HENRY FORD, OU OFFER 2+2 JAZZ PROGRAM

Successful jazz study programs at Henry Ford Community College and Oakland University are being combined in a cooperative, pilot, two-plus-two program. The program will start in the fall, 1974.

In it, students in the jazz studies program at Henry Ford Community College will spend two years taking courses in jazz theory, improvisation, ensemble work, and history of jazz receiving an associate in arts degree in music with a concentration in jazz.

Students would then transfer to OU for the final two years of the four-year program with full acceptance of all credits. They can take studies leading to the degree of bachelor of arts or science with certifications in jazz studies and advanced jazz studies. An alternate course will be to fulfill the course of study for the certification in jazz as professional preparation and receive a diploma in that area. OU offers a full four-year program in the above areas for students who wish to enroll directly in the university as freshmen.

The Henry Ford program is directed by Don Lupp, the OU jazz program is directed by Marvin "Doc" Holladay.

The selecting of courses at OU would include advanced theory, composition and arranging, music business management, survey of Afro-American music, small ensemble work, and others.

OFFICE OF ADMISSIONS SPONSORS CONFERENCE

The Office of Admissions hosted a Monday, March 18, "Principal-Counselor-Freshman Conference." OU upperclassmen were also invited to attend the interview portion of the program. High school representatives from as near as Rochester and from as far as Grand Rapids were in attendance.

The conference featured consultations between high school personnel and their former students, a welcome from OU officials, and a Meadow Brook Hall luncheon and tour.

OU CONDUCTS LOCALIZED DECISION PROGRAM AT MACOMB

Oakland University admissions counselors were on the Center Campus of Macomb County Community College in early April to conduct a localized decision program.

The unique program eliminates the waiting period of two to three weeks usually required to process an application and an advanced standing report.

The OU counselors interviewed students and admissible ones received their admissions materials at once, along with an advanced standing evaluation to learn exactly which of their community college courses transferred to OU.

INSTITUTE IN MEXICO OFFERED JUNE 29-AUG. 3

Community College students are invited to apply for admission to a summer institute in Mexico. The institute is offered June 29-Aug. 3 by Oakland University's Area Studies Program and the Instituto Cultural de Tenochtitlan in Mexico City.

Participants will receive eight credits and study the Mexican language and culture in a program that includes Spanish language, literature, social science, and applied and fine arts courses. Housing will be with Mexican families or it can be arranged by the students.

Total cost including tuition and fees at OU and at the Instituto Cultural Tenochtitlan and housing with a Mexican family is $480 per student. Cost to students arranging their own accommodations is $360.000. Additional information may be obtained by calling Kathryn McArdle in OU's Department of Modern Languages and Literatures at 377-2060.

WORKSHOP ON TEACHING OF GERMAN HELD HERE

The American Association of Teachers of German (A.A.T.G.) held a workshop at Oakland University Saturday, March 23, for high school and college teachers of German.

The workshop dealt with elements of learning the language that go beyond grammar and vocabulary, and it focused on using the language and incorporating it in prose, poetry and other cultural aspects of German life.

Professors of German in OU's Department of Modern Languages and Literatures were hosts for the program. The workshop ran from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. in the Gold Room of the Oakland Center and was open to all people interested in the German language.

Renate Gerulaitis of the OU faculty taught four German poems in which she illustrated approaches which appealed to high school students. She has worked extensively with the poetry of Goethe.

Manfred Heuser of Redford Union High School demonstrated the teaching of prose, poetry and song through the use of dramatic techniques. Heuser is district co-ordinator of foreign languages in the Redford school district and chairman of the drama department in the high school. He is also well-known in Detroit German-American circles as head of the German Theatre of Detroit (Deutsche Bühne).

Mrs. Elsi Tangert of Rochester High School taught workshop participants a number of German and Austrian folk-dances. Folk-dancing is one more dimension in the study of the language which adds interest and conveys cultural information. Mrs. Tangert uses folk-dancing in her own classes and each spring Rochester students give a public performance. Mrs. Tangert is an expert in Alpine folk-dancing. At one time she had been a member of a professional Austrian folk-dancing and singing group.

GENERAL CHAIRMEN NAMED FOR FESTIVAL, THEATRE

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Cafiero have been named General Chairmen of the Meadow Brook Music Festival and Theatre Executive Committee for 1974. Mr. Cafiero is a member of the Board of Directors of Chrysler Corporation, and Group Vice President of North American Automotive, Chrysler Corporation.

The Cafieros, who have worked on the Executive Committee for two years, were introduced by Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Lund at a reception and dinner at Meadow Brook Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Cafiero were Vice-Chairmen of the 1973 Executive Committee, headed by Mr. Robert D. Lund and his wife, Emie. Mr. Lund is a General Motors Vice President, and General Manager of Cadillac Motor Car Division. In 1972, the Cafieros served as Community Projects Co-Chairmen.

SIX FACULTY WIN RESEARCH GRANTS

Six Oakland University faculty members have received grants of $400 to $600 each from the University Research Committee. The research support is for the 1974 calendar year.

The awards are given on a competitive basis and each recipient is asked to write a report on the research at the conclusion of the grant period.

Three of the six winners are members of the Department of Psychology. They are: Allen K. Hess, who received $600 to support his study on risk taking and personality correlates of primary and neurotic psychology; Virginia O'Leary, who received $500 to support her research in role concept and achievement goal choice among women; and Helen A. Klein, who got $440 for work on the role of material complexity and theme in the decoding of written material.

Two other faculty members received $600 grants each. Their names and research activities follow: John P. Cutts, English, is transcribing and publishing "Loves Changelings Change," a little-known Jacobean play; and Kenneth M. Harmon, chemistry, is researching quaternary ammonium compounds.

Tung H. Weng, School of Engineering, received $400 to support a study of the preparation of the binary alloys as part of an attempt to find new types of semiconducting materials.

LANGUAGE STUDY COMBINED WITH ECONOMICS, MANAGEMENT

A major in foreign language supplemented by study in economics and management is now offered at Oakland University.

"We hope the combination will prove both attractive and useful to students. It will prepare them well for roles in such fields as government, international commerce, and tourism," states Norman Susskind, chairman, Department of Modern Languages and Literatures.

The program consists of six courses in language beyond second year and four or five courses in economics and management. Several corequisite courses will be chosen from the fields of area studies, translation, civilization, political science, and history, Susskind said.

THEATRE, ART, BALLET
SET FOR TERM'S FINAL WEEKS

EXPERIMENTAL THEATRE GROUP
INVITED TO PERFORM AT U OF M

The New-Charter College Experimental Theatre group was one of eight groups invited to present theatre works at the University of Michigan Invitational Festival of Experimental Theatre.

The Friday, Feb. 22, through Sunday, Feb. 24, program was in the Frieze Building in Ann Arbor. Other participants were Albion College, Antioch College, University of California at Berkeley, Illinois Wesleyan University, Kansas State University, Ohio State University, and Swarthmore College.

The OU entry was entitled "Brainwash." It was planned by Elizabeth Flournoy, Detroit; Eric Brooks, Bloomfield Hills; Linda Tanksley, Detroit; Andre Fields, Detroit; and Susan Katz, Oak Park.

New-Charter College's Experimental Theatre will use two spring classes to prepare for special summer activities. The group will tour eighty parks with a family show for the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department.

GOOD EARLY RESPONSE FOR SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

Response to Oakland University's Community College Scholarship Program for 1974 has been excellent to date, university officials report.

Scholarship announcements, only recently mailed, are already bringing phone calls and responses by letter, they said.

The program awards $600 in tuition money to one student from each of the public two-year community colleges and junior colleges in Michigan. Each award is renewable for a second year. The scholarships are based on academic achievement, and applications are now being accepted for 1974-75.

The awards are part of an OU program to help community college and junior college students to continue their educations. Information may be obtained from a counselor or by writing the Oakland University Admissions Office, Rochester, Michigan, 48063.

HENRY FORD FACULTY AT OU HISTORY CONFERENCE

Arthur Thomas of Henry Ford Community College was among those attending a recent OU conference on "Teaching About Revolutions and Civil Wars." The program was sponsored by the Department of History.

Sessions were held on the Pathology of Modern Revolutions; Saints and Assassins; Russian Revolutionary Activists; the Taiping Rebellion; the Cuban Revolution; the Personal Impact of the American Civil War; the European Revolutions of 1830, 1848, and 1871; Revolutions in Colonial and Contemporary Africa; and Revolution From the Right: The Military and Dictatorships of Chile and Brazil. In addition Rozelle William Nesbitt, Africa Information Service, discussed "The Struggle Continues."

The Department of History faculty conducting programs were: Melvin Chernov, Richard M. Brace, Robert C. Howes, Charles A. Akers, Robert J. Krompart, Colin A. Palmer, and Carl R. Osthaus. Other speakers were: James D. Graham, Mary Karasch, Roy A. Kotynek, Lawrence D. Orton, and S. Bernard Thomas.

PUBLIC SAFETY LAUNCHES STUDENT MARSHALL PROGRAM

The Oakland University Department of Public Safety is seeking students who are interested in working as student marshalls, Earl Gray, director of Public Safety, said.

Applications are now being accepted and selected students will be provided an opportunity to become an ancillary branch of the department. Students who intend to pursue careers in the field of criminal justice will find that such employment will give them an insight into similar positions with city, state or federal agencies, Gray said.

The patrol of designated areas will be the primary duty of a marshall officer, but this will not exclude other duties such as ambulance driver, ticket writer, traffic controller, etc.

The officer will give special attention to those areas to which assignment is made in order to provide the maximum security for persons and property. At the discretion of the director or his designee, marshalls will be required to conduct special non-criminal investigations, preservation of crime scenes, obtainment of statements, and submit written reports, Gray said.

Applicants must be at least a second semester freshman, maintain a 2.50 average, pass a background investigation, be physically able to perform assigned duties, have a valid operator's or chauffeur's license, and be acceptable to the university's insurance carrier.

The benefits include $2.10 per hour pay and the opportunity for a 20-hour work week and paid in-service training. Uniforms and sundry equipment will be provided, Gray said. Persons selected for the program will serve a probationary period to determine capabilities for the job requirements.

BUS LINE PROPOSED OVER
PONTIAC-MT. CLEMENS ROUTE

The Southeastern Michigan Transit Authority (SEMTA) indicates that within the next two months a proposed bus line linking the Pontiac, Rochester, Utica, and Mt. Clemens communities should be in operation.

The proposed route includes service to Oakland University and there will be connections with service to Detroit along Woodward and Gratiot Avenues.

Students are now being surveyed about their interest in a bus route, best schedule times, and appropriate fares.
