

Thursday, April 18, 2002

Vijayan Sugumaran

Vijayan Sugumaran, assistant professor of management information systems, came to Oakland University in 1999. He was on the faculty of Le Moyne College in Syracuse, N.Y.

His research interests include intelligent agent and multi-agent systems, domain modeling and software reuse, component-based software development, knowledge-based systems and Internet technologies. His work most recently appeared in "Communications of the ACM, Data Base, Information Systems Journal," "Journal of Healthcare Technology and Management," "Journal of Logistics and Information Management," and "Automated Software Engineering."

Sugumaran serves on the editorial boards of "Industrial Management and Data Systems," and the "Journal of International Information Management." He is chair of the Intelligent Information Systems track for the Information Resources Management Association's International Conference and Intelligent Agent and Multi-agent Systems in Business track for Americas Conference on Information Systems.

SUMMARY

Vijayan Sugumaran, assistant professor of management information systems, came to Oakland University in 1999. He was on the faculty of Le Moyne College in Syracuse, N.Y.

Created by CareTech Administrator (webservices@caretechsolutions.com) on Thursday, April 18, 2002

Modified by CareTech Administrator (webservices@caretechsolutions.com) on Thursday, April 18, 2002

Article Start Date: Monday, November 10, 2003