Annual meeting brings kudos, ideas

Mary, Ron, and Marshall went to Baltimore for the annual meeting and stuffed themselves with rock fish and crab prepared in all the local variations. It was a thrill for us (and for the folks from the National Office) to tell over and over again how well things went at our inaugural summer institute. We attended many excellent sessions, made good contacts, and picked up some ideas. The Meadow Brook Writing Project was officially recognized at the opening general session.

SUMMARY

Mary, Ron, and Marshall went to Baltimore for the annual meeting and heard about how well things went at our inaugural summer institute.
