90 Property Owners
Protest Prices - Offered

A resolution declaring the necessity of condemnation of some 90 properties in the R20 urban renewal project area was approved by a 4-3 vote of the City Commission last night, but only after opposition was voiced by several commissioners and citizens.

The 90 property owners involved are those who refuse to accept the city's offer for their property, which has been designated for purchase and demolition in the urban renewal program.

Some 225 properties have already been bought or optioned. The city's formula for land acquisition, dictated by federal law, is to get a high and low appraisal of each property and offer a price halfway between the two.

Last night's resolution, in effect, turns the remaining 90 cases over to Dudley A. Patterson, local attorneys hired by the city to handle court condemnation proceedings.

FOR AND AGAINST
Opposing the resolution were Commissioners Robert Landry, Winford E. Bottom and Milton R. Henry. Henry, in favor, were Mayor Philip E. Rowston and Commissioners John A. Dugan, William H. Taylor Jr. and Wesley J. Wood.

Before the vote was taken, Charles E. Chapman, owner of the Chapman Hotel, 2 S. Saginaw St., voiced a complaint from the floor.

"I was first offered $60,000 for my property. Now I'm offered $77,000 and told that includes demolition costs. Why should I pay for demolition?" he asked.

"How can you offer me $77,000 when the assessed value I pay taxes on is $94,050. You throw me out of my business and tell me to move. I have 60 rooms of furniture to move."

Today City Assessor Edward C. Bloe differed with Chapman.

"His assessed value was $94,050 in 1960. Last year it was $91,650 and this year it is $78,800," Bloe said.

Landry, Bottom and Henry all agreed the city should offer more than the assessed value of any property before condemnation proceedings begin.

City Manager Robert A. Stierer pointed out that the property "might well be worth more without the building than it is with the building."

As good example is the old county courthouse property at Second and Huron. Stierer said, "It's appraised value was $40,000 without the building and $370,000 with it."

Mayor Rowston assured the commission that "this resolution doesn't mean the city's given up on these cases. Our main attempt to reach an amicable settlement will be made with each property owner before the case goes to court."

"We expect that in most cases we will be able to settle the cases out of court."

TRAINS COLLIDE - A railroad track forms an arc after a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train crashed into the wreckage of a freight train which had derailed almost simultaneously near Thompsonston, Pa., early today. The trains were going in opposite directions. The diesel engine of the passenger train is completely turned around as other cars lie stacked behind it. Twelve persons were injured. Board Says He's OK

Powers Set for Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special board of inquiry has finished its questioning of 132 pilot Francis Gary Powers, high government sources said today, and Powers may appear before congressional committees and a news conference within the next few days.

The timing of the Powers' appearances on Capitol Hill and before newsmen still is uncertain. Meanwhile, the 35-year-old pilot will be kept behind a wall of secrecy a bit longer, although government officials said that he is a free agent and can come and go as he pleases.

They said, too, that it will be up to Powers himself to decide whether he wishes to hold a news conference, but that the announcement on this probably will come through the White House.

This is the situation as outlined by one administration spokesman.

The special board of inquiry that looked into the Powers case has finished its task and turned over its report to the president.

Powers was tried in Moscow and sent to prison on espionage charges. He was freed Feb. 10 in an exchange for Col. Rudolf Abel, Soviet master spy convicted by the United States.

McConaughy is testifying today and Thursday in closed sessions before the Senate and House Foreign Affairs and Armed Services committees.

The committees will determine whether they need testimony from Powers.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee already has announced that it wants to question the pilot, probably next week.

Government officials say that Powers will not be available to the press until after congressional committees have finished quizzing him. So apparently there could be no news conference until some time next week at the earliest.

He said he based this on Dr. Olsen's doubt that the one on the top of Randy's head could have been caused by falling.

Stated to take the polygraph tests as soon as they can be arranged are Thomas Pierce, 16, of 2228 Degradus Road, Shelby Township, and Thomas Kline, 13, of 1651 Avon Road, Avon Township.

They told police they had shared a bottle of gin and rum Friday night. They poled their money to buy the gin from Roger McChesney, 21, of 3124 Eastwood Road, Pontiac Township, they said.

The pair also stated that Randy had been drinking before they bought the bottle. McChesney pleaded guilty yesterday to furnishing liquor to a minor and was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Orion Township Justice Helms Stankow also fined him $50 plus $15 court costs.

Jones Boy Seated in House of Lords

LONDON (UPI) — Antony Armstrong-Jones took his seat in the House of Lords today and won a smiling tribute from Princess Margaret for his solo debut in the pomp and circumstance of British nobility.

Jones — created Lord Snowdon by his wife's sister, Queen Elizabeth — moved confidently through the short but stately ceremony in the packed House of Lords while Margaret offered moral encouragement.

At the end of the ceremony, Tony glanced up to the gallery, saw where Margaret sat, Margaret broke into a brief but glowing smile.

School Board to Get New Budget Proposal

A tentative record budget for a record number of students expected in Pontiac public schools in 1963-64 will be presented to the Board of Education at its 7:30 p.m. meeting tomorrow.

The tentative budget of $3,790,790 for an expected 21,328 students will be presented by school administrator Joseph J. Murphy.

No millage hike is expected at this time.

Last year's appropriation was $3,660,482 for 20,523 students.

The projected $3,790,790 figure of expected budget needs includes approximately $28,000 in an emergency fund and a revolving fund, which will be subjected to actual expenditures.

The budget proposal, said Supt. Dana P. Whitmer today, "assures carrying on the same programs and services next year which have been carried this year."

"It is adjusted upward only to meet projected enrollment growth and increases in the cost of living."

JUST FIRST STEP
Presentation of the tentative budget to the board for discussion tomorrow is merely the first step in the annual budget adoption procedure.

The second step will entail presentation to the board of staff studies of "things needed but not included in the tentative budget," Dr. Whitmer said. This is expected to take place at a 7:30 p.m. meeting.

The third step will be consideration by the board of possible salary and wage scale increases not included in the proposed budget.

HER HOME AFIRE — Expressions on the faces of women watching a fire on Chicago's near West Side reflect varying emotions, but none is so intense as that of Betty Bemis (second from left). It was her home that was burning. The three-story building was gutted by fire, but there were no casualties.

Con-Con Stayed on Judges

It was better known to voters of their districts.

After tentatively voting to delete the district plan, delegates then overwhelmingly decided they didn't like the so-called "Con-Con" either. It was defeated 52-18.

Under the "Missouri Plan," justices would be appointed by the governor from a list drawn up by a special commission. They would have to seek a vote of confidence from the people in an election three years after taking office and every 10 years thereafter.

Two Firemen Honored by City

Receive Citation From
Life of 7-Year-Old

Two Pontiac fire fighters stood before the City Commission last night to receive a citation honoring them for heroic action in the line of duty.

Commissioners lauded Lt. David J. Thorne and Fireman William G. Glancy for rescuing 7-year-old Larry G. Marshall from his burning home at 31 Crawford St. the night of Feb. 13.

The resolution, offered by Commissioner Winford E. Bottom, was read by Mayor Philip E. Rowston. It extended the "thanks and appreciation of this community" to the fire fighters for "their heroic action."

"This incident is a reminder of the uncertainty that exists for every person who may unexpectedly be subjected to disastrous hazards and dangers," the citation read. "Our dependence on others for assistance when disaster or tragedy strikes is emphasized."

After reading the document, Rowston told both men that he is certainly gratifying to know we have men of such caliber that they would sacrifice their lives to have another without hesitation."

Glancy is one of two newly elected directors of the telephone company.

The second is industrial leader H. G. Bickley of Detroit.

Glancy, of Green Pointe Shores, made national headlines in 1960 as head of the syndicate which bought the New York Empire State Building.

He is a mortgage and investment financier, and is president of the A. R. Glancy Inc., of Atlanta, Ga.

Glancy also is a director of Cranbrook School, Bloomfield Hills. He is a former loan officer of the National Bank of Detroit.

City Commission Opposes Changes in Annexation

Pontiac city commissioners voted on record last night as being "unalterably opposed" to a bill currently pending in the State Legislature which would change annexation procedures.

The commission voted unanimously in favor of a resolution condemning House Bill No. 22 and all other legislative proposals designed to hamper and restrict the normal growth of home-rule cities through established annexation procedures.

The resolution was drafted by City Atty. William A. Ewart at the request of commissioners.

The bill in question was passed in the house on Feb. 20 and now goes to the state senate.

It would amend the Home Rule City Act by deleting the present procedure for annexing vacant property.

It would substitute a method requiring one-fourth of the boundary of the area to be annexed to be abutting the city.

Mine Blast-Fatals at 54

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — Officials today set the toll in Tuesday's Tito coal mine explosion at 54 dead. Eleven miners were in the Tuzla-Hospital critically ill from poisonous gases.

HER HOME AFIRE — Expressions on the faces of women watching a fire on Chicago's near West Side reflect varying emotions, but none is so intense as that of Betty Bemis (second from left). It was her home that was burning. The three-story building was gutted by fire, but there were no casualties.

Under the "Missouri Plan," justices would be appointed by the governor from a list drawn up by a special commission. They would have to seek a vote of confidence from the people in an election three years after taking office and every 10 years thereafter.

The lawmakers could continue the present system under which justices are nominated by party conventions and then campaign as "nonpartisan" candidates.

OKs Ordinance on Transient Traders in City

The City Commission last night gave final approval to an ordinance designed to control and regulate transient traders in Pontiac.

The ordinance will impose a tax or license fee on transient traders equal to the taxes paid by permanent merchants. Until now, transient traders paid no tax or fee.

Transient traders are defined as merchants who open a place of business here for too short a period of time to be placed on the tax assessment rolls.

The new ordinance will give transient traders a choice. They can pay a license fee of $10 per day for every day they are in business, or they can have their real and personal property assessed and pay a special tax.

The tax would be figured on the tax rate of the calendar year for the assessment in market value would be pegged downward to fit the amount of time they remain in business.

Sentenced to Prison for RO Twp. Slaying

Convicted of second-degree murder, an Elmore man was sentenced to 15 to 40 years in Jackson Prison yesterday by Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem.

A 23-member jury found Michael A. Overall guilty Feb. 14 in the March 18 slaying of an alleged dog peddler in Royal Oak Township.

The victim, Richard White, 26, of 20863 Westview Street was shot in the neck when he answered his doorbell. Traces of heroin were found at the scene.

Russia Would Ignore Any Agreement

Orbiting Soviet N-Arsenal Possible by 1970

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A military friend of mine with much experience in air warfare put Astro-John H. Glenn's achievement in focus for me in a frightening way. My friend said: "The greatest danger our country faces flows from the following possibilities:

"Science and technology have reached a state which makes it possible to place in space weapons which can control the people of the earth. Such weapons can be developed for an expenditure of a few billions of dollars and be available by 1970 to 1975.

"The Russians are aware of this possibility. There may be agreement that space be reserved for peaceful purposes and that no weapons be placed in orbit. If such an agreement were made, we would keep it and no funds would be appropriated for space weapons. The Russians can be expected to go full out, despite any treaty agreement, to develop such weapons.

"Thus, in 1970 or thereabouts the people of the United States would be defenseless against Russian space weapons. Under such conditions, the United States would be forced to surrender.

"The antidote to such catastrophe is to proceed with all speed, energy and effort to develop optimum weapons for space. Equal priority must be given to the earliest development of defense systems against space weapons.

"No other problem facing the United States today is of equal importance or fraught with equal fearful consequences."

ROBERT JUDGMENT
My military friend was thinking out loud. He is an intelligent man of sound judgment. He does not indulge in loose talk nor in superlatives. When he uses such words as "the greatest danger our country faces today," he means exactly that.

So, then, when he says that under certain conditions the United States, defenseless, would have to surrender, he means that is absolute, certain and within the time stated, less than 15 years.

This, then, is something for U.S. citizens to consider and to understand. Joseph L. Styer is the very competent reporter who experts for United Press International the news of the atomic and H-bombs. "Joe," I said to him, "what is this optimum weapon my friend mentioned?"

"Oh, you know," Joe replied. "It's that orbital H-bomb. You put it in orbit under electronic control. It spins around the earth until you decide where you want it to strike. Then, still under control, you bring it over the target, obtain its re-entry and let it go. Boom!"

"Do we have it, or do the Russians?"

"No, we don't have it," Joe replied. "The Russians could do it rather easily, however, because they already have put in orbit very heavy objects. You remember, just the other day, Kosykhov was talking about what he called a fantastic new Russian weapon."

"This space weapon," I suggested, "would be something like the sword of Damocles, wouldn't it?"

"Yeah," said Joe, "sort of, maybe. But this orbital H-bomb is no fable."

Earlier I had said to my friend: "You really mean surrender?"

"Yeah," he said, "I really mean the United States would be forced to surrender."

Girdle Thief Leaves Detailed Clues Behind

KANSAS CITY (UP) — Police are on the lookout for a slender and speedy girdle thief.

And they have an unusually detailed description of the woman, about 30 years old, who runs wild and drives fast.

Her 27-inch waist, clerks said, clutches in 24 inches. Her hips measure 35 inches.

Just after she was measured to determine her size, the woman grabbed a girdle and fled to a parked car outside the store, outdistancing a male clerk.

As the woman drove off, the clerk enlisted the aid of a passing motorist and gave chase. They estimated she drove at speeds up to 90 miles an hour, causing them to abandon their pursuit.

Class: However You Define It, JFK, Glenn Have It

By BOB CONSIDINE

WASHINGTON — Zigged when I should have zagged the other day, inside the White House.

Instead of winding up in the press room with the rest of the working stiffs I found myself in a nice round room filled with some people who looked hauntingly familiar.

And they were.

To drop a few names there were the President of the U.S. of A., a couple of his sisters and their husbands, the vice president, astronaut John Glenn and his wife, kids, mother, father and in-laws, Gen. Curt LeMay, Robert Gilruth, who heads up project Mercury.

Also there were Maj. Don Slayton, USAF, the next American headed for orbit, Lt. Cmdr. Scott Carpenter, who would have been the first American in orbit if Glenn had stubbed his toe on the way to his rocket last Tuesday, a large number of children and several butlers serving coffee and cake.

The Secret Service, taking a long chance, let me be. This break enabled me to study at close hand the natural ease of the two most famous men in the nation today, the 43-year-old President and the 46-year-old marine who put the country solidly back into the man-in-space race.

They epitomize Hemingway's simple definition of that never readily definable word "class."

Class, the man once wrote, is "grace under pressure." He later amended it to "poise under pressure." The same difference.

The President this day had been under attack in Russia for not responding too enthusiastically for Khrushchev's call for an almost immediate summit.

He was still snarling from the resounding setback to his plan to establish a government department and cabinet officer as much concerned about the plight of the teeming peoples of our cities as the secretary of agriculture is involved with the condition of the lesser American farmers.

There was fresh trouble in Viet Nam, the hint of more war in Algeria, the U. N. and Berlin. And perhaps 1,001 other problems.

JFK STEPPED ASIDE

But he waited until that company as might just another guest, a friendly man wholly without "side," making damned certain, but in the least conspicuous way, that his presence there — even in his own office — in no way put a crimp in Glenn's finest hour.

The President does that naturally on occasions akin to this.

You may remember an instance early in his administration when he accompanied the wives of the two EMBT fliers Khrushchev surrendered, as the girls went to nearby Andrews Air Force Base to meet their husbands.

By the same token, Glenn had magnificent class upon being exposed to the hot lights of the capital of the free world.

For all his war record, which includes an Air Medal with 38 clusters, he is basically a guy from a small town in Ohio with a knack for flying anything that comes his way, including a Mercury capsule.

His integrity glowed like his capsule's heat shield during his remarkable little speech to the joint session of the Congress.

There was none of the corny "shucks, I'm just a country boy" about Glenn; instead he maturely stressed the infancy of our space effort and the enormous challenges that lie beyond.

He spoke knowingly of meager beginnings that produced bounty, penicillin emerging from common moulds, the incredible uses of electricity from Faraday's crude experiments. And he had the courage to be unashamedly patriotic — a much misunderstood and sometimes abused attitude in our time.

Glenn said it was a thrill to see the American flag along the parade route, a boy to know that the land still takes pride in

Father Shoots Wife, 2nd Man; Kids Safe

BATTLE CREEK 28 — A 39-year-old father who said he had been unhappy over the way his two children were being raised was held today in the shotgun slaying of his estranged wife and another man.

The victims, Mrs. Maxine Daniels and James Swain, were shot to death in the living room of Mrs. Daniels' home Tuesday night.

Henry Lee Daniels, the woman's husband, was arrested at the scene.

The couple's children, Dan, 8, and Denise, 6, were asleep in an upstairs bedroom when the shooting occurred.

Police said Daniels called the telephone operator after the slayings and asked her to send police to his wife's home.

Tells Sad Story of Drop Outs

Expert Claims 1 Million to Leave School in '62 With No Job in View

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer
ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Almost a million lost, bewildered, defeated, hopeless youngsters will leave school before graduation this year and enter a world which has no place for them, an expert on youth problems said today.

Daniel Schreiber, director of the school drop-out project of the National Education Association said of them, "Constantly running from work half-done, from school half-completed, these drop outs are truly fugitives from failure."

Schreiber said half the drop outs will be unable to find work. Those that do, he said, will be restricted to such unskilled jobs as filling station attendants, stock clerks and car washers.

Jobs that these youngsters can handle are rapidly disappearing, Schreiber said.

MACHINES FOR MEN

He cited these figures:
During the past 10 years, 50,000 elevator operator jobs disappeared in New York City alone, 8,000 during the past year.

Six men with modern machinery can lay the same amount of railway track as 100 men did before.

Automated examining equipment for checking transistors permit four men to do the work that 100 did a few years ago. Schreiber said in a prepared address to the National Association of Secondary School Principals, "How American education solves the problem of school drop outs may well determine America's future."

The greatest single factor in school drop outs, Schreiber said, is inability to read.

Soviet Farmers Lackadaisical on Spring Work

MOSCOW (U) — Pravda complained today that many Russian farmers still are not prepared for spring planting, only a few weeks away.

The Communist party newspaper implied that one reason was passive resistance in some areas to new farming methods proposed by Premier Khrushchev, scheduled to go into effect this year.

The farmers' lackadaisical preparations for spring field work, nothing new in the Soviet Union, is especially serious this year, Pravda explained, because of the sharp increase ordered in crop acreage.

The Soviet Communist party Central Committee will meet next week to adopt a decision pressing into use farm acreage that previously was allowed to stand fallow.

Won't Call Election to Fill Ryan's Post

LANSING (U) — Gov. Swainson says he does not plan to call a special election to fill the Senate seat vacated by the election to Congress of former Sen. Harold M. Ryan, D-Detroit.

Swainson said there is no special enthusiasm in either party for a special election — in fact just the opposite. He cited the expense as a factor in the decision.

"By the time the primary and general election could be held, the legislative session would be over for all practical purposes," he said.

Tests Decision Expected Soon

JFK Earlier Claimed Verdict Should Be in by End of the Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — According to his announced timetable, President Kennedy now is in a position to decide whether to go ahead with nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

The White House declined to say whether Kennedy has reached a verdict, as he said he would by the end of February.

Other sources said he has not yet made up his mind, but is expected to announce a decision soon.

INDICATED TESTS

Kennedy has indicated he will direct a resumption of atmospheric shots because of Soviet gains in the Russian's 50 atmospheric explosions last fall which broke the atomic test moratorium.

The United States followed with underground blasts and Kennedy has ordered preparations for tests in the air, which are more valuable for developing weapons but produce radioactive fallout.

ORDERED STUDY

Kennedy ordered a study on the effect of the Soviet series on American security. He told a Feb. 14 news conference that "by the end of the month, we will have concluded our analysis of our relative positions and we will be in a position to make a decision."

The President had told newsmen a week earlier that "before any definitive action is taken and the final decision is made, I will comment in detail to the American people on the reason for whatever decision is made."

WOULD SPEAK SOON

It was speculated that Kennedy, if he is to resume atmospheric testing, would want to get the announcement out of the way before the start of the 18-nation general disarmament conference in Geneva, March 14.

Britain is expected to engage in her first post-moratorium testing with an underground explosion at the U.S. test site in Nevada within the next few days.

Teachers Sentenced on Morals Charges

CHICAGO (U) — A university professor and a high school teacher were placed on probation Tuesday for a year for conspiring to mail obscene matter as members of a pen pal club for men.

They are Glenn D. Wilburn, 58, associate professor of Spanish at Indiana University, and James Poulos, 40, a high school teacher in Lansing, Mich.

They were convicted in jury trial in U.S. District Court. Judge Richard B. Austin gave them the same punishment, a year of probation, that he gave codefendants who pleaded guilty. He said he could not penalize Wilburn and Poulos for having asked for jury trial.

Military Adviser Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Herbert Rosinski, 59, consultant to the armed forces and private groups on military affairs and international politics, died Tuesday. Rosinski, who was born and educated in Germany, had established himself as a military expert when he came to the United States in 1940.

Claims Baptists Should Act More on Social Issues

DETROIT (U) — The Rev. Dr. Ed. Ward A. Freeman, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Kansas City, Kan., says that Baptists who talk about separation of church and state should try to influence government more on economic social issues.

In a speech Tuesday to the annual meeting of Detroit area Baptists, Dr. Freeman said that although he favored separation of church and state, Baptists should work to keep some religious influence in the schools, instead of working for a clean-cut separation of church and state.

Dr. Freeman listed "planning for urban development, stimulating industrial expansion, and engaging in certain types of large-scale research" as areas where the church might seek influence.

$50,000 'Pads' Offered Free to Astronauts

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Frank W. Sharp, Houston real estate developer, has disclosed offers of $50,000 homes to the seven U.S. astronauts.

Business firms here will build and furnish the homes, he told Rep. Albert Thomas, D-Tex. Tuesday night, at a cost to each astronaut of about $100,000.

"We want to show them that we are happy to have them as our neighbors," Sharp said.

The astronauts will train near here after the National Aeronautics and Space Administration completes its $30-million manned space center.

Mrs. K's Plea for Peace Is More Propaganda

Nothing could be closer to the truth than the word "sickening" that Dr. KENNETH MCFARLAND used when he referred to the plea for peace made by Mme. KHRUSHCHEV.

In her tiny little propaganda speech following the party line she intimated that if the men could arrive at a peaceful settlement that perhaps the women or mothers of the world could.

Following the same vein Dr. McFarland used, just how naive can we get? If the kindly Mrs. K was really interested in world peace she could have it in one minute by speaking to her husband.

All this bosh about one housewife to another, and what they could do was just not very convincing. If she could put some pressure to bear in her own household and sell her husband on peace the whole problem could be settled in jig time.

However, this is all wishful thinking and we are afraid that her stature at home is little or nothing. She is used to set forth the image that the Communist, big guns wish to portray.

All the while she was cooing like a "dove of peace" her husband's sidekicks and party bosses were threatening an incident over the air corridors into West Germany.

Her type of malarkey has reached a new low for the Russian propaganda machine. They are smarter than this, and how anyone let this pass is a mystery to us.

Over the years they have suckered and hornswoggled the U.S. along with the rest of the Free World, time and time again. This was a maneuver.

Now a similar melody will be played when Pa KHRUSHCHEV, head of this peace-loving household, takes to the air waves in an exchange of TV talks with President KENNEDY.

Just how silly can we get? The Russians know our terms by heart. They also know that if they are seriously interested, and willing to work together as gentlemen, we'll be only too happy to discuss terms.

Space Flight Is Labeled as Triumph of Patience

Americans have never been noted for patience. The late Gen. GEORGE C. MARSHALL once said that they regard as a stalemate "any matter which comes up in the morning and is not settled by afternoon."

Yet, we live in a world where quick results are less and less possible. The successful orbital flight of astronaut John Glenn is properly hailed by U.S. space authorities as, among other things, a triumph of patience.

As delay piled upon delay in advance of this achievement, many people voiced concern. They were sure GLENN was wearing down from the strain of waiting.

Their worry was sincere, no doubt. But mostly they were defining themselves, not Glenn and his colleagues, who know that patience is part of man's diet in this complex century.

This lesson in patience is something we might all give a second thought to.

States Need Uniform Driving Regulations

Any motorist that has traveled extensively across the United States can testify to the inconsistency and sometimes downright poor highway safety regulations by some states and localities.

We would think that even ferent states rightists would be in favor of a uniform set of safety aids in the way of traffic signs and driving regulations. The present day patchwork rules governing travel make it next to impossible for the average driver to keep within the local rules.

It now appears that enough pressure has come about so that the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads is looking into the matter. They are in the process of holding regional meetings to study how best to eliminate this old-fashioned set of highway traffic markings.

Secretary Luther H. Hodges of the Department of Commerce, which includes public roads, says his program of meetings is aimed at establishing uniform highway safety aids. It's about time. Something should have been done long ago.

It is reasonable to believe that up-to-date standards for driving in all states will cut down on traffic accidents. The Bureau of Roads recently came out with a manual that, if followed, would put an end to the local hodge-podge of highway traffic signs.

This newspaper is solidly behind the plan to change the present lack of uniformity in hopes that it will cut down the large number of deaths and injuries in highway accidents each year.

The Man About Town

Pontiac's Oldest

Woman Born Feb. 29 May Have Same State Honor

March: The month that it comes in like a lion or a lamb, goes out like what we'll wait and see.

Pontiac's oldest "leap year baby" has had only 21 birthdays, although she was born 90 years ago. She is

Mrs. Charles H. Berabacher of 143 Summit Ave. Her birth date was on Feb. 29, 1878. Around the turn of the century she did not have a birthday for eight years.

It is quite probable that Mrs. Berabacher also is Michigan's oldest leap year baby. At least, we'll regard her as such until some other place brings some quite unquestionable proof.

Following the spirit of the times, Editor Dave Hendry of our very excellent GMC News runs a full page Oakland County winter scene to start off his current issue. And of course it's a ski scene—at our Alpine Valley.

Born on Feb. 29, 1906.

Mrs. Florence McKinstry Strong of Highland didn't have a birthday until she was eight years old.

An interesting query comes from Elmer Allenman of Birmingham, who also gives the probable answer. He writes: "Isn't this world-wide impending war situation summed up in the fact that Russia knows that the U.S. has the facilities at the Red border to destroy it on a moment's notice? They know that we could do it even before they could do much damage. As for the Africa, Asia, South America and Cuba hot spots, they don't know what they're fighting about. They just want to fight."

The Old Farmer's Almanac also gives up on the current weather for the Pontiac Area. It simply says:

"Discombobulated Molecules."

Now comes a magazine, especially published for the

of Birmingham, even tells how to treat blistered hands, pounded thumb nails, aching backs, sore muscles, stubborn calluses, high brain tension and fractured bones.

Verbal Orchids to—

Mrs. Charles H. Berabacher of 143 Summit Ave., 90 years of age.

Miss Ella L. Smith of 205 West Huron St., 82nd birthday.

Mrs. Frances Bellhouse of Keego Harbor, 82nd birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow D. Green of Flint; formerly of Pontiac; golden wedding.

David Lawrence Says:

Let's Hope Glenn Never Changes

WASHINGTON—Everybody here liked John Glenn. He captivated Congress. But it wasn't just because he had flown around the world three times. It was because he seemed to be a sensible, modest, earnest-minded and humble hero.

Long after the plaudits of the cheering crowds have given way to the silence of life, two paragraphs from the speech the astronaut made to Congress will be remembered as the epitome of true Americanism, true patriotism and true faith:

"I know I still get a real hard-to-digest feeling down inside when the flag goes by—and I know all of you do, too. As we rode up Pennsylvania Avenue today from the White House and saw this tremendous outpouring of feeling on the part of so many thousands of people, I got that same feeling all over again. And let's hope that none of us ever loses it."

In the field of aviation, none has such applause as was bestowed on Col. Charles A. Lindbergh when, in May 1927, he flew alone across the Atlantic to Paris. He was acclaimed in Washington and New York and given the highest honors.

But his life afterward became highly controversial. He went abroad in the 1930s, looked over Hitler's military preparations—and Andrew Jackson have ascended to the presidency, and other military men who have distinguished themselves on the battlefield have gone into politics without losing their sense of balance or perspective.

Dwight Eisenhower's popularity today is largely due to his common sense and modesty. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, except for a brief venture into political speech-making, has kept in the background, and still is held in high esteem by the nation.

He made a lot of speeches throughout America that seemed to favor appeasement, and lost much of the prestige he had won from his countrymen. He argued that he was trying to keep the United States out of war.

He later served gallantly in World War II, but he never regained his prestige of earlier days. What is Col. Glenn's future? Many Americans, while realizing that international publicity is important in the propaganda battle with the Russians, hope that the famous astronaut will soon be able to settle down to the quiet pursuit of the soldier of science as he gives many more useful years to aid the cause for which he risked his life on the flight around the world.

Dr. Harold Hyman Says:

Urinalysis Important in Medical Examination

Analysis of urine is an important part of every carefully conducted physical examination. Here are some significant facts about collection of the specimen and the results of urinalysis:

The specimen casually passed before or after the survey may give highly misleading results. Even a diabetic has periods during the day when urine is sugary.

Conversely, intense emotional strain, sugar may appear in specimen of husky athletes, such as players in an exciting football game.

You may therefore save yourself worry and expense by collecting a specimen specimen the day before an anticipated physical survey. To do this thoroughly clean, rinse and hold a pair of quart containers and a 4 to 6 ounce bottle that can be securely stoppered.

Begin the collection with the second voiding of the day. Collect all through the rest of the day and night. Include the first voiding of the day of examination. When the collection has been completed, note the approximate amount in quarts and fractions of a pint. Then, fill the small bottle with a mixed sample. Label clearly. Stopper tightly.

Of important significance, under any conditions, are the findings of albumin (albuminuria), sugar (glycosuria), blood (hematuria), pus (pyuria) and cast of kidney tubules. Also the presence of acetone (acetoneuria) and bile (bilirubin).

Albuminuria points to a loss of vital blood proteins, through the kidney filter. While it may be temporary as a result of overexertion, chilling or fever, it may be persistent and indicative of kidney trouble (nephritis) or heart failure or infection of the urinary tract.

Glycosuria, most often it indicates the presence of diabetes mellitus provided that the sugar is not milk sugar that's often passed during pregnancy and lactation and provided that glycosuria is accompanied by a rise in the sugar level of the blood (hyperglycemia).

Hematuria means bleeding somewhere along the line, perhaps as part of a nephritis, perhaps due to irritating by gravel or a stone or the presence of a growth.

'Dog Owner Disapproves of Meter Man Method'

Hurray for Pontiac's heroic meter men. What will they be looking for and counting next — bottles in the liquor cabinet?

My dog has her rabies tag but no city license. I see no point in a city license when the dog has to be leashed up on a leash. What is the purpose of the city tag? Do you have to pay the city for the privilege of owning a dog?

I'm not against the enforcing of the leash law. If I have to keep my dog on a leash, being selfish, I want others to do the same.

As for the method of obtaining the information, I feel it is illegal and unconstitutional. It constitutes an invasion of privacy and in some cases might be construed as an unwarranted search. When you open the door to the meter man, it is for use purpose — to read the meter — not to report to a government agency.

Shame on you, meter man. I'll watch out for you.

'Need Reservations for Florida Trip'

If you are planning to vacation in Florida, be sure you have a reservation. The weather has been perfect and the number of tourists exceeds any previous season. In the Clearwater and Miami area, from 50 to 100 visitors sleep in cars or on the beach each night due to room shortage. The good hotels are reserved ahead and the poor motels are charging three times the going rate.

'Most TV Programs Clean, Educational'

We hear voices and voices regarding our TV programs and sometimes feel that the TV is responsible for the wrong thinking and wrong-doing of our youth. Many programs have to have the drinking prop (drinking which is undermining our nation). Adults and our youth seem to believe that the TV is the only source of their own friends and acquaintances with teenagers deplore the smoking and drinking which is projected into their living rooms.

I made a list of the good, clean programs being televised and there is a large percentage which are informative, clean and entertaining. We appreciate the effort being made.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

'Sins of Omission' Harm Child

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE L-48: Donna Z., aged 17, is the mental patient mentioned yesterday.

"Dr. Crane," her grandmother told me, "Donna was an only child and very timid."

"Her father and mother are socialites. They are good people and mean well, but they left Donna to be cared for by a governess."

Then they sent Dr. Crane her away to boarding school to get rid of their parental responsibility.

"Even when she was a little girl, she was starving for affection. She cried and begged for a kitten; then a puppy, but her mother said those animals would get hair all over the house."

"Donna came to visit me occasionally and seemed so delighted to get away from the tense type atmosphere."

"I tried to explain this to her parents, but they were so busy in civic and social affairs, they never realized Donna's problem."

PARENTS, WAKE UP

It would do you parents a lot of good to take a tour of our mental institutions.

Then you'd see thousands of cases like Donna. And it might wake you up in time to prevent such unnecessary tragedy.

FANTASY WORLD

Other teen-agers will find that the "look unreal" as they flee via the "fantasy of unreality."

In brief, they repeat the external world in order to disguise it, much as sleepers will disguise repugnant moral ideas by dream symbols.

Others develop medical ailments of a psychological nature in order to make a final bid for the interest and sympathy of their neighbors.

We call these patients hypochondriacs or psychosomatic cases.

Suicide is also an extreme route away from an unhappy world. Inanity is just a very widespread method to withdraw inwardly and shut out all contact with the forbidding external reality.

So teach your children to like the world. Give them love. Since youngsters measure love by tangible signs, kiss them goodnight and goodbye. Tell them you love them.

Men, you can squeeze the arm of your son or girl like a vice on the head and say, "Good boy!" when he does something that merits praise.

Quit being so tongue-tied with your own family. Loosen your tongue and let it phrase a compliment every day to your children.

Most kids are yelled at and scolded from dawn to dusk, so they tend to believe their parents don't care for them much.

So show by daily, tangible signs that you love your children (and mates, too) for they can't read your mind via telepathy.

'Gallery Would Help Downtown Area'

Hindsight won't help when people stay away from the new GM display building. We can see all the GM products now at the dealers as well as while they're being made. In fact, how far would you get if you tried not to see them? You'd be moving with your eyes closed, which is about what city commuters are doing.

Give us something we do not have — an art gallery. If city and county can cooperate on tearing down the concrete, how about cooperating to keep it intact as an art gallery? Does anyone interested in business know that artist's supplies are expensive and we have to go out of town to buy them because of the poor selection offered here? It is time for progress in many directions.

Remember what has been done for or against the people when you go to the polls. Vote every incumbent out if you dislike his representation.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Wednesday, Feb. 28, the 59th day of the year with 308 to follow in 1933.

The moon is approaching its new phase. There are no morning or evening stars.

On this day in history:

In 1289, the first ship to carry gold-seekers to the West Coast arrived at San Francisco after making the trip from New York City via Cape Horn.

In 1320, Adolf Hitler's government issued a decree suppressing civil liberties in Germany.

In 1942, Japanese forces landed on Java, the last Allied base in the Dutch East Indies.

In 1946, Secretary of State James Byrnes set the stage for his "get tough with Russia" policy.

A thought for the day: British author Edmund Burke said: "If that we're filled with our strengths our nerves and sharpen our skill. Our antagonist is our helper."

"Why, Dr. Crane," Donna's dad protested, "she should have known we loved her! This was our only child."

Well, she definitely did not know it or she wouldn't have fled into schizophrenia!

And give your children pets. Also show them how to live with friends.

New Big Dictionary Anything but 'Square,' Say Critics

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK (AP)—That big, remodeled word book, "Webster's Third New International Dictionary of the English Language," is stirring up a storm of words.

"A scandal," say some critics. "Debased verbal currency," say others. "Accurate," say the book's editors. "The language that is used."

Ever since the new, 2,652-page linguistic tome came out last fall, it has provided a steady supply of reaction, pro and con.

What seems to have produced the main outcry is that the dictionary doesn't classify as slang or colloquial usage a lot of terms that formerly were put in that category.

NOT DOWNGRADED

For instance, on the lam, stick up, con, softsoap, conny. All these were downgraded in the old dictionary, not in the new.

Many terms not included at all in the old dictionary—such as hot-rod, goon, price-wise, jalopy, yeah, gobbledygook, hipster—are elevated to fully respectable English in the new.

So is the best set's disparaging term, "square," which is defined, "a person who is an outsider or adversary because of the conventional, conservatism or respectability of his taste, behavior or way of life; one who is not in the know; unsophisticated."

This characterization just about sums up the publisher's view of the critics.

George J. Gallan, president of G. & C. Merriam Co., which has put out Webster's dictionaries for more than a century, terms the complaints, "Superficial comments of a few journalists who are reluctant to admit that our language has changed rapidly in the last few decades."

The objections have come—mostly from a variety of sources, however—drawing from writers and reference book specialists to teachers and a law journal.

GOES MODERN

"Webster III has thrust upon us a dismaying assortment of the questionable, the perverse, the unworthy and the downright outrageous," says author Wilson Follett, writing in last month's Atlantic Monthly.

"It has gone over bodily to the school that construes traditions as enshrined, the rudimentary principles of syntax as crippling, and taste as irrelevant."

Among other things, he protests the dictionary's approval of the usage of various words in ways widely considered improper before—such as using "like" for "as if" and "due to" for "because of."

The dictionary, the first completely revised, unabridged Webster's in a quarter century, includes 400,000 entries. Among them, the editors say, are 100,000 new words or new meanings.

The New York Times, in an indignant bit of editorial irony, commented, "A parcel of double-doubles at the G. & C. Merriam Co. joint in Springfield, Mass., have been confabbing and yakking for 27 years—and have now finalized—a new edition of that swell and esteemed book."

The Times said that Webster's for generations had been a "peerless authority" on sound usage, but that the new edition was "bound to cause dismay" to teachers, editors and others interested in good taste in English.

OFFERS THE TRUTH

Dr. Philip B. Gove, editor-in-chief of the new dictionary, said the words ridiculed by the Times appear in "serious writing today."

He said the dictionary's aim was to "report the language" as it is, not to prescribe what belongs in it.

It is just this policy that aroused many of the objections. "The great mass of dictionary users want and need a dictionary to prescribe for them," says B. Hunter Smeaton, of Los Angeles State College, writing in the Library Journal.

He said a dictionary doesn't need to prescribe in "an authoritarian sense" so as to ban perpetual changes in language, but it should point up the current "most widely acceptable" usages among teachers and editors.

"It is no nobility to ask a yardstick to measure by," he said. "No LARGER A JUDGE."

Last month's issue of the American Bar Association Journal also criticized the new edition, saying "a serious blow has recently befallen the cause of good English."

The editorial adds: "The most serious indictment of the new dictionary is that it has utterly abdicated any role as judge of what is good English usage."

Dr. Gove responded that the dictionary simply sought to do what Noah Webster did when he brought out his early two-volume work in 1828—"interpret the culture and language" of the day.

Publisher Gallan observed, "Popular outcry on changes in language is an old story to dictionary makers. It began with Noah Webster and continues right down to the present day. The language belongs to the people who use it, not to the critics who try to dictate."

Protests also have been made to the first inclusion of some four-letter vulgar words. Other common obscenities, however, still are out.

There also have been objections to the new edition's omission of the biographical and gazetteer sections from the back of the book.

Dr. Gove said the biographical and gazetteer information now was available from so many other sources that it seemed unnecessary to include it in the new edition.

Parton's statement, Gallan said, was "not worthy of consideration" and was "without foundation in fact."

As for contents of the new dictionary, he said, "Only a few scholars have so far studied the book or reported on their findings, and these few have been enthusiastically favorable."

In the preface of the new dictionary, Gove says that definitions and status of words were drawn mainly from examples of usage collected in the last 25 years, but that "material of unsubstantial or evanescent quality" was discarded and terms added only if they "have found a place in the language."

The new dictionary, he said, "is offered with confidence that it will supply in full measure that information on the general language."

Last week, James Parton, president of the American Heritage Co. here, disclosed efforts by that firm to buy control of the Merriam Company, saying it was "atrociously managed," lagging in sales growth and "badly in need of new guidance."

SCHOLARS HORRIFIED

He said the "world of scholarship is horrified" by the new dictionary.

Gallan retorted that Merriam had just completed "the most successful year in its history," that Parton's firm had managed to buy only 300 of 45,000 Merriam shares, and that Merriam directors controlled a substantial part of the stock and weren't interested in selling.

Remember When Security Meant Rich Relative?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Let's take a look back at the "good old days" some people like to recall—and others can't forget.

You're entitled to membership in the society of backward glances if you can remember when—

You had more fun walking on stilts than riding in a small foreign sports car.

The best form of social security was a rich relative.

A child's earliest adventure in public speaking was saying grace at the family dinner table.

Anybody who made a visit to Florida in the winter automatically became a recognized community leader.

One of your greatest thrills at Christmas was finding a fresh orange in your stocking.

The youngest child in a large family never got any new clothing until he was old enough to go away to college. Until then he inherited everything he wore.

Women felt a bit during when they used a stand-up bathtub shower.

A complaining, self-pitying child was put in his place by this parental fear: "I'll eat some worms and then I'll die—and then you'll be sorry that you picked on me."

It was considered indecorous to mention Sigmund Freud in polite conversation.

A man who let his wife hold a job outside the home was regarded as a failure in life.

When you went to the store with your mother, the grocer didn't give trading stamps. He gave you a big dripping slice of pickle.

No small girl went to a birthday party wearing less than three petticoats.

Self-respecting people ate canned foods, but no self-respecting dogs did. They flourished on table scraps.

Pies really tasted "like mother used to bake"—because mother really baked them.

Half the houses in America held embroidered wall mottoes saying "God Bless Our Happy Home," or "Home, Sweet Home."

Johnny learned to read without going to a psychiatrist.

Everybody had to be quiet as a mouse on Sunday afternoons after dinner, because that was when father took his big nap of the week.

It was a thrill to go to a Chinese restaurant, because the waiters looked inscrutably sinister—and you were sure that at least one of the doors led to a hidden opium den.

FAVORITE HERO
Your favorite childhood hero was an uncle from the country who ate peas with his knife.

A man who had been to a burlesque show on Saturday night eased his conscience by putting an extra quarter into the church collection plate on Sunday morning.

The rest of the wives in the block thought a woman was a poor organizer if she hung up her washing on Tuesday instead of Monday.

You could tell a family had a daughter of marriageable age when her father bought a new front porch swing—or painted the old one.

Those were "the good old days." Remember?

To Close or Not to Close—That Is the Question

Monroe Schools Try to Weather the Storm

By GEORGE COLLINS
Monroe Evening News
Written for the AP

MONROE — Because it is one of the southernmost counties of Michigan and because of the moderating effect of nearby Lake Erie, Monroe County often is considered a winter "garden spot" of Michigan.

And it's true that the county escaped all but a fraction of the mounds of snow that piled on other sections of the state this winter. But freezing rains on an average of once a week often are more of a problem.

The cold rain that sticks and freezes to pay surface it strikes — often building to a depth of half an inch or more — has forced schools to close as many as seven days already, has created heavy work absences.

And has slowed traffic to a standstill.

In contrast, Monroe County's heaviest snowfall so far this winter was only 3.1 inches.

Old Man Winter has been responsible for unscheduled vacations for thousands of Monroe County school students and has created extra work for school superintendents and school bus transportation directors.

The decision to close county schools because of severe weather conditions rests solely with the school superintendents.

The superintendents maintain that safety is as important as the education of youth. Both thoughts are weighed in making bad-weather decisions.

They also pointed out that the Michigan Department of Public Instruction has ruled that schools must schedule a minimum of 180 membership days to qualify for state aid.

But the closing of school during bad weather is considered caused by "an act of God."

The days lost can be counted as membership days. Each district in the county schedules more than the 180 days anyway.

37,000 PUPILS AFFECTED
Should every school — public and parochial — in the county be closed because of bad weather, more than 27,000 students who attend classes in more than 80 buildings would be affected and some 240 school buses left idle.

Early morning drives on selected treacherous roads by the superintendents is a determining factor in the closing of schools.

The superintendents either check the roads personally, confer with the transportation directors who also have checked the roads, consult with school bus drivers or obtain a road-condition report from state police.

Some administrators also listen to weather forecasts or check the weather periodically on home equipment during a night of snow or sleet.

In every case, a radio station in the vicinity is notified whether classes will be held and whether school buses will operate on all roads or just the main thoroughfares.

To date, only one district has been able to stay open all winter. All classes have been held in Monroe schools, but the district's annexed schools in outlying locations have had to close several times.

Charges Builders With Granting Loans

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley has filed suit in Ingham County Circuit Court here against two home improvement firms—charging they have been granting loans and charging interest in contracts.

In his complaint, Kelley said Capitol Construction Co. of Lansing, and Tailor Made Homes of Grass Lake had violated their charters by incorporating loans of money, credit or goods into home improvement sales contracts and charging interest on them.

He is seeking a permanent injunction to halt the practice.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—The U.N. Economic Commission for Africa has approved a recommendation that South Africa be suspended until it abandons its racial segregation policies.

Dem Legislators Also 'Agin' Tax, Says Republican

ROCKFORD (AP)—Sen. John H. Stahlin, R-Ill., Tuesday said most lawmakers at this point are not convinced of the need or desirability of a state income tax.

Stahlin, Republican candidate for the nomination for lieutenant governor, told a luncheon meeting here that Democratic voters don't like the prospect of an income tax any more than Republicans.

"Democratic legislators found the income tax a convenient issue to support as long as they felt there was no chance for approval," he said. "Now that approval appears possible, they are finding it difficult to squirm off the hook."

Michigan will face new taxes, however, Stahlin said, unless citizens reduce their demands for increased state services.

2 Jet Pilots Escape After Mid-Air Crash

BORRERO SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Two jet fighters collided in the air with a wing-clipping impact that sent flaming wreckage fluttering down on this desert city.

As their planes fell—like a bomb," a witness said—the pilots ejected. Both got out safely.

up Tuesday were Navy Lt. (jg) Robert G. Bengston, 24, and Marine Lt. Clifford A. Jackson, 29, both of Miramar Air Station near San Diego.

He Had to Make Sure

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—James Johnson, 71, was granted a divorce Tuesday on ground of desertion. The petitioner said his wife left him more than 30 years ago and never came back.

Head Expert on Welfare of Women

BY MARILENE DOHERN
The Klingley Inn rolled out the red carpet Tuesday evening for Mrs. Esther Peterson, assistant secretary of labor and director of the Women's Bureau, Washington, D.C. who spoke on the welfare of working women.

Such weighty problems as equal pay laws for women, the problem of the welfare mother, and discrimination in the legal treatment of men versus women.

Mrs. Peterson referred to some obsolete laws in certain states concerning women's property rights and the laws covering maternity, child care and basic protection for women.

She urged women to learn skills and special training to cope with rehabilitation programs. Only one-tenth of one per cent of all employed women in the United States are in a professional group of engineers, lawyers, doctors, etc.

Liberté—by automation, the homemaker with special-ized training may well "sit at home with a slide rule in one hand and a potato masher in the other," says the expert.

Of great concern are women in the low wage bracket, with but three million of the 24 million employed women working under union contracts.

Will Jackie Leave the Wig at Home?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's hairdresser said today he thinks the First Lady will not take a wig along on her trip to India and Pakistan.

"It's finished in Paris," explained French-born Jean Loula. What he meant was that wearing wigs is no longer fashionable.

There have been reports that Mrs. Kennedy would keep a wig handy to settle her hair problems in the Orient. Her press secretary, Pamela Turner, had no comment on the subject.

Mrs. Robert Kennedy, wife of the attorney general, was reported to have taken a wig on her current trip around the world because of the difficulty of fitting in a session with a hairdresser in her rigorous schedule.

There also is some problem in finding western hair stylists in Asia.

The First Lady may want to discuss the problem with her sister-in-law before she leaves March 12.

Jean Loula said that not only are wigs passé now, but "Madame Kennedy likes to feel her hair free. She does not even like to wear a hat."

If worse comes to worse, Jean Loula said, Mrs. Kennedy knows how to put her hair up in curls.

LIMOUSINE SHUTTLES
He has been going to the White House for nearly a year to do Mrs. Kennedy's hair. A White House limousine shuttles him back and forth to do the job, sometimes only an hour before a state dinner.

He said the First Lady likes to change her hairdo, depending on the occasion. For evening, "We are always searching for something new."

Frequently 4-year-old Caroline and 15-month-old John Jr. are romping around the room while Jean Loula is doing Mrs. Kennedy's hair. Once he asked Caroline if she would like her hair done like her mother's.

"Not until I grow up," she replied.

Mrs. Esther Peterson, assistant secretary of labor and director of the Women's Bureau, Washington, D.C., enjoys a pre-dinner visit Tuesday at Kingsley Inn with Mrs. Robert E. MacDonald of Ferndale arranged the dinner.

WELCOME GROUP

Dr. Frances Lamb welcomed the group and Mrs. C. Claude Mills, lieutenant governor, extended greetings from District 5.

First woman ever to be appointed an assistant secretary of labor, Mrs. Peterson gave her thoughts on women's role in a changing world, based on years of experience as mother of four, teacher, a legislative representative for the AFL-CIO, and a woman of international stature.

Discernible as one listened was the influence of her early background and pride in her native Utah where her grandparents settled years ago, after trekking on foot from Omaha.

Mrs. Peterson has recently been named to President Kennedy's Commission on the Status of Women as executive vice-chairman.

Prior to entering federal service, she was an active worker in the labor field and helped organize the First International School for Working Women in LaFayette, near Paris, France.

Walk Among the Stone Birds and Buddha

Antique Lovers Flock to New York Show

By HENRIETTA LEITH

NEW YORK (AP)—Imagine your grandmother's attic replete with a hundred times over and you'll get an idea of what the basement of Madison Square Garden looked like just today.

For days it had been a jumbled mass—paper, cartons, worn-eaten furniture, dusty glass and china, bronzes and books, old lace and old gowns, birds under glass and decapitated china dolls' heads.

The annual orgy of traditional-lovers, the 13th annual National Antiques Show, is under way.

For nine glorious days, the lookers and the buyers can shop its corridors, imagining how a 14th-century bronze Buddha from Thailand (1895) would look in the library or whether paws would be amused by the old green-glass pocket watch fiasco, complete with cork (11).

THAT OLD FEELING

The $20-million show does not have something for everybody. But there is something for everyone who likes old things and the history they conjure up—be it prehistory, Egyptian, Renaissance Italian, colonial Americana or Victorian.

One New York dealer shows a clay vase, ($200) dating back to the Egypt of 3,000 or 4,000 B.C.; the first safety pins—made of bronze and used to pin togas in Rome about 500 B.C. ($50 or $60 depending on size); a minute Roman oil lamp ($150) and a mummified Egyptian head with the real 3,000-year-old teeth but infall eyes—yours for only $300.

The aforementioned bronze Buddha comes from the collection of Charles Gordon, an airline pilot who also can show you a pair of Thai temple birds three feet high ($540 the pair), a pair of stone "foo dogs" ($500) and a Thai peasant carved of wood with movable arms ($110).

A Renaissance bronze bust of St. Maurice, the Moorish warrior saint, came from northern Italy, was fashioned about 1530, and in the gallery would bring about $1,500, although the dealer doesn't expect to do more than show it off at the antique show.

KING'S GIFT

An ornate toy carousel which plays a music box while its horses slowly circle was made for the grandchildren of the Emperor Franz Joseph about 1890. A sleigh hollowed out of a log, with an ugly dolphin masthead, was a Christmas gift from the king of Poland to his daughter Maria who became the wife of Louis XV of France.

For the ordinary middle-income visitor who might want to buy as well as look, there is a whole wall of Wedgwood, in one booth, a collection of beer steins in another ranging in price from $10 to $500, and almost any kind of glass, china, copper, pewter or silver object you can think of.

There is a replica of an old country store where you can pick up hundreds of everyday early Americana items—wooden cooking tools, bottles, casks and jars, even an old whisky bottle and an ancient peanut can both with their brand labels intact—and most of them for $5 or less.

Don't Look for Courtesy on Elevator

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: I work in a large office building and it is quite natural that at closing time there are more people waiting to get on the elevators than can be accommodated at each floor.

I have noticed that the men, regardless of the fact that they may have been waiting longest, usually step aside to let the women on first.

In so doing, there is often no room for the men on the elevator and as a result have to wait for the next one. Inasmuch as they top have buses or trains to catch, this practice seems quite unfair to the men. Don't you think this is carrying courtesy a little too far?

A: It is indeed. In a crowded business elevator it is not at all necessary, nor expected, that the men step aside to let the women on first.

By ANNA VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a sailor in the U.S. Navy. Recently I made plans to marry a 16-year-old girl from my home town.

In order to get enough money to get married on, I re-enlisted for six years.

When I went home to see my father, he ran me out of the house and refused to let my daughter marry me. She's not old enough to marry without his consent. Now I'm in the Navy for six more years and can't get out. What should I do?

PLEASANT POST OFFICE

DEAR ABBY: I look like you're stuck with a six-year hitch and $400. Make the best of it, Mac, and see the world.

DEAR ABBY: My husband died suddenly last November. At a Christmas party I renewed acquaintance with a man I had known for many years. On New Year's Eve he asked me to marry him. My teen-aged daughter became very upset when I told her, and said that out of respect for her father I should wait at least one year. When I told this man I wanted to wait he cooled off and started seeing another woman. The talk around town is that he may marry her. I think I passed up a good thing and would like to have another chance at this man. How can I revive his interest without letting it look like I am chasing him? Should I find an excuse to call him?

MISSING MY CHANCE

DEAR ABBY: Unless you can get word to him via a friend in a very subtle way, I am afraid you are out of luck. Don't call him. P.S. Your daughter may have done you a favor. The "love" you renewed acquaintance had for you was not very deeply rooted.

DEAR ABBY:

My father is going to kill me when he sees my report card. I got A's and B's in everything except Citizenship, and I got a D in that. This isn't the first time I have been kept off the honor roll for Citizenship. When I asked my teacher exactly what "Citizenship" meant, she said she didn't like my "attitude." Now what does that mean? I don't think it's fair. What should I do?

PICKED ON

DEAR PICKED ON: A good citizen does his share to get along with others. Evidently you don't. Your attitude is not what you do, but the way you go about doing it. Have a talk with your teacher and ask her how you can improve on this score.

Still worrying about the same old problem?

Club Gives Audiometer to Health Department

Quota Club of Oakland County observed the 42nd birthday of the Quota International, Inc., at a dinner meeting Tuesday in Carrie Lee's Tea Room, Birmingham.

Guest speaker Philip Peterson, councilman of the City of Southfield, spoke concerning plans for the proposed site of the Southfield Civic Center.

The local group presented an audiometer to the Oakland County Board of Health. This is a testing instrument for detecting hearing defects in children.

Among other philanthropic projects on which the area Quotarians work are the Veterans' Administration diabetic camp, aid to hard of hearing children, Meals for Millions project, Camp Oakland for Boys, and the Goodfellow.

In 1961, members of the Quota Club of Oakland will serve on the board of the Wayne County Society for Prevention of Blindness and the board of the Detroit Hearing Society.

After Mr. and Mrs. Pence cut the cake refreshments were served and gifts opened.

Tip to Age

(NEA)—Have you ever wondered how some women have acquired those grim lines around the mouth in mid-smile? Well they came from the habit of compressing the lips, sternly.

If you wonder if you have the habit, peek into the mirror at old moments. Catch yourself on the sly. Most of us never see ourselves as we really are since we carefully compress our expressions before we look into the mirror. But a fleeting glimpse can tell you a great deal. Lip compressing is one habit you'll want to break!

Double-Duty Bath

(NEA)—The lethargy, worn tubing at the end of the day does more than cleanse; it perks up the spirits, too.

Q: When the wedding ceremony takes place at a daytime hour and the men are wearing striped trousers and cut-away coats, is it necessary for them to change into evening clothes for the reception which takes place at an evening hour?

This has caused quite a discussion among the men in the wedding party and we would like very much to have you settle it for us.

A: They wear the same clothes at the reception that they do at the ceremony. It would be unusual for them to change.

Q: I will be leaving my job soon and it is customary when anyone leaves, for the members of the department to take the person to lunch and also give (if she is a woman) to present her with a corsage.

I am a very shy person and do not like any fuss. In fact, I get very nervous and can hardly keep from shaking all over. Could I possibly decline this gesture, and how can this be done graciously?

A: Before plans can be made for the lunch in your honor, explain to the one or two members of the department you know best how you feel about any fuss being made over you, and ask them please not to give you the customary lunch.

The new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Formal Wedding Procedures," includes details on the wedding procession, the receiving line, and other helpful wedding information. Young Moms Unaware of Grandma's Aid

BY MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Dear Mrs. Lawrence:
When my first grandchild was born I wanted to be with my daughter to help her during her first weeks at home. She refused my offer of help. Now she and her husband are expecting a second child and again she has refused my offer of help.

What worries us is that she has no idea of the extra work this second baby is going to mean. The older child is barely 2 years old and when we speak to my daughter on the telephone her voice sounds very tired. We are both worried for her. . .

Answer: What about asking her and her husband to discuss the value of your help with their pediatrician?

We can't assume that your daughter doesn't want your help because she says she doesn't. For young mothers today aren't permitted much knowledge of what they want.

The notion that they should do everything for their babies themselves has been so promoted by child guidance experts that they are afraid to say, "Yes, mother, or, I need help." They are scared of letting us cuddle, feed, bathe or otherwise care for the babies lest we do some mysterious psychological damage to the bond between them and their infants.

So even when things go wrong, the poor young creatures feel obliged to struggle with sleepless nights, thermometers and steam kettles alone. Wanting help desperately, yet not daring to know

Church Women Planning Dinner

A family style ham dinner, sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service of Aldersgate Methodist Church, is set for Saturday.

Serving time is from 5 to 7 p.m. in the church basement. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

General chairman, Mrs. Mary Satterberg, is assisted by Mrs. Frank M. Branson Jr. Dining room chairmen are Mrs. Alfred Tollefson and Mrs. Arthur Lightcap.

they want it, they naturally snap at us when we offer it.

Thus, your daughter's refusal of your help may have nothing to do at all with her actual wish for it.

TALK TO DOCTOR

If her pediatrician is a good one, a talk with him might relax her resistance and enable her to entertain the idea that young mothers can be receivers of love as well as dispensers of it.

Sometimes, of course, a daughter doesn't want us around because she regards us as bossy. In which case there is nothing to do but leave her alone to discover the size of the task she has undertaken.

As you yourself suggest, it is your daughter's ignorance of the work that lies ahead that is the real problem.

I hope that her pediatrician is kind enough to tell her the truth. For young mothers who are not prepared for the exhausting and complicated business of mingling housework and attention to husbands with the care of new babies and small children can begin to regard themselves as aimless.

They can start wondering if their secret resentment at other people's demands on them is evidence of their deficiency as women and parents. Whereas it is only evidence of overwork.

Past Presidents of Auxiliary Meet for Dinner

Past presidents of Cook-Nelson Unit 20, American Legion Auxiliary, were guests of Mrs. Lynn D. Allen of Argle Avenue Monday evening.

A cooperative dinner preceded Mrs. Edna Showen's films of the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary's 43rd national convention held in Denver last October.

Election of officers followed with Mrs. Leo Mineveaser of Mountain Street chosen president of the Past Presidents' Party, and Mrs. Showen of Lexington Avenue, new secretary-treasurer of the group.

General chairman and committee of the annual card party slated for May 9 will be appointed by Mrs. Mineveaser, president, at the group's meeting next week.

Proceeds of the May 9 event open to the public, will go toward furthering the Cook-Nelson Unit's programs on Americanism, child welfare, civil defense, community service, legislative, national security, Pan American and rehabilitation.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY C. GUTZKE

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Gutzke of North Shirley Avenue celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a family dinner, Sunday at the Elks Temple. Longtime residents of Pontiac, Mr. and Mrs. Gutzke have seven children. They are: Mrs. Vernette Mathews and Leland M. Gutzke; Mrs. Edwin A. Heidkman and Mrs. Arthur L. Costello of Drayton Plains; Mrs. Russell Dickman of Union Lake, and Mrs. Frank J. Kozel who lives in Brazil, and Mrs. Billy Condon of Birmingham. The couple has eight grandchildren.

Beauticians Now Aiding Doctors in the Hospital

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Beside beauticians are joining doctors and nurses in the realm of healing.

Every woman knows that there's nothing like a dab of perfume, a new shade of lipstick or a flattering hairdo to pick up one's spirits — but the medical profession is just beginning to realize that a woman's appearance can determine her rate of recovery when she is hospitalized.

Doctors at the University of Michigan Medical Center prescribe a visit to the beautician for their female patients now that they've discovered something like a hairdo can have a "valuable therapeutic effect."

"A stylish coiffure helps a girl's morale anytime, so you can imagine what a booster it is to women who have been bedridden for months, to an exhausted new mother or to anyone on her way to recovery," said U. of M. beautician Hazel Plamondon.

Many major hospitals now have resident beauticians.

If a woman is confined to her bed, the beauty shop comes to her, Mrs. Plamondon said.

"At the University Hospital, we encourage women to come to us," she said. "At the right point in their medical care, doctors feel it's good for them to get away from the hospital atmosphere for a little while. I think we have the only room in the hospital painted a pale cameo pink," she said.

Lutheran Women Meet at Church
Sylvan Lake Lutheran Church women met at the church Monday. Members participated in a Bible study and discussion conducted by Mrs. Clark McPhail and based on the theme, "Christ, the Light of the World."

Guest speaker Mrs. Oscar Forslund showed slides of her recent trip to Scotland and Scandinavia.

Following the program refreshments were served. Hostesses were Mrs. William Frankenkfield, Mrs. Fred Rider and Mrs. Donald Wolf.

Honus Is Unusual Dip, Serve With Vegetables

By JANET ODELL
Feature From Honus Miller

Want a new idea for a dip, one that's very good with raw vegetables? One of our colleagues, Charlotte Hyman who works on the copy desk, gave us this recipe. She endorses it enthusiastically.

Charlotte is a beginning cook and an inveterate recipe saver. We enjoy hearing about her experiments in the culinary line and especially her family's reaction to them.

HONUS
By Charlotte Hyman
1 cup drained chick peas

1 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup lemon pulp
2 cloves garlic
1/2 cup liquid from chick peas
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon crushed dried chili peppers

Combine ingredients in blender and blend until smooth. Add more liquid from the peas if needed. Chill until serving time.

Sprinkle top with chopped fresh parsley. Makes 1 cup.

Serve as a dip for carrot, cucumber and celery sticks. Lebanese flat bread is good with it.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Winner of the Tailor Trix pressing board for the best suggestion this week is Mrs. Ruth Pawelski, Vista, California. Here is her helpful tip:

"To eliminate tearing the last buttonhole either just below the waistline or near the hem of a dress, don't finish the buttonhole on the facing. Sew the button on firmly through all layers of fabric. It will look like the other buttons but will work wonders for you because it can't tear out."

"Dear Eunice,
"Now I do believe I've heard everything. What on earth does "naked wool" mean? I've seen this expression so often this spring when advertisements have described ready to wear garments, and my curiosity has gotten the best of me. Is this fabric available to the home sewer and what is it?"

Mrs. D.J.
Because this is such a timely question, and such an involved one, I am devoting today's column exclusively to it. I would suggest that all of you clip and save it.

TERM "NAKED WOOL"
The term "naked wool" refers to a new, light, airy wool that is not closely woven. It is claimed to be a year-around fabric in dress, suit or coat weight.

It is necessary to underline these wools for the following reasons:

a. To hold their shape and allow smoother fit in closely fitted garments.

b. To prevent horizontal wrinkles in front and "seating out" in back of skirt.

c. Because of the open weaves, your under-lining will keep seams from showing through in very sheer wools.

Lining has been the customary practice of fine dressmakers, custom designers in better ready-made garments. Fabrics suitable for underlining these garments are China silk, a very fine cotton batiste, or a sheath lining of cotton and acetate. Any of these fabrics must be very firm, but light weight. China silk is the most difficult to work with because of its slippery quality.

After cutting your garment out and before unpinning the pattern, you may lay it on the underlining fabric and cut it exactly the same. Facings and collars will not need underlining because you will be using an interfacing for them. Put your markings for darts, etc., on the lining fabric instead of your garment fabric.

When underlining anything, you must work on a FLAT surface, preferably larger than the section of your garment. Follow these directions in the exact order given.

FOLLOW DIRECTIONS

1. Lay the lining fabric on the table first. Now lay your garment fabric over it, with the right side of the fabric facing you.

2. If the section of your garment is very large, baste down the center first. (a). Next, baste diagonally through the two layers of fabric (b) and (c). Now baste through the CENTER of all darts (d). You will now be ready to baste around the entire outer edges of the garment, this basting should be about 1/2" from the cut edge.

The above basting refers to "hand basting" and not machine basting. You will now treat each lined section as if it were ONE piece of fabric. Mercerized thread is usually used for machine stitching on wools.

The "naked wools" press beautifully with a steam iron for seams and darts. However, for any faced edges, it is better to use a press cloth that has been chemically treated. You do not use the steam iron, but dampen the press cloth slightly with a moist sponge and use a hotter iron. Never let your press cloth become too wet because the wool will lose its sharp press as the wool dries.

If there are any marks from darts or seams that show from the right side, caused by heavy pressing, lift the dart or seam and press under it.

It is not necessary to stay-stitch any part of a garment that has been underlined.

When hemming these sheer wools, you may cut the lining off even with the fold of the hem. Now baste hem up near the fold and press carefully and apply hem tape to the cut edge. Hem's should be approximately 2 to 3" wide. Loosely slip-stitch hem tape to the LINING ONLY, except at the seams. Your stitches must be loose so the hem will not have a pulled look.

If fabric does not ravel, it could be machine stitched close to the cut edge and then pinked. Fold back the edge slightly and slip stitch to lining.

Jackets and coats of "naked wool" also must be completely underlined. They will also need a woven type interfacing for the fronts of these garments and the collars. Your regular lining of plain or printed fabric must not be too stiff or heavy for the garment fabric, a crepe or soft silk would be best.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY: Underlining: This is a term used when the garment fabric needs extra body to retain its shape. You use a soft, firm type of fabric and baste the two layers together; they are then treated as one.

Please send all questions and suggestions to Sew Simple in care of The Pontiac Press.

Many Cannot Relax

Must Adjust to Life

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The art of living is important, but sometimes it seems to me that it is an art just a stay alive; and you need a big hunk of luck. Remember all the things you did as a child and as a teen-ager?

How anyone ever gets from childhood to teenage and then from teenage to maturity in one piece is a miracle. However, a lot of us made it! Of course, the medical profession had a lot to do with it. Most of the dread diseases of childhood and the scourges to the human race have been conquered.

Now the big guns of medical research are turning into the chronic diseases of middle age and later years. Before long they will know how to prevent heart and vascular diseases, arthritis and cancer, and will know more about the ever expanding role of nutrition.

Now that we "made it" what are we doing with this lovely bonus of being alive? A lot of folks are tied up in knots of tension, with plenty of time to worry, but no time to relax or to savor daily life.

MANY FORGET
They seem to forget that the absolutely greatest blessing of all is to be alive, to be able to think and feel as possible in worry. It may be uncomfortable, and even painful, but it is always worthwhile.

In order to get the most out of living we must set aside some time for relaxation and spend as little time as possible in worry. The latter saps our pep and leaves us exhausted. Mulling over problems completely changes one's outlook and enters the colors of life.

Naturally we cannot just ignore problems and unpleasant situations.

Life can be trying at times, but we must learn to adjust if we are to enjoy it to the fullest. We must set aside some time for relaxation and spend little time in worry.

We have to face them and do something about them if we can't, but worry is completely unproductive unless it leads to action of some sort. This may be the action of changing conditions in which we live, or it may mean that we adapt to them.

Something has to happen if we are to survive as happy and well-adjusted individuals. Since what we get out of life depends most of all on our approach to it, our attitude is of prime importance to us.

I cannot imagine a greater waste of life than to spend it in useless, nagging worry.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Worry," which will give you suggestions about breaking the worry habit, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 64 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Is Anything Any Better?

'Just a Housewife' Is Okay

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

American women are often chided for using the term "just a housewife" when asked their occupation.

Why that belittling "just" when housemaking is still the most important job at which any woman can excel?

Well, when it comes right down to it, who ever gives the housewife a pat on the back?

Her family tends to take her for granted and to accept matter-of-factly all that she does to make them comfortable, to offer encouragement or lend a helping hand, to keep things running smoothly, and to make "home" a happy word for each member of the family.

And when honors are passed around to women, the homemaker is usually overlooked. It's the career woman, the club-woman, the worker on community projects who get public attention and a pat on the back.

Of course, all of these women may be housewives, too — but they aren't honored for what they do INSIDE their homes. When they are singled out for attention it is for what they do OUTSIDE the home.

So no wonder the woman who devotes almost all of her time and energy to the major job at hand — being a good wife and mother and a fine homemaker — is likely to say of herself when asked her occupation, "Why I'm just a housewife."

She may know full-well that the job she is doing is the most important job any woman can do. She may even have moments when she feels a deep satisfaction with the way she is handling her job.

But she gets no raises and no promotions to assure her that she is succeeding. She doesn't climb any success ladder — she just stays put at the center of the family circle.

She is rarely told that she is doing an important job and doing it well — and almost never is she given a public pat on the back.

So she doesn't really expect anybody to be impressed when she admits to being a full-time homemaker. Not because SHE doesn't think her job is important — but because she isn't sure that others do. That is why she says, almost apologetically, "just a housewife."

The Naomi Guild Gets Together at Breakfast

'Naomi Altar Guild of Lutheran Church of the Incarnate Word gathered at the Margaret Street home of Mrs. Earl Thorpe in Auburn last night.

Breakfast served by Mrs. Sam Lucklow and Mrs. Gustard Turnquist, preceded the Thursday business meeting which opened with the devotional by Mrs. Thorpe and prayer by Mrs. G. E. Lindmark.

The group's new project will be to secure white satin ribbon for aisle candle holders. Pastor Arthur J. Basker spoke to those present on the "Real Duties of Altar Guild Members," knowing the church year calendar, symbols and seasons, then closed the meeting with prayer.

The guild will meet again March 22 with Mrs. Lindmark of Marlborough Drive as hostess for 6 o'clock breakfast.

Women of the church also have the program for 10 a.m. March 8 with a breakfast preceding the meeting.

Members of the Luther League will attend a hayride following their gathering Sunday 3 p.m. at the parsonage.

Area Girl Scouts Set Cookie Sale

Northern Oakland County Girl Scouts' annual cookie sale begins March 9 and continues to March 25. Cookies are available from any Girl Scout in the council.

Four kinds of cookies are being sold: mint, peanut butter patties, vanilla thins and assorted creme sandwich.

"Help Us with our Camps this Year" will be the often heard slogan during the two week period which includes the Girl Scout Birthday March 13.

Part of the cookie profit goes into the troop treasury. The balance is used to operate and maintain the camping program, to provide "camperships" and to send girls to national scouting events.

MAINTAINS CAMP
Camp Sherwood, resident camp operated by the council, is maintained by cookie money. Located west of Lapeer on Davis Lake, the camp is used for resident summer camping and troop camping during the year.

Seventy-two "camperships" or scholarships for campers are awarded from cookie profits last year. These aid girls who otherwise might not be able to attend camp.

Because residents of the area have previously enjoyed Girl Scout cookie sales eight Senior Girl Scouts from Northern Oakland County will have two weeks at Senior Round-Up in Battleground, Vermont this July. Another eight Senior girls will be sent to the Alternate Round-Up in Three Lakes, Wis.

Invites Women of Russia to Run in Pancake Race

LIBERAL, Kan. (UPI)—The women of Russia have been invited, through a letter to Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev, to participate in the race March 6 between the women of this southwest Kansas town and those of Olney, England.

Mrs. Joanne Schield, mother of two children, extended the invitation in a letter written Tuesday.

The housewives of Liberal and Olney "have found a wonderful way to establish good will between two countries, and maybe it could be used to advantage if the women of your country joined in," she wrote.

"Anything to ease tension would help."

Mrs. Schield, whose husband works at a concrete plant, explained the rules of the pancake flipping contest. The entrants race over a 4½-yard course through the main street, with the local winners' time compared by transatlantic telephone to determine the international champion.

The international race, established about a decade ago, revived an Olney tradition dating back several centuries.

Mrs. Schield, one of this year's contenders, told Mrs. Khrushchev that "a woman here wrote Mrs. Stalin about this several years ago, but she just ignored us."

In a postscript, Mrs. Schield added: "I suggest a good place to hold the race might be on that bridge they're always talking about, the one that divides Ben."

Designer Dache Has the Answer

Lilly Dache reports that when very tired, "I go upstairs, tie a pink ribbon in my hair and climb into a perfumed bath. I put cream on my face and lie back in the hot tub and feel the vigor and energy flowing back into me. When I get out I feel refreshed and ready for the evening."

Any woman would do well to follow this fashion leader's beauty bath "recipe."

Many Teen-Agers Give and Give

By GAY FAULEY

NEW YORK — "It is distressing to see how juvenile delinquency is emphasized and how little is said about juvenile goodness."

Those are the words of a volunteer service bureau director.

"I think we volunteer for two reasons. It gives us a chance to help others and a chance to get experience toward a career."

Those are the words of a teen-age volunteer.

The director quoted above is Mary Alice Messerley, of the Volunteer Service Bureau, Inc., at 1111 and Welfare Council, St. Louis, Mo.

The teen-ager is Edwina Mounce, a pert-faced strawberry blonde of 17 years who works at the Mary Manning Walsh Resident Home for the Aged, New York.

Miss Mounce is one of the thousands of teen-agers in our land who are giving their time to projects from caring for the hospitalized and aged to working in day-care centers for retarded children.

If you wanted to cite a "typical" teen volunteer, Miss Mounce would make a fine example.

She is the daughter of a Federal Reserve Bank employee, a sister of Cathedral High School, New York, a cheerleader at the school for two years, president of the senior art club, member of the YMCA, skater, swimmer, and senior member of the Girl Scouts of America (GSA).

She is one of the 10,000 girls from the United States and abroad selected — because of her leadership and work as a volunteer — to attend the scouts' "roundup" in Vermont in July.

Edwina followed a family pattern in service to others. Her mother, Mrs. Edwina Mounce, was a volunteer at the Mary Manning Walsh Home from the day it opened 10 years ago.

For the last four years, during the school year, Edwina has volunteered one or two evenings each week as school activities allowed and each Saturday. In the summer, the volunteer job is almost fulltime, she said.

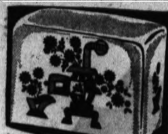

"I'm a jack of all trades," she said in describing her duties. "I sometimes get to make the rounds with the nurses and doctors and I help with lab testing and everything. Volunteering has taught me one thing. I want to be a nurse."

As a result, in the fall, she will enter the nursing school at New York's Bellevue Hospital and hopes one day to work in the wards "because there is where the real need is."

Edwina's volunteer experiences have pointed the direction of her career. The same happens to numerous teeners.

Parking at City Hospital Made Worse by Weather

Trustees have been working several years on the problem from another angle. They are trying to provide more housing for employees, thus reducing the number of cars that must be parked at the hospital. It appears they may have to drop housing and buy property for parking. Eder pointed out that the municipal lot cost some $235,000 to build and $11,700 was paid out last year in commitments and maintenance costs.

"Our cash position is very tight right now," he said.

It was estimated that 15 houses would have to be bought and demolished to provide the needed space.

Give Family Fancy Pancakes to Celebrate Shrove Tuesday

BY JANET ODELL
 Pontiac Press Home Editor
 Next Tuesday may be just another day on the calendar to you. If you were in New Orleans, it would mean Mardi Gras. Here, it would mean Shrove Tuesday. Christians, it would be the day you used up all your eggs, butter, lard and milk in one grand pancake feast.

You see, Tuesday is Shrove Tuesday or Pancake Day. It has become a festive occasion since few housewives refrain from using the above mentioned foods all during Lent.

With the coming of the Pancake House to this section of the country, you have been treated to a wide variety of unusual pancakes. There is no reason why you can't serve some of the delectable kinds right in your own home.

Take Pear Pancakes for example. Over-sized pancakes are layered with a cottage cheese nut filling and topped with canned pears. The resulting wedges are served with a marmalade sauce.

Pear Cheese Stack
 1 can (1 lb.) canned Bartlett pear halves
 2 cups pancake mix
 1/4 cup milk
 2 tablespoons cooking oil
 2 pounds cottage cheese
 1/2 cup fluberts or other nuts, chopped

Drain pear halves, reserving syrup. Cut pear halves in quarters. Prepare pancake mix according to directions on package label. Make four 5-inch pancakes.

GOURMET STYLE — Zesty Blue cheese and onion rings convert macaroni and cheese from an everyday dish to Gourmet Macaroni and Cheese that adds new zip to a perennial favorite.

Cooked Rice With Chicken a Fine Meal
 Rice has been called the world's most important food for millions of Asians make the cereal a large part of their diet.

And, going way back, primitive man probably ate rice in the form of wild grass seeds — far cry from today's tasty dishes such as chicken with rice.

A hearty and delicious meal such as Rice with Chicken and Cheese can be prepared with rice now being donated to needy families by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Lightly brown 1 chopped onion in 1/2 tablespoons chicken fat; add 3 cups chicken broth and 1/2 teaspoon salt. When it boils rapidly, add 1/2 cup uncooked rice slowly. Cover the pan and cook 30 minutes.

Remove the pan from direct heat and stand 30 minutes, covered tightly, for rice to finish cooking in its own steam. Then, add 2 cups diced, cooked chicken and more salt, if needed. Reheat if necessary. Turn onto a hot platter and sprinkle generously with grated cheese.

Black Coffee Devotes Should Like This One
 Jellied Coffee Mold rates rave notices from guests, can be made in less than five minutes! Because it is made with reliable unflavored gelatin, there's no risk involved.

Combine 1 envelope unflavored gelatin, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons instant coffee, 1/4 teaspoon salt, and 1/2 cup water. Mix well and place over low heat, stirring until the gelatin and sugar dissolve. Remove from heat, stir in 1/4 cups water, and turn into a 2-cup mold. Chill until firm and serve with whipped cream, if desired. Serves 4.

Take Pear Pancakes for example. Over-sized pancakes are layered with a cottage cheese nut filling and topped with canned pears. The resulting wedges are served with a marmalade sauce.

Pear Cheese Stack
 1 can (1 lb.) canned Bartlett pear halves
 2 cups pancake mix
 1/4 cup milk
 2 tablespoons cooking oil
 2 pounds cottage cheese
 1/2 cup fluberts or other nuts, chopped

Drain pear halves, reserving syrup. Cut pear halves in quarters. Prepare pancake mix according to directions on package label. Make four 5-inch pancakes.

Apple Vanilla Pancakes
 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 1/2 teaspoon soda
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 tablespoon sugar
 1 1/2 cups buttermilk or sour milk
 2 eggs, separated
 2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
 1 cup chopped fresh apples

Shift together into a mixing bowl flour, soda, salt and sugar. Gradually stir in milk, egg yolks and pure vanilla extract. Blend in melted butter or margarine along with apples. Beat egg whites until they stand in soft, stiff peaks. Fold into the batter.

Pour 1/4 cup of the batter at a time onto a hot, greased griddle. Brown on one side. Turn to brown on other side when bubbles form over the top. Serve hot with syrup or honey. Yield: 15 pancakes.

On the other hand, you can serve pancakes instead of crackers or bread with soup or salad. These you fill with cheese.

Mardi Gras Rollups
 1 cup packaged pancake mix
 3 tablespoons catsup
 8 thin slices American or cheddar cheese
 Grated Parmesan cheese

Make pancake batter following package directions. Stir in 3 tablespoons ketchup. Use 1/4 cup measure and spread to make 5 8-inch cakes; bake on lightly greased griddle; cool on rack. Meanwhile, heat oven to 475 degrees.

Lay a slice of cheese on each pancake. Cover with a thin layer of ketchup; roll jelly-roll fashion, secure with toothpicks. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese over rolls; place on lightly greased baking sheet. Bake 7 minutes or until cheese is melted.

Serve as soup or salad accompaniment. Makes 8 sandwiches.

Nehru, Menon Sure of Victory

Final Election Results Expected Tonight, but Pair Have Big Leads

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Three of the headlines in the Indian election—Prime Minister Nehru, Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon and the beautiful Maharani of Jaisalmer—appear assured of victory today.

Final results in their contests for Parliament and most others were expected to be in tonight. Nehru's ruling Congress party led in all states except Kerala and had won nearly three-fourths of the seats in the national Parliament decided so far.

ELECTION ASSURES

The election to Parliament of Nehru and Maharani Gayatri Devi had been virtually assured before the voting began Feb. 16, Nehru because he is the most popular man in India and the Maharani because she is worshipped by her subjects of her husband, the Maharaja of Jaisalmer.

But Krishna Menon had a tough fight against an old Gaddigal, J. B. Kripalani, who accused Nehru's closest foreign policy adviser of leaning toward the Communists.

MAD BIG LEAD

With the tabulation in Menon's North Bombay district at the halfway mark, he had 149,746 votes to Kripalani's 78,132. Political observers attributed Menon's victory to Nehru's vigorous campaign on his behalf, opposition of south Indians in Bombay to Kripalani because he is a northerner, and the defense minister's reputation as a friend of the little man.

Nehru's Congress party had captured 123 of the 171 Parliament seats reported. There were 694 at stake.

With returns in from 2,219 of the 2,580 seats at stake in 13 state assemblies, Nehru's party had 1,434, control of seven assemblies and big leads in the others.

GOP Composing Statement for '62 Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans start soon on a broad statement of principles outlining their party's position for the congressional elections.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said members of a Senate-House committee will hammer out the statement without benefit of preliminary drafts.

He predicted it might take six weeks to reach agreement on a declaration covering a "broad spectrum" of issues.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, and Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., called the 12-member drafting group into session today with GOP leaders of both houses, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., heads of the campaign committees of both houses, were invited to sit in.

Kremlin Turns to S. Viet Nam

Experts Say Interest Aimed Against China and Aid by U.S.

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union is showing a new interest in South Viet Nam. Some Western officials said the Kremlin may have a double-edged purpose—prevent any strong action by Red China and to warn the United States against extending its support of South Viet Nam.

The new Soviet interest was disclosed by publication of a long article in Pravda Tuesday. The Communist party newspaper charged the United States was widening what it called intervention in South Viet Nam and decried this as "fringe with serious consequences for the cause of peace in Asia and the free world."

The article said Communist North Viet Nam had appealed to the governments and peoples of the whole world against American military assistance to South Viet Nam. The Soviet paper described the present Communist guerrilla warfare in South Viet Nam as "the just struggle against American aggression." It said that there is no doubt the appeal will be heard.

Hospital Outlays of $31,581 OK'd

45 New Beds, Stands,
Six Isolettes, Cardiac
Pacemaker Included

The Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees yesterday approved spending $31,581.50 on new equipment this year.

Over $22,000 will come from the hospital's depreciation fund and $9,540 from the special purpose fund, which is made up of private donations and used to buy equipment of direct benefit to patients.

Depreciation fund items to be purchased include 45 new hospital beds at about $14,000, 112 isolette stands costing $4,541 and five dietary carts costing some $3,200.

This represents the second year of a three-year program to buy new beds throughout the hospital. Special purpose funds will provide a variety of items. Six new isolettes, costing $5,000, will be added to the four now in the nursery. The hospital's second March Respiator will be bought for $1,548.00.

The hospital will get its first protoscopic examining table at a cost of $1,528 and its first cardiac Pacemaker for use on the floors. The Pacemaker has already saved the lives of several heart patients at General. It regulates heart and pulse beat. The new one will cost about $1,424.

Abel Nearly Split Powers Trade With Lawsuit

NEW YORK (UPI)—The exchange of Soviet Col. Rudolf Abel and U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers was almost upset when the Russian spy threatened a civil rights suit, it was reported today.

The New York World-Telegram said Abel was "bumping around" and alleged his civil rights were violated when a television network was allowed to "smash" cameras into the prison area and photograph Abel and his daily routine.

The Russian officer protested to his court-appointed counsel, James B. Donovan that his privacy had been invaded and he was entitled to "civil damages," the Scripps-Howard newspaper said.

The films were shown last Nov. 9 on the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) program "David Brinkley's Journal." A network spokesman said at the time that U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy gave it permission to photograph Abel.

Independence Man Seriously Injured

An Independence Township man, injured when his pickup truck crashed into a tree near his home last night, is reported in serious condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

Orval E. Gardiner, 32, 4805 Monawick Blvd., suffered possible fractures to his jaw and arm and multiple cuts on his head in the accident.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said Gardiner's truck hit a tree in front of 8359 Clarkson road in Independence Township about 9 p.m.

Police were unable to obtain a statement from the injured man and there were no witnesses.

'Army' Center Totals Assets

Needy Help the Needy

Throughout the year, some 65 men at the Salvation Army's Pontiac Men's Social Service Center help supply low-cost household items to area families who can't make ends meet.

At the same time, these men are helping themselves — with the aid of trained Salvation Army personnel — to start a new life.

Yesterday, the Salvation Army's advisory board totaled up the men's achievements for 1961 during a noon meeting at the center.

The center, which does not receive United Fund help, took in an income of $308,000.91 — most of it through $23,918.81 in sales at five "Red Shield" thrift stores in the area.

However, there was another sum on the debit side: $308,000.91.

The center is barely self-supporting, explains its manager, Major Ernest Alder.

Most of the income comes from processing and resale of household discards. Most of the expenses goes directly to the men who bring their problems to the center and for operation and production costs.

Ninety per cent of the men who come to the center, says Major Alder, are alcoholics.

Last year, the center's report states, 390 men were admitted to the service home. On the average, each stays about two months.

At the end of the year, 115 were considered rehabilitated. Of these, 102 left for outside employment, 12 were promoted to employee status at the center and one entered military service.

"REHABILITATED GROUP"

Those classified as "not rehabilitated" totaled 269. Of these, 162 left of their own accord, 86 requested to leave and one was hospitalized.

In 1961, the center provided 23,377 nights' lodging, served 69,796 meals and provided 1,283 medical examinations and counseling services.

While admitting the program was not totally successful in rehabilitating all men who join, Maj. Alder points to the center's work with alcoholics as indicative that, "something can be done with these men; they can be helped."

"We have men over at the center who, we know, have not touched a drop for over a year. What they needed was proper environment, somebody's interest in their behalf and their own desire to help themselves."

Something of the men's ability to work and help themselves is indicated in their volume of production last year.

They collected nearly 7.5 million pounds of old newspapers and magazines to be sold for scrap, nearly 900,000 pounds of rags and just over a million pounds of scrap metal.

CENTER-PROCESSED

Red Shield stores listed among distributed merchandise the following articles processed by the center's men:

- 315,723 garments
- 23,573 pairs of shoes
- 33,305 pieces of furniture
- 35,397 books and magazines
- 72,550 miscellaneous articles

In addition, 2,508 articles of clothing and 179 pairs of shoes were included as direct relief to the men at the center.

Needy families in the area received 1,405 items of clothing, 156 pairs of shoes and 252 pieces of furniture.

The center has someone on duty 24 hours a day to take applications from men who feel they need help, Maj. Alder said. Applications are necessary because the center usually is operating at capacity, and there may be a waiting period.

Martha Wright in 'Sound of Music'

Actress Likes Baby Talk More Than Applause

BY PHILLIPS BATTLE

NEW YORK — Side by side with Mary Martin, in the highly exclusive list titled "sweetest ladies in show business," stands Martha Wright.

Miss Wright, who took over Mary Martin's role in "Sound of Music" last October just as she took over Mary's role in "South Pacific" years ago, is weary.

She also has a cold. Her 18th cold of the season. To top it off, she has a new theory.

"I do not believe in women working," she said softly, laughing through her snots. "I believe in women having children. When I am finished with my present contract, I might do that. It's worthwhile."

Not that Martha hasn't done "that" already. She has had three children. One, a boy, was born with a bad heart, died five days later. The other two, in order of their appearance, are Michael, 5, and Maria, 1½ years. "On my schedule," she murmured, "I see them one hour a week. They stay home with the chauffeur, butler, nurse and maid — all of whom are my mother and father."

Here is why Martha Wright doesn't believe in women working.

She rises each morning in her country home, 40 minutes drive from Manhattan, and makes breakfast. Then she's off for the city where she does a daily 45-minute radio show. One day a week she tapes an extra show, to make up for her matinee performance on Broadway.

AN ATTRACTIVE PLACE

Dinners are spent at "Mike Manuche's," a lavish new restaurant. She goes there because she finds it the most attractive spot in town: Her husband is Mike Manuche.

Then the theater for a performance in which she is off-stage only momentarily for the entire show, and back to Manuche's to be briefly with old friends and customers, pick up her husband, and drive him home. "I always drive so that Mike can get a little sleep — he's on his feet all day."

On Sundays, Martha "discharges the nurse" (so Grandma can go to the city) and takes over complete care of the babies. This is quite an ambitious project as her weekly chores, but more "rewarding."

During their occasional naps, she writes letters, studies music for upcoming shows, sometimes does dinners for guests. Then another week is starting.

"Of course, the children are a great shot-in-the-arm — and so are the literal shots-in-the-arm." (Martha gets three vitamin shots, three days a week, and takes eight vitamin pills a day.)

Although Martha is in a mood to give up work, she is in the ridiculous position of being more in demand, professionally, than ever before in her long career.

BETTER NOW

Reason: She's a better actress and singer. She admits it — "It's very true," she says, "that a happy marriage and children can grow you up a bit. You perform more sensitively. Just when you want to settle down, isn't that ironic?"

We asked if, should the day come that money was no object, she would settle down, quit the theater forever?

She paused. Rubbed her pink-tipped nose with a hankie. Considered.

"I would. Yes, I really think I would. At least, if I were pregnant again, I don't know that I could ever give up Broadway altogether, but the other things — the radio and TV, yes. It's so much nicer," she said, "to have a baby, rather than a rating, breathing down your neck."

It's Been a Big Year for Waterford Council

On Trial Basis for Two Months

Downtown Adult Bus Fare Cut to 15 Cents

Starting tomorrow adult bus fares will be 15 cents in an area about a mile in diameter immediately surrounding and including downtown Pontiac.

The move to stimulate bus patronage in the downtown area was outlined today by Neil B. Pilson, general manager of Pontiac Transit Corp.

It will be introduced on a trial basis for a period of about two months. If, at that time increased patronage warrants continuation, it may be put on a permanent basis and the possibility of other such fare plans in isolated areas of the city may be studied.

The fare reduction is aimed primarily at persons riding to downtown from relatively nearby points or patron riding from one point to another in the downtown area.

AN EXAMPLE

For example, you could board a bus on N. Saginaw Street at Fairgrove Avenue and ride it to the center of town for 15 cents.

The present fare is 25 cents. The 15-cent fare will apply to adults whose entire ride is within the prescribed zone and who do not require transfers.

All other adult fares, transfers, children and student fares will remain the same as they are now.

The reduced fare zone is circular. Zone limits on regular bus routes are as follows:

- West Huron Street at Franklin Boulevard; State Street at Adams Avenue; Oakland at Clark Street; North Saginaw at Fairgrove; Mt. Clemens at North Paddock; East Pike at Paddock; Auburn at Perkins; South Saginaw at Ottogay; and Bagley at Wisconsin.

The area inside and including these intersections is the reduced fare zone. Anything further from downtown is not.

ZONE CHECKS

"We will use zone checks to aid in the fare collection problem," Pilson said. "The checks will be issued to everyone boarding a bus in the reduced fare zone, but whose destination is outside the zone."

"When the passenger leaves the bus, he will leave by the front door and hand the driver the zone check identifying he has paid the full fare."

"It won't be necessary to use the checks when your destination is downtown. The checks will also be issued if needed by persons using transfers. The driver who accepts the transfer will issue the check," Pilson explained.

"Persons traveling within the zone won't need zone checks and may leave by the rear door," Pilson said that traffic studies "indicate very little riding in the area," described.

He feels the plan might help fill some of the empty seats. The average bus load all day long is six passengers. On the average every trip has 25 empty seats.

The plan was developed in cooperation with the City Commission's permanent transportation committee and approved by the committee earlier this month.

CONGRATULATED—C. J. Straff (center) who is retiring from GMC Truck & Coach Division after 45 years receives congratulations from Calvin J. Wermer, divisional general manager.

Leaving Desk at GMC After Nearly 46 Years

Nearly a half century of service with General Motors comes to an end for C. J. "Cy" Straff March 1 when he leaves his accountant's desk at GMC Truck & Coach Division.

On that date, Cy will retire after a 46-year career spanning 45 years and 10 months. Right now the 65-year-old automotive veteran is the oldest GMC employee in length of service in Pontiac.

His full career has been spent here at GMC Truck & Coach.

"When I first started to work at GMC Truck in 1916," Cy recalls, "we were building only 3,000 trucks a year, compared with 100,000 or so now. And — as you might guess — starting wages were low."

Cy started at 15 cents an hour. Later, when transferred to the payroll department, he got a raise which made him a $30-a-month man.

"That was big money, then," Cy said. "No income tax, so everything was take-home pay."

Born in 1886 in Plymouth, England, Cy came to Pontiac when he was 13. His father, a skilled wagon-maker, got a job with the old G. F. Beauchamp Company here.

"It wasn't long before my father into tough times, so I had to quit

Waterford Band to Play in Annual Music Festival

The Waterford Township High School band will make its first appearance in the annual District 4 music festival Saturday at Troy High School.

Some 4,000 students from Oakland and Macomb County high schools are participating in the competition that began last week at Fraser High School and Royal Oak Dondero High School and will wind up Saturday at Troy.

Bands and orchestras in the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association sponsored event are rated from 1 to 5 for their performances, with the number 1 rating enabling them to go on to statewide contests in April.

Some schools consider the top rating as much an honor for their band or orchestra as a championship.

have helped put this country of ours on wheels."

Cy admits his retirement plans are vague. But he and his wife do plan to travel widely from their home here at 104 Wrentham Drive.

Each group will be required to play the Nubucco Overture by Verdi in addition to a march and another selection of their choosing.

The Waterford band, under the direction of Gen. Preston, will play the El Capitan March by Sousa and Symphony No. 1 by Saint-Saens. The local group of musicians will perform at 3:30 p.m.

The only Pontiac School district school participating in this year's festival was Washington Junior High School whose orchestra performed last Saturday in Royal Oak and earned a number 2 rating.

Observing the completion of his busy and successful first year in operation this month, the Greater Waterford Community Council has already turned to another project — the study of a proposed school millage increase.

A panel discussion on the proposed millage issue and a town-hall type meeting have been set for March 6.

As they laid plans for the meeting, though, GWCC leaders couldn't help looking back over their first year.

Recognition by a group of civic minded citizens that Waterford Township needed an active organization for community betterment, led to the birth of the GWCC Feb. 15, 1961.

That day a group of 25 residents, headed by officers and members of the Waterford Township Business and Professional Women's Club, formed the council. Officers were elected at the first regular meeting March 5.

Mrs. Edmund Winderle, 5001 Hatcher Road, Drayton Plains, president of the B & P W Club and one of those who spearheaded the campaign to organize the council, was elected GWCC president.

Mrs. Walter R. Forbes, 3834 Highland Drive, Drayton Plains, another B & P W official, was named secretary. Donald Fraser

Together With Welfare Losses in 1961, They Cost General $322,879

A couple of ugly ducklings called bad debts and welfare loss raised their heads again at yesterday's Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees meeting.

The kind of those ugly ducklings is that age only makes them uglier. They grew to more than $300,000 last year.

Harold J. Euler, hospital administrator, told trustees that bad debts at Pontiac General totaled $225,672 last year.

Bad debts are the bills owed by people who don't qualify as state or county welfare cases and have no means to pay.

In addition, the hospital's loss on state welfare cases was $34,242 and on county welfare cases, $62,965 in 1961.

The grand total is $322,879. If you paid a hospital bill at General last year, you paid a small part of this loss. The bill-paying public foots the cost of these ugly ducklings.

HIGHER IN 1961

Bad debts and welfare losses are a major reason for the rise in patient costs over the last 10 years.

Euler pointed out that last year's bad debts were some $35,000 higher than in 1960, state welfare losses were up nearly $10,000 and county welfare losses up some $18,000 over the previous year.

The total combined loss was $83,171 higher last year than the year before.

"The loss" on welfare patients is the portion of their bill which the welfare agency doesn't pay. County welfare cases are all 10 years old or older; state cases are under 21.

County welfare pays 90 per cent of the patient's bill, the other 10 per cent is lost. State welfare pays on a flat rate basis of $25 per day per patient.

Total billings to county welfare patients last year were $482,734. In 1960 the total was only $217,161. Two years ago it was less than $200,000.

"Although our loss went up on state welfare cases, we did quite well on them last year," Euler said. "Billings totaled over $100,000 of which about $34,000 was lost in comparison with two years ago our loss was some $20,000 on billings of $103,700."

EXPLAINS INCREASE

The reason for the big jump in the total loss last year was volume, Euler said. "We had a jump in occupancy and right here in the first few months of 1961 our cash position is very tight because we are experiencing record volume."

"High-volume almost automatically brings a higher loss because we experience a certain percentage of welfare cases and bad debts no matter what the occupancy is."

The administrator said no figures were available from the state or county as to how the number of welfare cases last year, but that "the percentage went up considerably along with the increase in volume."

In 1960 less than 60 per cent of the total patient load at general was welfare cases. Euler estimated that about 75 per cent of last year's patients were on welfare.

The average patient cost per day has gone up from $24 in 1951 to about $45 last year.

"What we'd like to see is the welfare case load spread out over the year," Euler said. "We're appealing for some relief on this issue in the future, but haven't made much progress."

In 1960 we handled 68 per cent of all county welfare patients in Oakland. When the 1961 figures are announced next month, I'll bet that figure doesn't change much."

The remaining percentage of welfare cases is spread between Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, and St. Joseph's Hospital and William Beaumont Hospital.

Ex-Film Strip's Son Ends Second Marriage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Robert A. Kennedy, 28, son of former screen star Billie Dove, was divorced Tuesday.

His wife, Patricia, 24, charged mental cruelty. They married in 1957—four years after his first marriage. Her name was Patricia, too.

for Waterford Township and a civil service program for the police department.

Efforts of the group paid off when authorization for the commission to guide future township planning received a favorable vote at the polls in the spring election and the civil service issue was approved in June.

The planning commission began to function in June 1961 and in December the Township Board authorized the hiring of a full-time township planner. Robert Diehl was named to fill the post, working in conjunction with the commission.

Some after these tasks were completed, the GWCC set its sights on the proposed change to a charter township form of government for Waterford Township and on the con-con election both of which were coming up for a vote in the September election.

The GWCC went to great lengths to learn as much as possible about the charter township plan as compared to the regular township government. It hired experts to appear at a meeting and discuss the pros and cons of the charter township.

TELEPHONE CAMPAIGN

After a thorough study of the two phases of township government, the council approved the switch to a charter township and conducted an active telephone campaign to inform voters.

The GWCC also spent a busy summer gathering information on the con-con candidates and invited them to speak at meetings.

In the Sept. 12 election the charter township issue passed and the GWCC chalked up another major accomplishment.

The second year of the Greater Waterford Community Council will be launched March 6 when officers will be elected to serve for 12 months.

Featured event of this March regular meeting, however, will be discussion of the proposed five-mill proposal for the Waterford School District that would be effective for the next seven years.

The millage issue will be decided on March 20 in a special school election.

Appearing at the meeting will be Superintendent of Schools William A. Shuck; the school board president, Eldon C. Rosegrant; treasurer of the school board, Robert P. Pyle; and board trustees Frederick J. Pyle and Edmund Winderle.

PANEL DISCUSSION

These men will conduct a panel discussion on all aspects of the millage proposal.

If the half five mills is spread, it is estimated that the average Waterford Township homeowner will pay an additional $26 per year based on an average assessed valuation of $5,000.

The GWCC is interested in having a large turnout of citizens at this program to be held at Pierce Junior High School beginning at 8 p.m.

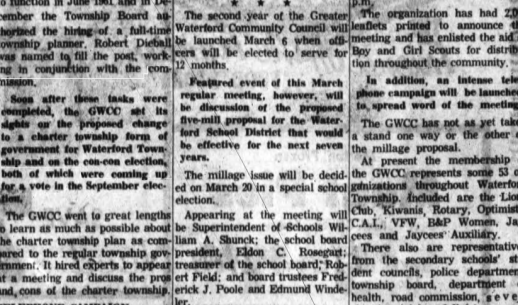

The organization has had 2,000 leaflets printed to announce the meeting and has enlisted the aid of Boy and Girl Scouts for distribution throughout the community.

In addition, an intense telephone campaign will be launched to spread word of the meeting.

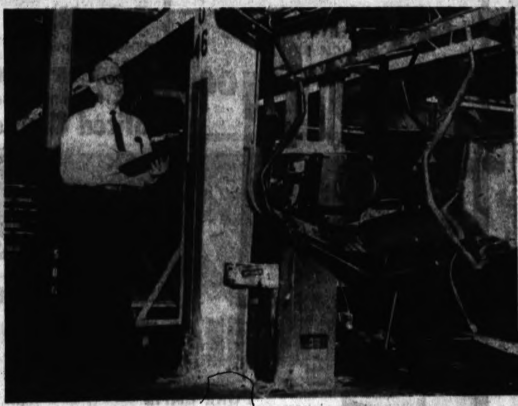

The GWCC has not as yet taken a stand one way or the other on the millage proposal.

At present the membership of the GWCC represents some 33 organizations throughout Waterford Township. Included are the Lions Club, Kiwanis, Rotary, Optimists, C.A.I., VFW, B&P Women, Jaycees and Jaycees' Auxiliary.

There also are representatives from the secondary schools, student councils, police department, health board, department of township road commission, seven churches, eight subdivision associations, both political organizations, the garden club and the Boy and Girl Scouts.

Pontiac Motor Employee, 38, to Get His College Sheepskin

Between maintaining production machinery at Pontiac Motor Division and attending classes at the University of Detroit, William A. Betts, 38, Rosewood Drive, gets a few hours sleep.

But in June, his years of combining work and study will pay off. He'll get his bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering.

A graduate of Pontiac Central High School, Betts joined Pontiac Motor in 1941 at 15. Soon after, however, World War II beckoned and Betts changed employers; he became an Air Force pilot.

Returning to the Pontiac Division in 1946, Betts decided to take on the challenge of a college degree and began day classes under a cooperative program at U. of D. in 1949.

Then in 1953, when Betts became Pontiac Motor's maintenance foreman at night, he started night classes at the university. Last month he completed the credit requirements for his degree.

Next June, on commencement day, he gets his sheepskin.

Father of three, 38 years old and now able to spend a little more time fishing, Betts is only one of 87 Pontiac Motor Division employees taking advantage of the General Motors tuition refund plan to further their education.

TUITION PAID

Under the plan, satisfied employees can take college-level courses designed to maintain and improve their skills. Pontiac pays tuition costs up to $250 a year.

"The complexity of today's business world and the constantly changing technology," explained Ted Bloom, Pontiac personnel director, "make it imperative that we as individuals and as companies, increase our skills and abilities."

This is only the second complete year the plan has been in operation, but Pontiac Division's participation showed an increase of 36 per cent this year.

Cuban Refugees Cost $14.5 Million in 1961

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The care of Cuban refugees in the United States cost the federal government more than $14.5 million last year, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare says.

In addition, 3.25 million pounds of surplus food was distributed to the refugees.

The department said Tuesday 25,000 Cuban refugees were on welfare rolls in February.

ready for some fresh jolts to its ego.
 Glenn's journey gave the nation's morale a needed boost, since this country's prestige and self-confidence had been somewhat fractured by Soviet achievements in space. So his success was nationally shared.

It's a good bet new jolts will come from Russia which is still ahead in manned space shots, including Glenn's triple orbit.

The Russians not only put the first man into orbit, a once-around journey, but a second one went around 17 times.

It may be 1963 before the United States can orbit a man that often. This country hopes to fly five orbital missions this year, the last one to go the Russians one better with 18 orbits.

The United States has done better with satellites.

Although the Russians were the first to send a satellite around the earth—Sputnik I—this country has more than caught up with them in total numbers in the satellite field.

So far the United States has sent 63 scientific satellites into earth orbit and three around the moon. The Russians have put 13 satellites into earth orbit, two around the sun, and hit the moon with another.

As a result this country has collected far more scientific information about what goes on in space than the Russians.

Still, that first Sputnik, the first man-shot, and the first moonshot got more attention and propaganda mileage than the more useful and numerous American satellites.

Since the Russians' last manned space shot with Maj. Gherman S. Titov was last August—when he orbited 17 times—they seem overdue for another sensation.

And, because they're ahead, it seems likely they would hit the moon with a man before the United States can. The Russians, who like space spectators, would score their biggest with a man on the moon.

That Glenn has excited and stimulated the nation to greater efforts was clear from the extremely enthusiastic greeting given him by the President, Congress, the Supreme Court, and people lining the streets for Monday's big Washington welcome.

The two giants in this contest in space and national prestige could accomplish a lot more if they pooled their space efforts. President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev said pooling is a fine idea.

But both sides will have had time to build bigger factories on the moon before they ever agree to cooperate. If they have as much trouble agreeing on this as they have had on disarmament and nuclear testing.

Nominations Produce Some Surprises

By BOB THOMAS
 AP Movie-TV Writer
 HOLLYWOOD — Something seems to hex Oscar's timing.

Three years ago, the awards telecast proved 20 minutes short. There was much embarrassment, stalling until the show went off the air.

This week the nominations were announced at the precise time astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. was addressing Congress.

Everyone knows how the awards are handed out what about the nominations? It's kind of dull, really.

Reporters mill about in the lobby of the academy's theater. They are joined by a covey of press agents, eager to get the news first to their clients.

An upstairs door opens, and the host charges up to the academy library. Reporters pick up the announcement kits and hurry to a long table laden with typewriters and telephones.

That's all that happens. The reporters cogitate or dictate, each according to his deadline. Academy officers beam for the television cameras. Press agents gloat or groan, each according to the fortunes of his clients.

'HOW COULD THEY . . .

What hath the 34th annual nominations wrought?

Some rather surprising omissions. How come Maurice Chevalier was overlooked for his recent performance in "One, Two, Three" seriously? How could voters ignore Albert Finney in "Saturday Night and Sunday Morning"?

'Even War Must End New Guinea Feud'

JAKARTA, Indonesia (U—Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution said Tuesday the West New Guinea dispute with the Netherlands must be settled this year "even if it means war with all its consequences."

Did Shirley MacLaine and Audrey Hepburn cancel each other out of contention for "The Children's Hour"? (Audrey was nominated for "Breakfast at Tiffany's").

How come no recognition for Rosalind Russell's transformation in "A Majority of One" and Deborah Kerr's portrait of terror in "The Innocents"?

Why were veteran Oscar winners William Wyler ("Children's Hour") and Billy Wilder ("One, Two, Three") left at the post, their films largely ignored?

If there is any dark horse among the nominees, it is young Stuart Whitman. He was co-nominated for a good job in "The Mark," and proceeded to convince Hollywood. The film had received critical praise, but created little stir locally and had no big studio to push it.

One of the questions in this year's nominations was what would the academy do about "La Dolce Vita"?

Hailed by many critics as one of the altime great films, it managed four nominations, including writing and direction. But it couldn't make best picture.

TENSE, NERVOUS HEADACHE

Stronger Yet Safer. Gives Fast, Long-Lasting And—More Complete Pain-Relief.

New York, N.Y.—Doctors report that tense, nervous headaches (often called "emotional headaches") are by far the most common kind.

When doctors, themselves, suffer headache pain—a survey reveals many doctors take the fast, pain-relieving ingredients in Anacin®. In fact, 3 out of 4 doctors recommend this same type relief to their patients.

It's easily understood why tension headaches call for the stronger yet safer medication in Anacin. Anacin gives fast, prolonged and—more complete relief than aspirin or any buffered aspirin. You see, mere aspirin or buffered aspirin contains only one pain reliever.

But Anacin is different... Anacin is like a doctor's prescription. That is, a combination of medically proven ingredients. It's this extra medication in Anacin that not only relieves pain fast, but also its nervous tension and depression. In minutes—Anacin releases painful pressure on nerves and the sufferer feels "just great" again.

Despite their strength and effectiveness—Anacin Tablets may be taken as directed as often as needed without upsetting or irritating the stomach. See if the extra medication in stronger yet safer Anacin doesn't work better for you. Change to Anacin today!

Commons Passes Fire Rescue Truck Bill Tightening Immigration Law

LONDON (AP)—The House of Commons approved a bill Tuesday night restricting immigration to Britain from other British Commonwealth countries for the first time. The bill will curb the increasing influx of immigrants from the West Indies, India and Pakistan. It has been denounced as a virtual color bar. CALLED NECESSARY The bill was approved 277-170 after Home Secretary Richard Butler called it "necessary but distasteful." The opposition Labor party described it as "barbaric race discrimination." The bill makes no mention of race. It empowers the government to forbid entry to any unskilled laborer who has no guarantee of employment. The bill now goes to the House of Lords for final approval which is considered certain.

Should the IRS Control the Taste of Whisky?

WASHINGTON (AP)—A liquor industry group has raised the provocative question of whether the federal government should have a voice in determining the taste of whisky. "The issue bobbed up Tuesday at an Internal Revenue Service hearing on a plan to change regulations that restrict the barreling of whisky for aging. Under present rules, whisky may not exceed 110 proof at the time it is placed in barrels. IRS is thinking of raising the limit to 125 proof. But two distillers—

Hope to Reach Basis for Steel Contract Soon

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Top steel negotiators say they soon will know whether a basis for an early settlement on new labor contracts is possible. In their most optimistic statement since the talks opened Feb. 15, R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, and President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers Union said Tuesday. "We have reached a point of review where we will shortly be able to determine whether it will be possible to reach a basis for sound new agreements. "It is our mutual hope that this desirable goal can be reached in the next few days."

Port Huron Says: For Free

Offers Building to U.S.

PORT HURON — This Michigan city of 36,084, despite its "depressed area" rating, has taken President Kennedy up on his inaugural plan: "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country."

And the Internal Revenue Service admits it is intrigued by Port Huron's offer to build for free a $2-million building to house a

Crash Victim Is Recovering

Mrs. Hobbs Taken Off Critical List, Reports St. Joseph Hospital

ROCHESTER — The Rochester hospital of four who were injured early last Friday morning when her car slammed into the back of a wrecker is reported "recovering nicely" today.

Authorities at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, said Mrs. Hagg Hobbs, 55, of 2014 N. Main St., is now in satisfactory condition.

Mrs. Hobbs, whose family was left destitute when fire gutted their former home at 315 Romeo Road, shortly before Christmas, was taking a woman friend home after work at Knapp's restaurant when the accident happened.

Her car smashed into a tow truck driven by John J. Watkins, 25, of 2800 Walnut Road on Main Street near Drake Street.

Mrs. Hobbs suffered a broken jaw, multiple contusions and other head injuries in the mishap.

Altar Society Plans Card Party at Hall

AUBURN HEIGHTS — Sacred Heart Altar Society will hold its card party, final social event before Lent, on Friday at the Sacred Heart Parish Hall.

Mrs. A. C. Mackintosh will serve as chairman of the 8 p.m. affair with Mrs. Peter Spruce, Mrs. Kenneth Kammer, Mrs. Chris Mackintosh and Mrs. John Beckwith managing the refreshments.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. John Schmitt, representing the Christian Hills area, Mrs. Frank Melich, Chapel Hill; Mrs. Fred J. Beamish, Charnwood Hills; Mrs. William J. Kones, Lake Charnwood; Mrs. Mackintosh, Bloomfield Orchard; and Mrs. Carl Fennard, South Boulevard.

Mrs. Ronald Piche, Mrs. W. L. Patterson and Mrs. Frank Riley will handle tickets for the Auburn Heights area.

midwestern data computer center, if it picks Port Huron for the project.

City Commission voted unanimously to build the IRS a 200,000-square-foot building on a 30-acre tract and lease it to the government at $1 a year rental. The commission said it would build to IRS specifications.

"We've been offered free land before, but never a building like this," an IRS spokesman said upon receipt of Port Huron's offer in Washington yesterday. "We have to give serious consideration to an offer like this."

A REVERSE TREND

Mayor Ray L. Matheson, terming the offer "a reverse trend," said it was made in keeping with President Kennedy's inaugural plea and added:

"We have gone to Washington requesting numerous things and now we are offering something to Washington."

Port Huron has been rated a depressed area (with more than 6 per cent of the labor force unemployed) for the last 10 years, and Mayor Matheson estimated last night the rate currently is 8 per cent.

Where would Port Huron get the $2 million?

"We feel we can do it," the mayor said. "We have six different possibilities under exploration. The spirit of the community is good. We're ready to move ahead."

The IRS is converting to computer processing of income tax returns and is seeking a location for a regional computer center to serve Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin.

The center would employ an estimated 1,200 to 1,500, with 500 to be employed locally, to service approximately 12 million tax accounts in the three states. As many as 400 to 600 additional employees might be hired seasonally.

The IRS has invited Ann Arbor, Jackson, Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee among other cities to bid for the computer center, but Port Huron figures it is off in front and on the right foot.

The 1953 will made the presidents of the three institutions trustees of his estate, removing Rood's son Royal of Detroit as administrator, but leaving the son a life-time income of $250 a month.

MONTHLY INCOMES

Rood also stipulated that $25 a month for life was to go to his daughter, Dr. Marion Rood of Lapeer, $50 a month to a brother, the Rev. Dwight Rood of Traverse City, and $20 a month to a sister, Mabel Rood.

Rood stipulated that a 1,400-acre farm he owned in Iosco County, near Tawas City, was to go to Michigan State "for experimentation in general farming." He also left MSU three rare books.

A former University of Michigan law professor, Rood died at 93 last Dec. 23 of burns suffered in a fire that destroyed his century-old home at 8 Saginaw St.

LOUISE WIEDEMAN

June vows are planned by Louise Wiedeman, daughter of Mrs. Cora Lee Swift of 9135 Hutchins Road, White Lake Township, and the late James C. Wiedeman, and Donald Lee Rock. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Helene De Longchamps of Marion, Ind. and Stanley Rock of 436 Forbush Road, West Bloomfield Township.

House OKs Loyalty Oath Bill

Would Bind All Helped by State

Teachers, Employees of Hospitals and Local Governments Involved

LANSING — Thousands of Michigan residents may have to take a loyalty oath before collecting their paychecks under a House-approved bill that moved into the Senate today.

The measure cleared the House 94-6 yesterday despite claims by some of its supporters that it would be unnecessary and ineffective.

The measure would require employees of any organization receiving financial support from the state to take an oath pledging to uphold the state and federal constitutions and carry out the duties of their job. State employees have had to take the oath since 1953.

Rep. Joseph A. Gillis, D-Detroit, wrote the bill but interpreted it as applying to "any outfit that gets money from Lansing," including county welfare departments, health departments, veterans of America, hospitals and local governments. It would withhold state funds until administrators of various organizations certify that employees had taken the oath.

Enforcement would be difficult, he said.

Rep. Lester J. Allen, R-Libaca, the chief sponsor, said it was aimed primarily at college faculty. The institutions couldn't expel the professors, and that seemed "not proud of," he said.

Allen said he had received complaints that some professors "tell the students that capitalism exploits the masses and that socialism is better."

Gillis noted that Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State Universities, all autonomous bodies under the state constitution, have required their faculty to take a loyalty oath for more than 20 years.

OATH REQUIRED

Rep. William Boos, D-Saginaw, pointed out that public school teachers must take a similar oath before obtaining their teaching certificates and that the education code requires the same of college instructors.

"This is a serious gesture," said Rep. Arthur Law, D-Pontiac. "It means nothing to any Communist or other disloyal person to have to take an oath like this."

The House defeated for a second time, by a single vote, a bill to require approval of both a village and territory outside the village to approve incorporation as a city if both areas are voting to form a city.

3 New Doctors Named to Area Hospital Staff

ALMONT — Three new doctors have been added to the staff of the Community Hospital, James W. Crumley hospital administrator, announced today.

Dr. George P. Chabator of Romulus was appointed to the associate staff with restricted surgical privileges.

Appointed to the consulting staff with restricted privileges in orthopedic surgery was Dr. William T. Davidson of Port Huron.

Dr. Davidson served his orthopedic residency at Duke Hospital which is affiliated with the Duke University School of Medicine in Durham, N. C.

Convict 2 Men of 'Arson, Inc.'

Will Be Sentenced on March 13 for Plot to Burn Insured Property

DETROIT — Two members of what the state termed Arson, Inc. were convicted yesterday of conspiracy to burn insured property.

Recorder's Judge John P. O'Hara said he would sentence Burrell Mangrum, 34, of Ferndale, and George Gilden, 34, of Mount Clemens, on March 13. He released them on bail meanwhile.

A jury acquitted a third defendant, John Rieberger, of Taylor Township, in the alleged burn-for-money conspiracy.

Another defendant, Joseph Ramirez, 35, of Detroit, pleaded guilty earlier to a lesser charge and is awaiting sentence. A conspiracy conviction carries maximum punishment of five years imprisonment.

Originally 18 persons were arrested in the case, but only seven were brought to trial and charged against four were dropped after the trial began because of insufficient evidence.

The state estimated insurance companies had been bilked of $150,000 in 10 fires in the Detroit area.

Petitions Urge End to Area Housing Unit

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP — Petitions bearing 330 signatures have been submitted to the Township Board demanding the five-member housing commission be abolished.

The protesting citizens claim all low-cost homes should be built on the west side of Wyandotte Road and not on the east side of the street, where the better-built homes are located.

The commission favors building a few of the low-cost homes on the east side.

A special meeting of the Township Board and a group of angry citizens was held Monday at which the petitions were submitted to the board.

Science Fair Judges Named

Will Select Winners Thursday at Rochester Central Junior High

ROCHESTER — Seven judges have been named to select the winners of the third annual science fair to be held 6 to 9 p.m. Friday at the Central Junior High School.

The 800 entries in five divisions — geology, biology, mathematics, chemistry and physics — will be judged tomorrow and ribbons presented to the winners.

The judges include Louis A. Mittlefeld, plant superintendent of the National Twist Drill & Tool Co.; Darrell Bordin, biologist at Bordin's Nursery; Arnold Penanen, electrical engineer at Detroit Broach and Machine Co.; and Robert Rogers, science teacher at Rochester Senior High School.

Others are Charles Courtney, science teacher at Jane Addams Junior High School, Royal Oak; Joseph Mills, science teacher at Utica Senior High School; and Emmett Moynihan, engineer at General Motors Corp.

This year, in lieu of selecting a grand prize winner there will be five winners each for superior and very good projects along with a number of honorable mentions.

LEFT UNDER FIRE

Hatcher resigned under fire shortly thereafter and the township hired James S. Estes of Memphis, Tenn., as his successor.

Estes' job is primarily to direct the rebuilding of the west Eight Mile Road community.

Nearly 40 new houses were built east of Wyandotte in the section of the township under Hatcher's regime.

Some commercial, industrial and residential land west of Wyandotte and owned by the township is up for sale and development.

UTICA — A preliminary hearing before the Michigan Fair Employment Practices Commission on charges of religious discrimination by the Utica School Board against a teacher has been postponed until March 20.

Charles McManis, 27, had been a teacher at the standing Junior High School, alleges that the board of education in adopting a policy ordering all teachers to participate in patriotic programs is being discriminate against his religion. He is a Jehovah's Witness.

School Supt. Fred M. Atkinson has recommended to the school board that McManis's contract not be renewed next year because of his stated intention not to follow school policy.

The FEPC hearing was to have been held yesterday.

Cars Outnumber Homes in State

61,270 Families Have Three Autos, Reveals U.S. Census Bureau

WASHINGTON — Did you know that Michigan had 2,229,679 occupied homes in 1960, but that its residents owned even more automobiles — 2,542,000.

The United States Census Bureau also disclosed yesterday that Michigan had 61,270 three-car families and 504,692 two-car families in 1960, compared with only 321,630 no-car families.

There were, according to the Census Bureau, 1,381,367 one-car families in Michigan when the last nose count was taken.

Some other statistics revealed by the federal agency included:

Rents in the state soared 63 per cent in the 1950s, from a median of $47 a month in 1950 to $77 in 1960.

The median value of 1,385,389 homes occupied by their owners was $12,000.

A total of 894,004 homes had two or more radios, while only 143,324 lacked a radio.

A total of 210,812 homes lacked telephones.

Police Officials Complete Special Course at MSU

Nine Oakland County law enforcement officials are among 23 policemen who were parttime college students during the past month at Michigan State University.

Utica School Hearing Delayed to March 20

Legislature Gets Conservation Proposals

LANSING (P) — Fishing license fees will go up, the game season will be lengthened and quail will become legal game in Michigan if three newly introduced bills clear the legislature.

Conservation measures, fairly sparse during the early weeks of the 1962 session, hit the house and senate with a rush last week, just before the deadline for introduction of all but tax and spending bills.

Rep. Hans C. Kasmussen, R-Lansing, chairman of the house conservation committee, submitted a proposal to raise the residential fishing license fee from $5 to $12.50. Women would pay $1.50, a reduction for unmarried anglers but not for wives of licensed fishermen who now enjoy free fishing privileges.

The same bill would extend the season to the Great Lakes, setting up a $1.50 fee, and boost the cost of a trout stamp from $2 to $3.

The increases are designed to bail the state conservation program out of growing financial trouble. Conservation authorities estimated it would increase fishing license proceeds by $1.3 million a year.

ABOUT ONE-THIRD

"We feel fishermen should pay any license fee increase," said Gaylord L. Walker, deputy state conservation director. They pay about one-third of the license fee but fish programs share equally with game programs in expenditures.

Game seasons would be lengthened in the Lower Peninsula under a bill introduced by Rep. Jay M. Terhune, R-Owosso.

The bill, certain to spark sharp controversy if it clears the house conservation committee, would set an Oct. 1 to Dec. 31 season throughout the Lower Peninsula, except for a break during the Nov. 15-30 deer season. The season now runs from Oct. 20 to Nov. 15 in the southern Lower Peninsula and from Oct. 1 to Nov. 10 in the northern Lower Peninsula and Upper Peninsula.

A bill by Rep. William C. Sterling, D-Monroe, would open up the 20 southernmost counties of Michigan to quail hunting during the last five days of the Oct. 20-Nov. 10 pheasant season. Identical measures allowing a 12-bird seasonal bag limit have met defeat in earlier sessions.

The old perennial — a bill to strip the Conservation Department of its authority to schedule deer and fawn seasons — also made an appearance just before the deadline. Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Nagawau, is the sponsor again.

The same bill would cut the season from 15 to 9 days but allow two weekends of hunting by setting the opening on the Saturday preceding Nov. 15, the present opening, unless Nov. 15 falls on a Saturday.

Rep. Michael Novak, D-Detroit, proposed to restrict the muzzle-loading season to June 2 to Oct. 31 on inland waters and Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair and Detroit Rivers, except for specially designated lakes. It now runs from the last Saturday in April to March 15, except on Great Lakes and trout lakes.

It would continue year around on Lake Erie and from May 21 to March 21 on Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron except for Saginaw Bay.

Rasmussen also sponsored a bill to shorten the bobcat season in the Lower Peninsula by two months. It would run from Dec. 15 to Jan. 15.

NEW BELLS

Other conservation measures would: Appropriately $25,000 to the Conservation Department to explore the mineral deposits of Gogebic County (Rep. Mack).

Change the dates on the small game license from Oct. 1 through Sept. 30 to Sept. 1 through Aug. 31 (Rep. Nakhla).

Set up a vote to prohibit firearms hunting in Clinton County on Sundays (Rep. Cobb).

Schedule referendums to prohibit firearms hunting in Clinton, Harrison and Shelby Townships in Macomb County (Rep. Apley).

The schedule of Solunar periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times.

Sportsmanship Award

Lawrence J. Maloney, 2977 Colonial Trail, Bloomfield Hills, won recognition for good sportsmanship last week in the Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament when he caught and released 14 barracuda while fishing out of Garrison Night, Key West, Fla.

The tournament, emphasizing conservation, ran through April 14.

Conference Scheduled

An annual State Park Concessionaires Conference will be held March 14-15 at Kellogg Center, Michigan State University, in East Lansing.

Union Lake Officer Honored by State

Conservation Officer Howard Johnson of 1330 Malcolm, Union Lake, was one of 89 employees honored last week for 25 years of service.

Awards were given the years 1939, 1940, and 1941, and employees receiving their work in all parts of the state.

Johnson was born in Wayne County and attended school in Livonia. Previous to coming to the department he was a traveling service representative of the Rickshaw Motor Company.

He joined the department as a conservation officer in October of 1937 and has worked in this capacity since that time. In Wayne, Seattle, Monroe and Oakland Counties.

For the past few years, a considerable portion of his time has been devoted to supervising field dog trials and instructing young people who are participating in school camping or outdoor educational programs.

Johnson is a veteran of World War I and was with the Army in France, Belgium and Germany.

For off-duty relaxation he takes a busman's holiday and goes hunting or fishing.

His family includes his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Viola Schuk, and a son Robert S., both of Union Lake. He has one grandchild.

New Record for Bounties

Increased Fox Kills Accounted for Boost in 1961 Payments

A record $28,500 in hunting and fishing license money was used to pay fox, coyote and bobcat bounties in Michigan last year, the Conservation Department reports.

The department's 1961 bounty payment was nearly $12,000 above the previous all-time high set the year before.

Accounting for the increase were payments on foxes which hit a new high as $5,325 of these animals were bountied for $171.75 in 1961, trappers and hunters collected $14,500 on faxes.

The bounty bill for 3,608 coyotes was $63,650, payments on 753 bobcats totaled $3,755. These figures are down from 1960 when 4,228 coyotes were bountied for $75,445 and payments on 1,018 bobcats amounted to $5,080. Bobcats are bountied only in the Upper Peninsula.

Approximately $120,000 has been paid in bounties since 1935.

SMOTC Matches Set April 15 in Waterford

The Southern Michigan Obedience Training Club's annual matches will be April 15 in the Waterford CAI building.

Over 125 dogs are expected for the obedience show. The highest scoring dog in show will be awarded The Pontiac Press trophy, and equipment that is often put to the test around the clock during the winter months.

First place winners in the two novice, two open and utility divisions will earn trophies.

In previous years SMOTC held its matches in Royal Oak. All proceeds are earmarked for the Leader Dog building fund. Leader dogs from the Rochester school will go through a demonstration the afternoon of the obedience show.

Entries are expected from several states.

Archery Loop Ready to Resume Shooting

The Waterford Township Recreation Department's winter archery league was like last week, but will resume action Thursday night at 7 o'clock at the CAI Building on Williams Lake Road.

Auto Electric will take a five-game first-place margin into Thursday's action. The Electric squad boasts a 2-5 won-lost record compared to runner-up Drayton Drug's 20-10 mark.

What About Drayton Hatchery?

By DON VOGEL
The formal shutting down of operations at the Drayton Plains fish hatchery leaves the Conservation Department with a nice piece of real estate.

What does the department plan to do with the property now that austerity measures and polluted spring waters have combined to end fisheries work on Hatchery Road after nearly 50 years.

Officials, still trying to straighten out other outcrops, including layoffs and demotions, because of a lack of funds, haven't really come up with any ideas. Here's a couple of thoughts they might kick around when they get squared away in Lansing.

1. Sell the land to Waterford Township or a private developer and use the money to purchase ponds in Oakland County, not elsewhere, for recreation purposes.

2. Establish a park.

The first point seems to be the most practical. If the state decided on a park, fees would have to be charged. And there isn't enough of an attraction to make people want to use the grounds on that basis.

The township could buy the property, fill in the ponds and grounds and athletic field. The large ponds could be spared and used for skating in the winter.

The actual closing of the hatchery started last spring with the retirement of Harold Hughes as manager.

The department made the formal announcement early this year when it became obvious that not much was needed in the budget department.

A. B. Cook, head of the fish division, also reported that chlorine discharges in spring water feeding the ponds wiped out several cubs and experimental projects.

He blamed increased housing construction in the area for the pollution.

The township could buy the property, fill in the ponds and grounds and athletic field. The large ponds could be spared and used for skating in the winter.

The actual closing of the hatchery started last spring with the retirement of Harold Hughes as manager.

The department made the formal announcement early this year when it became obvious that not much was needed in the budget department.

A. B. Cook, head of the fish division, also reported that chlorine discharges in spring water feeding the ponds wiped out several cubs and experimental projects.

He blamed increased housing construction in the area for the pollution.

Help Your Child Succeed in School

Keeping Curiosity Alive Is a Major Task

By LESLIE J. NASON, D. ED.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

By the very nature of formal education, schools as they are set up in this country stifle curiosity and creativity and reward conformity.

Too bad, you say? Of course it is. But look at the other side of the coin. The teacher has 30 little wigglers in her class. She must see that the lessons are learned. Examination time leaves no room for

DR. NASON doubt. Examinations demand facts. They test the child's understanding of ideas. In most examinations the child can initiate nothing. He must know what the textbook said; he must do as the teacher told him to do.

After examination, the subject is closed, as far as the school is concerned. But wait a minute! Curiosity leads to knowledge. MORE than the teacher says you must know. No matter how good schools are, children need parents who keep curiosity alive. One of the thrilling things about being a parent is the opportunity to encourage — not squelch — curiosity and creativity.

I know a busy mother of five who provides drawing, model-making materials, etc., and places her children on their own during the hour that she prepares dinner. "TELL ME!" A small child brings her a peculiar "picture." "What a nice picture!" she says. "Tell me about it."

She never makes the mistake of saying, "Oh, you drew a horse," when the child meant it for a ship.

If an adult makes that type of mistake too often, the child quits drawing, or at least quits showing his art to adults.

This mother's youngsters are "self-starters." Their curiosities and drives for creative expres-tion are dominant and satisfying. Not long ago this family went to the desert to a home without children where there were few playthings.

CREATIVE ACTIVITIES

The children pounced joyfully on a pile of old-shaped blocks of wood left over from cabinet work. They concocted boats, castles, cabins, cars. They liked them so much they took them home!

Children need chances to practice creativity and they need to exercise their imaginations and resources without a parental accompaniment of: "No! No! That's not the way to do it."

Let him do it! Let a child do it his own way unless he asks for help or you realize a suggestion from you will prevent frustration or failure.

Encourage him to learn more about each school subject than the teacher requires. This habit will carry over beyond his school years.

If your child has intellectual curiosity, encourage him to ask questions and look up the answers. If he has a project, encourage him, but don't take over. Remember, it is HIS project.

...She Saw It in the Daily Newspaper

CONSUMERS WITH NEEDS TO BE FILLED and money to spend shop the ads in their daily newspaper even though they may not be searching for a specific item.

A current research study* reveals that four out of five readers like to look at newspaper ads as a regular part of their daily reading. This same study shows that consumers rated newspapers ahead of all other major measured media for advertising that can be depended upon for information that is factual, useful, and tells where they can buy the products advertised. And they know they can clip the ad and take it right along as a handy buyer's reference when they do go out shopping.

Advertising, national and local, in the daily newspaper is always ready to help the buying consumer make his purchase whenever he decides, "now is the time I want to buy." It's always ready because almost nine out of ten* families get a newspaper in their homes every day. Advertising is seen and read because the latest survey results available* show that 89,567,000 adults and 9,456,000 teen-agers read a newspaper on an average weekday.

Stays Optimistic Over N. Guinea

Bob Kennedy Repeats View Indonesia, Dutch Will Settle Peacefully

PARIS (AP)—U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy reiterated today he expects the dispute between the Netherlands and Indonesia over West New Guinea to be settled peacefully.

Kennedy made the statement at an airport news conference before boarding a plane to return to the United States at the end of his round-the-world trip.

"On the trip he talked with officials in both Indonesia and the Netherlands. Tuesday he had an unannounced conference with Dutch Foreign Minister Joseph Luns at Kennedy's Paris hotel.

Kennedy refused to give any details of the talks but said, "I expect the matter to be resolved peacefully, although it may take some period of time."

SILENT ON DE GAULLE

Kennedy also declined to give any indication about the nature of his talk with President Charles de Gaulle.

Asked if he had fulfilled the purposes of his trip, Kennedy replied: "What I set out to do was to give the countries visited some of the ideas and objectives of the U.S. government and people and to obtain from those countries an idea of their thoughts and aspirations."

"If there were any difficulties between those countries and the United States, I was available to answer questions about what we are trying to do in our country. I think some progress has been made along those lines."

Senate Unit Okays Hike in Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee approved today the bill to raise the national debt limit temporarily to $300 billion.

The Senate may consider the bill Monday. It has passed the House. The committee acted unanimously, chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., reported, after hearing Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon.

The bill would raise the debt ceiling to $300 billion until June 30. The debt was at $297.6 billion as of Monday, or within $40 million of the present temporary $298 billion limit.

The permanent ceiling is $285 billion but Congress last year granted a temporary $13 billion increase for the current financial year which ends this June 30.

PIN-WORMS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Piercing, nose-picking, a tormenting itchy rash are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms—tiny parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. The tiny Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jany's P-W tablets do... and Jany's know they do it!

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jany's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work to kill Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Glenn Holds to Faith in God, Senators Told

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Li. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. told a congressional committee today what many Americans had long suspected: He has made his peace with his Maker and has no worries on that score.

The first U.S. astronaut to achieve orbital flight made the statement in a matter-of-fact reply to questioning before the Senate space committee.

Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., asked Glenn about his thoughts during his flight and how they related to Glenn's faith.

Remembering that he has some "very definite feelings" in that regard, Glenn said:

"My peace has been made with my Maker for a number of years, so I have no particular worries on that score." He added that it would be foolish to assert that God could be pinpointed in space. Just because he has ridden above the atmosphere, Glenn said, "I don't know the nature of God any more than anyone else."

"He'll be wherever we go."

Remembering that an orbital flight is "a busy time," Glenn said: "I feel as though we should live all our lives as though each day was going to be our last." In that daily effort, he said, he falls "so far short that it is pitiful."

His faith, Glenn said, "is not his engine type religion" which is rushed out quickly and "then put God back in the woodwork."

OK After Ejection From B58 in Cocoon

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)—Edward J. Murray, 47-year-old Air Force parachute tester, was rocketed safely today from a B58 Hustler bomber flying 565 miles an hour at 20,000 feet in the first manned test of a new ejection capsule.

Murray, a chief warrant officer from Dayton, Ohio, was flung through the top of the speeding bomber in the sealed steel cocoon and landed eight minutes later still enclosed in the 760-pound capsule.

Murray floated safely to earth as his orange and white parachute blossomed.

A helicopter landed nearby to assure House approval.

Retraining Bill Nears Passage in House Today

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The top domestic item on President Kennedy's legislative priority list—a $25-million manpower retraining bill—was poised for House passage today with bipartisan backing.

Although conservatives of both parties still opposed the legislation, an agreement reached late Tuesday by Democratic and Republican supporters appeared to assure House approval.

City OKs Contract for Sewage Study

City commissioners last night okayed a contract with Jones, Henry & Williams, consulting engineers, for sewer expansion studies and plans on Pontiac's north and east sides.

The contract calls for a maximum of $15,000 to be spent for services in connection with the city engineering department. The study will be designed for a trunkline and lateral sewer system in these areas now without city sewage facilities.

Most of the area is still undeveloped. The vast sewer system is expected to get under way soon after the opening of Pontiac's new sewage treatment plant this summer.

Studies will include topographical surveys and aerial photographs of the entire area.

Chrysler, Continental Given U.S. Contracts

LANSING (AP)—The award to Michigan of three defense department contracts totaling more than $38 million was announced today by Gov. Gwinn.

Largest contract was for $28,428,000 to Chrysler Corporation for 300 M60 tanks to be manufactured at the Conner Lion plant. Chrysler also received a contract for $1,462,328 for 494 one-ton M60 trucks, to be manufactured at the Warren plant.

Continental Motors Corp. of Muskegon was awarded a $5,354,652 contract to provide 300 power pack assemblies and 300 engine assemblies for the M60 tanks.

The governor said the federal department estimates a contract for this amount will provide employment for 5,500 workers for one year.

Living Expenses in January Same as in December

WASHINGTON (AP)—Living costs last month were unchanged from December, the government announced today. Higher food prices prevented a decline.

While consumer prices were stable, the buying power and after-tax income of factory workers dropped nearly 2 per cent—due largely to a 42-minute reduction in the average work week.

The Labor Department, unveiling a revised consumer price index, said living costs in January were 4.5 per cent higher than the average for 1957-59, or the same level as in December.

The new index, at 104.5 compared with the new base period, would have been 128.2 under the old index which used the 1947-49 average as 100.

Winter Floods Drive Hundreds From Homes

By The Associated Press

Damaging floodwaters from rain-swollen rivers and streams poured across broad lowland areas in Kentucky and Tennessee today, driving hundreds of persons from their homes.

The late winter floods, in the wake of persistent, heavy rains, appeared to have caused the most damage and inconvenience in eastern and southern Kentucky.

There was much flooding with evacuation of families in West Virginia and Tennessee.

In Ohio, several rivers were above flood stage but the situation did not appear critical immediately.

At least two communities in Kentucky and one in West Virginia were isolated by the rampaging, floodwaters. Scores of roads were blocked, including 30 in Kentucky. Some main highways in Kentucky and West Virginia were impassable because of overflows and mudslides.

Many schools were closed in the water-soaked areas of Kentucky and West Virginia. One death was reported in West Virginia.

Thousands of acres of farmland in the flood-stricken region were inundated.

No immediate estimate of the overall damage was made but it appeared likely property losses might run into the millions of dollars.

In Kentucky, the major flood belt appeared to extend from Ashland to Corbin, which is about 120 miles southeast of Louisville. National guard troops were sent to Corbin, Jackson and Ravena.

In Salersville, some 300 persons were evacuated from their homes. The town of LITZ was isolated as was Inez, a little community near the West Virginia border.

In southern West Virginia, hundreds of families were evacuated in three counties, including some 1,500 in the Logan area. About 100 families were forced from their homes in the Wayne area, which was isolated after a bridge was washed out.

State police reported evacuation of some families in lowland areas near Williamson.

The Cumberland River in Nashville was at about 45 feet, five feet above flood stage. Some 200 volunteers were on duty. Many homes were evacuated but no emergency quarters were required.

Many secondary roads were closed in southern Ohio counties along the Ohio River and its tributaries—the Scioto, Hocking, Great Miami and Little Miami rivers.

Chairman Quits NY Exchange

Bidwell's Resignation Taken After Indictment for Tax Evasion

NEW YORK (AP)—J. Truman Bidwell has resigned the powerful post of chairman of the Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange following a federal grand jury indictment charging him with evading $55,908 in income taxes.

He claimed persecution from "high places in Washington," and said "neither the investing public nor the stock exchange is involved."

The government, too, took pains to emphasize that the indictment dealt with Bidwell's personal taxes and had nothing to do with his activities at the exchange.

Nevertheless, the indictment added fire to the persistent rumors of a widespread tax investigation in the securities field.

LONG INVESTIGATION

The Internal Revenue Service began its tax investigation of Bidwell more than three years ago. Last year, the Securities and Exchange Commission turned an investigative eye on Wall Street that resulted in a shakeup at the American Stock Exchange.

The SEC probe was based on charges of abuse of trading rules and tight domination of the American Exchange. It resulted last month in the resignations of President Edward T. McCarrick and Board Chairman Joseph Kelly.

Astronauts Might Navigate by the Stars on Moon Trips

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's astronauts told Congress today that Lt. Col. John H. Glenn's orbital flight showed that future spacemen can navigate by the stars much like a sailor at sea and steer their own course to the moon.

Glenn, accompanied by Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Capt. Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom, testified before the Senate Space Committee in their third appearance in as many days at the Capitol.

The committee members stood and applauded as the three astronauts strode into the big Senate chamber, filled to overflowing with cheering spectators.

Shepard, the Navy officer whose suborbital flight last year made him the first American in space, said he had one discovery made by Glenn that has been generally overlooked: the visibility of stars in daylight.

"We intend to use the stars as a fix on the way to the moon," Shepard said, "and John's observation of the stars during daylight shows we could use them for navigation."

Shepard offered this observation after Glenn had explained how that his trip orbit of the earth a week ago Tuesday had proved that man can operate a spacecraft in the new and strange environment of weightless outer space.

In the future, he said, "we can plug man into the system" and have to depend less on automation.

GLENN GIVES ADVICE

At one point Glenn was asked by Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., the committee chairman, what advice he had for young Americans who would like to have a part in the space age, either as astronauts or in work backing them up.

"A basic good education is a prerequisite to any progress in this field," Glenn replied.

He said his advice to young Americans was to get this good basic education and then to let their own talents guide them as to the particular field they should enter.

The astronauts have already had session with the House Space

Committee and a House appropriations unit.

Glenn addressed a joint meeting of the Senate and the House Monday after a triumphal parade from the White House to the Capitol.

The Space Committee interrupted hearing on legislation for a global satellite system to take testimony from Glenn and the other two astronauts on their experiences as the first Americans to make space flights.

Sen. Kerr said he thought the hearing would give the members "a very much more intimate and clear-cut insight into certain phases of our space program."

He said, however, that the committee has been allotted only one hour of the astronauts' time.

Passenger Train Plows Into Derailed Freight

LEWISTOWN, Pa.—A Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train today plowed into the wreckage of a freight train which had derailed almost simultaneously. Three diesel locomotives and 17 of 18 cars of the passenger derailed, injuring at least 12 persons.

The passenger train, the Pennsylvania Limited No. 55, was bound from New York to Chicago when the accident occurred 23 miles east of this central Pennsylvania community.

Ambulances took seven of the injured to Lewistown Hospital and two others to the Black Community Hospital for treatment of a bruised leg and X rays said she had her eyes half shut when "I heard this jar and it all happened so fast."

"It was quite a jar," she said. "But there was no panic."

Railroad spokesmen said the passenger train carried approximately 100 passengers and a crew of 21. The locomotives of the train were upset but the passenger cars remained in an upright position. All but the last car left the tracks.

The spokesmen said a burned-out journal might have caused the freight train to derail. Twelve cars of the Chicago to New York freight left the track. About 2,000 feet of track on both the passenger and freight trains were torn up. The passenger train did not

Cease Fire Seen as Logical End to Negotiations

Rebel Council Closes Secret Sessions With 'All Clear' to Premier

TUNIS (AP)—Algerian rebel leaders propose now to open "the ultimate phase" of peace negotiations with France and it should end with a cease fire in Algeria, a rebel spokesman said today.

Information Minister Mohammed Yazid told newsmen the logical windup of negotiations would be the close of the 7½-year-old Algerian rebellion.

A green light to enter the final negotiations was given by an announcement by the rebels' 44-member parliament — the National Council of the Algerian revolution, which had met secretly in Tripoli, Libya, for six days to weigh Paris-approved peace terms. The wording of the announcement indicated no major obstacles remain.

Provisional Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda's government, in the opinion of various rebel sources, was given a free hand by the council to sign a pact with France after further talks.

"After a discussion of the negotiations with the government of the French republic," the parliament's communiqué said, "the National Council of the Algerian revolution orders the provisional government of the Algerian republic to continue the negotiations in course."

"Informed sources in Tripoli said Sunday the parliament was set to announce approval of the terms, which the French cabinet endorsed last week.

But the final session in a police-guarded Libyan legislative building ran long and apparently encountered difficulty over some minor points. The agreement, sought by Ben Khedda, required

GOP Leaders Hit Plan for Elderly

Pound at JFK's Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders built new defenses today against a drive by President Kennedy to get congressional action on his proposal for a program of medical care for the elderly linked to Social Security.

Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois came up with figures on Illinois operations of the Kerr-Mills federal medical aid plan in support of his contention that Congress ought to delay any decision on the Kennedy program.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, D-N.Y., said what he called Kennedy's "sneaky objectives." But he said the President must make it clear to the country "the administration is looking for a law this year, not an issue in the fall elections."

Javits called for a compromise which he said would preserve private and cooperative health plans and cover those not under Social Security.

Dirksen said he thinks the majority of Republicans in Congress believe that, with some amendments, the Kerr-Mills Act passed by Congress in 1960 can take care of needy elderly persons for hospitalization and medical expenses.

"Twenty-six states have put this plan in operation, and 12 legislatures will deal with it this year," Dirksen said in an interview. "It is moving along beautifully, and it should do the job when we can get the bugs out of it."

Dirksen quoted figures from Illinois to support his case for the Kerr-Mills Act.

He said that from August to December 1961, 675 applications for assistance had been approved in Illinois, 460 were pending, and 624 were denied. He said the average payment was $485 a person.

Dirksen added he intends to introduce an amendment to the law under which applicants would be required to sign only a statement of need and not to "pauperize" themselves.

At present aid is available to persons whose income does not exceed $1,300 a year or $2,300 for a couple.

Opponents have contended Kennedy's plan, which would call for a $1-billion increase in Social Security payroll taxes, would provide assistance for many persons who do not need financial aid.

Although Democratic leaders said after a White House conference Tuesday that chances for congressional action on the presidential plan are looking up, House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., spotlighted the administration's difficulties with an appeal to two Republican votes in the House Ways and Means Committee.

"That committee, which has 15 Democratic and 19 Republican members, thus far has failed to move on the medical care legislation. There remained doubts that the Republicans would furnish the votes necessary to overcome conservative Democratic opposition to the bill within the group."

The American Medical Association Tuesday repeated its opposition to the Kennedy plan and its support of the Kerr-Mills Act.

The AMA president, Dr. Leonard W. Larson, said in a statement from Chicago that the administration health care proposal "is not a program of health insurance; it is political medicine."

Ulbricht Goes to See Nikita

In Moscow Talks, They 'Reach Agreement' on Germany's Problems

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht held talks here this week on Berlin, Germany and other international problems, the official news agency Tass said today.

Tass said the two leaders discussed the questions of "normalization of the situation in West Berlin" and a separate peace treaty between the Soviet Union and East Germany.

They reached "complete agreement on the peace treaty question and other current international problems — and questions," Tass said.

The talks also dealt with ways of strengthening economic cooperation and scientific, technical and cultural ties between the two Communist states, the agency said.

Moscow Radio reported that Ulbricht arrived in Moscow Monday and left for East Berlin Tuesday. He departed after being guest of honor at a luncheon given by Khrushchev.

"The meeting took place in an atmosphere of warm cordiality and mutual understanding and unanimity on all questions under discussion," Tass said.

It added that the Soviet leader agreed to "additional food credits" for East Germany from the Soviet Union.

Welsky came to London just a few hours before Prime Minister Macmillan's government planned to announce a new constitution for Northern Rhodesia, one of the parts of the Federation.

City to Seek County Help for Airport

Meeting informally after last night's regular City Commission meeting, commissioners indicated they would seek an agreement whereby the county would figure part of improvements and operations at Pontiac Municipal Airport before approving any further expansion plans.

The city would like to turn the airport into a city-county airport.

In making the decision, the commission will delay the 1963 airport improvement program for at least another year.

The decision was also made in view of the fact that commissioners want to see the airport master plan before setting aside funds for more improvements. They are also waiting to see if the proposed county jet airport develops as planned.

The master plan, ordered last fall, won't be completed until April 1. Today is the deadline for applying to the state and federal agencies for the 1963 improvement program.

The suggested improvements to the $400,000 for clearing the East runway approach to provide for instrument landings. This would be done over a two- or three-year period with half paid by federal funds.

TO POSTPONE PART

The first part of this, which would have been done next year, will be postponed to 1964. Commissioners discussed the possibility of Oakland County joining in financial support of the airport several weeks before the jet airport proposal was announced.

"Since there will always be a need for the jet airport and finances are quite a burden, we want to talk with county officials about a merger before going ahead with any more improvements," said Mayor Philip E. Rowston.

The meeting date was not set until a decision will be reached before September when 1963 plans must be submitted to the State and Federal Aviation Agency.

Area Might Get Few Flurries of Snow Tonight

Most of Michigan got some snow overnight but the weathermen pointed out more snowfalls of any consequence will hit until Sunday. About 75 of an inch fell here.

Pontiac area residents may see a few flurries and a low of near 25 tonight, and cloudy skies and colder temperatures Thursday, the high about 30.

For the next five days temperatures will average 4 to 6 degrees below the normal high of 37 and normal low of 23. Thursday and Friday will be a little colder, Saturday and Sunday, somewhat warmer and a little colder again Monday.

Precipitation will likely amount half an inch in snow likely Sunday and a few flurries Monday.

Northeasterly morning winds at 10 miles per hour will become westerly tomorrow.

Twenty four was the lowest recorded in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The reading at 1 p.m. was 28.

HE'S SAFE — Little John B. Mills, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Mills of 31 Niagara Ave., beat today's deadline for 1962 license plates. Actually, John has no real worries about getting a ticket for driving with old plates after midnight tonight. His car is strictly pedal-powered. John reminded group of motorists, though, that they better get their plates today if they want to drive tomorrow.

Experiments are being made successful the system would double the number of available channels to shore communication. If successful, an active, or relay, type of communication satellite is planned to be in orbit next summer.

Expert Claims 1 Million to Leave School in '62 With No Job in View

By G. K. HODENFIELD

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Almost a million lost, bewildered, defeated, hopeless youngsters will leave school before graduation this year and enter a world which has no place for them, an expert on youth problems said today.

Daniel Schreiber, director of the school drop-out project of the National Education Association said today, "Constantly running from work half-done, from school half-completed, these drop outs are truly fugitives from failure."

Schreiber said half the drop outs will be unable to find work. Those that do, he said, will be restricted to such unskilled jobs as filling station attendants, stock clerks and car washers.

Jobs that these youngsters can handle are rapidly disappearing, Schreiber said.

He cited these figures: During the past 10 years, 50,000 elevator operator jobs disappeared in New York City alone, 8,000 during the past year.

Six men with modern machinery can lay the same amount of railway track as 100 men did before.

Automated examining equipment for checking transistors permit four men to do the work that 100 did a few years ago.

Schreiber said in a prepared address to the National Association of Secondary School Principals, "How American education solves the problem of school drop outs may well determine America's future."

The greatest single factor in school drop outs, Schreiber said, is inability to read.

Soviet Farmers Lackadaisical on Spring Work

MOSCOW (U. S. — Pravda complained today that many Russian farmers still are not prepared for spring planting, only a few weeks away.

The Communist party newspaper implied that one reason was passive resistance in some areas to new farming methods proposed by Premier Khrushchev, scheduled to go into effect this year.

The farmers' lackadaisical preparations for spring field work, nothing new in the Soviet Union, is especially serious this year, Pravda explained, because of the sharp increase ordered in crop acreage.

The Soviet Communist party Central Committee will meet next week to adopt a decision pressing into use farm acreage that previously was allowed to stand fallow.

Won't Call Election to Fill Ryan's Post

WASHINGTON (U. S. — Gov. Swainson says he does not plan to call a special election to fill the Senate seat vacated by the election to Congress of former Sen. Harold M. Ryan, D-Detroit.

Swainson said there is no special enthusiasm in either party for a special election — in fact just the opposite. He cited the expense as a factor in the decision.

"By the time the primary and general election could be held, the legislative session would be over for all practical purposes," he said.

Britain is expected to engage in her first post-moratorium testing with an underground explosion at the U.S. test site in Nevada within the next few days.

Tests Decision Expected Soon

JFK Earlier Claimed Verdict Should Be In by End of the Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — According to his announced timetable, President Kennedy now is in a position to decide whether to go ahead with nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

The White House declined to say whether Kennedy has reached a verdict, as he said he would by the end of February.

Other sources said he has not yet made up his mind, but is expected to announce a decision soon.

INDICATED TESTS

Kennedy has indicated he will direct a resumption of atmospheric shots because of Soviet gains in the Russians' 50 atmospheric explosions last fall which broke the atomic test moratorium.

The United States followed with underground blasts and Kennedy has ordered preparations for tests in the air, which are more valuable for developing weapons but produce radioactive fallout.

ORDERED STUDY

Kennedy ordered a study on the effect of the Soviet series on American security. He told a Feb. 14 news conference that "by the end of the month, we will have concluded our analysis of our relative positions and we will be in a position to make a decision."

WOULD SPEAK 500Y

It was speculated that Kennedy, if he is to resume atmospheric testing, would want to get the announcement out of the way before the start of the 15-nation general disarmament conference in Geneva March 14.

Teachers Sentenced on Morals Charges

CHICAGO (U. S. — A university professor and a high school teacher were placed on probation Tuesday for a year for conspiring to mail obscene matter as members of a pen pal club for men.

They are Glenn D. Willbern, 38, associate professor of Spanish at Indiana University, and James Poulos, 40, a high school teacher in Lansing, Mich.

They were convicted in jury trial in U.S. District Court.

Judge Richard B. Austin gave them the same punishment, a year of probation, that he gave codefendants who pleaded guilty. He said he could not penalize Willbern and Poulos for having asked for jury trials.

Claims Baptists Should Act More on Social Issues

DETROIT (U. S. — The Rev. Dr. Edward A. Freeman, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Kansas City, Kan., says that Baptists who talk about separation of church and state should try to influence government more on economic social issues.

In a speech Tuesday to the annual meeting of Detroit Area Baptists, Dr. Freeman said that although he favored separation of church and state, Baptists should work to keep some religious influence in the schools. Instead of working for a clean-cut separation of church and state.

Dr. Freeman listed "planning for urban development, stimulating industrial expansion, and engaging in certain types of large-scale research" as areas where the church might seek influence.

Horus Is Unusual Dip, Serve With Vegetables

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor
Want a new idea for a dip, one that's very good with vegetables? One of our colleagues, Charlotte Hyams who works on the copy desk, gave us this recipe. She endorses it enthusiastically.

Charlotte is a beginning cook and an inveterate recipe saver. We enjoy hearing about her experiments in the culinary line and especially her family's reaction to them.

HORUS
By Charlotte Hyams
1 cup drained canned chick peas

- 1 cup sesame seeds
- 3/4 cup lemon juice
- 2 cloves garlic
- 1/2 cup liquid from chick peas
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon crushed dried chili peppers

Combine ingredients in blender and blend until smooth. Add more liquid from the peas if needed. Chill until serving time. Suitable top with chopped fresh parsley. Makes 2 cups.

Serve as a dip for carrot, cucumber and celery sticks. Lebanese flat bread is good with it.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

Winner of the Tailor Trix pressing board for the best suggestion this week is Mrs. Ruth Pawelski, Vista, California. Here is her helpful tip:

"To eliminate tearing the little buttonhole either just below the waistline or near the hem of a dress, don't finish the buttonhole on the facing. Sew the button on firmly through all layers of fabric. It will look like the other buttons but will work wonders for you because it can't tear out."

"Dear Eunice,
"Now I do believe I've heard everything. What on earth does "naked wool" mean? I've seen this expression so often this spring when advertisements have described ready to wear garments, and my curiosity has gotten the best of me. Is this fabric available to the home sewer and what is it?"

Because this is such a timely question, and such an involved one, I am devoting today's column exclusively to it. I would suggest that all of you clip and save it.

TERM "NAKED WOOL"

The term "naked wool" refers to a new, light, airy wool that is not closely woven. It is claimed to be a year-around fabric in dress, suit or coat weight.

It is necessary to underline these wools for the following reasons:

- To hold their shape and allow smoother fit in closely fitted garments.
 - To prevent horizontal wrinkles in front and "scalloping out" in back of slim skirts.
 - Because of the open weaves, your under-lining will keep seams from showing through in very sheer "cools."
- Lining has been the customary practice of fine dressmakers, custom designers in better ready-made garments. Fabrics suitable for underlining these garments are China silk, a very fine cotton batiste, or a sheath lining of cotton and acetate. Any of these fabrics must be very firm, but light weight. China silk is the most difficult to work with because of its slippery quality.

After cutting your garment out and before unpinning the pattern, you may lay it on the underlining fabric and cut it exactly the same. Facings and collars will not need underlining because you will be using an interfacing for them. Put your markings for darts, etc., on the lining fabric instead of your garment fabric.

When underlining anything, you must work on a FLAT surface, preferably larger than the section of your garment. Follow these directions in the exact order given.

FOLLOW DIRECTIONS

1. Lay the lining fabric on the table first. Now lay your garment fabric over it, with the right side of the fabric facing you.
2. If the section of your garment is very large, baste down the center first. (a). Next, baste diagonally through the two layers of fabric (b) and (c). Now baste through the CENTER of all darts (d). You will now be ready to baste around the entire outer edges of the garment; this basting should be about 1/4" from cut edge.

The above basting refers to "hand basting" and not machine basting. You will now treat each lined section as if it were ONE piece of fabric. Mercerized thread is usually used for machine stitching all woolsens.

"The "naked woolsens" press beautifully with a steam iron for seams and darts. However, for any faced edges, it is better to use a press cloth that has been chemically treated. You do not use the steam iron, but dampen the press cloth slightly with a moist sponge and use a hotter iron. Never let your press cloth become too wet because the wool will lose its sharp press as the wool dries.

If there are any marks from darts or seams that show from the right side, caused by heavy pressing, lift the dart or seam and press under it.

It is not necessary to stay-stitch any part of a garment that has been underlined.

When hemming these sheer woolsens, you may cut the lining off even with the fold of the hem. Now baste hem up near the fold and press carefully and apply hem tape to the cut edge. Hem's should be approximately 2 to 3" wide. Loosely slip-stitch hem tape to the LIVING ONLY, except at the seams. Your stitches must be loose so the hem will not have a pulled look.

If fabric does not ravel, it could be machine stitched close to the cut edge and then pinked. Fold back the edge slightly and slip stitch to lining.

Jackets and coats of "naked wool" also must be completely underlined. They will also need a woven type interfacing for the fronts of these garments and the collars. Your regular lining of plain or printed fabric must not be too stiff or heavy for the garment fabric, a crepe or soft silk would be best.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY: Underlining: This is a term used when the garment fabric needs extra body to retain its shape. You use a soft, firm type of fabric and baste the two layers together; they are then treated as one.

Many Cannot Relax Must Adjust to Life

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The art of living is important, but sometimes it seems to me that it is an art just a stay alive; and you need a big hunk of luck. Remember all the things you did as a child and as a teenager?

How anyone ever gets from childhood to teenage and then from teenage to maturity in one piece is a miracle. However, a lot of us made it! Of course, the medical profession had a lot to do with it. Most of the dread diseases of childhood and the scourges to the human race have been conquered.

Now the big guns of medical research, are turning into the chronic diseases of middle age and later years. Before long they will know how to prevent heart and vascular diseases, arthritis and cancer, and will know more about the ever expanding role of nutrition.

Now that we "made it" what are we doing with this lovely bonus of being alive? A lot of folks are tied up in knots of tension, with plenty of time to worry, but no time to relax or to savour daily life.

MANY FORGET

They seem to forget that the absolutely greatest blessing of all is to be alive, to be able to think and feel and do. Sometimes it may be uncomfortable, and even painful, but it is always worthwhile.

In order to get the most out of living we must set aside some time for relaxation and spend as little time as possible in worry. The latter saps our pep and leaves us exhausted. Mulling over problems completely changes one's outlook and mutes the colors of life.

Naturally we cannot just ignore problems and untenable situations.

Life can be trying at times, but we must learn to adjust if we are to enjoy it to the fullest. We must set aside some time for relaxation and spend little time in worry.

We have to face them and do something about them if we can—but worry is completely unproductive unless it leads to action of some sort. This may be the action of changing conditions in which we live, or it may mean that we adapt to them.

Something has to happen if we are to survive as happy and well-adjusted individuals. Since what we get out of life depends most of all on our approach to it, our attitude is of prime importance to us.

I cannot imagine a greater waste of life than to spend it in useless, nagging worry.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Worry," which will give you suggestions about breaking the worry habit, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 64 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Refreshments with an Oriental flavor were served by Mrs. Rudy Mazza and Mrs. James George.

THE FBI'S MOST WANTED FUGITIVES

ARSENAL DISCOVERED — An FBI agent stands behind an array of weapons discovered in a barn loft east of Buffalo, N.Y., Tuesday during a hunt for two fugitives sought in a series of bank robberies. The weapons include an antitank gun, machine and submachine guns, grenades, pistols and bullet proof vests. One of the men sought in the holdups is Bobby Wilcox of Delray Beach, Fla. His picture is on the wall behind the agent along with the rest of the 10 most wanted fugitives.

Nine Fishermen Await Rescue

Stranded on Pacific Isle for 22 Days; Destroyer to Arrive Thursday

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Nine shipwrecked tuna fishermen—one of them injured—are awaiting rescue on a tiny Pacific island where they have been stranded 22 days.

The men are on Clipperton Island, which is so narrow and so low in the water that breakers sometimes sweep almost all the way across it. It lies 1,400 miles south of here and about the same distance off the coast of Central America.

The crew of the San Diego fishing boat Monarch was stranded on Clipperton early this month when the 72-foot craft went down. The men lived on tuna, wild pigs and coconuts until last weekend, when a Mexican fishing boat, the Fanita, discovered them.

Word of the castaways was relayed here by radio. The American Tuna Boat Association asked for Coast Guard and Navy assistance.

TO THE RESCUE
A Navy guided missile destroyer, the USS Robinson, was diverted to Clipperton. Members of the Tuna Boat Association said the Fanita was too small to take the crewmen off the island.

The Navy said it will be Thursday morning before the Robinson can reach the island.

"That's a nasty island," said a Coast Guard officer who had seen it. "It's fringed by coral reefs and the sea breaks heavily—sometimes sweeping almost over the whole island."

Clipperton is a two mile long, a quarter of a mile wide at the widest point, a few yards wide at its narrowest.

The Monarch, skippered by Manuel Chula, 55, of San Diego, left here Jan. 16 with a five-week fuel supply. Her last reported position, on Feb. 5, was in the vicinity of Clipperton.

Lives in Foster Home for Elderly

Oldster Loves Being 'Adopted'

NEW YORK (AP)—John Olsen, alone at 79, has found a fountain of youth through a relatively new twist on an idea that has given meaning to the lives of countless orphaned children.

He lives in a foster home for the elderly.

"This has been the life for me," Olsen said of the time he has spent in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Maxfield and their children in the Bronx.

"I am 79 and don't feel any different than when I was 20," he said. "They treat me like I was one of the family. The children call me Uncle John."

His was a situation typical of those of many of the nation's elderly. He had just been released from a hospital after suffering a broken hip. He had no immediate relatives. His hotel rent was $30 a month and his social security check only $73 a month.

Olsen was sent to his foster home through the Catholic Charities Family Service Department.

FAMILY'S ATTITUDE
Olsen told the New York Herald Tribune that it's the attitude of the Maxfield family that makes his foster home a happiness house.

"In some places they could keep you in the ice chest upstairs and only let you come down to eat. Now you take the two boys here—David (18) and Tommy (11)—they bought a big birthday cake for me when I was 79. The boys did this and gave me a party."

"All kidding aside," he added, "I'm in a pretty good spot."

The Maxfields receive $150 a month, with Olsen contributing his elderly. He had just been released from a hospital after suffering a broken hip. He had no immediate relatives. His hotel rent was $30 a month and his social security check only $73 a month.

House OKs Loyalty Oath Bill

TO PERFORM IN AVONDALE — Members of the Wayne University Children's Theater group will present "The Wizard of Oz" at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Friday at Avondale Senior High School. The Avondale Area Parent-Teacher Association Council is sponsoring the production in cooperation with the Avondale school administration for elementary and junior high students in the district.

Would Bind All Helped by State

Teachers, Employees of Hospitals and Local Governments Involved

LANSING UP — Thousands of Michigan residents might have to take a loyalty oath before collecting their paychecks under a House-approved bill that moved into the Senate today.

The measure cleared the House 94-6 yesterday despite claims by some of its supporters that it would be unnecessary and ineffective.

The measure would require employees of any organization receiving financial support from the state to take an oath pledging to uphold the state and federal constitutions and carry out the duties of their jobs. State employees would have to take the oath since 1955.

Rep. Joseph A. Gillis, D-Detroit, voted for the bill but interpreted it as applying to "any outfit that gets money from Lansing," including state contractors, labor unions, 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers of America, hospitals and local governments. It would withhold state funds until administrators of various organizations certified that employees had taken the oath.

Enforcement would be difficult, he said.

Rep. Lester J. Allen, R-Ithaca, the chief sponsor, said it was aimed primarily at college faculties. The institutions contain "a very small minority of the faculty that we're not proud of," he said.

Allen said he had received complaints that some professors "teach the students that capitalism exploits the masses and that socialism is better."

Gillis noted that Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State Universities, all autonomous bodies under the state constitution, have required their faculties to take a loyalty oath for more than 20 years.

The judges include Louis A. Mittlefeld, plant superintendent of the National Twist Drill & Tool Co.; Darrell Bordine, botanist at Borden's Nursery; Arnold Pennanen, electrical engineer at Detroit Branch and Machine Co.; and Robert Rogers, science teacher at Rochester Senior High School.

Others are Charles Courtney, science teacher at Jane Addams Junior High School; Royal Oak; Joseph Mills, science teacher at Utica Senior High School; and Emmet Moynihan, engineer at the township.

This year, in lieu of selecting a grand prize winner there will be five winners each for superior and very good projects along with a number of honorable mentions.

Some commercial, industrial and residential land west of Wyoming and owned by the township is up for sale and development.

Cars Outnumber Homes in State

61,270 Families Have Three Autos, Reveals U.S. Census Bureau

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Did you know that Michigan had 2,239,079 occupied homes in 1960, but that its residents owned even more automobiles — 2,542,000.

The United States Census Bureau also disclosed yesterday that Michigan had 61,270 three-car families and 504,882 two-car families in 1960, compared with only 321,530 no-car families.

There were, according to the Census Bureau, 1,351,367 one-car families in Michigan when the last census count was taken.

Some other statistics revealed by the federal agency include:

Rents in the state soared 63 percent in the 1950s, from a median of $47 a month in 1950 to $77 in 1960.

The median value of 1,385,389 homes occupied by their owners was $12,000.

A total of 904,064 homes had two or more radios, while only 143,234 lacked a radio.

A total of 130,812 homes lacked telephones.

Police Officials Complete Special Course at MSU

Nine Oakland County law enforcement officials are among 32 policemen who were part-time college students during the past month at Michigan State University.

The policemen, including chiefs, lieutenants and sergeants from throughout Southern Michigan, received their diplomas yesterday after completing a special command officers training course.

Local graduates and the departments they represent included:

Sergeants Donald Fausner, Paul Carpenter and James Stiles, all of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department; Chief Irving Yakes and Lt. Thomas Schrier, Farmington Township; Sgts. Richard Thomason and Jack Kalbfleisch, Birmingham; Sgt. William Gardner, Farmington; and Sgt. Ronald, Holt, Oak Park.

Port Huron Says: For Free Offers Building to U.S.

PORT HURON, Mich. — This Michigan city of 36,084, despite its "depressed area" rating, has taken President Kennedy up on his inaugural plea: "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country."

And the Internal Revenue Service admits it is intrigued by Port Huron's offer to build for free a $2-million building to house a midwestern data computer center, if it picks Port Huron for the project.

City Commission voted unanimously to build the IRS a 200,000-square-foot building on a 30-acre tract and lease it to the government at $1 a year rental. The commission said it would build to IRS specifications.

"We've been offered free land before, but never a building like this," an IRS spokesman said upon receipt of Port Huron's offer in Washington, yesterday. "We have to give serious consideration to an offer like this."

A REVERSE TREND

Mayor Ray L. Mathieson, terming the offer "a reverse trend," said it was in keeping with the city's long history of public service, and added:

"We have gone to Washington requesting numerous things and now we are offering something to Washington."

Port Huron has been rated a depressed area (with more than 6 percent of the labor force unemployed) for the last 10 years, and Mayor Mathieson estimated last night the rate currently is 8 percent.

Where would Port Huron get the $2 million?

"We feel we can do it," the mayor said. "We have six different possibilities under exploration. The spirit of the community is good. We're ready to move ahead."

The IRS is converting to computer processing of income tax returns and is seeking a location for a regional computer center to serve Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin.

The center would employ an estimated 1,200 to 1,500, with 500 to be employed locally, to service approximately 20 million tax accounts in the three states. As many as 400 to 600 additional employees might be hired seasonally.

The IRS has invited Aron Arbor, Jackson, Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee among other cities to bid for the computer center, but Port Huron figures it is off to a head start on the right foot.

Recorders Judge John P. O'Hara said he would sentence Burrell Mangrum, 34, of Ferndale, and George Glidden, 34, of Mount Clemens, on March 13. He released them on bail meanwhile.

A jury acquitted a third defendant, John Rieberger, of Taylor Township, in the alleged burn-for-money conspiracy.

Another defendant, Joseph Ramirez, 33, of Detroit, pleaded guilty earlier to a lesser charge and is awaiting sentence. A conspiracy conviction carries maximum punishment of five years imprisonment.

Originally 18 persons were arrested in the case, but only seven were brought to trial and charges against four were dropped after the trial began because of insufficient evidence.

The state estimated insurance companies had been billed of $150,000 in 10 fires in the Detroit area.

John Rood, 93, of Lapeer Leaves Cash to Colleges

LAPEER (AP) — John R. Rood changed his mind about giving $10 to those who would attend his funeral.

Rood died in December and a 1945 will found here stipulated that each of the 57 who came to his funeral were to $10 apiece, but two subsequently drawn wills later were found at a farm he owned near Tawas City.

Neither a 1949 nor a 1953 will mentioned any $10 for mourners, and it was the 1953 document that Probate Judge George D. Lutz ordered entered for probate yesterday.

Except for the leaving off $10 for each of his funeral audience, the 1949 and 1953 wills were not greatly different from that of 1945. The 93-year-old Rood left the bulk of this $500,000-plus estate to Michigan State University, Olivet College and Alma College.

The 1953 will made the presidents of the three institutions trustees of his estate, removing Rood's son Royal of Detroit as administrator, but leaving the son a life-time income of $50 a month.

MONTHLY INCOMES

Rood also stipulated that $25 a month for life was to go to a daughter, Dr. Marion Rood of Lapeer, $50 a month to a brother, the Rev. Dwight Rood of Traverse City, and $50 a month to a sister, Mabel Rood.

Rood stipulated that a 1,400-acre farm he owned in-town County, near Tawas City, was to go to Michigan State "for experimentation in general farming." He also left MSU three bare books.

A former University of Michigan law professor, Rood died at 93 last Dec. 22 of burns suffered in a fire that destroyed his century-old home at 8 Saginaw St.

Crash Victim Is Recovering

Mrs. Hobbs Taken Off Critical List, Reports St. Joseph Hospital

Her car smashed into a tow truck driven by John J. Watkins, 25, of 280 Walnut Road on Main Street near Drace Street.

Mrs. Hobbs suffered a broken jaw, multiple contusions and other head injuries in the mishap.

3 New Doctors Named to Area Hospital Staff

ALMONT — Three new doctors have been added to the staff of the Community Hospital, James W. Cray, hospital administrator, announced today.

Dr. George P. Chabator of Romulus was appointed to the associate staff with restricted surgical privileges.

Appointed to the consulting staff with restricted privileges in orthopedic surgery was Dr. William T. Davison of Port Huron.

Dr. Davison served his orthopedic residency at Duke Hospital which is affiliated with the Duke University School of Medicine in Durham, N.C.

Convict 2 Men of 'Arson, Inc.'

Will Be Sentenced on March 13 for Plot to Burn Insured Property

DETROIT — Two members of what the state termed Arson, Inc., were convicted yesterday of conspiracy to burn insured property.

A jury acquitted a third defendant, John Rieberger, of Taylor Township, in the alleged burn-for-money conspiracy.

Holy Cross 5 Expected to Receive NIT Berth

By The Associated Press
Jack (The Shot) Foley and his free-wheeling Crusaders from Holy Cross were expected today to be named the ninth team in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament in Madison Square Garden.

The Shot, No. 2 scorer in the nation's major colleges, plunked in 34 points Tuesday night to lead the Crusaders to an 86-75 victory over Boston College in a showdown for an NIT spot.

Ken Norton, chief of the NIT selection committee said he was watching the Holy Cross-BC game "with great interest," meaning that the winner got an invitation to the tournament starting March 15.

SWC SCRAMBLE

But in the Southwest Conference the race for the title, and the NCAA tournament spot remained a 2-way scramble between Southern Methodist and Texas Tech. SMU turned back Baylor, 68-58, Tuesday. Texas A&M 68-40, and in the process eliminated the Aggies from the race.

Both SMU and Texas Tech now are 10-3 in the league and each has one more game to play. SMU goes against Arkansas and Tech meets Rice, both next Tuesday. If they wind up in a tie for the title, they'll have a one-game playoff.

Holy Cross' victory over Boston College avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of the Eagles. Foley, a 6-5 senior and Crusader captain, now has scored 74 points in 22 games. He hit on 14 of 28 shots from the floor and 4 of 8 from the foul line.

Southern Methodist, which has been getting stronger as the season progresses, has won 7 straight games. Joe Ludermitz, leading scorer in the Southwest Conference, pitched in 27 points to pace SMU. Harold Henson had 22 for Baylor.

HELPED TECH

Harold Hudgens was the big man in the Texas Tech victory over the Aggies, scoring 24 points and grabbing 15 rebounds.

Connecticut, still hoping to push through to the Yankee Conference crown, whipped New Hampshire, 85-72, with Dave Comey getting 23 points, 19 of them in the second half. The Nutmeggers are in third place with a 6-3 record behind Massachusetts, 8-1, and Rhode Island, 6-2.

Mulcaster Eyes Title

By CHUCK ABRAH
The Oakland County scoring race is in its final days as the 1961-62 regular season and Tim Mulcaster of Ferndale St. James will likely be the point champion. He has held off all challengers easily while hitting 25.6 points a game and it is very unlikely that little Jerry Olsen of Rochester will catch him now. Olsen ranks 2nd at 21.4.

No. 3 man is Hank Akin of Troy with 19.9 followed by Chuck Funk, Clarkston, 18.7. Jim Sprinkles, who has concluded play, is 18th with 18.2.

All held their positions from last week along with 6th man Steve Showerman of South Lyon.

Robbie Goldenberg of Oak Park hit 41 in two games jumping from 10th to 7th. Art Tregenza of Bloomfield Hills and Parker Al Ruby also advanced with the latter getting 43 in two hits.

CPL. JOHN UELSES

I'd Break 16-Foot With Steel—Uelses

QUANTICO, Va.—(NEA)—Having disposed of a number of bigger problems during his 24 years, John Uelses isn't unduly concerned about the controversy raging about his use of a fiberglass pole to break the vaulting record.

"If they decide tomorrow that only steel poles are legal, I'll go right back to them," said the Marine Corps corporal, "and still break 16 feet."

Uelses, the first 16-foot pole vaulter, survived the Youth Movement in Hitler's Reich, the loss of his father on the Russian front and a wandering existence in war-torn Germany.

Born John Hans Feigenbaum in Berlin in 1937, Uelses entered the United States at the age of 11, with the help of an aunt, who adopted him and legally changed his surname.

When he came here, Uelses spoke no English. Now he talks like any other Marine. In 1952 he graduated from grammar school and was granted U.S. citizenship. He went to Miami, Fla., Senior High School.

Uelses played end on an all-star football team along with Joe Cad-

Jay Threatens to Quit at 26

Ace Cincinnati Pitcher Unhappy With $22,500 Contract Offer

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Cincinnati Reds ace pitcher Joey Jay says he's happy with the Reds' $22,500 contract offer and is thinking about retiring from baseball at 26. He can well afford to.

Jay has five all-time winning black gold for him, and three more in the drilling stage in West Virginia.

However, the contract offer isn't Jay's main complaint. "I don't think the ball club has been fair and I want to play," he said.

NOT ENOUGH

Relative to the salary offer of $22,500, confirmed by Reds' General Manager Bill DeWitt, Jay said.

"I had 6½ years in the big leagues, won the pitcher award and had a pretty good season. I made $15,000 last year. If this is as high as I can go, I figure I'll retire from baseball. At this rate there's no future in this sport."

WORLD MARK

Uelses broke the world indoor record with a 15-10½ leap at the Washington, D.C. Interscholastic Invitational Meet last Jan. 27, bettering Don Bragg's previous 15-9½ by three-quarters of an inch and equalling the outdoor record set by Oklahoma State's George Davies.

All this was preliminary to his 16½ in the Milrose Games at Madison Square Garden and the all-time high of 16½ in the Boston AAU Games Feb. 4, where Uelses believes he cleared the bar by six or eight inches.

A total of 11 Oakland County teams, including four from Pontiac, are in the big American Bowling Congress Tournament being held this year at Des Moines, Iowa.

Calbi Music of Pontiac and A and A Bowling, Birmingham, bowled last Saturday completing the 1st week and, at last reports, team members were still trying to get home through snowstorms.

Chico Chlicovsky, who currently heads the Huron Classic averages, paced Calbi to over 2,900 in regular team play with 640. The 3000 Bowl counter man had 1,863 for all events. He hit 636 in Senior House league there followed by boss Joe Puentes at 617. Ralph Puentes fired 235.

Next appearance by a county team will be Saturday when Essex Wire Corp. of Birmingham takes part. Walld Lake's 223 scored the 75-10 in teacher's play there where only eight points separate the top nine teams in Manor Men's league.

Big 'D' Hurt as Detroit Loses, 89-55

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Bowling Green and Detroit, both invited to the NCAA Mid-East regional playoffs, clashed Tuesday night but it was virtually no contest as Bowling Green took the 89-55 victory.

Lanky Nate Thurmond and a flashy Howie Kohns led the seventh-ranked Falcons. Thurmond scored 24 points and Kohns 22.

The Titans were deprived of a real chance when their ace, Dave Debusch, was injured in the early in the game. He was used only sparingly the rest of the night, and was able to tally only nine points—making just 2 of 11 field goal attempts.

Detroit, which now has a 15-9 record, jumped ahead 14-0 when Debusch was injured going for a rebound. Bowling Green, now 21-2, started ahead 8-4 and steadily built the lead to its final 89-55 proportion.

Good Junior Scores at Area Keg Houses

Reverly Patton, 12, had 196 actual and picked up 3-7-10 split at Huron Bowl. T. Anthony had 219. Bob Holderman 188. S. Anthony Debusch 201. Don Cand 188. Russ Leclair 200. Ron Allen 190. Jerry Earnest 188-210-803. John McConnell 187. Jim Rose 192 (Kettering) at 300 Bowl.

Sue Berden, 13, had 204 actual and 176 all spare single in Pierce Junior High play at Alway Lanes. Lloyd Dyker had 268. Lou Bonkham 255. John Williams 254 and Jerry Schraw 246 (OL Lakes) at 300.

Both games marked by light body-checking, as in the case in college hockey in which the rules prohibit certain types of contact.

The only thing resembling an incident came in the Michigan-West German game when Morrison, three-penced, drew boss from the crowd for his rough playing.

Once when his stick was broken by a West German check, he threw the part he was holding to the ice in anger. Another time Morrison exchanged dirty looks with a German player but no one was tempted to go further.

'M', Tech Sextets Win

By United Press International
Michigan and Michigan Tech, co-favorites for the Western Collegiate Hockey Association championship, tuned up for tonight's opening round, by ignoring State Department protocol and whipping foreign visitors.

Michigan, scoring three times in the final period, defeated the West German Nations 5-2 before a crowd of 8,000 at Detroit's Convention Arena last night.

At Houghton, Michigan Tech rocked Finland's Nationals 15-2 to close its regular campaign with a 25-3 mark.

Three Michigan schools and the University of Denver clash at Ann Arbor tonight, Friday and Saturday to battle for two playoff spots in the NCAA hockey championships.

Denver is defending NCAA champion, but finished a poor third in the WCHA standings this year. Also in the field are league champion Michigan Tech, the University of Michigan and Michigan State University. Tech plays MSU tonight.

Michigan, now 23-3, received a rough test when the West German squad and didn't break up the game until the final two minutes.

MAKING OVER PAGES Viet Nam's Diem Fights Reds With Zeal

THE PONTIAC PRESS, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1962

(Editor's Note—Associated Press correspondent John Roderick covered latter stages of the Indonesian war of the rise of President Nyo Dinh Diem, with whom he has had many personal contacts.)

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—Nyo Dinh Diem, a devoutly religious man, fights the Communists in South Vietnam with all the zeal, energy and fierceness of a medieval crusader.

With massive American military and economic aid, he has prevented the Red tide from North Viet Nam from engulfing his country, one of the last barriers to Communist expansion in Southeast Asia.

CALL HIM DICTATOR

But by a vocal opposition at home, and many persons abroad, he is regarded as a dictator who will not permit democracy to flourish. They attack him for controlling the press, suppressing any genuine political opposition and listening only to members of his immediate family or old cronies.

Fifteen months ago five of the U.S. Army's best paratroop battalions tried unsuccessfully to overthrow Diem. A military revolutionary committee said it sought political reforms that would strengthen South Viet Nam's fight against Communist subversion.

He says he will grant total freedom when the situation permits it, but to give it now would give the Communists a prize opportunity to destroy the republic.

This time the attack apparently came from a few pilots and not as the result of a large-scale plot.

The U. S. government apparently sees eye to eye with Diem on this. It has said it will back him to the hilt in a campaign to crush the Communist subversion within a year. Afterward Communist Vietnam in 1954, the U. S. officials hope—and expect—argument has raged: how much the democracy should be allowed in a country virtually at war?

Diem, who gave the young nation its first constitution patterned on American lines, established a National Assembly and pro-don B. Johnson on a visit to Saigon last May likened him to himself to a Communist takeover.

Though Diem has none of Churchill's great gift for rhetoric, he possesses the same kind of building tenacity and courage.

These qualities have helped him survive six stormy years as chief of state.

In the black days of 1954 he found it almost impossible to get men who believed enough in the country's future to serve in his government. He relied more and more on the counsel of his family and intimates.

OBSTACLES APPALLING

The obstacles he faced were appalling: an array of political and religious private armies, French obstruction and a deadly apathy in the people, who had resigned hard work.

Believing in his mission, Diem plodded ahead, defeating his enemies in the field, cajoling others into coming over, buying off the rest.

Diem is a Roman Catholic. A chain-smoking bachelor, he early took a vow of chastity and every day places a bouquet on the shrine of the Virgin in his private chapel.

He gives all his physical resources to the job of bringing stability to South Viet Nam. A scholar and omnivorous reader, he is up until midnight or 1 a.m., each night, then bounds up at 5 or 6 o'clock for another austere day of hard work.

Secret Service Asks More Men

Chief Says: Frequent Trips by President Strain Present Staff

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chief of the Secret Service says he wants more men assigned to guard President Kennedy and his family in Washington and on weekend trips.

"As you know, he is moving back and forth almost every weekend," James J. Rowley told a House Appropriations subcommittee. His testimony, at a closed session Feb. 1, was made public to day.

Rowley said he wants to put a fourth shift on duty at the White House "because of the activities of President Kennedy." When the President travels, Rowley said, Secret Service men must drop other assignments to join the protective detail.

Under the administration's budget, the Secret Service would get 58 new agents. Rowley said more men also are needed to cope with a mounting counterfeiting problem.

Rowley said if the extra agents are authorized, he hopes also to have a regular guard detail set up for Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

"As it is now, only two men are assigned to him, at his request and not as a matter of law," Rowley said. "However, if he makes trips, again we pull men in from the field."

PIN-WORMS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fighting, nose-picking, a tormenting itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms—tiny parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jay's P-W Tablets do... and let's see how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jay's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Glenn Is Given Pay Form for Time in Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—John H. Glenn Jr. got the pay form for the time he spent whizzing three times about the earth—a slip of paper worth $250 in his monthly pay check.

It was the regular Marine Corps flight pay certification, crediting him with putting in the time in February. The three-orbit trip lasted 4 hours, 30 minutes.

The only difference in the routine form was that it had an engraved picture of a space capsule.

The certificate was presented to him Tuesday night at a Pentagon party given for Glenn by Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth.

2 Bus Drivers' Girls Killed by Automobile

BLOOMSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Two girls were killed Tuesday by an automobile after they alighted from a school bus. The driver of the bus was the father of one of the victims.

Killed were Wanda Edwards, 9, and Joan Henrie, 7, both of Berwick. The bus driver was Myron Edwards. Joan's father drives the bus in the mornings.

Investigators said the bus had stopped on a side road at an intersection and the girls were struck when they started across the main road toward their homes.

U.S. Recruiting Scientists for Moon Project

BOSTON (AP)—Recruiting of scientists and engineers for the nation's man-on-the-moon project opened today in Boston. Space officials said Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s orbital flight gave a big boost to the drive to enlist top brains in the U.S. push to outer space.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jay's P-W Tablets do... and let's see how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jay's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jay's P-W Vermifuge—small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

He gives all his physical resources to the job of bringing stability to South Viet Nam. A scholar and omnivorous reader, he is up until midnight or 1 a.m., each night, then bounds up at 5 or 6 o'clock for another austere day of hard work.
