INAUGURAL SMILE — President Eisenhower waves his hat from an open car as he and Mamie leave the Capitol for the start of yesterday's Inaugural Parade. Thousands lined the route of march to get a glimpse of the chief executive as he officially began his second term in office.

Celebration Ends for Ike; Back to Nation's Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's back to business as usual today for President Eisenhower after a brilliant inaugural celebration, crowned by appearance at four gay, diamond-studded galas honoring the start of his second term.

They kept him on the go until nearly 1 a. m.—and he seemed to enjoy every minute.

With his lady on his arm, he left the White House soon after 10 o'clock, started at the Washington Armory and showed up at three hotels in the next 24 hours.

Dance orchestras played, colors were trooped, thousands of people promenaded past the presidential boxes, and celebrated singers gave their all with everything from the National Anthem to "The Blue Danube" and "Mr. Wonderful."

The President was a picture of perpetual motion.

He bowed, waved, smiled, bobbed up and down from the chairs, gave one and two-handed salutes to acquaintances, and fell into at least one deep conversation.

That was with Secretary of State Dulles, one of his guests in the presidential box at the Statler Hotel. They put their heads together and talked intently, apparently oblivious of the cyclone of sound and color around them.

Vice President and Mrs. Nixon also made the circuit of the celebrations. Cabinet members were divided among the four affairs.

Maj. John Eisenhower, the President's son, and his wife Barbara were with the President. The major wore his Army dress uniform of dark blue with gold epaulets.

At one of the last stops along the route, Mrs. Eisenhower told friends, "We've just had a lovely party." The President, sipping tomato juice, added, "In fact, everywhere."

POSSIBLE CHOICE — H.

Meade Alcorn Jr. of Connecticut appeared a likely choice to succeed Leonard Hall as chairman of the Republican National Committee today as GOP leaders met to name a new leader. Hall, who is expected to get a top government post soon, may run for governor of New York next year. Alcorn is a member of the National Committee.

Doctors Pry Out Assorted Items From Boys' Ears

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (U) — Thomas Godfrey, city school supervisor of health and physical education, is convinced small boys do the damndest things.

Three of them showed up at doctors' offices after hearing tests conducted in city schools indicated their hearing was below par.

The physician found:

A marble lodged in one lad's ear.

A wad of paper in the ear of another.

A screw in the ear of the third.

Godfrey managed to keep a straight face as he reported to the school board:

"The hearing of these boys is back to normal."

Introduce State Bill for 5th County Judge

A bill to increase the number of Oakland County circuit judges from four to five was introduced last night before the State Legislature by Rep. Leslie H. Hudson of Pontiac.

Need for another judge is based on the mounting county population and the increasing case load of the circuit court judges, Hudson said.

Reps. Donald A. Brown of Royal Oak and Walter T. McMahon of Hazel Park are sponsoring the bill also.

Waterford Gets Engineers' Plan on Water Supply

Firm Offers Blueprint of $5,812,000 Project at Township Meeting

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Waterford Township Bureau Plans for a $5,812,000 water system for Waterford Township were presented at a meeting of the township board last night, by Felix Anderson, engineer.

Estimated costs were reached after a year of comprehensive research and planning by the firm of Anderson and Johnson. In their survey, the engineers found that there were 8,711 existing structures to be serviced, and these included churches, business places, schools, and the airport, in addition to homes.

Three thousand of these structures are now serviced with township water, according to Township Clerk Louis Barry. "This figure has doubled in the last five years," Barry said.

Anderson explained that there are 15 existing wells available, to hook together for municipal water supply to serve a possible 12,711 structures.

Funds for the water system would be secured primarily through a revenue bond issue over a 30-year period, with a possible five per cent interest rate, Anderson said.

This would cost the township taxpayers approximately $36 per house per year, or $2.85 per month for service, plus $1 a month fee for individual electric pump service, he added.

Residents who are now being serviced with water from the township's wells pay $4.50 quarterly. Estimated operational cost and maintenance for the entire water supply system was set at $125,000 per year, according to the report.

"The people who have a good well and water supply would not be compelled to hook into the main line," Anderson said. "However, with the proposed 2 million gallon tank in existence, residents would never feel insecure as far as a water supply was concerned."

Anderson also proposed a water softening system to be installed at the same time that construction of the well hookups is done. This would add another $500,000 (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

And Last Week We All Shivered!

CAN SPRING BE FAR BEHIND? — Mrs. Dwayne Butler, 285 Whittemore St., a member of The Press' classified advertising department, wondered about the old proverb, "If winter comes, can spring be far behind," as she waded to work this morning like hundreds of others. Unseasonable temperatures in the 50's accompanied by a steady downpour, greeted area residents this morning, a week after sub-zero weather.

Winter Returns Promptly; Freezing Rain for Tonight

The threat of hazardous driving conditions hovered over the Pontiac area today as the Weather Bureau predicted that the two-day spring-like interlude would be replaced by freezing rain and snow tonight.

Area residents were surprised this morning to awaken to heavy rains and unseasonable temperatures in the 50's.

The forecast is for freezing rain and snow tonight diminishing to flurries tomorrow. The low tonight is expected to hover between 22 and 26 degrees. The high tomorrow is predicted to be around 24 to 28 degrees.

Much colder weather is on its way back to Michigan, the bureau reported, with Wednesday night's low expected to skid to around 12 degrees.

A spokesman for the Oakland County Road Commission reported several major roads covered with water but passable. Dixie Highway south of Walton boulevard was covered.

Just recovering from 10 days of snow and zero weather, residents yesterday experienced temperatures which reached a high of 47 degrees.

But things will change considerably over the most of the state, with part of the Upper Peninsula bracing for a sharp drop to 10 below zero tonight.

Parts of the Upper Peninsula were today experiencing extensive stretches of slippery highways due to freezing rains, the State Highway Dept. reported.

The expected plummeting thermometer is being caused by a cold air mass heading into the Great Lakes region, middle Mississippi Valley and Southern Plains. The northern plains were still locked in -10 to -20-degree freezes. The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 47 degrees. At 1 p.m., the thermometer registered 54 degrees.

Launch Search for Queen to Reign Over Auto Show

By L. JAMES BINDER
News Editor, Pontiac Press

The auto man's delight with the poetry expressed in a gleaming fender line or a well-turned grille is legendary, but today nine local car dealers called for help from Nature for another kind of beauty in their plans to make the 1957 Auto Show a success.

The hoped-for assist will come in the person of a "Miss 1957 Auto Show" whose coronation Feb. 3 will cap the three-day display of some 30 new cars at Oliver Motor Sales' new service building.

Richard Moore, who manages the show on behalf of the Pontiac Automotive Trades Assn., said that entries will be accepted until Friday night, Jan. 25, from young ladies, 18 years of age or older, single and who live in Oakland County.

Attractiveness and personality will be the criteria in selecting

Mild-Mannered New Englander Reveals Grudge

Terrorized New York to Get Revenge Against Edison Company

WATERBURY, Conn. (U) — A clean-cut man in a blue suit told calmly today of hatred boiling up inside of 25 years of suffering and him. Then he confessed he is New York's "mad bomber."

George Metesky is his name. He's 53, stocky and gray-haired.

He said he made a vow a long time ago to go on planting bombs in New York until he either got caught or died.

"This is the man," said New York Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm. "We know him by his admissions. Secondly, we know him by a check of his handwriting."

He was booked on a fugitive charge and extradition proceedings were begun.

Arm said Metesky signed a written statement saying he is the man who, because he felt he got a raw deal from the company he used to work for, planted at least 32 bombs in public places in New York City since 1941.

Several of the bombs exploded. The toll: 15 persons injured, none critically.

Arm quoted Metesky as saying he never meant to kill anyone. The commissioner added that Metesky said he planted bombs in New York "whenever he felt like it."

ALL-NIGHT QUIZ

With his gold-rimmed eyeglasses, Metesky could well have passed for a school teacher as he went over each bombing, one by one, with police in Waterbury's police headquarters in all night questioning. He was awakened from his bed shortly after midnight and taken in.

Arm said Metesky held a years-long grudge against the Consolidated Edison Co. of New York.

Metesky said he contracted pulmonary tuberculosis after he was gassed while working at the firm's Hell Gate plant in New York in 1931, according to Arm. He claimed the company refused to take care of him and that was the reason he planted the home-made bombs, Arm said.

A New Installment: 'The FBI Story'

Bureau Opens War on Subversive Groups

(Editor's Note: The following article is another in a series of installments from the exciting new book "The FBI Story," by Pulitzer Prize-winner Don Whitehead. Today's account is one of 20 chapters about the fabulous history of the Federal Bureau of Investigation appearing daily in The Pontiac Press.)

By DON WHITEHEAD

The forces of fear and subversion were on the march in the summer of 1936. The one-time Austrian paper hanger, Adolf Hitler, had risen to power in Germany, and while he talked of peace he planned for war.

The Japanese war lords stood astride Korea and Manchuria and, with bloody swords in their hands, threatened all of Asia.

The Fascist chief, Mussolini, was carving out his new Roman empire in Africa. Spain was being torn cruelly by a civil war which pitted brother against brother, Fascist against Communist.

In Soviet Russia, Stalin was continuing his blood purges, adding new victims to the list of millions already liquidated by guns and by deliberate starvation.

And in the United States, nine million jobless walked the streets while the reactionary forces of fascism and communism were enlisting recruits to their causes.

CONFIDENTIAL JOB

This, in bare outline, was the gloomy state of the world on the morning of Aug. 24, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover left his headquarters to answer a summons to a White House conference which would remain secret until this writing.

Hoover was shown into President Franklin D. Roosevelt's office at 9:15. The President looked up from his work and smiled. "Sit down, Edgar." He pushed himself back from his oval desk and lit a cigarette.

"I called you over," he said, "because I want you to do a job for me and it must be confidential."

Roosevelt went on to say he had become increasingly concerned about the activities of Communists and other subversive groups. He felt that he should have more information than he had been receiving.

He wondered if there were some way by which he could obtain a broad intelligence picture of Communist and Fascist activities alike in relation to the economic and political life of the country.

Hoover said that there was, but that under the law the secretary of state must request the attorney general to undertake an investigation. This Secretary of State Cordell Hull quickly did, and Atty. Gen. Homer Cummings passed along the order to Hoover.

FIRST OF KIND

There had been previous checks by the FBI into pro-Fascist activities, but they had been limited to individual cases and there had been no constant investigation carried on in the field of subversive activities.

But now the FBI, quietly and without publicly disclosing the source of its authority, began to check on Communist activities and to chart the rise of Fascist movements in the United States.

These intelligence investigations would later stir up a hornet's nest of criticism to the effect that the FBI was meddling in the political beliefs and opinions of persons merely because they held radical views contrary to those held by Hoover.

The first major espionage case in this period involved Guenther Gustave Rummich, who had deserted from the U.S. Army in 1936 and then entered the German espionage service.

War Department intelligence officers called the FBI into the Rummich case when they received a warning from an American military attaché in London that an effort would be made to steal the United States' secret east coast defense plans.

The identity of the foreign agent was unknown to the military and the FBI.

CAPTURE SPY

Soon after this warning was received, New York City detectives and State Department special agents arrested a man who had attempted to obtain American passport (Continued on Page 23, Col. 6)

400 Firemen Battle Blaze

Grains Worth $5 Million Destroyed in Flames on South Side

CHICAGO (U) — A spectacular, multimillion-dollar fire destroyed a huge, old grain elevator along the river front on the South Side last night.

Some 400 firemen fought the conflagration in the 10-story elevator in a driving rainstorm. Nearly 100 pieces of equipment, including three fireboats, were sent to the scene, 94th Street at the Calumet River, an industrial district on the far South Side.

Amid towering walls of flames, some three million bushels of grain were reportedly destroyed. However, firemen succeeded in saving a newly built elevator about 150 yards from the blazing 135-foot-tall structure. The new elevator contained about 3 1/2 million bushels of wheat.

Fire officials said they expected the fire would burn "for three days" although they expected to have it under control before noon. Some 40 pieces of equipment were kept at the scene throughout the night.

The flames from the elevator fanned at times by strong winds, were visible nearly into the Loop, some 14 miles north, and attracted thousands of persons, despite the blustery weather.

Some 200 policemen, responding to the extra alarm, rerouted traffic and kept the crowd blocks from the blazing building.

No injuries were reported. However, a newsreel cameraman, Floyd Traynham, 61, of the Universal International Film Exchange, collapsed at the scene and was pronounced dead on arrival at a nearby hospital.

The elevator reportedly contained wheat, rye, oats and beans. A company official estimated the grain's value at about $2 a bushel.

Inn or Station Still the Question

Clarkston Zoning Body Meets New Obstacle; 'Nibble' on Old Building

The Zoning Board of Appeals of Clarkston met at a special meeting last night in an effort to get the matter of Caribou Inn versus a gas station ironed out. The Caribou Inn has been a bone of contention for some time as the Socoy-Mobile Co. wants to build a gas station on the old Inn's present site.

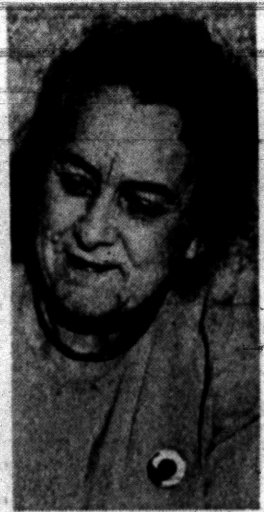

Many Clarkston People are against the move. A question on the wording of the ordinance for a gas station on that spot was brought up and owner of the Caribou, Ernie Felice and his attorney, Richard Nahabedian, were asked to submit a statement in writing to the board regarding the matter.

Village Attorney Milton Cooney will present the matter to board members at a future meeting.

Felice, offered the structure to the Clarkston residents to be moved from the premises. So far no one has offered to take the building. However, two men are interested in buying the Caribou to convert it to a historical museum.

William Connolly and Herbert Justman of Pontiac have shown interest in moving the Caribou to a five-acre plot just outside of Clarkston. They have indicated their intentions of moving other historical buildings to the same acreage for a historical center.

School Tougher, Says TV-Winner of $100,000

NEW YORK (INS) — Charles Van Doren, 30, the blond encyclopedia whose $104,500 prize has made him the top money winner in radio-TV history, said today that NBC-TV's program "21" was easy compared with his own work. He's an English instructor at Columbia University.

"The students," he explained, "ask some questions that not even a Plato could answer."

Van Doren said he'd decide next week whether to pocket his winnings and devote his time to writing or to continue the quiz in which he can win an unlimited amount by supplying the correct answers.

"Last week when I hit the $99,000 mark," he said, "I felt as if a truck hit me."

"Now it isn't so bad — it just feels as if I had been clipped by a small car."

The son of Pulitzer prize winning poet Mark Van Doren, he was pitted against two other contestants and proved his knowledge of art, military history and medicine was superior to theirs. The competitors were Dr. Edgar Cummings, educational consultant from Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and former president of two colleges, and Victor Nearing, New York attorney.

of the board of education, Louis H. Schimmel.

Main speaker of the evening will be Dr. Robert Martin, consultant for elementary education with the Michigan State Department of Public Instruction. He will address visiting parents and friends on "Education for What Is Real."

Also on the program which will proceed an open house will be Ray F. Ward, of Schley and Ward, architects for the structure; Mrs. Ann Galbraith, principal of the school, the Rev. Gordon Lindsay of the Five Points Community Church and Mrs. John Adamitis, president of Walton Boulevard School PTA.

The school for kindergarten through sixth graders is a one-story-eight classroom affair. It features two kindergarten rooms, a multi-purpose room; locker and shower facilities plus an administrative section.

A top economical feature of the building which saved $7,700 on its construction are the cinder block corridor walls covered with a new type glazed surface, Dr. Hufziger said. This type construction required walls one block thick instead of the usual two, he said.

The school has a capacity of 360 students and now holds 261.

Car Inspection Bill Proposed to Legislature

LANSING (U) — Compulsory inspection of all motor vehicles in Michigan was proposed last night in the state legislature.

The bill was one of more than a score submitted to the lawmakers as they reconvened after an 11-day recess. Business on the floor was confined mainly to formalities and introduction of bills. The vehicle inspection system, which would be the first in Michigan, would require periodic inspection of cars, trucks and buses at inspection stations licensed by the state.

Motorist would pay a fee not to exceed $1.50.

Then Metesky said, Arm reported: "I guess it's because you suspect I am the 'mad bomber'."

But, Arm said, it wasn't until much more questioning that Metesky finally confessed to the bombings that stirred up one of the largest manhunts in the world's largest city.

Waterbury Deputy Police Supt. Fred Hickey said Metesky had a "fantastic memory" for the things that happened to him.

After he was gassed, he told police, he returned to Waterbury for a job but couldn't keep it because of his disease. He went to Tucson, Ariz., on doctors' orders. His sisters said they and their parents, who are now dead, paid all bills there.

Three years later metesky returned home and asked Consolidated Edison for help. He claimed no help came.

"We feel that this plan is gilded, because it takes care of right now," Anderson said. "As the population in Waterford Township increases, the balance of the bonds can be paid off faster, thereby lowering the rate of interest."

The overall plan will now be sent to Louis Schimmel, financial consultant, who will discuss the project with the engineers. Conclusions of their discussion will be forthcoming at a future township board meeting.

Detroit Edison Reports $2.45 Per Share in '56

Edward M. Spencer, a native of Ann Arbor, was elected treasurer of the Detroit Edison Co. at a meeting of the board of directors last night in New York.

The company reported 1956 earnings of $29,376,407, or $2.45 a share, compared with $26,297,190, or $2.43 a share, for 1955.

plode were some on Consolidated Edison property. The bombings date back to 1940, police said. Metesky was placed on company compensation roles in 1941.

Police have said letters accompanied many of the bombs. The bombs were mostly the pipe variety with a cheap watch for the timing mechanism. The letters complained the "mad bomber" never was compensated for crippling injuries sustained on the job.

They were signed "F. P."

Today, Arm quoted Metesky as saying "F. P." stood for "Fair Play."

LIVES WITH SISTERS

Metesky lives here in this industrial city in midwestern Connecticut, about 100 miles northeast of New York City, with two older sisters, May and Anna.

They told reporters they brother is a sick man but they insisted he isn't the "mad bomber."

"Oh, no," said May. "He wouldn't think of doing a thing like that."

"He's one of the best fellows you ever saw," Anna said.

The New York Journal-American released a statement by Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy saying "the capture of the mad bomber was the direct result of information furnished by the New York Journal-American."

The newspaper had printed three open letters on the front page to the "bomber" urging him to surrender. The first letter, printed Dec. 26, received a reply in the next morning's mail.

The letter was kept undisturbed for police investigation. The paper said it received police permission to publish a second open letter Jan. 10, and subsequently a third.

The commissioner said "the close cooperation in turning over to us promptly all letters received from the mad bomber made this outstanding arrest possible."

"The Journal-American deserves the gratitude of all citizens of New York for outstanding public service. This truly is responsible journalism at its best," said Kennedy.

New York and Waterbury detectives woke Metesky up to search his home, in a three-story apartment house.

Arm said the police told him they were checking on an accident, but he quoted Metesky as saying:

"You're looking for more than an accident."

"George, you know why we're here," said a detective.

"I really don't," Metesky replied.

"We think you do," the detective said.

Then Metesky said, Arm reported:

"I guess it's because you suspect I am the 'mad bomber'."

But, Arm said, it wasn't until much more questioning that Metesky finally confessed to the bombings that stirred up one of the largest manhunts in the world's largest city.

The Day in Birmingham

Real Estate Board Asks 30 Day Amendment Delay

BIRMINGHAM — Admitting that they are "probably the most frequent violators" Birmingham Real Estate Board representatives last night asked an additional 30 day delay before the official passing of the sign ordinance amendment. The amendment, as it now stands, was approved early this month by commissioners who later learned that due to a typographical error, realtors were not aware of the correct date.

Representing the real estate men, Milton J. Mallender said that they were appointing a committee to make a thorough study of the ordinance as it applied to their businesses.

"We feel," Mallender said, "that from the overall picture the ordinance is excellent. There are, however, a few changes we would like to discuss with your official group. We believe that through this procedure we can work out a better arrangement of some passages which will clarify the ordinance and on the whole, make it more enforceable."

Commissioners have taken the ordinance from the table for discussion last night. City commissioners are withholding any comment as to whether or not they confirm with the proposal of relocating the county seat. It was suggested that since this proposal came from the Royal Oak Chamber of Commerce, no official opinion would be given here until some communication had been received from Royal Oak City Commission.

With the sharp increase in temperature, Birmingham recreation department is again stressing the fact that Quanton Lake is not included as a city approved skating area. It certainly is in no shape now to be used for skating was the comment of commissioners.

With March 5 as the first meeting date of the board of review, city commissioners have named Percy G. Burnett and Sherman LeMessure.

Womans Alliance of Birmingham Unitarian Church will hear Mrs. Marvin Flak speak on the work done at the Pontiac State Hospital on Wednesday at 12:30 in the home of Mrs. John K. Bagby. Mrs. Flak is the assistant director of social service at the hospital.

New officers of the Birmingham Exchange Club included Harry Wesch, president; Richard Wilson, first vice president; William Wieland, second vice president; and Robert Owen, secretary-treasurer. The first session of the club sponsored Dale Carnegie Institute is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Birmingham Community house.

City Commissioner Harold K. Schone made himself one of the most popular men in the city of Birmingham last night when he told commissioners that he was almost positive that next week's session would be held in the commission room.

For the past several weeks the group has met in what was formerly the Fire Department garage while extensive improvements and an interior decoration program were being completed in the upstairs chamber.

Shedding their customary British reserve, these ladies who are living out their days in this Victorian seaside resort offered to marry Adams in the hope of off-setting the effect of the crown's accusations against the Irish-born doctor.

A police official said with a shrug of his shoulders, "The poor things—they seem almost hypnotized by this man."

Adams, entering the seventh day of a hearing to decide whether he should be tried for murder, is specially charged with poisoning to death with drugs Mrs. Edith Morrell, an 81-year-old widow. He also has been accused of killing two other patients in the hope that he would benefit from their will.

The bizarre marriage proposals were added to the somewhat crude horseplay which has been a feature of the murder hearing since its beginning.

Hoaxers reportedly sent a birthday card to Adams yesterday, portraying a devil with angel wings, but the card was intercepted by the doctor's friends.

Members of the seven-man defense staff said they were happy, however, because more than a score of genuine "good luck" and birthday cards were delivered to their client.

Carol Trauman, 2 1/2 years old, of Birmingham, took a turn for the worse at William Beaumont Hospital today, after reportedly escaping unharmed Sunday when her father's car rolled over her.

Officials of the Royal Oak Hospital reported that Carol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander L. Trauman, 360 E. Frank St., started internal bleeding yesterday. Her condition is listed as fair today after surgery.

Carol was injured when she fell beneath the car driven by her father as he prepared to take the children to Sunday school.

2 Men Free on Bond in Royal Oak Larceny

Circuit Court Judge Clark J. Adams will pass sentence Feb. 2 on two men who yesterday pleaded guilty to the larceny of three cases of beer Jan. 6 from a Royal Oak store.

Lester W. Kurkowski, 4862 Belvedere Rd., Birmingham and John E. Hodges, 1064 Noughton St., Royal Oak were freed under $100 bonds continued by Judge Adams.

Security for You

If 65, You're Entitled to Lots of Tax Breaks

The Internal Revenue Service recognizes age 65—the traditional retirement age—as a turning point in the lives of most of us. It does so by giving people who've reached 65 some special breaks—beyond what other people get—when it comes to figuring how much income tax they must pay.

Thus, if you're 65 or over and you make use of the breaks, your tax bill may be smaller. In fact, you may not have to pay any tax at all.

In this column, I'll explain the major breaks given to everyone who's reached 65. In two later columns, I'll explain the special breaks given to people over 65 who are receiving retirement payments—such as Social Security, private pensions, etc.

Your first break is that you don't have to pay any tax on the first $1,200 of your income. Ordinary taxpayers under 65 receive an exemption of $600.

This means that you don't even have to file a federal income tax return if you've an income of less than $1,200 and you've reached 65. Also, your wife is entitled to the $1,200 exemption from tax if she's reached 65.

So, if you and your wife file a joint tax return, the first $2,400 of your combined income is free of tax. If you have a combined income of less than $2,400, you don't have to file a return unless one of you had an income of more than $1,300.

However, if you've had a personal income of less than $1,200 or you and your wife have had a joint income of less than $2,400 for the previous year, your employer may have deducted some tax from your pay. Due to your exemptions from tax on incomes of this size, you're eligible for a refund of the tax. To get a refund, you have to file a return.

CONSIDER DOCTOR BILLS

The second tax break allows you to deduct the full amount of your doctor and hospital expenses from any income you have beyond that which is exempted from tax if you or your wife were 65 or over at the end of the year.

For example: Suppose you paid $400 to doctors and hospitals in 1956 and, after your exemptions, you have $2,200 income. You can deduct the $400 in medical expenses from the $2,200 and only pay tax on the remaining $1,800—minus any other ordinary deductions you might be eligible for. (Under a similar set of circumstances, the ordinary taxpayer under 65 would be allowed to deduct only $334 in medical expenses.)

Incidentally, you're considered 65 for the entire year if you attain that age anytime during the year or even if you reach 65 by the first day of the following year. Thus if you reach 65 anytime from Jan. 1, 1956, through Jan. 1, 1957, you'll be entitled to the tax breaks of being 65 for the full year of 1956. Of course, there are many other features of the income tax which are of importance to people who've reached their 65th birthday. I've only covered those of special interest to all. If you need advice in filling out your tax form, the local internal revenue people can give you official answers.

(You may write Ray Henry in care of this newspaper about your own Social Security or retirement problem. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents in coin.)

Reverse Guilty Plea in Robbery Charge

Two alleged members of a youthful holdup ring changed their pleas yesterday as they were to be sentenced on charges of armed robbery.

As a result, Kenneth Marshall, 18, of 314½ Wessen St. and Joseph Page, 21, of 497 Ditmar Ave. were returned to Oakland County Jail under $5,000 bonds to await trial.

They had pleaded guilty Dec. 28 to the $56 stickup Dec. 17 of Riddick's Pharmacy, 373 Franklin Rd. Their pleas were changed yesterday before Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams, who was about to pass sentence.

Another alleged member of the gang, Velton Wilder, 18, of 476 Branch St. is held under $3,000 bond awaiting trial on a charge he helped hold up the Progressive Oil Co. station, 477 S. Saginaw St. for $170 last Dec. 20.

Marshall is accused as Wilder's partner.

Nashville Will Start Integration

Gradual Desegregation to Begin for 1st Grades in Fall of '57

NASHVILLE, Tenn. —The attorney for the city school board will advise the board to comply with a federal court order to submit by the end of the year a complete plan and timetable for desegregating first-grade classes next fall but ordered the board by Dec. 31 to outline its plans for complete desegregation.

Edwin Hunt, attorney for the board, said, "We are gratified that the judge has sustained the gradual transition plan including the system of transfers. I shall advise compliance with the court's instruction to furnish by Dec. 31 a complete schedule for desegregation."

Miller approved five points of the board's six-point plan, which provides for voluntary student transfers where students are required to attend classes with a majority of another race.

The sixth point, which he did not accept, provided for the board's instruction committee to study the problem and recommend by the end of the year the time and number of grades to be desegregated in the next step.

Nashville's "gradual" school desegregation plan was submitted in answer to a suit filed by parents of 21 Negro and two white children seeking admission to segregated schools.

Muskegon Eyes Aid to Attract Industry

MUSKEGON (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce is considering a proposal to provide shell-structure industrial plants to attract new industries for Muskegon.

The proposal was suggested to the Chamber's industrial committee by Commissioner C. L. Webb and Chamber Secretary John T. Hay, who had charge of a similar program for the Columbus, Neb., Chamber of Commerce.

They said funds for the program would be provided by Greater Muskegon Industrial Fund, Inc., to construct foundations, walls and roofs of plants designed for industry and located in properly zoned areas.

Hay said Columbus experienced "highly successful" results from its program.

Webb reported the fund has offered at $50,000 building loan to a state industry which has shown interest in moving to Muskegon from its present east Michigan location. He asked community support in a Feb. 5 drive to secure the balance of $70,000 for the fund's proposed $400,000 capitalization.

Enter Innocent Plea in Shooting of Wife

Charged with the accidental shooting of his wife last Oct. 29, Herbert B. Montgomery, 52, of 475 Arthur St. yesterday stood mute at arraignment before Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams.

A plea of innocent was entered and Montgomery was continued free under $500 bond pending a trial. No date was set.

Elizabeth Montgomery, 37, a bride of one month, was shot once in the chest during a tussle for a .32 caliber pistol. Her body was discovered in the Arthur Street home three days later.

Montgomery was arrested Nov. 16 in Monroe, La., where he fled, police said, because he "was scared." The quarrel started when he threatened to leave his wife, Montgomery said.

She got the gun and threatened him with it, Montgomery claimed.

Musician Escapes Reds; Treasured Violin Safe

DENVER (AP)—Emil Joros, 31, conductor of the Budapest Opera Co., looked around anxiously for his violin yesterday when arriving at the Municipal Airport.

Once the valuable instrument was safe in his hands, he headed for the National Jewish Hospital and treatment for tuberculosis.

The violin was almost the only possession Joros managed to save when he and his wife and three children fled the Hungarian revolution. His wife and children were given shelter at the home of a hospital official here.

Quake Jolts California

LAKEPORT, Calif. (AP)—A sharp earthquake jolted Lakeport, Lucerne, Scotts Valley and other northern California areas last night. No damage was reported.

$25 Million for Building Asked

Seek State Help for Schools

LANSING (AP)—Twenty-five million dollars a year in state aid for local school construction was proposed yesterday by the Governor's Study Commission on Education Finance.

The commission also recommended, among other things, an aid formula for school operating expenses based on $225 per pupil, a $35 increase over the present program, and a $4,200 a year minimum salary for teachers.

To qualify for the state construction fund, a school district would be required to levy at least three mills in local taxes for capital outlay, and conform with other state standards.

Robert L. Hopper, chairman of the commission, said local districts would be expected to furnish between five and six million dollars in additional new revenue for construction projects.

The state would contribute the rest of the estimated 30 million dollars annual cost from its general fund.

HAD NO COMMENT

The report was handed to newsmen accompanied by a statement that Gov. Williams, in Washington for President Eisenhower's inauguration, had read the recommendations but had no comment, for the time being at least.

Under the proposal for raising the level of per pupil grants for local school operations, deductions on an outstate school districts state equalized property valuation would be increased from 2½ to four mills. This feature would tend to favor so-called poor districts in distribution of available funds.

School districts would be required to meet certain financial tests to qualify for full state aid. Each would be required to levy at least eight mills for operating costs to get full benefit from the program.

State aid would be reduced by one-eighth for each mill levied under eight. No state aid would go to any district with an operating levy of less than five mills.

On the construction phase, state aid was recommended only for districts with 1,000 or more pupils and offering instruction in grades one through 12.

RESIDENT RESTRICTION

Any districts with more than five per cent non-resident enrollment would be disqualified.

Hopper, a professor of education at Michigan State University, said costs estimates are based on a projected cost of $18,000 per classroom, to be amortized over 30 years.

This would amount to an annual cost of $600 per classroom, or about $20 per pupil.

Other major commission recommendations:

Progressive reduction of pupil-teacher ratios to the level of one teacher for each 28 pupils, with reduction of state aid for districts which do not reduce ratios.

Property tax equalization at 100 per cent of current market value, or abandonment of the present constitutional 15-mill tax limit, with the Legislature setting statutory tax rate limitations for each local unit as is now done for municipalities.

Withdrawal of state aid to schools which fail to conform with health and safety recommendations made by "appropriate legal officers."

AND STILL, THEY FLEE — Although active anti-Communist revolution in Hungary has long since been crushed, refugees from the Communist despotism still flee across the border into Austria. Above, a young Austrian volunteer helps a refugee cross a canal which forms part of the Austro-Hungarian frontier (location purposely withheld) with the aid of a local farmer (on far bank) and a donated rubber life-raft. Photo was just released by United Nations.

Winners Named in Slogan Contest

Nine Oakland County grade school students have been selected from over 3,000 entries as the winners of a county-wide safety slogan contest sponsored by the Sheriff's Department.

Named to receive $25 savings bond for turning in the best three slogans were Debbie Peterson, 11, of 6140 Andersonville Rd., Waterford, Joy Balcom, a 10-year-old fifth grader at the Angell School in Berkley, and Eddie Davis, 11, a student at the E. J. Lederle School in Southfield Township.

The slogans in the order of their names were as follows: "Don't Go To Heaven in '57. Drive Carefully." "Stop! Look! and Listen! or You're Cold, Dead, and Missin'." "Don't Violate — Cooperate."

Finishing in the second three places and earning $10 savings bonds were Betty Frank, of 695 Newberry Rd., Rochester, Frances entries were worthy of prizes," he commented. Judging for the contest were Oakland County Prosecutor Fred Ziem, Joseph Zabelski, representing the Pontiac branch of the American Automobile Association, Harvey Zuckerman, of the Pontiac Press, and Navarre.

Offer 3 Witnesses in McDonald Case

LOS ANGELES — Police offered testimony by three new witnesses today as the county grand jury restudied the kidnap story of Marie (The Body) McDonald.

The offer of new police witnesses brought an indignant charge from the actress' attorney Jerry Giesler that "they seem to be trying to make one of those old-time slapstick mysteries out of this."

He said that if the grand jury gives time to Police Chief William Parker's witnesses he would offer rebuttal evidence of six others — including comedian Danny Thomas, Thomas' wife Rosemary, and in a reappearance, Marie herself.

Have yourself a wonderful time— with Long Distance

"Hi, Gampa!" How long has it been since you heard your granddaughter's voice? Little girls grow fast, and learn new words every day. If you've missed the thrill of talking to her, don't put it off—call her up. Some of the nicest things in life happen when you call Long Distance. Even if she's halfway across the country, a three-minute call after 6 P.M. would cost about a dollar. Treat yourself and your little granddaughter to a Long Distance call tonight.

Another reason you're better off with Blue Cross, Blue Shield.

"All I did was show my Blue Cross card..."

The hospital never asked for a deposit"

You can expect to be asked for a deposit the next time you're admitted to a hospital . . . unless you're a Blue Cross member.

At any participating hospital (there are over 200 in Michigan alone!), being a Blue Cross member makes you someone "special."

The hospital knows that you are entitled to all the services covered in your Blue Cross contract . . . that Blue Cross will pay their entire cost, and will pay the hospital directly.

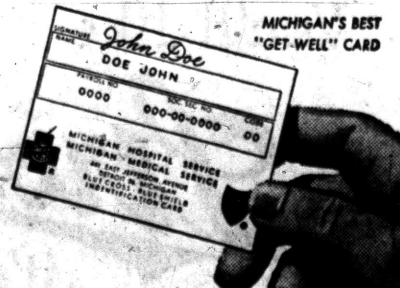

When you're ready to leave, you can just walk out of the door, probably with no bill to pay at all.

It happens in 4 out of 5 cases!

Now—for that doctor bill that's sure to go along with your hospital bill, there's Blue Shield offering medical-surgical coverage which doctors themselves recommend.

Chart Your Way to Better Health

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
The modern trend in medicine is to treat the whole man, not just a segment of him. The newer idea is that an ailing organ can help cure itself if it is reinforced by an improvement in the whole body, in general health.

A few progressive physicians long have thought in these terms, but today it is not unusual for a doctor to ask his patient to keep a chart of everything he does and a list of everything he eats for several days.

Then, of course, the patient brings it with him when he next comes to the office. This gives the doctor a more comprehensive picture of you than he otherwise could have.

He will want every single detail. Nothing is too small to report. He will want to know what you ate and when, what time you went to sleep and when you awakened, whether or not you awakened quickly or lie in bed for a while, whether you read before going to sleep, whether or not you got up in the middle of the night for a snack or a cigarette—everything you did all day long.

If you do not have the energycal checkup and nothing wrong you feel you should have, or if was found, it might be a profitable chronic fatigue dogs your days, idea for you to keep such a chart and if you have had a recent physi-for yourself.

Your doctor may want you to keep a chart of everything you do and everything you eat.

If you will study it at the end of a few days or a week, certain trends are apt to show up. You may realize that you have been habitually short-changing yourself on sleep, that you have been getting practically no exercise, that some vital food element appears much too seldom on your menus, that you realized, that you are eating too many rich or greasy foods.

You even may be able to correlate some of these habits so that the effect of one on others becomes apparent.

So why not keep a chart for yourself for a week? At the end of that time study the record and correct any bad habits you have. Then keep it for another week or so and see how you feel.

If you would like our leaflet "General Reducing Routine," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 1 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Tomorrow: "Thankful Prayer for Joys, Sorrows of Life."

Inaugural Festivities Put Focus on Beauty, Chivalry

Gay Crowd of 15,000 Parade Before Ike, Dick, Wives at Washington Parties

By BOB CONSIDINE
WASHINGTON (INS) — Some 15,000 representatives of the chivalry and beauty of Washington and GOP society tripped the light fantastic last night and early this morning in honor and before the distinguished guests of honor: Ike and Mamie and Dick and Pat.

The President of the United States, the vice president, and their wives, miraculously still chipper after a day which saw the men publicly inaugurated for a second term, swept in and out of four inaugural balls that kept them up until the rest of Washington long since had gone to bed.

At 11:15 a head, the handsomely dressed and bejeweled boxholders marched past the guests of honor at pleasure domes as scattered in architecture and in Washington geography as the vast National Guard armory and the ballroom at the Mayflower Hotel.

The order of the night, and early morning, was for the President's party to move into each of the places for approximately 20 minutes and be followed, 10 minutes later, by the Nixons and their group, who in turn were followed by the retiring Republican National Committee Chairman Leonard and his crowd. The levity, gaiety and tempo of each ball increased as the eminence of the guest of honor decreased.

ROCK 'N ROLL, TOO
What started out as a seemingly waltz in front of the Eisenhowers became a rock 'n roll in front of Hall, as carefree Republicans celebrated the end of a long day in which the President had soberly outlined "the price of peace" and a two-hour inaugural parade had stretched out to three.

The Eisenhowers had dinner at home with the family and started the chain reaction of the four inaugural balls shortly after 10 o'clock. Behind a howling police escort their group swept past traffic-clogged cars waiting to get to the remote armory in the southeast section of the city.

A huge serpentine line had formed around the floor, leading to the presidential box. It was a seemingly line of four until the Eisenhowers arrived.

Then hundreds near the end of the line stampeded to the front, causing a jam like a well-dressed subway rhubarb. Many still were waiting to get floor space in which to march past the President when George Murphy, who was in charge, ordered the lights doused and intoned over the mike that the march-past had ended and that for the remaining minutes of the President's stay there would be waiting.

LADY LOST SHOE
One young lady suffered the nightmare every woman fears. She threw a shoe ten feet in front of the President of the United States. Ike and Mamie laughed sympathetically as she hobbled back to the lost property.

A young couple, more daring than the rest, refused to make a turn 10 feet in front of the presidential box. They walked straight ahead and the girl leaped over the railing to shake hands with the President, who warmly responded.

Secret Service men looked about anxiously as thousands swarmed around the President's box in the final minutes of his stay at the armory.

One breathed, "I hope nobody gets excited. I've never seen this happen before."

STASSENS GREET NIXONS

Harold and Mrs. Stassen were at the Statler to greet the Nixons after the Eisenhowers left. The Stassens and the Nixons were comparable to the Hatfields and the McCoys a few months back, but all was serene at this love feast.

Gov. Frank Clement, who has recovered from making the keynote address at the Democratic convention in Chicago last August, was on hand at the Statler. The good looking young governor of Tennessee said "I'm having as good a time as a Democrat could under these circumstances."

Lionel Hampton's orchestra played at this one, but its strains failed to lure on to the floor one of the capital's most incorrigible ballroom dancers, 89-year-old Sen. Theodore Francis Greene, Rhode Island Democrat.

Lawrence Welk played, and champagne naturally flowed, at the Mayflower ball.

The last port of call was the Sheraton Park. It was distinguished mainly by the fact that among the diplomats on hand was Polish Ambassador Romuald Spasowsky and his wife, a possible indication, according to State Department reporters, of Poland's new semi-independence. Both the Soviet and Hungarian ambassadors declined invitations, presumably because some of the money from the balls will go to Hungarian relief.

As was the case elsewhere, the "grand march" at the Sheraton Park was snuffed out by the crush of people wanting to join in. But nobody seemed to care much. Those who had practised faithfully for days how to march past the President and his wife contented themselves with blowing kisses or waving from afar.

LIKE GRINS

Several times, in response to the crowd, Ike with a big grin on his face, put his hands above his head and shook them in the boxer's victory sign. Each time he did so the crowd roared back its appreciative approval.

And finally, with one more big wave to the band and then to the people packed in front of him, the President and Mamie turned around and left for home.

THEY RETURNED TO THE WHITE HOUSE

at 12:42 a.m. and as Mamie put it, "It has been a very long day."

Nixons Grab Spotlight

WASHINGTON (INS) — Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon grabbed the spotlight at the Mayflower Inaugural Ball when they began dancing.

For a few moments all dancing on the floor stopped while the Nixons finished their dance to the applause of the crowd.

The Nixons, upon leaving, milled their way through the dancers to the stage where Lawrence Welk was conducting his orchestra. Welk stooped over to shake the vice president's hand and heard Nixon say:

"They asked us to dance so we did. It's a good thing you weren't playing rock and roll."

Make Personal Inventory and Then Plan for Future

Take Stock of Yourself and Determine to Accomplish More This Year

By RUTH MILLETT
A new year is a better time for taking a personal inventory than for making a lot of resolutions that will probably be forgotten in a few weeks.

An inventory tells you where you are and what you've accomplished during the past year. If it's encouraging, it gives you confidence in what you can accomplish in the next.

If it is discouraging, it should spur you out of a slump to make a few changes and some workable plans for the future.

So, with a new year still young, why not make your own personal inventory? Think back and recall what you hoped to accomplish last year.

How much of it came about? What things did you accomplish you never even hoped to be able to do? This list may surprise you and give you a real feeling of satisfaction.

Now then, how can you best plan for the year ahead so as to complete unfinished plans, keep working toward unfulfilled dreams, and set your sights on new goals?

That is personal inventory-taking and it is well for everyone to sit down and take a long look back.

Mama Bear Teaches Us a Lesson

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

When John gave Miss Phelps his absence note, she was standing at her desk talking to some kids. To his mild surprise, she opened it at once.

Undismissed, he waited for her to finish reading it, feeling a little lost in the classroom he'd been away from for four days but secure in knowing that Mother's plea of his cold would win him welcome back.

Miss Phelps said, "So you've been really sick, John. You wouldn't be your Mommy's spoiled, itty-bitty baby, would you?"

There was a pause during which John didn't understand what had been done to him. Then, mercifully the second bell rang.

"I hate her!" he told his mother later. Beginning to cry, he said, "I can't go to school if she's my teacher."

After his mother had quieted him, she gave him cocoa and cookies. As he lifted the cup, she said, "You know, a mother bear can't be with her cub every minute any more than I can be with you. So she shows him how to hide if a hunter is after him. She'll show him a cave he can run to or how to lie very still on the ground or how to climb a tree. But always the idea is 'Get the hunter's mind off you.' That's what you have to do with Miss Phelps."

"How?" John asked with interest.

"By becoming a very quiet boy in class," his mother said. "If for a while, you take care not to show off around Miss Phelps, not to talk loudly or kid around where she is, gradually she'll take her mind off you. Then, like the cub, you can stop hiding—and begin to have fun again."

DEFINITE ACTION
Assured that he could take this definite action to protect himself,

John lost the sense of helplessness that had weighed him down.

Too often, when a child comes up against a teacher like Miss Phelps, we panic. Rushing to protect John, we either tattle on Miss Phelps to her principal—or beg her for better appreciation of the child.

From neither of these interfering solutions does John emerge wiser or stronger. Neither gives him experience in the protective, important art of self-effacement.

Yet it is part of the defensive equipment of any grown-up person. We cannot always run away from hostility any more than we can always change it into love. Sometimes, the only way to deal with it is to make oneself so undistinguished and boring to it that it just has to take it, mind off us.

Ike, Mamie Attend All Four Balls

Inaugural Festivities Leave Them Weary but Smiling

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
INS Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (INS) — Peace, progress and prosperity — the GOP 1956 slogan — temporarily gave way last night to pomp, pageantry and pulchritude as Ike and Mamie wore their victory smiles to review Republican society, Grade A.

The beaming first family, followed 10 minutes behind by the second family Nixons, attended a staggering series of four inaugural balls and came through smiling.

The precedent-shattering extravaganzas were enough to test the mettle of teenagers. They were also funny enough to crowd any Hollywood four-reel comedies off the screen.

President Eisenhower — possessor of one of the most mobile faces of the modern day — could not always successfully hide his boyish grin as Republican enthusiasts traipsed by the presidential box, sometimes 16 abreast, in a grand promenade which frequently resembled a stampede of exuberant elephants.

Some of the comments which Ike occasionally whispered into the ear of his only son, Maj. John Eisenhower — resplendent in full army dress uniform — could probably enrich a few dozen footnotes of history.

MAMIE IS SERENE

First Lady Mamie, glittering in her Nettie Rosenstein citron yellow ball gown, looked poised and serene, despite the debilitating inaugural day, as she chatted happily with her daughter-in-law, Barbara Eisenhower, as young looking as a debutante in her pretty pink frock despite the four children tucked into bed at the White House, struck a more formal pose than her illustrious parents-in-law as she stood solemnly to review the grand marches.

The four ballrooms, tastefully converted into matching settings of red, white and blue decor, were literally jammed with bejeweled women and soup-and-fish clad gentlemen by the time the band-leaders began plaintively pleading for an aisle to begin the promenade for the Eisenhowers.

It was to laugh — which was exactly what Ike and Mamie frequently did!

At the gigantic Armory Ball, where 9,000 people all tried to stand in the same spot exactly in front of the presidential box at once, Jeanette MacDonald sang the national anthem. Then the four Eisenhowers, firmly backstopped by such dignitaries as speaker Sam Rayburn (Mr. Democrat himself), Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, and an impressive crew of other dignitaries prepared to watch the first grand march for the second-term chief executive.

The Eisenhowers, to the accompaniment of wailing police sirens, stopped next at the Statler Hotel, where Secretary of State and Mrs. John Foster Dulles were waiting to do the honors.

Leading off the rehearsed festivities were Wendell B. Barnes, head of the Small Business Administration, and his pretty blonde wife in her scarlet satin ball gown. The first few rows of grand marchers performed as elegantly as a line of radio center Rockettes, but the high spirits of the untutored soon made a shambles of the extravaganza.

Just as at the other three balls, the elaborately garbed couples slipped champagne, danced and talked until the President's arrival was announced. Then they somewhat undercorously lined up for the awkward and crowded promenade.

GOT NOWHERE

But the attempt was all but useless. The pressure of the crowd jammed the dance floor so tightly that after a moment or two, even the marchers good-humoredly gave up their half-hearted attempt to strut before the presidential box.

To break up the jam, the orchestra swung into a tune, "Mamie, You're So Wonderful," written especially for the First Lady.

As the Eisenhowers at last headed toward the White House, Mamie — gallant to the last — was heard to murmur feelingly: "It has been a very long day."

NIXONS ARRIVE

The Nixons, however, were still hard at it. No sooner had the crowd at the Sheraton-Park begun to head for the exits, than the President's brief visit, than the second family arrived to the strains of "California, Here I Come."

Nixon shook hands all around and then swept his wife-dazzling in blue satin — onto the ballroom floor for a twirl. Dozens of well-wishers, reaching out eagerly for a handshake, frequently blocked their progress, but the youthful Nixons kept at it.

At long last, well past midnight, they also fought their weary way to an exit, and the curtain rang down on the 1957 inaugural festivities.

Shown as they arrived at Elks Temple Monday evening were Mrs. Joseph McCarthy (left) of Draper avenue and Mrs. Michael Koren of Whittemore street.

Mrs. Matthew J. Gill (left) of Bloomfield Hills is shown as she was congratulated on her election as officer in the League of Catholic Women. Tendering her congratulations was Mrs. Charles W. Lodge, Anderson Speak to Group at Elks Temple

State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge and State Rep. Lloyd Anderson encouraged members and guests of the Waterford Township Republican Women's Club to bring the problems of the area to them and invited them to discuss improvement of government when they addressed the group at Elks Temple yesterday.

Lodge said that only in this way can a lawmaker know the needs of the people and help bring about good government. He discussed the state problems of education, mental health and conservation.

Pointing to the mental health problem, Lodge said that there are sufficient beds in mental hospitals throughout the state, but that the real problem is in the rehabilitation of patients.

There must be more and better trained personnel to care for these people who have been released from hospitals and who are trying to find their way in society again, he said.

Half-day school sessions must be done away with, and schools better equipped to meet the needs of education, Sen. Lodge declared. These are the serious problems we are faced with in this area. Keeping taxes from becoming a greater burden also is a concern of the lawmaker.

PARK PROBLEM
In the matter of conservation, Sen. Lodge said that parks in this state are in very poor condition. Here again it is a matter of finding adequate funds without placing unreasonable burden on the taxpayer.

Rep. Anderson discussed bills proposed in the Legislature, and the problems of annexation. He invited the group to attend a session in the Legislature to acquaint members with legislation.

Waterford Township candidates introduced were Louis Barry and Richard Kuhn, candidates for supervisor; Mrs. Dorcas Tibbals and Mrs. Helen Reese, candidates for treasurer, and Wilson Gardner, Ray Harrington and Howard V. Rummell, candidates for township clerk.

Other candidates introduced were Willis D. Lefurgy, for justice of the peace, and Willard Johnson and Oscar Loomis, for trustees.

Mrs. Lynn D. Allen, president of the club, introduced the candidates, and Mrs. W. Arthur Vernon, the speakers.

New members of the group are Mrs. Frank Morton, Mrs. Charles Campbell, Mrs. Willard Johnson and Mrs. C. Irving Foss.

Gingerbread Mix Is Used for Dessert

Mrs. Hawn Makes Upside Down Cake With Two Fruits

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor
Today's recipe is for a hearty dessert. Should you like to serve it in the summer time, we suggest you use ice cream in place of whipped cream for a cool topping. With either topping it would be good.

Mrs. Charles Hawn, who is responsible for this recipe, is a young homemaker with two small children. In addition she keeps house for several older members of her family. She gives time, when possible, to the Mary Lyon group of her church.

GINGERBREAD DELIGHT
By Mrs. Charles Hawn
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 package gingerbread mix
1 can (No. 303) applesauce
Whipped cream

Blend together butter or margarine and sugar. Spread in greased pan (11 x 7). Arrange apricots cut side up on sugar mixture. Prepare gingerbread mix according to directions on package. Pour over apricots.

Bake at 350 degrees 35 to 40 minutes. Heat applesauce. Divide according to portions (4-6). Top each serving of gingerbread with applesauce and whipped cream.

She Shops for China...and Profits

By ANNE HEYWOOD
"How did she ever think up such a good idea?"

That is the question most people ask when a friend or neighbor begins a really successful home service. It seems incredible, almost like magic, that such a good idea could be grabbed out of the blue.

Yet the idea is usually so sensible, so obvious, that we marvel that we didn't think of it ourselves. Also, nine times out of ten, the person who did think it up based it on a very real need of her own.

So it was with Mrs. C. Mrs. C. is a woman in her early 50s, widowed and alone, but vigorous and friendly.

"I thought of getting a regular first couple of years," she told me, "and it was just as bad on my morale as it was on my budget. I decided I'd have to get something to keep me busy and bring in an income."

NO BUSINESS SKILLS
"I thought of getting a regular job, but I have no business skills and I'm too old for many companies. Besides, I like my own little house and decided I'd like to work here."

"In this huge city, I knew there must be some service I could provide, but I just couldn't think what it should be."

"Then, one day, I broke a cup. Hoping to replace it, I went back to the store where I'd bought the set — just everyday china — seven years before. It was supposed to be open stock. That's a laugh, open stock! It had been discontinued, of course.

"This happens so often and it is so very irritating! After searching through every store in the city, I finally found the pattern."

"Suddenly, I realized how often my friends had made the same complaint about replacing china. So I decided to start a shopping service—just china! I could uncover pieces that were supposed to be open stock but weren't."

"I began by buying up a few pieces here and there and studied all the shops and potential markets. Then I put a small ad in our local paper.

MANY CUSTOMERS
"I charge by the hour for my service. Evidently, it's worth it to the woman who wants to replace a favorite pattern. I have a lot of nice customers; word-of-mouth brings more all the time."

If you have thought of a need which you think you can fill, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope care of The Pontiac Press for my pamphlet, "Pointers on Developing a Home Service." (Copyright 1957)

Move Hinges on Supreme Rule

Incorporation Blocking Awaits Appeal Outcome in State Court

ROCHESTER—A move to block incorporation of Rochester as a city hinges at the moment on the outcome of an appeal before the State Supreme Court.

The court will rule whether to reverse dismissal of a suit brought last November by a group of Rochester and Avon Township residents against Oakland County Board of Supervisors on the eve of action on an incorporation petition.

The court allowed the appeal last week, following dismissal of the suit in circuit court. No date for the appeal was set.

The suit asks a writ of mandamus against the supervisors, compelling them to act first on either of two previous incorporation petitions.

Austrian Choir Boys Arriving at Lapeer

LAPEER — Twenty-two lads who comprise the Vienna Choir Boys will arrive in Lapeer this week, where they will be presented in a concert Thursday night by the Lapeer County Civic Music Assn.

The 8- to 14-year-old ambassadors from Austria will be on stage in Lapeer High School auditorium at 8:30 p.m.

Wherever they go the Vienna Boys win friends for their homeland. Superbly trained, excellent in stage deportment, and with an angelic appearance, the youngsters are very much boys when left to their own devices.

Last year the Choir Boys of New York's noted St. Thomas Church on Fifth Avenue, whose history goes back to 1919, entertained their Viennese compatriots, whose history began in 1498.

After just a few minutes of embarrassed formality, complicated by the language barrier, both groups broke down and had a riotously good time with a "wild" basketball game and lots of ice cream.

This week's concert is the third number in the Lapeer series. Persons buying tickets this week will be notified that they may now order tickets for next season.
