U.S., Hanoi Open Talks in Paris Tomorrow

PARIS (AP) — U.S. officials today predicted long, hard bargaining with the North Vietnamese as American negotiators headed for the French capital with a mandate from President Johnson to sound out Hanoi's representatives on peace prospects.

★ ★ ★

An atmosphere of hope in Washington was tempered by the recollection that it took two years of tough bargaining with the Communists to end the Korean war.

No one cared to predict how long the Paris talks would last. The big question in American minds was whether the Communists really want a peace settlement or planned to use the talks only to press for a bombing halt and other advantages for their military campaign in South Vietnam.

W. Averell Harriman, President Johnson's envoy, and his chief aides were scheduled to arrive tonight from Washington.

★ ★ ★

Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese negotiator, came by way of Peking and Moscow.

The first meeting between Harriman and Thuy was scheduled for tomorrow in the former Majestic Hotel near the Arc de Triomphe.

U.N. officials expressed interest in French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville's speculation that the U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators might move on to broad talks on ending the war as well as the scheduled preliminary discussions on the question of halting U.S. bombing of the North.

★ ★ ★

U.S. authorities have made plain that Harriman would seek a military restraint by North Vietnam in return for what Hanoi lists as its priority topic: "The unconditional cessation of the U.S. bombing raids and all other acts of war."

★ ★ ★

French diplomats in contact with North Vietnamese officials say Hanoi is confident that it will be able to attain its prime objective in the talks—the evacuation of U.S. troops from South Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese are reported to feel that the United States will eventually agree to a phased withdrawal under the cover of a political compromise in the South.

The informants said this assessment is based on the feeling that the United States cannot carry on a "three-front war" resolving the Negro question, defending the dollar and winning the war in Vietnam.

Panel Calls on Area Businessmen to Hire Hard-Core Jobless, Youth

By ED BLUNDEN

The call went out yesterday for Pontiac area businessmen to provide 600 jobs for the hard-core unemployed and 6,000 summer jobs for youths.

The challenge was issued at a conference on Oakland County employment problems, held at Oakland University and attended by about 150 public and private executives. The conference was sponsored by OU and the Junior League Forum.

★ ★ ★

A group of speakers and panelists detailed the problem and what could be done in sessions which lasted four hours.

Spelling out the theme of the meeting, in an approach which was well-received and expanded upon by others, was Alfred Williams Jr., director of the Human Development Division of the Michigan Area Development Council.

LOCAL APPROACH

Williams urged a local approach to county employment problems, saying "forget government planners, intermediaries, college professors and politicians."

"The Negro has been programmed to death," he said.

★ ★ ★

Spelling out the long history of Negro exploitation in America, Williams, himself a Negro from Chicago, said it was time to correct the inequalities, "artificially, if necessary."

Williams explained how the local approach used by Muskegon businessmen had greatly helped the situation there. He said businessmen there went to the Negroes and asked, "What can we do to help?"

NEIGHBORHOOD CONCEPT

Committees of white and black persons were formed and the neighborhood concept set up. Working directly in the neighborhoods, the problems of the hard-core jobless and their social problems were being attacked, with a lot of success, according to Williams.

He insisted his desire was to work within the existing framework of the U.S.

★ ★ ★

"There's nothing wrong with the Constitution," he said. Helping the hard-core jobless is only a needed correction, he pointed out. "If you have a bad tooth, you don't pull all your teeth out."

Williams warned against lumping Negroes into mass characteristics and urged treating them as individuals. He told the businessmen it was to their own self-interest to provide jobs.

THINKING 'OBSOLETE'

This same idea of self-interest was hit upon by another speaker, Edward E. Barker Jr., president of Pontiac State Bank. He said it was time for business to do away with "obsolete thinking."

It is in the community's interest to develop more skilled labor, he said. "We are embraced in fulfillment of the American dream . . . envisioned by (the late) Rev. Martin Luther King."

Viet Reds Press Saigon Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — The enemy struck hard at Saigon from three sides today but a U.S. spokesman said American forces had smashed a Viet Cong drive to push into the capital from the south and east.

On the eve of Paris peace talks, however, the enemy drove closer to the center of Saigon than at any time since the new offensive was launched Sunday.

★ ★ ★

U.S. military spokesmen said 2,000 American infantrymen from the 9th Division, armored personnel carriers, helicopter gunships and dive bombers had broken up—at least for the time being—the drive from the south and east.

Helicopter gunships also wrecked two launching pads loaded with rockets less than a mile from the city.

BIG PUSH

A third enemy drive rolled up northwest of Saigon, sweeping aside two U.S. companies in the big push which officials believe is designed to bolster North Vietnam's hand at Paris.

The 9th Division infantrymen, known as the "Old Reliables," reported killing 131 enemy in a day-long battle that was still going on at nightfall.

★ ★ ★

"For the third consecutive day, the enemy was repulsed trying to enter Saigon from the south," an officer said. "More than 456 enemy have been killed in the last three days."

The U.S. Command announced 2,540 enemy soldiers had been killed by allied forces in fighting around Saigon since the Communist command's new offensive began. Against this, U.S. casualties were put at 53 killed and 487 wounded. South Vietnamese casualties were reported as 202 killed and 719 wounded.

The heavy fighting drove countless thousands of fearstricken civilians streaming across two bridges into the center of the city, and swelled the ranks of the homeless to more than 50,000. Some didn't make it as the toll of civilian dead and wounded mounted to more than 2,000.

State Counties Get Order to Redistrict

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Supreme Court ruled yesterday that counties must be reapportioned to allow election of supervisors on a one-man, one-vote basis.

The ruling struck down a section of the Michigan Constitution.

★ ★ ★

The tribunal did not indicate whether redistricting must take place this year,

See Related Story, Page A-2 saying the question of a timetable is "left open to future action and determination."

Acting a month after the U.S. Supreme Court extended the equal-population principle to local governments, the state court reversed a decision it made two years ago.

WILL INTRODUCE BILL

Six members of the eight-man court upheld a 1966 state law which requires county reapportionment, but did not involve itself with the difficulties which might arise as counties hasten to redraw their districts in time for the Aug. 6 primary.

★ ★ ★

State Rep. J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, said meanwhile he would introduce a bill extending from June 18 to July 1 the deadline for filing as a candidate for supervisor, giving counties that much longer to redistrict themselves.

★ ★ ★

Some counties have already drawn up redistricting plans under the 1966 act, which the Michigan high court struck down in April 1967. Others had apportionment schemes in progress and some have done nothing.

A majority of the Michigan court noted that it and other courts are required to give "promptly responsive obedience" to the federal ruling.

The U.S. decision, the state court said, strikes down a section of the Michigan Constitution which gives each organized township in a county, regardless of population, one representative on the county's board of supervisors.

★ ★ ★

Yesterday's Supreme Court majority included Chief Justice John Dethmers and Justices Eugene Black, Thomas M. Kavanagh, Theodore Souris, Michael O'Hara and Paul Adams.

Forming a minority of two were Justices Harry F. Kelly and Thomas Bren-

Jaycees Favor Open Housing

An overwhelming majority of Pontiac Jaycees voted last night to support the open housing ordinance which will be voted on by Pontiac residents at a referendum election June 24.

"If we believe in the Jaycee creed which says that 'the brotherhood of man transcends the sovereignty of nations' we have no choice but to support open housing," said James H. Gallagher Jr., Jaycee president.

★ ★ ★

"Although we do have a national law regarding fair housing and will probably have a state law shortly, it would not look good in the eyes of the nation and the state and particularly within our own community if the referendum were defeated," he added.

★ ★ ★

A lively half-hour discussion preceded the secret ballot vote.

"I urge all the citizens of Pontiac to get out and vote for the referendum," Gallagher said.

Many Jaycees feel passage of this referendum would enable the economic growth of Pontiac to increase, Gallagher said.

News Briefs off the Wires

LANSING (AP)—At least two recent murders in the metropolitan Detroit area have been attributed to loan shark activity, a state expert on organized crime told a Senate committee.

Vincent J. Piersante, chief of the state attorney general's organized crime division, gave the testimony during a hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Piersante testified in support of a bill which would make it a criminal offense punishable by up to five years in prison for anyone to charge interest of more than 25 per cent a year on any personal loan without legal authorization.

The former Detroit police officer said a loan shark racket, dealing in several million dollars a year, is operating in the Detroit area. The racket includes the use of musclemen, violence and invasion of legitimate business, he said.

'Health Woes Beset U.S.'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government health officials have pictured the nation as beset with burgeoning problems of alcoholism, mental illness, venereal disease and drug use.

On top of that, health-care costs are skyrocketing.

★ ★ ★

Testifying before a House subcommittee, the officials said:

- There are up to 6.5 million alcoholics and their number grows by 200,000 annually. A growing percentage are married, middle-aged women of the middle and upper classes.
- In a typical community of 150,000 population, where 3,000 children are born annually, one of five will require some form of mental health service and 240 will be patients in mental hospitals in their lifetime.
- Gonorrhea is out of control, with a 12 per cent increase in reported cases in each of the last few years. In some groups one of three have this venereal disease and don't know it.
- All economic and age groups are involved in taking the mind-expanding drug LSD, but it is falling off in colleges and high schools because of the publicity about its danger.

The testimony before a House appropriations subcommittee came from Dr. William N. Stewart, U.S. surgeon general; Dr. Stanley F. Yolles, director of the National Institute of Mental Health; and Dr. David J. Sencer, director of the National Communicable Disease Center.

★ ★ ★

Their statements, made in March, were released yesterday.

Dr. Carruth J. Wagner, director of the National Bureau of Health Services, told the subcommittee hospital costs will probably reach $100 a day within five years.

Egypt OKs Peace Talks

CAIRO (UPI)—Egypt agreed today to participate in Middle East peace negotiations in New York but ruled out direct talks there with Israel. Israel already had agreed to the indirect talks. A Cairo dispatch said the proposal to transfer the peace talks to New York was made by United Nations envoy Gunnar Jarring who has been conducting separate talks in Cairo and Tel Aviv in an effort to reach a settlement.

Canadian Chutists Lost

OTTAWA (UPI) — A Canadian paratroop training mission ended in tragedy yesterday when the 26-man force missed the drop zone and landed in Lake Allumette. One body was recovered and a search was under way today for six men missing and feared dead. A spokesman for Canadian Armed Forces Headquarters said the parachutists missed the target area by 1,000 yards and all but four landed in the lake.

Rescue Workers Near Trapped Coal Miners

HOMINY FALLS, W. Va. (AP)—After a frantic night of rumors and false alarms that rescue of 15 of 25 trapped coal miners was imminent, rescue workers reported today that they were within about 600 feet of the miners.

H. E. Sundstrom, director of the rescue operations, said the water level in the mine had receded enough to enable foreman Frank Davis and Bob Rudd —who had been marooned at another location—to rejoin a group of 13 other miners one-half mile closer to the entrance if they wished. A group of 10, deeper in the mine, is presumed dead.

★ ★ ★

The group of 13 men was located about a mile inside the tunnel, where they were trapped Monday noon when water cascaded through the entire mine after a wall to an adjacent abandoned, and flooded, mine was pierced.

However, Sundstrom said Davis and Rudd had chosen not to rejoin the others immediately, explaining that they were "warm, dry and comfortable" where they were.

SAVE ENERGY

Davis was quoted as saying he and Rudd did not want to expend the energy until rescue appeared imminent, when they planned to "head for the outside."

Meantime, Sundstrom announced that air was circulating through the entire mine, indicating that the water level has dropped below ceiling level in all of the mine tunnels, even at the lowest points.

★ ★ ★

Sundstrom indicated that the miners might be reached "anytime between noon and 6 p.m. (EDT)."

Sundstrom said two obstacles might impede the men's rescue, even after the miners are reached.

ABANDONED BUGGY

One obstacle is a water pump which is partially blocking the main shaft, the other a battery-driven buggy and two trailers abandoned by Ernest Fitzwater, the only miner who escaped from the flooded mine Monday.

Fitzwater said the buggy and trailers capsized in the mine tunnel when they were struck by flood waters, thus blocking the passageway.

★ ★ ★

However, Sundstrom said the escaping men might be able to bypass these obstacles on their way out.

About 100 persons, including the miners' families, remained at the disaster scene this morning after a crowd of more than 500 gathered about midnight as rumor spread that rescue was near.

Rescue officials warned that it might not be possible to bring the men out immediately. They have been cramped for more than three days in a cold, damp area where only a few could stand.

MEDICAL ADVICE — Dr. Lee B. Todd of Quinwood, W. Va., talks with one of 13 trapped coal miners using a radiotelephone, the doctor has been in contact with the men since Monday. Medicine is being sent down a five-inch breathing tube.

$6-Billion Slash Tied to LBJ Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees have agreed to President Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge but tied it to a $6-billion spending cut he has said is against the national interest.

The conferees said yesterday they had accepted these two key points the Senate approved more than a month ago.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the conferees as well as of the House Ways and Means Committee, voiced hope the group could complete work on other amendments to the bill at a final session today.

The income-tax increase is the 10 per cent surcharge proposal applying to individuals and corporations which the administration has pushed since August.

It would yield $10 billion yearly. It would last 15 months for individuals, from April 1 this year to June 30, 1969, and 18 months for corporations, retroactive from Jan. 1 this year to mid-1969.

About 17 million low-income taxpayers would be exempt.

Taxpayers who would be exempt are individuals owning no more than $145 in taxes or couples owning no more than $290. For instance, a married couple with two children and income less than $5,000 would be exempt.

WITHHOLDING SEEN IN JUNE

Withholding of the additional tax from individuals, if the bill is passed on the schedule its handlers are mapping, probably would begin in June. Draft versions of the bill would put new withholding schedules into effect 15 days after enactment.

Conferees said there is no intention of spelling out in the legislation's final form the exact places where the $6 billion spending cut for the year beginning July 1 will be applied. This would be left to the executive branch, which has indicated the cut would affect education, welfare, veterans' medical, model cities and other programs.

★ ★ ★

The draft legislation would exempt from the cuts Vietnam expenditures, veterans pensions and compensation, interest on the public debt and Social Security payments.

★ ★ ★

The $6-billion spending reduction proposal has drawn fire from Johnson and other administration officials.

County Board's Future Is Hazy

Oakland County still is uncertain about when and how its 87-member Board of Supervisors will be reapportioned.

That it will be eventually reapportioned is certain, due to U.S and state court decisions. And it will greatly change the nature of the county's government.

Board membership will be reduced to 27 and the southern, more populated areas will have far-heavier representations.

The latest decision came yesterday from the State Supreme Court. It altered the State Constitution provision allowing representation on boards of supervisors by each township.

ONE MAN, ONE VOTE

Last week, the State Appeals Court upheld the one-man, one-vote principle in county government.

On April 1, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled one-man, one-vote was mandatory for local government.

None of the courts ruled how and when the change was to be made. Still to be decided by state courts is an Oakland County case in which a proposed reapportionment formula was challenged.

Ex-Auto Exec's Wife Is Dead

The wife of the former chief engineer for Pontiac Motor Division, Mrs. Benjamin H. (Mary F.) Anibal, died Tuesday.

Service will be 11 a.m. tomorrow at Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co., Birmingham, with private burial in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery, Troy.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Anibal of 1435 N. Cranbrook was a member of the Episcopal Women's Club of Christ Church Cranbrook, the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association of Birmingham, the Coral Ridge Yacht Club of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., the Woman's Village Club of Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills and the Bloomfield Hills and Pine Lake country clubs.

AIDED OU

Surviving besides her husband are a daughter, Mrs. William H. Burgum; a sister, Mrs. J. L. McKee both of Birmingham; and a granddaughter.

Memorials may be sent to Mary Fogarty Anibal Scholarship Fund, Oakland University.

Mr. and Mrs. Anibal have been benefactors of Oakland University. Anibal House, a women's dormitory, was named in their honor and was financed through their gift of 1,000 shares of General Motor's stock to OU. In 1961 when the gift was made, the stock was worth an estimated $56,000.

Budget Is OK'd by Sylvan Lake

A fiscal year budget of $165,500 was approved at last night's Sylvan Lake City Council meeting.

Two assessments also were approved, both effective July 1. One is citywide, for major street improvements. The other is for people living on specific streets which need to be resurfaced.

★ ★ ★

The fourth consecutive Sylvan Lake weed control program will start again this month, council was told.

Residents of the city, part of Keego Harbor and the subdivisions of Pioneer Highlands, Beverly Island and Sylvan Shores annually contribute to a fund used to control the level of weed in Sylvan Lake.

CHEMICAL USE HEAVY

Approximately 160 gallons of the weed control chemical was used in 1967.

This was considerably heavier than treatment in previous years, but there were no reports of ill effects to any person, animal or vegetation, a program spokesman said.

Information regarding the program is available at Sylvan Lake City Hall, 1820 Inverness. Donations will be accepted there.

Negotiations on Police Pay Still Stalled

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — No meeting has been scheduled yet to reopen negotiations between this township and its unionized patrolmen, but indications are that a date will soon be set.

State labor mediator Leonard Bennet,, 8884 Cooley Lake Road, White Lake Township, said this morning that he is attempting to schedule a meeting.

★ ★ ★

Bennett explained that Atty. Winston Livingston, representing the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes (AFSCME), the patrolmen's bargaining agent, has been out of town and was to return today.

The mediator from the State Labor Mediation Board was called into the bargaining talks this week at the request of the union.

OFFER REJECTED

Contract negotiations, which have been proceeding since February, hit a snag Tuesday when the patrolmen rejected the township's latest contract offer by an 8-3 vote.

Howard Draft, a spokesman for AFSCME's Metropolitan Council 23, said the primary issue is wages and that the patrolmen felt that the township's top salary bracket should be comparable with neighboring departments.

However, Supervisor Homer Case said that with the exception of Detroit, the township's force is among the area's highest paid.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Citizens for Bloomfield Schools (CBS) a citizens' group organized to push for passage of the June 10 millage in this school district, has begun a block-to-block campaign under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Kuzma, 3810 Carriage, Bloomfield Township.

Mrs. Kuzma, a member of the CBS steering committee, said the campaign, to be called "People to People," will be designed to communicate the district's needs on a personal basis.

She ascribed the failure of the April 1 14-mill request, in part, to the absence of such a personal effort: "There was a definite lack of communication in presenting the 14-mill proposition, resulting in the failure of the public to comprehend the alternatives to passage."

H. Eugene Weiss, 2877 Courville, Bloomfield Township, CBS chairman, said the district, presently operating on a deficit basis, would have to make cuts even if the June vote, on 9.5 mills for one year is favorable.

20 PCT. CUT

"Without passage," he added, "the district must operate on $1.5 million less money — a 20 per cent reduction from current operation.

"Such a reduction, compounded by projected enrollment increases, would spell disaster for the school district. It is doubtful that the professional staff could survive such a pruning."

★ ★ ★

Chairman for the "People-to-People" campaign have been appointed in each of the district's seven precincts.

They are: Precinct 1, Mrs. Howard H. Fitzgerald, II, 4820 Echo, Mrs. Merle D. Polen, 1469 Sodon Lake, and Mrs. Elson Spangler, 1465 Sodon Lake; Precinct 2, Mrs. Dan DeGraff, 4116 Pomona Colony, and Mrs. Michael Puffer, 3853 Shellmarr.

OTHERS LISTED

Precinct 3, Mrs. Seymour Feuer, 532 Kingsley Trail, and Mrs. Herbert Beyer, 120 Denbar; Precinct 4, Mrs. Robert D. Carrie, 7435 Wing Lake, and Mrs. George D. Thomas, 6856 Sandalwood.

OU Caught in Funds Fight Between House, Senate

Oakland University appears to be caught up in a battle between the State Senate and House over how much operating funds to give the university.

A bill introduced on the House floor Tuesday put back in OU's 1968-69 budget $480,141 cut out by the Senate.

★ ★ ★

"This increase brings the budget request for Oakland back to the level requested by Gov. Romney," commented Rep. Donald E. Bishop, R-Rochester.

This is what has happened so far:

- The university's current appropriation is $4.4 million. OU requested $6.3 million for the next fiscal year.
- Romney at first recommended $4.9 million for OU and then after being confronted with university protests, he increased the figure to $5.2 million.
- Then the Senate passed a bill containing $4.7 million for Oakland.

The Senate bill would contain barely enough money to provide for 6 per cent increases in salaries and wages for personnel let alone funds for expected growth, OU Chancellor Durward B. Varner has said.

"This increase reflects the concern of the House over lack of funds appropriated in the Senate for a growing, progressive and dynamic young university," said Bishop who serves on a subcommittee of the House Appropriation Committee in charge of higher education bills.

★ ★ ★

"The increase allowed by the House Appropriation Committee is in line with the committee's attempt to maintain the quality of excellence which has developed at Oakland University."

Bishop pointed out that the university received only a 12.7 per cent increase in appropriations last year when enrollment went up 26 per cent.

"My major concern now is to get the Senate to agree to the improvements recommended by the House subcommittee," Bishop commented. "I trust the Senate will see the wisdon of our recommendations."

Artist's Conception Of Proposed Transfer Station

Report Due on Rubbish Transfer Trip

BIRMINGHAM — This city's rubbish transfer station study committee has returned from its trip to Seattle, Wash., and is scheduled to report to the City Commission Monday night.

★ ★ ★

No comment from members of the committee, which was formed March 11 to examine stations comparable to the one proposed on Coolidge by the Southeast Oakland County Incinerator Authority, appears likely until Monday's 8 p.m. commission meeting.

Mrs. M. Kenneth Conrad, 2252 Yorkshire, a committee member, said yesterday that the committee had "mutually agreed" to refrain from individual comment about the Seattle transfer station.

The committee met last night in the office of City Manager Robert S. Kenning to discuss their findings.

PANEL MEMBERS

The five-man group includes three city commissioners, William B. Saunders, Robert F. Page and William E. Roberts, as well as Benjamin Phelps, 1784 Taunton, Sheffield Estates representative, and Mrs. Conrad, representing Pembroke Estates.

The civic associations of Sheffield and Pembroke, the two subdivisions located nearest the site of the proposed station, have objected to the proposal, complaining that "odor, dust, rodents and traffic" would depreciate property values.

School Cuts Outlined for Farmington Voters

By BETTY ANN SCHULTZ

FARMINGTON — Cuts to be made in the school program if the millage proposal fails "are just as definite as the vote June 10," claims Farmington Schools Supt. Roderick Smith.

The cuts wer explained to the 130 residents attending a recent campaign kickoff meeting.

★ ★ ★

The request on the June 10 ballot is for a 4-mill increase for a 10-year period.

The program curtailments, labeled as "drastic" by the administration, aren't intended as threats to voters, Smith said.

WHAT IT COSTS

"We are just advising the people what it costs to continue the present level of education," the superintendent explained.

The $811,000 the 4 mills would bring in is necessary, he said.

★ ★ ★

The largest proposed cut ($399,300) would be 44 teachers. This would lead to the elimination of the elementary art and vocal music programs, said Smith.

It would also cause the abandonment of federally financed language arts programs in the elementary and high school and creative writing in the elementary.

ACCREDITATION THREAT

The teacher reductions may threaten the district's North Central Association accreditation, which aids graduates applying to college, Smith said.

★ ★ ★

The superintendent added that, in the event of a millage defeat, teachers now employed won't be released but some may be offered other assignments.

★ ★ ★

The second largest cut of $97,000 would reduce preventive maintenance — such as painting — to a minimum.

★ ★ ★

A decrease of $49,300 eliminates all interscholastic athletics and other extracurricular student activities except varsity football and basketball. The two varsity sports are self-supporting through admissions to games.

MORALE ENDANGERED

The elimination of sports, said Smith would definitely effect student and staff morale.

Other proposed cuts:

- $57,350 for data processing and other administrative functions.

★ ★ ★

- $34,200 for miscellaneous activities including athletic equipment, part of in-service teacher training, and some of the adult and summer education courses.
- $30,000 for instructional equipment including audio-visual office needs.

- $26,950 for library books and instructional materials.
- $17,000 for bus transportation for about 585 elementary students living less than 1½ miles from school. The bussing of these pupils is for safety reasons and isn't reimbursable by the state, explained the superintendent.

★ ★ ★

- $15,000 for half of the driver training program. The student left out will just have to wait, Smith said.

The program cuts were recommended by a committee of staff members and then approved by the board of education.

REASONS FOR HIKE

The millage hike is needed for two reasons: increased costs and an anticipated increase of 835 pupils.

The 4 mills would make the operation levy 29.4 mills and the debt retirement levy 7 mills.

★ ★ ★

If the 4 mills are approved, the 1968-69 budget would be balanced at $11,105,000.

The 1967-68 budget shows a deficit of $913,610. It will be covered by $1.2 million left over from the previous budget.

WEEK'S COST

The remaining $300,000 is only enough for a week's operation of the district, said Smith.

District voters defeated a 5-mill proposal for operations last November, but at the same time approved a $9-million bond issue.

The request for 1 mill less this time is because of an increase in the district's state equalized valuation. It is expected to be about $203 million for 1968-69. Last year it was $154 million.

★ ★ ★

Only property owners can vote on the millage issue, as the request is for over a five-year period.

By Troy City Commission

Fair-Housing Action Mulled

TROY — The City Commission here has agreed to study a possible "declaration of principal" opposing racial discrimination in housing.

However, while the commission voted unanimously to proclaim "Fair Housing Week" in Troy as requested by Gov. George Romney, commissioners expressed a general reluctance to consider either an open-occupancy ordinance of their own or an endorsement of other pending legislation at the state or national level.

★ ★ ★

Several speakers from the audience urged the commission at its most recent session to make at least a declaration in principle.

First, Daniel F. Monley, 405 E. Square Lake, and Howard Ebright, 500 Trinway, addressed the commission. Ebright offered a draft of a resolution supporting the principle of open housing, while Monley exhibited petitions which he said were signed by Troy residents and which offered support for an ordinance or declaration of principle.

A RESPONSIBILITY

Commissioner John Kokalis praised Ebright's resolution, saying, "I believe we all have a responsibility to look at ourselves and decide what we really are."

★ ★ ★

Kokalis then read a prepared statement calling for support of a declaration of principle, stating, "I believe we in Troy should support the right of any individual to live in our city."

★ ★ ★

Mayor Jule R. Famularo, while agreeing that there is a need for open-housing legislation, stressed the necessity of "uniformity." He added, "To deny this would be to invite chaos."

★ ★ ★

Famularo predicted passage of pending state and national legislation and said he thought the commission would "avow itself to enforce any law passed at the state and national levels."

★ ★ ★

"I would like time to jell my thoughts on this question, and to allow the rest of the commission to jell their thoughts," Famularo concluded.

Citizens Unit to Circulate Petitions Asking Cityhood

WOLVERINE LAKE — The citizens committee is to circulate petitions this weekend proposing home-rule cityhood for the village and part of Commerce Township, said Village Manager and committee head Clifford Cottrell.

Cottrell said he expects to have the required number of signatures (100) and submit the petitions to the Oakland County clerk early next week.

★ ★ ★

The nearly four square miles of the township considered are to the north, west and southwest of the village.

The area has about 500 residents, said Cottrell, who quoted the village population as about 3,000.

The proposal of these petitions is the same as that of the petitions declared invalid by the boundaries committee of the county board of supervisors last February.

MORE SPECIFIC

The only difference is that the current petitions state specifically that the area up for incorporation comprises at least 2,000 persons and at least 500 people to the square mile.

The original petitions were declared invalid because of the absence of those specific words.

★ ★ ★

A tentative $194,562 budget will be presented to the public at the Village Council meeting Monday night. The public hearing is set for June 10.

Cottrell points out that while more services are planned, there is no increase in the 8.5-mill village tax.

The proposed budget provides $5,800 for a fifth full-time policeman, about $115 per month for a life insurance and weekly indempity program for village employes, and raises for all employes.

The village fiscal year begins July 1.

Lake Orion OES Sets Benefit Sale, Dinner

LAKE ORION — A benefit sale from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. tomorrow and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday will be conducted by Lake Orion Chapter No. 340 OES at Allen's Furniture Store, 24 W. Flint.

The chapter will serve a roast beef dinner from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the Masonic Temple, Flint and Broadway. The public is invited.

Citizens Support School Policies

LAKE ORION — Agroup of about 20 citizens with Fred Cole, 233 Lapeer, as spokesman appeared unannounced at the board of education meeting last night to state their support for administrative policy.

★ ★ ★

Cole announced the people he represented had no complaint with the way the schools are operated.

★ ★ ★

The citizen appearance followed a meeting two weeks ago in which a group of disgruntled citizens charged unjust discipline practices were being used by the schools.

The complainants were accompanied by two representatives of the American Civil Liberties Union.

LETTER FROM ACLU

Schools Supt. Lewis F. Mundy said a letter outlining charges had been recieved this week from the ACLU. The board moved to set up a meeting with a four-member citizens' group and ACLU representatives to go over the charges. Results of the meeting will be made public at a later board meeting, Mundy said.

★ ★ ★

Most of the complaints center around the board's policy of suspending students on the third time they are suspected of smoking.

Fire Fighters Unit, Board Sign Pact

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Township Board and the local fire fighters association here have signed their first collective bargaining contract.

The association, Local 1721, is affiliated with the International Association of Firefighters.

The contract for the eight full-time firemen provides for a $950 raise over a three-year period. This puts the top salary at $8,100, said Donald Nelson, local association president.

Other benefits gained by the one-year contract retroactive to April 1 include more vacation, more holidays off and more pay for working on a day off, said Nelson.

★ ★ ★

Negotiations began about two months ago.

Trailer Camping Plea Back to Oxford Twp. Planners

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — A rezoning request which would permit summer trailer camping on 102 acres on Stanton Road, east of Baldwin, was referred back to the planning commission last night.

About 20 nearby residents appeared at the Township Board meeting to protest rezoning from agriculture to recreational.

The planning commission had originally approved the request, made by Billy Van Arsdel of Addison Township, but the county coordinating planning and zoning committee recommended denial.

★ ★ ★

Residents protested on the basis of what added traffic would do to already poor roads and the problems of police and fire protection for such an area.

NO ACTION TAKEN

No action was taken on sewer contracts with the Oakland County Department of Public Works in regard to construction of the proposed Paint Creek Arm of the Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor.

Supervisor Lee Valentine said such action would await a further meeting with county officials.

★ ★ ★

Valentine reported on a State Department of Conservation hearing last week regarding boat control on Stoney Lake. He said it had been recommended that the eastern part of the lake be closed to high-speed boating to protect two bathing beaches there.

Announcement of an $8,000 capital improvement program for township parks was made. The program will be financed with a ¾ mill levy approved by the people.

Distressed School Loan Bill OK'd by State Senate

LANSING (AP) — A bill to permit emergency state loans to financially distressed school districts passed the Senate Wednesday and was sent back to the House for concurrence in minor amendments.

★ ★ ★

The measure creates a $1.5-million pool from which districts in proven financial trouble could receive the emergency loans.

★ ★ ★

Provisions for repayment to tne state are included in the bill, enabling it to continue as a revolving fund able to pay out more than the $1.5 million specified.

The fund idea originally was conceived to help out the Inkster School District, near Detroit.

NOT ALONE

"But Inkster is not the only one in trouble," commented Sen. Frank Beadle, R-St. Clair, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

"There also are others who need the money."

★ ★ ★

Sen. Coleman Young, D-Detroit, said the loans will be, in effect, an advance on school aid payments.

"There are ironclad guarantees for repayment," he said.

BUDGET BALANCING

The measure further calls for school districts receiving such loans to balance their budget or face reorganization by the State Board of Education.

The bill was approved by a 31-1 vote with only Sen. James Gray, D-Warren, opposed.

★ ★ ★

The Senate also passed and sent to the governor for signing a measure permitting instruction on birth control in the state's public schools. This is a companion bill to a similar measure allowing general sex instruction previously approved by the Senate.

Local school districts are allowed discretion on approval of the sex education courses. The measure further provides that competent instructors must be provided.

★ ★ ★

Parents further can request that their children be excused from attending the classes.

Schools to Seek 5.5-Mill Hike in Huron Valley

A request for 5.5 mills for two years will be on the June 10 ballot in the Huron Valley School District.

The Board of Education last night unanimously approved the request as recommended by the citizens committee.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Charles Parks, committee chairman, presented the recommendation before the board. There were no objections from the audience which included 20 members from the committee, reported Mrs. David D. Horchler, a committee spokesman.

District residents now are taxed 23.6 mills for operation and 7 mills for debt retirement.

$70,000 PER MILL

Each mill is expected to bring in about $70,000, said Administrative Assistant Clifford A. Scherer.

The levy is planned to defray an anticipated $237,000 deficit and cover salary increases.

★ ★ ★

The committee meets tonight at 8 at Milford High School to consider the millage campaign.

In other action, the board selected the name Oxbow Community School for the yet unopened building previously known as the second or East elementary school on the southwest corner of Oxbow Lake and Elizabeth Lake roads.

HEADSTART PROGRAM

The board decided to establish a Headstart program for 15 pupils this summer in cooperation with the Pontiac branch of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The board is having studied the three bids it opened for the additions and renovation of the Highland School. The bids came in about $100,000 more than an estimated project cost of about $780,000, said Trustee Harry Porter.

Shelby Postpones Decision on COG

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has "postponed for further study" the question of whether to become a member of the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (COG).

The board delayed a decision on COG membership after hearing a presentation on behalf of the intergovernmental organization by its chairman, Supervisor William L. Mainland of Milford Township.

★ ★ ★

Mainland urged the board to join COG, stating that if Shelby failed to "get together with its neighbors in adjoining communities, sharing experience and knowledge," it would be "inviting the imposition of a metropolitan super government which will make decisions."

Better to join other communities in coordinating planning and avoiding duplication of effort, the chairman added.

GREAT CHALLENGE

"The great challenge for the future is in our hands — it is the responsibility of getting people to work together and live together," he said.

Shelby Supervisor Kirby Holmes noted that the board had received a letter from the Shelby Republican Club, asking that the question of COG membership be put to a public vote.

★ ★ ★

"Before paying dues," Holmes continued, "we will have to ask ourselves what the benefits would be for Shelby Township. If there are benefits to be gained, I would assume we would join."

The supervisor went on to list several unusual attributes of the township: its police and fire departments, retirement system, parks and recreation, and other services.

★ ★ ★

"If the primary concern of this organization is to review federal aid requirements," Holmes said. "It isn't likely to help us in the items mentioned."

Mainland, however, theorized that the advantages listed might have resulted from the cooperative attitude of preceding township governments, and concluded. "We aren't seeking to be specific, but to build a solid basis for future achievement."

SPRUCING UP—It's that time again to decide if you need that extra but old, old bed, the tires you thought could be repaired, and the second-hand building materials time prevented you from using. Several local governments around the county including Wolverine Lake, Wixom and Walled Lake are giving residents a helping hand with spring cleaning via a special junk pickup this Saturday. Junk is to be at roadsides early in the morning in most instances.

'Hire Jobless,' Area Panel Asks

Michigan Employment Security Commission, advocated the principle of "hiring from the back of the line."

Lovell, a Grosse Pointe resident, is formerly from Birmingham and was on the Birmingham School Board. He said it was time to take another look at hiring standards. He urged taking on the seemingly unemployable and working with them and training them "to break the cycle of poverty."

LOCAL ROLE

Harry Hall, president of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, detailed the role that could be played by local agencies. He said Oakland County was "fortunately" comparably small. A program could be worked out here that would be a pattern for the whole country, he said.

★ ★ ★

He urged a program of counseling, training and planning. For instance, he said many hard-core jobless need to learn or relearn "the responsibilities inherent in working for a living." He said it was up to each county employer to hire the most possible cases, in their own "self-interest."

★ ★ ★

Lloyd Hanes, representing the National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB), said: "It's time to stand up and be counted."

He offered NAB pledge cards to be signed by businessmen who offer to hire a certain number of the unemployed.

GOAL OUTLINED

He said NAB nationally was seeking to put 1.5 million of the hard-core jobless to work by 1970. He said the goal for this summer was to get summer jobs for 200,000 youths.

★ ★ ★

He pointed out the large firms, such as General Motors, have already taken a large role, but the smaller firms are needed to meet the objectives.

★ ★ ★

In the Pontiac area, he said, NAB was seeking 600 new jobs this year and 6,000 summer jobs for youths.

A representative of Pontiac Negro youth, Kenneth Walker, who participated in the concluding discussion, said he thought the conferees "sounded sincere."

HELP OFFERED

Walker, chairman of the education committee of the Pontiac Organization of Black Youth (POOBY), urged the businessmen to hire more black personnel men.

"Blacks should be hiring blacks," he said. Walker said his organization, POOBY, could help in locating the hard-core jobless.

E. Eugene Russell, president of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce, another panelist, said "It's our turn to go to them (the jobless), and it's going to be a chore."

★ ★ ★

Some participants, however, warned about undue optimism, pointing out jobs alone was not the entire problem.

Zoo Tiger Eats 'Gift' Peacock

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Some kids tossed a peacock into the tiger grotto at the Portland Zoo, and no more peacock.

"You can't blame the tiger," said zoo Director Jack Marks. "Peacocks are a natural food for the tigers in India."

★ ★ ★

He said about 1,800 school children toured the zoo during the day.

The tiger was lady, a 10-year-old female, one of three tigers in the grotto.

Harriman Off for Paris, Talks

He Calls on N. Viets to Match Sincerity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador W. Averell Harriman headed for Paris today with a call on North Vietnamese negotiators to match the Americans in "a spirit of hope, sincerity and good will" in searching for a peaceful solution to the Vietnam war.

"If the other side matches that spirit," Harriman said, "Progress can be made toward a peaceful settlement which the people of the world and of the United States hope for."

The veteran diplomat, head of the U.S. delegation to the historic Paris talks with North Vietnamese envoys, made a brief departure statement at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md.

Harriman and other members of the six-man U.S. delegation were transatlantic hitchhikers on a U.S. Air Force transport taking Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford to a NATO defense meeting in Brussels, Belgium. Clifford declined comment.

Harriman refused to predict for a newsman when he might return from the sessions with the North Vietnamese opening in the French capital Friday, or whether he would reach a peace agreement with the Communists.

"I wasn't hired to be a crystal ball gazer," the experienced diplomat replied.

Harriman said he hopes to call on French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and then expects to see for the first time his opposite member from Hanoi, Xuan Thuy, probably Friday afternoon.

His plane is due in Paris tonight.

House Unit to Reopen Probe of Army M16 Rifle Pacts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special House Armed Services subcommittee that investigated the M16 rifle a year ago will reconvene to examine what its chairman calls "unrealistically high" prices in two new procurement

Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., said Wednesday his subcommittee also plans to ask the Army why it rejected the bid of an arms manufacturer whose price was $20 million below that of one successful bidder, General Motors.

★ ★ ★

"I believe the public is entitled to a full explanation of the matter and we intend to examine the whole matter in detail," Ichord said.

★ ★ ★

The subcommittee, which charged in its report last October that the M16 program had been "grossly mismanaged," will reopen hearings next Tuesday.

LOW BID

The latest M16 furor erupted after Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., told the Senate that Maremont Co., of Saco, Maine —sole supplier of the Army's M60 machine gun—failed to get one of two contracts awarded despite its offer to supply 240,000 rifles for a ceiling price of $136 million.

Instead two-year contracts for production of 240,000 rifles each were awarded to Harrington & Richardson of Worcester, Mass., at a ceiling price of $42 million and to Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors, Ypsilanti, Mich., for $56 million.

Hundreds Battle Blazes

KALKASKA (UPI) — Hundreds of fire fighters labored into the early morning hours today, battling sporadic outbreaks of fires that destroyed upwards of 2,000 acres of woodland in Kalkaska and Crawford counties.

Woodland and grassland in a line about six miles long and two miles wide at the widest point were hit by the fires Wednesday. There were no reports of injuries and very little damage to the few buildings in the area.

★ ★ ★

The biggest fire was fanned by strong winds that gusted to 40 miles an hour late Wednesday. Flames leaped from tree to tree and fire fighters were unable to set up a fire line because of the intensity of the blazes.

Fire fighters, numbering in the hundreds, finally brought the blaze to a point where it was declared partially under control by late Wednesday. But a close watch was kept on the area through the night as isolated areas continued to burn.

"You couldn't get ahead of this fire," said Kalkaska County Sheriff Earl Woodman. "We ran parallel to the fire and tried to find a place to take a stand. We didn't want to jeopardize men or equipment."

Voters Rally to Support of Schools

In the second largest election turnout in the history of its school district, Waterford Township voters gave resounding support to continuance of the 15-mill school tax levy. The levy, approved in 1963, now runs through 1983.

On the issue, which carried by a 3-to-1 margin, depended the very life of the township's school system on modern standards.

★ ★ ★

The result was particularly gratifying to both the citizenry and the educational establishment since a proposed 7½-mill increase was defeated last November 2-to-1.

Although the favorable electoral action will not provide Waterford's school district with funds essential to its expansion in keeping with present and future requirements, it nonetheless represents an unmistakable vote of confidence in the status quo.

★ ★ ★

The PRESS commends Waterford Township's affirmative response to an appeal vitally affecting the development of its future citizens and the community image as well.

Gov. Lurleen B. Wallace

A gallant lady lost her two-year battle against one of mankind's dread enemies when Alabama Gov. LURLEEN B. WALLACE died of cancer Tuesday.

MRS. WALLACE

Particularly shocking to a Nation saddened by her fate is the fact that she succombed in the full flower of life, at 41.

It is ironic that Mrs. Wallace, who succeeded her husband in office a short 16 months ago, had been distinguished for her compassion for the afflicted and the victims of adversity.

★ ★ ★

We can only accept the belief that she fulfilled the mortal mission ordained by the Almighty, leaving behind a personal monument of fortitude and devotion to family and duty.

WHO Fights Global War Against Disease

The World Health Assembly, governing body of the World Health Organization, marks the 20th anniversary of WHO in Geneva. The assembly will spend a fortnight discussing the coming year's budget and programs. The length of the meeting is dictated by the fact that all member countries present progress reports. Today there are 129 WHO members as compared with 53 at the organization's founding in 1948.

WHO, a specialized agency of the United States, attracts little attention as it pursues its elusive goal. This is nothing less than "the attainment by all peoples of the highest level of health." WHO has done remarkable work in checking such dread diseases as polio, leprosy, cholera, malaria, and tuberculosis.

WHO's major current project is eradication of smallpox by 1976. The organization calculates that only $180 million would be required to reach that objective.

Meanwhile, there has been an ominous increase in other communicable diseases. WILLIAM BURROWS, professor of microbiology at the University of Chicago, recently reported that cholera has spread from Southeast Asia into the Middle East and is now near Europe. Bubonic plague — the "black death" of the Middle Ages — also is on the rise in Southeast Asia.

★ ★ ★

The price of the world's health is not to be measured so much in dollars as it is in unceasing vigilance.

Experts See, Hear Defects of Presidential Hopefuls

The election campaign could stand some color, says the Los Angeles Times. It could use a little more tone, too, adds the Wall Street Journal.

Or, more accurately, so say those behind-the-scenes image makers, the make-up men and voice coaches.

★ ★ ★

The Times, noting there are now nearly 30 million color television sets in American homes, relays the opinions of a make-up artist on several candidates:

- If Ronald Reagan is doing his own make-up, he shouldn't. Richard Nixon has the problem of toning down a heavy beard, but not so much that it looks worked on. George Wallace looks pretty grim without the right make-up, especially in color.
- Eugene McCarthy could use some red in his face to give it warmth. So could Hubert Humphery. Nelson Rockefeller also looks a little "pasty." Robert F. Kennedy needs a haircut.

As for the "oral communications experts," they are convinced President JOHNSON's voice was a principal reason for his decision not to seek re-election, says the Journal. It had become so grating to many people that the more they heard him, the less secure they felt about him. He no longer sounded like a President.

★ ★ ★

The worst candidate of all, voice-wise, is Kennedy, who sounds too much like Bugs Bunny. He could stand a dash of chest resonance. NIXON speaks in too much of a monotone and both ROOCKEFELLER and MCCARTHY make the mistake of raising their pitch when they want to emphasize a point.

Now, as for the issues . . .

Singing Teens Restore Faith in Youth

By JERRY ROBBINS
City Editor

A group of Mason Junior High ninth graders has helped restore my faith in the younger generation.

ROBBINS

Until recently my opinion of youngsters was dipping near rock bottom.

I felt this way primarily because too many teen-agers and young adults across the Country have been:

- Protesting one ridiculous thing or another at colleges and universities.
- Burning draft cards.
- Taking LSD trips.
- Turning into bathless hippies.

★ ★ ★

Although I still have second thoughts on where many of our teens are heading, the Waterford Township Mason students made me realize not everyone under 25 is a protesting drug addict with long sideburns and unwashed clothes.

These students, under the direction of Mel Rookus, presented a musical program that captivated the audience from the first number to the last.

★ ★ ★

It was a pleasure to sit back and listen to these 38 young voices sing out with some of the toe-tapping favorites of yesterday and today.

It was equally rewarding to see no long sideburns, beards, shabby clothes or unscrubbed faces. All of these youngsters are a credit to their generation.

★ ★ ★

In all probability, the hippies and protesters will be around for a long time. And chances are more draft cards will be burned and more LSD trips taken.

But thanks to Mel Rookus' Mason students and thousands of others like them I'm confident the younger generation isn't skidding toward oblivion.

David Lawrence Says:

Futility of Primaries Stressed

WASHINGTON — Sporadic primaries — meaningful to some observers and meaningless to others — are expensive for the candidates, and do not necessarily indicate who will be nominated by either party.

LAWRENCE

Every candidate can derive some satisfaction from the Indiana primary this week.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York didn't get a majority of the Democratic votes, but he did get more than either Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota or Indiana's Gov. Roger Branigan, who is presumably a supporter of Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

Perhaps the most important effect is what significance is being attached to the Indiana results by the delegates in other states of the union which do not have primaries.

★ ★ ★

There is certainly no sign that any of the Democratic aspirants has the nomination tied up. Nor can former Vice President Richard M. Nixon be sure that Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, who has entered the race but is not participating in the primaries, will not develop a strong organization at the national convention and become a formidable competitor.

There are few states which have primaries, and their chief value is to give each of the candidates a chance for nationwide publicity prior to the conventions.

NOT MEANINGFUL

The speeches being delivered today, however, may not be pertinent by the time the conventions are held in August, as the issues before the country may be even more complex than they are now. The country will want to know then how each candidate stands.

This could have much more meaning than what was said to the Indiana voters in the campaign prior to this week's primary.

★ ★ ★

Maybe the primaries this year will serve a useful purpose in demonstrating to the people the futility of the present formula.

In a statement just issued, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Democratic leader, says that "the tragedy of primaries is that in reality they mean very little." He points out that they are not always binding on the delegates.

HUGE EXPENDITURE

He calls attention to the tremendous amount of money they cost each candidate, and says that in a sense primaries are "auctions on a temporary basis."

He adds: "Personally, I would like to see primaries, if they are going to be maintained, conducted in all states on a certain day and under rigid limitation of expenditures, rather than to continue the haphazard expensive procedure which is now followed.

"If this were done, it would mean, in my opinion, that the national conventions, at which the delegates — and not the people — make the choice, could be done away with."

Bob Considine Says:

Negro Students Charge White U.S. Killed King

BERKELEY, Calif., — Are you aware that you, if you are white, killed Dr. Martin Luther King?

CONSIDINE

Michele Francis, a beautiful Negro girl who is a senior in political science at the University of California, told us that today as we sat with her on the porch of the faculty club.

★ ★ ★

"I can feel only disgust over white America," said the girl whose fiance is a captain now commanding troops in Vietnam, mostly white troops.

"Why kill the best friend of the white people in this growing racial crisis?" she asked, filled with quiet fervor. "Don't say you didn't kill him. His killer was produced by white society.

"Martin Luther King believed in the ability of his people to dignity in the United States if given an opportunity. That's all he asked for, an opportunity. The rest was up to us. But you killed him."

WANTED OPPORTUNITY

Norman Wilkerson, a senior in English from Columbus, Ga., recognized as one of the top men on the campus in his field, said he'd like to say something, too.

★ ★ ★

"The incident changed my perspective toward white America. I've since then held white America responsible for Martin Luther King's death, not the man who killed him.

"The man who killed him felt he had white America's backing: It would support him, sustain him somehow, and there wouldn't be anything that black America could do about it."

'TURNS YOU OFF'

We asked how they were getting along on a largely white campus. James Page, a highly respected graduate student in law from Los Angeles, poured himself a Danish beer and fielded the question.

"The liberals backslap you, and that turns you off," he said with a wry smile. "So do the professors who make you a special case, or experiment with you. That turns you off, too.

★ ★ ★

"The people who come to you and say that it's a shame the way the blacks have been treated, and say they're going to go straight to the nearest ghetto and try to 'do something,' well, they turn you off, too.

"I tell those good people that the problem isn't in the ghetto: That it is they — the forces that sustain the ghetto."

In Vietnam:

U.S. Must Use Mobile Strategy

By RAY CROMLEY

This is the time to look back at the siege of Khe Sanh and see the lessons learned.

The more we can learn in hindsight, the better we will be able to meet Ho Chi Minh's next moves in this complicated war.

CROMLEY

By pinning down U.S. forces at Khe Sanh, Ho cut down military interference on the ground with his troop-supply movements and thus reopened major infiltration routes for the North Vietnamese southern expeditionary forces.

★ ★ ★

The irony of this was that the Khe Sanh defense was set up in this important infiltration area to block the Communist supply routes. But Ho felt no need to "break" through.

He forced U.S. troops into a "tight" perimeter—fixed them in one spot — and then moved around and forward at a stepped-up pace with comparative freedom.

We thus fell into Ho's trap.

Likewise, the Tet offensive forced U.S. and South Vietnamese forces and pacification teams back into the cities temporarily.

★ ★ ★

The Communists were thus able to move freely in the countryside to resupply their rural weapons and ammunition-short forces with new equipment and sizable supplies, food and salt.

It also made possible the wide-open recruiting or commandeering of new troops and "volunteers."

Against this type of Communist tactics, what is wanted is not a fixed base, but a mobile strategy which would enable us to hit the North Vietnamese and retire quickly. The United States has this capability and uses it for other operations.

★ ★ ★

Lao officers with long experience in guerrilla warfare told this reporter they could not understand why at Khe Sanh we didn't take advantage of the Communist build-up there to reverse the tables.

We could have made lightning commando raids behind the Communist lines, striking hard and fast with airborne troops to hit the North Vietnamese from the rear, then getting out fast before being trapped.

Major convoys from the north in large numbers could have been ambushed by mobile troops. Airborne infantry equipped for hit-and-run tactics could have made ruinous attacks on these convoys. U.S. forces have demonstrated in a number of places their ability to ambush, mine and carry out effective hit-and-run attacks on Red convoys, especially where the Communist movements have been channelized on major routes.

★ ★ ★

A similar mobile strategy is needed to meet Communist Tet-type offensives. There are not enough U.S. and South Vietnamese forces to occupy cities permanently and keep the Communists from making sudden raids — as at Tet — and still carry on the war in the countryside.

But with proper intelligence input, it is possible to move Allied forces in rapidly to meet a quick Communist "cities thrust" and move out fast again to hit the Red movements in rural regions which are certain to follow each city raid.

★ ★ ★

Otherwise, the Communists will continue to use the same shuttle tactics against us that they employed so successfully against the French.

Appreciate Interest in Display for Law Week

The Waterford Township Police Officer's Association expresses appreciation to the Pontiac Mall management for extending the space for our display for National Law Week. We commend the Mall management for a fine job it is doing to make the Mall a safe place to shop. Although there have been isolated instances which raised some doubts in the shoppers' minds about the safety of shopping there, the Mall management is doing everything possible to keep this to a minimum.

We praise the public for stopping to talk with the officers at the display. We hope we were able to answer the questions and that people have a better insight into law enforcement.

Asks Questions About Schools in Waterford

Recently a Catholic parent asked why they should be concerned with public school millage. The answer was that many Catholic children receive help such as corrective speech, and some students have classes in public schools. I'd like to know where in Waterford Township this goes on. We are not getting this in our school. Are there some Catholic schools that are?

JUST WONDERING

Comments on Attitudes Toward Education

In regard to more taxes for schools and colleges, the performance of students doesn't give much credit to our educational system. If students go to high school or college with the idea they know more than the school officials, they waste both the teachers' and their own time, besides taxes. Let those who know they want an education go to school and the so-called smart guys get out.

'Nonresidents of Pontiac Need a Fair Deal'

As a nonresident of Pontiac, paying one-half of one per cent income tax, do I still have to pay the ten per cent surtax on services performed for me by Pontiac General Hospital? If I am not mistaken, this same hospital received a Federal grant in the area of $90,000 for modernization and improvements—and where does Federal money come from? How about a fair deal for the nonresident who is forced to pay every week.

Question and Answer

Taxes (real estate, gasoline, sales, etc.) as well as interest payments are not considered part of one's taxable income for Federal tax purposes. Why must we pay a tax on taxes to the City of Pontiac?

DISGRUNTLED

REPLY

City Finance Director Gallagher tells us that is the way it was set up by the State Legislature, which tried to make the tax as simple as possible for cities to administer. They allow only one type of deduction ($600 per exemption) except for corporations, partnerships, persons owning businesses, all of which can take the same deductions as for Federal taxes.

It's Beneficial to Taxpayer in Long Run

IRS Data-Processing System Is Explored

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of two parts on the Internal Revenue Service.)

Many taxpayers look upon the Internal Revenue Service's recently created Automatic Data Processing system as a computerized ogre.

What bothers John Q. Taxpayer most is the system's computer nerve center which houses details of each man's most intimate financial dealings.

IRS officials believe a knowledge of the ADP's mechanics and the ADP's effects on Mr. Taxpayer would dissolve much of the fear.

★ ★ ★

A return is dropped in the mailbox.

Taxpayers expecting a refund sent their forms directly to the service center in Cincinnati, Ohio.

PAYMENT DEPOSITED

Taxpayers sending a remittance due have addressed their forms to the district office where the tax payment is removed and deposited before the form is passed on to the service center.

Next, illegible forms are translated and all are given to a key-punch operator.

★ ★ ★

The operators who work in shifts around the clock, transcribe the basic information onto a key-punch card.

The cars are fed into the computers which automatically verify all mathematical computations and reduce the record to two inches of magnetic tape.

CLICKETY CLACK

The computer's typewriters then clack out errors at the rate of 900 lines a minute or faster.

The computer tape is forwarded to the National Computer Center in Martinsburg, W. Va., home for six million business master files and 72 million individual master files, all on magnetic tapes.

★ ★ ★

The two-inch strip becomes a part of each individual's file which contains all of his tax transactions for the last three years.

The file details what returns each man must file, when and if he has done so, how much income he has received, and his total debit or credit balance for all classes and periods of tax. Previous audits and accepted deductions are also listed.

DATA IS MATCHED

The information on the two-inch strip is also matched against information reported by the individual's employer, banks, insurance companies and stockbroker.

The computer will indicate any discrepancies, failure to file a return, or multiple filings for refunds.

★ ★

Finally, checked returns calling for refunds are placed on a tape used by a treasury dispursing office computer to issue refund checks.

Other taxpayers' numbers are placed on tapes which are then used by service centers to issue bills, select returns for audits, compile directories and indexes, and develop reports and statistics to be used for government and private studies.

★ ★ ★

The original returns are then filed at district offices and become available again for taxpayer contacts.

Despite this new behind-the-scenes automation of the tax system, John Q. Taxpayer will detect little difference in his personal contacts with the IRS.

ON FILE

He also will benefit from the magnetic inches of up-to-date information as he will no longer have to explain repeatedly items like dependent parents and scholarships since they will already be on the tape as previously accepted deductions.

IRS agents generally agree that the computer system should promote increased voluntary compliance with tax laws because the greater probability of detection.

★ ★ ★

The IRS claims it received an $86-million payoff which could be traced to operations of the computers last year, and it expects more of the same this year.

This is tax money which would have gone uncollected under the old system of handling returns, according to an IRS spokesman.

THREEFOLD RISE

The spokesmas said the additional tax take represented a threefold rise from the $27 million in extra collections attributed to the computers in 1966.

According to an IRS spokesman, John Q. Taxpayer wins with the system because he knows that he's not paying more than he should and the number of irritating errors and repetitive requests for additional information should be breatly reduced.

★ ★ ★

The 'not-so-honest' individual, however, may find the computer catching up on him.

The classic story told is of a truck driver who once filed 125 returns, 19 of them in the Southeast region already using ADP. The multiple returns were quickly detected by the computer and the man apprehended at a post office in Miami while waiting for another refund check, as an IRS spokesman explained.

The computerized system resulted from the IRS's growing realization that the volume of work was increasing about four times as rapidly as the number of workers in the past 30 years.

Future Cars Just May Be Held by Glue

DETROIT (UPI) — Last year an American automobile with many of its body parts gued together won the gruelling 24-hour LeMans Race.

And some of the cars coming off the assembly lines today have parts held on by glue.

★ ★ ★

So far the glue concept for sticking cars together is being utilized only in small ways. It is confined to sticking on nameplates and trim items.

But the automotive engineers believe this may be the start of what they call the "adhesive era" when production line cars litterally will be glued together.

FORD PIONEERS

Ford Motor Co. has pioneered in this. Engineers for Ford teamed with an adhesive tape maker to come up with a double-coated foam adhesive tape with super strength to be used in place of metal fasteners in attaching certain exterior trim parts to painted steel surfaces of new vehicles.

Things like the letters of the neameplate and stainless steel center pillar moldings.

★ ★ ★

The new technique saves a lot of operations required by the old bolt-on system, such as punching or drilling holes in the metal panels. As an added benefit, it also eliminates the rusting that frequently takes place at these holes.

Public Employe Strike—1

Militancy Touches Everyone

By ROGER DOUGHTY
Urban Affairs Editor

MATINICUS ISLAND, Maine—(NEA)—On a clear, cold morning recently, on one of those days when the song insists you can see forever, Dadgh Hanna, the only teacher at the tiny school on this little lump of land 20 miles off Maine's rock-bound coast, saw his career come to an end.

Hanna took himself out on strike. It wasn't much of a strike, strictly a personal thing as far as Hanna was concerned, but he had plenty of company.

★ ★ ★

At the same time 25,000 of Florida's 60,000 teachers walked off the job; Pittsburgh's Board of Education sought a contempt citation against striking teachers who managed to shut down 24 junior and senior high schools; children in the St. Louis suburb of Wellston found their schools closed and their teachers on the picket line; Gov. Dewey Bartlett of Oklahoma huddled with legislative leaders in an attempt to push through a $37-million program in hopes of ending a statewide teachers' strike; 1,500 members of the San Francisco Federation of Teachers, about a third of the city's public school staff, left their jobs in protest, causing classes to be placed on a half-day schedule; the 25 public schools of Manchester, N.H., were closed by a one-day teachers' walkout.

NO UNION

For his eforts to improve what he called "the deplorable conditions of our school," Hanna was fired. He didn't belong to a union.

For seeking less noble goals — more money in most cases — the other strikers lost nothing but a day's pay, which their unions promptly promised to make up to them in strike benefits.

★ ★ ★

Few people talked about taking away their jobs.

But teachers aren't the only unionists to rebel against the public recently.

GONE FOREVER

"Time was," says a New York lawyer, "when industrial unions were the only ones that would dare to strike. The civil service workers felt that a strike would be a violation of their obligation to the people of their city. Those days are gone forever. The spirit of militancy has touched everyone."

It has touched transportation workers, who have idled city-owned buses and New York's subways; welfare workers who have decided that they have to look out for their own welfare too; nurses and doctors, who have prescribed remedies for their own ills; sanitation workers, even policemen and firemen, who have as their bargaining power the safety of the very citizens against whom they strike.

★ ★ ★

While the nation's city officials work feverishly trying to anticipate where the next strikes will come from, civil service union leaders covet the success of their counter-parts around the country and warn that they'll be tougher to deal with in the future.

The public reacts with apathy to the problems of service employes, say the unionists, unless you hit 'em where it hurts. And strikes hit citizens where it hurts the most.

SWEETEN THE POT

Denied their services and safety, many people are willing to sweeten the pot a little in order to get the wheels of progress rolling again.

"I deplore strikes by members of the teaching profession and other professionals," says Dr. John Fisher, president of Columbia University's Teachers College, "but I also deplore the conditions that lead these people to think that there's no alternative to strike."

★ ★ ★

But union leaders say they see no alternatives.

Strikes by workers that jeopardize the public welfare are intolerable and must be deterred," says a veteran labor mediator Theodore Kheel, one of the leading experts on the subject.

★ ★ ★

"The right to strike, no matter how important to labor, must be subordinated to the superior public interest."

Most people agree, but unionists warn that the public interest will be hard-pressed to prove its superiority.

Leukemia Immunization Study Reported

DETROIT (AP)—A University of Michigan research team has found that as mice grow older it is harder to immunize them against leukemia.

The findings were reported by Dr. William Murphy, professor of microbiology, at the 68th annual meeting of the American Society for Microbiology in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

"We found an extraordinary loss in the capability of mice to be immunized with age," Murphy said.

He added that research over the past 10 years in the U-M Medical School Department of microbiology also points to evidence that animals contain a natural defense host mechanism to leukemic disease.

AUGMENT HOST

"The problem for scientists to solve, based on this finding," Murphy said, "is to support or augment the natural host defense mechanism so that it may make them more effective against cancer."

Leukemia is a form of cancer that is characterized by an overproduction of white blood cells and frequently involves the bone marrow.

Murphy said his research team found that in mice aged one to four months, more than 80 per cent could be immunized.

As the animals aged, he said, the percentage decreased rapidly—six months, to 61 per cent; seven months, to 20 per cent; eight months, 15 per cent; nine months, nine per cent, and a year and older, only five per cent.

A scientist at the Medical College of Georgia says he has discovered a method to find the presence of hidden viruses which cause cancer in hamsters. Dr. Stanley Lefkowitz told the society that he has been able to detect the presence of a virus by a blood test. The virus causes an upper respiratory infection in humans and cancer in animals.

• Microorganisms can be transported on the outside of jet airplanes, two California State College researchers told the society. The scientists, Frederic Pfaender and Frank E. Swatek, said they placed microorganisms on the exterior of jets, then measured how many remained alive at the end of flight. The study showed that some types could be transported alive.

Studies show that freight costs are lowest by sea craft.

Should Guest Give Present

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have been invited to a dinner in honor of his great aunt's 50th anniversary in the convent. I have no idea whether a gift is expected or whether it is proper. We would like to do the correct thing. If a gift is proper, what might you suggest? — Sue

★ ★ ★

Dear Sue: A gift is both expected and proper on this anniversary — just as it would be on any other 50th anniversary celebration. I am told by some of my Catholic friends that a small sum of money is often appreciated more than anything, but if you prefer not to give money, then I would suggest a framed picture of your family, a fine book on a subject in which your aunt is interested, or a good record album if she has access to a record player.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper for couples who are going steady or who are engaged to give joint gifts? — Katherine

Dear Katherine: I do not think that couples who are going steady should give a joint gift unless perhaps on very informal occasions such as a bon-voyage party, and then only to intimate friends of their own close group of friends.

For other times when gifts are more or less expected, such as a house present, each one should give a separate present. Engaged couples, however, are in a different category and there is no reason why they cannot give a joint present.

Finding something interesting in a display of decoupage plaques, Mrs. A. D. Beveridge of South Fox Hills Drive, bends to take a closer look. Held inside due to the rain Wednesday, the May Fair of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Auxiliary spread out through the Harsdale Road home of Mrs. Frank Audette.

Studying some of a large collection of paintings which were offered for sale at the May Fair are (left) Mrs. W. W. Wicklund of Winlane Drive and Mrs. Raymond Warren of Timberlake Road, both Bloomfield Township.

In the pink jumper-type uniform of an Auxiliary volunteer, hostess Mrs. Frank Audette displays a woolly lion that would delight any child. Most of the items offered for sale at the fair were made by the members of the Auxiliary.

Swingers, Frugers, Stompers, Meadow Brook Fair for You

Oakland University's Meadow Brook Fair will offer at least one way — music in a multitude of beats — to bridge the generation gap.

Whether you stomp your foot to old-time Dixie Land jazz, swing to the "big band" sound of the '30s, or move to the hard-rock reverberations of massed guitars, you'll find a rhythm to your liking here on June 14, 15 and 16.

★ ★ ★

Headlining the array of talent booked for the Howard C. Baldwin Memorial Pavilion will be Count Basie and His Orchestra. They will perform at 8:30 p.m. on June 15.

On June 14, also at 8:30 p.m., Dixie Land will be featured by the Billie and Dede Pierce Band from Preservation Hall in New Orleans. This was the band that performed recently on the Herb Alpert television special.

★ ★ ★

June 14 also will see an afternoon concert at 3 p.m. billed as a "Teen Hard-Rock Clash" and starring three groups from the Rochester, Pontiac, and Birmingham areas.

On the afternoon of June 15 will be "dance time" in the pavilion, with the International Folk Dance Troupe in native costumes from many lands on stage at 2:30 p.m. and Highland Dancers, complete with kilts, plaids, and bagpipers, following at 3:30 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Three musical attractions are on tap for June 16. The 100-voice General Motors Chorus will give a performance at 2:30 p.m. Then at 4:30 p.m. the Sweet Adelines, a group of 32 songstresses, will sing.

And finally, at 7 p.m., the pavilion will be turned over to the audience for a swinging folk festival . . . bring your own guitar!

Tickets for the Count Basie and Preservation Hall concerts are now on sale at the University or through Hudson's and Grinnells. Tickets also will be available the night of the performance on the grounds.

★ ★ ★

Admission will be free to the other six concerts and free to the grounds.

Jackson Chorale Sings on Sunday

The "Requiem" by French composer Gabriel Faure, will highlight the performance by the Jackson Chorale in their concert Sunday.

Written in the 19th century, "Requiem" deals with the serenity and tranquility of death rather than death's torment.

★ ★ ★

The annual spring performance, which will begin at 3 p.m. in Pontiac Northern High School auditorium, will be under the direction of Gilbert Jackson.

★ ★ ★

Jackson, who is presently on the faculty at Pontiac Central High School, has directed the Chorale for two years.

Members of the group from the Pontiac area are Clarissa Miller, Phil Vincellette, Palmer Strang, Darlene Dargitz and Mary Haanes; also Judy Kuhn, Lorna Lockwood and Art Miller.

★ ★ ★

Others are Sandra Myers, David Skull and Karen Schadel. Mrs. Paul Miller is accompanist.

Tickets for the concert may be purchased from any member of the Chorale or at the door.

Dear Trapped---Walk Out on Boss if You Want Gold, Not Brass Ring

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been receiving financial help from a married man who happens to be my boss. He is also my Number One boy friend. He says he loves me, and the only difference between our relationship and marriage is that he has to get up and go home.

ABBY

I love him in a way, but a girl gets awfully tired hiding all the time. I would like to be able to get dressed up and go out with my man where he goes.

Other men have asked me out, but I don't dare accept because it might get back to my boss. What can I do?

Am I destined to be stuck with this man behind closed doors for the rest of my life because I have accepted financial help from him? How does a woman get off this kind of merry-go-round?

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: She walks out of his office and out of his life and finds another job. Then she supports herself without "help" like millions of other self-respecting women do. And if she's wise, she moves out of the city and leaves no forwarding address. All a girl gets from the kind of merry-go-round you're on is a brass ring. Try for a gold one.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am a junior in college and my parents have been divorced for over a year. I am an only child and I live with my father. We get along fairly well with one minor exception.

My father used to come home from work at 5:30 p.m. Now he doesn't get home until 10 p.m. or even later. I am glad he is going out socially, but I think he should tell me how late he intends to be and where I can locate him in case he gets a business call.

★ ★ ★

Dad says he is a big boy now and can take care of himself. I realize that, but I still think he should let me know where I can reach him at all times. Dad says it isn't necessary, and I want to know his whereabouts more out of nosiness than anything else. This is not true, Abby. Don't you think I'm right?

WORRIED DAUGHTER

DEAR WORRIED: No. Obviously your father prefers his privacy to any possible advantages of being located during the evening for business reasons. It's his privilege, so don't press too hard.

★ ★ ★

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P. O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'Sugar-Coated Mafia' Is Urged to 'Rock the Boat' for Public Good

NEW YORK (UPI) — Newest challenge to women: Rock boats as well as you rock cradles.

The businesswoman who dares females to get more involved in the issues of the times maintains it's bound to improve life.

★ ★ ★

Mary Brown, first woman vice president in the 40-year history of Hill and Knowlton Inc., world's largest public relations firm, suggests women unite and become a "sugar-coated Mafia — for the good."

TELLS WHAT'S WRONG

What's wrong, as she told it to the Meriden, Conn., unit of the Business and Professional Women's Club:

● "Men in great numbers dilute their principles, acquiesce to anything that will get them a vote. So many other persons, meanwhile, are physically apathetic because nobody broke into their car for 48 hours."

● "Find ways to initiate laws to take care of outrageous public offenses," Miss Brown said. "If attacks on women, children and old persons are rampant, don't hesitate to recommend restoring the public stocks for the most culpable offenders."

Members of the "sugar-coated Mafia" also would look beyond their hedges and picket fences, involving themselves in the next generation.

● "Suggest to educators that they enliven their classroom work with the practical entertainment of visiting lecturers showing the end result of their specific efforts," she said.

● "Expose the students to people who have made it by working hard at things that needed to be done in order to achieve the thing they wanted to do."

On the business and professional front, Miss Brown finds women have a lot of boat-rocking to do.

"It seems too often that women settle for third, fourth or last place," she said. "Think of the number of women teachers and then think how many have become principals of the schools in which they teach.

"One doctor in 16 in the United States is a woman — but how many women so far have headed a hospital?"

URGES SPECIAL RIGHTS

Instead of campaigning for equal rights and equal pay, Miss Brown figures women should seek higher salaries and special rights.

★ ★ ★

"We have all the talent men have, with the extra dimensions of intuition and sensitivity," she said. "Those are assets, not liabilities, so women should be paid higher salaries than men for the added talents they bring to a job — talents men cannot offer in the same degree."

Among special rights, she'd like to see: summer and winter vacations for women. She figures most women, to succeed, must carry twice the work load of a man and must run a home besides.

Okay, men, watch out. That sugar-coated Mafia just might be a bitter pill. Its development however, depends on women standing together and agreeing.

Have you seen two agree on anything lately?"

Ever?

The rain is in Spain

But the Spanish Bedrooms are mainly at our place

The Spanish must sleep very well because they certainly know how to design bedroom sets. Like this one that looks like it came from a Castillian castle. Every ornately carved piece says "Spain" from the 9-drawer triple dresser to the 6-drawer chest and the big crystal clear mirror and beautiful headboard are as exceptional in design as any we've seen. Why suffer another night with bedroom boredom, sleep in an exciting Spanish bedroom like this — at a sale price.

Texas Coed Clips Patrons for Tuition

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP) — Emily Winters, a junior at Wayland College is shampooing, clipping and manicuring her way through college — but her business is all for the dogs. She has between 50 and 60 regular canine customers.

★ ★ ★

Emily spends three afternoons a week grooming poodles, bathing, clipping and manicuring their toenails. Her customers, just like human youngsters, may bite, scream and squirm at parts of the grooming process, but some are docile and easily handled. Most of them hate to have their front feet done.

★ ★ ★

A native of Deland, Fla., Emily is a second generation groomer. She learned the art from her mother, who studied grooming in England when the family lived there. Emily's father is a U.S. Air Force career man and the family has also lived in Alaska. Her mother operates a poodle fashion shop in Albuquerque, N.M.

Shows Cure in One of Three

NEW YORK (WMNS)—Cancer stories are usually so dismal it is a pleasure to report a somewhat brighter one:

An estimated 200,000 Americans will be 'cured' of cancer this year, according to estimates prepared by the Health Insurance Institute. Based on data provided by two cancer organizations, the Institute found that about one cancer patient out of three is freed of the disease for at least five years, the period commonly accepted as a cure.

The American Cancer Society notes that there are more than 1,400,000 Americans who were successfully treated for cancer five or more years ago and are still alive today.

Early detection followed by proper treatment were responsible for these success stories. Ignorance, fear, and neglect, on the other hand, weaken the fight against cancer.

Another piece of good cancer news, this time from the National Institutes of Health, is that a combination of mammography and clinical examinations detects breast cancer some 21 months sooner than usual. Mammography, a specialized kind of X-ray of the breast, has been found particularly useful when used in combination with other forms of testing for breast cancer.

Polly's Pointers

Variety Is Possible

DEAR POLLY — Lynne requested some ideas for lunches, other than sandwiches, that could be easily carried to school or work. My daughter also prefers something different and less starchy than sandwiches. She likes chicken, tuna or ham salad made with chopped celery, as well as fruit salad for a change.

I make extra meat loaf once a week and this offers variety, too. A few wheat or other crackers are added to go with any of these things. We pack such lunches in those neat containers, with tops, that soft margarine comes in. One filled with cottage cheese also makes a nice accompaniment to the fruit salad.

We buy the small plastic spoons and forks to pack with such lunches so if one is lost there is no worry. I do hope I have helped as I so enjoy the column.—MRS. L. E. M. Jr.

DEAR MRS. L. E. M. — It is music to my ears to hear you and others say you enjoy the column and I know you have helped Lynne and others, too. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — We could not afford the tetherball set our two sons wanted very badly, so we dreamed up one we could make ourselves. We took a well-washed plastic bleach bottle, hooked a rope (lightweight chain could be used) and the handle and tied to a limb near the trunk of the tree.

★ ★ ★

It is not just what they wanted but they and the other children in the neighborhood have a good time with it. — MRS. M. F. N

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — Even though Easter only comes once a year, I color my hard-boiled eggs all the time. I do this because my little one opens the refrigerator door and switches the hard-boiled and raw eggs which I try to keep in two different egg racks on the inside of the door.

I have tried marking an H with pencil on the hard-cooked ones but she has turned them in such a way I do not see it, and I have grabbed a raw egg by mistake when I was in a hurry. I have even taken one to work for lunch.

You should have seen the mess that raw egg made when I cracked it on the edge of my desk. Now I know the colored ones are cooked.

I also keep a cup filled with milk in the refrigerator so when she wants a drink of milk she can go and get it for herself. This save a lot of time when I am busy. — PAT

DEAR POLLY — What can I do to the dark blue steering wheel on my car as it blackens the front of any dress or uniform I am wearing. Washing and waxing does not help. — ERMA

At a recent dinner party, Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Herbruck of Grosse Pointe Park announced the betrothal of their daughter, Judith Ann, to Alfred Robert Dixon Jr. He is the son of the Alfred Dixons of Lone Pine Road. The bride elect is a junior at Michigan State University where she is affiliated with Zeta Tau Alpha sorority. Her fiance is a senior at the same University.

Court Favorite Freed Diamonds From Male Hold

Never underestimate the power of a woman—especially if she has diamonds on her mind.

When diamonds were first discovered some five or six centuries B.C., women were not considered important enough to wear them. They were worn by men in crowns; ceremonial swords, chains of office, sceptres and cups for the coronation of kings were jeweled with diamonds.

★ ★ ★

This continued until a gal named Agnes Sorel happened along the scene about 1445. Agnes, a favorite of the French court during the reign of Charles VII, borrowed diamonds from the royal regalia and wore them in spendid manner at grand soirees. Despite the complaint that the rough edges of the diamonds chafed her neck, she wore them bravely and was the number-one glamour girl.

Speak Vows in Commerce

Jo-Ellen Jean Bridges and Dennis Arthur Lockwood spoke vows Saturday evening in Commerce Methodist Church.

Gowned in a Chantilly lace sheath, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bridges of Post Road carried a bouquet of daisies, white roses and ivy.

★ ★ ★

She was attended by matron of honor Mrs. Steven Schuler with bridesmaids Mrs. Thomas Hill and Priscilla Waatti.

★ ★ ★

Best man honors for the son of the Pdward Lockwoods of Steephollow Drive were performed by Glen Lockwood. Thomas Hill and Gregory Walters ushered.

The newlyweds greeted guests at a reception in Guinn's Banquet Hall, after which they departed for a honeymoon in New York City.

Marketable Skills Needed

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE F-526: Nancy, aged 18, was being chauffered to the campus by her parents to enroll as a university freshman.

DR. CRANE

Her father, President H. D. Buckingham, of the National College of Business, suddenly asked her:

"Nancy, why are you going to the university?"

"Why, daddy, to earn a bachelor's degree," she replied.

"Wrong," her distinguished father replied.

"You should be hoping to meet an ambitious young man who will make you a good husband.

"But that isn't all!

"You should also be acquiring a marketable skill, so you could support him and your children, if necessary."

★ ★ ★

Alas, far too many college youth look upon a college diploma as an end in itself.

That is wrong!

The diploma is merely the fulcrum that should be used to pry loose a good job.

And the real lever that is needed to utilize that fulcrum is what Prexy Buckingham has so aptly termed a "marketable skill."

Even if you hold a diploma in your hand, after four years of college residency, what does it offer an employer that will cause him to give you a job?

Are you qualified to teach school, as by a major in Education while gaining that 4-year diploma?

Without the special courses required to prepare teachers for classroom work, the diploma will still not even get you a teaching job!

Can you typewrite? Or take shorthand?

Keep books or operate modern computor machines and the other specialized equipment of an office?

Are you preparing to preach? Or practice law or medicine or dentistry?

Four years of college, even though you obtained straight "A" grades, don't mean you have a "marketable skill."

Editor Puts On Instant Glamour in a Wig Salon

By JANET ODELL
Women's Editor, The Pontiac Press

"How would you like to be a femme fatale?" (I never know what's going to happen when I answer the phone.)

Being rather conservative and at times pretty humdrum, I've not had much experience in the femme fatale line. But it sounded interesting.

The voice went on to say that a new line of wigs is on the market and wouldn't I like to try all of them on while a photographer took my picture in each?

★ ★ ★

Would I? Just once I had dared try on a wig and ran scared when I though too hard about it and the price. But here was my chance to see what I could look like.

Why Hudson's would want me when they could have some of the sweet young things we have around the office was a bit puzzling.

But then, thought I, it should be much more of a challenge to the hairdresser if he were confronted with my middle-aged face, laugh wrinkles, crow's-feet and all. So I agreed.

★ ★ ★

A trio of experts greeted me in the Husdon beauty salon: Mr. Dennis, fashion director of the downtown store; Mrs. Dolores Donahue, head of the Mall salon; and her asistant, Mr. Edward.

DARK IDEAS

The full wig was dark. Due to strike difficulties the store is having, they didn't have a full range of colors in this style. But I could see how I looked as a brunette.

★ ★ ★

Maybe blondes don't have more fun, I thought. Everyone oohed and aahed at how good I looked with dark locks, but I was unconvinced.

However, the wig felt strangely light on my head, except for the drawstring at the nape of my neck. But it was too much curl for my round face.

★ ★ ★

Then I modeled a fall. I had forgotten the pleasant feeling of hair around my neck and down my back. But I have an aversion to any female over 20 wearing her hair below her shoulders. It wasn't for me.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Dennis added a cluster of curls and visions of Scarlet O'Hara danced through my cranium — until I took a good look in the mirror. Wonder why they're called "Single Girl Curls?"

★ ★ ★

Pulling out all stops, the hairdresser added a wiglet to the top of my head. If I'd ever bent over a pool with this array, I'd have fallen in head first and drowned.

Mr. Dennis tried the wiglet on alone — with my own hair combed over it — on top of my ead — then fastened to the ba of the head and sporting a velvet bow.

INSTANT SLIMMING

With the added hair on top of my head, my face immediately became slimmer looking. This wiglet remained my favorite style.

★ ★ ★

A peruke in a shade a bit darker than my own hair was interesting. Not so large as a full wig, it gave me more of the upswept look and would have been fine for formal affairs.

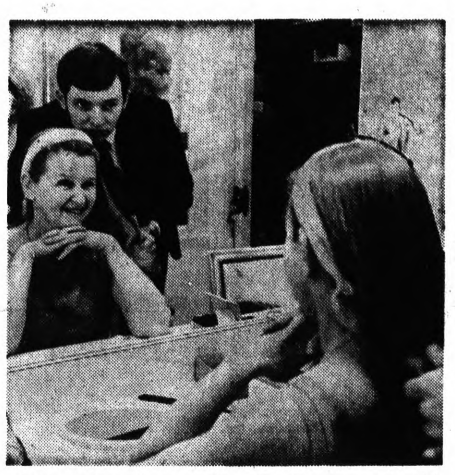
It's just a good thing that Michigan drivers' licenses no longer list the color of an applicant's hair. The authorities must know when they're fighting a losing battle.

★ ★ ★ ★

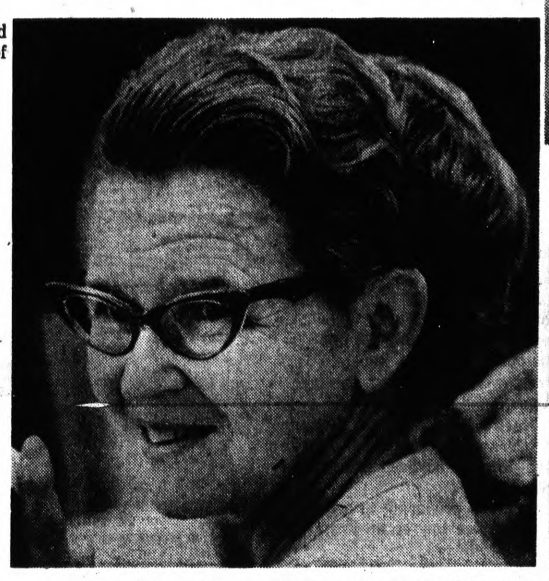
Wearing a wig and thereby changing your looks a bit has become acceptable and the "fun" thing to do. More and more men, said Mr. Dennis, are buying hairpieces, most of them before they become bald.

Vanity? Of course. But one of the precepts of mental health is that you like yourself and that you take pains with your appearance. So if you need a reason for buying a wig, latch on to that one.

These new wigs are made of a meterial that closely simulates human hair, but without some of the disadvantages and costs of the latter type wigs. Chapelli manufactures them in British Hong Kong.



This is fun, but really, Mr. Dennis, it looks a bit too young for a grandmother, don't you think?



Now, this is the one I like—the look of long hair without the bother.

Mrs. Henry Ford II made this style popular

This upswept creation is a peruke, a style started in the 18th century.

Nun Granted a Union Card

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Local 72 of the Fort Worth Professional Musicians celebrates its 70th anniversary this year. And for the first time in its history, a nun, Sister Susanne Prebilic, has been granted a union card.

★ ★ ★

Sister Susanne's musical accomplishments are impressive. Presently she is working on a doctorate in music at North Texas University and residing in Denton.

★ ★ ★

Traditionally, women members of the Fort Worth Symphony Orchestra wear unadorned black dresses. When Sister Susanne appears in the violin section, she wears the habit of the order of St. Benedict.

Tot's Question Recalls Heyday of Buster Brown

Q.: My little girl asked me why her party shoes are called "Mary Janes."

A.: During the 1920s, '30s and '40s there was a comic strip that was as popular then as Charlie Brown is now. The main character was called Buster Brown. His girl friend's name was Mary Jane.

★ ★ ★

Realizing the great market value, the Brown Shoe Company bought up the rights to the strip so that they could use the characters in their advertising program.

SHOE STYLES

Thereafter, the standard brown oxford became known as the Buster Brown, and the little pump with the instep strap and buckle became known as the Mary Jane.

Why Grow Old?

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The years from middle age on should be some of the most rewarding and most exciting of a woman's life. This is particularly true today, when women are lovely to look at and have plenty verve at mid-life and when much older.

★ ★ ★

However, this is the time for a woman to take stock of herself. If you have arrived at middle age in one piece, regardless of abuses in diet and lack of exercise, neglected hair and complexion, don't push your luck too far. Take stock of your assets and your liabilities and act! Here are a few suggestions.

★ ★ ★

• If you are overweight, lose the extra pounds. From here on they will be even more hazardous. Remember that you need the same essential foods as you grow older but not so many calories. Eat less.

• Do not give up any sports you have enjoyed unless they are too strenuous. If they are, or if you have never enjoyed sports, adopt one or two which are suitable for your physical condition. You can begin golf or swimming or bicycle riding or walking or Ping Pong at any age.

• Watch your posture. This is the time of life when you may become careless and give in to gravity. Don't do it! If not for health, then do it for beauty. Keep good posture or improve what you have if it isn't all you want it to be. There is nothing which adds such an aura of youthfulness as lovely posture. You can afford a few wrinkles if you take this attribute down the years with you.

★ ★ ★

Do not think in terms of years but in terms of exciting living. If you have fallen into the habit of thinking and saying things like, "At my age" or "I am not as young as I used to be" and so forth, sweep out your mental attic and let some sunshine in. Discard any negative habits in thought you may have accumulated during the years.

★ ★ ★

• Develop a sense of humor. Everyone, young and old, loves someone who is fun to be with.

• Don't talk about your troubles as a habit. Other folks have their own.

★ ★ ★

Design Exhibit at BAA to Salute Michigan Talent

A salute to Michigan's many talented designers is the aim of "Designed in Michigan" which opens at the Bloomfield Art Association Sunday.

The first exhibition of its kind to be undertaken by the BAA, "Designed in Michigan" will include outstanding examples of furniture, clothing, appliances, architecture and advertising as art media. The Knights, Dick and Jane, are the husband and wife team assembling and installing the show.

★ ★ ★

Knight, designer, photographer and architect is employed by Ford and Earl Design Associates. He studied at University of Michigan, Lawrence Institute and Cranbrook Academy. Mrs. Knight, a graduate of University of Michigan, is a professional designer. They lived and worked in Copenhagen, Denmark for more than a year before coming to Birmingham.

INDUSTRIAL

Complementing the exhibition will be a program, Industrial Design — Art for Living, to be presented May 17 at 8:00 p.m.

James Balmer, president of Armstrong-Balmer and Associates of Birmingham, will moderate a panel of nationally-known industrial designers in a discussion of the impact of industrial design on our daily lives and the skills required of its practitioners.

★ ★ ★

Participants in the discussion are Jack Andrews, associate director and head of the Industrial Design Department at Society of Arts and Crafts, William Reddig, director of Planning and Design for Kelvinator, and Dominic Saporito, vice president of Ford & Earl Design Associates.

Mr. Balmer has extended a special invitation to the May 17 program to high school students who may be considering design as a career.

The Exhibition, Designed in Michigan, will open with a reception at 2:00 p.m., Sunday.

During Michigan Week celebration in Birmingham, the gallery on South Cranbrook Road will be open every day from 2 to 5 p.m.

Sorority Unit Plans a Tea

Mrs. Albert Padar hosted Phi chapter Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, in her Hudson Street home Tuesday.

The group is planning a Mother's Day tea May 19 at the Steephollow Drive home of Mrs. Robert Schmidt. On Friday, members will visit the Holiday Health Spa.

Your Fireplace Is the 'Coolest'

Your fireplace can keep you as cool in the summer as it keeps you warm in the winter. Just make a miniature garden out of it. A large soup tureen abloom with flowers or a profusion of greens is a good start.

★ ★ ★

Another idea: hang a black wrought iron butcher's rack from the fireplace to hold tiny flower pots. Be sure flowers and greenery enjoy clean water.

If containers get grimy, wash them in a pine oil cleaner solution, rinse them out and give your garden friends a drink of fresh water.

Lead Sinkers Stop Flap

If the awnings at your windows flap in the wind, weight them by sewing small fish sinkers along the edges.

British Birth Rate at Lowest Figure in Past 131 Years

LONDON, Eng. (WMNS) — Britain, one of the world's most crowded little isles, may have begun to stem its population explosion.

According to the country's Registrar-General, Britain's birth rate for 1967 fell to 17.2 per thousand. This is the lowest in 131 years. Last year's births totalled 832,000 — or 18,000 below 1966.

★ ★ ★

The science editor of the London Sun quoted physicians as having "little doubt that the birth slump is due to more effective contraceptive techniques."

It is estimated that more than 800,000 women in Great Britain are currently using oral contraceptives to plan their families.

Attu Win One of War's Biggest

By United Press International

On May 11, 1943, an American force of 11,000 soldiers trained for desert warfare slogged ashore through the dripping mist of Attu Island in black leather boots.

Their mission: recapture that Aleutian stronghold — the northern anchor of Japan's "ribbon defense" — and prevent its use as a possible springboard from which the invasion of North America.

★ ★ ★

The Americans accomplished their objective after 19 days of the dirtiest, most brutal, yet least publicized fight of World War II.

American casualties were 549 dead, 1,148 wounded and 2,100 taken out of action by accident, disease or exposure.

Only 29 Japanese prisoners were taken. The rest of the meagre force of about 2,500 were either killed or committed suicide.

"In terms of Japanese destroyed," says the official U.S. Army history, "the cost (to the Americans) of taking Attu was second only to Iwo Jima. For every 100 of the enemy on the island, about 71 Americans were killed or wounded."

★ ★ ★

The 17th and 32nd Infantry Regiments of the 7th Division bore the brunt of the invasion.

They were backed up by a large naval force comprised of threee battleships, a support cruiser group, the Amphibious Force North Pacific, numerous navy troop ships, merchant marine vessels manned by civilian crews, countless barges, minesweepers, patrol boats and other auxiliary craft.

Air support came from bases on the islands of Amchitka and Adak.

200,000 MEN USED

In all, approximately 200,000 men were involved in ridding Alaska of the enemy. But it was the 7th Division that did the dirty work.

The weather on Attu was as formidable as the Japanese. The soldiers were prepared for the Japs but not the weather.

★ ★ ★

For 75 days the 7th had trained in California's Mojave Desert, presumably preparing for the African campaign. When they arrived in the Aleutians they were not properly clad or equipped for fighting in muskegs and snowfields.

They were shod in black leather boots, when they should have been wearing rubber pacs. "Immersion feet" put many men out of action before they had a chance to fire a gun.

SNAFU THE RULE

But snafus appeared to be the rule and not the exception on Attu.

The commanders told their men they would be provided a hot meal the first night ashore. Some didn't get even as much as a hot cup of coffee until the last shot had been fired.

★ ★ ★

Heavy artillery and boxes of ammunition sank useless into the sucking muskeg. Sleeping bags and shelters were stacked on the beach while the soldiers inland huddled in foxholes that filled with water as soon as the tundra was stripped away. Williwas, those notorious winds of the Aleutians, howled down from the Arctic at more than 100 miles an hour increasing the misery. When it wasn't raining it was foggy.

Members of the 7th interviewed by Yank Magazine later in Lleyte, where they had gone after taking Attu and Kwajalein, almost to a man said Attu was the worst battles they had been in. And nearly all said the worst thing about Attu was the weather, except for one thing. It was so cold there bodies never stank.

BATTLE TIDE CHANGES

Jack Craemer, editor and co-publisher of the Independent Journal in San Rafael, Calif., was a lieutenant and public information officer for the Alaska Defense Command at the time of the invasion.

He said it wasn't until Maj. Gen. Eugene M. Landrum, who had established the U.S. staging base at Adak, took over from Maj. Gen. Albert E. Brown as leader of the Attu forces that the tide changed. That was the fifth night of the battle and Landrum brought in some "tired, old 4th Infantry troops" to help turn the trick.

★ ★ ★

Craemer's observations are backed up by Howard Handleman, who was an International News Service reporter on the scene. In his book, "Bride to Victory," Handleman tells how Landrum sent his men up on the mountaintops to root out the Japanese.

Ferreting out the enemy from their caves and foxholes in the mountains took brave men. Craemer tells of an Alaska scout, one of a group made up mostly of natives especially recruited and trained for reconnaissance work, who became impatient when the unit he was with became pinned down by a Japanese machinegunner.

SCOUT A HERO

"The scout simply went forward with a grenade and finished off the machinegun crew," said Creaemer. "In the process, the scout took 11 machinegun bullets between the waist and knees.

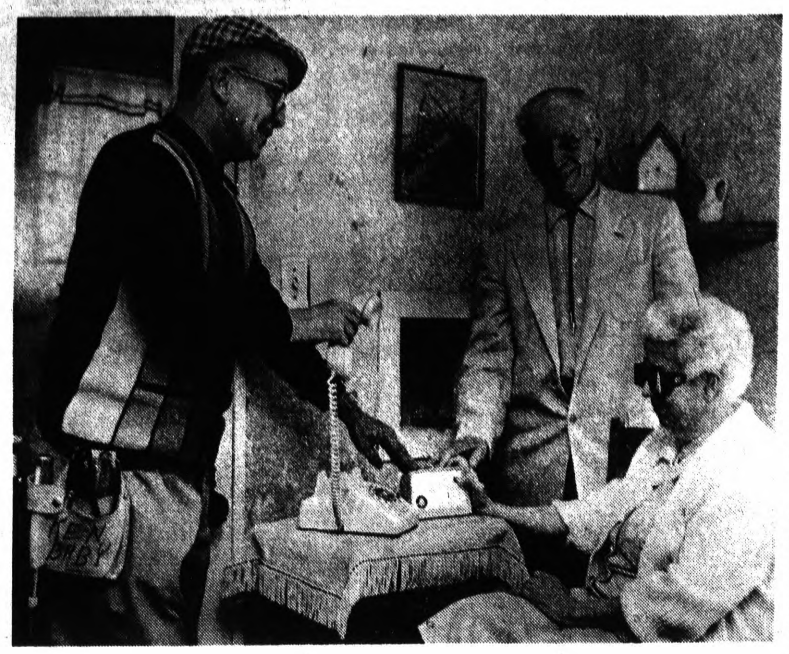
'Sensicall' Aids Blind, Deaf Woman



NEW LEASE ON LIFE — Michigan Bell Telephone installer Kenneth R. Crawley of 638 Lennox shows deaf and blind Hazel Fuller how to work the Sensicall he has just installed. Assisting Miss Fuller is Ray McDonald, also blind, who helps her communicate with others during face-to-face conversations.

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

A portion of Hazel Fuller's life revolves around a vibrating rod. The rod is part of a special phone—a Sensicall — which allows Miss Fuller, who is deaf and blind, to communicate with others.

★ ★ ★

Until the phone was installed, Miss Fuller's conversations were limited to those who could communicate in sign language.

★ ★ ★

Now she can call anyone or accept phone calls at prearranged times.

To call, Miss Fuller turns the on-off-volume control up until the vibrator operates.

PICKS UP RECEIVER

She then picks up the receiver keeping one finger on the rod. The dial tone will cause the rod to vibrate.

★ ★ ★

After using the device a few times, vibrator reactions to dial tones, busy signals and ringing tones are easy to recognize.

★ ★ ★

When someone answers the phone, she explains that she's deaf and asks the person to answer her question by humming once for yes and twice for no. The sound causes the rod to vibrate.

Miss Fuller spends most of her time sitting in her home because she can only communicate with sign language by touching hands.

FREQUENT VISITOR

One of her most frequent visitors is a Pontiac man, Ray McDonald who also is blind. He often acts as a go-between for Miss Fuller and visitors.

McDonald spells out the questions letter by letter in hand-sign language for Miss Fuller.

★ ★ ★

She covers his hands with her own gnarled ones to feel out each sign, saying each letter aloud in her eagerness to learn the entire message.

"I went totally deaf at 27," said Miss Fuller in response to a question tapped out on her hand by McDonald.

A FILING CLERK

"I worked as a filing clerk at Oakland Motor and then owned a beauty shop but sold out after I became deaf. Then I went to the School for the Deaf-Blind in Flint," added the white-haired woman.

Miss Fuller, who is in her 70s, was a lip reader when she could see. She began going blind after she became deaf. She became totally blind five years ago.

★ ★ ★

"Blindness bothers her. She has few visitors.

Another woman and I write her letters in braille but we must use extra large script," explained McDonald, who repeated everything he was saying in sign language to Miss Fuller.

"She wants to be a perfectionist but you can't when you're blind. She kept house for her mother until her mother died five years ago," McDonald added.

Teacher Talks Man off Perch

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A mountain-climbing school teacher took time out during his lunch break Wednesday to climb a downtown Pittsburgh bridge and talk a despondent man down from his 200-foot high perch.

Ivan Jirak said he volunteered to climb the superstructure of the abandoned Point Bridge because he figured the man needed help. "They only need to talk to somebody," Jirak said.

The man was identified as one who is under treatment at Allegheny General Hospital.

The root of the may apple is poisonous but, when it is dried, it is used in medicine.

Ex-Czech Official Free During Probe

PRAGUE (AP) — Former Czechoslovak Interior Minister Rudolf Barak, sentenced to 15 years imprisonment in 1962, has been temporarily released from jail pending an investigation of his case, the Czechoslovak news agency CTK reported Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

It said "the measure was taken by the chief military prosecutor, Dr. Milan Richter, following a complaint against the sentence on the grounds of miscarriage of justice."

Barak was found guilty of having embezzled substantial government funds. Before his arrest, Antonin Novotny, then Communist party chief claimed Barak "tried to grab power" in Czechoslovakia.

U.S. Toll in Viet Is Highest in 9 Weeks

SAIGON (AP) — The number of Americans killed in the Vietnam war increased last week to 383, highest toll in nine weeks. The new count did not reflect casualties from the new enemy offensive.

The number of enemy reported killed climbed, while fatalities among South Vietnamese government forces dropped slightly.

* * *

The casualty figures released in weekly summaries Thursday covered the period ending at midnight Saturday, May 4.

The new offensive began in early Sunday and the casualty toll from it will not show up until next week's reports.

MORE KILLED

The U.S. command said that while the number of Americans killed last week totalled 383 as compared with 302 a week earlier, the number of wounded was 1,501 as compared with 2,458 in the previous week. Of the wounded last week, 527 did not require hospitalization, the command said. There was no explanation given for the drop of almost 1,000 in the number of wounded while the number of killed increased.

South Vietnamese headquarters said 242 government troops were killed last week, 894 wounded and 28 missing or captured. The totals for the previous week were 253 killed, 785 wounded and seven missing or captured.

* * *

The two commands reported that 2,264 of the enemy were killed last week as compared with a readjusted total of 2,110 for the previous week. Of last week's total, South Vietnamese spokesmen said Saigon government forces killed 1,251.

For the 10th consecutive week, there was no report on casualties among other allied forces fighting in Vietnam.

The new counts raised to 22,389 the number of Americans killed in action in the Vietnam war from Jan. 1, 1961, through May 4, 1968, and the number of wounded in that period to 139,169. Of the wounded total, 66,054 did not require hospitalization, the command said.

Czech Upheaval Bares Secret Police Terror Tactics

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The bull-necked police officer, sweat streaming down his unshaven face, yelled in angry despair: "I never tortured anybody."

Quickly the camera swung to a man in filthy prison garb who mumbled between broken teeth: "Oh no, you didn't! You only beat me every day."

★ ★ ★

The scene in grim Minkovice prison, where inmates recently staged a short-lived revolt, flashed across Czechoslovak television screens bringing back nightmares of secret police terror and prison brutality which the new Communist regime has promised to end.

But the authors of "Inquisitive Camera," documentary series with on-the-spot reports, promises to keep on probing relentlessly until "the whole story has been told."

ANONYMOUS POWER

For two decades, Czechoslovakia's Statni Bezpecnost — or STB, wielded the omnipotent, anonymous power of a "regime within a regime," as one Communist official described it.

Modeled after Stalin's dreaded GPU and NKVD, the STB is responsible only to the Interior Ministry and department of the Communist party's central committee.

★ ★ ★

It is known to maintain special police units and tens of thousands of informers in factories, offices, apartment blocs, tourist centers, political and social organizations. It also runs its own prisons.

Premier Oldrich Cernik's new government program presented to the National Assembly last month contains a set of proposals designed to "restore democratic rights and liberties." It includes a sweeping revision of existing laws to place the political security apparatus under direct government and parliamentary control.

SWEEPING PROBE

A special commission of the National Assembly and the state prosecutor's office has opened inquiries into security police activities since the late 1940s, involving an estimated 35,000 cases of citizens arrested and imprisoned or executed on political charges brought against them by the STB.

"The security police were more powerful than any judge, any court and any Cabinet minister," an investigator said. "A confession obtained through their methods automatically brought a verdict of guilt."

★ ★ ★

Methods of physical and psychological torture used by the STB were said to have been even more refined than those of their Soviet teachers.

Jiri Hochmann, liberal columnist of the Communist party daily Rude Pravo, says political trials were stage - managed by the STB even in recent years, and brutalities were common practice in some prisons as late as 1966.

DEGRADATION TOLD

Former inmates of the Bory, Mirov and Leopoldov prisons have given accounts of "Re-Education methods," the official term for a system of degradation through total lack of hygenic facilities, rotten food and brutal treatment.

A psychiatrist described police officers and guards at Leopoldov, which houses mainly political prisoners, "mentally more deranged than even long-term inmates."

★ ★ ★

According to unofficial statistics, 21,072 people were serving prison terms in April, including 682 sentenced on charges of antistate activities. They comprise former members of the postwar anti-Communist underground, which was active until the 1950s, persons sentenced for espionage and an estimated 200 caught in attempts to flee the country.

"The basic element of Czechoslovakia's renaissance is abolition of all forms of political feuds save for political polemics," Hochmann says. "This requires the abolition of the term political prisoner.

NO POLITICAL PERSECUTION

"No democracy, and certainly not our socialist democracy, must persecute people for their political beliefs. Short of warmongering and racial hatred, all political views must come under one fire only — the fire of public polemics."

Mexico ranks 43rd among the world's 102 nations in the ratio of doctors to people with 1,700 inhabitants serviced by one doctor.

Rights Cases Up

DETROIT (AP) — The State Civil Rights Commission reports closing a record 112 cases and receiving a record 199 complaints during April, bringing its backlog of active cases to 1,520.

SITS UP — Heart transplant patient Everett Claire Thomas, 47, of Phoenix, Ariz., sits on the side of his bed at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital Tuesday. Dr. Denton Cooley said Thomas stood next to his bed yesterday morning. Thomas received the heart of a 15-year-old married woman Friday in the first heart transplant operation at the Houston hospital.

Dancer Wins First Round at Stanford

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Topless dancer Vicki Drake has won a preliminary election for presidency of the Stanford University student body.

In an unprecedented turnout Wednesday, the students voted 1,575 for Miss Drake and 1,232 for runner-up Dennis Hayes.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Cissie Bonini, who had run with a "Vote for Mom" slogan, trailed far behind with only 175 votes.

Because she did not win a majority, Miss Drake faces a runoff May 14. But not in 10 years has the preliminary victor failed to win final election.

PHOTOS VANISH

The photos of her unclad 38-22-36 figure, which Miss Drake and a number of her supporters tacked up early in her campaign, disappeared in less than an hour, and reportedly now are lodged on a lot of walls in and around the campus.

★ ★ ★

Vicki declared after the victory, however, that she had run for office only because of an interest in Stanford.

★ ★ ★

A student the last three quarters, but now vacationing, "just as other students do in the summer," Vicki said she is studying for a degree in Spanish literature.

Her topless dancing in a Sunnyvale nightclub, she said, is entirely to finance her education.

FRISCO NO LULL

Nor is she interested in the topless nightclub area of San Francisco. "I tried out in one place in North Beach one night and I didn't like it so I quit."

Uneasy Air Tinges Panama Presidential Race

PANAMA (AP) — Panama's presidential campaign is in full swing again after the month-long interruption in March caused by the opposition's unsuccessful attempt to topple President Marco A. Robles through impeachment.

All three candidates are making up for lost time as election day—May 12—draws nearer.

★ ★ ★

Opposition leader Arnulfo Arias and administration candidate David Samudio have been stumping the interior of the country. Dr. Antonio Gonzalez Revilla, nominated by the anti-administration Christian Democrat party, is active in the capital city.

On the surface, there is little of the tension that prevailed in March. But there is increasing speculation about what the impending elections may bring. And the speculation centers again on the National Guard, whose stand in the March crisis left little doubt of its position.

PUT DOWN OPPOSITION

The Guard put down with a strong hand every opposition attempt to enforce the opposition-dominated National Assembly's sentence dismissing President Robles, keeping him in office until the Supreme Court ruled that the impeachment proceedings were not carried out with due process of law. The opposition charges the Supreme Court is rigged in favor of Robles.

This has given the opposition a new issue: militarism vs. civilianism. Citing the fact that the Guard has kept the legislative palace tightly sealed off to Assembly members since the impeachment session, the opposition pictures the country as being under military rule. The Guard says it is carrying out President Robles' orders.

★ ★ ★

The opposition also has injected into the campaign the pending Canal and military bases treaty drafts with the United States, charging that Samudio is committed to support the agreements. The Robles administration was forced to shelve the drafts after a bitter opposition press campaign denouncing them as undesirable for the country.

Under Panama's constitution, Robles may not succeed himself.

The strategy of the opposition now is to get the vote out on May 12 to win by so smashing a margin, its leaders say, that neither fraud nor force will keep Arias from office.

Samudio, too, is confident of victory. He says Arias has lost his touch with the voters, pointing out that in the March crisis, Arias' personal calls failed to fire popular feeling against the government. He offers voters his experience as planner of the country's long-range economic and social development.

The Christian Democrats are generally ruled out in this election.

★ ★ ★

The government is going ahead with preparations for the elections. It recently regained control of the three-man Electoral Tribunal when one of the two pro-opposition justices retired and was replaced by a pro-government man.

While all present indications point to elections as scheduled, the big question is what will happen after May 12.

Success of 'McNamara Wall' in Doubt

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon declines to say whether the so-called "McNamara Wall" obstacle system is limiting infiltration of North Vietnamese troops into South Vietnam.

And the Defense Department —while acknowledging the barrier never underwent usual cost-effectiveness studies—won't say why.

★ ★ ★

The absence of cost-effectiveness studies along lines demanded by former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, under whose auspices the barrier system was created, emerges from congressional testimony.

It comes at a time when reported heavy North Vietnamese infiltration has raised questions about the barrier's effectiveness.

EXTENDS INTO LAOS

The Pentagon has acknowledged that infiltration continues directly through the Demilitarized Zone, where the barrier system is located, as well as around the DMZ's western border with Laos. Electronic features of the obstacle system also extend across Laos.

No figures are available on how many enemy troops may have slipped through the obstacle system but the administration's own estimates are that 80,000 to 100,000 men have infiltrated toward and into South Vietnam so far this year.

★ ★ ★

The Pentagon also has withheld cost figures for the system, which was announced last Sept. 7 by McNamara.

Some congressmen have expressed wonder why the project was never run through McNamara's vaunted systems analysis, a cost-effectiveness study branch which normally investigates the value of big defense projects.

PRIVATE 'THINK TANK'

Responding to questions from Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., the Pentagon stated the only cost analysis of the project came as part of a study conducted by the Institute for Defense Analysis, a private "think tank."

The Pentagon provided Symington a breakdown of actual and projected system costs but censors deleted this data from a transcript released later. The scope of the spending, however, was indicated in several Symington remarks about the billion-dollar "Maginot Line concept."

★ ★ ★

The Pentagon declined to provide the cost figures, saying this might tip off the enemy to the scale of the effort.

In this connection, a Pentagon spokesman pointed out that McNamara had directed defense officials not to discuss the project.

McNamara would state publicly only that the system would include equipment ranging from barbed wire to "highly sophisticated devices."

★ ★ ★

These devices, one officer says, include air-dropped seismic units which send off signals whenever enemy troops or vehicles enter the area. Electronics planes receive the signals and dispatch bombers to meet the invaders.

★ ★ ★

The system also includes several manned strongpoints below the DMZ, along with cleared areas and minefields.

Pentagon replies to Symington's queries indicated that McNamara approved the project Sept. 15, 1966, after the matter had been studied only for a few weeks.

★ ★ ★

Although there was no public announcement until Sept. 7, 1967, the Pentagon began using emergency funds, supplemental moneys and other funds siphoned from various defense projects to start work on the barrier.

GROUND CRASH FATAL — The instructor-pilot of the small plane at left was killed when the two collided at a Springfield, Mo. airport. The man, Lawrence Nielsen, 44, had just landed with a student, Mrs. Edna Kile, when the larger plane ground-looped in a landing attempt. That plane was flown by William B. Scherrer and Lyle H. Cameron, en route home to California from Philadelphia.

Medical Role for Computer

By Science Service

Hospitals are assumed to be one of the prime future beneficiaries of the computer revolution, but the day when every patient's condition is automatically monitored and analyzed is some time off.

A step in that direction is a new signal processor system being built at the Upstate Medical Center in Syracuse, N.Y. The computer should be able to give 100 patients simultaneous electrocardiogram tests and predict a malfunction soon enough for something to be done about it.

Called BASP (Biomedical Analog Signal Processor), the system is also designed to handle experimental data from animals in research laboratories. Some of the information that can be handled by computer, such as heart sounds and pulse trains on a nerve, take place at the rate of about 2,000 times a second.

Major problem in developing the system is to convert the continuous values — analog signals — put out by monitoring instruments into the discrete pieces that a digital computer can handle.

GIs Cheered by Michigan Girls, Apples

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — Beauty queens and apples from Michigan helped bring a little cheer to wounded servicemen at Great Lakes Naval Hospital near Chicago Tuesday.

The queens were from southwest Lower Michigan's Blossom-time contest and the apples were the Delicious variety grown in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

The 33 blossom queens spent four hours touring the hospital facility, visiting 800 patients, more than half wounded in Vietnam.

The hospital visit was the first official duty of the girls who took part in the queen contest last week. Now they tour each of the 33 cities they represent.

★ ★ ★

Miss Blossomtime is Miss Eileen Heyne, Miss Bridgman.

One of the girls, Miss Christine Mueller, Miss South Haven, brought hometown greetings to Marine Lance Cpl. Gary Kahne, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walt Kahne of South Haven. The two knew each other back home.

Town Is Destroying Itself—So It May Live

MORENCI, Ariz. (AP) — The town of Morenci is methodically destroying itself—so that it may continue to live.

Residents of this copper mining community, not without apprehension, listen as the rumble of explosions draws closer.

★ ★ ★

They know that one day some of them will virtually have the ground blasted from under their homes. Most of them are happy about it.

★ ★ ★

"It's part of living in a copper mining town and the people are resigned to it," explained Richard T. Moolick, superintendent of the Phelps Dodge Corp's. huge mining complex here.

2nd BIGGEST MINE

What's happening to this remote eastern Arizona community of about 6,000 can be seen from a lookout point on the rim of its mine. The mine is second in size in the world only to the Kennecott Copper Corp's. Bingham Mine in Utah.

★ ★ ★

Open pit copper mining, depending as it does on low-grade ore, requires the stripping of vast quantities of earth.

★ ★ ★

Better than one billion tons of material have been removed since the mine began operation in 1937.

Diesel-powered locomotives labor 1,350 feet below the lookout, hauling carload after carload of crushed earth and rock —the dusty lifeblood of the community.

BUILT IN EARLIER DAY

Only yards from the lookout point, over a rise, is Morenci, built in an earlier day when copper mining was underground and the homes seemed secure on their mountainside perches.

★ ★ ★

To satisfy the insatiable appetite of the copper smelter, the mine must continually expand. Soon to be gobbled up is the mountain on which rests a good portion of Morenci.

★ ★ ★

"Our windows are always rattling and sometimes the house shakes from the blasting," said a housewife living on Hill AC.

"That's all it's called, just Hill AC," said the woman "I think it's better that we're moving. Then maybe we'll get one of the new homes."

HOMES DECAY

On Hill AC, with the exception of a neatly kept white and blue frame cottage, the homes were in various stages of decay. Many were privately owned, while some were owned by Phelps Dodge and leased to miners.

All the homes would be sold for demolition and the asking price would rarely top $100, because, as Moolick said, "that's all they're worth."

★ ★ ★

The area had already taken on a ghostly appearance. A large corrugated steel building, once an air-conditioning firm, stands quiet and forlorn in its disuse.

There is an abandoned tavern which crouches mute on the top of a little spur, its silence mocked by a flaking "music" sign on the door.

EDDIES OF DUST

A steady wind kicks up little eddies of dust which spin down the road to the new part of town —toward the future.

"We're a company town and we make no bones about it," said Moolick. "We also know that we're bucking a trend against company towns but the people seem to want it this way."

★ ★ ★

Already built is a 41-bed, $1.8-million hospital, the only one in Graham County. There's a large, company-owned mercantile store, eight other businesses, restaurant, bowling alley and the start of what will be a new 300-home development.

★ ★ ★

Not all of the relocated families will get a new home, some will move to older sections of Morenci. How they find out where they'll be living is typical of the community.

A VOICE ON THE PHONE

"Come down to the office, we've got a key for you," the voice on the phone said.

Mrs. Pat Lopez recalls the day she received the call from the company's housing office telling her a new three-bedroom ranch house on Sunflower Street was waiting. The rent was $33.50 a month, the maximum on a rent scale which starts at $14 monthly.

The low rent is a big help to the Lopez family, which like others in Morenci will feel the effects of the recent eight-month copper strike for some time. Three days of every two week's pay is deducted by Phelps Dodge for credits extended during the strike.

★ ★ ★

"We're really in debt now," said Mrs. Lopez, as she sat in a living room almost dwarfed by a wall-length color television, radio and phonograph console.

$9,000 A YEAR

Mine laborers in Morenci, with only two days off out of every 28, average $9,000 a year, while skilled employes such as Mrs. Lopez's husband make much more.

★ ★ ★

Moolick said Phelps Dodge had 99 per cent of its workers return after the strike, a big factor in going ahead with its town relocation move.

★ ★ ★

"I honestly don't know whether a lot of them returned because of the money they owned the company," said Moolick. "I guess a lot of them just said, 'Well, this is home.'"

One woman, pausing a moment while shepherding four children down a steep hill, said her husband, an electrician in the smelter, never looked elsewhere for a job during the strike.

GOOD PLACE FOR KIDS

"We don't have any trouble like that in the cities," she explained. "It's a good place to bring up kids."

Indeed, Morenci doesn't even have what you can call a police force. "It's more like a caretaker's patrol," said one businessman.

Bacterium Holds Clue to Cancer

By Science Service

A new bacterium has been isolated from five cases of cancer in cows.

The Canadian Animal Diseases Research Institute reports that the initial isolation was made while growing the organism in broth.

★ ★ ★

Researchers there note that the bacterium possesses properties that would not normally be expected to be found in organisms inhabiting bovine tissues.

They not also that its sometimes spherical form may enable the bacterium to be "subtly hidden" within the living tissues.

★ ★ ★

Whether or not this bacterium plays a part in cancer is questionable, the discoverers say. But they suggest more research into a possible bacterial role in cancer.

Earliest important maps showed the coast lines of the Aegean Sea and were used by the Greek sailors.

Chevrolet's new Torque-Drive transmission costs just $68.65*

Stop. Go.
Stop. Go.
Stop. Go.
If you do a lot of this kind of driving (and who doesn't these days?) maybe it's time you put your foot down on clutching once and for all.

With Chevrolet's exclusive new Torque-Drive transmission, you can.

At a price far lower than has ever been possible before.

Nobody else has anything quite like it at the price. And you can have it on any Camaro or Chevy II Nova 6-cylinder model (or on any 4-cylinder Nova).

Torque-Drive does away with the clutch pedal. All you do is flick a lever, conveniently located on the steering column, into the appropriate position on the selector quadrant: Park-R-N-Hi-1st.

To accelerate from standstill, you shift only once—from 1st to Hi. If you like, you can even start in Hi. It's just a little slower that way.

One other advantage: Torque-Drive gives you gas economy comparable to that of a manual transmission. So check it out with your Chevrolet dealer. A combination gas-money-and-foot-saver like this is just too good to pass up.

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price including Federal Excise Tax. State and local taxes additional.

24-Year-Old Fair With New Name Will Be Much Enlarged

It's not the Community Activities, Inc., fair anymore. It's not the North Oakland County Fair. It's the Oakland County Fair.

This year's 24th annual event again will be held at the CAI building, 5640 Williams Lake, Waterford Township, June 20-23.

★ ★ ★

But the name of the fair will be different and it will be much enlarged.

Fair cochairmen Dean A. Salley and Richard Cooper are especially proud of what they call "the biggest act we have had out here."

AERIALIST TOWN

They're referring to the Sensational Leighs, a husband - wife aerialist team that performs from as high as 5½ stories in the air.

"It's a real death - defying act," said Salley. The Sensational Leighs are scheduled to perform twice daily during the four-day fair.

★ ★ ★

A genuine queen's pageant also will be held this year.

The winner will automatically qualify for the Miss Michigan Pageant in Muskegon this August. Chairman of the Miss Oakland County Pageant is Donald Arsen.

94 EXHIBITORS

Indicative of fair expansion is the fact that there will be 94 exhibitors' booths this year compared to only 38 last year.

Included among the events are karate and judo exhibitions, a magician performance, a penny scramble, a sack race, pony rides, a battle of the bands contest and a tug-of-war competition.

★ ★ ★

The judo display will be conducted by former national champion Otto Chanko of Livonia.

Army displays include a 35,000-pound, 53-foot-long artillery piece and an M60 tank.

NUCLEAR DISPLAY

Another display is entitled "Adapting to the Nuclear Age."

Twenty-three police and fire departments have been invited to participate in the tug-of-war contest.

A gigantic fireworks display, featuring 138 rockets, will be the night of June 22.

Other exhibits will be presented by the Gem and Mineral Club, Waterford Township Library, the Drayton Plains Nature Center, Boys' Club of Waterford Township and Waterford Township Police Department.

PARKING SITE GROWS

The parking area has been increased from eight to 13 acres this year. Also available for use are 10 acres of adjacent land.

Salley estimates parking is available for about 7,500 cars.

★ ★ ★

There is no admission charge. Major prizes include an automobile, a canoe, a stereo set and a boy's and a girl's bicycle.

RIDES AVAILABLE

Rides will be made available through Happyland Shows.

Salley said more than 400 volunteers will work at the fair.

★ ★ ★

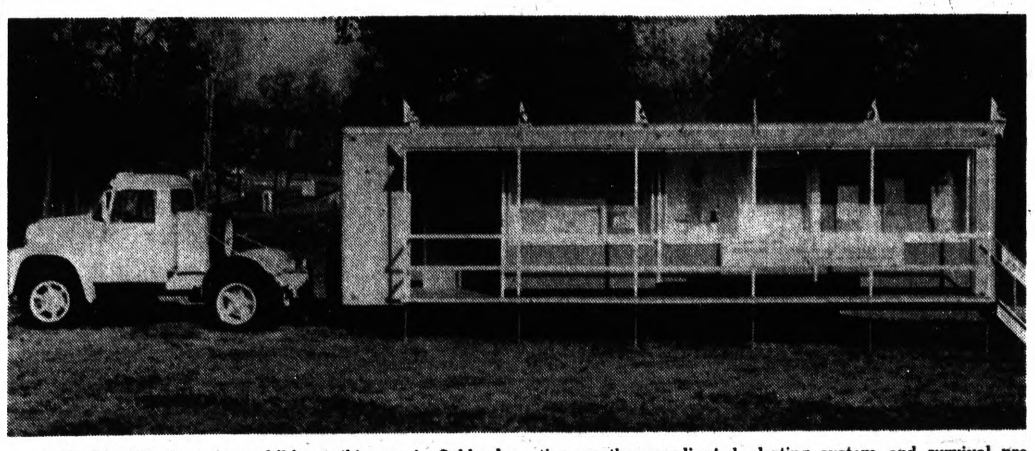
Proceeds will go to the CAI building fund.

Thieves Get Little Cash

Whoever took the new cash register at Dagmar's Kitchen, 7005 Cooley Lake, West Bloomfield Township, last night is in for a surprise.

While the machine is worth about $1,000, its contents amounted to at least no more than 25 cents, said township police.

The thieves entered by breaking a window and unlocking the front door, police added. Police spotted the break-in at 5:30 a.m.



'SHO-COACH'—A major exhibit at this year's Oakland County Fair will be this National Civil Defense sho-coach. A modified house trailer—the sides fold open to show information on the coordinated alerting system and survival procedures in case of enemy attack—it is 33 feet long, 15 feet wide and 10 feet high.

Farmer, Housewife Up in Arms

CHICAGO (AP) —If happiness is low food prices for the housewife and high crop prices for the farmer, there are plenty of unhappy people around.

The homemaker's complaint about high food prices and the farmer's lament over low income beat a melancholy tune.

How can both be true?

★ ★ ★

The answer is both simple and complex—simple in that the reasons are easy enough to pinpoint and complex in that the riddle has so far defied solution.

BASIC FACTORS

Here are the basic factors: The farmer normally cannot choose the time when he will sell. He usually has to sell at harvest—and pretty much at the offered price—or his crops spoil.

The cost of the middleman has risen sharply. This covers all the processing, packaging, and distribution that makes wheat into a loaf of bread on your table. The farmer and the purchaser pay these increased costs.

Buyers have become more selective. They want better foods prepared better. And this costs more.

Federal farm policy has, at times, created problems for the farmer.

GRAIN SITUATION

Take the grain situation in 1967, for example.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, saying he feared a world shortage, asked farmers to produce more grain. So they bought more seed and more fertilizer and used more machinery and labor for harvesting. The farmers' costs thus went up.

★ ★ ★

They produced record yields: 4.7 billion bushels of corn, 1.5 billion bushels of wheat and about 1 billion bushels of soybeans.

But while the crops were still in the ground, U.S. exports started slowing as countries in Europe, Africa and South America also harvested record or near-record crops.

And that wasn't all. Much rain and snow in this nation's corn belt delayed the harvest and much high moisture corn and soybeans resulted. These bring lower prices because they have to be commercially dried.

Now comes the middleman. His costs for labor and other things were climbing and so he bargained hard with the farmer. Then since he could not mak up all of his increasing costs just by paying low prices to the farmer, he had to pass on some higher food costs to the consumer—you.

Also a factor in prices at the consumer end is the housewife's desire for better meats with less fat, special diet foods, improved grains and fruit and vegetable strains. It costs more to produce these foods and they cost more to buy.

Frozen foods, too, are big sellers because of their convenience. They cost more to produce and more to buy.

COST OF LIVING

The federal government's cost of living index—of which food is a part—has risen over the past six months at a rate of 4 per cent a year.

The farmer's problems are revealed in statistics which show steadily increasing gross expenses for farmers and net income that has not kept pace with these increases.

★ ★ ★

In an attempt to force prices up, the National Farmers Organization has carried on campaigns to withhold from the market such items as grain and soybeans and some livestock.

Supplies tightened somewhat but the prices paid to farmers did not take off.

Weight Curbs Off

LANSING (AP) — Spring weight restrictions will be removed Friday from about 200 miles of highway in the upper peninsula, the state highway department said Wednesday. Restrictions in Lower Michigan were removed two weeks ago.

Crash in Nevada Claims Another F111

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Another F111A fighter-bomber, the $5-million swing-wing jet developed from the controversial TFX program, has crashed.

Both pilots parachuted safely as the camouflaged plane carrying secret combat gear ploughed into the desert Wednesday and was demolished.

* * *

The Air Force described the flight as a routine training mission and released no details of the crash 60 miles north of Las Vegas.

The plane was similar to three lost recently in Vietnam.

It was the eighth plane lost of two types developed from the TFX, the tactical fighter experimental program pushed by Robert S. McNamara when he was secretary of the defense. McNamara said he aimed at incorporating a common basic design for both the Air Force and Navy.

NAVY VERSION CRASHED

In 1967 a Navy version of the plane, designated F111B, crashed during a test program at Long Island, N.Y., killing two civilian test pilots.

Three F111A Air Force versions, carrying top secret bombing and navigational equipment on Vietnam combat missions out of Takli, Thailand, were lost shortly after the first arrived in Southeast Asia last March.

* * *

Although six planes were assigned to Takli, operational testing of the fighter-bomber has not been completed at Nellis Air Force Base, Nev., to develop tactics and doctrines for combat operation.

Neither the wreckage nor the crew was found of the first F111A to crash in Southeast Asia, within three days after going into combat.

The second crashed several days later in Thailand, and its crew was rescued. This crash was attributed to a capsule of sealing material lodged in the flight controls and combat missions were resumed after the F111s were grounded briefly.

Within three weeks, the third F111A was lost. North Vietnam claimed to have shot it down.

Three others crashed earlier, in the United States. The first was Jan. 18, 1967, at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.; the second Oct. 19, 1967, at Bowie, Tex., and the third at Edwards last Jan. 2. One pilot was killed in these accidents.

The pilots of the F111A which crashed Wednesday were identified as Maj. Charles Van Driel, 35, an instructor, and Maj. Kenneth A. Schuppe, 38, a trainee, both of Las Vegas and attached to the 4527th combat crew training squadron at Nellis.

Their cockpit section was rocketed clear of the plane like a space capsule, and lowered by parachute.

Crash Claims to Be Pressed

Hare Says He'll Sue Uninsured Drivers

LANSING (AP) — Secretary of State James Hare Wednesday promised legal action against uninsured motorists who fail to repay the motor vehicle accident claims funds which compensates unprotected accident victims.

"We will take to court every case in which the uninsured motorist appears to be collectible, but who has refused or neglected to pay," Hare said.

* * *

"I think the fund has done a creditable job in recovering money for claims paid," he said. "But I believe that repayment can be increased substantially through court action."

Hare said that after more than two years of operation, the fund listed at the end of February more than $2.05 million in receivables from uninsured motorists. Of that amount, he said, some $1.72 million still is outstanding, $89,828 written off as uncollectible and the remainder has been repaid.

MANY REPAY

More than half, or 57.9 per cent, of all uninsured motorists have paid the state's claims in full or are repaying on installment, Hare said. These repayments, however, were only 11.7 per cent of the cumulative total owing the fund, he added.

"Most of these people are honest and make an honest effort to repay," Hare said. "But uninsured motorists generally are people of low income who were unable to buy the needed insurance at today's prices."

* * *

Hare said that despite the relatively low repayment rate, the fund is in "excellent condition" and estimated that it will reach $30 million by the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

State Survey Puts 60 Pct. Against LBJ War Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survey conducted by Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., in his southwest Lower Michigan 4th District showed 60 per cent of those replying were not in favor of President Johnson's conduct of the Vietnam war.

Approval of the President's war conduct came from 22 per cent, up from the four per cent response from a similar question last year.

* * *

In making the results of the survey public, Hutchinson said 10,000 families took part in the survey in his seven-county district including Allegan, Berrien, Branch, Cass, Hillsdale, St. Joseph and Van Buren counties.

Hutchinson said nearly all who responded did so after Johnson's March 31 announcement of limited bombing against North Vietnam and his decision against running for another term.

Ferries Become Shelters Afloat

LEWES, Del. (AP) — The Lewes-Cape May, N.J., ferry now has what the Delaware River and Bay Authority calls the nation's first two floating fallout shelters. shelters.

The Delaware, flagship of the four-ferry fleet, and the New Jersey have been outfited with 10,500 pounds of food, water and medical supplies. Officials said this is enough to supply 1,600 persons on each vessel.

Court Issues Warning on Convictions

LANSING (AP) — The State Supreme Court served notice on criminals Wednesday that it will not overturn convictions based on pleas of guilty simply because of "semantic nuances" and minor violations of court rules.

★ ★ ★

The court said that because of recent federal decisions relating to a defendant's right to a lawyer, there has been a "flood of applications" from prisoners asking to have their sentences overturned.

★ ★ ★

Few of them, a court majority observed, claim to be innocent. "The thrust recurringly is that there was an error in the form of the acceptance of the plea."

"The entire thrust of our statutes and our court rule is to deny to a convicted felon the benefit of judicial oversights or miscues which do not go to the merits of his conviction," wrote Justice Thomas Brennan, with three justices concurring.

ALLEGED ERRORS

The court generally was divided 6-2 Wednesday in deciding four similar cases, all involving persons who plead guilty to felonies and later were refused permission to retract their pleas because of alleged errors made by the trial judges.

Justices Theodore Souris and Thomas Kavanagh dissented from all four decisions.

In one case, the court rejected the contention that a person must "expressly" waive his right to a lawyer, though holding a trial judge must inform him of that right. It overturned an earlier ruling by the State Appeals Court.

The defendant in that case, Phillip Hodby, had been told of his right to counsel, but had never specifically said he did not want one.

MAJORITY VOICE

The "express waiver" contention "is not the majority voice of this court, nor am I able to find that express waiver of counsel is required by any U.S. Supreme Court decision," said Justice Michael O'Hara.

Chief Justice John Dethmers and Justices Harry Kelly, Eugene Black and Brennan agreed. Justice Paul Adams, in a separate ruling, said express waiver is "highly desirable" but not required.

★ ★ ★

Nor, said the court majority, is it necessary for a trial judge to tell a defendant, before accepting his guilty plea, the maximum sentence he faces. The appeals court had ruled he must.

The four decisions emphasized the belief of a high court majority that "minor" errors and oversights by the trial judge in accepting a guilty plea are not by themselves grounds for overturning a conviction.

★ ★ ★

"A convicted criminal no longer enjoys the presumption of innocence," Brennan wrote. He has the burden of showing something more than technical noncompliance with a rule."

Police Week Is Designated

LANSING (AP)—Calling for elimination of "public apathy and indifference toward law enforcement," Gov. George Romney has proclaimed the week of May 12-19 as "police week" in Michigan.

"There is, as there should be, an acute public awareness about an alarming increase in crime in our communities and injury and death on our highways," said the governor's proclamation, which also designated May 15 as "peace officers memorial day."

Death for Snipers Urged

LANSING (AP) — Rep. Anthony Licata, R-Detroit, said Wednesday a poll in his west side district showed overwhelming support of the death penalty for convicted riot snipers.

Licata said 1,626 respondents supported the idea, while 418 opposed and 189 expressed no opinion. The Michigan Constitution forbids capital punishment.

★ ★ ★

He said he received 2,300 return questionnaires, about 30 per cent of the number he mailed.

Respondents voted 2,097 to 68 for more policemen in Detroit, but 372 to 1,698 against a proposed increase in the one per cent city income tax.

STRONG ENDORSEMENT

They strongly endorsed mandatory minimum penalties for felonies, a state stop-and-frisk law, and publication of the names of juveniles accused of felonies. They voted 678 to 1,447 against state aid to private and parochial schools.

World's longest avenue of palms is the three-mile Victory Drive bordering Savannah, Ga.

Man Wanted in State Killing Is Found Slain

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A body found in the trunk of an automobile at the Atlanta Airport has been identified as that of a Detroit man, police reported.

The victim was identified as Robert Joseph Dunaway, 37, a bar owner sought on charges of murder and kidnaping in the fatal beating last March of Sam Dimaggio, 57.

★ ★ ★

Police theorized that Dimaggio was beaten because he failed to pay off a Mafia loan shark. Three others have been arrested in connection with the slaying.

Dimaggio, manager of a Detroit produce market, was abducted from his Sterling Township house and hours later was dumped in the middle of a street in front of his house.

SEARCHING FOR OWNER

Police in Atlanta and Detroit are searching for the owner of the automobile in which Dunaway's body was found.

Michigan authorities said the 1964 sports car was registered under the names of Mary Jane Salvadori and Joan Masters, both of Detroit. However, detectives said one woman may have been registered under her maiden name as well as her married name.

★ ★ ★

Police said Dunaway was shot to death and has been dead for several weeks. The body was badly decomposed.

★ ★ ★

The body was face down. There was a diamond ring on the left hand and the trousers pockets had been turned out. Police said there was no billfold.

FOUND IN TRUNK

The body was clad in a shirt, trousers, socks and shoes and a blue windbreaker jacket was found in the trunk.

The body was discovered after R. L. Michols of Greensboro, N.C., walked through the parking lot as he was about to board an airplane. He noticed an odor and fluid dripping from the trunk.

Actor's Death Ruled Accident

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The coroner's office says actor Albert Dekker died accidentally, with a rope knotted around the neck.

"This certainly is a strange death," Deputy Coroner Herbert McRoy said Wednesday. "But just because there was a rope around his neck does not mean that he committed suicide.

★ ★ ★

"We have no information that this individual planned to take his own life."

McRoy said an autopsy showed Dekker, 62, died of suffocation.

★ ★ ★

Treed Bear Freed

TAOS, N.M. (AP) — Benny Martinez is accustomed to bears but not in his 60-foot cottonwood tree. After an afternoon of coaxing including water from a fire hose and tranquilizers shot from guns, the animal was driven to the ground. Game officials took the 300-pound black bear to nearby mountains to wear off his drug-induced lethargy.

Most Negro Officials See Few Gains for Ghetto Dwellers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The handful of Negroes who hold public office say the cause of civil rights didn't gain enough ground last year for the Negroes who inhabit America's slums to see any change for the better in their lives.

"Those locked in the ghetto did not really feel the progress that was made," said state Sen. John W. E. Bowen, an Ohio Republican who was among four dozen elected Negro officials surveyed by the Associated Press.

★ ★ ★

Only a minority of those replying to the questionnaire thought that the cause of civil rights made over-all advances in 1967. Many of them pointed to a problem that is receiving more and more attention as riots grow more and more common — the fact that not all levels of the Negro community benefit equally from what is being done.

Arthur Fletcher, a city councilman in Pasco, Wash., said college-trained Negroes and skilled blue-collar workers are much better off, but added that they make up less than 20 per cent of the Negro population.

LITTLE CHANGE

"The remaining 80 per cent who were either marginally employed or definitely hard-core unemployed found little measurable change in their personal circumstances during the year 1967," Fletcher said.

Among those who agreed with Fletcher were state Rep. Hughes E. McGill of Kentucky, Alderman Vel R. Phillips of Milwaukee and state Sen. Bowen of Ohio.

★ ★ ★

Most Negro officials singled out poverty and social decay in the slums as the most important problems facing the nation this election year.

A large proportion of those naming slums as the most important problem refused to divorce them from the Vietnam war, which they contend is draining off needed money.

SHARP DIVERGENCE

There was sharp disagreement over possible splits between Negro teen-agers and their parents, or between poor- and middle-income Negroes.

But the officials overwhelmingly said they believed increasing emphasis on community organization within Negro slums is a good sign, and that most of their constituents are not yet ready to agree with Negroes who have abandoned integration as a lost cause.

★ ★ ★

The survey, made before the April 4 assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the resulting riots, predicted more racial turmoil this summer.

More than a third of the officials said advancements in some areas were balanced by regression in others for no over-all change.

'STALEMATE'

"Stalemate," said state Sen. Barbara Jordan of Texas ". . . The mood of the county was one of reluctance to move ahead legislatively and to solidify the gains that had been made."

"The problem of Vietnam and race problems are so intertwined that they can't be separated . . . ," said state Sen. Coleman Young of Michigan.

★ ★ ★

"You can't ignore Vietnam which is sopping up everything in sight. I don't care what LBJ says, there just can't be enough for both guns and butter, so you get more guns and less butter."

America's changing racial scene — and the fact that different generations and social classes express their frustrations in different ways — was reflected by 29 officials who saw evidence of an age or class split within the Negro community.

"Those of us who are older grew up under a system which made you, well, conservative," said state Sen. Boce Barlow of Connecticut. "You were conscious there were certain things you couldn't do . . . you were conditioned to it.

"I was probably satisfied to listen to a political science instructor say, 'In 20 years things will be better.' But the young ones aren't satisfied with this."

Mixed with this attitude, however, was the feeling represented by Rep. Franklin W. Holgate, assistant Democratic leader in the Massachusetts House, who saw ". . . a definite emphasis on community organization which is narrowing the gap between these . . . groups."

★ ★ ★

"I don't think many older Negroes realize that many unskilled jobs — the kind they could do while going to school — now have been taken over by automation and aren't available to teen-agers now," said state Rep. June Franklin of Iowa.

'IMPATIENT'

"It is time Negroes of my age group realized and listened to some of the things young Negroes are saying. They haven't been conditioned and gone through some of the things we've gone through, and they're impatient — they can see the hypocrisy."

Despite these differences between old and young, the officials almost unanimously agreed that their constituents are not yet ready to listen to those who argue that integration is a dead issue.

★ ★ ★

"I don't believe the majority is agreeing with them," said Georgia Davis, Kentucky's first Negro state senator. "But let me make it clear that the majority is frustrated, tired and despairing."

Most of the officials were Democrats, and consequently most said they placed their faith for more opportunities in the Democratic party. But there were a few exceptions.

'VOTE FOR INDIVIDUALS'

Bowen, a Republican, urged what he called a "more fluid" political stance for Negroes. Voting for individuals and programs instead of parties, he said, would force both parties to be more responsive to Negro needs.

"Southern Negroes are going to continue their identification with the Democratic party, and big-city Negroes probably will too," said state Rep. Julian Bond, a Georgia Democrat.

"Operating on the theory that both parties are full of rascals, it's best to belong to the party of the rascals in power."

★ ★ ★

A number of top Negro officials did not answer the AP questionnaire including U. S. Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., and Mayors Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., and Carl B. Stokes of Cleveland, Ohio, both Democrats.

Oakland 'Catfish' Stings Minnesota With Perfect Game, 4-0

Hunter Blanks Twins, Drives in Three Runs

By the Associated Press

It has been an adventuresome 22 years for Jim "Catfish" Hunter who pitched his way out of Hertford, N.C., and into the record book with the ninth perfect game in modern baseball history Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

Hunter drove in three runs with a pair of singles and mowed down 27 straight Minnesota hitters for the second no-hitter of the young baseabll season, beating the Twins 4-0.

AFTER 46 YEARS

It was the first regular season perfect game in 46 years in the American League and it's a cinch it was the first masterpiece hurled by a pitcher with only nine toes.

★ ★ ★

Hunter, who pocketed $75,000 of Charlie Finley bonus money in 1964, lost the big toe on his right foot in a hunting accident in November, 1963. Shortly after signing with the A's, who still were in Kansas City then, Hunter was hospitalized to have shotgun pellets removed from his foot.

SLOWS PROGRESS

The operation slowed his progress and at one point the A's considered dropping the young right-hander but the big bonus investment convinced them to stick with him and he came through handsomely.

★ ★ ★

Wednesday's masterpiece against the Twins might have shaken most young pitchers. But not Catfish. He'd been this route before.

★ ★ ★

In 1963, Hunter threw another perfect game—for Perquimans County High School back in Hertford, N. C.

It's understandable why Catfish had to spell the name of the school five times to newsmen. After all, they must have been nervous. Few had seen any perfect games before.

GETS NICKNAME

Hunter, who got his nickname from his parents after he ran away from home when he was a youngster and returned with two catfish, earned an immediate $5,000 raise from Finley for his perfect game.

★ ★ ★

The last American League pitcher to hurl a perfect game was Don Larsen, who did it for the New York Yankees against Brooklyn in the 1956 World Series. Before that in the American League, you have to go back to Charlie Robertson, who did it for the Chicago White Sox against Detroit April 30, 1922.

★ ★ ★

More recently there have been Jim Bunning for Philadelphia in 1964 and Sandy Koufax for the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1965.

★ ★ ★

Catfish was also the batting star for the A's, driving in three of their four runs. He struck out 11 and finished with a flourish, fanning Rich Reese after the pinch hitter had fouled off five straight pitches.

NO EMPTY-HANDED HUNTER — Teammates Jim Pagliaroni (17) and Sal Bando (center) swarm over Oakland Athletics' hurler Jim (Catfish) Hunter after he whiffed Minnesota's Rich Reese for the 27th and final out in his perfect game last night. The youthful pitcher also drove in three runs with a pair of singles in his 4-0 victory. Reese added to the suspense by fouling off five pitches before missing the final one.

Tigers Win, 3-1

Northrup's Bat, Glove Shine

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A sensational diving catch by Jim Northrup has brought the Detroit Tigers back to within one-half game of the American League lead.

★ ★ ★

Northrup's catch, with the bases filled and two out in the eighth inning Wednesday night, ended the only real threat in Detroit's 3-1 victory over the leading Baltimore Orioles.

★ ★ ★

The 6-foot-2 centerfielder also slammed his fourth home run of the year off loser Dave McNally to give the Tigers a 1-0 lead in the first inning.

THIRD FOR WILSON

Earl Wilson gave up seven hits, walked one and struck out four in picking up his third victory of the season, although he was relieved by Jon Warden after Boog Powell and Davey Nelson led off the ninth with singles.

★ ★ ★

The victory raised Wilson's lifetime record against the Orioles to 17-5 and gave Detroit a 2-1 mark in its three-game stand with the birds. It was the second straigth win after a week in which the Tigers lost five of seven games and slumped to two and a half games off the pace.

McNally, now 3-2, gave up single runs in the second and sixth innings in addition to Northrup's homer.

FINAL RUN

A single by Willie Horton, a double by Don Wert and Dick Tracewski's sacrifice fly accounted for the second-inning run, while doubles by Al Kaline and Horton pushed across another in the sixth.

★ ★ ★

The Orioles had their lead-off batter on six times against Wilson but didn't threaten until the eighth when a bunt single, an error and a walk loaded the bases to set the stage for Northrup's diving catch of Brooks Robinson's line drive to right center.

★ ★ ★

After Powell and Johnson led off the ninth with singles, Warden came in and retired pinch-hitter Frank Robinson — who was making his first appearance since April 20 — and Mark Belanger on routine flies to Northrup. But Powell scored when Wert fumbled Andy Etchebarren's grounder. Paul Blair struck out to end the game.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers have the day off today, travel to Washington Friday for a three-game stand with the eighth-place Senators and return to Detroit for two more home games against the Orioles Tuesday and Wednesday.

Kalamazoo Cager Awaits Trial for Dope Possession

KALAMAZOO (AP) — A 21-year-old Kalamazoo College basketball star was free on $1,000 bond today awaiting trial on a charge of selling marijuana.

★ ★ ★

The student, Robert Trenary, was bound over to Kalamazoo County Circuit Court Wednesday following a preliminary hearing in Kalamazoo Municipal Court.

Trenary, who was captain of the Kalamazoo College basketball team last season, was accused of selling 13 ounces of marijuana to a police officer in Kalamazoo last Feb. 15.

★ ★ ★

An alleged accomplice, 21-year-old Laura Browne, pleaded innocent in Circuit Court last month to a similar charge. Trial date was set for Sept. 10.

Florida State Rated No. 1 Baseball Squad

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Florida State, unbeaten in 21 games, remained atop the college baseball poll of the newspaper, Collegiate Baseball, Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Others in the Top Ten of the University Division, in order were Minnesota, 25-6; Southern California, 28-11; Stanford, 30-8; Arizona State, 33-12; Santa Clara, 25-8; New Mexico, 36-8; Tulsa, 18-2; Texas, 19-7, and Texas A&M, 19-7.

Finley Has Reward for Happy Hunter

OAKLAND (AP) — "At $5,000 a shot I'll take all the no-hitters I can get," said a jubilant Jim "Catfish" Hunter Wednesday night.

He had just fired a third strike past Minnesota Twins pinch hitter Rich Reese on a 3-2 count—after Reese had fouled off five pitches—and recorded the first regular season perfect game pitched in the American League in 46 years.

"I just wanted to throw strikes with my fast balls," said the 22-year-old Hertford, N.C., native.

★ ★ ★

"It was my second perfect game," said Hunter. "I threw one back in 1963 for Perpuimans County High School. I don't remember whether it was seven or nine innings."

Then the 6-foot, 192-pound right-hander patiently spelled the high school's name five times for sports writers.

"Mr. Finley (owner Charles Finley) called me and said, 'You just cost me $5,000,'" related the Catfish. "I asked him who won it and he told me, 'You did. I'm giving you a bonus.'"

Hunter had three hits in four trips to the plate in the 4-0 victory. He singled in two of the A's three runs in the ninth.

"Sure, I was thinking about the no-hitter a little when I hit. But I wanted to get some runs," he said.

It was the second no-hitter for plate umpire Jerry Neudecker. Last year he worked Joel Horlen's no-hitter for Chicago against Detroit.

"I wasn't excited," said Neudecker. "I have a job to do and I have to bear down just as much as the pitcher."

FOUND DEAD — Former U.S. Open and Masters Golf champion Craig Wood was found dead yesterday in a hotel room at Palm Beach, Fla. The 67-year-old Wood, who won both coveted links titles in 1941, apparently died of natural causes.

Ex-Golfer Wood Dies in Florida

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Craig Wood, one of the golfing greats of the 1930s and winner of the U.S. Open and Masters in 1941, is dead at 67. He was elected to the PGA Golf Hall of Fame in 1956.

★ ★ ★

Wood's body was found in his Palm Beach hotel room Wednesday. Police said he apparently had died Tuesday of natural cuses.

★ ★ ★

During his heyday, Wood was known as the "Bridesmaid." Until his sweep of the U.S. Open and Masters in 1941, he had been runner-up in the Open, Masters, PGA and British Open.

★ ★ ★

In 1935, the winner's check in the Masters had been made out in his name. He was accepting congratulations in the clubhouse at Augusta when Gene Sarazen made his phenomenal double eagle to tie for the lead. Sarazen then beat Wood in a playoff.

ABA Picks President

Fleming to Work Out

AL WATROUS

Watrous 'Night' Tomorrow

Members at Oakland Hills will take time tomorrow for a 'Thank You' evening at which they'll honor their long-time pro and one of Michigan's top golf winners.

It'll be Al Watrous night at the club in honor of the 69-year-old Watrous who served as head professional at the famed layout from 1930 through 1967. Touring pro Mike Souchak stepped into the post when Watrous retired.

EVERY STATE TITLE

Watrous' golfing career started before World War I and since that time he won every state championship from the caddie event to the PGA seniors.

The smooth-swinging Watrous won the Michigan PGA a record nine times, the Michigan Open six times, also a record, and the Michigan Seniors five times.

★ ★ ★

Along with his dominance on the Michigan scene, Watrous won the Canadian Open in 1922, and in one of his finest performances, he finished second to the great Bobby Jones in the 1926 British Open.

Near Free-for-All Mars Yankees' Win

NEW YORK (AP) — A ninth inning double by Andy Kosco and a single by Jacke Gibbs gave the New York Yankees a 2-1 victory over Cleveland Wednesday in a game marked by a near free-for-all fight.

THROW PUNCHES

Gene Michael, Yankee shortstop, and Tony Horton, Indians' first baseman, threw punches at each other around first base in the fifth inning and for a while it appeared both teams might join the melee.

After about 10 minutes peace was restored. Both Michael and Horton were ejected from the game and the Indians' starting pitcher Steve Hargan, finished the inning but was then removed for a pinch hitter.

The rumpus started when Horton apparently tagged Michael too hard on a pickoff attempt.

Michael swung and the two exchanged blows. In the commotion, Horton nailed Michael with a right on the chin. Michael almost knocked down his coach, Whitey Ford, before he could be subdued.

LOSING PITCHER

Eddie Fisher, who entered the game in the ninth as the fourth Cleveland pitcher, was the loser. The winner was Joe Verbanic, who went into the game at the start of the eighth after starter Bill Monbouquette had been removed for a pinch hitter.

The Indians scored in the first inning on consecutive singles by Jose Cardenal and Chico Salmon and two infield outs.

THREE AGAINST ONE? — What appears to be three New York Yankees tangling with Cleveland first baseman Tony Horton (facing camera) is actually scuffling between Horton and NY's Gene Michael (center) with the Yankees' Bob Cox (14) and Whitey Ford (16) trying to intervene. Michael and Horton squared off after the Indian first sacker put a hard tag on the baserunner during an attempted pickoff Wednesday afternoon at Yankee Stadium.

Rebel '400' Shaping Up to Be Fastest in History

DARLINGTON, S. C. (AP) — The 64,950 Rebel 400-mile stock car race at Darlington International Raceway Saturday is shaping up as the fastest in its history.

All eight drivers who qualified in Wednesday's first day of trials eclipsed the four-lap mark of 145.931 set by David Pearson last year.

The fastest, Lee Roy Yarbrough in a factory - sponsored Ford Torino, was almost three miles an hour better at 148.850.

CLOCKED

Pearson was clocked at 148.751 this time, also in a factory Ford, and was second to Yarbrough. Four Fords, a Mercury, a Dodge and two Plymouths made the first eight places.

Eight more will qualify today for the 36-car field. Those trying will include Mercury's Cale Yarborough and Plymouth's Richard Petty, who didn't run Wednesday because of engine troubles.

THIRD EVENT

This will be the third superspeedway event in the South this year. Yarborough won the other two, at Daytona and Atlanta, but has never won at Darlington.

★ ★ ★

Following Yarbrough and Pearson in Wednesday's qualifying were:

Darel Dieringer, Plymouth, 148.419; Bobby Allison, Ford, 148.335; Donnie Allison, Ford, 147.821; Buddy Baker, Dodge Charger, 147.254; Tiny Lund, Mercury, 147.188; and Curtis Turner, Plymouth, 146.125.

Mrs. Panasiuk Wins

Steady Round in WMGA

Playing steady golf, Mrs. Nick Panasiuk of Elmhurst, Ont., led the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association members around Salem Hills Golf Club Wednesday afternoon.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Panasiuk posted 43-43—86 to outplay Mrs. Max Evans of Southfield by three strokes. Mrs. Evans won last week's opening day outing.

Although having five three put greens, Mrs. Panasiuk actually only had one bad shot all day. But the huge greens at Salem Hills proved troublesome to most of the 73 women who turned out for the four flights of play.

Novi's Mrs. Midge Cova and Mrs. David Mortimer of Birmingham tied for third with 91s in the championship round.

★ ★ ★

Two Detroiters, Mrs. Charles Zahm and Mrs. William Foster, deadlocked for the first flight low gross laurels, and Mrs. Zahm won the playoff on the first hole.

Security Is Questioned at Churchill Downs

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Varying reports concerning the security tightness at Churchill Downs have emerged in the wake of the disqualification of Dancer's Image as Kentucky Derby winner.

Owner Peter Fuller has charged that "anybody could have got to the horse before the race." The gray colt was disqualified as Derby winner after a urine analysis showed phenylbutazone in its blood.

The head of security at the Downs, Alvin Schem, says, "I don't care what anyone says, no outsider could have had easy access to barn 24 where that horse was stabled."

GAIN ACCESS

However, a reporter for the Louisville Courier-Journal said today that he and a fellow re-Porter were able to gain access to barn 24 at 1:30 a.m., Wednesday morning, the last night Dancer's Image was housed at the Downs.

Sports writer Billy Reed said he and Jim Bolus gained admittance to the track by showing an official parking sticker and then drove to the barn area, making no attempt to conceal their moves.

★ ★ ★

Once in the barn area, "we slammed the car doors. I crinkled up a paper sack. Still, there was no response from inside the barn."

ROUSE GUARD

Reed said he went up to the barn, looking in a window and saw a guard sitting in the middle of the room.

"His chin rested on his heaving chest. His eyelids were closed. He appeared to be asleep."

Reed said they roused the guard, who gave the reporters his name and he was 72 years old.

"He said he had been the night guard at barn No. 24—where Dancer's Image and Iron Ruler had been quartered the week before the Derby—for the past 10 nights."

★ ★ ★

The reporters asked to see Dancer's Image, and as the guard led them to the colt's stall he reportedly said, "I'm not to leave anyone in . . . I ain't even supposed to let you all in.

"As we walked toward stall No. 7, the guard told us that there was no other guard in the barn at night, and there had been no others there the week before."

The Derby was run Saturday. The guard said he didn't remember trainer Lou Cavalaris visiting the barn last Saturday morning and said he had never seen owner Fuller.

★ ★ ★

"Nobody's been here at night but me," he assured the reporters.

Previous to publication of Reed's story, Schem said he didn't believe any guards were sleeping before the Derby.

★ ★ ★

"These men are trained men and they realize the importance of their job in protecting Derby entries."

Redskins Entering Critical Stretch

Milford's bid for its eighth baseball championship in the past 11 years in the Wayne-Oakland League should reach high gear or get sidetracked in the next five days.

The Redskins are 6-2 in the W-O race and 9-2, over-all, after beating Kettering yesterday, 8-3, and they have three straight league contests coming up which could well decide who reigns in the loop this season.

★ ★ ★

Northville is leading the loop with a 7-1 record and the Mustangs entertain Milford on Monday; but before that, both have two games with lther loop foes on the slate.

Milford visits Bloomfield Hills Andover this afternoon and plays host to Clarkston Saturday.

★ ★ ★

The Redskins rapped out 11 hits in knocking off Kettering yesterday.

CLOUTS TRIPLE

Bob Clinard started the Skins on the road to victory with a triple in the second that chased home a run and he later scored on a squeeze as Milford took a 2-0 lead. Catcher Larry Vick doubled home two more in a three-run third to up the count to 5-0.

★ ★ ★

Sharing in the hitting assault for the Skins were Rich Sharp (double and single), Mark Giegler (two singles), Ken Thorpe (two singles) and John Stanley (home run). Giegler's work at the plate raised his season average to .423.

In other baseball action, Southfield spotted Royal Oak Kimball four runs in the first two innings and came on to post a 6-5 victory, and Bloomfield Hills Lahser also came from behind to whip Dearborn Annapolis.

Kimball (3-5) managed five of their six hits in the first two frames before Southfield pitching ace left-hander Gary Betous came on two put out the fire. Betrus, taking over in the third, allowed only one hit the rest of the way.

A bases-loaded triple by Rocky Roe and Jim Walters' single tied the score at 4-all in the third inning, and Doug Digue singled home the final two markers in the fifth for Southfield. Steve Koshorek picked up two hits in three trips for Kimball.

Southfield, now 8-2, also downed Highland Park on Tuesday, 4-3.

FOURTH WIN

Trailing 3-1 going into the fifth, Lahser pushed across four runs and went on to post its fourth win in six outings.

Greg Bullock led the Lahser attack with two hits and three RBI. Jeff Kezlarian collected two hits and two RBI, while Doug Wagner accounted for another run with a solo homer in the first.

Top Wrestlers Attempt Qualifying for Olympics

AMES, Iowa (AP) — More than 250 of the country's top wrestlers got down to the serious business of trying to make the U.S. Olympic team today.

It was the first of five days of competition at Iowa State University that will help determine the U.S. representatives in the Olympics at Mexico City next fall.

QUALIFIERS

Actually, more than 400 wrestlers had qualified for the trials here, but officials said for one reason or another, more than 150 passed up the meet.

However, the field does include eight of this year's 11 NCAA champions, and all but one of last month's national AAU champions.

★ ★ ★

NCAA winners on hand are Dale Anderson of Michigan State, Wayne Wells of Oklahoma, Mike Gallego of Fresno State, Bob Justice of Colorado, Dave Porter of Michigan and Dan Gable, Dale Bahr and Reg Wicks, all of Iowa State.

Heading the AAU delegation are Olympian Russ Camilleri of San Francisco, who has won 10 AAU titles, and Larry Kristoff of Chicago, runnerup in the last Olympics and twice the No. 2 heavyweight in the World Games.

★ ★ ★

First and second round free style competition was being held Thursday. The third and fourth rounds will be Friday, with the semifinals and finals Saturday.

ABA Muskies Report Loss

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Muskies of the American Basketball Association made public Wednesday that they lost nearly a half million dollars in their first year of operation.

At the same time, the Muskies reported a land-rush flood of inquiries into their public sale of stock at $1 a share — viewed by some as a last-ditch effort to keep the club in Minnesota.

AILING ACE — Clarkston is hopeful that ailing netter Kim Beattie will be on hand when the Wolves entertain Bloomfield Hills Andover Monday. Beattie injured his back last week but he's expected to be back in action when the Wolves tackle Andover, the only team to beat them in 12 outings this season.

Clarkston's Wolves Own 11-1 Net Mark

Clarkston's Wolves ran their tennis record to 11-1 yesterday by pinning an easy 5-0 setback on Holly's Broncos.

Kirk Beattie and Mark Erickson swept their singles matches, while Scott Ribbons and Mark Walters teamed to blank their foes in one of the two doubles events.

★ ★ ★

Rochester swept all but the No. 1 doubles in topping Warren Fitzgerald, 6-1, to make the winners' record 6-1 for the season.

New Orleans Next PGA Stop

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A veteran PGA official predicted today as the $100,000 Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament got under way that Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus will no longer be able to dominate the play for pay ranks.

"No, not because they're off their game," quickly added Bob Gorham, the PGA's field secretary. "It's because there are so darn many good players coming on the tour these days. It is just that the competition is getting better and better, stiffer and stiffer and no one man can really dominate the game."

He points to this year's money list, in which eight of the top 60 have been on the tour less than two years, plus the field of the GNOO.

Fifteen pros survived the PGA's Approved Tournament Player School at Palm Beach Garden, Fla., earlier this month, earning the right to join the lucrative tour.

Cubs' Niekro Is Winner Despite Rocky's Homers

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Niekro of the Chicago Cubs owned his fifth straight National League pitching victory today, no thanks to a slugging refugee from the American League, Rocky Colavito of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Niekro got the decision but wasn't around at the finish Wednesday when the Cubs staggered to a 7-6 triumph over the Dodgers as Colavito slammed across five runs on his first two National League homers.

ATLANTA (AP) — Roberto Clemente's sacrifice fly in the 4th inning gave Pittsburgh a 4-3 victory over Atlanta Wednesday night.

Cecil Upshaw, the third Atlanta pitcher, started the inning by walking pinch-hitter Gary Kolb. Maury Wills forced him and went to second when Matty Alou beat out an infield hit.

Wills and Alou worked a double steal and Wills scored on Clemente's fly to right. Ron Kline, who came in the game in the ninth, was the winning pitcher.

The Pirates scored two runs in the eighth, tying the game 3-3, on a pair of singles, two wild pitches by Atlanta starter Phil Niekro, and a throwing error by catcher Marty Martinez.

Pitcher's Bat Helps Giants

Clutch Catch Helps Cards Win

★ ★ ★

Dick Simpson and Dal Maxvill led off the third inning with singles. Carlton then wheig ed gles. Carlton then weighed in with a single to score one run. The runners advanced on an infield out and Julian Javier rapped a hit off loser Al Jackson to apparently drive in both runners.

But the Mets appealed that Carlton had missed third base and umpire Doug Harvey upheld the appeal. That took away one run from the Cardinals and an RBI from Javier.

★ ★ ★

The Mets had one hit until Greg Goossen singled in the seventh. That was the only inning that saw Carlton in trouble.

Jerry Grote followed with a double putting men on second and third. But third baseman Shannon lunged high into the air, speared Jerry Buchek's smash and stepped on third for an unassisted double play.

HOUSTON (AP) — Pitcher Ray Sadecki's second double of the game ignited a two-run ninth inning rally that gave the San Francisco Giants a 3-1 victory over Houston Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

Sadecki, 4-2, held the Astros hitless until the seventh inning and yielded just two hits until the ninth, when he needed relief help from Frank Linzy and Joe Gibbon.

★ ★ ★

Sadecki doubled to right center leadnig off the ninth, took third on Ron Hunt's bunt single and scored the go-ahead run on a single by Willie Mays, which chased Astros starter Larry Dierker.

Hunt took third on Mays' hit and tallied an insurance run on a sacrifice fly by Willie McCovey.

The Astros threatened with none out in the bottom of the ninth when pinch hitter Doug Rader singled and Ron Davis doubled. Sadecki struck out Ivan Murrell and Linzy and Gibbon retired one man apiece, nailing the victory.

NBA Completes Draft

No Bonus War Over UCLA Cagers

NEW YORK (AP) — There will be no bonus war over the three UCLA seniors drafted by the pro basketball leagues this year, but that certainly won't be the situation with at least one UCLA player next year.

Mike Warren, Mike Lynn and Edgar Lacey all were drafted by teams in only one of the leagues.

Warren, drafted by Los Angeles of the American Basketball Association Sunday, was by-passed in the National Basketball Association draft Wednesday.

IGNORED BY ABA

Lynn and Lacey, on the other hand, were ignored by the ABA but selected in the NBA lottery, Lynn by Chicago and Lacey by San Francisco, both in the fourth round.

* * *

Next year, of course, the big battle will be a certain first-round choice in both leagues — UCLA's Lew Alcindor, a two-time All-American.

Alcindor should command the largest bonus ever paid a rookie, possibly twice as much as this year's top bonus, which already has been paid to either Elvin Hayes of Houston, the College Player-of-the-Year, or Westley Unseld of Louisville.

ALREADY SIGNED

Hayes was drafted by San Diego of the NBA and Houston of the ABA and wound up signing with San Diego for a reported $440,000 for four years.

Unseld, picked by Baltimore of the NBA and Kentucky of the ABA, joined Baltimore for what the Bullets said would be the most money paid a rookie this year. Estimates stopped short of $500,000.

Hazelton Squad Classic Champ at North Hill

Hazelton Lettering reigns as the season champion in the North Hill Lanes Classic League.

* * *

The Lettering squad outbowled second-half kingpins City Glass Service, 3126-3106, beating the glassmen by actual pinfall in each game of their championship match.

Art Pearson's 652 and Karl Vande Moortell's 644 led Hazelton's in the rolloff. Top scorer for the night was Bill Kirkland of the runner-up team with 654.

* * *

In the annual doubles competition by the other league members who duel at the same time as the rolloff, five 700s were hit. Hal Marsh's 268-238-218—724 was tops and Ed Marsh had a 254-235-228—717.

Pontiac Youth Holds Top Spot

Mike Clancy of 113 Ruth competed last Sunday in the Michigan Youth Bowling Association Tournament at Ann Arbor, but he will be more interested in this weekend's scores.

The youthful kegler rolled an 1138 actual for his six games and leads the combined events division, but he won't know if he is the state champion until Sunday's final squads.

Vikings' GM Labels Demands Unrealistic

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Demands being made by the National Football League Players Association on NFL owners are labeled by General Manager Jin Finks of the Minnesota Vikings "unrealistic and out of the question."

Finks, a member of the NFL owners committee now in negotiations with the player association, said the two sides have made "absolutely no progess yet."

* * *

Four meetings have been held thus far, Finks said, and the next is set for May 23 in New York. The players group was formed in January of this year and has registered as a union.

* * *

"Some of their demands," Finks said, "could throw an impossible economic burden on the ballclubs. The total package they are demanding is unrealistic and out of the question."

* * *

Finks listed as the three major economic issues a demand for a $15,000 minimum salary, $5 million a year for the players' pension fund and $500 per player for each player for each exhibition game played in.

"What they're asking is based on figures that are vastly inflated," said Finks. "I guess they're using that Little report. There are a lot of factors that aren't considered in that."

they'reuessley

Finks referred to a study made by Arthur D. Little which shows that the "typical" NFL team in 1966 had gross income of $3.5 million and profit of $800,000 after taxes.

* * *

Dan Shulman, Chicago attorney representing the NFL Players Association, said when he was here last week that he figures the players' demands would cost each NFL team about $100,000, after taxes.

Finks said the negotiations are holding up the signing of veteran NFL players to 1968 contracts.

* * *

"Normally," he said, "this is the time of yaar we're negotiating with our veterans. But we aren't talking contract with any of our veterans until these negotiations are resolved."

Finks said it is within the realm of possibility that the players' demands could bring about reduced squads in the NFL. But, he said, the NFL doesn't want to do this because "it would dilute our product...in this day of hard football there are too many injuries to cut down on the squads."

Trotters Seek Fattest Prize in Michigan

DETROIT — Propensity, a five-year-old son of a once Michigan great trotter Jamie, has the role of early favorite in the 18th renewal of the traditional Merchants and Manufacturers Trot tonight at Wolverine Raceway.

The M&M, which has a purse of $21,000, is the nation's oldest and Michigan's richest trotting stake, dating back before the turn of the century.

* * *

It has attracted a field of 10 starters, including an entry from the Howard McVey stable of Novi, but most of the attention will be focussed on Propensity, winner of three out of five starts thus far this season.

Stanley Cup Play Continues

Canadiens Anticipate Tight Checking

MONTREAL (AP) — If the Montreal Canadiens think they've seen tight checking so far in their Stanley Cup final series, Scotty Bowman is planning to make things even tougher for them tonight.

The St. Louis Blues' coach, who learned most of his hockey in the Montreal organization, is convinced that the only way to handle the high-flying East Division champions of the National Hockey League is to check them to death.

★ ★ ★

One way he hopes to accomplish this in tonight's third game of the best-of-7 series is to get veteran defenseman Doug Harvey back into the line-up, bench winger Gary Veneruzzo and move Jim Roberts from defense to forward. The Canadiens won the first two games in St. Louis.

PLAYS BRIEFLY

Harvey was injured in the semifinals against Minnesota and played only briefly in one of the last four St. Louis games.

But both Bowman and Coach Toe Blake of Montreal agree that breaks have been the deciding factor in both of Montreal's victories in the series — 3-2 in overtime Sunday and 1-0 Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

"We could have been two games up as easily as two down," Bowman said Wednesday.

"They got a break Tuesday, maybe this will be our turn.

"Maybe Doug will give us a little life on the power play," he added, admitting the Blues' inability to score with a man advantage has been costly.

CONTAIN OFFENSE

Bowman also said there is no question in his mind that the Blues have to sit back, contain the flashing Montreal offense and wait for a break.

"We'll play even tighter," he said, referring to the tenacious checking his team has thrown out to stop Montreal.

★ ★ ★

The Blues will be back at full strength but Blake still will be going without captain Jean Beliveau and Gilles Tremblay.

Beliveau aggravated an ankle injury picked up in practice after the Canadiens eliminated Chicago while Tremblay suffered a cracked Nasal bone in the final game of that series. Both forwards are out indefinitely.

★ ★ ★

Harvey and teammate Dickie Moore, a forward, will be returning to Forum ice where they gained fame as members of the Canadiens. They are among seven former Montreal players now with the Blues.

★ ★ ★

St. Louis did not beat Montreal in four games duirng regular season play, gaining one tie. But the deadlock was in St. Louis.

The fourth game will be played here Saturday afternoon.

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

Why didn't South use Blackwood on today's hand to check for aces? For the same reason that you never see the hero of a Western movie jump into his modern car and ride off into the sunset. Today's hand was played before Easley Blackwood had invented his convention.

JACOBY

Hands like this one made some quantitative method of asking for aces an essential of successful bidding.

★ ★ ★

This hand is not shown for that reason but because South had no trouble making his slam in spite of missing two aces.

East played his deuce of hearts and West studied what to lead at trick two. He shifted to a club, whereupon South proceeded to draw trumps and eventually discard his jack of diamonds on dummy's king of hearts.

We don't think much of West's club lead. South had jumped to the slam without any top spade honor but the ace. He had shown up with a heart loser. It would be most unlikely that he would bid a slam with a possible trump loser and without the ace of either unbid suit.

Today we would not find South in that slam contract, but, if he did get there, another modern invention called the suit preference signal would enable East to tell West what to lead.

East would play his queen of hearts on West's ace. West would see that East could not possibly want a heart continuation.

Therefore, that high card, the queen of diamonds, would be calling for the lead of the higher off-suit. Diamonds are higher than clubs. West would lead a diamond.

A word of warning is necessary here. The suit preference signal is fine but don't carry it to absurd extremes. Most of the time, you play a high card to ask partner to continue his suit or a low card to ask him to shift to another one and that other one is not necessarily the lower of the suits you must choose between.

A—The answer is still to redouble.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You redouble. West bids two diamonds. North bids two spades and East bids three diamonds. What do you do now?

'Suited' for Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Secret Service man on the White House detail had to borrow a buddy's tuxedo—slightly too small—to go on duty at a presidential dinner Wednesday night. His own black-tie outfit was stolen from his car earlier in the day while it was parked near the White House, he confessed.

Counselors Stress Education to Veterans

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON — It's difficult to persuade a veteran coming out of service to pass up a seemingly high wage in a relatively unskilled job in order to protect his future through education for a better opportunity.

BAULCH

Going to college or vocational school under the GI bill, a veteran draws $130 a month if single, $155 if married, plus a bit more for each child. And maybe he can add to it with spare-time jobs. So, because of the relatively small benefits, the lure of an immediate job paying two or three times that is hard to resist.

That's one problem pinpointed by Edward L. Omohundro, chief of the Labor Department's Veterans Employment Service, which works hand-in-hand with the states in helping job-hunting GIs.

★ ★ ★

He urges job counselors to talk education to the veterans — college, vocational training, "get a foot in the door of opportunity for growth and advancement" advice.

Most veterans coming out of service now do go on to finish high school or college. And usually, those who prefer to go to work find jobs on their own.

LIMITED CAPACTIY

Many have limited capacity to learn so they must find jobs within those limitations.

The big job of the Veterans Employment Service is helping keep veterans — not only of Vietnam but World War II and Korea — off the unemployment compensation rolls.

★ ★ ★

It was the discovery of too many out-of-work veterans that led President Johnson last year to set up a system through the network of over 2,000 federal-state employment offices to make a personal check on each veteran.

Soon after a man gets out of service he's supposed to be contacted personally, by phone or by letter, to see if he needs help getting a job or lining up schooling.

SUCCESS VARIES

The success varies from state to state, depending a great deal on the manpower available.

To get a picture of what's happening, I studied a file of reports on individual cases sent in from the various states by veterans service officers in the employment offices. Mostly they were success stories, but there were failures too.

★ ★ ★

Take the case in Maine of a 28-year-old veteran, a high school dropout, with a background of a broken home and discharge for mental illness. The employment service got him a job in a mill in his home town after working with him a long time; he soon quit for lack of interest.

The Maine official's comment: "We helped him to the extent he was willing to be helped."

MORE SUCCESSFUL

But there was better success with a 21-year-old in Arkansas who had been given an Army discharge as undesirable.

He showed up at the employment service with shoulder length hair, a beard, tight jeans, "peculiar boots" and, as the report said, "a very poor attitude'.'

★ ★ ★

The employment counselor advised him, without success, to get rid of the hippy look. He returned twice in the same beard and dress, but no job offer materialized. Finally he showed up shorn and shaved and soon he was given a job in a foundry.

The last report was he was eagerly looking forward to working his way up to the drafting department.

EMPLOYERS EAGER

The Massachusetts employment service found employers eager to hire young men out of service, since their military obligation is behind them and they are relatively draft exempt.

But the Rhode Island and Washington state offices reported difficulty in breaking down employer resistance to hiring handicapped veterans.

★ ★ ★

And the Washington state office found too, as did some others, a problem in getting a second-career job for the servicemen in their 40s who have completed 20 or so years military service.

The hire-the-veterans program launched by President Johnson come on top of two other programs that he stepped up this year:

● Use of Army classrooms and clinics to help men get into military service who otherwise couldn't because of educational and physical limitations. Fifty thousand made the grade last year and this year's goal is 100,000.

● "Project Transition" tried out at five military bases to train men in service lacking skills and education, so they will be ready to step into jobs when they get out. Johnson plans an expansion to all military bases, to reach 500,000 servicemen in their final months of service this year and then to follow their progress in civilian life.

HIRING PRIORITY

He also asked Congress to go on record urging employers to give priority to hiring Vietnam veterans.

Now, the President is proposing an entirely new $50-million program this year.

★ ★ ★

He wants to train returning veterans to teach children in poor urban and rural areas badly in need of better schools, man understrength police and fire departments, help man understaffed hospitals and work in Great Society poverty programs.

Budget Woes Hurt Europe Space Plans

By Science Service Writer

WASHINGTON — Space research is an expensive business. European countries have banded together for the development and management of such programs, but now the programs are coming unglued.

The two chief combines are the European Space Research Organization for satellite design and mission planning, and the European Launcher Development Organization to provide boosters for the satellites.

★ ★ ★

Both have suffered from the difficulty European nations traditionally have had working together in scientific and technical areas. Now, new politico-economic decisions by Great Britain and Italy threaten to do them more long-lasting, and perhaps permanent, damage than technical problems could ever do.

ESRO's first satellite — ESRO II-A — was launched last May 29, but never got into orbit, due to a faulty fourth-stage engine in the American-built Scout rocket. The next attempt, with an identical satellite, was set for this May 9, yet with this triumph on the horizon, more trouble has appeared.

PLANS CANCELED

Italy, which pays roughly 11 per cent of ESRO's current budget, announced that it would not pay its proportional share in the cost of two planned ESRO satellites, called TD1 and TD2.

On April 26, ESRO announced that Italy's move had forced it to cancel plans for the two satellites. Designed for stellar and solar astronomy, gamma ray and X-ray studies, TD1 and TD2 would have been the organization's most ambitious projects to date.

★ ★ ★

Only three days before the ESRO decision, ELDO got its own lumps with England's announcement that it would not contribute to that organization's proposed budget expansion. This means that once the present program ends — about a year from now — England's contribution to the European booster is virtually over.

Until this decision, the British Blue Streak rocket was to have been the first stage of an ELDO rocket capable of launching satellites weighing up to two tons, a necessity if the Continent plans to orbit its own sophisticated communications satellites.

FACING OBLIVION

Unless Britain mounts a more active space program on its own than it looks likely to do, the Blue Streak may now, without Eldo's business, be going down for the last time.

★ ★ ★

The U. S. space agency has readily made launch vehicles available to other countries — besides ESRO, England, Australia, Canada and Italy have all orbited satellites on NASA boosters — but it is unlikely that the offer would apply to launching communications satellites that would compete with U. S. efforts in a potentially highly lucrative business.

CONFERENCE PARTICIPANTS — Three of the major participants for the upcoming Oakland County "Planning for People" conference are (from left) Delos Hamlin, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors; George Skrubb, county planning director; and Donald A. Kalmbach, chairman of the County Planning Commission. The conference is slated for May 23 at Oakland University.

County Planning Parley Nears

About 50 key persons engaged in the fields of planning, government, law, housing and natural resources will participate in an all-day conference May 23 at Oakland University to discuss planning for the future of Oakland County.

Sponsoring the program, called "Planning for People," is the Oakland County Planning Commission in cooperation with OU's Division of Continuing Education.

George N. Skrubb, county planning director, said about 400 persons have attended past conferences. This is the fourth biennial meeting. They go back to 1962.

★ ★ ★

Following registration at 8:30 a.m., OU Chancellor Durward Varner will open the conference with a welcoming statement.

THREE WORKSHOPS

Three concurrent workshop sessions are scheduled for 10 a.m. until noon.

Subjects will be: the new plat act and land subdivision; the transportation system for southeast Michigan; and human needs in the community.

★ ★ ★

Master of ceremonies at the luncheon will be Donald A. Kalmbach, chairman of the Oakland County Planning Commission. Speaker will be Edwin O. George, president of Detroit Edison Co.

Three workshops will also be held in the afternoon, 1:30 to 3:30. Subjects will be: solid-waste disposal; apartments and their impact on the community; and urban renewal.

FINAL WORKSHOPS

The final three workshops, 3:30 to 5:30, will be on: regional planning; zoning laws; and the loss of Oakland County's natural resources and open spaces.

Reservations and information on the planning conference can be had by contacting the conference department at OU.

Old-Country Customs Still Prevail in U.S.

WASHINGTON — Without leaving the United States, travelers can watch Dutch craftsmen carve wooden shoes, attend ceremonies in century-old Buddhist temples, and see Greek sponge divers at work in the Gulf of Mexico.

Although most immigrant groups have melted into the population, many communities still preserve the customs and atmosphere of the old country, the National Geographic Society says.

★ ★ ★

The best-known foreign community probably is San Francisco's teeming Chinatown.

Pagoda rooftops along Grant Avenue mark the home of 25,000 Chinese Americans — largest Chinese settlement outside the Orient.

SPEAK NO ENGLISH

Many Chinatown elders speak no English and rarely venture outside the quarter-mile-square enclave.

New York City has its Chinatown as well as "Little Italy."

Along Mulberry Street, dark-haired signorinas read Il Progresso, sip espresso coffee, and shop for pasta and peppers.

★ ★ ★

Large Puerto Rican and smaller Ukrainian, German, and Irish neighborhoods enliven the metropolis.

Solvang, Calif., with its half-timbered houses, windmills, Hans Christian Anderson bakeries, and candy shops, properly belongs on the other side of the Atlantic — in Denmark — birthplace of half the town's 1,543 residents.

James Benfield Of 3398 Bald Mountain, Pontiac Township, Readies His $500 Homemade Radio-Controlled Plane With Plastic Fuselage

Model Airplane Exhibit at Mall

A model of Batman's Batplane is one of many model airplanes on display at the Pontiac Mall through Saturday.

The exhibit is being sponsored by the Pontiac Model Airplane Club, a group of 75 model airplane enthusiasts who meet the first Wednesday of every month at the Pontiac Boys' Club.

★ ★ ★

Other clubs participating in the show are the Cloudbusters from Royal Oak, the Rib Crackers from Livonia, and the Sky Raisers of Garden City. Rand Manufacturers which makes radio control equipment will also be on hand.

Most of the planes have been made from kits and painted by members of the clubs. Several of the planes were made from scratch.

SPORTS FLYING

The planes are used for sports flying in two main categories: U-Control, and Radio Control.

U-control planes are controlled by three wires which are attached through a wing. The wires work the tail as directed.

★ ★ ★

The radio-controlled planes are guided through a small instrument box held by the flier. These planes can be flown as far as the flier can see. The radio equipment, however, is costly.

Model airplane club members will be present at the Mall each evening through Saturday to discuss the sport. Films and slides on model airplane flying will also be available at the exhibit.

DEMONSTRATION FLIGHTS

There also will be demonstration flying tonight, tomorrow and Satuday.

Half of the Pontiac Club members are under 16 years of age.

★ ★ ★

"It's a hobby. Most kids seem to like it because they can say they made it themselves," explained club President Dale Lovett of 411 Elm Hill, Avon Township.

Antinapalm Demonstration Fails to Sway Dow Stockholders

MIDLAND (AP) — Hundreds of demonstrators failed to change the minds of Dow Chemical Co.'s stockholders and officers Wednesday about making napalm.

While pickets—estimated between 400 and 1,000—demonstrated outside the company's annual meeting at a Midland school, stockholders overwhelmingly endorsed the firm's policy of manufacturing the jellied gasoline bombs used to support U.S. combat troops in Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

The demonstration was sponsored by clergy and laymen Concerned About Vietnam and drew supporters, mostly students, from at least five states.

The protesters said that napalm was "an immoral weapon" and charged that its use is "deliberate torture that causes slow death and is bringing unnecessary suffering."

ON DUTY

Midland's entire 32-man police force was on duty for the demonstration and a State Police observer was on hand, but except for two brief verbal confrontations between demonstrators and about 50 counterdemonstrators, there were no incidents.

Before the meeting began, Dow issued a statement reaffirming the company's policy of manufacturing napalm, which it said accounts for less than one per cent of the firm's total business.

★ ★ ★

"Regardless of the economic unimportance of napalm to Dow, we intend to continue making it because we feel that so long as the United States is sending men to war, it is unthinkable that we would not supply the material they need," the company said.

After the meeting, one student demonstrator said students will continue to picket Dow job recruiters at college campuses so long as the company makes napalm.

'NAPALM MAIMS'

Demonstrators outside the meeting carried signs reading "Napalm maims, Dow Know - How Kills" and "Napalm Kills Ten Civilians for Every Vietcong."

The picketers chanted "napalm kills" and sang "We Shall Overcome." Stockholders coming out of the meeting were taunted with shouts of "You are charged with murder."

★ ★ ★

After the demonstration ended, the Rev. T. M. Dreenhoe, speaking for the Midland Clergy Association, said local clergymen shared the demonstrators concern "about the tragedy of any war," but added that they "reaffirmed their trust and confidence in the integrity and high sense of moral responsibility of Dow executives."

During the meeting, New York stockholder Daniel J. Bernstein told stockholders that he is advising his client to sell their Dow holdings because the name of the company "is being effectively changed to 'Dow Napalm' on the front pages of newspapers throughout the world."

OVERWHELMING DEFEAT

Earlier in the meeting, Bernstein had nominated former New Dealer Mariner Eccles as an antiwar candidate for the Dow board of directors. Eccles was overwhelmingly defeated.

"Dow will find it increasingly difficult to compete with other chemical companies," Bernstein said, "because instead of being associated with progress, its products will be associated with the destruction and horrors of Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

"You can be sure that today's youth, who so loudly condemn Dow for making napalm, and who won't even let Dow recruiters come to their campuses, are not likely to favor buying Dow chemicals when they become tomorrow's businessmen," he added.

Radio Station Sale Revealed

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP)—The sale of Waukesha Radio Station WAUK and its FM affiliate to the Ottawa Broadcasting Corp. of Holland, Mich., by the Midwest Broadcasting Co. of Albion, Mich., was announced Wednesday by Station Manager David Dunahoo.

The transfer of ownership is subject to the approval of the Federal Communications Commission. Dunahoo said no changes in station personnel were contemplated for the present. Midwest also operates stations WALM at Albion and WFRL, at Freeport, Ill., neither of which was involved in the transaction.

WAUK, originally a 250-watt station known as WAUX, has been on the air since 1947. Its power was increased to 10,000 watts in 1961. It was purchased by Midwest Broadcasting from Mig Figi, one of its founders, and his associates in 1963.

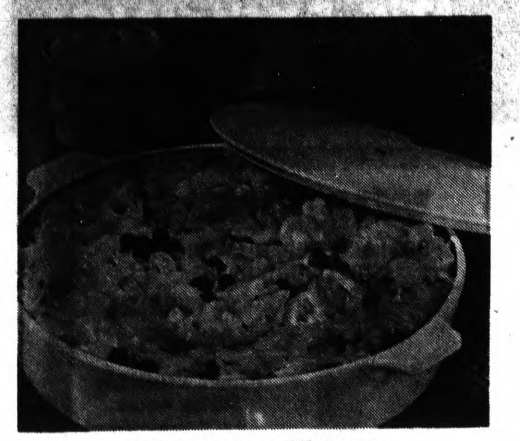
Casseroles Can Make Life Easier for the Cook



GARDEN PATCH MACARONI

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, The Pontiac Press

It's May and there are a thousand things you have to do — or so it seems. There's spring cleaning — gardening — wrap-up activities for every organization you belong to — the end of the school year — vacation plans.

★ ★ ★

Who's going to spend a lot of time in the kitchen with a life like that?

★ ★ ★

You can't serve TV dinners every night. But you can increase your repertoire of good casserole dishes. They save time, dishes and sometimes even money.

★ ★ ★

Take that old standby, ground beef. Turn it into Half-hour Supper by adding a layer of the new packaged instant mashed potatoes with minced onion.

HALF-HOUR SUPPER

1 pound ground beef
½ cup dry bread crumbs
⅓ cup milk
1 egg
2 tablespoons catsup
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1⅓ cups water
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup finely shredded carrots
1⅓ cups potato buds with minced onion
⅓ cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 to 4 tablespoons milk

★ ★ ★

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Mix ground beef, bread crumbs, ⅓ cup milk, the egg, catsup, ½ teaspoon salt and the pepper; spread into square pan, 8x8x2 inches. Bake 20 to 25 minutes.

★ ★ ★

Heat water, 1 teaspoon salt and the carrots to boiling; remove from heat. Stir in potato buds with minced onion. Add sour cream, butter and parsley; stir until blended. Gradually stir in enough milk for desired consistency.

★ ★ ★

Spread over baked meat mixture; bake 5 minutes longer. 4 to 6 servings.

★ ★ ★

Family like the taste of seafood? Please them with a Pennsylvania Dutch dish featuring egg noodles and minced clams. It's easy to find the latter in cans.

CLAMS 'N' NOODLES

1 package (8 oz.) fine egg noodles
1-3 cup olive oil
½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
⅛ teaspoon thyme
2 cans (7½ oz. ea.) minced clams, drained (reserve 1 cup liquid)
¼ cup chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

★ ★ ★

Cook noodles according to package directions; drain.

★ ★ ★

In large skillet, heat oil and saute onion, garlic and thyme until onion is tender. Add clams and simmer 2 to 3 minutes; stir in clam broth, parsley, salt and pepper. Heat thoroughly.

★ ★ ★

Combine clam mixture and noodles. Makes about 6 servings.

★ ★★ ★

Don't serve just plain macaroni and cheese. Dress up the familiar duet with colorful vegetables.

GARDEN PATCH MACARONI

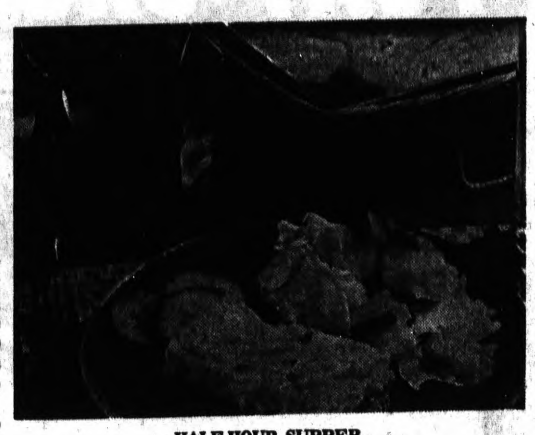
1 pkg. (7 oz.) elbow macaroni
2 quarts coarsely shredded cabbage
¾ cup cooked carrot slices
¾ cup cooked peas
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 tablespoon chopped chives
1 can cream of mushroom soup
2 cups dairy sour cream
1½ teaspoons salt
1 cup shredded American cheese

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until just tender. Cook cabbage in boiling salted water until barely tender, 6 to 7 minutes. Drain combine with macaroni, carrots, peas, seasoned salt and chives.

★ ★ ★

Combine soup and sour cream; fold through macaroni mixture. Add salt and transfer to a buttered 2½ quart baking dish. Sprinkle with American cheese and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, 25 to 30 minutes, or until the mixture is thoroughly heated and cheese melted.

Do not overcook. Makes 8 to 10 servings.



HALF-HOUR SUPPER

Celery Salad Is Tempting Fare

Older homemakers may wonder whatever happened to the blanched celery of the 1920's. Once these so-called golden varieties were predominant, with the green Pascal type seldom seen.

Then more and more green varieties were perfected, ones which did not need blanching to be sweet and tender. This cut down considerably on the costly labor needed to produce celery. Now golden celery is the rarity in the market.

Celery, Nut and Banana Salad

3 cups thinly sliced celery
2 medium-sized bananas, sliced
½ cup chopped pecans
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
3 tablespoons sour cream
1½ teaspoons fresh lemon juice
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground white pepper
Celery leaves
2 cups grated fresh carrots

Combine first 8 ingredients. Toss lightly. Arrange on celery leaves. Garnish with grated carrots sprinkled around the edge. Yield: 6 portions.

Shell Shrimp Before Cooking

Shrimp will appear plumper and more appetizing if shelled and deveined while raw, and then cooked 2 to 5 minutes in enough boiling salted water to cover.

Flavor is improved when sugar is added to the cooking water, in the same proportion as salt: 1 tablespoon to each quart of water.

CLAMS 'N' NOODLES

Let Teens Tote Breakfast in Bag

A four-year study of 1,000 teen-agers by California nutritionists showed that, among average-sized boys, 42 per cent said they were hungry all or most of the time.

Few ate an adequate breakfast. Lack of time was the excuse of most of the boys.

To meet that time problem, one solution could be a basic breakfast of fruit, cereal with milk, buttered toast and milk to drink.

Another solution is the "tote" breakfast for teens with early classes or the habit of sleeping too late. It can be eaten on the school bus or after the first class.

Fill a bag with an orange, ready to be peeled and sectioned, a small carton of milk, and some peanut butter oat sticks, made in corn stick pans for easier handling.

The rolled oats in them provide food energy, protein, minerals and the B vitamins, elements needed by active youngsters.

You could add a hard-cooked egg for extra measure. If they don't eat it, they can give it to the teacher instead of the proverbial apple.

Peanut Butter Oat Sticks

1 cup sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup brown sugar, packed
½ cup cream or chunk-style peanut butter
1 cup rolled oats, quick or regular, uncooked
⅓ cup seedless raisins
¾ cup milk
1 egg beaten

Sift flour, baking powder, and salt into mixing bowl. Stir in brown sugar. Cut peanut butter into mixture until it resembles fine crumbs. Stir in oats and raisins. Add milk and egg; stir just until dry ingredients are moistened.

Spoon mixture into hot, greased corn stick pans, filling pans about two-thirds full. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) until done and lightly browned, about 15 minutes. Yield: 14 sticks.

A good wrap, one that is moisture and vapor resistant, is one of the best ways to protect the quality of frozen meats.

Bone Chicken Thighs for New Cookery

Mini-rolls (boned chicken thighs) are a whole beautiful concept of chicken cookery devised to bring out the cook's most creative potential. They're great, juicy, a cinch to make.

Boning chicken thighs is a snap; it's even easier than boning the breasts. There's just one large bone to cope with, the National Broiler Council points out.

★ ★ ★

To bone, cut along thinner side inside of thigh to the bone, slashing thigh the length of the bone. Holding one end of the bone, scrape the meat away until bone is free. Cut off round piece of cartilege.

That's all there is to do . . . and there you have a wonderfully juicy flavorful "cutlet", to cook flat or roll.

Here are the basic directions.

Bone 12 thighs as directed, place boned thighs skin side down, and sprinkle with ¾ teaspoon salt.

Combine ½ cup soft bread crumbs, ¼ cup minced celery, 2 tablespoons each finely chopped onion and parsley, and ½ teaspoon salt; divide among boned thighs, fold sides over stuffing, and fasten with small skewers or stuffing pins.

★ ★ ★

Place seam side down in shallow baking pan and bake in a 400 degree oven for 40 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Boned chicken thigh meat may be pounded into a thin cutlet for quick cooking, and these are great too.

COOK WITH ORANGE

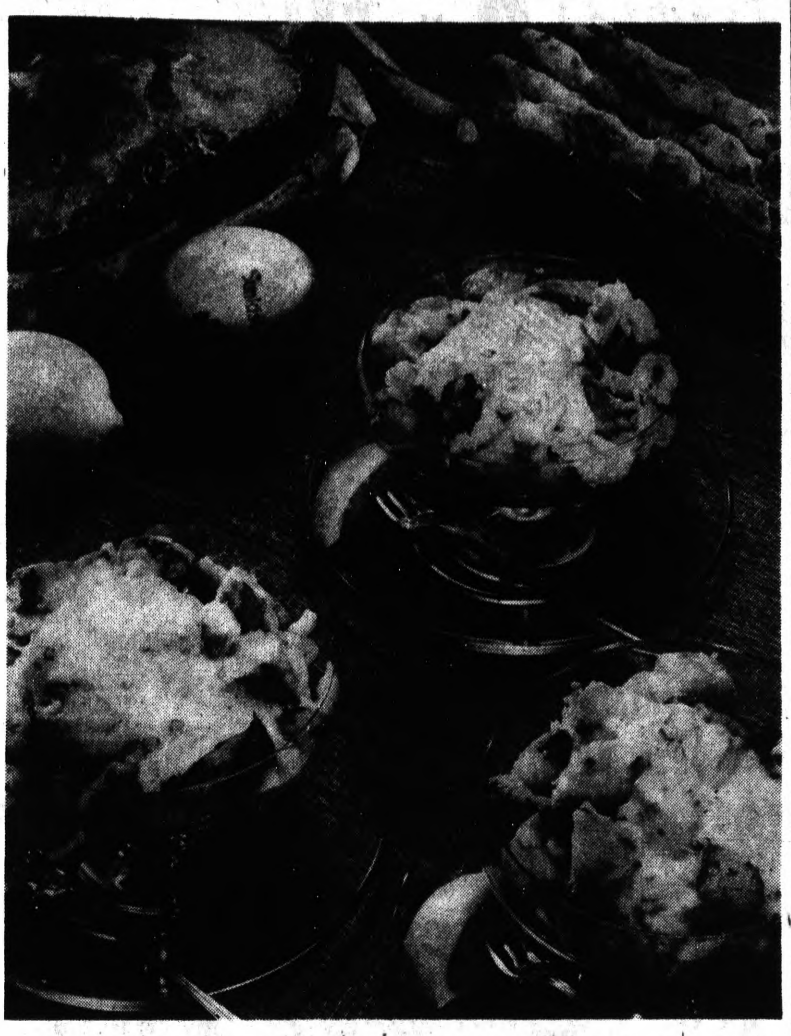
To make Chicken Cutlets Valencia, bone 8 thighs and place between 2 pieces of foil; pound with rolling pin. Sprinkle with ½ teaspoon salt. Saute' cutlets, skin side down, in a skillet with melted butter for 10 minutes.

Turn, sprinkle with 2 tablespoons orange juice, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, and 1 tablespoon chopped chives. Cook 10 minutes longer. Serve on rice and garnish with thin orange slices. Makes 4 servings.

Sprinkle boned chicken thighs with salt, roll, fasten with small skewer or stuffing pins. Saute' in butter in skillet for 20 to 25 minutes, turning occasionally. Serve on long rolls.

★ ★ ★

Or saute' flattened cutlets in a skillet for 20 minutes, turning once, and serve on burger buns. Great with mustard, relish, or hot barbecue sauce.



CRAB 'N' CAPER SAUCE COCKTAIL — Combine ½ cup dairy sour cream; ½ cup mayonnaise; ⅛ teaspoon each salt and pepper; ½ teaspoon each dry mustard and Worcestershire sauce; 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel; two tablespoons fresh lemon; 1 tablespoon each chopped chives and minced parsley; 2 tablespoons drained capers and 1 hard-cooked egg, peeled and chopped. Blend well. Chill. In cocktail glasses, alternate layers of crab meat (two 6-oz. frozen packages, thawed and flaked) and chilled sauce. Serve with lemon wedges. Makes 8 servings. Forks in lemon show how to squeeze lemon juice over cocktails.

Club Sandwich Really Unusual

Both fruit and vegetables are in this tangy club sandwich filling. Core and slice 1 apple.

★ ★ ★

Mix together 1 (6½-ounce) can of flaked tuna, drained, ½ cup of mayonnaise, ¼ cup of chopped celery and 1½ teaspoons of lemon juice. Spread filling on 4 slices and 4 more bread slices.

★ ★ ★

Spread top bread with 1 (7-ounce) can of whole cranberry sauce and top with lettuce leaves and 4 additional slices of bread. Makes 4 sandwiches.

MONTE CRISTO SANDWICH — Sandwiches have golden airs when browned in a curried butter spread, for an herbed or spiced butter enhances most sandwiches.

Noodles, Cabbage Mix in Skillet

Cabbage and noodles are an interesting combination of pasta and vegetable. Serve with meat or as the main dish.

Cabbage Noodles

1 package (5 ounces) medium egg noodles
2 quarts boiling water and 1 tablespoon salt
⅓ cup butter or margarine
1 large onion, cut in thin strips
1½ quarts (lightly packed) knife-shredded cabbage in thin strands
1½ teaspoons salt
Freshly ground pepper

In a large pot, partly covered, boil the noodles in the salted water until tender; drain. Meanwhile in a 12-inch skillet in the butter, cook the onion until golden.

Add the cabbage; cover tightly and cook gently, stirring often, until tender-crisp — about 10 minutes. Mix in noodles and salt; reheat if necessary. Serve and pass the pepper. Makes 8 servings.

Ham-Cheese Sandwiches

Grill in Curry Butter

Almost anything that spreads or slices can be made into a sandwich, as nourishing or as elegant as desired. And if it's nourishment that you desire, what better way to insure it than with a sandwich rich with cheese?

★ ★ ★

Cheese by its very nature is a high protein food . . . it takes about 10 pounds of milk to produce just 1 pound of American cheese. That's what makes Monte Cristo sandwiches nourishing!

The fine flavor of these sandwiches comes from a blend of Swiss cheese and ham browned in a curried butter. The flavor is unbeatable and the color truly golden.

Monte Cristo sandwiches make fine luncheon entrees, perfect to serve to unexpected guests. The ingredients are those that you normally have on hand. To round out a luncheon menu serve mugs of hot chocolate milk and a fruit pudding and butter cookies for dessert.

Monte Cristo Sandwich

1-3 cup soft butter
½ teaspoon curry powder
¼ cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
8 slices day old white bread
8 slices (3½ x 3½ x ⅛ inch) Swiss cheese (½ lb.)
¼ pound sliced cooked ham or chicken

Combine butter and curry powder. Spread ½ tablespoon salad dressing or mayonnaise evenly over one side of the 8 bread slices.

On 4 slices of bread place a cheese slice, ¼ of the ham or chicken, a second cheese slice and a bread slice, salad dressing side down. Press sandwiches together firmly.

Spread bread on both sides of each sandwich with an equal amount of curry butter. Brown sandwiches on both sides on a moderately hot grill or in fry pan over moderate heat, turning sandwiches when a golden brown; brown second side.

Serve immediately. Makes 4 sandwiches or 4 servings.

Cottage cheese makes a good addition to the relish platter. Use creamstyle cottage cheese and add, if you like, minced scallions (green onions) and chopped pimiento-stuffed olives.

For those of you who missed Vernors' new slogan, here it is again.

No slogan? That's right, no slogan. Vernors is so different it doesn't need a slogan. We don't need a lot of square, so-called "catch" phrases to tell you Vernors and Vernors One-Calorie are very different—that it's different because it's flavor-aged 4 years in wood. Try gingery Vernors. The taste is unfiltered by slogans.

(Special note: The space in the box above would normally be used to once again hit you with a big, fat slogan. Since we have no slogan, we donate this space to you . . . the tired, over-sloganed American consumer. It's yours! Do with it as you will. Doodle in it, make angry symbols or just sit and contemplate its clean, uncluttered, soothing emptiness.)

FESTIVE WHIPPED TOPPINGS — To give icy-cold, just defrosted frozen raspberries — or other frozen fruit — a touch of glamour, top them with Edinburgh Cream as pictured here. It's made easily by folding macaroon crumbs and brandy or sherry into whipped cream. Toasted slivered almonds provide the final garnish.

Creamy Tops for Frozen Fruit

Frozen fruit makes the ideal no-work dessert. Preserved at the peak of perfection through modern commercial freezing choice can be enjoyed whenever you are so inclined without seasonal or regional limitations.

★ ★ ★

Frozen fruit is just right for serving when the pieces are still icy-cold and firm, but can be separated easily. The matter of defrosting the fruit is a simple one.

Always defrost it in its unopened container, following the package directions or allowing about: 7 to 14 minutes in a bowl of warm water (for the new quick-thaw frozen fruits in plastic pouches); 20 minutes under cold running water; 1-½ hours at room temperature; and 6 hours at refrigerator temperature.

Following is a series of festive whipped toppings which have been collected from many nations. Serve any of them spooned over just defrosted frozen fruit in sherbet glasses or layered with the fruit in tall parfait glasses.

EDINBURGH CREAM. Whip 1 cup heavy cream until stiff. Gently fold in 1 tablespoon brandy or sherry, ½ teaspoon vanilla extract and 1½ cups macaroon crumbs. Chill until ready to serve. Spoon on defrosted frozen fruit.

★ ★ ★

Top each serving with a few toasted slivered or sliced almonds. Makes about 3 cups, or enough for 12 servings.

SWEDISH CREAM. Beat 1 egg white until frothy. Gradually beat in 1-3 cup sifted confectioners' sugar and continue whipping until mixture holds shiny, soft peaks. Whip ½ cup heavy cream with 1 egg yolk until stiff. Stir in ¼ teaspoon almond extract and egg white mixture.

★ ★ ★

Serve immediately. Makes about 1½ cups or enough for 6 servings.

HAWAAIAN CREAM. Whip 1 cup heavy cream until it begins to thicken. Add 2 teaspoons confectioners' sugar and beat until cream is stiff. Gently fold in ½ cup miniature marshmallows, ¼ cup flaked coconut and ½ teaspon rum extract.

Chill until ready to serve. Makes about 2½ cups or enough for 10 servings.

ROMANOFF CREAM. Mash 1 pint vanilla ice cream with a spoon until smooth but still frozen. Whip ½ cup heavy cream until stiff. Gently fold in 2 tablespoons brandy and softened ice cream.

Makes about 2½ cups or enough for 10 servings.

MOCK SOUR CREAM WHIP. Combine ½ cup skim milk, 1 cup dry cottage cheese, 2 teaspoons frozen lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon salt in an electric blender. Whirl until smooth and creamy.

★ ★ ★

Chill until ready to serve. Makes about 1½ cups or enough for 6 servings.

LOW-CALORIE WHIP. Combine 1-3 cup nonfat dry milk solids, 1-3 cup water and ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg. Beat until blended. Place in freezer for 25 minutes. Remove from freezer and beat until mixture is thick and fluffy like whipped cream.

Chill until ready to serve. Makes about 2 cups or enough for 8 servings.

HASH LOAF — Hash Loaf puts new flavor in budget minded meals. The combo of canned corned beef hash, bread crumbs and egg gives the traditional pennywise ground beef meatloaf a run for its money. Top with a tomato soup sauce for added enjoyment at low cost.

Canned Hash Is Made Into Tasty Loaf

Need a versatile main dish to change the flavor of budget menus?

Canned corn beef hash fills the bill superbly to put new character into low-cost meals.

It's just as versatile as ground beef. Even goes it one better as a delicious additon to breakfasts. Follow label directions for slicing hash into patties. Brown patties and serve on toasted English muffins for a hashburger lunch.

★ ★ ★

Or top with a poached or fried egg for a quick and economical brunch. Or try it for dinner in a new version of meat loaf—Hash Loaf.

Form a loaf from the hash, bread crumbs, and some egg. The delicious mixture bakes up into a moist, crusted loaf. Top the loaf with a quick, low-cost sauce made instantly with canned condensed tomato soup, and horseradish.

Serve cole slaw interspersed with pineapple tidbits for a refreshing addition to the meal.

Hash Loaf and Tomato Sauce

- 2 cans (15½ ounces each) corned beef hash
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- ⅓ cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed tomato soup
- 2 tablespoons water
- horseradish

Combine hash, eggs, and crumbs. Mix well. Shape firmly into loaf; place in greased shallow baking dish. Bake at 425 degrees for 40 minutes.

Meanwhile, combine soup, water, and horseradish. Heat; stir now and then. Serve with loaf. Use spatula for serving slices. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Try Buttermilk

If you have an old favorite recipe calling for sour milk, substitute the same amount of buttermilk and you will find it works equally well.

1997 — 280,000	1998 — 290,000

The bonds will be subject to redemption as a whole by the Drainage District prior to maturity on any one interest payment date on or after May 1, 1980. Each bond called to be redeemed shall be redeemed at par and accrued interest plus a premium equal to two percent (2%) of the aggregate par value of the bonds redeemed on or before May 1, 1990, and without premium if redeemed thereafter.

Notice of redemption shall be published not less than thirty (30) days prior to the date fixed for redemption, at least once in a newspaper or publication circulated in the City of New York, New York, which carries as a part of its regular service, notices of the sale of municipal bonds. (No further interest payable on bonds so called for redemption shall accrue after the date fixed for redemption, whether presented for redemption or not, provided the County has money available for such redemption with the paying agent). Both principal and interest will be payable at such bank or trust company which qualifies as a paying agent under Federal or Michigan law and which shall be designated by the original purchaser of the bonds, who may also designate a similarly qualified copaying agent. Designation of the paying agent and copaying agent shall be subject to the approval (by the Drainage Board.)

The said bonds are to be issued under the provisions of Chapter 20 of Act No. 40 of the Public Acts of 1956, as amended, in anticipation of the collection of special assessments assessed against public corporations on Nichols Relief Drains — Special Assessment Roll No. 1, made to defray the cost of locating, establishing and constructing the Nichols Relief Drains (an intra-county drain). The assessments are against the State of Michigan on account of drainage to state highways, the County of Oakland on account of drainage of Oakland County highways and against the Township of Bloomfield. The State of Michigan has paid its assessment in full. The assessments against the County of Oakland and Township of Bloomfield are a general obligation of said public corporations and each public corporation is obligated and has the power to levy ad valorem taxes upon all the property within its limits in an amount sufficient to pay the assessment against it, with interest, without limitation as to rate or amount. The statute under which the bonds are to be issued provides that the full faith and credit of the said Drainage District is pledged to the prompt payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds. (By resolution adopted by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the members elect of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Oakland, and pursuant to said Chapter 20 of Act No. 40 of the Public Acts of 1956, as amended, the full faith and credit of the County of Oakland is pledged to the prompt payment of the principal and interest on said bonds.)

No bid for less than all of the bonds or at less than the par value of the bonds will be accepted.

For the purpose of awarding the bonds, the interest cost of each bid will be computed by determining, at the rate or rates specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on all of the bonds from June 1, 1968 to their respective maturities and deducting therefrom any premium. Such bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest interest cost to the Drainage District on all of the bonds.

A certified or cashier's check in the amount of 2% of the par value of the bonds, drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer of the Drainage Board for the Nichols Relief Drains must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder, to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds. No interest shall be allowed on the egood terest shall be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail.

Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of Dickinson, Wright, McKean & Cudlip (Claude H. Stevens, of Counsel), attorneys, Detroit, Michigan, approving the legality of the bonds. The cost of said legal opinion and of the printing of the bonds will be paid by the Drainage District. Bonds will be delivered at Detroit, Michigan, Chicago, Illinois or New York, New York.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Envelopes containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Nichols Drain Bonds."

Slaying Suspect Will Get Exam

Arraigned in Death of 6th of 7 Persons Killed

IRONWOOD (UPI) — Eric Pearson was arraigned on a murder charge Wednesday in the shooting death of the sixth of seven persons killed the night of Saturday, March 16.

Pearson, 56, a janitor at a ski resort in this Lake Superior community of 10,000 persons, was ordered held in the Gogebic County Jail without bond pending an examination by a physician.

★ ★ ★

Pearson's attorney, Bernard E. Larson, asked for the examination to determine his competence to stand trial. Larson told the court that Pearson showed no remorse and he doubted that he was aware of the nature of the charge against him.

Circuit Judge Donald L. Munro granted the motion for a preliminary examination by Dr. J. R. Franck at Ironwood, and said he would hold another hearing later to determine whether Pearson should be examined by a psychiatrict.

'WHEREABOUTS TRACED'

The judge did not ask Pearson to enter a plea to the charge at the arraignment.

Pearson was charged with the shooting death of Rudolph Maurin at a tavern. Police traced Pearson's whereabouts that March night to the home of Mrs. Vienna Gustaffson, a widow; the home of Raymond Hautala, a tavern owner, and then to the tavern.

★ ★ ★

Four persons were killed and Mrs. Gustaffson's 12-year-old daughter was wounded at her home; Hautala was killed and his wife was wounded at their home, and Maurin and Mrs. Axel Puisto were shot at the tavern.

Maurin, 56, a construction worker, was killed outright. Mrs. Puisto died about 24 hours later.

Las Vegas Strip Is Out of Town

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The three-mile Las Vegas strip isn't in Las Vegas after all. It's partly in Paradise, though.

So Las Vegas is considering annexing the neon-lighted tourist area and Las Vegas has hired a former city planning director to conduct a feasibility study. The strip is actually located in two unincorporated townships, Paradise and Winchester..

Hurricanes Appear to Go Own Ways

By Science Service

A hurricane storming across the ocean apparently travels its own way, with little or no influence from the temperature of the water beneath.

It has been suggested in the past that hurricanes tend to follow warm water tongues in the ocean.

★ ★ ★

An Essa research plane made a flight on Oct. 6, 1966, to check this theory by gathering temperature date ahead of and behind Hurrican Inez as it crossed the Gulf of Mexico.

Surface temperature was found to have little if any influence on the storm's path; at one point, Inez traveled through an area where surface temperatures were to to three degrees lower than those in a nearby region.

People Like Cars, Traffic Unit Told

DEARBORN (AP) — A Ford Motor Co. executive told transportation planners Wednesday that any solution to the country's transit problems must consider people's preference for automobiles.

"The real answer for most people is that they are attracted not so much to the automobile itself as to the combination of convenience, comfort, flexibility, privacy and speed it provides them," Allen W. Merrill told the 5th National Conference of Transportation Systems.

Any proposed alternative to the automobile should approximate this combination of qualities if it is to be successful, Merrill said.

Society's Grants Help Varied Scientific Research

WASHINGTON—The National Geographic Society will help scientists study a classical Greek shipwreck, a shy African antelope and a disaster-stricken American Indian village.

The Society's committee for research and exploration recently approved grants for these and three other projects.

Michael L. Katzev, a research associate with the University of Pennsylvania Museum, will explore the wreck off the coast of Cyprus, near Kyrenia. The ship, lying in 90 feet of water, sank four centuries before Christ.

"The excavation of this ship should prove a milestone in the history of maritime architecuture," Katzez said.

★ ★ ★

"Very little evidence comes to us from antiquity concerning the construction or design of Greek merchant vessels . . . The fact that this wreck lies on a muddy sand bottom suggests that the wood of the hull remains well preserved."

RARE ANTELOPE

Dr. Theodore H. Reed, Director of the National Zoological Park in Washington, D.C., will seek the rare bongo under a Society grant. One of the least-known members of the antelope family, the bongo seldom has been taken.

"It has an acute sense of hearing and an amazing ability to maneuver through dense foliage," Dr. Reed explained.

"The major accounts of its habits in the wild come from hunters. Only nine of the animals have reached captivitiy."

★ ★ ★

Dr. Reed, who will work in a heavily forested area of Kenya's Aberdare Mountains, hopes to study bongos in the field and capture specimens for zoo exhibit and continued study.

Dr. William M. Bass, professor of anthropology at the University of Kansas, will excavate a protohistoric Arikari Indian village in northern South Dakota. Dr. Bass said the village apparently was abandoned just before the Lewis and Clark Expedition visited it in 1804.

UNCOMMON PATTERN

The site, excavated for three seasons by the Smithsonian Institution, has yielded some 40 human skeletons found on house floors — an uncommon pattern in Plains Indian culture. Dr. Bass speculates it may be one of the villages struck by a smallpox epidemic.

In another field, Dr. Walter A. Starck II, president of the Marine Research Foundation in Miami, Florida, and a skilled diver, will study fish on the seaward edge of three western Caribbean reefs.

The fauna of the outer reef faces is poorly known because the nearly vertical formations fall away to great depths.

Dr. William D. Lipe, aassistant professor of anthropology at the State University of New York at Binghamton, will investigate the Englebert Site in Tioga County, New York. Occupied by prehistoric peoples, the site may contribute valuable information on the origins of the Iroquois.

★ ★ ★

The Arctic Institute of North America will measure glaciers and snow accumulation in the St. Elias mountains along the Alaska-Canada border.

In addition, the National Geographic continutes to support scientists such as Dr. Louis S. B. Leakey, whose discoveries in East Africa have pushed back the horizons of prehistory; Baroness Jane Van Lawick-Goodall, who has studied wild African chimpanzees since 1960; and Jacques-Yves Cousteau, the pioneer undersea explorer.

Duel Is for Film

CHICAGO (AP) — Residents of swanky apartments on Lake Shore Drive summoned police when men were seen dueling with swords across the street on Oak Street Beach Wednesday. The police came, looked and left. The men were actors making a film.

Trading Is Active

Market Is Irregular, off a Bit

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was irregular in active trading early today.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average was off 2:31 at 916.55 at the end of the first half hour. But gains outnumbered advances by a fair margin, 502 to 327.

The ticker tape at the New York Stock Exchange was running a minute late.

Brokers said the market apparently was affected by "a lot of switching around that's going on. Investors are looking for the best places to put their money to work and they're switching from one group to another and that's causing some churning."

Opening blocks included:

Stokely-Van Camp, up ⅜ at 56¼ on 25,000 shares; Hess Oil, up ⅛ at 45 on 50,000 shares; Rexall, off ⅜ at 31⅝ on 42,000 shares, and Libby, McNeil & Libby, off ⅜ at 17 on 41,200 shares.

Trading in the common and 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. was halted on the New York Stock Exchange, "pending further news announcements."

The company's common stock increased $6.37 a share to $62 Wednesday on merger rumors. Ling-Temco-Vought Inc. said it had had informal and preliminary discussions with Jones & Laughlin as well as several other companies.

JACK MURPHY

'Murf the Surf' Surrenders in Murder Case

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Jack "Murf the Surf" Murphy surrendered to police in nearby Miami today on a first degree murder warrant in the slayings of two former California secretaries who police wanted to question about a transcontinental securites conspiracy case.

★ ★ ★

A grand jury issued sealed indictments Tuesday in the brutal so-called "Whisky Creek" murders.

★ ★ ★

A statewide pickup order went out for Murphy, a beachboy-turned-jewel thief, and Jack Griffith, a karate expert. The order said first degree murder warrants were issued for the men.

★ ★ ★

"I'm sure both will surrender in due time," said Miami attorney David Russell, who said he represented Griffith. "There's no place to run. It's just a question of getting your toothbrush and your extra pants and getting ready to go to jail."

FOUND IN CREEK

The slain young women were Terry Rae Kent Frank, 23, and Annalie Marie Mohn, 21. Mrs. Frank was from Amberley, Ohio, a Cincinnati suburb, and Miss Mohn was a German national.

★ ★ ★

Their bodies, weighted with concrete, were found in Whisky Creek near Hollywood Dec. 8.

★ ★ ★

Later, an audit at the Los Angeles brokerage house of Rutner, Jackson and Gray revealed $488,732 in securities were missing. Los Angeles police said the thefts were discovered after Mrs. Frank, a divorcee, and Miss Mohn quit the firm and moved to Miami Beach.

★ ★ ★

Six men were indicted in New York on securities conspiracy charges. Police said that when the women left the firm the thefts stopped. But they were killed before they could be questioned.

SERVED SENTENCE

Murphy, 30, served a jail sentence for the daring theft of the Star of India sapphire and the DeLong ruby from the Museum of Natural History in New York City.

★ ★ ★

When the pickup order was issued, Murphy was free under $20,000 bond on charges growing out of an attempted holdup of the home of a wealthy Miami Beach widow.

★ ★ ★

Griffith, 30, formerly operated a karate school in the Miami area. He was described as "athletic looking," sandy-haired and having "a nice voice just like a radio announcer."

Waterford Group to Hear Policeman

"Is Waterford Township Prepared in Case of Civil Disturbances?" is the topic to be discussed at the 8 p.m. Tuesday meeting of the Greater Waterford Community Council to be held at Pierce Junior High School, 5145 Hatchery.

★ ★ ★

Capt. Frank Randolph of the Waterford Township Police Department will be the speaker. The meeting is open to the public.

★ ★ ★

A GWCC spokesman said that certificates will be awarded to groups, schools and churches which participated in the celanup, fix-up, campaign or are planning such project.

Hope Wants to Perform on Moon at 100

By AL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hope, who is only a short putt from being 65, has already set a goal for his 100th birthday.

"I'd still like to be around then," he said, "and playing in a show on the moon."

That isn't just one of the blithe-spirited comedian's five million catalogued jokes. He has a good chance of making history as the first professional laughman to become a centenarian.

BOYLE

"My grandfather lived to be a month short of 100," he remarked, "and I have a couple of uncles who are about 90 and still hale."

PHYSICALLY FIT

Keeping physically fit has also been a lifelong part of his philosophy. He holds his weight around a trim 175 pounds by regular golf sessions, long walks, and daily stretching exercises.

Over a luncheon of scrambled eggs, apple pie and black coffee, Hope complained mildly that recent reports of his wealth had been greatly exaggerated.

★ ★ ★

"Lord, I got rich all of a sudden," he said. "One magazine hinted I was worth about half a billion dollars, and then Fortune Magazine lists me in the $150-to-$200-million bracket. Now I'm waiting for Reader's Digest to come out and tell me how much I really have.

"Then, I suppose, I'll have to get in touch with that lady astrologer in Washington and find out where it all is. Everybody thinks you've got it in your golf pants. It's murder."

Bob paused reflectively. Then, referring again to the $150-to-$200-million estimate of his fortune, he said:

"If I could sell all the property I have at the value I place on it myself, it would come to about a third of that."

★ ★ ★

Hope, who rarely carries more than $50 in cash, owns a piece of the Cleveland Indians, an Ohio dairy, and has extensive other financial and real estate interests, including a 5,000-acre property in Southern California where he plans to produce his own pictures.

"I'm not trying to lick boredom," he said. "I'm looking for it. Right now I'm behind in so many things that I don't want to get involved in anything that will result in another phone call."

Hormones, Pills May Curb Skin Bacteria

DETROIT (AP) — Sex hormones and contraceptive pills may curb skin bacteria, a team of medical researchers report.

Laboratory experiments show, they said, that virulent staphylococci have been inhibited in their growth when exposed to therapeutic doses of contraceptive pills or sex hormones.

★ ★ ★

The finds by a research team at the Loyola University Stritch School of Medicine in Hines, Ill., were discussed at the 68th annual meeting of the American Society for Microbiology in Detroit.

Contraceptive pills not only have shown the ability to suppress the growth of virulent staph germs in routine laboratory cultures, the researchers said, but they also have a capacity to suppress the progress of induced boils in rabbits.

MORTALITY DROPS

The research team, headed by Dr. William Yotis, also found in another series of experiments that infected mice receiving large doses of contraceptive pills show lower staph counts in their spleens and kidneys than a group of control mice.

During the first four days after infection, Yotis said, the pill-treated mice experienced lower mortality rates than the control group.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Alexander Levitan of the University of Minnesota reported that experimental patient isolator systems in chemotherapy wards have proved to offer a high degree of protection for transplant patients.

The system was tried on 22 patients at a hospital in Bethesda, Md., and showed that air samples obtained from such an isolator contain less than four per cent of the number of microorganisms found in the average patient care area.

STERILIZED BY GAS, STEAM

Levitan said an average operating room contains about 30 per cent of the number.

In the isolator system, everything entering the tent-compartment is sterilized by gas or steam.

★ ★ ★

Levitan said this includes food, magazines and even the patient. Added protection is provided by an airlock passbox equipped with ultraviolet lights.

The system was described as one that can be used for burn therapy and organ transplant patients as well as for cancer victims.

Cuba Pushing Cattle Breeding

SAN JOSE DE LAS LAJAS, Cuba (AP) — Cuba is betting thousands of dollars on breeding cattle by artificial insemination, and most experts agree the odds are in Prime Minister Fidel Castro's favor.

Although the real payoff is not expected to begin for another two years, some knowledgeable agriculturists already are suggesting the industry has the potential to rival sugar some day as the country's No. 1 foreign exchange earner.

★ ★ ★

The showcase for Castro's ambitious program is a spic-and-span bull ranch near this town 25 miles southeast of Havana.

The ranch is called Rosafe Signet after the first purebred bull in Castro's artificial insemination program, which began in 1962.

MANY IMPORTS

Here 123 thunderously big animals, many of them imported from Canada and England, snort and paw their immaculate pens while they wait to fill the test tubes.

A modern laboratory with French and Japanese equipment adjoins the bull pens where the big Shorthorns, Devons, Holsteins, Cebus and Cuban Criollos are kept.

★ ★ ★

The star of them all is a handsome Canadian Holstein with a gentle face and a long pedigree. His name is International Black Velvet and he cost the Cuban government $100,000. Castro keeps this 3,100-pound specimen of reproductive power in an air-conditioned room with other top breeders.

Technicians stop their work and schoolgirls doing voluntary labor nearby look up when Black Velvet is led out to do his work.

Washington's Zoo Bustling

Experiencing a Spring Population Explosion

WASHINGTON — The National Zoological Park is experiencing its regular springtime population explosion.

Births since mid-March include bighorn sheep, an owl monkey, a Barbary ape, a zebra, and scores of smaller animals.

★ ★ ★

About 800 mammals, birds, reptiles, and invertebrates are born annually at the zoo, a full-fledged bureau of the Smithsonian Institution.

The zoo's 1,300 birds are the most prolific parents, but the lions also do well. Princess and Caesar, at age 18 the zoo's oldest leonine couple, have produced 25 cubs since 1953.

SLOW MOVERS

Amphibians, on the other hand, move into parenthood slowly. They tend to give members of the opposite sex a wet, cold shoulder.

Says Dr. Theodore H. Reed, park director: "They're like humans; they've got to like each other."

★ ★ ★

The 3,000-animal, 175-acre zoo in Washington's Rock Creek Park is fertile ground. Many animals don't wait for springtime to appear.

Donna, a pensive 125-pound giraffe, was born in February. She was named for Mrs. Donna K. Grosvenor, the wife of Gilbert M. Grosvenor, vice president and associate editor of National Geographic.

BLACK RHINO

September saw the birth of Dillon, the zoo's first home-bred black rhinoceros — named in honor of Dr. S. Dillon Ripley, secretary of the Smithsonian.

Some recent births made major news in the animal world. Chief among these was the arrival of Rajkumar, the first white tiger born in the Western Hemispsere.

★ ★ ★

Rajkumar was one of triplets born on Jan. 6, 1964, to Mohini, the Enchantress of Rewa, and Samson, a Bengal.

Unfortunately, Rajkumar died of distemper at the age of 20 months; the other siblings had normal orange-and-black coloring.

SNOW LEOPARD

The big evest of spring 1958 was the birth of the Western Hemisphere's first snow leopard. Like other newly born valuable animals, he was kept in an incubator in a zoo employe's home.

The foster - parent record among zoo personnel probably belongs to the head keeper of the great apes, Bernard Gallagher, and his wife, Louise. Their specialties are chimpanzees and gorillas.

★ ★ ★

Tomoka, Leonard and Inaki — the fourth, fifth and tenth gorillas born in captivity anywhere — roomed at the Gallaghers' suburban Maryland home during the early, critical months.

The babies' mother, Moka, showed no interest in her famous children.

BEATING BARNACLES — An experimental paint may end the old problem of barnacles on seagoing ships. A steel plate coated with the paint shows almost no attachment of barnacles in this test, while an identical plate not coated is encrusted with the little creatures. The project is part of research being done by Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

Poverty Area Site for New N-Reactor

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI) — A bumpy dirt road that winds past handmade rock walls and fords shallow streams in the Ozark foothills leads to the nuclear-electrical doorstep of the 21st century.

The Southwest Experimental Fast Oxide Reactor (SEFOR), which will be used for experiments in producing more electricity, more cheaply with nuclear energy, is being built in one of the most backward areas of the nation, 20 miles southwest of Fayetteville.

★ ★ ★

The $27-million project is financed by General Electric and the Southwest Atomic Energy Associates (SAEA), which is 17 investor-owned electric power companies. The Atomic Energy Commission and Karlsruhe Research Center of West Germany are cooperating with the research.

They say they hope to:

1. Develop lower-cost nuclear fuel electricity. The experiments are expected to develop procedures that will allow a nuclear reactor to produce up to 80 times as much electrical power as can now be obtained from a set amount of nuclear material.

2. Establish engineering safety criteria for large fast reactor power plants. They will seek the most economical means of meeting safety requirements.

AUSPICIOUS DESCRIPTION

"The most significant single reactor experiment in the western world" is the auspicious description given SEFOR by one scientist.

The electric power companies hope to use the knowledge gained through SEFOR for the benefit of themselves and their customers. Arkansas Power and Light Co. already has purchased a site and started groundwork on an electricity-generating reactor site.

★ ★ ★

Present-day nuclear reactors use uranium as their major fuel and the heat generated from splitting the uranium atoms is used to heat water into steam. The steam then powers generators that produce electricity.

SEFOR will use a uranium-plutonium compound as fuel. Plutonium is a man-made fuel that emits more neutrons than does the usual uranium fuel. This ability is expected to produce 80 times the energy now available and still have enough fuel left over to feed other reactors.

EXTRA COOLING

The fast-acting uranium-plutonium reaction will produce much greater heats and the SEFOR reactor will need extra cooling.

Liquid sodium will be used in an experimental process to carry the heat out of the reactor.

★ ★ ★

Ironically, just a mile or two away — outside SEFOR's quiet, grassy valley — live some of the least privileged people in America. Many of the homes do not even have electricity. SEFOR may provide a way to change that.

Primitive Way Best for Shark

Scientists Suggest Turning It Into Meal

By Science Service Writer

WASHINGTON — The shark is a primitive fish and it may be that the best way for humans to deal with it is a primitive way — eat the shark before he eats you.

Shark meat is palatable and is being more and more widely accepted — although usually sold under other names, like "dusky steak fish."

★ ★ ★

Ten years of scientific research into shark habits and methods of protecting swimmers from them turns up the idea that the best way to get sharks away from people is to simply haul them out of the water, either by hook and line or by nets — for dinner or otherwise.

Sharks possess, it seems, all the characteristics necessary to touch the deepest fears. They attack out of the dim and unknown, in a medium in which man can flounder or drown, and they devour their victims alive. Big sharks do on occasion bite people in half.

MANUALS WRONG

In the face of this it is unbelievable that pre-World War II survival manuals instructed personnel swimming shark-filled waters that the fish are slow moving, cowardly, and easily frightened off by splashing.

Those approached by a shark were told to dodge, grab a fin, ride the shark and stab him in the belly. Or simply to bang him in the nose.

★ ★ ★

Bad experiences with sharks during the war convinced people that this is nonsense. After the war, with more and more people going into the sea for knowledge, money or fun, it came to be recognized that next to nothing was known about sharks or defenses against them.

As a result the Navy and the american Institute of Biological Sciences formed the Shark Research Panel, with the aim of learning as much as possible about all aspects of sharks.

NEW UNDERSTANDING

An unexpected bonus of the research is a new understanding of the breeding and living habits of what may turn out to be a very improtant marine resource.

While the industrial systhesis of vitaimin A put an end to the high value of shark liver, Americans are coming more and more to accept sharks as human food. And they are a source of the hydrocarbon squalene, important in cosmetics.

★ ★ ★

There appear to be two populations of sharks. Sharks essentially are deep-water fish. But another population, a kind of spillover from the mainstream population, lives inshore.

It is these inshore residents — called bank loafers by some fishermen from their habit of hanging around sand bars and other shallow water — that are responsible for the bulk of attacks on divers and swimmers.

FISHING BEST APPROACH

Dr. Stewart Springer of the Smithsonian Institution's Natural History Museum and a member of the Panel, says the simplest approach to control of these inshore sharks — fishing for them — appears to be the best. He says that gill nets with about an 18-inch mesh are used in Australia and South Africa to great effect.

Quite simply, Dr. Springer says, the inshore sharks can be fished out and kept fished out, either with the nets or by hook and line if the nets might damage other fish populations.

★ ★ ★

Because of constant replenishment of the inshore population from the mainstream, he says, there will always be a few individuals left in the area being fished. But the chance of shark-human encounters and thus of attack will be reduced almost to nothing.

Dr. Springer believes, in fact, that the genesis of many or most attacks in inshore waters is a chance encounter. The shark is not hunting people, but if he bumps into something soft and bite-sized he may try to eat it.

THEY CAN'T AVOID IT

Many shark attacks occur in murky water, not because the shark can sneak up on an unwary victim but because he can't see to avoid him.

Money-Wise Star Invests in Guaranteed Loser

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—James Garner is a money-wise star who invests his huge earnings in land and oil. Yet he allows himself one investment that is a guaranteed loser.

THOMAS

Garner has formed the American International Racing Co., which sponsors entries in the major auto races of the world. Of the financial aspects, he comments: "Even if I won first prize in every race I entered, I still wouldn't break even."

★ ★ ★

Then why is a dollar-conscious man like Garner involved in the sport?

"Because I want to do something for racing," said Garner, a long-time enthusiast for fast cars. "Not many people realize that auto racing is the second biggest spectator sport in the world, after football — or what we call soccer.

HUGE CROWDS

"Racing is just coming into its own in the country, and I'd like to do what I can to help. People are already realizing what an exciting sport it is. Races like those at Sebring and Dayton Beach draw crowds of 100,000. The Riverside track near here can get 85,000. Even a place like Rockingham, N. C., which has a population of 5,500, can draw 50,000 people on a racing day."

Garner's motive is not entirely altruistic, he conceded. His association with racing helps his public image and provides the kind of publicity he likes — he has long shunned the usual movie-star publicity. As might be expected of a man with a healthy respect of the dollar, he has found a way to help defray the expenses.

★ ★ ★

He is on the verge of signing with a large chemical corporation for sponsorship of his racing stable. "It will be good public relations for them," Garner reasoned. "They make a number of products for cars. And even if my cars don't win, they will get publicity returns from their sponsorship."

Garner's enterprise began with the purchase of three Stingray Corvettes last year. He acquired a group of drivers, headed by Scooter Patrick and Davey Jordan. The Garner cars made good showings at Daytona in February and Sebring in March. At Sebring Patrick led the race for the first two hours, set a lap record and 10- and 20-lap records. A broken suspension and flat tire put him out of contention.

Now Garner is dropping the Stingrays, and has acquired two English-made Lolas, for which he has high hopes. In fact, he is so hopeful that he is entering the classic Le Mans in France June 15-16.

"All this costs money," he said. "I paid $18,000 just for the chassis of the Lolas and another $5,000 for the engine. Then we're doing some things to the engine which I hope will surprise the other boys at Le Mans. With four drivers, six mechanics and two or three others, it costs me about $75,000 to enter a race. That's why I need a corporation to sponsor me."

★ ★ ★

Garner admitted that he sometimes gets behind the wheel of one of the racers and lets it all the way out, as he did at Riverside recently.

"Racing is no new passion with me," said the actor. "When I was a kid, I used to hang around a drive-in at Sunset Boulevard and Labrea with the other hot-rodders. I was one of those guys who used to pull up beside an older driver at a stop sign and say, 'race you for pink slips?'"

South Africa Has Growing Problems With Bilinguality

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Entrances to some buildings in South Africa are labeled "in." Directly beneath that sign is an identical one which also says "in."

One is in English and the other Afrikaans and, despite such similarities, the differences between them are growing in bilingual South Africa.

★ ★ ★

Some Afrikaners want English dropped entirely as the second official language.

Others watch the two-language policy for signs of favoritism. One Afrikaner complained because a lifeguard at a South African beach had only "lifesaver" lettered on his uniform. He insisted that the equivalent Afrikaans word, "menseredder," should also be on the uniform.

PROMOTION BARRIER

Civil servants can be barred from promition if they are not fully bilingual.

Ardent Afrikaners want Prime Minister Balthazar J. Vorster to bar citizenship to immigrants who are not fluent in both official languages.

★ ★ ★

Vorster urged radio advertisers to take "positive steps" to give Afrikaans its "rightful place" in their commercials.

Advertising signs at South African airports now must be in both languages. Painted on one side of the fuselage of jets of the state owned airline is "South African Airways." The other side reads "Suid-Afrikaanse Lugdiens."

MONUMENT PLANNED

A monument to Die Taal—"The Language"—is planned by Afrikaners in the Paarl Mountains of Cape Province.

What is Afrikaans and why are its speakers so protective of their tongue?

★ ★ ★

Afrikaans is the only language of European origin that is not spoken in Europe. In fact it is spoken nowhere but on the southern tip of Africa.

Its origin is mainly Dutch, although linguists say it is now closer to Flemish. Afrikaans started evolving some time before the so-called Great Trek of pioneer Dutch settlers from the coast into the interior of what is now South Africa in the 19th century. It adopted tribal and other words as needed and became the simple and direct tongue of the frontiersman.

BOER LOSS RESENTED

Afrikaners had little left but their land and their language after defeat by the British in the 1899-1902 Boer War. Resentment that English was the only socially acceptable tongue in South Africa led Afrikaners to fight for their language.

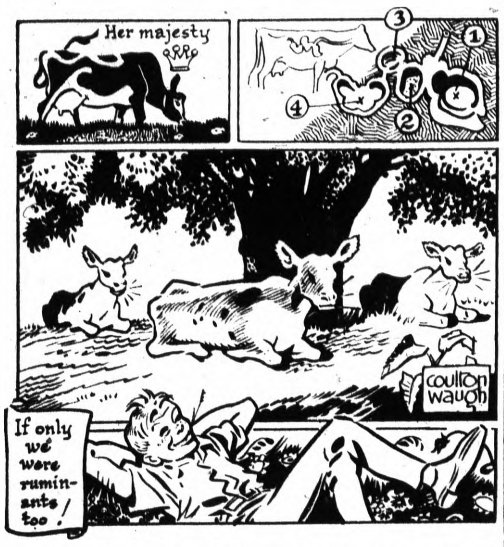
The struggle for equality with English has its linguistic landmarks. Afrikaans was approved as the second language in schools in 1914. It replaced Dutch as the language of the Dutch Reformed Church in 1916. It was designated the second official language in 1925. The first Afrikaans dictionary was started in 1926. An Afrikaans Bible —"Die Bybel"—was first published in 1934.

★ ★ ★

Friction between English and Afrikaans speakers is common. But this country never suffered language riots and bloodshed which afflicted India and Belgium or bitter nationalist dissent as in Canada and Ireland.

Sensitivity is widespread among South Africans, however, with Afrikaners claiming their tongue is neglected and English speakers complaining that theirs is being swallowed up.

Junior Editors Quiz on COWS



QUESTION: Is it true that cows have four stomachs?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Cows, along with goats, deer, sheep and others, are ruminants — grazing animals having a remarkable digestive system with four stomach cavities.

Ruminants grab bites of grass and swallow them with little chewing. The food goes into cavity (1), the rumen, where bacteria begin to break down the hard cellulose walls of the plants. Next, the food goes to the reticulum, cavity (2), where it is turned into balls called cuds.

Now the animal lies down in some sheltered spot. Here, the cuds are passed up into the mouth to be thoroughly chewed. The cuds are broken down as the cow's lower molar teeth revolve against the hard gum above in a grinding action.

Then, the softened food passes through the two other stomach cavities, the omasum (3) and the abdomasum (4) and finally into the intestines where it is digested and passed into the blood stream to furnish nourishment to the animal.

You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors is selected for a prize.)

Santa Fe Asks Aid, Time Capsule 'Lost'

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Santa Fe officials have called in technicians from the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, where the world's first atomic bomb was built, to help find a 100- year-old time capsule.

One instrument would send ultrasonic waves through a cornerstone in the Santa Fe plaza where the capsule was believed to have been embedded.

The box was left to history a century ago containing coins and other effects. Santa Fe historic officials know that much but accounts never clearly state the exact location of the capsule.

Fleece of the vicuna ranks as high among wools as does chinchilla among furs.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF Harriet E. Barbe, who passed away May 9, 1955.
Her loving face we hope to see again,
Though the days have passed away;
Sleep on, dear mother and take your rest,
They miss you most who loved you best.
Sadly missed by daughters, Loretta, Carol, Ruth Ann, Elyse and son Don.

IN LOVING MEMORY of Michael Lee Elmy, who passed away May 9, 1967.
Time turns away the edge of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf.
Sadly missed by Mother and Father.

Judd Arnett Says

He's Selling Progress

BY JUDD ARNETT

IF METROPOLITAN DETROIT did not have the likes of Joseph L. Hudson, Jr., we would have to invent him. And since people-at-large have been bungling things right and left of late, he is doubtless fortunate that the Good Lord beat us to him.

It is only co-incidental to what follows that Mr. Hudson is a Merchant Prince, the pride and hope of the dry goods and staples empire which shares his name. Merchant Princes aren't exactly a dime a dozen these days, but they are much more plentiful than Grade A Civic Leaders, and it is in the latter category that we shall consider this energetic and purposeful man who is but 37 tender years of age.

Joe Hudson . . .

. . . came into the full view of the public eye late last July in the immediate aftermath of the Detroit riots when it was announced that he had been selected to head an organization to be called "The New Detroit Committee."

The announcement came in a joint communique from George Romney and Jerome P. Cavanagh. Immediately, some of the older and more cynical heads around town assumed that the Governor and the Mayor had deftly shifted a large monkey, perhaps even a gorilla, to Mr. Hudson's untested back. Among these observers the odds were no better than six, two and even that he would escape this experience with pelt intact.

To the best of my knowledge, no one has ever undertaken a count of the committees in existence throughout this fair land, but it is probably safe to say that there are at least ten million of them. Committee-making is one of our principal industries, in government and out, and it thrives despite the fact that very few ever pass quality control.

Whenever the chairman of the board of Amalgamated Posthole, or the president of the Ladies' Wistaria Association, faces a knotty problem, another committee is born. Congress, the various legislatures and city councils from Maine to California are over-run not only by committees, but by committees of the committees. It is said, too that the camel was the result of a committee which set out to produce a horse.

Anyhow, it was against this backdrop of cynicism — "Here we go again, another committee!" — that young Joe Hudson assumed the leadership of New Detroit. Worse, his task seemed complicated by the fact that his board of directors was composed of strong-willed industrial, union and civil rights militants who were accustomed to sitting at the right hand of God when earthly decisions were made. This, then, was a "blue-ribbon committee," which can be the most impossible of all.

But a few days ago a remarkable document in the form of a "Progress Report of the New Detroit Committee" came to the public. It is unfortunate that the metropolitan newspapers are still caught up in what someone has called "The Great Bullheadedness" and thus cannot bring it to you in toto. But you can buy it at the newsstand for one dollar, and it will be money well spent.

There is some slight prejudice here in respect to the Progress Report since your commentator was privileged to write a very small piece of it. Two weeks in the committee offices with three other inkstained wretches, with full access to files and memoranda, left a conviction: This is an honest accounting to the public, with nothing swept under the rug.

In Reality . . .

. . . Progress Report is a chronicle of failure, not of the committee per se, not of the City or State administrations specifically, but of the whole system of society. It tells us again (as the Kerner Report did earlier) that America in this terribly late hour is not yet geared or motivated to deal with the problems which have been with us for decades—yea, centuries. It will not make pleasant reading in those lily-white areas where there is even now a false sense of remoteness from strife and turmoil; but where it rubs let it rub, where it pinches let it pinch; the truth must be worn.

Finally, it seems to me that Progress Report relates the principal weakness of the New Detroit Committee—that it did not in the beginning become a money raising and dispersing agency, but chose, rather, to be the causer of good deeds. A noble decision, perhaps, but what this area still needs is fifty million dollars in "seed money."

Nonetheless, Joseph L. Hudson, Jr. has performed brilliantly in a difficult assignment. We ought to run him for something!

A Look at Television

Grammy Show Sleek, Colorful

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — The annual Grammy awards show is usually a forthright no-nonsense program that comes along months after the awards have been passed out. It can, therefore, skip all the buildup and envelope-opening and present a tuneful summary of the season's top recordings.

The NBC special Wednesday night was no exception, although it was more sleek, more colorful and more sophisticated than in past years. It concentrated for the most part on music and musicians.

★ ★ ★

The hour show opened with the Fifth Dimension singing their hit, "Up, Up and Away," voted best record by the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences. The tune, which certainly is catchy, has had its effect considerably watered down since it has been adopted as the musical signature of an airline—although every time the number is played, it is like a built-in plug.

Bobbie Gentry and Glen Campbell, both multiple winners, came along with their hit numbers. John Hartford sang "Gentle on My Mind" which he wrote. Lou Rawls was engaging with his "Dead End Street." Cannonball Adderley and his quintet had a quietly effective instrumental number.

TRICK PHOTOGRAPHY

From a visual standpoint, one of the most effective numbers was built around Campbell's singing of "By the Time I get to Phoenix." It involved some trick photography and had the performer literally playing two roles on the same screen. However, the tricky photography got a little out of hand in one Bobbie Gentry number that showed the singer's whole figure as she sat playing her guitar and at the same time a huge closeup of her face filled in the background it was unusual, but distracting.

★ ★ ★

Liza Minnelli, in a particularly unattractive little boy's suit, belted some numbers from "Cabaret," and Sen. Everett Dirksen, whose "Gallant Men" recording won a documentary award, made a couple of mild jokes, thanked the academy but did not offer any free samples of his readings. There was also a rerun of a bit from the recent "PBL" tape showing a guitar-violin concert by Ravi Shankar and Yehudi Menuhin which resulted in a record that won a chamber in a record that won a chamber music award.

DELIGHTFUL MEDLEY

One of the most delightful moments came with a medley with Jack Jones, Miss Gentry and Campbell singing winning Grammy songs of the past 10 years. Many of them were memorable tunes, now standards.

Bill Dana spent most of last summer traveling 15,000 miles around the nation filming "Discover America with Jose Jimenez" which will be an NBC special on May 17. Most of the program was shot in interesting but off-beat places.

One day he ran into an acquaintance, a small-time night-club entertainer, who asked Dana where he was working. Dana told him about a Pennsylvania Dutch folk festival, a Hannibal, Missouri fence painting contest, a Gloucester, Mass., fisherman's fiesta and Indian rain dances in Santa Fe, N. M.

★ ★ ★

The man's face became more and more sympathetic: "Who the hell is booking you these days?" he asked.

CBS plans an hour special Friday night—10-11 EST—from Paris by satellite on the first day of the peace talks. There will undoubtedly be several other special programs with all networks sending top teams to France to cover the story.

Earl Reports Flow of Tears at the Irving Berlin Salute

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Song-writers are heartthrob guys . . . they're sentimentalists . . . they cry easily. Did you see them getting misty the other night? I sat in a nest of them at the Irving Berlin 80th birthday salute on the Ed Sullivan show and was almost drenched in their tears. (I cried a little myself.)

Jule Styne ("Funny Girl"), Jerry Herman ("Hello, Dolly!" and "Mame!") and Sammy Cahn of so many, many hits, rubbed the tears from their eyes when Berlin got up on stage and sang "God Bless America."

Adolph Green's wife Phyllis Newman's tears washed out her false eyelashes.

But their sense of humor burst through, too.

"Know why we were crying?" Sammy Cahn said later. "Because we didn't write those songs."

★ ★ ★

Jimmy Van Heusen leaned over to Sammy Cahn right after President Johnson's filmed greetings to Berlin opened the program.

"Pretty good opening, huh, Sam?" Jimmy said. "Better than opening with jugglers?"

And it was nice seeing a singer who didn't need cue cards. Who didn't? Irving Berlin — singing "God Bless America."

Berlin told one on himself. "A man came up to me while I was waiting for my car. He said, 'My God, you're 80 years old?' I said, 'Yes.' He said, 'You know, you look it.'"

Berlin added impishly to me: "I laughed, because I know I don't."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Flip Wilson figures a friend of his is a born loser. For instance, he was arrested — for stealing an Edsel.

Dick Cavett discussed "America's fastest-rising comedy team — the N.Y. Mets." That's earl, brother.

Arnheiter 'Used' Command, Report Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A study by the staff of the House Armed Services committee has concluded that Lt. Cmdr. Marcus A. Arnheiter used his command of a destroyer in the Vietnam war zone "for his own personal gain," it was disclosed today.

The staff report — never officially published — said the Navy had "adequate grounds" for questioning his ability to command the ship.

Arnheiter was removed as skipper of the radar picket ship USS Vance in March 1966, after three months in command. He has been seeking to clear his name ever since.

The report listed these examples:

● While assigned to patrol more than 10 miles offshore he "continuously brought his ship in close to shore looking for gunfire support missions" (shore bombardment) and failed to report he was leaving his assigned area.

● He asked another American destroyer, the Bache, for a shore bombardment mission. "Although none was given, Vance started firing at the shore. Officers of both the Bache and the Vance reported that the only signs of life in the area were sparks flying from bullets ricocheting on the rocks in the area."

★ ★ ★

● The Vance "on its own" fired on a religious shrine on the South Vietnamese coast, although it was in an area "where the United States did not want to have any firing as we wanted to win over the local people."

★ ★ ★

● He filed "false position reports" to his commanders so as not to indicate his ship "was off its expected patrol and engaging in unauthorized gunfire support missions."

U.S., Hanoi Open Talks in Paris Tomorrow

PARIS (AP) — U.S. officials today predicted long, hard bargaining with the North Vietnamese as American negotiators headed for the French capital with a mandate from President Johnson to sound out Hanoi's representatives on peace prospects.

★ ★ ★

An atmosphere of hope in Washington was tempered by the recollection that it took two years of tough bargaining with the Communists to end the Korean war.

No one cared to predict how long the Paris talks would last. The big question in American minds was whether the

Related Story, Page A-5

Communists really want a peace settlement or planned to use the talks only to press for a bombing halt and other advantages for their military campaign in South Vietnam.

W. Averell Harriman, President Johnson's envoy, and his chief aides were scheduled to arrive tonight from Washington.

★ ★ ★

Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese negotiator, came by way of Peking and Moscow.

The first meeting between Harriman and Thuy was scheduled for tomorrow in the former Majestic Hotel near the Arc de Triomphe.

U.N. officials expressed interest in French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville's speculation that the U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators might move on to broad talks on ending the war as well as the scheduled preliminary discussions on the question of halting U.S. bombing of the North.

★ ★ ★

U.S. authorities have made plain that Harriman would seek a military restraint by North Vietnam in return for what Hanoi lists as its priority topic: "The unconditional cessation of the U.S. bombing raids and all other acts of war."

★ ★ ★

French diplomats in contact with North Vietnamese officials say Hanoi is confident that it will be able to attain its prime objective in the talks—the evacuation of U.S. troops from South Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese are reported to feel that the United States will eventually agree to a phased withdrawal under the cover of a political compromise in the South.

★ ★ ★

The informants said this assessment is based on the feeling that the United States cannot carry on a "three-front war" resolving the Negro question, defending the dollar and winning the war in Vietnam.

Area Panel Calls on Businessmen to Hire Hard-Core Jobless, Youth

By ED BLUNDEN

The call went out yesterday for Pontiac area businessmen to provide 600 jobs for the hard-core unemployed and 6,000 summer jobs for youths.

The challenge was issued at a conference on Oakland County employment problems, held at Oakland University and attended by about 150 public and private executives. The conference was sponsored by OU and the Junior League Forum.

★ ★ ★

A group of speakers and panelists detailed the problem and what could be done in sessions which lasted four hours.

Spelling out the theme of the meeting, in an approach which was well-received and expanded upon by others, was Alfred Williams Jr., director of the Human Development Division of the Michigan Area Development Council.

LOCAL APPROACH

Williams urged a local approach to county employment problems, saying "forget government planners, intermediaries, college professors and politicians."

"The Negro has been programmed to death," he said.

★ ★ ★

Spelling out the long history of Negro exploitation in America, Williams, himself a Negro from Chicago, said it was time to correct the inequalities, "artificially, if necessary."

Williams explained how the local approach used by Muskegon businessmen had greatly helped the situation there. He said businessmen there went to the Negroes and asked, "What can we do to help?"

NEIGHBORHOOD CONCEPT

Committees of white and black persons were formed and the neighborhood concept set up. Working directly in the neighborhoods, the problems of the hard-core jobless and their social problems were being attacked, with a lot of success, according to Williams.

He insisted his desire was to work within the existing framework of the U.S.

★ ★ ★

"There's nothing wrong with the Constitution," he said. Helping the hard-core jobless is only a needed correction, he pointed out. "If you have a bad tooth, you don't pull all your teeth out."

Williams warned against lumping Negroes into mass characteristics and urged treating them as individuals. He told the businessmen it was to their own self-interest to provide jobs.

THINKING 'OBSOLETE'

This same idea of self-interest was hit upon by another speaker, Edward E. Barker Jr., president of Pontiac State Bank. He said it was time for business to do away with "obsolete thinking."

It is in the community's interest to develop more skilled labor, he said. "We are embraced in fulfillment of the American dream . . . envisioned by (the late) Rev. Martin Luther King."

$6-Billion Slash Tied to LBJ Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees have agreed to President Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge but tied it to a $6-billion spending cut he has said is against the national interest.

The conferees said yesterday they had accepted these two key points the Senate approved more than a month ago.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the conferees as well as of the House Ways and Means Committee, voiced hope the group could complete work on other amendments to the bill at a final session today.

The income-tax increase is the 10 per cent surcharge proposal applying to individuals and corporations which the administration has pushed since August.

It would yield $10 billion yearly. It would last 15 months for individuals, from April 1 this year to June 30, 1969, and 18 months for corporations, retroactive from Jan. 1 this year to mid-1969.

About 17 million low-income taxpayers would be exempt.

★ ★ ★

The $6-billion spending reduction proposal has drawn fire from Johnson and other administration officials.

The President told a news conference last Thursday that to go beyond a $4-billion cut in expenditures for the next year "would injure the national interest."

'CRIPPLING CUTS'

If the compromise measure is sent to the White House Johnson will have to decide whether to swallow the $6-billion cut in order to get the tax hike.

Budget Director Charles J. Zwick recently told the Senate a $6-billion slash would "require crippling and destructive cuts" in many welfare and urban programs.

★ ★ ★

Exempted from the spending cut would be funds for the Vietnam war, Social Security, veterans' payments and interest on the national debt.

State Counties Get Order to Redistrict

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Supreme Court ruled yesterday that counties must be reapportioned to allow election of supervisors on a one-man, one-vote basis.

The ruling struck down a section of the Michigan Constitution.

★ ★ ★

The tribunal did not indicate whether redistricting must take place this year, saying the question of a timetable is "left open to future action and determination."

Acting a month after the U.S. Supreme Court extended the equal-population principle to local governments, the state court reversed a decision it made two years ago.

WILL INTRODUCE BILL

Six members of the eight-man court upheld a 1966 state law which requires county reapportionment, but did not involve itself with the difficulties which might arise as counties hasten to redraw their districts in time for the Aug. 6 primary.

State Rep. J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, said meanwhile he would introduce a bill extending from June 18 to July 1 the deadline for filing as a candidate for supervisor, giving counties that much longer to redistrict themselves.

★ ★ ★

Some counties have already drawn up redistricting plans under the 1966 act, which the Michigan high court struck down in April 1967. Others had apportionment schemes in progress and some have done nothing.

A majority of the Michigan court noted that it and other courts are required to give "promptly responsive obedience" to the federal ruling.

CONSTITUTION SECTION VOID

The U.S. decision, the state court said, strikes down a section of the Michigan Constitution which gives each organized township in a county, regardless of population, one representative on the county's board of supervisors.

Yesterday's Supreme Court majority included Chief Justice John Dethmers and Justices Eugene Black, Thomas M. Kavanagh, Theodore Souris, Michael O'Hara and Paul Adams.

Forming a minority of two were Justices Harry F. Kelly and Thomas Bren-

County Board's Future Is Hazy

Oakland County still is uncertain about when and how its 87-member Board of Supervisors will be reapportioned.

That it will be eventually reapportioned is certain, due to U.S and state court decisions. And it will greatly change the nature of the county's government.

★ ★ ★

Board membership will be reduced to 27 and the southern, more populated areas will have far-heavier representations.

The latest decision came yesterday from the State Supreme Court. It altered the State Constitution provision allowing representation on boards of supervisors by each township.

ONE MAN, ONE VOTE

Last week, the State Appeals Court upheld the one-man, one-vote principle in county government.

On April 1, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled one-man, one-vote was mandatory for local government.

★ ★ ★

None of the courts ruled how and when the change was to be made. Still to be decided by state courts is an Oakland County case in which a proposed reapportionment formula was challenged.

'U.S. Beset With Health Problems'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government health officials have pictured the nation as beset with burgeoning problems of alcoholism, mental illness, venereal disease and drug use.

On top of that, health-care costs are skyrocketing.

★ ★ ★

Testifying before a House subcommittee, the officials said:

● There are up to 6.5 million alcoholics and their number grows by 200,000 annually. A growing percentage are married, middle-aged women of the middle and upper classes.

● In a typical community of 150,000 population, where 3,000 children are born annually, one of five will require some form of mental health service and 240 will be patients in mental hospitals in their lifetime.

★ ★ ★

● Gonorrhea is out of control, with a 12 per cent increase in reported cases in each of the last few years. In some groups one of three have this venereal disease and don't know it.

★ ★ ★

● All economic and age groups are involved in taking the mind-expanding drug LSD, but it is falling off in colleges and high schools because of the publicity about its danger.

The testimony before a House appropriations subcommittee came from Dr. William N. Stewart, U.S. surgeon general; Dr. Stanley F. Yolles, director of the National Institute of Mental Health; and Dr. David J. Sencer, director of the National Communicable Disease Center.

Their statements, made in March, were released yesterday.

DIAGNOSIS DIFFICULT

Sencer said while there is adequate treatment for gonorrhea once it is detected, "the problem is we cannot diagnose it in females as well as in males.

"We found that in certain groups 35 per cent of the women are silent carriers."

★ ★ ★

He said the incidence of syphilis remains steady. "Only about 25 per cent of the syphilis cases being treated by private physicians are being reported.

Dr. Carruth J. Wagner, director of the National Bureau of Health Services, told the subcommittee hospital costs will probably reach $100 a day within five years.

New Tool Eyed in Job Bias Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials are threatening to unleash a never-before-used economic weapon — contract cancellation — to combat job discrimination in companies that do $75 billion worth of business a year with the government.

President Johnson empowered federal agencies nearly three years ago to terminate contracts if recipient firms failed to hire, promote and pay employes without regard to race.

Officials admit that some companies have disregarded nondiscrimination pledges.

★ ★ ★

In the future, however, "some contracts are going to be lost unless an awful lot of people suddenly reverse their field," claimed Ward McCready, assistant director of the Labor Department's contract compliance office.

Johnson's September 1965 executive order applies to all government contracts over $10,000 — or all but $5 billion of $80 billion the government pays each year in contracts for goods and services.

ARMOR MOVES IN — A South Vietnamese army tank moves down an alley in the northeastern corner of Saigon after a Vietcong squad moved into the area and harassed government troops. Residents moved out as the troops and Vietcong moved in. The offensive against Saigon enters its fifth day today. (Related story, Page A-2.)

Rescue Workers Near Trapped Coal Miners

HOMINY FALLS, W. Va. (AP)—After a frantic night of rumors and false alarms that rescue of 15 of 25 trapped coal miners was imminent, rescue workers reported today that they were within about 600 feet of the miners.

H. E. Sundstrom, director of the rescue operations, said the water level in the mine had receded enough to enable foreman Frank Davis and Bob Rudd —who had been marooned at another location—to rejoin a group of 13 other miners one-half mile closer to the entrance if they wished. A group of 10, deeper in the mine, is presumed dead.

★ ★ ★

The group of 13 men was located about a mile inside the tunnel, where they were trapped Monday noon when water cascaded through the entire mine after a wall to an adjacent abandoned, and flooded, mine was pierced.

However, Sundstrom said Davis and Rudd had chosen not to rejoin the others immediately, explaining that they were "warm, dry and comfortable" where they were.

SAVE ENERGY

Davis was quoted as saying he and Rudd did not want to expend the energy until rescue appeared imminent, when they planned to "head for the outside."

Meantime, Sundstrom announced that air was circulating through the entire mine, indicating that the water level has dropped below ceiling level in all of the mine tunnels, even at the lowest points.

★ ★ ★

Sundstrom indicated that the miners might be reached "anytime between noon and 6 p.m. (EDT)."

Sundstrom said two obstacles might impede the men's rescue, even after the miners are reached.

ABANDONED BUGGY

One obstacle is a water pump which is partially blocking the main shaft, the other a battery-driven buggy and two trailers abandoned by Ernest Fitzwater, the only miner who escaped from the flooded mine Monday.

Fitzwater said the buggy and trailers capsized in the mine tunnel when they were struck by flood waters, thus blocking the passageway.

★ ★ ★

However, Sundstrom said the escaping men might be able to bypass these obstacles on their way out.

About 100 persons, including the miners' families, remaining at the disaster scene this morning after a crowd of more than 500 gathered about midnight as rumor spread that rescue was near.

Rescue officials warned that it might not be possible to bring the men out immediately. They have been cramped for more than three days in a cold, damp area where only a few could stand.

VC Attacking Saigon From Three Sides

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietcong hit hard at Saigon from three sides today on the eve of the Paris peace talks, pushing closer to the center of the South Vietnamese capital than at any time since the start of the five-day-old Communist offensive.

The U.S. Command announced 2,540 enemy soldiers have been killed since the assault began last Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Thousands of anguished, frightened civilians streamed into the center of the city, swelling the ranks of the homeless to more than 50,000.

TOLL TOPS 2,000

The toll of civilian dead and wounded mounted to more than 2,000.

It was Saigon's worst day since Sunday, and new fears swept across the city. Jets roared across the heart of the city, and moments later the thud of 500-pound bombs was heard. They shook the downtown sections.

★ ★ ★

Blocks of Saigon's southern and eastern sections were destroyed under the pounding of U.S. and South Vietnamese dive-bombers and helicopter gunships. Some houses were set afire by the Vietcong to cover their movements.

CALL MORE TROOPS

The U.S. Command called in hundreds more infantrymen, tanks and helicopter gunships to meet the Vietcong drive, which late Wednesday had appeared to be tapering off. There were reports, however, that the Viet Cong had brought up reinforcements through the night, covering their infiltration with diversionary shelling at other points.

★ ★ ★

Despite the U.S. claim that America and South Vietnamese soldiers were killing 10 of the enemy for every American or South Vietnamese soldier slain in the Saigon fighting, the Vietcong had plenty of punch left.

U. S. FORCE HIT

The Vietcong hit close in at Saigon from the south and east. And 17 miles to the northwest an enemy battalion of perhaps 200 to 300 men did "heavy damage" to two companies of armored personnel carriers from the U.S. 25th Infantry Division, meaning the American force could not continue to block the way to Saigon until reinforcements were rushed in.

House Unit OKs Detroit Tax Bill

LANSING (UPI) — The House Taxation Committee yesterday reported to the House floor the Senate passed bill that would permit Detroit to raise its city income tax from 1 per cent to 2 per cent.

★ ★ ★

The vote was unanimous. And it was supported by three Detroit Democrats, one of whom left his sickbed to come to Lansing for the vote, on the committee.

★ ★ ★

The bill applies only to Detroit and would not permit any other city to double its income tax. At present, all cities are permitted to levy a 1 per cent tax on the income of their citizens and one-half per cent on people who live in the suburbs and work in the cities.

★ ★ ★

The pending Detroit plan would not permit any increase in the tax on suburbanites who work in the Motor City.

DRIVEN TO LANSING

Rep. William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit, who was at home sick, got out of bed and was driven to Lansing so he could vote to report the bill to the House floor for debate.

Ex-Auto Exec's Wife Is Dead

The wife of the former chief engineer for Pontiac Motor Division, Mrs. Benjamin H. (Mary F.) Anibal, died Tuesday.

Service will be 11 a.m. tomorrow at Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co., Birmingham, with private burial in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery, Troy.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Anibal of 1435 N. Cranbrook was a member of the Episcopal Women's Club of Christ Church Cranbrook, the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association of Birmingham, the Coral Ridge Yacht Club of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., the Woman's Village Club of Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills and the Bloomfield Hills and Pine Lake country clubs.

AIDED OU

Surviving besides her husband are a daughter, Mrs. William H. Burgum; a sister, Mrs. J. L. McKee both of Birmingham; and a granddaughter.

Memorials may be sent to Mary Fogarty Anibal Scholarship Fund, Oakland University.

Mr. and Mrs. Anibal have been benefactors of Oakland University. Anibal House, a women's dormitory, was named in their honor and was financed through their gift of 1,000 shares of General Motor's stock to OU. In 1961 when the gift was made, the stock was worth an estimated $56,000.

Budget Is OK'd by Sylvan Lake

A fiscal year budget of $165,500 was approved at last night's Sylvan Lake City Council meeting.

Two assessments also were approved, both effective July 1. One is citywide, for major street improvements. The other is for people living on specific streets which need to be resurfaced.

★ ★ ★

The fourth consecutive Sylvan Lake weed control program will start again this month, council was told.

Residents of the city, part of Keego Harbor and the subdivisions of Pioneer Highlands, Beverly Island and Sylvan Shores annually contribute to a fund used to control the level of weed in Sylvan Lake.

CHEMICAL USE HEAVY

Approximately 160 gallons of the weed control chemical was used in 1967.

This was considerably heavier than treatment in previous years, but there were no reports of ill effects to any person, animal or vegetation, a program spokesman said.

Information regarding the program is available at Sylvan Lake City Hall, 1820 Inverness. Donations will be accepted there.

Negotiations on Police Pay Still Stalled

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — No meeting has been scheduled yet to reopen negotiations between this township and its unionized patrolmen, but indications are that a date will soon be set.

State labor mediator Leonard Bennett, 8884 Cooley Lake Road, White Lake Township, said this morning that he is attempting to schedule a meeting.

★ ★ ★

Bennett explained that Atty. Winston Livingston, representing the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes (AFSCME), the patrolmen's bargaining agent, has been out of town and was to return today.

The mediator from the State Labor Mediation Board was called into the bargaining talks this week at the request of the union.

OFFER REJECTED

Contract negotiations, which have been proceeding since February, hit a snag Tuesday when the patrolmen rejected the township's latest contract offer by an 8-3 vote.

Howard Draft, a spokesman for AFSCME's Metropolitan Council 23, said the primary issue is wages and that the patrolmen felt that the township's top salary bracket should be comparable with neighboring departments.

However, Supervisor Homer Case said that with the exception of Detroit, the township's force is among the area's highest paid.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Citizens for Bloomfield Schools (CBS) a citizens' group organized to push for passage of the June 10 millage in this school district, has begun a block-to-block campaign under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Kuzma, 3810 Carriage, Bloomfield Township.

Mrs. Kuzma, a member of the CBS steering committee, said the campaign, to be called "People to People," will be designed to communicate the district's needs on a personal basis.

★ ★ ★

She ascribed the failure of the April 1 14-mill request, in part, to the absence of such a personal effort: "There was a definite lack of communication in presenting the 14-mill proposition, resulting in the failure of the public to comprehend the alternatives to passage."

H. Eugene Weiss, 2877 Courville, Bloomfield Township, CBS chairman, said the district, presently operating on a deficit basis, would have to make cuts even if the June vote, on 9.5 mills for survive such a pruning."

20 PCT. CUT

"Without passage," he added, "the district must operate on $1.5 million less money — a 20 per cent reduction from current operation.

"Such a reduction, compounded by projected enrollment increases, would spell disaster for the school district. It is doubtful that the professional staff could survive such a pruining."

★ ★ ★

Chairman for the "People-to-People" campaign have been appointed in each of the district's seven precincts.

They are: Precinct 1, Mrs. Howard H. Fitzgerald, II, 4820 Echo, Mrs. Merle D. Polen, 1469 Sodon Lake, and Mrs. Elson Spangler, 1465 Sodon Lake; Precinct 2, Mrs. Dan DeGraff, 4116 Pomona Colony, and Mrs. Michael Puffer, 3853 Shellmarr.

OTHERS LISTED

Precinct 3, Mrs. Seymour Feuer, 532 Kingsley Trail, and Mrs. Herbert Beyer, 120 Denbar; Precinct 4, Mrs. Robert D. Carrie, 7435 Wing Lake, and Mrs. George D. Thomas, 6856 Sandalwood.

Precinct 5, Mrs. Albert Sobey, 730 N. Valley Chase, and Mrs. Irving Rubin, 4430 Queens Way; Precinct 6, Mrs. James A. Read, 175 E. Hickory Grove, and Mrs. Frank Arens, 1615 Winthrop; and Precinct 7, Mrs. Sydney W. Jentzen, 4175 Westover, and Mrs. Richard Poole, 4165 Ladysmith.

OU Caught in Funds Fight Between House, Senate

Oakland University appears to be caught up in a battle between the State Senate and House over how much operating funds to give the university.

A bill introduced on the House floor Tuesday put back in OU's 1968-69 budget $480,141 cut out by the Senate.

★ ★ ★

"This increase brings the budget request for Oakland back to the level requested by Gov. Romney," commented Rep. Donald E. Bishop, R-Rochester.

This is what has happened so far:

- The university's current appropriation is $4.4 million. OU requested $6.3 million for the next fiscal year.
- Romney at first recommended $4.9 million for OU and then after being confronted with university protests, he increased the figure to $5.2 million.
- Then the Senate passed a bill containing $4.7 million for Oakland.

The Senate bill would contain barely enough money to provide for 6 per cent increases in salaries and wages for personnel let alone funds for expected growth, OU Chancellor Durward B. Varner has said.

"This increase reflects the concern of the House over lack of funds appropriated in the Senate for a growing, progressive and dynamic young university," said Bishop who serves on a subcommittee of the House Appropriation Committee in charge of higher education bills.

★ ★ ★

"The increase allowed by the House Appropriation Committee is in line with the committee's attempt to maintain the quality of excellence which had developed at Oakland University."

Bishop pointed out that the university received only a 12.7 per cent increase in appropriations last year when enrollment went up 26 per cent.

"My major concern now is to get the Senate to agree to the improvements recommended by the House subcommittee," Bishop commented. "I trust the Senate will see the wisdom of our recommendations."

Voters Rally to Support of Schools

In the second largest election turnout in the history of its school district, Waterford Township voters gave resounding support to continuance of the 15-mill school tax levy. The levy, approved in 1963, now runs through 1983.

On the issue, which carried by a 3-to-1 margin, depended the very life of the township's school system on modern standards.

★ ★ ★

The result was particularly gratifying to both the citizenry and the educational establishment since a proposed 7½-mill increase was defeated last November 2-to-1.

Although the favorable electoral action will not provide Waterford's school district with funds essential to its expansion in keeping with present and future requirements, it nonetheless represents an unmistakable vote of confidence in the status quo.

★ ★ ★

The PRESS commends Waterford Township's affirmative response to an appeal vitally affecting the development of its future citizens and the community image as well.

Gov. Lurleen B. Wallace

A gallant lady lost her two-year battle against one of mankind's dread enemies when Alabama Gov. LUREEN B. WALLACE died of cancer Tuesday.

MRS. WALLACE

Particularly shocking to a Nation saddened by her fate is the fact that she succombed in the full flower of life, at 41.

It is ironic that Mrs. Wallace, who succeeded her husband in office a short 16 months ago, had been distinguished for her compassion for the afflicted and the victims of adversity.

We can only accept the belief that she fulfilled the mortal mission ordained by the Almighty, leaving behind a personal monument of fortitude and devotion to family and duty.

WHO Fights Global War Against Disease

The World Health Assembly, governing body of the World Health Organization, marks the 20th anniversary of WHO in Geneva. The assembly will spend a fortnight discussing the coming year's budget and programs. The length of the meeting is dictated by the fact that all member countries present progress reports. Today there are 129 WHO members as compared with 53 at the organization's founding in 1948.

WHO, a specialized agency of the United States, attracts little attention as it pursues its elusive goal. This is nothing less than "the attainment by all peoples of the highest level of health." WHO has done remarkable work in checking such dread diseases as polio, leprosy, cholera, malaria, and tuberculosis.

WHO's major current project is eradication of smallpox by 1976. The organization calculates that only $180 million would be required to reach that objective.

Meanwhile, there has been an ominous increase in other communicable diseases. WILLIAM BURROWS, professor of microbiology at the University of Chicago, recently reported that cholera has spread from Southeast Asia into the Middle East and is now near Europe. Bubonic plague — the "black death" of the Middle Ages — also is on the rise in Southeast Asia.

★ ★ ★

The price of the world's health is not to be measured so much in dollars as it is in unceasing vigilance.

Experts See, Hear Defects of Presidential Hopefuls

The election campaign could stand some color, says the Los Angeles Times. It could use a little more tone, too, adds the Wall Street Journal.

Or, more accurately, so say those behind-the-scenes image makers, the make-up men and voice coaches.

★ ★ ★

The Times, noting there are now nearly 30 million color television sets in American homes, relays the opinions of a make-up artist on several candidates:

- If Ronald Reagan is doing his own make-up, he shouldn't. Richard Nixon has the problem of toning down a heavy beard, but not so much that it looks worked on. George Wallace looks pretty grim without the right make-up, especially in color.
- Eugene McCarthy could use some red in his face to give it warmth. So could Hubert Humphery. Nelson Rockefeller also looks a little "pasty." Robert F. Kennedy needs a haircut.

As for the "oral communications experts," they are convinced President JOHNSON's voice was a principal reason for his decision not to seek re-election, says the Journal. It had become so grating to many people that the more they heard him, the less secure they felt about him. He no longer sounded like a President.

★ ★ ★

The worst candidate of all, voice-wise, is Kennedy, who sounds too much like Bugs Bunny. He could stand a dash of chest resonance. NIXON speaks in too much of a monotone and both ROOCKEFELLER and MCCARTHY make the mistake of raising their pitch when they want to emphasize a point.

Now, as for the issues . . .

Singing Teens Restore Faith in Youth

By JERRY ROBBINS
City Editor

A group of Mason Junior High ninth graders has helped restore my faith in the younger generation.

ROBBINS

Until recently my opinion of youngsters was dipping near rock bottom.

I felt this way primarily because too many teen-agers and young adults across the Country have been:

- Protesting one ridiculous thing or another at colleges and universities.
- Burning draft cards.
- Taking LSD trips.
- Turning into bathless hippies.

★ ★ ★

Although I still have second thoughts on where many of our teens are heading, the Waterford Township Mason students made me realize not everyone under 25 is a protesting drug addict with long sideburns and unwashed clothes.

These students, under the direction of Mel Rookus, presented a musical program that captivated the audience from the first number to the last.

★ ★ ★

It was a pleasure to sit back and listen to these 38 young voices sing out with some of the toe-tapping favorites of yesterday and today.

It was equally rewarding to see no long sideburns, beards, shabby clothes or unscrubbed faces. All of these youngsters are a credit to their generation.

★ ★ ★

In all probability, the hippies and protesters will be around for a long time. And chances are more draft cards will be burned and more LSD trips taken.

But thanks to Mel Rookus' Mason students and thousands of others like them I'm confident the younger generation isn't skidding toward oblivion.

David Lawrence Says:

Futility of Primaries Stressed

WASHINGTON — Sporadic primaries — meaningful to some observers and meaningless to others — are expensive for the candidates, and do not necessarily indicate who will be nominated by either party.

LAWRENCE

Every candidate can derive some satisfaction from the Indiana primary this week.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York didn't get a majority of the Democratic votes, but he did get more than either Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota or Indiana's Gov. Roger Branigan, who is presumably a supporter of Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

Perhaps the most important effect is what significance is being attached to the Indiana results by the delegates in other states of the union which do not have primaries.

★ ★ ★

There is certainly no sign that any of the Democratic aspirants has the nomination tied up. Nor can former Vice President Richard M. Nixon be sure that Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, who has entered the race but is not participating in the primaries, will not develop a strong organization at the national convention and become a formidable competitor.

There are few states which have primaries, and their chief value is to give each of the candidates a chance for nationwide publicity prior to the conventions.

NOT MEANINGFUL

The speeches being delivered today, however, may not be pertinent by the time the conventions are held in August, as the issues before the country may be even more complex than they are now. The country will want to know then how each candidate stands.

This could have much more meaning than what was said to the Indiana voters in the campaign prior to this week's primary.

★ ★ ★

Maybe the primaries this year will serve a useful purpose in demonstrating to the people the futility of the present formula.

In a statement just issued, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Democratic leader, says that "the tragedy of primaries is that in reality they mean very little." He points out that they are not always binding on the delegates.

HUGE EXPENDITURE

He calls attention to the tremendous amount of money they cost each candidate, and says that in a sense primaries are "auctions on a temporary basis."

He adds: "Personally, I would like to see primaries, if they are going to be maintained, conducted in all states on a certain day and under rigid limitation of expenditures, rather than to continue the haphazard expensive procedure which is now followed.

"If this were done, it would mean, in my opinion, that the national conventions, at which the delegates — and not the people — make the choice, could be done away with."

Bob Considine Says:

Negro Students Charge White U.S. Killed King

BERKELEY, Calif., — Are you aware that you, if you are white, killed Dr. Martin Luther King?

CONSIDINE

Michele Francis, a beautiful Negro girl who is a senior in political science at the University of California, told us that today as we sat with her on the porch of the faculty club.

★ ★ ★

"I can feel only disgust over white America," said the girl whose fiance is a captain now commanding troops in Vietnam, mostly white troops.

"Why kill the best friend of the white people in this growing racial crisis?" she asked, filled with quiet fervor. "Don't say you didn't kill him. His killer was produced by white society.

"Martin Luther King believed in the ability of his people to dignity in the United States if given an opportunity. That's all he asked for, an opportunity. The rest was up to us. But you killed him."

WANTED OPPORTUNITY

Norman Wilkerson, a senior in English from Columbus, Ga., recognized as one of the top men on the campus in his field, said he'd like to say something, too.

★ ★ ★

"The incident changed my perspective toward white America. I've since then held white America responsible for Martin Luther King's death, not the man who killed him.

"The man who killed him felt he had white America's backing: It would support him, sustain him somehow, and there wouldn't be anything that black America could do about it."

'TURNS YOU OFF'

We asked how they were getting along on a largely white campus. James Page, a highly respected graduate student in law from Los Angeles, poured himself a Danish beer and fielded the question.

"The liberals backslap you, and that turns you off," he said with a wry smile. "So do the professors who make you a special case, or experiment with you. That turns you off, too.

★ ★ ★

"The people who come to you and say that it's a shame the way the blacks have been treated, and say they're going to go straight to the nearest ghetto and try to 'do something,' well, they turn you off, too.

"I tell those good people that the problem isn't in the ghetto: That it is they — the forces that sustain the ghetto."

In Vietnam:

U.S. Must Use Mobile Strategy

By RAY CROMLEY

This is the time to look back at the siege of Khe Sanh and see the lessons learned.

The more we can learn in hindsight, the better we will be able to meet Ho Chi Minh's next moves in this complicated war.

CROMLEY

By pinning down U.S. forces at Khe Sanh, Ho cut down military interference on the ground with his troop-supply movements and thus reopened major infiltration routes for the North Vietnamese southern expeditionary forces.

★ ★ ★

The irony of this was that the Khe Sanh defense was set up in this important infiltration area to block the Communist supply routes. But Ho felt no need to "break" through.

He forced U.S. troops into a "tight" perimeter—fixed them in one spot — and then moved around and forward at a stepped-up pace with comparative freedom.

We thus fell into Ho's trap.

Likewise, the Tet offensive forced U.S. and South Vietnamese forces and pacification teams back into the cities temporarily.

★ ★ ★

The Communists were thus able to move freely in the countryside to resupply their rural weapons and ammunition-short forces with new equipment and sizable supplies, food and salt.

It also made possible the wide-open recruiting or commandeering of new troops and "volunteers."

Against this type of Communist tactics, what is wanted is not a fixed base, but a mobile strategy which would enable us to hit the North Vietnamese and retire quickly. The United States has this capability and uses it for other operations.

★ ★ ★

Lao officers with long experience in guerrilla warfare told this reporter they could not understand why at Khe Sanh we didn't take advantage of the Communist build-up there to reverse the tables.

We could have made lightning commando raids behind the Communist lines, striking hard and fast with airborne troops to hit the North Vietnamese from the rear, then getting out fast before being trapped.

Major convoys from the north in large numbers could have been ambushed by mobile troops. Airborne infantry equipped for hit-and-run tactics could have made ruinous attacks on these convoys. U.S. forces have demonstrated in a number of places their ability to ambush, mine and carry out effective hit-and-run attacks on Red convoys, especially where the Communist movements have been channelized on major routes.

★ ★ ★

A similar mobile strategy is needed to meet Communist Tet-type offensives. There are not enough U.S. and South Vietnamese forces to occupy cities permanently and keep the Communists from making sudden raids — as at Tet — and still carry on the war in the countryside.

But with proper intelligence input, it is possible to move Allied forces in rapidly to meet a quick Communist "cities thrust" and move out fast again to hit the Red movements in rural regions which are certain to follow each city raid.

★ ★ ★

Otherwise, the Communists will continue to use the same shuttle tactics against us that they employed so successfully against the French.

Favors Lower Age Limit for Privilege of Voting

Appreciate Interest in Display for Law Week

The Waterford Township Police Officer's Association expresses appreciation to the Pontiac Mall management for extending the space for our display for National Law Week. We commend the Mall management for a fine job it is doing to make the Mall a safe place to shop. Although there have been isolated instances which raised some doubts in the shoppers' minds about the safety of shopping there, the Mall management is doing everything possible to keep this to a minimum.

We praise the public for stopping to talk with the officers at the display. We hope we were able to answer the questions and that people have a better insight into law enforcement.

Asks Questions About Schools in Waterford

Recently a Catholic parent asked why they should be concerned with public school millage. The answer was that many Catholic children receive help such as corrective speech, and some students have classes in public schools. I'd like to know where in Waterford Township this goes on. We are not getting this in our school. Are there some Catholic schools that are?

JUST WONDERING

Comments on Attitudes Toward Education

In regard to more taxes for schools and colleges, the performance of students doesn't give much credit to our educational system. If students go to high school or college with the idea they know more than the school officials, they waste both the teachers' and their own time, besides taxes. Let those who know they want an education go to school and the so-called smart guys get out.

'Nonresidents of Pontiac Need a Fair Deal'

As a nonresident of Pontiac, paying one-half of one per cent income tax, do I still have to pay the ten per cent surtax on services performed for me by Pontiac General Hospital? If I am not mistaken, this same hospital received a Federal grant in the area of $90,000 for modernization and improvements—and where does Federal money come from? How about a fair deal for the nonresident who is forced to pay every week.

Question and Answer

Taxes (real estate, gasoline, sales, etc.) as well as interest payments are not considered part of one's taxable income for Federal tax purposes. Why must we pay a tax on taxes to the City of Pontiac?

DISGRUNTLED

REPLY

City Finance Director Gallagher tells us that is the way it was set up by the State Legislature, which tried to make the tax as simple as possible for cities to administer. They allow only one type of deduction ($600 per exemption) except for corporations, partnerships, persons owning businesses, all of which can take the same deductions as for Federal taxes.

The two-inch strip becomes a part of each individual's file which cntains all of his tax transactions for the last three years.

The file details what returns each man must file, when and if he has done so, how much income he has received, and his total debit or credit balasce for all classes and periods of tax. Previous audits and accepted deductions are also listed.

DATA IS MATCHED

The information on the two-inch strip is also matched against information reported by the individual's employer, banks, insurance companies and stockbroker.

The computer will indicate any discrepancies, failure to rile a returs, or multiple filings for refunds.

★ ★

Finally, checked returns calling for refunds are placed on a tape used by a treasury dispursing office computer to issue refund checks.

Other taxpayers' numbers are placed on tapes which are then used by service centers to issue bills, select returns for sudits, compile directories and indexes, and develop reports and statistics to be used for government and private studies.

★ ★ ★

The original returns are then filed at district offices and become available again for taxpayer contacts.

Despite this new behind-the-scenes automation of the tax system, John Q. Taxpayer will detect little difference is his personal contacts with the IRS.

ON FILE

He also will benefit from the magnetic inches of up-to-date information as he will no longer have to explain repeatedly items like dependent iarents and scholarships since they will already be on the tape as previously accepted deductions.

IRS agents generally agree that the computer system should promote increased voluntary compliance with tax laws becase the greater probability of detection.

★ ★ ★

The IRS claims it received an $86-million payoff which could be traced to operations of the computers last year, and it expects more of the same this year.

This is tax money which would have gone uncollected under the old system of handling returns, according to an IRS spokesman.

THREEFOLD RISE

The spokesmas said the additional tax take represented a threefold rise frm the $27 million in extra collections attributed to the computers in 1966.

According to an IRS spokesman, John Q. Taxpayer wins with the system because he knows that he's not paying more than he should and the number of irritating errors and reptetitive requests for additiosal information should be greatly reduced.

★ ★ ★

The 'not-so-honest individual, however, may find the computer catching up on him.

The classic story told is of a truck driver who once filed 125 returns, 19 of them in the Southeast region already using ADP. The multiple returns were quickly detected by the computer and the man apprehended at a post office in Miami while waiting for another refund check.

The computerized system resulted from the IRS's growisg realization that the volume of work was increasing about four times as rapidly as the number of workers in the past 30 years, an IRS spokesman explained.

Future Cars Just May Be Held by Glue

DETROIT (UPI) — Last year an American automobile with many of its body parts gued together won the gruelling 24-hour LeMans Race.

And some of the cars coming off the assembly lines today have parts held on by glue.

★ ★ ★

So far the glue concept for sticking cars together is being utilized only in small ways. It is confined to sticking on nameplates and trim items.

But the automotive engineers believe this may be the start of what they call the "adhesive era" when production line cars litterally will be glued together.

FORD PIONEERS

Ford Motor Co. has pioneered in this. Engineers for Ford teamed with an adhesive tape maker to come up with a double-coated foam adhesive tape with super strength to be used in place of metal fasteners in attaching certain exterior trim parts to painted steel surfaces of new vehicles.

Things like the letters of the neameplate and stainless steel center pillar moldings.

★ ★ ★

The new technique saves a lot of operations required by the old bolt-on system, such as punching or drilling holes in the metal panels. As an added benefit, it also eliminates the rusting that frequently takes place at these holes.

Should Guest Give Present

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have been invited to a dinner in honor of his great aunt's 50th anniversary in the convent. I have no idea whether a gift is expected or whether it is proper. We would like to do the correct thing. If a gift is proper, what might you suggest? — Sue

★ ★ ★

Dear Sue: A gift is both expected and proper on this anniversary — just as it would be on any other 50th anniversary celebration. I am told by some of my Catholic friends that a small sum of money is often appreciated more than anything, but if you prefer not to give money, then I would suggest a framed picture of your family, a fine book on a subject in which your aunt is interested, or a good record album if she has access to a record player.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper for couples who are going steady or who are engaged to give joint gifts? — Katherine

Dear Katherine: I do not think that couples who are going steady should give a joint gift unless perhaps on very informal occasions such as a bon-voyage party, and then only to intimate friends of their own close group of friends.

For other times when gifts are more or less expected, such as a house present, each one should give a separate present. Engaged couples, however, are in a different category and there is no reason why they cannot give a joint present.

Finding something interesting in a display of decoupage plaques, Mrs. A. D. Beveridge of South Fox Hills Drive, bends to take a closer look. Held inside due to the rain Wednesday, the May Fair of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Auxiliary spread out through the Harsdale Road home of Mrs. Frank Audette.

Studying some of a large collection of paintings which were offered for sale at the May Fair are (left) Mrs. W. W. Wicklund of Winland Drive and Mrs. Raymond Warren of Timberlake Road, both Bloomfield Township.

In the pink jumper-type uniform of an Auxiliary volunteer, hostess Mrs. Frank Audette displays a wooley lion that would delight any child. Most of the items offered for sale at the fair were made by the members of the Auxiliary.

Dear Trapped---Walk Out on Boss if You Want Gold, Not Brass Ring

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been receiving financial help from a married man who happens to be my boss. He is also my Number One boy friend. He says he loves me, and the only difference between our relationship and marriage is that he has to get up and go home.

ABBY

I love him in a way, but a girl gets awfully tired hiding all the time. I would like to be able to get dressed up and go out with my man where

Other men have asked me out, but I don't dare accept because it might get back to my boss. What can I do?

Am I destined to be stuck with this man behind closed doors for the rest of my life because I have accepted financial help from him? How does a woman get off this kind of merry-go-round?

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: She walks out of his office and out of his life and finds another job. Then she supports herself without "help" like millions of other self-respecting women do. And if she's wise, she moves out of the city and leaves no forwarding address. All a girl gets from the kind of merry-go-round you're on is a brass ring. Try for a gold one.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am a junior in college and my parents have been divorced for over a year. I am an only child and I live with my father. We get along fairly well with one minor exception.

My father used to come home from work at 5:30 p.m. Now he doesn't get home until 10 p.m. or even later. I am glad he is going out socially, but I think he should tell me how late he intends to be and where I can locate him in case he gets a business call.

★ ★ ★

Dad says he is a big boy now and can take care of himself. I realize that, but I still think he should let me know where I can reach him at all times. Dad says it isn't necessary, and I want to know his whereabouts more out of nosiness than anything else. This is not true, Abby. Don't you think I'm right?

WORRIED DAUGHTER

DEAR WORRIED: No. Obviously your father prefers his privacy to any possible advantages of being located during the evening for business reasons. It's his privilege, so don't press too hard.

★ ★ ★

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P. O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'Sugar-Coated Mafia' Is Urged to 'Rock the Boat' for Public Good

NEW YORK (UPI) — Newest challenge to women: Rock boats as well as you rock cradles.

The businesswoman who dares females to get more involved in the issues of the times maintains it's bound to improve life.

★ ★ ★

Mary Brown, first woman vice president in the 40-year history of Hill and Knowlton Inc., world's largest public relations firm, suggests women unite and become a "sugar-coated Mafia — for the good."

TELLS WHAT'S WRONG

What's wrong, as she told it to the Meriden, Conn., unit of the Business and Professional Women's Club:

- "Men in great numbers dilute their principles, acquiesce to anything that will get them a vote. So many other persons, meanwhile, are physically apathetic because nobody broke into their car for 48 hours."
- "Find ways to initiate laws to take care of outrageous public offenses." Miss Brown said. "If attacks on women, children and old persons are rampant, don't hesitate to recommend restoring the public stocks of the most culpable offenders."

Members of the "sugar-coated Mafia" also would look beyond their hedges and picket fences, involving themselves in the next generation.

- "Suggest to educators that they enliven their classroom work with the practical entertainment of visiting lecturers showing the end result of their specific efforts," she said.
- "Expose the students to people who have made it by working hard at things that needed to be done in order to achieve the thing they wanted to do."

On the business and professional front, Miss Brown finds women have a lot of boat-rocking to do.

"It seems too often that women settle for third, fourth or last place," she said. "Think of the number of women teachers and then think how many have become principals of the schools in which they teach.

"One doctor in 16 in the United States is a woman — but how many women so far have headed a hospital?"

URGES SPECIAL RIGHTS

Instead of campaigning for equal rights and equal pay, Miss Brown figures women should seek higher salaries and special rights.

★ ★ ★

"We have all the talent men have, with the extra dimensions of intuition and sensitivity," she said. "Those are assets, not liabilities, so women should be paid higher salaries than men for the added talents they bring to a job — talents men cannot offer in the same degree."

Among special rights, she'd like to see: summer and winter vacations for women. She figures most women, to succeed, must carry twice the work load of a man and must run a home besides.

Okay, men, watch out. That sugar-coated Mafia just might be a bitter pill. Its development however, depends on women standing together and agreeing.

Have you seen two agree on anything lately?"

Ever?

Who is this woman? She's someone whose picture you have seen before, but here she's gone incognito. For her identity and the reason behind the disguise, see page B-6.

Richard Abbotts Here

Having recently completed a three year stint with the Air Force in Turkey, Capt. and Mrs. Richard H. Abbot are spending a couple of weeks visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Vernon C. Abbott of Illinois Avenue, before beginning a new assignment in Massachusetts.

Calendar

FRIDAY

Pontiac Area Council of Senior Citizens, 2 p.m., Community Services Building. Mrs. Raymond Hayes of Pontiac Area Creative Arts Center will speak.

Ladies Auxiliary to David Belisle Post No. 1008, Veterans of Foreign Wars, 8 p.m., post home on Airport Road. Regular meeting.

Parents Without Partners, Birmingham-Bloomfield chapter, 8:45 p. m., Birmingham Community House. After glow follows.

Swingers, Frugers, Stompers, Meadow Brook Fair for You

Oakland University's Meadow Brook Fair will offer at least one way — music in a multitude of beats — to bridge the generation gap.

Whether you stomp your foot to old-time Dixie Land jazz, swing to the "big band" sound of the '30s, or move to the hard-rock reverberations of massed guitars, you'll find a rhythm to your liking here on June 14, 15 and 16.

★ ★ ★

Headlining the array of talent booked for the Howard C. Baldwin Memorial Pavilion will be Count Basie and His Orchestra. They will perform at 8:30 p.m. on June 15.

On June 14, also at 8:30 p.m., Dixie Land will be featured by the Billie and Dede Pierce Band from Preservation Hall in New Orleans. This was the band that performed recently on the Herb Alpert television special.

★ ★ ★

June 14 also will see an afternoon concert at 3 p.m. billed as a "Teen Hard-Rock Clash" and starring three groups from the Rochester, Pontiac, and Birmingham areas.

On the afternoon of June 15 will be "dance time" in the pavilion, with the International Folk Dance Troupe in native costumes from many lands on stage at 2:30 p.m. and Highland Dancers, complete with kilts, plaids, and bagpipers, following at 3:30 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Three musical attractions are on tap for June 16. The 100-voice General Motors Chorus will give a performance at 2:30 p.m. Then at 4:30 p.m. the Sweet Adelines, a group of 32 songstresses, will sing.

And finally, at 7 p.m., the pavilion will be turned over to the audience for a swinging folk festival . . . bring your own guitar!

Tickets for the Count Basie and Preservation Hall concerts are now on sale at the University or through Hudson's and Grinnells. Tickets also will be available the night of the performance on the grounds.

★ ★ ★

Admission will be free to the other six concerts and free to the grounds.

Jackson Chorale Sings on Sunday

The "Requiem" by French composer Gabriel Faure, will highlight the performance by the Jackson Chorale in their concert Sunday.

Written in the 19th century, "Requiem" deals with the serenity and tranquility of death rather than death's torment.

★ ★ ★

The annual spring performance, which will begin at 3 p.m. in Pontiac Northern High School auditorium, will be under the direction of Gilbert Jackson.

★ ★ ★

Jackson, who is presently on the faculty at Pontiac Central High School, has directed the Chorale for two years.

Members of the group from the Pontiac area are Clarissa Miller, Phil Vincellette, Palmer Strang, Darlene Dargitz and Mary Haanes; also Judy Kuhn, Lorna Lockwood and Art Miller.

★ ★ ★

Others are Sandra Myers, David Skull and Karen Schadel. Mrs. Paul Miller is accompanist.

Tickets for the concert may be purchased from any member of the Chorale or at the door.

'Sensicall' Aids Blind, Deaf Woman

NEW LEASE ON LIFE — Michigan Bell Telephone installer Kenneth R. Crawley of 638 Lennox shows deaf and blind Hazel Fuller how to work the Sensicall he has just installed. Assisting Miss Fuller is Ray McDonald, also blind, who helps her communicate with others during face-to-face conversations.

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

A portion of Hazel Fuller's life revolves around a vibrating rod. The rod is part of a special phone—a Sensicall — which allows Miss Fuller, who is deaf and blind, to communicate with others.

★ ★ ★

Until the phone was installed, Miss Fuller's conversations were limited to those who could communicate in sign language.

★ ★ ★

Now she can call anyone or accept phone calls at prearranged times.

To call, Miss Fuller turns the on-off-volume control up until the vibrator operates.

PICKS UP RECEIVER

She then picks up the receiver keeping one finger on the rod. The dial tone will cause the rod to vibrate.

★ ★ ★

After using the device a few times, vibrator reactions to dial tones, busy signals and ringing tones are easy to recognize.

★ ★ ★

When someone answers the phone, she explains that she's deaf and asks the person to answer her question by humming once for yes and twice for no. The sound causes the rod to vibrate.

Miss Fuller spends most of her time sitting in her home because she can only communicate with sign language by touching hands.

FREQUENT VISITOR

One of her most frequent visitors is a Pontiac man, Ray McDonald who also is blind. He often acts as a go-between for Miss Fuller and visitors.

McDonald spells out the questions letter by letter in hand-sign language for Miss Fuller.

★ ★ ★

She covers his hands with her own gnarled ones to feel out each sign, saying each letter aloud in her eagerness to learn the entire message.

"I went totally deaf at 27," said Miss Fuller in response to a question tapped out on her hand by McDonald.

A FILING CLERK

"I worked as a filing clerk at Oakland Motor and then owned a beauty shop but sold out after I became deaf. Then I went to the School for the Deaf-Blind in Flint," added the white-haired woman.

Miss Fuller, who is in her 70s, was a lip reader when she could see. She began going blind after she became deaf. She became totally blind five years ago.

★ ★ ★

"Blindness bothers her. She has few visitors.

Another woman and I write her letters in braille but we must use extra large script," explained McDonald, who repeated everything he was saying in sign language to Miss Fuller.

"She wants to be a perfectionist but you can't, when you're blind. She kept house for her mother until her mother died five years ago," McDonald added.

Teacher Talks Man off Perch

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A mountain-climbing school teacher took time out during his lunch break Wednesday to climb a downtown Pittsburgh bridge and talk a despondent man down from his 200-foot high perch.

Ivan Jirak said he volunteered to climb the superstructure of the abandoned Point Bridge because he figured the man needed help. "They only need to talk to somebody," Jirak said.

The man was identified as one who is under treatment at Allegheny General Hospital.

The root of the may apple is poisonous but, when it is dried, it is used in medicine.

Ex-Czech Official Free During Probe

PRAGUE (AP) — Former Czechoslovak Interior Minister Rudolf Barak, sentenced to 15 years imprisonment in 1962, has been temporarily released from jail pending an investigation of his case, the Czechoslovak news agency CTK reported Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

It said "the measure was taken by the chief military prosecutor, Dr. Milan Richter, following a complaint against the sentence on the grounds of miscarriage of justice."

Barak was found guilty of having embezzled substantial government funds. Before his arrest, Antonin Novotny, then Communist party chief claimed Barak "tried to grab power" in Czechoslovakia.

Town Is Destroying Itself—So It May Live

MORENCI, Ariz. (AP) — The town of Morenci is methodically destroying itself—so that it may continue to live.

Residents of this copper mining community, not without apprehension, listen as the rumble of explosions draws closer.

★ ★ ★

They know that one day some of them will virtually have the ground blasted from under their homes. Most of them are happy about it.

★ ★ ★

"It's part of living in a copper mining town and the people are resigned to it," explained Richard T. Moolick, superintendent of the Phelps Dodge Corp's. huge mining complex here.

2nd BIGGEST MINE

What's happening to this remote eastern Arizona community of about 6,000 can be seen from a lookout point on the rim of its mine. The mine is second in size in the world only to the Kennecott Copper Corp's. Bingham Mine in Utah.

★ ★ ★

Open pit copper mining, depending as it does on low-grade ore, requires the stripping of vast quantities of earth.

★ ★ ★

Better than one billion tons of material have been removed since the mine began operation in 1937.

Diesel-powered locomotives labor 1,350 feet below the lookout, hauling carload after carload of crushed earth and rock —the dusty lifeblood of the community.

BUILT IN EARLIER DAY

Only yards from the lookout point, over a rise, is Morenci, built in an earlier day when copper mining was underground and the homes seemed secure on their mountainside perches.

★ ★ ★

To satisfy the insatiable appetite of the copper smelter, the mine must continually expand. Soon to be gobbled up is the mountain on which rests a good portion of Morenci.

★ ★ ★

"Our windows are always rattling and sometimes the house shakes from the blasting," said a housewife living on Hill AC.

"That's all it's called, just Hill AC," said the woman "I think it's better that we're moving. Then maybe we'll get one of the new homes."

HOMES DECAY

On Hill AC, with the exception of a neatly kept white and blue frame cottage, the homes were in various stages of decay. Many were privately owned, while some were owned by Phelps Dodge and leased to miners.

All the homes would be sold for demolition and the asking price would rarely top $100, because, as Moolick said, "that's all they're worth."

★ ★ ★

The area had already taken on a ghostly appearance. A large corrugated steel building, once an air-conditioning firm, stands quiet and forlorn in its disuse.

There is an abandoned tavern which crouches mute on the top of a little spur, its silence mocked by a flaking "music" sign on the door.

EDDIES OF DUST

A steady wind kicks up little eddies of dust which spin down the road to the new part of town —toward the future.

"We're a company town and we make no bones about it," said Moolick. "We also know that we're bucking a trend against company towns but the people seem to want it this way."

★ ★ ★

Already built is a 41-bed, $1.8-million hospital, the only one in Graham County. There's a large company-owned mercantile store, eight other businesses, restaurant, bowling alley and the start of what will be a new 300-home development.

★ ★ ★

Not all of the relocated families will get a new home, some will move to older sections of Morenci. How they find out where they'll be living is typical of the community.

A VOICE ON THE PHONE

"Come down to the office, we've got a key for you," the voice on the phone said.

Mrs. Pat Lopez recalls the day she received the call from the company's housing office telling her a new three-bedroom ranch house on Sunflower Street was waiting. The rent was $33.50 a month, the maximum on a rent scale which starts at $14 monthly.

The low rent is a big help to the Lopez family, which like others in Morenci will feel the effects of the recent eight-month copper strike for some time. Three days of every two week's pay is deducted by Phelps Dodge for credits extended during the strike.

★ ★ ★

"We're really in debt now," said Mrs. Lopez, as she sat in a living room almost dwarfed by a wall-length color television, radio and phonograph console.

$9,000 A YEAR

Mine laborers in Morenci, with only two days off out of every 28, average $9,000 a year, while skilled employes such as Mrs. Lopez's husband make much more.

★ ★ ★

Moolick said Phelps Dodge had 99 per cent of its workers return after the strike, a big factor in going ahead with its town relocation move.

★ ★ ★

"I honestly don't know whether a lot of them returned because of the money they owned the company," said Moolick. "I guess a lot of them just said, 'Well, this is home.'"

One woman, pausing a moment while shepherding four children down a steep hill, said her husband, an electrician in the smelter, never looked elsewhere for a job during the strike.

GOOD PLACE FOR KIDS

"We don't have any trouble like that in the cities," she explained. "It's a good place to bring up kids."

Indeed, Morenci doesn't even have what you can call a police force. "It's more like a caretaker's patrol," said one businessman.

Bacterium Holds Clue to Cancer

By Science Service

A new bacterium has been isolated from five cases of cancer in cows.

The Canadian Animal Diseases Research Institute reports that the initial isolation was made while growing the organism in broth.

★ ★ ★

Researchers there note that the bacterium possesses properties that would not normally be expected to be found in organisms inhabiting bovine tissues.

They not also that its sometimes spherical form may enable the bacterium to be "subtly hidden" within the living tissues.

★ ★ ★

Whether or not this bacterium plays a part in cancer is questionable, the discoverers say. But they suggest more research into a possible bacterial role in cancer.

Earliest important maps showed the coast lines of the Aegean Sea and were used by the Greek sailors.

Chevrolet's new Torque-Drive transmission costs just $68.65*

Stop. Go.
Stop. Go.
Stop. Go.
If you do a lot of this kind of driving (and who doesn't these days?) maybe it's time you put your foot down on clutching once and for all.

With Chevrolet's exclusive new Torque-Drive transmission, you can. At a price far lower than has ever been possible before.

Nobody else has anything quite like it at the price. And you can have it on any Camaro or Chevy II Nova 6-cylinder model (or on any 4-cylinder Nova).

Torque-Drive does away with the clutch pedal. All you do is flick a lever, conveniently located on the steering column, into the appropriate position on the selector quadrant: Park-R-N-Hi-1st.

To accelerate from standstill, you shift only once—from 1st to Hi. If you like, you can even start in Hi. It's just a little slower that way.

One other advantage: Torque-Drive gives you gas economy comparable to that of a manual transmission. So check it out with your Chevrolet dealer. A combination gas-money-and-foot-saver like this is just too good to pass up.

24-Year-Old Fair With New Name Will Be Much Enlarged

It's not the Community Activities, Isc., fair anymore. It's not the North Oakland County Fair. It's the Oakland County Fair.

This year's 24th annual event again will be held at the CAI buildisg, 5640 Williams Lake, Waterford Township, June 20-23.

★ ★ ★

But the name of the fair will be different and it will be much enlarged.

Fair cochairmen Dean A. Salley and Richard Cooper are especially proud of what they call "the biggest act we have had out here."

AERIALIST TOWN

They're referring to the Sensational Leighs, a husband - wife aerialist team that performs from as high as 5½ stories in the air.

"It's a real death - defying act," said Salley. The Sensational Leighs are scheduled to perform twice daily during the four-day fair.

★ ★ ★

A genuise queen's pageant also will be held this year.

The winner will automatically qualify for the Miss Michigan Pageant in Muskegon this August. Chairman of the Miss Oakland County Pageant is Donald Arsen.

94 EXHIBITORS

Indicative of fair expansion is the fact that there will be 94 exhibitors' booths this year compared to only 38 last year.

Included among the events are karate and judo exhibitions, a magician performance, a penny scramble, a sack race, pony rides, a battle of the bands contest and a tugo-f-war competition.

★ ★ ★

The judo display will be conducted by former national champion Otto Chanko of Livonia.

Army displays include a 35,000-pound, 53-foot-losg artillery piece and an M60 tank.

NUCLEAR DISPLAY

Another display is entitled "Adapting to the Nuclear Age."

Twenty-three police and fire departments have been invited to participate in the tug-of-war contest.

A gigantic fireworks display, featuring 138 rockets, will be the night of June 22.

Other exhibits will be presented by the Gem asd Mineral Club, Waterford Township Library, the Drayton Plains Nature Center, Boys' Club of Waterford Township and Waterford Township Police Department.

PARKING SITE GROWS

The parking area has been increased from eight to 13 acres this year. Also available for use are 10 acres of adjacent land.

Salley estimates parking is available for about 7,500 cars.

There is no admission charge. Major prizses include an automobile, a canoe, a stereo set and a boy's and a girl's bicycle.

RIDES AVAILABLE

Rides will be made available through Happyland Shows.

Salley said more than 400 volunteers will work at the fair.

★ ★ ★

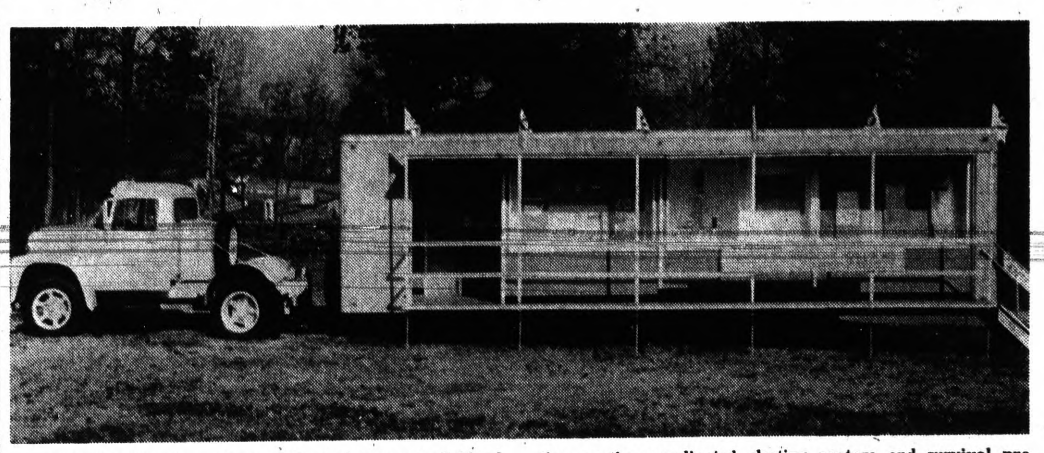
Proceeds will go to the CAI building fund.

Thieves Get Little Cash

Whoever took the new cash register at Dagmar's Kitchen, 7005 Cooley Lake, West Bloomfield Township, last night is in for a surprise.

While the machine is worth about $1,000, its contents amounted to at least no more than 25 cents, said township police.

The thieves entered by breaking a window and unlocking the front door, police added. Police spotted the break-in at 5:30 a.m.



'SHO-COACH'—A major exhibit at this year's Oakland County Fair will be this National Civil Defense sho-coach. A modified house trailer—the sides fold open to show information on the coordinated alerting system and survival procedures in case of enemy attack—it is 33 feet long, 15 feet wide and 10 feet high.

Crash in Nevada Claims Another F111

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Another F111A fighter-bomber, the $5-million swing-wing jet developed from the controversial TFX program, has crashed.

Both pilots parachuted safely as the camouflaged plane carrying secret combat gear ploughed into the desert Wednesday and was demolished.

* * *

The Air Force described the flight as a routine training mission and released no details of the crash 60 miles north of Las Vegas.

The plane was similar to three lost recently in Vietnam.

It was the eighth plane lost of two types developed from the TFX, the tactical fighter experimental program pushed by Robert S. McNamara when he was secretary of the defense. McNamara said he aimed at incorporating a common basic design for both the Air Force and Navy.

NAVY VERSION CRASHED

In 1967 a Navy version of the plane, designated F111B, crashed during a test program at Long Island, N.Y., killing two civilian test pilots.

Three F111A Air Force versions, carrying top secret bombing and navigational equipment on Vietnam combat missions out of Takli, Thailand, were lost shortly after the first arrived in Southeast Asia last March.

* * *

Although six planes were assigned to Takli, operational testing of the fighter-bomber has not been completed at Nellis Air Force Base, Nev., to develop tactics and doctrines for combat operation.

Neither the wreckage nor the crew was found of the first F111A to crash in Southeast Asia, within three days after going into combat.

The second crashed several days later in Thailand, and its crew was rescued. This crash was attributed to a capsule of sealing material lodged in the flight controls and combat missions were resumed after the F111s were grounded briefly.

Within three weeks, the third F111A was lost. North Vietnam claimed to have shot it down.

Three others crashed earlier, in the United States. The first was Jan. 18, 1967, at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.; the second Oct. 19, 1967, at Bowie, Tex., and the third at Edwards last Jan. 2. One pilot was killed in these accidents.

The pilots of the F111A which crashed Wednesday were identified as Maj. Charles Van Driel, 35, an instructor, and Maj. Kenneth A. Schuppe, 38, a trainee, both of Las Vegas and attached to the 4527th combat crew training squadron at Nellis.

Their cockpit section was rocketed clear of the plane like a space capsule, and lowered by parachute.

Crash Claims to Be Pressed

Hare Says He'll Sue Uninsured Drivers

LANSING (AP) — Secretary of State James Hare Wednesday promised legal action against uninsured motorists who fail to repay the motor vehicle accident claims funds which compensates unprotected accident victims.

"We will take to court every case in which the uninsured motorist appears to be collectible, but who has refused or neglected to pay," Hare said.

* * *

"I think the fund has done a creditable job in recovering money for claims paid," he said. "But I believe that repayment can be increased substantially through court action."

Hare said that after more than two years of operation, the fund listed at the end of February more than $2.05 million in receivables from uninsured motorists. Of that amount, he said, some $1.72 million still is outstanding, $89,828 written off as uncollectible and the remainder has been repaid.

MANY REPAY

More than half, or 57.9 per cent, of all uninsured motorists have paid the state's claims in full or are repaying on installment, Hare said. These repayments, however, were only 11.7 per cent of the cumulative total owing the fund, he added.

"Most of these people are honest and make an honest effort to repay," Hare said. "But uninsured motorists generally are people of low income who were unable to buy the needed insurance at today's prices."

* * *

Hare said that despite the relatively low repayment rate, the fund is in "excellent condition" and estimated that it will reach $30 million by the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

State Survey Puts 60 Pct. Against LBJ War Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survey conducted by Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., in his southwest Lower Michigan 4th District showed 60 per cent of those replying were not in favor of President Johnson's conduct of the Vietnam war.

Approval of the President's war conduct came from 22 per cent, up from the four per cent response from a similar question last year.

* * *

In making the results of the survey public, Hutchinson said 10,000 families took part in the survey in his seven-county district including Allegan, Berrien, Branch, Cass, Hillsdale, St. Joseph and Van Buren counties.

Hutchinson said nearly all who responded did so after Johnson's March 31 announcement of limited bombing against North Vietnam and his decision against running for another term.

Most Negro Officials See Few Gains for Ghetto Dwellers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The handful of Negroes who hold public office say the cause of civil rights didn't gain enough ground last year for the Negroes who inhabit America's slums to see any change for the better in their lives.

"Those locked in the ghetto did not really feel the progress that was made," said state Sen. John W. E. Bowen, an Ohio Republican who was among four dozen elected Negro officials surveyed by the Associated Press.

★ ★ ★

Only a minority of those replying to the questionnaire thought that the cause of civil rights made over-all advances in 1967. Many of them pointed to a problem that is receiving more and more attention as riots grow more and more common — the fact that not all levels of the Negro community benefit equally from what is being done.

Arthur Fletcher, a city councilman in Pasco, Wash., said college-trained Negroes and skilled blue-collar workers are much better off, but added that they make up less than 20 per cent of the Negro population.

'LITTLE CHANGE'

"The remaining 80 per cent who were either marginally employed or definitely hard-core unemployed found little measurable change in their personal circumstances during the year 1967," Fletcher said.

Among those who agreed with Fletcher were state Rep. Hughes E. McGill of Kentucky, Alderman Vel R. Phillips of Milwaukee and state Sen. Bowen of Ohio.

★ ★ ★

Most Negro officials singled out poverty and social decay in the slums as the most important problems facing the nation this election year.

A large proportion of those naming slums as the most important problem refused to divorce them from the Vietnam war, which they contend is draining off needed money.

SHARP DIVERGENCE

There was sharp disagreement over possible splits between Negro teen-agers and their parents, or between poor- and middle-income Negroes.

But the officials overwhelmingly said they believed increasining emphasis on community organization within Negro slums is a good sign, and that most of their constituents are not yet ready to agree with Negroes who have abandoned integration as a lost cause.

★ ★ ★

The survey, made before the April 4 assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the resulting riots, predicted more racial turmoil this summer.

More than a third of the officials said advancements in some areas were balanced by regression in others for no over-all change.

'STALEMATE'

"Stalemate," said state Sen. Barbara Jordan of Texas ". . . The mood of the county was one of reluctance to move ahead legislatively and to solidify the gains that had been made."

"The problem of Vietnam and race problems are so intertwined that they can't be separated . . . ," said state Sen. Coleman Young of Michigan.

★ ★ ★

"You can't ignore Vietnam which is sopping up everything in sight. I don't care what LBJ says, there just can't be enough for both guns and butter, so you get more guns and less butter."

America's changing racial scene — and the fact that different generations and social classes express their frustrations in different ways — was reflected by 29 officials who saw evidence of an age or class split within the Negro community.

"Those of us who are older grew up under a system which made you, well, conservative," said state Sen. Boce Barlow of Connecticut. "You were conscious there were certain things you couldn't do . . . you were conditioned to it.

"I was probably satisfied to listen to a political science instructor say, 'In 20 years things will be better.' But the young ones aren't satisfied with this."

Mixed with this attitude, however, was the feeling represented by Rep. Franklin W. Holgate, assistant Democratic leader in the Massachusetts House, who saw ". . . a definite emphasis on community organization which is narrowing the gap between these . . . groups."

★ ★ ★

"I don't think many older Negroes realize that many unskilled jobs — the kind they could do while going to school — now have been taken over by automation and aren't available to teen-agers now," said state Rep. June Franklin of Iowa.

'IMPATIENT'

"It is time Negroes of my age group realized and listened to some of the things young Negroes are saying. They haven't been conditioned and gone through some of the things we've gone through, and they're impatient — they can see the hypocrisy."

Despite these differences between old and young, the officials almost unanimously agreed that their constituents are not yet ready to listen to those who argue that integration is a dead issue.

★ ★ ★

"I don't believe the majority is agreeing with them," said Georgia Davis, Kentucky's first Negro state senator. "But let me make it clear that the majority is frustrated, tired and despairing."

Most of the officials were Democrats, and consequently most said they placed their faith for more opportunities in the Democratic party. But there were a few exceptions.

'VOTE FOR INDIVIDUALS'

Bowen, a Republican, urged what he called a "more fluid" political stance for Negroes. Voting for individuals and programs instead of parties, he said, would force both parties to be more responsive to Negro needs.

"Southern Negroes are going to continue their identification with the Democratic party, and big-city Negroes probably will too," said state Rep. Julian Bond, a Georgia Democrat.

"Operating on the theory that both parties are full of rascals, it's best to belong to the party of the rascals in power."

★ ★ ★

A number of top Negro officials did not answer the AP questionnaire including U. S. Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., and Mayors Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., and Carl B. Stokes of Cleveland, Ohio, both Democrats.

Cubs' Niekro Is Winner Despite Rocky's Homers

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Niekro of the Chicago Cubs owned his fifth straight National League pitching victory today, no thanks to a slugging refugee from the American League, Rocky Colavito of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Niekro got the decision but wasn't around at the finish Wednesday when the Cubs staggered to a 7-6 triumph over the Dodgers as Colavito slammed across five runs on his first two National League homers.

ATLANTA (AP) — Roberto Clemente's sacrifice fly in the 4th inning gave Pittsburgh a 4-3 victory over Atlanta Wednesday night.

Cecil Upshaw, the third Atlanta pitcher, started the inning by walking pinch-hitter Gary Kolb. Maury Wills forced him and went to second when Matty Alou beat out an infield hit.

★ ★ ★

Wills and Alou worked a double steal and Wills scored on Clemente's fly to right. Ron Kline, who came in the game in the ninth, was the winning pitcher.

The Pirates scored two runs in the eighth, tying the game 3-3, on a pair of singles, two wild pitches by Atlanta starter Phil Niekro, and a throwing error by catcher Marty Martinez.

Pitcher's Bat Helps Giants

Clutch Catch Helps Cards Win

★ ★ ★

Dick Simpson and Dal Maxvill led off the third inning with singles. Carlton then wheig ed gles. Carlton then weighed in with a single to score one run. The runners advanced on an infield out and Julian Javier rapped a hit off loser Al Jackson to apparently drive in both runners.

But the Mets appealed that Carlton had missed third base and umpire Doug Harvey upheld the appeal. That took away one run from the Cardinals and an RBI from Javier.

★ ★ ★

The Mets had one hit until Greg Goossen singled in the seventh. That was the only inning that saw Carlton in trouble.

Jerry Grote followed with a double putting men on second and third. But third baseman Shannon lunged high into the air, speared Jerry Buchek's smash and stepped on third for an unassisted double play.

HOUSTON (AP) — Pitcher Ray Sadecki's second double of the game ignited a two-run ninth inning rally that gave the San Francisco Giants a 3-1 victory over Houston Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

Sadecki, 4-2, held the Astros hitless until the seventh inning and yielded just two hits until the ninth, when he needed relief help from Frank Linzy and Joe Gibbon.

★ ★ ★

Sadecki doubled to right center leadnig off the ninth, took third on Ron Hunt's bunt single and scored the go-ahead run on a single by Willie Mays, which chased Astros starter Larry Dierker.

Hunt took third on Mays' hit and tallied an insurance run on a sacrifice fly by Willie McCovey.

The Astros threatened with none out in the bottom of the ninth when pinch hitter Doug Rader singled and Ron Davis doubled. Sadecki struck out Ivan Murrell and Linzy and Gibbon retired one man apiece, nailing the victory.
