

Wednesday, March 22, 2000

OU professor serving as president of national council

OU professor Naim A. Kheir, Electrical and Systems Engineering, recently has assumed a two-year term as president of the American Automatic Control Council (AACC).

"I am very pleased to accept the presidency of the AACC," said Kheir. "It is as much an honor for Oakland University as it is for me personally to serve this two-year term."

Member societies of the AACC include: the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, American Institute of Chemical Engineers, American Society of Civil Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Association of Iron and Steel Engineers, Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, International Society for Measurement and Control and the Society for Computer Simulation.

Oakland University is a comprehensive state-supported institution of higher education located in suburban Oakland County, Michigan. OU offers undergraduate programs in 74 areas and graduate programs in 59 areas. Dedicated to preparing learners for the 21st-century workplace and society, the university is organized into the College of Arts and Sciences and the schools of Business Administration, Education and Human Services, Engineering and Computer Science, Health Sciences, and Nursing.

SUMMARY

OU professor Naim A. Kheir, Electrical and Systems Engineering, recently has assumed a two-year term as president of the American Automatic Control Council.

Created by CareTech Administrator (webservices@caretechsolutions.com) on Wednesday, March 22, 2000
Modified by CareTech Administrator (webservices@caretechsolutions.com) on Wednesday, March 22, 2000
Article Start Date: Tuesday, November 25, 2003