SIGMA XI INSTALLATION WILL BE HELD MARCH 19

The formal installation of an Oakland University chapter of Sigma Xi, honorary scientific research fraternity, will be held Wednesday, March 19 at 4 p.m. in Room 201, Dodge Hall.

The new chapter officers were elected recently. They will take office at a March 19 business meeting that will precede the installation ceremony. The new officers are: Michael Wozny, president; Curtis Chipman, secretary; Donald Young, treasurer; and Esther Goudsmit, program committee chairperson.

Oakland University has held meetings and conducted a visiting lecturer program since 1965 under Sigma Xi club status. Late last fall at the 75th national meeting of Sigma Xi, the university received chapter status. OU is the youngest university in Michigan to receive chapter status, and it is perhaps the youngest university nationally to receive such recognition.

OU will now have the authority to elect individuals to full membership in the society. The principal qualification for full membership in Sigma Xi is publication of the results of an original scientific investigation in a recognized journal.

Additional details of the March 19 chapter installation will be announced as they are completed. The national society will be represented by one of its officers. Sigma Xi chapters at area colleges and universities are expected to send their delegates to the installation ceremony.

INFORMATION SYSTEM TO BE PUT ON COMPUTER

An unusual method of filling the communications gap on campus has been proposed by a group of management students.

That method is a computerized information system that is being developed by students in conjunction with Harvey Shapiro, economics and management.

"The goal of the project," said Laura Kowal, one student developing the system for university credit, "is to establish a workable on-line computer system that is capable of storing and retrieving information pertaining to all types of campus programs and events."

Once implemented, a complete printout of programming information for any given day would be readily available from the computer terminals in Dodge and Vandenburg Halls on a time-sharing basis. A terminal may also be installed in the Oakland Center depending on the success of the program. This system will provide up-to-date information immediately.

The project is currently in the initial programming stage. Any department, office or organization interested in the development of the system or in submitting information into the system should contact Laura Kowal at 377-2682.
