International Night set for Oct. 27

Oakland University plans to celebrate diversity by bringing together performers, food and displays from different cultures during International Night on October 27.

The event, which is being hosted by the International Student Organization, runs from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Oakland Center on the university's campus.

"The last International Night was such a success that we decided to hold another," said Edin Sehovic, president of the International Student Organization. "Our goal is to show how different the cultures are and to break stereotypes."

The event will feature ethnic food from a variety of countries as well as music and dance performances by groups representing cultures from around the world.

International Night is open to the public and is being sponsored by the International Students Organization, Indian Students Association, Italian Club, Theta Chi Fraternity, Russian Club, Chinese Students Organization, Muslim Student Association, Green Party, German Club and the Center for Student Activities.
