Baptist to Head Evangelicals

Pontiac Pastor Elected by National Association at Cleveland Parley

Dr. Henry H. Savage, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Pontiac, has been elected president of the National Association of Evangelicals at its convention in Cleveland.

He succeeds Dr. Paul S. Rees of Minneapolis.

The convention, which ended today, has gone on record as opposing liquor advertising.

The organization, which calls its theology "conservative," also passed a resolution opposing "morally contaminating" publications.

A third resolution, stating "our foreign policy has apparently at times been dictated by expedience and fear," called on national leaders to "follow a course of action based on a faith in God, which will lead to action characterized by fearless integrity, righteousness and honesty."

New AF Icebox Is Good Enough to Sell to Eskimos

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Air Force engineers believe they have come up with a kind of icebox they could sell to Eskimos.

Engineers at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base's Air Materiel Command recently flew one of the freezers to the Arctic to be tested. It serves as a vacuum to keep fresh foods and vegetables from freezing solid in isolated radar and observation posts within the Arctic Circle.

If successful, the "icebox" will be mass produced for airdrop delivery in subzero climates.

Stock Market Advances to New High Since 1930

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market pounded ahead today for the second straight session into new high ground since 1930.

There was some evidence of selling to take profits during the morning, but the market scarcely noticed this development in its higher swing.

President Wins Confidence Vote on War Action

House Refuses to Limit Power, OKs Defense Appropriation Bill

WASHINGTON (UP) — The administration claimed a victory today with the defeat of a bill that would have put limits on the President's power to send troops into embattled Southeast Asia.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. declared "it was a vote of confidence on the part of the House that President Eisenhower will come to Congress before any decisive action is taken to send forces to Indochina."

The proposal, to bar the dispatch of troops abroad without congressional approval, was beaten 214 to 37 late Thursday only a few hours after Eisenhower condemned it as a move that would hamper his power to act swiftly in uncertain and fluid situations.

The House afterward went on to pass, 37 to 0, the $26,684,250,486 defense appropriations bill to which the troop ban would have been an amendment. It now goes to the Senate.

Democrats attacked the big money bill as cut dangerously thin, particularly in view of the grave situation in Indochina. But they offered no amendments to fatten it up and voted for it on final passage.

Actually, the measure was cut $1,202,804,514 below what the President requested and totaled $5,629,070,514 less than the services got for the current year.

Rep. Frederic Coudert (R-NY) pleaded for adoption of his troop ban to reassert the authority of Congress to declare war.

But administration forces denounced the proposal as dangerous and he was able to muster only a handful of votes.

The defense bill carries funds to run the Army, Navy and Air Force in the 12 months starting July 1. The Army would get $7,619,066,986, including an extra $3,543,986 to keep open the Murphy General Hospital at Waltham, Mass., which it had planned to close.

Ferguson Bids for Re-election

Senator Seeks Third Term to Continue Work on Ike's Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) today announced his candidacy for re-election.

The GOP Senate policy chief's announcement came as no surprise.

Ferguson was first elected to the Senate in 1942. He is seeking a third six-year term.

Former Sen. Blair Moody and Patrick V. McNamara, Detroit school board member, are in a contest for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Ferguson said Don R. Mitchell of Owosso will head a 50-member campaign committee to raise funds and work for his re-election. Mitchell is president of Mitchell-Bentley Corp., which has a manufacturing plant at Ionia.

In his statement Ferguson said President Eisenhower and Republicans in Congress have "joined in formulating a constructive, progressive and forward-looking long-range program which will benefit all the people of our nation. That program is now being translated into action and legislation. We are making great strides toward its fulfillment."

"Since I had the privilege of helping formulate the program and helping direct the policies I am announcing my candidacy for re-election to the Senate that I may continue to help carry through the work so well begun.

"The people of Michigan I am sure will support me in this endeavor by working for my re-election."

Dulles to Leave Geneva Before Indo Peace Talk

Informant Hints U. S. Agreeable to Partition of Viet Nam

GENEVA (INS) — U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles announced today just before the fifth session of the Geneva Conference that he is leaving for Washington Monday without waiting for the 19 nations to take up the Indochinese War issue.

U. S. delegates insisted that this was his intention even before the Geneva Conference began last Monday, but the announcement came amid admitted fears that France might make a settlement which in effect would give the Communists a firm foothold in the doorway to all southeast Asia.

Indochinese peace talks may start Monday, and the U.S. announcement said that Undersecretary Walter Bedell Smith would leave Washington by plane today to replace Dulles.

The announcement came at a time when British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden held an informal conference with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Red Chinese Premier-Foreign Minister Chou Enlai on the Indochinese issue.

There was a possibility that Dulles might return to Geneva later, but this seemed doubtful when cast against this background:

1. A highly authoritative informant said the United States would not agree to an Indochinese settlement which would turn Viet Nam over to the Communist-led Vietminh rebel movement.

This statement came amid talk of a partition of Indochina as the price of peace. The impression given by this reliable informant was that the United States would not rule out partition — if the Communist-ruled "buffer state" was a small area in northern Indochina adjoining the Red Chinese border, and if the sovereignty of the remaining Vietnam state was guaranteed by a NATO-type Asiatic defense alliance.

2. In Hanoi, the northern capital of Indochina, 10,000 demonstrators were on the March. They bore banners reading "independence or death," and paraded in protest against reported plans that the French would end the war by leaving part of Viet Nam under Communist control.

Police Capture 2 Safecrackers

One Arrested in Act; Buddy Standing Guard Also Held

Alert police work last night led to the capture of two men believed to be members of a gang that has used axes to break open several safes in Pontiac over the past two months, according to Capt. Clark M. Wheaton, chief of Pontiac detectives.

The pair, Willie Lee Powell, 26, of 481 Colorado Ave., and Billie Watkins, 22, no known address, were booked for investigation of nighttime breaking and entering after Grand Trunk Railroad officials and Pontiac Police caught Powell hacking a safe in the Cutting Tools and Supplies, Inc., building, 88 S. Cass Ave.

Patrolman Marvin T. Blum said he noticed the auto head lights blinking as if signaling to someone. Blum was standing watch as Detective William K. Hanger and Wilson Valley, a Grand Trunk detective, were investigating another nearby breakin.

Waktins was arrested in a waiting auto in front of the building.

Blum and Valley guarded the entrances as Hanger entered the building.

Hanger, who received a severe leg cut while searching inside, said he found Powell hacking away at a 400-pound safe containing an undetermined amount of money.

Wheaton said Powell and Wakkins will be questioned in connection with numerous other safe jobs.

Patrolman Blum and Detective Hanger are being recommended by Wheaton for special citations

Britain Lifts Restrictions on Rubber Sale to Soviet

LONDON (AP)—Britain announced today she would lift all restrictions on the sale of rubber to the Soviet Union and its European satellites Monday.

The ban on shipments to Red China, North Korea and Tibet—as well as to the non-Communist south China coast ports of Hong Kong and Macao—remains in force.

This Far East ban on strategic materials is in accordance with a United Nations resolution of May 1951 growing out of the Korean War.

The new action was announced by the Board of Trade. An official spokesman said the action in effect recognizes that Russia already is getting all the rubber she wants from "out-of-normal channels."

Britain has been permitting sales of rubber to the Soviet bloc on a quota based on what the Churchill government considers Russia's civilian needs. The Board of Trade would not disclose the quota but said 1952 shipments were worth 32,510,000 pounds ($91,028,000). He added this was "about all we'd let them have."

The sales fell to 6,268,000 pounds ($17,544,800) in 1953.

There is nothing, of course, that can stop Russia from selling rubber to Communist China.

French Silence Enemy Barrage

Attack Red Machinegun Nests Around Besieged Dien Bien Phu

HANOI, Indochina (UP)—French troops at Dien Bien Phu surged from their trenches in a tropical rainstorm today and attacked Communist machinegun nests that had been harassing their defensive positions.

Commando-type squads of 12 men each, led by veteran Foreign Legion sergeants and corporals, splashed through knee-deep mud to silence the guns covering the area where French and American planes drop supplies.

The raiding parties, operating in all directions, struck out after a night of sharp and bitter clashes in the edge of the defense perimeter and tore into the enemy machinegun nests with knives and bayonets.

The French high command said it was too soon to tell whether the attacks ordered by the Dien Bien Phu commander, Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries, had silenced permanently any of the rebel posts.

Juliana Takes Responsibility for Cutting Print

Three of Senator's Staff Give Testimony About Stevens-Schine Picture

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Juliana, an investigator for the McCarthy committee, testified today he ordered the printing of a controversial "cropped" photograph showing Secretary of the Army Stevens and Pvt. G. David Schine alone.

He acknowledged the print was from a more extensive picture also showing Air Force Col. Jack T. Bradley.

Juliana said he had ordered enlargements of both the picture of Stevens and Schine alone, and a picture showing the two with Bradley.

Juliana said he delivered the photograph showing Schine and Stevens alone to the Senate committee investigating the McCarthy-Army row, because he thought that was what the committee wanted.

Prodded by Chairman Mundt (R-SD) as to whose "specific decision" it was to bring to the investigators the picture showing only Stevens and Schine, Juliana replied:

"That was my decision."

Juliana said he instructed Don Surine, assistant counsel for the McCarthy committee, to prepare enlargements.

Juliana was called to the witness chair after Sen. McCarthy had spoken up at the hearings on his row with Army officials and declared that Juliana had altered the picture.

In other developments:

1. Army Counsel Joseph N. Welch demanded that McCarthy be called to the witness chair as soon as Secretary Stevens finishes his testimony. Mundt told Welch the committee would determine the order of the proceedings.

2. George Anastos and Mrs. Frances Mims, staff employes of McCarthy, both swore they knew nothing about the "cropping" of the photograph. There was some conflict, however, between their

$3,500,000 Is Estimated Figure for Planned Bond Issue in School Election

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — A rough estimate of less than $3,500,000 was the figure given at a special meeting of the board of education last night for a proposed bond issue to be placed on the June 14 school election ballot.

The meeting was adjourned until May 11, giving bond consultant Claude Stevens time to draw up a resolution.

As planned by the board, the bonds would provide 20 additional classrooms at Birmingham High School and a new junior high school near Adams and Derby roads, with no increase in the 11 mills now being levied for the two other bond issues.

Supt. of Schools Dwight B. Ireland previously explained that this could be accomplished because of a great increase in assessed valuation since the 1950 bond issue.

Problems still face the board since the proposed junior high site is Troy Township property and lacks sewage and water facilities.

The board has offered owner Arthur Nechman $1,250 per acre for the 22-acre site, but his counter proposal was $4,750.

Following a joint meeting with the school board this week, the City Commission agreed to discuss underwriting engineering costs for the site at Monday's commission meeting.

Representatives from Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, and Bloomfield and Southfield Townships met recently in a discussion of what steps have been taken to abate polution of the Rouge River, as ordered by the State Water Resources Commission.

In preparing for a tentative meeting of the state group May 27, Bloomfield Township supervisor David E. Anderson said the township would consider three methods of solving the pollution problem.

They are: A joint treatment plant with Birmingham; Joint participation in a proposed $2,500,000 interceptor sewer which would funnel the waste to Detroit for treatment; or 3 Construction of a treatment plant to serve the area.

Birmingham has already notified the Water Resources Commission it will act independently to provide proper sewage treatment, but that it is willing to cooperate with other communities.

Questioning its responsibility for sewage treatment, Southfield Township representatives plan to confer with the county drain commissioner before taking action.

Following the business meeting, some 200 persons heard Ralph L. Lee, General Motors public relations consultant, talk on "People as They Come and Are."

He said: "We are leaving the age of mechanics and entering upon a new era of humanics. This involves the search for truth in a child-like way."

A triple trio from Pontiac High School music department furnished entertainment. Benediction was by Rev. J. Allen Parker of the Methodist Newman AME Church. E. R. Pettengill served as toastmaster.

accounts of how the photograph was handled at the staff offices.

3. Schine, in brief testimony, said that after refreshing his memory overnight he thought he had given an accurate account yesterday of his part in the photo episode. That part was chiefly to furnish the original picture.

Schine was excused from the witness chair but is to come back later for more general testimony.

Juliana insisted he was just trying to meet what he considered the wishes of the committee when he supplied the photo to Schine and Stevens alone.

He said he understood committee Counsel Roy Jenkins wanted "a photograph of Mr. Stevens and Private Schine." He said these instructions could have come either from Jenkins or Roy M. Cohn, chief counsel for the McCarthy committee, or both.

"I was led to believe that was what you wanted in the hearing," he told Jenkins.

"I didn't know why you wanted it."

Juliana, in reply to questioning by Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) said he was present when Stevens was questioned at length as to whether Stevens had asked to have his picture taken alone "with Dave."

"The word alone meant nothing to me at that time," Juliana replied. When Jackson indicated surprise, Juliana said he hadn't read any of the proceedings since they started.

At one point Juliana told Jackson, "I don't think the picture was changed."

"You don't think the picture was changed!" exclaimed Jackson. . .

"No, sir," replied Juliana.

"Then what's your definition of change?" asked Jackson.

Juliana said he meant that the portion of the picture showing Stevens and Schine had not been changed.

Birmingham High School News

Seniors Have Busy Week Visiting 3 Eastern Cities

Editor's Note: The Birmingham High School column has been prepared by Frank Phillips, an associate editor of The Highlander, the student newspaper.)

By FRANK PHILLIPS

Goodbye, sonny! Goodbye, honey!

These were familiar words April 15 when 201 smiling Birmingham seniors left their tear-wiping parents and boarded a special train for seven education and fun filled days in Washington, New York City and Niagara Falls.

This group, largest for the annual trip, arrived in Washington at 8:30 Friday morning. For many, a train trip was a new experience except for a turn around the Detroit Zoo on the miniature train.

PHILLIPS

Upon arrival the group boarded six buses for a full day of tours, including the White House, Capitol, the somewhat hazy top of the Washington Monument, the Supreme Court, Library of Congress, Botanical Gardens, and two of the most impressive monuments, the Loncoln and Jefferson Memorials.

While it rained, the group toured the Smithsonian Institution, New National Museum and National Art Gallery Saturday morning. The rain stopped by lunch time, and the group visited Mount Vernon and the tomb of George Washington where a short memorial service was held. A wreath bearing the name of Birmingham High School was placed upon the tomb after a short speech by group president Thor Halvorson and taps by Jerry Mills.

At Arlington National Cemetery the group arrived just in time to watch the impressive changing of the guard. On the Potomac the steamer District of Columbia picked up the party for the trip to Old Point Comfort.

On the steamer, the first variety show played for the local group and one from University City High School from Missouri. Earlier morning the annual Easter sunrise service was presented at the Chamberlain Hotel.

After breakfast, buses transported the group to Jamestown, Yorktown and Williamsburg. Of particular interest to the seniors were the powder magazine, gaol, palace and capitol in restored Williamsburg.

The travel-weary seniors again boarded the boat in Norfolk and in the evening another variety show by University City.

When the group boarded the train for New Yrok, everyone became very excited with the thought of being in New York City in four hours, although the advisers settled down for 40 winks of much-needed sleep.

Upon completion of room assignments at the Taft Hotel the seniors headed for theaters to see Kismet, Me and Juliet, A Solid Gold Cadillac, Can-Can or The Seven Year Itch.

Wall Street, the Empire State building, Fulton fish market, the Battery and Broadway attracted interest in a tour of lower Manhattan Tuesday morning. LaGuardia Airport was toured and flights taken by many members of the group in four-engined planes.

The free evening . . . what to do? . . . Where to go? These were typical questions for many first-time New Yorkers, but by seven o'clock not a Birmingham student could be found in or around the hotel. Many found their way to Greenwich Village, Eddie Condons, the circus at Madison Square Garden, plays on Broadway and Basin street.

The free morning found many girls on Fifth Avenue although purchases were few. Some arrived at St. George's Hotel for swimming and still others slept and slept and slept.

In the afternoon a big decision confronted the group as to where to go: the National Broadcasting Company, Radio City, Rockefeller Center or a boat trip around Manhattan Island. Popular choice was the boat trip. This group got a good look at the Statue of Liberty, Ellis Island, the piers, the lower east side, Grant's tomb and New York's famous skyline.

The show place of the nation, Radio City Music Hall was the destination on the last evening in New York to see Rose Marie and the stage show which was very impresdive and enjoyable. "All good things must come to an end" were sad words to the empty-pocketed students when they boarded the train for Niagara.

Niagara Falls greeted the troopers with rain and wind, but was nevertheless a treat in store for the group. At the General Brock Hotel the group sat down to lunch with their former principal of Barnum Junior High School, Samuel Bennett, now supervising principal of a new school about 20 miles from Buffalo.

The group showed appreciation to E. A. Hubbard, director, for his endless effort with a $100 savings bond.

At 8:30 Thursday evening the group arrived in Detroit with most of the members minus even the price of a coke.

Illinois produced 44 million tons of coal in 1953.

Youngsters Play Growing Role in U.S. Economy

CHICAGO (UP)—Children are big wheels in the nation's economy, according to Ralph Crosby, president of the United States Savings and Loan League.

"The economic activity of the nation's youngsters is far more important than most parents realize," he said.

Crosby said children are a "hidden potential" of the economic system, and he estimated their annual income at more than $3,000,000,000.

According to 1950 census figures, Crosby said 5,600,000 youngsters in the 14-19 age bracket earned income averaging $429 a year. During the past three years the number in this age bracket increased by more than 1,000,000—and average earnings also rose.

"In addition," he said, "several million youngsters under 14 earn some money delivering papers, shoveling snow, mowing lawns, caddying and doing a great variety of part-time jobs."

Crosby said the league is urging its more than 4,000 member institutions to "devote more time and energy to cultivating the good will of children."

Baby Dies in Home Fire

DETROIT (UP)—Marc Edward Cole, 7-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cole, died Thursday in a fire that destroyed his parents' home in Huron Township. Firemen said defective wiring in the child's bedroom caused the blaze.

Wisconsin Readies May Day Rebuttal

BURLINGTON, Wis. (UP) — Burlington prepared today for an influx of several thousand visitors tomorrow when this southeastern Wisconsin city stages its answer to the traditional Communist May Day celebrations.

"May Day—U. S. Way" is being sponsored by the American Legion and several local organizations.

On tap are speeches, parades with floats and displays emphasizing the values of American citizenship.

Wisconsin's Republican Senators Wiley and McCarthy are expected to arrive late today or tonight and make the main speeches of the day tomorrow.

Tired Driver Parks Cars on Union Pacific Tracks

OMAHA (UP) — When James P. Platek, Battle Creek, Mich., got sleepy driving his car near here he pulled off the road and parked.

Trouble was he parked on a railroad track.

Just as a Union Pacific freight train roared down the track, two unidentified Fremont, Neb., youths yanked him from the car, which the train demolished.

In County Court here, Platek was fined $25 for illegal parking.

Paralyzed Trapeze Artist Is Rescued

ST. LOUIS (UP) — A 28-year-old woman trapeze performer suffered a sudden paralysis of her left arm while doing an act 75-feet in the air last night but was saved by her husband before she could fall.

The opening night audience of 6,500 persons watched the rescue of Mrs. Eileen Johansen which delayed the show 20 minutes.

Mrs. Johansen was with her husband, Allan, and another performer in the arena dome when she shouted: "My arm is paralyzed."

Her husband, who drives a motorcycle in a large hoop, fastened a rope to her before she could fall. She was lowered to the ground and taken to city hospital.

City Asks Federal Funds for CD Siren

Pontiac has applied for federal matching funds to pay half the cost of a $5,500 civil defense warning siren to be mounted on one of the tall downtown buildings, according to William L. Collins, city planning assistant.

If the federal money is granted, Pontiac would pay the balance of costs, said Collins. Possible locations for the device are now being studied, he added.

The 138-decibel siren could be heard within a radius of two to four miles depending on atmospheric conditions.

Warden to See Free Movies From Window

ST. LOUIS (UP)—City Workhouse Warden Clarence Weismantel will have free movies nightly from his bedroom window soon.

A new drive-in theater opens May 12 directly south of the workhouse. The warden's bedroom, which will be converted into a den, has a picture window with an unobstructed view of the theater's screen.

Mayor Roy Parker of suburban Brentwood, one of the owners of the theater, had had a speaker installed as a friendly gesture so the warden may also hear the movies.

Prisoners in one part of the workhouse also will have an unobstructed view of the screen—about 1,000 feet away—but they'll have no speakers.

It will be formally dedicated May 17 following a special mass marking the departure of the Most Rev. Allen J. Babcock, newly appointed bishop of the archdiocese of Grand Rapids, for his new post.

The instrument consists of two carillons, totaling 86 bells.

A Boy and His Dog

Sympathy and human interest for children and animals are among our strongest natural instincts. This was proven recently in the Pontiac Press by a picture of eight-year-old Doug Sheffield, who was sobbing over his dog "Sandy," just killed by a truck.

Circumstances prevent publicity in many instances of this type, but when it is brought to the attention of honest to goodness Americans they respond rapidly and wholeheartedly.

Once again the effectiveness of the newspaper medium has been demonstrated by the Press. A short time after the paper hit the streets explaining this small boy's plight, dozens of calls were received at his home with offers of a new dog to take the place of "Sandy."

★ ★ ★

Over the modern facilities of Associated Press Wire Photo, of which the Press is a member, heart breaking stores of this type are flashed to all corners of the earth.

Messages expressing sorrow came from such distant states as Kentucky, Arkansas and the state of Washington, substantiating our belief that people the country over are really tender hearted.

Upholding this fact is Doug and his new cocker pup Cindy, a gift from Oliver Hessam, 5324 Sashabaw Road.

Fair Trade Laws Hit

Once again there has been recognition in a court decision of the basic defect in the miscalled "Fair Trade" laws.

These laws exist in 45 of the 48 states, including Michigan. In all of them is a provision that if one retailer signs a price agreement with a manufacturer, all other retailers in that state selling that product are bound by it.

★ ★ ★

Backers of these fair trade laws admit they can't be enforced without that provision which is known as the "non-signer clause." Yet that clause was written into these laws for the express purpose of legalizing some of the very business practices our Federal Trade Commission was created to combat. These are price fixing and restrictions on free competition.

★ ★ ★

The legal question, of course, always is whether these non-signing retailers should be bound by an agreement they did not sign and haven't even seen. Latest tribunal to say they shouldn't is Florida's supreme court in a case brought by several pharmaceutical firms against a Florida retail drug company.

The non-signer clause, wrote Justice Terrell in the court's decision is "not in line with our traditional concepts of free competition which have traditionally been the yardstick for the protection of the consuming public."

★ ★ ★

That's exactly what we have been arguing in these columns for years.

Builders' Show Popular

So successful was Pontiac's Home and Builders Show that its sponsor, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, has decided to make it an annual event.

In its four day run, the show with its 34 exhibits attracted more than 4,000 persons to the Water Street Armory. Its drawing power was increased by the fact that exhibits included those of special interest to both men and women.

They ranged from materials for waterproofing basements, convertible and permanent windows and a full sized garage, to the new cotton carpetings, seeds, flowers and shrubbery.

The decision to make the show an annual fixture is a happy one. Not only will it benefit householders as well as merchants but the proceeds will help finance the Jaycees' fine youth activity program.

Blow Dealt High Parity

Critics of the Eisenhower-Benson farm program and foes of flexible farm price supports have suffered what appears to be a significant defeat in the Senate.

It came in the vote on a rider introduced by Sen. Ellender, the Louisiana Democrat. He proposed an addition to the Administration wool bill which would have extended through 1955 the 90 per cent of parity price support for the six basic crops. These are wheat, cotton, corn, rice, tobacco and peanuts.

When the votes were counted they added up to a 48 to 40 victory for the Administration price support theory and defeat for the Ellender rider.

It is true that this result can't be considered a final triumph for the President and his Secretary of Agriculture. But no less an authority on farm legislation than Vermont's Sen. Aiken views it as a development greatly increasing the chance for adoption of the flexible support idea.

★ ★ ★

We believe such a result would be in the best interests of our farm industry.

E. Howland Agrees With Leroy Dean Regarding Eviction of Lapeer Farmers

Hats off to Leroy Dean for having the courage to expound the truth in the Ziegenhardt affair in the Voice of the People column April 22.

Countless men in history have been jailed, tortured and crucified for upholding truth and justice for the great masses of people.

Public opinion is definitely against deals like the Lapeer one. Public opinion is definitely against dragging aged and helpless people from their homes in the early morning hours.

As Mr. Dean says, wake up Americans and get some Paul Reveres on the job, or we are going to back up to the position of the British at Lexington.

Denverite Favorably Impressed by Pontiac

Though I am a native of Colorado I spent eleven months in your city while traveling east in the past five years. May I say I enjoyed your paper very much. I also visited your wonderful Pontiac Motor Plant and couldn't believe my eyes. What a magnificent company.

Our state does a big volume of advertising to draw tourists but I don't think it does as much as it should to make their stay pleasant.

A Good Reason

The old family caretaker was showing visitors around the castle, which had been opened to the public. Coming to the banquet hall, he said, "In this very hall, two hundred years ago, the young Countess was foully murdered."

All the visitors were impressed but one, who said, "I thought you told us last week that it happened in the ante-room."

"I know that," snapped the guide, "but we can't go in there now—it's being redecorated!"

Reds' Own Rigid Stand May Force Allies Into Making Asia Defense Pact

By DAVID LAWRENCE

GENEVA — If somebody can draw a line inside Indochina that is militarily defensible and does not mean the entering wedge for an infiltration of the whole area by Communists, a cease-fire can be worked out at this conference.

That is what President Eisenhower described as a "modus vivendi," which is an old diplomatic phrase meaning a mode of living with a disagreeable and unsolvable situation.

But the military men of the French high command and of the United States are skeptical as to whether such a line can be found. If the diplomats want a military line submitted merely as a way out of their political difficulties, it can be drawn.

There isn't any use deceiving anybody, however, for such a truce line will become the effective partition line, and ultimately can mean the acquisition of all Indochina by the Communists.

The optimistic doctrine is being handed out in some quarters here that, while the cease-fire is in effect and discussions are dragging along for a year or two as to a political conference to be held at some subsequent date, there will be an opportunity to train local troops to safeguard the independence of the three new states.

All this would mean that, like Korea, Indochina would have a truce line and the fighting would be over. But the moment the Communists find out that the Allies here are ready to throw in the sponge at some designated truce line, the price will go up.

The Communists will insist on a line even more advantageous to them, and the haggling here may go on for weeks on that point.

Meanwhile, Sec. Dulles has announced that he is going back to Washington on Tuesday. The effect may be to speed up the conversations looking toward possible agreements because, if there is to be a long wrangle, the secretary would prefer to have his deputy here while he exercises freedom of action in giving from Washington the necessary instructions to the American delegation.

It has been evident for some time that the whole purpose of the Communists in coming to this conference was to try to make some kind of trade on the Indochina situation which would relieve Moscow of the burden of military supply to Southeast Asia and yet achieve for them practical control of the area.

Judging by the public speeches made thus far, the Communists have not the slightest intention of agreeing now to any plan for the unification of Korea, though they will pay lip service to the principle of unification.

Their concept is to have elections of the kind they proposed for Germany, and the net effect of such a plan would be to acquire control of all Korea for the Communists.

It was regrettable that Robert Casey, foreign secretary of Australia, in his speech — which was really noncommittal on the North Korean plan for a general election of all Korea — allowed himself to be placed in the position where the Communists could use his address as an argument that the Western alliance was weakening in its attitude toward a continuance of the South Korean republic as the entity created by the United Nations.

Any tendency here on the part of the Western allies to accept, even by inference, the notion that the two parts of Korea can be combined by a general election with all outside "interference," as the Communists call any U. N. supervision of elections, prohibited is bound to stir up Syngman Rhee and complicate matters in Korea itself.

It is reminiscent of the "coalition" type of settlements which were supposed to produce an independent Poland and Czechoslovakia and resulted only in their complete subjugation by the Communists.

The envoys of the Western allies are supposed not to be naive but fully aware of the facts of Communist strategy. The American delegation analyzed the North Korean proposals and rejected them out of hand.

The United States is opposed in principle to a partition of Indochina but is prepared to express its views only after some concrete proposal is at hand.

If such a proposal is unsatisfactory to America, yet is pressed by the French and they are prepared to surrender their influence in Indochina by accepting a truce line that will in effect become a permanent partition, the United States will express its dissenting views and then take a look at the whole European situation as well as the Southeastern Asian problem and decide its future course.

The question to determine will be whether America has faithful allies who will stand up against the Communists when the chips are down or whether France, for instance, is ready to accept permanent dismemberment of free countries wherever Communist aggression has taken away territory not only in Asia but in Europe, particularly in Germany.

This could mean some day a recrudescence of militarism in Germany because the people there will never be satisfied to accept a divided country.

Some far-reaching decisions are involved here in the use of the term "partition" and in the phrase "cease-fire."

It is possible that the Communists themselves may unwittingly save the day by adopting such an adamant stand as to force the Allies into a union stronger than ever and eventually into a collective-action program which can safeguard Southeast Asia against Communist aggression.

Stevens' Stenographer Uneasy, Is Ordinary Guy

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — John G. Lucas Jr. hoped for years that someday he would own a music store. He is now 42 and has given up the idea of having his store, loaded with phonograph records.

He always liked music and still does. He used to play the French horn. But the closest he gets to music now is playing the phonograph at home. He does that and he works in the garden.

The thought that millions of people might one day be peering into his strained and anxious face never occurred to him. He is not a handsome man. He is an earnest-looking man, who looks like many other men.

* * *

And one day recently he suddenly appeared on TV screens everywhere, looking out nervously through his rimless glasses from the witness' seat at the Senate inquiry into Sen. McCarthy's row with Army officials. He kept swallowing.

* * *

Seven senators were questioning him. So was their special counsel, Ray Jenkins. McCarthy was looking at him, asking questions.

His life until that moment had been running along a smooth and even channel. It might have run on that way until he reached retirement age. He had been content with his obscurity behind a desk in the Pentagon.

Of all those who have appeared in the hearings so far he is the only one of whom some other man who never expects to be in headlines, watching his TV screen in New York or Iowa or Illinois, might say: "That might have been me; I know how he feels."

* * *

Back home in St. Louis he played the French horn in the high school band. And he played it in the band at Northwestern University, where he got his bachelor of arts degree. As he grew older he grew away from the horn.

* * *

After he finished at Northwestern he got a job in an office. At night for seven years he studied shorthand in Chicago. It doesn't require seven years to learn shorthand, but he wanted to be a shorthand reporter, speedier than an ordinary stenographer. He took the courses several times over. Then he won the Gregg diamond pin for taking 200 words a minute for five minutes.

After that he came to Washington and got a job with the government. It was wartime, 1942, and he was drafted the same year. In uniform, he was made a secretary to the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

He was taken along to some of the biggest wartime conferences with his shorthand pad: Quebec, Cairo, Tehran, Yalta, Malta and Potsdam.

* * *

In the same office in the Pentagon he met his wife. She was a Wave, a stenographer too. She could take 185 words a minute. They went to dances together. They liked music and bought records. They talked of getting married and owning a music store someday.

* * *

When they got out of the service in 1946 they did marry and went to Florida for a while. He went into the real estate business with his father there. After a while, his dark-haired wife says now, they realized they were office people. That ended the idea of a music store. They came back to Washington in 1948.

Lucas got a job in the office of the secretary of the Army. He saw a number of secretaries come and go. One of his jobs was to listen in on the phone when someone called his boss, and to take down the conversation in shorthand.

Lucas and his wife, who have two children, lived in an apartment for awhile. Then they bought a Cape Cod house in Falls Church, Va. They both like to work in the garden.

* * *

On the morning of April 23 Mrs. Lucas was watching the McCarthy-Army hearing on her TV set. Secretary of the Army Stevens, her husband's boss, was testifying. Suddenly she heard the announcement her husband would be called to testify at the afternoon session about the shorthand notes he took on some of Stevens' telephone conversations.

* * *

Mrs. Lucas called her husband and asked if he'd like her to be in the hearing room when he testified. He said he would. She got a neighbor to care for the children and went up to the hearing. She couldn't see Lucas' face as he testified. She could hear him, though.

When he finished and went outside with her, she says, she thought he looked "a little ruffled."

"I didn't know how ruffled he was," she says, "until that night when one of the local TV stations showed some of the scenes from the day's hearing and I saw his face."

Although he looked frightened all the way through his testimony, Lucas himself says he was a little nervous only in the beginning. "The nature of the forum," he says, "was enough to awe anyone."

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
International News Service

Zoological branch of the FBI found the last brain truster in index where he had filed himself under indispensable.

That closes the era of the double-domed crackpots and seals off the monkey dormitories.

It charges us with the era. We stood by in superbly firesided amazement while the brain trusters pulled rabbits out of their Stetson Warrens.

Their ridiculous regime started in 1932 and ran its string-talk out knots and all. The brains are scattered. They were scattered then but we didn't know it.

The brain truster was a fellow who changed his mind with his hat. He was educated beyond his ability to comprehend. He studied political enconomics to a point and dulled that.

He added two and two and made four. His trouble was he subtracted two from two and still got four.

He repudiated the law of diminishing returns, impeached the fact that you cannot get more out of a barrel than you put into it, solemnly deponed and testified that anything that goes up belongs there and upset the time table of postponed rationality.

In 1932 he swarmed Washington in alphabetical echelon and took over like a cannibal trout in a small pond.

Dr. Brady Sees Physical Examination, With Sigmoidoscope, Just Too Much

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Some years ago, a metropolitan society undertook a plan to educate the public concerning the value of periodic health examinations. The doctors themselves were to undergo such examinations as an example.

The scheme fizzled. Only a few members of the medical society saw fit to undergo examination, even though it would cost nothing but the doctor's time.

Recently some physicians have been urging that all women of . . . I forget what age . . . should undergo examinations every six months to detect at the earliest possible time never mind that.

I think that would be a silly thing for a woman to do—but remember, please, I'm no specialist nor am I a medical authority.

Although I'm in bad with the big shots of the profession and not exactly popular in the ranks, I believe I could still get a complete physical or medical examination gratis or at cost of whatever laboratory tests I might be persuaded to have. But I wouldn't take time out for it.

"No man in his senses wants to have a complete examination . . . spinal fluid tapped . . . stomach or bladder looked into with a lighted tube. Such tests should be made only when there is reason to suspect a brain tumor or a cancer of the stomach or an ulcer of the bladder," oraculates an eminent medical authority. He adds, as though determined to please all factions:

"In some clinics a routine checkup" (fishing expedition would be a more appropriate word) "consists of a physical examination, which should include examination of the rectum with a sigmoidoscope . . . also."

A sigmoidoscope, you must understand, children, is more than a lighted tube, 10 inches more. But then, a man in his senses has no truck with "clinics" anyway. If or when something ails him he consults a doctor who practices under his own name.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Good Works Continue

Couzens Children's Fund to End Life at Midnight

DETROIT (AP)— The 12 million dollars that the late Sen. James Couzens gave away—so children might be happier—will all be spent by midnight tonight.

That's exactly the way it's supposed to be—all spent, down to the very last nickel.

For the Children's Fund of Michigan, a wealthy man's famed benefaction, was specifically directed to spend all its money within a period of 25 years. Midnight tonight is the end of this.

Couzens so ordered when he set up the fund in 1929, seven years before his death.

Fund executors said today the order had been faithfully carried out.

Sen. Couzens, who made vast wealth from the automobile industry as a onetime partner of Henry Ford, established the fund with one thought in mind—children's welfare.

Great accomplishments followed, the record shows.

The millions went in many directions, all with a purpose. Some went to children's hospitals and clinics. Some went into research, to health education.

Needy and crippled children were direct and immediate beneficiaries.

The laboratories of hospitals, impoverished families, town and county health departments, all benefitted.

During the depression hungry children got food.

At one time the fund grew to approximately $18,000,000 from interest on unused money. But it was all spent eventually.

The fund had few properties.

All of these, including the Green Pastures Camp for Negro children on Pleasant Lake in Jackson County, are to be given away to proper institutions.

William J. Norton, executive vice president and original trustee of the fund, summed up the 25 years:

"The fund has not been used to aid individual cases as much as it has been used to initiate enterprises which would continue on, once they were given a good start."

State Dems to Toast With Milk 'Highballs'

DETROIT (AP) — Democrats will drink fresh milk "highballs" Saturday night to toast the memory of Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson.

The Democratic State Central Committee explained why:

"The milk will symbolize unrest among Michigan dairymen over lowering of price supports and the part Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) had in it."

Sen. Symington (D-Mo) will be the guest speaker at the party fund-raising rally.

Denmark probably has the most highly organized agricultural industry in the world. The agricultural producers have achieved a high standard of efficiency through cooperative enterprises in production, quality of production and distribution.

Man Kills Wife, Commits Suicide

Fails at Reconciliation; Daughters Hear Shots, Flee House

FLINT (AP)—Police came to the home of Mrs. Gertrude Secord, 42, Thursday night to find her and her estranged husband, Herbert, 55, shot to death in the basement.

The water was still running into a washing machine at which Mrs. Secord had been at work. Two daughters of Mrs. Secord told of having heard shots and fleeing in fright from the house.

Police Lt. Loren Herfurth said the husband, an auto factory worker, had shot Mrs. Secord three times with a 12 gauge shotgun and then killed himself with the weapon. It lay beside his body.

The police said the Secords, married for nine years, separated two weeks ago.

Before shooting himself, Secord sought to calm his two stepdaughters.

The two, Karen Leslie, 13, and Valorie Leslie, 19, heard what sounded like shots while they were upstairs. They called out, they said.

"Everything's all right," Secord called back from the basement.

Then they heard another shot and ran in alarm from the house.

The girls told police their stepfather had been visiting their mother in an attempt at reconciliation. He came again Thursday night and followed Mrs. Secord into the basement when she went there to do her washing, they said.

Bow Bells to Ring Once More in London

LONDON (AP) — The war blitzed church of St. Mary-le-Bow is being restored and in time, cockney children will again be born "within the sound of Bow Bells."

However, it may be four years before the famous Christopher Wren church with its 12 bells will rise on its Cheapside site not far from St. Paul's Cathedral. It dates back to 1680.

The word "cockney" is a colloquial term applied to Londoners generally who can produce an accent all their own. By popular agreement those born within the sound of Bow Bells can claim right ful cockney origin.

Detroit Banker New State Bond Official

Noble D. Travis, vice president of the Detroit Trust Co., was appointed state chairman of the U. S. Savings Bonds Advisory Committee for Michigan today.

Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey named Travis to succeed Frank N. Isbey, who resigned in February to devote more time to his business activities.

Isbey, a Detroiter, served as state chairman since the savings bonds program started in 1941.

Arrest Three Girls, 19, in Northland Larcenies

Three 19-year-old girls employed as clerks at Northland Shopping Center in Southfield Township were arrested yesterday on grand larceny charges by Michigan State Police of the Redford Post.

The three, Margaret J. Kladas and Gloria J. Henry, both of 2205 W. Grand Blvd., Detroit, and Barbara J. Pietras of 4159 Bronsville, Lincoln Park, are accused of taking about $50 worth of women's wearing apparel from the Wilbur Roger's Clothing Store, two weeks ago, according to Detectives Melvin Kaufman and Walter Caukin.

Official Praises Straits Bridge

Early Completion Seen for Five-Mile Structure Linking Peninsulas

Completion of the Straits of Mackinac Bridge will climax a 70-year-old battle won by state industrial and civic leaders, Lawrence A. Rubin, bridge authority secretary, told the Pontiac Rotary Club Friday.

Describing the $96 million bridge as the longest suspension bridge in the world, Rubin said the project is scheduled for completion by Nov. 1, 1957. But the bridge authority is hoping the five-mile structure will be finished two to six months earlier.

Rubin said the Golden Gate bridge in San Francisco has a longer span between bridge towers, but Michigan's new bridge will be longer from anchorage to anchorage.

The long fight for the bridge started in 1884 when the Grand Traverse Herald called for a link between the Upper and Lower Peninsula.

Rubin said the bridge long has been envisaged to break the bottleneck of ferry traffic across the Straits. It is estimated that 1,500 cars will pass over the four-lane bridge hourly.

Rubin predicted traffic will be heavy enough to pay off the bonds through tolls within 25 years. After the bonds' retirement, the State Highway Department will operate the bridge without cost to the state.

He added that predictions, based on a study by a New York engineering firb, show that 1,927,000 vehicles will cross the bridge in 1958.

Kalkaska Leads Counties in Democrat Fund Drive

LANSING (AP) — The Democrqtic State Central Committee reported today that Kalkaska led all counties toward filling quotas in the party's campaign to raise $195,000 for the 1954 election campaign.

The 10 leading counties with their percentage of quota attained:

Kalkaska, 45 per cent; Leelanau, 40; Benzie, 28; Hillsdale, 24; Alcona, 24; Shiawassee, 15; Ingham, 15; Allegan, 15; Washtenaw, 14, and Emmett 14.

Tiny insects called snow fleas often are observed on snow in late winter. Little is known about them.

Claims Secrets Built Up Reds

California State Solon Charges Data Taken With Official OK

LOS ANGELES (INS) — A California state assemblyman charges that secret papers dealing with atomic energy and other military subjects were taken from West Coast defense plants eight years ago "with the knowledge and approval of high officials."

Assemblyman Charles E. Chapel, Republican representative of the state's 46th District, declared yesterday that these secret papers "contributed to the present strength of Soviet Russia."

He called upon Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) and Air Force officials to come to Los Angeles so that he can present evidence he said he obtained while working in a defense plant, which he did not name.

Chapel made the charge at a luncheon of the Southern California Republican Women attended by about 800 persons. He said he could:

"Personally present evidence and testimony that secrets relating to atomic energy, guided missiles, rockets, radar and other military subjects were taken out of one or more defense plants of the West Coast with the knowledge and approval of high officials, both civilian and military."

He added:

"I shall produce evidence which will tend to prove that these things took place nearly eight years ago and contributed to the present strength of Soviet Russia."

Students Face Spring Tasks

Chiefs Sell Magazines; Mikes Really Musical; Freds Prepare Fair

School resumed Monday for the City's parochial students who faced a schedule that was brimming with plans. Pontiac High chiefs and squaws settled into the routine of school life as spring activities began to form at a feverish pace.

St. Frederickites had a myriad of plans to occupy them. On the agenda are the Spring festival, the annual Senior play and commencement activities which are again looming in the distance.

Close harmony and bustles were the topic at St. Mike's at students prepared for their "Gay 90s" musical show. The Catholic Youth Organization is sponsoring the event.

Busy as bees were teeners at PHS, who rang doorbells diligently, magazine subscription in hand, and greeted friends and relatives with a gleam in their collective eye. After becoming famed as one of the schools with the highest sales rating, eager-beaver salesman are doing their best to maintain this standard.

• • •

PONTIAC HIGH

Vicy Micu, high school correspondent, says things are really popping at the old brick teepee what with plays, swimming shows, banquets and what-not brightening up the spring horizon.

VICKY

Avid aquagirls, otherwise known as Dolphin Club members, are busy splashing in preparation for their big carnival. The theme will be a toy shop in which everything comes alive on the stroke of midnight.

The swimmers create their own routines for the show, in addition to designing their costumes. Jean Hutchinson, faculty adviser, reported that tickets went on sale Wednesday for the May 12-15 show.

Twelve members of the Future Teachers Club also kept busy, as they attended Michigan State College on a visit. A tour of the campus, and a peek at classes in progress were only a few highlights of the trip.

Those attending were Aaron Smith, Carol Card, Virginia Baker, Joyce Whitfield, Christine Lape, Beryl Flannigan and Audrey Pinkis.

Others who went were Doris Jane Pence, Joyce Davis, Karen Anderson, Janet Allen and Lily Baegehnn. Ann Morrow is club supervisor.

ST. MICHAEL

It wasn't hard for the seniors to get back in the swing, what with graduation excitement facing them, but you pity the poor underclassmen after that nice, long vacation; at least so, writes diligent penpusher, Margaret Martin.

MARGARET

However, the air is filled with plans, she goes on to say, among the "Gay 90" musical show which is a must on everyone's schedule.

Both juniors and seniors completed work on term papers for English class while the upperclassmen turned their efforts to a thesis on "The Holy Eucharist" for religion class.

Burning the midnight oil, coupled with the clatter of feverish typewriter keys, was a good indication that book reports were due. The history classes were (logically enough) boning up on books with historical backgrounds.

• • •

ST. FREDERICK

School bells clanged their summons to St. Frederick students, reports Mary Drake, putting an end to that leisurely Easter respite.

MARY

However, every moment was taken up with activities as the senior class made plan after plan for the coming weeks.

May 5 is the day the upperclassmen will take a tour through Pontiac State Hospital. The hospital is having open house, Sunday through Wednesday, to mark National Mental Week.

A sure sign of spring is the sound of young voices yelling "Batter up" which was just what St. Fred students were doing.

Baseball practice for boys and softball practice for girls has kept the spirit of competitive sports reigning at the school.

One of the first things in store for the seniors when they returned was that time honored classic "Macbeth" by William Shakespeare (of course.)

St. Frederick School, in co-operation with the health department is doing its bit in the nationwide program to prevent polio.

Accordingly, on May 5, children in grades one through three will be given the serum, which it is hoped, will permanently abolish the threat of polio.

INDIAN UPRISING—A page out of the "wet" old west, is this wild and woolly foursome which seems to have the Indian problem under control. This attractive quartet of PHS Dolphin Club members is rehearsing for the annual Water Show scheduled for May 12 through 15. Keeping a bead on the redskins with her trusty six-shooter is Gail Barber (left to right) of 189 Cherokee Rd., while companion Patsy Dernberger (far right) of 9 Oriole Rd., keeps a firm lasso on Jane Steinhelper (second from left) of 26 S. Genesee, and Jo Ann Uligian (second from right) who lives at 241 Starr Ave.

CYO at St. Michael to Sponsor Musical

The Catholic Youth Organization of St. Michael High School is sponsoring the "Gay 90" musical show.

A product of diligent lenten practices, the program will feature a roster of beloved songs. The shows will run May 2nd and 3rd in St. Michael Hall, commencing at 8 p.m.

Some of the tunes featured will be "Put on Your Old Grey Bonnet," "That's Italian Love," and "Sweet Adeline."

Romeo Awaits Population Increase; Remains Calm

By ARNOLD S. HIRSCH

(This is the third in a series of articles describing population and industrial growth forecast for communities in Oakland and adjoining counties.)

Industrial expansion, and resulting growth in population, is illustrated clearly by two Macomb County communities. They are Utica and Romeo.

Utica is 13 miles nearer Detroit. So, as industry moves out of the highly concentrated metropolitan area, it reaches Utica first.

Earlier articles in this series noted the great changes which are taking place in Utica. Huge plants are being built there. Whole subdivisions of new homes are going up. The population is rising rapidly.

Romeo, on the other hand, is enjoying the quiet that precedes the storm. Thirteen miles further north, it just now feels the breeze which forecasts the whirlwind. And many of the folks in Romeo aren't completely pleased about what they see ahead.

"People are perfectly happy with Romeo the way it is, "says Village President Phillip Stone.

"They don't want to expand the village limits and increase costs . . . People like it as it is now — a small village out in the country.

"But one of these days the bubble is going to break and there will be people out here. If 20,000 people come out because it's a small village, there are still 20,000 people."

Stone foresees Romeo as Utica's Birmingham, with upper income bracket workers and executives from the industry now mushrooming in nearby Utica moving to Romeo and its surrounding countryside.

Real estate man Ed Nordman, too, sees Utica playing an important part in Romeo's residential growth.

"But, in addition, he sees more and more people who work in Detroit being attracted to Romeo's rolling hills and quiet way of life.

Agent for the new Orchard Hills subdivision now going up where apple trees once stood, Nordman is confident. "Romeo will double in size within the next five years."

Although only three or four homes are under construction now, he is confident that 75 per cent of the 210-home subdivision will be sold within three years. Price range for the homes is $15,000-$23,000.

Nordman says his organization is also planning a subdivision of 135 lower-priced homes for construction next year.

With five nearby communities, Romeo is preparing the groundwork for a $300,000 hospital to serve 20,000 people. The hospital will be located between Romeo and Almont.

Voters less than a month ago approved a school expansion which will add 18 classrooms to the village's two elementary schools and one high school.

And St. Clement parishioners recently approved a four-room addition to Romeo's only parochial school.

Ten churches serve Romeo's approximately 3,350 people, with five more houses of worship in surrounding communities.

For all the emphasis on residences, Romeo does have its industry, including the Palmer Paint Co., which took over the old Romeo Orchard cannery and now produces paint-by-number sets.

Other industrial concerns are the Hebert Equipment Co., which makes heavy machinery, and the Kernaghan Engineering Co. and the V. L. Graff Co., both tool and die makers.

Romeo's famous apple and peach orchards can't be overlooked, either. This is still big seasonal business, along with the area's nurseries.

And, although more apples than peaches are grown nowadays. Romeo still has its traditional Peach Festival over the Labor Day weekend, with all the festivities of queen choosing, bands, parades and displays.

With an eye to the cultural future, a steering committee for a projected Romeo Community Council recently started investigating what civic improvements citizens desire.

Headed by William Hanes, high school English instructor, the group will soon undertake a house-to-house survey to determine the citizenry's views on community betterment.

Local businessmen canvassed seemed pleased with business now and the future outlook.

Albert L. Green has seen business multiply 'three or four times over what it was" when he took over a shoe store here seven months ago. Green stated.

"I don't see what can keep Romeo from growing."

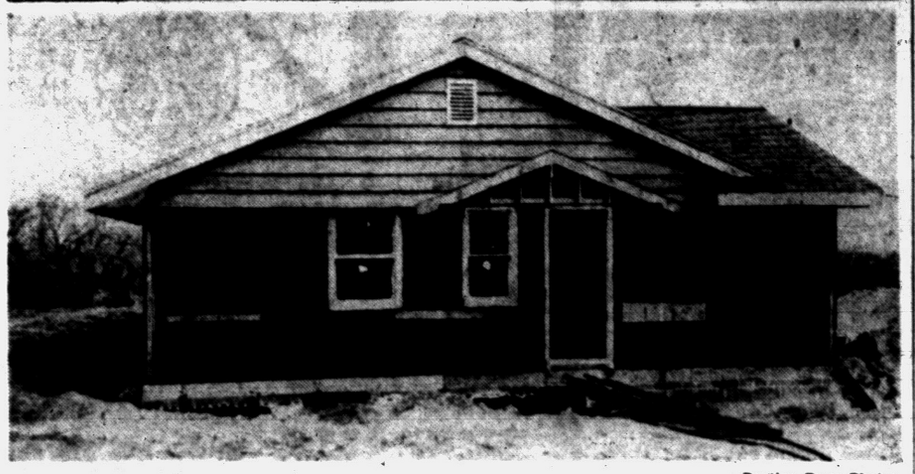
Slightly more cautious, Clare C. Tincknell, assistant manager of the Cole Furniutre store, said: "It's got to grow. But it's going to be a hard and long pull."

Frank Donahue, who came to Romeo eight months ago from St. Clair County, finds his drug-store business 'fine." While not anticipating a tremendous boom in the near future, he is looking forward to continued prosperity.

Gordon L. Osgood, chief of Romeo's four-patrolman four-radio operator police department, had only an increase in juvenile delinquency to report.

"Aside from disturbances of the peace, it's a pretty quiet little town," he added.

And, that is probably what will bring the influx of new citizens.



Pontiac Press Photos

OLD AND NEW — Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley B. Palmer, the colonial-style home in the top picture (above) typifies the residences in the heart of Romeo. The home, located at 252 Church St., was said to be more than 100 years old when the Palmers moved in 14 years ago. Pictured below is the first house under actual construction in a new 210-house subdivision just northwest of the village limits. Basement and foundation work has begun on several other homes in the subdivision which is going up where apple trees once grew. Trees can be seen in the background.

Pleads Guilty to Robbing Bank

Hugh Cox Is Awaiting Sentence With Partner; Brothers Face Trial

Hugh T. Cox, 21, of 88 W. Mansfield Ave., one of two bandits who held up a Dearborn bank for $52,300 April 2, pleaded guilty to the charge before Federal Judge Arthur F. Lederle in Detroit yesterday.

He and James J. Minder Jr., 24, of Dearborn, are both awaiting sentencing for the robbery of the Dearborn branch of the Manufacturers National Bank.

In Ann Arbor Municipal Court yesterday, two other Pontiac men, Gordon Ervin, 27, and his brother Charles, 37, were bound over for arraignment in Washtenaw County Circuit Court May 17.

The Ervins, Cox and Minder are accused of a $4,826 armed robbery of a supermarket in Ann Arbor last Feb. 26. The brothers were unable to furnish $30,000 bond each. Cox and Minder are held on $50,000 bond each.

Cox and Minder, in addition to the Dearborn and Ann Arbor holdups, are wanted by Flint Police in connection with three stickups there. Cox also faces possible prosecution on a kidnaping warrant in Oakland County.

Wendell Manchester of 3300 Elizabeth Lake Rd. accused Cox of abducting him March 25, the same day that Cox broke away from Oakland County sheriff's deputies at the jail. Cox was being held for Flint Police at the time of his escape.

Teachers Hear Philosophy Talk

Edwin Steckel Speaks to City Group, Would Teach How to Live

Edwin Steckel, of Wheeling, W. Va., mixed humor with philosophy Thursday night in a talk before Pontiac Education Assn.

Some 150 teachers, principals and guests gathered at the Knights of Columbus Hall for the banquet marking the association's 25th anniversary.

Steckel, director of Ogiebar Institute which is a community service agency in Wheeling, gave his attitude toward teaching.

"You as a society and individuals typify service," he said. "I don't know of any profession more dedicated to the service of man than teaching."

Steckel cited a definition of education that says it's not only to teach students to earn a living—but to help them learn what to do with the living after they earn it.

He pointed out that many people approaching retirement are so immersed in their work that "when they come to the end of the road and look up they don't know which way to turn."

Miss Vera Mae Adams, Pontiac High School speech teacher, was toastmistress.

William Wright, Whittier principal, opened the program with prayer. Mrs. Wilma Exline, McConnell and Whittier music teacher, played dinner music and Pontiac High's Junior Girls Ensemble sang several selections. Roger Gunn, Washington Junior High teacher and association president, introduced Miss Adams, who presented Steckel.

Jacoby on Games

Definite Rules Clear Up Last Play in Bolivia Game

By OSWALD JACOBY

A number of questions have come to me on the last play in canasta, samba and bolivia. The same rule applies to all of these games, fortunately, so one explanation will do for all.

When you draw the last card of the stock, and it happens to be a red three, you must put it down on the table without melding or discarding.

The hand ends immediately. The same rule applies when you draw the last two cards of the stock (in samba or bolivia), and both are red threes. If you draw two cards and only one of them is a red three, you are allowed to meld and discard as usual.

Let's assume that you discard in the normal way after taking the last card of the stock pile. This discard may or may not end the hand.

If the next player cannot possibly pick up your discard, the hand comes to an end.

This will be true if your discard is a black three or a wild card. It will also be true if the next player doesn't happen to be able to pick up your discard.

If the next player is obviously able to pick up your discard by means of a previous meld, he is obliged to do so. For example, suppose that the next player has a meld of three kings on the table.

You discard a king, and the pack is not frozen. Obviously, the next player is able to pick up the king and add it to his meld. He is therefore obliged to do so, taking the rest of the discard pile (if any) into his hand.

If the next player cannot pick up the discard by means of a previous meld, but can do so with the aid of cards that are still in his hand, he may decide for himself whether or not to do so.

For example, suppose you discard a king into a frozen pack. If the next player has two kings in his hand, he may or may not pick up your discard. The choice is up to him.

If the next player does pick up or because he was forced to do so, he is entitled to meld and make his own discard. (If he melds out, the hand comes to an end as usual.)

That discard, in turn, has the same effect on the player who is next to play. That next player must pick it up if he can do so with the aid of previous melds; but he has free choice if he can pick it up only by the aid of cards that are still in his hand.

The game continues in this way until somebody melds out or until somebody is either unable to pick up the previous discard or is unwilling to do so with the aid of cards still in the hand.

Pencil leads today are made in 18 different degrees of hardness.

WATCH VOTING PROCEDURE—For the first time in the history of Michigan PTA, a second Pontiac woman is in line for the PTA state presidency. Mrs. Charles W. Neldrett (center), of Pontiac was named first vice-president at the convention. This year marked the end of Pontiac's Lola B. King's presidency and in three years Mrs. Neldrett will be up for the top post. DEVELOPING PUBLIC UNDERSTANDING—Ways in which the home, school and the community can develop an educational program that will meet the needs of today's children were discussed at the PTA conclave with Louis Schimmel, (second from left) Pontiac Board of Education member, telling how a board trustee performs his duties. Others above are (left to right) M. P. Anderson, superintendent of Berkley Schools and president of the Michigan Education Assn.; L. H. PTA Congress Adopts Eleven Resolutions

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE
Pontiac Press Staff Writer

SAGINAW—Nearly 4,000 Michigan Congress of Parent and Teacher members left this mid-Michigan city yesterday resolved to:

1. Support home and family living courses from kindergarten through college.

2. Back safety education and expansion of driver education in all public schools.

3. Promote interest in organizing the parent-teacher-student associations for secondary schools.

4. Urge the strengthening of preventative measures and services for rehabilitation of young people.

5. Review sales of carbonated beverages, candy and other confections in schools and discuss the matter with school administrators.

6. Support the United Nations and UNESCO.

7. Seek enforcement of the law controlling secret societies, sororities and fraternities among young people in public high schools.

8. Guard against employing or retaining teachers belonging to any subversive groups opposed to democracy.

9. Encourage wider use of visual aids to education.

10. Move to abolish any temporary agreements on child labor reached during war years with bowling alley operators.

11. Encourage promising high school graduates and persons with liberal arts degrees to become teachers.

Winding up a three-day conference on the theme "Our American Heritage," delegates supported the above resolutions and listened to Walled Lake's Clifford Smart, chairman on legislation for PTA, review the pertinent legislation facing the public at the polls this November.

In explaining the Conlin Plan, proposed constitutional amendment to replace the present sales tax diversion amendment, Smart said that the plan would put the state in a "healthier" fiscal condition, but cautioned the PTA to study it thoroughly.

"Contrary to circulated reports, the schools will not get more money under this proposal. The two cents of the three-cent sales tax they will receive will have two sizable deductions before it reaches the distribution stage to the schools," he said.

Cost of collecting the sales tax, pro-rated, and the teacher retirement fund will both be deductible items from the earmarked two-cents for schools, he continued.

Mrs. Harry E. King of Pontiac, three-year president of the Michigan Congress, turned the gavel over to Mrs. Fred Keeler new prexy from Grand Rapids at the end of Thursday's convene.

Unprecedented in the history of Michigan PTA was the election of another Pontiac woman to the near-top post in the Michigan Congress.

Mrs. Charles Neldrett, named first vice president, if orthodox PTA policy is followed, will undoubtedly be the state PTA head in another three years. She served as program chairman for this year's meeting.

Seek Sponsors for Immigrants

Methodists Send Appeal for 2,500 in U. S. to Aid Refugee Program

An urgent need for sponsors for incoming refugees is announced by Miss Elizabeth M. Lee, sectreary of promotion of the Refugee Resettlement Program of the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief.

Under the newly-established program, MCOR has pledged itself to secue sponsors for 5000 of the 214,000 refugees who will be admitted to the U. S. under the Refugee Relief Act of 1953. In order to enter the United States, refugees must have sponsorship assurances, including job and place of residence, from responsible citizens.

In making the appeal for immediate action on the part of Methodist individuals and groups, Miss Lee announces that te program is at a standstill until additional offers to sponsor refugees come in.

It is estimated that approximately 2500 sponsors will be needed to Methodist Church. Only one sponsorship per family is required, and many of the refugees making application are family groups.

Information concerning the MCOR Resettlement Program may be obtained by writing Miss Elizabeth M. Lee, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York, 11, New York.

Scotchmen Prove Adage With Retired Longevity

SYDNEY, N. S. (AP)—They say if you put a Scotsman on pension he'll live forever. Bolstering this adage are 15 ex-miners, mostly of Scottish descent, on the pension rolls of a coal company here.

All are over 90 years old, and all plan to enjoy retirement for years to come. They are some of the men who started in the pits at 11 or 12 years of age, back in the days before child labor laws and trade unions. They earned up to 50 cents a day. Some worked in the same mine-shaft for more than 50 years.

BETWEEN SESSION PAUSE — Catching a moment of relaxation between sessions at the PTA convention were three Pontiac members from Hawthorne School who shared two chairs in the hallway of the Saginaw Arthur Hill High School. Left to right are Mrs. William Hill, of Hawthorne School; Mrs. J. E. Everson, and Mrs. Merlin Sanderson, president of Hawthorne's PTA.

Church Women Ask H-Test Ban

Send Message to Japs Expressing Concern for Injured Fishermen

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) —The United Church Women of America, an organization representing 10,000,000 women, has asked President Eisenhower to call off any future H-bomb tests that "would endanger the lives and food supplies of our own or other peoples."

The organization's board of managers adopted the resolution at conclusion of a three-day meeting here Thursday. The church women also asked the President to "avoid unilateral decision to use of atomic, hydrogen, cobalt or other weapons of mass destruction" and to "persist in . . . determination not to initiate thermo-nuclear warfare."

The board sent a letter to Japanese church women expressing its "deep concern" of effects of a recent H-bomb test in the Pacific that injured a group of Japanese fishermen several hundred miles from the test area.

Fudge Cake, Icing Baked Together

Treat Comes Out of the Oven Ready to Serve

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Some cooks dislike making a cake because they don't care for the extra work involved in making the frosting. Here's just the recipe for those cooks.

Mrs. Edward Solomon has an excellent idea in her recipe for Frost 'n' Bake Fudge Cake. The cake and frosting are prepared and baked together.

Mrs. Solomon has cooking problems not every woman has: Her husband is on an ulcer diet, and Mrs. Solomon is a conscientious calorie counter. But their two children are normal, hungry youngsters.

She lists her hobbies as knitting and crocheting.

FROST 'N' BAKE FUDGE CAKE

1 package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
⅔ cup sweetened condensed milk
2 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 package white or yellow cake mix (17 or 20-ounce size)

By Mrs. Edward Solomon

Melt chocolate over hot (not boiling) water. Add milk, water and vanilla. Pour into 12x8x2 pan lined on bottom and sides with double thickness of waxed paper each way.

Prepare cake as directed on package. Pour gently over the chocolate mixture.

Bake at recommended temperature until cake springs back from the touch and shrinks from the sides of the pan. It will have to bake longer than usual.

Invert cake on rack. Lift off pan. Let stand two minutes. Peel off paper. Decorate promptly with nuts. Let cool.

Feed Bags Handy in Home Sewing

One extra dividend from rural living is having attractive feed bags available to the home sewer at no extra cost. But whether these bags are made of burlap, cotton, or rayon they need to be readied for sewing.

The first step is to rip their seams apart. The second step is thorough laundering in rich soapsuds; this washes away the labels, printing ink, and dirt — and also pre-shrinks the fabric. The third step is ironing because wrinkled material cannot be cut and sewn accurately.

Let Hubby Do Own Sock, Shirt Wash

Try to get your husband to do his own sock, short, and shirt washings. When these items are made of nylon, Orlon, or Dacron, they need no special directions for ironing.

Just give him the only two ingredients required: soap and water. Why you might even end up with "His" and "Her" soap containers in the bathroom for light laundering!

For June Bride-to-Be

Wrap Gifts Purse-Style

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

Beginning any day now, a June bride's life whirls with gifts and parties, and eveyone who entertains for her has a sharp eye open for ideas.

Jeanette Lee, gift designer, suggests wrapping gifts to look like festive handbags, and that several wrapped this way can be arranged with candles to form a colorful centerpiece.

Choose a delicately flowered paper and secure it on the box with cellophane tape.

Wrap wire with ribbon in a pastel from the paper and bend it into a handle shape. Turn back ends of wire about three-eighths of an inch.

Make small holes in the box and insert the bent ends of the wire to attach the handle to the box, cover the holes with ribbon and continue the ribbon around the box from one side of the handle to the other.

Finish the top of the handle with a ribbon bow, and perhaps a little spray of flowers and bells.

Finish the table with placecards to match the flowered paper. Also in matching papers are name tags, small decorative silhouettes and even the invitations to the party.

Sharkskin Newest in Home Decoration

Now look what's happened — acetate sharkskin has switched over from being fashion's favorite baby to the new ddling of home decorators. Women have loved to wear sharkskin — and still do — because it launders so beautifully and has such a crisp feeling.

Now sharkskin is used for bedspreads, draperies, and upholstery. You'll find it by the yard, and in many decorator shades — all colorfast and soap-and-water safe.

20-Minute Wait Was Sufficient

With More Delay, Pair Would Have Missed Movie

By EMILY POST

A young woman writes me: "The other evening my boy friend and I had a date to meet another couple at a certain time in front of a moving picture theater. We waited 20 minutes (10 minutes after the feature started) and as there was no sign of them, we went in.

"The next day I saw this girl and she refused to speak to me, and it must be because of what happened the night before.

"According to good manners, were we obliged to wait, and miss the picture, until they turned up? How did we know they were coming at all? And now what can I do to get back into this girl's good graces?"

Answer: In my opinion, 20 minutes was certainly ample time to wait. If I were you, I would telephone her and explain that you and John had waited 20 minutes for them and even missed the beginning of the picture, and that when they didn't turn up you naturally thought they had been prevented from coming.

Dear Mrs. Post: Where should my husband and I receive, and who should stand with us, at our silver wedding anniversary celebration? Only one of our attendants can be present. What part should our children take? (This is to be a reception.)

Answer: You and your husband stand together just inside of the door of the room in which you will receive. It is not expected, but it would be very suitable to ask the attendant you speak of to receive with you.

Your children make themselves agreeable by circulating among your guests and seeing that none of them appears to be in any way neglected.

Dear Mrs. Post: We have no one to wait on table and whenever we have guests in to dinner I do the serving.

When removing the used plates before dessert, is it permissible to pile the plates on top of each other and remove them all at the same time to eliminate trips to the kitchen, or must they be removed individually?

Answer: Correctly, they should be removed two at a time, one in each hand. To pile one used plate on another is very unappetizing.

What fun to start the warm weather in the cool comfort of one of these cotton plisse nightgowns that need no ironing. Left is the pert steal from grandmother's nightgown, ending at the knee. For something more dressy (right), a simple gown is highlighted with an embroidered nylon yoke. The front is delicately shirred to shape to natural body contours, while the back is left loose to be gathered in with an adjustable ribbon tie. They are made in delicate shades of pink, blue or maize.

Coat Ends of Lumber With Paint

By HUBBARD COBB

When you buy good grade lumber for some project, it's a good idea to coat the ends of each board with paint or shellac.

This helps prevent the end grain of the wood absorbing moisture and causing warps or cracks.

Wood roof shingles should never be painted. If you want to give them some color, use a preservative stain.

Paint can be used for sidewall shingles but stain is better and requires less maintenance. You can't apply stain over the shingles if they have been coated once with paint.

Use Party as Excuse to Call Boy

Informal Gathering Is Perfect Reason to Phone Him

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

Too bad so many of you figure the only way to be with a boy is to have a date with him to go somewhere. And he has to ask for it.

Too bad so many of you overlook the possibilities of fun in your own home—something you can invite him to share. Your families would cooperate, I'm sure.

Not a flock of big parties so that you have to move out the furniture and hide the bric-a-brac. Just two or three couples for an evening of chatter, watching television, playing a game or two, dancing, maybe, and eating, for sure.

Such informal evenings are good fun—on Friday nights that aren't haloed for dates. And an invitation gives you an excuse for calling up a boy whose silence is driving you mad!

It's just the cure for this girl:

"Dear Miss Woodward: I went to a dance with Pete three weeks ago—we had a wonderful time and he made it quite clear that he liked me.

"He said he would call me the next night—but my kid sister was on the phone from 6:30 until 10. He couldn't possibly have reached me if he had tried. The next night she held down the phone again.

"I haven't heard from him yet! He lives on the other side of town and goes to a different school, so I don't bump into him. Should I give up hope and forget all about him—or just wait?"

You owe him something for taking you to that dance and showing you such a good time. An invitation to join a few friends at your house on a specific evening would brgin to pay your debt. And a phone call his house to transmit said invitation would give you a chance to hear his voice!

If he tried to get you and gave up hope, you'll hear about it. Your enthusiastic regret may encourage him to make another date. Such encouragement may rout any fears he may have had that it was you keeping the line busy!

"Dear Miss Woodward: Up until now I didn't realize that I might be making a mistake! I thought going steady was a big thing, so after a few dates with a boy I'd hint about it. That probably made me lose quite a few dates.

"Recently, after a few dates with a boy I really fell for, I lost him. It's had a dreadful effect on me.

"I can't be friendly or smile any more, it's a big effort to talk, I cry a lot and I'm very nervous. I want to date him again and I don't know what to do about it!"

An invitation is all the excuse you need to pick up the phone and get in touch with him yourself. Silly to mope around, feeling sick and sorry for yourself, when it's so easy to cure yourself.

If he's afraid you're chasing him for steady-going purposes, show him you're just paying your debts—and have an extra boy over that evening so you'll have an excuse for dividing your attention.

If your family will help you put out the welcome mat, you'll have the perfect alibi from then on for ending silences and the watchful waiting that sinks you so low.

Parking Your Car Not So Difficult With Know-How

Parking — but not the lover's lane variety — presents a problem to some distaff drivers.

One of the most common difficulties is parking a large car in a small garage that has a difficult approach, without fender fatalities.

Experts suggest that the driver make a straight-line approach to her vexing garage. If this doesn't solve the problem, certain car accessories will.

The driver can have her car equipped with "curb feelers," devices which make a magnified whirring sound to warn when you're too close to objects on either side of your fenders. "Feelers" also prove helpful in ordinary curb parking.

Front fenders can be outfitted with upright wire guides which serve as sights to help you in judging distances between your fenders and other objects.

These guides also double as valuable aids in judging distances in ordinary driving and in passing other cars.

Here are other parking tips to help you avoid fines and frustrations:

1. Be sure the coast is clear in the front and in the rear before you park at the curb.

2. Don't cause a traffic jam behind you while you maneuver into a difficult space on a heavily-traveled street.

3. Try to avoid over-shooting your mark. It's wisest to back into a parallel parking space at a sharp right angle, straightening your car up gradually as you move in.

4. When you park diagonally to the curb, make sure that the rear of your car does not project into the traffic lane.

5. Allow space in front and rear for other cars to get out without bumping you.

State Hospital Social Service Plays Vital Role in Rehabilitating Patients

Symphony Boasts Fine Leadership

Talented, Brilliant Francesco DiBlasi Directs Orchestra

By GOLDA HOGUE

Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, to be heard in the last concert of the season Tuesday evening in Lincoln Junior High School, is fortunate in having the brilliant Francesco Di Blasi for its conductor.

Born and educated in Detroit, Mr. Di Blasi became skilled in piano and trumpet at an early age. He studied several other orchestral instruments while still in high school, along with harmony and counterpoint, with Mischa Bistritsky.

Recommended by Fowler Smith, head of the Music Department of the Detroit Public Schools, Mr. Di Blasi entered Juilliard School of Music in New York where he studied with Fritz Mahler, Vittorio Giannini, Stanley Locke and Roman Nagorka.

It was at Juilliard that Mr. Di Blasi became interested in conducting. He received much valuable experience conducting opera performances. Other experience includes three years attendance at Toscanini's rehearsals and participation in Pierre Monteux' school for two summers.

He has conducted the New York Little Symphony and was chosen to conduct the premiere of the Shostakovitch Ninth Symphony with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.

Other orchestras performing under his direction were the Canton Symphony, the Salmaggie Opera Company, the Wichita Symphony and the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, which he conducted for two years.

In 1951 he became director of the Music Festival at Martha's Vineyard.

The Pontiac Symphony Orchestra was reorganized in 1953 with Mr. Di Blasi as its permanent conductor. The rapid progress and steady development of this organization have prompted many comments of delight from civic leaders in Pontiac and the surrounding communities.

The orchestra is made up of musicians from Pontiac, Drayton Plains, Oxford, Walled Lake, Birmingham, Royal Oak, Ferndale, Detroit, Mount Clemens, Ann Arbor and Marlette. Included in the orchestra personnel are several members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

At a concert in 1953 John Soderberg, president of the Scandinavian Symphony, was so impressed with the orchestra and its conductor that he asked Mr. Di Blasi to conduct a concert with the Scandinavian Orchestra in March 1954 at the Detroit Institute of Arts, with Paul Doktor, world famous violinist, as soloist.

In May Mr. Bi Blasi will conduct a performance for the Chamber Music Workshop of Detroit in a concert of classical and modern works, some of which will be presented for the first time in Detroit.

Marguerite M. Parrish (right) director of the social service department at Pontiac State Hospital goes over a case history with Ohmer J. Curtis, student social worker. Histories to help determine the treatment needed are taken in the department.

Family Care Program, Psychodrama Among Its Varied Functions

This Department Guides Mentally Ill During Treatment and After Release

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE

Have you ever considered the important role the social service department at Pontiac State Hospital plays in the general well-being and rehabilitation of the patient who comes there for treatment?

This large, but well-organized department is directed by Marguerite M. Parrish who not only is responsible for the planning of department activity, but also supervises the student training program.

To better understand the department, we would like to tell you about its various functions.

The patient is first admitted to the hospital through the social service department, and then the worker assigned to him visits him on the ward soon after admission.

This intake interview helps to relieve any anxiety or fear and to orient the patient to his surroundings. The interview not only establishes a relationship between the patient and worker, but it gives the patient an opportunity to give vent to his feelings.

In her close work with patients, Miss Parrish finds that very often this is the patient's first contact with someone who is not judging him, but is accepting him. Often times he is wary of this relationship and finds many ways of testing it until gradually he can accept it.

During this time, too, the worker is able to determine the patient's capacity to use the various social service contacts featured in the department.

Following the patient's release from the hospital, case work treatment is continued. It is not only carried on with the patient, but also with relatives and any community person or agency concerned with the patient's welfare.

The social history which is taken in the department serves a two-fold purpose. It determines emotional, social and biological factors which may have caused the patient's mental illness and, Miss Parrish explained, it serves as a tool in arriving at a diagnosis and treatment plan while the patient is a resident of the hospital.

If you've wondered about the family care program, Miss Parrish explains it briefly by saying it is "care of a mental patient by a family." The sole purpose is the rehabilitation of the patient where this is possible.

The family care social worker selects a home for the custodial-type patient which will best meet his needs. It is important that the operator of the home (family care therapist) is understanding and gives the patient a feeling of security.

The social worker must select very carefully the homes for the rehabilitative patients as she must take into consideration not only the patient's personality, his family relationships and type of illness, but also must consider the same factors when deciding upon the proper family for the patient. This responsibility lies with the social worker.

Psychodrama is yet another method of treatment which is conducted by members of the social service staff. Psychodrama, explains Miss Parrish, is an impromptu acting out of interpersonal difficulties.

Scenes of the unrehearsed dramas usually develop around the lives of the patients, revealing many of their innermost thoughts. Patients gain much needed insight from the presentation as well as from the follow-up discussions held with staff members.

The work convalescent status program is yet another function of the social service department. A social worker must have thorough understanding of the patient to enable him to determine the type of employment best suited to the patient.

The worker continues to follow the progress of the patient and to encourage him at all times. An important phase is interpreting the patient to his employer. The encouraging thing, Richard Arthaud, case work supervisor, related, is that slowly the community is becoming aware that mentally ill patients can recover and can once again contribute to society.

A most important step the social service department has taken is the formation of a relatives' group. Here the patient is treated indirectly, through the family.

In these classes which meet each Tuesday, relatives or interested persons discuss various experiences. The result — these people gain a great deal of insight into the patients' difficulties, and through this understanding, they are better equipped to deal with the total treatment program.

Another forward step is the small group therapy project which was begun in January. In this project, patients are encouraged to have open discussions, to enter into social groups and to develop leadership. The worker serves as discussion leader until such time as the group can become independent.

Teenage patients have an educational program which is geared to fit their needs and which provides facilities for them to continue their education while receiving therapeutic benefits.

Public relations is a function of the social service department, and perhaps the most important means of interpreting mental illness and its treatment is the hospital open house held annually in conjunction with Mental Health Week. This year's open house will be held May 2 through May 5 from 1 until 4:30 p. m.

We hope that when you visit the hospital next week, you will see how far Pontiac State Hospital has come from the days when mental illness was considered incurable, and that you will contact some member of the social service department to learn more about the volunteer program there.

Smith Alums Hear Talks on 3 Fields

College for a Day Features Lectures by Professors

By LEE WINBORN

Some 250 Smith College alumnae from various Michigan and Ohio communities attended College for a Day Thursday in the Kingswood School auditorium in Bloomfield Hills.

The program featured three Smith College professors lecturing on varied fields.

The college selected the Detroit Smith Club as one of the five clubs in the country to present this series. It was the first time that a Smith forum had been offered in the state of Michigan.

General chairman of the all-day program was Nancy Wolfner, instructor of history at Kingswood, who also acted as mistress of ceremonies. Miss Wolfner was graduated from Smith College in 1950. Marian Goodale, headmistress of Kingswood, was hostess for the day.

Opening the program was Marine Leland, associate professor of French at Smith College. Her topic was "Impact of Radio, Television and the Aluminum Industry on French Canadian Culture."

She pointed out that the French Canadians have the problem of preserving the French language, ideals, culture, customs and school systems where the French population is in the minority.

Nora M. Mohler, professor of physics, spokes on "Atomic Energy, Threat or Promise." Her talk outlined findings and techniques used by early physicists. She gave a report on the first splitting of the atom and the uses of atomic energy.

"The American-ness of American Literature" was discussed by Daniel Aaron, professor of English. He pointed out that there is no individual characteristic that can be labeled "American."

In closing, he said that no one can hope to know the country without reading its books.

Proper Packing of Suits Insures Crisp and Unrumpled Appearance

Learn to Prepare Meals Efficiently

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"You are always talking about women with interesting hobbies," a woman told me the other day, "or women with money-making home projects, or part-time jobs.

"But I haven't time for any of that nonsense. I have two teenage children and a seven-room house, and there just isn't a minute for myself in the whole day."

Her face had the heavy lines and the somewhat bitter eyes of the professional martyr, and friends who overheard her told me later that that was indeed the case.

As one of her friends said: "We've been after her for years. She lets her daughters walk all over her. They never so much as make their own beds or hang up their own clothes. She wastes hours dawdling in the kitchen, doing everything the hard way.

"She's driving her husband crazy, because she's so virtuous and nagging and practically bragging about how she has no time for herself."

There are many women like that, and I think we all fall into the pattern occasionally.

Running a home is a time-consuming business, and while we may envy the woman who organizes it so well that she has time for interests of her own, we all occasionally fall into the good old rut of half-heartedness, self-pity and downright inertia.

It isn't a habit that can be broken overnight, but I do know a book that will help. It is called "Making the Most of Your Cooking Time," and is by Marie Armstrong Essipoff.

Since cooking is one activity which most women must of necessity engage in, it is wonderful to find tips on cutting down your time in the kitchen, while at the same time getting as good, or better, eating.

Mrs. Essipoff writes in a breezy, entertaining manner which convinces you, even if reluctantly, that cooking is fun. Here, for example, is part of her introduction:

"The woman who allows her cooking preparations to drag over a whole day is not only foolish, she is generally inefficient. Production lines have their place in business, and I find them important in the home.

"Just as an efficiency expert studies and grooms a factory to eliminate time and material waste, so should a housewife submit herself and her methods to analysis."

If you find yourself without the time for a hobby, without any time for your own self-development, take a look at Mrs. Essipoff's book.

It's like finding an extra hour in every day — and feeding your family fabulously, to boot!

Packing a suit for a business or vacation trip is always a difficult task, but a few tips make the job easier, and promise better results when the suit is unpacked.

Look Neat on Business Trip or Vacation

Follow Easy Rules, Avoid Mussiness

It doesn't matter whether it is a weekend or a week, a trip or a vacation, a man's suit may be packed in a suitcase and still come out unwrinkled and band-box fresh.

A few simple steps show how to pack two suits successfully in the suit compartment of a two-suiter. The same process may be followed in other types of suitcases.

Trousers of the suit are placed separately in the bottom of the suit compartment. They are alternated so that the waist of the first pair is at one end and the waist of the second pair is at the opposite end. The legs are left hanging over the edge of the case until the coats are packed.

The coats are placed on hangers and locked onto the hanger bar. Smooth out the wrinkles and place strips of crushed tissue paper in a U-shape in the shoulders to prevent wrinkling. Crisp worsted fabric is the best traveler.

The sleeves are rolled along the body of the coats, forming a unit which will stay in place after the compartment is packed. The coats are left hanging out until the next step is completed.

Drop the compartment divider in place and fold up the hanging trouser legs and smooth out wrinkles. Next the bottoms of the coats are folded up over the trouser legs, with the sleeves held in their rolled position.

Fix the closing curtain or strap in place, and finish packing. Your suits will be neat when you arrive.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Big Mail Pouch Bulges With Choice Commentary

In a big bag like a diplomat's pouch I keep the letters you write, and today, leafing through them as I often do, laughing at a line here, looking serious over a reprimand there, I decided I had nothing half so interesting to write as what you say.

Sally Park of Hemet, Calif., thinks we may have some Irish McBride kinfolks in common but chidingly comments about a bit of boasting I did in regard to our Missouri Jersey cream—"Cream an inch thick? We Irish do like a tall story, don't we?"

MISS McBRIDE

A Midwesterner, worried about my neighbor's noisy ventilating fan that kept me awake nights, tells how she handled the problem of a neighbor's dog locked out of its home and barking to get in at 3 a. m.

Every time this happened, she rang her neighbor's telephone until somebody sleepily answered and then, without a word, hung up. The neighbors caught on and now the dog is never locked out.

A question we posed awhile back is solved by one who identifies himself as an ex-alcoholic: How do you refuse a drink when your host is over-urgent? "Say, 'Yes, I'd love a cup of coffee'," he advises. "That causes them extra trouble, but they get the point."

H. M., who says she is 68 years old and wears size 12 dresses, is bitter because women with small incomes and housewives who make their own clothes in their spare time never get a break on those annual best-dressed lists.

"When it comes to young-looking grandmothers, I know women older than Marlene Dietrich and Gloria Swanson who make their own living, keep house and could back those two glamor queens right off the map," H. M. declares morosely.

Now what could I ever have said that made William Goldberg of New York City write angrily, "I wish those spoiled married women would get up every morning and make breakfast for their husbands so that happy single men like me would not have to wait in line at the cafeteria."

I know very well what upset a misogynist from Wheat Ridge, Colo. It was a few kind words I said for women—and maybe, come to think of it, that was what ailed Mr. Goldberg too. Says this Coloradan, determined to put woman in her place:

"You say women live longer. Well, they have more time to rest, fewer worries, more time to get ailments treated. The smartest living person is a man and the most intelligent of all times was a man. Moreover, it was man that was made in the image of God, not woman."

Rather uncertainly I assure a Santa Barbara reader that we could not very well have had a trip to Catalina together because to the best of my knowledge I've never been to Catalina at all. And that broken romance with Harry she talks about—do you suppose somebody has been impersonating me?

A reader from Denver asks how to discourage a friend who makes it a practice to drop in uninvited and stay for several hours.

Well, I've never tried this myself, but I know somebody, disturbed by this same problem, who always puts on her hat before she answers the door. Usually, the suggestion works.

Why don't you write me some time?

Water Gets Grease in Miracle Fabrics

We learn new things every day about our "miracle fiber" fabrics —and one of the handiest things to know concerns stain removal.

Latest research on the subject reports that grease and oil stains respond best to the "cold treatment"—after rubbing a dense soap solution on the spot, rinse it in cold running water till the water runs clear. Then launder the garment as usual in warm soapsuds.

Revive May Day Custom

Giving May Day baskets to friends has been a custom for many years. The original idea was for you to remember your friends by making your baskets, filling them with flowers from your own garden, then hanging them on friends' doors early on the morning of May 1.

In old days, they also had a Maypole dance in which the young people of each community took part. This old way of celebrating May 1 was brought to this country by the English settlers, but I am afraid that it is dying out in many parts of our country.

Why don't you make someone happy by starting this old custom again? Make baskets for Mother and for one or two of your friends; they will enjoy these little baskets.

You can make these without spending any money, if you have a few flowers in your yard. Ask Mother if you may have a few.

The basket is made by cutting some stationery or construction paper into an 8-inch square. Fold each side up so that it is 2 inches high. (See the drawing.)

Put a bit of narrow ribbon through the four corners so that they are held in place. Paste on a 12-inch handle, then fill with a few blossoms.

No Ironing Needed

Washability is stressed in new seersucker fabrics that blend cotton with orlon — a combination that is said to eliminate even the slightest need for ironing.

Teens to Put Best Foot Forward

Size to Determine Charge for YMCA Dance Tonight

Teenagers will literally "put the right foot forward" to benefit boys and girls in other countries at the YMCA World Service Dance this evening.

The Swing 'n' Swim Club, sponsor of the dance, will have two giant cardboard footprints on platforms, one for boys and one for girls. Each person has his foot measured on the platform and pays a penny-an-inch rate.

This donation goes to benefit YMCAs in countries throughout the world. The small fee usually assessed for dances will also be charged. Decorations will feature an array of flags from every country where there is a YMCA, and a large world globe with these countries pointed out.

The dance will be from 9 until midnight, and all proceeds will go to the World Alliance of YMCAs.

Membership in the Swing 'n' Swim Club is open to young people from 15 to 20. There are now around 900 members, and the Friday evening dances usually draw around 350 members. Pontiac YMCA is a member agency of Pontiac Area United Fund.

How many inches to a foot? Barbara Hill (left) of Draper avenue and Bill Tuttle (right) of Lake Angelus Shores measure Roy Webb's foot. Roy, who lives on Cooper street, will have to pay a penny an inch extra fee for the World Service Dance at the YMCA this evening. The fee is to benefit YMCAs in other countries.

Dickenson Case Goes to Jury

Accused POW Declines to Take Witness Stand in Own Behalf

WASHINGTON (AP)—After closing arguments today, Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson's case goes to a court-martial jury of eight high-ranking Army officers charged with determining whether he collaborated with the Communist enemy in Korea.

Dickenson, 23, from Cracker's Neck, Va., faces a maximum penalty of life imprisonment if found guilty.

He is the first man to be tried under a new military code provision which makes it a crime to supply the enemy with information that leads to mistreatment of fellow prisoners of war.

* * *

He was held in a Chinese Communist POW camp in North Korea for 2½ years. One of 23 who at first refused repatriation, he and one other later returned to U.S. control.

Dickenson did not take the stand in his own defense. Informed yesterday that he had a choice, the short round-faced soldier rose and said: "I choose to remain silent."

During the nine days of testimony, 26 ex-POW's gave varying accounts of pro-Communist activities they attributed to Dickenson while he was held captive.

* * *

Only one of the 26, Cpl. Thomas A. Carrick of Blacksburg, Va., reported personally overhearing Dickenson in the act of informing. A week later, Carrick returned to the stand to say he was so confused he couldn't be sure whether his account had been accurate.

Proxy Fight for Central Sissy Way, Says Billy

By BILLY ROSE

Like all grown men who like to play with trains, I have been following the battle between William White and Robert R. Young for control of the New York Central Railroad.

BILLY ROSE

Money, as I always say, is for spending, and if Young wants another railroad to play with, there's no reason why he shouldn't have it. After all, you only live once.

Actually, though, I'm not losing much sleep about the White-Young squabble for neither one shapes up to me as champion railroad material.

Their fracas is like a pillow fight in a girl's dormitory. Let me tell you about a fight for control back in the days when men were men and railroads were expendable . . .

Ever hear of the old Albany & Susquehanna which ran from Albany to Binghamton, N. Y.? Well, in 1869 a couple of sports named Jim Fisk and Jay Gould got bored one afternoon and decided to take the line away from the man who controlled it — old J. Pierpont Morgan himself.

Like Young and White, these buckos started their campaign real legal-like by trying to round up enough stock and proxies to vote themselves in.

However, all they succeeded in getting was one-half of the line — a 50-mile stretch on the Binghamton end. Morgan managed to hold on to the Albany end, and the result was an impasse.

At this point, Jim and Jay stopped being so legal-like. They hired 30 gentlemen with muscles and switch knives and marched to Albany prepared to take over the terminal, lock, stock and roundhouse.

Old man Morgan, however, a pretty good infighter himself, got wind of the plan and hired 40 gentlemen with muscles and switch knives. When Fisk barged into the main office, Morgan's men beat the bejabbers out of him and threw him downstairs.

As the financier reported to his board the following Monday. "Nothing changed hands but a few heads."

Then Fisk decided to take legal action, and legal action, in his lexicon, meant just one thing — buying a judge. After shopping around, he selected a fair and forthright jurist named Bernard and moved him into the New York apartment of Josie Mansfield, the actress.

Josie saw to it that His Honor was wined, dined and had his shoes shined, and all she asked in return was that he sober up sufficiently once a day to sign the various writs and injunctions which Fisk placed before him.

J. Pierpont countered this move by disregarding the legal papers with a fine air of "See-you."

Did the combatants then retire to their oak-paneled suites and call each other nasty names in full-page ads? No indeed, sir! They had good red blood running in their veins and they acted as any good men would under the circumstances.

Morgan loaded 400 bullyboys on a string of flatcars behind a locomotive and sent them off to Binghamton with instructions to capture every enemy way station and, finally, the Binghamton terminal itself.

Matching thug for thug and flatcar for flatcar, Fisk and Gould sent an equally powerful locomotive roaring toward Albany.

The A. & S., it so happened, was a single-track line, and when the two locomotives rounded opposite ends of the same bend, what ensued was a glorious page in the annals of American railroading.

With full heads of steam, whistles screaming and bells dinging, the iron monsters came straight at each other without benefit of brakes. And when cowcatcher met cowcatcher, the soul-satisfying crash was heard as far as the Canadian border.

Score: The Morgan engine was thrown clear of the rails and fell over on its side. The Fisk locomotive, its front caved in and leaking steam from every pore, remained proudly on the tracks.

Now, if there were such a thing as poetic justice in railroading, that would have settled Morgan's hash. But it didn't. By some miracle J. P.'s bullyboys were only shaken up, and they immediately went to work on the Fisk forces with clubs, knives and teeth.

Outgamed, the bums from Binghamton beat a strategic retreat, testily ripping up rails and tearing down bridges as they went.

Thus ended the battle for the Albany & Susquehanna. Fisk and Gould surrendered with dignity and dispatch, and sold their stock to Morgan at a modest profit of 100 per cent.

Were they downhearted? No siree. They had accomplished their aim, which was to fill in a boring day . . .

Therefore, considering the great traditions of American railroading, I would suggest that, if the Messrs. White and Young are serious and not just playing railroad, they call off their proxy party on May 26, and settle their differences in the time-honored way: Locomotives at 200 paces.

The man still walking after the crash would obviously be the one to run the New York Central.

Threats of Assassination All Part of a Queen's Job

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The threat of assassination is one every monarch must face.

Queen Elizabeth II is visiting today in Uganda, her protectorate on the east coast of Africa, where a leader of the fanatical Mau Mau terrotist organization has threatened to kill her.

Eleven days from now, the Queen will be visiting her crown colony of Gibraltar, last stop on her way home from her six-months world tour.

Written threats have been distributed in London that the Queen will be assassinated if she dares set foot on Gibraltar.

The probability that the Gibraltar threats were those of a crank is accepted. The Spanish government has deplored them. However, no secret has been made of the fact that Spaniards will resent the Queen's visit. There is talk of hostile demonstrations against her.

Spaniards hold that Gibraltar rightly belongs to them.

In Uganda, Queen Elizabeth is smiling and waiving at the crowds of cheering natives. She seems unaware of the troops and barbed wire barricades provided for her protection.

Plans for the visit to Gibraltar have not been altered.

The danger to manarchs comes not only from political fanatics but from lunatics.

In 1936, during his brief reign as King Edward VIII, the present Duke of Windsor was riding in a procession to Buckingham Palace when a crazed, frustrated writer tried to kill him. Wedged in the crowd watching the procession, the demented man pointed a pistol at the king.

A woman and a special policeman managed to hit his arm and deflect his aim before he could fire. He threw the pistol at the King before the policeman could subdue him.

Similarly, in 1842 Queen Victoria was riding in her carriage near the palace with her husband, Prince Albert, when a man in the crowd fired at her. He was so close that powder from the pistol shot singed the uniform of a colonel riding beside the Queen. Victoria seemed not to realize at once that she faced possible death. Albert did. Obviously to his own danger, he rose from his seat and pointed at the attacker, who was arrested.

All the rest of her life, the woman who not many years ago used to call herself Lilibet will be liable to the danger that someone, in a cheering crowd, may seek her life. To ignore the danger is part of her job.

Rockin' Chair Blues

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)— "Old Rockin' Chair's Got Me," wailed a Charleston taxicab driver. He was charged with transporting more than the legal limit of one gallon after police found 14 pints of Rocking Chair whisky in his cab.

Senators Scan Data on Housing

Getting Ready to Make Changes in President's Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Banking Committee members paused in their probe of government housing scandals today to scan a mountain of testimony and figure what changes they want in President Eisenhower's housing program.

A final hearing yesterday wound up the group's two-week "preliminary" probe of government-insured home repair loans and multimillion dollar "windfall" profits in the defunct postwar rental project program.

• • •

Next step was examination of voluminous testimony taken from present and former officials of the Federal Housing Administration to locate loopholes in the Housing Act.

Chairman Capehart (R-Ind) announced the committee would start on May 18 to frame Eisenhower's housing recommendations into legislation. He predicted a housing bill would be ready for Senate debate by early June. The measure hahs already passed the House.

Eisenhower has recommended that the $2,500 limit on home repair loans insured by the FHA be lifted to $3,000 and that the repayment period be extended from three to five years.

• • •

But this and several other Eisenhower recommendations appeared headed for either drastic revision or a pigeonhole in the Banking Committee.

Sen. Bricker (R—Ohio), a committee member, said in an interview he was "definitely opposed" to any continuation of the depression-spawned home repair program, now running at an annual rate of about one billion dollars. Sen. Bush (R—Conn), also on the committee, has indicated he feels the same way.

Capehart said he might agree to continue the present loan level but only if lenders are made partly responsible for loan defaults. He said also the law should be changed to drastically restrict the loans to "legitimate" home repair work, and not swimming pools and tennis courts as witnesses testified some loans were used.

Nationalist China Critic Removed From Position

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—K. C. Wu, former governor of Formosa who charged recently that Nationalist China is a police state, was relieved of his last official job today.

He was ousted from the Council for U. S. Aid, a post he held as governor.

He resigned as governor of Formosa a year ago and has lived since at Evanston, Ill.

Rep. Cole Urges American Pact

U. S.-Canada Defense Treaty Needed in Age of H-Bomb, He Claims

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) urges an American-Canadian defense pact to ward off any enemy attack against the North American continent.

Cole, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, proposed last night at a Colgate University banquet "that our government, as speedily as possible enter into a mutual continental defense pact with Canada."

Such a pact, he said, should be "under the authority of the United Nations, comparable in purpose, scope and organization with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

• • •

There would be a supreme commander with Canadian and American land, sea and air forces under him.

"I submit that all other considerations notwithstanding," Cole said, "it would be suicidal for Canada and the United States not to recognize the new dimensions to sovereignty brought by the threat of atomic and hydrogen warfare."

He said it was questionable whether the Soviet Union "could now mount an attack of such intensity and scope that our ability to retaliate would be eliminated."

• • •

"But three or four years from now," he said, "the Soviets will be able to launch a saturation attack against our nation—an attack so massive that our ability ultimately to prevail may be open to grave question."

He said a 100 per cent defense against assault is impossible but a strong defense would "inflict such losses on raiding formations that an enemy will in all probability be dissuaded . . . and be kept from dealing us a mortal blow."

The United States has 45 million passenger cars and 9,147,000 trucks in use today compared to 15¼ million and 2,125,000 respectively in 1924.

Dem Fascinated by GOP's Row

Mitchell Says Someone Lied in Schine Case, and Not a Democrat

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Stephen A. Mitchell, national Democratic party chairman, says he finds the Army-McCarthy hearings "fascinating, watching all this on TV, wondering what is the secret of Schine's success and wondering which Republican, or Republicans, will turn out to be the liar, or liars."

"We know," he said, "somebody lied and it was not a Democrat."

Contending Republicans are "playing politics" with the nation's foreign affairs, he said:

"To our friends abroad, America does not appear as a calm, serene land sure of our strength and confident in our leadership. Instead it appears as a quarrelsome, suspicious, divided nation with Republican energies being spent in charging Democrats with treason and, when they run out of Democrats, saying the same things about one another."

Lions Selling Light Bulbs to Boost Eye Campaign

By selling the bulbs in packages of 11 each, purchasers will be able to save a few pennies on each buy and at the same time help the cause.

Bridge Still in Service

OROVILLE, Calif. (AP) — The historic bridge across the Feather River at Bidwell's Bar, east of here, is in its second century and still giving public service. It began its history in a clipper ship, coming around Cape Horn in 1853. The pilings were started in 1854 and some sections laid and in 1856 it was opened to traffic.

Gardening Club Plans Workshop

2-Day Session Begins Wednesday in Pavilion at Rochester

Rochester's Garden Club will host area gardeners Wednesday and Thursday when a farm and garden workshop is held in the Avon Pavilion in Rochester.

The workshop is sponsored by the Women's National Farm and Garden Assn., in cooperation with the Michigan State College Extension Service.

H. L. R. Chapman, MSC garden specialist, will open Wednesday's program with a talk from 10 to 11 a.m. He will discuss the selection of a site for a garden, soil and methods of improving garden soil.

Edmond W. Alchin, Oakland County agricultural agent," will demonstrate methods used in testing soils from 11 a.m. to noon.

In afternoon sessions, beginning at 1:30 p.m., planting and care of annuals, biennials and perennials will be discussed, as will the selection of shrubs and trees for the home garden.

Thursday morning, Dr. Ray Janes, of Michigan State College, will speak on "Insect and Fungi Control."

Following his 10-11:30 a.m. talk, he and Chapman will conduct a half-hour general question period.

From 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. seed sowing demonstrations will be given. House plants will be the topic of the 2:30-3:30 p.m. session.

Mrs. W. L. Shaffner, committee chairman, has suggested that those attending bring lunch, a notebook and a pencil. Coffee will be available.

The meetings are open to the public.

Government Plans More Grain Space

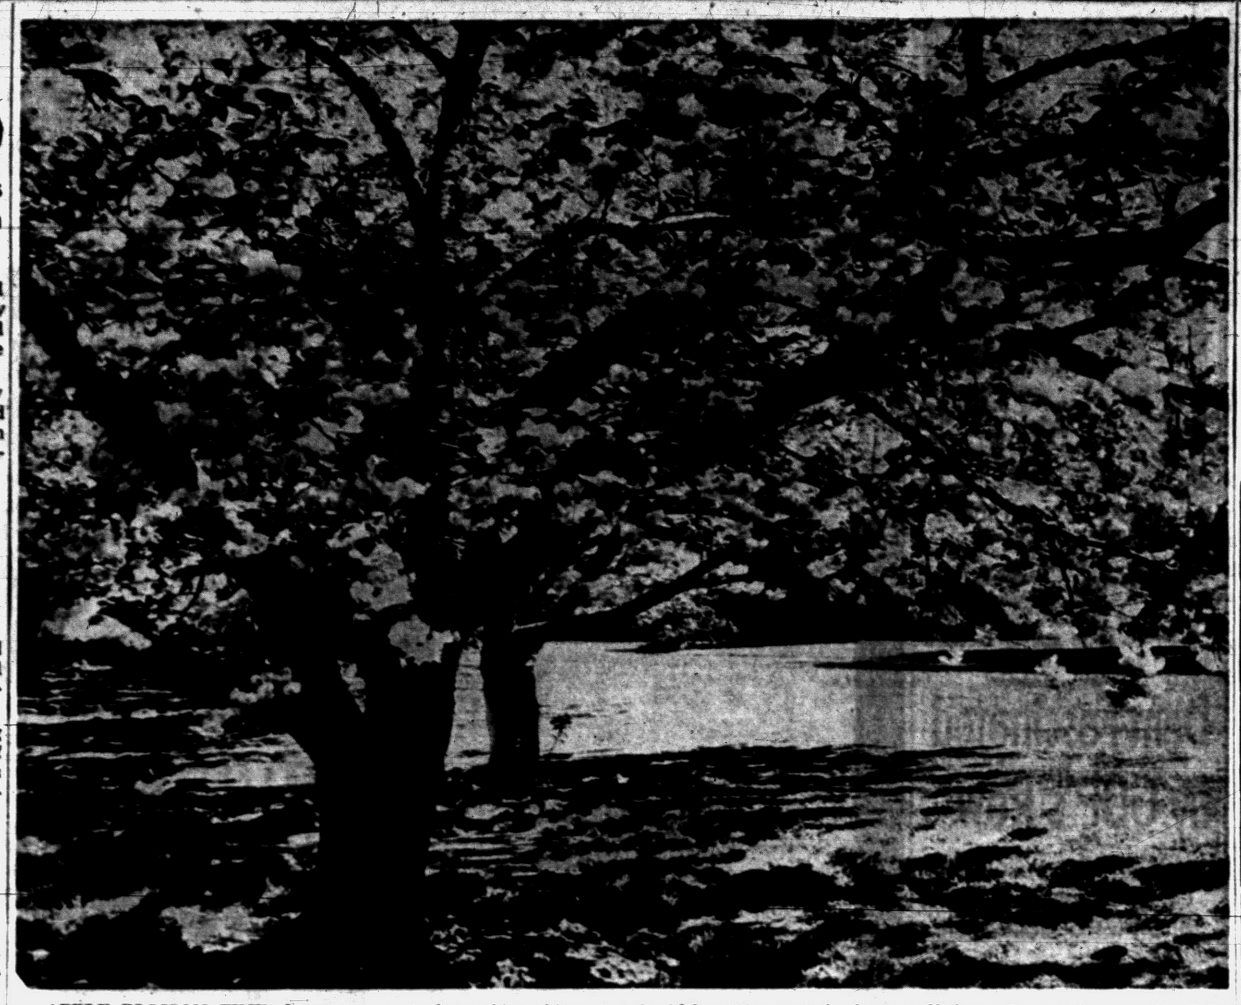
Indications that the grain shortage problem may be 400 million bushels tougher than last year has given a push to administration plans to find more storage.

At a national conference at Omaha, Neb., a Commodity Stabilization Service official said, "We feel in the USDA that our approach should be very positive—not negative. Our job is to take care of grain producers as the law provides."

It was announced that the CCC will supply 100 million bushels more grain space.

Another 200 million bushels in commercial storage is expected under the guaranteed occupancy program. Government incentives are counted on to get 100 million bushels of storage space built on farms.

Good housekeeping practices in poultry houses will automatically reduce the rat population on your farm.



APPLE BLOSSOM TIME—It may seem to be rushing things to publish this picture now. But after the gray days of April we thought outlooks may be brightened by remembering that scenes like this should be with us within the next 30 days. So console yourself. Take a long look, and next time you pull on your rubbers and raincoat, remember: Apple blossom time really isn't too far off.

Save That Easter Lily!

By WILMA GREENWAY

What's the prospect for Pontiac gardens this year, as seen from the florists' end of the telescope?

Well, an informal canvass of nursery and commercial growers showed all were enthusiastic about the quality of this year's plants and the public response, as reflected in spring sales.

Prices will remain substantially the same as last year, with some firms listing slight decreases in individual varieties. Grass seed will be more expensive, due to drought and subsequent crop failures. Kentucky blue grass is on the scarce list.

There's a new device on the market that should make weed-killing easier. There's also a new potting arrangement that's helping to cut costs.

Along with information on prices and products, florists dropped a few hints that might be worth passing on to the home gardener.

Just about now the beautiful Easter lily the children bought mother probably has dropped its last woebegone bloom.

Don't take its death too seriously. If you bury it with the proper ceremony, it will bloom again in all its pristine beauty this fall.

Here's what Charles Coppersmith of Pearce Floral Co. recommends:

Cut the plant off at three or four inches above the pot, removing the flowering stems. Plant it in the garden plot, and water it well. New shoots will soon appear.

After it blooms this fall, cover it six to eight inches deep with leaves or straw, and you'll have lilies again next Easter.

If the Easter plant was a hyacinth, tulip or daffodil you can save it, too. Don't bury it, though.

Water it for one month after the blooms have fallen off, then let it dry in the pot. Wait until fall to transplant it in your garden. Look for blossoms next spring.

From Harold James comes a few ideas to help your lawn. He recommends the fescue seeds for shady spots, red top or blue grass and clover mixture for sunny areas.

For new lawns, he advises a mixture of 30 per cent Kentucky blue grass, 20 per cent fescue, 20 per cent red top and 30 per cent annual rye. The rye gives shade for the new grasses, is not recommended for re-seeding. James says shaded lawn areas can be improved by spreading agricultural lime every other year. The lime will kill moss.

Jacobsen's tells of a new carton-type package which eliminates one handling operation for annuals such as petunias and marigolds and vegetable plants. Because of it, customers get 14 plants where formerly they got 12, with no increase in price.

A new "walking stick" tube with a plunger top is on the market to hold weed-killing solution. The bottom of the tube is placed over any broadleaf weed (dandelion, buckthorn, burdick, etc.), the plunger is depressed and, presto, the weed has received its lethal treatment.

William Conway of Pontiac Nursery Co., near Romeo, says a new cash-and-carry retail sales lot has enabled him to cut prices this year on his shrubs and evergreen trees.

Russell D. McNeil, whose nursery is at Clarkston, reports some shortage of golden syringa and rebud. McNeil has a trick with lily bulbs that he claims brings good results.

He plants the bulbs in a tipped position, rather than upright. This permits water to drain, rather than being trapped in the separations of the bulb, and promoting rot.

Finally, there was a general agreement that the gay geranium will continue to get scarcer and costlier, due to a virus which has attacked the plant over the last 15 years.

If you have a healthy plant, it might be a good idea to grow your own cuttings. Here's how:

Take about a four-inch cutting from a top branch of your geranium. For best results use rooting powder and root the plant in clean, sharp sand or vermiculite. Plant in soil when roots appear.

Good results are reported too, simply by placing the cutting in water at room temperature and keeping it in a window.

Vine Crops Due for Planting Now

Start Melon, Cuke and Squash Seeds in Berry Boxes, Says Ag Agent

With peas, onions, head lettuce, cabbage and radishes in or going in soon, the next step for Oakland County Gardeners comes with planting the vine families, says Edmond W. Alchin, county agricultural agent.

"If you plan on watermelon, muskmelon, cucumbers or small squash now is a good time to plant your seeds in quart berry boxes for transplanting later on to get an early crop," Alchin advises.

"Plant three to four seeds of each in berry boxes in good loam soil from your garden. Place them where there is plenty of sunlight so that they will not grow tall or spindly.

"Later on when danger of frost is past, the complete box can be transplanted to the garden, then cut away for further root development in the garden itself.

"In addition to planting inside it is now time to purchase seeds for some of the other crops from your garden," Alchin adds.

Following is a chart that you can use for the number of plants and the feet of row per person for your garden, drawn up by Alchin:

	Amt. Seed	Ft. Row
Snap Beans (early)	½ lb.	15 ft.
Snap Beans (mid-season)	½ lb.	15 ft.
Beets (early)	½ oz.	10 ft.
Beets (late)	½ oz.	10 ft.
Cabbage, 6 plants		12 ft.
Carrots	½ pkt.	10 ft.
Sweet Corn (early)	½ lb.	25 ft.
Sweet Corn (late)	½ lb.	50 ft.
Parsnips	½ pkt.	15 ft.
Peas	1 lb.	100 ft.
Peppers 6 plants		10 ft.
Tomatoes, 10 plants		40 ft.
Radishes, 4 plants	1 pkt.	12 ft.

New Name for Plants

A new word was coined at meetings of the American Horticultural Congress. You'll be seeing it soon in all garden literature. It's "cultivar" and describes those plants that were originated or are maintained only in cultivation, rather than in the wild. In other words, it's short for "cultivated variety."

Cows Work Overtime

America's cows worked overtime last year, supplying about two quarts of milk for every man, woman and child in the United States — 119 billion pounds. They hadn't done that well since 1945, when they set the all time production record of 119.8 billion pounds.

Now the Time to Get Pictures of Flowers

Here are some gardening tips and reminders for the coming week:

Don't let the bulbs and other spring blooms fade before getting some pictures of the garden—color is almost as easy as black and white. They are not only fun to look at in the winter, but help in planning the garden next year.

* * *

Last call for broadcasting larkspur and annual poppy seeds.

* * *

Most hardy vegetable seeds can go into the ground—provided the ground is dry enough to take them.

* * *

Take a walk in the woods and look for wild flowers. But restrain an impulse to pick them or try to transplant them into your own garden. Unless you've a spot where their natural growing conditions can be simulated, the odds are against their surviving.

* * *

Thin rows of early lettuce and radishes. They need room to expand.

* * *

Starting the long mowing season with the lawn equipment in prime condition — blades sharp and adjusted to a proper height of not less than an inch and a half from the ground.

* * *

Look over the garden now and make plans on what you will fill with in the spots now handsome with the blooms of the early bulbs, including tulips. Annuals, of course, are the plants to do the job.

Local Dairying Grows Into Big Industry

By JOE HAAS

While it has been a feature of Oakland County farming ever since the white men first came here, dairying in recent years has become an important part of local agriculture.

In the early years every farmer had only a cow or two, mostly depending on the size of his family. All he desired them to do was produce the milk and butter for his home consumption.

Milk was not considered to be such an essential food as at present. In most homes it was placed in shallow pans in the basement, and when the cream rose to the top it was skimmed off to be churned into butter. The children got the skimmed milk, and the buttermilk went to the hogs.

Churning the cream was a tedious process. Most farmers had crock churns in which wooden ladles were pumped up and down by hand for any period up to an hour or more, until the cream turned to the coveted yellow butter, usually not more than two or three pounds at a churning.

The salt was distributed into the butter by another muscular process of hand ladling. The good housewife also "haired" her butter. This was done by passing a table fork through it in all directions, to catch any cow hairs or other foreign matter that might have lodged in it. Good smelling butter was eagerly sought.

There was no refrigeration, and the matter of selling the milk itself never was considered by most farmers. Milkmen in Pontiac and other cities and villages got their supply from nearby farmers, and ladled it from a can into containers put out by their customers.

Farmers paid but little attention to good breeding among their cattle. In fact, most cows were pasture bred, and the promiscous intermingling of the breeds didn't help any in increasing the milk production per cow. Few herds numbered over a half dozen.

The coming of artifical refrigeration revolutionized the milk business. Together with other modern methods, it became possible to treat milk so it could be hauled long distances and still be kept fresh. The advent of the trucking age also was a prominent contributing feature.

Home churning thus was discontinued. Most farmers commenced to sell their entire milk production, with the exception of that needed for home consumption. They became butter buyers instead of butter sellers.

The development of the silage method of feeding came into use at about the same time. The new tall round silos appeared on most every farm, and the converting of corn into milk commenced in Oakland County on a large scale.

The big increase in population in this area and in the Detroit metropolitan district supplied a ready market.

Milking machines were introduced, and fought off the labor shortage to some extent. The old mixed succotash breeds were beefed off, and the raising of top milk producers started. Herds grew from a few cows up to 100 or more, some crowding the thousand mark.

Health authorities kept telling the nation to drink more milk. The refrigerated trucks appeared on the main highways in large numbers, and vied with the beer haulers. The consumption of ice cream jumped way up, and cheese and other milk products boomed.

In all of this transition, Oakland County farmers have kept pace. They have the meadows and other good pasture land, and on this very day are thankful for their cattle grazing in the fields, while their regular crop land is too wet in many areas for planting spring crops.

A wet spring makes the grasses grow faster than the cattle can graze them down.

In this area are the two largest milk shipping points in Michigan. One is at Imlay City, and the other is right here in Oakland County, at Ortonville. From these every day goes the milk to supply several hundred thousand people.

Trees Classed as Weeds Poor Choices for Shade

By WILLIAM AHO
Parks and Recreation Dept.

Selection of species, planting and care are the three points to be given most consideration to insure success in shade tree planting.

Choosing the species is the first point to consider.

Pontiac residents especially should remember that soft maples, box elders, Chinese elms, catalpa and all poplars and willows are considered weed species.

They tend to break in storms, clog sewers and raise and crack sidewalks. The little extra money spent for a good shade tree is cheaper in the long run.

The protection of your shade tree while in transit from the nursery is very important.

Never expose the roots to the wind, cold temperatures and sun. This will cause the small fine root hairs to become dried out resulting in the death of the tree.

Always protect the root system while in transit by covering them with hay or straw and then covering them with hay or straw and then covering with a tarpaulin.

When you have selected the proper site for planting, dig the hole approximately one foot larger than the diameter of the roots.

Before planting the tree inspect the root system and cut any broken ones. Only the damaged roots should be removed.

To compensate for root loss prune the crown back by thinning out the branches and cut remaining ones back to the laterals or buds. Balled trees need not be trimmed as heavily as bare root trees.

Apply a good quality tree paint to the cut surfaces to prevent fungus entrance.

It also is necessary to wrap the trunk of the tree with tree wrap to prevent sun scald, attack by wood borers, and prevent evaporation of moisure from the stem.

Place the tree in the newly dug hole at the same depth as when it was growing in the nursery. Add top soil to the roots, tamp in well and also water it. Use approximately five gallons of water for a three inch tree.

Add the remainder of the soil to the roots and tamp in again to prevent any air pockets in the soil. Leave a concave surface of soil around the base of the tree to hold the water.

SHE MOWS AND TRIMS ALL AT ONCE

Hand trimming will never bother this young lady again. She's using a new light-weight, die-cast aluminum LAWN-BOY Rotary Power Mower that trims to within 3/8-inch of obstructions. The inset left front wheel and trim slot (see arrow) just behind it accomplish the the close trimming.

Labor Strikes Hit New Postwar Low

WASHINGTON (AP)—The number of labor strikes reached a postwar low during the first quarter of this year, the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) said today.

It said the 800 strikes and 3,050,000 man days lost because of the stoppages from January through March was lower than any corresponding postwar quarter. There were 300,000 workers involved.

This compares with 1,276 strikes in January-March 1953 involving 550,000 workers and 3,720,000 man days of idleness.

Strike activity during the first quarter of this year was listed as 20 per cent lower than during the first quarter average for the 1947-49 period, with 60 per cent fewer workers involved and 50 per cent less idleness.

Labor Leaders Hold Meeting

Beck Calls McDonald and Lewis to Chicago; Merger Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidents of three of the nation's top labor unions meet today to discuss ways their organizations "can be of assistance to each other."

Announcement of the meeting by Dave Beck of the AFL Teamsters Union in Chicago last night brought speculation a big labor merger was in the works.

Beck said he would meet with John L. Lewis of the independent United Mine Workers and David J. McDonald of the CIO United Steelworkers.

Beck, before leaving for Washington, declined to discuss the topic of the meeting. Neither Lewis or McDonald were available for comment.

• • •

Beck told a reporter he did not have authority from the AFL council to invite Lewis and McDonald to join the American Federation of Labor. However, in an address last night at a conference of his union, he said:

"I not only want the CIO to join the AFL in a common labor organization, I also want the United Mine Workers and other independent organizations . . . . and I would utilize every resource at my command to aid and assist in bringing that about."

In announcing today's meeting, Beck told the conference they planned to "exchange views on how our three organizations can be of assistance to each other."

George Meany, AFL president, told a reporter in Washington he knew "nothing whatever" about the rumor that Beck intended to invite Lewis and McDonald into the AFL.

There have been recurring rumors that Beck, Lewis and McDonald were thinking of forming a third labor federation in opposition to the AFL and CIO, but Beck last night praised the AFL organization.

He told his union he opposed an over-all united labor organization, with the CIO joining the AFL, "until our own AFL and the organizations within it have reached procedures of operation that will make that unity possible."

Gaslight Era Flickering Out in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kansas City, Mo., reputedly the last major city to use horse drawn fire equipment, ended its gas light era today.

Last of the gas street lights which have flickered along the city streets for nearly 100 years are being replaced by modern electric lights.

Some gas street lights will continue in use in parts of Kansas City, Kan., the twin metropolis just across the border to the west.

Kansas City had one horse drawn engine company in service on its fire department until the early 1930s. The horses were retained because they could negotiate the narrow, crooked streets in the stock yards vicinity easier than the huge modern motor driven equipment. Specially adapted equipment finally replaced them.

Heidt, Cooper Wed in Separate Rites

WASHINGTON (AP)—Special notes from the Capital:

Jackie Cooper, the former kid movie star, wed Miss Barbara Kraus, a New York advertising agency employe, in a ceremony performed by Municipal Court Judge Thomas C. Scalley yesterday. Cooper, 31, had been married twice before. It was the first wedding for Miss Kraus, 26.

Across the river in Arlington, Va., band leader Horace Heidt, 52, married Mrs. Lorraine E. Burton, 39, a salad dressing manufacturer from Los Angeles. It was the second marriage for each.

The ceremony was performed in the Clarendon Presbyterian church. The pastor, the Rev. Isaac Steenson, also united in marriage Dick James Kerr, 24, an entertainer with Heidt's show, and Burdeen E. Fitzgerald, 21, of Encino, Calif.

Woman Bandit Flees Without Taking Loot

DENVER (AP) — Frightened and waving a gun nervously, a woman robber asked her intended victim, Mrs. Evelyn Gracey, 30, to hand over the cash register contents in a small grocery last night.

"If I give you the money, I'd have to close the store," Mrs. Gracey told her. "I don't own the place."

"But I need at least $5," the holdup woman persisted.

Mrs. Gracey offered a $5 bill.

"That won't be enough," the gun woman sobbed. She turned and fled from the store with tears streaming down her face.

Hayden Comes to the Defense of 'Eccentrics'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sterling Hayden today came to the defense of a much-maligned breed in Hollywood—temperamental actors.

Mind you, Hayden is not one to toss his ego around. He's as even-tempered as a British diplomat. Proof of his cooperativeness is the fact that he has made 11 pictures in the past 2½ years. His latest is "Suddenly" with Frank Sinatra.

Having worked at every studio in town, he has seen his share of temperament. Some of it he likes, some he doesn't.

* * *

When we met for lunch, he said he had meant to look up "temperamental" in the dictionary. I have done so, and the definition is: "the peculiar mental and physical character of an individual." That would support Hayden's theory.

"The word 'temperamental' has acquired a bad connotation in Hollywood," he remarked. "I don't think it is necessarily bad. I always remember a foreword Clifton Fadiman wrote for 'Moby Dick.' He said that Herman Melville had been considered something of an eccentric in his lifetime. He added that perhaps we should not apply normal standards of behavior to someone with the genius to write a 'Moby Dick.'

* * *

"And I think that applies to all creative people. Take Marlon Brando. I don't care if he has a raccoon for a pet or is going through analysis. To me he's a great actor. He can take a part and act the heck out of it. For my dough, he can be as eccentric as he wants.

"Bette Davis is another. She says exactly what she feels. If she gets mad enough, she'll blow her cork. But she's a wonderful gal, and she has great integrity as an actress.

"The first time I heard Mario Lanza sing, I said, 'This guy has got it.' I didn't care how he acted in his private life; that great voice made up for it.

"Then there's Sinatra. He's supposed to be temperamental, but I'm on his side. He has a mind like a steel trap. He has some terrific speeches in this picture—wild stuff that would throw me. He doesn't always get all the words right, but gets the meaning across. And there's a certain sincerity about the guy that comes through."

April Economy Hinders Slump

Businessmen Hoping for Partial Recovery During May

CHICAGO (AP) — April threw a roadblock in the path of the recession. Businessmen are hoping today that in May the economy will try to regain a little of the lost ground.

They are looking at April reports and May signposts for the nation as a whole, rather than for just this or any other one region.

For many industries—like steel—April saw a slowing of the rate of decline which started about a year ago. For others—like autos—April brought a revival of business, as expected in the spring. A few—like textiles—found the going rougher and production and employment declining.

* * *

Let's look at some of the hopes for May.

Merchants are counting on a fairly steady stream of consumer dollars in the nation as a whole. Despite the toll from loss of overtime by most workers, shorter work weeks for many and even unemployment for a sizable number, store sales on a national basis have held close to a year ago. Income tax cuts increased take-home pay for many persons, and excise tax cuts lowered prices on some goods.

Consumers as a whole have been paying off their old debts faster than they've been taking on new ones. Interest rates in general are easing and May should see more idle money waiting for borrowers. Retailers and finance companies hope that in May the customers will step up their on-time buying.

* * *

The total of savings has risen despite the business dip. Merchants and manufacturers hope that means there's plenty of money to be spent—when consumers get around to tapping it.

Building plans indicate May should be a good month. Home starts are running around the year-ago mark, with only public housing dropping much. Businessmen list their plant and equipment expansion plans as around last year's level. Yet contracts for heavy construction are lower than a year ago, indicating that labor-saving tools and machinery rather than new factories are getting the big play now.

And some of the giant companies with big plans for building are leaning toward plants for producing their own supplies, thus cutting off markets for their former suppliers. It could be as much a shift in the economy as a growth.

* * *

Steelmen express hope that output out of the mills has touched bottom and that May will see a modest pickup in orders.

Some of the textile mills that closed down for a while in April hope thereby to have corrected their troubles. If so, May will see a better ratio of sales to output.

BARRY SULLIVAN—DOROTHY MALONE in "LOOPHOLE"

Derbytown in Gala Dress for Race of Roses

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A human flood threatened to engulf this Ohio River town as time approached for tomorrow's running of the 80th Kentucky Derby with a near record field in prospect for the $100,000-added race for three-year-olds.

• • •

The city was bulging at the seams as the trainers of an expected field of at least 20 marched into the secretary's office at Churchill Downs early this morning to drop the names of their hopefuls into the entry box for perhaps the richest of all derbies.

• • •

Few sporting events can match the derby in color and this year is no exception. The Downs itself is a thing of beauty with its multiple colored flowers and plants and closely cropped grass.

Streets and stores are gaily decorated in horse motifs. Conversations, many of them over the traditional derby mint julep, start out on almost any subject but quickly shift to the derby. The H-bomb runs second to king thoroughbred for the day. McCarthy and his differences with Secretary of the Army Stevens may not have been forgotten but they sure have taken a back seat.

• • •

Post time for the derby is 4:30 p.m. (EST) and by that time the three-eighths mile long stands and the infield are expected to be packed with more than 100,000 spectators. The mile and a quarter classic will be televised from 4 to 4:45 p.m. and broadcast from 4:15 to 4:45 by Columbia Broadcasting System.

• • •

Showers were forecast for today but tomorrow the weather man promised good racing weather.

The record field of 22 horses ran in 1928 when Reigh Count was first home. There have been as many as 20 starters three times in the last 23 years. The last was 1951, the year Count Turf surprised. It costs $250 to enter a horse and an additional $750 to start him.

If 21 are entered and as many as 18 start it'll be the richest derby in history with a gross value of $127,600. On that basis the winner will receive a net of $105,500, exceeding the record of $98,050 won by Count Turf.

Robert S. Lytle's long striding Correlation, winner of the Florida Derby and Wood Memorial, remained the firm 5 to 2 choice as the entries began coming in. There was no indication he would be ousted from the favorite's role before post time although his odds might well be shortened.

• • •

Goyamo, jointly owned by Royce G. Martin's Woodvale Farm and Mrs. W. Alston Jones, was still the second choice at 7 to 2.

AP Wirephoto

PROBABLE STARTERS—Among the shorter-priced betting entries in Saturday's rich Kentucky Derby are these 5 thoroughbreds. From the left are Hasty Road, winner of this week's Derby Trial and probable 2nd choice on the odds board; Goyamo; Fisherman, Determine and Correlation, likely favorite in the classic.

Learn by Losing!

So Says Big Lion Star; Troy Picks Top Athlete

By JACK SAYLOR

"Sometimes you learn a lot by losing."

This was the message of Vince Banonis of the Detroit Lions to 200 Troy Township High School athletes, parents, officials and guests at the annual all-sports banquet Thursday night.

Banonis, former All-American center at University of Detroit and a veteran pro with both the Chicago Cardinals and Lions, pointed to two defeats that played a key role in the success of the Lions in the past two season.

Top honor at the banquet was accorded Fred Burnard, who was awarded the outstanding athlete by athletic director Boyd Larson. Burnard, 6-4, 215-pounder, starred at halfback in football and center in basketball, was a pitcher in baseball and a fine quartermiler in track.

BURNARD

He will have won 11 letters at Troy at the close of the spring season. He is expected to enroll at University of Detroit next fall.

Banonis cited the 28-0 rout at the hands of the San Francisco 49ers early in the 1953 season as turning point of that season. Lions bounced back to tie for the divisional title and defeated the Cleveland Browns for their 1st NFL crown since 1935.

Last fall, Detroit swept past the College All Stars and their 1st four exhibition rivals. Then the Lions were beaten by the Philadelphia Eagles in their final exhibition. Banonis said the loss eliminated further over-confidence and enabled the club to win the championship for the 2nd straight time.

Troy football and golf awards were presented by Bob Nyquist, basketball and baseball by Peyton Goodwin, track by Don Hill, cheer leaders by Ann Radwanski, and girls' sports by Sallie Buck. Troy police chief Dave Grattop presented the school with a sportsmanship award and Bill Haney was awarded the Skip Teeter basketball trophy.

Vocal solos were sung by Ruth Bamford. Toastmaster was assistant superintendent William H. Schroeder.

Standout of AAU Tourney Looks Toward Pro Career

BOSTON (AP) — Garnett Hart of Philadelphia looked forward today to a professional debut in the near future after proving his superiority over amateurs in the 66th National AAU boxing championships.

Hart was selected as the outstanding fighter in the 3-day event last night at Boston Garden after he scored his 52nd straight victory by stopping Norman Johnson of Milwaukee in the 1st round of the 132 pound class finals.

It was his 4th technical knockout win in as many bouts during the tournament.

"I couldn't feel happier," Hart said after he was presented the trophy. "I've won eight trophies since I started fighting, but this one is tops," he added.

Team trophy went to the New England entry which in turn gave it to the San Francisco squad in a friendship gesture.

The other champions:

112 pound class—Charles Branch, Philadelphia.

119 pound class— William Ramos, New Bedford, Mass.

139 pound class—Robert Shell, New York.

147 pound class—Joseph Bethea, Seattle, Wash.

156 pound class—John Houston, Oakland, Calif.

165 pound class—Donald McCray, Boston.

Heavyweight class — Reuben Vargas, San Francisco.

Pontiac Horse Wins Feature

Record Crowd Watches Leo Metz' Scotty Hal Win at Hazel Park

Before a track record opening crowd of 10,253 Thursday night at Hazel Park, Pontiac's Leo Metz brought in a big winner in the night's feature.

Jack Williams, driving Metz' fast-stepping Scotty Hal in the Ville De Troit $5,000 feature headed the field in both sections of the mile race.

Scotty was an 8-1 shot in the mutuals. He took the first section of the race easily, finishing about three lengths in front of Spencer's Son and Hadacall.

For the second section Hal was listed at 2-1 and had a fine start to win going away.

Metz also has Calvin, a trotter, at the track.

Wagering windows took in $353,000 for the 9-race program. This topped the 1953 opening figures.

Thursday's card marked the start of the metropolitan area's harness racing season.

Al Andrews Given Nod Over Mastream

SAGINAW (AP)—Al Andrews of Superior, Wis., last night gained a unanimous decision over Sammy Mastream of Pittsburgh in the feature bout at City Auditorium.

Andrews, weighing 151 to Mastream's 154, avoided the body punches of the Pittsburgh fighter and scored with hard body blows.

Referee Elmer Brissett, of Bay City scored the fight 97-84 in Andrews' favor; Judge Harold Otto of Saginaw had it 96-77, and judge Harold Anderson of Flint, saw it 99-90 in favor of the Wisconsin slugger.

Skipper Jayvees Win

Waterford's junior varsity baseball team won its 2nd straight game Thursday by defeating Walled Lake, 9-4, on the strength of a 4-run 6th inning. Bob Coonfield struck out 13 in posting the victory, while Tom Bryce led the Skippers' 12-hit attack with three singles.

Phil Cavaretta, manager of the Chicago Cubs, concluded his 19-season playing career in 1953. He played in 1953 games.

Ned Garver Eyes 3rd Victory

WASHINGTON (AP)— The weather and scheduled-stalled Detroit Tigers try to get up some traction again tonight in a game with the Washington Senators.

Out of action for four days running, manager Fred Hutchinson's current American League runners-up and the Senators open a two-game series in Griffith Staduum.

That is, assuming the weather won't interfere as it did in wiping out the Tigers' Philadelphia series.

Yesterday's off-day was of some help to the touring Tigers, however. They backed into exclusive possession of 2nd place when Baltimore beat Washington 2-1. This gave Detroit a half game hold on the runnerup spot.

At the same time the Tigers, without lifting a bat, gained a half game on the league-leading Chicago White Sox. The Sox' lead was cut to a half game when they fell to the New York Yankees 5-4.

Tonight's Detroit-Washington contest sets the stage for a possible extraordinary pitching accomplishment for the Tigers.

Ned Garver is the pitching choice. He'll be going after his 3rd straight. Tomorrow Steve Gromek is to pitch and he'll be after No. 4 in a row.

If both should win, that would make seven straight and would be the 1st time in a long, long while that any two Tiger pitchers did anything like it.

Tonight's game brings Detroit back into action for the 1st time since its last home stay game last Sunday. Two games have been rained out to go along with two open dates.

Manager Hutchinson has come out to say, incidentally, that he is now mildly concerned over young Billy Hoeft.

It appears the youthful lefthander has yet to learn some major league baseball facts of life — that it's work as well as fun to play in the majors.

At the same time Hutch figures Billy will catch on soon.

Indian Club Names Johns 1954 Prexy

Pontiac's oldest sportsmen's organization has just named its officers for its 4th year. At a meeting this week Don Johns was selected to head the Indian Fishing Club for the current period.

Other officers are vice president, William J. Dunseith; secretary, Paul Hammond, and treasurer, Henry Merz.

The business session, at the Waldron Hotel, also included preliminary discussions for the coming fishing season. Dates for the annual "tournament" and dinner will be set at a later conference.

New Spartan Foes

Michigan State football teams will begin rivalries with two new Pacific Coast conference foes, Stanford in 1955 and 1956 and California in 1957 and 1958. Both series will be played on a home-and-home basis.

36 Titles for MSC

Michigan State athletes have won 36 individual national collegiate titles through the years.

Regular Racing Season Opens at M-59 Track

Pontiac Speedway will hold its 1st regular races of the season Sunday afternoon. Qualifying begins at 1:30 p.m. with the 1st race at 3 o'clock.

Dorris Sanders of Troy Township, who won the special feature of last Sunday's "Open House" program, will be back to vie for the points in the Land O'Lakes Racing Association driver's competition.

In addition to the qualifying trials, a trophy dash, 5 heat races, Australian pursuit, semifinal and feature race will be held.

Sunday will be Children's Day at the M-59 track and all children under 12 years will be admitted free when accompanied by adults. A bus-load from the Oakland County Children's Home will be the guests of the Speedway.

MSC Students Prefer Female Cheer Leaders

EAST LANSING (UP) — Michigan State Athletic Council, which last week asked students why they wanted coed cheer leaders got its answer Thursday.

"They (coeds) are good looking," the State News, student newspaper, said. "Most any male from Maine to California would rather watch a pretty girl spin and jump than four or five members of his own sex.

"Where there are females, there will usually be males. And where there are females urging males to cheer, there will be plenty of yells."

The pro basketball Royals' Arnie Risen played his college ball at Ohio State.

Davis Cup European Zone Eliminations Start Today

LONDON (AP)—The yearly Davis Cup merry-go-round gets under way again today with 14 nations playing opening matches in the European Zone tennis eliminations.

• • •

The summer-long series is to determine challengers for the big international trophy which has resided in Australia since 1950.

• • •

Actually the competition is almost a closed corporation involving the United States and Australia and the Aussies are threatening to reduce it to a one-nation monopoly.

There are 23 nations in the European Zone with the winner expected to come from three teams—Brazil, Denmark or Belgium.

Brazil leaped into the contending role when it turned up with a former Wimbledon champion on its squad. This is Bob Falkenburg, former Chicagoan, now a Brazilian businessman, who won the All-English crown back in 1948 while playing out of America.

• • •

Today Brazil plays Switzerland at Montreaux and Falkenburg, brother of America's TV star Jinx Falkenburg, opposes Erwin Balestra. The other singles pits Brazil's Armando Vieira and Switzerland's Paul Blondel.

Other first round matches send Monaco against Yugoslavia, the Netherlands against Spain, Egypt against Turkey, Austria against Ireland, Finland against Norway and New Zealand against Hungary.

Belgium and Denmark drew byes.

Managers' Meeting Set

Manager's meeting for the Waterford Township Recreation Department softball league will be held Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the Community Activities Building on Williams Lake Road. All managers entering teams in the league are asked to attend.

Four Yankees who played in the 1953 World Series are no longer with the champions. They are John Mize, Vic Raschi, Don Bollweg and Billy Martin. The latter is in the Army. Raschi is with the Cardinals and Bollweg with the Athletics.

Brief Reports From Majors

NEW YORK (AP)— Around the majors:

The "punchless" Philadelphia Phillies, are making manager Steve O'Neill mighty happy these days. He knew he'd have the pitching but before the start of the season he agreed with the experts that he needed punch. But Willie Jones and Earl Torgerson have been coming through.

"All Willie had to do was remember some of the things we told him," said O'Neill. "I don't expect him to stay around the .400 mark, but if he keeps around .285 or .300 he'll be the best third baseman in the league.

"Torgerson has been hitting the way he ought to, whaling the ball. And he hasn't been getting cream puf. hits."

• • •

The New York Yankees probably won't be interested in Bobby Brown, their erstwhile pinch-hitter, if he can't play the rest of the season. Bobby, who is scheduled to start his residency in a San Francisco hospital July, would be available to the Yanks for only two months. However, there is some talk that the club may be able to persuade the hospital to give Brown, who just returned from Army duty in Korea, until the end of the baseball season.

• • •

It could be that the old timers who want a kid with speed on their clubs are right. The first-place Cincinnati Reds have stolen 10 bases already. And Johnny Temple has pilfered home twice. Last year, they stole a total of 25.

Boston Manager Lou Boudreau not only has an injury list to worry about, but he doesn't seem to have much confidence in his bullpen judging by the way he has been letting the starters hang on... Chicago White Sox in the Al Rosen, the "new" first baseman of the Cleveland Indians, had to borrow Walt Dropo's mitt last Sunday when he appeared at the bag. He said later Dropo told him he'd have to give it back pronto if he robbed hte Detroit first baseman of a hit.

Turner Lauds Work of Yanks' 'Steady Eddie'

Calls Lopat Greatest Pitching Artist; Writer Cites Roe, Pennock

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK (INS)—Jim Turner, veteran coach of the Yankees, and a master hand with pitchers, declares Ed Lopat, the Yankee southpaw, is the greatest pitching artist he's ever seen.

"I've never enjoyed watching any pitcher like I have Lopat. He never makes a waste motion. He knows what he is doing every minute and he always keeps the hitters off balance."

Lopat is known to the trade as the junkman because he throws up a little of this and a little of that. Screwballs, sinkers, sliders, fast balls, knucklers, change of pace—everything in the book.

Rookies, seeing Lopat pitch for the first time, can't wait to get up to the plate. He looks like a soft touch but after they have hit against him a few times, they usually come back to the bench sadly shaking their heads in disbelief and asking "how does he get away with it?"

No rookie should feel discouraged about not "murdering" Lopat. Even the best of hitters can do little with him when he's right and he usually is.

Finest pitching artists we have seen were, strange to say, all lefties. Lopat, old Preacher Roe of the Dodgers, and the late Herb Pennock.

None of them started with any outstanding physical equipment but all three were smart and so they had to learn to pitch the hard way. Incidentally, it may be noted all of them learned phenomenal control.

Reds Sell Lipon

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Lipon, infielder, was sold outright Thursday by the Cincinnati Redlegs to Havana in the International League.

Lipon came here from the White Sox recently for cash and infielder Grady Hatton. He formerly played with Detroit.

Burkemo Among Golf Favorites

Wally, Middlecoff and Wall Picked in $10,000 Frisco Open

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— Cary Middlecoff, Walt Burkemo and Art Wall Jr., were slight favorites as the $10,000 San Francisco Open invitational golf tourney got underway today.

• • •

The three-day 54-hole battle is being waged over the 6,826-yard, par 72 Lake Merced course where the U.S. Open will be held next year.

The pros are battling for $7,000 in prizes in the tourney proper, plus $3,000 for the money players in the pro-amateur competition.

• • •

First prizes are $1,400 and $750. Middlecoff turned in the best practice round yesterday, a two-under par 70. Wall, winner of last week's Tournament of Champions in Las Vegas, Nev., had a 73, but was handicapped by blisters on his feet.

Strong Pitching Makes Buckeyes Big 10 Choice

3 Ohio Moundsmen Have Hurled Shutouts in League Play

CHICAGO (AP)—Ohio State's unbeaten Buckeyes have their trio of shutout pitchers ready to protect the Big Ten baseball lead in three home games at Columbus this week end.

Northwestern (1-2) opens the Buckeyes' home stand today with a single game and Wisconsin (0-1) has a doubleheader encounter tomorrow. All other teams have single games today and twin bills tomorrow.

Ohio State opened the Big Ten campaign a week ago by scoring three consecutive shutouts over Indiana behind the pitching of Dick Finn, Hal Northrop and Paul Ebert.

Brilliant pitching is expected to make Ohio State a prime title contender after a 3rd place finish in 1953 behind co-champions Michigan and Illinois. Finn has worked in 39 1/3 innings for the entire season and has a 1.8 earned run average. Northrop has 1.9 in 28 innings and Dick Masters, the club's No. 1 relief pitcher, has 1.3.

Michigan State also is undefeated. After blanking Northwestern a week ago 4-0, Spartans played a 3-3 tied in 12 innings with Wisconsin before rain washed out the scheduled doubleheader.

Spartans today entertain Illinois (1-2) and remain at home to meet Purdue (1-2) twice tomorrow.

Today's games:

Northwestern at Ohio State; Illinois at Michigan State; Wisconsin at Indiana; Iowa at Minnesota; Purdue at Michigan.

Tomorrow's doubleheaders:

Northwestern at Indiana; Illinois at Michigan; Iowa at Minnesota; Purdue at Michigan State; Wisconsin at Ohio State.

'Diamond Jim' Adds Glitter to Derby Day

N'Orleans Restaurant Man Wears $150,000 'Ensemble' at Race

NEW ORLEANS, April 30 (AP)— The gold and glory of the Kentucky Derby will be in the winner's circle Saturday afternoon, but a good deal of the glitter will be in Churchill Down's ancient clubhouse.

New Orleans restaurateur "Diamond Jimmy" Moran will view the 80th running of the derby in a $150,000 diamond and ermine ensemble.

• • •

Moran's derby fashion calls for a white ermine coat, derby and tie—$3,000 worth—plus a few hundred diamonds valued at almost $150,000.

• • •

Moran's glittering accessories include diamond-studded horseshoe frame glasses, two diamond lapel pins, a butterfly hatband clip, diamond cigar holder, diamond-studded cane, assorted rings and stickpins and even diamond-tipped shoe laces.

League Prexy Named

Elmer Maki recently was elected president of the CIO bowling league for next year. Other officers named at a league banquet were Ernest Seay, vice-president; Frances Wise, secretary, and Robert Roberts, treasurer.

It's Time Out

"Some little superstition amongst the big gamblers, I imagine!"

King Phalanx Will Start in Derby Despite Arthritis

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The derby is a race for young horses, but a sure starter is King Phalanx, an arthritis sufferer.

• • •

King Phalanx, a 3-year-old like all other eligibles, takes whirlpool bath treatments for the disease, which usually afflicts the aged.

Because of the arthritic condition, the Texas horse from the stable of Sam E. Wilson Jr. of Corpus Christi, walks with an awkward gait.

For the same reason, he is a slow starter. His trainer, R. A. Mattingly, says he needs about a half-mile to get started. Then, says Mattingly, he "shifts gears like a truck."

Like all distance horses, he turns on the speed in the late stages of the race and can beat horses that tire early.

• • •

Some folks think Goyamo should rate right behind the top favorites, but Stephens indicates otherwise.

• • •

Although calling his first Kentucky Derby, Caposella is known as the announcer for the New York tracks.

• • •

Sy Veitch, trainer of Fisherman, surprised the boys by working the C. V. Whitney colt late yesterday afternoon. He worked five-eighths of a mile in 1:02 and galloped out the six furlongs in 1:15.

West Looks Like Derby Winner With Determine, Correlation Ranked as Top Favorites at Louisville

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK—The West is in the saddle at this coming Derby.. In the saddle and moving fast. At tomorrow's big show in Louisville, the West has Bob Lytle's Correlation and Andy Crevolin's Determine all set to give the shores of the Pacific a Derby winner and possibly run 1-2.

• • •

They still have Royce Martin's Goyamo, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, to beat with a few others but this time the cowboy country is in the lead.

• • •

In the past On Trust and others have made bold bids at times, but the Land of the Setting Sun has yet to finish on top. This is her big chance.

• • •

Some weeks ago, John Partridge predicted a Correlation victory, with Turn-To scratched, and he still sticks firmly to his choice.

Andy Crevolin came to Kentucky to purchase Determine but he calls her a Western horse. Whether this pair can run by Goyamo, Fisherman and others around 5 p. m., tomorrow won't be known until this date arrives.

Fisherman may bound back after a bad stumble at Jamaica and Goyamo, the Midwestern stretch runner, may find that extra eighth of a mile just what he has been looking for.

For example, Correlation, a winner in the Far West, came to the Garden State stakes last year. Turn-To won and Correlation ran second. Then he was rested. He ran in this year's $100,000 Derby at Gulf Stream and won that one. His next shot was at the Wood at Jamaica and he won again.

Andy Crevolin is hot on Determine. I saw this horse win three big races at Santa Anita and he won them all the same way—by a determined rush from behind through the stretch.

• • •

Black Metal, from Maine Chance Farms, might be quite dangerous. Fisherman can easily be another strong challenger. Like Determine he is all heart and you can gamble on his best.

Robin Roberts, Back in Form, Hurls One-Hitter

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hitters Beware! Philadelphia's Robin Roberts is back in form—with a vengeance.

The tireless righthander has been mowing down the opposition with amazing regularity for 5½ seasons. But he hit the skids in the last six weeks of the 1953 campaign, losing eight while winning only three.

* * *

After showing next to nothing in spring training Roberts was kayoed by the upstart Pittsburgh Pirates on opening day 4-2 and they began to sing the blues in Philadelphia.

* * *

But that's all over and forgiven now. He toppled the Pirates the next time out with a four-hit shutout, lost a 1-0 heartbreaker to the New York Giants last weekend and then last night stopped the Milwaukee Braves 4-0 on one lonesome hit.

Del Crandall's third inning double put the only dent in one of Roberts' best ever performances.

The one-hitter was Roberts' first anywhere. Twice before, he had given just two hits.

In other major league action yesterday the Brooklyn Dodgers pounded five home runs in beating the Cincinnati Redlegs 7-5 but the Reds held on to first place in the National League as Pittsburgh nipped St.Louis 4-3. Baltimore edged Washington 2-1; Cleveland defeated Boston 6-3 and the New York Yankees evened matters with the Chicago White Sox 5-4. The four other clubs weren't scheduled.

Junior Gilliam led the Dodger home run barrage in Cincinnati with a pair and added a double to the 10 hit attack against Harry Perkowski.

Bob Purkey, one of the score of Pittsburgh rookies, won his first major league start as Dick Cole singled home two runs in the top of the ninth at St. Louis.

Casey Stengel, who rewrites the rules of baseball strategy almost daily, brought in lefthanded Enos Slaughter to pinch hit against lefty Billy Pierce in the sixth inning in New York and the former Cardinal star delivered a single that tied the game.

Allie Reynolds saved Eddie Lopat's 150th major league triumph with three hitless innings in relief.

* * *

Cleveland warmed up for a two game series with the Yankees by pounding four Boston pitchers for nine hits. The Indians got five of their runs in the first two innings as Willard Nixon suffered from wildness.

* * *

Bob Turley of the Orioles, who was beaten by Cleveland in his last start after pitching no-hit ball into the ninth inning, was in fine form again against Washington. He the league's leading strikeout artist, and allowed only five hits.

Billy Joe Patton Man to Beat in North-South

Upstart of Masters Gains Semifinals at Pinehurst

By KEN ALYTA

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — Billy Joe Patton, sometimes erratic, usually spectacular, loomed as the man to beat as the North and South amateur golf tournament moved into the semifinals today.

* * *

Patton, whose daring play just missed winning the Masters tournament three weeks ago, met William Hyndman, Abington, Pa., insurance operator in one 18-hole match today, with Alex Welch, Rockford, Ill., attorney, engaging Frank Meacham, Roanoke Rapids, N. C., veteran, in the other. The winners meet over 36 holes for the title tomorrow.

* * *

Patton played what for him was a typical round in yesterday's quarter-finals as he smothered Curtis Person, Memphis, Tenn, 6 and 5. Billy Joe was in trouble off the tee on seven of 13 holes, yet he recovered so magnificently and putted so effectively he was two under par for the distance.

'YOUTH MOVEMENT'? — Heroes of yesterday's 5-4 victory of the Yankees over the Chicago White Sox are these four veterans whose ages average 35 years. From left: Enos Slaughter, 38, who drove in the tying run with a pinch-hit single in the 6th; Allie Reynolds, 36, who pitched three hitless innings in relief; Ed Lopat, 35, who started on the mound and was credited with his 150th major league victory; and Ed Robinson, 33, another pinch-hitter who singled in the winning run in the 6th.

Crandall Ruins Phil Pitcher's No-Hit Attempt

Thursday's 4-0 Win Over Braves Is 24th Shutout of Career

By CHRIS EDMONDS

MILWAUKEE (AP)—"It sure would be nice to pitch a no-hitter; I never came this close before."

Robin Roberts, smoking a big cigar, was relaxing and talking in the clubhouse last night after rifling a one-hit, 4-0 shutout, the 24th of his major league career, against the Milwaukee Braves.

* * *

"Yeah," he went on in his soft voice, "it sure would be nice. You know, I never had a one-hitter before. Usually they get to me for seven or eight in the first couple innings."

Roberts lost his no-hitter in the third when catcher Del Crandall belted a fast ball against the left field fence 376 feet from the plate, good for a double.

"That was one of the two bad pitches I threw," Roberts admitted. The other, he said was on a 3-1 count to George Metkovich, batting for loser Warren Spahn, in the sixth. Metkovich walked, for one of the three bases on balls Roberts issued as he faced only 30 men. Roberts struck out six, including Eddie Mathews three times.

Roberts admitted he knew he had a one-hitter on the fire, but said he wasn't nervous at any time.

"You don't forget it when a guy lays into one like Crandall did," he said. "Usually you don't keep track. But I did last night. I was feeling real good and everything was working."

* * *

The curly-haired righthander grinned when asked what he threw to Mathews.

* * *

"Fast balls and curves", he said. The final pitch at which Mathews swung lustily, was a fast ball.

The victory was Roberts' ninth straight over the Braves. He beat them four times each without a loss in 1952 and 1953.

Pirates' Rookie Gets Year for Safecracking

WAYCROSS, Ga. (AP)—Dan Urquhart, Pittsburgh Pirate rookie pitcher, was sentenced yesterday to serve a year for safecracking.

The lanky righthander admitted taking part in the $300 burglary of Foremost Dairy here and a Wa county superior court jury found him guilty after deliberating three hours.

Uruquhart and two cousins, George and A. L. Barefoot, were charged with the burglary. The Barefoots also are to be tried at this session of superior court.

Not All at Milwaukee

Grimm Warns National Loop's Eastern Teams That Trouble Awaits in West

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Charlie Grimm, greeting Eastern clubs on their first visit of the season to Milwaukee, is warning them that they can expect to run into a load of trouble and might even get scalped before they finish their expedition through the western half of the National League. He doesn't necessarily mean his own Braves will do it either.

* * *

"The Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Cardinals all are improved plenty," Charlie says. "If they're a sample, we've got a real eight-team league. I'd say the Cubs are the most improved, especially in their infield. Any time they get pitching they'll be tough.

* * *

"Wally Post has made a big improvement in Cincinnati's outfield and they've got a fine infield combination in Roy McMillan and Johnny Temple. They've got an awful lot of power. The Cards have a great new outfielder in Wally Moon, and that kid Tom Aston looks to me like he'll do around first base.

* * *

The Sporting News predicts that a big league franchise will be shifted to Dallas within a few years and seems to feel that Los Angeles and San Francisco have lost out. Travel to Dallas, it points out, would present no great problem.

* * *

The Texas metropolis boasted a population of 434,462 in the 1950 census and is believed to be at or over the half-million mark now. Milwaukee, by comparison, had a head count of 637,392 in 1950, and the Braves expect to draw two million at the gate this season.

* * *

There is no hint of the club which might open up the Southwest to big league ball, but men in the business regard the Philadelphia Athletics as hot prospects unless their attendance improves in a hurry.

Doris Hart Meets England's Top Netter

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP)—Doris Hart, who has made a habit of winning the British hard court tennis championship the last three years, faced Helen Fletcher, England's No. 1 player in the semifinals today.

Miss Hart, the Miami veteran advanced yesterday at the expense of Britain's Shirley Bloomer, 6-3, 6-1, while Miss Fletcher eliminated Melita Ramires of Mexico City, 6-1, 6-1.

The men's division also moved into the semi-final round with Britain's top player, Tony Mottram playing Torben Ulrich of Denmark and Geoff Paish, a British Davis Cupper, going against Kurt Nielsen, also of denmark.

Carruthers, Songkitrat End Training for Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—In Bangkok, champion Jimmy Carruthers of Australia and challenger Chamrorn Songkitrat of Thailand, wound up heavy training for their world bantamweight title fight on Sunday.

There wasn't much betting, but everyone seemed to be going with the champion. A crowd of 50,000 is assured and the promoters already have $225,000 in the till for the 12-round battle.

No television over that way.

Birmingham Man Is All-Events CYO Pin Champ

Raymond J. Lotero of Birmingham is the all-events champion of the CYO state bowling tournament.

Lotero, who rolls with the Forbes Printing team of the Holy Name Men's League in Birmingham, outrolled 4,500 others with an overall pinfall of 1,836. His team finished 4th in the team competition.

Lotero, of 212 Elm St., Birmingham, rolled his games in March, but the tourney just concluded last weekend at the State Fair Recreation in Detroit. Lotero hit 640 in the team event, 599 in doubles and 597 in singles. His league average is 172.

Walker Cooper, 39-year-old catcher, is the oldest player on the Pittsburgh Pirates' roster.

Charles in Top Shape

DENVER (INS)—Former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles boxed six exhibition rounds in Denver last night against two Utah fighters, winding up a tune-up tour leading up to his June 17 title bout against Rocky Marciano in New York.

The Cincinnati heavyweight, though lacking serious opposition, appeared close to top shape for his forthcoming attempt to regain the crown.

ABC Masters' Tournament Field Cut to 12 Keglers

SEATTLE (AP) — The American Bowling Congress Masters Tournament narrowed its field to 12 contestants last night and only three "name" bowlers survived the double elimination meet.

Rolling in the winners bracket quarterfinals today will be Willard Taylor, Cherleston, W. Va., 1952 Masters champion; Chuck O'Donnell, St. Louis, ABC 10-year-avera leader, and Dick Hoover, the F.t Lewis Wash., soldier from Akron, Ohio, and former all-star match game champion.

The 4th man in the winners' bracket is Eugene Elkins of San Francisco.

Rolling in the losers' bracket will be Curt Minten of Namononee Falls, Wis.; Harry Livelsey, Jr., Missoula; John Copeland, Berkeley, Calif.; Rusell Carroll, Yakima, Wash.; Dr. Rosewell Keyes, Bellingham, Wash.; Ken Bailer, San Francisco, and Josie Razore and Bill Blansk of Seattle.

Minten stayed in the 12-man field the hard way. He rolled a 798 4-game tie score with Paul Kringle of Seattle, in the late 5th round of the losers' bracket, and emerged the vicor in a sudden-death playoff, 225-187.

Earlier last night, defending champion Rudy Habetler of Chicago, Lee Jouglard of Detroit, and ex-champion, and stars like Steve Nagy of Cleveland, Joe Norris of Chicago, Nelson Burton of St. Louis, and Lou Farkas of Toledo, all were eliminated.

2 More No-Hitters Pitched by Area Preps

Two One-Hitters Feature Opening of SCL Baseball

By BILL MARTIN

Two 1-hitters featured the opening of the 1954 Suburban Catholic League baseball season yesterday.

Orchard Lake St. Mary downed St. Clement of Center Line, 5-2, in the latter's debut as a SCL team. Both Pontiac parochials were blanked — St. Frederick 3-0 by Highland Park St. Benedict and St. Michael 7-0 by Detroit St. Rita.

Pete Ziebron, St. Mary junior right-hander, missed a no-hitter when Norm Lee's 1st-inning bunt went for a single. Ziebron handcuffed St. Clement hitters the rest of the way, striking out nine and walking three.

Capt. Ed Balazy paced the Eaglets at the plate with a double and single in three trips.

Smith, the losing pitcher, got St. Michael's only hit off St. Rita's Byron Pertler when he rapped a single in the 4th. Pertler fanned 12 and walked three, while Smith struck out 10 and walked two.

Shortstop Carmen DeRubeis batted in three runs and scored three more himself to spark the Vikings. He collected three safeties in four appearances.

St. Benedict outhit the Rams, 8-6, in a slugfest that saw the Ravens score a single run in the 1st frame and add two clinchers in the 6th.

Bill Boyd Named Speedway Driver

Bill Boyd, veteran Pontiac racing driver, has been named by Detroiter Eddie Gdula to drive his new Kurtis Kraft car in the Indianapolis Speedway 500-Mile Classic, May 31.

Car is similar to that driven by last year's winner, Bill Vukovich.

Boyd will be guest of honor at a "bon voyage" party staged by friends tonight. He will leave for Indianapolis Saturday morning.

Briggs Asks Strike Threat Be Held Off

DETROIT (AP)—Wage troubles with the employed help at Briggs stadium may "interfere" with games of the Detroit Tigers, says president Walter O. Briggs.

He proposed that the employes hold off on a threatened strike until July 12 when the season's gate receipts can better be judged.

The 150 groundsmen, ushers, stilemen and guards, members of the AFL Building Service Employes Union, were voting on Briggs' proposal today.

The stadium's employe hourly pay rates include: groundsmen $1.65; lower deck ushers $5.25 single game and $7.25 doubleheaders; upper deck ushers $7 and $9; stilemen $7 and $9, and guards $6.50 and $8.50.

Red Winger Wilson Takes Bride Saturday

DETROIT, April 30 (AP) — Right winger Johnny Wilson of the National Hockey League and Stanley Cup champion Detroit Red Wings is going to check in at the marriage altar Saturday.

He and pretty Patricia Ann Donald, member of a hockey-fan family, will be married at St. Clair Roman Catholic Church in Windsor, Ont.

Their romance began at another Red Wing's marriage. They met at the marriage of the Ted Lindsays two years ago.

Julius McCoy, Michigan State's sophomore basketball star, wears the same jersey number (15) that he wore at Farrell, Pa. High School.

Fitzpatrick had just tagged Rams' Maurice Yarnold (on ground) and is throwing to 3rd to pick off John Clark. Freds had been attempting to work a squeeze play with the bases loaded. Bens won, 3-0.

By JACK SAYLOR

Two more no-hitters were registered in the Oakland County area Thursday. Jack Ranstadler of Roseville throttled Avondale, 7-0, and Dick Griffin of North Branch outdueled Steve Parnicky and Imlay City, 1-0.

Ranstadler fanned 13 and walked three and also starred at bat with a homer, double and four runs batted in. Clawson kept stride with Roseville atop the Oakland-B, however, by beating Madison, 6-3, and Fitzgerald whipped Troy, 13-4.

Griffin's no-hitter was his 2nd of the season. He bested Parnicky in a great mound duel. Griffin, a southpaw, whiffed 15 and walked five. Parnicky yielded only one scratch hit, struck out 12 and walked one.

Game's only run came as a result of four Imlay errors in the 1st inning. In another South Central game, Ortonville must have set some kind of record in its 23-3 loss to Millington. Hawks committed 27 errors and Millington added 10 hits.

Brighton took over first place in the Wayne-Oakland by toppling Keego Harbor, 9-5. Winners scored two in the 1st and three in the 2nd, all after two were out.

Holly survived a 6th inning uprising by Milford to down the Redskins, 9-6. John Wheeler pitched a four-hitter, with help from Dave Huber. Earl Garner and Dick Moritz had two hits each for Holly, while Don Colegrove had a pair for Milford.

Al Warman's 2-hit pitching gave Clarkston an 11-4 verdict over Northville. He fanned 11 and walked one. Pete Thompson paced the Wolves' 14-hit assault with four hits and three runs batted in. Lanny Leak and Don Coltson each had three safeties, with Leak collecting four RBI's.

Florida Vaulter Sets Top Mark for College Season

Trout Fishing Likely to Be Poor in North

LANSING (AP) — Rain and continued high water will make for poor trout fishing in northern Lower Peninsula streams this weekend, the state conservation department reported.

Very little trout fishing activity has been noted since the opener last weekend, the department said.

Some fair success was reported from the Baldwin river near Baldwin. Some good rainbow catches were reported from the Black river, Alcona County.

A heavy smelt run was reported from the Whitney drain. Smelt also were running in the Tawas river and in Cold Creek, near Tawas.

Ike Expected to Toss Ball at Solons' Tilt

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP) — President Eisenhower promised today that either he or Vice President Nixon will throw out the first ball at the June 15 baseball game between the Republican and Democratic members of the House.

It will be a night game at Griffith Stadium here.

* * *

The President made the promise to Rep. Bishop of Illinois, manager of the GOP team, and Rep. Harris of Arkansas who represented the Democrats at the White House. Harris remarked that he was pinch hitting for Rep. Herlong of Florida, manager of the Democratic squad.

* * *

Harris quoted the President as saying he had a wonderful time at last year's ball game, which the Democrats won, 3-2.

Bishop chimed in, however, that the Republicans whiped the Democrats 7-3 in a recent practice game in Florida, and predicted another victory for the GOP, on June 15.

Boxing Fans to See Rossi, Zulueta on TV

NEW YORK (INS) — Boxing takes on an international air tonight when Paolo Rosi, irresistible force from Italy, meets 2nd ranking lightweight Orlando Zulueta, immovable object from Cuba.

The 10-round fight, to be televised nationally (by NBC) from St. Nicholas Arena in New York, is a tossup with any edge conceded to Zulueta for his experience.

Rosi, 26, is undefeated in the U.S. with five knockouts in six appearances.

The 25-year-old Zulueta is a veteran of 76 fights, including one knockout. He has never been knocked out or down.

Pontiac Rated Threat

By BILL MARTIN

Individual stars will take a backseat to team depth today and tomorrow in the 14th annual Central Michigan Relays at Mt. Pleasant.

The popular big track and field carnival this year has attracted an all-time record entry of 144 schools. More than 2,000 individual performers — the cream of state high school cinder talent — will compete in Classes A-B-C-D.

Forty-five "B" teams and 26 class D squads are competing for team titles today. Sixteen Class A power and a bloated Class C field of 58 teams take over the Chippewas' field Saturday.

Seven relays, which count double points, provide the choicest "plums" for title-seeking teams. Relay distances range from the quarter-mile (four 220's) to the 2-mile event (four 880's). Individual events include the 100-yard dash, hurdles, shot-put, pole vault, high jump, broad jump and mile run.

Pontiac High, which finished 2nd to Flint Northern in the smaller indoor version of the meet earlier this month, appears to have the necessary depth to prove a real threat in the strong Class A field.

Chief have won three straight dual meets by overwhelming margins.

A top feature of the meet promises to be the hurdles. Willie Wilson, PHS junior who holds school records at three distances, will face stiff competition from Valley rivals Tom Hall of Saginaw, John Siachta of Arthur Hill and Lloyd Miller of Flint Northern.

Other area schools in the meet include Waterford and Lapeer in Class A; Fenton, Milford, North Branch, Roseville and Troy in Class B; and Almont, Bloomfield Hills, Brown City, Capac and South Lyon in Class C.

PHS team members entered include.

My Greatest Shot

By JULIUS BOROS

I had a wonderful year in 1952, winning the United States Open at Northwood in Dallas and then going on to hit the $25,000 World Championship jackpot at Chicago Tam O'Shanter.

These two made me the leading money winner.

I had a lot of great shots in those victories, but a putt on the 16th green at Northwood was the cause of my good year.

The 16th is a par 3. I used a 2 iron for my first shot and was 30 yards short. My approach left me 25 feet away from the cup and on a tricky green which had a left to right break.

It was make-or-break, I needed the putt to par the hole. When you're playing against Ben Hogan and the rest of that extraordinary field which always is in an Open, there isn't much room for mistakes.

I took note of the all-important direction in which the green breaks, and dropped the putt.

The moment it went in, my spirits soared. It was the clincher.

Mental attitude, you see, counts a good deal in this game.

Th. putt convinced me that I could beat Ben Hogan and the field.

Reynolds' Relief Stint Helps NY Trip White Sox

Slaughter, Lopat and Robinson Contribute to 5-4 Victory

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—"Youth movement" yowled Enos Slaughter as the cameramen went to work in the Yankee club house after yesterday's 5-4 victory over Chicago.

Clustered around Allie Reynolds' locker, the photographers were snapping the Chief, Slaughter, Eddie Lopat and Eddie Robinson. The four veterans represented a total of 142 years.

* * *

The "old men" of the Yanks came through in the clutch to snap the White Sox's four-game winning streak. Lopat, 35, pitched the first six innings before going out for pinch-hitter Slaughter, 38, whose single tied the score. Reynolds, 36, came from the bullpen to throw three hitless innings and Robinson, 33, delivered the pinch single that won the game in the sixth.

* * *

After the pictures were taken and the crowd had dispersed, Reynolds sat in front of his locker, peeling off his socks and uniform.

What did he think of this business of relief pitching?

Allie looked up slowly. He grinned as he answered, "The pay check is what counts."

As Reynolds' pay check is reportedly a very handsome one, around $40,000 or more, he talks from experience.

"I don't care whether its relief or start," he continued. "I know we have a lot of young fellows this spring who need work. If I can help in the bullpen, it's all right with me. That's the way it has to be. But with the weather we've been having, it looks like a lot of doubleheaders later in the summer. Then we'll need all the starters we can find. I imagine I'll be doing some starting then."

* * *

Reynolds thought he had good stuff against the White Sox who got only one man on base—on a walk—in the three innings he worked. He felt an 11-day layoff had thrown him off stride in his last previous outing.

* * *

'You have to work often to hit the spots if you're a pitcher who goes to power like I do," he said.

Scientist Blasts Probe Tactics

Army Failed to Protect Unfairly Accused Men, Pollard Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ernest C. Pollard of Yale University last night accused the Army command at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., of failing to provide fair treatment for employes of undesirable associations.

Pollard, a nuclear physicist who is vice chairman of the Federation of American Scientists, said Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton, the Army Signal Crops commander at Ft. Monmouth, "knew what was going on" — knew that the accused scientists cooperated in the congressional investigation of suspected subversive activity at the radar laboratory there.

Yet, Pollard said, the commander expressed no support for the scientists, had nothing to say about "unfair headlines" he said were printed about laboratory workers.

• • •

Ft. Monmouth was the scene of a controversial probe started by Sen. McCarthy's Senate investigations subcommittee last year. The Monmouth case, including the name of Lawton, has figured repeatedly in the Senate inquiry into the row between McCarthy and his aides and top Army officials.

Pollard, chairman of the scientists' committee which last week issued a 66-page report criticizing the conduct of the Ft. Monmouth investigation, said the people who use scientists' services "should guarantee us loyalty."

"Mutual loyalty is vital to a laboratory," he said. "We saw no sign of loyalty operating from above, at Ft. Monmouth. We should demand it."

Pollard spoke at a forum on scientific responsibility and national security, sponsored by the Federation of American Scientists.

Namesakes in Trouble

NEWBURGH, N. Y. (UP)—Daniel Boone, 25, was cleared by an Orange County grand jury of first degree grand larceny charges. The grand jury, however, indicted Jesse James Bivens, also 25, on a charge of second degree arson for allegedly setting his car on fire to collect insurance.

Police Disband Struck Drivers

Truckers Raise Fuss Over Company's Plan to Pool Trailers

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Police broke up a picket line around the strike-bound Motor Cargo, Inc., freight dock yesterday after Mayor Leo A. Berg read the riot act.

The firm — struck by owner-operators objecting to a plan to pool trailers — had obtained an injunction against pickets halting trucks.

The mayor read the act to the company, owner-operators and the AFL truck drivers as a line of pickets prevented trucks from moving.

Then Police Capt. Stephen J. McGowan three times called out:

"In the name of the state of Ohio, go to your homes."

After that police moved in, broke up the picketing and a chain of trucks moved out.

Harvey Burton, 37, of nearby Monroe Falls suffered minor injuries in the incident and was examined at City Hospital.

Six men were arrested.

It was the second violent incident in the walkout. The other occurred Wednesday.

Mayor Bert said he was disturbed over an influx of what he called "out-of-town people with baseball bats."

"If they show up again," he said "they will see what the inside of our jail looks like."

Mitchell Calls Army-McCarthy Feud Disgusting

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — The Army - McCarthy hearings are enough to make "an American pinch himself to be sure he isn't having a nightmare," says Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell.

Speaking at a Delaware Jefferson-Jackson dinner last night, Mitchell described the hearings as "a spectacle that has disgusted the rest of the world."

"For a solid week now — and nobody knows how much longer," he said, "eight United States senators, the entire civilian leadership of the Army, top Army generals headed by Chief of Staff Ridgway himself, and many of the heads of the Department of Defense, have all been engaged in a deadly serious, life-and-death struggle . . . about who did what in regard to an officer's commission, the weekend passes and the KP duty of one Private G. David Schine. Whatever has happened to the dignity and the majesty of the United States government!"

Mean Bandit Exhibits Avid Sense for Cents

DENVER (AP)—A gunman robbed Hummel's Delicatessen of $292 last night.

Mrs. Mary R. Hummel, operator of the store, said the bandit had "the meanest face I ever saw."

She added, "he had a mean disposition too. He even took the pennies."

Pits Found in 250 Autos on Maryland Car Lots

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP)—Police and used car dealers sought today to find what caused the pock-marks or cracks in the windshields of nearly 250 cars here.

The cars, discovered damaged yesterday, were all parked on used car lots.

Similar windshield damage has been reported from many sections of the country in recent wweeks.

Husband and Wife Team Happiest While Working

NEW YORK (AP)—Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn are different in one very important way from the average married couple. They get paid for acting like married people.

Twelve years after they wed they have become one of the top husband-and-wife teams of the American theater. The public likes to see them together—and they like sharing a career as well as a home.

* * *

"We have no formulas for marriage," said Hume, as we sat in the living room of their beautiful 14-room duplex on the upper East Side. "Our happiest times are when we are working hard . . ."

"And we are happiest when working together," interposed Jessica. Cronyn grinned and nodded.

The two have played the role of a married couple in movies, on Broadway in "The Fourposter," and in a radio series called "The Marriage." The latter will be turned into a television show this summer, and next fall they will tour together in a program of readings called "Face to Face."

* * *

They both believe that married life is too often treated either in a burlesque or a condescending manner by entertainers.

"We don't believe in treating married people as if they were 11-year-olds," Hume said. "Every married couple has problems, and the problems are serious."

When I asked what were the real life problems of two people who spend most of their time playing out the problems of an imaginary married couple, Jessica said lightly:

"I'm his constant problem."

"No," countered Hume gallantly. "I suppose our problem is to find the time to enjoy one another. We keep too busy. Trying to do too many things has only one catch—you get too greedy.

"There were months when I was a young actor that I could find no work. So now I pass up the holidays. We miss sitting in the sun together and watching the seasons change. But perhaps it's just as well. If we didn't enjoy working together, we probably wouldn't enjoy being idle together."

Both share the same hobby—collecting modern French and American paintings. The whole family—they have three children—share their rare vacations, and all five like to go together on underwater spearfishing expeditions.

* * *

Recently they achieved the dreams of many young honeymooners. They bought an island of their own in the Bahamas. The island is a mile long and has 3,000 coconut trees. Hume and Jessica are erecting a home, but they have no immediate desire to retire there and live out an escape-from-living drama that might be called "Two On The Isle."

"I've got projects that will keep us busy for at east 10 more years," said Hume, whom Jessica is first to admit is the idea man of the pair.

Every wedded couple sometimes suffers from marital claustrophobia—the feeling of being shut up too close together. But this isn't much of a problem in a 14-room duplex. Cronyn, who likes to write as well as act, has a den of his own to retire to when he wants to dream alone.

"Hume always tries to have an ivory tower," said Jessica, smiling, "and I'm all for bigger and better ivory towers.

"Everybody in life needs them."

Among some species of birds, one egg in the nest is markedly different from the others.

Reducing Group Spreads in U.S. as Women Reduce

MILWAUKEE (UP) — An organization in this city is growing larger while its members grow smaller. That's the way they want it.

TOPS, which stands for "take off pounds sensibly" is an organization of fat, or formerly fat women, whose single objective is to lose weight.

The woman who founded it, and still heads it is Mrs. Esther Manz. With three others who wanted to lose weight, she set up TOPS in 1948.

Two weeks after their first meeting, the four had shed a total of 29 pounds.

As other women heard about the success the original school social room became jammed to overflowing. In keeping with the pattern of small, personal groups, the newcomers were split into chapters of about 20 women. These groups mushroomed through Wisconsin. Today they are spread over the nation.

The chapters have some interesting names. A group in Appleton, Wis., calls itself the APPLETONS. Others are Ladies in Weighting, the Waist-Aways and the Sizeable Suzies. Thee are at least 3,000 members.

Mrs. Manz weighed 208½ pounds before TOPS. In 1949, she wore a size 24½ dress. Now, she looks trim in an 18½ and is determined to cut her present 172 pounds so that she can fit into a size 16½.

Her offices are in modest quarters on Milwaukee's South Side. The first month's rent came out of the coin purses of members and the plan is to finance the headquarters with the sale of the club's news magazine and its manual.

There are no dues in TOPS. The members pay a fine for each pound gained since the previous meeting. These fines range from 5 cents in Milwaukee to 50 cents in olirich Texas. Mrs. Manz and Mrs. Bertha Retzlaff, national secretary, handle the mountain of correspondence and organizational filing without pay.

"Our pay is the gratitude of women who have lost weight and learned to live better through TOPS," Mrs. Manz says.

Each woman loses weight under the personal guidance of her physician. The club offers no diets and indorses none.

Mrs. Retzlaff's efforts have reduced her from 238 pounds in 1948 to a neat 130. Since she has kept this weight for a few years, she is in line to become a charter member of KOPS. (Keep Off Pounds Sensibly) which tentatively is planned as a sort of "elite guard."

A typical TOPS meeting begins with a weigh-in, and all who answer roll call answer their weight after their names. Any increase brings a good-natured "ribbing" from the hardier members.

Husbands almost always approve of TOPS, Mrs. Manz says. One Chicago housewife was promised $2 for every pound she lost. On Christmas Eve, her husband gave her a check for $112 and a complete new wardrobe. In Appleton, a cooperative spouse has promised that he will reset his wife's wedding band with diamonds when it slides off easily.

A queen is crowned each year at the annual convention in Chicago. The 1953 winner was Mrs. Lillian Pedtke of Chicago who lost 97 pounds during 1953. The winner in 1952, Mrs. Margaret Schmidt of Milwaukee, lost 100 pounds in a year. But the unofficial record of all goes to Miss Kitty Ranschau, who lost 135 pounds in one year.

What pleases the women most of all is the fact that the men are "getting into the act." All-male chapters are being formed in Waverley, N.Y., and Covington, Ky. As Mrs. Manz says, "Pounds are pounds — on a man or a woman."

Say Drugs Reduce Confinement Time

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Episcopal Hospital reports that new developments have reduced by two-thirds the average time patients must stay in hospitals, but have multiplied the average cost per patient by more than 22.

The report, made by Laurence H. Eldredge, president; said the average length of time spent in Episcopal a century ago by patients was 31.73 days. The average cost per patient per week was only $4.04.

Eldredge estimated that current costs of a "patient day" amount to $13.15, or $92.05 a week. The average patient's stay, however, is only 11.9 days.

Grains Reflect Securities Hike

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains firmed on the board of trade in moderately active dealings today.

The advance was based on a bullish report on soybean stocks in all positions, a little overnight export business and relief cash grain deliveries on May contracts will not be large. Brokers also thought the upward surge of securities in New York may have created some sympathetic buying in grain.

Mart Forceful, Hits New High

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued its strong bullish drive ahead today into new high ground for the past 24 years.

The force of the forward movement was so great at the opening that the high speed ticker lagged behind in reporting the buying and selling on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

Key stocks, most in the class called blue chips, spurted forward strongly. The movement of large blocks was frequent.

The pace slowed within the first hour of trading, however, and business proceeded on a somewhat quieter basis.

Elizabeth York Moves Onto Television Screen

She Acts, Poses, Fashion Models

Gal Is Married but Still Finds Time to Devote to Making Hats

NEW YORK — Elizabeth York, frequent TV performer, moved into the acting profession from the fields of dancing and modeling.

A native of Chicago, Miss York was educated on the West Coast, at Los Angeles City College.

After an apprenticeship at the Pasadena Playhouse, she obtained professional work as a dancer at the Walt Disney Studios, where her art was photographed and used as a model for the animation of "Fantasia" and other Disney productions.

She also worked as fashion model in Hollywood, posing for such publications as Vogue and Charm.

Her first ventures into acting were on West Coast radio and television programs. Then, like many other ambitius actresses, she came to New York. She landed her first parts on radio.

Then came a long series of television appearances on such shows as Suspense, The Web and Studio One.

Two road compnaies, I Remember Mama and The Philadelphia Story, have had Miss York in their casts. She has also performed with several summer stock companies.

Miss York is married to Alvin Sapinsley. She devotes her leisure time to the millinery art.

Food Supplies to Be Plentiful

Prices May Be Lower Especially on Chickens, Eggs and Potatoes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today food supplies for late spring and early summer may be even more plentiful than the bountiful supplies of 1953.

It said Americans are likely to eat more chicken, eggs and dairy products than a year earlier, with output of these products high and prices lower.

Supplies of meat will be somewhat below the high level of last spring because of a cutback in the pig crop last fall, the department said in a report on the national food situation. But marketings of hogs are expected to be heavier later in the year, reflecting a larger pig crop this spring, the report said.

Planting surveys were said to indicate that spring vegetable and melon production this year will be above last year, but that the spring crops of strawberries and peaches in the South will be off.

The department said supplies of some fishery products and lard will be smaller, but plentiful supplies of alternative foods will be available.

Demand for food is expected to continue strong the next few months. Retail prices for many cereal products and fats and oils other than butter probably will continue a little above those of last spring, the report said.

The department also said:

Prices of potatoes, sweet potatoes, some fresh vegetables, as well as dairy and poultry products are expected to be lower than a year ago.

Pork prices may reach a peak around midsummer and decline sooner than usual because of heavy marketings of hogs from the spring crop.

For the spring and summer, retail food prices may average only slightly lower than both a year earlier and in the first three months of this year.

Retailing, Office Club Holds Its 7th Convention

The seventh annual convention of the Retailing and Office Club of Michigan was held April 27 at Western Michigan College of Education.

Approximately 800 Michigan students attended the convention which is comprised of high schoolers enrolled in job training, retailing or office occupation activities.

Pontiac High School, under the direction of Grace McLaughlin, local chapter adviser and state adviser, has an active chapter composed of 45 students. Miss McLaughlin was in charge of planning activities for the recent convention.

Guest speakers, which were heard at the gathering, included Mary Morgan, radio fashion editor, who presented the main address.

Governor Aids Blind

PHOENIX, Ariz. (INS) — Buzz Busby, 32, blind operator of the candy concession in the Arizona State Capitol at Phoenix, Ariz., got a sendoff from the state's first citizen when he got married recently. Governor Howard Pyle held a party with about 60 capitol workers for Busby on the day he married vivacious Betty Sherman, 21, a blind Navaho Indian.

Gen. MacArthur Warns Against Fellow Travelers

Manchester, N.H. (AP)Gn. Douglas MacArthur said last night that citizens must guard against "adventurers in our midst who travel along" with persons trying to tear down American free institutions.

"Possibly it is knecessary for me to point out to you," he said, "that the struggle to preserve undefiled the edifice of national strength and unity which Daniel Webster and his contemporaries did so much to fabricate still requires in these troublesome times the utmost of our devotion."

"There have been, are now, and probably will continue to be," he said, "those abroad in the land, blind equally to the lessons history has taught and the facts of contemporary life, who, skeptical of our form of civilization and government, seek to change their underlying fundamentals."

MacArthur was made an honorary citizen of the state of New Hampshire at a dinner attended by 3,000.

Guest speaker at the literary event will be Prof. Jack V. Field of the University of Michigan. Entertainment will be provided by the attending club members and the dinner will be served by the Y-Teen Club.

Chosen president was Don Hardy with Vicky Micu serving as vice president. Shirley Arnhart was elected secretary and Marcia Thomas has the post of treasurer.

Plans are now under way for a trip to the University of Michigan.

Steel Workers' Contracts End, Talks to Start

Ousted Aussie Staff Begins Trip Home

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — The Australian diplomatic staff ousted from Moscow was on its way by train today to Helsinki on the first leg of its journey home.

The group of 10 Australians, headed by Charge d'Affaires Brian Hill and including two wives and two children, left Moscow last night and were expected to arrive here later today.

The embassy was shut down and the staff was asked to leave after the Soviet Union last week broke off diplomatic relations with Australia over the case of Vladimir Petrov, who quit his post in the Soviet Embassy in Australia and was given political asylum.
