Teamsters Shout Down Hoffa on Trusteeship

Floods Forcing Hundreds From Homes in West

Oregon and California Affected; Midwest Gets Much-Needed Rain

By UNITED PRESS

Storm-driven floods forced hundreds of persons to flee their homes in the Pacific Northwest today and cold autumn rains brought long-awaited moisture to parts of the Midwest.

A series of storms from Alaska swelled southern Oregon rivers to flood level and affected northern California. Highways were cut off and at least two areas were isolated.

Rain was still falling on the area early today.

The rising waters gained their worst power on the Coquille River system. Hundreds of ranchers prepared to evacuate as piled-up head waters began to roll down.

At least 6 inches of water covered Highway 42 between the Oregon towns of Coquille and Myrtle Point and the river threatened to roll over the two-mile dike on which Highway 101 runs into California.

More than 25 homes along Highway 101 were under water. At Alleghany, Ore., 12 miles north of Coquille, from 50 to 75 families were evacuated. The floods isolated the Oregon community of Powers and the state's Lee Valley area.

Earth slides closed at least three northern California highways. Meanwhile, in inland Oregon, heavy rains bloated the Willamette River system and flood warnings were posted at Harrisburg, Coburg and Jefferson.

The rains sprang from a huge low pressure area centered in the Alaska Gulf which stirred up southeast gales up to 50 miles an hour. Far to the south along the Pacific Coast, the worst waves in six years forced some Seal Beach, Calif., families to evacuate and threatened to batter away three homes.

Another rain band, the end result of snowstorms which raked parts of the Midwest earlier, moved out of the nation's midsection after giving much-needed moisture to parched farm and woodlands.

The chilly rains Sunday dumped 1.52 inches in Indianapolis, Ind., 1.01 on Fort Wayne, Ind., .53 on St. Louis, Mo., and .26 on Springfield, Ill.

Blare of Church Band Drowns Burglar Alarm

IPSWICH, England (UP) — The blare of a Salvation Army band next door was sweet music to sinners who robbed a branch post-office here last night.

The burglar alarm went off, but nobody heard it over the drums and brasses. The thieves got away with about 2,250 pounds ($9,100).

Weekend Accidents Claim Twenty Lives in Michigan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 20 persons lost their lives in violent accidents over a rain-dampened weekend in Michigan.

Traffic accidents killed 18 including two Detroit police officers northbound for a deer hunting trip, and a fire in Royal Oak Township claimed the lives of two small children.

Latest victims to be reported are:

Patrolmen Anthony C. Koran, 35, and Conrad W. Koski, 33, died Sunday when a car in which they were riding failed to make a curve on M76 near Higgins Lake.

Alex Mann, 47, of Galesburg, died Sunday when struck by a car while helping another motorist.

Police said Mann was attempting to help push a car driven by Joseph G. Walker of U.S.12 west of Galesburg. Another car rammed into Walker's car pinning Mann to the rear bumper.

James C. Kelly, 24, of Flint, was killed Sunday when a car struck his motorcycle from be-

Denies Knowing About Ransom

Hall Writes Greenlease Disclaiming Information of Missing $300,000

KANSAS CITY (UP) — Carl Austin Hall has written millionaire auto dealer Robert C. Greenlease, assuring him in the letter that he does not know the whereabouts of $300,000 in missing ransom money, but reiterating that most of it was in his hotel room when he was arrested in St. Louis.

He said in a confession read at his trial last Tuesday he had made an inventory of the money just before the arresting officers arrived.

Greenlease said he believes Hall, who is awaiting death in the Missouri gas chamber in Jefferson City Dec. 18 along with Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, his confessed accomplice in the crime, is telling the truth.

Authorities are believed to be interested in a slender stranger Hall said in his confession he saw near his room after his arrest Oct. 6 by two St. Louis policemen.

The St. Louis Police Board has intensively questioned former Lt. Louis Shoulders and Patrolman Elmer Dolan, who made the arrest. Both have steadfastly denied any knowledge of the missing money.

Summerfield Says GOP Brought Peak Production

DETROIT (AP) — Postmaster General Summerfield said today the nation is "completing its best business year in history" under the Eisenhower administration.

Summerfield, in an address to the Economic Club of Detroit, said "the value" of the nation's production effort "will be the highest ever."

"In this year of 1953 there were more jobs than ever before—64 million of them. There has been virtually no unemployment. The average weekly wages of the industrially employed and the personal incomes of all our people have both reached new peaks," Summerfield said.

Summerfield said that nearly 1,500 "poor security risks" have been weeded out of the federal government since the Republican administration took over.

He pointed out that 166 of the "risks" were dismissed from the Post Office Department under a "vigorous security program" launched by President Eisenhower.

In a "progress report" to his home-state audience, Summerfield said the drive to clean out Communist office-holders was only one of the "many" accomplishments of the new administration.

Others he listed included the easing of wage and price controls with a "minimum of disturbance of the whole economic process," curbing inflation, checking the "toboggan decline" of farm prices, cutting the federal payroll by 200,000 persons, ending the Korean War, reducing government appropriations and paving the way for tax cuts and ending the "20-year expansion" of governmental control.

More Power, Driving Ease Offered in New GMC Trucks

By JOHN W. FITZGERALD
Assistant to the Editor

"Our 1954 line of GMC trucks introduces the greatest number of major developments in the history of the industry," declared General Manager Philip J. Monaghan today.

"Never before," said he, "has any company ever offered such sweeping and important changes. We have crammed five years normal development into a single year and we are setting a swift, new pace that will challenge the entire industry."

Prominent among the changes are:

1. Hydra-Matic drive for medium and heavy duty trucks and highway tractors, making GMC first in the industry.
2. Power steering.
3. A 125-horsepower engine in the light GMC's, the highest six cylinder horsepower rating in the industry for this class.
4. Silent power muffler, which eliminates objectionable exhaust noise, making GMC Truck first to step up to one of the foremost problems of the industry.
5. Beauty in styling for the first time in the trucking industry.
6. Five new heavy duty models, all featuring a 72-inch bumper-to-back-of-cab dimension to meet most economically over-all length law in all states.

Already new trucks are going forward to GMC dealers clear across the country. "We have been holding dealer meetings," said General Manager Monaghan, "and I have never seen such enthusiasm before. Veterans here at the plant tell me the reception accorded the 1954 lines far transcends anything they have known. We really have a hot line of trucks and we are confident the general public as well as strictly users will be favorably impressed."

As they approach from the front, the light truck looks like a passenger car and is styled accordingly. The colors are bright and distinctive and there's a brilliant red job, trimmed in white that really knocks your eye out.

In outlining GMC's dramatic developments in its 1954 truck line produced at its South boulevard plant in Pontiac, Monaghan stressed the more than 100 engineering advances and the spectacular new styling.

R. C. Woodhouse, general truck sales manager, pointed out that the new styling will give owners distinction and added advertising for their business. The new styling with lots of chrome and the choice of 12 striking new colors and six color combinations is an attempt

Union Insurance Fund Probe Set

To Learn Reasons AFL Teamsters Cuts Go to Two Agencies

DETROIT (UP) — Chairman Wint Smith (R-Kan.) said today his house subcommittee will attempt to learn why insurance and welfare funds of the AFL Teamsters Union pass through two agencies before reaching a New York insurance firm.

The labor and educations subcommittee said Leo Perlman, executive vice president of the Union Casualty and Life Insurance Co., Mt. Vernon, N. Y.,

The Union Insurance Agency of Illinois and the United Public Service Corp. of Mt. Vernon, were named by Smith as the agencies through which union insurance funds go before reaching Perlman's company.

"Our figures," Smith said, "indicate that the cuts received by these agencies may have run in the millions of dollars since the welfare funds were established.

5 Die in Crash of Small Plane

Craft Smashes Up on Foggy LaGuardia Field During Night

NEW YORK (UP)—Five persons were found dead today in a private plane that crashed in the fog during the night at LaGuardia field. The wreckage was not discovered until about 9 a.m.

Police said the plane was believed to be one reported missing late yesterday on a short flight between two towns on Long Island—East Hampton, about 100 miles from here, and Babylon, 40 miles away.

Airport authorities listed the dead as:

Alfred LaBorde, pilot, of New York City.

Mrs. William Niffim and her two children, William Jr., and Cornia.

William Beckett.

LaGuardia field authorities said the plane was listed as the property of J. P. Bend, manager of an airport near Washington, D.C., where it was rented recently.

A LaGuardia official said before starting the return flight at 4 p.m., the pilot called his wife in New York City to tell her that he would be home soon. When he did not arrive, she notified authorities, and the Coast Guard air-sea rescue service was alerted.

Construction men en route to work found the wreckage in a drainage ditch. The engine had been pushed into the cabin of the plane.

Call On Guards to Keep Peace at Sunday Meet

Refuse to Hear Their Official Who Arrives With 50 Followers

A union demonstration by opponents of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614 petitioners was averted by heavily-armed Oakland County sheriff's deputies and Pontiac Police Sunday during a meeting attended by James R. Hoffa, the union's international vice president.

Officers stood guard with a submachine gun and 12-gauge shotguns after Hoffa arrived, with some 50 followers, at the Waterford Community Center.

The meeting, called last week after a gathering at Local 614 hall, 19 E. Pike St., was attended by an estimated 400 union members to decide further action on petitions seeking to lift the local's trusteeship.

Hoffa became the local's trustee in October after the unit's President Daniel J. Keating and Secretary-Treasurer Louis O. Linteau were suspended following grand jury indictments.

Hoffa demanded to be heard by the members protesting the trusteeship and retaining the suspended officials as business agents. Unionists booed and jeered Hoffa and at one time in the meeting threatened him if he spoke.

Louis W. Snyder of Pontiac the petitioners' attorney, said about 20 men rushed toward Hoffa, but were restrained by their own men.

Five of the complaining union members, Snyder said, have been subpoenaed after volunteering to appear at the congressional labor rackets investigation subcommittee in Detroit.

Snyder said Hoffa pleaded, "I'm still the international vice president and I demand to be heard." but he was shouted down by the members several times.

At Friday's meeting Keating and Linteau formally resigned as officers of the local and members were told to discontinue the petitioning, according to Snyder. But members said they became indignant after the former officers were appointed as business agents "without a vote."

Snyder further quoted Hoffa as saying, "I'm calling a meeting now."

But Snyder said, "The next move is up to Hoffa."

He added that his group will wait to the end of next week before filing petitions with International President Dave Beck.

"We believe that we now have complete solidarity of the union."

Snyder said that "the situation is now in reverse what it was before. The members themselves are fighting for rights instead of the union's head."

Undersheriff Donald O. Menzies said some of his deputies reported seeing wrenches under the coats and in the pockets of Hoffa's men milling around the building while the meeting was in progress.

About 30 cars from Detroit were scattered around the center, according to deputies.

Menzies said that one of the men coming from Detroit said, "These fellows aren't going to take over this local."

However, the meeting proceeded without violence after police lined up in front of the Community Center doors and barred the entrance.

Synder said that Hoffa was admitted to the meeting because of his official status, but the entire membership agreed not to let him talk.

Snyder also stated that Hoffa tried to force himself upon the membership despite the chair's refusal several times to allow him to speak.

Following the meeting several of the group's leaders were escorted home by police and deputies.

Snyder said he also received a police escort, as he said he was threatened previously.

One unidentified local man said he was going to move his family from their rural home because they had been threatened and he was concerned over their safety.

The group agreed at the meeting that the petitioning will continue at least another week.

"We now have 50 per cent of the 2,500 members of the local signed up," Snyder said.

Snyder said the five members willing to testify before the congressional subcommittee probably will be heard today.

Queen, Duke Off Today for Long World Tour

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth will leave the fogs of Britain tonight for sunny southern islands and a trip around the world.

The queen and the Duke of Edingurgh will be away six months on a hand-shaking trip designed to give thousands of her subjects a glimpse of their 27-year-old queen. It will be the first time a British sovereign has made a world tour.

Inevitably parts of the trip will take on all the pageantry of royal occasions. There will be receptions, investitures, loyal addresses, civic welcomes, state banquets.

But the royal couple, who love to travel, will also have time for sightseeing.

They leave London tonight in the American-built stratocruiser Canopus, piloted by Capt. Anthony Loraine. They will fly through the night via Gander, Nfld., to Bermuda, where they are due at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

The next day they fly on to Jamaica. There the queen will open a road cut through swamps to connect Kingston and Montego bay.

At Kingston the royal couple will board the 15,902-ton passenger liner Gothic, converted for royal use. Instead of 83 passengers she normally carries, the Gothic will have the queen's entourage.

This includes several private secretaries, two ladies-in-waiting, equerries, a medical officer and a 30-piece royal marine band. By radio telephone the Queen may keep in touch with government affairs and also have chats with her children, left behind with Queen Mother Elizabeth.

The royal itinerary includes stopovers at the Fiji Islands, Tonga Island, New Zealand, Australia, the Coral Islands, Ceylon, the British protectorate of Aden, Uganda, South Africa Tobruk, North Africa and Gibraltar. The trip will end May 15.

Dickenson Glad to Be at Home

PW Who Almost Stayed With Reds Gets Rousing Welcome From Hill Folk

CRACKER'S NECK, Va. (AP)—Cpl. Ed Dickenson was tired and happy today after a homecoming celebration that continued into the wee hours and swept away any doubts he might have had about how his people would welcome him.

There was a forgive-and-forget air around the little hillside cabin where his family and friends greeted him with a warm affection which bewildered even young Dickenson. He could only grin when asked how he felt about it.

He planned to sleep, eat the home-cooked dishes he likes best, and map his future that has been fuzzy ever since he decided he preferred life in his homeland to life among the Communists.

Dickenson was one of 23 American soldiers who were listed as having refused repatriation in the exchange of prisoners in Korea. But then he left the other 22 and bolted to freedom a month ago, saying he hadn't acted sooner because of death threats.

Dickenson, 23, has said he would re-enlist in the Army after his present 30-day furlough. But last night he hinted he might stay in the hills he left three years ago to enter the Army. "I've got a lot of thinking to do about it," he said.

A neighbor commented: "When he sees how we feel, I think he'll stay."

His 73-year-old father, Van Buren Dickenson, said: "I'm going to knock it out of him, his going back into the Army. We need him at home and I don't think it would be right for him to leave again."

Dickenson ended his 10,000-mile journey from a Korean prison camp last night and walked straight into a rousing, almost hysterical welcome from brothers, sisters, in-laws and friends who had trudged up the hillside to the family home.

He stepped from a car into a pouring rain after a 15-hour automobile trip from Washington. Men, women and children streamed out of the cabin into the rain to embrace and kiss him and to shake his hand and pound his back.

Neighbors began gathering at the house at 5 p.m. The crowd had grown to around 100 by the time he arrived five hours later. They were jammed into the four-room house so thickly it appeared the floors might collapse under the weight.

Kindness Brings Smashed Car and Stiff Necks

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — An act of kindness resulted in stiff necks and a smashed patrol car for two Bloomfield Hills policemen Saturday night when they stopped to aid an out-of-gas motorist.

According to police, Patrolmen Ray J. Smith, 30, and Leslie Irwin, 29, had stopped their car on Woodward avenue, south of Long Lake road, when another motorist smashed into the rear of their auto.

Smith and Irwin had pulled up behind the gas-less car, driven by James T. Collins, 50, of 4215 Fourth, Detroit.

They had just climbed back in their car after summoning aid when a third car struck theirs from the rear, sending them crashing into the rear of Collins' car.

The police car was struck by one driven by Roy Mangum, 61, of 471 Gratiot, Detroit. His wife, Lula, 50, was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for X-rays but no injury was found.

Statements from the drivers were not completed.

Home Destroyed by $10,000 Fire

Rochester Family Faces Bleak Holiday as Flames Burn Belongings

A bleak Thanksgiving holiday faces the Harry Rowan family after fire Saturday night destroyed their home and all their belongings—including the turkeys and trimmings.

Mrs. Rowan's father, J. W. Betts, 90, and the Rowan's daughter Jean Ann, 14, were home alone when they smelled oil fumes and opened the door to the utility room.

An explosion suddenly ripped the house at 2879 Alexander Road, Rochester, and the pair ran for safety.

Jean Ann raced half a block to a neighbor's phone and called the Rochester fire department.

By the time the department reached Livernois and Auburn Rds. a mile from the blaze, Chief George Ross said, "the house was completely enveloped in flames."

Two Brooklands fire engines responded to a call for assistance and aided in pouring 5,000 gallons of water into the fire.

While firemen were battling the flames, Mrs. Pearl Rowan, 53, was hurrying back from her job as an operator for Michigan Bell in Pontiac. A call told her of the fire 15 minutes after she arrived at work.

Her husband Harry, also 53, up north hunting since Nov. 10, was located by State Police late Saturday near Grand Marais. A mechanic at the Chrysler plant in Highland Park, he returned home at 4 a.m. today.

Mrs. Rowan estimated the loss at approximately $10,000.—including the holiday turkey and trimmings she had just brought home.

Civil Rescue Squad Shortage Still Great

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fewer than one fourth of the 10,000 civilian rescue squads needed in case of an enemy atomic attack are now formed and equipped for action.

Giving this estimate in a training manual entitled "Rescue Techniques and Operations," the Federal Civil Defense Administration said yesterday a study of World War II bombings show 10 per cent of atomic attack casualties would be so heavily trapped they could not be dug out by neighbors with household tools. It figured even an experienced eight-man team would need an average of 2½ hours to make such a rescue.

Dallas Engineer Gets Even With Reporter

DALLAS (AP)—City Hall reporter Allen Quinn of the Dallas News had to have some information one midnight recently in a hurry. He phoned City Plan Engineer Marvin Springer.

Springer, finally awakened by his wife, produced the information but didn't sound too happy about doing it, Quinn related.

The next midnight, Quinn's phone rang. Yep, it was Springer who said: "You're so darn anxious to get news that I thought I'd call you and give you some."

"I've just become a father." It was a boy.

Italy Approves 5-Power Confab

Agrees Unconditionally to Big 3 Proposal for Trieste Conference

ROME (AP)—The Italian Foreign Ministry said today that Italy has agreed unconditionally to the Big Three proposed for a five-power conference on the future of disputed Trieste.

Previously foreign diplomatic sources had indicated that Italy's assent to the conference proposal had been taken into consideration by the Allies and the Allies' suggestion for a five-power conference was accepted."

In Belgrade, the official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said yesterday that the conditional acceptance attributed earlier to Italy appeared to be along lines laid down previously by Rome. Tanjug said any proposal for a conference taking for granted that part of the territory would be turned over to Italy was "completely unacceptable" to President Tito's government.

The Italian spokesman said the United States, Britain and France on Nov. 13 had suggested that Italy and Yugoslavia meet with them on Trieste and that Italy had accepted the Western suggestions "in bloc."

The details of the Western proposals have not been made public. Previously Italy had suggested that before a conference, Italy and Yugoslavia should be put on the same footing with regard to Trieste by either Italian occupation of Zone A, now occupied by British and American troops, or Yugoslav withdrawal from Zone B. Yugoslavia turned down that suggestion flatly.

Italy's spokesman said today: "Insofar as Italy is concerned, there is a green light for the five-power conference."

Plane Crash Kills Two Sarnia Men

WINDSOR (UP)—A light plane went into a spin and crashed into a utility pole near here Sunday, killing two men who did not have a chance to use their parachutes.

The victims were pilot Henry Scholtens, 28, and his passenger, Paul H. Petzold, 23, both of Sarnia, Ont.

Provincial Police said the plane apparently went out of control because of engine failure. The crash occurred three miles west of Windsor Airport about an hour after the pair took off in the two-seater plane.

Wall Tumbles Into Empty Theater Seats; None Hurt

HELENA, Ark. (AP)—The wall of a building collapsed into a moving picture theater last night, filling some 15 rows of seats with bricks and rubble.

The seats apparently were unoccupied and only a few persons were in the audience.

Police Capt. E. L. Bounds said the two-story adjoining building, housing an appliance store, was demolished.

Cause of the collapse was unknown. No injuries were reported.

Jews From Israel Find Unwilling Haven in Munich

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—This Bavarian city, a chief center of anti-Semitism in the Hitler era, today is an unwilling haven for hundreds of Jews.

In little more than a year, almost a thousand East European Jews have come here from Israel—dissatisfied with life in what they once regarded as the Promised Land.

They hope Munich is only a temporary stopover on the way to North or South America.

The refugees, most of them Polish-born, say they were unable to fit in with Israel's present-day "pioneer conditions" and couldn't find jobs in Israel or adapt themselves to the climate.

They came to Munich because the one remaining camp for displaced Jews in Germany is at nearby Foenrenwald. Almost all of them entered Germany illegally. They're in for rough times here. German authorities plan to close down Foenrenwald by next spring.

Jewish aid organizations here hope the refugees can be resettled in the United States, Canada or Brazil before then.

The situation became worse a couple of weeks ago when 163 refugees arrived from Israel via France. Sixty-seven of them were promptly arrested by German police on charges of illegal entry. All were refused admission to Fochrenwald, where 650 "illegal" immigrants already were living.

The new arrivals finally were granted sanctuary in Munich's Orthodox Jewish synagogue and community center building.

Then German police raided the building and arrested 65 men and two women. Other women and all the children were left where they were, although German authorities said all were guilty of illegal entry.

Those arrested were given short jail sentences—14 days or less—and warned they faced deportation.

In the meantime, the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society is working around the clock to resettle the homeless Jews in the Western Hemisphere while providing them with food and shelter.

Missing Child Found in Lake

Body Discovered After Widespread Search of Holland Area

HOLLAND (UP) — Services will be held Tuesday for 3-year-old Scott Rozeboom, whose body was found Saturday night by two of the 1,000 volunteers who combed the area in hopes of finding him alive.

Coroner Gilbert Van de Water said the boy apparently wandered away from his family's home in suburban Central Park Friday and toppled into Lake Mactawa, one of the many lakes in this resort area. He ruled out the possibility of kidnaping or other foul play.

Gene Connant and Neil Caawee, nearby residents who had participated in the two-day search, found the boy's body in a sandy bayou about two miles across the lake from his home. Searchers had covered the area several times but Connant and Caawee decided to make a final check around the shoreline before retiring for the night.

Scott's mother, Mrs. Marjorie Rozeboom, 26, collapsed during the long search and was hospitalized until Sunday. She was told of her son's death shortly after his body was found half buried by sand.

The boy's father, James Rozeboom, 27, said his wife "took it hard" when she was told of their son's death but reported she was "coming along pretty good now."

While Mrs. Rozeboom was at Holland City Hospital, the father maintained a vigil at home with their other child, Pamela, 19 months.

The Rozeboom home is about 300 feet from the shore of Lake Macatawa. Deputy Sheriff Clayton W. Forry said he was "pretty certain" the boy fell off a dock.

"There was a brisk offshore wind," Forry said. "He could easily have been blown across the lake."

John Garner, 85, Takes Snooze After Deer Hunt

UVALDE, Tex. (UP)—Former Vice President John Nance (Cactus Jack) Garner, a white-haired sprightly old Democrat, clumped into his home from his 85th birthday deer hunt yesterday, stuffed himself with fresh venison, then got in bed for an afternoon snooze.

Garner wouldn't say whether he shot the deer himself. For 35 years he and Uvalde auto dealer Ross Brumfield have made the birthday hunt at a secret spot in southwest Texas hill country near here.

But Garner said to Uvalde newspaperman J. A. Scarborough: "I've had the best dinner today that I've ever eaten."

Garner waved a hand toward a quarter of venison still on a table and insisted Scarborough take some with him.

Then, indicating he was ready for his daily siesta, he said, "I'm going to bed when you leave."

Eisenhower's speech will be nationally televised (CBS direct, 7 p.m. EST, with kinescopes later).

Florida Townsfolk Clear Wind Debris

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (UP)—Residents of Woodville, a small northwest Florida community, cleared up debris today after a roaring Sunday morning tornado which smashed six homes and left 21 injured.

Another twister ripped across two south Louisiana parishes (counties) a few hours earlier, destroying 26 homes and injuring one person.

Most of Woodville's 100 residents were at home when the storm hit at 8:40 a.m.

Many of those whose homes were leveled by the Louisiana twister escaped injury because they were attending a church fair. The narrow twister raced across Lafayette and St. Martin parishes, striking heaviest near Broussard, a small farming town.

'Well-Done,' Not Good

BOSTON (UP) — The menu at Durgin Park's, one of Boston's famed old restaurants, bears this warning: "We are not responsible for any steak ordered well-done." Charcoal-broiled steak so cooked is apt to be tough, a chef explained.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

MONDAY, NOVEMEBER 23, 1953

Kidnap Slayers to Die

An all male jury in Kansas City needed only 67 minutes to decide that Carl Austin Hall and Bonnie Brown Heady must die for the kidnap slaying of six year old Bobbie Greenlease.

The Lindbergh law under which Hall and Mrs. Heady were brought to trial provides either for a mandatory life sentence or the death penalty if recommended by the jury.

The two killers had admitted in court that their victim was slain even before his multimillionaire father had paid Hall the $600,000 ransom. Thus the jury's only task was to decide the degree of punishment.

No one could argue that the jurors' decision was unjustified. No crime in recent memory was more stupid, vicious and cold blooded. U. S. District Judge Albert L. Reeves, who set the execution date for December 18 said that he could not find "one line of justifying or mitigating circumstances for this crime."

It is impossible to feel any sympathy for the doomed couple. They showed little Bobby and his parents no mercy. They deserve none.

The Old Sorehead finally thought of something to be thankful for on Thanksgiving Day. "I'm thankful," he said, "that I didn't come into this world as a turkey."

Two Prices for Wheat?

Washington reports indicate that a two price system for wheat is receiving friendly consideration in the Department of Agriculture.

Under this plan, backed by the National Grange, wheat used domestically would be sold at or near 100 per cent of parity. The rest of the crop would be thrown on the export market at the then current world price.

This plan would require the Secretary of Agriculture to estimate at the start of each crop year how much wheat would be used domestically. The total would be divided among farmers according to their production records.

Then the Secretary would estimate the difference between the average free market price and the support price. Each farmer would be issued a certificate representing the difference in price per bushel between the free market and support price.

Purchasers of wheat for use in this country would have to buy the certificates from the farmers and the cost eventually would be passed along to the consumers.

The farmers would be free to grow additional wheat for export and to take their chances on the free market price. Proponents of the plan estimate that about a third of the American crop would be sold on a free market basis.

It is argued that the plan places the burden of cost of support on the consumer rather than on the Government or on the taxpayer. It also in a sense eliminates production controls.

This two price plan is much like five McNary-Haugen bills of the 1920s, two of which were approved by both Houses of Congress, but vetoed by President Coolidge.

In his first veto message he objected to the plan on the ground that it would encourage one crop farming. In the second place he said it would stimulate overproduction.

Backers of the new plan say it would restore our export market for wheat. Critics contend that it would result in dumping American wheat on the world market to the detriment of prices for Canadian export wheat and wheat from other countries.

Tennessee Drops Poll Tax

Belated though the action is, the great State of Tennessee deserves congratulations for joining those enlightened commonwealths which place no financial qualifications on voting.

Tennessee's step forward can be welcomed especially in the hope that it represents a nonreversible trend. At one time eleven Southern States imposed poll taxes.

The obvious evil in the system is that it keeps the poor away from the polls It also enables political bosses to buy up blocks of poll tax receipts and pass them out to hired voters fo rsupport of machine candidates.

Since 1920 North Carolina, Louisiana, Florida, Georgia and South Carolina have abandoned it. Today only five states, Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia retain it.

It can be hoped that Tennessee's example will inspire them to similar action.

Daffynition

Bullseye: What you'll never hit by shooting the bull.

The final results now are all tabulated, and they show that the young people from 20 Pontiac area churches are to be commended for their project on Halloween. From the trucking firm that hauled it comes word that they picked up 13,500 pounds of used clothing for shipment to for distribution in Korea, East Germany and Greece. At the same time over $500 in cash was given the young people for the same cause.

Fourteen of the 3,064 entries in the Man About Town football contest carry through to the final game next Saturday. They picked UCLA to win Saturday's game with Southern California, which it did by a 13-0 score. The 15 who picked Southern California are eliminated. The final game is Army vs. Navy.

Wealthier in the amount of $1,096 is

who was tops among the men and women who participated in the last suggestion award distribution at second place and $348 going to while 76 others drew from $18.75 to $252 each.

'Twas only 20 years ago today that General Motors announced that its 1934 cars would have a "revolutionary change." The front axle would be eliminated.

In laying their plans for the coming year,

"Never Before as in Fifty-Four"

already has been adopted as the slogan of a number of civic organizations.

So many reports have been received of dandelions blooming in November that space restrictions make it impossible to mention them. However, thanks for the information.

It is the expressed opinion of

The latest racket comes from Chicago. Several local people have received circulars from a publishing house in that city, who for 50 cents will send you instructions on how to get around any question of loyalty without invoking the fifth amendment.

After going to their winter home in Florida a month earlier than usual,

Voice of the People

Says Our Recognition of China Would Make U. S. Consulates Available to Reds

Secretary Dulles states that he has never taken the position that the administration would never recognize Communist China. Americans will wonder just what our recognition of Red China would amount to.

It would make available to Communist China consulates in the United States, each of which would promptly be staffed with Communist "consular" officers, their families, clerks and servants.

We know from experience that the Reds use their foreign consulates for espionage, propaganda, blackmail and other forms of illicit "fund-raising."

U. S. diplomatic recognition of Red China would carry with it, however, a much greater advantage for Mao Tze-tung than the availability of consular offices here, an advantage measured best in terms of our own loss of self-respect.

Reds have murdered and tortured and spat upon us, upon our institutions and our flag. Yet sooner or later, Mr. Dulles implies, we may welcome them to our council tables.

For the sake of principles the founders of our republic solemnly pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor. Where then will be our sacred honor? Buried in the spittle of the Communists.

Reader Believes God Is Guiding Eisenhower

I trust and believe that God is guiding President Eisenhower. He is a person of great intelligence, and will do all that is possible to rid the government of Communists.

The sickening tragedy of the kidnap-murder of Bobby Greenlease shocked the entire nation.

But we must all have faith in God. He knows what is right.

Clarence S. Utley

Everett True

A stranger to the ambulance crew which picked him up injured on the sidewalk yesterday was identified by Everett True as a man who had called him on the telephone and said, "Guess who this is?"

Just A Smile

Cheap

Bewildered, the guest was staring at the young son of the house, who was driving nails into the dining-room table.

Turning to his host, he said, "It's none of my business, but don't you find it expensive letting him play like that?"

The host smiled proudly. "Not at all," he said. "I get the nails wholesale."

Just Suffered On

A man went to his doctor and requested treatment for his ankle. After a careful examination the doctor inquired: "How long have you been going around like this?"

"Three weeks."

"Why, your ankle's broken? Why didn't you come to me before?"

"Well, every time I say anything is wrong with me, my wife declares I'll have to stop smoking."

Marlow Ponders Hoover's Statement; Is Roosevelt's Era Under Spy Cloud!

By JAMES MARLOW

Brownell, whatever his reason, skipped over the Roosevelt administration when he accused former President Truman of being lax with Communists.

Yet the alleged spy rings must have been inherited by Truman from the Roosevelt regime. But Truman and FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover, like Brownell, concentrated their explanations on what happened in Truman's time.

This glossing over of the Roosevelt period raises questions which may have to be answered before the sensational case of Harry Dexter White fades from the news.

For example: Did Roosevelt ever know, or was he ever told, about a spy ring in government in his administration? If so, who told him? How did he handle it? Any differently from Truman?

White went to work for the government in 1934. Whittaker Chambers says White was in a Soviet spy ring in the mid-1930s. Elizabeth Bentley says he was still spying in the last years of Roosevelt's administration.

Perhaps in aiming so hard at Truman, Brownell figured he could start the ball rolling and then let the Senate's subcommittee on internal security, which is investigating subversion, pick up the ball and run with it.

This subcommittee can hardly consider its work complete without tracking the alleged spies back to Roosevelt's days and learning whatever was then known or done about them.

Truman, always loyal to Roosevelt and his memory, could have tried in his talk to the nation to take some of the heat off himself by saying he had merely inherited any spy ring that existed.

Instead, he took full responsibility himself for what was or wasn't done. Hoover made only vague reference to reports to Roosevelt and former President Herbert Hoover.

On Nov. 8, 1945, Miss Bentley went to the FBI and told of White and others she alleged were spies. She said she had been a Soviet spy ring courier. Within a month Hoover sent a 30,000-word report about the alleged spies to Truman.

Yesterday a Washington newspaper editor (J. R. Wiggins of the Post), in a lengthy analysis of the White case, wrote: "The speed with which the Bentley information was relayed to the White House (and the absence of any claim of prior knowledge) suggests that the Bentley story was as great a surprise and shock to the FBI as it was to the President and his Cabinet.

"A counterespionage system that depends for its first information of treason upon the disaffection of an enemy agent falls somewhat short of desired efficiency."

When Hoover, testifying before the Senate subcommittee, denied reports he had agreed with Truman to keep White in the government, he did what Brownell and Truman did: stuck to what happened in Truman's time.

No senator asked him if he had made any reports on White or a spy ring to Roosevelt, or knew about them then. Hoover didn't volunteer any such information.

He did say in his report to Truman on White, in February 1946, that the information came from 30 different sources whose reliability had been established by "inquiry or long-established observation and evaluation."

This would indicate Hoover had had the finger on White a long time or had done very speedy work finding out about him in the three months after Miss Bentley walked into the FBI to tell her story.

In his book, "Witness," Chambers, admitted onetime spying messenger, said he first told the FBI about the spy ring and White in 1941. Two FBI agents visited him then, he said, adding that he did not hear from the FBI again for a year.

* * *

It's possible that if the efficiency of his bureau continues to be challenged, Hoover, personally or through information released by his bureau, will have something to say on spy rings before Truman became President in April 1945.

Attorneys Make Attempts to Salvage Happy Homes

Charley's comments may surprise you. But they are typical of lawyers all over America today.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case J-349: Charley T., aged 37, is a prominent Wisconsin attorney.

"Dr. Crane, I need 100 copies of all your marriage bulletins," he informed me via telephone recently.

"For a lot of would-be divorce cases come to my office. But I know that most of these couples could work out a successful solution if they would rate each other on your 'Tests for Husbands & Wives' and if they would study your sex bulletins.

"That's not an idle statement, either, for I have tried this procedure for the last six months.

"During that time, I have sent 27 couples home with a handful of these pertinent marriage bulletins, and only 2 of them have returned to follow through with their original divorces.

"At our last State Bar Association a group of us attorneys were discussing the help which lawyers can offer to feuding married folks. While we don't attempt to act as psychiatrists, we feel we are stopping hundreds of divorces. Don't you approve of this policy, Dr. Crane?"

Yes, I certainly commend all such attorneys for their valiant attempts to salvage happy homes.

And every taxpayer, too, should be grateful, for divorces touch everybody's pocketbook.

For instance, last year in our Chicago area alone, there were about 15,500 divorces. To handle such cases, we Chicago taxpayers had to pay the salaries of 113 judges, bailiffs and clerks.

And that doesn't involve the heat and light and other costs of our courts.

Furthermore, those salaries are only a minor expense compared to the upkeep of the divorced families after the divorce.

The director of our county public assistance division says that 1,146 families are currently on his rolls as a result of divorce.

And the yearly bill to us Chicago taxpayers for such assistance to divorced families, runs over $1,700,000. What is true of Chicago is proportionally true of your own community.

Via this column alone I have letters attesting to the fact that tens of thousands of homes have been pulled back to happiness after they had teetered precariously on the brink of divorce.

Similar thousands have written that they have learned how to win friends and be popular, although they were verging on abnormality until they tried the "Compliment Club" or used other psychological charts and Rating Scales.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3 cent stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover printing and typing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.)

Baering Down

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER
International News Service

If we accept the New Jersey returns as a blindfolded marker for 1951 then we must pin the donkey's tail on the war maps.

The results were as amazing as a bass voice in a bassinet.

First of all, from 1919 to 1949 New Jersey played tiddly-winks under the thumb of a side-alley dictator.

For 30 years its slogan was "Whole Hague or None."

Then the reform element cleaned house enough to qualify as an improvement. Now, we find it was only a lick and a promise.

During the political quail season they served toast on it. That put the Republicans up salt creek with an elapsed crosstown transfer.

Being a good party man Ike endorsed the scorched toast. And that was that. But what really busted the bean-bag was the New Jersey sixth tabbing a Democrat for Congress. Which is the first time that happened since there was harp music in Tara's halls.

Upon sober second doubts it is not so odd that bingo was a statewide issue. It's a game where you need all your buttons.

New Jersey has always been a boss-spangled state. This time the GOP platform was a dining-room table. They put in planks to accommodate the guests.

The abbreviated shrift of the GOP in Jersey wonderizes us if the garden staters want reform The answer is they do. But they want it buttered on both sides.

If straws show which way the wind blows you'll be chasing your hat in the same direction. The Democrats claim to be the ticket brokers for the majority of congressional seats.

There wasn't one expert in the works who predicted the swing session. We know it had already happened in Wisconsin's ninth. Well, well, it's the turn of the tide that exposes the mud.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Now when Daniel knew that the writing was signed, he went into his house; and his window being open in his chamber, toward Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime. —Daniel 6:10.

Anyone Sharing His Cold With Another Is Just an Old Stinker, Claims Brady

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

The most prevalent respiratory infections are coryza, pharyngitis (simple sore throat), tonsillitis, laryngitis, bronchitis, pneumonia, influenza, tuberculosis, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough, epidemic meningitis (spotted fever), poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis).

Chicken pox and smallpox are often if not always respiratory infections.

These are common respiratory infections in that they all spread from person to person in the same way, via droplet or spray.

The effective range of spray is not over five feet in quiet conversation, up to 10 or 12 feet if the boor sneezes or coughs with face unmasked.

Now, surely you must begin to see what may happen when some unmasked stinker shares his alleged "cold" with you, at the cashier's window, the barber's or hair-dresser' chair, over the counter, across the aisle or at the bridge table.

But in any circumstance don't forget your manners. If you betray any uneasiness about being sprayed the stinker may become indignant about it. After all, this is a free country.

For the benefit of lunkheads who tr. to patronize me with their third grade sarcasm for my silly attempt to foist upon the public another name for what everybody knows as "the common cold," let me repeat that the CRI (kree) is not an ailment one can define but merely an acknowledgement, in the onset or early stage of the illness, that is probably a common respiratory infection.

Even a rabid isolationist such as the old so-and-so who conducts this column cannot dey that in perhaps one out of every 10 instances the assumption that the indisposition is one or another CRI proves incorrect.

That is to say, it is merely an allergic reaction or congestion and stuffiness due to some chronic trouble such as sinusitis, bronchitis or asthma.

Still it is no longer debatable that in nine cases out of 10 the child or adult who feels or shows any symptom or sign of CRI must be kept or voluntarily remain isolated until the nature of the illness can be determined or the communicable period is over.

Isolation does not mean that one must be confined in the pest house or spirited off to a leper colony.

It means merely that one must keep at least six feet away from other persons unless one is properly masked. In a talk to follow we'll describe in detail mask isolation.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self addressed envelope is enclosed.

Plan Big Daze in Old Tucson

Only 2 Are Permanent Residents but 40,000 Expected for Fiesta

TUCSON, Ariz.—There's a town just 12 miles from this year-round desert resort city that attracts several thousand visitors each week, yet its official population is but two.

The town? Old Tucson, of course.

Located at the base of the ragged, cone-shaped Tucson Mountains, Old Tucson is a genuine, living replica of America's only walled city as it was in 1860 when "drifters, cowpokes, tinhorn gamblers" and Spanish immigrants made up the majority of its population.

The Tucson Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the desert community, acquired the authentic village in 1946 and has devoted over 20,000 free man-hours during the past seven years to restoring its 130 buildings.

The town was built in 1940 for the film, "Arizona," and was abandoned once the movie was finished. Its adobe buildings were slowly sinking back into the desert when the civic organization stepped in.

Over 300,000 persons last year stepped back into time by wandering down the village's dusty streets and board walks, viewing the offerings in the museum, eating fried pies in the former Butterfield stage depot and square dancing in the early evening.

The town is open year-round and is free of charge.

On Nov. 28-29 Old Tucson will take on all the aspects of a boom town on payday. The annual two-day binge is known as "Old Tucson Daze" and most folks leave feeling just that way.

Held from morning till night, the Daze consists of Indan dances, famous gun battles staged by the Tucson Vigilantes, outdoor can-can dances, medicine shows, the robbery of the stage, dancing, a horse show and fireworks.

It's a Western celebration that's unique in that it takes place in the actual atmosphere of pioneer days.

Every man and boy who can muster a beard grows one for the occasion and everyone, including grandma, dons boots, levis and 10-gallon hats for the fiesta. Last year the Daze attracted about 25,000 persons and this year's expectations are for about 40,000.

The population of two? Old Tucson's caretaker-sheriff and his wife make it their permanent home and officially put the town on the map.

One out of every seven employed persons who lived on farms had a non-farm job in 1930; one out of five in 1940; and one out of three in 1949.

2 Babies Perish in Trailer Blaze

Tragedy Hits Family as Fire Destroys Home in Royal Oak Township

By AL LOWMAN
Press Suburban Editor

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP — Numbing tragedy struck the Straight family here Saturday only days before they were to move into their new home.

A flash fire in their temporary trailer home at 27767 Delton snuffed out the lives of their infant daughter and son, Hazel Lee, 14-months, and Robert, 2.

The distraught mother, Mrs. Rosalie Straight, 35, told police she left the children in the trailer while she went next door to her father-in-law's home to borrow some milk. She said she saw flames shooting from the plywood and tarpaper trailer when she returned.

Both children were asleep when she left, Mrs. Straight said.

Police Capt. Robert E. Richardson and Detective Bernard Travnikar said they tried to rescue the infants by ripping a door off the trailer, but "the fire was so intense that we couldn't even get close to the door."

By the time firemen arrived the home was almost burned to the ground.

When firemen entered the trailer, they found the trailer's two-burner kerosene stove on top of Robert. They theorized that the child, in playing, had overturned the stove. Hazel was found dead in her crib.

The fire department received a delayed call on the fire, because the nearest phone was a block away.

The father, Wesley, 30, an employe of Ford Mound road plant, rushed home after receiving the tragic news while deer hunting near Mancelona.

Coming here from Florida three years ago, the Straights had permission from township authorities to live in the trailer pending completion of their home next door.

Two other children, Kenneth Ray, 6 and Melvin Roy, 4, were playing outside at the time and were unhurt.

The Straights are making their home with the father-in-law.

Service for the infants will be tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Hopcroft Funeral Home with burial in Oakview Cemetery.

Maurice Evans says, "L&M Filters are Just What the Doctor Ordered!"

I've been a filter-tip smoker for years. When my doctor suggested that I try 'L&M Filters' I was amazed at the difference between them and the brand I had been smoking. 'L&M Filters' have much more flavor than I have ever enjoyed from any other filter-tip cigarette. I recommend that you read Dr. Darkis' letter below, and then try L&M's yourself."

Extensive investigations of possible filter media were initiated in our laboratory and by our consultants early in 1951. The search continued until a strictly non-mineral material was found that effectively filtered the smoke. This is the material used in "L&M" Filter Tip cigarettes and is a highly purified alpha cellulose. Pure white in color, and used as an additive in certain foods, it is entirely harmless to health.

Alpha cellulose is the purest material now available to filter cigarette smoke. It removes over one-third of the smoke without impairing its satisfying taste. The "L&M" alpha cellulose filter* is specially designed to remove the heavier particles from the smoke stream leaving a truly light smoke.

When you smoke "L&M" cigarettes, made and guaranteed by Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company you draw into your mouth much less smoke with much less nicotine and other nitrogenous constituents.

Allies Approve Russia for Korean Conference, but Only as Belligerent

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied negotiators today approved Russia as a member of the Korean peace conference but as a "full participant" on the Communist side rather than a neutral.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Dean again proposed that Russia attend the meeting as a belligerent after urging the Communists to explain their plan for neutrals to attend the conference—which he termed a "pig in a bag."

"You want me to buy it without being able to examine it," Dean told the Reds in a subcommittee meeting on the composition and site of a Korean peace conference. The Allied-Red preliminary talks are in their fifth week.

Russian participation on the Communist side was approved by the U.N. Aug. 28, when it adopted its plan for the conference — a meeting of the two warring sides only.

The Reds have plumped for a round-table conference, with nonbelligerents attending.

Dean, who represents the United Nations which fought in Korea, told newsmen after Monday's meeting he was "still optimistic" although he felt the talks were moving at a "snail's pace."

He said he told the Reds they were making an "arbitrary demand" by insisting on nonbelligerent participation without making clear exactly what the added nations' roles would be. The Communists have proposed that nonbelligerents attend without a vote on important matters, but have refused to go into details on their plans.

"My questions are very reasonable," he said. "Won't you please study them and reply?"

Heard in a Jewish Temple

Prayer Offers Opportunity for Thanks, Plus Petition

Rabbi Henry Hoschander addressed his congregation on "Prayer" at the regular weekly worship service Friday evening in B'nai Israel synagogue. The rabbi came to the synagogue in August 1952.

Organized in 1933, the cornerstone of the new temple at 143 Oneida Rd. was laid in 1947.

A condensed form of the rabbi's sermon follows.

When the late Chief Rabbi of Great Britain, Rabbi J. H. Hertz was asked, "What in your opinion is Israel's greatest contribution to the children of men?" He replied without hesitation, "Sincere Prayer."

Since antiquity, prayer has reached man's most tragic vicissitudes, his most sublime joys, and his most heartfelt and sincere gratitude to God.

Why does prayer occupy the most exalted pedestal in all faiths and all religions?

Three distinct queries must be dealt with before we can venture a satisfactory reply. They are: What is prayer? Why do we pray? Are prayers worthwhile?

What is prayer? A universal definition is non-existent. Put to a citizen of ancient Athens, it presumably would elicit the following reply: "To pray is to wish." A German would say "To pray is to beg." This encompasses within it a spiritual plea for mercy, and implies submissiveness.

The Hebrew term for prayer is Tefiloh, judgment. Hence prayer indicates an intentional and purposive ambiguity, essential to a lucid comprehension of the entire Jewish religious structure.

True and sincere prayer endeavors not to level God's immutable will to that of man. It seeks rather to synchronize man's desires with those of his Maker.

Through prayer man is given insight into his man-man relations. By means of prayer, he is enabled to determine for himself whether or not his daily actions merit the privilege of meditation and communion with God.

Essentially, prayer demands divine justice. It requests not, neither does it serve as a means wherewith man may circumvent the laws of reward for righteous deeds and punishment for wicked ones by throwing himself at the mercy of the courts. Prayer demands payment in kind, an amalgamation of the inflexible law of compassion and mercy.

RABBI HENRY HOSCHANDER

Why do we pray? Some pray for material wants, while others pray out of habit. Some pray in the brilliant words of Shakespeare, "All lost, to prayer," and still others pray because it presumably eradicates past iniquities.

William James says, "We pray because we cannot help but pray. Life seethes with wants and passions, with regrets and driving ambitions. Man simply turns his wants into petitions, his regrets into confession, and his ambitions into aspirations."

Judaism looks upon prayer as basically composed of three elements: Petition, thanksgiving and identification.

The gifts of life and the wonders of creation are so manifold that only the most ungrateful can refrain from uttering a tribute with every breath.

As important as is food for our bodies, is the feeling of belonging to our souls. In other words, Judaism looks upon prayer as a composite of all the afore mentioned definitions.

Are prayers worthwhile? Are our prayers answered by God on High? The answer is "yes." The devout farmer prays for rain, and if it rains, he considers his prayers answered. If not, he considers his prayers unanswered.

In his disappointment, he seeks and finds other means, such as irrigation, which ultimately has the same effect as rain. Did he not obtain what he prayed for?

Many pray for wealth and remain poor. Perhaps in our hands it would be as fiery coal, more liable to burn than to be of use to us.

Indeed prayer does merit the most exalted pedestal in religion, for only through it can we establish a living contract with God. Life is fashioned by prayer, and prayer is the quintessence of life.

Students Celebrate MSC Selection for Rose Bowl

EAST LANSING (AP)—After a nervous night, Michigan State College was jumping with joy today.

There was a smile on every campus face and every MSC football follower was trying to figure out a way to spend New Year's Day in Pasadena.

The news that an earlier deadlock had been broken and Michigan State was selected for the Rose Bowl was welcomed by a noisy but orderly demonstration on the campus. About 8,000 undergraduates attended a pep rally where they heard Dean of Students Tom King promise that the Thanksgiving holiday would start a day early—on Wednesday—if there were no rioting.

After the rally students snake danced across the campus, singing "California Here We Come" and the "MSC Fight Song."

Cars overloaded with cheering students and screaming coeds toured the campus with horns honking until after midnight.

But both college and East Lansing police reported there was no vandalism and no arrests were made.

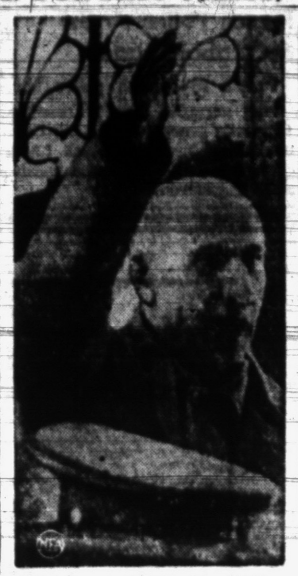
MSC Coach Biggie Munn heard the news at the home of friends where he was partying with his wife.

Munn said earlier that it was the first time in three months that he has been able to go out on a date with his wife.

Munn, beaming with joy, posed for photographers, kissing his wife and smelling a bunch of roses, a foresighted newsman had brought along for the occasion.

MSC President John A. Hannah, who flew back to Washington Sunday afternoon to resume his duties as Assistant Secretary of Defense, left a prepared statement for use in case the Spartans got the bid.

"Everyone at Michigan State is greatly pleased," the statement said in part. "I'm especially happy for the members of the team and coaches. We will do our best to deserve the honor the conference has bestowed upon us."



VOWS "DEATH FAST" — Mohammed Mossadegh, above, former Iranian Premier, bellowed that he would "fast unto death" when the prosecutor at his treason trial ordered him to behave. The prosecutor, who expressed the fear that Mossadegh might actually work himself into a case of heart failure and die, said "then the blame will be put on us."

Disabled Veterans Get New Clubhouse in Day

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UP)—When the Wrambling Wrecks, an organization of disabled war veterans, needed a new clubhouse, more than 200 carpenters, painters, plumbers and construction workers spent a Sunday working on the building.

The 72-foot-long structure was completed before sunset. Business firms contributed the necessary materials, and the building didn't cost the veterans a cent.

New York Area Finally Freed of Smaze-Smog

NEW YORK (UP) — A six-day siege of smog and fog, smaze and haze, was at an end today in the New York City metropolitan area with the Weather Bureau predicting clear skies after early morning rains.

However, a smoke fog continued to hang low over the new England coast.

The Weather Bureau said a cold front from the West was bringing relief to smog-smaze-fog-haze sufferers in the northeastern United States.

Initial relief in the metropolitan area came late yesterday when a brisk southeast breeze thrust aside the smog and smaze, replacing it with a curtain of moist but clean fog. The Weather Bureau said most of the fog had given way to rains early today.

Smaze—haze mixed with normal city smoke—first made throats tingle and eyes smart during the days of misty weather. Smog—fog mixed with smoke—set in Saturday.

One highway death, at Newburgh, N. Y., 60 miles north of New York City, was attributed to the fog yesterday. Another death, on Brooklyn's Belt Parkway last night, was blamed on rains following the fog.

Some 200 tourists making visits to the Statue of Liberty on Bedloe's Island yesterday were stranded for five hours when fog closed in on New York harbor.

More Spy Rings Seem Uncertain

Federal Officials Not Excited at Statement of Probe Counsel

WASHINGTON (UP) — Government security officials expressed skepticism today about a Senate investigator's statement that two Red spy rings may still be operating in federal agencies.

They said there is "no reason to get excited" about the "possibility" cited by Robert Morris, counsel of the Senate internal security subcommittee, in an interview Sunday night.

Morris said there is "reason to believe" that the pattern of Communist infiltration, demonstrated in the 1946 Harry Dexter White case, "still exists."

He noted that Elizabeth Bentley has testified there were four espionage networks active in Washington when she broke with the Reds in 1945.

"So far as we know only two have been exposed," Morris said. "That is not saying there are still two rings in government, but certainly there is a possibility two are still in government."

Morris also said, without elaboration, that the Senate investigators have collected evidence which "very definitely" could lead to prosecution of some persons on espionage charges.

A spokesman said the Justice Department would have "no immediate comment" on Morris' remarks.

Informants strongly implied that these must have been the two additional rings of which Miss Bentley spoke.

World Body on Agriculture Has Food Bank Issue

ROME (UP)—The ancient problem of the seven lean years and seven fat years, harking back to Joseph's interpretation of Pharoah's dream, comes up today for modern settlement.

Joseph proposed a food reserve system—and so do the experts of the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) whose 500 delegates from 68 nations are starting their three-week seventh world conference here.

High on their agenda is General Director Norris E. Dodd's urgent request that they come to a decision whether to found a world food bank to store reserves against famine.

The issue has been buffeted about for three years now, without agreement on how it should be done. Almost all plans so far advanced would cost millions of dollars.

But experts insist it might save countless lives and would provide a useful reservoir into which regional food surpluses could be poured, helping stabilize prices.

Wisconsin has more cheese factories than any other state and for a number of years has ranked first as the leading cheese-producing center of the United States.

Life May Be Fleeting, but It's Certainly Full

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UP)—Life is short at best, but mayflies crowd their short span with activity.

A Missouri conservation bulletin informs its readers that a certain species of mayflies lives only for a day. They mate and die before sunrise — mating occurs only in flight. Their eggs are laid in water.

Five Injured in Auto Accident Saturday

Three persons were admitted and two were treated at Pontiac General Hospital for injuries suffered in an auto accident at Baldwin and Tennyson avenues Saturday night.

Reported in good condition are Richard Ballard, 19, of 121 Henderson St., one of the drivers, who suffered concussion, cuts and bruises; his sister, Marlene, 17, who received a broken leg and cuts; and Margaret Ryan, 16, of 599 Luther St., who sustained a broken arm.

Treated for cuts and bruises were Kenneth LaForm, 19, of 4176 Clintonville Rd., Orion Township, a passenger with the others in Ballard's car, and Robert Smale, 21, of 103 Gladston Pl.

Pontiac police quoted Smale as saying that Ballard made a left turn at the intersection and the two cars collided.

Youth Is Wounded in Target Practice

A 17-year-old Detroit youth was wounded Sunday while target shooting with two companions in West Bloomfield Township, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Harlen Guenthardt of 15730 Freeland was struck in the right arm by a ricocheting bullet which passed through his lower arm and lodged in the upper arm. He was treated at Pontiac General Hospital.

The shot was fired by a companion, William Bailey, 18, of 15730 Freeland, Detroit, at a target on a tree, near Miami street in Keego Harbor, as a third youth, Charles Murphy, 17, of 15091 Coyle, Detroit, looked on.

Identify Woman Killed in Car Mishap

Police have tentatively identified a woman who died Saturday in Pontiac General Hospital from auto accident injuries suffered six hours earlier as Miss Sarah Francis Evon, 21, of 12439 Linwood, Detroit.

Jimmy Fraley, 28, of 3195 Burke, Detroit, driver of the death car, is being held in Oakland County Jail for investigation of negligent homicide, according to Michigan State Trooper Charles Frank of the Pontiac Post.

Fraley was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for a slight concussion suffered when his car went out of control on Benstein Road in Commerce Township.

Police could not positively identify Miss Evon's body earlier. Frank said that investigation to date shows that the address listed for Miss Evon in Detroit does not exist.

Child Classics Produced in 'Musical Sound Books'

By RICHARD KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — One recording development of 1953, that may even have more lasting effects than the doggie in the window, is the release of Musical Sound Books. These are 51 records for "young listeners."

Paul Lazare and Dr. Miller McClintock, who are behind the project, have long felt that most children's records are "comic book music."

So they set about to do something better. Musical Sound Books, the result, are mostly gay classical selections, many written specifically for children.

There are such things as Schumann's "Scenes From Childhood," Bizet's "Children's Games," Saint-Saens' "Carnival of the Animals," and Ravel's "Mother Goose Suite."

Many of the selections run only 30 or 40 seconds, and all are things youngsters can understand and-or enjoy.

As a unit, the Musical Sound Books make up the largest musical library ever recorded at one time.

Begun last January, it was finished by Aug. 1. Many of the selections were recorded in Europe, and many feature the fine young American pianist, Sondra Bianca.

One feature of the set is that they're made on new-fashioned 78-r.p.m. records — new in that they're the first extended play 78s, some running five minutes or so per side.

That technique was chosen with a merciful thought for teachers who have to search through an LP record for a wanted passage.

If you have a child, Musical Sound Books are a fine way to introduce good music.

THE POPULAR SIDE: Mercury coming out with a tribute to Sophie Tucker, called "Fifty Golden Years." Top Mercury artists, like Patti Page, Vic Damone and Georgia Gibbs, will sing on the album.

Sammy Kaye has signed a new vocalist, Cathy Collins.

That weird rhythm that makes Richard Hayes' record, "The Long Black Rifle," so fascinating made by playing a snare drum on top of a kettle drum. Mercury credits Hayes himself with devising the idea.

ON THE CLASSICS: NBC-TV's vastly-moving production, "Victory at Sea," was an emotional experience which left us often thrilled and exhausted.

How great a part the special score created by Richard Rodgers had in creating these moods can be realized by listening to RCA-Victor's record of an orchestral suite from the score, arranged and conducted by Robert Russell Bennett.

It stands by itself as deeply expressive music, and to those who are haunted by the memory of the TV film's magnificent pictures it is a memorable souvenir.

SUREFIRE: "Jingle Bells" (Les Paul and Mary Ford, Capitol).

SLEEPER: "Robe of Calvary" (Jill Corey, Columbia).

GOOD ONES: "Changing Partners" (Kay Starr, Capitol); "Why Does It Have to Be Me?" (Tony Bennett, Columbia; "Mama's Gone, Goodbye" (Pee Wee Hunt, Capitol);

"Native Dancer" (Rusty Draper, Mercury); "Joey's Theme from 'Little Fugitive'" (Eddy Manson, Columbia); "Cool Water" (Billy May, Capitol).

POP ALBUMS: "Christmas With Arthur Godfrey" (Columbia) has Godfrey's gang doing the Yuletide favorites. There's even a song called "The Christmas Song" by a tenor named LaRosa.

There are plenty of laughs on "Anna Russell Sings' Again?" (Columbia) with Miss Russell satirizing opera, women's clubs and Gilbert and Sullivan.

CLASSICAL: Two full-length operas—Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" (RCA-Victor) stars Kirsten Flagstad and Ludwig Suthaus and Stravinsky's "The Rake's Progress" (Columbia) has Hilde Gueden, Blanche Thebom and Eugene Conley in the top roles.

Menahem Pressler plays Shostakovitch's 24 Preludes for the Piano (MGM) and another pianist, Ania Dorfman, performs Chopin's Waltzes, complete (Bluebird).

French Police Arrest Red Labor Leader

PARIS (AP)—French police have finally arrested Benoit Franchon, secretary general of the big Communist-dominated General Labor confederation (CGT) and a fugitive since last March.

The 60-year-old metal worker was nabbed yesterday as he left a meeting hall where, in defiance of the eight-month-old warrant, he presided over a union meeting.

He is charged with endangering the security of the state. His arrest was ordered March 24 after police raids on Red offices and the arrest of several other CGT officials.

More than two and a half million passengers and 110,000 automobiles are carried between Britain and the continent by British Railway's fleet in a year.

GMC Truck Makes Sweeping Changes in '54 Lines

CABS ARE SHORTER—A new series of shortened GMC cab-over-engine highway tractors in the 1954 GMC line give truckers maximum load opportunities under various state overall length laws. This tractor, measuring only 72 inches from bumper-to-back-of-cab (10 inches shorter than previous models) allows the addition of a 24-inch sleeper cab and still keeps the tractor and 35-foot trailer within the 45-foot maximums required by law in some states.

Combine Beauty and New Power

to get away from the drab-like appearance of older models.

It was pointed out that the new styling which gives a bright treatment of chrome or stainless steel bumper, radiator, grille and hood ornament make the trucks look much more like the modern day passenger car.

When you look inside the cab and see the stream-lined new dash board and two tone upholstery complementing the exterior colors you would think you were looking at the interior of a modern car.

Engineers have long worked toward the day that the efficiency of Hydra-Matic could be used in the heavy duty trucks. This year for the first time the 1954 GMC line offers Hydra-Matic to trucks up to four and a half tons.

Carl J. Bock, chief GMC engineer, stated that the Hydra-Matic which automatically provides eight forward speeds took two years to perfect. And now a driver no longer has to "row himself up a hill" with a gear shift lever, double-shifting and double clutching, said Bock.

Automatically the Hydra-Matic selects the proper gear ratio for given speeds, roads and load conditions, thus removing the human element. "Maintenance costs will be cut with the elimination of the clutch," Bock said.

Another 1954 feature on the new GMC truck line is power steering which will be optional equipment on all two ton and up models. It is now possible on the big jobs for a woman or girl to move a truck around without straining and pulling. It will lessen driver fatigue and be welcomed by safety conscious operators because it reduces steering effort by 75 per cent.

According to Woodhouse, the pickup is the truck designed for the whole family. Many small businessmen need a truck which will do double duty — work as a truck and provide transportation for the entire family. Any women would be glad to go shopping, or to church in the new 1954 pickup, or a son to go on a date with his best girl. This new treatment in styling which leads the industry is expected to set a pattern throughout the country.

Foremost in the minds of truck owners is power, and according to General Manager Monaghan, the 1954 model has plenty of horses under the hood. The big horsepower story is the 248 cubic inch GMC engine, which will be standard equipment on all models 100 through 250.

It exceeds the 228 engine and boosts the light line to 125 horsepower, highest in the industry. Offered as an option is an "economy" 248 engine achieved by a carburetor change which gives greater gas mileage while developing 115 horsepower.

Load capacity has been increased in all models from the pickup through stake bodies. The loading height has been lowered on the pickup and the box has a grain-tight, and sand-tight tail gate. Box capacity has been increased 8 to 10 extra cubic feet of cargo, depending on wheelbase. Greater height, width and length has been achieved in the stake bodies while as much as three inches has been dropped from the loading height.

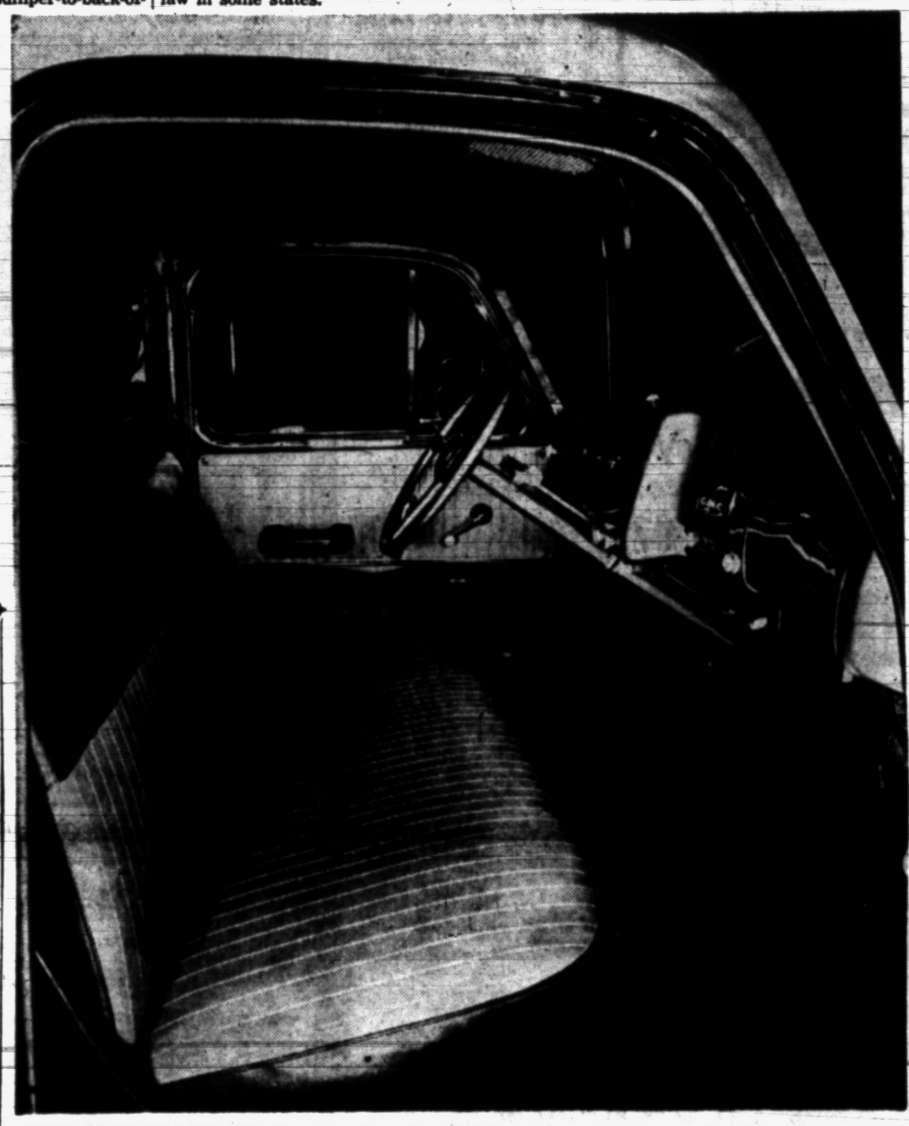
The directional signal on the rear of the trucks will be on all units this year. It is a new type which provides positive self cancelling and flashing light indicator.

Spokesmen for GMC said they will have the only complete cab-over-engine line offering a minimum dimension cab utilizing maximum cubic trailer and semi-trailer space within the varying state length laws. This shorter, 72-inch cab dimension, for instance, will make possible on the west coast two 24 foot trailers or a 22 foot van box with a 28 foot trailer. In the 45 foot states it makes possible all the flexibility of square front 35 foot trailers and also permits sleeper cabs with a 35 foot square front trailer.

To the operator not desiring a sleeper cab the 72 inch dimension on the new GMC offers a potential advantage because any future trend to trailers longer than the 35 feet would place him in the enviable position of being able to adopt longer trailers without expensive cost of tractor changeover.

Certainly this year's powerful sparkling new line of 1954 GMC trucks with five years normal development crowded into one big year should lead the country in truck advancement.

PORTRAIT OF A WORKHORSE—This 125 horsepower engine will be the key to the performance of 1954 GMC pickup trucks. This engine is the most powerful ever placed in this class truck. It also can be equipped with a special GMC economy carburetor which will produce 115 horsepower while giving top economy.



NEW LOOK IN TRUCKS—Interiors for cabs of GMC's 1954 trucks feature the same styling as fine sedans. Maximum window space, panoramic windshield, a handsome new instrument panel and rich two-tone interiors make this pickup a truck which GMC believes farm women will be happy to ride in to church and social events.

Major's Tales Illustrate Crime-Doesn't-Pay Idea

By BILLY ROSE

Yesterday the switchboard girl at my theater announced that Major Timothy Morgan was waiting to see me.

BILLY ROSE

"The way he puts its," she said, "he begs an audience."

"Tell the old hustler we're fresh out of audiences," I said. "Suggest he try the Roxy where 'The Robe' is playing."

A minute later, my door banged open and the self-commissioned Major walked in, 190 pounds of solid flab.

"William, my boy," he said in the sandpaper voice that used to make spun candy unravel and merry-go-rounds run backwards, "I am here to render the American people a service."

"You're about to turn yourself in?" I said.

"Your japeries leave me untouched," said the Mahatma of the Midways. "It so happens, my friend, that petty thievery in these environments has trebled in the past ten years.

"As I see it, it is your duty as a columnist to warn the youth of the nation that crime does not pay—not by mouthing empty platitudes but by citing significant examples.

"By mere coincidence, Sir, I have three splendid for-instances to point up this moral, and I shall be happy to part with them for twenty leaves of the crinkly."

"Pour yourself a drink," I said. "We'll discuss space rates later."

The old bunko and blarney artist downed a five-finger slug of bourbon and daintily dabbed at his lips with a hanky.

"My first sobering saga," he began, "concerns itself with a small-time dastard in Colorado who recently sold a trusting citizen a batch of phony jewelry—diamonds cut from an old ginger-ale bottle.

"Some weeks later this larcenous gent broke into ta house in the suburbs of Denver and scooped up a mess of trinkets in the dark. When he got back to his own diggings, however—"

"He found that he had stolen his own phony jewelry," I said. "That oldie, major, is worth $1.98 in a sellers' market. However, if you shed real tears I might go up to $2."

"Even the great Christy Mathewson had to warm up," said Morgan. "My next example is laid in the quaint French coastal village of St. Nazaire. Not long ago, an enterprising young burglar figured out a way to rob a waterfront pawnshop without being seen by the gendarme on the beat.

"He swam in from a boat, broke through a rear window overlooking the bay, and then started to swim back with the loot in a bag tied to his neck. Halfway to his boat, disaster overtook him.

"A shark—a man-eating shark—suddenly stuck its snout out of the briny and chased him back to the mainland where the gendarme was waiting for him."

"That yarn has possibilities," I said. "Keep pitching."

"My third and final example," said the Major, " is a melancholy and fretful tale. It has to do with a student in a New Jersey college whose parents had sent him several hundred dollars to pay for tuition and board.

The night the money arrived, the youth dropped into an unsavory roadhouse and, after a beer too many, made the mistake of flashing his bank roll.

"As might be expected, sir, this was noticed by three shady characters at the bar, and an hour later when the young man left the roadhouse they offered to drive him back to his college.

On a deserted piece of road the trio roughed the lad up a bit, took his wad and ejected him from the car.

"And, as they drove away, they were certain they wouldn't be apprehended—none of them had ever been arrested and the police had no photographs which might be identified.

"Nevertheless, the following evening when the thieves reached the toll gate of the George Washington Bridge, a squad of police cars was waiting for them."

I took a $20 bill from my wallet and waved it at the major. "It's all yours," I said, "if you'll explain how the cops happened to make the pinch."

"The scalawags didn't know their victim was an art student," said Morgan, folding the twenty and stashing it behind the sweatband of his pearl gray derby.

"As soon as the youth came to his senses, he went to the nearest police station, asked for pad and pencil, and made precise sketches of the holdup men from memory."

"Seems to me I read the story some place," I said. "Incidentally, didn't one of the thieves have a nose like a Balinese sunset?"

"I resent the insinuation," said the major as he stood up to go. "On the night of the theft—and I have the timetable to prove it—I was enroute to Bowling Green, Ky., to visit an ailing uncle."

4 Are Hospitalized After 2 Cars Collide

Four persons were hospitalized Sunday after two autos collided on M-59 at Pontiac Lake Road, according to Michigan Sate Police of the Pontiac Post.

Injured were: Edward Walling, 46, of 2445 Hester Ct., Keego Harbor, who suffered possible elbow fractures, and shoulder injury; Walling's wife, Margaret, 33, treated for a concussion; Ronald Felix, 22, of 23 Riker St., who suffered a concussion and head cuts; and Lawrence Lemon, 17, of 318 W. Parent St., Royal Oak, admited with a concussion, possible skull fracture and back injury.

All are reported in good condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

The crash occurred when Mrs. Walling attempted to turn left onto Pontiac Lake road and was struck from behind by an auto driven by Felix, who was arrested for reckless driving, troopers said.

Parking Charge?

State Parks Falling Apart; Need More Upkeep Cash

LANSING (UP) — A close look at the plight of Michigan's state parks supports the argument that something must be done soon to find more money for them.

Arthur C. Elmer, chief of the conservation Department Parks Division, says he can show documentary proof that Michigan's famous state park system is running down faster than it is being built back up.

While park attendance records are broken every year, the legislature has not been providing enough money to maintain park facilities.

Even with the aid of hundreds of trusty prisoners in conservation-corrections camps, picnic tables are breaking down, charcoal stoves are falling to pieces and buildings are wearing out.

In many places there isn't enough money to do a decent clean-up job after the hordes of weekend picnickers and campers are through.

This year, more than 14,000,000 people, a new record, used Michigan's 57 parks and recreation areas.

For maintenance of this huge system, the legislature provided $1,345,750. For development of new facilities, it provided $285,000.

In 1946, best estimate was that $17,000,000 would be needed to develop the required bath houses, parking lots, and all the other facilities at state parks.

The Conservation Commission has tried three or four times in recent years to get the legislature to permit it to charge admission to the most heavily used parks.

This, the commission figured, would provide a sure source of revenue.

But the legislature rejected the plan. The tradition that Michigan's parks are free to the public is strong.

The commission has now abandoned this approach, and with the help of Elmer and with advice of parks authorities in other states, is proposing other revenue measures.

One of these is a variant of the admission charge. Under it, a parking fee would be charged to each car using parking lots of the most popular parks. Thus a whole carload of kids could go swimming for next to nothing. And pedestrians could use the park free. If you didn't want to pay, you could park your car outside the park.

Another proposal, and the one most favorably regarded in preliminary talks with legislators, is to earmark the proceeds of sales of oil, gas, sand, gravel and other minerals from state lands to park use.

Bill Makes Dogs Pay

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP) — The first draft of the state's anti-rabies bill was worded so that it required the dogs — not their owners — to pay inoculation fees.

Safety Council Says More Officers Needed

Report Reveals Slight Improvements in Pontiac's Traffic Enforcement in '52

(Editor's note: This is another in a series of articles on Pontiac's traffic safety based an local police records and the National Safety Council's report for 1952.)

By JOSEPH K. SFAIR

The National Safety Council's comparison of Pontiac's 1951 and 1952 traffic performance shows that some improvements were made in the city's law enforcement program last year.

For this activity Pontiac was given 64.3 points out of a possible 130, which placed the city in the 47th position from the top among 81 cities with populations ranging from 50,000 to 100,000.

In the previous year Pontiac received 54.4 points and ranked 48 among other cities.

But Pontiac's law enforcement score fell below leading cities last year, the council notes, because: " . . . twenty-two more than the seven traffic officers reported would be required to match strength reported by leading cities."

Although the traffic function was reported to share equal status with major divisions of the police department, the report also stated:

"The lower rank and lower pay allocated to its supervision suggests some lack of realization of the importance of traffic in the overall responsibility and of the administrative ability and authority necessary to cope with it."

A report, submitted by Pontiac Police Department says that 24 hours of training in traffic subjects are given police recruits, and officers already in service are receiving none.

The council recommends that a minimum of 50 hours of formal training in traffic subjects should be given all police recruits and uniformed officers. General duty men should receive at least 25 hours of refresher traffic training every two years.

Specialized two-man accident investigation squads are recommended for best quality accident investigation and reporting, the council further notes.

"Basic 24-hour coverage in a city the size of Pontiac would call for six or seven men on this type duty," the report says.

In Pontiac's report to the council, only two men were listed as performing this function.

Relating to Pontiac, the council says that 95 per cent or more of accidents reported should be investigated at the scene by officers.

"No indication was found in the report (submitted by Pontiac Police) or accompanying exhibits that the principle of selective enforcement was followed in assigning or directing personnel working on traffic," the council notes.

The council report explains that selective enforcement means "analyzing known accident facts, processing and interpreting them . . . to usefully guide enforcement work . . . providing constant and insistent supervision toward action by officers based on these facts . . ."

In connection with selective enforcement, the council states, "Pedestrian enforcement should be begun without further delay in Pontiac."

And "any confusion as to authority of the police to regulate pedestrians should be cleared up promptly by whatever means required," the council adds.

According to past records, the council claims, pedestrians constitute about half of all city traffic deaths. "The great majority are committing illegal or manifestly unsafe acts when killed," the report pointed out.

Scratching Gets the Bird as Nits Drive Solons Nuts

SAN DIEGO (UP)—San Diego's city council has stopped scratching at meetings.

At the suggestion of the county sanitarian, the council room ventilation system was examined. A nest with a dead bird, source of nits that had bothered the city fathers, was removed.

Pictures, Books, Street Names Must Be Voided

High Cost of Purging---Kremlin Style---Runs Into Staggering Figure

Editor's Note: Eugene Lyons, senior editor of The Readers Digest and author of "Assignment in Utopia," tells of the high incidental costs of purging in Russia. His latest book, "Our Secret Allies: The Peoples of Russia," will appear on bookstands today.

By EUGENE LYONS

Come to think of it, political purging, as practised by the crowd in the Kremlin, is a devilishly expensive indulgence. Take the case of Lavrenti Beria, wherever he may be.

LYONS

The cost of eliminating him, you might suppose, would be trifling: his board in some prison cellar and a bullet or two. But you'd be off by tens of millions of rubles. The price in paper alone must be staggering.

For instance, practically all local and regional maps in the Soviet Union have been made not only null and void but treasonable by the fall of Beria. They must be destroyed and replaced, which will cost a pretty kopeck.

Virtually all well-mannered cities and provinces honored Beria when he was riding high by attaching his glamorous name to streets, roads, counties, and other geographical units.

And all of them, of course, lost no time in erasing the name when its disgrace was announced.

The principal square in lovely Tiflis, capital of Soviet Georgia, which was called Beria Square until last July, is now Lenin Square, and the former Beria District in the same city has become the Kalinin district. Multiply that sort of thing by a few thousand and you begin to grasp what havoc has been wrought in geography books, atlases, maps, street signs, directories and the like.

It is the Soviet practice for factories, collective farms, and other institutions to adopt the name of some Kremlin deity, dead or alive. Hundreds of these, perhaps thousands, have in the course of his 15 years as number one policeman and executioner chosen to do homage to Beria.

All of these plants, kolkhozes, schools, libraries, etc. "in the name of Beria" have since July been obliged to shed the title — with a consequent loss in unusable letterheads, documents signs and what not.

But that is only the beginning. Portraits of Beria having been mandatory as interior and exterior decorations, the state shops were well stocked on this item. Now the whole investment has gone down the drain, along with millions of group pictures — of the Politburo, state funerals, other public events — in which Beria appeared. Dito for historical films and newsreels.

Then there are the history books, mountains of them in all schools and universities and libraries. Beria figures in them as "the talented pupil of Lenin, close comrade of Stalin, the best of the best."

Now that he has been duly unmasked as a traitor and agent of Wall Street, these books are invalidated. No doubt they are being scrapped (sometimes along with their authors), while revised versions are being printed.

The most widely circulated Soviet book has been the "Short History of the Communist Party", written under the loving care of the late Stalin himself. At least fifty million copies are in print, in all the languages of polyglot Russia.

But Beria, alas, is one of the heroes of this volume, so the fifty million copies, we may be sure, are going up in smoke.

Perhaps the most costly single item, when the expenses of this one purging are toted up, will be the revisions in the famous Soviet Encyclopedia.

The first edition of this grandiose work, which took 22 years to produce, was turned into a shambles even before its completion. Every time a prominent member of the hierarchy was liquidated, or the policy line on some vital subject was changed, the volumes containing the newly heretical names and ideas had to be consigned to the flames.

Of the 14 responsible editors, 13 were "liquidated" before the final volume was off the press.

A few years ago a new edition was therefore undertaken, cleansed of error. Of its projected 50 volumes, 18 have already been published. Volume 5, as hard luck would have it, carries a flamboyant portrait of Beria as its frontispiece! And the article devoted to his career is sticky with honeyed words. Beria figures also in other articles in other volumes.

In short, a large part of the new edition of the Encyclopedia can now be marked off as total loss. Fortunately the letter "M" has not yet been reached. In the interests of economy the Kremlin would do well to skip the "M" until the fate of Malenkov and Molotov is settled.

Purging, I repeat, is an expensive business. Too expensive for money conscious capitalist nations.

Audience Rustles for Flashlights in Power Failure

CHICAGO (AP)—The audience kept alive "the show must go on" tradition Saturday night when a power failure blacked out the Playwrights Theater Club's production of "The Fields of Malfi."

Producer-writer David Shepherd was urged not to give up by a playgoer who volunteered to get some flashlights. Others of the audience of 160 in the small auditorium agreed and scoured the near North Side neighborhood for flashlights and candles.

The play proceeded with candles for footlights and flashlights as spotlights.

64 Tax Offices Are 'Too Many'

Probers Would Cull Out Some of New District Collection Points

WASHINGTON (AP) — House tax fraud investigators, tacitly admitting they expect political opposition, have recommended eliminating some of the 64 federal district tax collection offices.

The House Ways and Means subcommittee, in a third of a series of reports yesterday, said the recent reorganization of the Internal Revenue Service was "a major accomplishment."

But it said the plan, submitted by then President Truman in 1951 when tax scandals shook the bureau, was "evidently drafted in haste." As a result there were imperfections, it said, adding: "There is little need for 64 such offices."

The reorganization, approved in 1952, decentralized authority, abolished the politically appointed offices of revenue collector and created nonpolitical offices of district collector under 17 regional administrators—later reduced to nine in the Eisenhower administration.

Congressional approval came after many members of Congress raised objections to any step which would deprive them of a local revenue headquarters. There is at least one district collection office in each state, with some states having several.

Doomed Peddler Claims 15 Killings in Past Years

YAMAGATA, Japan (AP) — A 27-year-old peddler, sentenced to death for strangling two women, today told police he had killed 15—mostly prostitutes—in the past seven years, Kyodo news service reported.

The peddler, Genzo Kurita, has appealed the conviction and his execution has been stayed pending a decision.

China-North Korea Agreements Hinted

TOKYO (AP)—The Communist Peiping radio indicated today that North Korea and Communist China have reached economic and military agreements after conferences in the Chinese capital.

The Red radio said North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and important members of his Cabinet attended a banquet in Peiping yesterday.

Neither of China's two top leaders—Premier Chou En-lai and Chairman Mao Tse-tung—was present, but Vice Premier Kuo Mo Jo attended.

Peiping quoted Kuo as saying: "The Chinese people will give their wholehearted support to the Korean people in the restoration and reconstruction of their national economy."

No details of any agreement were broadcast.

YORK, N. Y. (AP)—Harry Kelley's house caught fire yesterday.

The wind was coming from the wrong direction and volunteers in some parts of the village couldn't hear the siren on the fire hall. But the sensitive ears of neighborhood dogs heard it.

The pups started yapping and carrying on.

That was the call to duty for the firemen. They hurried to the Kelley house and doused the flames.

Unusual? Naw, say the firemen. They often have to depend on the dogs when the wind is wrong.

Rep. Shafer to Fight Army, AF Liquor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Shafer (R-Mich) says the Pentagon made a "bureaucratic blunder" when it recently approved the sale of bottled liquor on Army and Air Force posts.

He said in a statement yesterday he intends to try, during the session of Congress starting in January, to put the situation back where it was: no liquor sales on military posts, but permission for officers to drink in their clubs the liquor they bought elsewhere.

In Michigan, Shafer said, the military escapes a 44 per cent state markup and sales tax by buying directly from distillers instead of through state-controlled stores.

Versatile Duck

LAKE ORION (UP)—Two days after a 4½-month-old White Peking duck owned by Mrs. Alvin Gallmeyer started her egg-producting career by laying a double-yolked egg, it laid a double egg, two complete eggs linked together by a segment of calcified shell.

Bette Davis, Gary Merrill Move to Maine

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The chamber of commerce won't like this, but Bette Davis and Gary Merrill have moved from the sunny shores of California to the rock-bound coast of Maine.

The acting couple now reside in Portland, Maine, which is just about as far from Hollywood as you can get and still remain in the Continental United States. It's not because they hate the film town. It's the climate.

"Principally we did it for the children," explained Merrill, who is here for "Witness to Murder" with Barbara Stanwyck and George Sanders.

"Both Bette and I love a change of seasons. And we think a cold winter is good for kids. It presents challenges to them, if only in such things as putting on galoshes before they go out to play."

Bette and Gary were Californian only by professional necessity. Both were born and reared in New England, she in Lowell, Mass., and he in Hartford, Conn. I asked how they happened to settle in Portland.

"We went up to Maine last summer, following Bette's operation, fell in love with the country and decided to stay.

"It's really ideal living. We're on the ocean, but only 15 minutes from Portland, the biggest city in Maine. You can take the overnight train to New York or get there in 99 minutes via airplane.

"We have come to know some great people there—doctors, lawyers and so forth. No show people at all.

He said Bette is getting back in the pink again. Earlier this year she was operated on for osteomyelitis of the jaw. Merrill reported that she had no feeling around the jaw after the operation, but it is gradually returning.

"Bette probably will be out here in Hollywood after the first of the year," he added. "She is supposed to do Queen Elizabeth for Fox.

Merrill admitted that their new design for living is an experiment which depends on how their acting fortunes go. They can come out here for occasional movies and do more frequent TV work in New York. The only thing their Maine residence would preclude is stage work.

"I don't think Bette wants to do another show," Merrill said. She wants to spend more time with the family. You don't get much time to see the kids when you're doing a show."
wants to spend more time with the family. You don't get much time to see the kids when you're doing a show."

The Merrill family includes Barbara Sherry, 6½, (She is called B. D.) and two adopted children, Margo, 3, and Mike, 1.

Scarf Over Man's Face Brings Bandit Alarm

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP) — An evening stroller noticed a man wearing a scarf over the lower part of his face stalking around Sal's Service Station last night.

He called police and five squad cars bore down on the station. When they got there the "bandit" unmasked himself and announced he was Charles Harrison, 16, the attendant.

The mask? Well, Harrison had a toothache and when the damp smog began to bother him today he tied his scarf around his jaw.

Bob Considine Says:

DC7 Super Constellation Last Big Piston Airliners

LOS ANGELES (INS)—Flew out here in a plane that will be remembered a few hundred years hence with the Wright brothers' motored kite of 50 years previously.

Flew out in American Airline's first DC7, built specifically for nonstop seven or eight hour travel between our coasts. United, National, Eastern, Chicago-Southern, Delta and probably Braniff will soon have this colossal Douglas flying machine, as will several overseas carriers including the native-born Panagra.

The DC7's counterpart, Lockheed's Super-Constellation, TWA's competitive answer, is coming along with the same engine plants that boosted our group of newspaper, radio and TV people from New York to Los Angeles on American's swift preview flight.

This Douglas plane is the last big ship to be propelled by engines which depend for power on what is essentially the principal employed by the Wrights in their primitive craft. Over-simply, the Wright's primitive 12-horsepower engine and the DC7's four Wright R-3350 turbo-compounds which develop 3,250-horsepower each on take-off, are blood brothers. The engineering approach is identical. A spark plug ignites gas vapor, causing an internal combustion that pushes down a piston, which in turn causes a propellor to revolve.

The step beyond this involves a wholly different principal, as different as a flung arrow and an explosively catapulted pellet. We will go from the "7" to jets.

Boeing has a 4-engine jet airliner coming up which it will call the 707. Its father is not an airliner. Its father is the B47, which was the most startling departure from everything else that had ever been made in the way of a large-sized plane. The 707 will carry from 80 to 121 passengers, according to a preview of it in the November 2 issue of "American Aviation," and cruise at 500 mph. Boeing expects to have the first 707 ready in nine months, but has not yet set a price on the model. A guess would be $4,000,000 per plane, at the start.

The 707's four jets will each develop the equivalent of 10,000 horsepower, and the plane will carry 13,680 gallons of fuel. The shortest flight it can make without causing its company to go bankrupt will be about 1,200 miles. In time there is certain to be jet transport between such cities as New York and Chicago, which are not separated by much more than half that distance, as the old crow flies.

In the meantime, the DC7 and the Connie with the turbo-compounds will suffice, and the U. S. aviation industry will stay in lively competition with the British. The turbo-compound engine translates exhaust gasses into crankshaft power, adding about 20 per cent to the muscle of the power plant. The system was first used in the Air Force and has only recently been released for commercial use.

The "7" has a cruising speed of 365 and a top speed of 410, which most American plane builders feel is fast enough until the great conversion to pure jet.

Anyway, this is the ultimate in the type of commercial airliner with which we are all familiar.

Why the big swing is to Ford!

More than a million buyers decided on Ford this year... because Ford's "worth more when you buy it ... returns more of its worth when you sell it!"

They like it in traffic!

They're swinging to Ford for good reason. Only Ford in its field offers you a choice of V-8 or Six, with the smooth, agile performance you need for getting around in today's kind of traffic. You get a choice of three great drives ... conventional, fuel-saving Overdrive or Fordomatic, the only automatic in Ford's field with an automatic intermediate gear for extra GO. You get the full visibility you want, too ... the most in Ford's field.

They like it in the hills!

Both V-8 and Six give you hill-flattening GO on "regular," thanks to the Automatic Power Pilot. And Master-Guide power steering, available on all V-8's, makes turning up to 75% easier yet retains the natural "feel" of steering on the straightaway.

They like it for ride, for room, and for just plain good looks!

Front end road shock alone is reduced up to 80%! Ford's wide seats accommodate six, while the trunk is a whole suitcase bigger. And Ford's good looks speak for themselves.

Skin Care Outlined for Reducing Club

"Simplified Care of the Skin" was the subject of a lecture by Mrs. Edythe McCulloch recently when members of Fashion Your Figure Club met at Pontiac High School.

Mrs. McCulloch advised thorough, vigorous cleansing with soap and water and creams, and she advised the women to "make down" rather than make up for the most attractive appearance.

She also advised wearing gloves whenever detergents are used in laundry and housecleaning.

The next club meeting will be Dec. 3 in Pontiac High School.

Art of Sculpture Affects Jewelry

Some of the more intriguing precious jewelry designs now being shown have been influenced not only by the 3-D vogue but by the pure art of sculpture.

One creative stylist, who pioneered in the use of three-dimensional jewelry, now is introducing pendant discs in palladium and gold on which are beautifully-sculptured scenes or objects in nature.

The inspiration to inject art into his designs harks back to the great artist in jewelry, Benvenuto Cellini, who added beauty to the gems and precious metals with his exquisite craftsmanship.

A standout among the pendant discs is a realistic woodland scene sculptured in brilliant white palladium against a gold background.

Many Drivers Prefer to Motor in the Darkness

Throwing the light of common sense on your after-dark driving can eliminate many of the hazards.

Many experienced motorists actually prefer to drive after dark. They argue that fewer accidents occur at nighttime than during the day.

What's more, they claim the night driver, aware that his range of vision is shortened, doesn't take as many foolish chances. Exponents of nighttime driving also point out that twilight or after-dark motoring is more restful on jangled nerves because usually less traffic is encountered.

Special nighttime bifocals or 3-D lenses aren't necessary for nighttime driving—even if they existed—but a few simple precautions are.

Have your head and tail lights carefully checked. Glaring headlights are a hazard to other motorists; dim lights, a danger to you.

Be sure your car is in good working order because breakdowns are more serious after dark. Remember to drive more slowly because your distance vision isn't as good.

Don't be sparing with your headlight dimmer. If you'll practice highway etiquette and dim your lights, chances are the approaching motorist will follow suit.

Last, but probably most important, be sure of your directions. It's easy to lose your way after dark when highway signs are harder to see.

Many Fans Trek to U. of M. for Last Football Game

Recently returning from a delightful trip to Mexico were the Philip Dormans of West Walton boulevard.

They made their headquarters at Tampico from which they made sightseeing trips and did a considerable amount of deep sea fishing. The Dormans crossed the border into Texas where they continued their deep sea fishing.

A highpoint was the visit to Padre Island, a new development for tourists. From Texas, the Dormans stopped in New Orleans where they visited the French quarter before making the trek home.

Paris Sets New Trends in Jewelry

Insect Ornaments Made With Built-in Movement

NEW YORK — Two style trends now being highlighted in Paris are: Jewelry that can be converted to many uses, and jeweled insects with built-in motion, according to reports from the French capital.

In the opinion of one leading Parisian designer, an ensemble of convertible diamond jewelry in brilliant white platinum or palladium is a classic and basic ornament to complement today's emphasis on fashion elegance.

The set consists of a platinum necklace, a pair of palladium earclips shaped like daisies and two tassel-like ornaments of dangling diamonds.

The necklace becomes a bracelet by winding it twice around the wrist. Worn as a necklace it can be trimmed with the daisies and tassels and emerges as a dazzling "conversation piece."

The simply styled, daisy-shaped earclips in palladium, newest of the precious jewelry metals, can also be converted with the tassels into long, drooping earrings for evening wear.

Paris designers are reported to be making greater use of palladium in the fashionably-new, large styles featuring precious gems. Palladium is lighter than its twin sister, platinum, an important consideration in designing heavy earclips, large pins worn on delicate dress fabric and tiered necklaces.

A bee design in gold has a mechanism enabling it to move all four wings at the same time. In the morning a butterfly clip can be worn with its wings up and ready to fly, while the wings can be folded and relaxed at night.

For luxury in eyeglasses, a new pair of spectacles comes studded with diamonds and sapphires. The frame, holding the glasses from the upper side only, is curved in the shape of the eyebrows and is made of palladium for lightweight.

The Empire look is given full play by John Moore in this theater costume of gleaming black broadcloth. A Spencer jacket, cut like a vest, buttons snugly over a princess sheath. Trick twist is the satin dress collar buttoning over the jacket via a tab. Lilly Dach's little hat and evening bag compact glisten with pale amber-lighted jewels.

Couple Wed in Lutheran Ceremony

Charles Harmons Travel to Ft. Knox, Kentucky

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday evening in the Lutheran Church of the Ascension, Barbara Jean Billingsley, daughter of the Earl Billingsleys of Peach street, became the bride of Charles Holland Harmon Jr.

He is the son of the Charles H. Harmons of West Iroquois road.

The bride's white Chantilly lace floor-length gown was accented with pleated nylon tulle over satin. The bodice featured an off-the-shoulder neckline with an illusion yoke and full-length sleeves coming to points at the wrists.

A double ruffle of pleated nylon tulle formed a bustle effect in the back. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of white orchids.

Mrs. Donald McCandless, the bride's sister, was matron of honor. She wore a ballerina-length gown of dusty rose iridescent taffeta and carried a semi-cascade bouquet of pink daisy-type chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Kenneth White and Susan Boyer were the other attendants. Their gowns were identical to the honor matron's and they carried matching bouquets.

Paul Moros was best man and Richard and Lawrence Heitsch seated the guests.

A rose beige dress of lace over taffeta in cocktail length was chosen by Mrs. Billingsley for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was composed of pink cypripedium orchids.

The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of blue lace over taffeta with a corsage of cypripedium orchids.

After a reception in the church parlors, the bride changed to a powder blue knit dress trimmed with a jeweled scarf. She wore black accessories and the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The newlyweds traveled to Ft. Knox, Ky., where the bridegroom is stationed.

You Can Cater Own Wedding

If you can give any kind of a party where you live, then you can certainly cater your own wedding—just you and your family, your sister or your roommate.

It isn't necessary to be a "Cordon Bleu" or even a cook. You don't need a lot of equipment. In fact, you don't even need much in the way of a kitchen.

As with any party, there are a few guide notes which will make life, and service, smooth and easy.

1. Plan your menu well ahead of time.
2. Make lists—all kinds of lists, not only of groceries, but silver, candles, linens, napkins, flowers, plates and glasses.
3. Lean on the help of the food processors and also perhaps, on the skills of local cake and ice cream makers.
4. Arrange the menu so that everything in the way of real cooking can be done at least a day ahead of time.

The Pinks Have It

Spring Will Be Too Rosy

NEW YORK (INS) — The future of fashion is distressingly rosy!

News from Paris indicates that there are at least 12 shades of pink which are going to be high fashion for next spring, far outglowing any other colors, except, perhaps, navy blue which is always a dark horse hue that sneaks back in style 'long about Easter.

Well, imagine what problems this rosy picture is going to offer. Lady buys pink dress, and must carry it all over town till she finds the pink hat that matches it.

Or she buys a mauvey pair of gloves which she can't resist (that's the trouble with a strongly pastel season — you can't resist an off-color and then you're stuck with it). Will she ever find another accessory to match exactly? No — she'll have to wear all black with mauvey gloves and look like winter with a bare whiff of springtime.

According to the Paris reports, the pinks will range from light bluish to brilliant cerise, circus pink shades. They'll be used in all sorts of prints and accessories.

Pretty. But problematical.

The fluid draping quality of exquisite chiffon broadcloth shows off to rare advantage in this sherbet pink cocktail dress from Larry Aldrich. An intricate neckline treatment puts cowl folds on the shoulders, then drapes across the bosom to play up an Empire feeling.

No-Slip Wax Paper

To avoid sliding and wrinkling when using waxed paper to roll out pie crusts, wet the surface of your work table and place the waxed side down. The paper will stick to the damp surface.

Bandsmen From City End Season

Pontiacers Make Final Appearance on UM Field

By VIRGINIA VOSS

ANN ARBOR — Tom Course and Jack Bittle of Pontiac made their final appearances on the playing field for this season in the UM Band's performances at the Ohio State-Michigan game Saturday along with their 140-odd fellow bandsmen.

But football is only half of the activities picture in Ann Arbor. Plans for post-football season activities are being made in several organization—one of them being the girls' swimming club, "Michifish."

Three students from Pontiac are on the Michifish lineup: Janet Wasserberger, Jean Irwin and Nonette Gunther. All three are former members of Pontiac High School's Dolphin Club.

Mary Holmes, a sophomore from Birmingham, is currently rehearsing her part in an annual campus feature "Sophomore Cabaret." A member of the singing-dancing floorshow entitled "Ghosts Are My Lobby," Mary will be on stage Dec. 4 and 5.

Sophia Fedonis, a Music School student from Pontiac, has made her singing talent a basis for both curricular and extra-curricular activities on campus.

As a member of the Gilbert and Sullivan Society, Sophia recently took a leading role in the society's production of "Patience."

Wedding Gowns Are Preserved in Sealed Boxes

Tradition and sentiment will dictate keeping your wedding gown, first as a symbol of the happiest day of your life, secondly for other brides — perhaps your own daughter or a younger sister.

One way to keep your wedding dress beautiful as it is now is to preserve it by a process developed by Heirloom Laboratories and available at almost 400 stores.

Soon after your wedding bring your dress to one of these stores It is insured from the time you turn it over until it is returned.

The process by which the dress is restored and preserved has an unconditional guarantee that lasts as long as the special plastic and metal packing box is not opened.

One of the nicest features of the service is the thought and understanding that go into it. The package, for instance, has a special plastic window so that you can take a peek at your gown from time to time.

Installation Is Held by Gordon WCTU

Mrs. Bertha Lock installed the new officers of Anna Gordon Unit WCTU, when the group met Thursday at First Baptist Church.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Mary Carles, and a duet was performed by Mrs. Mable Wiser and Mrs. Carles, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Mason.

Mrs. Joseph Green of Royal Oak, new 18th District president, spoke on the growth of the organization, especially among the Youth Temperance Council.

Mrs. Bertha Lewis reported on the state convention held recently in Alpena, and Mrs. George Perkins gave a brief talk preceding several musical selections.

A Christmas party was planned for Dec. 17 at the church, and Mrs. Frank Clemens closed the meeting with a prayer.

Sheaths Demand Good Posture

The sheath clinging to your shape like a second skin won't tolerate a slump. Wear your curves in the proper places for the new princess styles.

Want your chest to look fuller? Pull your shoulders wide. Try this, and see if sloped, rounded shoulders, hollow chest, and even a hump on the back of the neck don't vanish like goblins at sunrise.

Like to whittle down your waistline? Pull up the slack in your body, tuck in your abdomen and see if hips don't also look more svelte when they ride in, not out.

When you walk, keep your weight evenly balanced over the arches of your feet, and hold yourself erect.

The best posture training a girl can have are princess dresses and enough shop windows along the streets to show her how she looks in them.

Mirrors Coming Back Into Style for Home Decor

Look for mirros to leap back into the home decoration spotlight this winter.

That's the advice of interior decorators who maintain that home fashions are veering away from stark simplicity toward "practical elegance."

The accent on elegance naturally will bring about greater use of mirrors to reflect the beauty of a room setting.

Decorators in the nation's leading department stores and furniture stores apparently have the same view, inasmuch as many in key cities will highlight mirrors in special displays reflecting new trends in furnishings.

Part of the movement, it is pointed out, is due to the design innovations in mirrors, themselves. Venetian mirrors as well as those in the various period patterns such as Regency, Queen Anne and Duncan Phyfe still are extremely popular, but mirror frames also are getting a new look through the use of brass, wrought iron, tile and moldings of plastic woods.

As for the trend towards "practical elegance," mirrors fit naturally into that scheme, since they create spaciousness and change the shape, the size, the width and height of rooms, bringing light to dark corners, interest to dull walls supplying color, fashion, style and the atmosphere of hominess and coziness to any room.

A teakettle of water kept on the stove will be useful for small cooking needs and save many a step to the sink.

To add extra flavor to cole slaw, mix savory seeds — celery, caraway, or mustard — with the shredded cabbage and dressing.

Girl's Interference in Boy's Romance Would Do More Damage Than Good

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'm a freshman in high school, and I like this boy enormously, but he is going with another girl, not knowing that she doesn't like him and is going with someone else. So please help me!"

You'd like to have him for yourself, eh? You figure that if he only knew you liked him so much he'd stop all this foolishness with that other girl, and beat a path to your door. And what you want is a suggestion for breaking up his present combine.

Well, some very interested friend, who thinks he ought to know for his own good, might tell him that the girl he's going with is stepping out on him.

That's tattletaleing of the most malicious sort, of course. And it might cause a rumpus — but not exactly the kind that will be of any help to you.

'Cause he might know all about it already. He might consider it none of his business. He may have that sort of arrangement with that particular girl. They may not consider themselves as going steady, so she has a right to date other boys.

And how can anyone possibly know whether she likes him or not? If somebody said so, it's not necessarily true. If she said herself that she didn't like him, she might have had a method in her madness.

Anyway, how she feels about him is not your concern. You want the boy to like you regardless of the way his present dating situation looks to you and everybody else.

Publicizing what you consider an unfortunate tieup on his part won't do you much good. But publicizing to him your friendly interest in him might do it.

Without saying anything to anybody about it, make every effort to see him, talk with him, make a good impression on him. The impact of your personality on him will get you nearer your wish than any amount of outsiders' talk.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I like Peter and I hope he likes me too. We smile and talk to each other, but that's all.

"He hasn't told anyone he liked me, so I haven't told anyone how I feel about him either, because I'm afraid he doesn't like me. How can I find out?"

Boys just don't bother with girls they think are poisonous. And they don't necessarily broadcast to all their pals the conditions of their emotions. In fact, lots of boys deliberately tell fibs so they can guard their secrets preciously.

You don't really need anyone else's say-so to interpret Peter's smiles and friendliness. He's predisposed, at least. And he could be persuaded to go a bit farther, if you encourage him with real interest.

Let him see that you're more attracted to him than to any of the other boys. He can draw his own conclusions. If he responds with more attention, you'll have the answer to your question.

Tells Recipe for Prize Tea Rings

Mrs. Ed Sadler's Treat Is Excellent at Holiday Time

Pontiac Press Food Editor

One of the winners in a recent baking contest held by a suburban church was Mrs. Ed Sadler Jr. She is sharing with us her recipe for the winning entry, Swedish Tea Ring.

This coffee cake is an excellent one to have in the house around holiday time.

Mrs. Sadler enjoys her career of homemaking. Her two children keep her busy, but she manages to find time to do some church work.

SWEDISH TEA RING
By Mrs. Ed Sadler Jr.

2 cups of milk scalded
¼ pound butter or margarine
¾ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt (scant)
1 cake compressed yeast or 1 package yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
2 eggs, beaten
7½ to 8 cups sifted flour
Butter, cinnamon and sugar for filling
Powdered sugar icing
Pecan halves
Maraschino cherries

Pour scalded milk over butter or oleo. Add sugar and salt, mix well. When cool, add the yeast that has been dissolved in the warm water. Add the beaten eggs and the flour.

Let rise until double. Cut down with a knife and let rise again. Divide into two parts. Roll half of the dough into a rectangle.

Spread the dough with butter and sprinkle with cinnamon and brown or white sugar. Roll up like a jelly roll. Pinch edges of dough together firmly and place on greased cookie sheet.

Form the roll into a circle, pinching ends together firmly. With floured scissors, cut the dough into one-inch strips that do not quite go across the entire roll. Twist these strips so that one side lays flat against the baking pan. Let each strip rest on the one beside it.

Let rise about one hour or until it is half again as large. Bake at 375 degrees 20 to 30 minutes or until it is golden brown.

Ice immediately after removing from the oven. Decorate with pecan halves and drained maraschino cherries.

This recipe makes two large tea rings. Chopped nutmeats or raisins may be placed on the dough before it is rolled up.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Mexico (Missouri, That Is) Recalls Happy Memories

"Do you remember Mexico, Mo.?" queries Ruth Ann Settle from San Diego, Calif., after reading the column on my mother's cooking. "I operated a beauty shop in Mexico when you worked on the Ledger. You were a customer of mine and I remember your little tiff with the Baptist preacher. You both ate at Miss Belle Kelly's."

MISS McBRIDE

Do I remember Mexico, Mo.? I'd almost forgotten the Baptist preacher. And the tiff? No, I can't recall that, but I couldn't forget Miss Belle's cornbread and custard pie. And as long as I live I shall remember with special affection Mexico, Mo., because it was there that for the only time in my life I became a Day.

Your letter couldn't have arrived at a more appropriate time, either, Ruth Ann, for it was on Nov. 22, 1940, that Gov. Lloyd Stark decreed Mary Margaret McBride Day to be celebrated in Mexico and I rode down Main street perched high on an open car like visiting royalty, with a police guard, screeching sirens and military escort—cadets of assorted sizes from Missouri Military Academy.

The high school brass band in scarlet uniforms led the procession. There were placards on every lamppost saying "Welcome Mary Margaret, Home Town Girl," and the climax came when we passed under an arch with my name in electric lights.

At my old desk in Mitchell White's Mexico Ledger office where I had so often battled with leads that refused to jell I pounded out the story of my own arrival.

And after that they gave me a dinner—with 5-year-old Missouri ham and red gravy, fried catfish, sorghum molasses on cornbread, damson, peach and cherry preserves, salt-rising bread, hot biscuits, new peas in cream, mustard greens cooked with side meat, mashed turnips, mashed white potatoes, sweet potatoes with marshmallows, caramel cake, apple pie.

Gov. Stark and I toasted each other, I remember, in country buttermilk, the very same kind I used to pour from the cedar churn in our old summer kitchen on the farm.

Neighbors, friends and relatives had come from all over Missouri. One unhappy note: I momentarily failed to recognize an old beau in the line of greeters and I remember his wife laughed sardonically.

Just as I was wiggling my toes, the governor arrived. Frantically, I struggled to get my shoes on again. No use, my feet had swollen.

His eyes twinkled. "I wish I could do that," he said and sounded wistful. I knew he was thinking back, just as I was, to a Missouri orchard, a barefooted child munching green apples and the cool feeling of soft green grass on feet covered with stone bruises and chigger bites.

Of course I remember Mexico, Ruth Ann Settle. I spent the proudest day of my whole life there.

Post-Nuptial Party Fetes Recent Bride

More than thirty friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mrs. Herman Charboneau recently to honor her daughter, Mrs. Warren Robertoy, with a post-nuptial shower.

The bride is the former Shirley Charboneau, who married Mr. Robertoy Oct. 24 in Ohio. The Herman Charboneaus of South Josephine avenue and the Byron A. Robertoys of East Rutgers avenue are their parents.

Clogged-Up Water Pipes Curtail Flow

By HUBBARD COBB

If you don't believe that the human being is a pretty rugged article, take a look at the inside of some water pipes and see what the water that humans can thrive on will do to something as delicate as galvanized iron.

If the pipes have been in place for any great length of time the interior may be heavily coated either with rust or with mineral deposit.

This restriction in the size of the pipe obviously means that less water can flow through it, and this means that less water will flow out of the faucet at the end of the pipe.

A situation like this is not easily solved. The best remedy, of course, is to replace the existing lines with copper tube which can be run through the walls and ceilings with a minimum of fuss and bother.

The existing lines are left in place when possible, for to remove them would require ripping away sections of both floor and walls.

Needless to say, installing a new plumbing system of copper tubing is going to cost someone some money and that someone will doubtless be you.

Another solution to clogged water pipes that seems to give pretty fair results for awhile is to replace the fittings, elbows, bends and tees.

Seems that these fittings become clogged up faster than the straight runs of pipe, and if new ones are installed you'll get some temporary relief.

Sometimes it's possible to pull a small chain through a length of pipe that is rusted and the chain will break up the deposits of rust.

Babysitter Taken Home if Very Late

If Parents Return Early, She Can Go by Herself

By EMILY POST

A mother asks: "When my husband and I go out for the evening and have a babysitter come in to stay with the children, is it necessary for my husband to drive her home at the end of the evening?

"I don't think it is, but a friend tells me that her husband always drives their sitter home and that it is improper to let her go home alone. I would very much appreciate hearing from you about this."

Answer: It would depend upon where she lives and how late you keep her up. If you return home fairly early, she can go home by herself. But if it is very late at night, your husband should drive her home.

Dear Mrs. Post: I plan on going on a tour shortly and would appreciate your help on several questions. (1) When I arrive at a hotel and the doorman takes my suit case from the taxi to the desk, do I tip him or just the bellboy who carries my bags to the room?

(2) What is the customary tip given to a bellboy? (3) A friend tells me that it is permissible on an overnight train journey to take off my shoes and put on slippers and also change into a housecoat. Is this correct?

Answer: (1) Very definitely you doorman, too, if he carries your doorman, too, f he carries your bags any distance. Nothing is given to him if he just puts your bags on the sidewalk.

(2) If your bags are many or very heavy, the bellboy is given 50 cents; otherwise 25 cents is sufficient.

(3) If the slippers and house coat are both inconspicuous, it would be quite all right, but not something that would attract attention.

Dear Mrs. Post: For my birthday I had a lovely red dinner cloth given to me. Can red be used all year round or would its use be limited only to the Christmas season?

Answer: It's use is not limited to any particular season as long as it looks well with your other appointments.

Get Most From Evening Gown

NEW YORK (UP) — Even if you get into an evening dress only a few times a season, it is the one garment in the wardrobe supposed to turn you into a Cinderella for a night.

To make sure you get your money's worth in glamor, designer Ceil Chapman, a specialist in formal wear, gives some pointers in shopping for a special dress.

The short evening dress is proper this season but the long evening skirt also has its place in fashion.

"Unless your legs and ankles are your best features," she said, "select the long skirt."

Both the sheath and bouffant skirted evening clothes are good style, but Miss Chapman recommended the slim lines for the woman on the short side. The sleeker, heavier fabrics are more slenderizing than the nets and laces.

Deserted Mother of Three Helps Herself by Aiding Others With Same Trouble

By ANNE HEYWOOD

The longer I live, and the more life stories I hear, the more aware I am that the blow which will send one woman into a tailspin of tears and bitterness, will, to another, be just a new opportunity for achievement.

Take, for example, Theresa H.

Theresa married a no-good man. He never kept a job. He was an alcoholic. In between drinking jags, he gambled with whatever money he could get his hands on.

And finally, he walked out on Theresa, leaving her with three babies under five years of age.

Most girls would have gone home to the family, if any, and spent the rest of their lives being "that poor dear thing," with a good excuse for bitterness and cynicism forever. But not Theresa.

"I sat down and figured things out," she told me. "After all, it was a relief in a way. On top of that, the whole mess was partly my fault.

"I was the one who had married him, so I had nobody but myself to blame in the last analysis.

"And I knew I would have to get busy, quick," she continued. "I had the three children to support, and no money in the bank.

"We had a big old-fashioned apartment, with three extra rooms which I had planned to rent out. But, of course, my husband's behavior was so awful that we were never able to take people in.

"Well, I thought things over carefully. I had no business skills or experience whatever, nor did I have time or money to learn them.

"And the cost of someone to take care of the children, if I did go out to work, was excessive. I reached a real low, and did I feel sorry for myself!

"Then suddenly, I began to realize how very many mothers must be in the same position. And that was the best thought I'd had!

"I decided to take in the children of broken homes, children whose mothers had to get a job, and who needed a temporary place to put them. I love kids and I knew I could handle their need for affection, and help them over the strain.

"I put an advertisement in our newspaper, and I also paid a call on the town's leading divorce lawyers to get referrals.

"I talked to our family doctor, and he helped me with the health and licensing aspects.

"Now I have a houseful of kids, I'm with my own as well, and am making a small but quite decent living!"

Sometimes the best thing to do when you're in a jam is to think of the others in the same jam. You might be able to help yourself by helping them.

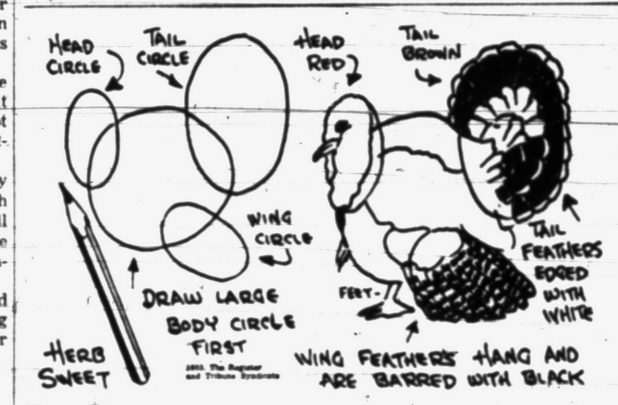
Manners MAKE FRIENDS

Cough! Cough! Cough! The poor fellow can't stop coughing. And it is more than a little distracting to those seated near him in church. It's hard to hear what the minister is saying. It's difficult not to let your mind wander from the sermon to worry over all the germs the cougher is spreading around. That's why it would have been better for the cougher to tiptoe quietly out of church.

A small but practical application of the Golden Rule.



Try It

Draw Turkey With Ease

Thanksgiving Day is almost here, and this is just the time when Mother asks you if you can do something to decorate the Thanksgiving table. Today's Try It is telling you how to draw a turkey in a quick, easy way.

Then, you can use your drawing for a pattern for making placecards, large turkeys for the table centerpiece, or for a game. To be a great artist takes talent, but anyone can have fun drawing if he follows a few definite steps.

Did you ever think of a turkey as being made of a large circle and three ovals? This is the basis for a picture of a turkey.

Look at the left-hand side of the picture. You can see that the body is a circle, the head is a small oval, the drooping wing is also an oval, and the tail is a large oval. Try this on a piece of scrap paper. After you have your sketch made, find a picture of a turkey and follow it for details.

The turkey on the right shows how you can fill in the tail feathers and wing. The wing feathers hang down and are barred with black.

Your Hands Will Look Lovelier . . . Feel Softer with Lanolin Plus Hand Lotion

You can't imagine what beauty you have in the palms of your hands until you use LANOLIN PLUS HAND LOTION. For Lanolin Plus, containing the right amount of lanolin with its valuable esters and cholesterols, penetrates your skin and helps to replenish essential oils that your hands need to make them feel and look smooth as silk.

It's no wonder that Lanolin Plus is so effective. Years ago on the plains of Australia, during sheep-shearing season, the hands of the men were dry and calloused. But almost immediately an amazing phenomenon occurred. Their hands became softer and smoother. The secret? Lanolin, the closest duplication of the natural oils of our human skin is found in the fats and oils of the sheep's wool. As the men sheared the sheep, lanolin was absorbed into their skin. And gradually their hands became softer and smoother. Today chemists have found a way to blend a fabulous amount of lanolin into Lanolin Plus. The formula holds an exclusive United States patent.

Treat your hands to this entirely new feeling of petal-freshness and softness. LANOLIN PLUS HAND LOTION works quickly, then disappears like magic. Only one dollar, plus tax, at all cosmetic counters.

Lanolin Plus Does Wonders For Your Skin

Your Skin Wakes Up to New Beauty and Exquisite Softness with Lanolin Plus Liquid

One of the most serious beauty problems women face is premature wrinkles, due to excessive dryness or climatic conditions. The longer this dry condition exists, the deeper and more permanent the premature wrinkles become. Now with LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID, you can help replenish oils that are so essential to a smoother, more youthful-looking complexion.

Ordinary harsh cleansing removes the skin's natural lubricants—esters and cholesterols—and in many cases, may further dry out your skin. All you have to do is soften the skin and premature wrinkles become less apparent. Try this wonderfully refreshing facial with LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID at night before you go to bed. Your face will feel relaxed and refreshed—and you'll feel a glowing kind of youthful vitality in your skin. And when your skin feels this good, you just know it looks radiant and exquisitely smooth!

Hold a hot washcloth to your face and neck for about a minute to open pores. Notice how refreshed and relaxed your face feels.

Warm the bottle of LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID under hot water tap. Briskly massage into face and neck until skin begins to tingle.

After a few minutes, wipe your face petal-fresh

Rinse your face and neck with cold water. Then gently massage a few drops of LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID into your skin before retiring. Its gentle, thorough action will work while you sleep . . . and you'll awake next morning to find new radiant beauty in your skin. There's no need to let premature wrinkles make you look older. Use LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID faithfully every day. You'll find it at all cosmetic counters for only one dollar, plus tax.

Make Your Skin Softer, Smoother "All Over"... with Lanolin Plus Body Lotion

From the time of the early Egyptians, women who have longed for loveliness have tried to keep their skin soft and smooth with various fragrant oils. Now for your everyday enjoyment, there is a heavenly body lotion, enriched with lanolin to keep every inch of you "petal-soft." No matter what the weather, this creamy-smooth liquid penetrates, and protects your skin from the drying effects of sun, wind and dry air.

Never before was there such a luxuriant lotion—so delicately scented, so gently effective, as LANOLIN PLUS BODY LOTION. You'll love the way it helps replenish oils, dried out from frequent bathing. A superb blend of protecting, softening oils and lanolin, this new body lotion makes you feel refreshingly relaxed, lovely all over.

It takes so little . . . spreads so easily . . . and is so economical that you'll want to use it faithfully. Don't let a day go by without using your LANOLIN PLUS BODY LOTION. You'll find the generous twelve-ounce bottle only $1.50 plus tax, at all cosmetic counters.

You owe it to yourself to discover the wondrous things Lanolin Plus products can do for you. When you use them faithfully, you'll have the key that brings forth skin and hair beauty you may never have realized you had!

HAT BY JOHN FREDERICS; FUR BY REVEILLON.

Lanolin Plus Agrees with Your Skin . . . Makes It Feel Better . . . Look Softer, More Youthful

The lovely, smooth skin of a baby is naturally soft and supple because Nature's inner lubricants keep it that way. But as time goes by, these natural oils become less plentiful, and, in addition, are removed by sun, wind, dry indoor air and ordinary harsh cleansing. Years ago it was found that the wool of sheep contains a substance known as lanolin, which, because of its rich base of beneficial esters and cholesterols, is most similar to the natural oils of our human skin.

The chemists who created LANOLIN PLUS planned their formula to include highly refined lanolin and other skin beautifying ingredients. Because of its thorough action, it helps to maintain the proper lubricating balance both for complexions that are too dry or too oil. It also supplies normal skin with the priceless softening influence it needs to stay soft and silken-textured.

With your very first touch of LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID, you'll see for yourself how exquisitely soft and fresh your skin can feel. Words can't describe that feeling, but once you know it, you'll never want to lose it. If you use LANOLIN PLUS faithfully and regularly, you'll find that harsh dryness will disappear . . . premature wrinkles due to excessive dryness or climatic conditions become less noticeable.

Use LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID to pamper your skin overnight while you sleep . . . use it as a cleanser to make your face feel cleaner, fresher than ever before. And you'll find it does wonders by helping to lubricate your skin after natural oils have been removed by sun, wind and harsh cleansing. If your heels, insteps or toes are calloused or rough, a relaxing foot bath, followed by a LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID massage will soften and soothe the dried out areas.

The most feminine desire in the world is to stay lovely and youthful looking. Now—with the softening qualities of LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID—all women can help to achieve this desire. For this almost-miraculous Liquid replenishes the oils that help to deter dry skin with its devastating effects.

Take a long, objective look at your complexion. Is it everything you want it to be? Or would it welcome a chance to absorb some of Nature's own kind of lubricants? Lanolin is the closest duplication of these natural skin oils. So don't wait another day to discover the wonders of LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID. One dollar* is such a tiny price to pay for the glorious feeling of having skin that now is soft and caressable, and more youthful-looking than you ever imagined! *plus tax

There's New Softness for Dry Skin with Lanolin Plus Cleansing Cream

Time was when there wasn't much that women knew about retarding a dry skin condition that promoted premature wrinkles. But now that Lanolin Plus has come into the beauty picture, you can keep your skin softer and lovelier than you ever imagined! For LANOLIN PLUS CLEANSING CREAM FOR DRY SKIN is compounded to soften your skin as it cleanses it. Lanolin Plus Cleansing Cream containing a superabundance of Lanolin Plus, with its rich base of esters and cholesterols, penetrates your skin and helps to replenish oils that deter the dryness that promotes premature wrinkles.

You'll love the feel of this velvety cream while it works its wonders on your skin. And you'll love the fresh, clean feel your skin has after you've tissued away the dirt of the day.

If your skin is dry, don't wait another day to give it the wondrous help of Lanolin Plus. You'll find softness and beauty you never knew were there. LANOLIN PLUS CLEANSING CREAM FOR DRY SKIN is so economical, too. Only a dollar plus tax at all cosmetic counters.

Skin Feels Cleaner — Fresh-As-A-Daisy — with Lanolin Plus Liquid Cleanser

The fresh, clean feel of your skin after its first cleansing with this creamy liquid will make you promise yourself that you'll never again bother with ordinary harsh cleansing. For LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID CLEANSER penetrates your skin and softens as it cleanses, with never a harsh, drying effect. Instead, it offers the wonderful lubricating influence of lanolin itself that combats drying conditions due to lack of natural oils.

There's good reason why lanolin is so beneficial to your skin. Lanolin is obtained from sheep's wool and is most similar to the natural oils of our human skin. So when Nature's own lubricants are so closely duplicated, it's no wonder that your skin responds quickly and eagerly.

LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID CLEANSER should be a "must" in your daily skin care. It's amazingly effective . . . delightfully refreshing . . . and so economical! Only one dollar plus tax at all cosmetic counters.

Reveal Your Hair's Natural Loveliness with Lanolin Plus Hard Water Shampoo

Perhaps you are one of the many women who are at a loss to know how to keep their hair and scalp scrupulously clean, yet preserve the natural oils that are essential to soft, glistening hair.

Now, LANOLIN PLUS HARD WATER SHAMPOO answer this problem for you. For this is the shampoo that contains a superabundance of lanolin, the nearest duplication of nature's own skin oils. It not only helps lubricate scalp and soften hair, but at the same time it lathers beautifully in the hardest water. Its rich, lanolized suds thoroughly whisk away dirt and grime so that the hair is left soft and silken and gleaming, as it should be. Just as the shampoo cleanses, its oil pampers the hair.

It's economical, too, because it's fast-acting, and ordinarily only one application is needed each time you wash your hair.

All cosmetic counters can supply you with LANOLIN PLUS HARD WATER SHAMPOO for only a dollar. You'll never know how really clean, soft and manageable your hair can be until you use this thorough shampoo, containing such a generous supply of lanolin.

Your Hair Will Be Lovelier, More Manageable, If It's In Good Condition

All the new "hair-do's;" rinses, permanents and bleaches in the world can't make your hair look prettier if it isn't in good condition. Simple basic care of your hair is your first step toward hair beauty. And LANOLIN PLUS FOR THE HAIR should be your first thought.

If your hair is dull, dry and unmanageable, it will surely welcome the refreshing, softening influence of Lanolin Plus. For lanolin is the closest duplication of Nature's own skin lubricants. Too often the gleaming highlights and lovely softness that Nature meant for your hair to have are taken away by various kinds of harsh hair treatment, water, and the drying effects that come from exposure to sun or wind. When that happens—and even before it happens—look to LANOLIN PLUS FOR THE HAIR to supplement precious, natural oils and bring out sparkling highlights.

Give your hair a chance to look its best. Get LANOLIN PLUS FOR THE HAIR soon. At all cosmetic counters, only a dollar plus tax.

Handy Dispenser Comes with Each Bottle of Hand Lotion

A few drops of Lanolin Plus Hand Lotion applied several times during the day will do much to keep your hands lovely to watch—lovely to touch.

The handy pump dispenser, which comes with each bottle of Lanolin Plus Hand Lotion, makes regular application a simple task. LANOLIN PLUS HAND LOTION with PUMP . . . $1.00 plus tax. At all cosmetic counters.

Speedometer Needle May Tell Tall Tales

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Seeing isn't necessarily believing when it comes to automobile speedometers.

Samuel T. Milliken, service manager of the Keystone Automobile Club, said a recent test by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads revealed that two out of three speedometers were faulty.

"Of the 53 cars tested, only 19 had speedometer readings which generally were correct," he said. Some showed higher speeds than the vehicles were actually traveling while most showed lower speeds.

"The implications are obvious," Milliken said. "If a car's speedometer is off, the operator may be arrested for speeding when he honestly believes he is driving at a legal rate. And ignorance of the fact that his speedometer is faulty does not excuse him."

Milliken suggested motorists have their speedometers checked regularly and frequently "to insure peace of mind and legal speeds."

Family Finds Country Is Rowdier Than City

BARKHAMSTED, Conn. (UP) — Carl Schoonmaker and his family move from the city to a home on Goose Neck Road a year ago because they wanted peace and quiet.

Here are some of the things that happened since then: a ringneck snake built a nest in the back yard; Schoonmaker almost tripped over a growling fox while running to chase rabbits out of his garden; the three Schoonmaker boys made a pet of a pheasant but have trouble feeding it because chickadees dive-bomb them whenever they appear with bread crumbs; the family collie is almost a psychopathic case because a raccoon steals its supper nearly every night, and only recently Schoonmaker was putting his shotgun away (after missing a shot at a lynx) when he found a bat asleep behind the kitchen stove.

Uses Underplay on Dragnet Only

TV Actor-Director Says 'Quiet' Technique Best on Documentary Show

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — This is the city. Big- hearted. Hard-boiled. Land of movie studios, restaurants in the shape of hats, glamor gals, egomaniacs and nice people, too. City of shattered dreams, fabulous success stories and boulevards lined with palms.

My name is Johnson. I'm a columnist.

I get the facts and I don't change names to protect anyone. It's my job to question Jack Webb, the Sgt. Friday, who does all the question-asking on Dragnet and also directs the hit TV show.

The charges: Draining emotion out of voices, introducing a new acting style of underplaying. Also: Suspected of being a genius—sometimes a temperamental genius who can be heard for blocks.

It's 2 p.m. I find Jack in his office, working on a script.

He's wearing a brown and white checkered shirt, dark blue trousers and a grin as wide as Joe E. Brown's. This is the deadpan Sgt. Friday? It is. There's emotion in his voice, too—lots of it. And a sparkling charm he rarely displays on Dragnet.

2:01 p. m. I explain that I want the facts—just the facts.

2:02 p. m. The questioning begins. Unlike Sgt. Friday, Jack Webb is animated and as fast talking as Pat O'Brien. He says he has nothing to hide.

About the acting style on Dragnet?

Says Webb: "We don't do it to be different, as some people think. It's a form of underplaying that's great for a documentary-type show. I don't think it would work with fiction.

"There isn't too much emotion—yet you feel it. It hits you like a blast furnace. The British film, 'Breaking the Sound Barrier,' was the same style of acting. It's my favorite.

"I admit some of the early shows were much too flat. I had to learn—I'm still learning.

"Even in radio, I was in favor of an exciting yet quiet and subdued half hour. It's controversial but people like it."

About stories that Jack is a genius, but sometimes a temperamental one with a bark that makes people jump?

"Sure, I've blown up on the set. I don't like to be distracted. It happens to everyone in our business."

Resort Held Up

NILES (UP)—Two masked bandits held up Mrs. Paul Hass at her summer resort five miles east of Niles Sunday, taking about $900 from her and a caretaker, Edward Babbit.

Steel can be rolled into strips as thin as .0015 of an inch.

American Home Honored by Mayor

In cooperation with local Women's Clubs, Pontiac Mayor Arthur J. Law has designated this week American Home Week.

"The most important unit of American life is the American family," Law said. "It is the economic as well as the spiritual unit and the beginning of self government."

He urged families to attend church Nov. 29 as a group, while commending the "woman who creates and sustains a home as a creator second only to God."

Two Convicts Escape Michigan Prison Farm

JACKSON (UP)—Michael Strokes, 27, a six-foot, 125-pound Indian, and Theodore Seklease, 27, walked away from a Southern Michigan prison farm Sunday.

Stokes was serving one to five years on a 1951 Detroit sentence for entering without breaking. Seklease is a parole violator, serving 6-20 years for robbery armed.

Hold Refugee in Slaying of Ice-Skating Teacher

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Police say they are holding a Yugoslav refugee on charges he murdered Mrs. Simone de Ridder, a 51-year-old Belgian ice-skating instructor who was robbed and thrown from the moving Nuernberg-Ostende International Express last week.

The Yugoslav was identified as Stefan Matusic, 29. It was said he disappeared from Valka refugee camp in West Germany a day before the slaying near the German town of Kitzingen.

Napoleon Bonaparte's only legitimate son died childless and, therefore, Napoleon had only one lineal descendant, but he had brothers, sisters, uncles, aunts, and other collateral ancestors and consequently, he has many collateral descendants.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

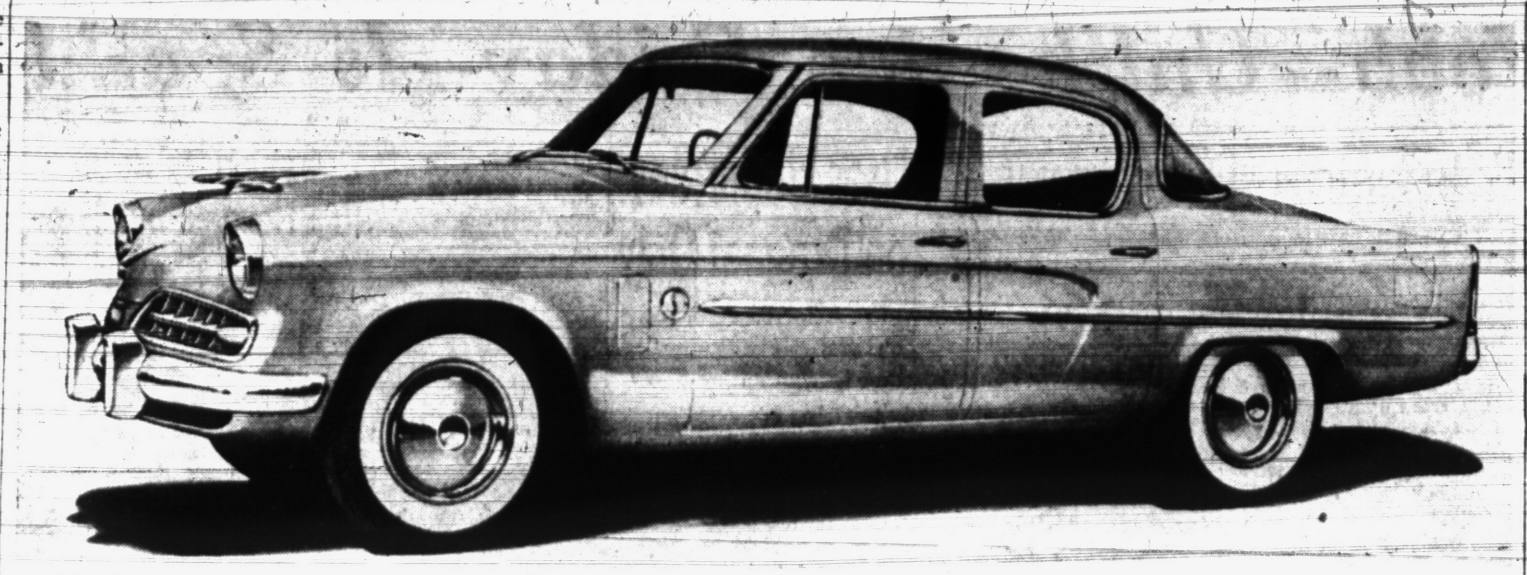
Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only 98c a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied—your money will be refunded promptly. ®Trade Mark



STUDEBAKER REGAL CHAMPION — A chrome rub rail extending from the tail lights to the forward edge of the front doors gives added protection on the Regal Champion four-door sedan in the 1954 Studebaker line. The car is available in 12 solid and 10 optional two-tone color combinations. The massive new front bumper guards give increased protection to the newly designed grille.

Studebaker dealers in this area include Ladd Motor Sales Inc., 451 S. Saginaw St.; P. C. McKibben, 8145 Commerce Rd., Walled Lake; and Davis Motors, 606 N. Main St., Rochester.

Unveil '54 Line of Studebakers

20 Body Types Include Hardtop, Land Cruiser and Coupes

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Studebaker's 1954 line of passenger automobiles went on display today with price increases designed, the company said, to reflect greater deluxe treatment.

The increases range from $10 to $105.

Colorful new interiors mark the 20 body types represented in the new line. Upholstery fabrics are new and in four different basic colors intended to harmonize with the hues of the exterior finishes. Twelve different exterior solid colors and 10 two-tone combinations are provided.

Exterior body changes for Studebaker's '54 models include new grilles with vertical fins; bumper guards to provide increased protection for grilles; new hood ornaments as standard equipment on station wagons and on all sedans with the exception of the custom Champion.

Chrome "rub rails" extending on either side of the car from a point near the tail light to the forward edge of the front door are standard on all regal sedans and Land Cruiser models.

Tinted glass to reduce eye strain and hydraulic power steering are optional on all models.

New and larger brakes are features of both Champion and Commander lines. Power plants of both cars use a 7.5 to 1 compression ratio.

Automatic transmission on the Champions has three power ranges in the drive position.

The Conestoga, Studebaker's new station wagon, accommodates six passengers with ease. When used as a utility car, with the rear seat folded down, an area of 64 cubic feet is available for baggage or hauling purposes.

First morning duty of custodians at Blarney Castle, Eire, is to scrub the lipstick off the Blarney Stone.

Police Roundup Teenage Gangs

Raid in Philadelphia Nets More Than 1,000 Weekend Rowdies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Determined Philadelphia police — deluged with complaints of rowdism by youthful mobs in recent weeks —drove ahead with a crackdown on teen-age gangs today after rounding up more than 1,000 youngsters over the weekend.

Capt. Howard E. Leary of the Juvenile Aid Bureau and Police Commissioner Thomas J. Gibbons said the police will "harass and haunt these gangs until they make up their mind to settle down, be good citizens and stop bothering others."

The comments came in the wake of the unprecedented weekend roundup which saw 625 youngsters taken into custody from one police division in the northern section of the city while raiding squads in other parts of Philadelphia brought in more than 400 boys and girls.

Gibbons said increasing complaints of beatings, holdups, and robberies by young toughs "who hang around sleazy poolrooms, taprooms and all-night diners instead of staying at home and doing something constructive" prompted the crackdown.

Inspector John F. Driscoll headed a special detail of 90 policemen and 24 policewomen who picked up the teen-agers.

Even as the raid was going on, Gibbons disclosed, four youths mugged a 45-year-old woman, held her prisoner and criminally assaulted her. Found walking barefoot on a deadend street three hours later, she was admited to the Einstein Medical Center suffering from shock and bruises. Gibbons withheld her name.

Driscoll said a large quantity of guns and switch-blade knives were scooped up by police. The City Council recently passed an ordinance outlawing the knives.

Fifty policemen were used to herd the teen-agers into patrol wagons for trips to one precinct station and then to another until available cells were found to lodge them.

Leary said 250 youths "whose acts were not in good taste" were processed by his unit and then released in their parents custody. Most of the others also were released in their parents' custody, he said, after a stern warning to stop assembling in gangs.

Says Private Power Won't Control REA

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Interior McKay says he expects some more private capital to enter the utilities field, but he sees no possibility of private power moving in to become the only distributor of electricity through the Rural Electrification Administration.

"We like for everyone to work, ... to keep up with the demand of power," he said on CBS television program yesterday.

As for reports that Midwest farmers were apprehensive that private power would become the only source of electricity, he commented: "These people have been agitated by certain people going around and holding meetings and telling these stories. . . (The administration) will be out there answering some of these things some of these days if we can get around to it."

U. S. Families More Concerned About Nutrition

The federal experts are happy about the homemaker's concern with calories, vitamins and nutrients. The more interest there is, they figure, the easier it will be to keep improving the nation's diet.

Dr. Hazel K. Stiebeling, U. S. Department of Agriculture bureau chief, said there still is plenty of room for improvement, especially in low income groups. But she cited figures to show that big advances already have been made with them.

From 1942 to 1948, the lower third on the income scale increased consumption of meat 37 per cent; milk and cheese, 25 per cent, and fruit and vegetables 25 per cent.

Since 1911, per capita consumption of fruits and vegetables has increased about 45 per cent; dairy products 25 per cent; fats and oils (excluding butter) 35 per cent; eggs, 38 per cent, and meat, poultry and fish, six per cent.

Consumption of grain products has fallen off about 35 per cent and per capita consumption of potatoes and sweet potatoes has dropped more than 50 per cent.

Make a Thanksgiving Eve Cake

Take Advantage of Cranberries

It's turkey 'n' fixin's time and one sure ingredient of the fixin's is cranberries. Those bright red berries herald the holiday season as definitely as the calendar.

And right now is the time to start taking advantage of them in their fresh state. If you have a freezer, better stock up on cranberries so you can make cranberry treats the year round.

But don't stop at cranberry jelly. With the season in full swing and your food mill in hand, try some other cranberry treats like spicy cranberry catsup and delicious cranberry sherbet.

Magic Cranberry Molds

4 cups fresh cranberries
2 cups boiling water
2 cups sugar

Wash and pick over cranberries. Cook in boiling water 20 minutes. Strain through food mill into saucepan. Boil juice three minutes. Add sugar, boil two minutes more. Turn into individual molds. Chill until set. Makes four servings.

Cranberry Catsup

1 cup fresh cranberries
½ cup vinegar
½ cup water
1¼ cups brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon salt

Cook cranberries, vinegar, water together until skins pop. Put through food mill. Combine with remaining ingredients and cook until slightly thickened, about five minutes. Makes one pint.

Cranberry Sherbet

2 cups sugar
2 cups water
4 cups fresh cranberries
Juice 1 small lemon
Juice 1 small orange

Combine sugar, water, cranberries in saucepan. Cook until cranberries are soft and mushy, about 15 minutes. Cool, put through food mill. Stir in fruit juice, pour into refrigerator tray. Set control at coldest point, freeze mixture for several hours until firm.

To serve as a dessert, spoon sherbet into large dish and, if desired, sprinkle with shredded coconut. A few spoonfuls of whole cranberry sauce poured over each serving add color and texture.

THANKSGIVING EVE CAKE—Here is a very special easy dessert for the night before Thanksgiving. The cake is made from a package mix, the frosting is quickly made, and the decorations are beautifully simple. Perhaps you still have some fall flowers left in the garden that you can use.

Festive Dessert Reflects Autumn

Fall Leaves and Flowers Decorate Easy-to-Make Surprise Treat

The day before Thanksgiving is full of hustle and bustle. The kids are home from college — Aunt Martha is arriving on the 6:10. You're chief cook, bottle washer, hostess, mother, all in one.

But surprise the family with a festive dessert. The rest of the dinner can be an easy one, maybe a casserole.

Bake the cake layers on Tuesday, if you like. Frost it any time on Wednesday that you have a spare minute. Good luck with it!

Thanksgiving Eve Cake

1 package yellow cake mix
1½ teaspoons vanilla

Prepare the cake mix following the directions on the label with this exception — stir in the vanilla with the last addition of liquid called for on the package.

Frosting

1 cup light corn syrup
2 egg whites
⅛ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon vanilla

Heat syrup to the boiling point. Meanwhile beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Add salt. Slowly pour the hot syrup over beaten whites, continuing to beat as you pour. The longer you beat mixture the stiffer it will become. Stir in the vanilla extra.

Decorations

Cover top and sides of filled layer cake with frosting. Smooth all of the cake. Then with a knife pull lines through the cake and up the sides. Place fall leaves and little mums or other seasonal flowers around the base of the cake — a spray on top.

Cooks Flood Government With Food-Value Queries

WASHINGTON (UP) — Calorie-conscious housewives, who helped make nutrition the expanding science of the home economics field, have a new kitchen worry.

By the thousands they want to know if they are serving up the same vitamins and nutrients in the newly prepared and processed food as they did before industry moved into their kitchens.

Their inquires came to the Agriculture Department's Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, which describes as "spectacular" the steady rise in the homemaker's use of ready-mixes, powdered, precooked and frozen foods.

The public still buys about 8 pounds of canned vegetables to each pound of frozen variety. But per capita consumption of frozen vegetables is expected to hit a record 5¼ pounds per person this year — a whopping 900,000,000-pound total.

Most of the housewives queries have been concerning frozen concentrated orange juice which each year has skyrocketed in sales to new highs.

The department's answer is that the amount of vitamins is the same fresh or frozen juice.

Its food experts say food treated with heat before packaging loses nutrients in some cases. In others there is a gain, and in still others no one knows.

In any case, they say, there's not much loss in nutritive count in prepared foods bought to save labor.

As one expert put it, the only cooks who get the maximum nutritive value on their dining table are those who prepare foods properly from their own gardens.

Fresh vegetables bought in the corner grocery sometimes lose food value in the shipping process, just as some do in freezing.

"At this stage we expect it all balances out," he said.

Cauliflower High in Vitamins, Low in Calories

Cauliflower is a nutritious vegetable, containing large amounts of important vitamins, and here's something that may surprise you. Although cauliflower is white in color, it is not starchy. In fact, one cup of cooked cauliflower yields only 30 calories.

Cauliflower should be cooked quickly to preserve its mild flavor. If the flowerlets are separated, 10 to 15 munutes is long enough to cook them, or for a whole head allow 25 to 30 minutes.

There are many ways to serve cauliflower. Here are suggestions for recipes which are simple to prepare and delectable to the palate:

For cauliflower au gratin just put the cooked vegetable in a baking dish, pour a cheese sauce over it and cover with soft buttered bread crumbs made from enriched yeast-raised bread. Bake in a moderate oven until the crumbs are golden brown.

Or serve cauliflower polonaise —cooked cauliflower with a polonaise sauce. To make the sauce here's all you do: lightly brown ½ cup soft bread crumbs in ¼ cup margarine or butter. Stir in juice of ½ lemon and salt and pepper to taste. Sprinkle crumbs over cauliflower just before serving.

Or you can pour melted margarine or butter over the cooked cauliflower, season with salt, pepper and nutmeg.

Rice-Cabbage Baked Dish Melts in Mouth

Really "Oh" and "Ah" eating is this rice and cabbage baked dish. It is so creamy and good that every bite of the rice, cabbage and cheese simply melts in the mouth.

Finicky eaters who shy away from vegetables will reach for second helpings of this easy and economical baked rice and cabbage treat. Ready for the oven in seconds, here is the perfect partner for any main dish.

Rice and Cabbage Casserole

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup uncooked rice
2½ cups water
3 tablespoons catsup
4 liberal cups coarsely shredded or thinly sliced cabbage
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup grated American cheese

In a 2-quart baking-serving casserole, place the butter or margarine, onion, salt, pepper, rice, water and catsup. Top with cabbage. Sprinkle the salt over the cabbage.

Cover the baking dish and place in a 350 degrees F. oven for about 30 minutes or until the rice has absorbed most of the water and is moist and tender but not dry. Uncover. Sprinkle the cheese over the cabbage. Place under the broiler and broil until the cheese melts and browns. Serve immediately. Makes 10 servings.

Tomatoes and Rice Blend to Perfection

Your family will love this way to use their favorite—the tomato! Stewed tomatoes and rice is the perfect answer to the "what vegetable to fix" problem, and here is one vegetable dish your family will vote their favorite.

The tender grains of rice take on a wonderful tomato flavor as they simmer with the seasonings and the tomatoes. The sprinkling of parsley adds an exciting dash of color contrast as well as simply delightful flavor.

Stewed Tomatoes and Rice

⅓ cup butter or margarine
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
3 cups cooked rice
2½ cups tomatoes, cut in small pieces
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup water
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Melt butter or margarine in a skillet or saucepan. Add the onion and then cook, stirring occasionally, until the onion is tender and a yellow color. Add the rice, tomatoes, salt, pepper, sugar and water. Cook 15 minutes. Stir occasionally. Serve hot with parsley sprinkled over the top. Makes seven servings.

Plum Pudding Takes 5 Minutes to Make

Why not make Jellied Plum Pudding? Don't moan, "Please, no plum pudding, I simply haven't time."

If you can spare five minutes, this fruitful pudding is yours, ready to be chilled in individual molds for quick and attractive service.

Jellied Plum Pudding

1 package cherry flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
⅓ cup junior plums with tapioca
⅓ cup junior peaches
¼ cup seedless raisins (steamed plump in ¼ cup hot water
⅓ cup grapenuts

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add plums with tapioca and chopped peaches. Chill mixture until partially set. Add plumped raisins and grapenuts. Pour into lightly oiled individual molds and chill until firm. Serves 6.

Here's a dessert the teenage crowd thinks is great: Brownies topped with peppermint ice cream and thick, goeoy chocolate sauce.

Turkey Purses Good 2nd Day

Holiday Turkey Purses are designed for the homemaker who plans for new dishes in which to use part of the Thanksgiving turkey.

Small bits of onion, celery, nuts and caraway seeds are included in the turkey filling that is enveloped in a nippy cheese pastry.

A rich turkey gravy or sharp cheese can be served over there Turkey Purses.

Your family will be glad to see the turkey come to the table the second time when you feature the king bird in this way.

Holiday Turkey Purses

Tinned Pineapple Can Be Used in Dessert, Sauce

Try out these ideas with the always available, ever useful, canned pineapple.

Crushed pineapple folded into whipped cream makes a delicious topping for pumpkin pie.

Broiled pineapple with a touch of ginger makes a garnish that is exotic and sophisticated with duck, chicken or turkey.

Turn out molded cranberry sauce on a pineapple slice to garnish your holiday bird.

Crushed pineapple added to the filling of a mince meat pie and arranged on the latticed pie crust top will give you a new taste treat.

Make mayonnaise thinner with sour cream; stir in bottled horseradish to taste, a few chopped olives, a sprinkle of monosodium glutamate. Result: quick sauce for cold meats.

Tasty Fruit Dessert

Here's a tasty but easy-to-make fruit dessert: Peel, core and halve fresh pears. Dip in lemon juice, sugar and then in melted vitaminized margarine. Roll in crushed cereal flakes.

In center of each pear add a bit of lemon rind mixed with sugar. Bake in moderately hot oven 25 minutes. Serve with a simple vanilla sauce.

Right Timing Necessary for Tender, Juicy Steak

Not only lean, grass-fed beef, but also a record amount of top-quality beef for this season is coming to market.

So let's talk about broiled sirloin steak with our meat expert friends in Chicago. Here's what they advise:

In purchasing sirloin steak, make certain you are getting the very best quality. Allow one-half to three-fourths pound per person. Have the steak cut 1 to 2 inches thick for broiling.

Store in waxed paper or aluminum foil in the refrigerator until ready to use, but not longer than three to five days.

Wait until people are ready to eat before cooking the steak. Slash the fat edges to prevent curling and place on a pre-heated broiling pan.

Most experts recommend that an exact broiling schedule be followed if you are at all uncertain, and that the meat be placed 3 inches from the source of heat.

If the steak is very thick and you wish it well done, as preferred in the Midwest, place further away from the heat so that it will have time to cook through without drying out the surface.

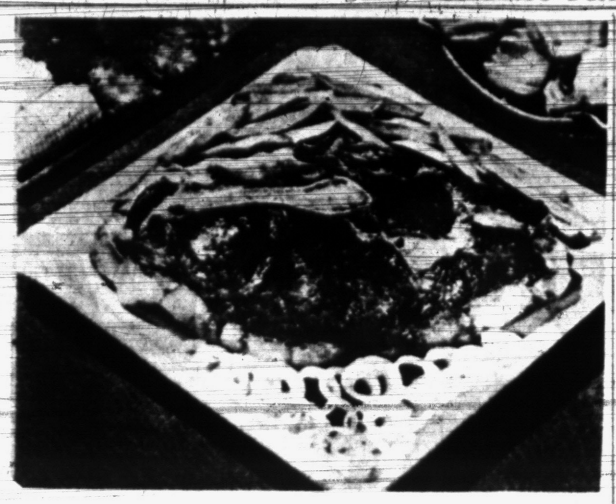
When broiled, remove the steak to a large hot platter. Add a sprinkling of salt and freshly ground pepper and a pat of butter.

French-fried potatoes or onion rings, pan-browned onions or fried tomato slices make a nice garnish on the steak platter, while providing good flavor accompaniment.

Here is a schedule for broiling your large sirloin steak:

BROILING SCHEDULE
Large Sirloin

Thickness	Rare	Med. Rare	Well Done
1 inch	10 min.	12 min.	14 min.
1½ inches	12 min.	14 min.	16 min.



BROILED SIRLOIN STEAK — Tender sirloin steak with French-fried potatoes and onion rings is a treat fit for a king. Follow the schedule given below and have your steak just the way you and your family like it. There's no better food.

When you are buying plastic food storage containers, find out what temperature the container will stand. Some plastic pieces can take boiling or near boiling temperatures, others can't.

Apricot Nectar Adds Zest to Rolls

Apricot nectar is the interesting ingredient used in these rolls. Quickly made, they should rate cheers from the family.

Nectar Pinwheels

2 cups biscuit mix
2 tablespoons sugar
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon butter or margarine (soft)
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1½ cups apricot nectar
¼ cup white sugar

Stir biscuit mix, 2 tablespoons sugar and milk together with a fork; turn out on floured board or prepared pastry cloth and knead lightly. Roll into oblong about ¼ inch thick. Spread with butter; sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon. Roll as for jelly roll. Cut into ¾ inch slices.

Mix nectar and ¼ cup sugar in bottom of 8 inch round pan; stir until sugar is dissolved over low heat; simmer about 3 minutes. Quickly place pinwheels, whirl side down, in boiling nectar. Bake in very hot (450F) oven 25 to 30 minutes. Serve warm. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

BROILED HALIBUT STEAKS—Fresh or frozen halibut steaks, brushed with lemon butter, are broiled to a tempting brownness. Garnish the platter with parsley, add lemon wedges, and you've a dinner fit for the President.

Halibut Recipe Specially for Ike

"That's for Ike," said a Washington state fisherman when he saw the size of the giant halibut he had landed. And that's the true fish story behind the halibut recently presented to President Eisenhower by the National Fisheries Institute.

The 200-pound halibut, one of the largest ever caught off the coast of Washington state, was glazed (a protective process which prevents fish from spoiling) and sent to Washington, D. C.

When the President saw the big fish, he asked that it be given to a hospital, but requested that a supply of steaks be returned to the White House for the Eisenhowers.

The institute's halibut steak recipe, developed especially for the occasion and presented to the nation's first family by Thor C. Tollefson, Republican representative from Washington, is given below.

Broiled Halibut Steaks

Place halibut steaks in preheated broiler pan. Brush with sauce made by mixing together three tablespoons melted butter or margarine, one tablespoon paprika, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, and one tablespoon lemon juice.

Place pan in broiler two inches from heat and broil five minutes. Turn steaks, brush again with sauce, and broil five to eight minutes longer, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Muffins Feature Salami, Eggs; Have Dual Use

If it's a peppy luncheon menu you're wishing for—you'll find the answer in a menu featuring Bit O'Meat Muffins.

These muffins play the double role of main dish and bread. They star bits of salami and diced hard cooked eggs mixed into a plain muffin batter.

Suitable accompaniment for these muffins is a vegetable plate of buttered peas, carrot slices and buttered lima beans. Accent the luncheon with a citrus salad. Serve tempting fudge squares or cup cakes as a finishing touch.

You'll find these Bit O'Meat Muffins are easy to make. The salami and diced eggs are added to the dry ingredients along with eggs, milk and seasoning. Stir only until the flour is moistened for a product you'll be proud to serve.

This combination of "wheat 'n meat" is tops for building healthy bodies in an inexpensive way. One batch of Bit O'Meat Muffins cost only 40 cents.

Bit O'Meat Muffins

1 cup sifted enriched flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening
½ teaspoon horseradish
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ pound diced salami (about ¾ cup)
2 diced hard cooked eggs

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Beat egg and add milk, melted shortening, horseradish, Worcestershire sauce, salami, and eggs. Add to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened.

Fill greased 3-inch muffin pans 2/3 full. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 6 3-inch muffins.

Curry Flavor Adds to Spiced Peaches

Spiced fruit is always a welcome accompaniment to any meat dish. Try this reipe for spiced peaches. You'll like the mild curry flavor.

Special Spiced Peaches

1 No. 2½ can freestone peaches
½ cup sugar
½ cup cider vinegar
8 whole cloves
1 2-inch stick cinnamon
1 tablespoon pickling spice
½ teaspoon curry powder
Dash of salt

Turn peaches into strainer over 1-quart saucepan drain well. To syrup add sugar, vinegar, cloves, cinnamon, pickling spice, curry powder and salt; stir and bring to a boil boil about 20 minutes or until syrup is reduced to about 1 cup.

Pour over peach halves; cool. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Remove peaches from syrup and spices and stick one whole clove into each half.

Crust, Chocolate Filling Bake Together With Ease

Sure, a man loves the house gleaming clean, the food delectable and you fresh and relaxed. This makes his mood mellow. But a husband somehow changes if his wife seems to work too hard or act like an efficiency expert around home.

Without saying so, he hopes you keep up with the new, quicker methods of cooking and housekeeping. That automatically means more time with him.

The new stir-n-roll method for pie crust fits right in with a man's idea of job perfection — delicious he-man food with as little effort as possible.

Stir-N-Roll Pie Crust

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup salad oil
¼ cup cold whole milk

Mix flour and salt. Pour oil and milk into one measuring cup (but don't stir). Then pour all at once into flour. Stir until mixed. Press into smooth ball. Cut in halves; flatten halves slightly.

Place one half between two sheets of waxed paper (12 inches square). Roll out gently to edges of paper. (Dampen table top to prevent slipping.)

Peel off top paper. If dough tears, mend without moistening. Lift paper and pastry by top corners. Place paper-side-up in 9 inch pie pan. Peel off paper. Fit pastry into pan. Just add filling. Trim crust even with rim.

"Baked-in" Chocolate Pie

1 recipe stir-n-roll pastry (single crust, unbaked)
2 cups milk
2 squares chocolate, shaved
1 cup sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1½ teaspoons vanilla

Fit pastry into 9-inch pie plate, flute edge. Heat milk and chocolate until chocolate melts; beat with rotary beater until just blended. Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt, eggs and vanilla; slowly pour milk and chocolate over this, stirring constantly until blended. (Don't have much foam on mixture.)

Pour chocolate mixture into pastry-lined pie plate. Put a piece of moist paper toweling around the edge of the crust to prevent its getting too brown during baking. Bake in a hot oven (400) for about 35 minutes. (Filling thickens somewhat on cooling.)

Makes a 9-inch pie. Six servings.

"BAKED-IN" CHOCOLATE PIE—Two ways to save work go with this new pie. The stir-n-roll pie crust is ultra simple to make and the new chocolate filling bakes right with the pie. It is garnished here with whipped cream.

First Mincemeat Recipe Was in 1486; Had Feathers

By JANET ODELL

Long before New England was settled, mincemeat pies were a favorite in old England. Meat was scarce in medieval English homes. "Mincing" up the remains of the roast, adding a little fruit or some vegetables, and spices for preservative, was one way of extending the available meat supply.

Every member of the family helped chop beef and apples, seed raisins and blend the precious spices for mincemeat.

The resulting mixture was stored in crocks to be baked in pies throughout the winter, pies almost as good as real meat pies.

The first written mincemeat recipe we have dates from 1486. It contained a "hare, a pheasant, two partridges, two pigeons and two conies (rabbit) suitably spiced and cooked, then made craftily into the likeness of a bird's body, the meat stuffed into a pastry shell and feathers placed over all."

By the sixteen hundreds the famous holiday pie now had eggs, raisins, orange and lemon peel, as well as meat and spices.

It was closer to what we know today, "a mixture strange of suet, currants, meats and spices, where various tastes combine . . ."

Today we can buy mincemeat in jars or in a dry packaged form. If we like, we can make our own, either the true mincemeat containing beef and suet, or the mock kind containing only fruits, vegetables and spices. Here is a recipe for a true mincemeat.

Canadian Mincemeat

1½ pounds lean beef
2 cups raisins, chopped
2 cups currants
½ cup chopped citron
6 cups chopped apple
1 tablespoon nutmeg
1 cup strong coffee
1½ cups meat stock

Cook the beef until tender and put through the food chopper after it is well cooled. Mix with the other ingredients. Then add:

1 jar grape jelly
2 tablespoons salt
2¼ cups brown sugar
1 cup ground suet, tightly packed
1 tablespoon cloves
1 tablespoon cinnamon

Simmer this mixture one hour. Pack hot in sterilized jars and seal. One authority advises storing your mincemeat upside down for a few days. Then turn right side up.

When you use dry mincemeat, it is necessary to moisten it with some liquid. The liquid from pickled peaches is excellent. Some people prefer cider, wine, brandy, grape or orange juice.

Mince pie is one that is often served hot. It is possible to make it ahead of time and to freeze it—or just keep it in a cold place until time for serving.

Heat it in a quick oven and serve hot. Standing seems to improve the flavor.

There are many other uses for mincemeat. Add a cupful of mincemeat to a drop cookie recipe for a tasty cookie that keeps well.

Top dishes of ice cream with a tablespoon of mincemeat thinned with unsweetened pineapple juice or orange juice.

Place 2 tablespoons of mincemeat in the cavities of apples ready for baking. Bake as usual, adding the desired liquid to the pan and serve with this juice.

Add one cup of mincemeat to your bran muffin recipe. Everyone will get up for breakfast when they smell these muffins baking.

Cauliflower, Once Rare, Now Abundant in U. S.

Mark Twain once called the cauliflower "a cabbage with a college education." One reason he so termed this vegetable was because, in his time, cauliflower was not produced in abundance and the price was exorbitant.

But this delicious vegetable has become so popular Long Island growers are producing an abundance of cauliflower. From now until December, approximately 22.5 million heads of cauliflower will be pouring out of grocery store bins — lower in price and better tasting.

Dress Up Fruit Cupcakes With Frosting, Garnishes

Ready-to-eat fruit cupcakes are new dessert treats right now. Buy a box of them and enjoy their goodness, plain or prettied up with frosting and garnishes.

The star tip of your pastry set will make a galaxy of stars on the cakes. Or, you can ring the cakes with small stars, and put a big one in the middle.

Another decorative trick is to make a continuous border around the cupcake and a garnish drop of icing in the center. English walnuts and maraschino cherries are good garnishes for the centers of the cakes. Set them in the big dab of icing.

Still another quick decorative trick is to circle the cakes, petal fashion, with halves of mandarin orange slices. Sprinkle shredded coconut in the center for a garnish.

Or, you can use blanched almonds as petals around a cake top with a cherry for a flower center. One drop of corn syrup under each almond will make it stick to the cake.

Heat a few teaspoons of corn syrup in a saucepan until it is thin. Apply to the almonds with a child's watercolor brush. (You should keep such a brush handy for glazing fruits and nuts).

Here is an icing that is the right consistency to use with your star tip, and one with a real lemony flavor to enhance the taste of the fruit cupcakes.

Lemon Icing

⅓ cup soft butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon lemon extract
1¾ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
2 teaspoons cream or milk

Cream butter or margarine with lemon extract thoroughly. Blend in sugar alternately with cream or milk. Beat until light and fluffy.

To loosen layer cake from the tin, set the pan on a cold damp cloth for a few moments.

FRUIT CUPCAKES—These tender fruit cupcakes that now are appearing in your grocery store are wonderful eating. Serve them just as they come in the package, or decorate them to suit your fancy.

Making angelfood cake? If you beat the whites on a platter with a wire whisk, you'll incorporate a desirable amount of air into them.

Note to new cooks: "Dredging food with flour" means to coat the food on all sides by sifting flour over it.

Make Punch of Cranberries

Since holiday time is the time for more entertaining than usual, we all like to have new and different recipes to use. If you are having a punch party, you will enjoy this beautiful hot cranberry punch. It will taste just as good on any cold winter evening.

Hot Cranberry Punch

2 pounds cranberries
8 cups water
1½ cups sugar
2-inch stick of cinnamon
Peel of half an orange
4 cups hot tea
Nutmeg
15 whole cloves
Peel of half a lemon
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Butter

Combine water and cranberries. Cook until skins pop. Put through a fine sieve. Add the rest of the ingredients, except the butter and nutmeg, to the sieved cranberries. Bring to boiling point. Reduce heat and let simmer for 5 minutes. Strain.

At serving time place about ½ teaspoon butter in the bottom of each mug. Pour in hot punch. Top with grated nutmeg. Butter may be omitted.

Keep Ingredients for Ham Snacks

Are you prepared for unexpected company? Can you prepare a snack at a moment's notice? Keep the makings for these Deviled Ham Roundups handy.

Deviled Ham Roundups

1 can (2-ounce) deviled ham
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
3 English muffins, split
6 thick slices tomato
6 slices cheddar cheese
Green pepper
Sweet onion rings

Mix deviled ham and mayonnaise. Spread on split muffins. Place a tomato slice on each muffin half and top with a slice of cheese melts — 6 to 8 minutes. 450 degrees until hot through and Garnish with pepper and onion rings. Serve at once.

An average person loses from 50 to 100 hairs a day without becoming bald.

Make Cheese Wafers With Cookie Wheel

An old story with a new twist—chese wafers made with a cookie wheel. The dough itself is none other than that familiar and delicious cheese-stick dough.

To make something really fancy out of something downright simple, use a cookie wheel to cut out fancy shapes. You'll find a cookie wheel at the variety or dime store.

Cheese Wafers

½ pound sharp cheese, grated
2 tablespoons shortening
1 cup sifted enriched flour
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon cloves
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg

Grate cheese through food mill to make ½ cup. Add shortening and cream together. Sift dry ingredients together. Sprinkle gradually over cheese mixture and stir in with fork.

Turn out on floured board and knead to form a pliable dough. Roll out ⅛ inch thick. Cut out wafers with a cookie wheel or small cookie cutter.

Place on cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degrees 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes about 2 dozen wafers. Store in airtight bin.

Add Chili to Your Taste

Your own taste test is the only good judge of how much is enough chili powder in recipes. The best way is to start with a moderate amount and increase it until it tastes right to you. At best, chili powder recipes can only suggest the desirable quantities on this spice.

CASSEROLE POPPY SEED BREAD—If you have never made your own bread, you're missing a real culinary experience. Try your hand at this easy recipe. Eaten warm and fresh from the oven, with butter, preserves and lots of hot coffee, it's a treat.

Casserole-Baked Bread Easy Recipe for Beginner

Do you sometimes find yourself yearning for a slice of honest-to-goodness warm new bread, glistening with butter, washed down with a cup of fresh hot coffee? If so, here's the perfect recipe for you —Casserole Poppy Seed Bread, a fine-textured easy-to-bake loaf with a tasty crust.

If you've never made bread before, you'll find this an easy recipe to learn on. There have been so many improvements in the technique of bread-making that it is not the long-drawn-out process it once was. Casserole Poppy Seed Bread needs only one rising period and a minimum of mixing. More important, it requires no special equipment, such as bread pans. It's baked in an ordinary two-quart casserole, or even in an oven-proof skillet if you don't have a casserole.

Casserole Poppy Seed Bread

1 cup milk
3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
1½ tablespoons shortening
1 cup warm, not hot, water (lukewarm for compressed yeast)
2 packages or cakes yeast, active-dry or compressed
4½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon poppy seed

Scald milk. Stir in sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Measure water into bowl (warm, not hot water for active dry yeast, lukewarm for compressed yeast). Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture. Add flour; stir until well blended, about two minutes.

Cover; let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until tripled in bulk, about 40 minutes. Stir down. Beat vigorously, about one-half minute. Turn into greased 2-quart casserole.

Brush top with egg yolk diluted with a little water; sprinkle with poppy seed. Bake in moderate over, 375, about one hour.

Grace Best Platter With Tender Steakburgers

Shape a tender steakburger from the plentiful ground beef now on the market; and you have something to grace your most handsome platter. Use a can (1¼ cups) beef gravy to put extra richness into the burger.

First mix ½ cup gravy with 1 pound ground beef, 1 tablespoon minced onion, ¼ cup dry bread crumbs, salt and pepper. Form mixture into one large burger, about 1-inch thick. Broil until done and well browned.

Also broil pineapple slices with the meat. Arrange burger on platter, pineapple around it. Spoon red currant jelly into center of each pineapple slice. Carry it forth to serve 4. Pass around extra gravy to go with burger.

It's easier to decorate a cake that you can turn conveniently. So if you have a Lazy Susan, put your cake on it and then do your frosting and decorating.

Casserole Is Quick, Easy to Prepare

Urban Style Casserole is so named because it's so quick and easy to prepare — the kind of dish that wins approval from city career-girl wives. The big time-cutter in this recipe is the sauce made from cream of mushroom soup. If you haven't tried sausage meat in a casserole before, start out with this recipe. You'll like it.

Urban Style Casserole

4 ounces elbow macaroni
½ pound sausage meat
1¼ cups condensed cream of mushroom soup (10½-ounce can)
½ cup milk
1 cup cooked lima beans
Buttered bread crumbs

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender (about 8 minutes). Drain and rinse. While macaroni is cooking, brown sausage meat in skillet. Drain off fat. Combine meat with macaroni, soup, milk and lima beans. Pour into 1½-quart casserole and sprinkle with bread crumbs. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Wisconsin has more than 16 billion board feet of saw lumber and six million feet of pulpwood.

Brides Will Find It's Fun to Try Gourmet Recipes

If you're about to be married or are a recent bride and you've never done much cooking before, don't feel you have to tackle only the most simple dishes. Being a good cook isn't as difficult as you think.

The winter issue of a guide for the bride says that too many girls have the idea that recipes with herbs, wine vinegars and special seasonings are too complicated, too highbrow and too expensive to be tackled by anyone but a gourmet or an experienced cook. That's a silly notion.

True, there are some tricky dishes that require a little practice, but by and large there's nothing you can't do yourself. So instead of settling for humdrum cooking, seek out the so-called exotic dishes and you'll soon discover that food preparation is one of the adventures of being a kindergarten housewife.

The first thing to do, according to the article, is to get a couple of good cookbooks. Browse through them, make notes of things you and your husband like.

Then give your supermarket a complete going-over. You'll discover the makings for dozens of gourmet menus, all canned, frozen or prepared.

There's just about everything from garlic croutons to canned lemon peel to frozen pie crust—and the best part of it is that the dirty work is all done for you.

Finally get a "starter set" of herbs, about 4 or 5 to begin with and seasonings like monosodium glutemate.

Pick up a chart of what seasonings go with what food. Paste that somewhere in your kitchen and follow it until you are familiar with the taste and effect of the seasonings. Then improvise according to your own taste.

You'll find yourself spending more and more time in the kitchen —having fun.

Salmon Slices Broiled on Buns

When you treat the children to canned salmon, you're not only serving flavor and attractive color; you're serving big portions of health-giving protein, vitamins and minerals as well. Few single foods bring as many valuable contributions to the table as canned salmon.

It provides a large amount of complete protein for the replacement of worn-out tissues and the building of new tissues in growing children.

It provides iodine to assist in the normal growth and proper maintenance of the body; it supplies vitamins A and D, niacin and riboflavin to build strong bones and prevent infection. It also offers large amounts of calcium and phosphorus for the formation of sound, healthy teeth and sturdy bones.

Open Salmon Sandwich Grill

1 1-pound can salmon
4 hamburger buns
2 tablespoons lemon or lime juice

Chill unopened can of salmon in refrigerator several hours or overnight. Drain salmon; remove carefully from can in one piece; cut crosswise into four slices. Place each slice on bottom half of hamburger bun; sprinkle with lime or lemon juice.

Place on broiler rack with surface of food 3 inches below heat. Broil 10 minutes or until salmon is heated through. Place top halves of buns cut side up in broiler last two minutes broiling time.

Top salmon with toasted halves of buns; serve with asparagus sauce. Makes four servings.

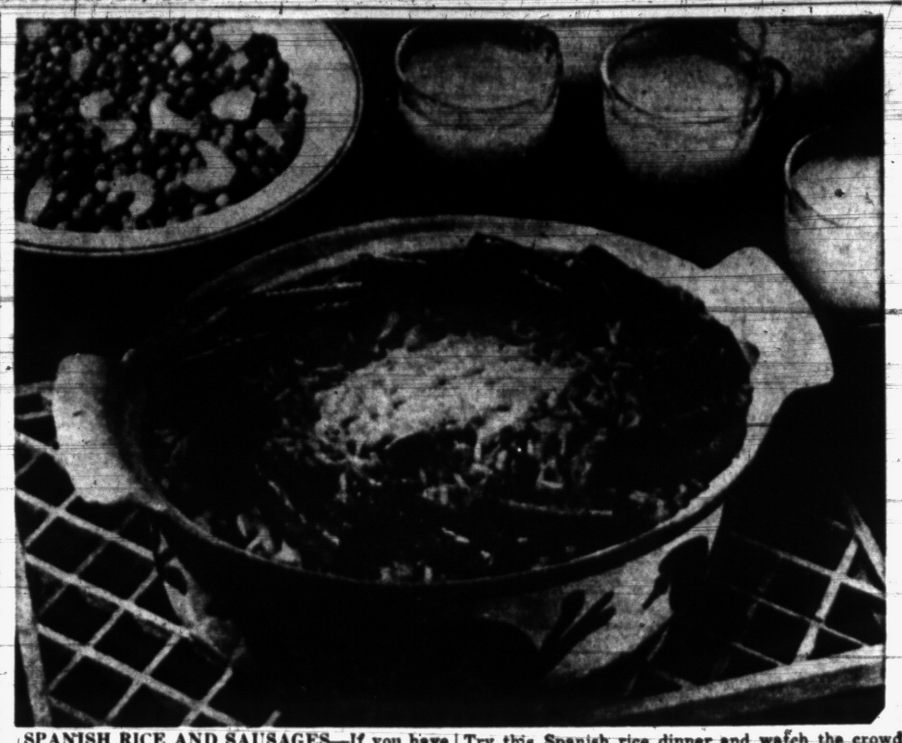
Asparagus Sauce

1 can condensed asparagus soup
½ cup light cream

Combine soup and cream; stir over low heat until hot.

Try Mustard Sauce

The vegetables you serve with your holiday turkey or capon deserve special attention, too. Broccoli becomes elegant with a mustard sauce made this way: Melt 2 tbs. vitaminized margarine in a saucepan, blend in 1 tbs. flour, 1 cup sour cream, 1 tbs. mustard-with-horseradish, ½ tsp. salt and ¼ tsp. sugar.



SPANISH RICE AND SAUSAGES—If you have a well-stocked pantry shelf, you will have no trouble whipping up a good meal at a moment's notice. Try this Spanish rice dinner and watch the crowd come back for more. Vienna sausages dot the top.

Have Ingredients on Hand for Quick Pigskin Supper

A well-stocked larder will untie your apron strings for you. Go right along with the football crowd for an afternoon of fun. And you can turn out a big dinner in short order for those famished home-from-the-game appetites.

With the wide variety of canned foods to choose from, menu-making is easy. Here's one hot and hearty dinner to serve six. You'll find it quick to prepare, good to eat, a perfect finish for a busy day.

Pigskin Supper

Grapefruit Juice
Spanish Rice and Sausages
Peas and Celery
Mixed Green Salad
Bread, Butter
Hot Peach Cobbler
Coffee Milk

Start dessert first —

Hot Peach Cobbler

1 No. 2½ can (1 pound 14 ounces) shortcake peaches (sliced freestone
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon allspice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
⅓ package white cake mix

Drain peach syrup into small saucepan; combine with sugar, tapioca and spices. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil; add peach slices, lemon juice and butter or margarine. Pour into two-quart baking dish.

Prepare one-half package white cake mix according to package directions. Carefully pour over warm peach mixture. Bake in slow oven (325) 50 minutes, or until cake is done. Serve warm.

Then the main dish —

Spanish Rice With Sausages

Combine three cans (about 15 ounces each) Spanish rice with one-fourth cup catsup. Turn into 1½-quart baking dish. Top with two cans (four ounces each) Vienna sausages and a sprinkling of grated Cheddar cheese. Bake along with dessert (325) 30 to 35 minutes, or until bubbling hot.

Next the vegetable —

Peas and Celery

Drain liquid from one can (No. 2 or No. 303) sweet peas into medium-sized saucepan. Add one-half cup sliced celery and one-half teaspoon salt; cook 10 minutes, or until celery is just tender. Add peas and one tablespoon butter or margarine.

Then you have time to fix a green salad, make the coffee, pour grapefruit juice and set the table. Dessert can finish baking while you serve the main course. This dinner is planned for timesaver cooking — good eating too.

Casserole Uses Leftover Fowl

Baked to a brownish gold, the sizzling cheese topping on this homey casserole dish complements a savory blend of tantalizing flavors.

The recipe for this scrumptious combination of ingredients was developed to help homemakers use up post-holiday turkey or chicken. It's so downright flavorful, however, the family will want it often, any season of the year!

Turkey Casserole Supreme

2½ cups uncooked broad noodles, broken in pieces
4 tablespoons shortening
4 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon celery salt
2 cups milk
1 cup grated American cheese
2 cups cooked turkey (or chicken) cut in pieces
3 tablespoons pimiento, chopped
3 tablespoons parsley, chopped
2½ tablespoons onion, chopped
¼ cup grated cheese

Cook noodles until tender as directed on package . . . Melt shortening in saucepan, add flour and seasonings, and blend . . . Stir in milk gradually; cook and stir over low heat until thickened.

Add 1 cup cheese and stir until cheese is melted . . . Add cooked noodles, turkey, pimiento, parsley and onion and mix well.

Pour into 2-quart greased casserole . . . Sprinkle one-half cup cheese over top . . . Bake in moderate oven (350) 55 minutes, or until bubbly and browned . . . Makes five to six servings.

Light Eaters Must Watch Their Lack of Riboflavin

Do you consider yourself a light eater. Then you're not alone. According to a recent survey, the average city homemaker eats light meals.

The Bureau of Human Nutrition of the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that your light diet, unfortunately, is also light in two important nutrients because "light" eaters get only a little over half the recommended amount of calcium, and not even half enough riboflavin—a very important B vitamin.

Everyone knows that milk is one of the richest sources of calcium and that if you don't drink milk, chances are you don't get your calcium.

But riboflavin is another story. This vitamin with its formidable name may not be familiar to you. It is not a vitamin that you just naturally get enough by eating three meals a day.

Few foods, in fact, contain a real wealth of riboflavin. Yet, it is the vitamin which is essential to growth and normal nutrition.

Now there is one sure way of getting your share of riboflavin—eat enriched yeast-raised bread with every meal. Since the enrichment of white bread, which began in 1941, enriched yeast-raised bread has been an important source of riboflavin—as well as two other B vitamins—niacin and thiamine—and the mineral iron.

Enrichment of bread was indeed an important step in the health of our country. And as a result of it, the association of B vitamins with bread deserves the same popular recognition as the association of calcium with milk.

According to the USDA, your diet won't—on its own—improve as you grow older. Not when the survey shows that the older the women, the more careless they are in their eating habits. But you can make an effort to improve your diet by simply including milk and enriched yeast-raised bread in it.

Refreshing Ice Fine on Holiday Menu

Here's a wonderful suggestion for a new lemonade-cranberry ice which is a perfect accompaniment to the holiday buffet. This refreshing ice, tart yet sweet, is delicious with cold turkey slices on the entree plate or as a dessert.

Lemonade-cranberry ice is frothy and colorful with pieces of whole cranberries. It's made the easy, time-saving way with a can of frozen lemonade and a can of whole cranberry sauce.

Lemonade-Cranberry Ice

1 (6-ounce) can frozen concentrate for lemonade
Water (fill lemonade can once)
1 (1 pound) can whole cranberry sauce, jellied
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 egg whites, beaten

Mix concentrate for lemonade with 1 canful water in large bowl; add cranberry sauce (breaking the sauce with fork or spoon) and mix well. Add salt.

Pour into ice tray and freeze to a mush. Then beat egg whites stiff, add the frozen lemonade-cranberry mixture, and beat together thoroughly.

Freeze again in ice tray, stirring and mixing 2 or 3 times more during freezing process. Serves 6.

New Pear Dessert

Looking for a new dessert idea? Fresh pear shortcake could be the answer. Peel and slice fresh juicy eating pears and arrange on top of slices of pound cake. Top with a scoop of your favorite ice cream.

Banana Bars Keep Cookie Jar Filled

Bar cookies are so easy to make that many homemakers rely on them to keep the cookie jar filled. For a bar cookie with a different flavor try these Banana Nut Bars. Children should love them.

Banana Nut Bars

1 cup sifted, all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup nonfat dry milk
⅓ cup soft shortening
1 cup sugar
1 unbeaten egg
½ cup mashed banana
½ cup broken, unsalted nuts

Turn on oven and set at 350 (moderate). Grease well an 8-inch square pan. Sift the flour, baking powder, salt and nonfat dry milk together onto piece of paper. Put the shortening into a 1½ quart bowl and add the sugar gradually, mixing until light and fluffy. Add the egg and beat hard. Stir in about half of flour mixture. Then stir in the mashed banana. Add the rest of flour mixture and mix well. Fold in the broken nuts. Spread batter evenly in greased pan and bake on center rack of oven until cake pulls from sides of pan, or about 35 minutes. Cool in pan and cut into 18 bars.

Salt Makers Stamping Out Iodine Deficiency in U.S.

Not too many generations ago, the minute amount of iodine needed by the body was hard to obtain. Man had to fish the deep seas and oceans to get his iodine, but now, with the advent of iodized salt, he just tips the salt shaker.

The relationship between eating products of the sea—such as seaweed and seafoods—and good health was known to our medieval ancestors. The why of it was not explained until the discovery of iodine, and seafoods as a source. This was more than 100 years ago.

Iodine should be supplied by our food. The type of soil producing that food is consequently of importance. Soils in many areas of the world, including the great plains and the northwest regions of this country, are iodine poor, because long ago, it was washed out of the land into the sea. As a result, plant and animal foods from these areas are low in this element.

All animal life, including man, requires a minute amount of iodine for health. This is stored in the thyroid gland which manufactures a hormone, composed largely of iodine, which regulates activity of the body cells.

To assure an adequate supply of this mineral for persons living in iodine-poor regions, iodized salt was developed. Since the early 1930s, salt manufacturers have voluntarily added iodine to table salt at levels recommended by the United States Public Health Service and the American Medical Association.

Salt to which iodine has been added — like bread and other cereal products enriched with thiamine, riboflavin, niacin and iron—has contributed materially to public health.

Studies in Michigan, where soils are very low in iodine, have shown that use of iodized salt resulted in a 75 to 90 per cent decrease in goiter within a 10-year period.

Despite the evidence of the value of iodized salt, only 50 per cent of our table salt is iodized today.

Man Held in Slaying of Churchwoman

DETROIT (UP) — A murder charge was on file today against a 29-year-old man who police said shot and killed a woman because "she wouldn't stop and talk to me" after church services.

Police said the suspect, Ernest Trotter, and the victim, Mrs. Zelma Mathews, 27, attended the same Sunday morning services at New Testament Baptist Church. They said Trotter followed Mrs. Mathews home and shot her in front of her house.

Detectives said Trotter was "incoherent" when questioned. They quoted him as saying:

"What else could I do? She wouldn't stop and talk to me."

Bracelet in Cab Brings $100 Bill to Honest Finder

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Taxi driver Joseph Koler found a bracelet wedged between the side and back seat of his cab.

He took it home and tossed it in a dresser drawer. Mrs. Koser wore it around the house while cleaning, both thinking it was a piece of costume jewelry.

But yesterday Koser read a newspaper story about the loss of a $10,000 platinum and diamond bracelet. He called the owner, Mrs. Albert Greenburg of Tulsa, Okla., who identified the bracelet and gave Koser a $100 reward.

"I can sure use the money," Koser said. "Santa Claus will get it." He was off work seven weeks in a cab strike here.

New Catholic Center Dedicated at UM

ANN ARBOR (UP)—Catholic students at the University of Michigan have a new $310,000, two-story brick student center adjacent to campustown today.

Built by the Newman Foundation, the new center contains living quarters and guest rooms, offices, lounges and a library.

Nearly 1,000 turned out in damp, unpleasant weather to witness the dedication and hear talks by Catholic leaders. Among those present were: Father James McGuire of Wayne University, Detroit; Msgr. Hickey, pastor of Detroit's St. Mary's of Redford; Msgr. Kearns, assistant chancellor of Detroit; Msgr. Donald Cleary of the University of Cornell, and Fr. Edward Duncan of the University of Illinois.

U-M Public Health Man Dies Following Stroke

ANN ARBOR (UP) — Dr. Carl E. Buck, University of Michigan public health expert is dead at the age of 62.

Dr. Buck, a professor of public health at the university for the last six years, had only recently been presented the Sedgwick Award for Distinguished Service at the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association in New York City.

He suffered a stroke Friday and died in University Hospital Sunday.

Miss Universe to Settle Down as Housewife

STOCKTON, Calif. (UP)—Miss Universe, pretty Christine Martel of France, arrived yesterday for a look at her home-to-be—and to plan for her wedding to a Stockton department store excutive.

Miss Martel, winner of the Miss Universe contest in Long Beach, Calif., this year, plans a January wedding to Ronnie Marengo, manager and part owner of one of his father's two stores.

The 18-year old beauty said she plans to give up the move contract she won in the Miss Universe contest and settle down as a housewife.

"She really likes Stockton," said the beaming Marengo. "She thinks it's a wonderful little town."

Senator Says Japan Needs Aid to Rearm

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) says Japan must have expanded trade or more U.S. military aid if it is to rearm, as urged by top American leader.

In an interview yesterday, Mansfield said two billion dollars of the five billions spent annually by the United States for the Korean War went to Japan. With the truce, he said, these outlays have been reduced.

"Unless Japan is heavily subsidized by this country for many years to come," Mansfield said, "it must find avenues of trade to strengthen the economy and recreate its military forces."

Celebrities Seen at Palm Springs

Rates Very High but Is 'The' Place for Tourists to See Stars

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (INS)—Palm Springs is the mecca of all tourists who want to rub-elbows with Hollywood film folk and celebrities between October and April.

The desert resort, located in the Mojave Desert some 70 miles from Hollywood, has been a popular "place to go" for Southern Californians for 35 years.

Rates are high at most places and food is expensive although a reasonably priced weekend or extended vacation can be arranged.

Rooms and suites at some of the more plush hostelries run around $30 per day, meals not included.

Retiring film folk find Palm Springs a perfect place to relax and take it easy after all those years before the camera. Stars currently in the public's favor find it ideal for a weekend.

Charles Farrell, silent screen lover, was Mayor of Palm Springs until recently. He owns the Racquet Club, one of the flossiest in the desert resort. Rooms must be reserved far in advance. It is the place to see the big film names.

Joan Crawford, Kathryn Grayson, Frank Sinatra, Ava Gardner and a host of others are regular weekenders at the place.

Palm Springs proper is located right smack against the Agua Caliente Indian Reservation. The main street is lined with expensive restaurants, plush bars, curio shops, realty shops and exclusive clothing stores.

One section of the town is restricted to homes of the $36,000 or better class and in this group are desert mansions built by the film and radio people and a stray cattleman or two.

There are nearly 1,000 swimming pools in the town, but not a one of them for use of the casual tourist. Guests at the more luxurious hotels can take their dips regularly, however.

Beside a restful atmosphere and fresh clean desert air, Palm Springs offers horseback riding in abundance, hiking and all the sunbathing that a tourist can take.

The resort is at the foot of the San Jacinto Mountain range. In wintertime the ski areas are only an hour's drive from the desert.

Spartans Picked to Oppose UCLA in Rose Bowl

CHICAGO (UP) — Michigan State's Spartans — winners of 32 of 33 football games and currently ranked as the nation's No. 3 team — are Rose Bowl bound.

National champion of 1952, MSC won 28 of those 32 games in a row before Purdue squeaked to a 6-0 decision.

MSC emerged from a flurry of weekend telephone calls, telegrams, secret meetings and repated balloting as the Big Ten choice for the Rose Bowl.

The Spartan opponent in the annual Jan. 1 classic at Pasadena will be UCLA, the Pacific Coast Conference champion which will be formally appointed today.

Big Ten athletic directors chose Michigan State over Illinois, a team the Spartans tied for the conference championship at five victories and one loss each.

Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson took the first sounding of sentiment Saturday night by telephone and telegram. Several such ballots were deadlocked, five Michigan State, five for Illinois.

Despairing of reaching a decision by long distance, Wilson summoned the various chiefs to Chicago for a Sunday meeting, which lasted about 12 hours. Reporters were advised that it was going on but Wilson wouldn't tell them just where.

Finally, reportedly on the sixth ballot, one director previously favoring Illinois switched to Michigan State. The 6-4 vote was all that the Spartans needed.

Athletic directors from Illinois and Michigan State, by mutual consent, absented themselves from the Chicago meeting. Also absent — but accounted for — was Michigan's Fritz Crisler, who sat in by phone from Detroit. Crisler had intended to fly to the meeting but bad weather grounded his plane.

Michigan State, rated third in the country, had a slightly better record than Illinois — eight victories and one loss (6-0 to Purdue) against the Illini's seven wins, one loss (34-7 to Wisconsin) and one tie (21-21 by Nebraska).

However, some directors apparently voted against the Spartans because of their current probationary status for certain alumni recruting practices and because of their first-year standing in the Big Ten. Other, personal factors might have entered in.

An item thought to have worked against Illinois, in addition to its overall record, was the fact that the Illini had made two previous trips to the Rose Bowl — in 1947 and 1952.

Michigan State, which accepted the nomination immediately, was overjoyed. Coach Biggie Munn, who in seven years has raised the East Lansing school to a premier position nationally, said it was "great . . . wonderful" and president John A. Hannah said he was "greatly pleased." The Spartan campus erupted in a huge but orderly celebration.

Illinois took the disappointment quietly. Athletic director Doug Mills said he had no comment to make.

THROWN FOR LOSS—Michigan State quarterback Johnny Matsock (43) is thrown for a tyo-yard loss by hard-charging Jim Hanley of Marquette on the last play of the 3rd period of Saturday's game at East Lansing. Number 45 is fullback Jerry Planutis of MSC. Matsock got one of the Spartan touchdowns in their 21-15 victory over the Hilltoppers.

Could Have Been Worse!

Leahy Proud of Finish Irish Made to Get Tie

By FRANK LEAHY

It could have been a lot worse. We had known from the results of its shutout victories over Purdue and Minnesota that the University of Iowa football team was in as good late season form as any team in the nation.

We worked as hard as we possibly could all week to combat the potent Hawkeye offense and to try and devise ways of scoring on them. Yet with but 30 seconds to go in the ball game we were on the short end of the score by seven points.

It was in those last 30 seconds that I became as proud of our team as I have ever been of any team we've coached. Coaching football is a funny business. You work so hard to win every game and yet from seven victories I didn't derive as much as I did out of seeing them fight back against great odds to tie a truly fine Iowa team.

Iowa displayed a fine blend of split-T and single wing football which hurt us, but which didn't give us as much trouble as their defense did. We had to go to the air for both touchdowns. For Iowa that was the end of one of their finest seasons and signals a job very well done by a fine young coach.

In other sections of the nation, the names that made news were Maryland in the South, Oklahoma and Baylor in the Southwest, UCLA on the coast, Illinois and Michigan State in the Big Ten, and Harvard in the East. For Maryland it was the completion of a perfect season and a clean slate to take to the Orange Bowl on Jan. 1.

For the 41st consecutive time, Oklahoma failed to taste defeat in the Big Seven as they annexed another title. UCLA won the big one and the right to represent the coast in Pasadena on the strength of some of the year's finest defense. That was their fourth shutout win of the year.

Michigan State had trouble with a stubborn Marquette team but won to convince the Big Ten people that they rightfully belong in that circuit as they tied with Illinois for the title.

Tough Marquette Beaten by Single TD; Wolverines Hand Surprise to Buckeyes

Tony Branoff and Balzhiser Lead in 20-0 Victory

By H. GUY MOATS
Pontiac Press Sports Editor

ANN ARBOR — University of Michigan's Wolverines achieved an altogether satisfactory victory here Saturday afternoon in their 1953 season's gridiron finale. Coach Bennie Oosterbaan's inspired crew spanked a thoroughly outplayed Ohio State outfit 20-0 before the Midwest's largest collegiate crowd of the year (90,126).

The victory was sufficient to boost Michigan into a 5th place tie with the surprising Iowa Hawkeyes, who tied the nation's No. 1 team, Notre Dame 14-14. It gave the Wolverines a 3-3-0 Big Ten record, just behind OSU, their Saturday's victim.

Michigan completely dominated the contest. The in-and-out Wolverine defense and its offense jelled into a solid, producing unit against the Bucks. Ohio was unable to shake its speedy Bob Watkins loose, or complete any spectacular aerials from Johnny Borton. Bucks did, however complete 10 of 21 tries, with Borton connecting on 6 and Dave Leggett 4. Five were intercepted by Michigan, one setting up the last Michigan TD. Tad Stanford grabbed that one on the OSU 20, and ran to the 6-yard mark from where Dan Cline went over.

Balzhiser intercepted an OSU pass on the 38 and five plays later Tony Branoff, sensational Flint sophomore, galloped into the end zone from the 7-yard stripe, for the 2nd tally. It took just three minutes to get this one.

Branoff was the game's workhorse. Tony lugged the ball 17 times, for 113 yards, by far the day's biggest ground-gaining job. Bob Hurley's 8 tries for 53 yards, and Balzhiser's 11 for 40 were ahead of OSU's best, with the exception of Bob Watkins, who had 71 yards in 19 tries.

Branoff's slashing runs and Balzhiser's line rushes were highlighted features of U. of M.'s offense. Both shone also on defense, while Michigan's forwards were constantly crowding Buckeye passers and runners.

Wolverines rolled up 285 yards rushing, only 19 passing. OSU had 95 rushing and 107 by the air.

It was much the best game the Wolverines had turned in all season. They had blanked Ohio for its first shutout in 1953.

Oosterbaan was happy. The entire squad was happy. Players grabbed Bennie and Frosh coach Wally Weber, as the game ended, and carried them off the field.

Wildly enthusiastic students tried to tear down their own goal posts. They succeeded in breaking off the upper half of one upright on the north goal.

Colorful and snappy band numbers by both Michigan and Ohio's band provided halftime and aftergame spectacles.

MSC Is Forced to Wipe Out Deficit for 21-15 Win

By JACK SAYLOR

EAST LANSING — There was nothing but jubilation at Michigan State College today after Sunday's vote in Chicago giving Biggie Munn's Spartans the Rose Bowl nod over Illinois.

But tempering the joy over the Pasadena date, particularly for Munn and his staff, must be the realization that the Spartans undoubtedly will have to be better than they were Saturday if they are to carry on Big 10 tradition against powerful UCLA.

MSC was not impressive in its 21-15 triumph over Marquette, the Spartans' 8th victory in nine games. They blew a two-touchdown lead and were out-played for much of the contest.

In fact, had it not been for eight Hilltopper fumbles, four of which were lost, and several untimely penalties, Marquette might well have upset MSC.

Game began as though it might be a re-play of last year's meeting, won by State, 62-13. Spartans had a TD before three minutes had been played and held a 14-0 lead at the quarter.

However, this was not the same Marquette team that was hard-pressed to win from Holy Cross and Boston U. in recent weeks. Quarterback Dick Shockey and two fine ends, George Brehm and Tom Braatz, sparked the 'Toppers to a peak performance.

Marquette out-passed MSC, 196 yards to 87 and had the edge in total offense, 391-304, and in first downs, 20-14. Only a grinding 74-yard drive in the 3rd quarter and some clutch defensive play, notably by end Don Dohoney, saved the Spartans from disaster.

A poor punt set up MSC's 1st tally. Evan Slonac scored on a 30-yard screen pass play from Tom Yewcic. After squandering another great chance moments later, MSC waited until late in the period to get touchdown number two.

Johnny Matsock went 48 yards on a "keep" play for the marker.

Hilltoppers got a safety midway in the 2nd period when Yewcic, back to pass, was trapped in the end zone and tackled by Braatz. The succeeding kickoff and a penalty put Marquette on the MSC 34.

Shockey's passing was the feature and he hurled 11 yards to Braatz for the touchdown. Half ended 14-9.

Marquette continued its comeback in the 3rd period by taking a 15-14 lead. The Wisconsin eleven drove 91 yards after receiving the 2nd half kickoff with a pass play from Shockey to Brehm covering the last 45 yards.

Then came MSC's winning march. Starting from his own 26, Yewcic kept State on the ground all the way with LeRoy Bolden charging over from the 10.

Victory was not secured until Dohoney broke through to nail Shockey on two of the final three plays of the game with the Milwaukeeans in Spartan territory.

Kline Sparkles in UD Triumph

Pontiac Press Wire Service

Dave Kline of Pontiac played a starring role as the University of Detroit kept its Missouri Valley Conference championship hopes alive Saturday by routing Tulsa, 33-0.

Titans can tie Oklahoma A&M for the title Thanksgiving Day by beating Wichita.

Kline set up the 1st TD by returning the opening kickoff 85 yards to the Tulsa 14. Lee Riley scored from the three. Kline's 20-yard run was the key play in the 2nd TD march of 49 yards. Riley again scored.

Bob Burmeier and Tom O'Neil got other Titan touchdowns after Kline's passing had put the ball in scoring position. Final tally came with 2nd-stringers in the game. Kline's relief, Tom Tramski passed to Dick Abel for the touchdown.

Burgmeier led the Titans with 60 yards in 11 carries, while Kline picked up 42 in eight tries.

"Certainly I'm at the bowling alley! Hear that ball rolling down the alley, and some guy yelling for the boy to set 'em up!"

No one in the majors has made an unassisted triple play since the 1927 season.

Five Teams Left in Running for Spot at Dallas

Engineers, Texas Tech, W. Virginia, Ole Miss, 'Bama Considered

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP)—The Cotton Bowl field has been narrowed to five teams and a selection is due within 48 hours, President Otto Eisenlohr of the Cotton Bowl Athletic Assn., indicated today.

He named Georgia Tech, Alabama, West Virginia, Texas Tech and Mississippi as being on the list from which a visiting team will be picked to play the Southwest Conference representative.

He doesn't know the Southwest Conference team either because right now there is a three-way tie for the lead among Texas, Rice and Baylor and it will require three games this week to even cut it down to two.

Georgia Tech was considered the leading prospect in some quarters but that couldn't be verified from the selection committee, of which Leonard Green is chairman and Eisenlohr is a member. The committee members weren't talking other than to say they were in continuous session and had become the darlings of the telephone company.

"Man, are those bills running up!" breathed Eisenlohr. "We have to name this team pretty soon or we'll all go nuts."

Georgia Tech, with a record of seven victories, one tie and two losses, still has Georgia to play. Alabama plays Auburn, Texas Tech meets Hardin-Simmons and Mississippi closes out with Mississippi State this week. West Virginia has finished its schedule with an 8-1 record.

UCLA Pleased That Spartans Are Opposition

Sanders Says Coast Team Wanted to Meet Big 10's Best

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Coach Henry R. (Red) Sanders of UCLA's Rose Bowl team said last night he was not surprised but rather pleased that Michigan State had been seelcted by the Big Ten for the bowl game New Year's Day at Pasadena.

"We felt that the Big Ten would vote what it thought was its best team. Naturally for us, win or lose, we want to meet the best team. I think our kids will respond to such a challenge," Sanders said.

He pointed out that Michigan State has been rated among the very top teams in the nation for the last several years, and that this year the Spartans are ranked nationally "way over Illinois."

Associated Press poll last week rated Michigan State third and Illinois seventh.

UCLA defeated Southern Cal yesterday, while Stanford was tied by California. This placed UCLA on top in the Pacific Coast Conference.

Official vote to send the Bruins to the Rose Bowl is regarded as a virtual cinch when the ballot is announced tomorrow.

Sanders disclosed that at a meeting of his staff this afternoon his assistants predicted, 5 out of 6, that Michigan State would get the Big Ten assignment.

He said he has looked over some of his scouts' reports on Michigan State from the Spartans' last two games. Sanders said he has not studied them carefully as yet, but he added.

"They will be a terrific team to defense. They have perhaps the most diversified attack in the country, certainly more than anything we have met this season. They used buck laterals, jump passes, fullback spins, T-formations and almost everything else in the book. Without even going into personnel we know they will be hard to solve."

Giel Only Unanimous Pick

Dohoney, Bolden, Topp Are Selected on Coaches All-Big 10 Conference 11

By ED SAINSBURY

CHICAGO (UP) — Big Ten co-champions Michigan State and Illinois and Minnesota each placed two men of the United Press all conference team today while stars from Michigan, Ohio State, Purdue, Iowa and Wisconsin grabbed the other five positions.

The Rose Bowl nominee, Michigan State, placed end Don Dohoney and halfback Le Roy Bolden, while the Illini representatives were halfback J. C. Caroline, who ran to a new conference rushing record this season, and guard Jan Smid.

Minnesota placed the only unanimous player in the lineup, halfback Paul Giel, and tackle Stavros Canakes.

Other first team players were end Bob Topp, Michigan, tackle George Jacoby, Ohio State, guard Tom Bettis, Purdue, center Jerry Hilgenberg, Iowa, and fullback Alan Ameche, Wisconsin.

The team was picked for United Press by the league's 10 coaches. They named in their ballots 13 ends and tackles, 11 guards, seven centers and 19 backs.

Only two of the 1st 11 were repeaters. Both Giel and Ameche made the club last year. Another of last year's first team, Joe Collier of Northwestern, failed to be voted on the 1st team this year and instead was placed on the 3rd team.

Both Jacoby and Bettis made the 2nd all conference team last year, while Don Chelf of Iowa, on the 3rd team this year, also made the 3rd team a year ago. John Borton of Ohio State made the 3rd team this year, a step up from his postion last year.

Chicago Aerial Backfires, and Lions Grab 20-16 Win

CHICAGO (AP)—Detroit Lions still are a half-game atop the Western Division standings in the National Football League — thanks to a gamble that backfired on quarterback George Blanda of the Chicago Bears Sunday.

Leading 16-13 in the 4th period, Blanda attempted to pass the Bears out of trouble on their own goal line. Halfback Bob Smith of Detroit intercepted on the seven and Doak Walker circled end for the winning score on 4th down. The score was 20-16.

When Walker converted after his touchdown it gave him 14 points for the day and lifted his NFL scoring total to an even 70. He booted two field goals and converted once previously.

Altogether Layne's passes were good for 240 yards.

Blanda's fatal pass followed an attempted field goal by Walker. The 4th down kick was short from the 40. End Jim Martin of the Lions fell on it just inches short of the Bear goal.

Blanda tried to pass out of this tight spot, and he hit Bill McColl for four yards. But Smith grabbed his next toss on the 7, where he was downed.

Bears yielded only five yards in three downs, but Walker went over for the touchdown on 4th down, and that saved the day for the Lions.

While Detroit was winning, so were the 2nd-place Los Angeles Rams. Their 21-13 victory over the Baltimore Colts kept them within half a game of the Lions.

Except for his passing blunder Blanda showed brilliantly and almost led the Bears to an upset over the 10-point favored Lions. Detroit had to come from behind twice and intercepted three passes that broke up Bear drives deep in Lion territory.

Detroit's first touchdown was scored on a two-yard plunge by Bob Hoernschemeyer, climaxing a 66-yard drive in the 2nd quarter.

Eliot Sends Best Wishes to Spartan Squad

CHICAGO (UP) — Coach Ray Eliot of Illinois, whose orange and blue tied with Michigan State for the Big Ten title, congratulated the Spartans Sunday night on their selection as the conference's Rose Bowl representative.

"Let us congratulate Michigan State on being selected to go to the Rose Bowl," Eliot said. "We all know they'll be a wonderful representative.

"We know they'll do a wonderful job out there, and in behalf of the Illinois football team and the coaching staff, I want to send them my best wishes."

George Kell of the Boston Red Sox has hit over 300 for the last eight seasons.

Bates, Watkins Top Big Ten's Scoring

CHICAGO (AP)—A couple of hard-hitting halfbacks, Mickey Bates of Illinois and Bob Watkins of Ohio State tied for the Big Ten individual 1953 scoring crown.

A final tabulation following the conference's closing games Saturday showed each had scored 66 points on 11 touchdowns. Neither scored in the respective finales of their teams.

Dusty Rice of Iowa was in third place with 60 while Paul Giel of Minnesota was fourth with 54.

The 50th Chicago City bowling tournament will start Dec. 26. The CBA wil give every member of every team a special anniversary token.

Army Making Rapid Recovery From 'Crib' Scandal; Cadets Oppose Navy on Even Terms This Saturday

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK—It was back in 1951 when West Point's superintendent went cuckoo and fired one of Army's greatest teams, including many of its finest cadets.

It was on that day that coach Earl "Red" Blaik disconsolately looked out over a desolate desert. There was nothing in sight. Many of his football players were welcomed to other schools which they helped immeasurably. Blaik had only a brilliant past to look back on, with no future visible against a dark horizon.

How long would it take to put another team in the field that might win for Army and make an even battle in the Navy game? Some said five years. Others thought it would be much longer since good football players would shy away from West Point.

That dark date on the Army calendar was Aug. 3, 1951. This is only Nov. 1953. Yet in that brief time Red Blaik and his assistants have brought Army up to the level of the best teams in the East.

If it beats Navy in the final game it should wear most of the laurel and olive from the Hudson to the Severn, the top team in eastern football.

This Army team has come to its final game with only one defeat. It lost to Northwestern where it might easily have won. It beat Duke, one of the star teams of the Southern Conference, one of the strong teams of the country.

It crushed Dartmouth and Columbia, tied Tulane, beat North Carolina State and then whipped a Pennsylvania team that had played Michigan, Ohio State and Notre Dame to a standstill.

This same squad, ably handled by Blaik and an able staff, now faces Navy on even terms where Navy, at the season's start, looked to be many touchdowns better.

Army came up the hard way. The squad lost Freddie Attaya, its best back. Blaik had to call on many young, inexperienced cadets who had to make up in flaming spirit, the will to give their best.

There has probably never been a team with a finer football spirit than Army has shown all year. Navy no longer looks down on its depleted rival. It is meeting a Blaik team just as good as it is in every department of play.

STOPPED BEFORE HE STARTS—Michigan halfback Tony Branoff (17) is tackled by Ohio State center Ken Vargo, who limits Branoff's try to a two-yard gain in the 1st quarter Saturday at Ann Arbor. At rear is Buckeye end Bob Joslin. Branoff later scored one of Michigan's touchdowns in the Wolverines' 20-0 victory.

Races, Dance Contest Held at Rolladium Rink

Winners in Saturday's fourth races of the first skating period were Charles Roehm and Sharon Dermott (Class A), Charles Parker and Becky Giannini (Class B) and Jimmy Pittman and Diane Clouse (Class C).

Third dancing contest Sunday was the Highland Schottische, in which 16 couples competed. Winners were Robert McLaughlin and Charlotte Wolhson, representing the Ambassador Rink in Clawson.

Bowl Confusion Fog Beginning to Lift

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The fog—not the same one that has been plaguing the East for the past week—was beginning to lift ever so slightly today on the confused bowl picture. The Rose Bowl and Orange Bowl promoters were just about out of it.

But still fogbound were the Cotton Bowl and Sugar Bowl chieftains. They have plenty of teams from which to make their selections, but they didn't have the faintest notion of how to go about trimming the list of eligibles.

And while the promoters were scratching their heads, the coaches and players had plenty to mull over in the wake of Notre Dame's 14-14 tie with Iowa. There was no question that the Hawkeyes knocked the cloak of invincibility off the Irish.

As for the bowls, the Rose will pit Michigan State against UCLA. The Uclans, champions of the Pacific Coast Conference, needed only the official ratification of the rest of the league to make it official. State was voted in last night at a Big Ten meeting. The Spartans wound up in a tie with Illinois for the league championship, each with a record of 5-1.

The Orange Bowl will send Oklahoma, the Big Seven winner, against Maryland, which finished its season Saturday with a 21-0 victory over Alabama. The Terps are the only major undefeated-untied team in the country.

Cotton Bowl officials are being forced to wait for the end of the Southwest Conference season to determine the host team. Right now Baylor, Rice and Texas are tied for the lead. Baylor and Rice go at each other Saturday, so one will be eliminated.

Officials said they hoped to decide the visiting team within the next 48 hours. Georgia Tech has the inside track, although still up for consideration are Kentucky, West Virginia, Auburn, Alabama and Mississippi.

If Mississippi can get by Mississippi State, however, and wins the Southeastern Conference title, it probably will go to the Sugar Bowl against the second-place team in the Southwest Conference. If State wins, the Southeastern Conference champion would be decided by the Alabama-Auburn game Saturday. The Southeastern Conference victor usually plays in the Sugar Bowl.

The last big Saturday of the season ran pretty much true to form. The big games of the day were on the West Coast, where UCLA and Stanford were tied for the conference lead. The Uclans defeated Southern California 13-0 and Stanford could do no better than tie California 21-21.

Oregon State, a team that could not score a point in its first five games, surprised one and all by beating Oregon 7-0 and Mississippi Southern which started off the season with an upset over Alabama, finished operations by thumping Georgia 14-0. Finally, Harvard upended Yale 13-0.

Middies Await Ransom Note on Pet Goat

Billy XII Shows Up at West Point; Soccer Team Suspected

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Navy awaited a ransom note today, confident Army would return the Middies' kidnaped goat before the Army-Navy football game.

Billy XII, Navy's blue-gray mascot, was smuggled out of his shed in Thompson Stadium by unidentified parties during the early, fog-shrouded hours yesterday morning.

Last night, Naval Academy officials said they had been informed Billy had been unveiled at the evening meal formation at West Point.

About 4 a.m. yesterday an anonymous "female" called and asked if Billy was in his shed. A guard dispatched to check found the goat gone. He also found two empty chloroform cans.

A sharp finger of suspicion was pointed at the Army soccer team which left here at noon yesterday after beating the Middies 2-1 Saturday.

Faloney Is Hurt, but Will Be Ready Jan. 1

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland's All America quarterback candidate Bernie Faloney should be in shape to play in the Orange Bowl next New Year's Day if the Terps are invited as indicated.

Trainer Duke Wyre says Faloney will have to take treatment for two weeks for the torn ligament in his left knee suffered in Maryland's 21-0 victory over Alabama last Saturday.

Wyre said Faloney ought to be able to take part in practice sessions in a couple of weeks.

Duke University's basketball team will play in two invitation tourneys during the Christmas holidays — the University of Kentucky Invitational, Dec. 21-22, and North Carolina State's Dixie Classic, Dec. 28-30.

Sharman Is Glad He Selected Basketball

BOSTON (AP)—Bill Sharman, who previously divided his time playing baseball in the Dodger chain and basketball for the Boston Celtics, is now concentrating on basketball only. And he's mighty glad.

Last baseball season Sharman saw little action for the Mobile Bears in the Southern Association. First he was sidelined with a broken wrist, then an ankle injury and finally an attack of measles.

Berg Gives Advice

NEW YORK — Golfers wanting to keep their fingers nimble should take up sewing.

That's Patty Berg's advice and she practices what she preaches. "Not only does sewing keep your fingers in shape for golf," the champion women's shotmaker stresses, "but it is also a great source of relaxation when not playing or practicing."

'Trotters Beat Jewelers, Delight Fans With Antics

A near-capacity crowd turned out in Pontiac High School's gymnasium Sunday night to watch the famed Harlem Globetrotters clown their way to a 51-33 victory over Shaw's Jewelry.

Shaw team, comprised of the cream of the area's basketball talent, was completely outclassed by the spectacular Harlem club. 'Trotters built up a 19-9 first-quarter lead, stretched their margin to 33-15 by halftime and coasted to the final count.

Globetrotters dug deep into their bag of basketball tricks to delight the big audience. Guard Don Coffey led the Harlem quintet with 15 points, but Shaw's Sam Minard copped game honors with 16.

A team comprised of University of Michigan students beat St. George's five, 43-29, in a preliminary game. John Rappanus led scoring with 13 points, while Socrates Rallis had eight for the losers.

Program was sponsored by the Muses Club of St. George's Greek Orthodox Church.

Red Wings Win Sunday Contest, Lose Saturday

Latest Victory Aids Detroit to Gain in NHL's Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Detroit Red Wings maintained their second place standing in the National Hockey League Sunday night with a 3-2 win over the New York Rangers.

The victory enabled the Wings to recoup one point in their battle to overtake league leading Montreal which was held to a 2-2 tie by Boston.

Montreal gained ground on the Wings Saturday night with a 1-0 shutout over the Detroit squad.

Rookie Bill Dineen fired a hard shot past Ranger goalie Johnny Bower midway in the third period to give Detroit its victory Sunday.

A crowd of 11,602 fans saw Detroit come from behind to wipe out a 2-0 deficit and down the Rangers.

Johnny Wilson scored the Wings' two other tallies with assists from Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay.

Wilson's first goal came at 19:15 of the second period while the Rangers were shorthanded. Wilson collected his game tying tally at 7:42 of the final period.

Paul Ronty and Camille Henry scored New York's two goals.

Cornell Is Winner of Ivy League Title

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ivy League season is practically at an end with Cornell the winner.

There is only one game left — Cornell-Penn on Thanksgiving Day — but the result will be of no significance. Actually, if Penn wins, the Quakers will show a 1-0 mark for the season since they play only one league foe.

But Penn authorities have indicated they will not accept the title on the basis of only one game. So Cornell, even if it does lose, is in. The Ithacans, with a record of 3-0 are far ahead of their closest rivals, Harvard and Yale, each with 3-2.

MSC Honors Pontiac Major, Birmingham Man

Pre-game ceremonies at East Lansing Saturday had an Oakland County flavor.

Pontiac's Gene Hickson, veteran drum major of the MSC band, was honored by the Spartan musicians prior to the kickoff of the Michigan State-Marquette game.

Band formed the outline of a drum major in recognition of Gene's four years' service with the organization.

Also introduced before the game was the 1923 MSC football team, 1st to play in the then new Macklin Stadium. Among the nine members of that team present was Hugh A. Robinson of Birmingham.

He played end of the '23 Spartans.

Martin Is Called Old Day Throwback

NEW YORK — Frankie Frisch has said that Billy Martin of the Yankees is truly a throwback to the old days when combatants played to the hilt.

"Any old-time team would have been glad to have him," the Fordham Flash asserts. "He's smart, aggressive and hates to lose.

He's always studying the other guy, gets the jump on him. They cal Ihim a fighter. I don't like the word. He's a competitor, plays to win.

"He's my kind of ball player."

Doak Walker's Career as Lineman Was Brief

Doak Walker, Detroit Lions ace halfback, began his football career in Highland Park (Tex.) junior high school as a guard.

With a minute remaining in his first game, he intercepted an enemy pass and ran 75-yards for the winning touchdown . . . and that ended his career as a lineman!

Five Lions Ex-Cards

Fighting Finish Earns Irish Tie

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Iowa's stirring ask-no-quarter stand and some timely theatrics by a Notre Dame lineman have almost obscured one of the big features of Saturday's 14-14 Hawkeye-Irish tie.

That is the typical fighting finish put on by Frank Leahy's South Bend lads. Twice they rallied to tie the Hawks—once in the final second of the first half and again in the last six seconds of the game.

On both occasions, quarterback Ralph Guglielmi capped long drives by rifling short touchdown heaves to Dan Shannon. The pay-off plays, coming as they did in tense, beat-the-clock situations, were executed in remarkably cool and efficient manner by Guglielmi and his mates.

Irish had to put together and complete the final drive in just two minutes. That's all the time they had left after Iowa had gone ahead 14-7 with a line-shredding 52-yard march to the end zone.

Obviously, an aerial attack was Notre Dame's only hope and the heady Guglielmi immediately set to work, completing four passes that advanced the Irish from their own 42 to the Iowa nine.

Although there wasn't time for more than one play—two at the most—the Irish quarterback calmly drifted back on the next snap, paused to survey possible down-field targets and then, sighting Shannon breaking loose behind the goal, socked the ball squarely into the big end's midsection.

Somehow, even Hawkeye partisans in the crowd sensed that Don Schaefer's subsequent conversion attempt was destined to be a success.

But Notre Dame's fiery comeback in no sense eclipsed an equally gutty Iowa performance. The 2-touchdown underdogs took everything the Irish had to offer in the way of cracking, toe-to-toe football and more than held their own with the nation's undefeated number one team.

Still something of a nagging irritation to Iowans are the now celebrated dramatics of Irish tackle Frank Varrichione, who screamed and writhed with such success that game officials, calling a timeout for an "injured player," stopped the clock with one second left in the first half.

This gave Notre Dame the time it needed for Guglielmi's 1st touchdown pitch and prevented a possibly-harmful 5-yard penalty, since the Irish already had taken the five timeouts to which they were entitled.

Varrichione then played virtually all the second half.

Drivers Enter Final Lap of Pan-Am Grind

Only 64 of 177 Left in Field as Leaders Keep Positions

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Drivers in Mexico's fastest Pan-American Road Race entered the final lap today, from Chihuahua to Ciudad Juarez, with only one leader in the four divisions holding a big lead.

Only 64 of the original 177 starters set out on the home stretch. The 1,912-mile race got under way last Thursday near the Guatemalan border.

Hans Hartman, German champion driving a Borgward, carried a 19-minute margin in the small sports class over his nearest competitor, Jaroslav Juhan of Guatemala, into the final 222.5 miles.

Leaders in the other three divisions managed to stay on top but all lost some ground.

Chuck Stevenson of Milwaukee, driving a Lincoln, watched teammate Walt Faulkner of Long Beach, Calif., whittle his seven-minute advantage down to less than four in the large stock car class.

In the big sports car class, Italy's Piero Piero Taruffi narrowed the lead of Argentina's Manuel Fangio from 10 minutes to less than nine. Both drive Lancias.

The first-place margin of C. D. Evans, El Paso, Tex., was trimmed from seven minutes to six in the small stock car division by Norman Patterson, a fellow El Paso driver. Evans is driving a Chevrolet, Patterson a Ford.

No accidents were reported during yesterday's laps, for the first perfect day since the grueling test began. To date seven persons—three drivers and four spectators—have been killed.

CASE—Freezing the Thumb.

Swing Is Rushed — A common fault with beginners, and one that also bothers experts, is called a "frozen thumb." The thumb is released too late.

It must come out first, leaving the fingers to apply hook spin with control, as the illustration shows. Usually thumb freezing—hanging onto the ball—pulls the arm out of the swinging groove; drives the ball high on the head pin or even to its left side (Brooklyn or cross-over, it is called).

Frozen thumb-itis results from rushed footwork. Too fast a get-away. Abrupt stop at foul line. Kills follow-through. Jerky release. Poor body balance. Slow first step will coordinate footwork and swing to smooth slide-finish.

Committee Set to Review Rule

Controversial 'Awards' Ruling Has Been Edited by Taylor

LANSING (AP) — The case of 10 Michigan high school lads who lost their athletic eligibility for accepting merchandise awards returns to the spotlight today.

An 18-man committee of educators, laymen and legislators holds its second conference with Dr. Clair L. Taylor, state superintendent of public instruction, who organized it to review the controversial "awards" rule under which the youths were suspended.

Other than language changes, the committee has recommended only that the penalty provision be weakened, requiring suspension from one term to one year, rather than the present mandatory one-year suspension.

Dr. Taylor called the group back today to have it review the proposed new rule after it had been "edited" by his staff.

If he accepts it, it must be approved by the attorney general and governor before it becomes effective.

Hal Boyle Says:

Women Practice Chivalry More Than Males Today

NEW YORK (AP) — It always used to make me uneasy when I heard a woman praise a man.

I figured the poor fellow was either already under a tombstone — or failing rapidly.

But lately — well, I just don't know. Women are saying so many nice things about men they are getting calluses on their vocal cords.

"It doesn't mean a thing except we're getting closer to Christmas," one gentleman cynic told me. "The average woman's disposition begins to improve just before Thanksgiving.

"By the first of December she is acting like a human being. By the middle of the month, as Santa Claus gets nearer and nearer, you can see a halo over her head in a dim room.

"But soon after she gets her Christmas loot, the sweetness and light vanish, and the normal bark and bite come back into her voice again. Her feeling of gratitude fades faster than a snowflake in a bonfire."

But is this really so? Isn't this sour old-timer merely living in the past? It is true, pperhaps, that human nature never changes. But how about the nature of women? There are signs it is changing with revolutionary speed.

I choose to believe, for example, that old-fashioned chivalry and courtliness aren't dead. They merely have undergone a change of ownership.

Like everything else that used to be symbols of masculine dominance — such as money, tobacco, pants and the dry martini — chivalry has been taken over by women. They are showing more and more gallantry in their attitude toward the weaker sex, man.

What else but pure gallantry explains the recent statement by Miss Kathleen Watts, a British psychologist, that men are more intelligent than women?

She gave a series of questions and problems prepared by another lady — Dr. Alice Heim — to a mixed group of 700 British university students. The results, she says, showed boys are smarter than girls, reason better, and learn quicker through practice.

Maybe. It also could prove only that a kindhearted woman scientist is able to devise a test on which the lads could get a better grade than the lassies.

For certainly today nobody seriously doubts that women can outthink and outgeneral men in any battlefield that interests them. Intelligence is not a thing you can put your finger on. It can best be described as common sense in action.

Basically, the most intelligent organism is the one that can best adjust its environment to better its own way of life and improve its chances of survival, and here woman has no peer.

Where man breaks and dies under strain, woman bends and waits for better weather.

All people are a mystery to each other. But a woman can solve a man at a glance, and he can't figure her out in a lifetime.

Youth Escapes Prison Four Hours Too Soon

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Impatience cost George Dixon, 19, his legal release from prison.

While prison officials waited for commutation papers to arrive which would reduce Dixon's sentence to time served, he escaped. He was serving a two-year sentence for forcible trespass. In four hours he would have been freed.

Last 2 in Company A to Drink Champagne

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP) — A bottle of champaign, now aging in the vault of a Great Falls bank, will be drunk by the last two survivors of Company A, First Montana Volunteer Infantry.

Originally the wine was to go to the last survivor. But members of the "Last Man's Club" of the Spanish-American War Veterans in their last annual convention passed a resolution to change the original terms. The thoughts of several were expressed by one veteran who said:

"In my imagination I see myself with that bottle I know I couldn't drink it; I wouldn't want to drink it."

Towing Nets Stolen Cars

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP) — Police found their recently established policy of towing away illegally parked autos from major thoroughfares served a double purpose. About a dozen cars which were not claimed were found to have been stolen.

Grain Contracts See New Highs

CHICAGO (AP)—After hesitating at the start, soybeans got right back into their advancing wave on the Board of Trade today. Several contracts rose to new seasonal highs with both January and March selling above the $3.00 level.

The rest of the market, a little lower at the start, firmed in sympathy with the rise in soybeans. Dealings were rather slow in all pits, however. The nearby corn contracts attracted buying as only 202 cars of cash corn were on track, a small number for a Monday.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was unchanged to ½ higher, December $1.98⅛, corn unchanged to ⅛ higher, December $1.52½, soybeans ¼-2½ higher, January $3.02 and lard 10-22 cents a pound higher, December $14.17.

Passes Lie Test, Charge Dismissed

A 17-year-old Royal Oak youth convicted of simple larceny Oct. 15 had the charge dismissed today by Oakland County Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty after he successfully passed a lie detector test.

Thomas J. Kitchen of 808 Royal St. had been convicted with two companions of stealing a tire Oct. 8 from a local gas station by Royal Oak Municipal Judge John E. Brondige.

He appealed his conviction to Circuit Court and stood mute when arraigned before Judge Doty Oct. 23.

Kitchen claimed he was out driving with two friends when they took a tire from a gas station without his knowledge. The trio was apprehended immediately by a police officer who pulled into the gas station and watched the theft.

Thrown Into Fire, Shell Explodes, Wounding Boy

One of a handfull of shells thrown into a bonfire Saturday by an Oxford Township youth exploded and wounded the boy in the neck, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

James Paulus, 15, of 1934 Lakeview Dr., was taken to Dr. H. J. Brown of Oxford, who treated him for a scratch along the left side of the youth's neck just below the jaw.

Small Korean Comes to U. S. to Join 'Father'

OMAHA (AP)—A rangy blond ex-sergeant ran with his long legs almost flying down the railroad platform, dropped to his knees and threw his arms around a dimple-cheeked black-eyed boy of 5.

Then he jerkedly open his suitcase, pulled out a brand new winter coat, complete with parka hood, and quickly stuffed the boy into it—talking all the while.

That was the reunion yesterday of Paul Raynor, 25-year-old Huron, S. D., bachelor and bus line owner, and Jimmy, the Korean war orphan he adopted while serving in Korea.

Raynor took Jimmy last Christmas day in Korea. In May of this year he legally adopted him in Korean courts. But when it came time for Raynor to come home in July, he ran into immigration problems and had to leave Jimmy behind while he straightened them out.

Since his return, Raynor said he has worked "full time" at getting Jimmy back here.

He persuaded the state of South Dakota to recognize the adoption through an attorney general's opinion since "it was unprecedented," and arranged to get a visa for Jimmy to come to this country as the dependent of a serviceman.

Raynor, who isn't even engaged, isn't worried about becoming a parent.

"All Korean children are very well behaved," he explained. "They obey without question, although he's geting so he's asking 'why.'"

Hamtramck Driver Faces 2 Warrants

Two warrants charging malicious destruction of property and reckless driving were issued today by Farmington Township Justice Allan C. Ingle against a Hamtramck youth.

George R. Belprez of 2121 Shankin Dr., Walled Lake, signed the complaints against Louis Mallat, 19, of 9119 Joseph Campau.

Belprez claimed he was driving on Northwestern Highway near Southfield road Nov. 19 when Mallat's car forced him off the road. He caught up with Mallat to talk to him, Belprez said, when the youth came over to his car and smashed two windows with his fists.

Club Offers $50 to Help Fly Mother to Injured Woman From England

A group of Swedish-Americans, who know what it's like to be alone in a strange country, has offered $50 to help fly the mother of a severely-burned English war bride to her daughter's bedside at Pontiac General Hospital.

The Pontiac area group, called the Get-Together Club, voted the money Saturday night at its weekly meeting.

The injured woman is Mrs. Elleen Irwin, 5886 Dwight St., Waterford Township. She and her husband, Harry, were injured, but their five children escaped unharmed, when the family auto was involved in an accident on Airport road early this month.

Mrs. Irwin suffered severe burns over one third of her body and was removed from the hospital's critical list only last week.

Her husband, Harry, an employe of the Hawke Realty Co. in Clarkston, received badly burned hands helping his wife and five children out of the burning car. He has not been able to work since the accident.

Mrs. Irwin's mother, Mrs. Richard Welstead of Leigh-on-Sea, Essex, England, hasn't seen her daughter since she left for the United States in 1946.

Mrs. John Bexell, 2470 Dixie Hwy., spokesman and secretary for the Get-Together Club, said that the round-trip air tourist fare to bring the mother from London, Eng., to Detroit is $471, plus a small tax on travel from here to the East coast.

"And she's so badly needed here right now," Mrs. Bexell said.

Mrs. Welstead, contacted on short wave radio by the Irwin family over the weekend, said she was anxious about her daughter and wanted to come to the United States to help her out.

Shareholders to Vote on Merger Jan. 5

Shareholders of the Peninsular Grinding Wheel Co. and Motors Metal Manufacturing Co. will meet Jan. 5 to vote on a proposed merger of the two Detroit firms.

The new name would be Abrasive and Metal Products Co.

Shareholders on record Dec. 7 will be entitled to vote at the meetings, said Irving B. Babcock, board chairman for Peninsualar, and Robert R. McMath, Motors Metal board chairman.

Under the merger plan, shareholders of Peninsular will receive 120 shares of $1 par value Abrasive and Metal Products Co. common for each 100 shares of $1 par value Peninsular common which they now own.

Shareholders of Motors Metal will get 100 shares of $1 par value of Abrasive common and 16 shares of $25 par value Abrasive's five per cent comulative preferred for each 100 shares of $5 par value Motors Metal which they now own. The proposed exchange of stock would, in both cases, be tax free.

Negro Soldier Let Out but With 6,500 Others Because of Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force says it is dismissing a Philadelphia Negro along with 6,500 other airmen because of budgetary limitations—not because he refused to sit in a segregated section of a Southern bus.

The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) cited the case of Lt. Thomas Williams of Philadelphia in charging the Air Force is reprimanding Negro officers who ignore "Southern Jim Crow practices."

Clarence Mitchell, NAACP director here, said in a statement yesterday that this amounts to disobedience of Supreme Court decisions outlawing segregation in interstate travel.

But an Air Force spokesman said last night the bus incident had nothing to do with Williams' dismissal. The spokesman said he was among 6,500 airmen being let out because of budget cuts. He said the 6,500 were chosen because it was felt their release would least disrupt the effectiveness of the Air Force.

Mitchell said Williams, a pilot in training at Craig Air Force Base, Ala., refused to sit in a segregated section of a bus en route from Florida to Alabama.

to Executives who consider the finest topcoat a daily necessity

In good conscience, we could not offer most men our finest topcoat, the 100% virgin wool "Botany" Brand "500" Velour. Not enough are ever made. Fewer still can be offered in any one city.*

We are aware, however, that certain executives must own and wear topcoats which have no peer for richness of fabric, meticulous design and superlative tailoring. They consider—rightfully, we believe—that they owe it to themselves and their positions in the community.

For these select few, we now offer a limited number of "Botany" Brand "500", Tailored by Daroff Topcoats in a notably soft and deep-textured Velour. Available in a limited but excellent choice of shades.

Army Stumped in Child Slaying

Clues Lacking in Death of Colonel's Daughter in Japan

SAGAMIHARA, Japan (AP)—Army investigators said today they were stumped in the vicious slaying of the 9-year-old daughter of an American colonel.

However, they suggested the killer may have been someone she knew and trusted.

The killing left a haze of fear over this huge U. S. Army housing area, which usually rang with the shouts and laughter of playing children.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday for pretty, red-haired Susan Rothschild, whose gagged body was found in a drainage ditch shortly after dark Saturday by her father, Col. Jacquard H. Rothschild.

Her face and neck had numerous bruises and scratches, Army doctors reported after an autopsy, but "there was no evidence of rape or attempted rape."

Investigators for the Army's Criminal Investigation Division (CID), however, did not discount the possibility of an attempted sex crime by a killer frightened away before he could violate the child.

An Army spokesman said investigators had found no clues to what the Army termed a "brutal, vicious murder" and that it was holding no suspects.

"Usually in a case like this," said one CID agent, "you soon find some small thing as a starting point in your investigation. But so far in this case we must still find that something."

Tuberculosis Drug

WASHINGTON (AP) — HES is the nickname of a new drug which looks promising against tuberculosis. HES stands for hydoxyethyl sulfone. Used in tandem with streptomycin, it seemed to have some benefits over streptomycin alone, or streptomycin combined with another drug, PAS, Dr. Howard M. Payne and associates of Howard University Medical school report in the American Review of Tuberculosis.

Patents for barbed wire were issued to Joseph F. Glidden in 1874.
