FATAL FIRE — Detroit firemen examine damage to the German freighter Erato after a fire killed two crewmen and injured three others early today. The ship was tied to the dock when the fire started, apparently in the crew's quarters. The victims were West Germans.

Fire department officials said the dead and injured were among six men who were trapped in the crew's quarters by flames battled by more than 65 firemen and 17 pieces of equipment.

DETROIT (AP) — Two crewmembers were killed and three injured early today in a fire on board the 200-foot West German freighter Erato, tied up at the Detroit Harbor Terminal.

Firemen said the fire apparently started in the crew's quarters. It attracted a huge crowd of onlookers to the foot of Clark Street as heavy black smoke poured from the stern.

The dead and injured all were West German nationals.

Dead were common seaman Ernst Schroeder, 17, of Nordel, and able seaman Christian Kuckling, 25, of Eutin.

In Detroit's Receiving Hospital, listed in temporary serious condition with first- and second-degree burns were Klaus Peters, 23, of Hamburg; Heinrich Likendey, 24, of Bremerhaven; and Manfred Wenemann, 24, of Sternbeck-luhe.

The blast, given the code name "Salmon" by the AEC, equals 5,000 tons of TNT, and has about one-fourth of the force of the atom bomb dropped on Hiroshima in World War II.

Salmon is the first phase of AEC Project Drablie, designed at heating-up American scientific equipment for detecting, pinpointing and classifying underground nuclear explosions.

More than 100 Lamar County residents in the immediate area over the Tatum salt domes have been evacuated temporarily. For their inconvenience, the AEC plans to pay adult evacuees $10 each and children under $15 each.

GNU FLEW ZOO;
Crew With Lasso
Knew What to Do

PAIGNTON, England (AP) — Vivienne Proctor knew what to do when faced with a gnu. She called the zoo.

"Have you lost a gnu?" she asked. "Because there's one right here in my back garden."

The gnu, aged 2, was AWOL from the zoo.

The chap at the zoo said: "Leave it alone. It may be dangerous."

The gnu, a large African antelope prized by compilers of crossword puzzles, can have a savage temper.

Dreary Days to End by This Weekend

Dreary weather is forecast through tomorrow, but the weekend will begin pleasant and sunny.

It'll be mostly cloudy, windy and cooler tonight, the low expected from 38 to 44.

Tomorrow will have variable cloudiness and continued cool temperatures. A high of 47 to 54 is predicted.

Fifty was the low for this morning in downtown Pontiac. At 2 p.m. the thermometer registered 49.

IN THE MIDWEST WITH JOHNSON (AP) — President Johnson, who is telling Midwest audiences he expects the biggest election landslide in history, said today one campaign issue is whether to chop up the American economic system for firewood.

Swinging into the second day of an 11-state tour, Johnson stopped first at the racially mixed industrial city of East Chicago, Ind., where he appealed for liberalization of the immigration laws — something opposed by William E. Miller, the Republican vice presidential nominee.

Large and noisy crowds greeted the President in East Chicago before he flew on to Indianapolis.

In his text for an open-air audience in Indianapolis, Johnson likened the American economic system to a sturdy oak with its roots in the Midwest.

"And the issue today," he said, "is whether to tend this oak with care, nourish its growth as it must be nourished — or whether we chop it up for firewood."

URGES VICTORY

Johnson, who for the first time in the campaign began strictly urging a Democratic victory in appearances yesterday in Iowa and Illinois, again exercised his low-out vote getting style in Indiana.

He had barely reached East Chicago when he climbed to the roof of his limousine to wave at placid, cheering crowds that pressed in around his motorcade.

Standing bare-headed and coatless in the brisk morning air, Johnson brandished a microphone and told his well-wishers how pleased he was to see them.

Romney Sets Major Speech in Waterford

Gov. George Romney will be in Waterford Township tomorrow night to make a major campaign speech at a rally sponsored by the Waterford Township Republican Club.

The 7 p.m. public meeting will be held at the Waterford Township High School, 1415 Crescent Lake. GOP nominees for local offices will accompany Romney.

Romney, campaigning for a second term, is scheduled to deliver a half-hour speech, according to Dean Sallee, a director of the Waterford Republican Club, who will introduce the governor.

When Romney arrives at the school after visits to Milford and Highland he will be greeted at the door by about 100 "Teens for Romney."

It will mark the second consecutive weekend appearance of Romney in the Pontiac area.

WITH GOLDWATER IN TEXAS — Confident he is narrowing the gap in the presidential contest, Sen. Barry Goldwater flew into Texas today bearing charges that President Johnson is engaging in "political doubletalk" about his record.

The GOP presidential nominee was described by associates as perked up by private polls which indicate that while he still is trailing Johnson a number of undecided voters is increasing.

The Goldwater managers were not claiming at this point that a substantial majority of those who say they haven't made up their minds will swing into the Republican column in November.

But they felt that their grassroots organization would bring many of them around on election day.

One result of this trend in the private polls was the decision to continue a frontal attack on Johnson as a man willing to sacrifice veracity for political purposes and as one who shielded suspected wrongdoers.

Negotiation Stalls on Profit-Sharing Plan;
Talks Lag at GM

DETROIT (AP) — The threat of a new strike loomed over the nation's auto industry today as negotiators continued efforts to settle local plant demands and end a nationwide walkout against General Motors.

Fewer than 20 settlements were reported at some 130 bargaining units around the country.

National contract bargaining was broken off yesterday between the United Auto Workers and American Motors Corp., when the talks bogged down in disagreement over retaining a unique profit-sharing provision.

Douglas Fraser, who heads the UAW negotiation team, said that there is still time to reach a settlement before the AMC contract expires at midnight Oct. 15, but if no agreement is reached by that time "there will be a strike."

"I hope the company is not playing a game of brinkmanship," Fraser told newsmen.

UNION REJECTION
Edward L. Cushman, AMC vice president leading the company negotiators, said the union had rejected a proposal to finance increased pension and insurance benefits through the profit-sharing program.

Cushman was asked if he felt the UAW's turnaround meant that profit sharing was dead for the next three-year labor contract.

"I would say so," he replied. But Fraser disagreed, contending the profit-sharing provision was still on the bargaining table and any decision to discard it would not be made unilaterally by one side or the other.

The profit-sharing plan — termed "progress sharing" by the negotiators — was adopted for the first time in 1961 and is the only such program in the auto industry.

SPECIAL FUND
It sets up a special fund tied to the company's profits and used to finance some fringe benefits. Part of the money is set aside for the purchase of common stock for the company's 30,000 UAW-represented employees.

Meanwhile, the nationwide strike against General Motors entered its 14th day.

Despite a tentative agreement on national economic and non-economic issues, plant demands have kept more than a quarter-million workers off the assembly lines and shut off production of GM's new 1965 models.

Says Candidate Dominated

Aide Quits Barry; Hits Rightists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's legislative assistant has quit his job, and was quoted today as charging the Republican presidential nominee is being pushed "farther to the right" by a group of new advisers.

The Arizona senator was silent on the resignation of William R. Seward, his legislative assistant for six years.

Ted Kazy, administrative assistant to Goldwater, said Seward quit Sept. 30, and Goldwater accepted the resignation in a letter dated Oct. 5.

Seward was quoted as saying Goldwater is being pushed to the right by "a small well-knit group of new advisers."

Seward, whose telephone number is unlisted, was not at his Washington apartment and could not be reached today.

LOCAL BILLS
Kazy said Seward had been handling local bills and general legislation, and replying to inquiries about legislation, at a salary of about $13,000.

At Republican national headquarters, a spokesman said Seward "held a very minor functional position in the senator's office."

"His decision was his own," said Lee E. Edwards, assistant director of public relations.

"Perhaps its just as well he's no longer around."

Edwards said Seward dealt largely with Indian affairs for the senator, and had no part in the presidential campaign. He said Seward was in charge of the Goldwater motor pool at the Republican National Convention.

RECENT POSITIONS
The Post said that Seward was "disappointed and concerned" with some of Goldwater's recent positions on such issues as Social Security, extremism and the Cuban missile crisis.

"I don't think these statements were really Sen. Goldwater talking," Seward told the Post. "I think his advisers were speaking more for themselves than for the senator."

"Toward the end of the convention, several people, including myself, had the feeling that if you weren't with the new group, you were being watched pretty closely."

Little Effect
Scientists said the explosion of the 1,200-pound canister would cause little effect to the earth's surface and that the possibility of radioactivity escaping the big Tatum salt dome was "almost nonexistent."

The ground shock here, four miles from the site, will be a slight "rolling" of the earth, the AEC said.

In the evacuated area directly over the explosion, scientists said the wave would be felt as a sharp jolt.

Seismographic stations will record Salmon's short and violent life.

ROUTINE MATTER
The AEC said the Communist stations in Czechoslovakia, would record the detonation as a matter of routine, rather than under agreement with the United States. The wave won't reach the Czech stations until 11 minutes 45.2 seconds after detonation.

Immediately after the blast, AEC, Weather Bureau and Public Health Service experts begin continuous tests to detect any escaping radioactivity.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The New York Yankees pushed over a fourth inning run today to tie the St. Louis Cardinals, 1-1, in the second game of the World Series.

The Cardinals won yesterday's series opener, 5-5, for a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven games set.

Mike Shannon, hero of the Cardinals' first-game victory, singled, leading off the third inning, and eventually scored on a grounder by Curt Flood.

The Vietnamese sources said the helicopter had killed 25 and wounded 27 militiamen before the survivors turned and fired on it in despair to stop the slaughter.

The American sources, however, said an official investigation ordered by the headquarters of the U.S. military assistance command concluded the report was exaggerated.

An American field grade officer conducted the on-the-spot investigation yesterday afternoon, the American sources said.

The story also quoted Seward as saying Goldwater is "a wonderful man" whose policies are "basically middle of the road."

According to the story, Seward objected to "the new faces" that the senator has allowed to become his top advisers.

It said Seward described the change in atmosphere in the Goldwater organization since the Republican National Convention in San Francisco in July in this way:

Before the convention, Goldwater "was quite accessible. You could work closely with him and you could disagree with him, and he would respect your views."

But at the convention and afterwards, "the new advisers seemed to seal the senator off. There was no room at all for compromise or disagreement."

"Toward the end of the convention, several people, including myself, had the feeling that if you weren't with the new group, you were being watched pretty closely."

Rusk: Not Standing Still

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today that the Johnson administration was "marking time" on policy issues of the anti-Communist war in South Vietnam because an election campaign is going on in this country.

Rusk told a news conference he wanted to "hit that one" as hard as he could. He said the issues in South Vietnam are major issues of war and peace.

Rusk added that President Johnson has made it clear to his advisers that decisions with respect to South Vietnam have nothing to do with the election and should be made without regard to the political campaign.

On another foreign policy issue connected with the election contest between Johnson and Republican nominee Barry Goldwater, Rusk said the United States is trying to deal with the problems of Cuba in cooperation with the other countries in the Western Hemisphere and the Johnson administration has had considerable success in that endeavor.

PEACEFUL MEASURES

In the most recent meeting of foreign ministers of the Organization of American States, Rusk said, the OAS applied to Fidel Castro "what might be called the remaining peaceful measures."

These measures included further breaks in diplomatic relations and further cuts in economic ties.

Then Rusk gave what appeared to be a warm warning to the Cuban government that a serious situation will arise if Castro continues with any program of interference with other governments in the Western Hemisphere.

He also implied a stern warning to Indonesia against any attack on the Philippines, saying an attack on that island nation in the western Pacific would, under the existing treaty of alliance, "be an attack on the United States."

Rusk's assertion on this point drew out of questions concerning the visit here earlier this week of President Diosdado Macapagal with President Johnson. Rusk did not say anything to indicate that he thought an Indonesian attack on the Philippines was, at this moment, a serious possibility.

guarding the Aruba Palace where Tshombe is being held on the outskirts of Cairo.

Diplomatic sources in Leopoldville said Tshombe telephoned his government to allow the Egyptian and Algerian diplomats to leave their embassies.

APPEARED ONCE

Tshombe himself appeared on the shadowed balcony of the sand-colored Aruba Palace for breakfast. Until then he had been subsisting on fruit and congealed beer, which he brought with him on his plane.

Isolated in the palace and practically incommunicado, the Congolese premier was overshadowing the nonaligned conference. Even Egyptian newspapers, which are printing uncensored words of speeches at the conference, gave Tshombe banner treatment.

A Belgian who visited Tshombe was quoted him as saying: "I am really and truly a prisoner of war. I have been authorized for the past several hours to make contact with the Congolese delegation."

But I cannot use the telephone myself and cannot leave here. More than 30 intelligence agents are inside this house and a company of troops are outside. They follow me when I walk in the garden and watch me when I eat."

Nasser and President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria led the fight to keep Tshombe from the conference.

Judge Asks Change in 'War on Poverty'

Circuit Court Judge Arthur E. Moore yesterday suggested that the so-called war on poverty should actually be a war on ignorance and immorality.

Speaking before the North Pontiac Kiwanis Club, Judge Moore outlined a three-point attack for the "war on poverty."

At its next session, according to the Circuit judge, the Michigan legislature should provide:

- Compulsory school education through 18 years of age.
- Family education as a part of general education.
- Moral education as a preventive of crime and delinquency.

"Poverty may best be defined as that state of being unable to support one's self," said Moore. "(and) immorality is the failure to do what is right for others or for one's self."

AID SELF-SUPPORT

Thus, he said that the war really means an attempt to aid everyone to be self-supporting.

Judge Moore declared that the present age of 16 for compulsory education allows potential dropouts to prepare for dropping out when only 12 to 14 years old.

"Knowing this, our teaching system gives up about the same time," he explained.

Waterford and Pontiac schools, along with Camp Oakland, are the only places where an all out effort on behalf of dropouts is being pursued, he said.

MARRIAGE TRAINING

Education and training for marriage is an obvious need, said the Circuit Court Judge.

He declared that the $10 million expended per year for financial assistance for illegitimate families on ADC and welfare fosters marriage ignorance.

"Bad parents produce immoral children," he said.

"The judge added that the only hope of overcoming the vicious cycle was by "emphatic action" by public schools and churches.

FALSE BELIEF

Calling for moral training in public schools, Judge Moore said that the U.S. Supreme Court's decision has raised a false belief that the schools cannot teach morality if it has any religious background or connotation.

Ask to Dismiss Haulaway Suit

A motion to dismiss a lawsuit against the Pontiac haulaway companies and Pontiac Terminals Local 614 over seniority rights will be heard tomorrow by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore.

The dismissal is being sought by George S. Dixon, attorney for F. J. Bontell Driveaway Co., Inc., 245 E. Walton, and Motorcar Transport Co., 290 E. Tennyson, on the grounds that the question is under the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board and not a matter for the court.

The suit was filed by six employees of the two companies in behalf of more than 200 fellow workers, all Teamster Union members, on Sept. 22.

They claim their seniority rights were violated when the two firms were ordered by the union to hire more than 60 employees of the now defunct Contract Cartage Co., 353 Madison, when it went out of business at the end of the 1964 automobile model year.

Contract shut down after Pontiac Motor Division informed the firm that it would no longer need its services after August, according to the suit.

The suit asked that a permanent injunction be issued restraining all defendants from dishonoring the seniority rights and that the plaintiffs be awarded $500,000 damages.

For the past two weeks wives of truck drivers and maintenance men at the two firms have been picketing Teamster Local 614, 1410 S. Telegraph, in protest.

City Manager Announces Plans to Retire

BIRMINGHAM — L. R. Gare, city manager for seven of the 15 years he has worked for Birmingham, has announced plans to retire at the end of the year.

The 61-year-old chief administrator will submit his resignation to the City Commission Monday night. He will give commissioners a three-month notice.

Regarding his successor, Gare said he thought the commission would "make an announcement of its intent as soon as possible to forestall a flood of unnecessary applications."

Considered forerunner among possible candidates for the post is Assistant City Manager Robert S. Kenning, a Birmingham employee since 1960.

Gare, who came to Birmingham in 1949, served as director of public works and city engineer before being appointed to the manager's post.

During the last 15 years he has seen the city provide services for a population which has grown from 13,000 to 25,000.

He said he has no particular plans for his retirement, although he and Mrs. Gare would like to "see more of this country and perhaps other countries."

"Give me six months or a year at this, and then we'll see," he commented. The manager noted that during his nearly 40 years of municipal service he has had "perhaps five vacations that were two or three weeks long."

Gare, who holds a civil engineering degree from the University of Michigan, began his career in 1925. He served as assistant city engineer of Dearborn for 17 years before becoming city engineer for Ecorse.

Mothers of freshmen students at Marian High School plan to bolster the school's library fund with proceeds from a dessert card party Oct. 16.

The event is scheduled for 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the school at 7225 Lahser. Tickets can be purchased from Mrs. James E. Mitchell Jr., 283 Puritan.

Report on JFK Death. Noteworthy Document

The long-awaited Warren Commission report on the assassination of former President JOHN F. KENNEDY has been completed, submitted to President JOHNSON and released to the public.

It is an excellent document, one that may well take its place among the Republic's most significant papers.

Ten months in preparation, its 300,000 words say little about the national tragedy that had not already been established as factual and generally accepted as such.

But the intrinsic value of the report lies in its dispassionate exploration of the slaying of an American president with its related elements, and the objective conclusions arrived at.

Commendably free of editorializing or fancy writing, the findings should set at rest, except among the mentally warped, the welter of fantastic rumors, the fictionalizing and charges that have inevitably been aired.

The Warren probe stands out in sharp contrast to the bungling, prejudiced and vindictive report that followed the assassination of Abraham Lincoln.

That ignominious document was damned by the very expressed intent of its Congressional authorization to "inquire into the nature of the evidence implicating JEFFERSON DAVIS (erstwhile President of the Confederacy) in the assassination of President LINCOLN."

History in the one case and the WARREN report in the other have clearly established that both dastardly murders were committed by mentally deranged individuals with abnormal and uncontrollable sense of mission.

But one of the disquieting facts to emerge from the probe of the Kennedy tragedy is that with the close and intimate association American presidents traditionally enjoy with their countrymen, there can be no positive protection of presidential safety.

Failure of Socialism a Warning to America

With the failure of its system staring it in the face, the Soviet Union is introducing free enterprise methods into the economy in order to meet the people's needs for food and clothing.

The story of their inadequacy has appeared in the press again and again. And yet, there are those in this country who persist in advocating principles of socialism for the U. S., despite failure of the institution in many countries of the world. Russia and Red China are prime examples, with the Cuban fiasco exemplifying the utility in smaller nations.

These misguided individuals ignore the record of our great success under free enterprise, and the fact that Japan, which adopted our system, has become the third most powerful nation in the world. They overlook, too, that a most healthy West Germany had risen from the ashes of World War II by the same means, so that it has been able to rebuild itself and develop an economy the strength of which is the envy of less competent leaders all over the world.

Indeed, standing in stark contrast is its communist neighbor, East Germany, with its populace afflicted by economic desperation, unproductivity and despair.

It is but natural that our system should succeed, for instead of the bungling bureaucratic handling of the individual under socialism, it permits men to develop themselves to the full extent of their capacities. It is this that makes for strength of both the people individually and their government.

Socialism and its offshoot, communism, lead their followers along the road to disaster. That is why it is unthinkable that we should permit the destruction of the free enterprise system that made our country great — and gave us the highest standard of living in the world. It is at stake today.

Touch of Irony in Assassination

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — One of the ironies in America's sense of values is this: while it's a federal crime to threaten the life of a president, it is not a federal crime to kill him.

For this reason Lee Harvey Oswald did not commit a federal offense when he assassinated President John F. Kennedy and, because he didn't, it was the Dallas police who arrested him for violating the Texas state law against murder.

So federal authority has no jurisdiction over the case and hence no authority to investigate; to bring charges, or to prosecute the assassin in federal court.

Yet, it would have been a federal crime if Oswald had killed one of the Secret Service agents with Kennedy.

CONGRESS RELUCTANT

In dealing with some of the major problems of the presidency, Congress has exhibited such a strange reluctance that it comes under the head of inexcusable tardiness.

In all its history, for example, Congress has never passed a law to provide for a problem which has arisen before and could cause a monumental crisis in government.

This is the problem of presidential disability—how a disabled president passes on his duties to the vice president when he can't perform them and how he takes them back when he is able or thinks he is, although others disagree.

Immediately after Kennedy's slaying in 1963 it seemed — for a while — that Congress would make it a federal crime to kill, or try to kill, or to conspire to kill a president and others in line to succeed him.

GONE NOW

But this evaporated.

When the seven-man commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren finished its investigation of Kennedy's killing and issued its report on Sept. 25, it strongly recommended making it a federal offense to assassinate a president.

But Congress was in a rush to quit, which it did five days later. The subject is bound to come up again next year but there's no reason to think Congress will do any more than it has in the past.

It seems odd that Congress has delayed taking this final step since it is now 47 years since the legislators first made it a federal crime to threaten a president.

The Warren Commission said presidents have always received threatening letters and the volume became so great by 1940 that the Secret Service set up a protective research section.

Its job was to analyze and make available to those charged with protecting the president—meaning the Secret Service, above all—information from the White House mail and other sources on people considered capable of violence to the president.

His Double-Cross to Bear

David Lawrence Says:

Crowds Little Influence on Vote

WASHINGTON — Judging by the news dispatches on the presidential campaign, it would appear that there is something significant about the outpouring of crowds for one candidate or another in particular sections of the country.

Likewise, a great deal of LAWRENCE importance is being attached to the fact that certain newspapers in one region are coming out for one candidate while various newspapers in another region are endorsing the other candidate.

Neither crowds nor the endorsements by the press, however, have always been influential in reflecting the ultimate votes of a community or of a state or even of the nation.

Thus, for example, in 1909 William J. Gaynor was running for election as mayor of New York City. There were several newspapers in the metropolis but most of them refused to endorse Gaynor. Yet, while he had virtually no newspaper support, he won the election just the same.

What was the reason? It was because the Tammany organization behind him was so well put together and operated so efficiently it didn't make much difference how much commendation was publicly given to his opponents.

MEANING OF CROWDS

What do the crowds that greet a candidate really mean?

All the crowds put together that are now turning out to cheer either President Johnson or Sen. Goldwater are an infinitesimal part of the total population of 110,000,000 of voting age. Nor is it possible to draw from the size of the crowds the conclusion that this is a "sample" of how the rest of the electorate feels.

William Jennings Bryan, three times nominated for the presidency by the Democratic party and three times defeated for election, drew the biggest crowds that any presidential candidate had assembled before then or since.

He was a remarkable speaker. His eloquence was acknowledged. Curiosity brought out the crowds. When it came to voting for him, however, the people balked.

RINGING APPLAUSE

It will be recalled that in 1948 Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York made transcontinental trips and was received with ringing applause in many an auditorium.

His speeches were clear-cut. His background and training in the law gave his utterances a logical and fundamentally interesting sound to the people.

But, again, Mr. Truman had made a good impression in his three years as president and, though there had been a depression in 1946 immediately after the war, the administration was benefited by an upturn in the economic curve.

Mr. Truman didn't do as much campaigning as Gov. Dewey did, but he won the election just the same.

NO INFLUENCE

So the crowds or the speech-making have really had no controlling influence in many elections — though there have been times when a candidate who made good speeches was able to win, either with or without drawing crowds on his campaign trails.

Even in the 1960 campaign, there is no doubt that John F.

Kennedy was the more spectacular of the two candidates. He drew large crowds. He made a very remarkable impression on television.

Yet, in the final showdown, about 118,000 votes out of a total of 69,000,000 made the difference between victory and defeat.

The silent vote is hard to figure, and the Democratic politicians and organizers today are working hard irrespective of how big the crowds are or how favorable the public-opinion polls happen to be to their candidate.

Bob Considine Says:

Grim Tests on Animals Paid for With U.S. Funds

NEW YORK — Information Bulletin No. 3 of the National Institutes of Health (which has a government appropriation of $1,058,992,000 for 1965) provides information on the ways in which some of the money is spent for experiments inflicting suffering on animals.

One Canadian researcher has received $728,926 in National Institutes of Health grants.

CONSIDINE over the past 13 years, much of it spent researching and destroying animals.

Together with his Canadian and private foundation grants, the man's work has been bolstered by funds amounting to more than $2 million.

One of the grimmer beneficiaries of NIH grants is the Noble-Collip drum, developed in 1942 by the two researchers for whom it was named.

INDUCE INJURY

The drum has blunt triangular-shaped projections which induce additional injury when the animals strike them with every revolution. Usually the animals' feet are laped together to prevent them from trying to jump over the projections.

Each animal suffers about 100 falls against the projections per minute.

Laconic reports by researchers contain such clinical notations as "Animals were challenged with 300 revolutions in the drum" or "The drum was rotated at 60 r.p.m. for 40 minutes, causing the animal to be carried up by the baffle and dropped approximately 2,400 times."

Some of the effect of the drumming are bruising, especially over the skull and paws; teeth broken or knocked out; severe diarrhea; internal injuries including free hemorrhages into muscles; bruising of liver; enlarging of bowels, kidneys, lung, rectum, duodenum and stomach.

SUBJECTED TO SURGERY

Frequently the animals are subjected to surgery before and after being drummed.

In a letter to the "Lancet," British medical journal, six British scientists in 1949 called the Noble-Collip drum "shocking to a normal human conscience." But it still spins, here and abroad.

Mao Bomb Seen Replacing Talk

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — If Red China's Mao Tse-tung fires off his nuclear contraption in the next few months, it may be more a sign of weakness or caution than of strength.

That is, it may be Mao's substitute for stronger military action in Viet Nam.

In the weeks since the first incident in the Gulf of Tonkin, Red China has verbally blasted a way at the United States and made all manner of threats.

But U. S. officials have been surprised at Red China's almost complete lack of positive military action.

Mao moved a few warplanes into North Viet Nam. But the build-up of the Hanoi airfields in the months before Tonkin suggests that the plane movement was scheduled long before the U. S. raids along the northern Viet Nam coast.

This lack of action has tended to give some Asians the feeling that Mao's Red China is a paper tiger when faced by the United States.

School Bus Riders Need Motorists' Watchful Eye

I was traveling west on Maple Road when a school bus stopped in front of me, and so did east and west bound traffic. A young boy got off the bus and crossed in front of it. As he got to the yellow dividing line one car passed a car stopped in the right lane, cut in front of a car in the left lane, and narrowly missed the boy. It's a good thing that had hesitated at the yellow line.

God watches over small children. I believe he also watches over careless fools.

Bill Eastham is to be congratulated for the series of articles on Traffic Safety. He hit the nail on the head in analyzing Michigan's highway death rate. People believe they have the answer to solve our highway accident problem, but it is a combination of many factors.

Highway deaths will mount if the public and legislature fail to wake up to the points covered in his eight articles. Legislature must act upon the recommendations outlined by the Governor's committee on traffic safety and the public must insist that action be taken by our lawmakers.

County Juvenile Affairs Unit Sees Work

Group Tours Children's Village Site

The Oakland County Juvenile Affairs Committee got a first-hand look at progress of the $775,000 Children's Village project yesterday during a tour of the construction site.

Located west of the County Service Center on 50 acres adjoining the Pontiac State Police post, three main buildings presently under construction will provide housing and rehabilitation facilities for about 90 juvenile wards of the court.

Ground was broken for the project March 25. Completion is scheduled for Jan. 9, 1965. Construction is being partially financed by a $323,000 federal grant.

The two rehabilitation cottages, with a capacity of 25 youngsters each, are about two-thirds completed.

The third building, described as a semi-detention center for juvenile delinquents, is about one-third finished.

WORK DELAYED

Construction on the project was delayed somewhat by strikes during the summer. County officials are still hopeful, however, that the Jan. 9 deadline will be met.

James W. Hunt, director of the juvenile court and children's services, conducted the committee on the tour, explaining the layout and projected uses of the buildings.

The construction budget will cover the cost of essential furnishings, such as kitchen equipment, beds and chairs, according to Hunt.

There will not be enough money, however, to provide "extras," such as recreation and game room equipment and additional furnishings, the director said, because construction costs will be some $100,000 higher than originally estimated.

SEEKING DONATIONS

The committee is looking for donations to help provide the "extras" needed to create a home atmosphere in the Children's Village.

All donors will receive permanent recognition for their contributions, Hunt said.

Anyone wishing to help furnish the Children's Village may obtain additional information by contacting the juvenile court office.

Man Is Rescued Near Death Spot

YPSILANTI (AP)—An Ypsilanti Township man helped rescue a man from nearby Ford Lake Wednesday not 100 yards from the spot on Grove Road where his daughter was killed by a car Saturday.

Richard's daughter, Jacqueline, 10, and father-in-law, Edward H. Crilly, were buried Tuesday. Crilly died following a long illness Saturday, shortly before Jacqueline was killed.

Queen Sails to Quebec; Protests Grow

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II sailed today toward Quebec, where French-speaking separatists launched new protests against her weekend visit.

The queen left Prince Edward Island at midnight aboard the royal yacht Britannia on a two-day voyage down the St. Lawrence River to the heart of French Canada. She arrives in Quebec Saturday morning and remains until Sunday night when she leaves by plane for Ottawa.

Shortly before the queen concluded her two-day visit to this Quebec separatist organization "Le Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale" distributed 20,000 pamphlets in Quebec calling a rally Friday night to protest the monarch's visit.

Canadian authorities have taken elaborate security precautions to safeguard the queen during her Quebec stay.

NO ARRESTS

A spokesman for organizers of the royal visit said, however, the measures do not include placing separatist extremists under preventive arrest during the queen's stay.

The queen ended her visit to Charlottetown at a grand centennial ball, part of the celebration observing the 100th anniversary of the first conference on Canadian confederation in Charlottetown in 1864.

She wore an evening gown of jade green, with a fitted bodice. On her head was a tiara that had belonged to her great-grandmother, Queen Alexandra. Her visit to Charlottetown was without incident, as predicted, but security officials took no chances. She was closely guarded throughout her stay.

As the queen was saying goodbye at the dock Wednesday night, a swell moved the Britannia and the yacht's gangplank slipped from its platform and crashed to the ground. The yacht's seamen had it back in place before the queen completed her farewells.

Python 'Snaked' Away; Keeper Wasn't Talking

LONDON (AP) — Hunt for an escaped python was delayed until today because the snake's keeper does not speak on Wednesdays.

Dr. Rachael Pinney, 53, was in charge of Pythagoras, a 64-foot python, while the snake's owner, Lady Kimber, was out of London.

Yesterday morning she discovered that Pythagoras — Thag for short — was missing from his heated cage.

But it was Wednesday, and 3½ years ago Dr. Pinney vowed to remain silent every Wednesday until Britain renounces the use of nuclear weapons.

CALLED COPS

Elizabeth Curdus, 19, a student who shares Dr. Pinney's apartment, called the cops. They began asking Dr. Pinney questions.

She scribbled out terse answers. After an hour of this, the police abandoned the hunt until today.

Today not being Wednesday Dr. Pinney was talking.

I'm offering a 20-pound ($50) reward for Thag, providing he's returned alive and well," she said. "I'm almost certain he's no longer on the premises. I think someone's taken him for a joke."

'TREAT HIM WELL'

"If someone has taken him, I hope they'll look after him properly. He will be hungry and cold."

"He eats rats, preferably live ones."

Hecklers Bother Lady Bird, but Dixie Train Campaign Rolls On

upset her, "it put more vigor into our own voters."

But Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson faced some rough moments as groups chanting "We want Barry" interrupted her and Democratic party leaders before audiences of more than 10,000 at both Columbia and Charleston, S.C., Wednesday.

At Charleston it persisted throughout the nighttime rally at a shopping center mall.

"Reminiscent of Hitler," shouted Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana as he tried to quiet the hecklers. "There are young people here who have no sense of American democracy."

HECKLERS FEW
In both cities, crowds greeting the train-touring wife of the President were enthusiastic. Her hecklers were a tiny number by comparison, but they were vocal.

Thousands of pennant-waving supporters of President Johnson drowned them out only temporarily with shouts of "We want Johnson."

Boggs, Gov. Donald Russell, Sen. Olin Johnston and Rep. Mendel Rivers could not silence the Charleston hecklers. In Columbia, Mrs. Johnson stopped some of the hecklers when she paused after a booing and said forcefully: "In this country we have many viewpoints and I respect your right to express your own. Now it's my turn to express mine."

NUCLEAR CONTROL
She told the audience the ultimate responsibility for control of nuclear weapons "rests on the President."

Where she faced interruptions, Mrs. Johnson spoke more rapidly than usual, her face serious.

In Charleston she didn't make any comments, just waved a white-gloved hand in an attempt to silence rooters in both political camps.

The heckling didn't stop the all-out bid to get South Carolina to vote for the Democratic presidential candidate as it has in all but one national election in this century. And that time in 1948, it was for a native son, Sen. Strom Thurmond, running on a states' rights ticket.

BENEFITS CITED
Federal projects and benefits to the state were cited. Boggs noted South Carolina had a federal payroll of $2 million.

Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges of North Carolina, who is making the four-day Dixie tour with Mrs. Johnson, told the Charleston crowd, "you pay $461 million per year in state taxes to the federal government and you get back $1,023,000,000. If you want to be foolish, go ahead and be foolish. But I ask you not to. Stay with the Democratic party which keeps the city going."

Lynda Bird Johnson, 21, described the Columbia heckling as "rude comments," which she said "were not made by people from the good state of South Carolina — but by people from the state of confusion."

Graham Meets With Cardinal

BOSTON (U)—"Billy" Graham is extraordinarily gifted, and I am 100 per cent" for him, Richard Cardinal Cushing said after meeting the evangelist for the first time.

The two religious leaders chatted for 45 minutes yesterday at the cardinal's Brighton residence.

"I feel much closer to Roman Catholic tradition than to some of the more liberal protestants," the Rev. Dr. Graham said.

Dr. Graham had requested the meeting to thank the cardinal for his support of the evangelist's two Boston crusades.

The cardinal urged Catholic youths and college students to attend Dr. Graham's crusade at Boston Garden. "No Catholic can do anything but become a better Catholic," he said.

NO CRITICISM

"I have never heard the slightest criticism of anything he has ever said from any source," the cardinal said. "I only wish we had a half dozen men of his character to go forth and preach the gospel."

In discussing interfaith unity since the election of the late Pope John XXIII, Dr. Graham told the cardinal, "This started with you long before we heard of Pope John."

"There should be more agreement between faiths and I believe there will be now," the cardinal said.

Cambodia Prince Back From China

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (U)—Cambodian Chief of State Prince Norodom Sihanouk came home today from a trip to Peking and said Red China has promised new aid to his country with no strings attached.

"We have been offered new economic and military aid unconditionally," said Sihanouk.

"Among the projects for which Red China has offered aid is an extension of textile and cement plants and construction of an airport at Battambang, 180 miles northwest of Phnom Penh."

Sihanouk said Red China also has offered "light and heavy armament sufficient to equip 22,000 men."

Wives Aid Campaigns of Britain's Sir Alec, Wilson

LONDON (AP) — Two shy clergymen's daughters — Lady Douglas-Horne and Mrs. Harold Wilson — strengthen the political hopes of their husbands with quiet devotion, common sense and the knack of making their men feel like winners. They both do all they can to help without once diverting the spotlight from their husbands. Elizabeth Hester Douglas-Horne, 54, and Mary Baldwin Wilson, 48, come from rival political camps, yet their personal experiences are remarkably similar.

They travel endless miles, smile until their faces ache and meet floods of people as Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Horne, the Conservative party leader, and Harold Wilson, head of the Labor party, stump the country asking for support in Britain's Oct. 15 national election.

Each woman travels with her husband, sits on the platform with him, keeps his sense of humor functioning and offers encouragement if the day has been rough. "I like my husband to know I am nearby when he speaks," said Lady Douglas-Horne. Mrs. Wilson felt the same way.

In a series of recent interviews the two women have given a clear picture of what life is like for the wives of British political leaders. Campaigning usually starts in the morning and runs through a series of meetings in cities and countryside until late at night.

Widely read, a spare-time writer of poetry and an accomplished singer, Mrs. Wilson up to now has kept her family's inconspicuous, white-washed home in London's Hampstead Garden suburb separate from the bustling political world of her husband. The two Wilson children are Robin, 20, a mathematics student at Oxford University, and Giles, 16. All the family like to sing and play musical instruments together.

People used to say that Wilson projected a personality of chilly, machine-like efficiency — that he was so stuffed with facts and figures he lacked appeal for women voters. But he has a warmer platform personality now, and much of the credit is given to Mrs. Wilson. "I rarely give him advice," she protested. "Often I can spot little things which would never have occurred to Harold."

HEAR SAME SPEECH The wives hear variations of the same speech over and over. They have learned to laugh on cue, to appear grave-faced at the proper passages and above all never to get sleepy or seem bored no matter how stuffy the hall or hot the lights.

Lady Douglas-Horne, tall, distinguished looking and self-assured, wants her husband to sense her boundless confidence in him. She explained: "I have always known he was capable of holding any political office in the land. He is tough both mentally and physically. He can really lash out quite well."

NOT WORRIERS "We are not the worrying kind. I never worry. My husband is even more of an underdog than I am," I mean, after he has done his best he just stops worrying."

Campaigning in Britain can get rugged with hecklers shouting, people tossing rotten eggs and officials struggling to keep order.

Lady Douglas-Horne does not let rowdy incidents bother her. She resents what she regards as emotional, unfair criticism of her husband but she is too well-bred to allow her feelings to show. Mrs. Wilson also knows how to mask her emotions. She has fair hair, cornflower blue eyes and a peaches-and-cream complexion.

Flew to London—Just for Fun

2 Girls Sought Adventure, Not Beatles

LONDON (AP) — Two teenage girls who say they ran away from their Cleveland, Ohio homes to see the world — not the Beatles.

Janice Hawkins and Martha Schendel, both 16, told U.S. consular officials that England was just the first stop on a world tour they planned. The trip was cut short by British police who finally found them last night and picked them up at the request of Cleveland police.

Tired but happy, the girls were flown home today after three weeks of touring.

"Sure we like the Beatles and the Rolling Stones and some of the other groups, too," they told U.S. officials. "But that's not the reason we left home. That was just newspaper talk. We wanted to see something of the world."

BEEN SAYING The girls said they had been saving their money for a long time for the trip. Police said they still had $1,400 left when they were picked up yesterday and taken to the West End police station for the night.

U.S. Consul Henry Lillienfeld met them after breakfast this morning, before driving them to London Airport to board a plane for New York.

The girls, both 16, vanished from their homes Sept. 17, a day after the mop-haired Beatles performed in Cleveland. Their disappearance touched off a hunt on both sides of the Atlantic.

SPOTTED JANICE A policewoman spotted Janice Wednesday on crowded Oxford Street.

She told police they would find Martha in an apartment the two had rented about a mile from the city's West End entertainment center.

The girls were unharmed and happy because they had visited Liverpool, the Beatles' hometown.

"Apparently they've been touring around — all quite innocent — following their favorite beat groups," a Scotland Yard inspector said.

"They've switched allegiance to the Rolling Stones, another pop group over here. The Rolling Stones have a lot more hair, you know, enough to stuff a mattress with."

VISIT CLEVELAND The Rolling Stones are scheduled to visit Cleveland soon.

In Cleveland, Isabel Schendel, Martha's mother, said her daughter had taken nearly $2,000 set aside for college to finance the trip. Mrs. Schendel said she would fly to London to bring Martha home.

Mrs. E. W. Klein, Janice's guardian, said: "I don't think a girl 16 should be let alone in this country, let alone in a strange country. It is very strange they left in the first place with no reason at all except those silly old Beatles."

When Cleveland police asked the British to check into the girls' disappearance, the Home Office at first said it had no record they had arrived.

USE OWN NAMES Later it found they went through London Airport's immigration office under their own names on Sept. 18.

Every police station in Britain got pictures of the pair. At one stage of the search even the Beatles were asked to make a personal appeal for Janice and Martha.

But the Beatles declined, perhaps afraid more of their female fans would vanish until they called them.

Ku Klux Klan Has State Fair Exhibition

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The white supremacist Ku Klux Klan, noted for its robed and hooded secrecy, has an exhibition this year at the Alabama State Fair for the first time in history.

The exhibit is part of the Klan's current campaign to improve its image and recruit members to oppose integration and communism.

The faded white canvas booth that houses the Klan display is lined with small Confederate flags and has a large American flag and a Confederate banner waving on each side.

A large number of persons stop by the booth each day.

It is strategically located near the main midway where approximately 350,000 persons will pass before the fair ends Monday.

The front of the booth proudly proclaims: "United Klans of America — Knights of the Ku Klux Klan."

In the background is a huge figure of a hooded rider on a shiny white horse — all of which is lighted by fluorescent beams at night and a five-foot cross covered with aluminum foil and dotted with red light bulbs.

According to the man running the booth — "Bill, just plain Bill" — it is the first time the Klan has ever had an exhibit at any fair, anywhere.

"We decided it was time that our organization — which we believe is growing faster than any other similar group — gave more people a chance to see what we believe in. All of our members are proud to belong to the Klan," Bill said.

But Bill was shy about personal publicity. He refused to pose for pictures in front of the booth and said, "Wait until Bobby (Shelton) gets back, and he will be glad to pose." Shelton, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., is imperial wizard of the organization.

A big man who appeared in his 50s sat on a nearby car and called across to Bill. "Give the reporter some of our pamphlets. It's the only place he can read the truth nowadays," he said.

Police Hold Beatle Fans

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Police say they have in custody two girls who left their Indiana homes with plans to sail to England and see the Beatles.

They said the girls were found in a downtown hotel Wednesday after having been reported missing by their parents. The girls were identified as Kathy Ann Kulas, 15, and Janet Catherine Gybovski, 14, both of Hammond, Ind.

They were on their way to New York City where they planned to board a ship for England, said Police Sgt. Norman Bonnevillie.

Bonneville quoted the girls as saying they had hitchhiked as far as Pennsylvania.

'No One Way to Quit Will Work for All'

Says Many Factors Tied to Smoking

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK—A cigarette means a lot of different things to different people.

And that's why it is foolish to think there is any one method that will help all people who would like to quit smoking, a social scientist said today.

Smoking gets tied up with different habits, associations, and psychological needs, Dr. G. M. Hochbaum of the U.S. Public Health Service, Washington, D.C., told the American Public Health Association.

"When we speak of smoking cessation, we do not speak merely of a single, isolated change in a person's life, but of a rather radical and extensive disruption of a complicated, interwoven pattern of habits, of needs gratified, of pleasures derived, and of tensions released," he said.

"Smokers have claimed variously that cigarettes help them to relax, to concentrate, to sleep, to stay awake, to get over difficult situations, to feel self-assured, or to accomplish a variety of other things. It is difficult for many nonsmokers to understand that cigarettes could do all this."

DIFFERENT WAYS

Among any large group of smokers, "the approaches, methods and techniques to facilitate discontinuation will have to differ in some ways," he said.

Dr. Hochbaum said it is not necessarily true that "all people who go to smoking clinics really want to stop smoking."

Many a smoker may just want to shift the responsibility onto the clinic's staff, he said, leaving a door open to "rationalize away his failure to quit."

The smoker must understand that "each cigarette is merely a link in a chain of cigarettes, and that each cigarette smoked after the decision to quit has been made increases the power of the habit as well as undermines his psychological strength to resist the urge next time."

Dr. Hochbaum called for systematic research to learn more about psychosocial aspects of smoking, and to develop more effective ways "to help the large number of smokers who, desperately as they want to, are unable to stop."

Britain honors the memory of those who died in the two world wars on the Sunday nearest to Nov. 11 with impressive national ceremonies.

Wooing Detroit Businessmen

DETROIT (AP)—Armed with a slide presentation, pamphlets and a vacation guide, the East Texas Chamber of Commerce stopped here Wednesday to woo 150 leading Detroit business and industrial leaders at a luncheon.

"Our mission is not in the nature of a raiding party," said Chamber President Robert P. Green, M. D. "We are not here to try to take any industry away from you or from this section of the country."

Green said the tour was informational in nature, adding:

"We know that many of your manufacturers will establish branch plants somewhere in the Southwest during the coming years, and when that time comes, we want them to think about our particular part of the Southwest."

Housing Act Vote Magnifies Rights Controversy in California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The civil rights issue of 1964 is being magnified for California voters by a proposed state constitutional amendment involving the sale or rental of homes and apartments.

For Californians, the measure has become woven into the national political picture and may be a factor in deciding which way the state's 40 electoral votes go this November.

The proposed amendment would prohibit the state from denying a property owner the right of choosing the person to whom he sells or rents a house or apartment.

BACKGROUND

SPECIAL REPORT

Center of the controversy is the Rumford Housing Act, passed in the final 10 minutes of the 1963 legislative session.

The measure outlaws discrimination because of race, color, religion or national ancestry in about 70 per cent of California housing.

ATTACK ON LAW

The attack on the housing law was led by the California Real Estate Association. The organization collected the required 468,259 signatures to place the issue before the voters in the general election.

The key to the proposed amendment is a paragraph reading:

"Neither the state nor any subdivision or agency thereof shall deny, limit or abridge, directly or indirectly, the right of any person, who is willing or desires to sell, lease or rent any part or all of his real property, to decline to sell, lease or rent such property to such person or persons as he, in his absolute discretion, chooses."

NULLIFYING ACTION

This would nullify the Rumford Act, parts of other equal rights statutes and prohibit the enactment of future legislation barring housing discrimination. Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown says the initiative action is the work of a segment of the real estate industry and what he termed "the radical right."

The state Democratic organization has joined the opposition. The proposal has been criticized by pastors and rabbis.

The state Republican party has taken no stand on the issue. But the California Republican Assembly, a volunteer group, endorsed the constitutional change at a recent state meeting.

In the arguments, backers say, "state appointed bureaucrats may force you, over your objections, to deal with persons they choose. This amounts to seizure of private property."

Opponents argue the propo-al's real purpose is "to deny millions of Californians the right to buy a home. It would legalize and incite bigotry."

State Legion to Hold Port Huron Conference

PORT HURON (AP) — The American Legion of Michigan and its Auxiliary will hold their annual fall conference here this weekend. Presiding over the three-day meeting will be State Commander Duane T. Brigstock of Battle Creek and State Auxiliary President Pat Donaldson of Port Huron.

Peggy Goldwater Lets Her Husband Do the Talking

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — Campaigning is a family affair in America these days.

But in the Barry Goldwater family, the men do the talking. Peggy Goldwater made that clear on her first solo campaign tour on behalf of her husband's candidacy for president when she went through a whirlwind "Peggy Goldwater Day" in her home town of Muncie Wednesday without making a speech.

After being met by her children — Barry Jr., Michael, Mrs. Thomas Ross and Mrs. Richard Arlen Holt — Mrs. Goldwater explained she does what her husband wants her to do and tries to be a good wife and mother. She spent the rest of the day shaking hands with Muncie friends who stood in line nearly three hours at Ball State Teachers College. She waved to the 2,500 people who crowded Southside High School gymnasium banners and shouting, "We want Barry."

ACCEPTS PLAQUE

She accepted a plaque from Muncie banker Frank B. Bernard, inscribed, "To the First Lady in the heart of Indiana," while the band played "Peg of My Heart."

After a speech by U.S. Senate candidate D. Russell Bontrager, she left by motorcade for the

Gushy Obstacle (F)ails Try to Dig to Earth's Mantle

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) — Project Mohole engineers, seeking nothing but a dry hole for testing equipment, were surprised Wednesday when they discovered oil.

A pocket of oil and gas was struck as a drill bit was grinding in a basalt formation at a depth of 400 feet.

The unexpected oil provided excitement but geologists said the discovery was of the non-commercial variety in that it probably could produce no more than 1½ barrels of oil daily.

The long range objective of the $50-million Mohole project is to drill through the earth's crust and determine the physical properties of the earth's mantle.

Mrs. Emery C. Johnson of Tucson, former national committeewoman from Arizona and special assistant to GOP national headquarters, will make the keynote address in Columbus at the tent ballroom at the Neal House Hotel.

SILENT TOUR

Peggy Goldwater's first silent campaign tour ends today when she boards a plane in Chicago for Phoenix where the senator joins her for a day of rest before they leave for Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Mrs. Goldwater plans two more solo jaunts — a four-day tour beginning Tuesday to Omaha, Milwaukee, Harrisburg, Pa., Des Moines, Storm Lake, Iowa, and Chicago, and one beginning Oct. 19 to New York City, Huntington, N.Y., and back through Colorado, with stops in Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver.

Mrs. Goldwater told reporters she found her role as a presidential candidate's wife exhilarating. "I am buoyed by the enthusiasm of the crowd especially during our recent whistle-stop tour of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, where people joined the train and we got a chance to know them."

Traveling does not tire her. She's been flying with her pilot husband, Barry, since their marriage 30 years ago in Muncie and for the past 11 years while she's commuted between two homes — the Navajo "Be Nun I Kin" on a mountain just outside Phoenix and their two-bedroom apartment in Washington. One trip the campaigning Goldwater family will miss this year is their annual truck tour to Sunset Crater in northern Arizona where they go with saws and axes for pine knots to stick their fireplaces. "We'll need them for our next family reunion," she said, "the night of Nov. 3 when we'll all be together to listen to election returns at our Phoenix home."

Say Attaches Knew of N-Sites

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda said today that four Western military attaches accused of spying confirmed sites of Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The Soviet Communist party paper printed pictures of two notes it claimed were taken from the three American military attaches and the assistant British naval attaché.

One note said: "New rail overpass under construction."

Probably leads to ICBM site." The other said: "ICBM sites confirmed."

Both notes were written in longhand in English.

PRINTED ACCOUNT

Pravda printed an account of the attaches' 4,000-mile train trip last week across Siberia under the headline "Spying Voyage."

During the trip from Moscow to Khabarovsk, in eastern Siberia, the paper said, the attaches cleaned the windows of their train compartment inside and out "so the Pentagon could not complain about the quality of their pictures."

The Soviet Union replied Tuesday by accusing the attaches of spying.

MATERIAL TAKEN

Pravda said 900 photographs and 26 notebooks were taken from the attaches.

The four men are expected to return here Friday after stopping in Tokyo, Hong Kong and New Delhi. The Soviets may expel them from the country.

The United States and Britain protested to Moscow last week that Soviet agents broke into the attaches' hotel rooms in Khabarovsk, searched them and seized their property.

CHARGE REJECTED

The United States and Britain rejected the charge.

The attaches are Col. J. A. Aubrey, Lt. Col. Carl Liewer, and Maj. James F. Smith of the U.S. Embassy and Lt. Cmdr. Nigel N. Laville of the British Embassy.

The four attaches left Hong Kong today for New Delhi. They were booked to leave New Delhi for Moscow Friday.

Wants Place for Women

NORTHPORT, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Edward Thomas has offered a solution for women drivers who dread parallel parking. It's a "his" and "hers" parking system.

The Northport Village Board is considering the suggestion made by Mrs. Thomas.

The matter came up Tuesday as the board members were discussing parking problems. Diagonal parking is used on both sides of Main street for about two blocks.

Some months ago a city planning expert suggested that parallel parking was needed to widen traffic lanes.

"Well, I can't speak for all women, but I do feel it is much more difficult to park in a parallel space than in a diagonal one," said Mrs. Thomas. "You have to back into the parallel spaces and that can be difficult, particularly for women."

"So, I merely suggested that if they have to do any changing at all, they make one side of the street parallel parking for men and the other side diagonal parking for women."

Remote States Could Decide Election

(Editor's Note: This is an other report on voting trends around the nation.)

By MARTIN HEERWALD SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — It's difficult to imagine a more dramatic climax to a presidential election than to have the outcome decided by precincts reporting by dogsled.

But that possibility—although as remote as some of Alaska's polling places — has existed ever since the 49th state was admitted to the union.

Alaska first cast its three electoral votes in 1960 and joined its close Pacific Northwest cousins, Washington and Oregon, in favoring Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon.

Supporters of Sen. Barry Goldwater, 1964 GOP nominee, regard the 18 electoral votes of these three states — especially Washington's and Oregon's — as vital. Washington hasn't backed a Democrat for president since 1948 when former President Harry Truman surprised the nation.

Only three Democratic presidential candidates have carried Oregon in its 104 years of statehood and the last was Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1944.

But Democratic leaders in Washington and Oregon insist that President Lyndon B. Johnson will win both states in November.

They have more reason than the usual proud political talk to support their claim. Republicans in both states still smart from wounds suffered in the spring and early summer battles between Goldwater supporters and the rest of the Republicans.

Other Washington-Oregon observers, including most GOP leaders, believe the Goldwater-Johnson contest is very close in both states and subject to much change before election day.

Goldwater workers are coming on their standard bearer to parlay the underdog role into victory as did Truman in 1948.

COOL TO BARRY?

Traditionally Democratic Alaska, despite its support of Nixon in 1960, was cool toward Goldwater at the GOP National Convention. And the state's primary election in August showed a resurgence of Democratic strength.

In the Oregon presidential primary, Goldwater ran third behind New York Gov. Nelson

Roosevelt and Henry Cabot Lodge in a six-way race.

Registered Democrats in the state outnumber Republicans by 80,000, nearly a 10 per cent edge.

Since Goldwater's nomination, at least a score of GOP legislative candidates have indicated they will not give the Arizona their full backing.

NOT STUMPING

Gov. Mark Hatfield, keynote speaker at the GOP National Convention, says he supports Goldwater but the governor has not been stumping the state for the nominee. Hatfield isn't up for reelection.

Some Oregon Republicans believe Hatfield stands a chance to win the GOP presidential nomination in 1968 if Goldwater is soundly defeated. The governor hasn't squashed such speculation.

In Washington, Democratic Gov. Albert D. Rosellini apparently believes his chances of winning an unprecedented third consecutive term rest heavily with the success of President Johnson and public opposition to Goldwater.

Rosellini barely won reelection in 1960 when he campaigned largely as a "loner," rarely identifying himself with John F. Kennedy. With at least equal odds against him this year, Rosellini is campaigning as a member of the "Johnson-Jackson-Rosellini" team.

The Jackson is Sen. Henry M. Jackson who proved to be the state's best vote-getter, running against opposition, in the Sept. 15 primary.

The tallest Presidential candidate, General Winfield Scott, was 6 feet 5 inches. A whig, he lost to Franklin Pierce in 1852.

Special Institute Set for Retarded Teens

Classroom industries for mentally retarded teenagers in county schools will be the subject of a federally sponsored institute next summer.

A five-day institute, financed through a $6,200 federal grant, is planned for Aug. 22-27.

Harold J. Abrams, Oakland Schools' consultant-supervisor of junior and senior high school level programs for the mentally retarded, will head up the institute.

Abrams was named institute director by the Michigan Department of Public Instruction. The institute will feature three instructors, guest lecturers and 40 teachers. The grant will provide for a $75 stipend for each teacher.

ELIGIBLE TEACHERS

Teachers certified to work with exceptional children and who have two years of teaching experience will be eligible to attend the summer institute. Instructors of both the mentally and physically handicapped may enroll.

Six school districts in the county offered 12 different kinds of business operations last year, Abrams said.

In Pontiac, for example, youngsters subcontract to sort medical supplies, assemble personal care kits for hospitals, make bags and decorate Easter baskets.

All of this business activity is carried out under the guidance of the special education teacher.

OTHER INDUSTRIES

Other classroom industries include a nursery school, a skate sharpening business, key making, and a plastic laminating business.

Abrams said students in these special classes are motivated by real money rather than intangible grades.

The classroom "businesses" also give teachers an opportunity to determine the youngsters' ability to learn new jobs, their coordination, and fatigue levels.

No site has been selected for the institute.

'Can't Afford to Shoot From Hip With H-Bomb in Holster'

Sen. Hart Charges Goldwater Badly Suited for Presidency

By The Associated Press
Sen. Philip A. Hart charged Wednesday that Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., is badly suited to be president and pointed to the year-old test-ban treaty to support his claim.

Hart told a meeting of Kent County Democrats that in Senate debate Goldwater said he not only was against the treaty but also favored severing diplomatic relations with Russia.

"Truly, one of the frightening things about Barry Goldwater is that he often has simple answers for complex problems," said Hart.

"It doesn't take a doctor's degree in history to realize that simple answers are often the most dangerous ones, and no one can afford to shoot from the hip when there is an H-bomb in each holster," he added.

DEBATE TODAY

Hart was scheduled to debate his Republican opponent, Mrs. Ely Peterson today at the annual meeting of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce in Detroit. Others debating on the program—each facing the opponent in his particular race for office—were Robert Derengoski, ant governor; James M. Hare and William Milliken, lieutenant; Allison Green, secretary of state, and Frank Kelley and Meyer Warshawsky, attorney general.

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Rep. Neil Staebler told the seventh annual convention of the Michigan State Building Trades Council in Lansing Wednesday that the Michigan Republican party has a record of "anti-labor legislation instead of fair play."

He charged that the GOP governor and legislature "have quietly made the disqualification provisions of our unemployment compensation laws among the harshest in the nation."

RANKS AS LOWEST

"Michigan's average weekly workman's compensation check, as a percentage of the average weekly wage, ranks as the lowest of any industrial state in America," Staebler added.

Gov. George Romney, who toured various plants in Leans and Monroe counties before arriving in Detroit Wednesday, was scheduled to speak in Grand Rapids this morning and in the Motor City again tonight.

Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., a member of the Warren Commission, is expected to comment on that group's findings at an Ingham County Republican fund-raising dinner in Lansing tonight.

Thieves Grab Money Meant for Goldwater

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater's campaign fund is out $17. Two men entered the Evansville headquarters for the Republican presidential nominee Wednesday, asking for bumper stickers.

When Mrs. Vernon Hensley went to look for the stickers, one of the men fished $17 from a bowl containing donations. Another worker moaned, "I hope they need the money as bad as we do."

Wyandotte today and Friday, called Wednesday for partnership between citizens and police to fight crime. His remarks came in a testimonial dinner speech.

INVITES DEBATE

Raymond Clevenger, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 11th district has invited his Republican opponent, Victor Knox, to debate and discuss problems of the district.

Both men are residents of Sault Ste. Marie.

Meanwhile, the Republican women's "Bus Blitz" is in the second to last day of its scheduled 1,200-mile tour around the state. Stops on today's schedule were Grand Haven, Grand Rapids, Holland, Benton Harbor, Kalamazoo and Battle Creek.

Another Republican group announced arrangements for a six-day bandwagon tour of 50 Michigan cities—complete with name political and entertainment figures.

BARRY'S SONS

The announcement was made by Charles R. Slight Jr. of Holland, past president of the National Association of Manufacturers and now assistant campaign manager and a leader in the Michigan Citizens for Goldwater-Miller Committee.

Goldwater's sons, Barry Jr. and Mike, are expected to be with the cavalcade at various times.

Among the entertainers already signed is Gary Crosby.

About 12 stops are planned each day. The caravan will get under way Monday, Oct. 19 when it leaves Grand Rapids and heads toward Traverse City.

65 Arrested After Violence

NY School Chief Warns Whites on Sit-Ins

NEW YORK (AP) — School Supt. Calvin E. Gross warned that any more white pupil sit-ins like the one that erupted in violence and 65 arrests will be met immediately with counter-measures.

"We will not wait two days, as we did in the case of Public School 149," he said.

At P.S. 149 in Queens, 65 parents, most of them with children, were arrested Wednesday as they tried to lead first and second-graders in a classroom sit-in for the third straight day. They were protesting forced transfers to a nearby school in an integration program.

SUPPORT BY BARRY

The Parents and Taxpayers Coordinating Council announced today receipt of a letter from Sen. Barry Goldwater, which said, "Be assured that I strongly support the neighborhood school."

"I am firmly opposed to the transfer of children from their home neighborhood to achieve racial balances or for any other purpose without the consent of their parents."

The council had asked President Johnson and Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee, for their views on pupil transfers to improve racial balance.

Rosemary Gunning, executive secretary of the council, said, "P.A.T. is very pleased with Sen. Goldwater's forthright statement. We hope President Johnson will take a similar clear stand."

DOESN'T APPLY

In Washington, a Justice Department official noted that the civil rights law of 1964 specifically mentions the way the New York City Board of Education is trying to improve racial balance, but doesn't apply to the case.

The new law states that nothing in it "shall empower any official or court of the United States to issue any order seeking to achieve a racial balance in any school by requiring the transportation of pupils or students from one school to another in order to achieve such racial balance."

The official noted that the prohibition is aimed at the federal government.

The sit-in at P.S. 149 was led by Joan Addabbo, 28, mother of two and president of the Parents and Taxpayers of Jackson Heights. She says the fight is not against integration, but to save neighborhood schools.

FELONIOUS ASSAULT

One of the parents arrested was charged with felonious assault for allegedly striking a policeman and resisting arrest. The others were charged with loitering in schools, a form of disorderly conduct. The penalty, upon conviction, is up to 60 days in jail.

All 65 were released without bail.

Fifty policemen and fifteen policemen were at the school when the parents arrived with their children. The school is the one the children would have attended this year were it not for the integration program. They have been attending private classes.

As the crowd pushed into the school, carrying babies and leading children, two lines of policemen funneled the adults into the auditorium. The children were taken to classrooms.

In a scuffle several more people were dragged to the ground. A policeman and a man police arrested had blood on their faces. A baby carriage tipped over and a father grabbed the infant in it.

Judges to Hear Appeal by Post on Libel Verdict

ATLANTA (AP) — A three-judge Federal Court hears an appeal today for a new trial in Wally Butts' libel suit against Curtis Publishing Co.

Butts, former athletic director at the University of Georgia, won a $3.95 million judgment Aug. 20, 1963, from a Federal Court jury which ruled he was libeled by the Saturday Evening Post.

An article in the Post charged Butts and Coach Paul Bryant of the University of Alabama rigged the 1962 football game between the two schools. Both men denied the charges and each filed suit for $10 million.

Curtis agreed to pay Bryant $300,000 in a settlement after the Butts trial, but has appealed the Butts verdict. U.S. District Judge Lewis R. Morgan earlier denied a new trial of the Butts suit, ruling that alleged new evidence would not have changed the jury's verdict.

However, Morgan ruled that unless Butts agreed to a judgment of $400,000, he would order a new trial. Butts accepted the reduction but later asked for the full $3.95 million after Curtis appealed Morgan's decision.

Romney, Officials Meet on State Cherry Crop

LANSING (AP) — What to do with surplus Michigan cherry crops was to be discussed this afternoon by Gov. George Romney and concerned officials.

In the face of a bumper crop, Romney called the meeting to find long-range solutions "so that growers need not continually rely on stopgap measures in the face of recurring crises."

DEFIANT MOTHERS — Dozens of mothers in the Jackson Heights area of Queens, New York, are hauled out to court yesterday following violence that broke out at P.S. 149 where the group staged a sit-in. The women from the neighborhood were protesting an integration program involving transfer of children away from the local school.

Rocky Quiet When Asked About Vote

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, citing his right to a secret ballot, has declined to say how he will vote in the presidential election next month.

"I have consistently stated that I support the whole Republican ticket," the governor said in a statement Wednesday. But he added he also believed strongly in "one of the great traditions and strengths of our country, the citizen's right to a secret ballot."

"Because of my belief in this fundamental of our political system," Rockefeller said, "I have never said how I have voted and I am not going to do so now or in future elections."

The governor has not clarified his definition of "support" for the GOP national ticket in his public comments on Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater.

LONDON (UPI) — Mrs. Jean Stewart, who married her husband, Hugh, in 1940, divorced him in 1949, remarried him in 1956, and filed for divorce this January, has changed her mind again.

Yesterday she asked a judge to rescind the last divorce decree, which was not finalized. The judge agreed when he was told the Stewarts are living together again.

Britain Trying to Find Place in World

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

LONDON — British industrial planners now speak in terms of "growthmanship."

It is an outgrowth of a slow-starting but hastening evolution which is affecting all phases of British life, both economic and social.

How Britain is to adapt itself to this changing world is the greatest single issue in the current general election campaign which on Oct. 15 will be climaxed by voting to decide whether the Conservatives will continue to rule or Labor will take over after a gap of 13 years.

look to the future and the present.

The one attempt to foresee a world 20 years in the future — a time of crossing the Atlantic in an hour and a half, of automation and a time of planned leisure.

Needs of the immediate present resulted in formation of two new government-sponsored bodies.

In 1961 came the National Economic Development Council, and later the National Income Council.

Pathet Lao Protests Rightist Gains

TOKYO (AP)—The pro-Communist Pathet Lao sent a protest to the International Control Commission today confirming reports that right-wing forces have won back important positions in Laos.

Phoumi Vongvichit, former Pathet Lao minister in the coalition government, complained that the rightists have seized areas in the southern and eastern parts of Xieng Khouang attacks on Mt. Phou Koutt, southwest of the Plain des Jarres.

Vongvichit said the positions had been under the control of the Pathet Lao and the neutralists who came over to their side after the Reds took over all of the Plain des Jarres last May.

BERLIN (AP)—The West Berlin government has ordered an investigation into the shooting of an East German border guard during the tunnel escape last weekend of 57 persons from East Berlin.

The government said the public prosecutor would try to determine who was responsible and what charges, if any, might be made. It confirmed the shooting near the East Berlin end of the tunnel after a preliminary investigation.

The East German Defense Ministry said Sgt. Egon Schultz was killed, and the East German Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland hinted the agreement allowing West Berliners to visit East Berlin might be affected. Schultz apparently died in a gun battle between students who engineered the escape, and border guards.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—Jorge Manuel Dengo, Costa Rica's "volcano minister," told the Legislative Assembly Wednesday night, avalanches from Irazu volcano may force evacuation of the entire population of Cartago, a town of 20,000.

Irazu has been in almost constant eruption for months. Dengo was appointed to the cabinet to direct relief measures.

Dengo said landslides off the volcano are threatening to fill the rivers in the area, and the rainy season is about to begin. U.S. Seabees have been working around the clock building containing walls along the Reventado River, which flows past Cartago, but Dengo said silt from the volcano has already reached the top of these dikes.

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—The commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific said today, any explosion of a nuclear device by Communist China is not likely to result in a change in deployment of his forces.

"Explosion of a nuclear device by Red China probably would be more of a political development than military," Adm. Ulysses S. Grant Sharp told a news conference. Sharp said the Chinese Reds might detonate a nuclear device anytime within the next 12 months.

State Police Tell New Disaster Plan

EAST LANSING (AP)—State Police Wednesday announced a communications plan designed to keep radio channels from becoming disrupted by a flood of messages in times of disaster.

In each of Michigan's 83 counties, the plan would set up one communications headquarters to receive all messages from within the county. That agency then would pass information to State Police, said Capt. Richard L. Nicolen, deputy director of the State Office of Civil Defense.

Cadet Connoisseurs

Members Meet to Eat

CHICAGO (AP)—The requirements for joining the Les Cadets de La Chaine des Rotisseurs are simple: You must enjoy good food. And good wine. And be gastronomically critical. But one must forego the more pedestrian pleasures of bread, butter, salt and pepper. And no smoking until the three-hour dinner is completed.

And, no water. There'll be wine. Plenty of it.

Les Cadets de La Chaine des Rotisseurs met for its monthly dinner Wednesday night and pondered the culinary credits of roast sirloin a la perigourdine.

ROAST SIRLOIN

To the overworked housewife, that's roast sirloin with a truffle sauce.

The group — which a spokesman said is the only active such organization in the country — is the young adult offspring of the Le Confrerie de La Chaine des Rotisseurs, headquartered in Paris.

The 24 members, aged 21 to 28 (though some say they cheat), follow strict gourmet dining rules: no hard liquor, water, condiments, butter or bread. Smoking is allowed with coffee — which comes in the third hour.

IN PROFESSIONS

The organization was founded in 1248 during the reign of King Louis IX of France. The original group was composed of people who worked in the food and wine professions.

The group — literally The Cadets of The Chain of (Meat) Roasters — eat only meat which is roasted, preferably over an open spit.

The first hour — the aperitif or the cocktail hour sans cocktails — is a sort of reception featuring wine.

Then comes the second hour — dinner soup course with wine; first course with white wine; roast meat course with red wine; and the salad course with — for some unexplained reason — no wine.

Third hour — dessert course with, naturally, wine or champagne, then coffee — and finally — a cigarette.

"Smoking takes away from the taste of food and wine," said Joe Sue Duggan, the vice president. "As for water, you don't need it with the wine."

Term Lengths for State Posts Are Clarified

LANSING (AP)—Reapportionment may be causing the most confusion in 1964 Michigan elections, but length of terms is seemingly not far behind.

Questions from voters and comments from candidates indicate provisions of the new State Constitution dealing with terms are not understood.

These answers to commonly asked questions may help clarify the situation:

Q. For what length terms are the candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general running?

A. Two-year terms, just as they have in the past.

Q. But doesn't the new Constitution specify four-year terms?

A. Yes, it does. But this provision will not take effect until the 1966 general election.

NONPRESIDENTIAL YEARS

Q. Why not?

A. Because of the Constitution, which wanted the major state election held in nonpresidential election years so campaign emphasis would be on state issues and not overshadowed by the national race.

Q. Since the Constitution says state senators will serve four-year terms, does that mean some senators elected this time will serve two years and some four so that terms will be staggered as in the U.S. Senate?

A. No. All senators elected in 1964 will serve two years and all elected in 1966 and there after will serve four years. The terms will not be staggered.

WILL BE STAGGERED

Q. Terms for the State Board of Education and new Court of Appeals will be staggered, won't they?

A. Yes. That means members elected this year will serve terms of varying length so that the stagger can be established.

Q. What determines who'll get the longer terms?

A. In each of the three appeals court districts, the candidate with the most votes will win a 10-year term, the second highest an 8-year term and the third man a 6-year term. There after terms will be for six years. The board of education candidates are running for specific terms. Four are seeking two eight-year terms, four others are after a pair of six-year terms, four seek the two four-year terms and four want the pair of two-year terms. There after all terms will be for eight years.

HANDY WITH TOOLS—Educated and trained as a paper production engineer, homebound Kenneth B. (Skip) Covert Jr. lately has turned to woodworking and stained glass craftsmanship as an outlet for his talents. Here the Avon Township artisan poses with some of the results of his labors. He holds a stained glass window panel and behind him is a French Provincial credenza. On the left is a stained glass chandelier on top of an antique pine sewing chest with porcelain drawer pulls.

Ailment Has a Bright Side: Hidden Talents Uncovered

By LEE OLSON
Area News Editor

AVON TOWNSHIP—Time on his hands has uncovered a treasury of untapped talents for Kenneth B. (Skip) Covert Jr.

Sidelined because of a chronic liver ailment, the paper production engineer has turned to woodworking and stained glass artistry to fill his empty day-time hours.

Although he can work just a short length of time at a sitting, the 38-year-old craftsman has produced a number of decorative and useful articles since early spring.

A paper machine superintendent at the Rochester Paper Co., Covert found himself unable to continue working last winter. He underwent surgery in January after which he spent two months in the hospital.

As he began to recuperate, he decided he would like to do something constructive to keep busy. His father had received a stained glass kit last Christmas which he offered to his son.

MAKES OWN DESIGNS

Young Covert finished one design from the kit, then branched out on his own, working out his own designs. He also used material for new ideas from books that his wife, Nancy, 29, brought home from Oakland University.

With her husband at home, Mrs. Covert has taken on a full-time job herself, that of circulation supervisor in the OU library.

She also provides inspiration for many of her husband's projects and ideas for some of the stained glass designs and furniture he creates.

A graduate of Northwestern University, Covert majored in production management with emphasis on engineering but he said he never had time before to do much with woodworking which had always interested him.

Lake Orion PTA to Air Importance of Voting

LAKE ORION—"Does My Vote Really Make a Difference?" will be the subject of a talk at Monday's 8 p.m. meeting of the Proper School PTA.

Speaker will be Mrs. Charles Neldrett from the League of Women Voters. A discussion period will follow.

Fall Festival Planned

DRYDEN—The Fall Festival sponsored by the ladies of St. Cornelius will be held Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. A turkey dinner will be served from 1 to 3.

Area PTA Sets Open House

ROCHESTER—The North Hill PTA will open 1964-65 activities with an open house Monday evening.

The open house will follow the regular 8 p.m. meeting. Parents will have an opportunity to visit their children's rooms, where teachers will outline the year's work.

A bake sale and refreshments are scheduled in the multipurpose room during the open house.

Officers for the year include Lyle Windigland, president; Mrs. Robert Heritage, mother vice president; Martin McMurray, father vice president; Mrs. Ruth Smith, teacher vice president; and Mrs. Florence Mortimer, principal vice president.

Others are Mrs. Ben Lindquist, secretary; and Mrs. Howland Fisk, treasurer.

He has fashioned a number of pieces of furniture including a stunning credenza in French Provincial green that now serves as the focal point in the living room of the Covert home at 77 Randolph.

A footstool which Covert has fashioned from leftover material and scrap wood matches the big lounge chair in the same room.

But his pride and joy at the moment is a hexagonal stained glass chandelier which has six panels of stained glass set in a wooden frame. It will be suspended by a large link brass chain when completed.

As he gradually gets his strength back, the young craftsman hopes to spend increasingly more time at his new-found hobby.

MAY MARKET SOME

He said he is "toying with the idea" of marketing some of the things he has made but not until he has enough of a supply to show and sell.

Besides his wife, Covert has two other members of the family interested in watching and "helping" him work—daughter Karen, 7, and son, Clay, 5, both pupils at Meadow Brook Elementary School.

They spend many hours each day in their daddy's garage watching as he operates the large power equipment and the small shaping tools to create beauty and usefulness out of raw materials.

Study Session on Complaints

Farmington Focus on Industrial Park Area

FARMINGTON—Complaints from residents of Farmington Meadows subdivision have focused City Council attention on Farmington's industrial park.

Councilmen plan to hold a study session on the problem next week prior to their regular meeting Oct. 13.

Robert Smith, spokesman for the board of directors of the Farmington Meadows Homeowners Association, has presented them with five points to consider.

Heading the list is the complaint that there is no adequate buffer between the industrial and residential zones. The existing six-foot stockade fence does not provide sufficient screening, neighbors claim.

Other disturbances mentioned were noise, objectionable lighting and burning done by the industries.

SEEK ASSURANCE

Residents also are seeking assurance that all of the buildings will front on the industrial drive.

The 23-acre Alta Berger Industrial Park, north of Eight Mile and east of Farmington Road, now is an operating base for 20 firms. Room for about 10 more remains.

Plan Adopted at Walled Lake

WALLED LAKE—A new organization chart which temporarily eliminates the position of full-time city manager has been adopted by the City Council.

The plan to reassign specific duties was formulated by Mayor Wendel C. Kellogg Jr., who has been acting city manager since the resignation of Frank C. Derby Aug. 19.

Pay scales for full-time employees also were adjusted to keep the city functioning in a "highly competitive labor market."

The new salary structure establishes maximums for full-time employees to be reached in a number of steps.

An hourly schedule rate was adopted for road department employees to provide a salary and overtime pay comparable to police and firemen.

A proposed pension plan for the city's 11 full-time employees will be discussed at the Nov. 1 meeting of the council.

Talk Subject Is Curricula

Commerce Township

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP—"Why Don't You Have a Choice in Your Child's Curriculum?" will be the topic at the Union Lake Elementary School PTA meeting Monday.

Max Burt, director of instruction, and Nina Kropodolski, elementary consultant for the Walled Lake school system, will join Hugh Davies, principal, and Mrs. Geraldine Forsythe, first grade teacher, in a panel discussion.

Mrs. Mary Hansche, PTA president, will moderate the 8 p.m. session.

Remark to Heckler by British Minister Hurts Conservatives

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's Conservative party was in deepening trouble today as the British parliamentary election campaign entered its final week.

The chief reason was Quintin Hogg, minister for Science and Education, who said last year that the United States hires away British scientists because its own educational system "is compelled to live parasitically on other people's brains."

Day before yesterday a heckler's taunts of "Profumo!" proved too much for Hogg. He roared back, "If you can tell me there are no adulterers on the front bench of the Labor party, you can talk about Profumo."

Both parties had agreed to keep last year's Profumo scandal out of the campaign. Moreover, the British public has frequently demonstrated its dislike of personal remarks in politics.

Thus, Hogg's remark was widely publicized and it was expected to backfire in favor of Labor.

CLARIFICATION

Yesterday Hogg found himself making a clarifying statement. "Neither political party has a monopoly of vice," he told a noisy audience. This time he did not use the word "adulterers."

And for the first time, Prime Minister Douglas-Home himself was taunted with cries of "Profumo!" He ignored them.

John Profumo is the former Conservative war minister. He resigned last year after admittedly lying to the House of Commons about his relationship with party girl Christine Keeler.

LABOR AHEAD

Even before Hogg's outburst, public opinion polls were giving a slight edge to the Labor party. The Conservatives are trying for an unprecedented fourth straight victory.

Erhard Views Foreign Ties

Compares Relations
With France, U. S.

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard said today relations with France are realistic, those with the United States "are really air-tight" and renewed his offer of his good offices in differences between the French and Americans.

In an interview with the independent Hamburg weekly Die Zeit, Erhard said West German and U.S. relations "have improved considerably."

"The German-French climate has cooled off only in the imagination," he said. "Actually the relations have been put on a realistic basis at last. Nobody understands this better than (President Charles) de Gaulle."

WANTS TALKS

Erhard said he believed if President Johnson is reelected "he would like to have talks in Europe as soon as possible." Asked whether he would make available his good offices between de Gaulle and Johnson during that visit, Erhard replied:

"Johnson certainly would have no objection."

The chancellor said he pledged German moral and economic support to the United States efforts in South Viet Nam against the Communists. De Gaulle wants the whole area neutralized.

Erhard said Johnson told him at their meeting earlier this year that the United States is "not defending America in South Viet Nam but a principle, an idea."

"Of course I was asked: 'Are we Americans the only ones who are called on and obliged to defend freedom in the world and uphold law against force? Where are our friends?'"

"I promised the American president neither soldiers nor anything of the like. But I said to myself: 'I agree that freedom is being defended there, too, not only at the (Berlin) Brandenburg Gate, but everywhere it is threatened.'"

Accused Spies Ask to Leave

NEW YORK (UPI)—Accused Russian spies Alexandre Sokolov and his wife, whose trial was dropped because it would not be in the interests of national security, informed the government yesterday they wish to be deported to Czechoslovakia.

Edward Brodsky, attorney for the alleged spies who were charged with trying to pass vital U.S. military secrets to the Soviet Union, informed federal authorities of their decision.

Government attorney Francis J. Lyons said he had no objection to sending the Sokolovs to Czechoslovakia.

The couple appeared before special inquiry officer Ira Fieldstein in the deportation section of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Fieldstein reserved decision and said he would announce it in writing at a later date. The Sokolovs were returned to federal detention.

FIFTH DAY

Trial of the couple had reached its fifth day, last Friday when the government suddenly dropped its charges of espionage conspiracy. U.S. officials indicated that if the trial was allowed to continue it would result in the disclosure of U.S. counterespionage agents and techniques.

Bleach Zips Through Dirt

Mortified by dingy gray mortar between tiles in the bathroom? And weary at the thought of scrubbing and scouring it?

There's a much simpler solution: Wash it, then sponge with a solution of three tablespoons of chlorine bleach to a quart of warm water.

Keep the surface wet with this solution for five minutes, then rinse and dry. Besides whitening the mortar, this treatment makes the tile sparkling clean and sanitary, too.

The Parliamentary Study Club opened its 40th anniversary year with a luncheon, Wednesday, in the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

Recent Nuptials Are Disclosed

The Howard Taylors of Pine Knob road, Independence Township, announce the marriage of their daughter Sally Marie to Robert John Delisa. Rev. J. Kyle Elliott performed the recent ceremony in St. Paul's Methodist Church, Clarkston.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. John Delisa of Schenectady, N.Y.

After a brief northern honeymoon, the newlyweds will live in Birmingham.

Mrs. Clifford W. Mossey and Mrs. Charles Crawford presented a skit "Just for LaFis."

In the cast were members Mrs. Harry Vernon, Mrs. R. E. Springer, Mrs. John McNeely, Mrs. William Dorris, Mrs. Russell French, Mrs. Lester Oles, Mrs. Homer Feneley, Mrs. Dale Moats, Mrs. Theron Taylor and Mrs. Lee Hill.

Sixteen past presidents and eight guests were introduced. Mrs. Fred Goines, Mrs. Robert Dorman and Mrs. J. C. Norton were luncheon co-chairmen.

Late November vows are planned by Janet Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Williams of Osceola Drive and Arthur Lee Greaves, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Greaves of South Cass Lake Road.

Special Day, Dinner Dance for Group

The Italian-American Club and the women's auxiliary will observe Columbus Day with a dinner-dance, Saturday, in the club rooms on North Tilden Street.

Italian food will be featured on the dinner, with service beginning at 8:00 p.m. Russ Marasco's orchestra will play for dancing, at 9:00 p.m.

Mrs. Eugene Mazza is ticket chairman. Planning the decorations are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Soda, Mrs. Joseph Polina, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ronda, Gino Scarpelli and Russell Cucci.

The Joseph Spadafores are in charge of refreshments.

Drug Discipline Seems to Help Some Youths

NEW YORK — Aggressive, destructive, overactive lads quieted down, fought less, rebelled less and even did better in their studies when given small daily doses of a drug that is used in mental hospitals.

A report in the Canadian Psychiatric Association Journal says nine boys ranging from 6 to 11 years of age were studied in a Canadian hospital.

Each received the drug, Mellaril, for three weeks, a dummy pill resembling the drug for three weeks, and no drug at all for another three weeks.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice: Why can't I measure the skirt from the waistband and make it the same length all around? This would be so much easier than having the skirt marked.

Mrs. A. S.

Dear Mrs. A. S.: Most skirts need 1/2-inch extra length in back to compensate for the curve of the back hips. If your abdomen is large, the extra length will be needed in front. Check your own skirt and see if I'm not right.

Dear Eunice Farmer: I plan to make a suit in a few weeks and would like to know what to do to keep the curve at the bottom of the jacket from rolling back over the front.

Mrs. N. T.

Dear Mrs. N. T.: This can be avoided if the seams are pressed, graded and treated properly. First, grade your seams, trimming the FACING seam slightly shorter than the garment seam. Next, press your seams open on your Tailor Trix pressing board.

After this pressing, edge baste the faced edges. This is done with a small running stitch, with a back stitch every 3 or 4 stitches to hold the edge firm. This basting is done from the FACING side of your garment.

As you baste, you want to keep a tiny edge of your garment fabric past the seam line of the facing. This will prevent the facing showing from the right side. Press the faced edges with a dampened press cloth. Force the steam out of your fabric with the pounding block and I think you will be delighted with your results.

SEAMS DISAPPEAR

Mrs. "X", Lakewood, Ohio, wins a Tailor Trix pressing board for this suggestion:

"When the hem marks on trouser cuffs that have been lengthened are so stubborn that vinegar, ammonia, etc., fail to work, I have had complete success with this method. Incidentally, this came from a friend's stepmother who had been a seamstress in France."

"Work up suds with a mild soap and rub the stitches from the let-out section. Keep rubbing (or sponging) with the suds until the marks disappear and then press. If marks are not gone when completely dry, repeat the process. (If you use this method on any fabric other than wool, test first.)"

Dear Eunice: I am working with a skirt that has an inset in the lower edge to give it a slight flare. The points of this extra piece of material keep pulling out and I can't stop stitching them because the stitching will show from the right side. Is there an easy way to put this type of pattern together?

Mrs. M. M. D.

Dear Mrs. M. M. D.: The piece of fabric that is inset into your skirt is called a godet. It is stitched with the same technique that you use when inserting a gusset. Be sure to reinforce the point of your skirt that is to be slashed by stitching with a small stitch 1/2-inch on each side of the point. Clip carefully to the point of your stitching. Machine stitch each section separately, keeping the godet itself under your garment. In this way, it will be easier to see where you are stitching. Always stitch the side that goes from the lower edge to the slashed area first, then stitch from the point down to the other lower edge.

For complete Gusset and Gusset type details, send 10 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Sew Simple in care of The Pontiac Press. The easy to follow sketches will guarantee good results.

Two Musical Announcements

Pianist Leon Fleisher will be soloist with The Detroit Symphony Orchestra in concerts at 8:30 p.m. this evening and Saturday in Ford Auditorium.

Sixteen Ehrling will conduct the concerts which are the second pair in the Golden Anniversary Season of the orchestra.

Fleisher was the first American to win a major foreign piano competition when he took the Queen Elizabeth of Belgium Concours in 1952.

He will perform the Concerto No. 2 in B-flat Major for Piano and Orchestra by Brahms. The orchestral portions of the program will include the Brandenburg Concerto No. 3 in G Major by Bach and Symphony No. 5, Opus 58, by Nielsen.

OAKLAND SERIES

The appearance of soprano Roma Riddell, originally scheduled for Friday as part of the Oakland University Concert Lecture series, has been postponed because of the illness of the artist.

In making the announcement, Dr. David Di Chiera, director of the series, indicated that every effort would be made to reschedule the soprano at a later date.

The next attraction in the series will feature Wilbur Kent, assistant professor of music at OU, in a lecture recital entitled, "String Music of the 17th and 18th Centuries." His performance is set for Oct. 18 at 3:30 p.m. in the Intramural building theater. Admission for the public is $1.50.

Fire Screen

Use a screen to keep fireplace sparks from rugs and floor.

Always be sure the last fireplace coal is out before leaving the house or going to bed.

From Fur Parts

Furriers are giving new style to less expensive garments by using parts of pelts not previously worked. These include fur paws, sides, rumps, gills and flanks.

Doctor Cites Elderly, Children

'Need Earlier Appendicitis Diagnosis'

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Oldsters who stoically hide their bellyaches test the burden on their families as contributing to a sustained and appreciable mortality from one of medicine's theoretically "fairly simple" problems — appendicitis.

This was reported Wednesday by Dr. George D. Zuidema, newly named chief of surgery at the Johns Hopkins University Medical School, Baltimore, Md.

Here to address the American College of Surgeons on the subject "Present Day Management of Appendicitis and Its Complications," he summarized his remarks for reporters.

"Although this sounds like a mundane subject, a good many people still die of appendicitis," he said, adding the total was about 3,000 a year in the United States alone.

EARLIER DIAGNOSIS

Declaring that earlier diagnosis is needed, especially in very young children and in elderly people — where the diagnostic signs are "not so typical as they are in other age groups" — the doctor said: "The infant or very young child with a bellyache does not always get the attention given the young adult who can persist in complaining."

"And, as for elderly people, they are hesitant to be a burden on others — and they will be very stoic about their pain and will stick with it, without telling others."

He said that part of the reason for the sustained, appreciable mortality in a disease often correctable simply by removing the appendix is that "in some instances, people do not seek medical attention soon enough."

But he said that "in other instances, we (doctors) have not timed our operations' performance" with complete accuracy.

He said it is estimated that one out of 10 operations for appendix removal is actually unnecessary — that is, the appendix turns out to be okay.

OFTEN JUSTIFIABLE

But he added this: "The potential complications of appendicitis are so dangerous that removal of the appendix in a doubtful case is often justifiable."

"This can be abused, however," he said, although he added: "I have a feeling that this (unnecessary operations) is much less a problem than it was some years ago."

Asked what could be done about earlier discovery of appendicitis among the very young and the very old, the doctor said:

1. Parents and pediatricians should be "constantly alert" to consider the possibility of appendicitis "when kids cry and double over."

2. Young married couples offering a home to elderly people, and officials of nursing or settlement homes for the elderly, should be ever alert for signs of distress in the old folks — even when they do not complain.

Sifted Through Numerous Rumors

Probers Found No Link Between Oswald, Ruby

(Editor's Note: Following is the fourth in a series of special dispatches exploring rumors about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and how the Warren Commission dealt with them.)

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Countless Americans and others leaped to a conclusion on Sunday, Nov. 24, 1963, that Jack Ruby was on secret assignment from foreign powers or the U. S. underworld when he shot and killed Lee Harvey Oswald.

Ruby, now 33, is being held in Dallas pending appeal of his death sentence for the murder of Oswald, assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

In conducting its investigation of the Kennedy slaying, the Warren Commission naturally had to explore at some length Ruby's background and his motives for killing Oswald.

The commission affixed numerous reports that Oswald and Ruby were linked in the same plot. Rumors of a conspiratorial relationship between Oswald and Ruby also extended to others. They included Policeman J. D. Tippitt, who was slain by Oswald shortly after Kennedy's assassination; Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, who was shot at by Oswald on April 10, 1963, and Bernard Weissman of the non-existent American Factfinding Committee who signed a large black-bordered Dallas newspaper advertisement denouncing Kennedy on the day the President was shot.

Ruby, son of Polish immigrants, operated striptease and rock and roll joints in Dallas. He walked unimpeded into the basement of the Dallas Police and Courts Building on Nov. 24 and shot Oswald who was walking with officers to a car which was to transfer him to the killing jail. The killing was seen on live television by millions.

Many people came to the immediate conclusion that Ruby murdered Oswald to silence him. In fact, a group of Secret Service Agents in Washington watching the jail transfer on a White House television set came up instantly with the same theory.

CALLED MESSENGER

One of the agents, remarked immediately, "That was the messenger."

Voluntarily evidence led the Warren Commission to a firm conclusion: Jack Ruby was no "messenger." Like Oswald, he was operating alone. He was a moody, unstable character.

He was described by psychiatrists at the age of 11 as "ego-centric," a person with a strangely sadistic taste for settling arguments with his fists. He was a man who boasted that he could "hit harder than Joe Louis."

The Commission said it was unable to find any credible evidence to support rumors linking Oswald and Ruby directly or through others. They were not involved in a conspiratorial relationship with each other or with any third parties."

LACK LOGIC

Quite aside from evidence, the Commission attacked the Oswald-Ruby rumors from a point of logic.

In its report, it observed: "There are other reasons to doubt that Jack Ruby would have shot Oswald as he did if he had been involved in a conspiracy to carry out the assassination, or that he would have been delegated to perform the shooting of Oswald on behalf of others who were involved in the slaying of the President."

"By striking in the city jail, Ruby was certain to be apprehended. An attempt to silence Oswald by having Ruby kill him would have presented exceptionally grave dangers to any other person involved in the scheme."

CONCLUSION

The Commission thereupon concluded: "Whatever the legal culpability of Jack Ruby for his act of Nov. 24, the evidence is persuasive that he acted independently in shooting Oswald."

The report acknowledged myth after myth and dealt with them factually. One was to the effect that Ruby was a sinister gangster. After all, didn't he come from Chicago?

The Commission answer to this one was:

"There is no credible evidence that Jack Ruby was active in the criminal underworld. Investigation disclosed no one in either Chicago or Dallas who had any knowledge that Ruby was associated with organized criminal activity."

2 NIGHT SPOTS

Part of this sinister mythology obviously stemmed from Ruby's operation of two Dallas night spots — the Carousel, a strip establishment with four dancers, and the Vegas, a rock-and-roll place. Many Americans associate such places of business and entertainment with crime and, in general, the forces of evil.

No one, judging from the report, regarded Ruby as evil with the possible exception of drunk Carousel or Vegas patrons whom he had dumped onto the sidewalk.

Prior to the assassination, he seemed to have no political orientation whatever. He was bitter and sometimes violent against those he regarded as anti-Semitic. But his own rabbi said Ruby was too unsophisticated to grasp or have any significant interest in any political creed. Ruby, however, described himself as a Democrat.

He had been noticeably upset about signs in Dallas demanding, "Impeach Earl Warren." These referred to the Chief Justice of the United States who later headed the assassination investigation commission. Warren is unpopular in some areas for his participation in the 1954 Supreme Court decision on school desegregation.

And when Ruby first heard of Kennedy's assassination, he was visibly and audibly upset, according to many witnesses. He was in an office of the Dallas Morning News just after the tragedy and spoke of closing his night clubs immediately in respect for the fallen Chief Executive.

He also was quoted as saying, "I'll have to leave Dallas."

OFFERED REFRESHMENTS

Why was Ruby at the police station then? He had offered to bring sandwiches and soft drinks to officers on duty. A police official told him by telephone that the duty crew had just eaten, whereupon Ruby tried to present his sandwiches to radio and television men on duty.

Ruby spoke later to interrogators of "the certain mood I was in." Friends and co-workers described him as depressed and worried.

On Sunday, Nov. 24, his roommate said Ruby was mumbling and jabbering in an incoherent manner. Ruby said he was upset by something he read in the morning papers—that Mrs. Kennedy would have to come back to Dallas for Oswald's trial.

In testimony taken by the Commission concerning the murder of Oswald, Ruby said, "Someone owed this debt to our beloved President to save her the ordeal of coming back."

Ruby obviously knew he would not get away with the shooting, for he put his wallet and keys in the trunk of his car when he parked near the police station Sunday morning. He carried with him only a .38-caliber revolver, $2,000 in cash and no form of identification.

He entered the jail through an automobile ramp from Main St., stood behind a front rank of newsmen and officers awaiting Oswald's appearance. As Oswald passed him, headed for the police caravan, Ruby stepped forward swiftly and shot him.

RUBY ACTED ALONE

After exhaustive study of available evidence and extensive investigation on its own, the Warren Commission could find nothing to support stories that Ruby acted in concert with or in behalf of any other person or group. While there were many rumors to the contrary, the Commission could find nothing to substantiate reports that Ruby and Oswald knew each other.

They both were haunted by money problems, although Ruby's was on a much larger scale. Above all, both men wanted the limelight.

Says Barry Is Out of Step With Conservatism, Republicanism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey has blasted GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater as "a radical" out of step with the traditions of conservatism and responsible Republicanism.

Winding up a quick three-stop foray into Pennsylvania and Ohio, the Democratic vice presidential candidate told an outdoor rally in Ashtabula Wednesday night that Goldwater has voted against the 1960 Republican platform on every one of 25 major issues.

"So," Humphrey told the Ohio crowd estimated by police at 10,000, "I come to the conclusion that Sen. Goldwater is neither a Republican nor a conservative. He is a radical, not a conservative, and he'd rather be right than Republican, at least as far as the 1960 platform defined the policies of the party."

The Minnesotan went on:

"Radical Goldwaterism does not equate with responsible Republicanism. The Goldwaters have, in short, kidnapped the conservative tradition but are using it to mask a radical assault upon the very fabric of the American community."

Today, Humphrey takes a day off from barnstorming after traveling 2,700 miles and visiting 25 states and 56 cities since Labor Day.

He planned some strategy talks and some rest at home and will be back on the road Friday with visits to New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Indiana on his weekend schedule.

"President Johnson said at Atlantic City there would be little rest for Hubert," the Minnesotan commented on the flight home, "and that has turned out to be right."

PLUGS DEMS—

On his three stops Wednesday night Humphrey spent much of his time plugging for Democratic candidates for Congress and local office.

At Sharon and Erie, Pa., he was introduced by Miss Genevieve Blatt, who is running against Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa. Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, facing a stiff challenge from Rep. Robert Taft Jr., did the honors at Ashtabula. Humphrey was lavish in his praise of both candidates.

The Minnesota senator told the Ashtabula crowd that Goldwater would "dispense with modern, positive government" but that Democrats see an important, continuing role for the federal government.

The Democratic party, he declared, does not propose to dismantle "the federal government so that it cannot fulfill its constitutional mandate to promote the general welfare."

IMPORTANT ROLE

Humphrey cited social welfare, education, public power, agriculture, public housing and urban renewal as areas in which Washington has an important role to play.

"At Sharon, Humphrey said that 'in the main' the Democrats had fulfilled the 1960 pledge made by John F. Kennedy 'to get the country moving again.'"

"We have a gross national product that is the highest for any nation in the history of the world," he declared.

"And President Johnson is pledged to policies which will make certain that our prosperity is continued and broadened."

Economists to Confer

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The 12th annual Conference on the Economic Outlook, a meeting of distinguished economists from throughout the nation, will be held at the University of Michigan Nov. 19-20.

Eye Roll of Laymen in Church

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council's schema to give the laymen a bigger role in the work of the Roman Catholic Church probably will be revised after debate.

Led by North American bishops, a number of council members at the start of the debate Wednesday complained that the schema on the Apostolate of The Laity was wordy, vague, inadequate in its approach and patronizing in its tone.

"As far as I can tell, about all it does is say that laymen are nice people," said one Roman Catholic layman familiar with the schema.

Two American members of the commission that drew up the document, Bishops William E. Cousins of Milwaukee, Wis., and Allen J. Babcock of Grand Rapids, Mich., said they had expected the heavy criticism. "This is the only one of the council schemata that has not been in the hands of the council fathers before," said Bishop Cousins. "We had no specific suggestions from the fathers to work from."

BACK TO WORK

"When the criticisms are made and when suggestions are proposed, we can then go back to work and make the schema more specific and more the way the council wants it."

A council expert told newsmen there was a wide feeling that the present version was not acceptable but the council could not sidestep the issue any longer.

"The lay people expect the council to come out with a statement on the laity in today's world," he said.

There is a growing view in the church that an increasing number of nonordained men and women with an active interest in their faith are awaiting an authoritative statement on how they can play a more active role as Catholics, both in the Church and in the world.

No other council over the centuries has dealt with the issue.

The schema is general in tone. It talks of laymen following Catholic principles in their daily lives, in their jobs and in their relations with their families and neighbors. It praises laymen for lending their experience and skills to the Church and invites them to reply generously to the clergy's appeals for cooperation.

Nowhere does the schema open the way specifically for laymen to take an active role in the actual running of the Church on the diocesan and parish level in such matters as educational standards in the parochial schools, financial arrangements and diocesan film review boards.

LBJ Administration Secretive on Red Activity in Cuba—Miller

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller claims there is "far more Soviet activity in Cuba" than people realize and that the Johnson administration is not telling Americans the truth.

He also cited Cuban radio broadcasts and newspaper reports indicating that the Soviets were installing radio and dry dock facilities on the Caribbean island that could be used by submarines.

The Republican vice presidential candidate told an outdoor rally in Miami Wednesday night that American wheat sent to the Soviet Union apparently was turning up in Cuba in violation of the original sale agreement.

The crowd of about 4,000, including many Cuban exiles, cheered noisily when Miller pledged to help restore free government to Cuba if he and Sen. Barry Goldwater were elected.

The New York congressman continuing his forage for votes in the Deep South.

After addressing airport rallies at Sarasota and Leesburg today, he planned to go into Tennessee and Missouri.

Miller hit hard at the Cuban situation — an emotional issue to many in the exile haven of Miami — in an address delivered from a speakers stand erected behind the pitcher's mound at Miami Stadium.

He accepted a bare flag staff from an honor guard of 24 veterans of the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion. A spokesman for the group said they look to Miller and Goldwater to restore the flag of the ill-fated Cuban brigade.

GAVE TO JFK

The brigade had given its flag to the late President John F. Kennedy, who told them he hoped he would be able to return it in a free Cuba. Earlier Wednesday, Miller promised that if a Republican administration were elected, it would recognize a Cuban exile government, supply arms to Cuban "freedom fighters," and "let them fight to take back their own homeland."

He told reporters that a Goldwater administration would provide arms and other supplies but said he was making no commitments to employ any U.S. military forces to help oust the regime of Fidel Castro.

Miller also argued that, while the U.S. government urgently needed information about Cuban internal affairs, President Johnson's administration was restricting access to Cuba by exiles seeking such intelligence.

MORE RED ACTIVITY

"We have little doubt," he said, "that there is far more Soviet activity in Cuba today than we are aware of."

At the same time, Miller pursued his attack on Johnson in the area of domestic policies.

He said in Jacksonville Wednesday that he was concerned about Johnson running in New York state on the ticket of the Liberal party whose platform

LBJ's 'L.O.U.'s

If Johnson should carry New York with Liberal party help, Miller said, the President would have to pay off "L.O.U.'s" with jobs and legislation sought by Liberal party members.

Dixie Tour Over for Mrs. Miller

Campaign Ends With Optimistic Prediction

DOTHAN, Ala. (UPI) — Mrs. Stephanie Miller, wife of the Republican vice presidential candidate, ended her Southern campaign last night and said she thought the GOP had "a very good chance" of carrying Dixie.

Her trip through North Carolina and Alabama this week marked the first time the attractive brunette had campaigned alone and she described the experience as "very heartwarming."

Mrs. Miller spoke in six cities during her swing through Alabama.

Enthusiastic crowds at each stop heard her attack the Democrats for what she called a "smear" campaign against her husband and praise the growth of the two-party system in Alabama.

The crowds were not large, ranging from 100 to 500 people, but they were at teas or parties honoring Mrs. Miller and a big part of her appeal was aimed at the women.

MORE WOMEN VOTERS

She said she understood there were 96,000 more women voters in Alabama than men and if the women worked hard they could elect her husband, William E. Miller.

"If these women work for the vote between now and November I know we will be successful," she said.

She told GOP workers they could count Alabama in the Republican column in November if they kept the pressure on. The Goldwater-Miller ticket will appear on the Alabama ballot against a slate of unpledged Democratic electors opposed to their own party's candidates.

Mrs. Miller also plugged hard for eight Republicans fighting to take over one or more of Alabama's seats in Congress.

OBSERVERS AGREE

Most political observers predict Alabama will go solidly for Goldwater-Miller with the unspoken backing of Gov. George Wallace, but the full Democratic party machinery, including Wallace, is fighting to head off the Republican congressional challenge.

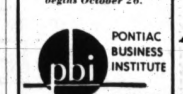

Her visit preceded by only a few days Mrs. Lyndon Johnson's stop in Mobile tomorrow aboard the "Lady Bird Special" on a whistle-stop tour of eight Southern states.

Talking Politics as Bullbats Thrum

Election Is THE Question in Hannibal

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A report from a UPI reporter who is touring the country by bus to take stock of folk and moods in this election year.)

By LOWRY BOWMAN

HANNIBAL, Mo. — The juke box in the Marion cafe blasted out a plaintive duet: "We'll let the world go by, dear, we won't mind, cause our true love was right here all the time."

Sing it pretty, Leon.

In the bar next door, four young men rifled half a dozen the 10 cents-per-game miniature bowling machine with single minded purpose. A young couple slipped draft beer at 15 cents a glass. Their 4-year-old son munched potato chips.

Outside a full moon rose over the Mississippi River, and the bullbats (nightawks) thrummed like a bass guitar as they swooped in and out of the clouds of mosquitoes and gnats along the levee.

It was Saturday night in Hannibal.

The streets were deserted, but Hannibal's 28-licensed saloons serving approximately 20,000 residents were doing a booming business.

MADE ROUNDS

Salvation Army workers made the rounds of each one with a silent tambourine and no words of reproach for the drinkers. They seemed to be doing pretty well, too.

Signs at a pleasant little park on the edge of the river pointed toward Tom Sawyer's cave and Huck Finn's island. A boy with a runny nose and torn shirt was trying without any luck to sell a long-dead fish he carried on a cotton string.

He called it a sheephead, but age had blurred its identity.

Inside the Hotel Marion (without bath $2.58, with bath $3.85) which doubles as Hannibal's bus depot, young John Bernal was helping out as bus dispatcher and night hotel clerk. During the day, he's in the sales department of a printing firm.

PAYING GUESTS

A big sign pointed out that use of the hotel lobby was restricted to paying guests, but passengers waiting for the 3 a.m. bus to Kansas City paid no attention to it. They were watching a Western movie on the TV set in the lobby.

"It's a nice town," Bernal said. "Seems like we're always getting bad publicity because newspapermen who come here always ask everybody about Mark Twain. I don't know anything about Mark Twain."

But Bernal was surprisingly knowledgeable about politics.

"This part of Missouri is all Democratic, maybe because we were hit worse by the Depression than almost anywhere else," he said. "Used to be a big railroad center and shoe manufacturing place. Now we have only two passenger trains a day, and the shoe plants are gone."

'DON'T KNOW'

"I read what Goldwater says, and I read what Johnson says, and I just don't know."

"One thing that bothers me is the way Goldwater treats reporters. He's always claiming he was misquoted, or he's ducking out a back door to keep from talking to reporters, and that bothers me."

"Maybe the reporter do make him mad. But the people need to know what he's saying, and how else are they going to find out?"

"On the other hand, everything Johnson has done looks kind of socialistic to me."

MAKES HIM MAD

"Young people my age are worrying about Social Security, and that makes me madder than anything I can think of. When all a 25-year-old man worries about is getting Social Security, then I say this country's in trouble. And then I think maybe if Goldwater's elected, none of us would live long enough to get it anyway."

Like most small towns, Hannibal has problems. It is desperately hunting for new industry and trying to capitalize on its status as the birthplace of Samuel Clemens to attract tourists.

Bernal isn't worried about Hannibal's future.

"Sure, we have our problems. A lot of the young people with college educations are leaving."

"But you know something that bothers me? It's this — I don't ever seem to hear anybody say very much about patriotism anymore."

Doctor Claims Ulcer Patients Good Workers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dear Boss: Be nice to your employees who have ulcers, because they make excellent workers.

Dr. Edward C. Rosenow gave this message to business men at a Kiwanis club meeting.

"They're superconscious, and don't have to be prodded because they prod themselves," Rosenow said Wednesday.

'Last of Barrymores' Back in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Young John Barrymore is back in town and working after an absence of five years.

At least I think it's young John. He says that's who he is, and the Barrymore voice, slightly Italianate, sounds familiar. But it is hard to recognize him under all that foliage.

He looks like a graying Beethoven. His wild thatch plus the luxuriant beard make recognition difficult. But the profile — ah, the profile. It stands out unmistakably.

He started acting at age 17 as John Barrymore Jr., the sole name-bearing heir to the great theatrical dynasty. He has undergone a number of metamorphoses since, including two marriages, to Cara Williams and Italian actress Gabriella Palazzolo.

EARLY YEARS

John did a number of films in his early Hollywood years, mostly as callow youths. Nine years ago he left for Rome's dolce vita. His billing became John Drew Barrymore, possibly an escape from his father's overwhelming shadow.

"I don't mind if my acting is compared to him," says John. "The trouble is that people expect me to live like him."

John, now 32, is back home, perhaps to stay. What has he been doing in Italy?

"Sixteen or seventeen pictures," he reported.

ANXIOUS TO ACT

Now he is anxious to show Hollywood producers what he can do. He's starting by playing a heavy in "Rawhide." Curiously enough, his last engagement here was in a "Rawhide" segment during the show's first season on the air.

Does he really expect to get jobs with the beard and Beethoven?

"We'll see how it goes," he remarked. "With some producers it may be a drawback. But when I went in to see about the part in 'Rawhide,' they told me: 'Don't go near a barber; we want you just like that.'"

HELL SHAVE

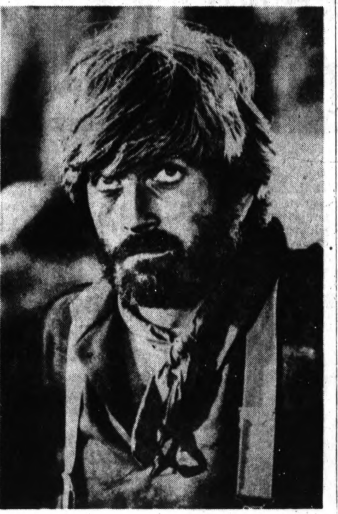

"But if I encounter too much resistance, I'll shave. I'm not at all proud."

Since his return, young John has been getting reacquainted with his family. He reported that his mother, former actress

Dolores Costello, is well and happy, as is his sister, Dede, who chose not to enter the family trade.

Then there is John Barrymore III, his son by Cara. He's 10 and a tier, his father said. And the profile.

"Yes, it's there," said John, "although you may have to look below several layers of freckles to find it."

Short School Day Scheduled Despite Claim of No Strike

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP) —

Despite claims by teachers that they weren't on strike and by school officials that schools were open, Pawtucket children faced another abbreviated school day today without regular classes.

A court order barring the Pawtucket Teachers Alliance from striking, picketing, or any actions disrupting normal school activities, was served Wednesday on the alliance president, Gregory W. Coughlin.

Coughlin accepted the order, but said, "so far as the union is concerned, there is no strike. However, neither has there been any settlement of the dispute which has caused disruption of school services."

"I for one will not resume my teaching duties until there is a satisfactory settlement."

STAYED OUT

All but about 100 of the 482 teachers in the city's 18 public schools have stayed out since Monday.

School officials have kept the school technically open to comply with state law. Pupils who have shown up for class each day this week have been dismissed within an hour.

tee, said that if the teachers refused to return to work the committee would take further legal action.

The alliance contends the school committee adopted a pay schedule without giving the teachers an opportunity to submit proposals.

The teachers have asked for a pay scale with a maximum of $7,300 a year. The scale approved by the committee has a maximum of $7,100.

The walkout is the third by teachers in this industrial city of 81,000 — second largest in Rhode Island — in the past 13 years. The last walkout was in 1957 and ended when a Superior Court judge ordered the teachers to return to their classrooms.

Coughlin called on city officials to intervene in the dispute.

"Our mayor cannot sit as an innocent bystander while school conditions deteriorate," he said.

"We urge him to intervene so that meaningful negotiations can take place."

U.S. Mediator Enters Dispute

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The head of the Federal Mediation Service has scheduled a meeting tomorrow in Washington, D.C., to try to settle the 26-day-old Southern California wholesale food strike.

William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, entered the dispute yesterday because of the "increasing seriousness of the situation."

Announcement of his intervention and scheduling of the meeting came in a telegram to the Food Employers Council which represents 36 wholesale grocery firms and the Teamsters Union.

Picketing and scheduled picketing at some outlets in Washington, Philadelphia, Pa., and Richmond and San Diego in California were halted or delayed voluntarily today.

The council yesterday also was granted a Superior Court order limiting picketing at some of the 100 facilities in Southern California that had been picketed.

EFFORTS TO RESUME

In other developments, efforts were under way for resumption of negotiations between Teamsters Local 626 and 44 independent meat packers.

The AFL-CIO Meat Cutters union and the meat packers also are negotiating on a new contract.

The cutters have agreed to delay any possible strike action until after Saturday.

Taxis, Bars, Women Have Olympic Spirit

TOKYO — Tipping is out. So is running red lights. It definitely is not the season for sin.

Torch bearing is in. So are calling cards. And a camera clicking is bigger than ever.

That's the state of fads and foibles in Tokyo on the eve of the Olympic Games.

The tipping problem is serious. A fellow who puts yen under his plate runs the risk of being chased down the hall by a comely young waitress in kimono, yearning to give it back.

Bellhops spurn tips. Even taxi drivers won't take them.

TAXIS WILD

That is enough of a upset, but the real shocker is the way the taxi boys are driving.

The Kamikaze approach has been waived for the Games.

Ordinarily, you can hear the sound of crunching fenders and blaring horns as far away as Nome, Alaska. But not now.

It's all part of the Olympic spirit.

The saloons have got it, too. They are closing well before midnight, until the Games are over.

Ordinarily they shut up shop only long enough to sweep out the embers.

Even smiling is frowned on. The city fathers, or maybe it was the mothers, flooded the town with instructions directed at the daughters of Nippon.

The pamphlets told the girls to be friendly, but to avoid smiling at the visitors.

"A big smile might be misinterpreted," the pamphlet said. Actually, that's where those Australian weight lifters made their mistake the other a.m.

HIGH COST

A pair of the boys from Down Under made the night club scene, ordered three beers, had a little chit-chat with the girls at the bar and wound up with a tab for $87. Even though the beers were quarts, $29 each seemed a little steep.

Whv. a bunch of the New York Yankees tore up the Coca-Cola at three a.m. a few years ago and it didn't cost them much more than that.

But the smiling hostesses should have tipped the boys off. Those girls hadn't read the pamphlet.

They were thirsty girls, too. Must have been. They knocked back 28 double whiskeys like they were nothing but colored water.

U. S. Olympic Cagers Paired With Australia

TOKYO (AP) — The United States will open Olympic Games basketball play against Australia in the closing game of first day action Sunday. Pairings drawn Thursday by the International Basketball Federation seeded the defending champion American team number one in "B" bracket, with Russia number one in "A" bracket.

Russia and the U.S. will not meet in the seven-game preliminary round pairings.

The top four teams at the end of the first round will advance to a championship round-robin, giving the quartet a total of 10 games in 12 days.

Tokyo Scalpers Thrive

TOKYO — Scalper ticket prices to the Tokyo Olympics opening here Saturday have rocketed as high as $500 — if you want to sit near Japan's Emperor Hirohito.

"Most deplorable," declared Ise Yoshimasa, chief of the Tokyo Organizing Committee's ticket section when told of the scalpers.

But millions of persons in Japan, the United States and Europe will see a great deal more than a $500 ticket will buy — for about five cents worth of electricity — on television.

That's a direct benefit of America's Syncom III satellite and 11 live telecasts to be bounced off the satellite by NHK, Japan's government-owned television outlet.

Visitors to Japan, and those already here for commercial purposes, are registering concern over the high cost of Olympic tickets as opening day fast approaches.

Scalpers in Tokyo are searching out status seekers willing to pay $500 to sit near Japan's emperor, or $250 to sit close to IOC President Avery Brundage.

If those prices are too rich for your blood, other seats to a variety of events are selling anywhere from 25,000 yen, $69.45, to as high as the traffic will bear. One well-known restaurant here is selling them "under the table" for 60,000 yen, $166.67.

Prime targets for scalper tickets are the foreign businessmen who — as a business courtesy — provide tickets gratis to clients.

A spokesman for one firm, which declined to be named because it does a multi-million business with the U.S. forces here, said, "Prices are outrageous... considerably more so when you consider that these tickets are for the Olympics."

"It's understandable when you have to submit to highway robbery for a title boxing match or some comparable event — but not the Olympics," he said.

Businessmen point out that the scalping campaign is well-organized with scalpers working from "sucker lists" obviously prepared well in advance.

"The fact is," the spokesman continued, "the Olympics above all else should never be used as an excuse for robbing the public. The Olympics was never conceived with this purpose in mind."

He said, "There's no question that there's a need for much tighter control over tickets and even though it's probably too late to do anything about it here in Tokyo, I hope something will be done about it before the next Olympics is staged in Mexico."

"As for myself — I'm going to watch the Olympics on television."

Brundage and his purty-minded International Olympic Committee even from on oats.

The horses in the Olympics are like the pro golfers. They and their owner-riders barnstorm the world, picking up ribbons and rich purses in horse shows.

The big money is in the jumping class but there are also prizes for the dressage.

"A good dressage horse can get as much as $400 a show, especially in Europe," said Jessica Newbury of Ausable Forks, N. Y. "But it's only enough to keep the horse in oats."

Qualifying Led by Roy Saari

Large Crowd Sees Relay Team Chosen

TOKYO (AP) — Roy Saari of El Segundo, Calif., turned in a sensational time of 1:59.5 to qualify today for the U.S. 800-meter freestyle swimming relay team and earn the chance to try for four Olympic gold medals.

Nine crack swimmers vied for places on the team, one of which had already been awarded to Don Schollander of Lake Oswego, Ore., the world record holder at 1:57.6. Steve Clark, Los Altos, Calif., 2:00.1, and Gary Ilman, San Jose, Calif., 2:00.2, were the other qualifiers.

DRAW CROWD

The tuneup of the American team attracted a crowd of several thousand to the modernistic swimming pool that seats 15,000.

The Games open here at Saturday, with a steady drizzle threatening to continue until then.

Saari, who recently set a world record of 16:58.7 for the 1,500 meter swim — first man ever to break the 17-minute barrier — will compete in the event along with the 400-meter freestyle and 400-meter medley.

He could win all three individual events, and the American 800-meter relay team is an overwhelming favorite to retain the gold medal won at Rome four years ago.

Because of the great strength of the American swimming team, a second relay combination was selected to compete in the preliminary heats, thereby saving the four for the finals. This is permissible under the Olympic rules.

Chosen for the second team were: Bill Mettler, Mesa, Ariz., 2:00.7; Ed Townsend, Santa Clara, Calif., 2:01.3; Mike Wall, San Jose, Calif., 2:02.0; and Dave Lyons, Kenilworth, Ill., 2:02.0.

Carl Robie, Drexel Hill, Pa., 2:00.4; Bob Bennett, Long Beach, Calif., 2:00.3, and John Nelson, Pompano Beach, Calif., 2:01.7 had better times than members of the second team but since all three are competing in individual races they were not chosen for the "B" squad.

"We did this to give everyone a chance to compete in the Olympics," said Dr. James Councilman, of Bloomington, Ind., coach of the men's swimming team. "The boys did not go all out today."

Mettler, Wall, Lyons and Schollander set the world record of 8:01.8 for the relay in a practice meet in Los Angeles Sept. 26 just before leaving for Tokyo. Meanwhile, final preparations for the Games went forward.

ALL READY

Every arena was ready for the 8,000 athletes from 93 nations, and the developments of the Olympic front:

1 — The International Football (Soccer) Federation suspended South Africa for its apartheid racial policies.

2 — The International Olympic Committee postponed its meeting in Madrid next year a decision on the appeal of East Germany for representation on the IOC separate from West Germany. The two now compete as a single team in what President Avery Brundage considers an outstanding example of reconciliation through sport.

3 — Mexico City was awarded the 1970 World Football (Soccer) Cup. It will also stage the 1970 Olympic games.

4 — Indonesia threatened to withdraw from the Games unless the ban imposed on those athletes who participated in the 1962 World New Emerging Forces in Jakarta last year is lifted.

Texas, Oklahoma 11s Ready for Grid Feud

DALLAS (AP) —Texas and Oklahoma clash for the 50th time Saturday in a game marked by unusual happenings, fistfights and "jaw to jaw" football.

Texas, the nation's No. 1 team, puts a 14-game winning streak on the line. Oklahoma has a one-game losing streak over which it is pretty bitter and would like to take it out on an ancient rival.

Such things as finishing the game without goal posts and a virtual free-for-all fight have marked the Southwest's oldest football rivalry.

Handball to Start

A handball program for adults will get under way Monday at Pontiac Northern High School. Persons participating in the program—sponsored by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, will meet twice a week—Monday and Wednesday—from 7 to 10 p.m.

Included in the handball sessions will be instruction in the fundamentals of the game. Paddleball will also be available.

Those taking part in the program will be assessed a small fee for each session they attend to cover cost of maintenance.

Texas turns Ernie Koy loose to batter the Oklahoma ramblers for the last time and the powerful and versatile tailback would like to make it five for the Koy family.

FAMILY AFFAIR

His father led Texas to three victories 30 years ago. Young Ernie did it as a sophomore but missed last year's game because of an injury.

Oklahoma has fewer Texans on the team than ordinarily. In fact, there will be only two in the starting line-up. One of them is Jim Graham, a brilliant fullback who was a high school teammate of Harold Phillip, the Texas fullback, at Olney.

Statistics do not indicate that Oklahoma has much chance. The Sooners have played two games, winning one and losing one, and their offensive average is 235 yards per game.

Texas averages 50 yards more. Oklahoma has allowed 239 yards per outing on defense; Texas has limited three foes to an average of 108.7.

Past records mean little, however, in this intense rivalry that started 64 years ago. Coach Darrell Royal of Texas has discounted Oklahoma's 40-14 loss to Southern California with the comment that Oklahoma "has a lot of potential and hasn't hit its peak. It may do it Saturday."

But Texas will be after its seventh straight triumph over Oklahoma and favored by a touchdown to get it.

A crowd of 75,504—capacity—will be in the Cotton Bowl for the 2:30 p.m., CST, kickoff of the televised (NBC) game. It is the 19th straight time for the big saucer to be sold out for this old and colorful rivalry.

Fourth Grade Swimming Program Set

A swimming program for fourth graders—Operation Waterproof—is tentatively scheduled to get under way Oct. 17 at Pontiac Northern and Central high school pools.

The program is sponsored by the Pontiac Board of Education and open to all fourth-grade pupils attending city public or parochial schools.

Operation Waterproof was organized last spring following a favorable response by parents.

Continuation of the program this fall will again depend on parental interest, said Lee W. Haslinger, city director of physical education.

If the response for the program is great enough, it will open Saturday Oct. 17 and continue for 10 weeks.

ENROLLMENT FEE

A fee of $8 is required to enroll a pupil in the swimming course. Physical education teachers will provide beginner and advanced instruction.

Pro Football Tilt Slated for Pontiac

Macomb Unit Plays Dayton

Game Set for Nov. 7 at Wisner Stadium

Professional football is ready to make its debut in Pontiac.

Plans for the appearance of two teams from the Midwest Professional Football League were mapped by the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce at a kick-off luncheon yesterday at the Waldron Hotel.

The game is scheduled for Nov. 7 at 8 p.m. at Wisner Stadium between league-leading Macomb County Arrows and the Colts from Dayton, Ohio.

The game is being sponsored by the Jaycees in cooperation with the Pontiac Professional Football Club, an organization of city businessmen formed recently to promote professional football in Pontiac.

Among those attending the meeting yesterday were Charles Hatter, Jaycees' president; John DiMarco, head of the Jaycees' football committee and Paul Parks, chairman of the Professional Football Club.

TICKETS ON SALE

Tickets went on sale yesterday at $1.50 for general admission and $2 for reserved seats.

Included in the Nov. 7 program will be a Pee Wee game at 7:30 p.m. between the Pontiac Packers, coached by Donny Ashley, and the Waterford Bobcats, coached by Rudy Mansfield.

The Pontiac Central High School band will perform at halftime.

The game between the two Midwest foes is an outgrowth of an earlier effort by the Pro Football Club to secure a United Football League franchise for Pontiac.

An initial outlay of $100,000 was needed to field a UFL team.

COMMISSIONER HERE

George T. Gareff of Columbus, the UFL commissioner discussed a UFL franchise with the Pontiac group last March. He explained the financial requirements at that time and informed the group of the entry deadline, which, at that time, was only two weeks away.

Rather than start a crash program and try to raise the $100,000, the Pontiac group decided to contact the Macomb County team to see if the squad would play one of its league games in Pontiac.

Bringing the two Midwest League teams to Pontiac is an effort by the local group to see if there is enough interest in Pontiac to support a professional team.

There are five Michigan and two Ohio teams in the Midwest League—Macomb County, Sturgis, Lansing, Petersburg and Detroit from Michigan and Toronto and Dayton from Ohio.

By The Associated Press

Schedule makers in the Big Ten couldn't have asked for a better start for the conference's first full weekend of football play.

Four of the top 10 teams in the nation will be matched Saturday in games that will give some inkling of the real strengths of the teams.

The big game for Michigan residents is seventh-ranked Michigan at Michigan State. MSU edged into a tie for ninth after upsetting Southern Cal. last Saturday. U-M is ranked seventh.

DEFENDING CHAMPION

Defending conference and

Rose Bowl champion Illinois (No. 2) plays host to Ohio State (No. 4) in the other headline.

Purdue is at home against Wisconsin, Iowa is at Indiana and Northwestern at Minnesota in the other games.

Illinois, confronting reports that Ohio State "is better than last year," will have to watch the Buckeyes' passing attack—a part of the game almost nonexistent in recent years there. The Illini have been concentrating on pass defense this week.

BUCKEYES PASS

OSU tried 23 passes against

Indiana last Saturday. This was eight more than last year's game average.

Purdue's sophomore quarterback Bob Griese appeared completely recovered Wednesday from a sore arm and shoulder muscles which hampered his performance during drills earlier in the week. The aggressive blocking of guard Sam Campi was another bright spot.

NEW ENGLAND BREAKFAST — Start the day right with an old-fashioned favorite dressed up in new-fashioned ways. Frozen prepared codfish cakes are ready to heat-

Modern Codfish Cakes Come Out of Freezer

It's said that no Yankee countryman worth his salt would go out in the shank of the morning without a solid breakfast under his belt. The menus varied but almost invariably the Sunday morning special was codfish cakes.

Fried crisp and brown on the outside, the tangy flavors of salt cod and potatoes were blended by preparing the cakes the night before. Classic accompaniment was the leftover beans from Saturday night.

Now fish cakes and beans on hefty brown bread may be a bit heavy for this generation's tastes but it's still possible to recapture the nostalgia and nutrition of New England's favorite breakfast.

The National Association of Frozen Food Packers presented one adaptation during the Newspaper Food Editors Conference: frozen prepared codfish cakes with a searing sauce based on frozen con-

Cabbage Gives Vitamin C

How do you provide your family with vitamin C when citrus fruits are relatively out of season?

Leafy vegetables are one answer. Most leafy vegetables contain some vitamin C, although citrus fruits are better known as providers of this nutrient. And, one of the best leafy sources is cabbage say U.S. Department of Agriculture home economists.

Vitamin C rich-cabbage is produced in some area of the country all year, and it's nearly always available on the market. But home garden or local supplies are greatest from the summer through October.

Midwest raised cabbages in particular are at their peak in the early fall. Look for reasonably priced plentiful supplies of both green and red types, advises USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

Cabbage, once selected and brought home, should not be allowed to dry out. If it is to be held a few days, it should be wrapped or put in the crisper of the refrigerator.

To further protect this valuable supply of vitamin C, cabbage should be cooked in as little water as possible.

If more water is used in cooking than the amount of cabbage—for example, four times as much—more than half the vitamin will be lost. But if only enough water to equal one-third the amount of vegetable is added, 90 per cent of the vitamin will be retained.

Save Dishwashing, Use Foil in Broiler

Dislike pan-washing? If you are broiling a fair number of chops or a large steak you can, of course, line the broiling pan with foil and place the rack over that.

But to broil two to four chops, or a small steak, all you need is a small rack and a pan to fit under it fashioned of a double thickness of heavy foil.

and eat but take on added glamor from a tangy searing sauce. A real stick-to-the-ribs repeat in jig time.

Brown Liver, Simmer With Vegetables

Every homemaker at some time during the week looks for an entree that has meat, potatoes and vegetables all cooked in one utensil. It's a welcome change to have all of these ready at one time.

This is especially true when the homemaker is new and inexperienced.

Usually she has to figure out something like this: meat takes an hour, put it on at 5 p.m. to be ready at 6, potatoes take 30 minutes, put on at 5:30 and the other vegetable or vegetables takes 15 minutes, start them at 5:45, if water is started about 5 minutes before that.

Here's a recipe that takes all of that into consideration and features liver in the menu. All of the seasonings team perfectly to give this nutritious meat entree excellent flavor.

Foil O'Flavor Liver

1 pound beef liver, sliced ½ inch thick
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon paprika

Squash Skin Much Harder Than Pumpkin Coat

When the frost is on the pumpkin—it may really be on squash! The two are much alike . . .

In fact, the difference, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is mainly a matter of use, not botanical background.

As any jack-o'-lantern carver knows, pumpkin skin is not very hard, and it can be cooked and eaten along with the meat. But winter squash rinds serve as protective coatings and a shell for cooking; they are not eaten.

ACORN squash—sometimes called Table Queen or Des Moines—as the name suggests, is shaped much like an acorn.

It is small, dark green, deeply ridged, and smooth-skinned.

HUBBARD squash is usually large and heavy. It has a "warty" skin which may be dark green, bluish-green or even bright orange in color.

One of the most popular winter varieties is BUTTERNUT. This long-necked squash has a smooth-textured orange flesh hidden beneath a tan-colored, tender skin.

Another common variety is the BUTTERCUP—a round, flat-shaped, small, green squash. The meat of this is thick, orange-colored and sweet.

Whatever variety is chosen, USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service advises that winter squash should feel heavy for its size, be free from blemishes, and have a hard rind.

Egg Mixture Coats Fish Fillets

A special method to make fish fillets look attractive and taste ever so good.

Fish Rolls Frances

4 flounder fillets
Salt and pepper to taste
2 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs

1 egg, separated

2 to 3 tablespoons butter

Sprinkle fillets with salt and pepper; roll up each, securing with toothpicks. Roll in crumbs.

Beat egg white until stiff; beat egg yolk until thickened and add to egg white; beat to blend. With a small spatula spread half of beaten egg over top side of fish rolls; let stand 20 minutes. Melt butter in a skillet; add fish rolls, egg side down, and brown.

Spread remaining beaten egg over top of fish rolls, turn. Cover skillet and finish cooking and browning fish—about 10 minutes over moderate heat. Remove toothpicks. Makes 2 large servings.

Remove Casing

How to do it: To remove the casing from a two- to six-pound piece of Canadian style bacon that is to be oven-cooked before slicing, hold the bacon under cold running water, then slip off the casing. Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven to an internal temperature of 170 degrees.

Kitchen arithmetic: 5 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon make up ¼ cup.

Blueberry pancakes are delicious served with maple syrup, honey or pineapple sauce.

Granulated Brown Sugar to Please Cooks

Granulated brown sugar is a new sugar produced by the American Sugar Company, the largest sugar company in the country.

Granulated brown sugar is sucrose with enough molasses to provide a pleasing flavor between those of light and dark brown sugars.

• It is the easiest of all brown sugars to measure.

• It is the only brown sugar to pour freely.

• It is the only brown sugar to blend with dry ingredients.

• It is the first and only brown sugar planned for sugar bowl use.

The standard method of measuring granulated sugar is used — granulated brown sugar is poured into a metal measuring cup and leveled with the sharp edge of a metal spatula.

The dry sugar is bulkier than moist brown sugars. Substitutions must be made by weight or by a substitution table on the box. The new product may be substituted in recipes with high moisture content with success.

In a few recipes, it is necessary to adjust the moisture content and/or alter mixing technique.

Recipes taking full advantage of granulated brown sugar's finest attributes may be obtained by sending a self-addressed envelope to Domino

DATE SWIRLS

Date Filling

1/4 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup water
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups pitted dates, finely chopped
1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts

Butterscotch Cookie

2 1/2 cups granulated brown sugar
1 1/4 teaspoons salt
1/2 lb. (1 cup) butter or margarine
2 eggs
1 1/4 teaspoons vanilla extract
1/4 teaspoon grated orange rind
4 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Combine sugar, water, salt and dates in small saucepan. Place over low heat; simmer 3 minutes stirring frequently. Remove from heat; stir in nuts. Set aside to cool.

Cream brown sugar, salt and butter thoroughly. Beat eggs, extract and rind into creamed mixture until light and fluffy. Stir together flour and soda. Gradually stir into creamed ingredients.

Divide dough into three parts. Roll first part of dough into 9x11" rectangle on well-floured board. Spread with 1/3 of cooled date mixture; form an 11" roll. Repeat twice with remaining portions of dough and filling. Wrap each roll in waxed paper; place on metal tray. Chill 2-4 hours or overnight.

Slice 1/4" cookies; place on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake cookies in hot oven 400 degrees about 9 minutes or until light brown around edges. Remove to cooling rack. Store in airtight container.

Spiced Cider Punch

1 cup water
1 1/2 cups granulated brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon ginger
2 qts. apple cider

1/2 cup lemon juice
2 to 4 7-oz. bottles chilled club soda, as desired heat until sugar dissolves. Cool; add cider and lemon juice. Chill. Add club soda. Pour over block of ice in small punch bowl. Garnish with lemon slices. Yield: 20 punch-cup servings.

Season the Flour

If you find it convenient to keep seasoned flour on hand, stir together thoroughly 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper in a small jar. Cover tightly. This mixture is fine for use with meats, poultry and fish.

DATE SWIRLS — These attractive cookies are made with the new granulated brown sugar. Rolled up with a rich date filling, they make a tempting treat for a fall party. Serve them with spicy cider punch.

FISH ALMONDINE—Any fish fillet becomes a gourmet dish when it is prepared with a curry sauce and served under a sprinkling of buttered almonds. Bright parsley and lemon slices add color to the platter.

Curry and Almonds Put Fish in Gourmet Class

From early times, the gathering of the harvest has afforded occasion for revelry and thanksgiving. These celebrations include not only the bounty of the fields, but also the wealth of seafoods from our country's lakes, rivers, streams, and seas.

Can Freeze Pea Soup

Thick pea soup may be freezer-stored and thinned, if you like, on re-heating.

Good Split Pea Soup
1 pound quick-cooking green split peas
1 ham bone and a veal knuckle
2 quarts boiling water
1 cup each chopped onion and celery
1½ cups diced carrot
1 green pepper, chopped
Salt and pepper to taste

Wash split peas several times in cold water; drain. In a kettle, bring to a boil the peas with the remaining ingredients. Boil gently until peas are cooked through—about 1½ hours.

Remove bones; puree peas and vegetables. Thin soup with stock to suit taste; reheat. If not all the soup is to be served, the puree may be freezer-stored.

In honor of America's fishing industry, October has been designated as Fish and Seafood Parade, a tribute to the hardy men who brave the seas to bring us the succulent fish and shellfish which grace our tables. When fish and shellfish are most plentiful, smart homemakers know that this is the time to serve seafoods often.

Curried Fish Fillets Amandine
1 pound fresh or frozen fish fillets (haddock, ocean perch, flounder, cod)
½ cup flour
2 teaspoons curry powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
½ cup chopped blanched almonds
Chutney
Combine flour, curry powder and salt. Roll fillets in this mixture, coating thoroughly.

Heat butter in large skillet. Add floured fillets and cook over moderate heat until browned (about four minutes). Turn and brown other side, cooking until fish flakes easily with a fork (about three minutes more). Remove to heated platter.

To butter remaining in pan, add almonds and stir over moderate heat until browned. Pour over fish. Serve with chutney in scooped-out lemon or orange halves. Makes four servings.

Grape Topping on Baked Ham Is Taste Treat

The result is so fancy and the effort is so minimal when you serve "Zingy Fruited Ham." Slices of ham spread with mustard, sprinkled with brown sugar and orange rind, topped with Tokay grape halves and drizzled with orange juice are baked for this palate-pleasing, eye-catching main dish.

Now that the 1964 crop of Flame Tokay grapes is flowing into local markets in such abundance, it's definitely the time to savor these aristocrats of the grape world in a variety of recipes.

Zingy Fruited Ham
2 cups Tokay grapes
4 to 6 slices cooked ham, ¾-inch thick
Prepared mustard
¼ cup brown sugar, packed
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
½ cup orange juice

Halve and seed Tokays. Place ham in large shallow baking dish so that edges just touch. Spread ham with mustard; sprinkle with brown sugar and orange rind. Spoon Tokays on top. (Slices may be rolled and secured with toothpicks if you wish.)

Pour orange juice over all. Bake in 425-degree (hot) oven 15 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Pear Dessert

Calories Are Minimal

If yours is a figure-fretting family, surprise them with this deceptively rich-tasting, yet calorie-shy dessert, made from fresh ripe pears and strawberries.

With our special calorie-streamlined recipe, you'll be able to slash away more than half the calories normally found in this delectable Bavarian-type dessert.

Calorie-saving secret is the use of the non-calorie sweetener, Sucaryl, to replace the sugar normally required. As a result of this calorie deception, dieters can enjoy this satisfyingly sweet dessert for only 93 calories per serving.

Pink Pear Bavarian

1¼ cups water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons sucaryl solution
2 cups unsweetened, fresh or frozen strawberries, thawed

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup nonfat dry milk
½ cup ice water

In saucepan, combine pears, 1 cup of the water, lemon juice and 1 tablespoon of the sucaryl. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and cook 10 to 15 minutes, or until pears are tender.

Drain pears, reserving liquid. Crush strawberries; add enough of the pear liquid to measure 3 cups. Soften gelatin in remaining 1 tablespoon of sucaryl; chill until mixture thickens slightly.

Combine dry milk and ice water; beat on high speed of mixer until peaks form; fold in to gelatin. Coarsely chop pears; fold into gelatin. Spoon into dessert bowl or individual sherbets. Chill before serving.

Makes 8 servings. Each serving contains 93 calories; 4.5 grams protein; 0.5 gram fat; 19 grams carbohydrate.

PINK PEAR BAVARIAN—It's a dessert that looks rich and creamy, but it has surprisingly few calories, thanks to the use of a sugar substitute. Make it while there are still fresh pears to be had.

Ice Cubes Help Thicken Salad

Carrot Aspic

1 package (3 ounces) celery flavored salad gelatin
1 cup boiling water
2 teaspoons cider vinegar
¼ tray (7 to 10) ice cubes
1 cup grated (medium-fine) carrots, lightly packed
¼ cup diced celery
2 tablespoons sliced olives

Add boiling water to gelatin; stir to dissolve. Add vinegar and ice cubes; stir constantly until thickened—about 3 minutes. Remove any unmelted ice. Stir in carrots, celery and olives. Spoon into five ½-cup molds. Chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with salad greens and mayonnaise. Makes 5 servings.

A fondness for sweet food has been evident from primitive man to the present day.

Star Struck Appetizers Come Out of Cans

Since ancient times, star-gazers have sought information through the signs of the Zodiac. You may find your answer in the stars, too, if you serve Solar Snacks and other astrologically-inspired appetizers which were featured at a Zodiac Party, sponsored by Armour Grocery Products Company, at the 1964 Food Editor's Conference at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York.

New Diet Plan Comes in Book

A preview of a new weight watchers' guide and cookbook was held for the nation's food editors at a lunch given by Best Foods during the 1964 annual Newspaper Food Editors Conference held this year in New York City.

The diet is built around a daily menu pattern of 1500 calories with provisions for adjusting the pattern to 1200 and 1800 calories.

"The Mazola Diet Plan," as the book is called, is high in meat and other protein foods and low in starches and other carbohydrates. It allows enough fat in the form of corn oil and corn oil margarine to make meal preparation easy and food more flavorful. Fat in the diet also makes a meal more satisfying and consequently more lasting.

The diet suggests eating six times a day with the pattern divided into breakfast, lunch and dinner plus three between-meal pickups. The foods in the diet provide all the essential nutrients in ample amounts as recommended for adults by the National Research Council.

For a free copy of the booklet, send your name and address to Mazola Diet Plan, Corn Products Company, Box No. 565P, Brooklyn, New York 11202.

Chowder Is Easily Made Anywhere

Crabmeat Chowder is the autumnal take-off from the French Pot-au-Feu or "pot in the fire." This richly satisfying soup is stirred up in only the time it takes to open containers, season and heat ingredients. Evaporated milk is the magic-maker.

Now in the new easy-open can (takes only a flip of the wrist with a punch-type opener), the convenience of the product is recognized anew. Use a tall can. Pour double-rich evaporated milk right into the saucepan for a base that's both wholesome and delicious.

As the grated cheese melts, stir to blend the frozen potato soup, canned tomatoes and flaked crabmeat into a tempting supper chowder or hearty luncheon soup.

If you take to the woods or shore or use your barbecue pit in fall, plan this perfect chili chaser. It's the kind of recipe that goes traveling or goes grand according to the setting.

Crabmeat Chowder
10-oz. can frozen potato soup, thawed
1-lb. can tomatoes, undrained and cut up
1½ cups evaporated milk (1 tall can)
¼ lb. grated process American cheese (1 cup)
6 ½-oz. can crabmeat, drained and flaked
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
3 to 4 drops tabasco
Mix ingredients in a 3-quart saucepan. Cook, stirring now and then, over medium heat until steaming. Do not boil. Serves 4 to 6.

Sugar in Meringue Must Be Dissolved

Whenever you prepare a meringue, whether it's the soft or the firm type, make absolutely sure that the sugar is beaten in until it is completely dissolved. This takes long beating.

For example, a firm meringue shell made with six egg whites will need about twenty-five minutes of beating with an electric beater.

Market Advances Irregularly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced irregularly in active trading.

Considerable selective strength was shown, but group action was generally spotty.

Rails, airlines, building materials and chemicals were generally higher.

Motor, steel, utilities, cigarette issues and aerospace stocks were mixed.

Ford advanced a fraction to another historic high, adjusting its 2-for-1 stock split of a couple of years ago.

ABOUT UNCHANGED

U.S. Steel traded unchanged, erasing a small early loss, despite its price increase for concrete reinforcing bars.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 327.8, just topping its record closing high of Monday, 327.8.

Integrals gained .5 and rails .6 while utilities declined .2.

Honeywell was up more than 2 points following news of its 2-for-1 stock split proposal.

Sinclair made a new high, advancing more than a point.

The company has developed an engine adding which reportedly suppresses engine noise.

ON AMERICAN

Prices were mostly higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Trading was moderate. Fordchrome stock was up about a point in extremely heavy trading.

Fotochrome bonds were a sensation, selling at one time at 117 1/2, up 8 points.

Corporate and U.S. Government bonds showed little change.

Feel Russia Unable to Keep Track of Ships

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military experts of eight NATO nations have concluded that the Soviet Union lacks enough long-range bombers, nuclear submarines and fast ships to knock out a proposed fleet of Polaris missile-firing vessels.

Government sources told the Associated Press today that NATO's Atlantic Treaty Organization's experts had reached unanimous agreement that the Soviet Union would not be able to keep track of 20 allied ocean and operated missile ships cruising at random in almost 4 million square miles of the Atlantic and Mediterranean.

Critics of the proposed NATO nuclear force have questioned whether it could survive in a war situation long enough to launch its 1,575-mile range Polaris missiles at Communist targets.

U.S. officials said the NATO military experts, in effect, endorsed its "survivability" after a 3 1/2-month study.

UPHELD ABILITY

But the sources' reference to unanimous agreement on the study findings indicated the British representative also upheld the force's ability to survive.

Other nations taking part in the military study were the United States, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Greece and Turkey.

This NATO fleet as originally envisioned would be manned by crews from many NATO nations.

'Polaris Fleet' Could Survive

Schools to Train Men

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — Industry is calling upon educational institutions to help train workers to handle new and highly complicated machines.

Many companies also are sending superiors back to classes to bring them up to date so they can train recruits to become semi-skilled or even highly skilled workers.

"This tackles two problems at once: lack of job opportunities for the untrained that has kept unemployment high; and deficit of skilled workers that have curbed output in many new industrial fields."

"Professional men also are being linked by closed-circuit television to get the latest word in their specialties, whether it be medicine, surgery, law, or insurance. And the managerial level, many companies are linking their salesmen across the land to centrally conducted educational courses, using both television and the nation's telephone circuits."

Foremen of Jones & Laughlin Steel attended an in-plant seminar to learn how to operate a new mill and how to teach subordinates. Now they are instructing nearly 200 employees who will work at the new $80-million electric steel mill.

GM Rezoning OK'd

A bulky package of rezoning requests and proposed street vacations, all linked to General Motors Corp. expansion, received a green light last night from the City Planning Commission.

Final approval rests with the City Commission.

However, city planners recommended approval of the Motor Division expansion in the north end of the city.

Voting unanimously with two members absent, the planning commission gave the nod to two rezoning requests.

The east side of Highway from First to Columbia was recommended rezoned to manufacturing. Similar rezoning was recommended for an area bounded by Highway, First, Joslyn and Madison.

OK ORDINANCES

Ordinances to accomplish both rezonings were okayed.

Street vacations in the same general area also were agreed to by city planners.

The vacated streets pending City Commission approval, will include Ivy, from Madison to First; Beverly, from Laurel to Joslyn; and Tennyson and Mansfield, from Laurel to Joslyn.

for approval are the alley west of Joslyn, from Madison to 125 feet north of Tennyson; Highwood, from First to Columbia;

Madison, from Highway to Joslyn; Laurel, from Mansfield to Madison; and the alley parallel to Madison, from Laurel to Joslyn.

ALSO RECOMMENDED

Also recommended was the vacating of the westerly 100 feet of First, Second and Fourth.

In other business last night, commercial zoning was denied for the east side of North Avenue between Sanderson and Florence.

The zoning had been requested by Raymond Gurley of 184 Norton. Neighboring residents.

Proposed relocation of the 16-foot alley parallel to Walton from the Atlas Super Market east to University was held up 30 days at the request of a protesting property owner who wants to seek legal counsel.

VACATE ALLEY

City planners gave their okay to vacate the alley to the rear of a house numbers 178-206 S. Merrimack between Parkview and Terry.

Vacation was denied for an alley south of and parallel to Mount Clemens between Maxwell and Jordan. The alley is to be used for access to projected garages.

Split votes were recorded on two proposed commercial zoning requests.

The planners voted 5-2 to recommend rezoning the lot east of the frontage lots on East Boulevard between Pike and Lookout.

A similar vote was cast on rezoning a 28-acre site on the southeast corner of Walton and Joslyn for a school bus dealership.

BANK EXPANSION

City planners approved the ordinance to rezone Community National Bank property at 18 Jackson to allow bank expansion.

In final action, the planning commission selected Columbia Way as the name for a new crossover street between East Columbia and Clara just west of Arlene.

A fifth youth picked up during the investigation, Joyce Thorne, 18, 183 Chicago, was released.

Sheriff's deputies said the four youths wrecked an apartment at 2062 Commonwealth after they had gained entry by knocking down the front door.

IN THE MIDWEST WITH JOHNSON (AP) — President Johnson, who is telling Midwest audiences he expects the biggest election landslide in history, said today one campaign issue is whether to chop up the American economic system for firewood.

Swinging into the second day of an 11-state tour, Johnson stopped first at the racially mixed industrial city of East Chicago, Ind., where he appealed for liberalization of the immigration laws — something opposed by William E. Miller, the Republican vice presidential nominee.

In his text for an open-air audience in Indianapolis, Johnson likened the American economic system to a sturdy oak with its roots in the Midwest.

"And the issue today," he said, "is whether to tend this oak with care, nourish its growth as it must be nourished or whether we chop it up for firewood."

URGES VICTORY

Johnson, who for the first time in the campaign began stridently urging a Democratic victory in appearances yesterday in Iowa and Illinois, again exercised his all-out vote getting style in Indiana.

He had barely reached East Chicago when he climbed to the roof of his limousine to wave at placard-carrying crowds that pressed in around his motorcade.

Standing bare-headed and coolies in the brisk morning air, Johnson brandished a microphone and told his welcoming crowd how pleased he was to see them.

Romney Sets Major Speech in Waterford

Gov. George Romney will be in Waterford Township tomorrow night to make a major campaign speech at a rally sponsored by the Waterford Town Ship Republican Club.

The 7 p.m. public meeting will be held at the Waterford Township High School, 1415 Crescent Lake. GOP nominees for local offices will accompany Romney.

Romney, campaigning for a second term, is scheduled to deliver a half-hour speech, according to Dean Salley, a director of the Waterford Republican Club, who will introduce the governor.

When Romney arrives at the school after visits to Milford and Highland he will be greeted at the door by about 100 "Teens for Romney."

AMC Plants Threatened by UAW Strike

Negotiation Stalls on Profit-Sharing Plan;
Talks Lag at GM

DETROIT (AP) — The threat of a new strike loomed over the nation's auto industry today as negotiators continued efforts to settle local plant demands and end a nationwide walkout against General Motors.

Fewer than 20 settlements were reported at some 130 bargaining units around the country.

National contract bargaining was broken off yesterday between the United Auto Workers and American Motors Corp., when the talks bogged down in disagreement over retaining a unique profit-sharing provision.

Douglas Fraser, who heads the UAW negotiation team, said that there is still time to reach a settlement before the AMC contract expires at midnight Oct. 15, but if no agreement is reached by that time "there will be a strike."

"I hope the company is not playing a game of brinkmanship," Fraser told newsmen.

UNION REJECTION

Edward L. Cushman, AMC vice president leading the company negotiators, said the union had rejected a proposal to finance increased pension and insurance benefits through the profit-sharing program.

Cushman was asked if he felt the UAW's turnaround meant that profit sharing was dead for the next three-year labor contract.

"I would say so," he replied. But Fraser disagreed, contending the profit-sharing provision was still on the bargaining table and any decision to discard it would not be made unilaterally by one side or the other.

The profit-sharing plan—termed "progress sharing" by the negotiators—was adopted for the first time in 1961 and is the only such program in the auto industry.

SPECIAL FUND

It sets up a special fund tied to the company's profits and used to finance some fringe benefits. Part of the money is set aside for the purchase of common stock for the company's 28,000 UAW-represented employees.

Meanwhile, the nationwide strike against General Motors entered its 14th day.

Despite a tentative agreement on national economic and non-economic issues, local plant demands have kept more than a quarter-million workers off the assembly lines and shut off production of GM's new 1965 models.

Critics of the proposed NATO nuclear force have questioned whether it could survive in a war situation long enough to launch its 2,875-mile range Polaris missiles at Communist targets.

U.S. officials said the NATO military experts, in effect, endorsed its "survivability" after a 3½-month study.

UPHELD ABILITY

But the sources' reference to unanimous agreement on the study findings indicated the British representative also upheld the force's ability to survive.

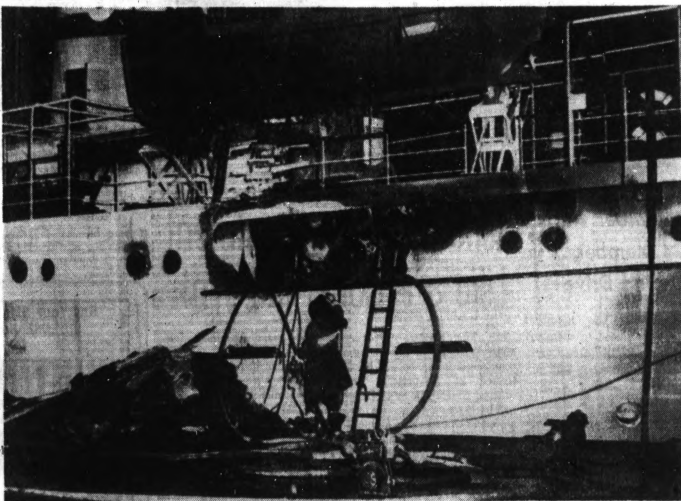

Other nations taking part in the military study were the United States, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Greece and Turkey.

This NATO fleet as originally envisioned would be manned by crews from many NATO nations.

Ship Fire Fatal to 2

FATAL FIRE — Detroit firemen examine damage to the German freighter Erato after a fire killed two crewmen and injured three others early today. The ship was tied to the dock when the fire started, apparently in the crew's quarters. The victims were West Germans.

Three Seamen on W. German Freighter Hurt

65 Firemen, 17 Pieces of Equipment Called to Battle the Blaze

DETROIT (AP) — Two crew members were killed and three injured early today in a fire on board the 200-foot West German freighter Erato, tied up at the Detroit Harbor Terminal.

Fire department officials said the dead and injured were among six men who were trapped in the crew's quarters by flames battled by more than 65 firemen and 17 pieces of equipment.

Firemen said their fireboat was out of commission, forcing them to fight the blaze from the docks where the steel-laden ship, based in Hamburg, was tied up.

Firemen said the fire apparently started in the crew's quarters.

It attracted a huge crowd of onlookers to the foot of Clark Street as heavy black smoke poured from the stern.

NO TIE-UP

A watchman on the Ambassador Bridge said he saw a "lot of smoke and fire" on the ship but added that the blaze did not tie up traffic on the Detroit River.

The dead and injured all were West German nationals.

Dead were common seaman Ernst Schroeder, 37, of Nordfleda, and able seaman Christian Kuckling, 25, of Eutin.

In Detroit's Receiving Hospital, listed in temporary serious condition with first- and second-degree burns were Klaus Peters, 23, of Hamburg; Heinrich Likendy, 24, of Bremerhaven; and Manfred Wenemann, 24, of Sternbeck-luhe.

Gnu Flew Zoo; Crew With Lasso Knew What to Do

PAIGNTON, England (AP) — Vivienne Proctor knew what to do when faced with a gnu. She called the zoo.

"Have you lost a gnu?" she asked. "Because there's one right here in my back garden."

The gnu, aged 2, was AWOL from the zoo.

The chap at the zoo said: "Leave it alone. It may be dangerous."

The gnu, a large African antelope prized by compilers of crossword puzzles, can have a savage temper.

Dreary Days to End by This Weekend

Dreary weather is forecast through tomorrow, but the week-end will begin pleasant and sunny.

It'll be mostly cloudy, windy and cooler tonight, the low expected from 38 to 44.

Tomorrow will have variable cloudiness and continued cool temperatures. A high of 47 to 54 is predicted.

Fifty was the low for this morning in downtown Pontiac. At 1 p.m. the thermometer registered 60.

Says Candidate Dominated

Aide Quits Barry; Hits Rightists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's legislative assistant has quit his job, and was quoted today as charging the Republican presidential nominee is being pushed "farther to the right" by a group of new advisers.

At Republican national headquarters, a spokesman said Seward "held a very minor functional position in the senator's office."

"His decision was his own," said Lee E. Edwards, assistant director of public relations. "Perhaps its just as well he's no longer around."

Edwards said Seward dealt largely with Indian affairs for the senator, and had no part in the presidential campaign. He said Seward was in charge of the Goldwater motor pool at the Republican National Convention.

RECENT POSITIONS
The Post said that Seward was "disappointed and concerned" with some of Goldwater's recent positions on such issues as Social Security, extremism and the Cuban missile crisis.

"I don't think these statements were really Sen. Goldwater talking," Seward told the Post. "I think his advisers were speaking more for themselves than for the senator."

But at the convention and afterwards, "the new advisers seemed to seal the senator off. There was no room at all for compromise or disagreement."

"Toward the end of the convention, several people, including myself, had the feeling that if you weren't with the new group, you were being watched pretty closely."

Cards Aim for 2nd Series Win

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, after winning the opener Wednesday, 9-5, aim for a commanding two-game lead in baseball's World Series today against the New York Yankees.

However, cloudy weather and temperatures in the lower 60s were forecast in the wake of bright sunshine that lit the way for the Cardinals' first victory over the Yankees. But, another capacity crowd in excess of 30,000 persons was expected.

A pair of right-handers will oppose each other, Bob Gibson, 19-12 of the Cardinals, and rookie Mel Stottlemyre, 9-3, of the Yankees.

The odds fell after yesterday's game. The Yankees had been favored to win the series, 17-10, and 13-10 to capture the first game. The odds fell to 10-11 for either team for the series and 5-6 for the Yankees in today's contest.

The Cardinals took an early 1-0 lead in the opening game, but fell behind, 4-2, on a two-run homer by Tom Tresh of the Yankees.

But Mike Shannon of the Cardinals set off a four-run sixth inning with a towering two-run homer that traveled more than 450 feet.

Whitley Ford, knocked out in the big inning, was the loser and Ray Sadecki, with relief help from Barney Schultz over the last three innings, was the winner.

The 38-year-old Schultz, a former Detroit Tiger, is an itinerant bullpen knuckleballer who made 15 whist-stop in the minor leagues in the last 19 years.

The Cards brought him up from Jacksonville on July 31 this year and Schultz, who made 11 saves during the final drive, allowed only one run while holding the Yanks in check.

The Cardinals got brief action from injured second baseman Julian Javier in the opener but, like yesterday, he'll not be in today's starting lineup. Dal Maxvill gets the call again.

Ask to Dismiss Haulaway Suit

A motion to dismiss a lawsuit against two Pontiac haulaway companies and Pontiac Teamsters Local 614 over seniority rights will be heard tomorrow by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore.

The dismissal is being sought by George S. Dixon, attorney for the F. J. Boutell Driveway Co., Inc., 245 E. Walton, and Motorcar Transport Co., 290 E. Tenyson, on the grounds that the question is under the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board and not a matter for the court.

The suit was filed by six employees of the two companies in behalf of more than 300 fellow workers. All Teamster Union members, on Sept. 22.

They claim their seniority rights were violated when the two firms were ordered by the union to hire more than 60 employees of the now defunct Contract Carriage Co., 353 Madison, when it went out of business at the end of the 1964 automobile model year.

Contract shut down after Pontiac Motor Division informed the firm that it would no longer need its services after August, according to the suit.

The suit asked that a permanent injunction be issued restraining all defendants from dishonoring the seniority rights and that the plaintiffs be awarded $500,000 damages.

For the past two weeks victims of truck drivers and maintenance men at the two firms have been picketing Teamster Local 614, 1410 S. Telegraph, in protest.

Chamber Adds 94 Members During Drive

Ninety-four new members have been signed to membership in the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, it was announced today.

Nathan Bressler, membership committee chairman, termed the annual membership campaign a huge success.

The drive will continue through the end of the month, signed 100 new members by Bressler expects to have then.

The chamber now has a membership of 921. In 1963, only 74 new members joined the chamber during its membership drive.

The membership committee and new members split some 32 prizes donated by local merchants.

Judge Asks Change in 'War on Poverty'

Circuit Court Judge Arthur E. Moore yesterday suggested that the so-called war on poverty should actually be a war on ignorance and immorality.

Speaking before the North Pontiac Kiwanis Club, Judge Moore outlined a three-point attack for the "war on poverty."

At its next session, according to the Circuit judge, the Michigan legislature should provide:

Tshombe Says Treatment Like a Prisoner in Egypt

CAIRO, (AP) — Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo complained today he was being treated as a prisoner and watched constantly by 30 Egyptian intelligence agents. He fired off letters of protest to all members attending the summit conference of nonaligned nations.

Tshombe was barred from the conference and was placed under house arrest on his arrival three days ago. The Congo then blockaded the United Arab Republic and Algerian embassies in Leopoldville.

Gamal Abdel Nasser sent word that Tshombe would be held until the blockades in Leopoldville are lifted. Tshombe was allowed a few visitors by Egyptian police and troops guarding the Araba Palace where Tshombe is being held on the outskirts of Cairo.

Diplomatic sources in Leopoldville said Tshombe telephoned his government to allow the Egyptian and Algerian diplomats to leave their embassies.

Leopoldville reports said, however, that a soldier stationed at the Algerian embassy insisted his orders were unchanged.

Isolated in the palace and practically uncommunicated, the Congolese premier was overshadowing the nonaligned conference. Even Egyptian newspapers, which are printing uncounted words of speeches at the conference, gave Tshombe banner treatment.

A Belgian who visited Tshombe is quoted him as saying: "I am really and truly a prisoner. I have been authorized for the past several hours to make contact with the Congolese delegation."

But I cannot use the telephone myself and cannot leave the room. More than 20 intelligence agents are inside this house and a company of troops are outside. They follow me when I walk in the garden and watch me when I eat."

Nasser and President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria led the fight to keep Tshombe from the conference.

"Poverty may best be defined as that state of being unable to support one's self," said Moore. "(and) immorality is the failure to do what is right for others or for one's self."

Thus, he said that the war really means an attempt to aid everyone to be self-supporting.

Judge Moore declared that the present age of 16 for compulsory education allows potential dropouts to prepare for dropping out when only 12 to 14 years old.

"Knowing this, our teaching system gives up about the same time," he explained.

Waterford and Pontiac schools, along with Camp Oakland, are the only places where an all out effort on behalf of dropouts is being pursued, he said.

MARRIAGE TRAINING Education and training for marriage is an obvious need, said the Circuit Court Judge.

He declared that the $10 million expended per year for financial assistance for illegitimate families on APC and welfare fosters marriage ignorance.

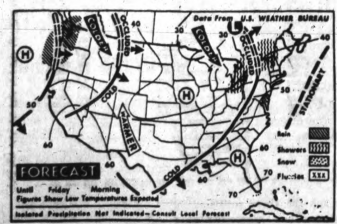

"Bad parents produce immoral children," he said.

The judge added that the only hope of overcoming the vicious cycle was by "emphatic action" by public schools and churches.

City Manager Announces Plans to Retire

BIRMINGHAM — L. R. Gare, city manager for seven of the 15 years he has worked for Birmingham, has announced plans to retire at the end of the year. The 61-year-old chief administrator will submit his resignation to the City Commission Monday night. He will give commissioners a three-month notice.

Regarding his successor, Gare said he thought the commission would "make an announcement of its intent as soon as possible to forestall a flood of unnecessary applications."

Considered fore-runner among possible candidates for the post is Assistant City Manager Robert S. Kenning, a Birmingham employee since 1950.

Gare, who came to Birmingham in 1949, served as director of public works and city engineer before being appointed to the manager's post.

During the last 15 years he has seen the city provide services for a population which has grown from 13,000 to 25,000.

He said he has no particular plans for his retirement, although he and Mrs. Gare would like to "see more of this country and perhaps other countries."

"Give me six months or a year at this, and then we'll see," he commented. The manager noted that during his nearly 40 years of municipal service he has had "perhaps five vacations that were two or three weeks long."

Gare, who holds a civil engineering degree from the University of Michigan, began his career in 1925. He served as assistant city engineer of Dearborn for 17 years before becoming city engineer for Ecorse.

Mothers of freshmen students at Marian High School plan to bolster the school's library fund with proceeds from a dessert card party Oct. 16.

The event is scheduled for 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the school at 7225 Lahar. Tickets can be purchased from Mrs. James E. Mitchell Jr., 283 Puritan.

Mrs. Alex Fischkittel Requiem Mass for Mrs. Alex (Julia) Fischkittel, 90, of 1315 N. Woodward, Bloomfield Hills, will be 9 a. m. tomorrow at St. Elizabeth's Home, Bloomfield Hills. Burial will be in Mount Hope Cemetery, Pontiac.

Mrs. Fischkittel died yesterday. Her body is at Manley Bailey Funeral Home, Birmingham.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Jessie Volk of Hungary; a son, Frank Fischkittel of Dearborn; three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Hecklers Bother Lady Bird, but Dixie Train Campaign Rolls On

upset her, "it put more vigor into our own voters."

But Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson faced some rough moments as groups chanting "We want Barry" interrupted her and Democratic party leaders before audiences of more than 10,000 at both Columbia and Charleston, S.C., Wednesday.

At Charleston it persisted throughout the nighttime rally at a shopping center mall.

"Reminiscent of Hitler," shouted Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana as he tried to quell the hecklers, "There are young people here who have no sense of American democracy."

HECKLERS FEW

In both cities, crowds greeting the train-touring wife of the President were enthusiastic. Her hecklers were a tiny number by comparison, but they were vocal.

Thousands of peasant-wearing supporters of President Johnson drowned them out only temporarily with shouts of "We want Johnson."

Boggs, Gov. Donald Russell, Sen. Olin Johnson and Rep. McDaniel Myers could not silence the Charleston hecklers.

In Columbia, Mrs. Johnson

stopped some of the hecklers when she paused after a booing and said forcefully, "In this country we have many viewpoints and I respect your right to express your own. Now it's my turn to express mine."

NUCLEAR CONTROL She told the audience the ultimate responsibility for control of nuclear weapons rests on the President.

Where she faced interruptions Mrs. Johnson spoke more rapidly than usual, her face serious.

In Charleston she didn't make any comments, but saved a white-gloved hand in an attempt to silence rovers in both political camps.

The heckling didn't stop the all-out bid to get South Carolina to vote for the Democratic presidential candidate, as it has in all but one national election in this century. And that time in 1948, it was for a native son, Sen. Strom Thurmond, running on a states' rights ticket.

BENEFITS CITED

Federal projects and benefits to the state were cited. Boggs noted South Carolina had a federal payroll of $2 million.

Commerce Secretary Luther Hedges of North Carolina, who is making the four-day Dixie tour with Mrs. Johnson, told the Charleston crowd, "you pay $161 million per year in state taxes to the federal government and you get back $1,023,000,000. If you want to be foolish, go ahead and be foolish. But I ask you not to stay with the Democratic party which keeps the city going."

Lady Bird Johnson, 51, described the Columbia heckling as "trade comments," which she said "were not made by people from the good state of South Carolina — nor by people from the state of confusion."

Graham Meets With Cardinal

BOSTON (AP) — "Billy Graham is extraordinarily gifted, and I am 100 per cent" for him, Richard Cardinal Cushing said after meeting the evangelist for the first time.

The two religious leaders chatted for 45 minutes yesterday at the cardinal's Brighton residence.

"I feel much closer to Roman Catholic tradition than to some of the more liberal protestants," the Rev. Dr. Graham said.

Dr. Graham had requested the meeting to thank the cardinal for his support of the evangelist's two Boston crusades.

The cardinal urged Catholic youths and college students to attend Dr. Graham's crusade at Boston Garden. "No Catholic can do anything but become a better Catholic," he said.

NO CRITICISM

"I have never heard the slightest criticism of anything he has ever said from any source," the cardinal said. "I only wish we had a half dozen men of his character to go forth and preach the gospel."

In discussing interfaith unity since the election of the late Pope John XXIII, Dr. Graham told the cardinal, "This started with you long before we heard of Pope John."

"There should be more agreement between faiths and I believe there will be now," the cardinal said.

Cambodia Prince Back From China

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian Chief of State Prince Norodom Sihanouk came home today from a trip to Peking and said Red China has promised new aid to his country with no strings attached.

"We have been offered new economic and military aid unconditionally," said Sihanouk.

"Among the projects for which Red China has offered aid is an extension of textile and cement plants and construction of an airport at Battambang, 100 miles northwest of Phnom Penh."

Sihanouk said Red China also has offered "light and heavy armament sufficient to equip 22,000 men."

'No One Way to Quit Will Work' All

Says Many Factors Tied to Smoking

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK—A cigarette means a lot of different things to different people.

And that's why it is foolish to think there is any one method that will help all people who would like to quit smoking, a social scientist said today.

Smoking gets tied up with different habits, associations, and psychological needs, Dr. G. M. Hochbaum of the U.S. Public Health Service, Washington, D.C., told the American Public Health Association.

"When we speak of smoking cessation, we do not speak merely of a single, isolated change in a person's life, but of a rather radical and extensive disruption of a complicated, interwoven pattern of habits, of needs gratified, of pleasures derived, and of tensions released," he said.

"Smokers have claimed variously that cigarettes help them to relax, to concentrate, to sleep, to stay awake, to get over difficult situations, to feel self-assured, or to accomplish a variety of other things. It is difficult for many nonsmokers to understand that cigarettes could do all this.

DIFFERENT WAYS

Among any large group of smokers, the approaches, methods and techniques to facilitate discontinuation will have to differ in some ways," he said.

Dr. Hochbaum said it is not necessarily true that "all people who go to smoking clinics really want to stop smoking."

Many a smoker may just want to shift the responsibility onto the clinic's staff, he said, leaving a door open to "rationalize away his failure to quit."

The smoker must understand that "each cigarette is merely a link in a chain of cigarettes, and that each cigarette smoked after the decision to quit has been made increases the power of the habit as well as undermines his psychological strength to resist the urge next time."

Dr. Hochbaum called for systematic research to learn more about psychosocial aspects of smoking, and to develop more effective ways "to help the large number of smokers who, desperately as they want to, are unable to stop."

Britain honors the memory of those who died in the two world wars on the Sunday nearest to Nov. 11 with impressive national ceremonies.

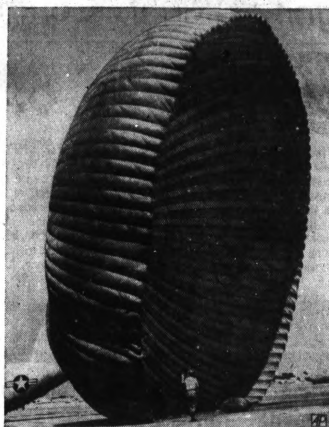

E. Texas C. of C. Wooing Detroit Businessmen

DETROIT (AP)—Armed with a slide presentation, pamphlets and a vacation guide, the East Texas Chamber of Commerce stopped here Wednesday to woo 150 leading Detroit business and industrial leaders at a luncheon.

"Our mission is not in the nature of a 'raiding party,'" said Chamber President Robert P. Green, M. D. "We are not here to try to take any industry away from you or from this industry of the country."

Green said the tour was informational in nature, adding:

"We know that many of your manufacturers will establish branch plants somewhere in the Southwest during the coming years, and when that time comes, we want them to think about our particular part of the Southwest."

Monday Tea Slated by WNFGA Branch

A handmade needlepoint bag with matching coin purse and a surprise inside will be the center of attention at a tea Monday for the Cranbrook Branch, Women's National Farm and Garden Association.

Mrs. William H. Pettibone will host members and guests in her Bloomfield Hills home.

Proceeds from the tea will be used for the group's scholarship fund and horticultural therapy, a program of the WNFGA.

To Be 'Wed' Is to Pay Price

NEW YORK — Historians report the word wedding is an outgrowth of the ancient custom of marriage by purchase. The groom-to-be gave a "wed" of money or cattle as the purchase price of his future bride.

Bleach Zips Through Dirt

Mortified by dingy gray mortar between tiles in the bathroom? And weary at the thought of scrubbing and scouring it?

There's a much simpler solution. Wash it, then sponge with a solution of three table-spoons of chlorine bleach to a quart of warm water.

Keep the surface wet with this solution for five minutes, then rinse and dry. Besides whitening the mortar, this treatment makes the tile sparkling clean and sanitary, too.

Election Is THE Question in Hannibal

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A report from a UPI correspondent who is touring the country by bus to take stock of talk and moods in this election year.)

By LOWRY BOWMAN

HANNIBAL, Mo. — The juke box in the Marion cafe blasted out a plaintive duet: "We'll let the world go by, dear, we won't mind, cause our love was right here all the time."

Sing it pretty, Leon.

In the bar next door, four young men rifled balls down the 10 cents-per-game miniature bowling machine with single minded purpose. A young couple sipped draft beer at 15 cents a glass. Their 4-year-old son munched potato chips.

Outside a full moon rose over the Mississippi River, and the bullbats (nighthawks) thrummed like a bass guitar as they swooped in and out of the clouds of mosquitoes and gnats along the levee.

It was Saturday night in Hannibal.

The streets were deserted, but Hannibal's 28 licensed saloons serving approximately 20,000 residents were doing a booming business.

MADE ROUNDS

Salvation Army workers made the rounds of each one with a silent tambourine and no words of reproach for the drinkers. They seemed to be doing pretty well, too.

Signs at a pleasant little park on the edge of the river pointed toward Tom Sawyer's cave and Huck Finn's island. A boy with a runny nose and torn shirt was trying without any luck to sell a long-dead fish he carried on a cotton string.

He called it a sheephead, but age had blurred its identity.

Inside the Hotel Marion (without bath $2.50, with bath $3.85) which doubles as Hannibal's bus depot, young John Berais was helping out as bus dispatcher and night hotel clerk. During the day, he's in the sales department of a printing firm.

PAYING GUESTS

A big sign pointed out that use of the hotel lobby was restricted to paying guests, but passengers waiting for the 3 a.m. bus to Kansas City paid no attention to it. They were watching a Western movie on the TV set in the lobby.

"It's a nice town," Berais said. "Seems like we're always getting bad publicity because newspapermen who come here always ask everybody about Mark Twain. I don't know anything about Mark Twain."

But Berais was surprisingly knowledgeable about politics.

"This part of Missouri is all Democratic, maybe because we were hit worse by the Depression than almost anywhere else," he said. "Used to be a big railroad center and shoe manufacturing place. Now we have only two passenger trains a day, and the shoe plants are gone."

'DON'T KNOW'

"I read what Goldwater says, and I read what Johnson says, and I just don't know."

"One thing that bothers me is the way Goldwater treats reporters. He's always claiming he was misquoted, or he's ducking out a back door to keep from talking to reporters, and that bothers me."

"Maybe the reporter do make him mad. But the people need to know what he's saying, and how else are they going to find out?"

"On the other hand, everything Johnson has done looks kind of socialistic to me."

MAKES HIM MAD

"Young people my age are worried about Social Security, and that makes me madder than anything I can think of. When all a 25-year-old man worries about is getting Social Security, then I say this country's in trouble. And then I think maybe if Goldwater's elected, none of us would live long enough to get it anyway."

Like most small towns, Hannibal has problems. It is desperately hunting for new industry and trying to capitalize on its status as the birthplace of Samuel Clemens to attract tourists.

Berais isn't worried about Hannibal's future.

"Sure, we have our problems. A lot of the young people with college educations are leaving."

"But you know something that bothers me? It's this — I don't ever seem to hear anybody say very much about patriotism anymore."

Ulcer Patients
Good Workers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dear Boss: Be nice to your employees who have ulcers, because they make excellent workers.

Dr. Edward C. Rosenow gave this message to business men at a Kiwanis Club meeting.

"They're superconscious, and don't have to be prodded because they prod themselves," Rosenow said Wednesday.

Rosenow, former president of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, now resides in Philadelphia.
