Lions Train on Lemonade!

BIG SALE — When the Detroit Lions' rookies opened football training camp at Cranbrook yesterday they found a couple young business men setting up shop with a lemonade stand. The youngsters, Louis Heavenrich of Cranbrook and Bruce Coulter of Lone Pine Road, ring up a sale made to halfback Gordon Malloy and end Lamoine Holland. Business was "fair" said the youngsters. Violent Storm Lashes Japan; 253 Are Killed

800 Missing; Believe Death Toll May Run Into Thousands

TOKYO (AP) — A violent storm which in 24 hours dumped 29 inches of rain on low-lying, thickly populated areas of Japan's southernmost major island left at least 253 persons dead today and more than 800 missing or unaccounted for.

There were 106 known injured.

Relief workers in the area said the government casualty figures were conservative. They predicted the death toll would run into the thousands.

Tokyo newspaper correspondents radioed from the flood area on Kyushu Island that at least 1,000 persons died in the city of Isahaya, 15 miles northeast of Nagasaki, and that scores may have perished in Omura, a port a few miles away.

A reporter who flew over the area said Isahaya, a mountain-ringed city of 57,000, looked "like a new sea" with only a few high points and roofs visible above the water.

"It seemed like someone had dumped the contents of a lake on us from a giant barrel," said one Isahaya survivor who was dragged to safety from the debris-choked river that flooded and poured over the city.

Railroads were washed out or blocked by landslides. Highways were closed. Thousands of homes were washed away or flooded.

ONE OF WORST

The 29-inch rainfall was one of the worst rainstorms in Japan's recorded weather. The rain and accompanying violent lightning disrupted communications, leaving many areas isolated except for intermittent radio contact.

The storm began Thursday morning, let up for a few hours late in the day, and then—in the words of one survivor at Isahaya:

"Suddenly an angry bolt of lightning cut the sky. Pounding thunder followed. Then the rains came. Not just by buckets full. It seemed like someone had dumped the contents of a lake on us from a giant barrel."

As the rain increased, floodwaters began pouring through Isahaya. Yasujiro Tachikawa said he

Recording Blasts Starlings From One Tree to Another

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.
(Press Starlings Editor)

Starlings took it on the lam last night—from one tree to another.

But Parks and Recreation Dept. officials aren't discouraged. They believe their new Bird-E-Vict machine will do the trick. But some residents of the city wonder.

"What's worse," one asked, "those starlings or that blasted machine?"

That "blasted machine" is a small amplified magnetic tape recording drummed up by two Pennsylvania doctors which pours forth a racket of thousands of starlings in distress. Its purpose: Drive starlings from their roosts.

The starling inhabitants of Jessie, Cherokee, Menominee, Iroquois, Ottawa and nearby streets couldn't be fooled last night.

They took to the wing as the department truck, blaring the infernal racket, cruised along the streets. But they didn't go far. Usually just one block away was their goal.

Not only did the experiment move the birds, it brought residents to their doorsteps. "My gracious," one Cherokee resident exclaimed, "I thought a dog had been run over."

Other residents were ready to call the police. They stared with looks of bewilderment as the yellow truck passed them. Almost all plugged their ears. Kids kept a safe distance from the contraption.

★ ★ ★

David R. Ewalt, director of the city department, proclaimed the machine a success. "It disturbed them from their roosts, didn't it?" he asked spectators rather dubiously.

"Yeah!" remarked a man, "right over to a roost on my street."

Regardless, Ewalt, undaunted by the criticism, promised the "blasted machine" will be back tonight and Saturday.

Residents are puzzled. Who will suffer the most? They or the starlings.

WHAT A RACKET!! — The usual quiet of a Thursday evening was shattered last night for residents of Jessie, Cherokee, Menominee, Iroquois, Ottawa and neighboring streets. Cause of the disturbance was the Parks and Recreation Dept.'s attempt to drive starlings from the city. In the top photo, William Aho, parks supervisor, braces himself as a recording blares a deafening blast of thousands of starlings in distress. Youngsters on Jessie street (bottom photo) show their opinion of the racket.

Angry Builder Shoots Tierney at City Meeting

Pair Had Been Feuding Since 1946; Stunned Officials Witnesses

DETROIT (AP) — Blazing gunfire cut down the mayor of suburban Garden City in his city hall last night. Critically wounded, he was given only a 50-50 chance to live today.

Police held a wealthy Garden City contractor who had been feuding with the mayor since 1946 for investigation in the shooting.

Shot six times while some 50 city officials and spectators stood by too horrified to act, was Mayor James Tierney, 52. City Attorney Russell L. Swarthout gashed his hand on sights of the assailant's pistol while fighting off the gunman.

Tierney was hit by .22 pistol slugs in the chest, abdomen and groin.

Police Chief Arthur Nagle identified the gunman as Lester Ellerhorst, 52, board chairman of the Gypsum Constructors, Inc., of Garden City. He was held in a neighboring jail because Nagle feared possible violence against him.

Nagle said the shooting apparently was an outgrowth of Wednesday night's City Council meeting where Swarthout accused Ellerhorst's firm of shoddy work on the suburb's new police station and said he would sue.

Ellerhorst was not present. He read an account of Council action in a newspaper.

But Ellerhorst showed up at last night's City Planning Commission meeting and sat quietly in the rear of the City Council room until a recess was taken.

MAYOR JAMES TIERNEY

CHANGED HIS MIND

Nagle said Ellerhorst apparently intended to shoot Swarthout, but changed his mind. While Tierney and Swarthout were standing, talking, Ellerhorst pushed his way toward them, grabbed the city attorney and punched him.

★ ★ ★

Shouting, "You've called me a thief for the last time. I never stole anything in my life," Nagle said Ellerhorst drew a pistol and aimed pointblank at Swarthout.

"He fired right at me," Swarthout said, "but it misfired. Then he was shooting right into Jim at point blank range."

Swarthout and Planning Commissioner Paul Champagen grappled with Ellerhorst and twisted the .22 caliber revolver from his grip.

The stunned crowd stood back and watched as Ellerhorst walked

Slays Himself, Wife, Bystander in Auto Explosion

Blast Expert Kills Three

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An explosives expert blasted himself and his estranged wife to death in their parked auto last night. The explosion also claimed the life of an 8-year-old girl happily licking an ice cream bar.

Seven other passers-by were injured in the blast, which rocked the North Side business section about one mile from midtown.

The dead are Arthur DePew, 29, his wife Elaine, 18, and Linda Kraus.

Linda's 11-year-old sister Joan was hurled through a store window and suffered multiple cuts.

The children's grandfather Frank Panza, 55, suffered a hip laceration. He and Joan were the only persons admitted to a hospital and officials said both are expected to recover.

The blast knocked pedestrians over and broke windows in a wide area.

DePew, a blaster for a construction firm on a sewage tunnel project here, parked his car just a few minutes before he met his wife in a prearranged reconciliation attempt. The couple talked a few minutes, entered the car and then came the blast.

Asst. Police Supt. Lawrence Maloney said, "There's no question about it — it's a clear case of murder and suicide."

The DePews were married only about six months ago. Police said DePew formerly had lived in Norwich, N.Y.

A week ago, Constable Louis Braunstein said, Mrs. DePew filed a surety of the peace charge against her husband after he allegedly threatened to kill her.

"He was in my office last night," Braunstein said. "He was very nervous and asked to see about getting an attorney."

The constable quoted DePew as saying: "I'll get a divorce if that's the way she wants it — but this will not be the end of it."

Player Lions Get in Trade to Quit

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Val Joe Walker, former Southern Methodist back who was obtained by the Detroit Lions in a six-player trade with the Green Bay Packers, said today he is not planning to play this year.

Walker, a defensive standout for the Packers in the National Football League the last four years, said "as of right now, I'm not going to report. I plan to stay in the insurance business in Dallas."

Buddy Parker, Detroit coach, called Walker twice yesterday.

"He called before the trade was made," Walker said. "I told him I didn't plan to play this year."

County Quadruplets Moving to Kentucky

The four K's—probably the only split set of quadruplets in the nation—have a housing problem.

Keith, Kenneth, Krystal and Kristine Rosebush, now 6, lived in Oxford, but their dad, a truck driver, was transferred to Louisville, Ky., about a month ago.

The quads arrived yesterday and will stay with a sister, Mrs. Miles Powell, 22, until the family reaches a decision on where to make a home.

Mrs. Rosebush, 41, said she doesn't know what will happen. "I hate to leave Michigan, my home state, because we own a home there."

As for the quads, Mrs. Rosebush added, "You never have a dull moment with them around. They're good kids, but they do their share of scrapping."

While she was talking, the quads were outside arguing over two tricycles. Keith wanted to be the driver but Kenny insisted that right belonged to him. Keith finally won and immediately challenged his sisters to a race on the other cycle.

Krystal, the smallest quad at birth, now is the heaviest. All are about the same height, but the girls outweigh the boys.

One of their interests is other quadruplets. Mrs. Rosebush corresponds occasionally with the family of Seifert quads in Sleepy Eye, Minn., and occasionally visits Michigan's other set of quads, the Morlock girls, 23, of Lansing.

South Insisting on Jury Trial

Civil Rights Measure Faces Filibuster Unless Changes Made

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga) said today Southern senators will use "every weapon in our arsenal" to defeat the civ rights bill unless a jury trial amendment is adopted.

His unmistakable notice of a filibuster—although he didn't use the word—was sounded after President Eisenhower sent word to Republican senators he opposes this or any other major change in the bill's section on voting rights.

The administration measure already has been stripped by a 52-38 Senate vote of a section to empower the attorney general to seek federal court injunctions to enforce civil rights other than voting privileges.

The big issue now, as the Senate nears the end of a third week of debate on the House-passed bill, is whether to require jury trials in some contempt of court cases arising from the enforcement of voting rights under another section of the legislation.

Russell, leader of the Dixie forces fighting the bill, said after a conference in his office that the Southerners would support a jury trial amendment more limited in scope than they would like.

He said the Southerners believe jury trials should be provided in all contempt cases arising under the legislation. But he added that, as "practical men," they realize that an amendment limiting jury trials to cases involving criminal penalties has "wide support."

New Auto Club Building Begun

Break Ground Today for Structure to House Pontiac Office

Automobile Club of Michigan today broke ground for its new $125,000 Pontiac division office building on the northwest corner of Williams and Pike streets.

The one-story, face brick building, with its crab orchard stone front, will house offices of both the Auto Club and the Detroit Automobile Inter-Insurance Exchange. It is expected to be ready for occupancy by Dec. 1.

Taking part in ground-breaking ceremonies were Mayor William W. Donaldson, Auto Club President Charles L. Wilson and members of his board of directors, E. S. Matheson, Club general manager, and Robert G. Jamieson, Exchange general manager.

Designed by the architectural firm of Arthur Greig and Associates, the new building, with 10,900 square feet of floor space, will feature ground floor offices, a full basement, complete air - conditioning, acoustic ceilings and tile floors.

A depressed parking lot on the north and west sides of the building will offer space for 45 cars. Builder is Frank Stewart and Son of Pontiac.

Staffed by 33 employes and managed by Arthur Bogue, the office will serve more than 18,000 Auto Club members in the Pontiac area.

Formed as the Oakland County Automobile Club, the Pontiac office joined with other small clubs throughout the state in 1927 to form the Auto Club of Michigan.

Offices were formerly in the Pontiac Hotel until moving into their present offices at 63 N. Perry in 1947.

By E. H. SIMS

Why are the first drops of thunder showers the biggest ones? Are the first drops usually those which turn into hail?

In these summer days, when thunderstorms produce showers every day or so, careful observance will prove that the first drops of a thunder shower are definitely the largest ones. That is true because only the largest drops fall through the updraft which comes with the leading edge of a thunderhead.

That updraft (which turns into a downdraft at the end of the thunderhead) carries many drops up again, and if strong enough, will carry them to high altitude and freeze them, producing hail.

So the first drops from a thunderhead are widely scattered, usually, only the heaviest falling through the updraft, and the ones that sometimes become hail. To see how many times a drop of water has been carried aloft and frozen (which determines the size of hail) cut a hailstone with a sharp knife and count the layers.

Child Survives Despite Needle Lodged in Brain

HOBOKEN, N. J.—Mariam Montanez is as happy as any other 16-months-old toddler in her neighborhood. No one would suspect that the child has a sewing needle deeply imbedded in her brain, as shown by the accompanying X-ray photograph.

The needle probably will remain there all Mariam's life, doctors say because an operation to remove it might be fatal. It was a year ago that a picture frame fell on the child. Doctors at that time predicted that the needle, which had been stuck in the frame, would not interfere with her life. So far they've been right.

down a back stairway from the Council chamber to his car.

He drove to the home of a friend and called police.

Ellerhorst's differences with Tierney date to 1946, when the two opposed each other in a non-partisan race for Council. Ellerhorst lost. Mutual friends said resentment beween the two has smoldered through the years.

At the Wednesday night Council meeting, Swarthout said Ellerhorst's company used inferior materials and deviated from architectural specifications. Swarthout also accused the firm, without mentioning Ellerhorst's name, of overcharging the city $45,000 on the $108,000 structure.

A team of eight doctors and three nurses worked four hours today seeking to save the mayor's life, Dr. Douglas McDowell, assistant superintendent at the hospital, said he was struck by six bullets.

Ellerhorst, estimated to be worth a half million dollars, is the father of five children, four of them married.

Tierney, a native of Jackson, also has five children. Last May he was convicted of assault and battery and fined $25 after a scuffle with the city's justice of the peace.

Universities Will Probe Southeastern Michigan

Southeastern Michigan will soon be put under a microscope by government experts from the state's four major universities.

Plans for a gigantic research project to explore problems facing the area were revealed yesterday by Paul M. Reid, executive director of the Regional Planning Commission of the Detroit metropolitan area at a meeting of the Supervisors Inter-County Committee at Northwood Inn.

The committee consists of delegates from Oakland, Wayne, Macomb, Monroe, Washtenaw and St. Clair counties.

Representatives of Wayne State University, Michigan State University, the University of Detroit and the University of Michigan met with officials of the six counties and the Regional Planning Commission last weekend on the campus of MSU to map out a tentative program, Reid stated.

Although the major part of the project has still not been formulated, the project would attempt to develop accurate descriptions of social, economic, political and physical aspects of the southeastern section of the state.

Close attention would be given to aspects undergoing rapid change. Future trends would be indicated.

Wants and desires of the citizens would receive careful scrutiny from the researchers. A survey would be made of both short- and long-range objectives sought by individuals and groups.

It was also agreed that data would be collected on standards that groups would like to see adopted for several public services.

Various methods of achieving the wants and desires of the populace would be reviewed, together with the advantages and disadvantages of each.

The research group would provide a training ground for future "urbanists," it was pointed out, whether they be headed for academic, public or private positions.

It was proposed that an initial inter-university seminar be organized during the coming academic year to develop a detailed plan of research and to pinpoint community problems demanding immediate attention.

Information collected by the research group would be used to aid the six counties in making basic decisions concerning the future.

WOULD ORGANIZE LEADERS

Its data would be examined and discussed by community leaders in many walks of life. Committees of community leaders would be organized to meet with members of the research group from time to time.

Universities under the plan would develop an adult extension program concerning local problems that would be available on a voluntary basis to any group of citizens.

This would bring research findings to the attention of the public and facilitate discussion on the implications of the group's findings for community action.

Oakland Farmers Eligible for Loans

Oakland County was one of 14 Michigan counties designated today as flood disaster areas eligible for emergency federal loans.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said that farmers suffering damages during the recent heavy rains in the county were eligible for 3 per cent Farmers Home Administration loans.

Other counties named by Benson were Bay, Clinton, Genesee, Gratiot, Huron, Ingham, Isabella, Livingston, Midland, Oakland, Saginaw, Sanilac, Shiawassee and Tuscola.

British May Step Up Strikes at Rebels

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — The British threatened today to step up their air strikes against rebellious tribesmen in Muscat and Oman unless the rebels stop their fight against the British-allied Sultan.

The first strike against the dissident tribesmen was carried out Wednesday and followed up yesterday.

Rossellini Shuns Press Comments at Film Confab

NEW DELHI (AP)—Italian movie director Roberto Rossellini conferred with Indian film executives here today but refused to see reporters.

All reporters who called at Rossellini's hotel were told he was out.

An Italian Embassy spokesman said Rossellini is here on film business and that he did not know how long he would remain.

Boy, 6, Loses Cancer Battle

Richard E. Ramsey Jr. Dies After Two-Year Fight Against Disease

WALLED LAKE — Little Richard E. (Ricky) Ramsey Jr., 6, died in his home at 1202 Sigma Dr. today, after a two-year battle with cancer.

Ricky and his parents, Richard E. and Betty Cutler Ramsey, along with helpful neighbors and friends, had fought desperately to ward off the consuming disease.

Last year, in November, Ricky had been taken to a New York hospital where experts gave special treatment, which they said increased Ricky's life expectancy from two months to a year. Doctors said the boy had two types of cancer in his body, one of them leukemia.

There will be a private service for Ricky Saturday at the Richardson-Bird Funeral Home. The Rev. Louis Towler will officiate and his body will be laid to rest in Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens.

Surviving besides his parents are his sister, Christine at home, and his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ramsey of Wixom and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cutler of Grand Blanc.

The parents have asked that memorial donations be made to the American Cancer Society.

Committee Puts Final Ax to Hell's Canyon Bill

WASHINGTON (INS) — The House Interior Committee voted 19-2 today to postpone consideration — and thereby kill — proposals to build a high federal dam at Hell's Canyon on the Snake River in Idaho.

The vote means that the committee will retain jurisdiction over Hell's Canyon proposals until Feb. 1, 1958, and no other committee can consider the project.

About 150 cities of 10,000 or more population lie in the Ohio valley.

Death of School Bill Laid to Ike

But Republican Says President 'Did All He Could' for Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Augustine B. Kelley (D-Pa), author of the 1½-billion-dollar school aid bill killed by the House, blamed President Eisenhower today for its defeat.

On the other side, Rep. Frelinghuysen (R-NJ), a strong backer of the bill, said, "I think the President did all he reasonably could."

Eisenhower has made a federal school aid program a major plank in his legislative platform for several years. But he let it be known earlier this week he was "not entirely satisfied" with the bill the House was considering, although he would sign the measure if Congress passed it.

★ ★ ★

By a 208-203 roll call vote, the House adopted a motion by Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va) to strike out the enacting clause of the bill—in effect, kill it.

That vote confirmed an earlier tentative vote, 153-126, to kill the bill.

The House sealed the measure's doom earlier by attaching an antisegregation amendment offered by Rep. Wainwright (R-NY). This came by a 136-105 standing vote. It would have denied the proposed federal aid to any school district operating segregated schools in violation of the Supreme Court's integration ruling.

Here is how Michigan congressmen voted on the school aid bill:

No Michigan Democrats voted for the motion to kill the measure.

Republicans for: Bentley, Cederberg, Hoffman, Johansen, Meader.

Democrats against: Diggs, Dingell, Griffiths, Lesinski, Machrowicz, Rabaut.

Republicans against: Bennett, Broomfield, Chamberlain, Ford, Griffin, McIntosh.

Six congressmen were absent or not voting.

Tunisia Takes Place as Republic Today

TUNIS (INS)—Tunisia took its place among Africa's new republics today following a parliamentary revolution that ended the 252-year reign of the Beys of Tunis.

The Constituent Assembly, which yesterday deposed the monarchy, unanimously elected Habib Bourguiba president. He has been premier for the 16 months since Tunisia gained its independence from France.

The Bey, 76-year-old Sidi Mohammed Lamine, had been prectically without power since the French, who put him on the throne in 1953, withdrew from Tunisia. So the change from monarchy to republic is expected to have little effect on Tunisia's current policies.

The Day in Birmingham

Discuss Parcel of Land for Training of Drivers

BIRMINGHAM — The driver training course sponsored by the Board of Education came up for broad discussion by city commissioners this week.

The discussion centered around a parcel of land which the school desires as a practice driving area. The question of expenses brought forth a commission suggestion that the land, approximately six acres on the west Lincoln - Cranbrook area, be leased to the school board for the sum of $1 per year.

It was also suggested that in view of this fee the Board of Education would be expected to assume all maintenance expenses. This would include the problem of snow removal and surface repairs. Commissioners also pointed out that presumably some parts of the program would need to be conducted on city streets in order that learning drivers might have supervised instruction in driving in traffic.

The vacation of an alley extending west from Edgewood avenue between Bird avenue and 14 Mile road has been approved. There will, however, be an easement retainment so utility crews may enter the property to make any necessary repairs.

An area resident expressed the thanks of neighbors for the vacation saying that this will give them an opportunity to improve the property and have a more sightly area at the rear of their homes.

Elaine Jones and Charles Harris have been named to represent the Birmingham YMCA Young Adults at the National YMCA Young Adult assembly at Blue Ridge, N. C. Monday through August 2.

They will be joined by 22 other Michigan representatives who are traveling through the Smoky Mountains on their way to the assembly.

Residents of the Taunton-Emmons area east of Woodward were told by commissioners that there is no city action possible to restrict the flooding of a vacant lot near their homes.

★ ★ ★

It was suggested to them that since the owner of the property permits residents to use it as a playground for their children that they contact him asking permission to install drains or apply fill dirt whichever would prove of best advantage to correct the problem of standing water.

Police Capture Gun Fugitive

Bullet Wounds Stop Man Who Eluded Law More Than a Week

NEW YORK (AP)—George Larned, the fugitive gunman who had been sought by Long Island posses for more than a week, was critically wounded and captured here today in a running gun battle with two policemen.

The desperate fugitive, who had been shot in the back in a gun fight with Long Island police 16 days ago, was plugged today in the chest and wrist. He was taken to Knickerbocker Hospital.

Larned, 32—called "The Eel" because of the way he had eluded police dragnets—was captured in a three-block chase which began as he fled after holding up a restaurant at 103rd Street and Broadway, Manhattan, at 4:45 a.m.

Four times during the chase Larned wheeled around and aimed his gun at the two pursuing policemen. He fired twice without effect, and it misfired twice, police said.

Larned was hit in the back by a police bullet July 10 when he fought a gun duel with police after being surprised in a house burglary at Baldwin on Long Island.

So far as is known he had no medical treatment for the wound.

Posses of hundreds of heavily armed state troopers, local police, sheriffs' deputies and district attorney's men combed the countryside of Suffolk County on Long Island. Bloodhounds were used, but they lost the scent.

★ ★ ★

Appeals to Larned to give himself up were carried in newspapers, over radio and television, and broadcast from an Air Force helicopter.

They urged him to give up for the sake of his pregnant wife, his unborn child and his 75-year-old mother.

Hawaii's Governor King Resigns Post

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii's Republican governor, Samuel Wilder King, has resigned "effective at the pleasure of the President."

King announced his resignation yesterday. His first four-year term expired in February. The administration failed to reappoint him, although the 70-year-old veteran of Hawaiian politics fought hard for it. He refused to elaborate on the bare statement of his resignation.

★ ★ ★

The 1952 appointment of King, a Taft Republican, was regarded as a gesture toward party harmony by the new Eisenhower administration.

★ ★ ★

Last night the FBI was reported making the routine check which customarily precedes a federal appointment into the character and court conduct of William F. Quinn, a local Republican lawyer.

Quinn, 38, now is in Washington, where he was invited by Interior Department officials who have been studying the question of King's successor.

Waterford Firemen Extinguish Car Blaze

Waterford Township firemen extinguished a car blaze this morning that had apparently been smoldering all night.

The car's owner, Paul Davis, of 571 Crescsent Lake Rd., told the firemen that the fire had probably been started by a cigarette after he left the car parked in his yard last night.

Damages were estimated at $150 which was not covered by fire insurance.

Girl's Car Hits Tree When Forced Off Road

Marilyn Arnett, 17, of 2881 Mann Rd., told sheriff's deputies last night that her car had been forced off Clintonville road just north of Maybee road, Independence Township, by an unidentified car. Her car struck a tree.

She was treated for minor injuries at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released.

And Caesar Can Use Her Help, Too

Imogene Coca Needs Sid's Strength

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—It appears that Imogene Coca may be digging out her blue denim jeans again—the splitting-seamed "lucky jeans" she wore for every rehearsal of every show she shared with Sid Caesar, from 1949 to '54.

★ ★ ★

They were put away, along with a lot of pleasant illusions, on a March day three years ago when Caesar abruptly announced in public that he and Imogene were finished as a TV team.

Coca reacted as if she'd physically been bludgeoned. First, for moments, a daze. Then, a dissolve into tears.

"I hated it, absolutely hated it," she told me much later. "I love the old and hate the new." But she went on in the confused Coca manner to a newer, sadder life.

★ ★ ★

Now Sid has asked Imogene to come back and work with him again this fall, and there's a rumor he cried when she accepted.

So Imogene could have the last laugh. But laughs stick in Imogene's throat, so she doubtlessly did what comes more easily—cried a little too.

EXCITING REUNION

Anyone who has spent any time talking to Coca couldn't help but be excited at the possibility of a professional reunion between the small bundle of sentiment and the big bundle of nerves.

★ ★ ★

In more than 30 years of show business (she was making $100 a week as a vaudeville singer at age 11) she was never better off, mentally and emotionally, than when she was working with Caesar. She is never sure of herself; but in those days she was "less unsure."

★ ★ ★

Before that she had played mainly in nightclubs. "The drunks threw things at me—salt cellars sometimes. Sometimes money," she recalled. "This is a terrible way to get money. Worse than being without."

And she was "without" for much of the rest of her early career before Caesar and producer Max Liebman found her.

The "sense of brokeness" didn't bother her especially, she confided, "because I guess, I've always liked things just as much when I was poor as rich. Besides, I only eat in fits and starts."

★ ★ ★

But it was the never knowing where the next fit-and-start snack was coming from in her early days, and the occasional night on the park bench, that contributed to Coca's ever-present feelings of timidity, insecurity and indecisiveness. She needed a strong man to give her contentment, personally and professionally.

NOTHING WORKED OUT

Her professional strong man was Caesar, and when he let her go nothing seemed to work out well.

★ ★ ★

Her half-hour TV situation comedy show was less than a smashing success, and finally she ripped up a million-dollar NBC contract—largely because money doesn't give Coca a feeling of security. And her inactivity under the contract only heightened her feeling of insecurity.

Her personal strong man was Robert Burton, her husband of 20 years, who died in 1955. This left her with nothing but talent and no muscle to hold it together.

Perhaps he has been humbled a trifle, but Caesar is still a big man.

Pays for Headache After Selling Relief

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Two young men walked into a drugstore yesterday, ordered "something for a headache," then gave the druggist a headache instead.

★ ★ ★

One struck the druggist, Edward Hutchinson, over the head with a wrench and the pair made off with $30 from the cash register. Hutchinson was treated for a cut on his forehead.

Road Plans Go to Communities

Inter-County Highway Group Recommends Future Building

The long-range highway plans of the Inter-County Highway Commission will be submitted to local communities for study and suggestions, John McKie, executive secretary of the commission said yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The preliminary plans of the commission were briefly outlined yesterday at a meeting of the Supervisors Inter - County Committee.

The Inter - County Highway Commission is made up of road commission members of Oakland, Wayne, Macomb, Washtenaw, Monroe and St. Clair counties.

The road plan calls for construction of some new roads and for widening of all or parts of existing highways.

Although the commission is empowered to draw up recommendations, each county and its communities involved must pass on the proposed roads.

Basically, the commission hopes by outlining long-range highways plans to eliminate excessive costs in later years to secure necessary rights of way.

Reappoint Whitlow Head of Osteopathic Hospital

Harry H. Whitlow has been reappointed to a five-year term as administrator of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, the Board of Incorporators of the hospital announced today.

★ ★ ★

Whitlow, 52, of Wyandotte, has directed the Perry street hospital (the former Hotel Pontiac) since its opening in February of last year. He also headed the old Auburn Avenue hospital since February of 1953.

Seven members of the Board of Incorporators passed a resolution praising Whitlow for his service to the hospital.

Governor Asks Prayers for Rain

Massachusetts Drought Continues, With Curbs on Water Ahead

BOSTON (AP)—Residents of Massachusetts were asked today to pray for rain in a proclamation by Gov. Foster Furcolo, who described a two-month drought as "increasing in alarming proportions."

★ ★ ★

At the same time, the Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, Catholic archbishop of Boston, directed priests in his jurisdiction to recite a prayer for rain in their daily Masses.

With no appreciable rain forecast, drastic water restrictions were expected to be imposed on 2½ million persons in the 27 cities and towns in metropolitan Boston as the only means of protecting public health and safety.

The curbs would stop car washing, the filling of swimming pools and limit all forms of outdoor use of water.

The State Department of Public Health has declared a water shortage emergency in 32 other Bay State cities and towns. This permits local water boards to shut off the supply of persons who disregard conservative directives.

Gov. Furcolo also directed the extension of rain-making operations to 11 drought-stricken sectors. At present cloud-seeding apparatus is set up only in Bristol and Plymouth counties.

Proportion of persons 65 years old or older was 8.2 per cent in 1950.

Japan Lifts Embargo on Its Exports to China

While Japan is limiting its textile exports to this country, it has joined Western Europe in reducing its embargo on trade with Communist China.

Because of American manufacturers' complaints and under threat of U.S. import quotas, Tokyo agreed to limit textile exports to the U.S. for five years. However, Japan buys five times as much raw cotton from us as it sends back in finished goods, and continues to buy at an unrestricted rate.

Last year Japan's adverse balance of trade amounted to nearly $500 million. In 1956 we sold $1.6 billion worth of goods to Japan while importing only $540 million of its products so that a large part of the export imbalance is due to imports from the U.S.

Easing of the embargo is understandable for traditionally the Chinese market was a principal outlet for Japanese goods. For the present it may not amount to more than barter deals but Japan is hopeful that in time it may reach the former volume.

★ ★ ★

When Premier KISHI was in Washington recently he advanced a plan for an American-Japanese partnership to promote the sale of Japanese goods to the needy free nations in Southeast Asia. This might work out well and should be given serious consideration.

In order to exist Japan must import raw materials and export finished goods.

Asylum From What?

Congress has been hearing the story of an alleged spy ring which reached from Moscow to Paris and Washington and of a suspected member who fled the U. S. A. in 1955.

Despite FBI and State Department efforts, JANE FOSTER ZLATOVSKI, a resident of Paris since 1949 and a former employe of the supersecret Office of Strategic Services, was granted a renewal of her passport as the lesser of two evils.

★ ★ ★

A U. S. District Judge on appeal ruled that the State Department would have to produce more evidence for denial of the passport. Rather than divulge all the Government knew about Mrs. ZLATOVSKI, the State Department issued the passport.

At the present time both Mrs. ZLATOVSKI and her husband, GEORGE ZLATOVSKI, a former U. S. Army intelligence officer, are under indictment in New York on charges of conspiracy to deliver U. S. defense secrets to Russia.

★ ★ ★

From the haven of a Paris apartment both have denied the charges and claim to have been granted "political asylum" in France. The French Ministry of the Interior denies this saying pointedly:

"The right of asylum cannot be granted to a citizen of the United States because the internal situation of that country in no way justifies voluntary emigration."

★ ★ ★

Political asylum is the right to escape oppression, tyranny or injustice. It is not the right of alleged criminals fleeing a free country in which individual rights are of paramount concern. Our laws and Constitution provide ample protection for all.

The Last of the Huks?

A month ago President GARCIA signed a decree outlawing the Communist party in the Philippines.

At that time he stated his government did not propose to prosecute opposition to it, but that it would not tolerate conspiracy. The Hukbalahaps who represent the Communist conspiracy in the Philippines had been pretty well brought under control by the late President MAGSAYSAY. But a hard core of dissidents remained in the hills and drastic legislation was necessary.

The new law provided a 30 day amnesty period during which the Huks and their friends might give themselves up without penalty. Previously similar attempts had not been too successful.

This time, however, several hundred persons gave themselves up including the number two man in command. Not all were Communist guerrillas. Some were peasants who had been terrorized into helping the Huks and saw a way of getting protection under the amnesty.

For some years Huks have terrorized a section of the islands and hampered development. Let's hope that this is the end of the Communist controlled band.

New Golf Prodigy

Said to Have Been Found; This Paper Watching Him

Safety: What isn't an accident.

I seem to be running to golf this week and I hope my valued associate, Bruno Kearns, Sports Editor, will forgive me. One of my scouts relays the information that there's a new "long hitter" creeping across the horizon.

The Pontiac Press was the first newspaper or magazine that heralded the feats of big George Bayer who has since become acknowledged as the longest hitter of all time. In fact, one of our boys got the first interview with him along with photographs and put it on the AP wires clear across the nation.

This newcomer is anonymous as yet, but his sponsor is none other than who says there's a colored caddy in Florida that can hit a golf ball past Bayer every time he connects solidly. I'll have to buzz the AP in New York and have them investigate this rumor.

If it's true, you can bank upon a picture and an account of this newest prodigy right here in the greatest of all public prints.

David Lawrence Says:

State Justices Criticize High Court

WASHINGTON — Criticism from laymen and lawyers concerning recent decisions of the Supreme Court has lately been attracting much attention, but how do some of the judges throughout the country feel about the highest court?

LAWRENCE

There are not many opportunities for judges to discuss these matters publicly. But something that occurred the other day at the conference of the chief justices of the highest courts of each of the 48 states throws a light on this question.

A substantial number of the state chief justices favored a resolution condemning in the severest terms some of the recent decisions of the Supreme Court.

Here is the full text of the resolution offered by Chief Justice Norman F. Atterburn of the Supreme Court of Indiana:

"Be it resolved, that it is our opinion that the United States Supreme Court has transgressed sound legal principles, and in particular, usurped fact finding functions in weighing the evidence in the recent cases of Konigsberg V. State Bar of California and Schware V. Bd. of Bar Examiners of the State of New Mexico.

ENCROACHED UPON STATES

"Moreover, the United States Supreme Court has encroached upon the jurisdiction of the state courts in holding, among other things, that applicants seeking admission to the bars of the State of California and New Mexico, in examinations as to their character and fitness to practice law in those respective states, may refuse to answer questions or enlighten the examining board about their past connections and associations in particular with Communists and Communistic organizations.

★ ★ ★

"We declare the past acts and associations of applicants do reflect directly upon their character and fitness and are matters relevant for consideration. Whether or not one who went through a long economic depression should have the strength of character, moral fiber and stamina to withstand the emotional appeals of Communists —as most good citizens did — or whether as a weakling he succumbs to such propaganda, is relevant in the analysis and determination of the character of such individuals. The United States Supreme Court is wrong in holding that such acts are of no value in such determination.

"Decisions which are not founded on sound legal principles or common sense tend to undermine confidence in the judicial system and respect for the courts.

"We further state that one who is unwilling to give freely all relevant information regarding his history and past associations casts doubts upon his moral character and fitness to practice law in any state of this Union; and such refusal is a relevant factor to be weighed and considered by a fact finding body on character and fitness.

"We further declare that although the United States Supreme Court has the authority to fix its own standards of character and fitness to practice in the Federal courts we do not recognize nor concede that it may do so for the courts of the several states of this Union."

While almost a majority favored the immediate adoption of the resolution, there were a number of justices who were in sympathy with it but felt that the subject should await a further report.

Accordingly, a motion was made to appoint a committee to report back to the conference next year, and the resolution was finally adopted declared that the chief justices were very much concerned with what the Supreme Court of the United States had ruled.

As for the decision in the Konigsberg case to which reference was made, this was decided by the Supreme Court by a 6-to-3 vote. Justices Frankfurter, Clark and Harlan dissented.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Forget Tranquilizers— We Need Playgrounds

Probably most real doctors receive as much wastebasket mail as I do. I mean the stuff one can recognize at a glance as propaganda.

DR. BRADY

Here's a typical paragraph from a mailing piece about tranquilizing drugs, quoting the head of the Psychiatry Department of a medical school: "Most patients with physical disease have significant emotional reactions to that disease and could be benefited by being more at ease about their illness."

That ought to sell tons of the 13 different tranquilizers that are encroaching on the quasi-ethical dope business—the popular demand for aspirin, acetanilide, phenacetin and the barbiturates.

In the same bit of bric-a-brac, a professor of psychiatry in a medical school asserts that in a study of the effects of tranquilizers on normal persons even twice the usual dose of one such drug had "no effect on the skills required for safe driving."

That's what many a motorist says about the few cocktails he took shortly before he drove into an accident.

"UNFAIRLY CRITICAL"

Still another eminent medical authority, that is to say a doctor who gets quoted by a publicity agent, branded as "unfairly critical" the attitude of "those" (unidentified, of course) who contend that tranquilizers are merely "chemical straight jackets" which make the patient more amenable and submissive.

I have learned the hard way that anything that may possibly make anybody hesitate to resort to dope is "unfairly critical."

I believe that anyone who uses tranquilizing drugs without constant supervision of a physician is heading for a breakdown. It is fundamentally wrong, no matter how eminent the psychiatrist who details the drugs, too resort to even the "safest" tranquilizer under everyday annoyances, tensions, anxieties or worries.

From this childish make-believe way of life, it is but a step to narcotic addiction.

No less than 18 pages of a weekly medical journal, some in color, are devoted to painting the "peace of mind," "freedom from apprehension," "little or no hangover," "relaxation of mind and muscle," "dramatic relief of pediatric emotional problems" (the poor kids!) and "relief of tension."

Not even the "distinction" of driving a more expensive car than the neighbors has offered such illusive delights. As I flip the pages, I can't help thinking how much good all that money might do if it were spent to provide playgrounds for children everywhere.

★ ★ ★

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Ideal Couples May Feel Inhibited

Tim and Velma are like thousands of ideal couples whose parents wish they could promote such marriages. But a vague inhibition prevents that romantic state which causes "butterflies" in their stomachs. But Tim finally learned how to produce the "butterfly" effect. Better scrapbook this case for later use.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-347: Tim W., aged 32, is a high school principal.

"Dr. Crane, I am not married," he began, "but I have been dating a wonderful girl for four years.

DR. CRANE

She is a teacher, too, and our families are old friends. We have so many things in common that we should make a very happy married couple.

★ ★ ★

"But something has been wrong. I feel inhibited. Maybe it's because we grew up in the same neighborhood and she was at our house a lot of the time during high school and college.

"And maybe the fact that my parents indirectly showed they'd like to have me marry her, thus worked against me.

"For I have found that when parents try to act as matchmakers, they often produce the very opposite effect of what they had intended.

"A psychological complex may develop. Anyway, that's what seems to have happened in my case.

"This girl is 28. Her name is Velma. And she is the best pal I ever had. But why can't I regard her as a sweetheart? If only I could do so, I'd marry her in a minute."

LOVE INHIBITIONS

Tim has stated a very common tradedy in American life. For some of the best suited young couples have grown up in the same neighborhood until they feel almost like members of the same family.

Then this semi brotherly-sisterly relationship hampers their later romance.

For they are not mysterious strangers and exotic sirens from a far city or country, but just the grown-up, freckle faced sandlot baseball kid or the pig-tailed playmate of grade school days.

Vague inhibitions stifle their romance. Although their mutual families and friends think such a couple as Tim and Velma would make an ideal married couple, Tim feels awkward about kissing Velma.

"It's much like trying to get romantic about my sister," he admitted.

Thousands of wonderful marriages are thus nipped in the bud every year right here in America.

Yesterday I explained how a high school athletic coach was in love with a very attractive girl. But she didn't feel ramantic about him.

★ ★ ★

She liked him and admired him, but she lacked that spark of love which inflames the whole personality and makes butterflies in your stomach.

Most of those "butterflies" are simply a form of stage fright where mystery and novelty have aroused the emotions.

That's why staid suitors who have been dating the same girl regularly for several years, often lack the butterflies. For they are so well acquainted, the novelty has disappeared.

RESTORE STAGE FRIGHT

To change a placid couple back into an exciting romantic pair, somebody must try to inject some more of that stage fright into their relationship.

And dignified admirers like Tim must deliberately steer their behavior so they will resurrect some new romantic thrills.

Thus, I urged Tim to kiss Velma goodnight but use the same technique which I had recommended to Harry.

"I don't know if I can do it," he protested, sheepishly. "It makes me feel so self-conscious. I might get stage fright."

★ ★ ★

"Well, that's what I want you to get," I replied, "for then you and Velma may feel butterflies in your stomach and forget that you've been pals."

Tim finally promised to follow instructions. He felt somewhat giddy and nervous. And Velma subconsciously reacted accordingly. So they, too, fell in love by Tim's lengthened kiss.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Co-Worker Writes Tribute to Former School Principal

At the time of the death of Agnes Cox, former principal of McCarroll School, it would have been hard for me to write a fitting tribute, but now I want to express some of the things that are close to the hearts of many of her friends.

It was always a privilege to work with her. She was dedicated to her profession. She had a fine sense of humor, had great fortitude in spite of her suffering. Her greatest contribution was her belief and faith in boys and girls. Children always knew Mrs. Cox was interested in them and had time to share their problems. The community has lost a great educator and friend.

Says Police Team Plays Dirty Game

I've never seen such dirty playing as I saw the other night by the Pontiac police. If they can't win a game by playing fair, get rid of them. I saw one player on second base deliberately use his knee on another player. When the police team has to stoop so low as to try and knock a guy out, then that's pretty bad. They can't take it when they see they're not going to win 15-0. When some team gives them a rough game, they get tough. Believe me, it won't happen again. The other teams are getting fed up. And if they have anything to say about this, let them.

More Give Ideas About Teenagers

Why, if there are so many hot rodders and drag race enthusiasts in and around Pontiac, doesn't the police department do something about giving these kids someplace to get it out of their systems?

In California and many other states, they have this situation well organized and clubs are formed that the communities are proud of. So long as people keep putting power packs, high speed transmissions, Columbia rear ends, four barrel carburetors, Mallory ignitions, etc. on their cars, they will inevitably try them out. In most cases, a ticket, fine or jail sentence is much, much too late.

I suggest South Boulevard from Woodward to Opdyke on Sunday afternoons.

Why all the arguing and fighting over teenagers? If someone would get busy and provide a convenient recreation place for us, we might attend. It should be one that's nearby and with a reasonable price Don't argue. Do something.

Another Teenager

I read about Pontiac teens not showing a good attendance at the dances, parties and appearances that organizations have planned for us. Here's the answer. We don't know anything about them. If we were better informed, we could find an evening of entertainment and our parents certainly wouldn't be worried.

Wants All Labor Treated Alike

Regulations on the marketing of regular and skilled labor will be outlawed by enactment of the "right to work" legislation sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers and introduced by legislators faithful to them.

Why not outlaw restrictions on the sale of professional labor? They argue that unions of doctors, lawyers, dentists, etc., together with their restrictions, are for the public's protection. This is also true of other labor unions. Without them we would have a reign of employer-dictators with its unhealthy aftermath.

Treat all labor alike and require N. A.M. members to climb into the same boat with professional, skilled and regular labor.

Young Romeo Artist Gaining Recognition

By LEE WINBORN
Romeo Correspondent

ROMEO — A 14-year-old Romeo girl is fast gaining area-wide recognition for her artistic talent and her willingness to work on community projects.

★ ★ ★

She is Judith Marie Engel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Engel, 114 First St. A tenth grader at Romeo High School, Judy began drawing at the age of three.

She says, "My first picture that was recognizable was one of the church pastor, complete with glasses, stole and clerical robes. I still remember it."

Judy's media is not confined to water colors alone. She uses oil and textile paints, charcoal, chalk, crayon and modeling clay. She chooses oils when she wishes to immortalize members of her family on canvas.

She uses textile paints to decorate the skirts and dresses she makes for herself and her two sisters, 9-year-old Joann and 23-month-old Rachel.

Judy's grandfather used to draw horses to amuse her when she was a child. Now horses are her favorite subjects for painting or modeling. She also has a collection of some 60 ceramic, copper and plastic horses in her bedroom.

An all-A student, Judy's accomplishments are not limited to art but extend also to music. She plays clarinet and oboe in the Romeo High School band. She sings in the St. John Lutheran Church choir and is an officer in the local and St. Clair area Luther Leagues.

Last spring Judy received a certificate of merit in a Detroit department store art contest for junior high school students. Her water color drawing depicted a girls' basketball game. She also exhibited in a local artists' show in Armada where a University of Michigan art critic urged her to continue her work — especially her studies of young children.

This modest and unassuming young lady is constantly called upon to make posters advertising forthcoming events in the community. A highpoint was reached in June when the director of the "Romeo Follies" called upon Judy to paint four life-size figures in fashions from World War I on an eight-foot piece of fiber board.

The "prop" was designed for a woman's quartet so that the vocalists could stick their heads through the openings at the top and be transported immediately to the earlier decade.

Judy's talent has finally begun to pay off this summer. Local organizations and business places have heard of her ability, and a number of them have hired her to do display work for them. What rosy future lies ahead for a girl of such accomplishment?

PROMISING FUTURE — Fourteen-year-old Judith Marie Engel of Romeo is shown completing an oil painting of a family group. She is wearing a dress which she made and decorated with a textile painted border. On the wall are horses' heads she modeled in clay, and beside her easel is a water color and ink sketch of the interior of her church, illustrating the different media she employs.

Persons residing in the areas to be sprayed are cautioned to refrain from swimming in the water or using it for lawn sprinkling for a period of 30 hours after treatment. Keep children and pets out of the treated water for the same period.

Best results are obtained by refraining from using outboard motors in the area for six hours. Wherever possible, boats should be removed to allow free access to the water under docks and along the shore line.

Complete Half of U.S. Seaway

To Be Finished by 59, but Limited Shipping Possible Next July

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 114-mile U.S. portion of the St. Lawrence Seaway is now more than half completed. It has been 39 months since construction began.

The 27-foot-deep international waterway, a joint effort by the United States and Canada, is scheduled for completion in early 1959, although limited shipping will be possible next July.

A progress report came today from the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp., the agency created by Congress to construct and maintain the U.S. part of the waterway.

The Long Sault Canal, the corporation said, was about 95 per cent complete at its upstream extremity at the end of last month. The mainland portion of the 10-mile ditch, as of the same time, was about 70 per cent excavated.

The canal's two mammoth locks — Eisenhower and Grasse River, each costing about 20 million dollars to build—were described as each being 62 per cent complete.

Laying of concrete in the two locks continued at full speed during June with about 62,000 cubic yards being placed in the Eisenhower. A total of 394,000 has been laid in the Grasse River Lock.

In the river's Thousand Islands section, work was completed in removing shoal No. 35. Drilling and blasting have been finished on shoals 10, 12 and 13.

Total employment at the Seaway site during June amounted to 3,131. As in past seasons, the number is expected to increase during this month and August.

Hal Boyle Says:

Cagney Likes Life Down on Farm

NEW YORK (AP) — "I can think of nothing better for anybody than a busy life on a farm," said Jimmy Cagney, whose 75 movie roles enabled him to become a country gentleman.

"It's the most natural way to live. It's not so far removed from reality.

"I've been country-crazy myself since I was 5."

Gentleman Jim, the farmer, had to fight his way out from city streets to a place on the land.

Born in Manhattan's lower East Side, son of an Irish saloonkeeper who died young, Cagney went to work as a copy boy for the old New York Sun at 14. His first job in the theater was impersonating a chorus girl.

He knew many a lean year as a vaudeville hoofer and Broadway actor before he won film immortality in 1930 by grinding a grapefruit in Mae Clark's face in "Public Enemy." Then came the golden deluge. But Jimmy, who was making $150,000 a picture as long ago as 1937, is glad that neither his son, James Jr., 17, nor his daughter, Cathleen, shows any interest in show business.

★ ★ ★

"It's a rough life," said the little redhead who graduated years ago from the roughneck roles that first won him fame.

"My boy is interested in farm genetics and Cathleen all her life has wanted to be a veterinarian. That suits me fine."

Cagney, who still dances daily to keep in shape, has plenty of pavement-free land now to rest his feet on. He has a 600-acre horse ranch in California, a 700-acre dairy farm with 90 cows near Millbrook, N. Y., and a 200-acre estate on Martha's Vineyard, where he likes to spend the summer just watching the grass grow.

★ ★ ★

Jimmy takes his farming seriously. He's trying to cross-breed Scottish highland cattle with conventional dairy cows to produce cattle "that need no barning and no winter feeding.

"The goal is a cow with a built-in thermometer," he said.

Cagney looked mildly offended when asked if he could milk a cow himself.

"I've done it," he said. "It's a darned good thing to know when the power goes out."

★ ★ ★

Jimmy has just completed "Man of a Thousand Faces," a Universal-International film that tells the life story of Lon Chaney, who, like Cagney himself, began his career as a hoofer.

"In order to be a hoofer," he remarked, "there has to be something the matter with you. Nobody else would be in a theater at 8 a.m., day after day, beating his brains out with his feet. But I see myself as a superannuated song and dance man, really."

One reason may be the fact that, although he has played a wide variety of dramatic roles, it was his portrayal of George M. Cohan in "Yankee Doodle Dandy" that won him an Academy Award.

★ ★ ★

Like many veteran performers ruled by a real understanding of showmanship rather than egotism or vanity, Cagney now limits himself to no more than two films a year.

"It's a great mistake to show the face too often," he said. "Let them see you too often, and I don't care who the individual is, he'll go by the boards.

★ ★ ★

"Show business has changed a lot. Going to a show in the old days was an event, and it meant more to be a headliner then.

"The illusion was greater, both for the performer and the audience. There was more glamor, or"—his eyes twinkled—"is this merely age talking?

"Perhaps it is. But although actors have more work now than when I was first knocking around, it also seems to me that they treat it more like work. They are more impersonal and businesslike. They don't seem to have the enthusiasm—the sense of personal illusion—the kids had in the old days.

"I guess this must be age talking."

Fireflies All Lit Up Over Dating

WASHINGTON (INS) — Those gloaming these summer evenings fireflies flashing on and off in the aren't just blinking for the fun of it—they're trying to go steady.

According to the National Geographic Society, scientists have found that all that glimmering and glowing is part of an elaborate dating system worked out by the lightning bugs.

Here's how they explain it:

A boy firefly flashes when he wants a date with a girl firefly. If the female likes the look of his flash, she turns on her lamp to show she's willing.

As a warning note, the scientists add that if a male from another species tries to horn in on the romantic signalling, the female eats him.

Furthermore, lightning bugs have their own Morse code to keep their courtship straight. For instance, one species uses two short flashes every five seconds, another uses a short flash followed by a long one and so on.

CHORAL FLASHING

Sometimes, the two sexes start sort of a choral flashing, blinking in unison.

Most fireflies give up eating when they're sparking. They apparently store their energy from their larval days when they eat snails and cutworms.

Fortunately, birds generally leave fireflies alone, apparently because of their bitter taste.

The scientific interest in lightning bugs stems from the fact that as a source of light, they're much more efficient than electric bulbs.

A light bulb wastes most of its energy as heat. A firefly operates its lamp without heat at better than 95 per cent efficiency.

On the other hand, light bulb manufacturers point out that it would take 137,000 lightning bugs to provide the same illumination as a 60-watt bulb.

WHAT MEDICAL USE?

A Baltimore biochemist, William D. McElroy of Johns Hopkins University, is studying whether the chemicals involved in lighting up a lightning bug can be turned to medical use. A substance known as luciferin combines with oxygen to give the little insect his glowing power.

Dr. McElroy has enlisted the aid of a posse of Baltimore children to collect the fireflies he needs in his research. He pays 25 cents a hundred for them but won't accept any by mail.

Desmelled Skunk Sure to Solve Cat Question

NASHVILLE (AP) — Tired of cats because they meow too much, never catch any mice and all look alike?

Your problem has been solved by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean of this Barry County community.

For a small fee the Deans will outfit you with a new kind of kitty — one with a bright white stripe down it back.

Some people call them skunks, but to the Deans they're just members of the family.

The Deans have been raising skunks since they bought their first one three years ago. Then they bought a female and now they have a skunk farm — licensed and all — with six baby skunks.

Skunks crave love and affection, say the Deans, and become as gentle as a house cat. Of course, says Mrs. Dean, you respect their claws a little more because they don't retract like a cat's. And then, too, a skunk has 34 teeth (two of them fangs) and sometimes get a little overplayful, but . . .

They're easy to raise. At birth unlawful to keep a "wild" skunk. the kittens are about the size of a finger.

The Dean say it's best to descent the kitties before they're weaned. It only takes a few minutes and is done by making an incision and removing the scent bags.

Occasionally, says Mrs. Dean, it's a good idea to give the pet a bath, but if the skunk is kept clean there's no odor.

And like any house pets, skunks can be housebroken, taught simple tricks and they make dandy mouse catchers.

The Deans have just started in the "kitty" business, but there also are skunk farms in Holland, Hastings and Detroit.

Anyone who wants a skunk for a pet can get one by buying it from a licensed skunk raiser and paying $1 a year fee to the state Conservation Department for the

Atomic Reactor Site to Be Demolished

CHICAGO (AP) — The birthplace of the atomic age will soon be gone, the University of Chicago reports.

The west stand of Stagg Field, which sheltered the world's first nuclear chain reaction on Dec. 2, 1942, will bow to demolition crews about Aug. 10, the University said.

★ ★ ★

The plaque commemorating the chain reaction will be placed on the cleared site of the first nuclear reactor. It will later be built permanently into a building or special setting.

The Stagg Field stand was built in 1912. It was first used that year in a football game with the University of Minnesota. It was built to hold 8,000 spectators.

★ ★ ★

The stand had not been used for spectators since 1939, when the university withdrew from intercollegiate football.

The squash court site was chosen for the experiments because it was the only readily available room high enough to permit construction of the first pile, or reactor.

BUSINESS HAVEN — This is Brook Lodge at Kalamazoo, one-time summer home of the late Dr. W. E. Upjohn. Now it is the quiet retreat where important ideas of the Upjohn Company are nourished.

New Ideas for Upjohn

Company Plans Future in Serenity of Lake Lodge

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Big business has gone in for the peace and quiet of a lake lodge to help with its decisions.

Brook Lodge, onetime summer home of the late Dr. W. E. Upjohn, is the retreat where important ideas of the Upjohn Co. are nourished.

The drug manufacturing firm, careful to preserve all the restful graces of nature, has turned the lodge into a hideaway place for company conferences.

Upjohn's top brass, and visiting officials and salesmen, go there for a week or more at a time to work out business programs safe from city tumult.

The company theory is that the gentle atmosphere of Brook Lodge, with its meandering Ransom creek and pools, contributes to relaxed thinking.

17 MILES FROM KALAMAZOO

The present Brook Lodge, north of Augusta and about 17 miles from Kalamazoo, was purchased by Dr. Upjohn about a half century ago. It was then 80 acres of land that contained a creamery as its main building.

Today the lodge, expanded by the Upjohn Co. since its purchase from the W. E. Upjohn Estate a year ago, has almost every last comfort for the visiting executive.

The six guest cottages are air-conditioned. Each guest is assigned his own room. At his elbow are conveniences such as cigarettes, magazines, stationery and postage stamps. At his door each morning is a container of hot coffee.

A staff of 40 men and women takes care of the lodge.

When business talks are ended, the guest has his choice of fishing for company-planted rainbow trout in the creek or going for a swim in one of the pools, playing golf or taking a bicycle ride.

The late Dr. Upjohn, founder of the drug company, did a great deal to the lodge layout while he still lived.

Before his death in 1932, he had built greenhouses and planted thousands of trees.

The pools that lie off the spacious green lawns are the result of Dr. Upjohn's changing of the course of Ransom creek so that it would flow through the estate.

Dr. Upjohn made over the old creamery building to serve as a home. It is now the main lodge and serves as company conference headquarters.

Occasionally Dr. Upjohn used the home for business conferences. Eventually it became too small. So he built a red brick and white-columned dining hall on the bank of the estate's largest pool where he could play a better host to his guests.

The company now plans a further expansion. It is to build a conference auditorium with capacity of 125.

DEARBORN (AP)—Ray F. Parker, former Dearborn councilman and long a foe of Mayor Orville Hubbard, has announced he will attempt to unseat the mayor in the next election.

Indians Did Trade, Discoveries Show

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A University of Michigan archaeologist has reported discovering the first signs of trade between Indians of the eastern and western United States.

Albert C. Spaulding said findings among relics dug out of new excavations at Indian burial sites in Menominee and Isle Royale indicate pre-historic commerce among widespread tribes.

The U. of M. specialist has just returned from a five-week relic-hunting expedition to the copper country of upper Michigan.

He said glass found in a burial pit at Menominee indicated to him that barter between Indians from different regions must have existed. The type of mineral found was characteristic of the west, but uncommon in Michigan, Spaulding said.

Similar Indian fossils were found at Isle Royale to support Spaulding's theory.

The big sequoia trees of California are one of the surviving links between the firs and cypresses. The giant trees were once found on four continents, but most of them are now on the California coastal region.

Water Pipeline Plans Advance

Determine Engineering Necessary to Draw Supply at Lake Huron

The first step in determining the engineering necessary for the construction of a giant Lake Huron water pipeline for southeastern Michigan will be taken Monday, Royal Oak Mayor Howard K. Kelley announced today.

Kelley, who heads the Southeastern Michigan Water Authority, said the officials of Bechtel and Co. pipeline firm in San Francisco will begin test borings to determine the sub-strata of the ground for laying pipelines.

He said that the firm has accumulated most of the economic material on laying the pipeline. No report has been or will be made until the firm has completed its study sometime in October, Kelley said.

The Bechtel firm, one of the largest in the country, proposes to build the pipeline at a cost of approximately 70 million dollars, and has told the Authority that the pipeline could bring water to the area at a customer rate of $1.10-$1.20 a thousand gallons, if 200 million gallons are sold a day.

Deadline Nears in State Survey

60,000 Being Polled on Need for Revision of Health Insurance

Wednesday is the deadline for return of the quationnaire in a state health insurance survey.

The survey is being conducted to determine if Michigan needs a revision of health insurance coverage to give greater protection of the average family's medical costs on a prepaid basis.

The form of extended benefits and how much they will cost will be influenced by opinions expressed in the statewide study of medical - surgical coverage sponsored by the Michigan State Medical Society.

Dr. Hazen L. Miller, president of the Oakland County Medical Society said the questionnaires were sent to a cross-section of the state's population. Approximately 60,000 people received them.

Tabulation must begin Thursday to have analysis completed and presented to the Michigan State Medical Society House of Delegates and the public on Sept. 23, Miller added.

The medical profession is sponsoring the over-all study including surveys through detailed personal interviews, mail, and a separate survey of doctors opinions.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OLD—This is the lighthouse at Point Aux Barques, which has guided ships around Michigan's Thumb for a century.

100 Years on Great Lakes

Oldest Active Lighthouse Celebrating Anniversary

PORT HOPE (AP) — The oldest active lighthouse on the Great Lakes is observing its 100th anniversary year this season.

In the full century of its service to seafarers the 89-foot tower and light on Lake Huron five miles northwest of here has spanned the eras of the oil lamp and electronics

Now electronically operated, the Lower Pointe aux Barques light at the tip of the thumb has many tales to tell.

A maintenance man takes care of her now. Eventually the U.S. Coast Guard is to make the light completely automatic.

The light's history is full of adventure.

For many years the light's keeper was Dan McDonald of Huron City, now 67 and retired.

McDonald, speaking with a slight Scotch Surr, recalled it was "different" in former days before modern automatic gadgets and pinpoint weather forecasting came along.

The waters of this part of Lake Huron are considered among the most dangerous of the Great Lakes. They are extremely shallow.

"You had to be on the ball," McDonald said. "It was a tough and lonely grind."

In the pre-coast guard days lighthouse keepers were civilian employes of the Department of Commerce.

Said Mc Donald:

"We sat through lonely vigils in the tower of the lighthouse, keeping a constant lookout for changing weather conditions and ships which might come too close.

"We were ready for anything —a ship which might run aground, a freighter needing to bring a sick seaman ashore, or a swamped fishing boat which needed help."

The light on Lower Pointe aux Barques tells ships they have reached the turning point for rounding the thumb for Bay City or heading for the Twases

This summer the old tower is to get a beauty treatment. The brick tower is to be sand-blasted

Were Your Answers Like These?

The following are the correct answers and explanations for the Pot-O-Gold puzzle which appeared in last week's Pontiac Press.

A. (1) DESERVED. "Might find" himself having to live alone is the clue suggesting that the man who DESERVED a good wife probably would not be alone, but "might." The man who Deserted a good wife is more likely to be lonely.

B. (4) ROOMERS. ROOMERS, presumably in their gossip, would be discussing one of their own group. It is far more damaging to a reputation to be talked about in one's own circle of acquaintances than to have vague Rumors, or unconfirmed stories, floating around.

C. (5) DECISION. In a dispute over an inheritance, the court will have to make a DECISION. The judge might find in favor of a single heir, in which case there would be no Division of the property.

D. (7) BALLET. Since tickets to a BALLET are sold at various prices, it is often possible to get inexpensive seats, and it is foolish for a man to spend more than he can afford, in order to sit down in front. A Wallet lasts for years, and it really pays in the long run to buy quality.

E. (10) PEASANT. In Eastern Europe a farmer is a PEASANT and he leads the kind of life an American farmer would not willingly tolerate. The word "farmer" is the clue that leads to PEASANT rather than Present.

F. (11) TRIBUNE. A political candidate is always glad to have a platform from which to address possible voters. A Tribute may be praise from a source which does him more harm than good — as for instance, an indorsement by a Communist group.

G. (14) TREASURED. Grandmother's wedding dress is often TREASURED for a future bride to wear. It's more to the point that granddaughter should try the dress on, rather than have it Measured.

H. (16) ELLIPSE. The average person has seen an Eclipse many times and knows that the moon hides the light of the sun, or the earth's shadow darkens the moon. An ELLIPSE is a curve traced by a moving point, with a rather elaborate mathematical formula which the average adult has forgotten since his school days.

I. (17) WIDELY. The success of a new crooner depends upon the extent of his fame. Being Wildly received by a few local audiences does not sell many records; the singer must become WIDELY known.

J. (20) HARDEST. The farmer's HARDEST chores, in which the neighbors would help if necessary, would include the Harvest chores when he is extra busy. So HARDEST is the more comprehensive word.

K. (21) BEATING. "Aggressive" men are the go-getters; they go out after business and delight in BEATING their competitors. Cheating is a slyer action, not especially associated with aggressiveness.

L. (23) MEDDLER. A Peddler goes from door to door, or has a stand somewhere, selling things, mostly to strangers. Usually these are strictly business dealings. A MEDDLER has his nose in everybody's affairs, even without encouragement.

M. (25) RECORDED. Naturally the public is pleased to be able to buy RECORDS of a fine singing performance. As a rule, the public does not, concern itself with how well the performace is Rewarded.

N. (27) CHANNEL. You'd hardly want to cross the English CHANNEL, for example, either by air or by boat, in foggy or stormy weather. The thought of walking across the CHANCEL, the altar enclosure of a church reserved for the use of clergy and choir, would not occur to most persons, so the active negative "wouldn't want to" hardly applies.

O. (30) DOCKET. If a lawyer has no cases on his schedule, he is really in a bad way. An empty Pocket may be just temporary — he has spent all the money he had with him.

P. (32) FRAGRANT. The smell of pines in a forest is pleasant for most people. A sunny day in a thick forest is likely to be unpleasantly hot, if there's only a Vagrant or stray breeze now and then.

Q. (34) ENCLAVED. A small country that is completely surrounded by a larger one gives its citizens little freedom to move around; they cannot leave their own country except by courtesy of the big neighbor. A nation that is Enslaved by another has its resources and workers exploited, but it is not always true that the citizens can't move around freely.

R. (35) CIRCUIT. A performer who has travelled with a road show — a theatre CIRCUIT — naturally has many amusing experiences in his travels. A Circus keeps to itself, with its own sleeping quarters; the performers do not mingle much with outsiders. Seeing always the same people, with a routine that never varies much, does not build up many amusing experiences.

S. (37) CANOPIES. People who supply the awnings called CANOPIES would look for customers on wedding lists, for usually an awning is erected at the church door to provide protection against a rainy day. Wedding breakfasts, receptions, etc. ordinarily call for more substantial foods than mere appetizers or Canapes.

T. (40) CELEBRATION. The reunion of two former college roommates seems to call for a CELEBRATION. Even two famed scientists would be more likely to reminisce about their college days than to do a lot of brain work — Cerebration.

Nasser Tried to Conspire With Nazis During War

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, whose arms deal with the Soviets led to last year's Suez war, tried to make another deal — with the Nazis — to defeat the British during World War II.

This is revealed today on the fifth anniversary of the Egyptian revolution by Nasser's close revolutionary worker, Col. Anwar El Sadat, in his book "Revolt on the Nile," published by John Day Co

The colonel, a former Minister of State who is now managing editor of Al Gumhouria, highly praises Nasser as the brains and sparkplug of the revolution. Nasser, in a foreward, also has some good words on the "courage, coolness, loyalty and devotion" of Anwar El Sadat.

"Revolt on the Nile" is a story of revolutionary conspiracy dating back nearly two decades when the men were young military cadets.

It is full of criticism of Britain's "imperialism" and high-handedness in Egypt, of the United States' backing of Israel. But there is some humor, doubtless unintended.

PLAN JOINT OPERATION

For instance, the colonel describes how Nasser's revolutionary band contacted the Germans when a Nazi victory in the desert war seemed to be near. Field Marshal Rommel dispatched two young agents to contact Nasser's group and plan a joint operation against the British.

The two young Germans, dressed in British uniforms, scooted across the desert to Cairo, even stopped in their British car at a British military fuel depot when they ran out of gas.

One of them, Hans Appler, knew Egypt inside out, having lived there, spoke perfect Arabic and became "Hussein Gaafer" when he switched to civilian dress inside Cairo.

Hans and his spy buddy arrived with a radio transmitter and 40,000 pounds sterling in false banknotes printed in Greece.

The transmitter was an ingenious job. It was concealed in a case where there was room enough to hide the operator and transmitter while a record-player overhead played dance music.

WELL, DID YOU?

But Anwar El Sadat was horrified to find that the two young Germans set up shop in a Nile River houseboat with a celebrated dancer, one Hekmat Fahmy. Appler laughed at his surprise. "You didn't expect us to look for lodgings in a British barracks, did you?"

The Egyptian colonel, who has only contempt for the celebrated British Intelligence Service, was further surprised to find the houseboat furnished "like something out of the Arabian Nights," that women were on the premises and "the room seemed to be full of bottles of perfume and whisky."

"In these soft and voluptuous surroundings," complains the conspiring colonel, "it was clear that Appler and Sandy (the other spy) were rapidly forgetting the mission for which they had been sent to Egypt."

Appler and Sandy soon were nabbed by the British. The author was nabbed three days later.

Japanese University to Study Road Needs

TOKYO—A study of the economic aspects of Japan's pressing transportation problems will be made by Weseda University, Tokyo. Data on Japan's highway-transportation problems in relation to the country's recent, strikingly rapid population and economic growth will be collected and analyzed.

The study will deal with such questions as the effect on economic growth in the past 10 years of an inadequate highway network, the capacity of the present development programs to meet future needs, and the need and feasibility of a system of superhighways.

Bob Considine Says:

Haircut Case Harmful to Air Force

NEW YORK (INS)—It cost the U. S. Air Force about $2,000,000,000 a year to train the replacements for those who leave the service.

Blandishments, appeals and an expensive "the Air Force is good for you" campaign amount to naught. The men leave, and the retraining bill has become a standard burden on the Air Force's back.

It goes without saying that the whole migraine of beckoning men into the Air Force and keeping them after they learn their jobs is directly affected by the world-wide attention the case of Airman 3C Donald Wheeler is getting.

The 20-year-old Cortez, Colo., boy was given four months at hard labor and a $200 fine for balking at having his modest sideburns shaven. Later, the conviction was reversed.

A ridiculous case, to be sure, but one that could undo a lot of costly and tedious work by the Air Force to improve its standing with the American people.

If Wheeler was guilty of something additional, the starchy court which convicted him made a real blunder in not telling the public. It, as the reversal indicates, he got hit with this sort of sentence for a preposterously small deviation, somebody in charge ought to have a talk with the chaplain.

AN OLD PROBLEM

Of course, the question of hair has been nagging the military for a long time. There was Alexander the Great, for one.

★ ★ ★

"His hair which stood up over his forehead gave the suggestion of a lion," comments the Encyclopedia Brittanica. "Alexander shaved clean, and set the fashion in this respect for the Graeco-Roman world for the next 500 years."

He shaved clean and ordered his men to do so because he wanted to give his enemies no opportunity to grab them by the beards while swinging a broadsword.

Before the new strategy of shaving spread through the lands of his foes, Alexander was to weep that he had no more worlds to conquer.

★ ★ ★

Just what Wheeler's temple fuzz has to do with the superiority or inferority of our Air Force wasn't made plain by his superiors. Congressmen are bound to get an answer. This is too good a bet for them to miss, with election year coming up.

CREWCUTS ORDERED

Gen. Skinny Wainwright insisted on the crewcut while commanding his cavalry posts. So did Gen. George Patton, who was an almost oppressive stickler for spit and polish. A friend who served under George—'way under him—recalls a hairrowing adventure in World War II.

"I'd just gotten overseas and my outfit had been trucked up to a bivouac area about three miles behind the frontlines, and at this point we were shaken down to go into action.

"Our C.O. insisted as one of our preparations that everyone get his hair cut very short, about a quarter-inch of hair all over the head.

"We had two company barbers and they went to work. When my turn came my GI barber (who'd been a barber in New York), refused to cut my hair to the required length.

★ ★ ★

"I had the same sort of fringe on top adornment I have now. The GI said it'd be ridiculous to cut my few strands. He just wouldn't do it. It offended his professional or artistic sense.

CLIP IT, HE SAID

"The C O, when he heard about this, told the fellow to stop the nonsense and clip. But still he refused, insisting he just couldn't do it. The other barber, a non-pro, was ordered to take the clippers to me.

★ ★ ★

"It was all pretty silly, I guess. Yul Brynner never looked balder. But my outfit was part of Patton's army, and that's the way they did things.

"The reluctant barber wasn't courtmartialed(who had time?) but he did all the latrine digging there was to do for some considerable time to come."

P. S. Just saw an old picture of Billy Mitchell. If he had been born 30 years later he could have been courtmartialed for preaching a separate Hair Force.

Junior Editors Quiz on BIRDS

QUESTION: Why is the shrike called the butcher bird?

ANSWER: The handsome shrike is a songbird gone wrong. Like other songbirds, it has weak feet intended only for perching. But its powerful, hooked bill shows it for what it is — a bird that grabs big insects, and even smaller birds and animals, to eat.

Since, unlike a hawk, it cannot hold its victims down with its feet while tearing them apart with its beak, it often spears them on a thorn or barbed wire fence, then rends them at leisure. That is the reason it sometimes is called the butcher bird, because butchers hang pieces of meat on hooks.

FOR YOU TO DO: When in the country, watch for a handsome grey and black bird perching on a tree; it's possible you may see a shrike. Also color this picture, paste on cardboard, cut along the outside outline, and stand up after folding on the dotted line.

Start Scholarship for Shop Course

BIG RAPIDS (AP) — Establishment of a scholarship for students in the automotive service training program at Ferris Institute here has been announced by Jon P. Adams, dean of the college's trade and industrial division.

The scholarship, the first of its kind, was granted by the Michigan Automotive Wholesalers Assn. of Lansing yesterday.

It will provide a year's tuition for a student in the automotive machine shop training program which will be inaugurated at Ferris in September.

The automotive machine shop training program is the fourth of a series of automotive service programs offered at Ferris. The other three are in automotive service, automotive body and fender repair and spray painting and heavy equipment and diesel repair.

Mamie to Help Dedicate Park Named After Her

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower will fly to her hometown, Denver, Colo., next Monday for a week's visit.

★ ★ ★

On the following Thursday she will participate in ceremonies dedicating the city's new Mamie Doud Eisenhower Park.

The 32-acre park, in a Denver residential section, includes a swimming pool and tennis courts.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Eisenhower, who will travel in the presidential plane, the Columbine III, plans to return Aug. 3, the 35th birthday of Maj. John Eisenhower, son of the President and First Lady.

Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, is already in Denver.

Arizona Couldn't Say Much About Nevada

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A woman telephoned the sheriff's office this week asking about visiting hours for prisoners in the county jail. Deputy Marion Goree told her when they were.

"Does that apply to Las Vegas also?" asked the caller.

"We couldn't tell you about that," the deputy replied.

"Huh. Some brushoff," said the woman as she slammed down the receiver.

Pacific Coast Group Makes Actual Purchase After Flurry of Rumors

NEW YORK (AP) — The Mutual Broadcasting System has been sold to a group of Pacific Coast businessmen and broadcasters for an undisclosed price.

Announcement of the sale was made yesterday, after widespread rumors that it was impending. Trade sources said the network, in existence since 1934, lost $400,000 last year.

★ ★ ★

During negotiations a sale price of somewhat over half a million dollars was reportedly discussed.

The purchasing group is headed by Paul Roberts of Los Angeles, who will take over as network president Aug. 7. B. J. Hauser, former Mutual vice president, will become executive vice president.

Roberts is general manager of KRKD-FM of Los Angeles.

The announcement said the wholly owned radio station of RKO Tele-Radio Pictures, Inc., Mutual's parent company, are not involved in the sale but remain as affiliates of the network.

★ ★ ★

These stations are in New York, Boston, Memphis, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Washington, D.C.

★ ★ ★

Roberts said the purchasing group includes Armand Hammer, president of Occidental Petroleum Corp. of Los Angeles, and Roy Roberts, an Ojai, Calif., realtor and oil operator.

Mutual has 480 affiliated stations, but owns no stations itself.

The new owners said future network plans and policies would be announced soon.

★ ★ ★

The Yankee and Don Lee regional networks, owned by RKO Tele-Radio Pictures, Inc., will continue as affiliates of the Mutual network.

Puts Aside Party Plans for Travel

Hostess Cafritz to Introduce Sons to Europe's Culture

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Gwen Cafritz, indefatigable capital hostess, has laid aside party-planning for a family project this summer. With her wealthy realtor husband, Morris, she is taking their three sons on their first tour of Europe.

★ ★ ★

She says she finds the prospect more exciting than any of the celebrity - studded super wingdings she tosses.

The emphasis, says the Vienna-born socialite, will be on the history and culture of the continental capitals to which they will pilot the boys.

AWAITS REACTION

Gwen says she just can't wait until she sees how her sons, Calvin, 26, Carter, 20, and Conrad, 18, react to the sights of Paris, such as Notre Dame, the Louvre and other art gallaries.

★ ★ ★

"I would like to show them all the wonderful things through my eyes," she told me amid preparations for a July sailing on the Liberte.

"Then we're going to Vienna and Venice," she went on. "Imagine seeing these for the first time? It will be fantastic.

"I've spent half my life in Europe and I want the boys to get the spirit of the whole thing. I want to teach them. I will make speeches. It will be tremendously broadening."

★ ★ ★

The family will also spend some time in Rome and on Aug. 1 will go to Monte Carlo for several week's stay before returning to Washington.

PREPARE TO LAUGH

Mrs. Cafritz says she has been warned that some of the long-hair aspects of the sojourn she's planned for her handsome young sons might not take. She said she'd been told to be prepared to laugh at some of her sons' reactions.

★ ★ ★

"They've all been exposed to art and culture all their lives," she argues. "On the whole, I think they'll get a great deal out of their travels.

"We decided to make the trip this year while none of the boys is in the service and none is married."

Making a primitive shower, Margaret Morgan of Rochester and Syney Swindells of Taylor street hang the shower curtain while Julie Bacon of Chippewa road lays the log flooring and Jane Tripp of Voorheis road digs the drainage ditch.

Sherry Lundgren and Lynn Donnelly of Detroit assist Dorene Beacco of Sylvan Manor build new steps as a part of their project on conservation of soil at Camp Sherwood.

400 Enjoy Activities at Camp Sherwood

Camp Sherwood, the resident camp for Northern Oakland County Girl Scouts, is the scene where over four hundred girls are learning about nature first hand throughout the summer season. Many girls return year after year to the camp located on Davis Lake just outside of Lapeer.

★ ★ ★

This year a new development is the program aid set up for counselors in training. Starting on the first of a three year progressive program are 12 teenagers who must fill a regular camp schedule plus observe the fundamentals of a counselor's work, study, and pass tests on phases of camping.

However, they do not replace the counselors. A three-day vacation canoe trip is a form of reward for their efforts.

★ ★ ★

Conservation has been introduced for the first time on a large scale. Marvin Hanson of Lapeer from Michigan's Conservation Department assists with training. The girls are learning how to prevent soil erosion as well as doing actual maintenance of washed - out paths and building new steps.

NEW INTERESTS

New interest has been stimulated in arts and crafts, where work begins in Rainy Day House and continues in the units, having projects completed and put into use. Basket weaving and lashing are both popular.

★ ★ ★

At sundown all campers gather near the main lodge for their Flag ceremony. On Sundays, girls fill the chapel which is a terraced hillside facing the lake, for services planned and conducted by themselves in observance of the Sabbath.

★ ★ ★

Campfires are many amongst the hills in camp units—the most important one of all being the Council Fire by the lake on Friday night, which is, perhaps, the fondest memory of campers when they leave Camp Sherwood.

Unmistakably primping, program-aid, Kristie Pearson of Oxford stresses the importance of good grooming.

Develop Genuine Liking for People

By ANNE HEYWOOD

The ability to get along with people not only makes life more fun, but it also makes it more lucrative.

Surveys continue to show that people who are fired from jobs, or not promoted, are not the people whose skills are bad, but the people whose personal relationships are bad.

FALLACIOUS THEORY

There are lots of reasons for bad personal relationships, but I think one misconception is at the root of most of them.

And that is the fallacious theory that people are like chemicals and can be classified, predicted and appealed to on rigid, scientific terms.

It's partly due to the fact we live in such a scientific and mechanical society, I suppose.

We think we can memorize some rules, toss off a few compliments and everybody will be sure to love us. But it doesn't work, because people are smarter than you think.

People can tell whether you really like them or not. If you don't really like them, they won't like you, no matter what dialogue you memorize!

The problem then is one, not of making people like you, but of liking them; really liking them, not just gritting your teeth and pretending to find their conversation fascinating.

How can you go about it? How can you like people, all kinds of people, no matter what they do?

There's no ironclad method, of course, but here is something to think about:

Pretend you are a novelist, or a newspaper reporter, trying to learn all you can about people. Pretend you are a playwright building a cast of characters.

★ ★ ★

Keep a notebook and at night write descriptions of the people that you've encountered during the day.

If they're new people, describe them in detail. If they're ones you already know, add any insights you've gotten from your meeting that day.

Don't Take Sides When Kids Fight

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Under a maple tree in the backyard, Sharon and a friend were having a dolls' party. The table was a barrel lid; the cloth an old pillowcase; the tea was water. But the cookies and the china were real. Suddenly a big lump of dirt landed right in the middle of the table.

"Stupid—stupid—stupid!" yelled her little brother from where he'd thrown it—and ran.

Sharon caught him and was sitting on top of him the better to beat him when her mother came running from the house. She slapped Sharon, told her friend to go home.

Then, bearing the roaring Billy into the house, she cried, "I don't care what he did! You had no right to hit him."

★ ★ ★

This kind of treatment can only foment quarreling between Sharon and Billy.

AVOID BOTH OF THEM

According to a study made of 6,000 families by psychologists Norma E. Cutts and Nicholas Moseley, our most effective treatment of quarreling children is to remove them both from our presence.

★ ★ ★

It's effective because the equal penalty denies our moral endorsement to either child.

It's giving our moral endorsement to one of our two quarreling children that is always our mistake.

We simply cannot know the rights or wrongs of quarrels between Sharon and Billy. Their mutual jealousy expresses itself in a thousand ways we never register.

★ ★ ★

For example, you may imagine that their quarrel today was caused by Billy's aggression. Actually, it was provoked by Sharon who exaggerated the fun she was having as the insider on the dolls' party to stress Billy's lack of fun as an outsider on the party.

UNNOTICED FEUDING

This kind of unnoticed attack and counterattack goes on much of the time between Sharon and Billy. When we condemn either one of these children as the cause of a single explosion of jealous feeling, we can be sure of only one thing—we are misjudging.

Our inevitable misjudgment simply increases their jealousy.

For their quarrels are just skirmishes in their basic battle for our preference. Each believes himself less favored than the other. When we give either quarreler our moral endorsement, we add to this envious belief.

Looking over their shoulders to the year 1907 for inspiration, the Fontana Sisters of Rome focus attention on the back in these afternoon suits. At left, the bustle is brought back in a wool suit with a jacket that buttons tightly halfway up the back where it blouses out in a repeat of the bustle hemline. At right the back is pouch draped below the high collar. Fully-veiled hats add to the nostalgic styles.

Care for Cashmeres Without Kid Gloves

There's a popular belief that cashmere sweaters must be handled with kid gloves. Actually, they wash beautifully and, if they're properly washed, need no blocking to stay in shape. Wash them in lukewarm water and gentle soapsuds. Never lift them up while soaking. After three rinses, squee them out right in the basin, transfer quickly to a towel with no attempt at shaping and get the water rolled out. Now, you can do the shaping on a second towel. Always dry sweaters flat.

Address Properly

There's no use of making a widow feel that because she has lost her husband she is no longer entitled to use his name. That is what you do when you address a letter to a widow, "Mrs. Mary Smith." She is still "Mrs. James Smith."

Reheating Improves This Dish

By JANET ODELL

Since American men have traveled all over the world in the armed forces they have become more interested in foreign foods. More and more cooks are trying recipes from other countries.

Mrs. T. J. Studnicki married into a Polish family so has learned to cook some of the national dishes. Mr. Studnicki helps her prepare Polish Stuffed Cabbage.

For leisure time activities Mrs. Studnicki golfs and works in the yard. She enjoys sewing. With the whole family she takes in outdoor movies often.

POLISH STUFFED CABBAGE
By Mrs. T. J. Studnicki

2 heads of cabbage
3 pounds ground meat (2 pounds of beef, 1 pound pork)
1 cup rice, cooked
2 medium onions, cut fine
Small amount salt pork
2 eggs
Salt and pepper

Core cabbage and parboil five minutes on each side in boiling salted water. Drain and take off large leaves to stuff. Fry small bits of salt pork and use this fat to fry onions.

Mix rest of ingredients together, add the onions and salt pork and mix well. Fill cabbage leaves and roll up. Fold them over and lay folded side down in deep pan. Simmer on top of stove for one to one and a half hours.

If desired, tomato juice or sauerkraut may be added between the rolls before simmering. After cooking, these rolls may be kept in the refrigerator and heated up as desired. Mrs. S. says they're better that way. This recipe makes six servings.

Martha Hyer Deplores U.S. Girls' Title-Searching

By LEE BELSER

PARIS (INS)—Actress Martha Hyer, a gal who's a dead ringer for Grace Kelly, confessed today if she'd seen Prince Rainier first, "I'd have to put the double whammy on him!"

★ ★ ★

"But only because I think he's a wonderful, charming person," Martha added, "not because he's a prince."

Martha, who just finished a co-starring role with Bob Hope in a gay extravaganza called "Paris Holiday," deplored the way American girls are "title-searching" in Europe these days.

"With Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier it was different," she said. "That was a true love match and I think it's the greatest thing since popcorn.

CASE OF TITLE

"But with most girls, it's a case of 'Title, title, who's got the title?' With no thought of whether or not the poor man has a heart, a mind, or buck teeth."

The blonde actress, a homespun girl from Dallas, Tex., despite her cool Grace Kellyish appearance, got into the swim of things when she hit Europe recently by jumping right into the middle of the so-called "International Set."

"All my life I'd heard about these people," she said. "Now I've had a chance to view them first hand and they are quite something, believe me!"

★ ★ ★

Martha, now en route to Hollywood, crashed the caviar and champagne crowd by way of Polish prince Jean Poniatowski and his brother Albert, who took a fancy to the pretty American movie actress.

As a consequence she has weekended on the Riviera, attended the most exclusive parties and experienced the sweet smell of social success.

"It was a revelation to me," she declared, "to listen to their conversation. All they talk about is parties, parties, parties and what's happening at Maximes. It's their whole life. Their greatest tragedy is for Count So- and So to have a party and leave them off the guest list. They seldom, if ever, recover from such a blow."

Martha is happy she was able to take the peppermint candy people in stride.

"All that hand-kissing and bowing at the waist is for the birds," she declared. "You know something? I prefer the folks back home and as for a title—plain Mrs. Something or Other would suit me fine!"

Guest Irked by Insistent Hostesses

Must Visitor Move From One Chair to Another?

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: What can I do when I am paying a short visit and the hostess keeps insisting that I look most uncomfortable sitting in a certain chair and that I must change to another one? This happens so often and I seem to have no alternative but to sit in misery.

"Please say something about these people who are not satisfied with suggesting or offering or asking once, but must spoil the intentions by insisting."

Answer: I know the type of person you are talking about only too well, but I have never discovered any remedy except to say, "No, thank you, I like this chair very much." And to each proffered suggestion repeat more firmly, "No, thank you."

"Dear Mrs. Post: What can I do to avoid an embarrassing situation in refusing to order a cocktail when I go out with people who all drink them?"

Answer: When your turn comes to order, you simply say, "I'd like a tomato juice cocktail" or whatever you do like. There certainly is no more necessity for ordering what everyone else does than there is to order food which they like and you don't.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is a 9-year-old girl too old to be a flower girl? If not, may she walk ahead of the maid of honor instead of following her? Also, is a boy 4½ too young to be a ringbearer? Who buys his clothes?"

Answer: Unless she is small for her age, a 9-year-old girl is too old for a flower girl, and would better be a junior bridesmaid. As such, she would follow the ushers alone. Four-and-a-half is just the right age for the ringbearer. His parents buy his clothes.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When strawberry shortcake is served in a small bowl-type dish and drenched in strawberry syrup (very gooey), should one use the dessert spoon or a fork to eat it?"

Answer: You may use spoon or fork, or both if you prefer.

In Three Steps Soiled Diapers Returned Bright

Traveling cross-country with a tiny baby in an automobile can present a bundle of problems for the young mother. Here's an experience related to us by a home ecomonist whose three-months'-old granddaughter arrived in Pittsburgh following a trip from Colorado with a three days' supply of dirty diapers.

Grandma, who just happened to be a consultant in presented with the soiled diapers. Here is the formula that removed every trace of discoloration and returned the diapers to a sparkling white—soft, too!

1. Agitate diapers in warm water for 7 minutes. Extract water and return to fill.
2. Wash diapers in hot water (160 degrees), using washing compound and a mild bleach.
3. Rinse to remove all trace of washing compound and bleach. The removal of this washing film aids in preventing "diaper rash."

Nickname 'Sexy' Upsets Teenager

Boys Tease Girl, 13, About Figure

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "I am 13 and in the seventh grade. I have a very serious problem. In school the boys have nicknamed me 'Sexy.' I do not wear sweaters but I do wear tight skirts. I am very mature for my age. I am 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 115 pounds. My bust measures 37, waist 23 and hips 37 inches.

"I do not use foul language and do not have a dirty mind. Please help me get rid of this nickname. I have ignored it and it has done no good. I have also tried going along with it by saying 'I know it. Isn't it disgusting?' It just doesn't work!"

A. You do have an unusual figure for any age and especially for your age. I guess you will just have to pay the penalty now for what you will be glad to have later on. Boys your age often show poor taste teasing about such personal matters.

I think that if you will just keep on ignoring the taunts, with a smile and a shrug of the shoulders, they may finally stop. Also, perhaps you should not wear your skirts so tight.

Q. "My problem is that some of the teenage girls in my neighborhood (including myself) are overweight and find it hard to diet alone. I would like to form a club for reducing. My mother says, 'No, it is foolish.'

"We have the room and facilities for a club but she says 'No!' Would you please write an article on this and give me an answer in the Question Box? I am very anxious to know what you think of this."

A. I think most mothers who have overweight daughters would be extremely pleased. I think it is a wonderful idea! In most cases the mothers have to struggle and the daughters cooperate in only a half-hearted way.

HOWEVER, I imagine your mother's objection stems from the fear that you would diet unscientifically and injure your health. Why not organize an exercise club? Diet also but each of you should do so under the supervision of your family doctor. Group effort makes it so much easier, and really fun.

I can send you some leaflets with general directions. If you wish to have them send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Q. "My eyebrows are simply wild. They are not so very thick but they are long and will not stay in place. What can I do?"

A. Put a little petroleum jelly on them. Then use an eyebrow brush and brush UP from the underneath line of the brow. Afterwards level the top line with the brush. This will help keep them in place for the time being and also will train them in better habits.

It's Best to Talk Frankly to Snoopy Mother-in-Law

Otherwise, You'll Just Have to Endure Her Interference in Your Affairs

By RUTH MILLETT

What can a wife do about a snoopy mother-in-law?

The wife who asks that question says that her mother-in-law runs in to visit several times a day — never knocks — picks up any mail that is lying around and reads it, asks the price of everything the wife buys, sides with the children when the wife is disciplining them, then turns around and says they aren't mannerly and obedient as they should be.

There are two ways of meeting that problem, directly or indirectly.

If you have the courage, the direct way is really the kindest. If you choose it, simply have a talk with your mother-in-law and tell her frankly what she is doing that bothers you.

She may be huffy for a few days, but if you remain calm and friendly, the huffiness will wear off. She will know in her heart that you have a right to want a little privacy and to discipline your children as you see fit.

★ ★ ★

Furthermore, she will probably realize that you did her a favor by going straight to her with your criticism, instead of complaining to your husband or trying to get back at her in small, mean ways.

If you haven't the courage to be frank, you'll have to endure her interference.

A lot of in-law trouble builds up over a period of years until it seems unbearable because in-laws are too often afraid of being pleasantly frank with each other.

★ ★ ★

For High School Science Instructors

5 Area Teachers Attending GM Conference

Five area teachers will be among 16 from Michigan attending the 1957 General Motors Summer Conference for high school science teachers at GM Technical Center in Warren.

They are: Mike M. Andonian, Pontiac High School; William T. Sweeney, Birmingham High School; Lauren E. Manhart, Waterford Township High School; Burrows Rathsburg, Royal Oak Dondero High School and Irving R. Schmidt, Royal Oak Kimball High School.

The conference, August 18-24, will draw 39 teachers from six states including Indiana, Ohio, New York, Illinois and Connecticut.

It will allow teachers to see engineering demonstrations, and laboratory experiments and give them experience and technical information on industrial science useful in teaching.

All of the teachers attending the conference are employed this summer by General Motors. They were selected by GM divisions in consultation with local school administrators.

This year's program is an enlargement of one begun last year with the cooperation of 13 GM divisions and coordinated by Kenneth A. Meade, director of educational relations section of GM's public relations staff.

In addition to helping teachers increase incomes and learn industrial science techniques, the conference also assists GM executives "learn much about the problems of education and the needs of educators through personal contacts with them," Meade explained.

Dr. Paul F. Brandewein, former (N. Y.) High School science department and present senior editor of Harcourt, Brace and Company, Inc., will address the group at the closing session.

Brandwein is author of "The Gifted Student as Future Scientist," a 20 year study of preparing gifted students for science careers.

Find Dio Guilty of 'Shakedown'

Two Others Convicted With Labor Racketeer; Faces Federal Charge

NEW YORK (AP) — Labor racketeer Johnny Dio was found guilty last night in a $30,000 union shakedown conspiracy. He faces up to two years in prison.

An all-male "blue ribbon" jury found Dio and two union leaders guilty after 23 hours of deliberation, spread over two nights and two days.

★ ★ ★

Convicted with Dio were Samuel Goldstein, 41, president of Local 239 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and Max Chester, 41, former financial secretary of Local 405 of the Retail Clerks International Assn.

Conviction of Dio, a 43-year-old ex-convict came as the U.S. Senate Rackets Committee was preparing to open hearings Tuesday in its probe of his activities in labor affairs.

Also hanging over Dio's head is a federal charge that he was the mastermind in the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel.

Dio, Goldstein and Chester were charged with a deal to get the $30,000 from two jointly owned electroplating firms as the price of "labor peace." Two partners in the firms testified for the prosecution that $10,000 was actually paid out.

The jury's verdict makes Chester liable to four years in prison and Goldstein to three years.

General Sessions Judge John A. Mullen set sentencing for Sept. 5 and ordered the three men to jail until then.

Diplomats Prepare Battle Against Deskless Trend

WASHINGTON (AP) — Embattled State Department diplomats have dug in to fight a Madison Avenue trend which could sweep the desks right out of their offices.

Guy Wiggins, a young Foreign Service officer, has sounded the call to arms. He did it after spotting what's happening in some of New York's fancy public relations and advertising agencies.

★ ★ ★

Some busy executives in the big city, Wiggins discovered, are getting rid of their desks.

The theory is that a deskless office promotes efficiency, friendlier relations and even clearer thinking.

Wiggins, although only 35, is a desk lover of long standing. He not only loves his State Department desk and the ones he worked at in London and New Delhi, he has one at home he loves.

Seemingly with John Foster Dulles' firm support, he has now called on his fellow diplomats to hitch up their striped pants and fight any advocates of "executive desklessness."

He's even seeking reinforcements from bureaucrats in other government agencies through an article in the current Foreign Service Journal.

Peering gloomily into the future, Wiggins warns, "If siable numbers of officials should ever adopt this theoretical attitude, the whole structure of government would come crashing to the ground."

He scornfully dismisses the argument that a deskless office might promote clearer thinking in Washington.

★ ★ ★

The young diplomat's alarm may have been sounded just in time. The State Department has just started a gigantic building program which will quadruple the present size of its headquarters by 1960.

Ordinarily, this would mean thousands of new desks.

The new State Department building is to be an ultramodern affair, with acres of glass.

Dep. Asst. Secretary of State Thomas R. Estes, who is helping direct the building, said firmly when asked that he's never heard of the idea of deskless offices.

★ ★ ★

The State Department now has 7,903 desks, he said. Many are in temporary buildings and will be moved into the new headquarters.

★ ★ ★

More desks, of course, will be needed, he said, and money is scarce. He paused and then said: "You say deskless offices are supposed to promote efficiency? Hmmmm."

3 Youths Confess to Killing Professor

ATLANTA (AP) — Three Atlanta teen-agers, all married and two of them fathers of new-born sons, admitted the fatal beating of a Georgia Tech associate professor in a $15 robbery.

★ ★ ★

Detective Lt. R. F. Jordan said all three signed statements last night and were held for investigation in the slaying and robbery a week ago of Dr. William Knox Pursley, 32, associate professor of physics at Georgia Tech.

Jordan identified them as Paul Francis Ardceser, 19, Andrew Joe Evans, 18, and Donald Gordon Little, 17.

★ ★ ★

The three were picked up six days after Pursley, a native of Clover, S.C., was found beaten and robbed on a sidewalk near his apartment. He died of a fractured skull the next day.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Attendants at Lincoln Park Zoo are keeping a constant vigil over Roger, a 14-foot giraffe who underwent surgery yesterday for a mysterious illness.

Pontiac Guard Company Plans Field Encampment

With greatly increased strength and a high training rating as a goal, the members of Pontiac's Company M, 125th Infantry Regiment, Michigan National Guard, are now making detailed plans for their eleventh post war field training encampment.

The local unit, along with others of the Michigan National Guard, is scheduled to undergo its two-week summer encampment from Aug. 10 through 24, at Camp Grayling, on the Hanson Military Reservation, near Grayling.

The announcement was made by Capt. A. J. Largent, commanding officer of the Pontiac regiment, who briefly outlined the planned maneuvers.

"Aside from the usual marksmanship practice on the small arms and crew-served weapons ranges at Camp Grayling, the units will take part in extensive small unit tactical maneuvers," he said.

"Also included in the encampment program will be a field maneuver covering three days and two nights of steady tactical operations, involving both offensive and defensive situations."

★ ★ ★

Authorities say this year's program is intended to bring the units to a high state of efficiency, capable of functioning effectively as a first line reserve component of the nation's armed forces.

Search for Four Living Generations of Veterans

DETROIT (INS)—The Michigan State Fair and the Consolidated War Veterans Councils of Michigan are searching for a Michigan family with four living generations of veterans.

The generations need not have served in time of war. The family members will be honored at special ceremonies on Aug. 31 at the Fair Veteran's Day.

Engine Plus Truck Equals Man-Sized Traffic Jam

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Police reported they had a man-sized traffic jam last night — all because a railroad engineer and a truck driver wouldn't yield the right of way.

This is what happened, they said:

★ ★ ★

Raymond Borst of Erie pulled his big truck across the Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad tracks to make a turn onto Route 5. He got halfway into the street when a car blocked him.

A railroad engine with S. R. Reid of Erie at the throttle ground to a stop only inches away from the big tractor trailer.

★ ★ ★

Reid, officers said, refused to back his engine. Borst claimed he couldn't move his truck without hitting the engine. Horns of angered motorists began to blare.

Borst calmly unhooked his tractor and left the trailer across the tracks — and engineer Reid fuming in his cab.

Finally police arrived. A diplomatic officer persuaded engineer Reid to back his engine. Borst hooked onto his trailer and pulled it clear of the tracks.

Form Service 'Buddy Groups'

Fast becoming a popular idea among teenagers destined for service in the armed forces are "Buddy Groups" being formed by the Pontiac Army Recruiting Station.

★ ★ ★

These groups are composed of young men from the same city or high school graduating class, who are inducted together as a group and remain together through basic training.

This month's Buddy Group was made up of eight graduates of Walled Lake High School, six of whom are Walled Lake residents.

Sworn in at the Fort Wayne Induction Center, were: Mike Beebe, 18, of 1929 West Lake Dr.; John Babcock, 21, of 1796 Ladd Rd.; Jimmie Armstrong, 18, of 240 Wellsboro St.; Vern Darlington, 18, of 2320 Potter Rd.; James Wilson, 17, of 1503 McCoy St.; and William Carnahan, 18, of 302 Maudlin St.

Rounding out the list were: Don Underhill, 17, of 1448 Nightengale St., Wixom; and Tom Ward, 17, of 7563 Sweetbriar St., Westacres.

The group is now undergoing eight weeks of basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri. Following this, some will be assigned to technical schools as requested, while others will be assigned to various stations of duty.

Regular Haircut Given Airman

Revoke Court-Martial Conviction for Refusing 'White-Sidewall' Trim

FUCHU, Japan (AP)—A. 3. C. Donald Wheeler got a haircut today—a regulation trim at Fuchu Air Force Base barber shop.

Wheeler's court-martial conviction for refusing to obey an order to get a "white sidewall" haircut was tossed out yesterday and the 20-year-old Cortez, Colo., airman was freed from the Haneda Air Force Base stockade in Tokyo.

★ ★ ★

He had been held there three days after the court-martial sentenced him to four months at hard labor, loss of $200 in pay and demotion to private.

★ ★ ★

The court-martial penalties were all set aside by Col. Charles W. Johnstone of Reno, Nev., base commander, who said he found "legal errors" in the trial. He also said he found a "considerable change of attitude" on the part of Wheeler.

Wheeler told reporters after his release, however, that if he were given the same "white sidewall" order again he probably would "challenge" it as he did before. That kind of haircut clips the head bare to the crown.

The airman said his hair had "gotten kind of long . . . I haven't had a haircut for five days." He took care of that today with his visit to the base barber.

Wheeler will serve the remainder of his overseas duty with the air police squadron in Fuchu. He is scheduled to leave Japan Aug. 18 for Williams Air Force Base, near Chandler, Ariz. He said he does not plan to re-enlist when his tour of duty expires in September 1958.

★ ★ ★

Wheeler had been ordered to get a "white sidewall" to match the rest of the honor guard at the Tokyo headquarters of the Far East Command. An Air Force spokesman pointed out that the special clip is a thing of the past since the command—and its honor guard—have been abolished.

Defeated Beauty Sues Leona Gage for $30,000

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mary Leona Gage Ennis, whose big lie bounced her out of the Miss Universe contest and into a treasure trove, has been sued for $30,000 by the blonde beauty she defeated for the right to represent Maryland in the contest.

★ ★ ★

Mary Callie Hill, the defeated beauty, also sued the sponsor of the Miss Maryland Pageant, the Walters Academy and Fashion Guild, Inc.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Ennis won the Miss U.S.A. title in Long Beach, Calif., last week and was among the semi-finalists for the Miss Universe title when word leaked out that she was married. The publicity brought her night club, television and movie offers.

"I think it was downright mean of that woman to cheat me of the big chance," Miss Hill said. "I have no Hollywood tryouts or night club offers."

Her suit was filed through her mother in Superior Court.

The suit alleged that Mrs. Ennis and the sponsors "fraudulently schemed to conceal the fact" that Mrs. Ennis was married. The scheming, she said, cost her the trophy, the trip to the Miss U.S.A. contest, an automobile, a $1,000 wardrobe and the screen test which she said the Miss Maryland sponsors promised the winner.

Shirley Temple Films to Be on TV

Grownup Child Star Says 4 to Be Revived for Spectacular Show

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Four of the films in which Shirley Temple—dimpled and blond-curled — helped charm away depression blues in the 30s will be revived for television showing next fall.

Shirley, who's grown from a famous child movie star to a svelte mother of three, told about it at a news conference yesterday. She came from her home in nearby Atherton, where at 29 she's a rich matron and wife of Charles Black, manager of business operations for Stanford Research Institute.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Black reported the films will be revived in full-dress Sunday spectacular style on a national TV network.

The pictures will be controlled by the NTA film network, formed in 1956 by National Telefilm Associates and 20th Century Fox.

Mrs. Black said the cosponsor of the picture revival will be the Ideal Toy Co. of New York, which put out the first Shirley Temple dolls.

News and television writers watched the old Shirley dance and sing on a screen rigged up for the Mark Hopkins Hotel while the grownup Mrs. Black sat by making comments.

"It's somebody else, that's all," she said when she was asked how it felt to watch the old picture.

The four pictures have not been selected.

State Police Organizing First Skin Diving Unit

EAST LANSING (AP) — State police are turning to skin diving as an aid in recovering criminal evidence and the bodies of drowning victims.

Commissioner Joseph A. Childs said yesterday his outfit soon will organize what is believed to be the nation's first state police unit trained in skin diving.

Each of the eight state police districts, he said, will send a two-man team to state headquarters here to receive instruction from members of the Capitol City Skin Diving Club of Lansing and representatives of manufacturers of skin diving equipment.

During the 50-hour instruction course, troopers will receive preliminary training in a swimming pool, then turn to practical problems in underwater search at nearby lakes and rivers.

During an experimental period, Childs said, equipment will be issued only to teams in the first district at East Lansing, the second district at Detroit and the eighth at Marquette.

If the venture proves successful, he said, equipment will be issued to the other five districts.

Hollywood Headlines

Reinhardt's 'The Miracle' Finally May Become Film

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Being idle is not Henry Ginsberg's idea of happiness, so he'll produce "The Bachelor's Baby" for 20th Century-Fox, before starting his three-picture contract with Rock Hudson for their independent company.

"The Bachelor's Baby" is by Gwen Davenport, author of "Sitting Pretty" which introduced Clifton Webb in the character of Mr. Belvedere.

Henry would like to star Cary Grant if Cary has any free time.

Warner Brothers has owned Max Reinhardt's famous play, "The Miracle," for over 25 years. Ever so often it has been taken off the shelf, dusted and read, and then put back.

Now the property is hot again with plans to have it made with frozen funds in Spain. I saw "The Miracle" when it opened many years ago at the Century Theater in New York with lovely Lady Diana Manners as the Madonna.

When Reinhardt left his castle, Leopoldschron, in Salsburg, and came to Hollywood to help Jack Warner produce the Shakespearean play "Midsummer Night's Dream" in 1935, there was much talk about "The Miracle." But, for some reason, the picture version was never made.

DARING DAYS OF '20S

There's entertainment plus in Warner Brothers' version of "The Helen Morgan Story," a true picture of the glaring, daring days of the '20s. The musical score is delightful, bringing back many song hits of those mad days.

Ann Blyth gives the best performance of her career, portraying Helen from the time she reaches New York to the day she becomes an alcoholic.

A great job was done of dubbing Gogi Grant's glorious voice. Ann worked very hard with Gogi to put the songs over.

A surprise in the picture is Cara Williams (Mrs. John Barrymore Jr.) who is warm, believable and good as Helen's best friend, and Paul Newman comes off very well.

Walter Winchell with his microphone and Jimmy McHugh at his piano are interesting guest stars. Michael Curtiz' direction is excellent, and I look to see this picture a maney maker.

The off-again, on-again romance between Ava Gardner and Walter Chiari is very much on again. They had a battle — Ava went to Spain and Walter to his home in Italy.

He has now returned to Spain, and will star in a motion picture called "La Tenera Estate" which will be filmed in and around Madrid. He is seen every night in Madrid with Ava, who seems to be more in love with him than ever.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The red and white polkadot tie Tony Perkins is wearing was made for him by Edith Head, using material from one of Sophia Loren's dresses.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The soaring cost of living and devaluation of the peso have put the centavo out of business. It won't buy a thing.

The government coined centavos to accommodate stores wanting to make change for articles sold at 1.98 pesos.

Today few stores handle the centavo.

Put Ground Cover Plants in Masses Where Needed

EAST LANSING (INS) — A landscape architect at Michigan State University says that "properly chosen and cared for ground covers can add to the landscape beauty of your yard and cut the time-needed for care."

★ ★ ★

Ground cover plants are generally used in masses to cover a bare patch of ground or where trees are dense or low to the ground making it difficult to maintain a good lawn, says Joe Cox, M.S.U. extension specialist.

Ground covers may be used on open sunny banks, too.

Plants having a sprawling, creeping or prostrate habit of growth fit into use as ground covers. Cox suggests these plants as suitable for ground covers under ordinary conditions:

For shady conditions and year-around foliage — periwinkle or myrtle, baltic ivy, Japanese pachysandra and carpet bugle.

★ ★ ★

All are under six inches in height except myrtle, which is under one foot. Myrtle is also suited to sunny conditions while the others need rich moist soil.

★ ★ ★

For sunny conditions and deciduous foliage — ageratum, alyssum, forget-me-not, lobelia, portulaca, perennial sweet pea and moss phlox.

All are under six inches except alyssum and forget-me-not (under one foot) and sweet pea (over one foot).

Cox makes these recommendations for the various plant uses: edging — ageratum, alyssum, forget-me-not and lobelia; covering bare spots — portulaca; for slopes — moss phlox; for good mat planting — myrtle and baltic ivy.

★ ★ ★

For good carpet under shade — Japanese pachysandra and carpet bugle.

Cox suggests that you consult a reputable local nurseryman in deciding which ground covers might be best suited for your needs.

Rusty Foliage Means Danger

Watch Warning Signs for Parasite Infection on Trees

Trees should lend a rustic touch to the home landscape—but not a rusty one. Rusty tints among the foliage are a definite danger sign, warning of possible parasitic infection.

If you are planting now, avoid the species that enable some rust fungi to deliver one-two wallops to your arboreal friends.

Rust parasites infect by spore germination and they need two hosts to complete their life cycle. The spores must alight first on one tree and then on the alternate host, always an unrelated kind.

Most widespread of the home grounds diseases that need dual hosts are the cedar rusts. These include cedar-apple, cedar-hawthorn and cedar-pear, the latter a particularly serious problem to archardists.

Another two-host combination is white pine-currants or gooseberries. The resultant infection is called white pine blister rust.

Many home owners are unaware of the double-dealing by rust fungi or how to combat their attacks. Spores often have an active carrying range of at least two to three hundred yards.

Most effective control is to remove the least desirable of the two host trees. If one host tree is on a neighboring property, then a fairly adequate control job can be done next spring with ferbam sprays.

Westerners eat more beef than people in any other region of the country. The Deep South eats the smallest share.

Discuss Top Soil, Fertilizing

By WAYNE B. SIEFERT
Ass't County Agricultural Agent

Top Soil

Many new home owners find the top soil on their property has been sold prior to building of their home. With a situation like this, the successful establishing of shrubs and lawn grass often proves very difficult.

These sub soil situations often have very poor drainage, are packed and hard and usually of very low moisture nutrition. In cases like this, a good grade of top soil solves most of the problems.

How much should be added? The best rule of thumb is, a good lawn needs 4-6 inches of loam soil. This can be done by adding six inches of loam on whatever subsoil is present. Another way is to add three inches of sandy loam or muck soil and mix it with three inches of the sub-soil clay.

★ ★ ★

Roto-tilling does this mixing easily and thoroughly. Where light sand sub-soils are present, it is more advisable to add the six inches of clay loam.

What about weeds? In every top soil weeds are a serious problem. Most weed seed can survive for several years, with a few germinating every year. There is no easy way to get rid of them except with chemicals.

Lawns planted in mid-summer have been early destroyed by the weeds which also developed. Fall planting most nearly avoids this problem, because many weeds are killed by fall frosts.

An early spring application of 2,4-D destroys these weeds not killed by frost such as thistles, buckhorn, and dandelions.

How to identify a good top soil: A top soil with some clay is very desirable. Samples which are tested at the agriculture agents office are automatically tested for clay content as well.

Field determinations are done by moistening the thumb and fore finger and rubbing a pellet sized quantity of soil between your fingers. If a definite stickiness can be detected, a considerable portion of this soil is clay. If the sample is coarse, gritty, and lumpy, it is mostly sand.

Muck soils are not very satisfactory. Often they are predominately sand. When the organic matter completely decays only the sand remains. When wet, it easily clings to shoes and complicates housekeeping problems. When mixed with clay soils however, it improves tilth drainage and fertility. As a flower bed soil it is ideal.

Fertilizing of Trees

A vigorous healthy tree is a tremendous asset to the home property.

It almost seems a miracle that any trees survive, with Dutch Elm Disease, wood borer, sewer and water lines, and many fungus diseases taking a heavy toll.

Serious damage can be done by home owners, too. On many occasions mid-summer applications of fertilizer cause undesirable late summer growth which is not sufficiently mature to survive the winter. Severe weather in late fall has often destroyed trees which seemed to have been killed by wet weather, wind, or a small amount of fill soil.

★ ★ ★

When trees have not been fertilized for many years a single, heavy application is necessary. The suggested rate is three pounds of 10-6-4 or 10-10-10 per inch of trunk if the tree is over 6 inches in diameter. Holes 18 inches deep beneath the spread of the branches offer a very satisfactory method of making the application. The Extension Agent's office has a new folder describing fertilizing trees.

Make Beautiful Arrangements

'Annuals' Are Versatile

By BARBARA JOHNSON
Garden Editor

Annual plants which were purchased and planted in the spring are now in full bloom and are supplying material for colorful table pieces around the house.

★ ★ ★

Plants which live only for one season are invariably used for cutting more than any other type of flower. They are versatile in that they can be used alone or with other kinds of plant life, such as shrub blossoms and perennials.

Some of the most frequently purchased, used and best liked of all these flowers are sweet peas, zinnias, dahlias, nasturtiums, phlox, larkspurs and marigolds.

It is best to select varieties of flowers which have a reputation for "standing up." These make the most beautiful bouquets and also last the longest.

If you haven't had much luck this year and are not sure which kinds are best for this purpose, then take care to select them next spring and look for directions and information on the seed packets.

The gardener can get a good deal of self satisfaction and enjoyment out of arranging his own vases of flowers to comply with his tastes and imagination.

It seems to be the general opinion that including some sort of foliage, makes for the best looking flower arrangements. Just the ferns or leaves in your own yard or vicinity will do the trick to give color contrast in your room.

Don't fret if you didn't plant your annuals earlier this year. It's never too early to start thinking about future seasons. And besides, your garden will undoubtedly turn out to be much more profitable if you take longer to plan and figure it out in advance.

Fungus Scourge Infects Sapwood

Deadly Maple Wilt Avoids Hale Trees, Says Expert

Landscaping kept fit and in good growing vigor is likely to take the starch out of maple wilt, deadly tree enemy. The halest trees seemingly have the best immunity against this fungous scourge that infects sapwood.

This disease is not difficult to identify. Sudden foliage "collapse" on one side of the tree is one of the earliest symptoms. This wilting frequently involves leaves of individual branches, usually one over another. Most significant sign, however, is a distinct green discoloration of the sapwood.

The disease organism, a soil-borne fungus, clogs up the water conducting tissues and pours toxins into the sap stream. There is considerable speculation about the spread of the disease. Authorities have been unable to track down the agents — insects or infected pruning tools.

One thing is fairly certain. Good tree practices not only help woody pets fight off the infection, but actually help recovery of evidently doomed maple wilt victims. Pruning diseased branches is necessary to contain the malady. Feeding is invariably recommended, as well. In many cases, recovery is almost phenomenal after the vitamins are made available. In others, feeding fails to stem the fungous tide.

Amateur tree docs doing their own surgery should carefully sterilize saws, pruners or bits in a standard disinfectant. Felled maple wilt victims should be replaced by other kinds of trees. The disease-producing organisms still may lurk in the ground to infect maple transplants.

Popular Lilies Keep Growing Once Planted

The popularity of lilies is well deserved for they are among the loveliest of flowers in existence. Different varieties will have blooms from June to August offering a succession of floral decoration.

The plants are hardy and nearly all bulbs will survive cold weather. Once planted, they will continue to grow and blossom year after year.

There are types and styles to suit the most fastidious as well as the beginning gardener, all real treasures that give a feeling of coolness even though temperatures are at the wilting level for humans.

★ ★ ★

Now is the time to plan plantings for beautiful lilies next spring and summer.

Now Is Spraying Time

As disease and insects seem to thrive in hotter weather, now is the time to also spray or dust every ten days. When spraying or dusting, take time to coat both sides of the leaves to give the roses complete protection.

Farm fires cost farmers about 145 million dollars last year, according to estimates from the U. S. Department of Agricultures.

GROWS GIGANTIC GREENERY — Even though Kansas is the Sunflower state, Mrs. Otto Sessions, 1195 Desiax, proves that the Wolverine state can also produce the plants in a mammouth fashion. She is pictured here in her yard with sunflowers that have grown beyond nine feet tall, and are continuing to shoot up.

Control Galls on Oak Trees With Nicotine

A program of extermination is in the cards for some of the sneakiest landscape vandals. These are the insects and mites that cause ugly, cancer-like swellings called galls on pet shade trees, notably sturdy oaks.

Within the past half-dozen years, grotesque leaf, bud and blister galls have erupted alarmingly over the home grounds scenery. As a result, special sprays are now recommended to take care of the winged culprits, especially egg-laying wasps. Formerly, gall control wasn't rated important enough for a special spray.

The ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of surgical cure is the spray of light Summer oil-nicotine solution. This must be applied precisely at egglaying time, only a few days leeway at best. Home owners who have missed the spray period this year will want to make plans for next Summer's chemical warfare.

In the meantime, infested oaks, particularly those in the black grouping, should get good meals of special tree food high in nitrogen content.

Arizona's per acre cotton yield is often higher than in any other state.

Money's Yours for Answering Pot-O-Gold

More and more entries are coming closer and closer to the right solution, so if you want to get in on the $1,800 this week's Pot-O-Gold is worth, you'd better do it now. Even if there's a winner for last week's puzzle, the prize for this one will be $100, so what have you to lose?

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the sentence. You then write the number of that word in the puzzle square marked A.

Do the same with all other squares. Read all the clues carefully and be sure the right numbers are in the right squares.

Wyoming's Rabbits Beating Up Dogs

LANDER, Wyo. (AP) — Wyoming rabbits are so tough they aren't even afraid of dogs. Ask Queenie, a 10-year-old rabbit hunter, whose owner, Sandy Jacobsen, tells this story:

When Queenie cornered a rabbit in a field near Lander, the bunny turned on the dog and clamped its teeth firmly on her nose.

As Queenie reared backward in surprise and pain, she lost her balance and rolled down a hill, with the rabbit still hanging on her snout. Then the rabbit bounced away, leaving Queenie with a new respect for rabbits and hardly any enthusiasm for hunting.

India Sees Oil Odds as One in Twenty

CALCUTTA — West Bengal's first oil test well will be drilled to depth of about 10,000 feet, 3½ miles east of Burdwan, by the new Indo-Stanvac Petroleum Project, Calcutta reports. Parties to the test are the Government of India and the Standard-Vacuum interests.

General Manager Conger, of the Stanvac unit, says that the chances of discovering any oil at all would seem to be about 1 to 20 and the chances of finding a really major field are estimated at 1 to 967. He said, however, that failure to find oil at the first test would not mean failure of the whole program.

Jim Salsbury, 235-pound guard who broke into pro football with the Lions in 1955, arrived at Cranbrook yesterday, unshaven and weary after a long drive from the West Coast where he lives.

"I'm bushed," he said when he walked into Marquis dormitory where the Lions are being housed, "and I want a rest before making any more trips."

He made the drive with teammate Gene Cronin who also lives in California.

After the pair unloaded a half dozen suitcases and two arms full of clothes on hangers, they cleaned up and headed for the dining hall.

★ ★ ★

"Boy, I hope this is the kind of food we have all during training camp," said Salsbury as he emptied the huge platter of prime ribs.

SIGN SAYS STOP

In both cases, his wish not to travel anymore and the hope of enjoying the food while at Cranbrook, were made for naught.

Before he had a chance to finish unpacking, he learned he would be back on the road, headed for Green Bay, Wisconsin.

"That's pro football for you, one never knows," he said.

One consolation for Salsbury was that he wouldn't have to drive to Green Bay. He came here in Cronin's car.

NO ADMITTANCE

Signs carefully posted in the Cranbrook area give warning that the training camp is not open to the public.

The playing fields are under lease to the Lions. There is a chance however that a scrimmage session may be arranged for some afternoon inviting the public to watch the proceedings.

SPORTS BOOKS RECOMMENDED

The problem of providing interesting reading to young boys was demonstrated at the MSU workshop held recently in Pontiac.

Thirty-nine teachers enrolled in the course revealed that reading was tops with the children in the classroom.

In polling 35 youngsters it was learned that sports were the top four subjects of interest, headed by baseball which showed up on 29 of the 35 ballots.

Swimming, horseback riding and fishing were also popular. Dr. Harry Hahn, workshop teacher, pointed out that in matching the interests of the child with sports and reading, teachers should use more sports books and materials in story book forms.

Lions Get Rote From Packers in Six-Player Deal

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The Detroit Lions aren't taking any chances that quarterback Bobby Layne will stay healthy for the entire 1957 season. To make sure of this, the Lions today completed one of the biggest trades in many years.

In a six-player deal with the Green Bay Packers, the Lions obtained veteran quarterback Tobin Rote and defensive halfback Val Joe Walker in exchange for halfback Dan McIlhenny, offensive guard Jim Salsbury and offensive tackles Oliver Spencer and Norm Masters.

Key figure in the trade for the Lions is Rote, 6-feet-3, 205-pounder from Rice Institute who is in his 8th season in the National Football League.

Coach Buddy Parker indicated a long time ago he was interested in Rote, and the Packers with three other quarterbacks on the roster were searching for offensive linemen.

★ ★ ★

Lion officials many times expressed fear that injury to Layne would put an end to any championship hopes. In 1955, Layne was out most of the season and the Lions finished last. Last year in the decisive game for the title against the Bears, Layne was smeared early in the contest to kill Detroit's offensive threat.

When Harry Gilmer was not invited back this season, it left inexperienced Jerry Reichow as understudy to Layne.

During his NFL career, Rote has consistently been one of the league's outstanding passers. Last season the Packers got off to a bad start when Rote sat out several games with an injury. He returned in time for the Thanksgiving Day game at Briggs Stadium, and put on a spectacular passing exhibition to bring the Packers from a 20-point deficit to a last minute 24-20 victory.

During the 1956 season he threw 18 touchdown passes. Several times however, including a statement made when the season ended last year, Rote said he was quitting pro football.

The Lions apparently have taken this statement without too much concern.

Even though the Packers were more interested in linemen, one of the surprise figures in the trade is McIlhenny, a one-year veteran who had an outstanding year as a freshman.

McIlhenny was the team's leading ground - gainer until an injury sidelined him for four games. However, he still finished third best in rushing with 372 yards in 87 attempts for a 4.3 average.

McIlhenny's departure leaves the Lions with two experienced halfbacks, Howard Cassady and Gene Gedman. Lew Carpenter is expected to be out of the service in September, and other halfbacks who are expected to help Detroit are Dick Kercher, army returnee, and Gordon Malloy, Miami All-America who suffered an injury in the 1955 All-Star game. He was out of action all of last year after a knee operation.

Spencer was the big lineman in the trade. The 245 pound tackle from Kansas returned from the service last year, and had an outstanding season.

Salsbury, a 235 pound guard from UCLA, turned in a fine performance as a soph last season, while Masters is a rookie to the NFL. After leaving Michigan State in 1956, Masters played with Vancouver last year. When the Canadian team failed to pick up the option this year, the Lions signed him to a contract.

Walker comes to the Lions with five years of defensive experience. He was obtained by the Packers from the Giants in 1953. He stands 6-feet-1 at 180 pounds, and is 27 years old. He also made remarks about quitting pro ball.

All players involved in the trade are expected to enter their respective camps for the official NFL opening next Tuesday.

Oklahoma Star Finds It Hard to Elude Lundy

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Back Tom McDonald, who scored 15 touchdowns for Oklahoma last season, has finally found an end he can't detour around.

★ ★ ★

McDonald was one of the standouts in yesterday's continuing drills of the Collegiate All-Stars for their game in Soldier Field Aug. 9 against the National Football League champion New York Giants.

The Oklahoma runner, at 171 pounds the lightest man on the squad, tried to scoot past Lumar Lundy, 6-foot, 6 - inch end from Purdue.

"That Lundy has the biggest hands I ever saw," said McDonald. "He put one of them over my face as I went around and it covered my face and helmet. I couldn't even see daylight."

Curfew Rule Keeping Cards From NL Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Curfews are okay for keepin' the kids off the streets, but the one they have in Pennsylvania is keeping the St. Louis Cardinals out of first place in that National League pennant scramble.

As is, the Cards are second, three percentage points and a half game behind Milwaukee, slipping past Brooklyn's Dodgers 3-2 last night after the Braves were beaten 5-3 by Philadelphia.

But if the Redbirds, finally fattening up at home, could count Sunday's second game at Pittsburgh — which they led 11-2 in the ninth inning when the Blue Law curfew sounded — they'd be out front by two percentage points. The game will be completed August 27.

After taking two of three from the Dodgers, the Cards are a game ahead of both Milwaukee and Brooklyn on the "lost" side. The Brooks, now third, are just one point ahead of Cincinnati's Redlegs, who whipped Pittsburgh 9-1 last night. The Phils are 2½ back in fifth.

Sixth-place New York defeated Chicago's Cubs 5-2 in the other NL game, with Mike McCormick, the $65,000 bonus kid, winning his first in the majors.

The Cardinals, who are only 22-21 at Busch Stadium but have won nine of their last 10 at home, laid the wood to Don Newcombe again to break a 2-2 tie in the eighth on singles by Al Dark and Stan Musial and a sacrifice fly by Wally Moon. Newk, now 9-8 after last season's 27-7 record, lost to the Cardinals for the first time in six years last week in Brooklyn, and hadn't lost in St. Louis since May 19, 1951.

★ ★ ★

Righthander Herm Wehmeier also ended a jinx while limiting the Dodgers to six hits, striking out six and walking three for a 4-4 record. It was his first complete game since opening day and his first against Brooklyn since 1954, when he was with the Phils.

Jones gave up only two walks and four scattered singles during his shutout stint. He struck out six.

Meanwhile, his teammates were assaulting three Jet pitchers for 12 safeties, including three apiece by John Shanks and Ken Stanick.

Top Seeded Players Go Into Semifinals

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The pattern of the Western junior and boys tennis championships is running close to form with the top seeded players in each division reaching today's semifinals.

Chris Crawford, the No. 1 junior from Piedmont, Calif., draws the meet's surprise competitor, Bob Bowditch of Worcester, Mass., in the feature of the semifinals.

Bowditch, unseeded, continued to pull upsets in the junior bracket by knocking off Larry Nagler of Roslyn Heights, N. Y., 6-2, 4-6, 6-2 in yesterday's quarterfinals.

In the other junior semifinal, Rudy Hernando of Modesto, Calif. faces Allan Roberts of Brooklyn. Hernando advanced with a 6-2, 3-6, 6-1 decision over Chuck McKinley, St. Louis. Roberts moved up by defeating Jim Shaffer, St. Petersburg, Fla., 4-6, 6-1, 8-6.

Congressman Convinced Pro Sports Are Trusts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Celler (D-NY) said today a House investigation has convinced him the business side of professional sports "certainly must" be placed under antitrust laws.

Celler heads the House antitrust subcommittee, which is inquiring into the legal status of major league baseball, football, basketball and ice hockey.

Hearings, now in the football stage, recessed yesterday after a group of past and present grid greats testified that pro football's player draft is essential to the sport.

The subcommittee plans to hear from other players and president George Halas of the Chicago Bears after the inquiry resumes next Wednesday. Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League also will be called back for additional testimony.

★ ★ ★

Baseball witnesses already have appeared before the subcommittee. Celler said they had exhibited more of a "holler than thou" attitude than NFL spokesmen.

The long - time representative from Brooklyn reacted indignantly yesterday to a statement by co-owner Dan Topping of the New York Yankees that no other American League team could move into New York.

If the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers take their National League franchises to the West Coast, New York would be left with one club—the Yanks.

He said Topping's statement reflects a "materialistic" attitude that makes it "imperative" to provide antitrust laws to cover the business side of baseball.

27 Report at Cranbrook

Lions' Rookies Are 'Beefy'

All hands scheduled to report were checked and accounted for at Cranbrook where the Detroit Lions opened rookie camp yesterday.

There is plenty of beef among the 27 newcomers, including nine guards and tackles, the smallest of which tips the scales at 220 pounds.

Among the mammoth linemen are 265-pound Charles O'Brien from Valparaiso; Dave Liddick and Ken Russell, a pair of 250-pound tackles and John Gibbens at 240. Except for Jay Weenig at 220, the other tackles and guards better 230 pounds.

After drawing their equipment yesterday, the rookies along with John Henry Johnson, recently obtained from San Francisco, convened with coach Buddy Parker for an orientation session at 8:00 p.m. last night.

★ ★ ★

This morning they went through their physicals and this afternoon a series of lectures was planned.

Among the five ends in the group was Jerry Leahy, former Bay City St. Joseph star who is highly rated by the Lions.

Leahy came into camp with bandaged hand. He cut a tendon on a glass object during the summer while doing graduate work at Colorado, from where he received his degree in June.

★ ★ ★

Lion officials are anxious to get a look at Gordon Malloy, former Miami star halfback who is attempting a comeback in the NFL after staying out of the game because of a knee injury suffered in the 1955 All-Star game.

Last year Malloy had surgery on the knee and now claims the damage has been repaired. After the operation he stayed at Miami as a coaching assistant.

Johnson, a veteran of three years of pro wars since leaving St. Mary's College in California, reported at 207 pounds, the same weight he carried while at Frisco.

He is expected to be the leading competitor for the fullback slot with Leon Hart and Tom Tracy. Hart has not yet signed his contract, and the Lions are expecting better things from Tracy this season.

Drayton Takes Over 2nd

Emmanuel Baptist strengthened its lead and Drayton Drug took over 2nd place with victories last night in a Waterford Softball League doubleheader.

Emmanuel tallied five of its runs in the 4th inning in tripping Lakeland Pharmacy by a 7-3 count as "Fat" Keith hurled the win and helped the offensive cause. The loss dropped Lakeland to 3rd.

Drayton clinched its "clutch" triumph early in downing Weldon Thrifty 5-2. The Drugmen won it in the 3rd scoring twice without a hit. Weldon committed five of its eight errors in that frame.

Places 'Pro' Tag on Swim Winner

LONDON (AP)—A 12-year-old girl swimmer was threatened with loss of her amateur status today because her father gave her one pound ($2.80) as a gift for winning a race.

The St. James' Ladies Swimming Club in suburban Peckham branded little Carol Francis as a "professional" for accepting the gift. She was told to hand the money back or face expulsion from the club.

"Ridiculous," commented Fred Francis, Carol's father. "I did the ordinary thing that any parent would do. My child had come in first and I felt very proud of her."

Lary Takes Another Loss, 3-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Detroit Tiger hopes of climbing back into the American League's first division and Frank Lary's dream of a fifth victory this season have been smothered again.

The latest club to trip the Tigers and Lary is Baltimore.

The Orioles handed Lary his sixth straight defeat and his 13th of the year, against only four victories, yesterday as they coasted to a solid 3-0 shutout over the Tigers on Connie Johnson's superb pitching.

The loss left Detroit in fifth place in the standings—1½ games behind the front-running New York Yankees and one-half a game behind fourth place Cleveland.

Lary, who won 21 games last year while losing 13; was making his ninth bid for his fifth win. Instead he was charged with his six straight loss after going five innings for Detroit and giving up all the Oriole runs.

★ ★ ★

Righthander Johnson recorded his eighth victory in 14 starts by not permitting a Detroit runner to advance beyond first until the ninth inning when Bill Tuttle finally got as far as second.

Billy Goodman, Billy Gardner and Willy Miranda backed up Johnson with two hits each as they successfully stopped the Tigers from sweeping the three game series.

Baltimore scored its first run in the first inning when Gardner singled, Boyd was hit by a Lary pitch and Triandos singled to center with two outs to score Boyd from second.

★ ★ ★

The Orioles picked up their final two tallies of the game off Lary in the fifth inning when Gardner doubled with one man out and was singled home by Boyd. Goodman followed with a single. Then Lary hit Tito Francona with a pitch to load the bases and Triandos stepped up and hit a long sacrifice fly.

The victory brought the Orioles to within 2 games of Detroit's hold on fifth place.

The Tigers meet the New York Yankees tonight at Yankee Stadium. Detroit's Jim Bunning (11-3) is scheduled to oppose Yankee Bob Turley (5-2).

Tied Again in IL Softball

The topsy-turvy International League race was all tied up again today following a 9-2 victory by the Pontiac Police last night in city softball action at North Side Park.

Deni's Corner was the victim of a 10-hit assault and five-hit pitching by Elmo Burgess. Bill Newman sparked the attack with three safeties, including a two-run homer.

It was the 9th triumph in 12 starts for the Policemen and moved them into a 1st place tie with Franklin Products.

Jess Marve hurled three-hit ball at Pontiac State Hospital defeated Lane's Drive-In, 4-2.

Oxbow Pavilion finally won its 2nd game of the season, nosing out Pontiac Select-a-Drink, 11-10, in a wild tussle at Beaudette. McGee's two-run double in the bottom of the 7th wrapped up the verdict for Oxbow.

Torpid Pays Off for Harness Fan

VERNON, N.Y. (AP)—A harness racing fan bet $22,000 to show on Torpid at Vernon Downs last night. He got the money back plus a profit of $1,100 after Torpid won and paid $2.60, $2.40 and $2.10.

★ ★ ★

The identity of the bettor was not disclosed by the track official who revealed the big show wager.

Torpid, the early favorite for the Little Brown Jug pacing classic, was driven by Johnny Simpson and won by five lengths in equalling the world record of 1:58 for 3-year-old pacing colts.

Pro Giants Find Defensive Help in 250-Pounder

WINOOSKI, Vt. (AP)—Coach Jim Lee Howell of the New York Football Giants may have found the player who will replace Roosevelt Grier in the defensive line.

The surprise nominee is Ron Nary, a converted end who was carried by the 1956 world champions but did not get into a game.

"If the season or a game were to start right now, the job would go to Nary," Howell said after watching the former Kansas State wingman break up plays repeatedly.

A 6-6, 250 pounder, Nary added 30 pounds since last December which made possible his switch to tackle when Grier was lost to the service.

The Giants are preparing for the College All-Star game Aug. 9 in Chicago.

Tigers Sign Pitcher

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers today announced the signing of Clemson pitcher John F. Drake Jr. to a Major League contract for the 1958 season.

Drake, who hails from Greenville, S. C., completed his third year at Clemson last month.

Mickey Wright Leads Wolverine Open

Tips From Suggs Help Her Shoot First Round 70

Mary Faulk, Colby One Stroke Back of Mickey in Ladies' Tourney

DETROIT (AP) — Lanky Mickey Wright, one of the top young lady golf professionals, credits a couple of recent tips from veteran Louise Suggs with turning her into "a sensible golfer."

The 22-year - old Miss Wright played sensibly enough yesterday to take a one-stroke lead into the second round of the $7500 Wolverine Ladies' Open Tournament at nearby Lochmoor.

Asked to review her scorecard, Mickey replied: "Anytime I shoot a 70 I'll take all day to go over the card."

The young Californian's 70, five under par at Lochmoor Club that plays at 37-38—75 for the ladies, was one stroke better than Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., and Vonnie Colby, a frequent Michigan amateur champion now playing out of Miami Beach, Fla.

Another youngster, 23-year - old Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., one of the top money winners last year, was still another stroke back with a 35-37—72.

Miss Meriam Bailey, national intercollegiate women's champion and recent winner of the Western Amateur, tied with Betty Jameson of San Antonio and Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, each with 73s. Miss Bailey, 19-year-old Northwestern University coed, needed a 4-under-par 34 on the back nine for her 73.

Donovan Beats Shantz

Yank Lead Cut to 3½

By International News

Dick Donavan, who flunked Big League trials with the Boston Braves and the Detroit Tigers, predicted a big year for himself and the Chicago White Sox while he was in spring training.

So far, he has a good batting average as a forecaster.

His current record is a sparkling 10-and-3 and if he continues producing victories at the same pace for the rest of the season, the White Sox may win the flag.

The tall righthander from Quincy, Mass., doled out four hits to the New York Yankees as the White Sox won, 6 to 2, to cut the Bronx Bombers' league lead to 3½ games.

In other games, Bob Porterfield pitched his first complete game in over a year as Boston completed its series sweep against Kansas City, 5 to 3. Ed Fitzgerald's pinch single scored the winning run as Washington edged Cleveland, 3 to 2, in ten innings.

In winning his 10th game, Donovan outdueled Bobby Shantz and also clubbed a homer in his own cause. Shantz is 9-and-3. The win gave the Sox the series, two games to one.

★ ★ ★

He said he learned the secret of the slider from Wyatt while at Atlanta. It was Berres who helped Dick regain his timing and stride when he lost his stuff last season.

★ ★ ★

The Red Sox scored all their runs in the first two innings with Tom Gorman taking the loss. Lou Skizas homered for the A's.

★ ★ ★

Russ Kemmerer went the distance for Washington. Jim Lemon honered off Mike Garcia in the fifth to tie the score and singled in the tenth off the Big Bear to start the winning rally.

NO CONTEST!—As far as Walter Gdula of Detroit, a frequent visitor to Pontiac Lake is concerned, the big bass he displays above is a champion. The 5-pound, 10½-ounce largemouth was big enough to top the present Press contest bass division—but the angler in ineligible. Contest is restricted to FULL-TIME county residents only. Current leader is one ounce lighter, a 5-pound, 9½-ounce specimen.

Title Races at M-59 Track

Pontiac Speedway's new asphalt track will be the scene of the mid-season championships Sunday evening when modified hardtops run in open competition.

A guaranteed purse of $1,200 is expected to draw many of the best drivers on the auto racing circuit for the big nine-event program, which will be climaxed by a 100-lap feature.

Pontiac's Joy Fair, the sensation of the current season, heads the list of contestants. Fair has been burning up Ohio, Indiana and Michigan tracks, including the M-59 oval, sweeping honors with almost monotonous regularity.

There will be plenty of rugged competition for the veteran city pilot, however. Among his expected rivals are Mickey Katlin, Chuck Partello, Bill Kourt and Joe Doyle.

Jimmy Wilson, popular Canadian driver, has also indicated entry.

Sunday's show will mark the beginning of night racing at the local quarter-mile track, with qualifying trials starting at 7 o'clock and the 1st race at 8:30.

No more Friday competition is planned this year and Sunday after-dark racing will be in effect for the rest of the 1957 season, manager-promoter Dick Dewey has announced.

Rookies Work Out, Six Colts Unsigned

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — Six members of the 1956 Baltimore Colts' football team, including the two top ground gainers, remained unsigned today as rookie candidates for this year's team continued their two-day indoctrination course.

★ ★ ★

Among the unsigned are fullback Alan Ameche and halfback Lenny Moore, who between them gained a little more than one-third of the Colts' ground yardage which ranked second best in the National Football League last season.

★ ★ ★

Others still unsigned include guard Art Spinney, tackle Tom Feamster and defensive linemen Gino Marchetti and Jack Patera.

State Hurler Recalled From Minors by Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Anderson, 24-year - old righthanded pitcher, today was recalled by the Chicago Cubs from Portland of the Pacific Coast League.

★ ★ ★

The Cubs optioned Don Kaiser, 22, to Portland in the deal.

★ ★ ★

Anderson is 4-9 for Portland this season. He worked out in the Cubs spring training camp and spends the off season as a student

Andrade TKO's Smith

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cisco Andrade, 135½, the Whittier, Calif., challenger for the lightweight title won a technical knockout in 1:19 of the ninth round over former champion Wallace (Bud) Smith, 139, Cincinnati, at Olympic Auditorium last night.

New York — Whitey Ford of the Yankees fanned six in a row in a 1956 game, a record.

Bolt Leading Eastern Open

'Terrible Tommy' Hits Torrid 65 in Opening Round at Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — A gang of golfers set out today in the second round of the Eastern Open tournament wistfully hoping that record-breaking Tommy Bolt will return to normal and blow up.

★ ★ ★

Not many of them could seriously harbor expectation of coming up to Bolt's opening round 65 yesterday which was eight under the Mount Pleasant course par and one below the record set seven years ago by Clayton Heafner and Henry Ransom.

Incidentally, neither of them stayed on top to the finish of the 72-hole tournament continuing through Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Those among the field remaining closest in sight of Bolt for the second 18 holes included Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill., with a 67 and Pat Schwab of Dayton, Ohio, Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y., Billy Casper of Bonita, Calif., and Wesley Ellis of Riverdale, N.J., all with 69.

Two Shutouts, Homer Show in Church Loop

Shutouts by Don Badder of Christian Missionary and Floyd Hicks of First Baptist and a one-man batting show by Everett Gauthier of First Presbyterian featured Church League softball games last night.

Badder blanked Stone Baptist 10-0 and Hicks beat Liberty Baptist 11-0. Gauthier batted in all the runs in a 6-5 win over Church of the Brethren. R. Poole of St. Luke's four-hit Central Christian to win 4-1 in the only other contest.

PITTSBURGH — Pittsburgh university scored its first home football win over Notre Dame in the 1956 season since its victory in 1936.

FAILED TO WIN — Pete Vasquez, of 210 Earlmore, tried his luck in the Fishing Rodeo held at Beaudette Park yesterday, but failed to finish in the division for most fish caught. He had nine, but four were caught after the deadline. The winner, Larry Gracey hooked 20.

Unknown Sculler Upsets Favorite in Royal Race

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont. (AP)—Tony Biernacki of Ottawa, who pulled the biggest upset so far in the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta by beating Jon Pearce, didn't begin his sculling career until he was 20. And he hasn't even got a coach.

★ ★ ★

The 26-year-old Biernacki from the Ottawa Rowing Club cut down a three-length deficit during the last quarter-mile of the one-mile, 550-yard Henley distance yesterday to cross the finish line a full length ahead of highly favored Pearce in the junior singles.

St. Catharines still leads in the team race for the Maple Leaf Trophy with 90½ points.

Charles Says Jackson Will Put Up Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—Ezzard Charles former world heavyweight king, says "it won't be easy" for Floyd Patterson to beat Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson in his first defense Monday. Charles ought to know. The Hurricane whipped him twice.

★ ★ ★

Charles, now retired, arrived in town for the fight at the Polo Grounds while the two boxers were nearing the end of their long training grind.

Patterson was due to finish his boxing sessions at Greenwood Lake, N. Y. today and Jackson's unpredictable schedule called for sparring today and tomorrow. The champ remained a solid 5 to 1 favorite.

Bender Active in Sports World

Remember the Sports Stars of Yore?

(This is the 11th of a series of articles about outstanding athletes from Pontiac and the Oakland area and what they are doing today. We feature today Jack Bender, well known area bowler and golfer and former baseball ace. Tomorrow we feature Charles Cross of Clarkston.)

Jack Bender is well known here as the Past Exalted ruler of the Elks, an outstanding bowler and fishing enthusiast and a strong sports follower.

But we wonder how many people know that the Cleveland native played on a national amateur championship team for two successive seasons and was sought by the Boston Red Sox

"I worked out with Boston several times when they were in Cleveland and they wanted me to sign with one of their farm teams but I didn't want to leave home at that time," Bender told the Press

He eventually did go into pro ball Jack played shortstop for Flint one year in the Michigan-Ontarion and then was in the Ohio-Pennsylvania loop.

The Cleveland amateur team he performed with won 47 straight games in two years in winning two titles during 1924-25. Jack later was on Maxie Rosenbloom's champions.

Jack played and managed teams here for eight years and competed in the nationals three more times.

Between his positions as head of Material Control for Fisher Body at Livonia and the many doings at the Elks, Jack keeps plenty busy but still maintains a respectable 183 keg average. He used to average 196 in younger days.

London Proposes Fees for Parking

LONDON — Free-for-all parking will cease, in London, if a committee of traffic experts has its way. It plans to get rid of the 43,000 drivers who daily park their cars in Central London and go off to work. The cars sometimes slow traffic to a crawl.

The daily commuter who wants to continue "his selfish luxury" of driving into town in comfort will have to pay an attendant about $2.10 a day in parking fees, under the new plan. In other areas, where parking meters are to be used, it is proposed to charge six cents an hour, 14 cents for two hours and then a $1.40 surcharge for the meter-cheaters who outstay their time.

Buying Firms Wheat Futures

CHICAGO (AP)— Wheat futures, weaker at the opening on the Board of Trade today, later firmed under short covering and moderate buying by professionals in the market.

★ ★ ★

There was little news of importance to affect the bread grain and consequently the market was not under any pressure. Some hedging was noted. The trade still is waiting for volume buying by flour mills and bakeries to develop.

Soybeans weakened again, declining in early dealings under the momentum of yesterday's liquidation. Prices of soybean oil and meal were down and this, too, influenced the futures trade.

Corn, also weak at the start, later firmed, stimulated by a good demand in the cash market.

Near the end of the first hour, new style wheat was ⅝ to ½ higher, Sept. $2.14⅝; corn was ⅛ to ⅜ higher, Sept. $1.33⅜; oats were ⅛ higher to ⅝ lower, Sept. 66½; rye was ¼ to ⅝ higher, Sept. $1.27⅝; soybeans were ⅞ to 1⅝ lower, Sept. $2.43; and lard was unchanged to seven cents a hundred pounds lower, Sept. $13.32.

Open X-Way to Cut Traffic, Get Congestion

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—In an impressive ceremony, city officials yesterday opened a new expressway designed to cut down traffic problems during the afternoon rush-hour.

Minutes later, police said, the worst traffic jam in Little Rock's history had developed.

Traffic officers were as confused as the hundreds of motorists groping through a maze of unfamiliar traffic signs and lights along the 16-block expressway.

"I had to ride around on my motorcycle for 10 minutes before I could even figure out how to direct traffic," said Patrolman Gene Adcock.

Confidential Calls 60 Show People in Libel Defense

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The defense says it will call 60 or more Hollywood personalities as witnesses in the criminal libel trial, scheduled to start Monday, of two alleged representatives of Confidential and Whisper magazines.

The prosecution quickly labelled the defense move "window dressing."

Defense Attorney Arthur J. Crowley said yesterday that subpoenas have been served so far on Gary Cooper, Scott Brady, Walter Pidgeon, Corinne Calvet, Rory Calhoun, Lana Turner, Sonny Tufts, Buddy Baer, producer Paul Gregory, writer Louella O. Parsons and Josephine Dillon, Clark Gable's first wife.

Crowley said the calling of such witnesses would be "to establish the truth of various articles published in the two magazines."

The actual defendants in this phase of the case are Fred and Marjorie Meade and their company, Hollywood Research, Inc., identified as Pacific Coast representatives of the magazines.

Harry's Reformed, Won't 'Deface' Bills

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman has sworn off one of his favorite habits — autographing $1 bills.

A visitor to Truman Memorial Library asked him yesterday for one of the autographs.

"I hadn't better," he said.

"Why?" asked an old friend.

"You can't deface currency," he said. "That's the law. The attorney general would just love to put me in jail."

Truman was asked if he had been cautioned officially about it.

"Oh, no," he said.

Have Double Funeral

SCHUYLERVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—A double funeral is planned tomorrow for Charles S. Jones, 56, and his wife Mary Ann, 54, who collapsed and died beside his casket. Both were stricken by heart attacks.

Market Mixed in Quiet Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market turned mixed with a slightly lower tendency today. Trading quieted down after a moderately active opening.

At the opening few large blocks appeared and price changes generally were small. As trading progressed a lower trend set in, particularly among the rails.

Losses were mainly limited to fractions, although in some few cases they ran to around two points. Fractional gains appeared throughout the list.

After three days of rising prices the market appeared to be running into profit taking prior to the weekend.

Following a report of record breaking earnings for the first half year, Chrysler opened down 2⅛ on a 10,000 share block. Selling evidently came from those who had anticipated the earnings report. Later the loss was shaved.

Nonexistent Vote Defeats Issue of Annexation

WAKE FOREST, N.C. (AP)—The Wake County Board of Elections didn't solve the mystery of the extreme vote in Tuesday's annexation election.

Eighty-five persons in the area which would have been annexed registered to vote. One died, one was ill and didn't vote, and three persons were out of town.

That left 80 voters, and the registrar checked off 80 persons who received ballots.

The final tally was 41 votes against annexation and 40 for it, a total of 81.

The election board at a meeting yesterday couldn't account for the extra vote, but decided the annexation proposal didn't carry.

First Step: Conduct Survey

Cigarette Ad Regulations to Be Tightened by FTC

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission said today it is adopting a tougher attitude toward cigarette advertising claims in the light of possible links between smoking and lung cancer.

Acting FTC Chairman Robert T. Secrest told House investigators that a formal Public Health Service statement July 12 dealing with smoking and health "calls for a fresh approach" to the job of policing the tobacco industry.

As the first step in tightening the rules against what he called deceptive advertising, Secrest disclosed the FTC has given priority to a survey to learn whether smokers understand the meaning of cigarette advertising claims.

"The results of that survey," he said, "will enable the commission to take the necessary steps to protect the public from deception in the labeling or the advertising of cigarettes to the fullest extent of the laws the commission enforces."

Secrest was the windup witness in an investigation by a House Gogerment Operations subcommittee into advertising claims for the effectiveness of filter tip cigarettes.

The committee inquiry, however, has been frequently diverted by the swirling controversy over cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

Chairman Blatnik (D-Minn) said he considers "the evidence to date to be impressive" in favor of contentions that cigarette smoking is a causative factor in lung cancer.

On the other hand, some researchers challenged the validity of statistical findings which suggested a direct cause-and-effect relationship between tobacco smoke and cancer.

Secrest testified the FTC has experienced "unusual difficulty" in the past in policing cigarette advertising claims.

Through orders and voluntary cooperation by manufacturers, he said, the commission has eliminated claims that certain brands of cigarettes help digestion, relieve fatigue or do not harm the throat.

★ ★ ★

He said a halt also has been put to "extravagant comparisons" for filter tip cigarettes.

But, he said, the new and tougher approach was considered necessary in light of the official announcement two weeks ago by the Public Health Service and the surgeon general.

That anouncement said, "There is an increasing and consistent body of evidence that excessive cigarette smoking is one of the causative factors of lung cancer."

In addition to revising its approach and launching a public survey, the commission is also considering "additional steps" it may take concerning cigarette advertising, Secrest said.

"The commission is also alert to the test data published. . . . in late May which indicated that the tar and nicotine content of the smoke of many filter tip cigarettes is approaching the tar and nicotine content of the smoke of the company's same length non-filter-tip brand, and in some instances is higher than the tar and nicotine content of the smoke of the company's regular popular non-filter-tip brands," he said.

3 New York Buildings Set at $66 Million

NEW YORK (INS) — Control of the Chrysler Building and the Graybar Building is being sold in what may be the biggest real estate deal in New York's history.

Also included in the deal is the 32-story Chrysler Building Annex.

The buildings are being sold by Webb & Knapp to an investment syndicate led by Lawrence A. Wien. The reported price is $66,000,000, largest amount of any real estate transaction in the city.

The Chrysler Building, built in 1929, is 77 stories climbing to a height of 1,046 feet. Only the Empire State building is higher.

The annex was completed in 1951. The Grabar building, 30 stories high, was opened in 1927.

Webb & Knapp purchased 75 per cent interest in the buildings for $52,000,000 in 1953. That was the record New York deal up to that time.

Williams Wants Milk Selling Comparison

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams today asked the State Agriculture Department to supply some figures on the cost of producing compared to the selling price of milk in the Detroit milk shed area.

Williams asked for the actual cost of producing 100 pounds of milk in the Detroit milk shed as compared with the price the farmer is now getting and what he would receive if the price were to drop back to the level of the federal market order.

"The continuing protests of Michigan dairy farmers against what they contend are starvation prices for their milk, and the recurrent threat of a milk strike are causing deep concern," Williams said.

Man Pulled Through Hole

Investigators Seek Cause of Explosion in Airliner

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Investigators searched the forbidding Mojave Desert today for clues to an aerial mystery:

What ripped the jagged hole through which a heavily insured passenger vanished from an airliner?

★ ★ ★

The airline and government officials said they hoped that if they found the passenger's body and pieced together the jigsaw of plane fragments they might solve the puzzle.

★ ★ ★

Missing was S. F. Binstock, 62, a retired North Hollywood, Calif., jeweler, last seen when he entered the plane's washroom early yesterday.

He had boarded the Los Angeles bound plane earlier at Las Vegas, Nev. Binstock was insured for $125,000.

★ ★ ★

Other passengers on Western Airlines twin-engine Convair were frightened by a loud noise about 45 minutes later, as the plane cruised at 10,000 feet over the California desert.

★ ★ ★

One man said it sounded like an explosion—"A hell of a noise." The aircraft safely made an emergency landing at George Air Force Base, near here. The FBI and other agencies quickly stepped in.

What really happened? Officials frankly don't know. Not yet. Some, who declined to be quoted, offered this speculation:

1. It was an explosive decompression of the plane's pressurized cabin, possibly caused by bullets fired through the fuselage.

2. Structural failure might have opened up the lavatory wall, spewing Binstock into the night.

3. It was a blast from a detonated device.

Civil Aeronautics Board investigators today began putting together the plane fragments found in the rugged Ord mountains about 50 miles northwest of here. It was in this same general area Air Force helicopters searched for Binstock's body.

★ ★ ★

"When we recover the body and piece together the wreckage we should have a good idea what caused the explosion," a government man said.

★ ★ ★

On Wednesday, before he flew from southern California to Las Vegas, Binstock purchased two $62,500 insurance policies, naming his wife beneficiary. He entered the lavatory shortly after the Convair took off for the return trip from Las Vegas and was never seen again.

Wilson Joins Elite at Bohemian Club

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Defense Secretary Charles Wilson, Treasury Secretary George Humphrey and Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were sequestered at Bohemian Grove near here today.

They arrived from Washington last night at the exclusive Russian River resort of the Bohemian Club.

The club's annual encampment, which includes some of the West's most prominent business leaders, usually counts former President Herbert Hoover among those attending.

The public and press are barred.

There is about one truck for every 16 persons in the United States.

Girls Instigate Robbery; 2 Youths Are Sentenced

DETROIT (AP) — Two 16-year-old Royal Oak boys whose girl friends goaded them into robbing the Lakeville postoffice with taunts of "chicken" and "pantywaist" yesterday were placed on four years probation each.

Roger M. Williamson and Emil H. Drinkert were handed the sentences by Federal Court Judge Ralph M. Freeman after they pleaded guilty to burglary charges.

James Quinlan, also 16, and of Royal Oak, was placed on four years probation for accompanying Williamson on a previous robbery of the same post office.

★ ★ ★

Carol Frazier and Laverne J. Frieberg, both 17 and of Royal Oak, have pleaded guilty to accompanying the boys on the latest break-in and are awaiting sentence.

In passing sentence, Judge Freeman said: "Is it true that you boys wouldn't have done it if the girls hadn't suggested it? Didn't they call you chicken and pantywaist if you wouldn't do it? I think the girls suggested the crime and I don't believe you boys would have done it except for their suggestion and taunts."

The first burglary, on Feb. 16, netted Quinlan and Williamson more than $100. The second, on June 21, yielded Williamson and Drinkert $142.

Comic Ridicules New Theories

His Series With Wife Gracie Allen Is Now in Eighth Year

By CHARLES DENTON

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — George Burns is a conforming non-conformist, or perhaps a non-conforming conformist.

As the quarterback of one of television's busiest independent organizations, Burns plays by the rules.

But they are the rules he learned when he toddled into show business a half-century ago, not the ones that continually emerge from agonizing reappraisals by disgruntled, rating-rattled producers and performers.

And his signal calling is generally regarded as just about the cagiest in the glamorous game.

For example, Burns snorts derisively at the suggestion that comedy, or any other entertainment form, is going out of style, puffs contentedly on his cigar during arguments over the future of TV series and becomes positively sarcastic on the subject of "overexposure."

"This is our eighth year on television," he says laconically, "so that line about overexposure is dead.

A POINTED JOKE.

"I have a joke about it. They say being on TV once a week is too much. Being on every two weeks is better, and once a month is even better. That means if you're not on at all, you've got to be a screaming sensation!"

The 61-year-old Burns doesn't even believe that he and his scatter-witted wife, Gracie, should absent themselves from the home screens during the summer, a philosophy that borders upon heresy in a weary, worried business.

"The nice thing about staying on during the summer," he explains, "is that the audience will continue to accept your same show.

"If you go off and then come back in the fall, you've got to change the show or people will say, 'Well, it's the same old show.' Personally, I believe in being on every week and coasting."

As for wearing out the welcome of his CBS show in particular or of domestic comedy in general with this approach, Burns has no fears.

"As long as people remember cowboys, there will be Westerns," he said. "As long as there are private eyes in real life, there will be private eyes in entertainment.

ALWAYS COUPLES

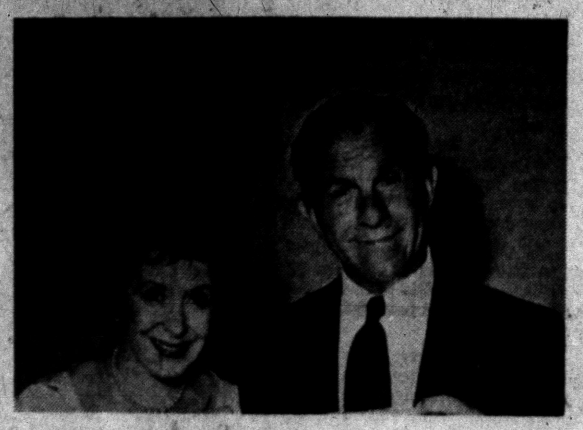
"I remember three years ago they said domestic comedy was finished. That's like saying there aren't going to be any more married couples in the world.

★ ★ ★

"As long as people get married and have domestic situations, then you've got to be able to make people laugh with them."

Burns' calculations on these matters are, of course, more significant than those of a performer who simply stars in a long-run show.

In addition to his public antics, Burns is the leading light of McCadden Productions, which turns out his own show, "People's Choice," "Panic," "The Bob Cummings Show," the new "Maggie" series starring Margaret O'Brien and has a couple of other efforts in the works.



FOLLOWS OLD RULES — George Burns spurns new television formulas and sticks to time-tested show business rules for his weekly show. George's system seems to work, for he and his wife, Gracie Allen, are now in their eighth year on TV. The Allens' comedy series is telecast Mondays at 7 p. m. over CBS.

What a Lot of Trouble Just to Appear Older

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Goodness gracious (and other horrid expletives), the trouble a guy gets into making himself look older!

Thinking he looks like John Barrymore and hoping to play Barrymore in the movie, "Too Much, Too Soon," Actor Gene Wesson silvered his hair at the temples while in the Ethel Merman-Fernando Lamas B'way show, "Happy Hunting."

He got fired, since he's supposed to play a fairly young non-gray haired reporter.

"The hearsay is that I'm caught in the middle of a feud between Merman and Lamas," Wesson says. "I hear Merman took a terrific objection to my hair—whereas Lamas liked it."

WILSON

Ethel laughed this off—and it was learned that Playwright Russel Crouse, Director Abe Burrows and Stage Mgr. Robert Downing urged him to change his hair back.

"I can't—I'm allergic to peroxide. I tried to black it down and it broke off," he protested.

So he asked Actors Equity to bar his replacement by understudy Clifford Fearl. "They can't dump me when all I did was touch up my hair!" he said.

Leona Gage'll bring her children here and may go on "Strike It Rich" to get new clothes. She can sing and is up for the Steve Allen show. The Las Vegas Club offered her a feature part and upped her salary bid to $500 a week.

★ ★ ★

Ernie Kovacs—whose next big job'll probably be directing a Martha Raye B'way show—has so many lush offers he can hardly find time to take his wife Edie Adams to dinner. He managed one night recently, but said, "You've no idea what this dinner is costing me!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Rex Harrison and his bride got a puppy from the Duke of Windsor . . . Vice Pres. Nixon took the family to hear Lionel Hampton . . . Glenn McCarthy saw "Li'l Abner" and invited the whole cast to visit him in Texas . . . Chick James will get a Paramount screen test. A friend visited millionaire shipowner Michael Grace, found him and his att'y, Arthur Rose, standing on their heads. Said Grace: "Good for sinus."

Rock 'n' roll star Tommy Sands is long-distancing Sharon Kelly, a beauty salon receptionist . . . The Freddie Martin band, which lost frequently on a horse called Martin's Win, found it was cheaper to buy the nag and retire him—so they did.

CHICK

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Good advice is what you get from someone who made the same mistakes himself."

★ ★ ★

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Will Jordan overheard a girl telling her date: "It's been a perfect evening—please don't spoil it all by asking me out again."

The most successful chef is one whose vocabulary is so extensive that he can give the soup a different name every day. That's earl, brother.

Missiles Enter Arms Confab

Objects Sent Into Space Appear to Be Another Disarmament Barrier

LONDON (AP) — Space missiles loomed today as another major barrier to agreement in the U.S. disarmament talks.

East and West appeared to be split again over how to insure that objects sent flying off into outer space do not fly on warlike missions.

Harold E. Stassen, U. S. delegate to the five-nation disarmament subcommittee, proposed yesterday that a scientific committee be set up to work out ways to see that all research on outer-space missiles is confined to peaceful purposes. He said the committee should start work within three months of the signing of a first-stage disarmament agreement.

The actual banning of research on armed missiles would not come until the second stage of disarmament, after scientists had agreed on a system of enforcement.

Following his usual practice, Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin did not immediately accept or reject the proposal. He said it would be studied. But Zorin in the past has consistently rebuffed suggestions that disarmament study committees be set up and has demanded instead that the West agree to Soviet proposals for halting all nuclear weapon tests immediately for a two-or three-year period.

Zorin similarly proposed on April 30 that all nuclear powers renounce forever both the use of nuclear weapons and guided missiles of all ranges capable of carrying nuclear warheads.

Stassen's proposal dealt only with long-range or outer-space missiles. Controls over conventional weapons would cover shorter-range missiles, he said.

The new American proposal appeared to represent a more cautious U.S. approach to the missile question, if not an outright change in attitude.

On April 25 Stassen suggested that all research on intercontinental ballistic missiles be halted in the first stage of disarmament. Top U.S. officials went over the program in a Washington meeting May 25 and the switch followed.

Find 2 Men Innocent of Alcohol Charges

Two men accused of furnishing alcoholic beverages to minors were found innocent in Municipal Court yesterday by Judge Cecil B. McCallum.

Freed were Charles Fick, 22, of 580 Second St., and Elwood St. Croix, 22, of 836 Sarasota St.

They had been accused of drinking beer and whisky with two minors, a 19-year-old youth and another 18 years old, shortly after midnight, July 5.

Temporary Park Built

DETROIT (INS)—Work is under way in preparing a temporary park in Detroit's Civic Center at the foot of Woodward. Mayor Albert E. Cobo ordered the park set up, eliminating parking in the area bounded by Jefferson, Woodward, Wood Bridge and Griswold.

Horse Runs Stop Sign, Rams Boat Broadside

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP) — A horse and a boat collided at a street intersection in this Kansas City suburb yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Petrolman Bob Shaw said the horse, with William G. Rhea, 16, aboard, galloped through a stop sign and collided broadside with a trailer on which Alonzo Betts was towing his outboard motor boat.

★ ★ ★

Rhea fell off the horse but was unhurt. The boat went into a ditch. The horse began grazing on a nearby lawn. Betts estimated the damage to his boat at $400.

Miss Universe Signs for Tour South of Border

LONG BEACH, Calif. (INS) — Miss Universe, 17-year-old Gladys Zender of Peru, has accepted an offer to tour Latin America.

Gladys will also appear on the Ed Sullivan show in New York Sunday.

She is scheduled to start her Latin American tour in Mexico City Aug. 1. Then she will go to Peru and seven other Latin American countries.

Four other contestants in the contest signed their first professional contracts yesterday. The Columbia Broadcasting System announced that Miss Sweden, Inger Jonsson; Miss France, Lisa Simon; Miss Nevada, Jean Adams; and Miss Illinois; Marianne Gaba, will appear on a television show.

The dethroned "Miss U. S. A.," Leona Gage, signed up with NBC for a TV appearance.

Philippines Deports 5 Suspected Reds

MANILA (AP)—Five Chinese suspected of being Communists were forced aboard a plane for Formosa today after police flushed them from a barricaded bathroom with tear gas.

The four men and one woman fought with daggers, clubs and lenghts of pipe before the gas subdued them and they were dragged from a cell block at the immigration station.

One was quoted as saying they faced "certain death by a firing squad" on Formosa for their leftist activity in the Philippines. They asked to be sent to Communist China.

The five had been detained from three to five years after roundups of suspected Chinese Reds in the Philippines. They denied being Communists and claimed they were framed by their enemies.

Bridge has returned to the number one place for Americans, according to recent surveys among card players.

Elm Disease Up Slightly in City

Ewalt Urges Residents to Have Trees Sprayed at First Symptom

A slight increase in Dutch Elm disease in Pontiac has been discovered this summer, according to David R. Ewalt, director of the Parks and Recreation Dept.

He said 130 specimens from elm on both city and private lots were sent to Michigan State University this week for testing.

"This doesn't necessarily mean that all these will come back positive," Ewalt said, "but might mean that quite a few more trees will have to come down."

Ewalt urged residents to have all elms sprayed. If leaves are turning yellow at the top, the first symptom of the disease, submit a six-inch branch specimen to the department to be sent to MSU for testing, he said.

This summer forestry personnel in the city have removed 12 diseased elms.

Last year 150 elms were lost to the disease caused by a beetle which carries an infectious fungus into the tree and clogs up the water and food vessels of the tree.

To date there is no known cure for the disease, forestry experts say.

After 41 Years Weds Spouse's Best Man

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. Marion S. Hedrick and E. W. Stilwell, who was best man at her first wedding 41 years ago, were married at Grace Episcopal church last night.

Mrs. Hedrick, 67, is the widow of Carl Hedrick, who was president of the Hutchinson State Bank when he was killed in an automobile accident about three years ago. Stilwell, 76, is president of the Commercial National Bank in Kansas City, Kan. His first wife died last September.

Inforce Boating Rules

DETROIT (AP)—A drive on violators of boating safety rules on the Detroit River has been launched by Detroit harbormaster police. Insp. Oliver Beresford said, "There have been too many drownings, collisions and general irresponsibility." Tickets for safety violations could bring a $500 fine and 90 days in jail.

Sharp Polio Drop Creates New Hospital Problem

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A sharp drop in polio cases since introduction of Salk vaccine has created a new hospital problem in Grand Rapids.

Take for instance, Mary Free Bed Children's Hospital, which has geared itself to handle an influx of young polio patients starting about July of each year.

In the past, youngsters filled an entire section of the hospital. This year the polio ward is empty except for a few "holdover" cases.

Meanwhile, Mary Free Bed is using its polio patient room to expand three other programs:

1) Helping young adult polio sufferers rehabilitate themselves.

2) Expending cerebral palsy treatment and setting up a speech therapy program.

3) Helping child amputees learn to use artificial limbs.

"We're also taking in and caring for more rheumatic fever patients than ever, and many children who had plastic surgery because of burns are being sent here for therapy," said Nellie Koster, hospital director.
