New "SAGA" In O.U. Cooking Appears

Oakland University went through a transition of sorts this summer. Gone was Szabo Food and inserted was Saga Food Service.

The Saga Corporation had its eyes on O.U. for three years. When Szabo's contract ran out in June, it put in a bid and now is here to make a go of food service.

Saga arrives with some pretty interesting credentials. This is an anniversary year for Saga-25 years in the business. They now cater to over 285 college and educational outlets in 50 states and Puerto Rico

FOCUS talked to Jerry Gurss, who is the man in charge of Saga Food Service at O.U., and he said he has nothing but respect for the O.U. campus. Saga has had "good cooperation" from the local union and their devotion drew good remarks from Mr. Gurss.

In the not too distant future he said, we can look for suggestion boxes in the dining halls and the reformation of a student Food Committee.

THE LADY IS NOT FOR BURNING, Christopher Fry's delightful poetic comedy, will be the next offering at the Barn Theatre, Oakland University, Rochester, Michigan.

Set in England of the 1400's, this saucy comedy reveals the romantic story of Jennet Jourdemayne, falsely accused of being a witch, and Thomas Mendip, a soldier recently released from the seven year crusades of Flanders. This poetic fantasy of rare splendor and delight has charmed audiences with its works of magical humor and deep beauty since its first production in 1948.

THE LADY IS NOT FOR BURNING will run September 14, 15, and 16 with an 8:30 curtain. Ticket information and group sales may be arranged by calling 377-2245.

Summer Congress Summed Up

Congress initiated two courses of action for students during the past summer. One consisted of social activities for students on campus and the other consisted of gaining a ground floor for a viable Congress.

Wednesday afternoons became giveaway afternoons for students attending summer classes. Concert Lecture Series with student organizations offered students delectable treats including ice cream, shortcake and watermelon. Rock concerts were also given.
