

Jury Awards $1 Million for Renewal Property

By DICK SAUNDERS
A jury of 11 women and one man yesterday upheld the city's claim of necessity to purchase contested properties in Pontiac's first urban renewal project.
At 4:11 p. m., the verdict was handed to Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer.
For four minutes and 35 seconds he silently examined the roll. Then he read the verdict which brought to a close the longest judicial proceeding in Oakland County history.

Three major decisions were included in the verdict.
1 — The jury ruled that there was a necessity for the over-all $20 urban renewal project as a public improvement.
2 — The jury ruled that a necessity existed for the city to buy all properties involved in the urban renewal condemnation case.
3 — The jury awarded a total of $1,065,816.50 to owners for property under condemnation.

The verdict was received with mixed emotions by city and urban renewal officials.
They were elated over the ruling on necessity and largely non-committal over the total award.
UNDER AND OVER
The award was $250,567.50 under what property owners had requested for their land and $297,902.50 more than what the city offered to pay.

Some 250 property owners had asked a total of $1,336,384 for 73 parcels in the condemnation proceedings.
Total of the city's top price offers was $787,316.
Attorney for the city, Harold W. Dudley, termed the verdict "a complete victory in the area of necessity."

City Manager Robert A. Stierer and Urban Renewal Director James R. Bates echoed Dudley's words.
CAN MOVE AHEAD
"We should now be able to proceed toward completion of the project," Stierer said. "We're very pleased with the necessity ruling."
"As for the awards, we'll have to revise our land acquisition budget and request additional urban renewal funds from the federal government to cover the difference."

Stierer said he wouldn't know how much more money would be requested until witness, jury, attorney and other miscellaneous fees were compiled and included in the award total.
There was no indication following the verdict if the decision would be appealed to the Michigan Supreme Court by any attorney.

neys representing property owners.
Pontiac attorney Milton Cooney, representing 12 property owners, had previously indicated he would appeal if the jury decision favored necessity of the urban renewal project.
There were originally more than 300 parcels in the project marked for purchase and clearance.

Youth Admits Slaying, Double Rape in Novi

U.S. In on Negotiations

WASHINGTON (U) — The Kennedy administration is playing a passive role on stage in the negotiations for the release of 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners, but it is moving with full force behind the scenes.
The involvement of the U.S. government in the negotiations can be demonstrated by any close check of the statements and activities of negotiators and government officials since negotiations began shortly after the abortive invasion of Cuba in April 1961.
Reports from Havana indicate the negotiations may be very close to securing the release of the Cubans captured in the U.S.-directed invasion.
Fidel Castro, in exchange for $53-million worth of food, drugs and equipment, may send the men back to the United States before Christmas.
President Kennedy has tried to disassociate himself from the negotiating committee's efforts. "This is being done by the private committee," he said at his Dec. 12 news conference, "and I am very sympathetic to their efforts."

But the committee, to stage the kind of operation the exchange involves, would need more than sympathy from the President.
The American Red Cross has reported that railroads, airlines and trucking firms are working round-the-clock to push the thousands of pounds of food and medicine into Florida for quick shipment to Cuba in case the deal is completed.
There have been reports that the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, is directing the government operation in support of the committee and its chief negotiator, lawyer James B. Donovan.
In New York, business sources made the requests for some of the food and drugs being readied for shipment to Cuba.

Donovan Back in Cuba to Talk

Spends Night in Miami
Conferring With Kin

MIAMI, Fla. (U) — James B. Donovan, supervising negotiations with Fidel Castro for the ransom of 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners, returned to Havana today after spending the night in Miami.

Donovan was reported to have interrupted his Havana negotiations to use American telephone facilities to confer with officials on the progress of his talks.

The New York lawyer left secretly to confer with members of the Cuban Families Committee which is helping in the deal.

Enrique Llaica, committee director, said "This means that there is no bad news. If he had come here to confer with us it would have meant a possible hitch in the proceedings."

Meanwhile, the freighter African Pilot arrived at Port Everglades to transport millions of dollars worth of medicines and foodstuffs to Cuba to buy the prisoners' freedom if the deal goes through.

It is reported two Michigan pharmaceutical firms — Upjohn of Kalamazoo and Parke, Davis of Detroit — have donated more than a million dollars worth of drugs as part of the ransom.

Upjohn reported yesterday it had flown $500,000 worth of drugs to Miami and was prepared to donate $1.5 million in pharmaceuticals if need demanded.

TERROR HOUSE — This is the home of Wesley Husted, a bus driver for Novi Community Schools, whose daughter Shirley was killed last night by an intruder. Husted himself is in serious condition from injuries he suffered when he tried to fight off James G. Gostlin, 29, of Dearborn Township.

JFK, Mac Extend 'Summit' Extra Day

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan waded into a maze of complicated problems today in a determined effort to show the world that British-American friendship remains strong despite a wrangle over nuclear strategy.

The crash of their work forced them to prolong their talks an extra day.
The two were reported making progress toward a compromise on their divergent views of the value of the controversial Skybolt missile. The atmosphere in this sunbathed resort, seemed to be one of rising hope.

The President and the prime minister were confronted by a long list of cold war problems as they met together at 10 a.m. at the hilltop mansion occupied by the U.S. chief executive on a breezy hill overlooking the sea.

Their spokesmen pictured them as headed toward a formula in their missile dispute which would satisfy both sides. But other problems revolving about the Skybolt question, along with the whole spectrum of cold war issues, so strained their timetable that the big two decided to extend their summit meeting through Friday.

This morning's meeting was billed as a discussion of defense policy in general.
Top presidential aides advising Kennedy on cold war problems were standing by for the moment when the talks get into specific cold war areas. Aides included Phillip Talbot, assistant secretary of state for Near East and South Asian affairs; W. Averell Harriman, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs; and J. Kenneth Galbraith, U.S. ambassador to India.

Kennedy and Macmillan added morning and afternoon sessions Friday to their schedule. The President planned to leave about 5 p.m. Friday for Palm Beach. White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said a communique will be issued after the final session.

Girl, 11, Killed; Father Injured in Rampage

Family Is Terrorized Following Attack on Niece by 20-Year-Old

By DON FERMOYLE and RALPH P. HUMMEL

A 20-year-old Dearborn Township youth, who moved to Novi to avoid arrest before Christmas on a liquor charge, today admitted killing an 11-year-old Novi girl, seriously wounding her father, raping her mother and raping his 11-year-old niece.
A first-degree murder warrant was issued against James G. Gostlin, according to Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor Richard Condit.

Condit said Gostlin was to appear in Novi Township Justice Court this afternoon.

Gostlin's statements were made to state police.
Dearborn police were the first to learn of the night of ghastly terror when Gostlin walked in the station at 3 a. m., today, plunked a blood-smeared claw-hammer on the sergeant's desk and said: "I just killed two people."

ONE DEAD
The only one dead of the hammer blows was Shirley Husted, 11, of 2299 Austin Drive, Novi.

Gostlin apparently believed he also had killed her father, Wesley, 40, whom he had beaten into unconsciousness with the hammer.

Gostlin also told police he twice raped Husted's wife, Rita, 33. He also admitted raping his 11-year-old niece, Gloria Gostlin, before terrorizing the Husted household.

He did not show much emotion as he was taken back over the scene of the crime in the Husted house this afternoon. He gave mostly yes or no answers to questions put to him by policemen and newsmen.

He said, "I can't remember everything that happened, but it's coming back to me."

Barely able to speak in her bed in Wayne County General Hospital, Mrs. Wesley Husted, mother of slain Shirley Husted, today told reporters what happened when James G. Gostlin broke into their home. Shirley died of hammer blows which Gostlin admitted inflicting.

"I was sleeping in the living room when he came in," said Mrs. Husted. "I knew he was the brother of the man who lives across the street, but I didn't know his name."

"He started to beat my husband with a hammer, and I screamed. Then he turned to me."

Not Enough Pontiacs

Our Car's Too Popular

Pontiac Motor Division has a "delightful headache" today.
It can't build enough cars to keep up with public demand.
This is in spite of the fact that Pontiac is breaking production records while roaring into the industry's No. 3 sales spot again this year.
Pontiac reached third position in 1961 for the first time in its 39-year history.
This year Pontiac has increased its share of the U.S. market to 7.5 per cent. Last year it captured 6.4 per cent of automotive sales in the country.
Sweeping gains by Pontiac in market penetration in every geographical area are reported in the latest issue of Ward's Automotive Reports, which refers to the Pontiac (including Tempests) as "the hottest car in 1962."
Pontiac's share of the northern half of the midwest market this year amounts to 8.8 per cent. Outside of this "home" area, sales are highest in mid-Atlantic states, claiming 7.7 per cent of the market, compared with 6.3 last year.
In all geographical areas of the country, Pontiac's market percentages are up considerably over last year, according to Ward's Reports.

It'll Be Cold, Cloudy With Snow Flurries

Mostly cloudy skies with cold temperatures will be served the Pontiac area tonight and tomorrow. A few scattered snow flurries are also predicted.
Following a dip to a low of 18 tonight, the mercury will climb to a high of 28 Friday.

Saturday will not be quite as cold, but there is a chance of snow.

Winds today are from the northeast at 15 to 25 miles per hour. They will become easterly tonight and southeasterly Friday.

Twenty-one was the lowest temperature recorded in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. At 2 p.m. the thermometer read 23.

Convict Trio of Killing City Grocer

Three Pontiac men were convicted yesterday of first-degree murder for the July 30 slaying of Pontiac market owner Etilmas Vasilou.

Joseph Page, 26, of 249 Orchard Lake Ave., Benny L. Spells, 23, and R. G. Stroman, 29, both of 235 S. Anderson St., alleged members of the "stocking bandit" holdup gang were found guilty by a Circuit Court jury of eight women and four men.

The verdict came after two hours and 20 minutes of deliberation following a four-day trial before Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams.

Judge Adams will sentence the three Jan. 7.

STATERMENTS ADMITTED
Stroman drove the two to the Boulevard Market, 309 Orchard Lake Ave., and waited outside, according to the statements, which were admitted in evidence over the objections of defense attorneys John O'Connell of Detroit and Donald A. Brown maintained the statements were obtained under duress because police questioned Page and Spells for 19 hours before they signed them.

Stroman took the witness stand to insist that he had no part in the crime, claiming he was framed by Rufus Wilson Jr., 23, of 44 Maple St., because of an old grudge over a money dispute.

Wilson is awaiting sentence for the Aug. 13 holdup of the Keg Kanteen, 84 Auburn Ave.

Page, Spells and Stroman were arrested Aug. 13 after Wilson walked into Pontiac Police headquarters to turn himself in for the Keg Kanteen robbery and implicated the three in the Vasilou killing.

Stroman claimed he let Page and Spells use his car but he did not go with them.

A defense witness who earlier told County Assistant Prosecutor Robert Templin that she did not see Stroman the night of the killing testified she has been mistaken and was with him that night.

Templin called a total of 15 witnesses for the prosecution, including Wilson.

Recipient of a $1,000 reward offered by The Pontiac Press to anyone bringing about the arrest and conviction of Vasilou's killers will be announced in a few days.

City Manager Robert A. Stierer and Oakland County Board of Supervisors Chairman Delos Hamlin will decide to whom the reward is due.

Files Oral History of U.N. Debate

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—In the basement of the U.N. headquarters, a scholarly journalist keeps an oral history of every word uttered in 17 years of major U.N. debates.

Marjan Stopar-Babsek, archivist of the United Nations, also has kept vigil over a wide assortment of chateaus — from machine guns used in the 1946 Greek civil war to a stock of sacramental wine donated by a New York rabbi in the name of peace.

The rebel machine guns, submitted as evidence of outside intervention, were returned later to the Greek government. The wine has been put to good use. But the vast store of audio-records continues to grow.

"We now have about 100,000 double-faced 16-inch discs," said Stopar-Babsek. "To play the whole lot back would take seven years running 24 hours a day."

Six recording machines in a basement sound room, connected with the Assembly hall and committee chambers, spin all day picking up English, French, Russian or whatever language the delegate on the floor happens to speak.

Speeches by such visiting notables as President Kennedy, Premier Khrushchev and Queen Elizabeth II also are etched onto the platters turning at 33 1/3 revolutions per minute.

The longest speech ever recorded was made by Fidel Castro in September 1960. The Cuban prime minister harangued the Assembly for 4 hours and 29 minutes, using up 10 discs.

"Next year the verbatim of the Assembly and its committees will be switched from discs to tape to save space, which is becoming a crucial problem," said Stopar-Babsek.

Audio-records take up only one section of the vast archives which house a complete written file of U.N. proceedings on microfilm, as well as a partial file of the old League of Nations and the Nürnberg war crimes trial of 1946.

"Some of the league records were destroyed in Geneva in 1940 when it was feared that Hitler would invade Switzerland," said Stopar-Babsek.

Gifts to U.N. officials from heads of state or private admirers usually wind up in the archives, since it is against U.N. policy for them to keep such presents.

"From time to time we have received valuable sets of porcelain, ivory statues and oil paintings," said Stopar-Babsek. "They are all duly catalogued and stored away."

Many important papers are irreplaceable. Some articles such as the first U.N. flag used in Korea and the first draft of the Declaration of Human Rights have great historic value. Special measures have been taken to safeguard them.

At its present rate of growth, the archives will soon overflow their present quarters beneath the U.N. library.

Stopar-Babsek hopes for a special building by 1968.

The archivist was an editor in his native Yugoslavia before coming to the United Nations in 1946.

AT Photos

FOR THE RECORD—Marjan Stopar-Babsek, archivist of the United Nations, stands amidst a growing collection of files which have been maintained since the beginning of the United Nations after World War II. After 17 years of meetings, Stopar-Babsek says the archives will soon overflow their quarters beneath the U.N. library.

Pontiac's Tax Situation Is Extremely Sound

The 1963 city budget submitted by the administration totals $7,045,435. This is $804,636, or 8.6 percent, higher than the one under which Pontiac operated last year.

After a careful analysis of the budget estimate, we consider it sound and conservative and voice our support of the over-all summarization.

There will be a slight increase in the tax rate to balance the submitted budget—$1.79 per thousand of assessed valuation. For the average home owner, this will amount to but $7.16 for the year.

Although no one dances with joy over a hike in taxes, in light of creeping costs in all areas—domestic, business, government—the comparatively small rise in this case seems reasonable. It should be pointed out, too, that city officials did a praiseworthy job in lopping off nearly a half million dollars from original departmental requests.

Moreover, taxpayers should realize that a sizable part of the increased expense is accounted for by the new police-fire department pension system approved by voters last April. This amounts to $108,589.

Since Pontiac's tax rate last year ranked ninth lowest among Michigan's ten leading cities (Detroit excluded), we feel that our city's financial and tax situation is a healthy one, of which we may all be proud.

What Sort of Human Could Leave Victim?

Five young children in Madison Heights will be missing their daddy Christmas day.

He was the victim of a hit-run driver on Woodward Avenue, just south of Bloomfield Center, early Wednesday morning.

This tragic death is just about as close to cold-blooded murder as anything we can think of. It is beyond our conception how any motorist, after striking another human being with enough force to hurt him 70 feet, could keep on going without even stopping to see if he could lend assistance. Such utter disregard for others is hard to understand.

There is every possibility that such an accident victim might be spared his life if hospitalization is prompt.

In the case at hand, it is believed by the police that the killer's car was damaged. Anyone with information about a motorist attempting to have his damaged car repaired in a hurry should notify the Bloomfield Hills Police Department.

How can the driver of this car face the holidays, or his friends and family, realizing he or she is responsible for leaving five youngsters fatherless?

Americans Don't Need School to Learn Ethics

A strange idea has been set forth by Chief Justice EARL WARREN, and it occurs to us that he is meddling or attempting to move in on what has been known for some little time as private "soul searching."

Most Americans would rather do right than wrong, be fair than unfair and help rather than hurt their fellowman. Basically, most of us are trying to do what we believe is right.

Now comes the Chief Justice with his idea for a school which would teach ethics. The Chief Justice refers to this as a new profession (we are inclined to doubt this) and implies that a fee would be charged for the gems of wisdom we would get.

Apparently, Justice Warren feels that right decisions are hard to come by these days. To help us distinguish between right and wrong we could go to the counselor, pay a fee and sit back, and all our problems would be solved. Of course, we would have to pay ten or 20 bucks for this expert advice.

We can't help but think that robot living is not necessary for most Americans. Arriving at the right answers and solving our own problems are a part of living and growing up. It can't be done for us like laundry.

Most of us learn morality as we are growing up. It starts with our parents, and usually churches help us through our lifetime. All Americans have a conscience, and for some reason we can't believe a new profession with counselors can teach us the difference between right and wrong.

We might become a nation weaker and poorer if we are to rely on others to tell us what to do.

The Man About Town

For the Birds

Ideas From Fancier on Care and Feeding

By HOWARD HELENBRAND

From Lake Orion comes a thoughtful letter from

who is concerned about the helplessness of wild birds in feeding themselves under the extreme weather conditions we seem to be in for.

After watching some 50 struggling for food a few mornings ago, she shoveled a path to her feeder and scattered food around it. In a short time the customers had tripled!

Our bird lover would remind others that once they start feeding birds, it should be continued, since the feathered ones come to depend upon it.

Birds also need water in winter. A good plan is to use an oblong cake pan, but once a day it should be de-iced and filled with tepid water. Some of the health fadists, it seems, even take baths in the icy water.

Although the birds are not choosy about the menu offered, the kind-hearted patron suggests putting beef suet in a "mesh (potato) bag," tying it to a tree, and then grabbing a good seat on the 50-yard line to watch the fun!

Thanks to our neighboring reader for the timely suggestions with the conviction that her winged pals have already voted her Mrs. Ornithic for 1962.

A fine display of Christmas spirit is reported by

of Drayton Plains. The Engineering Department personnel of Pontiac Motor Division, of which he is a member, is this year foregoing exchange of cards among themselves—instead each individual will post one card on the bulletin board as a message to all—and the money thus saved devoted to providing Christmas dispensation for the needy.

A column salute to this heart-warming action.

At a recent Michigan Bell Telephone Co. Plant Dept. Annual Anniversary dinner held at Alpine Inn, seven members were honored for long continuity of employment. Topping the list are two in the 35-year bracket:

Clifford E. Marvin of 494 Linda Vista, and Cleve Munger

of Orionville. Congratulations to all on their outstanding records of service, and best wishes for a long continuance of it.

David Lawrence Says:

JFK Interview Precluded Rebuttal

WASHINGTON — Republicans and Democrats have begun to quarrel over whether "equal time" should be granted for a rebuttal to President Kennedy's interview on radio and television last Monday night.

The Republican National Committee is planning to ask for similar privileges on the air, but hasn't quite made up its mind who the actors in the show would be.

Rep. Emanuel Celler of New York, Democrat, has urged the networks to refuse "categorical" requests for "equal time," as he says it would "set a most dangerous precedent." Besides, he argues, Mr. Kennedy is not a political candidate.

Technically, of course, the 1964 political campaign hasn't started and there are no formal candidates, but actually the campaign is already under way.

President Kennedy really has begun to campaign actively for re-election. Almost every move he makes nowadays is based on its possible impact on the voters during the next 22 months.

Every opportunity for publicity is sought. The latest example is the unprecedented interview on radio and television over all three major networks for a full hour last Monday night.

Mr. Kennedy evidently felt sure that the newspapers would use the interview rather fully, anyway, so it would also get wide publication in the press.

PREVENTS REBUTTAL

The biggest advantage of all to Mr. Kennedy, however, is that he manages by this method to prevent any rebuttal on the same night that he gets full coverage of his views over the television networks.

It is not like the "great debates" of the last presidential campaign, when the opposite candidate was at least given a chance to answer point by point.

All the provisions of federal law about "equal time" with reference to television and radio programs that concern speeches by major candidates in politics seem to have become meaningless under the new procedure.

The President can always argue that his speeches aren't political, though almost everything he said in the broadcast on Monday, for example, had to do with major political subjects which are current issues before the country.

The manipulation of news now is an administration policy, and the manipulation of network facilities has become a valuable instrument in the "arsenal of weaponry" on the political battlefield.

A one-sided presentation of what the government is doing appears to some politicians as fair, but the people resent the obvious use of public force for political purposes.

The newspapers have a circulation of nearly 60 million copies, and these reach an even larger number of individuals in the homes. The number of homes with television sets is around 47 million, but not everybody stays home for every program.

Yet those who miss a President's utterances on the air can generally get a copy of a newspaper and read about them there.

What's more important is whether this sort of thing can become a "brainwashing" operation through which the people are led to form impressions based on incomplete and inadequate presentation of controversial subjects.

In the Soviet Union such things are handled by forbidding all counter-comment or criticism of the top executives. If there is criticism at all, it's usually at a later date, long after the initial speech.

The broadcasters usually try to maintain independence, but many nevertheless find it desirable to play ball with the administration in power.

That's why the newspapers become the last available source for the prompt and continuous presentation of both sides of controversial questions in a comprehensive manner in their news pages. (Copyright, 1962)

Hal Boyle Says:

Record Firm Head Led Roller-Coaster Career

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — In some 12,000 to 14,000 long-playing phonograph recordings are turned out each year in America.

"But only about 500 make any real money," said Enoch Light, the musical millionaire.

Light is managing director of one of 4,000 firms fighting in an overcrowded field for the privilege of reaching the American ear—and the American pocket-book.

A placid-looking, pipe-smoking man of middle age, Light has led a spectacular roller-coaster career in a business in which the unofficial slogan is: "Hold on to your hat at all times."

At 19, he left college to become the pit controller for a Broadway show in 1920.

By 1940 he had become known as the "Ambassador of Jazz" in Europe, and he was leader of one of the big bands.

Then he was involved in an automobile accident that laid him up for a year and a half.

"When I finally recovered I found that the parade had passed me by. The heyday of the big bands was drawing to a close, and I realized I had to try something new."

ENTERS RECORD FIELD

Enoch entered the recording field and learned the business from the ground up.

There followed 10 lean, arduous years, then in 1954 Light founded his own firm, and in 1959 sold it for more than $2 million to ABC-Paramount, which retained him as directing head.

"It's all pretty crazy, isn't it?" he asked quietly, puffing on his pipe.

After my accident came the desperate days—week after week when I earned nothing. From the time I was 35 until I was 44 I was in danger of starving.

"Then, in another five years or so, I was a millionaire. It is crazy! But once you go through a bad period in life you never get over the fear. Today I still can't bear to waste money or food."

Light now feels his years of ordeal were well worth all the personal hardship he endured.

"Success isn't a matter of being cute or clever. It's a matter of wry, integrity, responsibility and doing your very best. It sounds corny, but it's true."

"The only secret lies in believing in what you are trying to do, and then putting more time and effort into doing it than the other fellow does."

In Washington:

WASHINGTON (NEA) — White House sources say President Kennedy and his advisers have not even decided in what area of the tax structure to seek reforms in tandem with his 1963 tax reduction proposals.

It is possible the whole matter of reform may be kept in a kind of "play by ear" status, to allow the administration to tailor its position to the developing tax outlook in Congress.

House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills, who urges a link between reform and reduction, suggests consideration might be given next year to altering the present preferential rate on capital gains.

Beyond this there are as yet no specifics. But tax economists' studies indicate that, at present personal income levels, elimination or reduction of a wide variety of exclusions, deductions, exemptions and credits could yield up to $25 billion in additional income tax revenues.

Already well-advertised difficulties stand in the way of reform.

The very argument made by Mills and some others — that loophole-closing would produce revenues to offset tax losses through rate reduction — is seen by some experts as an argument to diminish the stimulative effect of a tax cut on the general economy.

Many loopholes were opened through pressure from special groups which complained that high tax rates worked hardship on them. These groups are expected

'We Should Be Grateful for Peace We Do Have'

We hear a lot about putting Christ back into Christmas and I think we have to a certain extent. But I wish this Christmas season everyone in the world would let Christ rule in their hearts as Prince of Peace. We should be thankful to God for the measure of peace we have attained this year in Cuba and Berlin. J.P.

Fight for Freedom Must Be Continued

The hour is dark for all Cubans everywhere. If the faint of heart have given up, those of greater blood cannot afford to waver. This is precisely what Fidel Castro wishes us to do.

These are dark days. Our friends remain indifferent. We are working under extremely discouraging and difficult circumstances, but other men have fought and won against still more insurmountable odds.

To the exile living under the banner of liberty in this country and to those leading a miserable existence in our enslaved Cuba, the message must be carried loud and clear: we must carry on, even though it takes thirty years. C. Todd

Restaurants Closed Resorted to Soup

My husband and I are in our 70s and last Christmas we went out for dinner. After driving for 4 hours we couldn't even buy a cup of coffee. We came home and the only thing we had to eat was some Arthur Godfrey soup. I sat down to eat and I really did cry in my soup. Merry Christmas

'Does Post Office Make Own Rules?'

It's a shame that the U.S. Post Office is practicing discrimination. The rule states that civil service employees on the register are to be called for Christmas work first. I guess the Pontiac post office has its own rules. If you are related to one of the bosses or mail carriers you have a good chance of getting a job.

What's the use of spending hours taking a civil service examination and getting a fairly high rating, when you can't even get a job as a temporary clerk during the Christmas rush? A Forgotten Employee

Today is Thursday, Dec. 20, the 354th day of 1962 with 11 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1803, the United States government officially took over control of the lands purchased from France in the Louisiana purchase.

In 1864, Gen. William Sherman completed his "March to the Sea" on his arrival in Savannah, Ga., which he occupied with Union forces.

In 1922, fourteen republics of Russia combined as the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

In 1932, a huge Air Force "Globe-master" plane crashed at Moses Lake, Wash., killing 87 and injuring 28 servicemen in the worst air crash of its time.

A Christmas thought for today — It is written in the Acts of the Apostles in the New Testament: "Wherein thou judgest another, thou condemnest thyself."

The Country Parson

Few Want Tax Reform With Cut

to combat any change that would add to their burdens.

Aside from Mills, Secretary of the Treasury Dillon and a few others, no measurable interest in tax reform exists today.

Ladd Plumley, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, recommends no reform but sharp spending cuts to match the $8 to $9 billion tax slash the Chamber proposes. His view: reform belongs in a separate bill — later.

AFL-CIO leaders have pleaded for swift tax rate reduction, though reliable sources say some of the federation's staff people have argued intramurally for reform.

In urging a two-stage $11 billion tax cut, the Committee for Economic Development conceded three signs of its ill-fated report to reform — of the excise tax framework. It offered no income tax reforms at this time.

The President's Labor Management Committee, proposing a $10 billion cut, said reforms are necessary but should not be a cause of delay in enacting the reduction.

Kennedy's responses to businessmen's queries, to him to alter his New York tax speech, indicate he comprehends the difficulties confronting reform and has no thought of going willy nilly.

Quite agree that to launch a full-scale battle on general reform would be unwise," he said.

The administration nevertheless is committing itself to a serious measure of structural tax revision.

Since some added revenues would result, it is a "land-in-between," of easing the impact of tax cuts on the deficit column and thus finding some accommodation with those in Congress who will be demanding heavy spending cuts.

Argument can be made, too, that if some reform is not now joined to reduction, broad reforms proposed later will be quickly given the unpalatable label, "tax increase."

Less liberal treatment of capital gains, for example, could in some tax researchers' judgment produce a $1 billion to $12 billion or more in extra taxes.

The Brookings Institution is in the midst of a five-year study of government finance, including tax reform. The study director, Joseph Pechman, suggested in a paper a few years back that a truly broad-based individual income tax law might get rid of countless exclusions, exemptions and credits.

In this list he would include the special treatment now accorded social insurance benefits (public and private), unemployment and workers' compensation, veterans' pensions and various other kinds of military benefits.

Radio-TV View of Cuba Leaves Fidel Out of the Picture

AP SPECIAL REPORT

EDITOR'S NOTE—The writer of this article was an Associated Press correspondent in Havana for 29 months and was jailed there for three weeks under the Castro regime. He now is an (AP) roving correspondent in Latin America, and has been on special assignment in Key West.

By ROBERT BERRERLEZ
KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Under Castro automation, goes a Cuban witticism, the laboring man has been replaced by women.
Cuban radio and television programs monitored here tend to accentuate that observation.

1/2 SPECIAL REPORT

Day in and out, the Cuban stations monotonously drone out the revolutionary achievements of "our women's brigades" and "our exemplary Cuban woman" toiling away "voluntarily" in coffee, cotton and sugar fields.

Starting next year some women will be carrying credentials as crew members on Cuban merchant ships.
Men work, of course, and they get their share of accolades. But the to hear Havana radio tell it, Cuban workers spend large portions of their time attending meetings to "discuss production goals" or study "cultural draft projects."

The radio-television broadcasts, easily seen and heard here, 93 miles from Havana, provide an excellent electronic peephole for a limited look at Cuba.

UP-TO-DATE PICTURE
What is a radio-television view of Cuba like these days?

To one who had a Havana ring-side seat on Castro and the post-revolution for 29 months, an immediate reaction is: "Where is Fidel?"

Two years ago, it would have been rank heresy, if not counter-revolutionary, to leave Castro out of the picture if he were anywhere near a television program. But that was done recently when President Osvaldo Dorticos spoke at a funeral service. Viewers got only the briefest look at Castro's back as he rushed away after the ceremony with only a brisk wave to Dorticos.

Two years ago, such an omission would have started speculation on Castro's health or his position in the hierarchy.

There are other signs the original revolutionaries are being edged from the spotlight by the new Marxist-Leninist set. There were no special radio or television programs to mark the anniversary of Castro's Dec. 2, 1956, invasion that led eventually to the overthrow of dictator Fulgencio Batista. Commentators handled the event in routine fashion, contrary to the hoopla of other years.

FLASHES BACK

Once in a while, Havana television flashes back briefly to the top entertainment fare it used to offer. But the lavish sets are gone and so are the big name bands that internationally popularized such Afro-Cuban rhythms as the rumba, mambo and the cha-cha.

Fine programs lean heavily toward gray revolutionary themes: the social and racial inequalities, mostly in other Latin American countries.

Television films offer a change of pace, but not by much. The westerns disappeared under a barrage of official criticism. Ingrid Bergman and Humphrey Bogart in "Casablanca" and Perry Mason still hold down the capitalist world's last foothold in the socialist camp. These films, and a few other Hollywood ancient, remained after American distributors pulled out of Cuba. They share time with Russian, Spanish and other foreign-made films.

TOPS IN SPORTS

On the sports scene, Russian-trained gymnasts are the big item. Yachting, which became popular among the masses after Castro confiscated marinas full of luxury boats, also gets radio coverage.

Baseball, once the No. 1 sport featuring U.S. and Cuban major league talent, has been reduced to amateur basis.

Anti-Americanism remains the big hard-sell item on both radio and television. Anti-Castro Cuban raiders are always identified as "brutal CIA agents." Cubans There's really nothing left is

Says a Cuban exile: "They're tired and, besides that, they've used up the entire dictionary of scurrilous abuse. There's really nothing left is

Remove Cigarettes From Cancer Center

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Roswell Park Memorial Institute, a major cancer research center, announced yesterday it had removed all cigarette-vending machines from its buildings because of studies said linked smoking with lung cancer.

In place of the vending machines, signs were posted, reading: "Roswell Park Memorial Institute is dedicated to the detection, treatment, and prevention of cancer."

"To help protect and remind you of the hazards of cigarette-smoking."

NASA Decoding Mariner's Complex 'Idiot Writing'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It will take scientists weeks to translate into English what Mariner 2 told them about Venus during its 42-minute flyby Dec. 14.

Why? Because the interplanetary space language used by the scientists in their conversation with Mariner and by Mariner in its radio reports to earth is an extremely complicated code.

Mariner 2 had been trained to use the code before it left home. Aboard the 447-pound spacecraft was a tiny device whose sole job was to translate scientific measurements into the agreed-upon code.

This was the so-called data encoder. The data, in code form, was transmitted by Mariner to National Aeronautics and Space Administration ground stations at Goldstone, Calif.; Woomera, Australia, and Johannesburg, South Africa.

Mariner transmitted at 2.30 watts, a power level at least as low as the dimmest bulb that ever purported to illuminate a murky passage in some old world wine cellar.

By the time it traversed a million miles of space, the signal had faded to a billionth of a billionth of a watt.

But this was enough for the 65-foot radio dishes at the three deep-space tracking stations. They could amplify it and record it on magnetic tape.

MEANING ALL ITS OWN

These stations for their part had data decoding instruments. They recorded Mariner's pulses and frequency switches in what does the sequence in which the one space expert called "idiot signs are written."

Imagine an idiot beating on a typewriter and producing a lot of symbols such as "&*/&." This is analogous to Mariner's language before it is processed.

"Each idiot sign means something," the expert said, "and so value for Venus' magnetic field."

All of Mariner's transmissions were plotted as to time so the scientists could know just where it was when it was sending certain information.

Only about 50 persons among the thousands belonging to the jet propulsion laboratory crew in California which created Mariner can make even slight sense out of so-called "raw data" from the spacecraft.

But fed into an IBM 7090 computer, the idiot language comes out in digital form as numbers which are intelligible to scientists and engineers. They are intelligible, however, only after the most careful analysis.

NEW YORK (U) — It wasn't snow, or rain, or heat or gloom of night that kept mailman Thomas X. Kelly from his appointed rounds—it was a dog bite.

Red Can't Talk at University

ALBANY, N.Y. (U)—A state supreme court justice told the trustees of the state university yesterday they could not permit a Communist to address students at the University of Buffalo.

A group of students at the school, which was absorbed into the state university system this year, invited Herbert Aptheker, a ranking member of the American Communist party, to address students.

The state university trustees upheld the invitation on grounds that included academic freedom.

William W. Egan, a Democratic candidate for Congress in the November election, then sought an injunction barring Aptheker's appearance.

Justice Russell Hunt issued a temporary injunction and affirmed it yesterday.

Nation Drives 760 Billion Miles in Cars

DETROIT (UPI) — Americans drove 760 billion miles this year in their 78.6 million cars, trucks and buses.

These and other figures have been released in a year-end table of facts by the Automobile Manufacturers Association (AMA).

The AMA said this year's production of over 6.9 million cars raised the total on American roads to 65.6 million. Truck output of 1.2 million in 1962 raised the truck "population" to 13 million.

The wholesale value of passenger cars sold this year was $13 billion, on trucks $2.3 billion — a total outlay of $15.3 billion.

The AMA said Americans consumed 61.3 billion gallons of gasoline in traveling 760 billion miles.

Other figures:

—There are 90.5 million licensed drivers.

—A total of 42 million families own automobiles, 74 per cent of the family groups living in the country.

—Special taxes on motor vehicles brought in $112 billion.

—A total of $11.3 billion was spent on highway financing, excluding special bond issues for things like toll bridges and turnpikes.

—The industry spent $870 million on new plants and equipment in 1962.

Teen Queen, FBI Call for Careful Driving

By BEN PHILEGAR
AP Automotive Writer
DETROIT — The auto companies have called in a teen-queen and the FBI in their latest moves to persuade young people to drive carefully.

Never for a minute do the manufacturers forget the teens are the fastest-growing age group and also the one offering the most opportunities for increasing the auto population. But the companies also have a genuine interest in traffic safety, spending millions in promotion and research.

Ford and General Motors have been especially active with young people. Ford's traffic safety department publishes the monthly Driver Education News for driving instructors and produces a variety of instructional films and teaching aids.

General Motors recently began publishing American Youth, a bi-monthly magazine sent to every newly licensed teen-age driver. The magazine makes a constant traffic safety pitch and offers tips on car maintenance and driving skills.

In the current issue, FBI director J. Edgar Hoover writes that "carelessness, selfishness and a failure to observe the law are at the root of all traffic accidents...recklessness and carelessness can be fatal, and there is nothing 'smart' about violating a traffic regulation which has been devised for your own safety. Permanent injury or death is a high price to pay for a moment of excitement."

TEEN QUEEN

The teen-queen is Darla Banks of Fresno, Calif., who won the Miss Teen-Age America contest in Dallas in October.

One of her major prizes was a convertible from Lincoln-Mercury division of Ford and she was designated the division's youth safety spokesman.

The company's major worry at the contest finals was that the winner would be a girl too young to drive. Darla Jean, at 16, is of legal driving age in her home state of California.

Lincoln-Mercury has just issued a booklet under her name called "How to Earn the Key to Dad's Car." It advises that the "opinion of many adults seems to be that teen-agers are reckless drivers, not to be relied upon, and should be 'cracked down' on by the police."

"This kind of thinking is as inaccurate as it is unfortunate when applied to all young drivers. It is, regrettably, all too true when applied to a certain small segment of teen-age drivers."

"As a teen-ager seeking the keys to your own or the family car, you may start with two strikes against you unless you play it easy and work out a deal designed to convince the folks that you're no square in the driver's seat."

The booklet emphasizes that the one factor every teen driver suffers from is inexperience and one fault to be most avoided is overconfidence.

"You should never become good enough to wait yourself, and the level of driving you practice must be good enough to get through your worst periods, not just your good ones," the booklet says.

For parents, there is this advice: Have your teen-ager learn from it early, other than yourself. Try not to contradict what the teacher has told him—there are usually several right ways to do things.

Junior Editors Quiz on ELEPHANTS

QUESTION: Why do they say an elephant never forgets?

ANSWER: People probably say this because there is a certain amount of truth in it. This great creature is smart as well as big; he ranks number eight among the world's most intelligent animals, and he does have a good memory.

When they are first caught, they are bound and kept on very short rations. If they never forget this treatment, it would be impossible to train them afterward. Yet a great many are trained.

Another idea about elephants (3) is even more false; that they are mortally afraid of mice. Elephants in zoos don't notice mice. If a mouse got into Jumbo's trunk, Jumbo would blast him out of there in a moment—look at the way he squirts water.

Another idea (3) has a certain reasonableness, because African elephants are wilder and fiercer beasts than their Indian cousins. Yet they can be trained. Jumbo himself, an African elephant proved it by the way children could ride on his back.

A last superstition (4) doesn't seem to have any facts to back it up. For years, hunters have tried to find the supposed elephant graveyards. But none has ever shown up.

FOR YOU TO DO: Try your hand at drawing an elephant.

Romney Talks With Cavanagh

DETROIT (AP) — Gov.-elect George Romney got a briefing on Detroit's financial and legislative problems yesterday at a secret, 90-minute meeting with Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh.

It was the first meeting between the two men since Romney's election.

Cavanagh declined comment on the meeting, saying only that he had been invited to Romney's hotel room for the meeting.

Said the governor-elect: "We had a very pleasant and helpful talk and I think we both recognized we do have areas of mutual concern."

The meeting was held with no advance notice. Romney and Cavanagh met privately, with no aides present.

A usually reliable source told newsmen later that Cavanagh had urged Romney to push for tax reform, to increase the state's share of welfare payments and to have Michigan qualify for a federal program which would provide aid to dependent children funds to families of unemployed workers.

Yes, Charlie, There Is a Santa Claus

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — Otis E. Calhoun and his bride-to-be, Charlie Brown, will have a merry Christmas thanks to a Santa Claus dressed in sheriff's clothing.

Miss Brown sent a telegram to Napa County Sheriff John Clausen. In it she appealed for the release of "Otis E. Calhoun, 36, arrested Nov. 18 by the highway patrol on a charge of driving while intoxicated, and then sentenced to 30 days."

Her telegram continued: "We're engaged. If I were a little girl I would write to Santa Claus. But I believe that you, Sheriff, are the only one who can help. We hoped to be married on Christmas Eve." Miss Brown, who is secretary-treasurer of the city of Newton, Tex., received an answer yesterday.

"Get out the wedding bells," said the sheriff's telegram. "Your 200-pound Christmas present is en route."

2 Bail Out Too Late; Perish in the U. P.

PICKFORD (AP) — Two Air Force officers on an F106B jet interceptor were killed when they ejected at too low an altitude yesterday shortly before their plane crashed in a farm field near this Upper Peninsula community.

The victims were identified as the pilot, Capt. Andrew Spear, 38, of Charleston, S. C., and Maj. Conrad Long, 43, of Glendale, Ariz.

Both men lived at Kincheole Air Force Base with their families. Kincheole AFB spokesman said the accident occurred as the plane was approaching the runway on its way back from a training flight.

The two-seater craft, attached to the 507th fighter wing at Kincheole, crashed, burst into flames and was totally demolished.

Air Force investigators were called in to investigate the crash which occurred about 15 miles from the base.

Hotel, Restaurant Men Fret on Tax Rules

NEW YORK (AP)—Many restaurant and hotel operators are raising cries of anguish over the government's new expense account tax deductions rules.

Some claim they could be put out of business or badly hurt.

Others are taking a wait-and-see attitude until the Internal Revenue Service clarifies regulations under which the 1962 tax law will be enforced. A few expect to benefit.

All are aware that IRS Commissioner Mortimer Caplin—the nation's income tax collector—has said: "I think expense account living is a thing of the past."

The government's intention is to stamp out what it considers illegitimate deductions for lavish expenditures.

In the face of a storm of objections to some proposed regulations, Caplin promised at a hearing in Washington that the original stringent rules will be modified.

CARRIES THEME

He carried this theme a bit farther at a tax seminar in New York City this week, saying the final rules will be "fair and reasonable."

Caplin said: "I hope it isn't too late to tell businessmen what or how to spend but what can be deducted."

As for contentions that curtailment of expense account business will cause some restaurants to close, Caplin said: "I hope it isn't too late to tell businessmen what or how to spend but what can be deducted."

But the extent of the modification worries hotel, restaurant and theater men.

Their objections are mainly against a requirement for substantiation by detailed records of all travel and entertainment expenses over $10 and their purpose.

Caplin said an increase to $25 is being considered.

"It will damn near put us out of business," said George Eddy, co-owner of Eddy's Restaurant, a Kansas City night club. "Many people will just stay home rather than go through all that rigmarole of detailed accounting. Many of our customers have told me so."

On the other hand, Washington, D.C., hotel man thinks the new rules will help his dining room and bar business.

"The convention-goer who used to go out to a lunch counter for a 30-cent hamburger—and then put a $12.50 hotel dinner on his expense account—can't get away with it now. To have a record of his meal costs, he'll have to eat the $12.50 dinner and sign the check," he explained.

In New York City—one of the greatest expense account cities of them all—J. A. McCarthy, executive vice president of the Hotel Association of New York City, said members of his organization feel the record-keeping requirement would be "onerous and unreasonable" and would be "very damaging to the hotel industry."

"I don't think we will get killed but it will hurt a little at the start," said Phillip Miles, vice president of the firm that operates New York City's luxurious Four Seasons and Forum of the Twelve Caesars restaurants.

"Business men who have been accustomed to conducting legitimate business over lunch aren't going to change."

Some restaurant operators contend that business men already are tightening up on entertainment spending.

CLOSES CLUB

Comedian Ben Blue closed his Santa Monica, Calif., night club because his credit card clientele fell off so sharply. Blue predicted many more will follow.

Mark Schmidt, general manager of Detroit's Sheraton Cadillac Hotel, expressed apprehension that the tax regulations currently set up would have "a crippling effect on every phase of the hotel business." But he pointed out that the American Hotel and Motel Association feels that as finally established the rules will be less harmful to business than first feared.

General Assembly Pushes End of Heaviest Agenda

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly here today to close out the heaviest agenda in its history. It hoped to end its 17th session tonight.

With only two major issues left to act on, Hungary and the Palestine refugee question, delegates tried to ring down the curtain a day ahead of their target.

The Hungarian problem, in previous years a subject of long and bitter East-West debate, cleared the 110-nation special political committee Tuesday in 90 minutes. The General Assembly was expected to dispose of it almost as quickly despite a protest by Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand against an American resolution to abolish his post of U.N. special representative on Hungary.

The committee voted 43-14 with 32 abstentions to transfer Munro's duties to Secretary-General U. Thant, a move which could indefinitely shelve U.N. discussion of Communist repression in Hungary.

'CONSTRUCTIVE COURSE'
The United States said its aim in presenting the plan was to "suggest a constructive course which could lead to an improvement of the lot of the Hungarian people." Hungary's Communist government barred Munro and his predecessor, Prince Wan Wai-thayakon of Thailand, from the country, but Thant has been invited to visit Hungary next year. Munro, who submitted a report annually to the assembly on conditions in Hungary, told a reporter the American resolution is "a bad business." He said the Hungarian people no longer would be assured that someone would give the assembly an objective account each year of their situation.

A Hungarian refugee leader said the committee approval of the resolution was "a victory for the Russians and the appeasers." "Hungary was sold down the river, just as in the revolution, in this vote," said Msgr. Bela Varga of New York, chairman of the Hungarian Committee. The perennial question of Palestine's one million Arab refugees tied the special political committee up in three weeks of bitter debate. The committee finally approved a U.S. proposal to extend U.N. relief and education programs for Arab refugees for two more years. The resolution also calls on the Palestine Conciliation Commission—Turkey, France and the United States—to continue efforts to resolve the problem of the refugees displaced by the 1948-49 Palestine war.

Teller Calls Bluff in Bank Robbery Try

HENDERSON, Tex. (UPI) —

The 40-year-old woman wanted to rob the Citizens' National Bank. The teller told her to scam because she had nothing to back up the threat with. The woman did.

The teller, Thomas Pool, said the woman handed him a note yesterday demanding the bank's money or she would blow up the bank.

"Lady, I don't see that you have any means of blowing up the bank," Pool said.

The woman, later identified by police as Mrs. Jerry Mildred Dunham, became nervous, panicked and fled. She ran to a next door department store and locked herself in the women's restroom where police found her.

Charges were expected to be filed today against the Mount Enterprise, Tex. woman.

Menninger Foundation Offers Training

Programs Teach Laymen to Recognize Mental Illness

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Doctors, counselors, teachers and community workers are combining forces today to help those who suffer mental affliction and emotional distress. This fourth of five special articles tells the story of this joint attempt.)

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Writer
TOPEKA, Kan. — Along the highways to the Menninger Foundation are coming clergymen, businessmen, doctors, lawyers, teachers and community leaders.

They share a common goal—the prevention of mental illness with its incalculable human suffering.

"The exciting thing is to help people before they become ill," says Dr. William Menninger, a big, relaxed man who with his brother, Karl, is among the pioneers in psychiatric care who have helped change state mental hospitals from keepers of the ill to effective treatment centers.

Mental illness begins or is aggravated in the home, the school on the job, in many situations. Life can begin going sour in hundreds of ways—for the woman feeling useless after her children leave home, the man failing of his dreams, the child feeling inadequate to parental expectations and demands.

There are not enough psychiatrists and psychologists for troubled persons to turn to. Many physicians give such aid, and half the people going to family doctors do so because of symptoms arising from psychological causes. Psychiatric education of the general physician is a major program of the American Psychiatric Association.

PERSONAL HELP

Community leaders could become a small army of men and women giving counsel to help solve emotional problems.

Some already know intuitively how to advise the emotionally troubled, says Dr. Joseph Satten, director of the Menninger Foundation's social psychiatry department, stressing research on prevention.

"Others can be given an understanding of some scientific principles, the ABC with which to recognize problems, to counsel people, to prevent situations from becoming worse, to suggest helpful courses of action in a useful way.

What happens to people at work can powerfully influence mental health, explains Dr. Harry Levinson. Since 1956, top business executives have been coming to the foundation for special week-long seminars to "learn what makes people tick."

Why does a top salesman fail as a desk-bound executive? Why do seemingly successful men turn to alcoholism, or threaten suicide? What makes employees angry or frustrated?

By one estimate, 80 to 90 percent of emotional problems seen on the job among employees arise in their home life.

The objective is to teach business leaders how to listen, to know how humans feel, Dr. Levinson adds. And, since top men have emotions also, how to maintain their own balance.

One survey finds that 42 percent of people turn first to their ministers or pastors when emotional troubles begin to take a toll. Appropriate training for future clergymen is sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health at Loyola University in Chicago, Yeshiva University in New York, and at Harvard Divinity School.

Thousands of school children run into serious emotional problems. The nervous, tyrannical, and lackadaisical child can be reflecting emotional and family problems.

MUTUAL EFFORT
Dr. Edward Greenwood heads a program in which Topeka schools, teachers, psychiatrists and psychologists join hands in counseling to detect troubles, find causes and remedies. Invariably, this involves voluntary consultations with parents, who may unwittingly be triggering the child's reactions.

"Being a good parent is one of the most difficult tasks of all," Dr. Greenwood remarks sympathetically. This teamwork approach for children reaches into elementary and junior high schools.

Growing old brings on other stresses, and a new retirement—and-geriatrics clinic under Dr. Prescott Thompson now is treating a small number of men and women in a study of their special problems.

Depression is very common among men unwilling or unprepared to retire, among women after menopause years, in the grandmother who feels useless, and mental health courses in high schools and colleges, are being sponsored by the NIMH and National Association for Mental Health.

Preventive and social work gives the psychiatrist extra influence, Dr. Satten remarks.

In clinical practice, one psychiatrist treats only one patient at a time. By working in the courts, in schools, and other institutions, he spreads his influence to assist dozens to hundreds of people in emotional trouble.

Next: The emotional checkup.

Too Young for the Job?
SCUNTHORPE, England (UPI)—Museum officials said today they are having no luck finding a volunteer for a planned stone-age exhibition. They need a hairy caveman.

Old age is often accompanied by feelings of anxiety and helplessness," Dr. Thompson says. "It is possible to relieve anxiety and regain a feeling of mastery through activities which may be different from what they have been doing all their lives."

Since lawyers often see people in trouble, they have a chance to step in before attitudes become too rigid, and more difficult to change, Dr. Satten points out. Thus lawyers come here for knowledge of the psychological engines of human beings.

In other steps, suicide prevention among men unwilling or unprepared to retire, among women after menopause years, in the grandmother who feels useless, and mental health courses in high caveman.

The Christmas pageant being staged for the 12th straight year by the First Baptist Church includes tools and treasures 2,000 years old, unearthed in Palestine during archaeological expeditions by the pastor, Dr. Cecil G. Osborne.

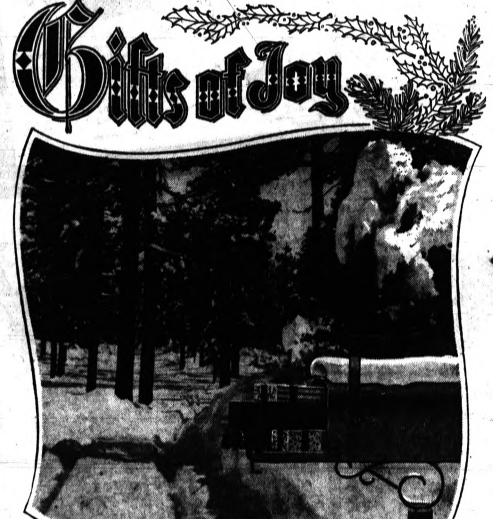

Workmen have recreated a Bethlehem street of shops and a Palestinian home.

A cast of 70 acts out the Nativity story every 12 minutes between 7 and 9:30 p.m. nightly before a 150-foot-long three-dimensional set which depicts the Bethlehem hills.

Kennedy Interview Reminiscent of FDR Fireside Chat

(Editor's Note — President Kennedy may have inaugurated a new technique for getting his views to the public. Douglas B. Cornell, who has covered the White House for the Associated Press since the early days of the New Deal, compares Kennedy's rocking chair interview with President Roosevelt's fireside chats.)

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy may have kindled a new version of the old fireside chat when he let the American people look in and listen to an interview he had Monday night in his White House office.

It was the late Franklin D. Roosevelt who came up with the idea of establishing direct communication with people by the millions. In the 1930s and 1940s his mellow voice and rolling phrases were heard periodically on radio reports to the nation that became known as fireside chats.

There were some likenesses and differences in comparison with Kennedy's televised interview for three reporters Monday.

One similarity: FDR always used to sit at a desk and talk into microphones; Kennedy sat in a chair — a rocker — and an inconspicuous microphone hung around his neck.

But Roosevelt's addresses were one-man efforts, whereas a four-some was involved in Monday night's program. And television, of course, added the extra dimension of sight lacking in the days of FDR. The Kennedy interview was carried on radio as well.

NO SCRIPT

Roosevelt always spoke from texts and he followed them well and came through with nearly flawless presentations and diction. Kennedy had no text whatever, and the White House said he was given no inkling of the specific questions to be put to him. Naturally, he had some idea of the general areas that would be covered, such as domestic and foreign issues, congress, and politics.

The fireside chats of Roosevelt enabled the president to talk to the people direct about a special problem at a special time. Although there is an inclination now to think the fireside chats came along frequently, they were actually scattered fairly far apart. There was a feeling that too many would be overdoing a good thing.

Kennedy's session with network newsmen brought such widespread expressions of interest and approval that it seems likely the format may be used again, perhaps with variations.

CONFERENCE SUB

There wouldn't be too much surprise around Washington now if the President substituted the small, televised interview for some of the catch-as-catch-can news conferences he holds in the formal, theatrical setting of the State Department auditorium.

Roosevelt's news conferences, held in his White House office, were smaller, less formal and more frequent. He tilted back his head, his chair, and a cigarette holder and chatted with reporters clustered around his desk.

There was time then, on many occasions to explore and develop a subject. Both newsmen and the White House, for the last couple of administrations at least, have felt that news conferences were getting a little out of hand and skipping around too fast and far without bringing out all the points that needed attention.

Often an important question is raised on a crucial topic, and almost before the answer is finished reporters are on their feet clamoring for the President's attention and the opportunity to ask the next question. While many questions deal with profound topics, some of them deal with the provincial, such as prospects of filling a minor federal job.

Ex-Sen. Green, 85, Remains in Coma

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Former Sen. Theodore Francis Green remained in a coma and on the danger list at Jane Brown Hospital early today.

Green, 85, oldest member ever to serve in the U.S. Senate, was admitted to the hospital yesterday in a coma. He had been stricken at his home.

After serving in the Senate for 24 years, Green did not run for reelection in 1960.

The hospital yesterday quoted Green's physician, Dr. Constantine S. Georas, as saying the former Democratic senator has been "doing poorly lately."

Debbie Makes Great Debut in Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Debbie Reynolds made her Las Vegas debut Wednesday night, and many celebrities joined the audience in giving her a standing, cheering ovation.

"It's the greatest evening I've had in years," said Judy Garland, one of the many star ringersiders. The Hotel Riviera reportedly paid Debbie $50,000 a week, the highest any entertainer has received in this gambling city.

She did a twist, a samba, a soft show, a clown act, and imitations of Zsa Zsa Gabor, Anna Magnani and Ethel Merman. At the end, she did a poignant version of her theme, "Tammy" to a wild ovation, led by Miss Garland.

State Not Affected by Pinball Cleanup

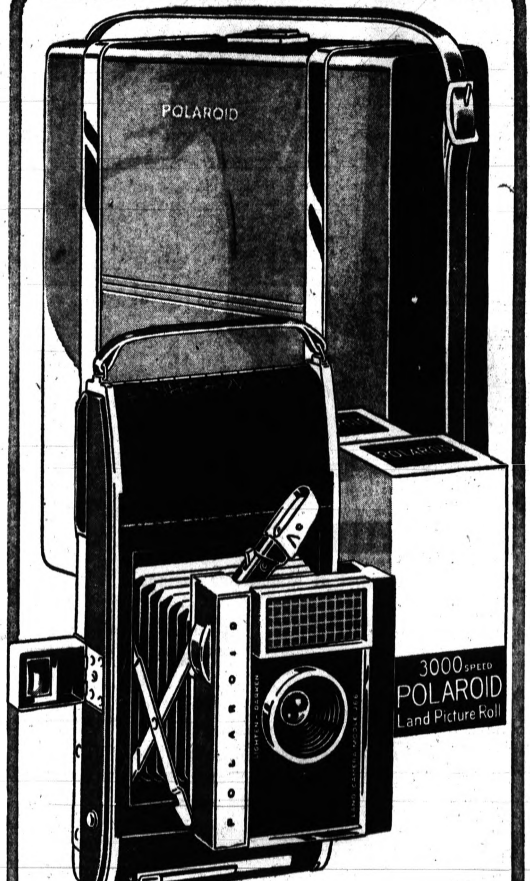

DETROIT (AP) — Internal Revenue Service agents staged a nationwide crackdown on pinball machines yesterday, but Michigan was not involved.

Explained an IRS spokesman: "Michigan state police and local police do such a good job here that we are not even bothering to look for illegal pinball machines in this state."

He said IRS intelligence efforts made a spot check of various Michigan areas recently and found few pinball machines.

He said they already had the $250 federal gambling stamp attached.

Shopping Trip Ends in Tragedy

2 Tots Die as Car Sinks

ST. CLAIR (U) — A family Christmas shopping trip ended in tragedy last night when an unattended auto rolled into the St. Clair River carrying two youngsters to their death.

The victims were 2-year-old Judy Solgot and her year-old brother Walter, children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Solgot of St. Clair.

A third child, Robert, 3, was rescued from the icy waters.

State police said the tragedy began when the children's uncle, Walter Solgot, 18, of Marine City, was baby sitting with them while Mr. and Mrs. Solgot went shopping.

Walter Solgot took the three children along later in his convertible and parked near a drug store. He saw his sister-in-law in the store and went in to join her as she finished her shopping.

Police said the car, which was parked on an incline, suddenly began to roll forward. They theorized one of the children might have pulled the gear shift into place.

The car, picking up speed in its 75-foot run, rolled across the main street of St. Clair, across Riverside Park and plunged nose-first into 20 feet of water.

The uncle, who came out of the store just in time to see his car rolling away, tried frantically to catch up with it. He plunged into the dark waters and brought Robert to safety.

State Trooper John O'Brien, one of the first at the scene, also dove into the water and tried to get to the submerged car but the freezing waters forced him to abandon the attempt.

The St. Clair civil defense rescue squad skin diving team recovered the bodies of Judy and Walter.

State Traffic Toll 1,495

EAST LANSING (UPI) — State police provisional reports today showed 1,495 persons have died in traffic accidents this year through yesterday. The death toll at the same time last year was 1,507.

Rev. Edgar A. Lucas, rector, will be the celebrant at these services and will be assisted by Rev. Robert G. Willoughby, curate.

Rochester Episcopalians Plan Pageant on Sunday

ROCHESTER — St. Philip's Episcopal Church will present its annual Christmas pageant at both services Sunday, featuring children of the church school and the combined junior choirs.

"The World To Christ We Bring," is the theme of this year's pageant.

At the 9:15 and 11 a.m. worship services children in native dress of worldwide countries will present a symbolic gift of the nation to the Christ Child in the manger.

Those in costume will be followed by children of the entire church school bringing their advent offerings and gifts of clothing for children of the Navajo Indian Reservation at Fort Defiance, Arizona.

COMBINED CHOIRS
The combined junior choirs will also offer a carol service at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, under the direction of Mrs. David W. Hackett.

Other holiday activities planned by St. Philip's include a midnight

County Woman Reappointed to Republican Post

The secretary of the Oakland County Republican Women's Council, Mrs. C. E. Haynes, has been reappointed chairman of the state delegation to the National Republican Women's Conference.

The reappointment of Mrs. Haynes, 23475 Leisure Lane, Quakertown, was announced yesterday by the Republican State Central Committee.

The conference, which was attended last year by 24 Michigan women, will be held in Washington, D.C., April 25-27.

Mrs. C. T. Spencer of East Lansing will serve as publicity chairman of the Michigan delegation to the women's conference.

Move Ahead on Troy Library

OK Change in Charter to Permit Special Board

TROY — Another step in the drive to establish a city library was taken here last night when the City Commission agreed to a change in the city charter which would allow the establishment of a library board.

City Attorney Stanley Burke had laid the groundwork for the resolution prior to last night's meeting. It will now be forwarded to the governor's office for approval of the wording, a formality involved in all charter changes.

A millage issue to finance the proposed library was also considered at last night's special meeting.

However, the matter was referred to Troy City Library Committee so that they might determine the present interest of the community in establishment of a library.

Before public funds could be appropriated for construction and operation of a city library another charter change would have to be completed.

TO PRESENT FINDINGS
It was decided that the committee, which is headed by City Commissioner Vincent J. McAvoy, would present its findings to the commission at the Jan. 7 meeting and possibly request a millage hike at that time.

Troy residents presently must do their reading and research in the high school library from 7 to 10 p.m., Mondays through Friday.

The City Commission has been sharing the $2,400 cost of renting and staffing the library with the Friends of the Troy Public Library, a group which includes representatives from neighborhood associations, local business groups and the Troy School District.

This organization has been instrumental in providing the facilities now available, having sponsored book sales, book collections and membership campaigns.

Faces Exam on 5 Counts

Make Federal Charges Against Ex-Banker

BAY CITY (UPI) — Former vice president of the defunct Davison State Bank George A. Greenlee, who made a surprise return to Michigan from Ontario, today faced examination on five counts of violating the Federal Reserve Act.

Greenlee, 39, appeared yesterday before U.S. Commissioner Ethel Meisel. He had failed to make an appearance at Flint Tuesday for a complicated bankruptcy hearing. His attorney told bankruptcy referee Harold H. Bolter that Greenlee would be available "in the immediate future."

At the federal hearing, Greenlee demanded examination on the charges and was released on $10,000 bond pending a Jan. 21 hearing.

Greenlee, 50, Lapeer, was charged with embezzling $8,000, making two false entries totaling more than $9,000 and receiving "a thing of value" for procuring a $7,000 loan from his bank.

Under another charge, he and co-defendant, Mrs. Joan A. Phelps, 32, a former assistant cashier at the Davison bank, were accused with making a false application to the Federal Housing Administration to obtain a loan from the Citizens Commercial Savings Bank in Flint.

Since the scandal about Greenlee broke into the news, the Davison bank has been merged with the Genesee Merchants Bank of Flint.

Greenlee returned voluntarily to Michigan. He has been at a vacation home in Southampton, Ont., for the past three months.

Commissioner Meisel allowed him to return to the vacation home until the examination.

Urge Drinkers to 'Eat the Olive' So Tots Safe

NEWARK, N. J. (UPI)—To protect children, the New Jersey State Safety Council today urged drinkers to eat the solids in their cocktails.

Martini olives and Manhattan cherries, the council explained, may tempt toddlers to "drain the glasses."

Report Takes Critical Look

English 'Fat, Frustrated, TV-Watching Gamblers'

LONDON (UPI)—He is better-paid and well-fed and deeply in debt.

He has more possessions and more frustrations than ever before.

He loves to garden and gamble, but spends most of his free time watching television.

He is Mr. Average Englishman, 1962, according to a newly published government survey.

The report, based on a two-month survey, presented a picture vastly different from the usual overseas picture of John Bull as an individualistic sort of Falstaff, at peace with his world and finding his pleasures among his books, his guns or in the village pub.

Instead, it portrayed him as a member of a vast, rather faceless middle class, living in "sprawling suburbs on the American model."

He is worried about the growing materialism of society, but unwilling to go against its current.

He has one other worry in common with Mr. Average American—a "strong flood of violence" and sexual promiscuity among his children.

The report, a 5,000-word document entitled "Social Changes in Britain" was greeted today with such newspaper headlines as "Gamblers and Telly Gapers," "Looking Back on the Bingo Age," "A Bitter Comment on 10 Years of Never-Had-It-So-Good Tory Rule."

OTHER FACTS

The report made these reports on life in Britain today:

Credit is the new currency, with the miles of new suburban houses and the appliances that fill them all being paid for on time.

This credit debit—doubled in seven years—has enabled three-fourths of the families to buy a vacuum cleaner, one-third to buy a refrigerator—and four-fifths to buy a television set.

Personal income doubled in the last 10 years, spurring this affluent living.

One out of every three workers holds a white-collar job, as compared to one out of four in 1951. Pay differences between blue and white collar workers are narrowing.

—This extra money has only whetted the appetite, producing a "desire among the newly affluent for more money quickly. It is a basic discontent with what has become very strongly an era of materialism, and this discontent expresses itself in grasping after unearned wealth."

—Most children grow up to be like their parents, but there has been an "alarming" crime wave among boys and young men. It suggested that television might be to blame.

—Young couples are marrying earlier—the average age is 22 for men and 21 for women—and "standards of sexual morality—even among schoolchildren have steeply declined."

About 30 per cent of the teenage brides were pregnant before marriage. Twenty per cent of them eventually got a divorce.

—Gambling has become a "fever," with each man, woman and child betting 14 pounds ($30.20) a year.

The future, the report said, will bring more of the same.

"More people will want to move into outer suburban life, buy cars, educate their children longer . . .

spend evenings staring at TV, spend more, gamble more, buy more washing machines on hire purchase (time), take holidays in Italy and so on."

Among the 36 persons who petitioned the Bishop of London to charter the first Church of England in the colonies were two pirates. It is now known as Christ Church in Philadelphia and attracts 175,000 visitors annually.

Mr. Shnool's Zoo

By LUCRECE BEALE

Copyright, 1962

AP Feature

Chapter 16

Molly was stuck in the hole like a stopper in a bottle and not all the water in the pipe could shove her out again until she was good and ready to leave.

Santa and Mr. Shnool put down their paddles and looked around. Never had there been such a mess at the zoo!

The water was going down but it would be a long time before it had all run off and the animals calmed down and their cages cleaned up.

Mr. Shnool hailed an attendant who was drifting by on a raft made of a broken door.

"Go call the city water works!" he shouted.

The attendant did as he was told. The water men turned off the water at the main pipe and rushed to the zoo. Fortunately they brought boats with them. Otherwise they would have had to swim once they got inside the zoo gates.

When Molly had unplugged the pipe the men looked at the hole and exclaimed in surprise.

"This pipe didn't break by itself. Someone has busted it open with an axe!" The men pointed out the marks on the pipe that proved this was so.

"Yes," said Santa. "Someone did it and I know who."

"WHO?" said Mr. Shnool.

"The same one who gave a firecracker to Honeybun and broke a window in the bird house and staked Henrietta to the wrong wall and set fire to the monkey house."

"But who?" demanded Mr. Shnool.

"Crookshank," said Santa.

THE GUILTY ONE

"Crookshank," repeated Santa.

"He has schemed and worked to prevent your getting an award from the Queen. Since you fixed up so fine a zoo he wants it back and he's determined you shall not be able to pay him off today. And he's not done yet. Since the flood has been stopped he will think of something else. Wait and see."

"Oh, dear," moaned Mr. Shnool in despair. "What shall I do?"

"Face him with the charge at once," advised Santa. "I think you have not a moment to lose."

"But I must clean up the zoo! Everything is turned about and heaven knows what the Queen will think!"

"Do that later," said Santa. "Crookshank comes first!"

"But I must clean up the zoo! Everything is turned about and heaven knows what the Queen will think!"

"I suppose you're right," said Mr. Shnool.

He borrowed a plank from one of the water men and he sat on one end and Santa sat on the other end and they paddled to hunt for Crookshank.

They had gone only a few yards when they heard from a man off a hillabaloo of automobile horns honking and bells ringing.

"I wish to sponsor a well cared for zoo," said the Queen.

The din came closer and closer until it stopped at the gate of the zoo and there came a great fanfare of trumpets and the rolling tattoo of drums.

"Good heavens!" cried Mr. Shnool. "It's the Queen!"

He paddled furiously until the water was too shallow to hold the plank. Then he and Santa jumped off and rushed to the gates of the zoo.

There sat the Queen, all regal and stiff, in a fine open carriage surrounded by guards dressed in purple and ermine.

"Your Highness," said Mr. Shnool, bending low. "Welcome to Shnool's Zoo."

The Queen gazed at him in astonishment. His clothes were soaping and his face was covered with dirt. Behind him stood Santa and the two of them together looked like mud pies set out to dry.

The Queen stepped down from the carriage, wincing a little as her heel sank into mud.

"Mr. Shnool?" she said uncertainly.

Mr. Shnool bowed again.

"The same," he muttered unhappily.

"As you know," said the Queen, "I wish to sponsor a happy and well cared for zoo. I also wish to award the owner 1,000 pieces of gold. I have visited all the zoos in the land. I have saved your zoo for last because I have heard such wonderful reports about how beautifully you keep it and how tenderly you treat the animals."

"I must say," she added looking about her. "It seems rather muddy and unkempt out here but I know inside the gates it will be different."

"Eh—yes, Your Majesty—eh—very different!" stammered Mr. Shnool.

MOST WOMEN (of all ages) prefer a man who smokes a pipe, as evidenced by this young lady as she happily watches dad sampling his Christmas gift, a symbol of relaxation and contentment to him.

Caution Lights Important to Traffic Safety

LANSING (AP)—The Michigan State Highway Department says a study indicates flashing caution lights have an important effect in reducing accidents at busy intersections.

Harold Cooper, director of the traffic division, said the study of 75 intersections revealed a drop of 25 per cent in total accidents over a one-year period after caution flashers were installed.

"The flashing signals serve to alert the driver of potential danger and he approaches more cautiously," said Cooper.

The department earlier conducted a study which indicated accidents increased 33 per cent at 52 intersections after stop lights were installed.

But this, said Cooper, doesn't mean the flashing signal is the answer at every intersection. "Every crossing must be studied to determine which type of signal—if any—should be installed," he said.

Don't Scurry, Judge Says

LONDON (AP)—A magistrate gave his advice to a lovelorn young man who tried to jump out of a train.

"Never run after a moving bus or girl. There's always another one coming."

Derek Scurry, 22, admitted he tried to jump out of the train after his girl broke off their engagement in time.

Along with the advice, Magistrate T. T. Davis fined Scurry £140.

In the Middle Western res-order and, apparently disappear solicitously. "Not when I gave woman looks like before martaupant the customer was shouting 'peared. "Was he a grey-haired him my order!" shouted the rlage and sounds like after. Earl about the waiter who'd taken his man?" asked the restaurant own-customer . . . A stren is what a Wilson.

Doubts Arise on Common Market

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Following is the third of three dispatches by UPI foreign news analyst Phil Newsum on the subject of the European common market and European unity: Miracle or Mirage.)

By PHIL NEWSUM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

On a Paris street lined with sidewalk stalls a sign above one proclaims that it is an outlet for the "Dreyfus Common Market Products Co."

A busload lady hawker is selling for $2 an assortment of six Italian ball point pens in a Christmas wrapping and announces that before the Common Market the price was $4.

Gaily fluttering flags of the six Common Market nations decorate the stall which, note, also displays the flags of such non-members as the Soviet Union and the United States. Outside the Galleries Lafayette, a top Paris NEWSOM department store, a display features German clocks and transistor radios.

Accompanying signs say that the clocks now sell for $4, whereas before the Common Market they sold for $7. The transistor radios were reduced from $48 to $28.

A vast prosperity surges throughout the nations of the Common Market which more formally is known as the European Economic Community (EEC) and which today includes France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

With the exception of Italy, there is virtual total employment. Germany has been forced to import labor.

The over-all gross national product is up close to 5 per cent in 1962, higher than either the United States or Great Britain.

Italy is up 6 per cent. In sharp contrast to the Community are the 500,000 unemployed in Britain and the approximate 5 million unemployed in the United States.

These figures, plus the fear of becoming a lonely island cut off from a unified Europe, are the reasons underlying Britain's present desire to join the Community she once rejected.

TARIFF WALLS

Not all of the Common Market countries can boast the spectacular consumer savings of France. For the savings depend upon the previous height of internal tariff walls which the six now are in the process of abolishing and will have abolished totally by 1970.

But by whatever standard the Common Market is measured, there is no doubt that in its nearly five years of existence, it has changed the economic face of Europe, injected new life into European industry and brought a rising standard of living to 175 million West Europeans.

As internal barriers have fallen, merchandisers have been forced to drop comfortable old ways which were leading to stagnation, to establish new lines and to drop unprofitable old ones.

It has led to stiffer competition for products of the United States.

It was also directly responsible for the U. S. Trade Expansion Act which permits the President to negotiate with the Common Market countries and others on partial, and in some cases even total, reduction of tariffs.

SOME MISGIVINGS

But as Europe plunges into another prosperous holiday season, there also are some misgivings. Among outside nations there is a fear that the Common Market Community will turn inward, erecting high protective barriers for its own members, thereby stifling instead of encouraging free world trade.

There also is a suspicion that the swift upward spiral of the European economy at least is slowing down.

Should it slow down enough or even dip toward a recession it would pose a new test of the Community's unity.

In such an event, individual members might decide to protect their own interests first and thus destroy the hopes that Europe would progress from economic unity to political unity as well.

Community planners say there should be no worry on either count. The financiers and industrialists who have poured more than half a billion dollars in new money into the Community also are betting that economic unity already has progressed so far that there can be no turning back.

Solange Matton is a plump, attractive Belgian woman who is an executive at Bon Marche, Brussels' largest department store.

In a mixture of rapid French and English she explains that to her the most important aspect of the Common Market is the development of new lines of merchandise and better quality brought about through competition.

The competition extends into all fields.

As a result, consumers are getting goods never before available to them. Miss Matton cites the examples French and German electrical goods never before on the market, aimed at lower income groups.

She sees no great savings in price in Belgium since rising wages and internal taxes offset gains made by a reduction of tariffs.

She says that a French, German or Italian label helps sales, but that primarily buyers still regard quality as the first requirement.

Here is how she sizes up consumer tastes: German women like Belgian ready-to-wear dresses because they modify the extremes of Paris and the inside finishing is better.

Italy is the pace setter in knit goods fashion and originates many new ideas. The Italians also are specialists in unwrinkable fabrics for such things as neckties and has developed good print fabrics which hold their colors under the hot Italian sun.

The Dutch turn out excellent women's suits.

German buy copies of antique fabrics and furniture which need considerable handwork.

In Bonn, officials of the Kauffhof Department Store, agree with Miss Matton that competition is the great result of the Common Market.

In its huge grocery department are delicacies of all nations, both inside and outside the Iron Curtain.

One effect of the Common Market at Kauffhof's is that German buyers are showing their preference for French cheese. It is more expensive than the German but prosperous German buyers can afford it.

A victim of the Common Market has been the import of U. S.

poultry, now down almost to nothing, and some decline in the import of California peaches and apricots.

DOWN 20 PER CENT

American poultry exports to the six as a whole have dropped an estimated 20 per cent as duties were raised or lowered to encourage Community farmers.

Poultry is one example of an important stake which the United States has in the Common Market.

Its annual agricultural exports to Common Market nations now total $1.2 billion, of which approximately $400 million is subject to the Community's variable levies on certain grains, poultry, pork and eggs.

When U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman served notice that the United States would have no part of mutual reductions of tariffs which did not include agriculture, he received no encouragement from the six.

The Common Market agricultural policies, he said, are "unreasonable and arbitrary."

Guide to Shoplifters

LONDON (UPI) — The London Daily Telegraph headlined a story on stealing in stores: "Five more shoplifting days to Christmas."

A pair of dress-casual leather slippers are just the kind of Christmas gift a man welcomes — the kind he'd choose for himself. This season's high vamp, elastic cuff and prominent stitching provide style interest.

Lynn Kerr, 6, Patmore Street, a patient at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, will hang up her stocking if she is still in bed there on Christmas Eve.

"Operation Christmas Card" provided the funds to refurbish this corner of a ward at Pontiac State Hospital. Mrs. Randall Crabb, Wing Lake Road, sits behind an enlarged replica of the original card the volunteers sell. She is president of the project. With her are a patient and Kenneth Hall, Fort Street, an attendant nurse. In the past two years four of these homey corners have been outfitted.

Drop Mr. D, Advises Abby

She's Not His One and Only

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with Mr. D. for three years. We have both had unsuccessful marriages and agreed not to rush into anything.

Until recently I thought I was the only woman in his life, but was shocked to find a letter he had written and addressed, but not mailed. Naturally, I read it. (It was on his bureau.)

ABBY

The girl is a school teacher (probably young and innocent) and lives in a small town nearby. He wrote in his letter that he "loved" her and "missed" her and was very lonely because he was "on the road" a lot. (A lie!) Should I tell him I read the letter and ask him to explain it? Or should I wise up the girl so she won't be hurt the way he hurt me?

HURT AND CONFUSED DEAR HURT: Don't "wise up" the girl. Your good intentions might be misunderstood. But by all means wise up Mr. D.

Confess you read the letter (which you had no right to do) but don't bother to ask him to explain it. It explains itself.

Then I suggest you wise up yourself and end the interlude with the devoted Mr. D.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who thinks nothing of using a toothpick in public. He says that if they were not supposed to be used they would not be set out on the table in some of the finest restaurants. Please give me your opinion.

EMBARRASSED DEAR EMBARRASSED: I don't care where toothpicks are "set out." They should not be used in public—ever.

HURT AND CONFUSED DEAR HURT: Tell that woman, who offered a mature baby-sitter 25 cents an hour, she should hire a canary to baby-sit for her. And when she returns, the bird will say "cheap cheap."

MILWAUKEE What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, care of the Pontiac Press.

Volunteer Parties

Celebrate Christmas in Hospital

At best, a hospital is not the chosen spot for most individuals. At Christmas time no one wants to be there.

But hospitals are full at this time of year which is the reason employees, professional staff and volunteers go "all out" to bring cheer to the patients.

While it is impossible to list all the projects carried on by volunteer groups, here are a representative few.

At both Pontiac General Hospital and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, children in the out-patient clinics were entertained at parties.

The planning and supervision was shared by hospital personnel and women's auxiliary groups. For many of the children, this is the highlight of the Christmas season and they come early and stay late.

A Brownie troop in Birmingham made 20 miniature doll houses to present to little girls in the pediatrics ward of Pontiac General Hospital. On Tuesday, the solemn-eyed scouts made the presentation. At Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, the staff does everything possible to make hospitalized children, unlucky enough to be hospitalized at Christmas, happy. The children hang up stockings and Santa Claus makes two visits. There are other gifts and special meals.

A different Christmas project has been carried on for two years at Pontiac State hospital. Called "Operation Christmas Card", and sponsored by a volunteer group, this project raises money to outfit alcoves on the various hospital units.

Mrs. R. E. Crabb, Mrs. Albert Remington and Mrs. Glen James are officers of the project group. Kent K. Rives Jr. of Detroit designed an original Christmas card for this group to sell and all proceeds have gone for new furnishings.

The four alcoves already completed were originally built in 1978 and it is understandable that they might need a bit of redoing.

Dr. Walter H. Obenauf, medical superintendent of Pontiac State Hospital praises such volunteer projects as "Operation Christmas Card" and says, "There is no better medicine for a patient than the realization that somebody cares for him." It helps patients in all hospitals.

"Silent Night"—four-year-old Sandy Steinder of Oak Park—puts her whole heart into her singing of Christmas carols at the out-patient party held at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. Members of the Women's Auxiliary and hospital personnel planned and supervised the party.

Rudolph, complete with red nose, came to the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital children's party. Six-year-old David Mason stands entranced in front of the ice carving of the famous Christmas character.

Tired of Those How-To Hints? Well, They Rarely Really Work

By MOSELLE CALDWELL

Written for The Associated Press

Are you tired of people telling you how to make Christmas ties from left-over yarn. (Who'd wear them?) Or how to "create a novel gift apron" from your husband's discarded shirt? (Just picture the face of the friend who received THAT present).

Hints on how to keep serene while your family is home for the holidays don't consider these variable: The ambidextrous housewife, while refereeing bouts between children, often has searing decisions to make.

Such as, would it be sanitary to go ahead and serve the fruit cake that the cat has licked the top off?

Women, as usual, receive all the tips on personal grooming. The homemaker should stay dressed neatly while stuffing the turkey.

But nobody tells you where to buy the garment that will withstand both cookie-cutting and child-craddling.

How to look human before breakfast articles urge you to jump out of bed FIRST, even if it is Christmas morning. Quickly remove those pin curls, and camouflage your face.

Then try to act as gay as if you had not been up all night putting together that easy-does-it doll house.

(Have you ever seen a column suggesting that the man of the house get out of bed first and shave?)

Father usually looks quite bleary-eyed at 5 a.m. on Christmas morning, when the children pounce on his midriff and shout: "NOW? Can we open the presents NOW?"

He nods feebly. After all, he was up until dawn too, fitting the 187 pieces of that skyscraper together.

"Next year," he groans, "please pay the $1.98 more and get the darned thing ALREADY assembled!"

And next year we just might. After all, if we were expected to spend our days — and nights — fitting intricate toys together we'd have been born with something more handy than 10 thumbs.

Lighted Crown Is Symbolic

Lucia, a legendary figure wearing a crown of lighted candles, is a favorite Christmas symbol in Sweden. During the Christmas season, she visits factories, schools and offices. She sings the Lucia song and distributes coffee and Lucia-buns.

The Lichstock, or light stand, a pyramid of wooden shelves upon which are placed small lighted candles, is a traditional Christmas decoration in Germany. A similar stand is still used in Italy where lighted Christmas trees have never become really popular.

Miss Scarbrough Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Scarbrough of Deland Street announce the marriage of their daughter, Lynda Elaine, to Raymond Eugene Batts Dec. 1 in the Christian Reform Church in Grand Rapids. Rev. Marinus Goode performed the ceremony before 75 guests.

Maid of honor Sharon Mackie, Grand Rapids, and the brother of the bridegroom

James Batts attended the couple. A reception in the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Batts, followed the exchange of vows. The couple will be at home in Grand Rapids after a Florida wedding trip.

Christmas Holiday Abroad

Judy Kay Cantarella, Kalamazoo College junior studying in France, will be in for a bit of a surprise at Christmas time. She won't see any snow!

Daughter of Mrs. Charles S. Kelly of Vinewood Avenue, Judy is one of 80 Kalamazoo juniors studying in foreign university centers in Germany, England, Ecuador, Turkey, West Africa and France.

With five other students, Judy will spend a week in Florence, Italy, going later to Rome for eight days before returning by train to Marseilles.

She attends the Institute for American Universities in Aix and lives in a private French home where she will remain until next April.

In France, she will find Christmas traditions different from those in the United States. The holiday season is primarily for children. Empty stockings aren't hung on the fireplace, rather children place their shoes at the hearth.

Last month, Judy toured the museums and parliament buildings in Bern and Geneva, Switzerland.

Karen Dela Kassner, daughter of the William G. Kassners of Burleigh Drive, also a Kalamazoo College junior, will be some 3,000 miles away for Christmas. She is studying languages at the University of Bonn in Germany and with a classmate will be with her unt in the little town of Siegen, Hessen, for the holidays.

The appearance of the Advent wreath with its four candles marks the beginning of the Christmas season in Germany. One candle is lit on each of the four Sundays of advent.

Stephen Stohmann, son of the Paul Stohmanns of Judson Street, has been placed on the dean's honor list for the fall term at Concordia Senior College, Fort Wayne, Ind.

He is a graduate of Concordia Junior College, St. Paul, Minn., and plans to matriculate at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo.

Perhaps They Don't Take Advantage of Facilities

By EUGENE GILBERT

A chronic complaint of children, young or teen-aged, is "Gee, we haven't got anything to do."

Judging from the variety of facilities teen-agers list as available to them, in our recent national opinion poll, it would seem that they aren't taking advantage of what they've got.

Nearly 60 per cent of both boys and girls answering our questionnaires claim their town has inadequate facilities for teenage amusements.

Yet, under facilities available to them during the school year, 91 per cent of boys and 88 per cent of girls list movies; 97 per cent of boys and 93 per cent of girls, bowling alleys; 65 per cent of boys and 81 per cent of girls, YMCA or YWCA; 59 per cent of boys and 57 per cent of girls, swimming pool; 55 per cent of boys and 44 per cent of girls, ice cream parlor.

Others listed are church recreation centers, youth centers, restaurants catering to young people and dance halls.

When the teen-agers are asked which amusement they go to most frequently, aside from the 37 per cent of boys and 49 per cent of girls who say "movies," a surprisingly small percentage utilized each of the others.

For example: 17 per cent of boys and 20 per cent of girls attend bowling alleys. Then the percentages drop way off to 6 per cent of boys and 10 per cent of girls, for restaurants catering to young people; 7 per cent of boys and 1 per cent of girls, for dance halls; 7 per cent of boys and 7 per cent of girls, for church recreation centers; and 4 per cent of boys and 3 per cent of girls, for swimming pools.

'POOR SURROUNDINGS'

The major gripes about the existing facilities are that there is not enough recreation for teen-agers, that the surroundings are poor and uninteresting, the places are poorly managed, too expensive and not easily reached.

Having a young people's night club nears the top of the list of improvements the teen-agers want to improve their lot.

Others are: establishing youth centers and canteens, public swimming pools; better management of existing facilities and having activities closer to town.

An interesting change in high-school-age customs is the lack of attendance at school activities.

Few of the boys answer this question, and only 2 per cent of girls say they go to school functions.

When it comes to attending high school athletics, 4 per cent of boys claim they go, and few of the girls answer.

Shampoo Can Be Fun

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Bath time is a happy time for most children until it comes to washing the hair. I think the best way yet, especially for little girls with long hair, is to put your ironing board up in front of the sink.

Put the child on it so her hair is at the edge and hangs loosely. It can be washed and rinsed without any soap and water getting in the eyes or ears.

This also keeps the child comfortable and at ease.

POLLY READER

DEAR POLLY — After reading that fish like to hide and that bright light is hard on their eyes, I made an aluminum foil house (Quonset type) for my goldfish and they love it. Take a strip of foil six or seven inches long by three inches wide and wrap ends of foil over and around two three inch lead rods or nails. Put house in fish bowl, leaving the ends open so the fish can swim through. For a large bowl make a larger house but keep the "ceiling" fairly low.

FISH FANCIER

DEAR POLLY — For Christmas this year, make a lantern by painting a four-sided vegetable grater red or green. Place a small candle or small light bulb inside. The holes in the grater look like dozens of tiny stars shining.

DEAR POLLY — Preschool children have a habit of putting small articles up their noses. A good way to get the pea, bean, etc., out is to pour soap powder from bowl to bowl in front of the child. It will make him sneeze and he will sneeze out the small foreign body.

'False' Tree Holds Beauty Lots Longer

Truly "evergreen" are the new Christmas trees made of fiberglass, of plastic, of aluminum. Fiberglass floss shines with a gay, frostier gleam this season — and the plastic trees may be had in two-tone green or all white.

Whether large or small, the beauty of these trees can be preserved from year to year with a gentle bath in soap or detergent suds — followed by thorough rinsing and drying — after the holidays are over. Many of the large trees may be taken apart for easy washing and storage.

Want Your Child's Affections? Ask for It!

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Dear Mrs. Lawrence: You always tell parents to say "no" when they don't want to give children their own way. I often wonder what would happen to your fine theories if you had a child like my 8-year-old boy.

"Though he minds his father, he won't take a 'no' from me, but treats me like dirt whenever I have to refuse him. My husband says this is because I have been too soft with him, but I think he holds something against me I don't know about. . . .

Association for the Advancement of Psychoanalysis, "because it prevents us from letting others know that we would like some attention."

Misunderstandings are bound to accumulate between us and a child if fear of his rebuffs dominates our dealings with him. The fear may block the expression of our wish for reconciliation. It also may bury it out of our sight under a pile of secondary feelings such as discouragement, chronic hurt and resentment. Out of touch with our original and appealing wish, we then appear to be more self-sufficient, cold and disinterested than we actually are.

Eventually, the child concludes that his affection is not important to us. In discouragement, hurt and resentment of his own, he begins to treat us "like dirt."

So it is valuable to see what it is in that makes us so scared of declaring our need for his affection and trust. It is grandness in us — the same grandness that is in the spoiled child who can't tolerate any denial of his wishes.

We feel secretly entitled to anything that includes our son's affection. So a possible rebuff of our wish equals a shameful humiliation to us.

Respond to Magnetism

Humans Moved by God

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE 0410: Rita L., aged 16, has a universal problem of human beings.

"Dr. Crane," she began shyly, "do you think I am peculiar or abnormal?" and I shook my head.

"Well," she added, "I get a lump in my throat — and tears come to my eyes when I hear great music or watch the climax on an uplifting type of play or movie."

FEAR OF REBUFF
"The fear of rebuff is a grave handicap to the wish for affection," wrote the late Dr. Karen Horney, founder of the American

"And last Sunday at church, our minister gave such a wonderful sermon that I had tears in my eyes and could hardly swallow for the lump in my throat. And I also felt a dull ache in the region of my heart."

"Why do I feel like that?" You high schoolers who have taken a course in physics may recall a common experiment with iron filings. Your teacher may take a sheet of ordinary paper and sprinkle iron filings thereon.

Then he may wave a magnet only an inch or two over those iron filings. What happens?

DR. CRANE

The iron filings begin to quiver and move, as if they were actually alive.

And if the magnet comes closer, they rise upward and may actually jump across the narrow gap to cling to the poles of that magnet.

Well, that is similar to what happens with human beings when the "magnets" of unselfish love and courage are waved above an audience.

INFLUENCE

For unselfishness wields a magnetic influence that permits human beings to respond to God.

"Dr. Crane," you may inquire, "why do the iron filings respond to the magnet whereas lead will remain unmoved?"

Well, they were originally created that way. Iron is thus responsive but lead is an inert metal as regards electricity.

Similarly, human beings are created to be responsive to the magnetic power of Divinity.

Wolves and cows and even our pet dogs seem unmoved by unselfishness.

They are as inert as lead. But when we see a great play like Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities" where a man voluntarily changes clothes with the rival to his sweetheart's affection, and then willingly goes to the French guillotine to make that girl happy, such courageous unselfishness makes even men's eyes brim with tears.

LIKE MAGNET
And when similar unselfishness is evidenced in a lofty, inspiring sermon, it is much as if God waved his magnet over the congregation and they began to move, just like the iron filings.

When a great modern prophet of God, such as Billy Graham or Oral Roberts, thus grips an audience with his vivid verbal imagery, the listeners not only quiver and feel moved, but many of them leap up and go forward to the altar.

This is the most remarkable psychological effect you will ever experience here on earth.

Descartes, great French scientist of the 1600s, said our bodies are created to be efficient mechanical machines. But God also implanted a few divine ideas or sparks in our brain, which permit us to respond to that magnetic influence of deity, as illustrated by unselfishness and love.

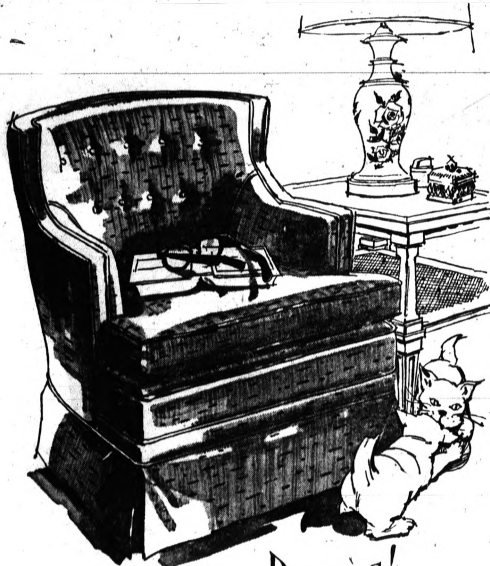

So Rita just felt the pull of God when her heart ached and a lump came in her throat!

Always write 16 Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long a cent stamped, self-addressed envelope and 30 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for the psychological charts and pamphlets.

What's Reason for It?

Overcome Loneliness

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
There are so many lonely people in the world! I know because the half million letters which come to me from readers each year indicate this. Some people are lonely because they do not have any family or at least any family near them, and some because they do not have friends.

Actually, it is possible to be lonely even when in the midst of a family or in a crowded room. This is not so apt to happen but when it does I imagine it is the worst sort of loneliness.

I have often thought that if all the lonely people could get together at a national meeting it would probably be the largest gathering in the history of the world!

If you are lonely, try to discover the reason for it. Is it because you are shy or self-conscious and therefore give the false impression of being aloof or conceited? Is it because you honestly do not like people and they feel it?

Perhaps you have allowed your personal problems to take so much of your time that you have lost friends, or you have been careless about returning hospitality because of fatigue?

WARMTH COUNTS

Have you failed to return courtesies extended to you because you do not have the help or as much money or as much china and silver or as elaborate a home as the other person does? Don't make this mistake! It is the warmth of the welcome and the fun of the hospitality which counts.

Don't try to entertain on another person's level but entertain graciously on your own.

Are you lonely because you are lazy about making the first gesture toward friendship? Do you ALWAYS wait for the other person to take the first step? Don't be afraid to show your natural friendliness and liking for others.

Loneliness may result if you get careless about returning hospitality because of fatigue.

AND, if you are self-conscious because of poor grooming, overweight or some defect in looks, overcome your problem. There is an answer for practically every single one.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Menus for Career Girls," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 46 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

The Liberty Bell once was its permanent home in Philadelphia, shipped about the country for the country's Independence Hall for exhibition purposes. It was given 1917.

Old World Recipes Used in Pontiac

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

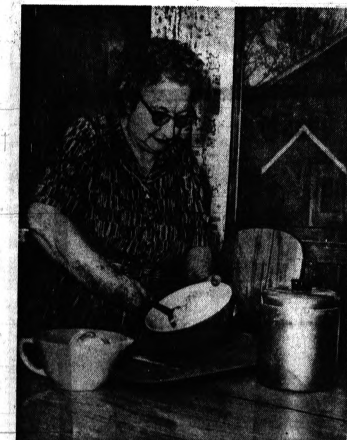

If one looks around the city of Pontiac, she will find that there are women who use traditional old-world recipes for some of their holiday cooking. These treasured recipes are passed on from mother to daughter.

Mrs. Robert Landry told us last spring about the little pork pies or Toutcaires she always makes for Christmas feasts. We held that recipe until now so that we could use it with a picture and present it to you in time for Christmas.

These little meat pies may be eaten hot or cold. Wouldn't you say they had a sort of a cousinly relationship with pasties?

TOUTCAIRES

TRADITIONAL — Mrs. John P. Whelan of Maryborough, Queensland, Australia, mixes a batch of Scotch shortbreads, the famous cookie of her native country. Mrs. Whelan and her husband have been with their daughter's family, the Cecil Crews, of Opdyke Road since last spring. They are looking forward to a Christmas that combines the traditions of America, Australia and Scotland.

Stollen a Rich Bread

Baking for the holidays can be an all day project even with good organization and with all hands on deck. And, it's easy to "lose yourself in the dough" and forget about the family's supper appetites.

When you keep a supply of beef burgers in the freezer, the baking day supper can be less than 5 minutes away. Beef burger patties, with the two most trusted words in meat, are available individually packaged to protect flavor and juiciness.

They can be pan-fried in a skillet from the frozen state, allowing 1 to 2 minutes on each side. A packaged vegetable from the freezer and crisp carrot and celery sticks will round out the baking day supper.

Then it's time to sample some of the freshly baked goods, for dessert. A traditional holiday stollen, loaded with candied fruit and chopped apricots, was first baked in a loaf shape to be reminiscent of the Christ Child wrapped in His swaddling clothes.

Holiday Stollen

- 1 cup shortening
- 2 packages dry yeast
- 1/2 cup lukewarm water (110-115 degrees F.)
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 cup sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 3 eggs, well beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 6 to 7 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 cup diced candied citron
- 1/4 cup diced candied green pine-apple
- 1/2 cup sliced dried apricots
- 1/2 cup chopped blanched almonds
- 2 tablespoons melted shortening
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Frosting

- 1 cup powdered sugar, sifted
 - 2 tablespoons orange juice
 - 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
- Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. Allow mixture to stand 5 to 10 minutes. Scald milk in a 3-quart saucepan. Remove from heat. Add shortening, sugar, and salt, stirring until well-blended. Cool to lukewarm and stir in yeast mixture.

Add 1 cup of flour, nutmeg, and allspice, and beat well. Stir in eggs

Serve hot or cold with the main dish of the meal.

Mrs. John P. Whelan of Queensland, Australia and her husband have been visiting their daughter's family since May.

The daughter, Mrs. Cecil Crews, met her husband during the war and married him in her Australian homeland. This is the first visit from her parents and she has enjoyed showing them her adopted country.

We met Mrs. Whelan at a church group meeting several weeks ago. Although she spoke for some time about life in the down-under continent, she was enthusiastic about her experiences here.

When we talked with her again this week, she was delighted with our snowy weather. It is the first time she has seen snow since she was a child in Scotland.

One of the Scottish traditions

Mrs. Whelan carries on in Australia is the making of shortbread at Christmas time. She has made it this year in an American kitchen.

Here is her recipe:

Horseradish Peps Up Beets

Do you need a change in flavor to compliment the rich but bland tasting food on your holiday menu? Try this salad for a deep red color and piquant flavor.

Nippy Celery and Beet Salad

- 1 3-ounce package lemon gelatin
- 1 cup beet juice
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 1/2 tablespoons horseradish
- 3 tablespoons wine vinegar
- 1 teaspoon grated onion
- 1/2 teaspoon finely chopped garlic
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup crisp diced celery
- 1 1/2 cups cooked shoestring style beets

Dissolve gelatin in one cup of boiling beet juice. Add remaining ingredients except celery and beets. Note: strength of horseradish and family preference varies. Taste the liquid before chilling for flavor.

Chill till partially set. Fold in vegetables. Pour into a large mold or make individual salads. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with iceberg lettuce or endive. Avocado dressing in center of mold or topping individual servings will compliment flavor and color. Makes 6 servings.

Start With Cream Sauce

Basic cream sauces can be seasoned in various ways to add zest to vegetables, meat or fish. For a tasty contrast add a little dry mustard to the sauce and serve it over cooked cauliflower. Capers, finely chopped pickles or hard cooked eggs added to a cream sauce makes a fine flavor contrast with fish.

STOLLEN — Nothing is more welcome than a gift of home-baked colorful stollen bread. Here your freezer section plays a time-saving role. Bake now and store in the freezer until the gift-giving time draws near. Then, simply pack up the goodies and wrap them gaily for a personalized gift.

Whipped Milk Tops Punch

Serve a delicious, tangy punch to your tree - trimming party guests — it's a perfect pick-up for weary workers, and tastes so refreshingly good! The fluffy whipped topping is made with nutritious instant nonfat dry milk crystals which contain all the calcium, B vitamins, phosphorus and protein of whole milk. They contain 2-3 less calories than whipped cream.

Holiday Piquant Punch

- 1 can (12 ounces) pear nectar
- 3 cups orange juice
- 1/4 cup lemon juice

- 1 quart carbonated lemon - lime soda
- Green food coloring
- 2 1/2 cups whipped instant nonfat dry milk crystals
- Maraschino cherries, halved

Mix pear nectar, orange juice and lemon juice in punch bowl. Just before serving add soda and enough food coloring to give punch a lime green color. Top punch with mounds of whipped instant crystals and garnish with cherries. Makes 8 servings.

To whip instant nonfat dry milk crystals:
1. Mix 1/2 cup instant nonfat dry

- milk crystals with 1/2 cup ice water in bowl.
- 2. Whip soft peaks form (3-4 minutes). Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice.
- 3. Continue whipping until stiff peaks form (3-4 minutes longer).
- 4. Gradually add 1/2 cup sugar and 1/4 cup chopped maraschino cherries, drained.

Don't Hide It

If you adhere to the custom of wrapping a napkin around the bottle of champagne when opening, courtesy demands that you remove it after the cork has been popped, as your guests have a right to see what they are drinking.

Turnovers Served Warm Are Best

Here is a tart treat your family is sure to enjoy—apple turnovers. The flaky, golden crust encloses apple slices spiced with cinnamon, a dessert which can make a feast of even the simplest meal.

The tender flakiness of the crust of these turnovers is part of their goodness, and the expert cook insures this by using lard as the shortening ingredient. Lard is easy to use even when just taken from the refrigerator. Pastry made with lard browns to a golden hue.

Pastry for the turnovers is prepared as for a pie crust. Mix 2 cups sifted enriched flour and 1 teaspoon salt. Cut 2-3 cup lard into the flour until the crumbs are about the size of small peas.

Add 5 to 6 tablespoons of cold water, a little at a time, mixing quickly with a fork until the dough just holds in a ball. The cook who has a light touch in making pastry takes care to mix the flour and lard quickly, using a small amount of water.

To make the turnovers, roll the dough to 1/8 inch thickness and cut into 6-inch squares.

To make the filling, peel and slice 6 medium apples and combine with 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/4 cup sugar. Place 3/4 cup apple mixture in the center of each square of pastry and dot apple with 1/4 teaspoon butter or margarine for each square.

Fold the corners of the pastry to the center, moisten corners and pinch together so that the apple slices are covered.

Place the turnovers on a greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 35 to 40 minutes or until nicely browned.

For a smooth, delicious lemon sauce to serve over the turnovers, mix together 1 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons cornstarch. Add 2 cups boiling water and 3 tablespoons butter or margarine. Mix thoroughly.

Boil for one minute stirring constantly. Remove from the heat. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice and stir well.

Simple Fruit-Cream Pudding for Holidays

Canned fruits, always a favorite, are dressed in festive finery for a holiday dessert.

To make delicious Angel Pudding, whip 1 pint heavy cream with 2 egg yolks and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Fold in one small can (8 ounces) each of the following fruits: pineapple chunks, peach slices, Bing cherries, and apricot halves, or any combination of four canned fruits. Turn the mixture into a serving bowl and top with 1/2 cup chopped nuts and grated chocolate. 8 servings.

New Corn Bread Stuffing Is Versatile

Packaged herb-seasoned stuffing proved to be so popular that one national bread company has introduced another variety—Corn Bread Stuffing. This type of stuffing long has been known and favored in certain regions of our country. Now in its packaged form it can be enjoyed by all.

The eight ounce package, which contains 3 cups of stuffing is ideal for stuffing the holiday turkey or chicken.

Large Stuffed Onions. Sliced, fresh mushrooms, sautéed in butter and added to packaged corn bread stuffing with melted butter and water, in accordance with package directions, makes an unusual and delicious stuffing for large, sweet onions. Goes well with Baked Shoulder Lamb Chops, Rice Pilaf, Citrus Salad and Caramel Custard. Coffee, of course.

Baked Green Peppers.

Sliced, cooked sausage and a small amount of cream style corn added to corn bread stuffing, which has been prepared according to package directions, makes a marvelous stuffing for green peppers. Serve with a crisp Cole Slaw Salad, Poppy Seed Rolls and warm Upside Down Pineapple Cake topped with Whipped Cream.

Corn Casserole. Packaged corn bread stuffing spread in a shallow, buttered casserole then topped with delicious, lump crab meat. Pour over this condensed cheddar cheese soup diluted with 1/4 cup of beer, if desired. Delicious with Buttered Broccoli, Tomato Aspic, Salad, Golden Twist Rolls and Lemon Fluff Pudding.

LEMON CHRISTMAS COOKIES — The little holiday cutouts are made from a cookie dough fragrant with lemon peel and juice. Under the snow coconut, those balls of cake also have a citrus flavor. Arrange on a plate for your tea table with wedges of lemon and orange and some California pralines.

Citrus Fruits Flavors Holiday Treats

Welcome holiday callers with a hospitality tray of goodies. There'll be something to please all with juicy bite-size pieces of California oranges and specialties from your kitchen.

California Pralines, Lemon Thin Christmas Cookies, and Coconut Cake Puffs all have the distinctive flavor and bright tartness of fresh citrus peel or juice.

California Pralines

1/2 cup sugar
3/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons white corn syrup
1-3 cup evaporated milk
Pinch salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons grated orange peel
2 cups pecan halves

Mix sugar, brown sugar, corn syrup, evaporated milk, salt and 1/2 teaspoon butter in saucepan. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer, stirring, 2 to 3 minutes to 235 degrees on candy thermometer or until a little of the mixture in cold water forms a soft ball. Remove from heat; blend in remaining butter.

Place pan in cold water until bottom of pan feels cool, about 10 minutes. Add vanilla and beat for 5 minutes. When mixture is creamy, stir in orange peel and 1-2 cups of nuts.

Drop by tablespoonfuls on waxed paper. Decorate with remaining pecan halves. Makes 16 to 20 pralines, about 1 1/4 pounds.

Lemon Thin Christmas Cookies
4 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt

1 cup butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
Citrus Glaze
Colored sugar

Sift flour and salt. Combine sugar and butter, creaming until light and fluffy. Stir in beaten eggs, lemon peel and lemon juice. Blend in flour mixture. Chill dough until easy to handle.

On lightly floured surface, roll half or third of dough at a time, keeping rest in refrigerator. Roll dough to 1-16 inch thickness and cut into desired shapes with floured cutter. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet at 400 degrees, 8 to 10 minutes, or until delicate brown. Cool.

Soy Sauce Marinade Flavors These Kebabs

The Japanese kebab is called yakimiso. It is a miniature of the traditional shish kebab of Mediterranean countries. Small pieces of duck, chicken, beef or fish may be used. The marinade is soy sauce with a little sherry wine added to it.

Alternate pearl onions, olives, bits of pimiento or green pepper with the pieces of meat. Soak skewers in water before stringing food on them. This prevents charring during cooking. Broil the yakimiso about five minutes on each side.

What is an authentic American dinner? Is it one representing regional dishes from the Deep South, New England, or perhaps, the Far West?

The Headquarters Restaurant in New York City — which probably caters to more foreign visitors than any other restaurant in America — would like to introduce such a dinner. It therefore is inaugurating a nationwide contest featuring recipes for the various elements of a dinner: Appetizer, Soup, Entree, Salad, Dessert. An eminent committee of judges will select the winners in each division.

The winners and their sponsors will, as guests of honor, attend the "All-American Dinner Night" at the Headquarters Restaurant when the dinner will be introduced with suitable ceremonies. Details of the contest — prizes, judges, rules, etc. are listed below.

1. Entrants to submit a recipe reflecting the regional dishes of her section of the country for any of the following: appetizer, soup — entree — salad — dessert.

108 West 49th Street, New York 19, New York.
3. Five winners to be selected — one for each division — by a committee of judges consisting of: Alvin Kerr — Gourmet Magazine; Robert W. Dana — Dining Out Editor; N. Y. World-Telegram and Sun; Mrs. Vadna Dible — Food and Restaurant Editor — Cue Magazine; John Schwarz — Headquarters Host, former Mess Sgt. at Headquarters of General Dwight D. Eisenhower during World War II.
4. Prizes: Each winner — accompanied by her sponsor — will be the guest of the Headquarters for five days in New York with all expenses paid, including transportation, hotel accommodations, meals, and an interesting planned program in town including a visit to a hit Broadway show, Radio City Music Hall, the International Theatre-Restaurant, sightseeing via Gray Line.

5. Contest closes December 31, 1962.

French Pin Top Medal on Norstad

PARIS (UPI)—U. S. Air Force Gen. Lauris Norstad received the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor, the highest award France can bestow on a foreigner, in ceremonies today anticipating his retirement Jan. 2 as supreme allied commander in Europe.

President Charles de Gaulle affixed the red sash of the order to Norstad's uniform in the courtyard of the Hotel des Invalides, where Napoleon is buried, while Premier Georges Pompidou and high-ranking military officers of several nations looked on.

"General Norstad, we raise you to the dignity of the Grand Cross," de Gaulle said in French. He kissed Norstad on both cheeks in the French manner and then shook his hand.

Norstad's office announced the date of his retirement yesterday. He originally was to have given up the supreme command Nov. 1, but he stayed on to the end of the year because of the Cuban crisis.

U. S. Army Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer will succeed Norstad as allied commander.

Backs Up to Unwind Car After Too Much Mileage

DICKINSON, N.D. (UPI)—Police chief Matt Zabel said a patrolman was more surprised than irritated when he saw a 15-year-old girl back up her car on a state highway, stop for a red light and continue backing up.

Zabel said the girl told the officer she had put too many miles on the car and was trying to take them off before returning it to her parents.

Beer Drinker Finds

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Patrick Brady, 25, a 47-a-week laborer, was denied free legal aid to defend himself against an assault case when he argued: "Nine pounds, seven shillings ($26.20) is my beer money every week — so I can't save anything, can I?"

India Steel Production

Up Because of Invasion

NEW DELHI (AP)—India's steel production programs are being stepped up to meet the demands of the emergency caused by the Communist Chinese invasion, Chidambaram Subramaniam, minister of steel and heavy industries, told a news conference yesterday.

He said India will begin producing four million tons of saleable steel in March.

Pumping mechanisms to fight fires were used in Egypt in the Second Century B.C.

Second Love Is Entertainment

JFK Imitator's Real Ambition Was to Be a Politician

NEW YORK (NEA) — Where can a man go after he's been president of the United States?

That is the problem confronting Vaughn Meader, whose impersonation of President Kennedy has kicked "The First Family" up the ladder of best-selling record albums.

And even if the President thinks Meader sounds more like his brother Ted, his televised news conference comment about the record is likely to push sales even higher.

Meader, who's been impersonating Mr. Kennedy for a year in his regular act, is careful to point out that he is not basically an impressionist but a comedian.

It is just that he looks something like the President, a coincidence he encourages with a floppy collar and can arrange his vocal cords so he sounds like him, too.

BIG NAME

Since "The First Family" came out, however, Meader has become so closely identified with the impersonation that it could be a struggle to fight free.

He thinks it won't be too hard, mainly because he has suddenly become a big name.

"Before the record," he says, "if I was booked on Ed Sullivan's show and Ed said, 'Do the Kennedy bit,' I'd do it. But now if the same thing happened, I could say no. If Sullivan didn't want me I'd go to another show."

Fortunately, Meader has other strings to his bow. The public has not yet met Vaughn Meader, the big-voiced baritone, or Vaughn Meader, the country singer.

"I'm going to be on Jack Paar's show on Dec. 21," he says, "and I'm going to sing. I've been trying to find the right song, and I think I've found it in this."

He pointed to a copy of the sheet music of "I Believe." Meader is not about his singing ability.

"I have a good voice," he says, "but a lazy one. I think that if I had had the proper training I could have made the Met."

As a child, he had some vocal

VAUGHN MEADER — When you've got it, you don't need it.

training and some piano training, too. But what he really wanted to do was to get into law and politics, a field which still fascinates him.

This dream was impossible financially so he fell back on his second love, entertaining.

It was as a pianist-singer, specializing in country and western songs, that he made his professional debut. Born in Waterville, Maine, he grew up in Boston and started his career there.

Gradually as he worked he played less piano and added more comedy. Eventually he abandoned the piano and became a straight stand-up comic, specializing in topical matters.

"Some people," — he forgets exactly who — suggested that he do an impression of President Kennedy, because of the physical resemblance and similar natural speech patterns. He let his hair grow in front and dove in.

Meader now makes as much in one week as he did all last year. He put on 20 pounds (which he is now attempting to lose in a crash diet to qualify for a movie role).

He bought new clothes and so did his wife. He has the comfortable feeling of no longer having to worry about money.

"I just bought this," he said, pulling out an empty case for credit cards. "I'm getting all the credit cards, but the funny thing is that now I don't need them any more."

I'll go into a place and they recognize me and dinner is on the house. It's odd, isn't it — when you've got it, you don't need it."

Truck Driver Taken on Ride by His Cargo

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — Jack Roloff, a truck driver hauling bulk milk tanks, was taken on a ride today by his cargo.

When he suddenly stopped his truck, two big tanks slid into the cab and burst, washing him off the seat and out the door on a crest of hundreds of gallons of milk.

Mikita's Goal Puts Hawks in 1st Place

AP Photofax

ATTEMPT FAILS — Chicago goalie Glenn Hall (1) comes out of the net to block a scoring attempt by Don McKenney of the Boston Bruins in the first period of their game in Chicago last night.

McKenney spilled him into the air on the shot. It failed and so did the Bruins as Chicago won, 3-2, to go back into first place in the NHL.

Double Feat Accomplished With Tally

Stan in NHL Lead After 3-2 Victory Over Bruins

By The Associated Press
Stan Mikita butted in on a private goal-trading battle and with one swipe of his stick took over the National Hockey League scoring lead and sent the Chicago Black Hawks into undisputed first place.

Mikita managed the double feat Wednesday night against the Boston Bruins. His goal with 2 minutes, 40 seconds left gave the Black Hawks a 3-2 victory in the only NHL game scheduled.

Before Mikita's goal, Johnny Bucyk had pured through two goals for the Bruins and Murray Balfour had two for the Black Hawks.

Balfour sent the Hawks in front late in the first period when he converted a pass from behind the net by Bobby Hull. Bucyk tied the score early in the second period.

Balfour came back five minutes later to get his second goal, and Bucyk matched him in the third period on a post pass from behind the net by Murray Oliver, who had taken the puck away from Hull.

Then came Mikita's goal, which gave him 12 for the year. He has 18 assists for 30 points, one more than Gordie Howe of Detroit and Andy Bathgate of New York.

The win gave the Hawks sole possession of first place by two points over Detroit.

City Rec Cagers Post 5 Victories

In Pontiac Parks and Recreation action last night Neopolitan and the Spartans scored decisions over the Chiefs and Victor Paint, 64-22, and 49-41.

Three big first quarters put Neopolitan ahead entering the final period 46-19 and Earl Thompson clinched the affair hitting for three markers. Thompson was high man for the winners with 17.

Victor Paint had a five point deficit at the half, 25-20 but could not check the Spartans in the final two quarters.

Gerry Bunce was high with 21 for the Spartans and Robert Whitmore of Victor Paint had 15 and 13.

In other action the Bachelors Club lost a decision to South West Community Club, 68-61, McDonald's Drive-In defeated the Pontiac Police 58-39 and Westside Recreation dropped Colonial Lumber 51-43.

Haynes Key Figure in AFL Showdown

HOUSTON (AP)—Pop Ivy, coach of the Houston Oilers, respects the talents of Len Dawson and Curtis McCClinton of the Dallas Texans but says Abner Haynes is the man who can kill the Oilers' hopes for a third straight American Football League championship.

The Oilers and Texans place their identical 11-3 season records against each other Sunday in the AFL's showdown battle.

"Haynes is dangerous anytime he gets his hands on the ball," Ivy said today. "You have to do more than get a hand on him to get him down. You rarely see anyone get a good solid lick at him. He's always twisting and squirming."

Haynes was runnerup to Buffalo's Cookie Gilchrist as the AFL's leading ground gainer this season with 1,049 yards in 221 carries.

This gave him a three-year total of 2,785 yards. He won the rushing title as a rookie in 1960 with 875 yards but dropped to third place last season behind Houston's Billy Cannon and New York's Bill Mathis with 841 yards.

"McCClinton can run over you but Haynes is the most dangerous on any play," Ivy said.

McCClinton took over the injured Jack Spikes in mid-October and his running made the former Kansas speedster the league's Rookie-of-the-Year. Despite his late start, McCClinton was the league's fifth leading rusher with 604 yards in 111 plays.

Ivy had high praise for the balanced Dallas attack that features such runners and Dawson's ability on passes. Dawson replaced Houston's George Blanda as the AFL's top passer, completing 189 of 310 attempts for 2,759 yards and 29 touchdowns. His 609 percentage on completions was a league record.

"Dawson has a real strong running game he can rely on," Ivy said. "This helps his percentage and makes for tough defense. If you concentrate on Dawson, you'll get in trouble with Haynes or McCClinton. If you tighten up for the runners, there's Dawson. Your defense is in constant trouble."

Fog-Bound Houston Awaits Bowl Teams

HOUSTON (AP)—Missouri and Georgia Tech, weather permitting, were to fly to Houston today for Saturday's Bluebonnet bowl game.

A dense fog that has plagued Houston the past four days prevented Missouri from arriving Wednesday night. Coach Dan Devine decided not to risk the flight and held his team in Kansas City overnight.

Bluebonnet officials, brass bands, and alumni delegations were to greet the teams at the International Airport.

The weather forecast indicated the fog would lift sufficiently by mid-morning to remove any threat to the charter flights from Kansas City and Atlanta.

Devine and coach Bobby Dodd of Tech planned afternoon workouts at a practice field near the 70,000-seat Rice University Stadium. Missouri, making its initial appearance in Houston, was to start its drill at 2 p.m. with Tech following about an hour later.

A crowd of about 60,000 is expected for the football game that will be televised nationally except in the Houston area.

George Tech received a jolt Wednesday when Jeff Davis, the No. 2 left halfback, injured a knee in a pass defense drill in the final Atlanta workout.

Dodd said Davis definitely will miss the Missouri game. Gerry Russell moved into Davis' spot.

Dodd repeated earlier predictions of a close ball game with the winning margin possibly being only a field goal or one touchdown.

"We respect Missouri as one of the best defensive teams but we have done well ourselves defensively," he said.

Missouri, with a 7-1-2 Big Eight Conference season, limited its opponents to an average of 181.1 yards per game, an average that gave the Engineers the No. 19 spot among the nation's ranking defensive teams.

Forecaster Sees Continued Economic Progress Here

Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties will share in Michigan's continuing economic progress in 1963, Dr. Paul A. Herbert forecast today.

Dr. Herbert is research chief of the Michigan Economic Development Department.

He predicts that Michigan's economic progress in 1963 will exceed the national average and should be greater than in most states.

Although Michigan will show additional improvement next year, Dr. Herbert warns that this will not necessarily mean that Michigan has solved its employment problem or its dependency on automotive production.

"The mild recession for the United States forecast last year by some economists for the latter part of 1962 did not occur in Michigan," he said.

"Other experts held the viewpoint that a drop in business would certainly come in 1963," he added. "This also is not likely to happen in Michigan."

"Most forecasters now do not expect a dip in business in the United States until next autumn and then only a mild drop before starting up again."

SEES CUSHION

"Whatever happens nationally, after mid-1963 also will take place in Michigan. If there is a decline, it will not be as serious here as in some states that compete with Michigan."

"The last three months of 1962 will turn in such a satisfactory economic performance in Michigan that this in itself will bolster the state's economy for the remainder of the winter."

Dr. Herbert credited this year's bright economic picture in Michigan to the continuing high level of personal income in the United States and the steady, if not spectacular, confidence of the consumer in the future.

"For this reason, the market for automobiles and trucks has remained unexpectedly strong during the entire year of 1962 to 1963."

"It is too much to expect," he said, "that the 1963 model year will surpass that of 1962, but it still may well be the third best year in the history of the industry."

"The automotive industry in 1962 led the metropolitan area of Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties' out of its economic doldrums."

"Unfortunately, it is not likely that this industry will continue to make the rate of gain it made in 1962.

NEWARK, N. J. (UPI)—The female prerogative of fibbing on age has caught on in the insurance business.

The Prudential Insurance Co. announced today it will deduct three years from women's ages in calculating premiums because they "live longer than men."

the higher the economy during the first half of the year, the greater will be the slackened pace toward the end of 1963.

"Regardless of the probable fluctuation, the metropolitan area's economy for the year 1963 should be (generally) as good as it was in 1962."

"It is likely that there will then be a slight decline in economic growth in the area next fall."

"Indeed, the higher the demand for 1963 car models and therefore farm production.

GOP Rips Pamphlet Hitting Proposed Constitution

From Our News Wires

LANSING — A widely distributed pamphlet opposing Michigan's proposed new constitution yesterday was labeled "untruthful, unreasonable and in the worst possible tradition of American politics" by five former constitutional convention delegates.

The Republican delegates — headed by D. Hale Brake of Stanton — aimed their attack directly at Democratic Highway Commissioner John Mackie, who is chairman of a privately-financed group known as the Citizens' Committee to defend Michigan's Constitution.

They asserted the pamphlet is used by Mackie's group, containing a list of 11 alleged major weaknesses in the proposed new document, is loaded with false statements, half-truths, speculation and "unwarranted scare appeals to minority groups."

"In these respects," they said, "it exceeds even Mackie's previous attack on the new document which was aptly described (in an editorial) as a 'preposterous collection of claptrap.'"

Brake was joined in the statement by Paul Goebel, Grand Rapids; James Pollock, Ann Arbor; Elmer Radka, Rogers City, and Eugene Wanger, Lansing.

REFUTE PAMPHLET

They made a 19-page, point-by-point refutation of the 11 reasons cited by Mackie's pamphlet "why Michigan voters should reject the proposed new document" on April 1.

They quoted the Mackie pamphlet as telling voters "You owe it to yourself and to your state" to vote "no" on the proposed constitution, adding:

"We say that Mackie and his committee owe it to you, the citizens of Michigan, to be truthful and not misleading... based on the facts, we think the citizens of Michigan will agree at the polls that, taken as a whole, the proposed new constitution is a great improvement over the present constitution of 1908."

They said there is no foundation for Mackie's argument that the language of the new constitution "leaves the door open" for legislative action to divert highway funds or for voters to exclude members of minority groups from being elected to judgeships.

In the field of education, they pointed out, the proposed new constitution has been endorsed by the Michigan Education Association, the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Michigan Division of the American Association of University Women.

They said the backing of these groups lends little credence to Mackie's contention that the new document would weaken education.

Mackie said he had not studied the delegates' charges but his general reaction was that "it is typical and was to be expected. I only wonder why it took them so long to attack the pamphlet.

"The pamphlet has been out for several months and it is odd that they should wait until this particular time to attack its contents," the commissioner said.

"The publication was prepared after extensive consultation with a number of the con-con delegates who voted against the final proposed constitution.

"I stand behind the document as printed and will answer the delegates' specific charges when they have an opportunity to hear them and study them," he said.

Say Union Contracts Bind All Industries

ROME (AP) — Italy's Constitutional Court yesterday upheld a law that makes industrywide union contracts binding on all employers — even those who don't sign such contracts.

Several industries had challenged the law, which was enacted in 1959.

The law, entitled "Erga Omnes" (for all), provides that any employer may be fined for violating a union contract covering his industry.

It sets fines ranging from 100,000 to 500,000 lire ($160 to $260) per employee.

Most collective bargaining in Italy is conducted between industrywide employers' syndicates and industrywide unions.

U. of Toronto President to Appear at U. of M.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Dr. Claude Thomas Bissell, president of the University of Toronto, will speak at midyear graduation exercises at the University of Michigan Jan. 26, the university announced yesterday.

Some 1,664 persons are expected to be eligible to graduate, including 190 doctoral candidates and 578 with masters degrees, said Eric Walter, university secretary.

'Pep Pill' Drugs Being Smuggled to Inmates at Jackson

By DON DURST
Jackson Citizen Patriot
Staff Writer

JACKSON (AP) — Innocent-looking pills, consumed by inmates for their stimulating effects, continue to barter Southern Michigan Prison authorities.

"The problem is not serious," Warden William H. Bannan said, "just irritating."

"We are seeing more than the usual number of inmates 'buzzed up,'" the warden declared. "To us, that means someone is supplying pills with a base of benzedrine or similar stimulants."

"In the 10 years I have been here, we have caught on the average of one inmate a year providing contraband from the outside for inmates."

"We are still getting inmates who are loaded with either benzedrine or some other type of pills," the warden's October report to the Michigan Corrections Commission states.

"We have investigated, set traps, but to date have not been able to locate where these pills come from."

"We are quite sure they are being brought in by one of the employees and if we keep up our vigilance we are going to catch this particular person."

"And when we do he will be working someplace besides the State Prison of Southern Michigan."

Reaction to benzedrine differs among inmates, the warden said. "It makes some feel like Napoleon, ready to conquer the world; others want only to sleep."

An awareness of what could happen under such circumstances keeps custodial officers on the lookout for signs which give away a "hopped-up" inmate.

The moment one is spotted, he is placed in the prison's disciplinary block.

A sentence ranging from 5 to 15 days in that block is imposed against the offender. After serving that time he is placed in a segregated section for a period determined by his attitude.

"We don't nail an officer for supplying contraband unless we've got the goods on him," Warden Bannan said.

"We have suspected some, but delayed moving against them for lack of proof."

"I'm not going to fire a guard on an inmate's testimony concerning contraband."

Any prison officer caught with the goods goes before an institutional court for a hearing.

That court's trial board, composed of a deputy warden, the director of treatment and the manager of prison industries, reaches a verdict which is forwarded to the warden.

The decision can be appealed to the grievance committee set up by the Civil Service Commission.

CONSTANT ALERT

The prison's illicit pill incidents vary in size. Perhaps the largest, in recent years at least, was that in which a custodial officer admitted smuggling 1,000 contraband pills inside the prison walls.

"The pill problem, like any other in the prison, is something for which we must be on the alert at all times," Warden Bannan said.

"There's always someone on the outside as well as inside just waiting for the chance to do something."

"That's why we have a patrol car covering the camp areas at night. Some outsiders wouldn't hesitate to drop off things near the camps after dark if they thought there was a chance of its getting into the hands of an inmate friend or relative."

Hoarding of pills by ailing inmates, a habit which they picked up rapidly after tranquilizers appeared on the market, was halted abruptly by orders that pills must be swallowed in the presence of persons distributing them under doctor's orders.

And other types of medication have been prepared in liquid form to eliminate the possibility of concealment and eventual swap of pills for cigarettes, the legal tender inside the prison walls.

Constantly on the alert for those who supply potent pills for which the demand will always exceed the supply, Warden Bannan and his associates are ready to move the instant the unknown prison employee now active overplays his hand.

2 New Films Cut Out Nonsense, Offer Some Thought

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—Universal has come up with two yearend attractions which prove the studio is capable of producing something besides cream-puff comedies.

The two films are "To Kill a Mockingbird" and "Freud," and they are as different as men and they are as good as anything that the movies have had to offer this year.

Actually, neither is exactly new. They represent a return to the kind of craftsmanship that Hollywood once excelled in but was lately neglected.

"To Kill a Mockingbird" is taken almost intact from the endearing Harper Lee novel about depression-year life in a small Alabama town. Unfortunately much of the Twain-like humor had to be sacrificed in the interests of plotting. But little else has been lost.

EYES OF CHILDREN

As in the novel, the story is seen mostly through the eyes of a small girl and boy, children of a Lincolnshire lawyer who defends a Negro man accused of raping a white girl.

The attorney's daughter is played by Mary Badham, whose father is a retired Air Force general. The son is Philip Alford, son of a Birmingham, Ala., building contractor. Both youngsters are perfect.

So is Gregory Peck, playing his most credible role in years as the right-minded Atticus. The rest of the largely unknown cast fit right into the dusty streets and wooden bungalows of the Alabama hamlet, which was created (by the use of freeway-condemned houses) right on the Universal back lot.

SKILLFUL ADAPTATION

The team of director Robert Mulligan, script writer Horton Foote and producer Alan Pakula can take credit for a skillful adaptation of one of the best-loved books in recent times.

While "Mockingbird" is a throwback to a gentler kind of film story-telling, "Freud" has its roots in the biographies of men of science which Hollywood did so well in the 1930s.

Freud's search into the dark corners of the mind is an adventure itself, but strictly an intellectual one. There is little action and scant violence. But for those willing to use their minds instead of the emotions in movie-watching, it can be as fascinating an experience as the best whodunit.

"Freud" returns John Huston to his previous eminence. After a string of lackluster efforts in which he seemed to have little interest, he once again justifies his talents as a great film maker.

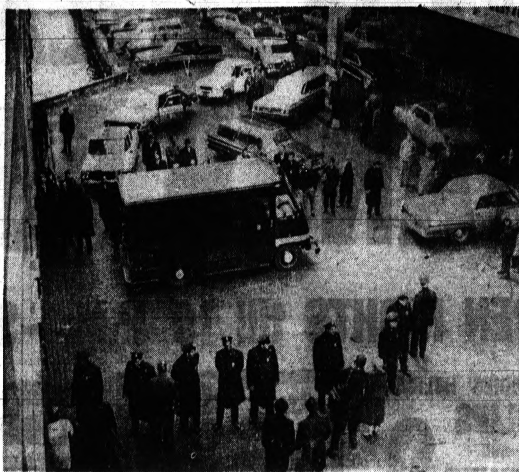

PEAKS OF TALENT

His scenes change swiftly, but the action is never jumpy. His actors perform to the peaks of their talent. He maintains the threat of Freud's quest without the confusion of subplots. And his use of fantasy in the dream and recall sequences is brilliant.

Montgomery Clift is a superlative Freud, without the affectations that have marred his recent work. Susannah York has an amazing range as the psychotic with whom he makes his historic discovery. It's good to see Larry Parks back in a long and important role, which he makes consistently interesting.

"Mockingbird" and "Freud" may not earn the bundle that a Doris Day-Rock Hudson confection would. But they are worthy the liner France. Painting was brought to U.S. from Paris under special guard as a loan from the Louvre. It is known as the most precious single work of art.

Celebrated Gal Mona Lisa Visiting Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON (AP)—In The French know, for example, that Jacqueline Kennedy has an insatiable yearning for art.

But specifically, the journey is the result of a romance-across-the-centuries—a platonic affair between Edward T. Follard, White House reporter for the Washington Post, and the Mona Lisa.

For 30 years Follard, now 63, dreamed that the Mona Lisa might make the trip. Last May, at a luncheon of the Overseas Writers Club, he broached the subject to Andre Malraux, French minister of cultural affairs. Malraux said maybe something could be done.

So Follard's boss sent him to France, with the order: "Don't come back without Lisa."

PO Men Told to Dry Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—A crack-down has been ordered on drinking in the Washington Post Office. Officials said on-the-job drinking has become so widespread that mail operations have been disrupted.

On Dec. 1 and 2, Postmaster O. G. Beall said, 400 empty liquor bottles were found in the main post office.

Coach Line Reveals Grand Rapids Plans

GRAND RAPIDS (U)—Grand Rapids City Coach Lines, Inc., yesterday filed with the Michigan Public Service Commission an outline of service it proposes in place of departing Grandville-Wyoming Transit Co.

The 12-bus suburban firm earlier announced it was abandoning its routes Dec. 31 because of declining patronage and revenues.

Ira W. Jackson, City Coach Lines general manager, said his firm's service generally would continue that of the departing company which had not offered Sunday, holiday or evening runs. (has been named to fill the post.

As a result, orders have been issued barring alcoholic beverages from the premises, on penalty of suspension or even firing the employee involved.

A. E. Newton, postal regional director for the Washington area, said drinking on the job by postal workers has increased greatly since a postal pay raise, Oct. 13.

Deaf Tot Learning to Speak

Child Saved From Life of Silence

HAHBURG, Pa. (UP) — Yvonne Dunkle has spent all of her 18 months of life in silence.

And until recently, it appeared she was destined to grow up not only deaf, but not ever learning to speak.

But today all this is changed.

Yvonne can hear. And, doctors say, she will learn to talk normally.

It all began about six months

The practical and the beloved combine for a gift to please any child. Acrylic fiber make both the gloves that keep her hands warm and the bear she hugs cuddly soft and machine washable — a joy for mom as well.

ago when Yvonne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dunkle, noticed that their daughter didn't respond to sounds.

TO UNIVERSITY

Their family doctor told them that it was difficult to establish hearing levels in a very young child and next to impossible to fit a child that young with a hearing aid.

But the Dunkles went to Temple University Medical Center in Philadelphia where they talked with Dr. Bernard J. Ronis, a member of the Pennsylvania Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology.

Dr. Ronis tested Yvonne's hearing by placing her in a soundproof booth having controlled volumes of sound. A new electronic instrument measured her hearing ability accurately and enabled the doctor to find her range of hearing without having to ask her to tell him the tones she could hear.

Dr. Ronis prescribed a hearing aid and Yvonne was outfitted with a Y-cord six-transistor aid. Yvonne can now hear.

"She will soon be able to recognize and understand words and will begin to talk at an age when her playmates are also learning speech," Dr. Ronis said. "Without the hearing aid the chances are she would have become a deaf-mute."

Yvonne is going to be enrolled in a nursery school soon, and when she is about 4 years old she will undergo more tests to determine the extent of her hearing and see how much speech she has developed.

YOUNGEST YET?

At that time, Dr. Ronis said, she could be enrolled in a special school for the partially deaf.

The doctor said he thinks that Yvonne is one of the youngest children ever fitted with a high-powered hearing aid.

Propaganda Techniques Can Offer Boomerang

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI) — Using guilt and fear as mass communications techniques to frighten people into accepting a product or an idea can often boomerang, a University of Rochester psychologist asserts.

"If the communicator is intent on producing guilt feelings in his audience," says Dr. Vincent Nowlis, "he should be aware that guilt and depression reduce self esteem and lower the capacity to think clearly."

Jury Awards $1 Million for Renewal Property

By DICK SAUNDERS

A jury of 11 women and one man yesterday upheld the city's claim of necessity to purchase contested properties in Pontiac's first urban renewal project.

At 4:11 p. m., the verdict was handed to Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer.

For four minutes and 35 seconds he silently examined the roll. Then he read the verdict which brought to a close the longest judicial proceeding in Oakland County history.

Three major decisions were included in the verdict.

1 — The jury ruled that there was a necessity for the over-all R20 urban renewal project as a public improvement.

2 — The jury ruled that a necessity existed for the city to buy all properties involved in the urban renewal condemnation case.

3 — The jury awarded a total of $1,000,000 to owners for property under condemnation.

The verdict was received with mixed emotions by city and urban renewal officials.

They were elated over the ruling on necessity and largely non-committal over the total award.

UNDER AND OVER

The award was $250,567.50 under what property owners had requested for their land and $297,902.50 more than what the city asked.

Some 250 property owners had asked a total of $1,336,384 for some 73 parcels in the condemnation proceedings.

Total of the city's top price offers was $787,814.

City Manager Robert A. Stierer and Urban Renewal Director James R. Bates echoed Dudley's words.

CAN MOVE AHEAD

"We should now be able to proceed toward completion of the project," Stierer said. "We're very pleased with the necessity ruling."

"As for the awards, we'll have to revise our land acquisition budget and request additional urban renewal funds from the federal government to cover the difference."

Stierer said he wouldn't know how much more money would be requested until witness, jury, attorney and other miscellaneous fees were compiled and included in the award total.

There was no indication following the verdict if the decision would be appealed to the Michigan Supreme Court by any attorney.

Pontiac attorney Milton Cooney, representing 13 property owners, had previously indicated he would appeal if the jury decision favored necessity of the urban renewal project.

There were originally more than 300 parcels in the project marked for purchase and clearance.

Owners of those in the condemnation.

Problems Hold Little Summit Pair Third Day

JFK and Mac Getting Closer in Dispute Over Skybolt Missile

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—An overload of nuclear strategy problems centering about the British-American wrangle over the Skybolt missile has forced President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to extend their little summit meeting for an additional day.

The two leaders were reported to have "some prospect of a compromise which will satisfy both sides" in the missile dispute.

Their spokesmen said there definitely was no deadlock. But the spokesmen said the original two-day conference timetable had not proved sufficient for discussion of the Skybolt controversy, problems revolving about it and the whole spectrum of cold war issues.

Kennedy and Macmillan added morning and afternoon sessions Friday to their schedule. The President planned to leave about 5 p.m. Friday for Palm Beach. White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said a communique will be issued after the final session.

NATO, ALSO

The reason for prolonging the conference, Salinger said, was "not just the Skybolt, but it is all of the NATO defense matters as well."

"There is no question that we are making good progress," Salinger said. "The agenda was just too great to be handled in two days."

Still to be discussed were such

Convict Pontiac Trio in Vasiliou's Murder

Three Pontiac men were convicted yesterday of first-degree murder for the July 30 slaying of Pontiac market owner Efthimios Vasiliou.

Joseph Page, 26, of 249 Orchard Lake Ave., Benny L. Spells, 23, and R. G. Stroman, 29, both of 235 S. Anderson St., alleged members of the "stealing bandit" holdup gang—were found guilty by a Circuit Court jury of eight women and four men.

The verdict came after two hours and 20 minutes of deliberation following a four-day trial before Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams.

Judge Adams will sentence the three Jan. 7.

STROMAN ADMITTED

Stroman drove the two to the Boulevard Market, 309 Orchard Lake Ave., and waited outside, according to the statements, which were admitted in evidence over the objections of defense attorneys.

Attorneys John O'Connell of Detroit and Donald A. Brown maintained the statements were obtained under duress because police questioned Page and Spells for 19 hours before they signed them.

Stroman took the witness stand to insist that he had no part in the crime, claiming he was framed by Rufus Wilson Jr., 29, of 44 Madison St., because of an old grudge over a money dispute.

Wilson is awaiting sentence for the Aug. 13 holdup of the Keg Kanteen, 84 Auburn Ave.

IMPLICATED OTHERS

Page, Spells and Stroman were arrested Aug. 13 after Wilson

Stroman claimed he let Page

Not Enough Pontiacs Our Car's Too Popular

Pontiac Motor Division has a "delightful headache" today.

It can't build enough cars to keep up with public demand.

This is in spite of the fact that Pontiac is breaking production records while leading the industry's No. 3 sales slot again this year.

Pontiac reached third position in 1961 for the first time in its 39-year history.

This year Pontiac has increased its share of the U.S. market to 7.5 per cent. Last year it captured 6.4 per cent of automotive sales in the country.

Sweeping gains by Pontiac in market penetration in every geographical area are reported in the latest issue of Ward's Automotive Reports, which refers to the Pontiac (including Tempests) as "the hottest car in 1962."

Pontiac's share of the northern half of the midwest market this year amounts to 8.8 per cent. Outside of this "home" area, sales are highest in mid-Atlantic states, claiming 7.7 per cent of the market, compared with 6.3' last year.

In all geographical areas of the country, Pontiac's market percentages are up considerably over last year, according to Ward's Reports.

TERROR HOUSE — This is the home of Wesley Husted, a bus driver for Novi Community Schools, whose daughter Shirley was killed last night by an intruder. Husted himself is in serious condition from injuries he suffered when he tried to fight off James G. Gostlin, 20, of Dearborn.

U.S. Plays Big Part in Cuba Negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration is playing a passive role onstage in the negotiations for the release of 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners, but it is moving with full force behind the scenes.

The involvement of the U.S. government in the negotiations can be demonstrated by any close check of the statements and activities of negotiators and government officials since negotiations began shortly after the abortive invasion of Cuba in April 1961.

Reports from Havana indicate the negotiators may be very close to securing the release of the Cubans captured in the U.S.-directed invasion.

Fidel Castro, in exchange for $53-million worth of food, drugs and equipment, may send the men back to the United States before Christmas.

President Kennedy has tried to disassociate himself from the negotiating committee's efforts. "This is being done by the private committee," he said at his Dec. 12 news conference. "And I am very sympathetic to their efforts."

But the committee, to stage the kind of operation the exchange involves, would need more than sympathy from the President.

The American Red Cross has reported that railroads, airlines and trucking firms are working round-the-clock to push the thousands of pounds of food and medicine into Florida for quick shipment to Cuba in case the deal is completed.

There have been reports that the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, is directing the government operation in support of the committee and its chief negotiator, lawyer James B. Donovan.

In New York, business sources said that Atty. Gen. Kennedy had made the requests for some of the food and drugs being readied for shipment to Cuba.

These sources said Kennedy described himself as acting as a private person, rather than as an administration official.

Kennedy told the sources, they said, that the operation had the full support of the President but there were legal objections to his direct participation.

Meanwhile the American Red Cross is rushing food and medical supplies into Florida to be used as ransom.

The Red Cross, directing the supply build-up, was awaiting word from Donovan on the results of his negotiations in Havana.

The Red Cross said Pan American World Airways had arranged to fly the more urgently needed supplies to Cuba and return with plane loads of prisoners if Donovan and Castro reached agreement.

It is reported Michigan pharmaceutical firms have donated more than a million dollars worth of drugs as part of the ransom.

Upjohn reported yesterday it had flown $250,000 worth of drugs to Miami and was prepared to donate $1.5 million in pharmaceuticals if need demanded.

Others found guilty in his court of driving under the influence of liquor also will be sent to jail, the judge said.

Taylor had appealed a Pontiac Municipal Court conviction but pleaded guilty before Judge Beer.

JAMES G. GOSTLIN

Hoffa's T-H Trial to End Today

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The government and defense wind up their closing arguments today in the James R. Hoffa conspiracy trial.

The U.S. District Court jury of seven men and five women is expected to start deliberations after receiving final instructions from the judge, probably Friday morning. The trial began Oct. 22.

Attorneys began their summations Wednesday, the government using 2 hours and 20 minutes and the defense 30 minutes. Each side has 1-3 hours to state its case.

Hoffa, president of the 1.5-million member Teamsters Union, is charged in a two-count indictment with conspiring to violate the Taft-Hartley Act and with accepting funds in violation of this law.

Girl, 11, Dies, Father Shot in Novi Rampage

Man, 20, Forces Niece, Neighbor Before Turning Self In

By DON FERMOYLE and RALPH P. HUMMEL

A slim, 20-year-old Dearborn youth this morning admitted an all-night rampage in Novi during which he killed an 11-year-old girl, wounded her father and raped the girl's mother and his own niece.

The night of ghastly terror ended when James G. Gostlin walked into the Dearborn Police Station at 3 a. m. today, plunked a blood-stained claw hammer on the sergeant's desk and said:

"I just killed two people."

Gostlin apparently thought he also killed the father of Shirley Husted, the dead girl. However, the father survives with serious injuries.

Gostlin's trail of terror started at 11:30 p.m. last night when he entered a home at 2219 Austin St., Novi. His niece, Gloria Gostlin, 11, was baby-sitting there at the time.

He raped Gloria, Gostlin told Redford State Police. Gloria broke free and ran across the street to tell her father, Gostlin's brother.

Fearing his brother's wrath, Gostlin ran into the street searching for a car to escape.

A few houses down the street, he happened upon the home of Wesley Husted, about 40, at 2299 Austin St. He broke into the home and raped Husted lying on aavenport, Gostlin told police.

STRUCK IN HEAD

Gostlin told state troopers he struck Husted in the head with a claw hammer. Husted is in serious condition at St. Mary's Hospital, Livonia.

When Husted's 11-year-old daughter was killed.

Drunken Driver's Plea Fails

To Spend Yule in Jail

In a preview of how severely he will deal with drinking drivers whose cases are appealed to his court, Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer yesterday sent a 45-year-old truck driver to jail for the holidays.

Judge Beer turned down a plea by Vern W. Taylor, 2173 Klingensmith St., Bloomfield Township, to be allowed to begin his 30-day term in the county jail after the holiday season.

Others found guilty in his court of driving under the influence of liquor also will be sent to jail, the judge said.

Taylor had appealed a Pontiac Municipal Court conviction but pleaded guilty before Judge Beer.

'Words Insufficient' Judge Compliments Jury

By JIM DYER
There was a dramatic scene at Circuit Judge William J. Beer's courtroom today as he complimented the jury that had spent more time in an Oakland County courthouse than any other jury in history.

"Words are insufficient and weak to try to express my gratitude to your sense of devotion to duty," Judge Beer said.

It was 4:30 p.m. yesterday, a few minutes after the jury had filed its verdict in the longest judicial proceeding in county history.

There had been 77 days of deliberation, 10 days of hearing testimony, 10 days of deliberation.

"Well done, good and faithful servants," Judge Beer said.

Tears formed in the eyes of many of the 11 women on the jury, just as a woman had cried when she was excused from the deliberations.

There were 13 women and one man when the most crucial case in Pontiac's history—the condemnation hearings for the city's first urban renewal project—began many months ago, May 9 to be exact.

But only 12 made the decisions. Two women whose names were drawn by lot were excused from deliberations.

All 14 had shown up for the hearings every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday since May 9, with the exception of two days missed and a five-week recess during the summer.

"I'm going to miss all of you," Judge Beer told the jurors afterward in the hallway. And so would everyone else in the courtroom.

"This is one of the finest juries ever assembled in Oakland County," Judge Beer said.

"Yes, it was a long time, but it was interesting," said Mrs. Margaret Backstrom, of 411 N. Glenview Road, Bloomfield Township, who was forewoman of the jury.

APPRAISAL BUSINESS
"We're thinking of going into the real estate appraisal business," chimed in another of the jurors. Several times during their deliberations they had climbed into a bus to visit the properties under condemnation.

They had heard countless hours of testimony on property values.

"Yes, there are a lot of things to get up on at home," several agreed. "We hear that Christmas is coming."

Some had laughed when a few among them predicted months ago that the hearings would be tedious.

Asked how it felt to be surrounded by 13 women for so long, the one man on the jury, Claude O. McDonald, of Royal Oak, countered, "What kind of a question is that?"

Also on the jury were Mrs. Pearl Anchor of 2837 Colonial Way, Bloomfield Township; Mrs. Frances Bassette of 29701 13 Mile Road, Farmington Township; Mrs. Kathleen Bellmore, 10209 Oak Park Blvd., Oak Park; Mrs. Alice C. Billis, 21222 Uley St., Wood Creek Farms; and Mrs. Shirley A. Bock, 6093 Waterford Drive, Waterford Township.

OTHER JURORS
Other jurors were Mrs. Edna M. Briggs of Royal Oak; Mrs. Beatrice Burd of Madison Heights; Mrs. Bernice G. Elles of Royal Oak; Mrs. Cecilia L. McNally, 3217 Signet St., Waterford Township; and Mrs. Betty Miller, 2619 Wildwood Trail, Farmington Township.

The two who attended all the sessions but did not get a voice had no necessity to buy their land, as the price offered by the city was not less than the market value.

"Well done, good and faithful servants," Judge Beer said.

Tears formed in the eyes of many of the 11 women on the jury, just as a woman had cried when she was excused from the deliberations.

There were 13 women and one man when the most crucial case in Pontiac's history—the condemnation hearings for the city's first urban renewal project—began many months ago, May 9 to be exact.

But only 12 made the decisions. Two women whose names were drawn by lot were excused from deliberations.

All 14 had shown up for the hearings every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday since May 9, with the exception of two days missed and a five-week recess during the summer.

"I'm going to miss all of you," Judge Beer told the jurors afterward in the hallway. And so would everyone else in the courtroom.

"This is one of the finest juries ever assembled in Oakland County," Judge Beer said.

"Yes, it was a long time, but it was interesting," said Mrs. Margaret Backstrom, of 411 N. Glenview Road, Bloomfield Township, who was forewoman of the jury.

APPRAISAL BUSINESS
"We're thinking of going into the real estate appraisal business," chimed in another of the jurors. Several times during their deliberations they had climbed into a bus to visit the properties under condemnation.

They had heard countless hours of testimony on property values.

"Yes, there are a lot of things to get up on at home," several agreed. "We hear that Christmas is coming."

Some had laughed when a few among them predicted months ago that the hearings would be tedious.

Asked how it felt to be surrounded by 13 women for so long, the one man on the jury, Claude O. McDonald, of Royal Oak, countered, "What kind of a question is that?"

Also on the jury were Mrs. Pearl Anchor of 2837 Colonial Way, Bloomfield Township; Mrs. Frances Bassette of 29701 13 Mile Road, Farmington Township; Mrs. Kathleen Bellmore, 10209 Oak Park Blvd., Oak Park; Mrs. Alice C. Billis, 21222 Uley St., Wood Creek Farms; and Mrs. Shirley A. Bock, 6093 Waterford Drive, Waterford Township.

A defense witness who earlier told County Assistant Prosecutor Robert Temple that he did not see Stroman the night of the killing testified she has been mistaken and was with him that night.

Temple called a total of 15 witnesses for the prosecution, including Wilson.

Recipient of a $1,000 reward offered by The Pontiac Press to anyone bringing about the arrest and conviction of Vailou's killers will be announced in a few days.

City Manager Robert A. Stier and Oakland County Board of Supervisors Chairman Delos Hamlin will decide to whom the reward is due.

Set Final Rites for Local Priest Father Jarzembowski to Be Buried Friday

Auxiliary Bishop Henry E. Donnelly of Detroit will offer Solemn Requiem Mass for Rev. Dr. Bernard F. Jarzembowski at 10:30 a.m. Friday in St. Joseph Catholic Church, 400 W. South Blvd.

Assisting will be Monsignor Eugene E. Paddock, Rev. Francis Orlik and Rev. Vincent J. Oberic, all of Detroit. Monsignor Anthony Kolanczak of Warren will deliver the sermon.

Burial will follow in the mausoleum at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Father Jarzembowski's body was taken from the rectory this afternoon to lie in state at St. Joseph Church.

An all night vigil will be held by various Catholic groups.

Father Jarzembowski, 72, pastor of the St. Joseph Church since 1939, died early Tuesday morning in St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital after a brief illness.

Surviving are a sister, Sister Mary Jerome of Cleveland, Ohio, and two brothers, Dr. Francis of Detroit and Edward of Hamtramck.

Arrangements were by his nephew, L. J. Jarzembowski & Son Funeral Home, Detroit.

Leaders Stay Over, Talk About Skybolt

Cold War matters as the aftermath of the Cuban crisis, the Chinese-Indian conflict.

Moscow's ideological battle with the Red Chinese and the variety of puzzles it presents, Arab Middle East problems generated by the overthrow of the feudal monarchy in Yemen, and the European economy and the Common Market.

Nuclear problems, Skybolt and the prospects of a new Soviet-sparked crisis in the Congo gobbled up the two leaders' time Wednesday. The most nagging question was Britain's resistance to U.S. plans to scrap Skybolt, the American missile which Britain planned to use as its chief independent nuclear weapon.

Although a compromise was reported in prospect, this in itself generated a maze of other complicated problems involving the whole Western defense posture, the growing pressure in Europe for an independent nuclear potential, the impact on other NATO allies of the outcome of the British-American discussions, alternatives for Britain to the bomber-borne Skybolt and other questions.

Harold Evans, Macmillan's public relations adviser, told newsmen he saw no possibility that the problems confronting the Western Big Two were beyond solution. He said Kennedy and Macmillan were "determined to see their way through to a solution of these problems."

Kennedy and Macmillan talked for four and a half hours at scheduled sessions Wednesday and also through a "working lunch."

Sitting in were top aides including U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Undersecretary of Defense Secretary Lord Home and Foreign Secretary Peter Thornycroft.

Youth Admits Killing, Rape

daughter Shirley walked into the living room during the struggle, Gostlin turned on her and struck her, he told police.

State police said she died from a blow to the head.

Gostlin then forced Husted's wife Rita, 33, to disrobe. Mrs. Husted wrapped a blanket around herself and was forced to accompany Gostlin in the family car on a wild ride to Dearborn.

Mrs. Husted was raped twice on the way, Gostlin told state troopers.

Mrs. Husted is being treated for shock at Wayne County General Hospital.

DROVE TO STATION
State police said Gostlin left her out of the car in Dearborn shortly before 3 a.m. He then drove to the Dearborn Police Station.

Dearborn Police notified Redford State Police after hearing Gostlin's story. Redford State Police then went to the home of Husted and found Husted seriously injured.

The three other Husted children, ranging in age from 4 to 8, were asleep during the rampage. Shirley was found lying dead on the floor.

Ironically, Novi Police had been notified about midnight about the rape of Gostlin's niece and had been investigating the assault since then. Novi Police apparently were checking the neighborhood when Gostlin went berserk in the Husted home.

At 10 a.m. this morning, Gostlin sat in a state police car in front of the murder scene. He sat with his head bowed awaiting the call of state troopers.

WANT RE-ENACTMENT
The troopers, joined by experts from the Lansing State Police Crime Laboratory who brought a mobile lab unit, were to ask Gostlin to re-enact the night's terror for them.

Inside the low-slung bungalow, the three Husted children huddled together in a bedroom. In the living room, the body of their older sister still lay where she had died.

Friends said she was a student at Novi Elementary School. She looked closer to 13 than her actual age, they said.

Gostlin is unemployed. He is separated from his wife. Police said he is the father of one child.

Police said Gostlin had been living with his brother, Edmund, the father of the raped girl, and to avoid a warrant against him in Dearborn Township. The warrant charged possession of alcohol but it is minor.

Gostlin told them he wanted to avoid arrest before Christmas, police said.

Birmingham Area News Buy $2.5 Million School Bonds at Low Rate

BIRMINGHAM — The Birmingham Board of Education has sold almost $2.5 million worth of school bonds at the lowest interest rate in more than a decade, Lloyd Van Buskirk, finance director, announced today.

The first of Michigan City of Detroit purchased the bonds, totaling $2,415,000, at an interest rate of 3.97 per cent.

Van Buskirk said that only 10 months ago when the school board sold a similar amount of bonds the interest rate was 3.22 per cent, even then considered a good rate since it was the second lowest received by a school district in the state in five years.

The difference, however, between the two rates represents a savings to the school district of about $75,000, according to the finance director.

"The market is good," said Van Buskirk, "but a lot of brokerage firms know that the Birmingham School District is financially strengthening itself."

"We sent telegrams to all brokerage firms that we thought might be interested in the bonds," Van Buskirk explained. "Then we followed up with a brochure describing our position. We even received an inquiry from the West Coast."

Eight bids were received by the school board for consideration, the most ever received by the district on a bond issue, Van Buskirk said. The eight bids were submitted by a total of 37 firms.

The last bonds were the remaining portion of a $4,915,000 issue approved by voters in November 1961. The bonds have been sold as money was needed.

All projects from the sale of the bonds have been started.

These include the construction of a new junior high school, a new elementary school, additions to four elementary schools, an addition to Barnum Junior High School, a new supply building, extensive renovations to existing schools and the purchase of future school sites.

Most of the projects are expected to be completed and ready for occupancy by the fall of next year.

Van Buskirk said that while the bonds are to run for 25 years, they will probably be paid off in less than 20 years, due to the excellent financial climate of the school district.

Surviving besides his wife Edna M. are three sisters, Mrs. John W. Frank of Birmingham, Mrs. Donald W. Schuh of Hazel Park, and Mrs. Percy N. Orton of Houghton Lake.

Mrs. Fred Wilson, Service for Mrs. Fred (Florence) Wilson, 63, of 563 Hanna St., will be 1 p.m. Saturday at the Manley Bailey Funeral Home. Burial follows to the wall.

Hope to Take Kinks From Ranger Rocket

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency started a major overhaul of its trouble-plagued Ranger moon rocket program today.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration acknowledged that the action might delay its vital lunar research program — preparatory to man's landing on the moon — by several months.

But NASA said that the change should vastly improve the chances of success in obtaining the first close-at-hand television pictures of the moon, and of depositing on the moon instruments to measure moonquakes and to give clues to the moon's geography.

Information of this type is absolutely essential before the first man can dare venture onto the moon—hopefully by the end of the decade.

The space agency already has let contracts for construction of the three-man Apollo spacecraft that will orbit the moon, and the two-man capsules that will be detached to carry Apollo crews to the moon and back to their orbiting vehicles.

Teen Queen, FBI Call for Careful Driving

By BEN FLEIGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — The auto companies have called in a teen-queen and the FBI in their latest moves to persuade young people to drive carefully.

Never for a minute do the manufacturers forget the teens are the fastest-growing age group and also the one offering the most opportunities for increasing the auto population.

But the companies also have a genuine interest in traffic safety, spending millions in promotion and research.

Ford and General Motors have been especially active with young people. Ford's traffic safety department publishes the monthly Driver Education News for driving instruction and produces a variety of instructional films and teaching aids.

General Motors recently began publishing American Youth, a bi-monthly magazine sent to every newly licensed teen-age driver. The magazine makes a constant traffic safety pitch and offers tips on car maintenance and driving skills.

In the current issue FBI director J. Edgar Hoover writes that "carelessness, selfishness and a failure to observe the law are at the root of all traffic accidents...recklessness and carelessness can be fatal, and there is nothing 'smart' about violating a traffic regulation which has been devised for your own safety. Permanent injury or death is a high price to pay for a moment of excitement."

TEEN QUEEN

The teen-queen is Darla Jean, the battle flag of the Confederacy, who won the Miss Teen-Age America contest in Dallas in October.

One of her major prizes was a convertible from Lincoln-Mercury division of Ford and she was designated the division's youth safety spokesman.

The company's major worry at the contest finals was that the winner would be a girl too young to drive. Darla Jean, at 16, is of legal driving age in her home state of California.

Lincoln-Mercury has just issued a booklet under her name called "How to Earn the Key to Dad's Car." It advises that the "opinion of many adults seems to be that teen-agers are reckless drivers, not to be relied upon, and should be 'cracked down' by the police."

"This kind of thinking is as inaccurate as it is unfortunate when applied to all young drivers. It is, regrettably, all too true when applied to a certain small segment of teen-age drivers."

"As a teen-ager seeking the keys to your own or the family car, you may start with two strikes against you unless you play it cagey and work out a deal designed to convince the folks that you're no square in the driver's seat."

The booklet emphasizes that the one factor every teen driver suffers from is inexperience and one fault to be most avoided is overconfidence.

"You should never become good enough to suit yourself, and the level of driving you practice must be good enough to get through your worst periods, not just your good ones," the booklet says.

For parents, there is this advice: Have your teen-ager learn from an expert, other than yourself. Try not to contradict what the teacher has told him—there are usually several right ways to do things.

Junior Editors Quiz on ELEPHANTS

QUESTION: Why do they say an elephant never forgets?

ANSWER: People probably say this because there is a certain amount of truth in it. This great creature is smart as well as big; he ranks number eight among the world's most intelligent animals, and he does have a good memory.

But to say elephants never forget is to exaggerate greatly. When they are first caught, they are bound and kept on very short rations. If they never forget this treatment, it would be impossible to train them afterward. Yet a great many are trained.

Another idea about elephants (2) is even more false; that they are mortally afraid of mice. Elephants in zoos don't notice mice. If a mouse got into Jumbo's trunk, Jumbo would blast him out of there in a moment—look at the way he squirts water.

Another idea (3) has a certain reasonableness, because African elephants are wilder and fiercer beasts than their Indian cousins. Yet they can be trained. Jumbo himself, an African elephant proved it by the way children could ride on his back.

A last superstition (4) doesn't seem to have any facts to back it up. For years, hunters have tried to find the supposed elephant graveyards. But none has ever shown up.

FOR YOU TO DO: Try your hand at drawing an elephant.

Rebels Replace Old Glory

VIDALIA, La. (AP)—Since federal troops moved onto the University of Mississippi campus more than two months ago, the American flag has not flown atop the Concordia Parish courthouse.

In its place flies the stars and bars, the battle flag of the Confederacy.

S. L. Winston Jr., head of the parish government, commented: "I'd say 75 per cent of our people are in favor of this."

The University of Mississippi, scene of violence when Negro James H. Meredith was admitted, is about 200 miles northeast of this Mississippi River town.

Communist Split Widens

Soviet Mission Leaving Shanghai

LONDON (AP)—Information reaching London indicated a further widening of the split between the Soviet Union and Communist China.

The Soviet trade mission in Shanghai is pulling out, according to these accounts. Members of the mission have been packing their files and personal belongings for several days. Presumably there soon will be no Soviet representation left in the great Chinese port city.

Earlier the Chinese Communist authorities closed the Soviet consulates in Shanghai and Harbin. In Shanghai, as far back as Sept. 27, Soviet residents approaching the consulate were told that consular affairs in the future should be conducted by the Russian embassy in Peking.

SOVIETS RAIDED

The same reports said the Chinese Public Safety Bureau on Sept. 7 raided and searched all branches of the Society of Soviet Citizens in Harbin and detained 25 persons.

The Soviet consulate in that Manchurian city was surrounded by Chinese Reds and after Sept. 26 no one was allowed access to the building.

Widespread interest also was aroused in an article in the Peking People's Daily which some diplomats in London suspect may have been written by Mao Tse-tung himself.

PREDICT SUCCESS

This article replied to criticism of the Chinese Communists voiced during recent party congresses of European Communists.

The People's Daily implied the Soviet Union and its allies are splitting the Communist camp and predicted that the Chinese Reds eventually will make their line prevail and restore party unity.

The article, published Sunday, criticized the Russians not merely for withdrawing their missiles from Cuba, but also accused Moscow of adventurism for putting those weapons there in the first place.

The Russians were not mentioned by name, although the article's meaning was plain enough. Recent European party congresses constituted the specific target of the Chinese Communist criticism—particularly the one in Czechoslovakia.

Coach Line Reveals Grand Rapids Plans

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Grand Rapids City Coach Lines, Inc., yesterday filed with the Michigan Public Service Commission an outline of service it proposes in place of departing Grandville-Wyoming Transit Co.

The 12-bus suburban firm earlier announced it was abandoning its routes Dec. 31 because of declining patronage and revenues. Ira W. Jackson, City Coach Lines general manager, said his firm's service generally would continue that of the departing company which had not offered Sunday, holiday or evening runs.

As a result, orders have been issued barring alcoholic beverages from the premises, on penalty of suspension or even firing the employee involved.

A. E. Newton, postal regional director for the Washington area, said drinking on the job by postal workers has increased greatly since a postal pay raise Oct. 13.

Committee Urges Use of Sabin Oral Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans are urged to use the Sabin oral vaccine against polio with a warning of a "very small risk" for adults.

The report came Wednesday from U.S. Surgeon General Luther L. Terry and his special advisory committee on the vaccine which has been in use since the question of hazard.

Committee experts estimated the chances are a million to one that the vaccine's live viruses stem from use of the vaccine, specifically from Type III viruses, one of the trivalent of polio virus types.

There were, they said, 11 cases of polio in question and there was sufficient evidence to conclude that at least some of these cases have been caused by Type III vaccines.

In Wednesday's report, the panel said there were now 11 cases considered compatible—that is, 11 cases where the circumstances indicated the vaccine had caused some paralytic polio.

Dr. Joseph E. Smadel, a panel member associated with the U.S. Public Health Service, said a paralytic polio was defined as cases where there was some muscular disorder after 60 days.

Of the 11 cases, eight were adults over 30 years old. There was no figure immediately available on the number of adults over 30 who received the vaccine. The report said that 15 million persons of all ages had received the questionable Type III vaccine in non-epidemic areas in 1962. Most were children.

The committee released the data on the extremely slight risk. Dr. Smadel said, because persons volunteering to take the vaccine have a right to know of it and perhaps compare it with the risk of crossing a busy street.

In Cincinnati, Dr. Albert B. Sabin, the vaccine's developer, said he hoped that any community vaccination programs held up by the controversy "will start as soon as possible and in as many places as possible, before the next polio season begins."

"In these programs is our only hope for complete elimination of poliomyelitis."

Some communities had gone ahead with plans without waiting for the official report.

President Moise Thombe's guards, called to the scene, dispersed the demonstrators. About 15 of the victims, African and European, came back and broke through the police cord again.

They finally were scattered by a platoon of special police, but one of the demonstrators said, "There is not enough damage. We will be back."

RECEIVES STUDENTS
The students then marched to the French consulate shouting "Vive de Gaulle." French Consul Patrice de Beaulieu received a delegation and told it, "France does not wish to intervene in Congolese politics."

The demonstrators also marched to the British consulate where they shouted "God save the queen!" and "Save Great Britain!" A delegation thanked Consul Derek Dodson for Britain's opposition to the economic boycott of Katanga proposed by U.S. Secretary-General U. Thant.

The student action came after anti-American blasts by Thombe at a news conference at which he threatened again to "apply the scorched earth policy" in Katanga rather than give in to military pressure.

"SHALL REORGANIZE"
"Katanga may rebuild but not with American funds. Our population may flee to Rhodesia and even the Congo but the Congo will be destroyed," he said.

Truman told reporters Wednesday night, however, after meeting more than an hour with Secretary-General U. Thant, "my mission has nothing to do with that whatsoever."

He said the United States has "no plans that I know of" to send troops to the Congo and that his purpose is to see what useful military equipment "we can give to the Congo."

State Department officials said the mission will assess the ability of the 15,000-man U.N. force to keep order.

TO CONFER
Gen. Truman was to confer with Robert K. A. Gardiner, the chief of the U.N. Congo mission, and Ralph J. Bunche, U.N. undersecretary who has had a big advisory role in Congo affairs.

His eight-man mission, made up of specialists in planning, logistics and equipment, expects to remain in the Congo five to seven days.

Sending of the mission coincides with stepped up pressure by Thant on President Moise Thombe to end the secession of Katanga Province.

Some U.N. diplomats expressed fear that cold war rivalry was being injected into the Congo again. So far the U.N. has excluded military units of the big powers from its Congo force.

The United States has supplied aircraft, aircraft, and may be asked to provide equipment for the 20 or more jet fighters the United Nations expects to have soon to counterbalance Thombe's air force.

Reports from Brussels and Paris indicated Belgium and French officials linked the Truman mission with a form of military pressure on Thombe.

MS. Albert Cattell, 1458 Glenwood St., Waterford Township, reported to police yesterday that $100 in cash was stolen from her purse Tuesday night at the 300 Bowl, 100 S. Cass Lake Road, Waterford Township. The purse was not taken.

The figure is an increase of 19 cents a share over the net earnings for the 12 comparable months ending Nov. 30, 1961.

MPSC Orders Bus Hearing

Greyhound May Drop Detroit Port Austin Run

LANSING (AP)—The Michigan Public Service Commission said yesterday no changes in bus service between Detroit and Port Austin will be allowed until after a public hearing is held.

The statement was issued in response to complaints by bus riders and chambers of commerce in the Thumb area that Eastern Greyhound Bus Lines was considering changing or dropping service between the two points.

Norman Berkowitz, commission secretary, said a check with the company confirmed that changes should be proposed. But he said, "The company has promised to take no action until after public hearings can be held."

The company may petition the commission for a hearing on any proposed elimination of service. For schedule changes it must notify the commission, which then may set up a hearing itself.

Berkowitz said the complaints included letters from the heads of chambers of commerce in Marquette and Port Austin, and a petition signed by 60 bus riders from Bad Axe, Uice, Warren and Center Line.

"I don't know exactly what these people were told," said Berkowitz, "but we have been assured by the company that no changes are planned without a petition for hearing being held first."

The Eastern Greyhound Bus Line, a subsidiary of Greyhound Lines, Inc., services all of lower Michigan.

The route involved in the rumors runs on M53 between Detroit and Port Austin, and Detroit and Inland City, with a total of four buses running a day, two in each direction.

SHARON, Mass. (UPI)—Three public schools in this eastern Massachusetts community will not be forced to put Christmas trees in classrooms despite a protest by townpeople.

The trees were banned earlier by principals who were fearful that they violated laws governing separation of church and state.

School Committee Chairman Richard Hosmer last night flatly said, "I will not call an emergency meeting to force Christmas trees into these schools."

His decision was announced after a heated two-hour public hearing attended by more than 750 citizens.

Changes Mostly Fractional

Stock Mart Moves Unevenly

NEW YORK (AP)—With General Motors and Chrysler nudging to new highs, the stock market moved unevenly in active trading early today.

Changes of most key stocks were fractional.

GM started trading on 9,000 shares, unchanged at its new all-time high of 59 1/2, reached late yesterday, then retraced it by selling at 59 1/2.

Chrysler made a new high for 1962, advancing a fraction to 75 1/2. Other auto shares showed little change and there was not much in the way of group leadership throughout the list. It was plain, however, that the booming auto industry was continuing to have its effect on the minds of investors.
