GLEN BROWN

WILLIAM F. STURNER

THOMAS ATKINSON

RETURN FROM GUYANA

Four Allport College students who spent part of the summer doing an independent study project in Guyana, South America, with an East Indian "bush doctor" will discuss their experiences at noon Sept. 15 in the Gold Room. The students are Kittie Fairbrother, Mark Suszko, Deena Heide and Marcia Miller. They were hosted in Guyana, formerly British Guiana, by Jamie Naidu, a native guru who lectured in Allport College last year at the invitation of Professor Philip Singer.

WILL PRESENT PAPER

Jean S. Braun (psychology) will present a paper at the annual convention of the American Psychological Association Sept. 5 in Washington, D.C. The paper, to be published in the proceedings of the convention, is entitled "Comparison of the performance of children with dysrhythmia Grade I and normal EEG on psychological tests."

PHD STEP ACCREDITED

Oakland has been extended accreditation by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools for limited work at the doctoral level for the proposed PhD programs in interdisciplinary science and engineering.

TRUSTEES TO MEET

The next scheduled formal meeting of the Board of Trustees will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 11, in the Oakland Center.

Offices Reorganized

Several administrative departments have been reorganized during the past few weeks as President O'Dowd took steps to enter the new school year with a new look.

Principal changes were the creation of two complementary departments, the Office of Campus Development and the Office of Campus Planning. Glen Brown, former director of admissions and director of scholarships, was appointed assistant president for campus development, and William F. Sturner, former vice provost, was named assistant president for planning.

Each assumes portions of administrative responsibilities formerly held by Assistant President Herbert N. Stoutenburg, who left the university to accept the presidency of Alpena Community College, along with expanded responsibilities resulting from new organization. Another of Stoutenburg's duties, that of university marshal, has been assigned to Performing Arts Dean W. W. Kent as an added responsibility.

The Office of Campus Development embraces physical plant and grounds operations, along with plant remodeling and new construction.

The Office of Campus Planning will have, in President O'Dowd's words, "responsibility for generating short and long-range plans for the development of the university (encompassing) such important areas as academic programs, university budget, new buildings, and administrative systems."

Reporting to Sturner will be Admissions, Financial Aid, Registration and Records, Personnel and Labor Relations, Institutional Research, and the Computing and Data Processing Center. His chief assistant in coordinating these various functions will be former registrar Thomas Atkinson, whose title will be director of administrative services. Atkinson returned to campus last month after a two-year leave during which he served as director of admissions and registrar at Robert College in Istanbul.

The Office of Student Affairs also has been revamped. Major shifts in jobs include former Oakland Center director Alan Scott being named assistant to the vice president for student affairs, Dudley Woodard becoming dean for student life, and Manuel Pierson being named dean for student services.

Scott replaces John Tapp, who is attending law school, and Woodard succeeds Fred W. Smith, who accepted a new post at Rochester Institute of Technology this summer. Pierson's new department combines offices formerly known as Resource Services and Student Special Services.

Ronald Kevern is the new director of Career Advising and Placement succeeding Mrs. Dorothy Hope, who retired. His assistant director is James Anderson.

Bookcenter director William Marshall accepted the additional role of Oakland Center director, and Richard Morgan will continue to serve as associate director. Charles Bethea moves from the residence halls program to assume the post of director of commuter affairs.

The most recently announced batch of other administrative shifts:

--The Office of Psychological Services will be located in the Office of Student Affairs, reporting to James R. Appleton, vice president for student affairs.

--Alumni Relations will be in the Office of the President, reporting to William W. Connellan, assistant to the president.

--The Audiovisual Department will be part of the academic program, under the direction of Frederick W. Obear, vice president for academic affairs.

--University Relations will become part of the Public Affairs Office, reporting to John DeCarlo, vice president for public affairs.

Within academic departments administrative changes included the naming of Melvin Cherno as chairman of history, succeeding Professor Charles Akers, and of James Clatworthy as faculty chairman of New College, succeeding Cherno.

Other new department heads this fall are Carl F. Barnes in art, succeeding acting chairman John Cameron, and Boaz Kahana in psychology, succeeding acting chairman Don Hildum.

Barnes is an art historian, whose special field of interest is Gothic architecture, and comes to Oakland from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. He holds M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Columbia.

Kahana was formerly project director with the Child Development Center of Washington University. He holds a doctorate from the University of Chicago.

Among the other faculty appointments which took effect during the summer, Lewis N. Pino, director of research services and dean of the spring and summer sessions, was appointed professor of chemistry. He holds a doctorate from the University of Buffalo and formerly taught at Allegheny College and Colorado College.

Plunge Into Ride-Pool

The Office of Commuter Affairs is inaugurating Ride-Pool this semester as an elemental step in the university's mass-transit plans.

Students were given an opportunity to sign up at registration and will be brought together for an organizational meeting on Monday, Sept. 13.

"Ride-Pool is based on car pools coming from different zip code areas," says Ride-Pool Director Ron Carlson. "We hope to do the basic organizational dirty work for students but have them operate their groups independently." The people in Ride-Pool get preferred parking in Lot E (opposite South Foundation Hall) and split the $16 parking fee among the group.

"We feel we can develop Ride-Pool into a cooperative system so that in the near future commuters can arrive and leave campus at any time they wish," Carlson says.

The Ride-Pool system will benefit the whole university by reducing the need for additional parking lots, which cost about $300 a space, and reduce congestion and pollution.

"We hope to enlarge our operation each semester," Carlson says, "and anyone interested should stop in our office in Room 18 Oakland Center, or call ext. 2184."

Meadow Brook Stars Returning

Meadow Brook Theatre artistic director Terence Kilburn has announced the list of leading actors for the theatre's sixth season, which opens Oct. 14 with "The Matchmaker."

"I'm pleased that several of the finest and most popular actors and actresses who have appeared at Meadow Brook over the past seasons are returning again this year for starring roles in our eight plays," said Kilburn.

The returnees include Joseph Shaw, Peter Brandon, Harry Ellerbe, Elisabeth Orion, William LeMessena and Barbara Caruso.

Miss Caruso, a New York actress who has appeared in several Broadway and off-Broadway productions, received critical bouquets for her performance two seasons ago under Kilburn's direction in Tennessee Williams' "Summer and Smoke." A member of the original Meadow Brook Theatre company, she will return to play the role of Nora in "A Doll's House."

Ellerbe will return for his third season to play Vandergelder in "The Matchmaker," Captain Shotover

The Season

Oct. 14-Nov. 7--THE MATCHMAKER by Thornton Wilder
Nov. 11-Dec. 5--THE ANDERSONVILLE TRIAL by Saul Levitt
Dec. 9-Jan. 2--HEARTBREAK HOUSE by George Bernard Shaw
Jan. 6-30--THE GLASS MENAGERIE by Tennessee Williams
Feb. 3-27--THE ODD COUPLE by Neil Simon
March 2-26--A DOLL'S HOUSE by Henrik Ibsen
March 30-April 23--THE BOY FRIEND by Sandy Wilson
April 27-May 21--THE PRICE by Arthur Miller

in Shaw's "Heartbreak House" and Baker in "The Andersonville Trial."

Brandon, who starred in "The Crucible" and "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" last season, will star opposite Miss Caruso as Torvald in "A Doll's House."

Joseph Shaw has been signed to play the role of Captain Wirz in "The Andersonville Trial" and also will direct this season's musical, "The Boy Friend."

Also returning for his second year will be William LeMessena, who won great audience response last year for his roles in "Life With Father,"

"A Thousand Clowns" and "The Fantasticks." He will play four roles this season, including Felix in Neil Simon's "The Odd Couple."

Elisabeth Orion will be back for her fifth season to take one of the great roles of modern drama, Amanda Wingfield in Williams' "The Glass Menagerie." Diane Bugas, a young Meadow Brook favorite for the past two years, will play Laura.

"I think that with actors like these," said Kilburn, "this coming season will present the most accomplished and exciting company Meadow Brook Theatre has yet had at one time in any single year."

Phys Ed Joins Faculty Ranks

Members of the physical education department assumed faculty ranks this fall as they prepared to teach courses for credit for the first time in the school's history.

Hollie L. Lepley, founding director of the department, was granted full faculty status with tenure as professor of education. He is on convalescent leave as director and his duties temporarily are being shared by swimming coach Corey M. Van Fleet and basketball coach Eugene H. Boldon, both of whom were appointed associate professor.

John E. Scovil, assistant basketball coach and coach of the golf team, was named assistant professor, and Charles H. Pollard, who coaches track and administers intramural sports, was appointed instructor.

Other new faculty appointments: Daniel N. Braunstein, associate professor of management and associate professor of psychology (Ph.D. Purdue, with the University of Rochester since 1965); Barry S. Winkler, assistant professor of biological sciences and research associate with the Institute of Biological Sciences (M.A. and Ph.D. from SUNY at Buffalo, where he taught last year); Robert G. Payne, associate professor of education (Ph.D. University of Michigan, former social studies specialist with the Oakland Intermediate School District), Jacqueline R. Scherer, assistant professor of sociology (Ph.D. Syracuse, former research associate University of London).

MORSE IS CHOSEN

Donald E. Morse (English) will be chairman this coming year of the religious studies section of the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters. He gave a paper at the annual meeting of the organization on "Comedy in Religious Arts."
