Signs Pointing to Sea Clash Within Hours

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union apparently defied the U.S. blockade today by ordering its Cuba-bound ships to continue on course toward a waiting Navy task force armed with "stop-or-sink" orders.

Two hours after the quarantine formally went into operation in the high seas, a Pentagon spokesman said he had no evidence that any of the Russian ships had turned back or altered course.

All signs pointed to a clash within hours between American warships and some of the 25 Russian vessels headed for Cuba.

In Norfolk, Va., a U.S. Fleet spokesman commented:

"When something happens down there (off Cuba) you can be sure the Navy will let the world know about it."

Thant Ponders Intervention

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Britain and Venezuela today threw their support behind the U.S. military quarantine of Cuba as Acting Secretary-General U Thant weighed a small-nation appeal that he intervene in an attempt to head off a U.S.-Soviet showdown.

A committee representing 45 countries from all parts of the world called on Thant this morning and requested him to seek a standstill pending a negotiated settlement.

He was reported to have told the group he would consider the appeal.

Ambassador Zenon Rossides of Cyprus, chairman of the group, said Thant indicated he might address the 11-nation Security Council later in the day.

The small countries were called into another session to hear the committee report and to consider a possible resolution for the council.

Inside the council chamber, Venezuelan Ambassador Carlos Sosa-Rodriguez declared the Soviet weapons in Cuba were no longer defensive but were a threat to the entire hemisphere.

He demanded that the council take action to halt the shipment of offensive weapons and to dismantle the missile bases already built.

"It is sufficient," he said, "that these weapons are now in the hands of the nuclear powers themselves, and we cannot accept that they be handed over to the only Communist state in the Americas."

British delegate Sir Patrick Dean accused the Soviet Union of "calculated double dealing" and declared this is bound to cast doubt on any statements issued by the Russians.

AFFECTS ALL

He said the stationing of Soviet missiles in Cuba affects the security of the whole Western Hemisphere and cannot be tolerated.

Convinced that the council would wind up in a deadlock over opposing U. S. and Soviet resolutions, the small powers delegated Ghana, the United Arab Republic and Cyprus to ask Thant to intervene.

Many of the small nations wanted to call directly on President Kennedy to lift his arms quarantine of Cuba, but it was decided instead to address the appeal in general terms.

U. S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson yesterday urged the 11-nation Security Council to act at once before the Soviets swallow up the world piecemeal.

Stevenson charged that the flow of Soviet missiles and other offensive weapons into Cuba is a "grave threat to the Western Hemisphere and the peace of the world."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin countered that the U. S. blockade is a reckless act which brings the world to the brink of nuclear war.

He branded as "completely false" U. S. charges that the Soviet Union has based offensive missiles in Cuba.

Russ Return Edict Copy

From Our News Wires

MOSCOW—The Soviet Foreign Ministry today sent back to the U.S. Embassy a copy of President Kennedy's proclamation of an arms quarantine against Cuba, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

The embassy had delivered the document to the Foreign Ministry this morning. The Tass account did not give any reason for the return of the document but it said:

★ ★ ★

"The Soviet government pointed out in its statement of Oct. 23 that these aggressive measures constitute a crude violation of international law, the United Nations charter and a threat to universal peace."

However, observers here said the Soviet action amounted to a rejection of the U.S. blockade.

The Soviet government announced delivery of the copy of the proclamation that was officially sent back shortly after receiving it this morning. Then this afternoon the foreign ministry called an American embassy official to pick up the copy.

U.S. Embassy sources said the document had been returned without comment.

Meanwhile, expected demonstrations against the proclamation were taking place in the streets of Moscow.

A Soviet youth stoned a car carrying U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler during a protest demonstration at the American embassy against the U. S. blockade of Cuba.

Kohler's car was struck and dented by a single stone as it left the U. S. Embassy compound and drove past nearly 500 demonstrators who waved anti-American signs and shouted "Shame, shame."

The car was "only nicked and it was nothing serious," a U.S. spokesman said. The 20-year old

Haggard Predicts Success

UF Drive Nears One-Third of Goal

And there is enough momentum in the 1962 drive to boost it to the top, predicted Fred V. Haggard, general chairman of the Pontiac Area United Fund.

The total collected is $212,185. This is over 30 per cent of the goal of $706,125.

Leading the report were collections by the Industrial Division.

Its chairman, Ted Bloom, said total returns are $137,412 — or 29.3 per cent of the $467,760 division goal.

He singled out Universal Oil Seal as the first to end a company campaign.

The firm's employe pledges exceeded the $1,941 goal by 87 per cent for a total of $3,627.60, reported the firm's industrial relations manager, Ted Pearson Jr., who was drive co-chairman with Tomina Barnett, president of Local 733, UAW, AFL-CIO.

HIGHER BY 5 PCT.

The company's own gift was up 5 per cent to $765, Pearson reported.

In the women's drive, Chairman Mrs. Joseph Fox reported $13,865 or 49 per cent of the $28,214 goal collected at the midpoint of the women's 10-day house-to house drive.

Last year, the women were at 44 per cent of their goal at the same time.

Mrs. Frank S. Rulkowski, Waterford chairman, reported $4,449 or 46 per cent of the $9,597 Waterford women's goal reached.

Lake Angelus women, led by Mrs. Merle Yockey, reported 47 per cent or $1,307 of their $2,769 goal.

IN PONTIAC

Pontiac chairman, Mrs. Earl White, said the women had raised $8,110 or 51 per cent of the $15,849 goal set for Pontiac residential calls.

Bruce Annett, in charge of the Commercial Division, reports 31.8 per cent of its $190,410 goal has been reached.

He cited Bill Crick, Pontiac Mall group chairman, for employes' contributions. Outstanding, Annett said, were J. L. Hudson Budget Store employes with 1,098, and Montgomery Ward employes with $1,558.

Delay Action on State Audit

Opinion Is Awaited on Overcharge Claims

By DICK HANSON

Oakland County auditors were withholding action today on a state auditor general's directive to seek $11,073 allegedly owed the county by numerous county officials.

Chairman of the county board of auditors, John C. Austin said he was waiting for a legal opinion from the county's corporation counsel before trying to collect.

State Auditor General Billie S. Farnum contended that the officials, named in a state audit report on county books from January 1960 through July this year, overcharged the county when submitting expense accounts during this period.

His list of officials said to be involved includes the chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, Delos Hamlin, County Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry, and chief drain inspector Daryl Schuler.

Also on the list were John G. Semann, supervisor from Berkley; Elmer Johnson, Waterford Township supervisor; Frank Webber, Addison Township supervisor; and Arno Hulet, Bloom-

Dems 'Regret' JFK Had to Cancel Trip

Oakland County Democrats "regret that President Kennedy cannot be with us during this vitally important election campaign," but point out that the President's decision to cancel all political appearances during the Cuban crisis "was made in the best interests of our nation."

The statement was issued today by Sander M. Levin, chairman of the county's Democratic committee.

President Kennedy had been scheduled to visit the county Nov. 1 as part of a campaign tour in Michigan to boost the candidacies of Congressional nominees and Gov. John B. Swainson.

He said discussions are now under way with Argentine officials on the use of Argentine ships to aid in the quarantine.

De Gaulle Predicts K Will Back Down

NATO Nations Support Blockade

PARIS (AP)—France today expressed full support for the United States position in Cuba. In a communique after a cabinet meeting the government expressed its understanding of the American position in the face of "recent and growing installations of Soviet offensive armament in Cuba."

LONDON (AP)—Three of America's major cities in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization lined up today behind President Kennedy's Cuban arms quarantine. Scattered demonstrations and expressions of misgivings underlined the concern of millions.

Britain, West Germany and Italy backed the American stand. There was no official word on the French position, but it was learned in Washington that President Charles de Gaulle sent a secret message to President Kennedy supporting the United States and predicting the Soviet Union will not go to war.

'TENSE, RAW'

Foreign Secretary Lord Home, calling the situation "tense and raw," said Britain will support the United States in the United Nations "so as to try to bring the danger of this particular area under control."

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany went further. He said his country is ready to share all risks arising out of the U.S. stand. "The situation is grave and there could be repercussions in Berlin," he added.

Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani told Parliament: "Italy can not but offer its solidarity to the United States."

He indicated Italy pins its hopes on the United Nations to ease the crisis. As Fanfani spoke, left and right-wing deputies roared at each other across the chamber and all but came to blows.

American forces throughout Europe were on the alert, and the U.S. nuclear submarine depot ship Proteus slipped out of its Holy Loch base in Scotland for a secret destination.

CRITICAL COMMENT

Norway's Foreign Minister Halvard Lange called the U.S. blockade "very far-reaching in a situation where there is no war between Cuba and the United States."

★ ★ ★

In Sweden, many newspapers were critical of the American move. The liberal Expressen said: "by resorting to a blockade against a free and independent nation Kennedy has placed U.S. power interests above the principles of freedom and independence of nations."

In Denmark, Copenhagen's liberal Politiken said the American move could lead to a chain reaction. "Both sides have resorted to dangerous expedients," it warned.

Irish newspapers predicted that Kennedy's measures against Cuba almost certainly will bring Soviet reprisals, probably in Berlin.

In Belgrade, Yugoslav President Tito said a way out of the Cuban situation "can be found only in searching settlements by peaceful means and not by resting on force." He called for a solution through the United Nations. The government press condemned the quarantine as risking "a disastrous catastrophe for mankind."

The official Chinese Communist People's Daily threw Red China's support behind the Communist powers in the Cuban crisis, declaring that China's 650 million people "have always stood staunchly on the side of the Cuban people." The paper accused the United States of making long preparations for action against Cuba.

The Communist press in Iron Curtain countries and in the West was predictably outraged.

If the United States does not change its policy, said Bulgaria's government news agency, "All action will be taken to put the aggressor in a straitjacket."

Russ Return JFK's Note

Soviet youth who threw the stone was arrested by Soviet police.

It was the only outburst of violence in the demonstrations, which began at midmorning and continued until evening.

The demonstrations ended at nightfall after continuing for more than five hours.

They were not considered severe by western observers who recalled the protest at the embassy during the ill-fated Cuban invasion in April 1961 when windows were broken by stones.

The demonstrators were held about 50 yards from the embassy by Soviet militiamen, who have the duties of police. But from time to time groups of 200 or so would surge forward from their main position across the wide boulevard to a traffic island in the middle of the street or to the sidewalk in front of the embassy.

All embassy personnel except Kohler remained inside the building, behind the barred compound gates during the demonstration. The ambassador's car was struck as he drove from the embassy to his official residence, Spasso House.

The Soviet press condemned unanimously the action of the United States to block delivery of arms to Cuba and warned Washington that it was playing with fire.

Pictures in the papers showed various factory organizations gathered with banners saying "Hands off Cuba."

IN MANY FACTORIES

The protest meetings developed in numerous factories within minutes of the first radio announcement of the news of the blockade. Such meetings are organized on all such occasions, with speakers promptly on hand.

Polaris Subs Leave Base in Scotland

HOLY LOCH, Scotland (AP) — Polaris-armed submarines from the Holy Loch base and their depot ship Proteus headed a secret course into the Atlantic today after an extra-alert scramble sparked by the Cuba crisis.

★ ★ ★

Sailors on shore leave were recalled late last night and hurried to their ships in Navy trucks. By dawn the base in the Firth of Clyde was empty.

The Proteus commander, Capt. Francis Dubois, said before his ship steamed out: 'We are on an increased state of readiness but there is no curtailment of leave so far."

The Proteus' destination was a secret.

Six submarines are stationed at Holy Loch.

tion to do the job the President told them to do.

The quarantine went into effect at 9 a.m. (Pontiac time). The Pentagon announcement was made shortly after noon.

TOUGH LINE

There always was the possibility that the Soviet ships could change course at the last minute. But there was every indication they would not. Soviet officials here and in Moscow were taking a tough line.

In addition to halting arms shipments by ships, U.S. officials stressed today that "steps would be taken" to prevent Russia from bypassing the embargo by shipping nuclear warheads to Cuba by plane.

Intelligence officials presume that such warheads already are in Cuba, although they have no photographic proof of the kind which disclosed existence of 1,000-mile missile bases on the island.

But officials stressed that the medium and intermediate range missiles Russia has placed in Cuba would be "militarily meaningless" if not equipped with nuclear warheads.

The real drama of this tense day was being enacted on the high seas, where the U.S. task force awaited the arrival of the Soviet ships.

★ ★ ★

The Defense Department spokesman said the first interception could occur "in any area we see fit."

Asked whether the first ship to be halted necessarily would be a Soviet vessel, he replied: "That is where our interest is concentrated."

JFK, CABINET MEET

As the showdown neared and tension mounted, President Kennedy met with Cabinet officials and his top-level military and intelligence advisers.

Soviet officials here and elsewhere have given every indication that the Russian ships would refuse to stop or be searched.

One Russian official was said to have told a party here last night that "our ships will sail through and if it is decreed that those men must die, then they will obey their orders and stay on course or be sunk."

Some of the 25 Russian ships now en route for the test of strength with the U.S. fleet were believed to be carrying armament, possibly missiles to reinforce those already in Cuba.

Government sources and congressional leaders meanwhile reported that plans were "going forward" for a full-scale invasion of Cuba if present U.S. measures prove inadequate to neutralize the island as a threat to the United States.

★ ★ ★

It was learned that Sen. Richard B. Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, had forcefully urged Kennedy to make an immediate invasion of Cuba.

The senator, it was said, expressed his views during Monday's White House conference between Kennedy and congressional leaders.

SEES INVASION NEED

Essentially, his view was reported to be that invasion may well be a necessary action beyond the initial steps — including the quarantine — that Kennedy outlined Monday night.

★ ★ ★

Russell, it was said, argued that it would be easier and less costly in terms of casualties to make the move at once rather than waiting.

BROADCASTS WARNINGS

A few hours before the blockade took effect, the Navy broadcast radio warnings to all shipping to stand clear of the area . . . that it could become dangerous.

An invasion would be aimed at removing the 1,000-mile Soviet missiles already based in Cuba. Cuba already has reacted derisively to a U.S. proposal that the rockets be dismantled under United Nations supervision.

The President, who authorized the stop-or-be-sunk orders, met with his top aides promptly at 9 a.m. — the hour the blockade went into effect. The officials sat as an executive committee of the National Security Council.

JAMES P. DICKERSON

MSUO Creates Staff Position

James P. Dickerson to Work on Development

Associate director of Michigan State University Oakland's Continuing Education Division since last January, James P. Dickerson has been named assistant to MSUO Chancellor D. B. Varner, for university development.

★ ★ ★

Dickerson, 720 Westwood Drive, Birmingham, will take over the newly created office Nov. 1, Varner announced late yesterday.

Before joining MSUO, Dickerson was national advertising manager for The Pontiac Press.

"In his new office," Varner said, "Mr. Dickerson will coordinate all fund-raising activities for the university in terms of capital and scholarship gifts, student loan funds, library funds and other similar areas where private citizens and groups provide assistance to MSUO."

Mrs. June Matthews, who has been executive secretary of the MSUO Foundation for the past year, was named as Dickerson's colleague.

"Mrs. Matthews has been giving the staff direction in planning our scholarship program and several other such ventures," Varner noted, "and she will continue these responsibilities as part of this new office."

★ ★ ★

No successor to Dickerson's present position has been selected.

A graduate of the University of Michigan Law School, Dickerson served with publishing firms in San Francisco before coming to The Press in 1957.

Bloomfield Twp. Plans 2nd Hearing on Sewer

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Bloomfield Township Board will hold a second public hearing Nov. 13 on construction of a sanitary sewer for the Telegraph-Quarton roads area.

The second hearing is necessary, according to Township Treasurer Homer Case, because bids received for the project are higher than original cost estimates.

Low bid for the project was $20,739 plus 15 per cent for contingencies, said Case.

The figure is approximately $3,000 more than the cost estimate made by the township's engineers, Hubbell, Roth & Clark, Inc.

IN EARLY ESTIMATE

Under the previous estimate, each of the approximately 28 property owners to be served by the proposed Foxcroft Sanitary Sewer No. 133 would have been assessed $763 per lot.

★ ★ ★

In other action, the Township Board has notified the Oakland County Road Commission that it opposes plans to vacate Lincoln Road in the Westchester subdivision east of Lahser Road.

Residents of the subdivision, located south of the Oakland Golf and Country Club, had asked the county to vacate the road because they objected to increased traffic through the area.

However, Township Board members said abandonment of the road would hamper access to the area by police and firemen.

The board also voted to extend the deadline for payment of personal property tax from Jan. 20 to Feb. 14.

A 4 per cent penalty is levied on property owners who pay taxes after the deadline.

The dinner honoring television newsman John MacVane scheduled for 6:30 p.m. today at the Birmingham Community House has been canceled, it was announced this afternoon.

Dr. Marian Edman, professor of education at Wayne State university, will replace MacVane as guest speaker at the Birmingham observance of United Nations Day at 8 p.m.

The gain was shown by "flash prices," those transmitted ahead of a ticker tape that lagged as much as 36 minutes behind actual transactions. The recovery drive extended to virtually all major stock groups.

County Auditors Delay Action on Overcharge Claim

field Township supervisor and chairman pro tem of the board.

David Mayes, a certified public accountant who has been heading the state audit of county books, said these county officials have spent the money illegally but without criminal intent.

Farnum directed that they "immediately" reimburse the full amount to the county.

He also instructed the county board of auditors to prevent any further "misuse" of county funds by adopting more stringent control of the money.

★ ★ ★

Austin said the state auditor's allegations are subject to legal interpretation, and that he is waiting for an opinion from the county's legal adviser, Corporation Counsel Norman J. Barnard.

Barnard's secretary said he is expected to return to his office either later today or tomorrow.

It was on Barnard's advice that many of the expenditures were approved, Austin said.

The auditor general's report asserted that Hamlin has been paid more per diem than state law presently allows.

Mayes said Hamlin has overcharged the county $5,610 during the period involved by being paid $25 per diem instead of $15 paid other members of the board for days they attend county meetings.

POINTS TO CHANGE

The county corporation counsel's office pointed out that the board of supervisors by resolution in September 1958 raised the chairman's per diem from $10 to $25 and the per diem of all other members from $10 to $15.

The auditor general's report asserts that the state attorney general in June 1961 termed the board's action illegal in his interpretation of Michigan law.

The report also states that Hamlin collected $100 in per diem for attending the annual convention of the State Association of Supervisors at Lansing in January when he should have been reimbursed only for necessary expense entailed.

★ ★ ★

Hamlin was named along with Johnson, Hulet, Webber and Semann as having collected per diem more than once for the same day where they attended more than one meeting.

Mayes said the total amount involved for multiple meetings is $1,245.

He quoted Michigan law as stating "No supervisor shall be entitled to compensation for more than one day for any one day that the board of supervisors or any committee thereof shall be in session."

The multiple meetings, said the report, illegally netted Hamlin $945, Johnson $45, Hulet $105, and Webber and Semann, each $75.

It also states that Semann collected an additional $645 per diem for 43 legislative committee work days over the maximum 60 days a year allowed by Michigan law in 1959 and again in 1960.

MILEAGE CLAIMS

The report also claims that virtually all supervisors, Barry, Schuler, and County Board of Education personnel were paid excessive mileage in 1960 when the county rate was eight cents a mile.

State law allows only seven cents a mile, Mayes said. He said the total amount paid illegally for mileage compensation is $1,461.

Barry, who said he uses his own car for county business probably more than any other official, is deemed to have overcharged the county $740, and Schuler, his chief inspector, $213.

Mayes said these overcharges resulted when the drain commission applied a county mileage pay scale on each occasion personal cars were used instead of applying the scale on total mileage each month.

The scale used is 10 cents per mile for the first 400 miles, seven cents for the next 600 miles and five cents for over 1,000 miles each month.

The auditor general's report further charged that "excessive" and "questionable" amounts were included in travel expenses by county officials, and that county auditors should have demanded fuller explanations of such expenses before reimbursing the officials.

The report stated:

"We direct that the practice of reimbursing these questionable items (i.e. taxi fares out of town, luggage handling) of expense be discontinued immediately, and that they be deleted from the employe's travel voucher unless fully explained and supported by receipts to the satisfaction of the board of auditors.

STATE REPORT

"We further direct that the practice of one person paying for the expenses of other persons be discontinued. Each individual may claim only the amount reasonably necessary to the conduct of county business for himself."

According to the report these "questionable" expenses amounted to $345 during the 2½-year period involved.

Furthermore, the report directed the county to adopt a standardized form for listing all expenses and to establish a definite policy and set of regulations governing all travel expense reimbursements.

County auditors were directed to "fully investigate" past travel expense charges and secure reimbursements for the county of all improper claims paid.

These were listed as including a portion of hotel bills where the wife accompanied the county official, night lunches, valet and laundry service and tips and miscellaneous.

The report said these illegal charges amounted to $1,017 and were incurred by Hamlin, Barry, Royal Oak Supervisor William C. Hudson, Lloyd Sibley of the county equalization department, and Public Works Director R. J. Alexander.

The report also charged that supervisors serving on committees have illegally collected for noon meals on days where committee meetings extended into the afternoon.

The auditors were directed "to secure reimbursements from the supervisors involved." The report said the noon meals cost amounted to $443.

★ ★ ★

Mayes admitted there is no apparent criminal intent on the part of any county official or employe, "otherwise they would have attempted to conceal these things."

He said the overcharges reflect "a weakness" on the part of county auditors. "Possibly, they are too dominated by the board of supervisors," he added.

India-China Story Sound Familiar? Remember 1941?

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — An inexact but somewhat parallel exists between the current invasion of India by Red China, and Germany's surprise attack on Soviet Russia 21 years ago last June.

Adolf Hitler was then the world's greatest menace to peace, and his unquenchable appetite for expansion was shocking the civilized world. Suddenly, without a declaration of war, he struck against the nation with whom he had solemnly signed a nonaggression pact two years before.

Communist Russia, almost immediately after signing the non-aggression pact, had invaded first Poland, and then defenseless little Finland. When Russia herself was subsequently attacked, therefore, few American hearts bled for her, outside the Communist cells. The overwhelming feeling here was that Hitler and Stalin deserved each other.

Today, many Kremlinologists consider Red China an even greater menace to world peace than subverting, belligerent Russia. India, however, has repeatedly defended its aggressive neighbor, and has regularly sponsored China's admission to the "peace-loving" community of the United Nations.

* * *

Indian Defense Minister Krishna Menon, while pretending to represent a "neutral" nation, has invariably taken the side of the Communist bloc in any dispute between the captive and free worlds.

He and Premier Jawaharlal Nehru sanctimoniously preached non-aggression, and lectured the U.S. for our resumption of nuclear testing after Russia herself broke the moratorium, but it was a different story when India coveted another's territory.

Without warning last spring, Indian troops suddenly poured across the border into Portuguese Goa and captured it by force. Nehru blandly took little notice of free world outrage, and Menon shrieked vituperation at American newsmen who sought to interview him about it.

TABLES TURNED

Now it is Nehru who is piteously crying, "Foul", and foul, indeed, it is. This is no frontier skirmish, such as has been going on for sime time between India and its bellicose neighbor, but a massive Red Chinese military drive to seize the rugged mountainous region which could command Indian defense posts.

The present advance is on at least three fronts, and the wily Chinese obviously have logistics and superior fire power on their side. Ordinarily India could count on neighboring Pakistan for support, since their common interests are involved.

Nehru, however, has succeeded in emnitizing Pakistan over Kashmir, a territory which like Pakistan is predominantly Moslem. Both nations claimed Kashmir at the time of their partition, but despite a United Nations resolution calling for a plebiscite, Nehru has held on and stubbornly refused to permit one.

Since India is a vital part of the free world community, and the most important democracy in Asia, Westerners will naturally hope that a quick end is put to the Red Chinese aggression.

Certainly our sympathies would be deeper and more spontaneous, however, if Nehru had not so frequently bitten the American hand that has been feeding him many billions of foreign aid dollars.

His ingratitude has been a classic example of how to lose friends and alienate people. Congress became so aroused by his penchant for taking our aid money, but shopping in Russia for fighter planes and other military hardware, that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted this summer to strike India from our aid program. Only an urgent appeal from President Kennedy restored the funds.

By far the greater evil is warmongering Red China, however, and the vile persecutions of its own population would have given even the satanic Hitler some new ideas.

World wars have been sparked by lesser incidents than this undeclared border war between two Asiatic powers, and if the United Nations is unable to take effective action to halt this one, the organization is an expensive luxury indeed.

Parakeet Aids Keeper of Mustang

DETROIT (UPI) — A parakeet helped the Ford Motor Co. protect a Mustang it was shipping to the West Coast and back, it was reported today.

The firm wanted to fly its experimental sports model, the Mustang, to the Laguna Seca Race Course in California for a demonstration, but also wanted to send a mechanic along to watch the car so it wouldn't be damaged.

No go, Ford was told because you can't send passeners on cargo planes, but the law provides that if you have an animal you can send a keeper along with it.

So Ford bought a parakeet and named mechanic James R. Augenstein, 31, of Wyandotte, as the birds keeper although his real duties were to watch the Mustang car.

* * *

Thus, the airline manifest listed from Ford: 2 tool crates (400 lbs.); 4 cartons brochures (200 lbs.); 1 auto (1,544 lbs.); 1 parakeet in cage and 1 keeper (210 lbs.).

Augenstein returned today from California with the car and the parakeet.

Poland Makes Bid for Nuclear Treaty

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Poland appealed yesterday for renewed emphasis on reaching a nuclear war test ban treaty in light of mounting world tensions over Cuba.

* * *

Joseph Winiewicz, Poland's Deputy foreign minister, cited the U.S. quarantine of Cuba as the General Assembly's 109-nation main Political Committee met to continue its debate on nuclear testing.

He urged delegates "not to be deflected by the international crisis perpetrated last Monday night by the United States."

Norge Move Hurts Muskegon, Helps Arkansas Town

(Editor's Note — What is one community's gain often means heartbreak for another — when a factory relocates in a new territory. That is the story of the move of the Norge division of the Borg-Warner Corp. last year from Muskegon, Mich. to Fort Smith, Ark.)

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—The wedding of Borg-Warner Corp.'s huge Norge division and this one-time frontier city promises, after a year, to become a long, happy marriage.

Fort Smith is ready, willing and eager for other industrial giants to cast interested eyes in this direction.

Fort Smith, which won fame as a jumping off place to Oklahoma Territory, is playing a new role as a landing place for industry.

The 2,100 jobs created at Norge's $20-million plant are among 6,500 collected by Fort Smith in the past two years.

BIG EFFECT

Norge was the big one, and city officials say Borg-Warner's decision to move here from Muskegon, Mich., may have a long-range effect far more beneficial than its physical contribution of jobs and an estimated $10-million annual payroll.

★ ★ ★

"Norge's coming here was a tremendous thing for the prestige of our city," says Mayor Bob Brooksher. "It has caused other industries to come here."

Collier Wenderoth Jr., a poultry processing and feed executive who heads Fort Smith's aggressive Chamber of Commerce, says location of Borg-Warner here has created a new pride and enthusiasm among citizens.

BOOSTED SPIRIT

Since Norge came, Fort Smith voters have approved a $2:1-million bond issue for new schools and $1.5 million for a civic auditorium by votes of 10 to 1.

The massive task of retraining more than 2,000 factory workers is over. Of the 1,800 persons employed by Norge at Muskegon, 100 supervisory personnel and about 50 production workers made the move to Fort Smith. About 20 of these have returned to Michigan.

Plant manager Ken Anderson says the training program presented no great difficulty.

LEARNED READILY

"Our new employes learned readily," he says. "One of the key factors in our decision to locate here was the pool of available manpower."

★ ★ ★

Anderson would not discuss the wage scales, since the company is negotiating with the same union which organized its workers at Muskegon. "But we pay as well as corresponding industries in this area," he said.

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — "There must be some reason they won't hire us. I wish I knew what it is."

This is the frustration still echoed by a hard core of some 350 veteran workers seeking other employment here since their jobs were among 1,800 lost by the move of Borg-Warner Corp. Norge division to Fort Smith, Ark.

ONE OF MANY

Norge offered a limited number of transfers to skilled personnel but had only about 50 takers. Most declined to move because of strong ties to this area and a willingness to take their chances on finding new jobs.

★ ★ ★

"I run into many others like myself," says Pickard. "Some tell me that if they knew circumstances would be such, they would have taken transfers."

★ ★ ★

BIG PROBLEM

Michigan Employment Security Commission branch spokesmen agree that placing older Norge workers has been a major problem. Recently the commission posted a call for foundry help. The age limit for prospective employes was 40.

★ ★ ★

"On the other hand," Pickard continues, "there's this federal retraining program. You've got a 55-year age limit there and no doubt even that is too old because industry wouldn't hire you once you did graduate."

Greater Muskegon was lifted this summer from the ranks of distressed employment areas. Security commission figures Aug. 9 showed unemployment down to about 4.3 per cent of the total work force.

LONG WAY OFF

Hiring by several other Muskegon industrial firms has taken up a sizable number of younger ex-Norge employes.

But it still is a long way from replacing Norge's annual payroll of $9 to $13 million and tax revenue of about $214,000. Muskegon Heights cut its 1962 operating budget $100,000 to cope with the loss of Norge tax payments.

For the "tragic 300," however, little hope shines.

"A few of them were fortunate to find industrial jobs in other cities nearby," says Pickard. "Some have found jobs as sweepers or elevator operators."

★ ★ ★

Greater Muskegon is turning to other means of attracting revenue to help offset the Norge plant loss. Muskegon Heights industrialist C. J. Buehrle has completed negotiations for purchasing the plant which will be razed in part to permit construction of a shopping center.

State Expenditures Higher Than Income

LANSING (AP)—Income into the state treasury totaled some $24.6 million during the week ending Oct. 21, and expenditures for the same period totaled some $33.9 million, treasurer Sanford A. Brown reports.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy Gets U.S. Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House reported a deluge of more than 4,000 telegrams about the President's speech on Cuba, with comments running about 12 to 1 in favor of Kennedy's stand.

★ ★ ★

Tourists still were being allowed to go through the White House, but under new precautions set up by the Secret Service. All cameras and packages now must be checked in outside the east gate where the White House tour starts.

★ ★ ★

Missionaries in Trouble Over Segregation at Home

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP) — There was a knock on the door of a U.S. Protestant mission-ary in Brazil.

THE OXFORD STORY

This incident was related to churches in many countries who gathered here this week for a consultation on world missions.

* * *

They agreed that racial clashes in the United States send shock waves of dismay and apprehension around the world.

Many of those attending asserted that such incidents as Little Rock, Ark., and Oxford, Miss., damage mission work.

Preaching a gospel of brotherly love in other lands, they said, is frustrated by evidences of inability to live together at home.

Others reported that such news, given wide and prominent display everywhere, encourages anti-American sentiment but does not affect the response to missions.

PRACTICE GOSPEL

The lesson for U.S. Christians, the church leaders said, is that the gospel they preach abroad must be practiced at home.

On the other side of the coin, the churchmen agreed that progress in race relations is a helpful and hopeful sign.

The gathering here represented church leaders and missionaries in the nine countries where the Presbyterian Church, U. S. (Southern) is active. They met to recommend ways to shape the mission program to a changing world.

* * *

While U.S. racial difficulties was not a formal topic for discussion, the group went on record as citing its damage to mission work.

* * *

A missionary in the Congo said Negro citizens of the new republic are keenly interested in what happens in U.S. race relations.

"Their attitude," he said, "is that Americans have such a mess in their own backyard, why are they wasting their time trying to straighten out our problems?"

Jose Luis Velasco of Mexico City said reports of U.S. racial troubles are distressing to Protestant church members there, and is a definite handicap to mission efforts.

"It confuses and obscures the message of the gospel," said Velasco, who is secretary of Christian education for the National Presbyterian Church of Mexico.

"We can't understand why such race prejudice should be demonstrated in a so - called Christian country," he declared. "People say, 'If they can't get along with those in their own country, how can they tell us to love each other?' "

In Japan, people also are puzzled by U.S. race disorders. "They think of America as the highest country in the world. They do not understand how such things can happen there," said the Rev. Isaku Tanaka of Kyoto.

QUESTIONS ASKED

A Methodist bishop from the Deep South was touring Japan at the time of a racial disorder in his state. "He was asked a lot of questions," smiled the Rev. Mr. Tanaka.

However, he doubted there was damage to mission work in Japan, although he acknowledged that U.S. prestige suffers.

Courteously, Mr. Tanaka offered the comment that Japan has its problems of class discriminations.

Questions greeted Dr. James J. Thomas of New York, an official of the Board of World Missions of the Reformed Church in America, when he toured the Far East early this year.

"Perhaps because of my race," said Dr. Thomas, a Negro, "Asians talked to me more freely."

* * *

The reaction he found to U.S. racial troubles, he said, was "a certain amount of apprehension. They kind of look over the missionary's shoulder, and take a peek at us over here."

To questioners, he said he replied: "We are bound together by the love of God in Christ . . . in which there is neither slave nor free, Jew nor Greek."

To fellow members of the Reformed Church, Dr. Thomas added, "I preach the oneness of mission. What we do overseas is not separate and distinct from the gospel we preach at home."

While racial difficulties in this country are unfortunate and harm the U.S. image abroad, the Rev. Oton Guanais Dourado of Recife doubted any damage is done to mission work in his area of Brazil.

ROME (AP)—Rightist students by the hundreds demonstrated briefly yesterday before the U.S. embassy, shouting praise for President Kennedy's blockade order in the Cuban crisis.

"Viva Kennedy," they cried.

Several distributed pamphlets that said "No to Communism." The pamphlets were signed "Young Monarchists."

A few skirmishes broke out when police tried to clear the students from in front of the embassy.

Crucial Days Ahead for Fifth Republic

Governmental instability in newly formed states or in those where the governing power is traditionally prostituted by self-serving tyrants, is pretty much taken for granted. But it is a source of concern when one of the major nations of the world appears unable to establish reasonably sound and continuous national administration.

★ ★ ★

We are thinking of France, now in her fifth try as a republican form of government.

Because she has such a multiplicity of political parties, no single one ever has political control of the country. The executive branch, therefore, can exist and function only through coalition support.

Such coalitions usually are born of either dangerously critical internal conditions, or threat from without, affecting national security.

CHARLES DE GAULLE and the government, backed by a new constitution, came into power in 1958 when chaos and disunity threatened the very existence of France as a responsible state.

But, with the gradual abatement of the crisis which was met and resolved, the parliamentary body began reverting to the old disunity of factions motivated by party philosophies and personal greed and ambition.

Now, in an effort to strengthen the constitution, DE GAULLE proposes a democratizing change whereby presidents would be elected by popular vote rather than by the present privileged electorate of 80,000 parliamentarians and municipal and department (state) officials.

The change was voted down in an all-night National Assembly session when only 28 Deputies outside of DE GAULLE'S own UNR party stuck with the government. A parliamentary vote of censure followed, which toppled the Premier and his government from power.

The President then dissolved the Assembly and, under constitutional authority, called a referendum on the amendment for Oct. 28, to be followed by a general election on a date to be set in November.

Followers of DE GAULLE fear that, while the referendum has a good chance of favorable outcome, he himself may be defeated in the general election—mainly because he is vigorously and patriotically promoting the issue of the referendum, but seems indifferent to his own political fate. His defeat could have catastrophic repercussions for France and the free world.

With so much at stake for the country and its people in the trying days ahead, we resurrect the aphorism: "Four million Frenchmen can't be wrong," to express the hope that their infallibility will be maintained.

Will 'His-Her' Lakes Be Vogue in Future?

How are you fixed for lakes?

Where once the boon of private ownership of a lake was confined to an opulent few, recent scientific development has given rise to a new and bourgeoning business—lake-making.

Water, even in arid areas, was never the main problem in coming up with a personal lake. It can always be obtained by deep drilling. But the hitherto unsolved problem in these do-it-yourself marine projects was to hang onto the water.

It seeped out about as fast as you put it in.

To line an artificial lake with clay was unsatisfactory — the material breaks up under water after a time. And cement was too expensive.

Now a concern—Palco—will apply a wafer-thin, seep-proof layer of polyethylene to the bottom, and presto!—you have yourself a lake.

You'll be able to order lakes in all sizes—from a junior, backyard job up to 20, 80 or 100 acres. The 20-acre job runs $45,000. If you want water in your lake, that'll come extra.

★ ★ ★

One thing seems certain. The private lake as a status symbol is washed up.

Soon, a home without its private lake will be as outmoded as a wood-burning locomotive. And who knows? With the American zest for duplicate convenience, the vision of two-lake families is no mirage.

ABOUT all a person who sits around and waits for his ship to come in gets is a couple of oversized corns.

UAW Man on Cook's Tour to See What's Cooking

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

Interesting were the recollections of Fisher Body Local 596 President of 599 Lennox, as a member of the UAW President's five-week European tour.

Gerald (Jerry) Kehoe

The group of 35 visited West Germany, France, Sweden and England. Industry and techniques were studied at first-hand, with conclusion that production and methods in those countries were abreast of the most modern employed in the U.S.

The travelers were received by top political and industrial figures in all countries visited and extended a warm welcome. A highlight was witnessing the signal honor paid Lucius D. Clay on Independence Day, when the former World War II General and American Military Governor in West Germany, under whose regime the Berlin air lift was successfully carried out, flew there for the ceremony.

Two lingering notes of the chat: Of the countries visited, the journeyer, who is heading his local for an unprecedented third term would prefer Sweden as a place to live; and the prediction that Willy Brandt, presently mayor of West Berlin, will succeed Adenauer as Chancellor of West Germany.

A pair was seen on the shore of a lake in Waterford Township in mid-September. They stayed a short time and have not been seen since. It was thought that they were migrating, since the species is native to the Western prairies, especially in Canada—where the Northern Phalarope breeds in the Arctic region, and is smaller than the Wilson.

David Lawrence Says:

Bravo, JFK! What Took So Long?

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy is to be commended for doing his duty in the Cuban situation. His announcement of policy was phrased in unequivocal and positive terms.

But the big mystery is why the same action wasn't taken sooner, and why for nearly two months now the Country was led to believe the Monroe Doctrine was "outmoded" and that the United States couldn't very well act in Cuba without embarrassing itself in Berlin and Western Europe.

LAWRENCE

At last, however, the similarities have been clarified as between defensive steps taken by the United States and her allies in Europe against potential aggression and defensive steps now being taken against the Soviet Union's conspicuous aggression in the Western Hemisphere.

Abandoning a policy that did not include a single public protest against what the Moscow government was doing, the United States now expresses itself emphatically and tells the world that the Soviets have been lying about their maneuvers inside Cuba.

This is a startling change in the situation, and the full disclosure by the President will be welcomed throughout America.

But why didn't the United States act earlier? It certainly had the principal facts about the Soviet build-up of military weapons inside Cuba.

This correspondent received early on Monday of this week a letter dated Oct. 18 from an aeronautical engineer of wide knowledge and wartime experience who had been pleading with the Government here for weeks to analyze realistically the information available on the missile build-up in Cuba. In his letter the engineer said:

"The means for delivery of nuclear weapons are already now in Cuba in the form of more than 100 MIG fighters. Two hundred more fighters are under delivery or planned for delivery.

LITTLE DIFFERENCE

"The only difference between a fighter aircraft and a fighter bomber is a bomb rack which, in the case of the two MIG models, can be mounted in a matter of minutes.

"Both aircrafts can carry nuclear bombs of a size two to three times as big as the Polaris warhead over distances which, scaled from Cuba, would put New York, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Kansas City, Oklahoma City, Fort Worth, Dallas, San Antonio and therefore most of the heavily populated portion of the United States within their reach.

"To the south the Panama Canal in its entire length is also in easy reach of these fighter bombers."

The engineer also pointed out that a defense against this type of attack is difficult because low-flying aircraft cannot be tracked by long-range radar. He added:

"Every deeper bay of the Cuban island is a launching site needing no preparation. Commercial ships can hoist them overboard and launch them. . . . The range of the advanced Golem II covers most of the eastern United States and the Panama Canal."

The President in his Monday night speech said that "the first preliminary hard information" came late Tuesday morning, Oct. 16.

Dr. Wayne Brandstadt Says:

Cholestorol Level Curb Method Is Discovered

Since science found a possible relationship between the level of cholesterol in the blood and hardening of the arteries, there has been a feverish race to find ways of reducing this level.

BRANDSTADT

A diet that is low in cholesterol accomplishes little, if anything, because the body synthesizes its own cholesterol.

The fact remains, however, that some persons do have a higher cholesterol level than others.

For these persons a safe means of reducing this level would be a blessing. The best method so far discovered is the use of large doses of niacin which is a part of the vitamin B complex.

Dr. W. B. Parsons, an energetic young doctor in Madison, Wis., writing in the "Archives of Internal Medicine," states that he used this preparation on a series of 50 subjects who had blood cholesterol levels above normal.

20 PER CENT LOWER

In the first 12 weeks there was a general reduction of the cholesterol level of 20 per cent.

This brought the level nearly down to the upper limit of normal.

Other fatty elements in the blood also were reduced. Further treatment with even larger doses further reduced the cholesterol level to within the normal range.

A switch to nicotinamide, a related compound, or giving an inert substance allowed a return of the cholesterol level to that observed before treatment with niacin was started.

★ ★ ★

Two subjects who had cholesterol deposits in their skin found that these deposits were greatly reduced in size while they were on the treatment.

There is some evidence that reducing a high cholesterol level will retard hardening of arteries in rabbits, but as yet there is no proof that it has a beneficial effect in man.

For this reason the person taking niacin for this purpose and his doctor must understand that they are taking part in an experiment.

Ike Fights Back

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

Assailing President Kennedy's "dreary foreign record" as "too sad to talk about," former President Eisenhower has replied in kind to attacks which have been made on him by his successor in the White House.

It was the most spirited speech Mr. Eisenhower has so far made since he decided to participate in the congressional campaign because he is "deeply involved in this election." But all along he has shown more zest for campaigning than he ever did while president.

Is it partly because he now realizes that one of the "biggest mistakes" of his political career was in not campaigning more vigorously for Richard Nixon in 1960? Or is it mostly because he is increasingly resentful of the attacks on his record by "callow youth"?

★ ★ ★

What provoked his counter-blast at Mr. Kennedy in his home town of Boston, certainly, was the attack the President had made on him in his home state of Pennsylvania last month.

At a fund-raising dinner in Harrisburg, Mr. Kennedy had said — without mentioning Mr. Eisenhower's name—that when he took his inaugural oath "the nation's engines were idling" and "around the world the picture was dreary."

He also said that before he took office the Communists had already taken over Cuba but claimed that under his Administration "the decline in our position had been reversed."

★ ★ ★

On this score, Mr. Eisenhower might well have asked some embarrassing questions, but instead he chose to answer Mr. Kennedy by citing his own record.

Reviewing the global crises he had had to face — Korea, Trieste, Quemoy and Matsu, Lebanon and Guatemala — Mr. Eisenhower could say:

"In those eight years we lost no inch of ground to tyranny. We witnessed no abdication of responsibility. We accepted no compromise of pledged word or withdrawal from principle.

"No walls were built. No threatening foreign bases were established."

It is not a happy thing to have a controversy between the President and a former President over who did what and who didn't in foreign affairs injected into a congressional election.

But Mr. Eisenhower is everlastingly right in saying that when such charges are made by "the President himself" for purely political purposes the advisability of continued silence is questionable.

He has done himself, his party and the country a service by setting this record straight.

Economy Ignored

New York Herald Tribune

The electoral campaign is being waged this fall with remarkably little reference to what must matter almost more than anything else to the voters — the state of the economy.

Its state is highly uncertain. In many places, unemployment is a critical problem. Business complains about a profit squeeze restricting investment and growth shows no signs of upward movement. Consumer spending is high for the moment, but the economic pundits are say that a tax cut next year is a necessity.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

During his 1960 campaign, the then Senator Kennedy repeatedly made the point that our national growth rate was far below what it should be and that the American economy was in danger of stagnation.

★ ★ ★

But the remedies he chose to apply have not been effective, and the great resurgence simply is not there. Again there is talk of another recession this winter.

Voice of the People:

Directs Letter to Elderly on Medicare Program

Our elderly people who relate President Kennedy and his medicare program in the Michigan gubernatorial race are being selfish without realizing it.

★ ★ ★

General Motors Insurance Program booklet reads: "If any state or federal legislation is in effect or is enacted or amended to provide disability, hospital, surgical or medical expense benefits similar to those described in this booklet, appropriate adjustments may be made in the provisions of the program."

★ ★ ★

Only the elderly of today might benefit by medicare but once enacted it will be forever. Oldsters of tomorrow pay for medical care through hospitalization and will not need medicare. The life span has risen because of doctors' dedication. If this incentive is removed, will our life span go down? Are we to sacrifice our private enterprise for socialized government?

'Socialistic Nations Get Along Well'

I wish "Pontiac Township" would tell me what is so wrong with socialism? All the socialist countries are doing fine. They have full employment and their people are taken care of. With all our tax money sent overseas we could have medical care for our people. Aren't we entitled to it? It would relieve a lot of tension. How about the letter from a decent "unemployed" family man?

★ ★ ★

If we had more socialistic ideas maybe we would have less crime and mental illness. Both stem from insecurity and worry.

★ ★ ★

Socialism doesn't lead to communism. Not one socialistic country was taken over by Communists. People are satisfied, happy and healthy.

This Young Man Learned Hard Way

My son was running away from home and hitched a ride with five boys who beat him and left him lying on a railroad track. He staggered into a bar and the people asked him to leave. A cab driver took him to the hospital. I always told my boy that the devil would kick him when he was down and the people in that bar proved it.

Study Care, Cost Patterns of Hospitals

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The University of Michigan has launched a nationwide study of changing patterns in hospital care and costs.

The study, conducted by the bureau of hospital administration of the U. of M. Graduate School of Business Administration, is being financed by the American Medical Association.

The study will determine the trends in hospital use since 1946, as reflected in changes of the characteristics of patients and in patterns and costs of care for specific illnesses, said project director Thomas B. Fitzpatrick.

It will be aimed, he said, at answering the following questions: — How was the hospital population changed since 1946 in age, sex and diagnostic composition?

—What changes in the way patients are cared for have been brought about by Medical advances?

—What impact have these changes had on hospital costs?

Don't Worry, Tax Form Won't Be Late

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Being a natural born joy-spreader, I believe in doing all I can do to cheer people up.

This is what prompted me to attend the unveiling of the new federal income tax forms.

The forms won't be used until next year, but I thought it might make everyone feel better to start thinking about them now.

* * *

Internal Revenue Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin evidently thought so, too, for he held a news conference this week to introduce the new forms and put everybody in a happy frame of mind.

* * *

Caplin began by giving "assurance that 65-million taxpayers will receive them in plenty of time to meet the April 15, 1963, deadline."

This should dispel the fear some of you may have had that the forms would not be available and that you would consequently not be able to pay your taxes next year.

I'm sure that knowing the forms will be sent to you at the usual time takes a load off your mind.

On the other hand, some of you may not have known there was any doubt about this. I didn't either until Caplin mentioned it.

He explained that the revenue service couldn't go to press with the new forms until Congress adjourned, the presses at the government printing office being tied up in printing the Congressional Record.

* * *

Congress was late adjourning this year, which presented "special problems." But fortunately the service was able to surmount them.

An indication of how ably it handled the crisis may be seen in the fact that the new forms were unveiled within a fortnight after Congress adjourned.

ONLY SIMPLIFIED

Actually, there is not much new about the forms except that they have been "simplified" again.

This generally means that you will have to hire an additional accountant to figure them out for you.

When the revenue service "simplifies" a tax form, it reduces the amount of information that must be included on the form.

In other words, instead of writing it on the form, the taxpayer writes it on a separate sheet of paper and attaches it to the form.

I don't have the space here to describe the new forms in detail, but I will say, in line with my cheer up policy, that we all have something to look forward to.

An estimated 25,000 American communities depend entirely upon highways and trucks for transportation.

Canadian Students Protest U. S. Move

* * *

McGill student Paul Jones, spokesman for the group, said "we are not Cubans or Communists, but Canadian and American citizens who feel that halting shipping operations to Cuba will undoubtedly mean war."

The picketers handed out circulars calling the U.S. action "arbitrary and illegal by the standards of international law."

Nixon's Comeback a Tough Fight for a Tough Fighter

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — Richard Nixon picked a book off his library shelf, stepped to a sunny window, leafed through to the passage he wanted.

The book was "The Guns of August," a touted new study by Barbara Tuchman of the critical first month of World War I. The lines dealt with the way France's General Joffre met the test. Nixon read aloud:

"What went on behind that opaque exterior he never showed. If he owed his composure to a failure of imagination, that was fortunate for France.

"Ordinary men, Clausewitz wrote, become depressed by a sense of danger and responsibility; if these conditions are to 'lend wings to strengthen the judgment, there must be present unusual greatness of soul.'

"If danger did not strengthen Joffre's judgment, it did call forth a certain strength of soul or character. When ruin was all around him, he maintained an even tenor, a stolid control . . ."

The former vice president turned to his afternoon guests and spoke for himself:

"I think that captures the essence of great leadership better than anything I ever read."

Nixon's delight in that excerpt seemed symptomatic of his evident yearning for the places of power he knew for 14 years. He cannot forget that he came within a few dozen electoral votes of winning the highest post of leadership open to free men — the U.S. presidency.

Now he is just a private citizen, contending for a governorship. At a vigorous 49, richly background-ed in national and world affairs, he moves along the "comeback trail," fighting for a new place in the political world that already has given him so much.

★ ★ ★

No one questions that he could make a superb living practicing law. He proudly shows off his beautiful new home, a sprawling white contemporary set high on a hill and fringed with 11 old olive trees brought from the Whittier area where he was raised.

Scanning the spectacular view of the city and ocean, a visitor asked:

"Why do you want to give all this up for Sacramento?"

Nixon fended that off with a joking response. The real answer emerges when he plants himself on a sofa, comfortable in a dark red (non-) smoking jacket, and dwells on the tactics and technicalities of his current campaign to unseat Democratic Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown.

Politics is the only life he really cares about. His judgments, of his own and other races, crackle with the professional's zest.

He can say fairly that California, soon to be the country's most populous and perhaps most powerful state, offers immense challenges to a chief executive. Its governorship also conveys great pivotal political power in the naming and making of presidents.

Yet Nixon has learned that California, for all its size and diversity, is not the nation in smaller focus.

CAUGHT UP IN GROWTH

Californians generally do not exhibit the interest Nixon does in the problems beyond their borders. They are caught up in the dynamics of their own growth and in the pleasures their climate and natural setting make possible so lavishly.

★ ★ ★

"I'm having to adjust my sights," he says.

He is also having to put himself through an extremely strenuous campaign. California, 1,000 miles long and 200 miles wide, tests the mettle of even the hardiest office seeker.

Seven times this fall, Nixon is submitting himself to exhausting three-hour telethons, in which voters bombard him by telephone with up to 150 questions.

Watching his solitary figure as he hunched over the microphone in a deserted room and dutifully plodded through his text, the reporter could not help but reflect on the distance which lay between Nixon and the presidential goal his fingers almost touched two years ago.

★ ★ ★

AMONG THE PEOPLE

Comments a California political veteran:

"He's gone back to the Nixon of 1950, when he ran for the Senate. He's getting out among the people the way a presidential candidate seldom can."

★ ★ ★

He likes to hear people say they saw him on one of his television appearances. Knowing he needs thousands of Democratic votes to win, he gets a special kick out of hearing Democrats say they'll vote for him. He replies:

★ ★ ★

Nixon says he is more relaxed than in the presidential scramble, but he still betrays signs of tenseness at important moments. When a telethon or some other big event impends, he cancels all other activities and closets himself to prepare and to save his voice.

Painfully aware of 1960 criticism that he was too often inaccessible to the press, he makes a habit of now arranging frequent background sessions, some in his home.

WOULD END CAREER?

These days nearly every dispatch reporting Nixon's campaign begins:

This is indeed a widely voiced thought, both in California and beyond. Still, some observers are daring to suggest that defeat in the California governorship race might not end his political career for all time.

He could try for the U.S. Senate seat held by Democrat Sen. Clair Engle, who comes up in 1964.

Some years back, a Washington observer, noting Nixon's rise to vice president after six short years in politics, suggested only half in jest that — with today's advances in geriatrics — he might still be on the political scene when the 21st Century dawns.

Soon California will decide and the country will learn whether that career has been only briefly interrupted in midstream or given a possibly permanent setback.

Nixon himself talks as if he were prepared for anything. To some lads who greeted him at an agricultural fair he said:

"They give me a rough time. But I'm tougher than some. I can take it."

Shoring Up Courthouse as It's Falling Apart

CHEBOYGAN (AP) — Cheboygan County apparently has begun shoring up its courthouse in the nick of time. A wall section some 4-by-10 feet collapsed and fell into a courtroom yesterday.

Workmen were busy elsewhere replacing bricks which had crumbled because of water leakage into the walls.

Despite the collapse and the crumbling bricks, a contractor said the 1898 courthouse was in no immediate serious danger.

Barnett Backs JFK on Cuba Situation

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Gov. Ross Barnett wired President Kennedy yesterday that Mississippians "join in a firm stand on the Cuban situation."

"Efforts to stop all Communistic attempts to destroy our American heritage and constitutional government should have the positive support of every American and likewise attention of our full military forces, if necessary," Barnett's telegram said.

10-Year 'Beer War' Is Ended in Munich

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — Legislators ended a 10-year "Bavarian Beer War" yesterday by reviving a 1516 order of Duke Wilhelm IV prohibiting the production of "Sweet Beer."

★ ★ ★

Bavarian beer, the legislators decreed, may consist of malt, hops, yeast and water, but no sugar.

Prince Rainier, Grace Resume Paris Vacation

MONACO (UPI) — Prince Rainier and Princess Grace left for Paris by train yesterday to resume the vacation they cut short when Monaco's crisis with France erupted two weeks ago.

The royal couple and their children were expected to stay in Paris for 10 to 15 days.

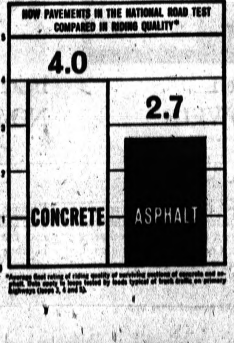
Concrete and asphalt were tested side by side on 5 loops in the recent National Road Test, sponsored by the American Association of State Highway Officials. Loaded trucks traveled 17 million miles over the hundreds of pavement test sections.

At the end of test (two years of traffic), the surviving sections were measured for riding quality. Concrete averaged "very good." Asphalt averaged "fair."

It's with good reason that concrete is preferred for important roads such as state, primary routes. The low upkeep cost of concrete saves taxpayers money year after year.



*Average final rating of riding quality of surviving portions of concrete and asphalt test sections, as rated by team typical of road users on primary highways (rank 1, 2 and 3).

Police Seek Pair in Fraud

Federal Warrants Are Issued for State Men

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Federal warrants were authorized yesterday for two Battle Creek men sought in an alleged attempted bilking of a Grand Rapids bank through bogus sales of mobile homes.

Jack G. Neate and Arnold Justice were cited for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution on Kent County warrants in connection with the alleged swindle involving more than $27,000.

Loughrin's office claims Justice fraudulently obtained $27,038 from Old Kent Bank & Trust Co. which had accepted conditional sales contracts and mortgages on seven mobile home purchases. The purchasers under such arrangement would pay the bank instead of Justice.

A routine check by the bank discovered that the transactions were fake.

PAYMENT REFUSED

Bank officials said payment on cashiers checks issued to Justice has been refused. Reports were, however, that the checks had been honored at the Bank of Lansing and the American Bank & Trust Co., also of Lansing.

Loughrin's office said Justice apparently was operating with Neate in similar types of bogus transactions victimizing Associates Discount Corp. of Battle Creek.

One source reported that the finance firm purchased contracts from Neate in the amount of $30,000. The money allegedly represented 12 mobile homes purchased Oct. 10 and 12 in Battle Creek.

The firm has filed legal proceedings in Calhoun County Circuit Court to recover the loss. It also has filed a writ of attachment and a writ of garnishment to freeze Neate's $60,000 account in Michigan National Bank at Battle Creek.

Uruguay Is Unique in Politics and Religion

(Editor's Note — Evangelist Billy Graham is on a preaching tour of Latin America. He has agreed to write his impressions for UPI.)

By BILLY GRAHAM
Written for UPI

MONTEVIDEO — For the last ten days we have been in the little republic of Uruguay. It is the smallest of the South American countries, about the size of North Dakota, but politically and socially one of the most unique in the world.

* * *

It is called the Switzerland of Latin America, because of her neutrality, her reputation for stable government, and her usually healthy economy.

Uruguay is noted for its pastoral scenery, its broad beaches, and its capital, Montevideo, which is known as the Paris of Latin America. Montevideo is a city of startling beauty, set like a sparkling jewel on the River Plate, with over a million population.

There is a gay European atmosphere that reminds one of Paris, Copenhagen or Stockholm. Because of its highly publicized freedoms, Montevideo has become a center of Communist espionage for Latin America.

TEMPERATE CLIMATE

Montevideo is the same latitude as Charlotte, N. C. But because it is surrounded by much water, the climate is temperate. Being in the south temperature zone, its coldest month is June, and its warmest January.

Cars are outrageously expensive here. Compact cars sell here for $6,000. Consequently, the Uruguayans keep the old jalopies running, and old vintage Model T's and Model A's are a common sight.

Uruguayans are noted for their banking and financial prowess. Brazilian and Argentine businessmen who fear for the future of their own economy have been putting their money in the banks and businesses of Uruguay.

* * *

However, in the last few months, the situation has undergone great change. Many people fear that if Argentina and Brazil collapse, so will little Uruguay.

A few political leaders are calling loudly for a common market in South America that would unite Chile, Argentina and Uruguay. These countries are European in culture, with a common language, common racial background and common economic problems.

Many feel that such a union would help salvage the southern part of South America, and create a strong force in the world. Religiously, Uruguay is one of the most materialistic and anticlerical countries in Latin America and the official newspaper of one of the political parties always prints the word "God" with a small "g."

* * *

Atheism, agnosticism and religious scepticisms have a larger hold here than anywhere else in Latin America. The greatest problem facing both Catholic and Protestant churches is apathy.

One missionary told us that the "welfare state" has given them a material security that makes God immaterial.

The people seem to feel satisfied with their lot in life and do not seem to feel the need of a religious faith, for the most part.

However, that too is changing. The people of Uruguay are beginning to see the handwriting on the wall. The pressures that are being felt in the rest of Latin America are being felt as well, and this is having its religious repercussion.

GREAT RESPONSE

Although the Protestants are relatively small in number, the largest stadium in Montevideo was filled to capacity on both evenings I preached. The manager said to me:

"This is one of the few times we have ever seen this arena filled for any event."

Television and radio were made available to us, and I was able to preach to the entire nation. This had never happened before in the history of Protestantism in this country. The response was overwhelming.

Hundreds of people confessed Christ and professed conversion. Among them were many leaders such as doctors, lawyers, businessmen and ranchers. Thousands of these people had parents and grandparents who had faith in God, but the second and third generation had lost it in the limbo of a comfortable material security.

* * *

These meetings were used to call thousands back to the faith of their fathers. One afternoon, I preached in the main plaza of the city, with radio and television carrying the sermon to the country.

Thousands gathered and listened intently to a message they had all but forgotten.

One outstanding business man came up to me and said "When you lifted your Bible and started quoting it, I felt almost a shock as I began to realize how far we in Uruguay had gotten away from religious faith."

As we left little Uruguay, squeezed in by her big neighbors, I could not help wonder how much longer she would be able to keep her historic way of life, and her freedom.

I tried to point out to them that no nation can survive the winds of change that are sweeping the world without a renewed faith in God.

It is my prayer that this renewal of faith that is now evident in Uruguay will burst into flame to give the country the moral and spiritual security and stability she will need to endure the rough road ahead.

Kennedy Still Plans Visit to S. America

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said yesterday the Cuban crisis has not changed President Kennedy's plan to visit Brazil Nov. 12-14.

A U. S. Embassy spokesman in Rio de Janeiro said the Cuban blockade "brings up a whole new series of problems" in connection with the visit. But the White House indicated these problems had not changed the President's mind.

Schools Caught in Middle Over Wanting Federal Aid

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Educational Writer

WASHINGTON — "Student" comes from the Latin word meaning "eager to learn," but some aren't.

"School" comes from the Greek word for "leisure," but many students consider their life anything but leisurely.

Obviously, in education things aren't always what they seem to be.

COMMON STATEMENTS

"The strength of our nation's schools lies in our tradition of local control of education."

"We Americans can be proud that we have equality of educational opportunity in this country."

Over the years these beliefs have been repeated so many times that many people accept them as self-evident truths.

"Local control," for instance, has come to have an almost hallowed sound. It's like mother love, apple pie and the Flag; to oppose it, or even doubt it, is to strike at the vitals of the nation.

But there is a growing number of educators who believe that local control is a vastly overrated factor in the programs of American schools.

Thomas D. Bailey, state superintendent of schools in Florida, said in a recent interview that "Absolute local control of education in this country is nonexistent." Bailey, who emphasized that he favored local control, made these points:

ON STATE LAWS

—State laws determine the length of the school year, the way in which teachers shall be certified, and many of the courses — such as state law and the history of communism — which must be taught. In all but 15 states, state laws determine the minimum pay for teachers.

—College entrance requirements and college entrance examinations determine what is taught in the high schools, and their influence is now moving downward to the junior highs.

—The National Defense Education Act has a tremendous influence on the school curriculum with its emphasis on science, mathematics and foreign languages.

The speech makers who solemnly testify that "We have equality of educational opportunity in this country" can get a big argument from any social worker or classroom teacher in a big city slum area.

"Visit a bright, attractive school in a wealthy suburb," they say. "Note the well-equipped classrooms and laboratories, the small number of pupils per teacher, the extra staff to deal with guidance and counseling, the special programs for the bright, the average and the slow.

"Then compare that with a dingy, overcrowded, understaffed, ill-equipped school in the slums, and ask yourself, 'Which school provides the better opportunity?' "

The Center for the Study of Liberal Education for Adults has reported that 11 million adult Americans cannot read a newspaper or a magazine.

CAN'T READ

They can't read traffic signs, or the directions on a bottle of medicine. They can't fill out an application for a job.

Sterling M. McMurrin, former U.S. commissioner of education, told Congress that in 23 of the 50 states, more than 8 per cent of the persons aged 18 or over had completed less than six years of school; in six states it was nearly 20 per cent.

Somewhere along the line, it would seem, some of the children of some of the people were not educated.

Then there is the great and continuing debate about federal aid to education. Each side has one pet argument which it considers infallible.

FEDERAL CONTROL?

Those who oppose federal aid say, "Federal aid to education means federal control of education."

The argument most often advanced in favor of federal aid to education is, "The local property tax can no longer provide adequate funds for the schools we need."

And the opponents of federal aid acknowledge that local taxes ARE high, but insist, "There is still enough money available from state and local sources to do the job."

Which side is right?

Seeking an answer to that question, the National School Boards Association recently sent a detailed questionnaire to 90,000 local school board members in every section of the country.

Local school board members, it should be noted, are caught in the middle. They are the ones who have to raise the money for the schools, and might be tempted to plump for government help.

On the other hand, they are extremely jealous of their control over their own schools, and have a deep and abiding fear of government interference.

Their replies did nothing to clear up the confusion: "They are strongly opposed to any new programs of federal aid, but at the same time they insisted that all present government programs be continued or increased.

Lenore's a Tireless Trooper

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Shakespeare said, "Frailty, thy name is woman," but he never spent a day with Mrs. George Romney.

We did — on Tuesday — as one of a score of women's page editors from all over the state.

Members of the Women's Committee for Romney were our hostesses and our drivers. They, too, came from many parts of the state.

The day began with brunch at Mrs. Romney's home in Bloomfield Hills. Then quietly and informally Mrs. Romney gave us a little briefing on her campaigning up to date.

Lenore Romney is a slight woman of medium height. Her hair is light brown and simply arranged. Yesterday she wore a red wool dress with a gold embroidered elephant pin. She has a pleasing low voice that becomes intense with feeling when she discusses "George" and the issues he stands for. She uses her hands expressively.

Mrs. Romney is the first woman to campaign in all of Michigan's 83 counties. Most men candidates have not equaled her record. She is the first wife of a candidate to campaign entirely on her own. She and her husband never speak at the same meeting. Only once since June 5 have their campaign travels crossed; last summer in Petoskey he was in the audience when she spoke.

READING BOOKS

Someone asked her how she learned to speak so easily.

"It must have been reading all the books George has thrown at me and being asked what I thought."

Mrs. Romney has definite ideas about women in politics. She is sure they are interested in more than what to eat and wear. Women should not take men's places, but should stand by and help them, Mrs. Romney feels.

Women will have a "terrific" role in the next few years if they will stand up to it. Their role is human relations, she said.

Shortly after noon we were assigned to cars and driven to Hamtramck where 500 Polish-American women had gathered at a luncheon for Romney. Carrying a sheaf of crimson roses, Mrs. Romney was greeted with a standing ovation.

★ ★ ★

She told her audience of one individual who had introduced her as "the governor's new wife — oh, no, I mean the new governor's old wife."

The group listened intently while Mrs. Romney told them that it's time women stood up to be counted and that men need women's intuitive and moral instincts. This audience included older women, probably first generation immigrants, and young women as modern as a new hat.

Mrs. George Romney is at ease in front of an audience, be it large or small. Here she is shown in her Bloomfield Hills home Tuesday with a group of newspaper women. Naturally, the subject was "George." The pin on Mrs. Romney's dress is appropriately enough a little gold-embroidered elephant.

Mrs. Romney drew a laugh when she said:

"George had a good job; he didn't need a change."

Most of the women waited to shake hands with their speaker. Then our cavalcade was off again, this time to a tea in a fine old home on Chicago Boulevard in Detroit.

Here we found an integrated group. The hostess had invited thirty of her friends to hear Mrs. Romney, but about twice that many showed up.

Again, the audience listened intently. Many women nodded their heads in agreement whenever Mrs. Romney made a point they liked. They agreed with what she said about civil rights in the new constitution.

They liked it when she said all mothers are interested in having their children get a good education and then a good job. They applauded when she said our greatest waste is talent that isn't developed.

Mrs. Romney's elder daughter, Lynn Keenan of Birmingham, with her 3-year-old daughter Jody, accompanied her mother to these meetings.

Jody was better than anyone could expect until near the end of her grandmother's second speech. Then, no doubt to express her boredom, she began standing on her head, displaying a pair of feminine blue-flowered panties.

TOUR OF OFFICE

A tour of the Romney headquarters, talks with the staff and dinner took a few hours. By 7:30 we were in Huntington Woods, part of another integrated group that had been invited to hear Mrs. Romney.

This audience was composed of both men and women, and to them Mrs. Romney spoke of taxes, efficiency in government and the rights of the individual.

We editors then wended our weary way homeward to write our stories while the indefatigable Lenore went on to address a fourth group and to talk about "George."

Today and tomorrow and the next day she'll do the same thing all over again, only with different audiences. Here is a new kind of political campaigner.

'Award' Volunteers for Hospital Hours

On Tuesday ninety volunteers from the Women's Auxiliary to Pontiac General Hospital received awards for 21,029 hours of service during the past 12 months. The presentations were made at the annual Award luncheon by Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator.

★ ★ ★

He thanked the Auxiliary for its participation in the greatest year the hospital has had.

SOCIAL HOUR

Preceding the luncheon a social hour was held in the hospital lobby. Mrs. John J. Marra was in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Arnold Barrett, Vera Bassett, Mrs. Fred Fuller and Mrs. Charles Barrett.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Franklin Mills Jr., and Mrs. Charles Galloway were cochairmen of the luncheon. Their committee included Mrs. Allan J. Denham, Mrs. D. R. Veazey, Mrs. Henry Healy, Mrs. Charles Whitfield, Mrs. Clifford Dick and Mrs. Fred Ziem.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Raymond Rapaport reported on the Oct. 9 meeting of the Southeastern District Michigan Association of Hospital Auxiliaries. Mrs. Aleck Capsalis told the group about the workshop of the same association she attended last week at Hidden Valley.

Displaying the certificates of appreciation from Pontiac General Hospital for the hours of service they have rendered in the past year are (from left) Mrs. Robert Schapler, Voorheis Road (100 hours or more); Mrs. Frank Burrell, Ward's Point Drive (250 hours or more); and Mrs. Grace Robinson, Saline Street (50 hours or more).

Shopping Spree Slated

A two-day international shopping spree will be conducted by members of Kappa Delta Sorority Alumnae Association of south Oakland County during their fifth annual Import Fair, Nov. 1 and 2.

★ ★ ★

The Knights of Columbus Auditorium, Southfield Road south of 13 Mile Road, will be transformed into a world-wide market place for the sorority's main philanthropic project of the year.

As in the past, proceeds from the Import Fair will be given to the Oakland County Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

REPRESENTATION

More than 20 countries will be represented by importers in native costume.

Visitors may browse among glassware, Bavarian China, pottery, silver and pewter—beautiful linens, silks, woven goods and Danish paintings.

In addition, there will be a continuous demonstration of gemstone jewelry-making. Swiss watches, leather goods from England, art objects, fragile Christmas ornaments and imported toys for the children — dolls, blocks, carved wooden articles and hand puppets will be on display.

★ ★ ★

Shoppers may pause on their tour during the free coffee and cookie breaks, then plunge ahead to the homemade foreign delicacies bake booth and the Mexican food booth.

Heading up the committees who have worked all summer to make this two-day affair a success is general chairman Mrs. W. A. Hall of Birmingham.

AIDES TO CHAIRMAN

Other committee heads are posters, Mrs. Jerald Stone; finance, Mary Elizabeth Brown; door prizes, Mrs. Stuart Totty; and mailing, Mrs. G. B. Work.

Hours for the Kappa Delta Import Fair are 12 noon to 9 p.m., Nov. 1, and from 12 noon to 6 p.m., Nov. 2.

In addition to the yearly benefit project, Kappa Delta alumnae of south Oakland County has donated sums of money to the Oakland County Society for Crippled Children and Adults since 1951.

AID YOUNGSTERS

These annual gifts have purchased equipment for the speech and physical therapy departments. Many youngsters have been sent to the Grace Bentley Crippled Children's Camp on Lake Huron because of these financial donations.

★ ★ ★

The following services and equipment have also been donated:

Many years of volunteer driving, transporting youngsters to and from school; holiday parties, including cookies, favors; a space trainer for physical therapy.

Newlyweds Leave for Forida Trip

Rev. William H. Nies officiated at the marriage of Mrs. Robert L. Cappel of Watkins Lake to Albert W. Gruner of East Detroit, Saturday morning, in the Mount Zion American Lutheran Church, East Detroit.

Linda Cappel, who attends Michigan State University, East Lansing, attended her mother, and George Gruner of East Detroit was best man for his father.

Abby Hits Gang Showers

Teacher Opposes Stand

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: As a teacher of physical education, I feel I must ask you not to bring up the "problem" of gang showers again.

There is nothing wrong with girls showering together, and for you to side with one girl who felt "embarrassed" to shower with other girls has created a problem in our school.

ABBY

We cannot provide private showers, and only 20 out of my 400 girls object to gang showers.

Showering after gym is vital for cleanliness and in order to be sure all girls shower I must give them a lower grade if they refuse.

PHYS ED TEACHER

DEAR TEACHER: I agree that showering after gym IS necessary, but the issue was: Should girls be forced to strip and shower together — and if they refused for reasons of personal modesty or home training, should they be given a lower grade?

I say there should be private showers for those girls who object to disrobing before other girls.

If the school cannot provide facilities, no girl should be penalized for insisting on her right to personal privacy.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My son-in-law has been in Germany with the Armed Forces for the past ten months. Last week my daughter had a lovely 8-pound baby boy. The doctor said it was a "delayed birth" and that 10-month babies were common these days. The neighbors say they never heard of such a thing. Will you please put this in the paper so the neighbors will shut up?

PROUD GRANDMOTHER

DEAR PROUD: Yes. Ten-month babies are now almost as common as seven-month babies.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Here is the situation: A middleaged man started to drop his young unmarried secretary off at her apartment on his way home from work. After a couple of months she started inviting him in for a drink. He accepted and spends about an hour there before going home. He has liquor at home, plus an affectionate wife, and dinner on the table. Would you care to hazard any predictions as to the outcome?

INVOLVED

DEAR INVOLVED: I predict that the dinner will get colder and colder and so will the wife. Unless somebody wises her up.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO LOVERBOY IN HIGHLAND: If you continue to go around with a married woman, better be prepared to go two rounds with her husband.

* * *

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press.

In St. Benedict's Church

Miss Shirley Weds

Alberta Gail Shirley of Prall Street exchanged nuptial vows with Robert William Bigelow Saturday morning in St. Benedict's Church.

A church reception followed the ceremony performed by Rev. Richard A. Schoenherr.

Arthur Doering of Detroit gave his niece in marriage. Her parents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shirley. The bridegroom is the son of Harold Bigelow of St. Mary Avenue and the late Mrs. Bigelow.

* * *

The bride appeared in white Chantilly lace over taffeta, styled with bustle back and chapel sweep. A rhinestone tiara caught her veil of French illusion. She carried white roses and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Gerald McKinnon, Highland Park, her sister's matron of honor, and Joan Shoberg, bridesmaid, wore dresses of red silk crepe and carried red and white carnations.

Gerald McKinnon was best man. Frank Neuteman and Roger Dearing, Detroit, were ushers.

The bride is a graduate of Highland Park Junior College. She attended Michigan State University Oakland and Wayne State University where her husband is presently a junior. They will live in Pontiac.

Little Dress of White All Right

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: I would very much appreciate your help on the following matter: My 18-year-old daughter is going to be married shortly. It will be a very simple wedding in the parsonage as my daughter is expecting a baby. She would like very much to wear a white dress. I don't mean a white bridal dress, of course, but a street length white dress with a full skirt and a small hat.

I have been told that a white dress of any kind is absolutely tabu under the circumstances. Will you please tell me if this is true?

A: The tabu is against a white bridal dress and veil, but it would be quite all right for your daughter to wear a simple white street-length dress and hat.

* * *

Q: My father died last week and the funeral director has given us a stack of printed thank-you cards for acknowledging flowers and other kindnesses.

I know you do not approve of printed thank-you cards for presents but would it be terribly wrong to send them on this occasion? It would help us a great deal if we could use them.

A: If you add a handwritten message such as, "Your kindness meant so much to us all," or "Your flowers were lovely" on the cards, they would be permissible.

* * *

Q: I was supposed to have been married in two weeks but my mother was taken ill a few days ago and is in the hospital in critical condition. The wedding has ben postponed.

I have received quite a few wedding presents and I don't know what to do about them. Should they be returned now that the wedding will not take place? Please advise me what to do.

A: If, as your letter indicates, the wedding has been postponed temporarily and will take place at a future date, you need not return the presents. It is only when a wedding has been permanently canceled that presents are returned.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pity the homemaker allergic to dust. The reaction, usually mild, resembles hay fever. But it can lead to chronic respiratory troubles.

Follow Trick Diet

Want to Lose 5 Pounds?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If fall has been sneaking up on you, it has been doing it for quite a while now. Do you still have those five pounds or more you gained last summer? Those pounds you planned to lose before you get into your fall and winter clothes?

Lazy summer vacations and the ~~wonderful food you indulged in~~ when on a trip, and the food you had at home for very welcome house guests, are all good for the soul, but not for the figure!

If you have suddenly discovered, when trying on your last year's fall clothes or buying new ones, that your figure is not quite what it was last spring, get busy!

Maybe you are even waiting to shop until you lose a few of those extra summer pounds. I was, but before you read this, I will have gotten rid of my eight extra handicaps.

If you have been reading "Why Grow Old?" this week (and why not take a chance?) you will know that I am bringing you my Trick and Treat Diet which gives you a loss of around five pounds in seven days.

BREAKFAST

One-half grapefruit
One-half cup whole wheat flakes
Two teaspoons sugar
One glass skim milk
Black coffee

LUNCHEON

One cup consomme
Two scrambled eggs with one teaspoon of butter, and a dash of skim milk (Cook in double boiler)
One piece toast

DINNER

Four ounces calves' liver, broiled with onion
One-half cup of string beans with a few pieces of canned mushrooms and two tablespoons skim milk, salt, and sprinkle with parmesan cheese
One-half cup brown rice
A medium fruit cup (fresh fruit or water packed canned). Just a teaspoonful of wine or liquor will give it zest

Teach Child How to Deal With Pressure

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

"This scramble for college acceptance is rough on today's kids," said the successful father who had been telling me about his peptic ulcer.

"Take my boy. He knows there's no string I can pull to get him into a decent university unless he comes up with better marks than the other guys in his class.

"It's worrying him sick, but what can you do? There's not a kid in his high school crowd who isn't going crazy wondering if he's going to make a good school . . ."

I shared his sympathy for his son, but not because he might fail to come up with the winning marks that will land him in Princeton, Harvard or Yale.

I felt sorry for him because nobody was teaching him how to deal with the pressures of the pushy world he is preparing to enter.

I was saddened that his father saw injustice instead of opportunity in today's crush for college admission.

For opportunity it is, to parents who have refused to allow their own success pressures to give them peptic ulcers, high blood pressure and other physical symptoms of hidden protest. This frantic scramble for college admission is used by such parents to say:

"This is your first real taste of the kind of pressure you're going to have to live with for the rest of your life. So you might as well learn to deal with it right now. You deal with it by doing the best school work you can.

6 Sewing Days Left Until Witching Hour

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

★ ★ ★

Also, sheets over the head—and for that matter, false faces—should never be used on young kiddies because they restrict vision and might possibly provide a danger of suffocation.

The safety council, looking forward to "trick or treat" night, has no dire statistics to predict, as they typically do on holiday weekends.

However, since children are very special persons and not always brilliant in matters of self-preservation, the NSC begs to remind parents to be sure that:

10 TIPS

2—Skeletons are reminded that candy leads to cavities.

3—Be certain a child's Halloween costume is flameproof and light in color, so it's easy to see at night.

4—Be certain that the outfits, whether they're store-bought or homemade, are not tripping hazards, and that they won't catch on bushes, hedges or fences.

5—Older children, of course, can handle masks. But the young fry, because of the restriction of vision hazards, should have their false faces painted on with cosmetics and burnt cork.

6—Brighten a child's costume, if necessary, by use of reflecting tape. It's a good idea for safety, too, if he carries a flashlight or lantern equipped with batteries. Never, naturally, allow a youngster to carry candles or torches.

7—Say no if your pirate wants to carry a knife, sword or other sharp instrument. Make a cardboard weapon, or buy a rubber one, if he must appear vicious.

8—If possible, spread the word around the neighborhood that on Beggar's Night motorists should slow down, keeping in mind that when trick-or-treating, children are more spooky than savvy.

9—If children will come to your door on this big holiday, give them cookies or other sweets by all means, but be sure they're wrapped to keep them clean.

10—For safety, keep a porch light on, and remove all breakable objects. If feasible, also remove furniture from lawn, steps and porch. This is not only for the safety of the little dears, but also for the safety of the furniture.

The NSC, as far as we can ascertain, has given out no special advice for householders concerned about the preservation of their windows, shrubbery, garbage cans, etc., against cute young neighborhood vandals.

Possibly they figure—and correctly—that any homeowner who can feel really outraged on this night of nonsensical nights is more in need of psychiatric counsel than safety council.

Kennedy Critics Climb Aboard Cuba Bandwagon

By BOB CONSIDINE

WASHINGTON—The President "did something" about Cuba.

* * *

The first reaction from those in public office who had been demanding vigorous action was a generally warming one.

Two men who have been lambasting Mr. Kennedy particularly of late for his patient policy toward Castro's expanding muscle were quick to praise him with faint damns.

"The firm stand of the President will have the 100 per cent backing of every American regardless of party," declared Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, the New York Republican. "It is what the American people have been waiting for.

* * *

"As one who has been very critical of our nation's Cuban policy in the past, I applaud the President's recognition of the dangers that now exist in Cuba. As he rightly says, there are risks.

"A few months ago they would have been minimal, but now they are great. But if we wait six months before we act, they will be intolerable . . . we must now face the future as a united people."

SUPPORT FROM NIXON

Dick Nixon, campaigning in Oakland, Calif., in a gubernatorial contest which will launch him back into the national political picture, or demolish him, said of the President's speech:

"There are obvious risks in this action. But the risks of inaction are infinitely greater. In my view, this action will not lead to war.

"Whenever our peace and freedom are threatened Democrats and Republicans alike think of America first, rather than party first."

* * *

It remains to be seen how Mr. Kennedy's new-found supporters will stand up and be counted on his side if there's to be bloodletting or the blockade runs on endlessly and into great sums of money.

From the looks of the build-up of American strength in the Caribbean area it is not likely that this will be either a prolonged affair or a repetition of the short, swift and disastrous "Bay of Pigs" debacle.

We have enough muscle cranked up down there to destroy Castro and all his wares some morning between breakfast and lunchtime, whether he has active Soviet aid or not.

But, for the present, there's no thought of hitting Cuban beaches with amphibious forces or clobbering his Soviet-built launching pads, strong points and KOMAR class high-speed patrol boats equipped with ship-to-ship missiles.

Monday night was a gobbledegooker's dream at the Pentagon and State Department. A top Defense Department spokesman, asked to define the wafer-thin difference between a "blockade" and a "quarantine" of Cuba — the President preferred the latter word in his speech — said indignantly, "we don't want to get into that. That's a matter for the State Department."

At the State Department the same officials who participated in the early bumbling stories about the Russian shoot-down of Francis Gary Powers insisted that what the United States proposes to do in respect to Cuba is "not an act of war."

A harried spokesman at the State Department explained at some length that blockading a country is "the equivalent of war" but quarantining is a non-military punishment permissible under the "sanctions" provisions of the United Nations charter.

The President's good intentions were not accepted 100 per cent in Washington circles Monday night.

One exceptionally hardened cynic of the Washington cocktail cells said at the end of the spirited speech, and after he learned that the President had canceled all political campaigning before the November elections, "Jack sure is going a long way to avoid campaigning for Teddy."

Kennedy Signs Foreign Aid Bill

Bans Funds to Nation Giving Help to Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has signed the $3.9-billion foreign aid bill. The measure prohibits aid to any country providing military or economic assistance to Cuba or which permits its ships to haul cargo there.

* * *

There is a similar ban on 18 designated Communist countries. However, the President may waive these provisions if he informs the Foreign Relations committees of both houses of Congress.

Money for the regular assistance programs is included in a $6,278,962,000 package to finance a variety of related international programs.

* * *

The President's waiver authority was included to permit economic help—mainly surplus farm products — to Poland and Yugoslavia, if the President finds the recipients are not controlled by the international Communist "conspiracy," that the assistance is vital to U.S. security and that it would promote the independence of the receiving nation.

Papers Give Meeting Big Play

Romans Excited, Calm About the Council

* * *

There has never been such a gathering of prelates in the annals of the church of Rome. Assembled here are the spiritual leaders of 500 million people—possibly five times more than lived in Rome's whole ancient empire at its height.

How are modern Romans taking the council?

Some with excitement. School children and government employes had a day off when the council opened. Up to 150,000 Romans and tourists flocked to St. Peter's Square to see an inaugural procession of white-robed prelates.

Some with curiosity. All Italian newspapers, including the Communist dailies, have used their biggest type for banner headlines, vying for customers curious to read all about the council.

ENJOY BOOM

Some with calm. Italians go on enjoying their biggest economic boom in history, buying cars and refrigerators and other items that once were luxuries.

The council may last a year, and Romans are preparing to live with it.

Walk down the Via Veneto, the city's fashionable boulevard of sidewalk cafes and expensive shops. The customers sip dark espresso coffee and watch the parade of Roman high life and low life. The city's movie studios are booming.

* * *

The actresses and attriciette (Italian for starlets) don't miss a chance to be seen, and the busy paparazzi (Italy's free lance photographers) don't miss a starlet.

Yet there's a difference these days. There are more young priests in the sidewalk crowds.

They are here for the council from America and elsewhere, and like other visitors to Rome find their way to the Via Veneto for a pleasant evening stroll.

In cafes and markets Romans talk about progressive prelates and conservative prelates in the same way they debate Premier Amintore Fanfani's government.

But more often they speculate whether Fanfani will be able to win final parliamentary approval for the nationalization of electric power, and whether he will keep communism's old ally, the Italian Socialist party, behind his government.

* * *

Among the newspapers the Communist L'Unita has avoided direct attacks on the council while indirectly needling some participants. It commented that U.S. prelates were living in much more expensive Roman quarters than the prelates from Africa.

Red Missile Setup Surprised U.S.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union's installation of nuclear missiles in Cuba caught U.S. experts by surprise and demolished, almost overnight, their carefully constructed estimate of Soviet strategy in the Western Hemisphere.

★ ★ ★

Until evidence of the introduction of atomic striking power became available to President Kennedy eight days ago, the belief of officials here had been that the Soviet Union intended to use Cuba only as a base for a political and guerrilla offensive against Latin America.

That strategy did not require nuclear weapons in the Caribbean island. It required only that Prime Minister Fidel Castro be armed defensively against any new limited invasion attempt or an internal uprising.

THEORY WRECKED

The disclosures which President Kennedy made to the nation Monday night wrecked the theory that the Soviets were supplying arms to Castro only for his own protection. They showed that Cuba was being converted into a Soviet military base with a destructive potential unequaled by any known base on the Communist side of the world conflict except installations in the Soviet Union itself.

News Analysis

In the light of this bold and unexpected thrust into U.S. security territory thousands of miles from the Soviet Union, the Kennedy administration presumably is reassessing Soviet strategy not only toward the Western Hemisphere but also on a global scale.

★ ★ ★

There are several puzzling aspects to the Soviet action. One is that policy-makers in the Kremlin must have known that the presence of missiles in Cuba would be discovered almost at once. When the heavy built-up of arms in Cuba began last July the State Department repeatedly disclosed precise figures on missile bases, ships and fighter planes which were detected in the island.

GAVE ASSURANCES

The Soviet government, furthermore, had given public and private assurances that the build-up was only for Cuba's defensive purposes. It had boasted publicly that the Soviet Union did not need to base missiles outside its own territory to reach any target in the world, including the United States.

Still another consideration is that Soviet leaders knew Cuba was unlike any other Moscow-allied country because of its nearness to the United States. It is assumed here that they expected a strong reaction from Washington though they may have been surprised by the speed and decisiveness of Kennedy's move to stem the offensive arms flow.

Some of the best informed officials say privately it is difficult to make sense out of the Soviet behavior on the assumption that Premier Khrushchev still wants to achieve his goals in the world short of nuclear war.

One speculation is that the Soviets were planning to launch a policy of nuclear blackmail against Latin-American countries, threatening them with destruction to gain political ends and hoping at the same time to turn any retaliatory action from the United States against Cuba rather than the Soviet Union itself.

OTHER THEORY

Another theory holds that the Soviets may have been planning to use the nuclear threat from Cuba to try to compel the United States to dismantle its rocket bases near the Soviet Union. Such bases were established several years ago in Turkey and Italy under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization defense system.

Still another speculation is that the Soviets may have made their Cuban move in connection with some larger strategy of pressure to try to force the Western powers out of West Berlin. Top American officials believe Berlin remains Khrushchev's primary objective and the Cuban crisis has increased the expectation of a very serious crisis there.

Whatever the purposes, a central fact of the Soviet action in Cuba is that Soviet military power in the Western Hemisphere has been measurably enhanced at the cost of pushing the world closer to the brink of nuclear war.

SOVIET-MADE PLANES IN CUBA — The United States Embassy in London released this picture with the following caption: "Airfield in Cuba showing IL28 bombers having range of 2,000 miles. Twenty-one planes are shown on this field. Seventeen are in crates." No further information including when or how the picture was made or supplied by the embassy.

14 Photos Released of Red Arms

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department released early today 14 aerial photographs of what it said were Soviet missile sites, bomber fields and patrol boats in Cuba.

★ ★ ★

The photographs were made public hours after some of the pictures had been released in London.

Some had been displayed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara when he briefed newsmen on the Cuban crisis Monday night after President Kennedy announced an arms quarantine of Cuba.

JET-CARRIER

There are three pictures of merchant ships which the Defense Department said were Soviet ships bound for Cuba carrying light jet bombers in crates visible on the decks.

One high-altitude shot the Pentagon describes as of a major airfield and notes in an enlarged portion a jet bomber almost assembled and 18 crates containing more of the IL28 bombers.

In another, seven Soviet PT boats are pointed out moored near an airfield. The Pentagon said the boats are armed with guided missile launchers.

Among the others were air photos of what the Pentagon described as intermediate and medium-range missile bases, surface-to-air missile sites, a missile assembly depot and MIG21 jet fighters at a Cuban airfield.

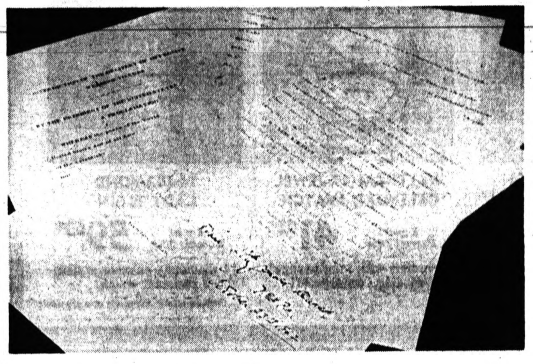
ORDER FOR BLOCKADE — President Kennedy (above) signs the proclamation to establish a naval arms blockade around Cuba. The Chief Executive signed the order at his desk in the White House at 6:05 p.m. (Pontiac time) yesterday. The signature of the President is shown (below) a few minutes after he signed the proclamation ordering the Defense Department to prevent the delivery of offensive weapons to Cuba. The order is effective as of 9 a.m. (Pontiac time) today.



Bold Move Electrifying

Latins Appreciate U.S.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The United States appears to have electrified Latin America and to have leaped overnight to a position of real leadership in the Western Hemisphere with its bold showdown challenge to the Soviet Union.

★ ★ ★

Latin American sources attending the hemisphere finance ministers conference here say that the initial shock has worn off and that Latin leaders are taking a new and appreciative look at Washington.

If the United States wins its gamble to halt the Soviet weapons build-up in Cuba, these sources say, it will be in a far better position than ever before to push ahead with the Alliance for Progress program to lead the hemisphere toward political, social and economic stability.

News Analysis

OPPOSITION EXPECTED

The extreme left is not expected to take all this lying down. The Communists and their Castroist allies in Latin America can be relied upon to do all in their power to threaten governments and leaders with noisy demonstrations and various forms of violence.

★ ★ ★

But something new has been infused into the Latin-American scene with the development of the greatest world crisis since the end of World War II.

The overwhelming vote of the Organization of American States in support of President Kennedy's decisions is a token of the change.

NOT LOVE GESTURE

Latin Americans point out that President Kennedy's action will not necessarily make people of the hemisphere love the United States. But they say that if the Kennedy decision is made to stick, it will create rsepect for the United States of a sort which was not there before.

In private, Latin Americans of the educated class concede that their countries look for strong leadership. It is, they say, part of the heritage of the "caudillo," the strong chief who commands respect rather than affection.

In private they will concede, too, that they may say one thing while meaning another. In the past two years at hemisphere conferences, Latin-American leaders have stubbornly opposed strong action against Cuba, offering the explanation that pressures upon them left them no other choice. There is a hint in all this that if the strong leadership had been present the United States would have insisted stubbornly upon having its way and eventually would have won it.

FALL IN LINE

President Kennedy's action against the Cuban build-up was taken without prior public blessings from the governments of Latin America. Yet even governments which had followed the soft approach to Castro readily fell in behind Washington.

The new thinking and the new hint of excitement have been reflected in speeches at the finance ministers conference. There are new calls for more positive, aggressive economic action, for planning which reaches down to the grass roots, for less bureaucracy and red tape.

There is also appearing a note of refusal to apologize any more to the extreme left.

In essence, there seems to be developing in Latin America a call to battle with the extremists on the economic, social and political fronts. For this, tough leadership in Washington might be just what the hemisphere doctors ordered.

Eisenhower Speaks at Gettysburg

Be Loyal to Your Leader, Says GOP Ex-President

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has urged fellow Republicans to support President Kennedy's Cuban decision, which Eisenhower said "had to be made."

But while he promoted bipartisanship in foreign affairs he contended "a united America need not and should not degenerate into a conformist, a silenced America."

SPEAKS TO GOP

On that note he urged election of Republican candidates Nov. 6, winning a standing ovation from an audience of more than 750 attending a $10-a-plate GOP fund-raising dinner in this historic battlefield community Tuesday night.

Eisenhower began his address to the Republican audience with a reference to President Kennedy's action Monday establishing an arms quarantine and other measures to curb what he said is a build-up of Soviet offensive power in Cuba that menaces the Americas.

★ ★ ★

"We meet in the aftermath of a grave message of the President of the United States," said Eisenhower.

★ ★ ★

The atmosphere, reflecting the tensions of the Cuban crisis, was at variance with the gay political trappings of the Gettysburg College dining hall where the dinner was held.

MAY AFFECT ALL

"The decision he (the President) announced last night may seriously affect the lives of all Americans and the future of the republic," said Eisenhower.

"In the circumstances of this present time, as described by him the decision had to be made. It had to be resolutely enunciated by the one man who speaks for us all in critical foreign affairs.

"As in all crises, America—as a unit—follows her constitutional leader. We must pledge him our help in whatever way we can be of help."

"So far as Cuba and Soviet Russia are concerned, in the weeks ahead we cannot be partisans. But a united America need not and should not degenerate into a conformist, a silenced America. In our internal affairs, unity should not become an excuse for compliant submission by Republicans or a shield against our valid criticism of Democrats.

"Moreover, our civic duty impels us to express our honest convictions, in this campaign, about the complexion of the next Congress; about the quality of leadership we want in state overnments and in our home counties and communities."

'U.S. Is Ahead in Missile Pile'

Pentagon Quoted as Saying Our Arsenal Doubles Russia's

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Soviet Union does not have the nuclear-armed missiles to wage an offensive war against the United States, a national magazine said in its current issue.

Quoting Pentagon sources, Look magazine said Russia and not the United States has a serious missile gap.

The magazine said estimates of the number of weapons in the U.S. arsenal run as high as 40,000, while Russia's probably are half that.

Russia does not have the airplanes to launch an attack, Look said.

★ ★ ★

"It (Russia) does not have the power to launch an attack and survive the counterblow," the magazine said. "After a Soviet surprise attack, the U.S. could still launch on Russia a stronger blow than it was given."

The magazine gave this breakdown of comparative weapons strength:

—Medium range ballistic missiles in range of U.S.-Russia: U.S. 90, Russia several times that for Eurasian targets but none able to hit U.S.

JFK's Words to Russ

NEW YORK (AP)—Radio Liberty, a privately endowed anti-Communist network, is beaming the full text of President Kennedy's nationwide address on the Cuban crisis to the Soviet Union in the 17 languages spoken within the U.S.S.R.

Leaders in Congress Prepared to Take Risk of Nuclear War

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders grimly accepted today the prospect that full scale military action may be needed to back President Kennedy's move aimed at wiping out the Cuban missile threat to the Western Hemisphere.

Without exception, party leaders scheduled to confer with Kennedy late today on the crisis made it clear they recognized the risk of nuclear war is great. They are willing to take it.

★ ★ ★

Some of them expect a preliminary showdown with the Soviet Union in the shipping lanes almost momentarily. Others believe that if the President's demand for dismantling of Soviet controlled missile bases in Cuba is flouted, massive military action to take them over might come later.

The unanimous viewpoint that the crisis is heading toward a climax was sustained by a statement of Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon.

FURTHER ACTION

Dillon told a meeting of Latin American finance ministers in Mexico City Tuesday that if offensive preparations on the island are not halted immediately "further action will be fully justified."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, deputy Democratic Senate leader, told reporters that, come what may, the United States "is not going to tolerate what they have in missiles already or any expansion of them."

Humphrey said that in White House meetings he had attended there had been no time limit set on Kennedy's demand for removal of the bases.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro should not longer have any doubts that the United States is ready to protect Western Hemisphere security.

ANYTHING POSSIBLE

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in a separate interview the situation is so tense that almost anything can happen. His deputy, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, said the prospect of a general nuclear war cannot be thrust aside.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the aggressive moves by the Communists "place all of us in mortal peril."

★ ★ ★

There was general agreement among both Democrats and Republicans that the President's action has submerged the Cuban issue in the congressional campaign.

Europe Gives U.S. Backing

★ ★ ★

Acheson huddled with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Defense Minister Franz-Josef Strauss in Bonn yesterday and met with French President Charles de Gaulle and the NATO Council in Paris Monday.

Informed sources said Adenauer greeted the former U.S. secretary of state with a declaration of support for Kennedy's Cuba position.

The NATO council, which has its headquarters in Paris, went on continuous alert to be prepared to meet at any time in connection with the Cuba crisis.

Campaigning Canceled

Swainson Keeps Eye on Crisis

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Swainson, cancelling his campaign schedule for the second straight day, remained at his desk at the State Capitol today for consultations on Michigan's role in the critical international situation.

★ ★ ★

"I've been in touch with the White House about the situation," Swainson told newsmen who rode with him from Detroit to Lansing last night.

The governor spent most of yesterday in his office conferring with heads of agencies, including State Police Commissioner Joseph Childs and Adj. Gen. Ronald D. McDonald, who heads the Michigan National Guard.

Among the subjects discussed was the status of Michigan's civil defense preparedness, which recently became a responsibility of the state police.

"I want to emphasize that there is no panic, no special alert, and no change in the present role of our National Guard or other units," Swainson declared. "I was briefed on many things today, and I'll be brought up to date further in additional consultations."

NAMES TASK FORCE

Swainson named seven task force chairmen yesterday for the office of emergency planning, to operate in the event of war.

His talks with agency heads covered a number of secret functions they would be expected to perform in the event of a grave emergency.

Asked how the sudden turn of events would affect his campaign plans, Swainson replied that his day-to-day schedule would depend on the course of events.

The governor had been scheduled to campaign today in Macomb County in his bid for re-election against his Republican opponent, George Romney.

Neil Staebler, Democratic candidate for congressman-at-large, will attempt to cover the rallies and other appearances scheduled for Swainson, a campaign aide said.

"My chief function at a time like this is as governor of the state of Michigan," said Swainson.

The governor said he could not tell at this time whether he also might cancel his scheduled appearance Friday night on the last of three half-hour television debates with Romney.

"We'll have to await developments before deciding on that," he said.

Navy Wife Kept in Dark on Crisis

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A Navy wife hastily removed with her three children from Guantanamo naval base in Cuba said yesterday she did not know what was happening until she had almost reached America.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. William McKenzie, a native of Birmingham, arrived here from Norfolk, Va., where she and her family were taken after leaving Cuba.

Monday "started like any other day, with clothes on the line and other Monday morning work," she said.

Within hours her family had been hastily placed aboard an airplane, and they were still not told of the crisis.

★ ★ ★

She said in flight to Norfolk crew members listened to President Kennedy's speech announcing a blockade of Cuba and relayed the news to the passengers.

"We didn't discuss it even then," she said.

The wife of a Navy man for 17 years, Mrs. McKenzie said the first inkling she had that something was amiss came on Sunday morning when her husband, a lieutenant, did not come back from routine maneuvers.

She said midnight Sunday Lt. McKenzie walked in and told her "Get my papers together," and added "Something could happen."

ORDERS CHANGE

She said a few hours later orders came to be prepared to catch a ship for Puerto Rico.

Fifteen minutes to departure time, she said, the orders changed and she was told the family would be flown to Norfolk.

She hastily unpacked light clothing planned for Puerto Rico, and prepared clothing for the 58-degree temperatures of Norfolk.

She said "I'm not particularly scared for my husband, but I want to get back as soon as possible."

Blockade Word Due Swedish Shippers

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Government authorities planned to meet with the Swedish Shipowners' Association today to discuss the U.S. arms blockade of Cuba.

★ ★ ★

Eight Swedish ships are in Cuban waters at present. Three were docked in Havana, one was on its way from Cuba and four were heading for the Caribbean Island.

★ ★ ★

McNamara Extends Navy, Marine Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has extended enlistments of Navy and Marine personnel for up to one year, saying they are needed to man the U.S. arms blockade of Cuba.

★ ★ ★

McNamara, in announcing the order last night, said extra manpower also is needed to reinforce the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

McNamara said the order applies to all men "now on active duty" and in effect means that there will be no discharges, except for hardship, until further notice up to one year from now. All Navy and Marine Corps personnel are volunteers.

Congress recently authorized President Kennedy to extend enlistments up to one year and to recall to active duty up to 150,000 reservists to meet any crisis. The congressional authority expires next Feb. 28, two months after Congress reconvenes.

McNamara said no steps are being taken to call up any reservists at this time.

Pentagon officials said the extension order probably would increase the Navy by 10,000 men a month and the Marines by 2,400 men a month.

Might Involve Michigan Units

★ ★ ★

Although military spokesmen maintain it was just another day, one report said some units, possibly reserves at Selfridge Air Force Base near Mount Clemens, had been put on a two-hour alert basis.

★ ★ ★

There was no reported explanation from official sources for the arrival of six big Strategic Air Command jet bombers Tuesday at the Michigan Air National Guard base at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

★ ★ ★

The spokesman for the First Fighter Wing at Selfridge, Capt. Robert Neely, said he was "not allowed as of now to make any comments about aircraft movements" there.

Servicemen on Extended Duty Agree 'This Had to Be Done'

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—Sailors and Marines on liberty along the neon-lit downtown streets of this huge Navy port said last night extension of their duty tours is justified in light of the current crisis.

There were few servicemen at the usually crowded popular liberty spots, but those making the rounds said they believe the Defense Department's order lengthening enlistment time up to one year was necessary.

"Anyone having a feeling for his country must agree," said Marine Pfc. Thomas Ryan of Washington, D.C., whose tour of duty had been scheduled to end in February.

"Well, if they need you, they need you," said Airman James Sherman of Philadelphia, Pa.

Navy Fireman George Peters of Harrisburg, Pa., said there was no doubt that the President and the Defense Department made the correct decisions.

"Due to circumstances that can't be altered, I'd say it was not only justified, but necessary," Peters said, referring to President Kennedy's order to quarantine Cuba.

Fireman Ted Predki of Salem, Mass., said he called relatives last night and told them not to worry. "I'm convinced that any war, if there is one, won't last over a day," he told them.

★ ★ ★

Two sailors standing at a bus terminal nodded their endorsement of the extended tour of duty directive. Seamen Monte Geary of Bristol, Md., and Harold Dillingham of Columbia, Ky., said there was no alternative.

★ ★ ★

"Whatever they do is okay with me," said Marine Lance Cpl. George G. Engel of Valparaiso, Ind.

Cuban Exile in Michigan Tells of '60 Missile Pads

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—A former Cuban educator claims that before he fled his homeland in 1960 the underground had detected preparations for building missile launching pads in three of the island's provinces.

★ ★ ★

Jose Tagle, once a school superintendent in Havana, now lives in Grand Rapids as a factory worker. He commended the United States quarantine plan but suggested it could have been imposed earlier.

Tagle further claims that information from underground units still in Cuba indicates an increase in counter revolutionary sabotage at strategic installations and assassination of ranking Communists.

He voiced doubts that Fidel Castro ever intended to release prisoners captured in the thwarted 1961 invasion. Tagle claims that Castro has boasted that he had mined the prison with explosives to be detonated in case of invasion by United States forces.

SUPPORT DWINDLES

Dr. Carlos Cortina, former Havana attorney and classmate of Castro at University of Havana, claimed that support for Castro about a year ago included some 45 per cent of Cuba's population. It since has dwindled to about 25 per cent, Dr. Cortina said.

He attributed the drop to lack of food for the island and lags in industrial and agricultural production. Dr. Cortina said that rice, a staple in the Cuban diet, now is doled out at the ratio of one pound per person per week.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Cortina arrived in Grand Rapids last May 29 in a refugee group and is enrolled in a preseminary course at Calvin College.

JFK Gives Arms Details

"Surface to surface missiles; bomber aircraft; bombs, air to surface rockets and guided missiles; warheads for any of the above weapons; mechanical or electronic equipment to support or operate the above items; and any other classes of materiel hereafter designated by the secretary of defense for the purpose of effectuating this proclamation."

Cuban Crisis Provokes Protests

By United Press International

The burgeoning Cuban crisis provoked demonstrations yesterday and today from Canada to Latin America, and from Washington to Moscow.

More than 2,000 Ban-The-Bomb sympathizers rushed the doors of the American embassy in London last night, swinging their fists and shouting anti-American epithets.

Police arrested 124 demonstrators and stationed a continuous guard around the embassy in anticipation of further outbreaks. The Communist Daily Worker said another demonstration would take place tonight.

The London Committee of 100, a disarmament group headed by Lord Bertrand Russell, the philosopher, reportedly was considering whether to hold a mass pro-Cuba rally in Trafalgar Square during the weekend.

BACK U.S.

The only pro-American demonstrations have been in Rome and Ottawa. In Rome today, several thousand right-wing and neo-Fascist adherents were dispersed by riot police as they marched on Italian Communist party headquarters.

Several hundred right-wing students chanting "death to Castro" paraded before the U.S. embassy in Rome yesterday and then marched before the Spanish embassy cheering Francisco Franco, as did some 500 of today's demonstrators.

The Soviet embassy in Ottawa was the scene yesterday of a march by about 40 students from the University of Ottawa. Bearing bedsheets with such printed slogans as "Cuba Si, Russia No," they chanted "Hurray for Kennedy" as Russian diplomats entered or left the embassy.

About 50 women from the "Women Strike for Peace" movement picketed the White House yesterday, urging the President to reconsider his blockade decision.

At United Nations headquarters in New York, about 500 persons demonstrated quietly yesterday, many of them women carrying or wheeling babies. They bore placards reading: "President Kennedy, Be Careful," and "Dead Men Can't Negotiate."

Anti-American crowds also were reported to have gathered outside United States embassies in Stockholm, Copenhagen, Milan and several British cities besides London.

The American embassy in Moscow was the scene today of a protest by about 50 Soviet youths. Police shepherded them away but another group reportedly was gathering. One of the embassy's two entrances was blocked off and personnel were asked not to leave the grounds.

Small anti-American demonstrations were reported yesterday in various Latin American capitals, all of them without major violence or reported casualties. Many were believed to be Communist-inspired and police took firm security measures.

In the Brazilian industrial city of Sao Paulo, an anti-American demonstration was broken up by police. Anti-American protests by students in Ecuador also were reported.

About 80 students marched outside the American embassy in Lima, Peru and another 100 paraded before the national capital. Both groups dispersed without violence.

In Tokyo, about 100 members of the fanatic leftist Zengakuren student organization attempted a "march on the U.S. embassy," but a police cordon turned them away. No casualties were reported.

Autopsy Scheduled in Death of Youth

ANN ARBOR (AP) — An autopsy is scheduled to fix the cause of the death of Charles G. Snyder, 19, who collapsed and died yesterday in a sewer 40 feet below ground south of Ann Arbor.

★ ★ ★

Snyder, his father and another workman had climbed down separate shafts to work. Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies said young Snyder shouted, as if for help, just before he collapsed.

The youth's father and the other workman pulled the boy out, but he apparently already was dead.

2 Ministers Appeal to JFK, K to Halt

ALBION (AP)—Two high-ranking officials of the Michigan Methodist Church have appealed to President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev to ". . . halt this suicidal course of military action and instead . . . negotiate through the U.N."

★ ★ ★

The joint telegram was signed by the Rev. Carl Strange of Muskegon, chairman of the Michigan Conference Board of Christian Social Concerns of the Methodist Church, and the Rev. Dr. James Laird, his Detroit counterpart.

U. S. Missile Firms Get New Requests

NEW YORK (UPI) — Martin-Marietta Corp., maker of the Bullpup air-to-surface missile, said yesterday the Navy had directed it to furnish new information regarding possible defense mobilization and a production step-up.

"Renewed contact with the government" was reported by the Thiokol Corp., which builds rockets for the Bullpup, the Nike-Hercules antiaircraft rocket, the Army's Sergeant battlefield missile, and the Falcon air-to-air missile.

LA Congressional Races to Test Liberals, Birchers

BACKGROUND — AP SPECIAL REPORT — OF THE NEWS

Seldom are voters' choices so sharp as in California's newly revamped 25th, 27th, and 29th congressional districts.

Republican or Democrat? Outspoken conservative or outspoken liberal? More government in Washington or less?

Those issues, clearly defined by the six candidates, will provide tests of both the New Frontier and of the John Birch Society, controversial ultraconservative organization.

WIDELY SPLIT

The contests match three stoutly conservative Republicans—members and defenders of the Birch Society and sharply critical of the Kennedy administration—against Democrats who support the New Frontier and attack what they call Birchism.

At stake are two Republican seats in the U.S. House of Representatives. The third seat is in a new district.

★ ★ ★

Both sides predict victory. The overwhelmingly Democratic California Legislature drew the districts with Democratic voter registration margins of 60 per cent and up.

MORE IMPORTANT

But more is involved than party lines. Analyses of returns from these sprawling districts north and east of Los Angeles will be studied to see if they can provide answers to such questions as:

★ ★ ★

How many Republicans believe the Birch Society is extremist, as its critics charge, and prefer the New Frontier to Birch philosophy?

How many Democrats find Kennedy doctrines too far left, causing them to vote Republican?

Taking the races one by one:

25th District— Once represented in Congress by Richard M. Nixon, the district was redrawn recently with 153,000 registered voters—98,000 Democrats, 55,000 Republicans. It is in the San Gabriel Valley east of Los Angeles. Republican incumbent John H. Rousselot of Baldwin Park seeks a second term. His opponent is two-term Democratic Assemblyman Ronald Brooks Cameron of Whittier.

HITS OPPONENT

Rousselot, 34, says the overriding issue is "survival of our constitutional republic and our capitalistic-free enterprise system as we have known it. I do not think my opponent is a true liberal. A liberal fights for maximum individual freedom, but he leans toward the collectivist approach—massive government, bureaucracy and federal control."

Cameron, 35, an accountant, says Rousselot's Birch membership is a major issue, adds: "The man's not competent to be a congressman. There are very few things on which I differ with the New Frontier stand on such things as education, medicare and the total foreign picture as it affects public morality."

DEMS LEAD

27th District—A smaller district north of downtown Los Angeles in the San Fernando and Antelope valleys that Republican incumbent Edgar W. Hiestand of Burbank has represented for five terms. The 173,000 registered voters include 104,000 Democrats, 65,000 Republicans, 4,000 unstated. Opposing Hiestand is Democratic Los Angeles city councilman Everett G. Burkhalter of North Hollywood.

Hiestand, 73, says conservatives are under vicious attack by the leftists and the so-called liberal extremists. Unless the people show they want the present unbelievably harmful and dangerous policies abandoned, those policies will be continued and the consequences are certain to be disastrous."

★ ★ ★

Burkhalter, 65, goes down the line with the Democratic party position and is pledged to back medical care for the aged. He contends Hiestand "wraps himself in the flag."

29th District—A new, spread-out district, largely in the San Gabriel Valley, with about 90,000 Democrats and 50,000 Republicans. Republican H. L. Richardson, a Temple City advertising consultant, opposes Democratic Assemblyman George E. Brown of Monterey Park.

Richardson, 34, campaigns as a conservative, calls for a firmer stand against the Communists and elimination of what he calls "piecemeal surrender." He has followed this tack announced at the start of his campaign: "I am going to discuss the evils of Communists and their bedfellows—the socialistic ADA'ers (Americans for Democratic Action) who are trying to play god with men's lives and the new robber barons, the bureaucrats who are robbing the average taxpayer through pressure groups, special interests and lobbyists."

★ ★ ★

Brown, 41, was a onetime conscientious objector who wound up as a second lieutenant in the Army in World War II. He pledges to support the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (SANE), whose endorsement he has. "I do strongly support all efforts at disarmament, but I am convinced we can only achieve political acceptability of that on the basis of universal disarmament, not unilateral, and on the basis of agreements offering the fullest protection in inspection," he says.

Chooses Men on Task Force

Swainson Appoints 7 for Emergency Unit

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Swainson yesterday announced the appointment of seven task force chairmen for the office of emergency planning, to operate in the event of war or an emergency.

The governor said each will have the responsibility for one area of activity involved in the planning for any sort of statewide emergency.

WORK TO COORDINATE

Their activities, he said, are coordinated with the work of related state and federal departments of government.

Similar appointments are being made throughout the country, the governor said, so that in the event of war or natural disaster each state can function autonomously as long as possible.

The appointments with the task force each will head:

Wyandotte Firm Will Close Foundry

WYANDOTTE (AP)—Blaming foreign competition, Wyandotte Chemical Corp. announced yesterday it will close its foundry within a few months. The foundry has made castings products for the glass industry since 1905. It employs about 40 men.

"Lower-priced foreign castings that are being sold in this country priced us right out of the business," said vice president George W. Schwarz, in charge of Wyandotte Chemical's general products division.

He said foreign-made castings are sold in the United States substantially below American prices.

FDR Once Used 'Quarantine' in Blockade Sense

NEW YORK (AP) —President Franklin D. Roosevelt also once used the word quarantine—as employed by President Kennedy in the sense of a blockade—to suggest a world cooperative effort toward halting aggression.

Roosevelt was speaking at Chicago on Oct. 5, 1937, at a time when Japanese forces were invading China.

"When an epidemic of physical disease starts to spread, the community approves, then joins in a quarantine of the patients in order to protect the health of the community against the spread of the disease," Roosevelt said then.

★ ★ ★

North Korea Reinstalls Premier, Red Officers

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea's rubber-stamp parliament installed Premier Kim Il Sung in office once again yesterday and approved a cabinet with only one major change.

Strong Yet Safe—Gives Hours of Continuous Relief from Minor ARTHRITIS PAINS

Reduces swelling and inflammation so it's easier to move afflicted limbs again

No cure as yet has been found for arthritis. But medical research has established that the strong yet safe medication in Anacin® gives hours of relief from arthritis' minor pains—even such chronic pain arising from deep in joints. It has also been found Anacin has an anti-inflammatory action that helps reduce swelling and inflammation—a basic cause of arthritis suffering. In minutes—pain is relieved so it's easier to move around and this helps keep joints from 'locking' or 'stiffening.'

Anacin Tablets are so effective because they contain strong yet safe medication. Remember, aspirin or buffered aspirin has only one pain reliever. But Anacin is like a doctor's prescription. That is, a combination of three medically proven ingredients. And Anacin does not upset the stomach. Take as directed.

State Industry, Researchers Told of Defense Needs

ANN ARBOR (AP) — America has many down-to-earth defense problems of vital importance to engage the talents of industry and university researchers, a Defense Department official told Michigan industry and higher education representatives here yesterday.

William H. Godel, deputy director of the Advance Research Projects Agency of the Department of Defense, indicated these needs could be an important source of revenue for industry, while meeting the demands of "small wars" in out-of-the-way parts of the world.

"The list is endless," he said at the Michigan Industry - University Space Age Research Conference ending today at the University of Michigan.

But two prime examples are transportation over what is usually regarded as impassable terrain and weaponry "for counter-insurgency, rather than general war."

The conference has drawn an estimated 250 representatives of industry, higher education, the military services and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Most of the industry people are from Michigan and a large percentage are from the automotive industry.

OTHER CHALLENGES

The conference is being sponsored by the Michigan Aeronautics and Space Association, the University of Michigan, Michigan State universities and the University of Detroit.

"We have learned thus far to design those years we are perhaps best qualified to fight, only to be challenged by the ones which we find obliged to support for lack of adequate technological support," Godel said.

Conventional ground and air transportation vehicles do not operate well in many of "the areas of the world in which we are obliged to fight," he said.

Trucks, for instance, cannot operate in the alluvial mud on the plain south of Saigon (covered much of the year by water) or climb the 50 per cent grades in Pakistan, he added.

"We have a pressing concern at ARPA with ground and near-surface mobility in such unlikely places as Viet Nam," he said.

Give a World Tour at Dinner Table

Perhaps one reason people who are widely traveled seem to have so much interest and fascination for us is that they have been able to broaden their horizons to include new and unusual experiences with other cultures.

★ ★ ★

We cannot all take our families on world trips . . . but we can, from time to time, introduce them to the capitals of the world at our dinner tables. Serve intriguing foods of the Orient, Italy, France and other countries throughout the world.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps you might plan to have a foreign dish once a week. With schoolage children discuss the the country from which the dish came and its location on the globe.

Of course it's fun to add new mystery to your cooking with herbs and seasonings. Dishes that might be fun to begin your world wanderings with are Neapolitan Lamb Risotto and Lamb Shanks, Grecian Style. Lamb is the perfect meat choice because its fine delicate flavor combines so well with herbs, fruits and vegetables and you can really have fun putting your creative cooking genius to work.

Fresh Game Deserves Proper Cooking

By JANET GDELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

If all the hunters we saw prowling the woods on Sunday came home with game, Pontiac area homemakers are going to be busy. On the theory that many cooks will welcome new recipes for small game, we're writing this article.

One source of information says that more wild rabbits are shot each year than any other type of game — over forty-five million. If your hunter brought home a Cottontail, you might like to make a rabbit stew. This recipe may also be used with frozen rabbit.

Rabbit Stew

1 rabbit (3½ pounds)
1 cup red wine vinegar
1 cup red table wine
1 cup sliced onion
3 bay leaves
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon clove
¼ teaspoon thyme
¾ teaspoon Tabasco
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
1 cup water or stock
2 teaspoons sugar

Cut rabbit into serving pieces. Combine vinegar, wine, onion, bay leaves, salt, clove, thyme and Tabasco. Marinate 2 days if rabbit is fresh—about 5 hours if rabbit is frozen. Strain and reserve marinade.

Combine flour and salt; coat rabbit parts. Heat shortening in large skillet; saute rabbit until brown on all sides. Drain fat. Add strained marinade and stock. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add sugar. Yield: 3-4 servings.

To make a gourmet meal out of wild duck, stuff it with a special sausage dressing.

Sausage Dressing for Duck

¼ cup finely chopped onion
¾ cup butter
¾ cup finely chopped celery
3 cups day-old bread, cubed
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
1 beaten egg
¼ pound pork sausage

Melt butter and add onions and celery. Cook until transparent and yellow. To this, add bread and seasoning. Toss to coat lightly with butter. Remove from heat. Add sausage.

Combine milk and egg and drizzle over bread mixture. Stir lightly to blend. Pack into salted cavity of 2 ducks. Close with skewers or toothpicks.

Place ducks in roasting pan and brush breasts with melted butter or margarine. Place in oven pre-heated to 325 degrees. Repeat butter brushing every 10-15 minutes for 45 minutes.

How about a curry sauce for pheasant?

Curried Pheasant

1 pheasant
½ cup flour
3 tablespoons fat
2 medium onions, minced
1½ tablespoons curry powder
2 tablespoons flour
3 cups broth
1 sour apple
2 teaspoons salt

Clean and cut pheasant into serving pieces. Roll in flour and cook in hot fat until brown, removing each piece as it browns.

Cook onions in same fat in which meat was cooked. Add curry powder with the flour. Cook slightly, add broth and stir until it boils.

Replace meat, add chopped apple and salt. Cover and simmer 1½ hours or until tender. Makes 6 servings.

Sweet Potato Souffle Is Southern-Treat

This delicious Sweet Potato Souffle, as prepared by "The House by the Road," Ashburn, Georgia, is topped with a meringue. You'll like the dash of raisins, and a bit of nutmeg that enhances the flavor. This recipe serves 8.

Peel 6 medium-sized sweet potatoes, and boil in salted water until tender. Put through a potato ricer and mash thoroughly.

Mix together 2 beaten egg yolks with ½ cup milk. Add ½ cup sugar, ½ cup raisins, ½ teaspoon nutmeg and 3 tablespoons of melted butter to the egg mixture and stir in mashed potatoes.

Put in buttered casserole, and bake in 350 F. oven for about 30 minutes, or until light brown on top and bottom.

Make a meringue and place on top, using the 2 beaten egg whites, with 4 tablespoons sugar and 1 teaspoon of lemon juice or orange juice. Put under broiler a few minutes to brown.

Instant Cheese

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Cheddar and blue cheese soon will be added to the long list of instant foods available. Scientists at Michigan State University's Agricultural Experiment station developed the instant cheeses which can be reconstituted simply by adding water.

Frost, Snow Accompany Mid-20 Temperatures

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The first severe cold snap of the season wrapped its arms around Michigan during the night, bringing with it frost, snow and below-freezing temperatures.

Temperatures in the mid-20s were not unusual, with a brisk 25 at Alpena and Pellston the lowest temperatures reported on the Weather Bureau's list of 15 representative cities. Some communities reported unofficial temperatures several degrees lower.

"The coldest spell we've had so far," the Weather Bureau said.

Lows between 25 and 30 were reported at Bay City-Saginaw, Escanaba, Flint, Grand Rapids, Houghton, Jackson, Lansing and Sault Ste. Marie.

Detroit, Muskegon and Ypsilanti were the "warm" spots with lows of 32.

The first measurable snowfall of the year was reported yesterday at Grayling where two inches fell, but it melted quickly. Saginaw, Flint, Houghton Lake, Sandusky and Ludington also reported snow and the Weather Bureau's precipitation report indicated that traces of snow and rain fell from one end of the state to the other.

* * *

At Grand Rapids, the weather bureau warned fruit growers to begin harvesting late crops to escape the first major frost of the season.

Michigan wasn't alone in recording freezing temperatures. The cold snap was carried by a high pressure area centered over eastern Tennessee which pumped frigid air down across the nation from the vast reaches of northwestern Canada.

And little relief, if any, was in sight.

The forecast for today indicated there would be snow flurries from one end of the state to the other.

* * *

Highs tomorrow were scheduled to range in the 40s throughout much of the state, slightly colder in the Upper Peninsula.

Friday was to be "not quite as cold," with snow flurries every where.

WED 50 YEARS — Mr. and Mrs. Grant Beardslee, 6650 Pine Knob Road, Independence Township, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Sunday at an open house from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church on Maybee Road. The Beardslees have two daughters and five grandchildren.

To Extend Drive for Hospital

Rochester Campaign for $2 Million Goes On

ROCHESTER—Efforts to raise $2,225,000 for the proposed Suburban Unit of Crittenton General Hospital will be extended past tomorrow's campaign deadline, officials of the campaign announced today.

Although pledges in excess of $850,000 have already been received, this does not include the major potential industrial contributors, according to the spokesman.

"Campaign leaders can see daylight now, and are sure that a hospital will be built," the official said.

The money to be raised in the current drive is not quite half the total $5 million needed to construct the proposed 205-bed hospital on Auburn Road near John R in Avon Township.

The remaining portion is expected to come from federal aid, funds on hand and mortgage financing.

The first unit of the proposed hospital will have a basic core of services so that the hospital can be expanded to 450 beds around 1970.

Contributions from the major industries are expected to come in shortly, according to campaign officials.

A graduate in physics of the University of Chattanooga and Emory University, he has performed research at he Naval Weapons Laboratory, Naval Research Laboratory, Willow Run Laboratories of the University of Michigan and the Bendix Corp. Research Laboratory in Detroit.

Following his graduation from the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Virginia in 1957, the Rev. Mr. Swan was appointed Vicar of St. Alfred's Episcopal Church, Lake Orion, and then served St. Andrew's Church in Clawson.

Holly Policies Rapped by Ex-Employe's Wife

By DON FERMOYLE

HOLLY—Personnel policies of the village administration, including the recent three-day suspension of Holly's police chief, were challenged last night by the wife of a former village employe.

* * *

Mrs. John T. Smith, whose husband resigned two weeks ago as operator of the sewage treatment plant, asked why "eight to 10 village employes had either resigned or had been fired in the past few months."

However, Mrs. Smith said there "must be a reason" for what she termed "an almost complete turnover" of village employes since February.

DIFFERENT REASONS

The reasons for persons leaving the village employ were different in each case, Oldani answered. The village president said he couldn't explain "each and every one."

* * *

In an interview following the council meeting, six members of the seven-man council denied that anyone actually had been fired since February.

Councilman Clarence L. Lester was absent from the meeting.

The other councilmen also said they did not know how Mrs. Smith arrived at the figure of eight to 10 employes. The councilmen did not mention a specific figure.

* * *

In response to Mrs. Smith's question about the suspension of Police Chief William Wood, Oldani said it was "strictly a personal problem.

"Anyone who cares to look at the records can find out why," Oldani added.

However, Oldani refused to elaborate on Wood's suspension when questioned later by a Pontiac Press reporter.

He said only that Wood was suspended for three days last month by the Village Police and Public Safety Commission, which includes Councilmen Lester, Leo Oberheim and Aaron Ganshaw.

* * *

"I could give you the information," Oldani told the newsman, "but I'm afraid it wouldn't be handled properly."

Since the suspension was haddled by the police commission, Oldani indicated that it was not a matter of public record.

Earlier, Mrs. Smith had told councilmen that "malicious gossip" had circulated in the village when employes left or were suspended without the reasons being published.

* * *

Mrs. Smith said her husband had left the village because "he couldn't get any cooperation from you (the council)."

Oberheim replied that this was untrue. Only two weeks before Smith resigned, Oberheim said, the council had given him permission to hire an assistant at the treatment plant.

'UNFAIR' QUESTIONS?

Oldani later described as "unfair" questions Mrs. Smith asked about how the village can operate its sewage treatment plant for six months without a licensed operator and why the village's residency rule applies to the police chief and not the village superintendent.

* * *

Under the village charter, the police chief is required to live in Holly, Oldani said.

The village superintendent's position is a job not covered by the village's residency requirement, Oldani said.

Citing examples of why persons had left village jobs, Oldani and other councilmen said one employe was unable to move to Holly in compliance with the residence rule and others had left only to take better positions elsewhere.

* * *

As for the lack of a licensed treatment plant operator, Oldani said the village had to make the best of a situation when operators left after giving only two weeks notice.

Ground-Breaking Rite Sunday for Hospital

SOUTHFIELD —Ground-breaking ceremonies for the new $10,463,000 Providence Hospital are slated for 3 p.m. Sunday on the southwest corner of Nine Mile and Greenfield roads.

Expected to be on hand for the festivities are Mayor S. James Clarkson, members of the advisory board and medical staff of the hospital, representatives of the archdiocese of Detroit and Sisters of the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul.

Besides the 375-bed medical facility, there will be two other buildings on the site — one a nurses' residence and school to train 200 nurses, the other a service building.

TO HAVE SPECIAL WARD

The hospital also will maintain a psychiatric ward.

The reinforced concrete structure was designed by the Detroit architectural firm of Giffels & Rossetti, Inc. Another Detroit concern, Darin & Armstrong, Inc., is the general contractor.

The Metropolitan Detroit Building Fund contributed $1.8 million toward the hospital building program.

The present Providence Hospital in Detroit, which is owned and operated by the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul, will be sold as soon as the new hospital is completed.

The expected sale price of $2.5 million dollars will be applied to the cost of construction of the new hospital.

Old Home to Go; Gives Room for Lot

MILFORD — An old home next to the Village Hall here will be removed to make room for a new municipal parking lot.

The home has been sold to the Knapp Redi-Mix Concrete Co. for $200.

Under the sale terms, the firm will remove the house from the property purchased by the village in August from the estate of the late William Purdy.

The Village Council also has passed an ordinancé which prohibits trashburning in commercial districts of Milford.

Pleads Guilty to Charge of Embezzling $1,100

A 34-year-old East Detroit man has pleaded guilty in Oakland County Circuit Court to a charge of embezzling some $1,100 from a Rochester firm.

Robert L. Lukanowski, formerly an estimator for Rochester Glass Service, entered his plea before Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams, who scheduled sentencing for Nov. 7.

He was charged with converting the money to his own use between Aug. 29 and Oct. 10.

Farm Bureau Asks More Quarantines

LANSING (UPI) — An extended quarantine on military supplies to Communist countries was urged today by the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Walter Wightman, president of the Farm Bureau, said the organization strongly supported President Kennedy's action in placing a quarantine on military shipments to Cuba, but that it should be extended.

"A year ago, we asked for an embargo against Communist countries — not just against Cuba," Wightman said. "We question the advisability of extending further aid to any country controlled by a Communist dictator.

* * *

"We urge expansion of this 'quarantine' to bring about a complete embargo of all military supplies by the free world against the Sino-Soviet bloc," Wightman said.

Hear Proposal for Game Area

Legislators Ponder Bid for Facility in County

A special committee of Michigan legislators heard recommendations that a state game area be established in Oakland County at a public hearing in the Bloomfield Township Hall last night.

Last night's hearing climaxed a day-long survey of recreational needs by the legislative study on state parks and lands.

The committee, headed by State Rep. Riemer Van Til, R-Holland, toured several recreational areas in the county prior to the hearing.

Representatives of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club suggested at the hearing establishing a state game hunting area in the county.

Van Til's committee was formed to study the use, management and operations of the present state park system. It also is reviewing the potential of increasing state and private outdoor recreational facilities throughout Michigan.

Oakland County was the second to last stop in the group's statewide tour. The committee's final hearing will be held in Jackson.

Guidance Counselor to Address PTSA Unit

A representative from the guidance counseling office will speak at tomorrow's 8 p.m. meeting of the Avondale High School Parent-Teacher-Student Association.

He will explain what scholarships are available and how they can be obtained. He also will talk on Career Night.

Oxford Orders New Audit

OXFORD—This village's financial records will be audited again, the council decided last night at its regular meeting, the first since the resignation of former Village Manager Robert W. Smalley.

* * *

Smalley, 39, resigned from his post at a special meeting last Wednesday, after learning he was to appear in Detroit's Common Pleas Court on a charge of misusing $1,450 in public funds while he was city manager of Riverview.

He appeared before Common Pleas Judge John D. Connelly last Thursday along with former Riverview City Clerk William M. Durand, who is charged with misusing $3,850 in public funds.

STOOD MUTE

Both men stood mute and waived examination. Smalley was released on $3,000 personal bond and Durand is free on $5,000 bond.

The former village manager will be arraigned in Wayne County Circuit Court within two months, on the same charge.

Last night the council "in a solemn mood," discussed the possibility of rehiring Smalley now, or at the time he is acquitted—if he is.

* * *

However, the council decided that "it would be a mistake to have him here," according to Village President Allen E. Valentine.

* * *

"We would get a lot of criticism if we rehired him, even temporarily," Valentine said.

"For the protection of the new manager we're going to have an audit," he said. "We'll have a review of last year's audit and a complete audit from July 1 to Oct. 17."

Four committees were set up at last night's meeting to temporarily fill the manager's duties.

Public works, police, fire and administratiye committees were established.

"Everyone was sorry to see Bob go, but in all fairness to him and for our own protection his resignation should stand," Valentine said.

"The people thought Bob was doing a real good job. The employes liked him too," he said.

Outstate Cities Join Drive to Ban Nonresident Tax

LANSING (UPI) — State Rep. William Hayward, R-Royal Oak, has reported that the campaign against cities which tax nonresidents' income has expanded into outstate Michigan.

Hayward said some 1,500 petition forms were mailed Saturday to suburban townships in southern Michigan.

The petitions seek to have legislation placed on the ballot in an April statewide election barring cities from imposing an income tax on nonresidents.

Hayward, who is also mayor of Royal Oak, said Monday that recent developments in Battle Creek, Saginaw and Flint have stirred up interest in suburban townships adjacent to those cities.

Saginaw will vote on a 1 per cent city income tax in November, was scheduled to discuss such a tax last night, and a city income tax has become a campaign issue in Flint for city council elections.

Interest in the petitions was at first centered around Detroit, which began a city income tax in July.

Since then the board of directors of the Michigan Townships Association has gone on record favoring a restriction on city income taxes.

Hayward said a goal of 300,000 signatures was set for the petition campaign.

The minimum for getting the legislation on the ballot in April is 260,479, representing 8 per cent of the vote for all governor candidates in the 1960 election.

World Sees Crisis in Mixture of Fear, Dismay, Gloom

By The Associated Press

Fear, dismay, resignation, and a gloomy prediction that by tomorrow no one may be alive but the aborigines of New Zealand.

Thus did the man in the street react in some of the capitals on both sides of the world at the prospect of a U.S.-Soviet showdown on Cuba in the thermonuclear age.

There also were indifference, praise and criticism of President Kennedy and skepticism that the two great powers would come to blows over the U.S. quarantine of arms shipments to Cuba.

The Duke of Beaufort, master of the queen's horse, was strolling to his club in St. James', but his mind was on Cuba. So were most of his countrymen.

"I think Kennedy was perfectly right to take the initiative," said the duke. "But we do not know enough about the situation yet to comment on the intricacies as to whether he has taken precisely the right action."

★ ★ ★

In pubs, drinkers asked for the radio to be turned louder when the news came on.

"Better get out me old blues," said a navy veteran of World War II, giving light-hearted expression to a heavy-hearted fear.

"I think Kennedy is making a big mistake in risking the start of fighting," said Shirley Ross, a housewife. "I suppose Britain would be dragged into it eventually and we can't afford that because we are so vulnerable."

★ ★ ★

Most people expressed sympathy for the American feeling and worry over American action.

"If there's a war, we'll have to fight too," said George Nann, porter in a Mayfair apartment house. "Why don't they talk it over with us before they went so far."

WARSAW

Communist Poland's capital was a gray city of ominous calm, worry and dismay over the Cuban crisis.

War jitters and panic-buying by the public were averted temporarily at least by an official effort to play the news in low key.

Behind the facade of calm were small islands of dismay, gloom and resignation among the Poles with access to outside news — those working in government and newspaper offices and foreign embassies.

Privately, Poles feel little love for Fidel Castro's Cuba. But reaction to President Kennedy's declaration was mostly critical.

Among Poles getting their news from outside, a few predicted limited war ahead, perhaps even on the scale of Korea. Some openly expressed fear of a nuclear conflagration. Their thinking was that Soviet Premier Khrushchev will not, and cannot, back down on Cuba.

"Kennedy is acting now just like the Russians did in Hungary in 1956," snapped one normally pro-U.S. author. "Whose business is it what is shipped to a sovereign country?"

★ ★ ★

A Pole gloomily told an American friend: "This may be the last time we meet. By tomorrow there may be nobody alive but the aborigines in New Zealand. All we can do is hope that reason prevails at the top—on both sides—instead of madness."

PARIS

Parisians grabbed copies of newspapers with Cuban crisis headlines and Cuba was on everyone's lips.

"Kennedy did what he should have," said Charles Mas, a hospital worker. "It was his right. He couldn't tolerate Soviet rockets so close to the United States."

A cafe waiter said: "It's terrible. We've had a war every 20 years but if this continues they'll come more often."

★ ★ ★

Taxi driver Marcel Jusserand said: "This is all bluff—part of Kennedy's election campaign. Everything will work out all right, you'll see. It's not tomorrow that we'll have a war over Cuba."

TOKYO

The Japanese man in the street reacted mostly with indifference and a "what can you do" attitude to the Cuban crisis.

★ ★ ★

Some opposed the American action and others were depressed. These were the Japanese in war-conscious Japan who fear the blockade could lead to all-out war.

"I understand the American situation," said Mine Miyashita, 48, a farmer, "but a blockade is a dangerous act. I hope the matter will be settled by negotiations."

Cite Heightened Interest in N-Shelters, Supplies

By United Press International

Civil defense officials from Maine to California reported heightened interest today in fallout shelters among anxious citizens aroused by the developing Cuban crisis.

Authorities said the requests for survival information varied from "normal" in some areas to "considerable" in others.

The concern on the part of individuals was matched by stepped-up activity at official levels. But here again there appeared to be no over - all trend. Some communities continued with existing programs. Others initiated new programs to meet the new threat.

Geographical location did not seem to make much difference in public attitudes. In Midwest Missouri, as in the costal state of Washington, people swamped local CD headquarters with many questions about fallout shelters and food supplies.

In other sections of the nation things were pretty much the same with interest varying from one locality to another.

The National Civil Defense Headquarters in the nation's capital said it had sent out no new information for people to stock up on food but it is a part of the standard program to encourage people to maintain shelters with about a two-week supply of food and water.

One Washington, D.C. dairy which sells water in five-gallon plastic bags for household reserve supply purposes said it had been swamped with calls beginning soon after President Kennedy made his Cuban quarantine speech Monday night.

A spokesman for the national headquarters said that shelters for only several hundred thousand people have been stocked with food and water although 60 million shelter areas have been named and are scheduled to be stocked.

TAKES TIME

Explaining that the stocking of shelters began only three weeks ago, the spokesman said, "We have a lot of stuff in the pipes. But it is going to take time to get provisions and equipment into shelters, and much depends on local cooperation."

The equipment includes sanitary devices, first aid and radiation monitoring gear.

In Minneapolis, Minn., Twin Cities' CD authorities reported not only a "significant increase" in inquiries but a more informed attitude on the part of callers.

A spokesman said callers wanted to know "what types of food should I store away? Where can I buy dried food? What type of container should I store water in? What kind of air filter should I use with the blower that I have in my shelter?"

PRESS TURNED AWAY — Air Force officers escort newsmen and photographers from the flight line at MacDill Air Force Base near Tampa, Fla., after first giving, then withdrawing permission to photograph a build-up of military aircraft at the base.

Troop Build-Up Set in Florida

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — A force of foot soldiers was expected to begin building up rapidly today in this closest U.S city to Cuba.

Navy officials turned away questions about troop arrivals, but huge Globemaster transport planes were landing at the rate of one every 30 minutes during one period last night.

An estimated 5,000 Marines landed here last week, and there were unconfirmed reports another 1,400 Marines were flown in late Monday and yesterday.

Military traffic had picked up around the island city located only 90 miles from Cuba. Navy troop trucks were seen last night carrying troops in fatigues from the Boca Chica Naval Air Station to a Navy seaplane base.

John Day, an acting city commissioner, said the Army called him yesterday asking for the use of the walled city ball park, Wicker Stadium, as a staging area for troops within "48 to 72 hours."

The field was cleaned up yesterday and lavatory facilities repaired. Gates were installed with new locks.

A 40-car train made up of five passenger cars and 35 flatcars carrying military jeeps, trucks and possibly antiaircraft rocket transporters arrived in Miami last night and headed for Homestead, south of Miami and near Homestead Air Force Base.

Columnist Pooh-Poohs Experts Who Claim Souffles Hard to Make

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — My mother once told me, "Honey, when you can cook a souffle, the kitchen is yours."

Somewhere along the line of cooking instruction, however, she forgot to include her technique for producing a perfect hollandaise sauce.

* * *

But I've heard more otherwise top-notch cooks admitting defeat on the souffle, either main dish or dessert, than on any other facet of the culinary arts.

Today, for instance I read in vogue magazine that the souffle is "the prima donna, impatient, defiant, elusive . . ."

Well, I won't take issue with the experts on preparation of this "autocratic" dish. I just contend that the art of producing it has scared most housewives out of their wits and all they need to do to conquer their fear of this delightful dish is to start making it.

From Vogue magazine, I learned that the dish I've been making since teen-hood was a product of Marie Antoinette's interest in food.

* * *

Marie, wishing to flatter one of her court musicians, asked her chef to produce a dish light and airy as the notes sounded by the royal trumpeter.

The chef, it is said, "toyed with some eggs, came up with a dish delicate as a breath . . ."

I learned about souffles without benefit of a master chef — just from an expert cook named "mom" who never had to measure for perfect biscuits and could make the difficult salt-rising bread with its tantalizing odor.

On souffles, I've never had a failure, which is more than I can say for some of this amateur's chef's stroganoffs and coq au vins.

There are differing schools on the souffle — some cooks argue that the baking dish should be greased lightly. Others say no. I've tried both ways, and had equally good luck.

Experience has taught me these tips: Have the oven at a steady 300 degrees (you'll find some cookbooks recommend 325, but I have better luck with 300). Once the oven has "settled" at 300 leave it there, although you'll find some cookbooks suggesting a higher the cooking period.

Don't peek. Let a souffle bake without interference. When the cooking timer sounds, serve the souffle immediately.

For the guest who wants "just one more cocktail", let him leave. A souffle's puffy cloud will not hold.

Now, here is the basic main course recipe for a cheese souffle, which has never failed at our house. You'll find it in "the American woman's cook book."

4 tablespoons butter or margarine;
4 tablespoons flour;
1½ cups of hot milk;
1 teaspoon salt;
Dash of Cayenne;
½ pound sharp cheese, grated;
6 eggs, separated.

Melt butter, add flour and blend. Add milk and cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Add seasonings and cheese; heat until cheese is melted. And beaten egg yolks. cool. Pour into stiffly beaten egg whites and mix well.

Bake in 2-quart baking dish in 300 degree oven about 1¼ hours. Serves four amply.

Added tip: Turn the egg-milk-cheese mixture very slowly into the egg whites. No beating. If you want to trim the quantities to a souffle for two, use 3 eggs, 3 tablespoons of butter, 1¼ cups of milk, a little less cheese and a 1½ quart baking dish. Cut the baking time to 55 minutes.

Good luck with the "Prima Donna" of egg dishes. Now, about that hollandaise. More experts than I lemon juice. Meanwhile, I go on can count have told me why the having failures. YOUR advice is sauce separates when I add the now invited.

Chunks of Ham Are Barbecued

Meat cooked in barbecue sauce goes over in a big way with almost everyone. Barbecued beef, barbecued spareribs and meats brushed with the sauce on the outdoor grill are sure hits.

* * *

But, have you ever tried a barbecued ham dish? It's simply delicious! You could mix the spicy sauce with either uncooked or cooked ham, you have a wonderful way of using leftovers, especially the end of the ham that must be cut into pieces.

Barbecued Ham Chunks—Rice

1½ pounds smoked ham
1 cup tomato juice
¾ cup brown sugar
1 bay leaf
Few grains cayenne pepper
1 tablespoon diced onion
1 tablespoon diced celery
1 tablespoon diced green pepper
¼ cup lemon uice or vinegar
½ teaspoon chili powder
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
⅛ teaspoon ground cloves
⅛ teaspoon allspice
3 to 4 cups cooked rice

Cut ham into 1-inch cubes. Combine remaining ingredients, with the exception of rice, for barbecue sauce. Cover ham with barbecue sauce. Cook slowly on top of range or bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) 1 hour or until done. Serve on rice. 6 servings.

Salad Oil Biscuits Bake Golden Brown

You'll be pleased to learn that biscuits made with liquid corn oil instead of a solid shortening are not only in line with the advocated changes in diet but are easy to mix and delightful in texture.

Since these biscuits are made from a recipe that calls for using a liquid vegetable oil instead of a hard fat, the shortening does not have to be cut into the dry ingredients. Instead, you add the oil with the milk, which is simplicity itself. These directions are also noteworthy because you don't have to flour the board or the biscuit cutter nor grease the baking sheet.

In place of onions you may want to use chopped chives, parsley or caraway seed. Or omit the special additions and you have a recipe for basic biscuits as good as you have ever tasted and as up-to-date as is this method for using more polyunsaturated fats in the daily diet.

Onion Biscuits

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons minced onions
1-3 cup corn oil
2-3 cup skim milk

Heat oven to 475 degrees. Sift dry ingredients into bowl. Add and stir in minced onions. Pour corn oil and milk into measuring cup, but don't stir. Pour all at once into flour mixture. Stir with a fork until mixture cleans sides of bowl and rounds into a ball.

For drop biscuits: Drop dough onto ungreased baking sheet. For rolled or patted biscuits: Smooth by kneading dough about 10 times without additional flour. With the dough on waxed paper, press out ¼ inch thick with hands or roll between waxed papers. Cut with unfloured biscuit cutter. Bake 10 to 12 minutes on ungreased baking sheet. Makes about 16 biscuits.

All Three Parts of Outdoor Grill Need Cleaning

Don't put that outdoor grill away dirty. It will be easier to clean now than next summer.

Grill bodies should be first soaked in a solution of water and low sudsing detergent.

For cooking surfaces—the grids or the grates—a vigorous scrubbing with steel wool and household cleanser is recommended.

Use a wire brush and plenty of cleanser on the fire box. This is the hardest cleaning job, with carbon deposits, rust and caked ash to contend with. But it's well worth the effort.

Violence Buried Beneath Cuba's Beauty

By The Associated Press

From its very first tourist, Cuba has enchanted its visitors.

★ ★ ★

"A thousand tongues would not suffice to describe it," Christopher Columbus wrote after discovering Cuba, "the most beautiful land that human eyes have seen."

Yet it's also a land of violence, of foreign domination and of homemade tyrants, and these, too, go back to its first recorded history.

President Kennedy, in calling for its quarantine, began another chapter in what has often been a shocking and distressing history.

Anyone who drops in on the National Geographic Society library to bone up on Cuba, will find this obscured at first.

One needs a machete to cut through the lush undergrowth of adjectives used by early writers.

But slowly the truth comes out.

Within 25 years after the Spaniards moved in the Indians had been exterminated.

In 1523 the first slave ship arrived. This sorry business continued until 1886.

TREASURE ISLAND

Exploited from within, Cuba was pillaged and plundered by pirates from without. The Isle of Pines was the setting for Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treaure Island."

Back in 1827 the U.S. minister to Madrid was warning Spain that this country would never tolerate Cuba passing over to another European power.

In 1848 the United States offered Spain $100 million for Cuba. Though this was refused, Presidents Pierce and Buchanan continued to have a simple Cuban policy: Get it.

Then came the most dramatic moment in our relations with Cuba — the blowing up of the Maine in the Havana Harbor, with 266 lives lost.

War with Spain! . . . Teddy Roosevelt and his Roughriders . . . a wonderful rule for enlisting eager recruits: "Don't take anyone whose stomach measures bigger than his chest. . . . . quick victory . . . U. S. rule . . . then Cuba set free.

The paradox of Cuba has continued to the present day.

"Nature is beautiful. Climate and soil combine to provide extraordinary fruitfulness with even nominal care . . . yet the masses of Cuba's rural population are impoverished, ill housed, ill fed, and poorly clothed."

As an old sailor, Kennedy undoubtedly is well aware that Cuba presents a lot of coastline to guard. With a length of 730 miles, a width averaging 50 miles, Cuba has a coastline of 2,500 miles.

It has a population of around seven million, of whom one million live in Havana, and with 44,206 square miles, is about the size of Pennsylvania.

Until the time of its recent troubles, Cuba was exporting sugar, rum, cigars, night club singers, coffee, pineapples, bananas and baseball players.

Many observers have pointed out that the island looks something like a crescent moon, but the Cubans themselves think it looks more like an alligator.

Let's hope the symbolism means something. The business, toothy end of the alligator should be pointed the other way.

Shirley MacLaine Studies Back Streets of Paris

By VERNON SCOTT

UPI Hollywood Correspondent

★ ★ ★

Wide-eyed, button-nosed Shirley plays a prostitute in "Irma la Duce" and candidly admits her knowledge of shady ladies was limited to other portrayals she'd seen on the screen.

"I had to research those poor creatures for myself," she explained.

"The only answer was to go to their hangouts and get a true impression of their attitudes and reasons for becoming hookers. I also studied their stances, the way they walked and talked.

"Every night I got in a cab and drove down to Les Halles section of Paris—where 'Irma la Duce' takes place—and got to know some of the girls. They were perfectly willing to discuss their lives with me.

"One thing I discovered is that most of them have IQs of about 3. They aren't very bright."

Shirley's project was not just a lark. She attacks every role with the dedication and tenacity of a Green Bay Packers' linebacker.

For "My Geisha" Shirley spent two weeks in a Tokyo geisha training school. She talked to doctors and psychiatrists to learn about the kind of woman she portrayed in "The Children's Hour."

"The roles that are farthest removed from my own personality and character are the ones I seem to play most," she said, "and I make it a point to learn more about those kind of people.

"I guess the most difficult character I ever played was that of the elevator operator in 'The Apartment.' She was closest to me."

Shirley sought anonymity as she prowled Les Halles gaining information about the soiled doves of Paris. Night after night the illicit trade in sin fascinated the actress.

TO ENHANCE

★ ★ ★

"Their clothes were always tight and they were loaded down with all kinds of jewelry. When I talked to them it was clear that they have no concept of morality as other people do. They don't think of what they're doing as right or wrong. They just accept it.

"This is the important quality in Irma la Duce. I am playing the role to minimize the shock value of this woman's profession.

"She is a sensitive woman who is virtuous in her own mind, no matter how she is forced to make a living. But she is bound to prostitution and can't escape it.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

"I'm kinda embarrassed by the costumes I have to wear," she giggled. "They're the most revealing things I've ever worn, or maybe I should say almost wear. But I'm sure it's the best part I've ever played."

Detroit to Launch Bid for Federal Aid

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit was ready to launch its first bid for government aid in its proposed $69-million public works program today.

★ ★ ★

Formal application was approved yesterday by the Common Council. The application is a request for projects costing an estimated $10 million—about half of which will be paid locally.

A city official estimated the proposal would create jobs for about 1,000 persons, most of them construction workers.

Among the items listed in the application were $248,500 for a fire station, $950,000 for street lighting, revisions and additions to two local hospitals, and $8.1 million for new water and sewer lines in the city.

Driver Dies as Fire Rages After Crash

MONROE (AP)—Joseph Buyakie, 49, of Toledo, Ohio, was burned fatally yesterday in a fire that enveloped his car after it collided with a tractor-trailer truck at an intersection in nearby Erie Township.

State police said Buyakie drove from a side road into the path of a truck driven by Carlton Milleman of Angola, Ind. Milleman and others pulled Buyakie from the burning wreckage, but he died en route to a Toledo hospital.

Milleman was not held.

Detroit to Start Speed Up of Mail Delivery

DETROIT (UPI) — Over 200 downtown mailboxes have been marked as part of the new same-day, four-hour mail service announced by the Post Office Department.

The service has been designated as accelerated business collection and delivery, ABCD.

Assistant Postmaster Gencral Frederick C. Belen said a first-class letter deposited in any one of these boxes by 11 a.m. on any business say, will be delivered within the Detroit downtown area by 3 p.m. the same day.

Belen said the service would be expanded in the near future to include major suburban points.

Truman Appointee Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Hugh Fulton, 54, chief counsel for the Truman war investigating committee from 1941 to 1944, died Tuesday. Fulton, senior partner of the law firm of Fulton, Walter & Duncombe, had been an assistant U.S. attorney in New York from 1939 to 1941. He was born in North Baltimore, Ohio.

"Destined for commercial success. The film instantly grabs and enthralls the audience . . ."—VARIETY
"The word 'beautiful' best and most fully describes this extraordinary story. Once audiences get to see this picture, only the hopelessly callonsed among them can fail to be moved to laughter, hope and tears. "The Miracle Worker' is more than an entertainment, it is a genuine experience. Miss Bancroft never falters. It is a great performance. Patty Duke is a marvel. She wrings the heart."—HOLLYWOOD REPORTER
"Word of mouth will grow and grow for this film, which draws emotions up from the toes to dwell in the heart and leave through the eyes. It is not a depressing tale, but, filled with wonderful humorand hope, an uplifting one."—INDEPENDENT FILM JOURNAL
"It is supurb. It has an intense and classic quality which will make it last forever as one of the finest works of art in the history of motion pictures. Patty Duke is absolutely flawless. The picture has an endless playing potential. By no means merely an 'Art House' picture. It has tremendous 'word-of-mouth' potential."—BOXOFFICE
"Told with skill and beauty. Outstanding performances. Major boxoffice. A deeply moving film . . . will find a wide audience appeal. It tugs at the heart all along, finally uplifting it."—FILMDAILY
"Exhibitors can confidently recommend 'The Miracle Worker' . . . to family audiences everywhere."—MOTION PICTURE DAILY

Spanish Rice May Have Meat or Not

Spanish Rice

3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons chopped celery
1 tablespoon cooking fat or oil
1¾ cups cooked rice
2 cups canned tomatoes
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon worchestershire sauce

Lightly brown the onion, green pepper, and celery in the fat or oil. Add rice, tomatoes, salt, sugar, and worchestershire sauce. Simmer until thick. If desired, cooked ground or chopped meat or crisp chopped bacon may be added to the spanish rice. Six servings.

Take time to rinse a grater right after using it because this saves time in the long run.

Golden Yams Turned Into Festive Dish

Harvesting, beginning in late August, is a time of excitement as the Cajun growers load these plump, extra moist and sweet yams for shipping to market.

* * *

At the conclusion of the main harvest . . . in late October . . . the Cajuns and all their Louisiana friends join in their annual harvest celebration called Yambilee. This is marked by parades, recipe contests, and the grand finale which is a magnificent ball to crown the Yam Queen and King for the coming year.

You, too, can celebrate with your Southern neighbors by serving all kinds of dishes made with these plump, Louisiana yams. They're mellow and stringless and rich in Vitamin A.

Team them with fall game birds such as pheasant or duck; serve them with chicken or turkey or pork roast, but most of all enjoy them for their wholesome goodness.

Coconut Broiled Yams

8 medium yams, cooked, peeled and halved or
2 cans (1-pound each) Louisiana yams, drained and halved
1½ cups shredded coconut
¼ cup melted butter or margarine
½ cup firmly-packed brown sugar
¼ cup heavy cream
¼ cup maraschino cherries (about 10 cherries)

Araange yams in lightly greased shallow 2-quart casserole. Top with 1 cup coconut. Combine butter, brown sugar and cream; mix well and pour over yams and coconut. Top with remaining ½ cup coconut and cherries. Broil 4 to 5 inches from source of heat 4 minutes, or until coconut is lightly browned. Makes 8 servings.

COCONUT BROILED YAMS — The copper colored Louisiana yam harmonizes in color and flavor with fall game birds, turkey, pork or most any main dish you choose.

Canned Plums Go Well on Ice Cream

Here's a falltime ice cream sundae dessert — Plum Sundae. Mix 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon dried orange peel in a saucepan. Add syrup drained from a 1 lb. 13 oz. can of purple plums, mixing until smooth.

Noodles Good Too

As a change from the usual potato dish served with roast fresh ham and applesauce, offer freshly cooked noodles dressed with browned butter and poppyseeds.

Fullmer Loses Title to 'Own Style' Opponent

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

"Wilson Angry After Loss, Tells Lions, Put Out or Get Out."

"Bump Elliott Hung in Effigy."

"Lemm Takes Blame, But Lashes at Cards."

"Criticized Woody, Criticizes Officials."

All these were the result of football defeats or humiliating losses last weekend. In each case the coach is lashed or is lashing out at teams.

ANN ARBOR HUMS

In the case of the Ann Arbor hanging, Michigan alumni are humming. "Never has a Michigan team looked so poor in basic fundamentals," commented a prominent U. of M. man over the weekend.

Another Michigan alumnus commented that the Elliotts (Pete at Illinois) and Bump were subtly and quietly told to withdraw from coaching and go into business.

"They are two nice guys and they shouldn't be hurt by the results and embarrassment of losing football," said the alumnus, "it would be best if they stepped out quietly."

CAREFUL LIONS

In the Lion's case, the majority of the players are keyed up each game and give all. There are a couple, however, who give themselves away, by word or by deed, on and off the playing field.

A few should quit talking about Miami (site of the runnerup bowl, where the Lions have played two straight years), and think more about the NFL title game to be played in the cold north of the Eastern Division city, December 23rd.

The Giants were not a better ball club than the Lions man for man. It may be that a couple Lions' offensive players are just too secure in their jobs.

★ ★ ★

The snap and sharpness the Lions had going on and off the field, into and out of their offensive and defensive huddles, wasn't there in New York.

Watch the Packers come out of their huddle. They don't mosey, they run and when time is running out on certain plays, they don't crawl back to the huddle.

Wilson has every right to whiplash a few players. In the NFL, any team can beat another on any given Sunday and with this in mind the Lions should realize they are still in the thick of contention.

They must play like contenders in every game and like champions when the chips are down. A team can look good, play well and keep its poise even in losing.

Wilt Pours in 56 to Defeat Pistons

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—There was no mistaking the star as the Warriors made their National Basketball Association debut in San Francisco a winning one Tuesday night with a 140-113 victory over the Detroit Pistons.

★ ★ ★

For Wilt Chamberlain, a 7-foot 1-inch ace, who set league scoring records for the team in Philadelphia the past seasons, scored 56 points in the new uniform to pace the assault at the Cow Palace.

Facing competition from the Gene Fullmer-Dick Tiger middleweight championship boxing match in nearby Candlestick Park the inaugural drew only 5,215.

VETERAN LINEUP

As new coach Bob Feerick started an all-veteran lineup, Ted Luckenbill took the honor of scoring the first points and went on to tally nine of the first 11.

In the other NBA action Tuesday, the Cincinnati Royals rallied to edge the Los Angeles Lakers 116-115 and in another one-point effair, St. Louis beat Chicago 110-109. Syracuse beat New York 123-119.

San Francisco opened later than the other teams and the Pistons made a determined bid early in the second half to win their first game in three tries. But after the count was closed to 71-67 for the Warriors, Chamberlain's jump shot began hitting and he sank eight field goals in the quarter.

HAWKS WIN

In the double header at New York, St. Louis beat Chicago on Barney Cable's two foul shots with only 12 seconds remaining.

Syracuse, sparked by John Kerr and Dolph Schayes to a 12-point margin early in the fourth period, stood off the Knicks' late challenge to win.

But the Royals tied the score at 80-all and from then on it was a see-saw battle until Oscar Robertson's jump shot with 1:11 remaining put Cincinnati ahead 116-114. With 24 seconds left, Wayne Embry fouled Jerry West. West hit only one of three free throws and that finished the scoring.

In the inaugural here, Feerick had first planned to start rookie Wayne Hightower from Kansas but switched to his veteran alignment with Luckenbill and Tom Gola. Hightower entered the game in the second quarter and went on to score 18 points in his NBA debut. Don Ohl with 22 and Bailey Howell, with 18, paced the Pistons who meet the Warriors here again on Friday.

Blood Drawn in NHL Game

Montreal, Chicago Players Square Off

CHICAGO (AP)—Reg Fleming of the Chicago Black Hawks was unhappy over the incidents marking Tuesday night's 4-4 tie with the Montreal Canadians in a fight-filled National Hockey League game.

Fleming and Gilles Tremblay of the Canadiens drew match penalties after engaging in a stick fight. As a result the Hawks had to play shorthanded for 10 minutes and the Candiens for 5 minutes.

★ ★ ★

Fleming received the extra 5 minutes for drawing blood when he slashed open Tremblay's forehead. The severe cut required 35 stitches. Both players will have to go before league president Clarence Campbell and each will probably draw a fine of at least $100.

KEPT SWINGING

"All I tried to do was defend myself," moaned Fleming. "He checked me before the whistle blew and I looked to Referee Frank Udvari for some sort of decision. Udvari didn't do a thing and Tremblay kept swinging so I had to come back at him in self defense. I don't think I should have been given an extra five minutes."

Udvari later said he didn't see the start of the fight in the second period but gave Fleming the additional 5 minutes for drawing blood.

★ ★ ★

Lowther Tops Scoring With 72 Points

Shrine Ace Back in Lead

Once again Chuck Lowther has taken over the lead in the Oakland County individual scoring race.

★ ★ ★

The senior Royal Oak Shrine signal caller has amassed 12 touchdowns and leads Dale LaPrairie of Ferndale St. James with 72 points. LaPrairie has 67.

It's the third time in six games that Lowther has led the pack.

Dave Helmreich, of West Bloomfield, has slipped from the highest notch last week to fourth with 61.

He follows Dave Ottman, Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes halfback, who boasts ten touchdowns and four PAT for 64 points.

A noticeable change has been made in the standings by Mike Ball who made an 18 point improvement over his last weeks total.

Ball is right behind Bloomfield Hills' quarterback Roger Stewart who has made his talent appreciated on the Hills' squad with 52 points, 10 of these are extra points.

★ ★ ★

PNH Grabs 28-29 Edge From Central Runners

The 28-29 win was the first for PNH in the annual clash after four tries.

The win means the first 50 points in the '62-63 battle for the inter-city All-Sports Trophy go to Northern.

Don Tucker, Bob Wilson and Al Wadley placed 4th, 5th and 8th for the winners in that order. Harold Davies and Norm Lyons were 6th and 7th respectively for the Chiefs.

KETTERING, DETROIT WIN

Waterford Kettering defeated Oxford, 23-32, and the University of Detroit High clinched its Catholic League cross-country championship by blanketing Orchard Lake St. Mary, 15-40, in other cross-country action.

John Popovich of Kettering and Dick Reamer of U-D High took first place honors for the winners and set new records in the process of 11:06 and 9:26, respectively.

Ed Pankner of the Captains was second followed by Oxford runners Jim Burr, Tom Swett and Richard Evans in 3rd, 5th and 6th.

Middleweight Crown Won by Nigerian

Unanimous Decision Awarded to Tiger; No Knockdowns

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The long reign of Gene Fullmer as king of the World Boxing Association middleweight division was over today, terminated by a mauler, a brawler, much in the same mold as the Utah Strong Boy.

The new ruler is Dick Tiger of Nigeria, the British Empire Champion of the 160-pounders, who won the title by unanimous decision Tuesday night in 15 rough, bruising rounds before a crowd of 11,600 in Candlestick Park.

There was blood, as is usual with a Fullmer fight, but no knockdowns. There was drama, as a host of Tiger's countrymen, resplendent in the flowing robes of their native land, swarmed into the ring and hoisted their new idol to their shoulders.

EIGHTH DEFENSE

On with the new, gone with the old. Fullmer, unbeaten in 17 straight ring engagements, met defeat in the eighth defense of the crown.

It was an honor the soft-speaking, hard slamming Fuller had won in this same city by a 14-round knockout over Carmen Basilio Aug. 28, 1959.

Fullmer fought the last 4½ rounds in a familiar Fullmer pattern. He was cut and bleeding from gashes over both eyes, but he was still fighting, flailing away with both fists at the final bell. Most even gave him the final round.

Fullmer has told friends he will retire if and after he suffers back-to-back defeats.

AT CROSSROADS

He is at that cross roads today. He will meet the 33-year-old Nigerian Jan. 19 in either Bozeman, Mont., or Las Vegas, Nev. Part of his retirement plans have been met.

Does he think he can return and whip Tiger in the rematch?

"If I feel like I can't, there won't be one," said Fullmer, quite simply. "Right now I don't feel that way."

★ ★ ★

"Now I'm the champion I think I'll stay the champion," was the response from Tiger.

A modest fellow, Tiger had praise for Fullmer. "After three or four rounds I knew I was tangling with the champion."

There was a disagreement in another area. Fullmer said he was accidentally butted in the ninth round. It slashed open a small cut inflicted in the second round.

WAIVED CHANCE

The conflict was not too elemental. But Fullmer, it developed, waived any chance of winning on an accidental butt by insisting the fight continue. Actually, he couldn't have, but Fullmer didn't know it at the time. He had to be ahead on points. He wasn't.

Judges Jack Downey and Vern Bybee scored the fight 9-5 and 7-5 under the California system of one or more points to the winner of a round, none for the loser and zero for an even round.

Referee Frankie Carter had it 10-1.

Gophers Prepare to Meet Michigan Saturday

Minnesota Has Attack Problems

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Untracking an offense that boasts more speed than usual and more aerial striking power continued to be the prime concern as Minnesota prepped this week for its first road game of the season at Michigan Saturday.

★ ★ ★

The feeling here is that one of these Saturdays the Gopher attack should break loose and do some prolific scoring to match the defense, again tough in the tradition of past Minnesota elevens.

In halfbacks Bill Munsey and Jim Cairns the Gophers possess more speed than in recent years but so far insufficient offensive blocking has pretty well nullified it.

★ ★ ★

And in quarterback Duane Blaska, Minnesota has a passer the superior of departed All-America Sandy Stephens, althouth Blaska cannot come close to matching Stephens' running ability or flair for the big play.

★ ★ ★

Blaska has completed 32 of 64 passes this season for 412 yards and three touchdowns. Last year, Stephens could connect on only 33 per cent of his aerials and opponents generally figured if they could stop the Gophers on the ground they had a good chance of winning.

RUNNING THREATS

So far, Minnesota's biggest running threats have been fullbacks Jerry Jones and Jay Sharp. It was Sharp who bolted 52 yards up the middle to score the touchdown that tied Northwestern at 22-22 before the Wildcats exploded in the closing minutes to post a 34-22 triumph.

The Gophers opened with a scoreless tie with Missouri. Minnesota got inside the Tiger 5-yard line twice the first half but lacked the scoring punch to drive across.

Then came a 21-0 victory over Navy, accomplished largely on the efforts of the stout defense which slammed Middie quarterback Ron Klemick for 82 yards in the losses trying to pass.

Minnesota bounced back last week to down hapless Illinois 17-0 after the Northwestern setback, but had trouble conquering the Illini.

Jones has rammed his way for three touchdowns to lead the Gopher scoring in four games.

★ ★ ★

The Minnesota defense is as tough as ever. Ends John Campbell and Bob Prawdzik, tackles Bobby Bell and Carl Eller and linebackers Paul Benson, Julian Hook and Jones are a gang-tackling bunch against whom no Gopher foe this season has been able to run very effectively.

Woody Must Make Apology for Remarks

CHICAGO (AP) — Commissioner Bill Reed went to bat for Big Ten football officials Tuesday and chastized Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes at the same time.

Reed demanded and is getting a written apology from Hayes for making public statements in which the Buckey coach criticized officiating in Ohio State's 18-14 loss to Northwestern Saturday.

Hayes showed films of the game on a television program in Columbus Sunday and three times repeated one phase of the film in which he contended an official had made an error in calling pass interference.

MADE CHARGE

Hayes later was quoted as saying "we were cheated out of a touchdown. We didn't get quite a fair shake from the officials."

★ ★ ★

"I consider all this very distressing," said Reed. "We always back up officials' judgement. They must make split second decisions and we consider such public statements as Hayes' as undermining this effort."

TIPS FROM CHAMPS by RAY BLUTH

The main difference between a good league bowler and a champion is the star's ability to correct his faults during play.

He can do this because he has the basic fundamentals under control. The league bowler must do it in practice.

When practicing, don't be score conscious. If you try for good scores during practice, you most likely will fall back into your bad habits. Don't set an arbitrary limit on the number of practice games you roll at any one time. I usually roll five, but may go four or six. It depends on whether I feel good and the ball is going right.

★ ★ ★

When things are clicking, I tend to let well enough alone and practice less than when my game is not up to par.

8— PRACTICE
"Don't be score conscious"

Birmingham Rider 3rd in Maryland Showing

James Jones of Birmingham placed third this past weekend in the finals of the Federation Equestrian International Prix St. Georges dressage competition at Potomac, Md.

Riding Miss Prince, who was trained by Charles Grant at his Bloomfield Township stables, Jones finished behind Miss Jessica Newberry of Lake Placid the national dressage champion, and Christobel Hanson of Ontario, Canada.

The results were announced yesterday at the Washington, D. C., International Horse Show. Mrs. Robert Egan of the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club will be showing Mr. Dollhouse at the Washington Show this week.

Pontiac Back Leading College Scorer in State

By The Associated Press

Tom Nesbitt of Olivet, scoring four touchdowns last weekend has soared into Michigan's individual scoring lead with Sherman Lewis of Michigan State in pursuit.

★ ★ ★

Nesbitt, a blazing fast right halfback from Pontiac, scored on runs ranging from one to 65 yards in Olivet's 33-6 rout of Alma. He has 42 points on six touchdowns in Olivet's six games.

Lewis, averaging better than nine points a game, scored one touchdown in Michigan State's 31-7 victory over Notre Dame. The 154-pound halfback has 38 points in four games.

Michigan has only one unbeaten team left — Kalamazoo, which defeated previously undefeated Albion Saturday. Six of Michigan's 18 football colleges still are winless.

In 51 meetings with teams from other states, Michigan elevens have won only 17 games and tied another.

Pick Roberts for Comeback

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Baltimore's Robin Roberts, named the American League Comeback Player of The Year in the annual Associated Press Poll, says getting a chance to pitch regularly made him effective.

Cast off by the Philadelphia Phillies, with whom he was one of the National League's outstanding pitchers, and by the New York Yankees, Roberts said he was pleased about his being chosen in the poll.

"I knew I'd be considered," he added.

Members of the Baseball Writers' Association gave him 81 of the 106 votes cast. Pitcher Dick Donovan of Cleveland got Nine and pitcher Hank Aguirre of Detroit and second baseman Billy Moran of the Los Angeles Angels three each.

State Officials Ask Dismissal of Deer Suit

ONTONAGON (UPI) — State officials today asked the Ontonagon County circuit court to dismiss a suit aimed at stopping the planned anterless deer season next month.

★ ★ ★

Nicholas V. Olds, assistant attorney general in charge of the conservation division, contended the suit was filed in the wrong court.

Sen. Charles O. McManiman D-Houghton, filed the suit last week attempting to stop the Conservation Department's plans to harvest an estimated 37,000 does and fawns from the deer herd this fall.

Since neither McManiman or the state officials named in the suit reside in Ontonagon County the circuit court does not have jurisdiction, Olds said.

★ ★ ★

In addition to the residence factor in the contention of lack of jurisdiction, Olds said no circuit court in the state can order an official state agency, such as the Conservation Department, to vacate an order. This is the sole jurisdiction of the State Supreme Court, a motion for dismissal filed today said.

Pentathlon Team Holds Slim Lead

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The United States finished second behind Russia's bulky forces Tuesday in the shooting competition of the World Modern Pentathlon Championships and held first place in the team race by a scant 14-100ths of a point over Hungary.

After the riding, fencing and shooting events of the five day championships, the United States had piled up 7,592.28 points to 7,592.14 for the Hungarians. Mexico was third with 7,302.12 and Russia fourth 7,300.76.

Two events remain—swimming and 3,500-meter cross country run.

Pesky Picks 3 Coaches

BOSTON (AP) —Johnny Pesky today named three rookie coaches —Harry (Fritz) Dorish, 40, Al Lakeman, 42, and Harry Malmberg, 37, to assist him in his first season as manager of the Boston Red Sox.

The 11th Frame

The halfway mark of the men's National All-Star eliminations sees two of the three competitors from Pontiac in good position to assure themselves of places on the 16-man team that will represent Michigan in the National All-Star Championships at Kansas City, Mo., in January.

Mike Samardzija is running in second place with 117.39 Petersen points while Mo Moore has 112.6, good for fifth in the 24-man competition. Leading the pack is George Howard of Detroit with 120.02 points.

Pontiac's third representative is Paul George who is 21st, 7.62 points out of the all-important 16th slot. Shirley Pointer, the only local woman in the feminine finals, finished 10th and missed the cut off mark by two slots.

Twelve matches will be rolled this weekend to complete the eliminations. George will be paired against bowlers who all have more points than he, and must hit a hot streak to make the top 16.

He will meet Moore Sunday in the ninth round. Samardzija may have two golden opportunities to gain ground on the leader Howard. In Saturday's fifth round they will tangle and may meet again Sunday in the final round, a position round, if they maintain their one-two positions.

In 24 games, Smardzija has hit 5,089 pins, Moore 5,051 and George 4,496.

By JERE CRAIG

It is a long ride from Oakland County to Madison Square Garden in New York City, and for seven Oakland County teen-agers next week it will be a ride that probably will seem unending.

The seven are junior riders who will be traveling to the East Coast to participate in the championship finals at the National Horse Show. All residents of the Birmingham-Bloomfield area, they will be representing a three-state area in the competition.

Robert M. Lambert, Jr., will depart Sunday ahead of the others. He will compete next Tuesday in the Senior Regular Working Hunter Division with his horse Dragnet against U.S. and Canadian professional riders, the only junior rider to do so.

A sophomore at Groves High School, he will compete, also, the following weekend in the Hunter Seat Equitation and the Maclay Trophy Class championships for the third time.

He has several Michigan championships in various horsemanship divisions to his credit, and is a medal winner this year as are the other six riders.

The remaining six will depart next Wednesday in a group of approximately 25 area residents who will be going to the show. Peter Foley, Rick Cram and Misses Allison Cram, Christine Jones, Deborah Willson and Donna Lee Brown will compete November 3-4 at the Garden.

4TH TRIP

Miss Cram will be making her fourth trip to the competition. She is a defending national co-champion in the Professional Horsemen's Association Dressage Class, the first junior national champion from Michigan.

At the time she won her title, she was the youngest (14) national dressage champion in the history of the National Horse Show.

A sophomore at Bloomfield Country Day School, Miss Cram is a state champion in both junior and senior divisions and one of Region 6's (Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota) outstanding riders. She will also compete in the Hunter Seat Equitation and Maclay Trophy Class finals.

The performance of two youngsters in particular will be watched with great local interest. Foley and Miss Jones, both 14, are fine young prospects who are expected to become outstanding riders in the future. Both have made impressive showings this year in Michigan.

* * *

Miss Jones is a sophomore at Kingswood School and will be making her first trip to the National Horse Show. She qualified for the Hunter Seat Equitation Championship with a fine showing at the P.H.A. Horse Show in Metamora. She will ride Kid Grey.

On Blue Monday (his mount), Foley will be competing in New York for the third year. He will ride in the Hunter Seat Equitation Championship after qualifying for it at the Detroit Horse Show held at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club.

A sophomore at Brother Rice High School, Foley has unofficially clinched the state Working Hunter Division championship for this year.

* * *

Another one who is going for the first time is Miss Brown. She qualified for two Garden events, the Hunter Seat Equitation and the Maclay Trophy Class championships, with good showings at the Waterloo Hunt Horse Show in Jackson. She, also, will show in the Senior Green Working Hunter Division.

Cram and Miss Willson both qualified for their second trips to the National Horse Show. He will be hoping to improve on his fourth place finish last year in the P.H.A. Dressage.

Cram will also compete in the U.S. Equestrian Team Combined Test Championships. He and his horse Flanigan are currently ranked fourth nationally in the Junior Jumper Division National High-Score competition.

At 13, Miss Willson is the youngest member of the group. She qualified at the Grosse Point Horse Show for the national Maclay Trophy Class Championship. She has consistently shown well in state events in the 13-and-under age bracket.

Robert Egan, who has trained Foley, Lambert and Miss Willson, will be showing his horse Mr. Debilertate during the national show.

The Maclay Trophy Class and the Hunter Seat Equitation competition are both jumping events which test the rider's horsemanship. The latter event requires the participants to clear larger and more difficult fenses.

* * *

The dressage event requires no jumping, but the horse and rider are judged as a team against a set standard of perfection. Each team performs an identical ten-minute series of movements, memorized and requiring great skill and coordination between horse and rider.

The U.S. E.T. Combined Test is a combination of both dressage and jumping events spread over two days. This championship is similar, at the junior level, to one part of the Olympic Equestrian events.

The championships, which are expected to attract 75-100 junior riders, are closely watched by the U.S. Olympic Committee for future mount and rider prospects.

U.S. Winner at Horse Show

Pasadena Girl Best in 4-Nation Jumpoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mary Mairs, 18, of Pasadena, Calif., youngest rider on the United States team, won the opening night's international jumping test at the Washington international Horse Show Tuesday night.

She scored riding her chestnut mount Tomboy.

It took a jumpoff of 10 horses, lasting past midnight, to decide the event in which teams from six nations competed.

ALSO SECOND

The U.S. team riders also took second and fourth place and England's lone entry, David Barker and his Mister Softee was third.

The Vincent V. Checchi challenge trophy was presented to Miss Mairs in the ring by Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of the late President Theodore Roosevelt.

William Robertson, a 21-year-old college student from Darien, Conn., came in second for the Americans riding Master William and 28-year-old veteran team rider Frank Chapot of Wallpack, N.J. was fourth on Diamant.

Mexico managed to get two riders in the finale and Canada's James Elder went into the jumpoff with The Imp. But they were outridden.

Henry Paddubny was hunting off Grahner Road near his Oxford home Sunday morning when the ringneck crowed behind him. He turned, walked back and flushed the bird.

"I only winged him," said Paddubny, "and he hit the ground running. He ran about 100 yards before I could catch him."

The cock measured 38½ inches from point of the beak to end of the tail and is the longest entered in the contest.

HEAVIEST BIRD

The larger of two weighed 3 pounds 14 ounces and is the heaviest ringneck entered.

Heavy rain during the Saturday opener and again Monday, and the Sunday hunting curfew in prime Thumb pheasant counties, has left an abundance of birds unharvested.

This means that contest entries should increase through the next five days instead of dropping off as in the past.

A $50 savings bond will be awarded to the hunter entering the heaviest ringneck. The longest pheasant is worth a $25 bond.

No hunter can win both classes and only ringnecks can be entered. The deadline is noon Nov. 12.

All Oakland County residents are eligible. The cocks must be shot in Michigan on lands other than those operated as preserves or stocked by private citizens and clubs.

All entries must be brought to The Press Sports Department for weighing or measuring. Pictures will be taken of new leaders.

The birds can be entered between 7 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 7 a.m. to noon on Saturday. No entries will be accepted Sunday.

FIRST ENTRY

John Bradford, 15, of Auburn Heights entered the first ringneck at noon opening day. He bagged the 33½-inch bird at 10:30 a.m. while hunting a swamp near his Leach Road home.

Before the day was over Herman Heitjan, 568 Raskob St., was in first place with a 36½-incher taken near Festoria north of Lapeer.

Puddubny's ringneck then cackled once too often and found itself in the lead and in the oven.

Mark Fultz of Union Lake bagged the early weight leader, a ringneck that tipped the scales at 3 pounds 8 ounces.

The average weight on winners in the contest over the years has been 4 pounds 11 ounces. The average length has been 41½ inches.

WEEKEND BONUS — The red fox Virgil Roberts Jr. is holding took 15 rounds from two shotguns to bring down. Roberts and Rich Hamlin, both of Waterford, also collected five ringnecks Saturday and Sunday while hunting state land north of Lapeer.

TIES RECORD — Paul Kesteloot of Rochester downed this 1 pound 10 ounce wood duck Saturday while hunting along the Black River near Port Huron. It equals the state record for woodies.

LONGEST ENTRY — This ringneck ran 100 yards after being knocked down by Henry Paddubny of Oxford Sunday morning. Once caught and entered in The Press Pheasant Contest, the bird proved to be the longest at 38½ inches. The contest closes Nov. 12.

'Dead' Ringneck Becomes 'Lively'

A pheasant "got away" Saturday three hours after being "killed."

Lawrence Love, 36 W. Chicago Ave., and Alvin Steenburg of Royal Oak were hunting on Don Steenburg's (a brother) farm near Yale.

"Alvin bagged two birds in the first hour," related Love. "About three hours later we were all soaked by the rain and decided to return to the farmhouse."

"That one's alive," exclaimed Don Steenburg.

Not Very Fast

To the casual observer, a snake seems to travel at a terrific speed, but in reality seldom goes more than five miles an hour.

These men are not Siamese twins—it only seems that way. Pontiac Mayor Robert Landry, on the left, and Pontiac Press City Hall reporter Dick Saunders are rarely apart for more than a few hours.

Whether it's a regular City Commission meeting on a Tuesday night, one of the informal sessions of the commissioners, or a planning board meeting, Saunders is there to gather the information on this growing city.

Out of his typewriter rolls the news of Pontiac's continual expansion, its problems, its victories, and its future.

Standing toe to toe on the great seal of Pontiac in the City Hall, this pair of specialists in Pontiac problems discusses one of the many situations that throws them together hour after hour and day after day.

Complete coverage of the city is the specialty of The Pontiac Press. No other publication gives its readers the news of Pontiac in the volume, authenticity, and completeness of our newspaper.

That's what we're here for, and that's what we're doing–day in and day out.

You can't beat The Pontiac Press for bringing you the news you need to know about your community!

Education . . . One Wants More and More

BY LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.
Professor of Education, University of Southern California

Education is like money — the more you get the more you want. As one result, our colleges and universities now have as many graduate students as they had undergraduates in the 1920s.

This has not been a sudden change, but a steady development. The number of doctor's degrees earned has doubled every 10 years since 1900.

DR. NASON

This trend is not due entirely to our expanding population. For instance, at the University of Southern California the number of advanced degrees granted each year has caught up with the number of bachelor's degrees granted.

* * *

According to David W. Evans, registrar at USC, graduate students are working seriously toward definite goals. More earn their own way than formerly, more are supported by industry and grants from government or foundations. Few depend for finances upon relatives.

BASIC FACTORS

Here are the basic factors that shape the present and the future of graduate education:

Industry gives the best jobs and the best breaks to advanced mathematicians, chemists, physicists, biologists — in fact, to all scientists who hold Ph. D. degrees. Holders of bachelor's degrees who do well in college do find good jobs, of course, and a large percentage of these go on later to advance study.

Many companies offer employes special training programs involving graduate work. For example, Hughes Aircraft has 100 men taking graduate work at USC.

In education, teachers' salary schedules are based upon the amount of graduate work completed.

The increase in college enrollment demands an increase in the number of college teachers, and preparation for college teaching demands graduate work.

* * *

Most present-day research is of a practical nature. It is supported by government, industry and the great foundations. Much is carried out on university campuses.

Colleges offer teaching fellowships and assistant-ships to attract the personnel necessary to carry on such extensive research.

The personnel thus partially or wholly supported will help provide some of the large number of college teachers who will be required in the immediate future.

"PROFESSIONAL" STUDENTS

As might be expected in a rapid growth situation, a few graduate students have become experts in obtaining fellowships or foundation grants that prolong their campus lives. Excesses in such practices should of course be discouraged.

I would recommend to all who may be making a career of graduate work that they contact organizations such as Careers Incorporated, 770 Lexington Avenue, New York City, and obtain copies of their guide to business opportunities for college men.

This, I hope, will help them embark on careers which will benefit them and the country as a whole.

Vatican Mail Piles Up

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican post office, bogged down with letters from all over the world for prelates attending the Ecumenical Council, issued an urgent appeal yesterday to council delegates to pick up their mail.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

There is no substitute for luck in bridge, or any other game. Skill helps, of course, and the winning player needs both.

North's double of the one spade opening was a bad bid. You should not make a takeout double when you have a two suit hand because your partner is likely to bid the suit you don't have.

JACOBY

East's jump to three spades was designed to crowd the bidding, and it did. South could not afford to get into action at the four level, but he did anyway and he made the happy choice of a four club bid on the four card suit rather than name the five card diamond suit.

He had reasons for his choice. Among them he wanted a club lead against four spades, or he could run to diamonds if he got doubled.

North jumped to six clubs and now Lady Luck took a hand. There would be no play for the contract with a spade opening, but West had a natural lead of the king of diamonds.

South ruffed in dummy, led a club to his king, ruffed a second diamond, cashed dummy's ace of clubs and led a low heart. West made his king of hearts, but that ended the proceedings for the defense. South chalked up his slam.

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR
For Thursday

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Attitude expressing sympathy proves most beneficial. Win friends, allies by listening attentively. Sacrifice a bit of time to gain potential for future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Be independent. Accept advice only if it does not cause you to "follow the crowd." Let your views be known. Act on convictions. More in your favor than is apparent.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Hurrying to skip over details causes delay, possible loss. Take time to be thorough. Older person may come to your aid. Trick is to recognize help when it is offered!

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Favorable lunar aspect today sparks ideas which "pay off" when to experiment, to be versatile. Keep sense of humor in face of apparent adversity.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Be willing to "tear down" in order to rebuild. Means you can make changes, break from tradition and still show gain. Avoid one who insists on "old way." Permit Leo showmanship to shine.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Cycle continues high. But you must take action if you are to realize advantage—especially in romance, pursuit of creative endeavors. Very fine for expressing ideas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Wise to "recuperate tonight. Means get some rest. "Mend fences" at home. Strive for harmony, diplomacy. Show appreciation for family member who has been patient, cheerful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Venus in your sign stresses love, beauty, romance, appreciation of the arts. Self-examination is needed. Discover motives which have caused you to take recent actions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): No time to be subtle where money matters, responsibilities are concerned. Be frank, come directly to the point. Others will appreciate this—so will you. Day for direct action.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Good lunar aspect today means you can perceive future possibilities. Refuse to be shortsighted. Let others express their views. But act on your own good information, ideas.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Do what you know is right. That attitude, action solves recent dilemma. Money matters affecting close associates also demand your attention. Answer is to take new, different approach.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Avoid hysteria. Like Gemini, you succeed by being thorough, by accepting hand of friendship. Keep close watch where legal agreements are concerned. Let others know you have resources.

* * *

IF THURSDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are introspective; means it takes a long time to know the real you. Has been trying year, but efforts will pay off.

* * *

In Early Afternoon Trade

Stock Market Prices Rebound

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices — depressed by six straight days of decline—rebounded vigorously early this afternoon while the next step in the Cuban crisis still remained a mystery.

★ ★ ★

Brokers called it a technical rally, meaning there was no change in news to justify the recovery.

Like a spring pressed back tightly, the market was bound to snap back—if only temporarily, as one analyst explained it.

SELLING HEAVY

Selling continued heavily in the early part of the session, but prices began to rally after a mighty first hour in which 1,130,000 shares changed hands.

The ticker tape ran 36 minutes late, its greatest lag since the hectic Memorial Day week when the tape was behind transactions by one hour, 46 minutes on May 31.

★ ★ ★

Steels, motors, electrical equipments, rails, utilities, electronics, office equipments, tobaccos, and aerospace issues wiped out losses and produced gains.

Rumors of various sorts crackled through Wall Street but brokers agreed that the main reason for the recovery was technical.

ON UPSIDE

The major steels and Big Three motors were all on the upside. Up about a point were U.S. Steel, Jones & Laughlin, General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler.

★ ★ ★

Prices on the American Stock Exchange turned mixed after a steep early decline. Trading was heavy. National Rubber Machinery was off about 2 points.

Bond Market Resumes Slide

NEW YORK (AP)—The bond market resumed its slide in early trading today while developments were awaited in the tense international situation.

The price decline was broad but fairly narrow. Trading was heavy in corporate bonds on the New York Stock Exchange. Activity in U.S. Treasury bonds was moderate in the over the counter market.

A dealer in governments said distant maturities and intermediates were off about 2-32. Treasury bills were firm and strong.

Ford Profits, Sales Advance

Nine-Month Volume Rises 20 Per Cent

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. said yesterday its sales were up 20 per cent and its profits increased 21 per cent in the first nine months of 1962 over the similar period of a year ago.

Earnings per share, adjusted for a two-for-one stock split May 1, were $3.18 this year and $2.63 last. Consolidated sales ran $5.79 billion this year against $4.84 billion in the first nine months of 1961.

Only relatively small improvement was noted in the third quarter, however, with profits up $2.3 million to $82.1 million, and sales up $243 million to $1.74 billion.

Ford attributed the increases to the addition of Philco Corp. sales, to the recovery of production lost during a strike in June, and to higher foreign sales. Philco was added as a subsidiary last December.

Vehicular sales were up 13 per cent in the United States and 10 per cent abroad from 1961. Ford said it sold 1,663,149 cars, trucks and tractors domestically and 765,574 such units built in foreign plants.

Ford was the first of the automobile manufacturers to report its July-September earnings. General Motors, which has been doing record business, will report one week from today.

The quarter just ended normally is the slowest of the year for the auto companies since production is suspended for two weeks or more to change over to new models.

Man Suffers Critical Injury

In Two-Car Collision With Lapeer Youths

A 76-year-old Lake Orion man is in critical condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital after his car and a car carrying five Lapeer youths crashed head-on in Oakland Township last night.

The driver of the other car, Wayne T. Grohoski, 18, 650 Demill Road, and two of his passengers, Amos Wargo, 20, 1987 N. Lapeer Road, and George A. Rappuhn, 17, 301 Davis Lake Road, are being held by the Oakland County Sheriff's department on a charge of minors in possession of beer.

Another passenger in the car driven by Grohoski, Ernest McGaffey, 23, 4721 Third St., is in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital with minor injuries. He is listed in good condition.

The accident occurred just before 8 p.m. on the Orion-Rochester Road, north of Collins Road.

Grohoski, who was traveling south on Orion-Rochester Road, told sheriff deputies that as he rounded a curve he saw the other car partly in his path.

He said that when he applied the brakes the car he was driving went into a skid and into the northbound lane.

In Memoriam 2

IN MEMORY OF OUR BELOVED son, Jack Cline who passed away October 24, 1953.
Although we miss the voice now gone
And long for that dear face.
And our loved son seemed so far from home.
And home an empty place.
Yet through God's comfort may we see.
Our Heavenly Father's will.
And know our loved son's ever near.
For love unites us all.
Forever in our hearts. Mom and Dad

Bishops Hoping for More Latitude

Catholic Council Talking Simplification of Ritual

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Roman Catholic leaders are working to develop means of putting more inner vitality into the outer forms of church life.

★ ★ ★

It also signals a central theme for the council in the months ahead. "We expect a spiritual renewal," the council said in its initial message.

★ ★ ★

Such expressions have given a sort of evangelical tenor to this worldwide gathering of about 2,400 prelates.

The accent is on internal rejuvenation, rather than external structure. The idea runs through many of the proposals facing the council.

MORE LATITUDE

It is inherent in plans for harnessing the energies of laymen more fully in the church's work.

It is linked with moves to give more latitude to bishops in shaping policies in their own areas to meet specific human needs.

It is associated with efforts to clear the way toward greater Christian unity.

★ ★ ★

It is an underlying factor in proposals for a broader interpretation of the Church as a spiritual organism, not bound entirely to institutional lines.

★ ★ ★

It is a main objective of the remodeling of liturgical methods and aids to worship now under discussion.

Council specialists said the proposed technical changes seek to draw people more actively, personally and intimately into fuller participation in the spiritual exercises.

EYE SIMPLE FORMS

Some of the present practices and symbolic forms are "not understood by modern man," said the Rev. Edward Heston, of South Bend, Ind., a council consultant on liturgy.

Adjustments, he said, would simplify some of the customs, in order to draw people into closer inward involvement.

★ ★ ★

In regard to the over-all work of the council, Bishop Charles H. Helmsing of Kansas City-St. Joseph, Mo., noted: "Since the 16th century, the church has been careful to stress the church as a visible society with a hierarchy composed of the successors of Peter and the apostles.

★ ★ ★

"This, of course, was a reaction to the contention that the Church as Christ established it is entirely invisible and known to God alone.

"Important as I think the traditional image of the Church is, even more important, I believe, is an appreciation of her inner life."

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Gary Morton and Lucille Ball have been married 11 months—that's a pretty long marriage in the Celebrity Set.

Figuring there had to be a reason for such an enduring marriage, I hunted up the bridegroom.

"So what's wrong, Gary?" I asked him. "Why aren't you divorcing and making headlines like normal people?"

"What is it that you quarrel about?" I asked Gary.

"We don't," he insisted. "We've never raised our voices once. I've never seen Lucy bugged about anything."

WILSON

Bloody disappointing to a gossipmonger ing headline hunter! "You and Desi must not get along, though," I suggested evilly.

"We're very friendly!" he said. "If I do the warmup for Lucy's show when I'm there. Desi comes over. Desi Jr. — he's 9—plays the drums."

"There was a rumor," I said, as I hadn't given up yet, "that Lucille was expecting."

"Who started that?" He glared at me, I thought. "Well, we wouldn't deny it—we'd be thrilled."

Then he boasted that Lucille frequently flies to catch his night club act—that she's great in the TV spec of Danny Kaye's. It was so cherry that it was hard for a frustrated headline-hunter to take much more.

"You—uh—going to work on her show?" I thought that'd get him.

"No, I'm getting into other fields. I'm opening up a 12-acre golf center."

"Enough!" I snapped shut my notebook.

"Yes," said Gary, not noticing. "Lucy's coming here Nov. 19 and we'll celebrate our first anniversary in that pizza place where it started. I only wish all my friends were as happy as I am."

Seriously, so do I, and I also wish them a happy first anniversary and hope they NEVER produce a headline.

Pontiac City Affairs

Approve Rezoning 9.5 Acres

City commissioners last night accepted a planning commission recommendation to rezone some 9.5 acres near the northwest corner of Opdyke Road and Auburn Avenue for industrial use.

★ ★ ★

The vacant property fronts on Auburn and is bordered on the north by Pontiac Sewage Treatment Plant property.

The recommendation calls for it to be rezoned from Residential-1 to Manufacturing-3.

Planners based their recommendation on grounds that the land would not be suitable for future residential development due to the largely commercial and industrial land use nature of surrounding property.

An ordinance ordering the rezoning will be prepared for presentation at a future meeting.

The move was one of several involving planning commission recommendations deferred from last week's meeting.

Commissioners also approved a recommendation to divide "outlot C" of Newton Estates Subdivision into four parcels.

The 200-by-150-foot parcel never had been divided into lots suitable for residential dwellings.

Its owner had requested the city to divide it into four lots of 50-feet frontage each so the land could be developed for homes.

The 50-by-150-foot lot size conforms with that of other residential lots in the immediate area. No further action is necessary.

In another move, commissioners okayed a recommendation to vacate an alley behind properties at 140 and 170 Whittemore Street. A public hearing was slated for Nov. 27 on the proposed vacating.

OK R20 HOMES

No objections were voiced at a public hearing on an ordinance to vacate a portion of Willard Street and three alleys in an area bounded by Whittemore, Perkins, Center and Cottage streets, A.P. 134.

Thus, the move designed to create a residential subdivision in the R20 urban renewal area, was given final approval by the commission.

Likewise, a public hearing was completed on a special assessment roll for the proposed replacement of curb, gutter and blacktop on a part of Green Street. This project will be scheduled as part of the city's 1963 public improvement program.

A special assessment roll covering proposed sidewalk construction on portions of Columbia and Carlisle Avenues was accepted and scheduled for a public hearing at next week's meeting.

Special assessment rolls were confirmed for five recently completed public improvement projects.

Rolls for curb and gutter construction on Fourth, Robinwood and Third avenues were confirmed in four payments each.

The roll for grade and graveling of a portion of Locke Street was confirmed in three payments while the remaining roll, for sidewalk construction on a part of Alton Street, was confirmed in two payments.

OBJECTS TO TAVERN

A request for approval of an ownership and location transfer of a 1961 Tavern license located at 18 S. Perry St. was okayed by commissioners over strong objections from Commissioner Winford E. Bottom.

The request was for transfer of ownership from Julius K. and Louis Koprince Jr. to Paul I. Spadafore and transfer of location to 856 Oakland Ave.

The tavern's new location is in Bottom's district. It is being relocated from the downtown urban renewal area.

Bottom, armed with a petition protesting the move signed by about 60 persons living in the area of 856 Oakland, said he felt the location "isn't suitable for a tavern because it is adjacent to a grocery frequented by children and lies along the route taken by many children in the area on their way to and from school."

L. Harvey Lodge, local attorney representing Spadafore, argued the the move was legally cleared by the Michigan State Liquor Control Commission which investigated occupants within a 500-foot radius of the proposed location.

Lodge appealed to the commission "not to stand in the way of progress" in view of the fact that the building was "on a major arterial highway surrounded by commercial and manufacturing enterprises."

The vote was 6-1 with Bottom the lone dissenter.

Following the vote, Bottom vigorously opposed the outcome saying that "it certainly is strange that every time I oppose a beer or liquor license moving into my district, the other commissioners vote against me."

MAYOR SPEAKS

Mayor Robert Landry, speaking for the commission, said that "relocation of taverns and bars that are being purchased for land clearance in urban renewal is a problem we must all face squarely.

"Some people are going to be unhappy about it and there will be more such cases in the future. We must take them as they come.

"We knew these would occur when we began urban renewal and we can't turn our backs on the problem now.

"I've had licenses transferred into my district that I didn't want, but we must all bear some of the burden in an effort to see that the best thing is done for the city as a whole."

This was one of several such transfers that have been a point of controversy in the last 12 months.

Commissioners also approved a motion to reschedule the Nov. 6 regular City Commission meeting to 8 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7.

The move was made because Nov. 6 is an election day.

In a final item of business, a recommendation to vacate property at the rear of doctors' offices at 880 Woodward Avenue, was reintroduced for action at the request of Commissioner Milton R. Henry.

Henry had moved that the planning commission recommendation be tabled when it first came before the Commission Sept. 11.

"I originally had it tabled so that I could talk with residents in that area to be sure they approved of the measure," Henry said. "They do and therefore I have no objection to the recommendation."

It calls for the city to vacate the east 120 feet of Bondale Street and a 20-foot alley connecting Bondale and Cedardale streets to allow for additional parking space behind the office building.

All property surrounding the areas to be vacated is owned by Dr. John Hubert, 51, of 4955 Stoneleigh Road, Bloomfield Township.

An ordinance ordering the vacating will be prepared for presentation and public hearing at future meetings.

Junior Editors Quiz on ANIMALS

QUESTION: Do porpoises and dolphins actually talk to one another?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: These animals — especially dolphins — have received a lot of attention in the last few years. This is mostly because they are gay and amusing captives in a tank and seem to love to have human beings looking at them.

Recently, however, a scientist, Dr. John C. Lilly, has been trying to find some animal whom he can train to understand human speech and talk back. He says there are only two kinds of animals with big enough brains to do this: elephants, and the whale family, of which the dolphin is one kind.

Dr. Lilly has concentrated on studying dolphins in special tanks wired so that he can catch sound. He finds they definitely do whistle, click, bark and so on. They are said to carry on conversations with one another by buzzing and whistling sounds.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Listen to birds' notes. They certainly signal to each other, about danger and so on. These signals are not "talk" as we talk, but can you figure out what some of their notes mean?

Highway Litter Costly but Also in Poor Taste

LANSING—The State Highway Department paid $322,000 last year to clean up the trash along Michigan's highways.

This amounts to, roughly, $900 a day. This, of course, is not the total expense that Michigan's litterbugs run up.

These figures apply only to the state highways. The county roads, city streets, public parks, beaches and playgrounds run the cost up much higher.

State Highway Department officials are concerned about the litter problem. The expense alone is reason for concern, but there are other factors, too.

TOURISTS COMING IN

Michigan has a new freeway system which is attracting more and more visitors to the state. While they're here, many of these visitors will decide whether to come back next year.

Their decisions will be greatly influenced by what they think of Michigan—whether its parks and roadsides are attractive and well-kept.

There's another aspect of littering that's not often mentioned, but it, too, has its cost.

Safety officials estimated that 750 to 1,000 persons are killed each year in auto accidents directly caused by litter.

These can happen in many ways—the driver swerving to miss a carton dropped on the pavement—the motorist blinded by a newspaper blown against his windshield.

The answer to the littering problem begins with the motorist.

Each person who drops a scrap of paper, a cigarette stub, an empty carton, is contributing to the litter. The trash along the roadsides is not the work of any single person or small group of persons.

It's something we all contribute to and it will take the cooperation of all of us to get rid of the problem.

Expand Tests of X15 Limits

Pilot Awaits Burnout Before Using Brakes

EDWARD AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The X15 shot through space like a rock hurtled from a slingshot today when Air Force Maj. Bob Rushworth delayed using speed brakes until after "burnout" of its mighty rocket engine.

★ ★ ★

By waiting until 88 seconds after the 57,000-pound thrust engine shut down in the X15's streaking climb, Rushworth allowed the rocket ship to be flung into a ballistic trajectory at more than a mile a second.

The "man-carrying missile" thundered to an altitude of nearly 25 miles. It reached a speed of 3,818 miles per hour.

Rushworth's flight marked the first time in tests without the lower tail that the X15's speed brakes had not been used.

The tests are to see if removal of the lower tail creates greater re-entry stability for flight back from space.

The Air Force major withheld using the speed brakes in order to simulate flight conditions more closely resembling actual re-entry.

Astronaut Gus Grissom flew as an observer in one of the four two-place "chase" planes, which tracked the X15's flight.

The Air Force major came to this flight research base to test fly the space agency's paraglider.

Rushworth was dropped in the X15 from a B52 bomber over Mud Lake, Nev., and made the 180-mile flight to Rodgers Dry Lake at this base in 10 minutes. It was the 73rd flight of the X15.

UF Barometer Hovering Near One-Third Line

Workers Still Full of Vim With $212,185 Toward $706,125

And there is enough momentum in the 1962 drive to boost it to the top, predicted Fred V. Haggard, general chairman of the Pontiac Area United Fund.

The total collected is $212,185. This is 30 per cent of the goal of $706,125.

Leading the report were collections by the Industrial Division.

Its chairman, Ted Bloom, said total returns are $137,412 — or 29.3 per cent of the $467,760 division goal.

He singled out Universal Oil Seal as the first to end a company campaign.

The firm's employe pledges exceeded the $1,941 goal by 87 per cent for a total of $3,627.60, reported the firm's industrial relations manager, Ted Pearson Jr., who was drive co-chairman with Tomina Barnett, president of Local 733, UAW, AFL-CIO.

HGHER BY 5 PCT.

The company's own gift was up 5 per cent to $785, Pearson reported.

In the women's drive, Chairman Mrs. Joseph Fox reported $13,865 or 49 per cent of the $28,214 goal collected at the midpoint of the women's 10-day house-to-house drive.

Last year, the women were at 44 per cent of their goal at the same time.

Mrs. Frank S. Rulkowski, Waterford chairman, reported $4,449 or 46 per cent of the $9,597 Waterford women's goal reached.

Lake Angelus women, led by Mrs. Merle Yockey, reported 47 per cent of $1,307 of their $2,769 goal.

IN PONTIAC

Pontiac chairman, Mrs. Earl White, said the women had raised $8,110 or 51 per cent of the $15,849 goal set for Pontiac residential calls.

25 En Route to Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Pentagon spokesman said at midday today that he had no evidence that any Cuba-bound Russian ships had turned back or altered their course because of the U. S. blockade.

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — The United States and the Soviet Communists approached an armed showdown on the high seas at midmorning today, as Soviet cargo ships plowed toward Cuba and american naval power converged on them.

★ ★ ★

At 11 a.m. EST, two hours after the quarantine started, the Defense Department said it had no reports of interceptions of any ships.

Strung out along the approaches to Cuba were an estimated 25 Soviet ships.

Some of them quite possibly were carrying offensive weapons to the Cuban Communist ally — a movement which President Kennedy says must be stopped.

At 9 a.m. (Pontiac time), Kennedy's quarantine went into effect and the historic moment was at hand.

BROADCASTS WARNINGS

A few hours before, the Navy had broadcast radio warnings to all shipping to stand clear of the area . . . that it could become dangerous.

Soviet officials here and elsewhere gave every indication that the Russian ships would refuse to stop or be searched.

CONSIDER INVASION

Government sources and congressional leaders reported that plans were "going forward" for a full-scale invasion of Cuba if present U.S. measures prove inadequate to neutralize the island as a threat to the United States.

An invasion would be aimed at removing the 1,000-mile Soviet missiles already based in Cuba. Cuba already has reacted derisively to a U.S. proposal that the rockets be dismantled under united nations supervision.

Valerian Zorin, Soviet delegate to the U.S., said "no self-respecting state will permit its shipping to be tampered with."

Russian Lt. Gen. Vladimir A. Dubovik was quoted by the Washington Post as declaring at a Soviet embassy party here last night that "our ships will sail through and if it is decreed that those men must die then they will obey their orders and stay on course or be sunk."

The President, who authorized the stop-or-be-sunk orders, met with his top aides promptly at 9 a.m. — the hour the blockade went into effect. The officials sat as an executive committee of the National Security Council.

U Thant Weighs Plea for Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Britain and Venezuela today threw their support behind the U.S. military quarantine of Cuba as Acting Secretary-General U Thant weighed a small-nation appeal that he intervene in an attempt to head off a U.S.-Soviet showdown.

A committee representing 45 countries from all parts of the world called on Thant this morning and requested him to seek a standstill pending a negotiated settlement.

He was reported to have told the group he would consider the appeal.

Ambassador Zenon Rossides of Cyprus, chairman of the group, said Thant indicated he might address the 11-nation Security Council later in the day.

The small countries were called into another session to hear the committee report and to consider a possible resolution for the council.

Inside the council chamber, Venezuelan Ambassador Carlos Sosa-Rodriguez declared the Soviet weapons in Cuba were no longer defensive but were a threat to the entire hemisphere.

He demanded that the council take action to halt the shipment of offensive weapons and to dismantle the missile bases already built.

"It is sufficient," he said, "that these weapons are now in the hands of the nuclear powers themselves, and we cannot accept that they be handed over to the only Communist state in the Americas."

AFFECTS ALL

He said the stationing of Soviet missiles in Cuba affects the security of the whole Western Hemisphere and cannot be tolerated.

Convinced that the council would wind up in a deadlock over opposing U. S. and Soviet resolutions, the small powers delegated Ghana, the United Arab Republic and Cyprus to ask Thant to intervene.

Many of the small nations wanted to call directly on President Kennedy to lift his arms quarantine of Cuba, but it was decided instead to address the apeal in general terms.

Stevenson charged that the flow of Soviet missiles and other offensive weapons into Cuba is a "grave threat to the Western Hemisphere and the peace of the world."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin countered that the U. S. blockade is a reckless act which brings the world to the brink of nuclear war.

He branded as "completely false" U. S. charges that the Soviet Union has based offensive missiles in Cuba.

Delay Action on State Audit

By DICK HANSON

Oakland County auditors were withholding action today on a state auditor general's directive to seek $11,073 allegedly owed the county by numerous county officials.

★ ★ ★

Chairman of the county board of auditors, John C. Austin said he was waiting for a legal opinion from the county's corporation counsel before trying to collect.

State Auditor General Billie S. Farnum contended that the officials, named in a state audit report on county books from January 1960 through July this year, overcharged the county when submitting expense accounts during this period.

His list of officials said to be involved includes the chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, Delos Hamlin, County Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry, and chief drain inspector Daryl Schuler.

Also on the list were John G. Semann, supervisor from Berkley; Elmer Johnson, Waterford Township supervisor; Frank Webber, Addison Township supervisor; and Arno Hulet, Bloom-

Refuse JFK Note

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

The embassy had delivered the document to the Foreign Ministry this morning. The Tass account did not give any reason for the return of the document but it said:

"The Soviet government pointed out in its statement of Oct. 28 that these aggressive measures constitute a crude violation of international law, the United Nations charter and a threat to universal peace."

HAVANA (AP) — Asserting he has the weapons to "repulse any aggression," Prime Minister Fidel Castro rejected any limit on Cuba's arms build-up Tuesday night. He called the U.S. arms quarantine an act of piracy.

Dems 'Regret' JFK Had to Cancel Trip

Oakland County Democrats "regret that President Kennedy cannot be with us during this vitally important election campaign," but point out that the President's decision to cancel all political appearances during the Cuban crisis "was made in the best interests of our nation."

The statement was issued today by Sander M. Levin, chairman of the county's Democratic committee.

President Kennedy had been scheduled to visit the county Nov. 1 as part of a campaign tour in Michigan to boost the candidacies of Congressional nominees and Gov. John B. Swainson.

De Gaulle Predicts K Will Back Down

NATO Nations Support Blockade

LONDON (AP)—Three of America's major cities in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization lined up today behind President Kennedy's Cuban arms quarantine. Scattered demonstrations and expressions of misgivings underlined the concern of millions.

Britain, West Germany and Italy backed the American stand. There was no official word on the French position, but it was learned in Washington that President Charles de Gaulle sent a secret message to President Kennedy supporting the United States and predicting the Soviet Union will not go to war.

'TENSE, RAW'

Foreign Secretary Lord Home, calling the situation "tense and raw," said Britain will support the United States in the United Nations "so as to try to bring the danger of this particular area under control."

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany went further. He said his country is ready to share all risks arising out of the U.S. stand. "The situation is grave and there could be repercussions in Berlin," he added.

Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani told Parliament: "Italy can not but offer its solidarity to the United States."

He indicated Italy pins its hopes on the United Nations to ease the crisis. As Fanfani spoke, left and right-wing deputies roared at each other across the chamber and all but came to blows.

American forces throughout Europe were on the alert, and the U.S. nuclear submarine depot ship Proteus slipped out of its Holy Loch base in Scotland for a secret destination.

CRITICAL COMMENT

Norway's Foreign Minister Halvard Lange called the U.S. blockade "very far-reaching in a situation where there is no war between Cuba and the United States."

* * *

In Sweden, many newspapers were critical of the American move. The liberal expressen said: "by resorting to a blockade against a free and independent nation Kennedy has placed U.S. power interests above the principles of freedom and independence of nations.

In Denmark, Copenhagen's liberal Politiken said the American move could lead to a chain reaction. "Both sides have resorted to dangerous expedients," it warned.

Irish newspapers predicted that Kennedy's measures against Cuba almost certainly will bring Soviet reprisals, probably in Berlin.

In Belgrade, Yugoslav President Tito said a way out of the Cuban situation "can be found only in searching settlements by peaceful means and not by resting on force." He called for a solution through the United Nations. The government press condemned the quarantine as risking "a disastrous catastrophe for mankind."

The official Chinese Communist People's Daily threw Red China's support behind the Communist powers in the Cuban crisis, declaring that China's 650 million people "have always stood staunchly on the side of the Cuban people." The paper accused the United States of making long preparations for action against Cuba.

The Communist press in Iron Curtain countries and in the West was predictably outraged.

If the United States does not change its policy, said Bulgaria's government news agency, "All action will be taken to put the aggressor in a straitjacket."

Nearly 500 Russians, some shouting "Shame, shame" and waving anti-American signs, massed outside the embassy to protest the American blockade of Cuba.

Soviet militiamen normally assigned to protect the building pushed the crowd back from the sidewalk in front of the embassy, confining it to a pedestrian island about 25 yards away.

They were reinforced by a dozen extra police and an equal number of plainclothesmen.

SEAL WITH BARS

Embassy officials ordered both gates to their compound sealed with heavy iron bars and no one could enter the embassy grounds.

The Soviet press condemned unanimously the action of the United States to block delivery of arms to Cuba and warned Washington that it was playing with fire.

'N MANY FACTORIES

The protest meetings developed in numerous factories within minutes of the first radio announcement of the news of the blockade. Such meetings are organized on all such occasions, with speakers promptly on hand.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist party organ, said in an editorial that the United States has assumed the "role of the world's policeman" and is spinning "provocative webs around Cuba."

Unlike the somewhat restrained wordage in the Soviet government declaration, Pravda spilled out its hottest words.

COWARDLY BEASTS'

Anyone trying to carry out an arms inspection in Cuba "had better come ready for combat," the bearded revolutionary leader told the nation in a 90-minute television address.

A SCRAP OF PAPER

He called the organization's inter-American defense pact a scrap of paper only "valid for those following in the flock of imperialism."

Castro, who had mobilized Cuba's military forces right after Kennedy's blockade announcement, was 30 minutes late for his address.

seen entering the White House with large placards. These appeared to be charts or maps but they were covered from the eyes of reporters.

For more than a year the tension between the United States and Cuba had mounted. Then on Monday night, Kennedy made his move, announcing a quarantine with the clamp on offensive arms shipments into Cuba.

The Defense Department made public aerial reconnaissance photographs which it said proved the charge that the Soviet Union was installing or has installed ballistic missiles, almost certainly with nuclear warheads, on Cuban sites.

* * *

The Defense Department kept secrecy on the total of Navy ships and planes assigned to the quarantine operation and on the precise areas in which they were operating.

FAR-REACHING PREPARATIONS

Obviously, the preparations were for events even more far-reaching than stopping merchantmen at sea, which might flare up from this first action.

Seas were normal for this season, with about 3-foot waves. There were predictions of possible showers and thunderstorms, but nothing that would seriously hamper ship operation.

Kennedy signed a proclamation Tuesday night formally invoking the quarantine against offensive weapons — an act he said was needed to defend the security of the United States.

* * *

Ten minutes later, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara sent the Navy's Task Force 136 its formal orders to halt all ships headed for Cuba, to examine their cargoes and turn away any vessels—Soviet or other nationality—found to be carrying missiles, bombs, bombers and other weapons that could menace the United States or Latin-American nations.

AUTHORIZE FORCE

The blockaders—already poised across the Atlantic—were told to use the minimum amount of force necessary to enforce the ban but skippers were given full authority to bring into play "whatever force is required." Clearly, this meant sinking Soviet vessels, if necessary.

Shortly after issuing these orders, McNamara announced he had extended the enlistments and duty tours of all Navy and Marine officers and enlisted men for up to 12 months.

The freeze will give the Navy an increase of about 10,000 men a month and the Marines 2,400 men a month. The only exemptions will be granted to men pleading unusual hardship.

JAMES P. DICKERSON

MSUO Creates Staff Position

James P. Dickerson to Work on Development

Associate director of Michigan State University Oakland's Continuing Education Division since last January, James P. Dickerson has been named assistant to MSUO Chancellor D. B. Varner, for university development.

Dickerson, 720 Westwood Drive, Birmingham, will take over the newly created office Nov. 1, Varner announced late yesterday.

"In his new office," Varner said, "Mr. Dickerson will coordinate all fund-raising activities for the university in terms of capital and scholarship gifts, student loan funds, library funds and other similar areas where private citizens and groups provide assistance to MSUO."

Mrs. June Matthews, who has been executive secretary of the MSUO Foundation for the past year, was named as Dickerson's colleague.

"Mrs. Matthews has been giving the staff direction in planning our scholarship program and several other such ventures," Varner noted, "and she will continue these responsibilities as part of this new office."

* * *

No successor to Dickerson's present position has been selected.

A graduate of the University of Michigan Law School, Dickerson served with publishing firms in San Francisco before coming to The Press in 1957.

Bloomfield Twp. Plans 2nd Hearing on Sewer

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Bloomfield Township Board will hold a second public hearing Nov. 13 on construction of a sanitary sewer for the Telegraph-Quarton roads area.

The second hearing is necessary, according to Township Treasurer Homer Case, because bids received for the project are higher than original cost estimates.

Low bid for the project was $20,739 plus 15 per cent for contingencies, said Case.

The figure is approximately $3,000 more than the cost estimate made by the township's engineers, Hubbell, Roth & Clark, Inc.

IN EARLY ESTIMATE

Under the previous estimate, each of the approximately 28 property owners to be served by the proposed Foxcroft Sanitary Sewer No. 133 would have been assessed $763 per lot.

* * *

In other action, the Township Board has notified the Oakland County Road Commission that it opposes plans to vacate Lincoln Road in the Westchester subdivision east of Lahser Road.

Residents of the subdivision, located south of the Oakland Golf and Country Club, had asked the county to vacate the road because they objected to increased traffic through the area.

However, Township Board members said abandonment of the road would hamper access to the area by police and firemen.

The board also voted to extend the deadline for payment of personal property tax from Jan. 20 to Feb. 14.

A 4 per cent penalty is levied on property owners who pay taxes after the deadline.

Mrs. Marguerite Schubart of Sacramento, Calif., will be instructor for a noninterpretative and nondenominational course on the Bible starting tomorrow at the Birmingham YMCA, 400 Lincoln Ave.

Mrs. Schubart, who received her bachelor's degree from the University of Southern California, has traveled extensively in the Middle East and has done graduate work at Sacramento State College.

County Auditors Delay Action on Overcharge Claim

field Township supervisor and chairman pro tem of the board.

David Mayes, a certified public accountant who has been heading the state audit of county books, said these county officials have spent the money illegally but without criminal intent.

Farnum directed that they "immediately" reimburse the full amount to the county.

He also instructed the county board of auditors to prevent any further "misuse" of county funds by adopting more stringent control of the money.

* * *

Austin said the state auditor's allegations are subject to legal interpretation, and that he is waiting for an opinion from the county's legal adviser, Corporation Counsel Norman J. Barnard.

Barnard's secretary said he is expected to return to his office either later today or tomorrow.

It was on Barnard's advice that many of the expenditures were approved, Austin said.

The auditor general's report asserted that Hamlin has been paid more per diem than state law presently allows.

Mayes said Hamlin has overcharged the county $5,610 during the period involved by being paid $25 per diem instead of $15 paid other members of the board for days they attend county meetings.

POINTS TO CHANGE

The county corporation counsel's office pointed out that the board of supervisors by resolution in September 1958 raised the chairman's per diem from $10 to $25 and the per diem of all other members from $10 to $15.

The auditor general's report asserts that the state attorney general in June 1961 termed the board's action illegal in his interpretation of Michigan law.

The report also states that Hamlin collected $100 in per diem for attending the annual convention of the State Association of Supervisors at Lansing in January when he should have been reimbursed only for necessary expense entailed.

* * *

Hamlin was named along with Johnson, Hulet, Webber and Semann as having collected per diem more than once for the same day where they attended more than one meeting.

Mayes said the total amount involved for multiple meetings is $1,245.

He quoted Michigan law as stating "No supervisor shall be entitled to compensation for more than one day for any one day that the board of supervisors or any committee thereof shall be in session."

The multiple meetings, said the report, illegally netted Hamlin $945, Johnson $45, Hulet $105, and Webber and Semann, each $75.

It also states that Semann collected an additional $645 per diem for 43 legislative committee work days over the maximum 60 days a year allowed by Michigan law in 1959 and again in 1960.

MILEAGE CLAIMS

The report also claims that virtually all supervisors, Barry, Schuler, and County Board of Education personnel were paid excessive mileage in 1960 when the county rate was eight cents a mile.

State law allows only seven cents a mile, Mayes said. He said the total amount paid illegally for mileage compensation is $1,461.

Barry, who said he uses his own car for county business probably more than any other official, is deemed to have overcharged the county $740, and Schuler, his chief inspector, $213.

Mayes said these overcharges resulted when the drain commission applied a county mileage pay scale on each occasion personal cars were used instead of applying the scale on total mileage each month.

The scale used is 10 cents per mile for the first 400 miles, seven cents for the next 600 miles and five cents for over 1,000 miles each month.

The auditor general's report further charged that "excessive and "questionable" amounts were included in travel expenses by county officials, and that county auditors should have demanded fuller explanations of such expenses before reimbursing the officials.

The report stated:

"We direct that the practice of reimbursing these questionable items (i.e. taxi fares out of town, luggage handling) of expense be discontinued immediately, and that they be deleted from the employe's travel voucher unless fully explained and supported by receipts to the satisfaction of the board of auditors.

STATE REPORT

"We further direct that the practice of one person paying for the expenses of other persons be discontinued. Each individual may claim only the amount reasonably necessary to the conduct of county business for himself."

According to the report these "questionable" expenses amounted to $345 during the 2½-year period involved.

Furthermore, the report directed the county to adopt a standardized form for listing all expenses and to establish a definite policy and set of regulations governing all travel expense reimbursements.

County auditors were directed to "fully investigate" past travel expense charges and secure reimbursements for the county of all improper claims paid.

* * *

These were listed as including a portion of hotel bills where the wife accompanied the county official, night lunches, valet and laundry service and tips and miscellaneous.

The report said these illegal charges amounted to $1,017 and were incurred by Hamlin, Barry, Royal Oak Supervisor William C. Hudson, Lloyd Sibley of the county equalization department, and Public Works Director R. J. Alexander.

The report also charged that supervisors serving on committees have illegally collected for noon meals on days where committee meetings extended into the afternoon.

* * *

The auditors were directed "to secure reimbursements from the supervisors involved." The report said the noon meals cost amounted to $443.

* * *

Mayes admitted there is no apparent criminal intent on the part of any county official or employe, "otherwise they would have attempted to conceal these things."

He said the overcharges reflect "a weakness" on the part of county auditors. "Possibly, they are too dominated by the board of supervisors," he added.

Clerk Reminds Voters About Absentee Ballot

City Clerk Olga Barkeley today reminded Pontiac residents that the deadline for issuing absent voter ballots for the Nov. 6 election is 2 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 3.

* * *

The ballots are for use by shut-ins, persons who will be out of town on election day or who cannot go to the polls for a similar reason.

"Our office will not issue any ballots after 2 p.m. Nov. 3," she noted. Persons must apply for the ballots first.

* * *

Since signed applications must be submitted before absentee ballots will be issued, the clerk urged residents to apply as soon as possible.

India-China Story Sound Familiar? Remember 1941?

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — An inexact but somewhat parallel exists between the current invasion of India by Red China, and Germany's surprise attack on Soviet Russia 21 years ago last June.

Adolf Hitler was then the world's greatest menace to peace, and his unquenchable appetite for expansion was shocking the civilized world. Suddenly, without a declaration of war, he struck against the nation with whom he had solemnly signed a nonaggression pact two years before.

Communist Russia, almost immediately after signing the non-aggression pact, had invaded first Poland, and then defenseless little Finland. When Russia herself was subsequently attacked, therefore, few American hearts bled for her, outside the Communist cells. The overwhelming feeling here was that Hitler and Stalin deserved each other.

Today, many Kremlinologists consider Red China an even greater menace to world peace than subverting, belligerent Russia. India, however, has repeatedly defended its aggressive neighbor, and has regularly sponsored China's admission to the "peace-loving" community of the United Nations.

Indian Defense Minister Krishna Menon, while pretending to represent a "neutral" nation, has invariably taken the side of the Communist bloc in any dispute between the captive and free worlds.

He and Premier Jawaharlal Nehru sanctimoniously preached non-aggression, and lectured the U.S. for our resumption of nuclear testing after Russia herself broke the moratorium, but it was a different story when India coveted another's territory.

Without warning last spring, Indian troops suddenly poured across the border into Portuguese Goa and captured it by force. Nehru blandly took little notice of free world outrage, and Menon shrieked vituperation at American newsmen who sought to interview him about it.

TABLES TURNED

Now it is Nehru who is piteously crying, "Foul", and foul, indeed, it is. This is no frontier skirmish, such as has been going on for sime time between India and its bellicose neighbor, but a massive Red Chinese military drive to seize the rugged mountainous region which could command Indian defense posts.

The present advance is on at least three fronts, and the wily Chinese obviously have logistics and superior fire power on their side. Ordinarily India could count on neighboring Pakistan for support, since their common interests are involved.

Nehru, however, has succeeded in emnitizing Pakistan over Kashmir, a territory which like Pakistan is predominantly Moslem. Both nations claimed Kashmir at the time of their partition, but despite a United Nations resolution calling for a plebiscite, Nehru has held on and stubbornly refused to permit one.

Since India is a vital part of the free world community, and the most important democracy in Asia, Westerners will naturally hope that a quick end is put to the Red Chinese aggression.

Certainly our sympathies would be deeper and more spontaneous, however, if Nehru had not so frequently bitten the American hand that has been feeding him many billions of foreign aid dollars.

His ingratitude has been a classic example of how to lose friends and alienate people. Congress became so aroused by his penchant for taking our aid money, but shopping in Russia for fighter planes and other military hardware, that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted this summer to strike India from our aid program. Only an urgent appeal from President Kennedy restored the funds.

By far the greater evil is warmongering Red China, however, and the vile persecutions of its own population would have given even the satanic Hitler some new ideas.

World wars have been sparked by lesser incidents than this undeclared border war between two Asiatic powers, and if the United Nations is unable to take effective action to halt this one, the organization is an expensive luxury indeed.

Parakeet Aids Keeper of Mustang

DETROIT (UPI) — A parakeet helped the Ford Motor Co. protect a Mustang it was shipping to the West Coast and back, it was reported today.

The firm wanted to fly its experimental sports model, the Mustang, to the Laguna Seca Race Course in California for a demonstration, but also wanted to send a mechanic along to watch the car so it wouldn't be damaged.

No go, Ford was told because you can't send passengers on cargo planes, but the law provides that if you have an animal you can send a keeper along with it.

So Ford bought a parakeet and named mechanic James R. Augenstein, 31, of Wyandotte, as the birds keeper although his real duties were to watch the Mustang car.

Thus, the airline manifest listed from Ford: 2 tool crates (400 lbs.); 4 cartons brochures (200 lbs.); 1 auto (1,544 lbs.); 1 parakeet in cage and 1 keeper (210 lbs.).

Augenstein returned today from California with the car and the parakeet.

Poland Makes Bid for Nuclear Treaty

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Poland appealed yesterday for renewed emphasis on reaching a nuclear war test ban treaty in light of mounting world tensions over Cuba.

★ ★ ★

Joseph Winiewicz, Poland's Deputy foreign minister, cited the U.S. quarantine of Cuba as the General Assembly's 109-nation main Political Committee met to continue its debate on nuclear testing.

He urged delegates "not to be deflected by the international crisis perpetrated last Monday night by the United States."

Campaigning Canceled

Swainson Keeps Eye on Crisis

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Swainson, cancelling his campaign schedule for the second straight day, remained at his desk at the State Capitol today for consultations on Michigan's role in the critical international situation.

★ ★ ★

"I've been in touch with the White House about the situation," Swainson told newsmen who rode with him from Detroit to Lansing last night.

The governor spent most of yesterday in his office conferring with heads of agencies, including State Police Commissioner Joseph Childs and Adj. Gen. Ronald D. McDonald, who heads the Michigan National Guard.

Among the subjects discussed was the status of Michigan's civil defense preparedness, which recently became a responsibility of the state police.

"I want to emphasize that there is no panic, no special alert, and no change in the present role of our National Guard or other units," Swainson declared. "I was briefed on many things today, and I'll be brought up to date further in additional consultations."

NAMES TASK FORCE

Swainson named seven task force chairmen yesterday for the office of emergency planning, to operate in the event of war.

His talks with agency heads covered a number of secret functions they would be expected to perform in the event of a grave emergency.

★ ★ ★

Asked how the sudden turn of events would affect his campaign plans, Swainson replied that his day-to-day schedule would depend on the course of events.

The governor had been scheduled to campaign today in Macomb County in his bid for re-election against his Republican opponent, George Romney.

Neil Staebler, Democratic candidate for congressman-at-large, will attempt to cover the rallies and other appearances scheduled for Swainson, a campaign aide said.

"My chief function at a time like this is as governor of the state of Michigan," said Swainson.

★ ★ ★

The governor said he could not tell at this time whether he also might cancel his scheduled appearance Friday night on the last of three half-hour television debates with Romney.

"We'll have to await developments before deciding on that," he said.

McNamara Extends Navy, Marine Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has extended enlistments of Navy and Marine personnel for up to one year, saying they are needed to man the U.S. arms blockade of Cuba.

★ ★ ★

McNamara, in announcing the order last night, said extra manpower also is needed to reinforce the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

McNamara said the order applies to all men "now on active duty" and in effect means that there will be no discharges, except for hardship, until further notice up to one year from now. All Navy and Marine Corps personnel are volunteers.

Congress recently authorized President Kennedy to extend enlistments up to one year and to recall to active duty up to 150,000 reservists to meet any crisis. The congressional authority expires next Feb. 28, two months after Congress reconvenes.

★ ★ ★

McNamara said no steps are being taken to call up any reservists at this time.

Pentagon officials said the extension order probably would increase the Navy by 10,000 men a month and the Marines by 2,400 men a month.

McNamara last night announced in the Pentagon that all McNamara last night announces in the Pentagon that all Navy and Marine Corps enlistments would be extended for up to one year because the men are needed for the Cuban blockade.

Might Involve Michigan Units

★ ★ ★

Although military spokesmen maintain it was just another day, one report said some units, possibly reserves at Selfridge Air Force Base near Mount Clemens, had been put on a two-hour alert basis.

★ ★ ★

There was no reported explanation from official sources for the arrival of six big Strategic Air Command jet bombers Tuesday at the Michigan Air National Guard base at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

★ ★ ★

The spokesman for the First Fighter Wing at Selfridge, Capt. Robert Neely, said he was "not allowed as of now to make any comments about aircraft movements" there.

Hustled From Guantanamo

Navy Wife Kept in Dark on Crisis

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A Navy wife hastily removed with her three children from Guantanamo naval base in Cuba said yesterday she did not know what was happening until she had almost reached America.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. William McKenzie, a native of Birmingham, arrived here from Norfolk, Va., where she and her family were taken after leaving Cuba.

Monday "started like any other day, with clothes on the line and other Monday morning work," she said.

Within hours her family had been hastily placed aboard an airplane, and they were still not told of the crisis.

★ ★ ★

She said in flight to Norfolk crew members listened to President Kennedy's speech announcing a blockade of Cuba and relayed the news to the passengers.

"We didn't discuss it even then," she said.

The wife of a Navy man for 17 years, Mrs. McKenzie said the first inkling she had that something was amiss came on Sunday morning when her husband, a lieutenant, did not come back from routine maneuvers.

She said midnight Sunday Lt. McKenzie walked in and told her "Get my papers together," and added "Something could happen."

ORDERS CHANGE

She said a few hours later orders came to be prepared to catch a ship for Puerto Rico.

Fifteen minutes to departure time, she said, the orders changed and she was told the family would be flown to Norfolk.

She hastily unpacked light clothing planned for Puerto Rico, and prepared clothing for the 58-degree temperatures of Norfolk.

She said "I'm not particularly scared for my husband, but I want to get back as soon as possible."

Blockade Word Due Swedish Shippers

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Government authorities planned to meet with the Swedish Shipowners' Association today to discuss the U.S. arms blockade of Cuba.

★ ★ ★

Eight Swedish ships are in Cuban waters at present. Three were docked in Havana, one was on its way from Cuba and four were heading for the Caribbean Island.

★ ★ ★

Satellite Firing Off; 'Technical' Trouble

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —An effort to launch a flashing light geodetic satellite to help measure the earth more accurately has been postponed indefinitely because of undisclosed technical problems.

The shot had been scheduled today after a previous one-day delay because of trouble with the booster rocket.

Servicemen on Extended Duty Agree 'This Had to Be Done'

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—Sailors and Marines on liberty along the neon-lit downtown streets of this huge Navy port said last night extension of their duty tours is justified in light of the current crisis.

There were few servicemen at the usually crowded popular liberty spots, but those making the rounds said they believe the Defense Department's order lengthening enlistment time up to one year was necessary.

"Anyone having a feeling for his country must agree," said Marine Pfc. Thomas Ryan of Washington, D.C., whose tour of duty had been scheduled to end in February.

"Well, if they need you, they need you," said Airman James Sherman of Philadelphia, Pa.

★ ★ ★

Navy Fireman George Peters of Harrisburg, Pa., said there was no doubt that the President and the Defense Department made the correct decisions.

"Due to circumstances that can't be altered, I'd say it was not only justified, but necessary," Peters said, referring to President Kennedy's order to quarantine Cuba.

Fireman Ted Predki of Salem, Mass., said he called relatives last night and told them not to worry. "I'm convinced that any war, if there is one, won't last over a day," he told them.

★ ★ ★

Two sailors standing at a bus terminal nodded their endorsement of the extended tour of duty directive. Seamen Monte Geary of Bristol, Md., and Harold Dillingham of Columbia, Ky., said there was no alternative.

★

"Whatever they do is okay with me," said Marine Lance Cpl. George G. Engel of Valparaiso, Ind.

Cuban Exile in Michigan Tells of '60 Missile Pads

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—A former Cuban educator claims that before he fled his homeland in 1960 the underground had detected preparations for building missile launching pads in three of the island's provinces.

★ ★ ★

Jose Tagle, once a school superintendent in Havana, now lives in Grand Rapids as a factory worker. He commended the United States quarantine plan but suggested it could have been imposed earlier.

Tagle further claims that information from underground units still in Cuba indicates an increase in counter revolutionary sabotage at strategic installations and assassination of ranking Communists.

He voiced doubts that Fidel Castro ever intended to release prisoners captured in the thwarted 1961 invasion. Tagle claims that Castro has boasted that he had mined the prison with explosives to be detonated in case of invasion by United States forces.

SUPPORT DWINDLES

Dr. Carlos Cortina, former Havana attorney and classmate of Castro at University of Havana, claimed that support for Castro about a year ago included some 45 per cent of Cuba's population. It since has dwindled to about 25 per cent, Dr. Cortina said.

He attributed the drop to lack of food for the island and lags in industrial and agricultural production. Dr. Cortina said that rice, a staple in the Cuban diet, now is doled out at the ratio of one pound per person per week.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Cortina arrived in Grand Rapids last May 29 in a refugee group and is enrolled in a preseminary course at Calvin College.

JFK Gives Arms Details

"Surface to surface missiles; bomber aircraft; bombs, air to surface rockets and guided missiles; warheads for any of the above weapons; mechanical or electronic equipment to support or operate the above items; and any other classes of materiel hereafter designated by the secretary of defense for the purpose of effectuating this proclamation."

Cuban Crisis Provokes Protests

By United Press International

The burgeoning Cuban crisis provoked demonstrations yesterday and today from Canada to Latin America, and from Washington to Moscow.

More than 2,000 Ban-The-Bomb sympathizers rushed the doors of the American embassy in London last night, swinging their fists and shouting anti-American epithets.

Police arrested 124 demonstrators and stationed a continuous guard around the embassy in anticipation of further outbreaks. The Communist Daily Worker said another demonstration would take place tonight.

The London Committee of 100, a disarmament group headed by Lord Bertrand Russell, the philosopher, reportedly was considering whether to hold a mass pro-Cuba rally in Trafalgar Square during the weekend.

BACK U.S.

The only pro-American demonstrations have been in Rome and Ottawa. In Rome today, several thousand right-wing and neo-Fascist adherents were dispersed by riot police as they marched on Italian Communist party headquarters.

Several hundred right-wing students chanting "death to Castro" paraded before the U.S. embassy in Rome yesterday and then marched before the Spanish embassy cheering Francisco Franco, as did some 500 of today's demonstrators.

The Soviet embassy in Ottawa was the scene yesterday of a march by about 40 students from the University of Ottawa. Bearing bedsheets with such printed slogans as "Cuba Si, Russia No," they chanted "Hurray for Kennedy" as Russian diplomats entered or left the embassy.

At United Nations headquarters in New York, about 500 persons demonstrated quietly yesterday, many of them women carrying or wheeling babies. They bore placards reading: "President Kennedy, Be Careful," and "Dead Men Can't Negotiate."

About 50 women from the "Women Strike for Peace" movement picketed the White House yesterday, urging the President to reconsider his blockade decision.

Anti-American crowds also were reported to have gathered outside United States embassies in Stockholm, Copenhagen, Milan and several British cities besides London.

The American embassy in Moscow was the scene today of a protest by about 50 Soviet youths. Police shepherded them away but another group reportedly was gathering. One of the embassy's two entrances was blocked off and personnel were asked not to leave the grounds.

Small anti-American demonstrations were reported yesterday in various Latin American capitals, all of them without major violence or reported casualties. Many were believed to be Communist-inspired and police took firm security measures.

In the Brazilian industrial city of Sao Paulo, an anti-American demonstration was broken up by police. Anti-American protests by students in Ecuador also were reported.

About 60 students marched outside the American embassy in Lima, Peru and another 100 paraded before the national capital. Both groups dispersed without violence.

In Tokyo, about 100 members of the fanatic leftist Zengakuren student organization attempted a "march on the U.S. embassy," but a police cordon turned them away. No casualties were reported.

Violence Buried Beneath Cuba's Beauty

By The Associated Press

From its very first tourist, Cuba has enchanted its visitors.

★ ★ ★

"A thousand tongues would not suffice to describe it," Christopher Columbus wrote after discovering Cuba, "the most beautiful land that human eyes have seen."

Yet it's also a land of violence, of foreign domination and of homemade tyrants, and these, too, go back to its first recorded history.

President Kennedy, in calling for its quarantine, began another chapter in what has often been a shocking and distressing history.

Anyone who drops in on the National Geographic Society library to bone up on Cuba, will find this obscured at first.

One needs a machete to cut through the lush undergrowth of adjectives used by early writers.

But slowly the truth comes out.

Within 25 years after the Spaniards moved in the Indians had been exterminated.

In 1523 the first slave ship arrived. This sorry business continued until 1886.

TREASURE ISLAND

Exploited from within, Cuba was pillaged and plundered by pirates from without. The Isle of Pines was the setting for Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treaure Island."

Back in 1827 the U.S. minister to Madrid was warning Spain that this country would never tolerate Cuba passing over to another European power.

In 1848 the United States offered Spain $100 million for Cuba. Though this was refused, Presidents Pierce and Buchanan continued to have a simple Cuban policy: Get it.

Then came the most dramatic moment in our relations with Cuba — the blowing up of the Maine in the Havana Harbor, with 286 lives lost.

War with Spain! . . . Teddy Roosevelt and his Roughriders . . . a wonderful rule for enlisting eager recruits: "Don't take anyone whose stomach measures bigger than his chest. . . . . quick victory . . . U. S. rule . . . then Cuba set free.

The paradox of Cuba has continued to the present day.

"Nature is bountiful. Climate and soil combine to provide extraordinary fruitfulness with even nominal care . . . yet the masses of Cuba's rural population are impoverished, ill housed, ill fed, and poorly clothed."

As an old sailor, Kennedy undoubtedly is well aware that Cuba presents a lot of coastline to guard. With a length of 730 miles, a width averaging 50 miles, Cuba has a coastline of 2,500 miles.

It has a population of around seven million, of whom one million live in Havana, and with 44,206 square miles, is about the size of Pennsylvania.

Until the time of its recent troubles, Cuba was exporting sugar, rum, cigars, night club singers, coffee, pineapples, bananas and baseball players.

Many observers have pointed out that the island looks something like a crescent moon, but the Cubans themselves think it looks more like an alligator.

Let's hope the symbolism means something. The business, toothy end of the alligator should be pointed the other way.

Shirley MacLaine Studies Back Streets of Paris

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

★ ★ ★

Wide-eyed, button-nosed Shirley plays a prostitute in "Irma la Duce" and candidly admits her knowledge of shady ladies was limited to other portrayals she'd seen on the screen.

"I had to research those poor creatures for myself," she explained.

"The only answer was to go to their hangouts and get a true impression of their attitudes and reasons for becoming hookers. I also studied their stances, the way they walked and talked.

"Every night I got in a cab and drove down to Les Halles section of Paris—where 'Irma la Duce' takes place—and got to know some of the girls. They were perfectly willing to discuss their lives with me.

"One thing I discovered is that most of them have IQs of about 3. They aren't very bright."

Shirley's project was not just a lark. She attacks every role with the dedication and tenacity of a Green Bay Packers' linebacker.

For "My Geisha" Shirley spent two weeks in a Tokyo geisha training school. She talked to doctors and psychiatrists to learn about the kind of woman she portrayed in "The Children's Hour."

"The roles that are farthest removed from my own personality and character are the ones I seem to play most," she said, "and I make it a point to learn more about those kind of people.

"I guess the most difficult character I ever played was that of the elevator operator in 'The Apartment.' She was closest to me."

Shirley sought anonymity as she prowled Les Halles gaining information about the soiled doves of Paris. Night after night the illicit trade in sin fascinated the actress.

TO ENHANCE

★ ★ ★

"Their clothes were always tight and they were loaded down with all kinds of jewelry. When I talked to them it was clear that they have no concept of morality as other people do. They don't think of what they're doing as right or wrong. They just accept it.

"This is the important quality in Irma la Duce. I am playing the role to minimize the shock value of this woman's profession.

"She is a sensitive woman who is virtuous in her own mind, no matter how she is forced to make a living. But she is bound to prostitution and can't escape it.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

"I'm kinda embarrassed by the costumes I have to wear," she giggled. "They're the most revealing things I've ever worn, or maybe I should say almost wear. But I'm sure it's the best part I've ever played."

Detroit to Launch Bid for Federal Aid

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit was ready to launch its first bid for government aid in its proposed $69-million public works program today.

★ ★ ★

Formal application was approved yesterday by the Common Council. The application is a request for projects costing an estimated $10 million—about half of which will be paid locally.

A city official estimated the proposal would create jobs for about 1,000 persons, most of them construction workers.

Among the items listed in the application were $248,500 for a fire station, $950,000 for street lighting, revisions and additions to two local hospitals, and $8.1 million for new water and sewer lines in the city.

"Destined for commercial success. The film instantly grabs and enthralls the audience . . ."—VARIETY
"The word 'beautiful' best and most fully describes this extraordinary story. Once audiences get to see this picture, only the hopelessly calloused among them can fail to be moved to laughter, hope and tears. "The Miracle Worker' is more than an entertainment, it is a genuine experience. Miss Bancroft never falters. It is a great performance. Patty Duke is a marvel. She wrings the heart."—HOLLYWOOD REPORTER
"Word of mouth will grow and grow for this film, which draws emotions up from the toes to dwell in the heart and leave through the eyes. It is not a depressing tale, but, filled with wonderful humorand hope, an uplifting one."—INDEPENDENT FILM JOURNAL
"It is supurb. It has an intense and classic quality which will make it last forever as one of the finest works of art in the history of motion pictures. Patty Duke is absolutely flawless. The picture has an endless playing potential. By no means merely an 'Art House' picture. It has tremendous 'word-of-mouth' potential."—BOXOFFICE
"Told with skill and beauty. Outstanding performances. Major boxoffice. A deeply moving film . . . will find a wide audience appeal. It tugs at the heart all along, finally uplifting it."—FILMDAILY
