Panama Police Detain American in Assassination

Holding Martin Lipstein for Quiz on Suspicious Movements

PANAMA (AP) — Panama police held a 34-year-old U. S. citizen incommunicado today in connection with Sunday's slaying of President Jose Antonio Remon. They were questioning at least 70 suspects in the gang-style murder.

Police said they picked up Martin Irving Lipstein—tentatively described as a schoolteacher from New York—at the airport 24 hours after Remon and two other men were shot to death at Juan Franco race track.

Authorities said they had released another U. S. citizen, Roy Bettis, 36, a native of Waukegan, Ill., who is employed by the Canal Zone administration but lives in Panama City. Bettis was questioned about the activities of one of his truck drivers on the night of the murder. National guard headquarters said they had no information against Bettis.

News of these developments came after police announced that ex-President Arnulfo Arias, one of the first arrested, had been moved to national guard headquarters in Chiriqui province 200 miles west of here.

Arias, an arch political foe of Remon, was picked up at his plantation 300 miles west of here shortly after the slaying. Authorities later said the murder weapons were German-made Schmeisser machine guns of a type confiscated from Arias previously.

Arias was ousted from the presidency in 1951 in a coup headed by the national guard force, then under Remon. Remon was elected president for a four-year term in 1952.

Police were tight-lipped about Lipstein, but reliable sources said tests made of his clothing showed traces of gunpowder.

Informants said police became suspicious because of his unkempt appearance and his excited reaction Monday when told he (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

GOP Freezes Ratio of Seats

State Senate Leaders Snub Hart's Appeal for More Dems

LANSING (AP) — Republican leaders balked yesterday at giving the Democrats a bigger share of committee seats in the 1955 Senate.

LT. Gov. Philip A. Hart appealed to the Republican-dominated "Committee on Committees" to give the Democrats committee seats in the same proportion as their membership in the Senate itself. The division will be 23 Republicans and 11 Democrats.

This would have meant two Democrats and three Republicans on the average Senate committee.

Sen. Creighton R. Coleman (R-Battle Creek), the Republican majority leader, said the "Committee on Committees" decided to stick to the 1954 arrangement which placed one Democrat and four Republicans on the average committee.

Coleman said it was impossible to give the Democrats exact proportional representation and added: "In 1937 when the Democrats controlled the Senate by a 16-15 margin they gave us 37 committee seats out of 71. We think that is a fairly good precedent."

Republican senators who said last week that they favored enlarging Democratic committee representation said yesterday that they had changed their mind when confronted with the records of how Republicans were treated in the 1937 session.

"Hart argued that the Republicans should take as a precedent, instead, the Democrats' action in giving Republicans exact proportional representation on subcommittees of the Senate Administration Board which the Democrats now control."

Vasily Stalin Rumored Victim of Beria Purge

WASHINGTON (UP)—There is strong evidence Josef Stalin's hard-drinking son, Vasily, was swept up in the same purge that cost Russian Police Chief Lavrenti P. Beria his life. Vasily, too, may be dead.

Young Stalin's fate has been a matter of lively speculation here and in other free world capitals ever since his last public appearance on March 9, 1953, when he was a pallbearer at his father's funeral.

Funeral pictures showed Vasily, then about 32, as part of a double-line of Soviet big-wigs who carried the dead dictator's casket. He walked just a pace behind Georgi Malenkov, who headed one line. Beria, who was shot before the end of 1953, headed the other line of coffin bearers.

American agencies were said to have no confirmation of Vienna, Austria, reports that young Stalin had died recently in a Siberian prison camp. These same reports said that his sister, Svetlana, had been banished from Moscow by Malenkov and his new Red regime. But experts would not be surprised in the least if Stalin the younger met with foul play soon after his father's body was deposited in Moscow's Red Square.

Stock Market Settles Down

Margin Cash Increase Credited With Bringing Trading Back to Normal

NEW YORK (AP)—The rousing bull market in stocks suffered its worst setback in 4½ years yesterday as the Federal Reserve Board increased the amount of cash necessary to buy stocks on margin.

The board's action had little effect on the millions of Americans who now hold a stake in the market, but Wall Street analysts called it the immediate psychological factor in the stock market break.

Share prices fell at the start, improved a bit around midday, and then slumped sharply in the late afternoon. By the end of the session, losses ran to around $5 in some areas.

The Associated Press average of 8 stocks dropped to $152.46, down $3.49, the worst decline since June 26, 1950, when the Korean War started.

Volume piled up fast as the ticker fell as much as 15 minutes behind in reporting transactions. For the day, turnover totaled 4,640,000 shares, largest since June 27, 1950.

While brokers said the boost in margin requirements from 50 per cent to 60 per cent undoubtedly brought on the break, many said once again that it's high time the market underwent a good-sized correction.

Since the bull market started, some shares have doubled in market valuation and others have gone well beyond that. The rise since the election in November has been extraordinarily steep.

7th Army Claims Win in Paper Work War

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—The U. S. 7th Army claimed a victory today in its two-months war on excess paper work.

Since the start of "Operation Paper Chase," it said, it has eliminated 1,597 duplicate files and 2,338 feet of records and emptied 165 filing cabinets, 33 book shelves and 17 field safes.

Defective Detective

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—Everett C. Home, special investigator for the district attorney's office, turned to Pueblo police for help yesterday. Someone broke into his car and stole a raincoat.

Coleman said it was impossible to give the Democrats exact proportional representation and added: "In 1937 when the Democrats controlled the Senate by a 16-15 margin they gave us 37 committee seats out of 71. We think that is a fairly good precedent."

Republican senators who said last week that they favored enlarging Democratic committee representation said yesterday that they had changed their mind when confronted with the records of how Republicans were treated in the 1937 session.

Hammarhjold, Chou Discuss 11 Jailed Airmen

U.N. Secretary to Meet Again Tomorrow With Chinese Premier

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and Red China's Chou En-lai met for 3½ hours today on the case of 11 imprisoned American fliers and arranged to meet again tomorrow.

Neither Peiping radio nor messages from Hammarskjold's party gave any details of today's talks.

During the morning Hammarskjold and his party went sightseeing in Peiping's Forbidden City, where the chief of the government's art section showed them ancient palaces and art exhibits.

Chou and Hammarskjold first met yesterday when the U. N. official paid a courtesy call shortly after his arrival in plane. They met again at a cocktail party and then at dinner last night.

U. N. sources have said Hammarskjold expects to wind up the conversations with the Chinese Communists this weekend and head back to the United States.

Sitting in with Chou were Chang Han Fu, vice foreign minister; Prof. Chou Keng Sheng, adviser to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs; and Tung Yueh Chien, director of the Department of International Organizations and Conferences of the Foreign Ministry.

Peiping said Hammarskjold was accompanied by Achmed S. Bokhari, U. N. undersecretary; Per Lind, Hammarskjold's executive assistant; and Humphrey Waldo, professor of international law.

Red China's Chou En-lai should find Dag Hammarskjold a modest, old-school diplomat who uses the polite language of diplomacy, but who can speak with firmness when the occasion demands it.

As the U. N. secretary general announced before he left New York he was not going to Peiping to beg for anything. But he was fully aware that important international interests were involved as well as the personal interests of the 11 American fliers he sought to have freed.

That is why he decided to go to Peiping personally instead of resorting to a less dramatic course, such as a written appeal.

Youth, 18, Sentenced to Spanking by Dad

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—An 18-year-old youth has been sentenced to a spanking with a ping-pong paddle until his seat is a pink red.

James Phelps appeared yesterday before Common Pleas Judge Walter B. Wamaker and pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering and stealing $200 last October.

The judge asked the youth how long it had been since his father had administered a spanking.

The boy replied, "I don't remember," but his father, who was also in court, said it had been about five years. The judge told the elder Phelps:

"You can't cultivate a farm if you don't take the weeds out, and you can't cultivate a child without inculcating respect. Do you think you could give him a spanking? You are not much bigger than he is."

The boy's father guaranteed the judge he could and would.

Hearing Date Set for Boy Gunman

Eric Matheny to Appear in Juvenile Court Here January 18

A 16-year-old West Bloomfield Township boy, who shot at his stepmother Tuesday night police said, will be kept in the Oakland County Children's Home pending a hearing in juvenile court Jan. 18.

'Eric Matheny appeared yesterday before Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore who set the hearing date at which a disposition of the case will be made.

The youth, son of Dr. Charles Matheny of 5736 Bloomfield Glen, fired a 30-30 rifle at his stepmother as she stood at a window calling for help, police stated.

The Mathenys had been awakened by a noise in their kitchen.

The doctor said they entered the kitchen where they heard a voice, which he recognized as Eric's, ordering him to get some money.

They ran into the bedroom and the shot barely missed Mrs. Matheny as she stood at the window.

The boy was later arrested hiding in the basement of his father's nearby office.

The parents had thought the youth returned Sunday to Starr Commonwealth for Boys at Alhambra where Oakland juvenile authorities had agreed to have him sent last September, after Macomb County had waived jurisdiction over him on a car theft charge.

Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem yesterday said he would obtain more information before deciding whether to ask for waivers allowing the boy to be tried under adult statutes.

Four Men Missing in Gulf After Two Bombers Collide

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—Planes and ships searched the Gulf of Mexico southwest of here today for four men missing after a B47 Stratojet bomber collided with another B47 and crashed.

Missing were the three members of the B47 which crashed and a crewman who parachuted from the other bomber, which was able to return to the Lake Charles Air Force Base last night.

An unidentified ship was reported to have sighted wreckage at the scene, about 30 miles southeast of the Texas-Louisiana boundary, but there was no report of any survivors.

The bombers were on a training mission. Capt. George Spotswood, public information officer at the base, said the cause of the collision was not known.

The missing men were identified as:

Maj. Jean S. Pierson, Danville, Ind., commander of the crashed plane.

Capt. David O. Crump, pilot, Albemarle, N.C.

Colder and Colder Outlook for Pontiac

Colder weather is on its way to the Pontiac area following rain totaling .47 of an inch yesterday. The U. S. Weather Bureau says it will clear up and get colder tonight with a low near 25. Tomorrow will also be mostly fair with a high near 35, continuing fair and colder tomorrow night with a low of 20 to 25 degrees.

Yesterday in downtown Pontiac the mercury ranged from a low of 29 to a high of 33, hitting 30 degrees at 8 o'clock this morning. By 2 p.m. the thermometer registered only 32 degrees.

people from the catastrophe of a nuclear holocaust," he said, "free nations must maintain countervailing military power to persuade the Communists of the futility of seeking their ends through aggression."

If Communist rulers understand that America's response will be swift and decisive—that never shall we buy peace at the expense of honor or faith—they will be powerfully deterred from launching a military venture engulfing their own peoples and many others in disaster.

Eisenhower said that while aiming at the goal of realistic limitations of armaments and enduring peace, the United States must "maintain powerful military forces

State of Union Speech Is Filled With Optimism

Ike Calls on Dem Congress to Cooperate in All Areas Basic to U.S. Strength

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower reported to the new Democratic-controlled Congress today that the prospects for peace and prosperity are brightening, but called for greater atomic strength, streamlined military forces and continuance of federal taxes at their present levels.

On international affairs, the President said: "In the past year, there has been progress justifying hope, both for continuing peace and for the ultimate rule of freedom and justice in the world."

On domestic matters, he declared: "The transition to a peacetime economy is largely behind us. The economic outlook is good."

Eisenhower had no surprises for Congress and the public in his personally delivered annual State of the Union address, broadcast and televised throughout the United States, and beamed throughout the world.

His remarks were threaded with optimism on both domestic and international affairs. But he recognized that world peace is now "insecure" and expressed the determination to react devastatingly to Communist aggression.

The President summed up his administration's position on the cold war in these words:

"To protect our nations and our peoples from the catastrophe of a nuclear holocaust, free nations must maintain countervailing military power to persuade the Communists of the futility of seeking their ends through aggression. If Communist rulers understand that America's response to aggression will be swift and decisive—that never shall we buy peace at the expense of honor or faith—they will be powerfully deterred from launching a military venture engulfing their own peoples and many others in disaster."

The chief executive added, "This, of course, is merely a statement. But in this statement each of us may and must exercise his high duty to strive in every honorable way for enduring peace."

Eisenhower asked postponement of reductions in excise and corporation taxes scheduled for April, but said he is hopeful that it will be possible to cut taxes next year.

He pledged himself to cooperate with the Democrats "in all areas basic to the strength of America," and appealed urgently for similar cooperation from the opposition party to avert a "paralyzing indecision" in Washington.

Such cooperation, he declared, should extend beyond the traditional bipartisan areas of military security and foreign relations to supporting programs essential to the nation's strength.

Addressing himself directly to the Democratic 84th Congress, the Republican President said:

"In all areas basic to the strength of America, there will be (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

No Work to Do, Judge Brennan Stays Home

DETROIT (UP)—Circuit Judge Vincent M. Brennan, the judge without a court, decided to stay home yesterday rather than appear at Wayne County Circuit Court where there has been no work for him since Jan. 1.

Brennan had filed for retirement effective Jan. 1 but changed his mind. However, the state retirement board refused to consider his application to remain on the bench.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams appointed Theodore Bohn to succeed Brennan. Bohn hasn't assumed the duties yet.

Brennan showed up at the court Monday and Tuesday but found no work assigned to him. He informed his clerk, Dale de Vries, yesterday that he decided to "stay home and relax."

The state supreme court will consider the matter of Brennan's retirement Jan. 12.

Kingswood School's junior class will present Lewis Carroll's fantasy, "Alice in Wonderland," in 8 p.m. performances tomorrow and Saturday under the direction of Barbara Hamel, drama instructor. Tickets may be obtained at the door. Included in the cast are Chris Anderson of Birmingham and Jane Romney of Bloomfield Hills.

Panama Police Hold American in Killing

could not leave Panama because outgoing flights had been canceled.

Authorities said they were trying to find out why Lipstein had sailed for Italy from Vera Cruz, Mexico, Dec. 17, then decided to disembark at Guana, Venezuela, and come to Panama.

Reliable sources said Lipstein was a native New Yorker, educated at the University of Southern California. They said he had taught school in Los Angeles two years ago.

University of Southern California records show that a Martin Lipstein attended USC from 1945 to 1948 and was graduated with a bachelor of science degree in education.

The records did not indicate that he had entered the teaching profession.

In Redondo Beach, Calif., a Joe Novak told reporters that two years ago he became acquainted with a Martin Lipstein, who had twice used Novak's address in Redondo Beach. Once he used it for a civil service examination to get a post office job in Redondo Beach and last October he used it in applying for a passport before leaving for Mexico, Novak said.

Novak said Lipstein talked of having graduated from USC, of having taught at an elementary school in nearby Manhattan Beach, of having worked for an electronics concern in El Segundo, Calif., and of being a U.S. Air Force veteran.

Air Force records showed a Martin Lipstein had served three years and whose last address, in 1953, was in Manhattan Beach, Calif.

Novak said the last he heard from Lipstein was a postcard sent Oct. 31 from Mexico City, saying that Lipstein had begun studying music again under a French professor. Novak said Lipstein previously had talked about spending six months in Mexico in 1953.

Ike Sees Brighter Peace Prospects

—To the extent I can insure there cooperative, constructive relations between the executive and legislative branches of this government. Let the general good be our yardstick on every great issue of our time.

The President's program included proposals for a pay boost for government workers, higher postal rates, a health reinsurance program and a constitutional amendment giving the vote to 18-year-olds.

He also urged congressmen to vote a "long overdue" raise for themselves, along with higher salaries for federal judges.

He recommended increasing the federal minimum wage from 75 to 90 cents an hour, a proposal underscoring the administration's confidence in the soundness of the nation's economy.

He asked, as expected, for continuation of the public housing program, with 35,000 new starts in each of the next two fiscal years.

The President also renewed his recommendation for revision of the Taft-Hartley Act to knock out the so-called "union-busting" clause, equalize the provision requiring union leaders to take non-Communist oaths and amend other objectionable features.

He called for elimination of "discriminatory" provisions from the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, which he has tried unsuccessfully to revise since taking office.

Most observers would agree the presidential proposals added up to a "progressive moderate" program in the pattern he has said must chart the future course of the Republican Party.

The President said the military budget he will shortly submit to Congress places prime emphasis on airpower which will permit this country to strike back instantly in the event of attack.

He personally approved the shift in planning which will reduce the strength of the Army and build up the Air Force.

Eisenhower pointed to the "excellent progress" made by the FBI and other arms of the Justice Department against home-front communism in the past two years, but made no reference to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), or other congressional Red-hunters.

He said the government is making "steady progress" toward balancing the federal budget, and noted that spending will be nearly 4 1/2 billion dollars less in the current fiscal year than last year. This would put spending this year at slightly over $5 billion.

On the subject of taxes, the President said it is now clear that defense and other essential government costs "must remain at a level precluding further tax reductions this year."

The President sketched an ambitious national health program topped by the health reinsurance plan, which was turned down at the last session of Congress.

He announced he will send a special message to Congress Feb. 15 dealing with the general problem of education, which will be the subject of a special White House conference this year.

He summed up the objectives of his program in these words:

"To labor earnestly, patiently, prayerfully, for peace, for freedom, for justice, throughout the world."

"To keep our economy vigorous and free, that our people may lead fuller, happier lives."

"To advance, not merely by our words but by our acts, the determination of our government that every citizen shall have opportunity to develop to his fullest capacity."

UAW Local 596 Votes on Strike

Approval of Walkout Could Close Fisher Plant Here in 35 Days

Fisher Body Local 596 (UAW-CIO) members today were casting ballots in a strike vote which could close down the body plant in 35 days.

Should the approximately 5,000 union members approve the walkout, local 596 officials will ask UAW-CIO International in Detroit for strike sanction, said William Medlock, local president.

The union contends the company has speeded up production and established "higher production standards than we can give."

"There is more work involved in the new models than in the 1954 and we feel we are not manned for it," Medlock said.

Medlock said some of the grievance-causing issues involved in the alleged speed-up have been resolved since a special membership meeting two weeks ago at which the strike vote was authorized.

The union's international headquarters is given 30 days notice of a strike and a five-day continuous negotiation period between union and management follows that.

Thus, the soonest the work stoppage could take place would be 35 days from tomorrow, when the report of the vote will be sent to Detroit.

"We run into this problem every model change," Medlock said. "We usually have it ironed out a month or so after the change."

"This changeover came in October and we don't believe the company is moving fast enough to correct the conditions."

"Some issues have been resolved but the major ones have not."

Summons Mailed in '51

BIRMINGHAM—Police are wondering if it was by slow ox cart that the Detroit Post Office tried to deliver a summons mailed to a Detroit man.

Police Sgt. Robert Pepperell today showed around the letter, postmarked April 16, 1951. Stamped across it when it was returned to the police department Jan. 3, 1955, were the words, "Not at."

Local Man in Custody on Gambling Charge

A Pontiac man who police stopped for speeding yesterday is in Oakland County Jail today on charges of having gambling equipment in his possession.

John F. Walker, 38, of W. South Blvd., was stopped by Pontiac Patrolmen Billy F. Jones and Hall B. Mercer at Brush and Bagley Sts., because the officers said Walker was driving 35 miles per hour in a 25 mile zone.

While writing a citation, the officer said, they noticed a policy (numbers) book on the auto's floor, and placed Walker under arrest.

Hold Flint Pair in Robbery Here

Charged With Aug. 14 Gas Station Holdup; Arraignment Set

Two of three Flint men, once released here on a holdup charge, were rearrested by Pontiac Police yesterday in Detroit and scheduled for arraignment in Municipal court today.

The pair, M. B. Woody, 27, of 1238 Central, and Leroy Spence, 30, of 3611 Michigan, were charged in a new warrant Oct. 19, accusing them of robbing a Pontiac filling station at Oakland Ave. and Deland Ct., Aug. 14.

A third companion, Riley Williams, 29, also of Flint, was convicted of an armed robbery in Detroit and is now awaiting sentencing.

Detectives James LaPonsie and Richard Evans, who testified in Detroit's Recorder's Court yesterday against the trio, arrested Woody and Spence immediately after they were released. A complainant who identified Williams, was unable to name Woody and Spence.

Capt. Clark M. Wheaton, chief of detectives, said that the men took $137 and a check for $35 during the robbery here. The trio was apprehended by police 14 minutes after the holdup. A lie-detector test, according to Wheaton and LaPonsie, indicated "deception" on the part of the trio who first denied the robbery.

Following the Detroit trial, said LaPonsie who questioned the pair, Woody and Spence admitted taking part in the holdup.

Baldwin School Entered; Nothing Reported Taken

The Baldwin Grade School at 40 E. Howard St., was broken into early Wednesday but thieves who broke a window for entry did not take anything, according to Pontiac Police.

Several windows were broken and the school's office was ransacked. The break-in was discovered by John Bennett of 38 Charlotte St., a school janitor.

Highland Woman Held on Firearms Charge

Mrs. Orville E. Thornhill, 53, of 1501 W. Livingston, Highland, is being held on a careless use of firearms charge at the Oakland County Jail.

Her husband, Edward, in a warrant issued by Milford Township Justice Bartlett B. Smith, charges that his wife, on Dec. 25, pointed a 16 gauge shotgun at him.

Record Business at Deeds Office

Fees Up $77,968 Over Last Year's Collections, McQuaid Says

The Oakland County Register of Deeds Office did a record volume of business last year, exceeding the previous high set in 1953.

Fees taken in totaled $227,350, compared with $149,382 in 1953.

Of the total collected last year, about $70,000 will cover costs of running the office and the balance will be turned in to the county general fund, said Register of Deeds Orrin McQuaid.

"We have managed to keep our costs lower than any deeds office in the state, while still providing comparable, if not more extensive, service," McQuaid said.

Some 35,325 deeds were processed last year, contrasted with 32,554 in 1953. Mortgages totaled 17,685, against 13,497 the previous year.

Miscellaneous papers climbed from 16,461 to 20,018. Photostats, including those made for other county departments, increased from 16,210 to 19,325.

Chattel mortgages (debts on cars, household goods and other personal property) totaled 61,011 in 1954 and 59,209 the year before. McQuaid said a record 185 new subdivision plats were recorded last year, pointing up Oakland County's increasing growth rate.

Although household washing machines have been in use for many years, they did not come into general use until after World War I.

Merchants Taking It Easy as Home Owners Slave

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK (INS) — Life is getting simpler all the time, they say. The miracle mechanisms, the synthetics, the gadgets, AC and DC, are putting us all on Easy street, they say.

They should drop dead, already. I have been studying this new easier life with my new handier home calculator, and have stumbled on the real truth of the matter: never have so many invested so much for the privilege of working so hard.

All those chromium conveniences are pure and not-so-simple leisure killers, and anybody who stops to analyze the situation will probably let the creditors take back his 18-unit vacuum cleaner and return to the gentle art of reading books.

But, of course, who has time to analyze?

Now that the gardener has been discharged in favor of a baby mower, there is the job of cutting-it-yourself. The laundress was liquidated with the purchase of the home laundry, so on formerly lazy mornings you must wash-it-yourself.

The artistic cook was abolished with the electric stove, which does nothing itself, and the dishwasher, which washes itself but cannot scrape or stack, either going or coming. And since the cleaning woman was done away with in favor of the miracle carpet fluid, the washable drapes and the aforementioned vacuum with its 18 peachy work-happy attachments, who has time to think?

The master of the house could think, perhaps, if he didn't have the junior calculator to keep accounts straight, and the electric shoeshiner and pants and tie pressers to fool with, and the doreen shirts and shorts to wash out in spare minutes.

On weekends, he's tied up with the build-it-yourself unit in the basement which must be put into use in order to save enough money on furniture so that he can buy a dessicate-it-yourself device for the garbage.

The kids are busy, too. They're out learning the art of amusing-yourself-yourself—since their parents don't have the time for them.

This is not the worst of it. When the tough week is over and on Sunday a few friends drop by for relaxation, what do we play? The new games, of course, created in the friendly workaday spirit of the era: Like Scrabble, the think-yourself-crazy game, and other mental gaieties too strenuous to mention.

With every triple word score captured, with incredible concentration, by an opponent, the weary mind sinks a notch downward toward the exhausted physical level of the body.

And what are the merchants doing, while we're working? Figure-it-out-yourself.

The appliance makers are playing the horses with your money, no doubt, leaving the business in the hands of a son-in-law. And I'd bet my bottom made-it-yourself dollar that the father of Scrabble, James Brunot, is playing poker. What else?

This is the simple, easy life? You should have an electronic sheep-counter to get to sleep with all your troubles!

Wilson Urges Support for Fight on Polio

NEW YORK — Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson today stressed the need of extra effort by both U. S. civilians and Armed Forces personnel in support of the current March of Dimes appeal of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

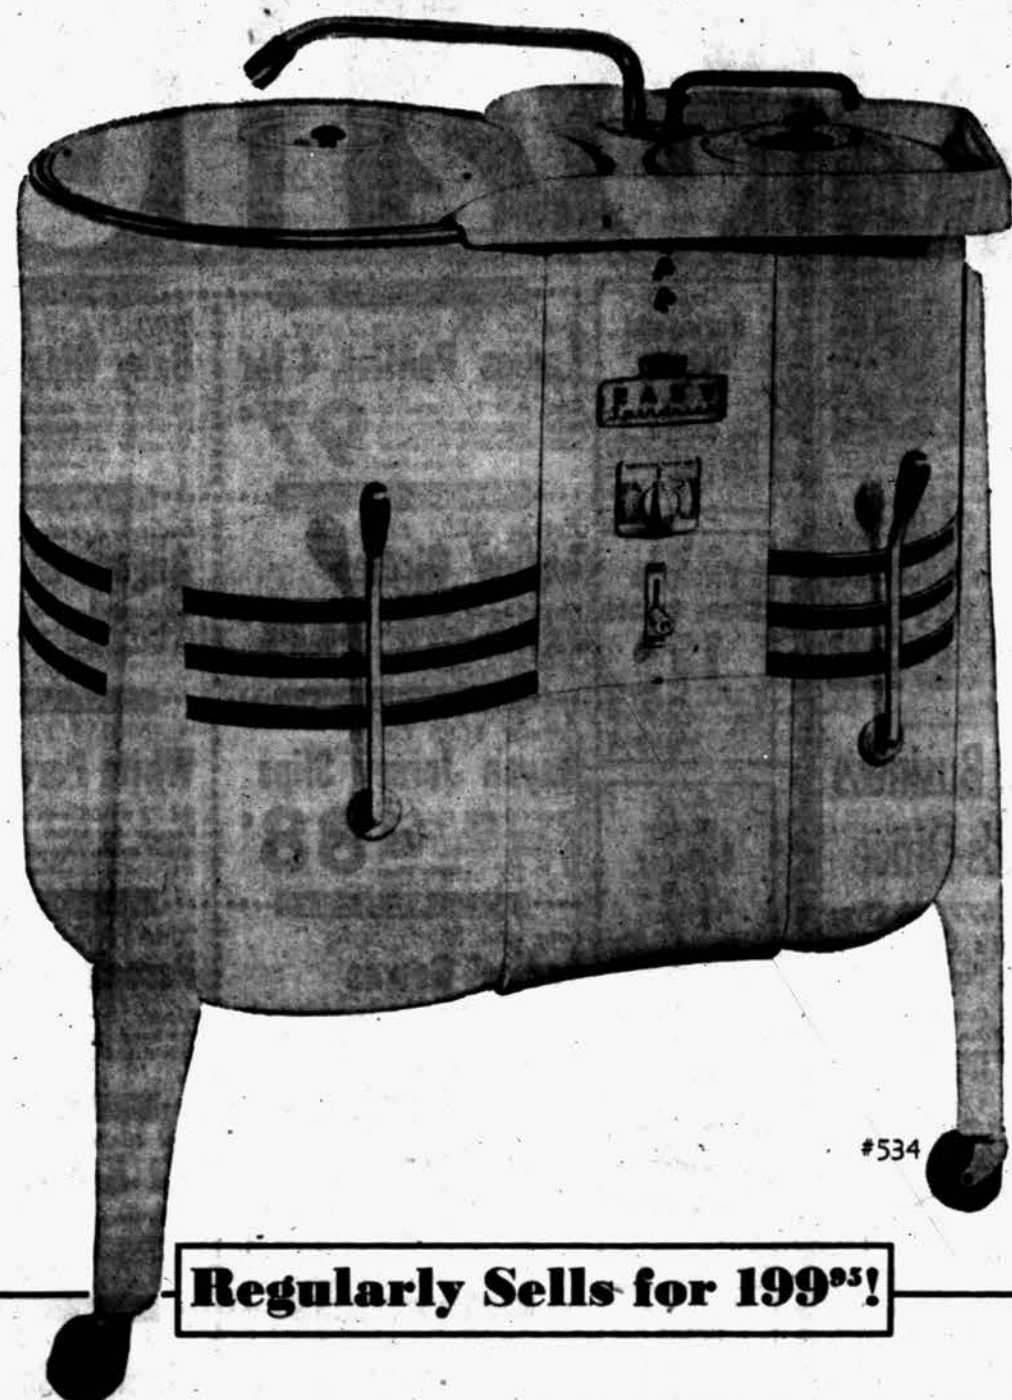

"The Department of Defense has a greater interest in the research and rehabilitation programs of the National Foundation, for the control and prevention of polio," Mr. Wilson said. Support of the current appeal for polio-fighting funds also came from officers of individual branches of the service.

HUDSON WASP—Completely restyled inside and out, the 1955 Hudson Hornets and Wasps represent the most sweeping changes in the company's 46-year history. Shown here is the new Wasp four-door sedan. The new models feature a double strength, single-unit body, deep coil suspension, wrap-around windshield, air conditioning and other engineering and styling changes. Hudson dealers in this area are Jacobson's Motor Sales, 58 W. Pike St., and Dixon Motor Sales, 89 M24, Lake Orion.

Hudson Offering V-8 Powerplant

New 208-H.P. Engine, Two Sixes in 1955 Cars Announced Today

A V-8 engine developing 208 horsepower will be added to the Hudson Motors line of passenger cars for 1955.

The engine, product of the Packard division of Studebaker-Packard Corp., will be used in Hudson's Hornet model and will have Packard's ultramatic transmission.

Details of the 1955 Hudson line, announced today, show that Hudson proposes to offer car buyers their choice of three engines. In addition to the V-8, there will be the L-head six and the twin H-power six.

The Hornet, along with the lower-priced Wasp model, already in production. The two new models will be offered shortly by dealers throughout the country.

Hudson describes the new cars as "entirely new from bumper to bumper."

Both Hornet and Wasp have new heavy one-piece grille, wrap-around windshields, wrap-around front and rear bumpers, and an air intake extending the width of the hood at the cowl.

Front fenders are raised above the hood for full length visibility. They are cut away completely around the wheels to provide a short turning radius. The Hornet and Wasp lines will be offered in four models, including four-door family sedans and custom hardtops. Eleven solid exterior colors and 11 two-tone combinations are planned.

Navy Relaxes Rules on Regular Re-enlistments

Former regular Navy enlisted men who hold certain ratings may now re-enlist in the regular Navy within one year of discharge and retain the rate held at time of discharge or release to inactive duty, the U.S. Navy announced today.

Since 1942 the only regular Navy enlisted men who were permitted to return to duty, with the rate held when released, were those who re-enlisted within three months of their separation from the Navy. This new program, the Navy said, will continue in effect until June 30, 1955.

Thief Sets Cops Afoot

ACUSHNET, Mass. — For a while yesterday this town was without its only police car, plainly marked "Acushnet Police." Someone stole it from in front of the police station. It was found a few hours later in the town of Dartmouth, eight miles away.

Gets High Postal Job

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Summerfield has announced the appointment of former Rep. Jeffery P. Hillelson of Missouri as his executive assistant.

Army Invades New York to Build Nike Installations

NEW YORK (UP) — The Army is moving into New York suburbs with secret installations for launching deadly Nike missiles at enemy bombers.

Along with each Nike base, which occupies about 25 acres and has a permanent contingent of 100 officers and men, goes a careful public relations program to convince suburbanites that having a guided missile base next door is not so bad.

"We tell people as much as we can about what the Nike is and how it works," a 1st Army spokesman said. "Actually a Nike site is less dangerous than a filling station, where you have a lot of gasoline stored comparatively close to the surface of the ground."

The Defense Department has never pinpointed the location of all its Nike sites nor told how many are planned. The New York metropolitan area is believed to be getting 40. Rumor has it there are 15 around Washington, D. C., and more under construction.

The same kind of protection is known to be planned for Detroit, Chicago, Boston, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Seattle, Hartford, Conn., Providence, R. I., and Buffalo, N. Y.

Each Nike base is like the nest of a supersonic bird of prey. It involves an elaborate underground emplacement and a few buildings. The Nike streaks up to pluck a bomber out of the sky at 1,500 miles per hour.

Chambers of commerce, property owners and other civic organizations have protested the choice of some Nike sites. The complaint is usually that property values will depreciate. Or perhaps the community wanted to use the land for some other project.

Army public relations men tell townspeople that having a Nike base nearby makes them less likely than ever to be sought out as a target by the enemy. A bomber would try to stay as far as possible from Nike's territory.

The Nike is a quiet neighbor, too. Soldiers drill with dummy missiles containing no explosive and no fuel. The real McCoy lies buried far underground.

Some protesting women at Westport, Conn., admitted their chief concern was having idle soldiers around to distract their daughters.

The Army tries to compromise when defense needs conflict with local needs. At Fairfield, Conn., the Army latched onto a site which already had been designated for a Junior League ballpark. City fathers agreed to take their ball games elsewhere, but later the Army picked a different location.

Compared with pre-war records, the total ton-miles drawn by freight trains on British railways have risen 40 per cent, the total passenger train miles 23 per cent.

I Wife Enough, Man With 200 Spouses Says

TEHRAN (U-P)—Persia's most-married man, down to one wife after 200 weddings marked his 68th birthday by summing up:
"If a man seeks peace—he must marry only once."
Majd-ud-Din Nasiri, Tehran!

scholar and businessman, added "I've found my ideal woman"—30-year-old Mariam by whom he has a five-year-old son, Fereidoun. Majd-ud-Din, whose hobby nowadays is ancient Iranian and Arabic literature, said he lived with his assortment of spouses anywhere from several days to a year.

Many of the, he added, were married by the simple Islamic ritual of responding in Arabic "I agree" after the bride-to-be says, "I make this man my husband for the dowry on which we have agreed." He told newsmen he has "about 18" children, including Fereidoun.

Having several wives in the same house at the same time, he said gloomily, "spells trouble — big trouble."

Victoria, largest of the African lakes, is almost as large in area as Lake Superior.

Burglar Couldn't Earn Enough Money by Work

NORFOLK, Va. (U)—James Andrew Washington Evans, 35, a man who went burgling barefoot, told the judge he took up stealing when, try as he would, he couldn't earn enough money by working for it. Evans, a former $5,800 a year estimator-planner at the Naval Air Station, was sentenced to 10 years in prison on his plea of guilty to 16 felony charges—14 burglaries, 2 attempts. He left his shoes behind on one job and that gave police their lead.

Apple Crop Double '53

WINCHESTER, Va. (U)—Apples in cold storage in this apple capital—more than a million bushels—are more than double the number in December 1953.

Two Identical Smashes Par for Course There

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (U)—Two identical rear-end collisions occurred at the same spot near here within 90 minutes. In the first, police reported Norman L. Shipman's car collided with the rear end of one driven by Albert Hallum, 21. Less than an hour and a half later an identical accident happened at the same spot, involving 20-year-old Alfred Lee Staddard and John P. Leasco, 22. All four men are Ft. Carson, Colo., soldiers.

Safe Cracker Is Skilled

BUDA, Ill. (U)—The safe-cracker who made off with $300 from a cafe knew what he was doing. Sheriff W. C. Duffield said the safe was completely disassembled without damage.

Would You Feel Uneasy With $5,000 Automobile?

By SAUL PERRY

(For Mail Boy)

NEW YORK (AP)—A friend of mine has a problem which is relatively rare but quite human.

His problem involves an expensive automobile—not how to pay for it but how to live with it.

You see, my friend Don lives in a small, middle-class suburb, which means nobody is really loaded or really hungry. There are very few $5,000 chariots in town.

Don runs his own business, which provides a comfortable income. Still, it's not a big type income. But Don's wife's uncle has such an income, and the cars to match. He's so proud of his four-wheeled light cruisers he'd be extremely pleased if his favorite niece's husband owned one.

And so it came to pass that Don's old car was dying with the shakes and shudders. To replace it with a new model of the same brand would cost almost $3,000. So his wife's uncle said, "You can have my '54 car for $3,000," which, as every boy on a scooter knows, is a bargain. Without thinking, Don said Sure, he'd take it as soon as he could sell his old car.

Since then he hasn't been sleeping well. He and his wife have had some heated discussions. But she insists he can't back out of the deal now because it would "hurt uncle's feelings."

Besides, their younger children have tried the push-button windows and the gadget for raising and lowering the radio antenna and the gizmo that squirts water on the windshield and they won't hear of any other car.

But Helen, their eldest child, insists, "I positively will not be driven to school in that car. Everybody will say we're trying to be too fancy."

Don has measured and remeasured his garage. While the car is shorter than the Queen Mary, it positively won't fit his garage even with the wheels and power mower removed. He could lengthen the garage. Yes, but will the local building code allow him to build out in front of the house line? Or will he have to get a new house?

Don has other misgivings and has tried to prepare the neighborhood by apologizing in advance. "But you see, it was such a good buy, I couldn't pass it up. After all, it's a great car, easy on gas for a big job, smooth-riding, double the horsepower of my old heap."

While he believes this, Don is still uncomfortable. Just what will the neighbors think. Will they make jokes about the trunk being big enough for a kid's playroom? Will there be cracks about certain ostentatious people? Will they think he cleaned up on the horses?

Will he feel silly still collecting a half buck from his car pool riders—a man who could afford such a car? Will his church group expect his contribution to be doubled? Will the Boy Scouts forget their good manners if he makes his usual donation?

And what of his business associates? Don travels a great deal. Will the motel raise their prices when the super car rolls up? Will his clients say, "That boy is too expensive for us; anyway, he certainly doesn't need our trade." Or will they, on the contrary, say, "Must have a solid business there."

And most important, will Don's wife try to live up to the car? Will she insist on a mink stole, forgetting that her husband earns, perhaps, a Persian lamb-type income but certainly not mink.

Even Don has found himself looking at his own overcoat and wondering how the threadbare collar will look in the super deluxe job.

But all things considered—especially his wife and her feelings about her uncle's feelings—Don has decided to accept the car and make the best of it.

Could you be that brave?

Treasury Aide Named

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has named Cleveland banker Robert B. Blyth, 49, as a special assistant on Treasury financing and debt management, succeeding David M. Kennedy, who resigned.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folk complain of nagging backache, head-aches, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stones and strains, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent urination.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Don's Filin—a mild diuretic. Used once daily for 10 to 15 days for over 10 years. It's amazing how many times Don's give happy relief from these discomforts—backache, dizziness, head-aches and Filin flush out wastes. Get Don's Filin today.

Franked Mail Costs U.S. $1 Million in '54

WASHINGTON (AP)—Postmaster Gen. Summerfield told Congress today it cost more than one million dollars to move its franked mail last year.

Summerfield said that his department spent $1,978,500 to send "franked" or free mail from official sources. He asked Congress to reimburse the department.

Free mail totalled 46,892,000 pieces, of which 39,941,300 were sent by members of Congress, he said.

Approximately a million cattle graze in Africa's Kenya and Tanganyika, home of 100,000 nomadic Masai. To the tribesmen quantity takes precedence over quality.

Bouquets for Students to Be Tried by Schools

DES MOINES (AP)—Superior scholarship will receive greater recognition and encouragement in Des Moines senior and junior high schools in a plan advanced by the school board.

Such practices as occasional notes to parents and pupils, quiet praise, scholarship rolls and certificates, and public recognition of scholarly achievements will be tried.

MOTHER GOOSE—
The Little Dog That Laughed

This picture acts out the last of that Mother Goose verse about the cat and the fiddle. The little dog is the one that laughed (you can make him laugh too), and the dish is shown running away with the spoon.

1. With water colors, paint the dog your favorite color. He could be yellow, brown or black, with white spots. He wears a bright red ribbon behind his neck.

2. Just above the dog in today's picture is something that looks like a bone. This really is part of the dog. The lower end in the drawing is the dog's other ear—and should be colored the same as the rest of the puppy. The upper end is the dog's tongue, and should be pink.

3. Near the dog's left paw is a picture of the dish and the spoon. You can color these yellow, with a blue background. Make all the grass green.

4. Use white library paste to mount the whole picture on cardboard. Then cut out the dog and the dish and spoon as one piece, following the heavy outline around the outside. Cut a slit in the dog's face—following the dark line at the mouth. Cut out the tongue and ear section. Punch a hole through the small circle in it and through the one on the dog's head just above the eye.

5. Put the tongue through the mouth from the back of the dog so the ear sticks up at the side. Fasten the two sections together with a small brass fastener through the two holes. Now you can wiggle the ear and tongue from side to side.

6. To make the figure stand up, fold the dish and spoon back along the dotted line. You'll first have to cut around the dog's paw as far as the heavy line.

Starts With 3 Pigs,
Winds Up With Nine

SWEETGRASS, Mont. 68—Amos Thompson, Helena, Mont., bought three head of swine at a Calgary, Alta., show and dutifully listed them on the official forms to get the animals through customs.

Before he got across the Montana-Canadian border, one saw farrowed nine pigs in his truck. Thompson had to do some fast talking to explain why he had 12 animals instead of three, but the sympathetic officials waved him through customs.

New Hampshire Claims to Cure All Ailments

SUGAR HILL, N. H. (UP) — The Cosmetologists of America, experts on beauty culture, got an earful from Gov. Hugh Gregg here. "There is no need for science's new odorless, greaseless creams which act in new ways to bring new kinds of relief for the minor pains of arthritis, rheumatism and muscular aches," he said. "Whether you are emotionally upset, or just physically or mentally deficient, the place to ignore your cares is in the air-conditioned scenic splendor of New Hampshire where over half a million of us thrive on nature's therapy." Annual number of hospital admissions increased from 57 per 1,000 population in 1934 to 126 per 1,000 in 1953.

Burglar Trapped by Door
HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Police investigating a burglary at Larry White's store had no trouble catching their man. They found him hanging by a foot from the top of a door. The man had managed to pry the top part of the padlocked door partly open, but when he tried to squeeze through the door snapped back on his foot. The Saar region in Germany has coal reserves of six billion tons and annual steel production of three million tons.

Sews $5,311 in Corset
FUEBLO, Colo. (UP)—An 81-year-old Colorado woman admitted to the state mental hospital here brought $5,311 with her — sewed into her old-fashioned corset. Attendants found the money when they gave the woman a bath. When asked about the cash she guessed the amount at "over a hundred dollars." First plebiscite taken was during the 1790's, when the French government permitted the citizens of Savoy and Nice to vote for or against union with France.

Many Violators at Large
OAKLAND, Calif. (UP)—Police files contain more than 35,000 warrants for traffic law violators—with potential fines of about $500,000. Most violators were classified as "deadbeats"—persons who avoid paying any bills.

'54 Bad Check Total Revealed

Prosecutor's Office Lists $51,478 Passed During Year

Bad checks totaling $51,478 were reported to the Oakland County Prosecutor's office in 1954, according to Chief Investigator Robert C. Miller.

Some $14,489 in bogus checks were recorded the first four months of last year. The total dropped to $12,137 during the middle four months, then climbed to $24,872 the last third of the year. Total number of checks was 594.

The checks include those written without sufficient funds in a bank account to cover them, said Miller. Others were issued against an account which has been closed or with no account at all, he explained. Some were forgeries or issued with intent to defraud.

"Bad checks constitute one of the biggest crime hazards in the country and are one of the hardest to curb," said Miller, "because business people tend to be lax in asking for proper identification and in accepting checks from persons they don't know."

"It's wise to ask to see the driver's license and to write the license number on the back of the check to have for future reference. It is also wise to check the per-

New Bill Would Give GI Benefits to Later Enlistees

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Teague (D-Tex.) said he will introduce today legislation aimed at meeting some complaints about President Eisenhower's order to cut off wartime veterans' benefits.

Teague, who will head the House veterans affairs committee, said he will put in the House's opening day hopper a measure to allow GIs to continue to accrue free education benefits, provided the men were in the service by the end of this month.

The possibility of losing thousands of dollars in veterans benefits already has spurred young men to enlist before a Jan. 31 deadline cuts off their eligibility.

Getting into service now will mean little as to eligibility for GI Bill education—unless a proposal such as Teague's is enacted. But it will make the men eligible for such benefits as GI loan guarantees, unemployment compensation, mustering-out pay, free hospitalization and other benefits. These benefits will not go to men who go in after Jan. 31.

These same benefits have been available to almost all veterans with separations under other than dishonorable conditions since the start of the Korean War—July 27, 1950. The end to eligibility rights Jan. 31 will have no effect on benefits already earned, except that the announcement also set certain distant deadlines for veterans to make use of the benefits or lose them.

The presidential rule, as it now stands, means a stop to accumulation of education and training rights after Jan. 31 even for men already in service.

Under present law, a serviceman accumulates 1½ days of free education rights for each day in service up to two years—or a total of 3½ years in school, a benefit the VA figures is worth $5,000. Under the Eisenhower order men entering the service Feb. 1 would have no such right. Those who entered only about three weeks of school benefits, those who entered Feb. 1 of last year only 1½ years' worth.

Under Teague's bill, for which cost estimates were not available, a serviceman could continue to ac-cure education benefits if in service by the end of this month until he reached the VA maximum or until his first discharge. Because of a retroactive provision the measure would not have to be passed before Feb. 1.

Teague's measure does not involve various other benefits which are due to end Jan. 31 under the presidential order.

Some of these other benefits are given to men who have a total of 90 days of service, some part of which fell during the period from June 27, 1950 to Jan. 31, 1955. They also must have received a separation from service under conditions other than dishonorable. These benefits are:

Unemployment Compensation—Good for $26 a week up to 26 weeks of unemployment.

Pensions—Payments for total and permanent disability, not due to service and when the veterans' income is below certain minimums. Loan Guarantees—Good for home, business or farm loans made by private lenders, but backed by the government.

Other benefits are given for any period of service as long as some of it comes before the Jan. 31 deadline.

They include special farm loan guarantees, free care in veterans hospitals, burial benefits of $150, civilian job preference, and mustering-out pay.

3-Cent Airmail Deliveries Prove Fast, Economical

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Post Office Department's experiment in hauling three-cent mail by air is saving money and speeding delivery by 24 to 48 hours.

It also is providing experience which Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield believes might prove invaluable in case an enemy attack should disrupt surface transportation in this country.

The experiment was inaugurated Oct. 6, 1953, between New York, Washington and Chicago. It has been extended gradually—and nationally—first to three Florida cities, then to a "feeder" system in the Middle West and, more recently along the Pacific Coast from Seattle to San Diego.

Summerfield said the net saving to the government has run about $154,000 a year on the New York-Washington-Chicago-Florida phase of the experiment. There are no figures for the other experimental areas.

Spot checks in all areas show speedier delivery. In many cases the elapsed time between postmarking at the sending point and delivery at the receiving end has been speeded 24 hours. A test between Los Angeles and Portland, Ore., showed delivery to be 48 hours quicker than would have been possible by rail.

One reason for swifter delivery is that mailing habits, railroad schedules and postman delivery hours don't always jibe. There also are fewer mail-carrying trains than there used to be.

Most mail is dumped into collection boxes in the late afternoon. By the time it has been sorted, some overnight trains already have departed. In other cases, some overnight trains reach a destination too late in the morning for the mail to be sorted and delivered that same day.

It was to overcome such problems that Summerfield started the experiment of sending three-cent mail by air.

There is no guarantee that every three-cent letter will be sped to its destination by air. It's done on a "space available" basis. Those who want the guarantee of special handling and air delivery must still pay the air mail rate of six cents an ounce.

But, as it turns out, practically all three-cent mail between cities in the experiment gets a bargain-rate ride by plane. For example, almost every letter between Washington and Chicago is now being carried by air. Trains carry the mail to intermediate points like Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Akron and Fort Wayne, Ind.

Pontiac Man Held on Brekin Charge

Accused of breaking into a home Dec. 18, Reuben McCray, 35, of 278 Dellwood Ave., was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for arraignment Monday. He was ordered held by Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum in the county jail when unable to furnish a $3,000 bond.

McCray, who is charged with entering a home at 67 Clovess St. by breaking a rear window, was surprised by the occupant, Albert Munson, 43, who found him in the upstairs bedroom.

Munson detained McCray by saying he would only make a telephone call for a price estimate of a new window. A fight ensued when McCray learned that Munson had called police instead.

Munson said he and the man tussled between 20 and 30 minutes until police arrived and arrested McCray.

Egg Contest Explained

STORRS, Conn. (U-P)—A University of Connecticut expert gives a simple explanation as to why the widely known Storrs egg-laying contest was established back in 1911. It came about, says Prof. Francis A. Ryan, because breeders in those days made extravagant claims about the egg-laying abilities of their hens.

There were 52,000 polio cases in the U. S. in 1952.

Magnetic Cure for Cows

PHILADELPHIA (U-P)—Dr. J. A. Muffy, of Lewisburg, Pa., is demonstrating at the 55th annual conference of Pennsylvania veterinarians a gadget to cure a cow's stomach ache. It's a magnet on the end of a plastic tube which can be slipped into the animal's stomach to remove any metal objects that have been swallowed.

$30 Pay Cut Is Raise for Police in Gastonia

GASTONIA, N. C. (U-P)—Gastonia policemen have taken a five-dollar per day salary cut. But in the long run they'll make more money. They got it back as a subsistence allowance.

The cut means $30 less per week the officers will have to pay taxes on. They don't have to pay on subsistence allowances.

2,000 Pigeons Evicted in Determined Campaign

DECATUR, Ill. (U-P)—The First Methodist Church no longer is bothered with a flock of 2,000 pigeons. Jimmy Soules and his son blasted them with shotguns, caught them in traps and knocked them down with tennis rackets.

"I don't mean you'll never see a pigeon on the church," Soules says. "But from now on they'll only be transients."

President Reports to Congress on State of Union

WASHINGTON (AP)—Following is the prepared text of President Eisenhower's State of the Union message to Congress today: Mr. Vice President, Mr. Speaker, members of the Congress:

First, I extend cordial greetings to the 84th Congress. We shall have much to do together; I am sure that we shall get it done—and, that we shall do it in harmony and good will.

At the outset, I believe it would be well to remind ourselves of this great fundamental in our national life: our common belief that every human being is divinely endowed with dignity and worth and inalienable rights. This faith, with its corollary—that to grow and flourish people must be free—shapes the interests and aspirations of every American.

From this deep faith have evolved three main purposes of our federal government:

First, to maintain justice and freedom among ourselves and to champion them for others so that we may work effectively for enduring peace;

Second, to help keep our economy vigorous and expanding, thus enabling our international strength and assuring better jobs, better living, better opportunities for every citizen;

And third, to concern ourselves with the human problems of our people so that every American may have the opportunity to lead a healthy, productive and rewarding life.

Foremost among these broad purposes of government is our support of freedom, justice and peace.

It is of the utmost importance that each of us understand the true nature of the struggle now taking place in the world. It is not a struggle merely of economic theories, or of forms of government, or of military power. At issue is the true nature of man. Either man is the creature whom the psalmist described as "a little lower than the angels," crowned with glory and honor, holding "dominion over the works" of his creator; or man is a soulless, animated machine to be enslaved, used and consumed by the state for its own glorification.

It is, therefore, a struggle which goes to the roots of the human spirit, and its shadow falls across the long sweep of man's destiny. This prize, so precious, so fraught with ultimate meaning, is the true object of the contending forces in the world.

Sees Greater Hope for Lasting Peace

In the past year, there has been progress justifying hope, both for continuing peace and for the ultimate rule of freedom and justice in the world. Free nations are collectively stronger than at any time in recent years.

Just as nations of this hemisphere, in the historic Caracas and Rio conferences, have closed ranks against imperialistic communism and strengthened their economic ties, so free nations elsewhere have forced new bonds of unity.

Recent agreements between Turkey and Pakistan have laid a foundation for increased strength in the Middle East. With our understanding support, Egypt and Britain, Yugoslavia and Italy, Britain and Iran have resolved dangerous differences. The security of the Mediterranean has been enhanced by an alliance among Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia. Agreements in Western Europe have paved the way for unity to replace past divisions which have undermined Europe's economic and military vitality.

The defense of the West appears likely at last to include a free, Democratic Germany participating as an equal in the councils of NATO.

In Asia and the Pacific, the pending Manila pact supplements our treaties with Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Korea and Japan and our prospective treaty with the Republic of China. These pacts stand as solemn warnings that future military aggression and subversion against the free nations of Asia will meet united response. The Pacific Charter, also adopted at Manila, is a milestone in the development of human freedom and self-government in the Pacific area.

Under the auspices of the United Nations, there is promise of progress in our country's plan for the peaceful use of atomic energy.

Finally, today the world is at peace. It is, to be sure, an insecure peace. Yet all humanity finds hope in the simple fact that for an appreciable time there has been no active major battlefield on earth. This same fact inspires us to work all the more effectively with other nations for the well-being, the freedom, the dignity, of every human on earth.

These developments are heartening indeed, and we are hopeful of continuing progress. But sobering problems remain.

Communists Still Threaten World

The massive military machines and ambitions of the Soviet-Communist bloc still create uneasiness in the world. All of us are aware of the continuing reliance of the Soviet Communists on military force, of the power of their weapons of their present resistance to realistic armament limitation, and of their continuing effort to dominate or intimidate free nations on their periphery.

Their steadily growing power includes an increasing strength in nuclear weapons. This power, combined with the proclaimed intentions of the Communist leaders to dominate the world, is the threat confronting us today.

To protect our nations and our peoples from the catastrophe of a nuclear holocaust, free nations must maintain countervailing military power to persuade the Communists of the futility of seeking their ends through aggression. If Communist rulers understand that we will not be deterred from launching a military venture engulfing their own peoples and many others in disaster. This, of course, is merely world stalemate. But in this stalemate each of us may and must exercise his high duty to strive in every honorable way for enduring peace.

The military threat is but one menace to our freedom and security. We must not only deter aggression; we must also frustrate the effort of Communists to gain their goals by subversion. To this end, free nations must maintain and reinforce their cohesion, their internal security, their political and economic vitality, and their faith in freedom.

Must Strengthen United Nations

In such a world, America's course is clear:

We must tirelessly labor to make the peace more just and durable.

We must strengthen the collective defense under the United Nations charter and gird ourselves with sufficient military strength and productive capacity to discourage resort to war and protect our nation's vital interests.

We must continue to support and strengthen the United Nations. At this very moment, by vote of the United Nations General Assembly, its secretary-general is in Communist China on a mission of deepest concern to all Americans: seeking the release of our never-to-be-forgotten American aviators and all other United Nations prisoners wrongfully detained by the Communist regime.

We must also encourage the efforts being made in the United Nations to limit armaments and to harness the atom to peaceful use.

We must expand international trade and investment and assist friendly nations whose own best efforts are still sufficient to provide the strength essential to the security of the free world.

We must be willing to use the processes of negotiation whenever they will advance the cause of just and secure peace to which the United States and other free nations are dedicated.

In respect to all these matters, we must, through a vigorous information program, keep the peoples of the world truthfully advised of our actions and purposes. This problem has been attacked with new vigor during the past months. I urge that the Congress give its earnest consideration to the great advantages that can accrue to our country through the successful operations of this program.

We must also carry forward our educational exchange program. This sharing of knowledge and experience between our citizens and those of free countries is a powerful factor in the development and maintenance of true partnership among free peoples.

To advance these many efforts, the Congress must act in this session on appropriations, legislation, and treaties. Today I shall mention especially our foreign economic and military programs.

Would Ease World Trade Barriers

The recent economic progress in many free nations has been most heartening. The productivity of labor and the production of goods and services are increasing in ever-widening areas. There is a growing will to improve the living standards of all men. This progress is important to all our people. It promises us allies who are strong and self-reliant; it promises a growing world market for the products of our mines, our factories, and our farms.

But only through steady effort can we hope to continue this progress. Barriers will impede trade and the flow of capital needed to develop each nation's human and material resources.

When reduction of these barriers to a long-term objective of our foreign economic policy—a policy of an evolutionary and selective nature, assuring broad benefits to our own and other

We must gradually reduce certain tariff obstacles to trade. These actions should, of course, be accompanied by a similar lowering of trade barriers by other nations, so that we may move steadily toward greater economic advantage for all. We must further simplify customs administration and procedures. We must facilitate the flow of capital and continue technical assistance, both directly and through the United Nations, to less developed countries to strengthen their independence and raise their living standards. Many another step must be taken in and among the nations of the free world to release forces of private initiative.

In our own nation, these forces have brought strength and prosperity; once released, they will generate rising incomes in these other countries with which to buy the products of American industry, labor and agriculture.

On Jan. 10, by special message, I shall submit specific recommendations for carrying forward the legislative phases of our foreign economic policy.

Our many efforts to build a better world include the maintenance of our military strength. This is a vast undertaking. Major national security programs consume two-thirds of the entire federal budget. Over four million Americans—servicemen and civilians—are on the rolls of the defense establishment. During the past two years, by eliminating duplication and overstaffing, by improved procurement and inventory controls, and by concentrating on the essentials, many billions of dollars have been saved in our defense activities. I should like to mention certain fundamentals underlying this vast program.

First, a realistic limitation of armaments and enduring just peace remain our national goals; we maintain powerful military forces because there is no present alternative—forces designed for deterrent and defensive purposes alone but able instantly to strike back with destructive power in response to an attack.

Must Have Balanced, Flexible Strength

Second, we must stay alert to the fact that undue reliance on one weapon or preparation for only one kind of warfare simply invites an enemy to resort to another. We must, therefore, keep in our armed forces balance and flexibility adequate for our purposes and objectives.

Third, to keep our armed forces abreast of the advances of science, our military planning must be flexible enough to utilize the new weapons and techniques which flow ever more speedily from our research and development programs.

The forthcoming military budget therefore emphasizes modern airpower in the Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps and increases the emphasis on new weapons, especially those of rapid and destructive striking power. It assures the maintenance of effective, retaliatory force as the principal deterrent to overt aggression. It accelerates the continental defense program and the build-up of ready military reserve forces. It continues a vigorous program of stockpiling strategic and critical materials and strengthening our mobilization base.

The budget also contemplates the strategic concentration of our strength through redeployment of certain forces. It provides for reduction of forces in certain categories and their expansion in others, to fit them to the military realities of our time. These emphases in our defense planning have been made at my personal direction after long and thoughtful study. In my judgment, they will give our nation a defense accurately adjusted to the national need.

Must Continue Atomic Stockpile

Fourth, pending a world agreement on armament limitations, we must continue to improve and expand our supplies of nuclear weapons for our land, naval and air forces while, at the same time, continuing our encouraging progress in the peaceful use of atomic power.

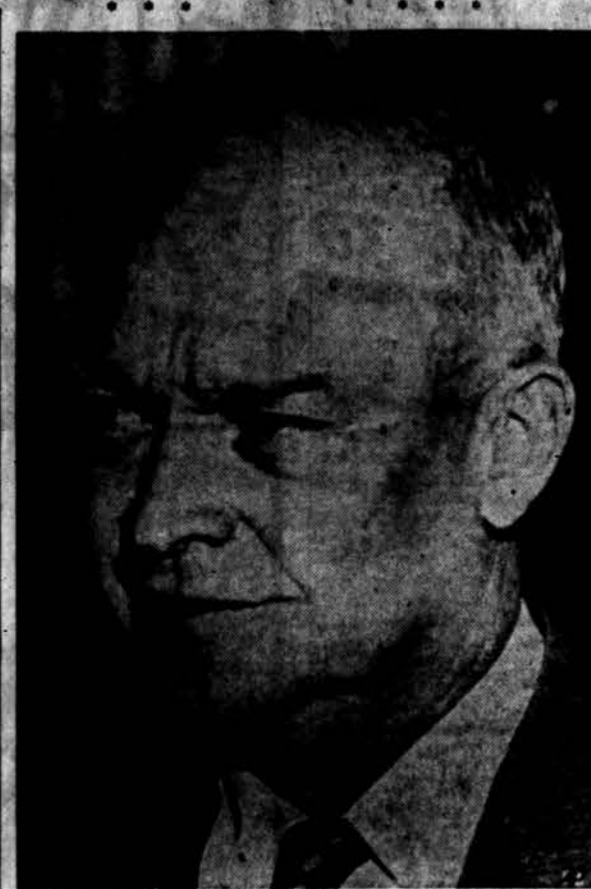

And fifth, in the administration of these costly programs, we must demand the utmost in efficiency and ingenuity. We must assure our people not only of adequate protection but also of a defense that can be carried forward from year to year until the threat of aggression has disappeared.

To help maintain this kind of armed strength and improve its efficiency, I must urge the enactment of several important measures in this session.

Would Continue Draft, Boost Pay

The first concerns the Selective Service Act which expires next June 30th. For the foreseeable future, our standing forces must remain much larger than voluntary methods can sustain.

We must, therefore, extend the statutory authority to induce men for two years of military service.

PRESIDENT DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

The second kind of measure concerns the rapid turnover of our most experienced servicemen. This progress seriously weakens the combat readiness of our armed forces and is exorbitantly expensive. To encourage more training servicemen to remain in uniform, I shall, on the thirteenth of this month, propose a number of measures to increase the attractions of a military career.

These measures will include more adequate medical care for dependents, survivors' benefits, more and better housing, and selective adjustments in military pay and other allowances.

And third—also on January 13—I shall present a program to rebuild and strengthen the civilian components of our armed forces. This is a comprehensive program, designed to make better use of our manpower of military age.

Because it will go far in assuring fair and equitable participation in military training and service, it is of particular importance to our combat veterans. In keeping with the historic military policy of our Republic, this program, designed to build and maintain powerful civilian reserves immediately capable of effective military service in an emergency in lieu of maintaining active duty forces in excess of the nation's immediate need.

Maintenance of an effective defense requires continuance of our aggressive attack on subversion at home. In this effort we have, in the past two years, made excellent progress. FBI investigations have been powerfully reinforced by a new internal security division in the department of justice; the security activities of the immigration and naturalization service have been revitalized; an improved and strengthened security system is in effect throughout the government; the department of justice and the FBI have been armed with effective new legal weapons forged by the 83rd Congress.

We shall continue to ferret out and to destroy communist subversion. We shall, in the process, carefully preserve our traditions and the basic rights of our citizens.

Civil Defense Program Vital

Our civil defense program is also a key element in the protection of our country. We are developing cooperative methods with state governors, mayors, and voluntary citizen groups, as well as among federal agencies, in building the civil defense organization. Its significance in time of war is obvious; its swift assistance in disaster areas last year proved its importance in time of peace.

An industry capable of rapid expansion and essential materials and facilities swiftly available in time of emergency are indispensable to our defense. I urge, therefore, a two-year extension of the Defense Production Act and Title II of the First War Powers Act of 1941.

These are cornerstones of our program for the development and maintenance of an adequate mobilization base.

At this point, I should like to make this additional observation. Our quest for peace and freedom necessarily presumes that we who hold positions of public trust must rise above self and section to the general good of our nation, our personal pride and prejudice. Tirelessly, with united purpose, we must fortify the material and spiritual foundations of this land of freedom and of free nations throughout the world. As never before, there is need for un-tating cooperation among the branches of our government.

At this time the executive and legislative branches are under the management of different political parties. This fact places both parties on trial before the American people.

In less perilous days of the past, division of governmental responsibility among our great parties has produced a paralyzing decision. We must not let this happen in our time. We must avoid a paralysis of the will for peace and international security.

In the traditionally bipartisan areas—military security and foreign relations—I can report to you that I have already, with the leaders of this Congress, expressed assurances of unreserved cooperation. Yet, the strength of our country requires more than maintenance of mere military strength and success in foreign affairs; these vital matters are in turn dependent upon concerted and vigorous action in a number of supporting programs.

Pledges Cooperation With New Congress

I say, therefore, to the 84th Congress:

In all areas basic to the strength of America, there will be to the extent I can insure them—cooperative, constructive relations between the executive and legislative branches of this government. Let the general good be our yardstick on every great issue of our time.

Our efforts to defend our freedom and to secure a just peace are, of course, inseparable from the second great purpose of our government; to help maintain a strong, growing economy—an economy vigorous and free, in which there are ever-increasing opportunities, just reward for our effort, and a stable prosperity that is widely shared.

In the past two years, many important governmental actions helped our economy adjust to conditions of peace; these and other actions created a climate for renewed economic growth. Controls were removed from wages, prices and materials. Tax revisions encouraged increased private spending and employment. Federal expenditures were sharply reduced, making possible a record tax cut. These actions, together with flexible monetary and debt management policies, helped to halt inflation and stabilize the value of the dollar. A program of cooperation and partnership in resource development was begun.

Social security and unemployment insurance laws were broadened and strengthened. New laws started the long process of balancing farm production with farm markets. Expanded shipbuilding and stockpiling programs strengthened key sectors of the economy, while improving our mobilization base.

A comprehensive new housing law brought impressive progress in an area fundamental to our economic strength and closed loopholes in the old laws permitting dishonest manipulations. Many of these programs are just beginning to exert their main stimulating effect upon the economy generally and upon specific communities and industries throughout the country.

The past year—1952—was one of the most prosperous years in our history. Business activity now surges with new strength. Production is rising. Employment is high. Toward the end of last year average weekly wages in manufacturing were higher than ever before.

Personal income after taxes is at a record level. So is consumer spending. Construction activity is reaching new peaks. Export demand for our goods is strong. State and local government expenditures on public works are rising. Savings are high, and credit is readily available.

So, today, the transition to a peacetime economy is largely behind us.

U.S. Buying Power May Gain Rapidly

The many promising factors I have mentioned do not guarantee sustained economic expansion; however, they do give us a strong position from which to carry forward our economic growth.

If we as a people act wisely, within ten years our annual national output can rise from its present level of about 300 billion dollars to 500 billion, measured in dollars of stable buying power.

My budget message on Jan. 17, the economic report on the 20th of this month, and several special messages will set forth in detail major programs to foster the growth of our economy and to protect the integrity of the people's money. Today I shall discuss these programs only in general terms.

Government efficiency and economy remain essential to steady progress toward a balanced budget. More than ten billion dollars were cut from the spending program proposed in the budget of Jan. 9, 1953. Expenditures of that year were six and a half billions below those of the previous year.

In the current fiscal year, government spending will be nearly four and a half billion dollars less than in the fiscal year which ended last June 30. New spending authority has been held below expenditures, reducing government obligations accumulated over the years.

Last year we had a large tax cut and, for the first time in 75 years, a basic revision of federal tax laws. It is now clear that defense and other essential government costs must remain at a level precluding further tax reductions this year.

Although excise and corporate income taxes must, therefore, be continued at their present rates, further tax cuts will be possible when justified by lower expenditures and by revenue increases arising from the nation's economic growth. I am hopeful that such reductions can be made next year.

At the foundation of our economic growth are the raw materials and energy produced from our minerals and fuels, lands and forests, and water resources.

With respect to them, I believe that the nation must adhere to three fundamental policies: first, to develop, wisely use and conserve basic resources from generation to generation; second, to follow the historic pattern of developing these resources primarily by private citizens under fair provisions of law, including restraints for proper conservation; and third, to treat resource development as a partnership undertaking—a partnership in which the participation of private citizens and state and local governments is as necessary as federal participation.

This policy of partnership and cooperation is producing good results, most immediately noticeable in respect to water resources. First, it has encouraged local public bodies and private citizens to plan their own power sources. Increasing numbers of applications to the federal power commission to conduct surveys and prepare plans for power development, notably in the Columbia River Basin, are evidence of local response.

Coordinate Public, Private Efforts

Second, the federal government and local and private organizations have been encouraged to coordinate their developments. This is important because federal hydroelectric developments supply but a small fraction of the nation's power needs.

Such partnership projects as Priest Rapids in Washington, the Coosa River development in Alabama, and Markham Ferry in Oklahoma already have the approval of the Congress. This year justifiable projects of a similar nature will again have administration support.

Third, the federal government must shoulder its own partnership obligations by undertaking projects of such complexity and size that their success requires federal development.

In keeping with this principle I again urge the Congress to approve the development of the Upper Colorado River Basin to conserve and assure better use of precious water essential to the future of the West.

In addition, the 1953 budget will recommend appropriations to start six new reclamation and more than 30 new corps of engineers projects of varying size. Going projects and investigations of potential new resources developments will be continued.

Although this partnership approach is producing encouraging results, its full success requires a nationwide comprehensive water resources policy firmly based in law. Such a policy is under preparation and when completed will be submitted to the Congress.

In the interest of their proper conservation, development and use, continued vigilance will be maintained over our fisheries, wildlife resources, the national parks and forests, the public lands; and we shall continue to encourage an orderly development of the nation's mineral resources.

A modern, efficient highway system is essential to meet the needs of our growing population, our expanding economy, and our national security. We are accelerating our highway improvement program as rapidly as possible under existing state and federal laws and authorizations. However, this effort will not in itself assure our people of an adequate highway system.

On my recommendation, this problem has been carefully considered by the Conference of State Governors and by a special advisory committee on a national highway program, composed of leading private citizens.

Will Recommend Highway Program

I have received the recommendations of the governors' conference and will shortly receive the views of the special advisory committee. Aided by their findings, I shall submit on Jan. 27 detailed recommendations which will meet our most pressing national highway needs.

In further recognition of the importance of transportation to our economic strength and security, the administration through a Cabinet committee, is thoroughly examining existing federal transportation policies to determine their effect on the adequacy of transportation services. This is the first such comprehensive review directly undertaken by the executive branch of the government in modern times.

We are not only examining major problems facing the various modes of transport; we are also studying closely the interrelationships of civilian and government requirements for transportation.

Legislation will be recommended to correct policy deficiencies which we may find.

The nation's public works activities are tremendous in scope. It is expected that more than 12 billion dollars will be expended in 1953 for the development of land, water and other resources; control of floods, and navigation and harbor improvements; construction of roads, schools, and municipal water supplies, and disposal of domestic and industrial wastes.

Many of the federal, state and local agencies responsible for this work are, in their separate capacities, highly efficient. But public works activities are closely interrelated and have a substantial influence on the growth of the country.

Plans Coordination of Public Works

Moreover, in times of threatening economic contraction, they may become a valuable sustaining force. To these ends, efficient planning and execution of the nation's public works require both the coordination of federal activities and efficient cooperation with state and local governments.

The Council of Economic Advisors, through its public works planning section, has made important advances during the past year in effecting this coordination and cooperation.

In view of the success of these initial efforts, and to give more emphasis and continuity to this essential coordination, I shall request the Congress to appropriate funds for the support of an office of coordinator of public works in the executive office of the president.

A most significant element in our growing economy is an agriculture that is stable, prosperous and free. The problems of our agriculture have evolved over many years and cannot be solved overnight; nevertheless, governmental actions last year hold great promise of fostering a better balance between production and markets and, consequently, a better and more stable income for our farmers.

Through vigorous administration and through new authority provided by the 83rd Congress, surplus farm products are now moving into consumption. From February 1954 through November 1954, the rate of increase of government-held surpluses has been reduced by our moving into use more than 2.3 billion dollars' worth of government-owned farm commodities; this amount is equal to more than 7 per cent of a year's production of all our farms and ranches. Domestic consumption remains high, and farm exports will be higher than last year.

Sees Less Control of Farm Production

As a result of the flexibility provided by the Agricultural Act of 1954, we can move toward less restrictive acreage controls.

As part of our efforts to provide decent, safe and sanitary housing for low-income families, we must carry forward the housing program authorized during the 83rd Congress. We must also authorize contracts for a firm program of 33,000 additional public housing (Continued on Page 17 Col. 1)

Thus, farm production is gradually adjusting to markets, markets are being expanded, and stocks are moving into use. We can now look forward to an easing of the influences depressing farm prices, to reduced government expenditures for purchase of surplus products, and to less federal intrusion into the lives and plans of our farm people. Agricultural programs have been redirected toward better balance, greater stability and sustained prosperity. We are headed in the right direction. I urgently recommend to the Congress that we continue resolutely on this road.

Greater attention must be directed to the needs of low-income farm families. Twenty-eight per cent of our farm operator families have net cash incomes of less than $1,000 per year. Last year, at my request, careful studies were made of the problems of these farm people. I shall later submit recommendations designed to assure the steady alleviation of their most pressing concerns.

Because drought also remains a serious agricultural problem, I shall recommend legislation to strengthen federal disaster assistance programs. This legislation will prescribe an improved appraisal of need, better adjustment of the various programs to local conditions, and a more equitable sharing of costs between the states and the federal government.

More Aid Needed for Drought Areas

The prosperity of our small business enterprises is an indispensable element in the maintenance of our economic strength. Creation of the small business administration and recently enacted tax laws facilitating small business expansion are but two of many important steps we have taken to encourage our smaller enterprises.

I recommend that the Congress extend the small business act of 1945 which is due to expire next June.

We come now to the third great purpose of our government—its concern for the health, productivity and well-being of all our people.

Every citizen wants to give full expression to his God-given talents and abilities and to have the recognition and respect accorded under our religious and political traditions. Americans also want a good material standard of living—not simply to accumulate possessions, but to fulfill a legitimate aspiration for an environment in which their families may live meaningful and happy lives. Our people are committed, therefore, to the creation and preservation of opportunity for every citizen to lead a more rewarding life. They are equally committed to the alleviation of misfortune and distress among their fellow citizens.

Private Initiative Given First Chance

The aspirations of most of our people can best be fulfilled through their own enterprise and initiative, without government interference. This administration, therefore, follows two simple rules:

First, the federal government should perform an essential task only when it cannot otherwise be adequately performed; and second, in performing that task, our government must not impair the self-respect, freedom and incentive of the individual. So long as these two rules are observed, the government can fully meet its obligation without creating a dependent population or a domineering bureaucracy.

During the past two years, notable advances were made in these functions of government. Protection of old-age and survivors' insurance was extended to an additional ten million of our people, and the benefits were substantially increased.

Legislation was enacted to provide unemployment insurance protection to some four million additional Americans.

Stabilization of living costs and the halting of inflation protected the value of pensions and savings. A broad program now helps to bring good homes within the reach of the great majority of our people.

With the states, we are providing rehabilitation facilities and more clinics, hospitals, and nursing homes for patients with chronic illnesses. Also with the states, we have begun a great and fruitful expansion in the restoration of disabled persons to employment and useful lives. In the areas of federal responsibility, we have made historic progress in eliminating from among our people demeaning practices based on race or color.

All of us may be proud of these achievements during the past two years. Yet essential federal tasks remain to be done.

70,000 More Housing Units in 2 Years

As part of our efforts to provide decent, safe and sanitary housing for low-income families, we must carry forward the housing program authorized during the 83rd Congress. We must also authorize contracts for a firm program of 33,000 additional public housing (Continued on Page 17 Col. 1)

'Suspect' -- Chapter 27

By Hugh Lawrence Nelson

Miss Wister was silent for a moment, arranging her thoughts. "Yet, now, knowing what I do, I can't help but believe she had been suspected of something which made her suspect her true parentage. Certainly I know for a fact she never suspected it before. Angelica always trusted me, and I saw quite a bit of her when she was married. Angelica was very much in love."

"So much in love she leaves her husband and comes back to the family? That doesn't make sense."

"Of course it does. Her husband was an engineer. They might have managed if he'd been sent to South America or somewhere right away. They couldn't, in Denver. Not in the very Carlson stronghold."

Jim began to understand. "You mean the Carlsons interfered with Mr. Jones' career?"

"One way of putting it," Miss Wister said grimly. "They were going out of their way to ruin him. Actually I don't think they had anything personal against Jones, except that Angelica had run away and married him. But Angelica was very sentimental and naive. The Carlsons broke up the marriage by showing her she was hurting her husband, that if she stayed with him he would be ruined."

"But why come back to the Carlsons?" he insisted.

"Where else could she go? She'd never made her own way and she didn't have the vaguest idea how to go about it. But actually, it was part of Angelica's bargain for the security of her husband's career that brought her back to the Carlsons."

Jim nodded slowly. He had a sudden hunch that the side of Angelica which would follow such a "romantic" course was very important. It would fit in perfectly with the secret hiding place. And it would very possibly change the nature of the thing or things secreted.

"She asked you to come clear up from Denver to help her get something hidden so close at hand?"

"Yes. And that isn't so strange as it sounds. Angelica told me about The Spires being readied for some overflow guests. She didn't mind that, of course, but she did pay a visit to the hiding place. And she was frightened away."

Jim nodded. "I guess I did that. The night Nancy and I arrived." Miss Wister shook her head. "Angelica told me what frightened her was that she was followed. You may have interrupted her."

but she was frightened by being followed."

"She say who followed her?"

"No. She just told me she wanted my help because she couldn't go back to The Spires the way she had been doing. Someone was watching. And she had to clear out the hiding place without any further delay. You see, by then, by the time she phoned me for help, she knew who was staying at The Spires. She was afraid Mrs. Kilt would open the hiding place. Because Peter knew of it, and Angelica was afraid he would have told Kilt. She said she didn't dare take a chance on waiting any longer."

"What exactly did she want you to do?" Jim demanded.

"She wanted a way to get from The Spires quickly. I told you she was afraid to use the path she always took. She wanted me and she wanted my car. Angelica never learned to drive."

"You actually drove Angelica to The Spires?"

3 Downtown Bus Stops Are Restored by City Lines

Restoration during the Christmas rush of three downtown bus stops discontinued a year ago has proved highly successful, according to E. W. Dresher, transportation superintendent for Pontiac City Lines, Inc.

"During the short period these stops have been restored, the public's use of them has been tremendous," Dresher said yesterday.

Thanks to the increase in business brought over the past weeks and a recent fare increase, Dresher said continually declining gross revenues have leveled off.

"Business has been up two or three per cent during the holiday season," he said.

"We're hoping it stays up, and we don't see any reason why it shouldn't. The factories are working full tilt and the schools are open again."

The three zones are at the following locations:

1. Huron street at Wayne street (in front of the Riker Building).
2. Saginaw street, between Huron and Mt. Clemens streets (for north-bound buses).
3. Saginaw street immediately south of Pike street (for south-bound buses).

"The restoring of the stops is another step toward providing

"Yes. I cut off my lights and coasted down that winding road. I parked there at the wide place. You know, where that creek comes out of the hole in the cliff?"

"Lion's Head. Yes, I know." "I parked there and Angelica went down to The Spires alone. I walked back part way up the hill, keeping a lookout as I promised I would. I had a whistle I was to blow if anyone came."

Dunn believed now he knew another reason for her hesitance about talking. She was intensely loyal, would hate to divulge any information detrimental to a client.

"I waited and waited. I heard motors of cars going past on the plateau. I could see just a little, but it was a deceptive light, the light of false dawn I guess. Finally I went down to the basement. I—felt—knew something was wrong. I had my little flashlight. I found Angelica. She was dead. I got her out from under the elevator which was—crushing down on her, but she was dead."

"You told Mrs. Oswald?" "I told her how I found the body, that I'd moved it. I didn't tell her the rest. I had to tell you first. You see there was a heavy piece of pitch lying there. A heavy pitch chunk. It had blood on it, and some of Angelica's hair was caught in the sticky resin. I knew it had killed her. You saw her head?"

"Yes. But I didn't find the pitch chunk. I looked around."

"Did you look in the furnace?"

"No."

"That's where I threw it. Don't ask me why, but I was getting panicky. The furnace was warm. I remember that. The piece of pitch might have burned up."

Jim was careful to keep any opinion from showing on his face.

"Did Angelica tell you what it was she wanted to get at The Spires? What it was that was so important?"

"Yes," Miss Wister said. "She told me. It was her doll."

Leather-Lunged Yell Brings 30 to Rescue

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — When a thief snatched the purse of Mrs. Gilberte J. Bonner, a young Frenchwoman, she yelled.

Responding were a police lieutenant, two cars of plain-clothesmen, two cars of uniformed police, a taxicab driver, a map from a grocery store and a car full of sailors—some 30 men. The thief was caught.

"Lady yo ureall can yell," the taxi driver said at the police station.

units in each of the next two fiscal years. This program will meet the most pressing obligations of the federal government into the 1958 fiscal year for planning and building public housing.

By that time the private building industry, aided by the housing act of 1944, will have had the opportunity to assume its full role in providing adequate housing for our low-income families.

The health of our people is one of our most precious assets. Preventable sickness should be prevented; knowledge available to combat disease and disability should be fully used. Otherwise, we as a people are guilty not only of neglect of human suffering but also of wasting our national strength.

Constant advances in medical care are not available to enough of our citizens. Clearly our nation must do more to reduce the impact of accident and disease. Two fundamental problems confront us: first, high and ever-rising costs of health services; second, serious gaps and shortages in these services.

Move to Strengthen Health Services

By special message on Jan. 24 I shall propose a coordinated program to strengthen and improve existing health services. This program will continue to reject socialized medicine. It will emphasize individual and local responsibility. Under it the federal government will neither dominate nor direct, but serve as a helpful partner. Within this framework, the program can be broad in scope.

My recommendations will include a federal health reinsurance service to encourage the development of more and better voluntary health insurance coverage by private organizations. I shall also recommend measures to improve the medical care of that group of our citizens who, because of need, receive federal-state public assistance.

These two proposals will help more of our people to meet the costs of health services.

To reduce the gaps in these services, I shall propose:

New measures to facilitate construction of needed health facilities and help reduce shortages of trained health personnel;

Vigorous steps to combat the misery and national loss involved in mental illness;

Improved services for crippled children and for maternal and child health;

Better consumer protection under our existing pure food and drug laws; and, finally,

Strengthened programs to combat the increasingly serious pollution of our rivers and streams and the growing problem of air pollution.

These measures together constitute a comprehensive program holding rich promise for better health for all of our people.

Last year's expansion of social security coverage and our new program of improved medical care for public assistance recipients together suggest modification of the formula for federal sharing in old age assistance payments. I recommend modification of the formula where such payments will, in the future, supplement benefits received under the old age and survivors insurance system.

Right to Know Belongs to All

It is the inalienable right of every person, from childhood on, to have access to knowledge. In our form of society, this right of the individual takes on a special meaning, for the education of all our citizens is imperative to the maintenance and invigoration of America's free institutions.

Today, we face grave educational problems. Effective and up-to-date analyses of these problems and their solutions are being carried forward through the individual state conferences and the White House Conference to be completed this year.

However, such factors as population growth, additional responsibilities of schools, and increased and longer school attendance have produced an unprecedented classroom shortage. This shortage is of immediate concern to all of our people. Positive, affirmative action must be taken now.

Without impairing in any way the responsibilities of our states, localities, communities, or families, the federal government can and should serve as an effective agent in dealing with this problem. I shall forward a special message to the Congress on Feb. 15, presenting an affirmative program dealing with this shortage.

To help the states do a better and more timely job, we must strengthen their resources for preventing and dealing with juvenile delinquency. I shall propose federal legislation to assist the states to promote concerted action in dealing with this nationwide problem.

I shall also carry forward the vigorous efforts of the administration to improve the international control of the traffic in narcotics and, in cooperation with state and local agencies, to combat narcotic addiction in our country.

I should like to speak now of additional matters of importance to all our people and especially to our wage earners.

During the past year certain industrial changes, readjustments, and other difficulties have brought unusual problems to various in-calities and industries. These problems are engaging our most earnest attention. But for the overwhelming majority of our working people, the past year has meant good jobs.

Moreover, the earnings and savings of our wage earners are no longer depreciating in value. Because of cooperative relations between labor and management, fewer working days were lost through strikes in 1952 than in any year in the past decade.

The outlook for our wage earners can be made still more promising by several legislative actions.

First, in the past five years we have had economic growth which will support an increase in the federal minimum wage. In the light of present economic conditions, I recommend its increase to 90 cents an hour. I also recommend that many others, at present excluded, be given the protection of a minimum wage.

Second, I renew my recommendation of last year for amendment of the Labor Management Relations Act of 1947 to further the basic objectives of this statute.

I especially call to the attention of the Congress amendments dealing with the right of economic strikers to vote in representation elections and the need for equalizing the obligation under the act to file disclaimers of Communist affiliation.

Third, the administration will propose other important measures including occupational safety, workmen's compensation for longshoremen and harbor workers, and the "eight hour laws" applicable to federal contractors. Legislation will also be proposed respecting non-occupational disability insurance and unemployment compensation in the District of Columbia.

To Ask Pay Boosts for Federal Workers

In considering human needs, the federal government must take special responsibility for citizens in its direct employ. On Jan. 11 I shall propose a pay adjustment plan for civilian employees outside the postal service to correct inequities and increase individual pay rates.

I also shall recommend voluntary health insurance on a contributory basis for federal employees and their dependents.

In keeping with the group life insurance act passed in the 83rd Congress, this protection should be provided on the group insurance principle and purchased from private facilities.

Also on Jan. 11 I shall recommend a modern pay plan including pay increases for postal field employees as part of this program, and to carry forward our progress toward elimination of the large annual postal deficit. I shall renew my request for an increase in postal rates.

Again I urge that in the future the fixing rates be delegated to an impartial, independent body.

More adequate training programs to equip career employees of the government to render improved public service will be recommended, as will improvements in the laws affecting employees serving on foreign assignments.

Needed improvements in survivor, disability, and retirement benefits for federal civilian and military personnel have been extensively considered by the committee on retirement policy for federal personnel. The committee's proposals would strengthen and improve benefits for our career people in government, and I endorse their broad objectives.

Full contributory coverage under old-age and survivors' insurance should be made available to all federal personnel, just as in private industry.

For career military personnel, the protection of the old-age survivors' insurance system would be an important and long-needed addition, especially to their present unequal and inadequate survivorship protection. The military retirement pay system should remain separate and unchanged. Certain adjustments in the present civilian personnel retirement systems will be needed to reflect the additional protection of old-age and survivors' insurance. However, these systems also are a basic part of a total compensation and should be separately and independently retained.

Says Congressmen Deserve Pay Hike

I also urge the Congress to approve a long overdue increase in the salaries of members of the Congress and of the federal judiciary to a level commensurate with their heavy responsibilities.

Our concern for the individual in our country requires that we consider several additional problems.

We must continue our program to help our Indian citizens improve their lot and make their full contribution to national life.

Two years ago I advised the Congress of injustices under existing immigration laws. Through humane administration, the Department of Justice is doing what it legally can to alleviate hardships. Clearance of aliens before arrival has been initiated, and except for criminal offenders, the imprisonment of aliens awaiting admission or deportation has been stopped. Certain provisions of law, however, have the effect of compelling action in respect to aliens which are inequitable in some instances and discriminatory in others. These provisions should be corrected in this session of the Congress.

As the complex problems of Alaska are resolved, that territory should expect to achieve statehood. In the meantime, there is no justification for deferring the admission to statehood of Hawaii. I again urge approval of this measure.

Would Reduce Age for Voting

We have three splendid opportunities to demonstrate the strength of our belief in the right of suffrage. First, I again urge that a constitutional amendment be submitted to the states to reduce the voting age for federal elections. Second, I renew my request that the principal of self-government be extended and the right of suffrage granted to the citizens of the District of Columbia. Third, I again recommend that we work with the states to preserve the voting rights of citizens in the nation's service overseas.

In our determination to keep faith with those who in the past have met the highest call of citizenship, we now have under study the system of benefits for veterans and for surviving dependents of deceased veterans and service-men. Studies will be undertaken to determine the need for measures to ease the readjustment to civilian life of men required to enter the armed forces for two years of service.

In the advancement of the various activities which will make our civilization endure and flourish, the federal government should do more to give official recognition to the importance of the arts and other cultural activities. I shall recommend the establishment of a federal advisory commission on the arts within the department of health, education and welfare, to advise the federal government on ways to encourage artistic endeavor and appreciation. I shall also propose that awards of merit be established whereby we can honor our fellow citizens who make great contribution to the advancement of our civilization.

Every citizen rightly expects efficient and economical administration of these many government programs I have outlined today.

I strongly recommend extension of the organization act and the law establishing the commission on intergovernmental relations, both of which expire this spring.

Thus the Congress will assure continuation of the excellent progress recently made in improving government organization and administration.

In this connection we are looking forward with great interest to the reports which will soon be going to the Congress from the commission on organization of the executive branch of the government. I am sure that these studies, made under the chairmanship of former President Herbert Hoover with the assistance of more than 200 distinguished citizens, will be of great value in paving the way toward more efficiency and economy in the government.

And now, I return to the point at which I began—the faith of our people.

The many programs here summarized are, I believe, in full keeping with their needs, interests and aspirations. The obligations upon us are clear:

To labor earnestly, patiently, prayerfully, for peace, for freedom, for justice, throughout the world;

To keep our economy vigorous and free, that our people may lead fuller, happier lives;

To advance, not merely by our words but by our acts, the determination of our government that every citizen shall have opportunity to develop to his fullest capacity.

As we do these things, before us is a future filled with opportunity and hope. That future will be ours if in our time we keep alive the patience, the courage, the confidence in tomorrow, the deep faith, of the millions who, in years past, made and preserved us this nation.

A decade ago, in the death and desolation of European battlefields, I saw the courage and resolution, I felt the inspiration, of American youth. In these young men, I felt America's buoyant confidence and irresistible will-to-do. In them I saw, too, a devout America, humble before God.

And so, I know with all my heart—and I deeply believe that all Americans know—that, despite the anxieties of this divided world, our faith, and the cause in which we all believe, will surely prevail.

Every citizen knows that the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor holds a torch in her upraised right hand. But not many know what her left hand holds—the Declaration of Independence—or what lies at her feet—the broken chains of tyranny.

Of the 85,000 kinds of insects common to the United States, about 10,000 are generally harmful to man.

Mrs. Whipple Rites Saturday

Was Plymouth Mayor Three Terms; Fighter for Women's Rights

Funeral service for Mrs. Ruth E. Huston Whipple, long time champion of women's rights and civic reforms, and three times mayor of Plymouth, will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. Whipple died Tuesday in Henry Ford Hospital at the age of 59 after suffering a stroke.

After many years as a popular but controversial public figure, she was forced to give up many of her activities in 1950 because of failing health.

A lifelong Plymouth resident, she was an alumnae of Mt. Holyoke College, Hadley, Mass., and the University of Michigan.

She took a master's degree in public speaking at U. of M. in 1925, the year she was married.

Mrs. Whipple began her career in public office when she was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Plymouth city commission in 1932, after failing in bids for school board and commission posts.

When first elected mayor in 1940, she was the only woman holding that office in the state, and only the third ever to be elected mayor of a Michigan city.

The acknowledged leader of the out-county faction, she held several important committee posts in her six and one-half years on the Wayne board of supervisors, and in 1949 led a fight against parimutuel betting in Michigan.

She is survived by her husband, Austin; two sons, Edson and Elmer H.; her father, Edson O., and a brother, Oscar.

Pushy Customer Robs Ohio Grocery of $492

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP)—A gunman who couldn't wait his turn to get to a cash register last night robbed a supermarket of $492.

Police said he walked to the head of a long line of shoppers with a can of coffee in one hand and a pistol in the other.

Judy Bryan, 19, cashier, said he told her, "Keep still and you won't get hurt."

After scooping bills and change from two registers, the man walked out with many customers unaware of the robbery.

Candy Machine Bites Hand That Feeds It

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Lynn Pruitt, 6, put her nickel in the candy machine at the movie yesterday but no candy came out. She put her hand in the little door. Her hand didn't come out either. Her father, Charles Pruitt, banged on the machine. The usherette banged on it. So did the manager. So did the fire department when called upon. Finally they took the side off the machine and freed Lynn's hand. The machine turned out to be empty, but the manager found two candy bars elsewhere for Lynn for being a brave girl.

Philippines to Urge Asian Trade Co-op

MANILA (AP) — Vice President Carlos P. Garcia said last night the Philippines would urge Manila Pact nations to establish an Asian economic cooperation union to promote regional trade. "It would also strengthen the resistance of member nations against Communist aggression," said Garcia, who also is foreign secretary. He said the plan would include a currency system, similar to the Lady Ashley Adds Prince to Collection of Husbands

By MARGARET LATROBE

"Who is Sylvia?"

Well, as of now, Sylvia is Princess Djordjadze. For the former Lady Ashley, blonde beautiful femme fatale Sylvia, has added the fifth link to a chain of circumstances by wedding Prince Dmitri Djordjadze, who works at a Manhattan hotel.

The eventual number of links in Miss Sylvia's marital slave bracelet is her business. As befits the fifth run-through of the rice and old shoe routine, at least there was no nonsense to the effect that—"This is forever, darling," as is customary from much-marrieds of the Hollywood persuasion.

Now and then, a lady with the will to live and wed dangerously may acquire one titled breadwinner, but only one. King, ex-king, prince, duke, marquis, earl or viscount. Even a lowly baron isn't to be sneezed at by the altar-bound.

While most girls would be content with just one of such an august number—not Miss Sylvia. In her marriages, she has tried to make a wedding tour right through the peerage.

As an oil man recently said—"In the oil business, the path to the executive jobs of our biggest companies leads through Venezuela's fields." So, too, has the London stage been the stepping stone toward a titled marriage for many an actress. Bea Lillie and Adele Astaire found it so. Gertrude Lawrence and Tallulah Bankhead each had lords of the realm clamoring for their hands in wedlock.

Princess Sylvia, after a turn or two before London footlights, married Lord Ashley. From this unhappy beginning her adventures began attracting world spotlights and headlines when she wed a knight of silent flickers, Douglas Fairbanks, Sr. Then came Baron Stanley of Alderley and the King of Hollywood, Clark Gable.

Who is Sylvia? Although she clung insistently to the title "Lady Ashley" during frequent interims of single blessedness, I guess that Sylvia is definitely Princess Ashley Fairbanks Stanley Gable Djordjadze. And if you find this suggestion confusing, run out and consult a pronouncing dictionary for "Djordjadze" while there is still time.

Meanwhile, congratulations and best wishes to the newlyweds. Let's hope for a smooth matrimonial sea and a good rice crop. You can't ever tell when another handful will be needed.

Pupils to Attend Music Parley

Local Schools Will Send Delegates to Ann Arbor Conference

Pontiac High School and other Pontiac schools will be represented this weekend, Friday and Saturday at the Midwest Music Conference at Ann Arbor. The conference is sponsored by the University of Michigan, the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association and the Michigan School Vocal Association.

In the All-State High School band to play in the program, Pontiac High will be represented by Harold Jones, Joel Thorne, James Erwin, Kurt Lauckner and Roland Williams.

Those from Pontiac High A Cappella choir, to sing in the All-State Chorus concert on Saturday, will be Greta Phipps, Jackie Spratt, Raymond Freebury, James Stevens and Philip Twitchel.

George H. Putnam, supervisor of secondary musical at Pontiac High School, and representing the Michigan School Vocal Association, will be a panelist in a program discussion on "Revision of the Michigan Certification Code."

Dale C. Harris, Pontiac supervisor of Instrumental Music, will attend the conference each day.

Also attending will be Fred N. Weist, president of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association, and teacher of instrumental music in Pontiac schools. Other teachers from local schools will attend, representing both the instrumental and vocal music departments.

Youth's Inventions Frighten Mother

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Mrs. H. J. Griffiths says her 14-year-old son, Arvon, has been a practicing scientist since he was three. As a toddling infant he used to beg for soap powder, starch and cooking ingredients to "make chemistry."

Arvon's room looks like the home base for a rocket flight to Mars or the moon. There's a short wave radio, an electric tic-tac-toe, a photo laboratory, parlor, magic equipment, telegraph equipment, a public address system linking upper and lower floors of the house, and lights go on automatically when the door is open. Some of it frightens Mrs. Griffiths—like a small box with parallel upright antenna wires which give off weird, dancing lightning flashes when a switch is flipped.

One gadget mother Griffiths likes very much. Arvon rigged up a recording microphone outside an upper window and his mother hears birds broadcast as she works downstairs.

"I have the most beautiful music in the mornings," she says.

What a Catastrophe!

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Here's a thief that wasn't so smart. He passed up a camera to snatch a wrapped package from a parked car. The package contained several diapers—all soiled.

TO REIGN AT FUND BALL—Luane Warren, 19, poses with her scepter after being selected VFW Queen in New York, to become what will undoubtedly be a long line of beauty queens for '55. Chosen by members of the N. Y. County Council VFW, she'll reign over 33rd annual VFW Rehabilitation Fund Ball Jan. 7.

Water Wings Are Handy for Golfing on Wake Island

WAKE ISLAND—A brand new golf course which sets a world's record for sand traps and water hazards has just been opened on this mid-Pacific atoll 4,655 miles west of San Francisco.

It's the "Wake Island Low Tide Country Club," Capt. Hugh Gordon, president. At present it consists of nine holes, and Gordon, a veteran commander of Pan America's trans-Pacific clippers recommends that all players check tide tables before teeing off—in view of the fact that at high tide the course is under three feet of water.

The course is laid out on the sand of the Wake Island lagoon's tidal flats—and so smooth that when the tide retreats, the "greens" seldom need rolling. Cups are constructed of tile drain pipe and Gordon reports that one of the strangest sights on record are the flags waving merrily over nothing but water when the tide is in.

Even odder is the fact that when the tide moves in, so do the fishermen. The lagoon teems with bonefish and at high tide the island's anglers start casting right over the golf course.

The Low Tide Country Club was organized primarily for residents of Wake-Pan American station personnel and clipper crews laying over between flights. Civil Aeronautics Administration staff members, Standard Oil Co. employees and United States Coast Guardsmen. But the course is open to air passengers, too. The membership, including "greens" fee, is two dollars.

Seattle Newsman Still on Job After 65 Years

SEATTLE (AP)—Harry O. Kelso's co-workers on the Seattle Times think the veteran newsman should be ready to claim some kind of a record. He has completed 65 years of continuous work on daily newspapers—all in the state of Washington.

In a business famed for its ulcers, the 82-year-old is still going strong. He got his first newspaper job in 1889, as a teenager at Walla Walla, to help a German editor who had a hard time with such spelling as "goot" and "bat." He thought Kelso was "goot" enough to merit $2.50 a week.

UM Hospital Trains Gigantic Atom Gun on Man's Most Deadly Enemy—Cancer

ANN ARBOR (AP)—They loaded the big gun last night and drew a bead on man's most deadly enemy—cancer.

Technicians and doctors at the University Hospital of the University of Michigan watched anxiously as the big lead box lifted into position.

Then, with a small metal ramrod, the charge was shoved home. In this case, the charge, the size of a cigar butt and less than an inch long, was radioactive cobalt 60, and costs $25,000.

Canadian atomic energy specialists came to Ann Arbor to load the gigantic, complex machine which is the gun firing the radioactive rays.

The machine, called a theratron, was built by the Canadian Atomic Energy Commission and costs $65,000. It looks like the handset of a telephone, held in the middle by a powerful motor which drives it around and around.

The cobalt itself was produced by the Atomic Energy Commission in Oak Ridge, Tenn. It took a week to get the cobalt, enclosed in a lead case, weighing 4,000 pounds to Ann Arbor.

Lodged in the section of the machine that would be the earphone of the telephone is the cobalt. The mouthpiece of the giant telephone is a two-ton lead block.

Between these two giant arms, the patient lies on a bed. The path of the radioactive rays is followed by a beam of light that forms two cross hairs, like the sights of a gun, when they hit the patient.

This way doctors can set the patient so the radioactive rays hit the cancerous or diseased portion of his body.

The purpose of the rotating arm is to allow the radioactive rays to hit the diseased portion of the patient from all angles, thus increasing the radioactivity that the diseased section gets, without increasing the radioactive blow to healthy portions.

The machine is in a large room, like a brightly lit dungeon, radioactive-proof with its concrete and steel walls, and lead door.

Doctors and technicians watched from outside, through a lead-glass window, six inches thick, and with the aid of an elaborate control panel.

From this panel they electrically control the position of the theratron, increase or decrease its speed. Two large dials show the position of the patient in relation to the circular path of the radioactive arm.

Doctors explain that the reason for the radioactive safeguards are for the people who must work with the machine day after day, not for the patient, who faces radioactivity for only three or four minutes a day, for four to six weeks.

The university expects to own another theratron this winter for another room, a twin to this one. Also expected are another shipment of cobalt and a shipment of radioactive cesium, sometime later.

The cesium, though weaker than cobalt, can be used longer. Cobalt has a half-life of about five and a half years. After that, dosage must be doubled.

Only six machines like the theratron are in operation in the United States. The addition of the other theratron could make University Hospital one of the centers for cancer treatment.

Swelling Lakes Worry Officials

State May Be Slated for Repetition of 1952's Destructive Floods

DETROIT (UP)—An unexpected rise in Great Lakes levels has U.S. Lake Survey officials worrying today about whether Michigan is in for a repeat performance of 1952's destructive shoreline floods.

A decline in lake levels, after all-time highs were reached in the summer of 1952, originally led the survey to believe the decline would continue at a steady rate, said Lt. Colonel Edward J. Gallagher, head of the survey's Michigan headquarters.

Gallagher said he had hoped the 1953 high waters would follow the previous high water pattern of 1952 when the swollen lakes reached a peak and then steadily declined to normal levels.

However, heavy rains last fall, especially during October, slowed the normal seasonal decline of the levels on all of the Great Lakes, except Lake Superior.

Lake levels have risen from one-half to three-fourths of a foot higher than normal so far this season than for the same period in 1953.

The absence of severe storms and ice jams has prevented this season's bulging lakes from doing severe damage.

But the heavy rains, which caused unprecedented flooding in the Chicago area last fall, have raised the levels of Lake Michigan, Huron, Erie and Ontario to a point almost equalling the high levels reached in the winter of 1951. It was during this season when serious damage occurred along the lake shores and led to severe floods in the summer of 1952.

Damage amounting to $61,252,000 was caused by the swollen lake waters from the spring of 1951 through the summer of 1952.

The wind-whipped waters smashed cottages and piers and destroyed large beach areas.

During that time, Lakes Erie and Huron reached new all-time high levels and Lakes Michigan and Huron set new modern highs. Survey records showed that these were the highest levels recorded for the lakes since 1832.

Winds were so strong that bulging Lake Erie was forced to flow backwards into the Detroit River, causing more damage.

Mrs. F.D.R. Meets Grandson on Plane

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt flew here yesterday from St. Louis and told of a chance meeting on the plane.

"I noticed this little boy a few seats ahead kept peering back at me," the former First Lady said. "I thought to myself he looked a lot like Rexie (Elliott Roosevelt's stepson)."

"Then he hesitated called back to me, 'Grandmother!'"

"Sure enough, it was Rexie. His mother and father had put him on a plane in New York Tuesday for Phoenix and he had been caught in the fog in St. Louis."

"We visited all the way to Kansas City."

Texan's 'Rare' Nickel Just Another Phony

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—B. F. Rimmer read in the Corpus Christi Caller of an expert coin collector visiting here with a 1913 liberty head nickel valued at more than $10,000.

Rimmer quickly called the newspaper, "I've one too!" he exclaimed.

Expert J. V. McDermott of South Milwaukee, Wis., convinced Rimmer the nickel was a phony. The date on many 1910 and 1913 liberty heads have been illegally altered to appear as 1913 coins.

Only five 1913 liberty head nickels were made and the whereabouts of each is known.

Geigers Move In

Texas Ranchers Seeking Law on Uranium Hunters

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Hold on there podner, the West isn't so wild any more.

The rustlers are fewer and less deadly. The diamondback rattlers are no great threat to honest cattlemen. And the coyotes are just pests.

But doggonit, podner, these fellows prowling 'round with those Geiger counters are enough to run a poor cattleman plumb loco, the ranchers say.

The prospectors hunting uranium cross the fences, dig in the pastures and roam over the ranches without saying a word to anybody.

And because of a law passed in 1919, the ranchers can't bother them about trespassing or intruding.

The Texas Legislature in 1919 gave landowners who had bought land from the state the right to lease land for oil and gas. The state wanted a one-sixteenth royalty. The landowner could get that much or more, just so long as the state received one sixteenth or half of any amount more than that.

But the 1919 Legislature hadn't heard about uranium and didn't worry about such minerals. Neither did the ranchers.

So the rights for minerals other than oil or gas belong to the state. A citizen can go hunting them.

Dad Turns Critic While Son's Away

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP)—When City Atty. Charles Baskins decided to go on a vacation he recommended his father Les Baskins for appointment as acting city attorney during his absence.

At a City Council meeting yesterday the elder Baskins looked over a proposed ordinance and commented, "This ordinance doesn't say what it ought, and might not have the effect intended."

The question of who wrote it arose and the reply was "Charles Baskins."

"Well, he needs some instruction then," father Baskins said as he prepared to redraft the proposal.

Choice Pork Low Priced in Food Stores This Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Housewives will find a choice selection of meats available at marked-down prices in their local food markets this weekend.

Pork loins and pork roast will be prominently featured and some stores will trim prices on pork chops by as much as six cents a pound. Selected markets will offer legs of lamb and lamb chops as special prices.

Frying chickens will be higher in most places, with advances of six cents a pound fairly common. But stewing chickens will be a favorite weekend special as meat men help producers cope with the huge supplies of these birds.

In most places, steaks and prime ribs will be higher than a week ago because wholesale beef prices are still strong. However, chuck roasts will be featured in a good many stores.

Laying flocks are expected to be three to four per cent larger this month than a year ago, so you should find eggs plentiful and quite reasonable in price.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, looking over the food situation this month, reports that there are heavy supplies of pork at reduced prices and that beef supplies will continue large. Heavy turkeys from cold storage also are abundant.

Supplies of halibut and haddock are large, says the U.S.D.A., and shrimp supplies continue to mount, with consumer prices down.

Favorites in the vegetable line this weekend will include nearby cabbage, potatoes, onions, and nearby root crops—turnips, beets, parsnips and carrots.

Limes and avocados are described by produce men as the best buys in fruits. Also mentioned: Nearby apples, emperor grapes and oranges and grapefruit.

Ford Unwraps 5 New Tractors

1955 Model Line Offers First Varied Selection in Firm's History

Ford Motor Co., bidding for a greater share of the farm machinery business, today introduced five new tractors in two power series.

Since the introduction of Henry Ford's "automobile plow" 50 years ago, the firm has produced only a single model tractor.

Henry Ford II, president, said the new line of tractors is "a major step in the company's farm machinery expansion program aimed at capturing a greater share of the $2,000,000,000 a year farm machinery business."

In August, 1953, Ford entered the full-line farm machinery field with a complete line of farm equipment ranging from plows and cultivators to combines, corn pickers, hay balers and other major implements.

All five new tractor models — three in the "600" series and two in the more powerful "800" series — go on display tomorrow in Ford tractor and implement dealerships in the U. S., Mexico, Cuba, Hawaii and Alaska.

Both models in the 800 series have five-speed transmissions and are powered by a 172-cubic inch engine, representing 30 per cent more power than that of the 600 series.

Standard equipment on all models includes sealed beam headlights and taillights, safety starter and a re-designed seat of foam rubber.

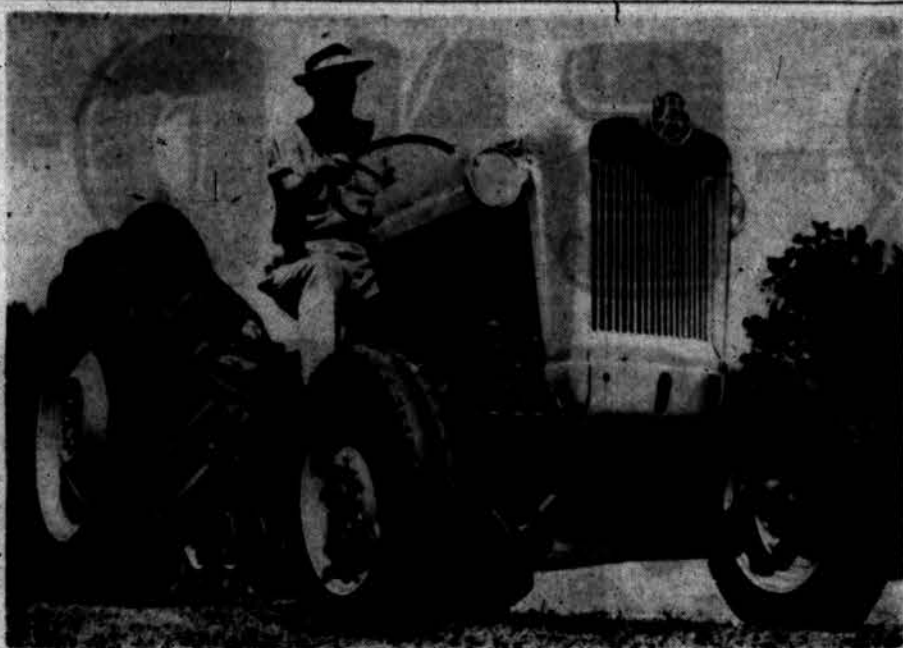

Pick Big Rapids Again to Take Current Census

BIG RAPIDS (UP)—Big Rapids again will be one of the 299 cities throughout the United States in which the U. S. Census Bureau will conduct a current population census during January.

Census officials said special questions, designed to provide information on the annual work experience of the nation's population, will be asked during the census which will start next Monday.

Tito Now in Burma

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Yugoslavia's President Tito arrived here today for an 11-day state visit to Burma. The first Western chief of state to pay an official call to this country, he was received by President Ba U, Premier U Nu and cheering crowds.

FOR HEAVY WORK—Ford Motor Company's new "800" series, full three-plow tractors, are designed for heavy work in all types of soil. Shown above is the 860 model, equipped with live power take-off. It and the 850 model both are powered by Ford's "Red Tiger" engine with power increased by 30 per cent, and both have five-speed transmissions as standard equipment.

Statesmen 'Confused'

A-Scientist Asks Leaders to Exercise 'Self Control'

WASHINGTON (INS)—A top atomic age is "self-control" by Netherlands scientist said today that the real problem of the world leaders who could order A-bombs, and H-bombs used against humanity.

The atomic scientist, Prof. J. M. W. Milatz, director of the physical institute at the University of Utrecht, said that the world's leading statesmen are so "confused" that "The bombs may be dropped before they even know it."

The A-scientist told the World Assembly for Moral Rearmament that such proposals for control of atomic and hydrogen weapons as the international atomic pool plan put forward by President Eisenhower are a step in the right direction, but, in themselves, do not go far enough.

He said: "This is not a scientific problem at all. What has to be done is to deal with human nature, with the will of those who influence questions of peace or war."

"So the first priority is not atomic energy, which is freed when the atom is split, but the first priority is the huge energy of our will, which is made free where moral rearmament unites." Milatz said that, in the final analysis, the only way to control the tremendous forces of destruction of the nuclear bombs is for the world statesmen to give up their bitterness, hatred and rivalries, and exercise self-control.

He said that he had eased his conscience for having helped produce the atomic bomb by telling himself that he had also contributed to the peaceful use of atomic energy.

But he said he now realizes, "We scientists are a group that has split the atom and we have to take the full responsibility for that."

"I came to the conclusion that although peaceful applications are very fine, with them alone the problem is not solved. Believing that was just appeasing my conscience. The very first problem is control of the bomb, control of peace, and peace cannot be attained by statesmen who are confused."

Hairstones as much as a pound in weight and three or four inches in diameter are sometimes formed.

Let Kids Brew Hot Milk Drinks

Snacktime Chocolate Is Spiced With Crushed Peppermint Candy

Nothing makes a youngster more popular than to have a readily accessible kitchen at home. Mothers, of course, have extra work to do sometimes when they let their children invite friends home after school for a snack, but in the long run, it is insurance for a more secure, well-adjusted son or daughter.

A simply prepared hot beverage is welcome during the cold months. When that hot beverage can be prepared by the young folks themselves, it tastes twice as good. Snacktime Chocolate is one that is easily prepared and because it is made with milk, it not only satisfies the taste but nourishes too. The children will love using the extra peppermint stick as a stirring utensil.

Keep the ingredients for such a snacktime beverage on hand, because nothing is better than milk for the schoolage crowd and when it is dressed up with exciting flavors, it makes a hit every time. Cookies are always a favorite to serve with this type of drink, but graham crackers and butter are popular too.

Snacktime Chocolate
1 1/2 cups crushed peppermint stick candy
2 squares chocolate
2 quarts milk
Pinch of salt
Melt crushed candy and chocolate in one-half cup of milk in top of double boiler. Add salt. Scald the remaining milk and add to chocolate mixture. Stir well. Serve hot. Garnish with a spoonful of whipped cream if desired. Serves eight.

Hot Spiced Milk
4 ounces shredded coconut
2 tablespoons butter
1 quart milk
Sugar to suit taste
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Melt butter in saucepan; add coconut, and cook over low heat, stirring constantly until coconut is golden brown. Add cinnamon and milk; scald over hot water and cook two to three minutes. Strain and serve piping hot. Sweeten to suit individual taste. Coconut may be left out if desired. Serves six.

If your two-crust pie is soggy, it may be that you did not make enough steam vents in the pastry before baking.

SNACKTIME CHOCOLATE—Let the children come home from school and make their own snacks. If you have plenty of milk on hand, chocolate for flavor, peppermint candy for spice, you'll have an unbeatable combination. It's a good way to get that extra glass of milk down.

History of Crescent Rolls Dates Back to Old Vienna

Many of our common foods have a romantic history. For instance, crescent-shaped rolls were designed to celebrate Austria's victory over the Turks more than 10 generations ago.

History tells us that Peter Windletter's bakers were working late at night in beleaguered Vienna when they heard sounds which made them think the Turks were digging under the city walls. They sounded the alarm, saved the city, and Peter became a hero.

To commemorate the victory, Peter shaped his rolls in the Moslem emblem, a half moon crescent, with all Viennese gulped down as a sign of patriotism. Today's bakers not only use the many outward shapes created over the centuries, but they use numerous more healthful protein ingredients such as soy flour which were unknown to Europe of Peter Windletter's days.

Soy flour is particularly valuable for its high protein, states the Soya Food Research Council of Washington, D. C. It runs between 40 and 50 per cent protein. Proteins provide the building blocks

Food News Is Good for Homemakers in 1955

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor
Hello there! After all the rush of the holidays (which included a week away from the office for me), it's good to settle down to more peaceful living for a while. I'd like to tell you about a few food ideas I've come across more or less recently.

Two new food products, which no doubt you have seen in the stores, are prepared pineapple filling for pies and a mix to make frosting of the seven-minute type. The pineapple mixture may also be used for cake filling or pudding sauce. The frosting can be made in any number of variations; we had chocolate.

On my desk this morning I found an interesting new food product, another in the long series of quick mixes. This one is for an Angel Pie and contains both the makings of the graham cracker crust and the gelatin filling. It sounds simple and good and I'm anxious to try it. I'll report more about it after the family has sampled it.

Have you seen the latest flavor in gelatin? It's apple, made by the most famous of gelatin manufacturers. It should be delicious for salads.

We all know that taste is partly smell and both affect our reactions to food. But have you ever stopped to think how much color means in liking or disliking food? Government experts have found that the most popular color is the yellow-gold found in canned peaches, apricots and pineapples as well as in oranges. The most unpopular color is brown. Perhaps, says one expert, that explains the unpopularity of prunes. Another cheery food color is green; and in the trade green and white is what's called an appetite teaser. Think of these things when planning menus.

You homemakers need not worry about any meat shortages developing in the coming year. Those in the industry say that half a million pounds more than the high reached in 1954 will be produced in 1955. There will be more pork during the next few months which should mean lower prices. I'm sure you're using the instant dry milk these days. But have you wondered if your old recipes for dry milk can be used with this improved product? Test kitchen home economists reassure us on that point. Any recipe you already have may be used. One advantage of the newer form is that it whips just a bit faster than the old-fashioned type. That's good news. It's exciting to be a homemaker these days. Do you ever stop to think how many millions of people are working to make our job easier and pleasanter? True, they're also trying to sell us their favorite products, but we benefit by it all. I think you should take advantage of every labor-saving method of preparing food that you can afford and that appeals to you. All I ask is that you give your family — and yourself — a nutritious, well-balanced diet. That is a most rewarding job.

Pair Celery, Tomatoes

Dice the coarse outer stalks of celery and cook them in a little salted water until just tender-crisp. Team with a can of stewed tomatoes for a delicious and quickly-prepared vegetable to serve with meat, fish or eggs.

Glazed Fruits Perch Atop Pie

'Tis a beauty to behold, but even more important is the wonderful flavor of Glazed Fruit Caramel Pie — a double feature that can't miss being a success. You have the answer to "What can I serve as dessert, easy to make, yet elegant?"

A speedy crumb crust, packaged pie filling mix and canned fruit give easy preparation. Either fruits for salad or fruit cocktail may be used as the topping, with an easy glaze made by thickening some of the fruit syrup.

Glazed Fruit Caramel Pie
1 package buttertough pie filling mix
1 3-inch graham cracker crumb crust
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 can or jar (16 ounces) fruit for salad, or fruit cocktail
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Prepare pudding according to package directions and put into crumb crust; cool. Combine cornstarch with one-half cup syrup drained from fruits and lemon juice. Cook until thickened and clear, stirring constantly. Arrange drained fruits on top of filling. Pour glaze over fruits. Chill before serving. Makes one deep 9-inch pie.

Chocolate Pie It's So Light Is Heavenly

Something heavenly, of course, must be the dessert. So why not Chocolate Walnut Angel Pie? It's as light as an angel's wings — and will make everyone sigh in bliss.

Chocolate Walnut Angel Pie

2 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup sifted sugar
1 cup finely chopped walnuts
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 teaspoons gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
2 squares (2 ounces) unsweetened chocolate
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Put egg whites, salt, and cream of tartar in mixing bowl. Beat until foamy throughout. Add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition until sugar is blended. Then continue beating until mixture will stand in very stiff peaks. Fold in walnuts and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Spoon into lightly greased 8-inch pie pan and make a nest-like shell, building sides up 1/2 inch above edge of pan. Bake in 300 degree oven 50 to 55 minutes. Cool. Soften gelatin in cold water. Heat chocolate and milk in double boiler.

When chocolate is melted, beat with eggbeater until blended. Add softened gelatin, sugar and salt; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in vanilla and whipped cream. Pour into cooled meringue shell. Chill until firm (about 2 hours). Top with extra chopped walnuts.

Note to weight-watchers: A cup of whipped evaporated milk contains one-quarter as many calories as 1 cup whipped heavy cream.

CHERRY DESSERT FOLDOVERS—Canned Bing cherries are used in flaky foldover biscuits, also in the rich red sauce. Canned sweet cherries are a versatile food that you will use often this year. Start out by serving this for dessert on a cold winter's night.

Win His Highest Praise With Cherry Foldovers

Since there's not a man alive who doesn't like pastry, these cherry foldovers are bound to be doubly potent. The sweet juiciness of the cherries, combined with tender, flaky crust is a sure winner.

Allow for seconds all round, because these are real taste-tempters. No need for you to mention how quickly and easily you stirred these foldovers up. Keep mum and let him think you spent hours over them just for him!

Four Jiffy Sauces Vary Cheese Puff

Here's a crusty, tasty casserole that's nourishing and inexpensive, and can be varied with any one of four sauces to suit your fancy! And these sauces do not involve a page of ingredients and instructions beginning ominously, "Make a roux..."

Cherry Dessert Foldovers
1 No. 2 can Bing cherries
2 cups biscuit mix
1/4 to 1/2 cup milk
1 tablespoon melted butter
Drain cherries well and pit. Save juice to thicken for sauce. Add milk to biscuit mix to form a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently four or five times.
Roll out into rectangle about 16 inches square. Cut dough into eight small rectangles, approximately 2 1/2 x 5 inches long. Brush with melted butter.
Place three or four cherries on one-half of each strip. Fold other end of strip over fruit. Press edges together with fork tines.
Bake on greased cookie sheet at 425 degrees for 15 to 18 minutes. Serve hot or cold with fruit sauce made from juice and remaining cherries in can.

Cherry Sauce
1 cup cherry juice
1/4 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
Mix cornstarch thoroughly with sugar. Combine with cold cherry juice. Add lemon juice. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Add 1 teaspoon red food coloring, if desired.
Put remaining cherries in syrup and heat through. Serve over Cherry Dessert Foldovers. Makes eight.

Cheese and Egg Puff
8 slices enriched yeast-raised bread
8 hard-boiled eggs, sliced
8 slices American cheese
1 can condensed cream of celery soup
1 cup milk
1 egg, beaten
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire
Remove crusts from bread. In a greased 2-quart casserole, alternate layers of bread, eggs and cheese, using half of each ingredient for each layer. The top layer of cheese should be cut into strips and placed on lattice-fashion. Combine soup with remaining ingredients; pour over layers in casserole. Let stand for one hour. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Makes four servings.

Dish Combines Chili and Stuffed Franks

Chili and franks are an excellent combination that give the home-maker a rest from full-scale cooking and provide the family with a tasty, nourishing one-dish meal that will bring the call for second helpings.

Chili and Stuffed Franks
1/2 pound spaghetti, cooked
2 tablespoons chili con carne
1 pound franks, split
1 cup pickle relish
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1 cup grated cheddar cheese (4-ounces)
Arrange spaghetti and chili con carne in layers in a 2-quart shallow baking dish. Fill franks with a mixture of pickle relish and onion. Arrange franks on top of chili con carne. Top with cheese.
Bake at 375 (moderate) about 20 minutes or until cheese is melted and mixture is hot throughout. This recipe provides six servings.

Easy Sunday Supper
Sunday night supper is easy and fun if you have a pitcher of waffle batter ready, maple syrup and crisply cooked bacon on hand. Serve coffee or tea with the waffles and bring on a big bowl of fresh fruit, figs, dates and nuts for dessert.

No place in 1224-acre Mount Mitchell state park, North Carolina, is less than a mile above sea level. California grows about 90 per cent of the U. S. grape crop.

If you're a fortunate owner of a freezer, bear in mind that ice cream bought by the gallon is less expensive than ice cream purchased in separate quart containers.

Pie Combines Pork and Yams

There's a pork cut to fit every budget. One thrifty cut which can be made into a variety of appealing dishes is pork shoulder.

Diced pork shoulder is used in this novel meat pie—pork and sweet potato pie. Apples and spices give it subtle flavor.

Pork and Sweet Potato Pie
3 pounds pork shoulder
3 medium onions
Salt, pepper, brown sugar, nutmeg,
1 can sliced apples
3 tablespoons cornstarch
3 cups mashed, cooked sweet potatoes
Butter or margarine

Trim fat from pork and fry out in a skillet; remove solid pieces. Cut pork into 1-inch cubes and brown with sliced onions in the hot fat. Drain off excess fat. Dissolve bouillon cubes in 1½ cups hot water and add to meat.

Sprinkle with 1½ teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-fourth cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon nutmeg and one-half teaspoon cinnamon. Cover and cook over low heat until meat is nearly tender, about 1½ hours.

Add undrained apples, reserving fat; wedges for top of casserole. Cover and continue cooking over low heat until meat is tender, about 30 minutes. Spoon off any excess fat and thicken mixture with cornstarch which has been mixed to a paste with 3 tablespoons cold water.

Pour into a 2-quart casserole. Season sweet potatoes with one-half teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper, 3 tablespoons brown sugar and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; spoon in ring around edge of casserole. Garnish center of casserole with reserved apple wedges. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees until potatoes are lightly browned, about 30 minutes. Six servings.

Garnish Fruit Salads With Mock Mayonnaise

A mock mayonnaise for fruit salads is easy to prepare this way. Put into a pint jar two-thirds cup sweetened condensed milk, one-fourth cup lemon juice, one-fourth cup salad oil, 1 egg yolk, one-half teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne and 1 teaspoon dry mustard. Cover tightly and shake vigorously until smoothly blended. If thicker consistency is desired, chill for an hour before serving.

PORK AND SWEET POTATO PIE—Meat pie lovers will be delighted with this novel pork and sweet potato pie. Cubes of pork are simmered to tenderness in a spicy liquid; canned apples add interesting flavor. A crown of mashed sweet potatoes and a quick oven baking bring the pie to the table bubbly hot and tempting.

Beef, Mushrooms Blended in Sauce

Here's a saucy meat dish that tastes good.

Quick Beef and Mushrooms

1 small onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ pound ground beef chuck
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon celery salt
1 ½ ounces can broiled whole mushroom crowns
Milk
Pepper
Buttered toast
Paprika

Peel onion and quarter; slice into thin strips. Melt butter in skillet (about 8-inch size); add onion; cook over low heat, stirring several times, until onion is wilted and yellowed—about three minutes.

Add beef and mash with long-handled fork over moderate heat until meat loses its red color. Sprinkle with flour, salt and celery salt; mix well and remove from heat.

Drain liquid from mushroom can into a measure, add enough milk to mushroom liquid to make 1 cup. Halve mushrooms and add to skillet with milk and mushroom liquid. Cook and stir over low heat until bubbly and thickened; cook about five minutes longer, stirring a few times and adding pepper to taste.

Serve over crisp toast with a sprinkle of paprika. Makes two large or three small servings.

Team Franks, Fruit

Pineapple Frankfurter Sandwich
Bake: Slice 1 pound frankfurters in half lengthwise and place half of them rounded side down in a shallow baking pan. Spread prepared mustard lightly over surface. Then spread 1½ cups well-drained crushed pineapple over evenly. Top with remaining frankfurters, placing cut side down over pineapple. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 20 minutes.

Cold tangy buttermilk makes an excellent "pick-me-up" for between meals. It is refreshing and at the same time offers health-giving benefits.

Try Pineapple Toast

Using sandwich sliced bread, follow your favorite French toast recipe. Brown slices on both sides. Spread half of them with well-drained crushed pineapple, top with remaining slices. Continue cooking over low heat two or three minutes to allow pineapple to heat. Serve with butter and sugar.

To Add Sour Cream

When adding sour cream to sauces, remove food from direct heat, stir in sour cream, then re-heat to simmering. Your sauce will curdle if the sour cream is boiled.

Gaily printed calico makes charming placemats and napkins at little cost.

Jam Is Baked Inside Muffins

Remember A. A. Milne's poem "The King's Breakfast"? The royal household was in a turmoil—not a bit of butter in the royal kitchen for the royal slice of bread, so the king had marmalade instead. It would have been a simple matter had the king only known about marmalade muffins—he'd have ordered marmalade instead.

Marmalade muffins made the baking soda-vinegar way are a delectable treat for cold winter breakfasts or afternoon tea and snacks. Baking soda gives them a delicate texture, makes them tender and light.

And for a new twist, these muffins have marmalade—or jam if you prefer—baked right into them.

Marmalade Muffins
 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 egg, beaten
 1/2 cup finely grated lemon rind
 1/2 cup milk
 1/4 cup vinegar
 1/2 cup marmalade or jam
 1-2 cup jam, fruit jelly or marmalade

Sift together flour, baking soda, salt and sugar. Add egg, lemon rind, milk, vinegar and marmalade shortening to flour mixture all at once. Stir lightly and quickly with fork until just mixed.

Fill greased muffin pans one-third full. Place 1 teaspoon jam, fruit jelly or marmalade on top of each muffin. Add more batter to fill muffin pans no more than two-thirds full.

Bake at 375 (moderate oven) about 25 minutes. Makes 18 muffins.

Raisin Rice Pudding Luscious, Creamy

Put this pudding in your oven with a meat loaf.

Raisin Rice Pudding
 1 cup milk
 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 1/2 cup packed pre-cooked rice
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 cup vanilla
 1/2 cup raisins (washed in hot water and drained)

Put milk and butter in saucepan and heat until very hot. Mix with rice, sugar, salt, vanilla and raisins. Turn into buttered 1-quart baking dish.

Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven for 45 minutes; stir every 15 minutes, the third time after removing pudding from oven.

Cool and serve at room temperature. Sprinkle with nutmeg at serving time. Makes five servings.

Note: The pudding may be thin when first removed from oven but it will become creamier on standing because the rice will continue to absorb the milk as the pudding cools.

Cheese-Olive Sauce Tops Eggs 'n' Rice

A cheese and olive sauce gives flavor to poached eggs bedded in rice nests.

Rice With Cheese-Olive Sauce

1 cup rice
 1/2 cup butter
 1/2 cup flour
 1/2 cup milk
 1/2 cup grated cheese
 1/2 cup sliced stuffed olives
 1 poached egg

Cook the rice in rapidly boiling salted water until it is tender. Drain and rinse it.

Melt the butter, and blend in the flour, salt and pepper. Add milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly.

Remove from the heat, add cheese and olives, and stir until the cheese is melted.

Fix Cookies a la Mode

Top large, plain butter cookies with generous spoonfuls of ice cream. Place other cookies on the top of each and add more ice cream to the top. Serve plain, topped with nuts, chocolate shavings, or with hot chocolate sauce.

Meat, Potatoes Back in Fashion

Meat and potatoes are one of the most satisfying food combinations known, as well as one of the most nutritious.

There was a time when some folks turned up their noses at potatoes, but no more. Meat - and - potatoes meals have become fashionable again.

Scientists say that every meal ought to include protein, carbohydrate and fat. Our bodies need each of these Basic Three foods at each meal. Only when all are present can our bodies do the best job of making good use of each.

Because corned beef and potatoes alone are somewhat dry, add margarine. It gives a fine flavor and helps put that tempting golden color on the potato slices as they bake. Milk adds moistness and helps blend the flavors.

With this easy - to - prepare main dish, serve crisp radishes and celery, or a nippy, mustard-flavored green salad.

Corned Beef and Potato Bake

4 medium potatoes
 1/2 cup flour
 1/2 cup milk
 1/2 cup margarine
 1/2 cup shredded cooked corned beef
 1/2 cup milk

Wash, pare and slice potatoes. Arrange layer of sliced potatoes in bottom of margarine baking dish. Sprinkle lightly with flour, salt and pepper.

Dot with margarine. Cover with a layer of corned beef. Repeat, ending with layer of potatoes. Pour milk over all.

Bake in moderate oven (400 degrees) 45 to 60 minutes, or until potatoes can be easily pierced with fork. Serves six.

Couple Casts Away Doubt to Fight for and Win What They Wanted

Found Happiness' Being Themselves

By ANNE HEYWOOD
"My husband is a successful dentist," a woman told me the other day, "and I have a wonderful mink coat, which I love. Every time I look at it, I think of the early days, and what poverty we lived through."

"Bill was in business when we first married, and doing quite well for a young man. But when he was thirty-one, he began to get so tired, and unhappy, and bad-tempered."

"Finally it came out. He hated business, he had always wanted to be a dentist. He had thought maybe business would make him happy, provided he made enough money, but now he saw that it couldn't. He didn't know what to do, because we already had our

New Designs for Spring Improve Furniture Look

By ELIZABETH HILLYER
New sofas for spring will be long and lean and tailored to a T. The leanness and trim tailoring are typical of upholstered sectional furniture, too, which range wide more often than they clump in a corner, or if they do take to a corner, are wide on either side of it.

This week in Chicago and Grand Rapids, these good qualities are seen more often at moderate prices. Features of these designs sketched at Chicago's American Furniture Mart are the three crisp cushions of the sofa, the open end of the sectional unit at top, and the wide bulkless arm of another below.

Furniture like this makes for food room planning. There's nothing like a long smooth sweep of seating area to make a room look clean-cut and serene. And the lesson has been fairly well learned now that big pieces of furniture designed like this make a small room look larger and uncrowded, while a welter of small pieces pulls the walls together.

Length, lightness, and crisp tailoring once were the specialties of expensive furniture, but with the introduction of the new for spring first child, who was then three and a half.

"Well, going back to school would mean four or five years of study, and yet I could tell that Bill was really miserable. All our friends said it was ridiculous; he was doing all right, he owed it to me and the baby, he couldn't be that selfish, etc., etc. But I knew that an unhappy husband would be too high a price to pay."

"We settled down and worked out a plan. I went back to work, and got a wonderful neighbor to take our little Billy while she took care of her own. She didn't charge much, because she was at home anyway."

"Bill started his classes, and got a part-time job. What with his double life, so to speak, and mine when I came home from the office I took over with little Billy, and the cleaning, cooking and marketing—it was a hectic life. We were tired most of the time, but it wasn't too bad because we were working for something."

"Of course, our friends kept on criticizing us, but we couldn't afford to see them much anyway, because we didn't have the time, and we didn't have the money."

"That was years ago," she concluded, "and now the same friends who used to call us selfish beasts, and crazy to boot, are all raving about how they always knew we had it in us. Bill has more than made up for lost time; he is a wonderful dentist, and has had a thriving practice almost from the beginning. And we now have four children."

Moreover, despite what everyone said, our youngest is a wonderfully happy and adjusted child. Maybe he missed us a little, in the early days, but he has a happy mother and father, and if Bill had stayed in business, we'd probably have been divorced eventually."

"So, if any woman has this kind of problem, my advice is to help your husband get into what he loves to do. You'll benefit in the long run!"

Swim Wear New
Newest bathing suits are one-piece, cut with square or camisole tops, often knitted. Orlon-and-lacex is a popular combination; fast-drying, lightweight.

It's a mystery why so many men think they are gentlemen just because they prefer blondes.

A turtleneck to end all turtlenecks is ribs repeated at the cuffs of the long shaded brushed wool sweater. The deep

Molly Must Have Made Impression

Optimism Can Be Helpful for Boy Who Fears Loss

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I've met a lot of girls in the past year and have gone with one after another. But a month ago I met Molly! I never thought any girl could hit me as she did. I fell headlong in love with her. And she likes me too."

"The trouble is that I only see her when she comes skating, 'cause she doesn't live here. And I find myself getting wildly jealous when she talks or skates with other boys."

In fact, one night I started a fight with a boy who was pestering her. She said he was a friend of hers, but it made me mad. This must be the real thing 'cause I've never felt this way about any girl before."

"Now I'm going into the service, and she says she'll write to me, but I'm afraid she'll forget all about me. Please tell me how we can stay together while I'm away. I know I can't expect her to stay home and wait for me—but I'm so afraid I'll lose her!"

For the first time in your life you've fallen flat on your face for a girl. You want her all for yourself alone. You'd like to put her in a velvet-lined box with a padlock on it. You want her safely out of circulation for your own special benefit.

But it would seem that Molly is pretty and popular. And that's what scares you. Molly has other friends. Other boys like Molly. She's known some of these boys longer than she has known you. She'll meet other boys after you've left for the service.

So you're scared she'll forget to remember you. You're afraid she'll go out with other boys, get interested in someone else and not be there when you get back.

And fearing all of these things is just curdling! Why torture yourself by crossing all these bridges before you come to them? You have to take a chance with a girl like Molly. You have to be optimistic in order to keep your balance. You have to go on hoping that things will turn out the way you want them to.

But if you write her often she won't forget you. Keep your letters coming regularly and often. Write to her about everything that happens to you, so she'll feel that she's living through your new experiences with you. Remember her high days and holidays—and she'll remember you, she'll go on counting on you as someone who doesn't forget things that are important to her.

And before you go away, be happy with her. Leave her with the impression that she knows you well, and that you're a chap well worth knowing and liking. She just might do that little thing for you!

Greet Those You Know on Meeting Important Person Should Recognize Acquaintance First

By EMILY POST
The following letter is from a young business woman: "In my position as receptionist in a rather large office I see all of the visitors who come in during the course of a day."

Not too infrequently I meet some of these same people outside the office and I wonder if seeing them time and again substitutes for an introduction. That is, would it be proper to speak to them when I see them outside the office?"

Certainly how to people you know, whether in business or socially. On the other hand, if the person you are encountering is very important it would be best to wait for him to recognize you because he meets so many people that it is impossible to expect him to remember someone he seldom sees.

Dear Mrs. Post: If I should happen to be dining alone in a restaurant and a man I know (but not intimately) passes my table and stops and says a few words to me, is it proper, or even polite, to invite him to sit at my table, or might he think me forward or perhaps feel that I am placing him in an awkward position?

Ordinarily it is better for you not to ask him to join you, nor for him to ask if he may, but if there is no reason why you should not be seen dining together, there would be no impropriety in doing so.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper for a young woman to go to a dance unescorted: I received a notice along with several tickets to a dance that is being given by an organization to which I belong. I would like very much to go but I have no one to take me. Would it be in bad taste if I went alone? Please advise me.

It would not be improper for you to go alone but I think you might find it very unpleasant should you not find a single man that you know who would ask you to dance.

Hearing Aid Is Hidden by Hair Styles

These days you won't spoil your looks by wearing a hearing aid. New styles may be concealed under your hair and fastened easily with the attached barrette.

The instrument about the size of a cigarette lighter fits snugly at a place where the hair has most fullness. One stylist designed a hair-style that works out well with this type of apparatus.

The coiffure is smooth on top, drawn back with fullness at the back and sides. It covers the ear just enough to hide the small button which is worn behind the ear.

If you must wear a hearing device, your own hair stylist should be able to create a coiff that will suit you and conceal the hearing aid.

Problem Can Be Solved

It's a rare gal who doesn't sink to the depth of despair at regular intervals.

"I'm hopeless, I'll never look like anything," she moans, spotting a large pimple on the day of a most crucial dance.

It's this frantic concern that makes teeners prey to the wildest sort of offers. "Lose 30 pounds in 30 days," cries the ad, and the teenager has succumbed to her pencil.

Health, unfortunately, is of no concern to her if she feels she's got an extra one-quarter inch on her hips.

And then a gal feels even gloomier when, five days later, she finds she can't adhere to a diet of grapefruit and codlled eggs.

"I have no will power. I may die," she sobs, crumpled in the corner of her bed.

In most cases, gals in this age bracket can hit and maintain a sensible weight if they merely watch their intake of jelly doughnuts and sandwiches (with mayonnaise, please).

No fad diet, no promise of over-

More women should realize the importance of wearing hearing gadgets. Up until recent years women who needed glasses bumped into doors and risked being hit by automobiles rather than wear glasses and admit they had poor vision.

Today eyeglass frames are designed so attractively and are available in such an array of colors and materials that women who do not need them find excuses to wear what they describe as "real glasses." Some eyeglass frames actually improve the appearance of the wearer.

Strides have been made to improve teeth. Yet many women never take advantage of the opportunity. Some of our highest priced models with the lovely toothpaste smiles wear porcelain or plastic caps which are permanent or temporary placements over their imperfect teeth. Two caps sometimes do the trick. Other times a full set of upper or lower caps may be worn.

One New York salon recently introduced a method of creating longer looking nails. A finger is placed on a metal rim guard. Several coats of a plastic are applied to the nail and down to the metal rim. The nail becomes hard right down to the place set for it and stays that length until it grows out, supposedly.

Fortunately women are becoming more sensible, and manufacturers are cooperating in producing designs that may be worn to conceal the affliction or make the aid so attractive that women will wear it anyway.

Loop Tilts Mark Renewal of Prep Action

High school basketball players in Oakland County area begin running and shooting in earnest again Friday night with a heavy schedule of 32 games on tap. Action is on league play as the holiday lay-off concludes.

Feature games involve Eastern Michigan and Wayne - Oakland League quintets.

In the EML, Birmingham's Maples are ready and waiting for Ferndale. John Petrakis' club has won 5 out of 6, while Ferndale is undefeated in 2 games. Hazel Park, also boasting a 2-0 record, entertains Mt. Clemens, which has won the only league game played.

In the Wayne-Oakland, Keego Harbor, unbeaten in 2 starts, plays host to Clarkston (3-1) in the Pontiac suburban area feature attraction. Both Keego wins were in league play, while Clarkston is 1-0 in the league.

enceville while Milford tangles with Brighton. The Redskins run up 3 wins before suffering a last-minute 52-51 upset at Keego in their last pre-vacation outing.

Top game in the Oakland-B Conference pairs Troy and Madison on the latter's floor. Defending champion Troy has lost 3 out of 5 games, but won its only league game. Madison won 3 straight then lost in league play to Roseville.

Imley City's date with Ortonville headlines activity in the South

Central and Almont, with a 5-game winning streak, goes to Armada in the foremost game among the area's smaller schools.

The Inter-Lakes race may take some form after Friday's games with Berkley playing at Southfield in the key contest. Waterford goes to Farmington and Walled Lake to Van Dyke in other I-L tilts.

In other games, Rochester resumes action on the road, while Oxford and Lake Orion are at home. Gene Koneley's Falcons go to St. Mary of Mt. Clemens, as Oxford meets Lapeer and Lake Orion tests Romeo on home courts.

Shrine shoots for its 3rd straight win against Redford St. Mary. Avondale is home to Fitzgerald. Cranbrook goes to Flint Tpch and a full schedule of Suburban Catholic League games rounds out the card for county teams.

The schedule:

Asks Mayor for Help

Austrian Soccer Club Wants to Play Exhibitions Next Summer in Pontiac

By H. GUY MOATS
Pontiac, once the hotbed of soccer football in Michigan, may experience a little revival of that old-time glory.

The Austrian "Admira Wien", Viennese version of the National League of Austria wants to send its top team here for two international matches, during June 15 - Aug. 15.

A polite, if not entirely unusual request for his "estimated interest" to make the event possible, has been received by Pontiac's mayor, William (Bill) W. Donaldson.

The Vienna organization will be on a tour of this country at the time suggested for the exhibitions, according to the letter addressed to Pontiac's mayor. It suggests that in case Donaldson (or the municipality) is unable to provide a suitable opponent, the "Admira Wien" would take care of that situation itself.

Time is not too long for local action, as the Vienna club must know not later than Feb. 10 if there is proper opposition here for the games. The club would also like a local sponsor, which is something the mayor today passed on to any interested group, or person, here. He would like to hear any response as soon as possible.

According to the letter from the Austrian club, the team it proposes to bring here is composed of the top-flight soccer football talent of Austria. There are 3 players from the National "A" team, 7 from the National "B" club and one from the National Junior team.

This club has made a sensational record, being unbeaten in matches all over Europe. It is now on tour in an extended Far Eastern jaunt, ending Feb. 26, this year.

Some 20 years ago Pontiac had several brilliant teams, one a major outfit that engaged in strong schedules against the best in the Midwest and Canada. Soccer, however, has declined in later years, although there are still some strong clubs in the Detroit area.

Chief Tankers Defeat Maples for Fourth Win

Keavy and Lamson in Double Wins, Set Pace for Victory

Pontiac High's undefeated swimming team swept 6 of 9 1st places here last night to hand Birmingham a 44-40 defeat.

Victory was the Chiefs' 4th in a row this season. They will face probably their toughest test to date Friday afternoon. Defending Saginaw Valley Conference champion Arthur Hill comes here then for a league meet.

Back-stroker Tom Cross and free-styler Bob Lamson extended their individual victory strings to four yesterday. "Cross won the 100-yard back stroke in 1 minute 5.6 seconds, his best time this season, and Lamson won the 100-yard free style in 57.3 seconds.

Other Pontiac 1sts were taken by Lamson, in the 40-yard free style; Bob Keavy, in the 100-yard breast stroke and individual medley; and the medley relay team of Cross, Ken Scott and Dennis Simonson.

Young Boxers Get Chance to Train for Gloves Test

Youngsters wishing to get into condition and train for coming Golden Gloves tournaments in this part of Michigan today were provided with that opportunity. Through the cooperation of the Pontiac Recreation Commission and the Prince Hall (colored Masonic club), a training site has been set up at 328 Wessen street.

"Boys are welcome to come here to train and get instructions on boxing, if they wish to get into the sport," says Philip A. Sauer, commission head.

"They will be given opportunity later on to take part in tournaments in the area, as a Pontiac unit, although the city will not have its own Golden Gloves this winter."

Robert Bowen, Albert North, Billy Strange, Speedy Johnson and others are giving their services for the boys, Sauer reports. The gymnasium, outfitted with rings, bags, boxing machine and other training devices, is now open from 5:30 to 9 p.m. daily.

Up to today, Sauer says, there are about 25 youngsters working out.

If the attendance, and interest, grows sufficiently, it is possible that a show will be put on here, the commission head added.

"Anyone interested in Golden Gloves is invited to train at this place. Of course they will have to fit themselves for the various classes and divisions in order to qualify for gloves competition," Sauer explained.

State's Parks Set Record Attendance

LANSING (UP) — An all-time record of 15,165 persons visited Michigan's 57 state parks and recreation areas in 1954, a final year-end count by the conservation department revealed today.

Holland State Park ranked 1st with 1,261,834 visitors.

Grand Haven State Park was second with 1,232,250, and Dodge No. 4 near Pontiac, was 3rd with 1,063,979.

Other top attractions were Sterling State Park near Monroe, 790,114; Bay City State Park, 753,235; and Island Lake Recreation area 688,150.

Fog Delays Dog Trials
WAYNESBORO, Ga. (UP) — The last three dogs in a field of 45 were scheduled to run today in the open all-age event of the Georgia Field Trials Ass.

The event will be followed by the open derby in which 19 dogs are entered.

Robinson Shows Old, Sharp Style in 1st Comeback

Ex-Champ Cautious in Opening Round, 11,973 Fans Urge Him On

DETROIT (UP) — For 10 exciting seconds, it was the Sugar Ray Robinson of old—swift, sharp and deadly.

In that brief burst, the 34-year-old former middleweight champion swarmed over Joe Rindone, of Boston, and scored a knockout at 1:37 of the sixth round last night to successfully start his comeback.

A howling crowd of 11,973 urged him on, Robinson floored the inept, confused Rindone with a flashing series of lefts and rights that made one wonder why Sugar Ray ever left the ring.

But before that, the sleek New Yorker was cautious and uncertain, showing obvious signs of his 30-month layoff. His famous one-two combination wasn't clicking, although his footwork seemed as good as ever.

"I was satisfied with my showing," he said in his dressing room. "Even though my combinations weren't working, I at least had an opportunity to try them."

"I can't honestly say it was one of my better fights. 'It'll take time to regain the touch.'"

Robinson was stung into action when Rindone, who did little more than huff and puff through the first five rounds, landed a solid left and right to the head. It was his first serious gesture of the nonleveled fight.

Robinson tore after his backpedaling, 28-year-old opponent, clubbing him with six, seven, eight blows to the head and body. A roundhouse right sent Rindone crashing to the canvas.

The crowd, largest in Olympia Stadium since June 1952, went wild.

Robinson's two managers said they had made no definite plans for the future.

Robinson weighed 150 to Rindone's 163 1-3.

Pee Wee Signs '55 Brooklyn Contract

BROOKLYN (UP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers Thursday received the signed contract for 1955 of captain and shortstop Harold (Pee Wee) Reese, who hit better than .300 for the first time in his 12-year major league career last season.

Reese, the oldest National League player in point of service, batted .309 in 1954 while hitting 10 homers.

Vice President Buzzie Bavasi indicated that Reese received a raise, but as usual the terms of the contract were not revealed.

In Class D action, Irwin-Rosa handed State Spartans their 1st setback in four games, 43-40. Jerry Lawrence sparked the upset by pumping in 14 points. Another 14-point performance, by Hornets' Ed Macdonald, went for naught as his team bowed to Wolverines, 33-27.

Five Veterans Lead Way in Seniors' Golf

POINT CLEAR, Ala. (UP) — The Senior Bowl senior golf tournament's three divisions were led Thursday by five golfers as the 75 contenders headed into the second 18 holes.

John B. Ferguson, 70, of New Orleans, went ahead in the Class A division, for golfers over 65, Wednesday with a 78 total for the first 18 holes and a net handicap score of 70.

Tied for first place in the B class, for players 55-65, are Col. A. V. Ednie of Greenville Springs, La., and Arthur L. Ross of Mobile, with net scores of 70.

Morton Bright of Coral Gables, Fla., and Thomas D. Jordan of Galesburg, Ill., both had net scores of 70 for first place in the C class, for those 50-55.

The 54-hole medal play tournament ends Friday.

LANSING (UP) — A survey of waterfowl populations throughout Michigan will be conducted by conservation field workers Jan. 11 as part of a continent-wide survey being carried on in cooperation with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, it was announced today.

GMC Wins Fourth Victory; Jewelers Trip St. Clair

Second-place General Motors won its 4th victory in five City Basketball League Class B starts last night, dumping Stadium Inn, 63-48.

Dave Miller led the victory with 15 points, while teammate Bill York contributed 16. Jim Lee was high for the losers with 15 points.

Shaw's Jewelers, sparked by Smith's 27 points and Bob Mc-nothing "until we know Rocky's nose," which required stitches after his last title defense against Ezzard Charles.

Although giving the Marciano bout top priority, Johnston told Norris he was interested in a Moore bout with middleweight champion Bobo Olson in June in New York.

Former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan signed a paper waiving his alleged rights to a return bout with champion Johnny Saxton, giving Norris the green light for matching Saxton against Carmen Basile in Syracuse April 1.

Hopman Picks Seixas World's Top Net Star

Aussie Cup Captain Also Names 4 Other US Stars in Top 10

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP) — Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, who with Tony Trabert beat Australia in the recent Davis Cup challenge round, was picked Thursday as the top player in world tennis by Harry Hopman, the Australian Davis Cup captain.

Writing in the Melbourne Herald Hopman said: "I rated Trabert a close second last year, but drop him to sixth place this year despite the fact that many I know regard him as the world's best amateur."

A year ago Hopman had Australia's Lew Hoad on top, but he dropped Hoad to seventh this time.

Hopman rated Egypt's Jaroslav Drobny as second behind Seixas followed by Ken Rosewall, Budge Patty, Rex Hartwig, Trabert, Hoad, Mervyn Rose, Art Larsen and Ham Richardson. Patty, Trabert, Larsen and Richardson are Americans, the others Australians.

2nd Half Rush Wins for UD

Sparrow and Goldstein Supply Spark for 92-73 Nod Over Loyola

DETROIT (UP)—University of Detroit started slowly, then gave a 54-point 2nd half scoring demonstration last night to rack up its 10th victory in 11 starts, 92-78, over Loyola of Chicago in a non-conference basketball game.

Loyola took a 43-35 halftime lead, but the Titans, led by forward Guy Sparrow of Pontiac, and guard Ralph Goldstein, roared back after the intermission and grabbed a 50-49 lead after four minutes of play. Detroit led rest of the way.

Center Jack Carpenter of Loyola took scoring honors with 26 points. Sparrow accounted for 23 for Detroit and Goldstein added 19.

Geoffrion Holds Slim Edge Over Beliveau

MONTREAL (UP) — Hard-shooting Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of the league-leading Montreal Canadiens, seeking his 1st scoring title, continues to head the National Hockey League individual scoring race today.

The 24-year-old forward slumped a bit last week with only two goals and two assists, but he has a two-point lead over his teammate Jean Beliveau.

Geoffrion has registered 24 goals, tops in the league, and 28 assists for 52 points, compared with Beliveau's 18 tallies and 22 assists for 40 points.

NEW YORK (UP) — The indoor track and field season gets under way Saturday with the Senior Metropolitan championships and for the following three months there will be at least one major meet each week.

The first of the big banked floor events is scheduled for a week from Saturday in Boston—the annual K of C games. In that one, the promoters hope to get Wes Santee, who has used up his eligibility at Kansas, and now may compete in invitation events.

If Santee, America's hope for the 4-minute mile, decides to make the rounds, the campaign will be an automatic success.

The AAU is assured of five Europeans for the season, and their records indicate they'll supply some needed competition. Also, Vladimir Kuc, Russia's 5,000-meter world record-holder, has been invited but so far the AAU has had no reply from Moscow.

If Kuc makes an appearance, he'll probably be tossed in the ring with FBI agent Horace Ashenfelter, who is no slowpoke at the longer distances.

Other considerations aside, American experts are eager to see what the Russians can do indoors. Most Europeans have trouble with the smoke and haze when they start running under a roof.

Here are the Europeans who will be here:

Gunner Neilson, a Dane, who was third behind Mal Whitfield and Arthur Wint in the 1952 Olympic 800. He also tied Whitfield's world

South Appears to Have Senior Bowl Edge

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Both Senior Bowl coaches are predicting a happy day for the South in the sixth annual classic Saturday, just like they did before the last three games. The North won them all.

Jolly Steve Owen, director of the South forces and a rare optimist among coaches, is enthusiastic over the 25 stars picked for his squad.

"You know, I believe we've got better personnel than we've ever had," he said after looking at his team in several workouts.

"We've got some good big boys in the line but I like those backs. They can really go and we should be ready to give the fans a real showing this year."

Grim Paul Brown agrees with his opponent.

"Our line isn't as big as it has been in the past seasons. Those South boys are giants compared to what we have. Then those sand burns some of our players got in the Rose Bowl are going to hurt our offense quite a bit."

The "good big boys" Owen has included ends Max Boydston, 207, of Oklahoma, and All-America Frank McDonald, 201, Miami (Fla.); tackles Sid Fournet, 225, Louisiana State, and All-America Reed Rex Boggan, 235, Mississippi; guards Frank Mineevich, 240, South Carolina, and All-America Bud Brooks, 201, Arkansas, and

All-America center Kurt Burris, 209, Oklahoma.

Among "those backs," Owen calls Maryland's Dick Bieleid as good a fullback as you'll see on the field Saturday. He can do anything a fullback is supposed to do.

Quarterback Bobby Freeman of Auburn "is really a fine quarterback," halfback L. G. Dupree of Baylor "showed me something in the Gator Bowl when he made that long run," and halfback Corky Tharp of Alabama "has been looking mighty good in our practice," Owen continued.

Brown, coach of the pro championship Cleveland Browns, need offer no apologies for his club, however.

He has such backfield standouts as Rose Bowl star Dave Leggett of national champion Ohio State at quarterback, Lindon Crow of Southern Cal and Bob McNamara of Minnesota at halfbacks, and All-America Alan Ameche of Wisconsin at fullback.

Brown also has weight up front, with ends Dean Dugger, 213, Ohio State, and Andy Nacrelli, 195, Fordham; tackles Dick Chorovich, 265, Miami (Ohio), and Frank Morze, 230, Boston College; guards Norm Amundsen, 220, Wisconsin, and Tom Bettis, 219, Purdue, and center John Damore, 210, North-western.

About 30,000 are expected in 36,000 capacity Ladd Stadium for the kickoff at 2:45 p.m. (EST). CBS will broadcast the game, but it will not be televised.

HOT FINISH—Pontiac's undefeated free-styler Bob Lamson (arrow) out-touches Birmingham's Jay Lewis to win the 100-yard free style event in last night's swimming meet here. Lamson's time was 57.3 seconds. Watching the finish are PHS student manager Joe Goldberg (left) and official Wally Schloerke. Pontiac won the meet, 44-40.

Basketball Thrill!

Alabama Officials Trying to Determine If Tide Player's 85-Foot Shot Is Record

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—George Linn's field goal of nearly 85 feet Tuesday night against North Carolina will go down among basketball's greatest thrills.

Officials at the University of Alabama Wednesday took a recap of the event, and brought Linn back to the Alabama field house to show them exactly where he was standing. They measured the distance and said it was 84 feet, 11 inches. And now they're trying to determine if it is a record.

Linn, 20-year-old forward who sometimes plays center, is a junior from Columbus, Ohio. He's 6-4 and weighs 185 pounds. He was Alabama's second highest scorer last season with an average of 13.8. His average this year is 18.5.

Tide Coach Johnny Dee said the basketball which Linn hurled is being sent to the Basketball Hall of Fame, now being established by the National Assn. of Basketball Coaches at Springfield, Mass.

A bronze plaque will be inserted into the Alabama field house floor, marking the spot from where Linn launched his long shot.

"How could there possibly ever be a longer shot?" Dee exclaimed. "I've seen them made from beyond the midcourt line, but never anything like that."

Linn probably is among the least excited about his exciting shot. He figures he was "just plain lucky."

The long field goal came in the final seconds of the first half Tuesday night, with the Tide leading North Carolina 39-29. Linn took a rebound off the Tarheel backboard. Looking at the clock, he leaped backward. The ball almost touched the floor.

The field house was almost jammed to its capacity of 4,000. They shouted "shoot-shoot!" Linn leaped forward and threw the ball with an easy overhead motion. It struck the Alabama backboard just above the rim, and ricocheted through the hoop as the buzzer ended the half.

Alabama went on to defeat the Tarheels 77-55.

CASE—Putting on Speed.

You'll find two schools of thought on speed. Some insist the simplest way to add zip to the ball, without losing control, is in increasing the length and tempo of the stride.

In the newer school, the method used is merely to push the ball away from the body a little more than average, in timing with the first step. This increases the size of the swinging arc and provides speed effortlessly.

Of the two systems, I prefer the latter. However, it's strictly what the individual develops through practice that counts.

Professional Cagers Plan Session With Loop Prexy

BOSTON (AP)—Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics, says the players of the National Basketball Assn. have organized a representative council and plan to meet with league president Maurice Podoloff in New York Jan. 17 or 18.

The meeting will be held in conjunction with the annual NBA all-star game, slated for Jan. 18 at Madison Square Garden. Patterned after the baseball players' organization, each NBA club will have a player representative.

Cousy said Wednesday night at his home in Worcester that he started the idea last summer by writing letters to members of each team in the league, asking them to sound out opinion.

"Only about two weeks ago," he said, "we heard from all the players and every player in the NBA is behind it."

The one-time Holy Cross star, now ranked among the game's all-time standouts, said the players didn't organize "with the feeling of walking in there with a chip on our shoulders."

"But," he added, "I feel that the players definitely should have representation and should have something to say about the way the league is run. I don't feel that

Cook Brothers Now Are Riding Apart

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—After several years of riding on Florida race tracks, the Cook brothers—William McKinley and Lois—have split up. William is back at Tropical park but Lois will ride in California this winter.

The Cooks are two of the three original "kids from Kona," Kentucky. The third was Jimmy Breckons, who retired last year. Kona is a mining community and when the three riders are at home, it has a population of 503.

Coach of Year Banquet Slated in NY Tonight

UCLA's Sanders to Be Honored; Mentors Vote for Spring Drills

NEW YORK (AP)—The gastronomic highlight of the concurrent NCAA and Football Coaches conventions takes place Thursday night when Henry (Red) Sanders of UCLA, the "Coach of the Year," will be honored at the annual dinner thrown by the New York World-Telegram and Sun at the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

Sanders, who coached the Uclans to an all-winning season, will have his plaque presented to him by Dr. Albert C. Jacobs, president of Trinity College of Hartford, Conn.

Woody Hayes, of Ohio State, second to Sanders in the Coach of the Year balloting, will be among the speakers along with Navy's Eddie Erdelatz, Georgia Tech's Bobby Dodd, Penn's George Munger, Illinois' Ray Eliot, Notre Dame's Terry Brennan, Maryland's Jim Tatum, the 1953 winner and others.

For the first time, the American Football Coaches Assn. has put itself on record on the subject of spring training. And naturally the coaches go for it in a big way—about 499 to 1.

They made their feelings known Wednesday in approving a resolution asking the NCAA to consider increasing the spring training sessions from the present 30 to 30 days.

The coaches, however, acted too late to get it on the agenda of the current NCAA convention. It turned out after a committee had forwarded the resolution to the NCAA, that it is necessary to notify the NCAA 30 days in advance and that the secretary then must mail a copy of a proposed amendment to all members of the association not later than three weeks before the convention. The coaches will work faster next year.

Seixas Beats Rose, Plays Swede in Final

ADELAIDE, Australia (INS)—U. S. champion Vic Seixas recovered from a two-set deficit to beat Australia's Mervyn Rose today in the semifinals of the South Australian tennis championships. The score was 4-6, 8-10, 9-7, 6-3, 10-8.

The Philadelphia Davis cupper will meet Lennart Bergelin of Sweden in the finals.

Video Is 'Hot Potato' of NCAA Confab

NEW YORK (U-P)—Having fired a salvo at the pros for invading "collegiate territory" with their Saturday night football telecasts, the colleges train their guns on each other today in an open discussion of the controversial television problem.

Video is the hot potato of this NCAA convention. And it's a cinch that the multiple issues won't be even half settled by the round-table talks today and by the appointment of the new 1955 TV committee Friday.

The six alternative proposals to be suggested by the outgoing 1954 TV committee and other parties boil down to a contest between another national "Game of the Week" program, with slight variations, and a series of regional or geographically distributed telecasts.

It looks as if the national card, backed by the numerically powerful, 101-member Eastern College Athletic Conference will win out over the regional backers, which include the influential but numerically weak Big Ten and Pacific Coast conferences.

The blasts at the pro National Football League were touched off yesterday by Matty Bell of Southern Methodist at an NCAA round-table meeting.

Reading a report prepared by a special NCAA committee, Bell said, "It was completely unthinkable and selfish for the professionals to black out their own games but to telecast their Saturday night games into collegiate territory."

Bell said the NFL was "discourteous" in declining to appoint a committee to meet with an NCAA committee to discuss the matter.

At the time of the NFL's refusal to meet with an NCAA committee, NFL Commissioner Bert Bell said such a meeting might be interpreted as a "conspiracy" to restrain television activity.

Although he said he didn't want to "declare war" on the pros, Matty Bell said the colleges should not permit their coaches or other athletic personnel to participate in professional sports in any way, and that college sports facilities shouldn't be made available for pro activities.

Canadian Skating Champion Retires

TORONTO (U-P)—Barbara Gratton, Canadian senior women's figure skating champion, retired today from competitive skating in favor of her education.

The 17-year-old Toronto miss announced her retirement, "after serious deliberation," in a letter to Fred Boland, president of the Toronto Skating Club.

Miss Gratton, a first-year student in general arts at the University of Toronto, had been favored to retain her Canadian title this year and thus represent Canada in the world championships next month.

She finished fourth in the world competition last year and was third to Tenley Albright of Newton Center, Mass., and Carol Heiss of New York in the 1953 North American championships.

Senate Might Probe Boxing 'Racketeering'

Drive Would Resemble Kefauver Hearings of 5 Years Ago

WASHINGTON (U-P)—There's a "strong possibility" a Senate committee this year will conduct a drive against racketeering in boxing much along the lines of the Kefauver committee five years ago.

That was the word today from Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash.), an ardent sports fan who quarterbacked for the University of Washington Rose Bowl team in 1926.

Magnuson said in an interview he is considering such hearings in his new role as chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

"First I want to discuss the situation with other senators and get their views," he said. "But I know there is a strong possibility we will take a good look at boxing to see if we can turn up evidence of organized racketeering."

Magnuson said he has long been concerned over what he termed invasion of the sport by "racketeers and other shady characters."

"In the old days, though," he said, "only a relatively few persons saw the fights. They were in small arenas and most of the spectators were men. But boxing is now in everyone's home. Everybody sees the fights, father, mother and the kids."

Sharp-Shooting Colonials, Dayton Record Cage Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There's hardly a schoolboy scuffing up his shoes kicking tin cans who hasn't heard the rumor that George Washington was a man for truth. But those lads playing basketball at George Washington University aren't bad when it comes to accuracy either.

The Colonials, ranked sixth in the weekly Associated Press poll, were tops in the nation in field goal percentages last season, scoring at a 45.6 clip from the field. And although the Southern Conference champions lost three of their 1953-54 starters, that dead-eye shooting is more than a memory.

George Washington put on one of its greatest shows last night, defeating Georgetown 74-55 with deadly precision as the Colonials hit 56 per cent of their field goal attempts. They sank 32 of 57 and made their record 9-2 for the season with Walt (Corky) Devlin scoring 23 points and Joey Holup 19.

The only other top-ranked team in action last night was Dayton (No. 10). The Flyers got back on the beam after a disastrous performance in the Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden with a 68-54 victory over Canisius. Johnny Horan and Jack Saltee each scored 19 points for Dayton.

Among the second 10, Duke (tied for 17th) hit its scoring peak for the season with an 81-64 victory over Temple; Villanova, which taught good sportsmanship. But when they see the fights and the wrestling matches on television, I feel certain they start wondering what's the use.

"One day they may start thinking they might as well fix it up and put on a show just like the wrestlers."

Sports Variety Slated at MSC

Basketball, Wrestling, Hockey, Swimming on Weekend Card

EAST LANSING (U-P)—Basketball, hockey, wrestling and swimming offer a weekend variety show of sport Friday and Saturday at Michigan State College.

Top attraction will be the nationally televised basketball game with Wisconsin Saturday afternoon. This will mark the 1st time that a Michigan State indoor sports event has had a national TV showing. It also will be MSC's 1st Big Ten game at home.

Michigan State has lost four of seven games in the start of the season including its Big Ten opener, an 83-76 defeat by Ohio State.

The Spartan hockey team, now 2nd in the Western Intercollegiate Hockey League, will be out to make modern history against Michigan Friday night.

MSC swimming team is favored to beat Iowa in its season's opener at Jenison pool Saturday night.

Curling Title at Stake

$32,500 Tourney Gets Started Today; Evans Wins $416

LOS ANGELES (U-P)—Golf's richest winter parade of tournaments gets under way Thursday with 133 professionals heading into the first round of the $32,500 Los Angeles Open at the Inglewood Country Club.

Starting a procession of 15 tournaments lined for the winter tour, the field was loaded with proven talent and a host of the young and hungry—all taking dead aim at the $5,000 top money in the L. A. Open proper, with its $25,000 pot.

Fifteen women professionals, playing in threesomes sprinkled throughout the field of males, seek first money of $1,000 in their separate $5,000 purse.

The sum of $2,500 was paid out Wednesday to winners in a pro-amateur warmup for the big show.

Opinion was divided among many as to the probable winner of this 29th annual L. A. Open. But the names of Gene Littler of Palm Springs, Calif., Doug Ford of Klamath Lake, N. Y., and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison were prominent in speculation.

Lloyd Mangrum, a former winner of the event, was also a strong possibility. The one-time National Open champion has not been feeling too well in recent weeks, but he carded a 65 in Wednesday's round.

Ed Furgol, the 1954 National Open king has also been troubled with an ailing arm and might not be in top form.

Missing from the field because of commitments elsewhere was little Bob Toski, the big money winner of the year.

Olympic Sled Tryouts Stay at Lake Placid

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (U-P)—Olympic bobsledder Stan Benham disagreed Thursday with a report that he had threatened to take the U.S. Olympic sled tryouts out of Lake Placid.

Ed Corrigan, Associated Press sports writer, said in a "Sports Roundup" column Wednesday that Benham at one time threatened to "take" the tryouts out of Lake Placid and that he told him the tryouts were awarded to him (Benham) and not to the town.

Benham also denied he had claimed the tryouts were awarded to him personally and not to the town.

The tryouts will be held at the Mt. Van Hoevenberg bob run here next month.

Lodge to Attend Disarmament Talks in London

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate to the U. N. plans to go to London late in February for a closed meeting of a U. N. disarmament subcommittee, informed sources reported today.

They said the United States wants an experienced and high-level diplomat at the complex talks on arms regulation and control of atomic energy.

If the talks run more than three or four weeks, they said, Lodge's U. N. deputy James J. Wadsworth will probably take over from Lodge. Wadsworth handled the disarmament subject in U. N. Assembly debates last fall.

The Assembly instructed the U. N. Disarmament Commission, of which Lodge is chairman for January, to set up a five-nation subcommittee again to discuss proposals for regulating conventional arms and controlling atomic energy.

The five nations who will take part — United States, Britain, France, the Soviet Union and Canada—held similar talks in London last spring.

Slang Enlivens Hormel's Trial

Marijuana Smoker's Terms Jazz Up Court Proceedings

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The state today continued its attempts to convict young George Hormel II, scion of the meat-packing family, of possession of marijuana after presenting testimony charging that he and a fellow musician smoked marijuana cigarettes together on several occasions.

The Superior Court trial yesterday was enlivened by definition of terms used by marijuana smokers.

Robert (Iggy) Shevak, 35, key prosecution witness and former string bass player in Hormel's jazz trio, told the jury that "to make a score" meant to be able to buy marijuana or other narcotics. He also testified that he and Hormel once smoked a "roach." A "roach," said Shevak, meant a partially smoked marijuana cigarette that had been saved from a previous occasion.

Shevak said the average marijuana cigarette usually could be smoked with six puffs. He said that before a musical session he only would take two puffs because he was proud of his bass fiddle playing and didn't want to get "too far out." He said he knew persons who could go through one marijuana cigarette with just one long "drag."

Hormel, 25, a jazz pianist and former husband of actress Leslie Caron, was arrested in his car near his home last Sept. 19. Detective John O'Grady of the police narcotics division testified that a "bottle" of marijuana cigarettes was found above a sun visor of the car.

Glimpse of Road Patrol Slows Freeway Drivers

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Gulf Freeway, also called the Houston-Galveston Expressway, is being turned into one of the area's safest thoroughfares instead of the most deadly as formerly.

Houston Traffic Lt. L. H. Ellison said it was all because of eight motorcycle officers conspicuously posted atop freeway overpasses during rush hours.

That's all the cops do — just sit there looking ready for speeders.

"We're not out there to give tickets," one said. "We just want to be seen."

Leslie Caron Grows Up in New Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—No more the wait for Leslie Caron.

At least she hopes she can escape from the pishy gamins she has become noted for in movies. "That kind of role has been good for me," she reasons, "but I would be too limited if I stuck to it. I've got to grow up sometime."

The little French doll is getting her wish in her next two assignments. She now is appearing opposite Fred Astaire in the musical reworking of "Daddy Long Legs," the pleasant piece of sentiment that once starred Mary Pickford (1919) and Janet Gaynor (1931).

She ages from a girlish 18 to a mature 22. Though the early portions show her as a French orphan in typical Caron style, she gets more glamorous as the story progresses. She even has a sultry dream sequence in which she displays her legs Dietrich-style.

Her next role will be even more grown-up. "Jean Renoir wrote a play for me," she said. "He said that he got the inspiration after he saw me in 'Lili.' I read a few pages of it when he first started working, but I didn't think I would ever be able to get away from MGM to do a play."

"Later he finished it, and I found it very exciting. The studio had nothing for me to do, so I pleaded with them to give me some time off. I think it is stupid to keep actors under contract and not let them keep working. Especially when it costs the studio nothing."

"They decided to give me the time off, just as they did last year when I danced with the Ballet de Paris. They are very nice about it. But I admit that I have to fight like a devil to convince them."

The Renoir play is called "Orvet," which Leslie once explained is "like your underwear snake" (she meant garter snake). She plays a poacher on a landed estate who is discovered by a playwright. He writes a play about her, makes her into a lady, then adores her love. She kills herself. The play is being produced by Robert Pettit, with whom she has been linked romantically.

Triple Amputee, 3, Tries New Limbs

BOSTON (AP)—Bright-eyed Constance de Stasi, who is not quite 3, thrilled several onlookers yesterday merely by climbing a flight of stairs. She is a triple amputee. Her left leg, right foot and right hand were amputated when she was 13 months old because of a rare blood circulation condition. She smilingly demonstrated the artificial limbs developed for her by Joseph Aveni, head of the amputee department of the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. Aveni said she behaved as a normal child as soon as the limbs were fitted to her: "She ran, jumped, climbed—and sometimes fell down."

Restorers Move Into Yorktown

Spot Where U.S. Won Revolution Will Regain Some of Former Aura

WASHINGTON—Yorktown where Cornwallis surrendered to George Washington, may eventually regain some of its long-faded colonial aura.

Congress has authorized a $3,000,000 project to restore the waterfront and further re-create the battlefield on which the American Revolution was finally won, reports the National Geographic Society.

No rival to neighboring Williamsburg will arise, for Yorktown, buffeted by misfortune, has little left on which to build. Even the event which made it famous historically contributed heavily to its material decline.

Settled in the early 17th century on the peninsula between Virginia's York and James Rivers, Yorktown was for a time a flourishing tobacco center. Then the land wore out and trade moved elsewhere. When Cornwallis retreated there in 1781 before the steadily growing might of Lafayette's corps, he was trapped in a town on which the sun was already setting.

The ensuing siege by the Continental Army and blockade by Count de Grasse's French fleet devastated Yorktown and the surrounding countryside.

One of the few remaining colonial buildings, the Nelson House, still has cannonballs embedded in the walls. Original claims exist from residents for reimbursement of battle damage. Written on odd bits of paper that were all the writers could find, they note "lost" livestock and household treasures, smashed houses and escaped slaves.

Fire swept the town in 1814. In 1862, Confederate troops buried some of the old Revolutionary earthworks beneath fortifications of their own. A minor Civil War engagement knocked a few more corners off remaining buildings.

From Appomattox until 1930, Yorktown remained a sleepy little tidewater town noted mostly for a good swimming beach and 10 historic houses—all that remained of 70 standing in 1781—maintained by the Daughters of the American Revolution and other private citizens.

Then the Federal government created Colonial National Historical Park, to consist of Williamsburg, Jamestown and Yorktown. National Park Service administrators at Yorktown did well with what they were given. Visitors today see neatly tended reconstructions of old fortifications, restored buildings including the Moore place in which the surrender agreement was signed, and the field where the defeated British laid down their arms.

Check Scheme Foiled in Sarnia

Self-Styled Educator Accused in Three-State Passing Spree

PORT HURON (AP)—A worthless check writing spree through Ohio, Michigan and Ontario has ended for a self-styled former Detroit school teacher.

Charles J. Meyers, 28, was quoted by police as saying, "I thought I was smart, but I guess I wasn't" when he was caught in a bank in neighboring Sarnia, Ont.

Port Huron Police Capt. Virgil James said Meyers gave this account of his check scheme:

On Dec. 30 he wrote nine bogus checks on a Bowling Green, Ohio, bank for $7,500, cashed them in three Toledo banks, wrote $1,000 bank drafts on the Toledo banks and went to London, Ont. There he deposited money in three banks and purchased traveler's checks.

Meyers was attempting to cash a traveler's check in Sarnia after a visit to Detroit Monday when he was arrested. Police said he was carrying $7,000 worth of traveler's checks.

Meyers, father of two children, was released on $500 bond and ordered to appear in Port Huron Municipal Court Jan. 14, on a fugitive warrant for Toledo authorities. He is sought there on charges of uttering and publishing.

Meyers told police he had been a school teacher in Detroit until a year ago. However, the Detroit Board of Education said Meyers merely served as a student helper in the city school system for a short time in 1948 while he was a student at Wayne University.

Marlene Dietrich Is a Blend of All the Ingredients That Spell Glamor

By EDDIE CANTOR

If there could be a patent on glamor, the rights would surely go to Marlene Dietrich. This gal is a blend of all the ingredients that spell glamor. "G" for grace. "L"—legs. "A"—adorable. "M"—mysterious. "O"—for oomph!—and "R" for Aw! Aw! Aw!

Marlene recognizes the value of glamor and works at it. She will have as many as eighteen fittings for a gown. Once satisfied, she gets 10 or 12 at a time.

Recently in Paris, a friend saw her on such a buying spree and said, "I've seen your wardrobe—what could you possibly want with ten new dresses?" Marlene laughed, "Ten new hats—I'm buying them tomorrow!"

If this sounds frivolous, let me hasten to tell you that during World War II, Marlene Dietrich spent three years, in very unglamorous attire, in the unglamorous section from Azalea Beachhead to Greenland—far from publicity cameras and dangerously close to the front lines—entertaining American troops.

Although born in Berlin, she passionately loves America and follows its activities closely. Recently, in a discussion about American money sent overseas, she said, "The United States is in the unhappy situation of a rich and romantic girl. She yearns hopelessly to be loved for herself alone."

In pictures, Marlene does lots of eyelash fluttering, and just plain looking. I asked her about it. She said, "Eddie, a long time ago I learned something that's true on or offstage: 'A girl who speaks volumes, usually winds up on the shelf!'"

Heart Associations Offers 6 Ways to Protect Health

The Michigan Heart Assn., which benefits from Pontiac Area United Fund money, made six suggestions today for those who wish to take steps toward "protecting their hearts and living longer and happier lives."

The association recommended that lists of 1955 resolutions be headed by statements of intentions to:

1. Avoid self-diagnosis.

If you haven't had a health and heart examination during the past year, see your doctor soon. If your heart is sound and if treatment is not indicated, needless fear and anxiety can be eliminated. If a heart ailment is revealed, suitable treatment can be begun immediately.

2. Avoid over-exertion.

Exercise in moderation, particularly if you are over 40 years old. Strenuous activity will not harm a healthy heart. But the threat is real when the heart is diseased; then, extra effort, may prove dangerous.

3. Avoid over-fatigue.

You should get an amount of sleep you know you require. Your heart works for you around the clock every day of your life. When you rest or sleep, its work load is lightened.

4. Avoid over-weight.

Excess weight loads extra work onto your heart and blood vessels. You will look, feel and work better — and you are likely to live longer — if you keep your weight close to normal.

5. Treat respiratory infections promptly.

The cold weather months on the average bring about a 13 per cent increase in deaths from heart and circulatory disease. This increase is largely the result of the prevalence of respiratory infections.

Construction to Start Early This Year

AEC Okays Safety Factors for UM Nuclear Reactor

Construction of a million-watt nuclear reactor for research at the University of Michigan is expected to begin early this year, with approval by the Atomic Energy Commission on safety provisions.

Dean Ralph A. Sawyer, director of the Michigan-Phoenix Memorial project, announced in Ann Arbor receipt of a letter from Dr. Thomas H. Johnson, "director of the research division of the AEC, setting forth operating conditions and safety precautions to be followed in the proposed installation.

A uranium fuel supply for the reactor was assured by the AEC in June, through a letter from AEC chairman Lewis L. Strauss to University president Harlan Hatcher.

The reactor and a structure to house it are expected to be completed by the spring of 1936, Dean Sawyer said.

The building will be an extension of the north end of the Phoenix Memorial Laboratory now raising on the university's new North Campus.

Annapolis Men Must Be Sharp on Naval History

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UP)—"Piebes" at the Naval Academy here must stand ready at all times to answer questions on naval or academy history posed by upper classmen.

If they can't give spot answers, they respectfully reply, "I shall find out, sir," and go look up the facts.

Typical of the historical lore a piebe has on tap is the fact that Adm. George Dewey's lowest marks as midshipman were in tactics.

Winston Churchill, he learns, brought crew racing to the academy in 1893. This particular Churchill was a cadet from Missouri who had picked up pointers on rowing during a special trip to Yale.

"Anchors Aweigh" was written in 1913 by Bandmaster Charles A. Zimmerman and Midshipman Alfred H. Miles and mislabeled in public for the first time at President U. S. Grant's inauguration in 1873.

Because of this and similar hazards, the public will be permitted in the reactor building only on a "conducted tour" basis, Dean Sawyer said. He added that the design of the reactor is of an inherently stable nature, and that the power level can never rise excessively.

Prof. Henry J. Gombert, assistant director of the Phoenix Project and chairman of the Nuclear Engineering Committee of the College of Engineering, said the reactor will provide:

1. A primary radiation source for research on the utilization of radiation in engineering, physics, chemistry, biology, medicine and all other sciences in which radiation and its applications are becoming increasingly important.

2. A major teaching laboratory in the theory, construction and operation of nuclear reactors, which now promise to develop as a major source of energy for industry. Dean Sawyer observed that when the reactor is completed and in operation, the university will have the most complete and balanced set of intense-radiation sources now available: The reactor and ten-kilocurie cobalt source of the Phoenix Project and the synchrotron and cyclotron of the physics department.

Smith, Hinchman and Grylls, Detroit architectural and engineering firm, designed the reactor housing, while the reactor was designed by the Bobcock and Wilcox Co. of Akron, Ohio. The basic reactor concept used was originated by the AEC Laboratories at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The reactor project was coordinated by Lawrence C. Widdoes, project engineer, working under the university's Reactor Planning Committee.

Show Business Still a Challenge

Age No Factor in Life of TV Producer-Actor Now Nearing 51

(Today's article is the first of two on Robert Montgomery.)

By JAMES L. KIRKALLEN

NEW YORK (INS) — Time catches up with everybody and 50 becomes the dangerous age in any man's profession from the standpoint of achievement. But not necessarily.

Gay handsome Robert Montgomery—who turned 50 last May—is demonstrating he is by no means a has-been in show business.

Graying a bit but as charming as ever, he is proving as successful in the executive end of his profession as he used to be in the actor's end.

Today, working in New York, Montgomery is a high-salaried network television producer, host, narrator and sometimes actor on the popular dramatic series "Robert Montgomery Presents."

Genial Bob is also staff consultant at the White House, a job which means he gives technical advice to President Eisenhower on the latter's radio and television appearances.

For this bit of sideline work Montgomery accepts no pay from the government. He does it on his own time. He took the job at the President's request. It is a labor of love, for he and Ike are old friends. He makes occasional trips to Washington, where he has an office in the White House.

I interviewed Montgomery at the New Amsterdam Hotel, in the Times Square section of Manhattan, where he was busy directing a stage show called "Desperate Hours," a melodrama slated for an early debut on Broadway.

He chewed gum incessantly, as he moved about the stage showing his actors—in a nice way—how to do their stuff.

Montgomery is 6 feet 1 and weighs 185 pounds. He is slim and aristocratic-looking, without the slightest suggestion of a paunch. His manner is nonchalant and relaxed.

Instead of shouting commands to the actors at rehearsal, he watches a scene impassively. Often as not he will walk over to an actor, drape an arm over his shoulder and whisper advice—like a buddy talking to a pal. The actors love him and respect his ability.

Few actors have had Montgomery's experience in show business. He has had 29 years of it, on the legitimate stage, and in the movies, radio and TV.

Among a host of other citations, he received the gold medal of the International Benjamin Franklin Society "for courageous American citizenship in fighting against communist infiltration of the motion picture and radio fields."

A Republican by political affiliation, Montgomery has always taken a keen interest in current events. Asked to comment on the present world situation, he remarked:

"I'm in a suitable and normal state of confusion. Somebody's got to win the cold war. When you win the cold war, do you start a hot one? God forbid."

He added, however, that he is optimistic that world peace can be preserved.

He thought 1954 was a tremendous year for business in the United States and predicted even better times for 1955.

He couldn't answer the question as to whether the cinema, the legitimate theater, radio or TV offers the best medium of entertainment.

"All offer good entertainment when at their best," he declared. "The best way to improve each of these mediums is better material, better stories, better writing."

Discussing his present job as TV producer, Montgomery asserted that producing is a hard task "because you are dealing with the organizational as well as the creative end of the business."

The verve with which Montgomery directs a group of actors makes it apparent he revels in his job. Moving about the stage in the almost-empty theater, he re-enacted bits of one role after another until the actors got the idea. He was indefatigable.

He looked strangely youthful as he worked with great concentration. Like the late Mayor Jimmy Walker, he's the type that doesn't show his age. Time catches up on everybody, of course. Some men at 50 become age-conscious, feel they are just about washed up and dream of the day they can retire. Not Robert Montgomery!

Show business he still regards as a challenge.

Hollywood Film Stars Have Normal Children

By EARL WILSON

HOLLYWOOD—I'm always a little surprised that Hollywood stars tell stories about their kids—just like people.

Esther Williams and Ben Gage mentioned to us at Chasen's their son Benjie's skepticism about Santa Claus.

"Daddy," he wanted to know, "did you ever see Santa Claus?"

"Well, no-o-o," Ben admitted. "You see, he always comes pretty late."

"Did anybody ever see Santa Claus?" persisted Benjie. "I guess not," confessed Daddy. "Like I was saying, he's always so late arriving, and he's got to go to so many places, and he travels so fast."

"Then," said the movie conscious son, "if nobody ever sees Santa Claus, how come he dresses up in all those crazy costumes?"

Esther told me that she always seems to be having a baby while she's making a picture. This doesn't seem to interfere with her productions—or her production.

"They should be great swimmers," said Ben. "They all learned to swim at about minus 4 months."

Groucho Marx spoke most proudly of his daughter, Melinda, 8½, who'll appear on his TV show with him Jan. 13 in a scene from Gilbert and Sullivan.

She's a real actress," Groucho assured us. "My daughter sings lyrics not one word of which she understands."

During rehearsals, when she was having trouble following the words, they told her to watch her daddy and do what he did.

"Why should I?" she said. "I can't understand half of what I'm saying myself, and I can't understand anything daddy says." Melinda Marx, anyway, seems likely to become an actress.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN N. Y. . .

Lucky Luciano's Christmas cards to N. Y. friends had the note, "Hope to see you soon."

Jackie Gleason and Bullets Durgom are resting in Hollywood.

Jack Entratter and Jake Freedman of the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas, surprised their New Year's Eve guests by picking up the tab for all 750; cost the hotel $10,000.

Pretty Genevieve Aumont's new picture is "Prince of Players."

Dagmar, back from Alaska, heads for New York and a spot on the Berle show.

Sen. Taft's private papers will be made public in a few months.

Jerry Lewis asked Lionel Hampton to come along on their next tour.

U.S., Canadian Ministers Meet

Cabinet Officers Trying to Iron Out Questions on Trade, Tariffs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Half a dozen Cabinet officers from the United States and Canada get together today in a one-day exploration of thorny questions of trade and tariffs.

The discussion, likely to bring no hard-and-fast conclusions, revolves around the General Agreement on Tariff and Trade (GATT) sessions reopening today at Geneva, Switzerland.

C. D. Howe, Canada's trade minister, came back from the Geneva session when it recessed for Christmas with gloomy predictions. He said negotiations were going badly and he could not rule out possible collapse of the 37-nation agreement covering about 80 per cent of free world trade.

He was reported in a happier frame of mind when he arrived in Washington last night, however.

With Howe as Canadian Foreign Minister L. B. Pearson and Finance Minister Walter Harris. Their American counterparts at today's meeting were Secretary of State Dulles, Secretary of Agriculture Benson and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

The Canadians requested today's conference in an attempt to gain U. S. support for a reduction of import curbs under GATT.

Tells Legislators Need for Increased Facilities at Engineering College

Charles F. Kettering, director and research consultant for General Motors Corp., spoke in behalf of a $10,000,000 program to modernize and unify the College of Engineering laboratories at the University of Michigan today at the Engineering Society of Detroit.

He discussed the university's engineering education needs with state legislators from the Wayne, Oakland and Macomb county senatorial districts, university alumni, industrial and engineering leaders.

The meeting was sponsored by the Industrial Committee for University of Michigan Engineering Laboratories, a group of Detroit-area industrial leaders backing a five-year program to construct engineering laboratories on the university's North Campus.

The program, according to the committee, is designed to modernize and expand the university's engineering and research facilities to accommodate the 5,000 students expected in three to four years.

This increase in student enrollment is needed to meet the state's future demand for engineering and technically trained personnel, both in private industry and national defense. The committee reports that the engineering shortage remains critical, since the nation's schools and colleges graduated only 20,000 last June. The all-time high of 50,000 graduates was reached in 1950.

Their plan, the committee said, has been developed so that all departments of the College of Engineering will use the same laboratory for the technical area of activity for which the particular unit is intended. This common facility principle has been used by industry most effectively for many years.

At present, the committee reported, each department of the College of Engineering is responsible for providing its own laboratory needs. Space for these activities has been provided in buildings that were never intended for laboratories. The result, they say, is poor, inadequate facilities for modern teaching and research, and inefficiency.

Woman Admits Putting Poison in Mate's Lunch

IONIA (AP)—Prosecutor Rex O'Connor says Mrs. Edith White, 34-year-old mother of two children, has admitted she placed rat poison in a sandwich packed in her husband's lunch box.

She was arrested yesterday at her farm home and held for investigation.

Her husband Floyd, 35, said the sandwich tasted strange when he bit into it at the Michigan Wheel Co. in Grand Rapids, where he works as a materials control man.

He took the sandwich to the plant doctor, who turned it over to O'Connor. The prosecutor said he would take it to the state police laboratory at Lansing for analysis before filing a formal charge.
