5th Girl Found Slain Near Ypsilanti

YPSILANTI (AP) — The partially nude body of a young girl, with an electric cord around her neck, was found today in the area where four other girls were murdered in the past two years.

★ ★ ★

The victim was identified as 13-year-old Dawn Basum of Ypsilanti, who had been reported missing by her mother last night.

Eight-inch-long gashes were carved on her chest and stomach with a sharp instrument, reported Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey.

"It was a vicious and brutal killing," Harvey said. He indicated the evidence showed similarities to the other slayings.

★ ★ ★

Investigators said they believe Miss Basum was en route to visit a 14-year-old boyfriend when she disappeared.

The girl was an eighth grade pupil in Ypsilanti's West Junior High School, where Principal Harold Goodsman described her as a "normal, happy, outgoing teen-ager in good standing gradewise."

BAFFLING CASES

Four other girls in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area of southeast Michigan have been murdered in the past two years in cases that have baffled law officers.

An area resident, who was not identified by police, discovered the latest victim en route to work today on a lonely dirt road.

★ ★ ★

The body was sent to the nearby University of Michigan Hospital for an autopsy to determine the cause of death and whether sexual assault occurred.

Dawn, 5-foot-2 and 120 pounds, was quite mature physically for her age, the sheriff said.

★ ★ ★

Police sealed off about a square mile around the scene, barring newsmen and others from the area.

MEETING PLANNED

A meeting of law enforcement authorities involved in the investigation was to be held later today.

★ ★ ★

The victim, clad only in a short sleeved white shirt, was lying on her back at the shoulder of a dirt road, about three miles north of Ypsilanti.

An electric cord was wrapped around her neck and she had a white cloth jammed into her mouth, reported Sheriff Harvey.

Details of the murder resembled the March 25th death of 16-year-old Maralyn Skelton of Romulus.

BODY DUMPED AT SCENE

Harvey said the body apparently was dumped at the road sometime after dark last night.

★ ★ ★

One black strap shoe was found near the body. Another shoe was found a mile south of the road.

Miss Skelton's badly beaten body was found about two miles distant. The body of Mary Fleszar, 19, an Eastern Michigan University coed, was left less than a mile away on August 1967.

In all cases, the victims had been stripped and beaten.

The body of Jane Louise Mixer, 23, a University of Michigan law student, was found in a cemetery March 21 this year. She had been shot several times.

★ ★ ★

In the other death, Joan E. Schell, 20, of Plymouth was found last July. Both Miss Fleszar and Miss Schell had been stabbed.

Reds Downed Plane—U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department said today "all evidence now available" indicates a missing U.S. reconnaissance plane was shot down by North Korean aircraft and that it was "far outside" North Korean airspace when attacked.

The unarmed Navy electronic intelligence plane with 31 aboard has been missing since about midnight Monday and the North Korean Communists claimed it was shot down after violating their airspace.

President Nixon conferred today with his top advisers to discuss what action, if any, can be taken. One U.S. official described the incident as "deliberate murder."

OVERSTREET

Pilot of the plane was Lt. Cmdr. James H. Overstreet, 34, of McLaurin, Miss.

A previously scheduled meeting of the National Security Council convened at the White House late this morning.

The Pentagon declared in a statement at 11 a.m. EST: "From a variety of sources, some of them sensitive, we are able to confirm that at all times during its mission the aircraft was far outside any claimed territorial airspace of North Korea."

The statement continued: "All evidence now available to us, including North Korean claims and debris sightings, leads us to believe that the aircraft was shot down by North Korean aircraft. As of this hour, regretfully, there has been no report of survivors."

Related Stories, Page A-5

Earlier this morning, the Pentagon announced that a Soviet ship reported picking up some aircraft wreckage in the Sea of Japan but there was no sign of survivors.

The later announcement said:

"Reconnaissance missions of this type have been flown for more than 20 years in the Sea of Japan. There was nothing unusual about this mission.

"In recent years, these missions have been approved by high government authorities in the State and Defense Departments, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the White House. Each of these missions constitutes a lawful use of international airspace."

The Pentagon statement was the first offiiial acknowledgement by the United States that the EC121 was shot down, as North Koreans claimed. Previously, the Pentagon said only that the plane was missing.

The department would not elaborate on what type "sources" enabled it to tell that the plane stayed outside North Korea's claimed 12-mile territorial limit.

North Korea demanded a meeting for Friday of the Korean Military Armistice Commission, apparently to discuss with U. S. and U. N. officials the downing of the plane.

American military spokesmen in Seoul disclosed the Communist demand for the meeting but declined to say whether the United Nations Command (UNC) had agreed to a meeting at the truce village of Panmunjom on the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ). The Japanese news agency Kyodo said the UNC had agreed to meet.

No School Bias, Ferndale Says; Aid Cut Looms

FERNDALE (AP)—All 365 pupils in U.S. Grant elementary school are Negro.

The federal Office of Education says it constitutes illegal segregation. The Ferndale School District, the first in the North to be threatened with loss of federal funds, agrees that it's segregated, but denies it's illegal.

The Office of Education issued an order yesterday designed to force the integration of Grant pupils with about 4,100 children in nine other district elementary schools.

"We know there's segregation," Supt. John J. Houghton said, "but it's of a de facto nature. The school was built to meet an existing need and the population pattern that developed around it resulted in the fact that it is completely Negro today."

DELIBERATE DISCRIMINATION

Leon E. Panetta, director of the Office of Education's civil rights office, said the segregation of Negro pupils in Grant started when the school was built in 1926 as a deliberate effort to establish and maintain a discriminatory policy.

The school is in Royal Oak Township. Aside from a small portion of Ferndale, it is the only area in the school district with a large concentration of Negroes.

Houghton said one other elementary school has 27 Negro pupils, and two others have one Negro pupil each.

Burton Shifman, attorney for the district's school board, will meet with federal officials Monday to discuss the case.

Rec Fund Split Bill Introduced

LANSING (AP)—A bill dividing the $100 million recreation bond money on a 70-30 basis was introduced yesterday in the Michigan Senate.

The measure would earmark $30 million for use by local communities and $70 million for the state's recreation programs.

The bill is sponsored by Republican Sens. Gordon Rockwell of Mount Morris and Oscar Bouwsma of Muskegon.

Gov. William Milliken had recommended that $30 million be used for local grants, $30 million go to counties of over 100,000 population to supplement urban area programs, and $40 million be used for state projects.

Under the Rockwell-Bouwsma proposal, the state would be divided into six districts and each would receive $150,000.

An additional $21 million would be granted on a per capita basis to the regions, with each county in the region entitled to an allocation equal to $2.68 per capita, based on the 1960 census.

The remaining $70 million, granted to the natural resources department, would be divided: $40.8 million for projects of the parks division; $17.7 million for the fisheries division; $7.5 million for the wildlife division; and $4 million for the forestry division.

WHERE BODY WAS FOUND — Washtenaw County sheriff's officers confer on a rural road north of Ypsilanti where the body of a 13-year-old girl was found today. Dawn Basum of Ypsilanti, whose nude body lies under the blanket, was the fifth young woman to be murdered in the Ypsilanti-Ann Arbor area in the past 22 months. None of the murders has been solved.

Area 'Metro Centers' Envisioned

Development of three new "metro centers," each ranging in population from 50,000 to 200,000 is proposed for Oakland County in the recently released "Preliminary 1990 Land Use Plan" for Southeast Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Those areas chosen for Oakland County as "metro centers" are the Paint Creek area in the southern part of Oakland Township; the proposed M59-M275 interchange area near the border of White Lake and Waterford townships; and the east-central Novi Township area northwest of the proposed I-96-M275 interchange.

Prepared under the direction of Irvin J. Rubin, Transportation and Land Use Study (TALUS) director, the report was presented yesterday to the TALUS Administrative Committee in Detroit.

The report consisted of a 150-page review and description and a 7-by-9-foot map utilizing 25 colors.

R. J. Alexander, Oakland County Department of Public Works director, chairman of the 15-man TALUS administrative committee and of the Regional Planning Advisory Council of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), emphasized the plan is preliminary and deals only with the land use element of the TALUS project.

OTHER ELEMENTS LATER

"The detailed highway, public transportation, open space, recreation, housing and other elements of the plan are in the process of development and will be presented to the administrative committee during the coming weeks and months," Alexander said.

The creation of "metro centers" in areas not yet developed or now sparsely populated is balanced in the preliminary TALUS plan by redevelopment proposals for Detroit, including construction of the new stadium in downtown Detroit.

Each "metro center" plan would provide regional shopping opportunities coupled with offices, high-rise apartments, cultural and entertainment facilities, and in some cases, community college or university campuses.

OTHER COMMUNITIES

In addition, the preliminary plan recommends development of "planned communities" by building new complexes or expanding existing communities. In Oakland County, Keatington in Orion Township is cited.

Among the principal growth factors guiding TALUS planners, Rubin said, are:

- Population will increase in the metro area from 4.4 million in 1965 to 6.9 million by 1990.

Fire Guts Area Store; Others Damaged

A late-evening fire yesterday gutted a television store and caused smoke damage to neighboring stores in an Orchard Lake shopping center.

★ ★ ★

Cause of the fire at Bob Robinson's Magnavox at 3244 Orchard Lake, which started about 10:18 p.m. is still undetermined, according to Tri-City Fire Department Chief Herbert L. Morgan.

State fire marshals were inspecting the 1½-story building this morning.

★ ★ ★

An estimate of the damage also has still to be figured, he said.

Steel Equipment Co., and Alvin's business office, on either side of Robinson's Magnavox, and nearby Lake Cleaners all suffered smoke damage.

The stores are in a shopping center owned by Midwestern Insurance Co., Chicago.

The Tri-City Department, which covers Sylvan Lake, Keego Harbor and Orchard Lake, sent two trucks to the fire while Commerce Township fire department sent one. Several volunteer firemen from Pontiac and West Bloomfield Township also fought the fire, according to Morgan.

Nixon Reform Package Due

Tax Breaks for Poor Eyed

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — President Nixon's ultimate goal in tax reform is to remove taxation entirely from families below the poverty line, a top White House official has disclosed.

Economist Arthur F. Burns, considered Nixon's top adviser on domestic affairs, said the government regards income below $3,300 to be at the poverty level for a city family of four.

Burns said removing the tax burden from such families would be among the priority suggestions when the administration sends its complete tax-reform program to Congress, probably next January.

The over-all program was outlined to reporters yesterday after Burns met for two hours with AFL-CIO officials whose closed-door, three-day economic conference with government aides ended today.

SPECIAL COMMISSION

Burns said Nixon can be expected to follow up pending tax reform proposals — one bundle in the next week or so, another in June — by appointing a special presidential commission on taxes.

Nixon's pending reform proposals, Burns said, will include a plan for increased deductions to benefit lower-income taxpayers. The loss of revenue would be covered by revenues gleaned from the closing of loopholes and elimination of tax shelters used by wealthier taxpayers.

Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy assured the AFL-CIO leaders the administration is aiming for "meaningful tax reform legislation in this session of Congress," but also needs the extension of the 10 per cent surtax to defeat inflation.

Burns and Kennedy were among a parade of administration officials who conferred with AFL-CIO President George Meany and about 35 presidents of major affiliated unions.

CONCERNS WELL KNOWN

The union leaders have refused to talk to reporters, but their concerns over Nixon policies are well-known. One is that the present anti-inflation restraints may be so severe as to cause rising unemployment. Another is that Nixon's budget cuts may impede programs supported by labor to deal with the problems of slums, urban unemployment and welfare.

THAT'S HER BOY — Four-year-old Shawn Schadler is credited by police with saving the life of his mother, Mrs. Fred H. Schadler of Arvada, Colo. Mrs. Schadler was knocked unconscious when she fell and struck her head on a rock. The boy and his mother were on a remote road in Coal Creek Canyon when the accident occurred. The youngster took off on a two-hour, four-mile walk through the unpopulated area to bring back help.

Birmingham

Tax Deadline Was Busy Day at Post Office

BIRMINGHAM — The most popular place in town last night was, of course, the post office.

★ ★ ★

The barrage of last-minute tax returns, which probably soared into the hundreds, was one of the heaviest ever received by the local post office on the final day for filing—April 15.

★ ★ ★

Streets ringing the post office carried heavy traffic from about 6 to 10 p.m., then subsided somewhat.

★ ★ ★

The dour look on the faces of most of those trooping up the post office steps indicated a general begrudging and unhappy attitude about the tax situation—perhaps much more so than usual.

SAMPLE OPINIONS

Opinion sampled from post office visitors indicated as much.

★ ★ ★

Sentiments ranged from "Glad it's over," "It has to be done," "I don't like it (the surtax) a bit," to a genuine dissertation by one young man on the principles involved in this year's filing.

★ ★ ★

His objection: not the money, but where it's going (the majority for defense spending).

The Baldwin Library will observe National Library Week next week via special storytelling sessions for kindergarten and first-grade youngsters.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—Plans are being finalized for the 6th annual Brother Rice County Galway Fair at Brother Rice High School, 7101 Lahser.

Festivities will get under way at 7 p.m. April 25 with folk-rock music, a coffee shop, games and a busy-bee booth where white elephants and antiques will be sold.

The fair will run 10 to 4 p.m. April 26.

Hearing May 26 on Ray Trial Bid

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Judge Arthur Faquin Jr. today set May 26 to hear a motion by James Earl Ray for a new trial in the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Robert K. Dwyer, executive assistant district attorney, said there is a strong possibility that Ray himself will appear at the hearing.

★ ★ ★

The question of Ray's eligibility for a new trial is unclear under Tennessee law. Ray entered a guilty plea to King's murder on March 10 and was sentenced to 99 years in prison.

Normally, anyone who enters such a plea forfeits rights to appeals or new hearings, and Criminal Court Judge W. Preston Battle pointed that out to Ray on March 10.

But, Tennessee law also provides that any new trial motions that are pending before a judge who dies must automatically be granted.

Battle died of a heart attack on March 31.

BOAT BRIDGE — Floodwaters from the St. Croix River have closed the bridge connecting Stillwater, Minn., and Houlton, Wis., to cars. But one commuter has figured out a way to get to Minnesota to his job — his boat. The unidentified Wisconsinite floated across the bridge, tied his boat to a walkway and waded ashore.

Sirhan Jury Has All Evidence in Case but Gun

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jury trying Sirhan Bishara Sirhan for murder is closeted with the physical evidence in the case—everything except the gun that killed Robert F. Kennedy.

Only People's Exhibit No. 6, the cheap little pistol that ended the life of a presidential candidate, is missing from the 154 items piled into the jury room.

★ ★ ★

The jurors, who resume deliberations this morning, can get the gun—but not without asking. In their first full day, Tuesday, they requested only two things —a new light bulb and some chalk for their blackboard.

The principals in the case—defendant, judge and attorneys — were absent for the first time in the 15 weeks since the trial began.

Sirhan, in his windowless cell five floors above the 44-year-old Hall of Justice, was reported "in pretty good shape," by one of his attorneys, Russell Parsons. The 25-year-old Sirhan had been nervous during the state's closing argument Monday, Parsons said.

"He asked me when I thought the jury might reach a decision and how did I feel," Parsons said on a brief stopover in the eight-floor courtroom. "I told him I felt encouraged, but the jury must be talking the case over."

A second defense attorney, Grant B. Cooper, also spent some time in the courthouse, but the third—Emile Zola Berman—was packing his bags to return to New York today.

Parsons said Sirhan asked for money to buy cigarettes and magazines and that he gave him five $1 bills.

If the jury convicts Sirhan of first degree murder—the verdict asked by the state—there will be a separate, subsequent trial to determine whether he will go to the gas chamber or be sentenced to life in prison. Second degree murder—asked by the defense—is punishable by five years to life in prison, with the length of sentence and parole set by the state's Adult Authority.

Committee OKs School Aid Bill

LANSING (UPI) — Spurred by fears that scores of public school districts face fiscal collapse, the Michigan House Education Committee has recommended swift passage of a record $746.9 million public school aid bill for the 1969-70 academic year.

The measure, sponsored chiefly by Chairman Lucille McCollough and embracing the State Board of Education's spending plan, faces stiff opposition from Gov. William C. Milliken and other top Republicans.

The committee, deadlocked on school aid proposals for more than a month, sent the proposal to the appropriations committee on a 7-6 party-line vote yesterday following a stormy hearing.

The bill largely was written by State School Supt. Ira Polley and calls for an increase of $57 million over Milliken's recommendation. It adds nearly $14 million for new programs and gives the districts $130 million more than they now receive.

Anderson to Speak at Salute to Youth

State Rep. Loren D. Anderson, R-Waterford Township, will be featured speaker tomorrow night at the city's fifth annual Salute to Youth program at Pontiac Northern High School.

Awards will be presented to 209 Pontiac students in 10 categories which include home economics, speech, fine arts, science, creative writing, industrial arts, music, scholarship, athletics and leadership.

★ ★ ★

The students were selected by teams of teachers.

Also on the program will be a variety of musical talent from each of the city's high schools — Central, Northern and Pontiac Catholic.

The program begins at 7 p.m. and is open to the public at no charge.

'Little' Twister Strikes in State

COLDWATER (UPI) — What was described as "just a little" tornado touched down briefly south of this south-central Michigan community last night, ripping the roof off the bathroom of one home and rolling over at least one house trailer.

Branch County sheriff's officers said the twister touched down at Volkmer's Landing, a cluster of vacation homes between Coldwater and Hillsdale on Long Lake. They said there were no injuries and that they did not believe anyone was in the homes at the time.

★ ★ ★

"It was just a little tornado, nothing much, really," said one deputy. He said electric power was cut off at the beach area briefly.

Civil Defense officials put Hillsdale County under a tornado warning for about 90 minutes after the twister hit.

U.S. Error Kills 8 Viet Civilians

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Army spotter plane made a rocket attack on a sampan water taxi close to the Cambodian border yesterday, and U.S. military spokesmen said eight Vietnamese civilians were killed and 11 wounded.

The U.S. Command said the presumably accidental attack was under investigation. It was the most serious such incident reported in nearly six months.

★ ★ ★

The crowded sampan was moving along a canal just off the Mekong River near Hong Ngu, about 90 miles west of Saigon and two to three miles from the Cambodian border. Officials said it was attacked by a single engine Army 01 Birddog, a spotter plane used for aerial observation and forward artillery control.

The plane apparently fired 2.75-inch rockets, which are used both for marking artillery targets and for attacking enemy positions.

AP photographer Henri Huet was told in Can Tho, where the wounded Vietnamese were taken, that no military operation was in progress in the area of the attack.

It was the most serious such attack since Nov. 2, when a U.S. Marine jet accidentally dropped a 500-pound bomb on a village southwest of Da Nang, killing 31 persons and wounding 72.

Elsewhere in the war, Vietcong gunners bombarded at least 30 military bases and a few civilian population centers overnight as the enemy's spring offensive moved along in its eighth week.

South Vietnamese headquarters said its forces killed 27 Vietcong in two clashes in the Mekong Delta, with one government soldier killed and another wounded.

13 ENEMY KILLED

The U.S. Command said troops of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment, continuing a sweep northwest of the Michelin rubber plantation 45 miles northwest of Saigon, reported 13 enemy killed in a brief clash in which artillery and helicopter gunships supported the ground troops. One American was wounded, they said.

Petition Drive Planned to Seek Revamp of Pontiac Government

Petitions calling for a referendum vote on reorganizing the Pontiac city government will be circulated soon, the City Commission was informed last night.

Cecil Mullinix of 571 Lowell, a former commission candidate, said he would head the drive and circulate the petitions. This morning Mullinix said that he was not sure yet how the petitions would be worded.

There are three moves designed to bring about reorganization — the at-large election of the mayor, election to the commission solely by district and candidates' party affiliation.

Presently the mayor is chosen from the seven elected commissioners. In each district, the two top vote-getters run off in a citywide election (this makes it possible for a candidate to lose in his district but still represent it on the basis of the citywide vote.) The city election is also nonpartisan.

TAX VOTE DRIVE

Mullinix was also behind circulation of petitions in 1967 aimed at calling for a referendum on the city income tax. These petitions have been tied up in court since January 1968 when the tax was imposed by the commission.

★ ★ ★

Mullinix vows to make this petition drive unchallengeable. "There won't be any question on the validity," he said. Mullinix explained he would have legal counsel on each step.

"We must make the commissioners responsible to the people who elect them," he said.

Tax Forum Planned

ROCHESTER — The head of the Michigan Tax Commission, Avon Township Supervisor Cyril Miller and a member of the township board of tax review will be on hand tomorrow at 8 p.m. to answer questions on "Why Did Your Property Tax Assessment Go Up This Year?"

The open forum meeting sponsored by The Avon-Rochester Democratic Club will be at the Avon Township Free Public Library, 210 W. University.

40 Summer Jobs

City Seeking Teen-Age 'Police'

An "inside look" into the Pontiac Police Department is being offered — with pay — for deprived 14- and 15-year-old boys this summer.

Applications are now being accepted for the Pontiac Police Youth Service Corps, program coordinator George P. Caronis said.

Forty youths — 10 more than last year — will be accepted for the city-sponsored program and earn 75 cents an hour while they learn "everything about police work" and go on educational tours.

The boys will walk beats downtown like regular patrolmen and report unusual circumstances to police.

They will ride as observers in police cars, attend lectures on police work and related subjects, and go on tours to such places as Oakland University, the pistol range and Tiger Stadium.

Purpose of the three-year-old program is to improve police-community relations and interest youngsters in police work.

Applicants must apply at the Personnel Department at City Hall between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays. The program runs from June 16 through Aug. 29.

3 New Area 'Metro Centers' Envisioned

● Total annual personal income of residents in the region will increase from about $11 billion in 1965 to $34 billion in 1990.

● As income increases (from a median family income of $7,710 in 1965 to $14,800 in 1990) and as work hours decrease, there will be tremendous pressures for increased mobility and for more recreational facilities.

Growing vitality in the City of Detroit will be essential to the over-all enduring strength of the region, thus the new stadium should be located downtown, Rubin said.

The plan further calls for clearance and replacement of much of Detroit's housing inside Grand Boulevard.

The preliminary plan calls for creation of a regional core, bounded by the Detroit River, the Lodge and Chrysler freeways and Grand Boulevard, through replacement of decaying strips of commercial activity with new retail stores and office space topped by medium and high-rise residential units.

The plan would include converting much of the Detroit River front to park lands.

"We cannot emphasize too strongly that provision of adequate and accessible recreation space and cultural facilities will be mandatory in the future," Rubin said.

"The ultimate test of any plan will be the degree to which it is accepted and implemented by governmental agencies at the local, county, regional, state and federal levels."

★ ★ ★

"Local units of government must approve those elements of the plan affecting development within their boundaries and that approval ultimately will reflect the wishes of the people of the region," the director said.

Tie Blocks Move to Consider Sale of Orion Airport

By JEAN SAILE

An unexpected motion to consider sale of the county-owned Oakland-Orion Airport in Orion Township mustered 11 votes before going down to defeat in a tie vote yesterday before the Oakland County Board of Supervisors. Five supervisors were absent.

The motion to refer the airport study to his planning, building and zoning committee was introduced by Chairman Niles Olson, D-Orion Township.

★ ★ ★

Olson campaigned for the board on the strength that he would do everything possible to prevent development of what would be the county's second major airport.

He cited estimated development costs of between $40 — 150 million at the airport and compared them to the need for other county facilities and services.

He asked for a roll call vote. Voting with him were Mary Bawden, R-Birmingham; James Brennan, D-Berkley; Paul Kasper, R-Bloomfield Township; Philip Mastin, D-Hazel Park; Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac; Lawrence Pernick, D-Southfield; Christian Powell, R-West Bloomfield Township; William Richards, D-Royal Oak; Albert Szabo, D-Clawson; and Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights.

Supervisors Dennis Aaron, Fred Houghten, James Mathews, Robert Patnales and Frank Richardson were absent.

The Federal Aviation Administration recently approved air space at the Orion site, which in effect placed any development action back in county hands. Further approval of plans would be needed in order to become eligible for federal funding, however.

No money is set aside in the present budget or in the 1970 tentative budget for Orion development or further land acquisition.

SPENDING BLOCK

Olson's motion followed an unsuccessful attempt by O'Brien to prevent the spending of county funds at the airport. Corporation Counsel Robert Allen ruled that the county cannot now spend money for the airport without further action by the board.

A general tax hearing, or a series of tax hearings, involving townships, schools and cities was requested by George Grba, D-Pontiac, and referred to the finance committee for action. Grba charged that two-thirds of the population is unhappy about taxes.

★ ★ ★

Grba also had referred to the legislative committee a resolution which would place county supervisor races higher on the ballot than they were last November.

Grba said they were above only the precinct delegate positions on last fall's ballot.

RESCIND ACTION

In other business, the board devoted considerable discussion to whether or not action taken at a previous board meeting should be rescinded.

Patnales, who was present for the early part of the meeting, asked for reconsideration of the county's proposed master plan before committing funds to carry out some of its objectives.

★ ★ ★

As chairman of the human resources committee, he carried the complaint of probate judges that their plans for Children's Village expansion have been altered.

★ ★ ★

The board two weeks ago appropriated some $314,000 of utilities funds to the extension of utilities and roadways to the site of a proposed county service building. The roadway would cut across Children's Village territory as originally conceived.

MOTION FAILS

Patnales failed to get the necesaary two-thirds vote to rescind previous action. The tally was 15-9 against rescinding.

For what was called the first time, a private citizen was ever given a board hearing. Daniel T. Berry, 1090 Voorheis, Waterford Township, appeared to ask that jurisdictional problems be resolved and something be done to improve his street.

★ ★ ★

The street lies on the Pontiac-Waterford Township line and Sol Lomerson, chairman of the Oakland County Road Commission, admitted that no government is presently taking responsibility for its upkeep.

"We're giving it minimum maintenance," he admitted. The matter was referred to the board's public works committee.

ON FRIDAY'S AGENDA

Two pieces of legislative support — one to keep municipal bonds tax free and the second to raise population requirements so that the county's airports can continue under present management — will be considered by the board at its meeting Friday.

Appointments previously recommended by the committee on committees to the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments law enforcement committee, the public protection and judiciary committee and to the personnel appeals board were passed.

Supervisors viewed a slide presentation by the Traffic Improvement Association on the use of seat belts.

Arab Guerrillas Rap Hussein's Peace Plan

By The Associated Press

Five Arab guerrilla organizations have rejeqted King Hussein's six-point Middle East peace proposal and renewed their demand for war against Israel.

The guerrillas, who long have sworn to fight until Israel is destroyed, rejected "each and every point" in the plan Hussein outlined in a speech in Washington last week. They also rejected all other plans for a political settlement with Israel.

The Jordanian monarch, who claimed to speak for President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt as well as for Jordan, called for Israel's withdrawal from Arab territory occupied during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. His other points included a guarantee of the "territorial inviolability" of all Middle Eastern states, use of the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba by Israeli shipping, an end to Arab warfare against Israel and an equitable settlement of the claims of Arab refugees from Palestine.

Hussein said Sunday in New York that a "majority" of the Arabs, including the guerrillas, would accept a peace settlement, negotiated on the basis of his six points. With many of the guerrillas now operating from bases in Jordan, and support for them increasing among the hundreds of thousands of refugees in Hussein's kingdom, the repudiation of his peace overture constituted a grave new threat to the young monarch.

ISRAEL ASKS TALKS

Israel already had called on Hussein to make his proposals at face-to-face negotiations with the Israelis if he were serious.

Leaders of the five major Palestinian resistance groups held a secret meeting Monday and later issued a joint statement in Amman rejecting the king's proposal. They said they had agreed on a "unified course of action"—to send delegations to a number of Arab governments seeking clear definition of their attitude toward plans for a peaceful solution to the conflict.

★ ★ ★

The statement was issued by Al Fatah, most powerful of the commando organizations; the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, a Marxist group; the Democratic Popular Front, a leftist splinter of the Popular Front; Al Saika, which is pro-Syrian; and the Palestine Liberation Army.

It was the first time all five groups have joined in a policy statement.

Sign Of Controversy

Sewer Pact Signing Gets Avon OK, if...

AVON TOWNSHIP — A string was put on Township Board authorization, given yesterday, for the clerk and supervisor to sign contracts for the Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor.

The main reservation was that a meeting be called with County Director of Public Works Director R. J. Alexander for a status report on efforts to obtain a Macomb County outlet for the giant six-township interceptor.

* * *

Trustee William E. McCullough charged: "Alexander continues to give us the run-around on the Macomb interceptor."

Supervisor Cyril E. Miller admitted Alexander was somewhat evasive on the outlet question, but added that the DPW chief did contend there had been progress in the negotiations. Miller urged authorizing the signatures.

4-2 VOTE

Despite the meeting requirement, the vote was 4-2 on authorizing the signing with trustees Earl E. Borden and George J. Ennis dissenting. Trustee Philip K. Trimble was absent.

Miller argued the interceptor project must move ahead, pointing out that township attorney Rex Bebout recommended signing the contracts.

* * *

Bebout told board members two memorandums could be attached to the contract later. One would cover the use of surplus funds for additions and extensions to the system, while the other would provide for the system reverting to township ownership after the bonds are paid.

The county reportedly has refused to permit these changes in the actual contract.

BUSINESS ON FAITH

Added Bebout: "If they can't provide an outlet, I don't think in my opinion bonds will be sold."

McCullough contended the township was entitled to much fuller information in the Macomb situation. "We're doing business on faith and I've never transacted business on faith in my life," he added.

* * *

Bordon, meanwhile, questioned where the exhibits were detailing costs. Consulting Engineer Robert Roth of Johnson & Anderson reported he had briefly viewed the exhibits and put the phase one water and sewer costs at $11.3 million.

Miller, who said Alexander was willing to meet with the township board but couldn't make yesterday's special afternoon board meeting, said the MSU-O treatment plant could be employed to handle phase one sewage if the interceptor wasn't ready.

* * *

Completion date for the Clinton-Oakland is now October 1970. The township's first payment is April 1, 1970.

Avon will be the second township to sign its interceptor contracts. Waterford authorized its signing Monday.

Franklin's 19th Century Look in Jeopardy

By NED ADAMSON

FRANKLIN — A federal government official has advised the Franklin Historical society that merchants and residents here will have to take immediate action to stop impairment of the village's 19th century look.

Robert Keune, field services director for the National Trust for Historical Preservation, said if progress isn't made soon towards initiating authentic restoration efforts, the village could lose its registration in the national archives as a historical district.

* * *

Keune added that further construction of "counterfeit" colonial buildings in the village and commercial exploitation of existing buildings will have to be prevented.

"An unchecked continuation of this nibbling process will soon result in the serious impairment of the qualities which merit protection and preservation," Keune said.

'DOWNTOWN' AREA

He was referring to the growing number of antique shops, souvenir emporiums and psuedo-colonial signs and business establishments dotting the village's "downtown" area.

* * *

In a letter to Historical Society president Robert George, Keune encouraged development of a public information program, promoting the story of Franklin's historic value and significance.

* * *

Franklin was entered in the National Registery last February — the only Michigan municipality to be accepted into the registery, published by the U.S. Department of Interior.

* * *

CONTROVERSY STARTED

The controversy started when the planning commission recommended to the Village Council that the property be rezoned from commercial to residential so the village could acquire and preserve the historical site.

* * *

Hall has since filed a restraining order against the Village Council in Oakland County Probate Court, asking that it show cause for the rezoning proposal. The realtor had planned to erect a "colonial" type business building on the site. Decision in the suit is expected within ten days.

* * *

The court ruling could well determine whether the village effectively could prohibit further enroachment of alleged "counterfeit colonial" commercial development. The rezoning proposal involves seven other lots adjoining the Hall property in the Village Green area off Franklin Road, the village's main thoroughfare.

* * *

Financing the acquisition of the Hall and adjoining properties also presents problems. Preliminary results of a survey of village residents' feelings toward public financing of purchase of the property showed only moderate support. Federal matching funds for historical preservation are now considered scarce.

There are indications, however, that Edward J. Green of 26585 Woodlore and a group of interested backers may put up the money to purchase the property, to preserve it but this is still uncertain. Green has backed similar financing arrangements for other property in the Village Green area.

The national trust's warning to the historical society followed a recent visit to Franklin by Keune and his staff members to get a firsthand look at the village. He was shown the 26 sites in the village green area listed in the registry. He took several photographs and compiled notes on his observations.

* * *

Historical society members and village residents will meet next Thursday at Franklin Community Church to discuss a public information program recommended by Keune.

George explained the public information program probably would include preparation of brochures containing photographs, maps, documentation and other informative material. This, he said, would enable the historical society's preservation efforts to be publicly supported with facts.

ZONING OVERHAUL

George, who has been instrumental in pressing the council into action on the zoning change proposal, explained that completion of a revamping of the village's zoning ordinances, now underway, is necessary in order to avert future property hassels in the village green area.

* * *

He also feels that state legislation protecting historic sites is needed.

Such legislation would alleviate local governmental problems like the Franklin zoning controversy and facilitate preservation steps, George explained.

Tentative Budget OK'd by Oxford Twp. Board

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — Township Board members last week approved a preliminary budget of $121,046 in revenues and $132,850 in expenditures. The preliminary budget will now go before the county treasurer for review, then back to the township for final action.

In other recent action, the board reappointed its attorney, engineering firm, electrical, building and plumbing inspectors and auditing firm to another year's tenure.

Holly Buys Land From Academy

HOLLY — The Village Council last night purchased eight acres from Adelphian Academy to build a new water filtration plant and expanding well facilities.

The acquisition gives the village the green light to pursue its proposed approximate $500,000 water system expansion.

* * *

Purchase price was $12,400. The property borders the village's present well site on Grange Hall Road.

The property acquisition culminated a long series of negotiations between academy representatives and the council.

AGREEMENT TERMS

The academy agreed to sell the property with the provision it would be allowed to hook into the village's water main which will run across part of the academy grounds.

Academy officials said the water main tie-in was needed to give the academy's fire prevention sprinkling system a better supply of water.

* * *

Cosntruction of the water system is expected to begin in the near future. No completion date has been set. The project will be initiated with money available in the village's general fund.

A $400,000 to $500,000 bond issue will be floated to finance the remainder of the project. In addition to the filtration plant and wells, the system will include a 500,000-gallon water tower and water mains. Details on the financing procedure are undetermined.

High School Senior

Utica Girl Is Miss Rochester

ROCHESTER — A brunette with singing and acting talent has been selected Miss Rochester.

A Utica High School senior, 18-year-old Susan L. Sullivant will reign as Rochester's loveliest for one year, including Centennial duty in September.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Sullivant of 51273 Kingwood, Utica, Susan this week stars in her school production of "Guys and Dolls." Susan also is active in the school varsity chorus and yearbook and was a member of the homecoming queen's court last fall.

Besides the Miss Rochester title, Susan was selected from among the other contestants as the Miss Rochester Pageant's "Miss Congeniality." Susan plans to major in education next fall at Stephens College in Columbia, Mo.

FIRST SOLO APPEARANCE

As her talent entry in the pageant, Susan sang. It was her first solo appearance. The pageant itself was an entry first for Susan.

First runner-up among the 18 contestants was Pamela Pyles, 24, of 1712 Kirts, Troy. Pamela is a junior high school music teacher in Oak Park. Second runner-up was an Oakland University junior, Marily Mercer, 20, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. William Mercer of 25109 Lyncaster, Farmington.

* * *

Susan will now compete as Miss Rochester in the Miss Michigan pageant in Muskegon June 16-22.

District Slates Millage Talks

WALLED LAKE — The upcoming millage election for the Walled Lake School District is being discussed at community meetings this week and next.

On April 29, voters will be asked to approve a 5-mill school tax increase and renew a 1-mill levy. This will bring the tax levy from the current 30.3 mills to 35.3 mills for the next five years.

* * *

The meeting schedule is:

Tonight: Walled Lake Elementary School at 7:30 and C. H. Smart School at 8.

Tomorrow: Central and Loon Lake schools at 7:30 p.m.

* * *

Monday: Union Lake School at 8 p.m.

Tuesday: Wixom and Commerce schools at 7:30 p.m.

April 23: Twin Beach School at 8 p.m.

April 24: Keith School and Walled Lake Junior High at 8 p.m.

MILLAGE SPLIT

The current tax levy allows 23.3 mills for school operation and 7 mills for school construction bonds. Three of the additional 5 mills will be used to operate the new Walled Lake Western High School.

Another 1½ mills will cover increased enrollments, increased costs due to inflation and go towards maintaining competitive teacher salaries. Another ½ mill will be used to set up a community school program.

* * *

A 5-mill increase would raise property taxes by $5 per $1,000 of equalized valuation.

Lake Orion to Vote on Schools' Building

LAKE ORION — Voters of this school district will be asked again this Saturday to approve a $5.5-million school building program, a measure the electorate turned down last June.

The ballot question this time will drop the presumed matter of disagreement, a $600,000 swimming pool addition to the high school. Voters emphatically rejected the separate swimming pool question in June.

School board members feel that it unfairly influenced the negative vote on the building program, according to Supt. Leucis Mundy.

If passed Saturday, the bond issue would provide funds to build a new elementary school, construct additions to Webber Elementary School, Lake Orion Junior and Senior high schools and cash for site acquisitions and improvements.

Mundy said that the building program would cost taxpayers an additional $2.79 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

"For example," Mundy explained, "if a house is assessed at $10,000, the owner would pay an additional $27.90 in school taxes per year."

* * *

Mundy noted that although voters turned down the building program (along with the swimming pool proposition), a millage renewal election last Jan. 25 passed overwhelmingly.

"That January election is a bright note. We hope for success with the building program question this time around, especially since we have dropped the swimming pool proposal," Mundy said.

"It would be safe to say that if additional buildings are not provided, students will have to be quartered in temporary classrooms (portables). Furthermore, students possibly would have to be switched to half-day sessions in probably a year. All our buildings are at full capacity," Mundy declared.

Rochester School Budget OK

ROCHESTER — A preliminary budget presented by Supt. of Schools Douglas Lund has been accepted with no changes by the school board.

The $6,190,840 budget is 18 per cent greater than the previous school year's budget as a result of 600 anticipated new students, the creation of a second high school and staff, money for anticipated wage boosts and the increased cost of equipment and supplies, according to Lund.

* * *

The budget will now go before the county tax allocation board for review and back to the school district for final action after state aid figures are available.

In other recent business, an administrative promotion and loss were acted upon by the board.

Promoted was Ralph S. Hawes, from Rochester High School assistant principal to principal of the new Adams High School.

Hawes will assist in the establishment of two separate high schools, particularly in regard to student and staff planning, Lund said. Adams and Rochester High will share facilities until the new high school is completed, projected for use in January 1970.

* * *

Harold Hatherly was released from his contract as Rochester High School assistant principal. Hatherly, who served the district 13 years as a teacher and administrator, will accept a position as a junior high school principal May 16 in Kenosha, Wis.

Hatherly's resignation was accepted "with regret" by the board.

School board members agreed to send an application to the Michigan Department of Education for preliminary qualification to possibly place a $4.1-million bond issue on the June school election ballot.

The new bond issue would be a scaled-down version of an $8-million five-year building bond proposal that failed last February.

Lund said that the possible June bond issue would ask for funds to construct a new wing to Adams High (currently under construction), additions to three elementary schools, construction of one new elementary school and renovation of Central Junior High.

Dropped from the February question for a June attempt would be construction of an additional elementary and junior high school, Lund explained.

Grass Fire Reward Set in Oxford Twp.

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — Supervisor Lee Valentine said that the township is currently offering a $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a person or persons setting a grass fire.

* * *

Valentine said that money paid to the Village of Oxford Fire Department for use of fire-fighting equipment ran to $18,000 last year and is estimated at $25,000 to the end of this year.

"It isn't just kids we're finding who set grass fires, either," Valentine said.

Fate of Navy Plane Still Unknown

Kin of Crewmen Wait, Wonder

By The Associated Press

Families of crewmen on the Navy plane reported downed by North Korea wait and wonder today.

"We always hope he will be found alive," said Chester Sundby of his son, Philip, 21. Sundby, a Seattle resident and father of a Quaker family, added, "He's in the hands of the Lord now as far as we're concerned."

* * *

He said Philip enlisted over two years ago while still in high school.

"He realized like a lot of young fellows that he had to serve time in the service like the rest of us," said Sundby.

100 PCT. SUPPORT

"I told my boy that when the time comes to be drafted, if he can conscientiously do this in light of what God says, I'll stand behind him 100 per cent."

A call for action was sounded by Mrs. Geraldine Smith, wife of Communications Technician Chief Richard E. Smith. "We should let these people know they can't shoot down our planes," she said. "I feel this very strongly.

"I think the government must take a stronger stand than it took during the Pueblo incident," she said referring to the seizure of the Navy intelligence vessel by the North Koreans last year. "Nothing was done but to let them (the Pueblo crewmen) remain prisoners."

Mrs. Smith said she got a letter from her husband Monday telling her how he was looking forward to retiring next February after 28 years in the Navy. She said they bought their home in Phoenix last year for their post-Navy life.

RECENTLY PROMOTED

She said Smith, 45, had taken her with him on all his previous assignments until the current one in Japan. She said Smith was at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese attacked and aboard the battleship Missouri when they surrendered at the end of World War II.

In Simi, Calif., Margie Gillespie said her son David M. Willis wrote he had recently been promoted to radioman first class, and "wanted to go to electronic school when he finished his hitch in August. I'm just real proud of my David. He'll come through," she said.

* * *

Mrs. Lawrence Volkel, stepsister of Lt. John Dzema, 38, said "we have hopes" for his safety. He had visited his Edwardsville, Pa., home at Easter and the family knew he was flying this type of plane, she said.

Mrs. Robert MacNeil of Pleasanton, Calif., mother of Aviation Electronic Technician 2.C. Timothy MacNeil, 24, said, "we know the dangerous aspects of his job. His plane was just a sitting duck. They couldn't shoot back."

Donations Asked to Send 50 Children to Camp

Individual and group donations are being sought by the Pontiac Summer Camp Committee, in hopes of sendig up to 50 underprivileged children from the Pontiac area to Camp Oakland this summer.

Last year, the committee was instrumenal in sending —without cost to parents—82 Pontiac children to Camp Oakland, eight families representing 66 persons to the family camp, and 26 children to two different private camps.

The Pontiac Summer Camp Committee, a subcommittee of the Pontiac Citizen's Committee on Youth, was organized in 1967, to coordinate and provide as many camp experiences as possible for needy children and their families.

This was done in cooperation with referring Pontiac social service agencies, schools, churches, and interested citizens.

The session for Pontiac area children, ages 6 to 12, this year runs from June 30 to July 12. The family camp is from July 29 to Aug. 8.

There are 11 volunteers on the summer camp committee this year, each representing some branch of public service in the Pontiac community. They include: department of social services; Pontiac School District social work department; Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church; Family Service of Oakland County; Pontiac Police Departtment, Juvenile Bureau; Big Brothers; Protective Services; and the Department of Parks and Recreation.

Those interested in contributing to the Pontiac Summer Camp program may contact Paul Talagrand, at the Oakland County Protective Service Office, or Mrs. Sivia Eilender at the Pontiac Public Schools Social Work Department.

It's 4th Spy-Craft Incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence planes and ships have been involved in four major incidents this decade:

U-2 — The Soviets shot down a high-altitude U-2 reconnaissance plane May 1, 1960, near Sverdlovsk, USSR. U.S. officials first said it was a lost weather plane, but later conceded the intelligence mission. Pilot Francis Gary Powers, who confessed after capture, was released Feb. 10, 1962, in exchange for convicted Soviet spy Rudolf Abel.

LIBERTY—Israeli planes and torpedo boats accidentally attacked the lightly armed U.S. electronics ship USS Liberty on June 8, 1967, in international waters about 15 miles north of the Sinai Peninsula. Israel later paid $3.3 million compensation to families of 34 crewmen killed. Another 160 were wounded in the attack which came at the time of the Israel-Arab six-day war.

PUEBLO — North Korean patrol boats captured the intelligence ship Pueblo and its 83 crewmen Jan. 23, 1968, on the sea near Wonson. U.S. spokesmen said the ship was in international waters, North Korea said it was within its territory. Crewmen were released last Dec. 22, but the ship was not returned.

* * *

EC121 — North Korea reported Monday shooting down an American reconnaissance plane. The U.S. Defense Department confirmed a search was underway for a Navy EC121 with 31 men aboard missing on a mission over the Sea of Japan off North Korea's coast.

Alvin M. Bentley

The premature death of Alvin M. Bentley at 50 cut short the life of one of the State's outstanding political figures whose private life embraced extensive philanthropic, social and educational interests.

BENTLEY

A native of Maine, Mr. Bentley became an Owosso resident early in life and later inherited a sizable fortune from his grandfather, one of the founders of General Motors Corp.

After graduation from the University of Michigan, Mr. Bentley, after being turned down for combat service in World War II, entered the U.S. foreign service, in which he served on three continents.

★ ★ ★

He threw his hat into the political ring as a Republican in 1952, was elected and thrice re-elected as Congressman, only to be defeated in a bid for the Senate in 1960 and, subsequently, in a try for State congressman-at-large.

★ ★ ★

A militant foe of communism and an ardent friend of education, Mr. Bentley established a $1-million foundation to provide funds for college scholarships and scientific and charitable projects.

★ ★ ★

It is an irony of fate that so estimable a man should be taken from his mortal endeavors in the full bloom of maturity. Few, however, have left more impressive records of personal achievement and service to their fellows than had Alvin Bentley.

Politicos Have Yen for Pen

Newspapermen write about politicians, get themselves syndicated, and thereby make a pretty good living. Now it appears that politicians want a slice of the pie. By writing about each other, they can eliminate the middleman and perhaps advance their careers.

This thought may or may not have entered the mind of Hubert M. Humphrey. But the fact remains that the former vice president and present Minnesota college professor last Sunday began writing a syndicated weekly newspaper column.

★ ★ ★

Humphrey soon will have company. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., Humphrey's running mate last fall, will write a column that will debut June 1. A third entry is Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., whose once-a-week offering will begin April 20.

★ ★ ★

Of the foregoing trio, Goldwater has the most experience. Once a presidential nominee, he is making his third bow as a columnist. He ceased writing for newspapers in 1964 because of his candidacy for President and in 1968 because of his candidacy for Senator.

★ ★ ★

None of these developments should be considered unusual. Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., has written a weekly column for some time (it appears on Saturdays in The Pontiac Press), and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Me., once wrote one for national distribution. President Nixon helped to ease the sting of defeat at the hands of John F. Kennedy (for President) and Edmund G. Brown (for California Governor) by writing newspaper and magazine articles.

★ ★ ★

And then there is the case of William F. Buckley Jr., who reversed the politician-to-columnist process in 1965 by running for Mayor of New York City.

His Hole Card!

David Lawrence Says:

Downing of Plane Grim Warning

WASHINGTON — Wishful thinkers have been saying that there's no danger of American involvement in any more wars and that people in this country need not worry about what is happening overseas.

LAWRENCE

But suddenly the shooting down of an American airplane by North Korea at a point at least 50 miles from its coast, with the loss of crewmen aboard, is a grim reminder that America's enemies have by no means abandoned their evil ways.

★ ★ ★

It is a flagrant violation of international law for any plane flying over the high seas to be shot down many miles from a seacoast. Aircraft and ships, armed or unarmed, have the right to travel across oceans without being subject to attack.

Reconnaissance planes and ships of the Soviet Unoin are constantly cruising much closer than 50 miles away from our own Pacific Coast.

MORE IMPORTANT

If wanton attacks continue, it will become more important for the United States to seek an immediate agreement with the Communist countries on freedom of the seas and the air than to concentrate on talks about keeping nuclear weapons from being manufactured by non-nuclear countries.

As Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois has just said, there is no reason to advocate military reprisal at present, but it is imperative that the problem raised by the attack on our airplane by the North Koreans be dealt with promptly by "negotiations."

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., thinks a naval fleet should be sent at once to the area where the plane was downed.

Chairman Mendel Rivers of the House Armed Services Committee favors immediate retaliation.

PROVED FRUITLESS

Unfortunately, parleys with the North Koreans have proved fruitless, as happened when the Pueblo, an American naval vessel, was seized and her crew imprisoned and tortured for several months last year.

The Communist strategy back of it all is, of course, obvious. The idea is that, if the United States can become embroiled in another war with North Korea, the American government would find itself compelled to spend larger and larger sums of money and perhaps divert its troops from the war in Southeast Asia.

★ ★ ★

Japan has thus far stayed aloof from the Vietnam conflict, but it would appear logical that Japan would join America in a plan to assure peace in the Far East. Australia and the Philippines would surely do likewise.

The whole situation is indicative of the risks of war that are prevalent in different parts of the world.

NO DIMINUTION

Certainly there will not be a diminution but an increase in crises if the United States appears irresolute or indifferent to attacks on its own ships and planes.

What is ironic is that the United Nations, which was supposed to rehabilitate the battered principles of international law and set up a system of collective security in the world, failed to take action in the Pueblo affair or in settling the Vietnam war.

★ ★ ★

One wonders how many more acts of aggression will be committed against American ships and planes in international waters before the U.N. will decide to do something about it.

Club Gets Its Irish Up After Speech by Author

NEW YORK—The members of the National University of Ireland Club are still up in arms over the speech made at their meeting here a month ago by author Cornelius Ryan. Dublin - born Connie said:

CONSIDINE

"Irish people have always had a streak of realism but somehow it was buried under stronger layers of ultranationalism and, I regret to say, Catholic imperialism. Was it really St. Patrick's aim to reduce a people to apathy and despair in the name of a great religion and should that religion have been made part and parcel of the politics that have been practiced for so long in Ireland? Is Catholic Ireland Christian?

★ ★ ★

". . . Our theater today is mediocre. Let us not be always saying our Abbey is this and our Abbey is that . . . Just how long must our theater be judged by such tired old plays as 'Playboy of the Western World'? Don't we have something else to say?

". . . Emigration was not often really the wish of the younger people. Too often, it was the desire of the parents . . . I would suggest that many of these parents were also guaranteeing for themselves an old-age pension for their young overseas. Of course, you will never see this by reading the Irish newspapers in the United States, which have had a tendency to blame British oppression first, last and always."

OFFERS ADVICE

In his fine Irish pear-shaped tones, Connie urged upon the now grumbling assembly a bit of advice credited to the father of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge:

"Let every man honor and love the land of his birth and the race from which he springs and keep their memory green. It is a pious and honorable duty. But let us have done with British-Americans and Swedish-Americans and Irish-Americans and German-Americans, and so on. If a man is going to be an American at all let him be so without any qualifying adjectives; and if he is going to be something else, let him drop the word American from his personal description."

NATO . . .

San Diego Union

Signing of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization pact 20 years ago in Washington marked the end of a period of Western World idealism and the beginning of a period of realism.

★ ★ ★

At the end of World War II the free Western World sincerely hoped that permanent peace had come to the world. In this spirit member nations endorsed the United Nations charter in 1945, shortly after the total defeat of Nazi Germany.

Western allies, however, reckoned without the imperialistic militarism of communism.

★ ★ ★

Bulgaria became a satellite of communism in 1944. Poland came under the hammer and sickle in 1947. In 1948 the red shadow of Moscow fell over Albania, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Romania. What Sir Winston Churchill called an Iron Curtain had fallen across a Europe recently liberated from another kind of fascism.

NATO, born April 4, 1949, united the free European nations and American continent to meet this threat. Its purpose was to present a front of freedom so strong no enemy would dare attack.

★ ★ ★

As one official noted at that time, if war occurred NATO could be considered a failure. It has succeeded. Not an inch of soil has been lost by a NATO member to communism in the last 20 years.

However, in the case of NATO, success also has generated apathy and a sense of false security.

★ ★ ★

When NATO was born, the Soviet navy consisted of a few ancient battleships, a handful of old cruisers, about 200 submarines and an inconsequential air arm. Its armies were weakened by the war.

At that time NATO was strong and united.

★ ★ ★

Today the Soviet Union has established a major fleet in the Mediterranean. It is today showing the hammer and sickle in naval maneuvers in the North Atlantic. Moscow and her satellites have 5 million men under arms. Russia has built 25 cruisers and more than 200 destroyers since World War II. Its fleet of 450 submarines is the largest in the history of the world and the naval air arm has more than 1,000 aircraft.

Russian intercontinental missiles are as numerous as ours. And Russia has said that it will intervene anywhere in the world when it believes socialism is threatened.

★ ★ ★

Now, at the peak of Communist strength, NATO is the weakest and most divided.

France has withdrawn from military aspects of the alliance. European nations are quarreling. The possibility of Russian-American disarmament talks makes NATO members lose heart. And the United States is cutting its NATO commitment even as the alliance commanders are pleading for more men and arms to meet the larger Communist threat.

★ ★ ★

One sword keeps another in its sheath. The sword of NATO, never drawn, has kept the saber of communism in its scabbard for 20 years in the Atlantic theater.

Unhappily, as NATO approaches the age of maturity its sword is beginning to look like a ceremonial ornament rather than supple steel.

Third . . .

Paris LeMonde

Even if unified, Europe today would not be able to represent in the world scheme a veritable third Great Power; but, between the two Great Powers, it can make itself heard: a third voice capable, in association with the Third World, of showing a third course or path of action. It seems that President Nixon has understood this, and his trip permits one to hope that America is today ready to hold a dialogue with Europe — A Europe united, but free.

Adults Set Poor Example for Our Youth

How can we expect our young people to act different toward God and our Country when they look at modern religious leaders, government leaders and adults in general. A police officer was overheard using profanity while ladies with children walked by. Some clergymen are against law and order, when the Bible tells us to be in subjection to our rules. The American flag at Avondale Junior High hangs by one corner, day and night, rain or shine. It still flies at full staff.

Comments on Hearing on ABM Installations

Those who attended the hearing at the County Auditorium concerning the proposed ABM installations were treated to a spectacle beyond belief. We heard our efforts on behalf of the people of South Vietnam equated to the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

'Disagree Trash Collectors Do a Good Job'

In answer to Fred Manes regarding the good job the trash collectors do, today was the third day since September 16 I have had to call the City to pick up the trash. Not once have they picked up our trash two weeks in a row. If you could see the mess they leave you would fire them, not give them a raise. The men claim a car is usually parked in front of the pickup station. It really hurts them to carry these bags a few extra feet.

Comments on License Fees of Truckers

Truckers didn't get a break on the license fee. The trailer fee may be only $10 but the tractor plates cost the weight of the tractor, trailer and your maximum load, which you might haul only once or twice a year. If all loads were weighed, the State would be ahead on its revenue.

I would like to put my $2 in a fund to send to Washington, D.C., every month a hard-working but honest man or woman, or retired senior citizen, to present his congressman his salary check. Let this employer be ushered into the paneled, carpeted, expensively furnished suite of offices staffed with miniskirted receptionists and secretaries (maybe even a relative or two) and let him take his paycheck from those who pay him. I don't believe his outreach would be impaired but eventually it is possible he would hate to see payday roll around.

Submit Facts on Assessed Valuations

Assessed valuation as required by state law at 50 per cent of market value does not require an increase in the amount of property taxes. Taxes consist of assessed valuation and tax rates per $1,000 valuation. High valuation or increase in valuation may be readily compensated by reducing tax rates. The total amount of property tax each city, township, county or school district levies is determined solely by vote of its governing body. The first and only substantive defense against excessive property taxes is intelligent protest at meetings of the board of review and the governing body before a tax is levied.

An article stated the Atomic Energy Commission was studying feasibility of locating a deep disposal well for radioactive waste in the Michigan Basin. What is the Michigan Basin?

RAY CRADDOCK

REPLY

It is a circular trough in the earth's crust, about 500 miles in diameter, located from south-central Ontario to northwestern Ohio, from eastern Wisconsin to southern Ontario, the deepest part near Midland. While the AEC, from 1958-63, supported a study of radioactive waste disposal potentials in selected geologic basins, including the Michigan Basin, AEC has no plans for locating a deep disposal well for radioactive waste in the Michigan Basin.

Dems Split on Spending Cuts Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Democratic congressmen who collaborated last year to force a massive cut in federal spending differed today over whether a similar slash can be repeated. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas and George H. Mahon of Texas, the heads of two key House financial committees, also took different positions on President Nixon's claim that he has sharply cut former President Lyndon B. Johnson's budget and made possible a $5.8-billion surplus.

Mills, chairman of the ways and means committee, contended the Nixon budget represents an actual deficit in ordinary government operations.

★ ★ ★

He said Congress should consider a spending ceiling to force an additional $5 billion slash.

But Mahon, who heads the appropriations committee, said he is not sure how much more the budget can be reduced and added, "I would like to avoid a spending ceiling if I could."

THEY FORCED CUT

As heads of the committees that act on revenue raising and spending, Mills and Mahon collaborated last year to force a mandatory $6-billion spending cut in exchange for granting Johnson's requested 10 percent income surtax.

★ ★ ★

Mills' committee, now working on general tax reform, plans to take time out soon to consider Nixon's recommendation that the surtax be continued for another year past its June 30 expiration date.

★ ★ ★

Mills would like to couple a spending cutback to the extension.

Mahon said his committee has not yet received enough information to be sure of the possibilities. But "there doesn't seem to be any liklihood that we will be able to make cuts of the magnitude of last year," he added.

PROMISE TO TRY

He promised, however, the appropriations committee will be doing everything possible to bring the budget down.

Mahon said he questions whether the House would vote a spending ceiling like last year's if Republicans oppose it and are joined by a substantial number of liberal Democrats concerned with the continuation of social programs.

★ ★ ★

The $5.8-billion surplus claimed by the Nixon administration, Mills said, is made possible only by lumping together the operations of government trust funds, such as the Social Security fund, with the ordinary operations of government.

The ordinary operations, which were budgeted separately in the past, Mills said, show a deficit of about $5.8 billion on the basis of the administration's own figures.

Mills's statement was in a talk to be delivered for him at a businessmen's gathering in Searcy, Ark., and an amplifying interview.

★ ★ ★

Mahon said the budget Johnson left for his successor is generally considered, even by the present administration, to be substantially tighter than his earlier ones.

"The new administration is finding it difficult to recommend cuts of the severity of those made last year," he said.

Kickback of Mind-Bending Drugs Seen

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Drugs that affect the mind can produce strange kickback effects, scientists reported today.

Their studies involve rats and mice, but some observations about drug effects upon behavior might be relevant to human beings, they said.

In one series of experiments, Dr. Aarje Latz of Boston University gave amphetamines—pep pills—to rats for 10 days. They did not become tolerant to the drug. Instead, the more they were exposed to the drug, the worse they performed tasks they were trained to do.

★ ★ ★

In one phase, he gave animals the drug after they had finished their daily tasks. A day later, with the drug no longer active in their bodies, they still did worse.

RETROACTIVE EFFECT

These drugs thus seemed to have a retroactive effect, Dr. Latz said in a report to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

"We cannot speak of psychoactive (mind-influencing) drugs without considering the past history of the user, or what has happened to him before" in drug use, he said.

★ ★ ★

A drug's effects depend not only upon the drug but also on the surroundings of the user, said Dr. Harbans Lal of the University of Rhode Island.

He has found that a mouse given a small dose of dexedrine, a pep pill, and then left alone, can go along as though nothing had happened. But a mouse given the same dose and placed in the company of other mice may not only become sick, but die.

DRIVER CRUSHED TO DEATH — A bulldozer scoop lifts a concrete truck off the mangled wreckage of a car after an accident yesterday in Indianapolis, Ind. Police said the car turned into the path of the 15-ton truck on U.S. 421, was hit and dragged about 100 feet. The driver of the car, Russell Griffin, 43, of Indianapolis, was killed.

FORD MAVERICK $1995*

(You don't have to read it all-but it's nice to know it's all there.)

Most new cars look like other cars. But when the word gets out that something really different is on the way, rumors run wild. Few cars have caused as much talk as Maverick. Ford's new entry in the small car field rivals the economy imports in price . . . but tops them in power, performance, passenger room and luggage capacity. We've been bombarded with questions about Maverick. Now, for the first time, here are the answers.

Q. Why did you build the Maverick?
A. We think of Maverick as another one of Ford Motor Company's answers to the gold drain. Now Americans who want small car economy don't have to send their U.S. dollars overseas.

Q. Why did you call it Maverick?
A. You know what a maverick is. A maverick breaks the rules. A maverick is different. Maverick plugs the big gap between the compacts and the imports. It has a wheelbase eight inches shorter than a '69 Falcon, eight and one-half inches longer than a VW 1500. Nothing else like it.

Q. Why did you make it this size?
A. Maverick pinches pennies, not people. We gave Maverick more leg room. More shoulder room. More luggage room. Good example: the front seat of a Maverick offers you nine inches more shoulder room than the front seat of the leading economy import and its trunk can handle all the luggage for a family of four, including a set of golf clubs.

Q. What do I get for the price?
A. You get your money's worth. A complete, built-for-Americans kind of car. Room. Hot styling. Color-keyed interiors. Even the heater is included. Some economy car interiors are about as luxurious as a park bench. Not Maverick's. You get plush seats. Cloth and vinyl upholstery with unique tartan plaid cloth inserts. You also get safety features like smart pull-out door handles. Strong safety door locks. Two-speed electric wipers. Safety belts. Head restraints. Plus conveniences like armrests, coat hooks, lighted heater controls . . . important little things that add so much to your driving comfort.

Q. What about options?
A. You can get 'em if you want 'em. You can order integral air conditioning. (It's built in, not hung on.) Other options include 3-speed automatic or low-cost semiautomatic transmission, and a hefty 200 CID Six. But lots of people won't put an extra cent into this car. Because it's all there. A complete car all ready to drive home.

Q. What kind of gas mileage can I get?
A. That depends on you as well as the car. You can get as much as 25 or 26 miles per gallon—if you have an educated toe and the right road conditions. If you have a lead foot, or do a lot of city driving, you will get a lot less. In tests by professional drivers at our tracks, where we do our best to duplicate actual driving conditions, Maverick averaged 22.5 mpg.

Q. What kind of power does Maverick have?
A. Maverick's Six lets loose 105 galloping horses. That's 52 more than you get in the 4-cylinder VW 1500. Maverick can cover 417 feet in ten seconds from a standing start. That means you can get up to highway speed in a hurry. When you enter a 70 mph turnpike, you won't feel like a retired bookkeeper thrust into the middle of a pro football game.

Q. If it has an eight inch longer wheelbase than the leading import, does it still handle and park easily?
A. Maverick can U-turn in a tighter circle (35.6 feet) than the leading economy import (36.0 feet). Maverick can slant through traffic like a halfback. It can turn on a dime and give you nine cents change. If you've been driving any other American car, you'll find Maverick's neat size adds up to 5½ feet to any parking space.

Q. Can Detroit really build a small economy car that's tough and long lasting?
A. It's not easy, but we did it. Maverick's unitized body construction makes it light, strong and durable. It's welded like a battleship. Rustproofing compound goes into deep crevices that never see the light of day. Then all that strength is covered with four coats of paint for lasting beauty. Result: one tough little car that's put together to stay together. (The service schedule in the Maverick owner's manual goes up to 108,000 miles or nine years; that ought to tell you something about its rugged durability.)

Q. How about parts and service?
A. Maverick is designed to be unusually easy to service. You're dealing with made-in-America parts and 6,000 easy-to-find Ford Dealers. Fast repairs and easy replacements mean extra savings in both time and money.

Q. Is Maverick really easier and less expensive to maintain than an economy import?
A. Definitely. Maverick oil changes come only every 6,000 miles and chassis lubrication once every 36,000 miles. The leading economy import recommends oil changes every 3,000 miles (twice as often as Maverick) and chassis lubrication every 6,000 miles (six times as often as Maverick!). Those are just a few examples of the many ways Maverick lessens inconvenience and lowers operating cost.

Q. Can I do my own maintenance work?
A. Yes, if you have an average amount of mechanical ability. The Maverick owner's manual contains 24 pages of detailed diagrams and easy-to-follow instructions for routine maintenance jobs you can do yourself, if you wish. You'll find it easy to change spark plugs, replace ignition points . . . plus many other do-it-yourself repairs and replacements.

Q. Can a small car be safe? And how safe is safe?
A. This small car incorporates the latest advances in engineering. Maverick's brakes are as big as a standard compact's—designed to stop cars weighing hundreds of pounds more. Maverick gives you weight . . . power . . . stability. Designed for American driving conditions.

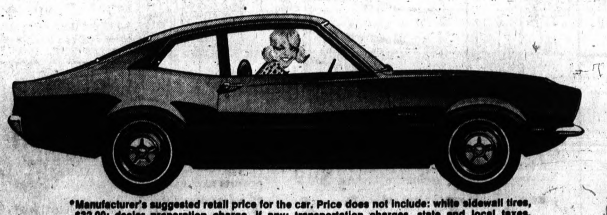
Q. How does Maverick ride?
A. Here's where Maverick's longer, wider stance really pays off. You get a smoother, quieter ride. Maverick's tight, strong, unitized body helps eliminate squeaks and rattles. Special insulation blocks out road noise. The people who brought you a Ford that was quieter than a Rolls-Royce now bring you a small car that doesn't sound like a power mower.

Q. Is there an advantage in the fact that Maverick is really a 1970 car?
A. Slower depreciation is one money-in-the-pocket advantage. Maverick's 1970 model designation means it keeps its trade-in value higher, longer. (Maverick is built to be a good investment from the minute you buy it to the minute you sell it.)

Better come take a look at this one. You'll find it where the action is . . . right in there with other great Ford values like specially equipped Ford Galaxie 500's . . . Fairlanes . . . Mustangs and Falcons.

You'll find them at your Ford Dealer's . . . the place you've got to go to see what's going on.

For an authentic 1/25 scale model of the new Ford Maverick, send $1.00 to Maverick, P.O. Box 5397, Department N-09, Detroit, Michigan 48211. (Offer ends July 31, 1969.)



*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for the car. Price does not include: white sidewall tires, $32.00; dealer preparation charge, if any; transportation charges, state and local taxes.

CHARLES WOODRUFF YOST

Life's Career Readied Yost for U.N. Post

NEW YORK (NEA) — It takes Charles Woodruff Yost a leisurely 15 minutes to walk from his apartment in the Waldorf at 50th and Park to his office at 45th Street and First Avenue, overlooking the United Nations plaza.

He can browse at store windows along the way. He stops leisurely at the traffic lights. He can get lost in the crowds on Third Avenue. No one bothers him. Or recognizes him.

* * *

Yost is the 10th United States ambassador to the United Nations, officially the permanent representative. And the name without the title wouldn't get him past Sam, the maitre d' at Toots Shor's.

* * *

Yost was a career diplomat almost all of his adult life, from the time he entered the foreign service in 1930 at the age of 23 until he officially retired 36 years later.

CULMINATION OF CAREER

"This represents the culmination of a career," he says. "I had retired three years ago and was occupied with the Council on Foreign Relations. I was just about to go to Paris, where I had accepted a post as executive director of the Atlantic Institute, when this opportunity came along."

* * *

In 1961, Yost had first been appointed by President Kennedy as deputy representative to the U. N. Security Council and served under Ambassadors Stevenson and Goldberg, so he was stepping into a familiar situation.

And yet, the listener notes, the man on the street has come to think of the U.N. as a do-nothing, impotent factor in the quest for world peace.

"Even if that were true," he answers, "it would be useful. There's a hell of a lot of business transacted here." And here for a moment he doesn't sound like stripes and cutaways and the tinkle of diplomatic tea cups. "This is one place where foreign ministers and prime ministers can get together. I can talk with Arab states with whom we have no relations."

MIDEAST EXPERT

Yost, an expert on the Middle East, has been a prime mover for the four-power talks to discuss the strife in that area.

Once a week, on the average, he goes to Washington to attend a cabinet meeting or sit with the National Security Council. His other days are spent in meetings with staff members, calls on other ambassadors, working lunches, one or more receptions in the afternoon, dinner parties five times a week.

* * *

It was an experience that frustrated some of the direct-action men of public life who preceded him in the job.

Capital Improvement Budget Adopted

A capital improvement budget of $754,900 for 1969 was adopted by the City Commission last night.

The funds are to come from a 1.5-mill levy on the equalized valuation of the city, an estimated $463 million, plus some $60,000 from land sales and interest.

The largest expenditure is $237,000 for street improvements. The city also will spend about $200,000 for a new fire station at West South Boulevard and Motor for which bids are now being taken.

Street improvement projects will proceed on portions of the following streets: Balboa, Granada, Ypsilanti, Basswood, Linfere, Carlisle, Price, Eastway, Menominee, Seminole and West Iroquois.

In other business, the commission:

● Set two public hearings for 8 p.m. April 22 for the intention to construct a sanitary sewer in Westway from 97 feet south of Benson to Michigan; and for presentation of reconstruction of pavement in Green and Sarko Subdivision on Balboa and Granada.

● Ordered construction of sidewalk on Motor from West South Boulevard and Montana at a cost of $1,545, none to be assessed.

● Reappointed Ralph Puckett of 970 Berwick to another term expiring Dec. 31, 1971, on the electrical examining board.

● Approved preparation of a land trade with The Pontiac Press involving a city parking lot at the rear of The Press building on West Huron and Pine. The Press is to provide the city with a substitute parking lot adjacent to the present one. However, the city is to retain use of the present lot until owners of The Press are prepared to carry out proposed expansion, according to the agreement.

* * *

● Deferred two requests until next Tuesday — from Farid Sefa for a new SDM license at 1249 Baldwin and from the Pontiac Metropolitan Club for permission to hold a carnival at West Pike and Saginaw from May 20 to June 1.

● Changed the meeting set for May 13 for May 12 so that commissioners can attend the annual banquet of employes of Pontiac General Hospital.

Street 'Subsidy' Argued Again

Assessment Rates Disputed; Hearing Set

Two city commissioners continued their claims that the city was turning over $57,000 to a developer in the form of a street improvement "subsidy" at last night's commission meeting.

Commissioners Robert C. Irwin, District 2, and Robert F. Jackson, District 5, have been disputing the proposed assessment rates for Charles Langs, Inc., for his development on West Kennett, west of Alcott School.

* * *

The firm is building a two phase project of more than 500 units of rent supplement housing and housing for the elderly called North Hill Farms.

Total cost of street improvements has been estimated at $174,644 with the city paying some $128,509. Irwin and Jackson claim some $57,000 of this is not correct.

JACKSON'S FIGURES

Jackson said his figures show the per-foot rate of street improvement was $27 and that the city was picking up $20.25 of this unduly.

A report from Joseph E. Neipling, director of public works and services, indicated the City Commission had a lot of leeway in assessment practices according to past city resolutions.

* * *

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. and District 4 Commissioner F. Jack Douglas defended Langs.

The mayor said Langs had been having difficulty in funding his project, the first rent-supplement housing tried in the city, when he had made his street improvement proposals.

'HE HAD THE GUTS'

"He (Langs) had the guts to start building and since others have followed," the mayor said.

Douglas expressed doubt over the figures being used by Irwin and Jackson and asked that Langs present some figures.

* * *

Taylor requested that Langs' firm provide the commission with details.

A public hearing on the assessment roll was set for April 29, 8 p.m., on the project over the two objections.

* * *

Irwin and Jackson continued their dissent when a public hearing was held on the capital improvement budget for 1969. The budget of $754,000 contains $237,000 for street improvements.

The two commissioners moved to have the $57,000 removed from the budget but were outvoted, 5-2.

U.S. Constitution Original Is Sold for Record Price

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the eight remaining original copies of the U.S. Constitution has been sold for $155,000—reportedly the highest price ever for such a document.

* * *

Hans Krauss, a New York rare books dealer, bought the manuscript Tuesday at an auction at the Parke-Bernet Galleries.

* * *

The document was the personal copy of Pierce Butler, a delegate from South Carolina. It contains 40 pages of his notes, and may include the "missing Pinckney plan," a Parke-Bernet spokesman said. That plan, one of three considered by the Constitutional Convention, has never been found.

Candidate OK'd: He Made Amends

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Mike Miller, candidate for the Juneau borough assembly, won a major endorsement when the Southeast Alaska Empire ran this ad:

"Okay to vote for Mike Miller for assemblyman. He finally fixed his wife's kitchen cabinets. Paid for by friends of Mrs. Mike Miller."

* * *

Mrs. Miller's friends had withheld public support pending the repair work.

Bid on Former DPW Property Accepted

Harambee Receives Official Endorsement

Harambee Inc. received unanimous City Commission endorsement and a few kudos last night for its proposed multiple housing development project in southwest Pontiac.

Harambee, a black community development group, proposes a 60-unit town-house project in the former Department of Public Works property northeast of Lake and Orton streets that is expected to cost about $1 million.

* * *

Harambee's bid of $40,700 for the city property was the only one received by the city (the amount was the appraised value) and was accepted unanimously, clearing the way for construction.

The group intends to start building sometime in August and hopes to have housing available by summer of 1970.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said, "We are beginning to see things materialize in the rebuilding of the southern part of our city. The men who have worked on this project deserve a great deal of credit."

He added: "I understand this is only the beginning and many other things are forthcoming . . . I am happy to pat these men on the back."

District Commissioner T. Warren Fowler Sr. said: "I am glad to see the housing. I am hoping they will bring forth the housing they intend to . . . I wish them luck."

Harambee hopes to use federal and private funding for several projects to provide various types of housing in the city.

Nova 4 Coupe

GM
MARK OF EXCELLENCE

It's no small car. It's no small sale.
It's our way of freeing you from the clutches of those cramped economy cars. Both foreign imports and the new domestic variety.
For a limited time your dealer is offering 4-cylinder Nova Coupes and Sedans—equipped with Torque-Drive transmission, pushbutton radio and whitewalls—at special sale savings.
That's right. You get the convenience of clutchless driving added to the solid Body by Fisher comfort of America's most popular economy car.

Our no-clutch Torque-Drive works similar to a fully automatic transmission, except that you shift the selector from first to high during acceleration.
The manufacturer's suggested retail price for Torque-Drive is about half of what you'd pay for a similar transmission in one of the leading imports.
And now you get it at sale savings—plus all Nova's other advantages. Like wide-stance stability. A trunk instead of a second glove compartment. And a choice of honest Yankee-size 5- or 6-passenger comfort.

So why settle for an economy car that economizes on the wrong things, like seating space and driving convenience?
Come on down to your Chevrolet dealer's during his Nova 4 sale and get one that economizes on the right things.
And even saves you clutching in the bargain.

Exiled 'God King' of Tibet Evolving Into a Democrat

(EDITOR'S NOTE — In 1959, the 14th Dalai Lama was forced to flee to India after the Chinese Communists took over Tibet, to become leader in exile. Now, 10 years later, in a private interview at his residence in the Himalayan foothills, he discusses politics, religion and the future of the Dalai Lamas.)

By JAMES M. MARKHAM

DHARAMSALA, India (AP) — His Holiness Tenzin Gyatsho, the 14th Dalai Lama, leader of the Tibetan people in exile, gave a soft, interior chuckle, a sign that a joke was coming.

"Some people say I'm a Communist," he said in Tibetan, using the English word "Communist." His young aide translated.

* * *

"I donlt care as long as I'm right," the Dalai Lama added, with a relaxed downward swing of his clean-shaven head.

The small joke had a point. For ever since fleeing Communist Chinese conquered Tibet 10 years ago, the Dalai Lama—formerly the undisputed theocratic ruler of his country—has evolved into a democrat.

GAVE CONSTITUTION

Six years ago the young leader gave his people a democratic constitution, for the day that Tibet becomes free. But the Dalai Lama retained powerful executive authority and was entitled "Spiritual Head of the State."

Now, the 34-year-old "god king" has decided that all Tibetans must determine whether they want "the system of governance by the line of Dalai Lamas" to continue when and if they wrest their independence from the Chinese.

"After the 14th Dalai Lama dies, another selection may not be made," His Holiness observed, almost casually, in an hourlong private interview in his simple residence, set at 5,000 feet in the Himalayan foothills.

"This has nothing to do with religion," he added quickly. "This does not mean that religion has ended."

DELVES INTO HISTORY

"Before the first Dalai Lama existed, Tibet existed," he said. "It is possible that another person may come and lead the country."

Since he came to India in 1959, His Holiness has delved into world history. He says he has concluded that wherever church and state have been closely allied—in Japan, in Russia, in France—there has been trouble.

* * *

In a free Tibet, he would apparently like to separate them, as they had not been under the rule of the Dalai Lamas.

Morever, Tibetan Buddhism in practice retains "feudal characteristics." "Like me," he said in English, smiling. "The Dalai Lama."

PRACTICAL LEADER

"The Marxist accusation that 'religion is the opiate of the people' may have been right insofar as the way religions are practiced," he said.

"But if a religion is truly practiced I think even a Communist, if he were honest, would have difficulty in making that charge."

* * *

Still, for all his theoretical speculation about future policy of a free Tibet, the Dalai Lama is very much the practical, day-to-day leader of his people in exile.

He is, Tibetans acknowledge, the one force holding together the 85,000 refugees scattered throughout India and the Himalayan kingdoms of Nepal, Sikkim and Bhutan.

VARIED ROLES

As such, he must assume the varied roles of president, foreign minister, spiritual authority, general arbiter and fundraiser.

Under his guidance, the Tibetan refugees have proved impressively resourceful, setting up schools, pioneer agricultural settlements, small industries and even monasteries to carry on their Buddhist faith and unique way of life.

* * *

Twenty thousand Tibetans, mainly employed on Indian road gangs, have yet to be settled, and are a major concern. Money is short, though the Indian government lends a hand.

His government in exileis recognized by no country—India considers Tibet an integral part of China—but the Dalai Lama keeps close watch on international developments.

ACTIVE AT U.N.

His representatives in New York and Geneva try constantly to keep the Tibetan is sue alive in the United Nations.

He expresses an almost religious certainty that Tibet eventually will regain its freedom, though he admits "It is difficult to see how this will come about."

* * *

As a Buddhist monk the Dalai Lama does not condone the use of violence; as a realist he admits that no "friendly power" is likely to chase the Chinese off the "roof of the world."

He believes the Chinese are trying "to wipe out the totality of Tibetan identity."

'LIVES OF NO VALUE'

"To the Chinese Communists, Tibetan lives are of no value except as hewers of wood and drawers of water."

He feels the Chinese may succeed in reducing Tibetan Buddhist and culture to a memory —hence the importance of the refugee community as a bearer of the past to the future.

* * *

The Dalai Lama, who rises at 4 or 5 a.m., devotes about six hours a day to his various temporal responsibilities.

But he spends another five hours in meditation, reading and study. He plunges eagerly into books on astronomy and gardening—in English, a language he understands well but speaks rarely.

PROTECTIVE MEASURES

Indian plainclothes policemen, revolvers bulging under their ill-fitting suits, prowl around the Dalai Lama's compound and follow His Holiness whenever he leaves it. Visitors are searched before entering the residence.

But, if he had his choice, the Dalai Lama openly admits he would like to be "a simple monk."

* * *

He is patently unconcerned with the possible grandeur of his title and position.

"This name is just a name—the Dalai Lama," he emphasized. "By having this name I don't become taller or stronger or richer."

AP Photo

FEARS FOR TIBETANS—The Dalai Lama, leader of the Tibetan people in exile, says that the Chinese, who now occupy Tibet, are trying to "wipe out the totality of Tibetan identity." Therefore, he says, the refugee community of 85,000 Tibetans, which is scattered through India and the Himalayan kingdoms of Nepal, Sikkim and Bhutan, has a vital role to play in conserving cultural traditions.

'64 Landslide May Backfire on Dems in '70 Senate Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The legacy of a landslide falls due next year and, ironically, it poses a problem for the Democrats who won it.

Democratic senators who won their terms in former President Lyndon B. Johnson's electoral blitz of 1964 must run again in 1970, and the Republican National Committee says the GOP has a chance of winning control of the Senate for the first time in more than two decades.

* * *

Democratic analysts are frankly worried.

Normally, an off-year election produces congressional gains for the party which does not control the White House, but in 1970 the arithmetic and the circumstances could work against tradition.

33 SEATS AT STAKE

There are 33 Senate seats at stake, 25 of them now Democratic, only eight Republican.

Democrats now control the Senate, 58 to 42. But a gain of eight seats—making the parties even—would put the GOP in charge because Vice President Spiro T. Agnew would cast the decisive vote in a tie.

* * *

Frequently, an off-year election casts the presidential party in a defensive role. But the Democrats are not sure that will be the case next year.

One official at the Democratic National Committee already is advising Sen. Fred R. Harris, the chairman, that the party should brace for a GOP on the offensive.

Outside the Deep South, only five Democratic senators elected in 1964 ran ahead of the Johnson ticket. The others, presumably, benefitted from the presidential returns.

COATTAIL POWER

In four of their victories, Democratic analysts believe, the coattail power of Johnson's massive showing was the decisive factor.

* * *

The Senate elections they put in this category are those of Sens. Howard Cannon of Nevada, Joseph M. Montoya of New Mexico, William Proxmire of Wisconsin and Stephen M. Young of Ohio.

* * *

"The biggest single common problem these men face in 1970 will be in getting voters to the polls," one Democratic strategist said.

Against that background, Democrats are advising their Senate candidates to make an early start on the 1970 race, not only to build for the November election, but also in hopes of averting troublesome primary contests.

* * *

The strategy-makers also counsel concentration on the suburban precincts, where President Nixon made his best showing last November.

The 12 largest airlines in the U.S. had passenger business increases up 13½ per cent last year over 1967.

Asia Parleys to Air Birth Curbs

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — "Can we stem the tide?" an expert on Asia's exploding population asked. "I think not."

Fear is growing among students of world population that there may be no answer to the problem of too many people on the planet's most populous continent.

★ ★ ★

Spurred by such fears, two major organizations have called conferences to seek solutions before it is too late.

First is an Arpil 15-28 meeting in Singapore of the United Nations Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East—ECAFE — a 22-year-old agency whose 30 member nations last set up a population division.

PROJECTS THREATENED

The oldest regional organization in Asia, ECAFE has begun many national economic projects, only to see the gains threatened by rapidly increasing population.

The second major conference is planned by the International Planned Parenthood Federation. It will be in Bandung, Indonesia, in June.

★ ★ ★

If the present birth rate continues, Indonesia's 125 million population will have doubled in 30 years to 250 million.

Birth statistics indicate that family planning projects have failed to check the progression by which the populations of countries such as India, now with more than 500 million, are doomed to double every 30 years.

TWO-THIRDS

Asia's population now totals two billion persons—two-thirds of the world's population. Unchecked, India's population will equal that number in 60 years.

★ ★ ★

Some $100 million will be committed to the fight against population explosion this year, five times the amount spent in 1962. But some demographers believe it is too little, too late.

"It's like the simple law of physics which says that momentum equals mass times velocity," says Dr. Gordon Perkins, an American populaton-control adviser at the Ford Foundation's regional headquarters in Bangkok.

★ ★ ★

"In the case of population, the bigger the populaton, the faster it grows and the harder it is to slow down. It is a snowball effect."

NEGLIGIBLE RESULTS

A number of foundations and organizations have promoted population control efforts in Asia—all with negligible results.

Dr. Carl Frisen, American director of ECAFE's population division, belives some countries may never gain control of their population.

★ ★ ★

In saying he doesn't think the tide can be stemmed, Dr. Frisen adds: "Some people are very critical of approaches to populaton control that are being taken and say the only solution is mandatory action."

That could mean the governments would limit couples to a certain number of children and punish by heavier taxation and other methods the couples who exceed the limit.

HUMAN RIGHT

"This is a very difficult problem because many religions and people believe that a child is God's gift," Dr. Frisen said. "There is also a U. N. resoluton on the books that to have any number of children is a human right."

Some Asian nations, among them Nationalist China and South Korea, have reduced birth rates with present population-control methods such as pills, contraceptives, sterilization and an intrauterine device known as the loop.

★ ★ ★

Most scientists feel use of current methods should be stepped up until some better way is found.

But a Ford Foundation report indicates that in other countries, such as the predominately Roman Catholic Philippines, as well as Thailand and Indonesia, effects of family planning have been slight.

Jumbles: Sob, Mix, Curl, Mend.

Answer: This is bigger when it's upside-down — THE NUMBER SIX.

Covering 'The Impossible Beat' Is Reporter's Fate

By JEANNE NELSON

"Jeanne, what you need is a good jogging."

"Now wait a minute, boss, I admit there are times when my participles dangle a little, but is that really provocation for flogging?"

"Jogging, you idiot — as in run. Now contact the YW on this new women's jogging class on Tuesdays. And I want you to get really involved, you know, get in there and really tell it like it is."

DOOMSDAY NEARS

For three long weeks this dark shadow of doom has been hanging over my shoulder as THE DAY came closer. I comforted myself with thoughts of a blizzard on Tuesday. No such luck, just a harmless drizzle that, according to Eva Terrell, the Y's program director, "won't put a damper on our plans — ha, ha."

Wouldn't you just know that anyone who loves to jog would have a sense of humor like that?

After a few choice comments from the city room crew on my jogging ensemble, I took the first step. Into the car and behind the wheel (who knew how much stored-up energy this assignment would take? I couldn't risk wasting an ounce of it.)

The two blocks to the "Y" zipped by and there I was, pulling into the driveway for the moment of truth. Sudden joy overcame me, for there was the photographer coming OUT of the "Y" and loading his equipment BACK into the car.

FOILED AGAIN

Aha, I thought, you've been saved this unspeakable ordeal for at least another week. But my euphoria was short lived as he shouted, "We're in the wrong place, Nelson, they're all over at Hawthorne Park."

As it turned out, "we joggers" only numbered four out of a possible class of 16. It was cold, it was damp, and that little blue and white sign looked a heck of a lot further away than a tenth of a mile from where I stood.

"You gotta keep the body movement going, you know, like doing cadence," shouts Eva. "See how much better it is when you really get all the parts moving." (She's got to be kidding, all my parts move when I just tiptoe.)

ELBOWS UP

"Keep those elbows up, kids, switch to the heel-toe when you get winded, Nelson, you CAN'T be winded yet."

Panic strikes—that photographer! I remember now, he's the one who got that photo assignment of mine out in the boondocks, the one that got canceled before I could tell him about it. "OK' Jeanne, keep your head up now, so I can get a goooood shoot." Oh well, what's a lost image here and there?

According to Mrs. Terrell, after completion of the 10-week course, the jogger should be able to handle a mile with ease. (Is that downhill?)

Abortion Issue Draws Support on Both Sides

LANSING (AP) — The young woman sat before the Senate committee and said simply: "I'm familiar with abortions. I had one."

Marina Wotton, 22, married and the mother of a three-year-old girl, was among the minority Tuesday as she testified in support of liberalized abortion laws for Michigan.

The Senate Committee on Health, Social Services and Retirement heard testimony for five hours from 11 persons favoring liberalization of the current law and 17 against.

"The emphasis should be on contraception," Mrs. Wotton said. "But people do have slipups . . . It's not a question of whether abortions should occur or not. It must be realized that they do occur."

* * *

Mrs. Wotton told of finding herself pregnant for a second time, of heavy debt incurred by herself and her husband, both students at the University of Michigan.

"The university hospital said it could not refer me to anyone," she said. "But that they would patch me up afterwards.

"I love children," she said. "I want to have them — but I want them when I can do them justice."

"I speak for the defenseless minority — the unborn child," said Kathleen Sommers of East Lansing, who brought four of her nine children to the hearing. "The right to life is the most basic civil right. The murder of the innocent is not a humane solution to our problems."

"I am sure glad I am alive," said Mrs. Jeanne G. Slumkoski of Kalamazoo, mother of three children. "If abortion laws had been liberal about 30 years ago or more, I could have been called a product of rape and (been) aborted."

Mrs. Raymond Wells of Flint, mother of a 20-year-old daughter, said she had had German measles—known for possible adverse effects during pregnancy—and could have had a therapeutic abortion.

"My daughter fortunately was born healthy," she said, "but even if she had not been, my husband and I consider the greatest gift we could give her was the gift of life."

The hearing—packed with emotion and interrupted several times by applause — included testimony from experts who disagreed on many facts and consequences of liberalized laws.

"I have watched a woman deliver a baby and turn away to look at the wall," said Dr. David Bingham of the U-M Hospital. "I have performed therapeutic abortions," he added. "I am already an abortionist."

Bingham said he had had to refuse abortions to some women and had "seen them return near death" after illegal operations.

"The gross effects of unwanted children can best be seen in cases of battered children that come to hospitals," said John Suttinger of Ann Arbor, representing the Huron Valley chapter of the National Association of Social Workers.

PRO AND CON

Dr. Jack Stack, an Alma general practitioner and vice president of the Michigan Council to Study Abortion, termed the concept of sweeping abortion law reform "excellent." One proposal, he said, "puts the delicate problem where it belongs—in the traditional physician-patient relationship."

Detroit lawyer Arthur Brakey called abortion "stupid cannibalism."

"There is nothing to prevent the operation of an abortion mill which will make Michigan known throughout the land," he said. "There will be no legal difference between the removal of a wart and the killing of an unborn child."

Barkey also predicted "more illegal abortions, more self-induced abortions and more abortion deaths," should a liberalized law pass the Legislature.

Mrs. Jill Knight, a conservative member of British parliament, testified as the guest of Sen. Jerome Hart, D-Saginaw.

England's recently adopted liberalized abortion law has caused requests to "skyrocket," she said, with 150,000 women seeking abortions in the year the law has been in effect. "Illegal abortions continue to rise at the same rate as legal ones," she added.

Women continue to seek out "backstreet abortionists" to maintain privacy, Mrs. Knight said, explaining that the British law requires records be kept on legal abortions performed.

"If you want to have responsible parents you'd better give them a choice," urged John Hurley, professor of psychology at Michigan State University.

"Make a decision on the merits," said Mrs. John H. O'Brien of Ann Arbor. Decide "what language will save the lives of all women; not just the rich, not just the informed."

Mrs. O'Brien and Mrs. Rosalind Wood, president of the Council for Study of Abortions and executive director of the Florence Crittenton Home (for unwed mothers) at Jackson, cited between 13,400 and 15,000 abortion requests annually in Michigan.

The Senate committee is studying the measures, one to allow legal abortions under specified circumstances, the other to provide for termination of pregnancy on the decision of a woman and her physician.

Sponsors are Sen. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, and Sen. John McCauley, D-Wyandotte.

Princess Anne Does Own Thing as 'Hair' Audience Applauds

LONDON (AP) — Teen-aged Princess Anne paid a surprise visit to the American musical show "Hair" Tuesday night and wound up dancing on stage with the hippie cast.

* * *

The audience sat up and cheered as the princess broke into a hip-swinging routine, flinging her arms around in abandon.

* * *

No one could recall any member of Britain's royal family behaving so informally before.

* * *

Wearing a navy blue trouser suit and white blouse, the 18-year-old Anne turned up at the Shaftesbury Theater with three unnamed friends — two young men and a blonde girl.

* * *

From a fourth-row seat the princess listened to the show's crop of four-letter words and watched the nude scene without batting an eye.

She rose to her feet immediately after the 27 members of the cast issued their nightly invitation for the audience to come on stage and dance.

THE BEAT

Smoke bombs were set off and the auditorium was illuminated by flashing lights as the princess merged with her friends among some 200 people dancing to the thump of beat music. Cheers and applause rang out as members of the audience suddenly recognized her.

* * *

"She was fantastic, really wild," said company manager Peter Kendal.

"Everyone was knocked out. She jived around the stage for almost 10 minutes."

* * *

Kendal said the four-letter words and the spectacle of nude actors and actresses didn't bother Anne at all — "in fact, she didn't turn a hair."

* * *

One member of the cast of "Hair" turned out to be a girl Anne knew from the time when they both went to Benenden School in Kent. She told 21-year-old Rohan McCulloug: "After all the money that was paid for your education, fancy finding you in this kind of show."

* * *

Then the royal party left the theater, accompanied by Anne's personal detective.

There was some doubt whether Queen Elizabeth II was aware what her daughter was up to.

* * *

A Buckingham palace spokesman said: "We did not even know Princess Anne was at the theater."

"It must be more then a tenth of a mile," gasps reporter Nelson, "I'll never make the other nine-tenths."

He Knows Own Children; Let Him Tell Them

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently met a man on the beach. It was early in the morning and we were the only two around so we struck up a conversation. He told me he had lost his wife three months before. (I've been a widow for three years.)

We hit it off immediately and had so much in common. It was wonderful. We had lunch together that day, and dinner that evening. And for the next two weeks we spent all our time together. He asked me if I would marry him when a year has passed since his wife's death. I accepted.

We flew north together and he came to my home town to meet my married children. They adored him.

My problem: He also has married children, but he doesn't want to tell them about me yet. He says it's "too soon." I don't mind waiting a year to be married, but I think the longer he waits to tell his children about me, the harder it will be.

I love him very much, Abby, and will wait if I have to, but it doesn't seem fair to me. Please advise me. HURT

DEAR HURT: Don't be hurt. He knows his children better than you do. But tell him that if he holds off telling them too long they might think he's marrying a woman he hardly knows.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 years old and I have a crush on a guy for the first time in my life. We are only on a hello and good-by basis.

I see him about once a week and I say "Hi." Then he says, "Hi." Then I say, "Bye" and he says, "Bye."

How can I get on friendlier terms with him? Please don't tell me to call him up and invite him to something. I don't know him well enough for that.

GOT A CRUSH

DEAR GOT: Use a little imagination. Wear something (like a ROCKEFELLER FOR PRESIDENT button) or carry a pair of ice skates — anything to give him a chance to say something more than Hi and Bye. If YOU can't think of something to catch his eye and he can't think of anything for openers, you'd better forget him. Neither of you is ready yet.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, Jenny, is being married in July. She has asked her fiance's two sisters to be bridesmaids. These girls are going to be bridesmaids at another wedding in June.

The gowns for Jenny's wedding have already been selected and will be here soon.

Now Jenny has heard that her future mother-in-law wants her daughters to wear the gowns for the JUNE wedding that my daughter selected for her wedding.

Jenny says absolutely not. What do you say?

FURIOUS

DEAR FURIOUS: If the June wedding is "local," and will be attended by many of the same people who will attend Jenny's wedding, I'd be inclined to vote with Jenny.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from "LONESOME AND BLUE," whose husband was in Europe for a "sales meeting," while his wife was home with four kids. I am in exactly the same position, only I'm home with four and one-half kids!

My husband is a salesman, and has won all sorts of trips as prizes — but he goes with other prize-winners from different parts of the country. His company has never offered him a trip with his wife and family. Their conventions and meetings are held all over the world, which I resent, as his regular sales job takes him away enough as it is.

Right now I'm going to the supermarket. That friendly, good-looking man in the produce department is looking better all the time.

Joan Kennedy Clings to 'Private' Status

Joan Kennedy still tries to remain, with her children, out of the public spotlight. She is pictured here at Hyannis Port with her husband, Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, and two of their children, Edward Jr., aged seven, and Kara Ann, aged nine. They also have a second son, Joseph Patrick, aged one and a half years. Their own home is in McLean, Va.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—She is the wife of Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, the last of the near-legendary Kennedy brothers. As a Kennedy, she is almost always in the limelight. But Joan Kennedy is a quiet, "private" woman—in a public Kennedy world.)

By ANN BLACKMAN
Of The Boston Globe
Distributed By The Associated Press

McLEAN, Va. — Joan Kennedy is a tall, radiant woman with fine, tanned features and thick tumbling, silver-blonde hair.

Her voice is soft and well-modulated. When she relaxes into a laugh, it starts with her shoulder; then a smile creeps up her cheeks making little creases around her eyes. And then it bursts—a full, spontaneous belly laugh which can only come from a happy woman.

Joan Kennedy is the wife of Edward Moore Kennedy, Democratic U.S. Senator from Massachusetts. There are times when she sails one weekend in Nassau and skis the next two at Stowe, Vt. — but home is a handsome, rambling house in a wooded section of McLean, Va.

Despite being so pretty that even little boys stare, Joan Kennedy remains unspoiled. Energy, determination and genuine warmth lie beneath that glamorous surface.

Born Virginia Joan Bennett on Sept. 2, 1936, the daughter of a staunch Republican, New York advertising executive, she was a shy girl, with an extroverted sister. Her family was interested in the arts and Joan began playing the piano when she was 5.

She met Ted Kennedy when she was at Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart in Purchase, N.Y., majoring in classical music and English literature, and he was at the University of Virginia Law School. They were married Nov. 29, 1958, by the late Francis Cardinal Spellman.

After 11 years of marriage, they have three children: Kara Ann, 9, a winsome, happy third-grader with shiny long hair; Teddy Jr., 7, who's in the second grade and says he likes science best; and a red-haired, blue-eyed Irishman christened Patrick Joseph, who's 1½ years old.

Mrs. Kennedy is frequently alone because the senator travels often. But in most cases she prefers to remain at home with the children.

She likes to keep the children out of the limelight, but the two older ones often see magazine pictures of their cousins. And they assume with the matter-of-factness with which only a child is blessed that that's the way things are when your name is Kennedy.

"Joan Kennedy's qualities have strengthened since Robert Kennedy's death," a close personal friend said. "She makes a determined effort not to talk about the way things were. She has quiet resources and she's a deeply religious woman."

Later the same morning, she hopped into her little blue Chevy convertible—which looks like any other blue Chevy except the license reads "USS 1"—to drive herself to Beauvoir, the Episcopal school her children attend. Kara was singing in her class choir and Mrs. Kennedy wanted to be there.

"These things are so important to the kids," she said as some 30 boys and girls tramped by, draped in blue gowns which didn't quite cover the sneakers, rubber boots and sturdy shoes underneath.

But her eyes cloud when she speaks of politics. "I guess I do have a political role, don't I," she said uncertainly.

She absent-mindedly drove past the street where she was supposed to turn. "A few years ago I was married to the baby of the family. I enjoyed the glamor and limelight the others got, and of course, too, being a senator's wife, but the rest was private. I could always get away."

She was on a straightway. There was no traffic, but the car slowed a little. She continued. "I never had to give up my own little world—before, I mean. Now it's different. It's personal, you know. You see, it's hit home."

Reaching the crest of the hill where a sweep of house came into view, Mrs. Kennedy said, "I haven't really worked things out in my own mind yet." Yes, she says she does share her husband's dreams. But then she hesitated when she was asked about the possibility of him running for president. Her jaw tightened slightly and her smile faded.

"I can't say I'd urge him to run," she said. There was a long pause. "Anyway, it's his decision, not mine." She laughed, but this time her eyes didn't dance.

"Joan's always there when there's a big decision to make," a Kennedy associate said. "She's not a Senate wife in the normal sense, but she's always there for the working (important) issues."

With his sisters, she was with him last August in Hyannisport when he was being pressured to accept a draft for the presidential nomination.

"It was a fearful time," she said, haltingly. "I was concerned about his personal responsibilities, and I was frightened."

Then she and her children sat with him in the inaugural stands last January when Richard M. Nixon was sworn into office.

Two weeks later, during the fight for Senate whip, Mrs. Kennedy sat in the office of Senator Mike Mansfield, the majority leader, waiting for the votes to be counted. When Kennedy won, there was immediate speculation he was already beginning the battle for the White House. Headlines read: "Ted Starting Drive for '72."

* * *

Joan Kennedy wondered out loud why there was so much talk about the future. "It's too early to predict anything about anyone," she said emphatically. Then she added, of course, she'd campaign for his re-election to the Senate in 1970.

And as a campaigner, Mrs. Kennedy is no novice. She tramped through West Virginia in 1960 when John F. Kennedy was running for president, and through Massachusetts in 1962 during her husband's Senate campaign when he was hospitalized because of a plane crash.

Then she campaigned in Indiana last spring for Robert Kennedy when he, too, wanted to be president of the United States.

So for a while, Joan Kennedy will try to remain with her children, out of the public spotlight. She wants to be a private person, the woman her friends call "irrepressible," "unpretentious," "regular," "nice."

Spring Comes to the City Kids

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Gay Pauley, UPI Women's Editor, recently wrote of childhood remembrances of spring down on the farm. The following dispatch is the recollection of a citybred writer.)

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — The coming of spring for the city child is a little bit like being sprung from jail.

There's release from imprisoning clothes — no more leggings, no more hated, itchy knee socks. And there's the city, so clean looking under bright blue skies, instead of the steam-heated apartment in which we were confined because our mothers weren't sturdy enough to stay outdoors long in cold Winter days.

* * *

But spring was always a long time coming when I was a child — I guess it still is. March was the month of disappointment — it promised spring but always the weather was just a continuation of dreary February days.

* * *

There was my father, always predicting one more snow before Easter and almost always right.

* * *

The first sign of spring wasn't the robin red breast or even a budding crocus or whatever it is that blooms first. It was St. Patrick's day and the epidemic of "instant Irishmen" that emptied our classrooms on the day of the parade.

TREASURES

There was a lot of preparation for spring — while my mother exhumed last year's good spring coat for everyday wear I hunted for precious lost items like my skate key, which also served as a hopscotch "stone."

* * *

My teeth are still set on edge when I remember skating over the rougher portions of sidewalk on the way to the park, where the grass was turning green, the dogwood trees blossomed as surely as in any country meadow, the ducks skittered across the lakes as on any rural pond.

* * *

Spring meant the circus and my annual disappointment that cotton candy didn't taste as good as it looked; my bewilderment over the way grownups gasped at aerial acts while obviously it was the animals that were most fascinating.

* * *

The animals at the zoo in Central Park were another spring attraction as they came out of their houses into their iron-barred "back yards."

There was the wonderful Sunday when we found the park's carousel open, its hurdy-gurdy music a siren song.

Beckoning beyond was summer. I still pity inland children who never fearfully dove into a breaking wave, to emerge triumphant on the other side or be tossed under, only to come back gasping for more.

Calcium Deters Bone Shrinkage

It is an old wives' adage that one starts to shrink as soon as growth stops. It's a medical adage as well, and now medicine is finding something that can be done about at least one aspect of it.

Persons who watch their parents or older friends, especially those who reach and live beyond bench-mark years of 60-65, can literally see them shrink.

What is happening is that their bones are changing, becoming less dense, more porous — and, of course, smaller. The condition is called osteoporosis.

* * *

Shrinkage caused by it is especially notable in the spinal column. A man whose insurance examiner may have measured his height as 5 feet, eight inches at age 30 may discover at age 65 he is now 5 feet 5 inches.

Physicians are inclined to place the blame on lack of sufficient calcium in the diet and its transfer into bone — as rickets in infants may be caused by lack of calcium or its failure to concentrate in the skeleton — generally because of Vitamin D deficiency.

A research study recently reported lends support to the assumption that osteoporosis is a calcium-deficiency disease. This study was carried out at the Brookhaven National Laboratory on Long Island by three scientists in the Medical Research Center there.

First the experimenters established that all patients received 500 milligrams (a milligram is 0.00003527 ounce or 0.0154 grain avoirdupois) of calcium daily. But they lost up to more than 700 milligrams a day.

When, however, each patient was given additionally 2 grams daily (2,000 milligrams) of a medically established calcium replenishment medicine, the retention rate rose dramatically — to as high as 515 milligrams a day.

The scientists soberly concluded: "Inasmuch as the high calcium diet produced a positive calcium balance and it can be considered to be beneficial to osteoporotic patients."

Irish Laces High on List

Irish lace is way up on the popularity list among buyers of Irish fashions, says Anne Tolan, fashion expert for Irish International Airlines. She knows because she spends most of the year traveling throughout America and Canada presenting shows of Irish clothes.

* * *

In the past Irish lace was used almost exclusively as an accessory. Today it rivals tweeds, linens and other staples of Irish fabrics in both day and evening wear. "Why, they're even using it in swimwear," Miss Tolan said.

Crocheting With Plastic

ALLEGAN, Mich. (AP) — Mrs. William Carns is making old-fashioned "rag" rugs with a new fashioned material—plastic bread wrappers.

The bread wrappers are cut crossways into circles about 2 inches wide. One circle is connected to another with a simple slipknot. The resulting continuous chain is rolled into a ball for crocheting.

* * *

Relatives, friends and neighbors save their wrappers for Mrs. Carns, who so far has made about 20 of the long-wearing rugs, most of which she has given away. "They're real easy on the feet," she says, "ideal for places you have to stand to work, like in front of the kitchen sink."

Make a bird feeder from an empty cottage cheese carton. Fill it with soft suet mixed with bread crumbs, cereals or any of a variety of seeds. Hang it by three heavy cords placed an equal distance apart around the top of the carton.

Teen Dancer Runs Studio

SLATINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Gail Sander is only 17 years old, but she has already been a teacher for two years. She has her own dance studio, which has 60 students.

In order to get the opening license for her studio, the senior at Northwestern Lehigh High School had to take a series of written and dancing examinations given by the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists Inc.

Although she once planned to be a professional dancer, Gail has now decided that it is only through teaching that she can reach young people. "I hope that I am going to teach them something they will remember, something from which they will benefit," she says.

Nurses, Musicians Plan OU Conferences

Two conferences are scheduled to take place at Oakland University next week.

Registered nurses will gather at Oakland University Monday for a management conference featuring Gus L. Economos from the University of Wisconsin's center for Advanced Study in Organizational Science.

The uniquely titled conference "Making Things Happen Through Management" will foxus on the nurse manager; her place and role in the organizational structure of the hospital. Management theories, concepts and practices will be examined and discussed to help nurses in planning their future self-development.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

We encounter some strange creatures going about every single day — women without false eyelashes! The spotlight has been focused on the false ones to such an extend that we tend to forget about the usual homegrown variety. Yet thousands and thousands of women, perhaps the majority of them, rely on their own. Others use the false lashes only for dress-up occasions.

Don't get me wrong! I think false lashes are great, and today you can purchase those which appear quite natural. However, there are things you can do to make your own eye awnings more attractive. Unfortunately, women often notice that their lashes become lighter in color and thinner as they (the women) grow older.

GROW

I am constantly receiving letters from readers asking how to make lashes grow longer. Stimulation is the only answer I know. There are several ways to do this. For instance, use one of the small brushes designed especially for the lashes. Brush the lashes of the upper lids upward, thus stimulating the blood and oil supply in that area. Do this for several minutes every night.

Another method you can use is to massage gently with your forefinger along the edge of the lid, at the base of the lashes. Use a little plain petroleum jelly for this.

You can protect your lashes from breakage by removing their makeup each night. Use water for the usual mascara and cream or baby oil if it is waterproof. Lashes need to be cleaned just as the hair does.

* * *

Turning your lashes upward makes them appear longer. Give them a heavenward sweep. You can buy a little gadget with which to curl them. None of these small routines are time consuming, but they will make a happy difference in the way you look.

If you would like to have my exercises for the eyes send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P. O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Wax Feet of Furniture

When you wax the floors, always put a little wax on the feet of furniture such as chairs, tables and the like. Then when a chair or table is moved about, it doesn't scratch the floor.

Water Repellents Are Two Types

Water repellents for rainwear are of two types: the durable type, such as Zelan, reacts chemically so as to be bound to the fiber. The renewable type, such as Aridex, is a physical deposit of wax particles on the surface.

These finishes usually are less soluble in water and therefore may withstand several launderings before restoration is required when applied to washable rainwear.

Facts of Long Life Compiled for 19.5 Millions of Retirees

NEW YORK — It's never too late to learn the facts of life—especially long life, according to Peter Dickinson, editor of Harvest Years, the nation's leading publication devoted solely to the interests of those seeking an exciting and meaningful retirement. That means more than 19.5 million Americans today.

Mr. Dickinson and his staff have compiled a 16-page study entitled "How to Live Longer Better" which may very well be to the over-fifty set as vital as Dr. Spock's manual has been to the raising of youngsters. The material, which originally was contained in a special report to the 100,000-plus readers of Harvest Years, may be purchased in pamphlet form for fifty cents from Harvest Years, Dept. RG-1, 104 East 40 Street, New York, N. Y. 10016.

★ ★ ★

The report tells why and how we grow older . . . the effects of heredity, exercise, rest, diet, smoking and drinking, preventive medicine, climate, and other vital factors affecting longevity.

The pamphlet also contains a longevity checklist that allows readers to add up their "long life" score . . . tables that show life expectancy at any age . . . data that helps readers select the best place to live.

STUDY CONCLUSIONS

Bursting with facts culled from scores of books, studies and reports on the facets of senior citizenry, "How to Live Longer Better" is a treasure chest of observations. Some examples:

The longer we live the better chance we have of living even longer.

It is reasonable to expect today to live 100 years — most people don't die of old age but of illness and accidents.

Longevity may be promoted by being slightly underweight. The lowest mortality rate of people over 30 are those who weigh 15 to 20 pounds less than average.

The educated appear to live longer. This is largely because of socio-economic factors.

At Columbia Teacher's College, it was found that people in their seventies could learn Russian and shorthand as easily as their younger classmates.

Senility affects less than one per cent of those over sixty-five.

Offspring from young mothers have a better chance for long life. Negroes aged seventy and over have a better chance for longevity than whites.

Exercise is the key. A New York study of 110,000 people who had had heart attacks found that after four weeks of illness 41 per cent of the nonwalkers were dead, while only 23 per cent of the walkers were. When all physical activity was considered, 57 per cent of the inactive died as compared to only 16 per cent of those who had some form of exercise.

People usually rest better after exercise. An inactive day may cause a sleepless night.

Always leave the table with an appetite. Cornell University researchers found that laboratory animals put on half rations lived the equivalent of 100 human years and remained virile, active and sleek. The conclusion: the virtues of a thin body during adult life seem obvious.

Inactive men who smoke have a mortality rate five times higher than active nonsmokers in the same age range.

One secret of long life, as suggested by the American Medical Association—get a chronic disease—and take good care of it. Your chances of living longer are much higher if you take reasonable, intelligent care of yourself.

Men with nonaggressive personalities are almost entirely safe from cardiovascular disease . . . A middle of the road attitude toward prestige and material wealth will result in less tension and anxiety.

Wild Volley Ball Disrupts Classes

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — While a girls' volley ball game was in progress at Assumption High School, one of the players in the gymnasium accidentally kicked the ball, which crashed into a fire alarm. Instantly, bells all over the school building pealed forth. Students poured out of the building and up rolled six pieces of fire equipment.

Travel Abroad Is Less Painful

List of Vaccinations Advised Now Shorter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Americans may find it a little less painful preparing to travel abroad this year, thanks to changes made by the U. S. Public Health Service in its list of recommended vaccinations.

Inoculation against typhoid has been virtually dropped from the list for the average traveler heading for the more developed areas of the world.

A recent release from the service's National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., noted:

"Typhoid vaccine is no longer recommended for Europe, nor for other areas if the traveler stays at the usual tourist accommodations."

IMPORTANT CHANGE

Another important change which might affect roving American include recommendation of antiplague inoculations "only for Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, unless the traveler will have occupational exposure to rodents in areas in which sylvatic plague occurs."

Still recommended for all international travel are vaccinations against tetanus, poliomyelitis and diphtheria. For Americans planning to visit countries where such diseases may be a threat, shots against yellow fever, cholera and typhus are advised.

In some countries, however, immunization against yellow fever or cholera is required and the traveler whose health certificate does not include a record of such vaccinations is liable to quarantine for up to two weeks.

In addition, Americans returning to the United States from areas where contagious diseases may be prevalent may also face surveillance or detention for 14 days unless they have had the necessary inoculations.

Anti-yellow fever shots may be obtained only at authorized Public Health Service centers. Cholera and other required and recommended vaccinations may be administered by a private physician or at local health agencies.

MUST BE RECORDED

The inoculations against yellow fever, good now for 10 years, and the cholera, valid for six months, must be recorded in the authorized International Certificates of Vaccinations and must be validated by local public health authorities.

It is a good idea to record other recommended shots in the yellow booklet, which may be obtained from travel agencies, airlines and steamship companies or U. S. passport offices. They often can also provide up-to-date information on health conditions in various countries.

All Americans traveling overseas, with the exception of Mexico, Canada, Bermuda and some o fthe Caribbean Islands, are required to have proof of vaccination against smallpox within the past three years. A record of the immunization must be made in the health certificate and also must carry the official validation stamp.

★ ★ ★

Some immigration and health officers in Western Europe don't even check the certificates but others, there and elsewhere around the world do. More important, a valid smallpox certificate is necessary for reentry into the United States without running into what could be serious complications.

Failure to possess a valid certificate, or other acceptable proof, could mean vaccination at point of entry or surveillance up to 14 days, or both, or even detention for up to two weeks.

Required and recommended inoculations should be taken at least several weeks before scheduled departure date from the United States.

Some are administered in a series spaced over days or weeks and become valid only at the end of periods which range from six to 12 days. And then, there is always the possibility that the shot might not take and another is necessary.

Veteran travelers usually staple or clip the international health certificate inside their passports for safety and carry them in their pocket or purse to help speed clearance by immigration and health officials.

Incidentally, it was erroneously reported recently that Americans did not need passports for entry into Great Britain, Scandinavia and most of the countries of Western Europe.

It was meant to say visas were not necessary.

Passports are required, as was pointed out in a letter from Francis G. Knight, Director of the U.S. Passport Office.

Tragedy Follows Upon Tragedy in Rural Idaho Community

REXBURG, Idaho (AP) — Betsy Anderson, 16, a quiet, well-liked sophomore at Madison High School, was in the back seat of a car driven by her father. Headlights came up fast from the rear. Suddenly, impact.

Betsy was killed.

★ ★ ★

Residents of a nearby farmhouse rushed to the door upon hearing the crash. Through darkness they saw two twisted autos. And they said they saw another—it was white—roar up and stop.

The white car's driver, Drake Smith, 18, and passenger, Bruce Ard, ran to the accident. Smith shouted to the farmhouse: "Call an ambulance and the sheriff. Hurry!"

ON WAY HOME

Betsy's family had been on the way to their rural home after spending Saturday evening at Idaho Falls. Betsy had taken in a movie while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Z. Anderson, square-danced.

Now, at midnight, young Smith—a friend and senior at Madison High—administered first aid to the survivors, as did Ard, while fighting realization that Betsy was dead.

★ ★ ★

Betsy's parents and three occupants of the collision's other car, driver Teddy Bischoff, 21, Kent Zollinger, 19, and Kenneth Firth 18, were taken to the Rexburg hospital. None was critically hurt.

★ ★ ★

As the ambulances pulled away, Deputy Sheriff Blair Seipert briefly questioned Smith and Ard. He knew both. Almost everyone knows everyone in the Rexburg area. The town has a population of about 7,000.

CRASH STATEMENTS

Seipert says the two told him that they had been about 200 yards behind the Bischoff car and had not seen the brake lights before it crashed into the Anderson car.

Seipert liked and respected Smith. So did his classmates and friends. He was handsome, an honor student who was halfback on the football team and president of the school agriculture club.

★ ★ ★

The deputy sent the boys home, then went to the hospital to ask more questions, particularly of Bischoff, Zollinger and Firth.

★ ★ ★

"What I learned—gradually—is that Teddy. Bischoff and Drake Smith were in a drag race," Seipert says. "Bischoff had gotten ahead."

CALLS HOME

Early Sunday afternoon, Seipert called the home of Drake's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Smith, about six miles from Rexburg. Drake answered.

★ ★ ★

"I am told there was a drag race," Seipert said, "and that a white car was involved. I want you to come down and give me a statement."

"Yes sir," said Drake.

Young Smith told his parents he was leaving to talk with Seipert, got cleaned up, then called Brad Jensen, a close friend, for the ride to town.

"We drove around for a while," says Jensen. "We discussed it. I asked him if he wanted to go to the sheriff's office. Drake said no, that he wanted to go home and get his father to come in with him.

"Then he said 'I ought to kill myself.'"

"I thought it was just an expression, that he didn't mean it. I told him it wasn't that bad —that it was serious, but not that bad."

Later, a neighbor was talking with Drake's parents in the kitchen. The youth went into his bedroom.

★ ★ ★

"Drake, do you want a piece of cake?" called his mother.

"No, thanks."

About 4:20 p.m., Seipert was still at his desk, waiting for Drake Smith. Then an urgent radio call came in from the Highway Patrol: "A shooting at the Irving Smith home. Bring an ambulance."

Drake's body lay on the floor of a blood-splattered closet, a massive wound in his neck. Nearby was his 16-gauge shotgun.

'Secret War' Is Disclosed

1964-67 U.S.-Chinese Viet Conflict Claimed

NEW YORK (AP) — A former State Department official says the United States and China fought a "secret war" in Vietnam between 1964 and 1967, and few people knew how close they came to the "point of no return."

Allen S. Whiting, director of the state department's Office of Research and Analysis for the Far East from 1962 to 1966, said full-scale war was avoided because both countries "acted coolly."

★ ★ ★

"Korea remained a restraining memory for both sides," he said. "Nonetheless, the nearness of an open Sino-American conflict over Vietnam leaves grounds for concern as long as China and the United States continue to clash."

Whiting, 42, now a political science professor at the University of Michigan, wrote his views in the current issue of Look magazine.

CHINESE INVOLVEMENT

He said Chinese involvement in Vietnam started shortly after the U.S. bombed North Vietnamese naval bases following the Gulf of Tonkin incidents in August 1964.

★ ★ ★

He said the Chinese sent a squadron of fighter planes to Hanoi and started building airfields in south China. Later, the Chinese sent 30,000 to 50,000 troops and antiaircraft units to North Vietnam. The troops built railroads, roads and bridges, he said.

★ ★ ★

Whiting said Chinese gunners stationed in North Vietnam shot down U.S. planes, which "sprayed rockets and napalm over Chinese troops."

He said Hanoi's Mig's fled to the Chinese airfields. As U.S. bombing moved closer to China and occasional U.S. planes strayed over the border, China's response varied "from total passivity through political protest to shoot-downs."

Before the U.S. could decide on "hot pursuit" into China, both sides backed off, the monsoons in the winter of 1967 eased air attacks, and finally Pressing halt.

Political Turmoil Returning to Restless Dominican Republic

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — After a three-year outbreak of peace, political turmoil is coming back to this restless Caribbean republic.

The battle lines are being drawn for next year's presidential elections. Coffeeshops, bars, street corners and political centers are abuzz with speculation about candidates and military plots.

* * *

The focal point of preelection agitation is a pending decision by President Joaquin Balaguer on whether he'll seek reelection.

A consensus here is that his choice will decisively influence future political developments in this country, still quaking from the effects of the 1965 civil war.

SUSPICION

There's a nearly instinctive suspicion of "continuismo"—continuation in office—among many Dominicans fearful of a return of the despotic tyranny they suffered for 31 years. There are also many affluent and influential Dominicans who privately believe the country needs a dictator to push ahead.

"A historian like Dr. Balaguer should be aware," says opposition Sen. Jottin Cury," that attempts at reelection in the Dominican Republic have historically resulted in dictatorship or death."

* * *

Backed by substantial U.S. aid—some $100 million in three years—Balaguer has brought a measure of political stability and economic confidence to the country since he became president in mid-1966.

At short range, the economy looks promising. Private and public construction is booming. An impressive low-cost housing scheme has dramatically changed Santo Domingo's once shabby aspect. An upswing in foreign investment this year is expected to more than offset the nearly endemic trade deficit. Still, economic growth has lurched barely ahead of the 3.6 per cent annual birth rate.

IMAGE SURVIVES

Balaguer's performance as elected president has not fully erased the image of him as a long-time servant of Rafael Trujillo. He served the assassinated dictator as diplomat, minister and as the nominal president. This and the return to political eminence of other Trujillo collaborators in the present administration have nourished suspicion of the regime's ultimate designs even among those who voted Balaguer into the presidency.

The political opposition says the government's heavy outlay for prestige programs—six-lane boulevards, statuary, new government buildings—is a "vote-buying" scheme.

* * *

The president is sampling public opinion to decide what he'll do. Every weekend he takes off on rural junkets that have every earmark of a reelection campaign. The prevailing view is that Balaguer will opt for another term and that this may set the stage for another round of Dominican-style violence.

* * *

There are strong indications that Balaguer's candidacy would polarize most opposition forces, including substantial and well-armed antagonistic elements. The middle-roading National Civic Union has called for a "united front against reelection" and has received the support of the leftist Dominican Revolutionary party. The Social Christians have also pronounced themselves against a second Balaguer term, as has a dissident wing of the president's own Reformist party.

CERTAIN CANDIDATES

Whether or not Balaguer runs, three men are regarded as certain candidates:

Augusto Lora, the vice president who is known to be at odds with Balaguer and leads the maverick wing of the Reformist party; Hector Garcia-Godoy, ambassador to Washington who shaped the nation's postrevolution course as provisional president; and Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin, militant anti-Communist favorite of the country's far rightists.

* * *

Of these, Garcia-Godoy, a lawyer-diplomat, seems like the most formidable contender, with strong support among moderate rightists and leftists. An exponent of national conciliation, he brought the opposing factions in the 1965 civil war into a fragile but effective peace. Then, as a prelude to the national elections and despite pressures to the contrary from Balaguer and Juan Bosch, the main presidential candidates in 1966, he got the Organization of American States to pull the Inter-American peace force off Dominican soil. This won him wide acclaim among nationalistic Dominicans.

IN A HURRY — Princess Alexia, daughter of King Constantine and Queen Anne Maria of Greece, appears quite independent as she lugs a small suitcase at Rome's Fiumicino Airport. The little princess' brother, Prince Paul, can be seen in the background as the two accompanied the royal family on a trip to Copenhagen.

Ex-President Bosch, titular leader of the Revolutionary party, now lives in Spain. He has so persistently proclaimed his disbelief in Western-style democracy and elections that he seems to be out of the presidential picture next year.

Prospects are that his party, once the country's largest, will boycott the elections. Dismembered by internal strife and virtually leaderless, the party claims political persecution and repression rule out the possibility of truly free elections. Armed forces leaders have said privately they are pledged—since the 1965 revolt—to keep the Bosch party out of power. It engineered the revolution from abroad in retaliation for the army's overthrow of Bosch in 1963.

* * *

Four years after the civil war ended, a vengeful death-feud continues between members of the rebellion's opposing sides. Civilians and police have been slain mysteriously. The Bosch party claims scores of its rank and file have disappeared.

Members of the Roman Catholic clergy have charged violation of human rights by the government. Balaguer has spoken of "uncontrollable forces" at work, without identifying them.

REAL BOSSES

Rightly or wrongly, many Dominicans have interpreted this as an allusion to the armed forces, unquestionably the real bosses.

The military establishment is viewed by most Dominicans as a supranational entity that ultimately decides who'll govern the country.

"It's a wonder anyone wants to be president," says a playwright. "Our elections are really popularity contests supervised by troops to decide what emissary the people will send to the armed forces."

Spider Venom May Help Prevent Rejection in Transplants

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Venom from a shy little spider—more toxic than that of the deadly King Cobra — may provide a key to preventing rejection of transplanted organs by the human body.

Dr. Paul N. Morgan, a research microbiologist at the Little Rock Veterans' Administration Hospital, has discovered that the Ootent venom of the common Brown Recluse spider inactivates a vital link in the chain of the body's rejection mechanism.

* * *

If the specific component of the venom that stops rejection can be isolated and chemically reproduced, Morgan believes, the biggest roadblock facing transplant surgeons could be wiped away.

* * *

Morgan's research may have opened other doors for medicine as well. The tiny drop of crystal-clear venom from the fangs of the Brown Recluse could lead to breakthroughs in treatment of cancer and hemophelia, he believes.

2 KEY SUBSTANCES

Scientists agree that rejection of foreign tissues by a body depends on two biological substances—antibodies and "complement." In combating pneumonia, for example, the body produces antibodies matched to the microorganism — called an antigen—causing the infection.

* * *

But antibodies must have complement to be totally effective against antigens. And this is where Morgan's research comes in.

* * *

When an organ is transplanted into a body, the body "assumes" the foreign tissue will be harmful and antibodies are produced. These antibodies eventually cause rejection of the organ.

Up to now, all efforts to stop rejection have aimed at suppressing antibody production. But this leaves the body with no natural defense against infection from the real antigens—bacteria, viruses and other organisms.

PRODUCTION REDUCED

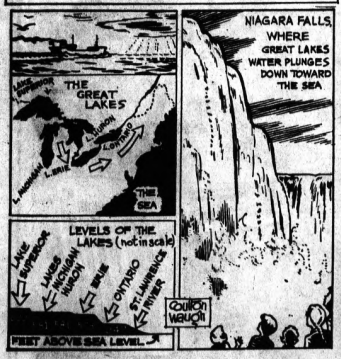
When the world's first heart transplant recipient, Louis Washansky, 53, died Dec. 21, 1967, 18 days after he received his heart, for instance. He did not die because the heart was rejected. His ability to produce antibodies was so reduced by drugs he could not fight off double pneumonia.

* * *

Brown Recluse spider venom does not interfere with the production of antibodies, but it inactivates component No. 5—called Beta 1 F — of the complement chain. This breaks the sequence of events necessary for complete rejection, yet still allows relatively normal bodily action against disease.

Morgan's research is now directed toward isolating and identifying chemically the component of the venom which inactivates Beta 1F. The ultimate goal would be to produce the material synthetically, since the amount of venom produced by a single spider is minute.

Junior Editors Quiz on NIAGARA FALLS



QUESTION: Why does the water at Niagara Falls run downstream?

* * *

ANSWER: Water always seeks the lowest point it can flow to. This is because the attraction of gravitation is always pulling it down toward the center of the earth.

Niagara Falls is situated on the Niagara River, which connects Lake Erie with Lake Ontario. It is water from all the Great Lakes except Lake Ontario which is thundering over Niagara Falls.

To understand why it runs the way it does, you must understand the relation between the Great Lakes, Niagara Falls, and the sea. This is clearly shown in our diagrams (left, above).

On top is a Great Lakes steamer, which gives some idea of how big the lakes are. In the middle we look down on them. Lake Superior, to the left, is the highest, so the water must spill down into the others. It goes down from lake to lake.

After spilling into Lake Erie, it races down the Niagara River, spills over Niagara Falls and into Lake Ontario. From here it spills down into the St. Lawrence River and finally, going down in a northeasterly direction, spills from the river into the sea. The cross-section view will tell the story even more clearly.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Current, Tar Pit

Peru Rift Analyzed

AP Newsfeatures

An ocean current and an old tar pit are factors in the burgeoning dispute between the United States and Peru.

The current is the Humboldt that sweeps north along the west coast of South America, carrying with it rich nutriment on which minute sea life flourishes.

* * *

This in turn spawns tremendous schools of fish that have given Peruvians the opportunity of becoming the world's leading fishing nation — far ahead of Japan and Russia.

To monopolize the fishing in these seas, the Peruvians have laid claim to waters 200 miles off shore instead of the usual 12.

FISHING BOATS SEIZED

Entering that area recently several U.S. fishing craft from California have been seized and fined as much as $25,000. That accounts for one crisis in U.S.-Peruvian relationships.

The other can be traced to an old tar pit for which title was granted more than a century ago when nobody realized its seepage was the future black gold of commerce — crude oil.

* * *

Rights to this area were acquired eventually by a Standard Oil of New Jersey subsidiary.

When a revolutionary junta took over the government last fall, it not only confiscated the company's property, but billed it for $690 million for oil extracted "illegally."

DOESN'T CONTEST RIGHT

The United States doesn't contest Peru's right to confiscate the property but is upset over the Latin Country's failure to make a satisfactory settlement with the company.

A special presidential envoy is down there now negotiating the matter. Meantime anti-American sentiment rises and "Yankee Go Home" signs appear.

* * *

Peru, where the Incas once held sway, is bigger than Alaska, has almost as many people as Canada.

Its arid coastal plain now produces bumper crops under irrigation; its mountains streaked with copper ore reach upward nearly four miles.

The guano deposited by fish-eating birds on the sundrenched islands off its coast now is used locally for fertilizer instead of being transported in square riggers half way around the world, but Peru is still a tremendous exporter of natural resource products.

It has been found that fast-frozen meat is more tender than slow-frozen meat. Fast freezing is done with liquid nitrogen at an average temperature of minus 150 degrees Fahrenheit.

GIs' Visits Help Hamlet Forget VC

CHO BUNG, Vietnam (AP) — Just after dusk every evening a rubber-sandaled militiaman climbs the bullet-scarred brick tower guarding this Mekong Delta hamlet. He fires two shots that resound over the paddies and along the narrow Tam Hiep River. They signal the resumption of the nightly state of siege that Cho Bung has endured through years of war.

From the moment the two shots ring from the 20-foot tower, the surrounding countryside of paddies, nipa patches and canals becomes enemy territory. Except for the military radio in the militia's mud fort, Cho Bung is cut off from the world.

★ ★ ★

The only outsiders working in the hamlet—five teachers—depart by motor scooter each afternoon. They travel 10 miles to the provincial capital of My Tho rather than stay overnight in Cho Bung.

The villagers accept stoically this state of affairs. Their own emotionally rooted attachment to the land keeps them in Cho Bung, which is a pleasantly thriving little market town by day.

SURPRISE VISITORS

One afternoon the residents were surprised by the arrival of a jeep, a truck and a dusty ambulance with half a dozen Americans aboard. Husky 1st Lt. Marc Mishkin, a 22-year-old artilleryman from the Bronx, N.Y., informed the province chief that he and his men would be staying the night.

Furthermore, he said, there would be medical treatment for anyone in need and a movie in the dusty marketplace. To top it off there would be a raffle with a fat hen as first prize and a dozen children's T-shirts, always popular in Vietnam, as consolation prizes.

★ ★ ★

In short, it would be a big night. The hamlet chief, slight, cheerful 33-year-old Lt. Huynh Van Tu, promptly extended the curfew.

The only troops here are Tu's 22 local militiamen manning the guard tower and the shoulder-high mud parapet at one end of the hamlet. A company of about 100 provincial militiamen holds another mud encampment along the Tam Hiep where it enters the town.

CLASSIFIED PACIFIED

This amount of security classifies the 2,500 residents of Cho Bung as pacified. The fear of the Vietcong, however, remains so pervasive that no one would run for a hamlet council last month when the government tried to hold local elections.

Indirectly, that was one of the reasons that brought Mishkin and his GIs to Cho Bung—to give the villagers more confidence and at least in some measure to take the night away from the Vietcong.

★ ★ ★

Such visits by small teams—called Medcaps—have long been carried out by U.S. forces in the daylight. The U.S. 9th Infantry Division, however, decided they would be doubly effective if the troops stayed all night, depending mainly on the Vietnamese militia forces for security.

"Every battalion in the division now does at least one 'nightcap' each week," reports the division civil affairs officer, Maj. Bernie Lueffke, an airborne soldier who often goes out with them. They have been frequently bothered by harassing fire, but none of the teams has yet lost a man.

LIKE VILLAGE FAIR

In Cho Bung, the operation went off like a village fair.

Two Army medics—Sgt. Jack Bierganns, 22, Kingston, N.Y., and Staff Sgt. Ralph Bolander, 25, Hayward, Calif. — were immediately surrounded by an unending swarm of kids with cuts, sores and the myriad skin diseases abounding in the delta.

"These people need help and somebody has to do it," said Bolander, who has spent three years in Vietnam.

Mostly they were dabbing antiseptic on open sores and admonishing worried mothers to keep treatments going. Aspirin was doled out briskly to the older folks. It was pretty rudimentary, but there were no complaints in Cho Bung.

By nightfall, perhaps 500 people, mostly kids but quite a few adults, were gathered for the movie. They saw one outright propaganda film attacking the Vietcong, a short Vietnamese comedy, and a travel film about Thailand. The travel film about Thailand is always popular, the Americans report, and they still can't figure out why.

After the movie the hamlet chief was brought in to officiate at the raffle. Numbers were printed on the leaflets outlining simple health rules. The hen was won by a 10-year-old boy whose mother promptly expropriated it.

By 10 it was all over and Cho Bung's residents went sleepily off to their homes.

★ ★ ★

The Americans rolled out their ponchos to sleep on the ground around the market place. Two South Vietnamese militiamen brought out guitars and began swapping songs with Spec. 4 Robert Breese, 20, Joliet, Ill., who had brought his guitar to help entertain the hamlet's kids earlier in the day. As one GI stretched out on his poncho and placed his head on his helmet, a little Vietnamese girl emerged from a nearby house and gave him a regular pillow of duck feathers.

MARKET FILLS

By 5 a.m. the market began to fill with old women bringing in vegetables, fruit and fish. The soldiers rolled their ponchos and sat at the little market stalls, drinking thick black coffee laced with the sweetened condensed cream the South Vietnamese love.

About an hour after sunlight, two more shots rang from the guard tower—the signal that patrols had swept the roads just outside the hamlet and found no signs of Vietcong mines.

★ ★ ★

The little American convoy jolted out, the GIs waving at the kids and South Vietnamese militiamen along the road. Apart from the medicines left behind and the cost of manpower and such things, the cash outlay for the night's work had been about $5—the price of the hen and T-shirts.

Ex-Soviet Chief to Mark 75th Birthday Tomorrow in Oblivion

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita S. Khrushchev, whose voice once commanded the councils of peace and war, marks his 75th birthday Thursday in oblivion and silence.

As in the past few years, a few old friends probably will call at his comfortable country home, and his children and grandchildren will gather for a family party. No public mention of the birthday is expected. Khrushchev's name has been missing from the Soviet press since he was toppled from the Soviet leadership in October 1964.

* * *

His volumes of speeches, once required reading for the party faithful, have been removed from libraries. The latest history texts published for the education of Communist party member gloss over his lively 11-year reign without mention of his name. Publicly Khrushchev is ignored as if he had never existed. He has become what Kremlinologists call an unperson-a once-prominent personality stripped of any public attention.

* * *

The obscurity is undoubtedly a strain for an extrovert who once clearly enjoyed the attentions and contact with people that came with his position of power.

'A PENSIONER'

Somewhat petulantly he said of his life recently, "I read, I take walks. What can I do? I am a pensioner."

By most standards his life is a comfortable one. The roomy dacha set aside for him and his wife, the grandmotherly Nina Petrovna, is staffed with servants. He has a chauffeured automobile, a black Volga sedan, the medium-grade Soviet car. This is a comedown from the limousines he once used but still far above anything the average Soviet citizen dreams of.

* * *

Extensive grounds surrounding his house 15 miles west of Moscow permit Khrushchev to indulge his gardening hobbies. It is part of a fenced-in compound of government dachas near the village of Petrovskoye Dalneye on the Moscow River. A guard at the gate bars unauthorized visitors.

* * *

No Westerners are authorized and, with Soviet authorities determined to forget him, authentic details of his lonely life in retirement are skimpy.

To help while away the time, Khrushchev apparently has taken up photography. Subjects include members of his family who often visit.

During his years of power Khrushchev appeared to enjoy family life and particularly the company of his youngest grandchildren, now teen-agers except for 8-year-old Ivan. They are the children of his daughter Rada and Alexei Adzhubei, once the important editor of the government newspaper Izvestia and now an editor of the magazine Soviet Union.

Altogether Khrushchev has three daughters and a son, and at last report, six grandchildren. Another son, Leonid, was killed in World War II. Leonid's orphaned daughter was brought up by her grandparents.

Khrushchev ritually appears on election days to vote in Moscow near the city apartment that he rarely, if ever, occupies. Foreign correspondents and curious Russians gather to watch him come and go, to assess his health and catch brief answers to their questions about his present life.

AT TRADE FAIR

Last summer he made an unheralded appearance at a trade fair in Moscow's Sokolniki Park. He pointedly stopped at a British stand and showed a lively interest in its gardening equipment.

This and his election day visit to Moscow on March 16 were the only two times in the past year that he was seen by Westerners. He appeared in good health, and his gait, while slowed over the years, was firm for a man of his age.

* * *

There are other visits to Moscow that go unnoticed. He periodically reports to a notables' clinic for routine medical check-ups. There, shielded from the crowds that make his public appearances awkward, he is reported to be his old buoyant self, cracking jokes and chatting with the hospital staff.

In one of his set public appearances, Khrushchev brushed off a suggestion that he might be writing his memoirs. "Who would publish them?" he asked.

POOR WORKER'S SON

The memoirs would tell the life of a poor mine worker's son from the village of Kalinovka, who, while still a boy, had to work in "a rich landowner's fields."

He was fond of saying that a hard life was his schooling. At age 24, one year after the Russian Revolution, he became a Communist and, armed with energy and native shrewdness, advanced through party ranks to become the country's top man.

* * *

He never achieved his boast of overtaking the United States in production, but his reign saw major Soviet economic advances. It included the flights of the first Sputniks and astronauts, and politically the bold exposure of Stalinist terror.

His extensive travels were highlighted by a crowd-drawing tour of the United States 10 years ago this fall.

BLUNT BOSSINESS

A blunt, know-it-all bossiness earned him enemies. With political skill he beat down one attempt to unseat him in 1957, but the end finally came in 1964. Charged with harebrained schemes, economic bungling, power hunger and a host of other faults, he was forced to resign and accept the oblivion to which the collective group of his opponents shunted him.

On his 70th birthday, the last he was to celebrate in office, the party newspaper Pravda devoted pages to honor the man and describe the tributes paid to him in massive Kremlin ceremonies.

* * *

Leonid I. Brezhnev, then Soviet president and now his successor as head of the Soviet Communist party, presented the country's highest award, the Order of Lenin and Gold Star Medal, with these words:

"I cannot conceal my joy and emotion on presenting you...this deserved honor...This makes us happy and proud of you, dear Nikita Sergeyevich."

* * *

Khrushchev's responding speech included the nearly prophetic statement: "For certain political leaders death sometimes comes on before physical death. Therefore, the prolonging of life for a political leader means working together with the collective for the good of the people, for the good of the party."

Khrushchev's work lasted only six more months. There were no more birthday's like that one.

Illegal Bazaar Thriving in Soviet Georgia City

MOSCOW (UPI) — Private enterprise is dead in this Communist country. Yet there are markets where practically everything is available — from Japanese bikinis and dacron fabrics to false teeth made in the U.S.A. and Christian Dior perfumes.

* * *

The easy way for a Russian to buy something he cannot find in Moscow is to take a train to Tbilisi, in Soviet Georgia. There, near a mosque on Leselidze Street, flourishes an underground oriental bazaar.

* * *

But Georgian traders, who would be toasted and hailed as imaginative businessmen in New York or Chicago, are regarded here as speculators and called "the ulcer" on the social fabric of their nation.

* * *

According to the newspaper Zarya Vostoka (Dawn of the East), the Tbilisi market features "all sorts of rare goods, both domestic and foreign."

HORNETS' NEST

"There is no sense in hiding the fact that wide circles of our public know about this hornet's nest," the paper said, emphasizing that two blocks away from the bazaar are located the headquarters of regional and local police as well as the office of voluntary militia.

"There is no doubt that in the archives of all these offices you could find files on these dealers," said Zarya Vostoka. "The paradox is that these dealers, who are among most cautious people in the world, are now getting braver by the hour."

* * *

The large-scale private enterprise is not limited to Tbilisi. Georgians display their business sense in Moscow and other cities.

* * *

One popular belief here holds that Georgians come to Moscow, buy oranges on the market here, then set up their own stands and sell them at triple price as "Georgian oranges."

* * *

Western motorists who traveled through Georgia, a Soviet republic north of the Caucasus, reported that local residents sometimes offer to buy foreign-made automobiles for huge sums of money — and offer ready cash.

A chemical being tested in the treatment of virus infection has indicated promising anticancer activity. The substance is interferon, which is produced in the body.

PIN-WORMS

A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 8 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First — a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredients goes right to work — kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... small, easy-to-take tablets... special dose for children and adults.

$1,000 Reward Offered by Consumers Power

A reward has been offered by Consumers Power Co. after some 120 of its customers just north of Pontiac lost gas service for five hours yesterday.

The utility firm offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to conviction of anyone damaging its facilities or interrupting service to customers, a spokesman said yesterday.

* * *

Members of the Utility workers Union have been striking the utility for over a week, in demand for a greater money package in a new contract.

About 500 customers could have been affected when someone broke a lock on a buried gas pressure regulator pit at Joslyn and Waldon roads in Orion Township and turned off a value, a company spokesman said.

RESERVE POWER

But reserve power from another main prevented this, he said.

Gas to an area just north of the city near Joslyn in Pontiac Township was cut off just before 10 a.m. Most of it was restored by 3 pm.

* * *

In other strike-related incidents, vandals shot a BB pellet through a 9-by-11-foot window at Consumers main office at 28 W. Lawrence early yesterday, causing $150 damage.

Three vehicles had their tires punctured with ice picks as they attempted to leave the Karn Weadock generating complex at Essexville.

Vandals Break 49 Windows

Waterford Township police today are investigating the breaking of 49 windows by vandals using BB pellets during the night at Waterford Township High School.

Police said the broken windows were all on the east side of the school, with a greater part of the damage to windows in an assistant principal's office. They said there was no other indication of damage.

Damage was estimated at $500 by a school official.

Can't Be 'Typed' With Other Hollywood Children

Star's Son Scores in TV Drama--Now He's in Film

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Add Michael Douglas to the ever-growing list of movie stars' children who are making it in films. But don't try to classify him with the others.

"I didn't grow up in Beverly Hills, thank God," says the 24-year-old son of Kirk Douglas. "I could think of nothing worse than growing up in the richest city in the richest state in the richest country in the world. How could you possibly preserve any sense of reality?"

THOMAS

Michael Douglas is indeed a free-thinking lad. He speaks with disarming frankness about flunking out of college, about dabbling in narcotics, etc. He is his own man, as Hollywood is discovering.

* * *

He also is an instant star, thanks to the recent CBS Playhouse drama, "The Experiment." He drew good notices from the telecast, as he did in a recent off-Broadway play, "City Scenes." Now he is starring with Arthur Kennedy and Teresa Wright in his first film, "Hail, Hero," which concerns father-son differences overlong hair, Vietnam and other elements of the generation gap.

PAST HIPPIE STAGE

Mike himself wears his brown hair in the fashionable long style, though he appears to have passed through the hippie stage. That ahppened in his university days.

"I had been attending a prep school in the East, and the natural progression would have been for me to go on to Yale," he related. "But I was ready for a change, as big a change as possible.

* * *

I heard about the University of California at Santa Barbara, which had four girls for every man, a beautiful campus on the ocean, surfing, and all that. That was for me."

Mike went the whole route: guru, pot, LSD. His experience with narcotics proved worthwhile, he believes, "because it taught me about rhythm in living. You know how some days you feel dull and listless and other days you feel alive? Everyone has certain rhythms and using narcotics helped me realize this.". He says he is no longer a user "because narcotics dulls the senses and you need the sharp edges for acting.

FLUNKED OUT

He was so involved with making the scene that he failed to make his grades. Mike flunked out, visited his father on European locations where he worked as assistant director, then went back to school at Santa Barbara.

* * *

This time it was different. He casually joined the university drama group. "I never had the slightest idea of being an actor before; I guess I automatically rebelled at the notion." He found he liked acting, later performed a couple of summers at a Waterford, Conn., theater. His career leaped forward with the CBS Playhouse stint.

* * *

"I always took the subway to work at the off-Broadway theater," he said. "The day after the show appeared on television, people stared at me in the subway. At the theater I could detect a buzz in the audience as people said, 'You know who that is? That's Kirk Douglas' son.' That doesn't bother me. Not at all. I got no hang-ups about being a famous man's son."

He is the son of Douglas and his first wife, actress Diana Dill, now married to writer Bill Darrid. Mike's parents were divorced when he was 6, and he has lived most of his life in the East; he still considers New York his home. With narrow face and thin nose, he seems to resemble his mother more than Kirk.

* * *

Mike's admiration for his father is obvious. Asked if he seeks Kirk's advice, Mike replied, "Not on career matters. But I do like to discuss film acting with him. After all, who knows more about it than he does?"

MANPOWER—Guests at the David Weinberg home, 10275 Davisburg, Springfield Township, took turns keeping the whole lamb on a spit going round and round. Six hours over an open fire preceded a typical Greek Easter feast.

LADEN TABLE—Greek potato salad with black olives and straw covered bottles of Greek wine make a background for the other goodies. From the left are orange cake, a plate of Greek pastries and the traditional red dyed Easter eggs and Greek Easter bread. More red eggs are baked in among the folds of the bread. The braids are arranged to form a cross and sprinkled with sesame seed.

Lamb Is Big Feature of Meal

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, The Pontiac Press

Sunday ushered in the outdoor eating season for us. On an unbelievably warm day in mid April, we participated in a feast celebrating Easter in the Greek Orthodox calendar.

David Weinberg, an instructor at Oakland University, and his Greek-born wife, Effie, were hosts to several dozen of their Greek friends. A number of the guests were either students or faculty members of Wayne State University.

★ ★ ★

When we arrived at their home on Davisburg Road, the traditional Easter lamb was almost done. For nearly six hours, a 50-pound lamb had been cooking outside over charcoal. Firmly wired to a long pine pole, it was turned constantly by hand. On a smaller spit nearby, special kebabs of lamb heart and liver, wrapped in bacon, were browning.

These kebabs, cut into bite-sized pieces, were the appetizer, accompanied by good red wine imported from Greece.

Inside and outside of the lamb had been brushed with a mixture of lemon juice, salad oil, minced garlic and oregano. A cluster of dried oregano branches became the brush for the sauce which was applied frequently to the turning meat.

Mrs. Weinberg explained some of the other foods she had ready. There was a small bowl of Margeritsa soup. After midnight mass, everyone comes home and eats soup. Flavored with dill and parsley, it has small pieces of lamb organ meats in it.

★ ★ ★

Easter in Greece, our host told us, is a bigger holiday than Christmas. It is tied in with the history of the nation. Four hundred years ago, the Turks gave the Greeks permission to celebrate their Easter so that the day takes on the air of a freedom festival.

Main dishes served with the lamb were potato salad with Greek olives, and spinach pie. This latter is made with the same phyllo or dough used in the fabulous Greek pastry, baklava.

Before we filled our plates from the picnic table, we had to participate in egg breaking. Mrs. Weinberg had colored a basket of eggs bright red. Each had a leaf print on it, made by binding a real leaf on the shell with part of a nylon stocking. My egg was broken immediately.

More of these red eggs nestled in the braids of the Greek Easter bread. Delicately flavored with cinnamon, it has a fine texture and a tasty crust sprinkled with sesame seeds.

In addition to a couple of cakes and some Greek pastries, there was Galopita or milk pie. In Greece, this is made with goat's milk. Here is an Americanized version of the recipe.

GALOPITA
(Milk Pie)

10 eggs
1 quart milk
¾ Cup butter
1½ cups sugar
Dash of salt
½ Cup farina or cream of wheat

Bring milk, 1 cup of the sugar and salt to a boil. Slowly add farina or cream of wheat and cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened, about 5 to 7 minutes. Add butter and set aside to cool.

Beat egg yolks with rest of sugar until thick and creamy. Beat egg whites until peaks form. Fold two mixtures together and fold in cooled farina mixture.

Pour into greased 9x13 pan. Bake ½ Hour at 375 degrees. When cool, sprinkle with powdered sugar and cinnamon. Top will fall slightly as pie cools. Cut in squares to serve. Makes 15-20 pieces.

Oats Crust Is Nutritious

Help balance diets, provide B-vitamins for good health and starches for energy, and give a feeling of fullness. These are the contributions of whole grain and enriched foods in the bread and cereal group.

Nutritionists from the U.S. Department of Agriculture recommend that everyone have four or more servings of these foods each day. One serving equals 1 slice bread, 1 biscuit, 1 ounce ready-to-eat cereal or ½ to ½ cup cooked cereal, cornmeal, grits, macaroni, rice or spaghetti.

Products vary in cost as to processing steps used to reach the final product. For example, instant oatmeal costs more than old-fashioned oatmeal.

★ ★ ★

Here's a recipe from USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service featuring rolled oats.

BAKED OATMEAL PIE CRUST

Combine ½ cup flour, 3 tablespoons sugar and ½ teaspoon salt in bowl. Mix in ½ cup fat with a fork until mixture is like cornmeal or tiny peas. Stir in ½ cup rolled oats.

Sprinkle about 3 tablespoons cold water over mixture and stir with fork until dough sticks together, but is not wet. Shape into a ball. Spread a little flour on a flat surface and on a rolling pin.

★ ★ ★

Roll out dough to fit 8-inch pie pan. With a fork, punch holes into bottom and sides of dough. Bake at 425 degrees 10-12 minutes or until light tan. Cool. Use for any pie that calls for a baked crust.

POLLY PICKS FRESH GREENS — Polly Bergen prepares salad. Go and do likewise: Core and rinse a large head of western iceberg lettuce; drain thoroughly. Chill. For dressing, combine 1 cup real mayonnaise; 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped; ¼ cup each chopped dill pickle and ripe olives; 1 tablespoon lemon juice; ½ teaspoon prepared mustard; ¼ teaspoon salt and dash of seasoned pepper. Mix well. Cut lettuce into 8 wedges and arrange on platter with bowl of dressing in the center. Makes 8 servings.

Cheese and Pears Frozen for Salad

For a delicious salad treat, to try a new twist to the popular frozen salad varieties.

Mix a 3 oz. package of cream cheese with ½ to ¾ cup unsweetened pineapple juice. Add 3 tablespoons French dressing. When creamy, add 2 tablespoons each of chopped nuts and chopped maraschino cherries.

Sprinkle thinly cut slices of fresh winter pears with lemon juice and arrange in a refrigerator tray. Pour the cheese mixture on top. Freeze 5 hours, or until firm. Cut into squares, serve on crisp western iceberg lettuce.

Just a Kid

The Golden Delicious apple is the poduct of a "chance seedling" just recorded in 1890. A relatively new apple variety, it is rated as one of the better eating and cooking apples. The flavor, texture and qualify makes it one of the truly all-purpose apple varieties.

Asparagus Tops Chicken Liver Dish

What could be more gratifying than an inexpensive, gourmet luncheon or dinner main dish that's also low in calories?

Asparagus Delicious

1 pound chicken livers, sauteed
¾ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon onion, chopped fine
1½ cups* cooked asparagus cuts & tips, drained
½ cup grated cheddar cheese
1 teaspoon butter

Mix sauteed chicken livers with mayonnaise and onion. Arrange in shallow baking dish, top with asparagus. Sprinkle cheese over all and dot with butter. Place under broiler flame until cheese melts. Serves 4.

*Equivalent of one standard (No. 300) can, glass container or package of frozen.

Peach Sauce Foretells Delights of Summer

Oh, the joys of the perfect breakfast waffle! Crisp and golden brown . . . tender to the fork, delightfully light on the tongue.

With the time-saving packaged biscuit mixes on the market, you can make glorious waffles like this easy as toast. The interesting twist: A teaspoon of mace, along with real flavor makers like sour cream, milk, butter and eggs.

★ ★ ★

While your waffles are browning merrily away in the waffle baker, heat up the peach sauce you made ahead and have ready in the refrigerator. It has a flavor difference too . . . a subtle dash of almond extract.

PEACHY GOOD WAFFLES
Waffles:

2 cups packaged biscuit mix
1 teaspoon mace
1½ cups milk
½ cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 egg, slightly beaten

Peach Sauce:

1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) peach slices
2 cups peach syrup
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup (½ stick) butter
½ teaspoon almond extract

To prepare Waffles: In a mixing bowl combine biscuit mix and mace. Combine milk, sour cream, butter and egg; add to dry ingredients just until blended. Pour batter into center of a preheated waffle baker, spreading if necessary to cover surface. Bake until golden brown.

To prepare Sauce: Drain peaches reserving syrup (add water if necessary to make 2 cups.) In a 1½-quart saucepan gradually add peach syrup to cornstarch. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook 2 additional minutes.

Remove from heat; stir in butter until melted. Add peaches and almond extract; over low heat bring to serving temperature. (Makes approx. 3¾ cups.) Serve warm over waffles. Makes 3 waffles, 9-inches each.

Hot Chocolate Raspberry Drink

½ cup quick chocolate flavor mix
3 tablespoons seedless red raspberry preserves
4 cups milk

In 1½-quart saucepan combine chocolate mix and preserves; gradually stir in milk. Heat to serving temperature stirring occasionally. Makes approx. 4 cups.

PEACHY GOOD WAFFLES — Bring the flavor of summer fruit to brighten a spring morning. Serve waffles with a peach sauce. Add an unusual beverage made with chocolate mix and raspberry preserves.

Grind Almonds Fine in Blender

If you don't find almond paste where you shop, make it by grinding 1½ cups blanched whole almonds fine in electric blender. Mix with 1 egg white, 1 teaspoon almond extract, ¼ teaspoon salt and 1½ cups sifted powdered sugar; work to a stiff paste.

Refrigerate in airtight container. 1½ cups.

Foreign Press Focuses on U.S. Navy Officers, Military Critics

LONDON (AP) — "Young American Navy officers love their wives more than their country. They are devoted husbands before they are patriots."

That opinion by an editorial writer for the Japanese newspaper Mainichi appeared after the U.S. House of Representatives passed a bill allowing special bonuses for submarine officers.

★ ★ ★

Other views about America from abroad this week concerned criticism of the military services and the Nixon administration's economic policy.

The Mainichi writer said: "America's proud nuclear power had an unexpected crack. The young Navy officers complain their voyage on the nuclear-powered submarines is far longer than that of conventional ships. This caused problems in their family life, they say."

APPEAL 'INEFFECTIVE'

In addition to the bonus, extra leave and more recreation facilities at port, the Mainichi writer said the Navy was "appealing to the patriotism of officers but it appears not so effective so far. The Navy authorities' worry that this will stop the nuclear-powered submarines is a question."

The London Daily Mail's Washington correspondent wrote: "The United States military machine is under increasing attack from powerful politicians. A mood of self-revulsion is sweeping America. There is a rapidly swelling wave of public distaste for the country's emergence as a supermilitary nation.

"Politicians once favorable to military leaders and advisers are now beginning to oppose what they see as a frightening and snowballing machine."

The Japanese financial newspaper Nihon Keizai said the Nixon administration was attacking the roots of the country's economic problems rather than just trying to cope with day-to-day problems.

"The basic view . . . is that the United States should ask other countries for cooperation only after it has straightened out its posture by halting inflation at home first of all," the paper said.

It also applauded steps it said Nixon had taken to ease restrictions on overseas investments and loans, saying: "Such action can be held in high esteem because it signifies that the United States has taken the lead in switching to the course toward liberalization in order to prevent the world economy from stagnating."

Cars Outcolor the Rainbow

Yellow-Gold, Greens to Be '69 Favorites

DETROIT (UPI) — There was a time when the full spectrum of colors for painting automobiles was black. If you were lucky enough to have a car, it had to be a black car. But, today, the number of colors cars come in runs a gamut the rainbow itself cannot match.

This year, for example, American paint companies will provide nearly 40 million gallons of paint for about 8.5 million cars turned out by the domestic industry. This does not count additional millions of gallons for refinishing cars after an accident, and for the spray cans for do-it-yourself touch-up.

★ ★ ★

That's enough paint to provide a rainbow of color seven and a half feet wide stretching from here to the moon:

Black, which once had just about 10 per cent of the auto paint market, this year will have only 1 per cent. The most popular colors for 1969 cars will be in yellow-gold, yellow-green, lime and olive.

TOUCH-UPS DETECTIBLE

Not too many years ago, a refinishing job on a car fender was easily detectible. Black, the most stable of all the colors, chalked and changed subtly and it took a good body paint man to match the subtle change in hue after the car was a few months old. Reds were virtually impossible to match, and most needed a whole new paint job after a year in sun, wind and rain.

★ ★ ★

Today, the auto industry has switched to the latest development in paint finishes, the acrylics. These colors are so stable that paint makers can package each finish in an aerosol spray can. With proper care a car owner actually can touch up small spots on the car so that they are undetectible, even if the car is two years old.

★ ★ ★

The variety of shades is almost endless. Each car manufacturer develops shades for each color that are exclusive to that make. A Ford gold, for example, would not match the gold color on a Dodge Charger. A Chevrolet green would not match the green of a Mercury, even though the shade is very close.

In addition to the millions of gallons of paint for the general auto industry, some paint makers mix up batches of specialty colors for experimental purposes.

Brain Chemical Offers a Peek at Why We Sleep or Don't

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The mystery of why you sleep and why you stay awake is coming under increasing scientific analysis.

And an odd chemical in the brain seems to be involved, a Swiss scientist said Tuesday.

The substance is a naturally occurring brain chemical known as serotonin. It is chemically closely related to hormones, which stimulate cellular activity, said Dr. Werner P. Koella of Basle.

He finds, in cats, that if the normal level of serotonin is reduced or cut off, the animals stay awake for many hours or days.

But if they are given brain injections of infinitesimal amounts of serotonin, they fall asleep.

It appears that brain levels of serotonin play a role in determining whether you sleep or stay awake, Dr. Koella said. He emphasized that he was not saying serotonin is the only chemical involved.

★ ★ ★

There is still a question whether serotonin's presence or absence is a cause or an effect of sleep.

Dr. Koella spoke at a session of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, where 3,200 scientists are presenting reports this week at the largest scientific meeting of the year.

People have always wondered why sleep comes or doesn't, says Dr. Alan B. Rothballer, professor of neurosurgery at New York Medical College, in another paper read at the meeting.

The puzzle became an area of special research after reports of brainwashing of prisoners in Korea and the effects of being deprived of sleep, which some authorities think is the main reason why brainwashing works.

Some sleep chemical may circulate in the spinal fluid bathing the brain, Dr. Rothballer said. He cited research by Dr. John Pappenheimer of Harvard University indicating that some chemical in the spinal fluid of animals forced to stay awake for long periods could induce quick sleep when given to animals who were refreshed and awake.

Governor Due at OU Parley

The seventh anual Governor's Conference on Student Leadership April 23 will feature William G. Milliken in his first appearance at Oakland University since becoming governor.

A statewide group of more than 500 high school students will attend.

MILLIKEN

They will break into 21 small groups and meet with experts in leadership philosophy and techniques. They will be able to discuss their leadership problems with both the professionals and their contemporaries from across the state.

The group of leadership counselors represent directors and consultants from academic, civic and industrial organizations.

High school students interested in attending the day-long Governor's Conference may obtain reservations and information from Oakland University's Conference Department.

Steelmakers' '69 Forecasts Turn Cautious

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A note of caution has crept into steelmakers' forecasts of their industry's activity for the last six months of 1969, Steel Magazine has reported.

Despite continued high steelmaking schedules and assurances of rising mill shipments through the second quarter, steelmen are beginning to wonder whether much of the first six months' surprising heavy steel orders will have been at the expense of demand in the last half.

★ ★ ★

The magazine cited three factors as likely to have an adverse effect in the last half: resumption of heavy imports with dock strikes ended, limited replenishment of consumers' inventories of domestic steel and possible earlier seasonal curtailment of auto production for model changeovers with new car inventories still rising.

Imports, estimated at 1.6 million net tons in the first three months, were down 1.7 million tons from the intake in the same 1968 period, Steel said. The decline was attributed to the dockworkers' strike.

LIQUIDATED SMOOTHLY

Manufacturing consumers' large 1968 strike-hedge stocks were liquidated smoothly, according to Steel.

At the beginning of March they stood at 9.9 million net tons, the smallest since January 1968.

★ ★ ★

Resumption of large — scale imports could mean consumer replenishment of inventories at the domestic mill level will be less vigorous in the last half.

Steel said automotive orders for finished steel were substantial throughout the first quarter despite minor cutbacks in car assembly schedules.

Currently, car makers are ordering supplemental steel tonnage for May delivery, and, unless labor trouble intervenes, second-quarter car assemblies could equal the 2,317,902 units produced in the first three months of the year.

David Ben-Gurion Now 82

Ex-Israeli Chief to Star in Film

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — David Ben-Gurion, former prime minister of Israel, is about to become a film star at the age of 82.

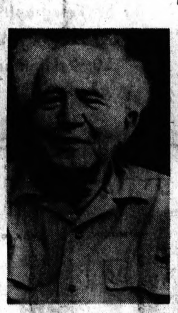
The movie is the first project of the Israeli Communications Center. It will be a full-length film combining both feature and documentary techniques.

The film is called "XLII, VI," Chapter 42, Verse 6, from the book of Isaiah which Ben-Guiron quotes in the film: "I, The Lord, will make thee a covenant of the people, a light to the nations."

Producer Mel Mark has just finished filming an interview lasting six hours with the "Father of Israel," in which Ben-Gurion relates his earliest recollections of his first landing in what was then Palestine, in 1906.

REPLICA OF STUDY

For the actual interview, the film's technical crew created an exact replica of Ben-Gurion's study at his rural home at Sde Boker, in the nearby library of the Negev College.



DAVID BEN-GURION

One of Ben-Gurion's early memories was of pioneer farmers working in the fields around the Sea of Galilee and Bedouin Arab horsemen approaching them and shouting: "Who are you?" to which the reply was "We are Jews."

The astonished Bedouin's had never seen Jews before.

★ ★ ★

The director of the film is David Perlov, a 38-year-old Brazilian immigrant. He has made films in Israel and France and also has directed a documentary about Jerusalem.

NOTED MEMBER

Other members of the production team include Erwin Hiller, an eight-time Academy Award nominee for such films as "The Quiller Memorandum" and "The Naked Edge."

Total investment in the film is estimated to be about $510,000, a large portion of which was advanced by an Iranian-Jewish industrialist.

★ ★ ★

Among the most spectacular scenes of the film is a recreation of the monthlong siege of Jerusalem by Arabs during the 1948 War of Independence.

The world premiere of the film will be some time next summer at Sde Boker in the presence of a number of celebrities and political leaders.

Ballots Found, Hint at '66 Vote Fraud

CLINTWOOD, Va. (AP) — Here in mountainous Dickenson County, where charges of vote fraud blossom like campaign posters before every election, electrician Eugene Mullins has discovered 57 marked ballots from the 1966 Democratic primary.

They were scattered under the front steps of the Dickenson County courthouse, where Mullins was working on some wiring.

★ ★ ★

Where the ballots came from and whether they ever were counted, no one seems to know. But for the record, Sen. William B. Spong Jr. polled 49 of them to 8 for the incumbent, A. Willis Robertson, and former state Sen. Armistead L. Boothe got 52 to 5 for Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr.

State Board of Elections figures show Spong carried the county by 66 votes and the state by a razor-slim 611. Boothe carried the county by 22 votes, but lost the state by 8,225.

CALLED PROSECUTOR

Mullins was interested in the ballots but didn't really know what to do with them, he said, and took them home. Two weeks ago he thought better of it and called the county prosecutor, L. Victor McFall.

McFall, mindful perhaps that nine Dickenson County residents have been indicted for ballot irregularities in the 1967 general election, said he turned over the ballots to C. W. Bralley, a State Police investigator who probed the other ballot fraud charges.

★ ★ ★

Bralley says he gave the ballots to Ted Bailey, county clerk of court. Bailey says he doesn't have them and refers questioners to McFall.

McFall is a Democrat and Bailey a Republican. Bralley tries hard to stay neutral.

Wherever the ballots are now, their presence confounds state law. Under Virginia's election statutes, a judicial order is handed down one year after each election, directing destruction of all ballots. Presumably these particular ballots would still be in line for destruction under the 1967 directive, but no one here seems to know.

If they don't have to be destroyed, they might be preserved as a memento of a historic election, one most political scientists agree marked the end of the 40-year domination of the state Democratic party by the conservative organization headed by the late Sen. Harry F. Byrd.

★ ★ ★

They also might serve as a monument to the ability to crusty old-line politicians to deliver their southwest Virginia precincts by any method. Such men are part of the heritage of southwest Virginia.

WASTES NO TIME IN PINCH — Making his first appearance at the plate in the majors this season, "Cap" Peterson swings at the initial offering from Detroit's Pat Dobson and drives a single into right field, setting up the winning run in Cleveland 3-2 ten-inning triumph yesterday over Detroit. The Tigers' catcher is Bill Freehan. Peterson was called up from Portland of the Pacific Coast League Monday by the Indians after they sold Jimmie Hall. His pinch hit moved Max Alvis to third base from where he scored on Jose Cardenal's fly ball.

Indians Gain Initial Win

Umpire Prevails in Tiger Loss

CLEVELAND (AP) — Umpire Emmett Ashford is maintaining a record-breaking pace as the young American League season unfolds.

Tuesday he clashed with Detroit first baseman Norm Cash, normally an easy going guy. As usual Ashford won, kinda.

In the first week of the season the 51-year-old umpire has been involved in more than a half-dozen rhubarbs and has come out the winner in most— if not all of them.

Cash objected to a called third strike in Tuesday's 3-2 loss to Cleveland and was ejected from the game in the eighth inning. But Cash remained in the dugout after being ejected only because Ashford couldn't see him.

"I thought he had left," said Ashford, an American League umpire since 1965 "I warned him once when he hollered out from the dugout. He did it again and that's when I put him out of the game."

BITTER COMPLAINT

Cash called Ashford a butcher.

Cash wasn't the only one beefing. Cleveland's Zoilo Versalles complained bitterly in the seventh when called out on strikes with the bases loaded.

Cleveland Manager Alvin Dark came out to talk with Ashford, but lost.

* * *

In the early innings the Tigers held one-run leads on two occasions. Willie Horton hit his second homer of the season in the second to forge a 1-0 lead. But the Indians tied the score in the same inning on Jose Azcue's first home run of the year.

A walk, stolen base and Mickey Stanley's single added the Bengals' second run.

The Tigers lost the 2-1 lead in the seventh when Cardenal singled, moved to second on a walk, stole third and scored on Tony Horton's infield out.

It was Jose Cardenal's sacrifice fly in the 10th inning which allowed Max Alvis to score giving the Indians the victory, their first after five losses.

With the score tied 2-2 Alvis singled and reached third on another single—this by Cap Peterson who liked the first pitch from reliever Pat Dobson.

"He threw me a breaking pitch," said Peterson. "I'm not strong enough to pull breaking balls so I went to right field with it."

The Tigers meet Cleveland again tonight with Denny McLain taking a 1-1 record to the mound for Detroit.

Martin, Reliefer 'Silence' Rally in Twins' Triumph

By the Associated Press

Minnesota Manager Billy Martin went out of his way not to talk to Ron Perranoski and the ace reliever responded with a silent treatment of his own.

The Twins managed to hang on to a 5-4 victory over Oakland Tuesday but not before the A's rallied for two ninth-inning runs and had runners at first and second with two men out.

* * *

Perranoski was summoned in from the bullpen and the count on Ted Kubiak reached 3-1 when Martin, angered by plate umpire Jerry Neudecker's calls, raced to the mound as if to talk to his pitcher.

"I wanted to go out and talk to the umpire," said Martin. "I figured if I pretended to talk to Perranoski I wouldn't get thrown out of the game."

"Neudecker said 'Are you taking him (Perranoski) out?' and I said no. He told me to leave. So I asked him how his family was and left," Martin said.

SECOND STRAIGHT

Kubiak then walked to load the bases but Perranoski got Campy Campaneris to hit a game-ending forceout grounder and the Twins had their second straight victory after four losses.

In other American League games, New York slammed Washington 8-2 and Baltimore dropped Boston 10-5. Chicago, Kansas City, Seattle and California were not scheduled.

* * *

Minnesota got homers from Rich Reese, Harmon Killebrew and Tony Oliva but a ninth-inning run-scoring single by Oliva proved the winner. Killebrew's blast was the 399th of his career.

Bobby Murcer cracked a single, double and home run, driving in four runs as the Yankees overpowered Washington in New York's home opener before a crowd of 13,889.

AHEAD TO STAY

Rookie centerfielder Jerry Kenney put the Yanks ahead to stay 3-2 with a run-scoring single in the sixth and then clinched the victory with a five-run seventh as Joe Pepitone slammed a two-run clout.

Don Buford's third straight single broke a 5-5 tie and Frank Robinson followed with a three-run homer as the Orioles exploded for five runs in the eighth inning.

* * *

Buford's two other singles knocked in runs and Robinson, who has hit in all eight Oriole games, added a triple and double in addition to his fourth circuit clout. Mike Andrews had a four-bagger for the Red Sox.

MSU Grid Fans Pay to See Spring Game

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State football fans will be asked to pay $1 to see the spring intrasquad football game and help some needy grade school youngster or MSU student.

Any money collected at the game May 17 at Spartan Stadium will be used to support a summer tutoring program for Lansing elementary school children and to provide aid for MSU students who otherwise might not be able to remain in college.

Goalie Plante Equals Record With Shutout

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jacques Plante, one of hockey's elder statesmen, has a keen memory about goals and goalies, shutouts and near misses.

It was those memories that set Plante thinking nervously during the last five minutes of the St. Louis Blues' 4-0 victory over the Los Angeles Kings Tuesday night.

* * *

The victory gave the Blues a 1-0 lead in the best-of-7 National Hockey League West Division finals. The teams play again Thursday night in St. Louis.

The winner of the series plays the winner of the Montreal-Boston East Division finals. Montreal leads the best-of-7 series 2-0 with the third game in Boston Thursday night.

CAREER RECORD

Plante was thinking about famed goalie Turk Broda's career record of 13 shutouts in the playoffs. The 40-year-old Plante never expected to tie that record, but he did Tuesday night.

"I never thought I'd have one shutout in this league," Plante said. "Never mind 13 in the playoffs, especially after being out of the league three years."

* * *

Plante had gone into retirement after playing with Montreal and New York, but came out this year to join the Blues. He and another oldster, 37-year-old Glenn Hall, forged the best goal-tending average in the league this year.

So there Plante was, two shutouts already to his credit in the semifinals series against Philadelphia, and a third record-tying one staring him in the face.

"I started to think about it with about five minutes to go," Plante said. "I got a little more nervous.

FINAL MINUTES

"I remember I lost four shutouts this year with less than four minutes to go, a couple with seconds to go."

Plante also recalled he had worked three shutouts in the 1960-61 playoffs when Montreal won in eight games.

Red Berenson was thinking along more immediate lines. He, too, had tied a record by scoring a three-goal hat trick in the second period. He became only the fourth man to bunch three goals into one period in a playoff game.

* * *

The middle goal was on an unassisted power play.

Kings' Coach Red Kelly only complained, "We weren't moving, weren't skating. You can't do anything standing still."

Broncos Sign Griffin, Draftee From Auburn

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Broncos of the American Football League said Tuesday they have signed their seventh-round draft choice, Al Griffin of Auburn University.

* * *

Griffin, 6-foot-3 and 229 pounds, will be given a trial at tight end with the Broncos. Denver now has signed eight of its 17 draft choices.

Slugging Tempos on Key for Reds, LA

By the Associated Press

Alex Johnson tapped out a fast tempo and Andy Kosco picked up the beat. For San Francisco and San Diego, it was the Birth of the Blues.

Johnson drove in five runs with two homers and a ground out, then tripled in the 12th inning and scored on Johnny Bench's single, sending the Cincinnati Reds past San Francisco 11-10 Tuesday night in a wild slugfest.

* * *

"Natural rhythm," the Reds' outfielder replied when asked to account for his rampage. "The ball is jumping off a little better."

Kosco, meanwhile, drummed out a grand slam homer and two-run double as the Los Angeles Dodgers ruined Johnny Podres' homecoming and crushed the San Diego Padres 14-0 behind the three-hit pitching of Claude Osteen.

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Mets trimmed Philadelphia 6-3, snapping a four-game losing string, Houston topped Atlanta 4-2 behind rookie right-hander Tom Griffin, St. Louis edged Montreal 4-3 and Chicago beat Pittsburgh 7-4.

THREE RALLIES

The Reds came from behind three times to deadlock San Francisco before winning in the 12th. After Johnson led off with a triple into the right field corner off Gaylord Perry, the Giants reliever filled the bases on two intentional walks.

Bench, who had fanned with two on and two out in the 10th, promptly broke up the game with the Reds' 20th hit.

* * *

Kosco, traded to Los Angeles by the Yankees last winter, matched the Dodgers' single game RBI mark since they went west in 1958 by tagging ex-Dodger ace Podres for his first grand slam in the majors and doubling in two runs against reliever Jack Baldschun.

The bases-loaded blast keyed a six-run fifth-inning uprising against Podres, which broke up a scoreless duel. Tom Haller later swatted a three-run homer, helping Osteen breeze to his second full-route victory in the Dodgers' home opener.

"Our pitching just went apart," muttered San Diego pilot Preston Gomez, a former Dodger coach, whose expansion club has dropped four in a row.

PINCH DOUBLE

Bud Harrelson's third hit, a bases-loaded infield single in the eighth, broke a 3-3 tie at Philadelphia and Ed Kranepool wrapped up the Mets' victory with a two-run pinch double.

Griffin, 21, allowed four hits, struck out 12 and nailed his first major league victory with ninth inning relief help from Jack Billingham as the Astros won their third in a row.

* * *

Dal Maxvill beat out a bunt in the ninth, took second on a sacrifice and scored on Lou Brock's single, carrying the Cardinals past the Expos at Montreal.

Home runs by Billy Williams and rookie Don Young powered the Cubs to their seventh victory in eight starts.

NOT TALL ENOUGH — The major leagues' smallest regular, shortstop Fred Patek of the Pittsburgh Pirates, couldn't get his 5-foot-4 frame far enough off the ground Tuesday to haul down a second-inning hit by Chicago's Ernie Banks.

Lakers Disagree That Atlanta Ace Isn't on Target

ATLANTA (AP) — Zelmo Beaty says he still isn't shooting well, but he may have difficulty convincing the Los Angeles Lakers that he's off target.

Beaty poured in 17 points in the second half Tuesday night after being held to five in the first 24 minutes.

* * *

With Beaty's potent scoring, the Atlanta Hawks drubbed the Lakers 99-86 in the night's only National Basketball Association playoff game.

In addition, Beaty pulled down 15 rebounds while Bill Bridges had 13 as the Hawks nearly matched the taller Lakers off the backboards. Los Angeles held a 50-47 edge in rebounds.

The victory left Atlanta trailing 2-1, in the best-of-7 series for the Western Division crown.

* * *

The series resumes here Thursday night and moves to Los Angeles Sunday afternoon for a fifth game, which will be nationally televised by ABC.

In the battle for supremacy in the East, Boston hosts New York Friday. The Celtics lead that best-of-7 series 3-2.

Britain Selects Scot

LONDON (AP) — Eric Brown, 44-year-old Scottish golf player, was picked Tuesday as the nonplaying captain of Britain's team to tackle the United States in the Ryder Cup matches at Royal Birkdale, Southport, Sept. 18-19-20.

Pitchers Slightly Ahead of Hitters in Prep Tilts

In most cases, the pitchers are proving they're slightly ahead of the hitters in prep baseball contests.

* * *

Walled Lake's Vikings proved that point while at the same time giving it a jolt en route to an 11-1 decision over North Farmington.

WATERFORD WINS

Elsewhere on the prep calendar yesterday, Waterford came up with four runs in the top of the seventh to shade Pontiac Catholic, 5-4, Oak Park blanked Hazel Park, 1-0, Madison Lamphere pinned a 3-2 setback on Hamtramck and New Haven shut out Richmond, 2-0.

* * *

Dan Burlingame struck out 11 and walked only three while spacing five North Farmington hits.

VIKINGS EXPLODE

And while Burlingame was taming the Raiders, his teammates were having a ball. Third baseman Pat Piilo singled home a pair of runs in the first inning and doubled home two more in the seventh to lead the assault. Catcher Wally Williams picked up two hits, and Dan McDole missed out on the hits but scored three times. Walled Lake is now 2-2. North Farmington is 0-1.

* * *

Waterford (3-3) looked like a loser as the team came to bat in the top of the seventh and trailing, 4-1.

WINNING RALLY

But a single, a walk and an error produced one run and third baseman Steve Goit tripled home two runs to knot the count. Tom Tippen's sacrifice fly then sent Goit home with the winning run.

* * *

Pat Manion and Jeff Solwold paced the Pontiac Catholic (0-2) attack with two hits apiece.

LONE RUN

Left fielder Ron Erleman's single brought Daryl Marcos across in the top of the first inning for the only run Dave Wiener needed. The hard-throwing right-hander scattered six hits to bring Oak Park the victory.

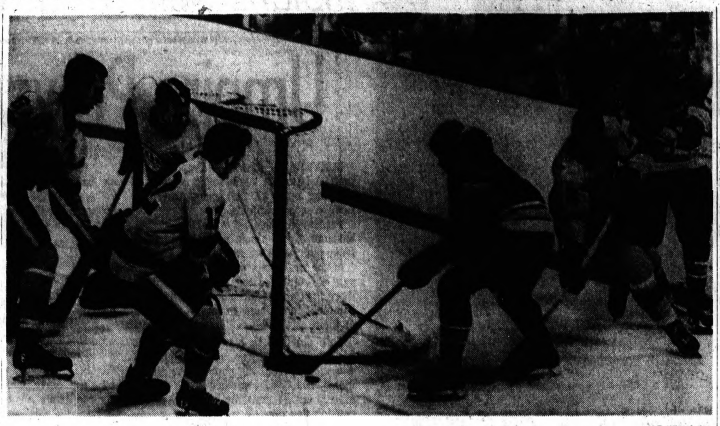
* * *

Home runs by Dan Kubik and Mike Battani along with the pitching of Dub Brady enabled Lamphere to raise its record to 4-0. Brady, who fanned eight, has won three times.

Kubik homered in the second and Battani connected with Jim Osborne aboard in the fifth.

* * *

Junior right-hander Charles Furton limited Richmond to four safeties in pitching New Haven to victory in its season opener. Pete Kovich doubled home the first run in the fourth and came home moments later on a single by Scott Belt.



AP Wirephoto

KINGS SUFFER FROM BLUES — Four Los Angeles Kings players are unable to stop the puck handling of St. Louis' Gary Sabourin (center) who is preparing a pass to Larry Keenan (not shown) who promptly scored a first-period goal. Sabourin received the pass from Bob Plager (extreme right) to set up the score which helped the Blues to a 4-0 opening game win in their best-of-seven Western Division finals National Hockey League playoff.

Avondale, Lake Orion Win Oakland A League Games

Solid pitching and some timely hitting carried Avondale and Lake Orion to victories yesterday in Oakland A League baseball openers.

A two-hitter by right-hander Rick Walker and Craig Medlen's home run enabled Avondale to blank Romeo, 1-0, while Bill Baker scattered three hits in Lake Orion's 3-1 decision over Rochester.

FANNED FOUR

Walker fanned four and gave up a pair of singles as Avondale upped its over-all record to 1-2.

* * *

Medlen jumped on a 2-2 fastball and rode it over the leftfield fence in the fourth inning for the game's lone run.

Orion scored single runs in the second, third and fourth innings, while Rochester countered with a marker in the top of the fourth.

Steve Allison tripled home one Orion run and scored another on a wild pitch to pace the Dragons attack.

Ted Malkasian doubled to drive in Rochester's single marker.

Indoor League Concludes

Metamora Riders Score High

Metamora entries were quite successful last weekend as the Bloomfield Open Hunt Winter Indoor Riding Series concluded with the over-all point leaders being determined.

Troy Maschmeyer, Jr., the family's Aromatem Farms hunter entries Arthur and The Trollop, and Mrs. Karl Aronsson's The Baron all successfully represented the Metamora horse country.

The youthful Maschmeyer led the entrants who entered all three equitation for riders 13-and-under classes during the series. The reserve honors went to Barbara Wood of Birmingham.

He rode Arthur to the champion's ribbon in the junior working hunter event for riders 13-and-under. Miss Wood's Wishbone, also was the reserve champion.

George Dawson, the Metamora Hunt professional, took The Trollop to the first year green working hunter top prize for the Maschmeyers. September, owned by Paul Frazho of New Haven, was the reserve winner.

Mrs. Aronsson rode The Baron to the amateur working hunter championship. Flamenco, owned by Pontiac's Donna Brown, was the runner-up.

* * *

Second year green working hunter laurels were earned by Comic Strip, owned by Tracy Mosgrove of Orchard Lake.

Mrs. A. M. Duffield, Jr., of Rochester showed Psychedelic to the reserve championship.

TWO RESERVES

The Junior working hunter, riders 14-17, championship went to Sarah Zimmermann's The Saint. She is a Birmingham resident. Bloomfield Hills' Amy Robinson guided Cloud Nine to the reserve honors.

Miss Robinson also took home the reserve ribbon in equitation for riders 14-17, trailing only Bobby Schultz of Bloomfield Hills in the over-all point standings.

The first point show of the season will be the annual spring outdoor competition May 3-4. There also will be summer and fall point shows. All are free to the public at the BOH grounds on Long Lake Road about a half mile east of Woodward.

The highlight of the outdoor shows is the prestigious Detroit Horse Show June 22-29.

Salmon Hitting at Port Huron; Smelt Runs Due

Coho, Chinook Taken; Expect Angling Surge

Perch Fishing Remains Spotty; Some Panfish Caught in County

By DON VOGEL

The long-awaited word from southern Lake Huron has arrived . . . fishermen are catching chinook and coho salmon. And the big smelt runs are due.

Ron Spitler, Department of Natural Resources district fish biologist, said last night that DNR test netting crews made a "good catch of all chinooks in 10 to 14 feet of water between Lakeporte and Port Huron."

The salmon, 17 to 23 inches long, are feeding on smelt about a quarter of a mile from shore, he said. "One fisherman has been out the last two days and caught his limit both times. He was mooching or jigging with cut bait. However, small spoons and other artificials should be effective.

Although the salmon taken in department nets were chinooks, Spitler said that commercial fishermen from Ontario came in with 10,000 pounds of coho last weekend.

RIVER CATCHES

"We also know of a few salmon being caught from the St. Clair River at the Coast Guard dock in Port Huron," Spitler reported.

DNR officials have reported for the last three weeks that Canadian commercial fishermen have been taking salmon between Sarnia and Grand Bend.

"But no fishermen on the American side were trying for them," said Cyril Adams, district law supervisor at Imlay City.

Spitler, who transferred from Plainwell to the Pontiac Lake office earlier this year, said that "we are afraid of a repeat of what happened in southern Lake Michigan the first year — everyone missed the boat on some fine fishing because they didn't know the salmon were there."

This isn't likely to happen at Port Huron. Fishermen have been waiting for the word that the salmon "are in" and with a major smelt run also expected near Port Huron, action should be heavy this weekend.

PEAK EXPECTED

Smelt runs are expected to peak this weekend at Point Pelee in Ontario and at the Singing Bridge south of Tawas. Runs have been slow, but the continued warm weather is expected to trigger major spawning movements by Saturday at most meeting locations.

Light runs are reported from Harbor Beach to Forrester.

★ ★ ★

Perch fishing at Saginaw Bay has been spotty the last 10 days. The Thomas Road area of Fish Pointe remains the best spot. Commercial fishermen are making good catches indicating that the perch are in fairly close in large numbers.

Some perch are being caught in Bay County cuts. The report from Lake St. Clair is that perch fishing is good off Fair Haven and rock bass are hitting around Harsen's Island. Minnows are the best bait.

HALL OF FAMER — Roger St. Amant, 15 Gage, holds the plaque awarded upon his recent induction into the International Fishing Hall of Fame. The award is made for "significant contributions to sport fishing."

Complaint of Lure-Maker: 'No Time to Go Fishing'

A Pontiac fishing lure manufacturer's biggest complaint these days in that "I don't have enough time to go fishing."

Recently inducted into the International Fishing Hall of Fame, Roger St. Amant, 15 Gage, is trying to arrange his business activities so that he can schedule a few fishing days in Northern Michigan or Ontario.

★ ★ ★

The 62-year-old sportsman operates Service Plating, 24 W. Rundell, and is founder of Reb Manufacturing, production company for the Bayou Special fishing lure.

"I'm finding out it takes more time than I thought to promote a fishing lure," said St. Amant. He is fresh from the sportsmen's show circuit and reports the spoon-type bait is now being handled in sporting shops in most parts of the county and several Canadian provinces.

The increased activity in plating and family illness consume considerable time.

★ ★ ★

The hall of fame award is for "contributions to sports fishing" and places St. Amant with select company. Since it was founded in 1929, the hall has inducted 550 members including such sportsmen as Zane Grey, Ernest Hemingway, Dwight Eisenhower and Herbert Hoover.

St. Amant's fishing ventures have taken him to God's Lake, Great Bear Lake and northern Ontario.

DNR Offensive Outlined

Pesticide Fight Is Set

LANSING (AP) — A 10-point program to fight the pesticide threat to Michigan fish and fishing was announced yesterday by the State Department of Natural Resources.

One of the keys of the program will be helping fishermen find and catch fish when their pesticide level is low.

★ ★ ★

Anglers, meanwhile, were advised that smelt, perch and suckers — starting their spring runs—are "clean" of pesticides.

The department action followed a federal Food and Drug Administration announcement it may declare many Michigan fish technically unsafe to eat because of high pesticide levels.

POTENTIAL THREAT

The setting of such standards has threatened to virtually wipe out Michigan's commercial fishing industry. It also has spread alarm among sports fishermen.

"This is an emergency situation and we must deal with it accordingly," said Department Director Ralph MacMullan.

★ ★ ★

"We're not going to panic and run scared," MacMullan said.

"We're not going to back off our Great Lakes fish program, which is essential to alewife control and important to our recreational tourism program.

"We're going to fight this threat, which applies not only to just fish but to our total human environment, with every available weapon."

The department plans to:

—Push for a total ban on DDT and stringent controls over other hard pesticides, such as Dieldrin.

—Urge the Food and Drug Administration to formally set a DDT tolerance level for fish as quickly as possible and to base that level on the best scientific information for protection of human health.

★ ★ ★

—Support and participate in a intensive monitoring program to measure the amounts and sources of hard pesticides in water and fish throughout the state.

—Publicize findings of the monitoring program to inform fishermen of "clean" fish stocks and waters where they may be found. Anglers were advised that smelt, perch and suckers, which are starting spring runs, are "clean."

—Ask Michigan State University, the U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and other research groups to determine and publicize the best ways to clean and cook fish so as to eliminate as much of the pesticide content as possible.

—Encourage research to find ways to neutralize pesticides in the environment.

—Promote intensified research on the effects of pesticides on fish reproduction.

★ ★ ★

—Help fishermen locate and catch fish at times when their pesticide content is low. Great Lakes salmon, for instance, are relatively clean of pesticides in the spring and early summer.

—Explore every available way of handling or processing fall run salmon so they can be utilized by both sport fishermen and the commercial industry.

—Study possible needs to liberalize catch regulations to allow maximum harvest of fish at times when pesticide levels are low.

FISHERMEN'S FRIEND — W. H. Chinn, who turned 104 last Sunday, forks over one of his 18 breeder beds which contain nearly 300,000 redworms. The Kalamazoo resident was raising rabbits at 87 and painting houses atop 30-foot ladders are 96. He began supplying worms to bait dealers five years ago.

More Waterfowl Seen on County Lakes

A duck hunter's blood pressure always goes up a couple of notches each spring when the northbound migrants drop in for a few days rest.

The number of waterfowl visiting Oakland County lakes this spring jumped considerably over the 1968 count conducted by the Department of Natural Resources.

★ ★ ★

Main reason is that ice on northern lakes is just breaking up, holding ducks in southern areas of the state and allowing these concentrations to build up.

During a two-day count the first week in April, DNR fieldmen observed 1,969 ducks. This is nearly 1,000 more than a year ago. Greatest increase was in scaup. Last spring only 94 were seen. The 1969 count shows 1,130.

★ ★ ★

Reports from the Canadian breeding grounds indicate the ducks will find much more water than a year ago. This should mean an increase in production and possibly offset the dismal outlook for Mississippi flying fall hunting seasons.

Following are the ducks, geese and coots counted on 43 Oakland County Oakes:

Scaup, 1130; red head, 103; canvasback, 121; ringneck, 196; bufflehead, 65; goldeneye, 65; mallard, 205; black, 4; bluewing teal, 11; wood duck 6; baldpate, 6; shoveller, 3; red-breasted merganser, 8; hooded merganser, 8; ruddy, 1; coot, 208; Canada gees, 640; swans, 33; unidentified waterfowl, 112.

★ ★ ★

No pintails were observed this year and for the second straight spring no greenwing team were seen on count days.

There are 17,000 marine dealers in the United States.

Here's a little sports quiz for you . . . Everybody has heard of heavyweights, light-heavyweights, welterweights, middleweights and lightweights in boxing, but it's surprising how few fans can tell you the exact weight limits for each of these divisions . . . Can you? . . . A heavyweight is anyone over 175 pounds . . . Light-heavyweights are from 161 to 175 pounds . . . Middleweights from 148 to 160 . . . Welterweights, 136 to 147 pounds . . . And lightweights from 127 to 135 pounds.

★ ★ ★

How great a golfer was Bobby Jones? . . . Here's one statistic you might be interested in . . . In the years from 1923 until he retired in 1930, Jones played in 21 major tournaments, such as the U.S. Open, British Open, U.S. Amateur and British Amateur —and in those 21 tourneys, Bobby finished 1st or 2nd in all but four! . . . No other golfer in history has ever come close to that percentage of success . . . And in the last 9 U.S. Opens he entered, from 1922 through 1930, he finished 1st or 2nd in 8 of them!

★ ★ ★

Here's quite a baseball oddity . . . The 1968 Oakland Athletics LED the American League in team batting—yet, they wound up in 6th place in the final standings of the league! . . . It proves that having the best hitting team in a league doesn't guarantee winning a lot of games.

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

One of the most interesting chapters in "Modern Bridge Bidding Complete" is headed, "When Not to Count Roth Points."

It belongs in any book on bidding although the heading might be changed to "When Not to Count Points."

★ ★ ★

According to Roth and Rubens, the time not to count points is when you have a good play for some contract. In such cases they say, "Bid your game or slam and see what happens."

Suppose you open one spade with the South hand. You hope your partner will respond and you'll be heading for a slam if he shows any signs of life. But he passes and East reopens with a double.

You know your partner may have a blank hand but you may still make four spades. In any event you won't be hurt there and your opponents may have an easy four hearts or four clubs. Four spades is an all-purpose gambling bid that you should make.

★ ★ ★

The book does not show the other hands so we have filled some in. North certainly should not respond to the spade bid. East has a sound take-out double and we have taken the liberty of having West double four spades for business.

West opens a trump to stop potential ruffs. South goes up with dummy's 10 and leads the queen of diamonds from dummy. East can do no better than cover with the king.

★ ★ ★

South takes his ace and will now be able to score an overtrick by the simple process of cashing his jack of diamonds; ruffing a diamond; returning to his hand with the ace of clubs; drawing trumps and eventually making his last diamond.

A really good player won't get this overtrick. He will assure his contract by drawing trumps before playing a second diamond.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	1♣	Pass	1♥
Pass	2♠	Pass	3♥
Pass	3♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold: ♠Q2 ♥A1098765 ♦86 ♣42

What do you do now?

A—Bid four spades. Your queen of spades and doubleton club must be of help. Four hearts is a close second choice.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three spades, your partner has bid three no-trump. What do you do now?

Sabotage Tilts CKLW Towers

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI) — About 200 families from the surrounding area and about 30-35 employes of CKLW-TV were evacuated late yesterday after a vandal cut a guy wire to the station's 650-foot tower with a hacksaw.

The top 50 feet of the Channel 9 and CKLW-FM tower was winched back into place without toppling, station officials said. An employe noticed the tower near the downtown area leaning about 10 degrees off the vertical about 8:30 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Channel 9 signed off early for the evening and AM and FM radio broadcasting was interrupted, a station spokesman said.

Police had no immediate clues to the vandal's identity, but a station spokesman said they were checking a letter received two or three weeks ago that threatened a tower toppling unless more National Hockey League games were broadcast.

A government survey shows 15 per cent of India's hospitals have no doctors.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Get out tonight; attend theater, be active in club, group, organization. Brooding accomplishes nothing. You are creative. Know this—utilize special talents. Secret is confided.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accent on how to obtain heart's desire — may be easier than you think. Key is to be sociable, accept invitations. One who is important to your welfare pays meant implicit compliment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Travel may be on agenda. But be sure you know purpose of journey. Be in touch with one at a distance. Don't neglect calls, correspondence. One who holds opposite views proves stimulating.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Other people's money may become your concern — could specifically involve mate, partner. Accept responsibility. Call upon past experience. Older person serves as reliable advisor.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Play waiting game — applies especially where signing of legal document is concerned. Avoid premature actions. Best to remain in background. Avoid trying to be your own lawyer.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Stick to basics. Complete chores. You will want to be free later. Emphasis on new contacts, added independence. Gain new understanding of co-worker, associate. Harbor no grudges.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Good lunar aspect today coincides with romantic interlude. Be receptive. Member of opposite sex is intrigued. Be gracious. You're a winner and you don't have to prove a thing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Concentrate on basics. You are tempted to scatter forces. Realize that home, family obligations should be fulfilled. Reward is due if persistent. Don't throw away what you have earned.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be calm in dealing with relatives, neighbors. Sense of humor serves the purpose. You may find it difficult to check details. Don't force yourself. Wait — and when refreshed, do the job.

IF THURSDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have innate executive ability. You can guide and direct. Key is confidence. A new project will prove successful.

Investors 'Discouraged'

Stock Mart Continues to Sink

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to sink early this afternoon in moderate trading as brokers reported some investors were discouraged a lack of good news.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 5.85 at 926.09.

Declines led advances by better than 300 issues.

Brokers said investor enthusiasm apparently was dampened by a variety of news reports, among them North Korea's claim that it had shot down a U.S. Navy plane. They said some investors were worried as to what response the United States would make to the claim.

"In addition," they said, "a lot of people apparently have been discouraged by the market's failure to follow through on last week's peace-hope rally as well as by an apparent lack of progress in the Vietnam peace negotiations."

The market, an analyst said, "just seems to have run out of steam."

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.3 at 333.3, with industrials off 2.3, rails off .9, and utilities up .1.

Conglomerate issues were mixed.

Gulf Oil and Pennzoil United lost more than a point each.

Of the 20 most-active stocks on the American Stock Exchange, 14 declined and 6 advanced.

No Sinclair Verdict; Riot Police Leave

By JIM LONG

Riot-geared police from four departments stood by yesterday after receiving reports that the Oakland County Courthouse would be "torn apart" if a guilty verdict was returned against hippie poet John Sinclair.

When it became obvious that the jury would not reach an immediate decision and that no protest was forthcoming, most of the 30 hard-helmeted police were returned to other duties.

At one point the officers had lined the first floor hall near the courtroom of Judge Farrell E. Roberts, who had presided over the nine-day trial of Sinclair and Frederick Smith, lead guitarist of the MC5 rock music group.

The jury, six men and six women began deliberating Monday after hearing testimony regarding an alleged assault on two sheriff's deputies by Sinclair and Smith during a teen dance in Leonard last July.

'GUARD WAS HIT'

Sinclair, 28, manager of the MC5, and minister of information for the radical White Panther organization, is accused of taking a punch at a sheriff's deputy after hitting a private security guard at the Club Loft, 130 Army.

Smith reportedly tried to pull a deputy off Sinclair as they wrestled on the floor.

Sinclair had testified that he did not recall striking anyone and indicated that if he did, it was when he jerked away from a private guard who had grabbed him by the arm.

The incident occurred after the group played what police say was an obscene song.

PACKED WITH FANS

Since the trial began April 1, the courtroom has been packed with teen-age fans of Sinclair and the music group. A number of them were at the dance and testified in behalf of Sinclair and Smith, both of Ann Arbor.

Called to the courthouse early yesterday were police from Pontiac, Waterford Township and Bloomfield Township, and deputies from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

★ ★ ★

One officer admitted the threats "could be a bluff, but what would happen if they carried them out and we weren't here?"

Most of the officers stayed out of sight in a nearby empty courtroom until they received word that the jury was returning.

The jury, however, was deadlocked and only asked for further instructions. Later, jurors also wanted Sinclair's testimony read back.

★ ★ ★

Not reaching a decision, the jurors were dismissed until Thursday morning when they will resume deliberations.

Service Is Tomorrow for Howard Crawford

Howard H. Crawford, pioneer auto executive, died Monday in Royal Oak. He was 86.

Service will be 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Haley Funeral Home, Southfield, with burial in Franklin Cemetery, Franklin.

★ ★ ★

After graduation from Flint High School, Crawford, of 26059 German, Franklin, went to work for the Flint Wagon Works. He later joined Buick Motors and was the first official of that organization to be taken into the General Motors Corp.

Crawford came to Detroit in 1912 as general manager of Krit Motor Company and later worked with both Kelsey-Hayes and Holley Carburetor.

3 CORPORATIONS

In the early 1920s, he formed three corporations, Detroit Motor Appliances, Crawford-Lewis Corp. and Pines Winterfront Co. of Chicago.

The first corporation held the patents, the second handled nationwide sales and the third manufactured a controlled shutter in front of the radiator, a well-known fixture on quality automobiles until World War II.

★ ★ ★

During the war, Crawford was a financial administrator for the Air Force, handling contract renegotiations. He later founded Raymac Co., makers of precision carbide tools.

He was a member of the Detroit Athletic Club from its founding until his retirement in 1951. He also served as circulation manager for the Southfield News, owned by his daughter, Mrs. Betty Lewis.

★ ★ ★

Other survivors are his wife, Charlotte; a daughter, Mrs. W. T. Ellison of Birmingham; two sons, William G. and Howard H. Jr.; three sisters, seven grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The percentage of the family budget spent for food in the United States was 24.4 per cent in 1929 and is about 17.2 per cent now.

KEATING
FOR MOTHER
Last week's description of our
"House of Happiness" was written primarily for the Tired businessman and the children. Do not forget the mother. Do not get the notice to Press we left out
"Mother"
A good friend called this fact to our attention and asked why we left "her" out, which we gladly observe.
FOR MOTHER
Each room is capable of being closed off from the others — affording Mother a place of withdrawal from the tumult and the clamor of the noisy tots and their friends and the house is of substantial — the children can't hear it down when she relaxes — so no problem there!
In the large roomy kitchen with its pleasant view from each window — are a breeze. The unusual hand woven wood carpet in the living room will withstand hard usage and is easy to keep clean. The walnut and waxed fireplace floors here and there, are easy to care for. As is the beamwood panelling. Even if the children wish pets inside or out, again, no problem. (Even the doghouse is included).
As for Mother, herself, 2 nearby golf courses, 4 of "Our" area churches welcome her and she certainly use her efforts. Community problems of the day, superb the fine area schools (Davisburg Independent, Holly High School) welcome interested parents. Township politics. Many beautiful gardens (including a large Holly Hill Watchers Club) at Fenton Rachan Memorial Community Center. And Mother has ample space for formal gardening, be it rose, shrub, box or salad plot. Not far from Pontiac, Flint, Grand Blanc, Oxford, Davisburg, Holly, Fenton and Clarkston.
Again — the CHILDREN — Holly School bus stops at driveway. Safe country roads for walking and riding, or their own private bridle path. Plus many things to do like the wildlife in the woods, the bubbling springs and the pond to get their feet wet in. So much to do they're busy all the time for discontent or restlessness, a wholesome outdoor atmosphere. A fine unsophisticated morsel at mosphere.
We now stretch for mother — some of the more detailed description appearing in last week's Pontiac Press. (It may be your wish to call up a Friday or Saturday edition of the Press to review some of the details relating to Mother specifically to Father and the Children) but briefly—
Our "House of Happiness"
Has 3 bedrooms 4 working fireplaces 2½ baths 2 car attached storage and closets large enough to swallow an snack bar. Huge living room — marvelous entertaining indoors or out. Priced at only $156,000. This contemporary house (on 16 acres) — cannot be duplicated for $200,000. By appointment only. Your hostess, Mrs. Nelsey.

Susanne Remembers Orson, but the Memory Is All Bad

By EARL WILSON

New York

Dear Orson:

I've been your friend for years. So I tried, honestly I tried.

You remember the beautiful blonde Susanne Benton? Played your mistress in "Catch 22" in Mexico. Sort of a Marilyn Monroe.

"Orson Welles is a lot of fun, isn't he?" I said. We were sitting in Lindy's.

"NO! I hated working with him. When people ask me, 'Do you like the guy?' I say No."

I coughed embarrassedly, Orson.

"But he's so fascinating and so charming," I protested.

"He stepped on my feet twice. I was constantly in line of his cigar smoke. Once when I got knocked on the head by a can of film, I thought he'd say, 'Dear, are you all right?' Not one word, not even 'Drop dead.' Every chance he got he pushed me out of the way."

WILSON

I don't give up easy. I tried another way.

★ ★ ★

"Looks good, doesn't he? Lost 50 or 60 pounds."

"That's what he kept telling everybody," she said. "He's the fattest man I ever saw. I couldn't imagine anybody 60 pounds heavier."

I let it rest a minute, Susanne wasn't just upset with you. She rushed into a publicist's office here and tore up some nude photos taken while she was filming her other movie, "That Cold Day in the Park."

"I had no idea half of New York was seeing them," she flared up. She was also in a rage because publicists compare her to Marilyn Monroe because she happens to be married to a Los Angeles motorcycle policeman.

★ ★ ★

Well, Orson, I never quit. As we were finishing, I said:

"Maybe you did something to annoy Orson."

"All I did was get stepped on by one of his huge feet," she said. "I swear we worked together three weeks. He wouldn't know me if he saw me, but"—she gave a low angry threatening growl—"I would know him!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Arthur Treacher, who underwent 5-hour heart surgery, was already out of intensive care and making jokes with the hospital staff when Merv Griffin visited him. He'll be recovering for weeks, rejoining Merv in time for the move to CBS in July.

From Ireland, where David Lean's filming "Ryan's Daughter": "We've had one mishap after another. John Mills fell out of a boat, Trevor Howard fell off a horse, Robert Mitchum fell off the wagon.

★ ★ ★

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "A bureaucrat is a government official who sees his duty—and gets somebody else to do it."

EARL'S PEARLS: A girl friend of Jill St. John's purportedly told her: "I'd divorce my husband for incompatibility if I could catch him at it."

A weird character approached Larry Gore on 42nd St. and said; "Psst, buddy, wanta buy some clean pictures?" . . . That's earl, brother.

Senators View Film of Crash

Foreign Compact Car Fatality Rate Cited

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Members of the Senate Commerce Committee yesterday watched previously secret motion pictures of safety tests in which a 1969 Volkswagen and a 1957 Ford smashed head-on at 30 miles per hour.

The Volkswagen appeared to sustain the greatest damage, although both cars were severely dented by the crash.

Robert Brenner, acting director of the National Highway Safety Bureau, also gave the committee previously unpublished information indicating that 9.6 per cent of accidents involving foreign compact cars resulted in a fatality or a serious injury — three times the rate for domestic luxury cars.

William Scott of the National Safety Institute narrated the silent Volkswagen - Ford crash film. He said the passenger compartment of neither the Volkswagen nor the Ford was penetrated. However, a special dummy in the Volkswagen was thrown through the windshield when both seat belts and seat-locking devices failed.

RADIATOR RUPTURED

Scott noted the Volkswagen's front-mounted gasoline tank did not break although the Ford's radiator ruptured.

Brenner cited statistics provided in a New York State study of highway crashes.

★ ★ ★ ★

The figures showed 3.1 per cent of accidents involving domestic luxury cars produced either fatalities or serious injuries compared to 4 per cent for intermediate-sized vehicles, 5.2 per cent for domestic economy cars, 6.4 per cent for domestic compacts and 9.6 per cent for foreign compacts.

Federal Highway Administrator F. C. Turner said the film has been kept under wraps because of fear that it "might lead to fears in the general public."

GREAT DANGER

"I think there is great danger in the release of some of this information without knowledge of how to understand it," Turner told the committee Monday.

But acting chairman Vance Hartke, D-Ind., ordered the film shown because the public has a right to know, he said.

★ ★ ★

"Just by the laws of physics, we know that a small vehicle, crashing into a larger vehicle, is apt to come out second-best," Turner said.

"Folk songs sung by sailors are called "chanties" from the French word "chanter" meaning to sing and describe a strongly rhythmical song originally sung in unison by sailors as they hoisted sails or weighed anchor.

But other people want a piece of the action, too.

A Look at TV

Photography Up, Down

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK—A lot of school-age children watching CBS's "Polynesian Adventure" Tuesday night, undoubtedly envied the three children of Stanton Waterman.

Waterman, a motion and still photographer who gives lectures, took his three out of school for a year, and the whole family went skin diving and sight-seeing in French Polynesia.

★ ★ ★

The National Geographic Society special, based on film shot by . . . and of . . . the Waterman family during the year, was a combination travel-talk and nature lecture and sometimes covered the ground — rather the ocean floor — in the style of Jacques Cousteau. Sometimes, too, alas, it looked a lot like home movies.

This came when the attractive family was on dry land—shopping in Tahiti, walking along beaches, bathing in the surf when everybody seemed self-conscious and aware of the camera. But the undersea photography was fascinating.

★ ★ ★

This series started quietly a couple of seasons back and to everybody's surprise built a big audience—so big in fact that it started one of the pleasant healthy trends of TV.

BS News took a giant step Tuesday night in an effort to cast some light on the pros and cons of the turmoil that currently afflicts so many of our colleges.

It covered the main bases calmly and intelligently. It would be interesting to learn how many people who listened to the hour of talk have changed their minds about the situation.

★ ★ ★

The program started with Mike Wallace in Chicago talking with four students. One was a white radical and another a black militant and both were critical of college land expansion, military experiments on campus and ROTC. Two other students, infinitely more conservative, argued for the use of persuasion, not force.

The discussion occasionally became shrill, but it set the stage for the next discussion—three college presidents around a table with Harry Reasoner.

FIND JUSTIFICATION

All three expressed sympathy and found some justification for the demands of black students, mostly on the grounds that the students are primarily seeking equality. All resisted adamantly the idea that a radical minority could ever override the majority of students.

Most frightening result of the college troubles, said Michigan's Dr. Robben Fleming, is that "never before has the public been so hostile in general to students."

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa of embattled San Francisco State suggested that much of the trouble stems from the fury of intellectuals who believe the world is run by the wrong people—businessmen and military men — and propose to push these wrong ones aside.

It was agreed that changes should be made in colleges, but that sit-ins, demonstrations and battles would not produce them. The civil liberties of other students, too, are involved, the presidents said.

Eric Sevareid, summing up, turned a philosphical reference to youth and age into what became almost an explicit warning of public backlash.

Milliken Sees State Aid for All Colleges

LANSING (UPI) — The financial plight of Michigan's private colleges must be considered along with the needs of state-supported institutions of higher learning, Gov. William G. Milliken said yesterday.

"The day has passed when we can draw a line between the public and private college, and say that we will feed only the hungry on the public side of the fence," he told the annual meeting of the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Michigan.

"We must view the entire question of public aid to non-public schools from the standpoint of the public good—and I believe the public welfare is served by the continued existence and growth of nonpublic schools and colleges."

Milliken said he is aware of private colleges' urgent need for money to improve existing facilities, to build new ones and to pay higher faculty salaries. But he said he is not ready yet to propose direct state tax aid to independent schools.

"The problem calls for a careful consideration of the constitutional questions and a careful weighing of priorities," he said. "It calls for imagination and innovation."

Milliken said small, liberal arts colleges play an important role in national development. He said too many large schools are out of touch with the students.

Twister Season Is Here, so Be Alert for Danger Signs

By DIANNE DUROCHER

Spring is nature's most capricious season, often baffling even weather experts. However, one thing on which the experts all agree is that it is open season for tornadoes.

Though Oakland County residents have been fortunate in escaping a tornado disaster for the past five years, residents are urged to keep a lookout for the violent wind formations during April, traditionally the worst month for twisters, according to Wallace E. Crane, Oakland County Civil Service director.

* * *

April has produced more tornadoes in Michigan than any other month. The threat continues in May and June, diminishing during the summer.

It is not possible to predict the exact time of a tornado or where it will strike. However, it is possible to identify areas about 100 miles wide and 250 miles long in which weather conditions suggest the probability of a tornado, Crane said.

He said that when dangerous weather conditions are reported to local weather bureaus, radio and television stations are the first to be informed.

Tornado watches are the first alerting message given to area residents potentially threatened by a tornado.

* * *

Tornado warnings are issued when a tornado has actually been sighted in the area or is indicated by radar.

If a tornado watch is issued, persons should keep tuned to their local radio or television station for the latest weather statements and possible tornado warnings. If a tornado warning is issued, they should seek inside shelter, Crane suggested.

SOUTHWEST CORNER

Persons in a home should go to the southwest corner of the basement, taking along a flashlight, shovel and a battery-operated radio.

If the home has no basement, it is best to lie flat on the floor, away from any windows or gas outlets.

* * *

If driving an automobile in open country when a tornado is sighted persons should try to maneuver at right angles to its path. If there is no time to escape they should lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or ravine.

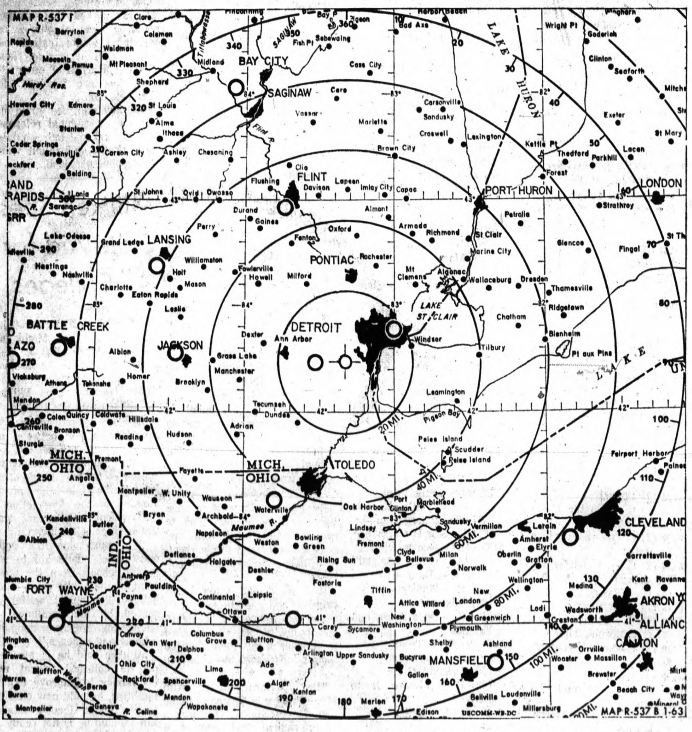
Because the destructive effects of a tornado are usually concentrated in a relatively small area, much of the burden of warning, evacuation and shelter falls on the individual citizens.

RADIO OPERATORS

Members of the Oakland County REACT, a group of public-spirited citizens who operate their own two-way radios providing emergency communications, will have observatory posts in Lake Orion, Bloomfield Hills, Rochester, Keego Harbor and the Cranbrook Institute of Science.

Charles Spain, a REACT member, said as soon as the warning alert is issued by the weather bureau, two or three REACT volunteers will report to the above posts.

If a tornado does strike in this area, the Red Cross, Civil Defense and police will be on the job to provide appropriate assistance to individuals and families.



TORNADO PLOTTING MAP — An actual work sheet used by the weather bureau radar meteorologist to track severe weather, this map has as its center the location of the Detroit radar equipment. The map provides those listening to the radio or television a quick reference when severe weather occurs, giving both distance in nautical miles and direction in degrees from Detroit. The prominent range marks are at 20-mile intervals.

Police in Maryland City Use Dogs to Sniff Out Marijuana

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — Trained police dogs who can sniff out marijuana are the latest tools of the Ocean City Police Department in its war on the pressing dope traffic in Ocean City.

Chief V. Jack Phillips has demonstrated the results of preliminary training with a selected 15-month-old German shepherd, Poncho, owned by detective Francis Ward of the department.

* * *

The dog was selected for high intelligence and a good sense of smell, and already has developed the ability to root out hidden parcels of the drug.

Training for the animal is by no means complete, Chief Phillips emphasized. Indeed, the dog could be distracted by strange surroundings or attention by persons on a boardwalk.

GOOD POT SMELLER

"What we have done is to select a dog that we feel confident can be trained to smell out pot," the chief said.

"We are going to give him an eight-week course on our grounds in dog obedience control, after which he will be as steady as a rock. We will, of course, continue our daily work with him in marijuana, and we are going to be on the lookout for other dogs with his keen sense of smell."

* * *

Ward started day-by-day training by placing a parcel of the drug under the dog's nose. Poncho now can "course" in room, much in the manner that a bird dog will course a field for quail, and find a "bag" previously hidden there.

He also can distinguish between identical parcels, one of which has marijuana and one of which has a weed of similar appearance.

NOT MISLED BY FOOD

Poncho cannot be misled by food, and will go directly to the drug when given a choice between a snack and a parcel of pot. He wll make such a determined "find" of marijuana hidden in a pocket of clothing that the wearer had best look out for this coat.

"We first became interested in the possibility of using dogs when I read about the success that the Army has been having with dogs used in drug control in Vietnam," Phillips said.

* * *

"Some police departments on the West Coast have been using them, but as far as I know we are the only department in the East that will be using dogs for drug detection.

* * *

"Dogs like Poncho can be used to detect hidden parcels of drugs in motel rooms where we may not be able to find them. And there is the possibility that we may use them on the boardwalk or in crowds."

FIRST TO USE DOGS

The Ocean City Police Department was the first in Maryland to use trained dogs for police work. Now it has its own training ground and special "K-9" station wagon for its nine dogs.

Chief Phillips said the dogs have proved invaluable in crowd control work. Ocean City once had a problem on Labor Day with youngsters rioting in the 9th Street area, but this is now a thing of the past.

* * *

Chief Phillips said the secret of training dogs to detect marijuana will lie in choosing the proper animals.

* * *

"We are going to select our dogs with a fine tooth comb, and use only those with a proven good nose. They will not be trained aggressively like an ordinary police dog, and will be quite harmless to strangers," he said.

Ocean City has its problems with the drug traffic. Early last summer, police conducted one raid on an apartment that resulted in the arrest of 40 persons charged with using marijuana.

* * *

Pushers have been hard to detect, and Circuit Court at the countyseat of Snow Hill has been full of cases on charges of "use and possession." Although most of the cases have been connected with marijuana, some are for heroin and LSD.

Rumors of LBJ Texas Banking Ambitions Unsubstantiated

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Attorneys were arguing over a proposed state bank charter at a hearing in Austin when Lyndon Johnson's name popped up.

A Republican lawyer opposing the charter said "the close association of high officials in the Democratic party creates a conflict of interest."

* * *

A prominent Democrat and long-time friend of Johnson exploded. The explosion brought to the surface rumors that have been floating around for years —that the fromer president wants to be a kingpin in banking in central Texas, still known as LBJ Country.

* * *

"They've been trying to prove for 20 years that Lyndon Johnson controls all the banks in Austin!" shouted Frank C. Erwin, Johnson's friend who was at the hearing as attorney for the bank applicants.

NO EVIDENCE

So far, nobody's proved it, and there is no evidence in public records that Johnson enterprises have a controlling interest in any bank in Austin.

The bank application in question was not for Austin—or even for Central Texas. It was for a bank in Hurst, near Fort Worth. The application was granted.

The hearing was on Jan. 2, just a few days before Johnson left office.

Earl King of Fort Worth, the lawyer opposing the charter, raised the conflict-of-interest issue in challenging the right of National Democratic Committeeman Robert Strauss of Dallas to sit as a banking board member during the hearing.

Jake Jacobsen, a former White House aide who also has Austin bank interests, owns 3,000 shares of the bank. King noted that the attorney for the applicants was Erwin, who preceded Strauss as national Democratic committeeman.

'PSYCHOTIC CHARGES'

"I'm so mad at this point don't know whether I should speak or not," said Erwin. "This is the most psychotic bunch of charges I ever heard."

* * *

Travis County tax records do not show Johnson or any member of his immediate family—except son-in-law Patrick Nugent—as the owner of any shares of bank stock.

* * *

But foundations and other business entities with which the LBJ brand has been linked for years own 26,900 shares of stock in eight Austin banks. The shares are worth $2,531,039, according to a recent estimate of the price at which each bank's securities had traded.

Johnson's official spokesmen don't answer questions about Johnson's business interests.

While visiting with several friends in February, Johnson laughed at the rumors about his banking ambitions. "Why should I want to be a bank president?" he said. "I wanted to be a president, and I was president of the United States. That's a bigger job than running a bank."

THREE ENTITIES

Discounting stock ownership by several Johnson friends, rich men in their own right, the Johnson bank connections come from three entities:

• The KIBC profit-sharing and incentive plan for the employes of the Johnsons' radio and television station.

* * *

• Johnson City Foundation, set up by the Johnson family more than a decade ago to make gifts for charitable, scientific, literary, religious and education purposes. The foundation's projects have included restoration of Johnson's boyhood home at Johnson City.

• Brazos-10th Street Co., whose president, Donald S. Thomas, denies the firm has any financial connection with the Johnson business interests other than a landlord-tenant relationship.

Franchiser Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., has announced he will introduce legislation to make franchisees "more independent businessmen and less branch managers." Hart's bill is designed to "take some sting out of cancellation and termination of franchises."

Ray REAL ESTATE

9 Offices Serve Metropolitan Area

RAY FIRM MOVING AT RECORD PACE

ROBERT PIERSOL
Company Owner

All signs point to "go" for a record year in home sales and dollar volume business by Ray Real Estate Co.

Robert Piersol, owner of the four-year-old Clinton Township-based firm whose nine branch offices serve the tri-county area of Macomb, Oakland and Wayne, is confident Ray will far exceed records achieved in 1968 when the company sold 1,377 homes at a cumulative total of $24 million dollars.

Last year's volume was nearly double that of 1967 when Ray sales personnel completed 800 home transactions, reaching the $13.8 million mark.

"Currently, we are moving at the fastest pace since the company was founded," Piersol said. "We averaged in excess of $2.3 million for the first three months this year. Our February volume of $2.5 million for 138 sales was the best February in history."

Piersol said demand for homes is heavy in all sectors of the metropolitan area.

"Each of our nine branches is up from a year ago and we have every reason to believe the market will continue to rise as more private mortgage money becomes available now that the interest rate has been raised to 7 1/2 per cent," he declared.

Piersol said one of the problems the Ray firm is encountering is obtaining enough listings to meet the demand.

"While we have been fortunate to obtain sufficient listings for continued company progress," he said, "we could double our business with enough additional listings."

Pierson suggested that any homeowner who is considering selling now or in the near future should contact any one of the nine branch offices or the firm's headquarters in the Michigan Bank Buildings, 34945 Gratiot at Fifteen Mile Road.

A complete listing of the Ray branches, addresses and phone numbers are published elsewhere in this special section.

Tips for Home-Buyer

Ray Has Experts to Provide Home-Buying Advice

Buying a home is one of the biggest investments most individuals will make in their lifetime. Consequently, no one should rush into such a transaction without knowing all the background possible.

A potential home-buyer thinks about many things – or should – when it comes time to committing himself to a debt that will span many years.

Fully equipped to do more than a satisfactory job in assisting a person who is in the market for a home purchase is Ray Real Estate Co. with six offices in Macomb County and three in Oakland County.

Robert Piersol, owner of the Ray firm, offers these suggestions to the prospective home-buyer as food for thought for the person considering a purchase:

*The style, attractiveness and condition of the house along with location and area appearances. When looking at a house, it's important to have some way of determining the state of repair and maintenance of such things as the roof and plumbing that may not be readily visible, particularly in the case of an older home. Ray representatives are experts in these matters and can help you immeasurably.

*Facts needed to appraise the neighborhood or the subdivision and data on the proximity of stores, schools, churches, governmental or medical services and other facilities.

*Home values and a method to determine if a home is worth the asking price. Here again, Ray's sales personnel is trained and experienced to provide sound and reliable figures.

*Financing arrangements that are available and how much you may get with your purchasing power.

*Taxes and insurance are important factors in the amount of cash needed to close a deal and in the size of your monthly payments.

*Quality of construction and built-ins, type and condition of heating equipment, annual heating cost, and the situation on such extras as storm windows and screens.

*The exterior and interior design and decor and, in the case of a used home, the cost of any necessary redecorating.

*The need to sell your present dwelling before you can complete the purchase of another.

The most reliable way to cover all these points is to call or visit any one of Ray's nine branch offices. They have hundreds of listings in all price ranges and will spend the necessary time to find the home you want and can afford.

A Ray expert obtains the information you need on all these matters and takes care of the arrangements, details and paperwork. His experience and knowledge are always at the home-buyer's service. You will discover that it costs much less in the end than if you try to do it yourself . . . And the action is faster with much better results.

The Ray firm also speeds your move into another home by helping you sell your present one. The best and surest way to sell a home is through a reliable company like Ray that has ample resources to match up buyers and sellers efficiently and fast.

1st Quarter Report Shows Ray on Mark

A $30 million-plus goal foreseen for this year for Ray Real Estate Co.'s volume business by the firm's owner, Robert Piersol, appears on its way to being reached.

A first-quarter report issued by Piersol shows the Clinton Township-Based company – with nine branch offices in Macomb and Oakland counties – had a cumulative dollar business of $7,184,769.

"With the better selling months ahead and homes much in demand, we are confident of topping the $30 million mark," Piersol said.

The company, selling 417 homes in the January-March period, grossed $2,532,319 in March with 159 home sales compared to 126 sales and volume business of $2,397,985 for the same month last year.

Home sales and volume for the first quarter of 1968 were 321 and $5,765,515, respectively.

The March volume marked the third month in a row that Ray has exceeded the $2 million figure.

January sales of 120 homes grossed $2,152,450 and February's 138 sales produced $2,500,000. In January 1968, Ray had 96 sales at a cumulative total of $1,626,380. In February last year 99 sales grossed $1,741,150.

Ray Offers Trade-in Plan

Thinking of selling your present home because it isn't large enough for the family? Or perhaps you prefer another neighborhood?

Ray Real Estate Co. has the answer for many persons.

Like the automotive business, Ray Realty has a trade-in plan. You may find that you can consumate a trade of your home for another one almost as fast as you can turn in the old model car for another used or new model.

The Ray plan allows you to select the home of your choice and in the neighborhood you prefer, then make the trade of your home for the one available.

Allowances are generous, as you will find in dealing with Ray.

Financier Answers Mortgage Questions

By BARON HERMAN
Paramount Mortgage Corp.

Q–We have a couple that would like to buy our house FHA without the aid of a Realtor. What is the procedure we should follow?

A–The first step would be to request a FHA appraisal on your home. This is done through us or any other mortgage company, savings and loan company or bank. Do not call the FHA directly for this, for they will refer you to one of the above. The mortgage company then will be happy to handle to buyer's application for mortgage approval.

Q–What are points and why are they charged?

A–Points are percentages of discounts. Points are charged to enable lenders to buy mortgages at comparable prices to other types of financing offered them.

Q–What is the interest for VA mortgages today?

A–The same as FHA, 7 1/2%.

Q–If we buy a house FHA can we pay the taxes ourselves?

A–No, the FHA does not allow this.

Q–Four months ago we took out a FHA mortgage with you. We just inherited a large sum of money and would like to pay off the mortgage. Can we pay this mortgage off, if so, would there be any penalty?

A–Yes, you may pay off any FHA or VA mortgage at any time. FHA requires a 1% prepayment penalty if paid off within 10 years, VA has no payoff penalty.

Q–Does FHA lend the money for mortgages?

A–No, they only insure the mortgage company that in the event you default on your mortgage and foreclosure takes place, then FHA will reimburse the mortgage company for the loss.

Q–You recently sold our mortgage. Would you explain the reason for this. We have been wondering if you think our credit is bad.

A–Your credit standing had no bearing on us selling your mortgage. Mortgages are sold continually by lenders to keep a flow of funds available for the rising demand for mortgage money.

Ray Firm Holds Seminars to Aid Sales Personnel

Home-buyers and sellers may rest assured they're getting the most qualified service possible when they permit Ray Real Estate Co. personnel to handle any real estate transaction.

One of the many opportunities provided Ray salesmen to learn more about the realty field is the company's policy of holding extended seminars from time to time.

The seminars permit each Ray representative to acquaint himself with the current and future market and trends in real estate movement in all sectors of Michigan and elsewhere.

Ray Owner Explains 'Whys' of Escrow

The word "escrow" pops up frequently when a person is buying a home, but to many it is a word that is vague and little understood.

Old Daniel Webster, who has all the answers about words, defines escrow as: "An engagement in writing, as a bond or deed to do something, handed to a third party to keep until some condition has been performed, and only taking effect after this has been fulfilled."

Not very clear yet?

Well, let Robert Piersol, owner of Ray Real Estate Co., clarify escrow further. The owner of one of Michigan's largest realty firms says:

"The escrow fund is a legal device or instrument to prevent a homeowner from losing his home through oversight and to protect governmental agencies from tax delinquencies.

"Under federal government regulations, the escrow fund is part of every VA and FHA mortgage, at the request of the lender.

"Moneys set aside in escrow assure a homeowner against an oversight in paying property taxes that possibly could result in loss of the home, or an oversight in payment of premiums that could deprive the owner of fire insurance coverage.

"The escrow fund is a method that sets aside tax payments so that the homeowner doesn't have to raise money at a given time or when any tax statement becomes due and payable.

"Under escrow, the mortgage holder – not the owner – has the responsibility of meeting each tax payment as it falls due and of maintaining the fire insurance on the dwelling.

"The holder of the mortgage is responsible for making certain that there is always enough in escrow to cover the net tax payment.

"When new property taxes are voted by a municipality or school district, that is why the homeowner receives a notice from the mortgage company or bank that he must come up with additional funds for the escrow account."

---THE RAY STAFF

Professional in every sense of the word are these individuals who comprise part of the staff of RAY REAL ESTATE CO., one of the Midwest's fastest growing and most reliable realty firms. The company, based in the Michigan Bank Building, Gratiot at Fifteen Mile Road, Clinton Township, maintains six branch offices in Macomb County and three in Oakland County. If you are selling your home or in the market for one, you will get the most for your money by permitting the Ray staff to handle the transaction. The persons shown here represent offices in Roseville, St. Clair Shores, Warren, East Detroit, Utica, Mount Clemens, Hazel Park, Troy and Drayton Plains.

Ray's Sales Force Equipped to Serve

Think of it! More than 130 individuals to take care of your buying and selling needs in real estate.

A sales and management personnel of this magnitude is equivalent to the faculty of many colleges, universities or school districts.

Ray Real Estate Co. has this large personnel, with the firm fully staffed to completely handle any real estate transaction a buyer or seller cares to consummate.

Success of many enterprises is achieved only by untiring efforts on the part of their personnel. It's no wonder the Ray company has become one of the most successful firms of its kind in the Midwest.

In less than five years Ray has expanded from a virtual one-man office staff to where the company today has nine branch offices in Macomb and Oakland counties with a staff exceeding 130 persons. No company attains such growth without having satisfied customers.

Ray salesmen are trained extensively and professionally to meet your every real estate want ... and with courtesy and promptness. Approved by the State of Michgan before acceptance, a Ray salesman is fully qualified to guide you in the right way if you are selling or buying a dwelling.

At no cost to you, Ray offers a free appraisal. You are advised what your home is worth—something which most homeowners do not know. In today's market the value of a home can change from week to week or month to month. A homeowner should have his dwelling appraised at least once a year . . . for his own financial protection.

Let's say your purchased your home three years ago. In all probability you have an insurance policy that covers the home for what you paid for it. If the home were destroyed by fire, could you replace it for the amount of money you would get from the insurance carrier? Ninety per cent could not, since the policy was not increased to meet the rising market.

The Ray company stands ready at any time to assist a homebuyer or seller in every way. Visit any one of Ray's nine offices if you want the best of advice in real estate.

In all honesty we say, to the best of our knowledge no one of the tens of hundreds we have served has been dissatisfied.

We didn't reach the top in real estate by dealing from the bottom.

The word "reputable" is synonymous with Real Estate Co.

Top Service Makes Ray No. 1 in Area

What are the reasons for the phenomenal growth of Ray Real Estate Co.?

The answer is simple: The home-buyer or home-seller is provided the most complete service available in the realty field.

And the exposure is terrific. The company maintains a continuing advertising campaign through newspapers, radio and television, guaranteeing that when you list your home for sale with Ray, a maximum number of buyers will read or hear about it.

One example of the broad Ray advertising coverage is this tabloid now in your hands. Two-hundred thousand of this special section have been distributed throughout Macomb and Oakland counties and the metropolitan area.

Your home, when listed with Ray, will be shown to its best advantage by highly trained persons. Each Ray representative knows how to perform because he has been thoroughly schooled. These men know value, financing, mortgaging requirements, and appraising.

In fact, they know everything there is to know about real estate.

How can you go wrong when you rely on competency?

Suffice to say, Ray Real Estate Co. didn't get to be the respected firm that it is today by being incompetent. Ask anyone who has availed himself of Ray's services.

Ray Firm Boosting Advertising Budget

That time-honored maxim "it pays to advertise" has a firm supporter in Robert Piersol, owner of one of Michigan's largest and fastest growing real estate companies.

In line with his belief the Ray Real Estate Co. owner is increasing his advertising budget some 40 per cent for newspaper lineage this year.

"We expended $96,000 in newspaper advertising in 1968 and will be spending in excess of $137,000 this year in daily and weekly newspapers serving the counties of Macomb, Oakland and Wayne," he said.

A portion of the advertising outlay will be used to promote the services of two new branch offices Piersol plans to open later. The new outlets – their locations still undetermined – will bring to 11 the number of offices in the Ray chain which is based in the Michigan Bank Building, Gratiot at Fifteen Mile Road, Clinton Township.

Since Piersol opened his first office in Roseville less than four years ago, the Ray firm has spent nearly a quarter million dollars in newspaper and other advertising.

"Like other businesses," Piersol said, "our company has found accurate advertising copy placed in the proper news media has been a major factor in our continuing growth."

Grads Urged to Think Of Real Estate Career

The uncounted graduates of college and high school looking for a business career would do well to consider the real estate field where opportunity knocks often for an individual with ambition.

Real estate is one of the largest businesses in the nation, grossing billions of dollars annually.

A career in real estate offers, among other things, financial independence and security in keeping with all stable enterprises.

While some training is required, no degree in education is necessary. As in any business, the person who is industrious and willing to learn can work his way to the top in management.

All managers of Ray Real Estate Co.'s nine branch offices scattered throughout Macomb and Oakland counties started as realty salesmen. So did all the men holding executive positions.

The Ray firm today can – and does – offer this:

1. A complete training program for men interested in selling.
2. A complete training course in real estate, mortgage know-how, finance and appraisal.
3. A thorough course in public relations, advertising, marketing and executive leadership.

In the case of Ray, it's "earn while you learn" . . . something few other businesses offer.

Directing Ray's training program is Gene Alongo, general manager of the company, who has an extensive background in all phases of the realty business. Available to him are several other experts in a training program that leaves nothing undone to "school" a salesman from A-to-Z.

Ray salesmen attend seminars often, learning the latest in any changes imposed by government and studying current and future trends in the real estate market.

Again, Mr. Graduate, if you desire a career that offers much promise and stability in life, consider the real estate business. See Ray today and start yourself on the road to an excellent vocation.

Booming Area Challenge Met by Ray Firm

Macomb and Oakland counties have experienced a fabulous growth in the past two decades and all indicators point to a continuing influx of new residents. This augurs well for the home market.

Exceptionally heavy expansion is certain in the Sterling Heights-Utica-Shelby area, where Ray Real Estate Co. is well represented to serve home-buyers and sellers.

Think of it! In 1950, Sterling's population was 6,500. Today, it's in excess of 50,000. By 1980, the population will be at the 150,000 mark, according to projections of the Macomb County Planning Commission, and by 1990, county planners estimate the headcount at 190,000.

Between now and 1990, Macomb is expected to have 350,000 dwelling units, more than double today's total. That means there's going to be a lot of homes purchased and many sold.

Who better to handle your real estate transaction than Ray Real Estate Co. Here is a firm that has expanded from one to nine offices in less than five years – just one indication that nothing succeeds like success.

Like others, the Ray firm has great faith in the future of Macomb and Oakland. It plans to expand in keeping with the trend.

Whether it's today, tomorrow or next year, Ray welcomes your business and suggests that when you get ready to buy or sell, give us an opportunity to sit down with you to "talk it over." You'll never regret it.

Free Appraisals Part of Service of Ray Company

Thinking of selling your home? . . . Want a free appraisal?

You can get the appraisal without spending as much as a penny.

The only obligation on your part is to dial the telephone number of any one of Ray Real Estate Co.'s nine offices or drop in for a visit at your nearest Ray branch. You will find them listed in this special real estate section.

A call or visit will send a Ray salesman hurrying to the scene of action. And action is what you'll get, along with an opportunity to make the best possible deal.

If there's anything else you want to know about real estate, just ask the Ray man. Really, he's a real (ty) good guy.

Linked to 4 Other Killings

Girl, 13, Brutally Slain

YPSILANTI (AP) — The partially nude body of a young girl, with an electric cord around her neck, was found today in the area where four other girls were murdered in the past two years.

The victim was identified as 13-year-old Dawn Basum of Ypsilanti, who had been reported missing by her mother last night.

★ ★ ★

Eight-inch-long gashes were carved on her chest and stomach with a sharp instrument, reported Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey.

"It was a vicious and brutal killing," Harvey said. He indicated the evidence showed similarities to the other slayings.

BAFFLING CASES

Four other girls in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area of southeast Michigan have been murdered in the past two years in cases that have baffled law officers.

An area resident, who was not identified by police, discovered the latest victim en route to work today on a lonely dirt road.

★ ★ ★

The body was sent to the nearby University of Michigan Hospital for an autopsy to determine the cause of death.

★ ★ ★

Police sealed off about a square mile around the scene, barring newsmen and others from the area.

MEETING PLANNED

A meeting of law enforcement authorities involved in the investigation was to be held later today.

The victim, clad only in a short sleeved white shirt, was lying on her back at the shoulder of a dirt road, about three miles north of Ypsilanti.

An electric cord was wrapped around her neck and she had a white cloth jammed into her mouth, reported Sheriff Harvey.

BODY DUMPED AT SCENE

Harvey said the body apparently was dumped at the road sometime after dark last night.

★ ★ ★

One black strap shoe was found near the body. Another shoe was found a mile south of the road.

In all cases, the victims had been stripped and beaten.

WHERE BODY WAS FOUND — Washtenaw County sheriff's officers confer on a rural road north of Ypsilanti where the body of a 13-year-old girl was found today. Dawn Basum of Ypsilanti, whose nude body lies under the blanket, was the fifth young woman to be murdered in the Ypsilanti-Ann Arbor area in the past 22 months. None of the murders has been solved.

Debris Is Recovered; No Plane Survivors

From Our News Wires

A Soviet ship today reported finding debris but no survivors in the Sea of Japan where a U.S. Navy reconnaissance plane with 31 men aboard was lost Monday, apparently shot down by North Korean jets.

OVERSTREET

Meanwhile, officials in Washington said President Richard Nixon's first official reaction to the downing of the plane probably will be a strong protest.

★ ★ ★

The Soviet ships had been asked to help U.S. planes and ships in the search which is continuing.

The debris was spotted by a U.S. aircraft which then dropped smoke markers for nearby Soviet ships, the Pentagon said.

WHEEL AND LADDER

U.S. aircraft flew low over the Soviet ship and airmen reported the debris appeared to be a wheel and a ladder.

The United States has not acknowledged officially that the plane had been shot down, but Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said in Manchester, N.H., the administration believes the plane was more than 100 miles from the North Korean coast and that two North Korean MIG fighters attacked the plane.

PILOTED PLANE

Pilot of the plane was Lt. Cmdr. James H. Overstreet, 34, of McLaurin, Miss.

Related Stories, Page A-5

President Nixon was to meet today with his National Security Council. Officials said his first official action probably will be a strong protest. The options, especially militarily, were apparently limited.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. plane, propeller-driven and crammed with electronic snooping equipment which required a large crew, had been missing about 20 hours when the search planes sighted the debris. The U.S. destroyers Tucker and Dale were sent from Japan.

North Korea has demanded a meeting of the Korean Military Armistice Commission at Panmunjon Friday, presumably to bring up the plane issue. There was no indication from the military in Seoul that it would accept.

Area 'Metro Centers' Envisioned

Development of three new "metro centers," each ranging in population from 50,000 to 200,000 is proposed for Oakland County in the recently released "Preliminary 1990 Land Use Plan" for Southeast Michigan.

Prepared under the direction of Irvin J. Rubin, Transportation and Land Use Study (TALUS) director, the report was presented yesterday to the TALUS Administrative Committee in Detroit.

The report consisted of a 150-page review and description and a 7-by-9-foot map utilizing 25 colors.

R. J. Alexander, Oakland County Department of Public Works director, chairman of the 15-man TALUS administrative committee and of the Regional Planning Advisory Council of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG, emphasized the plan is preliminary and deals only with the land use element of the TALUS project.

OTHER ELEMENTS LATER

"The detailed highway, public transportation, open space, recreation, housing and other elements of the plan are in the process of development and will be presented to the administrative committee during the coming weeks and months," Alexander said.

The creation of "metro centers" in areas not yet developed or now sparsely populated is balanced in the preliminary TALUS plan by redevelopment proposals for Detroit, including construction of the new stadium in downtown Detroit.

★ ★ ★

"Each "metro center" plan would provide regional shopping opportunities coupled with offices, high-rise apartments, cultural and entertainment facilities, and in some cases, community college or university campuses.

Those areas chosen for Oakland County as "metro centers" are the Paint Creek area in the southern part of Oakland Township; the proposed M59-M275 interchange area near the border of White Lake and Waterford townships; and the east-central Novi Township area northwest of the proposed I-96-M275 interchange.

OTHER COMMUNITIES

In addition, the preliminary plan recommends development of "planned communities" by building new complexes or expanding existing communities. In Oakland County, Keatington in Orion Township is cited.

Among the principal growth factors guiding TALUS planners, Rubin said, are:

- Population will increase in the metro area from 4.4 million in 1965 to 6.9 million by 1990.
- Total annual personal income of residents in the region will increase from about $11 billion in 1965 to $34 billion in 1990.
- As income increases (from a median family income of $7,710 in 1965 to $14,800 in 1990) and as work hours decrease, there will be tremendous pressures for increased mobility and for more recreational facilities.

Committee OKs School Aid Bill

LANSING (UPI) —Spurred by fears that scores of public school districts face fiscal collapse, the Michigan House Education Committee has recommended swift passage of a record $746.9 million public school aid bill for the 1969-70 academic year.

The measure, sponsored chiefly by Chairman Lucille McCollough and embracing the State Board of Education's spending plan, faces stiff opposition from Gov. William C. Milliken and other top Republicans.

★ ★ ★

The committee, deadlocked on school aid proposals for more than a month, sent the proposal to the appropriations committee on a 7-6 party-line vote yesterday following a stormy hearing.

The bill largely was written by State School Supt. Ira Polley and calls for an increase of $57 million over Milliken's recommendation. It adds nearly $14 million for new programs and gives the districts $130 million more than they now receive.

NOT INCLUDED

The $746.9 million price tag does not include $157.1 million proposed by the education board for teacher pensions.

Increased enrollment, rising teacher salaries and defeated millage proposals make "this bill the absolute minimum the schools must get to operate," said Mrs. McCollough. Milliken's budget is not "realistic," the Dearborn Democrat added.

★ ★ ★

Republican members called the committee action "irresponsible."

The bill would require a tax hike if the state is to avoid debt-financing of school aid programs. GOP leaders say they want to hold the line on taxes this year.

2 Outstate Senators Offer Measure on Rec Fund Split

LANSING (AP)—A bill dividing the $100 million recreation bond money on a 70-30 basis— "the way we sold it to the people"—was introduced Tuesday in the Michigan Senate.

The measure would earmark $30 million for use by local communities and $70 million for the state's quality recreation programs.

★ ★ ★

The bill is sponsored by Republican Sens. Gordon Rockwell of Mount Morris, and Oscar Bouwsma of Muskegon.

A measure implementing Gov. William Milliken's proposed division of the funds already is under committee study, Bouwsma said. "But this (70-30) is the way we sold it to the people" who approved the bond issue in the November election, he said.

MILLIKEN'S PROPOSAL

Milliken had recommended that $30 million be used for local grants, $30 million go to counties of over 100,000 population to supplement urban area programs, and $40 million be used for state projects.

Under the Rockwell-Bouwsma proposal, the state would be divided into six districts and each would receive $150,000.

★ ★ ★

An additional $21 million would be granted on a per capita basis to the regions, with each county in the region entitled to an allocation equal to $2.68 per capita, based on the 1960 census.

The remaining $70 million, granted to the natural resources department, would be divided: $40.8 million for projects of the parks division; $17.7 million for the fisheries division; $7.5 million for the wildlife division; and $4 million for the forestry division.

Desegregation Ordered

Ferndale: No School Bias

FERNDALE (AP)—All 365 pupils in U.S. Grant elementary school are Negro.

The federal Office of Education says it constitutes illegal segregation. The Ferndale School District, the first in the North to be threatened with loss of federal funds, agrees that it's segregation, but denies it's illegal.

The Office of Education issued an order yesterday designed to force the integration of Grant pupils with about 4,100 children in nine other district elementary schools.

★ ★ ★

"We know there's segregation," Supt. John J. Houghton said, "but it's of a de facto nature. The school was built to meet an existing need and the population pattern that developed around it resulted in the fact that it is completely Negro today."

DELIBERATE DISCRIMINATION

Leon E. Panetta, director of the Office of Education's civil rights office, said the segregation of Negro pupils in Grant started when the school was built in 1926 as a deliberate effort to establish and maintain a discriminatory policy.

The school is in Royal Oak Township. Aside from a small portion of Ferndale, it is the only area in the school district with a large concentration of Negroes.

★ ★ ★

Houghton said one other elementary school has 27 Negro pupils, and two others have one Negro pupil each.

Burton Shifman, attorney for the district's school board, will meet with federal officials Monday to discuss the case.

Sheldon Hochman, president of the school board, said the district now receives $275,000 yearly in federal funds, including $140,000 used for a special education program at the Grant school.

Fire Guts Store in Orchard Lake

A late-evening fire yesterday gutted a television store and caused smoke damage to neighboring stores in an Orchard Lake shopping Center.

★ ★ ★

Cause of the fire at Bob Robinson's Magnavox at 3244 Orchard Lake, which started about 10:18 p.m. is still undetermined, according to Tri-City Fire Department Chief Herbert L. Morgan. State fire marshals were inspecting the 1½-story building this morning.

★ ★ ★

An estimate of the damage also has still to be figured, he said.

Steel Equipment Co., and Alvin's business office, on either side of Robinson's Magnavox, and nearby Lake Cleaners all suffered smoke damage.

★ ★ ★

The stores are in a shopping center owned by Midwestern Insurance Co., Chicago.

The Tri-City Department, which covers Sylvan Lake, Keego Harbor and Orchard Lake, sent two trucks to the fire while Commerce Township fire department sent one. Several volunteer firemen from Pontiac and West Bloomfield Township also fought the fire, according to Morgan.

Nixon Reform Package Due

Tax Breaks for Poor Eyed

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — President Nixon's ultimate goal in tax reform is to remove taxation entirely from families below the poverty line, a top White House official has disclosed.

Economist Arthur F. Burns, considered Nixon's top adviser on domestic affairs, said the government regards income below $3,300 to be at the poverty level for a city family of four.

★ ★ ★

Burns said removing the tax burden from such families would be among the priority suggestions when the administration sends its complete tax-reform program to Congress, probably next January.

The over-all program was outlined to reporters yesterday after Burns met for two hours with AFL-CIO officials whose closed-door, three-day economic conference with government aides ended today.

SPECIAL COMMISSION

Burns said Nixon can be expected to follow up pending tax reform proposals — one bundle in the next week or so, another in June — by appointing a special presidential commission on taxes.

Nixon's pending reform proposals, Burns said, will include a plan for increased deductions to benefit lower-income taxpayers. The loss of revenue would be covered by revenues gleaned from the closing of loopholes and elimination of tax shelters used by wealthier taxpayers.

Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy assured the AFL-CIO leaders the administration is aiming for "meaningful tax reform legislation in this session of Congress," but also needs the extension of the 10 per cent surtax to defeat inflation.

Burns and Kennedy were among a parade of administration officials who conferred with AFL-CIO President George Meany and about 35 presidents of major affiliated unions.

CONCERNS WELL KNOWN

The union leaders have refused to talk to reporters, but their concerns over Nixon policies are well-known. One is that the present anti-inflation restraints may be so severe as to cause rising unemployment. Another is that Nixon's budget cuts may impede programs supported by labor to deal with the problems of slums, urban unemployment and welfare.

THAT'S HER BOY — Four-year-old Shawn Schadler is credited by police with saving the life of his mother, Mrs. Fred H. Schadler of Arvada, Colo. Mrs. Schadler was knocked unconscious when she fell and struck her head on a rock. The boy and his mother were on a remote road in Coal Creek Canyon when the accident occurred. The youngster took off on a two-hour, four-mile walk through the unpopulated area to bring back help.

Nixon Faces Test on Job Centers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first congressional test of President Nixon's plan to shut down more than half of the nation's Job Corps centers opened today in a most unfriendly forum.

Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., one of the most outspoken critics of the President's proposal, scheduled hearings of his Education and Labor Committee today with the express purpose of stopping the closings.

★ ★ ★

Besides trying to reverse the decision to shut down 59 of the 113 centers, Perkins has said he wants to keep Nixon from moving the Job Corps and the Head Start program out of the Office of Economic Opportunity into other federal agencies.

★ ★ ★

Perkins and other critics of the administration's plans say the elimination of the centers and the transfer of administrative authority would gut the program.

BOAT BRIDGE — Floodwaters from the St. Croix River have closed the bridge connecting Stillwater, Minn., and Houlton, Wis., to cars. But one commuter has figured out a way to get to Minnesota to his job — his boat. The unidentified Wisconsinite floated across the bridge, tied his boat to a walkway and waded ashore.

Sirhan Jury Has All Evidence in Case but Gun

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jury trying Sirhan Bishara Sirhan for murder is closeted with the physical evidence in the case—everything except the gun that killed Robert F. Kennedy.

Only People's Exhibit No. 6, the cheap little pistol that ended the life of a presidential candidate, is missing from the 154 items piled into the jury room.

★ ★ ★

The jurors, who resume deliberations this morning, can get the gun—but not without asking. In their first full day, Tuesday, they requested only two things —a new light bulb and some chalk for their blackboard.

The principals in the case—defendant, judge and attorneys — were absent for the first time in the 15 weeks since the trial began.

Sirhan, in his windowless cell five floors above the 44-year-old Hall of Justice, was reported "in pretty good shape," by one of his attorneys, Russell Parsons. The 25-year-old Sirhan had been nervous during the state's closing argument Monday, Parsons said.

"He asked me when I thought the jury might reach a decision and how did I feel," Parsons said on a brief stopover in the eight-floor courtroom. "I told him I felt encouraged, but the jury must be talking the case over."

A second defense attorney, Grant B. Cooper, also spent some time in the courthouse, but the third—Emile Zola Berman—was packing his bags to return to New York today.

Parsons said Sirhan asked for money to buy cigarettes and magazines and that he gave him five $1 bills.

If the jury convicts Sirhan of first degree murder—the verdict asked by the state—there will be a separate, subsequent trial to determine whether he will go to the gas chamber or be sentenced to life in prison. Second degree murder—asked by the defense—is punishable by five years to life in prison, with the length of sentence and parole set by the state's Adult Authority.

Senate Panel Tours D.C. Slum

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate hunger committee's first tour of a city slum had these results:

A call for major new spending, a complaint the trip had a "carnival air," discovery of one child who actually had malnutrition and three who had fleas.

The field trip through Washington's riot-scarred slums Tuesday did produce enough examples of abject poverty, however, to prompt Sen. Jacob Javits to call conditions "appalling."

The unusual field tour was followed today by testimony on food stamps.

"A time bomb is ticking," said the New York Republican who was reared in a slum.

It was Javits who called for "major spending . . . to bring food to the hungry and educate them to the basics of nutrition."

The trip through shabby apartments and littered streets where damaged buildings are still boarded and walls scorched from the fires of last year's riots was part of the committee's weeklong look at hunger in the capital.

Birmingham

Tax Deadline Was Busy Day at Post Office

BIRMINGHAM — The most popular place in town last night was, of course, the post office.

★ ★ ★

The barrage of last-minute tax returns, which probably soared into the hundreds, was one of the heaviest ever received by the local post office on the final day for filing—April 15.

★ ★ ★

Streets ringing the post office carried heavy traffic from about 6 to 10 p.m., then subsided somewhat.

★ ★ ★

The dour look on the faces of most of those trooping up the post office steps indicated a general begrudging and unhappy attitude about the tax situation—perhaps much more so than usual.

SAMPLE OPINIONS

Opinion sampled from post office visitors indicated as much.

★ ★ ★

Sentiments ranged from "Glad it's over," "It has to be done," "I don't like it (the surtax) a bit," to a genuine dissertation by one young man on the principles involved in this year's filing.

★ ★ ★

His objection: not the money, but where it's going (the majority for defense spending.)

Festivities will get under way at 7 p.m. April 25 with folk-rock music, a coffee shop, games and a busy-bee booth where white elephants and antiques will be sold.

The fair will run 10 to 4 p.m. April 26.

'Little' Twister Strikes in State

COLDWATER (UPI) — What was described as "just a little" tornado touched down briefly south of this south-central Michigan community last night, ripping the roof off the bathroom of one home and rolling over at least one house trailer.

Branch County sheriff's officers said the twister touched down at Volkmer's Landing, a cluster of vacation homes between Coldwater and Hillsdale on Long Lake. They said there were no injuries and that they did not believe anyone was in the homes at the time.

★ ★ ★

"It was just a little tornado, nothing much, really," said one deputy. He said electric power was cut off at the beach area briefly.

Civil Defense officials put Hillsdale County under a tornado warning for about 90 minutes after the twister hit.

U.S. Error Kills 8 Viet Civilians

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Army spotter plane made a rocket attack on a sampan water taxi close to the Cambodian border yesterday, and U.S. military spokesmen said eight Vietnamese civilians were killed and 11 wounded.

The U.S. Command said the presumably accidental attack was under investigation. It was the most serious such incident reported in nearly six months.

★ ★ ★

The crowded sampan was moving along a canal just off the Mekong River near Hong Ngu, about 90 miles west of Saigon and two to three miles from the Cambodian border. Officials said it was attacked by a single engine Army 01 Birddog, a spotter plane used for aerial observation and forward artillery control.

The plane apparently fired 2.75-inch rockets, which are used both for marking artillery targets and for attacking enemy positions.

AP photographer Henri Huet was told in Can Tho, where the wounded Vietnamese were taken, that no military operation was in progress in the area of the attack.

It was the most serious such attack since Nov. 2, when a U.S. Marine jet accidentally dropped a 500-pound bomb on a village southwest of Da Nang, killing 31 persons and wounding 72.

Elsewhere in the war, Vietcong gunners bombarded at least 30 military bases and a few civilian population centers overnight as the enemy's spring offensive moved along in its eighth week.

South Vietnamese headquarters said its forces killed 27 Vietcong in two clashes in the Mekong Delta, with one government soldier killed and another wounded.

13 ENEMY KILLED

The U.S. Command said troops of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment, continuing a sweep northwest of the Michelin rubber plantation 45 miles northwest of Saigon, reported 13 enemy killed in a brief clash in which artillery and helicopter gunships supported the ground troops. One American was wounded, they said.

Petition Drive Planned to Seek Revamp of Pontiac Government

Petitions calling for a referendum vote on reorganizing the Pontiac city government will be circulated soon, the City Commission was informed last night.

Cecil Mullinix of 571 Lowell, a former commission candidate, said he would head the drive and circulate the petitions. This morning Mullinix said that he was not sure yet how the petitions would be worded.

★ ★ ★

There are three moves designed to bring about reorganization — the at-large election of the mayor, election to the commission solely by district and candidates' party affiliation.

★ ★ ★

Presently the mayor is chosen from the seven elected commissioners. In each district, the two top vote-getters run off in a citywide election (this makes it possible for a candidate to lose in his district but still represent it on the basis of the citywide vote.) The city election is alsononpartisan.

TAX VOTE DRIVE

Mullinix was also behind circulation of petitions in 1967 aimed at calling for a referendum on the city income tax. These petitions have been tied up in court since January 1968 when the tax was imposed by the commission.

★ ★ ★

Mullinix vows to make this petition drive unchallengeable. "There won't be any question on the validity," he said. Mullinix explained he would have legal counsel on each step.

★ ★ ★

"We must make the commissioners responsible to the people who elect them," he said.

40 Summer Jobs

City Seeking Teen-Age 'Police'

An "inside look" into the Pontiac Police Department is being offered — with pay — for deprived 14- and 15-year-old boys this summer.

★ ★ ★

Applications are now being accepted for the Pontiac Police Youth Service Corps, program coordinator George P. Caronis said.

★ ★ ★

Forty youths — 10 more than last year — will be accepted for the city-sponsored program and earn 75 cents an hour while they learn "everything about police work" and go on educational tours.

The boys will walk beats downtown like regular patrolmen and report unusual circumstances to police.

LECTURES, TOURS

They will ride as observers in police cars, attend lectures on police work and related subjects, and go on tours to such places as Oakland University, the pistol range and Tiger Stadium.

Purpose of the three-year-old program is to improve police-community relations and interest youngsters in police work.

Applicants must apply at the Personnel Department at City Hall between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays. The program runs from June 16 through Aug. 29.

Growing vitality in the City of Detroit will be essential to the over-all enduring strength of the region, thus the new stadium should be located downtown, Rubin said.

The plan further calls for clearance and replacement of much of Detroit's housing inside Grand Boulevard.

The preliminary plan calls for creation of a regional core, bounded by the Detroit River, the Lodge and Chrysler freeways and Grand Boulevard, through replacement of decaying strips of commercial activity with new retail stores and office space topped by medium and high-rise residential units.

★ ★ ★

The plan would include converting much of the Detroit River front to park lands.

RECREATION 'MUST'

"We cannot emphasize too strongly that provision of adequate and accessible recreation space and cultural facilities will be mandatory in the future," Rubin said.

"The ultimate test of any plan will be the degree to which it is accepted and implemented by governmental agencies at the local, county, regional, state and federal levels."

"Local units of government must approve those elements of the plan affecting development within their boundaries and that approval ultimately will reflect the wishes of the people of the region," the director said.

Sign Of Controversy

Sewer Pact Signing Gets Avon OK, if...

AVON TOWNSHIP — A string was put on Township Board authorization, given yesterday, for the clerk and supervisor to sign contracts for the Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor.

The main reservation was that a meeting be called with County Director of Public Works Director R. J. Alexander for a status report on efforts to obtain a Macomb County outlet for the giant six-township interceptor.

* * *

Trustee William E. McCullough charged: "Alexander continues to give us the run-around on the Macomb interceptor."

Supervisor Cyril E. Miller admitted Alexander was somewhat evasive on the outlet question, but added that the DPW chief did contend there had been progress in the negotiations. Miller urged authorizing the signatures.

4-2 VOTE

Despite the meeting requirement, the vote was 4-2 on authorizing the signing with trustees Earl E. Borden and George J. Ennis dissenting. Trustee Philip K. Trimble was absent.

Miller argued the interceptor project must move ahead, pointing out that township attorney Rex Bebout recommended signing the contracts.

* * *

Bebout told board members two memorandums could be attached to the contract later. One would cover the use of surplus funds for additions and extensions to the system, while the other would provide for the system reverting to township ownership after the bonds are paid.

The county reportedly has refused to permit these changes in the actual contract.

BUSINESS ON FAITH

Added Bebout: "If they can't provide an outlet, I don't think in my opinion bonds will be sold."

McCullough contended the township was entitled to much fuller information in the Macomb situation. "We're doing business on faith and I've never transacted business on faith in my life," he added.

* * *

Bordon, meanwhile, questioned where the exhibits were detailing costs. Consulting Engineer Robert Roth of Johnson & Anderson reported he had briefly viewed the exhibits and put the phase one water and sewer costs at $11.3 million.

Miller, who said Alexander was willing to meet with the township board but couldn't make yesterday's special afternoon board meeting, said the MSUO treatment plant could be employed to handle phase one sewage if the interceptor wasn't ready.

* * *

Completion date for the Clinton-Oakland is now October 1970. The township's first payment is April 1, 1970.

Avon will be the second township to sign its interceptor contracts. Waterford authorized its signing Monday.

Franklin's 19th Century Look in Jeopardy

By NED ADAMSON

FRANKLIN — A federal government official has advised the Franklin Historical society that merchants and residents here will have to take immediate action to stop impairment of the village's 19th century look.

Robert Keune, field services director for the National Trust for Historical Preservation, said if progress isn't made soon towards initiating authentic restoration efforts, the village could lose its registration in the national archives as a historical district.

* * *

Keune added that further construction of "counterfeit" colonial buildings in the village and commercial exploitation of existing buildings will have to be prevented.

"An unchecked continuation of this nibbling process will soon result in the serious impairment of the qualities which merit protection and preservation." Keune said.

'DOWNTOWN' AREA

He was referring to the growing number of antique shops, souvenir emporiums and psuedo-colonial signs and business establishments dotting the village's "downtown" area.

* * *

In a letter to Historical Society president Robert George, Keune encouraged development of a public information program, promoting the story of Franklin's historic value and significance.

* * *

Franklin was entered in the National Registery last February — the only Michigan municipality to be accepted into the registery, published by the U.S. Department of Interior.

* * *

CONTROVERSY STARTED

The controversy started when the planning commission recommended to the Village Council that the property be rezoned from commercial to residential so the village could acquire and preserve the historical site.

* * *

Hall has since filed a restraining order against the Village Council in Oakland County Probate Court, asking that it show cause for the rezoning proposal. The realtor had planned to erect a "colonial" type business building on the site. Decision in the suit is expected within ten days.

* * *

The court ruling could well determine whether the village effectively could prohibit further enroachment of alleged "counterfeit colonial" commercial development. The rezoning proposal involves seven other lots adjoining the Hall property in the Village Green area off Franklin Road, the village's main thoroughfare.

* * *

Financing the acquisition of the Hall and adjoining properties also presents problems. Preliminary results of a survey of village residents' feelings toward public financing of purchase of the property showed only moderate support. Federal matching funds for historical preservation are now considered scarce.

There are indications, however, that Edward J. Green of 26585 Woodlore and a group of interested backers may put up the money to purchase the property, to preserve it but this is still uncertain. Green has backed similar financing arrangements for other property in the Village Green area.

* * *

The national trust's warning to the historical society followed a recent visit to Franklin by Keune and his staff members to get a firsthand look at the village. He was shown the 26 sites in the village green area listed in the registry. He took several photographs and compiled notes on his observations.

* * *

Historical society members and village residents will meet next Thursday at Franklin Community Church to discuss a public information program recommended by Keune.

George explained the public information program probably would include preparation of brochures containing photographs, maps, documentation and other informative material. This, he said, would enable the historical society's preservation efforts to be publicly supported with facts.

ZONING OVERHAUL

George, who has been instrumental in pressing the council into action on the zoning change proposal, explained that completion of a revamping of the village's zoning ordinances, now underway, is necessary in order to avert future property hassels in the village green area.

* * *

He also feels that state legislation protecting historic sites is needed.

Such legislation would alleviate local governmental problems like the Franklin zoning controversy and facilitate preservation steps, George explained.

Holly Buys Land From Academy

HOLLY — The Village Council last night purchased eight acres from Adelphian Academy to build a new water filtration plant and expanding well facilities.

The acquisition gives the village the green light to pursue its proposed approximate $500,000 water system expansion.

* * *

Purchase price was $12,400. The property borders the village's present well site on Grange Hall Road.

The property/acquisition culminated a long series of negotiations between academy representatives and the council.

AGREEMENT TERMS

The academy agreed to sell the property with the provision it would be allowed to hook into the village's water main which will run across part of the academy grounds.

Academy officials said the water main tie-in was needed to give the academy's fire prevention sprinkling system a better supply of water.

* * *

Cosntruction of the water system is expected to begin in the near future. No completion date has been set. The project will be initiated with money available in the village's general fund.

A $400,000 to $500,000 bond issue will be floated to finance the remainder of the project. In addition to the filtration plant and wells, the system will include a 500,000-gallon water tower and water mains. Details on the financing procedure are undetermined.

SUSAN L. SULLIVANT

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Sullivant of 51273 Kingwood, Utica, Susan this week stars in her school production of "Guys and Dolls." Susan also is active in the school varsity chorus and yearbook and was a member of the homecoming queen's court last fall.

Susan will now compete as Miss Rochester in the Miss Michigan pageant in Muskegon June 16-22.

Tentative Budget OK'd by Oxford Twp. Board

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — Township Board members last week approved a preliminary budget of $121,046 in revenues and $132,850 in expenditures. The preliminary budget will now go before the county treasurer for review, then back to the township for final action.

In other recent action, the board reappointed its attorney, engineering firm, electrical, building and plumbing inspectors and auditing firm to another year's tenure.

District Slates Millage Talks

WALLED LAKE — The upcoming millage election for the Walled Lake School District is being discussed at community meetings this week and next.

On April 29, voters will be asked to approve a 5-mill school tax increase and renew a 1-mill levy. This will bring the tax levy from the current 30.3 mills to 35.3 mills for the next five years.

* * *

The meeting schedule is:

Tonight: Walled Lake Elementary School at 7:30 and C. H. Smart School at 8.

Tomorrow: Central and Loon Lake schools at 7:30 p.m.

* * *

Monday: Union Lake School at 8 p.m.

Tuesday: Wixom and Commerce schools at 7:30 p.m.

April 23: Twin Beach School at 8 p.m.

April 24: Keith School and Walled Lake Junior High at 8 p.m.

MILLAGE SPLIT

The current tax levy allows 23.3 mills for school operation and 7 mills for school construction bonds. Three of the additional 5 mills will be used to operate the new Walled Lake Western High School.

Another 1½ mills will cover increased enrollments, increased costs due to inflation and go towards maintaining competitive teacher salaries. Another ½ mill will be used to set up a community school program.

* * *

A 5-mill increase would raise property taxes by $5 per $1,000 of equalized valuation.

Lake Orion to Vote on Schools' Building

LAKE ORION — Voters of this school district will be asked again this Saturday to approve a $5.5-million school building program, a measure the electorate turned down last June.

The ballot question this time will drop the presumed matter of disagreement, a $600,000 swimming pool addition to the high school. Voters emphatically rejected the separate swimming pool question in June.

School board members feel that it unfairly influenced the negative vote on the building program, according to Supt. Leucis Mundy.

If passed Saturday, the bond issue would provide funds to build a new elementary school, construct additions to Webber Elementary School, Lake Orion Junior and Senior high schools and cash for site acquisitions and improvements.

Mundy said that the building program would cost taxpayers an additional $2.79 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

"For example," Mundy explained, "if a house is assessed at $10,000, the owner would pay an additional $27.90 in school taxes per year."

* * *

Mundy noted that although voters turned down the building program (along with the swimming pool proposition), a millage renewal election last Jan. 25 passed overwhelmingly.

"That January election is a bright note. We hope for success with the building program question this time around, especially since we have dropped the swimming pool proposal," Mundy said.

"It would be safe to say that if additional buildings are not provided, students will have to be quartered in temporary classrooms (portables). Furthermore, students possibly would have to be switched to half-day sessions in probably a year. All our buildings are at full capacity," Mundy declared.

Rochester School Budget OK

ROCHESTER — A preliminary budget presented by Supt. of Schools Douglas Lund has been accepted with no changes by the school board.

The $6,190,840 budget is 18 per cent greater than the previous school year's budget as a result of 600 anticipated new students, the creation of a second high school and staff, money for anticipated wage boosts and the increased cost of equipment and supplies, according to Lund.

* * *

The budget will now go before the county tax allocation board for review and back to the school district for final action after state aid figures are available.

In other recent business, an administrative promotion and loss were acted upon by the board.

Promoted was Ralph S. Hawes, from Rochester High School assistant principal to principal of the new Adams High School.

Hawes will assist in the establishment of two separate high schools, particularly in regard to student and staff planning, Lund said. Adams and Rochester High will share facilities until the new high school is completed, projected for use in January 1970.

* * *

Harold Hatherly was released from his contract as Rochester High School assistant principal. Hatherly, who served the district 13 years as a teacher and administrator, will accept a position as a junior high school principal May 16 in Kenosha, Wis.

Hatherly's resignation was accepted "with regret" by the board.

School board members agreed to send an application to the Michigan Department of Education for preliminary qualification to possibly place a $4.1-million bond issue on the June school election ballot.

The new bond issue would be a scaled-down version of an $8-million five-year building bond proposal that failed last February.

Lund said that the possible June bond issue would ask for funds to construct a new wing to Adams High (currently under construction), additions to three elementary schools, construction of one new elementary school and renovation of Central Junior High.

Dropped from the February question for a June attempt would be construction of an additional elementary and junior high school, Lund explained.

Grass Fire Reward Set in Oxford Twp.

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — Supervisor Lee Valentine said that the township is currently offering a $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a person or persons setting a grass fire.

* * *

Valentine said that money paid to the Village of Oxford Fire Department for use of fire-fighting equipment ran to $18,000 last year and is estimated at $25,000 to the end of this year.

"It isn't just kids we're finding who set grass fires, either," Valentine said.

Capital Improvement Budget Adopted

A capital improvement budget of $754,900 for 1969 was adopted by the City Commission last night.

The funds are to come from a 1.5-mill levy on the equalized valuation of the city, an estimated $463 million, plus some $60,000 from land sales and interest.

The largest expenditure is $237,000 for street improvements. The city also will spend about $200,000 for a new fire station at West South Boulevard and Motor for which bids are now being taken.

Street improvement projects will proceed on portions of the following streets: Balboa, Granada, Ypsilanti, Basswood, Linfere, Carlisle, Price, Eastway, Menominee, Seminole and West Iroquois.

In other business, the commission:

● Set two public hearings for 8 p.m. April 22 for the intention to construct a sanitary sewer in Westway from 97 feet south of Benson to Michigan; and for presentation of reconstruction of pavement in Green and Sarko Subdivision on Balboa and Granada.

● Ordered construction of sidewalk on Motor from West South Boulevard and Montana at a cost of $1,545, none to be assessed.

● Reappointed Ralph Puckett of 970 Berwick to another term expiring Dec. 31, 1971, on the electrical examining board.

● Approved preparation of a land trade with The Pontiac Press involving a city parking lot at the rear of The Press building on West Huron and Pine. The Press is to provide the city with a substitute parking lot adjacent to the present one. However, the city is to retain use of the present lot until owners of The Press are prepared to carry out proposed expansion, according to the agreement.

★ ★ ★

● Deferred two requests until next Tuesday — from Farid Sefa for a new SDM license at 1249 Baldwin and from the Pontiac Metropolitan Club for permission to hold a carnival at West Pike and Saginaw from May 20 to June 1.

● Changed the meeting set for May 13 for May 12 so that commissioners can attend the annual banquet of employes of Pontiac General Hospital.

Street 'Subsidy' Argued Again

Assessment Rates Disputed; Hearing Set

Two city commissioners continued their claims that the city was turning over $57,000 to a developer in the form of a street improvement "subsidy" at last night's commission meeting.

Commissioners Robert C. Irwin, District 2, and Robert F. Jackson, District 5, have been disputing the proposed assessment rates for Charles Langs, Inc., for his development on West Kennett, west of Alcott School.

★ ★ ★

The firm is building a two phase project of more than 500 units of rent supplement housing and housing for the elderly called North Hill Farms.

Total cost of street improvements has been estimated at $174,644 with the city paying some $128,509. Irwin and Jackson claim some $57,000 of this is not correct.

JACKSON'S FIGURES

Jackson said his figures show the per-foot rate of street improvement was $27 and that the city was picking up $20.25 of this unduly.

A report from Joseph E. Neipling, director of public works and services, indicated the City Commission had a lot of leeway in assessmeht practices according to past city resolutions.

★ ★ ★

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. and District 4 Commissioner F. Jack Douglas defended Langs.

The mayor said Langs had been having difficulty in funding his project, the first rent-supplement housing tried in the city, when he had made his street improvement proposals.

'HE HAD THE GUTS'

"He (Langs) had the guts to start building and since others have followed," the mayor said.

Douglas expressed doubt over the figures being used by Irwin and Jackson and asked that Langs present some figures.

★ ★ ★

Taylor requested that Langs' firm provide the commission with details.

A public hearing on the assessment roll was set for April 29, 8 p.m., on the project over the two objections.

★ ★ ★

Irwin and Jackson continued their dissent when a public hearing was held on the capital improvement budget for 1969. The budget of $754,000 contains $237,000 for street improvements.

The two commissioners moved to have the $57,000 removed from the budget but were outvoted, 5-2.

U.S. Constitution Original Is Sold for Record Price

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the eight remaining original copies of the U.S. Constitution has been sold for $155,000—reportedly the highest price ever for such a document.

★ ★ ★

Hans Krauss, a New York rare books dealer, bought the manuscript Tuesday at an auction at the Parke-Bernet Galleries.

★ ★ ★

The document was the personal copy of Pierce Butler, a delegate from South Carolina. It contains 40 pages of his notes, and may include the "missing Pinckney plan," a Parke-Bernet spokesman said. That plan, one of three considered by the Constitutional Convention, has never been found.

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Mike Miller, candidate for the Juneau borough assembly, won a major endorsement when the Southeast Alaska Empire ran this ad:

Mrs. Miller's friends had withheld public support pending the repair work.

Bid on Former DPW Property Accepted

Harambee Receives Official Endorsement

Harambee Inc. received unanimous City Commission endorsement and a few kudos last night for its proposed multiple housing development project in southwest Pontiac.

Harambee, a black community development group, proposes a 60-unit town-house project in the former Department of Public Works property northeast of Lake and Orton streets that is expected to cost about $1 million.

★ ★ ★

Harambee's bid of $40,700 for the city property was the only one received by the city (the amount was the appraised value) and was accepted unanimously, clearing the way for construction.

The group intends to start building sometime in August and hopes to have housing available by summer of 1970.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said, "We are beginning to see things materialize in the rebuilding of the southern part of our city. The men who have worked on this project deserve a great deal of credit."

He added: "I understand this is only the beginning and many other things are forthcoming . . . I am happy to pat these men on the back."

District Commissioner T. Warren Fowler Sr. said: "I am glad to see the housing. I am hoping they will bring forth the housing they intend to . . . I wish them luck."

Harambee hopes to use federal and private funding for several projects to provide various types of housing in the city.

Asia Parleys to Air Birth Curbs

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — "Can we stem the tide?" an expert on Asia's exploding population asked. "I think not."

Fear is growing among students of world population that there may be no answer to the problem of too many people on the planet's most populous continent.

* * *

Spurred by such fears, two major organizations have called conferences to seek solutions before it is too late.

First is an Arpil 15-28 meeting in Singapore of the United Nations Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East—ECAFE — a 22-year-old agency whose 30 member nations last set up a population division.

PROJECTS THREATENED

The oldest regional organization in Asia, ECAFE has begun many national economic projects, only to see the gains threatened by rapidly increasing population.

The second major conference is planned by the International Planned Parenthood Federation. It will be in Bandung, Indonesia, in June.

* * *

If the present birth rate continues, Indonesia's 125 million population will have doubled in 30 years to 250 million.

Birth statistics indicate that family planning projects have failed to check the progression by which the populations of countries such as India, now with more than 500 million, are doomed to double every 30 years.

TWO-THIRDS

Asia's population now totals two billion persons—two-thirds of the world's population. Unchecked, India's population will equal that number in 60 years.

* * *

Some $100 million will be committed to the fight against population explosion this year, five times the amount spent in 1962. But some demographers believe it is too little, too late.

"It's like the simple law of physics which says that momentum equals mass times velocity," says Dr. Gordon Perkins, an American populaton-control adviser at the Ford Foundation's regional headquarters in Bangkok.

* * *

"In the case of population, the bigger the populaton, the faster it grows and the harder it is to slow down. It is a snowball effect."

NEGLIGIBLE RESULTS

A number of foundations and organizations have promoted population control efforts in Asia—all with negligible results.

Dr. Carl Frisen, American director of ECAFE's population division, belives some countries may never gain control of their population.

* * *

In saying he doesn't think the tide can be stemmed, Dr. Frisen adds: "Some people are very critical of approaches to populaton control that are being taken and say the only solution is mandatory action."

That could mean the governments would limit couples to a certain number of children and punish by heavier taxation and other methods the couples who exceed the limit.

HUMAN RIGHT

"This is a very difficult problem because many religions and people believe that a child is God's gift," Dr. Frisen said. "There is also a U. N. resoluton on the books that to have any number of children is a human right."

Some Asian nations, among them Nationalist China and South Korea, have reduced birth rates with present population-control methods such as pills, contraceptives, sterilization and an intrauterine device known as the loop.

* * *

Most scientists feel use of current methods should be stepped up until some better way is found.

But a Ford Foundation report indicates that in other countries, such as the predominately Roman Catholic Philippines, as well as Thailand and Indonesia, effects of family planning have been slight.

No matter how good a used car seems to be at first, Chevy OK inspectors assume it's guilty until proved innocent.

Covering 'The Impossible Beat' Is Reporter's Fate

By JEANNE NELSON

"Jeanne, what you need is a good jogging."

"Now wait a minute, boss, I admit there are times when my participles dangle a little, but is that really provocation for flogging?"

"Jogging, you idiot — as in run. "Now contact the YW on this new women's jogging class on Tuesdays. And I want yo to get really involved, you know, get in there and really tell it like it is."

DOOMSDAY NEARS

For three long weeks this dark shadow of doom has been hanging over my shoulder as THE DAY came closer. I comforted myself with thoughts of a blizzard on Tuesday. No such luck, just a harmless drizzle that, according to Eva Terrell, the Y's program director, "won't put a damper on our plans — ha, ha."

Wouldn't yo just know that anyone who loves to jog would have a sense of humor like that?

* * *

After a few choice comments from the city room crew on my jogging ensemble, I took the first step. Into the car and behind the wheel (who knew how much stred-up energy this assignment would take? I couldn't risk wastig an ounce of it.)

The two blocks to the "Y" zipped by and there I was, pulling into the driveway for the moment of truth. Sudden joy overcame me, for there was the photographer coming OUT of the "Y" and loading his equipment BAK into the car.

FOILED AGAIN

Aha, I thought, you've been saved this unspeakable ordeal for at least another week. But my euphoria was short lived as he shouted, "We're in the wrong place, Nelson, they're all over at Hawthorne Park."

Each precious secnd of the ten minute drive before that inevitable humiliation, was savored as never before.

As it turned out, "we joggers" only numbered four out of a possible class of 16. It was cold, ite was damp, and that little blue and white sign looked a heck of a lot further away than a tenth of a mile from where I stood.

"You gotta keep the body movement going, you know, like doing cadence," shouts Eva. "See how much better it is when you really get all the parts moving." (She's got to be kidding, all my parts move when I just tiptoe.)

ELBOWS UP

"Keep those elbows up, kids, switch to the heel-toe when yo get winded, Nelson, you CAN'T be winded yet.'

Panic strikes—that photptgrapher! I remember now, he's the one who got that photo assignment of mine out in the boondocks, the one that got canceled before I culd tell him abut it. "OK, Jeanne, keep your head up now, so I can get a doooood shoot." Oh well, what's a lost image here and there?

Abortion Issue Draws Support on Both Sides

LANSING (AP) — The young woman sat before the Senate committee and said simply: "I'm familiar with abortions. I had one."

Marina Wotton, 22, married and the mother of a three-year-old girl, was among the minority Tuesday as she testified in support of liberalized abortion laws for Michigan.

The Senate Committee on Health, Social Services and Retirement heard testimony for five hours from 11 persons favoring liberalization of the current law and 17 against.

"The emphasis should be on contraception," Mrs. Wotton said. "But people do have slipups . . . It's not a question of whether abortions should occur or not. It must be realized that they do occur."

* * *

Mrs. Wotton told of finding herself pregnant for a second time, of heavy debt incurred by herself and her husband, both students at the University of Michigan.

"The university hospital said it could not refer me to anyone," she said. "But that they would patch me up afterwards.

"I love children," she said. "I want to have them — but I want them when I can do them justice."

"I speak for the defenseless minority — the unborn child," said Kathleen Sommers of East Lansing, who brought four of her nine children to the hearing. "The right to life is the most basic civil right. The murder of the innocent is not a humane solution to our problems."

"I am sure glad I am alive," said Mrs. Jeanne G. Slumkoski of Kalamazoo, mother of three children. "If abortion laws had been liberal about 38 years ago or more, I could have been called a product of rape and (been) aborted."

Mrs. Raymond Wells of Flint, mother of a 20-year-old daughter, said she had had German measles—known for possible adverse effects during pregnancy—and could have had a therapeutic abortion.

"My daughter fortunately was born healthy," she said, "but even if she had not been, my husband and I consider the greatest gift we could give her was the gift of life."

The hearing—packed with emotion and interrupted several times by applause — included testimony from experts who disagreed on many facts and consequences of liberalized laws.

"I have watched a woman deliver a baby and turn away to look at the wall," said Dr. David Bingham of the U-M Hospital. "I have performed therapeutic abortions," he added. "I am already an abortionist."

Bingham said he had had to refuse abortions to some women and had "seen them return near death" after illegal operations.

"The gross effects of unwanted children can best be seen in cases of battered children that come to hospitals," said John Suttinger of Ann Arbor, representing the Huron Valley chapter of the National Association of Social Workers.

PRO AND CON

Dr. Jack Stack, an Alma general practitioner and vice president of the Michigan Council to Study Abortion, termed the concept of sweeping abortion law reform "excellent." One proposal, he said, "puts the delicate problem where it belongs—in the traditional physician-patient relationship."

Detroit lawyer Arthur Brakey called abortion "stupid cannibalism."

"There is nothing to prevent the operation of an abortion mill which will make Michigan known throughout the land," he said. "There will be no legal difference between the removal of a wart and the killing of an unborn child."

Barkey also predicted "more illegal abortions, more self-induced abortions and more abortion deaths," should a liberalized law pass the Legislature.

Mrs. Jill Knight, a conservative member of British parliament, testified as the guest of Sen. Jerome Hart, D-Saginaw.

England's recently adopted liberalized abortion law has caused requests to "skyrocket," she said, with 150,000 women seeking abortions in the year the law has been in effect. "Illegal abortions continue to rise at the same rate as legal ones," she added.

Women continue to seek out "backstreet abortionists" to maintain privacy, Mrs. Knight said, explaining that the British law requires records be kept on legal abortions performed.

"If you want to have responsible parents you'd better give them a choice," urged John Hurley, professor of psychology at Michigan State University.

"Make a decision on the merits," said Mrs. John H. O'Brien of Ann Arbor. Decide "what language will save the lives of all women, not just the rich, not just the informed."

Mrs. O'Brien and Mrs. Rosalind Wood, president of the Council for Study of Abortions and executive director of the Florence Crittenton Home (for unwed mothers) at Jackson, cited between 13,400 and 15,000 abortion requests annually in Michigan.

The Senate committee is sthdying the measures, one to allow legal abortions under specified circumstances, the other to provide for termination of pregnancy of the decision of a woman and her physician.

Sponsors are Sen. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, and Sen. John McCauley, D-Wyandotte.

Princess Anne Does Own Thing as 'Hair' Audience Applauds

LONDON (AP) — Teen-aged Princess Anne paid a surprise visit to the American musical show "Hair" Tuesday night and wound up dancing on stage with the hippie cast.

* * *

The audience sat up and cheered as the princess broke into a hip-swinging routine, flinging her arms around in abandon.

* * *

No one could recall any member of Britain's royal family behaving so informally before.

* * *

Wearing a navy blue trouser suit and white blouse, the 18-year-old Anne turned up at the Shaftesbury Theater with three unnamed friends — two young men and a blonde girl.

* * *

From a fourth-row seat the princess listened to the show's crop of four-letter words and watched the nude scene without batting an eye.

She rose to her feet immediately after the 27 members of the cast issued their nightly invitation for the audience to come on stage and dance.

THE BEAT

Smoke bombs were set off and the auditorium was illuminated by flashing lights as the princess merged with her friends among some 200 people dancing to the thump of beat music. Cheers and applause rang out as members of the audience suddenly recognized her.

* * *

"She was fantastic, really wild," said company manager Peter Kendal.

"Everyone was knocked out. She jived around the stage for almost 10 minutes."

* * *

Kendal said the four-letter words and the spectacle of nude actors and actresses didn't bother Anne at all — "in fact, she didn't turn a hair."

* * *

One member of the cast of "Hair" turned out to be a girl Anne knew from the time when they both went to Benenden School in Kent. She told 21-year-old Rohan McCullough: "After all the money that was paid for your education, fancy finding you in this kind of show."

* * *

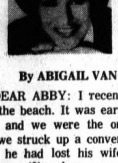
Then the royal party left the theater, accompanied by Anne's personal detective.

There was some doubt whether Queen Elizabeth II was aware what her daughter was up to.

* * *

A Buckingham palace spokesman said: "We did not even know Princess Anne was at the theater."

"It must be more then a tenth of a mile," gasps reporter Nelson, "I'll never make the other nine-tenths."



He Knows Own Children; Let Him Tell Them

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently met a man on the beach. It was early in the morning and we were the only two around so we struck up a conversation. He told me he had lost his wife three months before. (I've been a widow for three years.)

We hit it off immediately and had so much in common. It was wonderful. We had lunch together that day, and dinner that evening. And for the next two weeks we spent all our time together. He asked me if I would marry him when a year has passed since his wife's death. I accepted.

We flew north together and he came to my home town to meet my married children. They adored him.

My problem: He also has married children, but he doesn't want to tell them about me yet. He says it's "too soon." I don't mind waiting a year to be married, but I think the longer he waits to tell his children about me, the harder it will be.

I love him very much, Abby, and will wait if I have to, but it doesn't seem fair to me. Please advise me. HURT

DEAR HURT: Don't be hurt. He knows his children better than you do. But tell him that if he holds off telling them too long they might think he's marrying a woman he hardly knows.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 years old and I have a crush on a guy for the first time in my life. We are only on a hello and good-by basis.

I see him about once a week and I say "Hi." Then he says, "Hi." Then I say, "Bye" and he says, "Bye."

How can I get on friendlier terms with him? Please don't tell me to call him up and invite him to something. I don't know him well enough for that.

GOT A CRUSH

DEAR GOT: Use a little imagination. Wear something (like a ROCKEFELLER FOR PRESIDENT button) or carry a pair of ice skates — anything to give him a chance to say something more than Hi and Bye. If YOU can't think of something to catch his eye and he can't think of anything for openers, you'd better forget him. Neither of you is ready yet.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, Jenny, is being married in July. She has asked her fiance's two sisters to be bridesmaids. These girls are going to be bridesmaids at another wedding in June.

The gowns for Jenny's wedding have already been selected and will be here soon.

Now Jenny has heard that her future mother-in-law wants her daughters to wear the gowns for the JUNE wedding that my daughter selected for her wedding.

Jenny says absolutely not. What do you say?

FURIOUS

DEAR FURIOUS: If the June wedding is "local," and will be attended by many of the same people who will attend Jenny's wedding, I'd be inclined to vote with Jenny.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from "LONESOME AND BLUE," whose husband was in Europe for a "sales meeting," while his wife was home with four kids. I am in exactly the same position, only I'm home with four and one-half kids!

My husband is a salesman, and has won all sorts of trips as prizes — but he goes with other prize-winners from different parts of the country. His company has never offered him a trip with his wife and family. Their conventions and meetings are held all over the world, which I resent, as his regular sales job takes him away enough as it is.

Right now I'm going to the supermarket. That friendly, good-looking man in the produce department is looking better all the time.

Facts of Long Life Compiled for 19.5 Millions of Retirees

NEW YORK — It's never too late to learn the facts of life—especially long life, according to Peter Dickinson, editor of Harvest Years, the nation's leading publication devoted solely to the interests of those seeking an exciting and meaningful retirement. That means more than 19.5 million Americans today.

Mr. Dickinson and his staff have compiled a 16-page study entitled "How to Live Longer Better" which may very well be to the over-fifty set as vital as Dr. Spock's manual has been to the raising of youngsters. The material, which originally was contained in a special report to the 100,000-plus readers of Harvest Years, may be purchased in pamphlet form for fifty cents from Harvest Years, Dept. RG-1, 104 East 40 Street, New York, N. Y. 10016.

* * *

The report tells why and how we grow older . . . the effects of heredity, exercise, rest, diet, smoking and drinking, preventive medicine, climate, and other vital factors affecting longevity.

The pamphlet also contains a longevity checklist that allows readers to add up their "long life" score . . . tables that show life expectancy at any age . . . data that helps readers select the best place to live.

STUDY CONCLUSIONS

Bursting with facts culled from scores of books, studies and reports on the facets of senior citizenry, "How to Live Longer Better" is a treasure chest of observations. Some examples:

The longer we live the better chance we have of living even longer.

It is reasonable to expect today to live 100 years — most people don't die of old age but of illness and accidents.

Longevity may be promoted by being slightly underweight. The lowest mortality rate of people over 30 are those who weigh 15 to 20 pounds less than average.

The educated appear to live longer. This is largely because of socio-economic factors.

At Columbia Teacher's College, it was found that people in their seventies could learn Russian and shorthand as easily as their younger classmates.

Senility affects less than one per cent of those over sixty-five.

Offspring from young mothers have a better chance for long life. Negroes aged seventy and over have a better chance for longevity than whites.

Exercise is the key. A New York study of 110,000 people who had had heart attacks found that after four weeks of illness 41 per cent of the nonwalkers were dead, while only 23 per cent of the walkers were. When all physical activity was considered, 57 per cent of the inactive died as compared to only 16 per cent of those who had some form of exercise.

People usually rest better after exercise. An inactive day may cause a sleepless night.

Always leave the table with an appetite. Cornell University researchers found that laboratory animals put on half rations lived the equivalent of 100 human years and remained virile, active and sleek. The conclusion: the virtues of a thin body during adult life seem obvious.

Inactive men who smoke have a mortality rate five times higher than active nonsmokers in the same age range.

One secret of long life, as suggested by the American Medical Association—get a chronic disease—and take good care of it. Your chances of living longer are much higher if you take reasonable, intelligent care of yourself.

Men with nonaggressive personalities are almost entirely safe from cardiovascular disease . . . A middle of the road attitude toward prestige and material wealth will result in less tension and anxiety.

Wild Volley Ball Disrupts Classes

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — While a girls' volley ball game was in progress at Assumption High School, one of the players in the gymnasium accidentally kicked the ball, which crashed into a fire alarm. Instantly, bells all over the school building pealed forth. Students poured out of the building and up rolled six pieces of fire equipment.

$1,000 Reward Offered by Consumers Power

A reward has been offered by Consumers Power Co. after some 120 of its customers just north of Pontiac lost gas service for five hours yesterday.

The utility firm offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to conviction of anyone damaging its facilities or interrupting service to customers, a spokesman said yesterday.

* * *

Members of the Utility workers Union have been striking the utility for over a week, in demand for a greater money package in a new contract.

About 500 customers could have been affected when someone broke a lock on a buried gas pressure regulator pit at Joslyn and Waldon roads in Orion Township and turned off a value, a company spokesman said.

RESERVE POWER

But reserve power from another main prevented this, he said.

Gas to an area just north of the city near Joslyn in Pontiac Township was cut off just before 10 a.m. Most of it was restored by 3 pm.

* * *

In other strike-related incidents, vandals shot a BB pellet through a 9-by-11-foot window at Consumers main office at 28 W. Lawrence early yesterday, causing $150 damage.

Three vehicles had their tires punctured with ice picks as they attempted to leave the Karn Weadock generating complex at Essexville.

Vandals Break 49 Windows

Waterford Township police today are investigating the breaking of 49 windows by vandals using BB pellets during the night at Waterford Township High School.

Police said the broken windows were all on the east side of the school, with a greater part of the damage to windows in an assistant principal's office. They said there was no other indication of damage.

Damage was estimated at $500 by a school official.

Pitchers Slightly Ahead of Hitters in Prep Tilts

In most cases, the pitchers are proving they're slightly ahead of the hitters in prep baseball contests.

* * *

Walled Lake's Vikings proved that point while at the same time giving it a jolt en route to an 11-1 decision over North Farmington.

WATERFORD WINS

Elsewhere on the prep calendar yesterday, Waterford came up with four runs in the top of the seventh to shade Pontiac Catholic, 5-4, Oak Park blanked Hazel Park, 1-0, Madison Lamphere pinned a 3-2 setback on Hamtramck and New Haven shut out Richmond, 2-0.

* * *

Dan Burlingame struck out 11 and walked only three while spacing five North Farmington hits.

VIKINGS EXPLODE

And while Burlingame was taming the Raiders, his teammates were having a ball. Third baseman Pat Piilo singled home a pair of runs in the first inning and doubled home two more in the seventh to lead the assault. Catcher Wally Williams picked up two hits, and Dan McDole missed out on the hits but scored three times. Walled Lake is now 2-2. North Farmington is 0-1.

* * *

Waterford (3-3) looked like a loser as the team came to bat in the top of the seventh and trailing, 4-1.

WINNING RALLY

But a single, a walk and an error produced one run and third baseman Steve Goit tripled home two runs to knot the count. Tom Tippen's sacrifice fly then sent Goit home with the winning run.

* * *

Pat Manion and Jeff Solwold paced the Pontiac Catholic (0-2) attack with two hits apiece.

LONE RUN

Left fielder Ron Erleman's single brought Daryl Marcos across in the top of the first inning for the only run Dave Wiener needed. The hard-throwing right-hander scattered six hits to bring Oak Park the victory.

* * *

Home runs by Dan Kubik and Mike Battani along with the pitching of Dub Brady enabled Lamphere to raise its record to 4-0. Brady, who fanned eight, has won three times.

Kubik homered in the second and Battani connected with Jim Osborne aboard in the fifth.

* * *

Junior right-hander Charles Furton limited Richmond to four safeties in pitching New Haven to victory in its season opener. Pete Kovich doubled home the first run in the fourth and came home moments later on a single by Scott Belt.

KINGS SUFFER FROM BLUES — Four Los Angeles Kings players are unable to stop the puck handling of St. Louis' Gary Sabourin (center) who is preparing a pass to Larry Keenan (not shown) who promptly scored a first-period goal. Sabourin received the pass from Bob Plager (extreme right) to set up the score which helped the Blues to a 4-0 opening game win in their best-of-seven Western Division finals National Hockey League playoff.

Avondale, Lake Orion Win Oakland A League Games

Solid pitching and some timely hitting carried Avondale and Lake Orion to victories yesterday in Oakland A League baseball openers.

A two-hitter by right-hander Rick Walker and Craig Medlen's home run enabled Avondale to blank Romeo, 1-0, while Bill Baker scattered three hits in Lake Orion's 3-1 decision over Rochester.

FANNED FOUR

Walker fanned four and gave up a pair of singles as Avondale upped its over-all record to 1-2.

* * *

Medlen jumped on a 2-2 fastball and rode it over the leftfield fence in the fourth inning for the game's lone run.

Orion scored single runs in the second, third and fourth innings, while Rochester countered with a marker in the top of the fourth.

Steve Allison tripled home one Orion run and scored another on a wild pitch to pace the Dragons attack.

Ted Malkasian doubled to drive in Rochester's single marker.

Indoor League Concludes

Metamora Riders Score High

Metamora entries were quite successful last weekend as the Bloomfield Open Hunt Winter Indoor Riding Series concluded with the over-all point leaders being determined.

Troy Maschmeyer, Jr., the family's Aromatem Farms hunter entries Arthur and The Trollop, and Mrs. Karl Aronsson's The Baron all successfully represented the Metamora horse country.

The youthful Maschmeyer led the entrants who entered all three equitation for riders 13-and-under classes during the series. The reserve honors went to Barbara Wood of Birmingham.

He rode Arthur to the champion's ribbon in the junior working hunter event for riders 13-and-under. Miss Wood's Wishbone, also was the reserve champion.

George Dawson, the Metamora Hunt professional, took The Trollop to the first year green working hunter top prize for the Maschmeyers. September, owned by Paul Frazho of New Haven, was the reserve winner.

Mrs. Aronsson rode The Baron to the amateur working hunter championship. Flamenco, owned by Pontiac's Donna Brown, was the runner-up.

* * *

Second year green working hunter laurels were earned by Comic Strip, owned by Tracy Mosgrove of Orchard Lake.

Mrs. A. M. Duffield, Jr., of Rochester showed Psychedelic to the reserve championship.

TWO RESERVES

The Junior working hunter, riders 14-17, championship went to Sarah Zimmermann's The Saint. She is a Birmingham resident. Bloomfield Hills' Amy Robinson guided Cloud Nine to the reserve honors.

Miss Robinson also took home the reserve ribbon in equitation for riders 14-17, trailing only Bobby Schultz of Bloomfield Hills in the over-all point standings.

The first point show of the season will be the annual spring outdoor competition May 3-4. There also will be summer and fall point shows. All are free to the public at the BOH grounds on Long Lake Road about a half mile east of Woodward.

The highlight of the outdoor shows is the prestigious Detroit Horse Show June 22-29.

No Sinclair Verdict; Riot Police Leave

By JIM LONG

Riot-geared police from four departments stood by yesterday after receiving reports that the Oakland County Courthouse would be "torn apart" if a guilty verdict was returned against hippie poet John Sinclair.

When it became obvious that the jury would not reach an immediate decision and that no protest was forthcoming, most of the 30 hard-helmeted police were returned to other duties.

★ ★ ★

At one point the officers had lined the first floor hall near the courtroom of Judge Farrell E. Roberts, who had presided over the nine-day trial of Sinclair and Frederick Smith, lead guitarist of the MC5 rock music group.

The jury, six men and six women began deliberating Monday after hearing testimony regarding an alleged assault on two sheriff's deputies by Sinclair and Smith during a teen dance in Leonard last July.

'GUARD WAS HIT'

Sinclair, 28, manager of the MC5 and minister of information for the radical White Panther organization, is accused of taking a punch at a sheriff's deputy after hitting a private security guard at the Club Loft, 130 Army.

Smith reportedly tried to pull a deputy off Sinclair as they wrestled on the floor.

Sinclair had testified that he did not recall striking anyone and indicated that if he did, it was when he jerked away from a private guard who had grabbed him by the arm.

The incident occurred after the group played what police say was an obscene song.

PACKED WITH FANS

Since the trial began April 1, the courtroom has been packed, testified in behalf of Sinclair and the music group. A number of them were at the dance and testified in behalf of Sinclair and Smith, both of Ann Arbor.

Called to the courthouse early yesterday were police from Pontiac, Waterford Township and Bloomfield Township, and deputies from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

★ ★ ★

One officer admitted the threats "could be a bluff, but what would happen if they carried them out and we weren't here?"

Most of the officers stayed out of sight in a nearby empty courtroom until they received word that the jury was returning.

The jury, however, was deadlocked and only asked for further instructions. Later, jurors also wanted Sinclair's testimony read back.

★ ★ ★

Not reaching a decision, the jurors were dismissed until Thursday morning when they will resume deliberations.

Auto Pioneer Dead at 86

Service Is Tomorrow for Howard Crawford

Howard H. Crawford, pioneer auto executive, died Monday in Royal Oak. He was 86.

Service will be 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Haley Funeral Home, Southfield, with burial in Franklin Cemetery, Franklin.

★ ★ ★

After graduation from Flint High School, Crawford, of 26059 German, Franklin, went to work for the Flint Wagon Works. He later joined Buick Motors and was the first official of that organization to be taken into the General Motors Corp.

Crawford came to Detroit in 1912 as general manager of Krit Motor Company and later worked with both Kelsey-Hayes and Holley Carburetor.

3 CORPORATIONS

In the early 1920s, he formed three corporations, Detroit Motor Appliances, Crawford-Lewis Corp. and Pines Winterfront Co. of Chicago.

The first corporation held the patents, the second handled nationwide sales and the third manufactured a controlled shutter in front of the radiator, a well-known fixture on quality automobiles until World War II.

★ ★ ★

During the war, Crawford was a financial administrator for the Air Force, handling contract renegotiations. He later founded Raymac Co., makers of precision carbide tools.

He was a member of the Detroit Athletic Club from its founding until his retirement in 1951. He also served as circulation manager for the Southfield News, owned by his daughter, Mrs. Betty Lewis.

★ ★ ★

Other survivors are his wife, Charlotte; a daughter, Mrs. W. T. Ellison of Birmingham; two sons, William G. and Howard H. Jr.; three sisters, seven grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The percentage of the family budget spent for food in the United States was 24.4 per cent in 1929 and is about 17.2 per cent now.

Susanne Remembers Orson, but the Memory Is All Bad

By EARL WILSON

New York

Dear Orson:

I've been your friend for years. So I tried, honestly I tried.

You remember the beautiful blonde Susanne Benton? Played your mistress in "Catch 22" in Mexico. Sort of a Marilyn Monroe.

"Orson Welles is a lot of fun, isn't he?" I said. We were sitting in Lindy's.

"NO! I hated working with him. When people ask me, 'Do you like the guy?' I say No."

I coughed embarrassedly, Orson.

"But he's so fascinating and so charming," I protested.

"He stepped on my feet twice. I was constantly in line of his cigar smoke. Once when I got knocked on the head by a can of film, I thought he'd say, 'Dear, are you all right?' Not one word, not even 'Drop dead.' Every chance he got he pushed me out of the way."

WILSON

I don't give up easy. I tried another way.

* * *

"Looks good, doesn't he? Lost 50 or 60 pounds."

"That's what he kept telling everybody," she said. "He's the fattest man I ever saw. I couldn't imagine anybody 60 pounds heavier."

I let it rest a minute, Susanne wasn't just upset with you. She rushed into a publicist's office here and tore up some nude photos taken while she was filming her other movie, "That Cold Day in the Park."

"I had no idea half of New York was seeing them," she flared up. She was also in a rage because publicists compare her to Marilyn Monroe because she happens to be married to a Los Angeles motorcycle policeman.

* * *

Well, Orson, I never quit. As we were finishing, I said:

"Maybe you did something to annoy Orson."

"All I did was get stepped on by one of his huge feet," she said. "I swear we worked together three weeks. He wouldn't know me if he saw me, but"—she gave a low angry threatening growl—"I would know him!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Arthur Treacher, who underwent 5-hour heart surgery, was already out of intensive care and making jokes with the hospital staff when Merv Griffin visited him. He'll be recovering for weeks, rejoining Merv in time for the move to CBS in July.

From Ireland, where David Lean's filming "Ryan's Daughter": "We've had one mishap after another. John Mills fell out of a boat, Trevor Howard fell off a horse, Robert Mitchum fell off the wagon.

* * *

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "A bureaucrat is a government official who sees his duty—and gets somebody else to do it."

EARL'S PEARLS: A girl friend of Jill St. John's purportedly told her: "I'd divorce my husband for incompatibility if I could catch him at it."

A weird character approached Larry Gore on 42nd St. and said, "Psst, buddy, wanta buy some clean pictures?" . . . That's earl, brother.

Senators View Film of Crash

Foreign Compact Car Fatality Rate Cited

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Members of the Senate Commerce Committee yesterday watched previously secret motion pictures of safety tests in which a 1969 Volkswagen and a 1957 Ford smashed head-on at 30 miles per hour.

The Volkswagen appeared to sustain the greatest damage, although both cars were severely dented by the crash.

* * *

Robert Brenner, acting director of the National Highway Safety Bureau, also gave the committee previously unpublished information indicating that 9.6 per cent of accidents involving foreign compact cars resulted in a fatality or a serious injury — three times the rate for domestic luxury cars.

William Scott of the National Safety Institute narrated the silent Volkswagen-Ford crash film. He said the passenger compartment of neither the Volkswagen nor the Ford was penetrated. However, a special dummy in the Volkswagen was thrown through the windshield when both seat belts and seat-locking devices failed.

RADIATOR RUPTURED

Scott noted the Volkswagen's front-mounted gasoline tank did not break although the Ford's radiator ruptured.

Brenner cited statistics provided in a New York State study of highway crashes.

* * *

The figures showed 3.1 per cent of accidents involving domestic luxury cars produced either fatalities or serious injuries compared to 4 per cent for intermediate-sized vehicles, 5.2 per cent for domestic economy cars, 6.4 per cent for domestic compacts and 9.6 per cent for foreign compacts.

Federal Highway Administrator F. C. Turner said the film has been kept under wraps because of fear that it "might lead to fears in the general public."

GREAT DANGER

"I think there is great danger in the release of some of this information without knowledge of how to understand it," Turner told the committee Monday.

But acting chairman Vance Hartke, D-Ind., ordered the film shown because the public has a right to know, he said.

* * *

"Just by the laws of physics, we know that a small vehicle, crashing into a larger vehicle, is apt to come out second-best," Turner said.

Folk songs sung by sailors are called "chanties" from the French word "chanter" meaning to sing and describe a strongly rhythmical song originally sung in unison by sailors as they hoisted sails or weighed anchor.

Disturbed Children Group Set to Meet

The Oakland County chapter of the Michigan Association for the Emotionally Disturbed Children will hold its annual dinner meeting at 6:45 p.m. tomorrow.

A business meeting is set for 8 p.m. Both events are at the Birmingham Community House. Officers will be elected.

* * *

Jack Boyle, president of the Michigan association, and Sam Davis, executive director of the association, will speak.

The dinner is $3.25 per person.

A Look at TV

Photography Up, Down

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK—A lot of school-age children watching CBS's "Polynesian Adventure" Tuesday night, undoubtedly envied the three children of Stanton Waterman.

Waterman, a motion and still photographer who gives lectures, took his three out of school for a year, and the whole family went skin diving and sight-seeing in French Polynesia.

* * *

The National Geographic Society special, based on film shot by . . . and of . . . the Waterman family during the year, was a combination travel-talk and nature lecture and sometimes covered the ground — rather the ocean floor — in the style of Jacques Cousteau. Sometimes, too, alas, it looked a lot like home movies.

This came when the attractive family was on dry land—shopping in Tahiti, walking along beaches, bathing in the surf when everybody seemed self-conscious and aware of the camera. But the undersea photography was fascinating.

* * *

This series started quietly a couple of seasons back and to everybody's surprise built a big audience—so big in fact that it started one of the pleasant healthy trends of TV.

BS News took a giant step Tuesday night in an effort to cast some light on the pros and cons of the turmoil that currently afflicts so many of our colleges.

It covered the main bases calmly and intelligently. It would be interesting to learn how many people who listened to the hour of talk have changed their minds about the situation.

* * *

The program started with Mike Wallace in Chicago talking with four students. One was a white radical and another a black militant and both were critical of college land expansion, military experiments on campus and ROTC. Two other students, infinitely more conservative, argued for the use of persuasion, not force.

The discussion occasionally became shrill, but it set the stage for the next discussion—three college presidents around a table with Harry Reasoner.

FIND JUSTIFICATION

All three expressed sympathy and found some justification for the demands of black students, mostly on the grounds that the students are primarily seeking equality. All resisted adamantly the idea that a radical minority could ever override the majority of students.

Most frightening result of the college troubles, said Michigan's Dr. Robben Fleming, is that "never before has the public been so hostile in general to students."

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa of embattled San Francisco State suggested that much of the trouble stems from the fury of intellectuals who believe the world is run by the wrong people—businessmen and military men — and propose to push these wrong ones aside.

It was agreed that changes should be made in colleges, but that sit-ins, demonstrations and battles would not produce them. The civil liberties of other students, too, are involved, the presidents said.

Eric Sevareid, summing up, turned a philosophical reference to youth and age into what became almost an explicit warning of public backlash.

Milliken Sees State Aid for All Colleges

LANSING (UPI) — The financial plight of Michigan's private colleges must be considered along with the needs of state-supported institutions of higher learning, Gov. William G. Milliken said yesterday.

"The day has passed when we can draw a line between the public and private college, and say that we will feed only the hungry on the public side of the fence," he told the annual meeting of the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Michigan.

"We must view the entire question of public aid to non-public schools from the standpoint of the public good—and I believe the public welfare is served by the continued existence and growth of nonpublic schools and colleges."

Milliken said he is aware of private colleges' urgent need for money to improve existing facilities, to build new ones and to pay higher faculty salaries. But he said he is not ready yet to propose direct state tax aid to independent schools.

"The problem calls for a careful consideration of the constitutional questions and a careful weighing of priorities," he said. "It calls for imagination and innovation."

Milliken said small, liberal arts colleges play an important role in national development. He said too many large schools are out of touch with the students.

YOU CAN'T AFFORD IT

In today's stock market it pays to have accurate information. You can't afford to act on tips or take flyers. Before you decide to buy or sell securities check with us. Our Research Department has thorough, in depth, up-to-date reports on most listed and unlisted companies. Our experienced Registered Representatives would be happy to advise you. Or send for a copy of our Financial Services Brochure. No cost or obligation, of course.
