Irons: No Men to Run Commissary at Jail

Oakland County Sheriff Frank W. Irons said today a shortage of manpower prevents him from following a state recommendation for establishment of a county-operated commissary at the jail.

The recommendation came from State Jail Inspector Robert Russell after a probe ordered by Irons had disclosed smuggling of dope to jail inmates.

"We've only got two turnkeys to handle what little we do distribute in the way of candy and cigarettes," Irons said.

"I just don't have the men needed to operate a full-time commissary serving 200 prisoners."

Russell recommended the commissary in a letter to Irons dated Feb. 23, some three weeks after a melee in a fourth-floor cellblock triggered an investigation into barbiturates being smuggled into the jail.

Russell said he suggested establishment of the commissary in the wake of the smuggling charges.

Men Charged With Bribery, Extortion as Probe Increases

Two indictments charging five Royal Oak Township officials with bribery and extortion were issued today as the eight-month grand jury probe into crime and corruption continued gaining momentum.

In the past week, Grand Juror Circuit Judge Philip Pratt has ordered 10 warrants and announced he had moved out of the confines of Royal Oak Township and extended his jurisdiction on a countywide basis.

A charge of accepting a $4,000 bribe was leveled today against Township Supervisor Edward Kennedy, Treasurer Frank Miller and Trustees Samuel Woodard and Marshall Taylor.

Accused of offering the bribe is Elton Mickels, who was not immediately identified.

The grand jury alleges that Mickels gave $500 of the total amount to the four officials to influence their vote in a property deal last November.

SWAY DECISION

The bribe was intended, according to the warrant, to sway the township board's decision to accept an offer to purchase a parcel of land at Eight Mile and Thacker in the township.

In the second indictment, Mickels, Woodard and another township trustee, W. C. Chambers, are charged with conspiring to accept a bribe from a representative of the Dance Oil Service, 6400 W. Eight Mile.

They are charged with accepting $200 in May 1961 for their favorable vote to allow erection of a sign at the gas station.

The sign which had been requested was prohibited under a township zoning ordinance.

TO BE ARRAIGNED

Judge Pratt said that all those indicted were expected to be arraigned today before Just. J. Elton of the Peace Robert K. Anderson.

Kennedy, Woodard and Miller were charged early last week with accepting a $2,000 bribe from a wrecking company official.

In return for the alleged bribe, the American Demolition Co. was permitted to burn debris in the township's urban renewal project.

Since the grand jury began in June 1965 a total of 11 charges have been brought. Two other persons have been charged with perjury during the investigation. One has already been convicted.

FIRST INDICTMENT
The first indictment was brought against a township police officer, Sgt. Edward L. Watkins, who was accused of selling drivers' licenses over the normal fee. The case is pending.

SHOOTING — Everett Joseph (right), 59, of 599 Lochaven, West Bloomfield Township, was held in the shooting today of a 36-year-old man at the Pontiac police station.

Joseph, who faces arraignment on a charge of attempted murder, is with Detective Sgt. John A. DePauw.

Cabinet-Level Post for Transit Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson asked Congress today to establish a new department of transportation in the Cabinet which would consolidate a number of federal agencies responsible for transit and safety.

In a message to the House and Senate, Johnson said: "The American transportation system is not good enough. We must coordinate the executive functions of our transportation agencies into a single coherent instrument of government."

The President also included urgent proposals on insuring the "safety of citizens as they travel on our land, in our skies, and over our waters." He recommended creation of an independent national safety transportation board.

He urged Congress to approve a $700-million, six-year program to spur highway safety programs.

In addition, Johnson again advocated construction and testing of a new 2,000 mile-per-hour supersonic aircraft. He asked $200 million in the fiscal year beginning July 1 to initiate the prototype phase of the plane.

Report Victim Satisfactory

By DAVID COOK

A 36-year-old man scheduled for court examination on a gross indecency charge was shot and wounded this morning at the Pontiac police station.

Arrested moments after the shooting in a second floor office of the station was Everett Joseph, 59, of 599 Lochaven, West Bloomfield Township, father of the 23-year-old woman complainant in the case.

Detective Charles Chancy, heading an investigation into the shooting, said police would seek arraignment of Joseph on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

Rushed to Pontiac General Hospital was John B. Cannon of 5 Lee Court who police said was hit in the leg with a single shot from a .22-caliber automatic pistol.

His condition is reported as satisfactory.

Cannon was slated to undergo preliminary examination in Pontiac Municipal Court today on the gross indecency charge.

He was shot in the police department's crime prevention bureau just after 9 a.m.

In the office at the time were clerk Mrs. Cornelia Rhodes and Detective Sgt. Carl Colando.

"He's trying to shoot me," Mrs. Rhodes quoted Cannon as shouting when he ran into the office with Joseph some 12 feet behind him.

ACROSS HALL

Mrs. Rhodes and Colando each said they heard two shots fired before Cannon ducked through another door and across the hall into the Secretary of State's office.

Joseph then reportedly handed the pistol to a clerk in the Secretary of State's office and, moments later, was apprehended by Municipal Court Warrant Officer Joseph Rahrbach.

Cannon was taken by Colando to the hospital.

The complainant in the case, Mrs. Robert Robertson, of 2091 Ridgewood, and her husband had just left the Crime Prevention Bureau to see an assistant prosecutor at the court office when the shooting occurred.

Cannon had previously been arraigned on two counts of rape involving Mrs. Robertson, but the charges were dismissed at preliminary examination by Judge Cecil B. McCullum.

Detectives found a cartridge on the floor of the Crime Prevention Bureau office and also dug a slug of lead from a wall outside the office door.

Some persons nearby said four shots were fired. Others said they heard only two.

"Although only Mrs. Rhodes and Colando actually saw the shooting, some 50 persons — clerks in adjoining offices, police personnel, and other persons outside two nearby courtrooms — were on the second floor when the shooting occurred."

Joseph is employed as an engineer with Pontiac Motor Division.

SURRENDERS GUN
Joseph surrendered the gun to a clerk in the Secretary of State's office after the hall.

"It all happened so fast," said Mrs. Rhodes. "I thought it was a joke, somebody with a cap pistol or something."

Colando agreed.

"Faster than you can say 'Jack Robinson,'" he said, "these two guys (Cannon and Joseph) were in one door and out the other in our office."

"Carl really moved," said Mrs. Rhodes. "He was right behind both men as soon as we heard the shots."

REPRESENTATIVES
A court warrant officer took Joseph into custody while Colando took Cannon to Pontiac General Hospital.

Cannon was reported in satisfactory condition.

Two in Office Near Shooting

Lobby Usually Full, Says Police Officer

Only two persons sat in the office of the crime prevention bureau at the Pontiac police station this morning when a 36-year-old man was shot and wounded by another man.

On a "normal" day, however, said Det. Sgt. Carl P. Colando, "we'd have had a lobby full of people sitting there."

Colando said the office, also headquarters for the juvenile bureau, is usually crowded with parents and youths.

When 59-year-old Everett Joseph allegedly fired from two to four shots, one of them striking John B. Cannon in the leg, only Colando and Mrs. Cornelia Rhodes, a clerk, were in the office.

Scores of other persons on the second floor of the police station heard the shots ring out.

HAPPENED FAST
"It all happened so fast," said Mrs. Rhodes. "I thought it was a joke, somebody with a cap pistol or something."

Colando agreed.

"Faster than you can say 'Jack Robinson,'" he said, "these two guys (Cannon and Joseph) were in one door and out the other in our office."

"Carl really moved," said Mrs. Rhodes. "He was right behind both men as soon as we heard the shots."

REPRESENTATIVES
A court warrant officer took Joseph into custody while Colando took Cannon to Pontiac General Hospital.

Cannon was reported in satisfactory condition.

In a 6-1 vote, the City Commission last night introduced an amendment to the city's public housing ordinance to allow "housing designed for occupancy by the elderly."

Final action to amend the ordinance is set for next week.

Commissioner Robert C. Irwin cast the lone dissenting vote.

Despite being in favor of senior citizen housing, several individuals and groups held out last night for total repeal of the housing ordinance.

"That's a rather broad spread," added Irwin. "We've got to have better information housing for the elderly, also."

The District 2 commissioner, been considered for only two weeks with no discussion of the issue.

Bids Received on Wide Track-Whittemore Walkway

A variety of bids were received last night for construction of a pedestrian walkway across East Wide Track at Whittemore.

Because of the variety of both designs and cost offerings, City Engineer Joseph E. Neippling asked and was granted two weeks to study the bids and furnish a recommendation.

Neippling reported that four firms submitted seven alternative bids. The bids ranged from a low of $12,850 to a high of $29,985.

The city engineer said the city had received a variety of designs to choose from.

The city has proposed building three pedestrian walkways in various parts of the city. Only one such bridge has gone to the point where a contract has been let.

PREVIOUSLY REJECTED
The city has previously rejected a $25,000 bid for the Wide Track-Whittemore crossing.

Meantime, negotiations have been held with Grand Trunk Western Railroad for a walkway over railroad tracks between Sheffield and Walton.

The pedestrian overpass proposed for West Huron in front of Webster School is the only walkway to approach the construction stage. The contract for $17,400 was awarded to Guardian Engineering Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa.

However, construction has been stalled by the state refusal to issue a permit for the proposed overpass.

STATE TRUNKLINE
Since the street is a state trunkline, the Michigan State Highway Department has to give its approval. The state so far has turned down the city's walkway plans.

Neippling said a long span may be necessary. This would require a greater area for the footings at both curbs.

In other business last night, the commission appointed three civil process servers for Municipal Court. Appointed were Walter Krause, James Newport and Arvie West.

They were recommended by the Municipal Court judges for the two-year terms.

ZONING ORDINANCE
Also last night, a planning commission recommendation for the first revision and updating of a portion of the city's zoning ordinance was presented.

Introduced for a public hearing March 22, were proposed changes in the zoning ordinance to provide specific definitions for residential districts.

A $900 offer to purchase a city-owned vacant lot at 461 Montana was accepted by the commission.

In related action, the commission gave tentative approval to sell a portion of a city-owned lot at the southeast corner of Pike and Eastway.

Commercial rezoning for two lots on the east side of Joslyn between Madison and LeBaron, requested by Pontiac State Bank, was approved.

Requested rezoning to residential for an area on Stanley in the Baldwin-Dixie Hills subdivision was referred to the planning commission in other business last night.

Zone Proposal Hits Legal Snag

Changes May Mean New Public Hearing

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A new zoning ordinance designed to implement the township's master plan may have hit a legal snag on its way to the Township Board.

Providing for large residential lot sizes and the creation of an industrial zone, the proposed ordinance was prepared by an eight-member planning commission and consultants from Villcan-Leman and Associates, Inc. of Southfield.

After 2½ years of work, the Township Planning Commission was prepared to present the ordinance to the board tonight recommending adoption.

"How far we can go on the matter is the question at the present time," said John C. Rehard, township supervisor.

Rehard added, "As a result of four public hearings on the ordinance, some changes have been made. We may be required by state law to hold another public hearing on the issue before we work on adoption."

NOT MAJOR — The changes which were made are not major, according to Rehard, but they must be made known to the public.

The matter was referred to Joseph T. Brennan, township attorney, who has been studying the proposal and will inform the board tonight whether or not the issue requires airing at another public hearing.

The ordinance, which actually is a comprehensive amendment to the existing code, would pave the way for the first industry to locate in the township.

A strip along the eastern side of Haggerty, nearly two miles long and one-half mile deep, would be set aside for the development of limited industry.

SIMILAR DEVELOPMENT

Commerce Township has a similar development on the other side of Haggerty.

"The area would not be conducive to heavy industry because it is not overly deep," said Rehard. "Yet it is ideal for light industry such as plastic mills and stamping plants which do not require heavy machinery."

Other business to be discussed at tonight's meeting will be estimates on reappraisal of township property.

Complete reappraisal was recommended last month by Township Assessor Roland Harkless, who suggested that the reappraisal be conducted according to a new state law requiring municipalities to assess at 50 per cent of market value.

30 PER CENT — The township presently assesses at 30 per cent but there are inequities which could be corrected by a reappraisal, according to Rehard.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. at the township hall, 4460 Orchard Lake.

After-School Rec Program Set to Begin for Girls in Rochester

ROCHESTER — Junior and senior high school girls are at long last going to get the attention they have been lacking in after-school recreational activities.

Starting March 14, the Community Schools Program will conduct five enrichment classes for girls—gymnastics, creative dance, tennis, golf and swimming.

"After-school recreation activities for girls have been very limited," Community Schools Director Walter Cooper said. "All the emphasis has been on the boys."

Cooper said he doesn't anticipate a great flood of girls entering the program but he feels that "good, sound classes" will attract enough girls to make the program worthwhile.

"The health aspects of the program are obvious," noted Cooper, "but we hope that by developing an athletic skill in the girls, we can instill them with self-confidence."

The classes will be conducted after school and in the evening.

Utica Show by Adelines 'Going Navy'

UTICA — The Utica-Rochester Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc. will "go Navy" Saturday when it presents the fourth annual Barbershop Showcase of Harmony at 8:15 p.m. at Utica High School.

The Sweet Adelines Chorus will "visit" such places as Hawaii and Jamaica with songs and costumes befitting each port.

Quartets to be featured will be the Michigans, the Chantones, the Honey Dews, Ku Ku Nuts and the Chromatones. The Merit-Men, a male quartet from Lansing, will also participate.

The Sweet Adelines will give a repeat performance of their show on March 12 for the benefit of the Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan, Carolyn Carr Chapter, at the Washington Junior High School, Pontiac.

The Treble Shooters, a male quartet, will appear at this performance.

Cavanagh to Speak at Chamber Dinner

UTICA — Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh will speak at the annual Community Dinner Saturday sponsored by the Greater Utica Chamber of Commerce.

The dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran Hall.

A few tickets are still available and may be obtained from any of the Chamber directors.

Arkdale Building

1-Room School Sold

IMLAY CITY — The old one-room, Arkdale school building has gone the way of most one-room schools.

It has been sold by the Imlay City Board of Education for $105.

Schools Supt. Alvin Norlin said he has no idea what the purchaser, Warren Weese of Imlay City, plans to do with the building, but it has to be removed by June.

Norlin said the one-acre site on which the school stands will revert to its former owners.

The Arkdale School District was annexed to Imlay City last November and the 30 pupils in grades kindergarten through five were transferred to the Imlay City Schools.

OTHER ACTION

In other action Monday, the board recognized the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, as exclusive bargaining agent for non-teaching employees.

The union will serve as negotiator for custodians, cooks, bus drivers and secretaries.

A remedial reading program will start Monday with funds obtained under Title I of the Elementary Education Act.

The district received about $5,000 for this phase of the program. About 80 children are eligible to participate in the program.

Milford OKs Ordinance on Assessment Districts

MILFORD — Village councilmen have adopted a special assessment ordinance amendment designed as a substitute for an "unworkable" charter provision.

A charter amendment adopted by the electorate in 1964 provides that a special assessment district be established "only if approved by a majority of the voters in the proposed district."

"The ordinance amendment, in proper form, effectively requires what the charter amendment was seeking," Village Attorney Gene Schelz said. "Now 51 per cent of the property owners must approve an assessment before it can be levied."

The council adopted the ordinance change Monday night to demonstrate its good faith in seeking repeal of the charter amendment, Schelz noted.

A proposition to rescind the 1964 amendment is on the March 14 ballot here.

SECOND ATTEMPT

This will be the second attempt councilmen have made to have the controversial provision removed from the charter.

The charter amendment provides that "no special assessment shall be made unless approved by a majority of the qualified electorate of the special assessment district who shall vote thereon."

Because of the amendment's ambiguity, bonding attorneys said bonds approved in such a way never could be sold.

INTO EFFECT

The substitute provision of the ordinance amendment, which has been approved by bonding attorneys, would go into effect if the charter provision were repealed March 14.

"If the people vote 'yes' to repeal the charter amendment, they will be protected by the ordinance amendment," Schelz said.

He noted that any council action to repeal the ordinance amendment could be put on a referendum ballot.

The ordinance amendment requires the council to receive approval of 51 per cent of the property owners in a proposed special assessment district before establishing the district.

The property owners must be polled by registered mail.

"Failure to express an opinion within 30 days from the date of mailing shall constitute approval," according to the ordinance amendment.

On Expected Veterans Veto

GOP Votes Ready to Override Romney

LANSING (AP)—One and possibly two Senate Republicans are ready to help override an expected gubernatorial veto of expanded veterans' property tax benefits.

But a third, who voted for the bill along with Democrats and the other two Republicans Tuesday, says he would support a veto.

The House-approved veterans bill passed the Senate 25-12 with votes from Republicans Charles Zollar, Benion Harbor, Gilbert Bursley, Ann Arbor, and S. Don Potter, Lansing.

Gov. George Romney has promised a veto, which Democrats could override only with a Republican vote in the House and three in the Senate.

NO GOP VOTES

When Romney vetoed a nearly identical bill last year, Democrats could muster no GOP votes.

But Zollar said Tuesday he expects to vote to override because "I was committed to this long before all the pushing and pulling started."

The bill estimated to cost between $4.5 million and $5.5 million, would increase property tax exemptions for disabled veterans and veterans' widows from $2,000 state-equalized value to $3,500.

Romney is backing a sliding scale plan where benefits are keyed to amount of disability and widows get a $2,500 exemption. It would cost an estimated $2.5 million.

COMMITMENT

Zollar said he was committed to try to regain benefits for veterans in his southwestern Michigan area who lost up to two-thirds of their exemptions from a 1963 change in the law.

Zollar said he asked veterans' leaders in his area to consider Romney's plan, "but they all say they insist on the $3,500 version."

Senate Republicans announced six weeks ago they would back any Romney veterans' veto, but Bursley said Tuesday, "I have no commitment now. I reserve judgment."

Potter, however, said he would support a veto "as a matter of party discipline."

NO WEAKNESS

Sen. Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, the minority leader, insisted "there is no indication of any weakness on behalf of the Senate Republicans to sustain a veto."

He and Bursley both said they hope a last-minute compromise can be developed prior to a veto as was done last year with workmen's compensation.

The bill must go to the House for concurrence in minor amendments before going to Romney.

Republicans did not give any indication they would support Democrats on senior citizens' entitlement, however. That bill, also vetoed in similar form by Romney last year, won party-line Senate approval Tuesday.

The $3.5 million to $4 million plan would parallel senior citizens property tax relief. Quarterly rebates would get an average 93¢ rebate, resigned to equal all or part of the property tax paid by their rent on the living unit.

Principals Can Help Improve Learning Processes

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.
How to improve the processes of learning is a problem that confronts principals and teachers.

Not only does the way a student learns become a habit, but the learner is not conscious of the habits he is using.

Teachers were probably good students when they were in DR. NASON's school. They succeeded well enough, to graduate from college. Many have completed graduate work. They were fortunate enough to have chanced upon learning habits which made them successful. Consequently, many teachers are not in a good position to pass on their pupils the processes of thinking that were keys to their own success. They are, therefore, sometimes slow to spot poor learning habits.

Someone must stimulate interest and effort if progress is ever to be made in the improvement of learning. The principal of the school is the logical person to do this; indeed, it is his responsibility.

I am often asked by principals and superintendents, "How should this be done?"

Progress cannot be brought about merely by issuing directives. For example, telling teachers they should stress handwriting is not enough.

Many of them came through schools during a period in which the development of this skill was neglected. They have not been exposed to effective drill procedures.

Principal X, in an elementary school, occasionally asks to see a set of students' homework papers. When, as often is the case, the pupils' writing is not up to standard, a conference with the teacher is called.

Visitors at the school have been heard to comment on the excellence of the student work displayed on the bulletin boards. This did not come about suddenly.

It was not until the end of a two-year program of attention to this particular skill that a satisfactory level of proficiency was reached.

A supervising principal should stimulate the teachers in each department of a school to study the problems of why some students succeed, as well as why others fail in their particular subjects.

In the self-contained classrooms of most schools, teachers work in isolation. Progress is slow at best.

When a class has made a poor showing on examinations, the teacher needs to discuss the problem with the principal, who is far enough away from the actual situation to take an objective attitude toward its solution.

Only when teachers become students of the learning processes will they accumulate a background of sound principles and procedures that will make possible the proper guidance of individual students in this area. At first, this will seem like an added chore to the already busy teacher. But as his perception increases and he sees the progress made by individual students, his enthusiasm will grow.

David Lawrence Says:

Which Viet Stand Best Politics?

WASHINGTON — On which side of the Viet Nam controversy is there more political advantage to a candidate for Congress? This is the question that is perplexing certain members but doesn't seem to be bothering the critics of administration policy, especially the senators, LAWRENCE, who are not up for election this autumn.

Roosevelt won a fourth term in 1944 largely because the election was held in the midst of the war and the people didn't want to change horses in midstream.

When World War II was over however, economic conditions again brought hardships. The Republicans won Congress in the 1946 election and gave President Truman and the Democratic party a close race in the 1948 presidential election.

The reasons for the confusion are not novel. There has never been a war that is popular. The American people, on the other hand, have never failed to support the policy of the administration in power during the time that the war is being fought. The unfavorable repercussions usually occur after the fighting is over.

Thus, for instance, the American people were against entry into the First World War, and the policy of the government in trying to preserve neutrality was readily affirmed.

During Truman's subsequent administration, the war in Korea broke out. It was not more popular than the war in Viet Nam today.

But when this was misconstrued by the Kaiser's government, and American passenger ships were sunk with the loss of many lives, congress overwhelmingly supported the President's decision in April 1917 to declare a state of war.

NEW YORK — People... panhandlers... Even the bums in New York have a touch of class. An unshaven but sober and fairly well dressed guy stopped me on Central Park South yesterday. He looked familiar.

A fool for paying $7.5 million for Alaska. The fish catch alone now exceeds the purchase price every single year.

President Wilson won reelection in November 1916 as the Democratic party used the slogan, "He kept us out of war."

CONSIDINE
"Can you help a fellow, Mac?" he asked politely. "Didn't I help you on this same spot a couple of days ago?"

"Not me," he said somewhat indignantly. "That must have been my brother. He's a bum, too."

These factors caused the Democratic administration to be repudiated in the 1920 election by the biggest margin which had been obtained in the Electoral College in a two-party contest since the early days of the republic.

The economic situation that faced the two million troops on their return was far from favorable. As wartime controls were lifted, inflation ensued and prices skyrocketed.

There is a little additional item that accuses him of stealing $100,000 from some savings and loan officials out in California. But there's nothing at all about Bobby Baker, the first man Lyndon Johnson saw in the morning and the last man Lyndon Johnson saw at night.

Prediction from James A. Farley:
"President Jefferson was bitterly criticized for paying $15 million for all of the territory between New Orleans and Montana. On it now stand dozens of cities where one city block is worth more than that."

Granted that these saws could put Bobby Baker for 48 years, the American public is not overly concerned about tax frauds. It is the business of the government to prosecute. Baker

Voice of the People:
'OU Automated Library Was Not First in State'
I note an article regarding the Oakland University library, ("Michigan's first fully automated computerized library circulation system went into operation in Oakland University's Kresge library...") Oakland Community College has been using such a system since the institution opened its doors in September.
The OCC system—
• Uses the 357, the same piece of equipment as OU.
• Badges using Social Security number as a borrower identification, used with the system, generates two circulation cards — one in the book and the other to Data Processing for later retrieval.
• Flags overdue—Ten days after due date, due notices are generated. The overdue notice includes name, address, current data, due date and call number.
We, too, have the "opportunity to determine the types and extent of library use." Unlike OU, the OCC system does not "handle short-term book loans as well as regular items." Other than this last item, however, I'm afraid that OU's "fully automated, computerized library circulation system" ran second by approximately five and one-half months.

'Seat Belts Might Have Saved Man's Life'
A recent front page picture in The Press showed a "death car" involved in an accident on Telegraph. Why was a man killed when the interior of the car was relatively free of damage? Perhaps he was not secured with a seat belt, which allowed him to be ejected from the car. No one will ever know if a seat belt would have saved his life but how much better would chances have been if he had remained inside the car!

Asks for Answer on Selection of Movies
Will those responsible for the movie selections in the Pontiac area tell me why fifth should be allowed? The actors do a marvelous job but heaven knows we don't need or want those movies. Select good, clean movies where we can laugh a little and cry a little and go home with the fulfillment of really enjoying the evening.

Would you please put your answer in the Voice of the People telling what you can and will do so all parents will know just what is being done? Prices should be lower for students in school.

Questions Commission Interest in Housing
After one year of trying to get the City Commission to do something about housing for our senior citizens, why is it that the Commissioners take such a sudden interest? Could it be because an election is near?

If the "Taubman" plan for urban renewal will require all the available urban renewal fund, what about the public housing for the elderly, the proposed new federal building for Social Security offices, and the civic auditorium, sports arena and exhibition hall? All of these are mentioned for urban renewal fund.
WILLIAM L. GRAYES

REPLY
The Taubman plan would use the urban renewal fund within Wide Track Drive, and would not prevent these other buildings on urban renewal fund outside of Wide Track circle.

Bobbybakerism
The Richmond News Leader
The most curious thing about the indictment against Bobby Baker is that it hardly touches upon the practice of bobbybakerism in the hallowed Senate.
In reading the nine counts, one can see allegations that Baker cheated on his income tax, that he advised others to cheat on all of their income taxes.

There is a little additional item that accuses him of stealing $100,000 from some savings and loan officials out in California. But there's nothing at all about Bobby Baker, the first man Lyndon Johnson saw in the morning and the last man Lyndon Johnson saw at night.

Is Labor-LBJ Honeymoon Over?

Although it is improbable that President Johnson as a practical politician needs a lesson on the frailty of gratitude, he is nonetheless getting confirmation of it in the cautious attitude Big Labor is currently exhibiting toward him:
A its annual meeting in Miami Beach, the AFL-CIO Executive Council from President GEORGE MEANY on down sounded off against the JOHNSON Administration for alleged failure to live up to campaign commitments in return for election support of the JOHNSON ticket.

to be turned back by a doughty band of senators whose opposition was clearly buttressed by national sentiment, including that of a sizable segment of organized labor itself.

Labor bigwigs condemn the Democratic establishment for failure to effect repeal of Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act that gives states anti-union shop statutory authority; the Administration's advocacy of wage-increase guidelines (3.2 per cent annually) in renewal of labor contracts; and its disinclination to go as far as Labor urges in upping the present minimum wage from $1.25 an hour.

As for the "restraining" wage guidelines, all major labor contracts recently structured have substantially exceeded the administrative norm. Despite it, little White House pressure was exerted against such deviation, though instant action was taken against modest price rises by several basic industries.

Objectively, the validity of Labor's grievances is hard to comprehend. LBJ and company twice gave the old college try to repeal of 14-B only

The third cleavage — that of raising the minimum wage and increasing its coverage — takes the form of reasonableness vs. unreasonableness. Administration economists, with an eye to the inflationary effect on the national economy, hold to a modest advance, while the AFL-CIO cries for a two-stage jump to $1.60 an hour by next year — an increase of a hefty 28 per cent.

State Bonus Asked for GIs

House Gets Proposal for Viet Veterans

LANSING (AP) — Michigan veterans of the Viet Nam conflict would have a $200 bonus to come home under terms of a bill introduced in the House Tuesday.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. John Bennett, D-Redford Township, and carrying the signatures of 52 House members, would authorize $1,000 payments to beneficiaries of servicemen killed in Viet Nam.

It sets up a sliding scale of additional benefits for service-connected disability, with benefits set at $500 for 10 to 40 per cent disability, $750 for 41 to 75 per cent and $1,000 for 76 to 100 per cent disability.

The plan is unlike bonuses set up for World War II and Korean conflict veterans, whose benefits were scaled to length of service — $10 for each month of service and $15 for each month overseas up to a $500 maximum.

TIME LIMITS

Bennett's bill sets Jan. 1, 1961, and "such time as Congress declares any person ineligible for the Viet Nam Service Medal or the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal-Viet Nam" area as the time limits on its application.

It also requires a six-month residence in the state before entry into armed services and an honorable discharge.

Barring a major escalation of the war, Bennett said, a transfer of $600,000 still remaining in the Korean conflict bonus fund could finance the bill. Eligibility for the Korean bonus ended March 6, 1958, except for veterans who have since died from service-connected disabilities.

An estimated 7,000 Michigan men are among American forces in Viet Nam.

Given Tentative OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tentative approval of a $2 million loan for Michigan Technological University's Sault Ste. Marie branch for dormitory construction was announced Tuesday. Final approval of the loan by the Department of Housing and Urban Development awaits a review of the request.

Frogman Turns to God When His 'Automatic Shift' Fails

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the seventh in a series of 40 articles written by famous and unknown persons on how faith in God made a difference in their lives.)

By HORACE F. BROWN JR., Lieutenant, U.S. Navy, Underwater Demolition Team. The faces above me seemed blurred and far away. After a time I heard a voice say in broken English:

"Lieut. Brown, you are awake? Do you know where you are?"

"No."

"You are in a hospital in Belgium. Do you remember your accident?"

"Accident? I was traveling the highway to Paris — on a motorcycle."

"You were struck by a car and there was a petrol fire. This happened three days ago."

"You have three degree burns on your face, hands and legs. We may have to amputate your left hand."

It all seemed fantastic — impossible. My 10-day leave was almost up and I had to get back to my ship in the Mediterranean. I was in a detachment of Navy frogmen. We were going back to the States in three weeks. I would be getting married soon afterward.

I don't know whether my next words were spoken aloud to the doctor or said silently to my subconscious mind. But I remember saying, "Must put my body in automatic . . . I must . . . I must . . ."

If the doctor heard me, I'm sure he was totally puzzled.

During the three weeks that followed, I stayed on the critical list and slipped in and out of delirium. Vaguely I recall the flight on an Air Force jet from Belgium to St. Albans Hospital on Long Island.

There a team of skilled plastic surgeons worked desperately to control the massive infection that was draining my life away.

Although aware of how ill I was, I felt confident I would live.

My confidence was based on the fact that I had been thoroughly conditioned to survival in hazardous situations.

The Navy frogman training had developed my strength and endurance. Furthermore, I had learned a technique which gave me a second wind that was both a physical and psychological rejuvenation.

Frogmen is a nickname for the Navy's underwater demolition team. Our instruction was in swimming, demolitions, judo and amphibious warfare problems.

First came a period of pre-conditioning, then the training class went through five days of intensive training known as hell week. During this week you are tested on your ability to perform under pressure with very little sleep.

It was late the second day that I learned what to me was a revolutionary concept — how to put my body into automatic.

We had been on the go for 24 hours straight when the order came: a 16-mile run along the beach. It was winter. A gale-strength wind was blowing in from the Atlantic and a light snow was falling.

Halfway through I felt I would have to quit. My feet were swollen and blistered; my body seemed almost paralyzed from various aches and pains.

Yet the idea of quitting sickened me. Never before had I done so. I wondered, could I myself to go on?

I conceived the idea of shifting the condition of my body hour after hour, reading from the Bible. Occasionally, might shift gears on a car. This phrase had first come from one of the training instructors.

So I started chanting to myself, "I won't quit . . . I won't quit." I forgot about pain. I just kept driving on through the next fatigue barrier — and the next. Soon I was running ahead of all 150 who had started out — and I finished first.

As I lay in the hospital near death, I tried again to shift myself into automatic — to pit my physical resources against this enemy.

But now, for the first time, I was faced with a condition that my own will and determination could not affect.

My mother sat by my bed, walking unafraid to meet Goliath because his God was she would stop and I would see her lips moving silently in prayer.

KNOW LITTLE OF GOD

What did I know of God? Very little. At one time I had been an acolyte, true, and I had gone to church fairly regularly. But my appreciation of God had been mostly through the beauty of His earth.

The words were sinking deep inside me. I was impressed by the stories of many rugged individuals who were able to accomplish seemingly impossible feats through their faith in God: Samson impaling God for strength just one more time . . . David, a boy, walking unafraid to meet Goliath because his God was near . . . Joseph getting help from the Lord while in prison.

And then while listening to these stories one day, it occurred to me that I simply had not carried my "shifting gears" technique far enough. So far I had penetrated a number of physical and mental barriers. What about a spiritual breakthrough achieved by faith and prayer?

I lay there on my bed, closed my eyes and with my mind tried to reach up to God. My prayer was an admission of my helplessness and a willingness to believe in His greatness. It was a sort of "You can — I can't" prayer.

From that moment things were different. I felt different. The doctors almost immediately noted a change for the better in my condition.

Today, two years later, I have my vision back. I walk as well as before. I have good use of my right hand and some use of my left. Last May I married the wonderful girl who waited so patiently for me.

I have much to be thankful for — most of all a new closeness to God who showed me that when man reaches the end of his resources, God's love and power are there to help him achieve a new breakthrough.

— Ted C. Cortis, Florida business man, tells how he recovered from a major stroke and was asked God to help him. (From the magazine Guideposts and Inc. (Carnegie N.Y.) Distributed by The Register and Tribune Syndicate.

Gemini 9 Heads for Cape as Space Center Mourns Astronauts

MANNED SPACE CENTER, day Gemini 9 — their spacecraft, headed for Cape Kennedy, Fla. — today was to be a big day for astronauts.

Elliot M. See Jr. and Air Force Maj. Charles A. Bassett II, the home base for the astronauts, flies at half-staff. Bassett and See are dead victims of a flaming jet plane crash in St. Louis, Mo., Monday.

Gemini 9 is transported by air from the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. plant to Cape Kennedy today, to be flown by another team of astronauts, Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan sometime in May.

Fellow astronauts, friends and relatives held separate memorial services for Bassett and See, who never got a chance to fulfill a desire to venture into space.

SERVICES HELD
Services for See were held this morning at the Seabrook

Methodist Church and were by a goose.

Funeral services at Arlington are set for 10 a.m. Friday for See, and 2 p.m. for Bassett. Their bodies were to be flown today from St. Louis to Washington.

PROBE CONTINUES
Investigators continued to probe the wreckage of the ill-fated aircraft, which struck a building at the McDonnell plant, then careened into an area cluttered with construction material.

A 10-man investigating team, headed by Navy Capt. Alan B. Shepard Jr., the nation's first man to fly in space, combed the crash scene for about two hours Tuesday. They spent 1½ hours studying records and statements.

Stafford and Cernan had the grim job of flying the same approach route in a T38 to the airport in an effort to follow the routine See used as the pilot while attempting an instrument landing.

They had made a safe landing at the same airport only moments after the crash occurred.

All four men had flown from Houston to St. Louis for training on the Gemini 9 flight at the McDonnell plant.

Spaceman Will Test Power Tool During Space Stroll This Month

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — When astronaut David R. Scott leaves the Gemini 8 capsule for a stroll in space in mid-March, he will use a power tool that may qualify him as the first space mechanic.

Scott, an Air Force major, will work with the device for only about 10 minutes of his planned 2½-hour excursion. But the nuts and bolts experiment will help develop tool kits for future astronauts.

Details of the experiment were disclosed today at a conference on space maintenance and extravehicular activity — space walks.

Scott and civilian Neil A. Armstrong are to ride Gemini 8 up for a three-day trip on March 15. During the first day, they are to chase and link up with an orbiting Agena satellite.

RECORD WALK

Scott is to take his record space walk on the second day.

Shortly after leaving the capsule more than 100 miles above the earth, Scott — at the end of a 25-foot tether — will work his way along the side of the spacecraft with the help of handrails.

He will open a compartment in which is stored the power tool, with a regular hand wrench and a metal plate fastened with four bolts. The power tool superficially resembles the electrically operated devices that mechanics use to remove tires when changing an automobile tire. But inside, it has the complexity of a James Bond device.

It weighs about eight pounds but like Scott, will be weightless in space. It is 10½ inches long and 9 inches high and is powered by batteries.

NORMAL WRENCH

A man using a normal wrench in weightless space would spin like a top because of the reaction created from force exerted in twisting on a bolt.

The power tool, designed by the Martin Co. for the Air Force Aeropropulsion Laboratory, has 95.5 per cent less reactive force than a comparable power wrench used on earth.

This has been done through an arrangement of bearings, rings and gears, plus a countervailing barrel. The result is that the reaction is transferred back to the bolt being tightened rather than to the astronaut.

Before opening the compartment, Scott will use a hooklike device to attach his right knee to a spacecraft hand rail. Then he will use the power tool to loosen the four bolts in the metal plate.

He will turn the plate over and tighten the bolts, one of which is instrumented to record the amount of force used. He will repeat the exercise, using the regular wrench. Then he will do it again after releasing his knee from the fastened position.

Ghana Expelling Communists Who Aided Ousted Nkrumah

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Assistance personnel in Ghana forced exodus of foreign Communist advisers from Ghana was under way today. Plane-loads of Russians were being expelled and similar treatment was expected for Red Chinese advisers to ousted Kwame Nkrumah's government.

Eleven or more of the Soviet advisers were reported killed in the revolution last Thursday.

Two Ghana Airways turbojets left today with 130 Soviet citizens — technical assistance personnel and their families. Some Russians and Communist Chinese had preceded them in the past few days, but this was the first large group since Nkrumah was overthrown.

An airport attendant said five buses under army guard. Troops surrounded the terminal building while they went through customs and immigration. Soviet Ambassador G.N. Rodionov saw them off.

SOVIET TEACHERS

A spokesman for the Soviet Embassy said there were "less than 1,000" Soviet technical as-istance personnel in Ghana including Soviet teachers. Other diplomatic sources put the number at 250 to 300.

Some of the Soviet advisers helped train Nkrumah's personal guard. Others were instructors, mechanics and crews for the Ilyushin passenger planes used by Ghana Airways.

Reverse Psychology

DALLAS (UPI) — Juan Chavez decided the only way to protect his car from thieves was to sleep in it. He did and thieves awakened him, stole his shoes and his wallet. They did not bother the car.

MARCH WEATHER — According to maps prepared by the United States Weather Bureau, the precipitation in the Pontiac area for the month of March will be above normal and the temperatures for the same period will be near-normal.

Women Ask for Equality on Juries

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Women members of congress have called on President Johnson and Atty. Gen. Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach to support a ban on discrimination against women in jury selection.

Eight of the lady lawmakers from both parties sent letters to Johnson and Katzenbach stating that only 21 states apply jury selection laws equally to men and women.

They also noted that many federal district courts have failed to give full effect to civil rights legislation which made women eligible to serve on all juries.

Their move for greater recognition of the right of women followed Johnson's announcement Monday he was naming winners of the Federal Women's Award to a new study group on careers for women.

Johnson said the 36-member group's work would be a "major step" in helping the American woman "Take her rightful place in our society."

In their letters, the congresswomen said that "We, as members of Congress, believe that this nation has for too long tolerated the wholly arbitrary discrimination against women's participation in the jury system."

The letter was signed by Rep. Florence P. Dwyer, R-N.Y., who initiated the appeal. Also, Sens. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine and Maurine E. Neuberger, D-Ore.; Reps. Frances P. Bolton, R-Ohio, Catherine May, R-Wash., Julia Butler Hansen, D-Wash., Charlotte T. Reid, R-Ill., and Patsy T. Mink, D-Hawaii.

Mrs. Gordon Paine of Eagle Grove, Iowa was a guest.

A dinner for members and their escorts will be held Sunday at the Oakland County Boat Club, following the bowling tournament earlier in the Sylvan Lanes.

Expectant Parent classes will again be offered at the Health Center on North Telegraph Road beginning next Monday.

Classes will start at 7:30 p.m. Mondays for eight weeks.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and am going with a guy who is 19. He goes to college and wants to marry me when he is done. His parents don't want him going with me because I left school after 8th grade. The reason I left because I had hey fever and uzma real bad and missed a lot of school and got so far behind it didn't pay me to try to catch up. I love this guy and he loves me. Do you think his parents are being fair to hate me for something I can't help?

ABBY

DEAR FEVER: His parents don't "hate" you. Like most parents, they want their son to marry a girl whose educational background is at least equal to their son's. You can "catch up" by attending adult education classes in the evenings. Or by taking an extension course by mail. And I urge you to do so.

DEAR ABBY: My husband was recently sent out of town by his company to attend a 16-week training course, and left me with our 3-year-old son. After being cooped up all day with a child I would like to get out for an occasional evening of relaxation with some adult company.

I have been invited to join some respectable people who live in our building for an evening of innocent fun.

The problem is this: A friend of my husband is keeping an eye on me, and he says he'll report any moves I make to my husband so I had better behave myself.

Abby, I DO behave myself, but my husband is a very jealous person. I am about ready to climb the walls. How can I get out for a little relaxation without this friend giving my husband a bad report on me? I don't want to cause trouble.

COOPED UP
DEAR COOPED: If an evening out with respectable people can cause you trouble, your marriage is on the ragged edge.

So either resign yourself to a life of imprisonment at the hands of a jealous husband and his spying friends, or tell your husband (and his stool pigeon) that you refuse to be intimidated, and go about your business. (But be sure you behave yourself.)

They are the sons of Mrs. John Hindman of Minneola and the late Mr. Hindman.

EMPIRE JACKET

The bride's floor-length sheath gown of white satin was styled with lace-trimmed Empire jacket and long back panel held by a Dior bow.

Her tiered veil fell from a satin pillbox with lace cuff. She carried white roses and camellias.

Mrs. John Hildt of Denver was honor matron.

Reed Hindman was best man for his brother. David Hindman and Donald Zielesch ushered.

After a honeymoon in New Mexico and Arizona, the couple will reside in Aurora, Colo. She is a graduate of Michigan State University.

Marvyl Simson Wears Ivory Silk Bridal Gown

Ivory Italian silk fashioned a bridal gown for Marvyl Marie Simson, who recently became Mrs. James Ivan Karalash in the First Congregational Church.

The fitted bodice applied with re-embroidered Alencon lace extended into a full circular skirt and sweep train. Simulated orange-blossoms held the bride's illusion veil.

Parents of the couple are the Arnold Simsons of West Brooklyn Avenue and Dr. and Mrs. James D. Karalash of Dearborn Heights.

Mrs. James Wentland of Muskegon was matron of honor at the candlelight rite performed by Rev. Malcolm Burton, followed by church reception.

Flower girls were Colette and Maria Simson, with Michael and David Farrell as ring bearers. With David Egan of Ypsilanti, best man, were the ushers Arnold F. Simson and John Emmert.

The couple are at home in Madison Heights after a brief honeymoon. She is an alumna of Eastern Michigan University and her husband is a senior at Wayne State University.

Marvyl Marie Simson, daughter of the Arnold Simsons of West Brooklyn Avenue and James Ivan Karalash, son of Dr. and Mrs. James D. Karalash of Dearborn Heights, exchanged recent vows in the First Congregational Church.

Son Can't Resist Modern Medusa Mother

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: What do you think of a husband who lets his mother criticize his wife into a nervous breakdown, who lets her frighten his 5-year-old son into nightmares with her constant cracks about how much better a child his father was than he is?

My husband will let his mother say anything to us and never lift a finger to stop her. Yesterday she called me a "slut" in front of him and the boy and he never said a word.
ANSWER: He couldn't. He is no more able to resist his mother than a badly retarded child can keep himself clean.

I don't understand girls like you. You live in a world that tells you repeatedly that mother-bound men can't love women. Yet you go right on marrying them in some delusion that you're so sexually irresistible you'll be able to snatch mothers' prey away from her.

When you find you can't, you give yourselves nervous breakdowns. You just will not know you were licked from the moment you met your mother-bound man.

Listen. We cannot matter to a mother-bound man. We're just "bit" players hanging around a stage set where Prima Donna Mother and her Son play out a tragic drama that began when he was born.

The tragedy has nothing to do with us. So there's nothing we can do to change it. The only person on earth who can change it is the son.

If he hasn't done it by the time he reaches chronological adulthood, it's unlikely he ever will.
I can't tell you what to do about this. Some girls caught in this kind of mess finally rally enough respect for their womanhood to stop living with a retarded child in the shape of a man—and get out. Others don't. They stay out of what they think is concern for a child or fear of self-support. More often, they stay out of their own arrogant certainty of the ultimate triumph of their irresistible sexiness.

It can't triumph over mother. Not this kind. That's because she isn't a mother at all. She's primordial Female Hate—the monster Female so self-entwined, so destructive that the old Greeks gave her snakes for hair, called her Medusa and told us she killed all men who looked at her by turning them into stone.

She's still around and she still kills men by making little sons so ashamed of their maleness that they learn to despise their own sexual desires and any woman who arouses them. Which is why the most irresistible sexiness on earth can't beat her.

She has arranged matters so that her ruined sons have to hate themselves and us, too, whenever they respond to us.

Girl Scouts to Display Their Skill

Over 500 girls will participate in Sunday's Girl Scout-arama at Washington Junior High School.

Displays or demonstrations by 24 troops are planned for the 2 to 4 p.m. Girl Scout Sunday event.

The program is being presented through the combined effort of two neighborhoods Webster-Washington and Whitfield-Irving.

Troops from Webster, Croft, Whitfield and Irving elementary schools, Washington Junior High, Pontiac Central and church-sponsored troops are taking part.

The Scout-arama will include exhibitions of arts and crafts, literature and dramatics, music and dancing, citizenship and community life and international friendship. It is open to the public.

Committee members planning the event are: Mrs. Calvin Page, Mrs. Robert Geney, Mrs. Dennis Steiner and Mrs. Manfred Isaacson.

Others are Mrs. Cressy Larson, Webster-Washington neighborhood chairman, and Mrs. Merle Haanes, Whitfield-Irving chairman.

Rev. Potts Set to Visit Group From Cranbrook

The Rev. Mr. Robert Potts, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, Detroit, will speak at the Tuesday meeting of the Episcopal Churchwomen of Christ Church Cranbrook.

His topic, following the noon luncheon, will be entitled "The Imperatives of the Urban Ministry."

He has received degrees from Lane College, Northwestern University and Garrett Theological Seminary.

The morning session will begin at 10 a.m. with a continuation of the Human sensitivity training program and knitting and sewing workshops.

Outsiders Score Hit

KENOSHA, Wis. — Carthage College recently held a contest for a new alma mater song. When the winners were selected, it was found that neither was a graduate of the school's new campus.

The lyrics came from Dr. Ernest Ryden, graduate of an Augustana, Ill. school, and now pastor of a church in Connecticut. Composer of the music was Mrs. June Engle, a widow living in Wauwatosa, Wis. She has three sons in college — none of them at Carthage.

Obesity Is All in Head of Eaters

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Modern science has found that, like so many other afflictions, the problem of over-eating is all in the eater's head, according to the California Medical Association.

That is to say a little bunch of cells in the brain, collectively called the hypothalamus, automatically regulate the appetite to balance it with energy output so the body remains in a normal weight bracket.

However, despite constant messages from this small clump of tissue, its master usually manages to ignore the advice one way or another, the CMA reported.

SHUN MESSAGE

The health authorities said some people avoid the messages because they have been trained to certain eating habits since childhood; others ignore them for emotional reasons, still others blunt communications from the appetite center by dulling it with alcohol.

Stretch Slip Makes Knits Neat

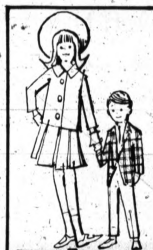

The current popularity of slim, light, clingy knits has posed a problem for everyone. What to wear under them so that they look their best has until now caused a dilemma, especially where slips are concerned.

Taffeta has offered the best solution. Its firmness, opacity and noncling characteristics, coupled with its resistance to static electricity, has made it more satisfactory under clingy outer garments than the softer fabrics. Yet these very assets created a problem.

Because of these qualities, it had absolutely no "give." It had to be fitted full enough to allow "sitting room" which in turn always meant too much standing room. Now this problem has been solved. It is Stretch Taffeta, a completely new construction.

The breakthrough was achieved by introducing Lycra Spandex into the taffeta weave to provide easy horizontal stretch to permit a taffeta slip to move with a woman when she walks or sits. Yet she can choose the size which fits her perfectly when she stands up.

The slips look and feel exactly like any other taffeta slip — crisp and luxurious.

for Rites

St. Mary of the Lake Catholic Church in New Buffalo was the setting for the recent marriage of Dolores Bernice Baumgartner.

Ivory velvet gown fashioned a floor-length gown for the daughter of the John J. Brandons of Union Pier. A matching pillow held her illusion veil.

She held cascading white carnations for the noon ceremony performed by Rev. Edward G. Baumgartner, uncle of the bridegroom, son of the Leo A. Baumgartners of Lanco Court.

With honor attendant Kathy Erhardt were the bride's sisters Gloria and Janet as bridesmaids. Cathy Baumgartner and Andrew Brandon were flower girl and ring-bearer respectively.

Leo F. Baumgartner of Sweet Home, Ore. stood as best man for his brother, Richard Drake and James Wall were groomsmen. Lyle Erbsich and Eric Mowitz ushered.

The bride is currently a sophomore at Michigan State University where her husband is a graduate student.

Colic Case?
Don't Blame
Self, Mom

CHICAGO, Ill. — Mothers, you are not to blame if your new-born baby develops colic.

This news comes from Dr. Jack L. Paradise, pediatrician of the Bellaire Clinic, Bellaire, Ohio. Dr. Paradise told colleagues attending a recent meeting here of the American Academy of Pediatrics that in a study of 146 mothers and their new-borns he could find little evidence that the emotional state, intelligence, education, or attitudes of mother caused babies to get colic.

Some infants got it although their mothers were "cheerful nonworriers," the doctor noted. Other babies whose mothers were quite anxious did not get it. "Nor did colic seem related to nausea during pregnancy, disappointment with the baby's sex or parental anxiety. He urged physicians to dispel such erroneous notions so as to relieve the new mother's anxiety.

Sticky Business

As you remove small parts from some object to repair it, stick each part on the sticky side of a length of adhesive tape. It will prevent the parts from being lost.

Individuality is possible in a "his and hers" bedroom. A super size bed 76 inches wide by Englander provides the decorative impetus. A headboard of wall shelves provide one side for "his" favorite books and objects and the other for "hers." Pillows hung on the wall unit are covered in a classic toile for decorative effect. And with all the clutter of favored possessions planned into the decor, there's room for a table for two-some card games.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

On a recent survey about thread hundreds of you wrote to me to tell your problems with the thread that is marketed today. As I promised, I have sent your letters on to where it will do some good. In the meantime, I have been sent the following information which may help solve some of your problems as it did mine!

Thread selection: Use thread one shade darker than fabric, thread appears lighter when stitched. Use contrasting color thread for basting. For multicolor plains or tweeds use predominant color on top and match another color for the bobbin. Hand Sewing: Cut the thread diagonally from the spool. Do not break or bite. Thread the needle with the same end that was cut from the spool. This same end should be knotted. Use single strand of thread for hand sewing to prevent tangling. (Run the thread through beeswax once before doing hand sewing. It prevents knotting and breaking.) If double thread is used for sewing, snaps, etc., adjust position of thread through needle after sewing each one to prevent breakage caused by friction.

Machine Sewing: For perfectly balanced stitch, use identical thread for the needle and the bobbin. Before stitching pull both threads toward the side or back. Always raise machine tape-up lever to highest level before sewing to prevent thread from slipping out of needle, jamming or breaking.

If Thread Breaks in Sewing Machine: Check machine tension, blunt or bent needle, correct placement of the needle, needle size to fit the thread, roughness in the thread plate hole, and correct threading of your machine. I think if you check on these points, you will eliminate most of your thread problems!

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Earnest Moro, Westboro, Mass., wins a Tailor Trix pressing board for the following idea. "For very effective, unique stationery, use the decorative stitches of your zig-zag sewing machine and add interesting borders or designs to solid color paper. The design could be in any color and in a variety of styles. My favorite is a border 1/4 inch from the edge on one edge on one side and continuing to one end, instead of the entire border. Just thread the machine as usual. The thread stitches beautifully on paper!"

(This is the type of idea I have been searching for. Send me anything that is really original and different that we may share with everyone. Even your children could have fun doing this and might surprise you with their own creativity. Besides, you might win a Tailor Trix pressing board for your idea.)

Newlyweds Honeymoon at Mountain Resort

Honeymooning at a Pocono Mountain resort are Gareth David Laszko of Milford and his bride, the former Laura Lee Butzke, daughter of the Edwin W. Butzkes of Golfers Drive, Highland.

They greeted guests in the American Legion Hall, Milford, after recent vows in the Faith Lutheran Church, Highland.

The bride's A-line gown of white satin, with beaded floral applique, swept into a circular train. A crystal petal headpiece held her illusion veil.

Kathleen Butzke attended her sister as honor maid Pamela Sanders, Carlotta Makowski, Carol Desmet and Pamela Morgan were bridesmaids.

Flower girl and ring-bearer were Kerri Patterson and Russell Shepherd. The bridegroom, son of Edward Laszko of Hamtramck and Mrs. Eleanor Laszko of Detroit, had Thomas Brusca for best man. Seating guests were Frank Brusca, John Pace, Michael Butzke and Gerald Radomski.

MRS. G. D. LASZKO

Plain Facts About Boys in Business

More than 700,000 independent young businessmen throughout America today are finding out firsthand how our economic system works. They're making a profit, learning the rewards of saving and managing their own money. They're newspaperboys.

But the biggest "profit" in a newspaper route is not dollars and cents. It is the lessons in service, self-reliance, courtesy and resourcefulness—all qualities of a successful adult and a good citizen.

That newspaperboys generally achieve success as they move into their chosen fields shouldn't be surprising.

MDs Speak in Abortion Law Survey

NEW YORK — A survey of obstetricians in New York State indicates that more than 85 per cent of them favor liberalizing the state's abortion law.

The physicians, reported Dr. Robert E. Hall of Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons, prefer that the law be modified in accordance with recommendations of the American Law Institute. In its model code, the institute proposes that a physician be permitted to terminate a pregnancy under the following circumstances:

• If he believes that the pregnancy would "gravely impair the physical or mental health of the mother; or that the child would be born with grave physical or mental defect; or if the pregnancy resulted from rape... or from incest."

• Two physicians would be required to certify in writing that they believe the circumstances warrant the abortion.

At present, most state laws permit abortion only if the life of the mother is endangered.

More than one million abortions are performed in U. S. each year, the vast majority of them illegal. Dr. Hall believes that more than 5,000 women a year die as a result of bungled abortions.

Time for Needed Repairs

Boating Season Just Around Corner

Another boating season is just around the corner.

It doesn't look like it today. Lakes covered with ice and trees barren of leaves. But 30 days from now this will be changed.

The hardest sailors will be on the lakes as soon as the ice is out. Others will follow as the weather warms. The big push starts Memorial weekend.

Regardless of when they make their initial launchings, some will zip off in high gear while others sputter away from shore; they may not even get started.

Now is the time to get outboards, and inboards, tuned for the coming season. It's also the time for watercraft to be checked over and needed repairs made.

Too many boaters (that includes fishermen) neglect this important item. They park the boat and motor all winter and then expect them to be in A-1 condition when the first trip rolls around.

Some motors seem to run like finely tuned clocks year after year with little servicing. But the higher the horsepower, the more service that is needed.

BUSY TIME

Water enthusiasts should take motors to the repair shop now. By waiting until the week before the initial start of the year, the repairmen will be too swamped to give immediate service.

Aluminum and fiberglass boats are usually leakproof. But even these have been known to pop a seam. Sometimes these aren't apparent until the boat is placed in the water, but other times it can be obvious.

March is normally a dull month for the outdoor enthusiast. It's too late for hunting and too early for fishing. Therefore, it's a good month to make needed repairs on sporting equipment.

Old paint should be chipped off and a new finish applied. Accessories such as lifejackets, cushions, fire extinguishers, gas containers, skis, tow ropes, and so forth, should be checked.

There's nothing like getting out on the lake and finding the anchor rope missing or that the gas can has a slow leak. This also could be the year of decision, for pleasure boaters and fishermen.

Lakes are becoming so crowded that the two can't get along. Legislation in this area is pending. The general goal is to set special hours on lakes for water skiing.

Others advocate a horsepower limit on lakes of a certain size.

There will be the inevitable cases of recklessness. Also, some novices will attempt the impossible with their new craft. One example of this is the boater who attempted to launch his runabout, mounted with a 75-horsepower outboard, in the Huron River below Froid Lake.

He got mad at the Conservation Department because the stream wasn't wide enough or deep enough to float his boat.

The boating boom that started in the mid-1950s is still with us. There is no sign that it will taper off.

It is now possible to trade boats and motors just like cars. Banks and other lending agencies have helped by making money available for purchasing watercraft and motors.

Boating is here to stay.

TOP POWERBOAT DRIVER.—James D. Cameron, 21, of Royal Oak was named the powerboat driver of the year for 1966 and entered the Gulf Marine Racing Hall of Fame. Other drivers elected the Michigan State junior to the honor. He is the first man in the history of the American Powerboat Association to hold both stock outboard national marathon and national short course titles.

GMTC Employee Named Top Powerboat Pilot

Although he's only 21, Jim Cameron of Royal Oak has reached several milestones in his brief career as a power boat driver.

Cameron, an employee at General Motors Truck & Coach, captured both the 1965 Stock Outboard National Marathon Championship and the 1965 Stock Outboard National Short Course Championship to become the only driver ever to win both titles in the same year.

After winning those two events, Jim was a bonafide candidate for power boat racing's Hall of Fame.

The big news came back in the middle of January.

In an announcement from New York City, Cameron was named to the Gulf Marine Racing Hall of Fame, and he was awarded the Gulf Oil Gold Cup as power racing's driver of the year for 1965.

HARD TO BELIEVE

"I just couldn't believe it," was Cameron's comment when informed of the two awards.

Hall of Fame members are selected by a committee of marine racing experts and officials.

Outstanding performance in the sport, including consistent winning competition; the establishment of world's records; or the winning of national championships; contribution to the sport and sportsmanship all form the basis of selection.

Selection of the driver of the year is made by the drivers themselves. Finishing second to Jim in the Gold Cup voting was Ron Musson of Seattle, driver of the famed Miss Bardahl.

Cameron has competed in stock outboard racing since he was 12. He has collected 109 trophies in all—about 90 per cent of them for first place finishes.

Watkins Lake Race Center

Commodore Norm Ledwin of the Watkins Lake Yachting Association has a summer of activity ahead of him and will continue through Labor Day.

The group, which has approximately 20 active boats, will be on its weekend snipe; thistle and sunfish juniors races Memorial Day and will continue through Labor Day.

Also on the calendar are the annual Watkins Lake Sailors' Breakfast, Invitational Regatta and the Venetian Day parade. Vice Commodore Glenn Fries and John Howell, secretary-treasurer, will bear some of the work burden, too.

Check Local Rules

Boat operators, even in local waters, should check on regulations promulgated by various authorities affecting navigation in their area. Coast Guard regulations, state boating laws, speed limits established by the Corps of Engineers and city and county ordinances should be digested. Crossing an unmarked boundary line on a body of water can lead to trouble because of variations that may apply in equipment requirements, maximum speeds and operational procedures.

Outlook Rosy for Inboard-Outboard

The Chinese call this year, The Year of the Horse. If the recreational boating industry needs a name for 1966 they might well call it The Year of the Inboard-Outboard.

With first quarter figures now in (the boating industry's "year" begins October 1), plus results of the first big consumer boat show (held in New York), it looks as if the inboard-outboard boat will be the big seller this year.

"We have had our best first quarter ever," commented Dick Cors, sales manager for OMC Stern Drive, Galeburg, Illinois.

"The boatman, the marine dealer, and the boat manufacturer are all enthusiastic about the 1/0 drive."

Inboard outboard, stern drive, or outdrive are all the same name for a relatively new method of boat propulsion.

The power plant is inside the boat—"inboard"—while the drive mechanism, which looks like the bottom two-thirds of the familiar outboard engine, is on the outside of the boat—"outboard."

Early industry reports (from the Boating Industry Association) indicate that 1/0 boats showed a 72.4 per cent increase in units over the same period last year, and 78.8 per cent higher in value.

LESS HORSEPOWER

Another indicator that the industry considers significant is that for the second year in a row the average horsepower of all outboard engines sold has dropped.

The decline in 1964 was only two-tenths of a horsepower, but this modest drop reversed an 11-year annual increase. The 1965 drop was 2.1 horsepower (it is now 28.2, from a high of 30.5 in 1963), this despite the outboard engine industry's continual climb to higher horsepower engines.

"There were still plenty of outboard engines sold last year; in fact sales were over 1964," Cors pointed out, "but in face of the figures it is hard not to come to the conclusion that the average boatman is reserving his big boat purchases for the inboard/outboard powered craft."

Coastal waters were the first and continue to be the best market for the inboard-outboard. Higher horsepower is needed for big water, yet high maneuverability is required for congested and shallow water areas.

However, inland boatmen are seeing the advantages of the 1/0 drive and sales in these areas are increasing as well.

Big Debate: Is It Burgee or Pennant?

Over more years and cups of coffee than one cares to imagine, yachtsmen have discussed the difference (if there was one) between a pennant and a burgee.

The following is about as close as you can probably get. A pennant is a flag, smaller at the fly than at the hoist which is (1) commonly pointed, triangular, (2) often truncated, as in some Navy signals, (3) sometimes swallow-tailed, (4) occasionally a long thin streamer.

A burgee is usually a swallow-tail; flag which is (1) often rectangular, (2) possibly pennant-shaped, and (3) by popular usage, the identifying signal of a yacht club, regardless of shape.

(The burgee, incidentally, seems to stem from medieval times, around the era of city-states. It is said that a chunk of the flag was cut out to signify the ranking noble was not in residence, but the fort was held by his retainers.)

CANOE TRIP—The Huron River is one of the most popular for canoe trips in Southeastern Michigan. It is possible to paddle from Pontiac Lake to Lake Erie. The course of the river traverses nearly 10 lakes before reaching the Oakland County line at Kent Lake. A float through the Proud Lake recreation area is much like a trip down a northern stream.

Ice Regatta Scheduled

A big weekend of racing under the guidance of Fleet Captain Bob Redner looms for the Cass Lake Ice Yacht Club. Its annual Cass Lake Invitational Regatta will begin noon Saturday on the lake course near the Pontiac Yacht Club.

There will be five DN Class races both Saturday and Sunday with a trophy for each race champion. The annual Cass Lake DN championship Trophy will go to the overall leader.

Open class boats will also vie five times each day, and prizes will be presented to the top five finishers over-all.

Last weekend, Chuck Cartwright took the DN invitational race on Lake St. Clair with two firsts, a third and a fourth. Club mates Ro Redner (the invitational DN champion) and Stan Woodruff each took a first, too.

Redner was second over-all, and Roy Holden of Metamora third.

Ambitious Year Slated by PYC

An ambitious season is in prospect for the competing members of the Pontiac Yacht Club.

In addition to their twice-weekly races on Cass Lake, the members will be bidding for the state's 10 berths in the North American championships lighting class which will be on Lake Erie in August under the sponsorship of the Buffalo Canoe Club.

The 10 district berths will be determined on Lake St. Clair in July near the Grose Pointe Yacht Club facilities.

The defending state champion is Dr. Leo Wasserberger of PYC. The reigning club champ is Phil Smith, the 1966 secretary.

Making the arrangements for the weekly races as well as the annual Club Lightning Class Invitational are John Seaton and Roger Ashbury who are sharing the Fleet Captain's duties.

Commodore for this year is Ken Bonnett. Walt Johnson is the vice-commodore and John Penniman is the treasurer's book.

The Pontiac Yacht Club is limited to 150 members and 50 boats.

Champions Easy to Find in Two Cass Lake Clubs

The members of the Cass Lake summer and winter yachting clubs could be excused for labeling themselves the club of champions.

The memberships of the Cass Lake Ice Yacht Club and the Cass Lake Yacht Club overlap although the two groups are separate organizations.

The summer group has approximately 15 Catamarans and begins its club races in late May. However, many of the members start racing around the first of the month.

The club races last through Labor Day weekend. Those who wish continue into the fall months. In addition, numerous big races are attended throughout the East and Midwest.

These will include the Civic Center Regatta on the Detroit River, the One-of-a-Kind race in Erie, Pa., the North American Shearwater Catamaran championships at Toronto, and the President's Cup race on Potomac River at Washington, D. C.

Last year, the Cass Lake boaters took title trophies at all of those. Ed Stack is the reigning North American champ, and Walt Johnson won the President's Cup.

Added to the club's trophy list was Ro Redner's victory in the recent North American DN Ice Yachting championships. An All-Catamaran Open Re-

Gas, Plastic Don't Mix

Those colorful plastic replicas of the World War II metal jerry cans, used for carrying water and gasoline, are dangerous for boating use.

While the metal can was satisfactory for gas, very few manufacturers of the plastic containers make a product able to take or transfer gasoline safely.

Technologists investigating the danger in using the polyethylene jerry cans say that at temperatures ranging from 140-150 degrees Fahrenheit, gasoline will chew up low density plastic with ease, particularly when it is in thin sections.

Heat in the enclosed bow of an outboard boat can easily reach those temperatures on an extremely hot day.

May Cause 'Cavitation'

Faulty Prop Spells Trouble

When the water flow relative to the propeller blades of an outboard motor becomes turbulent, the violently-agitated water and water vapor formed around the prop results in "cavitation."

Some outboards cavitate occasionally, but if cavitation occurs regularly, the authorities at Mercury outboards recommend checking the motor's propeller.

Seemingly insignificant nicks or bends in the blades may be so located as to upset the smooth flow of water, and encourage cavitation. Smoothing out these rough spots may remedy the situation.

Also, a propeller, though in good condition, may be the wrong size or design. Changes of propeller blade shape or dimensions, too small to be detected by the eye, can have an appreciable effect on performance.

For example, if each blade is made just one-eighth of an inch shorter, the propeller's diameter is reduced by one-quarter of an inch.

A swath one-quarter of an inch wide around the circumference of the propeller represents an appreciable reduction or increase in the volume of water thrown back on each revolution.

SEVERAL PROPS

If you have ever looked at an outboard racing enthusiast's trailer, you've seen, in addition to his rig, a box for tools and parts, and a surprising array of propellers.

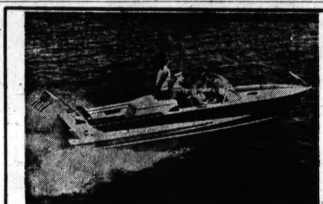

A racer will usually test several props before choosing the one he deems best suited for each particular race.

While the last fraction of top speed isn't as vital to the pleasure boater as it is to a racer, remember that in the family boat field there's a wide range of hull sizes, weights, shapes and loads, so it makes sense to start out with a propeller that suits your rig best.

And why shop among motors which offer a choice of only three or four propellers for each model? It makes sense to choose Length? When you buy outside length, you don't or necessarily get inside room. By eliminating the last two feet of nose length (and what can you use that for?), Evinrude put the people room of a 20-footer into the storage space of their 16-foot SPORTSMAN that fits - trailer, stern drive and all - in a standard 20-foot garage.

Freeboard? Most boats depend on pointed noses and high sides to shove the water out of the way and Safety? keep you dry. The Evinrude SPORTSMAN eliminates the problem at the source with bottom design that rolls the water down under the hull where it can't be blown back aboard. The SPORTSMAN has enough flotation to run with the sides out away.

Conventional When a conventional boat hits a wave, it design? throws spray up and away. The Gull Wing hull rides the spray. Turns it around in aesthetically contoured spray channels and forces it down - creating hydraulic lift. The bigger the waves, the greater the shock-absorbing lift.

Stony Creek Park Draws Sailors, Too

boat rental harbor last summer. Over 100 boats are available for rent at the Huron-Clinton-Metropolitan Authority operated livery in Kensington Park.

Kent Lake Popular Boating Location

The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, a regional agency serving the counties of Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne, offers boating facilities at two large parks within the Oakland County area.

These are Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford and Stony Creek Metropolitan Park northeast of Rochester.

Kent Lake in Kensington Park is one of the top fishing and boating sites in southeastern Michigan. Facilities include two launching ramps, a boat rental building, slip rental spaces for sail and other small craft and a canoe campsite for overnight use on Labadie Island.

There are parking spaces for over 185 cars and trailers at the launching sites, permits for use are issued at the park office or by personnel on duty at the ramps during the summer months.

Permits, available without charge, are good for the entire season and over 2,500 permits were issued in 1965, down from the nearly 3,000 issued in 1964. Since 1963 the park has issued over 22,900 permits.

One hundred aluminum rowboats are available for rent at the Boat Rental Building which generally opens about May 1. A $5 deposit is required, boats rent for 75 cents per hour, with a $1 minimum charge, with a maximum charge of $2.50 Monday through Friday and $4.50 on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

Persons may supply their own motors limited to 7½ horsepower, for use on Kensington Park craft and there is a 10 mile per hour speed limit on the lake.

NO SKIING
During the summer months rental service is offered from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily. No water skiing is permitted on Kent Lake, which is an aid to sailing craft and fishing enthusiasts.

Slip spaces, available on a first come, first served basis, rent for $15, $20 and $25 per season depending upon size of the boat.

One of the several attractions are the canoeing campsites along the Huron River from Pontiac to Kent Lake in Kensington Park and southwest towards Ann Arbor.

A canoe guide, illustrating the location and facilities of the various Huron-Clinton and Department of Conservation Canoe campsites, is available at Kensington Park or by writing to the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, 1750 Guardian Building, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

Permits for canoe campsite use on Authority property are issued at Kensington Park and at Hudson Mills Metropolitan Park along the Huron River northwest of Ann Arbor. Private liveries in Milford and Ann Arbor supply canoe rental service.

Stony Creek Lake in Stony Creek Metropolitan Park, a 3,500-acre regional recreation site near the Village of Washington and northeast of Rochester, provides one of the newest boating and fishing sites in Southeastern Michigan.

Stony Creek covers 500 acres in the main section and offers facilities for swimming, boating, fishing and sailing. The man-made impoundment, which opened in July 1964, has two dams which contain the lake which was created from Stony Creek, a small stream that for centuries meandered through Macomb and Oakland counties.

The park had 630,000 visitors in 1964 and over 900,000 in 1965.

William L. Tait, park superintendent, stated that 2,042 permits were issued in 1965 providing an estimated 9,000 launches, while in 1964 over 1,200 permits were issued, with estimated launches at about 7,500.

Permits are issued without charge at the park office. There is a 10 mile per hour speed limit on Stony Creek Lake. No water skiing is permitted.

The park has a new entrance this year. Persons may now take the Van Dyke (M-53) Freeway, Utica Bypass Section, north of 26 Mile Road (now a 4-lane divided highway) and travel west two miles to the park entrance.

The new park address is: Stony Creek Metropolitan Park, 4300 Main Park Road, Washington, Michigan 48094.

New Chart Available

A new nautical chart has been issued for Georgia and South Carolina coastal waters, including the approaches to the harbors of Savannah and Beaufort, by the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey. The seventh edition of Chart 1240 expands the coverage from the entrance to Savannah River, Ga., northward to St. Helena Sound, S.C., and also includes all previous editions obsolete.

Angelus Club Sets Calendar

Snipe Sailing Series to Open in May

The annual Lake Angelus Yacht Club spring snipe sailing series will start Memorial Day weekend under the leadership of Fleet Captain Don Hite.

The club, which began its organized races in the 1930s, has a spring and summer series each year. The current format was devised in 1963.

George Bailey is the 1966 commodore. Other club officials are Richard Gould, vice commodore; George Drake, starter; and John Keras, secretary-treasurer.

In addition to the weekly races, the series also has three holiday regattas beginning with the Memorial Day affair. The Lake Angelus yachtsmen also will take their snipes to the State Snipe Regatta on Lake Lansing this spring.

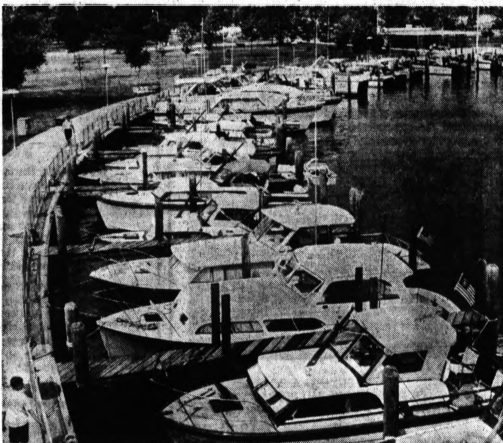

Houston Man Wins 2nd Nassau Trophy

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Ernie Fay of Houston successfully defended his 5.5 meter championship in the Duke of Edinburgh Cup Series at the Nassau Yacht Club last Sunday and received the trophy from Prince Philip.

The Prince, here on a visit with Queen Elizabeth, presented the cup named in his honor. Fay's elapsed time of one hour 14 minutes 13 seconds in the final race of the 14 mile triangular Montagu Bay course was 44 seconds better than his nearest rivals.

Second in the series was Gordon Lindeman of Milwaukee, third Bill Ficker of Los Angeles.

Some 130,000 boat owners attend safety courses conducted by the Coast Guard Auxiliary each year.

PORT-OF-CALL—The marina at Metropolitan Beach is a popular port-of-call with boat owners who cruise the Great Lakes. The facility has 60 boat wells with electricity and water available for hourly or overnight rental.

LAUNCHING SITE—A trio of fishermen launch their boat at one of the many sites on Oakland County lakes. Most major lakes in the area have one or more locations—either state owned or private—where boats can be launched.

Fulton Named Lakes

The eight connecting lakes on the Middle Branch of the Moose River in upper New York State were named the Fulton Chain of Lakes in 1811, following a survey by Robert Fulton, the steamboat inventor. Fulton was seeking a water link through the Adirondacks from the Hudson River to Lake Ontario.

3 brand new reasons to go to the BOAT SHOW

2. A hot new 100 hp V-4

3. A 40 mph Gull Wing boat

Don't miss seeing (1) the only motor that folds and fits in a traveling case... (2) the hot new Starlite 100-S... and (3) the new Evinrude boats that ride on cushions of spray.

Evinrude makes 15 different outboard motors, from 3 to 100 hp. There are four Evinrude stern drive engines in 90, 120, 150, and 200 hp sizes. And five Gull Wing boats in 14, 16, and 19-foot sizes... with boat-mated trailers to match.

If you don't see them all at the boat show, see your Evinrude dealer (he's listed in the Yellow Pages under "Outboard Motors").

'For Want of a Nail, Shoe Lost'

Remember the old saying, "For want of a nail the shoe was lost?"

It's exactly the same when a boat that is loosely tied down on a bumpy road, its bottom receives quite a battering from the trailer's rollers and bunks whether they are padding or not. Many a leaky or sprung bottom has resulted from this jolting.

MAY SLIP

Its moral is also applicable to trailer boats, say the Mercury outboard authorities, though in this case it does not deal with nails but with other small items — the tie-downs.

Also, a heavy boat can "slip" its trailer in a collision or even a quick stop if not securely tied down with strong material.

Whether a boat is light, heavy or in between, reliable tie-downs are vital.

The most common tie-down consists of a twin spring-and-chain arrangement with clips that hook to the top of the trailer on each side of the motor. Almost as popular is the tie-down strap, which hooks to the trailer sides and passes up and over the boat. Either kind is effective in securely attached and inspected regularly.

Consider the horseback rider who becomes saddle-sore because he's on his way down, the horse is on his way up, and the force of contact is much greater than his weight alone.

Don't forget the front end, either. Usually the trailer winch line will pull down on the bow eye as the boat snugs up against the bow check, but remember that vibration can

Recreational Boats 6th

Recreational boats rank sixth in priority in locking through. Ahead are United States military craft, mail boats, commercial tugs and commercial fishermen. However, small craft are sometimes able to lock through with larger vessels.

NEW STEP PAD — This sturdy super gripper can be affixed by screws placed under a stainless steel trim on either side of the pads. It is a woodgrain pattern.

Sailing Peak Not Reached

The growth of sailing as a recreational sport in the United States has been phenomenal during the past five years and the peak is nowhere in sight.

From 495,000 sailboats estimated in American waters in 1961, the number reached 535,000 last year.

Every sailboat manufacturer queried by the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers reported sales, increases of at least 15 per cent during the 1965 season. The number of one-design classes jumped from 250 listed in 1962 to 329 last year, and the legions continue to increase.

There are hundreds of different types of sailboats turned out in this country — some of them by the same shipyards that once constructed the sleek clipper ships of yesteryear.

The sailboat has brought a demand for more widespread instruction courses and schools throughout the country.

The American Red Cross has sailing programs under way in a number of colleges and high schools and each year conducts several sailing courses throughout the country for camp instructors, who in turn impart this exposure to their charges during the summer months.

Some colleges are including sailing in their physical education programs. A five-year plan designed to generate sailing instruction in more colleges and high schools throughout the nation was announced last year by the American Sailing Council, a division of the NAEHM. The Council then listed 94 sailing instruction schools.

Sailing schools for the public are operated on a tuition basis and are growing in numbers.

Floating Air Pump Aids Skin Divers

A large producer of outboard engines has entered the field of skin diving with the announcement of a floating air pump and full face mask "Buddy" system described as far simpler to operate than any other equipment.

Called the "Air Buoy" and manufactured by Johnson Motors of Waukegan, Illinois, the product provides a two-cycle, two-horsepower engine pump which forces air through two 25-foot hoses into two full face masks. Two separate pumps operate off the engine, and the engine-pump assembly is encircled and floated by a tough inflatable tube.

The unit may be started on land, or in a boat, or while afloat, by a hand pull starter cord, similar to that of a lawn mower. Two divers, although one person can use the equipment, receive air immediately upon donning the masks.

Designed for underwater exploration and recreation in the less than one-atmosphere pressure zone, the system permits limitless diving.

Divers can submerge and come up as often and as quickly as they like, breathing naturally all the while. The technique, and nuisance, of clearing the face mask is eliminated because the free flow of air carries the water out automatically through the outlet at the bottom of the mask.

Boating Films Are Available

A free catalog of about 400 films on boating and related boating activities has been published jointly by the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers and the Outboard Boating Club of America.

Categories of films included in the listings cover boat construction, cruising, camping, fishing, boating safety, boat maintenance, sailing, motor boat racing, navigation, weather lore, marinas, and general boating interest.

A free of the films listed are available free or have minor rental charges attached. The catalog is available by writing to NAEBM, 420 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017 or OBC, 333 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Construction Pact OK'd

The largest civil works contract ever entered into by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has been awarded for construction of Little Goose Lock and Dam on the lower Snake River in southeastern Washington. The multiple-purpose work, accepted at a cost of $71,866,573, will extend navigation to Lewiston, Idaho, which is almost 500 miles from the sea, in addition to providing needed hydroelectric power.

Features included with the new device are a eye level exhaust tube which prevents air bubbles from impairing the vision of divers. The face masks are designed to stay in place with divers in any position. Arm straps are provided to secure mask and hose assemblies to the divers.

Mask pulsation is eliminated by a convoluted hose connected to the outlet valves. With the pump supplying 4.25 cubic feet of air per minute for each diver at the surface, and about 2.25 cfm at the full extent of the twin hoses (only 1.5 cfm is required), ample air is always available. Excess air is spilled automatically.

No metal parts, such as regulator or fittings, are included in the air supply lines. Filtered air is supplied the system through use of foam filters on air intakes. Exhaust from the pump engine is expelled through a 40-inch tube above the engine.

With the new equipment divers are always breathing fresh air as opposed to bottled or compressed air required in other systems. The elimination of tanks is a major feature of the system and contributes immeasurably to freedom of movement and to reducing the expense of skin diving.

Buoyant Devices Aid Water Competitors

Water ski jump vests, speedboat racing vests, white water canoeing vests, buoyant hunters' style jackets and other flotation devices are recognized by the Coast Guard as "special purpose water safety buoyant devices" for use in certain water sports and competitions where the need for protection is often the greatest.

Instead of being "evaluated for approval" by the Coast Guard, the special purpose water safety devices are evaluated by authorized nonprofit laboratories.

To date only the Yacht Safety Bureau, Inc., has been authorized to issue the listing/labeling numbers which are approved by the Coast Guard.

When the Coast Guard realized that their "approved" life preservers were not suitable to be worn in certain sport events, they started accepting the special purpose devices in lieu of "approved" devices for general use on classes A, 1 and 2 motorboats not carrying passengers for hire.

On class 3 boats and any boat carrying passengers for hire, the special purpose devices are only acceptable as excess equipment.

So far only three types of special devices have been listed and labeled with the "Laboratory/USCG" label that signifies approval. They are a water-sport jump vest, a flotation jacket, and a horseshoe buoy.

Evans' 3rd Try

Seeks Speed Record

Detroit industrialist-sportsman, Robert Beverly Evans is set to make a third crack at his dream of setting a world's water speed record.

Evans unveiled his new jet-powered challenger, Evans Stars and Stripes III, late in January.

Evans has enjoyed two other unavailings of his record, but only heartbreak followed. The first boat failed to reach the century mark.

The other, Miss Stars and Stripes II, crashed into the woods lining Michigan's Hubbard Lake after builder-driver Les Staudacher had beaten Don Campbell's world record of 276.33 miles an hour by more than 12 miles an hour.

The rudder on Miss Stars and Stripes II broke while Staudacher was hurtling across the water at 288 miles an hour. Staudacher, builder of more than 40 Gold Cup boats, including Miss U.S.V., the only other boat to better the 200 mile an hour mark, leaped from the cockpit just before the crash.

Rescue parties found Staudacher more dead than alive and the air speed indicator of the wrecked Miss Stars and Stripes II "froze" at the 288 mark.

The accident, however, failed to stop Evans and Staudacher. Evans, the designer and financier, and Staudacher, the craftsman, began building their new challenger as soon as Staudacher's painful injuries healed.

SISTER SHIP

Evans' Stars and Stripes III is a sister ship to its ill-fated predecessor.

"We know we are on the right track," Evans said. "Miss Stars and Stripes II proved that. We worked three years on the boat, testing more than 30 designs on six different models."

"Les still had power left when the rudder let go. We have a heavier, bigger rudder on this boat and altered the spinnaker to give us a more stable ride about six inches off the water."

Evans and Staudacher hope to test Evans' Stars and Stripes III on Saginaw Bay as soon as the ice clears this spring.

While each man wants to make a run at the record, age and family obligations dictate the wheel be turned over to a younger, experienced Gold Cup boat driver.

Evans, like Staudacher, has faced death in his quest for the water speed record.

Evans escaped from a glider crash while studying aerodynamics. Later he was pulled from the Detroit River after his experimental hydrofoil sank in a high speed run.

Ironically, the only tangible reward which the holder of the world's water speed record enjoys is the Robert Beverly Evans United Nations Trophy, symbol of water speed supremacy.

"I told Campbell that I would win the trophy back for the United States when I presented it to him in London in 1958," Evans said.

Evans' Stars and Stripes III is 31½ feet long, weighs 5,800 pounds, is powered by a 5,000-horsepower thrust J-35 jet engine, and is used in P-4s. The hull is made of one-piece sheets of aluminum specially furnished by Alcoa. The spinnaker (out-riggers) are 15 feet long.

"We hope to bring the record back to Michigan this summer," Evans said. "The people at Hubbard Lake were wonderful to us and their lake is one of the best suited for a record-trial in the state."

Even on new reservoirs, the fisherman, the water skier, the scuba diver, the swimmer and those boat owners who merely want to cruise about the lake, soon come to loggerheads as to their rights and privileges.

Everyone seems to want to use the same water areas at the same time for their own pursuits.

Hence, the zoning and the use of buoys and markers establishing skiing, swimming, fishing, scuba diving and even-boat racing areas — all others keep out.

Leads Boat Violations

Boat numbering and registration irregularities accounted for approximately 44 per cent of the violations listed by regular Coast Guard patrols during the summer months of 1965.

Duplications Cause Problems

Uniform Water Accident Reports Urged

CLEVELAND — The recreational boating safety picture is encouraging, but uniform statistics are still needed to pinpoint problem areas, a representative of one of the nation's large boating organizations pointed out.

In a statement to delegates at the recently annual meeting of the ninth district, U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary here, Matt J. Kaufman, education director of the Outboard Boating Club of America, said improved accident reporting methods will help identify the causes of boating accidents and permit development of practical remedies.

Kaufman noted that the Public Health Service's figures showed a decline in watercraft fatalities for the period of 1960 through 1964, compared with the previous five years, despite a tremendous increase in boating activity. "While these figures are fairly reliable as far as fatalities are concerned, they tell us nothing about causes, number of accidents and injuries," Kaufman added.

He said the U.S. Coast Guard — the agency charged with keeping accident statistics under the Federal Boating Act of 1958 — was hampered because of conflicting state reporting methods.

"The accident increases shown in recent Coast Guard reports can be traced to duplication (two or more states reporting a single accident on boundary waters), additional states coming into reporting status (38 in 1960, versus 45 in 1964) and differences over what should be reported," Kaufman declared.

"Some states include commercial accidents, some do not include rowboat and canoe missing of all accidents causing more than $25 damage," Kaufman explained.

He called upon the Coast Guard and the National Association of State Boating Law Administrators to take the lead in developing a uniform reporting system.

Boat Award Won by New York State

The state of New York was named recipient of the 12th annual Ole Evnirude Award for "significant contributions to recreational boating."

The award, which is presented annually during the New York Boat Show, was accepted recently by representatives of the state conservation department. It carries a grant of $1,000 and is made by Evnirude Motors, Milwaukee, Wis., in memory of the late Ole Evnirude, pioneer in the development of the outboard motor.

New York state received the award, primarily, for the work done in the past six years by the division of motor boats, an agency of the conservation department.

INLAND WATER ROUTE — A cruiser rounds on a bend on one of the four rivers comprising Michigan's Inland Water Route. The route also includes four lakes — Burt, Mullett, Crooked and Pickrel — and covers a total of 45 miles between Cheboygan and Conway.

Northern Michigan Route Lures Pleasure Boaters

The Inland Water Route, a 45-mile network of lakes and rivers set in the forests of northern lower Michigan, is a leading port of call for the nation's growing navy of pleasurecraft.

Remote wilderness, rolling farm land and scenic hills border the lakes and rivers. There is unlimited opportunity for hunting, fishing, cruising, exploring, water skiing, swimming and skin diving.

Fresh air and low pollen count attract thousands of hay fever sufferers. Springtime is blossom-time in nearby apple and cherry orchards. Trees lining the route become blankets of color during the autumn season.

The area is noted for game, including elk, deer, beaver, muskrat and mink. Fishermen enjoy year-round sport with trout, bass, panfish and in the winter sturgeon. Waterfowl are plentiful.

The Water Route winds through four lakes — Burt, Mullett, Crooked and Pickrel — and 18 miles of connecting rivers — Cheboygan, Indian, Crooked and Pickrel — on its course between Cheboygan and the village of Conway near Petoskey.

Mullett is the largest lake, measuring 12 miles long and six miles wide. Burt Lake is nearly as large and both lakes are stocked with trout and have sandy beaches. The connecting rivers will accommodate boats up to 65 feet in length.

The Water Route is rich in Indian lore and legend. The Indians had great faith in the healing powers of the land's artesian waters and his small villages dotted the route. A side trip

LARGEST CRUISE

The Indian River Shrine, the world's largest cruiser, is a point of interest for travelers of all faiths. It is located near the community of Indian River, mid point on the Water Route.

Canoeing and sailing enthusiasts also find the route appealing. The guide to Michigan Canoe Trails suggests a three-day canoe trip with overnight stops at state campgrounds.

The locks at Cheboygan provide access to Lake Huron and a cruise along east Michigan shore leads to the Straits of Mackinac and its view of past and present — Mackinac Island, Fort Michilimackinac and the Mackinac Bridge, one of the world's longest suspension bridges.

Persons desiring Inland Water Route Navigation Chart 660 should write directly to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, U.S. Lake Survey, 630 Federal Building, Lansing, Michigan 48926.

There is a charge of $1.00 for the chart.

NAEBM Takes Action

Better Service Program

The initial phases of a new boat service program expected to result in improved repair and maintenance services for pleasure craft will be initiated this spring, according to A. W. MacKer, president of the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers.

MacKer began a study of marina and boat yard services late in 1964 and has led NAEBM in shaping an industry program designed to improve the type and quality of service boat owners could expect.

The first step in the program includes providing immediate information and guidance to marina and boat yard owners, showing the need and significance of boat service.

An NAEBM service seminar package, consisting of a film, a free booklet, several statistical studies and a discussion leader will be made available to regional organizations of marina and boat yard operators this spring.

As manufacturers, we are not directly involved in servicing boats," MacKer said, "But as an association we feel it is our proper business to assist manufacturers and dealers.

the trade in researching, developing and promoting the methodology of dockside service, repair and maintenance.

It is highly important for NAEBM to do all it can to raise the standard of service available on our waterways."

MacKer also reported that an extensive manual on marina and boat yard operations is now being outlined for inclusion in the NAEBM series of marine text books. The emphasis on marina operations is in the service area.

Assistance to waterfront facility operators will be backed up by special seminars in April and next October for manufacturer members of NAEBM, outlining specific action the individual engine and boat builder can take to assist in the service improvement effort.

A task force committee representing experts in hull, engine and marine systems technology is now being formed to undertake studies expected to lead to development of long-range edging projects for service personnel, marina operators, manufacturer and dealers.

Mobile Teams Hit Pay Dirt

The mobile boarding teams that the Coast Guard put into the field during the summer of 1965 hit pay dirt, especially in those areas where official inspections had been absent in local boating circles.

According to the statistics released by the Coast Guard's recreational Boating Safety Division 58 per cent of the craft inspected failed to comply to Federal regulations.

These requirements, the Division pointed out, are the minimum under the Federal Boating Act and in many instances state boating laws expand the regulations considerably.

While 43.8 of those operators found derelict by the law enforcement teams merely violated numbering and registration regulations, nevertheless 3.7 per cent failed to heed safety rules.

This figure included 20.7 listed with improper or insufficient life preservers and 14 per cent without proper fire extinguishers. Inadequate ventilation accounted for 10 per cent of the infractions and a multitude of miscellaneous.

Cup Challengers in Test Tank

The next America's Cup challenger won't arrive in United States water until 1967, but the winner of the race may have already been decided.

The decision could well have been made in what looks like a long, narrow, shallow indoor swimming pool.

This is the Davidson's test tank at Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, N.J. The tank, 140 feet long, 9 feet wide and 5 feet in depth, tests five-foot models of newly designed American 12-Meters.

Wearing wet clothing aboard a boat can increase the danger of sun exposure. Even white garments, when wet, may transmit ultraviolet light effectively.

PRETTY SIGHT — This 10-foot one-design sailboat, shown with a three-horsepower motor shaft folded, is ideal on bays and sounds.

POPULAR ONE-DESIGN—The International 420 one-design sailboat (above) is a popular class that has mustered 7,000 owners throughout the world into an association of enthusiastic racing fans. Built of fiberglass, the craft is 13 feet, nine inches in length.

MOLDED HULL—This Apex 12-foot sailboat has a one-piece molded fiberglass hull with anodized aluminum spar. The boat has a catamaran type bow and weighs 178 pounds. Hull colors are red or blue with blue or white maroon rigged sail. It's priced at $439.

MADE OF STEEL—Designed originally for the more placid waters of small lakes and rivers, the houseboat graduates into the big league this year. The above 38-foot River Queen with a steel hull was especially built for off-shore use in coastal areas.

THEY'RE OFF — The scene above is a group of mile-a-minute powerboats starting on their way in the 87-mile dash in the Top-O-Michigan Marathon, held annually in mid-July along the Inland Water Route in northern lower Michigan.

Half Carbon Monoxide With Good Ventilation

Carbon monoxide, odorless and tasteless can, if the concentration is sufficient, completely cut off the oxygen supply to the bloodstream. This is one of the reasons Coast Guard regulations specify adequate ventilation for all enclosed areas on inboard boats.

Broken exhaust pipes, or cooking ranges, heating plants, gas water heaters, metal fireplaces, and gas burning air conditioners are all possible sources of CO. These areas should be well ventilated at all times.

MIDGET RACER—This 21-foot fiberglass all-inboard sloop rig with roller reefing, permanent back stay winches, lifelines and outboard well made its debut at New York's National Boat Show back in January.

Launching Sites Listed

Oakland County is blessed with 432 lakes from one acre in size on up. But boaters have access to only about 25 per cent.

The public fishing sites are favored, but facilities in state parks—such as Dodge 4 at Cass Lake — get a heavy workout. Because the Clinton and Huron rivers wind through many lakes, it is possible to reach up to 10 lakes from one fishing site.

Following is a list for Oakland County of Conservation Department access sites (not including those in state parks and recreation areas):

BIG LAKE. Go ¼ mile south-east of Davisburg on Andersonville Road, then ½ mile south on Eaton Road, then 1 mile southeast on Scott Road, then ¼ mile south on Big Lake Road.

CEDAR ISLAND LAKE. Go 3 miles north of Commerce on Bogie and Oxbow Lake Roads.

COOLEY AND LONG LAKES. Go ¼ mile north of Commerce on Bogie Road, then 1¼ miles east on Cooley Lake Road.

CRESCENT LAKE. Go 1 mile southwest of Drayton Plains on Hatchery Road, then 2 miles south on Crescent Lake Road.

GRASS LAKE. Go ¼ mile west of Davisburg on Davisburg Road, then 4¼ miles south on Ormond Road, then ¾ mile east on White Lake Road, then 1½ miles south on McKeachie Road.

LAKEVILLE LAKE. ¼ mile northwest of Lakeville off Lakeville Road.

LOON LAKE. ¼ mile east of Drayton Plains off US-510.

MACEADY LAKE. Go ¼ mile south of Waterford on Airport Road, then 1¼ miles southwest on Williams Lake Road.

OAKLAND LAKE. 1 mile north of Drayton Plains off paved road.

ORCHARD LAKE. Just north of town of Orchard Lake.

ORION LAKE. Northwest corner of town of Lake Orion.

PONTIAC LAKE. Go 3¼ miles southwest of Drayton Plains on Hatchery Road, then ¼ mile south on Williams Lake Road, then ¼ mile west on M-59.

SHILAWASSEE RIVER. 1 mile east of Davisburg off Davisburg Road.

Boat Show March 5 in Chicago

A record number of exhibitors—some 330 as compared with 312 last year—will fill the main exhibit hall of McCormick Place for the 33rd annual Chicago National Boat, Travel and Outdoors Show March 5-13.

The show is owned and sponsored by the Chicago-based Boating Industry Association and the Outboard Boating Club of America, national organizations serving the outdoor recreation and industry and its consumers.

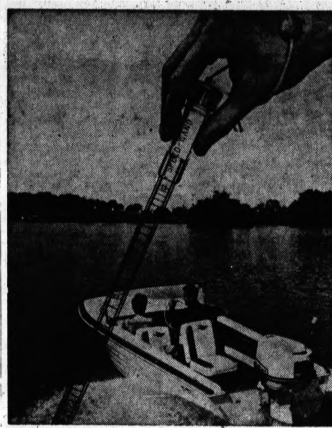

Fred B. Lifton is the BIA-OBC executive director. Guy W. Hughes and Associates, Inc., is the producer, with Guy W. Hughes as executive producer.

Show management outlined the following outlook on opening day:

With all four featured areas of the show—marine, fishing tackle, travel and camping—occupying increased space, the 1966 edition will be the world's largest of its kind in terms of space occupied and attendance.

Over 1,000 brand names will be represented. The 1965 attendance was 411,901.

"This show presents outdoors recreation as a package," the management noted. "Market and motivational research has shown that boating is not an end in itself for most people; it is a means to a variety of ends, such as vacationing, fishing, camping, sightseeing.

MAGIC WAND—This slender gadget tells speeds up to 35 miles an hour when dipped only four inches below the water's surface. Made of plastic, it contains a cork float.

Some Fresh Water Electrolysis Noted

Electrolysis, the decomposition of metal components of a boat in salt water, has been an unfamiliar term to those who ply the fresh inland lakes and streams of the United States.

But beware, electrolysis is rearing its ugly head in areas heretofore considered immune. Submerged electrical cables that provide current to individual dock outlets may leak power and set up an electrolytic action within a fresh water marine.

Waters on reservoir that are direct feeders to power plants also are acting similarly due to the discharge of the turbines plus the empty metal beverage tins lying on the lake's bottom.

Depth Finder Helpful

Depth finders are versatile aids to boatmen. They not only warn of shoals but they can locate a school of fish and by reading the bottom aid in navigation.

Army Engineers Aid Navigation

Beach Erosion Work Done by Corps

Under the Omnibus Rivers and Harbors and Flood Control Act of 1965, the Army Corps of Engineers are authorized to participate in varying degrees in 150 projects of flood control, navigation, and water conservation that will enlarge boating and water recreation areas and facilities in many states.

The Army Corps of Engineers will cooperate with Federal state and local agencies on 50 navigation projects and 18 surveys in the interest of navigation and beach erosion.

The Act also raises the cost limit of individual small navigation projects to $500,000, and the over-all annual amount to $10,000,000.

California is scheduled to receive funds for improvements at over a dozen locations.

Breakwater and small boat harbor improvements are planned for Bodega Bay, Crescent City, Oceanside Harbor, Port San Luis, El River, and Napa River. Other projects include channel, levee and flood control improvements.

Latest Fad on Water

Latest fad on weekend water skiers who are looking for new challenges is trick skiing—the slides, turnarounds and toe-turns usually associated only with tournament skiers of championship caliber.

Skiers young and old, particularly the latter, are discovering that tricks on skis are not nearly as difficult as they seem, and they open the door on a whole new area of fun and thrills on the water.

The wonder is that trick skiing has been so long in attaining greater popularity. The requirements in terms of equipment are less extensive than those for other types of skiing, especially slalom and jumping.

The skis themselves, despite being smaller and ruddier, are priced in about the same range as better conventional skis—from $25 to $70 per pair—but trick skiing requires far less power and boat speed than other forms of the sport, and it does not demand such equipment as slalom buoys and jump ramps.

Trick speeds for juniors range from 8 to 10 miles an hour and for seniors, up to about 20 miles an hour. This means that in many instances an outboard motor of 15 horsepower is quite adequate for the towing job. The skis are eight inches wide and vary in length from a minimum of three feet for juniors to four feet for adults. They are available in varying shapes, with the "banana" design currently the most popular. Some trick skiers still prefer the older square-back type, a stubby version of conventional skis, while the "barrel stave" version, squared at both ends, is gaining popularity. In addition to being smooth throughout the bottom surface for slides and turnarounds, most trick skis are slightly contoured of rocker-bottomed for greater balance in the water and ease of maneuvering.

For "water tricks, a 75-foot tow line of quarter-inch polypropylene or polyethylene is recommended.

Tricks vary from the basic two-ski slide to the intricate toehold wake 360-degree turns. In between are some 50 tricks, plus variations, officially recognized by the American Water Ski Association. About half of this total are neophyte tricks, not scored in sanctioned competition, but fun to do and an interesting challenge for the casual skier who has mastered the single ski and is looking for something more than a few turns around the lake.

A booklet, "The ABC's of Trick Skiing," is available from the American Water Ski Association, Post Office Box 191, Winter Haven, Fla. for 35 cents. It contains simple, detailed information on the execution of the more popular tricks, including sequence photographs.

The sideslip, two-ski stopper turn, back starts on one and two skis, the one- and two-ski turns, and the toehold turns are among the tricks described in the booklet. There also are practice tips, pointers in boat driving for trick skiers and a foreword by Al Tyll, the national tricks champion for four consecutive years.

The AWSA also offers 8 mm. instruction films on trick skiing in slow motion and full color. Featuring Ken White, a member of the 1965 U.S. Ski Team, the films sell for $6.75 each, or a complete set of four for $25.

Tricks on water skis are almost as old as the sport itself, but for years they were regarded as maneuvers strictly for show skiers and, later, for organized water skiing competition.

Bruce Parker, one of the pioneers in the sport, drew thunderous applause at the New York World's Fair by removing a ski and holding it over his head while skimming across the water on a single ski.

DOES TURNS The following year, he demonstrated a 180-degree turn on short, double-end skis, winning first place in the second national tournament held at Jones Beach, N.Y.

Mid-American Canoe Race Set May 8

AURORA — One of Illinois' top sporting events, the Mid-American Canoe Race, will be Sunday, May 8 on the Fox River, 40 miles west of Chicago.

The sixth running of this annual spring river-classic will be sponsored by the Fox River Valley Pleasure Driveway & Park District.

The amateur race is open to all comers, 14 years of age or older. All entrants will be entered in the Open Class automatically. An entry fee of $1 per person must accompany each entry. Divisions will include: Open; Boys 14-17; Mixed Couples; Men and Boys; and Women's Class.

Boating enthusiasts, young and old, will take canoes over five portages, passing between banks and under bridges lined with thousands of spectators as they race down the Fox River. They will be competing for trophies and prestige in the grueling 22 mile race between Elgin and Aurora.

One of the most highly organized sporting events of its kind, the race will be run under the supervision of the Illinois Department of Conservation.

Each canoe will be assigned to a specific heat and must race in that heat. Heats will be made up of ten canoes, and will leave a starting point just below the South Elgin dam, at five minute intervals. The finish line is the Illinois Avenue Bridge in downtown Aurora.

More than 200 canoes from mid-west states are expected in the 1966 event. A total of 162 canoes from eight states were entered in the 1965 classic. Entries close May 5, 1966.

Defending champions in the open class are Gus Carlson and Lynn Tuttle of St. Charles, Illinois. This duo predicted their way to a new record in 1965—covering the 22-miles in the time of two hours, forty-five minutes and fifty-three seconds.

Persons wishing to compete in the 1966 event can obtain entry blanks by writing or calling the Fox River Valley Pleasure Driveway & Park District, 712 South River Street, Aurora, Ill.

Taut Craft Ship Shape and 'Bristol Fashion'

"Ship shape and Bristol fashion" once was used to describe a taut craft, circumspect in every way—orderly, neat and with all proper equipment aboard snugly secured in its proper place.

The infrequency of finding "ship shape and Bristol fashion" recreational craft on our vast (flung) American waters is underscored in the reports of Coast Guard patrol reports and those of the Coast Guard Auxiliary which offers boat owners a "courtesy examination" each season.

Both groups report an astonishingly high rate of failures—of craft that did not meet the muster on one or more points of official regulations.

Boat owners must request a courtesy exam from the Auxiliary, and while the entire matter is wholly unofficial, it is a step in the proper "ship shape" direction.

Should the boat pass inspection, the Auxiliary will issue a decal for the current season, indicating a list of required equipment that also suggest additional gear that should be aboard from the standpoint of safety.

Of course the craft must be registered, the papers carried aboard, and the boat numbers properly spaced and in contrasting colors.

Running lights must be in order, an adequate number (one for each passenger carried, even if you just happened to pick up a neighbor at the town dock and are giving him a lift home) of "proved life saving" aboard, inboard boats must be properly ventilated, galley stoves secured and protected, engines must have flame arresters, electrical installations satisfactory and bilges clean.

And of course, there must be a whistle, bell or other sound producing device as specified on the class of boat.

The National Safe Boating Week Committee recommends that in addition to required equipment, all craft should have an anchor and line adequate for the local waters, a spare towing line, bilge pump or bailing device, flashlight, paddle on small boats, fenders, spare can of gas, first aid kit, tool kit and compass.

Dry Land Technique Best

Dry land technique can take the guesswork out of learning how to water ski. It's a quick way to get the "feel" of the skis and gain self-confidence, says Tom Dorwin, a former national champion and now an adviser to Evinrude Motors.

The dry land technique is a simplified form of instruction that can be given anywhere, even in your living room. All you need is an instructor, a pair of water skis and a tow line.

Dorwin suggests that you try a few deep knee bends to limber up. They also help to sharpen your sense of balance and coordination. When putting on the skis adjust the binding by sliding the heel piece forward. The fit should be snug, but comfortable. If you're near water, wet your feet and the skis. Your feet will slip into the bindings easier.

Grasp the tow line handle and have your instructor lower you down into a sitting position. Stretch your arms out straight, knees between your elbows. If done correctly the tow line handle will be just in front of your knees.

Have your instructor pull on the tow line, slowly raising you to a standing position. Don't try and stand up. Let the instructor exert the pulling force. This simulates the manner in which you will be pulled to the surface when actually water skiing. Repeat this procedure several times.

Once you are in the water, review the dry land technique. Check the position of your knees and the tow line handle. If you've learned your lesson, you'll be flashing across the water on your first try.

Equipment Not Costly

There are many reasons why water skiing is one of America's fastest growing family sports with an estimated 8 million participants. One of the most important is that equipment costs won't bankrupt the family budget. In fact, the complete package—skis, tow bracket, line and safety equipment—can be purchased for less than $50.

Any rig that can attain a speed of 20 miles per hour can be used as a tow boat. If your plans include slalom or jumping, a minimum speed of 35 miles per hour is recommended. Outboard motors in the 40 to 90 horsepower range are extremely popular with skiers.

They supply more than enough speed and are still priced within most family budgets. A special "ski prop" is one accessory that many families find helpful. A marine dealer can help you select this special propeller to fit your outboard. It will help deliver that initial thrust when pulling the skier to the surface.

There are four common types of water skis: conventional, slalom, trick or jumping. For the beginner, conventional skis can be purchased for as little as $25.

The weight of the skier is the determining factor in selecting the right length. If you have any questions, your marine dealer will be able to supply assistance. You might also hear the term "outboard skis." They are wider than the conventional model. Although it's easier to get up, they're more difficult to control and maneuver.

The simplest type of tow bracket is a set of rings bolted to the transom on either side of the motor. Lead ropes are then attached to each ring and form a V-shaped bridle to which the tow line itself is attached.

Quarter inch manila or synthetic fiber lines are the most popular. The synthetics have the added advantage of buoyancy which makes them easier to spot.

Both state and local regulations require that every skier wear a life jacket or ski belt. This is one rule that should never be broken, even by experienced swimmers.

MERCURY announces the first major breakthrough in outboard ignition in 50 years...

NOW—Spark plugs last seasons, not hours!

NOW—Preignition, even with highly leaded fuel, is unheard-of and unheard of!

NOW—Engine efficiency and reliability are dramatically increased!

NOW—High-powered engines idle like fishing motors!

The new Thunderbolt Ignition was invented and developed by Kiekhafer engineers. It is a complete, fully integrated system that makes use of space-age, solid-state materials and technology to produce dramatically increased spark plug life and engine performance.

Thunderbolt is so named because its spark voltage impact far surpasses that of a conventional system—and because it produces this voltage in mere millionths of a second, many times faster than a conventional coil-and-battery system does.

Thunderbolt Ignition fires the plugs so quickly that practically no energy is lost through leakage. Thus, it can fire plugs that are "fouled" by conventional ignition standards. And, because the triggering current required to discharge the capacitor (condenser) is so small, points are not nearly so subject to pitting and burning.

An integral part of the new Thunderbolt Ignition system is Mercury's new Polar-Gap spark plug. Polar-Gap is a very "cold" plug; operating temperature of the electrodes and ceramic insulator is 800 to 1000 degrees cooler than conventional plugs. Consequently, deposits from the use of leaded fuels do not reach preignition temperature levels. Spark arcing area is considerably greater than that of a conventional plug—Polar-Gaps have a 360° electrode gap. This reduces the rate of electrode erosion, partially accounting for the greatly increased life of the Polar-Gap plug.

Thunderbolt's higher voltage spark just about eliminates low speed wet fouling or carbon fouling, while the very low operating temperature of the Polar-Gap plug ends fouling caused by lead deposits from automotive fuels.

And, Thunderbolt brings you a bonus of minimum interference with your radio and electronic equipment—only a single spark is produced.

The new Thunderbolt Ignition is exclusive on the new 1966 six-cylinder Mercs 1100SS and 950SS.

It makes them the most advanced outboards ever manufactured, offering performance, dependability and economy never before experienced in any high-horsepower outboard.

Primaries Set Monday in 6 City Districts

By L. GARY THORNE

Vote for one and no more!

Primary balloting will be carried out Monday in six out of Pontiac's seven voting districts. There will be no primary in District 3.

When they enter the voting booth, voters will cast only one vote. The ballot will contain only the names of candidates in the voter's home district. There will be two winners or nominees in each district. These two will vie in the April 18 general election when commissioners are elected from each district by the city at-large.

Since only two candidates filed nominating petitions in District 3, no primary election is necessary there.

A primary election is necessary only in districts where three or more persons have filed petitions.

Incumbent William H. Taylor Jr., 50, of 247 Ottawa and William J. Winters, 39, of 293 Ottawa will be the District 3 nominees.

District 1, 5 and 7 have attracted the most candidates. District 1 has four commission hopefuls, while districts 5, and 7 each have five candidates.

Seeking nomination in District 1 are four primary candidates: T. Warren Fowler Sr., William A. Garling, Charles M. Tucker Jr. and Samuel J. Whitters. The incumbent, Fowler, 59, of 89 Lake, seeking a second term on the City Commission, is president and founder of the Warren Fowler Electric Co. and founder of Fowler Heating and Cooling Co.

He was a member of the police trial board, 1956-64, and a former director of the Pontiac Area Urban League.

A city resident for 38 years, Fowler serves as a trustee of Newman A.M.E. Church.

He is married and has three children.

T. WARREN FOWLER SR.

His statement: "I have chosen to stand for reelection to the Pontiac City Commission so that I can continue to participate in the effort to make Pontiac a dynamic, progressive city.

"It is my desire to further participate in the completion of projects long needed and requested in District 1 and other areas of the city.

"I think a great amount of concentrated effort must continue to extend the redevelopment of the downtown urban renewal area, which is about to begin.

"I would like to see the construction of sorely needed modern, low-cost housing for our senior citizens as soon as possible.

Grba and Hudson have been involved in prior City Commission election contests, while McGinnis is entering for the first time.

Grba, 35, of 28 Kimball, an employee of the Oakland County Department of Public Works, is making his second try for the City Commission. He was unsuccessful in 1964.

A native of Pontiac, Grba is a graduate of Ferris Institute and a U. S. Army veteran of the Korean conflict.

He is married and has two girls.

Incumbent Hudson, 43, of 361 Gallogly, former Waterford Township clerk, county supervisor and state representative, is seeking his second two-year term on the commission.

IN REAL ESTATE

A real estate salesman, Hudson owns and operates a hardware store. He served as mayor pro-tem the last two years.

He is married and has four children.

Hudson, who was a Democratic nominee for delegate to the 1961 Constitutional Convention, served as township clerk, 1947-51, as a county supervisor in 1952, and as a state legislator, 1955-58. He also was an unsuccessful congressional candidate in 1960.

District 1

Garling, 40, of 502 Bloomfield is making his second bid for public office. He was an unsuccessful candidate for City Commission in 1958.

A real estate sales manager, Garling is a native of Pontiac. He served three terms as a member of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, serving on the juvenile committee that established Camp Oakland.

Garling is a charter member of the Neapolitan Club and its immediate past president. He also was one of the organizers of the group now known as the

WILLIAM A. GARLING

His statement: "I have been drafted by an organized group of civic-minded citizens. It is their sincere belief that I am capable of serving on the basis of my interest and participation in civic affairs.

"If Pontiac is to grow and flourish, our city government must meet the threat of retrogression and decadence brought on and augmented by inadequacies in housing, health facilities and communications between city government and the citizenry.

"I am for the repeal of Ordinance 1270 which forbids any additional public housing in the city of Pontiac.

"I would recommend that we have a study and review of both the urban renewal and poverty programs immediately!"

CHARLES M. TUCKER JR.

His statement: "I share the concern with others in District 1 of adequate representation from our district and would hope our fellow citizens of the city will respond favorably to District 1's decision in the primary.

"Progress for Pontiac is my pledge. Progress can only be accomplished by full participation of citizens. Pontiac cannot progress in the darkness of its past misunderstandings and exclusion of all but a privileged few. We are living in a new day, we all must work together and meet the challenge of the future.

"We cannot succumb to the past and be a city divided by racial friction, business mistrust and uninformed citizens."

Tucker is president of the Oakland County chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

District 2

Whitters, 53, of 453 Harvey was appointed to the City Commission for a brief time in 1964 to fill out the term of a commissioner who resigned.

LONG-TERM RESIDENT

He is an electrical contractor and owns Sam's Electric. He has been a Pontiac resident for 46 years.

BOARD CANDIDATE

An unsuccessful Pontiac School Board candidate in 1958, he has attended Highland Park Junior College and Wayne State University.

He is married and has two children.

SAUEL J. WHITTERS

His statement: "I have lived in Pontiac for more than 48 years and I have seen this city grow and progress in all directions. At the present time we are badly in need of rebuilding our urban renewal area so as to receive more income from property taxes.

"There are many things needed in Pontiac that can not be done because of the limited amount of income received from these taxes. For many years our police and fire departments have been short of men. For many years many of our city employees have been underpaid.

"If I were a city commissioner I would work toward these gains for the citizens of Pontiac."

District 4

McGinnis, 36, of 112 Adelaide is seeking his first public office. He is a welder at GMC Truck & Coach Division.

McGinnis is married, has lived in the city 10 years and in District 4 seven years. A high school graduate, he is

GEORGE GRBA

His statement: "My program will stop the destruction of family life and bring back a wholesome balance of industrial, commercial and family areas.

"The families of Pontiac have been hurt by indiscriminate zoning and their real problems are ignored.

"The families, home owners and churches have lacked representation in the city.

"I will represent the people of Pontiac and the neighborhoods they live in."

He is married and has two children.

Whitters, 53, of 453 Harvey was appointed to the City Commission for a brief time in 1964 to fill out the term of a commissioner who resigned.

McGinnis is married, has lived in the city 10 years and in District 4 seven years. A high school graduate, he is

CLIFFORD A. MCGINNIS

His statement: "Two years ago our city was faced with major problems which the present commission has taken specific steps to correct.

"We hired the top city manager in the country; we adjusted municipal employees' salaries to comparable surrounding pay scales. We solved the sticky problem of the Sam Allen Scrap Yard and acquired 235 acres for a land-fill site, with the nearest Pontiac resident 1/4 mile away.

"The Taubman proposal for the development of our downtown central business district will be second to none. Apartments for senior citizens is a must. Our program is started and must be finished."

Three candidates will vie for nomination in District 2. They are Kenneth H. Cumberworth, Robert C. Irwin and Stanley Swierczynski.

Cumberworth, 50, of 32 Newberry, has been a Pontiac resident for 49 years. He is one of the owners of Bob and Ken's Bar and Grill.

He is seeking public office for the first time.

Active in fraternal affairs, he worked 24 years at Fisher Body plant and has been in business in downtown Pontiac for eight years.

He is married and has six children.

MEMBERSHIPS

Cumberworth, who attended Pontiac schools, is a member of Masonic Temple 510 and Pontiac Elks Lodge No. 810.

Irwin, 36, of 345 W. Iroquois, incumbent City Commissioner from District 2, is seeking a second two-year term.

He is married and has two children. He is past president of the Pontiac Board of Realtors. He was voted "Realtor of the Year" in 1963 by the Michigan Real Estate Association.

URBAN RENEWAL

Now urban renewal director of Utica, Swierczynski, 37, of 335 Dick, worked nine years for the City of Pontiac, including two years as assistant planning director.

He is a 1955 graduate of Michigan State University and is slated to receive a master's degree in planning from Wayne State University. Swierczynski is making his first bid for public office. He has worked for Geer Associates, planning consultants, and has been assistant urban renewal director of St. Clair.

District 2

K. H. CUMBERWORTH

His statement:

"I believe in progress for the city of Pontiac. But, let's keep in mind that progress isn't the removal and destruction of tax-producing buildings, or a long line of vacant lots.

"Progress is in building the construction of new and modern facilities. I am opposed to knocking down one more old brick until we are ready to replace it with a stronger, better looking, more productive one.

"I am keenly interested in the police department and it's protection of our citizens. We need policemen properly trained and qualified to handle this important job of protecting our women and children.

"I believe too, that we must be fair to our policemen, firemen, and to all of our public servants and city employees."

ROBERT C. IRWIN

His statement:

"In the past two years much progress has been made in overcoming the handicaps that the present commission was faced with when it was first elected. Some of the problems have been overcome through:

"Selection of a competent and capable city manager; and less intrusion into administrative activities by the City Commission.

"Confidence in the commission has been reestablished. I feel that I have gained much knowledge about the problems of the city during the past two years, and therefore I am more capable to assess them and work toward solving the problems."

"My only personal commitments are to the residents of Pontiac and not to any special interest group. I know that the job isn't going to be easy."

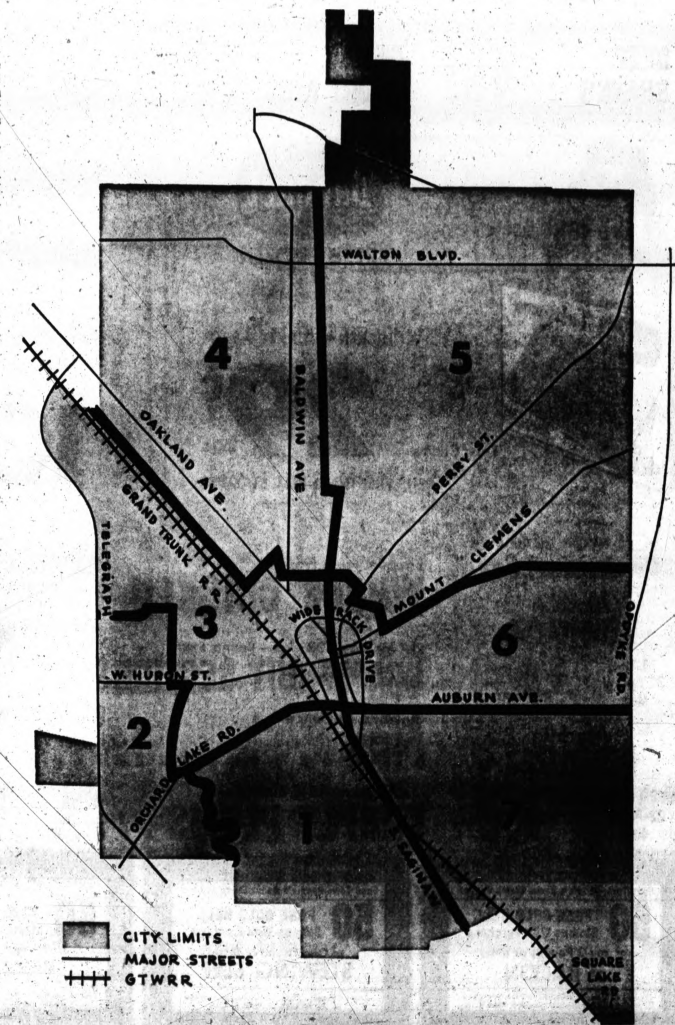

STANLEY SWIERCZYNSKI

His statement:

"While I am fully aware that I am entering this primary as an underdog, I do feel that I can provide the leadership that is so badly needed now to get the city out of the apparent urban renewal dilemma. We still haven't had any action downtown in the past two years of this administration other than what was already committed under the last administration.

"I am not concerned about the recent misleading newspaper articles on the 'may be' developer nor the sudden gesture to provide housing for the elderly.

"My only personal commitments are to the residents of Pontiac and not to any special interest group. I know that the job isn't going to be easy."

District 5

Seeking nomination in District 5 are five candidates, John A. Dugan, Roland W. Folk, William B. Hine, Gerald Kehoe, and Loy L. Ledford.

Dugan, the incumbent, is a 40-year veteran on the City Commission. A Pontiac Motor Division employee, he was re-elected to the commission in 1964 after losing in 1962.

Dugan, 57, of 363 Nelson was an early member of the labor movement here. He is a member of United Auto Workers Local 653.

He is married, has two sons, and is a member of Oakland Park Methodist Church.

A 35-year-old auto plant foreman, Folk is seeking his first public office. He is employed at Fisher Body Division, Ypsilanti plant.

Folk is married and has three children.

11-YEAR RESIDENT
He lives at 490 DeSoto.

An 11-year resident of Pontiac, Hine, 31, also an Army veteran, attended Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Ill., and George Washington University, Washington, D.C.

Kehoe, 54, of 599 Lenox is a 50-year resident of Pontiac.

THREE TERMS
He has served three terms as president of Fisher Body UAW Local 596, losing a bid for a fourth two-year term in 1964.

Employed in the maintenance department at the Fisher Body plant, he has worked there 31 years. He has served 15 years on the Local 596 shop committee.

Kehoe, who is married and has one child, served on the city's Board of Tax Review from 1951 to 1958.

He attended St. Frederick High School and Assumption College, Windsor. He is a member of St. Michael's Catholic Church.

JOHN A. DUGAN

ROLAND FOLK

WILLIAM B. HINE

His statement:
"I am asking you again for your support as a candidate for the City Commission."

"Under the leadership of Mayor Taylor and the guidance of one of the best city managers in the business, I wish to lend my support to the accomplishments that have already started and the many things that need to be done."

"I feel I am obligated to help further the accomplishments the present commission has planned and started for the future development of Pontiac. I believe the next two years to be very important for the future of our city."

"Unity on the City Commission must be kept. The progressive and honest standards of the last two years must be maintained."

His statement:
"Being the father of growing children, as well as a taxpayer, I am interested in good government."

"County cooperation is needed to widen streets and improve traffic flow on Joslyn, Walton and Baldwin."

"When money becomes available we must add more and better paid police and firemen for full-strength departments. I favor requesting state cooperation to promote construction of a combined armory and sports-civic center to provide indoor ice skating facilities and other events."

"Needed low-cost housing should be provided after determining the thriftiest method of financing."

His statement:
"The major election issues are conditions that have been present for several years. Very little has been accomplished in correcting them and they have become worse. Each year less of the large General Motors payroll is being spent in the Pontiac area."

"Traffic and road conditions are inadequate. Many property owners are being hurt by the increasing rezoning of residential areas for commercial use. The past city income tax demand should also be remembered."

"Greater initiative and progressive representation are needed. Community relations in Pontiac are at a low and must be improved if the city government is to function properly."

GERALD KEHOE

LOY L. LEDFORD

His statement:
"I feel there has been very little tangible progress by the present commission and little evidence of constructive, progressive proposals offered by the incumbent."

"The closed door, secret meetings at which the decisions made should be abolished and held in the public commission chambers. I'm against a city income tax. The incumbent strongly favors personal city income tax."

"I'm for a fair living wage for firemen, policemen and city workers. He is against this and other issues space does not permit discussing."

"I'm opposed to parking meters and support free public needed, in order that we, as citizens, can have a city that may be justly proud."

His statement:
"As a resident and taxpayer of the City of Pontiac and a former member of the commission, I feel it is my duty to aid in the development of Pontiac's urban renewal, which has remained dormant for too long a time. I feel confident that with the experience and knowledge received while serving the city as commissioner and a member of the planning commission I can accelerate this development."

"The project must get under way immediately, without placing any unnecessary burden on the taxpayer of our city."

"In doing so, this development in turn would be paying revenue to the city which is sadly needed, in order that we, as citizens, can have a city that may be justly proud."

Some Traits of Primary Are Evident

Several facts distinguish Monday's primary election in the city.

• The primary voting next week and the general election April 18 will be only the second time that the city's new system of electing city commissioners will be employed.

• There are 23 candidates involved in the primary balloting. The previous high was 28 in 1964.

EX-COMMISSIONERS
• Excluding the seven incumbent commissioners, there are three former city commissioners seeking their respective district nominations in the primary balloting.

• Of the 23 candidates involved in the initial balloting for the commission, again excluding the incumbents, six have been commission candidates before.

• Next week's balloting will continue the tradition of no primary in District 3. Created in 1940, the West Side district has had only one primary in its history. That was in 1964.

JAMES B. DAVIS

ROBERT A. LANDRY

JAMES H. MARSHALL

JOSEPH SINGLETON

CURTIS L. WEBB

His statement:
"Too much politics and personal grandeur have been the main reasons behind the lull in Pontiac."

"The city of Pontiac, set in the heart of an industrial hub, is very much in need of these things or their improvement. These are a city airport, transportation system, downtown shopping center, a working urban renewal program that will take in slum clearance, a nuisance tax to replace funds lost by tearing down business places, a sports arena for the children of Pontiac, and a large enough police force to protect and maintain 85,000 people."

"If elected your representative, I am willing to sit down and negotiate with any group to solve these problems."

His statement:
"My only interest in becoming a candidate is a desire to help the people enjoy the benefits of a progressive society."

"New construction of private and public housing, new business ventures and other private improvements must be encouraged if we are to halt the present exodus of business from Pontiac."

"Progressive group effort has been absent in Pontiac due to the lack of recognition and understanding of citizens' problem by local city officials. I believe that the future progress of our city will be determined by the intelligent use of experience."

His statement:
"I am very proud to represent District 7 on the present Pontiac City Commission: the commission with the forward look. We have realized many accomplishments in the recent past."

"To mention a few in District 7: New street lights in dark places, extended water and sewer services, removal of sub-standard and dilapidated buildings, and building of new single and multiple homes, with many more under construction."

"With the support of the voters on March 7, I pledge to continue the forward look toward the rebuilding of vacant urban renewal property, and provide public housing for low income families and senior citizens."

His statement:
"Each district should be represented by a person who is qualified to represent the district and the entire City of Pontiac."

"I do not believe that District 7 has such a representative."

"I have met with individual citizens and organized social, civic, and religious groups in my district to discuss problems in the district."

"If elected, I shall work for a definite recreation program and facilities for the young people in District 7; repeal of Ordinance 1270, which makes it impossible to provide low-cost housing for our elderly and other low-income families; and a complete housing survey to determine the housing needs of the citizens of Pontiac."

His statement:
"I am aware of the need of good representation in the district where I live."

"There are many problems in the district. I hope to be instrumental in helping to solve these problems."

"District representation is a vital need at this point."

"My program is to support faster action on the urban renewal program, improve city government policies, initiate a program for the senior citizens, improve recreational facilities and work for better community relations."

"I will devote my interest to all problems involving my district and the entire city."

"I assure you that I will show no partiality to any group."

Leaflets in Mailboxes May Be Costly

Pontiac Postmaster William H. Donaldson today issued a last-minute warning advising city election campaigners that household mailboxes are "exclusively for the United States mail."

"Anytime you have an election, there's a flood of campaign materials," Donaldson said.

"Candidates, however, will be billed at the regular postal rate for the estimated number of pieces of campaign literature improperly deposited in mailboxes."

Roll Flounder Fillets with Pickle Stuffing

For many homemakers it's "fish 'n' pickle" time! That is to say, the Lenten season has begun, with the problem of many meatless meals; and for smart cooks the solution lies in the use of pickles to make tasty dishes with fish.

And just to help things along, the National Pickle Packers Association provides a delectable recipe. This calls for rolling up flounder fillets with a tangy stuffing of bread crumbs and sweet mixed pickles. The fish rolls are baked with pickle sauce.

Other kinds of pickles provide flavor for fish dishes, too. In fact, it's a good idea to keep a few jars of different varieties of pickles on the shelf along with other seasonings.

Pickle Stuffed Flounder Rolls
¾ cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ cup sweet mixed pickles, finely chopped
1 small onion, chopped
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon pepper
3 to 4 tablespoons sweet pickle liquid

1½ pounds flounder fillets
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
Mix together bread crumbs, pickles, onion, parsley, salt, pepper and pickle liquid. Brush fillets with melted butter and place 2 tablespoons dressing on each; roll up and secure with toothpicks.

Place fish in shallow baking dish; bake in 400 degree oven 25 to 30 minutes, basting occasionally with Pickle Sauce. Serve with the sauce.

 Pickle Sauce: In saucepan, stir together 2 teaspoons cornstarch, 1 cup water, ¼ cup chopped sweet mixed pickles, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Cook and stir over low heat until mixture thickens and boils 1 minute.

Combine 2 Soups for Lunch Toters

Lunch totter soup is a meal unto itself.

In a large saucepan, combine 2 (2¼-ounce) packages of tomato soup mix, 1 (13-ounce) package of onion soup mix, 2 quarts of water and ¼ teaspoon of sweet basil. Bring to boil and simmer 10 minutes.

Add 2 cups of cooked lamb, cut into strips, 1 (1 pound) can of cut green beans and liquid, and 8 ounces of elbow macaroni, cooked as label directs, then drained. Heat well. Makes 3½ quarts.

Pack for lunch totters in pint or halfpint wide mouth vacuum bottles.

Apple Sticks Hidden in Dough

Apple Rolls
1½ teaspoons dry yeast
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons plus ¼ cup butter

Fill Mushrooms

Did you know that a 2½-ounce can of deviled ham will fill six large mushroom caps? These can be broiled (8 to 10 minutes, 3 inches from heat) and used as a garnish for lamb chops, steak, scrambled eggs or pork sausage links when you want to make the platter especially attractive.

2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten until thick and pale
1½ cups (about) unsifted regular flour
Apple Filling

In mixing bowl, dissolve yeast in water. Scald milk; off heat stir in 2 tablespoons butter, sugar and salt; add to yeast with egg and about half the flour; beat until smooth.

Work in remaining flour to make firm but not stiff dough; knead until smooth. Cover and let rise (80 to 82 degrees) until double—about 1½ hours; punch down.

Roll into 9 by 6 inch rectangle; spread with remaining ¼ cup butter, then Apple Filling. Roll up tightly from long side; cut into 9 slices. Place cut sides down in greased 9-inch round cake pan.

Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven until golden-brown—20 to 35 minutes. Turn out and serve warm.

Apple Filling: Quarter, core and thickly slice 2 medium unpeeled red apples; cut into thin crosswise sticks; mix with ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and ¼ cup golden raisins.

Red and White
Wintertime shortcake: layer thawed, drained frozen berries between white cake layers; frost with sweetened whipped cream; sprinkle with grated coconut.

PICKLE STUFFED FILLETS—Sweet mixed pickles give tangy flavor to the bread crumb stuffing in these rolled up fillets of flounder. Great eating for Lenten days, or any other time of the year.

Parsley Bread
Parsley Bread: make exactly as you would garlic bread but replace garlic with fresh chopped parsley and black pepper.

Keep Honey Dry
Store honey in a dry place to prevent absorption of moisture and fermentation. Covered at room-temperature, it will keep indefinitely.

By JACOB Y & SON

Today's discussion concerns a grand slam lost because declarer did not both to plan his whole play before he committed himself.

Jim: "South took his ace of diamonds and remarked, 'I'll play this quickly,' and played JACOBY his ace of spades. East showed out and now South stopped to think."

Oswald: "If both opponents had followed to that first spade, South would have played a second spade and claimed because he could ruff one heart in dummy and discard the other three red cards on the high clubs."

Jim: "South was unlucky anyway. He led a low spade to dummy next. Ruffed a low club, entered dummy with the last trump there and was able to discard three of his red cards on the top clubs. However, the combination of the 3-0 trump break and the 5-1 club break led to his defeat."

Oswald: "Added to his own carelessness at trick two. Had he led a low spade to dummy he would have made the hand in spite of the bad breaks. He would have ruffed a club; led a second trump to dummy; ruffed another low club, entered dummy with the third trump and then he could have discarded all of his four red cards on the ace, king, queen and ten of clubs."

Jim: "The bidding deserves some comment. South merely rebid three and four spades because his partner's club strength might have been no use to him. Then North took over the Blackwood four and five no-trump calls."

Oswald: "South's final jump to seven spades was a fine bid. He was afraid his partner would be unable to bid seven and felt that his solid trump suit was enough for the grand slam. It was, but South's play wasn't."

Nudes Ruled Out of Place

SANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Six paintings of nudes have been removed from where they hardly would be expected in the first place — the business offices of Stanford University.

The paintings, works of Miss Ann Raymond of nearby Menlo Park, were installed last December. They came down this week after complaints by some administration officials and employees.

The Stanford Daily, campus newspaper, termed the removal "narrow-minded." Sighed the artist, "I really wasn't surprised. This is the oldest fight in the world, you know."

Aden Terrorists Hurt 20

ADEN (UPI) — Terrorists threw a hand grenade into a crowd in a harbor area in this British protectorate yesterday, wounding about 20 Arabs and Somalis, some seriously. The attacks were believed carried out by Cairo-backed Nationalists seeking to annex Aden to the Yemen Republic.

U.S. Population Has Lowest Rate of Rise Since '45

WASHINGTON (AP) — The national population had the lowest rate of natural increase since 1945, the Public Health Service reported today.

With the number of births having fallen last year below four million for the first time in many years, the service said the excess of births over deaths, added about 1.95 million to the population.

The rate of natural increase was 10 persons for each 1,000 population.

An estimated 3,767,000 babies were born in this country last year, down from 4,054,000 in 1964. The birth rate was 19.4 per 1,000 population, down from 21.2.

The service reported previously that both the number of marriages and the marriage rate increased last year.

House Tentatively OKs City Tax Bill

LANSING (AP) — The House tentatively passed a bill Tuesday that would require city voters to decide beforehand whether they wanted an income tax.

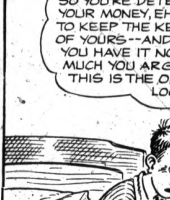

The measure passed 56-40, but Rep. Charles Conrad, D-Jackson, said he will move to reconsider the vote today.

The Uniform City Income Tax ordinance now allows a city government to order an income tax of up to one per cent. Voters opposed to the tax have time to gather petitions to call for a referendum on the tax. If the tax proposal fails, it does not become law.

Denmark Is Home of Idea for Sweetening Vegetables

From Denmark, the country that once owned the sugar-producing Virgin Islands, comes this dinner featuring the new Birds Eye Carrots with Brown Sugar Glaze.

The Islands, covered with green fields of waving cane in the 18th century, may have had something to do with developing the sweet tooth for which the Danes are famous. Not only are they fond of rich pastry and desserts with coffee, but also of sweetening vegetables.

Best known, probably, are the baked potatoes—potatoes caramelized with sugar and butter in a heavy skillet—but they also like to glaze the carrots that accompany their dinner roasts, usually pork.

These new frozen carrots—packed in 10-ounce packages which make 3 servings—come ready-sweetened with cubes of brown sugar glaze. Simmered 5 minutes with butter and water, they take on a beautiful sheen. Complete the meal with Canadian bacon and creamed spinach.

Glazed Canadian Bacon with Pineapple
 2 1/2 cup maple-blended syrup
 2 tablespoons vinegar
 1/4 cup pineapple juice
 1 pound (16 to 18) Canadian bacon
 2 cans (8 1/2 oz. each) pineapple tidbits, drained
 Combine syrup, vinegar, and pineapple juice in measuring

Bread Dressing and Turkey Are Baked Together

Make a tasty meal from left-over turkey. Try this time-saving casserole made from left-overs. Bread dressing and turkey are deliciously combined with canned beans to bring this main course dish to you and your family.

Not only will it save you time, but it's a budget-stretcher too! Wonderful Turkey Hash

3 cups leftover bread dressing
 2 cups cubed cooked leftover turkey
 1 can (1 lb.) cut green beans
 1 can (1 lb.) cut wax beans
 1 medium onion
 1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
 Spread dressing on bottom of shallow, greased baking dish. Arrange turkey over dressing. Dice onion and combine with drained beans. Place over turkey. Mix soup and spoon onto vegetables.

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 30 minutes. Four to six servings.

Serve Beef Steak in Various Ways

You can add variety to your favorite beef steak recipe by serving it different ways, the American Meat Institute suggests. Served under a crust in a colorful casserole, it makes an attractive meat pie.

Four stew over biscuits for stew shortcakes or over noodles. Stew and dumplings are good, too. Vary the vegetables you add to stew for additional interest.

If you like dried apricots sweetened, add the sugar about five minutes before the apricots have finished cooking.

WHEN YOUR DOCTOR SAYS "DRINK MORE WATER"

... it's time to get the Mountain Valley Water habit.

This pure, spring-sweet water from the great health resort region of Hot Springs, Arkansas, is America's favorite health water.

Doctors in a recent hospital test found that when patients drank Mountain Valley Water, instead of faucet water, 86% increased body waste elimination and had greater urinary output.

It's a good health practice to drink this naturally pure spring water. Order a supply now.

Sprinkle Unevenly

When making pie pastry with ing, sprinkle the oil and water into dry ingredients for even distribution throughout the mixing. cooking oil instead of shortening.

Buttermilk Pancakes Have Light Texture

Make light and fluffy pancakes with: 1 cup buttermilk, 1/4 cup flour, 1/4 cup toasted wheat germ, one egg, 1 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar and 1 tablespoon vegetable oil. Mix in electric blender or use rotary beater.

Bake on hot griddle, lightly greased. Makes 8 to 10 nutritious pancakes.

Like garlic flavor? Before you roast a leg of lamb, cut slits in the meat and insert slivers of garlic.

March Is Just the Time to Have a Mad Hatter's Tea Party

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

That famous tea party in Alice in Wonderland is not exactly a pattern to follow. If you remember, the Mad Hatter and the March Hare were not cordial to Alice even though they had plenty of room.

Whenever they got tired of the place they were sitting, they just moved one seat around the table.

The Mad Hatter dunked his watch in the tea after buttering the works with "the best butter" and chaos reigned.

But for sheer fun, why not have a Mad Hatter tea party of your own in the merry month of March?

Ask your guests to wear crazy hats or have a hat-making contest before you eat. The prize, of course, goes to the wackiest creation.

Naturally, you'll serve Wacky Cake.

PIN-WORMS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...tiny parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do...and here's how they do it:

First, a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge...small, easy-to-take tablets...special sizes for children and adults.

This is a recipe that has been around for a number of years, but everyone hasn't heard of it. Follow directions exactly.

This version was sent in to us by Waneja Hoyt.

WACKY CAKE

- 3 cups flour
 - 2 teaspoons baking soda
 - 2 cups sugar
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 6 rounded tablespoons cocoa
 - 2 teaspoons vanilla
 - 2 tablespoons vinegar
 - 1/2 cup plus 2 tablespoons cooking oil OR melted shortening
 - 2 cups cold water
- Sift dry ingredients into ungreased 9x10-inch baking pan. Level mixture and make three holes in it. In one put vanilla; in the second vinegar; and in the third the oil or shortening.

Pour water over all ingredients and mix with a fork. Bake 30-35 minutes at 350 degrees.

This is good served warm without any icing, or you may ice it, as below.

Icing

While cake is still warm, cut marshmallows in half and place cut-side down in rows on top of cake. Make chocolate butter icing and fill in between lines of marshmallows.

Mad Hatter cookies are flav-

MOLASSES HAT COOKIES

- 3 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cardamom
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine

ALICE'S COOKIES — What Alice ate made her grow tall, then small. Use the accompanying cookie recipe to make these squares or frost graham crackers with white frosting and write "Eat Me" in chocolate icing.

- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 egg, unbeaten
- 1/4 cup molasses
- 2 teaspoons grated orange rind

Sift together flour, soda and spices. Cream butter or margarine, add sugar gradually, creaming until light and fluffy. Add egg, molasses and orange rind; beat well. Add dry ingredients; mix thoroughly. Chill several hours.

Roll out dough (one-third at a time) on lightly floured board to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut into hat shapes. (Make a cardboard pattern for the hat, place on dough and cut around with tip of sharp knife.)

Place on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, 8-10 minutes. When cool, decorate with decorative icing. Makes about 3 dozen.

Decorative Icing

- 1 1/4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
 - 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
 - 1 unbeaten egg white
 - 1/4 teaspoon lemon extract
- Sift sugar with cream into egg tar. Stir gradually into egg white and lemon extract. Beat until mixture holds soft peaks. Pipe lines on cookies with writing tip of pastry tube.
- Serve sandwiches made with Walnut-Raisin bread and cream cheese.

WALNUT-RAISIN BREAD

- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 1/4 cup powdered creamer
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup molasses
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1/4 cup uncooked oatmeal
- 1/4 cup seedless raisins
- 1/4 cup chopped walnuts

In large mixer bowl, combine flour, powdered creamer, salt, baking powder, baking soda and sugar. Combine egg, molasses and boiling water; blend well. Add to dry ingredients and mix well. Fold in the oatmeal, raisins and walnuts.

Turn into a greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour, or until cake tester inserted near center comes out clean. Cool on rack.

You'll serve tea, of course — hot spiced tea.

HOT SPICED TEA

- 1/4 cup honey
 - 1/2 cup lemon juice
 - 1 teaspoon ginger
 - 4 tablespoons instant tea
 - 2 quarts boiling water
- Cinnamon sticks
- Mix honey, lemon juice, ginger and instant tea powder in container. Stir in boiling water. Serve in mugs with cinnamon sticks.

MAD HATTER COOKIES

Try Special Shrimp Dish

Who says a meatless dish has to be dull? That's culinary nonsense. Ask any gourmet, and he'll tell you some of the greatest dishes in the world are made with fish or shell fish.

Here's an example. Actually it can be a party dish. But why not prepare it for the family just to prove to them how good foods from the sea can be?

SHRIMP STROGANOFF

- 1 lb. shrimp, fresh or frozen, or 1 (8 or 10 oz.) packaged frozen, peeled and deveined shrimp
- 1/4 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 lb. bacon (5-6 strips), diced (optional)
- 2 tablespoons grated onion
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 1/2 cups tomato juice
- 1/2 cup commercial sour cream
- Hot cooked rice, Holland rusks, or toast points

Shell and devein shrimp, if necessary. If they are large, cut them to bite-size. Rinse and drain.

Place flour, salt and pepper in a clean bag. Add shrimp, and shake well to coat thoroughly. (If preferred, you may now arrange them one layer deep, cover and refrigerate until serving time.)

About 15 minutes before mealtime, place bacon in cook-and-serve type skillet and cook, stirring constantly, until brown and crisp. Remove bacon and drain on paper toweling.

To fat in pan, add onion and shrimp. Cook over moderate heat two minutes; turn to brown second side, about two minutes more. Mix mustard with tomato juice and add to pan, stirring to blend. Cook 3-5 minutes more.

Just before serving, remove from heat and stir in sour cream. Keep warm over lowest heat. Serve, garnished with bacon, over rice, rusks or toast. Serves 4.

Note: If desired, bacon may be omitted. Use 1-3 cup oil to brown the shrimp and proceed as recipe directs.

Crunchy Salad Goes Well With Soft Foods

When the main entree has a soft texture like meat loaf or macaroni casserole, California Celery Salad will give a crunchy bite.

- ### CALIFORNIA CELERY SALAD
- 2 cups finely cut celery
 - 1/4 cup coarsely chopped stuffed olives
 - 1/2 cup herb seasoned croutons
 - 1/2 cup sliced almonds
 - Dressing
 - 1/4 cup oil
 - 1/4 cup vinegar
 - 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
 - 1 teaspoon poppy seed
 - 1 teaspoon sugar
- Shake ingredients together in a jar or use blender. Makes 1 cup.
- Put salad ingredients in bowl, toss with 1/4 cup of dressing. Line individual salad plates or bowls with lettuce leaves. Top with salad. Makes 4 servings.

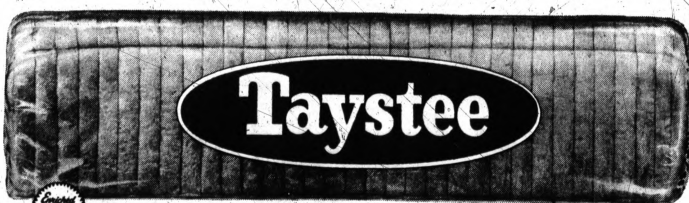

Taystee Bread

enriches kids

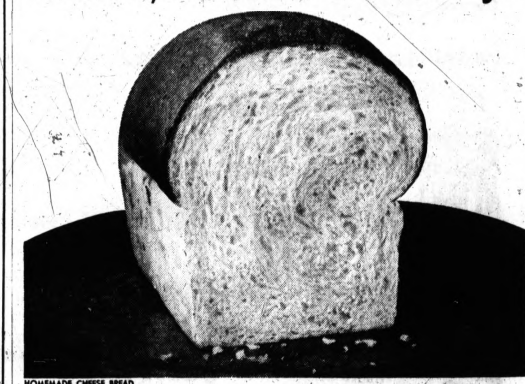

...just 1 slice has as much protein as a strip of bacon

And protein's not all Taystee gives. Among other things, every slice has far more niacin and iron than a big 8-oz. glass of chocolate milk... more B vitamins than 2 boiled eggs. Nice to know, too, isn't it, that something so nourishing can taste so good? The fresh-baked Taystee flavor and tender, smooth texture make toast and sandwiches a happy new experience. When you shop—get some Taystee. It's the bread that enriches kids.

Now! Real homemade bread... the new, easier COOLRISE way!*

You mix, shape, refrigerate... bake it when you're ready. No more watching or waiting around. The loaves rise in the refrigerator. Pop them in the oven anytime from 2 to 24 hours later... and get bread as good as when you did it the old way. (Some women tell us better.)

* FREE OFFER: New CoolRise recipes for homemade bread and variations, plus two packages of Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast, are packed inside specially marked bags of Robin Hood Flour, at your grocer's now!

Pike, Trout Closed; Bluegill Fishing Good

Pike and trout seasons have closed on inland lakes, but action for bluegills and perch continues strong.

Fishermen, however, should be doubly cautious about going on some area lakes. The mild weather has caused ice to deteriorate. And ice on most lakes did not reach its normal thickness this winter.

The Conservation Department is reminding shanty owners that fishing huts must be removed while the ice still is safe. Failure to do so can result not only in loss of equipment through the ice, but added expense in the form of paying for a shanty's removal and a fine.

The only trout fishing permitted in Oakland County until the last week in April will be for lakies. They will be in limited numbers at Cass and Maccoby lakes.

Splake, an inhabitant of Cass, come under brook trout regulations and will not be legal until the regular season opens.

Anglers have been doing very well on bluegills. They have been scoring on Anchor Bay, Grass, Wildwood, Orchard and Cranberry lakes by fishing just under the ice with minnows, wax worms and wigglers.

Perch have been biting on Walleye, Maccoby, Pontiac and Union with small minnows the best bait.

Expect New Record at DKC Dog Show

The 48th annual Detroit Kennel Club all-breed dog show at Cobo Hall Sunday may break all Michigan records for entries and attendance at a one-day show.

Last year, when DKC set a new record with an entry of 1,757 dogs from 92 breeds, the Louisville (Kentucky) show was held at the same time. This year the DKC show will be the only major one in this half of the country.

Twelve specialty clubs will consider the classes for their breed in the DKC event as their specialty show. Thirteen other specialty clubs are actively supporting the entries of their breed in this show.

Last year, when approximately 25,000 attended, the show was held in Hall D. This year the show takes over Halls A and B with space to accommodate 2,000 dogs and 40,000 spectators.

Forest Fire Executive

Robert J. Campeau, district forest fire supervisor at Newberry, has been named forest fire executive on the Conservation Department's Lansing staff.

Kent is the best lake in the area. Small minnows fished from early evening to the 11 p.m. closing time at Kent are preferred. Bluegills and perch are being taken during the day.

Walleyes, open year-around on Lake St. Clair and the Detroit and St. Clair rivers, are not too active.

Rabbit hunting is over, but coyotes, fox, possum, red squirrels, porcupines, starlings and crows are on the unprotected list.

No Decision Made on Commission Post

Senate Democrats will investigate further — and perhaps conduct another hearing — before deciding whether to confirm Robert McLaughlin of Detroit as a conservation commissioner.

Sen. Terry Trout, D-Romulus, is leading a move against McLaughlin, charging that as an executive of McLaughlin Steel Corp., he is in conflict of interest on water pollution matters.

The Senate must act by March 12 or McLaughlin will be automatically confirmed. He has been on the commission two years and was named chairman last month.

The Department of Conservation is conducting another talent hunt for men with college degrees.

Included on its "help wanted" list are male college graduates to fill trainee positions as fisheries biologists, foresters, game biologists, geologists, land appraisers, park managers and biometrists.

Candidates have until March 28 to apply through the Civil Service Commission in Lansing for open competitive examinations covering these jobs. Exam

More Deer Tours Set in North

The Conservation Department's latest series of public deeryard tours will get underway at the Houghton Lake and Caydon high schools Saturday and at the Atlanta and Tawas City high schools on March 12.

Starting times will be 10 a.m. Others are scheduled for Sunday and March 13 in the Pigeon River area to point up winter range conditions for elk as well as deer.

These Sunday field trips will be limited to persons who have snowmobiles and other mechanized equipment. They will originate from the Pigeon River fisheries research station east of Vanderbilt, beginning at 10 a.m.

As previously scheduled, a special tour for Michigan legislators will be held from the Higgins Lake conservation school on March 12.

In the Upper Peninsula, earlier — announced deeryard trips will be conducted March 20 from the Ottawa Sportsmen's Club in Baraga, the Conservation Department's equipment stations at Felch, Stephenson, Gwin and Sault Ste. Marie, and the Thompson fish hatchery near Manistique.

Other guided outings are on tap for March 27 starting from the army in Iron River, the department's equipment station at Wakefield, the Cusino wildlife research station at Shingleton and the district headquarters at Newberry.

Tradition Is Broken by Arbor Week Dates

Governor Romney, breaking with tradition to promote an extended salute to trees in Michigan, this week signed a proclamation designating April 24-30 as Arbor Week.

His action set a precedent in that the state's annual tree planting ceremonies have historically been limited to one or two Arbor Days.

Conservation Class for Waterford Club

A special program in conservation education is being offered members of the Waterford Boys Club.

Howard Greene, district game biologist of the Conservation Department, will conduct tomorrow's session which starts at 7:15 p.m. Forestry, fish and fire-fighting will be covered on the following three Thursdays by other department experts.

The final program will be a film, Quail Hunting in Missouri. Parents of members have been invited. A gun safety program also is being arranged for boys 12-18.

Styles and driving have changed in the last 50 years and the Automobile Club is still Michigan's leader in Motoring services and protection.

Sportsmen's Show Opens Friday at Fair Grounds

The annual Detroit Sportsmen's and Vacation Show opens a 10-day run at the State Fair Grounds coliseum Friday at 6 p.m.

Regular show hours after the first day will be noon to 11 and 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. weekdays. The final day will be March 13. Exhibits will include fishing, hunting and camping equipment.

There will be an expanded fishing tackle display. Equipment can be tried in the two casting pools alongside the exhibits.

For the fishermen who want to rush the season, there will be a trout pond where he can keep the trout he catches.

Many states and Canadian provinces will be represented. Their exhibits will feature guides, trappers, Indians and both live and stuffed animals and fish — some record catches.

TIRE TALK

You were probably as shocked as we were with that story the other day of the sky-diver who "came all the way in". A waste of life because of a basic error in judgment.

Come to think of it, every time we cruise I75 at 70 mph judgment plays a big part in staying alive. Mistakes in judgment at 70 mph — or while parachuting — have a way of being permanent ones.

One very common error in driving judgment today is the selection of a replacement tire. If some of the tire-buyers we've heard were sky-divers, their approach would sound something like this:

"What's the price of your cheapest parachute?" or "Any old parachute will do; I'm only going to jump a few more times" or "I don't need that good a parachute; my wife's going to use it."

Just as the sky-diver bets his life on his equipment, we drivers do the same on tires. How do you decide how good a tire you'll need for your next driving emergency? If you're certain it'll just be a small emergency, maybe you can get by with one of those 3rd or 4th line firecrackers.

But don't look for them here — we like to prepare for big emergencies with 1st line tires or better. Sound like good judgment to you? It does to us.

Bet Tax Sparks British Debate

Wilson Is Seeking to Help Home Owners

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's first campaign move — a proposal to aid home buyers by soaking the gamblers — touched off a lively debate today.
The opposition Conservatives called the scheme a blatant attempt to catch votes in the March 31 general election.
Bookmakers contended that the new betting tax would drive their business back underground from the legal betting parlors. They said it would prove unworkable.
The Guardian, the country's leading liberal newspaper, saluted Wilson's Laborites. It commented: "The skilful balancing of help for mortgages against a betting tax that will meet the cost is precisely the kind of ingenuity that a reformist government will need to display."

"NAKED ELECTIONEERING"
The conservative Daily Sketch attacked the timing of the proposal calling it "naked electioneering." But it conceded: "Everyone will applaud the idea of lower interest rates to ease the path of home ownership. And there will be general approval for a tax on betting and gaming."

The Labor government's treasurer, chief, Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan, produced the scheme in a heated Commons debate Tuesday, the first day of the election campaign.

He said a tax of 2.5 per cent will be levied on virtually all bets — including those on elections, a favorite diversion in this nation of gamblers.
The proceeds will be used to finance the Labor party's long-standing promise to bring down mortgage costs.

HAVE CHOICE
Mortgage holders will be able to choose between paying the existing rate of roughly 7 per cent and getting the tax deduction that go with it or paying 2.5 per cent less and not claiming tax relief. The present tax relief means little or no reduction in mortgage costs to those with lower incomes since they pay little income tax and so can claim little or no deduction.

Financial commentators estimated the new tax would yield $47.6 million a year, bringing the total annual take from betting taxes to $146 million.
With his eye on Britain's credit in the world of international finance, Callaghan also told Commons that the past year has shown a striking improvement in Britain's debts. He said the government has paid in full $800.4 million in short-term loans borrowed from the United States last year to save the pound from devaluation.

No Voters Showed Up in New Jersey District

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — Voters in one election district in Elizabethport apparently never got the word about Tuesday's constitutional convention election.
No one showed up to vote. Union County election officials said they didn't know how many voters were registered in the district.

Director Modernizes 'Hamlet'

HOLLYWOOD — How do you like your Shakespeare?
Like this?
"Heaven's face does glow, And this solid globe of earth, Is thought-sick at the act." Or like this?
"Heaven's face does blush, bluish, And this great mass, this solid globe of earth, With gloom-struck visage, as if doom's day's here, Is thought-sick at the act."

Mamoulian admitted he was risking the wrath of devout Shakespeareans, who consider any tampering with the folios to be sacrilege.

Urges Colleges to Eye Costs

Subcommittee Report Raps U-M Procedures

LANSING (AP) — A House committee is recommending state colleges and universities look into other possibilities before deciding to raise tuitions or student fees.
This "might include holding down enrollments or not expanding into areas the university had planned on," said Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee's Higher Education subcommittee.

The subcommittee's report, released Tuesday, cited the University of Michigan as an example of what should not be done.
The report resulted from an investigation launched last year, shortly after U-M announced a tuition hike. The Legislature had just given the school a large increase in its appropriation.

Accusing the U-M of "a lack of imaginative thinking, particularly... in the field of student housing," the committee recommended:
—The university regularly study all its expenditures and costs.
—Based on these studies, it analyze alternate plans in terms of the university's educational program and its present and future students.

—The university provide these analyses promptly to the Legislature, governor and State Board of Education to help in their decision.
Faxon has introduced a bill he said could decrease student rental costs by as much as one-third. It would establish a state higher education housing authority with power to issue $150 million in bonds to build or buy student housing.
Another Faxon bill would pay reduced from five to four cents, up to $300 toward the tuition of time intervals, stage directions every college freshman in the and ages of characters inserted; stage.

Six Forums for Voters Tomorrow

"Get Out Pontiac's Vote" Is slogan and goal of a drive under way by the Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Pontiac Jaycees will sponsor a series of six candidate forums tomorrow in the city voting districts scheduled for primary elections March 7.

Cochairmen for the "get out the vote" drive are Terrence A. Tollefson and Joseph Pospischal.

The drive is aimed at fighting voter apathy that often characterizes primary balloting, said Pospischal.

SIMILAR EFFORT
He indicated a similar effort would be made prior to the general election April 18.

Pospischal said that, generally, candidates would be afforded 15 minutes to make presentations. A question-and-answer session would follow the candidate talks.

Listed below are districts and the location of the candidate forum for each: All of the forums, except District 5, are scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

The District 5 forum, cosponsored by the Herrington Hills Homeowners Association, is to begin at 8 p.m. at Herrington School.

The other forums will be at: District 1, Jefferson Junior High School; District 2, Washington Junior High School; District 4, Owen School; District 6, Longfellow School; and District 7, Wilson School.

RECENT AIR STRIKE — A U.S. Air Force F4 drops a group of three general purpose bombs on a Viet Cong position in South Vietnam during a recent air strike. The photo was released yesterday in Saigon.

Marines Run Into Heavy VC Resistance

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Marine companies ran into heavy fighting late today in their drive to clear Communist forces from a canal-laced peninsula 55 miles south-east of the North Vietnamese border.

The action flared up again after the Viet Cong shied from contact Tuesday with the Leathernecks and Vietnamese troops hunting them down in the rice-lands overlooking the South China Sea, 12 miles southeast of the old imperial capital of Hue.

Monday, the Marines reported killing 40 Reds and capturing many weapons.

Marine headquarters at Da Nang said the Leathernecks suffered light casualties in the new fighting with the large Viet Cong force. Communist losses were not known.

The battle was taking place about six miles southeast of the Marine camp at Phu Bai.

Otherwise, U.S. planes carried the brunt of the war against the Communists today. Only scattered skirmishes were reported from American and Vietnamese forces slogging through the jungles and rice paddies.

Air Force B52 bombers roared past slumbering Saigon before dawn to drop their 500- and 750-pound bombs on a suspected Viet Cong storage area near Bien Hoa, only 20 miles north-east of the capital.

Another flight of the eight-engine bombers from Guam pounded a Viet Cong troop concentration reported by intelligence in Phuoc Tuy Province, 55 miles east of Saigon.

Despite heavy cloud cover, U.S. Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers flew 34 missions against North Viet Nam, relying mostly on radar to lead them to an assortment of bridges, roads and storage areas between the 17th Parallel demilitarized zone and the Vinh area.

The U.S. Military Command announced that 109 Americans were killed and 747 wounded in the fighting last week, which included a fierce Viet Cong assault on a regiment on the U.S. 1st Infantry Division 30 miles north of Saigon Thursday. No Americans were reported missing.

A week before, 112 Americans were killed, 406 wounded and 37 of them missing, the spokesman said, adding 29 dead and 95 wounded to the toll announced last week.

Vietnamese losses climbed from 197 killed and 77 missing to 379 killed and 183 missing. Other allied casualties for February 28 were put at 18 killed and 40 wounded.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American troop commitment in South Viet Nam — now more than 205,000 — is expected to reach about 350,000 by the end of this year.

That was the estimate provided today by diplomatic representatives of nations supporting the United States in the anti-Communist war in Viet Nam.

They said this was their impression of what the Johnson administration planned by way of bringing gradual pressure on the Communists.

But, they warned, the picture could be changed considerably if there were some major escalation of the conflict by Communist North Viet Nam.

The 350,000 figure would be about 50,000 short of the number Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. military commander in Viet Nam, has estimated he would like to have by the end of the year.

GRADUAL PACE

But problems of logistics, including landing and supply facilities, make it necessary to proceed at a relatively gradual pace.

The intense dislocation of the South Vietnamese economy and facilities which would result from any larger influx of U.S. forces this year could be justified only by the necessity of meeting some greatly intensified Red assault on a major scale.

The big unanswered question in official Washington still concerns the intentions of Communist China.

U.S. officials say they simply cannot predict whether the series of diplomatic reverses Pe-king has suffered in Africa, Latin America and Indonesia will cause her to resort to more desperate adventures in South Viet Nam.

OPPOSITE EFFECT?

It is possible, they say, that the setbacks may have the opposite effect — that is, cause thoughts about the wisdom of refusing the standing U.S. offer for "unconditional discussions."

Peking itself yesterday acknowledged, in a broadcast official newspaper articles, that it had suffered a series of military security detachments and anti-aircraft gun crews.

Sears

introducing Sears exclusive new MANTILLA COLLECTION

a romantic echo of old Spain

The splendor of Spain, recaptured by Sears in this magnificent new collection. Here is the bold beauty of hand carved wood panels . . . the delicate tracery of lattice work . . . the rich warmth of subtly antiqued woods. And the cabinetwork is truly superb. Costly pecan veneers and oak solids are hand rubbed to a mellow luster and then enriched by heavy Moorish-inspired hardware. The luxurious upholstered pieces are cushioned in foam latex and lavishly covered in striking decorator fabrics. The result? Furniture of rare and timeless beauty, perfect for every room in your home. Come, admire the complete Mantilla collection at Sears. Our modest prices will surprise and delight you.
