Alice Conner Gorlin Lecture is April 11

Oakland University's School of Business Administration is hosting the annual Alice Conner Gorlin Memorial Lecture on Thursday, April 11, at 7:30 p.m. in 242 Elliott Hall. The lecture will feature professor Algirdas Maniushis from the International University in Moscow, who will present "Modern Russia: Moving Toward the Post-Industrial Society."

Maniushis will talk about the economic and political issues that have arisen from globalization as well as the main obstacles that stand in the path toward a modern post-industrial economy. He also will talk about Russian financial markets, business practices and legal structures in Russia.

Algirdas Maniushis, Ph.D., is a dean of the Graduate School of Business Administration at the International University in Moscow and a general director of its Management Consulting Center. He is an economist whose diverse research interests include management, finance, environmental protection and stock market development. His work appears in more than 100 scientific publications.

Maniushis speaks regularly at conferences of the International Union of Economists and other conferences in Europe and the United States. He is an experienced consultant for the automotive industry and the World Bank. Maniushis is fellow of the International Academy of Management in Moscow and a member of the Free Economic Society of Russia.

Alice Conner Gorlin, Ph.D., was an esteemed professor of economics at Oakland University from 1972 until her death in 1987. She gained international recognition as a scholar of the Soviet economy. Her dedication to the role of human beings as citizens of the world led Gorlin's friends to establish this memorial lecture series to promote understanding of international issues and events.

The lecture is free and open to the public.

For more information, contact Miron Stano, chair of Department of Economics, at (248) 370-3291 or visit the School of Business Administration Web site.
