vegetables with crisp "bite-size" shredded wheat or rice biscuits; then dot generously with butter.

Good Substitute for Milk

By serving ice cream to her family, Mrs. Homemaker is helping to insure that vital nutrients of milk are obtained. Approximately 84 per cent of the "mix" used for good quality ice cream consists of milk and cream. Thus, it provides the same calcium, high grade protein, riboflavin, vitamin A, and other important nutrients found in milk.

BREAST-O'-CHICKEN HI-PROTEIN TUNA

TEA-TIME SCROLLS—Springlike as lilacs are molasses, tea-time scrolls filled with whipped cream or softened ice cream. Pass a plate of them when you have your neighbors in for tea or for an evening snack. The children will like them, may consider them glorified ice cream cones.

Crispy Scrolls Can Be Stored

Crunchy, delicately brittle, with a faint fragrance of molasses, tea scrolls fit ideally into your entertaining picture.

They do take a little extra time to make. But you can make the scrolls the day before, if you like, store them in an airtight tin, and fill them at last moment.

Tea-Time Scrolls

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons ginger
1 egg, well beaten
⅓ cup light or dark New Orleans type molasses
½ cup sugar
⅔ cup melted margarine or butter
1 cup quick oats.

Sift together flour, salt, baking powder and ginger. Mix egg with molasses, sugar and margarine. Add dry ingredients and oats. Blend well.

Drop by teaspoonful 2 or 3 inches apart on baking sheet greased with margarine. Spread as thinly as possible with the back of a spoon. Bake at 300 degrees 12 minutes. Remove immediately with a spatula and roll around handle of a wooden spoon or into a cone shape.

Serve cones plain or fill with whipped cream and dot with currant jelly, or fill with softened ice cream.

Makes about 48 scrolls.

Beet Salad Is Easy

Keep a buffet-size can of sliced beets on your kitchen supply shelf. It makes a delicious quick salad when teamed with salad greens, hard-cooked egg and dressing.

Garlic Croutons Lend Interest to Tossed Salad

Borrow a note from the internationally popular Caesar salad—garlic croutons — and toss with most any mixed vegetable salad.

To make garlic croutons: Remove crusts from slices of day-old bread, then cut bread into cubes. Melt enriched margarine in a skillet, add cubes and a garlic bulb cut in two, or a dash of gastric salt, and brown on all sides.

Drain on brown paper, discarding garlic. Add to tossed salad just before serving.

Canned apple slices, heated, are delicious as a vegetable accompaniment with broiled fish or chicken.

Boil Extra Potatoes

Do you remember to boil more potatoes than you need for one meal so you'll have some on hand in the refrigerator for making potato salad or hash-brown potatoes in a hurry?

HOMEMADE BREAD—Admiring a loaf of homemade bread as Mrs. William Graves of Draper street takes it from the oven is Janet Odell, Pontiac Press Food Editor. A pan of cinnamon rolls made with the same bread dough can be seen in the oven.

Patterned Meal Is Time-Saving

Summer's fun for everyone — except the meal-weary homemaker! There's no vacation for her from the daily three and—a lot of in betweens—unless she's smart enough to set up patterns for warm weather eating, and lets well-stocked shelves and refrigerator do her work.

Routine and simplicity are two meal planning wife-savers that help toward a carefree summer. Regular meals, served on schedule, are as necessary in summertime as in winter, often more so because of the extra energy used up in the outdoor sports of the season. Which means that a good breakfast—one that supplies one-fourth to one-third of the day's food requirements—is plenty important.

Here's where a plan comes in handy—a pattern for breakfasting that's as simple as fruit, cereal and milk, bread and butter. Available, adaptable, adequate—it has plenty of appetite appeal to lure to the table sometimes finicky or disinterested breakfast-eaters.

Cereals, with their built-in convenience of easy-to-get, ready-to eat, pour-from-the-box qualities, plus a surprising number of varieties in shape, texture, flavor, and the versatile way in which they combine with fruits, offer an attractive main dish that's liked by all ages. Add milk for topping and beverage—and this first meal of the day is as simple as that!

Ice Cream and Fruit Delicious Combination

When fresh fruits are plentiful during the summer months, you're missing a treat if you don't take advantage of serving ice cream with fresh fruit often.

There is nothing more refreshing than ice cream with chilled cantaloupe or honeydew melon. Fresh raspberries, blueberries, peaches, strawberries, pears — all go well with ice cream. It's fun to team up different flavored ice creams with various fresh fruits.

Bread Browning in Oven Is Picture They'll Cheer

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

When she was first married, Betty Graves couldn't cook — and her husband could! Being a determined little person, Betty decided to remedy that situation quickly.

She not only learned to cook, but also learned to make good bread. This was one culinary accomplishment Friend Husband did not have.

Now, fifteen years later, Betty Graves makes three loaves of bread every six days. She says her family is completely spoiled and objects to eating any other kind of bread.

For a time after baby Margo was born, Betty tried to get out of the bread making, but the rest of the family wouldn't hear of it.

When we visited the Graves' home the other day, there was a pan of dough rising in the kitchen, and Mrs. Graves was removing a completed loaf of bread from the oven. She had used some of the same dough to make cinnamon rolls for the family's breakfast.

Occasionally she shapes the dough into cloverleaf rolls for dinner eating.

We are printing Mrs. Graves' bread recipe in the hope that some of you readers will try your hand at this most satisfying cooking experience. In time you too will spoil your family with your delicious homemade bread.

Master this simple recipe, then experiment with different versions of it.

Betty says to watch several things: too hot a temperature during the rising time will spoil the bread. From 80-85 degrees is the ideal temperature. Too long a rising time is also bad; let the dough double in quantity so that the imprint of your finger remains. If you are not ready to mold the bread at this time, punch it all down and let it rise again.

WHITE BREAD

By Mrs. William Graves

1 quart milk, scalded
4 teaspoons salt
4 tablespoons shortening
3 tablespoons sugar
1 cake yeast (2 or 3 may be used to speed rising time).
14 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Add salt, sugar and shortening to scalded milk; let cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in a small amount of the lukewarm milk. Add flour, kneading in the last of it. Knead at least 5 minutes.

Place in greased bowl, grease top of dough and cover. Let rise in a warm place until doubled in bulk. Punch down and let rise another hour. Shape into 3 loaves and 12-14 rolls. Let rise again until well rounded.

Bake in 450 oven for 10 minutes, reduce heat to 350 and bake another 35-40 minutes. If desired, the bread may be baked at 400 degrees for 50 minutes.

Canned Juice, Gelatin Makes Tomato Aspic

Easiest way to make an A-1 tomato aspic is this: Start with just 2 ingredients, a can of mixed vegetable juices and gelatine.

Open 1 can (12-ounce size) of mixed vegetable juices. Soften 1 envelope unflavored gelatine in ¼ cup of the juices; set aside. Heat remaining juices; stir in the softened gelatine.

Rinse 1 large salad mold (or 4 small ones) with cold water; pour in mixture and chill until firm. Place on crisp lettuce. Serve with a top-knot of mayonnaise or cottage cheese or sour cream: 4 servings.

Fry Tuna Sandwiches

Make tuna fish sandwiches, then dip them in a mixture of milk and egg — as you would for French toast. Fry to a luscious golden-brown in butter or margarine. Serve with coleslaw for a warm-weather lunch.

Savory Shrimp Tops Rice Mold

Tempt appetites with this "Quick and Easy" — Parsley-Rice Molds with Shrimp Sauce. It has flair, for it features an interesting way with pre-cooked rice.

It has a bouquet of various flavors, subtly blended with wine. It's designed for that night when dinner must be produced in a hurry.

Serve with assorted raw vegetables cut in sticks: cucumbers, carrots and celery, perhaps, lemon-buttered broccoli and glasses of table wine. You'll be assured of an instant success.

Parsley-Rice Molds With Shrimp Sauce

1 4-ounce can mushroom stems and pieces
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
¾ cup milk
1 chicken bouillon cube
¼ cup sauteren or other white table wine
1 tablespoon catsup
½ teaspoon worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup cooked or canned shrimp (whole if small, cut up if large)
1½ cups packaged pre-cooked rice
¼ cup chopped parsley
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Drain mushrooms, reserving liquid. Melt the 3 tablespoons butter or margarine and stir in flour; add milk and mushroom liquid; cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens.

Add bouillon cube; stir until dissolved. Add wine, catsup, worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Add shrimp and mushrooms; heat gently but thoroughly before serving.

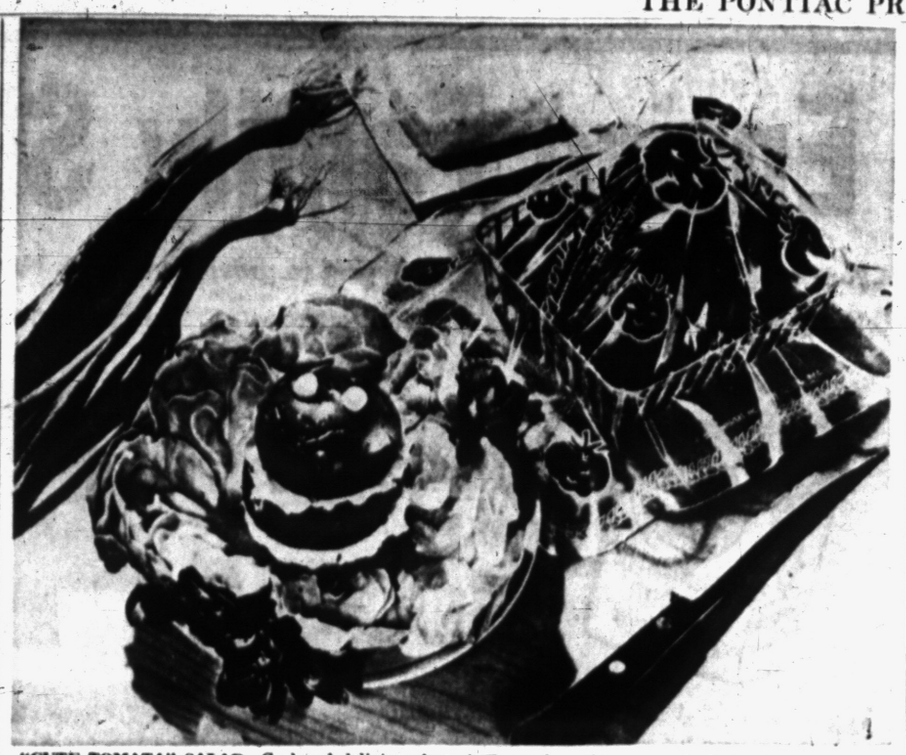
Prepare rice according to directions on the carton. To the hot rice add the parsley and 2 tablespoons butter; toss gently with a fork until butter melts and ingredients are well mixed.

Mold individual servings of rice by pressing the rice lightly into a custard cup; unmold on a platter or dinner plates. Pour shrimp sauce over or around rice molds, or pass separately.

Biscuit-Beef Pinwheels Fine for Lunch, Supper

Spread rolled - out rich biscuit dough with ground beef that has been lightly cooked with chopped onion and green pepper; roll up and cut in pinwheel slices.

Bake on greased cookie sheet in a hot oven. Serve with mushroom or tomato sauce for a delicious lunch or supper.



"CUTE TOMATA" SALAD—Cool and delicious for delightful summertime eating is this "Cute Tomata" salad . . . a plump tomato with smooth cream cheese and scallions on a bed of crisp greens. The funny little face on the top slice will amuse the children.

Luscious Tomato Salad Has Lots of Eye Appeal

A new and cute twist for your summertime dining is "Cute Tomata" salad, a luscious combination of fresh, juicy tomatoes, crisp lettuce, and smooth cream cheese flavored with tangy scallions.

This novel salad, complete with zesty flavor and a pixie-like face will delight your family, especially the children who love anything that's different. It's made in a jiffy with convenient pre-packaged tomatoes.

You make a good buy when you buy pre-packaged tomatoes. Their cellophane overwrap safeguards their freshness and quality and protects them from dust, insects and handling.

They are time saving, convenient and easy to store . . . right in step with modern living.

"Cute Tomata" Salad

Use one nicely peeled tomato to a serving. (Scald to make peeling easy). Cut tomato into 3 or 4 generous slices. Place the stem slice, end down, on a nest of greens, (lettuce or watercress).

Spread each slice with a mixture of cream cheese softened with cream or mayonnaise and seasoned with chopped green onions or chives, salt and pepper. Pile slices back together so the whole tomato is reassembled.

On the round top, make eyebrows and mouth of green pepper slivers. Make eyes with slices of green onion or dabs of cream cheese. Chill, and serve with your favorite dressing.

Remember the Gum on Your Next Picnic

Cool green picnic groves and sunny play spots are now at their most inviting, and it is predicted that most of these pleasure spots will welcome a record number of picnickers this year.

When that old picnic urge hits your family, fill the picnic basket with tasty, easy-to-eat foods that call for a minimum of fuss and preparation. And for extra fun, include a few handy packs of chewing gum.

After lunch, watch that gum disappear like magic. Dad will be lounging against a shade tree somewhere, chewing to his heart content. He knows that the pleasant chewing helps him relax and enjoy those hours away from work.

Sis will have some gum too. She likes the clean, fresh feeling it gives her mouth. Of course Junior will manage to take his share of the gum. He doesn't need a reason, he just loves to chew.

And Mom, chewing gum is a healthful, wholesome treat that won't spoil picnic appetites. When you're making up your picnic shopping list, be sure to include plenty of chewing gum for added enjoyment.

Deep Dish Fruit Pie Has Crunchy Topping

Easy and almost effortless is this crunchy topping for summer's deep dish fruit pies. With a pastry blender or two knives, mix 1 cup flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt and 1-3 cup enriched margarine until well blended. Mix in lightly with a fork 1 tablespoon each lemon juice and water.

Spoon on prepared and partially cooked fruit. Bake approximately 20 to 25 minutes at 400 degrees. A bit of grated lemon rind enhances the flavor of the topping.

Good Seafood Salad

NEW YORK (UP) — Here's an easy summer salad to make with canned foods. Cut canned ripe olives into large chunks and combine with canned shrimp and crab. Add some sliced celery and toss the combination lightly with mayonnaise, accented with a generous squirt of lemon juice.

Cookie dough is usually easiest to handle if it is chilled and rolled out in small amounts at a time.

Makes Raisin Bread

NEW YORK (UP) — Raisin bread, easily made with biscuit mix, is perfect for sandwiches to serve with summer salads. Cut the bread in thin slices and spread with a cream cheese and walnut filling.

Murphy Switch Creates House Seat Vacancy

LANSING (UP) — The House seat of Rep. Gerald L. Murphy (D-Detroit) has been declared vacant because he moved from this district to seek a state senatorial seat in another district.

Speaker of the House Wade Van Valkenburg (R-Kalamazoo) declared Murphy's seat vacant when presented with an affidavit indicating Murphy had moved from Detroit to Lincoln Park last April to became eligible for the senatorial race.

Giants Are 1st Team to Hit 100 Home Runs

NEW YORK (UP)—The New York Giants are the first major league team to reach the 100 home runs mark this season.

The rampaging Giants slammed four homers — by Willie Mays, Alvin Dark, Monte Irvin and Wes Westrum — last night in defeating Brooklyn 10-2.

The Dodgers have hit for the distance 95 times and the Cubs are next with 91.

TASTE-TEMPTING SANDWICH—Serve glamorous sandwiches made with bacon, tomato, chicken and grated cheddar cheese, and served with big glasses of cold milk. These sandwiches are a meal in themselves, one truly rich in proteins.

Correctly Cooked Potatoes Have 'C' Needed Each Day

Ordinary spuds can do a lot for you. A good-sized potato can give you as much as a fourth of the Vitamin C (ascorbic acid) you need daily because your body does not store this nutrient.

It can also give you some of the B vitamins, iron and other important minerals.

And of course, spuds have plenty of energy value. We have a large potato crop this year, so make good use of this valuable budget-wise vegetable in family meals.

When boiling potatoes take these two precautions in order to get all the food value spuds have to offer.

Don't peel the potatoes early in the day and soak them in water.

Wonderful Way to Bake Pork

The stout porker provides more than forty per cent of the meat consumed in America, and is second only to beef in popularity. Among the top pork favorites are pork chops.

For a variation, lemon pork chops are good for family meals or party menus.

Lemon Pork Chops

4 loin, rib or shoulder pork chops cut ¾ inch thick
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup raw rice
1 medium onion, sliced
4 thin slices lemon
1 large green pepper cut into 4 rings
2¼ cups tomato juice
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon chili powder
1 bay leaf, finely crushed

Trim excess fat from chops and score edges one inch apart. Sprinkle with paprika, ½ tsp. salt, pepper and brown well on both sides in skillet. Pour off excess fat.

Cook rice five minutes in boiling water while chops brown; drain. Reserve four onion rings and chop remainder into rice.

Place lemon and onion ring on each chop. Arrange pepper rings around chops and fill with rice-onion mixture.

Combine tomato juice, sugar, salt, chili powder and bay leaf and pour over chops to depth of ¼ inch. Cover pan tightly and simmer 1 hour (or until chops are tender) moistening as needed with remaining sauce. Serve.

2 Kinds of Apple Juice Suit Individual Tastes

Even a product such as pure apple juice comes in two styles to suit a variety of tastes. One is clear, clarified apple juice. The other is non-clarified juice which simply means that some of the pulp has been left in.

Some like it clarified, some like it non-clarified. It's delicious in both kinds. So take your choice for here is apple juice to your taste, in your style, for your convenience.

No Work – No Guesswork

Succulent Chicken-on-Bun Goes Lusciously High-Hat

These sandwiches are a delicious way to use leftover chicken, or the boned canned chicken will do just as well. To make them, hamburger buns are split, buttered and browned under the broiler.

One half is spread with mayonnaise and topped with a slice of tomato and two strips of bacon that have been slightly cooked. On the other half a slice of chicken is heaped with grated cheese, preferably sharp cheddar or blue cheese. Both halves are then whisked under the broiler only long enough to cook the bacon until crisp and melt the cheese.

When the two halves are put together, the flavor combination is one which is hard to beat. Be sure to serve these sandwiches piping hot.

To accompany the sandwiches, serve a few pickles, olives, or some celery and carrot strips. For variety try slipping a few short celery straws through a carrot ring. Just something as simple as this dresses up ordinary relishes and adds a touch of glamour.

When this protein-rich cheese and milk tray is seen, the television set may be forgotten for a few minutes in favor of hearty appetite appeal.

Chicken, Cheese, Tomato Bacon Sandwich

1 cup grated cheddar cheese
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon Worchestershire sauce
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Dash of celery salt
½ teaspoon garlic salt
4 slices bacon
4 hamburger buns
1 cup sliced, boned chicken
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 tomatoes, sliced

Combine cheese, salt, pepper, paprika, worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, garlic salt and celery salt. Cut bacon strips in two and saute until lightly brown.

Split buns in half and butter them. Place under broiler until browned. Turn browned side up.

Cover half of each bun with chicken and top with lots of the cheese mixture. Spread the other half with tomato, mayonnaise and top with bacon strips.

Place under the broiler until the cheese melts and the bacon strips are browned. Serve immediately. Makes 4 sandwiches.

Economy cuts of meat, when properly prepared, can be the basis of delicious meals. And they contain as many vitamins and minerals as the more expensive cuts. Get acquainted with the possibilities of Swiss steak, pork shoulder, briskets, etc.

Melon-Pineapple Salad Is Summertime Treat

Cut chilled western cantaloupes crosswise into thick slices. Remove seeds and rind. Place the melon on crisp iceberg lettuce cups. Top each melon circle with a slice of canned pineapple and a thick slice of ripe red tomatoes.

Serve with a French dressing made by combining ¼ cup salad oil with ½ cup syrup drained from the pineapple, 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon salt.

Delicate Broccoli One of America's New Vegetables

Beautiful food flowers are at the peak of their harvest in the West. Perhaps you don't consider cauliflower, broccoli and artichokes as flowers—but such they are.

Broccoli and cauliflower are undeveloped buds of two favorite members of the cabbage family. Artichokes are flower buds of a perfectly beautiful thistle.

Broccoli is a comparative newcomer to America's produce stands. It became popular during the past generation, although Americans of Italian descent in and around New York and Boston have known and enjoyed it for many generations.

Now that broccoli has caught on, it is one of the most popular vegetables and is shipped in quantity from California and Arizona to all points of the country.

How to buy fresh broccoli: Buy 2 pounds for 4 servings. Broccoli should be fresh and clean with stalks that are firm and tender. It should have tightly closed green flower buds in compact clusters or heads; there should be no yellow color evident in the buds.

Salad Is Hearty Picnic Eating

Serving a picnic supper in the back yard tonight? Whip up Peas and Corn-Cheese Toss to fill the salad spot on the menu and watch the plates come back for seconds.

Canned peas and canned corn are tasty and nutritious in many picnic salad combinations. Because both vegetables are cooked when you buy them, the only step necessary for salad preparation is draining the vegetable.

Keep the vegetable liquids to use in your favorite salad dressings for added nutrients and flavor.

Peas and Corn-Cheese Toss

1 No. 303 can whole kernel corn, drained
1 No. 303 can peas, drained
1 large onion, thinly sliced
¾ cup chopped celery
1½ cups diced, unpeeled apples
¾ cup French dressing
1 cup processed Cheddar cheese
Mayonnaise to moisten
Salt and pepper to taste
Salad greens

Combine corn, peas, onion, celery, apples and French dressing. Chill in refrigerator 1 hour, drain. Add cheese and enough mayonnaise to moisten; mix lightly but thoroughly.

Season to taste with salt and pepper. Arrange salad mixture on crisp salad greens to serve. Makes 6 servings.

Easy Picnic Treat

NEW YORK (UP) — For a picnic treat, wrap hamburgers in aluminum foil after browning them at home. Chill the hamburgers and carry to the picnic. When ready to eat, just pop the 'burgers on the grill and cook for 10 to 15 minutes.

PEAS AND CORN CHEESE TOSS—This is a hearty salad for back yard eating. Canned peas and whole kernel corn are tossed with chopped apples, cubed cheese and diced celery in a salad seasoned with French dressing. Serve with assorted cold meats, crisp crackers and limeade.

Bake Macaroni for Buffet Meal

A casserole with an Italian flavor is this delicious combination of cheese, macaroni and ground beef. The well balanced combination of all the ingredients give it a delectable flavor.

This casserole is just the one to serve for the informal buffet or Saturday night supper. There are few who don't like ground beef, macaroni and cheese.

With a tossed green salad topped with your favorite dressing you will have a combination that will be enjoyed to the last bite.

Start the macaroni cooking first. To prepare four cups, cook ½ pound. Then saute the onion and beef in butter and add seasonings. Add two-thirds of the grated cheese to the meat mixture and stir until the cheese melts. Remove from the heat.

Toss the cooked macaroni with 2 tablespoons butter. Then add the meat mixture, tomato sauce and mushrooms and mix well. Part of the cheese and tomato sauce are saved to add to the top of the casserole before putting in the oven.

This quantity fills a 2 quart casserole.

Cheese Topped Macaroni-Meat Casserole

¼ cup butter
2 medium sized onions, chopped
1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
4 cups cooked elbow macaroni
2 tablespoons butter
2 cups shredded sharp cheddar cheese
2 8-ounce cans tomato sauce
1 4-ounce can mushrooms

Cook macaroni until tender. Melt butter in skillet. Saute onion and beef with seasonings until meat is brown, stirring often with a fork. Add two-thirds of the grated cheese to the meat mixture; stir until melted. Remove from heat.

Mix 2 tablespoons of butter with macaroni, add meat mixture, 1½ cans of tomato sauce and mushrooms and mix well. Pour into a 2 quart casserole, top with the remaining ½ can of tomato sauce and cheese.

Bake at 325 for 30 minutes. Serves 6-8.

Sunday Brunch: spread toast with deviled ham and top with chive-seasoned scrambled eggs.

To glamorize summer drinks, put a cherry into each section of an ice cube tray, fill with water and freeze.

Pecans, Cherries Vary the Centers in Quick Biscuits

With a container or two of ready-to-bake biscuits in the refrigerator, you have food for entertaining, doll-ups for the dinner table or the makings of special breakfast treats always at your fingertips. Just a quick topping turns "short-cut" biscuits to fancy dress.

The following suggestions are easy-to-make variations to serve for entertaining or special family fare:

Pecan Buns: Place biscuits on baking sheet or in 8-inch layer cake pan. Drizzle honey over top of biscuits; sprinkle with cinnamon sugar and chopped pecans. Bake according to label directions. Serve warm.

Cherry Buns: Place biscuits on baking sheet. With tip of teaspoon or thumb make depression in center of each biscuit. Spoon small amount cherry jam into each depression. Bake according to label directions. Serve warm.

Ham Biscuits: Place biscuits on baking sheet. Spread tops with deviled ham. With tip of teaspoon make depression in center of each biscuit. Place small pieces of pickle in each depression.

Beef Tops Spanish Rice

The super flavor of this hearty dish makes it a family favorite. Empty a can of Spanish-style rice into a casserole and top with slices of canned corned beef. Cover with paper thin onion rings, and sprinkle grated cheese on top. Put in a moderate oven to heat through and brown.

Fish Chowder Meal in Itself

There's many a supper or lunch time that the family can almost make a meal of generous servings of hearty chowder. Seafood chowder, enriched with an extra amount of milk nutrients through the use of economical nonfat dry milk, makes mighty good eating.

By using nonfat dry milk powder in this recipe the homemaker is able to eliminate the step of making a roux for a cream-type soup. Nonfat dry milk is handy since it can be used for drinking, cooking, baking, with cereals, or for whipping.

It is simple to use, either in powder form or liquefied, and nutritionally, a good buy. Its cost is about nine cents a quart and it is rich in protein, calcium, riboflavin and lactose.

A satisfying supper star is our kitchen-tested recipe for seafood chowder:

Seafood Chowder

¼ cup finely diced salt pork
½ cup chopped onions
½ cup finely chopped celery
1½ cups diced uncooked potatoes
2 cups water
1 pound fresh or frozen haddock or perch fillets, cut into ½ inch cubes
⅔ cup nonfat dry milk
¼ cup flour
¾ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
3 cups water

Cook salt pork in large saucepan until almost crisp, about 5 minutes. Add onions and celery; saute until tender but not browned. Add potatoes, 2 cups water and fish fillets; cover and cook over low heat, about 15 minutes or until fish and potatoes are tender. Remove from heat. Combine nonfat dry milk powder, flour, salt and pepper. Sprinkle over surface of 3 cups water. Beat with rotary beater until just blended. Add to fish mixture. Return to heat. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is slightly thickened and thoroughly heated. Serve with crackers.

SEAFOOD CHOWDER—Hearty fare for supper or lunch is this delicious seafood chowder enriched with economical nonfat dry milk. It's a satisfying dish since it contains fish, potatoes and celery. Serve with oven-crisp crackers and a green salad, with fruit for dessert.

It's Fun to Cook Outdoors the Simple Modern Way

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Let's cook outside! There must be hundreds of thousands of outdoor meals eaten in Oakland County every year. Let's talk about food for these meals.

Gone are the days when a bag of sandwiches, a few pickles, some potato salad and dessert was considered the ultimate in picnic fare. Now so many people own grills and outdoor fireplaces that picnic food has become big business.

With years of Girl Scouting behind me, I am partial to cooking over an open fire on the ground; I don't even consider it much of an inconvenience,

However, many people don't agree with me. There are some means of cooking that we can borrow from the Scouts and use with grills and fireplaces.

Aluminum foil is one of the outdoor cook's best friends. With it the cook is spared the dirty and time-consuming task of scouring fire blackened pots and pans. There are two main dishes that can be cooked in foil that are excellent. The first is Tin Foil Stew.

Tin Foil Stew

1 pound ground beef
4 carrots
4 potatoes
Onions
Salt and pepper

Make ground beef into little balls; slice carrots and onions; peel and cube potatoes. Tear off 4 quarters of aluminum foil (about 12 inches).

Divide the prepared ingredients among 4 pieces of foil. Season with salt and pepper. Wrap the food up, using the drug store wrap. Wrap again in a second piece of foil. If heavier freezer foil is used, one thickness will probably be enough.

When your fire has burned down to coals, lay the foil packages on the coals and let them cook 25-30 minutes. Serve them at once, but take care when you open them. They're hot; And good!

Any fish may also be cooked in the coals in aluminum foil. Dip the prepared whole fish or fillets in a mixture of melted butter or margarine and lemon juice. Wrap in foil and let steam about half an hour.

Potatoes wrapped in foil and baked in the ashes will not have the skins charred as they did when you and I had a potato roast in our childhood days.

You can even bake eggs in the ashes. Serve oranges at the first course at your breakfast picnic. Cut a slice off the top of each orange and have each person scrape oil the pulp out his orange shell.

Line the shell with aluminum foil, break an egg in it and set in the ashes. In 15-20 minutes the egg will be set and ready to eat.

When you use aluminum foil for outdoor meals, please throw the used foil into refuse cans. Our parks are being littered with this foil which does not rust away as do tin cans. The only way to dispose of it is to get it in the trash can.

A fruit dessert that always pleases the children is Apricot Marshmallow Toast. Toast one side of the bread and spread this toasted side with butter or margarine. Cover with a thick layer of stewed apricots sweetened to taste.

Top with marshmallows and return to the toasting fork. As the untoasted side of the bread browns, the marshmallows will melt.

The contrast between the tart fruit and the sweet marshmallows is delicious, especially if the apricots have been thoroughly chilled before spreading.

Count on three to four servings per pound of canned ham when you are offering it to a crowd.

Ice Cream Drink Delicious Made With Molasses

Taffy Floats combine molasses, ice cream, and milk in delightful, new, and wonderful goodness. A Taffy Frosted calls for the same three ingredients blended by a rotary beater. Or, — try a Taffy Sparkler with molasses, ice cream, and sparkling water.

Since unsulphured molasses wins consideration as an energy food and one of the richest sources of iron, you have a nutritional recommendation in addition to the appetizing taste and looks of taffy summer refreshment.

Taffy Ice Cream Sparkler

½ cup unsulphured molasses
3 cups milk
4 scoops (1 pint) pre-packaged vanilla, chocolate, or coffee ice cream
Sparkling water

Put molasses in pitcher; blend in milk. Add ice cream, stir vigorously. Fill to top with sparkling water. Yield: 4 servings.

Taffy Ice Cream Float

Follow recipe for Taffy Cream Sparkler, using all milk and omitting the sparkling water. Yield: 4 servings.

Taffy Ice Cream Frosted

Use ingredients for Taffy Ice Cream Float. Beat in ice cream with rotary beater or electric mixer. Yield: 4 servings.

Versatile All-Stars May Have Advantage on Lions

By CARL BELL

CHICAGO (AP)—This year's All-Star football game may find the collegians with an advantage to offset the pro champions' usually-superior organiation.

* * *

It's a combination of the Stars' own versatility and a rule that will prohibit the pro Detroit Lions from making their customary use of platoons and specialists for every occasion.

* * *

The 21st annual charity classic at Chicago's Soldier Field Aug. 13 will be played under the limited substitution rule to which the colleges returned last season. In the 20 previous games, the pros have won 12 and the All-Stars six. There were two ties.

Maryland's Jim Tatum, who'll head the All-Star coaching staff, certainly isn't overlooking the opportunity presented by the rule as he rounds up the talent he will put into training at Purdue University July 23. Though only half-complete the 1954 assemblage of college greats appears to be the most versatile ever.

For instance, Art Hunter of Notre Dame is listed on the All-Star roster as a tackle. But he also was a standout at end and center in his college days.

Lamar McHan, one of the stars' multi-talented backs, earned All-Southwest Conference honors as both a T-quarterback and a single wing tailback at Arkansas.

Kentucky's Steve Meilinger was chosen by Tatum to play end, the position at which he won All-Southeastern Conference honors as a sophomore. But he was shifted to quarterback, then to halfback in his junior year and played at all three posts last fall.

Guard Crawford Mims and center Ed Beatty, both from Mississippi, are reformed fullbacks.

Notre Dame's All-America halfback, Johnny Lattner, was a standout on both offense and defense even before the colleges junked platoon football.

* * *

That Tatum plans to fight fire with fire when his lads take on the pass-minded pros is obvious in his selection of quarterbacks and ends.

The signal callers include Bobby Garrett of Stanford, the nation's leading passer in 1953; Cotton Davidson of Baylor and McHan, the one-two aerialists of the wide-open Southwest, and Georgia's true-armed Zeke Bratkowski.

* * *

One of the first ends picked was John Carson, who, as Bratkowski's battery mate at Georgia, led the major college pass receivers last season.

Expecting to select a squad of about 50, Tatum to date has named 26 All-Stars.

They are:

Ends—Don Dohoney, Michigan State, Bill Fenton, Iowa; John Carson, Georgia; Gary Knafele, Colorado; Steve Meilinger, Kentucky; Carleton Massey, Texas.

Tackles—Art Hunter, Notre Dame; Stan Jones and Bob Morgan, Maryland.

Guards—Crawford Mims, Mississippi; Bob Hantla, Kansas; Bill Lucky, Baylor; Ray Correll, Kentucky.

* * *

Quarterbacks—Zeke Bratkowski, Georgia; Bobby Garrett, Stanford; Lamar McHan, Arkansas; Cotton Davidson, Baylor.

Halfbacks—Johnny Lattner, Notre Dame; Veryl Switzer, Kansas State; Bobby Cavazos, Texas Tech; Dick Noland and Chester Hanulak, Maryland.

Fullbacks—Neil Worden, Notre Dame; Stan Wallace, Illinois; Ralph Fenton, Maryland.

Syron With Leaders in Qualifying Round

JACKSON (AP) — Newcomers and veterans shared the spotlight as the Michigan Amateur Golf Championship entered its 2nd and final day of qualifying today.

Atop the record field as the 2nd 18-holes opened was Al Nichols, of Jackson, an army PFC on furlough from Ft. Benning, Ga., who was one of two players to master par Wednesday over the wet, heavy Country club course.

The 22-year-old former Albion College star and MIAA golf and cross country champion, stroked out a 36-34—70, giving him a one-shot edge over Jack McGivern, veteran Detroit star, whose 33-38—71 also was played at the Country club.

Sharing 3rd place with par 72s were Dick Whiting of Detroit, runnerup for the title in 1952, Ed Ervasti, last year's runnerup and former champion, and Lloyd Syron of Pontiac.

Syron had his 36-36 at Cascades, the other qualifying course, to lead the players there. Ervasti posted 37-35 and Whiting 38-34.

Tied with 73s were Bill White, Dr. Bob Corley and Cliff Gilbert, all of Jackson; Harold Brink, veteran Grand Rapids player, and Jack Locke of Detroit.

It was a good start for the hometown players, eight of whom had 13 scoring 76 or better, its best state showing ever.

The field found the hilly Cascades courses generally harder, although many of the better players were not scheduled to tackle this one until today when the field switches courses in the showdown fight for the 64 places in match play starting Friday.

Nichols, a 6-foot-1, 140 pounder, played in the better weather of the afternoon after it had rained most of the morning. He hit 16 greens in regulation figures, had three birdies and one bogey.

Resting in a good position in a group of nine players who scored 73s were former champion Tom Draper of Detroit, Ed Shurly, another Detroiter, Dick Norton, one of Grand Rapids' strong hopes, and Vic Cuiss, many time qualifier and winner of numerous Jackson championships.

The leaders (C-played Cascade's course):

Al Nichols, Jackson	36-34—70
Jack McGivern, Detroit	33-38—71
Dick Whiting, Detroit	38-34—72
Ed Ervasti, Detroit	37-35—72

Billy Hoeft's Failures Cause Alarm in Detroit Camp

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—The case of Billy Hoeft, at 1st viewed with mild concern, is beginning to cause genuine alarm among the Detroit Tigers.

The 22-year-old lefthander, a big disappointment, has won only four games (none in Briggs Stadium) while losing nine times. He has finished only 6 of 16 starts and has a fat earned run average of 4.59.

If these figures aren't alarming, then what about these quotes from an unidentified member of the Tigers:

"Hoeft will not be a good pitcher for two or three years. He's not serious enough yet and hasn't learned to think on the mound."

Hoeft was the chief whipping boy yesterday as the Chicago White Sox crushed the Tigers 9-0. Hoeft was batted out in the 3rd inning after giving up six hits and four runs.

What makes it doubly difficult for the Tigers is that they know Hoeft has the equipment to become a winner: a snapping curve, a crackling fast ball and plenty of poise.

But he hasn't learned to put his talents to the best use, especially in Briggs Stadium, where he has won only four games in three years. The Oshkosh, Wis., southpaw has failed nine straight times at home and as one veteran baseball writer said:

"It's almost impossible to believe."

Of course, Hoeft can't be blamed for the Tiger slump, which is more than a month old. The Detroiters have lost 30 of their last 43 games and are in danger of toppling into last place.

The Tigers have made only nine hits in their last three games—or three per game—and that must be something of a low point.

They managed only four hits yesterday as they lost to Don Johnson, a pitcher who hadn't won since May 14.

What's to be done? Frankly, we don't have the answer, except to keep playing the youngsters and hope that they will improve.

Did someone say "wait 'til next year"?

Joey Giardello Beats Kilgore by Wide Margin

Middleweight Crown Contender Slugs Way to Unanimous Nod

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Joey Giardello nursed a sore left side of his face today but to ease his pain the Philadelphia middleweight had a nice fat check and a victory that kept him in line for a title fight.

* * *

The 23-year-old Giardello tuned up last night for an expected 160-pound title shot in October by lambasting Billy Kilgore of Miami. Giardello won an unanimous 10-round verdict with the use of a sharp left hook and a potent overhand right.

* * *

Kilgore, who earned this bout with the nation's third ranking middleweight through a series of upset wins, was out of his class. If it hadn't been for an accidental butt that opened a severe cut under Giardello's left eye there wouldn't have been any contest.

Giardello was fighting two battles. In one he was protecting the badly damaged cheek and in the other he was trying to pile up enough points to win. From the second round on Joey had to worry about the blood flowing down his cheek.

It was a humid July night in the Arena with an estimated 2,000 fans on hand for the scrap. TV fans watched the show over the regular CBS Wednesday night fight network. The gate was announced as $5,800.

* * *

In the official count, Judge Jimmy Mina gave Giardello a 7-2-1 victory; Judge Nate Lopenson made it 8-2, and Referee Willie Clark, who, at one stage of the bout threatened to stop the fight and forfeit both purses if the butting wasn't stopped, saw Giardello a 9-1 winner. The Associated Press card made Pal Joey an 8-1-1 victor.

* * *

Giardello scored his 51st win against 11 defeats and five draws. He almost stiffened the rough and tough Kilgore in the second and again in the 10th round. Kilgore dropped his 16th of 46 fights.

Colts Sign Little

BALTIMORE (AP)—Jack Little, a former Texas A&M tackle, changed his mind today and decided to sign for another National Football League season with the Baltimore Colts.

Little had been toying with the idea of going into coaching instead of his second year of pro ball.

Sports Guild's Junior Rodeo This Weekend

Fifth annual Sports Guild junior championship rodeo will be presented Sunday afternoon at Hazel Park Race Track.

Orphans, underprivileged children, retarded and crippled youngsters sponsored by Sports Guild members and other civic-minded groups, will be in the stands along with thousands of other spectators when a parade of all participants and rodeo personnel files into the track at 1:30 p.m.

Barbara Groom of Farmington will preside as rodeo queen this year and will put her high-schooled 15-trick horse Golden Sunset through his paces.

Proceeds of the rodeo will be used to send underprivileged children to summer camp at Brighton in August.

Berkley Trips Birmingham to Tie for Legion Lead

Berkley's American Legion baseball team beat Birmingham's Reds for the 2nd time Wednesday, 7-6, to throw the 18th District League into a tie for 1st place. Meanwhile, Huron Valley was making the day a complete washout for Birmingham by shutting out the Blues, 2-0.

First half of the league season ends Sunday and if both Berkley and the Reds win (or both lose), a playoff between the two will be necessary to determine who gets the coveted berth in the Legion's zone tournament.

Berkley pushed over a run in the 7th inning to climax a see-saw game. Reds twice took the lead only to lose it again in the 5th. Tom Beck's home run tied the count at 6-6 in the 6th inning, then Berkley scored the decisive run on Bishop's 3rd single, a stolen base and an error.

Skip Becker won his 4th victory without a loss in relief, while Larry Milford took his 2nd straight setback after 4 wins. Huron Valley's Jim Huber posted his 3rd win and 2nd shutout as he stopped the Blues on 5 hits.

Paul Shoemaker led off the 4th and 6th innings with singles and scored both runs, the 1st on Dan Lancaster's single and the 2nd on Huber's double.

No Clambake Now

All-Star Tilt, Originally Just an Outing, Has Become a Grim Duel for Prestige

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — The All-Star Game scheduled for Tuesday at Cleveland will be a far different contest from the first of its kind, which was played at Chicago back in 1933 in a spirit of high holiday fun and was won by the American Leaguers 4-2.

* * *

As it was originally conceived, the midseason classic merely was to be the means of letting the nation's baseball fans pick a couple of "dream" teams by ballot and then to permit the two star-spangled aggregations to appear upon the same field at the same time.

At the outset, there was no sense of urgency about winning the game. The atmosphere was more that of an outsize clambake.

That was, as we say, how it started. Few baseball leaders had any notion that the game would become a fixture, much less that within 20 years it would develop into a grim duel for prestige not necessarily second to the World Series in the desire of the two leagues for victory.

It might have remained a big, happy outing but for the fact that the American League — Manager Joe McCarthy and the New York Yankees in particular—quickly got the idea that it was more fun to win the game than to lose it, and took action accordingly. Joe loaded his lineups with the best he had and, if the circumstances warranted, left them in there until they had whomped the Nationals.

* * *

The Americans won the first three, and Lefty Gomez, the Yankee ace, started all of them. Again, from '41 through '43, the junior league dominated the classic, and then, with a one-year break, ran off another four straight. By the time the Nationals finally caught on to what was happening to them and began their present surge of four in a row, they were trailing by 4-12 and felt sore all over, as though they had been beaten with a belt buckle.

* * *

It goes without saying that the Nationals have long since dropped all pretense of playing the game for the fans, as the Americans did before them, and are out to win it by any means within the rules.

Moose, GMC Girls Win City Softball Loop Tilts

Wet grounds forced postponement of two scheduled City Men's Softball League games at Beaudette Park last night.

Play was held at Northside Park, with Moose dumping Louie's Tavern, 7-2, in Men's League action and GMC trampling Gingellville, 18-7, in a Girls' League contest.

Moose's victory kept the team in a 3rd-place tie, one full game behind pace-setting Stadium Inn and a hlaf-game back of runner-up General Motors. Each team collected eight hits, but Moose took advantage of three Tavern errors to score runs. Jerry Larson homered in the 3rd with no one on for the losers.

GMC backed up pitchers Gerry and Jean Bender with a 17-hit barrage that included five extra-base blows. The Benders gave up only three hits.

2-Hitter Beats Gidley's Club

Richardson Dairy defeated Gidley Electric, 5-2, in Wednesday's Waterford Township Softball League game as Ray Richardson pitched a 2-hitter for his 2nd win against 5 setbacks.

The Dairymen collected 3 runs on 5 singles in the 1st inning and led all the way.

In the Junior League, White Brothers blasted Inter-Lakes Steel, 27-2, to tie for 1st place. Wayne Pyke paced White's 24-hit assault with a home, triple and 2 singles to drive in 5 runs.

Both Leagues Have Star-Studded Pitching Corps Ready for Mound Duty in Annual All-Star Contest

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK—It takes no combination of Aristotle and Plato to understand how important pitching is to any baseball game. This applies to an All-Star game as much as it does to any World Series contest or to any game in a pennant race.

* * *

This next All-Star contest will again depend largely on the pitching. Who has the better of the argument? Here are a few names the two staffs will bank on.

National League—Robin Roberts, Philadelphia; Harvey Haddix, St. Louis; John Antonelli, New York; Carl Erskine, Warren Spahn, Milwaukee; Marv Grissom, New York, and Gene Conley of Milwaukee.

American League—Allie Reynolds, New York; Bob Keegan, Chicago; Virgil Trucks, Chicago; Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia, Cleveland; Bob Porterfield, Washington; Whitey Ford, New York; Bob Turley, Baltimore, and Dean Stone, Washington, D. C.

The first two called on by the National League will be Robin Roberts and Harvey Haddix. This is the selection a number of stout National Leaguers figure the older circuit will make. If they want two left-handers, John Antonelli of the Giants may be the 3rd choice.

* * *

An odd part of the pitching this season is that most good records by established stars are made by American Leaguers. The American League has a flock of big winners, including Bob Keegan, Consuegra and Trucks of the White Sox; Lemon and Garcia of Cleveland, Reynolds, Lopat, Bob Grim of the Yankees, Art Houtteman of Cleveland and Porterfield of Washington.

* * *

The National League has had the edge in pitching for four years in a row, now. It is possible they will have the edge again this time, especially if Roberts and Haddix work up to top form.

American League pitching must have an edge on the National as the latter has the call in hitting. I doubt the American League can match, man for man, such people as Duke Snider, Willie Mays, Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella, Granny Hamner, Stan Musial and the Cardinals' Ray Jablonski.

Out of Classic?

Mystery Ailment May Sideline Newport Entry

By JOHN CHANDLER

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP) — Newport Dream, early favorite for the $115,000 Hambletonian, has a mystery ailment that might keep him out of the world famous trotting classic here next Monday, trainer-driver Del Cameron said today.

* * *

The 3-year-old son of Axomite is a full brother to Newport Star, beaten favorite in the 1953 Hambletonian. Both are sons of Axomite-Miss Key, but Newport Dream hasn't been able to start a race this season because of some trouble either in his left foreleg or shoulder.

* * *

"He's been improving in the last 10 days," said Cameron, who brought the colt to Goshen from Vernon Downs, N.Y., "Just to keep an eye on him this week." Cameron had hoped to start Newport Dream, owned by the Newport stock farm of Octave Blake, South Plainfield, N.J., in the historic Dickerson Cup yesterday.

* * *

Newport Dream was the champion juvenile trotting colt of 1953, and scored a sensational 20 victories in 22 starts. His earnings totalled $94,000, a record for a 2-year old harness horse.

"If nothing else happens we may be lucky enough to start him once before the Hambletonian, in the $10,000 Hambletonian Test at Vernon July 28," Cameron said.

The Hambletonian at Goshen's Good Time Park is Aug. 4.

Defeated Foe Predicts Olson Will Keep Title

Knockout Victim Says Bobo Better Fighter Than Castellani

By RUSS NEWLAND

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Take it from a man who has fought both of them.

Middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson will beat Rocky Castellani when they meet in a title bout in San Francisco Aug. 20.

* * *

Pedro Gonzales, 21-year-old Negro boxer from Rankin, Pa., gave the opinion last night after he had been knocked out in four rounds by Olson in a scheduled 10-round non-title bout. The fight was not televised.

* * *

Gonzales previously lost a close, split-decision to Castellani in Cleveland.

A jolting right uppercut put Gonzales on his back, and although he was on his feet when Referee Max Baer counted 10, he was a beaten fighter.

Gonzales said the punch hit him on the Adam's Apple, but ringsiders saw it continue to land on his jaw. The knockdown came at 2:57 of the fourth. Olson weighed 167, Gonzales 163.

* * *

An interesting spectator was Castellani, who is here to begin training.

* * *

"Olson is great, but I think I will beat him," Rocky said.

Gonzales had never been counted out before in 26 fights and had lost only four.

"Olson is a much better fighter," he said. "He punches sharper and more often, but I think Castellani punches harder."

Gonzales took a beating, although he said Olson's punches did not hurt him. He stood up under a barrage of hard blows, but Olson's body attack appeared to wear him down.

Dallas Thinks About Majors

Millionaires to Seek Backing of City for Franchise Bid

DALLAS (AP)—Fourteen wealthy men interested in Dallas spending $7,000,000 for a major league ball club and air-conditioned stadium will decide today whether to promote the project.

E. E. (Buddy) Fogelson, Dallas independent oilman and husband of movie actress Greer Garson, represents the budding syndicate.

Fogelson said major league franchises were obtainable but that his group would not go after one without the endorsement of Dallas civic and business leaders.

Whether that endorsement will be forthcoming will be determined today in meetings of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce and Dallas Citizens Council, organizations that include the civic and business leaders of the city.

Abrams Hitting .316 in Oriole Uniform

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cal Abrams is a bright spot in Manager Jimmy Dykes' Baltimore lineup. Abrams, acquired from the National League Pirates in late May, is hitting .316 and playing a good outfield for the Orioles. He has 50 hits in 158 at bats.

* * *

Last night Abrams cracked out four of Baltimore's six hits. Baltimore lost 6-1 to Cleveland for its fourth straight setback.

Phenomenal Giants Boost NL Edge to 51-2 Games

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sportswriter

The New York Giants, rolling along at a phenomenal .861 pace since June 3, today are proud possessors of the biggest lead any Giant team has enjoyed past the mid-season mark in 18 years.

* * *

Not since September 25, 1936, when the Giants led the Chicago Cubs by seven games has a Giant club led by more than the current 5½ game margin they boast over the Brooklyn Dodgers. The 1945 Giants once led by 6½ games but that was early in the campaign.

* * *

The 1936 Giants went on to win the pennant by five games. Two years before that, however, the 1934 Giants owned a six-game bulge over the St. Louis Cardinals as late as Sept. 6 but the Redbirds overhauled them to win the pennant by two games.

The Giants not only captured their 1st victory in the last 37 games but made it five in a row over Brooklyn last night with a resounding 10-2 triumph. They walloped four home runs, scored four runs in each of the first and fifth innings and whipped Don Newcombe for the first time at Ebbets Field since the big Negro righthander joined the Dodgers in 1949.

* * *

Jim Hearn, the Giants' righthander went the route for only the second time this season and registered his first Ebbets Field triumph since July , 1952.

Willie Mays, Monte Irvin, Wes Westrum and Alvin Dark smacked the homers. Gil Hodges hit one for the Dodgers. It was No. 28 for Mays and No. 21 for Hodges, who drove in both Brooklyn runs in the first inning. Mays' 28 leads both leagues. Dark has hit seven homers, five against the Dodgers.

Cleveland's Indians continued their winning ways, drubbing the Baltimore Orioles 6-1 for their 10th victory in the last 11 games. The Indians got all their runs in the second inning to maintain their ½ game lead over the New York Yankees who trounced the Boston Red Sox 17-9. Chicago's White Sox, struggling to stay within reach of the Indians, shut out Detroit 9-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Don Johnson.

Milwaukee's Braves nipped the Chicago Cubs 1-0 as Chet Nichols outhurled Howie Pollet in a southpaw duel. Danny O'Connell's seventh inning single followed by Jim Pendleton's double accounted for the lone run.

Peanuts Lowrey's pinch-single with the bases loaded and two out in the 11th gave the St. Louis Cardinals their second straight victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs 5-4.

Rain washed out the scheduled twi-night doubleheader between Pittsburgh and the Phillies in Philadelphia.

* * *

Washington and the Philadelphia Athletics were not scheduled.

The Yankees enjoyed their most productive day of the season, pounding four Boston pitchers for 17 hits in a game that was halted in the eighth inning by rain. Yogi Berra drove in five runs with a triple and homer and Irv Noren had four hits in five times at bat.

The Indians combined three hits, a sacrifice fly and four walks by Bob Turley to score all their runs in the second inning as Mike Garcia registered his 11th triumph. Bobby Avila's two-run double was the key blow.

W & L Okehs De-Emphasis for Its Gridiron Future

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP)—A "gradual de-emphasis" of football at Washington & Lee University, looking toward "complete amateur status" for the sport, has been decreed by the W&L Athletic Committee.

* * *

But, in issuing its policy decision here yesterday, the committee did not say exactly how such de-emphasis was to be carried out, nor did it say exactly when it would be complete. As a result, athletic officials admitted today they were somewhat baffled as to what the future holds.

* * *

"I am completely up in the air," said Head Coach Carl Wise. "I don't know just what the committee has in mind."

* * *

Wise said he would visit today with Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of the university, "to see if I can find out what it all means."

The committee statement yesterday, issued after a day-long series of conferences with athletic officials, faculty members and Dr. Gaines, was in general terms.

It's Time Out!

NACC to Back Rule Outlawing 'Sucker Shift'

Commissioners Sending Recommendations on to Fritz Crisler

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Strict enforcement of the rule outlawing the "Sucker Shift" in college football was endorsed yesterday by the National Assn. of Collegiate Commissioners.

The commissioners are holding their annual convention here. They discussed several violations and problems resulting from "false starts" on the part either of backfield men in motion, centers or guards.

Their recommendations, which amount to approval of a study made by the Football Rules Committee last Jauary at Sarasota, Fla., will be forwarded to Fritz Crisler, chairman of the Rules Committee.

Once the Rules Committee gets at "the real meaning of the false start" the data will be forwarded to NCAA conferences for adherence in practice.

The "Sucker Shift" is movement or feigning movement to simulate the start of a play.

Villanova Will Renew Rivalries

Texas A & M, Baylor, Army, Iowa State to Return to Schedule

PHILADELPHIA, July 8 (AP)—Villanova University has announced it will resume football relations with Army, Baylor, Iowa State and Texas A & M within the next four years.

* * *

Bud Dudley, Villanova athletic director, said Villanova's Wildcats will meet Baylor in 1955 at Philadelphia and will play Texas A & M and Iowa State in 1956. Army will return to the schedule in 1958 and in that same year a second game had been arranged with Iowa State.

* * *

Dudley said Villanova's 1955 football card is almost completed and will be announced in full shortly. The 1956 schedule is about 50 per cent completed.

Kelly, Partello Win Speedway Features

Rusty Kelly of Pontiac and Chuck Partello of Rochester won the "double feature" program at the Pontiac M-59 Speedway Wednesday night to make big advancements on the Land O'Lakes Racing Association point list.

Kelly took the lead over Joy Fair, who didn't compete Wednesday, by winning the 30-lap feature, make-up of last week's rain-out. Partello finished 2nd, with Rocky Berkhimer, 3rd.

Partello won the regular 25-lapper, with Marv Main 2nd and Dick Dewey, 3rd. Kelly won the 4-car dash and heat races were won by Partello, Main, Joe Doyle, Carm Ragatz, and Jack Weston. Dewey took te pursuit and Doyle the 15-lap semi-final.

Sunday's feature is the 50-lap Land O'Lakes mid-season championship test.

CC to Meet at Haven Hill

LANSING (AP)—Small game and upland bird hunting regulations will be set at the July 19-20 meeting of the state conservation commission at Haven Hill, Highland recreation area, near Pontiac.

Game workers have recommended that no changes be made in the hare and rabbit seasons and have suggested only slight changes in squirrel hunting regulations.

Maximum pheasant and partridge seasons have been recommended for all of the Lower Peninsula with the exception of Emmet County. The county may be closed to pheasant hunting again this year at the urging of local sportsmen.

Game workers asked that the Upper Peninsula partridge seasons again be cut down from the maximum of 41 days allowed by law to 32 days. An Oct 1-Nov. 1 season is recommended.

The conservation commission was urged to close the sharptail-prairie chicken season in the Lower Peninsula. A limited season was allowed last year but biologists said field surveys showed the birds are scarce.

* * *

Other recommendations on upland birds include requests to continue the Menominee County pheasant season and to provide a 32-day season on sharptails and prairie chickens in the Upper Peninsula to conform with the partridge season.

Wildlife workers said the population of cottontail rabbits was good again this year and that snowshoe hares are fair to good.

They recommended an Oct. 1-March 1 season on the upper and northern lower peninsulas. A closed season on cottontails again was urged for Beaver Island.

For ehtosuthern Lower Peninsula, an Oct. 20-Jan. 31 season was recommended.

Fox and gray squirrels are plentiful again in the Lower Peninsula this year and game workers recommended a maximum season from Oct. 20 to Nov. 10.

For the Upper Peninsula, game men urged that the entire region be open to gray squirrel hunting Oct. 1-20 and that no season be authorized on fox squirrels.

OCSC Site for Rifle Tourney

Two-Day Smallbore Test Starts Saturday; Expect 100 Entries

Oakland County Sportsmen's Club this weekend will be the site for the 1954 Michigan State Championship Smallbore Rifle tournament.

Two-day test, which is expected to attract nearly 100 marksmen from Michigan, Canada and Ohio, will get under way at 8 a. m. Saturday.

Trophies and medals will be presented winners in each of 20 matches and additional trophies and merchandise awards will go to senior, junior and team champions.

Match officials are Dr. Leon Wessel, executive officer; C. E. Teffey, chief range officer; R. M. Gubbins, chief statistical officer; Merrick E. Guy, target officer; and Fank Brusha, trophies chairman.

Shoot is registered with the National Rifle Association and sanctioned by the Rifle and Pistol Association.

Lions Preparing for All-Star Tilt

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions, champions of the National Football league, are spending their time these July days preparing battle plans for the All-Star football game in Chicago Aug. 13.

Buddy Parker and his assistant coaches met yesterday in Detroit to go over the strategy, both for the game next month and the coming football season.

The club will go to their training camp at Michigan Normal College near Ypsilanti July 23 to work the kinks out of muscles before the charity affair in Chicago.

'Run' Approach Shouldn't Be Used Over 30 Yards

By SAM SNEAD
Run-up Approach

Today let's look over the run-up approach, a type of shot which will see the ball land short and roll onto the green. Of course you can use this shot only when there are no obstructions between you and the green.

Play the ball more toward the right foot, and make your stroke more downward than anything else. It is particularly important that you keep your left arm straight (see dotted line in today's drawing) and that you bring the clubhead straight back (arrow) from the intended line of flight on the backswing.

Use little body motion on this shot, letting the wrists and forearms take care of the swing. I wouldn't try this shot from more than 30 yards away from the green. A longer shot requires that you shoot so that the ball strikes quite a bit short of the green and rolls on. You take too much of a chance that grass or weed clumps will throw your ball off line.

A run-up from 25 yards out isn't so chancy, because your ball can light just short of the green and still make it up close to the pin.

Will White of Cincinnati (1878-86) started in 394 games and finished 385 of them.

Interest Lags for Gold Cup

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Hollywood Park's biggest race, the $100,000 Gold Cup, may not have more than three betting interests when the horses go to the post July 17.

With Andy Crevolin's Determine and Imbros out and R. S. Lytle's Correlation off training for several months, the Buddy Hirsch-trained entry of Rejected, High Scud and By Zeus apparently will scare off most of those eligible.

Fleet Bird, Calumet Farm's nomination, is a doubtful starter since he has shown nothing at this meeting.

Rosebud, Police Nines Victors

Teams Take Lead in City Class E and D Loops by Winning

Rain and wet grounds cut Wednesday's City Junior Baseball League activity to 2 games with Rosebud Market and Pontiac Police taking undisputed leads in Class E and D, respectively.

Rosebud won its 3rd straight game by beating Boys Club, 8-4, behind the 5-hit pitching of Bob Reeves, who fanned 11. A 4-run rally in the 7th inning on 4 errors and Larry Lamphere's single, decided the game.

In Class D, the Police won their 3rd game in 4 starts and handed Lytell-Colegrove its 1st loss, 9-7. Lytell's blew a 7-3 lead in the 6th frame as the Police came up with 6 runs.

Four singles and Dave Blower's double brought the Police from behind.

All morning games were rained out in Class F and Knothole Leagues, while wet grounds forced postponement of the Class D game at Washington between Clarkston and Griff's Grill.

CLASS D

Lytell-Colegrove	110 023 0	7	6 4
Pontiac Police	011 016 0	9	9 10

Olympic Group Seeks to Raise Million Dollars

NEW YORK (AP)—The U. S. Olympic Committee needs a million dollars and is going all out to raise the money.

It needs the funds to help equip, transport and maintain our national Olympic team.

Nearly 700 athletes will represent the United States at three special games—the Pan American Games at Mexico City next March, the 1956 winter Olympics at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy, and the summer Olympics at Melbourne, Australia.

President Eisenhower has given his blessings while proclaiming Oct. 16 as Olympic Day.

Olympic Committee President Kenneth L. "Tug" Wilson stated that "Olympic Day will be an annual affair. It is designed to stimulate interest in the Olympic Games in the four years between competitions and to serve as a focal point for a nationwide effort to raise part of the funds."

200 Boats to Start in Florida Marathon

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—More than 200 contestants from all parts of the country are expected to start in the 136-mile Gold Coast marathon to be run July 17-18.

Sam Griffith, chairman of the committee, announced yesterday that the South's largest summer boating event will begin at Pelican Harbor at 1:30 p. m., July 17, and race up the Intracoastal Waterway to the Colonnades Hotel in West Palm Beach.

2 Golfers Ace Same Hole Few Hours Apart

FRANKLIN, Mass. (AP)—Two golfers—a man and a woman—aced the ninth hole only a few hours apart yesterday at the Franklin Country Club.

James Lyons of Franklin and Mrs. Daniel T. Malone of Plainville each used a No. 7 iron on the 130-yard hole.

Scoring Hard Way

BOSTON (AP)—The Red Sox score their runs the hard way. In a game against the Tigers at Fenway Park the Sox put five successive men on base—a hit batsman, three singles and a double—yet scored only one run. Two men were thrown out at the plate on consecutive hits.

Britisher Fires One-Under Par 72 Early Today

Sarazen's 149 Figured Low Enough to Qualify; Ends Round in Rain

SOUTHPORT, England (AP)—Bill Spence, 42-year-old Kent professional, gave the late starters something to shoot at today when he fired a one-under-par 72 to take the early lead at the halfway mark of the British Open Golf tournament with 141 strokes.

Spence had only a slight breeze to contend with on the seaside, 6,837-yard, par 36-37—73 course as he put together his second fine round.

Yesterday he and Sam King, a 43-year-old British pro, carded four-under-par 69s to tie for the 1st round lead of the tourney proper.

Gene Sarazen, the 52-year-old, Germantown, N. Y., farmer-golfer, came home with a 74 for a total of 149 which appeared to be low enough to qualify him for tomorrow's final two rounds.

Only the low 50 of the remaining 97 will qualify for the 36-hole windup tomorrow.

Sarazen was the 1st of the six-man American contingent to complete the 36 holes. Just as he finished, a downpour started.

Spence got off poorly and was two over par for the 1st four holes. From there on he recovered beautifully and knocked in every putt from six feet out or less.

Dai Rees, the tiny Welsh pro, came in with a 71 for 143 and 2nd place behind Spence with one-third of the field in. Flory Van Donck of Belgium scored a 71 for a safe 148 total.

Sarazen was out in 37 and back in the same figures.

"All in all, it was a very disappointing round," said the veteran who won this championship in 1932.

Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O., amateur who tied for 2nd behind Ben Hogan last year, carded a two-over-par 38-37—75 for 148. The Ohio strong boy had putting trouble.

He missed long putts on the first and third and on the second he missed a chance for a birdie when he flubbed a six-footer. Frank three-putted the ninth, missing with a three-footer which bounced around the lip and came out.

Henry Cotton, three-time winner of the Open, racked up a 76 for a 153 total. The British veteran had little chance of making the final 50.

Australia's Norman Von Nida, who won the qualifying medal with t 137, took a 74 for 150. The 36 hole qualifying score does not count in the tournament proper.

Lea Wins in Sweden

MALMO, Sweden, July 8 (AP)—Jim Lea, the University of Southern California, won the 200-meters in 21.4 seconds in an international track meet on Wednesday. Lea placed second in the 800-meters in 1:52.1 behind T. Edfeldt of Sweden, 1:51.1. L. Spurrier of Berkeley, Calif., was third. Harry Bright of New York City won the 400-meters in 48.8 seconds.

Hills, Chiefs Win

The Williams brothers, Larry and Dave, accounted for 12 goals Wednesday night as Strawberry Hill whipped Franklin Hills, 15-5, in the feature polo game at Ivory Field. Pontiac Chiefs edged Birmingham's Ramblers, 14-11, in the preliminary with Jack Stefani racking up 6 goals and Roy Pulver 3 for the Chiefs.

Jets Tangle With Motor City Giants

Annual baseball battle between the Pontiac Jets, currently sharing the Class A City League top place with General Motors, and the Motor City Giants from Detroit, is set for this weekend. Giants, with a former Pontiac boy in the box, boast one of the strongest amateur club lineups in the area.

Southpaw Cecil Kaiser, who has been playing recently in the Cuban and South American circuits, will pitch for the Giants. Opposing him will be 19-year-old right hander Warren Hagyard, who hurled a recent no-hitter against the Pontiac Elks club.

Game is set for Wisner Field at 4:30 p. m. Saturday.

A regulation baseball weighs 5¼ ounces.

Chisox Pleased by Debut of Bonus Rookie Jackson

DETROIT (AP) — The Chicago White Sox are learning that the $25,000 they invested as bonus money for rookie Ron Jackson probably was money well spent.

* * *

Jackson, a 20-year-old first baseman fresh from Western Michigan's campus, has started the last three games for the Sox.

His home run in the nightcap of Monday's doubleheader against Baltimore was the margin in a 2-1 Sox triumph. Tuesday he singled in the first Chicago run in a 4-0 decision over the Tigers at Detroit. He later doubled.

The Sox management had to trust the first sack position to the youngster because both Ferris Fain and Phil Cavarretta, the club's two first basemen, have been "over the roof."

Jackson has been fielding well and, on at least three occasions has made brilliant plays.

Jackson is a fall 220-pounder from Kalamazoo, Mich. He is married and the father of a nine-month-old daughter. He signed with the White Sox June 15 for a reported $25,000.

Jackson had just finished his junior year at Western Michigan. He plans to return in the fall to complete college work qualifying him for high school coaching.

* * *

Under bonus regulations, Jackson must spend two seasons with the Sox, foregoing minor league experience. The Sox apparently are satisfied his career won't be hurt too much by the jump.

"Listen, if we'd waited another year for Jackson to graduate from college he'd have cost us twice as much," reported John Rigney, farm director.

Tiger Tryouts Friday

Tryout camp for a number of invited high school baseball players, to be held by the Detroit Tigers Wednesday was rained out. Neal (Doc) Fenkell, new assistant public relations director for the Tigers, announces that the cam will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Briggs Field, Ypsilanti. A number of Pontiac area boys were invited.

National Caddie Test Set at Columbus Aug. 17

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 10th annual National Caddie championship will be held in Columbus Aug. 17-21, the National Caddie Assn., Inc., announced yesterday.

Officials haven't yet selected the course for the tournament which brings boys from throughout the country together to compete for college scholarships. Entries will be sponsored by newspapers and various sectional groups of the Professional Golfers' Assn. of America.

Browns Trade Jagade

CLEVELAND, July 7 (AP)—Fullback Chick Jagade, who told Cleveland's Browns his sales job would prevent his playing pro football next fall, was traded Tuesday to the Chicago Bears for Curly Morrison and a high draft choice.

Precision Castings Co. of Chicago consented to give him time off from his sales job if he stayed in the Illinois area during the football season.

Leaders Try to Rally Philly Around Athletics

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Some 75 top leaders in Philadelphia meet with Mayor Joseph S. Clark Jr. today to plot the future of American League baseball in the city where the Philadelphia Athletics once were synonymous with championship teams.

Meanwhile, interest among Philadelphia baseball fans stirred somewhat as the Athletics prepared to open a 17-game home stand.

* * *

It was reported that advance ticket sales have picked up considerably over the past few days.

"One of our games with Cleveland has attracted such an advance that indications are we'll have as big a crowd as we did on Opening Day," a club spokesman said. A crowd of 16,331 turned out to see the A's beat Boston, 6-4.

* * *

"Understand, it is rather late to build high hopes around advance sales," the spokesman added. "But I will say that if tickets had gone all season the way they have in the past few days, we would not be faced with such a problem now."

Roy and Earle Mack have been quoted as telling Clark, in an appeal for help from the city, that unless the A's can draw 400,000 fans in the club's remaining home games, the franchise will be moved or sold.

* * *

Clark last week announced today's meeting for the purpose of discussing ways and means of bolstering the A's attendance, which has totalled around 135,000 paid so far. Clark said he plans to form a committee to be known as the "Mayor's Committee To Keep the Athletics in Philadelphia."

It is understood that the Macks told Clark that several cities, including Minneapolis, Dallas, Kansas City, and Houston, were after the A's franchise.

* * *

A syndicate in Dallas has asked for backing from that city to bring major league baseball to Texas. R. W. Burnett, oilman-owner of the Dallas club in the Texas League, told the Athletic Committee of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce that two major league franchises can be had. He declined to name them.

More Changes Likely to Be Made in Majors

Athletics' Franchise Almost Sure to Move to New City

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK (INS) — More new towns must come into major league baseball.

Both the American and National circuits got rid of weak sisters when they shifted the Browns from St. Louis to Baltimore and the Braves from Boston to Milwaukee.

Both moves so far have proved highly successful and there is no reason to suppose other moves would not be equally good. Certainly some clubs could do no worse than they have been doing by shifting.

The powers that be in baseball have been giving this matter of new franchises much thought and some of the owners are willing, even eager, to make some drastic shifts.

The current and long-standing plight of the Philadelphia Athletics once more brings the matter to light.

The question clubs owners are pondering over is this: Should we get rid of the weak sisters, one by one, as we did in the case of Boston and St. Louis, or should we enlarge both leagues to 10-club, instead of 8-club, circuits?

There is no doubt that there are several towns willing to support major league baseball, if given the chance.

Among those mentioned as eager to get a major league franchise—and willing to take over the Athletics—are Los Angeles, San Francisco, Kansas City and Dallas.

The chances will come — and soon. Where they will hit we don't know, but we do know a club like the A's must go somewhere else.

FOWL BALL! — Keller Golf Course (Minneapolis) concession manager William Flaherty can't believe his eyes as he looks at a golf ball topping a clutch of duck eggs. Trying for a birdie, a golfer at the course, near Minneapolis, nearly hit one—a mallard duck which popped off her nest, grabbed the ball, and deposited it on top of her eggs. The bird apparently thought one of her prospective offspring was flying off early.

Trout, Herring Both Caught in Same Pool

LOMPOC, Calif. (AP)—Anglers are catching both herring and rainbow trout in the same pool these days. The pool is at the mouth of the Santa Ynez River, stocked with trout by the state. The herring entered the pool from the sea to spawn and because ocean storms blocked the outlet with sand, the herring are trapped.

New Class Added for Pan-Am Race

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Pan-American auto race sponsors announced today there will be five classes this year in the 1,912 mile annual classic.

The new class this year will be for European stock cars of less than 2,000 CC capacity. Prizes will be 1,465,000 pesos ($116,000) compare to 876,000 pesos last year ($102,000) when the exchange rate was different.

One major change in the rules is aimed at reducing the advantage of the Lincolns which have won the big stock car class the last two years. It provides that cars in this class may undergo repairs for only one hour before being locked up overnight in the car park.

The 17 big stake Hialeah races last winter were won by 17 different horses.

City Will Hold Amateur Open Tennis Tourney

Two-Day Event Is Set for July 24-25; Five Classes Offered

Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department announces that an amateur open tennis tournament will be conducted on Saturday, and Sunday, July 24-25 at Oakland Park.

In the event the number of entries warrant it, Murphy Park and-or Beaudette Park will also be used for the tournament. Tournament is open to Oakland County residents 16 years of age and over.

There will be five events, all operated on a single elimination bracket system.

Men's singles, women's singles, men's doubles, women's doubles and mixed doubles.

All persons interested in competing in the various divisions of this tournament should register with the Parks and Recreation Department, 35 Hill Street and submit a one dollar entry fee. Deadline for entries is July 20 at 5 p.m.

Pairings and the time of matches will be posted. Awards will be given to 1st and 2nd place winners in all events.

Cleveland Sets New 50-Meter Swimming Mark

HONOLULU (AP)—Richard Cleveland of Hawaii and Ohio State University last night clipped one-tenth of a second off his own American record in winning the 50-meter freestyle event of an international swim meet.

Cleveland was timed in 25.2 seconds, three-tenths faster than second place Masanobu Koga of Japan.

The four-day meet, which opened last night, matches top Hawaiian and Japanese swimmers.

Ford Konno, Honolulu's Olympic champion, scored an easy victory, winning the 1,500 meter freestyle in 18:57.3. He set the Olympic record of 18:30 at Helsinki in 1952.

Bob Lewis, traveling secretary, is in his 28th year with the Chicago Cubs in the National league.

U. S. Attache Quits Moscow

Officer's Ouster Seen as Reply to American Dismissal of 2 Reds

The attache was accompanied by his wife and two children. A big crowd of Americans and other members of Moscow's foreign colony saw them off at Vnukuno Airport.

Felchlin and Maj. Walter McKinney, assistant air attache, were declared persona non grata (unwelcome) by the Soviets for "activities inconsistent with their positions as military attaches."

McKinney already is abroad and will not return.

* * *

Last March the two men were accused in a letter published in Trud, Soviet trade union paper, of espionage while on a trip through Siberia.

The State Department denied the charges against the two U.S. attaches. The Soviet move apparently was in retaliation for the expulsion of two Russian Embassy attaches and a member of the Soviet U.N. delegation from the United States for "espionage and improper activities."

Canny Canine Sips

PORTLAND, Me. (UP) — Eva Getchell used to think it amusing when her eight-year-old dog, Patsy, drank a steaming mug of coffee every morning for breakfast. That was before the price of coffee soared. Patsy still gets her morning cup, but the housewife says she doesn't think it "an especially cute trick" any longer.

New minister of the Keego Harbor Church of Christ is Marvin W. Hastings, of Dearborn. He succeeds L. C. Utley, who served as minister for the past four years on a part time basis.

Until the first of this year, Mr. Hastings was associate minister of the Dearborn Church of Christ.

Aussies Opposing Red China in U. N.

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Prime Minister R. G. Menzies said today there has been no change in Australia's opposition to the admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

Menzies was commenting at a press conference on New Zealand Foreign Minister Clifton Webb's statement that the time has arrived to bring the Chinese Reds into the U.N.

Menzies said there had been no change in the attitude he expressed last September when he said: "I do not discuss recognition of my enemy while I am in the field with him. The problem of Communist China does not arise at this moment."

Await Official Report on Police Accident

DETROIT (INS) — Detroit Police Commissioner Piggins today awaited an official report on an accident in which police Supt. Edwin Morgan plowed into the rear of a car which had stopped in front of him at a red light.

Two Bethune Station officers witnessed the accident and made a report saying Morgan turned his head to one side for a moment. No ticket was issued.

The accident occurred Tuesday with Supt. Morgan driving the police car assigned him.

County School Head to Address Parley

William J. Emerson, Oakland County superintendent of schools, will speak before the annual conference of the Michigan County Superintendents of Schools in Mt. Pleasant July 13-15.

Co-author of the yearbook for the National Education Assn., in Washington, D. C., which reviewed rural education in America, Emerson will reveal the findings detailed in "The Community School and the Intermediate Unit."

Working with Emerson on the handbook for the NEA were three other county superintendents from California, Illinois and Pennsylvania.

Others appearing on the state program next week will be Clair Taylor, state superintendent of public instruction, and Howard R. Jones of the University of Michigan.

Guard Abandons Search for Four in Boat Mishap

DETOUR (INS) — The Coast Guard today abandoned the search for four persons who have been missing since they set out in a small, open boat from Drummond Island last Monday.

Alfred Onnela, 41, of Oak Park and his children, Betty, 13, and Larry, 6, and a brother, George Onnela, 51, of Drummond Island disappeared in an area of Lake Huron where the water is from 40 to 60 feet deep.

The Coast Guard said it also will have to abandon dragging operations because of the rough, rocky bottom.

The body of George Smick, 62, of Dearborn, who also took the trip, was recovered Tuesday.

School Boards Pick Officers in County

Boards of Education through Southern Oakland County elected officers this week for 1954-55.

Clarence M. Kimball will begin his seventh year as president of the Royal Oak board. Mrs. Alberta M. Light is vice president, Mrs. Margaret Williams, secretary, and Herbert Goodall, treasurer.

Clawson head is Signor Peterson, with Charles Wycoff, secretary, and A. T. Menzies, treasurer.

Dr. William L. Simpson was re-elected president of the Ferndale-Pleasant Ridge board. Mrs. Mary E. Pence is vice president, George K. Malone is treasurer.

In the Berkley - Huntington Woods district, Gaylord D. Knudson was named president. Edward G. Carlson, is secretary, and Thomas A. Wilkinson, treasurer.

Jury Judges Mayor Innocent of Drunk Driving

LANSING (UP)—A justice jury of four men and two women Wednesday found Mayor William Harvie of the city of Lathrup Village not guilty of drunk driving charges, thus ending a drawn-out legal sparring session that began last December.

The jury took 30 minutes to reach its decision.

After several postponements, the trial started June 30 but moved into an adjournment until Wednesday after lengthy testimony.

Justice George B. Hutter said the case had been on his docket since December.

Harvie was arrested Dec. 16 when his car hit the rear of a State Police limousine assigned to Commissioner Joseph A. Childs. A state trooper driving the limousine filed the charges against Harvie.

Victor C. Anderson, a Lansing attorney, represented Harvie, while Assistant Prosecutor Gerrold Keyworth, directed the prosecution.

Church Acquires Site in Waterford

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—Acquisition of a 2¼-acre church site at Williams Lake and Maceday Lake Rds., was announced today by the Rev. Roy F. Lambert, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church.

Now meeting in the Pontiac Lake School, the church has been known informaly as the Pontiac Lake Community Church, United Presbyterian. Rev. Lambert said a congregational meeting will be held soon to decide on an official name.

The church was started several years ago as a branch Sunday school of the Community United Presbyterian Church of Drayton Plains.

The congregation operates under the Board of American Missions and the Detroit Presbytery of the United Presbyterian Church of North America.

Grand Rapids Editor Buys Weekly Paper

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Bruce Mair, managing editor of the Grand Rapids Herald, today announced purchase of the weekly Edmore Times in Montcalm County.

Tom Burns, former owner and editor of the Times for the past 27 years, will remain in active charge for an indefinite period.

Mair, who served papers in Big Rapids and Milwaukee before going to the Herald in 1941, said his resignation from the Herald was effective Sept. 1.

County Communities Study Rabies Issue

DETROIT (AP) — Representatives from southeastern Oakland County communities met yesterday in Royal Oak to study the rabies problem in their areas.

City managers, health authorities and police officers from a dozen neighboring communities heard the suggestion that they adopt a uniform dog ordinance and central dog pound for better control of rabies.

Dr. Frank J. Sondon, deputy county health director, said rabies cases are on the increase. He said 22 rabid dogs have been found in the area this year so far and 139 of the 400 dog-bite cases have required anti-rabies treatment.

Williams' Staff Out $1,561 Due to Budget Error

LANSING (AP) — Twenty sad-faced employes of Gov. Williams' office learned today they would not get paid for three days work—unless there is some budgetary sleight-of-hand.

Lawrence L. Farrell, Williams' executive secretary, was summoned shamefacedly to the governor's press conference to admit that a bookkeeping error had robbed the civil service employes of the office of $1,561 in pay.

"I don't know how we'll do it, but we'll take care of it somehow," Williams said.

"Farrell explained the mixup this way. He said the governor's office asked the Legislature for $134,821 for the fiscal year which ended last Wednesday. The Legislature allowed $133,249, he said.

Farrell said that a bookkeeper, whose pay check suffered as a result, spread the $134,821 erroneously over the salary budget for civil service employes.

After the books were closed for the fiscal year, he said, the bookkeeper discovered there wasn't that much money left by $1,561.

The pay of Williams, Farrell and Paul Weber, the press secretary, were not affected because the Legislature specified their salary in separate items.

7 Arrested in Panama Blamed for Bus Strike

PANAMA (AP)—Secret police arrested seven persons, including one woman, last night and accused them of agitating the four-day-old bus drivers' strike in Panama City.

Secret Police Chief Jorge Luis Alfaro said all seven were Communists. The roundup of agitators is continuing, he said.

Abundance of Pork, Beef Seen During Summer, Fall

WASHINGTON (INS)—Pork and beef should be in great abundance during the remainder of the summer and fall as hog slaughter increases and cattle slaughter remains at its current high level.

The Agriculture Department sees a substantial rise in pork production, reflecting the increase number of pigs in the spring crop. Production of beef and veal should remain high, since cattle numbers on farms and ranches his an all-time record high last January.

Department livestock experts predict that cattlemen will be receiving prices above those of one year ago for their cattle and calves during the next few months.

Hog farmers, however, are expected to suffer a financial setback due to increased production. The department forecast for hog prices in the months ahead is "moderately lower" than during the same period of 1953.

It is uncertain yet how the high production of pork, beef and veal will affect the consumer prices.

During the heavy cattle output of the past few years, consumer beef prices have not dropped correspondingly with prices paid to producers.

With an abundance of pork crowding into the market in the coming months, however, the consumer market for meat will become more competitive, and it is possible consumers may get a price break.

During the hog surplus of two or three years ago, pork prices were very low at the consumer level.

Federal livestock specalists point out that hog production was approaching last year's level in late June, and is expected to shoot above the 1953 slaughter rate this month as spring-farrowed hogs move through slaughter lines.

Risk Few Seats in Fall Elections

Hot Contests Expected for Only 16 Senatorial Posts This November

WASHINGTON — As of today, the 1954 race for control of the Senate looks like a photo finish, according to a survey by Congressional Quarterly.

In the 37 regular Senate contests to be decided in November, 21 seats should stay in the same party. Seven of these are solidly Republican and 14 are pretty firmly Democratic, so the battle for Senate control narrows down to 16 "hot" races.

But the politicians are in general agreement that, at this point, Republicans have the edge in five of the hot races, while Democrats are leading in only four.

Outcome is uncertain in contests for four "doubtful" seats now held by Democrats — in Colorado, Delaware, Montana and Ohio — and three held by Republicans—Kentucky, New Jersey and Wyoming.

Here is the lineup of the 21 seats that the survey shows are likely to remain in control of the same party:

Solidly Republican: Kansas, Maine, Nebraska (two), New Hampshire (two) and South Dakota.

Solidly Democratic: Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina (two), Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia.

Considered almost certainly Democratic: Rhode Island and West Virginia.

Sen. Styles Bridges (R N. H.), President pro-tem of the Senate and Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D Tex.), Democratic floor leader, are conceded re-election. Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.), Chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, and Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R Mass), assistant Republican floor leader, are given the edge in the battles to keep their seats.

Of four Democratic aspirants for the 1952 Presidential nomination, only Sen. Richard B. Russell (D Ga.) is conceded re-election to the Senate without a fight. Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D Okla.) have tough primary fights and former Vice President Alben W. Barkley, a bitter contest in November.

The "batting average" of the Eisenhower Administration is expected to be a big issue in the Senate races, along with Communism in government, foreign policy, farm income, taxes, and unemployment

Tecumseh Tot Killed as Car Backs Away

TECUMSEH (AP) — Twenty-month-old Douglas Hicks and his mother, Mrs. Harold Hicks, had just returned yesterday from an automobile ride with a neighbor, Mrs. Harold R. Butler, when tragedy struck.

The women said goodbye and Mrs. Butler, thinking the child was with his mother, began to back out of the Hicks' driveway.

Animal Welfare Unit to Give Pet Shows

A series of 32 pet shows is being sponsored by the Oakland County Animal Welfare Society, Inc., during July and August.

Ribbons and trophies will be awarded, and all types of pets may be entered.

The first show of the series is being held at 6:30 p. m. today at Dondero playground, Royal Oak. Children in that area wishing to enter pets may fill out an entry blank with the teacher in charge.

Children Cause Blaze in Railroad Box Car

Children playing with matches were blamed for a Grand Trunk railroad box car fire last night on siding tracks across from 292 Elm St., according to Pontiac Fire Dept.

Neighbors told fireman that a group of children, all under 12 years-old, were seen playing in the box car earlier.

The blaze caused considerable damage to the walls and floor of the box car and spread to another causing slight damage, said Lt. Joseph Beach. Spent matches were found inside one of the cars.

Air Medical Schools Plans Are Canceled

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Plans for an $8,000,000 school of aviation medicine at Brooks Air Force Base here have been canceled, Col. James Lang of the U.S. District Engineers office at Galveston said last night.

Lang said his instructions were to cancel the contract with an Austin, Tex., architectural firm which was designated last January to draw up plans and specifications on the project.

"They may have shifted it to some other location," Lang added.

Bud and Lou Criticized by Producer

By HUBBARD KEAVY
(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Harry Christy has great admiration for the talents and earning power of Abbott and Costello, but I gathered he does not like some of the things they do off the screen.

Cristy is the comics' producer. It is his job to find new backgrounds to put them in and to see that the films are made economically. They cost $750,000 each and gross two million or better.

It hurts Christy when, as happens during the filming of some pictures, the boys do not speak to each other. Right now they are very palsy. He thinks they are foolish to use routines on television from unreleased pictures; when the films come out the stuff looks old. And he wonders out loud too why they don't save their money.

* * *

"Bud and Lou ought to have two millions each," Christy says, "but I'll bet they haven't saved anything like that. How can you save money with 120-foot yachts and stables of race horses?"

* * *

A and C today are completing their 40th picture. All but three have been fantastically successful. "A and C Meet the Killer" was the least profitable of the 37 Universal-International has made. Christy says the word "killer" killed it. Bud and Lou, with the urge to be bosses instead of employes, each produced a film independently. These were "Captain Kidd" and "Jack and the Beanstalk" — both failures.

Yet, says Christy, the boys are again talking about being their own producers. Maybe they figure to hit the jackpot, using the formula Christy has worked in the 15 years they have been stars, and get out of a financial hole.

The A and C formula is old gags in new dress, and sometimes not so new. The film in work now has them meeting the Keystone Cops. Now that doesn't strike me as being very funny, but Christy disagrees. Politely indicating that I am no A and C fan, he explained:

* * *

"You either like the boys or you don't. There's no in between. Their comedy is slapstick — falls and chases and such. So was that of the Keystone Cops. They were the first slapstick comedians. Combine the two and what have you got? Slapstick to top all slapstick."

Christy got the idea from a competitor of movies: TV. It seems that TV is full of Keystone Cops these days.

Pet Oriole Turns Down Wild Life, Likes Home

BALLSTON SPA, N.Y. (AP)—Life in the wild is not for Tweeter, the pet oriole of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Zeeb.

The Zeebs found the oriole in a field about a year ago, apparently after it fell from its nest.

Her Lost Pearls Located Some Valuable Friends

By LAURA Z. HOBSON
By International News Service

GRAHN, Kentucky — "My heavens," I cried, "my pearls!"

Never once in all my travels have I left anything behind in a hotel or motel, but this exception sure was a gem.

They weren't Oriental pearls, but no dime store oysters had produced them either. To celebrate the Academy Award for the movie of my novel, "Gentleman's Agreement," I'd blown myself to a triple strand of cultured pearls, with earrings to match, and I'd parted with a lot of cultured clams for them.

They were fully insured but there was thin comfort in that fact when I suddenly came to, a hundred miles away from them.

Nor in my instant alibi to my sons, "It's all because of my column!"

On one-night stands while touring, I never put anything in bureau drawers, and my two young tourists are also trained to leave everything out in full view — in view of the next morning's groggy getaway.

But strictly in the interests of my daily platform, I'd broken that sound habit the night before in the J.J.J. Motel at Culloden, West Va.

On the glass-topped dressing table I had to use for my portable, my pearls danced and jiggled every time I struck a key or space-bar, until I swept them into the drawer to silence their merry outcry.

My own outcry came on a hot Sunday morning in the farming area of Carter County, Ky., where gas stations have cokes but no phones, and where everything else was having its day of rest.

Heaven takes care of drunks and babies, they say—perhaps also of touring typists like me. Though I've traveled whole states without one glimpse of a police car, within two minutes of my shocked discovery, an angelic sight appeared out of the blue.

State Trooper 71, tall, dark, handsome and J. Fox by name, heard my tale of absent pearls and phones, and pointed to a simple white clapboard house at a crossroad.

"There's the one private phone around here," he said. "They'll let you use it if you pay for the call."

We knocked at a strange door, were asked in, and met Dennis Blevins and his wife Belle, their one unmarried child, Shirley, 16, several nieghbors — and a beautiful black telephone labeled 4136.

The Blevins aren't farmers — they run a general store and grocery at Olive Hill a few miles away, and their shock was almost visible when they knew why I was there.

But in due time, the J.J.J.s owner, Warren Sovine, was saying he'd been hoarding my jewels against this call, and where should he forward them, by insured airmail, to wait for us to catch up with them?

I could mail him the postal costs later on — of course he knew I wouldn't forget that!

The Blevins family acted as relieved as I. They let me ask for the long distance charges myself from the operator, and never glanced at the amount I put on the phone table.

Did strangers in jams, I wanted to know, often borrow their phone?

"Mostly trucks and wrecks," they said, and asked how far we'd come, how far we were going, and all the other questions of accidental meetings.

They offered my boys cold water and me a cup of tea, and for a while we talked on like people who'd lived through something together.

When we finally left them, we found State Trooper 71 still parked outside, a short way off, wanting to be sure "everything's okay," before leaving us to our own devices.

Later, bowling along again on the highway, I kept on being grateful to J. Fox, and to the Blevins, and to the distant Warren Sovine.

I also kept thinking that my insurance broker back home should be pretty thankful to them, too.

Find 3 Cases of Elm Disease

City Forester Predicts a Few More Cases This Summer

Three cases of Dutch Elm Disease have been found in Pontiac so far this summer, compared with two all last year, according to City Forester William Aho.

Despite an extensive city campaign to eliminate the tree killer, "We probably will have quite a few more cases this summer," said Aho.

This year's cases were discovered at 292 S. East Boulevard, 104 Fulton St. and 144 Wenonah Dr., said Aho. The Wenonah case is the first one found on the west side, he added.

City owned elm trees were trimmed last winter to remove dead wood which beetles hibernate in. This spring the trees were sprayed and the local Boy Scouts surveyed the city for dead elm wood.

A Parks and Recreation Department crew is now surveying Pontiac for possible cases, samples of which are sent to Michigan State College for checking, the forester said. If the disease is found the city or a private property owner has ten days to remove the tree after being notified, Aho added.

He advised elm tree owners to watch them for a yellowing of leaves which might indicate the disease. The parks department will check suspicious trees on request, Aho said.

Foresters Assn. Seeks Largest Elm in County

A tree unofficially measued at 18 feet 7 inches around the trunk is the largest of 53 entries received to date in the contest sponsored by the Oakland County Foresters Assn. to find the county's largest elm.

Pontiac City Forester William Aho said he expected even a bigger elm would be found before the contest ends on Aug. 30. The winner will receive an illustrated book on trees.

Persons wishing to enter should measure around the tree trunk four feet above ground, then record on a postcard the exact location and size plus the entrant's address and phone number. The card should be sent to Aho at 35 Hill St., Pontiac.

Wheat Thrown Into Decline

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat finally was thrown back on the Board of Trade today after surging upward over the past seven trading sessions, climaxed by sharp gains yesterday.

Dealings in the bread cereal were again very active and losses were not severe, particularly when measured against the recent gains. Other cereals opened lower and most of them remained down during the early trading. Dealing in corn and oats were dull, lacking inspiration in the news.

An exception to the general easiness was July soybeans. After a little hesitancy at the start, it surged ahead for a large gain in very active trading. Other soybean contracts reduced early losses.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was 1⅛ to 1¾ lower, July $2.03, corn unchanged to ⅛ lower, July $1.58⅜, oats ¼ to ⅜ lower, July 71¾, rye 1 to 1¼ lower, July $1.02, soybeans 1¼ lower to 3½ higher, July $3.78¾ and lard 5 to 27 cent a hundred pounds lower, July $15.75.

Molotov Returns to Geneva Talks

Major Diplomats Head Back to Conference on Indochina

GENEVA (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov returned to the Indochina conference today. His arrival promised a step-up in the negotiations for a cease-fire in the war which for nearly eight years has ravaged the French territory in the Far East.

The Russian was the first of the major diplomats to return to the parley which they left two and a half weeks ago after it settled down to negotiations between military representatives on details of a ceasefire.

Other key figures also were expected to return soon.

French Premier Pierre Mendes- France, who is acting as his country's foreign minister, announced in the National Assembly yesterday he would go to Geneva soon to take personal charge of the French delegation.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden also is expected back in Geneva early next week, and Communist China's Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai likewise is expected to come back from Peiping.

There has been no indication here, however, whether U.S. Secretary of State Dulles or Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith will return from the United States.

In the absence of the top diplomats, conference activity has been confined chiefly to negotiations between representatives of the rival military commands in Indochina.

Two Youthful Bandits Hold Up Confectionery

HAZEL PARK — Two youths who held up the Scotty's Confectionery, 21124 John R., at 1:58 a.m. today escaped with approximately $60 after threatening clerk William J. Roberts with a gun, police say.

Roberts said the men ordered a case of beer, and then held him up.

Elected to Council

ALMONT — Localite Jean MacKay, who attended the General Council of Congregational Christian Churches at New Haven, Conn., as a delegate of the Eastern Assn. of Congregational Christian Churches, was elected an associate of the Council for Social Action in the class of 1954-1956.

Stock Market Drifts Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market drifted lower in the early afternoon today on diminishing volume.

Losses were almost all small, but a few issues fell much more. Gains went to around a point at the best.

Trader interest waned as prices slipped, and volume was at a rate of around two million shares for the day. Yesterday's total was 2,380,000 shares in a mixed market.

Dropping away were such issues as Republic Steel, Consolidated Natural Gas, New York Central, Standard Oil (NJ), U. S. Gypsum, General Motors, Boeing, Radio Corp., Union Carbide, General Electric, Liggett & Myers, and United Fruit.

To Operate Near Front

Willys' 4-Cylinder Mule Will Assist Infantrymen

The modern version of the old Army mule runs on four cylinders and burns petroleum rather than hay.

That's the report from Willys Motors, Inc., which has developed a suitable successor to the "Old Faithful" of 1918 — the "Mechanical Mule."

Designed to take the load off the foot - soldier's back, the Mechanical Mule is undergoing tests at Aberdeen Proving Ground by Army Ordnance, Edgar F. Kaiser, Willys president, revealed today.

The vehicle looks like a flat-bed truck equipped with an engine underneath in the rear and a driver's seat and controls extending out slightly from the other end. It was developed by Willys and the Army's Detroit Arsenal.

It's primary purpose, Kaiser explained, is to transport weapons, ammunition, food, and other essential supplies up to the GI's front line position.

In World War II and in Korea combat soldiers or native labor had to hand-carry ammunition and equipment in forward combat areas often over several miles of rugged country.

"The Mechanical Mule will take the load off the GI's back. It will leave him ready to fight instead of exhausted from carrying extra weight over rough terrain," Kaiser added.

The successor to the mule is the first military vehicle designed solely for off-the-road operations in forward combat areas. It is also the first to carry more of a load (1,000 pounds) than its own weight of 750.

The Mule's overall length is 100 inches; its width 46. Because of its light weight and compact size, it can be carried by rail, water, truck, helicopter, cargo plane, or dropped by parachute.

A tactical advantage in a forward area infested with enemy snipers is the Mule's low silhouette, resulting from a chassis only 2 inches high.

Another feature is that the driver can operate it while walking or crawling at the rear or side. The driver merely adjusts the steering wheel and steering column to swing down close to the ground. Then he shifts into reverse, sets his speed as low as one mile an hour, and walks or crawls behind. The gear shift is conventional, so any soldier can operate it.

The Mechanical Mule can almost literally turn on a dime. It has four - wheel steering like a hook-and-ladder fire engine, allowing the vehicle to be turned in an 18-foot circle. The average passenger car requires about 40 feet for a 360-degree turn.

The Mule's component parts are designed to operate in extremes of weather and climate —in temperatures ranging from 25 degrees below zero to 125 degrees above.

Made of lightweight alloys, the Mule can be turned on its side or upside down for maintenance or transportation. Just as soon as it is righted again, it can be driven away without loss of fuel or oil.

For economy, Willys engineers have emphasized simplicity of design and maintenance. The Army may well consider this a worthy successor to the mule. And one without a stubborn disposition.

15 Polio Cases Listed in County

Oakland 1954 Report Is 2 Below 1953 Period, 5 Above 1952

Oakland County has had 15 cases of polio so far in 1954—two less than during the first six months of 1953.

But Dr. John D. Monroe, county health director, warned that "it's still early in the season—polio usually reaches its peak in late August or early September."

Dr. Monroe said this year's 15 cases were all outside Pontiac. Last year at this time, 17 cases had been reported, one in Pontiac. In 1952, the county had counted 10 cases, one in Pontiac.

Dr. Monroe said that this year's cases, so far, seem to have been milder ones.

"Only one of this year's 15 polio victims had any lingering paralysis," he said. "Eight of the 17 victims reported in the first half of 1953 were partly paralyzed."

Regional Offices Get Loan Right

'Small Business' Head to Speed Borrowing Up to $50,000 Figure

The authority to make loans up to $50,000 to aid small firms has been shifted from the Small Business Administration's Washington headquarters to regional offices.

Don Williams, director of Region 6 which includes Michigan, said the switch in lending authority becomes effective immediately.

The change, authorized by Wendell B. Barnes, small business administrator, permits regional directors to approve bank participation loans up to $50,000 to any one borrower provided a bank is taking at least a quarter share of the loan and that not less than half of the bank's share represents new money.

The applications for this type of loan originate with the borrower's local bank.

Barnes said the change in authority is aimed at speeding the processing of loans.

Goodyear CIO Workers Strike in 7 Factories

CINCINNATI (AP)—A breakdown in contract negotiations today brought the first strike in eight years to plants of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

The CIO United Rubber Workers directed its 23,000 members in Goodyear plants to quit work in 10 cities at midnight last night.

First reports that the strike actually was in effect came from plants in Akron and St. Mary's Ohio; Muncie, Ind.; Los Angeles; Topeka, Kan.; Lincoln, Neb.; and Gadsden, Ala.

• • •

Other plants are at Jackson, Mich.; New Bedford, Mass.; and Windsor, Ont.

Negotiations broke up here last night after both sides refused to yield in a dispute over a wage increase. The company held fast to its offer of a pay boost of 5 cents an hour. The union insisted that was not sufficient and did not make corrections sought in wage differentials in "low-paid plants."

Negotiators had been meeting here since June 22. A previous meeting, held at Canton, Ohio, recessed May 4.

The union never has disclosed its exact demands.

Negotiations here for Goodyear were part of a series of meetings being conducted for the rubber industry. The contracts expire next February but were brought up under a reopening clause. Union representatives are meeting in Cleveland with the Firestone and General Tire and Rubber companies. A meeting with the U.S. Rubber Co. is being held in New York and a recessed session with Goodrich is scheduled to be resumed here next Tuesday.

At Goodyear, the workers now average $2.08 an hour.

Seasonal Drop Fails to Appear

Commerce Secretary Encouraged and Hopes Auto Jobs Will Rise

By FELIX COTTEN

WASHINGTON (INS) — Administration officials declared today that the business decline has done a fadeout and prospects point to better business for the rest of 1954.

They based this optimism on a commerce-labor department report showing that employment rose nearly one million between May and June and that the usual seasonal increase in the jobless total did not occur.

The Census Bureau announced that unemployment in early June was 3,347,000, only a small fraction above the May total of 3,305,000. This was significant, because the jobless total usually climbs about 20 per cent from May to June.

Employment rose from 61,119,000 in May to 62,098,000 in June. The greater part of this was an 806,000 increase in farm employment, but there also was some gain in industrial jobs.

Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks described the report as "good news," and said it showed the previous unfavorable job picture has been reversed.

He added that the administration is still concerned, however, about the unemployment total, and is "taking every action possible" to bring about a reduction.

The employment rise from May to June was due to an increase of 1,020,000 in the labor force as 1,500,000 students and other summer workers went out for jobs.

The fact that unemployment did not show a greater gain was attributed in part to the comparatively small number of students seeking jobs this June. But even with this allowed for, the situation was regarded as encouraging.

The only unfavorable feature of the report was that employment in industries making durable goods like steel and autos declined 64,000. This offset a rise in jobs in industries making nondurable goods and kept factory employment in June at about the same level as in May.

Favorable factors in the report included:

Non-farm employment, as reported by the Labor Department, increased 142,000 from May to June, reversing a decline which has continued since the business downtrend began nearly a year ago. Non-farm jobs totaled 48,062,000 in June.

The number of persons unemployed for 15 weeks or longer dropped about 200,000 to an 850,000 total.

The average work-week in factories advanced from 39.3 to 39.6 hours continuing a trend which had started in May.

Recess Inquest in Thorne Death

Attorneys Are Advised to Make Good on Claim to Reveal 'Truth'

CHICAGO (AP) — The inquest into the mysterious death of Montgomery Ward Thorne was in recess today after Coroner Walter McCarron warned attorneys for the mother of the mail order heir to make good on promises of startling evidence.

Mrs. Marion Thorne, on the witness stand yesterday for the second straight day, testified her 20-year-old son had been blackmailed and told McCarron the identity of the person or persons "will come out and you will certainly be surprised."

• • •

However, under direct questioning, she admitted she had no direct knowledge of blackmail.

Henry Kalchim, an attorney for Mrs. Thorne, promised a "bombshell" at resumption of the inquest next Wednesday. He said the "truth" about Thorne's death would be brought out then.

McCarron demanded that Kelcheim testify under oath about whatever information he had. Kelcheim refused on grounds of legal privilege.

Another attorney for Mrs. Thorne, Bartlett S. Marimon, said they were conducting their own investigation in connection with young Thorne's death.

"We do not have all the facts, but we will present them in good time," Marimon said.

McCarron then told Mrs. Thorne's attorneys to make good their promise to bring forth their evidence bearing on the cause of the youth's death.

• • •

Recalled to testify yesterday was Maureen Regan, 18, young Thorne's fiancee and chief beneficiary in his will to an estate estimated at nearly two million dollars.

She testified she and Thorne were to have been married in December, after his 21st birthday, because then his mother "would not be able to interfere or make trouble any more."

It was the first time that Mrs. Thorne and Miss Ragen and Miss Ragen's mother, Mrs. Aleen Ragen, had appeared at the inquest at the same time.

MONUMENT IN ROME—In a glass case in the church of Ara Coeli, Rome, Italy, stands a life sized carving of the Christ Child, considered one of the most priceless items in the Eternal City. Fashioned from an olive tree, taken from the Mount of Olives in Jerusalem, the figurine is adorned with jewelry and precious stones donated by people whose requests were granted. The age blackened statue stands as a symbol of eternal faith.

Jackson Speech by Mrs. Hobby

Cabinet Member Will Participate in Festival of Freedom

JACKSON (AP) — Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, welfare and education, highlighted observance of "Agriculture and Education Day."

The Freedom Festival which ends Saturday honors Jackson's 125th birthday and the 100th anniversary of the first convention of the Republican Party.

Wallace Lomoe, managing editor of the Milwaukee Journal and president of the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn., was the featured speaker yesterday during the festival's observance of "Freedom am Speech and Press Day.

Lomoe declared that "Government, the people's government, at all levels has become most secret."

He praised the efforts of several newspaper publishing groups and professional organizations to safeguard freedom of the press.

Underwood to Head Next Farm Census

WASHINGTON (AP)—Appointment of Ernest R. Underwood of Hampton, N.H., to recruit about 35,000 persons for the nationwide farm census was announced jointly today by Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Sen. Bridges (R-NH).

Underwood, a member of the staff of the Senate Appropriations Committee headed by Bridges, already has assumed duties as assistant director of the Census Bureau. The census of agriculture is due to start this fall and is expected to require about six months.

Underwood, a native of Lawrence, Mass., was a flier with the rank of major in World War II. He has been a member of the New Hampshire legislature.

State Epilepsy Center Begins Research Plan

With the recent proclamation of July as "Epilepsy Month" by Gov. G. Mennen Williams, the Michigan Epilepsy Center has embarked on broad program of research and treatment.

Money donated last fall to the United Fund is currently in use by the center to maintain a new mobile laboratory which will bring driect service to some 150 patients in 18 Michigan counties this summer, according to Dr. Frank S. Perkin, director of the center.

7 Killed in Train Wreck

MADRID (AP)—Seven persons were killed and 20 injured when an electric train collided yesterday with a freight train at Los Molinos, a village near Madrid.

Painless Drilling Promised for Future Dentistry

NEW YORK (AP)—A new supersonic dental drill, claimed to be virtually painless and almost noiseless, may be available in dentists' offices within several years.

The device, shaped like a miniature riveting machine, was demonstrated yesterday at the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center.

The actual drilling is done by an abrasive liquid dripped to the edge of the drill, which vibrates at 29,000 times per second.

Commercial production of the new tool is at least a year away, and dental schools and clinics will get it first.

Job Placements Show Increase

May's 15,035 Set New 6-Month High; Claims for Unemployment Drop

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Employment Security Commission reported today that job placements reached a high of 15,035 in May for a new six month high.

The MESC said 14,370 persons had been placed in jobs in April.

The report said this reflected a moderate improvement in labor demand. The commission also reported that the number of weekly claims for unemployment benefits continued to decline.

The number of claims dropped below 130,000 by the first week in June. It was the lowest total in four months. The high was established in March when 172,000 claims were filed.

Factory hiring was well below the 1953 highs, the commission reported, but seasonal non-manufacturing activities brought about the improvement in the labor picture.

The commission said that factory hiring, though continuing to decrease, was doing so at a slower rate than previously.

Deadline Is July 31 to Register Aircraft

LANSING (AP) — Michigan plane owners were reminded by the State Aeronautics Department today that all aircraft registration certificates expire July 31.

The annual registration fee, payable Aug. 1, is one half cent per pound of net empty weight with a maximum of $50.

Aircraft owners currently registered with the department will receive duplicate certificates to be returned to the department. New owners can receive applications from airport managers.

Owners again will be asked if they want to register their planes for civil defense use during an emergency. Those registering will receive an official civil defense insignia in addition to the regular registration sign.

Testifies Nowak at Red Meetings

One-Time Party Man Earl Reno Tells About Former Senator

DETROIT (AP) — An admitted one-time Communist party official has testified that Stanley Nowak, former state senator from Detroit, attended Red meetings in Michigan, Wisconsin and New York.

Nowak faces a federal court denaturalization trial July 13.

Earl Reno, who was to have been a government witness against Nowak, gave the testimony yesterday in the form of a deposition in the U. S. District Attorney's office.

Nowak, a native of Poland, is accused of hiding affiliation with the Communist party when he became a United States citizen in 1938.

Reno, who admits to being a Communist from 1931 to 1942, quit the party and became a consultant for the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Now the manager of a New Hampshire furniture firm, he asked permission to make a deposition because of difficulty in attending the trial.

Reno testified Nowak attended a Milwaukee meeting of Communist leaders, four party meetings in Detroit and one in New York in 1938.

2nd Missile Group to Go to Germany

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force plans to send to Germany this fall a second squadron of about 600 officers and men equipped with Matador guided missiles.

The first pilotless bomber squadron went to Germany in March, and is stationed at Bitburg. The Air Force announcement last night did not say where the second will be based. It is the 69th Squadron, commanded by Lt. Col. Richard W. Maffry of Kirksville, Mo., and now is training at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla.

The Matador, powered by turbojet engines, has a range of between 500 and 1,000 miles. It is capable of carrying an atomic warhead.

Worker Takes 6-Story Tumble, Saved by Mud

TRENTON (INS) — A 47-year-old construction worker yesterday fell the equivalent of six stories while working on a Trenton, Mich. steel plant, but escaped death by landing in a mud hole sustaining only a fractured hip.

Ted Watson, from his Wyandotte General Hospital bed, says: "I guess my number just wasn't up."

Watson survived another fall last year and was almost burned to death two years ago.

Council Objects to Senators' Aid for Blair Moody

DETROIT (INS) — The Building Trades Council, representing 75,000 members, today protested the decision of eight United States Senators to campaign this month in Michigan for former Senator Blair Moody.

The Council sent a telegram to the eight senators and Democratic National Chairman Stephen Mitchell protesting outside interference in a primary election and warning against an open split in the Michigan Democratic Party.

The Building Trades Council, an AF of L organization, has endorsed Patrick V. McNamara, who is running against Moody for the Democratic nomination for senator.

The eight senators volunteered their assistance to Moody, when Moody's campaign was interrupted by illness.

The senators are: Lehman, N. Y.; Douglas, Ill.; Mansfield, Mont.; Kennedy, Mass.; Jackson, Wash.; Humphrey, Minn.; Magnuson, Wash.; and Monroney, Okla.

Prison Space Views Argued

Governor, Commission Agree on Need for Relieving Congestion

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams will call the "little legislature" into session July 26 to provide more prison space — but there was some doubt today about what who wants what.

Williams and the State Corrections Commission seemed to differ about the solution — although both agreed on the need for relieving congestion in the state prison system.

Williams told his press conference that the State Corrections Commission, meeting at Grayling, had advised him by phone it wanted $75,000 from the "little legislature" to build a new outside dormitory at Ionia Reformatory to house 150 trusty inmates.

However, the commission refused to endorse that recommendation when it came from Gus Harrison, State Corrections Director.

Comm. Eleanore Hutzel of Detroit said the commission could not consistently ask for enlargement of Ionia after it and the Ionia warden had fought for a smaller prison.

Harrison said he didn't know where the governor got the $75,000 figure for a new dormitory.

The commission did authorize Comm. Talbot Smith of Ann Arbor and Harrison to confer with Williams and tell him of its need for more space.

The commission suggested if the "little legislature" balks that Williams call a special session of the full legislature.

Harrison told the commission that the state prison population now stands at 9,455, a new high. The count has been rising since August of 1953, he said.

With the opening of a new conservation-prison camp at the Hartwick Pines State Forest, the absolute capacity of the prisons is 9,650, Harrison said. The present count is 770 beyond the "real" capacity, he said.

Legislator Says Committees Only Give Prestige

EAST LANSING (AP) — Some legislative committees do little but give their members prestige, a key law-maker admitted at Michigan State College.

Speakers at the annual MSC forum on state and local government were Rep. Wade Van Valkenburg (R-Kalamazoo), speaker of the House, and Sen. Creighton R. Coleman (R-Battle Creek), Senate majority leader.

Van Valkenburg said he didn't consider the 47 committees in the House too many "when you consider the number of men we have to put on committees."

But he added that "only 18 or 20 of the House committees are important."

"A member's stationary looks a lot better if he's a member of a committee and if he gets a notice in his local paper that he's been appointed to a committee. The public doesn't know when it isn't important."

Coleman said he would like to see the number of Senate committees cut from 19 to about 16.

"All of them are important and have functions to perform," he said. "With a lower number, the work could be more streamlined and effective."

Gets Honorable Mention in Model Car Competition

Gus Kiriakides, 261 Orchard Lake Rd., has received honorable mention in the annual Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model car competition.

Judging of the models is done in two separate divisions; a senior and junior division. Kiriakides won recognition in the senior group. He was one of 11 boys in the metropolitan Detroit area to receive awards for outstanding design on their models.

Probing Cause of Jet Crash

Air Force Investigators Check Accident Which Killed Pilot, 3 Others

KANSAS CITY Kan. (AP) — Air Force investigations today sought to learn what caused a new jet plane to plunge into a residential area killing four persons and setting three houses afire.

The craft, just delivered to the Air Force, narrowly missed a 9-story building in the business district, struck a tree, demolished a 2-story frame house and burst into flames.

After catching fire, the plane, an F84F Thunderjet, veered across a used car lot damaging about 10 automobiles and smashed into another house.

The dead included the pilot, 2nd Lt. John H. Kapelese, Casper, Wyo. The other three victims were residents of the houses.

The jet was 1 of 4 being flown from here to Tinker Air Force Base, Okla.

Air Force officers planned a meeting with officials of the General Motors plant in Kansas City where the Thunderjet was produced.

Parts of the plane were taken back to the plant for examination.

The F84F was reported in trouble shortly after it took off from Fairfax Field here.

Howard Eppler, 32, Independence, Mo., who witnessed the crash while airborne in a civilian plane, said:

"It was in a vertical dive, going down about a mile south of us. The plane definitely was not burning in its downward plunge, it was intact but completely out of control."

Of nine persons injured, four remained in hospitals.

Mexican Army Seizes 2 Million Cartridges

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Army troops seized two million cartridges from the home of a member of the federal police yesterday and took them to the national arsenal. Officials said no arrests had been made.

The owner of the house said the ammunition was "part of a private investigation made several months ago." He said the cartridges were discarded government ammunition, of various calibers.

Top TV Actor in New Serial

Plays John Brandon in Golden Windows; Wife Is Spitalny's Maxine

NEW YORK — Grant Sullivan, who plays John Brandon, "the boy who loves and loses" in Golden Windows, the new TV daily serial drama, has been a top TV actor since 1951.

Sullivan has played regularly in Kraft Theater and Television Playhouse productions on TV, among other prominent TV drama shows.

Born in Long Beach, Calif., June 30, 1924, he attended Carnegie Tech before going into the Navy in World War II as an air corps meteorologist in the Aleutians.

He worked briefly as a telephone construction line man after the war, the acting bug biting him in 1947.

He played in stock productions at Laguna Beach, Calif. that year, and continued on in stock companies until 1951 when he came to New York and began an extensive TV career.

Married to Mary Samuel, who was known as Maxine in the Phil Spitalny All-Girl orchestra, Sullivan lives in Manhattan . . ."which is frustrating because I seldom get a chance to indulge in my favorite sport, skiing," he says.

Mother, 3 Children Die in Home Fire

WAUKESHA, Wis. (UP) — Robert Kneuse awakened last night, smelled smoke and rushed into the living room where his wife Madeline had been resting on a couch. He found her covered with flames.

He tried to drag her from the house, but failed. Neither could he reach the bedroom where his three small children were sleeping.

* * *

Driven back by smoke and flames, he ran to summon a neighbor, and he and the neighbor chopped a hole in the wall of the children's bedroom. They brought out two of the children, Mary, 3, and Margaret, 2, but were unable to find Robert Jr., 6.

Firemen later recovered the bodies of the 35-year-old mother and her son.

The two small girls were dead on arrival at a Milwaukee hospital.

Fire Chief Franklin Wirth said the fire apparently started in the couch in the living room.

BOTTLE BABY — Faye Marie Barker, 4, of Bad Axe, bottle feeds a baby raccoon who shares the Barker household with the tiny kitten reaching for a share of the milk. The raccoon was found beside its dead mother.

Builder Indicted by Grand Jury

Missing Man Charged With Duping Families in Detroit Area

DETROIT (UP) — A missing builder was indicted by a federal grand jury Wednesday on charges of duping four Detroit area families in fraudulent FHA home repair deals.

Prosecutors said the indicted man, John Fredericks, 38, formerly maintained offices in a downtown building here, but his present whereabouts are unknown.

The eight-count indictment charged Fredericks with making false statements for credit and presenting false notes for credit in arranging FHA projects with the four families.

Orrin C. Jones, assistant United States attorney, said Fredericks offered to improve the families' homes for nothing if they would display their houses as models.

But in each case, Jones said, the homeowners signed notes making them liable for payments. He said the work was done, but not all of the families were satisfied.

The indictment came as a congressional investigation into FHA deals was being pushed in Washington. Senate investigators have singled out Detroit as a hotbed of housing racketeering.

Fredericks, under investigation by the FBI for two months, was licensed as a builder in 1952, but the Michigan Corporation and Securities Commission later revoked his permit.

The grand jury is investigating additional cases.

Prefers Mink to Restitution, Will Go to Jail

BOSTON (UP) — Mrs. Mildred Prevoir, a pretty 33-year-old brunette would rather serve a term in jail than give up her mink coat and jewels.

So she informed Municipal Court Judge Jennie L. Barron yesterday when the judge offered her this choice: "Give up your mink coat and jewels or spend six months in the common jail."

Mrs. Prevoir's attorney, however, appealed the sentence.

The woman had pleaded guilty of defrauding an insurance firm of $800 by filing a false lost report on a diamond studded wrist watch. Police said she pawned the watch and used the money to make a down payment on a mink coat.

Judge Barron offered to give Mrs. Prevoir a suspended sentence if she would "assign the coat and jewels as security for restitution."

Refugees in Embassy

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UP)—Argentine Foreign Minister Jeronimo Remorino has disclosed that 290 refugees are staying at the Argentine Embassy in Guatemala City.

Evidence Is Lacking but Judge Hears Case

BOSTON (UP) — Isaac Trinkham, 51, presented a strong defense in Municipal Court yesterday when accused of having bitten the left thumb of George McPhee so severely that hospital treatment was required.

"How would I bite anybody?" Trinkham asked Judge Jennie L. Barron, and opened his mouth to expose toothless gums.

The court continued the case.

Germany to Exempt Army Objectors

BONN, Germany (UP)—Young Germans liable for future military service will have a privilege denied their grandfathers and fathers under the Kaiser and Hitler. They will be able to claim exemption from the draft on grounds of conscience.

The West German Defense Commission, headed by Theodor Blank, is drafting a law containing detailed provisions for the treatment of conscientious objectors. No details are known, but Blank says only members of religious groups which reject armed force can object to military service.

Candidate Suggests More State Police

DETROIT (UP) — Philip A. Hart, who is seeking the Democatric nomination for lieutenant-governor, urged "expansion of the State Police force as an immediate device to stop Michigan's highway slaughter" today.

Hart, until recently the legal advisor to Gov. G. Mennen Williams, said "the staggering toll in life and property paid by Michigan people for a few vacation days over the Fourth should give us fresh impetus to provide more state troopers to patrol the highways."

"By providing adequate superversion, Michigan should never again be on top in the nation's holiday traffic statistics. It is tragic that the state that put the world on wheels has not yet devised ways to control them," he said.

He said the state now has 728 troopers and should have 1,250 for rural areas alone for "adequate protection."
