Oil Found on Missing Sub's Route

ROBERT H. BLOCKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy reported an oil slick was spotted along the scheduled course of the missing submarine Scorpion two days after the atomic sub's last known communication.

The sub and it 99 crewmen were to have reported to Norfolk, Va., yesterday at the end of a submerged Atlantic crossing.

Search ships have been ordered to the oil slick area to look for any surface evidence such as debris.

But a Navy captain in charge of the massive Atlantic search effort cautioned from the Pentagon that: "We attach at this time no importance whatsoever" to the sighting.

SIGHTINGS 'ROUTINE'

Nevertheless, David acknowledged at one point, "With the passage of time we are more apprehensive of what the possibilities are."

David said the $40 million Scorpion should have surfaced about 4 p.m. Monday 55 miles off Norfolk. The Navy earlier had the estimated arrival time at several hours earlier.

When the Scorpion failed to appear the Navy asked all ships in the Atlantic to check their records for any sightings or contacts with the Scorpion since she was last heard from about midnight May 21.

TRANSPORT REPORTS

The USS Monrovia, an attack transport which was part of an amphibious squadron returning from the Mediterranean, had something.

"The quartermaster of the Monrovia in reviewing his log found that he had noted on 12:55 Greenwich time — 8:55 in the morning Washington time on May 23 — that the ship had passed an oil slick."

This was about 1,200 to 1,400 miles almost due east of Norfolk, the Scorpion's home base, and in an Atlantic area ranging to 9,000 feet deep — far below the level at which the Navy could hope to rescue men from a disabled sub.

At least one Michigan man, Machinist's Mate 1.C. Robert H. Blocker, 25, of Cedar Lake near Lawton, is aboard the Scorpion.

OFFICIALLY OVERDUE

"The weather is very, very bad out there," Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of Naval Operations, said earlier today.

Admiral Moore offered two possibilities of what may have happened merely to delay the Scorpion:

- Weather may have caused her to slow up, and she may have radioed a message about the delay which was lost in stormy turbulence.
- The Scorpion may have altered her

Gas Bomb Fells 50 to 60 Students

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Some 50 to 60 children were carried out of the Booker T. Washington Junior High School after being overcome by what a police lieutenant said was a gas bomb.

The lieutenant radioed from the scene that "some kind of a gas bomb was thrown through a school window."

Six ambulances shuttled the children to at least three hospitals, Provident, University and Maryland General.

Eyewitnesses said that the affected children were having some kind of convulsions and had to be restrained by schoolmates and firemen.

WORE GAS MASKS

Some children were hanging out windows and others were lying on the street in front of the school while waiting to be taken to hospitals.

Holiday Closings Are Announced

Most area stores and public service agencies will be closed Thursday in observance of Memorial Day.

City, county, state and local federal offices will shut down for the holiday.

The post office will observe regular holiday schedules. There will be no regular window of delivery services, although special delivery will be available.

Mail will be collected on holiday schedules from deposit points, and the lobby at the main post office, 735 W. Huron, and will be open for access to locked boxes and stamp dispensing equipment.

Emergency services, such as police and fire, will be maintained.

All operations at the Fisher Body plant and GMC Truck and Coach Division will be curtailed Thursday with the exception of those employes assigned to seven-day operations.

Pontiac Motor Division said all operations will be curtailed Thursday unless employes are notified otherwise.

All GM facilities will resume production Friday.

USS Scorpion . . . Gone Without A Clue

U.S. Plans Long Paris Talks

PARIS (AP) — Top U.S. negotiators at the Paris peace talks are looking for houses or apartments, anticipating months of talks with the North Vietnamese on the war in Southeast Asia.

Aides said W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus R. Vance, the two American negotiators, are planning to move out of the Hotel Crillon, where they have been living since the talks started May 13. Xuan Thuy and his North Vietnamese delegation moved to a villa on the outskirts of Paris 10 days ago.

Associates said Harriman and Vance have not decided on new quarters.

Harriman and Thuy, displaying no concern over social and political forces swirling through France, met yesterday for four hours and 10 minutes and parted in agreement only on meeting again Friday.

Western diplomats speculate privately that if impact of the French strikes becomes much worse or if violence erupts in Paris again and becomes more widespread and intense, the United States and North Vietnam will have to consider moving the talks.

The U.S. delegation found evidence of movement on North Vietnam's part yesterday on the question of whether North Vietnamese forces are fighting in South Vietnam.

Thuy repeated that the United States is the aggressor and should stop attacking the North without northern cutback in military activity. He said Vietnam is one country and any Vietnamese has the right to fight for it.

William J. Jorden, the U.S. delegation's press spokesman, said this "is a little closer" to admitting presence of Northern troops in the South than any previously made by Thuy.

HARRIMAN PRESSES ISSUE

Harriman pressed Thuy. He argued that peacemaking depends on facts, not "distortions."

Harriman told Thuy that more than 200,000 men had been sent from North to South Vietnam since late 1964.

Louisville Erupts; Guard Is Called In

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Between 200 and 400 National Guardsmen patrolled the streets of Louisville today after looting, burning and scattered violence broke out in the city's predominantly Negro west end.

The disturbance, which erupted following a street corner rally last night, resulted in the arrest of 90 adults and 40 juveniles, most of whom police said were charged with disorderly conduct or breach of peace.

Sporadic sniper fire injured at least two men.

Oregon Is Best Bet for Sen. McCarthy

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Oregon Democrats vote today in a presidential popularity contest that offers campaigner Eugene J. McCarthy his best hope of stopping Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's drive for a sweep of their primary contests.

If McCarthy should win, Kennedy said, the benefit would go to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, an Oregon absentee.

fornia Gov. Ronald Reagan and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Rockefeller's name is not on the ballot.

Kennedy and his lieutenants were uneasy, McCarthy talked optimistically.

'VERY CLOSE'

"Indications are, it will be very close," said McCarthy, who lost primaries to Kennedy in Indiana on May 7 and in Nebraska on May 14. "I have reason to be optimistic about it."

The Minnesota senator said his past defeats were but distractions in a campaign which now is back on track.

"I don't know how it's all going to turn out tomorrow," Kennedy told his wind-up rally in Portland last night. "The polls say it's like that," Kennedy said, holding two fingers side by side.

There were 35 Democratic nominating votes at stake, but much more was involved for Kennedy, whose strategy is based on a sweep of the primaries he has entered. He said at one point that he had to win Oregon to remain a viable candidate.

'MY OPPONENT'

"Vice President Humphrey is my opponent," Kennedy said. "If Oregon is adverse to me, the vice president will get the benefit."

Polls opened at 8 a.m. Pacific Daylight Time — 11 a.m. EDT — for 12 hours of balloting expected to produce a record turnout.

The campaigns, both Democratic and Republican, wound up last night with a barrage of television broadcasts.

Kennedy dashed across Oregon in a hectic final day of campaigning, then flew to Los Angeles to spend election day seeking votes for the California primary on June 4.

McCarthy planned to go campaigning in California, too. Both candidates return to Portland tonight to await the Oregon decision.

Area's Three-Day Rainfall Totals Record 8.66 Inches

Planning to build an ark? You couldn't pick a better time. If history is due to repeat itself, you've 37 days left to complete the venture before it's time to board.

Rain has plagued the Oakland County area since Sunday morning. Between 8 a.m. yesterday morning and 8 a.m. this morning, 6.1 inches inundated the area breaking all previous records, according to Pontiac Press weather files. The heaviest rainfall previously recorded was five inches on Aug. 31, 1925.

Adding the 2.56 inches of rain that fell Sunday to that of yesterday and today shows a total of 8.66 inches for the three-day deluge.

Among the schools closed due to flooded conditions are the West Bloomfield Senior High School at 6000 Orchard Lake, West Bloomfield Township; and the Hill School at 4600 Forsythe, Troy. Both are expected to open tomorrow.

PHONE SERVICE STALLED

Telephone service was interrupted to 450 known subscribers in the Pontiac area with 50 wet cables reported.

"We won't be out of the woods troublewise," said a Michigan Bell spokesman, "until Wednesday afternoon if the rain quits right now. If it continues to come down, there will be more trouble."

The weather forecast calls for rain to continue through today with periods of

ALICE CRIMMINS

NEW YORK (AP) — Red-haired Alice Crimmins was found guilty today of killing her 4-year-old daughter after a sensation-packed trial marked by the defendant's calm recitation of her extramarital escapades with a number of men.

A jury of 12 married men announced its verdict of first degree manslaughter at 1:55 a.m. and the crowded courtroom gave a collective gasp. The 29-year-old defendant, a former cocktail waitress, sagged into the arms of her attorneys.

A whimper and a sob escaped her bowed head, her shoulders began quivering and a moment later she collapsed completely under routine questioning by the court clerk.

The white-haired Justice Peter T. Farrell revoked her $25,000 bond and remanded her to the Women's House of Detention. "Oh, no!" she cried as attendants led her away and she left with a last agonized look toward her husband, Edmund, 32.

After she left, he buried his face in his hands and sobbed uncontrollably.

Farrell, who presided at the 14-day trial, set July 12 for sentencing on the conviction which could bring a prison term of from 10 to 20 years. Harold C. Harrison, chief defense counsel, said he would appeal the verdict.

The state charged that Mrs. Crimmins strangled her daughter, Alice Marie, on the night of July 13, 1965, rather than lose custody of the child to the father from whom she was then estranged.

'Sweat Equity' Loses Temporarily

LANSING (AP) — "Sweat equity," a means enabling a person to make a down-payment on a low cost housing by helping construct it, was temporarily defeated Monday in the Senate.

The upper chamber approved measures calling for a $100 million state recreation bond issue referendum and to make industrial spying illegal.

The sweat equity bill was expected to be reconsidered today — the final day for passage of bills from the opposite chamber.

Gov. George Romney has called for such a measure as a method of helping the poor to obtain housing.

300 HOURS

The sweat equity bill provides that persons with incomes of $5,000 or less can make a down-payment on a home by contributing at least 300 hours of labor in the construction of it.

The houses, to be built by nonprofit housing corporations, could not cost more than $12,000. An individual who chose to contribute his labor would be required to accumulate the 300 hour total within 15 weeks.

Senate Minority Leader Raymond D. Dzendzel, D-Detroit, argued against the measure on grounds that most of the applicants wouldn't possess the skills necessary to build a home.

"Most people wouldn't know how to start digging," Dzendzel said, let alone handle the plumbing or electrical work.

'JUST AN EXCUSE'

Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, said the sweat equity bill distorts the housing problem.

"It assumes it would solve our problem by telling every man to get a hammer and paint brush," he said. "Sweat equity becomes an excuse for lack of a state program."

Saying that, in effect, Michigan has no housing program, Levin added, "An adequate housing program would involve $5-$10 million."

An earlier bill passed by the Senate enables the State Housing Development Authority to authorize a sweat equity provision in construction of housing for the poor.

Levin has charged that so far, as a result of this law, not one home has been constructed.

Because of participants' lack of skills, Dzendzel added, "what we would be rebuilding is slum areas that would have to be condemned in 10 years."

The Senate also passed the $100 million state recreation bond issue. The bonds are subject to a statewide referendum in November.

USES FOR BONDS

If approved, the funds would be used to develop parks, forests, wildlife areas and fisheries, and to make loans to local governmental bodies for the same purposes.

A bill making state and local housing projects exempt from taxes also was approved by the upper chamber. The measure provides that in lieu of taxes the owner shall pay a service charge to advance further projects.

The service charge shall total 10 per cent of the annual rent or the tax on the property prior to construction.

course as she rose from the Atlantic's depths to approach the shallower, 650-foot-deep continental shelf extending 40 to 50 miles from the Eastern seaboard, thus slowing her arrival.

The latter possibility, however, would not have explained her failure to communicate with shore.

He said it would be routine for the Scorpion to remain submerged until rough seas subsided but acknowledged she would have tried to contact with her home base.

Would she have messaged in case of trouble? "Of course," he said.

The length of time the crew could survive in the submerged sub would depend on the vessel's condition. Under normal conditions, the Navy said, the Scorpion and its crew can remain submerged "well in excess of 60 days."

The Scorpion, an atomic-driven ship designed to stalk an enemy's submarines or destroy his surface fleet, had been on what was described as a routine extended training exercise in the Mediterranean.

REPORT NEAR GIBRALTAR

She headed home May 17. After passing Gibraltar the sleek vessel — a class older than the ill-fated Thresher — reported her position, course and speed.

This message, Moorer said, was about midnight while the Scorpion plied the Atlantic at 18 knots on a 290 degree (almost due west) heading just south of the Azores.

Airport Hangar Bonds Okayed

A $316,000 revenue bond issue to provide 51 new hangars for Oakland-Pontiac Airport was approved by the board of supervisors yesterday.

The bond issue would be retired in 25 years, paid for out of hangar rentals, according to the proposal.

The new hangars will be built in the northwestern part of the field in Waterford Township.

In other business, a resolution was introduced that could allow citizens to speak to the supervisors at their meetings.

COULD NOT SPEAK

Previously, according to the bylaws, a citizen could not speak at the meetings if a single board member objected. According to the recommended bylaw change a citizen could speak unless three members objected.

The change will be considered at the next board meeting scheduled for 9:30 a.m., June 10.

The board also approved acquisition of rights-of-way for widening of Greenfield Road in Southfield. The road improvement will be one of the projects of the County Road Commission.

Formal approval to grant the U.S. Army 3½ acres of county land on Watkins Lake Road north of Pontiac Lake Road is scheduled for the June 10 board meeting.

The lease has not yet been signed by the Army but action by both the Army and the county should be taken by June 10 when formal approval is expected, according to a county official.

The Army wants to build a new reserve center to replace the present leased building at 40 Walnut in Pontiac.

light drizzle. It should end tonight with temperatures remaining cool.

Temperatures are to remain cool tomorrow with partly cloudy skies. The clouds will stay through Thursday though the mercury is to warm slightly.

PRECIPITATION AHEAD

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are today 30, tonight 20 and tomorrow 20.

Water still covered sections of several main roads throughout the area today, according to the Oakland County Road Commission.

Areas where flooding has slowed traffic include Dixie south of Walton in Waterford Township; Greenfield between 10 and 11 Mile roads in Southfield; Maple near John R in Troy and Halstead south of 14 Mile Road in Farmington Township.

All roads are passable if motorists use caution, a road commission official said.

Road commission crews also have been busy clearing trees and limbs that have fallen across area roads. These have been cleared promptly, according to a road commission spokesman.

School Borrowing Bill OK'd

LANSING (UPI) — With its chief opponent absent, a bill to give school districts increased authority to borrow money without popular votes yesterday was cleared of parliamentary snags in the Senate.

In a tit-for-tat exchange, two senators changed votes cast Thursday different ways, enabling the bill to move back to the House for concurrence in a Senate amendment. The final outcome was the same as it ended up Thursday, 20-11.

Absent from the session last night was Sen. John Bowman, D-Roseville, who attacked the increased bonding authority as "another example of the Legislature stripping people of their rights to vote on local issues."

The bill gives second-, third- and fourth-class school districts power to raise their bonding limit for construction without a public vote from 2 per cent to 5 per cent of the district's state equalized valuation. The three classifications comprise all school districts except Detroit, which is a first-class district.

ANTICIPATED AID

The Senate attached an amendment to give districts authority to pledge anticipated state aid and property tax revenue against loans from banks.

Sen. Gary Byker, R-Hudsonville, said this was necessary because banks have been rejecting loan applications pledged against state aid since the Detroit public schools challenged the equity of the state aid formula in federal court.

Byker, who voted against the bill when it first came up Thursday, changed his vote to "yes" yesterday to give Sen. Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, an opportunity to change his vote from "yes" to "no."

City to Consider Tavern Licenses

The question of upgrading licenses of bars in the city which have tavern licenses will be taken up by the City Commission tonight at its 8 p.m. meeting at City Hall.

Commissioners are expected to approve a plan based on recommendations made by a special citizens committee in 1964.

The recommendations would allow the city's 14 taverns to get Class C licenses under special conditions to be met by the bars applying.

Tavern licenses allow only the sale of beer and wine for on premises consumption. Class C licenses also allow the sale of drinks which are more than 16 per cent alcohol by volume for on premises consumption.

Liquor licenses are issued by the State Liquor Control Commission but the state agency follows recommendations of the City Commission on upgrading.

In other action, the commission will hold a public hearing on the capital improvement fund budget for 1968, and is expected to approve an agreement with the Oakland County Road Commission governing expenditure of funds collected under a proposed one-mill countywide tax for road maintenance.

Huron Changes 3 Weeks Away

Expected changes in the traffic flow and parking on Huron between West and East Wide Track supposedly will take place after June 20, Director of Public Works and Service Joseph E. Neipling said today.

The city and State Highway Department have been negotiating for some months on a new arrangement which will see elimination of most parking on Huron and a new five-lane street arrangement.

Neipling said a hearing will be held by the highway department on June 20 to determine if there are objections to the plans.

The proposed traffic pattern calls for two lanes of eastbound and two lanes of westbound traffic, and a center lane for left turns.

METERS TO GO

Most meters along Huron will be removed and parking prohibited.

The state is in the process of securing land for expansion of East Huron between Mill and East Wide Track, presently one-way eastbound.

The only parking that will be allowed on Huron between the Wide Tracks will be in front of the Post Office annex, Neipling said.

April Living Costs Up Three-Tenths of 1 Pct.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs, led by sharp price increases for food and clothing, rose three-tenths of one per cent in April and were 4 per cent above a year ago, the government reported today.

Asst. Commissioner Arnold Chase of the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the new price increases supported the warning of Arthur M. Okun, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, that the nation's economy is headed for more serious trouble.

Rights Hearings Set June 13-19

The Michigan Civil Rights Commission (CRC) will conduct a public inquiry June 13-19 on racial relations in Pontiac.

Cochairmen of the CRC, Julian A. Cook Jr. and John Dempsey, said the inquiry is being held to "examine the condition of race relations in the Pontiac area and to identify actions being taken by the government and the community to redress grievances and secure equal opportunity for all citizens."

City officials, community leaders and citizens have been invited to give testimony on conditions in the fields of employment, social services, housing, education and law enforcement.

The inquiry is the first of several which the commission plans to make in Michigan cities.

TWICE DAILY

Public hearings will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m. on each day of the inquiry.

Plans call for the hearings to be held at the following places:

Social services, June 14, Bagley Elementary School, 320 Bagley.

Education, June 18, Bagley School.

Law Enforcement, June 19, Bagley School.

S. JEROME BRONSON

Appeals Court Post Is Sought by Prosecutor

Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson will seek a seat on the Michigan Court of Appeals rather than run for reelection for the county post.

Bronson, 38, of 24540 Seneca, Oak Park, announced his decision today. He presently is serving his first four-year term as prosecutor. His term expires Dec. 31.

The judicial post being eyed by Bronson in 2nd Court of Appeals District is one of three created last week by the Legislature. The district takes in all of southeastern Michigan with the exception of Wayne County which comprises one district itself.

Noting that strict law enforcement is made difficult because overpermissiveness is prevalent, Bronson said that judges with law enforcement experience are needed in the courts.

'UNDERSTANDING VITAL'

"Greater understanding and appreciation of law enforcement problems is vital by those who seek judicial responsibility," said Bronson. "An opportunity for even greater service, by me, is now open."

Bronson said, "The responsibility presented by this opportunity to assist in fair and firm administration of justice, especially criminal justice, at a time of great change, not only in our country but also in the law is immense.

"It is a challenge which I accept and one which I will take to the people in each county of the district, and ask their support," he said.

Prior to his election in November 1964, Bronson practiced law in Oakland County for nearly 10 years. His law firm continues under the name of Bronson and Kutinsky, with offices in Madison Heights.

Riot-Cities Aid Section Cut From Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has stripped from an omnibus $5.2-billion housing bill a provision designed to give special help to cities ravaged by riots.

A vote of 57 to 2 knocked the section out of the measure Monday after opponents argued it might encourage rioters.

Holiday Shifts Plan for Rubbish Pickup

City rubbish collections normally made Thursday and Friday will be rescheduled because of the Memorial Day holiday, Gordon R. Matthews, DPW superintendent of operations, said today.

Normal Thursday collections will be handled Friday, and Friday collections will be taken care of Saturday, he said.

Special collections for bulky items, usually Thursday, will be tomorrow, he said.

In addition, the city's sanitary land-fill on W. Kennett will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday to allow residents to dispose of trash, he said.

City Delays Zoning Action Pending Talks

BIRMINGHAM — After hearing both sides for more than two hours last night, the City Commission postponed a decision on a proposed cluster housing development on the southwest corner of Southfield and Lincoln for four weeks to allow objectors and the developer time to meet.

Commissioners expressed hope that the delay will give the parties an opportunity to iron out their dispute, since the major disagreement is not over the development of the property but over the type of homes that will be built.

The present zoning would permit him to construct 12 new homes on the site. Under his plan, he could construct 16. Two homes presently on the property would remain and be remodeled.

'HIGHEST QUALITY'

Attorney Daniel C. Devine, representing Metcalf, told the commission that four different type homes planned would be of the highest quality, ranging in price from $35,000 to $50,000.

"The entire plan would be developed at one time and not helter-skelter," said Devine.

The Birmingham Planning Board has recommended to the commission that R-2 zoning is the best use for the site, which has been the subject of numerous proposals since 1949.

George Meyer, spokesman for the Birmingham Hills Subdivision Homeowners Association, whose members make up the bulk of the opposition, outlined the position of the organization for the commission.

DEVELOPMENT FAVORED

"The Association is in favor of the development of the property as soon as possible, but it wants a development that would maintain the R-1 classification," added Meyers.

He said that the association probably would not oppose R-2 zoning if the developer could guarantee the same high standards set by surrounding homes.

A petition containing 270 signatures was presented to the commission in opposition to the plan, more than half of them from residents in Birmingham Hills, which abuts the property on the west and east.

Commissioners emphasized that no matter what agreement is reached by the homeowners and the developer before they return June 24, the final decision will be in their hands.

A proposed annexation election for a 7½-acre parcel in Bloomfield Township was rejected 52 to 20 by the Board of Supervisors yesterday. The election previously had been set.

The land is at Big Beaver and Adams. The developer is C. Allen Harlan and the firm of Cranbrook Realty. The developer wanted the land annexed by Birmingham, where restrictions on numbers of dwelling units per acre are lower. The land is zoned multiple residential.

TWO YEARS OLD

The election had been approved by the supervisors' boundaries committee in a 3-2 vote. However, due to several delays in deliberations, by the time the issue came before the board of supervisors, the petitions calling for the election were two years old.

Speaking on behalf of Birmingham, Supervisor Carl Ingraham said the city commission was opposed to the annexation as were Bloomfield Township and Troy. The land abuts both Birmingham and Troy.

Verdict Shocks Burner of Card

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — David P. O'Brien said he was shocked and dismayed Monday when he learned 'the U.S. Supreme Court had affirmed his conviction for burning his draft card.

O'Brien of Cambridge faces a six-year prison term.

O'Brien said in an interview after the court ruling that he regards it as showing that "the administration and the courts are moving toward an oppressive state which will not tolerate political dissent."

* * *

O'Brien and several other youths burned what they said were their draft cards on the steps of the South Boston courthouse in March 1966. They were at court to face arraignment for blocking the passage at the Boston Army Base during an antidraft demonstration.

No Immediate Policy Changes for Lake Orion

Charges of School Disciplinary Abuse Answered

By JEAN SAILE

LAKE ORION—No immediate change in the Student Council Handbook discipline policy is foreseen here, but board of education President Robert Sheardy said the door "hasn't been closed" on policy changes.

A list of 10 allegations regarding misuse of school disciplinary policy was answered last night by the board for an audience of about 300 people at the senior high school.

The audience was heavily pro-administration. A petition containing 162 names backing the board and administration were presented to Sheardy following the short meeting.

Sheardy called the allegations a list of "isolated incidents going back several years." He termed the complaints "general" and asked for specific names, times and instances to support some of the allegations.

His answers:

● One paddle of the type described by the American Civil Liberties Union (3 inches thick, 12 inches long, with holes drilled into it to raise welts) was found and ordered destroyed.

● Students are not locked up in a dark room or closet.

"Investigations did reveal one instance at the elementary and one at the secondary level where students were isolated, but not in a darkened or locked room."

● It is not a common practice to search student lockers, pockets or purses.

"This does not mean that lockers will not be searched when the search is justified to maintain order and safety in the schools."

● Parents and students are not informed of comments in the personal records of the student.

CAN ARRANGE REVIEW

"This does not alarm the board at all. These are school property and remain school property. However, parents can arrange to review the record of the child."

● Students over the age of 16 are made to sign statements promising regular attendance as an aid to keeping them in school.

"At no time has a student been forced to sign a confession of guilt."

● It is true that upon repeated misconduct the student's right to use buses can be taken away.

"This is to assure safety of all."

● The board's investigation does not support the contention that statements made by students in confidential interviews can be used against them.

"Specific instances need to be identified."

● The board denies the use of paid student informers to catch smoking violators.

"We request specific proof."

● There is no evidence of the revocation of the right to use lavatories as punishment.

"There are some cases of the limited number of trips, but not for disciplinary reasons."

● Staff members with the board's "full approval" supervise lavatories.

'NO PROBLEM'

Sheardy further reported that the school's written disciplinary policy has been in effect in the school system for many years (with the exception of the suspicion of smoking clause) and up until this time, "there has been no problem."

David Wineman, an ACLU board member, questioned the age of policy rules as an argument for not reconsidering them.

The suspension of students on suspicion of smoking, he said, constituted "a definite contradiction to the rights of the child with regard to due process of law."

An unidentified woman in the audience interrupted, "A teen-ager doesn't have rights—only privileges they earn."

'MAKING MISTAKE'

Wineman disputed her on the basis of Supreme Court decisions and told the assembled group, "We think you're making a mistake."

A number of students—some of them suspended—who were present in the audience were not heard from, though Mrs. Diane Mawhorter, a leader of dissatisfied parents, said several had come off their jobs to tell their stories and to request to be let back in school. She blamed the shortness of the meeting—adjourned an hour after it started.

Mrs. June Rupert, a secretary at the Junior High School, expressed anger at the situation where a few people could affect the reputation of the school system.

Said Mrs. Mawhorter, "We're not done yet." She indicated further action would be taken by her group and the ACLU.

New Zoning Set Up for Nursing Homes

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — What happens when apartments sprout up where residents had expected to see a nursing home?

One reaction is the discontent of neighbors. Another is from the township planning commission, which answered the question by sitting up a new zoning category that will discourage developers of proposed nursing homes from selling out to apartment builders.

A private switch of plans previously had been possible because nursing homes came under the apartment zoning category. Officials sometimes rezoned land to apartments with the idea a nursing home, not an apartment, would be built.

CHANGE NEEDED

Now apartment builders must seek rezoning if they buy land zoned for a nursing home.

One result is that the commission is recommending that four parcels where nursing homes or similar facilities are planned be switched to the new zoning.

The parcels: the old children's hospital at Tuck Road and I-96; the vacant southwest corner of 13 Mile and Halstead, planned for a home for the elderly; and the Baptist Manor nursery school on 13 Mile, planned for a convalescent home.

FOURTH TABLED

The fourth site, the planned location of the Kendalview nursing home, has been tabled for further study. A portion of the land has been sold and multiples are now being erected there.

Hearing Tonight on Rezoning in West Bloomfield

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Up for a public hearing tonight is the rezoning for apartments of 157 acres on the northwest corner of 14 Mile and Halstead.

Planning luxury apartments for the parcel are developers Coleman and Moss Inc. of Bloomfield Township. Requesting the rezoning is the Green Orchard Holding Co., Detroit.

A tentative plan suggests an average six to seven apartment units per acre and a recreational area, reported Commission Secretary Mrs. William Evans.

TWO OTHER REQUESTS

Two other rezoning requests to come before the commission are for four acres on the northeast corner of 14 Mile and Middle Belt. Gordon Williamson of his own real estate firm is petitioning a change from single-family residential to multiple. The parcel is owned by Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Bigelow.

Rezoning from single-family residential to business is being asked for a parcel near the northeast corner of Orchard Lake and Maple roads. The Furniture Club of Detroit Inc. owns the land.

Site plan approval is being asked for a golf-driving instruction club and miniature putting course for the northwest corner of 14 Mile and Orchard Lake roads. The land, owned by Charles Bauervic, is set aside in the future for the extension of Northwestern Highway.

Meetings Listed in School Drive

FARMINGTON — Four meetings on the June 10 vote on the 4-mill tax hike proposed by the school district are scheduled tonight.

School administrators and board members are the major campaigners for the levy. The campaign schedule which began April 30 has included talks before most school and community groups.

Meetings tonight at 8 are at William Grace Elementary School, 29040 Shiawassee, and at Farmington High School, 32000 Shiawassee.

At 9 tonight, promoters speak before the Woodbine Civic Association in the First Farmington Savings and Loan Building, 22725 Orchard Lake.

SUPERINTENDENT TO TALK

Tonight at 9:30, Supt. Roderick Smith talks before the Jaycees at the American Legion Hall, 31775 Grand River.

Other campaign talks are next Monday at 8 p.m. at both the O.E. Dunckel Junior High and Cloverdale Elementary.

That morning, Administrative Assistant Byron Oliver addresses the Farmington Education Association at a breakfast.

June 4, East Junior High School hosts an 8 p.m. meeting, and on June 5, the meeting is at Alameda Elementary at 8 p.m.

A final campaign talk is set at Forest Elementary School at 8 p.m. June 6.

Avon Zoning Vote Sought

AVON TOWNSHIP — A referendum is being sought on township rezoning which allows developer Sidney Weinberger to build more apartments along Walton Road.

Frank Lanesey, 210 Vreeland, president of the Springhill Homeowners Association, said he would file at noon today petitions bearing more than 2,000 names seeking a vote on the matter.

He said the petitions had been in circulation for three weeks and that other home-owner associations in the township had assisted the Springhill group in their circulation.

The rezoning allows Weinberger to build 264 apartment and town-house units on 22.7 acres behind present apartments on Walton.

A condition of the rezoning requires a row of residential homes as a buffer between present residences in Springhill and the new apartments.

Holiday Observance

AVON TOWNSHIP — Township offices will be closed Thursday and Friday this week in observance of the Memorial Day weekend, according to Clerk Thelma Spencer.

VP of Foundation to Address Grads

Bachelors' and masters' degrees will be conferred on 50 graduates of the academy, a chartered and accredited college of art, by Academy President Glen Paulsen and Ernest A. Jones, chairmon of the board of trustees.

The ceremonies will take place in the Greek Theater at Cranbrook, weather permitting. The alternate site is the lecture hall of the Art Academy galleries.

Church Sets Dinner

ORION TOWNSHIP — Howarth Methodist Church will serve a roast beef dinner at 5 p.m. tomorrow at the church on Silver Bell Road.

Clarkston OKs Apartment Site

CLARKSTON — The Village Council, by a 4-2 vote, last night approved rezoning of five lots in Surrey Lane Subdivision from residential to allow construction of apartments.

Petitioner was Gerald Savoie, who presented plans to build immediately a colonial-type structure housing eight apartments.

Once sewer and water facilities are available, he said, he would like to build two other such structures on the two acres involved.

A swampy portion of the land is to be converted to off-street parking, he added.

'RESIDENTS OPPOSE'

Objecting to the rezoning were Trustees Donald Cooper and Jack Hagen, who claimed it was against the wishes of the residents.

The added tax base was cited by those voting in favor of rezoning.

Those opposing the rezoning were told they had recourse to a zoning board of appeals hearing, and that plans for construction must get village approval before the apartments can be built.

Highland Man Again Heads Republican Unit

Other officers of the club are Robert Medsker, vice chairman; John Addis, second vice chairman; Robert A. Watson, secretary; and Chester Burton, treasurer.

Independence Forum on Roads Is Tonight

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — A meeting of residents interested in improving the condition of township roads has been called for 7:30 tonight at the Township Hall.

Ben East, chairman of countywide WHAR (Why Have Awful Roads), will address the group, according to Clerk Howard Altman.

School Millage Hike Pushed

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — A combination of steadily increasing enrollment and rising costs has made a request for additional operating millage necessary in this district, school officials told citizens last night.

About 150 residents turned out for an open meeting at Andover High School sponsored by Citizens for Bloomfield Schools (CBS), a citizen's group supporting the board of education's request for 9.5 mills for five years.

Citizens will vote on that request June 10. A proposed increase of 14 mills for five years was rejected April 1 by a 2½-to-1 margin.

Trustee Donald C. Hyde, the first speaker, told of the financial problems caused by growth in the district.

VALUATION SLIPS

While enrollment has increased by 76 per cent in the last five years, Hyde said, and the number of teachers has risen by 104 per cent, the state equalized valuation per student has slipped 17 per cent.

In addition, the simple cost of operation, without considering added pupils, teachers of classrooms, has jumped 35 per cent in five years, Hyde said.

The result, he continued, has been an increase of 170 per cent in spending, while income during the same period rose only 95 per cent.

"The future of the Bloomfield Hills school system has its head right on the block in the June 10 election," Hyde declared.

DETAILS CONSEQUENCES

Three mills of the proposed increase will go directly to eliminate $560,000 of the $1.3-million deficit which is forecast for the end of this school year.

H. Eugene Weiss, CBS chairman, then detailed the possible consequences to the district should the June vote be unfavorable.

While the board might propose another increase, to be voted on in August, the district could lose experienced teachers in the meantime, Weiss said. "They won't wait around for the district to see if it has enough money before signing contracts. They aren't going to put up with that kind of nonsense — they'll just leave," he asserted.

INCREASES NECESSARY

Increases in class size on both elementary (2 to 30) and secondary (22 to 25 or 27) will be necessary. Weiss added, and if art, music and physical education are continued, further increases will result.

The chairman also listed transportation as an area which would be "hard-hit" by a millage failure, and cited the possible loss on property values should children have to walk to school.

"The millage must be passed, and passed on June 10," Weiss concluded. "Either that, or on June 11, we'll start to crumble."

COMING UP DAISIES—An eight-man crew at New Horizons, 35100 Grand River, Farmington Township, is putting final touches on 120 daisies to hang in the pavilion for Oakland University's Meadow Brook Fair June 14-16. Shop supervisor looking on is Gilbert Fleming. New Horizons is a nonprofit organization providing vocational training for the mentally handicapped.

Walled Lake Plan for Water System Okayed by County

WALLED LAKE — Another step has been taken toward this city's projected water system.

The Oakland County Department of Public Works has been given authority by the board of supervisors to sell $1.95 million worth of bonds to finance the system. The board also approved the system's plans and the agreement between the city and the county DPW.

As agreed, the DPW builds and then leases the system to Walled Lake and also handles the financing.

The next move by the DPW is to seek approval from the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission to sell the bonds. Hopes are that construction bids will be taken at the end of the summer, with work beginning soon after.

The system, eventually to serve 24,000 customers, will be financed by consumption fees, debt service, and tap-in charges.

Barnes' Transfer a Loss to Pontiac

If one were to look around and name the men who are currently most valuable and active members of the Pontiac community, CLARENCE BARNES would be near the top of the list.

BARNES

Thus, his decision last week to resign as executive director of the Pontiac Area Urban League, came as a great loss to the many citizens who have had the pleasure of working with him.

Under his guidance the Urban League has initiated many worthwhile programs aimed at improving racial understanding.

Last fall he helped with the Operation Opportunity program at Pontiac Motor Division, which is aimed at employing people who had previously been classified as unemployable.

He was one of several Negro leaders who worked many hours with citizens and police last summer to ward off serious civil disorder here during those tense days of the Detroit riot.

Barnes, who has served in that capacity for nearly five years, will leave Pontiac in July to take a similar post in Youngstown, Ohio.

Barnes will not be easy to replace. We are sorry to see him go, but wish him much success in his new endeavor.

Maryland Takes Hard Look at Air Pollution

Today, Maryland becomes the 40th state to invoke air pollution controls (Michigan enacted such regulation in 1965). Most of these states have enacted such pollution laws and rules within the past two years, reflecting the rising tempo of public concern. However, the stringency of state controls varies widely, and presumably will remain so until some degree of uniformity can be achieved under the Federal Air Quality Act of 1967.

An official at the National Center for Air Pollution Control, the Federal agency administering the new law, predicts that this goal is at least two years away. The law does not authorize the Federal government to set national uniform emission standards for specific pollutants. President JOHNSON had requested this authority, but it failed of Congressional approval.

Instead, the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare was told to designate "air quality control regions" throughout the Nation and set guidelines for air purity in the regions.

But he can enforce the guidelines only if state-appointed regional commissioners are proved not to be doing so. The HEW Secretary is empowered, in time of "imminent and substantial" danger to public health, to seek court injunctions to halt further pollution.

Maryland's new pollution controls, among the most stringent in the Nation, regulate open fires and emissions of smoke or fly ash from smokestacks. The state can impose fines up to $1,000 for each day of violation.

It is the Federal government's aim to mesh existing state laws, such as Maryland's, in the forthcoming national controls envisioned by the Air Quality Act.

U.S. Petroleum Production in Economic Bind

The cutoff of oil supplies from the Middle East as a consequence of the Arab-Israeli war last summer was a warning of the danger that could face the United States should it become too dependent on foreign sources of petroleum.

This view was expressed by the president of the American Petroleum Institute, who also noted that domestic exploratory drilling had dropped sharply in recent years, despite government estimates that domestic petroleum needs in the next 12 years will almost equal total consumption over the last century.

His statement came on the heels of the institute's annual report which shows that U.S. proved reserves of crude oil dropped to 31.3 billion barrels at the beginning of 1968. This was a decline of 75 million barrels from a year ago and the fourth such annual drop in the last eight years.

A big factor has been the cost-price squeeze that has caught domestic producers. While expenses have been rising sharply, the average price realized by producers for their oil dropped from $3.09 a barrel in 1957 to $2.91 in 1967.

"The challenge," says the institute spokesman, "is finding this oil in the face of very stiff odds. Of every 100 wells drilled in search of new petroleum fields, only two of three make commercially profitable discoveries."

Travel Tax Won't Cramp the Rich

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Foreign News Analyst

NEW YORK — The "American abroad" celebrated by Mark Twain, Henry James and Ernest Hemingway may soon be a vanishing species.

The Johnson administration is currently studying a tax on the spending of Americans overseas as one method of slowing the nation's loss of dollars through tourism.

This one ostensibly will be only a temporary emergency measure. In some distant future the ordinary citizen of the United States could regain his cherished right to travel and traditional freedom of movement.

But, as the French say, "nothing is as permanent as the temporary." In government bureaucracy restrictive measures usually become permanent. Indeed, was a tax ever rescinded? Americans are still paying taxes imposed as temporary measures during World War II.

IT WILL HURT

There is hardly any doubt that a tax on travel to Europe, if it is ever imposed, will hurt the less affluent, especially teachers and students ever eager to acquire a bit more culture.

It will mean little to the well-heeled heavy spenders of the international jet set who will continue to shuttle to the plush cafes and discotheques of Europe and New York.

A tax that only the affluent can pay is a particularly undemocratic way of curbing the American urge to travel abroad. A wiser method to stop the drain on the dollar, more in the spirit of American democracy, was suggested by Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont.

Why not, he asked, bring home the 220,000 American soldiers who are still in Europe? Under the protection of the American "nuclear umbrella," the West European nations are now strong enough to defend themselves in a limited war with Russia.

REDS TOO BUSY

The fact is, of course, that the Russians are too busy with their Red Chinese enemy and their own economic troubles to embark on military adventures in Europe. Moscow's military strategists never relished the idea of a possible conflict on two fronts — in the Far East and West.

NATO still serves as a guarantee against a revival of Russian aggression, but it no longer needs the presence of American divisions in Europe.

Another practical suggestion was made by Prof. Robert Strausz-Hupe, director of the Foreign Policy Institute of the University of Pennsylvania. In his view, a drastic reduction in the swollen staffs of U.S. agencies operating abroad would be an effective measure to cure the ills of the American balance of payments.

The imposition of a tourist tax is also a two-edged sword since governments threatened with the loss of American tourists are bound to retaliate.

FLOW-STOPPER

It will certainly stop the flow of young Europeans who have been coming in ever greater numbers to the United States to see with their own eyes what America is really like.

'—And Furthermore, We Demand Full Academic Credit For The Time We Spent Striking!'

David Lawrence Says:

Draft-Card Ruling a Warning

WASHINGTON—Many students in the colleges and other persons who engage in riots and disturbances have mistakenly been led to believe that "demonstrations" of almost any kind are lawful under the right of "free speech."

LAWRENCE

The Supreme Court of the United States, however, by a 7-to-1 decision, has just ruled that the law which forbids the mutilation or destruction of draft cards is constitutional and must be obeyed.

Official reports show that more than 600 persons in 46 states have illegally disposed of draft cards.

The high court proclaims that Congress has the right to pass laws protecting the Selective Service System, because the Constitution says Congress is empowered to make all laws necessary "to raise and support armies."

The Supreme Court declares also it cannot accept the view that "an apparently limitless variety of conduct can be labeled 'speech' whenever the person engaging in it intends thereby to express an idea." The court comments further:

"A law prohibiting destruction of Selective Service certificates no more abridges free speech on its face than a motor vehicle law prohibiting the destruction of drivers' licenses, or a tax law prohibiting the destruction of books and records."

SERVES AS WARNING

The latest decision, moreover, may serve as a warning to those who have been trying to interfere with recruiting by the armed services on the campuses of many colleges.

No case of this kind has yet reached the high court, but yesterday's pronouncement makes it clear the constitutional power of Congress to maintain armies is "broad and sweeping."

This week's decision, which affirmed a prison sentence for the young man who burned his draft card, had only one dissent—the opinion of Justice William O. Douglas.

He said that the court should rule on the constitutionality of a peacetime draft, since the Congress has not "declared war" in Vietnam. He expressed doubt whether "conscription is permissible in the absence of a declaration of war."

CRIMINAL OFFENSE

The high court's concept that interference with draft regulations is a criminal offense and that the destruction of draft cards is an injury to the Sellective Service System has for many years been supported by legal officers of the government.

But the demonstrations which have advertised the belief that, under "freedom of speech," it is permissible to burn draft cards have wrongly encouraged many students throughout the country to defy the law.

Hence the widest dissemination needs to be given to the latest decision of the Supreme Court so that the public will no longer be misinformed.

Bob Considine Says:

It's Graduation Time --if Students Willing

NEW YORK—Now there begins the season of high-blown hyperbole, the period when pundits in caps and gowns stand on their hind legs and blow ponderous speeches on the graduating classes. It is commencement time — students permitting, of course.

CONSIDINE

Columbia University, one of the finest in the history of education, mulled for a long time over whether it would be advisable to stage a public graduation come June 4.

It was felt in some learned quarters than anything as sweetly traditional as a graduation ceremony might ignite another riot.

But Columbia will bravely carry on with what it has been doing each June since 1754 when a group of civic-minded citizens, desiring to establish a college in the province of New York, obtained a royal charter that created Body Corporate to erect and maintain a College to be known as Kings College for the instruction and education of youth in the learned languages and liberal arts and sciences."

LARGE POLICE FORCE

A large police force will guard the tender graduates throughout the speeches and the diploma-giving.

Hairy hippies, neighborhood toughs, and freaked-out undergrads will be dealt with firmly, if they attempt to break up the proceedings. That is, of course, if the trustees give consent.

Columbia is at present the prime example of how unprepared the academic community is to deal with the new wave of contempt and villainy that has hit the campuses.

There could be trouble elsewhere than on Morningside Heights. Congregations such as attend graduations invite the reckless to demonstrate.

McCarthy: California Doldrums

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA)—Sen. Eugene McCarthy, who likes irony, may not have thought of the irony reflected by his presence the other evening on the same Cow Palace platform where the Republicans nominated Barry Goldwater for president four years ago.

BIOSSAT

The twist is that McCarthy, the dovish liberal who stresses a kind of "new politics" that is really antipolitics, has had a strong appeal this year to some of the same American voters who saw something clean and antipolitical in Goldwater.

A further irony is that the Minnesotan used the Cow Palace forum to assault Vice President Humphrey by name as the champion of outworn administration policies, and yet his managers here count heavily on his inheriting Humphrey's evident strength in the vital June 4 California primary against Sen. Robert Kennedy.

McCarthy's people privately concede that this is their hope, and indeed there is no other way to account for their optimism over his prospects, in the face of polls and other evidence that he has slipped markedly in recent weeks.

Several experienced Democratic appraisers in California told this reporter there is no sign McCarthy is adding anything of his own to the base of strength he had weeks ago. Without a big increment from Humphrey supporters, they see his potential as sharply limited. Says one veteran leader:

"Here in San Francisco, I see relatively little for McCarthy in the Mission District, the great area south of Market Street where labor and some of the mininorities reside."

McCarthy does appear to have surprising support in California's great Central Valley, where anti-Kennedy feeling comes easily to conservative Democrats with a certain bent toward George Wallace and a sense of outrage over Kennedy's espousal of rebellious Mexican-American farm militants.

Not unexpected by now, of course, is the usual evidence that McCarthy is pulling well in this city's affluent suburbs in Marin County and in the Jewish - intellectual - university complex around UCLA in the Los Angeles area.

Yet Kennedy drew an astonishingly warm response when he strode into a packed West Los Angeles Jewish temple where his listeners had been kept waiting two hours while he mined the vote-gold on the crowded streets in the Mexican-American areas of Pico Rivera and East Los Angeles.

It is plain that, for all his pulling power with the better-educated whites, McCarthy continues to handicap himself by somehow conveying the notion he is not a serious candidate. Comments a key Democrat here:

"If you told McCarthy and his people they were going to start running the country tomorrow, I think they'd all disappear."

A number of party professionals believe the McCarthy forces are misreading their prospects because they are so heartened to have, for once, a ready-made campaign vehicle in the shape of the arch-liberal California Democratic Council with its 10,000 or more followers.

But some hard-nosed types minimize the present usefulness of this modest army. One Democrat dismissed CDC followers as persons who "get their jollies" from "taking positions that will make the world not work."

The more realistic McCarthy reading seems to be in the hope—and it is only a hope—that the mystery of where Humphrey's support lies will be solved in his favor on June 4.

Voice of the People:

'We Have Right to Object to Our Nation's Policies'

A letter suggests that those who refuse to stand up for the U.S.A. be deported. This is noble sentiment, but not very original. Substitute "executed" for "deported" and one may then substitute for "U.S.A." the name of every totalitarian state which ever existed. This is truly fine company with which the writer would align us.

War is the most potent way in which national policy is expressed. During wartime it is all the more important that citizens have the right to object if they feel the policy being pursued is wrong. To remove the right of protest is to strip the citizen of his only protection against a national leadership which may use rather than serve him.

Patriotism means love of country. A country means people, traditions, history and national policy. Can we love a country whose history is blotted with aggression or whose national policies are immoral? I hope not, and I do not propose to readily give up, for a misguided plea of "patriotism," the only voice I have to control policy makers when they appear to be embarking on enterprises which would destroy those aspects of my country which I love.

'Book Gives Shocking Detail on Vietnam'

The book "Our Own Worst Enemy," tells about the sabotage and corruption concerning our efforts in Vietnam. Why would a country such as ours continue to operate under such conditions if our chiefs of staff hope to see America win this struggle? It's a shame to waste the money and lives of our Nation on such ghastly efforts.

I was shocked to read of such incompetence on the part of our government—a government founded and established on life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. It would appear we need government officials who aren't afraid to be forthright in honesty and conviction rather than men who would be traitors to their own country and its people. Nothing can be more discouraging than to have this sort of leadership.

Question and Answer

You reported 3,666 complaints received by the Civil Rights Commission since its founding in 1964. Their review reduced this to 726 cases in which there was "probable cause." Of these accusations, how many convictions have been sustained following regular judicial review in open court?

D. A. BRADBURY
BLOOMFIELD HILLS

REPLY

After a complaint is closed as adjusted, both parties may appeal to a hearing referee, who is not a member of the CRC staff. He submits his report and recommendations. If the Commission reaffirms the original decision, it may be appealed to Circuit Court. To date, none has been appealed for review in court.

Pakistani President's Backers Uneasy

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — President Mohammad Ayub Khan is back in the saddle, but his recent brush with death and the fact he is 61 have thrust foreboding uncertainties on Pakistan's political scene.

The Sandhurst-trained field marshal has ruled Pakistan with a firm hand since his military take-over in October 1958, but he has groomed no successor to fill the power vacuum his departure would create.

Ayub's 10-year reign has worked wonders in this country, a geopolitical freak with two wings 1,000 miles apart and archfoe India between. Industry has flourished, agriculture has been pulled into the 20th century to the point where food self-sufficiency is within sight, per capita income has been increased, and there has been political stability.

In February and March Ayub almost died of a blood clot. The Associated Press has learned on good authority that Ayub was unconscious 36 hours at one point. A team of British specialists flew to Rawalpindi, and President Johnson had a heart specialist on standby.

NO ONE SUSPECTED

Ayub apparently suffered the attack Jan. 28, although no one suspected anything until Feb. 1 when he failed to make his monthly broadcast to the nation. On Feb. 3, the government announced Ayub was ill.

For nearly two months after the attack Ayub was under intensive care on the presidential estate near the golf course where he has often relaxed from the cares of office.

Ayub's personal physician refused to let anyone not closely acquainted with Ayub see the ailing president, even when he finally began to improve in late March. Those who were admitted to see Ayub were told to remain silent, to refrain from bringing up any problems, and to let Ayub do the talking.

Meanwhile, official announcements were intended to calm the uneasy public. Medical bulletins said Ayub was making rapid recovery, meeting with his family and advisers, and finally taking up the chores of office.

Now, Ayub is settling back into his old routine, but apparently is accepting his doctor's advice and shuffling secondary work off to assistants.

Ahead are the campaigns for the general elections in 1969 and the presidential election in 1970.

Ayub's backers fear his health will not permit the type of campaign required to win an election. They fear also the instability which could result from an opposition victory.

Ayub stands at the moment as the man who, more than anyone else, brought Pakistan out of economic and political chaos. Some of his friends suggest that history might not forgive him if his failure to provide continuity resulted in a shattering return to chaos.

Navy Sub Rescue Gear Vintage '39—Admiral

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's available rescue equipment would have difficulty saving crewmen from the submarine Scorpion if the missing vessel were located deeper than 300 feet below the ocean's surface, a top Navy expert said today.

Capt. William M. Nicholson, manager of the Navy's Deep Submergence Systems Project, said "We are working essentially with equipment used in 1939" in saving 33 men from the sunken submarine Squalus.

The Squalus went down in 240 feet of water off New Hampshire.

"There have been some improvements but the equipment is basically the same," Nicholson said in an interview.

RESCUE BELL

The chief item in this equipment is a rescue bell which is lowered from a surface vessel and secured to a submarine hatch. Sub crewmen are lifted to the surface in the pressurized chamber.

The Navy has been working on an advanced rescue system, part of a broad underwater program costing an estimated $600 million.

But the first of a new breed of small rescue submarines capable of reaching depths of 3,500 feet will not be ready for use until 1970, Nicholson said.

"It would not have been finished today even under the best conditions," the Navy engineer said. "It's too big a job."

APPRAISALS CONFLICT

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of Naval Operations, told a news conference Monday night that the rescue bell could save trapped submarine crewmen from depths of "several hundred feet," depending on the condition of the submarine. An aide said the rescue bell could operate down to 650 feet.

But later Nicholson indicated that operations with the bell at such a depth were not practical. The key, he said, is the ability of a rescue vessel on the surface to moor and hold its position over a submarine.

For this reason, said Nicholson, it is "difficult to use effectively" this equipment at deeper than 300 feet.

He said it is extremely hard to moor a vessel over greater depths than that, and added that bad weather — with accompanying heavy seas — would make it even tougher because of pitch and roll.

20-FOOT WAVES

Waves as high as 20 feet were reported in the Scorpion search area.

The Navy hopes that the Scorpion, if it is in trouble, is on the continental shelf which stretches some 55 miles out from Norfolk, Va., and has a maximum depth of about 650 feet.

Moorer acknowledged the sub must be considered lost if it went down beyond the continental shelf. The water along the Scorpion's 2,100-mile course from the Azores, where it was last contacted, descends to as much as 18,000 feet.

A sub in trouble normally would send to the surface a line attached to a buoy, with a telephone inside the buoy. A rescue vessel finding the buoy could then speak to the trapped crewmen and also use the line as guide for lowering the rescue bell.

The Scorpion was also equipped with what is called "buoy and ascent" gear. This involves the donning of inflated vests which carry men to the surface.

A sailor would get into a submarine chamber below the hatch. The hatch would then be pressurized and the sailor would float to the surface, exhaling gradually to let out high pressure air and avoid the fatal air embolism.

Nicholson said all submarine crewmen were trained with this device to escape from depths of 80 feet. But he said one man, in a test, made it to the surface from 320 feet below.

Brief Profile of the Overdue N-Sub Scorpion

Displacement—3,075 tons.
Length—252 feet.
Crew—99 officers and men.
Cost—40 million.
Speed—20 knots surfaced, 35 submerged.
Operation capacity — 60,000 miles without refueling.
Torpedo tubes — six in the bow, 24 torpedoes carried.

N-Ship Target of Protest

The Navy said the aircraft carrier Enterprise will stay in Hong Kong until Thursday, as scheduled, and no shore leave will be canceled.

"A reply to the Peking protest is a matter for her majesty's government," in London, said a spokesman for the Hong Kong government.

ANTI-U.S. POSTERS

Hong Kong Communists plastered a number of buildings in Hong Kong with anti-American posters Monday and handed out leaflets to American troops on rest leaves, calling on them to surrender in iVetnam.

The posters and leaflets condemned the Americans and the British for using Hong Kong as a "base for the U.S. war of aggression in Vietnam."

Peking voiced similar charges in a protest note to the British.

"The allegations in this note are entirely without foundation," a British government spokesman in Hong Kong said. "Troops engaged in the Vietnam war use Hong Kong as a center for rest and recreation and not as a base."

Grand Rapids Will Keep Using Mace

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)— Police Supt. William A. Johnson Monday rejected a Michigan Civil Rights Commission plea to end the use of the chemical spray Mace in subduing persons resisting arrest. He said Grand Rapids police officers would continue to use the chemical.

Several cities recently have dropped its use because of possible toxic effects. Grand Rapids police were among the first to be equipped with aerosol cans of the spray. Johnson said he felt the use of Mace is more humane than nightsticks.

N. Viet Shell Injures 2 on U. S. Destroyer

The shell landed near the Harwood's after five-inch gun and wounded two of the destroyer's crewmen, the spokesman said. He reported only minor damage to the ship.

The spokesman said about 30 shells were fired at the Harwood as she was bombarding artillery positions at Cap Lay, in the southern part of North Vietnam about 60 miles north of the demilitarized zone.

Mrs. John Eikenberg, Preston Street (left), new chairman of the teen committee at Pontiac YWCA, and Mrs. Duane Lemaux, Shoreview Drive, examine some of the books to be used in the summer remedial reading program for elementary school children. The Pontiac branch of American Association of University Women donated books from their recent book sale which will be used, along with much new material. Mrs. Lemaux is already signed up as a tutor. Many more men, women and high school seniors are needed.

YW to Start Free Tutoring Program

If anyone has a stereotyped idea of what the Young Women's Christian Association does, it's in for some revisions. Always in the foreground when social revolutions are taking place, this century-old organization is seeking new directions nationally.

The Pontiac group is no less active than its parent.

During the past school year, teenagers, the Y-Teens group, did a community research job under the direction of Mrs. Robert Watson.

Their object was to discover what the YW could do locally to fill the needs of young children.

Two programs emerged as most needful. One is a remedial reading program for elementary children; the other is a nursery school program for retarded youngsters.

Both programs will be carried out during the summer. The remedial reading program now needs volunteers to sign up before training starts June 10.

Mrs. John Brice, a remedial reading teacher at Wilson School, is chairman of volunteer training; she is a board member of the local YW. Her assistants are Mrs. Claude Francken and Norma Pond.

COMMENDED

Thor Petersen, coordinator of elementary-secondary community action programs in the Pontiac school system, has been working with YW personnel on the reading program. Although not speaking for the Board of Education, he commends the program in these words:

"It is a needful tutoring program designed specifically to help children having difficulty in reading. It will not duplicate the public school program."

Funds for materials, training kits, printing, snacks and incidentals are being furnished by the Village Woman's Club.

Mrs. Virginia Jackson, executive director of the Pontiac YWCA, spoke to the group in February, telling them of the local need. Mrs. Robert Lyons, wife of a Pontiac physician, is chairman of the community service committee at VWC.

There will be two two-hour sessions, Monday through Thursday, for eight weeks, beginning July 1. It is completely free to all the children involved.

But many more volunteers are needed. The YW needs one volunteer for every three children. There are 300 names on the list.

Any adult may volunteer and high school seniors are also welcome. You need not be a teacher nor have any special previous training. You will be trained in June during three sessions before the program starts.

Volunteers may sign up for any length of time. Tutoring hours are 10 a.m. to noon and noon to 2 p.m.

Volunteer drivers for children without transportation are also sought.

Any individual interested in participating in the program may obtain further information from the YWCA, 269 West Huron.

Another Chennault Joins the Aviation World

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anna Chennault, widow of the famed World War II air commander, Lt. Gen. Claire Lee Chennault, has brightened the aviation world by becoming an airline vice president.

A pretty dynamo with her fingers in more pies than any ordinary man could handle, she flits around the world making speeches, interviewing important people and luring customers for the Flying Tiger Line. Since Jan. 4 she has been vice president for international affairs.

When she goes to the Orient she usually heads first for what she calls her second home, Taiwan.

OFF AGAIN

Then she's off for Tokyo, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Bangkok, Jakarta. In each country, national leaders are her old friends.

Flying Tiger Line derived its name from the legendary fighter group of American volunteers that Chennault organized and led long before she married him.

Chennault and his youthful, ragtag Yankee Flying Tigers fought the Japanese, often with slim resources, and slowed their advance through China and Burma until the United States entered World War II and installed regular air and ground units in the China-Burma-India theater.

Then Chennault took command of the U.S. 14th Air Force in the theater, and many of his Tigers signed on with him.

Anna was a war correspondent with the Central News Agency in 1944 when she was not yet 20. A year later she married Chennault, 33 years her senior. "We had 10 wonderful years together," says Anna. Chennault died in 1958.

For the past 10 years she has been lecturing—to business organizations, military units, women's clubs and college groups.

"I find that women, in general, ask more intelligent questions now than they used to a few years ago," she says.

"Not so long ago, many of them had never even heard of Saigon. Now they seem to be better informed, and more aware of what is going on outside the United States."

Mrs. Chennault says that regardless of all the troubles in that area, the Asian continent is moving forward.

"We ourselves are looking at Asia with a new attitude, a new spirit and hopefully a better understanding," she says.

Mrs. Chennault lives in a penthouse near the State Department.

Records indicate she may be only the second woman to be a top executive of a major airline. Carlene Roberts was a vice president of American Airlines in the 1950s.

Mrs. Chennault has found time to write 17 books, 12 of them in Chinese. Five were best sellers in Taiwan.

"Now I want to take a couple of months off this summer to finish my first novel," she says.

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: How does one serve oneself when a delicate dish is on the table at a luncheon or buffet? I can just picture it falling apart after the first serving is removed. (The letter was accompanied by a mouth-watering picture of a chicken salad surrounded by a mold of lemon jello.)

At the home of a relative, I was the first to serve myself from something slightly similar and I asked how I could get a serving without ruining the whole thing. My sister-in-law said she knew of no way—that it just had to be done. Have you a suggestion?

Surely, all this should not be ruined after just one serving is removed! I have yet to see a mold with a center 'bowl' to hold the center filling. — Mrs. Gray

Dear Mrs. Gray: When a mold around a filling is edible, it's intended to be eaten. The first diner must destroy the attractive arrangement before it is broken up.

Even a bowl for the filling would not solve the problem, since the outer ring would still be ruined by the first cutting.

A fall wedding is planned by Aspasia Souyias and William Rendziperis. The bride elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Souyias of Athens, Greece.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rendziperis of Auburn Avenue. He is a graduate of Wayne State University College of Pharmacy.

Anderson to Speak

Rep. Loren Anderson (R) Dist. 61 will speak at tonight's meeting of the Waterford Organization for Retarded Children, Inc. (WORC.)

This is the dinner meeting of the group and will take place at 7 p.m. in Sveden House. An installation will follow. Any interested person may attend.

Business Attire Fit for a Queen

By RONALD THOMSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — The Duke of Norfolk threw a welcome bombshell into British society today, announcing that for the first time gentlemen in business suits can hobnob with Queen Elizabeth II at the Royal Ascot races.

"Dress for gentlemen in the Royal Ascot Enclosure will be morning dress, uniform or lounge business suits," said a notice sent by the duke, the queen's representative at Ascot, to those invited to the royal section of the race course.

Since 1952, when postwar clothes rationing ended, only men in formal morning clothes and gray toppers or in military uniform had been admitted to the Royal Enclosure, one of Britain's most socially desirable locations.

UPDATED

"It was felt that the time had come to bring procedure into line with the Buckingham Palace garden parties," said an Ascot official.

In recent years, the palace parties have taken on an easy, relaxed atmosphere, with lounge suits welcome. But the Ascot man cautioned:

"By a lounge suit we mean a complete suit, not just trousers and casual jacket. Gentlemen, of course, should have hats."

Montagu Moss of Moss Bros., the rental firm that traditionally has outfitted many of the gentlemen in the Royal Enclosure, termed the duke's lowering of the bar "shocking."

"I shouldn't think for a moment that people will take any notice," he added.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 56 years old, am married, but have been separated from my husband for 12 years now.

ABBY

I have had a bachelor boyfriend for six years. He's about 50, is wonderful company, but he's not the marrying type.

He does seasonal work in this area from May until November, then he takes off for the west, and I don't see him again until the next May.

He lives 30 miles from here, and drives in every night to read the newspaper and watch TV with me. He doesn't dance or bowl, or like to go anyplace, but he does have a nice car and plenty of money.

I am not getting any younger, Abby. I wrote to you about this problem three years ago, but I don't recall ever seeing your answer in the newspaper. I need advice. Will you please predict what kind of future you foresee for me?

RESTLESS IN N.Y.

DEAR RESTLESS: You have a part-time "boy friend" (if you can call a man who parks at your place to read the newspaper and watch TV a "boy friend"). And what good is his nice car and money if you don't go any place?

You say he isn't the marrying type. If he were, you already have one husband which is all the law allows. 'Prediction:' "Continued mild, followed by cool winds from the west. No change."

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him Pete) and I are in our mid-twenties, have been married three years, and have a two-year-old son.

Pete has always had a hot temper. Well last week we had an argument which got a little out of hand, and Pete hit me and knocked me down. The baby was in the same room and saw everything.

My problem is now the baby won't have anything to do with his father. When Pete comes near him, the baby turns his head away and cries. If Pete tries to touch him, he screams and draws away.

This hurts Pete something terrible. I keep telling him that the baby will forget, and get over it in time, but will he?

PETE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: The baby may, in time, become more "forgiving" — but don't count on him to forget. In the meantime, unless you enjoy being knocked down, I advise you to persuade Pete to get some professional help in learning how to control his temper.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

The other day I received some refreshing thoughts from the young Metropolitan Opera Mezzo, Rosalind Elias. This summer hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers will hear and see her first-hand when she sings "Carmen" in four performances of that opera which the Metropolitan will present, free, in concert form, in New York City parks.

She is young and pretty and her ourgoing, warm attitude was reflected in almost the first thing she said, "Just think of all the people I will be singing for! It's a whole new kind of audience, not just the regular opera lovers."

"There will be people who can't get seats for the Met during the season, or couldn't afford it if they could, youngsters who may have their hearts opened to opera this way, older people living on retirement budgets, even handicapped people who would find the few steps up into the opera house difficult, and also people who will come partly because sitting on the grass in the cool of a summer evening is appealing in itself. And I will be singing for all of them!"

BICYCLE

Rosalind was dressed in slacks and sweater and had just come from bicycle riding with a teen-age friend. She mentioned that she had to get dressed in an hour for a dinner party given by another friend, a man in his 60s whose contributions to the science are world famous. She was taking along a young man from her home town who is working toward his doctorate in the field of electronics.

I do not know what this means to you, but to me it meant that Rosalind Elias is completely lacking in age-consciousness when it comes to friendship; a teenage friend, an older scientist, and a young contemporary, all in one day. I think she has to have a reason for NOT being interested in others rather than a reason FOR being interested in them.

When her attention was called to the great difference in the ages of her friends she looked puzzled and said, "Well, I have lots of friends, both older and younger than I, more and less successful than I, too, and in other fields than music. Friendship is something that seems to happen to me."

"HAPPEN"

Believe me, friendship will "happen" to anyone with that attitude. A person who evokes this kind of response is almost certain to feel surrounded with good will and can function without fear of others, using her energies positively rather than energies positively rather than defensively. Such a person is likely to have wide social horizons and to keep a foot in the world of youth long after she herself has grown out of it.

One of the hazards of the increasing life-span is the chance that one may outlive many of one's contemporaries, people one has loved and invested in over the years. One way to prevent this is to have friends of all ages, to welcome with interest every new encounter that comes your way.

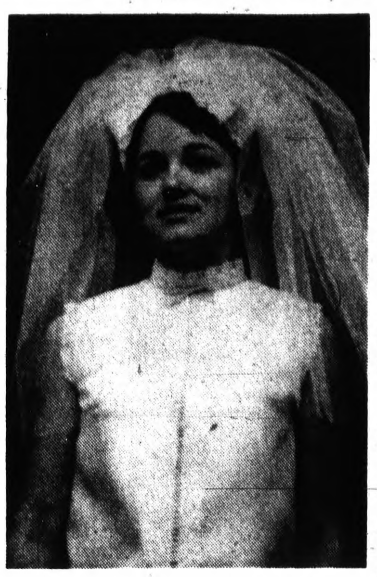
Carolyn Sue Ruggles and Pfc. Terrence James Amick, USA, were wed Saturday in Calvary Lutheran Church. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Ruggles of Reese Road, Independence Township and Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Amick of Orchard Lake.



MRS. TERRENCE J. AMICK

Three Couples on Honeymoon

Calvary Lutheran Church was the setting Saturday for vows exchanged by Carolyn Sue Ruggles and Pfc. Terrence James Amick, USA.

Other members of the wedding party were Lorraine Amick, Mrs. Phillip Amick, Ray Scott and James Dark. The bride's niece, Danise Roehler, was flower girl.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Ruggles of Reese Road, Independence Township and son of the Francis J. Amicks of Orchard Lake were feted with a reception in the church fellowship hall.

The couple is returning to East Lansing where Mrs. Amick will be among the June graduating class at Michigan State University. They will then travel to Fort Benning, Ga., where the bridegroom is enrolled in officer candidate school.

DAMER-BASS

A cascade of lily of the valley and Stephanotis comprised the bridal bouquet held by Janet Marie Bass when she spoke vows with Dr. Aloisius Anthony Damer Monday in St. Helenas Catholic Church, Minneapolis, Minn.

For the noon ceremony, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bass of Oxford wore a full Venetian lace sheath over taffeta with a matching lace bow and short bouffant veil.

MRS. ALOISIUS DAMER

MRS. REMLEY

Standihg with the bride as maid of honor was Gale Surman of Minneapolis, Karen Sulewski, also of Minneapolis, attended as bridesmaid.

Joseph Damer was best man for her brother. Their parents are the William Damers of Belgrade, Minn. Henry Herickhoff was usher.

REMLEY-RINGBLOM

Carrying a cascade of white roses and daisies, Barbara Jean Ringblom became the bride of Sgt. Michael Grover Remley, USAF, Saturday in Memorial Baptist Church.

The daughter of the Harry E. Ringbloms of West Hopkins Street was attired in an A-line sheath fashioned from crepe and lace.

Her short bouffant veil of illusion was secured with a matching lace headpiece.

William Remely was best man for his brother. Their parents are the Grover Remleys of Oliver Street. Also assisting the bridegroom were Joseph Remley and Roger Ringblom.

GO WEST

Prior to their departure for a honeymoon trip to Yellowstone National Park, the newlyweds were feted with a reception in the church parlors.

They will reside in Mountain Home, Idaho where the bridegroom is stationed.

Tired of Working?

Wait 30 Years, or So

By the year 2000, both the housewives' and the breadwinners' work will be reduced significantly.

There will be no dirt or smog; people will live 200 and 300 miles from the cities and commute daily; and the head of the house will devote only four or five hours a day to his job.

These predictions are made by Sidney Epstein, president, A. Epstein and Sons, Inc., Chicago-based international firm of engineers and architects. They are logical extensions of trends already emerging.

For example, new materials and techniques will eliminate dirt automatically, he explains. Construction materials will receive negative static charges to repel dirt while positive-charged air ducts throughout buildings will pick up and deliver dust directly to atomic disposal units.

Building exteriors of plastic, aluminum, stainless steel or glass will be smooth, non-oxidizing, and non-dust collecting.

HIGH SPEED TRAVEL

High speed ground transportation will be a reality by the 21st Century, making it easy and commonplace for people to live in "suburbs" as far from cities as 200 or 300 miles. They will commute to the cities, however, because industry will have returned there to tap the more abundant labor force.

And, by 2000 A.D., fewer people will be performing routine production duties in factories. Instead, automation will relieve the majority of personnel for administration, engineering and product design.

Automation also will bring about a shortened work day of four or five hours. This will mean that employes will no longer lunch during the work day, but on their personal time.

Another effect of advancing technology in this field will be the changing concept of lighting and heating.

WALL FUNCTIONS

Epstein points out that by 2000, the walls of buildings will take over these functions, becoming more than enclosures to contain conditioned climates. The walls will be made of new plastic-like materials that will bring in sunlight during the day and radiate artificial light in the evening. The walls also will control temperature with built-in radiation devices.

Treat as Adults Advises Expert

ST. CLAIR SHORES, Mich. (AP) — Treat teens as adults, a noted sociologist and acknowledged expert on teen-age development urged an audience of parents in a speech here.

David Wineman, Wayne State University professor, pointed out that when parents are speaking to a 16-year-old son or daughter they are dealing with a person who is "very near the peak of his adult intelligence, but too often is treated as though he is not."

Alumnae Group Concludes Year

They include Mrs. John Stanley, presidnet; Mrs. Fred Goldberg, first vice president; Mrs. Richard Johnson, second vice president; Mrs. Michael Palmer and Mrs. T. E. Treadwell, secretaries; Mrs. A J. Mestrovic, treasurer.

The group's annual picnic is set for June 9 at 4 p.m. at the Farmington home of Mrs. Alan Bikson. Mrs. John Stanley of Rambling Way and Mrs. Tom Roberts of Detroit are taking reservations.

All About 'Junk Mail'

DEAR READERS — The following is part of a letter from the president of a Better Business Bureau concerning unordered merchandise:

"With regard to unordered merchandise, such as neckties, greeting cards, pens and the like, your readers might be interested to know that when they receive such items they are not obligated to acknowledge receipt, return the merchandise or pay for it unless it is used by them.

The Post Office, we understand, has ruled that use indicates acceptance and it would behoove the recipient to pay for what he uses.

"In the event there would be any question regarding the sender of the merchandise, be it charity or business firm, our office is in a position to provide factual reliability information on organizations and firms doing business throughout the United States, Canada and several foreign countries.

Persons desiring information about such organizations which have sent them unordered merchandise may call our office for helpful data on the sender of the item." — MR. G. Y.

THANKS

Thank you so much for this authoritative information. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I like so-called junk mail. It only takes a few seconds to open it and discard what you do not want to read. I like to read the advertisements from discount houses, etc., so when I want to buy I am saved running from store to store.

I also like to receive coupons, etc. My hobby is sending for refunds and I will not tell you the amount I get each year for you would not believe it. I never throw away an unopened letter as a friend almost did and found $10 she had won in a contest she had forgotten.

According to our paper, postage rates were not raised because of 2nd and 3rd class mail but to give employes a raise. When they get tired of carrying junk mail they can quit as there are others waiting for their jobs.

Old people (and I am not old yet) like to get this mail as it gives them something to read and sometimes it is interesting. — B.E.B.

Community Provides for Mentally Ill

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: At the age of four, my husband was removed from his parents by their community and placed in an orphanage. Fifteen years later he resumed contact with them. They are both foreign-born and now, in their 70s, are as helpless to manage their lives as they must have been when he was a child.

But the real problem is his younger sister. She is mentally ill and given to fits of rage that bring his mother, terrified and weeping, to our house. We don't know what to do as any suggestion we make is ignored . . .

ANSWER: So stop making suggestions.

And now, before I recommend action to your husband, let me say that he sounds like a brave and compassionate person.

However, there are limits to what human beings can do. Thus, given is own anguished removal from his parents at the age of four, he just cannot now expect himself to remove his sister from them to a hospital for psychiatric diagnosis and treatment. Too much is too much and we have to know when too much is required of us and say, "No, this I am unable to do."

COURAGE

In fact, the action I'm recommending is going to call on all his resources of courage.

For that action is to request consultation with his local Community Chest director, consultation on ways and means by which its appropriate social agencies can resolve some answer to this problem.

As I've said, it will be anything but easy to claim his well-earned right to community help. Anything but easy because that community help is associated for him with brutality, blunder and the rankest kind of stupidity.

On the other hand, he has grown up. As he is no longer that little boy of four, social services have grown up, too.

If this mentally ill sister of his must be removed from her home in order to receive psychiatric attention, it will take place with some decent respect for the feelings of the people involved. And his parents will be understood, comforted and reassured as their helplessness was once so cruelly abused.

Whether your husband can ask for this new kind of community assistance will entirely depend on his appreciation of his own superb development — the change in his own self.

BOETTGER-MALONE

FARMER-VOLLRATH

Morning Vows for Halls

Jaclyn M. Rosewall became the bride of Charles W. Hall Saturday morning in Episcopal Church of the Advent. A luncheon at Devon Gables followed the double ring ceremony.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon J. Branch of Pine Lake Drive, West Bloomfield Township and son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Hall of Sylvan Lake will make their home in Birmingham when they return from a wedding trip to the South.

Added Rain Gear

Keep an extra plastic tablecloth in your shopping cart and use it when you are caught in the rain to cover the groceries in the cart. And, in an emergency, it may come in handy folded in a triangle and used as a rain cape.

Try 'Tracing' Technique for Poor Readers

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A combination psychological and educational approach which involves having children actually trace words with their fingers is advocated by Dr. Paul Daniels, director of reading at Loyola College, which is planning a laboratory elementary school to help children with reading problems.

The school will have two aims: To rehabilitate children with reading difficulties and to train teachers who will use the remedial techniques in the public schools.

RFK, McCarthy in California

By The Associated Press

Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy returned to their California primary campaigns today as Oregon voters decided a Democratic presidential primary contest that both said would be close.

The California primary is a week from today's Oregon voting. Kennedy was in the Los Angeles area. McCarthy had scheduled stops in central and northern cities.

Both planned to be back in Oregon tonight to await voting results.

Oregon offered McCarthy's best hope yet of stopping a Kennedy sweep of their primary confrontations. But Kennedy said a McCarthy win would benefit Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who is not on the ballot.

'OPTIMISTIC'

McCarthy said he is optimistic about his chances in Oregon and he said he is not joining forces with either of his opponents.

"Kennedy says I'm a stand-in for Vice President Humphrey," McCarthy said. "That's the big lie of this campaign."

Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon was expected to defeat his absentee rivals, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and California Gov. Ronald Reagan. The question was by how much.

There was a concerted but late-starting drive for Rockefeller write-in votes. Reagan—who says he is a favorite-son candidate, not a presidential contender — is on the ballot.

FINAL OREGON POLL

The National Broadcasting Co. said its final Oregon poll gave Kennedy a slim 34-32 per cent lead over McCarthy with 11 per cent of the voters undecided.

The NBC poll gave Nixon 53 per cent of the Republican vote to 17 per cent for Rockefeller and 16 per cent for Reagan.

The Democratic winner will get 35 national convention votes, the Republican winner 18.

There were also primaries today in Florida and Kentucky.

FLORIDA SLATES

Neither had presidential preference contests, but in Florida a slate of McCarthy delegates competed against a slate pledged to Sen. George Smathers, a favorite son, and an unpledged slate.

Florida Democrats also were deciding a runoff between state Atty. Gen. Earl Faircloth and former Gov. LeRoy Collins for the party's Senate nomination.

In Kentucky, 12 Democrats and 4 Republicans are competing for respective party nominations to the Senate being vacated by retiring Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky.

90 TO 100 VOTES?

Humphrey backers, meanwhile, were predicting 90 to 100 first-ballot convention votes from Pennsylvania delegates on a basis of a poll of the delegation Monday in Harrisburg.

Kennedy and McCarthy supporters charged that Humphrey forces pressed for the poll to embarass their candidates before the Oregon and California primaries.

The poll showed 83 delegates for Humphrey, 21 for McCarthy, 20 uncommitted, one voting for former President Harry S. Truman and the rest uncounted.

Pennsylvania, with 162 delegates and 130 convention votes, has the nation's third largest Democratic delegation. Convention votes could not be accurately translated from the Monday poll because of the method by which they are distributed.

STATEMENT CRITICIZED

Rockefeller launched a five-state Western swing today and criticized Nixon's statement that the Columbia University disorder was part of "a revolutionary struggle to seize the universities of this country."

Said Rockefeller: "Such mass indictment is unjust and unrealistic . . . And this kind of oversimplification clouds rather than clarifies the true issues."

Rockefeller did not refer to Nixon by name but quoted his Republican rival's statement.

Union Backing for Hubert Eyed

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Delegates to the convention of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union consider a resolution today to give formal endorsement to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The general executive board of the 450,000-member union already has endorsed Humphrey.

Union officials worked through the night hanging "Humphrey for President" signs as they prepared Convention Hall for Humphrey's arrival.

'IN ROOSEVELT MOLD'

He added: "Humphrey is in the Roosevelt mold."

No mention was made of the other Democratic hopeful, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota.

In a speech to the delegates Monday, U.S. Secreatry of Labor W. Willard Wirtz equated student unrest on the nation's campuses to the labor movement's struggle for its share in life.

But Wirtz said that some youngsters were going too far and he warned that extremism could injure their cause.

'Will Honor Defense Commitment'

LBJ Reassures Aussie Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has assured Prime Minister John Gorton of Australia that the United States will continue to honor its defense commitment in the Pacific after the Vietnam war.

Gorton was to wind up two days of meetings with Johnson today.

"In the years ahead we hope the new Asia will be increasingly organized to shape its own destiny," Johnson told the Australian leader in an exchange of remarks at a White House dinner Monday night.

He added: "I have no doubt there will be no return to isolation, and I have no doubt America will continue to be the partner of Australia."

PARTNERSHIP TESTED

Johnson said the U.S.-Australian partnership was being tested by the commitment of men of both nations to combat in Vietnam.

"The Vietnam war is at a decisive phase," Johnson said. "The other side is forcing the pace of battle and pouring men and supplies into the conflict at an unprecedented rate . . ."

The U.S. policy, Johnson affirmed, would be to remain patient but firm in pursuit of an honorable peace. The same strategy of firmness and patience by the Allies in time will turn back the Communist tide in Vietnam, he said.

Gorton was invited to a second business meeting with Johnson today before an address to a luncheon meeting of the National Press Club.

The White House expected a communique to be issued late today following Gorton's discussions with Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Light Hitter Overshadows Mathews' Feat

Angel's Double Downs Bengals in 12th Inning

ANAHEIM (AP) — Eddie Mathews reached a momentous milestone in baseball history Monday night — and was overshadowed by a lifetime .215 hitter.

Detroit's aging first baseman moved into sixth place on the all-time home run list with two homers, but Tom Satriano hit a double in the 12th inning to give California a 7-6 victory over the American League leaders.

The Tigers' fourth loss in their last five decisions cut their American lead to one half game over idle Baltimore and one game over third pace Cleveland, which defeated Minnesota 3-1.

Satriano, who hung on through seven major league seasons through his versatility, sent Rick Reichardt home with the winning run. Clyde Wright, 4-1, got the victory.

THIRD HIT

Reichardt had opened the 12th with his third hit of the night and moved to second base on a balk by loser Daryl Patterson, 1-2.

The homers were Mathews' 511th and 512th of his career and moved him past Hall of Famer Mel Ott on the all-time list.

"I'm really not one to worry about setting records," Mathews said after the 3-hour, 33-minute marathon.

"I realized I had a chance to pass Ott," said the 36-year-old first baseman.

BOUNCED BACK

The Angels took a 3-0 lead with single runs in the first three innings. Mathews' first round-tripper brought the Tigers within one at 3-2 in the fifth but California bounced back for two runs in the bottom of the inning to make it 5-2.

Detroit got one more in the sixth. In the next frame, Mathews' solo blast and a two-run homer by Norm Cash sent the

NFL Legend Steps Down

Papa Bear Leaves Coaching

CHICAGO (AP) — A damaging slide into third base as a New York Yankee baseball hopeful 50 years ago finally sent George S. Halas limping into retirement as legendary pro football coach of the Chicago Bears.

A new Bear coaching era is expected to start today as Halas, 73, names his replacement, probably 38-year-old Jim Dooley, Papa Bear's top assistant.

Halas stunned sports writers Monday at his downtown office with the announcement that, "I am stepping aside now because I no longer can keep up with the physical demands of coaching the team on Sunday afternoons."

Rather than his age, Halas blamed an arthritic hip, stemming from an injury when he made a bouncing slide as a rookie Yankee outfielder in 1919, for his decision to quit after 39 Bear coaching seasons.

LUCKY BREAK

That spring training injury, Halas recalled, "Slid me out of baseball and into pro football, the luckiest break of my life."

"My hip condition has progressed to the point where I simply cannot move about quickly on the sidelines," said the lone survivor of the National Football League's founding fathers.

Halas, who organized the Bears as the Decatur, Ill., Staleys in 1920, retired previously several times — the latest occasion a dozen years ago when he turned over the Bear reins to a trusted aide, Paddy Driscoll, for the 1956 and 1957 seasons.

But Halas bounced back as field boss in 1958 declaring: "Sitting back in the stands, I felt pro football coaching methods were changing and I developed some new ideas which I want to try out."

This time, Halas vows he will stay in the stands.

FOLLOWED BALL

"I have always followed the ball — and the officials, too — up and down the field," Halas said Monday. "A coach has to stay on top of the action to make decisions.

"I cannot do that any longer."

Halas used a cane in recent years, favoring his ailing hip, and it became increasingly difficult for him to maneuver on the field.

Halas said he was strongly tempted to try to direct the Bears until 1969, the Bears' Golden Jubilee year.

"I would have liked to have been on the field in 1969 rounding out 50 years as a player and coach," said Halas. "However, the time has come for me to retire as head coach, a decision I made with considerable reluctance, but no regrets."

HEIR APPARENT

Dooley, who retired as a Bear pass-receiving star in 1962, assumed Allen's post as defensive chief and this year was named boss of the Bear offensive unit.

A product of Miami of Florida, Dooley was a No. 1 Bear draft choice in 1952. He quit as the Bears' fourth best all-time pass catcher.

Halas still presides as chairman of the board for the Bears whom he has owned for 49 years. His son George "Mugsie" Halas, Jr., is president and general manager.

Halas plotted with a group of pro pioneers the birth of the NFL in a Canton, Ohio, automobile salesroom, on Sept. 17, 1920.

In his wake, Halas leaves the winningest coaching record in NHL history, 321 triumphs against 142 losses and 31 ties. Six of his teams won world pro titles and nine finished first.

Red Wings Aim at Toughening Defense

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings are trying to reunite the old Toronto Maple Leafs defense combination of Bobby Baun and Carl Brewer in hopes of strengthening their Swiss cheese defense, worst in the National Hockey League last season.

Sid Abel, who retires as coach this year to devote his full duties to the general manager's office, announced a six-player deal with the Oakland Seals Monday. The Wings will name a new coach Monday.

It was the second major trade for Detroit this year. The Wings dealt forwards Norm Ullman, Paul Henderson and Floyd Smith to Toronto March 3 for Frank Mahovlich, Pete Stemkowski, Gerry Unger and the rights to Brewer, who regained his amateur status two years ago.

FUTURE DEALS

Abel said Brewer would be the key to any future deals. Brewer was player-coach of the Muskegon Mohawks last year. The team won the International Hockey League title.

"Brewer decides it," said Abel, adding if negotiations with Brewer fail, "we will be active in getting another defenseman."

Abel said he understood that "money is of no consequence" to Brewer, who would be eligible to return to NHL play in December.

Baun and Brewer were defensive standouts when they played together at Toronto. The 31-year-old Baun put in 11 seasons with the Leafs before going to Oakland in the expansion draft last year. Harris was a right winger for Oakland last season.

Baun scored 10 goals last year at Oakland, which finished last in the West Division. Harris, who spent most of his career including a brief stint with the Red Wings in 1962-63 as a defenseman, had four goals and 10 assists as a right wing.

"I think this helped his skating," said Abel. "We may put him in the fifth defense spot and he still has a chance at right wing.'

Young, Jarrett and Roberts combined for 84 points last year on a Detroit team which finished last in the East Division.

Flyers Sign Cherry

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dick Cherry, a 31-year-old defenseman, has signed a three-year contract with the Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League, the club announced.

Wolves Buy Goalie

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Wolves of the North American Soccer League have purchased goal keeper Joe Dean, 28, from the Carlisle team of the English League.

When Dean arrives June 4, coach Ray Wood will take himself off the active player list to concentrate on coaching. Wood has been one of the two goal keepers on the squad.

Disqualification of Weinberger's Car Is Changed

From Our News Wires

INDIANAPOLIS — A reversal on the disqualification of the Eagle - Ford entered by Pontiac sports car buff Sidney Wienberger in the Indianapolis 500-Mile Race highlighted Monday's frantic extra day of qualifying.

One of the eight spots left up for grabs yesterday was filled when the 164.211 miles per hour qualifying speed turned in Saturday by the Weinberger Special was allowed to stand.

The car was disqualified for being 20 pounds underweight Saturday after driver Ronnie Bucknam of La Canada, Calif., apparently had earned a spot in the 33-car field for Thursday's race with the 164-plus average speed for his four laps.

However, it was found that the scales on which the car was weighed were damaged and faulty.

Kettering in Prep Tourney

The addition of Waterford Kettering and the scheduling of the first-round competition are on the agenda tonight as the coaches and officials meet prior to the start tomorrow of the Pontiac Invitational Baseball Tournament.

Representatives of the 16 high school teams invited to the seventh annual prep invitational gather at 8 p.m. in the conference room adjacent to the Parks and Recreation Department office at City Hall.

Kettering's surging Captains—winners of four games in four days late last week — accepted an invitation to fill a spot in the popular tournament after Berkley withdrew.

While the official schedule hasn't been announced, cohost Pontiac Central will open the tournament tomorrow night probably against former two-time champion Royal Oak Kimball.

FAVORITES

The PCH Chiefs, who must wait until June 3 to learn if they will have a third of the Saginaw Valley Conference diamond title, will be one of the pretournament favorites to reach the semifinals.

Other entries that will rate watching are Waterford — the winningest team at 17-8, Southfield (13-5) — the defending champion, Clawson (15-4) and Brother Rice (11-6.)

Madison, Ferndale, Walled Lake and Rochester must be reckoned with, while cohost Pontiac Northern, Kettering, Bloomfield Hills Andover, Clarkston, Milford, Kimball and West Bloomfield are attempting to offset regular season disappointments with strong tournament showings.

All games are slated for Jaycee Park. Tomorrow's contest will start at 7:30 p.m. while games are slated for noon, 2:30 p.m., 5 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

TICKETS

Admission is $1 per day per adult and 50 cents per student. A $4 tournament ticket is also available, covering all games.

No northern Oakland County entry has ever won the coveted title trophy sponsored by The Press. Northville, Kimball (twice) and Southfield (three times) have claimed the six championships.

The city recreation department has spent more than $15,000 in improving the lighted diamond at Jaycee Park.

A new drainage system has been installed as well as a sprinkling system. New sod has been installed in the infield and around the dugouts. In addition, paving of the entrance road and parking lot boosted the total expenditures above the $20,000 mark.

Waterford Hills Victors Endured Wet Conditions

Record Holders in sports car racing dominated the opening of Waterford Hills Road Racing Club's Spring Sprints last weekend as driving stars sloshed through a steady rain to begin the organization's ninth season.

Garrett Van Camp of Farmington, driving an E-production Porsche, picked up two victories; Jeff Lance of Troy in a Formula Bee, recorded two wins; Bill DeBoer, Grand Rapids, drove his Cortina to a pair of triumphs; Bill Koch, Columbus, Ohio, 1967 national F-production champion, had two first-place finishes; and Chris-Gahman, Royal Oak, won two races in his Lotus Super Seven.

Frank Kahlich, Grosse Pointe, logged two victories in his Porsche RS61 in the B-modified class; Pete Dawson, Royal Oak, had two wins in his A-modified PMD Special; Tom Abbott, Farmington, won two contests in his Formula Vee; while Paul Susalla, St. Clair Shores, the Waterford Hills defending point champion recorded a pair of wins.

FIRST VICTORY

Jim Haggerty of Pontiac was the winner in H-production in a Honda. This was Haggerty's first race as a fully-licensed driver, after competing last season as a novice.

Other winners were: Paul Van Valkenburgh, Warren, in a B-production Corvette; Bill Mundus, Ann Arbor, in a D-modified Begra; Ernie Mohawk, New Baltimore, in a C-modified Mini Cooper; Bob Acton, Livonia, in a B-production Mustang; Ivan Crawford, Utica in an F-production Lotus Seven; Bernd Leckow, Warren, in a Porsche 911; Toni Franciosi, Garden City, in an NSU; Bill Braund, Detroit, in an Austin-Cooper; and Bill Schmitt, Saginaw, in a Sedan-One Mini.

Waterford Hills will be the site of the Midwest Regional Races for the Sports Car Club of America competition on June 29 and 30.

MSU Ticket Sale Opens on June 3

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State University has announced tickets for 1958 fall football games will go on sale June 3.

Six of the Spartans 10 games are at the home stadium at East Lansing. Single tickets will cost $6, up from $5 last year.

The home schedule: Sept. 21, Syracuse; Sept. 28, Baylor; Oct. 19, Minnesota; Oct. 26, Notre Dame; Nov. 9, Indiana; Nov. 16, Purdue.

The away schedule: Oct. 5, Wisconsin; Oct. 12, Michigan; Nov. 2, Ohio State; Nov. 23, Northwestern.

WAITING TO TAG—Detroit Tiger catcher Bill Freehan awaits the slide of California third baseman Paul Schaal who was trying to score from second base after a single by Chuck Hinton to left field in the third inning of their game last night. The Angel was out, but California defeated the Tigers in 12 innings, 7-6.

Tribe Defeats Twins, 3-1

Cleveland Closes Gap in AL

By The Associated Press

Big Stan Williams has convinced American League hitters he's no easy mark, but opposing pitchers are just beginning to get the message.

Williams trimmed a couple of points off his major league leading earned run average Monday night and crossed up Minnesota's braintrust with a two-run seventh inning single that gave the Cleveland Indians a 3-1 victory over the Twins.

Boston edged Oakland 3-2.

SACRIFICE BUNT

Williams was locked in a 1-1 duel with Twins' ace Dean Chance when Tony Horton led off the seventh with a double and moved to third on Max Alvis' sacrifice bunt. Chance struck out Vic Davalillo, then walked Larry Brown intentionally to get at Williams.

Brown stole second and Williams looped a single down the right field foul line, scoring Horton and Brown for his third and fourth RBI of the year.

The Twins, who had pushed over an unearned run in the third inning, threatened with one out in the bottom of the seventh when Cesar Tovar singled and took third on a double by pinch hitter Bob Allison.

But Paul, summoned from the minors Monday morning, came out of the bullpen to strike out pinch hitter Frank Kostro, retire Rod Carew on a grounder for the third out and stymie the Twins the rest of the way.

Carl Yastrzemski and Ken Harrelson poled bases-empty homers for the Red Sox before Elston Howard's sacrifice fly in the seventh drove in the winning run.

BLUE NIGHT

Howard delivered against John "Blue Moon" Odom after Joy Foy walked and then moved around to third on a passed ball and sacrifice.

Alma Captures Sports Trophy

Horner, Megregian Albion Standouts

For the first time since 1949 Alma College possesses the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association All-Sports Trophy.

Two Oakland County residents were instrumental in Albion's diamond championship this spring. Named to the All-MIAA first team were Birmingham's Jim Horner and Bloomfield Hills' Ron Megregian.

Southpaw hurler Horner prepped at Seaholm High School while Megregian played shortstop at Andover. Both played in the Pontiac men't league last summer.

Horner was 5-0 and had a 1.22 earned run average while Megregian hit at a .366 clip in Albion's title campaign.

Cherry, drafted from the Bruins a year ago, sat out the 1967-68 season, pursuing a teaching career.

Golf Day Fete Has Harbert at Hillcrest

"Chick" Harbert is the principal speaker today at the state Professional Golfers' Association's first National Golf Day Dinner at Hillcrest Country Club in Mount Clemens.

He won the PGA National Championship in 1954 after being the runner-up twice. Harbert played on the victorious 1949 U.S. Ryder Cup team and was its captain in the 1955.

OPEN RECORD

Coincidentally, he set the Michigan Open record of 261 for 72 holes in 1953 at Hillcrest. He won the state Open four times and the state PGA tournament six times.

At Jackson's Arbor Hills in 1937, Harbert shot 268 to set a North American amateur record that still stands.

Also among those honorees accepting invitations to the dinner are Walter Burkemo, Al Watrous, Mike Souchak, Ted Kroll, Chuck and Sam Kocsis, George Haggarty, Patti Shook and Joyce Kazmierski.

The dinner is open to the pub- at $10 a plate. Ben Lula of Hillcrest is the ticket chairman.

National League Expands With San Diego, Montreal

CHICAGO (AP) — "If we're going to expand, let's really spread it out," said Warren Giles, president of the National League Monday night following a lengthy meeting of owners.

The National League really spread it out — from San Diego to Montreal as major league baseball took on an international flavor for the first time.

While Montreal and San Diego were being selected during a marathon meeting of more than 10 hours, Buffalo, Dallas-Fort Worth and Milwaukee were bypassed.

Each of the new members will pay a $10 million price for the purchase and immediately share in national and World Series television contracts.

JOINT TALKS

The National League now has 12 teams to match the 12 the American League will present next season with the addition of Kansas City and Seattle.

The two leagues will hold a joint discussion.

The American League went on its own in expanding by 1969 and, in essence, forced the National League to do the same.

The American League has its own meeting scheduled today, presumably to announce a split division schedule. The NL also will hold a separate meeting following the joint discussion.

Game scheduling for 1969 will now become the debating point between the two leagues and various radio and television contracts will have to be taken into consideration.

In announcing the selections for San Diego and Montreal, Giles called the move the "most important decision the league has made since allowing the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers to move to the West Coast."

"The feeling of the league was that if two new teams were added, they should not be in the same general section of the country," said Giles,

This probably knocked out Dallas-Fort Worth because the Houston Astros are located some 270 miles away.

Giles pushed off the Milwaukee failure by saying "Milwaukee is only 85-90 miles away from two major league clubs in Chicago."

Giles added that Buffalo made a fine representation and was a "difficult area to exclude."

Naturally, the excluded cities were disappointed, with the Dallas-Fort Worth group vowing it would get major league baseball even if it meant enticing an American League club into the area.

Houston's Hitting Belts Los Angeles

HOUSTON (AP) — Jim Wynn and Rusty Staub drove in three runs apiece, spearheading a 16-hit Houston attack that crushed the Los Angeles Dodgers 10-1 Monday night.

The Astros struck for two first inning runs, chased Dodger starter Claude Osteen, 2-7, in a three-run second and scored four more runs in the fifth.

The offensive binge helped right-hander Don Wilson breeze to his fourth victory against five losses. Wilson checked the Dodgers on eight hits, losing his shutout bid when Len Gabrielson poked a run scoring single in the fifth.

SECOND DOUBLE

Hector Torres' single, another double by Davis and an intentional walk filled the bases in the second and Wynn knocked out Osteen with a two-run single before Staub singled home another run off reliever Hank Aquirre.

In the fifth, infield singles by John Bateman and Davis, a walk, a two-base error by third baseman Bob Bailey and Staub's two-run single sent Houston ahead 9-1.

Wine Slated for Surgery

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Shortstop Bobby Wine will have a back operation Wednesday and will be lost to the Philadelphia Phillies for the rest of the season, a team spokesman said on Monday.

Wine, ailing for three seasons, will be operated on at Temple University Hospital for removal of a ruptured disc in the lower part of his back.

Prep Front

By JERE CRAIG

The Blue Jays of Southfield will undoubtedly find a lot of bird shot aimed their way beginning Thursday as they begin defense of their Pontiac Invitational Baseball Tournament title for the third time.

Winners of an unprecedented 16 straight games in the last three annual tournaments sponsored by The Press and the city recreation department, the Blue Jays will find each opponent giving a little extra to ambush them.

Coach Ed Bryant, the Southfield athletic director, will have an added handicap this time. He no longer has his "player-coach" Ted Simmons to run the team on the playing field.

Simmons, the only two-time Most Valuable Player Award winner in the six previous tourneys, signed a fat bonus pact with the St. Louis Cardinals after graduating last June. He was a coach's dream behind the plate and at the bat.

STRONG LINEUP

Bryant, though, has some strong ball players to spark this spring's bid.

"It's likely to be my last," Bryant confessed last week after winning the Southeastern Michigan Assocation title. Assistant Bob Filar is Bryant's nomination to move up to the diamond post.

However, the veteran head coach will continue as the Blue Jays' football boss and athletic department head.

THREE RECORDS

Orchard Lake St. Mary trackman Andy Jugan ran away with the state Class C mile run honors Saturday to underline his position as one of the Eaglets' all time cinder standouts.

He holds the Polish-speaking priests' prep school records for the mile, 880-yard run and the 440-yard dash.

Rick Watson of Rochester enhanced his position as an outstanding tennis prospect in the MIAA by winning both his singles and doubles rounds in the recent league field day.

The Kalamazoo College freshman finished his first varsity wars with 17-2 (singles) and 13-4 (doubles) logs.

DIAMOND LETTER

The stocky second sacker helped Adrian to its best league record since 1959.

The talented 6-3 All-Starer, an honor student and Class president, has signed a tender to Holy Cross at Worcester, Mass.

He will be playing under Jack Donohue, who coached Lew Alcindor in his high school days at Power Memorial in Brooklyn.

TOP TEN

Several upset defeats last week have considerably shuffled this week's county baseball rankings.

The top ten:
1. Northville (14-2)
2. Utica (20-2)
3. Pontiac Central (13-5)
4. Waterford (17-8)
5. Southfield (13-5)
6. Royal Oak Shrine (9-2)
7. Birmingham Seaholm (12-6)
8. Clawson (15-4)
9. South Lyon (12-3)
10. Birmingham Brother Rice (12-6)

PGA Money Chart Has Few Changes

Billy Casper still holds pro golf's biggest bankroll with $104,234. His winnings last week were listed as $103,868, but the PGA said Monday that figure was a clerical mistake.

The only change in the top 10 was by Arnold Palmer, whose $2,620 winnings in Memphis pushed him from eighth to sixth on the list.

Newport Turns to Pro Tennis

BOSTON (AP) — The Casino at Newport, R.I., home of the first U.S. National Tennis Championships in 1881, abandoned the amateur ranks Monday in favor of the pros.

James Van Alen, director of the Casino, told a news conference that a $15,000 round-robin medal play pro tournament will be held in the middle of August, replacing the traditional men's amateur invitational.

Van Alen said that the pro tournament, held in cooperation with World Championship Tennis, Inc., will be played Aug. 12-18 under the VASSS scoring rules, which he devised.

Shooting for the Casino money will be Australia's John Newcombe and Tony Roche, America's Dennis Ralston and Butch Buchholz, Cliff Drysdale of South Africa, Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia, Roger Taylor of England and Pierre Barthes of France.

6 Californians on Tennis Team

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Seven members of the 1968 United States Lawn Tennis Association's Junior Wightman Cup squad were named Monday with an eighth to be added June 22.

Six of those selected were from California — Valerie Ziegenfuss, San Diego; Patti Hogan, La Jolla; Cecelia Martinez, San Francisco; Pixie Lamm, Oakland; Roylee Bailey, Sacramento, and Tina Lymna, Los Altos.

The seventh, Emilie Burrer, is from San Antonio, Tex.

Mrs. E. D. Yeomans of Los Angeles, chairman of the Junior Wightman Cup activities, announced the selections. All members are between 19 and 21 and each is ranked in U.S. women's singles.

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox acquired the contract Monday of third baseman Dick Kenworthy from Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League and returned third sacker Bill Melton to the same club.

Northville Racing to Begin Thursday

The opening of Northville Downs Thursday night marks the 25th season of night harness racing in Michigan.

An 8:30 p.m. post time will signal the start of the 54-night season at the pioneer pari-mutual track with record-approaching crowds expected this holiday weekend.

Two of the bigger stakes races will be the Michigan Trotting Derby July 10 and the Michigan Pacing Derby July 25. Both will have estimated $16,000 purses.

Pitcher Helps Hens With Bat

Rooker Hurls Toledo to 3-2 Victory

By The Associated Press

This seems to be the season in the International League for disproving the old baseball adage that pitchers are weak sisters when they step up to bat.

Take the example Monday night of Toledo southpaw Jim Rooker. Not only did he pitch no-hit ball for six innings, strike out 13 and limit the Syracuse batters to three hits, he contributed a home run and a triple to lead the Mudhens to a 3-2 victory.

Home runs also played a big role in Louisville's 6-5 win over the Jacksonville Mets.

The Colonels collected four runs in the first two innings on circuit clouts by Jose Calbero and Dick Kratz and another tally on Bob Lahoud's homer in the eighth.

The Mets rallied for two runs in the ninth and had the tieing run on base with one out when reliever Fred Wenz retired the side.

League-leading Rochester blanked Buffalo 5-0 behind the seven-hit pitching of former Bison Aubrey Gatewood.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld.—Les Gillis, 133, New Waterford, N.S., outpointed Red Randell, 136, Toronto, 10; Bill Drover, 206, Wabash, Nfld., outpointed Jim Christopher, 209, Detroit, 10.

Spitball Spiteful for Whitey Ford

NEW YORK (AP) — Whitey Ford hasn't been punished for licking his fingers since . . . well, maybe his mother caught him licking the icing from the cake on his third or fourth birthday.

But umpire Ken Burkhart caught up with him Monday night when the former great New York Yankee pitcher made a brief comeback against the New York Mets in an exhibition game for the benefit of sadlot baseball in New York.

Ford, who now coaches for the Yankees after a brilliant 16-year career that was ended last year by an arm injury, became the latest pitcher to be punished for going to his mouth before a pitch. It almost started a rubarb.

Ford entered the game in the sixth inning with a 3-2 lead that later disintegrated into a 4-3 Mets' victory. But by the time he left for a pinch hitter in the seventh, he had the crowd of 35,198 howling for him and howling at Burkhart.

BALL ONE

Before he threw his first pitch, he went to his mouth and Burkhart, under the new major league rules, called a ball. The 39-year-old left-hander, who coached the first four innings, overcame that and struck out pinch hitter Ed Charles.

When Ford went to his mouth again on the next hitter, Burkhart called another ball and Yankee Manager Ralph Houk came screaming out of the dugout.

"We let him pitch an inning for the people," Houk said afterward. "He was getting out the hitters so why handicap him?"

STANDING OVATION

Ford completed the 1-2-3 inning by getting Tommie Agee to ground back to him and Don Bosch to ground out to short.

The crowd gave him a standing ovation.

Still, there was some disappointment among the fans, who had hoped to see Ford pitch against his old batterymate, Yogi Berra, now coaching for the Mets. But Mets' Manager Gil Hodges chose to send Charles to the plate instead.

"It's still a game to win," Hodges said. "I wouldn't have sent Yogi up unless I was told to by people higher up than me."

"I can still swing, but I don't know if I can hit," Berra said. "You have to remember Whitey is five years younger than me. Maybe if it was an old-timer's game. . ."

The hit was a two-run inside-the-park homer by on Swoboda in the first inning on a line drive that rolled to the right field wall after Andy Kosco missed a shoestring catch.

The Mets won in the eighth against Dooley Womack when Al Weis and Agee singled and Bosch's line hit to center field bounced over Bill Robinson's head for a two-run triple.

Dates Selected for '72 Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese organizers of the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Hokkiaido, said Tuesday the championships would begin Feb. 3, 1972 and last 11 days.

The Sapporo Winter Olympics Committee said the schedule for the Games would be confirmed at a meeting of the International Olympic Committee to be held at the Summer Olympics in Mexico City, this October.

A's Finley Fires Veep Bill Cutler

OAKLAND (AP) — "I'm just happy to be away from that man," said Bill Cutler, acknowledging that Oakland A's owner Charles Finley fired him as vice president of the American League baseball team.

"I don't plan to sue, despite the fact he broke a four-year contract," said Cutler, who was notified Monday by Finley in a telephone call from Chicago that hes would not be with the A's after June 30.

"It was a misunderstanding over my duties, over who's in charge when Charlie's not here."

Some of the major disputes, said Cutler, were over when to reschedule rainouts and his refusal to become farm director.

Cutler said that when he joined the A's he had hoped to become general manager.

Players Penalized

NEW YORK (AP) — Milan Cop, star halfback of the Oakland Clippers, and Ricardo Mungiuia, a defensive player with the San Diego Toros, were suspended for 10 days and fined $100 each Monday by president Dick Walsh of the North American Soccer League.

Horses Race From Track in Flooding

In all, about 850 horses were shipped away from the track in vans and were taken to nearby race track stables and private farms.

Racing was canceled today and racing for Tuesday was also called off but management is hopeful it can open its gates Thursday for its big Memorial Day program.

Lee E. Stratton Joins Shelton-Pontiac

As a member of the Shelton sales staff Lee will be selling Pontiacs, Buicks, Opels and used cars. He is a 12 year resident of Rochester where he graduated from Rochester High School after which he attended Central Michigan University and MSU where he majored in business administration. This background has given him a long list of friends in the area. Lee also attended the General Motors Professional Salesman's Conference. One of 'Four Seasons' Owns Castle in N.J.---Not in Air

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I don't go in much for groups or groupies —that's the word for little girls who follow groups—but the Four Seasons group enchants me because all have Cadillacs and one of them, Bob Gaudio, has a castle in New Jersey.

WILSON

Yeah, a castle . . . in Upper Montclair . . . about 30 rooms . . . Elizabethan ("so they tell me," says Gaudio) . . . and it cost him "about $250,000 . . ."

The Four Seasons have been booked into the Los Angeles Cocoanut Grove in June and the Waldorf for late next fall . . . They're neat, non-hippies, only one beard between them, all Jerseyites, all Italian ("That's a prerequisite") . . . they split about $2,000,000 a year . . . they can all remember being on relief . . . and Tommy Devito remarks:

I'm interested in apartment buildings—I have three of them."

Every time they open their mouths it's a Top 10 record—40 in 6 years — and once when lead singer Frankie Valli had a hit single, and they had a hit album, they made up a name, The Wonder Who — and that album became a hit, too.

Were they embarrassed! Couldn't come up with a non-hit. They're all married, 7 children between them, average age 26, and Joe Long, musical coordinator of the group, says they got the name from a New Jersey bowling alley which wanted them as a lounge act but decided not to.

"We didn't get the job," says Joe, "but we came out with a name . . ."

Gen. Moshe Dayan's son Assaf will have the male lead in John Huston's film, "A walk With Love and Death." (Female lead goes to Huston's dtr. Anjelica, 17) . . . Veteran comic Allen Gale's ill in St. Francis Hospital, Miami Beach . . . Duo at Dionne Warwick's Copa closing: Doris Duke and Tex McCrary . . . Ann Margret's new act at Harrah's-Lake Tahoe includes a dozen young men on motorcycles . . . two principals in a top Broadway show aren't talking.

Peter Falk, a hit in "Anzio," is in line for the "Che Guevara" film biography . . . Fred Friendly and George Schlatter, famed TV producers, are being signed by Columbia to produce two films . . . Cute Judy Geeson's description of her costume in "Hammerhead": "In one scene all I wear is some ribbons and self-confidence."

EARL'S PEARL'S A local man is so absent-minded that he held a door open for his wife, even when nobody was looking.

Credit Card Abuse Bill Near Signing

LANSING (UPI) — By next fall, continuing to use a revoked or canceled credit card could get you in trouble with more than just the company — it could land you in jail.

On its way to Gov. George Romney for his approval is a bill making it a misdemeanor to use the revoked cards "knowingly and with intent to defraud." It would not apply to expired cards.

Punishment would be up to 90 days in jail, a fine of up to $100, or both, if the value of the goods charged was not more than $100. If it were more, the punishment could be as much as one year and a fine of $1,000.

Adviser Returns From Paris

Vance to Brief LBJ on Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is to get a personal briefing on U.S.-North Vietnamese talks in Paris from his second-ranking American negotiator, Cyrus R. Vance.

Vance arrived in Washington by plane Monday night and is to brief Johnson, along with senior U.S. diplomatic, military and intelligence advisers, at a White House meeting today.

Others scheduled to attend include Secretary of State Dean Rusk; Secretary of Defense Cark M. Clifford; Director Richard Helms of the Central Intelligence Agency; Chairman Earle G. Wheeler of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Maxwell D. Taylor, presidential consultant and former U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam; and Walt W. Rostow, special presidential assistant for national security affairs.

Vance headed back to Washington for the consultations after Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, top U.S. envoy at the talks, called anew for prompt restoration of the demilitarized zone to its original status as a step toward peace.

North Vietnam has refused to take any action until the United States completely halts the bombing of the North.

At the May 13 outset of the talks Harriman indicated he or Vance would be returning to Washington to report firsthand from time to time.

There was increasing speculation in Washington that North Vietnam's chief negotiator, Xuan Thuy, would wait until the U.S. political conventions in August to see who the Democratic and Republican parties nominate for the presidency.

Hawaii Bends Its Name Policy for Pszyk Road

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — Hawaii Island, about 150 miles southeast of Honolulu, has a longstanding policy of giving Hawaiian names to streets and highways.

The county planning commission wanted to give a street the name of Kapola Road. But Mary Rogers protested, arguing that the road has always been known for her grandfather and should remain so.

So it now has an official name — Pszyk Road.

In a program known as "time sharing" up to 40 persons can make use of a computer from as many different locations.

Russian Rabbis Will Visit U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet authorities are taking a controversial step aimed at appeasing American Jews by authorizing a delegation of Russian Rabbis to make their first visit to the United States since World War II.

The delegation, expected in New York in mid-June, will be headed by 74-year-old Yehuda Leib Levin of the Moscow Choral Synagogue. He will be accompanied by Rabbi Israil Bronfman of Derbent in the Caucasus, Rabbi Israil Shvartsblast of Odessa and Cantor David Stiskin of Leningrad.

The visit is likely to cause controversy in American Jewish quarters because the Soviet Jews are coming on the invitation of the American Council for Judaism, a New York group of 20,000 which is fervently anti-Zionit.

For the moment, the Soviet Jews have laid no defnite plans to meet with representatives of the main American Jews groups. Spokesmen for the American Council for Judaism insist the Soviets will be free to meet any one they please during their trip.

The Italian government plans to invest close to $6 billion in state - controlled enterprises in the 1968-72 period.

Two Suits Ask $50,000 From Restaurant

A Birmingham restaurant was sued yesterday for a total of $50,000 by two men allegedly made ill when served contaminated corned beef around the first of the year.

Two damage suits, each asking $25,000, were filed in Oakland County Circuit Court against Alban's Bottle and Basket, 190 N. Hunter, by Samuel Fink of Harper Woods and Murray Spilman, of Farmington.

They claim that they were among the 170 persons who suffered food poisoning after eating the meat a few days after the first of the year.

At that time, county health authorities said the poisoning of the meat resulted from staphylococcal toxin.

The toxin was believed to have been spread by food handlers, inspectors said.

The two suits claim that there were two food handlers involved. One had an infected cut on his finger while the other had been ill with gastoenteritis, according to the suits.

They're All Wet

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — On May 1, when south Florida was in the grip of a drought, the U.S. Weather Bureau in Miami said no substantial rainfall was in sight until June. Monday the bureau said 16.58 inches of rain had fallen so far in Miami during May, 5.39 inches over normal for the month and just short of the 18.13-inch record set in 1958.

AAUW Sponsoring Candidate Forum

Four candidates running for one 4-year term on the Pontiac Board of Education have been invited to speak at a candidates' forum at 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

Candidates will each give a 12-minute talk, then answer written questions at the public meeting at Washington Junior High School, 710 Menominee.

The forum is sponsored by the legislative division of the American Association of University Women.

Running in the June 10 election to replace James L. Howlett, who has decided not to seek reelection, are Francis M. Webster, Fred M. Crossman, John K. Irwin Jr. and Christopher C. Brown.

Lions Destined for Down Under

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Ten lions have been shipped from the Atlanta Zoo to Los Angeles, where they will join 30 others for a trip to Australia.

Auditors: Navy Wasted $5.9 Million on Parts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy wasted $5.9 million by manufacturing vast excess quantities of nonstandard aeronautical repair parts at four Naval Air Stations, says the General Accounting Office.

Investigators for the GAO, auditing arm of Congress, found bins filled with five times as many parts as the Navy's own directives said were required.

The newly released GAO report also said that $2.2 million of the excess parts had been disposed of for a penny on the dollar.

In its reply to the report, the Navy cited difficulties in trying to predict how many parts would be required. But it promised revamped procedures such as standardization of parts numbers and keeping track of how many parts have been used in the past.

SITES PINPOINTED

Nonstandard aeronautical parts are items that have restricted usage peculiar to a particular aircraft or engine, and can be easily manufactured by the Navy. Demand for such parts is expected to be low. The whole operation is but one tiny fraction of over-all defense supply and procurement.

Among 33,700 types of parts worth $4.8 million covered in the GAO survey were such items as brackets, screws, hose assemblies, patch-plates, springs and cable assemblies.

The GAO found 21,000 types and stock worth $3.7 million to be in excess supply.

Even these figures were conservative since GAO counted as excess only parts not expected to be used within 270 days. Navy directives consider parts for more than 180 days to be excess.

Investigators checking one group of orders for 12 types of parts dated from 1962 through 1964 found that 545 separate parts worth $3,053.75 had been manufactured and only 21 worth $126 ever were used.

The GAO concluded that the bulk of the excess was due to "the use of unrealistic criteria for determining what quantities of nonstandard parts should be initially manufactured for anticipated needs and failure to follow prescribed criteria when manufacturing parts for replenishment."

It observed that when the Navy decided $2.2 million worth were excess, it sold them for $23,000.

Court Ruling Undercuts Dissenter Latitude

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has hemmed in dissenters by limiting the actions they can take in the name of free speech.

Monday's 7-1 decision directly upheld the 1965 federal law that made destruction of draft cards a crime.

More than that, the ruling by Chief Justice Earl Warren riddled the idea that otherwise illegal actions are shielded from prosecutions as "symbolic speech."

"We cannot accept the view," said Warren, "that an apparently limitless variety of conduct can be labeled 'speech' whenever the person engaging in the conduct intends thereby to express an idea."

LEGAL SETBACK?

These words may cut the legal ground from under other forms of Vietnam war protest —such as exhorting young men to resist the draft or spilling blood on draft card files.

Whether the ruling will spur prosecution of draft card bruners is problematic. In the 33 months the law has been on the books the government has brought 26 cases and won 16 convictions.

Since April 1967, when the U.S. Circuit Court in Boston declared the law unconstitutional, only four or five prosecutions have been brought.

The pace may pick up now that the Supreme Court has acted, but the Justice Department — without commenting directly on the ruling — is discouraging such thoughts.

IN A HUDDLE

David Paul O'Brien of Cambridge, Mass., the central figure in the case decided Monday, burned his card at the South Boston Courthouse on March 31, 1966, in full view of a sizable crowd that included several FBI agents.

Warren said O'Brien was convicted for the "noncommunicative impact of his conduct and for nothing else."

However, the chief justice also said, even the "alleged communicative element" in his conduct does not prevent his prosecution because of the First Amendment's free speech guarantees.

French Production Losses Put at $1 Billion a Week

PARIS (AP) — Economists estimate the general strike is costing France more than a billion dollars a week in lost production, and no return to work is in sight.

France's worst postwar crisis went into its 12th day today after private industry shouted down a proposed settlement which included a 10 per cent pay raise.

In government-run industries, an "accord in principle" on a similar offer was reached with the coal miners' union. But electrical and gas workers still were negotiating and the railroad workers broke off talks with the government.

Economists predicted the weekly loss from the strike would rise steadily as the strike continued. In addition, the economy faced severe strains from any settlement finally worked out.

$3.7 BILLION A YEAR

The proposed 10 per cent pay raise would cost $3.7 billion a year for French businesses, already operating on lower profit margins than those in any other country in the European Common Market. And if the strikers maintain their refusal to accept the offer, the cost could go much higher.

Price increases to meet the higher costs would mean inflation, reduced exports and possibly devaluation of the franc, which is already under pressure on foreign exchange markets.

Renault, France's biggest auto maker, estimated it would have to raise prices by as much as 12 per cent to meet terms of the proposed settlement. This would price its cars out of foreign markets.

The package settlement offered to most of the 8 to 10 million strikers was termed "catastrophic" by business leaders, who predicted the ruin of many small and medium-size firms.

'NOT ENOUGH'

But the strikers' immediate response was that the settlement wasn't enough, and shouts of "Seguy resign" were heard at a massive rally of students and workers Monday. Georges Seguy, secretary general of the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor, helped negotiate the package.

The workers had demanded, among other things, an immediate 12 per cent raise and cancellation of a social security decree-law last fall which reduced benefits and increased worker contributions.

Failure to settle the strike before the June 16 referendum called by President Charles de Gaulle could have serious political implications. It could mean a massive no vote against his proposals for reform of France's economic and educational structures, and De Gaulle has said he would resign if defeated.

Soo Find May Be Indian Burial Site

SAULT STE. MARINE, Ont. (AP) — Provincial police in Sault Ste. Marie said today an Indian burial ground may have been discovered in a sand pit about 25 miles east of the city.

Profit 12 Cents in Bank Robbery

GROVER, S.C. (AP) — Officials at the Grover branch of the Blacksburg State Bank say they made a 12-cent profit on a recent bank robbery.

An audit after the robbery showed a loss of $15,128.88. Two men were arrested this week, and police found a bank money bag containing $15,129.

Holiday Weekend Toll of 625-725 Seen

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council said today that between 625 and 725 Americans may die in traffic accidents during the Memorial Day holiday weekend.

President Howard Pyle estimated that traffic accidents also could disable 27,000 to 32,000 men, women and children.

NORMAL TOLL

Pyle said in a statement that the tabulation period will run from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday.

He urged motorists who will be on the roads during the weekend to make preparation.

"Preparation of the car, planning of the route, and preparation of the driver — in terms of starting in plenty of time, knowing what to watch out for and understanding defensive driving maneuvers — could make a massive difference in the weekend toll," he said.

Convicted Felons May Be Accepted as Detroit Police

DETRIIT (AP) — Mayor Jerome Cavanagh said Monday revised hiring standards would pave the way, under certain circumstances, for convicted felons to become police officers in Detroit.

Cavanagh made the statement at a news conference announcing an intensive campaign to recruit Negro police officers.

The revised standards, including liberalized physical requirements and a revamped written examination, take immediate effect, the mayor said.

They were recommended by a task force on police recruitment appointed by Cavanagh May 3 and chaired by Ross Corbit of the Detroit Board of Commerce and Robert Tindal of the Detroit NAACP.

Cavanagh said a 20-man team of officers, 16 of them Negroes, would conduct the six - week campaign, going into neighborhoods throughout the city in search of recruits.

Cavanagh said a felony conviction no longer would mean automatic disqualification of applicants as it did under previous standards.

"For example," he said, "if a man was convicted of a felony when he was 17 and had an outstanding life since that time, we would review the merits of his application. This review would take the place of automatic exclusion."

The proposal came under immediate fire from the Michigan Human Rights Council and the Detroit Police Officers Association (DPOA).

"The Michigan Human Rights Council is opposed to lowering the standards and qualifications of the police department for anyone...black or white," said the Rev. Ray Shoulders, chairman. "We are also...opposed to placing guns in the hands of people with felony records.

"This is a direct insult to the black community," he added. "There are many black citizens without felony records who can be placed on the police department."

Shoulders said 1,874 Negroes applied for police jobs last year and 701 passed the old standards. Of these only 71 were hired.

EXPRESSES DISENCHANTMENT

Carl Parsell, president of the DPOA, also expressed disenchantment with the revised standards.

"I'm going out today to speak at a conference on raising professional standards of police officers, and now I find out we're hiring felons," he said.

Cavanagh said under the revised standards, 526 more applicants who failed to meet qualifications last year would have been eligible for further processing under the new plan.

Efforts to recruit additional Negro officers last year raised the percentage from two to six per cent, Cavanagh said. He said this figure was unacceptable and he plans to "dramatically redress this imbalance."

The revised standards include raising the upper age limit of recruits from 31 to 33, lowering the height requirement to 5-feet-7, revamping the 20-20 vision standard to 20-40 corrected to 20-20 eliminating divorce as automatic exclusion.

In addition, the written examination will be revamped to eliminate a "cultural test" to one more in line to determining "an individuals ability to perform the job."

House Approves Bill on Tests for Convicts

LANSING (AP)—A bill which supporters hope will funnel dangerous ex-convicts into mental hospitals rather than into the streets won easy House approval Monday, while another anti-crime bill suffered a setback.

A measure giving State Police firm control over private "police" and security guard agencies, meanwhile, won House approval and was returned to the Senate with amendments.

Passed 85-13 was a Senate-approved measure requiring that a prisoner convicted of certain violent crimes and having a history of "severe mental derangement" be given psychiatric tests before being paroled or released from prison.

The prisoner would be turned over to mental health authorities if two psychiatrists found his release would represent "a probably hazard ot the community."

'HARSH PENALTY'

The bill would apply to "deranged" persons serving prison terms for murder, attempted murder, forcible rape, sexual molt'liation, felonious assault or mayhem.

"There's no question about it —this is harsh," said Rep. Hal Ziegler, R-Jackson. "You're just going to have to weight whether you think it's necessary in view of the violent crimes in our society today."

Ziegler, a former Jackson County assistant prosecutor, also backed an unsuccessful anti-crime measure which would give prosecutors an appeal as a matter of right from certain pretrial circuit court rulings favoring a defendant.

The measure fell five votes short of passage. A second attempt by supporters of the Senate-approved bill could come today.

'NO REASON'

Currently, the prosecution may ask the State Supreme Court to hear appeals from pretrial rulings — such as a trial judge's refusal to admit a confession or other evidence. The measure before the House would require the state court of appeals to hear all such appeals.

Ziegler noted defendants in criminal cases already may appeal their convictions as a matter of right. "There's no reason, in my mind, why the prosecutor shouldn't be at least on equal grounds on these judicial questions," he said.

Rep. J. Robert Taxler, D-Bay City, said requiring the nine-judge appeals court to accept the appeals and rule on them in writing would further jamits overloaded docket.

A bill which would allow people to pay by check for their license plates for other motor vehicle taxes and charges collected by the Secretary of State, in writing would further pam its was defeated 44-50. Passed 84-2, however, was a measure rewriting the state law governing barbers and barber schools. It lowers the minimum age for a licensed barber from 18 to 17 and increases the minimum hours of schooling required to be offered from 1,500 to 1,750.

A MISDEMEANOR

A measure requested by the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office—making it a misdemeanor for an arrested felon to refuse to be fingerprinted — was approved 74-21.

Russia Apparently Plans to Loft 4-Planet Probe in '78

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Russia apparently plans to launch a spacecraft on a "grand tour" of four planets in 1978 to gather scientific information. Many American scientists have urged that the United States prepare a similar probe to take advantage of a planetary position opportunity that occurs only once every 157 years.

The current issue of "Soviet Life" magazine has an article titled "A Probe to Neptune?" which details how a payload can use the gravitational fields of Jupiter, Saturn and Uranus to accelerate itself to Neptune, some three billion miles away.

The article said the rocket must be launched "exactly on Oct. 7, 1978. No other day will serve for the trajectory of the probe to be near enough the three planets to be accelerated by their gravitational forces" to reach the most distant of the four, Neptune.

"Soviet Life," an English-language monthly distributed in this country under reciprocal agreement with the U.S., said many technical problems must be solved. Included are development of a more powerful rocket, a nuclear power source, extremely reliable equipment and possibly laser beams for quick communications.

PROPERLY EQUIPPED

There is hope, the article said, "that by the critical day, Oct. 7, the probe will be reliably enough equipped to reach Neptune."

It said that if a probe were launched on a direct flight to Neptune, the trip would take 30 years. By bouncing the payload off the gravity fields of Jupiter, Saturn and Uranus, the journey is cut to less than nine years.

Oran W. Nicks, NASA deputy associate administrator for space science and applications, said, "This opportunity is afforded only once about every 175 years when these planets align themselves favorably.

EXTREMELY IMPORTANT

"It seems extremely important scientifically to prepare for this opportunity and make an economical reconnaissance of these other major planets in our solar system." Mars and Venus already have been visited by American and Russian craft.

Nicks did not confine the launching to a single optimum day. Instead, he said that probes could be launched in both 1977 and 1978.

"Such spacecraft," he said, "will face environments more stringent that any heretofore encountered. But it seems reasonably sure that with the use of radioisotope and other nuclear power sources, it should be possible to provide the communications" link, the thermal control and the power necessary to allow a spacecraft to operate in the far reaches of space for the required period of up to eight years."

American officials said a "grand tour" probe would first be launched toward Jupiter. As it neared the target, it would gain speed from the tremendous gravitational pull of this huge planet. While traveling along with Jupiter, under its gravitational influence, it would pick up the planet's sun-orbit speed.

ONWARD TO SATURN

At the desired time, control devices and electric propulsion motors aboard the craft would zip it out of Jupiter's influence and onward to Saturn's. By playing this game of "interplanetary billiards," it would reach Uranus and then Neptune. At each planet, the probe would make scientific readings and take pictures.

"Lasers are promising," the Russian article said. "the photographs we have of Mars were transmitted from a distance of more than 120 million miles at a rate of 8.33 binary units per second. The transmission of a single photograph took eight hours. With lasers, the speed of transmission will increase many times over."

The article said the earth's atmosphere "is a formidable barrier for a laser beam." It added this problem could be avoided by transmitting the beam from the planetary probe to a satellite circling the earth above the atmosphere.

"The information," it said, "is then relayed from the satellite to the earth through conventional radio channels."

The number of local governments in the United States dropped more than 10 per cent in the last five years.

Poor Marchers' Demand Irks Freeman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Among the demands of the Agriculture Department made by leaders of the Poor People's Campaign is abolishment of subsidies "to large farmers" for not growing crops.

Attacks upon federal farm programs are not new nor are they confined to political, economic, racial or geographic boundaries. But the suggestion by Poor People's Campaign leaders has touched a sensitive nerve within the department.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman expressed this sensitivity in a speech last week to the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation.

Poverty is the underlying cause of hunger in the United States, Freeman said, not lack of agricultural production.

CALLED MISGUIDED

"Those who would fight poverty by attacking farm programs are misguided," he said. "To end farm programs would create more poverty and more hunger."

Freemen examined briefly what he said would happen if federal farm programs were scrapped. Those farmers who lacked the financial reserves to weather the storm, he said, would be driven off the land "by the thousands, perhaps hundreds of thousands, leaving it in monopoly hands."

Freeman doesn't pretend that federal farm programs have halted the exodus of people from the farms. Statistics show otherwise, and Freeman frequently has noted them in his speeches.

Since World War II, he said recently, the population of the United States has grown 55 million, or by 37 per cent. And, he pointed out, in the same period nearly 3 million farms "disappeared as a result of the technological revolution in agriculture."

RARELY IGNORED

Rural poverty has rarely been ignored in Freeman's speeches. In many ways, he has explained, the Department of Agriculture is committed to the improvement of rural life.

The issue between the department and the Poor People's Campaign is many-sided, fraught with problems that slash across bureaucratic areas of responsibility, but plunge deeply into the complexity of each.

Why, say the poor people, doesn't the Department of Agriculture make more food available immediately to hunger areas? Why isn't the food stamp program expanded? Why doesn't the department concentrate more of its total resources on ending hunger?

Freeman cited figures last week to show what his department has been doing: Since 1960 the distribution of government food has been expanded from 5 to 16 commodities; food programs soon will include 6.1 million persons in 2,400 counties, nearly double the 1960 figures.

NOT ENOUGH

"But what we have done is clearly not enough," Freeman said, "and I will tell you very frankly that we will not be able to do enough to meet the needs of the hungry here in the United States with the resources that have so far been made available to us."

Poverty and its degradations, he said, are the basic evils.

In calling for a viable, universal effort to conquer poverty as the true solution to hunger problems, Freeman and the leaders of the Poor People's campaign cannot be far from agreement.

But Freeman is convinced that federal farm programs — despite charges that most subsidies have gone "to large farmers" — have contributed greatly to the orderly development of U.S. agriculture.

Pardon our chest thumping, but we're proud to have the year's top attraction for new car buyers. It's the kind of thing people are talking about because it's not just talk. (And it's not just savings on little extras, such as shiny trim and the like.) It's extraordinary savings on important things—V8 engines, automatic transmissions, whitewall tires, power disc brakes and power steering. Something else you'll like: all the savings come on '68 Chevrolets and Chevelles. There are 35 models and five bonus plans to choose from. Check over the plans that follow. There's one that's sure to fit your requirements. Then, get over to your Chevrolet dealer's. That's where all the important savings are happening.

Bonus Savings Plans
1. Any Chevrolet or Chevelle with 200-hp Turbo-Fire V8, Powerglide and whitewalls.
2. Any Chevrolet or Chevelle with 250-hp Turbo-Fire V8, Powerglide and whitewalls.
3. Any regular Chevrolet with 250-hp Turbo-Fire V8, Turbo Hydra-Matic and whitewalls.
4. Now, and for the first time, big savings on power disc brakes and power steering when you buy any Chevrolet or Chevelle with V8 engine.
5. Buy any Chevrolet or Chevelle V8 two-door or four-door hardtop model—save on vinyl top, electric clock, wheel covers and appearance guard items.

'68 savings explosion
CHEVROLET

Frankie & Jennie
tell it for Chevy.

"Turn yourself loose... you've got a savings explosion going for you. Only the leader could make it happen so big."

Mercy, They've 3 Valedictorians

By MARY ANNE MADDEN

Four years of high scholastic standing have culminated in honors for three seniors at Our Lady of Mercy High School. With perfect 4.0 averages, Pamela Adams, Mary Lou Caspers, and Pat Cusick, have been chosen valedictorians. Elizabeth Truly is salutatorian with a 3.947 average.

Pam, a member of the Latin Club, Athletic Association, Math Club, and Future Teachers, received an honorary Michigan State Scholarship and a Trustee Scholarship from the state. Pam plans to attend Michigan State University where she will major in math.

Pat, vice president of the Student Council, also has chosen MSU as her destination next fall. She is a Mercyaire and is active in French Club and Future Teachers.

Mary Lou received a State of Michigan scholarship and State of Michigan grant. Seriously considering a major in science, she will attend the University of Detroit. Mary Lou is involved in the Math and Latin clubs, and the Athletic Association.

ALL PHI BETA KAPPA

All three girls recently were commended by Phi Beta Kappa and the National Honor Society.

Elizabeth, who hopes to major in social work at MSU, is a member of the French Club. She was awarded a Michigan Competitive Scholarship and received recognition from Phi Beta Kappa.

Mercy's first annual Sports Banquet was held Tuesday. Named as outstanding representatives of the Athletic Association were Joanne Yee, freshman; Linda Henry, sophomore; Dorian Soper, junior; Maureen Solar, senior. Outstanding AA member award was presented to Mary Ann DeVogel. The Senior Award, presented to the senior who has been most active in the AA during her four years at Mercy, was given to Pat Smith, president of the AA.

Mrs. James Yager, swimming instructor, presented trophies to members of Mercy's State Championship Team.

Awards presented included: Marla Huber, first place in state for diving; Michelle Riley, who received five trophies for most versatile swimmer, best in breaststroke, butterfly, and individual medley; Mary Ann Roller, second in state for two relays, state record in 50 and 100-yard free-style.

At Kettering High

2 Share Valedictory Honors

By DONNA FURLONG

Two girls are sharing valedictory honors this year at Waterford Kettering High.

Both plan to attend Michigan State University in the fall.

Mary Lou plans to pursue her interests in science and teaching. Diane will study to become a psychologist.

SALUTATORIAN

Others on the top 10 list are Patricia Cahape, fourth; Larry Gavette, fifth; Jan Johnson, sixth; Linda Richardson, seventh; Mary Ballard, eighth; Carol Warnock, nines; and Yvonne Klingelsmith, 10th.

New National Honor Society members have been announced. Seniors include Terry Armstrong, Mary Ballard, Dee Ann Berg, David Bougine, Georgia Burklow, Linda Castle, Cheri Colby, Shelia Collins, Joseph Danules, Kenneth Dyker and Davie Ferrier.

From the junior class are Lynn Bachelor, Janet Barton, Shelly Baumgras, Karen Berglund, Lawrence Burns, Roger Burris, Michael Copeman and Robert Earl.

Also Cheryl Gocha, Nancy Hogarth, Laurinda Jackson, Susan Johns, Robert Meyers, Janet Nutter, Scott Parrot and David Powell.

JUNIOR OFFICERS

Next Monday the second Cooperative Dinner Banquet for all Dramatic Club members, Thespians and their parents will be held.

Beginning at 7 p.m., a formal initiation will be held for new Thespians.

Entertainment for the evening will be "Peter Pan," presented by a play production class lead by Patty Looman.

LAST PROGRAM

This week the last program of Mihran Kupelian's radio production classes will be presented over the public address system.

Throughout the semester two weekly programs, Kettering Showcase and Around Kettering, have been broadcast. The last show will be dedicated to the senior class of 1968.

Today and tomorrow, seniors are taking their final high school exams. Tomorrow is officially their last day of school.

There will be no school Thursday or Friday because of Memorial Day.

12 Juniors at Kingswood to Go Abroad This Summer

By MARY STEWART

Each girl will spend between six to 10 weeks under the auspices one of three exchange programs: American Field Service, Youth for Understanding and a newly formed organization, an Experiment in International Living.

Kingswood's AFS representative is Dee Flannery, who will be heading for the Philippine island of Negros.

GOING TO SWEDEN

Participating in the Experiment in International Living program will be Stevie Adamson and Peggy Wilson who are going to Sweden and Carol Lerchen who is going to France.

The girls will have one week of orientation before leaving, then travel to their countries to spend a month with a family.

Each girl and her European "sister" will then join other Experiment participants in a two-week tour of their country and, in some cases, nearby countries.

Mock Convention Held

Rochester GOP Picks Nixon

By KARIN HEADLEE

Points of order, clarification and personal preference added to excitement and tension in Rochester High School's recent Mock Republican National Convention.

Before the nominating, demonstrating, and electing, the committee for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York felt it would compete against Richard Nixon on several heated ballots.

After the first vote, however, Rockefeller placed way behind and Nixon was elected on the second ballot as the Republican presidential candidate for 1968.

Preceding campaigning for presidential candidates, the delegates — members from economics, government, geography and world affairs classes—chose planks for their party platform. Planks were submitted by delegates. Substitute planks were drawn up in many cases.

The proposed plank on United States and Communist China relations, which opposes recognition of Communist China and its admission to the United Nations, was passed.

A Vietnam plank was defeated by the substitute plank, which favors reinstating bombing of North Vietnam.

The foreign aid plank, involving increased technical assistance, establishment of a separate department for military assistance, discontinuance of aid when it is misused, and research for each country before it receives aid, passed.

MONETARY POLICY PASSES

Supporting lower taxes, less government spending, alleviation of expenditures in certain areas of the government, and encouragement for tourists to visit the U.S., the monetary policy passed.

The original welfare plank defeated the substitute one by guaranteeing annual wages, setting up schools for vocational purposes and investigating the Aid-to-Dependent-Children Program.

The civil rights plank, which provided for enforcement of new civil rights laws, extension of financial aid toward education and establishment of training centers for minority groups, was accepted.

The original law enforcement plank was accepted over the substitute. It recommends 50 per cent of the money be used for equipment and research, while the other 50 per cent be used for police salary advancements.

VOLUNTARY DRAFT BACKED

The original draft plank, which provides for a voluntary service system, was passed.

The original voting plank, allowing 18-year-olds to vote in all states, was passed over the substitute one.

Lahser Students' Works Shown in Store Windows

By GRETCHEN HAAS

THREE METHODS

Instruction is being given in three methods of pottery construction: pottery coil, throwing on the wheel and slab.

The student director was Lisa Benson.

'ANASTASIA SCENE

A scene from "Anastasia," which was adapted by Guy Bolton from the original play by Marcel Maurette, was also performed.

Teri Malwitz portrayed the teacher and assisted in the direction of the play; Bob Weingarden and Pat Hall were pupils; and Linda Hague the Pupiless.

'ANTIC SPRING'

Maggie Keteyian directed.

Seaholm Again Plans Magazine

By JOHN CARVER

Keeping in step with tradition, Seaholm's literary magazine, entitled the Maple Cairn, once again will be printed.

The magazine is a collection of poetry, short stories, essays, themes and artwork. The idea is to provide an outlet for creative talents of students at Seaholm.

SALES SCHEDULED

Sales will be during the first week of June. The Maple Cairn will sell for 25 cents. Copies will be available from any journalism student.

Another magazine to be put out by the journalism department is the "Piper Summer Supplement." For the price of $1 anyone at Seaholm may purchase this supplement to the yearbook. Because the Piper went to press April 1, many important events of the school year were left out of the yearbook.

The Summer Supplement will cover commencement, Swing-Out, Senior Dinner, Skip Day, Washington Trip, J-Hop, concerts, National Honor Society, the spring play and spring sports.

Cranbrook Sets European Tour

By DAVID DYE

Several students from Cranbrook School and other area schools will fly to London, June 25. This will be the start of the third-annual European trip sponsored by Cranbrook School.

The 31 students on this year's trip attend Cranbrook School, Kingswood School, Academy of the Sacred Heart and Trinity of New York.

Ron Krash, a Kingswood history teacher, and Fred Gretton, an English instructor at Trinity, are the directors of Cranbrook's European tour.

The guides on Cranbrook's trip, in addition to the two directors, are Margret MacKenzie and George Nowacki, teachers at Kingswood School, and Lucy Henry, the chairman of the Social Studies Department at Sacred Heart.

DECIDE FOR THEMSELVES

The guides will act more like advisers and friends.

The students will be free to decide what they want to do, with the guides supplying advice, accommodations, transportation and tours when needed.

During their seven-week stay, the Cranbrook group will visit many of Europe's major cities, small villages and scenic attractions.

After staying a week and a half in London, the group will go to Amsterdan, Paris, Geneva, Milan, Vienna via Salzburg and finally to Prague.

VISIT TO MOSCOW

From Prague they will take a two-and-one-half day train ride to Moscow. After Moscow, the students will visit Kiev, and then back to Prague. Next on the agenda will be a tour of southern Germany, the Rhine Valley and Frankfurt.

Leaving Frankfurt they will fly to West Berlin for a three-day stay, and from Berlin back to the United States, returning Aug. 14.

Central Team Wins Auto-Repair Honors

By JAN GODOSHIAN

Third-place honors were taken in the annual Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest by Pontiac Central students Gregory Ryden and Gerald Beutler. The boys earned a trophy for their school and individual prizes.

PCH's annual Spring Concert will be held tonight at 8 in the auditorium. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Directing the concert will be Gilbert Jackson and A. Michael Dempsey.

The Senior Girls' singing group will sing "It's a Blue World" accompanied by five trombones, and the A Cappella Choir members will sing "Entrata" accompanied by brass and an organ.

David Rath will present an accordian solo. The senior boys' and senior girls' groups will present "The Telephone Hour."

Also performing will be the male chorus, Harmonettes, the Madrigals, Central Singers and the girls' choir.

It will contain approximately 16 pages, bound and including an adhesive strip so that it may be attached to the last page of the yearbook.

VARIOUS ACTIVITIES

The supplement will cover "The King and I," the Dolphin show, golf, tennis, baseball, track and field and various senior activities.

It will be mailed to all yearbook purchasers in late July or early August.

This year's "Quiver" will be sold and distributed during the first week in June.

There will be 350 extras that will be sold for $6 each. Students may also purchase plastic covers for 25 cents.

WILL ATTEND SEMINAR

Joan Blaylock will be editor in chief of next year's "Quiver." This summer she will attend a week-long seminar at Northwood Institute in Midland.

Ken Brown, this year's "Quiver" adviser, will go on a sabbatical leave for graduate study during the 1968-69 school year.

In his absence, Mrs. A. A. Slosson, English, and Bud Dormurath, newspaper adviser, will supervise the "Quiver."

Pontiac Central has a new constitution to work with next year. The new constitution, written and proposed primarily by senior Steve Embree, calls for new election procedures and a permanent council of 32 members.

Exams to Begin at Brother Rice

By GARY MILLER

Students at Brother Rice High School are busily preparing for final exams which begin tomorrow at 8:30 a.m.

Thursday and Friday will be free days and students will return to complete exams on June 3 and 4.

POLITICAL DEVICES

All the candidates employed a wide variety of attention-getters. Some used food and pop and some used volunteers from Marian High School to pass out smiles and campaign literature to possible voters.

A huge rally was held Wednesday where each candidate gave a short speech on what he would do if elected.

After all the speeches were delivered, a question-and-answer period followed.

An Art Show Yarn: NFH Urns Display

By ANNE KILLEEN

Prismatic clays and yarns will be on display in the courtyard for North Farmington High School's Pottery and Weaving Show this afternoon. The exhibition-sale is being presented during the noon hours (11-12:30 p.m.) through Wednesday.

Artisans of Mrs. Morton Alger's Pottery Class are featuring their own projects in the creative "etalage." Coupled with molding earthen crocks and urns, students have elected to weave during their daily class.

Seniors at Marian Dine With Faculty

By PATRICIA POLMEAR

Tears, smiles, hustle-bustle, cramming for exams and final farewells are all an integral part of the closing school days for Marian High School seniors.

The annual senior-faculty dinner was held May 20 in the school cafeteria. Kathy Hartman and Sister Imelda were chairmen.

More than 100 members of the senior class, under the direction of Peggy Aste and Sister Ann Dolores, combined their talents, time and efforts in producing an assembly.

Starring in the assembly's skit, "Alice in Wonderland," were Linda Simms, Alice; Barb Stock, the White Rabbit; and Janice O'Connell, the Queen.

Opening lead—♥ 6

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

Partnership confidence is a wonderful thing. You assume that any time your partner makes a bid he has the values to warrant it. That part is easy. It is far more difficult when you have a good hand to realize that once you have shown your good hand by bidding you can rely on your partner to make full allowance for your hand.

JACOBY

In other words, once you have shown your full strength there is no need for you to continue after partner has indicated he has no interest in going part score to game or from game to a slam.

The defense slipped a trifle against today's three no-trump contract. West held off twice when spades were led. He had no way to be sure that South did not have a third spade and he wanted to keep the suit from ever developing.

South made two spades and his own three aces and was only down four tricks.

North asked why South hadn't let him play the hand in spades. South replied that if North only held the ace of spades three no-trump would have made.

North said, "If I had had six spades to the ace-jack I would have been fully aware of them!"

South pointed out that North would have been down one at three spades.

North said, "You should have trusted my judgment and passed at two spades." He was right. They were playing that a two spade, heart or diamond response to a no-trump opening was a sign-off but South contended he had a full 17 points, three aces and the king and queen of spades for his no-trump.

South also should have known that his partner had heard the opening bid.

This hand shows one advantage of the Jacoby transfer. Playing that convention, North would have responded two hearts. South would have bid two spades and would have been mighty sad when North passed, but mighty happy when he saw the dummy.

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠10 8 7 6 5 ♥A K 9 4 3 ♦K Q ♣2
What do you do?

A—Bid four spades. There is no reason to show your heart suit because you have no interest in a slam and the spades are going to be satisfactory as trump.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Can Mia's Sub Make It as Star? Her Fans Think So

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — They come and go, the little starlets of the screen, like daisies in the spring.

Or, like a summer meteor, they flash across the sky in a stab of brightness, then disappear into oblivion.

One out of a hundred or so has enduring qualities. Her luminosity lasts. She becomes a star.

Is Jacqueline Bisset, the young British beauty who replaced Mia Farrow in "The Detective," such a one? The entertainment world is wondering. So is Jacqueline.

"This girl can act," said McMahon, "and she has the kind of face a cameraman likes to photograph forever."

Jacqueline is tall, slender and bosomy, and has gray-green eyes and coppery brown hair.

Just turned 23, Miss Bisset — her chums call her Jackie — is a former photographic model who first won real studio attention with a small but standout part in "Two for the Road." Altogether, she has been in seven films.

SHE'S SURPRISED

"Lately, I've been surprised to find I can act," she said candidly. "I never thought I could.

"Until I was 16 I wanted to be a ballet dancer and dance my way across all the great stages of the world to tremendous applause. I was a pretty starry-eyed kid.

"But I was shy and had no confidence in myself. I was self-critical to the point of complete negativeness.

"Only now an I beginning to be a bit more sure of myself. I love film work. I like acting because I have some need for self-expression."

Jackie's father is a Scottish doctor who has a practice near London. Her mother was formerly a lawyer in Paris. Jackie left a London girls' school at 19 to begin a modeling career.

"I didn't feel at home in that school," she said, smiling at the memory. "It was terribly tomboyish and athletic, and I didn't feel very masculine."

Asked about her goals, Jackie said she hoped to achieve stardom as an actress, then remarked:

"But I want most of all to grow up and be a good woman. That sounds pretty silly, doesn't it? But I feel it is self-explanatory, and I don't want to add to it.

SORTING OUT

"Right now I am trying to sort out the good from the bad and be a little more discriminating, particularly about people. I'm trying to live a little deeper than the physique.

"I have met jaded people, and my greatest fear is that I'll lose my own feeling of curiosity. That is the only thing that frightens me.

Here are the things Jackie likes:

"Reading Sunday papers — the smell of apples, horses and burning logs — the sounds of Wagner, beating drums, pelting rain — mornings in thunder, stormy surf and California and November dusks in England — the poetry of Keats, Shakespeare and Baudelaire — soul people, who have other interests than money — and men who are real he-men. I have a hang-up on men with long dark hair and piercing blue eyes."

HER DISLIKES

Here are her dislikes:

"Talking about myself — turquoise jewelry — big ostentatious hairdos — phoniness — white shoes — cynical people — and cold modern buildings. I like people and buildings that have a sense of the past."

Nice kid, Jackie. Honest, too.

Czechs Face Economic Crunch

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia is headed toward a critical test of its ability to resist intimidation by the Soviet Union. Any showdown can find this little country painfully vulnerable to pressure.

The story literally pours out in this nation of 14 million whose Communist party leaders not long ago were bound by the Communist tradition of secretiveness. A series of party meetings at various levels has been examing the nation's position, and while the determination to resist seems firm, Czechoslovakia's vulnerability appears to be dictating a policy of caution.

At best, Czechoslovak Communist sources say, the struggle for internal independence will be sharply uphill and agonizingly slow. There is always a chance that the reformers will tell the story. They know that Czechoslovakia's quest for freedom can be strangled by turning economic screws.

The Russians, although they have a strong whip hand in a situation which would not necessarily require the threat of military pressure, are believed by Western observers here to have overreacted to events in Czechoslovakia.

WORRY ABOUT IDEAS

The Russians appear to be extremely worried about a contagion of ideas stemming from Czechoslovakia's desire to reform a 20-year-old system that turned a prosperous nation into one now on the verge of having to live hand-to-mouth.

Czechoslovakia borders on the Soviet Union, Hungary, Poland and East Germany, and the quest for less totalitarianism strikes responsive chords.

Another Soviet worry appears to be that Czechoslovakia will follow the lead of Romania, though for different reasons, and turn its back on Comecon, the East European economic bloc. This would be another contribution to the splintering of what once was a monolith under Moscow control.

Czechoslovakia leaders, however, are aware of the difficulties and seek to change Comecon — the Council for Mutual Economic Aid — rather than depart from it. That will not be easy, either. The proposed methods smack of heresy.

FEEL VICTIMIZED

Czechoslovakia feels itself to have been victimized by the Soviet-dominated council. Moscow decreed that this country's role was to help others of the bloc develop industrially, Czechoslovakia being the most advanced member at the time of Comecon's creation.

Prague saw Comecon as a natural and expanding market, but the arrangement bled the Czechoslovakia economy. The industrial goods it produced, which could have been sold for hard currency elsewhere, went into the nonprofitable Communist market.

Well-informed sources say that when Alexander Dubeck, the new chief of what now is predominantly an independence-minded party leadership, went to Moscow recently, he told the Russians some unpleasant things.

Czechoslovakia in the Communist bloc is a creditor nation. Moscow and other bloc countries owe this country 8 million crowns in hard currency, the equivalent of about $50 million, about half of which is owed by the Soviet Union.

SHIPPING POINTS

In addition, other Czechoslovak resources were shipped in cold war competition to areas like Indonesia, Egypt, Africa and Cuba where the Soviet party had specific goals.

To the Soviet Union went the best of what Czechoslavakia could produce, all the way from modern steamships to the light industry goods so popular with Soviet consumers. In return, Czechoslovakia imported crude oil, iron ore, other raw materials and grain.

But while Czechoslovak goods are high in quality in comparison with others from the Red bloc, they are below Western standards and can hardly compete in Western markets for hard currency.

Thus Czechoslovakia is heavily dependent upon the Soviet Union and the bloc, not only for the raw materials without which its industry could not function, but for a good share of its grain imports. At the same time Czechoslovakia is dependent upon the East as the only real market for its goods at this time.

OBSTACLES TO WEST

There are formidable obstacles in the way of Czechoslovakia's entry into effective competition in Western markets. One is the severe shortage of hard currency. The other is the Czechoslovak system itself, built up over the past 20 years.

The new leaders of Czechoslovakia have reached their moment of decision: whether to retain elements of the old system that retarded this nation's economy or to adopt methods that would violate principles of Marxism as propounded by Moscow.

The crunch period for this country is at hand.

"It is impossible to go on the way we have been," a highly placed Czechoslovak source said. "We have to make a new economic system."

How good is your instinct for investing?

"I'm a stock broker. Here are 4 common investment situations and a quick, easy way to test how well you might handle them."

QUESTION 1: You've been thinking that common stocks might help take care of your future. One day, a friend offers to let you in on a "great deal," but you have to act fast. Would you do it?

ANSWER: The "rush" sign is your cue to pause. Does the stock complement your investment goal? For instance, a second income from dividends might be best for you. (Take its dividend record into account.) Or perhaps your goal is to let your money grow along with the economy. (Ask a broker with a member firm of the New York Stock Exchange for his opinion of the company's prospects.) Or possibly you're mainly interested in preserving your capital over the long term, plus a good, steady interest payment. (You might look at high-grade bonds.) Ask a registered representative to explain the risks as well as rewards, and to help you reason out a sensible investment program.

QUESTION 2: You think a certain stock has possibilities for growth. You decide to buy some. If you use your emergency fund, you could buy more. Would you do it?

ANSWER: Smart investors don't invest money they'll need for living expenses and emergencies. Don't turn a reasonable risk into a foolish one by over-extending yourself.

QUESTION 3: Your wife agrees investing is a great way of providing for the future. She's practical so she feels you should get facts first. Your impulse is to buy right away before the price of the stock goes up. Would you follow your impulse?

ANSWER: Smart wife. Take time to get facts from a member firm. Ask about the company's earnings, dividends, position in its industry. What you decide to buy, and when, should also be considered in the light of current prices and market conditions.

QUESTION 4: "What difference does it make which broker I use?" you ask. Would you let it go at that and use the first one you come across?

ANSWER: Don't let it go "at that." Consider a member firm of the Exchange. Member firm brokers had to meet Exchange requirements when registered to serve the public. No broker is infallible, but his information and point of view may be just what you need to help your own judgment along.

Stock Mart Holds Small Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market held a small gain in active trading early this afternoon.

After a mixed opening prices firmed on a broad front.

More than 5.5 million shares changed hands within the first two hours. The New York Stock Exchange ticker tape was one minute late in reporting floor transactions most of the morning.

Brokers said there was little in the way of developments to influence the market, which has been in a consolidation phase for the last several sessions.

Mail order-retail and electronics were mostly higher. Rails, Oils, airlines and drugs declined.

Changes of key issues were mostly fractional, but a few ranged to a point or so.

AVERAGE UP

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 1.45 at 893.05.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon had gained 6 to 399.1 with industrials up .9, rails up .9, and utilities off .5.

School Busing to Be Proposed

A proposal is to be presented to the Pontiac Board of Education tomorrow for providing bus transportation for students in city limits living at least a mile for the school they attend.

The $98,139 proposal would provide for the first large-scale busing of students within the city. Most students now being bused live outside the city limits.

Pupils who live in the city more than a mile from the elementary school they attend and junior high students more than 1½ miles from school would be transported under the plan.

Schools Business Manager Vernon L. Schiller said board action is not expected tomorrow.

The board may or may not approve the plan after teacher negotiations are completed and money available for the proposal is known, according to Schiller.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the adminstration building, 350 E. Wide Track.

2 Held in Holdup

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gene Lyle Speaks, 24, of Haslett, Mich., and Allen Eugene Higgins, 22, of Excelsior, Minn., were charged with robbery Monday by Salt Lake City police. They were arrested at a roadblock shortly after the early morning holdup of a Salt Lake City service station and were jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond each. An undetermined amount was taken in the robbery.

City of Wyoming OKs Open Housing

The city became the fourth in the metropolitan Grand Rapids area to adopt a fair housing code. Previously Grandville and East Grand Rapids followed the lead of the core city.

In an unrelated action, Earl Robons, 69, a Wyoming commissioner since the suburb incorporated as a city of 1959, resigned Monday. He cited health and business reasons for his resignation.

Lindsay Predicts 1 of 8 in NY to Be on Welfare

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has predicted that one out of every eight residents of New York City will be on welfare rolls by the middle of next year as he submitted a record $6.1-billion city operating expense budget for the next fiscal year.

If current trends continue, Lindsay said, more than one million persons will be on welfare by mid-1969. The figure now is about 873,000.

The budget-topped only by the $182-billion federal budget — was described as an "austerity" budget by the Republican mayor, who was on a short vacation in the Bahamas as the document was presented Monday to the Democratic-controlled City Council and Board of Estimate.

The budget calls for spending $840 million, or 16 per cent, more than the current budget. Almost one-half of the increase had to be earmarked for the $1.2 billion in welfare costs expected, Lindsay said.

Cause No. 21151
STATE OF MICHIGAN—In the Probate Court for the County of Oakland, Juvenile Division.
In the matter of the petition concerning Delores Evelyn Eldred, Minor.
To Harry Richard Eldred, father of said minor child.
Petition having been filed in this Court alleging that said child comes within the provisions of Chapter 712A of the Compiled Laws of 1948 as amended, in that the present whereabouts of the father of said minor child is unknown and said child is dependent upon the public for support, and that said child should be placed under the jurisdiction of this Court.
In the Name of the People of the State of Michigan, you are hereby notified that the hearing on said petition will be held at the Court House, Oakland County Service Center, in the City of Pontiac in said County, on the 6th day of June A.D. 1968, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, and you are hereby commanded to appear personally at said hearing.
It being impractical to make personal service hereof, this summons and notice shall be served by publication of a copy one week previous to said hearing in The Pontiac Press, a newspaper printed and circulated in said County.
Witness, the Honorable Norman R. Barnard, Judge of said Court, in the City of Pontiac in said County, this 27th day of May A.D. 1968.

Marine Retrial in 1st Full Day

Corporal Charged in Viet Woman's Murder

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — The murder retrial of Cpl. Stanley J. Luczko moves into its first full session today in a cramped, whitewashed court-martial room at this huge Marine Corps base.

At a day-long out-of-court hearing Monday, defense counsel Frank J. McGee Jr. pleaded without success for either dismissal of charges or a change of venue back to Vietnam.

Luczko, 22, of Gardner, Mass., was convicted at Da Nang in South Vietnam in January 1967 of the murder of a Vietnamese woman. He said in his defense he thought she was a member of the Vietcong.

He was sentenced to life imprisonment but appealed. A Naval board or review overturned the conviction, saying the mental condition of the young Marine at the time of the shooting had not been fully considered.

SEEKS NEW INDICTMENT

In addition to arguing for a change of venue, McGee sought to prove Monday that what the Luczko case needs is not just a new trial but a new indictment.

He charged that the original indictment was faulty because the legal officer who returned it, Lt. Col. J. L. Zorack, became "an arm of the prosecution" instead of an impartial investigator.

Two members of Luczko's patrol testified that Zorack had assured them of immunity from prosecution in the killing of the woman and her husband if they testified against the corporal in the original trial.

B'nai B'rith Honor to Top Ford Exec

NEW YORK (AP) — Arjay Miller, vice chairman of the Ford Motor Co. board of directors, will receive the B'nai B'rith National Industry Leader Award June 5.

The award recognizes Miller's "suigular achievements" in the realims of industry and business, his active participation in civic and humanitarian affairs of the American community, and his dedicated efforts to enhance the welfare of youth through education and career training."

1969 M-Week to Last 8 Days

LANSING (AP) — Michigan Week 1969 will run eight days instead of the customary seven.

Dale I. Sellers, president of the Greater Michigan Foundation, sponsor of the event, said the celebration would begin May 17 and end May 24.

In Memoriam 2

EVANOFF
IN LOVING MEMORY of our dear mother, Victoria A. Evanoff, who passed away May 27, 1966.
So many things have happened since you went away:
So many things I shared with you, If only you could have stayed;
I cannot bring the old days back, your hand I cannot touch;
But still have precious memories of one I loved so much.
Sadly missed by Helen, Gerry and Cindy.

IN LOVING MEMORY of Lena Hoobler who passed away May 28, 1965:
Peaceful be thy rest, Dear Mother
It is sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
Sadly missed by son, Bill and family.

I AM CONVINCED
That Our Dynamic Economy Offers Good Opportunity For Investment Now

I have been advising investors around the world for more than 40 years . . . and my conviction has never been stronger than it is today.

My conviction that there are gains to be made, and my awareness of the possible risks (there will always be an element of risk in the market) and possible rewards, has led to the development of an investment plan we at Spear and Staff call Decision Management.

Roger E. Spear, President

We use electronic computers, plus the skill of our research and investment specialists (some of whom help me with my syndicated investment column) to plan what, in our judgment, are the right moves for you. Decision Management has proven most helpful in achieving conservative growth for investors with capital ranging from $5,000 upward . . . investors who appreciate the risks and seek the rewards of a professionally managed common stock portfolio.

Our 32-page booklet, "Declare Your Own Dividends," is filled with facts and will tell you more, much more, about Decision Management. It is yours, with my compliments—and the coupon below.

LADY BE GOOD TO YOURSELF AND YOUR FAMILY
by insisting on this two bedroom older home — that's ideally located for everyone. Schools, churches and shopping all within a three block radius. Even has an upstairs apartment which includes all the furniture and can be rented for $30.00 a week. You'll have to see this home inside to appreciate the cleanliness. Can be yours for as little as $4,000 down on a land contract or FHA terms can be arranged.

$400 DOWN
plus closing costs will move you into this three bedroom ranch — only ten years old. Includes built-in oven and range. It's situated on the near north side in a nice residential area of comparable homes. It's clean and sharp and available at $12,900 on easy FHA terms.

IN WASHINGTON PARK
A FOUR BEDROOM
home awaits your inspection. Situated on a lovely landscaped corner lot — the features are many — a basement recreation room with ½ bath, fireplace in the living room, enclosed sun porch off the back, blacktop drive, incinerator and water softener. This brick home in this most desired location should sell fast. Owner's are moving out of state and are sacrificing at $20,500. ASK ABOUT OUR TRADE-IN PLAN!

FOUR BEDROOM
SYLVAN VILLAGE
There is easy living ahead for the family who selects this 1½ story brick home. It has 1½ baths, a 1½ car garage and community water. Lake and docking privileges are available on nearby Sylvan Lake, and the kids will go to the West Bloomfield Schools. OH SO NICE for $21,500 and remember, we will take your home in trade!

RENT BEATER
the payments are only $81.50 monthly on this two bedroom aluminum sided home on Pontiac's near north side. The garage is attached and the front porch is enclosed. The full price is only $9,000. Approx. $1,500 down should assume the present contract. Nice for newlyweds or retirees.

OUR GUARANTEED TRADE-IN PLAN IS DESIGNED FOR YOU, MR. HOME OWNER—WITHOUT IT — YOU MUST SELL BEFORE YOU BUY — OR BUY BEFORE YOU SELL — CALL RIGHT NOW TO TRADE THE HOME YOU OWN FOR THE HOME YOU WANT! Ask for Bob Harrell, Dave Bradley, JoAnn Heenan, Dick Bryan, Ken Hall, Eileen Moyer, Leo Kampsen, Dave Kramer, Al Gruner, Thurman Witt, Lee Kerr, Oleta Howard, Elaine Smith, Leo Bogert or Emery Butler. 1071 W. Boat Victim's Body Found

MONROE (AP)—The body of James Latamore, 20, of Detroit, missing since a May 11 boating accident on Lake Erie, was found Monday on the beach at nearby Sterling State Park.

Latamore was with his father, Sam, 50; brother, Jerome, 19, and Willie Madison, 26, when their 16 - foot outboard started to sink in Lake Erie off Colchester, Ont. All four jumped overboard but only Jerome was rescued by a passing sailboat.

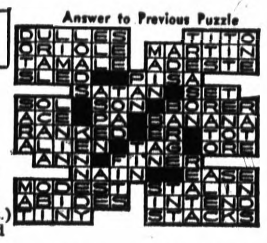
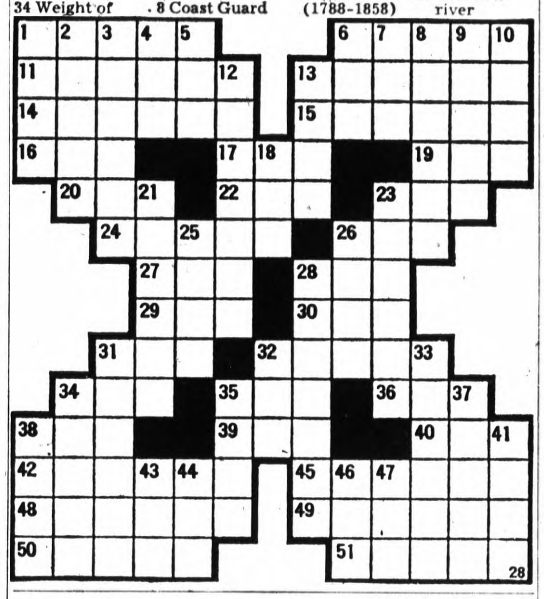
Answer to Previous Puzzle





A Look at TV

'Hawaii Ho': Too Busy

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — "Hawaii Ho," a musical special shot on location, was a very busy hour, so busy that it appeared to be a pilot show for a future series. If it was not demonstrating what it could do, it bit off more than the audience could easily absorb in 60 minutes.

The star of the Monday night NBC show, a smooth-voiced, attractive and professional Hawaiian performer named Don Ho, is obviously an institution in his home state but a comparative stranger to the mainland audience. He acted as soloist, chief guide and even lecturer on the brotherhood of man.

The hour was a strange and often awkward combination of show biz at its corniest, imaginative set design and that cozy, familiar atmosphere evoked by the Lawrence Welk Show.

The trouble was that it tried to do too many things — sell the beauties of the islands and the warmth of the people, sell sewing machines and related equipment, and sneak in lots of song and even a little dance. Obviously, in the short time, it could cover none of these bases except the sewing machines very effectively.

RATHER PLEASANT

It was a busy jumble, but in the main it added up to a rather pleasant hour. Ho, an interesting talent, should be seen more often on television.

ABC launched its new format news show Monday with new anchor man, Frank Reynolds. The show opened with a live-by-satellite interview with Ambassador Averell Harriman from Paris. This was enterprising, but Mr. Harriman had nothing much to say in the exclusive interview that he hadn't said before about the peace talks.

Reynolds ran through the day's headlines in the usual style of television newscasters. The highlight of the program was the appearance of the first of its editorial experts. It was a columnist, James J. Kilpatrick, who in hard and rather florid language condemned the demonstrating students at Columbia University. Reynolds promised that another side of the argument would be presented later.

It is doubtful that the new format will revolutionize broadcast journalism.

Current Budget Cuts Batteries

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City budget experts have found that the Sanitation Department has been manufacturing 3,000 batteries a year for its trucks at a cost of $52 each. They can be purchased on the market for $18 each.

Mayor John V. Lindsay ordered discontinuation of the battery shop Monday and eliminated $85,000 from the department's budget.

Aid to Czech Probe Gets 'No' From U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has rejected a senator's suggestion that the United States offer to help in Czechoslovakia's investigation of the death of Jan Masaryk.

Sen. Hugh Schott, R-Pa., had proposed U.S. action through diplomatic channels to help determine if the former president and foreign minister had been killed by Stalinists.

But William B. Macomber Jr., assisstant secretary of state for congressional relations, said the department "sees no way in which we could be helpful to the Czechoslovak government."

Leader to Speak

DETROIT (AP) — Bertram H. Gold, executive director of the American Jewish Committee, a human relations group will address the Detroit chapter June 11 in Detroit.

U.S. Education Benefits—14

Many Programs Can Help You Get Job Skills

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the 14th article in a 15-part series on U.S. educational and training benefits available to you.)

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Publications

There is federal help for young people in acquiring skills other than when they go to college.

Vocational students at eligible schools may apply for up to $1,000 a year of government loans for tuition, books and special fees for a maximum of two years.

Repayment is to begin nine months to one year after the student completes his course, or reduces his study work load to less than half time. Repayment of the loans must be completed within six years.

For further information, get in touch with the officials at the school at which you plan to enroll, your State Board of Vocational Education or the Division of Student Financial Aid, Bureau of Higher Education, U.S. Office of Education, Washington, D.C. 20202.

PART-TIME JOBS

Under the Vocational Education Act of 1963, federal funds are available to provide part-time employment to full-time students in vocational education programs who would otherwise be unable to continue their full-time schooling.

The regulations require that employment under work-study programs shall be for the local educational agency or some other public agency or institution.

Four categories of students are eligible:

- High school students.
- Young men and women who have left high school but who can study full time.
- Young people now employed or seeking jobs who are in need of training or retraining.
- Educationally or socially and economically handicapped youth.

For further information write the Bureau of Adult, Vocational and Library Programs, U.S. Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington, D.C. 20202.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps offers opportunities. Enrollees may work up to 15 hours a week until they graduate from high school. They may work 32 hours a week in some summer work experience projects.

In a typical in-school project, 90 per cent of the enrollees worked in their own schools as aides in athletics, counseling, audio-visual services, cafeterias, grounds maintenance, laboratory, library, printing shop and as teacher and office aides.

Youths 16 through 21 are eligible. For more information write to the Neighborhood Youth Corps, Office of Economic Opportunity, Washington, D. C., 20506.

Through the Neighborhood Youth Corps, also, unemployed dropouts may work up to 32 hours a week and receive up to eight hours a week of counseling and remedial education.

Dropouts normally may be enrolled for six months. However, if they begin part-time work toward a high school diploma or its equivalent they may remain in the program.

Youth Opportunity Centers in large urban areas select, test and counsel youth entering the job market, put these young people in touch with programs providing training skills that will improve their employability. The centers also aid the young people in finding jobs when training is completed.

For more information about them write to the Bureau of Employment Security, U.S. Labor Department, Washington, D.C. 20210.

AN IMPORTANT NOTE

All of the programs described in this series have been established by law and many have been in operation for years. However, the amount of money to operate these programs varies from year to year, depending on appropriations voted by Congress. Availability of some funds and openings in training programs may vary locally depending upon demand.

Junior Editors Quiz on GIRL SCOUTS

QUESTION: What was the origin of Girl Scouting?

ANSWER: The great organization of Girl Scouts has more than three million members in the United States and along with units in 48 other countries, is called the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts.

Girl Scouting aims to develop high character and patriotism in its members and to give them a rewarding program of companionship, work and play. The Scouts join in a belief in God and in the Girl Scout promise, binding each girl to do her duty to God and to her country, to help other people at all times and to obey the Girl Scout laws.

Girl Scouts learn many useful skills and have many rewarding programs, not only in their own community but also on a national scale.

The girls start as Brownies, then become Junior Girl Scouts, Cadettes, and finally Senior Scouts who are from 14 through 17 years of age.

Sir Robert Baden-Powell, a British officer, originated the Boy Scouts in 1907. Sir Robert's sister, Agnes Baden-Powell, began the Girl Guides program in 1909. The movement spread to America in 1912, the American organization adopting the name Girl Scouts in 1913.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

JIM BEAM BOURBON— MAKING NEWS SINCE 1795

CLERMONT, KY.—173 years ago Jacob Beam started making Beam Bourbon here in Kentucky. It is still being made here today. And still by the Beams.

Along with inspired skills, the making of a Bourbon like Beam requires an unusual combination of land, climate and natural materials. And it's all here, in north central Kentucky.

There's the ancient, underlying limestone springs that supply sweet, clear water—a vital ingredient in the making of fine Bourbon.

The rich, fertile, surrounding valleys and plains provide the needed corn, rye and barley.

And then there's the great forests of white oak. It's in new charred barrels of this cant... wood, fre... the all-imp... takes plac... The qu... Beam Bou... much to th... tion and adherence to the original formula.

Elementary Enrichment Classes

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

All classes begin the week of June 24 and end August 2 . . . Children in the surrounding area are eligible to participate, but in case of limited classes, Waterford school district residents will receive priority.

ARCHERY — For beginners — basic fundamentals such as bow stringing, parts and care of equipment, form and scoring. Includes shooting practice. Some equipment will be furnished; bring your own if you have any. Grades 4, 5, 6, 7 fee $3.00.

ART ENRICHMENT — Use of various art media in creation of own masterpieces. Grades 1-6 — fee $3.00.

ARTS AND CRAFTS — An experience for the youngster who likes to use his hands creatively; skills with leather, plaster of paris, braiding, etc. Grades 4,5,6 — fee $3.00 plus materials.

BATON TWIRLING — Basic instruction in twirling for children in third grade and up. Students furnish their own baton — fee $3.00.

CERAMICS — The basic fundamentals of turning greenware into beautiful pieces of ceramic work. Grades 5,6,7 — fee $3.00 plus materials.

COOKING — Basic cooking instructions for the young boy or girl — planning, preparing and eating simple meals. Practical and fun — grades 4,5,6 — fee $3.00.

CREATIVE DRAMATICS — Children will have fun making up their own plays and doing scenes in which they create their own words and action. They may put on a circus one week and an original version of "Cinderella" the next. Classes are geared to ideas of the group with emphasis on the fun of acting. Grades 4,5,6 — fee $3.00.

DRAMA CLUB — Different from creative dramatics in that in this class a particular play will be selected and the class will carry out a complete production including costuming, sets and acting. Grades 1-6, fee $3.00.

FIELD TRIPS — This program is designed to acquaint youngsters with points of interest in the southeastern Michigan area. An excellent opportunity for broadening their experiences.

FRENCH/SPANISH — A language experience for the younger set; songs' greetings and phrases in a foreign language. Grades 4,5,6 — fee $3.00.

GOOD GROOMING FOR GIRLS — Basic skin, hair care and styling. Manicuring, clothing hints and etiquette; diet and fitness. Grades 5,6,7 — fee $3.00.

GYM ACTIVITIES — Primarily scheduled at those schools where there is no recreation playground. These activities are designed to give youngsters a chance to let off some steam in the gym. Some of these programs are limited in terms of age and activities. Check the school listings to see what is available for your youngsters in your area. No fee.

KNITTING-SEWING — Basic fundamentals for elementary girls. Have fun and learn how to make basic articles of sewing or knitting. Grades 2-6, fee $3.00.

LANGUAGE ART ENRICHMENT — Creative experiences in reading and writing for the youngster who enjoys this form of self expression. Grades 4,5,6 — fee $3.00.

LIBRARY SCHEDULE — Some schools will have their library open this summer to allow youngsters to take books out. Check your school listing.

PIANO — Paper keyboard method to teach basic fundamentals of piano playing. Grades 1-6, fee $3.00.

RECREATION PLAYGROUNDS — See the playground section of this brochure.

SCIENCE FOR FUN — One meeting a week planned for young people who want to keep up in science during the summer. Each session consists of a scientific demonstration presented in a popular way with individual student participation. Grades 4,5,6 — fee $3.00.

STORY HOUR — Designed for the younger set to stimulate imagination and interest in the world of wonderful stories. Grades 1-3. Fee $3.00.

SUMMER SINGERS — A summer sing for fun; show tunes, classics and children's favorites — just for the pure fun of singing. Grades 1-6, fee $3.00.

ELEMENTARY READING ENRICHMENT CLASSES

These classes are designed for those students who need help in reading but who do not need a remedial program. Each class will be different as the teacher individualizes the instruction as much as possible. Emphasis is placed on interest, motivation and appreciation — always highlighting the "fun" experiences in reading. Games, Choral reading, pantomine and story playing are important activities in summer classes. The idea is to maintain reading skills over the summer and in many cases even strengthen and further develop these skills. All classes are taught by certified reading teachers.

The basic format of the classes is desinged so that the class meets 3 hours a day, 2 days a week for reading with Friday reserved for a bus field trip which will focus attention outside of school and serve as a focal point for further reading experiences.

There are 12 such classes throughout the township. You may enroll your youngster at the school nearest you. (Fee $10.00).

WATERFORD JUNIOR GOLF ASSOCIATION

Mr. John Saum Director, Call 674-0776 or 674-0376

JUNE 17 THRU AUGUST 17, 1968

The junior golf program offers boys and girls of Waterford Township an opportunity for group instruction and on-the-course experience. Upon completion of registration, clinics will be established at each junior high school. Play dates and clinic times and days will be dependent on the numbers and locations in the township of the entrants.

There are three divisions:

Par 3 Girls — Girls 9-18
Par 3 Boys — Boys 9-13
9 Hole Boys — Boys 14-18

Skills, in addition to age, will be considered for division placement. Each division will be divided into flights and compete on a handicap basis. There will be weekly tournament winners and trophies will be presented to flight winners of the final 18 hole tournament in August.

The par 3 divisions will have 5 weekly tournaments and 8 clinics dealing with club house etiquette, course etiquette and golf instructions. Clinics are mandatory.

The 9 hole division will have 6 weekly tournaments and 6 instruction clinics. The first 3 clinics are mandatory, the latter 3 voluntary.

The entry deadline is Monday, June 10th. The program begins June 17th. All applicants will receive additional information regarding schedules, starting times, etc., before opening day.

Costs: $4.00 registration fee for each division, Plus:
.50 Par 3—each round of golf green fees
1.00 or 1.50—9 hole—each round of golf green fees

Navy Hunts Overdue N-Sub

SLATTERY

An obvious if unexpressed Navy fear was that the $40-million U.S. attack sub may have suffered a fate similar to that of the Thresher, which disappeared April 10, 1963 with 129 men aboard. The Thresher was never recovered.

Planes were scheduled to join vessels ordered into a broad search yesterday when the Scorpion failed to report as

A rescue force of 36 ships and 7,500 men were deployed from Norfolk, Charleston, S.C.; New London, Conn.; Key West and Mayport, Fla.; Newport, R.I.; Fall River, Mass., and Rota, Spain.

Sixteen ships were from Norfolk.

SISTER SHIPS SEARCH

Ships included 21 destroyers, 6 nonnuclear submarines, 3 sister ships to the Scorpion — the Lapon, Pargo and Shark — four submarine rescue vessels, one salvage ship and one experimental navigation ship.

A source said Navy attempts to contact the sub — which he termed "part of the normal missing sub procedure" — were continuing.

Because she was returning to the United States submerged, the Navy had not received communications from the Scorpion since midnight May 21. This was termed routine.

But about noon yesterday the Scorpion should have contacted Norfolk, Va., for docking space. Relatives waited at the port. No message came. She was due there at 1 p.m.

"The weather is very, very bad out there," Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of Naval Operations, said.

Admiral Moore offered two possibilities of what may have happened merely to delay the Scorpion;

- Weather may have caused her to slow up, and she may have radioed a message about the delay which was lost in stormy turbulance.
- The Scorpion may have altered her course as she rose from the Atlantic's depths to approach the shallower, 650-foot-deep continental shelf extending 40 to 50 miles from the Eastern seaboard, thus slowing her arrival.

The latter possibility, however, would

Three-Day Rainfall 8 Inches in Area

Planning to build an ark? You couldn't pick a better time. If history is due to repeat itself, you've 37 days left to complete the venture before it's time to board.

Rain has plagued the Oakland County area since Sunday morning. Between 8 a.m. yesterday morning and 8 a.m. this morning, 6.1 inches inundated the area breaking all previous records, according to Pontiac Press weather files. The heaviest rainfall previously recorded was five inches on Aug. 31, 1925.

Adding the 2.56 inches of rain that fell Sunday to that of yesterday and today shows a total of 8.66 inches for the three-day deluge.

Among the schools closed due to flooded conditions are the West Bloomfield Senior High School at 6000 Orchard Lake, West Bloomfield Township; and the Hill School at 4600 Forsythe, Troy. Both are expected to open tomorrow.

PHONE SERVICE STALLED

Telephone service was interrupted to 450 known subscribers in the Pontiac area with 50 wet cables reported.

"We won't be out of the woods troublewise," said a Michigan Bell spokesman, "until Wednesday afternoon if the rain quits right now. If it continues to come down, there will be more trouble."

The weather forecast calls for rain to continue through today with periods of light drizzle. It should end tonight with temperaures remaining cool.

Temperatures are to remain cool tomorrow with partly cloudy skies. The clouds will stay though Thursday though the mercury is to warm slightly.

PRECIPITATION AHEAD

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are today 30, tonight 20 and tomorrow 20.

Water still covered sections of several main roads throughout the area today, according to the Oakland County Road Commission.

Areas where flooding has slowed traffic include Dixie south of Walton in Waterford Township; Greenfield between 10 and 11 mile roads in Southfield;

Louisville Erupts; Guard Is Called In

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Between 200 and 400 National Guardsmen patrolled the streets of Louisville today after looting, burning and scattered violence broke out in the city's predominantly Negro west end.

The disturbance, which erupted following a street corner rally last night, resulted in the arrest of 90 adults and 40 juveniles, most of whom police said were charged with disorderly conduct or breach of peace.

Sporadic sniper fire injured at least two men.

Relative calm returned to the city of 400,000 about 1:30 a.m.

Oregon Offers Best Hope for Sen. McCarthy

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Oregon Democrats vote today in a presidential popularity contest that offers campaigner Eugene J. McCarthy his best hope of stopping Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's drive for a sweep of their primary contests.

If McCarthy should win, Kennedy said, the benefit would go to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, an Oregon absentee.

fornia Gov. Ronald Reagan and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Rockefeller's name is not on the ballot.

Kennedy and his lieutenants were uneasy, McCarthy talked optimistically.

'VERY CLOSE'

"Indications are, it will be very close," said McCarthy, who lost primaries to Kennedy in Indiana on May 7 and in Nebraska on May 14. "I have reason to be optimistic about it."

The Minnesota senator said his past defeats were but distractions in a campaign which now is back on track.

"I don't know how it's all going to turn out tomorrow," Kennedy told his wind-up rally in Portland last night. "The polls say its like that," Kennedy said, holding two fingers side by side.

There were 35 Democratic nominating votes at stake, but much more was involved for Kennedy, whose strategy is based on a sweep of the primaries he has entered. He said at one point that he had to win Oregon to remain a viable candidate.

'MY OPPONENT'

"Vice President Humphrey is my opponent," Kennedy said. "If Oregon is adverse to me, the vice president will get the benefit."

Polls opened at 8 a.m. Pacific Daylight Time — 11 a.m. EDT — for 12 hours of balloting expected to produce a record turnout.

The campaigns, both Democratic and Republican, wound up last night with a barrage of television broadcasts.

Kennedy dashed across Oregon in a hectic final day of campaigning, then flew to Los Angeles to spend election day seeking votes for the California primary on June 4.

McCarthy planned to go campaigning in California, too. Both candidates return to Portland tonight to await the Oregon decision.

U.S. Plans Long Paris Talks

PARIS (AP) — Top U.S. negotiators at the Paris peace talks are looking for houses or apartments, anticipating months of talks with the North Vietnamese on the war in Southeast Asia.

Aides said W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus R. Vance, the two American negotiators, are planning to move out of the Hotel Crillon, where they have been living since the talks started May 13. Xuan Thuy and his North Vietnamese delegation moved to a villa on the outskirts of Paris 10 days ago.

Associates said Harriman and Vance have not decided on new quarters.

Harriman and Thuy, displaying no concern over social and political forces swirling through France, met yesterday for four hours and 10 minutes and parted in agreement only on meeting again Friday.

TALKS COULD MOVE

Western diplomats speculate privately that if impact of the French strikes becomes much worse or if violence erupts in Paris again and becomes more widespread and intense, the United States and North Vietnam will have to consider moving the talks.

The U.S. delegation found evidence of movement on North Vietnam's part yesterday on the question of whether North Vietnamese forces are fighting in South Vietnam.

Thuy repeated that the United States is the aggressor and should stop attacking the North without northern cutback in military activity. He said Vietnam is one country and any Vietnamese has the right to fight for it.

William J. Jorden, the U.S. delegation's press spokesman, said this "is a little closer" to admitting presence of Northern troops in the South than any previously made by Thuy.

HARRIMAN PRESSES ISSUE

Harriman pressed Thuy. He argued that peacemaking depends on facts, not "distortions."

Bonds for Airport Hangars at Oakland-Pontiac OK'd

A $316,000 revenue bond issue to provide 51 new hangars for Oakland-Pontiac Airport was approved by the board of supervisors yesterday.

The bond issue would be retired in 25 years, paid for out of hangar rentals, according to the proposal.

The new hangars will be built in the northwestern part of the field in Waterford Township.

In other business, a resolution was introduced that could allow citizens to speak to the supervisors at their meetings.

COULD NOT SPEAK

Previously, according to the bylaws, a citizen could not speak at the meetings if a single board member objected. According to the recommended bylaw change a citizen could speak unless three members objected.

The change will be considered at the next board meeting scheduled for 9:30 a.m., June 10.

The board also approved acquisition of rights-of-way for widening of Greenfield Road in Southfield. The road improvement will be one of the projects of the County Road Commission.

Formal approval to grant the U.S. Army 3½ acres of county land on Watkins Lake Road north of Pontiac Lake Road is scheduled for the June 10 board meeting.

The lease has not yet been signed by the Army but action by both the Army and the county should be taken by June 10 when formal approval is expected, according to a county official.

The Army wants to build a new reserve center to replace the present leased building at 40 Walnut in Pontiac.

A jury of 12 married men announced its verdict of first degree manslaughter at 1:55 a.m. and the crowded courtroom gave a collective gasp. The 29-year-old defendant, a former cocktail waitress, sagged into the arms of her attorneys.

A whimper and a sob escaped her bowed head, her shoulders began quivering and a moment later she collapsed completely under routine questioning by the court clerk.

The white-haired Justice Peter T. Farrell revoked her $25,000 bond and remanded her to the Women's House of Detention. "Oh, no!" she cried as attendants led her away and she left with a last agonized look toward her husband, Edmund, 32.

After she left, he buried his face in his hands and sobbed uncontrollably.

Farrell, who presided at the 14-day trial, set July 12 for sentencing on the conviction which could bring a prison term of from 10 to 20 years. Harold C. Harrison, chief defense counsel, said he would appeal the verdict.

The state charged that Mrs. Crimmins strangled her daughter, Alice Marie, on the night of July 13, 1965, rather than lose custody of the child to the father from whom she was then estranged.

Memorial Day Closings Listed

Most area stores and public service agencies will be closed Thursday in observance of Memorial Day.

City, county, state and local federal offices will shut down for the holiday.

The post office will observe regular holiday schedules. There will be no regular window of delivery services, although special delivery will be available.

Mail will be collected on holiday schedules from deposit points, and the lobby at the main post office, 735 W. Huron, and will be open for access to locked boxes and stamp dispensing equipment.

Emergency services, such as police and fire, will be maintained.

All operations at the Fisher Body plant and GMC Truck and Coach Division will be curtailed Thursday with the exception of those employes assigned to seven-day operations.

Pontiac Motor Division said all operations will be curtailed Thursday unless employes are notified otherwise.

All GM facilities will resume production Friday.

'Sweat Equity' Loses Temporarily

LANSING (AP) — "Sweat equity," a means enabling a person to make a down-payment on a low cost housing by helping construct it, was temporarily defeated Monday in the Senate.

The upper chamber approved measures calling for a $100 million state recreation bond issue referendum and to make industrial spying illegal.

The sweat equity bill was expected to be reconsidered today — the final day for passage of bills from the opposite chamber.

Gov. George Romney has called for such a measure as a method of helping the poor to obtain housing.

300 HOURS

The sweat equity bill provides that persons with incomes of $5,000 or less can make a down-payment on a home by contributing at least 300 hours of labor in the construction of it.

The houses, to be built by nonprofit housing corporations, could not cost more than $12,000. An individual who chose to contribute his labor would be required to accumulate the 300 hour total within 15 weeks.

Senate Minority Leader Raymond D. Dzendzel, D-Detroit, argued against the measure on grounds that most of the applicants wouldn't possess the skills necessary to build a home.

"Most people wouldn't know how to start digging," Dzendzel said, let alone handle the plumbing or electrical work.

'JUST AN EXCUSE'

Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, said the sweat equity bill distorts the housing problem.

"It assumes it would solve our problem by telling every man to get a hammer and paint brush," he said. "Sweat equity becomes an excuse for lack of a state program."

Saying that, in effect, Michigan has no housing program, Levin added, "An adequate housing program would involve $5-$10 million."

An earlier bill passed by the Senate enables the State Housing Development Authority to authorize a sweat equity provision in construction of housing for the poor.

Levin has charged that so far, as a result of this law, not one home has been constructed.

Because of participants' lack of skills, Dzendzel added, "what we would be rebuilding is slum areas that would have to be condemned in 10 years."

trade secrets.

The Senate also passed the $100 million state recreation bond issue. The bonds are subject to a statewide referendum in November.

USES FOR BONDS

If approved, the funds would be used to develop parks, forests, wildlife areas and fisheries, and to make loans to local governmental bodies for the same purposes.

A bill making state and local housing projects exempt from taxes also was approved by the upper chamber. The measure provides that in lieu of taxes the owner shall pay a service charge to advance further projects.

The service charge shall total 10 per cent of the annual rent or the tax on the property prior to construction.

not have explained her failure to communicate with shore.

He said it would be routine for the Scorpion to remain submerged until rough seas subsided but acknowledged she would have tried to contact with her home base.

Would she have messaged in case of trouble? "Of course," he said.

The Scorpion, an atomic-driven ship designed to stalk an enemy's submarines or destroy his surface fleet, had been on what was described as a routine extended training exercise in the Mediterranean.

REPORT NEAR GIBRALTAR

She headed home May 17. After passing Gibraltar the sleek vessel — a class older than the ill-fated Thresher — reported her position, course and speed.

This message, Moorer said, was about midnight while the Scorpion plied the Atlantic at 18 knots on a 290 degree (almost due west) heading just south of the Azores.

Her position at that time: 31.19 north, 27.37 west.

The Azores are about 2,200 miles east of Norfolk. The search was ordered about 25 miles either side of the line of Scorpion's expected route from the point of her last communication to Norfolk.

Atlantic depths range to 18,000 feet in places although there is one 6,000-foot mid-ocean ridge.

School Borrowing Bill OK'd

LANSING (UPI) — With its chief opponent absent, a bill to give school districts increased authority to borrow money without popular votes yesterday was cleared of parliamentary snags in the Senate.

In a tit-for-tat exchange, two senators changed votes cast Thursday different ways, enabling the bill to move back to the House for concurrnece in a Senate amendment. The final outcome was the same as it ended up Thursday, 20-11.

Absent from the session last night was Sen. John Bowman, D-Roseville, who attacked the increased bonding authority as "another example of the Legislature stripping people of their rights to vote on local issues."

The bill gives second-, third- and fourth-class school districts power to raise their bonding limit for construction without a public vote from 2 per cent to 5 per cent of the district's state equalized valuation. The three classifications comprise all school districts except Detroit, which is a first-class district.

ANTICIPATED AID

The Senate attached an amendment to give districts authority to pledge anticipated state aid and property tax revenue against loans from banks.

Sen. Gary Byker, R-Hudsonville, said this was necessary because banks have been rejecting loan applications pledged against state aid since the Detroit public schools challenged the equity of the state aid formula in federal court.

Byker, who voted against the bill when it first came up Thursday, changed his vote to "yes" yesterday to give Sen. Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, an opportunity to change his vote from "yes" to "no."

City to Consider Tavern Licenses

The question of upgrading licenses of bars in the city which have tavern licenses will be taken up by the City Commission tonight at its 8 p.m. meeting at City Hall.

Commissioners are expected to approve a plan based on recommendations made by a special citizens committee in 1964.

The recommendations would allow the city's 14 taverns to get Class C licenses under special conditions to be met by the bars applying.

Tavern licenses allow only the sale of beer and wine for on premises consumption. Class C licenses also allow the sale of drinks which are more than 16 per cent alcohol by volume for on premises consumption.

Liquor licenses are issued by the State Liquor Control Commission but the state agency follows recommendations of the City Commission on upgrading.

In other action, the commission will hold a public hearing on the capital improvement fund budget for 1968, and is expected to approve an agreement with the Oakland County Road Commission governing expenditure of funds collected under a proposed one-mill countywide tax for road maintenance.

Huron Changes 3 Weeks Away

Expected changes in the traffic flow and parking on Huron between West and East Wide Track supposedly will take place after June 20, Director of Public Works and Service Joseph E. Neipling said today.

The city and State Highway Department have been negotiating for some months on a new arrangement which will see elimination of most parking on Huron and a new five-lane street arrangement.

Neipling said a hearing will be held by the highway department on June 20 to determine if there are objections to the plans.

The proposed traffic pattern calls for two lanes of eastbound and two lanes of westbound traffic, and a center lane for left turns.

METERS TO GO

Most meters along Huron will be removed and parking prohibited.

The state is in the process of securing land for expansion of East Huron between Mill and East Wide Track, presently one-way eastbound.

The only parking that will be allowed on Huron between the Wide Tracks will be in front of the Post Office annex, Neipling said.

Rights Hearings Set June 13-19

The Michigan Civil Rights Commission (CRC) will conduct a public inquiry June 13-19 on racial relations in Pontiac.

Cochairmen of the CRC, Julian A. Cook Jr. and John Dempsey, said the inquiry is being held to "examine the condition of race relations in the Pontiac area and to identify actions being taken by the government and the community to redress grievances and secure equal opportunity for all citizens."

City officials, community leaders and citizens have been invited to give testimony on conditions in the fields of employment, social services, housing, education and law enforcement.

The inquiry is the first of several which the commission plans to make in Michigan cities.

TWICE DAILY

Public hearings will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m. on each day of the inquiry.

Plans call for the hearings to be held at the following places:

Social services, June 14, Bagley Elementary School, 320 Bagley.

Housing, June 17, City Commission chambers; City Hall.

Education, June 18, Bagley School.

Law Enforcement, June 19, Bagley School.

Appeals Court Post Is Sought by Prosecutor

Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson will seek a seat on the Michigan Court of Appeals rather than run for reelection for the county post.

Bronson, 38, of 24540 Seneca, Oak Park, announced his decision today. He presently is serving his first four-year term as prosecutor. His term expires Dec. 31.

The judicial post being eyed by Bronson in 2nd Court of Appeals District is one of three created last week by the Legislature. The district takes in all of southeastern Michigan with the exception of Wayne County which comprises one district itself.

Noting that strict law enforcement is made difficult because overpermissiveness is prevalent, Bronson said that judges with law enforcement experience are needed in the courts.

'UNDERSTANDING VITAL'

"Greater understanding and appreciation of law enforcement problems is vital by those who seek judicial responsibility," said Bronson. "An opportunity for even greater service, by me, is now open."

Bronson said, "The responsibility presented by this opportunity to assist in fair and firm administration of justice, especially criminal justice, at a time of great change, not only in our country but also in the law is immense.

"It is a challenge which I accept and one which I will take to the people in each county of the district, and ask their support," he said.

Prior to his election in November 1964, Bronson practiced law in Oakland County for nearly 10 years. His law firm continues under the name of Bronson and Kutinsky, with offices in Madison Heights.

Riot-Cities Aid Section Cut From Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has stripped from an omnibus $5.2-billion housing bill a provision designed to give special help to cities ravaged by riots.

A vote of 57 to 2 knocked the section out of the measure Monday after opponents argued it might encourage rioters.

Holiday Shifts Plan for Rubbish Pickup

City rubbish collections normally made Thursday and Friday will be rescheduled because of the Memorial Day holiday, Gordon R. Matthrews, DPW superintendent of operations, said today.

Normal Thursday collections will be handled Friday, and Friday collections will be taken care of Saturday, he said.

Special collections for bulky items, usually Thursday, will be tomorrow, he said.

In addition, the city's sanitary land-fill on W. Kennett will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday to allow residents to dispose of trash, he said.

City Delays Zoning Action Pending Talks

BIRMINGHAM — After hearing both sides for more than two hours last night, the City Commission postponed a decision on a proposed cluster housing development on the southwest corner of Southfield and Lincoln for four weeks to allow objectors and the developer time to meet.

Commissioners expressed hope that the delay will give the parties a opportunity to iron out their dispute, since the major disagreement is not over the development of the property but over the type of homes that will be built.

The present zoning would permit him to construct 12 new homes on the site. Under his plan, he could construct 16 Two homes presently on the property would remain and be remodeled.

'HIGHEST QUALITY'

Attorney Daniel C. Devine, representing Metcalf, told the commission that four different type homes planned would be of the highest quality, ranging in price from $35,000 to $50,000.

"The entire plan would be developed at one time and not helter-skelter," said Devine.

The Birmingham Planning Board has recommended to the commission that R-2 zoning is the best use for the site, which has been the subject of numerous proposals since 1949.

George Meyer, spokesman for the Birmingham Hills Subdivision Homeowners Association, whose members make up the bulk of the opposition, outlined the position of the organization for the commission.

DEVELOPMENT FAVORED

"The Association is in favor of the development of the property as soon as possible, but it wants a development that would maintain the R-1 classification," added Meyers.

He said that the association probably would not oppose R-2 zoning if the developer could guarantee the same high standards set by surrounding homes.

A petition containing 270 signatures was presented to the commission in opposition to the plan, more than half of them from residents in Birmingham Hills, which abuts the property on the west and east.

Commissioners emphasized that no matter what agreement is reached by the homeowners and the developer before they return June 24, the final decision will be in their hands.

A proposed annexation election for a 7½-acre parcel in Bloomfield Township Board of Supervisors yesterday. The election previously had been set.

The land is at Big Beaver and Adams. The developer is C. Allen Harlan and the firm of Cranbrook Realty. The developer wanted the land annexed by Birmingham, where restrictions on numbers of dwelling units per acre are lower. The land is zoned multiple residential.

TWO YEARS OLD

The election had been approved by the supervisors' boundaries committee in a 3-2 vote. However, due to several delays in deliberations, by the time the issue came before the board of supervisors, the petitions calling for the election were two years old.

Speaking on behalf of Birmingham, Supervisor Carl Ingraham said the city commission was opposed to the annexation as were Bloomfield Township and Troy. The land abuts both Birmingham and Troy.

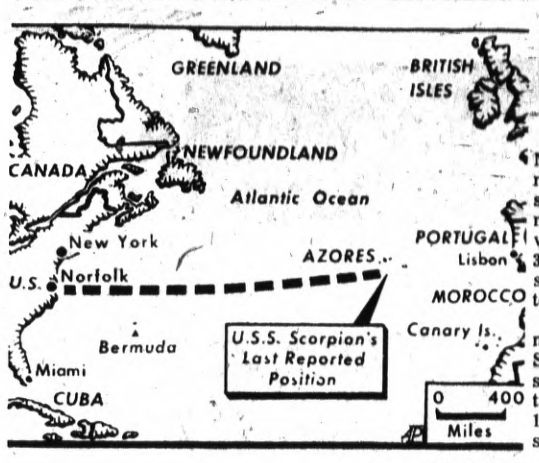
Navy Sub Rescue Gear Vintage '39—Admiral



AP Wirephoto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's available rescue equipment would have difficulty saving crewmen from the submarine Scorpion if the missing vessel were located deeper than 300 feet below the ocean's surface, a top Navy expert said today.

Capt. William M. Nicholson, manager of the Navy's Deep Submergence Systems Project, said "We are working essentially with equipment used in 1939" in saving 33 men from the sunken submarine Squalus.

The Squalus went down in 240 feet of water off New Hampshire.

"There have been some improvements but the equipment is basically the same," Nicholson said in an interview.

RESCUE BELL

The chief item in this equipment is a rescue bell which is lowered from a surface vessel and secured to a submarine hatch. Sub crewmen are lifted to the surface in the pressurized chamber.

The Navy has been working on an advanced rescue system, part of a broad underwater program costing an estimated $600 million.

But the first of a new breed of small rescue submarines capable of reaching depths of 3,500 feet will not be ready for use until 1970, Nicholson said.

"It would not have been finished today even under the best conditions," the Navy engineer said. "It's too big a job."

APPRAISALS CONFLICT

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of Naval Operations, told a news conference Monday night that the rescue bell could save trapped submarine crewmen from depths of "several hundred feet," depending on the condition of the submarine. An aide said the rescue bell could operate down to 650 feet.

But later Nicholson indicated that operations with the bell at such a depth were not practical. The key, he said, is the ability of a rescue vessel on the surface to moor and hold its position over a submarine.

For this reason, said Nicholson, it is "difficult to use effectively" this equipment at deeper than 300 feet.

He said it is extremely hard to moor a vessel over greater depths than that, and added that bad weather — with accompanying heavy seas — would make it even tougher because of pitch and roll.

20-FOOT WAVES

Waves as high as 20 feet were reported in the Scorpion search area.

The Navy hopes that the Scorpion, if it is in trouble, is on the continental shelf which stretches some 55 miles out from Norfolk, Va., and has a maximum depth of about 650 feet.

Moorer acknowledged the sub must be considered lost if it went down beyond the continental shelf. The water along the Scorpion's 2,100-mile course from the Azores, where it was last contacted, descends to as much as 18,000 feet.

A sub in trouble normally would send to the surface a line attached to a buoy, with a telephone inside the buoy. A rescue vessel finding the buoy could then speak to the trapped crewmen and also use the line as guide for lowering the rescue bell.

The Scorpion was also equipped with what is called "buoy and ascent" gear. This involves the donning of inflated vests which carry men to the surface.

A sailor would get into a submarine chamber below the hatch. The hatch would then be pressurized and the sailor would float to the surface, exhaling gradually to let out high pressure air and avoid the fatal air embolism.

Nicholson said all submarine crewmen were trained with this device to escape from depths of 80 feet. But he said one man, in a test, made it to the surface from 320 feet below.

Brief Profile of the Overdue N-Sub Scorpion

Displacement—3,075 tons.
Length—252 feet.
Crew—99 officers and men.
Cost—40 million.
Speed—20 knots surfaced, 35 submerged.
Operation capacity — 60,000 miles without refueling.
Torpedo tubes — six in the bow, 24 torpedoes carried.

N-Ship Target of Protest

The Navy said the aircraft carrier Enterprise will stay in Hong Kong until Thursday, as scheduled, and no shore leave will be canceled.

"A reply to the Peking protest is a matter for her majesty's government," in London, said a spokesman for the Hong Kong government.

ANTI-U.S. POSTERS

Hong Kong Communists plastered a number of buildings in Hong Kong with anti-American posters Monday and handed out leaflets to American troops on rest leaves, calling on them to surrender in Vietnam.

The posters and leaflets condemned the Americans and the British for using Hong Kong as a "base for the U.S. war of aggression in Vietnam."

Peking voiced similar charges in a protest note to the British.

"The allegations in this note are entirely without foundation," a British government spokesman in Hong Kong said. "Troops engaged in the Vietnam war use Hong Kong as a center for rest and recreation and not as a base."

N. Viet Shell Injures 2 on U. S. Destroyer

The shell landed near the Harwood's after five-inch gun and wounded two of the destroyer's crewmen, the spokesman said. He reported only minor damage to the ship.

The spokesman said about 30 shells were fired at the Harwood as she was bombarding artillery positions at Cap Lay, in the southern part of North Vietnam about 60 miles north of the demilitarized zone.

More Cloudy Weather Is Predicted Followed by Cool Westerly Winds

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 56 years old, am married, but have been separated from my husband for 12 years now.

I have had a bachelor boyfriend for six years. He's about 50, is wonderful company, but he's not the marrying type.

ABBY

He does seasonal work in this area from May until November, then he takes off for the west, and I don't see him again until the next May.

He lives 30 miles from here, and drives in every night to read the newspaper and watch TV with me. He doesn't dance or bowl, or like to go anyplace, but he does have a nice car and plenty of money.

I am not getting any younger, Abby. I wrote to you about this problem three years ago, but I don't recall ever seeing your answer in the newspaper. I need advice. Will you please predict what kind of future you foresee for me?

RESTLESS IN N.Y.

DEAR RESTLESS: You have a part-time "boy friend" (if you can call a man who parks at your place to read the newspaper and watch TV a "boy friend"). And what good is his nice car and money if you don't go any place?

You say he isn't the marrying type. If he were, you already have one husband which is all the law allows. 'Prediction:' "Continued mild, followed by cool winds from the west. No change."

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him Pete) and I are in our mid-twenties, have been married three years, and have a two-year-old son.

Pete has always had a hot temper. Well last week we had an argument which got a little out of hand, and Pete hit me and knocked me down. The baby was in the same room and saw everything.

My problem is now the baby won't have anything to do with his father. When Pete comes near him, the baby turns his head away and cries. If Pete tries to touch him, he screams and draws away.

This hurts Pete something terrible. I keep telling him that the baby will forget, and get over it in time, but will he?

PETE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: The baby may, in time, become more "forgiving" — but don't count on him to forget. In the meantime, unless you enjoy being knocked down, I advise you to persuade Pete to get some professional help in learning how to control his temper.

YW to Start Free Tutoring Program

If anyone has a stereotyped idea of what the Young Women's Christian Association does, it's in for some revisions. Always in the foreground when social revolutions are taking place, this century-old organization is seeking new directions nationally.

The Pontiac group is no less active than its parent.

During the past school year, teenagers, the Y-Teens group, did a community research job under the direction of Mrs. Robert Watson.

Their object was to discover what the YW could do locally to fill the needs of young children.

Two programs emerged as most needful. One is a remedial reading program for elementary children; the other is a nursery school program for retarded youngsters.

Both programs will be carried out during the summer. The remedial reading program now needs volunteers to sign up before training starts June 10.

Mrs. John Brice, a remedial reading teacher at Wilson School, is chairman of volunteer training; she is a board member of the local YW. Her assistants are Mrs. Claude Francken and Norma Pond.

COMMENDED

Thor Petersen, coordinator of elementary-secondary community action programs in the Pontiac school system, has been working with YW personnel on the reading program. Although not speaking for the Board of Education, he commends the program in these words:

"It is a needful tutoring program designed specifically to help children having difficulty in reading. It will not duplicate the public school program."

Funds for materials, training kits, printing, snacks and incidentals are being furnished by the Village Woman's Club.

Mrs. Virginia Jackson, executive director of the Pontiac YWCA, spoke to the group in February, telling them of the local need. Mrs. Robert Lyons, wife of a Pontiac physician, is chairman of the community service committee at YWC.

There will be two two-hour sessions, Monday through Thursday, for eight weeks, beginning July 1. It is completely free to all the children involved.

But many more volunteers are needed. The YW needs one volunteer for every three children. There are 300 names on the list.

Any adult may volunteer and high school seniors are also welcome. You need not be a teacher nor have any special previous training. You will be trained in June during three sessions before the program starts.

Volunteers may sign up for any length of time. Tutoring hours are 10 a.m. to noon and noon to 2 p.m.

Volunteer drivers for children without transportation are also sought.

Any individual interested in participating in the program may obtain further information from the YWCA, 269 West Huron.

Another Chennault Joins the Aviation World

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anna Chennault, widow of the famed World War II air commander, Lt. Gen. Claire Lee Chennault, has brightened the aviation world by becoming an airline vice president.

A pretty dynamo with her fingers in more pies than any ordinary man could handle, she flits around the world making speeches, interviewing important people and luring customers for the Flying Tiger Line. Since Jan. 4 she has been vice president for international affairs.

When she goes to the Orient she usually heads first for what she calls her second home, Taiwan.

OFF AGAIN

Then she's off for Tokyo, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Bangkok, Jakarta. In each country, national leaders are her old friends.

Flying Tiger Line derived its name from the legendary fighter group of American volunteers that Chennault organized and led long before she married him.

Chennault and his youthful, ragtag Yankee Flying Tigers fought the Japanese, often with slim resources, and slowed their advance through China and Burma until the United States entered World War II and installed regular air and ground units in the China-Burma-India theater.

Then Chennault took command of the U.S. 14th Air Force in the theater, and many of his Tigers signed on with him.

Anna was a war correspondent with the Central News Agency in 1944 when she was not yet 20. A year later she married Chennault, 33 years her senior.

"We had 10 wonderful years together," says Anna. Chennault died in 1958.

For the past 10 years she has been lecturing—to business organizations, military units, women's clubs and college groups.

"I find that women, in general, ask more intelligent questions now than they used to a few years ago," she says.

"Not so long ago, many of them had never even heard of Saigon. Now they seem to be better informed, and more aware of what is going on outside the United States."

Mrs. Chennault says that regardless of all the troubles in that area, the Asian continent is moving forward.

"We ourselves are looking at Asia with a new attitude, a new spirit and hopefully a better understanding," she says.

Mrs. Chennault lives in a penthouse near the State Department.

Records indicate she may be only the second woman to be a top executive of a major airline. Carlene Roberts was a vice president of American Airlines in the 1950s.

Mrs. Chennault has found time to write 17 books, 12 of them in Chinese. Five were best sellers in Taiwan.

"Now I want to take a couple of months off this summer to finish my first novel," she says.

Business Attire Fit for a Queen

By RONALD THOMSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — The Duke of Norfolk threw a welcome bombshell into British society today, announcing that for the first time gentlemen in business suits can hobnob with Queen Elizabeth II at the Royal Ascot races.

"Dress for gentlemen in the Royal Ascot Enclosure will be morning dress, uniform or lounge business suits," said a notice sent by the duke, the queen's representative at Ascot, to those invited to the royal section of the race course.

Since 1952, when postwar clothes rationing ended, only men in formal morning clothes and gray toppers or in military uniform had been admitted to the Royal Enclosure, one of Britain's most socially desirable locations.

UPDATED

"It was felt that the time had come to bring procedure into line with the Buckingham Palace garden parties," said an Ascot official.

In recent years, the palace parties have taken on an easy, relaxed atmosphere, with lounge suits welcome. But the Ascot man cautioned:

"By a lounge suit we mean a complete suit, not just trousers and casual jacket. Gentlemen, of course, should have hats."

Montagu Moss of Moss Bros., the rental firm that traditionally has outfitted many of the gentlemen in the Royal Enclosure, termed the duke's lowering of the bar "shocking."

"I shouldn't think for a moment that people will take any notice," he added.

Anderson to Speak

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: How does one serve oneself when a delicate dish is on the table at a luncheon or buffet? I can just picture it falling apart after the first serving is removed. (The letter was accompanied by a mouth-watering picture of a chicken salad surrounded by a mold of lemon jello.)

At the home of a relative, I was the first to serve myself from something slightly similar and I asked how I could get a serving without ruining the whole thing. My sister-in-law said she knew of no way—that it just had to be done. Have you a suggestion?

Surely, all this should not be ruined after just one serving is removed! I have yet to see a mold with a center 'bowl' to hold the center filling. — Mrs. Gray

Dear Mrs. Gray: When a mold around a filling is edible, it's intended to be eaten. The first diner must destroy the attractive arrangement before it is broken up.

She Is Blind to Sex Responsibilities

At the age of 16 she gained access to the Pill. However, something went wrong either with it or her use of it. She got pregnant.

Not wishing to marry the boy, she arranged to bus herself from the West Coast to an East Coast city where she bore her child — and promptly released him for adoption. Almost at once she acquired a new sex partner. But they soon exhausted their mutuality of interest and he told her to get out.

Once more the Pill failed her. This time, however, her earnest young partner insisted on marriage. And carefully consigned her to his farm family's care until their baby was born and he had finished his military training.

This week she phoned me to announce their divorce.

"Goodness," I said, "are you sure you want to separate yourself and the baby from that good husband of yours?"

"Oh, John's got Jackie," she said. "His mother is going to make a home for them. His father died, you see."

I said nothing. And in a voice as bright as her poor, glazed eyes, she said, "Besides, I'm in love again. Oh, I know you liked John! But my new sweetheart is so sweet . . ."

Ah, how manifold are technology's blessings! How generously it supplies the Pill to any kid with the know-how as it supplies H-bombs to any country with the know-how! At which point I shut up to make way for some comment by Dr. John A. P. Millet, honoarary consultant to Columbia University's Psychoanalytic Clinic for Training and Research. In a new book, "The Marriage Relationship," he writes:

"We cannot but be appalled by the casual attitude youngsters so often seem to have to the possibility of an unwanted pregnancy and the dnagers, both physical and psychological, presented by the inevitable search for a 'reliable' abortionist. It remains for researchers to work out the significance of such experiences in the youngster's later lives.

"There seems to be a tendency, too, on the part of girls to assume responsibility for all the arrangements and not to expect the boy to shoulder any of the burden. From the number of such instances which I have seen, I am inclined to look on them as complicating rather than facilitating later adjustments to marriage and motherhood."

I expect that research work will be done in locked wards of mental hospitals.

BOETTGER-MALONE

FARMER-VOLLRATH

Added Rain Gear

Keep an extra plastic tablecloth in your shopping cart and use it when you are caught in the rain to cover the groceries in the cart. And, in an emergency, it may come in handy folded in a triangle and used as a rain cape.

Try 'Tracing' Technique for Poor Readers

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A combination psychological and educational approach which involves having children actually trace words with their fingers is advocated by Dr. Paul Daniels, director of reading at Loyola College, which is planning a laboratory elementary school to help children with reading problems.

The school will have two aims: To rehabilitate children with reading difficulties and to train teachers who will use the remedial techniques in the public schools.

"Our major concern," says Dr. Daniels, "is teaching the children how to comprehend. Words are learned," he adds, "by tracing them. This fosters concentration and makes children learn to read."

Morning Vows for Halls

Jaclyn M. Rosewall became the bride of Charles W. Hall Saturday morning in Episcopal Church of the Advent. A luncheon at Devon Gables followed the double ring ceremony.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon J. Branch of Pine Lake Drive, West Bloomfield Township and son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Hall of Sylvan Lake will make their home in Birmingham when they return from a wedding trip to the South.

Angel's Double Downs Bengals in 12th Inning

ANAHEIM (AP) — Eddie Mathews reached a momentous milestone in baseball history Monday night — and was overshadowed by a lifetime .215 hitter.

Detroit's aging first baseman moved into sixth place on the all-time home run list with two homers, but Tom Satriano hit a double in the 12th inning to give California a 7-6 victory over the American League leaders.

The Tigers' fourth loss in their last five decisions cut their American lead to one half game over idle Baltimore and one game over third pace Cleveland, which defeated Minnesota 3-1.

Satriano, who hung on through seven major league seasons through his versatility, sent Rick Reichardt home with the winning run. Clyde Wright, 4-1, got the victory.

THIRD HIT

Reichardt had opened the 12th with his third hit of the night and moved to second base on a balk by loser Daryl Patterson, 1-2.

The homers were Mathews' 511th and 512th of his career and moved him past Hall of Famer Mel Ott on the all-time list.

"I'm really not one to worry about setting records," Mathews said after the 3-hour, 33-minute marathon.

"I realized I had a chance to pass Ott," said the 36-year-old first baseman.

BOUNCED BACK

The Angels took a 3-0 lead with single runs in the first three innings. Mathews' first round-tripper brought the Tigers within one at 3-2 in the fifth but California bounced back for two runs in the bottom of the inning to make it 5-2.

Detroit got one more in the sixth. In the next frame, Mathews' solo blast and a two-run homer by Norm Cash sent the

NFL Legend Steps Down

Papa Bear Leaves Coaching

CHICAGO (AP) — A damaging slide into third base as a New York Yankee baseball hopeful 50 years ago finally sent George S. Halas limping into retirement as legendary pro football coach of the Chicago Bears.

A new Bear coaching era is expected to start today as Halas, 73, names his replacement, probably 38-year-old Jim Dooley, Papa Bear's top assistant.

Halas stunned sports writers Monday at his downtown office with the announcement that, "I am stepping aside now because I no longer can keep up with the physical demands of coaching the team on Sunday afternoons."

Rather than his age, Halas blamed an arthritic hip, stemming from an injury when he made a bouncing slide as a rookie Yankee outfielder in 1919, for his decision to quit after 39 Bear coaching seasons.

LUCKY BREAK

That spring training injury, Halas recalled, "Slid me out of baseball and into pro football, the luckiest break of my life."

"My hip condition has progressed to the point where I simply cannot move about quickly on the sidelines," said the lone survivor of the National Football League's founding fathers.

Halas, who organized the Bears as the Decatur, Ill., Staleys in 1920, retired previously several times — the latest occasion a dozen years ago when he turned over the Bear reins to a trusted aide, Paddy Driscoll, for the 1956 and 1957 seasons.

But Halas bounced back as field boss in 1958 declaring: "Sitting back in the stands, I felt pro football coaching methods were changing and I developed some new ideas which I want to try out."

This time, Halas vows he will stay in the stands.

FOLLOWED BALL

"I have always followed the ball — and the officials, too — up and down the field," Halas said Monday. "A coach has to stay on top of the action to make decisions.

"I cannot do that any longer."

Halas used a cane in recent years, favoring his ailing hip, and it became increasingly difficult for him to maneuver on the field.

Halas said he was strongly tempted to try to direct the Bears until 1969, the Bears' Golden Jubilee year.

"I would have liked to have been on the field in 1969 rounding out 50 years as a player and coach," said Halas. "However, the time has come for me to retire as head coach, a decision I made with considerable reluctance, but no regrets."

HEIR APPARENT

Dooley, who retired as a Bear pass-receiving star in 1962, assumed Allen's post as defensive chief and this year was named boss of the Bear offensive unit.

A product of Miami of Florida, Dooley was a No. 1 Bear draft choice in 1952. He quit as the Bears' fourth best all-time pass catcher.

Halas still presides as chairman of the board for the Bears whom he has owned for 49 years. His son George "Mugsie" Halas, Jr., is president and general manager.

Halas plotted with a group of pro pioneers the birth of the NFL in a Canton, Ohio, automobile salesroom, on Sept. 17, 1920.

In his wake, Halas leaves the winningest coaching record in NHL history, 321 triumphs against 142 losses and 31 ties. Six of his teams won world pro titles and nine finished first.

Red Wings Aim at Toughening Defense

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings are trying to reunite the old Toronto Maple Leafs defense combination of Bobby Baun and Carl Brewer in hopes of strengthening their Swiss cheese defense, worst in the National Hockey League last season.

Sid Abel, who retires as coach this year to devote his full duties to the general manager's office, announced a six-player deal with the Oakland Seals Monday. The Wings will name a new coach Monday.

It was the second major trade for Detroit this year. The Wings dealt forwards Norm Ullman, Paul Henderson and Floyd Smith to Toronto March 3 for Frank Mahovlich, Pete Stemkowski, Gerry Unger and the rights to Brewer, who regained his amateur status two years ago.

FUTURE DEALS

Abel said Brewer would be the key to any future deals. Brewer was player-coach of the Muskegon Mohawks last year. The team won the International Hockey League title.

"Brewer decides it," said Abel, adding if negotiations with Brewer fail, "we will be active in getting another defenseman."

Abel said he understood that "money is of no consequence" to Brewer, who would be eligible to return to NHL play in December.

Baun and Brewer were defensive standouts when they played together at Toronto. The 31-year-old Baun put in 11 seasons with the Leafs before going to Oakland in the expansion draft last year. Harris was a right winger for Oakland last season.

Baun scored 10 goals last year at Oakland, which finished last in the West Division. Harris, who spent most of his career including a brief stint with the Red Wings in 1962-63 as a defenseman, had four goals and 10 assists as a right wing.

"I think this helped his skating," said Abel. "We may put him in the fifth defense spot and he still has a chance at right wing.'

Young, Jarrett and Roberts combined for 84 points last year on a Detroit team which finished last in the East Division.

Flyers Sign Cherry

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dick Cherry, a 31-year-old defenseman, has signed a three-year contract with the Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League, the club announced.

Wolves Buy Goalie

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Wolves of the North American Soccer League have purchased goal keeper Joe Dean, 28, from the Carlisle team of the English League.

When Dean arrives June 4, coach Ray Wood will take himself off the active player list to concentrate on coaching. Wood has been one of the two goal keepers on the squad.

Disqualification of Weinberger's Car Is Changed

From Our News Wires

INDIANAPOLIS — A reversal on the disqualification of the Eagle - Ford entered by Pontiac sports car buff Sidney Wienberger in the Indianapolis 500-Mile Race highlighted Monday's frantic extra day of qualifying.

One of the eight spots left up for grabs yesterday was filled when the 164.211 miles per hour qualifying speed turned in Saturday by the Weinberger Special was allowed to stand.

The car was disqualified for being 20 pounds underweight Saturday after driver Ronnie Bucknam of La Canada, Calif., apparently had earned a spot in the 33-car field for Thursday's race with the 164-plus average speed for his four laps.

However, it was found that the scales on which the car was weighed were damaged and faulty.

Sewer-System Pact Tabled in Waterford

The Waterford Township Board last night referred a resolution requesting a contract to construct the first stage of an internal sewer system to its attorneys for examination of the technicalities of the proposal.

In effect, the action tabled the request until next week.

The contract with the Oakland County Department of Public Works would finance construction of the first stage.

The project, involving the eastern half of the township, is expected to get under way by late fall. When completed, the township laterals will tie into the Clinton-Oakland Sewage Disposal System, planned to serve six area townships.

Two Suits Ask $50,000 From Restaurant

A Birmingham restaurant was sued yesterday for a total of $50,000 by two men allegedly made ill when served contaminated corned beef around the first of the year.

Two damage suits, each asking $25,000, were filed in Oakland County Circuit Court against Alban's Bottle and Basket, 190 N. Hunter, by Samuel Fink of Harper Woods and Murray Spilman, of Farmington.

They claim that they were among the 170 persons who suffered food poisoning after eating the meat a few days after the first of the year.

At that time, county health authorities said the poisoning of the meat resulted from staphylococcal toxin.

The toxin was believed to have been spread by food handlers, inspectors said.

The two suits claim that there were two food handlers involved. One had an infected cut on his finger while the other had been ill with gastoenteritis, according to the suits.

$310 Stolen From Office

Some $310 in cash was stolen from an attorney's office in the Pontiac State Bank Building, it was reported to city police yesterday.

Police said the lock on the drawer was broken, but entry to the office was by unknown means.

All 10 defendants were slated for court appearance this afternoon.

They're All Wet

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — On May 1, when south Florida was in the grip of a drought, the U.S. Weather Bureau in Miami said no substantial rainfall was in sight until June. Monday the bureau said 16.58 inches of rain had fallen so far in Miami during May, 5.39 inches over normal for the month and just short of the 18.13-inch record set in 1958.

AAUW Sponsoring Candidate Forum

Four candidates running for one 4-year term on the Pontiac Board of Education have been invited to speak at a candidates' forum at 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

Candidates will each give a 12-minute talk, then answer written questions at the public meeting at Washington Junior High School, 710 Menominee.

The forum is sponsored by the legislative division of the American Association of University Women.

Running in the June 10 election to replace James L. Howlett, who has decided not to seek reelection, are Francis M. Webster, Fred M. Crossman, John K. Irwin Jr. and Christopher C. Brown.

Lions Destined for Down Under

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Ten lions have been shipped from the Atlanta Zoo to Los Angeles, where they will join 30 others for a trip to Australia.

John Roth, director of the zoo, said the lions will be placed in a new breeding ground near Sydney as part of a program to preserve African lions.

French Production Losses Put at $1 Billion a Week

PARIS (AP) — Economists estimate the general strike is costing France more than a billion dollars a week in lost production, and no return to work is in sight.

France's worst postwar crisis went into its 12th day today after private industry shouted down a proposed settlement which included a 10 per cent pay raise.

In government-run industries, an "accord in principle" on a similar offer was reached with the coal miners' union. But electrical and gas workers still were negotiating and the railroad workers broke off talks with the government.

Economists predicted the weekly loss from the strike would rise steadily as the strike continued. In addition, the economy faced severe strains from any settlement finally worked out.

$3.7 BILLION A YEAR

The proposed 10 per cent pay raise would cost $3.7 billion a year for French businesses, already operating on lower profit margins than those in any other country in the European Common Market. And if the strikers maintain their refusal to accept the offer, the cost could go much higher.

Price increases to meet the higher costs would mean inflation, reduced exports and possibly devaluation of the franc, which is already under pressure on foreign exchange markets.

Renault, France's biggest auto maker, estimated it would have to raise prices by as much as 12 per cent to meet terms of the proposed settlement. This would price its cars out of foreign markets.

The package settlement offered to most of the 8 to 10 million strikers was termed "catastrophic" by business leaders, who predicted the ruin of many small and medium-size firms.

'NOT ENOUGH'

But the strikers' immediate response was that the settlement wasn't enough, and shouts of "Seguy resign" were heard at a massive rally of students and workers Monday. Georges Seguy, secretary general of the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor, helped negotiate the package.

The workers had demanded, among other things, an immediate 12 per cent raise and cancellation of a social security decree-law last fall which reduced benefits and increased worker contributions.

Failure to settle the strike before the June 16 referendum called by President Charles de Gaulle could have serious political implications. It could mean a massive no vote against his proposals for reform of France's economic and educational structures, and De Gaulle has said he would resign if defeated.

Soo Find May Be Indian Burial Site

SAULT STE. MARINE, Ont. (AP) — Provincial police in Sault Ste. Marie said today an Indian burial ground may have been discovered in a sand pit about 25 miles east of the city.

Profit 12 Cents in Bank Robbery

GROVER, S.C. (AP) — Officials at the Grover branch of the Blacksburg State Bank say they made a 12-cent profit on a recent bank robbery.

An audit after the robbery showed a loss of $15,128.88. Two men were arrested this week, and police found a bank money bag containing $15,129.

Holiday Weekend Toll of 625-725 Seen

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council said today that between 625 and 725 Americans may die in traffic accidents during the Memorial Day holiday weekend.

President Howard Pyle estimated that traffic accidents also could disable 27,000 to 32,000 men, women and children.

The tabulation period will run from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday.

NORMAL TOLL

Pyle said in a statement that accidents during a nonholiday period of equal length probably would cause about 580 deaths and 26,000 disabling injuries.

He urged motorists who will be on the roads during the weekend to make preparation.

"Preparation of the car, planning of the route, and preparation of the driver — in terms of starting in plenty of time, knowing what to watch out for and understanding defensive driving maneuvers — could make a massive difference in the weekend toll," he said.

Mercy, They've 3 Valedictorians

By MARY ANNE MADDEN

Four years of high scholastic standing have culminated in honors for three seniors at Our Lady of Mercy High School. With perfect 4.0 averages, Pamela Adams, Mary Lou Caspers, and Pat Cusick, have been chosen valedictorians. Elizabeth Truly is salutatorian with a 3.947 average.

Pam, a member of the Latin Club, Athletic Association, Math Club, and Future Teachers, received an honorary Michigan State Scholarship and a Trustee Scholarship from the state. Pam plans to attend Michigan State University where she will major in math.

Pat, vice president of the Student Council, also has chosen MSU as her destination next fall. She is a Mercyaire and is active in French Club and Future Teachers.

Mary Lou received a State of Michigan scholarship and State of Michigan grant. Seriously considering a major in science, she will attend the University of Detroit. Mary Lou is involved in the Math and Latin clubs, and the Athletic Association.

ALL PHI BETA KAPPA

All three girls recently were commended by Phi Beta Kappa and the National Honor Society.

Elizabeth, who hopes to major in social work at MSU, is a member of the French Club. She was awarded a Michigan Competitive Scholarship and received recognition from Phi Beta Kappa.

Mercy's first annual Sports Banquet was held Tuesday. Named as outstanding representatives of the Athletic Association were Joanne Yee, freshman; Linda Henry, sophomore; Dorian Soper, junior; Maureen Solar, senior. Outstanding AA member award was presented to Mary Ann DeVogel. The Senior Award, presented to the senior who has been most active in the AA during her four years at Mercy, was given to Pat Smith, president of the AA.

Mrs. James Yager, swimming instructor, presented trophies to members of Mercy's State Championship Team.

Awards presented included: Marla Huber, first place in state for diving; Michelle Riley, who received five trophies for most versatile swimmer, best in breaststroke, butterfly, and individual medley; Mary Ann Roller, second in state for two relays, state record in 50 and 100-yard free-style.

2 Share Valedictory Honors

By DONNA FURLONG

Two girls are sharing valedictory honors this year at Waterford Kettering High.

Maintaining a perfect 4.0 average were Mary Lou Marino and Diana Neilson.

Both plan to attend Michigan State University in the fall.

Mary Lou plans to pursue her interests in science and teaching. Diane will study to become a psychologist.

SALUTATORIAN

Others on the top 10 list are Patricia Cahape, fourth; Larry Gavette, fifth; Jan Johnson, sixth; Linda Richardson, seventh; Mary Ballard, eighth; Carol Warnock, ninth; and Yvonne Klingelsmith, 10th.

New National Honor Society members have been announced. Seniors include Terry Armstrong, Mary Ballard, Dee Ann Berg, David Bougine, Georgia Burklow, Linda Castle, Cheri Colby, Shelia Collins, Joseph Danules, Kenneth Dyker and Davie Ferrier.

Also Cheryl Gocha, Nancy Hogarth, Laurinda Jackson, Susan Johns, Robert Meyers, Janet Nutter, Scott Parrot and David Powell.

JUNIOR OFFICERS

Next Monday the second Cooperative Dinner Banquet for all Dramatic Club members, Thespians and their parents will be held.

Beginning at 7 p.m., a formal initiation will be held for new Thespians.

Entertainment for the evening will be "Peter Pan," presented by a play production class lead by Patty Looman.

LAST PROGRAM

This week the last program of Mihran Kupelian's radio production classes will be presented over the public address system.

Throughout the semester two weekly programs, Kettering Showcase and Around Kettering, have been broadcast. The last show will be dedicated to the senior class of 1968.

Today and tomorrow, seniors are taking their final high school exams. Tomorrow is officially their last day of school.

There will be no school Thursday or Friday because of Memorial Day.

12 Juniors at Kingswood to Go Abroad This Summer

By MARY STEWART

Each girl will spend between six to 10 weeks under the auspices one of three exchange programs: American Field Service, Youth for Understanding and a newly formed organization, an Experiment in International Living.

Kingswood's AFS representative is Dee Flannery, who will be heading for the Philippine island of Negros.

GOING TO SWEDEN

Participating in the Experiment in International Living program will be Stevie Adamson and Peggy Wilson who are going to Sweden and Carol Lerchen who is going to France.

The girls will have one week of orientation before leaving, then travel to their countries to spend a month with a family.

Each girl and her European "sister" will then join other Experiment participants in a two-week tour of their country and, in some cases, nearby countries.

Lahser Students' Works Shown in Store Windows

By GRETCHEN HAAS

THREE METHODS

Instruction is being given in three methods of pottery construction: pottery coil, throwing on the wheel and slab.

The student director was Lisa Benson.

'ANASTASIA SCENE

A scene from "Anastasia," which was adapted by Guy Bolton from the original play by Marcel Maurette, was also performed.

Teri Malwitz portrayed the teacher and assisted in the direction of the play; Bob Weingarden and Pat Hall were pupils; and Linda Hague the Pupiless.

'ANTIC SPRING'

Maggie Keteyian directed.

Mock Convention Held

Rochester GOP Picks Nixon

By KARIN HEADLEE

Points of order, clarification and personal preference added to excitement and tension in Rochester High School's recent Mock Republican National Convention.

Before the nominating, demonstrating, and electing, the committee for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York felt it would compete against Richard Nixon on several heated ballots.

After the first vote, however, Rockefeller placed way behind and Nixon was elected on the second ballot as the Republican presidential candidate for 1968.

Preceding campaigning for presidential candidates, the delegates — members from economics, government, geography and world affairs classes—chose planks for their party platform. Planks were submitted by delegates. Substitute planks were drawn up in many cases.

The proposed plank on United States and Communist China relations, which opposes recognition of Communist China and its admission to the United Nations, was passed.

A Vietnam plank was defeated by the substitute plank, which favors reinstating bombing of North Vietnam.

The foreign aid plank, involving increased technical assistance, establishment of a separate department for military assistance, discontinuance of aid when it is misused, and research for each country before it receives aid, passed.

MONETARY POLICY PASSES

Supporting lower taxes, less government spending, alleviation of expenditures in certain areas of the government, and encouragement for tourists to visit the U.S., the monetary policy passed.

The original welfare plank defeated the substitute one by guaranteeing annual wages, setting up schools for vocational purposes and investigating the Aid-to-Dependent-Children Program.

The civil rights plank, which provided for enforcement of new civil rights laws, extension of financial aid toward education and establishment of training centers for minority groups, was accepted.

The original law enforcement plank was accepted over the substitute. It recommends 50 per cent of the money be used for equipment and research, while the other 50 per cent be used for police salary advancements.

VOLUNTARY DRAFT BACKED

The original draft plank, which provides for a voluntary service system, was passed.

The original voting plank, allowing 18-year-olds to vote in all states, was passed over the substitute one.

Seaholm Again Plans Magazine

By JOHN CALVER

Keeping in step with tradition, Seaholm's literary magazine, entitled the Maple Cairn, once again will be printed.

The magazine is a collection of poetry, short stories, essays, themes and artwork. The idea is to provide an outlet for creative talents of students at Seaholm.

SALES SCHEDULED

Sales will be during the first week of June. The Maple Cairn will sell for 25 cents. Copies will be available from any journalism student.

Another magazine to be put out by the journalism department is the "Piper Summer Supplement." For the price of $1 anyone at Seaholm may purchase this supplement to the yearbook. Because the Piper went to press April 1, many important events of the school year were left out of the yearbook.

The Summer Supplement will cover commencement, Swing-Out, Senior Dinner, Skip Day, Washington Trip, J-Hop, concerts, National Honor Society, the spring play and spring sports.

A decision was reached by current varsity cheerleaders concerning the prospective cheerleaders for the 68-69 school year.

Cranbrook Sets European Tour

By DAVID DYE

Several students from Cranbrook School and other area schools will fly to London, June 25. This will be the start of the third-annual European trip sponsored by Cranbrook School.

The 31 students on this year's trip attend Cranbrook School, Kingswood School, Academy of the Sacred Heart and Trinity of New York.

Ron Krash; a Kingswood history teacher, and Fred Gretton, an English instructor at Trinity, are the directors of Cranbrook's European tour.

The guides on Cranbrook's trip, in addition to the two directors, are Margret MacKenzie and George Nowacki, teachers at Kingswood School, and Lucy Henry, the chairman of the Social Studies Department at Sacred Heart.

DECIDE FOR THEMSELVES

The guides will act more like advisers and friends.

The students will be free to decide what they want to do, with the guides supplying advice, accommodations, transportation and tours when needed.

During their seven-week stay, the Cranbrook group will visit many of Europe's major cities, small villages and scenic attractions.

After staying a week and a half in London, the group will go to Amsterdan, Paris, Geneva, Milan, Vienna via Salzburg and finally to Prague.

VISIT TO MOSCOW

From Prague they will take a two-and-one-half day train ride to Moscow. After Moscow, the students will visit Kiev, and then back to Prague. Next on the agenda will be a tour of southern Germany, the Rhine Valley and Frankfurt.

Leaving Frankfurt they will fly to West Berlin for a three-day stay, and from Berlin back to the United States, returning Aug. 14.

Opening lead—♥ 6

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

Partnership confidence is a wonderful thing. You assume that any time your partner makes a bid he has the values to warrant it. That part is easy. It is far more difficult when you have a good hand to realize that once you have shown your good hand by bidding you can rely on your partner to make full allowance for your hand.

JACOBY

In other words, once you have shown your full strength there is no need for you to continue after partner has indicated he has no interest in going part score to game or from game to a slam.

The defense slipped a trifle against today's three no-trump contract. West held off twice when spades were led. He had no way to be sure that South did not have a third spade and he wanted to keep the suit from ever developing.

South made two spades and his own three aces and was only down four tricks.

North asked why South hadn't let him play the hand in spades. South replied that if North only held the ace of spades three no-trump would have made.

North said, "If I had had six spades to the ace-jack I would have been fully aware of them!"

South pointed out that North would have been down one at three spades.

North said, "You should have trusted my judgment and passed at two spades." He was right. They were playing that a two spade, heart or diamond response to a no-trump opening was a sign-off but South contended he had a full 17 points, three aces and the king and queen of spades for his no-trump.

South also should have known that his partner had heard the opening bid.

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠10 8 7 6 5 ♥A K 9 4 3 ♦K Q ♣2
What do you do?

A—Bid four spades. There is no reason to show your heart suit because you have no interest in a slam and the spades are going to be satisfactory as trump.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Answer Tomorrow

This hand shows one advantage of the Jacoby transfer. Playing that convention, North would have responded two hearts. South would have bid two spades and would have been mighty sad when North passed, but mighty happy when he saw the dummy.

Stock Market Nudges Ahead

Advances of individual stocks topped declines by about 100 issues.

Soon after the opening, the New York Stock Exchange ticker tape fell one minute behind in reporting floor transactions.

Brokers expressed the opinion that stock price movements would be governed by technical considerations for the time being.

They pointed out there were no new developments likely to affect the market.

Changes of most key issues were fractional, but a few ran to a point or so.

Up a point or more were Canteen, High Voltage Engineering, Control Data and Polaroid.

Litton Industries lost more than 2 points.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Small gains were made by Duro-Test, Molybdenum, National Video and Struthers Wells. Fractional losses were taken by General Plywood, Louisiana Land, Mary Carter A and Microdot.
