Arab Rivalries Fanned by Jordan Crackdown

U.S. Tentatively OKs Egyptian Canal Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States agreed today to accept Egypt's Suez plan on a provisional basis, but reserved its final acceptance until the plan has been put to trial.

The U.S. position was laid before the U.N. Security Council by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, who said the plan announced by the Egyptian government earlier this week left much to be desired.

Lodge announced that, pending a final settlement, U.S. vessels will be authorized to pay tolls only under protest, as has been the case since President Nasser nationalized the 103-mile waterway last July.

The U.S. delegate said the Egyptian plan, set forth in a memorandum to the U.N., falls short of the six requirements adopted by the Security Council last October 13 as a basis for a settlement.

He noted especially the lack of any provision for "organized cooperation" in the operation and control of the canal, which Egypt had promised last November in a letter to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

"In view of this lack of provision for organized and systematic cooperatoin between Egypt and the users," Lodge said, "there is no assurance that the six requirements will in fact be implemented."

He added:

"Perhaps no final judgment can be made regarding the regime proposed by Egypt until it has been tried out in practice. Therefore, any de facto acquiescence by the United States must be provisional and we reserve the right to express ourselves further on the matter in the future."

PRACTICAL PLANS

He said it was obvious that a number of practical arrangements would have to be worked out in putting the Egyptian plan into effect. He did not spell this out.

The Egyptian plan calls for collection of tolls and operation of the canal by Egypt. Egypt, however, pledged itself to submit disputes to international arbitration and to agree to abide by decisions of the International Court of Justice on disputes over interpretation of the Convention of 1888, which provides for free passage of all vessels through the canal.

Senate Defeats Road Financing

Would Have Turned $12 Million to Counties, Cities From State

LANSING (AP)—The Senate today dealt a stunning—and perhaps fatal—blow to a legislative proposal for overhauling the state's road-financing setup.

By a vote of 17-13, Senators sent back to committee a bill that would have diverted 12 million dollars a year in funds that now go into the state highway construction fund to cities and counties.

The action kills the bill barring some extraordinary parliamentary maneuver later in the day.

Duplicate legislation was pending in the house but in a stage of consideration that would require a two-thirds favorable vote for passage.

The Senate acted in culmination of a controversy between Gov. Williams and legislators who advocate a maximum effort on arterial highway projects, mostly Democrats, and a strong legislative group supported by spokesmen for cities and counties.

The governor has insisted that the diversion of money from the state highway road-building kitty be limited to around five million dollars, and that other changes be made to protect the state highway department's road-building capabilities.

The Senate proposal was rereferred after amendments lost to put it in shape acceptable to the Williams camp and to take out a provision written in yesterday at the request of utilities.

Grocer Forgot 'Don't Disturb' Sign on Door

Firemen rushed in the inhalator truck to a S. Sanford grocery store yesterday afternoon after a citizen telephoned and reported the store was locked up and a man's motionless feet could be seen on the floor of the back room.

Hurrying to the emergency call, the firemen broke a window in the back of the building. They too saw the feet.

They belonged to the grocer who decided to close up shop and take a siesta. The crash of the breaking glass awoke the owner from his dreams.

Pontiac Keeps Standard Time

No Change of Clocks in State of Michigan to 'Daylight Saving'

Pontiac will remain on eastern standard time Sunday as other parts of the nation advance clocks one hour for a switch to daylight saving time.

Robert A. Stierer, city administrative assistant, said Pontiac will not make the change. Detroit will remain on eastern time also.

Generally, the eastern seaboard south to Washington, D. C., will observe daylight saving time, as will California, Nevada and scattered cities and states in between.

Most of the South, Middle West, Southwest and Far West will ignore the time switch.

In some states a bit of confusion might occur. West Virginia will be half and half, while central Ohio seems likely to join the northwestern part of the state on daylight time, while other parts of Ohio remain on standard.

Earnings, Sales Zoom to Sensational Figures, Set New Records

NEW YORK (AP)—Chrysler Corp. smallest of Detroit's "big three," stepped ahead faster than either of its larger competitors in the race for sales and profits in the first three months this year.

Earnings skyrocketed to $46,545,521 or $5.34 a share — highest for any first quarter in Chrysler history and more than four times the $10,905,722 or $1.25 a share earned in the first three months last year.

Sales jumped to $1,150,723,712, a record for any quarter, and topped the year-ago total of $742,349,267 by 35 per cent.

The sensational gains announced by Chrysler yesterday compared with a modest advance in sales and a 7½ per cent dip in profits reported by General Motors Corp. earlier this week.

Chrysler's other "big three" rival, Ford Motor Co., scored a 30.5 per cent increase in its first quarter sales and an 11.3 per cent rise in earnings.

While Chrysler's first quarter volume measured in dollars set a new peak, the actual number of trucks and cars sold by the various Chrysler divisions was not quite up to the first three months of 1955, the industry's biggest year.

38 PCT. GREATER

At 420,880 units, factory sales of the corporation's Chrysler, De Soto, Dodge and Plymouth models were 38 per cent greater than the 305,661 cars and trucks delivered in the first three months last year. But they were 7 per cent below the 454,948 units sold in the first quarter of 1955.

The record high in dollar sales in the first three months this year reflected booming sales of optional "extras," Chrysler President L. L. Colbert said.

A "strong preference" among new car buyers for optional equipment such as automatic transmissions, power steering, power brakes and air-conditioning, he said, "is reflected in the dollar sales level in the first quarter."

Chrysler directors at a meeting here declared the usual dividend of 75 cents, payable June 13 to holders of record May 13.

Turbulent Weather Will Continue Here

The U. S. Weather Bureau has forecast more turbulent weather for this area.

Tonight will be warm, low near 60, with scattered showers and thunderstorms. Tomorrow will be cooler, high 74 to 78, with thunderstorms ending.

Several sightings of tornado funnels were reported yesterday and near Owosso a "baby tornado" crumbled a cement block building and destroyed a garage.

In Pontiac the mercury dropped 12 degrees, from 77 to 65, in less then an hour as a rainstorm approached, but again rose to the mid-70's when the sun reappeared.

Downtown Pontiac's lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. was 58. At 2 p.m. the temperature was 79.

Plenty to Learn at Home Show

Jaycee Exhibit Offers Building Ideas From Foundation to Roof

One could just about build a house after making the rounds of the Home Improvement Show, now going on at the Tel-Huron Shopping Center.

A swing around the huge 60 by 180 foot tent, located just south of the center, can provide onlookers with hints for the foundation up to the roof.

The show opened yesterday at 4 p.m. after heavy rains threatened to sweep away many exhibits. Mayor William W. Donaldson cut the ribbon to open the four-day show.

Hours today for the show will be until 10 p.m. Saturday hours will be from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Sunday, from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. Admission is 50 cents for adults. There is no charge for children under 12.

The show is being sponsored by the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce. Proceeds go to its youth fund.

There are exhibits of heating units, air conditioners, hot water heaters, storm windows and screens, fencing, automatic garage doors, lawn sprinkling systems, outdoor furniture, all-type lumber displays, refrigerators, ranges, carpets, awnings, ironers, and — probably most important banks and loan associations.

Ground Is Broken for New Post Office

The new building will be 26x78 feet and will be of cement block construction with a face-brick front.

According to Postmaster Mrs. Robert Amos, the building should be ready for occupancy by July 1. Joseph Long, Milford contractor, is doing the work.

Downtown Boosters Get Ideas From Other Cities

Downtown Pontiac Assn. representatives have been visiting several Michigan cities recently seeking ideas as the association launches into the rejuvenation of the downtown area.

Five men, including A. C. Girard, president of the new association, this week spent a day in Grand Rapids at the invitation of Mayor George Goebel.

"We were very, very much impressed with what we saw," Girard said. "And I think we have some answers."

The other men who made the trip to Grand Rapids were Harold B. Euler, Harold L. Blackwood, John W. Hirlinger, and Nolan Heiden, member of the Oakland County Planning Commission.

Girard said that from this trip and others to Detroit and Flint, will come suggestions for a program to be submitted "in a couple of weeks" to the association's Board of Directors.

The association was formed earlier this month to promote the welfare and to revitalize downtown Pontiac.

Girard said the Pontiac group was most interested in Grand Rapids' plans to reroute two interstate highways within a block or two of the "downtown loop," and a $26 million bond issue to be voted on in June, half of which will go for development of a civic center there.

"They're voting a $26,000,000 bond issue and some of the people around here are fussing about a $4,500,000 issue needed badly to complete the hospital," Girard said.

Syrian Soldiers Told to Leave by King Hussein

While Hussein's army apparently kept Jordan under tight check, neighboring Syria and Egypt were reported faced with the King's demand that Syria pull back the 5,000 troops it has in northern Jordan, ostensibly for protection against Israel.

Hussein already had accused his "brothers in Egypt" of stirring up the riots which brought on his declaration of martial law and total curfew yesterday.

But failure to pull out the Syrians risked a clash with Iraqi troops and perhaps the soldiers of Saudi Arabia's King Saud.

Syria's President Shukri Kuwatly and an Egyptian delegation were flying to see Saud today after an urgent conference in Cairo with President Nasser. Where Saud stands still was not clear, but both he and Hussein have taken a strong anti-Communist line and he has been reported backing Hussein in his crackdown on Jordanian extremist elements.

Meanwhile, the U. S. 6th Fleet sped toward the tense eastern Mediterranean in a show of strength, and the U.S. government accepted Hussein's avowal that "international communism" also was to blame for his troubles — an assessment that could bring American forces to the young monarch's aid if he asks for them. As yet he has not.

Start Puzzle 47; You May Win $500 Pot-O-Gold

So far as we know, no winning entries were submitted for last week's Pot-O-Gold puzzle, making the prize now $500.

Of course, there may have been a winner in one of the 31 entries we received in envelopes, or among the 32 late entries. But since we don't check those, there's no way of knowing.

If you're interested in being the one to take home the loot, be sure your future entries are all on postcards and postmarked before the deadline. You might remember, too, that if you use a puzzle blank from one week for the answers of the following week's puzzle, be sure to cross out the number and write in the new one.

In other words, if you're sending in puzzle No. 47 on the blank for No. 46, be sure to write in the correct number of the entry. Otherwise it will be thrown out.

Now start working on Puzzle No. 47 which appears on page 44. Be sure to check your answers for last week's puzzle with the correct answers above and with the explanations on page 43. It may help you with subsequent puzzles.

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Industry in Pontiac holds a key card in the city's search for a new water supply.

With this in mind, City Manager Walter K. Willman has scheduled a meeting April 30 with top industry officials, representatives of the Manufacturer's Assn. and Pontiac's engineer consultants to discuss the problem.

TRUMBULL

"I hope to get a little indication from industry on how interested they are in a new supply," Willman said of the Tuesday session.

Mentioning that industry uses approximately 60 per cent of the city's water, the manager pointed out the uselessness of acquiring a new source without a guarantee that industry is interested in buying the water.

"It's got to be a teamwork deal right down the line," he emphasized.

He said industry too would feel the pinch of a dwindling water supply in Pontiac as the "water table" sinks about five feet a year.

Officials Tuesday will hear of the different alternatives the city has in getting new water. One involves going to Detroit and another is the joining with private capital to bring the supply from Port Huron.

Willman will brief those attending the session on a National Sanitation Foundation proposal that a metropolitan service area be born to serve a six-county Southeastern Michigan area. The source here would be Detroit.

Willman emphatically said he favored this plan. "I see down there an organization that has been in the water business for 100 years," he added.

He remarked that an Oakland-Macomb Authority had failed to "put down in black and white" its proposal.

Willman declined to comment on a report that Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, was optimistic about a privately-owned pipeline to bring water to Oakland and Macomb Counties.

Representatives of the Bechtel and Co. firm of San Francisco are expected in Pontiac May 2 to discuss a $70 million project further. Hamlin and other officials recently returned from the West Coast where they conferred with Bechtel representatives.

This proposal has not been erased as a possibility, Willman stressed, "If such a reputable company like Bechtel comes in here and can sell water cheaper than Detroit, we naturally wouldn't overlook this," he said.

"Price certainly is not the only thing we'll base our decision on," the manager quickly added.

The price of water to the consumer under the Detroit plan must be ironed out before such a deal is entered into, he said.

Turnpike Boost Passes Senate

Bill Now in House May Make Toll Road Bonds More Salable

A measure to bolster turnpike financing was passed yesterday by the Senate in Lansing and moved over to the House.

The bill would back bonds issued by the Michigan Turnpike Authority with funds from state gasoline taxes if turnpike revenues fell short.

The legislation was seen as a means to make bonds more attractive for the authority's proposed toll road from Detroit past Pontiac to Bay City.

Last summer, bonds went begging in the face of competing, public roads announced in the planning stage by the State Highway Department.

But George N. Higgins, of Ferndale, the authority's chairman, believes the bonds will be saleable, with the gurantee of up to $3 million behind them.

If the House passes the bill, Higgins thinks he can find customers. If it doesn't, however, the end to turnpikes in Michigan may be near.

Another group of legislators has urged stripping the all but defunct authority of its operating funds at the end of the fiscal year.

SWOOSH — If you think this is a 1957 Pontiac swooshing by in a new speed trial, you're wrong, despite the familiar looking side emblem. Neither would this object fit into one of Pontiac's metered parking spaces. It's the comet Arend-Roland and it is 7,000,000 miles long, says Prof. Freeman Miller of the University of Michigan Observatory. (We're real disappointed, folks, this picture only got 5,000,000 miles of the comet, we are told.)

The comet was recorded by the U. of M. telescope at Portage Lake, near Pinckney. Prof. Miller, who made the photograph, said the bright area in the center is the comet and the two streaks are its two tails.

Prof. Miller said two tails are unusual in a comet. The brighter tail streaks away from the sun and the other towards it. Small dots which may be seen around the comet are stars.

Jordan Crackdown Spurs Arab Feuds

Radio Moscow trumpeted that the United States was trying by behind - the - scenes machinations "to set up a Jordan government which would adopt the aggressive Eisenhower Doctrine."

Britain joined the United States in declaring that Jordan's independence is essential to Middle East peace, in effect an invitation to Hussein to call for help to save his crown.

But before declaring martial law yesterday Hussein said he did not need outside help.

The new government named by the King, under 69-year-old Ibrahim Hashem, placed a curfew on Jordan's five major cities and outlawed all 10 of the country's political parties. Though active, the Communists already were outlawed.

Bedouin troops—the hard core of the army that is loyal to the King — guarded city streets and were given control over the police. Barbed wire entanglements were strewn across roadways.

STAY IN HOMES

No one dared to leave his home without official permission. The curfew was lifted for two hours in midafternoon to give people a chance to buy food and go on necessary errands. Through loudspeakers the people were reminded constantly that they had to be home at the deadline. They hurried home as soon as they completed their purchases.

In Washington, American officials confidently predicted today that the anti - Western political uprising in Jordan will be crushed within 48 hours, largely because of the powerful U.S. show of strength.

They said that Communist and pro - Egyptian elements will be routed and Hussein, who forced the showdown by ousting leftists from his new cabinet, will emerge as the strong leader of the little kingdom.

Responsible officials believe U.S. willingness to intervene in the crisis, made clear by the ordering of the atomic-muscled Sixth Fleet into the area, will deter any of Jordan's neighbors from attacking during the internal crisis.

Meanwhile, in Amman, the new Royalist government tightened security measures and named a military governor-general to coordinate the King's struggle with foreign and domestic foes.

Foreign Minister Samir Rifai, one of the pro - Western leaders named to the new cabinet yesterday, was understood to have summoned home all the Jordanian ambassadors to Arab states. Rifai presumably wants to brief the envoys on the anti-Communist policies of the new government.

Former Premier and Foreign Minister Suleiman Nabulsi reportedly was among the scores of alleged leftist and extreme rightists rounded up by security police and Arab legionnaires.

May Free $1.5 Million for Building

Senate Passes Courthouse Bill

A bill freeing approximately $1.5 million, accumulated by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors for a new courthouse, was passed yesterday by the Senate in Lansing.

The measure would allow supervisors to spend the money on a new building and, if passed by the house, was seen as a means to circumnavigate a law suit tying up funds.

Pushed by Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, of Drayton Plains, the bill would authorize counties, notably Oakland, to spend accumulated public moneys in public repair and construction projects which have been approved by voters.

Proponents of the supervisors' proposed new courthouse in the Telegraph road service center believed the legislation would silence charges of alleged budget padding and illegal transfer of surpluses to building funds.

A suit brought by the Oakland County Taxpayers' League last November made these charges, plus allegations the county could not legally move the courthouse from its present downtown Pontiac site.

A Circuit Court hearing tentatively is scheduled for May 12.

But if the legislation is passed before then, the suit may be left without legal grounds.

Lodge said the bill is retroactive affecting all of the $1.5 million "and maybe more" which the county has accumulated since 1954, when voters approved a bond issue for the courthouse but twice turned down a millage increase to finance it.

It allows for up to one mill annually out of non-tax sources in addition to the .1 mill already authorized, Lodge said, from direct taxation or borrowing.

Supervisors have denied budget padding, interpreting the 1954 vote as meaning the public wants a new building but also wants the county to finance it without hfting the taxpayers' pockets.

Lodge said he favored the bill in order to clear the way for a new building, but at the same time, the senator waffled to avoid taking sides in a dispute over where a new building would be located.

The taxpayers' league represents downtown Pontiac lawyers, who reportedly want to keep the courthouse near their offices.

Several other downtown groups have argued keeping the courthouse at its present site.

They plan to build on a pay-as-you-go basis, with the first $2.5-$3 million section to go under construction as soon as possible.

Man Held in Tennessee Brought Back by Police

Detective Orville C. Johnson and Patrolman Marvin T. Blum left Thursday afternoon for Madisonville, Tenn., where they will arrest a Pontiac man held by Tennessee police on a warrant charging uttering and publishing.

Lester Packett, 27, of Pontiac, who has been fighting extradition, will be returned by the officers on a governor's warrant.

Hall Appeals Sentence; Freed on $300 Bond

Willie T. Hall, 35, of 50½ N. Paddock St., appealed to Circuit Court his conviction for driving while his operator's license was revoked after he aws tried before Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum and found guilty.

He was freed on a $300 bond until arraignment in the higher court May 6.

Judge McCallum had given Hall a choice of a $100 fine and 10 days in jail or 20 days.

Man, 47, Bound Over on Morals Charge

David E. May, 47, of 3230 Pine Lake Dr., charged with statutory rape, was freed on a $200 bond Wednesday and bound over to Circuit Court to be arraigned Monday.

May appeared before Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum. He was arrested by Pontiac detectives April 11 after a complaint by the mother of a 14-year-old girl.

Sell Beer to Minor, Get Stiff Sentences

Two Pontiac men were found guilty, fined and jailed by Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum for furnishing alcohol and beer to a 20-year-old minor April 11.

Ralph Pena, 22, of 12 Mt. Clemens St., was fined $100, ordered ot pay $25 probation fee; sentenced to 30 days in the Oakland County Jail, to be served on weekends; and placed on six months probation.

Oscar Villa Delon, 23, of 12 Mt. Clemens St., was fined $100 and ordered to spend 20 days in the county jail.

The two men were arrested by Pontiac Officers Lon Peters Jr. and Patrick F. Weaver at Osmun and Going Sts., charged with furnishing Richard C. Mancha, 33 Gingell Ct., with beer.

Mancha pleaded guilty to the charge of possessing alcohol while a minor April 12 and was ordered committed for 30 days after failing to pay a $90 fine, also set by Judge McCallum.

Caught in Quest for No. 7; Confesses

Bigamist Faces Both Wives

CHICAGO (AP) — A 47-year-old machine salesman, who believes he has six wives but isn't sure, and planned to make it seven, was in jail today facing a charge of bigamy.

Two of the wives Warren L. Yemm has been living with met for the first time yesterday when they identified him in a police station as their husband. The two women exchanged no words. He stared silently at them.

"You see how difficult it would have been," he said, "if I married another at this time. Three wives in one town are too many."

One of the two current wives, the former Beverly Simmons, 31, a typist, said she still loved Yemm and would remain at his side.

But the other, the former Wilma Pyzik, 48, a clerical worker, said she wants a divorce and the late model auto she bought for Yemm. He will appear in felony court Monday on a bigamy charge brought by Wilma.

Yemm, a plain-faced man in a baggy blue suit, said he married Beverly May 26, 1951, and Wilma on Nov. 24, 1955. He said he managed to live with both because he told each his job took him out of the city frequently.

He was arrested Thursday after a relative of Yemm's next intended wife asked police to investigate him. Police said he recited a list of four other women he had married, and later left.

Yemm told police he married his first wife in Chicago in 1932 and divorced her in 1938. He and wife No. 4, Yemm said, were legally separated in Indianapolis in 1946. But there were no divorces of his other wives, Yemm said.

His second marriage was in Chicago in 1940; the third in Little Rock, Ark., in 1944; the fifth in Bloomington, Ill., in 1947, and before marrying his current wives, he was married in Chicago in 1948.

Yemm said he couldn't remember the family names of many of his wives.

Order Extension of 1-Way Streets

Pike to Be Westbound to Franklin; Feneley Ct. to Be Eastbound.

City Traffic Engineer Theodore M. Vanderstempel today announced two additions to Pontiac's growing one-way traffic system. Both become effective Sunday at 7 a.m.

The first change will extend the present one-way westbound movement of Pike street to Franklin boulevard. Today the operation stops at Williams street.

"This is in order to reduce the congestion at Pike and Williams and at Williams and Orchard Lake Avenue," Vanderstempel said.

The second change will convert Feneley court (south of Lafayette between Cass and Pine) to one-way eastbound traffic. The narrowness of the street and parking on it makes it advisable to make the street one-way, Vanderstempel explained.

Both changes were studied and approved by the traffic committee of the city, he said.

Premier's Resignation Pleases Kin in Lansing

She is the former Vivian Ayoubee, and is visiting here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Saladin Ayoubee.

Mrs. Khalidi said, "We are glad about it (his resignation). It was a little too much to fight—that Red mob and those riots over there. We have been terribly worried about him."

She said she and her husband and their three children still plan to fly over to Jordan for a visit this summer.

Michigan Apple Buds in 'Pre-Pink' Stage

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Apple buds in western Michigan's Orchard Country are now in "the pre-pink stage" and should start blossoming early next week, Kent County Agricultural Agent William Rupp said today.

Bud development is being pushed by recent warm weather and high moisture, he said.

Rupp said he was unable to make a comparison of apple prospects with previous years until the buds break into bloom.

Twister Hits Texas City

The Day in Birmingham

Residents Mop Up After Noon Deluge Floods Area

BIRMINGHAM — A water-logged Birmingham swept and mopped its way back to cleanliness after a noontime storm dropped thousands of gallons of water on the area yesterday.

City Hall phones were kept busy as more than a hundred calls came through, reporting flooded streets and basements.

In many sections, sewers backed up, leaving water and dirt in basements, which had never been flooded before.

DPW workers said some furniture damage had been reported but that no estimates have yet been prepared.

Streets were filled from curb-to-curb in many areas. Drivers experienced some difficulty as cars stalled and brakes grew ineffective.

It was thought for sometime that it would be necessary to close off West Maple avenue, where the street goes under the railroad. One truck was stalled there but before barricades were erected, the water had drained to a safe level.

A Michigan Bell spokesman said all exchanges in the area had some trouble.

Occasional phone users found private lines had suddenly "turned into party lines" as drenched cables "overlapped" calls.

Harlan Ritz, speaking for Detroit Edison, said the area as a whole, had remarkably little power damage. The worst spot was Troy's 15 Mile — Dequindre section, where about 50 homes experienced a two-hour service interruption.

Anna Russell, 23, of 2514 Silverside St., Pontiac received head cuts and an injured ankle in a crash at Telegraph and Long Lake roads this morning at 7:30.

Drivers of the cars were her husband, George, and Donold Sorrells of Detroit. Neither were hurt.

Birmingham Police report 53 accidents on city streets last month — a drop of 15 from a year ago.

Ten of the mishaps brought injuries to 12 persons. Both numbers nearly double the 1956 report.

Party Members Tending More to Criticize Policy of Ike's Administration

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower talks by telephone from his vacation headquarters today to party workers attending a New England GOP regional conference at Providence, R. I.

Of late some party members have been speaking out a bit more freely in criticism of Eisenhower administration policies—and a few have been directing complaints to the President himself.

There has been some criticism too from a few GOP members of Congress. Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz), for example, recently hit out at the administration's $71,800,000,000 budget and at the Eisenhower concept of "Modern Republicanism." Goldwater has predicted the concept won't prevail.

Eisenhower has been mixing work and golf here since April 18 and now—barring a major emergency—it looks as if he will stay on until Tuesday or Wednesday.

One thing that might take him back to Washington sooner would be an even more critical turn of events in the Middle East.

He conferred by telephone twice yesterday with Secretary of State Dulles on the Jordan government crisis. After those talks with Dulles, who was in Washington, the State Department asserted that international communism is posing a threat to the independence and integrity of Jordan.

It was the second consecutive day this government has told other nations, in effect, to keep hands off the tiny kingdom. Eisenhower and Dulles said Wednesday they regard Jordan's independence an integrity as vital to American interests and world peace.

DALLAS (AP) — Barber Johnny Dickson, 89, who used to number outlaw Frank James among his regular customers, died yesterday.

Dickson, who worked at his trade until late last year, said in April 1956 he had cut his smoking down to nine cigars a day and hadn't had a fist fight in eight years.

The colorful old man started barbering at Paris, Tex., at 14, standing on a box to reach the tops of the customers' heads. He came to Dallas in 1887, when the town was far from tame.

He started working at the Bird Cage Barber Shop, so called because two canaries suspended from gilded cages sang for the customers.

One of the regular clients was a slim blond man with blue-gray eyes, Dickson often related. He would ride up to the shop on a handsome sorrel horse and simply drop the reins. The animal always waited for its owner, Frank James, brother of train robber Jesse.

James was quiet and didn't have much to say, Dickson remembered.

Barbershops have tamed down some, Dickson used to say. Then he'd relate how he won a horse and buggy in a barbershop crap game just before the turn of the century. "Couldn't get away with that sort of thing now," he'd say, with just a suspicion of regret.

Nine years ago he had his last fist fight. He said a youngster of about 4 spoke disrespectfully to him. They say at the barber shop Dickson knocked his opponent down three times and won the fight.

Collective to Collect

MOSCOW (AP) — When final balances are struck, collective farmers of the Soviet Union will receive twice as much in advance payments per work day in 1956 as in 1955 Soviet official spokesmen claim. A part of this income is in farm produce.

We heard about an Indiana woman driver who was told by a cop, "Your tail light isn't lit, Lady!"

Hal Boyle Says:

America Deserts Life Amid Nature

The United States one day last year silently reached one of those turning points from which there is no going back.

It became a land of indoor peasants, probably the first major power in history in which the white-collar worker makes up the largest element in its labor force.

What are the implications behind this startling fact? What does it mean for the future?

In pointing out that white-collar workers are now the most numerous type of wage earner in America, a U.S. Department of Labor expert warned that some are in still short supply.

"The shortage of skilled, technical and professional manpower is now general throughout the nation," Brunswick A. Bagdon told a conference at Louisville, "and will get worse unless we move swiftly to improve our training and employment policies and strengthen our educational system."

This is only one aspect of the quiet revolution over the last half-century during which the machine age has gone to the farm and the hired hand has gone to the city.

The old question of "How you gonna keep 'em down on the farm?" has received a final answer. You ain't gonna. In 1910, America's farm population totaled 13,550,000. In 1955, it was down to 6,341,000.

The farm family and the family farm seem to be slowly going the way of the horse—if not the dodo—as agriculture becomes more and more a big business, and the small operator becomes less and less important.

But what interests many of us most in the rise of the white-collar class are the human aspects.

The typical American no longer works outdoors.

Instead of a lean-bronzed figure with calloused hands he will be prisoner of a paycheck who can't even tell you how many faucets there are on a milk cow.

Instead of learning the ways of nature first hand he will read about them in books written by a career naturalist.

His music will no longer be the singing bird on the bough; more and more his music will come canned—like his meals.

Instead of feeling the twinges of rheumatism from years of work in the rain and the cold, he will go to his doctor to be treated for the hosts of gray, twilight illnesses that civilization brings—the nameless diseases and inexplicable fatigue that come to people who dwell too much indoors, and who forget why the Lord put muscles in their bodies.

This new typical American will labor less, eat better, live longer than his father.

And many and many a morning as he slips his necktie—the noose-like symbol of his bondage—beneath his shining white collar, he will look at himself in the mirror and ask:

"What am I missing in life?"

Perhaps his granddaddy, who would be sitting by his fireplace if he only had a fireplace, could tell him.

Jail Housing Prisoners of Government for Pay

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Summit County is going to start charging again after years of taking care of federal prisoners "on the house."

The U. S. Marshal for the Northern Ohio Federal District at Cleveland has offered a contract by which Uncle Sam will pay $1 per day for each of his prisoners stored temporarily at county jail.

A state examiner recently found that the county was out $738 over six years.

A tourist in Ireland who tries to cash a traveler's check in a shop marked "Turf Accountant" is in for a surprise. Turf Accountant is the flowery title bestowed by the Irish on the humble bookie. In this land where racing is the king of sports, most bookies have shops with their occupation neatly lettered on the window.

Civil Defense Plans Revised

Communication Set-Up Now Being Organized in Waterford Area

The civil defense program in Waterford Township is being revised, and a new communication set-up is being organized, according to Louis Dorman Jr., township director.

Dorman has been making speeches at various organizations this week, and says that from questions asked from audience-participation discussions, people are still rather vague on what to do in case a tornado is sighted.

In a recent release from the federal Civil Defense Administration on disaster procedure, one of the most important rules to remember during a tornado, is to go down to the southwest corner of a basement, in the home, school, church or office building, Dorman said.

If driving an automobile, stop and go to the nearest ditch and lie flat. If there is a small tree available, get a good grip on the trunk and hang on.

Periodic drills have been required in schools, and according to Dorman, most of the children are better trained on tornado procedure than their parents.

The Jayno Adams school P.T.A. is behind a move to create more active interest in civil defense operations, and establish a ground observer corps in Waterford Township. Mrs. John Mihalik is president.

Williams, Taylor Join Bartlett, Hatcher

School Rally Sees Crisis

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams will join with some of Michigan's top education leaders at an all-day rally here next Thursday to dramatize school pleas for more revenue.

"Financing the public education program at all levels is rapidly approaching a crisis stage," said Dr. Clair L. Taylor, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, in announcing the parley today.

Taylor, along with other school chiefs, has complained loudly that spending programs proposed by Republican members of the GOP-controlled legislature fall far short of school needs for the coming year.

The Republican budget was based on a "hold the line" tax policy, providing for increased costs of operating schools and colleges but proposing no construction starts.

Legislators have four more weeks to agree on a budget before they adjourn.

Appearing with Taylor and Williams as speakers at the rally in Lansing's Civic Center will be Lynn M. Bartlett, who will succeed Taylor on July 1; Dr. Harlan H. Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan; Everett Luce of Midland, president of the National School Board Assn.; and State Controller James W. Miller.

Taylor said the rally would focus attention on education's three major problems. He listed these as the need for:

A supplementary appropriation by the state to carry elementary and secondary schools through the balance of the current school year.

Higher appropriations for state supported colleges and universities, both for operational costs and capital outlay programs.

Safer Driving Our No. 1 Traffic Need

Casualty lists on U. S. highways have mounted steadily until all records were broken in 1956.

Despite the large number of safety devices built into cars, last year 40,200 Americans lost their lives and 2,368,000 more were injured in traffic accidents. This is a six per cent increase in fatalities and 10 per cent in injuries.

Young persons are theoretically better qualified than their elders to handle traffic emergencies. Yet the fact is that the young group as a whole has the worst accident record. Experience and judgment of older drivers more than offset physical shortcomings. Some older drivers, however, are plainly a hazard on the road, and in most cases nothing is done to test their fitness to continue driving, says Editorial Research Reports.

Training of young drivers in high school helps to develop driving skill and knowledge of traffic laws. More than half of the public high schools in the U. S., including Pontiac, now offer driving courses. In this State licenses are denied to 16 and 17 year olds unless they have completed such a course satisfactorily. Some traffic courts sponsor driving schools to which offenders may be assigned as an alternative to assessing a fine, or as a condition to recovery of a suspended license. Pontiac recently added such a school.

The continuing heavy toll of traffic accidents is building up pressure for tighter driving regulations and tougher enforcement of the rules of the road. Those concerned with the problem are convinced that the human factor is the key to accident reduction.

Traffic is always heavy in this part of the country and will be heavier during the next few months. It's everyone's duty to drive safely. When you gamble with safety you not only bet your own life but the lives of others as well.

Red Trade Relaxations Should Help Our Allies

The United States has agreed with NATO allies to lift certain trade restrictions in force five years against Red China.

Our State Department emphasized that relaxing of the embargo will be limited not only to peaceful goods but to specific items. In exchange the U. S. has asked tighter restrictions on trade with the Red bloc in Europe. At the same time there is no weakening of our complete embargo on all trade with Pieping.

Britain, West Germany and Japan long have been asking for expansion of the list of commodities permitted to be shipped to China. They have warned they would increase their trade with Red China anyway unless we agreed to relax restrictions.

Part of the goods which could be sold to Russia but not to China, has found its way there via Russia and at a profit to the Soviets. Smuggling through Hong Kong, Formosa and Malaya is said to be flourishing.

Most of Japan's trade always has been with the Asiatic mainland. With quota restrictions on goods shipped here and rising production and population it seems only sensible to have this outlet for Japan's manufactured products. Because Japan has not been able to carry on this trade with the mainland, her economy has had to be bolstered with American occupation funds.

No doubt increased trade with Communist China will help its economy. But a former State Department economist said recently that the entire Communistic bloc now produces nearly all the really strategic goods it needs and that the embargo did not affect Communist defense planning at all.

In other words, easing of the embargo would benefit our Allies, who urgently need outlets for their products, more than it would China.

The Man About Town

Judges Named

Will Designate Oak Tree to Be Symbol of County

Plowing: Spring occupation of farmers and golfers.

The three judges chosen to pick out the oak tree that is to be a symbol of Oak-land County are:

Lyle Abel,
County Agricultural Agent;
Robert Osgood,
County Forester, and William Aho,
Pontiac Parks Superintendent.

Within a few days they will visit all of the largest of the 54 oak trees that were entered in the contest. After due consideration, they will designate the oak that is to be preserved as an outstanding example of the millions of oak trees in the primeval forests of this area, in whose honor our county was named.

"We allowed our loyalty to the Detroit Tigers to run away with us in your baseball contest," phones of Birmingham—who evidently has a lot of good company.

Harris (Bud) Rifenburg
says he is not surprised that most every day we have a front page story about its screwy weather.

So many of our good people are anxious to hurry home to this beautiful Michigan weather that the airlines are running 36 flights daily from Miami to Detroit.

Mrs. Louis Wheeler
of 2740 Chrysler Ave. in LaSalle Park.

A pair of blue jays are a nuisance around the home of
Mr. and Mrs. Dorford Presswell
at Williams Lake. They've chased all the other birds away from the bird house—which they do not occupy themselves. A wren held the fort for three days, pecking them on the head as they attacked.

The tulips at White Chapel Memorial Park are coming forward in good shape, according to
and should be in their prime glory shortly after May 15. Due notice of the time when they'll be at their best will be given in this column.

While we have no desire to be an adjunct to any gambling, we might be induced to give you the real name of who writes us that he has plenty of good money that still says the Tigers will finish in the first division.

A former Pontiac resident
Alfred Peterson
writes me from his home in Detroit that he remembers when our trolley car lines ran special cars into the country every spring so people could pick wild flowers.

Our baseball contest ends after today's games. The late clouting of some of the players brings a change in today's five top batters. It will not be definitely decided who gets the $250 among our 2,038 contestants until today's returns are all tabulated. As we do not have a Man About Town column on Saturdays, the winner will be announced Monday. Today's five top batters are:

"He's Good—But With Wheels He'd Be Terrific"

David Lawrence Says:

Acheson Cynically Attacks U.S.

WASHINGTON — Dean Acheson—the man who was responsible primarily for preventing General MacArthur from bombing enemy bases in Manchuria — and thereby winning victory in the Korean War—now has begun to lecture President Eisenhower and to call him a "Pacifist."

LAWRENCE

In a cynical and sarcastic denunciation of "moral force" and a broadside attack on the United Nations, the former secretary of state in the Truman administration has written a curious article for "Reporter" magazine which can do considerable damage to American policy abroad in these critical times.

Acheson today enjoys the doubtful distinction of being the first American secretary of state in history to accuse his own government of "selfish ambitious" in another part of the world. He says this, too, in the face of a record of many decades of unselfishness by the United States in world affairs. Acheson in commenting on the Middle Eastern situation wrote:

"President Eisenhower told us on Feb. 20 that 'the United States has no selfish ambitions or desires in this region.' I fear we must disagree. We have many."

SELFISH AMBITIONS

If Acheson had said merely that the United States has a deep interest in the Middle East it would have been understandable, but to attribute "selfish ambitions" to the United States is to ascribe a mischievous motive to his own government. Undoubtedly the Communists will construe "ambitions" to mean territorial ambitions and will repeat it in their propaganda in the Middle East.

What Acheson said later on about the "desires" of the United States in the Middle East is much more tactful. He wrote:

"Perhaps our greatest interest and desire is that the Middle East shall remain in the political and economic system of a free world and shall not be engulfed by the closed Soviet-Communist system.

"We desire, too, that it remain in such relationship with the rest of the free world that the fuel and sea routes essential to that world shall not be ruinously expensive, uncertain or hazardous. Should this be done, Europe might have to make such terms as it could. These might well be most unfavorable to the United States."

TWO DIFFERENT THINGS

But it is one thing for America to express broad "desires" for a peaceful world and quite another thing to harbor "selfish ambitions" as Acheson phrased it.

It is at the term "moral force" however, that the former secretary aims his shafts of ridicule and derision. Acheson says:

"Mr. Eisenhower at the outset of his political career sought for and found a satisfying firm stance in what he has continually referred to as 'moral and spiritual values.' . . . An ebullient optimism gives expression in what Mr. Eisenhower has called man's 'God-given ability to be master of his own destiny.' . . .

"This belief in the supremacy and sole validity of moral power is reinforced by the profoundly pacifist conclusions that President Eisenhower has drawn from the development of Russian capacity for nuclear warfare. Since the consequences of nuclear warfare might well be catastrophic beyond imagination, it is an easy step to the conclusion that all force is immoral and that its use can only be justified to meet a greater immorality — someone else's use of force against one's own country.

"Now it would be quite a valid conclusion that the deterrence of nuclear warfare is one of the highest objectives of policy. But we must never forget that between an opponent who is prepared to use force to gain his end and one who is not prepared to use force to defend his interests — the former is usually the winner."

STRETCHING IMAGINATION

One wonders by what stretch of the imagination Acheson can attribute pacifism to President Eisenhower who in 1955 sought and obtained from Congress authority to use force to defend Formosa and who in 1957 sought and obtained from Congress a resolution proclaiming that the United States is "prepared to use force" in the Middle East. There is certainly nothing in the record to indicate that the President "is not prepared to use military force" to defend American interests when necessary.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Guard Against Infection From Conversation Spray

Somewhere, one must draw the line between reasonable precautions against catching cri (common respiratory infection) and unnecessary or reckless exposure.

It would be Utopian to expect every one with cri to wear a suitable mask whenever within spray range of other persons. If some such precaution were customary for every alleged "cold," however, the practice would prevent an incalculable amount of illness, for the respiratory infections make most of the everyday work of doctors.

DR. BRADY

On the other hand it is simply good sense to dodge or evade infection when one can do so without offending anybody or being considered eccentric.

By "unnecessary or reckless exposure" I mean not just carelessness about cough or sneeze spray, but more particularly disregard of conversation spray.

From the advice medical and health authorities give the public about this, one might infer that safety lies in avoiding the uncovered or unmasked cough or sneeze. This is not true.

SHOULD WARN PUBLIC

Doctors and nurses wear masks in the operating room to guard against conversation spray infection. When physicians and health authorities caution people about "uncovered coughs and sneezes," yet adhere to the traditional policy of silence regarding conversation spray, they are rendering a disservice.

The effective range of conversation spray is not over five feet. In quiet conversation, it is only two or three feet. Remember, it is not just the visible or palpable moisture droplets in conversation spray that may contain the germ or virus of a respiratory infection, but the invisibly and impalpably fine droplets as well.

Anyway, I say the usual way such respiratory infections as measles, scarlet fever, chickenpox, smallpox, diphtheria, epidemic meningitis, infantile paralysis, mumps, whooping cough, septic sore throat, tonsillitis, laryngitis, bronchitis, pneumonia, coryza, influenza, or tuberculosis spreads is via conversation spray. This is what I believe. And I conduct myself accordingly, even at risk of offending the ignoramus who does not know what altruism means.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Help Your Married Children, but—

Harvey is a very tactful in-law, for he doesn't want to kill the joy of newlyweds in sacrificing and bargain-hunting to live on a budget. But generous in-laws can help young couples by the plan mentioned below and not inflate their standard of living an iota. Expectant grandparents might also reward the young couple for giving them a new grandchild, a la the new car idea.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CRANE

"Dr. Crane, my daughter married a college classmate a year ago and they dropped out of school," he began.

"My wife and I didn't mind it too much, for my son-in-law is a fine boy. And he is a hard worker. He'll get to the top some day.

"But right now they are having a tough job making ends meet. And that is especially true since they are expecting their first baby in a couple of months.

"My wife and I sacrificed and pinched pennies for we were poor when we were first married.

"So we are torn between the desire to prevent our daughter from following in our footsteps in this regard.

"But we also realize it is those very sacrifices that weld husband and wife together and ultimately spell greater future happiness.

"So what should we do? Let my daughter struggle along or indulge them financially, as we can now well afford to do? What is best?"

Except in dire emergency, it is usually unwise to make a remittance man or woman out of your grown children.

In other words, don't place them on a parental "dole" and keep sending them cash to ease the struggle, for this kills much of the zest in early marriage.

Harvey is quite right in saying it is the very sacrifices of early marriage that draw a couple together and give them a better appreciation of the value of budgeting and becoming bargain hunters.

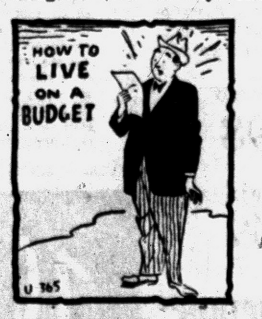
But there are ways by which wealthy in-laws can help the young couple without encouraging them to live on an inflated budget.

If, however, you wealthy in-laws would send your daughter a cash check of $50 to $100 per month, or more, that would be diverted to the usual living expenses and thus simply elevate their standard of living.

Suppose Harvey should thus send his daughter $100 monthly. Her husband already makes $75 per week or about $300 monthly in take-home pay.



The extra $100 from Harvey would jump the income to $400 per month and stimulate them to live at that higher level.

Besides, it would make the young husband jealous or vaguely deflated in ego. So don't employ this dole method.

CAPITAL INVESTMENTS

But you wealthy in-laws can profitably make a down payment on a little home for the newlyweds and then let them pay off the balance in monthly payments, just like rent.

Harvey might thus pay $5,000 on a new home and give it to his daughter and her husband jointly as a wedding gift.

Such generosity on his part would not inflate their budget at all for they must still live on the young man's $300 monthly income.

And they must still pay on the balance of the purchase price, just as they now pay rent.

Since they already have an old jalopy of a car, Harvey could also "proposition" the newlyweds regarding a new car as a reward for giving him a grandchild.

This, too, would not alter their budget, but would modernize their transportational vehicle and also increase the safety factor, for the new car has new brakes, new tires, etc., which help protect that grandchild.

But please let young couples learn to live on a budget and depend on the husband's paycheck for standard living expenses: Apply your gifts to capital investments as outlined above.

Send for my booklet "How to Live on a Budget," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents.

See that all newlyweds have it to study even on their honeymoon.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Questions Talk of Changing Holidays to Fall on Monday

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

Not long ago an article appeared dealing with changing days of five holidays. The idea was to move them so they would all fall on Monday. Being a working man, I was interested in this and have watched faithfully, but have heard no more about it.

Look at the next two holidays and you can see the sense of such a plan to working and business men. Both Decoration Day and Independence Day are to fall on Thursday. This breaks up a working week, returning for one or two days. This prevents visiting relatives on what could be an enjoyable weekend. Would appreciate hearing whether this plan has been pigeonholed, acted upon or just forgotten.

Wondering Worker

(Editor's Note: So far as we can learn, the proposal reached only the discussion stage and has not been acted upon.)

Asks 50 Years Without Reuther

Please give us about 50 years without having to read about Walter Reuther. I am tired of reading about do-gooders who are ignorant of the direction their ideas are taking them.

It will be 50 years before we know the good or evil of the struggle now going on between employer and labor. One has to be on a mountain top to have a total view of the conflict below. From the high places we can see the desperate unhappiness of the people today, the amount of crime and the ceaseless demand for more and more money to spend, while paying off debt in addition.

One can see the threat of all out demands is keeping our country in a trying state of uncertainty. Just give us a rest from the unions.

Asks Residents Attend Meetings

I would like to know why people of Waterford are not interested enough in our police department to attend the board meetings held every Monday at 7:30 p.m.

When we want something bad enough we should be willing to fight to keep it. How can we help if we are not informed people? A handful of people cannot do it. The fate of our police department lies in each and every one of the taxpayers' hands. A check of police records will show and prove we need it. They have been putting in a lot of overtime hours to complete a day's work. What will they do with manpower cut?

Let's go to those meetings and at least be informed citizens. Do you or don't you want a police force?

Asks Fat Men to Attend Meeting

The fat man's club will meet tonight at 7 p.m. at the hall on the corner of Pike and South Tasmania. This will be the first regular, scheduled meeting and a large attendance is expected. Come on, fat men, and sign up. We will eventually develop into a social club, but right now how about coming over for the health of it?

George Molner

'I'll Get Fat Back; You Get Collards'

To the wife of an unemployed Northerner, could you please tell me what fat back and collards are? I lived in the South for 35 years and if I ever saw a collard, I didn't know what it was. Southerners have just as good food as your Northerners.

Honey chile, haven't you heard yet that we're living in a free country. We can live any where in the U.S. we choose. Even your wonderful Michigan. Such bitterness you have in your heart. Going to church and Sunday school can remedy that.

Come up some Sunday for dinner. I'll get the fat back; you bring your collards.

Wants No More City Tax Hikes

In answer to Mayor Donaldson's letter about salaries, I don't think Pontiac people are as concerned with our city officials' present salaries as seeing they don't get more raises. We have been giving them everything they asked for, but I think the worm has turned. They are going to have to figure ways to save money instead of spending so much. It doesn't take brains to spend money. I'm very good at that.

If General Hospital can't support itself and set aside money for a building fund, there must be a reason. I'm in favor of a complete survey of the hospital, and I do mean complete. The County infirmary operates at a cost slightly over nine dollars per day per patient and we understand the patient care is very good. One is lucky to get by for less than $25 a day in General. I have been voting yes but now the answer is no to any future raises in taxes.

Nominated as Ambassador
Storms Follow McLeod

By International News Service

Scott McLeod, President Eisenhower's choice as ambassador to Ireland, has packed a lot of controversy into his 42 years.

Damned as a hatchet man for Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy by one segment of American public opinion, he has been praised as a fine, loyal American by another.

Even his boss, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, has not been able to make up his mind about the boyish-looking McLeod.

Four years ago Dulles wanted to fire McLeod from his job as state department security chief because the young Iowan reportedly was going over Dulles' head to the White House in an attempt to block Charles E. Bohlen's appointment as ambassador to the Soviet Union.

DIDN'T ALWAYS AGREE

Yesterday, Dulles said there was a time when he and McLeod "did not always see eye to eye about everything . . . (but) those days have passed; and I really think that he has done an extremely able job."

The controversy swirling around McLeod did not stop with the announcement that Eisenhower, on Dulles' recommendation wanted him to be America's new envoy to Ireland.

Newspapers in the U.S., Ireland and Britain, denounced the appointment. Senate Democrats promised they would take a long look at the matter when it comes up for approval.

JOINED FBI

Shortly after World War II broke out, McLeod entered government service with the FBI following a stint as police reporter on the Cedar Rapids (Ia) Gazette.

Sent to Concord, N.H., in 1943 as a resident agent he met Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) and in 1945 became his administrative assistant.

In 1953, McLeod took the State Department security post with the determination to clean out the department. In the first year, some 300 employes were fired or quit while being investigated on charges ranging from their political opinions to their liking for the bottle and their sex habits.

In 1955 New York Republican Edward J. Corsi resigned as deputy administrator of the Refugee Relief Program after accusing McLeod of attempting to torpedo it.

McLeod, graying and paunchy, lives with his wife, whom he calls "Pappy," and his three children in the Washington suburb of Bethesda, Md.

Head of Chicago's Schools Best Paid

CHICAGO (AP)—Benjamin C. Willis, superintendent of Chicago's public schools, Wednesday signed a new four-year contract making him the nation's highest paid school superintendent.

The contract provides annual increases until his present salary of $30,000 reaches $42,500. His present four-year contract ends Aug. 31 and under the new pact he will get a $5,000 raise in the first year and a $2,500 yearly pay hike in each of the three remaining years.

Willis' new salary will top the $32,500 salaries paid superintendents in New York City and Los Angeles, said R. Sargent Shriver Jr., president of the school board. He said, however, the New York superintendent is eligible for an $18,000 annual pension compared to $3,200 in Chicago. He said Detroit pays its school chief $30,000 a year and provides for a substantial pension.

Willis, who is 55, came to Chicago in 1953 from Buffalo, N.Y., where he was superintendent of schools. He previously had held similar posts in Yonkers, N.Y., and in Maryland.

The 347-year-old castle, Brownlow House in Lurgan, Erie, with 200 rooms, may become the town's civic center. It has been offered for $84,000.

Senators Quiz Union Bosses

Labor Chiefs Allegedly Plotted Against Workers in Long Island

NEW YORK (INS)—Long Island labor bosses who allegedly have conspired with management to the detriment of union members were summoned for closed door questioning in New York today by Senate racket probers.

Members of the Senate Rackets Committee hoped to elicit important information from officials of Long Island Operating Engineers Local 138 and a second labor organization merely identified by spokesmen as "another union."

Chairman John McClellan (D-Ark), who last night warned that continued, unchecked labor racketeering could lead to a "gangsterism economy in America," was slated to preside over the one-day executive session in Foley Square.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy told newsmen, meanwhile, that the pending public investigation of "dummy" unions in the big city has been complicated by a federal judge's decision to try labor racketeer John Dioguardi on May 20.

Dioguardi, known as Johnny Dio, will go on trial for the acid-blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel about the time the committee hoped to call him in its probe.

Kennedy explained the trial will "affect the presentation" of evidence in the pending committee session because it will be impossible for Johnny Dio to appear before both the senators and the federal court.

The attorney added, however, that the committee will go ahead as planned, even though Dio may have to be summoned at the end of the investigation rather than at the beginning. The committee has not announced a date for opening the New York hearings.

Kennedy said today's closed-door session was not a perliminary to the probe of "dummy" or "paper" locals which union bosses used as vehicles to provide themselves with votes in parent labor organization

McClellan told the American Newspaper Publishers Association last night that union corruption "must not be permitted to continue."

He pledged continued exposure of wrongdoing in the labor-management field as a means of "correcting and eliminating the evils that now prevail."

McClellan said his committee has been materially aided in its probe by newspaper reporters, including Clark Mollenhoff of the Des Moines Register and the Minneapolis Tribune; Wallace Turner and William Lambert of the Portland Oregonian, Ed Guthman of the Seattle Times, and other newsmen, including reporters for the wire services. He said the Scranton, Pa., Tribune and the Scranton Times have also greatly assisted the investigation.

'This Is My Business, My Life Work'

Pilot Crossfield, 35, Thinks X15 Is Flying Laboratory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A pilot who looks more like a banker than a space man may be the first human to fly 4,000 m.p.h.

Scott Crossfield, 35, was named yesterday to pilot the rocket-powered North American X15 on its maiden flight next year.

Almost anybody would take this conservatively dressed, 150-pound family man for a quietly confident businessman or an aeronautical engineer, which he is.

He is the man who first flew twice the speed of sound — 1,327 m.p.h. in the Douglas Skyrocket in November 1953 — and he is the man who may pilot the X15 higher and faster than any other manned aircraft. The Pentagon in Washington has said the X15 may achieve such unbelievable marks as 4,000 m.p.h. and 200,000 feet altitude.

"This is my business, my life work," Crossfield said matter-of-factly when newsmen asked how he felt about approaching this project.

"The X15 is a flying research laboratory. It is simply an extension of the designs and accomplishments of the X1, X2 and X3 series.

"There is no concept that requires a superhuman to fly this aircraft. There is no extreme requirement on the pilot. I will require no 'training' as such. I am living with this aircraft, from the concept through the drawing boards, the mockup, the actual construction, the testing and, finally, the flight.

"This thing will not be a piece of cake, of course. But the whole project is developed step by step so that there will be no unknown phenomena."

Many of Crossfield's own ideas are being engineered into the X15. It is being fabricated by North American and its liquid propellant rocket engine will be built by Reaction Tors, Inc., Denville, N.J. Nearly all of its details are security-secret.

Presumably it will be dropped from a mother plane over Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., as were the X1 and X2 research speedsters which ran the records up to better than 2,200 m.p.h. and 90,000 feet altitude.

"From the pilot's standpoint," Crossfield said, "we are not restricted to your theoretical 4,000 m.p.h. and 200,000 feet. Mechanically, we can put a pilot at any altitude and speed we want."

He said he was permitted to disclose that the X15 will have "better emergency bailout provisions for the pilot than any previous rocket aircraft."

Asked what his wife thought about the X15 project, Crossfield laughed and said: "I never asked her."

Building Boost Seen in City

Permits for 47 Homes, 2 Gas Stations in Month Dispel Winter Lull

Building has picked up again in Pontiac after a winter lull as indicated by the fact that permits for 47 new homes have been granted this month by Carl F. Alt, city building inspector.

Sixteen will be built in the east side Herrington Hills Subdivision, while the same number has been approved for the Pontiac Knolls Subdivision.

Alt also approved permits for two new gas stations valued at $38,000, one to be built at 286 Baldwin Ave. and the other at 314 W. Walton Blvd.

Garages proved popular, as permits for 11 new ones were granted by Alt's department.

Other permits included installation of air conditioning, re-roofing, siding, remodeling, shingling projects, construction of porches, fences, repairing fire damages, wrecking and moving permits, and additions to homes.

Soviets to Mine Coal With Hydraulic Power

STALINO, Russia (AP) — Soviet engineers are designing new coal mines in the Donbas fields to operate by hydraulic power. Strong water jets will carry coal to the headings from where it will "piped" to the surface through high pressure water tubes.

Engineers claim one such mine using 650 workers can produce 5,000 tons of coal daily.

Thieves Work for Living

IMPERIAL, Tex. (AP) — Energetic thieves stole a complete oil well drilling rig in a field 22 miles south of here.

Pecos County Deputy Sheriff Leon McDurmon said it must have taken them several days to dismantle the rig.

10,000 Scientists Streamline Telephones

PUSH-BUTTON dialing has been tested in laboratory.

MURRAY HILL, N. J. — (NEA) — The Bell Telephone Laboratories, where 10,000 men of science design phones, has found itself in the embarrassment of not being able to communicate its own story to the outside world.

Bell was recently called to attend a meeting with home and efficiency experts who made numerous suggestions of "improvements" for future phones. Well, sir, the improvements have already been incorporated in the latest telephones now rolling off the assembly lines.

Home experts asked for a way to make the bell louder or softer. (New phones have a four-position bell — from tinkle to tocsin — which you can adjust.)

Decorators and stylists wanted a prettier, lighter, easier-to-handle phone. (New phones, available in color, have been re-engineered. The handset is almost an inch shorter and nearly a quarter of a pound lighter. One model—the bedroom set—looks like a vanity case.

Everybody wanted easier dialing. (New phones have their letters and numbers outside the fingerwheel. You don't have to stand directly in front of the instrument to dial, and you can dial faster. Besides, you can't erase the characters through use, saving the company a $6 maintenance visit to replace the 10-cent character plate.)

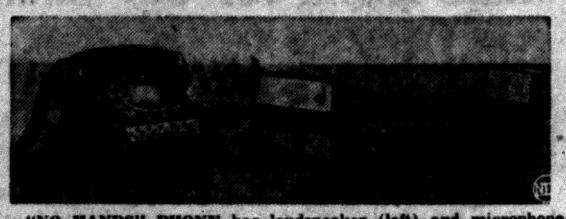
In addition, nobody knew that the latest phones have been freed to travel 25 per cent farther from their offfice. Wiring size has been reduced by 30 per cent, to begin a multi-million-dollar saving.



"NO HANDS" PHONE has loudspeaker (left) and microphone (right) tied in with the usual telephone set.

To cut manufacturing and maintenance costs, new instruments are now being built with all of their elements on a chassis—the bottom—with an easy to remove protective housing. This phone will take 16 hard falls.

But at the rate of seven million off the assembly lines each year, the new phones are sadly ahead of themselves—technically, financially, mortally.

Most of the 60 million phones now in nationwide use are only about six years old. It will be another 11 years before they live out their investment value to the company. To satisfy customer demand for the new phones, laboratory men have designed a new housing for the old phones.

Exports of Britain to Red China Upped

LONDON (AP)—Britain's exports to Communist China were worth six million dollars, up nearly 8 per cent, in the first three months of this year, the Board of Trade announced.

Pressure has been mounting in Britain for easing of the ban on export of strategic goods to Communist China, imposed after the Korean War. Businessmen complain that many of the prohibited goods can freely be sold to the Soviet Union. This, they claim, encourages a "backdoor" trade with China in Western goods.

The United States is reported considering a revision of the embargo list following the Bermuda meeting earlier this year between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan.

The Board of Trade's report showed Britain holding her own in the battle to balance imports and exports.

Eden May Soon Leave Hospital to Convalesce

BOSTON (AP) — A bulletin on Sir Anthony Eden's condition yesterday said X-ray examinations showed a normal bile drainage and added that he soon may be able to leave the hospital for convalescence.

The bulletin said his condition is "very satisfactory."

Eden, 59, was operated on 12 days ago at New England Baptist Hospital for a bile duct obstruction.

House Passes on 62 Bills

LANSING (AP)—Bills dealing with air pollution, alcoholics, boats and dozens of other subjects poured out of the House in a torrent yesterday as another deadline in the legislative timetable closed in.

Starting at 9:30 a.m., members worked straight through till nearly midnight with three hours out for lunch and dinner.

At adjournment, 62 bills and one resolution, roughly one-fourth of the output of the year so far, had been approved and passed on to the Senate. Eight other measures were moved up for final action today, leaving 29 bills still to be approved or rejected in the lower chamber.

Except for those involving taxes or appropriations, bills not acted upon today in the house of origin die automatically.

Approved by a 76-19 vote was a bill which would cut the discount rates the state gives on liquor bought by retail distributors. Its sponsor Rep. Don R. Pears (R-Buchanan), estimated the plan would bring an additional million dollars annually to state coffers.

Under the bill, Specially Designated Distributors (SDDs) doing an annual business of more than $500,000 would get only a 5 per cent discount on their liquor purchases, rather than the present 10 per cent. Smaller business would take a lesser cut and those having a volume of less than $100,000 would get the full discount.

Another bill getting an overwhelming House okay would provide that 5 per cent of money taken in from retail liquor fees be used for treatment of alcoholics. Earlier, House members stripped the measure of an amendment which would have made it compulsory for alcoholics to undergo treatment at an institution.

A resolution adopted and sent to the Senate would commute the death sentence of bills on which no action has been taken during legislative sessions falling in an odd numbered year.

The resolution, proposed as an amendment to the constitution, would provide that such bills be carried over to the following session, when elected members would be serving in the second year of their two-year terms.

If approved by the Senate, the proposal would go before the voters in the November, 1958, general election.

Another resolution which met with defeat would have authorized the governor to propose changes in the organization of state agencies within 30 days after the start of the session. They would take effect automatically 90 days after final adjournment if members did not disapprove them in the meantime.

Drunk and reckless boat drivers would be banned from the water for up to two years under a "boat traffic code" which was approved 82-8. The measure is aimed at controlling reckless boating on all the state's waterways.

It also prohibits night water-skiing, sets the extent of liability of boat owners involved in accidents and authorizes the Michigan Waterways Commission to provide penalties and set up regulations.

Among other bills approved were those to:

* Authorize the State Health Commissioner to set up regulations to control pollution of air in industrial areas.

Prohibit false advertising of meat and meat products.

Remove the ceiling on the amount of money counties and municipalities may spend to build and operate armories.

Proposes U.N. Make 14 Minimum Marriage Age

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (INS) — The U.N. Economic and Social Council has called on one of its subcommittees to begin a study on making a global law setting 14 as the minimum age of marriage.

Dominican Ambassador Miss Minerva Bernardino proposed the motion, unanimously adopted by the council, that the U.N. commission on the status of women study the advisability of establishing a minimum age for marriage.

Williams Hits GOP Budget 'Economies'

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams says recommendations of Republican budget-makers would short change the State Banking Department, Corporation and Securities Commission and other regulatory agencies.

Their expenditure proposals for 1957-58 have denied the wherewithal to hire new bank examiners to keep tab on increased numbers and size of banks in the state, the Governor said.

"The Corporation and Securities Commission will fall farther behind in its already overloaded work schedules, but GOP leaders apparently couldn't care less," he said.

In 19 regulatory areas, he said, the Republican spending recommendations call for a "penurious $8,093 increase, or 1.02 per cent, over present appropriations."

"It will be impossible to serve the public adequately at that budget level," he said.

Postal Clerks Push Drive for Pay Hike

Local 1766, National Federation Postal Clerks, met recently at the Pontiac Post Office, to promote a letter-writing campaign to congressmen urging favorable action of bills to raise postal employes pay.

Major speaker was Harold Wright, of the Pontiac branch of the National Assn. of Letter Carriers, who reported on a recent seminar in Kalamazoo on the pay problem.

The clerks elected the following as delegates to the state convention May 24 and 25 in Lansing: President Robert Hukka, Robert Sigler, Dorothy Dugas and Morea Tinney.

Argentine, German and American firms are expected to bid on Argentina's "Plan de Reactivacion" for its oil industry, Buenos Aires reports. It has four main projects including oil pipelines and gas pipelines.

Expansion and Operation Big Item in School Cost

Spending Is Now Under One Head

Dr. Hufziger Directing Activities, Projects Set at $8 Million

By HAROLD S. COHEN

Overall responsibility for the spending of more than $8 million in public funds rests firmly on the shoulders of a 29-year-old man who has carved out a unique niche with the Pontiac School System.

Dr. Otto C. Hufziger is that man, and his shoulders appear broad enough to carry the load without undue strain.

His official title is assistant superintendent in charge of business, a post created just last summer—and a significant post it is.

Through his division passes the entire building program, as well as school finances, maintenance, and transportation and purchasing. This summer, all school cafeterias will be centralized under him in addition.

Dr. Hufziger has been with the Pontiac system two and a half years, starting as administrative assistant to the superintendent and then moving into his present job.

He holds a bachelor of science degree in engineering from Iowa State University which he acquired while in the Navy during World War II.

He has a second B. S. degree in education from the University of Dayton, in Ohio; a master of education from Miami University, Ohio; and a doctorate from Columbia University.

He was with the Columbia Institute of Field Studies doing building surveys before coming to Pontiac, and he also worked for the Dayton Power and Light Co. for a year and taught school for several years in Ohio.

Which adds up to a busy career for a man of 29. But he has never been busier than now.

"Just the bare statistics will show how much growth the Pontiac Schools have done in, say, the last four years," Dr. Hufziger says, whipping out a few of the charts and tables with which he is surrounded.

CITES RAPID GROWTH

"Since 1954, when I came here, we have expanded our school space by 30 per cent, from $1,034,706 square feet to 1,359,122 square feet today.

"We have seen enrollment jump from 16,917 to 18,498. We have removed many of our temporary classrooms and have increased our total personnel from 660 to the present 1,064.

"In just the last three years we have constructed additions to the Bagley, Malkim, Owen, Whittier and Whitfield elementary schools.

"And we have constructed the Bethune, Will Rogers and Mark Twain elementaries and built the Madison Junior High School."

Dr. Hufziger said two elementaries will be built this year and two additions will be completed. To be constructed are the Herrington Hills and Kennett Road Schools, while the Malkim and Bethune schools will be enlarged.

"And that isn't all," he went on, "we spent $182,801 in 1955 and 1956 rehabilitating old buildings."

"Of course," he said, "this tremendous spurt in physical plant did not start when I came here. It dates back to 1947 and it will continue for the next few years with the new senior high school as the big project coming up this year and next."

But working with three architects simultaneously, as he often does, and supervising construction projects is not Dr. Hufziger's sole job.

Our real problem is growth, he said, and that affects every operation this division has. Right now the system is planning new procedures to meet the new problems.

"One thing we will do soon is mechanize our payroll operations and enlarge the staff," he stated.

"In July, we will install an incumbrance accounting system to overcome the time lag between purchases and our accounts. As it is, by the time we get certain bills back, we have overspent some accounts," he added

Dr. Hufziger also is planning a boost in maintenance personnel. With a 63 per cent jump in building area since 1945, the schools have only increased personnel by 5 per cent.

"We plan to start double shifts for maintenance," he continued, "to catch up on the backlog. That way our equipment will be in use longer hours and more efficiently."

BUILDING PREVIEW — Dr. Otto Hufziger, assistant superintendent in charge of business, Pontiac Public Schools, seated, looks at an architect's drawing of the Kennett Road Elementary School which will be built this year. Checking it with him is Vern Schiller, director of financial management. Part of Dr. Hufziger's duties is supervising the vast building program of the school system.

School to Train Guard Officers

40 State Cadets in 1st Class to Graduate in '58 as 2nd Lieutenants

LANSING (AP)—Creation of an officer candidate school to turn out the leaders of Michigan's National Guard has been announced by Maj. Gen. George C. Moran, adjutant general of the Michigan Guard.

Moran said yesterday the school will be modeled after the Army's officer candidate school at Ft. Benning, Ga., and will be the principle source of Guard officers in the state. Maj. Ralph C. Phillips of Grand Rapids will serve as commandant.

The first class of 40 cadets, to be chosen from among the Guard's top warrant officers and enlisted men, will be graduated in 1958. They'll be commissioned as second lieutenants.

Moran said the course will consist of 225 hours of classroom instruction and field training. Cadets will get part of their training at two summer field training encampments at Camp Grayling and the rest at five weekend sessions at the Lansing Artillery Armory.

Moran will be director of the school and Col. Howard E. Derby of Charlotte, assistant adjutant general of Michigan, will serve as his assistant.

Reds Talk About Peace but Play Warlike Games

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

For instance, talking "disarmament" in London while shipping arms to the explosive Middle East.

The "atmosphere" in the London disarmament talks is described as better on the Soviet delegate's part. Another "atmosphere' is the roar of explosions of nuclear tests inside the far reaches of Russia, explosions that are raining radioactive dust on Japan.

Soviet agents still are very busy in the Middle East, and the Jordan crisis is far from solved.

The near-explosion in Jordan is part of the shifting and realigning going on in the Arab lands in the wake of the upheaval in the Suez Canal dispute. The latter matter that caused a war also is unsolved.

MORE RED ARMS

The Israelis knocked off vast quantities of Communist - made arms in Egypt. Now the Russians are reported shipping in more arms to replenish the Egyptian stocks.

In Syria tanks and self-propelled guns made in Russia were paraded in Damascus Wednesday, while overhead for the first time a dozen Soviet MIG jet planes flew.

The Soviets are busy promoting friends in both Egypt and Syria to exert pressure on Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Iraq.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia, a supporter of Jordanian King Hussein in his battle to keep his small country out of the Soviet orbit, is due to visit Amman early next month, and then go on to Baghdad, the capital of Iraq and the headquarters of the anti - Communist Baghdad pact.

All the Arab nations express hostility toward Israel, but not all of them want to play the anti-Western game of the Soviets.

SPECIAL ENVOY

Richards' mission apparently has not been a failure. It has been successful to a degree. He is playing down the prospective 'American economic aid of $200 million available to Middle Eastern nations.

Instead, he is concentrating on the value of the American plan to protect individual nations against Red aggression while those nations can work out their own local problems.

Lebanon has approved the doctrine. So have Turkey, Iran, Iraq, Afghanistan and Saudi Arabia.

More Storms Batter Texas

Gov. Daniel Will Ask Federal Help as New Floods Threaten

DALLAS (AP) — Heavy thunderstorms, high winds and hail lashed a wide section of storm-battered Texas again today, posing new flood dangers.

Gov. Price Daniel said he would ask President Eisenhower to designate the worst flood areas for federal disaster relief.

A line of thunderstorms rumbled across central, north central and northeast Texas. Hundreds of persons were evacuated when flash floods struck at Abilene and San Antonio.

Rising rivers and creeks in southeast and central Texas surged at flood stages following the seventh day of torrential rains, hail and thunderstorms. Creeks and streams spilled out of their banks in west Texas in a new flood area.

A tornado and severe weather alert for the extreme northeastern part of the state expired at 6 a.m. Four twisters were sighted in the state yesterday and today.

125 EVACUATED

Some 125 persons were evacuated when flood waters of Elm Creek and Cat's Claw Creek swirled into the Henson Addition today in northwest Abilene. The water ran waist deep into some homes.

A heavy thunderstorm also lashed San Antonio, overflowing already swollen creeks within the city. The Police Department said between 50 and 100 families on the North and West Side of town had to be evacuated from their homes.

The surging flood waters spilled into streets that already were impassable by the flash flood that covered the city two days ago.

Rains up to an unofficial 2 inches soaked the city in a two-hour period. Police said in at least two instances cars were tumbled into ravines by the swift-flowing water.

BIG LET-DOWN — The twisted steel framework of a single-lane bridge rests in shallow Loyalhanna Creek near Saltsburg, Pa., after it collapsed, carrying with it the auto shown in the foreground. Two occupants of the car were not injured. Cause of the collapse was not immediately determined.

Police Probe Death of Grand Rapids Man

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Police believe Arthur McKiever, a 40-year-old scrap metal firm employe who died Monday night, may have been murdered.

Patrolmen Dennis Booker and William Harvey said a woman and two men are being held for questioning.

McKiever was treated for abdominal injuries at a Grand Rapids hospital Sunday night and released. He was admitted to the hospital again Monday and died that night.

He had suffered a groin injury. It was believed at first that he was hurt by a piece of steel in the scrap metal yard, but police said they believe he may have been stabbed.

McKiever was involved in a quarrel Sunday night, police said.

Weil on ANPA Board

NEW YORK (AP) — Louis A. Weil, Jr., of the Grand Rapids Herald yesterday was named to a two-year term on the board of directors of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn., which is meeting here.

Springtime Is Tornado Time

Springtime is tornado time.

In the unstable transition from winter cold to summer heat, great masses of cold and warm air collide. When the heavier cold air is forced above the lighter warm air, funnels sometimes form to relieve the topsy-turvy situation. This is the twister.

Some 800 tornadoes boil up each year in the United States. When they strike, local civil defense and the Red Cross speed to the rescue.

Spring is the time for a special weather eye to the tornado-spawning southwest. Last year, for instance, every major tornado occurred between February and May. On one day — April 3 —four giant twisters killed 30 persons, injured 415 and caused an estimated $13,760,000 damage.

There is no way to prevent a tornado. But early warning, proper precautions and speedy rescue of victims can save lives.

In addition, disaster funds administered by the Federal Civil Defense Administration can provide emergency repairs and restoration of vital community facilities when federal assistance is authorized by the President to augment state and local efforts.

WHAT TO DO

The Federal Civic Defense Administration makes the following suggestions for safety if caught in or near a twister:

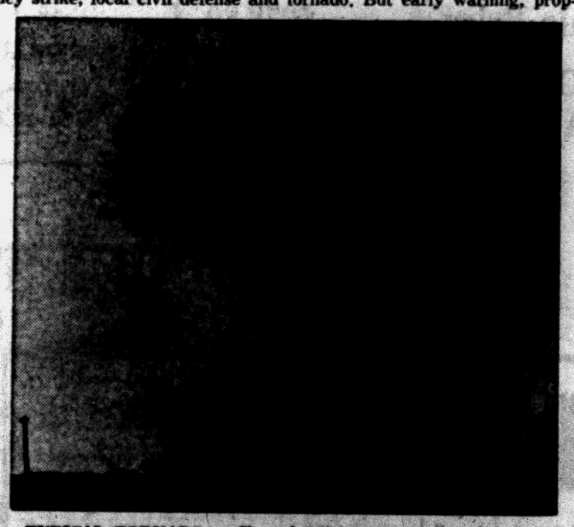
People in open country can view the approach of a tornado and move at right angles to its path. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression, such as a ditch or ravine.

In towns or cities, seek shelter inside, preferably in a substantial building. Stay away from windows.

The southwest corner of the basement of a frame house is safer than in a brick or stone house. If there is no basement, lie down on the first floor under a table or bed (preferably in the southwest corner).

Urban schools: Stay inside, away from windows; remain near an inside wall on a lower floor. Avoid auditoriums and gymnasiums.

Rural schools of frame construction: Teachers should remove children to a ravine or ditch if storm shelter is not available.



TYPICAL TORNADO — Funnel sweeps across the plains near Manhattan, Kan., located in the worst tornado belt in the world, according to Weather Bureau records. Twisters such as this have figured prominently in the total of 75 major natural disasters in which the Federal Civil Defense Administration has directed relief since FCDA got the job of coordinating federal assistance in January 1953.

Portland Acts in 3 Courts on Elkins, Langley, Baker

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Legal action stemming from grand jury investigations of vice and corruption here is scheduled in three courts today.

Portland Dist. Atty. William Langley, convicted on a state charge of deliberate failure to prosecute gambling, is to appear in State Circuit Court in connection with his appeal for a new trial.

Finally, Doug Baker, a reporter for the Oregon Journal, is to appear in another State Circuit Court in connection with his refusal yesterday to testify before the vice-probing county grand jury.

Meanwhile, the grand jury, which has been in session since early March, continues its deliberations.

So far in the yearlong investigation some 60 persons have been indicted on more than 100 charges.

He testified:

That Elkins, star witness for the state in its vice investigation, contributed money to Langley's successful campaign for district attorney in 1954.

That he (Maloney) was a friend of the late John Sweeney, secretary-treasurer of the Western Conference of Teamsters, but denied that he ever had been an employe of the Teamsters Union.

That he was employed by Langley as an "undercover agent" and received a total of $1,200 to $1,500 in small payments in the latter part of 1955 for "closing up houses of prostitution."

That he had been friendly with Elkins until October 1955, when Elkins "chased me out of town" with a snub-nosed .38-caliber gun.

His testimony contradicted Elkins' story that he was in on a plot with Langley, Teamsters Union officials and others to expand and control vice operations in Portland.

Both Maloney and Elkins are under indictment on a number of state charges. Both men appeared before the Senate committee investigating labor racketeering last month. Elkins answered questions freely. Maloney refused to answer many questions, citing the Fifth Amendment against possible self-incrimination.

State Circuit Judge Frank J. Lonergan has ordered Langley to appear in court today for possible sentencing. Langley is subject to a fine and removal from office because of his conviction on the non-prosecution of gambling charges.

Reporter Baker, under subpoena to testify before the county grand jury, was taken before State Circuit Judge Charles W. Redding yesterday when he refused to answer the jury's questions.

Baker said he thought the jury was going outside the authorized scope of its investigation; that the line of questioning "concerns the admissibility of hearsay evidence; and that questions put to him would "touch on matters that will break confidence between me as a newspaper and my sources of information."

Gob Ready to Pay Fine

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — The Police Traffic Bureau sent a summons to a motorist for failure to pay a parking ticket. The summons was returned with this notation:

"If I thought you could make me appear in court I'd be happy to pay." The tagged car belonged to a sailor, then stationed at the Atlantic City Naval Air Station, and the summons was forwarded to his present post— in French Morocco.

Bob Considine Says:

Ike Doctrine Leaves Much in Doubt

NEW YORK (INS) — Some thoughts collected at Random, a small suburb of Allenhurst, N. J.—

The only way the Eisenhower Middle East doctrine can take firm shape in the minds of the American people (and perhaps even the government itself) would be for some oppressed ruler like King Hussein of Jordan to look to the White House and yell, "You promised, so now—halp!"

The doctrine is being interpreted in more varied ways than the Dead Sea scrolls. Some senators feel that it binds us to come immediately to the aid of any government which is beset by outside forces and pleads for help.

Others say that the forces must be positively identified as those of the Soviet Union. Still others ask, "If Jordan is pushed out of the Western bloc by pro-Soviet Arabs equipped with Russian arms, and calls for help, how can we say this is not Soviet aggression?"

Unless there is a clear-cut plea for help, the doctrine may take on the air of a "big stick" edict which is comprehended without really being understood.

Such a doctrine is now in effect in regard to Quemoy and Matsu, the two Nationalist islands off the Chinese mainland which the Red Chinese once threatened to invade by the next edition.

We never specifically said we would fight if the Reds made their move. But we never said we wouldn't, either.

The Chinese Reds have never moved. With decades of work remaining to alter half a billion people to Communist slavery, the Chinese Red leaders have preferred to believe the latter.

CAUGHT IN BOO-BOO

Always happy to catch Nostradamus in a boo-boo.

The foremost interpreter of the gobbledegook of the 16th Century seer, Henry C. Roberts, has doped out that Nostry predicted the great fire of London, the exact date and circumstances of the French Revolution, the fall of Japan, World Wars I and II almost to the day, the American Revolution, radio, TV, submarines, autos, planes, the A-bomb and the rise in time of "The Man of Iron" and "The Man of Steel." (Eisenhower means man of iron, more or less, and Stalin, meaning "made of steel," was the nom de rewolt of Josef Djugashvilli-Vissarionovich.)

Anyway, a nice lady who keeps clippings sends me one of mine from nearly a decade ago in which Roberts had his tiger predicting:

"By 1952 there will be a war in full bloom between the United States and the rest of the world, which will be forced to fight for Russia. It will be initiated by a tremendous explosion 'of a cosmic nature' on the 48th parallel.

"It will continue sporadically until 1999, after which the survivors will form a world government that works and peace and plenty will reign supreme from 2000 to 3797 A. D."

Well, the old boy came within 10 degrees of the correct parallel for trouble in the early 1950s. But he seems (or his interpreter seems) to have booted the rest of the guess.

BACK INTO SHAPE

In response to a number of requessts we are repeating, as millions of American men prepare to get back in shape for the summer season, the immortal creed of Satchel Paige—a great and persecuted man who strolled through the major leagues on the way to pick up his social security:

1.—Avoid fried meats which angry up the blood.

2.—If your stomach disputes you, lie down and pacify it with cool thoughts.

3.—Keep the juice flowing by jangling around gently as you move.

4.—Go very light on the vices, such as carrying on in society. The social ramble ain't restful.

5.—Avoid running at all times.

6.—Don't look back. Something might be gaining on you.

We recommend all these to the gentlemen who in time will meet in solemn acrimony and discuss alterations in the United Nations Charter.

Be odd if the printer sticks a "c" in the middle of "alterations." We've had some trouble with composing rooms in the past, where U.N. was concerned.

A Lynchburg (Va.) printer once had me calling the United Nations the Untied Nations . . . and there have been many times since when the typo gave one pause, let us say.

New Alma College President Installed

ALMA (AP) — Dr. Robert D. Swanson was formally inaugurated president of Alma College Wednesday before an audience of 2,000 at the Alma High School gymnasium.

In day-long ceremonies, some 60 representatives from Michigan colleges and universities heard Dr. Swanson emphasize the 700-enrollment college's program in liberal arts education.

Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, professor of philosophy at Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., delivered the inaugural address. He stressed the role a small church-supported college such as Alma plays in promoting a sense of close relationship and common fellowship.

Cabinet in Finland Quits Under Fire

HELSINKI (INS) — The cabinet of Finnish Premier Karl A. Fagerholm, under heavy fire because of its internal economy program, resigned yesterday.

Fagerholm had been premier for 13 months but his position was badly shaken in February when six Agrarian Party cabinet members resigned in protest against a cabinet majority's decision to cut milk prices.

Men Get More Attention Because They Demand It

Stewardesses Air Their Prejudices

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—It has been the distinct and rankled impression of many lady airplane travelers that a number of those pert li'l stewardesses are inclined to bestow their extra ounces of coffee, their softer smiles, their gayer greetings on men.

Unless a woman has a child under 3 weeks old, she is likely to play second fiddle to the nearest potential beau.

Not that you could blame the hostesses, exactly. A single girl would be idiot indeed to waste excess charm and free chewing gum on another girl when there was a male in the immediate vicinity.

But somehow this rationalization doesn't help, when the plane is up and the chips are down and the lady in the uniform is that type who hangs up all the men's coats before she acknowledges the presence of the ladies.

Early this week, 40 of the most beautiful, talented hostesses of the world's airways were assembled at a New York buffet room competing for the title, "Miss Spirit of St. Louis" (dedicated to a Warner Bros. movie, Lindbergh, spirits and spirit). It seemed a good time to get their side of the story.

SORT OF AFRAID

"Well frankly," said Jan Golus, a succulent blonde who totes trays for United Airlines, "a stewardess can't always be as nice to a woman as a man, because a woman is sort of afraid of another woman until she gets to know her. And there's no time on a flight.

"Men are more fun to talk to, really. Women sort of look us up and down sometimes and aren't very friendly. In fact, they're the ones most likely to be nasty and chew us out."

Carin Qvarnstrom, SAS's multi-lingual beauty, was appalled at the idea. "I know some girls lean toward men," she said, "but when I occasionally fly as a passenger, that sort of business makes me very allergic. A good stewardess should sense, even before she's called, which people need her most—and usually those people are the women."

It's only the marriage-minded girls who show prejudice toward women: "Myself, I pay more attention to elderly folks and mothers with babies," she observed.

KINDNESS IS BEST

Japan Airlines' lovely representative didn't understand how women could feel slighted. "Kindness," she said, "is best for all stewardesses. Naturally it is natural to be nice to man, but also it is even nicer to be nice to ladies. They need niceness most."

There was no folderol about Lorie Woltemath, cute trick from Continental Airlines: "The reason men may look like they get more attention is that they always DEMAND more attention. They want their egos built up — and on a plane, they can get it if they insist upon it.

"Of course there may be some hostesses who look at male passengers as possible additions to their social life—but women understand women. If they get that kind of girl on a flight, they may as well start demanding as the men do."

Meta Rose Hinderle, Swissair's version of Elizabeth Taylor, admitted she "likes the feeling of being admired by the men, but somehow I get along just as well with elderly ladies. Young ladies, well — what would you expect, now?"

And Angie Snook, TWA's Kansas City kid, put it this way; "The complaint has been voiced for years, but I think it's an illusion. Men look like they're getting more attention, but it's because there are more men flying than women."

"I like everybody except those who try to impress you with important-looking business cards, with orders, with smart talk.

Robber's Calendar May Be Treasure Map

Police Search for $66,000

SUFFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Police puzzled over a calendar today in hopes of finding $66,000 in missing loot from a payroll robbery.

The robber can't help them. He shot himself to death after killing an FBI agent with one shot when police cornered him in his sister's house.

Police claimed that Francis Kolakowski, 42, of Hartford, shot his wife to death March 29, and pulled the Hartford Machine Screw Co. payroll robbery in Windsor two weeks later. Then he slipped into the woods without a trace.

They scoured the woods for him, without result. They found out why later. He had a carefully constructed underground shelter, with a stove and supply of food and water. Even his clothes hung neatly in plastic bags in the dugout, which must have taken months to build.

The calendar was found in the underground shelter. It had mysterious dots around certain numbers. Police hope they can untangle the code, if such it is, and find the rest of the missing money.

Until then they continue to tramp through the woods with mine detectors, looking for jars.

Doctors who performed an autopsy on Kolakowski said the dugout wouldn't have done him much good had he eluded police longer. They found he had extensive intestinal cancer, and said he would have lived only two or three weeks more anyway.

Even Chicken Feed Can Come in Handy

Quail Hits Hunter, Dies

He said that his dog flushed a single bird and the quail flew low on the takeoff. It hit Pope dead center on the leg—and broke its neck.

Fish Festivals Start Summer

Michigan Camera Fans Enjoy Blossom Parade, Holland Tulip Festival

LANSING — Some two dozen special events during May and June will usher in Michigan's 1957 spring and summer vacation season, according to the State Tourist Council.

High on the list of vacation favorites are the fishing festivals that celebrate the opening of Michigan's trout and lake fishing seasons. Among them are the Kalkaska trout festival, April 27-28; the Escanaba walleye festival, May 21 a perch festival at Ludington, May 24-25; and bass festivals at Sebewaing and Mancelona, June 22.

For sightseers and camera fans there is a week-long blossomtime celebration scheduled for the twin cities of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, May 5-11. The festival will include a blessing of the blossoms ceremony, a fruit market exposition and a floral parade.

Farther north along the Lake Michigan shore the city of Holland will stage its annual Tulip Festival, May 15-18. Acres of brilliantly colored tulip beds and gayly costumed "klompen" dancers make the event a natural for color photographers.

Mushroom fanciers, too, (morel hunters to the initiated) will have their day in Michigan. For special mushroom hunts will be held in mid-May at Gaylord and Mesick in the lower peninsula. Participants need only arm themselves with paper bags or buckets. Mapped tours are arranged by the communities and there are always veterans on hand with tips for beginners.

Other events around the state include flower festivals, a canoe race, a pancake festival and a rodeo.

Scientists Work Toward Leukemia Cure

Cancer in Children Is Not a Rarity; Mothers Should Look Out for Signs

(This is the fifth of six articles written for INS providing the facts on cancer detection and treatment for a sane, sensible and life-saving approach to the problems of that disease.)

By DAVID A. WOOD, M.D.
President of the American Cancer Society

Children with cancer of the eye have been in the news this past year. Mothers, reading about them, may have said, "A freak thing to happen, children don't get cancer! It can't happen to mine!" Others began watching their young with fear akin to phobia.

Both attitudes are wrong.

Cancer in children is rare, although not as rare as most people believe. It strikes only one in 7,000 children, yet it kills more youngsters than any other disease; certainly many could be saved if the cancer were discovered earlier.

So here is my advice to parents: By all means memorize cancer's seven danger signals and have your child periodically checked by your physician during his entire childhood.

Cancer in children is complicated by several factors.

Before I describe these symptoms I want to stress the fact that they may or may not indicate cancer. The occurrence of any of them should not be alarming. It should merely be the green light to visit the doctor—just to be on the foresight side of this disease.

RARELY AFTER 4

Let us begin with eye tumor which rarely occurs after the age of four. It usually affects one eye, but both eyes are sometimes involved. The first warning is widening of the pupil that is apt to look like a squint. A later development is a pearly glint, or what some people call "cat's eye."

Retina glioma, as it is called, is highly curable. The earlier the diagnosis, the greater the chances, not only of cure but of saving the child's sight.

Tumors of the brain may give a combination of warnings. The child may complain of blurred vision or "seeing double," lose muscular coordination, or complain of headaches that increase in frequency and severity.

EARLY ATTENTION

Again, these symptoms may be caused by conditions totally unrelated to brain tumor, but they should have early attention.

Tumors of the kidney, or "Wilms' tumor" as they are called, after the doctor who first described them, rarely occur after the age of seven. The first sign usually is a readily noticeable swelling in the abdomen or flank, more prominent on one side than on the other.

A mother bathing her child can sometimes feel a firm mass before it becomes visible. Sometimes a child may complain of pain or become colicky and constipated before the enlargement becomes noticeable.

When surgery was the only treatment the outlook for Wilms' tumor was poor. Today, x-ray combined with surgery ensure a good chance of recovery.

MOST COMMON

How I wish we could say that about leukemia! This is the most common form of cancer in children, and thus far no cure has been found. However, researchers of the American Cancer Society have a growing optimism that eventually there will be a major breakthrough in the chemical treatment of certain types of cancer. Leukemia is the area of most intense exploration in this regard.

Even now the disease is not as swiftly fatal as it used to be. New drugs, used singly or in combination, can prolong the life of a small patient for a year or more. One child, who gives us hope for all children, has lived with leukemia for more than seven years and is still attending school!

Leukemia lowers resistance, so an acute infectious illness is often the first revelation of cancer of the blood. Early symptoms are not unlike anemia: Weakness, fatigue and marked pallor of skin and lips. Bleeding may occur spontaneously from nose, gums or intestines. Other early signs include swelling in the neck, armpits, groin, chest or abdomen.

OTHER FORMS

There are other forms of cancer in children but they occur too infrequently for discussion here. It will be sufficient to bear well in mind the symptoms described above. There is no reason to become an alarmist, but parents can give their children the quiet protection that is a part of the whole business of rearing the young.

The American Cancer Society urges parents to remember that many of the indispositions of childhood are simple ailments to be taken in stride. But they also may be symptoms of early cancer. Only regular and frequent examinations throughout childhood, can give a child every possible chance—on the rare chance that cancer may strike.

(Tomorrow have the facts in your mind without having them on your mind.)

Charge Is Manipulating Redi-Mix Cement Sale in Genesee County

FLINT (AP) — The one-man grand jury of Circuit Judge Michael Carland today indicted 10 businessmen in the Flint area on charges of conspiring to control the sale and delivery of "redi-mix" concrete in Genesee County. Four other businessmen were named as co-conspirators, but not defendants.

The scope of the grand jury, which has been investigating alleged gambling involving police and public officers, was enlarged recently to take in alleged price fixing involving city contracts.

The warrant for the arrest of the 10 businessmen, however, made no mention of city contracts. Named as defendants in the indictment were:

Samuel Catsman, president of the Catsman Coal Co., Flint; his brother, Raymond M., vice president of the company; Charles A. Fellows, president of the J. P. Burroughs and Son So., building suppliers; Roy Horning of Fenton, vice president of the Burroughs firm; James F. Smith, secretary of Burroughs; Clayton W. Kurtz, owner of the Kurtz Gravel Co., Howard G. Bigelow, also of the Kurtz, firm; Lawrence Diekl, of the Ferguson Block Co., Davison; Sherwin Palmer, president of Atlas Concrete Products, Inc., and Carl E. Creger, of Frankenmuth, vice president of Atlas.

Named as co-conspirators were: Eino Rajala of Flint, a builder; William L. Kelly of Flint, Curtis Schupbach of Fenton, and Ronald D. Lammy of Flushing, who own concrete firms.

Treetop Tornado Causes Damage in Oklahoma

HOLDENVILLE, Okla. (AP) — A treetop-high tornado hit this small Oklahoma town last night, popping power lines, smashing store fronts in a three-block downtown area and hitting some houses. No one was injured.

The Holdenville Red Cross said that about 25 or 30 homes had been damaged.

The storm hit this eastern Oklahoma town shortly after power went out at 10:15 p.m. Trees and porches were damaged in the residential section.

Highway Patrolmen Charles Dawson and Calvin Bingham said they first spotted the tornado about five miles southwest of the city.

They followed the bobbing funnel almost to the town, but were unable to send a warning by radio because the city's police radio station went off the air due to the power failure.

Powerline airmen started work almost immediately after the twister struck. High lines were down in many areas of town, due partly to wind and partly to shredded hunks of sheet metal from a lumber company building which were wrapped around poles and lines like ribbons.

A heavy rain flooded some streets.

In observance of Mental Health Week, the Oakland Child Guidance Clinic will hold open house at its offices, 113 Franklin Blvd., Thursday.

The branch clinic, at 386 E. Maple, Birmingham, will be open to the public May 1.

Hours at both places are 2 to 5 p.m. and 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The agency is devoted to promoting mental health among children in Oakland County.

The film, "The Face of Youth," will be shown at 3:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. at the Pontiac clinic. Arrangements for the open house are being made by board members, Mrs. Edwin Clarke and Mrs. Max Miller, assisted by Mrs. Philip Lifton of the staff.

Soble Accomplice Pleads Guilty to Helping Russians

Albam, 64, was the third member of an espionage ring seized by the FBI early this year to confess his guilt.

His action came 16 days after two cohorts in the plot, Jack Soble, 53, and Soble's wife, Myra, 52, entered similar pleas, and threw themselves on the mercy of the court.

By so doing, they apparently sought to escape a death penalty.

Federal Judge Richard H. Levet, who received the pleas from all three, set next Friday for sentencing them. Each could get up to 10 years in prison and a fine of $10,000 or both.

The trio, all three of them refugees from the Iron Curtain, were charged on a six-count indictment, detailing spy activities here and abroad.

Their please of guilty were to one count only, concerning conspiracy with Russian agents to obtain defense documents, photographs and other data, knowing it would be sent to Russia.

The gravest of the remaining counts — the one which could have brought them death if they were convicted on trial — charged conspiracy actually to transmit the secret papers and information.

It is customary when a defendant pleads guilty to part of an indictment for the defense to move for dismissal of the other counts on the day of sentencing.

The government has not indicated if it will concur in such a move.

NO BAIL

The three spies, originally scheduled to stand trial beginning May 22 are being held without bail.

Albam, a Lithuanian-born man who came to this country in 1947 and married an American woman the following year, had been working before his arrest as foreman in a Brooklyn tea and spice company.

His decision to change his plea from not guilty to guilty came after prolonged consultation with his attorney, Harold O. N. Frankel.

The three were arrested by FBI agents last February 25, Soble and his wife in their home on Manhattan's west 78th street and Albam in his apartment on Riverside Drive.

Treasury Secretary Coy on Future Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey didn't say yes and he didn't say no today about reported plans to resign his Cabinet post and go back into the steel industry.

He issued a statement, however, in which he said "when the time comes for my resignation, it will be presented first to the President."

Humphrey was commenting on reports that he would succeed Ernest Weir as board chairman of National Steel. Weir, 84, has announced his intention to step down May 16 because of ill health.

Humphrey's statement said: "It is well known that I have been in the Cabinet much longer than I originally planned. But as long as I am Secretary of the Treasury, I will have no other interest."

Humphrey came to Washington when President Eisenhower took office in 1953, with the stated intention of holding the treasury secretary's job for not more than two years.

Ecorse Mayor Sick in Florida Hospital

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (INS) —Mayor William W. Voisine of Ecorse, Mich., who has been indicted by Wayne County's one-man grand jury, was in a Ft. Lauderdale hospital today.

Voisine said he was recovering from "too much sun" and a minor diabetic condition. He laughed off reports his condition was serious after a diabetic coma, saying:

"I feel fine, but I guess if they can't get me one way they'll try another."

The mayor said he entered the hospital yesterday and expects to be out in a day or two. He expects to stay in Florida with his wife for about another week.

The 28th annual spring banquet of the Pontiac Education Association was held Thursday night at Devon Gables with 250 attending. Responsible for much of the evening's success were (left to right) Margaret Scott, Mrs. Howard Clark, the Rev. Robert Richards of Livonia and Florence Gullstrand. Miss Scott and Miss Gullstrand were cochairmen and Mrs. Clark was toastmistress. The Rev. Mr. Richards was speaker of the evening.

Pontiac Education Association Gathers at 28th Spring Banquet

Tells Experiences as Young Immigrant From Wales

Two hundred and fifty members of the Pontiac Education Association gathered at Devon Gables for the 28th annual spring banquet Thursday night.

Special speaker for the evening was the Rev. Robert Richards of the Newburg Methodist Church, Livonia. Born in Wales where he worked in coal mines for a small pittance, the speaker told what freedom and opportunity in America means to him.

"It is a privilege to be taxed just to be able to live in a country like America—Paradise," he said.

The speaker said his reason for coming to this country was to earn wages which he could not get in his own country. He had been instilled with the belief that all Americans were uncouth, illiterate and ill-mannered.

What he found was a country that allowed "an ignorant immigrant to have the education he yearned for—something that was denied him in his native country." He completed elementary school by taking night courses at the age of 34.

ISSUES CHALLENGE

The Rev. Mr. Richards challenged the educators to stimulate the youth with which they come in contact saying, "You have more influence on the America of tomorrow than you dream of. You are molding the leaders of tomorrow."

Cochairmen of the annual event were Margaret Scott and Florence Gullstrand. They were assisted by Jean Lucas, Helen Lapisch, Jean Greenacre, George Woodworth and Mrs. Mildred Dodson.

The invocation was given by Mrs. Ralph Forman, and the welcome was extended by President Charles Beyette. Toastmistress was Mrs. Howard Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lindquist thrilled the group with three of the duets for which they have been in much demand. They were accompanied by Sue Eckley.

Regular Practicing Must Be Done by Margot Fonteyn

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (INS) — Margot Fonteyn says being a ballerina is mighty hard work — but she obviously thrives on it.

Miss Fonteyn, Michael Somes and the rest of the Royal Ballet of Great Britain, formerly called the Sadler's Wells Ballet, are in New York for the April 29 NBC-TV ballet.

The hard work, which has been part of Miss Fonteyn's life since she was 12, has given the prima ballerina a lean, lithe figure and erect and graceful carriage. Added to this are her natural good looks — big brown eyes, lustrous brown hair and an air of laughing animation.

"I imagine a ballerina's life is hard," she said, "but I don't know any other life. It was a very hard life for me for a long time, but now I take it easier.

"A ballerina rehearses all day long then dances every night. Now I don't dance every night and unless I have a new ballet to learn I don't rehearse as much. But it is jolly hard. Dancing is very tiring."

She mentioned matter-of-factly that everybody does "class" every day, even prima ballerinas.

KEEPING IN PRACTICE

Class is an hour or hour-and-a-half of practice, going through all the ballet steps and routines, keeping steps in shape, point-work perfect.

"If I don't have anything to rehearse I at least do class in the mornings," Miss Fonteyn said. "Then I have the rest of the day to myself."

She admitted that after a properly done class she was "pretty well dead" for the rest of the day.

"Pretty well dead" or no, a prima ballerina has chores to attend to, particularly when visting. She arrived in the U. S. Monday, for example, stepping off the plane from Nice where she had spent a holiday with her husband. He is Roberto Airas, Panamanian ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Photographers met her at the plane, then she ate a second breakfast with a reporter, then freshened up at her hotel, then took off for two separate luncheons with different reporters, with an interview squeezed in between "to give me a chance to get my appetite back." Luckily, since ballerinas work so hard, they are usually hungry girls.

TIRING TOURS

Miss Fonteyn thinks the toughest parts of ballet dancing are the "unspeakable tours." Dancers cannot do "class" properly when on tour and tire from constant travel.

She feels audiences watching a touring company "don't see the best ballet, but rather a ballet company doing its best under the circumstances."

Mrs. Engle Leaves Jets to Husband

She'll Fly Slower, Let Someone Else Do Piloting

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Although Clare Engel, Democratic congressman from California, recently broke the sound barrier flying a jet, his wife is content to take to the air as an ordinary passenger.

"I'd hate to fly that fast," she said. "In fact, I'm going to let someone else do the piloting in any ordinary plane in which I travel, though I flew in 1947 and even soloed."

Mrs. Engel says her husband keeps a four-seater at the Washington-Virginia Airport in the hope of being able to fly to nearby beaches during summer weekends.

She has doubts, however, that the congressman will be able to get away for such recreational junkets while Congress is in session, though they will be flying their craft to Daytona Beach, Fla., with the congressional baseball team late this month.

The congressman's wife soloed in a two-seater while learning to fly back in California.

WON'T PRESS LUCK

"After that," she said, "I thought I was lucky to get down all in one piece. I wasn't going to press my luck. I haven't flown a plane since."

Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church (R-Ill) was receiving compliments on her new spring bonnet — shaped like a full-blown red rose of silken petals and green leaves — at a recent Sunday afternoon reception.

"I love hats, and it's a great hardship not being able to wear them on the floor of the House," the congresswoman told me, "so I have to break out with them on weekends. Do you think this one can get me re-elected?"

Intellectuals in the capital have withdrawn their select company from the cocktail circuit temporarily to sit in cool contemplation of the literary reminiscences of Sir Osbert and Dame Edith Sitwell, England's brother-sister egg-head team.

FETED AT SOIREES

"The Golden Age of English Culture from 1919 to 1939" was the subject of one soiree given for their Washington admirers under the sponsorship of the Institute of Contemporary Arts.

Another was called "Facade," with poems by Dame Edith, set to music by Sir William Walton, read by the poet behind a mask.

The picturesque Dame Edith was wearing the huge aquamarine rings for which she is famous and an enormous necklace of gold amulets which was a gift from the late Millicent Rogers.

Among the guests attending the annual event were (left to right) Mrs. Dana P. Whitmer, Louis H. Schimmel, president of the Board of Education, and Mrs. Glenn Griffin.

Experiment to Avoid Regaining Weight

Complete Diet, Then Add Calories

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Friday Question Box)

As those of you who have been reading this column for the past five days know, I am offering you my 9-Day Reducing Diet. Today I want to use my question box to answer some of the questions women ask about this diet.

Q. "How much do women usually lose in nine days if they stay with the diet?"

A. From 5 to 10 pounds, depending on the individual woman. Many factors enter into this, such as metabolism and physical activity.

Q. "Can I start this diet and then repeat it once in a while? I have an awful lot of weight to lose."

A. Yes. Start with it and then add three or four hundred calories daily. Once in a while repeat.

Q. "I have only 12 pounds to lose. I will follow the 9-day diet until I have lost those. Then how many calories should I have daily in order not to gain again?"

A. The best way is to experiment. Your ideal weight depends on so many factors. Add 500 calories daily and watch the scales. If you continue to lose, add another 200. If you gain cut back again.

Egg Mixture Cooked as Salad Base

Mrs. McMillon Varies Kind of Fruit Added to Recipe

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

This rich fruit salad can double as a dessert. The first part of it is cooked, the other part chilled. You can vary the flavor by changing the fruit you use, or omitting the nuts.

Mrs. Henry McMillon is today's cook. She has three children ranging from one year to fourteen. They keep her so busy that her main interest most of the time, she says, is getting enough sleep. She does like to crochet.

RICH FRUIT SALAD
By Mrs. Henry McMillon

2 eggs
3 tablespoons vinegar
4 tablespoons sugar
¼ pound butter or margarine

Cook first three ingredients until thick, stirring constantly. Add butter or margarine. Let cool.

Drain a number 2 can of fruit cocktail and a number 2 can of sliced or chunk pineapple. Add to first mixture when cooled. Add also a 3-ounce jar maraschino cherries, drained; 3 sliced bananas; half a cup of marshmallows and half a cup of nuts.

Whip one-half pint cream, add two tablespoons sugar and one teaspoon vanilla. Fold into first mixture. Chill in a bowl for 24 hours. Serves 10-12.

Over-Devotion to Children Can Mean Failure as Wife

By RUTH MILLET

Can a woman be too devoted a mother to be a devoted wife?

She can and she is if—

She refuses to leave the children, even for a weekend, to go on a brief holiday with her husband.

She is so busy waiting on the children hand and foot and doing things for them she should have taught them to do for themselves that she greets her husband every evening with complaints how tired she is.

She neglects her own wardrobe in order to buy the children more clothes than they need and, therefore, never has "a thing to wear" when her husband wants to take her some place.

She is so sure that she knows what is best for the children that she pays little or no attention to her husband's ideas on how they should be brought up.

HANGS ON WORDS

She is a much more attentive listener when her children are telling her about their problems than when her husband is trying to talk to her about his.

When her husband wants the children to be responsible for certain chores and yard jobs, she pleads that they are only "young once"— so her husband has to do, after a hard day's work, the jobs the children are old enough to be doing themselves.

She is so determined that her children will have "every advantage" that she doesn't seem to car how hard her husband has to work in order to provide them with all those so-called advantages.

She insists that the children go everywhere she and her husband go because she "worries so" if she is away from them.

Talk of Capital Spending Cutbacks Fades

American Businessmen Now Expecting Steadily Expanding Economy in Future

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—American business is betting on a steadily expanding economy in the next four years — ignoring any short-term bobbles along the way.

The bets already planned total 35 to 40 billion dollars a year — and are expected to go higher.

Talk of cutbacks in capital spending is petering out. Industry now expects to spend 12 per cent more this year than last for new plants and equipment.

Business plans to spend sharply more on research and new products. And there is a shift in emphasis from building more plants to spending more for modernization.

Covering companies hiring over 40 per cent of all industrial employes in the nation, this survey puts this year's spending plans at almost 41 billion dollars. This would be 3½ billion dollars higher than spending plans tabulated in a survey in January and February by the Department of Commerce and the Securities and Exchange Commission, which held spending would be up 6½ per cent over 1956.

The McGraw-Hill survey went further than the government one and looked into preliminary plans for 1958, 1959 and 1960. Already business is earmarking about as much for each of these three years as it spent in 1956, which the survey puts at 36½ billion (also a higher figure than the government's). The private economists predict that these future plans will be further expanded as the years roll around.

Increased stress on research and new products in this highly competitive era shows up in business plans to boost research spending 20 per cent this year and to continue stepping it up through 1960. By that time manufacturers expect at least 10 per cent of their total sales to be in products not being made in 1956.

One third of the reporting manufacturers plan capital expenditures this year to bring out new products.

While slightly more than half of manufacturers' capital spending this year will be on plant expansion, this will be cut to 47 per cent in the next three years. The longer range plans stress modernization, research and new products. Research and development will take nearly nine billion dollars of manufacturers money in 1960.

The manufacturing firms expect an over-all gain of 6 per cent this year in unit volume of sales. By 1960 the average gain expected is 26 per cent. Heavy machinery, electrical machinery and transportation equipment firms expect to beat this average—up 11 to 13 per cent this year, and up 30 to 36 per cent by 1960.

'Pears Like Shooting Stars Are Still in Infant Stage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Evidence that meteorites or "shooting stars" are about 300 million years old rather than the four billion heretofore believed was offered today by a University of Maryland physicist.

Dr. S. Fred Singer, in a report voiced the theory that meteorites are fragments of small planets which once existed between Mars and Jupiter in the solar system but which in some way were destroyed.

Singer said some theories have held that meteorites were formed at the same time as the planets of the solar system some four billion years ago.

The new concept—based on research at the University of Maryland, the University of Chicago and Oxford University in England —is based on calculation of the effects of cosmic ray bombardment in space on six meteorites among those that have reached the earth.

Singer said cosmic rays, acting on material in the meteorites, such as iron, cause the production of an isotope of helium, called helium-3 which is readily measurable.

Since the annual rate of helium-3 production in meteorite material is known, he said, the age of the meteorites could be calculated by measuring the total content and dividing that figure by the annual production rate.

Singer theorized that before the break-up of the tiny planets, the material inside them would have been shielded from cosmic rays. Thus, he said, the birthday of meteorites dates from the time the planetoids broke up, exposing their inner material to the cosmic rays.

Record Altitude Bail-Out Slated

Air Force Tries to Break Mark of 45,200 Feet; Use Dummy in Preview

BALTIMORE (AP)—A preview of the Air Force's next high-altitude bailout attempt will be staged next week at New Brighton, Minn., with a balloon flight to 92,000 feet.

But instead of men, the gondola will carry a manikin whose joints are made to simulate the joints of the human skeleton.

If next week's test is successful, the gondola will be manned for actual bailout experiments this summer at the Air Research and Development Command's Alamagordo, N. M., development center. The current bailout altitude record is 45,200 feet.

For the unmanned test, a giant plastic balloon will raise the gondola to the test altitude —more than 16 miles up.

At 92,000 feet, the balloon will be cut loose and a 14-foot stabilization chute will open on the gondola. This will not slow its descent to any appreciable extent at that high altitude and the gondola will free fall together to 20,000 feet. At that altitude, the strapped-down passenger will cut loose the small chute and a 64-foot cargo parachute will open on the gondola. Since the dummy can't do it, these two actions will be performed automatically by present mechanisms in next week's tests.

After the New Brighton test flight, the gondola will be transported to the Wright Air Development Center, Dayton, Ohio, where four volunteers for the summer tests will simulate the ascent and subsequent descent in an altitude chamber. They will try for a maximum altitude of 92,000 feet.

Russians Distrust Own News Sources

BLOOMSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Russians distrust their own news sources, are endlessly curious to know more about the U.S.A. and are beginning to think for themselves, Robert B. Button, director of the Voice of America, said.

Button, speaking before the Pennsylvania Broadcasters' Assn. said he sometimes thinks "even the Russians are bored with all that contrived ideology." He said there is a vast and eager audience of ordinary Russians, who are smart enough to realize that a basic difference between our system and theirs is simply the difference between truth and party convenience.

'Boatel' for 56 Sailors

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Ground wil be broken here next week for a 56-unit "boate" for weary sailors.

Duke Marcus Biondy, operator of a shopping center, said his corporation will build the "boatel" next to Main Thoroughfare, a channel running between Atlantic City and the mainland.

Channel running between Atlantic

Biondy said the "boatel" will have dock space for visiting boatmen.

Who Could Succeed Mao, 63, Steel-Fisted Ruler of Red China?

By MARVIN STONE
INS Far Eastern Director

TOKYO (INS)—Who will succeed aging Mao Tse-Tung as ruler of Communist China?

Will it be that smooth, dissembling diplomat, Chou En-Lai? The gaunt and humorless theoretician, Liu Shao-chi? Or possibly a dark-horse still relatively unknown outside Peiping?

The question baffles the West. And as greater numbers of foreigners return with first hand reports from the mainland, the fact emerges that the Chinese themselves are baffled.

A hard core of roughly half a dozen clever men help Mao run the world's most populous country. But from all appearances no heir-apparent has been chosen and none likely will be.

KNOWS THE TRICKS

For old revolutionary Mao, while he now is sedate party chairman Mao, still operates the way he did when he ran the Communist movement hidden in the hills. He believes the best way for a chief to stay chief is to play one strong brave off against another.

In Communism, where the mortality rate among chiefs is high, Mao has done well. There is no question but that, at 63, he reigns supreme—manipulating top aides at his pleasure.

Who are these six powerful assistants and what are their chances of succession? To provide the answers, International News Service polled several leading experts on China.

Premier and Foreign Minister Chou En-lai, at 58, is generally conceded to be the front runner if he outlives 70-year-old "compromise" candidate General Chu Teh.

Chou is best known as Red China's spokesman on foreign policy, but recently he has started paying more attention to internal administration, building up his own clique among the top six, mending fences among party politicians. He is ambitious and is said to want Mao's job, but not until Mao is gone.

RIVAL FOR CHOU

Liu Shao-chi, is considered by some to be Chou's closest rival. He is chairman of the all-powerful Standing Committee of the National People's Congress, Red China's lawgiving body.

Liu was a staunch Stalinist, for decades the brains of the whole movement in China. Russian-trained, quiet, he is sometimes called Red China's "Calvin Coolidge."

There are reports that Liu was downgraded as Mao's right-hand theorist following Stalin's death and particularly since Soviet aggression in Hungary.

Most experts, however, believe Liu still is powerful and conceivably could replace Mao. This would take the bitterest kind of showdown inter-party fight with Chou.

Ten Hsiao-ping is virtually unknown to the West but he is considered an up-and-coming party leader. One theory is that he actually is replacing Liu as boss of the ideological and political life of the party.

Teng is secretary general of the Central Committee of the party and as such unquestionably wields considerable influence. He took over the job as a result of the anti-Stalin movement and undoubtedly is on his way up.

Chu Teh, often listed as number two man, sometimes is not listed at all. This is because Chu, once commander of the Communist armies against Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, is now at least 70 years old.

He is the senior vice chairman of the country, often is called the strongest contender to Mao's title if he lives long enough. If he does succeed, however, it would be more to the title than to actual power, for under him both Chou and Liu would continue to jockey for the real strenth.

CLOSE FRIENDS

Chu Teh and Chou En-lai are close friends. It is entirely possible that Chou would welcome Chu Teh as Mao's successor if the understanding were reached that Chou would take over next.

Next in line is Chen Yun, also little known outside China but now a powerful figure in the nation's economic planning boss, successor to the Lao Kao Kang of Manchuria. He is another Chou supporter.

Rounding out the list is Marshal Peng Teh-huai, defense minister and the man who commanded Red Chinese troops in Korea. If the army ever takes over the regime, Peng will be top dog.

Destroy Leaf Eaters Early

Cankerworms Are Said to Be Among Worst Tree Strippers

One of the earliest of the leaf eaters is the cankerworm, which is the larva of a small moth. He is about one inch long, and his looping crawl easily identifies him.

The cankerworm is among the the worst of the tree strippers. Bad infestations can defoliate entire trees. Busy munchers start chewing the scenery as soon as leaves unfold.

Infestations run in about seven-year cycles, being troublesome for about two or three years. There is no way of accurately gauging these cycles, for they may vary within a reasonably small area. If the pest was active last Spring, you can be virtually certain it will be back in force this year. Fortunately, the cankerworm will bite the dust with light doses of DDT or stomach poisons.

Because this greenery destroyer is widely distributed and has an appetite for almost any kind of leaves — elms, oaks, birch, linden, maples, and almost any fruit tree — he should be dealt with without delay. The same spray that curbs cankerworm depredations also will do the same for the tent caterpillar, another early leaf-eradicator.

Show Ground Cover

The Hypericum with its characteristic daffodil-like flowers is being increasingly grown as a ground cover, says the American Association of Nurserymen. It is one of the most widely grown species of plant, being scattered over the whole world.

The landscaping and planting of cemeteries largely has come about from a desire to have burials at a distance from centers of population, among beautiful surroundings.

8 Million Acres in Lake States Need Planting

Michigan Marking Arbor Day Today

FILER CITY (Special) — The founder of Arbor Day—the spring day dedicated to tree planting activities—would be mightily impressed by the tremendous job being done by modern tree plantrs. Arbor Day in Michigan is today.

More than eight trees were planted in Michigan during 1956 for every man, woman, and child in the state, while the nation's total comes to above five tees per person, according to Rowland Blair of Filer City, chairman of the Michigan Tree Farm Committee. Forest industries sponsor the Tree Farm program in 44 states to encourage good forest management.

Some 52,961 acres were planted to trees in the Wolverine State in 1956, according to latest figures from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Over 37000 acres —more than 70 per cent of the total—were privately owned land, held by forest industries, power and mining companies, and individuals, clubs, and associations.

Arbor Day was first celebrated 85 years ago on April 10, 1872, when Julius Morton, Nebraska agricultural commissioner, proclaimed that date be set aside for tree planting in his sparsely timbered state. Since that time, the custom has spread to a majority of states.

"Tree planting returns to productivity land that through repeated forest fires or agricultural misuse has not grown up in natural forest cover," the industry forester said.

"However, under modern forest management, it is seldom necessary to plant trees where trees are harvested. Such areas re-stock naturally, and usually far more quickly, than if planted by man."

More than 8 million acres in the Lake States are still in need of planting, according to the report. This is the largest area in need of planting for any region in the north and north-central states. The job to be done in the southeastern states is the nation's largest, however, with more than 14 million acres in need of planting.

Healthy Trees Are Big Assets to Home Owners

Though many home owners may not realize it, they have thousands of dollars tied up in trees on their property, according to the National Arborist Association, since the home with healthy trees may bring 20 per cent or more in the real estate markets than one without them.

Trees can be a liability, however, if dead and dangling limbs and diseased foliage are prominent.

Only healthy trees are real assets, with many single trees carrying values of $1,000 or more. So beyond providing welcome shade in warm weather, as well as beautiful flowers and palatable fruits from certain species, trees have a practical monetary value and should be properly cared for.

All shade trees at sometime or other need pruning. (2) spraying for insects and diseases, and (3) fertilization. A thorough inspection by a local arborist or tree expert is the only answer to whether or not the shade trees on a property require specific and timely attention.

Plans Greenhouses Built of Plastic

William Bolthouse, much crops farmer with acreage at Cedar Springs, Grant and Edmore, plans to have two plastic greenhouses—each about 400 feet long — in operation soon at Cedar Springs.

Bolthouse explains they will be used for growing celery transplants this spring and contemplates bibb lettuce as an off-season crop.

Thicken Thin Spots in Your Lawn Now

EAST LANSING (INS) — Carter Harrison of Michigan State University farm crops department reminds homeowners that spring is the time for thickening the lawn around the house.

Harrison says spreading a good quality seed over the lawn in early spring will help fill out thin or bare spots.

He adds it will also serve to thicken the turf of an established lawn.

Doctor Sees Less Cancer in Gardeners

An Australian doctor thinks there may be less cancer among gardeners. Dr. Eric Goulston, Sydney, says:

"I have noticed over the years that there seems to be a greater host-resistance against cancer in patients who are suffering from this disease and who delve in the garden, than is the case with complete non-gardeners. This may be due to some anti-carcigenic agent invested from soils or from plants. We are trying to investigate this problem biochemically but we haven't gotten very far. At present it is only a clinical impression."

Origin of Iris Told by Expert

The name Iris comes from the Greek, meaning rainbow, and refers to about 170 species of the plant inhabiting Asia, Europe and North America, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

Show Needed Elements

The elements needed for tree growth, according to the National Arborist Association are: Oxygen, hydrogen, carbon and nitrogen, from the air; potassium, phosphorous, and calcium from the soil. Other minerals also needed in minute quantities are magnesium, sulfur, iron, manganese, copper, zinc, boron, or molybdenum.

Guy Wires Aid Greens During Gales, Storms

By International News Service

A Michigan State University landscape architect says guy wires can keep gales from damaging trees and tall, tender shrubs.

Even in mild storms, gusts are often strong enough to twist or break large, newly set trees. Joseph Cox, specialist in landscape work, warns homeowners that such winds can be very destructive.

Cox suggests attaching a medium sized galvanized wire well up on the mid-section of the plant. A section of garden-hose may be threaded into the wire loop to prevent bark injury.

Then, he continues, anchor the end of the wire to a long metal stake driven in below the soil frost line tilting the stake in toward the plant's base at about a 45 degree angle.

To guard against shifting winds put in at least three guy wires around the tree or plant.

An Interesting Fact for Tropical Areas

Gardeners in the semi-tropical areas of the U. S., may be surprised to learn that the tasty avocado, or alligator pear contains oil which, in its pure state, can be used for illuminating purposes.

The seeds yield an indelible black stain that can be used for marking linen, according to the American Asociation of Nurserymen.

Spring Bedding Plants Discussed by Expert

By WAYNE B. SIEFERT
County Agricultural Agent

Spring has a way of creeping into the hearts of young and old alike, stirring within each a desire to be a part of the wonders of spring. Some may find this love fashioned in the form of a woods-lined stream, or a sodded fairway or a sandy beach. But many of us will find our own flowers delightful to behodr and to grow.

If your flower beds haven't been quite the success you would like, perhaps these hints will help you make this an outstanding year.

With regards to soil preparation, farmers have long known of the miracles of manure, but in the last analysis its ability to add organic matter is its outstanding virtue.

Most gardeners now have peat at their disposal, a partially rotted plant material which can perform the same miracle. Spread to a thickness of not more than one-half inch before plowing or spading, it reduces soil packing and crusting, improves drainage, yet has great ability to hold moisture and fertilizer. Leaves, sawdust, mill rotted manure and even brewers grain have these same properties.

No gardener, however, can hope for best success unless generous amounts of fertilizer are also supplied. Where the garden is of heavy soil, broadcasting 35-40 pounds of 4-16-16 or 5-20-20 per 1,000 square feet before spading or plowing is sufficient. For sandy locations, applying 15 pounds before spading and 15 pounds after spading is a better program.

Spading or plowing just before planting prevents early weeds from becoming established before you are ready to plant. Where bulb beds are to become summer flower beds, one has no choice but to spread the fertilizer over the surface or allow rain to wash the minerals into the soil.

Many feel they are the closest to nature when they can personally plant the flower seed, but unless they have hot bed plantings (or indoor garden boxes) they will miss about four weeks of the beauty which these plants can offer. Most bedding plants require 4-8 weeks from seed to flower. Every gardener who treasures these early blooms is well rewarded by purchasing well developed transplants and completing their annuals bed on May 10. (Frosts rarely occur in Oakland County after May 10).

Often the question of economics rears its ugly head. The writer is convinced many gardeners purchase and plant entirely too many plants for the space they have available. This may result in achieving a mass-effect a little earlier, but it often doesn't permit each plant to achieve its maximum beauty. And better spacing makes the gardening dollar go much farther, too.

For margins and border plantings, many have found the white or violet alyssum a hardy and persistant plant. Spaced 6 inches apart it attains a heighth of 6 inches with continuous flower creating an attractive carpet effect.

Ageratum, a blue flowering plant, spaced 8 inches in the row produces continuous bloom and attractive plants also. Occassionally seed variation results in occasional plants being very tall or dwarf, so discard any plants with unusual characteristics.

French marigolds are extremely fruitful, though very frost sensitive. Spaced 10 inches apart they are very aggressive and uniform. They come as pure colors or variations of red, bronze and yellow.

A plant seldom used, and ofter rather expensive, Althernanthera is treasured for its very attractive foliage. The flowers are small and inconspicious but the foliage is dense and colorful. These plants may be sheared and are very uniform. The dominant foliage colors are red and light green. Spaced 9 inches apart they produce a continuous carpet effect.

Where solid bed effect is sought after, the above mentioned alyssum or french marigolds are also very effective. A very old, and reliable plant is still the petunia. In recent years, new hybrids have revolutionized the petunias. Many of these new varieties have better color, better growth habit, more flowers and disease resistance. They are still among the best for bedding or porch boxes. Where early plantings are the case, spacing should be no closer than 18 inches. Where straggly plants develop, frequent but light pruning out of these long flowerless branches will force new shoots and create a more attractive bed.

Verbena, a spreading plant very similar to a petunia, is an extremely attractive plant, and easily grown. They are often sold as mixed colors. The flower is a flattened circular cluster of florets often 2 inches in diameter. A dense, vigorous growing annual often overlooked by the gardener in search of a useful and attractive plant. Planted 12-15 inches apart they reach a height of 10-15 inches.

Many use snapdragons as a mass planting plant, but the writer has observed few situations where they have proven worthwhile. In a cut flower planting they are very valuable, but not in a bed.

Such plants as geraniums, beigonias, coleus, lantana, etc. may also be used effectively, but when these plants are involved, the cost is often limiting. With each of these, a minimum spacing of 16 inches is necessary. Coleus may also be used at the same spacing, but are often found more useful in porch boxes and vase plantings.

When tall background plants are desired, salvia is often employed. It is a late flowering plant, but extremely effective in the late summer. Varieties range from 12-30 inches. Tall varieties should be spaced 18 inches or better.

Zinnias are another aggressive and fruitful plant. Large varieties are often 30 inches high, with dwarfs 6-15 inches. Again spacing of large varieties should be at least 18 inches with dwarfs 9-12 inches.

A plant increasing in popularity is the cleome (spider plant). A plant reaching 48 inches high, it has long spikes of flowers producing a spider like effect. Though poor as a cut flower, the spike produces pink flowers for several weeks and creates a striking background plant or companion for a low fence.

There are many other annuals which are also very effective for border, bedding, background and cut.

Often a flower bed seems to lose some of its freshness and beauty by mid-summer. Sometimes this is due to loss of interest and appreciation. Sometimes drought assists in creating faded, wilted, small flowered plants, but often it is the need for additional fertilizer.

A mid-June application of Ammonium Sulfate (20 per cent nitrogen) at two pounds per 1,000 square feet placed in a row 2-4 inches from the plants often creates an amazing "second wind" which carries the plants through the remainder of the season in good vigor and continued beauty.

For those who have only a shaded area available, few of the above mentioned plants will thrive. Tuberous begonias usually are very rewarding, especially if well watered. Coleus thrive, as well as pansies, caladiums, and impatiens. These are but a few which can be used.

New Tree-Grafting Method to Be Shown

A new method of orchard grafting called "frameworking" will be demonstrated to the public at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Karl D. Bailey, district horticultural agent, and Wayne Siefert, assistant county agricultural agent, will show how an obsolete variety of apple tree can be changed to bear new varieties of fruit.

The demonstration will be held at the orchard of Dean Shreeves, on Dequindre Road, one half mile south of M-59.

In two hours, the experts will convert an apple tree with some 150 grafts. The new system results in a few apples the next year, a moderate quantity the second year and full bearing on the third year, according to Bailey.

Give Good Views From Inside Home

CHICAGO (INS)—In planning to landscape your house, don't forget to give yourself a view, too.

June Cabot, home consultant for a manufacturer of glass and mirrors, advised:

"A room can be made more livable if it looks out on a pleasant scene. It is good practice to plan landscaping from the inside of the house, rather than total emphasis on how shrubs and plants look from the street."

Create Desert Scene With Your Plants

Use such dimestore plants as plaid cactus, moonstones, autograph cactus, silver torch, sedum, etc. A glass or tin roasting dish makes a good base. These plants need sun, air, soil that is two parts sand and one part garden loam, and a little water.

Use of tropical plants for indoor decoration of homes has expanded at a phenomenal rate, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

Tiger Front Office in Merry-Go-Round

Chairman of Board Is Unhappy Over Airings of Problems

DETROIT (AP)—The chairman of the Detroit Tigers board of directors is worried that front office squabbling may be affecting the team's performances on the field.

At the moment it appears as much of a problem to keep peace in the office family as it is for the last-place Tigers to win baseball games. They have won only two of eight contests.

John E. Fetzer, chairman of the board and generally regarded as the "strong man" in the new Tiger organization, said the club's troubles and the public airings they've been given "certainly can't be helping and probably is hurting the team."

Depending on what Detroit newspaper you read and what club official you talk with, there is considerable confusion about the exact nature of the front office troubles, how they began and how they will end.

The troubles, if there are any, involve Walter O. (Spike) Briggs and the 11 new owners of the club who purchased control of the Tigers from the Briggs family last summer. Briggs, who had been president, now is general manager.

The front office merry-go-round began several weeks ago when Herold (Muddy) Ruel announced he would begin a year's "leave of absence" at the end of May. The 61-year-old Ruel, who had been general manager before the club changed hands, is "assistant to the president" in the new setup. The job is a hazy one and Ruel has made it clear he isn't happy "doing nothing."

A few days later Fred Knorr resigned after less than seven months as the Tigers' president. He said it was because of the press of his radio and television business. His resignation came after the club had lost its third straight game at the opening of the season.

Briggs advised against making the announcement at a time when the club was doing poorly. But it was made anyway and the directors unanimously elected another of the new owners, Harvey Hansen, as the new president.

There were other quotes indicating major troubles in the third floor offices at Briggs Stadium.

Briggs was quoted as saying he was ready to "walk out."

Briggs immediately went into a huddle when Hansen when these reports appeared and told him the whole story was "a bunch of ridiculous nonsense."

The general manager said "it looks like a couple of these sports writers are trying to pressure me out. I made a verbal contract with the new owners and I'll stick around as along as they want me. You kind of get used to guys taking socks at you after awhile."

Fetzer said no authority has been taken away from Briggs, that he still has the final say-so on all player deals except those involving front line players—"then it should be cleared first with the board of directors."

.....And So Is Tiger Lineup

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Detroit Tigers so far are cooperating almost 100 per cent in making new manager Jack Tighe look bad.

Tighe has been trying more moves than a belly dancer in his efforts to shake the club from its basement blues. But the losses continue to pile up.

The latest defeat came yesterday in Chicago, 9-4, That made the Tigers 2-6 for the young season and a solid last in the American League.

Tighe junked plans to pitch Frank Lary and gave Billy Hoeft another starting chance after some fine relief work. Hoeft lasted just seven outs.

Frank House, usually benched against left handed pitchers, was given the catching assignment although southpaw Jack Harshman was on the mound for Chicago. House was an easy out in the second inning with one man on base, singled during a Tiger flurry in the fourth, popped up ending the fifth inning with bases loaded; was out again in the seventh with a runner on and flied out to end the game, leaving another runner stranded.

J. W. Porter, given the nod in left field over Jimmy Small for defensive reasons, dropped the first ball he touched and it went for a two base error. Porter, however, redeemed himself by lashing three hits, two of them doubles.

But two of the biggest reasons for the Tigers' flop continued to be Harvey Kuenn and Al Kaline. Between them they left five runners stranded, exactly enough to have tied the final score. Four of these five men had advanced as far as second base.

In the fourth Kuenn squelched a Detroit rally by grounding out with men on second and third, ending the inning. Kaline hit into a force play to end the third inning and grounded out with runners on second and third to bring the sixth to a close.

Kuenn was hitless in five trips, running his string of failures to 13 straight. Kalline managed a double when he led off the ninth. Kuenn is hitting .171; Kaline .200. Kaline has driven in two runs all year, Kuenn exactly none.

With performances like that even Houdini wouldn't look good in the manager's role.

Tonight the Tigers play their first night game, meeting Cleveland in the first of a four game series. Lary is due to face Mike Garcia, who so far is 0-0.

AP Wirephoto

HAVING ROUGH TIME — The American League's two rookie managers who meet for the second series of the season in Cleveland tonight were having a rough time of it so far. Kerby Farrell (left) however is better off than Jack Tighe (right). The Indians are in 5th place while the Tigers are at the bottom. Detroit won its two lone games against the Indians this year.

AP Wirephoto

GIVING THE SIGN — Umpire Jim Honochick was emphatic about his call when Cletis Boyer of Kansas City attempted to steal second against Cleveland yesterday. The Indians won, 5-3, as George Strickland made the putout.

Tentative 1958 Dates Listed for Bowlerama

Tentative dates calling for bowling on the weekends of Feb. 8 and 15 were set today for a bigger and better Pontiac Press Bowlerama in 1958.

Tournament officials have expressed hopes of doubling this year's entry list of 494, 108 of which were women. The singles handicap event will again be opened to all residents of Oakland County who are sanctioned with ABC or WIBC.

A total of $1,635 in prize money and eight trophies were awarded to the top finishers and leading qualifiers following the completion of the 1st such tourney last week.

Many additional cash prizes and numerous merchandise awards are expected to be added in order to give participants something more to shoot at.

The bowling dates will be two months ahead of this year's in order to avoid conflict with any other major events being held in this area. The change is expected to give a great deal more people an opportunity to make plans to compete.

Some changes in tournament rules are contemplated for the Press' 2nd annual battle for both men and women. These will be made to overcome any weak points encountered in operating the three weekend sessions in this experimental start.

No tournament sites have been decided upon for next year. These will be announced as soon as a decision is made.

In shooting for 1000 or more entries in 1958, tourney officials hope to at least triple the number of women keglers taking part and to bring in a lot of southern county residents who failed to join for the 1st tourney. The majority of competitors this year were from Pontiac and surrounding areas.

Many new features are expected to be added to the tournament program to rank it among the most outstanding in this sector.

Fight in Flint Ends in Draw

FLINT (AP)—It's not as sweet as victory but young Joe Gray of Dearborn awoke this morning with the pleasant knowledge that he is one of the middleweights the veteran Ralph (Tiger) Jones couldn't beat.

Gray battled Jones, of Yonkers, N. Y., to a 10-round draw here last night before about 3,000 fans.

There were no knockdowns.

Referee Billy Moore scored the fight even at 45-45 and the two judges split. Sid Secor picked Jones 50-43 and Ed Wagonlander took Gray 47-43. The bout was scored on a "five-must" system.

Gray, 24, went into the fight with 17 victories in 18 professional bouts. Jones had won 44 of 64 professional fights.

George Green, Detroit, outpointed Leo Desjardin, Windsor, Ont.
Chet Wiley, Detroit, stopped Charley Allen, Saginaw, Mich., fourth round.
Jimmy Wright, Saginaw, outpointed Bill Cleamons, Detroit.
Osee Groom, Detroit, outpointed Leroy Duez, Detroit.

Hockey Coach at 'M' Said Reconsidering

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Vic Heyliger, who two weeks ago announced his resignation after 13 years as Michigan hockey coach, is seriously thinking of changing his mind, it was learned today.

A close friend of Heyliger said reports that he may stay on as hockey coach are "partially true."

"He is seriously considering remaining here," the friend said.

Heyliger resigned April 10 to enter the restaurant business in Colorado Springs, Colo. He had coached Michigan to six NCAA hockey championships in the last 10 years.

His friend said, "The Colorado deal isn't closed yet."

Find Horse Was Drugged

Stewards took the action after they said laboratory examinations showed the presence of methamphetamine in the urine of the 3-year-old filly, Drifting Abbey, a winner Tuesday.

Drifting Abbey was a public stable charge of Cornell. The 35-year-old trainer denied any knowledge of the stimulation.

"I don't know what to think," he said. "I know I didn't do it. I make between $70,000 and $80,000 a year and have never made a bet on a horse in my life."

Cornell said he employs between 40 and 50 men in his barn. He is in charge of training 40 horses here and more than 70 in all. He saddled 119 winners last year and for the 1955-56 season was leading trainer at Santa Anita.

As a result of the chemist's report that methamphetamine was present, the $1,200 purse won by Drifting Abbey was declared forfeit. Winner's share now goes to the place horse, Borned Right. The ruling doesn't effect the parimutuel payoffs in which Drifting Abbey returned $11.10.

Cornell has been conditioning horses for 15 years and declared, "I have never been summoned before the stewards before."

The case was turned over to the California horse racing board for final action.

Methamphetamine is medically described as a powerful stimulant which increases the will to exert.

Drifting Abbey, making the first start of her career, is owned by Tom Ross of Piedmont, Calif., and Phil Klipstein of Bakersfield and San Francisco.

After his suspension, Cornell told reporters, "it's one of those things you just can't explain, except I know I didn't do it nor do I know anything about it."

One Stroke Behind Leader

Fleck Fires 69-68

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Bill Casper Jr., a roly-poly, likeable Californian, was tagged today as an up and coming campaigner among golf's touring professionals.

Having definitely recovered from a mild slump that beset him after winning the recent Phoenix open, Casper was called the man to beat in the Kentucky Derby open.

This was so even though he held a slim one-stroke lead over Australian Peter Thomson and Jack Fleck of Rochester, Mich., a couple of proven stalwarts.

The consensus among the competitors was that the 25-year-old Casper has all the shots necessary to solve Seneca course's exacting 6,575 yards of hills and hollows.

Proof that he is once again on his game came yesterday when he fired his second straight 68 to go into today's third round six under par.

Both Thomson and Fleck added 68s to opening round 69s to trail with 137s. Only six of the 116 entries were under par.

Casper called yesterday's round one of the best of his career from the standpoint of making each shot count. He hit all greens in regulation strokes but his round was marred by one three-putt green.

He displayed a swollen elbow and said he had aggravated an old injury while overswinging in the rough. He has been a top winner despite a withered left arm. His crowning accomplishment was in winning the 1954 National Open.

Denver Adds Softballer

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Don't look now, folks, but the Denver Bears of the Class AAA American Assn. have signed a softball pitcher.

This is Fesler's second crack at organized baseball. In 1955, he got a tryout with Seattle of the Pacific Coast League. Hurling under-hand from the 46-foot softball distance, he fanned all 11 regulars of the Sacramento and Seattle clubs who faced him.

In the Line of Duty

HALLANDALE, Fla. (AP) — Jockey Chris Rogers is back riding again after being sidelined several weeks with a back injury.

He fell off a bicycle while teaching his son to ride.

House Raises Hunt-Fish Fees

LANSING (AP)—Bills to raise the cost of hunting and fishing licenses moved into the Senate today after winning House approval in the climax of a stiff floor fight.

Amendments would permit Michigan residents who have reached their 65th birthday to fish and hunt without a license.

State conservation officials said these provisions would slash about half a million dollars from the $1,300,000 the bills would have brought in every year under their original form.

An amendment to the fishing bill also would compel Great Lakes anglers to pay $2 for a license, the same as inland fishermen. Under present law there's no charge for fishing in Great Lakes waters.

Revenues from higher license fees would go to the state's game and fish protection fund, but Rep. Frederic J. Marshall (R-Allen), chairman of the House Conservation Committee, said the state wouldn't realize any return on the fishing license increases until next year.

Increased rates on hunting licenses would go into effect this year, he said.

Major share of the new revenue would come from boosts in fees charged to state residents. Chief among these would raise the fishing license charge from $1.50 to $3, the deer hunting license from $3.50 to $5 and the small game fee from $2 to 3.

Some, but not all non-resident fees also would go up.

House members wrote in another amendment which would raise the fee paid to persons who issue licenses from 5 to 15 cents each.

The fishing bill was approved 61-42 and the hunting bill 63-35.

Chief bone of contention in a 45-minute debate yesterday was the provision to license Great Lakes anglers. Rep. Michael Novak (D-Detroit) complained that the plan would penalize "the ordinary fireman with the cane pole" who spends an afternoon fishing from a dock.

Penn Relays Start Today

Most of the opening session of the two day track and field carnival will be devoted to high school lads with the bulk of the college and university championships scheduled for the final two hours tomorrow. In all, it's the biggest Penn Relays in history with 542 colleges and secondary schools entering 3,387 men.

The defending champions, all favored to repeat, are Villanova University's distance medley team; Jim Beatty, North Carolina's Atlantic Coast Conference two mile ace, and Greg Bell, broad jump champion from Indiana University.

Coach Jim (Jumbo) Elliott plans to start Charley Jenkins, Al Peterson, Alex Breckenridge and Ron Delany in an effort to make it two in a row for the Wildcats. and and Michigan figure to provide the chief competition as Villanova seeks to shatter the meet mark it set last year of 9:58.1. The speedy Jenkins, Olympic 400-meter champion, and the route-running Delany, 1,500-meter gold medal winner, make Villanova and overwhelming favorite.

Beatty also looms as a stout favorite as the North Carolina runner attempts to win his third straight Penn Relays two-mile run. Connecticut's Lew Steiglitz, who has gone the distance in around 9:12, could force the Tar Heel to smash his 1956 carnival record of 9:09.9.

Chimps Clinch Ladies Elks Bowling Crown

The Chimps, champions of the Wednesday division of the Ladies Elks Bowling League, clinched the overall women's Elks title Wednesday night by defeating the Monday leaders in a 3-game rolloff.

Flint Bowlers Star in ABC

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Scoring in the minor events picked up yesterday in the American Bowling Congress tournament, as the leaders in both the individual and team events went unchallenged.

John Bazzanella of San Francisco, Calif., posted an all-events total of 1,916, only 11 pins shy of 10th place in the all-events standings.

He rolled a 619 series in the team event Wednesday, added a 629 in the doubles and 668 in the singles. It was the 13th time in the current tourney that a score of 1,900 or better has been recorded.

Henry Boschek and Carl Zahn of Milwaukee collaborated for a two-man score of 1,290, five pins short of 10th in the doubles standings. Zahn had a 653 series and Boschek bowled a 637.

The Blatz Beer team of Flint, Mich., shot the best score in last night's open team competition. Bill Gerlach supplied a 627 series in leading the Michigan team to a hefty 2,885 series.

White Sox Hustle Way to Top of AL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Are the Chicago White Sox just off on their usual spring sprint, or has new Manager Al Lopez got the hustling to go the distance?

Either way, nice-guy Lopez—only manager who did not concede the American League pennant to the New York Yankees in spring training—has the White Sox off and flying with a 6-1 record and a half-game edge over the Yankees for first place.

To do it, Lopez has mixed speed ("fastest team I've seen in my 14 years as a manager," says Kansas City boss Lou Boudreau), great defense, youth and so-far successful position shifts to win both the neat, close ones and the messy slugfests.

The Sox padded their slim lead with a 9-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers yesterday in a three-hour tussle that had 29 hits, 11 doubles and 25 stranded base runners. The Yankees were idle.

In the other AL games, Boston's Ted Williams—off to an unusually fast start—banged a two-run double and two singles for a 3-for-3 day for a .455 batting average, as the Red Sox bagged Washington 12-7; and the Cleveland Indians unfrocked the Kansas City A's, who had won three in a row, 5-3.

Only one National League game was played with the Cincinnati Redlegs pairing six hits with four errors to defeat Chicago's Cubs 6-3 for their fourth consecutive victory and a .500 percentage. Brooklyn and the New York Giants were scheduled, but rained out.

Despite 16 hits, six of them doubles, the White Sox had some trouble making the Tigers swallow their third defeat in a row. They finally got the job done with Nelson Fox chipping in two doubles and a single (putting him second in the bat race with .423), Minnie Minoso and Bubba Phillips each driving in a pair of runs and Phillips and Jim Rivera both getting three hits, with a double for each.

Williams, who picked up three walks, was just one of the boys for the Red Sox despite his great day. The Bostons tagged 15 hits off five pitchers as George Susce, making his first 1957 appearance, won it with three-hit relief work over 5 2-3 innings. He came on in the fourth, when Clint Courtney's two-run homer disposed of starter Willard Nixon, and didn't allow a hit until Courtney tripled with two out in the eighth.

The Indians got past the A's with a three-run seventh against Wally Burnette. A two-run double by Vic Wertz did the damage. Gus Zernial's two-run homer chased Early Wynn in the eighth, but Ray Narleski then nailed Wynn's first victory.

Ernie Banks had two of the Chicago errors, which provided three unearned runs for the Redlegs. Don Hoak drove in three Cincy runs, two with a double, as Brooks Lawrence won his first. Dick Drott lost it.

Ray Giver JH Jumper Shoes Off Own Feet

Hudson (Goose) Ray, 6-6 state champion high jumper, all-Saginaw Valley cage star, has just added another title — one, however, that never will get into the record books.

The other day, working with other PHS trackmen at a junior high meet between Lincoln and Washington schools, Ray noticed Charley Kimbrell, Lincoln high jumper was jumping barefoot. Charley had never owned a pair of "spikes."

Kimbrell was having trouble getting over the bar at five feet.

Without a word, the big Chief, a 6-5¾ jumper, slipped off his spiked shoes, handed them to Kimbrell. Charley then went on to win.

Ray refused return of the shoes after the meet, and thereby became more than a champ to Charley. Kimbrell is a 6-4 lad, and has hopes of one day following in Ray's footsteps — the shoes fit perfectly!

Around the Prep Front

By CHUCK ABAIR

Two brilliant pitching performances and another Bloomfield Hills golf victory highlighted yesterday's area sports card which was dwindled considerably by heavy rains. The few events staged were hindered by wet grounds.

Clarkston and Clarenceville made it known they will be strong contenders for Wayne-Oakland diamond honors with easy loop triumphs.

Veteran righthander Dave Gaddis hurled two-hit ball and fanned 17 as the Wolves made up for an opening setback by tripping winless Brighton, 3-0. Clutch hits by Jerry Wilmot and pinch-hitter Doug DeGrow paced the visitors along with the defensive play of catcher Leroy Parks.

Clarenceville's Wellman held Bloomfield Hills hitless losing a shutout on a wild throw in an easy 12-1 victory. He was able to coast to the win after his mates got all 12 markers in the 1st two frames. Baron backstop John Leslie came up with the play of the day when he made an unassisted double play. He caught a popup down the 1st base line and stepped on the bag to double a runner.

The Bloomfield Hills golfers made up for the bad day on the baseball field with their 3rd straight triumph. The final count was 186-207 over West Bloomfield at Edgewood Country Club.

Bud Badger was the medalist with a 37 with teammate Bob Thompson finishing with 45. J. Shaw topped the losers with 47. West Bloomfield is now 1-2.

Northern Oakland County sports followers are excited about Ortonville shot putter Bill Wallerman who has been making a habit of setting a new school record everytime out. His latest was a heave of 43 feet, six inches last Tuesday in a triangular meet against Imlay City and Millington. Ortonville finished 2nd.

National Ski Champion Dies in Auto Wreck

COLBYVILLE, Vt. (AP) — Billy Woods, 18-year-old junior and senior national skiing champion in 1956, was killed early today when his car hurtled off the Stowe-Waterbury Highway.

State police said Woods was alone in the car, apparently on his way back to his home in Waterbury from Stowe.

Woods placed 10th in the American International ski races at Stowe last month. He was the third American across the finish line.

He was selected as a member of the American FIS Alpine team which will compete in the world championships in Austria next winter.

No. 7 for Celtics

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Boston Celtics won their seventh game in 11 starts over the NBA All-Stars last night, 119-113.

Celtic Bill Sharman led scorers with 24 and Bill Russell, working his dunk shot, was next with 22.

Wins Calder Trophy

Regan Named Top Rookie

MONTREAL (AP)—Boston's Larry Regan, 26-year-old center, today was named winner of the Calder Memorial Trophy as the outstanding rookie of the 1957 National Hockey League season. He also will receive $1,000 in cash.

Regan, top scorer among all league rookies with 33 points, drew 107 points out of a possible 180 in balloting conducted among hockey writers and broadcasters in the six NHL cities. Toronto goalie Ed Chadwick, who was the leader in the voting at the halfway point of the season Dec. 31, was second.

To better evaluate performances the writers and broadcasters vote twice annually, first at mid-season and again at the end of the campaign.

Billy Dea, a Detroit forward, was third in the voting, in which points are awarded on a 5-3-1 basis. Other point totals among the league's freshmen were Forbes Kennedy, Chicago, 33; Pierre Pilote, Chicago, 20; Don Simmons, Boston, 19; Elmer Vasko, Chicago, 17; Jack Bionda, Boston, 4; Billy MacNeil, Detroit, and Barry Cullen, Toronto, one, each.

Hyndman Threat in North-South

Insurance Man's Golf Game Shines as Field Dwindles to Four

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — Billy Joe Patton, the crack North Carolina golfer, has long since left the firing line in the 57th North but a prediction he ade a week ago is pointing up his skill as a prophet.

"I'll give you the winner of the North and South," he declared, — "Bill Hyndan. I saw Bill in Florida during the winter and he was playing real well."

With seifinals carded today, Hyndman, 41-year-old Abington, Pa., insurance an had played the best golf of the week as he prepared to eet 33-year-old Bill Capbell of Huntington, W. Va., another insurance man, in one of the 18-hole atches.

The other paired Hillan Robbins, Air Force second lieutenant ist and defending champion, against Dr. Bud Taylor of Poona, Calif.

Dayton Bowlers Second in WIBC

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The Longo's team of Dayton has taken over second place in the championship team division of the Woman's International Bowling Congress Tournament here after rolling 2,650 last night.

Still leading the division are the Olympians of Chicago Heights, Ill. with 2,737. In third place are the Dayton, Ohio Stokers, who shot 2,631 last night, followed by Paddock Pontiac of Dayton, with 2,614.

The division is limited to teams with 750 or higher averages.

3 Baby Rabbits Get Foster Home, Food by Dropper

Three baby cottontail rabbits, found in a field near Madison Junior High School, have found a temporary home and some new kinds of food. The trio are survivors of a nest of five.

"We have these little things in a box," says Mrs. Lunsford (1340 North Perry) "and we're feeding them a mixture of canned milk, water and syrup. They take the food by medicine dropper and appear to be thriving on the diet."

Conservation officers advise good Samaritans, as a rule, to leave the baby wild things alone, as the parent is usually nearby. But in a case like that above, persons caring for little creatures should contact conservation officers regarding proper procedures.

Area Preps Invade Mt. Pleasant

Nearly 100 Listed for CMC Relays

By H. GUY MOATS

More than a half dozen Pontiac area and Oakland County prep track squads, numbering in excess of 100 young athletes Saturday will invade Mt. Pleasant for the 17th Annual high school relays at Central Michigan College.

Leading the small army of jumpers, runners, vaulters, hurdlers and shot putters is the defending champion Pontiac High team. Chiefs will have a full squad, or nearly so. Dean Wilson's team and Flint Northern were expected to engage in a hot title rematch of the recent CMC Invitational, won by Vikings.

Probably the biggest array of athletes from this area will be Al Cuthrell's Waterford squad in Class A. "We're taking a full squad—35 boys," says Cuthrell. "This is something the boys have looked forward to all spring. We'll be in the relay events, and probably most others, too."

Chiefs will have entries in most relays, as well as the individual tests. New sprint medley and half mile relay teams will be listed by PHS, and only Rog Coates and Larry Beamer of the middle-quartet are back. Chiefs won three, tied in another relay last spring. Only Jim Keller of the hard-luck 1956 shuttle hurdle relay is left. He will run again.

Both Coates (miler) and Beamer (880) could do very good at Mt. Pleasant.

Pontiac has held the CMC crown for the last two years.

Pontiac (Dean Wilson, coach)—Hudson Ray, Fred Brooks, Archie Brooks, jumps; Alex Barge, Beamer A. Brooks, Keller, Jim Hawkins, Joe Hill, Dave Payne, John Fhlegm, Tom Conley, relays, hurdles, dashes; Mike Hardiman, shot; Lessie Watkins, Pete Cox, Hastings Martin, Jim Mathis and others to be named today.

Ike Chestnut Gets Verdict Over Salas

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ike Chestnut, 130, New York, won a split decision over Lauro Salas, 129, Monterrey, Mexico, last night in a 10-round fight at Olympic Auditorium. Referee Frankie Van called the bout a draw and the two judges gave Chestnut a narrow edge.

There were no knockdowns in the torrid bout, which found Chustnut scoring with short punches to the head and body and Salas staging furious late-round rallies.

The veteran Mexican fighter landed the hardest blow of the fight when he staggered Chestnut in the seventh. He also had the sixth-ranking featherweight contender bleeding from the nose and mouth.

Referee Frankie Van figured the bout even at 96-96. Judge Jimmy Wilson called it 97-96, and Judge Jack McDonald had it 97-94.

Predicts Shorter Layouts

Golf Courses Obsolete, Claims Gene Sarazen

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene Sarazen said today modern golf courses are "obsolete as a model-T Ford" and predicted the sport some day would be played on tight, crew-cut layouts requiring less than two hours for an 18-hole round.

"The accent today is on speed," the forever-youthful 55-year-old onetime champion from Germantown, N.Y., said. "Everybody's in a hurry. Time is valuable. Land in the metropolitan centers is being gobbled up by real estate developents.

"What's the answer? Shorter, trickier courses 3,500 yards long instead of 7,000 and greater emphasis on brain work than on hitting power. It has to come."

A. Sarazen, stocky Italian immigrant's son who still wears knickers in a throwback to the Golden Era, said the golf course of the future would be condensed within the space of a few city blocks instead of covering 300 acres.

It will play a par 56 instead of 72, he added, with every shot calling for a preium on accuracy and finesse. It will be strategically trapped with gun-barrel fairways, tenacious rough and tricky, undulating greens.

"In these days who has time to spend four and five hours playing golf?" Gene asked rhetorically. "Golf today is an all-day proposition and, as a result, it is a game which for the normal person can be played only on weekends."

"Public courses are so crowded players frequently have to wait in line for hours to get to the first tee. Thousands are discouraged fro ever going out at all on busy weekends. As a result, the game is losing disciples by the droves.

"But take this new, condensed golf course. The lady of the house can put out the washing and play 18 holes before supper. The businessman can get home at 5 p.m. and squeeze in a full round before dark. More people can play—and they can play every day."

"And best of all, golf will become golf again," he added. "A game of science and skill, instead of one of sheer power."

Four Tied for Western Lead

Smith, Dodd, Wright and Suggs Match 71s in 1st Round

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—With a wary eye on that 11th hole, four women set out today to break up their tie for the lead in the women's Western open golf tournament. Two of them almost came to disaster on the 11th yesterday.

But going on to 2-under-par 71s for the first round, Betty Dodd and Wiffi Smith managed to overcome bogies on the short par three 11th.

Mickey Wright of San Diego and Louise Suggs were tied for third.

A four-time winner of the Western, Miss Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., was one under par on both nines at 35 and 36. Miss Dodd of Louisville, Ky., produced a trim 34 on the back nine and Miss Emith formerly of St. Clair, Mich., had 36-35 on her card.

About 70 women are entered in the $5,000 event at the 6,330-yard Montgomery Country Club course.

CLEVELAND — Indian pitcher Herb Score was the American league's sophomore of the year in 1956, in a poll reported and tallied by the Associated Press sports editors.

ADVERTISED IN LIFE

Agent Hits It on the Nose

MCALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Baird Martin took a bulky package to the Railway Express station and remarked he thought it would weigh about 75 pounds.

Agent Warren Magruder replied: "I don't believe it will weigh that much, I'd say about 58 pounds."

Bombers to Cart Guided Missiles

British Air Ministry Says Planes Will Carry Rocket-Driven Bombs

LONDON (AP)—The Air Ministry announced that British bombers will soon be fitted with rocket-driven guided bombs which will "form for many years the foundation of our deterrent power."

The announcement also said Britain had developed an air-to-air guided missile which tracks down and destroys enemy planes by following the heat rays given off by the aircraft.

These developments are part of the revolutionary five-year program to reshape Britain's fighting forces to meet the requirements of the nuclear age—at less expense. They were disclosed in a memorandum from Air Minister George Ward in connection with the ministry's expense estimates for the 1957-58 fiscal year.

The memorandum gave no additional details but the Laborite Daily Herald said the guided bomb will make unnecessary the costly development of high-level, faster-than-sound bombers.

The memorandum said full-scale service trials of the Royal Air Force's first air-to-air guided missile, the Fireflash, will begin soon.

That will be followed closely by the more advanced missile, the Firestreak, based on an infrared homing principle.

A spokesman for de Havilland Propellors Ltd., designers and developers of the Firestreak, said the Firestreak already has been tested at the Woomera missile range in Australia and other places and "many of the target aircraft have been destroyed."

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

BIRD SANCTUARIES
5. Junior Editors Plan a Bird Motel

Now that we've learned something about birds and their travels, maybe it's time to think about building a bird motel. Your visitors will need a home if they are to feel welcome.

Well-built houses will encourage the birds to build nests in them.

Keep a list of the kinds of birds that come to your sanctuary. And you might put cat collars of zinc around trees with nests to keep cats from climbing. See to it that open feeders are placed handily.

Here Billy is getting his bird motel ready. He's made some houses and is painting another. The posts where he will hang the houses to dry later will serve as landing perches.

Paste the picture on cardboard and color it. Cut out the parts and fold the right panel forward on the dash line. Cut slits in the handles of the bird houses and hang them over the perches on the posts, dropping them into the nicks to make them hold.

Cut the slits on Billy's right shoulder, slit the base on the bird and set him in place by putting tab A down inside, leaving B outside. Then Billy will have an interested friend watching him.

(John Hennemon, Clifton, N. J., won $10 for this suggestion. Send your ideas in care of this newspaper. Violet Moore Higgins, AP Newsfeatures.)

Holyoke Publisher Heads Association

Dwight, publisher of the Holyoke, Mass., Transcript-Telegram, had served a one-year term. The association customarily gives its presidents two terms, alternating between publishers of large and small papers.

Winding up its three-day convention, the ANPA elected J. Hale Steinman of the Lancaster, Pa., Newspapers Inc., to the board of directors, and re-elected all other officers and directors whose terms expired this year.

Non-Stop Flights Start, New York to Lisbon, Rome

NEW YORK — Pan American World Airways has announced that it will start direct service from New York to Lisbon on April 28.

At the same time, Willis G. Lipscomb, Vice President Traffic and Sales, said that the introduction of the speedy, long-ranged DC7C into the airline's mid-Atlantic schedules has enabled Pan American to cut the New York-Lisbon flying time from 15 hours down to 10 hours and 40 minutes—a new record for the route.

The DC7Cs will leave New York's Idlewild Airport on Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday at 2:30 p.m. and will arrive in Lisbon at 6:10 a.m. after a non-stop crossing of the Atlantic. The 5,000-mile range of the 7C will allow them to overfly the traditional refueling stop at the Azores, thus saving considerable transit time.

After landing at the southern European gateway of Lisbon, the flights will continue on to Barcelona and Nice and terminate at Rome.

Hollywood Headlines

Inger Stevens Considered as Replacement for Vera

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — The first thing Alfred Hitchcock will do when he returns from Santa Cruz Monday night is to look at Bing Crosby's picture, "Man on Fire."

He has asked Jimmy Stewart to view it with him so they can both see Inger Stevens. If she is as good as everyone says, she will be signed for the role Vera Miles was to have had in "From Amongst the Dead" with Jimmy.

The picture starts May 15, so it's imperative to get a femme star as soon as possible. After Vera has her baby, she will play the role of Mrs. Red Nichols in "The Red Nichols Story."

If the seven Hungarian Olympic athletes who decided to live in America instead of going back to their native country will get in touch with director Archie Mayo they will be given roles in "Beast From Budapest," which Archie is producing for Allied Artists.

He has been in Europe twice to get material for this dramatic film and he already has checked in at the studio.

Archie says if the Olympic athletes from Budapest write to Archie Mayo, C-O Allied Artists Studio, Hollywood, Calif., they will find themselves with acting jobs.

NEW TO FILMLAND

A new face in town is Nathaniel Frey, who is no new face on Broadway, however. He is currently appearing in "Damn Yankees" and before that he was in "Call Me Madam." Now he's been brought to Hollywood by 20th Century-Fox.

Nathaniel has been signed by Jerry Wald for "Kiss Them for Me," starring Cary Grant and Jayne Mansfield.

And, by the way, Suzy Parker, the pretty model who is also in the picture, was discovered by director Stanley Donen. She'd never done any motion picture work until he put her in "Funny Face," and now she's really on her way to the top.

There's a war going on between Vermont and Maine about "Peyton Place," of all things. Vermont refused to let the movie be filmed there on the grounds that it was too salacious. This, in spite of the fact that the script had been cleaned up.

When there was no dice, director Mark Robson took off for Maine for locations, and he's there now making arrangements to start the picture May 2. Some of the Vermont state representatives took exception to Maine's permission.

The cast is practically complete and Jerry Wald is negotiating with Irene Dunne to play Miss Thornton, the school teacher.

MYSTERIOUS MAN

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The mysterious man with whom Hedy Lamarr dined at the Bantam Cock after she got off the plane was a Universal-International representative.

"The $64,000 Question" genius, Hal March, is due in Hollywood May 1 for five days of conferences on his Paramount picture, "Hear Me Good."

Air Will Be Cleared

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The board of supervisors authorized a $410 increase to approved remodeling costs for the interior of the county probation's new offices.

The increase will pay for five coats of paint to cover murals considered inappropriate for a probation department. The building once housed a nightclub and dance hall.

Suspend Chief of Tulsa Police

14 Other Men Convicted of Plot to Bring Liquor Into Dry Oklahoma

TULSA, Okla. (AP) —Tulsa Police Commissioner Jay L. Jones, suspended Police Chief Paul J. Livingston and 14 other men were convicted early today of plotting to break a federal law against bringing liquor into legally dry Oklahoma.

A U. S. District Court jury also adjudged two of the defendants — both long-time bootleggers — guilty of conspiring to sell the whiskey wholesale and retail without paying special taxes.

The jurors, more than six hours in reaching their verdict in the eight - day - old trial, acquitted a 17th of both charges in the two-count indictment against all the defendants.

Earlier, Judge Royce H. Savage had acquitted three of the original 20 accused, including the Tulsa Tribune's Pulitzer Prize hopeful, reporter Nolen Bulloch.

Judge Savage set sentencing for May 3 and continued $1,000 bond for each of the convicted men.

Those convicted on both counts were Martin Ewards, 36, and John Hood, 50, who could be sentenced to a total of six years imprisonment and $1,000 in fines.

School's Wall 'Bleeds'

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP) — School authorities and the contractor were quite upset about it. Pink spots cropped out on the fresh, white plaster of Logan's new million-dollar high school.

The trouble was finally traced to red coloration on plasterboard that was "bleeding" through.

Selling Lowers Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Fairly active selling pushed grain futures prices downward slightly today on the Board of Trade.

Losses in practically all cases were confined to fractions. A depressing factor in wheat was a report that the government is selling wheat from its mothball fleet.

Near the end of the first hour old type wheat was ⅛ to ⅜ lower, May $2.23⅛; new style wheat was ⅛ to ¾ lower, July $2.10½; corn was unchanged to ⅜ lower, May $1.28⅛; oats were ⅛ to ⅜ lower, May 70¼; rye was unchanged to ⅜ lower, May $1.26⅞; soy beans were ⅛ to ⅝ lower, May $2.41⅛, and lard was 5 to 13 cents a hundred pounds lower, May $13.67.

Lawyer Seeks Scott's Release

Attorney to Ask Court for Habeas Corpus Writ to Block Extradition

DETROIT (INS)—Counsel for L. Ewing Scott, ordered extradited to California to stand trial for murder, grand theft and forgery, was expected to seek his client's freedom today on a writ of habeas corpus.

Michigan Governor G. Mennen Williams ordered Scott removed to California yesterday.

However, attorney Gabriel Cohn said earlier he would file a habeas corpus writ in Wayne County Circuit Court to block the action.

Cohn said he would carry his battle against Scott's extradition to California to the Michigan Supreme Court if necessary.

Scott, seized at the Detroit-Windsor, Ont., border April 15, has been indicted in California for the murder of his wealthy socialite wife, Evelyn Throsby Scott, who vanished almost two years ago. He also has been accused of grand theft and forgery in connection with her $600,000 estate.

Gov. Williams said Cohn's main argument at the extradition hearing was that Scott could not receive a fair trial in California.

"However," Williams declared, "no testimony in support of this contention was offered other than that given by Scott himself and even what he testified failed sufficiently to make the point."

The governor added that California permits a shift in the location of a trial if prejudice in the area of jurisdiction jeopardizes a fair trial.

Pedigreed Boxer Escapes Crate— Spring Fever?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—There he was, $5,500 worth of pedigreed brindle boxer, sitting all alone by a railroad track yesterday. Star, as he's called, chewed his way out of a crating box Sunday night after competing in a dog show here.

Could it be — just like in the movies — that he was all set to travel hundreds of miles along stretches of railroad track to his owner, Jack Jahr, in St. Louis?

Not likely, said Star's handler Joseph E. Gregory, Valley Station, Ky., after receiving the animal from Mrs. H. C. Hartley, Columbus, who found him.

"He's a top quality three-year-old boxer, and is rather attracted to lady dogs," came the explanation.

Angel Island Barracks Burned by Contractor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The former "Ellis Island" of the West Coast went up in flames yesterday as a contractor burned 21 ramshackle buildings on Angel Island.

The barracks-like structures served as detention headquarters here for the Immigration and Naturalization Service for two generations after their building in 1889.

Stock Market Edges Lower

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market edged downward on balance in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Steels, motors and some oils moved briskly. Oils with interests in the Middle East lost ground on uncertainty over the Jordanian crisis.

Despite the new Middle East crisis and normal pre-weekend reluctance to extend commitments, volume had a slight edge over yesterday.

Key stocks showed gains and losses of a point or more but there was a certain amount of churning of prices. Selected issues moved more widely.

Lukens Steel, while erratic, did not rise and fall over such a wide spread as in recent sessions but it still was heavily traded.

Bethlehem was about unchanged after scoring a slight early gain and then dipping to the minus side. Chrysler wiped out most of its early rise of more than a point.

President Slaps at Labor Racketeering

AUGUSTA (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday branded labor racketeering "an abomination which must be eliminated." And he called for ousting union leaders "who abuse power and trust."

To help wipe out "corruption on the part of a few in the labor field, the President urged Congress to pass new anti-racketeering laws to protect all union funds, including an estimated 25 billion dollars so far contributed to labor organization health and welfare programs.

After a 90-minute conference here with Secretary of Labor Mitchell, the President asked for swift enactment of legislation to require:

1. Registration, reports to the government and public disclosure of complete data on all health and welfare funds. Tthe administration already has a bill before Congress to provide for that.

2. Reporting and public disclosure of all other union financial data—for example, dues collected, salaries of union officials, and full treasury statements. The Labor Department gets such information at present, Mitchell said, but needs congressional authorization to make it public.

"We are trying to help the American labor movement clean house in those areas where it needs to clean house," Mitchell said at a news conference after discussing the situation with Eisenhower at the President's vacation headquarters, the Augusta National Golf Club.

In a prepared statement Eisenhower said the administration has followed "wtih intense interest" the efforts of a special Senate investigating committee "to bring to light disclosures of corrupt practices and abuses of trust by officers and members of some labor unions."

The President said there should be no obscuring "the fact that the vast majority" in organized labor "are decent and honest Americans."

But he added:

'Labor racketeering, like corruption anywhere, is an abomination which must be eliminated if and whenever it occurs. Any officer and employe of labor — and it appears there have been a few—who abuse the power and trust imposed upon them are not fit to hold union offices.

"The American working man and woman deserve from labor leaders high standards of trust and fidelity."

CALM APPROACH

In striving for elimination of corruption there should be a calm approach to the problem, Mitchell counseled.

"I believe," he said, "that we should not rush headlong, impelled by the hysteria of the moment, to secure punitive legislation aimed at undermining or weakening the general body of organized labor. I believe it would be against the national interest to do so."

Among other things, the special Senate committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Aark) has delved into the financial operations of Dave Beck, president of the nation's biggest union — the AFL-CIO Teamsters. Beck has declined to answer questions about his use of the union's funds. The committee has charged improper use.

Beck invoked the Fifth Amendment, saying replies might tend to incriminate him. But he also has said he is innocent of any wrongdoing.

At his news conference Mitchell's attention was called to Eisenhower's statement that it appears a few union officials have been guilty of abuse of power and trust. A reporter asked whether the President had Beck in mind.

"I am not going to get into personalities," Mitchell replied. "I am not going to prejudge.

"But certainly if corruption is proven, the statement of the President will stand—that corrupt labor leaders who use the labor movement for their own personal gain, whoever they may be — should not hold union office."

In reply to a question, Mitchell said Beck's support of Eisenhower for re-election was "completely unsolicited" by the administration.

"I suppose Mr. Beck has a right to determine whom he wants to vote for as an American citizen," the cabinet officer added.

But Mitchell indicated the administration would not welcome Beck's support if Eisenhower were running for office at this time.

Asked specifically about that, Mitchell noted that the President refused to appoint Beck as a U.S. representative at an International Labor Organization meeting after the Senate Investigating Committee turned up testimony about improper use of Teamster Union Funds.

"We did not feel that Mr. Beck should be a representative of the United States Government . . . in this area," Mitchell said.

In his statement the President said he had instructed Mitchell to determine what other steps may be required by the administration "to protect the interests of the individual working man."

Mitchell was asked at his news conference whether he felt business firms, as well as unions, should be required to submit and make public financial records.

He replied that corporations already are required to submit financial reports which are made public. And he said that under the internal revenue laws the financial records of business firms can be examined in great detail.

Store Owner Offers Ideas on Stamps

Charles Giglio, owner of Three Sisters Market, 608 W. Huron St., recently returned from Washington, D. C., where he was summoned by Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak).

Giglio, a store owner in Pontiac for the past 25 years, acted as a consultant in proposed trading stamp legislation, and also explained his idea for using U.S. Savings Stamps, instead of trading stamps.

Also up for discussion was hours of chain stores.

See Marketing Problem for Strawberry Farmers

EAST LANSING (AP) — Strawberry growers will need to seek out all possible markets for fresh berries this season, says George Motts, agricultural economist at Michigan State University.

The fresh market wil be especially important this year because stocks of frozen strawberries are substantially larger than in 1956.

On March 1 of this year, warehouse stocks of frozen berries were 52 per cent higher than at the same time in 1956.

Reuther Claims Inflation Rigged

Head of UAW Blames Price-Fixing as Chief Cause of Spiral

DETROIT (AP) — Prices that are "arbitrarily set by a handful of executives of major corporations" are to blame for inflation, Walter Reuther said here last night.

Disputing claims of an automobile executive that "excessive demands" by organized labor are the primary cause of inflation, the president of the United Auto Workers Union said the declining value of the dollar was due to a "rigged inflation."

John S. Bugas, vice president of Ford Motor Co., said in a speech at Michigan State University Wednesday night:

"There is serious evidence that inflation is being fostered and capitol formation discouraged by attempts of organized labor to seek wage and fringe benefits which the economy cannot safely absorb."

Reuther took exception to the statement and swung out at Bugas for refusing to support the UAW's demand for a Congressional investigation of the "wage-price-profit" relationship.

Too Much Crude Oil Imported, Ike Rules

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower has ruled that crude oil is being imported into the United States in such quantities as to "threaten to impair the national security."

The President's vacation headquarters announced that he had approved a finding to that effect by Gordon Gray, chief of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

American independent oil producers have been complaining that imported crude oil is depressing the domestic price.

Eisenhower's action has indicated quota restriction will be placed on imports.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said, however, that the matter was "too technical" for him to discuss.

"I don't know all the answers on it," Hagerty said, adding that Gray would hold a news conference in Washington.

Farmington Must Petition Again for Water

By MARY CELINSKI
Farmington Correspondent

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Residents who, more than a year ago, slogged through winter snow and mud to obtain signatures on petitions for a water system were stunned to learn this week that the job must be done all over again.

According to Supervisor Frank J. Stephenson, the petitions have been examined by Claude Stevens, bond attorney, and declared invalid because of improper wording.

The petitions were drawn up Moore.

Stephenson said yesterday that the township must now be broken up into special assessment districts and new petitions circulated.

He said that Stevens did offer encouragement, however, to waterless residents:

The proposed system, Stevens said, can be financed, and the township should have no trouble selling its bonds.

There is a possibility, that if petitioning is completed soon, the bonds could be disposed of by midsummer, Stevens added.

New petitions will be held up briefly, until an amendment to Act No. 188 passes in the State Legislature. It has already been passed by the House of Representatives and is now in the Senate, Stevens said.

County Leads Fight to Defeat State Bill

Oakland and several other larger counties led opposition that yesterday defeated in Lansing a bill to revamp the system for electing county political leaders.

Rep. Theodore Hughes, of Berkley, led the opposition, contending it would upset party organization in Oakland County.

The bill, which would have given elected precinct delegates a voice in naming county chairmen and other party officers, had been backed by both Democratic and Republican parties at their February conventions.

Under the present set-up, party candidates for office control the election entirely, leading to the complaint that party workers are discouraged from taking active part in political activities.

Residents at Wolverine Lake Would Rid Water of Weeds

Cost of chemical treatments to the weeds will be in the vicinity of $6,000. Property owners have been asked to contribute $10 for lake lots and $5 for back lots in order to finance the weed control program.

Property owners who have not already made their payments have been asked to contact their subdivision representative by no later than May 1, deadline for payments.

Chemical treatments made last year were considered highly successful, according to John C. Finlayson, village clerk.

"Although a three-year chemical treatment program is recommended, it is possible that chemical treatments to be made this summer (second consecutive year) may eliminate all weeds in the lake," Finlayson added.

The campaign was initiated by citizens of the village.

Jim Arness Believes Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries

Earl Praises Godfrey, Is Criticized Himself

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK: I got my crew cut clobbered trying to say a kind word about Arthur Godfrey.

"Him and his uke!" exploded a Detroit lady reader. "He can't even hit a note. Like Paul Douglas said, he's a slob. Don't you get disliked by praising Godfrey!"

One reader even allowed I was a swine. There's almost no way you can twist that into a compliment.

Whither Godfrey now? Is he to disappear from TV, too?

He's only 53. He likes to work . . . within reason. He'll never retire. They'll have to tote him out feet first.

It's because his Wednesday night's going off that folks are wondering about the others, which are doing o.k.

"He hates rehearsing and that Wednesday show's got to be rehearsed like a spectacular," I was told.

Now his temper should greatly improve. Anyway, he's always been nice to me. I've phoned him at 6 A.M. on an embarrassing story and got him to talk. That's not uncooperative.

He wrote an introduction for a book of mine. "Earl Wilson's easily recognized," he said. "He has a strange growth on his neck. It's his head."

Of course I never got fired by Arthur or I might feel different. And I never again want to foment any debate over whether he or Paul Douglas is a slob.

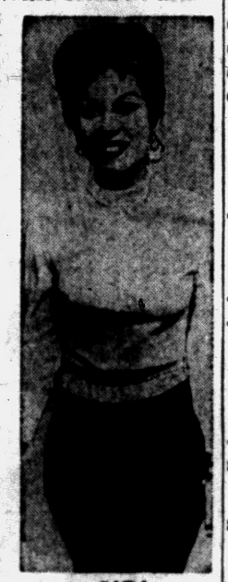
Because I found out from you gentle souls who the slob was. I was!

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Follies Gal Pat Gaston turned in her notice to marry Tommy Manville. Her chum, Charlotte Foley, said, "I'll be able to say I stood next to Mrs. Tommy Manville in the Ziegfeld chorus" . . . Kate Smith's taking dance lessons at the June Taylor studios for her TV spec.

Jack Oakie lost 100 pounds . . . the Walter Cronkites named the baby Walter Leland Cronkite 3rd so he can get in an Ivy League school . . . John Wayne cabled Bill Holden, new box-office champ, "You sneak!" . . . Sara Aman, ex-Miss Israel, is featured in "The Virtuous Island" here.

Mrs. Brod Crawford agreed to divorce terms . . .



SARA

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Lucille Roberts, about her husband Eddie's mind-reading patter: "Don't mind my husband's little jokes. He doesn't have any big ones."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Any man can tell you that a diamond is the hardest substance known—especially to get back from a girl.

Ryan Promises Last-Ditch Fight

Refuses to Abandon Bill for 60-Day 'Cool Off' in Divorce Cases

LANSING (AP) — Sen. Harold M. Ryan (D-Detroit) promised a last ditch fight today to save his bill for a 60-day "cooling off" period in divorce cases.

The proposal failed by two votes to pass the Senate yesterday in its first try. There were 16 favorable votes and 14 against. Ryan refused to abandon it.

Ryan advanced the measure as a means of cutting the divorce rate and preventing broken homes through promoting reconciliations during the waiting period.

He has the support of a group of circuit judges in Wayne County, and a few outstate.

Another bill that failed to pass yesterday, garnering only 10 of the required 18 affirmative votes, would have substituted checks for the warrant system the State now uses in paying its bills and employe salaries.

The Senate killed "bottle club" bill that has been in hot water for weeks by sending it back to committee.

The bill would have prohibited issuance of club liquor licenses to groups with fewer than 300 members unless they were affiliates of national organizations.

Video Marshal Loves His Job

'Gunsmoke' Hero Has No Objection to Staying in Western Roles

By CHARLES DENTON

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Genial Jim Arness may have his hands full keeping the crop of villians mowed down on television, but off-screen he is a man without a worry in the world.

With a steady job on CBS' "Gunsmoke" show, a wife and three children at home and a bright future in his chosen profession, he can generate a worry wrinkle only with effort, and then only for theatrical purposes.

The usual woes of mankind—income taxes, bills, professional troubles, etc.—roll off the broad shoulders of the towering tumbleweed thespian like water off a waxed duck because he calculates he has just about everything he has any right to expect right now.

"I know that actors have the reputation of being perpetually dissatisfied," Jim went on, deftly folding his 6-foot, 6-inch frame into a restaurant booth, "and to a certain extent that's probably a good thing.

CREATIVE PEOPLE

"After all, they're supposed to be creative people, always working for something better. But I think you have to temper that with some practical thinking.

"There's really not much more that I could ask for now, except more money, of course, and everyone wants that."

Even on the subject of income tax, a grim problem for most of us around this time of the year, Jim drawled easily:

"Well, I only have to give Uncle Sam part of it. I get to keep some for myself."

What is even more startling in an actor who seems destined to perform in equine epics until silver threads begin showing in his dark brown curls, Arness is as complacent as a steer in clover over the status of his career.

WHY FIGHT IT?

"No, I'm not getting tired of Westerns," he snorted. "It just happens to be the trend right now, so why fight it.

Even if he finds time between "Gunsmoke" episodes in the next year or two to make some motion pictures, Arness shrugged, they very probably will be oat operas too.

Arness' show has been consistently one of the top-rated offerings on television, but the gun-toting star insists that not even ratings the great ulcer agitator of the industry, worry him.

It's nice to bob in and out of the top 10 shows occasionally," he conceded, "but I don't want to be No. 1. When you're No. 1, there's only one way you can go—down!"

WITHOUT A WORRY — James Arness (center), who portrays U. S. Marshal Matt Dillon on CBS-TV's "Gunsmoke," claims that in his private life he doesn't have a worry in the world. However, as Dillon, he has to deal with villains such as John Hoyt (right) and Richard Avonde (left) every Saturday at 10 p. m.

Vandenberg Among Candidates

Urges Hall of Fame Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) stated the special committee to name five former senators for a hall of fame could save itself a lot of trouble by limiting itself to those who served before 1900.

The Montanan, a committee member, told a reporter that if the group sticks to senators who preceded the present century, "then we're not likely to have much controversy."

"But," he added, "if we pick some of the more recent senators then there always will be someone who knew them and thinks they didn't wear any wings."

The committee, which is to meet early next week to make its final selections, plans to decide frist whether to include senators who served in the 20th Century. Many of the nominees who have strong support served comparatively recently.

BACK TRIO

So far there has been considerable backing for the "great triumvirate" of the decades preceding the Civil War—Henry Clay of Kentucky, Daniel Webster of Massachusetts, and John C. Calhoun of South Carolina.

The 20th Century senators who have support include Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, William E. Borah of Idaho, Carter Glass of Virginia, Hiram Johnson of California, Robert M. Lafollette of Wisconsin, George W. Norris of Nebraska, Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, Robert F. Wagner of New York, and Tom Walsh of Montana.

King Cobra Lays 56 Eggs at Zoo, First Since '55

NEW YORK (AP)—A king cobra at the Bronx Zoo, which laid eggs on April 24 in 1955 and 1956, staged a repeat performance on Wednesday.

Dr. James A. Oliver, curator of reptiles, found the snake guarding 56 newly laid eggs when he arrived this morning. There had been none when he checked the nest Wednesday.

In 1955 nine eggs were hatched but all the young died within six months. Last year none hatched.

A zoo spokesman said 53 of this year's eggs appeared to be good. Dr. Oliver was able to remove all but 12. The snake struck at him repeatedly but he was protected by a plastic shield.

Dr. Oliver said the snake will be permitted to hatch the 12 eggs. The zoo will attempt to hatch the rest.

Father, Son Buy Resort

BEAVER ISLAND (AP)—Dr. John P. Ludwick of Jackson and his father, Dr. John E. Ludwick, have purchased Beaver Island Lodge from Mrs. H. B. Johnston of Ludington, who has owned the resort since its construction in 1950.

Man Dies, Baby Born in 2-Car Accident

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP)—A man died and a baby was born in an automobile accident Thursday.

Highway patrolmen said Chester G. Wasmer, 26, was driving his expectant wife, Emma, to a hospital. At an intersection the Wasmer car and one driven by William E. Martin, 51, collided.

A witness helped deliver Mrs. Wasmer's baby, a 9 pound 11 ounce son, on the scene. Both were in good condition at Gardena Hospital. Wasmer suffered only minor injuries, but Martin died later.

Officer Runs After Car on Foot, Nabs Driver

Hudson spotted a drunken driver coming through town and promptly took after him on foot. He claims the car was easy to catch—all he had to do was run about 75 yards in a straight line while the car casually weaved from one side of the road to the other.

These Are Right Puzzle Answers

The following are answers and explanations for Pot-O-Gold Puzzle No. 46 which appeared in the Pontiac Press last week.

A. (2) MULE. A MULE that won't work is certainly not serving his purpose, so there is no point in paying out money for his upkeep. Many rules are made by silly people and really have no purpose.

B. (3) SKIMPS. Though skimps and scrimps mean much the same, in connection with food served SKIMPS seems better — "to give insufficient or illiberal measure." Scrimps applies better to the spending of money, and many inexpensive buffet suppers can be quite enjoyable if well-planned and served.

C. (6) FUTILE. Useless or trifling ideas seem sound enough to the man who has them, and he is likely to be dissatisfied with his everyday job where he feels his true worth is not recognized. A man with fertile ideas will put them to use in his daily work and build up his job.

D. (8) LEAVE. It might be difficult to heave or throw a container of tin cans far enough from a car. More probably, someone would get out of the car first, then pick up the package of cans and LEAVE them in some out-of-the-way spot.

E. (9) ACRIMONY. Bitterness and hatred often make one spouse unwilling to agree to a divorce, out of sheer revenge. If the husband wants the divorce badly, he would be inclined to offer alimony as an inducement to get it; the wife who wants a divorce might give up the idea of alimony for the same reason.

F. (12) WORDY. An unsure grasp of his subject indicates that the speaker has not sufficient knowledge to state facts clearly, but uses a lot of words to talk around the subject. He probably would not recognize this fault in himself and therefore it would not occur to him to worry.

G. (13) MATTER. As a rule, big executives have no time to interview people unless the MATTER, or the business to be discussed, is important. An impressive manner would still bring the question, "What does he want to see me about?"

H. (15) ADDITION. The ADDITION of a young singer to a TV show would hardly be made without the sponsors' approval. If they are already familiar with the singer's voice, there is no reason why a special audition should be necessary.

I. (17) GUARD. The clue here is "heavily patrolled" border region. The refugee party must keep under cover in their travels and even in their rest periods, someone must constantly be on GUARD to alert the party to danger from patrols, land mines, etc. Sometimes a guide makes a business of leading parties through escape routes, but a guide is not always to be had, and escape routes are closed off as fast as they get established.

J. (20) DRAPING. Most famous dress designers are skilled at DRAPING lengths of cloth on actual models, experimenting with folds, etc. to get a "smart" line. Drawing a new model can only suggest the cut; also, many designers cannot draw.

K. (22) PROGRESS. Research for a new cure is a long, painstaking development. The slowness of the process, or method, is of course one of the reasons why the PROGRESS is slow.

L. (23) LEDGE. The LEDGE of a high building is so narrow that particular skill is required of police to prevent a desperate man not only from jumping, but even from falling. The edge of a building's roof at least allows the police more room to maneuver.

M. (26) DIVES. Spectators at an Olympic swimming event would of course watch the skillful DIVES. It's the action itself rather than the diver (who may not be DIVING at the time) that is of interest.

N. (27) MATURED. It requires several years of growth before fruit trees will yield a successful crop. The soil may be rich enough to make it unnecessary that it be manured, or fertilized, for some time.

O. (30) SHAMBLE. The slow-moving man usually is unable to move fast, but he will SHAMBLE out of the way of a speeding car as best he can. Scramble suggests clutching at something for support as you move — not feasible in crossing a street.

P. (32) NOTIONS. Unusual ideas for dance numbers naturally add freshness to a musical show, and are eagerly sought for. NOTIONS is the more comprehensive word, because it is largely in this framework that there could be unusual motions — such as jerkiness, in a subway ballet.

Q. (33) GLUM. A GLUM look in response to your best joke would indicate that it was considered definitely unfunny. A dumb look merely means that the hearer did not get the point; it may be owing to his stupidity rather than the way the joke was told.

R. (35) MUSTY. MUSTY fruit would be mildewed or moldy, and even a budget-bound housewife would not want her family to eat it. Mushy fruit has become overripe but is perfectly wholesome to eat.

S. (38) WANT. Though pant for water, in this context, means to have a great desire for it, WANT for water is stronger in that it suggests "suffer for the lack of it," which is certainly true of a man marooned in the desert.

T. (40) SAVOR. The SAVOR of its coffee might make a lunch counter popular. Flavor refers only to taste, but SAVOR includes not only the taste (of the coffee) but the delicious smell of it as well.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

The bills will soon be coming in for all those fine Easter duds you and your family bought, and here's a painless way to pay for them. Just pick out the right numbers to this week's Pot-O-Gold puzzle, write them in the proper squares, and you're all set. This puzzle's worth $500 if a winner isn't found for last week's Pot-O-Gold.

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the sentence. You then write the number of that word in the puzzle square marked A.
