

Tax Hike Is Seen for Three-Lake Cleanup

"Taxpayers are going to have to pay for it now," was the refrain repeated last night by the City Commission.

This was the response to the State Water Resources Commission request that Pontiac establish a program to correct sewer pollution of three small lakes in the city.

The commission officially received the request in a letter from Loring F. Oeming, executive secretary of the state agency.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., led off the commission comments, pointing out that the commission had been aware of the problem but did not have the funds to do anything.

Taylor said that correction of pollution of city lakes was one of the items on the commission's program when the income tax was recommended.

Commented the mayor, "No matter which way you cut this pie, it means that people will be assessed more taxes on top of present taxes, whether they like it or not."

SENT A LETTER

City Manager Joseph A. Warren disclosed last night that he had sent a letter to the Water Resources Commission to see if Waterford Township had also been advised of pollution of Crystal Lake through the west end drain, which serves a portion of the township.

The Water Resources Commission advised the city to "conduct a complete review of its storm and sanitary sewer systems serving the area tributary to the three lakes."

The state agency also set down a specific timetable for the implementation of the city's program against pollution of Harris, Terry and Osmond Lakes.

City Commissioners generally seemed to agree that construction of new storm drains, necessary to separate the combined sanitary and storm sewer system, would have to go through down a specific timetable for the implementation of the city's program against pollution of Harris, Terry and Osmond Lakes.

This would add to the county tax bill received by city property owners.

Sen. Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac, who attended last night's commission meeting, said that the public is becoming more aware of the problem and "realizes the tremendous costs of the pollution fight."

State Seeks to Halt Frauds, Says Kelley

A "hot line" alerting system is being set up in 15 Michigan counties, including Oakland to combat consumer frauds and cheats, Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley said today.

Kelley addressed a group of merchants and county law enforcement officers at a breakfast meeting at the Elks Temple.

Sponsored by the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, the meeting was the 11th in a series slated for the state's 15 largest counties.

Introduced by Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson, Kelley said that Consumer Fraud Bureaus are being set up as part of the three-fold attack on frauds and cheats.

Kelley said that the battle against frauds and cheats is carried out through: (1) enforcement of present laws, (2) new legislation and, (3) education programs.

Consumer Fraud Bureaus are part of the latter effort, he said. "We need public awareness and responsibility."

He explained that each county would set up a three or four-man group to receive information from the Consumer Protection Division of the attorney general's office.

Acting as coordinators, these people would distribute the information to businesses and eventually the public.

Kelley said a "hot line" alerting network is being established to furnish fast-breaking intelligence on consumer fraud activities.

LBJ Can End Stay in Hospital Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson got word from his doctors today that he can go home any time after tonight, but the President said he hadn't made up his mind on when he'll go.

Two of the President's chief doctors were with him. They pronounced his recovery fine, but said he'll have to take it easy for a month or six weeks. (See Picture, Page A-3).

OU Benefactor, 82, Hailed at Cornerstone Ceremony

October smiled as Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson was honored yesterday on her 82nd birthday at the cornerstone ceremony of the Matilda R. Wilson Hall.

Representatives of state government, the Michigan State University Board of Trustees and Oakland County legislators joined OU students, foundation members, and staff in the official noon ceremony.

Commemorating the Wilsons' founding gift, the $2.5-million hall will house classrooms and administrative offices.

Among the items enclosed in the cornerstone were a 1965-66 OU catalog, a program for the

"Our deepest thanks and happy birthday," said Harold A. Fitzgerald, president of the Oakland University Foundation, to the diminutive founder.

"SHARE HER JOY"

"We bow low to a great lady as we share her joy and pay homage once again."

Arthur J. Law, State Rep. D-Pontiac, announced that a resolution in tribute to Mrs. Wilson's contribution to higher education had been issued by the House.

"Eventually," he said, "Oakland University will be one of the greatest, if not the greatest university in the United States. Our only limitation will be our own shortsightedness."

"We pledge vigorous and relentless efforts in furtherance of the goals you have set for us," said Warren M. Huff, chairman of the Michigan State University Board of Trustees.

"When the stones and bricks of this edifice have withered and weathered, the real gift, the real memorial will be written in the lives of the youngsters who travel these halls."

"Mrs. Wilson, we and our children are forever in your debt," he concluded.

In response, Mrs. Wilson said, "If you leave out everything said about me, I agree. I'm looking forward to greater things from this university."

Rev. Dr. Allan MacLachlan Frew, minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Detroit, delivered the prayer of dedication.

Among those present at the dinner were Sen. Farrell Roberts, Oakland County Circuit Judges Phillip Pratt, Frederick Ziem and Arthur E. Moore and State Representatives Raymond Baker and Clifford Smart.

Elly Speaks in County

Forget Party Splits, GOP Told

Internal party differences must be put aside, Mrs. Elly Peterson, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, told a gathering of some 150 Oakland County party members last night.

Speaking at a dinner of the 19th Republican Congressional District at Glen Oaks Country Club, Mrs. Peterson said the GOP must put together if it is to meet its objectives.

"We don't agree on everything, but I bet we all agree on one point," the party leader said.

"We've got to clean house at the congressional and state level next year and at the county level in 1968."

Mrs. Peterson reminded party members that the Romney - Milliken ticket outpolled the Staebler-Dereogaki Democratic slate by 385,000 votes last fall.

"That's as good as Soapy Williams ever did," she said. She also reminded that next

150-200 Reds Believed Killed in Two Actions

U. S. Army Helicopter Shot Down, Leaving Four Americans Dead

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The Viet Cong launched two big attacks on government troops in South Viet Nam's central highlands during the night and suffered heavy casualties.

A U. S. Army helicopter was shot down during one of the battles and the four Americans aboard were killed.

An estimated 150-200 guerrillas were killed in the two actions.

Supported by heavy air attacks, a force of 300 Montagnard tribesmen and 10 American advisers were holding off hundreds of guerrillas laying siege to a special forces camp at Plei Me, about 17 miles from the Cambodian border.

The Viet Cong has lost an estimated 60 to 100 men but kept up their attack throughout the day. Casualties among the defenders were reported light.

BEAT OFF ATTACKS

U.S. advisers said government troops beat off attacks by two Viet Cong battalions in a fierce battle in the Ba Long valley, about 400 miles north of Saigon near the North Viet Nam border.

The advisers reported 94 Viet Cong bodies had been counted and "they're still counting." Vietnamese casualties were described as light.

"You know they were hurt badly when they left so many of their dead lying around," said one American. "You can't assure they carried some more away."

Guerrilla bodies were strewn in the mud and barbed wire around the government outpost.

State Tells Waterford: Fix Drain

The State Water Resources Commission has given official notification to Waterford Township officials to remedy drainage problems existing in the east side of the township near the Pontiac Mall.

In a letter from Loring F. Oeming, executive secretary of the Water Resources Commission, it was pointed out that the area is served only by the county's West End Drain with no separate sewer system for the collection of sanitary waste.

Oeming said that an undetermined number of the properties of the area discharge untreated waste water or septic tank effluent to the drain.

Oeming also noted that the township and city have agreed that the city will provide treatment of waste from the township area, if and when the township installs sewers.

The Water Resources Commission requested a three-step timetable for the implementation of the program.

Complete construction plans and specifications for facilities on or before March 1, 1966.

Complete financing of the facilities on or before June 1, 1966.

Award construction contracts for the facilities on or before June 15, 1966.

Two-Engine Craft Hits Near Manila Airport

MANILA (UPI) — A Philippine Air Force DC-3 with 38 Filipinos aboard lost power today on takeoff from Manila Airport and crashed into the barracks area of nearby Nichols Air Force Base. All aboard were rescued quickly, but one passenger died later.

Many passengers were badly injured; some were near death. Several hundred Philippine Air Force men were in the barracks area on a mid-morning coffee break when the plane plunged to the ground, but only five were injured. Two were in serious condition.

The passengers included Jose Cruz, director of the Philippine Department of Public Works, and his assistant.

The twin-engine plane ripped through several power poles and hit three barracks buildings. But the plane did not catch fire until five minutes after it came to rest, permitting Air Force men to rescue the 35 passengers and three crewmen.

DISASTER AVOIDED

An explosion could have caused a disaster. Ammunition is stored in some of the barracks. "We all could have been blown to kingdom come, an Air Force officer said.

The impact stopped both wings from the fuselage and the main cabin ladder upside down. Many passengers were hanging strapped in their seats.

The plane took off at 10:32 a.m., on a flight to Legaspi City in southern Luzon. Witnesses said the craft wobbled slightly after lifting off the runway, then made a sharp left turn and plummeted to earth.

The airport tower controller reported that the pilot, Capt. Orlando Villanueva, shouted a frantic unintelligible message over his radio just before the plane went out of control.

OUT OF CONTROL
Arturo Crespo, an employee of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, said the plane was in the air about two minutes. He said the airliner was completely out of control when it made the sharp left turn.

Air lines officials said Villanueva was trying to lead the plane onto another runway for a crash landing when he lost airspeed.

"I saw the pilot and flight officer walking from the debris," said Air Force Capt. Alford Sanchez. "I saw six others walking out from the passenger cabin which was cut open and upside down."

"One little child was crawling out. She was crying. A woman was still seated in an upside down position holding a baby in her arms."

Pontiac Press Wins Award in Advertising

The Metro Newspaper Service "plus business" award has been presented to The Pontiac Press. G. Marshall Jordan, Pontiac Press retail advertising manager, accepted the award last weekend at the 24th annual conference of the Michigan Press Association Advertising Managers in Lansing.

Jack R. McCall, display advertising solicitor for The Press, created the award winning advertisement for Spencer's Floor Coverings.

The full-page color ad which appeared in the July 16 Pontiac Press proclaimed that the floor covering company specialized in dealing with folks who are "personality" and invited fussy customers to visit the store.

"This ad led to a series of other, or 'plus business,' placed by the floor covering store."

City Has Him Dead; Employer Does, Too

BILBAO, Spain (UP) — Truck driver Jose Arteaga was unable to return to work after being released from a hospital, because the city records listed him as dead.

citizens hand radio license, saying the equipment would be used for "rescue work" and whether it was in fact used for Klan activities.

After the $4,000 checks relating to the Diez Engineering Co. were produced, Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D.L.A. of the House Committee on Un-American Activities asked:

"Isn't it a fact you received at least $4,000 from this company because you knew your way around and because of your ability to exercise political influence?"

STANDARD ANSWER

When Shelton made his standard answer, refusing to reply, Willis commented:

"It is my impression the paymasters would be rather unwilling victims." Shelton also declined to answer when asked whether he failed to report the money as personal income.

He was asked about the purchase of a Cadillac, about money spent in a jewelry shop, about an insurance company, and about checks drawn on the Klan account.

To each query, he gave the same response he had given yesterday: "I honestly believe my answer might lead to incriminate me in violation of my rights guaranteed to me by amendments five, one, four and 14 of the Constitution of the United States of America."

Shelton was again accompanied by some of his grand dragons when he came to the second session of the hearings by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

LAPEL BUTTON
He was wearing a lapel button with the single word "never" on it.

Whatever other significance it may have, it could have meant "never talk" on this day. For he refused to tell newsmen about the button.

And, when committee chairman Edwin E. Willis, D.L.A., asked him to explain it, Shelton replied that he must refer to the button.

The problem arose when ground tests showed it would be unsuitable for a septic tank to operate at Cherokee Hills Elementary School, presently under construction.

Located on Bird Street, near Pontiac Mall, the school is earmarked for completion next September.

Two courses of action to solve the problem are connecting with the Pontiac sewer system, or construction of a small sewage disposal plant.

Donald T. Appell, a committee investigator, did most of the questioning of Shelton about Klan finances. He presented a Klan income tax return which he said was signed by Shelton. The period covered by the return was not clear.

Appell said the report showed an income of $18,487 but said outgoing checks totaled $10,118.68. He asked if that meant the total net income for all of Shelton's United Klans was only about $450.

Shelton refused to answer.

Court Clears Way to Start Wilkins' Trial

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)

The Alabama Supreme Court refused today to disqualify 11 prospective jurors in a Ku Klux Klan murder trial because they had said they regarded white civil rights workers as inferior.

The unanimous decision cleared the way for resumption of the trial of Collier Leroy Wilkins Jr. at nearby Hayneville and for the selection of a jury.

Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, prosecuting the first-degree murder case, told newsmen, "I'm going back to my office now. I'll have a statement later."

Before the ruling was handed down, Flowers had said he would be ready to go back to Hayneville and resume the trial if the court rejected his claim that the prospective jurors by their statements had indicated prejudice.

The attorney general based his appeal on the fact that Wilkins, a 21-year-old Fairfield, Ala., mechanic, is charged with killing a white civil rights worker, Mrs. Viola Liuzzo of Detroit.

Bargaining Agent Vote for Teachers Discussed

BIRMINGHAM — The teacher bargaining agent situation, an insurance plan for non-certified personnel, and the district's building program were considered at the Birmingham Board of Education meeting last night.

Board members were notified that the State Labor Mediation Board has scheduled for Oct. 27 a meeting on a Birmingham Education Association (BEA) request for a representation vote in the district.

The BEA filed a petition for the vote earlier this month in an attempt to gain recognition as the sole bargaining agent for the school system's 750 teachers.

Purpose of the Oct. 27 meeting is to set up the machinery for the election, establishing the date and terms.

Robert B. Blackwell, executive secretary of the labor mediation board, yesterday announced the election would be held at 10 a.m. in his Detroit office.

BOARD REPRESENTATIVES
The board of education will be represented by Schools Supt. Dr. John B. Smith and board attorney William Beasley of Royal Oak.

In addition to BEA representatives, other interested parties can attend, Blackwell said.

Switching its attention to non-certified personnel, the school board last night approved the Birmingham system's first health and hospitalization plan for classified employees.

The policy is expected to cost the board about $46,500 a year, with the $12,000 for cafeteria employees being paid from cafeteria income.

CAN BE COVERED

Some 350 secretaries, maintenance personnel, bus drivers and cafeteria employees can be covered by the plan.

The board will pay the full cost, 75 cents a month, for each single employee policy and half the cost of additional family protection if it is wanted.

In other action, the board awarded two contracts for construction of a science addition to Seaholm High School.

General contractor will be Salvaggio and Sons Construction Co. of St. Clair Shores, whose bid was $189,929.

A $157,400 contract for the mechanical work was awarded to Evans Plumbing and Heating, Inc. of Southfield.

tract was tabled to allow Smith time to check with the architect on specifications for lighting fixtures.

The board earlier had awarded a $163,000 contract for site development for Covington Junior High School.

The work will be done by C. J. Rogers, Inc. of Detroit.

The unit, to be constructed at Quanton and Covington, is expected to be opened in the fall of 1966.

Former employees of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company's Birmingham traffic department are planning a 15th reunion Oct. 28.

A smorgasbord dinner will begin at 7 p.m. at Northwood Inn, Berkley.

Reservations should be made by tomorrow with Mrs. Frank Hilton, 1310 Shipman; Mrs. Viola Hopp, 82 Murphy; Pontiac; or Bertina Graves, 271 State, Pontiac.

Educators Quit WEA Group

Resignations Are 'Due to Recent Legislation'

The Waterford Education Association's executive board has accepted the resignation of its president, Ronald E. Arnold.

Arnold, principal of Silver Lake Elementary School, said he resigned because of recent legislation "which clearly limits the participation of supervisory personnel in the administration of the local association."

Elliott, principal of Waterford Central Elementary School, indicated he resigned for the same reasons.

The resignations will become effective Dec. 1. Their replacements will be selected at an election prior to this date.

There are more people in these two age groups than ever before, he added.

Citing efforts to obtain new legislation, Kelley said an act will become law Jan. 1 regulating the sale of home improvement services.

This act, for example, makes it a crime to offer anything worth more than $2.50 as an inducement to buy home improvements.

The attorney general said further new legislation is being prepared to regulate the sale of hearing aids. Eye glasses have been so regulated since 1909 he said.

Dirksen Outlines Opposition

Senate to OK Morrissey---T. Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says there are more senators ready to vote for confirmation of Francis X. Morrissey as a federal judge than there are opposed.

But Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen says he expects all 32 Republicans and more than half a dozen Democrats to join him in voting to send the nomination back to committee.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield once again has put aside the controversial appointment even though the session is growing shorter.

Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat who is Morrissey's chief sponsor, said Tuesday night a large number of senators have told him a new FBI report on the Boston municipal court judge "cleared up any question they had and they are now fully prepared to support the nomination."

FAVORABLE VOTES
"There are more votes in favor of the nomination than opposed," he said.
Kennedy issued the confident statement after Dirksen renewed his attack on President Johnson's nomination of the old friend of the Kennedy family to be a U.S. District Court judge in Massachusetts.

Kennedy, said Dirksen, is using the nomination "for partisan political purposes."

Following a meeting of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, Dirksen described Morrissey as unqualified by intellectual capacity and legal training and experience for the federal bench.

He said he thinks all 32 Republicans would vote to send the nomination back to the Judiciary Committee for further consideration. "I know of no defections," he said.

Meeting Topic Is Handicapped Children in Area

A meeting will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Oakland Schools Board of Education for parents, teachers and others interested in the perceptually handicapped child.

Teachers of perceptually handicapped children will show slides and explain the problems of these children and relate what is being done in the classroom.

According to Mrs. Corral Bitner, 12732 Talbot, Huntington Woods, publicity chairman for the meeting, there are at least 50 perceptually-handicapped children in seven classrooms in Oakland County.

Fordham Center Starts

NEW YORK (AP) — Ground has been broken for a $15-million classroom, office and theater building complex at Fordham University's Lincoln Center campus on Manhattan's West Side.

And, Dirksen added, half a dozen or so Democratic senators are prepared to speak against Morrissey's confirmation and even more Democrats can be expected to vote for re-judging the nomination to committee.

Senate approval of a presidential nomination requires a simple majority — 51 if all 100 senators vote. Similarly, a simple majority of those voting can send a nomination back to committee.

Should the Senate not act before adjournment, Johnson could give Morrissey a recess appointment. To take it, Morrissey would have to give up his $20,000-a-year municipal judgeship — while not being certain of Senate confirmation next year.

SUGAR QUOTA
Mansfield sidetracked the Morrissey nomination Tuesday to call up the sugar quota bill and said the Senate's next order of business will be a $4.7-billion supplemental appropriation.

The Democratic leader reiterated that he is prepared to vote to confirm Morrissey.

Dirksen said he has no information that the nomination will be withdrawn — or that it will not be brought up before adjournment.

But if it is brought up, he said, he will offer a motion to return it to the judiciary committee. There Morrissey was approved 4 to 4 with six committee members not voting.

Word Power for Success—9

Pluralizing Compound Nouns

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the ninth in a 30-part series entitled "The Word Power to Success." The series is designed to help bring improvement in spelling, grammar and vocabulary.

By The Reading
Laboratory, Inc.
Written for NEA Special Services

You may have noticed that different mothers-in-law (or is it mother-in-laws?) speak differently about their sons-in-law (or is it son-in-laws?) and daughters-in-law (daughter-in-laws?). And most of us feel sorry for that poor repentant sailor — who came ashore and celebrated noisily and too well. Tomorrow's sons-in-law and their daughters-in-law.

This question keeps coming up to annoy the smartest of men, and there is no good reason for it at all. Our library contains the full rule, and it is the simplest rule in the book:

In compound nouns avoid distress:
Make plural what you want to stress.

Now that sailor is certainly more concerned about court than he is about martial. "Make plural what you want to stress," tells him, therefore, that he has to face separate courts-martial. And those mothers-in-law — the important word here is mother, not law — should speak of their sons-in-law and their daughters-in-law.

If you think these sound funny, it is simply because most people don't know this simple rule of all rules: "Make plural what you want to stress." That is all there is to it.

EQUALLY IMPORTANT
Suppose, now, you have a situation in which one word is just as important as the other. Work a senator, for example, is to be made plural. The words are of equal importance. Which one should be pluralized? Both of them. "Make plural what you want to stress."

So we say obviously, women senators, not woman senators.

not, women senator. And we refer, by the same token, to men servants and women servants.

No less of a spelling nuisance to most people is "teaspoons full of sugar" or "teaspoonfuls of sugar." Common sense once more settles the question. If you pour one teaspoon full of sugar into Algren's cup, then I pour my teaspoon full of sugar into his cup, two teaspoons have been used, and both have been full.

SEPARATE TEASPOONS

Since we are talking about two separate teaspoons, we say two spoons full. Now, if you pour into Algren's coffee an amount equal to what two teaspoons would hold, you have poured two teaspoonfuls into his coffee.

It is really odd that the two questions we have answered in this column bother the majority of people. With just a little common sense there would be no problems at all.

A QUIZ

To be sure that you are clear about how to pluralize comound nouns and units of measure, underline the correct form within the parentheses in the following sentences:

1. Our firm has three (vice-president, vice-presidents).
2. I saw these two snobs showing off their respective (cost-of-arms, costs-of-arms).
3. Two (side-de-camp, sides-de-camp) were awaiting the general.
4. How many (charge d'affaire, charges d'affaires) were at the ball?
5. To see those (man-of-war, men-of-war) steaming by is so impressive.

6. This pot holds eight-tablespoons full, (tablespoonfuls) of sugar.

7. If each of you will fill his cup and pour its contents into the pot, we shall then have eight (cups full, cupfuls) of sugar.

ANSWERS

1. Vice-presidents. 2. Costs-of-arms. 3. Sides-de-camp. 4. Charges d'affaires. 5. Men-of-war. 6. Tablespoonfuls. 7. Cups full. Only in No. 2 do you have a situation in which one part of the compound noun is as important as the other. In all other cases the important word has been pluralized.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Deficiencies Lead to Bone Disorders

Q—What's the difference between osteoporosis and osteomalacia?

A—Bone building and bone destruction are going on simultaneously in your body all the time just as similar changes are occurring in other tissues (muscles, nerves and blood).

When the calcium in bone is being removed faster than it is being replaced, a process called demineralization, osteoporosis, occurs and the bones are weakened. This is a common cause of collapse of a vertebra. It occurs chiefly in persons who are over 60.

Osteomalacia is also a disturbance of bone formation but the process can be checked so that other bones will not collapse by giving them male hormones to women and male hormones to men. In addition to this, calcium salts should be given. If the treatment is to do any good it must be continued for several months.

Q—Which is the better way of treating postmenopausal osteoporosis — with injections of Premarin or Durabolin?

A—With Premarin because this is a female hormone. Nandrolone phenpropionate (Durabolin) is a male hormone and would be preferred for men with this condition.

Q—Are emphysema and pulmonary fibrosis the same thing? Are diabetes mellitus and sugar diabetes the same thing? Will it clear up without diet or medication?

A—Pulmonary fibrosis is a social advance.

Q—My husband had a collapsed vertebra. Can the bone, which the doctor says is demineralized, be restored by Novocain injections?

A—Your husband has osteoporosis. Injections of procaine (Novocain) are given to relieve the pain, not to restore the bone.

Although bed rest (flat on the back on a hard bed) will relieve the pain, this is likely to lead to further demineralization. It is therefore better to get the victim up with a back brace.

Nothing will restore the collapsed bone but the process can be checked so that other bones leaving down of scar tissue in the lungs. This may occur in tuberculosis, chronic bronchitis, emphysema and other diseases of the lungs.

Diabetes mellitus and sugar diabetes are the same. If you have it you will need a diet or medication or both.

Mrs. Dawson Mrs. Farnham

The community is saddened by the deaths of two of its oldest and most respected members.

Both Mrs. CHARLES DAWSON, whose life spanned a century, and Mrs. EDWINA D. FARNHAM, in her early eighties, leave indelible memories of their graciousness and long participation in civic and ecclesiastical circles.

Mrs. Farnham was the widow of Dr. Lucius A. Farnham who practiced medicine locally for half a century and played an important role in city government. Known to her friends as Winnie, she was an honorary member of the Oakland County Hospital Association and had served in the Women's Auxiliary of Pontiac General Hospital.

Mrs. Dawson contributed much to the Oakland County Pioneer and Historical Society and was active in local music and garden affairs. She was also a member of Pontiac General Hospital Ladies Auxiliary and the YWCA Golden Age group.

The lives of many contemporaries were enriched by the gentle and high-minded characters of these estimable ladies.

Business Earns a Bow From Job Corps Chiefs

"Job Corps experience so far suggests that business may have something to teach the educators. Training centers run by business corporations look better on the public record than centers run by educational institutions and state entities."

This observes a news dispatch by the New York Times Service. A number of the Job Corps centers are administered by business groups which have contracts with the government. In these, the work has been proceeding smoothly and productively, and there apparently have been no unfortunate incidents.

On the other hand, there has been a good deal of trouble—occasionally approaching the riot stage—in centers where nonbusiness organizations have the administrative responsibility.

Why should this be so? The Times dispatch quotes SARGENT SHIVER, who heads the Office of Economic Opportunity, as saying that businesses "... know how to run things. They are good managers. They know what kind of employees they need. They train people in realities."

This adds weight to something that a great many people have been saying—that the main force for reducing poverty and for aiding the underprivileged to attain a productive place in the economic world will come from business enterprise. Government will help, but it can do only a small part of the job.

One of the primary purposes of business is to raise living standards and provide greater opportunity for all. And it knows how to do it.

U.S.-Soviet Art Swap on a One-Way Street?

A cultural cold war against the United States has not deterred the Soviet Union from sending the Moscow Philharmonic Orchestra to New York's Carnegie Hall for a series of 11 concerts. What is unclear, however, is how long the State Department will permit the Russians to send their artists while they harass our cultural exchange programs.

Just a few weeks ago the Soviets canceled both an American hand tools exhibit and the tour of the hit musical, "Hello Dolly." They tried also to discredit the U.S. Architecture Exhibition in Moscow by charging that an exhibition guide was a "fascist provocateur" in disguise.

An agreement signed in 1958 first opened Russia to American students, scientists and cultural groups on a reciprocal basis. Subsequent revisions have resulted in enlarging the volume of the East-West exchange. But Soviet leaders apparently fear that the Russian people now are getting too long and favorable a look at the American way of life.

Perhaps keeping out the Moscow Philharmonic would play into the hands of Russian propagandists. But reciprocity is the essence of cultural exchange agreements. Further Soviet restrictions on American performers and exhibitors probably will force a response in kind as a matter of principle.

The 'a Go-Go' craze will soon be a 'Gone-Go,' but likely something worse to fill the resulting vacuity will 'a Come-Come.

LBJ Bats High; but Not All Hits

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's batting average with the 86th Congress now pressing for adjournment of its first session will compare favorably with the best of any of his predecessors. But it won't show all his runs. There are going to be some major bills left on base.

Probably no other president got so much so quickly from a Congress heavily dominated by members of his own party. But not even Johnson got everything he wanted. He still could, for this is only the first session of the 86th, and all unfinished business carries over to next year when Congress takes up where it leaves off in 1965.

Topping the list of deferred legislation are two bills close to the heart of organized labor which supported Johnson in the 1964 elections.

One is the controversial measure to repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act. This section allows states to ban inclusion in labor-management contracts of provisions requiring all covered employees to belong to or contribute to a union.

The House passed the bill July 28. But the measure ran into a filibuster in the Senate. So the Democratic leadership took the bill off the calendar and laid it aside until next year.

Labor's other top-priority bill got sidetracked in the House after being approved by the Education and Labor Committee in much more liberal form than the President wanted. It would raise the minimum wages of workers in interstate industry and extend coverage to millions of additional workers.

Also still high and dry is the President's proposal for home rule for residents of the District of Columbia, for whom Congress has been acting as a city council for years.

The Senate went along with the President on this legislation but the House passed a much different bill calling for a referendum of capital voters to decide if they want a home rule charter. The two branches haven't been able to get together on a compromise version.

On some of the things he did get from Congress, the President got more than he wanted.

This was true of the military pay raise bill and the bill setting up a program of health care for the elderly within the Social Security System. He might get another setback before Congress goes home. The House has refused to approve funds to put into operation the rent subsidy provision of the new housing law.

The Senate may restore some of the money. If it does, there is certain to be another hassle in the House.

David Lawrence Says:

Hoover Cites U.S. Reds' Activity

WASHINGTON—The American people are not as yet thoroughly informed on what the Soviet government is doing inside the United States to help stir up all kinds of friction and to give to the world an impression of a popular discontent and unrest in America.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, minces no Lawrence words in his annual report, just issued.

He says that, although the Communist party of the United States "loudly proclaims its independence of foreign control," its every action shows clearly that it "owes allegiance only to the Soviet Union and is absolutely committed to the world Communist movement."

Yet the Communist party is permitted as much freedom as the Republican party or the Democratic party, and the illusion prevails that it is just another political organization entitled to the same rights as other political groups.

This means that adopting the form of a political party can be an effective barrier against interference by the federal government, which is charged by law with the prosecution of espionage as well as treason.

NEW LEVELS

Hoover declares that the Communist party's traditional opposition to any phase of American foreign policy which serves to impede international communism has "reached new levels of inactivity with all-out attacks on this country's commitments in Vietnam and the Dominican Republic."

He says the party has denounced U. S. action in South Viet Nam as "brutal" and "barbarous," and that the party furthermore has instructed its members to cooperate with all protest groups in order to intensify these activities and weaken the American government's position.

"The party is making a concerted effort to exploit to its advantage the various demonstration policy against American involvement in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic."

"The Communists have been much encouraged by the current wave of social unrest in the United States. They view this situation as the development of a climate favorable to their operations and are constantly probing to exploit areas of discord. "It is a rare civil rights activity, whether it be a voter's registration drive, a demonstration, march or picket, that does not attract Communists to some degree."

The FBI director makes it clear that many civil rights organizations operate on a legitimate basis and have been successful in excluding Communists, but says that the Communist party is nevertheless continuously striving to infiltrate civil rights movements at every level.

It would appear that the American people are not getting all of the truth and will not until congressional committees carry on intensive inquiries and make their findings.

There have even been repeat efforts either to abolish the House Committee on Un-American Activities or to limit the scope of its investigations.

Unless there is exposure, the people can hardly get the facts, because many of the individuals concerned with various public demonstrations have succeeded in covering up their true affiliation with the Communist movement.

Bob Considine Says:

Kill Off All the Flowers So No One Can Steal Them

NEW YORK—At the main exit of the New York World's Fair, in its dying hours, a big Irish cop stood with an armful of flowers—mostly small yellow mums.

"I feel like a June bride," he said as he advanced to a nearby wall and dumped the lot on the mound of similar flowers spread there.

Then he elbowed his way back into the middle of the human mill race pouring out of the fair and, darning here and there, seized another armful of flowers from others who had rooted them up as souvenirs. These, too, he dumped on the heap—soon to be carted away as trash.

A schoolgirl I was with asked me one of her unanswerable questions.

"I don't get it," she said. "I know it's had to steal, or be a vandal, but the fair is ending any minute and these people wanted to take a little memory of it home."

"What's better, to take the flowers away from them and let them die there in a heap, or have the people who steal them take them home and put them in some water to keep for a few more days?"

"Shut up," father explained, rapping her smartly on the head with his gold-headed cane.

United Air Lines is about to receive the first of the so-called "stretched" DCs. The jet, built by Douglas, will have a cabin about 30 or 40 feet longer than the normal DC8 and, under certain configurations, will seat about 200 passengers.

"I can hear the announcement now," a dispatcher told me the other day in San Francisco. "Flight 122 is now boarding at gate 13, also at 14 and gate 15. All aboard!"

It will be looked upon as a pygmy one of these fine years, when the commercial version of Lockheed's C5A comes along. That will seat about 750, ranging from steerage to cabin class.

Each plane will carry 30 stewards. A mountain of meals will be needed for each flight. There will be more rest rooms than in a fair-sized motel. Nobody has yet figured out how long it will take to get your bag after you land.

Several articles have been published recently in various local newspapers regarding the protest in mailing address change affecting some 1,300 families in the Troy area. Many people living in this area feel that the number of disgruntled citizens is somewhat overstated.

Many residents purchased homes in this area with the complete understanding that they lived in Troy, and were inconvenienced by having a Birmingham mailing address. These residents are pleased to find that their last mailing address is compatible with their lives.

FOR WHOM THE BELL TOLLS — Arthur P. Snader, 81, believed to be the last town crier in the Western Hemisphere, has retired in Provincetown, Mass., on the tip of Cape Cod. Snader, who has held the job since 1952, says he is "tired out" from his duties, which consist of meeting excursion boats and walking down narrow streets announcing local news and tides.

Latest in Long Line

Town Crier Turns in Bell

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP) — Every summer for 13 years, Arthur P. Snader has put on a dark Pilgrim suit, complete with a broad white collar and tall, wide-brimmed hat, and marched off bell in hand to announce the tides, weather conditions and local events.

He was the latest in a long line of town criers of Provincetown, a job he says dates back to at least the 18th century.

Now Snader has turned in his round badge of office and retired. He has walked two or three miles every day from Memorial Day to Labor Day and he is "tired out."

Provincetown is at the very tip of Cape Cod, and Snader's job mainly was for the benefit of summer tourists.

SOURCE OF TROUBLE

Tourists also were his main source of trouble.

"Most of them were pretty nice," Snader says, "but now and then I'd run into one of those amateur comedians."

"Once in a while they'd get their hands on me, but they got socked."

Snader is 81. He believes the strenuous outdoor life of a town crier may be partially responsible for his good health, but

"maybe good liquor has helped."

Town manager Robert Hancock said, "We will have to go a long way to find someone as conscientious as Arthur. He has not missed a day's work since he took the job."

Snader, a blimp pilot in World War I, says he is looking forward to retirement. For one thing, he plans to write a book. "I don't want to say what it's about just yet," he said. "Not until I get the copyright settled. But I think it will be sort of philosophic."

The community is saddened by the deaths of two of its oldest and most respected members.

Both Mrs. CHARLES DAWSON, whose life spanned a century, and Mrs. EDWINA D. FARNHAM, in her early eighties, leave indelible memories of their graciousness and long participation in civic and ecclesiastical circles.

Mrs. Farnham was the widow of Dr. Lucius A. Farnham who practiced medicine locally for half a century and played an important role in city government. Known to her friends as Winnie, she was an honorary member of the Oakland County Hospital Association and had served in the Women's Auxiliary of Pontiac General Hospital.

Mrs. Dawson contributed much to the Oakland County Pioneer and Historical Society and was active in local music and garden affairs. She was also a member of Pontiac General Hospital Ladies Auxiliary and the YWCA Golden Age group.

The lives of many contemporaries were enriched by the gentle and high-minded characters of these estimable ladies.

Business Earns a Bow From Job Corps Chiefs

"Job Corps experience so far suggests that business may have something to teach the educators. Training centers run by business corporations look better on the public record than centers run by educational institutions and state entities."

This observes a news dispatch by the New York Times Service. A number of the Job Corps centers are administered by business groups which have contracts with the government. In these, the work has been proceeding smoothly and productively, and there apparently have been no unfortunate incidents.

On the other hand, there has been a good deal of trouble — occasionally approaching the riot stage — in centers where nonbusiness organizations have the administrative responsibility.

Why should this be so? The Times dispatch quotes SARGENT SHRIVER, who heads the Office of Economic Opportunity, as saying that business "... know how to run things. They are good managers. They know what kind of employees they need. They train people in realities."

This adds weight to something that a great many people have been saying—that the main force for reducing poverty and for aiding the underprivileged to attain a productive place in the economic world will come from business enterprise. Government will help, but it can do only a small part of the job.

One of the primary purposes of business is to raise living standards and provide greater opportunity for all. And it knows how to do it.

U.S.-Soviet Art Swap on a One-Way Street?

A cultural cold war against the United States has not deterred the Soviet Union from sending the Moscow Philharmonic Orchestra to New York's Carnegie Hall for a series of 11 concerts. What is unclear, however, is how long the State Department will permit the Russians to send their artists while they harass our cultural exchange programs.

Just a few weeks ago the Soviets canceled both an American hand tools exhibit and the tour of the hit musical, "Hello Dolly." They tried also to discredit the U.S. Architecture Exhibition in Moscow by charging that an exhibition guide was a "fascist provocateur" in disguise.

An agreement signed in 1958 first opened Russia to American students, scientists and cultural groups on a reciprocal basis. Subsequent revisions have resulted in enlarging the volume of the East-West exchange. But Soviet leaders apparently fear that the Russian people now are getting too long and favorable a look at the American way of life.

Perhaps keeping out the Moscow Philharmonic would play into the hands of Russian propagandists. But reciprocity is the essence of cultural exchange agreements. Further Soviet restrictions on American performers and exhibitors probably will force a response in kind as a matter of principle.

THE 'a Go-Go craze will soon be a Gone-Gone, but likely something worse to fill the resulting vacuity will 'a Come-Come.

LBJ Bats High; but Not All Hits

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (U.S. — President Johnson's batting average with the 89th Congress now pressing for adjournment of its first session will compare favorably with the best of any of his predecessors.

But it won't show all his runs. There are going to be some major bills left on base.

Probably no other president got so much so quickly through a Congress heavily dominated by members of his own party.

Not even Johnson got everything he wanted. He still could, for this is only the first session of the 89th, and all unfinished business carries over to next year when Congress takes up where it leaves off in 1965.

Topping the list of deferred legislation are two bills close to the heart of organized labor which supported Johnson in the 1964 elections.

UNION SHOP BILL
One is the controversial measure to repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act. This section allows states to ban inclusion in labor-management contracts of provisions requiring all covered employees to belong to or contribute to a union.

The House passed the bill July 25. But the measure ran into a filibuster in the Senate. So the Democratic leadership took the bill off the calendar and laid it aside until next year.

Labor's other top-priority bill got sidetracked in the House after being approved by the Education and Labor Committee in much more liberal form than the President wanted. It would raise the minimum wages of workers in interstate industry and extend coverage to millions of additional workers.

Also still high and dry is the President's proposal for home rule for residents of the District of Columbia, for whom Congress has been acting as a city council for years.

MUCH DIFFERENT BILL
The Senate went along with the President on this legislation but the House passed a much different bill calling for a referendum of capital voters to decide if they want a home rule charter. The two branches haven't been able to get together on a compromise version.

On some of the things he did get from Congress, the President got more than he wanted.

This was true of the military pay raise bill and the bill setting up a program of health care for the elderly within the Social Security System.

He might get another setback before Congress goes home. The House has refused to approve funds to put into operation the rent subsidy provision of the new housing law.

The Senate may restore some of the money. If it does, there is certain to be another hassle in the House.

The Bay City Times

For four lacerating years the people of West Berlin have been living with the Wall. They have learned to live with the Wall but they are not learning to accept it. Nor are the people of East Berlin accepting it.

The Berliners — both West and East — resent it and hate it. They see it as the symbol and proof of Communist brutality and fear and futility. There is ample evidence that those who live in freedom in this divided city and those who live on the other side of Communism's national jail feel the same.

Worse Yet ...

The Wall Street Journal

Have you heard of the husband who is so henpecked he is even afraid to talk back to someone else's wife?

of the East German Communist party no one believes it was erected "as protection against provocations from the West."

Since 1948 to August 13, 1961, before the Wall was put up about 2,600,000 escaped to their freedom. They couldn't vote for a government of their choosing, so they voted with their legs. They fled.

But so great is the impulse for freedom that the flight continues at a snail's pace. In the past four years, 84,800 East Germans, including 431 in uniform have dared to risk their lives to escape.

And now the Communists are "beautifying" the zonal border! They are clearing land and planting gardens — the better to see and shoot those who seek freedom.

FOR WHOM THE BELL TOLLS — Arthur P. Snader, 81, believed to be the last town crier in the Western Hemisphere, has retired in Provincetown, Mass., on the tip of Cape Cod. Snader, who has held the job since 1952, says he is "tired out" from his duties, which consist of meeting excursion boats and walking down narrow streets announcing local news and tides.

Latest in Long Line

Town Crier Turns in Bell

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. — "maybe good liquor has helped." Every summer for 13 years, Arthur P. Snader has put on a dark Pilgrim suit, complete with a broad white collar and tall, wide-brimmed hat, and he has marched off bell in hand to announce the tides, weather conditions and local events.

He was the latest in a long line of town criers of Provincetown, a job he says dates back to at least the 18th century. Now Snader has turned in his round badge of office and retired. He has walked two or three miles every day from Memorial Day to Labor Day and he is "tired out."

Provincetown is at the very tip of Cape Cod, and Snader's job mainly was for the benefit of summer tourists.

SOURCE OF TROUBLE
Tourists also were his main source of trouble. "Most of them were pretty nice," Snader says, "but now and then I'd run into one of those amateur comedians."

"Once in a while they'd get their hands on me, but they got soaked."

Snader is 81. He believes the strenuous outdoor life of a town crier may be partially responsible for his good health, but

Town manager Robert Hancock said, "We will have to go a long way to find someone as conscientious as Arthur. He has missed a day's work since he took the job."

Snader, a blimp pilot in World War I, says he is looking forward to retirement. For one thing, he plans to write a book. "I don't want to say what it's about just yet," he said. "Not until I get the copyright settled. But I think it will be sort of philosophical."

Final Details OK'd on Allen Land Sale

Final paperwork was approved last night for the sale of 35 acres of city-owned land to Sam Allen & Sons Inc. at 22 Congress.

The land to be purchased is south of Collier near the city's recently acquired sanitary land-fill site.

City Commissioners received the land contract for the sale and accepted a deed for 22.7 acres of property just west of the fill site as down payment on a 10-year contract.

The balance of the $99,778 purchase price is to be paid at $600 monthly plus six per cent interest. The Allen's are being credited with $35,200 for the 22.7 acres being given to the city.

In an expected but unscheduled move, the commission adopted a resolution annexing the 22.7-acre tract, adding it to the balance of the city's 212-acre sanitary land-fill area.

SOUTH OF COLLIER

The land being sold is located south of Collier and east of the Grand Trunk Railroad tracks. The land has been rezoned manufacturing-3 to accommodate the Allen's projected scrap yard and metal processing operations.

The city's land-fill site extends north of Collier almost to Lake Angeles Road and is between the railroad tracks and a point west of Joslyn.

City Attorney Philip E. Row-

ston, who presented the documents for the commission's approval, said that the Circuit Court suit contesting the city's recent annexation of its property along Collier would not hold up the land sale or its development.

Also approved was a site improvement agreement between the city and the Allen firm, which set certain requirements for the development of the scrap yard site.

In other business, the commission approved the purchase of an aerial platform truck for the fire department.

As recommended, the city will purchase the ladder truck from Sutphen Fire Equipment Co. of Columbus, Ohio, for $69,157 with GMC Truck & Coach Division furnishing a tandem rear axle chassis.

Funds for the truck will come from the capital improvement fund. Delivery may take as much as 15 months.

In still other business, City Manager Joseph A. Warren reported on an order from the Michigan Public Service Commission setting a show cause hearing for Oct. 27 on problems at the railroad crossing at Jackson and Wessen.

Warren reported that the public service commission set the hearing, asking why manual controls should not be re-installed. Meantime, Grand Trunk Railroad has installed new controls that are expected to solve the crossing problems there.

Two lease agreements were approved by the commission for Pontiac Municipal Airport. The first agreement with Donald Bowen and Richard Scribner, operators of Pontiac Aircraft Co., was for the lease of property for construction of a T-hanger.

An identical agreement was okayed with Construction Chemicals Co., Inc., for the same. The lease price was $180 a year.

Commissioners approved the sale of an 18-foot slice of property at 40 S. Sanford for $500 to Mrs. Marie Atwood, the property owner.

18-FOOT STRIP

Warren reported that the city had purchased an 18-foot strip of frontage on various lots along this street in 1929 for future street widening purposes. These plans have been dropped.

Mrs. Atwood, who reportedly seeks to sell her property, merely bought back a portion of her original lot.

The city engineer recommended construction of new sidewalks on both sides of Wessen, from Branch to Walnut, at an estimated cost of $3,200. All of the land is city-owned.

no special assessments would result. The commission approved the construction.

Engineer's estimates were also presented last night for construction of a sanitary sewer on the southwest side of Telegraph from 150 feet south of the railroad to Orchard Lake.

Total cost is $7,798 with the assessed cost being $1,287 and the city's cost $6,511. A public hearing was set for Nov. 2.

Public hearings were held on special assessments for a combined sewer on the north side of Kennett from Fairview to Carlisle, a water main in Highwood from Walton to Sheffield, and on Sheffield, from Highwood to Jaycee Park.

U.S. Dumbfounded by Cuba Release of Exodus Terms in Note

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cuban government has made available the text of its Oct. 12 note to the United States which laid down the Castro regime's basis for negotiating the exodus of refugees from Cuba, the New York Herald Tribune said today.

The story, from Miami, Fla., said that Cuba's action in making the text available dumbfounded the State Department.

The Times printed a similar story.

The Herald Tribune story said in part:

U.S. officials felt the move was a blatant breach of diplomatic procedure, and most agreed that it was another of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's propaganda moves to embarrass the U.S. government and possibly the Swiss government is acting as middleman in the negotiations since the United States does not maintain diplomatic relations with the Castro regime.

MADE AVAILABLE

The text of the note was made available to some anti-Castro groups in Miami, and was obtained from some of them by the Herald Tribune Tuesday.

The lengthy Cuban note set forth several new themes and attacked the intentions of the United States which, in a note on Oct. 8, accepted Castro's proposal to allow Cubans to go to the United States.

Among the key points in the Cuban note:

—An offer to exchange a number of the estimated 70,000 political prisoners in Cuban jails "for the same number of prisoners sanctioned for their revolutionary conduct in the countries such as Venezuela, Colombia, Guatemala, Honduras, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Ecuador, Brazil, Peru, Paraguay, Bolivia and Argentina."

—Cuba will not allow youths 15 to 26 to leave Cuba. And minors of both sexes "who possess sufficient capacity to discern and completely refuse to leave the country" will not be forced to join their fleeing parents.

—Cuba disclosed that the United States offered to transport from Cuba to the United States 100 to 130 persons daily from Cuba. With strong propagandistic overtones, the note said Cuba could increase that number to 400 a day by adding its own planes to the ones the United States proposed to use.

—Cuba agreed with the United States to use Varadero Airport, about 90 miles east of Havana, as a point of embarkation instead of Havana's International Terminal.

The curtailment of "disorderly and irregular" transportation from Cuba to the United States was also agreed upon by Cuba. But the Castro government said the Red Cross "intervention" in the refugee matter was "absolutely unnecessary."

Alternating current, the kind commonly available in most households in America, gets its name from the fact it is alternately positive and negative.

Halt of Refugee Boat Convoy Leaves Coast Guard Mystified

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The who went to the island to cover stream of small boats carrying the refugees' departure have been asked to leave on the ground their work is finished.

A U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said planes and cutters have sighted no approaching boats in the past 24 hours despite calm seas.

Havana broadcasts gave no hint as to why the exodus has stopped. Ten boats carrying 100 refugees arrived here Monday and Tuesday.

Both the Cuban radio and exiles who have arrived in the past few days said the Camarioca embarkation port is crowded with boats from Florida waiting to pick up passengers. The radio made no mention of recent departures.

However, a spokesman for the Cuban Foreign Ministry announced that 11 U.S. newsmen

War on 2 Fronts in S. Viet's Rice Bowl

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
CAN THO, South Viet Nam
(UPI) — Here in South Viet Nam's rice bowl in the heart of the Mekong River delta, the South Vietnamese and their American advisers fight a two-front war.

In Lt. Col. Homer Owsley Jr.'s office in the military advisory compound, the colonel and his aides ponder the significance of reports trickling in from a Communist Viet Cong attack of the night before.

In the village of Nhon Nghia at the juncture of the Can Tho River and the Xano Canal, the VC had overrun a government outpost, tied the village administrator to a flag pole and shot him, and then had looted the village market.

Owsley, from Festus, Mo., and his men seek the significance of the attack in the overall picture of Viet Cong strategy.

This is IV Corps, the only one of the four military corps in South Viet Nam where American combat troops are not in action. It is entirely a South Vietnamese show, except for the U.S. advisers.

SEPARATE FRONT
And this is one front of the two-front war.

In a restaurant where French menu reflects the long years of French colonial rule, Bob Lasher of the U.S. Information Service explains the war's second front and, shortly afterward, prepares a demonstration.

Some 20 kilometers outside of Can Tho, a mud-covered van chugs to a stop outside what had been the yellow-stucco headquarters of a lonely French vanced pregnancy of one of its regional officers.

Today, it is being used by U.S. Sgt. 1st Class Joseph E. Sellers of St. Cloud, Fla., as a training headquarters for 132 young Vietnamese who shortly will join the regional and Popular Defense forces.

The sides of the van drop, and it becomes a stage for a traveling minstrel show.

Thirteen entertainers make up the cast of guitarists, singers and dancers.

The show is heavily weighted with propaganda but that does not dim the enthusiasm of its audience.

Especially well received are such numbers as "Nothing is So Precious as a Soldier," and the "Melancholy Winter."

SHOW STOPPER
The show stopper is the "Hot Sweet Potato Twist," whose vigor is undeterred by the ad-people against the Viet Cong.

Eventually, 26 of these minstrel teams will tour the country, carrying the message against the Viet Cong.

Back in Colonel Owsley's office, the colonel, says he believes that, militarily, things are looking a little better. An up-to-date population control map shows that within heavily populated Phong Dinh Province, 203,000 persons now live in government-secured areas.

Under VC control are 140,000. Control of the remaining 75,000 persons in the province still is being contested.

The colonel believes that in his area, the VC are as strong numerically as ever but that their quality has declined.

And he believes that such terror attacks as the one on Nhon Nghia and the looting of the market places are turning the people against the Viet Cong.

Hollywood's Social Coup

Meg to Reign at Ball

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movie-land's social coup of the year—the ball on her visit to the United States.

Ball Nov. 8 — fell right out of the royal blue.

The princess herself asked to be invited, says Jane Russell, founder of the World Adoption International Fund group.

The actress said: "We owe it as a child, her London playmate, to the future Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret. They have remained friends years that if ever she came to the United States, she should attend our ball which is really a fun ball."

"We always try to have visiting royalty as guests of honor but we never held any hope of getting the British royal family. Then a few months ago, the British consul-general here called Mrs. Bill Welsh, who is president of the local chapter, to the big dance hall for the occasion. Jack L. Warner is wondered if she might attend the ball on her visit to the United States.

ENTHUSIASTIC REPLY

"You know she can," were Mrs. Welsh's enthusiastic words.

Sharmar Douglas is the daughter of Lewis Douglas, former ambassador to Britain.

As a child, her London playmate was the future Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret. They have remained friends years that if ever she came to the United States, she should attend our ball which is really a fun ball.

The ball will be held at the Hollywood Palladium, home of Lawrence Welk and his television champagne bubbles.

Lyle Wheeler, movie art director who won an Oscar for "Gone With the Wind," will be the big dance hall for the occasion. Jack L. Warner is loaning the big chandeliers used in the ball scene of "My Fair Lady."

VERY INTERESTED

The actress said the princess is very much interested in the worldwide work WAIF has done in placing 15,000 orphans in good homes.

The actress founded WAIF in 1955 after she and former football star Bob Waterfield adopted the first of their three adopted children. Tommy, the first, came from London.

Since then WAIF has taken up so much of her time that her current film, "Johnny Reno," is her first movie in eight years.

She spends much of her time lobbying for adoption legislation — and, she says, it's paying off.

Camera Angles

People Perk Up Photos

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

People personalize pictures. They individualize or identify YOUR photographs because they feature your family or friends unlike store-bought postcards or commercial publicity prints.

Though they are the most important element of most pictures, people are the poorest part of the majority of photos taken by amateur snapshooters.

They're usually self-conscious, tense and too aware of the camera.

Nowhere is this trait more visible than in the pictures made by American tourists abroad.

In snapshot after snapshot, in London, Paris, Venice or Rome, hubby shoots wifely — or wifely shoots hubby — in front of a palace, tower or church.

MOSTLY OBSCURED

The foreign locale is mostly obscured and wifely — or hubby — is standing there stiffly smiling or staring into the lens.

I'm even more aware of this phenomenon since my wife and I recently returned from a bus tour of Europe and the antics of our picture-taking travelers were repeated at every sightseeing stop.

And, even more distressing, when the subject happened to be momentarily distracted by an inscription or a scene, the snapshooter would call out: "Look at me. Now smile!" ... and SNAP! another routine picture had been recorded.

Yes, you can take better, more interesting pictures abroad of people and places without changing your present camera or studying the technical details of photography.

CHANGE THINKING

The only change necessary is in your thinking.

You must let people be and act naturally. It requires very strong will power to resist the urge to call out: "Look here!" —but give it a try.

If you fail occasionally — and you will — take advantage of an immediate second chance. Be ready to snap a second time when the subject relaxes after the first click; thinking the picture has already been taken.

Or deliberately try this second-shot maneuver when the subject cannot relax in the face of a camera.

AWARE OF CAMERAS

Natives, too, are aware of tourists' cameras from years of exposure to repeated requests to pose. Automatically they stop what they are doing to face the photographer for a "typical" picture.

We want to take pictures of them because their dress, customs and activities are different but we must capture them in the act of being themselves.

Your approach must be casual and inconspicuous yet not furtive or sly.

You should take pictures as though it were a natural thing to do but not a big production. Your manner must be as a bystander looking on, not as a director posing people.

ALL HELPFUL

A friendly manner, a smile and a few memorized phrases of greeting and thanks in the native tongue are all helpful.

Cameras should always be present for instant shooting. Judge your distance or focus on another spot equally distant and set your speed and lens opening for the prevailing light and action.

Stand by and observe; select the best camera angle; anticipate the instant to shoot, THEN bring the camera up to your eye to click away.

INEXPERIENCED

To get into your own pictures, do not ask the first passerby to press the button. Too many blurred images and heads chopped off have resulted from willing, but inexperienced, volunteers.

Wait for another camera toter and exchange favors: take each other's photo with each other's camera.

Study the background as seen in the viewfinder and make sure it doesn't merge with the subject or show a grotesque growth sprouting from a person's head. A slight shifting of camera angle will correct a bad position.

Finally, to add a colorful touch to pictures, have your wife wear a bright sweater, dress or scarf. There's nothing like a spot of red to add visual appeal to slides, movies or color prints.

INCLUDE BACKGROUND

Take advantage of lighting and of people doing things and shoot before the action changes. Include enough of the background which adds significance or identifies the foreign locale.

Farm Aid Sought for 31 State Counties

EAST LANSING (AP) — The State Disaster Committee recommended emergency federal programs Tuesday to provide lower-cost feed grains for drought-damaged farms in 31 Michigan counties.

The committee said feed grain crops in the affected counties — oats in the Upper Peninsula and corn in Lower Michigan — were reported at about 50 per cent of normal.

Committee Chairman Frank Light said other elements besides the drought contributed to crop damage. He cited unseasonable frosts and ill-timed rains.

"I don't know when it's ever been like this before," he added.

FINAL DECISION

The committee recommended that the counties recommended by the committee were Bay, Clinton, Genesee, Gratiot, Ingham, Ionia, Isabella, Lapeer, Mecosta, Midland, Montcalm, Montmorency, Oakland, Ogemaw, Saginaw and Shiawassee.

The government's livestock program allows purchase of government-stored feed grains at 75 per cent of the support price for foundation herds at farms which qualify for the emergency program.

For other than foundation stock, grains may be purchased at the support price. Government-stored feed grains normally can be sold only at 105 per cent of the support price, plus carrying charges.

They were Menominee, Alcona, Alpena, Arenac, Bay, Clinton, Genesee, Gratiot, Ingham, Ionia, Isabella, Iosco, Isabella, Livingstone, Mecosta, Midland, Montcalm, Montmorency, Oakland, Ogemaw, Saginaw and Shiawassee.

Those programs allowed farmers to graze livestock and harvest hay on soil bank, feed grain and wheat diversion areas if they agreed to give up government refund payments for those areas.

CUT LIVESTOCK

In some instances, producers had liquidated from 2 to 16 per cent of their livestock because of the drought cut back their supplies of feed.

Freeman earlier approved emergency haying and grazing programs for 22 counties.

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City has decided to use police dogs to help prevent vandalism in the Bronx Botanical Gardens, a garden spokesman said. The garden suffered a $250,000 fire set by vandals Sept. 8. The dogs will make the rounds with night watchmen.

Grows in the Garden

Light said other elements besides the drought contributed to crop damage. He cited unseasonable frosts and ill-timed rains.

"I don't know when it's ever been like this before," he added.

Card-Burner Faces Hearing

Warrant of Removal to NY May Result

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — David J. Miller, 22, faces a hearing Friday on whether he will be returned to New York City to answer to an indictment charging him with burning his draft card.

Miller, from Syracuse, N.Y., was freed in $500 bail Tuesday from Hillsboro County jail.

On his release, Miller was asked by a reporter whether he had burned his draft card and not some other card and he replied: "It was my draft card — and I burned it."

The maximum penalty for such an offense is five years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

FACES JAIL

"I would hope the law would be repealed," Miller said, "but if jail comes I'll go."

The youth is due to appear before U.S. Commissioner Peter J. Bourque at 10 a.m. Friday.

Bourque said only two legal questions will be before him. First, that a true copy of the indictment is presented, and second, that Miller is, in fact, David J. Miller.

Bourque said that if these two points are satisfied, he would recommend to the U.S. District Court in Concord, N.H., that a warrant of removal be issued.

Bourque said this might take until Monday or Tuesday.

ANTIWAR PROTEST

Miller was indicted by a federal grand jury in New York City Tuesday on a charge of knowingly mutilating and destroying a Selective Service notice of classification. The indictment stemmed from an incident last Friday during an antiwar demonstration outside the Armed Forces Induction Center in lower Manhattan.

Bail was posted for Miller by Thomas Haessler, 26, of Jersey City, N.J., who identified himself as a teacher of theology at St. Peter's College, a Jesuit school in Jersey City.

Link Rebels to 2 Java Killings

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — Rebel forces kidnapped and murdered two senior Indonesian army officers in Central Java, Radio Jakarta reported today.

The army — controlled broadcast said the bodies of the two men were found yesterday near Jogjakarta, the old Indonesian capital on the southern Javanese coast, about 300 miles east of Jakarta.

The victims were identified as Col. Katamso, the commander of the Jogjakarta army district, and his deputy, Lt. Col. Sugiono. Both will be buried with full military honors in Jogjakarta Heroes' Cemetery tomorrow.

President Sukarno promoted both officers by one rank in a posthumous decree.

The army reported that Katamso and Sugiono were slain during the brief period that Jogjakarta was in rebel hands following the Oct. 1 coup attempt against Sukarno.

SLAIN BY REBELS

Six generals and a lieutenant were slain by rebels in the Jakarta area in the early stages of the abortive power grab.

Jogjakarta is a special administrative district governed by the hereditary Sultan Hamengku Bowono.

He joined the revolutionary war against the Dutch after World War II and opened his palace to the fledgling republic government during Indonesia's four-year war of independence.

The city was the center of an ancient Javanese state and remains today the capital of traditional Javanese culture.

Jogjakarta has been gripped by political tension as rival Communist, Moslem and nationalist elements braced for possible communal violence as an aftermath of the coup.

In other developments today, a Moslem-affiliated bank employees union official called for a freeze and eventual confiscation of bank accounts belonging to persons linked with the coup.

Catholic student headquarters urged regional branches to purge their ranks of coup sympathizers.

Political activities of all parties have been suspended in the east Java city of Madiun, according to the official Indonesian news agency Antara. It was at Madiun that a Communist rebellion collapsed 17 years ago.

When in Doubt, Try It Out

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Jerald Hall, a Fresno State College student charged with speeding, told Judge George Hopper he doubted the accuracy of police radar equipment used to clock his car's speed.

He said the equipment could not record accurately the speeds of two cars traveling a short distance apart.

Judge Hopper accompanied Hall and policemen to a city street yesterday and checked Hall's theory. It was wrong. Hall was found guilty.

For a penalty, the judge suspended his sentence, but told Hall to write a 1,000-word essay entitled: "Radar—Its History and Application in Traffic Control and Methods of Improving Its Use."

Large Mercury Supply Will Be Sold by U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Services Administration has announced a long-range plan for sale on a competitive bid of about 24,800 flasks of mercury at not more than 1,500 flasks monthly.

The plan covers all the mercury that remains from the approximately 55,000 flasks declared excess by the Atomic Energy Commission.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Groundwork for a long-range Kentucky water conservation program may be formed at a conference of public and private agencies on Oct. 25. The Department of Natural Resources is planning legislation next year to include creation of a Water Resources Authority.

Oakland University's First Lady, Mrs. Wilson, Celebrates 82nd Birthday

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor
It's not everyone who gets to help set a cornerstone on her birthday. But Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson troweled mortar on top of the cornerstone of the Mall-dia R. Wilson Hall at Oakland University Tuesday as if she were frosting a cake.

It was her 82nd birthday. The keen little woman in a striped gray and brown dress with a beige sweater to throw over her shoulders sat erect on a temporary platform as dignitaries tossed verbal bouquets into her lap.

She had been ill for the past few days, but no one knew until after the luncheon in the Gold Room. Her voice, as she responded to the plaudits, was clear and steady.
It was a simple ceremony, lasting some 30 minutes. One could feel the mood of the group assembled to share this momentous occasion. They were Mrs. Wilson's friends as they have been since OU was founded.

As for Mrs. Wilson — she considers everyone at the university part of her family. She has always taken a personal interest in whatever her "OU kids" doing.

In turn, they have adopted her, thinking of her perhaps as a fairy godmother and paying homage in their way.
Tuesday they presented her with a bouquet of red roses.

Saturday night they will have their annual birthday-ball for the "first lady of Oakland University."
We wonder if Mrs. Wilson knew, when she and her late husband donated the ground and the initial funds for OU, just how deeply she would become involved with the school.

We think her interest helps to keep her young in heart. We know she was deeply moved at Tuesday's tribute. Her response was brief but sincere.
"A thousand thanks for naming this building after me. I can only say 2,500,000 thanks."

Women's Section

Lucille Kapplinger, legislative assistant to Gov. Romney (right) talks with Mrs. Homer Timney, Elizabeth Lake Road, before the Business and Professional Women's dinner Tuesday evening at Haven Hill Lodge. The Pontiac club was hostess for the occasion which climaxed national BPW week.

The social hour before the BPW dinner is enjoyed by Mrs. George F. Brinkman, Clarkson (left); Mrs. G. A. Flessland, State Street; and Mrs. C. J. Godhardt, Keego Harbor, president of the Keego Business and Professional Women's Club.

Woman Legal Helper Smooths Romney Path

Lucille Kapplinger, one of the few women in the United States to be a governor's legal assistant, spoke to members of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs at Haven Hill Lodge Tuesday evening.

The Pontiac BPW was hostess club with guests from the Waterford-Clarkston and the Keego Harbor clubs.

Miss Kapplinger who has worked with Gov. George Romney since the days of Gov-Con is one of four assistants in his office. She is also vice president of the governor's committee on the status of women.

MANY DUTIES

Her duties include checking every bill that is introduced into the legislature. She smooths the path for bills Gov. Romney wants, does research and knows the good and bad points of the various bills.

She says the one standard in accepting a bill passed by the legislators is whether it is good legislation.

Speaking about the great advances women have made in the business and professional world, Miss Kapplinger noted that Michigan was the first state to create a commission on the status of women. This was done under Gov. John B. Swainson.

"Michigan women are relatively well off," said the tall attractive brunette who spoke easily and fluently.

There is no problem in the political field, she said, that women cannot themselves overcome if they want to get out on a limb and run for public office. She spoke on the education necessary for today's girls who are almost sure to work outside the home at some period in their lives — eight out of 10 women do.

She went on to say that homemakers and business women alike must contribute to the community in some way. Women have a great responsibility.

Miss Kapplinger touched briefly on the state's Human Resources Council which is organized to gather in people and groups concerned about services that are available only through volunteer work.

Volunteers must take up the slack in what the government can't afford.

Mrs. Hubert Humphrey will be guest of honor and the speaker at a luncheon Friday. The Oakland County Democratic Women have scheduled the event for 12:00 p.m. in the ballroom of the Kingsley Inn. Anyone interested in attending may make reservations with Pontiac Democratic headquarters.

Play Cards at Benefit for Student

Members of Cranbrook branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, entertained guests at a scholarship bridge luncheon, Tuesday, in Devon Gables.

Mrs. Austin K. Conrad, chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Clark F. Andrew, Mrs. Earle S. MacPherson, Mrs. Dale D. Douglass, Mrs. Lester W. Childs and Mrs. George H. Glover.

In charge of table prizes were Mrs. Raymond A. Cragin and Mrs. C. Norman Frye. Proceeds from the affair will provide a tuition scholarship for Cranbrook's student attending Michigan State University and a horticultural therapy student scholarship.

Camp Shaw and Camp Kett 4-H club scholarships sponsored by the Michigan Division, WNF&G, and Cranbrook's civic improvement project, are also slated for assistance.

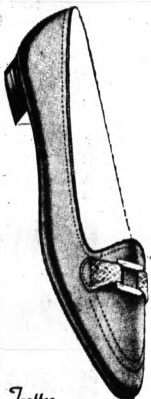

In a study made to determine the average repairs needed on two-year-old cars it was found that 73 per cent needed work on mufflers, brakes and steering systems.

Needs to Be Pinned Down

Dishonorable Soldier

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our servicemen are now on what is called the "honor system." They no longer make out statements for their families.

They are issued full pay, and put on their "honor" to see that their families are taken care of. Well, I am very sorry to say that some of our servicemen don't have much honor. Mine included.

Abby, it took me seven months before I was able to get money out of my husband to feed my family.

I finally found out how to go about it and I hope you'll publish my letter because there are a lot of other wives with the same problem.

Write to the ADJUTANT GENERAL, T.A.G., U.S. ARMY (or whatever branch of service your husband is in), WASHINGTON, D.C. Tell him what your problem is, give him your husband's full name, rank and serial number.

Make four copies of that letter. Keep one yourself, send one to your husband and one to your husband's Commanding Officer. THEY will remind the serviceman that his family back home must eat. I got results!

SKIP MY NAME

DEAR SKIP: Thank you for your willingness to share some valuable information with other wives who might need it.

If you'd have written to your

ABBY

CONGRESSMAN, you could have accomplished the same results. And possibly sooner.

Scientists Unsure if Comet Will Go in Blaze of Glory

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

PASADENA, Calif. — The comet Ikeya-Seki raced within a few million miles of the sun today — as astronomers differed on whether it will put on the spectacular celestial show forecast for tonight and Thursday morning.

The comet, streaking in from the edge of the solar system, is expected to whip around the sun and start back during a five-hour period beginning at 10 p.m. Pacific Daylight Time.

Astronomers have predicted solar radiation would light up the frozen gases in the comet's 10-million-mile tail and make it visible during sunrise and sunset hours around the globe.

Scientists who tried to observe the comet from a plane over the Pacific Tuesday said it was brightening slowly, however, and might not even be visible to the naked eye tonight.

NEAR SUN

California Institute of Technology astronomers said the comet might only be following the behavior of a comet which passed near the sun in 1882.

That one virtually disappeared from view for two days before it reached the sun, then turned very bright and exploded into several pieces. This could happen to Ikeya-Seki, the Caltech astronomers said.

The airborne expedition, flying from Honolulu to Midway Island and back, hopes to observe the comet at sunset today when the plane is near Midway and again at sunrise as it approaches Hawaii.

Mid-Pacific is one of the best places to view the comet during its hairpin loop around the sun. The other side of the earth will be in darkness during those hours. The swing-around also may be visible from Hawaii, New Zealand, Australia and parts of Asia.

WILL LINGER

Other parts of the world may be able to see the comet before and after the swing around. Tonight the comet will linger in the sky a few minutes after the sun sets and will precede the sun above the horizon Thursday morning as the earth's rotation brings them into view.

At both sunset and sunrise around the globe, the horizon may block out the sun enough for the comet to stand out clearly, especially if it brightens to predicted intensity.

But comets are unpredictable, say astronomers, and this one is no exception.

One of the few men who got a good view of it from the plane over the Pacific Tuesday used a filter which screens out all light except that from sodium. This indicates the comet contains a lot of sodium, which the astronomers did not expect to find. The comet was believed to be made up largely of frozen nitrogen gas with some chunks of carbon-bearing space dust.

Best View at Sundown and Sunrise

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists say this is the way to get the best view of the comet Ikeya-Seki tonight, when it is expected to whip around the sun.

—Look in the direction of the sun tonight just after sundown—and at sunrise Thursday. If the comet is visible, it will be south of the sun at sunset and north of the sun at sunrise.

—Even if the comet's head isn't visible, you may be able to spot its 10-million-mile tail of frozen gases stretching halfway up the sky.

—Be careful, however, not to look while the sun is above the horizon, because direct sunlight can cause temporary or permanent eye damage.

—Regardless of your geographical location, you may be able to see the comet or its tail at sunset or sunrise. The actual swing around the sun will be visible only from the Pacific side of the earth.

Petition Drive Launched

Eye State Lottery-Income Tax Vote

DETROIT (AP) — A group of Detroit area residents Tuesday launched a petition campaign to force a statewide vote on a state-operated lottery and state and local income taxes.

The group, called Citizens for the Sweepstakes Association Inc., opposes the income tax and favors the lottery. Its president is Mrs. William Klovski, a suburban Dearborn Township housewife.

The same group failed in efforts four years ago to permit Michigan to operate two to six lotteries a year.

Mrs. Klovski said that, with previous experience, the group obtained 100,000 signatures that time.

"We have a going organization and supporters all over the state now," she said. "I think we can make it this time."

To get on the 1966 ballot, the group needs 315,110 signatures, or 10 per cent of the vote for governor in the last general election.

"We think most people are strongly opposed to any income tax," said Mrs. Klovski. "But every year in foreign-operated year was slightly higher than in lotteries," said Mrs. Klovski. 1963 — 300,000 tons compared to 288,000.

New Hampshire is the only to gamble, why not keep the state with a lottery. Michigan money in Michigan."

legislators have backed numerous unsuccessful plans for one here, claiming the state could realize up to $50 million annually from five lotteries.

Other association officers are George Strelczuk of Farmington, vice president, and Frederick Lemke of East Detroit, treasurer.

It's estimated that more than $6 billion leaves this country annually from five lotteries.

France's aluminum output last year was slightly higher than in 1963 — 300,000 tons compared to 288,000.

Is Princeton Out-of-Date(s)?

NEW YORK (AP) — The reviews are in on the Princeton guidebook to girls. Here's what some of the girls say about it:

Lisa Smith of Smith College: "Sort of funny."

Linda McVeigh of Radcliffe: "I've never met a Princeton man, and I don't want to."

Linda Love of Beaver College: "It's not accurate."

INSIDE DOPE

The guidebook, an 80-page compendium of brotherly advice and inside dope called "Where the Girls Are," was written by the staff of the Daily Princetonian, the campus newspaper of Princeton University in New Jersey.

A student at Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., who furnished information to the Princeton editors, said: "I was stabbed in the back. Princeton men cannot be trusted."

Lisa Smith of Charlottesville, Va., editor of the student newspaper at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., said the girls found it misleading but funny.

The guidebook says Radcliffe girls are "self-consciously intellectual" and can be spotted by their dirty trenchcoats and long hair.

JUNIOR SPEAKS

"It's too bad Princeton boys have to stoop to such gross generalities to render us comprehensible," said Linda McVeigh, a junior from Anaheim, Calif., attending the Cambridge, Mass., school.

Bryn Mawr is classified as a "stronghold of the liberated intellectual woman."

At the Pennsylvania school, the students admit to scholarly conversations, but say that's only one side of them.

"I think it's unfortunate that this is the main view of Bryn Mawr as a whole," said Lucy Jennings of Norwalk, Conn.

NO MONOPOLY

"I don't know much about existentialism, but I suppose it would be interesting. I don't know that I'd monopolize my conversation with it," she said, referring to one topic of conversation mentioned in the book.

Another Bryn Mawr student, Joan Cavallaro of Pine Orchard, Conn., said she thought the Princeton editors were "underestimating us."

The guidebook says Beaver College in Jenkintown, Pa., is a school where "most of the girls are members of the landed upper middle class of the East, relaxing midway between prep school and marriage. After two dates, they want you to meet mother."

"I talked to many girls and most of them are not out for what we call the M-R-S degree," said Linda Lowe of Scranton, Pa., a senior at Beaver.

"We're not sure about the book. We just think it's kind of funny."

Overthrow of Government Feared in Santo Domingo

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Rumors flew in Santo Domingo today that the Dominican Republic's provisional government is threatened with overthrow. Lights burned late in government offices following bursts of fighting Tuesday in the heart of the capital. Three persons were killed and seven wounded in shooting between rebel snipers and army troops before fighting subsided in the afternoon.

President Hector Garcia-Godoy held an emergency Cabinet session and met far into the night with his staff in an effort to stem the upsurge of violence. He also met with the former rebel chief, Col. Francisco Camacho Delano, and appealed to him to try to halt the rebel sniping.

TROUBLESHOOTER
U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, top troubleshooter for the Organization of American States, hurried back to Santo Domingo from Washington. He played a key part in the agreement under which the provisional government was established in early September to end the April rebellion.

An aide to Garcia-Godoy described everything as normal at the president's home. But the president postponed a radio-television appearance after army units ringed the government's Radio Santo Domingo and prevented transfer of mobile television equipment to the National Palace.

Garcia-Godoy had planned the broadcast to announce a system for collecting weapons still held by civilians. Informants outside said army leaders wanted to examine the plan before it was made public.

In an effort to prevent inflammatory broadcasts, Garcia-Godoy ordered all radio stations except the government's and one operated by the OAS shut down.

OFFICIALS CONFEE
The armed forces secretary, Commodore Francisco J. Rivera Caminero, conferred into the night with his chiefs of staff at navy headquarters.

He said the army had 3,400 men and 10 armored vehicles working in the suburbs if the rebels renewed the fighting.

No shooting was reported during the night. Dominican troops were ordered into the rebel zone late Monday after dock union leader Jose Ramirez was slain in a battle with a rival group. A battalion of tank-led anti-guerrilla specialists moved into Ozama fortress, overlooking the rebel zone, to protect troops guarding docks.

That apparently aroused rebel partisans who helped capture the fortress early in the revolution. They began firing early Tuesday from rooftops and doorways and the troops returned the fire.

Alma Woman's Exam Adjourned in Abortion Case
Examination of a 45-year-old Alma woman charged with administering an abortion with intent to produce miscarriage was adjourned yesterday in Waterford Township Justice Court until Oct. 26.

Justice Kenneth H. Hempstead ordered the adjournment when Mrs. Lillian Gee appeared at the examination without an attorney.

Hempstead said a petition has been filed with circuit court to appoint counsel for the defendant.

Mrs. Gee, held in Oakland County Jail on $300 bond, is accused of performing the abortion on her 19-year-old daughter, a resident of West Bloomfield Township.

Conviction on the charge is punishable by a maximum of four years imprisonment.

More than 100 persons attended the meeting at Pierce Junior High School at which board of education officials and Supt. Don O. Tatroe urged the need for the subcommittees.

The subcommittees will deal in the following areas: secondary school needs, elementary school needs, community school needs and budgeting and financing.

Named chairmen were: Secondary — Arnold J. Williams, 2285 Derby, Waterford Township; elementary — Mrs. Edwin A. Markham, 3523 Mann, Waterford Township; community — Charles F. Sifton, 1580 Williams Lake, Waterford Township; and financing — Donald Adams Road in Avon Township and struck the tree.

Man, 62, Gets Jail Sentence
Six months in the Oakland County Jail was ordered yesterday for John F. Wiesbeck, 62, of 118 W. Lawrence for larceny in a building.

Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem sentenced Wiesbeck in connection with stealing a watch after he had smashed a plate glass window in Redmond Jewels, 81 N. Saginaw, on July 11.

Charged originally with breaking and entering, Wiesbeck pleaded guilty to the lesser offense on Sept. 21.

Bandit Robs Waterford Store
A lone bandit robbed the Big D Food Store at 3415 Elizabeth Lake, Waterford Township last night, escaping with an undetermined amount of money.

The gunman accosted Eugene Kimmel, assistant manager of the store at about 7:30.

After unsuccessfully trying to obtain possession of a key to the store's office, the man ordered Kimmel to give him the money from one of the cash registers.

Kimmel told Waterford Township police he placed the money in a bag. The gunman fled on foot behind the store.

Customers and other employees in the store at the time apparently were unaware a hold-up was being staged.

Delay Sentence in Auto Deaths

EVALUATION SESSION—Mrs. Clarence Swanson, Redwood Court, Avon Township, has a small helper with her as she checks her preferences; Joan Michele is 2. Displayed on the table are six different types of egg cakes.

High Temperature Browns Scallops

Scallops are a versatile seafood that can be prepared in several different ways—all delicious. Whether they're broiled, baked, steamed or fried, their sweet flavor and rich tender meat make these succulent shellfish an always-popular seafood choice.

One of the lesser-known, but nevertheless good, methods of scallop cookery is high-temperature oven-frying. This method eliminates the careful watching and turning of pan-frying—yet it produces the desirable even golden-brown color and crispness.

We're a Nation That Guzzles Orange Juice

The average American drinks 28.2 gallons of orange juice a year, reveals a survey by the Home Juice Institute, Chicago.

Children between the ages of 7 and 12 drink the most orange juice, the national survey found. People in their 30s "who become health conscious in their middle age" are second. Senior citizens are next in line, the Home Juice Institute says, followed by youngsters under seven.

Women drink more orange juice than men, the Home Juice Institute survey disclosed.

The Home Juice Institute found that seven out of every 10 Americans drink at least one glass of orange juice daily. Nearly 80 per cent is consumed at home; the balance in restaurants and clubs.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture recommends at least one serving per day of citrus fruit, tomatoes or raw cabbage.

To dress up a plate of savory scallops, serve them with Hollandaise Sauce. An ideal salute to the Fish 'n' Seafood Parade this month, Oven Fried Scallops with Hollandaise will please everyone. As an extra special flavor trick, add homemade seasoned salt.

OVEN-FRIED SCALLOPS

1 pound scallops
1 egg
1 tablespoon water
¼ cup dry bread crumbs
¼ teaspoon seasoned salt (or ¼ teaspoon thyme, 1 tablespoon paprika, ½ teaspoon salt, and a dash pepper)

Wash and dry scallops. Beat egg with water. Mix bread crumbs and seasoned salt (or seasonings). Dip scallops one at a time into egg mixture then roll in crumb mixture.

Arrange in well-greased shallow baking pan. Bake at 500 degrees (very hot oven) 5 minutes. Make 3 to 4 servings.

Easy Hollandaise Sauce

Melt ¼ cup butter or margarine over hot water. With rotary beater, beat in 1 egg, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt and a few grains of pepper.

Scholars Like Hamburgers at Lunch Time

Hamburgers, whether served at home or in the lunch box, are always favorites with the school crowd.

Quickly prepared barbecued hamburgers give the "home-for-lunch" child renewed pep for a busy afternoon.

Brown hamburger patties on both sides in a small amount of hot fat; then simmer for a few minutes in a mild-flavored barbecue sauce, the American Meat Institute suggests. Serve in toasted buns.

For the lunch box, fry this hamburger patties, cool, and place between slices of buttered bread which have been spread with a little mayonnaise.

French Fried Eggplant

Pare egg plant, slice and then cut into thin strips. Dip into fritter batter and fry in deep, hot fat.

Women Decide Product's Fate

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

For the second time this year, area homemakers participated in a state-wide study on consumer preferences.

Meeting with Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, consumer marketing agent, at the Oakland County Board of Education building Thursday morning and evening the women evaluated six different items.

The results of these sessions, along with those of nearly 1,000 others, will be analyzed and presented to food producers, processors and distributors.

Women who helped with a similar study last winter were given first chance to participate again; the rest of the group was obtained by a random sampling list from the telephone book.

Two kinds of packaging were checked. The women were asked their preference between two egg cartons now being used and then to evaluate other types of cartons that might be used.

Fresh apples are packaged in two types of packs, pyramid and flat packs. Most of the women preferred the flat pack for easy storing.

Another Michigan product evaluated was apple juice. The question was on consumers' preference for light or darker colored juice.

Three new items were introduced: pickled peppers, a cheese product made with corn oil rather than butterfat; and two new varieties of mushrooms.

The American housewife is the determining factor in the success or failure of any new food product. Consumer preference studies such as these in connection with Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service, can be of great help.

Canned Fillings Help

Whenever you want to make pudding or tapioca look like company best, remember canned fruit pie fillings. Pile the pudding and pie filling in tall parfait glasses or in small serving dishes, or use the pie filling to circle a compote bowl of pudding.

Peach Pits Become Charcoal Briquets

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (UPI)—Until Robert T. Collier came along, California peach canners had a terrific problem:

What could they do with their yearly output of 120 million pounds of peach pits.

They buried them, loaded them on barges and dumped them in the ocean. They tried feeding them to animals, and pulverizing them to flush into sewage systems.

But always there were more peach pits.

Collier, a Santa Clara manufacturer, took on the problem and decided they would make the pits into charcoal briquets. The tall parfait glasses or in small serving dishes, or use the pie filling to circle a compote bowl of pudding.

Cakes Are Centerpiece

When entertaining a large number of persons at a meal, fix a pretty centerpiece for your serving table.

Mix up two batches of white or yellow cake mix. Bake one large layer cake and frost with chocolate frosting. Place it in the center of a low cake plate.

Put this in the center of a much larger round platter.

Bake the remainder of the cake dough in cup cakes. Frost these with assorted pastel shades of frosting with different flavors. Surround the big cake with these pink, yellow, green and blue small cakes.

Green onions, including tops, are a good source of vitamin C, vitamin A and iron.

Two Breads Made in Jig-Time

"Oh boy, Mom's been baking!" is great to hear. But count on enthusiasm from dad as well, when you have either of these in the making.

Nothing brings forth the compliments so much as fragrant homemade breads. And these jam dandy sensations are easy and fast to fix. One is a bread and preserves combination the whole family will enjoy, called "Jig-Time Coffee Cake."

It's made from a loaf of unsliced bread, butter, preserves and chopped nuts—all ingredients you're sure to have on hand. Take your pick of preserves, as any of today's orchard-fresh treats will do the job.

The mixture of preserves and butter adds magic to the bread as it heats, and turns the edges and top a crispy golden brown. Serve it hot, and watch how it encourages better breakfast habits!

The other quick-to-fix bread makes use of a modern biscuit mix, and good, old-fashioned apple butter. For a moist all-occasion bread treat that keeps well, this one you'll repeat often.

Jig-Time Coffee Cake

1 unsliced enriched sandwich loaf

¼ cup apricot, pineapple or pear preserves

¼ cup chopped pecans

Cut crusts from top and sides of unsliced loaf. Cut into squares, cutting to but not through the bottom crust.

Cream butter until fluffy; beat in preserves. Add pecans.

Spread over top, between slices and on sides of loaf.

The string around loaf to hold it together. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 15 minutes or until top is lightly browned and loaf is heated. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

*Sliced bread may be used as follows: Remove crusts from bread and spread slices with butter and preserve mixture. Stack 1 slice and bake as directed. Cut into diagonal pieces to serve.

Apple Butter Bread

2 cups prepared biscuit mix

¼ teaspoon soda

¼ cup shortening

¼ cup sugar

2 eggs

1 cup apple butter

¼ cup chopped walnuts

Combine, biscuit mix and soda. Cream shortening and sugar together; add eggs and beat well. Add biscuit mix and blend. Add apple butter and chopped walnuts. Mix well.

Spoon into a greased and floured 8x2 loaf pan. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 50-55 minutes, or until done.

Braised Celery, Bakes in Cream Sauce

Braising or "panning" is one of the best ways of preparing vegetables such as celery, onions, thinly sliced carrots, summer squash, shredded cabbage or greens. The thin film of fat helps seal in flavor and nutrients. The bit of water used, which doesn't cook away as steam, forms a savory sauce to be served with the vegetable.

This is essentially Chinese vegetable cookery — fast, brief, almost waterless — which gives you a pleasantly crisp product with lots of flavor and texture. Braised celery is one of the most easily prepared, economical and popular of cooked vegetable dishes. Wash the celery ribs and trim off leaves.

Line the ribs up spoon-fashion and cut into thin crosswise or diagonal strips with a sharp knife — between $\frac{1}{4}$ and $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch in thickness. This way they will cook to the crisp-tender point in about 10 minutes, sauteing them, uncovered, in a little butter or margarine for 5 minutes, then adding a few tablespoons liquid, covering and steaming for an additional 5 minutes.

You can't ask for a more convenient vegetable. Don't throw away the celery leaves you cut off — save them for use in stews, soups, stuffings.

There are so many uses for celery — raw or cooked — that it takes an annual yield of 1,474,000,000 pounds to keep us supplied. Not only do we munch it "straight" but, it's a flavorful, inexpensive and low-calorie addition to all kinds of salads, sandwich fillings and relishes.

Braised Fresh Celery Medley
4 tablespoons butter or margarine

1 cup beef broth
3 cups thin celery strips, 2 inches long
1 cup thin carrot strips, 2 inches long
1 cup fresh snap beans, halved
Cream Sauce
1 cup soft bread crumbs

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup grated Cheddar cheese
Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a saucepan. Add beef broth and bring to a boil. Add celery and carrot strips. Cover and cook 5 minutes. Add snap beans. Cover and cook 5 minutes longer.

Drain, reserving liquid for sauce. Place vegetables in a 1-quart casserole. Pour Cream Sauce over all. Mix remaining 2 tablespoons butter with bread crumbs and sprinkle over sauce.

Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 15 minutes. Sprinkle with cheese and bake another 5 to 10 minutes.

Cream Sauce

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup vegetable liquid and milk
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
1-16 teaspoon ground black pepper
Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan. Blend in flour. Stir in vegetable liquid and milk. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Season with salt and ground black pepper. Yield: 6 servings.

They're Fat Free

Bananas have virtually no fat. The smooth, apparently oily texture of the pulp may cause you to believe that bananas contain considerable oil, but their fat content—weight for weight—is on par with that of lettuce.

Fruit Surprise

There is something quite elegant about a simple baked custard. Before pouring the custard mixture into the individual cups to bake, spoon blueberry pie filling into the bottom of each cup. Add a dash of nutmeg to the custard and what a treat you have!

Orange juice, encourages the retention of calcium in the body.

Try Apple Toddy

Apple todody is a warming fruit course for breakfast on cold mornings. Combine 1 quart of apple juice with $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of dark brown sugar and $\frac{1}{4}$ lemon, thinly sliced. Bring to full rolling boil, then simmer 5 minutes. Serve warm to 6 or 8 persons.

It is estimated that 300 million people in other parts of the world use coconuts in some form every day.

Tiny Fried Pies Good Starters

Offer Fried Pie Appetizers as ture on each pastry round. Moisten edges of pastry with water; fold turnover fashion and seal well.

Roll out to 1/16-inch thickness and cut into 2-inch circles, using a cookie cutter. Combine 4 small, or 2 large cans deviled ham and finely chopped onion. Deep fat fry, 3 to 5 minutes, until golden brown; drain. Serve these tasty fried pies hot. Makes 36 appetizers.

U.S.: No Cash for New U.N. Projects Until Slackers Pay and Finances Put in Order

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly has been back in business for a month, but there has been no sign of the contribution the Soviet Union promised to pay into the dwindling treasury once normal voting was restored.

The United States made clear Tuesday that, unless the Soviet Union and other nations in arrears on their peace-keeping dues do something to ease the $100-million U.N. deficit, the U.S. government won't pour money into new U.N. projects. Rep. Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., told the assembly's 117-nation Financial Committee that the United Nations should put its finances in order before embarking on any new spending program.

Noting that the United States had contributed $2.5 billion to the United Nations and its agencies in 20 years, Frelinghuysen said: "We are clearly entitled to demand that the United Nations as a whole face up to the necessity of financing its existing obligations before it embarks on new endeavors." PINPOINT LACK

The U.S. delegate pinpointed the lack of voluntary contributions toward the deficit for U.N. peace-keeping operations, an issue that paralyzed the assembly's last session.

The United States finally backed off in its fight to deprive the Soviet Union and other debtors of their assembly vote, Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg told the U.N. peace-keeping committee in August that the United States had yielded because the United Nations was faced with a life-or-death decision.

The backdown came after the Soviet Union had given assurance it would make a substantial contribution once the assembly had returned to normal operations.

Frelinghuysen, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said that one of the elements in resolving the financial impasse was a proposal that the major powers make "substantial voluntary contributions."

NO PROGRESS

"Accordingly," he said, "voluntary contributions should have been forthcoming promptly from appropriate quarters in sufficient magnitude to achieve solvency. Yet the sad fact is that no real progress has been made toward solvency."

Several congressional leaders opposed the U.S. retreat, and it is considered doubtful the Johnson administration or the U.S. Congress will underwrite any new spending for the United Nations unless the other big powers make similar contributions.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko ended his stay at the United Nations Monday with no announcement about the promised Soviet contribution. U.N. Secretary General U Thant made an appeal in the Financial Committee last week for contributions to pay off the $100-million deficit. So far, members have pledged a total of about $18 million. The Soviet Union is $62.3 million in arrears, and France owes $17.7 million.

Improved Tornado Defense Is Urged

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Midwesterners were urged Tuesday to develop a better defense plan against tornadoes.

Thirty-three of the 37 tornadoes which devastated the Midwest last Palm Sunday were within tornado forecast areas, noted Maurice E. Pautz, formerly with the Weather Bureau's severe storm forecast center in Kansas City.

Still, the U.S. Weather Bureau in Chicago estimates 271 persons died when the tornadoes swept Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

The problem was getting word to the people, said Lawrence Hughes of the Weather Bureau in Kansas City. Lives can be saved, he said, by communication of tornado threats, knowing what action to take, and taking it.

DAY A FACTOR

"The day of the week was against us," he said.

Many residents were away from radios and did not hear the tornado forecasts.

Pautz and others presented papers during a severe storm seminar being conducted by the American Meteorological Society.

Fall Colors Are at Best

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's spectacular autumn colors still are at their best and will remain so for about another week in central and southern Lower Michigan, the State Tourist Council reports.

MR-A Opens World Contab

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Moral Re-Armament opened a four-day world assembly today with young American delegates voicing support of the U.S. stand in Viet Nam.

South Korean Premier Chung Il-kwon welcomed 170 foreign delegates from 30 countries.

"I hope the spirit of this movement will penetrate all over the world. It is essential to the welfare of the family of nations," Chung said.

Russia Said Eying Cuba Ties

LONDON (UPI) — Russia is reviewing political, economic and military ties with Cuba in the light of cooling-off relations between Peking and Havana, diplomatic reports said today.

The plan for a major policy review was said to be behind the current visit to Havana by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Gromyko's visit was preceded by a Moscow trip earlier this month of Raul Castro, armed forces minister and second to his brother, Premier Fidel Castro, in the hierarchy of the reorganized Cuban Communist party.

The recent mystery-shrouded removal from the leadership of Ernesto (Che) Guevara signified a shift in Cuba's pro-China leanings, the reports said.

The Caribbean country's absolute dependence on Soviet economic and military assistance was said to have been an important consideration behind the cooling off of relations with Peking whose hard policy line enjoyed considerable support from Castro's regime until recently.

SCANT REFERENCE

In Peking, where Cuba previously had been presented as the shining example of revolutionary development, praise lately has been scanty and references to Cuba have become which has run into fresh trouble.

supplies in both the economic and military fields were said to be making Castro now more amenable to endorsing a more clearly defined pro-Moscow course.

Latest estimates said Cuba owes the Soviet bloc some $500 million in credits, extended for the country's industrialization. In pencils, yellow is the favorite color, outselling the next most popular 12 to 1.

Dublin's Future Aired by Board

By PAT MCCARTY

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP

The question mark that is Dublin School District's future took on new dimensions last night. The work of some six months of study, which is expected to be culminated at a meeting of the Oakland County School District Reorganization Committee tomorrow, was explained to a large public audience for the first time.

Attracting nearly 140 persons, the presentation was made by the board of education at a Dublin School PTA meeting.

The School District Reorganization Committee was formed in May in compliance with a state statute passed in 1964 to abolish school districts without kindergarten through 12th grade programs.

The committee's job is to recommend alternatives for the three districts in the county which are educating only kindergarten through eighth graders.

OTHER DISTRICTS

Dublin's plight is shared by the North Oxford and Novi districts.

On the agenda for the Thursday meeting of the group is a final answer for Dublin.

The board of education for the small district, which covers 3 1/2 square miles of White Lake Township, is seeking annexation to the Walled Lake School District.

ANNEXATION

Also discussed were annexation to the Waterford or Huron Valley school systems.

The fourth idea was the creation of a new kindergarten — 12th grade district, probably encompassing all of White Lake Township.

While the majority of those at last night's meeting indicated that they were in favor of annexation to the Walled Lake district, there was strong vocal support for the idea of a township school system.

School Board President Eric L. Spitzer, a member of the reorganization committee, said this was not considered practical because both the number of students and size of the tax base would be too small.

FIVE OTHERS

Besides Dublin, five other districts extend into the township—Clarkston, Holly, Huron Valley, Waterford and Walled Lake.

Any move to take a portion of their tax bases from them would meet certain opposition, Spitzer said.

Even if such a maneuver could be accomplished, a White Lake Township school district would draw funds from taxes would have to be increased 13 mills, he said.

Construction of a high school today is apt to run closer to $2 million, the superintendent noted, and this doesn't include operating expenses.

PROBLEM OF MOMENT

Therefore, the problem of the moment is the Walled Lake board's position toward annexation.

The Dublin district, with a total state equalized property valuation of $5 million, has a $4,893 tax base behind each of its students, Spitzer said, noting that the state average is about $15,000.

Walled Lake's figure is $10,448 per pupil. Annexation would cut the amount to $9,759 per pupil.

Officials in Walled Lake have estimated they would lose $40,000 a year as a result of the proposed merger.

REQUIRE APPROVAL

Annexation would require approval of the Walled Lake Board of Education and the electors of the Dublin district.

"Before anything happens to Dublin School District, there will be a public hearing and an election," Spitzer assured the audience last night.

He also emphasized that there has been absolutely no consideration of dividing the school district in parts.

The recommendation-resolution election process must be completed by the end of 1965, Spitzer said, so that a final recommendation can be made to the state committee coordinating implementation of the state.

"But Dublin's going to be around, I'm sure, at least until the middle of next year — and probably for another year," he said.

236 ENROLLED

Besides the students it sends to Walled Lake High School, the Dublin district is educating 234 youngsters in its own kindergarten through eighth grade school.

The district, board of education members noted, was organized in the late 1920s, evolving from a log cabin school which dated back to before the turn of the century.

Reactivate Hospital Fund Drive

ROCHESTER—A fund-raising campaign for the Rochester unit of Crittenton Hospital was reactivated last night to make up a $620,000 deficit in the building fund.

Howard L. McGregor Jr. and Edgar J. Geist, M.D., will again serve as general chairman and vice chairman of the campaign.

Original estimated cost of construction was $5,673,000 but rising construction costs raised the amount to $6,293,000.

Monies from the first fund-raising campaign netted $5,425,000.

This included $1,325,000 from Hill-Burton Funds, a mortgage for $2 million; and $300,000 from the Detroit unit of the hospital.

REACTIVATION

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Hospital Building Fund last night, plans were made for the reactivated campaign.

All persons who donate $25 or more will have their names inscribed on a scroll to be displayed during opening day ceremonies.

Those who donate for specific equipment may designate a memorial plaque which will be attached to the equipment.

"We hope that those in the area who were unable to give previously will find a way to donate to the hospital that is being built to care for them and their families," said McGregor.

Construction of the 207-bed hospital on Walton Boulevard is expected to take about two years. When completed, it will be equipped to employ the latest in medical and surgical procedures.

It will also be the first major hospital in the region to have a staff of both medical and osteopathic physicians.

On that ballot will be a two-year municipal judgeship to fill the remainder of Phenev's unexpired term.

Walled Lake School District Lacking Substitute Teachers

WALLED LAKE—A substitute teacher shortage has hit the Walled Lake School District.

Positions for qualified substitute teachers head the list of employment opportunities for the district.

Any former teacher or other person who has earned at least 60 credit hours from an accredited college or university can be certified for substitute teaching.

"Good substitute teachers are invaluable to the school program, and our current list is not adequate for our needs," said Max Burt, director of instruction.

"We want to encourage anyone with an interest in this area to contact us."

Substitutes work on a day-to-day basis and can choose the day and grades they prefer.

Someone also is urgently needed to handle the central substitute service, which involves an hour's work each morning in arranging for substitutes for teachers who are ill, Burt said.

Other jobs available in the school system include positions for cafeteria workers, maintenance employees, library aides and bus drivers.

Both full- and part-time jobs are offered in the cafeterias and for maintenance personnel.

Library aides work six hours a day and operate the elementary school libraries.

Hearing Set on Apartment Complex

FARMINGTON—A public hearing will be held Nov. 15 on rezoning which would allow construction of an apartment complex on stilts in the Rouge River valley.

The zoning change, requested by Omar Sanderson of the Sanderson Real Estate Co., has been recommended by the City Planning Commission.

The hearing will be before the City Council, which will make a final decision on the matter.

Sanderson is seeking rezoning to multiple residential for 6.1 acres of property north of Grand River and west of Lakeway.

The parcel now is zoned for spaces on a platform slightly above grade level.

Sanderson said the chances are slight that the area would be flooded.

"It could happen once in 75 years," the Farmington realtor said, "and then it would be for probably only 10 or 12 hours."

The planning commission has placed a six-month limit on its favorable recommendation. If construction of the apartments is not started within that period, the recommendation would be invalidated.

Hearing on the rezoning request is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber of the Municipal Building.

Dublin's Future Aired by Board

By PAT McCARTY

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — The question mark that is Dublin School District's future took on new dimensions last night.

The work of some six months of study, which is expected to be culminated at a meeting of the Oakland County School District Reorganization Committee tomorrow, was explained to a large public audience for the first time.

Attracting nearly 140 persons, the presentation was made by the board of education at a Dublin School PTA meeting.

The School District Reorganization Committee was formed in May in compliance with a state statute passed in 1964 to abolish school districts without kindergartens through 12th grade programs.

The committee's job is to recommend alternatives for the three districts in the county which are educating only kindergartens through eighth graders.

OTHER DISTRICTS

Dublin's plight is shared by the North Oxford and Novi districts.

On the agenda for the Thursday meeting of the group is a final answer for Dublin.

The board of education for the small district, which covers 3½ square miles of White Lake Township, is seeking annexation to the Walled Lake School District.

ANNEXATION

Also discussed were annexation to the Waterford or Huron Valley school systems.

The fourth idea was the creation of a new kindergarten — 12th grade district, probably encompassing all of White Lake Township.

While the majority of those at last night's meeting indicated they were in favor of annexation to the Walled Lake district, there was strong vocal support for the idea of a township school system.

School Board President Eric L. Spitzer, a member of the reorganization committee, said this was not considered practical because both the number of students and size of the tax base would be too small.

FIVE OTHERS

Besides Dublin, five other districts extend into the township: Clarkston, Holly, Huron Valley, Waterford and Walled Lake.

Any move to take a portion of their tax bases from them would meet certain opposition, Spitzer said.

Even if such a maneuver could be accomplished, a White Lake Township school district would draw funds from taxes would have to be increased 13 mills, he said.

Construction of a high school today is apt to run closer to $5 million, the superintendent noted, and this doesn't include operating expenses.

PROBLEM OF MOMENT

Therefore, the problem of the moment is the Walled Lake board's position toward annexation.

The Dublin district, with a total state equalized property valuation of $5 million, has a $4,693 tax base behind each of its students, Spitzer said, noting that the state average is about $13,000.

Walled Lake's figure is $10,448 per pupil. Annexation would cut the amount to $9,759 per pupil.

Officials in Walled Lake have estimated they would lose $40,000 a year as a result of the proposed merger.

REQUIRE APPROVAL

Annexation would require approval of the Walled Lake Board of Education and the electors of the Dublin district.

"Before anything happens to Dublin School District, there will be a public hearing and an election," Spitzer assured the audience last night.

He also emphasized that "there has been absolutely no consideration of dividing the school district in parts."

The recommendation — resolution — election process must be completed by the end of 1965, Spitzer said, so that a final recommendation can be made to the state committee coordinating implementation of the statute.

"But Dublin's going to be around, I'm sure, at least until the middle of next year — and probably for another year," he said.

Besides the students it sends to Walled Lake High School, the Dublin district is educating 824 youngsters in its own kindergarten — eighth grade school.

The district, board of education members noted, was organized in the late 1920s, evolving from a log cabin school which dated back to before the turn of the century.

Reactivate Hospital Fund Drive

ROCHESTER — A fund-raising campaign for the Rochester unit of Crittenton Hospital was reactivated last night to make up a $620,000 deficit in the building fund.

Howard L. McGregor Jr. and Edgar J. Geist, M.D., will again serve as general chairman and vice chairman of the campaign.

Original estimated cost of construction was $5,075,000 but rising construction costs raised the amount to $6,045,000.

Monies from the first fund-raising campaign netted $5,425,000.

This included $1,225,000 from Hill-Burton Funds, a mortgage for $2 million; and $300,000 from the Detroit unit of the hospital.

REACTIVATION

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Hospital Building Fund last night, plans were made for the reactivated campaign.

Hearing Set on Apartment Complex

FARMINGTON — A public hearing will be held Nov. 15 on rezoning which would allow construction of an apartment complex on stills in the Rouge River valley.

The zoning change, requested by Omar Sanderson of the Sanderson Real Estate Co., has been recommended by the City Planning Commission.

The hearing will be before the City Council, which will make a final decision on the matter.

Sanderson is seeking reclassification to multiple residential for 6.1 acres of property north of Grand River and west of Lakeway.

The parcel now is zoned for commercial and single-family residential development.

91 APARTMENTS

The proposed complex would consist of 91 apartments in seven buildings.

Designed by Detroit architect Leonard Sigal, the buildings would embody a new concept in construction.

They would be built on columns so the foundations would not affect the flood plain of the river or be damaged by water in the event of flooding.

Supporting two-story structures, the columns would be about nine feet high. The area under the buildings would be used for parking, with spaces on a platform slightly above grade level.

Sanderson said the chances are slight that the area would be flooded.

"It could happen once in 75 years," the Farmington realtor said, "and then it would be for probably only 10 or 12 hours."

Surgery Can Correct Drooping Eyelids

By Science Service
ATLANTIC CITY — Another reason for donating your eyes to surgery when you die was reported here. Human grafts of the outermost coat of the eyeball can correct or prevent failing sight due to drooping of the eyelid, an exhibit at the American College of Surgeons meeting here shows.

Preserved corneas have been used with good results for many years, and now eye banks can include preserved sclera, the white coating that covers the eyeball.

Dr. John A. Baessler of the University of Missouri Medical Center, Columbia, explained that a dreaded common complication of some cases of retinal detachment is a rupture of the "globe" due to a marked thinning of the walls of the eye.

This is where preserved sclera can be used to patch the ruptured globe, or to reinforce a weak area to prevent a rupture.

Those who want to donate their eyes after death can obtain pledge cards from local hospitals or from local Lions Clubs, which are helping to promote eye banks all over the country.

SKIN TESTING

Skin testing of cancer patients to help determine the course of the disease is working successfully, Dr. Alex C. Soloway and Dr. Felix T. Rapaport of New York University Medical Center reported here.

They injected 95 cancer patients, who were getting around and in an apparent state of well-being, with various types of allergens — substances that cause an allergic condition such as a red spot or breaking out on the site of injection — along with 46 "controls," or persons with no cancer.

The sex and age of the controls were matched with those of the cancer patients.

Dedication a Bit Late

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — It was recently noted that formal ceremonies of the dedication of the Wisconsin State Capitol, built in 1915, had been "overlooked." After a restoration and cleaning program, the dedicatory service was held — half a century late.

Revolt in Burundi Is Smashed

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A revolt by 20 to 30 police officers against the King of Burundi has been crushed and the rebels have fled to the hills in the Central African nation, reports in Nairobi said today.

Several other rebels were killed in the 12-hour uprising yesterday, the reports said, and Mwami (King) Mwambutsa IV said in control again. The premier, Leopold Biha, was wounded but improving.

Diplomatic sources gave this account:

Loyal Burundi troops stormed a downtown barracks in the capital, Bujumbura, to crush the short-lived revolt by police mutineers.

About 20 rebel officers, all belonging to the Hutu tribe, fled to the hills shortly before their last stronghold surrendered.

REFUSE TO JOIN

Between 10 and 15 police officers of the rival Tutsi tribe were murdered for refusing to join the mutiny.

The revolt appeared to have been confined to a small group, perhaps numbering no more than 30, there was no indication it spread beyond the capital. Forces loyal to the king reported last night they had encircled the palace and had the king under their protection.

Earlier reports said Mwambutsa fled to the Congo, but he broadcast a message last night saying those who attacked his palace sought to harm the nation but represented only a small group.

Sources in Leopoldville said the king had hidden in the palace until loyalist forces took over.

The secretary of state for defense, Michael Momboro, was reported missing and six palace guardsmen were reported killed in the dawn mortar and rifle attack by the rebels.

Rhodesia Keeping Independence Decision Secret Until Britain's Wilson Is Informed

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — The Rhodesian Cabinet decided today whether to declare independence in defiance of Britain, but Prime Minister Ian Smith refused to make the decision public at once.

"We have a decision in principle," said Smith after a Cabinet meeting, "but we do not propose to divulge this until the British prime minister, Harold Wilson, has received my message."

Asked if his message was in answer to Wilson's 11th-hour appeal to Rhodesia's white rulers to think again, Smith said: "Yes, this is our 11th-hour answer."

Before the meeting, observers had expected the Cabinet to give Smith the go-ahead for independence.

ACT OF REBELLION

A top British government source in London said Britain would brand a declaration of independence an act of rebellion and would order the British colony's governor, Sir Humphrey Gibbs, to do all he could to take over the government of Rhodesia from Smith.

However, Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government will not use force because it believes British public opinion would not support such action against the white settlers of Rhodesia, most of whom are of British descent.

The source said if Rhodesia declares independence, Britain would stop buying the colony's $112-million annual tobacco crop, cancel a variety of other trade and financial deals, expel Rhodesia from the sterling area, freeze the African colony's assets and cancel her preferred Commonwealth tariffs. Britain will also take the matter to the U.N. Security Council.

Johnson promised the investigation after meeting with some

Johnson promised the investigation after meeting with some already has called on the British to do all necessary to prevent a declaration of independence or to negotiate it if the Rhodesian government issues one.

Asian and African nations, both inside the Commonwealth and outside, have been urging Britain to use force.

He said he was told at the meeting that the department tried to pressure residents into selling their land at too low prices.

Wilson conferred by telephone with Prime Ministers Lester B. Pearson of Canada and Sir Robert Menzies of Australia in the hope that some Commonwealth action could head off trouble.

Independence talks between Britain and Rhodesia broke off last week after Smith refused to give Rhodesia's black majority the promise of ultimate control of the government. There are 4 million Negroes in Rhodesia and 250,000 whites.

Purdue Mentor Says MSU Nation's Best

CHICAGO (AP)—Coach Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue praised his next opponent, Michigan State, as "the best football player in the United States" Tuesday.

The two unbeaten powerhouses clash in Lafayette, Ind. in a key game for the Big Ten crown and Rose Bowl trip. The Spartans are ranked No. 2 nationally and the Boilermakers, whose only blot on an otherwise perfect record is a 14-1 tie with Southern Methodist, are No. 6.

"Any team that can stop Ohio State's running and run over them (32-7) like the Spartans did must be the best in the U. S.," Mollenkopf told the Chicago football writers by phone.

Odds Jumping as Middleweight Title Bout Nears

NEW YORK (UPI)—The odds began to dance about like Joey Giardello at his best today indicating that New York State's prodigious boxing son may enter the ring at close to even money Thursday night when he defends his middleweight title against Dick Tiger.

A flow of "Giardello money" cut the 2-1 odds favoring Tiger to 8-5 Tuesday and if the trend continues the wagering may be 6-5 pick 'em by Thursday night's opening bell sounds in Madison Square Garden.

The late support for the 35-year-old champion apparently reflects a feeling that Tiger reached his peak a week ago when he hit 159 pounds. He was built back up to 162 and Tuesday hit 160 on the nose but some experts think he may have been weakened by the process.

Giardello, meanwhile, looks fit for a fight or a track meet. He's worked 170 rounds and done 150 miles of road work in preparation for the stolid, eager-punching Nigerian who lost the middleweight crown to Joey on a disputed decision 22 months ago at Atlantic City, N.J.

"I really don't think they have had to open up yet. Their running linebacker, George Webster, probably is the best defensive player in the country. As for their end, Gene Washington, I don't think any back can take him all the time and we'll certainly have to double up on him."

NEAR PERFECT
"When we defeated Notre Dame (25-21) we played a near perfect game and we'll need another to have a chance against MSU. The Spartans have better passing than Notre Dame and a better total defense."

Coach Duffy Daugherty chimed in with equal praise for Purdue.

"Since both of us are unbeaten in the conference, I am convinced this is our biggest game of the season. If we both play our best, it will be worth going 1,000 miles to see."

"We are getting ready to play our best game of the year and hope that this will be good enough. We just hope that Bob Griese doesn't hit with the bomb. It is impossible to stop him when he has such receivers as Jim Beirne, Bob Hadrick, Jim Finley and Gordon Teter. They've got such good ones we can't afford to double cover any one of them."

Central Tops Kettering in Cross-Country Meet

Pontiac Central used its second line runners yesterday to down Waterford Kettering 23-33 in a cross country meet.

Larry Hurst of PCH won in 11:10 followed by Kettering's Frank Limatta. Ernest Griffin of the Chiefs was third and PCH's Bob Dickie fourth. Fred Limatta was fifth for the Capitans.

Minnesota 11 Awaits U-M

Two Injured Gopher Players Returning

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Minnesota Gophers will be nearly at full strength for their homecoming battle with Michigan Saturday, for the first time since the Gophers' opener.

Chuck Killian, who sat out last week with a dislocated shoulder, returned to his starting center post Tuesday. Sophomore fullback John Williams, who missed the last three games, has moved up to the No. 2 team and is apparently recovered from a pulled hamstring muscle.

QUESTION MARKS

Only end John Rajala, with a leg injury, and left halfback Hubie Bryant, with a sprained ankle, are question marks, and they may see some duty. Rajala has seen no action since the opener. Bryant was injured last Saturday.

The Gophers worked outside Tuesday despite a rain. The routine workout saw the Gopher defense pitted against Michigan running plays, while the offense concentrated on blocking to establish a running game against the Wolverines.

Hungarian Lifts U.S. Jumpers

Ex-Calvary Officer Coaching Yanks

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — At 51, Bertalan De Nemethy still resembles the dashing young cavalry officer he once was with the Hungarian Army in the 1930s.

And it was this cavalry training that has helped build the United States into one of the world's leading equestrian powers in international jumping.

Equestrians the world over agree that the rise of the United States began with De Nemethy's appointment as equestrian coach in 1955.

Refusing to take any of the credit himself, but rather placing it all with the riders and mounts of the American team, the slender, affable De Nemethy ranks the United States third in the world today behind only Germany and Italy.

The team's performance in this week's Pennsylvania Horse Show at Harrisburg is a strong argument in its favor.

After just two events, the Americans boasted a commanding lead over crack teams from Canada, Mexico and Ireland.

De Nemethy, who still rides five or six hours a day himself, says the equestrian sport is growing "slowly but surely in popularity in the United States, although it is still far from the level it enjoys in Europe."

TIRE TALK

Ever have to climb from the shower to answer the phone and try to open that bathroom door?

Well, there's as simple a demonstration as you could ask of a rainy day skid. The water film between your fingers and the knob in the same kind of film that gets between your tire's tread and the street and cuts traction to zero.

It takes the sickening lurch of an out-of-control skid to make painfully plain the critical importance of tread design. A well designed tire tread wipes a wet street dry so to speak and gives traction when the brakes are applied. A poorly designed one can't!

So the next time you need tires take a long look at that tread design before you buy — and if you think you need professional help in selecting one — drop in. We know the difference between a good tread design and a doorknob. Try us. Carter Tire Co., 370 S. Saginaw St., Pontiac FE 5-6136

READY . . . AIM — Steadily increasing temperatures and some rain greeted the 300,000 hunters who opened the small game season in Southern Michigan today. Most of the nimrods were trying to line up a big ringneck pheasant like the one above in their shotgun sights.

Mr. Ringneck Knows Every Trick in Book

"A cock pheasant is undoubtedly the most contemptible, low-down, miserable bird that a hunter has to contend with. There's no trick he doesn't know or won't use."

This is how Dan Holland describes the primary target of 300,000 hunters who opened the small game season in Southern Michigan today.

Holland's comments are recorded in The Upland Game Hunter's Bible (Doubleday). But they will be echoed in even stronger terms by hunters before the season closes Nov. 10.

Young roosters are fairly easy to flush opening day, but those that survive become educated quickly.

They join the older brethren in the swales and thickets and take an excellent dog to get a running pheasant off the ground. The beagle is becoming a favorite of hunters because this slow moving hound usually gets the job done.

Scattered rain in many sections of Southern Michigan helped hunters with dogs this morning. A forecast of bit and blizzard for the afternoon made the outlook gloomy for those hunters and dogs who aren't in condition for the difficult walks through typical pheasant cover.

Vic Janson, Southern Michigan game bird expert for the Conservation Department, estimated between 400,000 and 450,000 pheasant hunters will take to the field before the season is over.

Janson predicted a slight drop in between 700,000 and 800,000 in the kill of birds this season. The bag was estimated at 837,000 last season.

Based on early brood surveys, the major drop in pheasant numbers available was expected to be in the Thumb area.

Pheasant numbers were estimated as about the same in Sanilac and St. Clair counties, but it was predicted fewer birds would be available in Bay, Huron, Saginaw and Tuscola counties.

The annual Pontiac Press Pheasant Contest started with the opening of the season. There will be $50 and $25

Geese Arriving at Jack Miner's Bird Sanctuary

Special to The Press KINGSVILLE, Ont.—Several thousand Canada geese have arrived at the Jack Miner Bird Sanctuary near here and the build-up is expected to continue until the end of the month.

The sanctuary is open to the public everyday except Sunday. Between 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. is the best time for viewing the geese with the major incoming afternoon flight taking place about 4 p.m.

The large concentration of geese, expected to number 25,000 by Nov. 1, will use the refuge until late in November. The majority will then fly south.

A few thousand honkers will remain through the winter until next April before migrating north to the breeding grounds.

Conservationists Relax; Teens Return to Books

LANSING (AP) — Warren Shapton admits he breathes a sigh of relief once the school season and the hunting season start.

Shapton, regional manager for the state conservation department in the southern third of the state, had his problems this summer with teen-age trouble-makers and drunks.

There were some 8,000 incidents resulting in more than 700 arrests this summer.

Shapton and the conservation department now are asking for legislative approval of the hiring of an additional 42 park rangers, to quell such trouble before it starts.

"We don't have any problem with hunters," said Shapton. "This trouble is mostly a teenage thing."

"The hunters conduct themselves like gentlemen," he explained. "If there is a teen-ager along, it is a young fellow with a father or older relative that has trained him in gun-handling and courtesy."

Teen-agers mostly start trouble on school holidays, Shapton explained. They are somehow able to get beer or liquor and rove around in gangs.

"We thought we'd have some trouble during the special test season," he said. "It didn't work out that way although the average hunter might have trouble distinguishing a blue wing or a green-wing teal from another duck."

The test season was Sept. 16-24.

No trouble is anticipated, either, during the Nov. 6-14 special turkey hunt in sections of Allegan County.

"All the hunters going down there have permits," Shapton said. "We know they will be eager for the birds but will conduct themselves well."

The deer season in southern Michigan also presents no problem, said the conservation department chief for the area.

"We know it is hard to find a place to hunt in southern Michigan, but the hunters have learned to ask the farmer first."

Duck Hunting Report

Shows Poor Results

Duck hunting in Southeastern Michigan is reported to be on the poor side.

Most local ducks have disappeared and gunning on St. Clair Flats has been only fair. Sneak boat shooters are getting best results on Lake St. Clair and Saginaw Bay.

Leading Scorer Signs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rod Gilbert, a 34-year old forward who led the New York Rangers in scoring with 61 points last season, signed today for the 1965-66 season with the National Hockey League Club. Gilbert has played in 212 consecutive games for the Rangers.

"That courtesy pays off. Also we have state game areas in southern Michigan, and the smart hunter might check with the department to find out where he can shoot for what."

"The fellow with the license is no problem," concluded Shapton, "it is the teen-ager gang with the beer that gives us our headaches."

Losses Outnumber Gainers

Mart Dips as Trading Slows

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market edged irregularly lower as trading slowed from the recent past.

Losses of fractions to a point outnumbered gainers in the same range as mild profit taking trimmed the recent surge to historic highs in all the popular averages.

A number of the electronics, airlines and other recent favorites took losses which seemed moderate in view of the big gains piled up since Labor Day.

In addition, there was a slightly lower trend in some steel, motor and chemicals.

EARLY ADVANCE
An early advance by aerospace issues founded and the group was irregular in the afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .4 at 350.4 with industrials off .7, rails unchanged and utilities off .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .11 at 947.63.

SCM Corp. rose more than a point on a big trade at the opening but the gain melted away and the stock showed a net loss of nearly a point a couple of hours later.

Prices were generally higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. National Video "A" rose more than 4 and its when-issued stock more than 2.

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds edged lower.

Prison Inmate Charges Eyed

JACKSON (AR)—Racial discrimination charges made by four Negro convicts who staged a brief revolt at Southern Michigan Prison may be investigated by the State Civil Rights Commission.

Prison officials said they planned security changes to prevent such an incident as Monday's revolt from happening again.

The prisoners, Milton Thomas, 20, Otis Adams, 27, Alvin Shaw, 24, and Edward Whitehead, 27, all of Detroit, are in solitary confinement. Officials said they would be held there until the prison disciplinary board met Friday to study the case.

Damon Keith, cochairman of the Civil Rights Commission, said Tuesday he would recommend to the commission that it use its "initiation" power to investigate the matter thoroughly.

DIFFICULT TO BELIEVE
Keith said he found it difficult to believe racial discrimination existed in an institution supported by public funds.

Only one of the four prisoners had any official business in the prison hospital where the uprising took place, said Louis Uless, administrative assistant to Warden George Kropp.

The four took four hostages, a stack of narcotics, and barricaded themselves inside the hospital for 5 1/2 hours. They were armed with knives. Later, they were taken into surrendering on a promise that their grievances about racial discrimination at the prison would be heard. The hostages were not harmed.

Guidelines Chafe, so Revision Likely

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — Guidelines for business and labor activities. And the guidelines may be in for revision. They certainly have brought a conflict into open on several fronts in recent days.

Both government and business appear of late to be reconsidering their stands — or at least their methods of living with the guidelines. Labor sometimes has ignored, and the guidelines have application of the guidelines to its wage policies.

Q. "I am a parish priest. About 20 years ago, I took out an insurance policy which will be paid up this December and I will receive $5,000. I am looking for a return in the next five to ten years and I would appreciate your advice as to how this money should be invested." Rev. W. M.

A. I do not know what your requirements may be in the way of a savings reserve, but I judge they are not great. If I'm correct and you can afford to invest without a cash backlog for contingencies, I believe you should buy equal dollar amounts of three strong stocks. Your funds are insufficient for greater diversification.

In your position, I would buy Standard Oil of New Jersey, the world leader in its industry, now relatively cheap because of a probable short-lived decline reported in first half earnings. My other two suggestions are Consolidated Foods and Eastman Kodak, each outstanding in its field.

limit to this outflow of U.S. dollars.

TWO CONFLICTS

The conflict in each interest is both practical and theoretical.

In the realm of theory, businessmen, bankers and labor leaders tend to join in opposition to the government interfering in the conduct of their affairs.

Most say they prefer to stick to open market activity involving supply and demand and collective bargaining. The government's theoretical stand is that the public interest must be protected and that only the government can do that.

In the realm of practice, business tends to challenge both the arithmetic of the guidelines and the chances of obtaining through them the goals the government says it seeks. For example, several industries contend that the pressure to hold down prices is crimping profits on products where rising costs of future expansion will be limited or unobtainable.

Guidelines for prices and wages are tied to government estimates of the year-to-year increase in the output of goods per man-hour of labor. Business notes the size of this increased productivity are usually quite different from those advanced by the government. And labor's ideas differ sharply from both.

BANKERS ARE RAISING THE interest charges to businessmen when they come back for another loan — but leaving the official prime rate unchanged as a savings reserve, but I judge they are not great. If I'm correct and you can afford to invest without a cash backlog for contingencies, I believe you should buy equal dollar amounts of three strong stocks. Your funds are insufficient for greater diversification.

In your position, I would buy Standard Oil of New Jersey, the world leader in its industry, now relatively cheap because of a probable short-lived decline reported in first half earnings. My other two suggestions are Consolidated Foods and Eastman Kodak, each outstanding in its field.

Prince Will Testify in CBS Suit

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Ram-noff prince, frail with age but still proudly erect, was expected to tell an American court today how on a cold December night nearly 50 years ago he murdered the debauched mystic who held sway over imperial Russia.

Prince Felix Youssouff 79, has told many times how he and three noble conspirators poisoned, shot and finally beat to death Rasputin, the Siberian peasant whose whims were law and debaucheries legion.

But the prince's testimony this time may be worth $1.5 million. That's how much he is asking from the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) in an invasion of privacy suit being tried in State Supreme Court.

Youssouff brought the suit because of a CBS television film about the assassination. Though he freely admits his role in the murder, and even has written a book about it, the prince objected to the film's innuendo that he pandered his 21-year-old wife, the beautiful and rich niece of Czar Nicholas II, to Rasputin.

He objected to the "sexual atmosphere" of the drama.

FIT SUBJECT

CBS contends that Rasputin's assassination on Dec. 16, 1918, is history and therefore a fit subject for dramatization. The court decision could set a precedent for future fictionalized versions of historical events in which the participants are still living.

Yesterday, Youssouff decided the "mad monk" as a man who "persuaded people he was a monk without being a monk."

But holy man or not, Rasputin's mesmerizing power was used to help the Czarina's hemophiliac son, Czarovich Alexi, and through her, the filthy, semiliterate peasant rose to his black power.

Prince Youssouff testified that he knew Rasputin "very well," having met him at the homes of friends. And it was at some of the finest homes of the highest court figures that Rasputin presided over his orgies.

NAME LINKED

He is known to have had affairs with two grand-duchesses and his name, which means "desolute," was even linked with the Czarina.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer linked the name of Princess Irina Youssouff to Rasputin's in 1934 and it cost the film makers $125,000 in a court settlement and $250,000 in out-of-court settlements.

The princess admitted yesterday that her husband may have used her as bait to lure Rasputin to his St. Petersburg (Leningrad) palace the night he was murdered.

Junior Editors Quiz on NAILS

QUESTION: Why are different-sized nails called by pennies?

ANSWER: Your father might say to you "run down to the hardware store and get the two pounds of 4-penny nails." The clerk would go to the bin where 1 1/2 inch nails were kept, pick up a handful and weigh out two pounds of them to give you.

You can see that "penny," as we use the term, refers only to length—although the longer nails are naturally heavier. Our illustration shows the penny names with lengths in inches.

Originally, the term penny had a different meaning. Nails began to be widely sold in England in the 1400's, and the sizes were spoken of by what price a hundred nails of each size should be.

The price for a small nail about an inch long would be two pennies for one hundred, so they called it a two-penny (or as the English would say, tuppenny) nail.

Larger sizes were 3-penny, 4-penny, 5-penny and so on. "Penny" also referred to the weight of the nail, for about a thousand penny nails made up one pound, and if you bought a pound of 4-penny nails, there would be about 400.

As manufacturing processes became standardized, the exact length of the nail became called by the penny name, rather than the number you could get by spending a certain number of pennies.

FOR YOU TO DO: Memorize this principle used by carpenters to nail two boards together: use a nail long enough to go through the first plank and a bit over halfway into the bottom one. Try this out with a couple pieces of board.

Congo Figure Out of Exile

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Former Congolese Prime Minister Cyrille Adoula returned to the Congo today after 14 months of voluntary exile in Europe.

Adoula was premier from August 1961 until July 1964. He was replaced by Moise Tshombe in a move to unify the nation and end the rebellion. Adoula, who had expected to be named premier again, went to Rome.

The last continent that geologists call Gondwanaland sank beneath the sea days ago, leaving exposed the islands that form New Zealand.

Nearing Reality

Asia Roads Are Readied

WASHINGTON — New highways in Asia will make it possible to drive from Le Havre, France, to Singapore over good roads. Khyber Pass in central Asia will be as accessible as the Riviera.

The Asian highway system, a modern 34,000-mile network that follows ancient caravan routes in many places, is nearing reality. The National Geographic Society says. This system will link up with Europe's new 10,000-mile road network at Istanbul.

ther public and private investment to provide the $2 billion needed to complete the system.

The Asian countries cannot afford the luxury of superhighways along American and European lines. The goal is a system of all-weather roads — asphalt, concrete, or first-class gravel in a few places — touching major cities. Certain existing highways will be improved and linked. Dangerous rivers will be bridged rather than forded as they are now.

Star Trying to Avoid the Traps of Success

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Maximilian Schell's explanation of why he has absented himself from Hollywood for three and a half years since he won an Oscar:

"I didn't want to be caught up in the worship of success."

Most toilers in the Hollywood woods would consider that a curious viewpoint, if not downright subversive. Oscar winners are supposed to do their utmost to cash in on the golden gift, wheeling and dealing to build careers and bankrolls.

Not Schell.

"After I won the Oscar, I didn't make a film deal for a year," he says. "Yes, there were all kinds of offers and pressures to get me to sign. But success can be a trap, and I was determined not to fall into it."

"Money" it never did concern me. No matter how bad things get, you can always sell your car."

Max Schell has not reached that state. Except in his very early days as an actor, he has lived comfortably. Stoutly maintaining his bachelorhood, he keeps his needs at a minimum. He has an apartment in Munich, which he seldom sees. Most of his time he is traveling or working, or both.

After his Oscar for "Judgment at Nuremberg," Schell appeared in the unsuccessful "The Condemned of Altona," for which he had been previously committed.

"Then I waited," he explained. "The offers were very flattering. But most of them had me playing an earnest young German; after "The Young Lions" and "Judgment at Nuremberg," I had enough of that."

He broke the fast with "Topkap," choosing a comedy as a change of pace. It was a happy choice. He followed with a drama, "Return From the Ashes." In between he played a highly commended Hamlet and performed a new John Osborne play "A Patriot for Me," in London.

Schell emphasized that his absence did not imply he was anti-Hollywood.

"I've missed the town," he said, "and I'd like to work here. The films I have done have been American films that happened to be made in Europe. I'd like to do a comedy or a love story in Hollywood, but unfortunately I haven't found a good one."

Commission Gets Call in Pay Dispute

The City Commission was notified last night of an order from State Labor Mediator Leonard D. Bennett for a private meeting with the Pontiac Firefighters Association.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren presented Bennett's request and the commission met Monday, Nov. 1, at 5 p.m. as the meeting date.

The meeting is closed to the press and public at the request of the mediator. The meeting results from previous mediation sessions with PFA representatives and city administrators.

Warren, as the chief administrator, formally rejected PFA wage demands. The PFA then petitioned for the session with the City Commission.

'Lake Cleanup Will Hike Taxes'

"Taxpayers are going to have to pay for it now," was the refrain repeated last night by the City Commission.

This was the response to the State Water Resources Commission request that Pontiac establish a

Tell Waterford to Act on Drain

State Sets Timetable for Remedial Action

The State Water Resources Commission has given official notification to Waterford Township officials to remedy drainage problems existing in the east side of the township near the Pontiac Mall.

In a letter from Loring F. Oeming, executive secretary of the Water Resources Commission, it was pointed out that the area is served only by the county's West End Drain with no separate sewer system for the collection of sanitary waste.

Oeming said that an untimely number of the properties of the area discharge untreated waste water or septic tank effluent to the drain.

Oeming also noted that the township and city have agreed that the city will provide treatment of waste from the township area, if and when the township installs sewers.

The Water Resources Commission requested a three-step timetable for the implementation of the program.

Complete construction plans and specifications for facilities on or before March 1, 1966.

Complete financing of the facilities on or before June 1, 1966.

Award construction contracts for the facilities on or before June 15, 1966.

Rain Arrives Early (Now He Tells Us)

Scattered showers predicted for tomorrow arrived a day early.

The weatherman said light rains will continue through the night and tomorrow. Skies will clear Friday.

Temperatures will be a little cooler tomorrow, highs hitting 62 to 66. Lows will dip to 50 to 54 tonight.

Southeasterly morning winds will increase to 15 to 20 miles per hour late this afternoon becoming northwest late Thursday.

A low of 54 was recorded at 1 a.m. today. At 1 p.m. the reading was 56.

program to correct sewer pollution of three small lakes in the city.

The commission officially received the request in a letter from Loring F. Oeming, executive secretary of the state agency.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., led off the commission comments, pointing out that the commission had been aware of the problem but did not have the funds to do anything.

Taylor said that correction of pollution of city lakes was one of the items on the commission's program when the income tax was recommended.

Commented the mayor, "No matter which way you cut this pie, it means that people will be assessed more taxes on top of present taxes, whether they like it or not."

SENT A LETTER

City Manager Joseph A. Warren disclosed last night that he had sent a letter to the Water Resources Commission to see if Waterford Township had also been advised of pollution of Crystal Lake through the west end drain, which serves a portion of the township.

The Water Resources Commission advised the city to "conduct a complete review of its storm and sanitary sewer systems serving the area tributary to the three lakes."

The state agency also set down a specific timetable for implementation of the city's program against pollution of Crystal Lake, Terry and Oshtemo Lakes.

City Commissioners generally seemed to agree that construction of new storm drains, necessary to separate the combined sanitary and storm sewer system, would have to go through the Oakland County Drain Commission.

This would allow the city property tax bill received by city property owners.

Klan's Wizard Still Quiet on Investigation

Refuses to Answer Probers' Questions on Finances of KKK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton kept silent today under a fire of questions from congressional investigators about where the Ku Klux Klan money goes.

He was asked about the purchase of a Cadillac, about money spent in a jewelry shop, about an insurance company, and about checks drawn on the Klan account.

To each query, he gave the same response he had to questions yesterday about his United Klans of America. This was to read from a card:

"I respectfully decline to answer that question for the reason that I honestly believe my answer might tend to incriminate me in violation of my rights guaranteed to me by amendments five, one, four and 14 of the Constitution of the United States of America."

Shelton was again accompanied by some of his grand dragons when he came to the second session of the hearings by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

LAPEL BUTTON

He was wearing a lapel button with the single word "never" on it.

Whatever other significance it may have, it could have meant "never talk" on this day. For he refused to tell newsmen about the button. And, when committee chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., asked him to explain it, Shelton replied that he must refuse because his answer might tend to incriminate him.

Donald T. Appell, a committee investigator, did most of the questioning of Shelton about Klan finances. He presented a Klan income tax return which he said was signed by Shelton. The period covered by the return was not clear.

Appell said the report showed an income of $18,497 but said outgoing checks totaled $18,036. He asked if that meant the total net income for all of Shelton's United Klans was only about $460.

Shelton refused to answer. Shelton's plan to keep silent about all Klan affairs appeared (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

October smiled as Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson was honored yesterday on her 82nd birthday at the cornerstone ceremony of the Matilda R. Wilson Hall.

Commemorating the Wilsons' founding gift, the $2.5-million hall will house classrooms and administrative offices.

Among the items enclosed in the cornerstone were a 1965-66 OU catalog, a program for the Wilson Hall cornerstone ceremony, OU's 1965 annual report, a 1963 charter class commencement program, and a complete issue of The Pontiac Press of Sept. 21, 1959, announcing the opening of the University.

"We pledge vigorous and relentless efforts in furtherance of the goals you have set for us," said Warren M. Huff, chairman of the Michigan State University Board of Trustees.

"Eventually," he said, "Oakland University will be one of the greatest, if not the greatest university in the United States. Our only limitation will be our own shortsightedness."

County in Consumer Program, Says Kelley

A "hot line" alerting system is being set up in 15 Michigan counties, including Oakland, to combat consumer frauds and cheats, Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley said today.

Kelley addressed a group of merchants and county law enforcement officers at a breakfast meeting at the Elks Temple.

Sponsored by the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, the meeting was the 11th in a series slated for the state's 15 largest counties.

Introduced by Oakland County Prosecutor Jerome S. Bronson, Kelley said that Consumer Fraud Bureaus are being set up as part of the three-fold attack on frauds and cheats.

Kelley said that the battle against frauds and cheats is carried out through: (1) enforcement of present laws, (2) new legislation and, (3) education programs.

Report 150-200 Reds Dead; 4 Yanks Killed in Downed Copter

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (P)—The Viet Cong launched two big attacks on government troops in South Viet Nam's central highlands during the night and suffered heavy casualties.

A U.S. Army helicopter was shot down during one of the battles and the four Americans aboard were killed.

An estimated 150-200 guerrillas were killed in the two actions.

Supported by heavy air attacks, a force of 300 Montagnard tribesmen and 10 American advisers were holding off hundreds of guerrillas laying siege to a special forces camp at Plei Me, about 17 miles from the Cambodian border.

The Viet Cong has lost an estimated 60 to 100 men but kept up their attack throughout the day. Casualties among the defenders were reported light.

BEAT OFF ATTACKS

U.S. advisers said government troops beat off attacks by two Viet Cong battalions in a fierce battle in the Ba Long valley, about 400 miles north of Saigon near the North Viet Nam border.

The advisers reported 94 Viet Cong bodies had been counted and "they're still counting." Vietnamese casualties were described as light.

"You know they were hurt badly when they left so many of their dead lying around," said one American. "You can rest assured they carried some more away."

Liuuzzo Trial Faces Delay Over Ruling

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A young Ku Klux Klan's murder trial may be put off until spring unless the Alabama Supreme Court can hand down a speedy ruling today on a juror selection law.

The question asked of the Supreme Court: Can jurors who say they regard Negroes and white civil rights workers as inferior be dismissed from the trial on grounds they are prejudiced?

The Klansman, Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, of Fairfield, Ala., is charged with the slaying of a white civil rights worker, Viola Liuzzo, last March 25 near Hayneville.

Mrs. Liuzzo, a 39-year-old Detroit housewife and mother of five children, was killed as she ferried Negroes back to Selma after they staged a 50-mile march on the Alabama Capitol.

Circuit Judge T. Werth Thagard said the trial in Hayneville, 28 miles west of here, must resume by this afternoon or be rescheduled next May.

Thagard called a 24-hour recess Tuesday to permit the chief prosecutor, Atty. Gen. Richard Flowers, to appeal for a ruling on the question of prejudice to the high court.

Thagard said that unless the trial resumes this afternoon there would not be enough time remaining this week to hear evidence and he has other court commitments next week.

Forget Party Splits, Elly Tells GOP

Internal party differences must be put aside, Mrs. Elly Peterson, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, told a gathering of some 150 Oakland County party members last night.

Speaking at a dinner of the 19th Republican Congressional District at Glen Oaks Country Club, Mrs. Peterson said the GOP must pull together if it is to meet its objectives.

"We don't agree on everything, but I bet we all agree on one point," the party leader said.

"We've got to clean house at the congressional and state level next year and at the county level in 1968."

Mrs. Peterson reminded party members that the Romney-Milliken ticket outpolled the Stuebner-Dereznogski Democratic slate by 38,500 votes last fall.

"That's as good as Soapy Williams ever did," she said.

She also reminded that next (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Card-Burner Faces Hearing

Warrant of Removal to NY May Result

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — David J. Miller, 22, faces a hearing Friday on whether he will be returned to New York City to answer to an indictment charging him with burning his draft card.

Miller, from Syracuse, N.Y., was freed in $500 bail Tuesday from Hillsboro County jail.

On his release, Miller was asked by a reporter whether he had burned his draft card and not some other card and he replied: "It was my draft card — and I burned it."

The maximum penalty for such an offense is five years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

FACEJAIL

"I would hope the law would be repealed," Miller said, "but if jail comes I'll go."

The youth is due to appear before U.S. Commissioner Peter J. Bourque at 10 a.m. Friday.

Bourque said only two legal questions will be before him. First, that a true copy of the indictment is presented, and second, that Miller is, in fact, David J. Miller.

Bourque said that if these two points are satisfied, he would recommend to the U.S. District Court in Concord, N.H., that a warrant of removal be issued. Bourque said this might take until Monday or Tuesday.

ANTIWAR PROTEST

Miller was indicted by a federal grand jury in New York City Tuesday on a charge of knowingly mutilating and destroying a Selective Service notice of classification. The indictment stemmed from an incident last Friday during an antiwar demonstration outside the Armed Forces Induction Center in lower Manhattan.

Bail was posted for Miller by Thomas Haessler, 26, of Jersey City, N.J., who identified himself as a teacher of theology at St. Peter's College, a Jesuit school in Jersey City.

Link Rebels to 2 Java Killings

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — Rebel forces kidnaped and murdered two senior Indonesian army officers in Central Java, Radio Jakarta reported today.

The army — controlled broadcast said the bodies of the two men were found yesterday near Jogjakarta, the old Indonesian capital on the southern Javanese coast, about 300 miles east of Jakarta.

The victims were identified as Col. Katamsa, the commander of the Jogjakarta army district, and his deputy, Lt. Col. Sugiono. Both will be buried with full military honors in Jogjakarta Heroes' Cemetery tomorrow.

President Sukarno promoted both officers by one rank in a posthumous decree.

The army reported that Katamsa and Sugiono were slain during the brief period that Jogjakarta was in rebel hands following the Oct. 1 coup attempt against Sukarno.

SLAIN BY REBELS

Six generals and a lieutenant were slain by rebels in the Jakarta area in the early stages of the abortive power grab.

Jogjakarta is a special administrative district governed by the hereditary Sultan Hamengkubuwono.

He joined the revolutionary war against the Dutch after World War II and opened his palace to the fledgling republic government during Indonesia's four-year war of independence.

The city was the center of an ancient Javanese state and remains today the capital of traditional Javanese culture. Jogjakarta has been gripped by political tension as rival Communist, Moslem and nationalist elements braced for possible communal violence as an aftermath of the coup.

In other developments today, a Moslem-affiliated bank employees union official called for a freeze and eventual confiscation of bank accounts belonging to persons linked with the coup.

Catholic student headquarters urged regional branches to purge their ranks of coup sympathizers.

Political activities of all parties have been suspended in the east Java city of Madiun, according to the official Indonesian news agency Antara. It was at Madiun that a Communist rebellion collapsed 17 years ago.

When in Doubt, Try It Out

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Jerald Hall, a Fresno State College student charged with speeding, told Judge George Hopper he doubted the accuracy of police radar equipment used to clock his car's speed.

He said the equipment could not record accurately the speeds of two cars traveling a short distance apart.

Judge Hopper accompanied Hall and policemen to a city street yesterday and checked Hall's theory. It was wrong. Hall was found guilty.

For a penalty, the judge suspended his sentence, but told Hall to write a 1,000-word essay entitled: "Radar—Its History and Application in Traffic Control and Methods of Improving Its Use."

The plan covers all the mercury that remains from the approximately 55,000 flasks declared excess by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Petition Drive Launched

Eye State Lottery-Income Tax Vote

DETROIT (AP) — A group of Detroit area residents Tuesday launched a petition campaign to force a statewide vote on a state-operated lottery and state and local income taxes.

The group, called Citizens for Sweepstakes Association Inc., opposes the income tax and favors the lottery. Its president is Mrs. William Klovski, a suburban Dearborn Township housewife.

The same group failed in efforts four years ago to permit Michigan to operate two to six lotteries a year.

Mrs. Klovski said that, without previous experience, the group obtained 100,000 signatures that time.

New Hampshire is the only state with a lottery. Michigan legislators have backed numerous unsuccessful plans for one here, claiming the state could realize up to $50 million annually from five lotteries.

Other association officers are George Strelczuk of Farmington, vice president, and Frederick Lemke of East Detroit, treasurer.

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer
PASADENA, Calif.

The comet Ikeya-Seki raced within a few million miles of the sun today — as astronomers differed on whether it will put on the spectacular celestial show forecast for tonight and Thursday morning.

The comet, streaking in from the edge of the solar system, is expected to whip around the sun and start back during a five-hour period beginning at 10 p.m. Pacific Daylight Time.

Astronomers have predicted solar radiation would light up the frozen gases in the comet's 10-million-mile tail and make it visible during sunrise and sunset hours around the globe.

Scientists who tried to observe the comet from a plane over the Pacific Tuesday said it was brightening slowly, however, and might not even be visible to the naked eye tonight.

NEAR SUN
California Institute of Technology astronomers said the comet might only be following the behavior of a comet which passed near the sun in 1882.

That one virtually disappeared from view for two days before it reached the sun, then turned very bright and exploded into several pieces. This could happen to Ikeya-Seki, the Caltech astronomers said.

The airborne expedition, flying from Honolulu to Midway Island and back, hopes to observe the comet at sunset today when the plane is near Midway, and again at sunrise as it approaches Hawaii.

Mid-Pacific is one of the best places to view the comet during its hairpin loop around the sun. The other side of the earth will be in darkness during those hours. The swing-around also may be visible from Hawaii, New Zealand, Australia and parts of Asia.

WILL LINGER
Other parts of the world may be able to see the comet before and after the swing around.

Tonight the comet will linger in the sky a few minutes after the sun sets and will precede the sun above the horizon Thursday morning as the earth's rotation brings them into view.

At both sunset and sunrise around the globe, the horizon may block out the sun enough for the comet to stand out clearly, especially if it brightens to predicted intensity.

But comets are unpredictable, say astronomers, and this one is no exception.

One of the few men who got a good view of it from the plane over the Pacific Tuesday used a filter which screens out all light except that from sodium. This indicates the comet contains a lot of sodium, which the astronomers did not expect to find. The comet was believed to be made up largely of frozen nitrogen gas with some chunks of carbon-bearing space dust.

Best View at Sundown and Sunrise

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists say this is the way to get the best view of the comet Ikeya-Seki tonight, when it is expected to whip around the sun.

—Look in the direction of the sun tonight just after sundown—and at sunrise Thursday. If the comet is visible, it will be south of the sun at sunset and north of the sun at sunrise.

—Even if the comet's head isn't visible, you may be able to spot its 10-million-mile tail of frozen gases stretching halfway up the sky.

—Be careful, however, not to look while the sun is above the horizon, because direct sunlight can cause temporary or permanent eye damage.

—Regardless of your geographical location, you may be able to see the comet or its tail at sunset or sunrise. The actual swing around the sun will be visible only from the Pacific side of the earth.

Women Decide Product's Fate

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

For the second time this year, area homemakers participated in a state-wide study on consumer preferences.

Meeting with Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, consumer marketing agent, at the Oakland County Board of Education building Thursday morning and evening, the women evaluated six different items.

The results of these sessions, along with those of nearly 1,000 others, will be analyzed and presented to food producers, processors and distributors.

Two kinds of packaging were checked. The women were asked their preference between two egg cartons now being used and then to evaluate other types of cartons that might be used.

Fresh apples are packaged in two types of packs, pyramid and flat packs. Most of the women preferred the flat pack for easy storing.

Another Michigan product evaluated was apple juice. The question was on consumers' preference for light or darker colored juice.

Three new items were introduced: pickled peppers, a cheese product made with corn oil rather than butterfat, and two new varieties of mushrooms. The American housewife is the determining factor in the success or failure of any new food product. Consumer preference studies such as these in connection with Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service, can be of great help.

Conned Fillings Help

Whenever you want to make pudding or tapioca look like company best, remember canned fruit pie fillings. Pile the pudding and pie filling in tall parfait glasses or in small day his plant here converts serving dishes, or use the pie filling to circle a compote bowl of pudding.

Peach Pits Become Charcoal Briquets

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (UPI) — Until Robert T. Collier came along, California peach canners had a terrific problem: What could they do with their yearly output of 120 million pounds of peach pits.

They buried them, loaded them on barges and dumped them in the ocean. They tried feeding them to animals, and pulverizing them to flush into sewage systems.

But always there were more peach pits.

Collier, a Santa Clara manufacturer, took on the problem and decided they would make excellent charcoal briquets. To tall parfait glasses or in small day his plant here converts more than 500 tons of pits into charcoal for outdoor chefs each day.

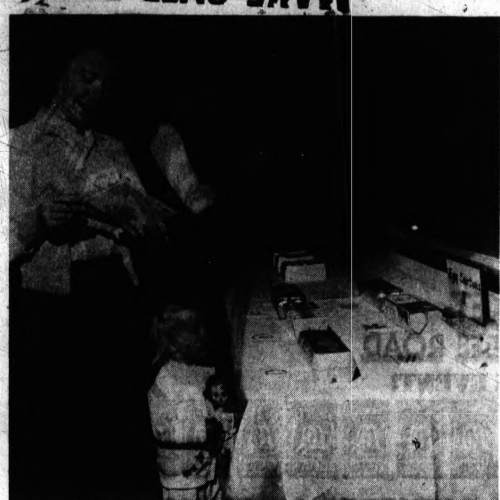

Cakes Are Centerpiece

When entertaining a large number of persons at a meal, fix a pretty centerpiece for your serving table.

Mix up two batches of white or yellow cake mix. Bake one large layer cake and frost with chocolate frosting. Place it in the center of a low cake plate. Put this in the center of a much larger round platter.

Bake the remainder of the cake dough in cup cakes. Frost these with assorted pastel shades of frosting with different flavors. Surround the big cake with these pink, yellow, green and blue small cakes.

Green onions, including tops, are a good source of vitamin C, vitamin A and iron.

High Temperature Browns Scallops

Scallops are a versatile sea-food that can be prepared in several different ways — all delicious. Whether they're broiled, baked, steamed or fried, their sweet flavor and rich tender meat make these succulent shellfish an always-popular seafood choice.

One of the lesser-known, but nonetheless good, methods of scallop cookery is high-temperature oven-frying. This method eliminates the careful watching and turning of pan-frying and the nuisance of deep-frying — yet it produces the desirable even golden-brown color and crispness.

To dress up a plate of savory scallops, serve them with Hollandaise Sauce. An ideal salute to the Fish 'n' Seafood Parade this month, Oven Fried Scallops with Hollandaise will please everyone. As an extra special flavor trick, add homemade seasoned salt.

OVEN-FRIED SCALLOPS
1 pound scallops
1 egg
1 tablespoon water
¼ cup dry bread crumbs
1½ teaspoons seasoned salt (or ½ teaspoon thyme, 1 tablespoon paprika, ½ teaspoon salt, and a dash pepper)

Wash and dry scallops. Beat egg with water. Mix bread crumbs and seasoned salt (or seasonings). Dip scallops one at a time into egg mixture then roll in crumb mixture.

Arrange in well-greased shallow baking pan. Bake at 500 degrees (very hot oven) 5 minutes. Make 3 to 4 servings.

Easy Hollandaise Sauce
Melt ½ cup butter or margarine over hot water. With rotary beater, beat in 1 egg, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt and a few grains of pepper.

Seasoned Salt: To make about

1 cup of seasoned salt to keep on hand, combine:
¾ cup salt
1 teaspoon thyme
1 teaspoon marjoram
1 teaspoon garlic salt
4 teaspoons paprika
½ teaspoon curry powder
2 teaspoons dry mustard
½ teaspoon onion salt

Scholars Like Hamburgers at Lunch Time

Hamburgers, whether served at home or in the lunch box, are always favorites with the school crowd.

Quickly prepared barbecued hamburgers give the "home-for-lunch" child renewed pep for a busy afternoon.

Brown hamburger patties on both sides in a small amount of hot fat; then simmer for a few minutes in a mild-flavored barbecue sauce, the American Meat Institute suggests. Serve in toasted buns.

For the lunch box, fry thin hamburger patties, cool, and place between slices of buttered bread which have been spread with a little mayonnaise.

Wrap a piece of lettuce in waxed paper to be put in the sandwich just before eating. Tuck a tomato in the lunch box to eat with the burgers.

French Fried Eggplant

Pare egg plant, slice and then cut into thin strips. Dip into fritter batter and fry in deep, hot fat.

We're a Nation That Guzzles Orange Juice

The average American drinks 28.2 gallons of orange juice a year, reveals a survey by the Home Juice Institute, Chicago. Children between the ages of 7 and 12 drink the most orange juice, the national survey found. People in their 30's "who become health conscious in their middle age" are second.

Senior citizens are next in line, the Home Juice Institute says, followed by youngsters under seven.

Women drink more orange juice than men, the Home Juice Institute survey disclosed.

The Home Juice Institute found that seven out of every 10 Americans drink at least one glass of orange juice daily. Nearly 80 per cent is consumed at home; the balance in restaurants and clubs.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture recommends at least one serving per day of citrus fruit, tomatoes or raw cabbage.

Two Breads Made in Jig-Time

"Oh boy, Mom's been baking!" is great to hear. But count on enthusiasm from dad as well, when you have either of these in the making.

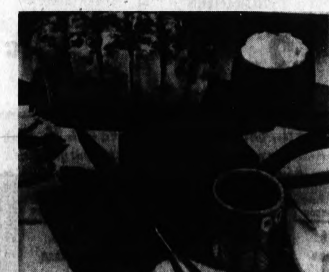

Nothing brings forth the compliments so much as fragrant homemade breads. And these jam dandy sensations are easy and fast to fix. One is a bread and preserves combination the whole family will enjoy, called "Jig Time Coffee Cake."

It's made from a loaf of unsliced bread, butter, preserves and chopped nuts — all ingredients you're sure to have on hand. Take your pick of preserves, as any of today's orchard-fresh treats will do the job.

The mixture of preserves and butter adds magic to the bread as it heats, and turns the edges and top a crispy golden brown. Serve it hot, and watch how it encourages better breakfast habits!

The other quick-to-fix bread makes use of a modern biscuit mix, and good, old-fashioned apple butter. For a moist all-occasion bread treat that keeps well, this is one you'll repeat often.

BREAD TREATS — In the background is coffee cake made with a loaf of unsliced bread and your favorite preserves. In front is a loaf of Apple Butter Bread. This is a quickie made with biscuit mix.

Jig Time Coffee Cake

1 unsliced enriched sandwich loaf
½ cup butter
1 cup apricot, pineapple or peach preserves
½ cup chopped pecans
Cut crusts from top and sides of unsliced loaf. Cut into squares, cutting to but not through the bottom crust. Cream butter until fluffy; beat in preserves. Add pecans. Spread over top, between slices and on sides of loaf.

Tie string around loaf to hold it together. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 15 minutes or until top is lightly browned and loaf is heated. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

"Sliced" bread may be used as follows: Remove crusts from bread and spread slices with butter and preserve mixture. Stack 3 slices and bake as directed. Cut into diagonal pieces to serve.

Apple Butter Bread

2 cups prepared biscuit mix
½ teaspoon soda
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup apple butter
½ cup chopped walnuts
Combine biscuit mix and soda. Cream shortening and sugar together; add eggs and beat well. Add biscuit mix and blend. Add apple butter and chopped walnuts. Mix well. Spoon into a greased and floured 9x5x3 loaf pan. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 50-55 minutes, or until done.

Purdue Mentor Says MSU Nation's Best

CHICAGO (AP)—Coach Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue praised his next opponent, Michigan State, as "the best football team in the United States" Tuesday.

The two unbeaten powerhouses clash in Lafayette, Ind., in a key game for the Big Ten crown and Rose Bowl trip. The Spartans are ranked No. 2 nationally and the Boilermakers, whose only blot on an otherwise perfect record is a 14-14 tie with Southern Methodist, are No. 6.

"Any team that can stop Ohio State's running and run over them (32-7) like the Spartans did must be the best in the U. S.," Mollenkopf told the Chicago football writers by phone.

Odds Jumping as Middleweight Title Bout Nears

NEW YORK (UPI)—The odds began to dance about like Joey Giardello at his best today indicating that New York State's prodigal boxing son may enter the ring at close to even money Thursday night when he defends his middleweight title against Dick Tiger.

A flow of "Giardello money" cut the 2-1 odds favoring Tiger to 8-5 Tuesday and if the trend continues the wagering may be 6-5 pick 'em by Thursday night's opening bell sounds in Madison Square Garden.

The late support for the 35-year-old champion apparently reflects a feeling that Tiger reached his peak a week ago when he hit 159 pounds. He was built back up to 162 and Tuesday hit 160 on the nose but some experts think he may have been weakened by the process.

Giardello, meanwhile, looks fit for a fight or a track meet. He's worked 170 rounds and done 150 miles of road work in preparation for the stolid, eager-punching Nigerian who lost the middleweight crown to Joey on a disputed decision 22 months ago at Atlantic City, N.J.

Central Tops Kettering in Cross-Country Meet

Pontiac Central used its second line runners yesterday to down Waterford Kettering 23-33 in a cross country meet.

Larry Hurst of PCH won in 11:10, followed by Kettering's Frank Limatta. Ernest Griffin of the Chiefs was third and PCH's Bob Dickie fourth. Fred Limatta was fifth for the Capitans.

Minnesota 11 Awaits U-M

Two Injured Gopher Players Returning

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Minnesota Gophers will be clearly at full strength for their homecoming battle with Michigan Saturday, for the first time since the Gophers' opener.

Chuck Killian, who sat out last week with a dislocated shoulder, returned to his starting center post Tuesday. Sophomore fullback John Williams, who missed the last three games, has moved up to the No. 2 team and is apparently recovered from a pulled hamstring muscle.

QUESTION MARKS

Only end John Rajala, with a leg injury, and left halfback Hubie Bryant, with a sprained ankle, are question marks, and they may see some duty. Rajala has seen no action since the opener. Bryant was injured last Saturday.

The Gophers worked outside Tuesday despite a rain. The routine workout saw the Gopher defense pitted against Michigan running plays, while the offense concentrated on blocking to establish a running game against the Wolverines.

Market Mixed

Some Stock Favorites Drop

NEW YORK (AP)—Some recent favorites were clipped in a mixed stock market early today. Trading was active.

Some of the airlines, electronics and specialty situation issues fell victim to profit taking. Motors were mixed.

Down about a point were Eastern Air Lines, Zenith, Eastman Kodak and United Air Lines.

SCM Corp., the most active stock for the past two sessions, continued strong, rising 1 1/2 to 51 1/2 on an opening block of 14,000 shares, but halving the gain in later dealings.

MOTOR RUMOR

CBS dropped about a point while International Telephone showed a fractional gain following denial of a merger rumor which accompanied a rise in both issues Tuesday.

Tuesday, The Associated Press Average of 60 stocks rose 1 to 50.8, a new high.

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Fractional gainers included Pyle National, Genesco, Barnes Engineering and Feltman Oil. Among losers were Aerojet-General, Universal Controls and Republic Industries.

Prison Inmate Charges Eyed

Rights Group May Probe Alleged Bias

JACKSON (AP)—Racial discrimination charges made by four Negro convicts who staged a brief revolt at Southern Michigan Prison may be investigated by the State Civil Rights Commission.

Prison officials said they planned security changes to prevent such an incident as Monday's revolt from happening again.

The prisoners, Martin Thomas, 20, Otis Adams, 27, Alvin Shaw, 24, and Edward Whitehead, 27, all of Detroit, are in solitary confinement. Officials said they would be held until the prison disciplinary board met Friday to study the case.

Damon Keith, cochairman of the Civil Rights Commission, said Tuesday he would recommend to the commission that it use its "initiation power to investigate the matter thoroughly."

DIFFICULT TO BELIEVE

Keith said he found it difficult to believe racial discrimination existed in an institution supported by public funds.

Only one of the four prisoners had any official business in the prison hospital where the brief uprising took place, said Louis Utes, administrative assistant to Warden George Kropp.

The four took four hostages, a stock of narcotics, and barricaded themselves inside the hospital for 5 1/2 hours. They were armed with knives, latrine buckets and other weapons.

There was only one man on duty at the drug cabinet when the rebellion took place.

"In the future that man won't be there alone dispensing drugs," said Kropp.

News in Brief

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies are investigating the theft of two shotguns valued at $125 from the cottage of James W. Watts, 2909 Cloverdale, Highland Township.
