A Happy Pleasant Home Life Comes First

Do You Want a Good Education for Your Child?

By DR. BENJAMIN FINE AND LILLIAN FINE

"You didn't like school?" a sports columnist asked Rocky Graziano.

"Naw," snorted Rocky, "I hated it! I played hooky alla time."

"Oh, sure," said Rocky, "They're crazy about it. They'd better. I'd kill 'em if they start foolin' around!"

Basically most parents tend to feel pretty much the way Rocky does: we wasted many educational opportunities and don't want our children to make the mistakes we did.

How can we help them? Most children who take an interest in school are children whose families have convinced them schoolwork is worthwhile.

Just by showing an interest you can greatly encourage effort. Of course, the interest must be genuine; most children are quick to detect pretense and condescension. And it is not about an 8-year-old's progress in reading or multiplication.

Long before children start school, parents can do much that will encourage educational success.

A happy home life is the greatest gift any child can receive. A pleasant, serene atmosphere, love — these are the priceless ingredients that give him security. With that kind of a background children can concentrate on their schoolwork.

Another factor is the presence of cultural interests in the home. Parents who love to read to their children seldom complain that "Johnny can't read." When a family spends most of its leisure on television, children are not likely to feel a great desire to learn to read.

Besides exposure to the printed word, children need to hear good music, to look at fine paintings, to take exploratory walks.

★ ★ ★

They should be encouraged to learn the names of birds and trees they see. Trips to the zoo and to museums will help awaken their curiosity. Not every child will be interested in all these activities, but it is a good idea to expose him to as many as possible.

Recently a brilliant young art director was asked, "Do you come from an artistic family?"

"No," he laughed, "my dad's a cigar maker."

"How did you and your brother (also a professional) get interested in art?"

"Why, I don't know, my mother could draw a little.

To Issue Murder Warrant Today for Knight

Mercury Hits 90 3rd Day; Could Go to 96 Tomorrow

Midnight	78	8 a.m.	77
2 a.m.	76	10 a.m.	87
4 a.m.	74	Noon	91
6 a.m.	74	2 p.m.	94

The mercury rose above 90 degrees today for the third straight day and more 90-degree heat is in sight again tomorrow, the Weather Bureau said.

The latest heat wave could top this summer's record high of 94 degrees Aug. 25 and 26.

It might warm up to a stifling 96 today and tomorrow, the Weather Bureau warned.

The mercury hit 90 degrees at 11:30 today and was headed upward. The temperature should dip to 68-74 tonight, rising again tomorrow to a high of 90 to 96, it was predicted. Skies are to be fair today and tomorrow.

Southwesterly winds in the Pontiac area registered five miles an hour at 1:15 p.m. The lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. was 74 degrees.

It was a near-perfect Labor Day yesterday, with a high of 92 during the afternoon. Oakland County parks and lakes were crowded, but not jammed.

★ ★ ★

At Dodge State Park on Cass Lake attendance was 2,700.

More than 2,000 attended, making the event one of the most successful of its kind in recent Pontiac history.

The Wever-Owen-Hawthorne Community Club, which sponsored the all-day festival, raised about $1,500 in funds for park improvements, said Leslie H. Hudson, festival chairman.

★ ★ ★

About 1,000 watched city officials dedicate the park with its official name, Hawthorne Park. Hawthorne is the first of the city's big parks to be officially named.

A 12-year-old boy was involved in the only mishap at the festival, David Noel, 132 W. Chicago Ave., was taken to Pontiac General Hospital to have skunk spray washed from his eyes.

David and a friend were bicycling on N. Telegraph road next to the park when the friend's bike bumped into the skunk. The skunk ejected a blast of its highly-odorous spray just as David was riding by.

Bombings Echo in Little Rock

3 Blasts in Night Hit School Board Building, Car, Mayor's Office

From Our News Wires

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Three night bombings threw Little Rock into a new case of integration jitters today.

The second one hit the school board building and the third the mayor's office.

Police poured out in force with riot guns, patrolling and barricading streets around the four public high schools. Two of the schools were integrated by five Negroes Aug. 12.

No one was injured but police suggested to school board members that they and their families leave their homes and spend the night elsewhere.

Police checked cars and homes of virtually all public officials and others who have been prominent in the integration squabble. Lights in all school buildings were turned on.

Nally's firemen helped police turn back some 200 segregationists in a march on Central High School on the opening of school last month.

It was at Central High School where mob violence broke out in the fall of 1957 over integration of nine Negroes. Federal troops were called in to restore order.

CHIEF TAKES CHARGE

Smith was visibly angry. He checked the wrecked buildings and then returned to police headquarters where he paced the floor and waited for reports.

The FBI was called in. So were police from North Little Rock, just across the Arkansas River.

The most damage was at the office of Mayor Werner Knoop in a construction company which he heads. There a steel panel in the building was knocked into the street.

One room of the school board building was wrecked and win-

Admiral's Wife Works

PORTSMOUTH, England (UPI) — An admiral's wife brought in some extra money for the family coffers yesterday by working as a shipbuilder. Mrs. Elizabeth Unwin earned 70 cents by cutting the ribbon that started cranes lowering a 15-ton ship's keel into place. Her husband, Adm. John Unwin, said proudly: "Five shillings represents the piecework for laying a keel."

Five Deaths Mar Holiday in County

Two traffic deaths and three drownings marred the Labor Day weekend in Oakland County.

In addition, a Royal Oak man, William Sevald, 76, was killed Saturday night when struck by a car while fixing a tire on the Detroit-Brighton Expressway in Livingston County.

Only one person died in Oakland County traffic over the same holiday period last year. There were no drownings.

Less than an hour after the official holiday death count began at 6 p.m. Friday, two Flint men drowned while fishing in Holly Township.

A West Bloomfield boy, 2-year-old Craig P. Curran, drowned Sunday on Upper Straits Lake. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Curran, he fell from a dock behind his home at 5975 Upper Straits Blvd. and drowned in three feet of water.

The county's two traffic fatalities were Floyd A. Farmer, 70, of 368 Tower Rd., White Lake Township, and Robert D. McClusky, 28, of 2700 Vendome St., Pontiac.

Farmer walked in front of a passing car and was struck Sunday night, sheriff's deputies said. The accident occurred on Farnsworth street near Union Lake road in White Lake Township.

McClusky died Sunday morning after smashing a motorcycle into the side of the Davis Market, 3996 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights.

David E. Sisk, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sisk, of 2252 Georgeland St., Drayton Plains, died Sunday at St. Joseph Hospital, Mount Clemens, in an accident near Mount Clemens shortly after 5 p.m. Friday.

Pontiac state troopers and sheriff's deputies said traffic late Monday aftrnoon and night was heavy on all area highways.

No fatal accidents were recorded, even though authorities expected the homeward rush late Monday would produce the weekend's most hazardous driving conditions.

Ike Will Report on Allied Talks

Radio, TV Networks to Carry Message This Thursday Night

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will make a radio-television report to the people Thursday night on his talks with Allied leaders in Western Europe.

He will speak from his White House office.

Announcing this today, press secretary James C. Haggerty said all the major networks have agreed to handle the 15-minute speech and that except for one possible delayed radio broadcast all of them will be "live."

Because of the speech, Hagerty said, the President will not hold a news conference this week.

Hagerty said the Thursday night speech will deal with the President's trip to West Germany, Britain and France and with some of the current international developments that Eisenhower and allied leaders discussed during that trip.

Eisenhower was described by a congressional caller as quite happy about the results of his diplomatic mission to Europe.

Faces Charge in Death of Policeman Souden

EAST LANSING (AP)—Alvin W. Knight, his four-day duel with police finally ended, faced a first degree murder charge today in the shooting of state policeman Albert Souden with the trooper's own gun.

State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs said a warrant charging the ex-convict and ex-mental patient with Souden's slaying likely would be issued in Howell by Prosecutor Wilfred H. Erwin of Livingston County.

Knight fell exhausted into bed at State Police headquarters here last night after leading officers through a tangle of underbrush to a shallow grave four miles southeast of the village of Argentine. There the partially clad body of the 29-year-old trooper was found beneath a cover of leaves and branches. His uniform was buried nearby.

The questioning was highlighted by a dramatic personal appeal from Souden's wife, Clara, 23, who pleaded: "I'll pray for you and forgive you, but please tell me where my husband is."

State Police said Mrs. Souden's plea, some nine hours before Knight led officers to the body and admitted the slaying, was an important factor in persuading the man to talk.

Det. Lt. Howard Whaley said Knight orally admitted the killing after 28 straight hours of interrogation and probably would sign a formal confession today.

Thus ended what Childs said was the most intensive search by State Police in the 42-year history of the force.

At one time or another, nearly 300 state policemen combed the farmlands, woods, and marshes surrounding Argentine after Souden disappeared on a routine burglary investigation Thursday. Hundreds of sheriff's deputies, policemen from southern Michigan cities and civilian volunteers joined in.

SEIZED FRIDAY

Knight, seized Friday in a cottage near East Tawas more than 150 miles from the murder scene, maintained his innocence through three days of questioning. Then, suddenly, he cracked.

Yesterday morning he volunteered to take officers to the body if they would agree not to expose him to townspeople of Argentine or newsmen or photographers.

Without hesitation, Childs said, he led them to the abandoned farm where Souden's squad car was found Friday, then through a cornfield and orchard and into a thickly wooded area where the body lay. It appeared to have been shot at least three times — in the back or chest, in an arm and a leg. The trooper's own gun was the murder weapon.

Mrs. Souden Takes News Bravely

BRIGHTON (AP) — Mrs. Clara Souden, surrounded by relatives and friends, learned yesterday that her 65-hour vigil had ended for her husband, State Police Trooper Albert Souden.

Sgt. Adolph Ploehn, director of the Brighton State Police Post and Souden's commanding officer, told the 23-year-old woman her husband was dead. Although she had held on to a faint hope through the search, she had expected the tragic news.

"She took it like a trooper's wife," Ploehn said.

"Her head snapped back as if she'd been struck. Then she lowered her head again and started crying softly."

Mrs. Souden's vigil started at 10 p.m. last Thursday when she called the post and reported her husband had not returned from work. He was four hours late.

She waited through the long nights and days cuddling her 7-months-old son, Edward, trying to forget her fear.

Sunday night she went to East Lansing and met Alvin Knight, a 43-year-old former mental patient who police say has confessed the shooting-slaying of her husband.

"Where is my husband," she asked Knight.

"I'm sorry. I can't help you," Knight replied.

Mrs. Souden returned home. She still had hope.

Her hope ended at 3 p.m. yesterday when Ploehn approached the modest Souden home.

Mrs. Souden will receive insur-

Cooler Weather and Some Rain to Bring Relief

By The Associated Press

There will be a change over many sections of the country today from the hot, muggy weather of the Labor Day weekend.

★ ★ ★

The Weather Bureau predicted scattered showers in the Pacific Northwest, Idaho and Nevada; scattered thunderstorms from eastern New Mexico across the southern plains states and the Gulf states to the South Atlantic coastal states; scattered thunderstorms in the northern Great Lakes area.

★ ★ ★

At Lewisville, N. C., 5 inches of rain fell; more than 4½ at Spray, N. C., and more than 3 inches at Rocky Mount and Butner, N. C.

Some rain fell Monday in scattered sections. Tampa, Fla., had 1.11 inches of rain, Corpus Christi, Tex., about ½ inch, Atlanta, Ga. about 1½ inches and Greenville S. C., nearly 1 inch.

It was 112 degrees Monday at Gila Bend, Ariz., and 110 at Blythe, Calif. Chicago had 96.

Plan Group Trip to Buy Store Decorations for Christmas Season

Downtown Pontiac merchants will be asked next Wednesday to do their Christmas shopping early, at least as far as their own store decorations are concerned.

A special shopping trip is planned in connection with the Downtown Merchants Assn.'s drive for a wealth of exciting decorations downtown this Christmas season, said George Richman, association president.

The trip will be to Frankenmuth, where the association has already purchased "a greatly augmented" street display, Richman said.

"Association members will be asked to order decorations for their own store windows," Richman explained.

"We hope every store will make an all-out effort to brighten up the downtown area this coming Christmas season."

No Fatalities in Last Rush

Police Marvel at Safe Driving on State Roads During Danger Hours

By United Press International

On Michigan highways thirteen persons died during the long Labor Day weekend but the hours of greatest danger during the homeward traffic rush were free of fatalities.

★ ★ ★

Drownings claimed nine lives and two other persons died in miscellaneous accidents to boost the weekend accidental death toll in the state to 24.

State Police marveled at the fact that not a single life was lost in traffic in Michigan on Labor Day.

The Automobile Club of Michigan had warned that the hours from 6 p.m. to midnight yesterday would be the most dangerous of the weekend with possibly the greatest traffic volume in history on state highways.

But motorists managed to make those hours of danger perfectly safe.

Michigan had only one multiple-fatality traffic accident during the weekend and that involved a motorcycle.

Two Chicago residents, Leonard McGee, 30, and Loretta Rogers, 19, suffered fatal injuries Sunday when their motorcycle veered into the path of an oncoming Greyhound bus near Erie in Monroe County.

Thomas Sobieralski, 54, Flint, and two-year-old David Lee Coy of rural Constantine died in miscellaneous accidents.

Sobieralski had been drinking and fell from a railroad bridge spanning the Flint River Saturday. The Coy child was accidentally hanged when his clothing became entangled in the doorhandle of his parents' parked car at Marcellus.

Other traffic victims included:

John O'Brien, 23, Rochester, N.Y.—died Saturday of injuries suffered Friday night when the car in which he was riding crashed into a semi-trailer near Port Huron.

John Boike, 23, Detroit—fatally injured Saturday when his car struck a tree near Harbor Beach.

James Darien, 17, Muskegon—fatally injured Sunday when the car in which he was riding overturned and burst into flames north of Scottville.

Julian Jimenez, 27, Shelby—died when his car struck a tree near Wayland Sunday.

Winnie Lou Bush, 19, Blanchard—killed Sunday when a milk truck driven by her brother collided with an auto at a rural intersection in Montcalm County.

Mary Breland, 22, Galien—killed Sunday night in a three-car accident near Galien in Berrien County.

Ertmann Joseph Borchardt, 16, Lincoln Park—killed in a car-truck accident in Brownstown Township, Wayne County Sunday night.

Other drowning victims were:

Mrs. Margaret Rice, 49, Dearborn—drowned Friday night in the St. Clair River when two pleasure boats collided and she was pitched overboard.

"We had lots of paint books and crayons and stuff like that around. And mother was always dragging us to some museums. Poor Mama! We still tease her about the way she tried to get us interested in Rembrandt instead of baseball!"

Of course, there is always the danger of putting so much emphasis on learning that a child develops a mental block about learning to read. Then you really do have a problem. A relaxed, confident attitude toward learning will be reflected in the child.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps you are thinking, books, records, tickets to concerts—how can I afford to buy all that? Well, books and records can be borrowed from libraries or friends. It is often possible to pick up great bargains at sales or second hand stores.

Paperbound books are inexpensive. A family can enjoy concerts and plays from balcony seats; indeed children often prefer to sit "way up high." Museums are usually free.

Nevertheless, it does cost some money to give your children cultural opportunities. But is there any better way to invest money? "He who pours his purse into his head," said Benjamin Franklin, "need never fear thieves."

★ ★ ★

It can be done on a moderate income, but it is necessary to make some hard choices. Yet an FM radio, a good phonograph or record player, and a substantial library of books and records will probably cost much less than the wall-to-wall carpeting you've had your heart set on.

To finance a child through high school costs at least $2,000. College away from home now costs at least $2,000 a year. It is important to make sure that the money is well spent and that youngsters get value received.

A report by the National Education Association points to the value of education. The average elementary school graduate, over a lifetime, will earn $116,000. The high school graduate will earn $165,000, while the earnings of the college graduate will go to $268,000. The technical institute graduate will earn $280,000.

From the dollars and cents standpoint, if for no other, the value of a high school or college education remains unchallenged.

The opportunities are there if the youngster is interested in books and ideas, if he knows how to study and express himself clearly.

The parents must show the way in the child's earliest years. There is a story about a mother who asked a famous psychologist, "When should I begin my child's education?"

★ ★ ★

"When will your child be born?" he asked.

"Oh, he's 4 years old now."

Appeals for Remedy

HALIFAX, England (UPI)—Archdeacon Eric Treacy appealed today for a remedy to keep him awake in public meetings. He dozed off, he admitted, while the bishop was speaking. Treacy, 52, wrote in his newsletter that he awoke only when the audience started applauding the speech by his bishop, Dr. John Ramsbotham. "I only heard half a dozen words of the speech," he confessed, "and everyone in the room must have heard me dozing, except the bishop, who was next to me."

City Officials to Attend Parley at Mackinac

City Commissioners will devote most of their attention this week to the 61st Municipal League convention Thursday through Saturday at Mackinac Island.

Only a handful of small items are on the agenda for tonight's Commission meeting. Five assessment rolls are up for confirmation and a sixth, covering new sidewalks at Macedonia Baptist Church, will be the subject of a public hearing.

City Manager Walter K. Willman said he would recommend a water main on Locke street, Bay to Boyd, if easements can be obtained by the city. Residents on Locke petitioned for the main.

All seven city commissioners are expected to attend the Mackinac Island convention, Willman said.

IGNORE AGITATORS

Two segregationists, including a friend of race agitator John Kasper, turned up at the Orchard Villa School in Miami but were paid no attention by the few white children and the 15 Negroes who arrived for the first day of school.

★ ★ ★

Only four Negroes — those assigned to the school by the Dade County School Board — were admitted at Orchard Villa. Twenty other Negroes were due at a white school at the Homestead Air Force Base elementary school near Miami.

Seven Negroes entered two Alexandria elementary schools without disturbance. It was the start of the second year of token integration in Virginia which gave in to court orders after a year of massive resistance to integration of any kind at the public school level.

The Orchard Villa School in Miami is in a changing neighborhood where the makeup of the community has turned from mostly white to mostly Negro in the past year. Only a few white pupils were left in the district to attend the school. But it signalled Florida's first acceptance of integration in public schools.

Traffic	431
Boating	28
Non-boating drownings	60
Miscellaneous	84
Total	603

The National Safety Council had predicted the 1958 figure of 420 dead in automobile mishaps would be exceeded. It forecast 450 dead during the period from 6 p.m. Friday to last midnight, local time.

With the slowly rising death toll, the council again warned that the all-time high of 461 dead—set in the Labor Day weekend in 1951—was perilously close. In that holiday 658 persons died from accidents of all causes.

The Associated Press surveyed the Aug. 21-24 weekend, a non-holiday period, for comparative purposes. The survey showed 307 dead in traffic accidents, 15 in boating mishaps, 71 in non-boating drownings, 76 dead from miscellaneous causes. The test period total dead was 469.

Knight Faces Charge of 1st Degree Murder

where the cover was so thick it was hard to see a man standing a few feet from you," Childs said. "It could easily have been missed."

Whaley, credited with obtaining Knight's confession, said the 48-year-old one-time butcher told this story:

Souden came to Knight's home in Argentine Thursday to check on reports that a car owned by his stepfather, Carl Wollner, had been spotted in the vicinity of a plant that had been burglarized near Milford.

Souden said Knight fitted the description of the man who had been driving the car and asked him to go with him to the Brighton State Police Post for questioning.

Knight, clad in pajamas, got dressed and returned with a drawn pistol. With the gun at the trooper's back, he climbed into the back seat of the squad car and ordered Souden to drive off.

After a round-about drive over country roads, the car stopped at the abandoned farm, familiar to Knight through frequent hunting trips. Holding the trooper's service pistol at his back, Knight forced Souden to precede him into the woods.

There, Knight said, Souden suddenly bolted and ran. Knight fired at him three times and the trooper fell dead.

Knight, who said he had only intended to tie Souden to a tree and make a get-away, dug a shallow grave. He stripped off the trooper's uniform and buried it about 75 feet away to lessen chances for identification if the body was found.

Knight then walked back to the road, tossed the spent cartridge shells into nearby Cranberry Creek. He drove the car into a bean field across the road and abandoned it.

After removing the cash, Knight tossed Souden's billfold into a bog. He hiked home and sped away in his stepfather's car to the family-owned cottage where State Police arrested him the next day, still in possession of Souden's gun.

Shells, squadcar and billfold were found by searchers within two days. All lay within a mile of the body.

Knight, who has spent most of the last 29 years in state prisons or mental hospitals in Michigan and Ohio, apparently feared arrest would bring another long prison term, officers said.

"He didn't seem distressed about the killing at all," Childs said.

What finally broke through Knight's false veneer of innocence, the commissioner said, appeared to be a combination of fatigue after days of questioning and an appeal by the trooper's wife, Mrs. Clara Souden, 23.

Mrs. Souden, mother of a seven-month-old son, insisted on talking to Knight Sunday night, coming here from her home north of Brighton.

"She was almost certain that her husband was dead, but she didn't want the body to be lying out," Childs said. "She pleaded with Knight to give back her husband's body even if he couldn't bring him back to life."

"We were almost certain from the day we arrested him that Knight was our man," the Commissioner said. "We caught him up on too many lies, especially discrepancies on where he professed to be at different times on the day of the slaying."

Childs said he was distressed that Souden and the Brighton State Police Post had not kept in contact during the burglary investigation. There was no check on the missing trooper between about 9:30 a.m. on the morning he disappeared until late at night when Mrs. Souden telephoned to report her husband had not come home.

"We have rules and regulations, but human beings being as they are, they sometimes forget or are lax," Childs said. "I doubt if we will change any procedures, but I certainly expect our men will be more aware of them from now on."

Funeral service for the slain state trooper will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the Lutheran Church in the tiny Saginaw County community of Marion Springs.

Burial will be at nearby Brant, Souden's home town.

Tavern, Office Building Burn in Swartz Creek

FLINT (AP)—Fire today destroyed the Town Tavern and an adjacent office building in Swartz Creek, five miles west of Flint.

Seven township fire departments answered the general alarm for the blaze, which broke out at 3:45 a.m. Origin of the fire was not determined. There was no immediate estimate of damage.

The Day in Birmingham

Will Request Permission to Build Swimming Pool

BIRMINGHAM — Heading the agenda for tonight's City Commission meeting is a request to permit construction of a neighborhood swimming pool opposite 292 Henley Dr., in the Forest Hills Subdivision.

The request has been submitted by D. K. Simpson of 292 Henley Dr. He stated that residents of the neighborhood would form a swimming pool association — a non-profit organization which would own and operate the pool for the benefit of its members.

Plans call for a pool large enough to serve 50 to 75 people. The project would include landscaping and a fence.

According to Simpson, lifeguards would probably be hired for daytime hours when the pool would be used mostly by children.

The commission is expected to take a request for rezoning at 412 E. Frank St. under consideration.

Frank Van Fleteren of that address wants his property rezoned from multiple family residence to non-retail business. He explained that the area, except for his lot, is given over to business and the property in question is no longer desirable for residential use.

Also on tonight's agenda is a report by Birmingham Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley on a traffic survey conducted at the intersection of Maple and Chester streets.

The survey resulted from a request for a traffic light at the corner. Recommendations by the city's traffic engineering consultant, T. M. Vanderstempel, who conducted the survey, will be heard.

Bernard F. Stanbery

Service for Bernard F. Stanbery 53, of 5215 Winlane Dr., Bloomfield Hills, will be held at 3 p.m. Wednesday from the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. Burial will be in Roseland Park Cemetery, Detroit.

Mr. Stanbery died suddenly of a heart attack Monday at William Beaumont Hospital.

He was manager of the National Bank of Detroit branch in Huntington Woods.

His wife, Gertrude, is a teacher at Brookside, Cranbrook Schools. Mr. Stanbery was a member of Christ Church Cranbrook.

Official to Take Part in National Confab

John A. Streit, assistant director of the Pontiac Parks & Recreation, will take part in the 41st National Recreation Congress Sept. 28 to Oct. 2 in Chicago, Ill.

Streit will participate in a panel discussion on the schools' role in community recreation.

More than 2,000 recreation leaders are expected at the congress, sponsored by the American Recreation Society and the National Recreation Association in cooperation with various other recreation groups.

Mrs. Souden Learns of Husband's Fate

ance and benefit plan lump payments totaling some $18,000 plus an annual pension of nearly $3,000 for herself and her infant son.

State Police financial officials reported Mrs. Clara Souden is eligible for:

1. $10,000 in group life insurance on trooper Souden.

2. Between $6,600 and $6,700 from a voluntary benefit plan in which her husband was enrolled.

3. At least $1,000 for the State Police "100 Club" which is paid in case of violent death.

4. Between $400 and $500 in 18 days accumulated annual leave due her husband.

Mrs. Souden will also receive an annual State Police pension of about $2,850 a year plus $10 a month for her seven-month-old son Edward.

The pension represents one-half of the average salary of her husband for the past two years.

The payments will be made monthly by check and will continue as long as she lives or until she remarries.

Prof. Emeritus Lloyd From U. of M. Is Dead

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Prof. Emeritus Harold R. Lloyd, 79, who taught in the college of engineering at the University of Michigan for 29 years, died Sunday.

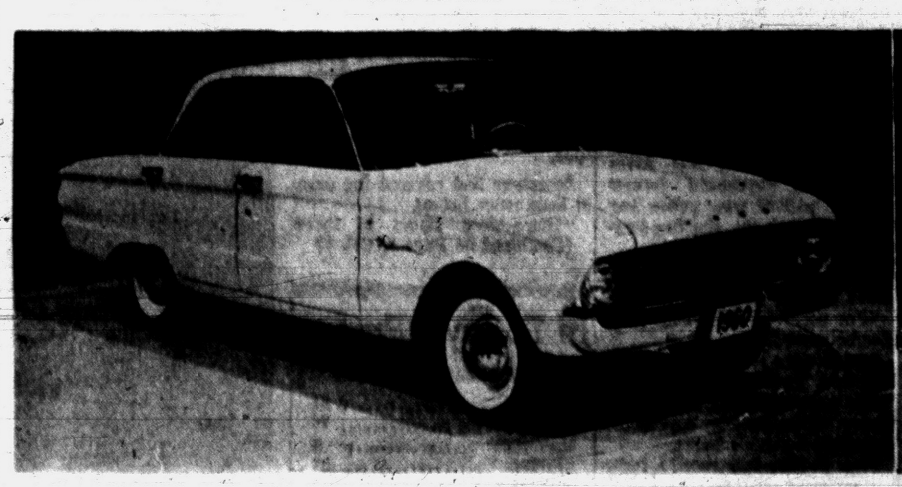
During World War I he returned to his native England to work for a British manufacturing firm. He rejoined the university in 1924 and taught until his retirement nine years ago.

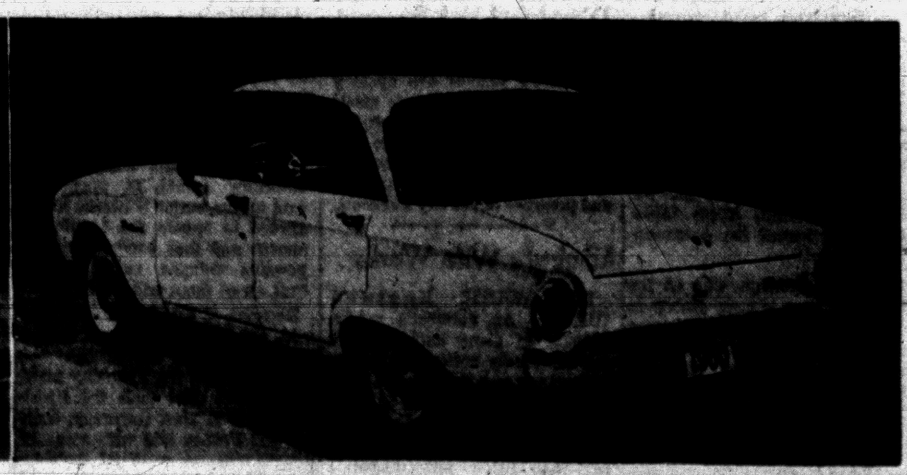
Hart Is With Majority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Sen. Philip A. Hart of Michigan yesterday voted with the majority as the Senate passed 68-14 the farm surplus disposal bill and sent it to the House.

Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich) did not vote on the bill but had announced previously he favored passage of the measure.

Ford Falcon Scheduled for Showrooms Oct. 8





HERE IT COMES — First pictures released of the Ford Motor company's entry in the small car field, show the Falcon, which is scheduled for area dealer's showroom introduction Oct. 8. The six-passenger car is two foot, three inches shorter than the standard Ford, one and one-half inches lower, and six inches narrower. It is powered by a six-cylinder, 90 horsepower cast iron overhead valve engine, and Ford officials say it will be 50 per cent more economical on fuel than the standard Ford. It has a unitized body, and a wheelbase of 109.5 inches, compared to the 118 inch wheelbase of the standard Ford. Production of 100,000 units is anticipated by the end of December, but no price tag has been put on the model. Industry experts anticipate a cost of $1,800 to $2,000, however.

Dingell Warns: Be Nice to Nikita

Says Khrushchev Must Not Go Home Bitter by Our Bad Manners

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John D. Dingell (D-Mich) warned Monday that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev would go home from his U.S. visit "bitter and alienated far beyond his present disposition toward the United States" if Americans threw eggs or tomatoes at him.

He said it was "imperative" that Khrushchev be received with courtesy. He said if Congress was in session when the Russian arrived Sept. 15 it should invite him to address a joint session of the Senate and House.

"Although Americans need not forego their traditional right of free speech and expression, it should be exercised without hostility and disrespect," Dingell told the House in a prepared speech.

He said Khrushchev's visit, President Eisenhower's return trip to Russia, and Vice President Richard M. Nixon's recent tour of the Soviet Union "can result in an opportunity to establish a real peace and mean certain changes in the cold war are already accomplished."

A BROKEN PADDLE — Tawny, two-month-old duck, won't be doing any swimming for awhile. He has great affection for his mistress, Lynn Jones, 12, of Memphis, Tenn. She is shown here looking at Tawny's splinted leg. Tawny's loyalty for Lynn, however, proved to be bad luck for him. He waddled along with her to a backyard swing; when the swing collapsed but throwing her clear, part of the falling swing cracked Tawny's right drumstick. Fast work by a veterinarian saved the day . . . and the duck. Lynn says Tawny makes an unusual tapping sound as he walks around the house these days.

Motive Sought in Slaying of Brazilian Athlete

NAPERVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Police sought today to establish a motive in the gunshot death of a Brazilian athlete whose body was found on a lawn of a small college campus.

★ ★ ★

Ronaldo Duncan Arantes, 26, of Rio de Janeiro, a member of Brazil's rowing team in the third Pan-American Games, had been shot through the heart.

Police speculated he was shot while grappling with an armed bandit.

"We are proceeding with an investigation of homicide, but we are not ruling out the possibility of suicide," said William J. Bauer, state's attorney for Du Page County.

The young man's body lay Monday on a lawn near Geiger Hall on the North Central College campus where the Brazilian team resided during the games.

The pockets of his official team jacket were torn, and only 60 cents were found in them. His wallet, containing $7, was found in his dormitory room.

The dead man's brother, Romulo, coach of the rowing team, said his brother had brought $2,000 from Brazil to purchase firearms.

Bauer said police were seeking a dark-complexioned man described by an Aurora, Ill., sporting goods dealer. The merchant said the unidentified man was with Duncan when the athlete purchased a .38 caliber gun Aug. 26.

A new .38 caliber gun lay near the body. The state's attorney said the serial number on the gun was not the number recorded in the dealer's transaction with Duncan.

Deaths Elsewhere

CHICAGO (AP) — Leverett S. Lyon, 73, onetime dean of the School of Commerce and Finance of Washington University and retired chief executive officer of the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry, died Sunday on a visit to Chicago from his retirement home in Sarasota, Fla.

Six Young Boys Survive Mother's Knife Attack

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—The six young sons of Mrs. Phyliss Clark are alive today, but it was "touch and go" to save one after the woman attempted to slay them all with a butcher knife while they prayed.

The eight-year-old son, Paul, was listed in poor condition today in the same hospital where his injured mother awoke last night to ask her husband, "how many sons do we have left?"

She was sure she killed at least one before nine-year-old Michael George grabbed her knife-wielding arm and held on. Four brothers fled to the home of a neighbor for protection.

Mrs. Clark went berserk while her husband, M. G. Clark, was away on a fishing trip. He returned to find his home bloodied, his wife strapped to a hospital bed and his son near death.

★ ★ ★

Young Paul was first listed in critical condition at the hospital but was later reported improved. "It was touch and go for awhile," a doctor said.

The boys told their story to police.

"She asked Paul if he believed in God. He said he did, and she stabbed him. The rest of the kids started yelling and crying. We didn't know what the matter was with her," Michael said.

The neighbor, Mrs. Pauline Wells, 31, called police as the blood-spattered mother pounded on the door and shouted, "open this door, I have to do away with my children."

Mrs. Clark hammered on the door so hard she shattered a glass pane. A sliver slashed her wrist.

Senate Debating Bond Interest

May Allow Higher Rate on Series E and H, but Passage Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today takes up a bill to allow higher interest rates on Series E and H government savings bonds, with overwhelming passage predicted.

It is expected to touch off a sharp debate over President Eisenhower's companion request for a boost in rates on long-term bonds also, but this is given no chance of Senate approval now.

The House passed the bill covering the savings bonds last Friday 378-7. But first it rejected 256-133 on party lines an attempt to remove the present 4½ per cent ceiling on the marketable securities.

★ ★ ★

Eisenhower had asked removal of the ceiling on government bonds which run five years or more. Shorter term borrowings are not affected.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn) said Sunday he would offer an amendment covering the administration's proposal on the long-term bonds. Later he said he would reconsider the idea.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) quickly served notice he would try to kill such an amendment, if it were pushed to a vote. If the amendment were written into the bill, it would end the legislation for this session, Johnson predicted.

Ex-Gripsholm Carries 100,000th Passenger

NEW YORK (UPI)—The North German Lloyd Liner Berlin sailed Monday with its 100,000th passenger, an 80-year-old Ohioan who has tried twice to retire but can't quit working.

Ludwig Leitner of Lakewood, a suburb of Cleveland, was traveling alone on his first trip abroad in 10 years and his 12th crossing of the Atlantic since 1910 when he came to the United States.

The Berlin was the only ship leaving New York Harbor on the holiday. North German Lloyd purchased the liner, formerly the Gripsholm, from the Swedish-American line Feb. 1, 1954.

Berrien County Fighting Beetles

Local People to Raise Cash for Chemical to Dust Area

ST. JOSEPH (UPI)—The Berrien County Board of Supervisors will be asked Sept. 21 to appropriate $14,000 for chemicals to fight a Japanese beetle outbreak in the county.

The board's agricultural committee agreed to ask for the money after meeting with federal and state agricultural officials to discuss the problem in Chikaming Township on Lake Michigan between Bridgman and New Buffalo.

The committee was told the beetles are confined in a 4,500-acre area of which about half is sand dunes. But the insect, if it spreads, could be a serious menace to the fruit and vegetable industry in Southwestern Michigan.

State Agricultural Department officials said the state would charter a plane to have the area dusted if the county would provide the chemical.

N. E. Turner, U. S. Agriculture Department coordinator for Michigan, said the Japanese beetle problem in Berrien County is not as serious as the outbreak in Monroe County but could spread if efforts are not taken to stamp out the insect.

Turner said Michigan is one of the most progressive and cooperative states in the nation in pest control and he also praised recent efforts by Indiana to stamp out a serious Japanese beetle problem near South Bend.

It is believed the beetles in Chikaming Township came from the South Bend area.

German Leader Slams Custom of Full-Dress

BONN, Germany (AP) — Retiring President Theodor Heuss, no lover of pomp, has made a bid for more informality in the protocol-ridden official society of this capital.

He slapped down a suggestion that only full evening dress or gala uniforms be worn at the inauguration reception of his successor, Heinrich Luebke, who takes office Sept. 15.

The West German Institute for Men's Fashions complained because the president-elect had decreed only dark suits for the reception. The institute said international custom required tails or uniforms.

Heuss replied that he has "seldom read such a silly and arrogant statement."

He said the reception was not just for those few how owned tail suits or could wear decorations.

Heuss generally wears a plain business suit or black jacket and striped pants on more formal occasions. He reluctantly climbs into full evening dress when it is imperative.

Protestant Leaders to Meet With Ike

NEW YORK (AP)—A number of United States Protestant leaders will meet with President Eisenhower Wednesday to discuss world peace.

★ ★ ★

The leaders will represent most of the member denominations of the World Council of Churches, which planned the visit, according to the Rev. Daniel M. Potter, who announced the meeting.

★ ★ ★

He is executive director of the Protestant Council of the City of New York. He said he expected Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit here would be one of the topics discussed.

He preached at Broadway Congregational church, where he urged that America "show her spiritual greatness" to Khrushchev.

Discover Worms With Memory

CINCINNATI (AP)—Discovery: a worm that never forgets and passes its memories on to generations of its offspring.

This remarkable ability indicates that some memory, perhaps even in humans, may be chemical in nature and passed on by heredity, a University of Michigan psychologist said today.

The worm is a common freshwater flatworm. With it, Dr. James V. McConnell and his fellow researchers conducted an unusual experiment, reported to the American Psychological Assn.

Flatworms were placed in a trough of water which is rigged to give them a slight shock. Electric light bulbs are hooked up over the trough and a second or two after the lights are turned on, the worms are shocked.

The shock makes the worms contract suddenly. This is done about 150 times. By then most of the worms contract automatically when the light is turned on.

Now the worms are cut in half. Each half regenerates into a new worm. The head half with the brain and two eyes grows a tail and the tail half grows a head. These worms are given a brief retraining period of 23 shocks.

To test the memory still further, the researchers trained some more worms, cut them in half and threw the tails away. When the heads grew new tails, they were cut in half again and this time the head was thrown away.

This left the psychologists with an entirely regenerated worm. They subjected the new worm to the short retraining procedure and found the worm caught on or remembered almost as fast as the worms in the first experiment.

Why does the worm's body—even the part without the brain—seem to be able to pass on memory?

The best guess is that this particular memory is biochemical in nature — works through a change in some key chemical in the worm's body, Dr. McConnell said.

If this is so, it could provide some unusual new ideas in genetics and evolution.

60 Japanese Planning Emigration to Brazil

TOKYO (AP)—The 60 inhabitants of a tiny Japanese island, are planning to emigrate to new homes 12,000 miles away in Brazil.

A Japanese Catholic priest, Father Tetsuji Sasaki, has received word from a friend in Sao Paulo, that the Brazilian government has granted authorization for the immigration. He is trying to raise $555 for the islanders' train fare to Kobe, port of embarkation.

Aircraft Phone Service Now Possible 450 Miles

CAMBRIDGE, England (UPI)—Safer Atlantic air travel is envisaged with the aid of a new radio-telephone system developed by the Pye Company of Cambridge, a spokesman said today.

Voice communication with aircraft, previously limited to 150 miles, has been increased to 450 miles with the new system, and up to 1,000 miles under favorable conditions, the spokesman said.

Pair, Both 100, Wed 79 Years; Still Working

SPRUCE PINE, N. C. (AP) — Uncle Will Ledford and his wife, both 100 years old, celebrate their 79th wedding anniversary today.

Uncle Will's eyesight is dim, but both of them do their work around the house, with a little help from relatives.

Except for one year, they've spent all their lives in Mitchell County. All but one of their six children is still living. There are 36 grandchildren, 54 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

taste WHY THE BUBBLES DANCE FOR JOY!

Yet—and here's the big point—they're light and mild, and so gentle to drink!

The reason? 86 proof Old Taylor—lightest full-flavored Kentucky bourbon you can buy—is the same in quality as our famous 100 proof bonded bourbon. That, of course, means the absolute top!

A deeply satisfying highball can be light on the palate—as your first taste of Old Taylor 86 will prove, delightfully!

Eisenhower Popularity Should Show Khrushchev Who's First

When NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV sits down to talk turkey with our DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, he will be facing the most powerful and the most influential man in the world.

★ ★ ★

KHRUSHCHEV may have secretly entertained delusions of grandeur in which he figured he was occupying this strategic role himself. Privately, he may have considered our President a close runner-up, but definitely in second place.

★ ★ ★

Any such notion has been dispelled. And the balloon burst with a mighty bang! When "Ike" made his current trip, the reception he received in city after city on the other side of the ocean left no doubts as to who was who.

Our Mr. Eisenhower is first.

This simply means that at a very fortuitous time in world history, our chieftain finds his hand strengthened immeasurably through the medium of good, old fashioned popular acclaim. And the chief significance lies in the fact it's international.

KHRUSHY, think that one over.

But you won't like it.

SOME one asks if it is correct to say that a person "climbs down a tree." Of course not. A person unclimbs a tree.

House Sustains Veto of Rivers-Harbors Bill

By a matter of one vote the House sustained President EISENHOWER's veto of the public works "pork barrel" appropriation bill. The measure now goes to the Senate.

This is the third time in three years that the President has refused Congress' first try at slipping through a padded list of river and harbor projects with something for everyone.

The vetoed bill would have appropriated $1.2 billion for army engineers and the bureau of reclamation. No doubt many of the projects are needed but Congress included funds for 67 unbudgeted new ones in 32 states. Last January Mr. EISENHOWER pointed out that many civil works already were in progress and that there was no need for more new starts.

The 67 unbudgeted items would have cost $50 million the first year ($30 million more than the budget message had proposed) but would ultimately cost $800 million. This, the President warned, is a built-in future budget boost and an abandonment of fiscal responsibility.

Unfortunately the President hasn't any power of item veto. He cannot delete objectionable parts of an appropriation bill. It's all or nothing. Politicians don't want him to have this power. It would interfere with the narrow interests of their constituents.

Area's Growing Crops Liked the Heat Wave

Hot and moist weather is the best kind of growing weather.

So most of the farmers in the Pontiac area saw boosters to their bank accounts grow while everybody was sweltering in the heat.

While our precipitation never before was so spotty, the greater part of our land area had the moisture and humidity which are the principal accessories to extreme heat in making all growing crops thrive.

The rains generally came in such streaks that a deluge and a drouth often were separated by less than a mile.

One day in driving 20 miles we ran through four downpours, each less than a mile wide, with parched pavements and dust blown fields between.

On the whole, it is hardly probable that the 1959 crop yields in Oakland County and vicinity will be above the average.

The hot growing period, where they had the moisture, helped all vegetation to overcome the late start of last spring.

★ ★ ★

"I Gotta Go Now and See How the Other Half Lives"

David Lawrence Says:

New Labor Reform Bill No Cure-All

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—It would be unfortunate if the country got the impression that the new law just passed by Congress to provide certain "labor reforms" is really a cure for all the many abuses that have been uncovered in labor union practices.

The new legislation, for instance, contains a "bill of rights" guaranteeing free speech in labor union meetings for members and providing for secret ballots when officers are elected or assessments are imposed, but it says absolutely nothing about the most important of all civil rights in the employment field—the right to join or to refuse to join a labor union.

Thus, in free America today, a supergovernment of private citizens can keep anyone from working in a chosen trade unless he or she accepts the union's dictation. The employer is coerced under penalty of a costly strike to agree by contract to fire any worker who doesn't join a union shortly after being hired.

This form of compulsion is, unfortunately, permitted under the Taft-Hartley Act passed in 1947, and it might be thought that, with all the talk about "labor reform," some start would have been made by Congress in the new law to emancipate those who are held under such bondage in present-day labor unions.

The new legislation is good so far as it goes in seeking to punish racketeering, fraud or violence, and to eliminate coercive tactics inside unions, including the misuse of dues money by unscrupulous labor leaders.

It is significant that the labor union leaders who declare that only a few persons are racketeers do not seem ready to accept a federal system for the detection and punishment of such crimes.

It is argued that, because most labor union officers are honest, no such legislation as has just been passed is necessary. Actually, by the same process of reasoning there would not be a justification for any criminal laws since the number of offenders has always been relatively small compared to the law-abiding population.

UNCOVERED ABUSES

The investigating committee of the Senate under the superb leadership of Senator John McClellan, Democrat, of Arkansas has uncovered many abuses in the operation of labor unions by officers. The public has been horrified to learn the facts about the misuse of union funds and the graft in "blackmail picketing" of innocent employers not involved in a strike.

Some of the labor leaders who spent Labor Day denouncing the new law do not realize how far down in the esteem of labor union members themselves labor union officers in many parts of the country have fallen. Nor is it realized how deeply resentful the wives and families of workers feel because of the misuse of union dues.

When labor unions originally succeeded, first under the Wagner Act and later under the Taft-Hartley Act, in putting the federal government into the business of supervising the collective bargaining process, it was inevitable that subsequent laws would be passed exercising the regulatory power still further.

Now under the latest law each union must file detailed financial reports annually with the Department of Labor in Washington and furnish data also on any loans or payments made in connection with labor union activity. Many trade union activities are listed and made the subject of criminal charges by the Department of Justice.

Naturally, many of the labor leaders don't want any federal supervision but, as has often been said, with power goes responsibility. The federal government now requires labor union officers to show themselves responsible to the members.

For the first time, for instance, every labor union member can demand from his union a copy of the agreements with the employer—these cannot be kept secret. Also, the right of the member to sue when his grievance against the union has not been settled is specifically provided for in the new statute.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

A dispute also arose among them, which of them was to be regarded as the greatest.—Luke 22:24.

★ ★ ★

Dr. William Brady Says:

Optimal Vitamin Ration Necessary for Recovery

It is practically impossible for the great majority to return to the undenaturized diet followed by all 150 years ago. Supplementing the present diet with suitable rations of vitamins may prevent some of the deficiency manifestations, and even cure them if they are of recent development.

But one who is already subject to such a condition must get an optimal ration of the necessary vitamins daily over a period of several months perhaps if he or she hopes for a cure. Optimal ration means considerably more of the vitamin or vitamins than may be required merely to prevent deficiency manifestations.

For instance, an individual who has night blindness, dry eyes, nut-meg grater skin, hyperthyroidism, or low immunity to respiratory infections cannot depend on foods which are particularly rich in Vitamin A, nor upon a small daily dose of carotene nor even on a small daily dose of real vitamin A.

DR. BRADY

In order to obtain a cure he or she should take not less than 50,000 units of vitamin A natural every day for several months. After the deficiency manifestation has disappeared, a smaller daily ration will suffice to keep nutrition normal.

When the nails become thin, ridged, pitted, easily broken and slow-growing it will not suffice to include more vitamin-rich foods in the diet; one must supplement the diet with optimal rations of vitamin D and vitamin G (B2, riboflavin) for three or four months — it takes that long to grow new nails.

Experience in treating the milder cases of Pellagra seen in all classes in the north and west as well as in the southern part of the country, has proved that correction of the diet alone, while of course necessary and helpful, gives but indifferent results compared with the uniform, steady gains made when the diet is supplemented with optimal daily rations of nicotinic acid.

Likewise, is the elderly person with failing eyesight due to clouding of the vision, which often gives rise to fear of cataract, it is certainly advisable to see that the patient's diet is supplemented with daily optimal rations of vitamin C and riboflavin, rather than depending on foods alone to supply these vitamins.

Finally, in cases of cheilosis (fissures at angles of mouth, maceration of skin around angles of mouth, reddening of lips along line of closure, thin, shiny and denuded mucous membrane on lips), which is sometimes associated with itching, burning and sensation of roughness in eyes, photophobia (hypersensitiveness to light) and keratitis (corneal inflammation), it is imperative to supplement the best diet that be contrived with riboflavin for it is lack of enough riboflavin in the food that has caused both the eye and lip manifestations.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Be Sure You Have Reason for Divorce'

According to the legal encyclopedia, grounds for divorce in Michigan are adultery, impotency at time of marriage, desertion for two years, habitual drunkenness, failure to support, extreme cruelty, prison sentence of three years or more.

'Republicans Show Their True Color'

It's very obvious the Republican party is very loyal to corporations and all the big money interests, loyal to the point of discrimination against the many to serve a few.

★ ★ ★

It seems that loyalty knew no bounds in Lansing when they imposed more taxes on the sick, the aged, the poor and the blind, in the form of a sales tax to get more money for Michigan's fanatical spending.

★ ★ ★

Although corporations made more money this year than for many years, Republicans couldn't see a corporation or income tax. Oh, well, there will be another election, and then how about a Democrat Governor, Senate and House that would stop political bickering and create a better understanding of Michigan needs. I know six Republican votes the last election that will be six Democrat votes the next election.

'Why Are Charges So Much Different?'

Will someone please explain the difference in charges for emergency treatment at Pontiac General and at St. Joseph?

★ ★ ★

We noticed a festered spot on our daughter's foot that looked as though it contained a sliver. Not wanting to wait, we took her to General where they drained it and gave her a tetanus shot and handed me a bill for $25 after refusing to accept my Blue Cross, although I had full coverage. I was told $3 was for the doctor, $3 for medication and $18.75 for emergency fees.

★ ★ ★

The next day our son stepped on a nail and we went to St. Joseph, where they cleansed the wound, gave him a tetanus shot and accepted Blue Cross. I was told the charge would be $6.00 and insurance would cover it. I can't understand why there should be such a difference.

Disgusted

'Let People In on Keego Renewal'

I'm very much interested in urban renewal for Keego Harbor and have attended all the meetings. At each meeting I've observed people walking out in disgust because they were unable to get their questions answered satisfactorily.

I've lived in Keego Harbor for over 25 years and am in favor of anything that will improve our city. However, those sponsoring this project should get on the ball and find some of the answers and make the information available to the public.

If they don't, it will certainly be turned down at the polls because people aren't going to vote for something they know nothing about. Many of our citizens are retired people and want to know what they're voting for or else they may "jump from the frying pan into the fire."

'Maybe There Is More to Story'

I wonder if the student who told of eating mashed potatoes and peanut butter sandwiches for school lunch was questioned further as to what other foods were served. You might find that was all the child liked and would eat. I'm sure there were protein, vegetable or fruit served. Also, who drank the milk?

★ ★ ★

Have you ever seen some of the nourishing lunches mothers pack that are thrown in the waste basket for a hamburger and pop?

★ ★ ★

I'm glad mothers are interested in balanced meals. However, help your school lunch staff and teachers by insisting your child eat his school lunch. I do know Johnny eats well at school if he eats the food served to him.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Students Good Judges of Teacher

Notice Paul's debate with his professor. Do you side with Paul or the teacher? We Applied Psychologists have long urged "consumer surveys," both in business and politics, as well as among students and even parishioners. So you should be able to guess how we would vote on Paul's challenging question.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"Dr. Crane," he began, "What do you think of our new plan at the University of Southern California whereby students rate their professors?

DR. CRANE

"Our student opinions are pooled, after which major criticisms and compliments are included in a report for the teacher every year or so.

"One of our leading professors is dead set against having profs rated by students.

"He argues that nobody but a professor of history is qualified to rate a professor of history!

"Do you think that is true? Students are the 'customers' who pay tuition for history and psychology and chemistry, etc., so can't we judge poor teachers vs. those who are superior?"

CONSUMER SURVEYS

We psychologists have long been urging the "consumer survey," not only in business and politics, but also in college classrooms.

★ ★ ★

And the ratings by the parishioners count! For the pastors are given a salary increase and often promoted to bigger churches, just by the opinions of those parishioners.

Physicians and dentists are likewise rated by patients, who refuse to patronize a doctor if the latter fails to come up to the popular specifications of a successful medis or dentist.

★ ★ ★

Are teachers entitled to any special freedom from similar ratings by the "customers" who pay their salaries via tuition fees?

'FRAIDY CAT PROFS

Professors who fear to be rated by their "customers" are much like susupected criminals who refuse to take a "lie detector" test.

It is inane to argue that students are wholly incompetent to judge a teacher. Teaching breaks down into many facets most of which are easily within the comprehension of students.

For example, a good teacher should keep the interest of students so they don't snore during class.

Students are mental adults at 16 and capable of just as logical thought processes as anybody on the faculty, for at 16 the brain reaches maturity.

Can't they detect a prof who is partial to nylon clad calves on the front rows and who thus rates cute coeds more highly in term grades?

Can't students tell whether a prof is an enthusiastic salesman for his subject, or a bored dispenser of a "canned" lecture which he concocted maybe 20 years earlier and has never brought up to date, even as regards its jokes?

As a rule, it is only the guilty who fear judgment! And it wakes up a lot of old fogy profs to learn they are to be rated by the "customers."

So send for my "Test for a Good Teacher," enclosing a stamped envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). Let college and high school youth employ it to show how well a prof is putting his ideas across.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 6c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Bob Considine Tells Cancer Story

Dr. Dooley Says: Don't Get Maudlin

NEW YORK — Dr. Tom Dooley said no, he didn't mind talking about cancer. His cancer, that is.

World famous at 32, the Notre Dame and St. Louis University doctor whose patients are the diseased and maimed refugees of Laos sat up gingerly in his bed at Memorial, revealing what he calls his "bra"—a massive chest dressing which conceals his recent cancer surgery.

"Just don't get maudlin about it," he said, his face as illuminated as a mischievous altar boy. "I got a cancer. Period. I flew here to Memorial and because of immediate, radical and superb surgery I no longer have a cancer.

"Now, the next question, I'm sure, will be 'What about the future?' That's easy to answer. I think I have more than an even chance of living out my normally allotted time. The thing to guard against is sympathy. You know, 'Why did God cut you down just at the beginning of your life's work?' and 'Why you?—why not some gangster or juvenile delinquent?'

"I'm getting a couple hundred letters a day from all over, mostly sympathy. Good people. A nice lady in Fort Worth sent me a clipping which read something like 'Dooley Doomed to Die.' In her note she tried to cheer me up by saying that the story had appeared on the front page, no less.

"People write to me to tell me they're praying for me. Fine. If I die and get to Heaven I'm going to walk right up to God and say, 'What the Hell did you do about all those prayers?' "

A cloud swept his sunny face.

HE'S ANGRY

"Seriously, I'm damned angry at this cancer for slowing me up. But it's taught me something, too. I've talked to some people around here who have cancer and think in terms of life for a certain number of remaining months or years. That's wrong, I think. My religion teaches me that I've got to think about what I do with each hour, each minute.

"Another thing that happens to a cancer victim is he begins to remember all the things he can't do thereafter—can't eat this, can't go here, can't have kids, can't dance, can't do anything but die.

"I think it's more important to say 'I can, I can, I can,' and concentrate on the things you can do than to begin every sentence with 'I can't . . .'

Tom Dooley doesn't have the time to die.

"I've got so much to do," he said, getting out of bed and pacing his room lithely. "I'm leaving here tomorrow, and that's a miracle in itself. I underwent massive surgery just a week and a day ago for a malignant melanoma, and now I'm going home—bra and all. I feel like a million bucks."

The line reminded him that he needs a million, much more actually. Dooley is one of the founders of MEDICO, a nonpolitical, nonsectarian, nongovernmental medical task force whose dedicated little staffs have fanned out through Laos, Cambodia, Burma, Pakistan, Kenya, Haiti, Gabon Republic and Peru.

The mission is not only to treat millions of sufferers from all the ancient diseases of filth and ignorance but also train the natives to treat their own. Dooley's first 30-mat hospital in Laos is now completely staffed by Laotians.

"Look how they dance," he said to us, getting out of his bed again. "This is the Laos dance of the Molams, the minstrel dancers," and he went into the graceful hand motions and the postures of the ritualistic grind.

"They broadcast the news to their fellow countrymen, these Molams—and you should do it as well. Hank Miller of our American mission out there—the antonym of The Ugly American—he lets a group hear the news, then they put it into sing-song, like a calypso, rebroadcast it—like 'Dear old John Foster Dulles, He full of cancer,' and it's picked up and wonderfully chanted and danced through the rest of the land.

"But try to sell THAT to Congress."

'Balanced Diet Comes First'

So Says Senator in Comment on Budget Moves of GOP

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex) says he is "at least as concerned with a balanced diet as with a balanced budget."

"I believe we can and should balance both," he said Sunday night in addressing the 55th annual convention dinner of the Zionist Organization of America, Southwest Region, comprising Arkansas.

"But what would you think of a father who said 'I'll balance my budget at home even if the baby gets no milk and grows up undernourished and suffering from malnutrition' " he continued.

"What do you think of a government that says, 'We'll balance the budget first, and furnish food for the hungry, housing for the aged and education for the youth, in the treasury?' Of course there will be no surplus."

Yarborough said he favored continuing U.S. ties with Israel.

Commenting on the forthcoming U.S. visit of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, he added: "If, under the new look, it's all right to shake hands, wrists and elbows with the big Communist boss, Khrushchev, what's wrong with a pat on the back for our old democratic, trustworthy friend David Ben Gurion?"

Europe Trade Tour Planned by Benson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson announced today that he will leave Sept. 23 on a European trade tour including visits to the Soviet Union and Poland.

Plans for the trip had been disclosed a month ago, with its timing depending on the adjournment of Congress.

In travels extending until Oct. 9, Benson also will visit Yugoslavia, West Germany, Poland, Finland, Sweden and Norway.

Benson said the tour was part of a long range world agricultural trade and market development program planned earlier in the Eisenhower administration.

Three territories and 28 states comprise Mexico.

Leave to Get Prisoner

Waterford Township Police Chief Millard J. Pender and Sgt. Ernest Mann left early today for Columbia, S.C., to bring back John M. Wise, 29, of Ferndale, accused of stealing some $400 from Scribb's Restaurant, 150 S. Telegraph Rd., on Aug. 26.

Bears have a "sweet tooth" and are very destructive to sawtimber because they strip away bark of trees to get to the early spring sap in the trees. This makes useless the lower portions of a tree trunk.

About 70 per cent of the milk produced is used for the manufacture of various dairy products.

Rep. Charline White Found Dead at 39

DETROIT (AP)—State Rep. Charline White, 39, of Detroit, was found dead in bed today. An autopsy was ordered to determine the cause.

Rep. White, a Negro, had represented Detroit's 11th house district since 1950 and was in her fifth term.

A native of Atlanta, Ga., she moved to Detroit in 1923 and had lived here since. She was in the florist business.

She was a Democrat.

Mrs. White, divorced wife of radio disc jockey Leroy G. White, was found in bed at her home. Doctors said she apparently died of natural causes.

She had been under a physician's care for diabetes and low blood pressure.

Four Injured in Head-On Auto Collision

Four persons were injured in a head-on collision Monday evening on Parkdale street, Avon Township, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

One of the drivers, Anthony J. Katanowski, 32, of 3723 Woodlawn, Detroit, was taken to Pontia General Hospital where his left arm was amputated last night. He also suffered a broken hip. He was reported in satisfactory condition today.

His son, Joseph, 5, was treated for facial injuries and released. Another passenger, Lawrence Kunarski, 8, of 3111 Elizabeth St., Utica, was taken to the hospital with a broken left leg and is in satisfactory condition.

Ernest J. Hall, 31, of 1405 S. Hospital Rd., Waterford Township, the other driver, was uninjured. His son, Richard, 6, was treated for minor head cuts at Avon Center Hospital.

Giant Parade Marks Detroit's Labor Day

DETROIT (AP) — A giant parade under a blistering sun and hot speeches by labor and political leaders marked Labor Day — 1959 in Detroit.

An estimated 50,000 marchers tramped down Woodward avenue in 90 degree heat for nearly five hours yesterday to honor the day dedicated to the working man.

OVER 35 YEARS of DEPENDABLE SERVICE

If your tensions upset you... you're not alone!

If your tensions sometimes make you worried or irritable or upset, you should know this: you're not alone!

In today's complex world, nearly all of us have minor emotional problems from time to time. And at present one out of every ten Americans has a problem so serious he or she needs medical attention. For these people, modern treatment offers great hope for complete recovery.

As for the rest of us, our problems don't need medical attention, but they do keep us from enjoying life as much as we should. They do make us, and those around us, unhappy much of the time.

To help each of us learn how to control our own tensions, a prominent psychiatrist has written a booklet called "How To Deal With Your Tensions". In it, he lists a number of proven suggestions that can help you keep your tensions from getting the best of you, and thus live a happier, fuller life.

Tokyo Counting Over 9 Million in Population

TOYKO (AP) — The population of Tokyo has exceeded nine million, the statistics bureau reports.

It said Tokyo's population on Aug. 1 totaled 9,100,539, consisting of 4,711,401 males and 4,389,138 females. The figure represented an increase of 295,422 over the corresponding date last year.

Predict More Aged

WASHINGTON — About 16 million Americans will be over age 65 in 1969, about 21 million in 1975, and at least 26.5 million by the turn of the century.

Alaska's population is nearing the 200,000 mark.

Process of Seeding Forests by Air Rises

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Aerial seeding of new forests is increasing by leaps and bounds nationally, but the greatest use of this new technique is being made on forest industry lands in the Pacific Northwest.

Some 32,906 acres of industry tree farms and other private forest lands were aerially seeded in that section of the country last year, according to the Department of Agriculture. This was 63 per cent of the 51,848-acre total for the nation as a whole.

Phone Operators Gain

NEW YORK — Despite the increase of dial phones, the number of operators in the U. S. has gained 79 per cent in recent years.

Maine Newspaperman Named to N.Y. Post

Oriental Senator Says Time Cure for Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first man of oriental origin to serve in the Senate says time and education will be the real cure for the civil rights problem.

"We shouldn't try to rush into it," Sen. Hiram L. Fong (R-Hawaii) said on a television program Sunday. He was interviewed by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass).

"As one who believes the precept that man is created equal," Sen. Fong said, "I also believe that we could not rush headlong into legislation to legislate a mode of living."

Start Production of Jet Injector

Experts Call It Step in Painless Serum Shots Program

Company experts say this means one more big step toward possible painless serum shots to protect human beings against disease, including polio.

The jet injector is high-velocity medical gun that takes the place of the doctor's needle and syringe. The psychological fear of the needle doesn't exist.

Fast, mass inoculations have been one result.

Scherer's multidose gun, already in use at military installations and public health agencies, is motor-powered and is a refinement of the original single-dose injector.

It works so fast that a thousand persons can be inoculated within an hour's time by one operator.

Scherer's is the engineering firm with plants on this continent and in Europe which Robert P. Scherer, a doctor's son, built up while making a fortune from a soft and elastic gelatin capsule. This is the type of capsule that usually contains your drug store vitamin.

In recent years, Scherer Corp. also developed the serum-shooting gun. It was used to combat a cholera epidemic in Thailand with approval of the U.S. State Department a few years ago.

Can't Find Their Own Clark Gable

Women in America Quite Unhappy

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Many women in America are intensely unhappy.

The ages at which they are most miserable are from 22 to 40.

The cities in which the female unhappiness quotient is highest are Las Vegas, Miami, New York and Hollywood, in that order.

The cities where women are happiest are Portland, Denver, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, in that order.

The reasons for unhappiness vary, but the chief causes for frustration are unrealistic goals which modern American society puts in the path of its women.

A girl is taught that her ideal mate should look like Clark Gable and have a position like the board chairman of General Motors. She seeks him in vain.

The reasons for happiness, at least of a temporary nature, are many. But the happiest women, generally, are the ones who are adjusted to their particular environment—who are either too unimaginative, or too psychologically shrewd, to establish such unrealistic goals for themselves.

USES HAP-OMETER

Happiness makes a woman beautiful.

But beauty of face and body rarely makes a woman happy.

And the happiest girl in America is Miss Linda Watson, 21, an office worker, and the daughter of a minister in Stone Mountain, Ga.

These are the findings of a goateed giant of a man named Jim Moran. They do not necessarily reflect the opinions of this happy paper or of yours truly, who finds life laugh-worthy even though residing in New York City.

Equipped with a small, allegedly electronic device called a "happometer," he has just concluded a tour of 24 American cities, testing and talking to nearly 1,500 girls, in search of "the happiest girl in America—happy as a lark, that is." Mister Moran is employed by an automobile company which shall remain nameless, though obvious.

HIS CONCLUSION

"I have looked at several acres of female teeth, seeking genuinely happy smiles," he said. "I have tape-recorded more than 1,000 female voices. I have interviewed and tested all potential 'happees,' shall we say. And this is my general conclusion:

"Women are in bad shape, very bad shape, because there is great confusion in our society as to what is expected of them. Their general position in our society is not clearly defined, as it is in less emancipated countries. Part of the confusion results from their personal psychological struggle between home and career, but mainly it's because society sets up this ridiculous goal about the good looking, successful man they should nab.

"Then a girl finds herself going with a guy who drives a motorcycle and doesn't look like Gable, and she's madly in love with him. But she's eternally disappointed in herself—settling for a man on a motorcycle instead of on a white charger . . . realizing she's never going to look across a crowded room and see 'Him' standing there."

Moran rated the women he met on arbitrary happiness scale, zero to 10—zero being a state of acute misery, and 10 being just short of death by ecstasy. He found girls under 22 to have high happiness ratings because "they're still having fun; they haven't had time to be less successful than society dictates they must be."

After 40, women also rate high, because "by then they are philosophical." In between? A potpourri of racing emotions, hope smashing its head against hopelessness.

As for Linda Watson of Stony Mountain, Moran's choice for the happiest girl in the U.S., he doesn't know exactly why she's so happy. Unless it's because she is young, has a close family tie, and comes from a tiny town.

"In small towns," he concludes, "a girl has elbow room. Which means she doesn't have to put her guard up so high."

Nikita Won't Follow Bishop's Suggestion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike says he is disappointed that the White House hasn't followed his suggestion of arranging for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to attend church here during his visit Sept. 20.

In his sermon Sunday at Grace Cathedral Bishop Pike recalled he proposed two weeks ago that Khrushchev be invited to attend church here "as an observer."

★ ★ ★

Federal Trade Group Bars Size Exaggeration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission today approved a consent order which bars Karastan Rug Mills Inc., New York City, from exaggerating the size of the rugs it manufactures.

Karastan is a subdivision of Fieldcrest Mills Inc., Spray, N.C.

Both the FTC and the company agreed to the order, which does not constitute an admission by the company that it violated the law.

In a complaint isued March 17, the FTC said labels which purported to give the approximate size of Karastan rugs were almost always larger than their actual dimensions.

Callas, Onassis Dating?

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Milan buzzed today over dating between Maria Meneghini Callas and shipowner Aristotle Onassis. Italian papers said the stormy soprano's marriage is headed for the rocks.

Miss Callas appeared again Monday night in the company of the fabulous Greek who has figured in stories of trouble between the 35-year-old singer and her 62-year-old husband, Italian industrialist Giovan Battista Meneghini.

Newsmen confronted Onassis and the diva outside La Scala Opera where Miss Callas scored many of her triumphs. They asked about the reports of a rift and a romance.

"I cannot make any statement yet," Miss Callas replied. "Maybe I shall be able to make one in a couple of days after consulting my lawyers."

★ ★ ★

Said Onassis: "I am a sailor and these are things which may happen to a sailor."

★ ★ ★

Right-to-Work Gets Boost

C. of C. President Feels Such Laws Would Go Far to Clean Unions

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Erwin D. Canham, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce said today that "certain elements in labor are asking for trouble, and they are liable to find it."

★ ★ ★

Canham, who is also editor of the Christian Science Monitor, said right-to-work laws would go far toward cleaning up what he said are corrupt unions.

★ ★ ★

Canham, in a speech prepared for delivery to the Spokane Chamber of Commerce, said: "Employes should have the right to join a union, but they should be equally free not to join—or to change unions."

★ ★ ★

Union corruption would be self-liquidating if members were free to withdraw when officials abused power, Canham said. Union officials would then be forced to earn the loyalty of members, he said.

A right-to-work law is one which outlaws union shop and closed shop agreements, in which an employe is required to join a union in order to get, or keep, a job.

Electronics Aids Language Pupils

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A student sits in a glass-paneled isolation booth, ears glued to his headphones, lips repeating the strange phrases he hears, eyes watching the intercommunication panel for instructions from the central control room.

A scene from Buck Rogers? No, just a preview of what freshman language students may expect in the University of San Francisco's recently completed Electronic Language Laboratory.

The new $40,000 installation, equipped with the latest recording devices, is "an attempt of the university to correct a recognized weakness in the American educational system—its failure to produce students who have proficiency in at least one foreign language," said the Rev. F. X. Connolly, S.J., president of the school.

Under this new system of language instruction, each student will spend four hours a week in the laboratory and only two in regular class, compared with the customary four weekly hours of classroom time.

The laboratory can handle 60 students per hour, each in a private booth. Dual turntables allow the student to listen to a master record as many times as he thinks necessary to perfect the understanding, speaking, reading and writing of each lesson.

★ ★ ★

To give maximum individual instruction, sectional control allows the teacher to monitor each student while central control allows him to communicate with any individual booth.

Father Connolly pointed out that students can proceed at their own pace, allowing each to reach his potential in the shortest possible time.

"The above-average student will not be held back. He will be urged to go ahead and, as an incentive to progress, will be allowed to petition at any time for his final examination," the president explained.

In conjunction with the stepped-up language program, the university has announced that beginning with the freshman class of 1959, each student must take a language and achieve high proficiency in it before obtaining his undergraduate degree.

The student must be able to read, write and understand the language as well as speak it with a native in the tongue.

"Future University of San Francisco students will be the beneficiaries of the new language requirement," Father Connolly said. "In the modern world of international living, the knowledge of a foreign language is essential for a college graduate today.

She's Too Slender to Get Teaching Job

DENVER (UPI) — Marlinda Mason's 117 pounds may be distributed well enough to make her a bona fide beauty queen, but Denver public school authorities say the Miss Colorado of 1960 is to thin to teach.

Marlinda is 5' 6½" tall. The School Health Service, quoting nationally recognized health standards, says this means she would have to weigh at least 124 pounds to get a permanent teaching job.

Eisenhower Approves 3rd Bill on Housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee today approved a third-try, billion-dollar housing bill after receiving assurances President Eisenhower would sign it.

The committee made only three changes in the second measure Eisenhower vetoed last week. But Chairman A. Willis Robertson (D-Va) said these changes were enough to gain definite word from the White House that the new version would be approved.

ONLY THREE CHANGES

The word came, Robertson said, after a meeting of Republican congressional leaders with the President this morning.

The biggest change in the new bill is the elimination of a 50-million-dollar direct loan program for college classrooms. This program brought strong objections from Eisenhower.

DIFFERENCES LISTED

The other changes were:

1. Elimination of an Oct. 1, 1960, cutoff date on the eight billion dollars of new authority for the FHA mortgage insurance program.

2. A change in the urban renewal, or slum clearance, program to provide that the 650 million dollars of new grant money for cities will not be avilable all at once but over a two-year period. The bill would allow 350 million the first year, and 300 million the second. The President had protested that all of the 650 million might be spent in one year.

Security Council Halts Russian Veto Attempt, Selects Four Nations

From Our News Wires

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The U. S. Security Council brushed aside an attempted Soviet veto today and set up a four-nation subcommittee to look into Laos' charges of Communist aggression.

The 11-nation council put Argentina, Italy, Japan and Tunisia on the subcommittee by a 10-1 vote for a resolution sponsored by Britain, France and the United States.

The three sponsors are members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, which has declared Laos in its defensive area.

The vote came five minutes after midnight toward the end of an emergency session that began on Labor Day afternoon and stretched through eight hours of talk and a dinner break.

SEEK QUICK CHECK

Delegates expressed hope the subcommittee would go quickly to Laos and bring back the facts as a basis for possible further action.

Koto Matsudaira of Japan expressed belief it would serve as a "United Nations presence" in the area and would ease tension.

Henry Cabot Lodge of the United States, introducing the resolution, said it was the least the council could do for Laos. In a veiled reference to possible SEATO intervention, he said alternative actions, if they became necessary, might be "much more dangerous." He said, "The United States believes there is no doubt at all that aggression is being committed."

But the resolution did not mention Laos' accusations that Communist North Viet Nam is guilty of aggression and is providing troops, supplies and artillery support to Laotian rebels. Nor did it mention Laos' request for U. N. emergency force.

Laos will turn to the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization for aid if its plight grows more serious and U. N. action is delayed, its Foreign Minister Khampan Panya said at the airport, shortly before he left on his way to New York. He said his government might have to invoke SEATO's pledge to defend it against Communist aggression.

The Laotian government today reported widespread Communist troop movements across Northern Laos and speculated the rebels may be readying for a concerted assault on Samneua, capital of the province with the same name.

BOOKED IN MURDER — Ramiro Roman, 17, is charged with homicide in the fatal stabbing of Thomas Jordan, 28, of the Bronx, on a Manhattan street. Roman admitted a dispute with the slain man and he also admitted chasing him, but he denied that he stabbed him. The youth came to this country several weeks ago from Puerto Rico.

Another N. Y. Teenager Charged in Knife Death

NEW YORK (AP) — A 17-year-old boy was accused today of stabbing a man to death in the street in the city's latest outbreak of teenage violence.

The fatal stabbing Monday night brought to five the number slain by teenagers in Manhattan in little more than two weeks.

The rising tide of street violence and juvenile crime has aroused the city. Police started a crackdown a week ago, and have arrested over 300 youths on minor charges.

Since the year began, youths have killed 11 people, eight of them in clashes between the tough street gangs that flourish in the city slums.

Monday night's stabbing took place about 10 blocks north of the Bowery. Police say Ramiro Roman, 17, who came here from Puerto Rico several weeks ago, argued with Thomas Jordan, 28, of the Bronx, and chased him for several blocks, throwing broken pieces of pavement at him. When Jordan stumbled on a curb, police said, the boy caught up and stabbed him in the chest.

Jordan died a few minutes later, and Roman was charged with homicide.

Expect Board to Accept Bids

2 Pieces of Equipment for Water Department Await Waterford OK

Bids totaling almost $8,000 on two pieces of equipment for the water department are expected to be accepted by the Waterford Township Board at its meeting tonight.

Opened two weeks ago, the low bid of $6,242 for a tractor was submitted by Pontiac Tractor and Equipment Co. A low bid of $1,498 for a half-ton pickup truck was submitted by the Haskin Chevrolet Sales and Service Co.

In other business, the Board will receive an offer from the Schoolcraft School PTA on how much it can contribute toward a traffic signal at Williams Lake road and Lansdowne street.

The PTA has been working with the Oakland County Road Commission, the Board of Education and the Township Board in an effort to get the signal installed.

Board members also will review the speed exhibition ordinance governing racing and look over the Silver Lake Estates plat for 25 new houses.

A request for advertising of bids for a new fleet vehicle insurance policy which expires Oct. 6 also will be discussed.

Township Clerk James Seeterlin will recommend that the township's new fire chief, Ralph Fangboner, be established in an office. An estimated $328 for equipment will be requested for the office.

5 Injured in Crash on Auburn Road

A head-on collision on Auburn road near Churchill road in Pontiac Township at midnight Monday sent five persons to Pontiac General Hospital, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Danny K. Huddelston, 24, of 227 Winry St., Rochester, one of the drivers, his two passenger, Virginia Christensen, 15, of 2991 Hamlin Rd., Avon Township, and Nina M. Kinnisin, 15, of 3905 N. Rochester Rd., Lake Orion, all were treated and released.

The other driver, Mary L. Bakey, 26, of 6 Arcadia St., and her passenger, Thomas Wade, 30, of 4575 Major Dr., Drayton Plains, suffered head and face injuries and were in satisfactory condition today.

Clams Didn't Know

OLD SAYBROOK, Conn. (UPI) —Clambakes are a New England tradition, and there's no stopping tradition. Apparently by force of habit, a freight car load of clams that were meant to stay cold got themselves baked yesterday. New Haven trains were halted while volunteer firemen here fought a blaze that cooked thousands of clams in a refrigerated car.

Chicken Thieves Scarce

TRENTON, N. J. (UPI) — Chicken farmers are living peaceful lives in New Jersey these days. Col. Joseph D. Rutter reported to the attorney general over the weekend that only two chicken theives had been collared during the last fiscal year. "Chicken stealing used to be big," he said, "but not any more."

Steel Walkout Now the Longest

Still No Hope Is Seen as Strike Hits 56th Day to Pass 1952 Record

NEW YORK (AP)—The nationwide steel strike became the longest of its kind in the country's history today—without the faintest glimmer of hope for a settlement soon.

★ ★ ★

The walkout of 500,000 steelworkers union members, shutting down mills accounting for 87 per cent of the nation's basic steel production, entered its 56th day at 12:01 a.m.

NEGOTIATIONS SET

A similar strike totaled 59 days in 1952 but its continuity was interrupted by government intervention. The longest segment was 55 days. In other years there have been longer walkouts against individual firms.

★ ★ ★

Another meeting today was scheduled between federal negotiators and industry and union representatives. Informed sources said, however, they anticipated no break in the stalemate.

The union is seeking what it terms a substantial wage increase and improvements in other contract provisions. Prestrike wages averaged $3.10 an hour.

Oak Park Man Shot During Hunting Trip

★ ★ ★

State Police said he suffered a wound of the left side Sunday when he was struck by an 8mm rifle bullet discharged accidentally from a companion's gun. The companion, 28-year-old Stephen V. Deering, and Wood were in a four-man party of Oak Park residents taking advantage of a special bear hunting season near Driggs Lake in Schoolcraft County.

★ ★ ★

The men said they had finished hunting and entered a pickup truck, Wood in the cab and Deering in the rear. The gun fired, police were told, as Deering attempted to clear its chamber of cartridges. The slug penetrated the cab and struck Wood.

Two presidents, Thomas Jefferson and John Quincy Adams, were elected to that office by Congress, having failed to poll a majority of the states' electoral votes previously.

Originals Cost $750 to $2,000

Rush Copies From Paris

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK (UPI) — American manufacturers rush copies of Paris originals from couturiers to customers in about six to eight weeks.

As soon as the clothes are unveiled in Paris, American buyers put in their orders and scout for fabrics. Line-for-line copies (exact duplicates of the originals) cannot be made until the Chambre Syndicale, which controls the Paris fashion industry, releases the clothes for export. This year, the release date was Sept. 1.

★ ★ ★

All clothes for American manufacturers clear French customs the same day, are flown in the same plane to the United States, and clear U. S. customs at the same time—usually in a day or day and a half. This year, plane trouble held up the clothes in Labrador.

★ ★ ★

After clothes clear customs, the race begins. It usually takes wholesale manufacturers and department stores about two weeks from the release date to have clothes on the racks.

However, one manufacturer said there is nothing that can't be copied in 48 hours. One fashionable Fifth Avenue store produces outfits in two to six weeks, including time for two fittings on the customer.

FROM $750 TO $2,000

Paris couturiers charge from $750 to about $2,000 for originals. Manufacturers and retailers must pay a "caution," or fee, to see the collections, and usually must guarantee to buy a certain number of models.

★ ★ ★

At large houses, a store must agree to buy two models per department. Models cost $900 and up at such houses as Dior, Givenchy and Balanciaga. In smaller houses, stores must pay a minimum of $250.

★ ★ ★

The price of American copies depends on construction, workmanship, detail and fabric. Most copies range from $40 to $200, although at one specialty shop on Fifth Avenue, dresses begin at $695 and coats and suits at $725.

★ ★ ★

However, there are budget-priced reproductions (which retain the original silhouette but not details) costing from $18 to $23, and mail-order adaptations (which may copy only one original feature) at $8.95.

★ ★ ★

In high-priced lines, the original garments are ripped apart, studied and copied down to the last seam. Fabrics, buttons, even flowers are purchased from the Paris couturiers' sources.

"We select clothes for eye appeal and newness, but the American woman is not ready for extremes," said Louis Handelsman, president of a wholesale manufacturing firm.

★ ★ ★

"Just for fun, we include one or two extreme things as showpieces, but we can modify them to suit customers. The American woman never dresses as eccentrically as a French woman," said Mrs. Helen Walker, manager of the custom-made department of a Fifth Avenue specialty store.

★ ★ ★

New style trends such as the long suit jacket, elongated torso, tunic and big sleeves will show in all types of copies. Hemlines will be short, but not as high as Dior's mid-knee or above-knee length. As one buyer said, "American women just don't go for such short skirts."

Win at Bridge

Janet Frances Gallaudet and Ralph Alonzo Sturges III were married at noon Monday at Holy Name Church, Birmingham. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cockrell Gallaudet and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Sturges

MRS. RALPH A. STURGES III

Wears Heirloom Veil for Nuptial Ceremony

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cockrell Gallaudet of Bloomfield Hills and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Sturges Jr. of New York City.

Andree Brevard Gallaudet of Bloomfield Hills was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were another of the bride's sisters, Marion Michele Gallaudet, and the bridegroom's sister, Sarah Jane Sturges of New York City.

All three were dressed in sapphire blue satin gowns with peplum overskirts and draped capelets with tailored bows at the shoulder. Their colf caps were of matching blue veiling accented with butterflies in blue and green.

John Masury Sturges Jr. of New York City was best man. Ushers were the bride's brothers, Edson Fessenden Gallaudet II and Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet, both of Bloomfield Hills, and Richard Lawrence Moran of Birmingham and Kevin E. Bove of Seneca Falls, N.Y.

Before leaving for a honeymoon in Northern Michigan, the bride changed to a black and white check silk dress and jacket with red accessories. They will live in Hamilton, N.Y.

The bride is a graduate of the Convent of the Sacred Heart and Smith College. She is a member of Sigma Gamma Association, and Junior League of Birmingham. Her husband attended Colgate University and is a member of Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity.

Mrs. Gallaudet wore an ice blue silk organza and taffeta sheath dress and Mrs. Sturges was dressed in a deep blue faille sheath. Both had cymbidium orchid corsages.

Antique Fair to Help Animals

Profits to Go to League for Shelter

Sale to Include Rare Coin Glass, Furniture

Furniture, from primitives to the elegants, and some rare coin glass will be among the features of the seventh annual Antique Fair to be held from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sept. 15, 16, 17, in the Cranbrook Auditorium, Bloomfield Hills, to benefit Michigan Animal Rescue League.

For six years the fair has been held at Will-O-Way summer theater. This year's show at Cranbrook will be larger than before.

A lobby display will show pieces from each dealer arranged so visitors to the fair can chat over coffee and cake. There also will be a baked goods sale.

Michigan Animal Rescue League, sponsor of the show, has had the shelter for over a year now.

Hundreds of animals have been investigated by the shelter and then placed with suitable new owners. Despite lack of space, there is always room for injured animals — some have been kept as long as six months waiting for their owners.

Humane officers are volunteer workers and there is only one paid employe who cares for the animals.

The work is not just for domestic pets. Chickens, rabbits, skunks, raccoons, opossums, owls, and even geese, are among animals which have been turned over to the shelter.

There are dozens of pets waiting to be adopted, each with a set donation fee. This year's Fair receipts will go toward more outside enclosures.

Pontiac area women on the patroness list for the Fair are Mrs. W. D. Appel, Mrs. C. O. Anderson, Mabel Craft, Mrs. J. Walter Drake, Mrs. Harry Garrett, Mrs. Dorothy Gould, Mrs. George Inman, Mrs. Robert C. Lake, Mrs. Frank Lambert, Mrs. C. K. Patterson, Mrs. Ford Paddock, Mrs. Frank Peeples and Mrs. Elmer Reynolds.

Patronesses from the Birmingham-Bloomfield area are Mrs. Max Colter, Mrs. Dexter Craig, Mrs. S. L. Goss, Mrs. Graham J. Graham, Mrs. J. J. Nance, Jeannette Hubbard, Mrs. D. S. Patterson, Mrs. Graham Shinnick, Mrs. H. R. Turrell, Mrs. Abner A. Wolfe, Mrs. Daniel Watts and Mrs. Clifford West.

This cuddly puppy Virginia Ward is trying to hang onto is among the many animals who will benefit from the seventh annual antique fair to be held from 11 a. m. to 10 p. m. in the Cranbrook School auditorium Sept. 15, 16, 17. Proceeds will benefit Michigan Animal Rescue League.

Area Teacher Speaks to Chapter of DAR

Mary Jane Corbett, a first grade teacher at Vaughan School, Bloomfield Hills, was guest speaker at a meeting of the General Richardson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The cooperative luncheon was served Thursday at the Sylvan Shores Community Park. Mrs. Earl L. McHugh was hostess.

The chapter sent Miss Corbett to the Higgins Lake Conservation School of the Michigan Department of Conservation this summer. The speaker told of the school which was held for one week under the direction of Walter VanDien, Michigan conservation educational consultant. Teachers are given courses in mineral, animal and plant resources and conservation as they relate to Michigan.

On Sept. 19 the chapter will assist the Col. Stephen Mack Society, Children of the American Revolution, entertain the Michigan DAR executive board. Mrs. Hector M. Chabut of Jackson, senior president, and Nancy Artner of Grosse Pointe, junior president, will preside at the luncheon and business meeting.

Pauline Langworthy was a guest and Mrs. Lucius Howlett, a new member, was introduced at the gathering.

The meeting also was the occasion for announcement of General Richardson Chapter, DAR, committee chairmen for the year by Mrs. Lisle Echtinaw, new regent.

Membership chairman is Emily M. Holden. Mrs. Ernest Huthwaite is program chairman and Mrs. Lloyd Porter is in charge of social activities.

Others serving include Mrs. Allan Monroe, ways and means; Mrs. Earl McHugh, budget, and Mrs. Harry Windiate, auditing.

National DAR committees have as local chairmen Mrs. W. F. Todd, Americanism and DAR Manual for Citizenship; Ora Hallenbeck, approved schools; Mrs. Henry Chapman, conservation; Mrs. W. H. O'Laughlin, DAR Good Citizens; Jessie Brewer, magazine chairman; Mrs. T. W. Jackson, magazine advertising.

Others are Mrs. Bradley D. Scott, DAR Museum; Mrs. E. V. Howlett, friends of the museum; Mrs. L. L. Dunlap, genealogical records committee; Doris Haynes, Junior American Citizen program; Mrs. Monroe, national defense; Geraldine Haynes, American Indians; Mrs. Harry Going, honor roll; Mrs. Roland Gegoux, chairman of the American music committee; Mrs. E. G. Clark, press relations; Mrs. Elbert M. Wilmot, radio and television; Agnes Hilton, transportation and safety; Mrs. Harry Bates, motion pictures, and Mrs. E. L. Tibbals, telephone.

Not Easy to Refuse an Answer

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: What can one say when asked point blank by someone, "Where did you get your hat? and who then proceeds to ask, "Do you mind if I get one like it? It's just the type I've been looking for." I ran into this situation the other afternoon and did not know what to say without being rude.

"I said, of course, I did not mind and then told her where I bought it. But I did mind — very much. No woman likes to see her hat on somebody else. But what does one do?"

Answer: This a very unfair question for anyone to ask because, as you yourself say, it is very hard to refuse — in fact almost impossible, unless the hat was especially designed for you. In that case you could say that it was made especially for you and that frankly you don't want to have it duplicated. If it is a stock model, you really have no excuse.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have lived in our house for many years. However, we recently had it all remodeled and redecorated. I would like to know if a housewarming would be in order, or because it is not a new house and we have lived here many years, would it be as ridiculous as my husband seems to think?"

Answer: You may certainly give a cocktail, or any other party you please and write on the invitations, "To see our remodeled house."

"Dear Mrs. Post: A friend and I had an argument over the following question and we would like to have you settle it for us.

When writing to a man who is a "Junior," is it necessary to use the title Mr. before his name? In other words, is he addressed Mr. John Jones, Jr., or John Jones, Jr."

Answer: The "Jr." does not take the place of Mr. You should use both.

Expert Forecasts Clothes of Metal

YORK, England (AP)—Metal-lined clothes for men and women were forecast here as future fashion by textile expert Howard Rees who unrolled a shimmering length of newly developed aluminum foil cloth before the British Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

The foil, one-quarter of one-thousandth of an inch thick, is coated on one side of the cloth. "With the metal side inward you should keep warm," Rees said. "Reversed you would keep cool."

Washability in home products is a definite reality. Plastic-coated wallpapers have been on the market for several years now. More exotic wall coverings also boast durability to withstand scrubbings and still maintain their delicate appearance.

Parents Refuse Dental Care for Pretty Child's Bad Teeth

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in hopes that you can help my kid sister. She is 13 and has the prettiest face you ever saw. She looks just like an angel. There is just one thing that spoils her looks and it's her teeth. They are growing in so crooked it is a shame.

ABBY

I begged my parents to get her braces but they say Nature will straighten her teeth in time. I know this isn't so because my teeth grew in very crooked and Nature didn't straighten them out. But it doesn't matter much because I am a boy (15) and not very good looking anyway.

I wish you'd say in your column that it's important for a girl to have nice teeth. If you help my sister, I'll pray for you. Thank you.

BIG BROTHER

DEAR BROTHER: Proper dental care is important (for girls AND boys) for the sake of good health as well as good looks. The self-confidence of a pretty smile is worth all the time and money invested. Urge your parents to take this little doll to a dentist at once. If they can't afford it, have them inquire about dental clinics and the local dental college.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: We have a married son who has children. We like to visit them but I feel that when we are there we should remember that we are guests. My wife, on the other hand, tells everyone what to do, corrects the children and acts like she lives there. I would like to enjoy the children. Am I wrong? Please print this as it might give her a hint. But don't use my name or I'm a dead duck.

"DEAD DUCK"

DEAR DEAD: Shame on grandma! She should learn that there is an "art" in being a good guest—just as there is an art in being a good hostess.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: About six months ago I opened my big mouth and told by boyfriend's mother I could give her a good home permanent. She bought the kit and I gave her one.

When her sisters saw it, they asked if I'd give them one. She has three sisters. I agreed.

★ ★ ★

Ever since that time, my boyfriend's mother and her three sisters get together every Sunday. They send my boyfriend after me so I can fix their hair. How can I get out of setting hair every Sunday without hurting any feelings?

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: If you want to keep these women out of your hair—stay out of theirs. Tell your boyfriend you'd rather not spend your Sundays playing Beauty Operator. Repeat the speech every Sunday, if necessary. They'll soon catch on.

Methodist Church Scene of Candlelight Ceremony

Bouquets of white gladioli and carnations banked the altar of First Methodist Church in Clarkston for the Friday evening wedding of Suzanne Lee Haddrill and Francis Joseph Tinka. The Rev. William J. Richards assisted by the Rev. Milan Stitt of Detroit officiated at the candlelight double ring ceremony before some 200 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Haddrill of Clarkston and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Tinka of Tex avenue.

An embroidered tulle over taffeta and net floor length gown was worn by the bride. It featured a chapel train, Sabrina neckline and short sleeves. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was held by a crown of orange blossoms and she carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and ivy. She also wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Anita Lynne Haddrill, the bride's sister from Clarkston, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Judy Lea Inman of Clarkston and Mrs. R. W. Lee Jr. of Lake Orion. All three wore ballerina length salmon pink taffeta dresses with bustle backs, square necklines and cap sleeves. Their flowers were semi-cascade bouquets of white gardenias and pink carnations with dracaena leaves.

Flower girl, Karen Longair of Clarkston, wore a dress of tucked white organdy over pink taffeta with a pink taffeta sash. She carried a basket of pink rose petals.

Richard A. LaValley of Kingston was best man and his son David Michael was ring bearer. Ushers included Dale Summers and Hollis A. Doherty both of Pontiac.

A reception was held in the church parlors. Before leaving for a weekend trip to Northern Michigan, the bride changed to a light blue sheath dress with royal blue and white embroidery and a scoop neckline. Her accessories were navy and she wore the gardenia corsage from her bridal bouquet. The couple plan a trip to the south in October. They will live on Ogemaw road.

JoAnna Springer Weds Ira Pence of Clarkston

White carnations and gladioli banked the altar of Clarkston Methodist Church for the Saturday evening wedding of JoAnna Springer and Ira W. Pence Jr. The Rev. William J. Richards officiated at the double-ring, candlelight ceremony before 175 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Raymond Miller of Hutchinson, Kan., and Francis F. Springer of Inglewood street and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira W. Pence of Clarkston.

The bride's floor length gown was of ivory bombazine with a sweetheart neckline and elbow length sleeves. Appliques of old fashion lace accented the neckline and the skirt. Her fingertip veil was held by a crown of seed pearls and she carried a colonial cascade bouquet of white and pink roses and white carnations.

Elizabeth Pence of Clarkston, the bridegroom's sister was maid of honor. She wore a blue taffeta princess styled dress with a sweetheart neckline and a matching hat and veil and carried a colonial bouquet of a single white chrysanthemum trimmed with matching ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Constance Blimka of Drayton Plains and Joyce Duckett of Clarkston. They were dressed like the maid of honor but in wedgewood blue.

Edwin E. Springer, the bride's brother from Chicago, Ill., was best man. Ushers were Ronald P. Roy of Clarkston and William R. Mackson also of Clarkston.

A reception followed in the church parlors.

The couple will live in Ann Arbor, where the bridegroom is attending University of Michigan. The bride attended Eastern Michigan University where she was a member of Tau Beta Gamma sorority.

Mrs. Miller wore a green sheath dress with matching accessories and Mrs. Pence was dressed in a royal blue sheath with white accessories.

It's Big Waste

Why Retire at Certain Age?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

There is certainly no longer any doubt that the rapidly increasing number of citizens past the age of 65 poses a serious and challenging social problem, one of the greatest of our day. It has been estimated that by 1975 there will be more than 50 million people in the United States alone past the age of 50.

★ ★ ★

I want to report today on a meeting which was held in St. Louis last April. This was the Middle Mississippi Valley Regional Conference on Aging. More than 450 people attended and all of the vital problems of aging were discussed.

Today I would like to highlight the waste in early retirement, the foolishness of age discrimination in jobs and the effect these have on the individual and on society.

At this meeting Bertha S. Adkins, Under-Secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said, "The idea of saying that a man is barred from useful employment because his birthday fell before a certain date, rich in experience, wisdom and skill though he may be, runs counter to our whole concept of judging each individual on his own worth and ability."

Dwight S. Sargent, Personnel Director of Consolidated Edison Company of New York gave an exciting report about what his company has done. This organization has 25,000 employees. It has introduced a flexible retirement system. Mr. Sargent explored the cases of 337 employees who worked past the usual retirement age.

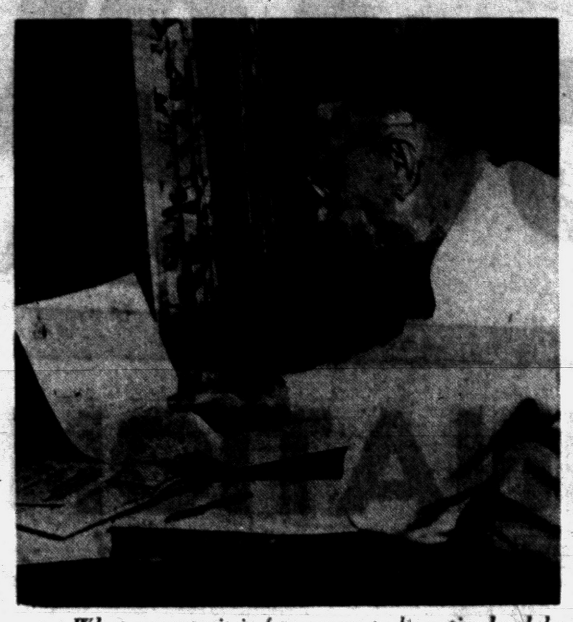
EVERYBODY AHEAD

As a result of keeping these employees the company did not spend 710,000 dollars in pension money, and social security did not spend 400,000 dollars on benefits and the employees themselves earned 2,500,000 dollars. Mr. Sargent said, "I think they're ahead. I think we are ahead and I think the United States is ahead."

This certainly seems to be the format which more businesses should adopt.

★ ★ ★

Tomorrow: The Personal Impact of Early Retirement."



What a waste it is for a man to be retired solely on the basis of his age.

Cinderella Story Appeals to All

By RUTH MILLETT

There are two reasons why a true-life Cinderella story — like the romance of young Steven Rockefeller and the pretty girl who worked in his home as a maid — never fails to intrigue and delight the public.

The first is the triumph of true love over adverse circumstances. We love a lover who refuses to listen to such words as "impossible," "unthinkable," and "unsuitable" when those words are based on such worldly considerations as a difference in background women, social position, education and so on. We love to see love's young dream triumph over any and all obstacles. That appeal of the Cinderella story is to our romantic natures.

The second appeal isn't quite as naively charming. It has a touch of malice in it. We like to think of all the Mama's with social ambitions for their daughters who must be gnashing their teeth at the thought of a Cinderella getting such a catch. How some of those Mamas must have pulled strings to give their daughters a chance to meet young Rockefeller. It's safe to bet that some of those Mamas were making their plans before the Rockefeller heir was out of his playpen.

The thought of their discomfort now is nothing short of delightful — for human nature always snickers when the best laid plans of mice and men and socially ambitious mothers go awry.

Even the original Cinderella story had both of these appeals. For the come-uppance of the stepmother who threw her own daughters at the Prince's head gives the reader almost as much satisfaction as the triumph of poor little Cinderella.

Coconut Cake Topped With Pineapple Frosting

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Now that most of our hot spells are over and a hint of fall is in the air each morning, cooks begin to think about food that takes a little more preparation. This Pineapple Festival Cake is fussy, but worth it, says Mrs. Bill Karrick.

★ ★ ★

Today's cook has been a homemaker in a mobile home for over four years. Two small sons keep her busy, but she likes gardening and loves to entertain.

Pineapple Festival Cake
By Mrs. Bill Karrick

Sift together:
2½ cups cake flour
1½ cups sugar
3½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
Add:
½ cup shortening
½ cup water
½ cup milk
1½ teaspoons flavoring

Add:
½ cup unbeaten egg whites (about 4 eggs)

Continue beating two more minutes, scraping bowl constantly.

Fold in:
⅔ cup shredded coconut

Pour batter into 2 greased layer cake pans. Batter may appear curdled, but that is all right. Bake 25 to 30 minutes in 350-degree oven. When cake is cool, frost with Creamy Pineapple Frosting.

Creamy Pineapple Frosting

2 tablespoons shortening
1 tablespoon butter
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup sifted confectioners sugar
2½ cups sifted confectioners sugar
⅓ cup drained crushed pineapple

Cream together shortening, butter, salt and ½ cup sugar. Add rest of sugar and crushed pineapple alternately. Beat until creamy. Tint with few drops of food coloring, if desired.

Coordinate Furnishings

Not even an old-fashioned bathroom needs to be a hodgepodge of unrelated furnishings.

★ ★ ★

When redecorating, invest in coordinated sets that include suds-spongeable shower and window curtains, hampers, planters, and stools.

The room will have real beauty of the kind that encourages family cleanliness.

Know your measures: One quarter pound or one stick of cartoned butter is the equivalent of one-half cup or eight tablespoons of better.

Spongeable Walls Are Perky, Too

Today, there are patterns in washable wallpapers smart enough to satisfy the most fastidious taste. All kinds of exciting patterns come in modern, sturdy, suds-spongeable finishes.

These papers perk up like new when given a once-over lightly with thick soap or detergent suds. Easy-to-do-trick: to prevent streaks or stains, wash walls from the floor upwards.

Janet Sue Omey Wed in Evening

Janet Sue Omey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Omey of Orchard Lake, was united in marriage Aug. 15 to Warren Byron Robertoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Robertoy of East Rutgers street

The bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white taffeta with a fitted bodice and full skirt. Flowers were appliqued around the short sleeves, the oval neckline and the bodice. She wore a strand of pearls and carried a bouquet of white carnations surrounded by tiny pink rosebuds and ivy leaves on a Bible. Her short veil was attached to a tiara of tiny seed pearls that had been worn by her sister.

★ ★ ★

The bride's sister, Mrs. Robert D. Crisman of Drayton Plains, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of aqua taffeta fashioned in trapeze style and a corsage of pink carnations.

Best man was Angelo Martinez Jr. Ushers were William McMasters, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Maynard Vandercook, all of Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Chrysler Announces Lighting Innovation

REDUCES EYE STRAIN — Chrysler's new no-glare light source for auto instrument panels is unveiled by pretty Beverly Penberthy of Detroit. Called electroluminescent, the lighting is produced by sending electricity through phosphor. It reduces the glare in night-drivers' eyes by 500 per cent over conventional lighting, Chrysler engineers say. The panels around Beverly are the same type being used in 1960 Imperial and Chrysler instrument panels.

ENJOY IT WHILE IT LASTS — Although Labor Day traditionally marks the end of the swimming season for most people, judging from the crowds yesterday at Oakland County's numerous beaches and parks in 90-degree plus heat summer appeared far from being over. The scene here is Dodge State Park No. 4 on Cass Lake which had one of busiest days during this long, hot summer.

Will Puerto Rico Be Copycat and Try to Be Our 51st State?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The achievement of statehood by Alaska and Hawaii has raised the question of whether Puerto Rico may soon follow suit and seek admission into the Union as the 51st state.

If a majority of its people ask for it, guesses here are that they will get it. But so far the majority doesn't seem the least bit interested.

The 100-mile-long Caribbean island, crowded by more than 2,300,000 people, will mark its seventh anniversary July 25 as a self-governing "free commonwealth" associated with the United States.

Under this system, Puerto Rico has managed its own affairs under its own constitution, elected it governor and congress. However, it continues to be bound to the United States by common citizenship, foreign policy, defense and currency.

Gov. Luis Munoz Marin regards the commonwealth as the form best suited for Puerto Rico's economic and political development in an atmosphere of democracy and not as a step to statehood or independence.

However, members of a growing statehood movement, boosted by the example of Hawaii and Alaska, hope to make a strong showing in next year's election and seriously challenge Munoz' Popular Democratic Party.

Its leader, Luis A. Ferre, one of the island's foremost industrialists, is confident that if a far-flung Pacific island could gain admission into the Union, nearby Puerto Rico's chances are good.

But where statehood was the overwhelming wish of the people of Hawaii and of Alaska, Ferre's party in 1956 still trailed Munoz by 172,838 votes to 433,010. Even time pushed the Independence Party's 1952 vote and for the first Party into third place.

The governor's main argument against statehood is economic. The tax exemptions and other fiscal advantages Puerto Rico would lose far outweigh any foreseeable gains, he contends.

In its present status, Puerto Ricans pay no Federal taxes. This has made possible its famed "Operation Bootstrap," the tax exemption program that has attracted some 600 factories to Puerto Rico from the mainland as the commonwealth seeks to build up its economy on its own.

The industrialization program has effectively cut into the huge unemployment problem and turned the island away from a strictly agricultural economy based mainly on sugar - cane growing and a smattering of coffee, tobacco and pineapple plantations.

Financial benefits, estimated by Munoz as amounting to more than $150,000,000 a year, would be lost under statehood, he claims.

Economic reasoning is also used to beat down the dwindling supporters of independence.

"Without free acess to 170,000,000 United States consumers for Puerto Rico's sugar and manufactured goods, the island would go bankrupt," Munoz declares.

★ ★ ★

That is a point deliberately omitted by Latin American Communists and extreme nationalists who for years have waged a campaign focusing attention on the island as an example of what the label "Yankee colonialism."

—It has been hailed by most Latin American leaders as having set an example to the Western Hemisphere of honest government and of effective ways to combat poverty;

—Scores of technicians from Latin America, Asia and Africa arrive at its shores each month to study progressive health, public housing, economic planning and literacy programs;

—Thanks to the annual music festival led by Spanish cellist Pablo Casals, which has attracted the world's most celebrated concert artists, Puerto Rico is becoming one of the hemisphere's music centers. The Puerto Rican government pays for the festival.

Munoz has been vigilant that political innovations and cultural development keep pace with the rapidly growing economy. Recently he asked the United States Congress for new legislation to clarify the law which created the novel commonwealth relationship.

The United States Constitution envisioned only territories and states so that a whole new set of laws may be required to allow the commonwealth to reach full political development.

No Protest at Camp in State

Nudist Pickets Fail to Show

HART (AP)—Silver Hill Club, a new nudist camp, opened and closed its 1959 season yesterday. It attracted more back-to-nature patrons than pickets.

Owner Emil Oja of Detroit reported several cars of curious cruised up to the gate but drove away.

Residents of the Silver Lake resort area had threatened to picket the camp, protesting that it is located within 600 feet of a school. Petitions against the camp have been circulated in the area.

Oja said no pickets showed up yesterday, "so any legitimate visitors who come over the next few days won't be thrown out, although we're not officially open."

The camp will not be opened generally for nudist visitors until after schools is out next June.

Oceana County sheriff's deputies said there had been no reports of trouble yesterday in the camp area. Some 40 nudists participated in the camp's brief season, Oja said.

Oja reported several cars of curious drove by on an adjoining road, from which nudists were shielded, and said he understood several cars came from a "Peeping Tom Club" at nearby Shelby, which charges 75 cents a head. The "club" got no closer than the camp's gates.

Movie by Rossellini Ties for 1st at Venice

Rossellini, beset by financial and matrimonial troubles, made a comeback by sharing the Gold Lion of St. Mark for the best film with another Italian director, Mario Monicelli who produced "La Grande Guerra."

The honor came to Rossellini after several years of mediocre productions, court troubles over his broken marriage with Ingrid Bergman and reports he was near financial ruin.

"Il Generale Della Rovere" is the story of a phony general who lives by swindling and then dies a hero's death during the German occupation in World War II.

"La Grande Guerra" is a humorously told story of two Italian soldiers of World War I.

Soviet Theaters Stress Hope Before Exchange

LONDON (AP)—Soviet movie theaters are showing a documentary called "Mankind's Great Hope" as a prelude to the exchange of visits between Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower.

Radio Moscow reported today the movie includes shots of the American Exhibition in Moscow and the Soviet Exhibition in New York. Also shown are the visits of Vice President Richard M. Nixon to the Soviet Union and deputy premiers and Anastas I. Mikoyan and Frol R. Kozlov to the United States.

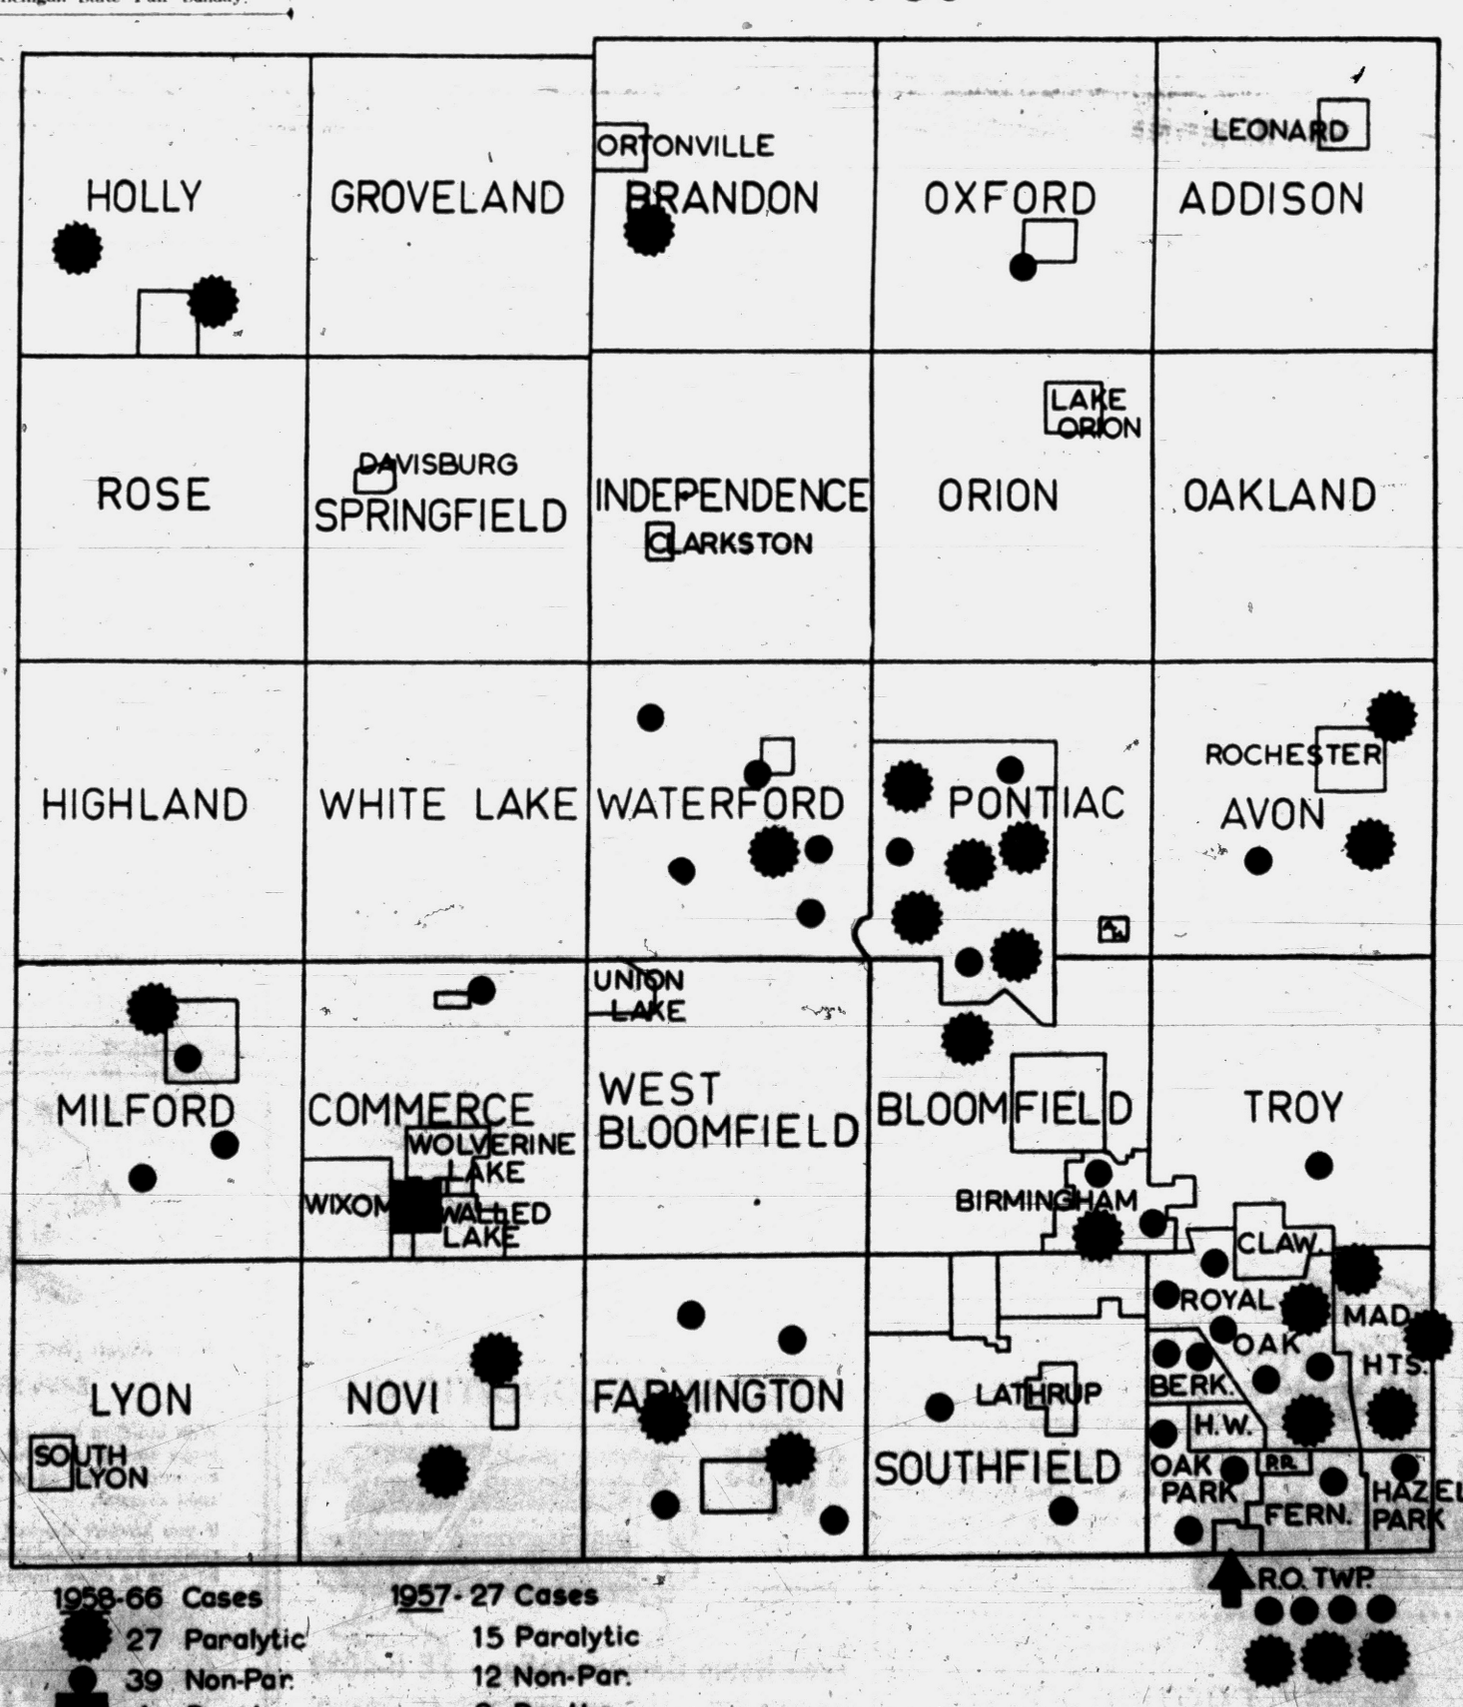
POLIO IN OAKLAND COUNTY 1958



WHERE POLIO STRUCK IN COUNTY IN 1958 — This is the time that the incidence of polio reached its peak last year in Oakland County. This chart prepared by the county chapter of the National Polio Foundation shows where polio struck in the county in 1958, a year which saw an increase of 39 cases over the previous year. Although Pontiac led the county with eight cases, the Foundation was concerned about Royal Oak Township (bottom right), considerably smaller in population and area. The one death in 1958 occurred in Commerce Township.

A Scoreboard for Death!

Keep Traffic Toll Count

CHICAGO (UPI)—Somebody has to keep count.

On a desk at the United Press International's Chicago bureau there is a sheet of eight-ply white cardboard measuring 20 by 40 inches. On the cardboard are figures. The figures mean death.

It's a kind of scoreboard for the nation's traffic fatalities during the Labor Day weekend.

A few hours before the holiday began at 6 p.m. Friday, a desk was cleared and the big sheet of cardboard was placed atop it. The cardboard was marked off in columns. Then lines were drawn across it, one for each state.

The scorekeeping began a few minutes after the start of the holiday, when the first death was reported. The deaths got a slow start and at 11:50 p.m. Friday, there were but six throughout the country. Twelve hours later there were 56.

The figures have been written by many different hands because the list is kept around the clock and always up to date.

You can tell at a glance how many persons were killed in any state, and how many were dead at any particular time.

A UPI bureau in each state keep a list of dead in its own territory. When a new death is reported Chicago is notified in a cryptic message like ". . . Pa., traffic 17 . . ." and the Pennsylvania total is raised from 16 to 17.

LABOR CELEBRATES—A long line of marchers swings up Fifth Avenue Monday during New York City's first Labor Day parade in 20 years. The view looks south as marchers approached 49th street. About 500 locals of 45 unions took part. The director figured the parade cost the unions a total of $325,000. It is estimated 400,000 watched in the bright sunshine. Costumed actors and actresses from Broadway shows rode in period carriages, and models demonstrated the latest in bathing suits. One of the placards read: 'The labor reform law is more antilabor than antiracketeer.' AP Wirephoto

U.S. Fighters Shunning Cuba

Say Castro's Soldiers Return to America to Keep Citizenship

HAVANA (AP)— Most Americans who joined Prime Minister Fidel Castro's rebel forces have returned to the United States in the hope of retaining their U. S. citizenship, officials sources report.

A survey of Cuba's armed forces indicates that less than half a dozen U. S. citizens are still active in the military here. Some, like Maj. William Morgan of Toledo, Ohio, may claim they never formally joined Castro's rebels.

The sources said the U. S. embassy here has sent Washington all available information on Americans who may have violated their citizenship by joining the revolution.

The United States has turned down Morgan's request that he be allowed to continue serving Cuba without loss of his U. S. citizenship.

U.S. State Department sources said that any Americans who have remained with Cuba's armed forces since Jan. 2, 1959, are subject to lose their citizenship. Jan. 2 was the date on which Castro was declared commander in chief of the Cuban armed forces.

Meanwhile, the semi-official newspaper Revolucion attacked members of the U. S. Congress who urged cancellation of Morgan's citizenship. The paper said these congressmen were guilty of "McCarthyism."

Memphis State Accepts Only Four Negroes

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Only four of eight Negro students who passed entrance examinations to Memphis State University will enroll for classes when registration starts Sept. 15.

J. Millard Smith, University president, said the only departure from routine registration will be a special "orientation" for the Negro students.

Breaking precedent as the first Negroes at the state university will be Mrs. La Vern Kneeland, Eleanor J. Gandy, Ralph Prater and Sammie Burnett.

Pasternak's Kin Fails to Get Visa for Russia

LONDON (UPI)—Soviet writer Boris Pasternak's nephew has failed to get a visa to visit Russia with a group of other British students.

Nicholas Pasternak Slater, son of one of Pasternak's two sisters living in England, was scheduled to leave Sunday for a year's study at a Soviet university under an exchange program.

His visa was held up by the Soviet Embassy here pending "investigations in Moscow," the embassy said.

Pasternak won the Nobel Prize for literature for his writings, including "Dr. Zhivago," which has not been published in the U.S.S.R. Pressure from the government and by official writers' groups prevented him from accepting the prize.

Wants to Regain U.S. Citizenship

Ex-Long Island Man Turns Back on Plan to Become Soviet

MOSCOW (UPI) — Nicholas Petrulli, a Long Island, N. Y., sheet metal worker who renounced his American citizenship, said today he wanted to give up his plan to become a Soviet citizen and return to the United States.

He went to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow today and inquired about the possibility of stopping action on his citizenship renunciation papers or possibly returning to the United States as an alien.

Petrulli said he was told that chances of returning from Moscow as an alien were virtually hopeless.

He said he was told the Soviet quota for immigration to the United States was oversubscribed for years in advance.

American Embassy officials said the papers on his renunciation of citizenship constituted a legal act and not a mere administrative formality. Thus they could not be withdrawn, the officials said.

England Grows, Two Britishers Tell Russians

MOSCOW (UPI)—Two British labor party leaders told five million Russians Sunday night that Britain has changed from the 19th Century picture depicted by Charles Dickens.

★ ★ ★

Party chairman Hugh Gaitskell and foreign affairs expert Aneurin Bevan ended their week's tour of the Soviet Union by clearing up some "misunderstandings" on a Soviet telecast.

The two British leaders praised Soviet economic achievements, friendliness and hospitality, accompanied by an expression of regret that "millions of British people lack an understanding of what the Soviet Union is like, and vice versa."

Gaitskell asked the Russians to believe that contemporary England is not the 19th Century well-known to the Russians through the works of Dickens, but, like the Soviet Union, had made enormous strides socially, politically and economically.

Elect Grand Rapids Man Veterans Group Prexy

Next year's meeting will be held at Muskegon, Mich., also during the Labor Day weekend.

The association is composed of veterans of both world wars, most of them from Wisconsin and Michigan National Guard units.

Schools Can Emphasize Mental Health Studies

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI)—One question bothering psychologists is when is the best time to combat mental illness.

James T. Mehorter, a professor of educational psychology at the University of Vermont's College of Education and Nursing, says "it should start in a state's public schools."

Mehorter said "strong mental health emphasis in our schools would do a great deal to prevent serious mental disturbances" later on.

He said "research studies in mental hygiene clearly show that school-age youths tend to make a successful personal adjustment when provided with curriculum experiences in the principles of human behavior."

Mehorter believes "the essential ingredient for such a program is an adequately prepared teacher with good personality traits who is sensitive to the findings of the psychological sciences as they apply to the student. This special kind of person is already in our schools today and needs only to be properly utilized."

Mehorter says this mental health program, which could be started at practically no cost, does require adequate preparation. He said teachers should take courses in general and educational psychology, tests and measurements, counseling techniques, mental hygiene and child and adolescent development.

"Abnormal behavior," he said, "can be averted if its symptoms are perceived in time and the person showing them is referred to a trained psychotherapist.

A teacher seeing a pupil display symptoms of abnormal behavior should guide him to a qualified clinician or mental health clinic. She may help him to come to grips with his problem before he becomes seriously disturbed."

Mehorter said "the teacher should not engage in the type of therapy employed by a psychiatrist, psychoanalyst or clinical psychologist. But she can provide certain therapeutic experiences for the pupil in the course she teaches whether in elementary or secondary school."

He said "the child who is provided with a knowledge and understanding of the multiple causes and motivations of behavior, of why he thinks, feels and behaves the way he does, tends to make a better adjustment than the youth deprived of this experience."

Nehru's Silence Irks Dalai Lama

Tibetan Ruler Protests Overlooking the U.N. as Instrument of Peace

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru's unwillingness to air Red China's oppression of Tibet before the United Nations has drawn fire from the exiled Dalai Lama.

The fugitive Tibetan ruler retorted that Nehru's claims a U.N. appeal would not produce results, "should not afford us sufficient justification for discarding an instrument of peace which has been evolved by peace-loving nations."

The god-king did not name Nehru in his speech before the Indian Council and World Affairs Monday, but his reference was clear.

Nehru put out a 125-page White Paper Monday on events which have led up to the breakdown in "a thousand years of friendship" between India and China.

The document shows that the first incident was Sept. 10, 1956, when a Red Chinese patrol tossed rocks at Indian border police between India's Uttar Pradesh state and Tibet.

Christine's Boy Friend Breaks Off Engagement

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (UPI)—Christine Jorgensen's five-month engagement to Howard J. Knox, 38, of Waukegan has ended.

Knox made the announcement that he was breaking his engagement to Miss Jorgensen, the ex-GI who was changed into a woman by surgery, yesterday.

"I can never get in touch with Christine so I've decided it's best to cancel the marriage," Knox said. He said he hopes to marry a Chicago model instead, but he refused to identify her.

Siamese Twins, 51, Doing Fine

Are Recovering From Delicate Surgery in Detroit Hospital

DETROIT (AP)—Siamese twins Daisy and Violet Hilton were reported recovering today from a rare and delicate operation at Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital.

Back in the 30s, Violet and Daisy made the headlines when both became engaged and then encountered difficulty in obtaining marriage licenses.

Violet and Daisy were refused marriage licenses in several states, but in 1936 Violet was wed to James Moore and Daisy was wed in 1941 to dancer Harold Estep in 1941. Both marriages ended in divorce.

Britain's pre-war colonial possessions comprised a combined total of 12,230,457 square miles. Of this, the Dominion of Canada accounted for one-fourth the whole amount.

Dr. Thomas Dooley Is Out of Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Thomas Dooley, 32-year-old head of a jungle hospital in Laos, has left the hospital where he underwent surgery nine days ago for a chest cancer.

Physicians termed his recovery "remarkable."

Dr. Dooley plans to remain in New York City for a week or 10 days before leaving for visits to Washington and his home town of St. Louis.

★ ★ ★

After a trip to Hawaii he expects to start a speaking tour of American cities in October. He is scheduled to return to his hospital at Muong Sing, Laos, the following month.

It's Children's Day at the State Fair

Youngsters are taking over the Michigan State Fair in Detroit today. It's their special day, featuring pigtail, ponytail and pie eating contests.

In a last fling before starting school, thousands of youngsters were expected to tour the exhibits, concessions and amusements on Children's Day.

Fair officials hope the youthful patrons continue a trend which has pushed attendance at the 1959 exhibition to record-setting 445,001 since last Friday.

An unprecedented sweep of three major championships in cattle judging by one Michigan exhibitor highlighted yesterday's livestock activities.

The Angus had to beat a record field of 184. It will be auctioned Wednesday at the fair's annual sale of grand champions.

Other judging results were: Grand Champion Red Poll, Lavern S. Russell and son of Battle Creek, and Milking Shorthorn Grand Champion, Connie Northrup of Ashley.

WILLIAMS' DAY

Gov. Williams will have his day at the fair tomorrow — traditionally Governor's Day and Agriculture Day.

★ ★ ★

He will make a tour of the grounds in the morning, lunch with a bevy of beauties vying for the Miss Michigan State Fair title, participate in the auctioning of the grand champion livestock in the afternoon and then crown Miss Michigan State Fair in the evening in the Music Shell.

Area Residents Plan for Growth

They Seek Organization to Prevent Any Future Dispute Over Rezoning

ADDISON TOWNSHIP — A group of Lakeville, Leonard and Addison Township residents are making plans to organize a development association to assure acceptable future growth in the area, a spokesman announced today.

They have called a meeting for 8 p.m. Sept. 15 at Rowland Hall, Leonard, to determine how many people are interested in the formation of such an organization.

The planning committee was prompted to suggest that a development association be formed because of the recent disagreement over a petition to rezone a parcel of land for a small industrial plant in the township.

PETITIONS PRESENTED

A small segment of the township populace objected to the proposed rezoning at a public hearing Aug. 4. The property owner, Charles A. Pelizzari of Ferndale, then withdrew his request.

At a subsequent meeting of the Township Zoning Board, petitions signed by some 300 residents were presented favoring the Pelizzari proposal.

Since then the board has unanimously approved revisions of the zoning law as they apply to industrial districts. The public hearing is set for 8 p.m. the same night.

In addition to being concerned with industrial growth, the community planners are interested in the physical, cultural and residential development of the area.

"We think the association we're planning will help forestall turmoil in the township such as we have experienced in the past month or so," the spokeman concluded.

Large Float Winner: 'Atlantic City 1973'

Three Big Parades Climax Peach Festival

Pontiac Press Photo

FREE TICKET FOR QUEEN — Immediately following the gala floral parade yesterday afternoon, Romeo Peach Queen Lorelei Hoxie, 18, of Armada gets another special gift. This time it's a free ticket to the U. S. Navy band concert to be presented by the Oxford Lions Club Sept. 24 in Oxford. Making the presentation is John Flumerfelt, general chairman of the event.

ROMEO — All roads let to Romeo yesterday as thousands flocked into town to witness the three big parades that climaxed the three-day Peach Festival celebration here.

The first event was the Children's Parade in the morning. First place winner in the large float division was "Atlantic City 1973", a Romeo neighborhood entry depicting future candidates for the Miss America crown parading before two judges.

Top honors in the small float category were won by Gregory Stone and Jean Dygert with their Hawaiian entry. It featured a little grass hut, a giant palm tree and the pair dressed in Hawaiian costumes.

The other new state Alaska, provided the theme for the top winner in the walking group division. The entrants were Tom and Dan Cummiskey, dressed as a penguin and an Eskimo, respectively, drawing their wagon decorated to resemble an igloo.

The parade theme was "These 50 United States."

Crowds lined Romeo's Main street, 10 deep, for the colorful floral parade at 2 p.m. It featured over 30 floats, 10 high school marching bands, the Chrysler Highlanders, baton twirling units and clowns.

First place honors in the parade went to the Rochester 4-H Trailblazers. This prize-winning float also won top honors in the State Fair parade in Detroit and the Oakland County 4-H Fair parade in Pontiac.

It featured four Troy and Rochester youngsters, Bob Ryan, Sherry and Shirley Ayers and Paul Boulton, riding in a buggy pulled by a life-size replica of a horse. The entire entry was mounted on a large hay wagon decorated with bunting.

Second prize was awarded to the Fraser Lions float, third to the Lake Orion Merry Makers and fourth to the Romeo Cub Scouts.

Most of the crowd stayed around in the evening for the humorous Mummers Parade staged on East St. Clair street at 8 p.m. It featured all kinds of comic and satiric entries.

First place in the float division went to the entry called the "Deer Hunters' Return." It depicted the deer at the wheel of the car with the two hunters he had "bagged" lying prone over the deck of the convertible.

Would Delay Nikita's Visit Over Laos

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Rep. Samuel S. Stratton (D-NY) wants Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's planned tour of the United States withdrawn until the Communist aggression in Laos is halted.

Speaking Sunday at the convention of the Ukrainian Youth League of North America, Stratton said a visit by the Soviet Premier at this time "would be one of the greatest diplomatic defeats our country could suffer."

The Democratic congressman renewed the appeal he made last week on the floor of the House to send American troops to Laos.

360,000 Jam Park in August

Kensington Sets Record

August's stiffling heat-wave drew 360,000 persons to Kensington Park near Milford, smashing all previous attendance records for the month, according to a report issued by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority.

This agency is responsible for the operation of both Kensington Park and the 550-acre Metropolitan Beach located on Lake St. Clair near Mount Clemens.

Attendence records for August at Metropolitan Beach also were broken with 252,800 people flocking to the swim area to escape the heat.

Both parks racked up new attendance records for June with 374,000 visitors at Kensington Park, a figure which topped all others for June in its 12 years of operation, and 223,800 at Metropolitan Beach, the best June attendance in its nine-year history.

★ ★ ★

One reason attendance has jumped at Kensington Park during the past two years is because of the opening of the Grand River Expressway, which has provided park users with greater ease in reaching the park, stated Kenneth L. Hallenbeck, authority director.

★ ★ ★

Surprising as it may seem, both parks registered its "peak July" attendance during 1958, he added. Kensington Metropolitan Park had approximately 480,000 visitors last year compared to 411,000 in 1959 while Metropolitan Beach had approximately 330,800 in July last year compared to 313,000 in 1959.

Plan Programs for Bus Drivers

2 Schools Give Dates; Sessions to Be Held in Highland and Utica

Four-session school bus driver programs, sponsored by Eastern Michigan University, start today in Highland Township and Thursday at Utica, David H. Soule, program coordinator, announced today.

The program in Highland Township will be offered for four successive Tuesdays throughout the month of September. The sessions in Utica are scheduled for Sept. 10, 17, 24 and Oct. 1.

To be held for new bus drivers or drivers who have not previously attended the full 12 hours of instruction, the program is open to those working for either public or private schools. The course is expected to attract drivers from Macomb and Oakland Counties.

The four sessions are scheduled to be held from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday at the high schools in each area, and will center around eight important areas of discussion. They are:

1. Highway safety.
2. Accident causes and reporting.
3. Michigan Vehicle Code.
4. Department of Public Instruction policies.
5. Understanding children's behavior.
6. Responsibilities of a bus driver.
7. First aid.
8. Care and use of emergency equipment.

The program, according to Soule, will be tailored to meet the needs of the drivers attending the sessions. Heading the program will be Maynard Day, consultant for the School Bus Driver Education Program.

Coast Guard Official Gets Dressing Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The commandant of the Coast Guard has received a dressing down from his superior for letting two admirals take their relatives on a month-long inspection tour of Europe.

TRAPPED — Tito Francona (4), Cleveland first baseman, is shown trapped between third and home in the third inning of the opening game of yesterday's doubleheader between the Indians and the Detroit Tigers. Third baseman Eddie Yost prepares to throw to catcher Lou Berberet (not shown) as first baseman Gail Harris stands by to help. Yost finally tagged Francona after a rundown. The Tribe swept both ends of the twin bill, 15-14 and 6-5.

But Giants Win to Stay Three Ahead

Braves Take 2, Share 2nd

By the Associated Press

Have the Milwaukee Braves finally blasted off?

With three weeks left and each of the three contenders down to their last 17 games, any kind of a streak could crack the National League race wide open.

And the Braves have won three in a row.

The champs, pennant scrap veterans, put the string together with complete-game jobs from their pitching staff — a performance none of the contenders have managed in the past month.

The Braves did it with Juan Pizarro beating Cincinnati 6-2 Sunday and Lew Burdette (19-14) and Bob Buhl (12-9) collecting 5-1 and 4-1 victories over Pittsburgh in the NL's only Labor Day doubleheader.

That jumped Milwaukee into a second place tie with Los Angeles but left them three games behind first place San Francisco. The Giants, backing right-hander Sam Jones for his 19th victory, beat St. Louis 4-2, while the Dodgers whipped Chicago's Cubs 7-1 in the only night game scheduled.

Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 6-4 in the other NL game on Dave Philley's two-run homer in the ninth.

The Braves, winning four of their last five in a run for a third straight pennant, beat the Bucs and Bob Friend (8-17) on Hank Aaron's two-run 38th homer in the first inning. Rookie Lee Maye and Del Crandall added solo homers. Maye's first in the majors and Crandall's 18th of the year.

Burdette gave up six hits, blanking the fourth-place Pirates, who now trail by seven games, after the first inning.

The second game also was decided in the first inning. The Pirates tagged Buhl for their run, then were handed their third straight loss and sixth setback in seven games when the Braves scored three off Bennie Daniels (7-9). A wild pitch with the bases-loaded and Joe Adcock's two run single did it.

The Giants won their 15th from the Cards in 19 games after Curt Flood's solo homer had given St. Louis a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning. Two runs in the sixth put it away against rookie Bob Gibson (1-5) with OrlandoCepeda's single breaking a 2-2 tie.

Ken Boyer of the Cards stretched his hitting streak, longest of the season in the majors, to 25 games with an eighth-inning single. Giant rookie Willie McCovey pushed his streak to 20 games.

Southpaw Johnny Podres (13-8) gave the Dodgers a share of second place with a six-hitter. He struck out 14, clicking off six in a row after the Cubs had loaded the bases with one out in the first inning.

The Dodgers, who broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth when Maury Wills walked, stole second and scored on Junior Gilliams' single, beat Bob Anderson (11-10) for the first time in five decisions. They made it a breeze with four runs in the seventh, two on John Roseboro's triple, and another in the eighth on Gil Hodges' 23rd homer.

Tigers, Indians Both Believers of Old Saying

Bengals Waste 2-Run Leads Twice as Tribe Win, 15-14, 6-5

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Don't tell manager Jimmie Dykes of the Detroit Tigers lightning never strikes in the same place twice.

Dykes watched his Tigers carry two-run leads into the bottom of the ninth in both ends of yesterday's doubleheader against the Cleveland Indians. And both times the Indians staged three-run rallies for 15-14 and 6-5 victories.

It was a wild and wooly holiday afternoon for the Tigers.

In the opener, Detroit bombarded Mike Garcia, Cal McLish, Jim Perry and Al Cicotte to build up a 12-4 lead after the first four innings.

But Cleveland, needing victories desperately to keep alive its hopes of overtaking league-leading Chicago, routed starter Paul Foytack with a five-run outburst in the fifth and tied the score in the sixth with three more runs at the expense of Tom Morgan.

Eddie Yost, who had opened the game with his 20th homer of the season, sent Detroit ahead again in the seventh when he walloped another four-bagger behind a single by Dave Sisler.

Sisler paved the way to Detroit's undoing when he walked the first two batters he faced in the bottom of the ninth. Jim Bunning relieved him and served a run-scoring single to Ed Fitzgerald. Jim Baxes sacrificed and Jim Piersall ended the marathon with a two-run single through the box.

Frank Bolling and Lou Berberet each had a homer, in addition to Yost's pair, in the opener and Rocky Colavito, Tito Francona and Woody Held hit round-trippers for the Indians.

Tep Lepcio broke a 2-2 tie with a three-run homer in the seventh inning of the nightcap and it appeared that the Tigers would salvage a split of the twin bill.

But the Indians had different ideas. They scored once in the bottom of the inning to chase starter Ray Narleski and then came another three-run ninth.

Sisler again failed in the clutch, although he came on after Cleveland had loaded the bases against Pete Burnside on two singles and a walk.

Sisler then uncorked a wild pitch to let the tying run cross the plate and the game ended when Vic Power sent a sacrifice fly to Al Kaline in deep center.

Cleveland used eight pitchers in the opener and the last one, Bobby Locke, was credited with his third win against two losses. Bunning suffered his 11th setback against 15 triumphs.

Garcia, who lasted only an inning as the first game starter, received credit for the second game win in relief, his third victory against five defeats. Burnside was the loser, his third loss against a single triumph.

Pan-American Games Close 12-Day Run

Equestrian Win on Final Day Ups U.S. Loot

Yankees Total 121 Gold Medals, Nine by Argentina Next

CHICAGO (AP)—The third Pan-American Games, orphaned early and often maligned, has ended its 12-day run on a note of triumph.

In the over-all picture, Chicago did a fine job on short notice. The city took the games two years ago when Cleveland gave them up for financial reasons. This is not enough time for such a massive, complex operation.

Despite 11 days of oppressive 90 plus heat, which shortened tempers and led to bickering, all events were run off smoothly for most part, and efficiently on first class playing sites.

If Chicagoans didn't get overexcited over the Games you can blame the heat and hysteria over the White Sox pennant drive.

The United States' deeply manned squads did better than expected in romping off with the lion's share of honors. But it must be remembered that many of the athletes from South American countries were competing in their opposite seasons just as the U.S. competitors did at Buenos Aires in 1951.

The equestrian team of Hugh Wiley, Towson, Md., Frank Chapot, Wallpack, N.J., George Morris, New Canaan, Conn., and Bill Steinkraus of Westport, Conn., captured the colorful Prix Des Nations team title, last championship to be contested.

They wound up with a low score of 32 faults for the morning and afternoon rides over a 17-obstacle, 700-yard course in Soldier Field. Brazil won the second place silver medals with 59 and Chile took the Bronze third place medals with 80¾. Argentina was fourth with 93¾ points and Venezuela fifth and last with 125½.

Over-all the USA overwhelmed the other 23 competing nations with a huge bag of 121 gold medals, 72 silver and 52 bronze medals. Argentina was next with 9 gold, 22 silver, and 5 bronze.

Other gold medal winners were Brazil 8, Canada 7, Mexico 6, Chile 5, Cuba, West Indies Federation and Bahamas 2 each, and Venezuela and Uruguay 1 each.

In their impressive full dress rehearsal for the 1960 Olympics in Rome, the teenage dominated Yank squad showed tremendous strength and depth in walking off with most of the honors in track and field, swimming, rowing, boxing, wrestling, basketball, gymnastics, fencing and weight-lifting.

GEIGER INJURED — Boston Red Sox outfielder Gary Geiger is comforted by teammates Jackie Jensen (4) and Jim Busby (7) after he ran into the Red Sox bullpen fence making a catch off the bat of New York's Tony Kubek in the 4th inning of their game at Boston's Fenway Park yesterday. Other teammates look over the fence from the bullpen. Geiger walked off the field.

Seixas Upsets Krishnan

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Vic Seixas, at 36 is getting to be a greybeard in the tennis wars.

"But," said the seven-time Davis Cupper today, "my age has nothing to do with my performance. I certainly don't feel my advancing age."

Ramanathan Krishnan, the big Indian who licked Alex Olmedo twice this year, would agree. Seeded No. 5 in the National Championships, Krishnan went down before Seixas' cutting strokes in the second round yesterday, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Seixas, who won the title in 1954, is unseeded because he played only once on the summer circuit. At Merion, Pa., he lost a three-setter in the quarter-finals to Krishnan.

Seixas is a securities salesman in Philadelphia and has been sticking close to his job since he gave up the tournament trail two years ago. His next opponent is national clay courts champion Tut Bartzen.

If Vic gets past Bartzen, who licked Chris Crawford of Piedmont Calif., 6-2, 6-4, 6-3, he's to face the winner of the Barry McKay-Bob Mark match. MacKay turned back Crawford Henry of Atlanta, 6-3, 8-6, 7-5 while Mark, an Australian Davis Cupper, ousted Ronald Barnes of Brazil, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

Except for the downfall of Krishnan, there were no startling form reverals as the round of 16 was filled. Top-seeded Alex Olmedo of Los Angeles turned back Straight Clark of Radnor, Pa., 3-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2, and second-seeded Neale Fraser, Australia's one-man gang, whipped England's Bobby Wilson, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4. Rod Laver of Australia, No. 4, eliminated Robert Siska of San Francisco, 7-5, 9-7, 4-6, 6-4, while Luis Ayala of Chile, No. 6, dropped Larry Nagler of North Hollywood, Calif., 8-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, No. 7, advanced at te expense of Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, and Roy Emerson of Australia, No. 8, sent Harry Hoffmann Jr. of Philadelphia to the sidelines, 6-2, 6-0, 6-0.

Anything Can Happen, Gordon Says

Tribe's Boss Recalls Hectic Windup in '48

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's never-say-die Indians now are convinced anything can happen in the American League pannant race, although they trail Chicago by 4½ games with only 18 to play.

Battling doggedly to stay alive in the race, the Indians staged a pair of whirlwind finishes to take a doubleheader yesterday from the Detroit Tigers, 15-14, and 6-5. It stretched Cleveland's winning streak to four games, the last three of which have come on ninth inning rallies.

In the opener, Cleveland wiped out a 12-4 Detroit lead and drew even by scoring five runs in the fifth inning and three more in the sixth frame, then dropped two runs behind. A three-run burst in the final frame pulled it out.

The nightcap provided more heroics as the Indians trailed 5-2, but scored one run in the seventh inning and poured across three more in the ninth to complete the sweep which took almost seven hours.

Manager Joe Gordon, who played on six pennant winners for New York and Cleveland, beamed in the clubhouse.

Asked about the Indians' chances to catch the flying White Sox, Gordon pointed to a sheet of yellow paper tacked on the bulletin board. The pencilled notations reviewed the last month of the 1948 flag chase.

That was the year Cleveland trailed Boston by 4½ games after Labor Day, but came roaring down the stretch to beat the Red Sox in a dramatic playoff to win the pennant. Gordon was that team's sparkplug second baseman.

"I pointed out to the boys that we made up four games in just seven days in 1948," said Gordon.

★ ★ ★

"I guess I didn't have to tell them anything can happen.

"They all know that now after those two games with Detroit."

Pontiac Driver Sets Race Mark

Hank Ball, Pontiac's leading hydroplane racing boat pilot, boosted his national rating with a fine victory in the 48-hydro class at Buffalo over the Labor Day weekend.

Hank drove his perfectly-acting hydro over the choppy waters of the upper Niagara river to two firsts, setting a course record for the 2nd five-mile run of 61.12 mph. Race was held by Buffalo Launch club, off Grand Island.

Among top drivers beaten by Ball were national champion Doc Moore of Miami, Fla., and the Canadian champion.

The victory, Saturday, leaves Ball near the top in U.S. 48-class standings. Hank will go again next weekend when he races at Melbourne, Ky., on the Ohio river. He also has a date for the Sept. 19th weekend at Cleveland, and may take on several more before calling it a season.

White Sox Sweep 2 Refusing to Let Down

The Chicago White Sox gave further notice yesterday they will be mighty hard to catch in the stretch run to the pennant by winning a doubleheader to offset a similar sweep of a pair by Cleveland.

Kansas City dropped 2-1 and 13-7 decisions to Chicago so the Chisox remain 4½ in front and six ahead in the important lost column.

Boston walloped New York 12-4 and Baltimore divided with the Senators in other Labor Day action in the American League.

Ted Kluszewski did the big job for the White Sox. His single led to the two first-game runs in the 3rd inning against Ned Garver (9-12). He batted across five big tallies in the nightcap with two homers, his 1st in the AL, and a sacrifice fly.

Billy Pierce, working for the 1st time since injuring his hip August 15, won the opener with help from Turk Lown. Joe DeMaestri homered to spoil the shutout as the Chisox increased their one-run record to 32-11.

Gerry Staley got credit for his 8th triumph in 11 decisions in relief of Barry Latman in the scoring battle. A six-run third handed reliever Dick Tomanek the loss, his only decision this year. Al Smith, Jim Rivera and Klu each homered in the big inning.

The Yankees missed a chance to regain 3rd place from the Tigers in the bombarding at Boston. Winner Jerry Casale, Pumpsie Green and Don Buddin all clouted homers in the 2nd tying a record for consecutive circuit blasts. Mickey Mantle and Andy Carey reached the seats for New York. The Red Sox clinched the season series over the Yanks.

Billy O'Dell fired his second straight shutout scattering four hits in a 7-0 Baltimore victory. The 2nd contest was a 1-1 tussle until Washington exploded for seven in the 10th featuring a two-run triple by Jim Lemon and homers by Roy Sievers and Ron Samford.

College Football

by "RED" BLAIK

I have been asked by many people interested in the Atlantic Coast Conference how I think the shocking death on July 23 of Jim Tatum, former North Carolina coach, will affect the chances of the Tar Heels this fall. I know from a phone talk with Jim, in which he evidenced interest in Army's lonely end offense, that he had high hopes for this team. Jim Hickey, who succeeds him, is, I am told, sound and well prepared. He has had head coaching experience at Hampden-Sydney.

Unquestionably, a coach of Tatum's organizational gifts and accomplishments must be sorely missed. Yet—and I certainly do not intend this to sound callous—the death of any coach, no matter how talented and respected by his players, does not, after time has alleviated the shock, really have much psychological influence, one way or another, on a college squad. This is so because youth is resilient and, to some extent, selfish by nature.

I think that North Carolina's chances depend largely, as they would in any comparable situation, on how well the new head coach's assistants function under and with him in getting the football out of the players.

Certainly, this is an impressive Carolina squad, with satisfactory defensive scope and attack nicely balanced between the pass and the run. Their split-T quarterback, Jack Cummings, is one of the best and he throws to two fine ends in John Schroeder and Al Goldstein. The backfield runners are led by Wade Smith at half and Don Klochak at full.

The schedule is mighty rugged, however, and the keys to it are the opener at home with Clemson, an ACC power of about equal strength and the second game with always redoubtable Norte Dame at South Bend. The Tar Heels never have been able to defeat the Irish. If Carolina can handle this tandem, it can go a long way, although the Tennessee game on October 31 can be another bitter challenge.

Clemson, which upset Carolina a year ago in the opener and later gave LSU such a fight in the Sugar Bowl, returns most of that squad and could improve its fine '58 record of 8-2. Quarterback-passer Harvey White, fullback Doug Cline and tackle Lou Cordileone form the core of Frank Howard's squad.

South Carolina, always ably prepared by Warren Giese, rates a dark-horse status. The Gamecocks have a superb blocking and running fullback in John Saunders. I would then rate in order: Duke, Wake Forest, North Carolina State, Maryland and Virginia.

I shall have some personal rooting interest in Wake Forest and Virginia, of course, since two of my former assistants at West Point, Paul Amen and Dick Voris, are coaching the Deacons and the Cavaliers. Paul, with Norman Snead, a top passer, will make some trouble here and there; Dick will be relying on sophomores as he is in a building phase, but you may be sure his teams will reflect his own fire.

West Virginia and Virginia Tech should be best again in the Southern Conference group. The Mountaineers, like Duke, take on a tough non-conference schedule: Pitt, Syracuse, Penn State and Southern California, but coach Art Lewis' teams generally acquit themselves well.

Ballman on MSU 1st Unit

The shifts climaxed Michigan State's first week of workouts, but Daugherty said they weren't decided upon definitely until after he had viewed movies taken of Saturday's full-scale scrimmage at Spartan Stadium.

Michigan State players went through two workouts yesterday. Following the double session, Daugherty warned the Spartans that last week's drills were primarily for conditioning and that the "really hard work begins this week.

Daugherty said he plans scrimmages today, Thursday and Saturday.

Bob Bercich, a veteran halfback, missed yesterday's double session because of flu.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The University of Michigan football team may not match all Big Ten teams in ability this fall, but the way pre-season drills are going, the Wolverines won't take a back seat to any of them in conditioning.

Coach Bump Elliott and his youthful aides have driven the 76 man squad through rugged workouts every day since practice started a week ago. The only breather came Sunday following Saturday's long scrimmage.

"A team can't be good without top notch condition," Elliott said. "What good is a team if it runs out of gas in the middle of a game."

The pace of early fall practice sessions indicates the Wolverine coaching staff doesn't plan to see any physical collapse this season. The team is being geared to play an all-out 60 minutes in every game.

Elliott hopes a high level of conditioning will make up for the team's lack of seasoned veterans and depth at most positions.

There are 22 reutnring lettermen on the 1959 Wolverine squad but only five of them played over 300 minutes last year, or an average of 33 minutes a game. They are tackle Don Deskins, guards Alex Callahan and George Genyk and backs Brad Myers and Fred Julian.

DETROIT (AP) — Coach Jim Miller sent his University of Detroit football squad through a double-session workout yesterday under 90 degree heat in U. of D. Stadium.

(The workouts constituted a review of plays and assignments practiced during last week — the first week of fall training.

Miller temporarily lost three players during the double-session. Junior halfback Bill Listman was kicked in the back and was sidelined for an indefinite period.

Senior tackle Tony Sterlitz suffered a knee injury and will be out several days. Fullback Jerry Leszczyaski has a groin injury and also will miss several practice sessions this week.

Miller said he will conduct another review session today and start offensive and defensive workouts Wednesday in preparation for the Titans' opening game against George Washington here Sept. 18.

Arnie Richards of the University of Chicago Track Club and Jerry Ashmore of Western Michigan University retained their title yesterday in the 5th annual Labor Day two-man 10-mile relay at Stagg Field.

★ ★ ★

Buster McCalla of Cypress Gardens, Fla., won the men's slalom title yesterday in the world water skiing championships at Milan, Italy, but Chuck Stearns of Belleflowers, Calif., won the combined title.

★ ★ ★

Boston outfielder Gary Geiger suffered contusions on top of his head Monday when he ran into the bullpen fence making a catch of Tony Kubek's long drive. Geiger was taken to a hospital for precautionary X-rays.

Detroiters Winners

HASTINGS (AP) — A clutch that resulted in three four-run innings led Detroit to a 14-6 victory over Phoenix, Ariz., yesterday in the second round of the American Legion world series of baseball.

The loss, the second by Phoenix, dropped it from the tournament. Detroit's record now is 1-1.

Finsterwald KC Champion

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., established himself as No. 61 man on the U.S. Ryder Cup team and padded his pockets with $2,800 in the Kansas City Open golf tournament yesterday.

Finsterwald lifted a wedge shot within a foot of the cup for a birdie three on the first hole of a sudden death playoff to beat Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill., over the 6,542-yard, par 72 Blue Hill Country Club course.

Just as the last threesome, which included Fairfield, completed the round most of the gallery rushed toward the playoff tee, unaware that a driverless automobile had struck and injured eight persons just off the 18th green. The incident had no visible effect on either player. Fairfield parred the extra hole.

In winning, Finsterwald brought his Ryder Cup points to 1,040. This boosted him ahead of Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., who came into the tourney with 1,037 1-3 points and didn't pick up anything. Wall shot his final round in 71 and finished with 283.

The victory brought Finsterwald's winnings in 26 tournaments this year to $29,266.

Holiday Aces Come Cheaply at Area Links

Holiday holes-in-one were cheap at Oakland County golf courses, especially at Bald Mountain. Three Labor Day aces were scored with Bald Mountain accounting for two of them.

The third hold-in-one was shot at Highland Hills Golf Club at Duck Lake. Fred McLean fired a 4-iron shot into the cup on the 195-yard 5th hole with J. Simpson and Bob McLean as witnesses. The ace helped him shoot a 37.

Krause aced the 155-yard 11th hole with a 7-iron as Bruce Williams of Pontiac and Harold Krause of Royal Oak watched. Ploughman posted his ace on the 170-yard 17th hole with a 4-iron in the company of George Platch, Glenn Ross and Pontiac's Dave Clay.

Same Club on Same Hole

Fires 2nd Ace in 2 Weeks

Wright, who lives at 1540 Orchard Drive in Pontiac, tried for years to make a hole-in-one without success.

Then, two weeks ago, he finally hit the jaekpot by acing the 155-yard 4th hole at Twin Lakes with a 6-iron.

Wright wasn't content to stop there, however. Yesterday he aced the same hole with the same club as playing partner Daniel Bourque of Lake Orion watched.

Also witnessing the ace were Victor Valade and his two sons, putting in the 4th green. Valade signaled Wright and Bourque to go ahead and shoot, then he pulled the pin as the ball rolled into the cup.

Wright's 2nd hole-in-one in two weeks, which helped him shoot 40 for nine holes, enabled him to duplicate a feat performed by his wife Mary at Twin Lakes in the summer of 1950.

That was the year when Mrs. Wright, also a Twin Lakes employe, made two aces on the 5th hole.

Kazoo, Dearborn Collide for Title

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—Kalamazoo and Dearborn, carrying identical 6-1 tournament records, meet tonight for the Michigan State Amateur Baseball title.

Dearborn lost to Kalamazoo 6-2 yesterday and suffered its first loss in the double-elimination meet. Kalamazoo previously had beaten Dearborn in an early round game.

Dearborn eliminated Jackson 9-8 yesterday and qualified for the final round action against Kalamazoo.

Both Kalamazoo and Dearborn will represent Michigan in the Amateur Baseball World Series which starts here Friday.

TIRED BUT HAPPY — Jim Reed of Peekskill, N. Y., is all set for that victory kiss from Carolyn Melton of Cheraw, Miss., after winning the classic Southern 500 stock car race yesterday at Darlington, S. C. He drove a 1959 Impala for a new record of 111.836.

No. 1 Draft Choice Quits 49ers

Dan James Just Didn't Want to Play This Year

By The Associated Press

In the high-pressure National Football League strange and mysterious things are bound to happen. They did yesterday.

At the San Francisco camp, rookie center Dan James, the 49ers' No. 1 draft choice, walked up to a teammate, handed him his notebook and said: "Tell them I'm taking the bus to Cincinnati."

General Manager Lou Spadia termed James' departure "totally unexpected." The young lineman apparently had clinched a berth with the 49ers after having started at offensive center in San Francisco's last two exhibitions.

In Cincinnati, James' wife said her husband quit because "he didn't think it was worth it. There wasn't any friction between Dan and the team. He just didn't care to play this year."

Spadia said he did not think any attempt would be made to induce James to rejoin the club.

Meanwhile, Coach Weeb Ewbank of Baltimore's NFL champion Colts came up with a surprise when he told kicking specialist Bert Rechichar to learn the offensive fullback plays. The Colts already are three deep at the post with Alan Ameche, Billy Pricer and Jack Call.

It's unlikely that Rechichar can crack that line-up unless one of the trio is traded. Another possibility is that Ewbank is placing Rechichar in the "showcase" for a forthcoming deal.

Ewbank was shocked when he learned that the Colts' all-pro halfback, Lenny Moore, suffered cuts on three fingers in a household accident. Moore's hand was cut when he tried to take a knife away from his young son.

No tendons were affected, but the team physician said stitches would be required. The doctor said he could not tell if Moore would be available for the Colts exhibition against Philadelphia

Same Condition Afflicts Harvard

Irish Lose Fullback

By The Associated Press

Notre Dame Coach Joe Kuharich has enough problems this year trying to replace 22 lettermen, including his first three fullbacks, without having his only other experienced player at the position lost for the season.

But that was the verdict on Dan Griffith, who played all of seven minutes at fullback last year behind Nick Pietrosante, Norm Odyniec and Ron Toth.

Kuharich, who admitted at the beginning of fall practice, that fullback was one of his biggest problems, had already moved halfback Jim Crotty to the fullback spot to team with Griffith. Crotty was the team's second-best ground gainer behind Pietrosante a year ago.

Griffith tore the ligaments in his right ankle in Saturday's scrimmage and will have an operation to correct the injury. There doesn't appear to be much help from the soph contingent for Kuharich said the 1958 frosh team "didn't turn up any diamonds in the coalpile."

Harvard's first string fullback position underwent a similar change with junior Glen Haughie taking over for Sam Halaby. Halaby is out for two weeks with torn ligaments. In another first team change, Albie Cullen displaced Larry Repscher at halfback.

Tony Parrilli, a soph center, and Gerry Patrick, an end were moved to Illinois first team while Northwestern Coach Ara Parseghian shifted sophomore ends Kelly Sargent and Ernie Kohlmyer to tackle to bolster what he described as the Wildcats' thinnest spot.

State's Skiers on Top

JACKSON, Mich. (UPI)—Michigan water skiers took most of the top prizes in the 4th annual Jackson Citizen Patriot Water Ski Derby at Clark Lake over the weekend.

Phil Curtis of Jackson won the Optimist trick event; John Vronverg of Lake Macatawa won the jump for boys; Tom Fetter of Diamond Lake won the boys slalom, and Bill Bilbie of Whitmore Lake won the men's slalom.

The veterans jumping was won by Paul Biel of Detroit and Cass Lake; the veterans slalom by Bud Warren of Wolf Lake; the combined women's and girl's tricks by Susie Brookhart of Clark Lake; the women's slalom by Betty Comisky of Whitmore Lake, and the men's jumping by Ray Fullerton of Whitmore Lake.

Other winners included Bob Lilly of Sharon, Pa., in the boys tricks; Carl Spaulding of Toledo in the Optimist slalom; Henry Holmes of Palm Beach, Fla., in the veterans tricks, and Joan Spaulding of Toledo in the girl's slalom and women's jump.

One special event, mixed doubles, was added to the program. It was won by Dave Finkel and Linda Levitt, both of Columbus, Ohio.

The Coast Guard Academy football team, victor in but two of its seven games in 1958, will be under Coach Otto Graham this season.

Pontiac Area Yachtsmen End Summer Race Season

Pontiac area skippers, comprising the fleets of sailing craft at Pontiac Yacht Club and Watkins Lake Yachting Assn. wound up their summer racing seasons during the Labor Day weekend. Special events marked competition for each organization.

At PYC 25 skippers and their crews sailed three separate series of five races each. Three were sailed Sunday and two on Monday. Clarence Holman (championship), Fred Prince (commodore), and John Seaton (Maverick) were winners. Holman had 48¾ points, Prince 20½ and Seaton 40.

Glenn Fries (lightning), Chuck Morris (snipe) and Don Zannoth (thistle) topped the summer series at WLYA. Labor Day's team event was won by Don Zannoth's team of Jim Parshall (thistle), Fred Brede, Dave Green and Gus Eldred (lightnings), Frank Fleck and Guy Duffield (snipes.) The losers were Fries' team of Jack Berlien (lightning), Carl Kreitz and Norm Ledwan (thistles), Ray Frankel and Chuck Morris (snipes).

Holman, with Betty Holman and Leo Wasserberger, his crew, sailed to three firsts, two seconds in the PYC events for the championship class title. Andy Roualet was second with 40; Phil Smith third with 39. Jack Grisby was second (17) and Carl Marr (16½) third in the commodore series, and Paul Rich was second (23) and Ron Callahan (20) third for mavericks.

Shifty winds made sailing fast and interesting in the Sunday races at WLYA. Zannoth won the thistle class (Ledwan 2nd, Parshall 3rd); Guy Duffield led the snipes, with Morris 2nd and Frank Fleck 3rd; Fries was the first lightning, followed by Dave Green 2nd, and Jack Berlein 3rd.

Other series standings included; lightning, Berlein 2nd, Fred, Bruce Brede 3rd; snipes, Duffield 2nd, Neil Wheeler 3rd; thistles, Parshall (alternate, Harm Gillan) 2nd, Ledwan 3rd.

Red Wings Open Camp With Skating Workouts on Olympia Ice

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings opened their 1959 training camp yesterday at Olympia Stadium with 68 players participating in an easy, two-hour skating session.

Also on hand were 14 veterans from last year's team, including goalie Terry Sawchuk and captain Gordie Howe.

The training camp runs through Sept. 21.

Coach Sid Abel planned to divide his squad into three shifts today for the first actual practice session. The first group composed of veterans and prospects will work out for two hours.

New York Driver Wins $17,351 Stock Car Title

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP)—Jim Reed of Peekskill, N.Y., complained of an aching back after winning yesterday's Southern 500-mile stock car race here. But he may find you can buy a lot of aspirin with $17,351.

That's the amount of winnings for the 33-year-old garage owner in the 10th annual Kentucky Derby of stock car racing.

Rolling in second for $7,485 winnings, two laps behind Reed, was Joe Weatherly of Norfolk, Va., in a Thunderbird started by Bob Burdick of Omaha, Neb.

Hollywood Headlines:

Mars Eerie, Not Phony by New Film Method

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Marilyn Monroes and Clark Gables may come and go in this business but new film processes will always be with us.

Newest is Cinemagic, a process that optically and chemically changes the photographic image into what appears to be drawings that move. It is not Disney-like animation, neither is it the conventional movies as they have existed since Edison.

The work is the brainchild of producer Sid Pink and inventor Norman Maurer. Like most inventions, it came as a result of seeking a way to save money.

"We wanted to make Mars look eerie but not phoney—as so many of these space movies have done. The new process accomplishes our purpose, we think, for peanuts."

★ ★ ★

The movie, which starts shooting Sept. 10, will be made at half the original cost, Pink estimates, because of the process.

"Our set for the planet Mars cost us a couple hundred dollars instead of the thousands that we had estimated."

The Cinemagic process works only on the negative. Maurer says this is the first time anyone has tampered with the photographic image since the days of Edison.

"The movie is shot as a regular movie and the public will see 60 percent of it that way. Then when the scientists land on Mars, the characters will move smoothly just as they do in coventional movies—only they will look like pen or pencil drawings—which they are not."

★ ★ ★

A space movie is the perfect showcase for the process as the effect is eerie and since no one has been to Mars, the miracle of imagination gives it a believable—if fantastic—quality.

Pink gives a disheartening note about the commercial possibilities of the process.

"There are thousands of television commercial films lying unused in vaults around town, only because they have been used too often. Cinemagic can be applied to the negatives and they can all be used over and over again—and be entirely new."

Ex-Freedom Fighter Vows Hunger Strike

SALEM, Mass. (AP)—A former Polish freedom fighter says he and other anti-Communists will begin a hunger strike in front of the White House tonight to protest Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit.

"I will not eat. I will not drink. I shall give my life on the altar of patriotism," Jozef Mlot-Mroz, 38, a Salem leather worker, said in an open letter to President Eisenhower.

★ ★ ★

Mlot-Mroz, president of the Confederation of Polish Freedom Fighters, said in his letter that Khrushchev "is a cold-blooded murderer who sacrificed the lives of millions of innocent people to build up communism."

The Salem man said he would be joined by Hungarian, Lithuanian, Polish and Estonian patriots.

Hollywood Headlines:

Nick Adams Just Climbed Out of the Mines to the Top

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How are you going to keep them down in the coal mines after they hear what's happened to Nick Adams?

Not many months ago, Nick enjoyed the popular status in Hollywood of being mostly the chum of Elvis Presley, Natalie Wood, and Bob Wagner. It got him invited to many fancy places, but usually the label on Nick's tuxedo was stamped: "Property of Warner Bros. Wardrobe Dept."

In fact, Nick acknowledges he owned only one suit to his name—and not many shirts and socks.

Today, he has an office at Paramount, with secretaries, in a building that houses big producers and top moneymaker Jerry Lewis.

How Horatio Alger would have loved Nick's story.

Nick wanted to be an actor, but he never got any closer to it than frying hamburgers in a Hollywood drive-in. So he enlisted in the Coast Guard.

A tour of sea duty ended in Long Beach at the precise time director John Ford started "Mr. Roberts." Nick hitchhiked to the Warner lot and brashly walked in the main gate.

"I was wearing my white sailor suit, my sun-tan looked like make-up, and the guard waved hello at me."

Inside, he headed right for Ford, breaking in on a conference of the director and producer Leland Hayward.

★ ★ ★

"I talked fast without taking a breath, then I imitated Jimmy Cagney and Cary Grant. I knew I had to keep talking, else Ford would have thrown me out on my clean sailor suit."

The crusty director chewed on his cigar, turned to an assistant, and yelled: "Hire that little — so he'll shut up."

One small problem: the company was leaving immediately for location on Midway Island for three months. Nick still was in the Coast Guard.

"I applied for a month's leave and got it. When I got to Midway, then I asked for monthly extensions."

His enlistment up, Nick came back to Hollywood and pushed himself into bigger and better roles. His big break came last New Year's Eve when he, producer Andrew J. Fenady and director Irvin Kershner, came up with the idea of a Jimmy Dean-like character in the Old West.

Out of that spawning came "The Rebel," a new entry in TV's Western avalanche. The show is already sold and slotted on the ABC-TV network next month in the prime 9 p.m. Sunday night spot.

Negro Baptist Group to Convene in West

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The five-day National Baptist Convention, a Negro organization, opens Wednesday with about 30,000 delegates expected.

Students Buy Better Quality

College Clothes More Dressy This Fall

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Some 46 million students are on their way back to school, from kindergarten to postgraduate college courses. And in most of the country merchants expect record receipts from outfitting them when the buying rush is over.

Many report students or parents are spending more freely this year, and the trend is toward being more dressy and upgrading quality of purchases. Also, the number exposed to education grows steadily.

★ ★ ★

There are exceptions to the spending spree for new clothing. Merchants in areas hit by the steel strike and layoffs in its allied industries report spending on the frugal side. Hot and humid weather recently wilted sales in some areas where earlier it was brisk.

SALES WILT IN HEAT

And many style-conscious collegians and prep school students are waiting to see what the other fellows will be wearing.

Clothing manufacturers who try to guess these trends have built up cautious inventories of Ivy League and Continental look suits and report good reception so far.

★ ★ ★

Some say suits themselves are making a strong comeback at colleges where in recent years the costume has run to slacks, jeans, and jackets.

Merchants say teen-agers are the most style-conscious of all—and most likely to seek the protective coloring of conformity.

The teen-age market is now estimated at 10 billion dollars a year. For this money the clothing industry competes with the makers of hair curlers, electric shavers, shaving lotions, convertibles, and phonograph records.

The industry is exerting strong effort to get youths to dress better, contending pride in appearance can reduce the tendency to juvenile delinquency and even improve grades.

The American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear claims 65 per cent of the nation's public high schools approve its Dress Right program. To these it distributes manuals, charts, and film strips showing students how to dress in taste instead of sloppiness.

WILL SPRUCE UP

Encouraged by the business recovery, the adult male also is expected to spruce up this fall. The Wool Bureau reports output of men's suits of all types up 20 per cent, and that in the first five months the consumption of apparel wool increased 40 per cent above the like period in 1958.

The price of wool has strengthened. One manufacturer reports this caused an average rise in piece goods of 20 cents a yard. This could make men's fall suits cost about $1 more at wholesale.

★ ★ ★

One thing bothering much of the clothing industry is the influx of apparel from Hong Kong and Japan. Both the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and the Clothing Manufacturers Assn. of the U. S. A. recently asked interested senators to help dam the flow.

★ ★ ★

Another issue—this one dividing domestic woolen mills and American makers of clothing from imported cloth—is the selective tariff on foreign fabrics. This year the first 13½ million pounds of fabrics paid 25 per cent duty. Then the levy jumped to 45 per cent.

That policy is one of the things President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan are reported to have discussed in London, where the American practice is highly unpopular.

Scout Program Could Aid Teens' 'Sick Leadership'

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The "sick leadership" that causes teenagers to turn to crime and violence could be defeated by stepped-up Boy Scout programs in large urban areas, says a top scout leader.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Arthur A. Schuck of Short Hill, N.J., chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America, said in an interview that the youth of today needs healthy leadership.

"The healthy leadership in the scouting movement can replace the sick leadership that now attracts young people in many parts of our larger cities," Dr. Schuck said.

The scout leader, here for the 11th national training conference of Boy Scout executives at the University of Michigan, said delinquency often is the result when young people have no healthy outlets for their youthful drives.

Stock Market Pace Uneven

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved unevenly, showing a slight downward tendency, in moderately active early dealings today.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point prevailed among key stocks. Losers seemed to be in the majority.

As the steel strike entered its 56th day there was still no hope for an immediate settlement. Wall Street was concerned with tight money and the international situation.

Most steels, motors and oils were down. Chemicals, tobaccos and airlines showed some small gains. Electronics and farm implements were mixed.

Detroiter Dies Golfing on Waterford Course

His brother, who was golfing with him when he became ill, placed him in the shade and went to get his car. When he returned, Hammond was unconscious.

All Grains but 2 Holding Steady

CHICAGO (AP) — All soybean and September corn futures sold off rather sharply today in early transactions of the board of trade while other grains held steady to firm.

* * *

The September contracts of both corn and soybeans slumped more than a cent a bushel during the first several minutes. Dealers said the pressure in soybeans stemmed from hedge selling which came in surprising volume and attracted liquidation and short selling.

* * *

After about an hour wheat was ⅛ to ¾ cent a bushel higher, September $1.92¾; corn ¼ to 1⅝ cent lower, September $1.17¼; oats unchanged to ⅛ higher, September new type contract 66¾; rye ¼ to ⅝ higher, September $1.32¾; soybeans ⅝ to 1½ lower, September $2.08⅝.

Group Resumes UAW Hearings

Four Republicans Call Former Union Member as Witness

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rackets committee today resumes its public hearings on Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers Union.

Republican members of the eight man bipartisan committee called as a witness Cyrus (Toots) Martin of Temperance, Mich., a former UAW member in Ohio who says he is "very unfriendly" to top officials of the union.

The committee's four Democrats have agreed to explore in the hearings evidence produced by the four Republican members.

Partisan political sparring had marked the start of the inquiry. How much of the steam has gone with last week's passage of the labor bill in Congress remains to be seen.

Primarily the Republican inquiry has dealt with the financial affairs of Richard T. Gosser of Toledo, senior international vice president of the UAW and a right hand man to Reuther.

* * *

Another issue is whether the union, as some rebel members have alleged, improperly compelled some of them to contribute to "flower funds" that Reuther had described as funds raised through purely voluntary contribution to finance the campaigns of union incumbents in union elections.

The inquiry has taken on an anticlimactic flavor sice passage of the labor bill. Chairmar John L. McClellan (D-Ark) and Vice Chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) both have said they believe their committee has about fulfilled its mission.

Federal Voting Registrars Suggested to Aid Negroes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Use of federal voting registrars where necessary was recommended by the Civil Rights Commission today to assure Negroes and other minority groups the right to vote for federal officials.

Southern senators promptly denounced this and other recommendations as "extreme and shocking," and a "program of deceit and distortion." They said they would oppose legislation needed to carry it out.

"It has become apparent that legislation presently on the books is inadequate to assure that all our qualified citizens shall enjoy the right to vote," the commission said in a report to President Eisenhower and Congress.

That recommendation was approved by five members of the six-man commission. The sixth, John S. Battle of Charlottesville, Va., dissented, saying present laws are adequate.

Use of federal registrars, Battle added, "would place in the hands of the federal government a vital part of the election process so jealously guarded and carefully reserved to the states by the founding fathers."

PROPER AMENDMENT

Three of the six members went further, and proposed a constitutional amendment to prevent voting discrimination. They proposed assurance of the right to vote to every citizen who meets his state's age and residence requirements and who is not legally confined at the time of registration or election.

The proposal would wipe out educational and other requirements which some states demand of voters and which, the three proponents said, provide the way when there is the will to discriminate.

The commission unanimously recommended federal action to require that all voting and registration records be preserved for five years. Public inspection would be permitted under restrictions which would preserve the secrecy of the ballot.

Although voting procedures occupied the commission's major attention, it delved also into alleged discrimination in education and housing. In those fields, further study was recommended by the commission if its life is extended. Under present law, the commission goes out of business two months from now.

The commission recommended, however, that the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration limit loan guarantees and other services to those builders who agree in writing to abide by existing laws against discrimination.

Half the members also urged denial of federal funds to colleges and universities which refuse to admit students because of race. The lone Negro member, George M. Johnson of Washington, suggested the same restriction on public elementary and high schools.

Pontiac 8-Year-Old Is Injured by Car

An eight-year-old Pontiac boy, James F. Bingham of 110 S. Merrimac St., was injured Monday when he ran from between two parked cars into the path of a moving car.

Pontiac police said the boy ran into the path of a car driven by Willard D. Ousnamer, 34, of 1059 Cherrylawn St., on Baldwin Ave. near Kennett road.

The boy was treated at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

News in Brief

Burglars broke into the Ace Grill, 3521 Sashabaw Rd., Waterford Township, and took a $38 check, $8 in cash from the register and an undetermined amount of change from vending machines, owner Hector Bueno reported to township police yesterday.

Two tires, 11 quarts of motor oil, and $21 cash were reported stolen yesterday by thieves who entered the Ashland Service Station, 7135 Cooley Lake Rd., West Bloomfield Township, according to sheriff's deputies.

Mrs. Kathleen Badenhoop, of 244 S. Anderson St., reported to Pontiac police Monday that someone had entered her home and had stolen several bottles of beer from her refrigerator and a wrist watch valued at $15.

Burglars broke into the Avon Lounge, 3982 Auburn Rd., Avon Township, and took $150 from a cash register plus an undetermined amount of money from a juke box, Oakland County sheriff's deputies reported yesterday.

Teacher Tenure Rulings Clarified by Adams

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams held Tuesday that when a teacher asks a private hearing in a teacher's tenure case only the final decision lawfully may be made public.

* * *

He replied to an inquiry from Juste A. Rosati, chairman of the State Teachers Tenue Commission.

Adams said disclosure of the outcome "will not justify opening the door to disclosure of all or any part of the events occurring during the private hearing, all these are protected by statute."

Planning Dinner for Broomfield

Set for Northwood Inn Sept. 28; Welcome Is Sponsored by Friends

Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County) will be honored at a banquet Sept. 28 at Northwood Inn.

The banquet is being sponsored by a group of Broomfied's friends who want to give the 37-year-old congressman a "welcome home" from this year's Congressional session in Washington, said William H. Breech, who is heading the tribute.

Breech is president of Great Lakes Tractor & Equipment Co. in Birmingham. He said the banquet would be non-political in nature.

"Many of Congressman Broomfield's constituents, wanting to show their appreciation for a job well done, have planned this 'welcome home' dinner," he explained.

Featured speaker will be Rep. Gerald R. Ford of East Grand Rapids.

Big Jet Lands in U.S. Before Tokyo Takeoff

The big Boeing 707-321, a larger model of the 707-121 flown by domestic airlines and by Pan American across the Atlantic, made the trip in 15 hours and seven minutes flying time.

But because of the International Dateline, it got here 48 minutes before it took off. It left Tokyo at 10 a.m. Japan time Monday and arrived here at 9:12 a.m. PDT the same day.

Vending Machines, Safe Opened

City Police Probe Thefts

Pontiac police detectives today were investigating several burglaries reported yesterday and this morning.

* * *

Patrolmen Robert H. Rood and Robert Allen saw an unidentified man run from the Interstate System Co., 117 Brush St., while patrolling at 2:15 a.m. today.

They gave chase but lost him in a nearby field. Returning to the building, they found it had been entered and a 1,200 pound steel safe broken open.

William Trenor, company manager, said two petty cash envelopes containing an undetermined amount of money plus an undetermined number of endorsed checks had been taken.

* * *

Officers said the man had ransacked the office and pried open several vending machines before wheeling the safe outside on a hand cart and forcing it open some 20 feet from the front door inside the building.

The GMC Retail Store, 675 Oakland Ave., also was broken into last night, police said.

Burglars took a 14-foot truck after loading it with 29 truck tires and wheels valued at $4,000, an undetermined amount of parts from the service department, and cigarettes and change from vending machines, police reported.

* * *

Irwin Gates, night serviceman, told police he discovered the break-in when he came to work at 11:30.

* * *

Two cases of beer were stolen by thieves who broke into the City Beverage Co., 117 Turk St., early this morning.

* * *

Dorothy Miller, of 1540 S. Lapeer Rd., Orion Township, told police yesterday that an estimated $800 worth of clothing was stolen from her car while it was parked on Hill street.

Ramsay Cleric Named to State Tourist Group

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams Tuesday announced four minor appointments, including that of Rev. Louis C. Cappo of Ramsay to the state tourist council.

Rev. Cappo was named to succeed George E. Bishop, deceased, for a term ending in April, 1964.

Appointed to the State Board of Control for Vocational Education were Earl H. Bjornseth, Perry, succeding Searle Barnett, resigned, and Benjamin M. Rose, Wyandotte, succeeding Dewey Barich, whose term expired.

Williams renamed David M. Moss of Detroit to the Michigan Board of Pharmacy.

Can Free Milk From Strontium

Scientists Report Way to Take Out Radioactive Contamination

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Scientists have been able to remove up to 94 per cent of radioactive strontium 90 from skimmed milk without altering basic content, the Atomic Energy Commission revealed today.

"Methods for removal of radioactive strontium from milk would be vitally important if gross contamination were to occur, for instance, from nuclear accidents or in the event of nuclear warfare," the report said.

The announcement was contained in the AEC's first quarterly report on fallout. It also showed that concentrations of radioactivity in surface air over the Eastern United States declined during the early summer months.

Preliminary experiments in removal of strontium 90 in milk were conducted in the Atomic Energy Agricultural Research Laboratory at the University of Tennessee. Further research will be conducted to establish the practicality of large-scale removal and to estimate cost of carrying it out at the commercial dairy level, the AEC said.

Removal is carried out through an ion exchange technique similar to home methods of "softening" of water by eliminating certain chemicals, the report said. This was accomplished without reduction in the calcium content.

British Election Set for Oct. 8

Conservatives Will Test Strength Against Labor Party in 630 Districts

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan today set Oct. 8 as the date for a national election.

Voters in 630 districts will decide who will represent them in a new House of Commons, with the victors receiving a mandate not exceeding five years.

If the conservatives win a majority of the seats Macmillan will remain as Prime Minister. Opposition leader Hugh Gaitskell will replace him if the Labor Party triumphs. The Liberal Party and a few smaller political groups also will have candidates in the field.

'Squeegie' Back Home After Extensive Search

The snake, a pet belonging to 15-year-old John M. Fleischer, was found curled up in a flower bed yesterday, two blocks from John's home. It had wandered off last week.

Considered harmless, the snake was sought for two days in an extensive police search which later was abandoned.

Mrs. Mary Kovacsity, 36, called officers when she found Squeegie sunning herself in the garden. Patrolman Wilbur Weilandt brought the snake to his precinct wrapped around his arm.

Khrushchev: All-Russian Boy

Biographers Brighten Nikita's Story

(Six years ago William L. Ryan was one of the first specialists in Soviet affairs to predict that Nikita Khrushchev was on the way to taking over command in the Soviet Union. He has seen Khrushchev at close hand, in Moscow and abroad, and followed his career closely. In five articles, of which this is the first, Ryan appraises the man who comes calling on President Eisenhower next week.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

As a boy, Nikita Khrushchev was good to his mother. He attended Sunday school at the local church and recited the gospels from memory. He was a cracking good halfback at soccer. In short, he was Nikita Khrushchev: All-Russian boy.

This is the picture of Khrushchev now emerging from his own and thousands of other words pouring from Moscow press and radio in English and other languages in advance of his visit to the United States.

The round little man with the steely cold blue eyes will appear before Americans as the new Khrushchev, 1959 model. The advance billing portrays the Soviet premier as anything but a sinister leader of a world conspiracy using the name communism.

On the contrary, it makes him the prototype of all success story heroes who worked their way to the top through patience, fortitude and honest toil.

While Khrushchev angled earnestly for an invitation to the United States, biographers fell in enthusiastically with the theme that only such a fine lad could climb the ladder from rags to fame as the world's top Communist leader.

THOUGHT OF INJUSTICE

"While working in a coal mine," wrote one of these chroniclers, "young Nikita Khrushchev often thought about the injustice of the capitalist system then prevailing in Russia. He learned from his own experience that, for the working man, all bosses are the same. 'The capitalists helped to a great extent to make me a Communist internationalist,' Krhushchev later recalled."

The man coming to America next week likely will be the warm, the bubbling, gay, humanity-loving Khrushchev, to all appearances thinking only in terms of peace and love for mankind.

He intends to impress Americans and the world.

In Moscow, Khrushchev is presented as a model Soviet citizen, father to four fine children, grandfather to three, devoted to his motherly second wife, Nina, who reared his family. All this purports to be the story of a brilliant success well earned.

Khrushchev's life has, indeed, been a success story—Communist style. He rose to the top by clawing his way up over a heap of corpses and discards.

Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev was born April 17, 1894. His father, Sergei, probably owned a tiny plot of land around the mud-reed hovel near Kalinovka which was Nikita's birthplace. Russia was not, as Khrushchev now insists, capitalist. It was feudal under the tsarist monarchy. Khrushchev's father, if he owned land, was a "kulak," or property-owning peasant of the class Khrushchev later helped Stalin liquidate physically and brutally. Papa Khrushchev also worked in the coal mines near the Ukrainian border.

"When I was a boy," Khrushchev recently told a skeptical crowd of Catholics in Poland, "I attended church school and won a prize from the priest for knowing the gospels by heart."

Later, he added another tidbit in the making of the new Khrushchev.

AP Wirephoto

NO SWEAT! — This typical smug gesture seems to express the standing attitude of Nikita Khrushchev toward his "capitalistic competitors," and more particularly toward his upcoming visit to the U. S. His perpetual aire of confidence in the eventual victory of communism is likely to color any impression he gets of this country.

"I was once a rather good halfback at soccer. That was not an exclusively offensive or defensive position. It was both." Did he play against foreign teams, like the British? "I played with good Russian workers," snorted Khrushchev. "I don't look like a lord, do I?"

Khrushchev neither looked nor acted like a lord. Beginning life as a shepherd boy and coal miner, he came to epitomize the new Communist proletarian elite which rose from the wreckage of Bolshevik equalitarian ideals, a true representative of the Soviet's new privileged class.

Khrushchev was what Russians call a "sposobny chelovyek"—an able fellow. He had the physique of a Russian bear, a vast store of energy, a talent for blaming his mistakes on others and turning defeat into victory. But his beginnings were undistinguished.

Khrushchev had no part in the Russian revolution. Not until 1918 did he join the Bolshevik party at the outset of the civil war which followed the Bolshevik seizure of the revolution. He joined a proletarian regiment in the Donets Basin. Later he headed the agricultural section of the Kursk City Soviet near his birthplace. Back in military service, he commanded a battalion fighting White Russian forces. It was wiped out, but he escaped blame and became a political commissar for a guerrilla detachment. After the civil war he worked as an iron miner.

Khrushchev got his first chance for formal schooling at 27, when he was sent to a "rabfak" — workers' faculty—school in Kharkov in the Ukraine. After a series of minor party jobs, he attracted the attention of Lazar Moisevich Kaganovich, then the dreaded iron commissar of the Ukraine. He was sent to Moscow's Industrial Academy.

Under such important patronage, Khrushchev prospered. He was shrewd enough to pick the winning side in the Stalin-Trotsky fight, and by 1931 was secretary of a Moscow party regional committee and member of the All-Union Central Committee. He toured industrial areas to root out Stalin's enemies, then helped Kaganovich marshal labor for building the Moscow subway. For all this he won his first order of Lenin, highest award in the U. S. S. R. Today he has four others, plus a glittering display of lesser medals.

Khrushchev applied his bull-like vigor to bossing the Ukraine and serving Stalin during the frightful political blood purges of the mid-1930s. He vaulted into full membership in the powerful palace guard, the Politburo, by 1938. From World War II he emerged a political lieutenant general, concerned at least as much with party control in the army as with winning the war.

Khrushchev turned his attention to agriculture. He tried to transform collective farms into agro-gorods—farm cities—and the peasants into farm laborers without private plots of their own. He was too enthusiastic. Stalin slapped him down. He bounced back, and by the eve of Stalin's death in early 1953, Khrushchev was a highly influential politician.

But until his 60th year, Nikita Khrushchev was unknown to the outside world, a faceless, quiet man. He has made up for all that in the last five years.

Tomorrow: The lonely pinnacle.

College Entry Test Devised

First Real Challenge to Unpopular 'Boards' Begins in November

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

A new testing program for college-bound high school seniors was announced today by the University of Iowa. It marks the first real challenge to the long-established but often criticized College Entrance Examination Board.

Iowa's American College Testing program will get under way in November with between 200 and 300 participating colleges and universities. Like the older program, it will help the colleges determine in advance which students are qualified for admission.

The CEEB tests, popularly known as the "college boards," are administered for about 200 colleges, with less than 20 per cent of the nation's total college enrollment. CEEB was established in 1901, primarily for Ivy League schools, and has had the field to itself ever since.

In recent years there has been a growing criticism of CEEB and of the educational testing service (ETS) which it helped establish in 1947. ETS prepares and scores the college board tests, as well as many other types of examinations.

Dr. E. F. Lindquist, director of the Iowa program, said the new system will be more comprehensive than the college boards, will be cheaper, and "the competition will result in an improvement of the ETS tests. America's schools will get more for their money."

Detroit News and Times Are Delayed by Dispute

RUNWAY REALISM — Before they even step into the cockpit of the DC8 jetliner, pilots at United Airlines training center in Denver, Colo., will have racked up 20 hours practicing take-offs, landings and other flight situations in the new craft. It's all done with the help of an electronic training aid known as a flight simulator. As photograph and diagram above show, a closed-circuit TV system enables pilots in an authentic mock-up cabin to get realistic experience in control of the huge jet plane. The TV camera is directed by the movement of the controls in the pilot's hands, creating a startling illusion of actual flight. Even engine sounds are duplicated and all instruments function as in flight. By flipping certain switches, an instructor can cause emergency conditions, such as malfunction in an engine. The whole program results in the rapid, safe and efficient training of crews for the new jet age. Simulator was built by Link Aviation, Inc.

Card of Thanks 1

WE WISH TO EXPRESS OUR sincere thanks to all who have assisted in any way during the recent loss of our loved one. We appreciate so much the kindness and cooperation of Donelson - Johns Funeral Service. The floral offerings were so very nice. God bless each of you who contributed. We could never put into words how truly grateful we feel, but may each one of you somehow be rewarded for your help and thoughtfulness. The Family of A. A. Tribbey.

Fat House Bill Courts Ike Veto

Works Measure Has 67 Projects Previously Nixed by Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House appeared in a mood today to give President Eisenhower his second chance this year for a "double-header veto."

It has ready a $1,185,309,903 public works appropriation bill containing 67 projects which brought a veto to an earlier measure. Last week the House fell one short of the two-thirds vote needed to upset the veto.

★ ★ ★

In a bid to win White House approval, the House Appropriations Committee has recommended a reduction of 2½ per cent in the estimated 51-million-dollar initial cost of the 67 projects not included in the President's budget program. It applied the same reduction to several hundred other river and harbor and flood control projects to which the President did not object.

★ ★ ★

The net result of the committee action, which the House was in a mood to accept, was to cut the bill $97,166 below the President's original request for public works funds.

But the principle which prompted the original veto remained in the bill: funds would be provided to start the projects Eisenhower opposed.

If the bill goes to the President in its present form it is likely to be vetoed again.

NEIGHBORS HOWL — There were definitely two kinds of howls from neighbors of Dotty Ferragamo, 33, depending on whether the neighbor was man or woman. When the Malden, Mass., mother decided she wanted to get into show business she kicked off her career wit ha backyard ballet in a bikini bathing suit. Her performance brought many calls to the police, strangely enough all from women, in an attempt to stop the dancing exhibition. Police could do nothing as Mrs. Ferragamo claimed she and her mother, Mrs. Mary DeMarco, were dancing for the entertainment of her husband and three children.

Dancing Dotty Ready for Hollywood

Backyard Bikini Ballet Nets Offers

MALDEN, Mass. (AP)—"Dancing Dotty" Ferragamo, 33-year-old mother who startled neighbors with backyard bikini ballets, is all set for a stab at Hollywood.

She has an agent — and, she says, an offer to meet a representative of Hecht-Lancaster studios in New York.

Two bids for personal appearances have also come in, she says.

The Hollywood offer, announced Sunday night by agent Nick Abbruzzese, climaxed a summer of nocturnal backyard dancing in bikini bathing suits. Dotty said the dances were to entertain her husband and three children. Some neighbors weren't entertained.

An added attraction was a rock 'n' roll number by Dotty's mother band, handled the hi-fi set as the two women cavorted to applause. Mary Demarco, 55, who was decked out in tights and a fishnet swim suit. Police finally broke it up after traffic became snarled for six blocks.

Big Plans in Making for 'Woman' Specials

By CYNTHIA Lowry
AP-TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Last May CBS made a startling discovery which may yet prove to be television-shaking: the thinking woman.

TV already had invented the thinking man, or at least a sponsor had. The distaff discovery came about when somebody had the idea of putting together a show, called "Woman!" as a sort of taped daytime special dedicated to a thoughtful, literate exploration of the pros and cons of teenage marriage.

★ ★ ★

Well, sir, it was presented with considerable fanfare on a weekday afternoon spot normally devoted to a covey of soap operas, audience participation games and reruns. When it turned up with fine reviews and even better audience ratings, the folks at CBS were as excited as if they'd discovered the wheel.

★ ★ ★

Now a number of "Woman!" specials are in the works, the first of which is dedicated to the question "Is the American Woman Losing Her Femininity?" It will dislodge a marriage counselling program, "For Better or Worse," and Art Linkletter's "House Party" on Thursday, Sept. 17 (2-3 p. m. EDT) unless Nikita Khrushchev's visit postpones it. While the question itself is one which has been thoroughly explored in book, magazine and newspaper form, it remains stimulating and controversial.

★ ★ ★

CBS has brought in Esther Williams to preside over the discussion. The slim, pretty film star is, in her own right, a dramatic example of this particular "woman!" question of the show. Esther started out as a champion swimmer, moved on to become a big box-office film star and is the working president of a successful swimming pool manufacturing company. She is also the mother of three children—and informs you graciously but firmly: "I am one of the most feminine women in the world!"

In town to wrap up the final details of the show, Miss Williams insists that, while there can be no definitive answer to the question raised by the show, it surely will produce interesting dinner-time conversation in a lot of American homes that night.

Recommended Tonight: Miss America Preview Parade, CBS, 8 p. m. (EDT)—a must for gentlemen whose hobby is girl-watching; "Tightrope!" CBS, 9 p. m.—premiere of a new police drama; "Naked City," ABC, 9:30 p. m.—another police drama, this one starring Jack Klugman, now a star of the Broadway hit, Gypsy.

Larceny in Laughter Can Be Big Business

By EARL WILSON

★ ★ ★

Not intentionally, sir. But, you see, somebody swipes a joke and gives it to me, and I print it, and then the originator calls me a crook . . .

WILSON

Take, for example, the oldie, "You've had enough to drnik when you feel sophisticated and can't pronounce it." Who said that? Well, about 50 comedians, according to the newspaper files.

Bob Hope, Dean Martin and Joey Adams each claim they originated a line, "We're all having a good time here tonight but somewhere on a lonely frontier, our border is being guarded by Elvis Presley."

Mark Twain addicts claim he first said, "He who laughs lasts," but it doesn't appear in his writings and the late Joe Laurie Jr.'s fans loudly swear it was his.

Making up jokes is dangerous—if you don't try them out quietly on somebody before telling them publicly.

"What were some of your other gems, Mr. Wilson, since you seem so reticent to talk about yourself?"

Well, since you asked . . . I wrote "Never give advice—sell it," which is one of the most forgotten axioms in all literature . . . and "An historical novel is one which has a lovely girl on the jacket and no jacket on the lovely girl" . . . and don't forget my celebrated book dedication: "To the wonderful little woman who darns my socks, cooks my meals and rears my son—my mother-in-law."

And I also said Zsa Zsa was an unbelievable woman—that I unbelieved everything she said. Of course, that's when I was mad at her. But I'd better stop now or you'll think I'm bragging.

Go ahead and insult me. Say they're not funny. I can take anything after reading something in a Kansas paper that was credited to their columnist and went like this:

"The reason I go to night-clubs so much is that by the time my wife gets dressed, they're the only places that are still open."

Honest, I said it, years ago. Author, author!

★ ★ ★

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Girls who have interesting things to write in their diaries usually don't have time to write 'em. . . . That's earl, brother.

Congressmen in Berlin for Talks on Governing

BERLIN (AP) — Rep. Gerald R. Ford Jr. (R-Mich) and five other Congressmen arrived in Berlin yesterday from the first meeting of the Interparliamentary Union held behind the Iron Curtain.

Ford and the other Congressmen planned a short stay here before returning home. The group also visited Moscow, after the IPU meeting ended in Warsaw.

The IPU is an unofficial body that brings together members of parliaments from all over the world.

Clinton Township Man Held in Fatal Shooting

The victim, James L. Walker, 38, Clinton Township, was found on the living room floor at Morton's home. He had been shot three times with a .38-caliber revolver.

Morton said he shot Walker in self-defense following a family argument.

Maverick, Bandstand Tied in Hospital Poll

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television shows live or die by results of polls and popularity ratings in spite of the controversy over their validity.

Herewith we report the results of a poll recently conducted among the 300 patients at National Jewish Hospital at Denver—a group of men, women and children from all over the country, all walks of life, race, religion and color.

Maverick and Dick Clark's American Bandstand tied for first place. Edd Byrnes, the young man who plays Kookie in "77 Sunset Strip," was close behind.

Next was "As the World Turns," a daytime soap opera. It isn't often a daytime series gets into a top-10 position—and even less often is one placed ahead of such favorites as Lawman and the Ed Sullivan show, which were next in the patients ratings.

NBA was trying hard, but its special news shows on the Eisenhower European trip were consistently outclassed by CBS. NBC went in strongly for deep thinking and lecturing; CBS emphasized the news aspects and took a brisk, brighter approach to its backgrounding.

★ ★ ★

There's bound to be a mixup between Mother and Hope Emerson on the nights of Sept. 21 and 22. Last year's Mother in the popular Peter Gunn series on NBC was actress Hope Emerson. When the new series of Gunn shows starts on the 21st, there will be a new Mother—actress Minerva Urecal. The first story will have Mother's joint wrecked so that the new one will have a classier place for Pete to hang out.

★ ★ ★

The next night on CBS, who will turn up but Hope Emerson, in the new role that made a replacement necessary—"Sarge" in the new Dennis O'Keefe Show. Speaking as one easily confused viewer, I wish the Peter Gunn people had handled the change by simply explaining that Mother had gone on a trip around the world. Then Peter could move into a new hangout called, let's say, Auntie's.

Mystery Bomber Is Sought in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) A mysterious bomber was hunted today after he hurled an explosive into a wholesale house and then fled, while firing two shots at pursuers.

Damage to B & E Sales Co. in Northwest Detroit was estimated at $10,000 by fire officials. No one was injured.

Police said several persons saw a stocky, bespectacled man enter a doorway of the wholesale house, break a window and throw something in. An explosion followed as the man was fleeing.

Three bystanders said they chased the man but abandoned the pursuit when he turned and fired two shots in their direction.

Police theorized that the explosive may have been similar to the "Molotov Cocktail" of World War II fame which consisted of a bottle filled with gasoline.

Vatican Paper Attacks Nudity in Contests

VATICAN CITY (AP) — L'Osservatore Romano in a sharp attack on beauty contests, describes them as "zoological market exhibits."

The Vatican newspaper in its daily column of comment Monday also criticized motion pictures in which nudity rather than artistic ability is a means to success.

"The beauty contest is the first step to climb (this ladder of success)," the paper said.

Ballets Africains Drama Easy on the Nail-Biting

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new travel-story series, John Gunther's High Road appeared on ABC-TV's dusty trail last night with a mild, interesting film, "Song of the Congo."

Because Lowell Thomas' TV presentations made pure travelogue obsolete, the Gunther film obediently tacked on a thin story line. It purported to show how the famed Ballets Africains was formed from rival tribes in the Belgian Congo.

The slight plot made the prescribed gesture toward suspense-building: Would some of the but-hut Moiseyevs who refused to rehearse do well on opening night? What about the Watusis? Would they clash with the Urundi drummers?

Personally I've been hooking on Africa's cinematic allure ever since Frank Buck brought back a living tiger. So even the traditional scenes of Congo River traffic and wild animals rhumba-ing along the plains gripped my attention last night.

There also were the usual national geographic type scenes of the dancing girls with bosoms bare, a feature that placed the Ballets Africains into conflict with our more decorous ways during its recent American tour. On TV, where the girls performed amid less civilized surroundings, the scenes couldn't have shocked anyone.

NOT A PERFORMER

Gunther, who serves as host and narrator for this series, seemed uncomfortable and unsure of himself while reciting his lines last night. But, oddly enough, this gave the show a more authentic flavor. He is, after all, a reporter and not a performer.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: Bing Crosby's ABC-TV special, on Tuesday night, Sept. 29, has lined up the following as guests: Frank Sinatra, Louis Armstrong, George Shearing, Joey Bushking, Peggy Lee . . .

Additional casting for "Body and Soul," the DuPont Show of the Month on CBS-TV Monday, Sept. 28: Joe Louis will portray a fight referee; Neville Brand and Martin Balsam also have been added to the cast that is headed by Ben Gazzara.

Peter Lind Hayes will appear in a 90-minute Revlon special on CBS-TV Thursday, Oct. 22. Hayes and wife Mary Healy also will play the romatic leads in the NBC-TV special, "Miracle on 34th Street," which stars Ed Wynn and is scheduled for Friday, Nov. 27.

Dick Clark's new ABC-TV nighttime show, World of Talent, debuts on Sunday, Sept. 27 with Jackie Cooper and Maureen O'Hara joining permanent panelist Jack E. Leonard in the "advice to new talent" format.

The NBC-TV special that Jerry Lewis will present on Wednesday, Nov. 11 will originate from a Miami Beach hotel and will feature Abbe Lane and Xavier Cugat, Jane Morgan, Bobby Darin, Louis Jourdan and the June Taylor Dancers . . . Edie Adams and Miyoshi Umeki are additions to the Art Carney special, "Small World Revue," on NBC-TV Friday, Oct. 2. Hermione Gingold is the previously announced guest.

Purposes of Elementary

Facts
are important, too!

- Declaration of Independence, 1776
- Pacific states produce lumber
- 6x7 equals 42
- Indonesia is in the Torrid Zone

Much counseling in elementary schools is done by the classroom teacher. Children are helped with personal problems and with problems of the group.

Good Habits

- WORK
- HEALTH
- COURTESY
- SELF-DIRECTION

Skills

- in oral and written expression
- in listening and reading for many purposes
- in thinking critically in many life situations
- in music, art, and physical activities

Understandings

- problems and progress of democracy as a way of living, thinking, governing
- people everywhere depend upon others
- elementary concepts of economics
- concepts of time in history

Attitudes

- respect for private and public property
- respect for the worth and rights of every individual

Appreciations

- of the contributions of other peoples in literature, music, art, science
- of the importance of all worthwhile occupations

Schools Are Many . . .

Understanding why it is necessary to have laws. Police and fire departments cooperate with the schools.

Creative arts develop skills and appreciations, as well as providing for self-expression.

Your Junior and Senior High Schools Teach The 3 R's . . .

LANGUAGE ARTS

Reading improvement classes are operating in all secondary schools and are taught by specially trained teachers. Reading and study skills are emphasized in all classes.

The latest materials, techniques, and devices are used in teaching reading.

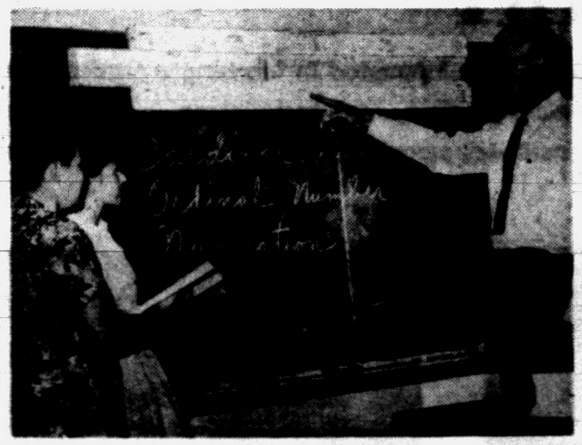
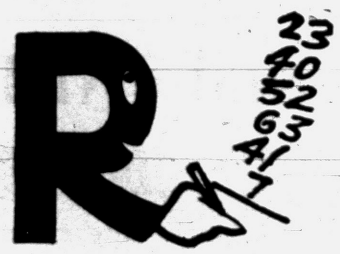
Good speech habits are emphasized, as well as the development of writing ability. Speech courses are now required in the seventh and eighth grades.

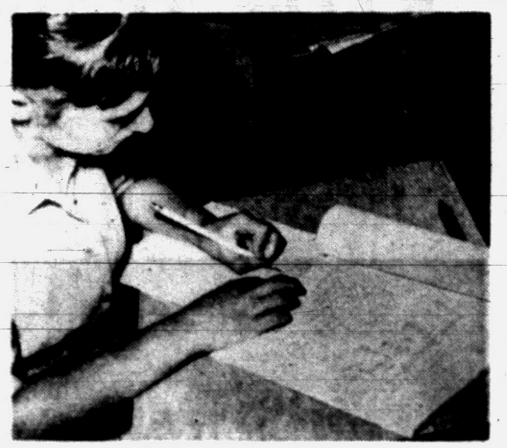
MATHEMATICS

An intensive overhaul of the mathematics program has begun. New mathematics ideas and methods, proved to be valuable through nation-wide research, will soon be found at every grade level.

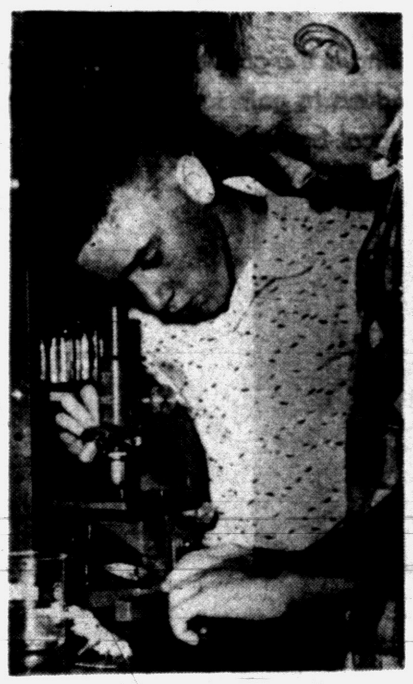




New teaching guides and pupil materials have been prepared locally and will be used in the seventh grade this year.



...And More Too



SCIENCE

Science instruction has been improved by providing more laboratory equipment, classroom science libraries, and locally prepared teaching materials.

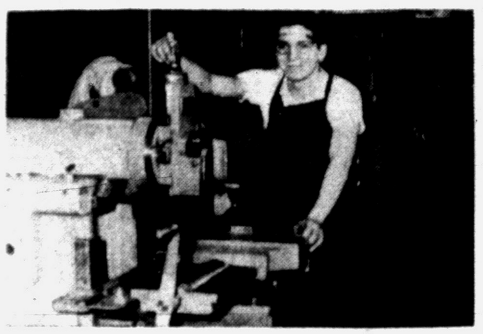
SOCIAL STUDIES

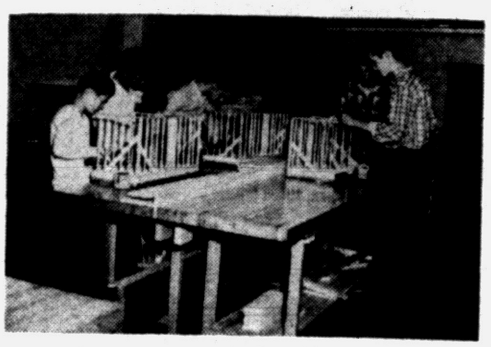
Interest in local, state, and federal problems is an essential part of social studies. With the cooperation of local officials, political aspirants, and civic groups, students actively learn good citizenship in their community.

Pontiac's Future Workers Learn Skills In The Vocational Education Program

• FOR TRADE and INDUSTRY

An up-to-date and comprehensive program is available to boys interested in learning a trade. Many draftsmen, machinists, welders, carpenters, auto mechanics, printers, and technicians join the work force, begin apprentice training, or attend technical institutes upon graduation from high school.





• FOR BUSINESS

Specialization in stenography, general clerical office work, and retailing is the goal of many boys and girls. A unique part of this program is the opportunity for future workers to gain knowledge through on-the-job training. This is possible only through the cooperation of local businesses.

• FOR HOME MAKING

The Opportunity to Learn Continues Through the Adult Education Program

1627 Adults Enrolled in This Program During 1958-59

PUPIL PERSONNEL SERVICES MEET MANY SPECIAL NEEDS OF CHILDREN AND YOUTH

The Visiting Teacher Service

7 visiting teachers aid pupils and families in solving emotional problems which interfere with achievement in school.

The Child Accounting and Attendance Service

This department investigates truancy and severe behavior problems. Working closely with the social agencies is a part of this service.

The Health Services

• DENTAL SERVICES

841 pupils took advantage of flouride treatments in a self-sustaining program supervised by a dental hygienist.

• VISION SCREENING

8351 pupils were given the Massachusetts Vision Test. The results go to parents.

• HEARING SCREENING

8331 hearing tests were administered. Children with suspected hearing losses were referred for professional examination.

• SCHOOL NURSING SERVICES

4 school nurses made periodic visits to each school. Many families were aided in solving their children's health problems.

The Guidance Services

All junior and senior high schools are staffed with counselors who help pupils identify and solve problems of an educational, vocational, or personal nature. Counselors work closely with homeroom and classroom teachers, parents, and local social agencies.

Junior high school counselors also direct group guidance activities using a course of study developed locally to meet needs of Pontiac youth.

The Special Education Services

THE MENTALLY RETARDED

55 more pupils were placed in special learning situations by adding three teachers of the mentally retarded. About 150 children now receive special help through this service.

THE DEAF AND HARD - OF - HEARING

18 boys and girls were taught lip-reading, the use of hearing aids, and tutored in school subjects in special classes.

PSYCHOLOGICAL TESTING

80 more pupils were tested by the addition of a diagnostician. 180 Pontiac children were given psychological examinations through which individual learning problems were pin-pointed.

THE ORTHOPEDICALLY HANDICAPPED

THE VISUALLY HANDICAPPED

SPEECH CORRECTION

COUNSELING of the PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED

21 pupils were aided in adjusting to their handicaps by the addition of a counselor for this group. This was a new program in 1958-59.

Your School Construction Program HAS ELIMINATED THIS

Just Five Short Years Ago...

The Pontiac Board of Education expanded its school construction program in a major effort both to keep up with fast growing enrollments and to eliminate sub-standard classrooms housed in worn-out wood buildings, such as the ones pictured above. The effort was successful!

In 1954, The Pontiac School District has 25 schools–with a reasonable capacity of 14,887, but with an enrollment of 16,917. Overflow classes were held in 32 classrooms housed in 23 temporary buildings. Only three of these were steel structures and could be classified as being safe.

Today, the picture has changed. The Pontiac School District now has 34 schools with a reasonable capacity of 19,816 pupils. The anticipated 1959 enrollment is approximately 19,890 pupils. Capacity is now equal to enrollment and 19 of the 20 wood buildings as pictured (housing 25 classrooms) have been razed. The Pontiac Board of Education has increased the pupil capacity by nearly 5,000–an amazing 33% increase in five short years.

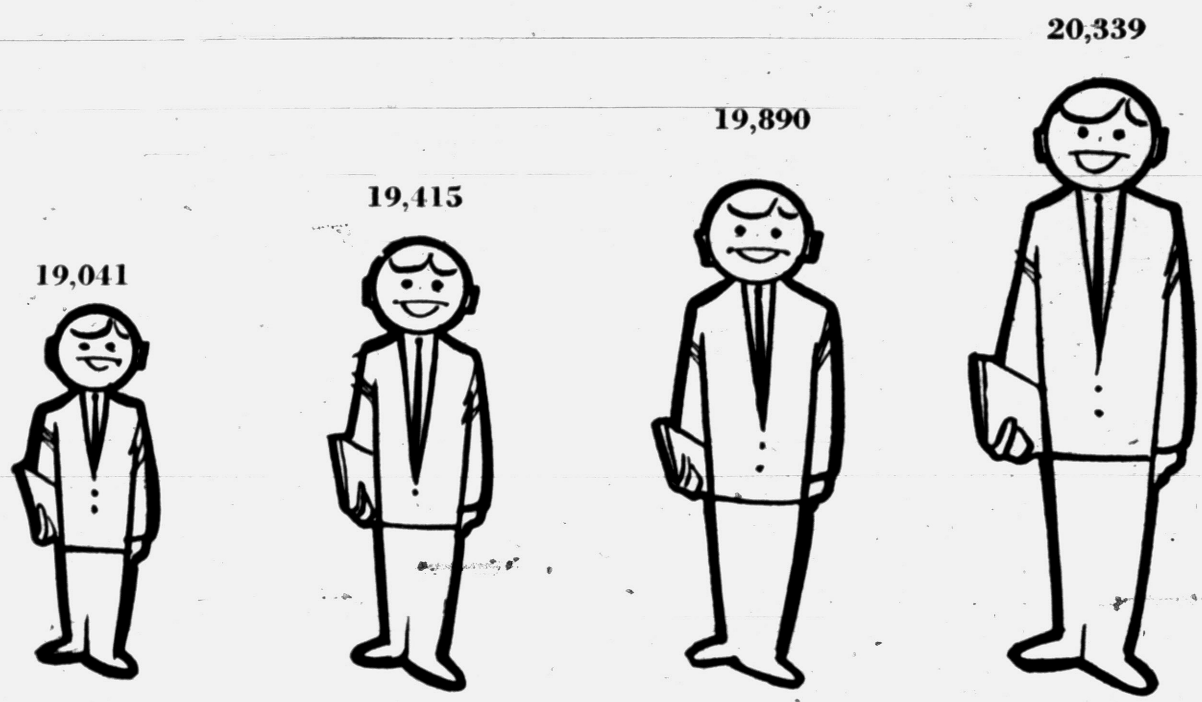
Your School Dollar Problem:

GROWING ENROLLMENTS, RISING COSTS, FALLING INCOME

You have seen, in this report, the real achievements of your school system. These achievements give Pontiac an excellent school system now. We can be proud of it. And, of even greater importance, the Pontiac schools will continue to become even better in the years ahead. Yet the cost has been reasonable. IT COSTS LESS THAN 35c PER HOUR TO EDUCATE A PUPIL IN YOUR SYSTEM — LESS THAN THE COST OF YOUR BABY SITTER.

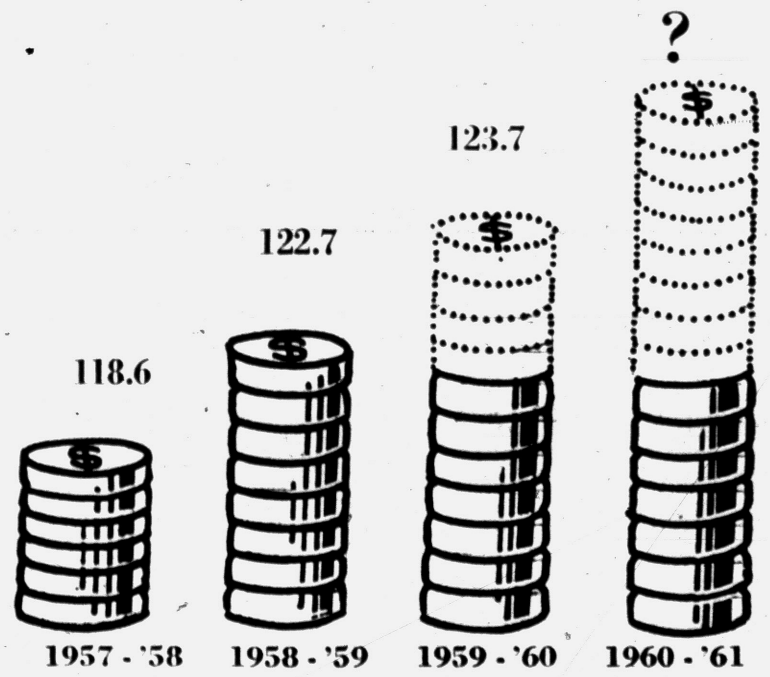
Schools are growing. Each year more and more pupils enter the system, and additional dollars are needed. Each year the cost-of-living continues to rise, and this increases school costs. Below are two charts which illustrate these changes.

INCREASING SCHOOL ENROLLMENT



For the last several years, each year more and more pupils enroll in the Pontiac schools.
Each year more teachers, books, pencils, maintenance, etc., are required to educate our growing family.
Each year some new school rooms have to be built to house our growing family of children.

INCREASING COST OF LIVING



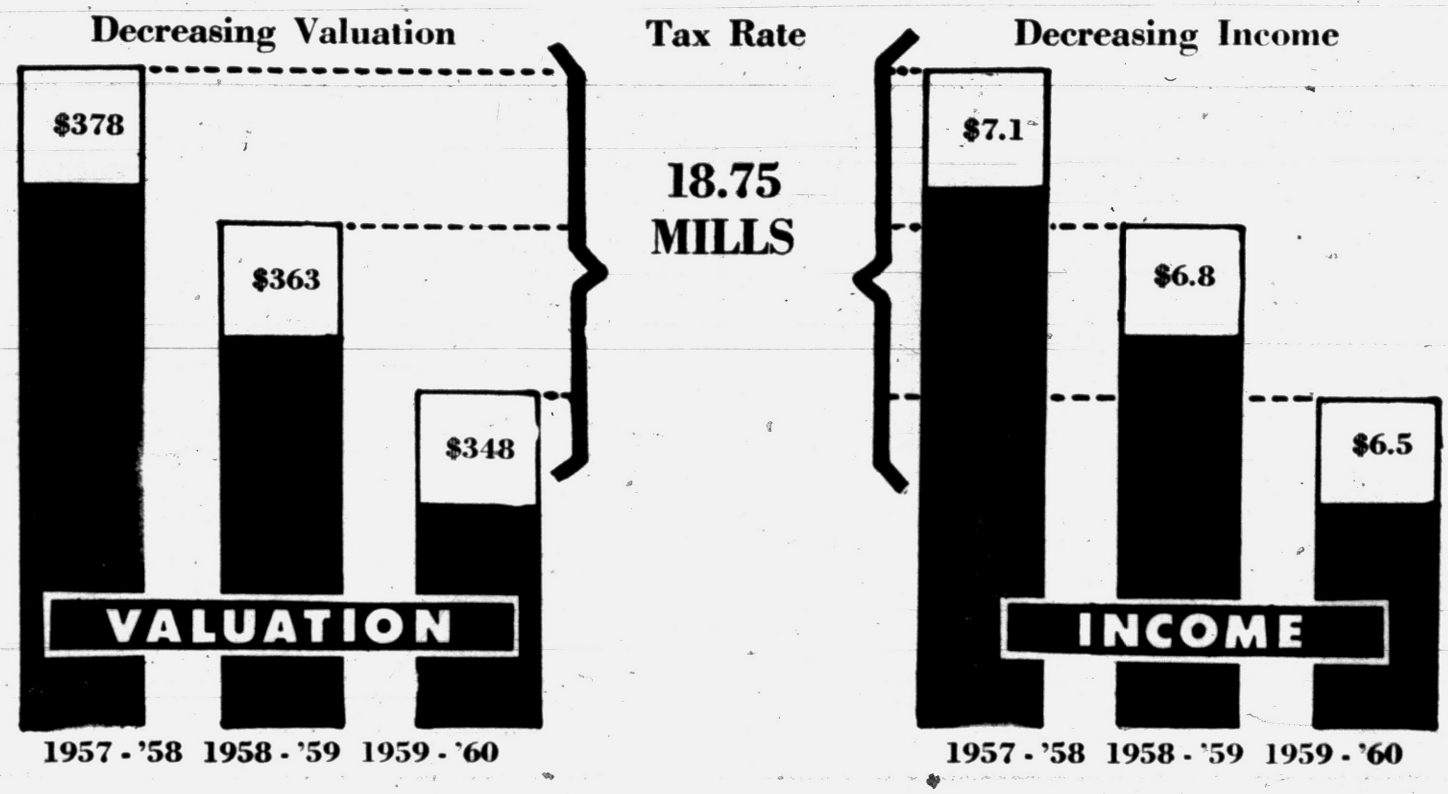
For the last several years, each year the cost-of-living has risen.

Each year the cost of teachers, books, pencils, maintenance, etc., goes up right along with everything else.

Each year it costs more just to keep the schools running as they are, because the price of everything is rising.

A FINANCIAL PROBLEM HAS ARISEN

A FINANCIAL PROBLEM has arisen which could stop school improvement — it is that school income from local taxes is growing smaller each year. Your schools receive fewer dollars from local taxpayers each year. School income is going down each year while costs are going up! THIS IS OUR PROBLEM!



Income from local taxes is gotten by multiplying the equalized valuation of the school district by the tax rate.

For several years, each year the equalized valuation of your school district has gone down by $15 million.

Each year since 1957-58 school income has gone down by $275,000 over the year before.

YOUR PONTIAC BOARD OF EDUCATION—

- Has no control over school district valuations; these are determined by city and county officials.
- Cannot prevent loss of income brought by declining valuations.
- Is committed to provide enough money to maintain a top-notch school system.
- Knows that income must be restored to the 1957-'58 level or higher to maintain good schools.
