OU CONFERENCE DISCUSSES PROBATION DECISION-MAKING

"Behind Bars or Free? Behavioral Aspects of Probation Decision-Making," is the title of a conference offered at Oakland University Monday, March 25.

All interested persons are invited to the 9:00 a.m. to noon session in the Gold Room of the Oakland Center. The program is sponsored by the OC and Allport College of Behavioral Science.

Guest speakers include Circuit Court Judge James Canham; John Paul, director of the Probation Department; Robert Weaver, supervisor, Probation Department; Karen Kahn, probation officer, Controlled Substance Unit; Edward Kutty, probation officer; Chester Ulmin, probationer; Paul E. Salo, senior parole agent, Bureau of Field Services, Michigan Department of Corrections; and Daniel E. DeSole, M.D., New York's Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane.

Each participant will give a summary presentation of his or her involvement in and perception of the probation decision-making process. The panel will then be questioned by faculty from the behavioral science disciplines. Questioners will be Philip Singer, anthropology, Carl Vann, political science, and Beth Titus, Allport College Library. The audience will also be given an opportunity for questions and comments.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC GIVES MUSIC HALL PRODUCTION

The OU Department of Music, in cooperation with the Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts, will recreate the 1539 Florentine festivities surrounding the wedding of Cosimo, Duke of Urbino, and Eleanor.

The 8:30 p.m. program will be given Tuesday, March 26, in the Music Hall. Tickets from $2.50 to $6.00 are on sale at the Music Hall and at OU. Campus inquiries should be directed to 377-2030.

Major portions of the production include the five-act comedy "Il Commodo," with lavishly costumed music, song and dance sections performed before, between and after the play. The singers and dancers will be accompanied by musicians playing on copies of the original instruments of the period.

ROY CONDUCTS RESEARCH AT BAYLOR COLLEGE OF MEDICINE

Arun K. Roy, Department of Biological Sciences, is on research leave now through August, 1974, and serving as visiting assistant professor of cell biology at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, Texas.

Roy's collaborating host is Bert W. O'Malley, chairman of the Department of Cell Biology and director of the Center for the Study of Reproductive Biology. O'Malley's laboratory is internationally known for its contributions in the process of aging.

REGUEIRO CONCERT SET FOR MARCH 20

Allen Regueiro, 16-year-old award-winning pianist from Troy, will give his senior recital Wednesday, March 20 at 8:00 p.m. in Varner Recital Hall. The free concert offers works by Rameau, Beethoven, Chopin, Granados, Liszt, and Barber.

Regueiro will graduate from Oakland University in April and he plans to continue his studies in music. At OU, he was a student of the noted teacher-performer Flavio Varani. Regueiro has been studying piano for nine years.

Despite his youth, Regueiro has already won piano competitions at Eau Claire, Green Bay, and Milwaukee, Wis., and he was the 1971 winner of the Stillman Kelley Auditions for the State of Wisconsin.

Residing in Wisconsin until 1971, Regueiro performed there as soloist with the Milwaukee and Green Bay Symphony Orchestras and the Milwaukee Music for Youth Orchestra. He also gave solo recital programs at the Milwaukee Performing Arts Center and at Wartburg College.

Last year he performed a major recital at OU and later gave a repeat performance of it for the Troy Music Society and its friends.

MOTOR POOL ADDS
MEDIUM-SIZED VANS

The Motor Pool has in operation two 15-passenger vans to fill a void that previously existed between the needs for a nine-passenger wagon and the OU bus seating 39 persons.

The fully-equipped vans, powered by 360-cubic inch V-8's, have been in operation in the Motor Pool since the first of the year. They are intended for use on field trips, sports events, performing arts groups like the Slavic Folk Ensemble, and other student organizations. The vans are intended to save the university money by eliminating many charter needs, university officials said.

LIBOFF, KYKER GIVE PAPER AT WORKSHOP

Abraham Liboff and G. Charles Kyker, physics, delivered a paper at the Second Annual Workshop on the Natural Radiation Environment sponsored by the Health and Safety Laboratories of the United States Atomic Energy Commission. The subject of the paper was "Thinwalled Ionization Chamber Measurements on the Cosmic and Terrestrial Gamma Background." The last February meeting was held in New York.

The Department of Physics played host Feb. 20 to the Detroit Metropolitan Physics Teachers Association. Mutual problems were discussed and Robert Williamson escorted the group to the Kettering Magnetism Lab, where an address was given on the research being conducted there.

EXHIBIT OPENS MARCH 30

"Lalibela," a photo exhibition of 11th Century Coptic Christian Churches in Ethiopia, will open at the Oakland Center Saturday, March 30, and run through Sunday, April 28.

The exhibit will be on public display in the South Cafeteria's east section from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. weekdays and noon to 4:00 p.m. on weekends. It is presented under auspices of the Traveling Exhibition Service, Smithsonian Institution.

The exhibit is named after the monastic township of Lalibela in Northern Ethiopia where eleven churches and chapels are grouped. Until recently it could be reached only by a four-day ride on muleback and it remains an important center of pilgrimage.

Photographs in the OU exhibit are part of a larger ethnographic and visual documentary project in Ethiopia carried out under a grant from the National Science Foundation.

OPEN HOUSE SET FOR SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING

Oakland University's School of Engineering will host an open house for high school students and parents and a competitive examination for high school seniors Sunday, March 24.

Theme of the program in Dodge Hall of Engineering is "Technological Careers in the 1970's and 1980's."

The seniors will compete for full-and half-tuition engineering scholarships, according to Jerry Rose, director of admissions and scholarships. The awards will be made on the basis of test scores and high school grades and without regard to family income, Rose said.

The scholarship examination will be held from 1:00 p.m. to 2:00 p.m. in Room 201, Dodge Hall of Engineering. The open house will begin in that room at 2:00 p.m. and lectures and demonstrations will be held until 4:30 p.m.

Engineering faculty will give parents and students a look at OU programs relating to career opportunities in electronics and computer science, systems and thermal engineering, and environmental, optical, materials and bio-medical engineering. A number of student laboratory demonstrations are planned.

BRIGGS PRESENTS COLLOQUIUM ON RESEARCH

Raymond Briggs, psychology, presented a colloquium on his past, present and future research on reading at a Feb. 20 meeting at the University of Guelph, Guelph, Ontario, Canada.

LANGUAGE STUDY COMBINED WITH ECONOMICS, MANAGEMENT

A major in foreign language supplemented by study in economics and management is now offered at Oakland University.

"We hope the combination will prove both attractive and useful to students. It will prepare them well for roles in such fields as government, international commerce, and tourism," states Norman Susskind, chairman, Department of Modern Languages and Literatures.

The program consists of six courses in language beyond second year and four or five courses in economics and management. Several corequisite courses will be chosen from the fields of area studies, translation, civilization, political science, and history, Susskind said.

CENTER FOR RETARDED OPENS IN OLD VARNER HOME

Two agencies of the State Department of Mental Health have combined to establish at Oakland University a Residential Center for Retarded Children and Adolescents. Students from OU's Department of Psychology will assist the full-time staff.

The center will be located at Adams and Butler Roads in the former residence of Durward Varner, OU's first chancellor. The university is leasing the residence to the program sponsors.

Cooperating in the program are the Macomb-Oakland Residential Center and the Community Living Centers, Inc. Program cost for the first year is $64,000. Funding could be renewed for two additional years.

Ken Coffman, OU's vice president for student affairs, said the center should be in operation by the end of March. Approximately 10 children or adolescents, ages 7 to 17 years, will be housed in the center. They will be selected from the Oakdale Center for Developmental Disabilities in Lapeer or a similar center at Plymouth.

The new residential program provides an opportunity to develop an innovative approach to the treatment of emotionally disturbed/retarded persons. Basic and applied research will be conducted relevant to the achievement of therapeutic goals of the center, and the program's effectiveness will be evaluated, sponsors said. Staffing will include house parents and a program director.

The participants will receive help at the center and attend schools in the Avon Township School District in accordance with the 1971 Mandatory Special Education Act. That act requires school districts to provide appropriate programs and services for all handicapped children.

Following intensive therapy, it is anticipated that the center residents can be placed in the larger community with a minimum of professional supervision and support, program sponsors said.

The State Department of Mental Health is encouraging the development of alternative community living for all mentally retarded persons who can benefit from it. For many retarded individuals, however, placement in the community is precluded because of emotional disturbances and developmental difficulties. The center will speak to these problems, Coffman said.

Oakland University students also stand to benefit from the center program, Coffman pointed out. Graduate students in psychology will obtain training: in conjunction with their graduate courses in psychological assessment and techniques of psychotherapy; as part of their field placements during the assessment and psychotherapy practicums; and/or as part-time counselors employed by the center. The activities will be conducted under the supervision either of Psychology Department faculty or the program director of the center.

Undergraduates enrolled in a community services course will have an opportunity to learn skills involved in the supervision of residents during recreational and leisure-time activities. In addition, psychology students enrolled in an undergraduate behavior therapy course and practicum will be able to work with a resident in a limited program of therapeutic intervention under faculty supervision.

GOLD IS AUTHOR OF BOOK CHAPTER

Harry Gold, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, has authored a chapter entitled "The Dynamics of Professionalization: The Case of Urban Planning" to be published in the book, Social Change: Conjectures, Explorations, and Diagnoses, edited by George K. Zollschan and Walter Hirsch (Cambridge: Schenkman Publishing Company, in press).

SMITH NAMED TO EDITORIAL BOARD

David G. Smith, education, has been named to the editorial board of the Journal of Employment Counseling.

VANN PARTICIPATES IN ACADEMY CONFERENCE

Carl Vann, chairman of Allport College, will be the discussant in the political science section presentation concerning "Political Perspectives on Public Expenditures," at the annual meeting of the Michigan Academy of Arts and Sciences to be held March 22 at East Lansing.

IRELAND GIVES PAPERS AT AIR FORCE CONFERENCE

Leonard Ireland, psychology, was a participant at a conference on the Biological Aspects of the Bird/Aircraft Collision Problem, held February 5-7, 1974 at the Department of Zoology, Clemson University, Clemson, South Carolina. The conference was sponsored by the Air Force Office of Scientific Research.

The following papers were read: "The Bat Hazard to U.S.A.F. Aircraft," Leonard C. Ireland, Sharon S. Ireland, Oakland University, Timothy C. Williams and Janet M. Williams, State University of New York, Buffalo; "Bird Migration Over the North Atlantic," J.M. Williams and T.C. Williams, and L.C. Ireland; and "Radar Observations of Bird Migration Over Bermuda," L.C. Ireland, and T.C. Williams.
