PROJECT UNITY AIDS AREA NEEDY

It will be a brighter Christmas season for needy area families thanks to "Project Unity," a food, clothing and gifts drive planned by student groups at Oakland University.

The project is beginning on the university campus where the community will be asked to contribute food, clothing or gifts. The business communities in Rochester and Pontiac will be invited to participate in the near future.

The project is sponsored by officers of the Area Hall Council, the governing body within OU residence halls. The Association of Black Students and the University Congress are also being asked to participate. The University Congress is the governing unit elected by the entire student body.

Means of distributing the food and gifts will be determined.

GERIATRIC EXPERT WILL LECTURE AT OU

Proper health care for the aged is an increasing concern and an internationally known geriatric specialist will tell how the problem is handled in Britain during an Oakland University lecture Wednesday, Nov. 20.

Lionel Z. Cosin, clinical director, Oxfordshire Area Health Authority, Oxford, England, will speak on "Health Care for the Aged—Lessons from Britain." The public is invited to the free 1:30 p.m. talk in Room 128, Oakland Center.

American specialists feel that some of Cosin's innovative work on the care and rehabilitation of the elderly can aid many of the institutionalized aged in this country.

Cosin's appearance is sponsored by the OU Department of Psychology and the Study Committee of the Health Science Professions.

OU EXCEEDS GOAL FOR UNITED WAY DRIVE

Oakland University's United Way campaign again broke all records for the institution, Lewis N. Pino, coordinator of the campus drive, said. The university community contributed $14,560 to the campaign, 12 percent above the goal of $12,983 set for the year.

Pino said a tabulation of participation by university areas is being completed and will be announced shortly but that "obviously we received tremendous support in this important drive or we wouldn't have topped our goal by such a large margin." The drive officially concluded Friday, Nov. 8, but a few pledges are still outstanding and the OU total could climb slightly above the already announced figure, Pino said.

NSF GRADUATE FELLOWSHIPS OPEN

Persons interested in 1975 National Science Foundation graduate fellowships can obtain their application forms in the Career Advising and Placement Office in Wilson Hall.

The deadline for filing an application is Monday, Dec. 2, Ron Kevern, office director, said. For further information call 377-3250.

CHAPEL CONCERT SET FOR NOV. 25

The second early music concert of the Oakland University series "Music at the Chapel" will be held Monday, Nov. 25 at the St. John Fisher Chapel.

The 8 p.m. program is open to the public at no charge. St. John Fisher Chapel is on Walton Blvd. across from Oakland University.

The concert will feature the Baroque flute, an instrument made of wood and having only one key. The flute produces a soft, warm sound and it is better suited to Baroque chamber music than its modern, metal counterpart.

The program includes Telemann's "Quartet in G" for flute, violin and viola da gamba and his "Concerto in e for Flute and Recorder," and Quantz's "Trio in D for Three Flutes." Music of the 16th and 17th centuries for solo and ensemble lutes will also be performed.

NATIONAL RIDE POOL FORMED BY SIX SCHOOLS

Six colleges and universities have formed S.H.A.R.E. (Students Help Arrange Rides Everywhere) to help students plan trips and share rides.

Students planning a trip between Dec. 18 and Jan. 6 are invited to come to the Office of Commuter Services or to call 377-2020 for information. Under the program, students who have registered will have their names sent to the participating schools and these institutions will make the names available to students interested in finding rides or riders for a specific destination. It will be the responsibility of the students to then get in contact with one another and match themselves for the holiday trips.

Participating schools in addition to OU are Eastern Michigan University, University of Michigan-Flint, Oakland Community College, University of Detroit, and Wayne State University.

LIDDLE AT WORKSHOPS, NAMED TO ADVISORY BOARD

Ed Liddle, School of Education, recently conducted a workshop in real problem solving in an interdisciplinary elementary curriculum model at the Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics held at Hope College.

The same introductory workshop was conducted at the joint meeting of the Detroit Area Council of Teachers of Mathematics and Detroit Area Science Teachers Association on November 17 at Our Lady of Mercy High School, Farmington Hills.

In addition, Liddle has been selected by Inroads, Inc., an Upward Bound related project based in Chicago, to chair the Curriculum Advisory Board. Inroads is a project funded by private industry aimed at increasing the number of minority students entering engineering careers.

SWARTZ SPEAKS AT EDUCATION CONVENTIONS

Ronald Swartz, School of Education, has spoken at two educational conventions this month. Swartz read a paper called "Academic Freedom, Student Rights and Personal Responsibility Schools" at the American Education Studies Association Convention in New York City. He read a paper called "Authoritarian Problems and the Development of Educational Programs" at the Midwest Philosophy of Education Society Convention in Chicago. Both of these papers dealt with issues related to authority and responsibility in an educational program and Swartz argues that students need to play a greater role in the educational process.
