Lebanese Rebels Show Newsman Beirut Stronghold

EDITOR'S NOTE — Wilton Wynn of The Associated Press has been a reporter in the Middle East for seven years. This week he was invited to be an overnight guest of rebel leader Saeb Salam in Beirut. He returned with this picture of life in the rebel quarter of the Lebanese capital.

By WILTON WYNN

BEIRUT (AP)—"Put up your hands."

It was so dark in the street that I could not see the rebel guard. But I heard the click of his gun. I put my hands up.

"One of you walk forward."

My comrade moved ahead, his hands still in the air.

"Say the password."

"Abou halmous."

That was enough. We moved up to the barricade manned by five Lebanese rebels. I stepped into the dugout and peered down the barrel of a machinegun through an opening in the sandbags.

Idle Pay Probe Opens Tuesday

Legislator Says Local Office Not Involved in Investigation

Pontiac is not listed as a target of a legislative probe into the alleged scope of union influence in the activities of the Michigan Unemployment Security Commission, Rep. Farrell E. Roberts said today.

Roberts, West Bloomfield Republican, is one of five members of the investigating committee scheduled to open its first hearing Tuesday in Grand Rapids.

"So far there has been no mention of irregularities in the operation of the Federal commission," said Roberts.

Rep. Walter G. Nakkula (R-Gladwin), chairman of the committee, has charged that unions, particularly the AFL-CIO, exercises undue influence over the second largest state agency, which is currently paying out more than a million dollars a day in unemployment benefits.

Nakkula said the committee will look into complaints that AFL-CIO members get preferred treatment in applications for benefits and in promotions when on the commission payroll.

The committee, given a $10,000 appropriation by the Legislature, also will move into Detroit, the Upper Peninsula and several other areas where big unemployment money is being dispersed, Nakkula said.

Cloudy and Warm, Showers Tomorrow

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicts partly cloudy tonight, with variable winds mostly southerly at 4-8 miles an hour. Tonight's low will be near 64 degrees.

Continued cloudiness is expected tomorrow with scattered afternoon or evening thundershowers. The high will reach around 82-86, the low about 65.

In downtown Pontiac, the lowest thermometer reading preceding 8 a.m. was 65. The mercury rose to 87 at 2 p.m.

Stores Celebrate New State

Offer Golden Sales

There's gold in them thar stores, partners. Today opens a special, month-long extravaganza of "Gold Rush Days" in the Pontiac stores, celebrating the arrival of the Territory of Alaska to statehood status.

In addition to special sales and prices, a series of Alaskan events has been planned in conjunction with the celebration.

Included in the activities is the chance to win a lot in Alaska. This and other features will be detailed during the coming "Gold Rush Days."

Elephants Herald Arrival of Circus

HURRY, HURRY, HURRY — They're here. Two hundred wild animals, including 15 elephants like this one being unloaded early this morning from one of many vans. It's all part of the Clyde Beatty Circus being sponsored here today by the Pontiac Lions Club. Performances for this one-day event are scheduled for 2 and 8 p.m. in the big tents at Pontiac Lake and Telegraph roads in Waterford Township.

No Trace of Thor Cone, Space-Traveling Mouse

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force said today that initial attempts to locate a Thor-Able rocket nose cone and its mouse rider have been stymied, but the search is still on.

More than a dozen specially equipped telemetry ships and planes pressed their hunt for the small nose cone near Ascension Island, 1,000 miles off the African coast.

The report on search progress came some 15 hours after the mouse named Wickle was blasted aloft in an air-conditioned chamber inside the nose cone of a Thor-Able rocket.

The mouse could tell man a lot about the perils of travel in outer space.

The rocket, said the Air Force, performed satisfactorily. That meant that it climbed 600 miles above the earth, then angled over into a horizontal flight that reached 6,000 miles to the vicinity of Ascension Island near the African continent.

If the rocket's nose cone was found after its plunge from space, it could solve many secrets. Military men wanted to know if the cone could withstand the great friction heat encountered in its dive back into the earth's atmosphere. If so, it could be depended upon to shield a hydrogen bomb in intercontinental flight in case of war.

Space scientists who hope someday to send men to the moon and beyond were especially interested in how the mouse fared in the 12,000 m.p.h. journey to space and back.

If Wickle survived, it would be the first known time that a living animal had gone into space and returned alive.

A spokesman disclosed yesterday that Wickle's predecessor, another Albino female named Laska, lived for 32 minutes after she was blasted into the heavens.

That is the period required for the return of the Thor-Able nose cone to the earth's surface in a 6,300-m.p.h. journey. It was believed the last recovery effort failed either because the nose cone's parachute did not open or the balloon, designed to suspend the package just below the water, failed to inflate.

Big Circus Mushrooms in Waterford

By DICK SAUNDERS

Early this morning while area residents slept, in the blue-gray of before-dawn, a marvelous thing happened that few ever see and many wonder about.

A huge circus big top quietly, unceremoniously sprung up out of a vacant lot. Waterford Township was graced by the addition to its population of 800 circus folk, nearly 200 wild animals and 15 elephants.

The huge motor fleets moved silently along Telegraph road looking for their new home. At Pontiac Lake road the caravan slowed, pulled to a stop.

Quietly, tenting was removed from trucks. Another truck, a huge one, opened its gates and elephants emerged, looking as much at home as the family dog.

Tents began going up in the mist. Animals were being fed. Elephants were helping with heavy loads. And all was a scene of silent, organized preparation.

NO BLARE OF BANDS

This is the way the circus comes to town. No parades, no bands blaring, no clowns frolicking, no ceremony. But a fantasy-land slowly, methodically springing from a bare lot at Pontiac Lake and Telegraph Rds.

The Clyde Beatty Circus—reputed to be the world's largest big top and menagerie—will have all its bands playing, callopes tooting and clowns clowning for two performances today, at 2 and 8 p.m.

They are being brought to Pontiac from Port Huron for a one-day stand under the auspices of the Pontiac Lions Club. Over 150 internationally famous circus stars will perform.

The big top's 20 companion tents, housing the vast menagerie, side shows, dressing rooms, horse tops and cookhouse, complete the canvas spread of nostalgic American tradition.

Doors to the menagerie and main tent open at 1 and 7 p.m. to provide leisurely inspection of the wild animals and elephants.

Essentially the bill accomplishes what Eisenhower advocated to clarify the command of the President, through the secretary of defense, over Army-Navy-Air Force-Marine task forces in the field.

But Congress, traditionally insisting on preserving the identity of the separate services, did not give the defense secretary all the peace-time power Eisenhower advocated to tighten organizational control over the services. Moreover, Congress wrote in some provisions which it described as safeguards but which Eisenhower has criticized as possibly obstructive.

The measure does reduce the powers of the service secretaries and the individual military chiefs.

The bill provides a clear-cut command system for the kind of forces most often used in modern wars—teams composed of selected elements of one, two or more services. Once a service committed units to such a force it could not withdraw them without approval of the secretary of defense.

President to Demand Clear Ground Rules

French Ambassador Says De Gaulle 'Not in Favor' of Security Council Talks

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower began writing a new message to Premier Khrushchev today insisting that the ground rules be spelled out clearly in advance of a United Nations summit conference.

U.S. officials said it seems certain that the meeting will be held. But here, and in other Western capitals, the view was that the opening day suggested by Khrushchev, next Monday, is much too soon.

Diplomats estimated it would take two or three weeks of negotiations to determine exactly what countries should be included and what procedures should govern discussions.

French Ambassador Herve Alphand said today Premier De Gaulle "is not in favor" of a summit conference within the United Nations Security Council in New York at this time.

But, he later issued a statement leaving completely in doubt whether De Gaulle finally would refuse to attend.

Alphand called on Secretary of State Dulles and told newsmen afterward "We want real results, and we don't think the Security Council is a good place." He added "It was clear from our reply we are not in favor."

Soviet Premier Khrushchev, he said, was "certainly either mistaken or he did not attempt to read it (De Gaulle's) answer too well" if he believed the French leader accepted Khrushchev's bid.

Newsmen understood Alphand to mean that De Gaulle would not attend any summit meeting within the Security Council framework which might be arranged within the next few weeks.

NOT INFORMED

However, Alphand, on returning to the embassy, authorized a statement which said:

"The ambassador never said that Gen. De Gaulle would not attend a summit meeting of the Security Council."

"He simply said that he had not been informed of any change in the French position which had been stated in the letter of Gen. De Gaulle to Mr. Khrushchev." Nothing quite like the proposed historic conference has ever been held at the U.N. Security Council in New York. Important precedents will be set.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles were at work on a reply to the Soviet premier's conditional agreement to meet with the West at the United Nations in New York.

Hagerty would give no hint as to the draft's contents. He said he did not expect "any immediate answer" to Khrushchev because this country intends to consult its allies, principally Britain and France.

U.N. Plans Conference Safeguards

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—The United Nations has begun working on security and protocol problems connected with a summit conference in the Security Council, and it was reported U.S. Marines may be asked to guard a 15-block approach to the building.

A source close to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said the United Nations would be ready by Monday to play host to President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, and other government chiefs invited to attend.

But some sources doubted security arrangements could be completed in time. It was expected that anti-Communist organizations in New York, particularly remnants of the Hungarian Freedom Army who escaped the 1956 Soviet tank attacks, would give the Soviet delegation a blazing reception when it arrived.

U.N. security officials said they were ready to cooperate with the U.S. Secret Service, Britain's Scotland Yard, the French Surete and Russia's security organization.

Khrushchev's sudden provisional acceptance of Eisenhower's bid to a summit meeting in the Security Council immediately touched off reports that a 15-block stretch of Manhattan's First Avenue may be closed off and patrolled by U.S. Marines. The gleaming U.N. edifice fronts on First Avenue, while the East River flows behind it.

Golfer Appeals to High Court Over Handicap

OSSENING, N.Y. (AP)—A golfer has asked the New York State Supreme Court to compute his golf handicap.

William W. Wacht, a member of the nearby Pines Ridge Golf Club, seeks a court order compelling the club's handicap committee to raise his handicap to 34 from its present 29.

The handicap committee decided recently to make an "adjustment" in Wacht's handicap in view of his record of tournament victories.

Wacht, 60, a former president of the club, is a four-times-a-week golfer. He averages near 90 in club tournaments, his fellow members say. In regular rounds he usually does 18 holes in 115.

Wacht says his game depends on the season of the year. "Generally I hit a short and straight ball. In August when the ground is hard, I get a better roll."

Lads' Wrong-Way Trip to Tennessee Delayed by Lure of Inviting Lake

Two Detroit brothers, 10 and 15 years old, who were detained by sheriff's deputies late yesterday afternoon en route to Tennessee, are ready to tell the world that food at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department "is great."

The young adventurers stole bicycles near their home in southwest Detroit Saturday evening, and started out for Tennessee.

"We were going to see our two brothers and a sister," they told deputies.

After traveling two days (in the wrong direction) and sleeping on the ground at night, the boys spotted a one-room shack at 9580 Dixie Highway, in Springfield Township, Monday and decided to stop for a rest.

Described by deputies as "a couple of very mannerly, bright kids," the boys took a cot and blanket from a neighboring junk yard. Each night they walked across the highway to a market and picked up some food after the market closed.

It seems the vacationing youths were wandering down to the old water hole several times daily for a dip, although, they admitted, the younger of the two had forgotten to bring his trunk along.

Deputies picked the carefree duo up after a neighbor put in a call that two runaway boys were living alone in a shack.

"The first thing we did when we got to the jail was eat a good hot meal," they said happily. Deputies turned the two over to juvenile authorities for safe passage home.

Suds Fly as Train and Truck Tangle

BEER ON THE BREEZE—Kegs of beer rolled in all directions at 2:30 yesterday afternoon when a Grand Trunk Railroad train hit a beer truck at the crossing near Oakland and Sanderson streets. The truck driver, Richard L. Fuller, 23, of 5200 Pine Knob

Rd., Independence Township, told police he did not see or hear the crossing signals. He was uninjured. A flying keg damaged a car driven by Rosemary Spencer, 38, of 540 Amberwood, Pontiac Township, as she waited at the crossing. She too was not hurt.

UAW Revises Contract Terms

Ford Reply Expected to Rewritten Demands for Fringe Benefits

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. today was expected to give its answer to the United Auto Workers Union's rewritten demands on Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB).

The union broke the routine of the talks yesterday by revising the language of its SUB program "to fit into the contract."

It was the first indication that negotiators were seriously discussing any important issues in the lagging talks aimed at reaching new contracts between the auto industry's "Big Three" and the union.

It was believed likely the union would make similar changes in its proposals in talks with General Motors and Chrysler Corp. in the near future. GM and Chrysler both were scheduled to meet with the union again today, but "no progress" was reported by negotiators at either company yesterday.

Kenneth Bannon, director of the UAW negotiators at Ford, said the "new language" was drafted by the union during a recess in the talks yesterday. After several more hours of negotiating, the talks were broken off to give the company negotiators more time to look over the new language.

One company spokesman said the new language should not be taken seriously.

"It is just the same proposal in different language," the spokesman said. "The union apparently is just stalling for more time."

"This puts our SUB proposal into contract language," he said. "We are seeking changes to simplify the administration of the SUB program."

Admiral Vanishes on Ocean Liner

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Navy Rear Adm. Lynne C. Quigley, 52, disappeared aboard the liner President Cleveland while it was en route from Japan to San Francisco, American President Lines officials reported today.

A message received by the shipping company from the Cleveland's skipper, Commodore H. J. Ehnman, said Quigley was last seen at Tuesday midnight, 36 hours out from San Francisco. He had been traveling with his wife, Anne, who reported him missing.

SECOND SET OF TWINS — Jim and Mary Lou Stelt, of 343 Tilmor Dr., Waterford Township, are convinced now that all good things come in pairs. The Stelts feel this way after Mary Lou delivered their second set of twins, this time baby girls, at Pontiac General Hospital Monday. In February of 1955 the Stelts greeted baby boys. clining on a mattress with a tommygun on his lap.

He growled that the Americans had cost him heavily by sending troops to support President Chamoun.

"Why don't you let us end this thing instead of making it worse?" he asked. "You see that gasoline station there? That's mine. I used to take in $600 a month there. For 75 days now, I haven't made a penny.

"You see these boys with me? They are all taxi drivers. They used to make up to $10 a day. Now they get nothing.

"Each of us has five or six children, but we have to leave our families every night to come here and guard our homes."

The talk turned to the American forces in Lebanon. Someone mentioned that 16 American planes had been shot by small arms fire from rebels near Tripoli, in North Lebanon.

"Saeb Salam has ordered us not to shoot at those planes," one of the guards said. "Otherwise the Marines would soon learn that Basta boys can shoot too."

These men have cleared government snipers out of their own area and have consolidated their positions. They have strict orders from Salam not to shoot unless absolutely necessary, both to save ammunition and to avoid provoking incidents. The area is much quieter now than during the riotous early days of the rebellion, when pitched battles were daily occurrences.

Just before the curfew, we heard an explosion a few hundred yards from Salam's house. Another sounded after midnight, and in the early morning came the sharp rattle of machine-gun fire. But compared with the early days of the revolt, it was a quiet night. As we talked to another group of guards near Salam's house, one wheeled around, pointed his gun toward the darkness and barked, "Halt! We could barely make out a hooded figure cowering against the wall.

Two guards moved toward the spot.

"What's the password? Who are you? Speak or we'll shoot." A woman sobbed. "Please don't shoot me," she pleaded, pulling her shawl across her face. "I was only bringing this jacket to Ali. I was afraid he might catch cold."

The guard named Ali brusquely yanked the jacket from his wife's hand and muttered something in embarrassment. The little woman trotted back into the darkness.

We moved on up and down stone staircases, through muddy alleys, in and out of houses, visiting barricades at every strategic point. At every turn the words "Abou Halmous" came in handy.

Contempt Vote Delay Rapped

Probers Want to Know Why No Action Taken Against Goldfine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some members of the House influence-investigating subcommittee today chafed at the delay in voting to recommend a contempt of Congress citation for Boston millionaire Bernard Goldfine.

Rep. John J. Flynn Jr. (D-Ga.) said he "can't understand" what is holding up subcommittee action against presidential assistant Sherman Adams' gift-giving friend.

Rep. John B. Bennett (D-Mich.) said Goldfine should be cited promptly. He said the subcommittee has "nothing left to do" in the case but vote.

At the same time, a House armed services subcommittee headed by Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) continued closed-door sessions on whether Adams brought improper influence to bear to get the Army to refund a $41,264 penalty on a cloth contract.

Hebert said hearings on the refund granted last year to Rayline Worsted, Inc., of Manchester, N. H., might run into next week. Influence-investigating Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) excused Goldfine as a witness last Thursday after giving him a final chance to answer 23 carefully-worded questions about his involved financial dealings.

The generous textile tycoon replied—as he had repeatedly in the face of contempt citation threats—that the questions were not relevant to the subcommittee's investigation into his alleged influence-for-favors relationship with Adams. Harris adjourned the hearings indefinitely.

The Day in Birmingham

Civil Air Patrol Cadets Will Greet Norwegians

BIRMINGHAM — Civil Air Patrol cadets of the Birmingham squadron will greet 12 guests from Norway tomorrow morning at Selfridge Field.

The young Norwegians are touring this country, visiting CPA squadrons and exchanging information on how the flying units operate here and abroad.

A busy schedule will open Saturday morning with a bus tour of Detroit. A dance at 8:30 p.m. in the Birmingham Community House will end the day.

Sunday the groups will be guests at the Naval Air Station, Grosse Ile, for church services, a tour of the base and lunch. Later, Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Granger of Walnut Lake, will host the group at a picnic and swimming party.

A Ford Motor Company tour and drive-in movie will highlight Monday. The visiting cadets will leave Tuesday to be guests of the Webbville unit.

Lt. Col. Richard Nelson is general chairman of the local program with Capt. William Teasel, Birmingham squadron commanding officer, in charge of placing guests with host families.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wright represent the Birmingham Cadet's Parents Club in the social and recreational program.

The Birmingham Community House will remain open during August. Although there will be fewer activities, house facilities will be available to all daylong groups.

Except for special requests, the house will be open for evening programs on Wednesday only, according to Mrs. Effie Schaffer, house director.

The Senior Women's and Men's groups will continue their weekly sessions. The ladies, however, are dropping their Red Cross sewing program until fall.

Robert Girardin, Birmingham recreation director, has asked John O'Gorman, W. Coit Aleo and Norman Wolfe to serve on the advisory budget committee for the recreation program.

O'Gorman, commission representative to the Recreation Board and committee chairman, said the group is making weekly surveys of all activities as they are related to the budget.

"As much as we hate to do it, any program that is not pulling its own weight financially will have to be discontinued," he said. "Our budget has been cut and we can not continue any activity in the red through lack of interest."

Grover Serenbets, Birmingham's city engineer, said today bids for the 1958 sidewalk repair program will be sought early next month. The city will be responsible for approximately 11,530,000 square feet of sidewalk replacement with an additional 7,530 square feet assessed against property owners.

The Engineering Department is making a study of areas without walks to determine their needs. In some sections, Serenbets pointed out, construction costs will be almost prohibitive. He said high banks adjacent to the sidewalk area would make the additional expense of retaining walls necessary, throwing the cost far out of line.

Mrs. Charles C. Wright Service for Mrs. Charles C. (Elizabeth) Wright, 81, of 341 Westwood Dr., Birmingham, will be held Friday at the Ross & Son Funeral Home, Brownsville, Pa. Burial will be in the Bridgeport Cemetery, according to the Huntton Funeral Home.

Mrs. Wright died Tuesday in Pontiac of arteriosclerosis. Surviving are a son, Joseph F. of Birmingham; a daughter, Mrs. Richard Skales of Birmingham; and three brothers, all in Pennsylvania.

Elementary Grades Bus Policy Same

There will be no change in last year's Waterford Township Board of Education policy concerning bus transportation of children in kindergarten and the first six grades, who live more than a mile from school.

Though an error yesterday, it was reported that there would be a change in the policy which provides that these children be transported to school.

A change was made in the transportation policy concerning pupils in grades 7 through 12, and now only pupils outside a mile and one half radius will be picked up. Formerly the radius was one mile.

St. Joseph Changes Hospital Visiting Hours

Due to the crowded conditions at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, visiting hours have been temporarily changed to 2 to 4 and 7 to 8 p.m. daily effective today. They were 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. previously.

A spokesman for the hospital said the old hours would be restored when patient occupancy lowered from the present 104 per cent capacity.

Would Increase Limit on Debt

Symington Calls for Boost to Care for Defense Needs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) called today for another increase in the national debt limit to cover bigger defense spending.

Symington, in a speech prepared for floor delivery, said that if this is not done, there will be "a repetition of last year's cash crisis in the Pentagon."

Meanwhile, it was learned that Secretary of the Treasury Anderson already has sounded out key members of the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance committees on a further boost in the debt ceiling.

It was understood also that Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va), Finance Committee chairman, has agreed some increase probably will be needed, but has urged Anderson to hold the limit to 285 billion dollars.

The secretary has indicated, however, that his request may be for 290 billion, 10 billion above the temporary ceiling of 280 billion approved by Congress in February.

Under the bill passed in February, the permanent debt limit reverts to 275 billion July 1, 1959.

Symington said that the administration's decision not to ask for an increase in the 275 billion ceiling last year caused a disastrous stretchout of defense spending last fall.

This not only lessened the nation's military strength but also helped bring on an economic recession, he said.

Two Persons Injured in Three-Car Crash

A three-car collision yesterday on Crooks road, Avon Township, sent one person to the hospital and slightly injured another.

According to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies, a car driven by Mrs. LaVerne R. Nadon, 38, of 2553 S. Christian Hills Dr., Avon Township, slowed down to allow another car ahead to turn and was struck in the rear by the car of J. Bryan Jesse, 61, of 4372 Lamson St., Drayton Plains.

Jesse's car then swerved and hit a car driven by Arthur A. Morish, 38, of 1555 Harwood Ave., Oxford.

Mrs. Alberta Jesse, 64, was admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital with scalp lacerations and is in satisfactory condition today. Mrs. Nadon was treated for bruises and released.

Two Men Arraigned on Burglary Charge

Two of three men police say participated in a burglary were arraigned yesterday in Pontiac Municipal Court.

Robert B. Slusher, 20, of 90 Virginia St., and John C. Miracle, 20, of 109 S. Fairmont St., waived examination and were bound to circuit court by Judge Cecil B. McCallum. They will be arraigned there Monday.

The pair and Andy R. Guyton, 22, no address, are accused of burglarizing the apartment of Mary Swain, of 472½ S. Saginaw St., on July 19 and stealing her radio, television and phonograph. Guyton was arrested yesterday and will be arraigned today.

Bank Loot Found on 'Repairman'

CHICAGO (AP)—The FBI said the man looked like one of the repairmen, but when bank guards nabbed him on his way out they found $6,835 he had calmly and furtively scooped from a till.

The guards grabbed the cool customer when a suspicious woman cashier screamed for help.

The man refused to give his name and claimed the money was his. But the FBI said a check of fingerprints showed he is Edward Joseph Corrigan, 33, a former seaman once convicted for fraud in Cleveland.

The FBI said Corrigan apparently mingled with workmen repairing a bank cage and then gathered the loot when no one was looking.

Corrigan was charged with larceny of the Livestock National Bank. He was held in $10,000 bond.

Blast of Chemicals May Blind Teenager

DETROIT (AP)—A teenage boy was hurt seriously when a jar of chemicals exploded as he stirred it on a street near his home last night.

Doctors said Gerald Rowe, 16, of Livonia, may be blinded and lose his right hand as a result of the blast.

Two companions also were burned and cut, but not seriously. The jar contained potassium nitrate and metallic zinc. Police quoted one of the companions as saying Rowe was trying to ignite the mixture.

5 Are Arrested in Burglaries

Police Report Solving of Ten in Pontiac, Perhaps Others

Ten burglaries in Pontiac have been cleared up with five arrests and two more in Oakland County may be cleared, detectives said today.

Under arrest for burglary are Leonard J. Munson, 18, of 26 Esther St.; James Edwards, 17, of 217 Fisher St.; Thomas Postell, 19, of 24 Walnut St.; Thomas Manning, 17, of 162 Wesson St., and Robert Manning, 18, of 330 Franklin Rd.

Munson yesterday waived examination in municipal court and was bound to circuit court. Postell, Edwards and Thomas Manning demanded examination. Robert Manning will be arraigned today.

According to Det. James Bale and Sgt. John Williams, members of the gang participated in nine burglaries of A & W Root Beer Stands at 218 S. Saginaw St., 676 W. Huron St. and 128 N. Perry St. during the past three weeks.

In addition, the officers said the gang burglarized a gas station at 680 W. Huron and two dairy bars in the county.

They specialized in forcing coin machines and taking change and cigarettes, the officers said.

Polio Case Not Fatal

The first case of polio throughout the county this year was reported to health department officials last week. A Bloomfield Township child is the victim. It was not a man and death did not occur as reported yesterday.

11 Area Drivers Lose Privilege

Seven Restricted From Road for Being Drunk Behind the Wheel

Seven of the 11 Pontiac area residents who had their driver's license revoked or suspended recently lost the privilege for drunk driving, according to the Michigan Secretary of State's Office.

Those ordered to furnish financial responsibility for driving under the influence of liquor are: Ralph L. Curtis, Jr., Milford; Ruth L. Engel, 686 E. Columbia; Elmer J. Hawkins, 20 School; Arthur M. Hutchings, Rochester; Clyde C. Mize, 25 W. Rutgers; Kenneth F. Robbins, Dayton Plains; Stanley Stevens, Oxford.

Cited for habitual negligence were: Samuel W. Foden of Rochester; Robert Riesz and Joan E. Rogers both of Birmingham.

The license of Thomas Simms, 485 Colorado St., was taken for unsatisfactory judgment.

One of the larger Great Lakes vessels can haul more than 18,000 tons of iron ore at one time, or 15 times more than the first ore freighter which was designed in 1869.

Break Off Diplomatic Relations With Russia?

Both Senator PORTER and Representative FORD have suggested that the United States should "consider breaking off diplomatic relations with Russia."

The insults and indignities heaped upon the U. S. embassy in Moscow are sufficient cause for slapping down the Commies in diplomatic and official circles. Both of the Michiganders declared the howling mob that broke the windows and caused widespread damage to the U. S. residence was inspired by the Russian government.

We agree with the Wolverine statesmen. If the Russians want to play that way, let's send them packing from Washington in a gentlemanly way instead of staging a mob scene around their official U. S. residence.

Taking this step is a grave matter, but it deserves thought and study. Where's the end? What must we put up with before patience ceases?

New Narcotics Clinic Proposed by Committee

Although not a new idea, a joint committee of the American Medical and American Bar Associations has suggested treatment of narcotic addiction by gradual withdrawal of the drug.

The committee recommends establishment of a clinic in Washington, D.C. where a select number of addicts would be given free drugs in decreasing amounts to try to break them of the habit.

Five years ago a California crime commission had proposed much the same thing. It suggested that supervised dispensaries sell to addicts at cost, small doses of the drugs and predicted that this would do away with criminal traffic in narcotics.

Since 1920 in England medical doctors have been authorized to give drugs to addicts as part of a treatment program. As a consequence the drug traffic is reported to have all but vanished there.

Imprisoning addicts doesn't cure them. Authorities agree that it is a medical as well as a psychiatric problem. The crime involved grows out of the huge profits to be made in the illicit drug trade. Those who smuggle in and peddle narcotics deserve the harshest punishment. Too often only the "pusher" is arrested while the wealthy gangster at the top is seldom caught.

The proposal of the doctors and lawyers should be given a trial. Too few cures are being effected by other methods and there has been no decrease in crime traceable to drug addiction.

Sure Death Formula: Mix Drinking, Driving

A sure death team: Alcohol plus speed. The following case is a clear example as reported last week by the American Medical Association in conjunction with New York's Driver Research Center.

The man driving the car closed his eyes for just an instant. But when the tree came up at him, his hands felt too rubbery to swing his wheel fast enough. The car hit a tree and the wheel crushed his chest. He died four hours later.

It was after this driver's death that the real story began. A blood sample was taken and a chemical analysis was made. The blood of this driver contained 21 per cent by weight of alcohol. This examination alone was not conclusive, but questioning of the driver's friends revealed that he had about seven martinis before the accident.

Without question the blood told the story. The driver was drunk.

A survey taken over the past eight years in New York State reveals that of drivers who met death while at the wheel and who were not involved with another car, the report is that at least half of them were drunk.

Perhaps another 20 per cent had enough alcohol in their blood so that their reflexes were impaired. They couldn't negotiate a curve or they put their brakes on too fast or not fast enough. The survey goes on to show that in some 70 per cent of the accidents, alcohol was a big factor.

There is no question about it: High drinking and high horsepower mean death. Moderation is a must for longevity.

The Man About Town $50 for Freckles

That Prize to Be Given at Coming 4-H Club Fair

Perseverance: What comes from a strong will. Obstinacy: What comes from a strong won't.

Did you ever know a freckle faced boy or girl who wasn't a live wire? It usually means pep and good sense.

At the annual Oakland County 4-H Club Fair on Friday evening, Aug. 8, The Pontiac Press will award a $50 U. S. Savings Bond to the freckle champion. There is no entrance fee, and any Oakland County youth of 18 years or under is eligible to compete.

Due notice is given so you can be grooming your freckles, and be ready for the announcement of James Marble, who will be in charge of that evening's program, to step up and be judged.

The judges are to be appointed by the fair management. Besides making you quite outstanding in other ways, those numerous brownish spots may be worth $50 to you.

The 1958-59 edition of Oakland County's official directory now is ready for distribution through the office of just before his death, it lists many pertinent facts about our county. It has national, state, county, township, city and village officers comprising several hundred names. Mrs. Allen tells me that a copy will be sent free of charge to all who request it.

Congratulations to the Oakland County Bar Association on its selection of William B. Hartman as its president. It was my privilege to be in quite intimate association with Bill for many years as a draft board member, where he still continues. It wore me out. He's my top idea of a good scout who wants to do his civic duty—and knows how to do it well.

The First Displaced Person

David Lawrence Says:

Small Nations Backing U.S. Policy

WASHINGTON — Among the governments of the free world, especially those countries, there is beginning to develop a better understanding of the far-reaching purpose of the United States and Great Britain in sending military forces to Lebanon and Jordan. In fact, the United Nations General Assembly is likely now to give a two-thirds vote to any resolution proposed in support of what has been done thus far by the United States and Great Britain in the Middle East.

Against the United States has demonstrated before the world its unselfish idealism. Unlike big powers in the past, it has gone to the defense of a small nation without seeking a single foot of territory or material advantage. Its record in World War I and World War II, as well as in the Korean War, is now paralleled by America's disinterested intervention in the Middle East to save a free government.

CRIED AGGRESSION

At first, the Soviet charge of "aggression" and memories of the misuse of force in the past created an impression of grave concern and anxiety. But as the United States and Great Britain filled in their diplomatic representatives throughout the world with the authentic background, there has come a decided change in the attitude of many governments.

The issue is very simply stated by the American diplomats. It revolves around these vital questions: Does a small country want to go unprotected hereafter when a larger one starts infiltrating its territory and assassinating its leaders and begins to take a rebel regime under its own control? How long would any small country last if "indirect aggression" were to go unchecked? What one of the countries in Latin America or Africa or Asia or Europe would be safe?

Here are the facts that, for example, faced the United States government before it made its historic decision to land troops in Lebanon:

1. The United States had relied on the U.N. observer team to expose what was happening as arms and supplies and espionage agents crossed into Lebanon. But the U.N. observers proved inadequate in number and did not have access to border areas to get vital information.

2. The American government had documented proof that the rebels in Lebanon were receiving aid in arms and personnel from the outside. The American Embassy in Beirut reported flatly that the rebel leader has been maintaining an open telephone line to the Syrian capital of Damascus.

WANT TO LEAVE

The American and British governments really have no desire to keep their troops on the soil of Middle Eastern countries a moment longer than is absolutely necessary. Some means, however, must be found, the American government feels, to authorize through the United Nations General Assembly the sending of an international police force immediately into any country where there is "indirect aggression" and the existing government asks for help.

Out of the present crisis may come the establishment of a principle of tremendous moral force in the world. The emphasis heretofore in the U.N. has been on the prevention of war and the peaceful settlement of disputes between nations. But the spectre of a big war now has arisen, as the world sees what "indirect aggression" really can mean inside small and helpless countries everywhere, and then to the peace of all nations.

It's all very well to sympathize with the aspirations of "Arab nationalism," but unless military forces are ready to protect the territorial integrity and political independence of the smaller countries, the hopes of any "nationalism" can be crushed by the tyranny of a new kind of colonialism.

Maybe the Moscow government, which professes so much enthusiasm for "Arab nationalism," has been vetoing every protective measure the U.N. Security Council offers because of a fear that the weaker countries in Eastern Europe will next come under the protection of the U.N.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Deficiency in Vitamin A NOT Cause of Pimples

A Connecticut lady says she has been taking vitamin A (50,000 units per day) for five years, as advised by a doctor to keep her skin clear of pimples.

She has now developed vitamin A poisoning—cracked skin, itching.

So she has stopped vitamin A intake altogether. Result? Face, chest and back now broken out with pimples and blackheads.

DR. BRADY The lady asks how serious vitamin A poisoning is and whether it would be dangerous to resume taking vitamin A now, in smaller doses.

To the best of my knowledge, vitamin A has nothing to do with blackheads and pimples.

When the lady says "a doctor" advised her to take 50,000 units of vitamin A daily to keep her skin clear of pimples, I infer that it was not her doctor who gave the advice.

In any such case, a fair test of vitamin A (not pro-vitamin, carotene) would be an intake of 50,000 units a day for three months.

If in that time the skin showed distinct improvement, then it would be sufficient to continue taking 50,000 units once a week.

If the skin showed no noticeable improvement, the vitamin A should be discontinued as unnecessary.

Incidentally, a can of sardines supplies about 200,000 (two hundred thousand) units of vitamin A.

Vitamin A deficiency is a common cause of lead skin, shark skin, fish skin, nutmeg-grater skin, alligator hide, rough skin, dry skin or dirty skin, as the condition is variously called—but NOT a cause of acne (pimple and blackheads).

In some cases Xeroderma (xerosis, dry skin), due to insufficient daily intake of vitamin A, there are some papules on the skin, but not pimples, small boils.

The Connecticut lady should get an adequate daily ration of vitamin A from such foods as eggs, butter, cheese, milk, liver, oysters, sardines, or manufacture her own vitamin A from the carotene (pro-vitamin) in carrots, spinach, tomato, watercress, lettuce, apricots, tangerines, orange juice, or by taking about two teaspoonfuls of cod liver oil, or by taking a 25,000-unit, tasteless tablet of vitamin A acetate two or three times a week.

Signed letters, not more than one paragraph long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Offers Tips to Better Study Habits

Tom wants to know how to improve his memory and study more efficiently. That is a widespread desire. So scrapbook this case and send for the booklet below. There is a definite technique by which a mediocre reader or student can greatly improve his grades and even run circles around his more talented classmates.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE Case Y-370: Tom G., aged 18, is heading for college next term.

"Dr. Crane, I am only an average student," he began, "and my dad says I will find competition much keener at the university."

"Will you please give me some suggestions on how to make better grades?" I read my textbooks but don't seem to absorb enough from them."

JUMP THE GUN Get off to a fast start! That not only wins many races in a track or swimming meet, but helps in school grades, too.

For example, talk to older students about the professors and the courses you plan to take.

At the opening lecture, take good notes. Buy your textbooks at once and be sure you study thoroughly the early assignments.

For that's how you will get the jump on your classmates. Most of them will dawdle along, figuring the professor won't expect anybody to be prepared at the 2nd meeting of the class.

So they even delay purchasing textbooks for possibly a week! And they may not get down to

Seconds Editorial Opinion Regarding Court Decisions

Your Monday editorial concerning the United States Supreme Court was timely. The disproportionate number of decisions in favor of Communists, Red front organizations, pinks and Socialists is most curious.

We are puzzled as to why Mr. Earl Warren bends over so far backward — or to the left — to render decisions which encourage these undesirable elements.

Certainly it is high time that Congress should take action to remedy this sorry situation.

'Government Gives Household Hints'

Housewives, do you know what dishpan you should have in your kitchen? The bureaucrats in Washington don't think you do. You probably never wrote for their advice, but they insist that you should have it. So at your expense, they've written a book to tell you, entitled "Tools for Food Preparation and Dishwashing." Read it and learn.

Take dishpans. A dishpan is a pan in which to wash dishes. That is fundamental information. You will need a dishpan. But it is important to have the right sized dishpan. They have solved that problem.

A dishpan, they say, should be large enough to hold your dirty dishes but not too large for your sink. You probably never thought of that. This information will save you from (a) buying a dishpan too small to hold your dishes and (b) from buying one too large for your sink.

With the money you will save by not buying the wrong sized dishpan, you will have more money to pay taxes for more information you will need to buy the other kitchen tools you will want.

This will save you the wear and tear of trying to solve this gigantic problem all by yourself, or by visiting your nearby hardware store. Thus refreshed, you will be able to ask them to write another book on "How to Reduce Taxes."

New York

Urges Prohibition of Blind Beggars

I've been disturbed by reports that blind mendicants have been operating in our city recently. I saw this verified while shopping downtown.

In a continuing effort to educate the public to the true needs of the blind and eliminate the age-old misconceptions of blindness, the Michigan Council of the Blind wants people of Pontiac and Michigan to know that it considers begging, or panhandling, by the blind unnecessary and the gifts of money to blind panhandlers "misdirected charity," and the Council is not an organization speaking for the blind. It is the blind speaking for themselves.

What is the solution to this continuing social problem? Simple. The public should stop contributing to these leeches who play upon the natural sympathy everyone feels toward the blind, which is a good thing if it is directed toward helping the blind on the road to self reliance, but this sympathy is misdirected when it results in the public being a "soft touch" for blind people who do not wish to take advantage of the usual means of support or assistance, or that small minority which prefers to remain dependent upon others for support.

In addition, state and local law enforcement agencies can, and should, strictly enforce Michigan's laws which prohibit mendicants, blind or otherwise, from practicing their nefarious profession on the streets of our cities.

Mrs. Dorothy Ann Eagle, Sec. Michigan Council of the Blind, Inc.

Dear one, you mean the world to me... No one could take your place... And I could never look with love... On any other face... Forever as the mountains stand... And rivers join the seas... You are in all my thoughts and prayers... And all my memories... You are the Snow White of my dreams... The fairest in the land... And humbly, dear, and gratefully... I kiss your lovely hand... I cherish you with all my heart... Each moment, night and day... You really mean the world to me... What more is there to say... Except the promise that I made... And I repeat to you... THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the son of the living God.—Matthew 16:16.

A Christian is a man in Christ. "If any man be in Christ," A Christian is a man for Christ. "Glorify God in your body and spirit which are God's."—Richard Fuller.

even hit-and-miss studying for 10 days.

So "jump the gun." That also gives you the benefit of a good "halo."

In school work a student who starts out with a good score tends to be rated as a top student thereafter. This is the "halo" that can help you win the 4-year race.

On the contrary, if your "halo" is a bad one, and the prof gets you tagged as a poor student, he may not believe your good grades later on, even if you do honestly earn them.

HOW TO STUDY Textbooks are often pretty dry and undramatic. They are full of sterile facts, far removed from the immediate interest of students.

But your grades depend on parroting back those facts on exams, so act accordingly.

And to waken yourself from the stupor in which most students fall when reading dry textbooks, construct a running "true-false" exam as you read.

You can vary the quiz technique by a 4-answer ("multiple choice") plan.

Every time you see a "law" or a statement of fact, work it into a true-false statement, such as the following: "T. F. Pasteur was the discoverer of radium. (Page 347.)"

Keep up that method throughout the chapter. Before class next morning just cover the letters "T. F." with a post card or envelope and test yourself on each statement, even as you walk across the campus.

Then pull the post card down a notch till you can look at the letter which is marked properly.

If you forget the details, your page number in parentheses will let you make a quick check-up.

You can easily review an exam over 50 to 100 pages of textbook reading in a few minutes walk to the classroom.

And then keep these true-false or "multiple choice" exams as a quick and intensive review before final exams.

USE AN AGENDA

To avoid futile frittering away of time, make a daily or even a weekly "agenda." List your time schedule of duties for every hour throughout the day.

Then you can look to your agenda to see what to be doing at any given minute. This agenda plan will increase the output of all workers, including housewives.

For further methods, send for my booklet "How to Improve Memory & Study More Efficiently," enclosing a stamped, return envelope plus 20 cents (non-profit).

It can alter your entire college career, but is also quite beneficial to business men and housewives.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 30c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

With Pencil Jabs and Strident Gestures

Sobolev Hams It Up on U.N. Stage

By DOD QUIGG

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—On the grim world stage that the United Nations has become, there is one actor who hams it up so that the others seem badly upstaged, if not drab.

He is Arkady A. Sobolev, the Soviet delegate, who frets and scribbles and shuffles papers and whispers to aides even while he is listening to others speak. And when he talks himself, he gets his head and hands into it with quick and telling gestures.

The Security Council chamber is a place of browns and beiges, with a heavy, light-coffee carpet. The council table is a glistening dark yellow circle ringed with bright blue chairs. Behind it, in brilliant hues, is a huge mural depicting the emergence of man from darkness into the light of civilized behavior. Sobolev sits scribbling. The attention of the full gallery of spectators is on him. He listens in the earphone to Russian translation of other speakers' remarks, and the yellow top of his pencil never stops gyrating.

tacled man in a dark suit. To his left is Sir Pierson Dixon, the British representative, calm and self possessed. To Dixon's left is Henry Cabot Lodge of the U.S., handsome in a light suit with a flamboyant puff of handkerchief at the lapel, blue shirt, cream colored tie.

Lodge reads his speech with a mellow, cultured voice. Dixon is a poised speaker. When Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld tells the council he is ready to strengthen the U.N. Lebanon observer group, the Sobolev pencil becomes almost a spear. It jabs the table top in his fist, waggles, strokes his cheek.

Dixon, Lodge, and ruddy-faced, silvery-haired Sidney Smith, Canadian minister for external affairs, sit back relaxed, unmoving, arms draped on chair backs, most of the session. Now Sobolev is speaking. He accuses Lodge of "spreading of rumors."

He recalls that last Tuesday "Mr. Lodge with tears in his voice told us about the killing of our colleague," former Foreign Affairs Minister Jamali in Iraq. Then he quotes a news dispatch from Baghdad that Jamali has been found alive.

Lodge sits with his chin in his hand, no emotion. He brings the hand up to cover his nose and mouth as Sobolev says the council should feel "caution concerning spreading of rumors." Dixon writes a short note to himself.

Sitting leaning toward his written text, Sobolev charges U.S. forces went to Lebanon "to intervene... to prevent the Lebanese people from deciding for themselves... to hinder..." and his right hand begins waving like an orchestra leader's.

He holds his hands in front of him, palms up, supplicatingly... "Dirty work... since when must the U.N. create conditions for the withdrawal of interventionists? When would they be withdrawn?" He chops with his hands, at times jerking his pointed index finger toward Lodge, at times jabbing it toward the table. Lodge seems to grow almost weary. Then he slowly begins writing.

Across the table, the Japanese representative, Dr. Koto Matsudaira, plays a rataplan with two fingers on the table as Sobolev speaks against his resolution. His face is impassive. The dark delegates of Jordan and Lebanon watch the Soviet speaker intently but not a muscle moves in their faces. Sobolev keeps the stage.

Negro Contralto Named to U. N.

Marian Anderson 1 of Seven Chosen by Ike for U. S. Delegation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has appointed Negro contralto Marian Anderson and six others as new members of the United States delegation to the United Nations.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee members said the nominations would get overwhelming confirmation.

Besides Miss Anderson, the president named Senators Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) and Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) to represent Congress in the General Assembly session opening Sept. 16. Other new members are Herman Phleger, Redwood City, Calif. attorney; George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks; Watson W. Wise, Tyler, Tex., businessman; and Irving Salomon, Chicago, board chairman of Royal Metal Manufacturing Co.

They will serve with the three holdover members reappointed at the same time: Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the U.N.; James J. Wadsworth, his deputy; and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, who serves on the U.N. Human Rights Commission.

At her home in Danbury, Conn., Miss Anderson said she was thrilled.

Hormone Treatment Fattens Beef Cattle

HOYTVILLE, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio agricultural research scientists are using a new sex hormone to make beef cattle fatter faster.

The researchers reported that when the male sex hormone, testosterone, is implanted in beef cattle with a female hormone, stilbestrol, it results in a growth rate of 27 pound per day.

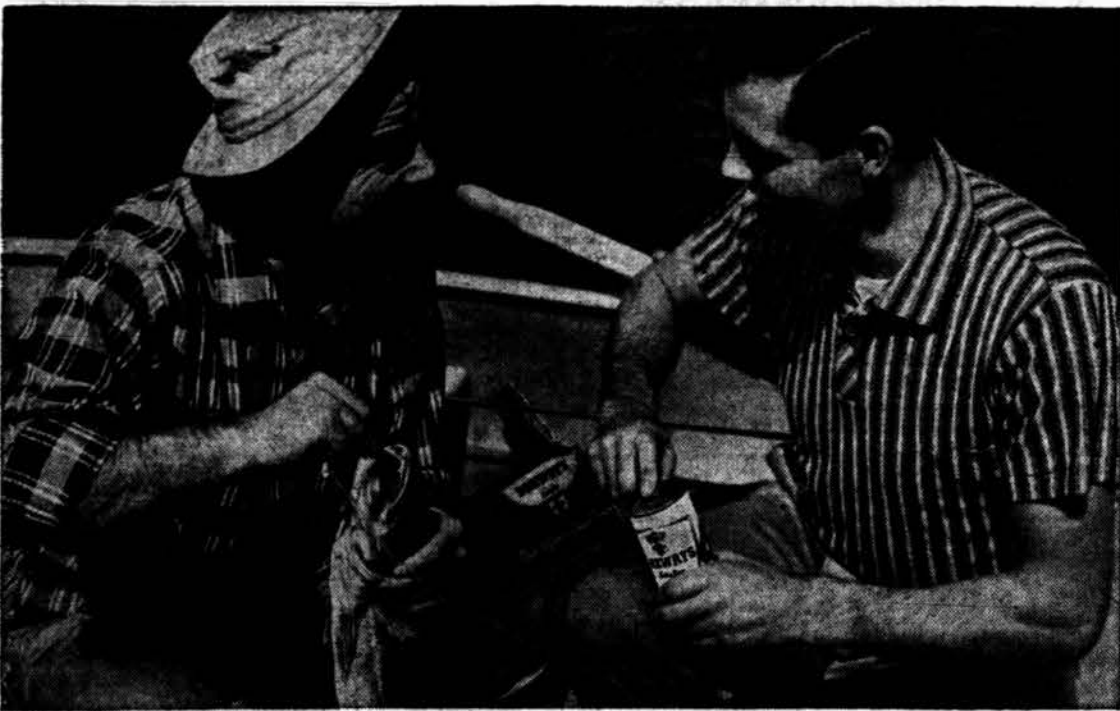

The effect of stilbestrol on growth has been known for several years. Injection is made in pellet form behind the animal's ear. The cost is about 6 cents a head.

Use of the still comparatively costly testosterone on meat animals for human consumption still must be approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Visiting Editor in Iraq

Denies Regime Is Pro-Communist

Editor's Note — Talbot Patrick, editor-publisher of the Rock Hill (S.C.) Evening Herald, arrived in Baghdad two days before the July 16 revolution overthrew the monarchy. Here is his report on the politics of the new revolutionary government, written for The Associated Press.

By TALBOT PATRICK

BAGHDAD (AP) — Iraq's new revolutionary government, by actions even more convincingly than by words, has shown that it is not pro-Communist.

The first day of the revolt, Iraqi newspapermen told me repeatedly later, Communist leaders proposed to the army officers leading the rebellion that a National Guard or militia be formed to help in possible defense of the new government. The proposal, I was told, was turned down flat.

During the first two days of the revolution, Communist and anti-Western slogans were red-painted on many walls and houses. Signs were put on the front of British-owned stores and firms: "Don't buy from foreigners."

By the third day, the army officers who led the revolution were bringing into the government, as Cabinet ministers and in other important positions, mature men of known ability and recognized position. Most of them had records of opposition to the former regime.

Then the army issued an order that anybody caught painting up Communist slogans would be court-martialed. Under army directions, the red paint of the Communist slogans was blanked out with green paint.

Censors in newspaper offices blanked out from the reports and editorials they read all pet words and phrases of the Communist line, according to Iraqi newspaper acquaintances.

Although there now is the censorship of newspapers, local newspapermen look forward to a time when the new government feels more safely established. They hope then for more freedom than under the royal regime.

One newspaperman told me that he was in effect putting his head in a noose—if the revolution should fail—by writing for the issue then in preparation that the revolt meant the coming of freedom for the people of Iraq.

What was said to me repeatedly in different ways was pointed up by the comment of one man who drove me by the burned-out British Embassy: "That's where this country was ruled from for 38 years."

Iraqis who were interested and sympathetic observers of the new revolutionary government said the new regime definitely does not intend that Iraq become a part of the United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria.

There is a strong conviction that Arab nation, but not one dominated eventually there will be a single led by Egypt, as the U.A.R. is.

Safety in Sack Dress

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The state fire marshal is on record as favoring the sack dress. Joe R. Yockers, the marshal, wrote in a bulletin to fire chiefs, the sack may have some strange bulges elsewhere, but being tight around the hem, it's not as likely to catch fire from fireplaces, wall heaters or ranges.

Prefer Roses 4 to 1

NEW YORK — United States gardeners prefer roses, 4 to 1, to any other flower.

Curacao Biggest in Group

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao — Curacao is the largest of the six Caribbean islands that make up the Netherlands West Indies. The others are Aruba, Bonaire, St. Maarten, Saba, and St. Eustatius.

WHAT'S WITH KUWAIT?

Visit of Egypt's Nasser to Sheikh Abdullah As-Salim, above, ruler of oil-rich Kuwait, stirs speculation about future of that sheikdom on the Persian Gulf. It is from Kuwait that Britain gets most of her Mideast oil.

Fear Extinction of Sea Cows

Sailors Once Thought Bulky Mammals Were Human Fish

WASHINGTON — The world's original mermaids are fighting extinction.

Manatees, the bulky seagoing mammals that superstitious sailors once thought were human fish, now enjoy widespread protection along United States shores.

Popularly called sea cows, manatees graze in warm, shallow waters along the Atlantic coasts of Africa and the Americas, says the National Geographic Society. The Florida manatee ranges from the West Indies to Mexico and Central America.

Treading water with its paddle-shaped tail, a manatee may munch up to 100 pounds of its vegetable diet a day. Sometimes it feeds itself with its flippers—like a matron in mittens eating asparagus.

A big specimen may grow 15 feet long and weigh a ton. Considering its sunken eyes, beak-like muzzle, and sacklike figure, it is hard to believe it could have inspired the legend of beauteous fish-tailed damsels.

Yet the manatee has a pleasant personality. Unable to defend itself, it browses in brackish river mouths, safe from sharks and killer whales. It often works its way close to boats. One Florida fisherman, paddling with quiet absorption, ran his skill aground on a half-submerged, basking cow. Man and manatee ended up equally wet—and frightened.

Florida manatees delight in eating the leaves of the water hyacinth, a plant that tends to clog streams. They sometimes seek food in fresh water, but must eventually return to salt. Too much cold weather can kill them. Men have slaughtered them for their meat. It tastes like veal.

Manatee mothers usually produce a single baby. The cow bears her 60-pound calf in the water, then rolls the baby mammal to the surface to start its breathing.

Wins Traffic Award—Also Parking Ticket

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Jim Breazeale, Southwestern College student here was all smiles when police stopped him, told him he was chosen traffic safety award winner.

Breazeale was told to park his automobile and accompany officers to a radio station for an interview.

But when he got back to his car another policeman had ticketed him for overtime parking.

Man-Made Hazards Remain

Jets Symbolize Conquest of Air

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The launching of commercial jet airline service in the U.S. within a few months will mark a startling victory in man's fight against the natural hazards of travel through the air.

The victory will be tarnished, however, by the lagging fight against man-made hazards of the air. And the recent crash of an Air Force jet tanker in which six newsmen were killed demonstrates that aeronautical science is still short of building a crash-proof flying machine.

The modern jet airliner, in spite of this, is still regarded by the experts as the most successful defiance of the law of gravity yet achieved. The jet passenger plane will employ the most sophisticated navigation techniques ever created for conquering the winds, darkness, icing and storm clouds—the prime dangers of the atmosphere.

But while American travelers begin enjoying this partial triumph over nature, the bigger struggle will go on to solve the problems created by the obstacles that man himself has placed in the skies. They include not only an incredible array of military and civilian aircraft, but also such things as missiles, target drones, research balloons, helicopters, sky-scrapers and gigantic TV towers.

All of these are part of today's crisis in air traffic, a crisis which will be aggravated as jet airliners soar into the skyways.

The Air Force jet-United crash over Las Vegas and the Capital AF jet crash over Brunswick, Md., swell both the civilian and military totals close to the record set in 1956. That year there were 128 deaths in the Grand Canyon mid-air crash of two commercial airliners. It made the total military-civilian air collision death total about 200 persons.

NEAR MISSES UP

For the past several years there has been a growing number of near misses in the air, which now average close to 1,000 per year.

Thus, in recent years about three-quarters of all air deaths reported by the Civil Aeronautics Board resulted from air collisions. Ten years ago, CAB reports, less than one per cent of air deaths were from this cause.

The Grand Canyon accident boosted efforts to control air traffic. Civil Aeronautics Administration launched a $40 million dollar modernization program aimed at providing complete traffic control for the U. S. by 1960.

The Las Vegas and Brunswick accidents revealed that the goal and schedule of this plan are inadequate. The total safety program of the government now calls for one billion dollars to be spent in the next five years.

Pneumatic Tube Speeds Information on World

ANN ARBOR (U)—The old department store pneumatic tube has a new use in the atomic age. It helps tell what tiny quantities of elements are carried in meteorites. Scientists thus are learning hitherto unknown information on how elements were built up in the formation of the universe.

The merger of the pneumatic tube, used to relay cash and receipts from place to place in giant department stores, and atomic energy occurred at the University of Michigan.

The nuclear reactor at the Michigan Memorial—Phoenix Project radiates meteor dust whirled past it through the suction tube. The powder is exposed to intense radiation and instantly returned to a chemist for analysis.

Radiation affects the meteor powder with such power it brings out the quantities of elements the obsolete chemical method of analysis failed to detect. Chemists find ultra minute particles of rhodium, silver and indium coming out of their pneumatic tube. Chemistry Prof. W. Wayne Meinke said the radioactive sample then is isolated into elements chemically. The amount of the element in the meteor is measured by radioactive-sensitive instruments.

Introduction of the pneumatic tube-reactor method has reduced such tests from days to about 30 minutes, Meinke said. It has increased accuracy and sensitivity.

The portion of the test in which the meteor brushes through the tube past the reactor lasts but three seconds.

In the face of these grave handicaps to the successful introduction of the Commercial jet age, CAA, the Air Force and the commercial airlines have taken voluntary emergency action.

TOTAL CONTROL

A series of total-control corridors in the air, comparable to patrilled superhighways, have been established over the U. S. They connect New York and Washington with San Francisco and Los Angeles. They include air access to Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City and Denver.

These corridors are 10 miles wide, between 17,000 and 22,000 feet in the air. In addition, Air Force officials have agreed to submit to positive, ground-enforced regulations — instrument flight rules — for all flights between 10,000 feet and 20,000 feet. And they will restrict training flights to areas not overlapping any commercial air routes.

Commercial flights will voluntarily submit to ground control for all flights above 10,000 feet.

This will inconvenience and curtail some military flying. And it will cause delays in some commercial flights. But all interested parties agree that it's the most workable compromise possible. The delay in achieving 90 per cent control of all flying—the ultimate goal—will be caused by the time it takes to get the radar equipment needed to "see" all plane in the air.

Many women catch their husbands flirting. In fact, that's how they first caught them. Patrol wagons, says Jack Herbert of Chicago, aren't very comfortable—but they'll do in a pinch. —Earl Wilson

Historic Names Fill British Map

From Legendary Days to Nuclear Research

WASHINGTON — If a medieval cartographer could look at a new map of the British Isles, he would find names already old in his time mingling with others linked to the atomic age.

Stonehenge, a mysterious circle of pillars erected by an unknown race, contrasts with a place of dazzling immediacy in a neighboring county. At Harwell, British scientists have produced temperatures greater than those on the surface of stars in their efforts to harness the hydrogen bomb for peacetime power.

British place names ring with history, literature, and legend. The stone monoliths of Stonehenge loom from a shadowy time, as do the ruins of King Arthur's cliffside castle at Tintagel Head in Cornwall.

But the haunts of King Arthur vie for interest with a dozen towns where modern Britons make news in atomic research and power. Hadrian's Wall in the north of England and the river Thames, which has always been England's backbone, especially recall the Roman era. Roman legionaries are known to have filled their ewers from the Thames's source, a spring in a meadow in the pastoral Cotswold country.

Saxons succeeded the Romans in the Thames Valley. And present-day Hastings, where William the Conqueror triumphed over the Saxons, looks across the English Channel to the Omaha and Utah Beaches of World War II.

An inset of Plymouth, shows the location of the Mayflower Memorial and The Hoe. At the latter, according to legend, Sir Francis Drake was playing at bowls on a July day in 1588 when word came that the Spanish Armada was bearing down on the island. Sir Francis first finished his game — then the Armada.

Other place names reflect the Britain of derring-do and drama. Nottingham protects the trees that sheltered Robin Hood in Sherwood Forest. Macbeth's Glamis broods over Scottish hills. The Hill of Tara crowns the County Meath where Irish kings once ruled.

Rubber Use in Brazil
Exceeds Production

RIO DE JANEIRO — In Brazil, the cradle of rubber culture, the domestic demand for rubber has far outstripped production.

In 1957 about 37,000 tons of rubber were consumed in Brazil, while only about 10,000 tons were grown. National consumption amounted to only 4,612 tons in 1940.

Cities Eye Controls at Backyard Pools

CHICAGO (UPI) — An American Society of Planning Officials report on backyard swimming pools in the United States indicates that the number may hit 200,000 this year, nearly 50 times as many as there were in 1947.

Communities have been quick to respond to the sudden growth of the number of pools by issuing ordinances regulating the noise, glare of lights and danger to children.

Many cities now prohibit pools in front yards, require pools and pool regulation equipment to be set back from property lines, control drainage, require fences and occasionally require the consent of neighbors before the pools can be built.

Sophia Loren Steals Marilyn's Pet Trick

By PHYLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK — Although Italy's Sophia Loren claims to be an actress and individualist who copies no one, she has picked up an ex-perating trait from our own dearly beloved Marilyn Monroe. One hour and 14 minutes past the time she has set for an interview, she strolls into her rented Park Avenue parlor, every eye brow precisely in place, and faces the writer with a smile. "I'm sorry," she says. And this takes care of everything.

Now, at last, for the interview. Her assistant has advised that Sophia will not talk about her personal life, nor her salary, so the question is raised, "What do you think of yourself?"

Miss Loren puckers the perfect eyebrows above the great oval eyes. "I do not consider myself beautiful, if that's what you mean. I consider myself ugly."

"Of course, beauty isn't what people always think it is. Beauty is how you look and how you feel and how you talk—it is from within."

"But some people say that beauty is to be perfect. That is why I am ugly. I am not perfect. But I don't know what beauty is in your sense, here in America."

The 22-year-old actress, who grew up in wartime Rome as a half-starving child who pleaded with American GIs for candy and gum, went on. "When I was little, I was dark and thin and ugly. The skin, when you are thin, it does not stretch, so it looks dark."

"My poor mother, when she looked at me she cry every time. It was very sad. She thought I would die any minute. When I was about 13, I started to grow a little and the skin stretched out pale. I looked better then."

If she considers herself ugly, as just mentioned, did she nevertheless get pleasure out of looking at herself in the mirror? Sophia's plentiful lips smiled. "Oh yes—I don't hate myself—No."

Getting back to single-talk, we remarked that she doesn't look as "voluptuous" as hinted in advance notices.

"Oh, no?" she looked puzzled. "Maybe that's because I'm thin. I don't like to be fat. I like to be thin. I like to be beautiful."

She is now in New York, making her 27th film, in a Paramount venture tentatively titled "That Kind of Woman." She described her acting technique: in funny scenes, she has no trouble being amusing because of a natural sense of humor; in sad scenes, she remembers back to a sad incident in her own experience.

"I think," she says, "if you have enough trouble in your life, and you're enough sensitive, you can be a good actress." Asked what the sad personal experience is, she frowned. "I don't like to talk about it because then I don't believe it any more."

Money, of which she has made considerable during her brief but hectic career, doesn't interest her. "I think you have to be born rich to enjoy money, don't you? As far as I have it, I don't think about it. If I don't have it, well . . ."

After mid-August, Sophia returns for a few months' vacation to her home in the mountains of Switzerland, then returns to America to star in what she calls "a nice western."

The interview was short. We had another appointment—and, hinted, pleasantly aside, that it wouldn't do to be late.

"Well, I'm sorry," said Sophia at the door, "that you didn't think I'm voluptuous."

It was the most sincere apology of the afternoon.

New Zealand Anxiously Waits for Television

WELLINGTON, N. Z.—New Zealand, with no authorized television and no immediate hope for any, is exceedingly "TV conscious" and on the qui vive for action, Wellington reports.

"First things first," says the economy-minded Minister of Broadcasting, but this does not satisfy the television-hungry. Several persons or firms, including W. Waddell, of Auckland's Seden Technical College, have built TV studios with cameras and transmitters.

So has the Bell Radio Co. which shows travel and educational films. But they must keep in mind the Government's ban on television as entertainment.

These people have to interrupt their transmission at unspecified times, which rules out all entertainment value.

Summit Session at U.N. Poses Security Problem

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U. N. officials say they'll be ready when and if a summit meeting of the Security Council comes off.

But security officials of the international organization, New York City and the U. S. government faced an enormous job of preparations to protect Nikita Khrushchev and other visiting government chiefs.

The presence in New York City of Khrushchev, Gamal Abdel Nasser and others would present "political problems so unique that any methods used in the past for visiting dignitaries would not apply," a police official said.

One unofficial estimate was that 4,000 to 5,000 security men might be needed to safeguard the visitors in a city which contains many refugees still nursing bitter hatreds, militant supporters of Israel and the like. The visit of Queen Elizabeth II last autumn set the current record for security police, nearly 2,000.

The security arrangements will involve the U. N.'s own security staff headed by Frank M. Bogley; New York police and their bureau of special services which keeps close watch on extremist and refugee groups; the State Department security force; the FBI; possibly the Defense Department, and the security forces of the visitors themselves.

William L. Uanna, chief of physical security for the State Department, probably would act as coordinator of security arrangements.

Preliminary plans were made yesterday by New York City police officials and State Department officers at a meeting held even before Khrushchev agreed to attend a council meeting.

Twist Drill Threatens to Leave Rochester Area

Firm Says It Will Move If Incorporation Passes

By JOEL RIFFA
Suburban News Editor

Amid threats by the National Twist Drill & Tool Co., the Rochester area's largest employer, that it will move out if the people vote to incorporate as a city, more than 350 persons showed up at the Rochester Community High School gymnasium to hear the issue batted around by two panels, pro and con, in a public information forum.

The debate was sponsored by the Rochester Junior Chamber of Commerce. It pitted three speakers against incorporation and three in favor of it.

Voting will take place Aug. 5, at which time the electorate will decide whether to incorporate four and one-half square miles of Avon Township and the slightly more than one square mile village of Rochester as a city. There are approximately 6,200 people in the area, with about 4,900 to 5,000 living in the village.

The opposition to incorporation comes mainly from residents of the township area involved, or the fringe area, as it is called. Their main objection is fear of higher taxes.

Overshadowing the debate last night was the announcement by Twist Drill President Howard L. McGregor Jr. that his firm would move its plant out of the city if the incorporation proposal is adopted.

Expected higher tax rates levied by the city would make operation at its 6841 N. Rochester Rd. site, in the present township, prohibitive, he said.

Twist Drill normally employs about 2,000 persons.

The discussion, moderated by Donald Hays, Jaycoo president, and designed to answer questions in the minds of the voter, led off with 5-minute opening remarks by each member of the panels. An audience question-and-answer period followed.

Taking the affirmative were Roscoe R. Martin, village attorney; James C. Hill, village councilman; and Dr. Glenn Brooks, a Rochester dentist and candidate for the Charter Commission.

They were opposed by John O'Donnell, Ford Motor Co. industrial relations representative, who is a resident of Rochester; Joseph A. Parisi Jr., of Lansing, director of the Michigan Township Assn.; and Clarence Cadieux, chief accountant for the Area Fact Finding Committee organized to fight incorporation.

Martin, the leadoff speaker, said the incorporation proposal was made following a study by the J. L. Jacob's Co. of Chicago, a municipal consulting firm hired by the village.

The firm's 34-page report recommended incorporation, Martin said. The only exception to its recommendations in the present petition is the exclusion of the South Hill area from the proposed city, he said.

This area, which extends just past Avon road, was dropped because of very strong opposition from residents living in it, he stated.

Martin also said cost of providing water and sewage facilities to these residents was prohibitive.

In answer to critics who have complained that the city wouldn't give them their money's worth in services, Martin presented a chart comparing the present village's operating expenses to those of the township.

Under the 1958-59 fiscal year budget of $332,250, the village has 28 full-time employees, he said. The township, on the other hand, has a budget of $206,000 while employing six full-time people, he said.

Cadieux, who spearheaded the opposition, also presented a series of charts to show comparisons between taxes on a village home and those on a similar one in the township.

Village residents are taxed at the rate of $17 per each $1,000 of assessed valuation compared to the $2.13 per $1,000 in the township, he said.

On a $5,000 home in the village the present tax would be $85, he said, while in the township it would be $10.65.

Cadieux pointed to tax charts on two "well run" cities, Royal Oak and East Detroit, showing that city rates are even higher than those of a village.

After incorporation, fringe area homes would be reassessed to bring them up to those in the present village, he said. The anticipated tax increase on a fringe area home is at least 700 per cent, Cadieux stated.

Hill pointed out that the township residents would benefit by equipment already owned by the city, which would be able to handle the expanded area with few additions.

Parisi said in almost all cases of city incorporation, the new city has raised taxes. The people should get all the facts, he said, to determine whether their area would be better off as a city.

They should try to determine whether incorporation would scare off industry and whether the proposed city area has enough industry to form a tax base capable of supporting a city form of government.

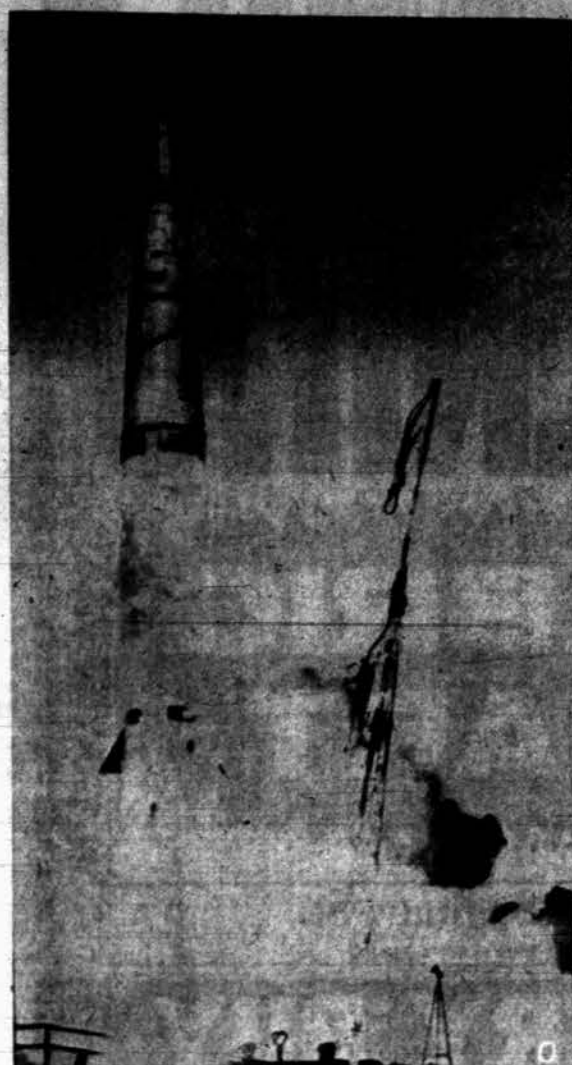

The panelists answered questions from the floor for more than an hour before the forum was adjourned.

man. They were opposed by (bottom, from left) Clarence Cadieux, chief accountant for the National Twist Drill & Tool Co.; Joseph A. Parisi, executive director of the Michigan Township Assn.; Rex Bebout, attorney for Avon Township, and John O'Donnell, Ford Motor Co. industrial relations representative and Rochester resident. ROCKET WITH A MOUSE — Wickie, a white mouse, is riding in the nose of this Thor-Able rocket heading for outer space and a hopeful return and recovery. Skin Divers in Area, Flag Warns Boats

Boat operators should pay special attention to this flag. It may save a fine, or even a life.

Red, with a white stripe running through it diagonally, the flag means that a skin diver is down in the area. It's usually mounted on a small buoy or the mast of a boat.

Michigan this year became the 17th state to adopt the flag, recognized internationally as the skin diver insignia, when the Legislature amended the state's motor boat law, enacted in 1957, to read:

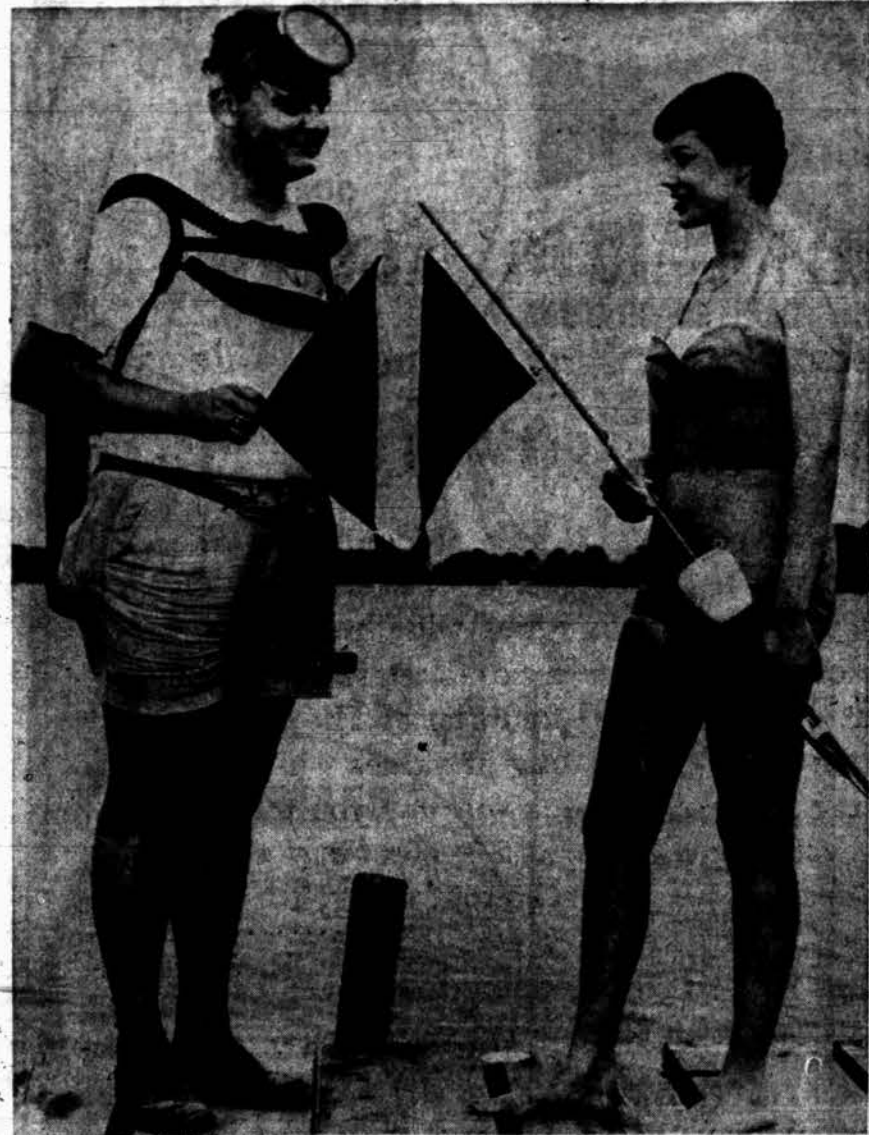

"Any person diving or submerging in any waterway with the aid of a diving suit or other mechanical diving device may place a buoy in the water near the point of submergence.

"The buoy shall bear a red flag, not less than 14 inches by 16 inches with a 3/4-inch white stripe running from one upper corner to a diagonally lower corner. The buoy shall be in place only while actual diving operations are in progress."

Anyone who has ever participated in the fast-growing sport of skin diving will appreciate this law, says Bill Periard, chief diving instructor at the Pine Lake skin diving center in West Bloomfield Township.

The roar of a boat overhead is a frightening thing to a submerged diver, he said.

Boat operators should stay at least 90 feet away from the flag, according to Periard.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE FLAG — Dick Beckman, a member of the Michigan Aqua Squadron of Oakland County, and pretty Sharon Moehner, student skin diver, hold official diver's flag used to warn boats that diver is down. The flag was adopted this year by the Michigan Legislature, making it unlawful for boats to go in areas where it is displayed. Beckman, 28, is a diving instructor for the West Bloomfield Boy's Club skin diving class at Pine Lake. Sharon, 19, of Keego Harbor, is taking diving instructions so she can teach girls the art of skin diving.

School Board to Pass Budget

Expect Group to OK Austerity Plan Proposed by Superintendent

The Pontiac Board of Education will adopt its 1958-59 budget at its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

The board is expected to adopt an austerity budget presented to it this spring by the superintendent.

A major item on the agenda will be a discussion on how to finance the next step in its school construction program.

Planned for the next year are additions to two junior high schools, a new elementary school and an addition to another elementary.

The budget allows very little money for new construction and the board is expected to consider borrowing up to $2 million.

Another item will be a progress report on Northern High School now under construction.

Sea anemones sometimes live more than 70 years.

Church Chorus Slates Program at Romeo Center

ROMEO — The Second Baptist Church Chorus, directed by Sherman South, will sponsor a religious music festival at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Romeo Community Youth and Civic Center.

Vocalists groups and soloists from Detroit, Fort Huron, Windsor and Romeo will participate. Special features will include piano solos, recitations and choral numbers.

Vocalists coming from Detroit to take part in the concert will be the True Light Baptist Church Chorus, the Allen Bradley Singers, the Bulah Comforters and the Masadonia Male Chorus.

Solos will be sung by Ernest Bates of Port Huron, Arthur McDowell of Windsor, Ida Johnson of Detroit and Aubrey McKenzie and Karen K. Brooks, both of Romeo.

Miss Marie Clark of Romeo, will be featured in several selections, including a recitation, a piano solo and a poem.

The children's group of the Second Baptist Church will sing several numbers, and Michael and Sherry South, both of Romeo, will be featured in a vocal duet.

The concert is open to the public.

Canadian Woman Killed in Accident

A 51-year-old Sarnia, Ont., woman was killed last night eight miles east of Romeo when a sports car in which she was riding collided with a grain truck.

She was Mrs. Elwina Marriott. Two other Ontario persons were injured and taken to St. Joseph Hospital, Mount Clemens.

The Macomb County Sheriff's Department is holding John F. Slepik, 50, of Richmond, the truck driver, for investigation of negligent homicide.

Holstein Cattle Show Scheduled for Saturday

The Oakland County Black and White Show of Holstein cattle will be held Saturday at the 4-H Fairgrounds, Walton boulevard and Perry street.

Animals will be ready for judging by 11 a.m. Bulls will be exhibited first.

A picnic lunch from 11:30-12:30 will precede the showmanship classes for boys and girls.

O. S. Foster, former Lakefield farm manager, will be the judge.

Hal Boyle Writes:

'I'll Never Speak to You Again'-She Didn't

NEW YORK (AP)—It's a wise woman who avoids positive declarations and an all-or-nothing attitude.

The other day I overheard my young daughter, in a fit of pique, tell a small neighbor, "All right then, I won't be your friend—and I'll never play with you again."

Well, I had to laugh. It always makes me chuckle when I see a member of the feminine sex get up so high on a horse she doesn't know how to get down.

It reminds me of the sad fate of Mrs. Barnes.

The story begins about 40 years ago. Mrs. Barnes and her husband had eight children.

Barnes was a cheerful soul, just this side of shiftlessness. His wife, who came from what she claimed was a better family, was proud and ambitious. She was always after her husband to get a better job and make more money so they could live in a finer neighborhood. Morning and night she scolded him.

One night Barnes, who had stopped for a couple of beers on the way home, suddenly interrupted her in the middle of a long complaint:

"You got a mouth like a buzz saw. Don't you ever give it a rest?"

Startled, Mrs. Barnes glared at him. Her lips firmed in a thin line.

"Unless you apologize for that unkind remark, Mr. Barnes," she said sternly, "I'll never speak to you the rest of my life."

"Well, I ain't about to apologize, Mrs. Barnes," he replied. Mrs. Barnes was a strong-minded woman, and her word was her bond. Day after day went by—and she spoke to her husband not at all. And he didn't speak to her. At the start of this strange duel of silence Barnes felt uneasy and repentant. Several times he was on the verge of apologizing. Then one night it dawned on him how much more peaceful and restful his life had become. All at once he realized what a good thing he had—and from then on he was determined never to lose it.

He became more and more independent.

When mealtime came, Mrs. Barnes would say to one of the children, "Joe, tell your paw supper's on the table, and gettin' cold."

After Joe had relayed the message to Barnes, who was only 15 feet away, he would answer, "Thank you, Joe. Tell your ma I'll come to the table when I'm durned good and ready—which will be in about five minutes."

Barnes, knowing he was safe from rebuttal, took to baiting his wife. Whenever he found a derogatory story about women in the newspaper, he would read it aloud, then say to one of the children (in time there were 11 instead of 8):

"Jim, no woman in this world is worth the powder to blow her out of it."

And Mrs. Barnes, hearing, would stab a needle viciously into her sewing. But pride held her helpless.

After 10 years Barnes caught pneumonia one winter's day. On his deathbed, surrounded by his 11 weeping offspring with his wife hovering in the background, Barnes reared up and said loud and clear:

"These are your pa's last words, young'uns. Tell your ma the last 10 years have been the happiest of my life, and I sure am grateful to her."

Then he fell back on the bed and died, smiling.

Mrs. Barnes had the undertaker lay him out in the house. According to neighborhood gossip, she talked to him for three days and nights without stopping. But Barnes never heard a word and still had the smile on his face when they buried him.

Moral: It's terribly unsatisfying to try to punish someone and then find out you've actually done him a favor.

Lebanon Heat Weighs Heavily on Idle GIs

By RUSSELL JONES

BEIRUT (UPI)—It can get hot in Lebanon. Even in the shade of an olive grove, while the guns are silent.

"Hey, mister newspaperman, tell my Congressman to get me outta here. It's too damned hot."

The speaker was Sgt. S. E. Waldon of Washington, D.C., and Delta Company, 187th Airborne Infantry Division.

He squatted in the meager shade of an olive tree south of Beirut Airport. Although it was still morning, the temperature was over the hundred mark.

"What are we doing here anyway?" the sergeant asked. "This sitting still is a job for straightlegs (infantry). Jump guys are supposed to jump and not just sit around sucking our thumbs."

Waldon's gripe was a typical reaction of men of this crack outfit, most of whom are professional soldiers and combat veterans. They arrived here Saturday after being pulled off maneuvers in Germany, have been on the go ever since and are ready to go somewhere else.

A real expert on heat, Sgt. Flapito Avegallo, of Leone, Samoa, agreed with Waldon.

"I thought Samoa was hot, but it ain't anything like this," said Avegallo as he cut this correspondent's hair. He doubles as company barber.

Fifty per cent of this company had pulled guard duty, but so far no one had seen anything more menacing than troops of Lebanese kids pulling at sleeves and bayonets and crying, "Gimme cigarette for papa."

The other half of the company was off at the beach. "It's cooler at the beach," said Company Commander Capt. Robert S. Cook, of Tacoma, Wash.

"The only trouble is that it takes the men an hour to get there and an hour to get back. And they come back as hot as when they started."

Cook, a twice-wounded veteran of Korea fighting, has two major preoccupations, aside from carrying out his mission here: To keep his men from getting sunstroke and to make sure they follow anti-fraternization orders.

First Lt. Thomas R. Finley, of Bandana, Ky., Cook's executive officer, helps keep the company operating normally. Every man of Delta Company, like every man of the 187th Division, carries ammunition, iron rations, personal gear and other equipment for three days of fighting and marching without support.

News Analyst Sounds Warning:

Summit Meeting May Get Out of Hand

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—A summit meeting now in the United Nations may turn into an eight-ring circus.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev — after trying unsuccessfully for months to get the United States to a summit meeting on general world problems — proposed such a meeting, he held to discuss the Middle East.

In reluctantly agreeing to a summit meeting on the Middle East — provided it was held in the U.N. Security Council — President Eisenhower threw in a couple of words which could open a Pandora's box.

He suggested that other problems vital to peace besides the Middle East could be discussed by the Security Council — and presumably by the heads of government sitting in it. For instance: If Khrushchev was making the United States look bad for sending troops into Lebanon, Eisenhower under the head of "other problems" could do this: He could start talking about the sins of the Soviet Union, including its brutal suppression of the Hungarian revolution. Then Khrushchev could rush in with proposals on disarmament, an end to nuclear testing, or anything else he had in mind.

For months this country had held off on Khrushchev's call for a summit conference on world problems by insisting there must be adequate preparation and agreement beforehand on what would be discussed.

But there won't be much time for such preparation or agreement on what's to be discussed — outside the Middle East — if the meeting is held within the next few weeks.

And for the United States now to try to delay such a meeting very long — after Khrushchev's quick acceptance — would make poor propaganda for this country in the eyes of the rest of the world.

One thing is sure: any initiative this country might have had on a summit meeting — and it never had much — was lost to the Soviets by the fast, shrewd tactics of Khrushchev.

The Soviet Premier acted with a few days after American troops landed in Lebanon at the request of President Chamoun — who said he feared his government would be overthrown.

Khrushchev accused the United States of interference and talked of the possibility it would lead to war. He called for a summit meeting on the Middle East, he said, to prevent war.

The United States wanted no part of such a meeting but was pushed into agreeing to it by the British, who suggested the meeting be held in the Security Council.

Within less than 24 hours after getting this Western proposal, Khrushchev shot back his acceptance and suggested the meeting start by next Monday in New York. It seems sure the United States will try to delay such a meeting a few weeks.

In that time some of the Middle East tension—which gave Khrushchev his best talking point — may have begun to dissolve. This way, the Lebanese will elect a new president as successor to Chamoun July 31. We then can try to extricate ourselves by pulling out our troops as soon as possible on the ground that orderly government is in control in Lebanon and American forces are no longer needed.

Because both British Prime Minister Macmillan and Khrushchev agreed they shouldn't try to vote in the Security Council — where the Soviets are overwhelmingly outnumbered by this country and its friends on the 11-nation Council — perhaps any talking the heads of government actually did publicly in the Council might be simply spoken words.

There's no reason why they couldn't leave their regular delegates in the Council then and adjourn to a meeting behind closed doors.

They were sent in there at the request of King Hussein who, like Chamoun, said he feared his government would be overthrown.

There is a widespread, angry Arab mood against Hussein and against the British for rushing in to help him. If the British forces were withdrawn any time soon Hussein's days might be short.

Kibbutz Views Brief Rite as Israeli Couple Are Wed

ZIKIM, Israel (UPI) — In a harsh outpost kibbutz on Israel's Gaza Strip border, the daughter of a Sheffield alderman and a London haberdasher's son were married recently. The young couple has decided to make kibbutz Zikim their home.

The wedding of Elizabeth Lewis and Lionel ("Arie") Angel was a simple affair, marked only as "something special" at the tiny desert frontier settlement because Alderman Isidor Lewis, J.P., his wife and an aunt came from England for the event.

An old Yemenite rabbi from the nearest town, Ashkelon, drove in to perform the rites. Usually, couples go to town to have their marriages solemnized.

Angel took the day off from his dairy farming of 60 cows and 60 calves, and appeared in an open-necked white shirt and pressed blue trousers. Elizabeth threw aside her shorts and khaki shirt, with which she works at the communal sink, and was led out in a simple beige dress. A friend produced a bottle of wine. In a few minutes the ceremony was over. There was no honeymoon. The newlyweds moved into their neat "couple's room."

The story of Arie and Elizabeth began two years ago. It was then that Elizabeth, a pretty redhead, came to Israel for the first time with a London University student group. The students were given a two-week taste of kibbutz life at Zikim. Thirty young persons from Britain had already settled there as farmers. Angel and Elizabeth both 20 at the time took to each other.

After Elizabeth returned home to complete her studies in history, the two corresponded. Nine months ago Elizabeth returned to Zikim. She left a teaching career for the orchards, orange groves, vineyards and communal sink of a kibbutz—and Angel, Elizabeth has been learning Hebrew in her spare time. She hopes to be able to work with the kibbutz children and later to teach.

Angel has been in Israel for five years. The son of a Clapton haberdasher was with a Palestine youth club in London at the age of 16, while still going to Grocer's Secondary School in Hackney. As one of a group of 30, he emigrated to Israel to become a member of a kibbutz.

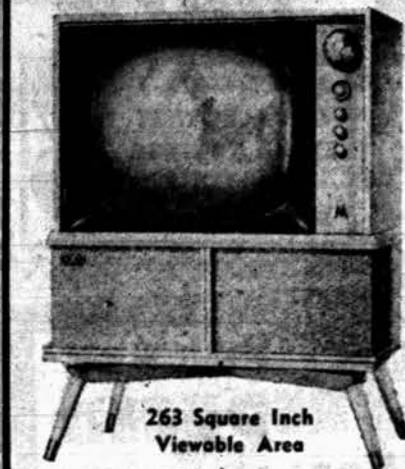

In Israel, Arie became a paratrooper and went through a tough two-and-a-half-year army service. On his return to the kibbutz, he became a tractor and bulldozer driver. Only recently has he taken to the cowshed. It means getting out of bed at half past two every morning to milk the cows, a two-and-a-half-hour job. He milks the cows three times daily but takes his odd work hours in his stride.

"We are very happy on the kibbutz," the newlyweds said. "All we want is to live quietly here and bring up our future children the way we think fit."

Gambling Increases

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Recession or no recession, folks gamble. State tax commission reports show Nevada gambling casinos won 624 million dollars in the first six months of this year—almost 5 million more than in the same pre-recession period last year. The state's tax share amounted to 2½ million.

RATTLE FOR VICE PRESIDENT — Dolores House, a 21-year-old Indian maiden from the Tuscarora Reservation in New York State gives a ceremonial rattle to Vice President Richard Nixon in Washington. She was the Washington guest of Rep. William Miller (R-NY) center. Miss House went to Washington to publicize a festival to be held at Niagara Falls in September, in which she will be the festival's "Maid of the Mist."

Protestors Swamp Hearing

Clare Desperately Fights Superway

By TOM SHAWVER
(Last of three articles)

HARRISON — Clare's fight against proposed new superhighway U.S. 27 has been a 100 per cent effort all down the line.

When the State Highway Department scheduled a hearing on the proposed route, at the Clare county seat in Harrison, so many protestors jammed into the court house that the hearing was shifted to a school gymnasium.

Richard Groves, manager of the Doherty Hotel in Clare, said hotel owners have put off plans to build a motel nearby until they see how business holds up when the new highway is opened.

"Among other things, I object to the inconsistency of the way this highway has been planned," Groves said. "South of Ithaca, the sections already completed go through St. Johns, Lansing and other towns.

"That was before they decided to bypass everybody and businessmen there it made. Towns in between Ithaca and the resort country will suffer."

Locations figure strongly in business prospects.

The new highway will miss Cheboygan, now directly on U.S. 27, by six or seven miles. Some businessmen are worried; others figure it will clear narrow downtown streets for local shoppers.

The Cheboygan Tribune launched an editorial campaign for relocation within a mile or two of the city.

Earl M. Johnson, Houghton Lake resort owner, figures he'll lose some customers to resorts farther north but pick up many or more brought several hours driving time closer to Houghton Lake.

Keeping their fingers crossed, Nick Francis and Zigmund Sliwa are enlarging their motel in West Houghton Lake for the same reason.

The Jack Deckers, who run a well situated motel just west of St. Louis and north of Alma, have built up a good business with salesmen and businessmen. They are hopeful, too, an interchange will be built less than a mile away.

But men like Clinton V. Allen see nothing but financial loss ahead. Allen owns a big souvenir and curio store along U.S. 27 in Isabella County, miles from any sizable town or proposed interchange. Practically all his business comes from tourists.

"This is supposed to be a tourist state, but they're doing everything to discourage them from stopping in Lower Michigan," he said bitterly. "It looks like I'll have to sell this place and move to Florida."

Men like John L. Knott are doing something about it.

Knott runs a combination gas station and grocery store two miles east of Ithaca. The new highway will pass a mile west of his store, but he's going after local customers now, expanding his business to include television sales and repairs and a paint spraying service.

"You can't stop progress," he said. "And when progress passes you by, you've got to do the best with what you have."

Dulles--a Dynamo in Action

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — The nearest thing to perpetual motion in Washington during the current Middle East crisis is Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

This 70-year-old dynamo, who only 20 months ago was being counted out as a cancer victim, has been working a 16-hour day since the Iraqi coup d'état a week ago.

At his desk by 8 a.m., the tireless secretary talks four or five times daily by telephone with President Eisenhower, visits him at least once a day, and holds endless meetings with foreign ambassadors and department advisers.

Checking out of the office around 3 p.m., he spends the evenings poring over his bulging briefcase, and consulting with staff members who are summoned to his imposing residence in the embassy section near Rock Creek Parkway.

Despite the grueling pace for a man of his years, America's head diplomat has seldom looked better. There is a spring to his step that belies the heavy weight which has suddenly fallen on his shoulders.

The twitch of his left eye is no better, and no worse than in the periods of lesser strain, and doctors who examined the secretary less than a month ago report that he is in excellent health. Absolutely no sign of a cancer recurrence has been discovered.

Dulles, almost alone among Ike's top advisers, can reach the President's car immediately with out clearance through "assistant president" Sherman Adams.

A top White House official said that no matter what the President is doing, his business nowadays is automatically suspended whenever a call comes through from Dulles.

During the past week, Ike's schedule has been readjusted sometimes two or three times a day to permit personal visits from his secretary of state.

An Eisenhower aide disclosed that whenever the President travels these days, he carries with him a sheet of papers designating the secret code names of the various types of "alerts" which he could put into operation immediately, in the event of surprise attack.

Dulles, unlike the President, cannot escape the cares of his office for brief respites with a golf ball. No golfer, the secretary's chief physical relaxation is swimming in the cold waters of his Canadian Island hideaway, but there is no opportunity for that during today's tense Middle East situation.

Once an inveterate pipe smoker, he is now a constant doodler since doctors ordered him to give up tobacco. The intricate and sometimes uncanny "doodles" which he sketches while talking and listening seem to clear his mind by occupying his hands.

Dulles throughout the past several years has been a highly controversial figure and a favorite target of Democratic Senators. Strangely enough, with the West now hovering at the brink of threatening war, he is enjoying somewhat of a honeymoon with his most voracious attackers.

Only a few weeks ago, Capitol Hill Democrats were haranguing the secretary for his reported pledge to come to the aid of Lebanon, if President Camille Chamoun should request troops to safeguard his country from Syrian-Egyptian penetration.

After the Iraqi coup, when the call finally came and the U.S. dispatched Marines to Lebanon, the criticism of Dulles was surprisingly mild.

Assistant Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, a ranking Senator on the Foreign Relations Committee, in fact praised Dulles for avoiding fulfillment of the alleged commitment until the explosive Iraqi situation demanded a show of force.

An official in a position to know said that Dulles' stock has risen to an all-time high with the President, who once described him as the greatest secretary of state he has known.

The source said that although Ike was naturally upset by the recent exposure of Adams' relations with Boston textile industrialist Bernard Goldfine, "it was nothing like the way he would have felt if Foster Dulles had become embroiled in any such mess."

Budgets of 11 States Call for Boost in Taxes

CHICAGO — Increased taxes are called for in 11 of the 17 state budgets submitted to legislatures this year, according to the Federation of Tax Administrators. The proposed budgets were balanced through the use of cash reserves in several of the other six states.

TAKING A LICKING — Dog days are cool days at Sun Valley, Idaho, for Chris, the big St. Bernard. When it gets too hot, he just licks off his share of playmate Evan Lister's ice cream cone.

POST OFFICE WORK ROOM — In a few days Pontiac postal employees will be sorting and distributing both the incoming and outgoing mail in this huge 20,000 square foot work room located in the rear of the new $850,000 post office on W. Huron street between Genesee avenue and Chippewa road. It will be open for business Monday. The rectangular boxes near the ceiling are postal inspection windows located in the inspectors' gallery.

First-Aid Volunteers Patrol Waterford

They're Searching for Trouble

When Waterford Township residents are in physical trouble on the beaches or highways during the weekends, they are being urged to call the fire department first, according to Fire Chief Edward Smith.

In a new project promoted by the department, a rescue squad of sixteen trained first-aid volunteers from the regular volunteer fire department, patrol the township in their fast little rescue truck, literally "looking for trouble."

Working two shifts, groups of three begin covering the township at noon until 4 p.m. A second shift takes over until 8 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

This is the first summer that the group has attempted such a service. It is in line with Gov. Williams' newly-formed Safety Council to help prevent accidents, according to Smith.

A systematic campaign to educate the people to the fact that precious minutes are often wasted when they first call the sheriff's department or an ambulance, for heart attack victims, near drownings, or those involved in an accident, is under way.

Smith explained that if a call goes to the sheriff's department, it is transferred to the Waterford Township police, who in turn, relay it to the fire department. If a line happens to be busy, more valuable time is lost before the firemen are notified.

If a person calls the fire department, the message is dispatched to the small truck, and help is on the way immediately, Smith said.

The small rescue truck was donated to the fire department last year by the Waterford Township Junior Chamber of Commerce. The small rescue truck is fully equipped with a two-way radio, inhalator, resuscitator and all the items necessary in case of an emergency. It was a gift to the fire department from the Junior Chamber of Commerce last year.

The crew of men patrolling on weekends eliminates the running of the big fire trucks, which costs the township some $70 for each call answered. It is about half that expense when the small vehicle is used.

So far, the squad has covered 27 area beaches, educating people in safety measures and posting the telephone number of station No. 1 in case of an emergency.

"These volunteer firemen are a devoted group of men," Smith added. "They not only give up a good share of their weekends," for the sake of humanity, but are taking an intensive training course one night a week.

Report Rumors of Army Anger

Venezuela Ruling Junta Defeats Military Plot to Seize Power

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Rumors of army anger in the provinces continued to reach Caracas today after Venezuela's ruling junta backed by capital crowds defeated a military plot to seize power.

Students, professional people and workers who supported the junta in a showdown early yesterday remained alert overnight to possible repercussions after a general strike backing the government was called off.

The army garrison in Maracay, 50 miles west of Caracas, was rumored in rebellion. But informed sources said there were no troop movements there. The garrison is commanded by Col.

Marchelli Padron, who was implicated in the unsuccessful plot.

A military spokesman in the industrial city of Valencia, 80 miles west of Caracas, also denied reports of army movements there.

Interior Minister Nuam Quevedo said all state and territorial governments were supporting the junta. He announced that an undisclosed number of civilians had been arrested as enemies of the government but gave no details.

Use Your Credit—Don't Abuse It!

'Charge It' Is Valuable Key; Is It Yours?

(This is one in a series of articles prepared by the Michigan Retailers' Association in an effort to better educate the buying public of Michigan in improving their buying habits. The Pontiac Press is cooperating with MRA by bringing this series to you.)

Isn't it nice to be able to say "Charge It?" Why are you able to say this when you buy your new kitchen range, and yet perhaps your neighbor may be refused this same privilege? What is it that entitles you to credit—the ability to obtain the use of something of economic value in exchange for a promise of payment in the future?

Credit is part of you—your character, your reputation, your habits, associations, stability, mental attitudes, your family history, health condition, integrity, and your willingness to assume responsibility. All of these daily life habits reflect your "Charge It" potential. They all tell whether or not you realize the importance of meeting your obligations as agreed.

Most stores usually base their decision on whether or not to grant credit to an individual on four basic points—character, capacity, capital and conditions.

Character—Does your record indicate stability in your relationships, reliability, and a sense of obligation to your debts?

Capacity—What is your ability to pay? Do you have good future prospects?

Capital—What is the status of your financial resources at the moment?

Conditions—Is this a suitable time for the store to be extending credit? What are the general economic conditions, and what is the business outlook?

MANY FACTORS

Of course, there are many other factors which are taken into consideration before credit will be extended to you. Your address may indicate whether or not you are living beyond your means. Your occupation is important for it sometimes reflects your personality and possibilities for economic advancement. Your age, previous addresses, do you rent or own your home, previous employment record, marital status, and in particular, have you ever bought on credit before, your present list of obligations, and your record of paying your debts are all used as a basis to determine whether or not you are a good credit risk.

People use credit mostly in two forms, either charge accounts or installment buying. These are forms of useful and legitimate debt. In an emergency or simply as a convenient means of making purchases, being able to use credit instead of paying cash is a valuable asset. Don't be afraid of it, but make it your servant, not your master.

Before you incur indebtedness, carefully calculate your ability to make payments, remembering that a close budget is not safe. Leave a fair margin in your budget to meet unforeseen emergencies. Pay all your bills promptly.

If loss of your job, sickness, or an unusual expense causes serious delay in payment, call or write your creditors and explain your situation. Whatever you do, never completely ignore a demand for payment. You are risking your future by action of this nature. Also, it is well to bear in mind that frankness and sincerity will bring you a greater degree of co-operation than a belligerent or evasive answer.

CREDIT RECORD PAYS

Young married couples starting life find that it pays to establish their credit and to maintain a good credit record. By paying their bills promptly and thereby maintaining good credit records, they are establishing a solid foundation for financial security and good standing. Credit enables them to acquire a home, attractive furnishings, and other home equipment, and thus enjoy more of the good things of life than they would if they had to wait until they had saved the cash.

Minors are allowed to obtain credit, but a written guarantee of the account is normally required by a parent or guardian. Our law states that persons under 21 are considered to be minors and as such require protection in financial matters. This requirement is for the benefit and protection of the individuals concerned.

Those who grant credit like to see you use it, not abuse it. The sound use of credit stimulates business, creates employment, and contributes to lower commodity prices. Probably 85 per cent of the people use credit in some way or another.

The department store, the physician, the dentist, the butcher, and the baker, all gladly extend credit to responsible people. And all you have to do to enjoy this convenience is to pay your bills promptly. Whether you're buying on a monthly charge account, or on a deferred payment plan, buy only what you can pay for on the date it is due, and remember, don't pinch your budget too tight. Use your credit—don't abuse it. Pay promptly and when you say "Charge It," any merchant will cheerfully grant your request.

CUCUMBER BOATS — Cucumber boats go a-sailing, manned by a crew of pink shrimp for a festive summer luncheon dish with a difference. Good to look at, delightful to eat.

Local Sweet Corn Makes Debut in Food Picture

Markets will have still more home grown food supplies this week. Sweet corn makes its debut for the season, announces the Marketing Information Agent.

Meat choices should be easy with the special emphasis on poultry, lamb, pork and veal which is evident.

VEGETABLES — Garden fresh sweet corn is Michigan's new offering. The secret of sweet flavor is keeping corn cold from the time it is picked until the time it is cooked. Local or refrigerated displays in the store, and a quick trip to the home refrigerator are cues for keeping flavor. Use corn the day you buy it.

Locally grown green beans, lettuce, squash, potatoes and cabbage are in plentiful supply and cost is low.

Heavier celery production in Michigan and California is bringing a good supply at lower prices.

More vine ripened tomatoes are in the market, but local supplies are still light.

FRUITS — Follow the fruit season for greater shopping satisfaction, suggests Mrs. Josephine Sawyer. Buy more when the supply of any fruit is near its peak.

You can expect lower raspberries this week than last. The strawberry season is about over. In some stores you will find Michigan strawberries replaced by pin boxes of California berries. The next berry on the local list is blueberries. Blueberries will be in good supply this week with larger volumes expected within the next two weeks.

Keep peaches, cantaloupes and water melons on the list of fruits in heavy supply.

Sweet and tart cherries, plums, nectarines and pears can be yours at moderate cost.

POULTRY — Your family wishes and the way you plan to prepare chicken will influence your choice.

For the grill, a fryer that weighs 2½ pounds or less cooks quickly. For frying pieces, the large bird weighing over 3½ pounds will give the most meat for the money. Chicken parts may be a wise choice for the small family or for those who prefer certain pieces.

BEEF — Most retailers report no noticeable changes in beef supplies or prices. Ground beef, chuck cuts and corned beef are in the spotlight this week. Generally steak prices are back to where they were two weeks ago.

PORK — Some pork cuts show slight price decreases due to slight changes on the wholesale market.

Smoked picnics and some ham rate as good values when cost per serving is compared with other meats. When checking, remember that a picnic will serve two people from each pound; a half ham will yield two and one-half servings; a whole ham will yield three.

Spareribs, pork steaks, franks and luncheon meats wear special tags in some stores.

LAMB — Lamb supplies and wholesale costs remain about as they have been, but sales of genuine spring lamb may be found.

Since each pound yields three servings, a leg at 79 cents a pound costs about 26 cents a serving. A shoulder at 59 to 69 cents is 23 to 27 cents a serving as each pound will serve two and one-half portions.

DAIRY AND EGGS — Eggs are about the same price as they were last week. Large grade A eggs range from 50 to 60 cents a dozen.

Cottage cheese, many kinds of natural cheese, butter and ice cream are dairy food favorites marked at special prices.

OTHER — Summer meals can be quick and easy when you choose frozen strawberries individual dinners, juices or lemonade from frozen food cases.

Canned tuna, soups, soft drinks and fruit preserves are among the many items receiving emphasis on grocers' shelves this week.

Chips Used as Bread Top

NEW YORK (UPI) — Potato chip bread gives a new flavor treat to any soup or salad course. Cut crusts from white bread slices, butter lightly and press finely crushed potato chips firmly into each slice. Heat in 300 degree oven 10 minutes and serve while warm.

LOVES VITAMIN C NATURALLY

Mrs. Houston Levers says...

"Laura never fusses about taking vitamins when she gets them naturally in TreeSweet Orange Juice! She loves it... and we know this naturally pure juice is naturally more nutritious. Just two small glasses a day give her all her vitamin C...the natural way!"

Naturally

It's TreeSweet

ORANGE JUICE

In your grocer's freezer. Naturally pure (no sugar added). Naturally fresher-tasting. Naturally high in Vitamin C.

Ice Cream or Sherbet? How Much Butterfat?

In case you're wondering about the differences between ice cream, ice milk, and sherbet, it's mainly in the amount of butterfat. USDA officials count it as ice cream if it contains 10 per cent or more butterfat; ice milk if its fat content is 7 to 10 per cent; and sherbet usually is made with only about two per cent butterfat. And if you're surprised by the word "crystals," don't be alarmed. The crystals are there all right, but in a good commercial ice cream, ice milk or sherbet, they're so tiny and so thoroughly blended with the butterfat and other ingredients, and made fluffy with air, that it comes out cool and mighty smooth.

Hot Breads Real Treat to Serve on Picnics

Would you like baked bread at your next picnic? Then make top-of-the-grill cornbread or biscuits. Mix all the ingredients for the dough, except the liquid at home. Put the dry mix in a plastic bag. If you really want to save dishwashing, use the bag to mix the dough at the picnic spot.

When mixed, place the cornbread or biscuits in a heated, greased heavy skillet. Cover the pan tightly and cook about 45 minutes over red hot coals. For biscuits, bake them 5 to 8 minutes. Then turn them to complete the baking until they are done.

Dilly Cream Dressing

NEW YORK (UPI) — A tangy dill-sour cream dressing makes new potatoes a real taste treat. Dressing for 2 pounds potatoes (6 servings) is made by combining ¾ cup sour cream with ½ teaspoon dill seed and ½ teaspoon ground white pepper. Toss lightly with hot boiled potatoes and serve.

Indoor Picnic Can Be Fun Fest

INDOOR PICNIC — Rainy weather doesn't dampen the spirits of youngsters. They can enjoy a picnic anywhere. If it starts to pour when it's time to open the picnic basket, do what Mrs. Robert Cliff of Scott Lake road does. Clear a spot in the kitchen, spread out the cloth and the food and watch the kids eat! Five-year-old Bobby and seven-year-old Virginia look as if they're enjoying themselves.

Pontiac Press Photo

Pontiac Press Home Editor

When rain comes down in torrents on the day you've promised the youngsters a picnic, what do you do? Call it off! No reason to; just transfer the picnic scene indoors.

Every house has some spot that can be cleared to give room for the picnic lunch. Spread out a cloth, put the food in whatever you would use for an outdoor meal and let the children take over. Their imaginations will supply the background.

If you have an indoor barbecue or even a fireplace, it doesn't require so much imagination to pretend a picnic. However, children need few props for their pretend activities.

It's your job as cook of the family to supply the most important part of any picnic — food. So far as the children are concerned, nothing beats hot dogs or hamburgers. But let's try to ring in a change occasionally.

For a Friday sandwich make up these salmon sandwiches.

Salmon Salad Filling
1 cup flaked salmon (8-ounce can)
1 cup chopped cucumber
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 tablespoon salad dressing
2 teaspoons lemon juice
Mix together salmon, cucumber, egg and onion. Add salad dressing and lemon juice and mix thoroughly. Makes filling for 4 sandwiches.

To make the above sandwiches even more nourishing, add one-third cup dry skim milk to the filling mixture. The children won't know the difference, but the extra food value will be there.

If they like sweet sandwiches, this peanut butter sandwich should appeal to them.

Honey Peanut Butter Sandwich
1/2 cup peanut butter
1/2 cup honey
2 teaspoons shredded orange rind
1/2 cup chopped ripe banana
12 slices enriched bread
Butter or margarine
6 lettuce leaves
Blend peanut butter, honey and orange rind until smooth. Add banana and mix lightly until blended. Spread bread with butter or margarine. Spread peanut butter mixture on 6 slices bread. Place lettuce on each sandwich. Cover with remaining bread slices. Makes 6 sandwiches.

For a different drink at this indoor picnic make up this lemon-banana-milk beverage. If you have no blender, use the small bowl of your electric mixer.

Lemoning Smoothie
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons frozen concentrate for lemonade
1 medium-sized banana
1 cup cracked ice

Put milk in blender container, add remaining ingredients. Blend at high speed for 1 to 2 minutes. One-half cup of ice cream added to the Smoothie makes a richer drink. Makes 2 servings.

The youngsters themselves can help make cookies for dessert, whether the picnic is outdoors or inside.

Chocolate Chip Raisin Drop Cookies
1 package chocolate chip cake mix
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup oil
1/2 cup softened shortening
1/2 cup raisins, chopped
Empty half of cake mix into bowl. Add water, eggs, shortening, and vanilla. Beat well with wooden spoon. Then add remaining mix

Mint Candies Add Cool Flavor to Fruit

Refreshing Fruit Cups start every summer meal just right. Clear ruby red cranberry juice cocktail makes all fruits sparkle.

Cranberry Mint Cocktail
2 bananas, diced
2 large apples, peeled, cored and chopped
1 cup small green grapes
1 cup cranberry juice cocktail
1/2 cup miniature white mints
Prepare fruit and mix with cranberry juice cocktail. Chill. Just before serving, spoon into sherbet glasses. Sprinkle mints on top of each serving. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Self-rising flour consists of flour, leavening and salt.

Drop by teaspoonsful on a greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F) about 12 minutes. Store in tightly covered container. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

Ginger, Fruit Gives Fowl Exotic Flavor

Dinner guests can be accommodated on tight food budgets with careful planning and imaginative recipes. As an economical main dish suggestion for the night that company is coming, try Ginger Chicken recipe which costs only about $1.21 for four servings.

The spicy pineapple gravy which covers the broiled chicken gives a gourmet touch to the menu. It adds a special flair for a company dinner that still remains in the realm of an economical meal. A key to this simple gravy recipe is versatile instant nonfat dry milk powder.

Ginger Chicken
1 (2-lb.) broiler, cut into serving pieces
1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons ginger
1 (No. 303) can crushed pineapple (approx. 2 cups)
Broil chicken. Combine instant nonfat dry milk powder, salt, pepper and 1 teaspoon of the ginger; coat chicken pieces with mixture. Combine pineapple and remaining ginger in large skillet; heat until mixture begins to bubble. Add chicken. Cover.

Simmer over low heat, 15 minutes. Remove cover; simmer 5 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Honey, used in cookies, often adds a chewy quality.

Crunchy Bits in Frozen Cream

Cool, creamy and crunchy is this handsome frozen dessert. A rich, smooth cream mixture is combined with honey-flavored rice cereal for a delightful surprise crunchiness with each bite.

Easy to mix, this is a dessert to have on hand in the freezer for the family dessert or when friends come in and hospitality includes refreshments.

Frozen Dessert
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
1/2 cup honey-flavored rice cereal
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup milk
1 cup heavy cream
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 cup oat
Melt butter or margarine in a large, heavy skillet. Add sugar, stirring until sugar has melted. Add cereal and mix lightly but thoroughly. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until lightly browned and glossy; it will take 3 to 5 minutes. Remove from skillet onto waxed paper. Cool.

Mix gelatin, 3 tablespoons sugar, salt together in top of double boiler. Beat egg yolks until bubbly; add milk, stir into gelatin mixture and cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites.

Beat cream stiff. Beat egg whites until stiff enough to hold soft peaks. Then, beat in sugar. Add cereal mixture, almond extract, and whipped cream to egg whites. Gently stir egg white mixture into gelatin mixture. Spoon into 6 cup mold and freeze. Makes 6 servings.

Bread Cubes Top Coffee Dessert

No actress wants applause more than the home maker who has created a fine meal. And she'll have it, too, from young and old when she chooses ice cream as the finale for a summer's meal.

To enhance the richness of this favorite dessert serve it with a crunchy Butter-Crisp topping of enriched yeast-raised bread cubes toasted with butter, brown sugar and nuts. When the curtain rings down on the meal there are sure calls of "encore" for Butter-Crisp ice cream.

Butter-Crisp Ice Cream
1 cup 1/2 inch enriched yeast-raised bread cubes
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup dark brown sugar
1/2 cup chopped pecans
Dash of cinnamon
1 1/2 vanilla coffee ice cream
Toast bread cubes. Melt butter in a skillet and add toasted bread cubes, brown sugar. Heat until mixture browns. Remove from heat; add chopped pecans and cinnamon. Cool.

Spread ice cream in a refrigerator tray. Spread with brown sugar mixture. Chill at least one hour before serving. Makes 4 servings.

Chopped green cabbage is delicious when cooked in milk until tender crisp (about 5 minutes); add butter and seasoning, and serve with the milk (thickened, if desired).

Frankfurters, Cheese, Spices Pep Up Noodles

FRANKFURT SCHNITZEL
4 ounces medium noodles
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
1 cup shredded American cheese (4 ounces)
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1/2 pound frankfurters
Add 2 teaspoons salt and noodles to 3 cups boiling water. Boil rapidly, stirring constantly, for 2 minutes. Cover, remove from heat and let stand 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, melt butter or margarine in saucepan. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add cheese and stir until melted. Knead noodles with warm water and drain well. Stir Worcestershire sauce and chili sauce into cheese sauce.

Cut 2 frankfurters into halves lengthwise. Cut remaining frankfurters into crosswise slices. Fold noodles and frankfurter slices into sauce. Turn into greased 1 1/2 quart casserole. Arrange frankfurter halves on top. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 25 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Marinade Broilers—Real Gourmet Feast

NEW YORK (UPI)—Make your next cook-out dinner a gourmet feast with chicken broilers in marinade.

Combine 1/2 cup each of salad oil and rhine wine with 1/4 cup lemon or lime juice, 1/2 teaspoon each of rosemary and tabasco, tablespoon prepared mustard, 1/2 cup liquid honey and 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Beat with rotary beater until well blended.

Pour marinade over 2 quartered broilers in deep dish and chill several hours, turning chicken occasionally.

Drain chicken and grill, basting with warmed marinade.

Any leftover marinade may be served as a sauce or stored in a covered jar to be used at your next barbecue.

The juices that poultry stuffing absorbs during the roasting of the bird account for the expansion of the dressing.

Melon Shell Serves Punch

A watermelon is an ideal base for a do-it-yourself punch bowl. And a tea concentrate is just perfect as a base for a variety of fruit punches.

Watermelon Tea Punch
4 cups boiling water
1/2 cup loose tea
1 cup crushed mint leaves
1 cup sugar
1 can apricot delight
1 cup pineapple juice
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 watermelon, cut lengthwise
Watermelon rind, cut in cubes
1 quart chilled sparkling water
Mint leaves

Bring water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan. Remove from heat. Immediately add tea and crushed mint leaves. Brew 5 minutes. Stir and strain into container. Add sugar. Stir until dissolved. Cool. Add fruit juices and watermelon meats. Chill.

When ready to serve, place block of ice or ice cubes in watermelon shell. Pour punch over ice. Add sparkling water. Serve in punch cup with sprig of mint. Makes 30-40 punch cup servings.

Royal Tea Punch
2 cups boiling water
1 tablespoon tea
1 cup crushed ice
2 cups grapefruit juice
4 cups pineapple or club soda
Sugar to taste
Bring 2 cups water to full rolling boil in saucepan. Remove from heat. Immediately add tea. Brew 4 minutes. Stir and strain into pitcher holding remaining ingredients. Add sugar to taste. To serve, pour over block of ice in punch bowl. Makes about 25 servings.

American Families Now Dine Out More

CHICAGO (UPI) — Americans are entertaining more in restaurants.

Larry Hilaire, president of the National Restaurant Association, said that a study shows that 38 per cent of American families today entertain in restaurants and hotels. In 1933, the figure was only 12 per cent.

He attributed the trend to the nation's post-war economic boom, easy transportation and modern home architecture.

"In the old days, families held reunions and celebrations at Grandma's house," he said. "But today the modern home, with its small kitchens and dinettes, has forced relatives to hold gatherings in restaurants and hotels where facilities are adequate."

His study also showed that Americans consume an average of nearly 558 million meals in restaurants each week, and spend more than $17 billion annually.

Hilaire, a restaurant operator from Portland, Ore., traveled more than 1,000 miles to make the survey.

Build Burgers Sky High for Outdoor Meal

With a bit of know-how up your sleeve, you can lift barbecuing out of the ordinary and into the specialty class.

You pay the same money for meat whether your barbecue is a dazler or not, so you might as well throw in the fun and fanfare, says a current issue of a home magazine.

Be a barbecue show-off with Tepee Burgers. Put out three sizes of meat patties and grill them to order. Then place the largest burger at the bottom with an onion round atop, then a dollop of a mixture of equal amounts of prepared mustard and triple-use cheese.

Continue building your mile-high burger with a middle-size burger, tomato slice, and a midget patty. Peg the layers together with a wood skewer and plunk a stuffed olive on top. Surround each Tepee Burger with a toasted bun, and your guests will heap praise upon you.

Grilled Garlic Slices are a good stunt with French bread. Melt butter in a shallow pan and add minced garlic. Toast husky slices of French bread on your grill, then dip both sides into the garlic butter. Serve it hot, the article recommends.

Summer Salads Come in Great Variety

Pontiac Press Home Editor

Summer time is salad time. Except for breakfast, you can serve salad at any time of the day during hot weather. Furthermore, almost anything goes in a salad too.

When we were at the proper age for it, we attended Girl Scout camp every summer. Invariably our suppers were soup, salad and cookies. We remember the thin celery soup and the sauerkraut salad. Yes, Ma'm, sauerkraut and crushed pineapple. It really wasn't too bad.

If the above idea revolts you — it does many people — substitute this molded Perfection Salad. It has lots of crisp raw vegetables in a creamy lemon-flavored gelatin. Served with hearty sandwiches, it makes a whole meal.

Molded Perfection Salad

1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 cup vinegar

1 1/2 cups cold evaporated milk
1 cup finely shredded cabbage
1 cup diced celery
1 cup shredded carrots
1 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 teaspoon grated onion

Place gelatin in medium size mixing bowl. Add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add salt and dry mustard to vinegar, mix well, then add to the gelatin. Chill gelatin mixture until it is the consistency of unbeaten egg white.

Stir in cold milk gradually, blending thoroughly. Fold in vegetables. Spoon into a quart mold. Chill until set, about 2 hours. When ready to serve, unmold on lettuce or other salad greens. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

It is interesting how chefs often come to be associated with one certain dish. The dish goes down in history when the name of the originator is all but forgotten. This is the case with Shrimp Louis salad.

What makes this salad distinctive is its spicy, creamy dressing.

You may use it on any seafood, but it is given here for shrimp.

Shrimp Louis

7 small heads lettuce, shredded
1 1/2 lb. shrimp, cooked and cleaned
4 hard cooked eggs
6 slices tomato

On four separate plates, make beds of lettuce. Divide the remaining ingredients into four and arrange the salads attractively on lettuce. Serve with Louis dressing, below.

Louis Dressing

1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup chili sauce
2 tablespoons French dressing
1/2 teaspoon minced onion
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper

Combine the mayonnaise and chili sauce. Blend in the dressing, onion, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Add the remaining ingredients.

Makes 1 cup of dressing, enough for four salads.

While fruit salads are perfectly delicious, they are not filling enough for a main dish. But if you add an extender such as macaroni, you give the salad heartiness without straining the budget. Any combination of fruit may be used in this way, but watermelon and diced pineapple are suggested in the recipe below.

Macaroni Fruit Salad

1 tablespoon salt
2 quarts boiling water
2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup light cream
1/2 cup salt
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup diced pineapple
1 cup chopped celery
4 cups watermelon balls

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water and drain. Chill.

Combine mayonnaise, cream, 1 teaspoon salt and paprika; blend. Combine pineapple, macaroni and celery with mayonnaise mixture; toss lightly and chill. Arrange macaroni mixture in center of serving platter. Arrange watermelon around macaroni mixture. Makes 6-8 servings.

Families get tired of plain white bread! Serve cracked wheat, pumpernickel and rye sometimes.

Caesar Salad Pleases Sophisticated Eaters

Sophisticated salad lovers gather round. Here's how to make Caesar salad par excellence: Prepare croutons and rub wooden salad bowl with cut garlic clove; remove. Tear head of romaine and other greens of your choice into bite size pieces.

Add 1/2 cup olive oil, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 1/2 cup Bleu cheese, 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco and salt. Toss lightly. Break egg over salad and toss again until no trace of egg can be seen. Add croutons and serve.

NEW YORK — United States Navy researchers have found that explosions from sparks can be caused just as easily by tools made of "non-sparking" materials — such as copper — as by tools made of steel.

Their study shows also that metallic sparks can be caused by contact between non-sparking and sparking metals, and that impact is more dangerous as a source of ignition than is friction.

Signs Vittorio Gassman for Role in 'The Miracle'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD — Vittorio Gassman, the Italian actor once married to Shelley Winters, is headed in this direction to go before the cameras in "The Miracle" at Warner Bros. July 28. The handsome Gassman, who gave Shelley so many heartaches, hasn't been near Hollywood since they parted after a tempestuous battle.

This isn't all the signing Jack Warner is doing for "The Miracle." He has put Roger Moore, dashing English actor, under contract as Carroll Baker's leading man. Moore is a swash-buckling type, something on the order of Errol Flynn, and he was in Hollywood to play opposite Lana Turner some time ago.

Speaking of Flynn, I saw him in an old movie, "Don Juan," a few nights ago, and he certainly was the charm boy in those days.

Obviously Sol Siegel, production head of MGM, is banking on Tennessee Williams' new play, "Sweet Bird of Youth" which goes into production on Broadway in March of next year being a top hit. He's bought the motion picture rights before the play so much as opens.

Paul Newman, who will star in the stage vehicle for producer Cheryl Crawford and director Elia Kazan, is also pencilled in as the star of the motion picture. Since the movie won't be made until after the run of the play which could be 1961, by that time Paul and Jack Warner should have ironed out their difficulties.

I hardly had my eyes open when Jerry Lewis telephoned to tell me that he had signed Frank Tashlin as his partner for three pictures. "Frank will direct and write, and I'll star and produce," said the effervescent Jerry. "He directed 'Rock-A-Bye Baby' and 'Gelishia Boy,' and we work together hand in glove. The first of the three pictures will be 'Robinson Crusoe' co-

Top Math Students Have Class at 7 A.M.

WHEAT RIDGE, Colo. (UPI) — The traditional campus course, the 8 a.m. class won't seem so bad to whizzes when they enter college this fall.

For the past school year, these Jefferson County seniors appeared at Wheat Ridge High daily at 7 a.m. — voluntarily. The "A" math students crammed a normal year's to 6 per cent.

Instruction in solid geometry and trigonometry into the semester. Mathematics instructors from Colorado School of Mines, Colorado University and Denver University then gave them college-level instruction. Nearly half the class won college scholarships. Jefferson County school officials are so pleased with the success of the 7 a.m. class for exceptional students that the policy will be continued.

Attend 2-Week Day Sessions at 120-Acre Site Near Clarkston

Blue Birds, Camp Fire Girls Meet Great Outdoors

Studying a bird's nest found on the camping site of Camp Oweki, the Clarkston day camp sponsored by Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls, are Jane Strom, day camp director and Barbara Decon.

The nest was used in nature study classes during the camp's two two-week sessions which ran June 30-July 24.

250 Try Camping at Oweki

Each morning for the last four weeks more than 250 happy young ladies were whisked away from Pontiac by special bus for a day of outdoor camping fun and adventure.

These young ladies were Blue Birds and Camp Fire Girls ages 7-18 who attended the Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls' day camp, Camp Oweki in Clarkston.

TWO SESSIONS HELD

At the camp, which ran in two two-week sessions June 30-July 24, the girls were given an opportunity to enjoy the outdoor experiences of camping such as hiking, swimming, cooking, and nature study. Instructions also were given in archery, swimming and many phases of camping such as tenting and furniture making.

Blue Birds, ages 7-10, learned much about the wonders of nature and used grasses, stones and flowers in making jewelry and decorative pieces.

Camp Fire Girls, those 10-15, learned many of the fundamentals of camping. Cooking was a feature of their program along with tenting and the making of camp furniture. The older girls were given instruction in archery and many had opportunity for overnight camping.

The girls 15-18 assisted the adult leaders of the group in teaching classes.

PUBLISHED NEWSPAPER

A daily newspaper was published by the girls as an added attraction.

"The day camp program is planned to offer a girl a progressive camping experience so that she builds yearly on her previous experience," says day camp director Jane Strom.

She also stated that one of the camp's chief aims was to acquaint girls with the outdoors and to gain an appreciation of nature.

The 120-acre camp site near Clarkston is operated on registration fees and community contributions.

Camp chairman William McLean stated, "The girls themselves bought the site through their annual candy sales. The mothers operate the day camp, while the fathers maintain the camp site under the guidance of camp development chairman Eldon Gardner."

CLUBS ASSIST

The Civitan Club developed the waterfront program and contributes annually to a trust fund for permanent buildings.

The Kiwanis Club of Pontiac donated cabins, boats, shelters and tenting equipment. The West Side Kiwanis Club contributed archery equipment, and Zonta Club donations are used for camping supplies.

The Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls, which operates a year-round program for all interested girls 7-18 years of age, is a member-agency of the Pontiac Area United Fund.

Baubles 'n' Beads for Fall

The fashion for Fall '58-'59 has evolved into completely unadorned clothes that are perfect "showcases" for jewelry.

The new clothes are easy in fit and simple in line. Slim skirted, loosely fitted clothes are either carefully contoured over the diaphragm or have a high rising waistline directly under the bust, reminiscent of the Directoire or Empire.

This free, mere "outline" of form silhouette, demands a lavish and imaginative use of jewelry. No timid accent will do. Masses of jewelry is the mode. Bold jewelry, excitingly new in feeling, is meant to be worn in new ways.

New stones, color drenched and improbably large, manage to look exquisitely precious yet frankly fake. Jewels in new shapes with new silhouettes, themselves "free form," are well keyed to the complete change in the fashion picture.

Welcome-Back Party Given

A welcome-home dinner party for Dr. and Mrs. Aaron D. Riker and Dr. and Mrs. Clifford T. Ekelund was given Wednesday evening by the Walter D. Appels at their home on Orchard Lake.

Dr. and Mrs. Riker and Dr. and Mrs. Ekelund have recently returned from two months abroad.

State Hospital Employees Plan Aug. 9 Reunion

The second annual reunion of former employees of Pontiac State Hospital will be held Aug. 9 at 1 p.m. on the hospital picnic grounds.

General chairman Mrs. Cora Harrington is being assisted by Mrs. Clarence Hickmott, Mrs. Julia Fitzgibbons, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Vanderlind, Mrs. Jeannette See, Duncan McVean, David Duval and Don Milbourn.

Countryside Group Meets for Program

Countryside Improvement Association met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. A. R. Dodge on Lake Angelus for luncheon and a musical program.

Cohostesses were Mrs. J. P. Charles, Mrs. F.V. Bott, Mrs. E. E. Dohany and Evelyn Dohany.

honor at a supper party. Co-hosts with the Van Dusens will be Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Rothman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Woodruff.

Linda's wedding will take place Monday evening at 6 o'clock in the chancel of Christ Church Cranbrook.

Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan M. Ball, a graduate of Randolph-Macon College at Lynchburg, Va., has been a guide at the U. N. in New York since her graduation.

Don't Detour to Trouble

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: When I was visiting in Arizona I met a truck driver from NEW ORLEANS. We had a wonderful time together, but I didn't get his name. He said to just call him 'Red.' I have been thinking a lot about him lately and wonder how I can find out his real name and where I can get in touch with him."

"I'm not sure which trucking outfit he works for but if you send me a list of names maybe it will come back to me. I think his home base was INDIANAPOLIS. I can't get this guy out of my mind."

KIKI

DEAR KIKI: If he were interested, respectable and available, he'd have gotten YOUR name and address. Don't detour to look for trouble. Nameless strangers constantly travel the road to ruin.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old and am starting to get a mustache. My folks won't hear of letting me shave it off because they think I am too young to start shaving. It is very noticeable and the kids at school are beginning to make fun of me. Most of the guys I go with shave their whole faces. How old should a fellow be before he starts shaving?"

BABIED

DEAR BABIED: A fellow should start shaving when he has something to shave.

DEAR ABBY: How much does a son owe his parents? Ever since I was old enough to count change I carried papers. I worked my way through college by keeping three jobs. My father never worked steady but he drank steady. My mother used to ask me for money and spent it on clothes for my sisters who could have worked but were too lazy.

"Now that I am a success (I am not rich, but I do all right) my sisters, who are now married, keep writing to tell me how bad off the old folks are. Don't you think they should all pitch in the same amount, even if it means they have to sacrifice something? They all drive cars and have two TV sets and take vacations."

JUST A SON

DEAR SON: A son (or daughter) should give not according to his MEANS — but according to his CONSCIENCE. Don't count their money — count your blessings. You will find the answer to your question in a very old book. I quote: "Honor thy mother and thy father."

DEAR ABBY: My sister passed away last December and we had many talks before she died because she knew she was going. She told me she was leaving me her most precious possessions — her husband and three little children (all under 12). Thus far her husband has made no advances to me. I am 34 and unmarried. My sister was 42 and so is her husband. Should I tell her husband of our conversations? He has hired a housekeeper and shows only a sisterly interest in me.

SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Don't tell your sister's husband about your conversation. Even though your sister might have wanted to "give you" her most precious possessions — it is still a man's privilege to select his own wife.

If You Want Gadgets Be Prepared to Pay

By RUTH MILLETT

After I had called a repairman for the fifth time in three months to minister to a shiny big stove with two ovens and an instrument panel that looks complicated enough to control a B-52, he broke down and gave me a bit of advice I've never gotten from a salesman.

He said, "Lady, if you had just bought a medium-priced stove without all these fancy gadgets, you wouldn't be having this trouble."

"You women don't seem to realize that the more thinking you ask a machine to do for you, the more things there are about it that are going to break down. I make a living not from medium-priced household equipment, but from the kind that is built to do just a few more things than is necessary — things you could do yourself with no trouble, if you just didn't want everything done automatically."

He then went on to explain that the cheapest piece of household equipment usually isn't the best buy — but that the most expensive isn't always the best buy, either. Just stick to the medium-priced line, he advised, and you'll usually get good quality, without a lot of unnecessary refinements to go haywire.

In all the years I've been buying household equipment, not one salesman has ever given me that honest, down-to-earth bit of advice. I haven't read it in any advertising, either. "All I've heard and read is, that by paying 'just a little more,' I could buy more convenience, more leisure, more fool-proof operation."

It occurs to me that if salesmen would just say, "Now this model is more completely automatic, but it has more parts to break down, too," there would be fewer dissatisfied customers.

Because if we went ahead and bought the most complicated machine, we would buy it knowing what we are letting ourselves in for in the way of repair bills.

Use Precision Makeup

Want Beautiful Eyes?

If you wish to achieve this season's look of brilliant eye beauty, practice drawing eye-liners so that they are precision-perfect.

First sharpen your eyebrow pencil to a fine wedge. A blunt point creates a blurred, fuzzy outline. Then partially close one eye and hold the upper lid taut by gently pulling the outer corner toward the temple with the forefinger. Glide the pencil point in a straight line close to the roots of the upper and lower lashes, and then use the pencil to feather color subtly into the lash roots.

Add your eyelash makeup, and your eyes will have the expressive beauty that is an essential part of glamour.

Set Time to Say Good-Bye

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I are planning to leave this part of the country shortly. As we will be very busy getting ready to move, it will be impossible for us to get to see our many friends to say good-bye to them before leaving."

"Would it be proper to set aside a day for our friends to come in to say good-bye to us? If you approve of this, how can we notify our friends? Also, what if anything, should be served?"

Answer: Write on your visiting card, "Won't you come in to say good-bye to us on Thursday, any time between 4 and 6 o'clock?" It isn't necessary to serve anything, but if you like you could have tea, or coffee, and some small sandwiches or little cakes.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is going to be married soon and she claims that a wedding invitation and reception card should be sent to the bridegroom's parents. I think this is utterly ridiculous but she says it is correct procedure. Will you please give me your opinion?"

Answer: Sending an invitation to the bridegroom's parents is not as ridiculous as it seems to you. An invitation is often sent them because they are interested in seeing them. Of course no answer is expected.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My engagement was recently announced and I have received many personal notes as well as printed cards from friends and relatives living me their good wishes. Should these notes and cards be acknowledged, and if so, by personal note?"

Answer: No acknowledgment is necessary except a verbal one as you meet the different senders. It would be courteous, however, to send written thanks to any long letter or affectionate note.

Teenagers Shun Intellectual Title

Term 'Egghead' Sabotaging Brainpower?

Gilbert Youth Research Co.

A simple thing like the widespread use of the term "egghead" may be causing irreparable harm to the United States in its efforts to match the Soviet Union in technical achievement.

The dictionary defines an egghead as "a very intellectual person" and the definition was accepted by two-thirds of the young people we put the question to in our latest poll.

But there is more to a word than just a dictionary definition. There are emotional overtones, too. And among American youth, egghead is an insult.

That scarcely anyone wants to be called an egghead is underscored by the fact that few young people expressed an interest in the fields of study generally considered to produce them.

Only about one in 25 of the young people in our poll told us they are interested in science and engineering; less than one in 20 in teaching; one in 17 in law, medicine, and other professions.

THEY'RE NEEDED

These are the very people most needed by the United States in its atomic-space-missile age competition with the Soviet Union.

Some comments that turned up in our poll indicate the word "egghead" — and by inference the word "intellectual" — to our young people really means someone who doesn't fit into the group.

To Bill Card, 15, of Baltimore egghead is a "dirty name." Renee Greif, also 15, of Cleveland says she calls her kid brother an egghead "when I'm angry with him."

Why? Well, take a look at some of the synonyms that the term egghead calls to the teenage mind. They all popped up with regularity in our survey.

"An egghead is a grind," said Sara Lundén, 16, of Miami.

"A weirdie," added 16-year-old Frank Gennaro of the Bronx.

"An oddball," said Sheila Carney, a 15-year-old Coral Gables, Fla., girl.

"He lacks common sense," declared Glendal Wetherington, 18, of Indianapolis.

"He doesn't really know the score," Art Compton, 18, of Fresno, Calif., told us.

SOME PRAISE

Some, however, had a good word for the downtrodden egghead. Sidney Kaner, 18, of Miami told us he and his friends use it as a term of endearment for one of their buddies.

"We call him that because we like him," said Sid. "Sure, he goes nuts over Bach and he likes chess — but he also can give you batting averages like a baseball encyclopedia."

Sid also was in a distinct minority in that he was one of the few who admitted numbering an egghead among his friends. Nine out of 10 vehemently denied that any of their chums fitted the category.

The term egghead first came into wide use during the 1952 presidential campaign when it was hurled as an epithet at Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson and some of his advisors.

Now, nearly six years later, only 11 per cent of the young people in our survey told us they had never heard it.

Of course, just hearing a word is no assurance that the listener knows precisely what it means. Some of the definitions given by the young people proved that, too.

To 10 per cent of them, an egghead is merely a bright person. Another 10 per cent said they thought he was a snob, 7 per cent called him "professorish," and 2 per cent used the definition "arty or theatrical."

But, it's interesting to note, the young people draw a sharp line between the egghead and an educated person. Half of them plan to go to college and 10 per cent intend to go on to graduate school.

Shopping With Care Saves Time

The housewife with an eye toward convenience can increase her leisure time and make her household chores easier, just by being careful when she shops.

More products now come in packages which simplify meal preparation and work around the house.

The woman who prides herself on her sauces and breaded foods would be wise to choose the new shaker-top fiber can of flour next time she shops.

Instead of inconvenient bag openings and flour spilling into her face, the new can permits her to spoon or shake the exact amount of flour she needs. Bread crumbs, grated cheese and salt also come in similar shaker-top fiber cans.

Every family loves hot rolls, but finds it hard to wait while Mom mixes the dough. Now she can have hot rolls in minutes by having hot rolls in minutes by choosing any of the easy-to-open fiber containers of refrigerated, ready-to-bake biscuits.

Careful shopping pays off for things other than food. Spraying the garden can be messy and costly when liquids must be mixed for an electric spray gun. A new garden insecticide comes in a fiber can which acts as its own dusting gun.

The can's simple pumping action gives an easy-to-control spray. It is more efficient than electric and squeeze-type sprays, operating in any position, even upside-down.

Planning a party soon—or toys for the kids? Balloons are perennial favorites, despite the bother of blowing them up. Smart shoppers buy balloons packaged in a fiber can that doubles as a pump. The careful shopper will always be rewarded with extra time for her personal activities.

Ingratitude May Be Sign of Self-Respect

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Before school closed, Bud had located a summer job in a local garage. But the first morning he turned up for work, its owner said he'd had to give the job to his wife's kid brother. "You know how it is," he said uncomfortably.

Bud didn't know how it was. Shocked by the world's treachery, he spent the rest of the day looking for other jobs. But people who were hiring high school kids had already picked their boys. At dinner that night he was so depressed that his father said kindly, "Look, Bud. Until you find work, we'll go right on with your usual allowance. Now take that load off your mind."

STILL GROUCHY

But Bud didn't. Though he muttered "thanks" for the $4 his father handed him, he was so grouchy and hostile toward his mother the next day that she said despairingly to his father, "You'd think we'd turned him out of the house instead of helping him. Sometimes I think that today's young people are just incapable of gratitude."

I think many parents of adolescent children know this appalled sense of ingratitude. In our hearts we often groan to ourselves, "The more I try to do for Bud or Lila, the more outrageously they treat me."

Our answer is: Bud and Lila want to do for themselves. Bud is jealous of his father's established ability to earn his own income. When we make our kind effort to help solve his unemployment problem by giving him our money, his envy of our superior position becomes intolerable — and he strikes out at us as the "have-nots" of this world have been striking out at the "haves" since time began.

Actually, his ingratitude is a frustrated form of self-respect. It's a great comfort to perceive that this is true. And it is what we need to maintain our kindness as Bud searches for another job.

If we don't see it, we can get as confused as Alice in Looking-glass Land where to go forward, you had to walk backward. We begin to doubt the value of kindness that seems to produce irritability in Bud instead of gratitude. We remain blind to the fact that his irritability is directed not at us but at his own dependence upon us.

The key to all nice adolescent youngsters' nasty behavior is their passion to be free of gratitude.

Silver Lake Golf League Holds Picnic

Members of the Women's Silver Lake Golf League met for their annual mid-season picnic Tuesday.

The group played golf in the morning and in the afternoon held the picnic at the home of Mrs. Grand McDonald on Clintonville Rd. Awards for golf scores were presented and members enjoyed rides on a pontoon "flotilla" on Lake Oakland.

Mrs. Dale Aumaugher was committee chairman for the event, assisted by Mrs. Maurice McLaughlin and Mrs. Herbert Zscherer.

Try Some Tricks to Control Hands

Try some behind-the-scenes tricks to control fidgety hands that call attention to tenseness. When alone, make a fist, squeeze and relax your hand. Or stretch fingers and relax them.

Another trick which athletes often use is to shake your hands until they seem loose and floppy.

A coat of black liquid shoe polish will give your fireplace screens a new appearance.

Pleats Are Reset by Dripping Action

Almost any washable fabric that can be drip-dried can also go into a dryer with safety.

One notable exception is a durable-pleated item. The reason: It's the action of dripping water that shapes and resets such pleats after laundering.

This is the time of year when sheer hosiery, open sandals and the bareback T-strap shoe come into favor, calling attention to a girl's feet.

In many instances, what the eye sees is roughened skin, patches of dead skin at the heel and possibly even a callus or two. These are the results of winter weather, closed shoes and boots.

To soften this skin and turn it pretty, there's a beauty aid for the feet that is in liquid form. A girl need only smooth it on, then rub it off in order to remove dry, dead skin.

It should be used regularly in order to keep the skin softened, for even light and airy shoes may have straps that press, vamps that bind or heel backs that create friction. Rough skin is not only unattractive, it plays havoc with your budget. It can cause runs in sheer stockings with the greatest of ease.

You've got that ole debbil care by the neck, so to speak. Tensions fade away and you're soon purring like a kitten. Try it. Start your next beauty nap at the nape.

They Act as They Look

'Dress Right' Campaign Spreads

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It all started in Buffalo, N.Y., in the fall of 1955. High school students there launched a program which has attracted national attention. This was a "Dress Right" program. Joseph Manch, who was at the time associate superintendent for school-community relationships, was the moving force, but he says the students themselves were the ones who put it over and who deserve the credit.

The overwhelming majority of educators, teachers and authorities on juvenile behavior believe that appearance, while an outward symbol, has an inner significance for most youngsters. That is why more and more high schools throughout the nation are introducing "Dress Right" programs to their students, often through their student councils.

Of course those of you who read this column know that I feel that appearance has an inner impact on all of us. I have been writing for years that I believe we women are very apt to live up to the picture we have of ourselves.

The American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear has been cooperating with educators and supplying them with material and ideas to help put over their "Dress Right" Programs. Recently this Institute concluded a pilot survey. I think some of the things the high school principals had to say are most interesting. Here are statements from various principals throughout the country:

"I am a firm believer in the statement, 'They act as they are dressed.'"

"A small percentage of our students are sloppy about their appearance. These same students are definitely our behavior problems. We are planning to set up a dress and behavior code before things get worse."

"We started out by having juniors and seniors dress properly on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. All of the classes caught the spirit and have won much praise from the community."

The "Dress Right" program does not suggest more clothes or more expensive clothing. The whole idea is good grooming and clean clothing worn properly rather than in a slovenly manner.

Self-respect often is reflected in good grooming and certainly good grooming breeds self-respect. We adults all know this to be true!

In Fashion Slump?

Many women spend time and money on trips to the beauty salon and dress shops, but overlook a very simple fact. If they have poor posture and slump around, their efforts are wasted.

Avoid Smoking When in Crowd

When you are in a crowd jammed closely together, don't light a cigarette.

There is too much chance that you will brush the lighted end against someone. And even if you don't, the smoke is likely to be annoying to someone close to you.

Seeking Castle or Private Isle?

Previews Specializes in Unusual Properties and Faraway Places

NEW YORK (NEA) — In the romance department, John C. Tylen deserves a special prize. He marries quite normal-looking people to castles, islands, ghost towns or ranchland empires.

John C. Tylen is a realtor of extraordinary properties which goes by the name of Previews. And from his dark-paneled office overlooking Madison Ave. in New York, he and his swashbuckling salesmen are doing a land office business in bills of sale for far away places.

There is on the block, for example, Campobello—the island home of the late Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Cost: $50,000, but that includes memorabilia of the late President's occupancy.

"Just think," Tylen sighs, "of the elation we feel when we find the right house for someone. It's like ministering a marriage."

Previews is also doing its best to parcel out special islands to latent beachcombers.

But, Tylen moans a British moan, "We've many more buyers than we have islands."

"If you know of anyone with an island to sell, or if some ambitious explorers come across anything new, I do wish they'd contact us."

Islands range from the $700 variety (very scarce now) in Canada, to a $300,000 island empire in Montana. This is 2,300 acres of Wild Horse Island on Flathead Lake, with a motor boat thrown in.

However, if you would care for something slightly used (by kings and emperors) there is Steinawend, a hunting paradise in Austria. It will go for $150,000, which covers the right to bag such things as chamois, marmot, golden eagle and ibex.

Persons looking for a "buy" may find it right at home. If there is a decorator or designer building a dreamhouse in the neighborhood, keep an eye peeled for a bargain in the near future.

Professional "homemakers," as Tylen calls them, weary of their own handwork and move on to new challenges. Or after a few thousand conducted tours, they mumble their anguish into a realtor's ear. A prime example was a decorator who put up his Nantucket 18-room Main Street whaler's mansion for sale at $35,000, a big loss.

"Just get rid of it," he begged, "before spring. Or my friends will crowd me into another nervous breakdown this summer."

Rollers Mute Screech of Noisy Circular Saws
VIENNA — An Austrian's invention mutes the terrific noise of a circular saw's operation. Michael Bukovac, who lives near Vienna, places two or more pairs of elastic-lined rollers on both sides of the rotating saw blade and this eliminates a great part of the whirling blade's oscillation. Bukovac says it is the oscillation that causes the screeching.

Boost Becomes Effective August 1

Prepare for New Postage Rates

Postal employees in Pontiac are preparing for the boost in postage rates which becomes effective August 1.

C. A. Ebey, superintendent of mails, reports he already has received half of the $130,500 worth of new stamps he has ordered. He expects this combination of 3,833,000 stamps to last approximately three months.

As of the first of next month it will cost a penny more to send post cards, first class and air mail letters. This is the first time in 26 years Congress has raised the rate on such mail.

Postage for a post card will be three cents instead of two and air mail post cards will be five instead of four cents.

The rate for first class mail will rise from three to four cents and air mail from six to seven cents for each ounce.

Ebey added that he has included in his stamp order 140,000 four-cent Simon Bolivar commemorative stamps for issuance August 1 and 100,000 four-cent Atlantic cable commemorative stamps for August 16.

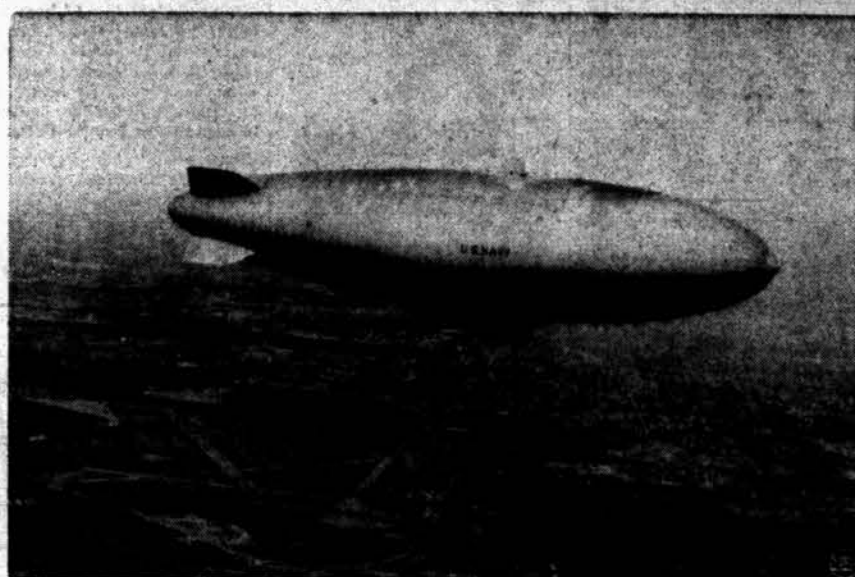

Pontiac businessmen will be able to purchase the new stamps before August 1 for mailing lists but window patrons will have to wait the first of the month, according to Robert C. Miller, acting postmaster.

Miller also reminds patrons that the Post Office Department has suspended for three months the new five-cent penalty for mailing letters with insufficient postage.

The law which states that a five-cent penalty plus the amount of the insufficient postage must be will have a chance to become acquainted with the new postage rates until Oct. 31, so that patrons' rate boost, he explained.

Previously, only the insufficient postage had to be paid by the receiver of the mail.

MIT Studying
Sound of ViolinOrchestra Members
Play Note With Slight
Variation in Timing

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — The violins of a symphony orchestra sound rich and alive for being played with slight differences. But how much difference is good?

This is one of the questions scientists hope to answer in an $80,000 research program at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"If all of the violinists in an orchestra played the same note in exactly the same way, the sound would be that of a single violin amplified," said Dr. Melville Clark Jr., chairman of the project.

"Of course they must play very close together in order to produce good music, but they play just far enough apart — in pitch and timing — to achieve a richness, an aliveness, which they would not have if they were playing precisely alike."

Clark, a nuclear engineer who used to play organ, said the researchers hoped to make exact measurements of "this minute difference" and also to study what gives instruments their individual and characteristic tones.

"Such research should enable the makers of musical instruments to improve them and perhaps even to invent new kinds of instruments," Clark said.

The research is sponsored by the National Association of Music Merchants representing instrument dealers throughout the country.

HOW Y'FEELING? — Marianne Roberts, 19-year-old Butler University student at Indianapolis, uses a stethoscope on a white oak tree which is believed to be the oldest in Indiana. The tree, insured by a former owner with Lloyds of London, is now the property of the Butler School of Religion. Although many old trees surrounding the oak had to be cut down it was pronounced "sound as a dollar" by tree surgeons.

Hawaiian Turns Tables
on Barbecue Addicts

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Andrew Fo, a Hawaiian studying soil chemistry at Oklahoma State, turned the tables on western barbecue lovers here.

After sampling Oklahoma barbecue, he sent away for several ingredients and treated the natives to barbecue Hawaiian style. He cooked two 135-pound pigs, taking eight hours and 200 pounds of charcoal.

Family Growing Fast

HAMILTON AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Staff Sgt. and Mrs. James Busby need a bigger home — and quick. Mrs. Busby, 26, gave birth to twin boys 10 months after having twin girls. Neighbors help take care of the girls while the sergeant goes house hunting. "We've got to have another room," he said.

Southfield Nine Legion Champ

Milford's Anderson
Fires No-Hitter

It took an extra inning to do it but Southfield clinched the Junior Legion league championship by nipping Rochester 5-4 in eight innings yesterday.

The title victory slightly overshadowed a masterful no-hit performance by Milford lefthander Terry Anderson, who blanked Royal Oak 6-0. Berkley edged Clawson 5-4 and Birmingham took a forfeit over Waterford.

The old rundown play turned the tide for Southfield after Rochester had come from behind to gain a 4-4 tie on a single and three walks.

Bob Utley opened the Southfield eighth with his 2nd single and advanced to 2nd on Dave Boyd's 4th straight single. Utley advanced to 3rd on a double play and Bob Filar walked. Filar then got involved in a rundown between 1st and 2nd allowing Utley to sneak home from 3rd.

Bob Hayes was the winning pitcher in relief. Neil Stevensen and Tom Ridley also had two hits.

Three errors prevented Anderson from flipping a perfect game. He struck out 13 and paced his own offensive with a triple and two singles for four runs batted in.

200 to Compete in Archery Meet

GRAYLING (AP) — Some 2,000 bow and arrow enthusiasts, claimed as the largest contingent of archers since medieval times, will gather here starting next Monday.

The event is the 1958 National Field Archery Tournament to be held July 23-31 at the State National Guard training camp on Lake Margrethe, about five miles southwest of Grayling.

National field championships in six divisions will be decided. These include those for men, women, intermediate boys and girls and junior boys and girls.

Following the national tourney, where medals and ribbons are awarded, a one-day cash shoot will be held on Aug. 1 for the top archers with $5,000 in prizes.

Last year's national tourney was held at Watkins Glen, N. Y., and attracted 1,000 contestants. Senior winners included Ann Marston of Wyandotte in the women's free style.

Siebern 'Big League' Now

DETROIT (AP) — Just a few weeks ago Casey Stengel called Norm Siebern "an almost big leaguer."

Now Siebern, the latest in a long line of slugging New York Yankee outfielders, has persuaded his manager to remove the "almost" part of the description.

Siebern is on an eight-game hitting streak in which he has collected 20 hits in his last 37 at-bats for a .541 batting average. In his last two games, against the Detroit Tigers, Siebern has hit safely six times in 10 at-bats, pounded out a pair of home runs and driven in five runs.

Talbot, Stone Blank Foes in 'B' Contest

Shutout pitching by Don Talbot and Al Stone and some timely hitting in the 3rd inning provided Talbot Lumber with the margin of victory in a 2-0 conquest of Kuhlman Electric yesterday in a Class B baseball contest.

Talbot was the starter and victor and he was a key man in the 3rd with a single-to bat in the 1st run. He scored the other on an error. Frank Johnson also had two hits for Talbot.

Kuhlman had several threats going but never could get the clutch hit. John Marshall paced the losers with a triple and singles.

Retains 'Fly' Title

MADRID (AP) — Young Martin of Spain defended his European flyweight title Wednesday night when he outpointed French champion Robert Pollazon in a 15-round bout before 28,000.

Young Martin weighed 111½ pounds, Pollazon 109½.

DEFENDS TOP TITLE — One of the National Skeet Association's veterans, and long time top-fighter has indicated he will be back to OCS's skeet fields this weekend for the 1958 world championships. Alex H. Kerr, Beverly Hills, Calif., expects to defend his 1957 all-around crown, and may start his round of bird-busting in Sunday's preliminary shoot.

The rangy outfielder, who will reach his 25th birthday the day after tomorrow, credits his success to the pretty brunette who will become his bride after the 1958 season.

"It all ties in," he said after taking part in last night's 16-4 lambasting of the Detroit club. "It seemed like I really started to hit after we announced our engagement."

Siebern disclosed a few weeks ago that he will marry Elizabeth Vigil, a stenographer in Denver where he played last year.

"I always gave the game 100 per cent effort," he explained, "but I just got to thinking — I'll have more responsibilities now, another mouth to feed. Baseball is my life's work, and the better I am at it, the better off we'll be. I really think the engagement helped."

Stengel gave Siebern a regular job in the Yankee lineup about that same time, and the left-handed hitter has been swinging at all kinds of pitching.

Siebern is the fellow who had the left field job all wrapped up in the spring of 1956 until he crashed into the fence during spring training. He had his damaged left knee repaired in the off season and spent the entire 1957 campaign at Denver, where his lusty hitting earned him what Yankee observers called his "last big shot" with the New York club.

When he first reported to the Yankees, Siebern said he tried to pull the ball "because all I could think about was that short right field fence in Yankee stadium. Now I just try to meet the ball where it is pitched and once in a while it goes out of the park."

Currently hitting .321 with nine home runs, Siebern is helping Yankee fans forget about Mickey Mantle's off year.

Disappointed Ken Lane Says 'I Was Robbed'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Kenny Lane, shaking his battered head in resignation, gritted in his dressing room last night, "I was robbed" of the decision in his lightweight title fight with Joe Brown.

"I thought I had it big until the last round, then I took it easy," the game little fighter said.

"Oh, well, there'll be another day," he added.

Jack Kearns, Lane's co-manager, echoed the fighter's opinion.

Lane, his right eye puffed and his face battered, admitted "he caught me with a few shots, but he never hurt me bad. I rode most of his punches."

"I hurt him several times. I got him good with combinations of straight jabs, straight lefts and back with a right. Some upercuts shook him up pretty good a few times, too," Lane said.

Lane said he wasn't tired in his first try at 15 rounds.

He said he had no positive plans for the future, but said, "He ain't going to go forever," referring to Brown's age, 32, compared to 26 for Lane.

"He's a smoothie and a good fighter, but I kept him from setting me up. He's not the puncher he's supposed to be," Lane said.

He turned back to the 15th round, one of Brown's best. "I shouldn't have let up," he said. "I thought I had it won."

He turned back to the 15th round, one of Brown's best. "I shouldn't have let up," he said. "I thought I had it won."

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Kenny Lane, shaking his battered head in resignation, gritted in his dressing room last night, "I was robbed" of the decision in his lightweight title fight with Joe Brown.

"I thought I had it big until the last round, then I took it easy," the game little fighter said.

"Oh, well, there'll be another day," he added.

Jack Kearns, Lane's co-manager, echoed the fighter's opinion.

Lane, his right eye puffed and his face battered, admitted "he caught me with a few shots, but he never hurt me bad. I rode most of his punches."

"I hurt him several times. I got him good with combinations of straight jabs, straight lefts and back with a right. Some upercuts shook him up pretty good a few times, too," Lane said.

Jay Fires 2-Hitter; Sawyer Starts Right

Milwaukee Regains Lead

By The Associated Press
Pal Joey has won another big one for Milwaukee, this time with a two-hitter that hoisted the Braves back into the National League lead.
Young Joey Jay blanked St. Louis 6-0 on a pair of singles last night as the champs moved a full game ahead of San Francisco.
The Giants, after winning six in a row, slipped to second with 3-2 and 2-0 defeats at Philadelphia. The first was a completion of a June 22 suspended game and marked Eddie Sawyer's return as manager of the Phils, who moved from sixth to within .001 of fourth place St. Louis.
Cincinnati defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-5 in 10 innings and Pittsburgh plunked Los Angeles back into the cellar with an 11-3 and 6-3 two-night sweep in the other NL games.
Jay, 22, a big right-hander, was tabbed another Warren Spahn last spring by Ben Geraghty, the Braves' top boss in the minors.

Pal Joey? Just a kid who until this season had pitched only 43 innings in the majors since signing for a bonus in 1953.
But now he's won five in a row for a 6-3 record. His major league record is 3-3, with four shutouts.
The Phils trailed 1-0 with two on and two out in the sixth when the June 22 curfew sounded. Last night, lefty Harry Anderson, given a permanent job by Sawyer after being platooned by ex-manager Mayo Smith, tagged a three-run homer off southpaw Johnny Antonelli when play resumed. That beat Ruben Gomez, the starter back in June, and gave Robin Roberts a 9-3 record although the Phils managed just three hits.
The Giants' streak officially ended in the regulation game. Rookie Ray Sempach won his 12th with a five-hitter for his second shutout, both over the Giants. Anderson singled off lefty Mike McCormick (7-2) as the Phils scored one in the first inning. Bob Bowman homered in the fifth.
Frank Robinson drove in four runs for the Reds, two with a double that capped a four-run fifth and the other pair with his winning, 13th homer off reliever Don Elston (7-5). Hal Jeffcoat (5-5) won it in relief, after giving up Bobby Thomson's solo homer in the 10th. George Crowe also belted a two-run homer for the Reds.
Ron Kline won his 10th with a four-hitter in the opener for the Pirates, blanking the Dodgers on one hit after Steve Bilko's homer in the first inning. Stan Williams (6-4) lost it. Half the Buc's 14 hits were for extra bases. Dick Stuart had two triples and drove in four runs. Roberto Clemente lined a three-run, inside-the-park homer, and Frank Thomas belted his 27th home run, tops in the NL.
Dick Groat, who had two RBI in the opener, drove in four in the nightcap, three with a double that capped a five-run first off Sandy Koufax and losing reliever Clem Labine (3-3). Bob Friend won his 12th. He struck out 10, but needed relief help for the final out.

Diamond Dust

By CHUCK ABRAHAM

The team which represented the Auburn Heights Boys' Club in a Hearst baseball tournament at Lansing last weekend failed to get by the second round after an impressive start but it was not the end of the road for coach Bill Graham and four of his players.
Pitcher Terry Hoy, catcher Dick Roy and infielders John Zeeman and Dave Simmons were selected along with Graham on the Southern Michigan Hearst All Star team.
Graham was named to coach the "dream" group which will play a series with a similar team made up of Metropolitan Detroit stars.
The series will begin this weekend at Ann Arbor and continue next week at Briggs Stadium which certainly should give the youngsters quite a thrill.
Such events give the boys a good chance to show their wares in front of the right people. Several college coaches and Major League scouts will likely be keeping an eye on some of the top performers.
Hoy, a Milford boy, won the All-Star nod for both his pitching and hitting. He blanked Lansing on seven hits. The other three all were standouts at both the plate and in the field. Zeeman was Hoy's teammate at Milford last spring while Roy worked both as a catcher and pitcher for Avondale. Simmons is a former Pontiac High ace who starred at Albion last season.
SKIPPING AROUND
Waterford finally dropped out of Junior Legion play after forfeiting several games. Post made a game try after losing top boys to softball but just could not depend on nine fellows showing up every week. Understand the Township unit's uncertainty about having a team in the first place was part of the reason most of the boys skipped to softball.

Top Golfers Shooting for $20,000 Purse at Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rain-toughened Mount Pleasant gets an early test in the opening round of the $20,000 Eastern Open today with some of golf's brightest stars among the first players scheduled to tee off.
The early birdie-seekers included Dow Finsterwald; newly-crowned champion of the Professional Golfers Assn., former National Open king Dick Mayer, and long-hitting George Bayer.
This trio drew 8:19 a.m. (EDT) starting times, the first big-name performers to head over the rugged hills of the old Mount. Moments later they were followed by veteran Sam Snead, bearing his usual tag as "the man to beat"; Jack Burke, and Billy Maxwell, who has worked his way up to 12th on this year's pro money list.
Late starters included reigning National Open champion Tommy Bolt, former Masters winner Doug Ford, former Masters and two-time National Open titlist Cary Middlecoff and Ken Venturi, winner of three tournaments on the 1958 trail.
The field will be slashed to the 60 lowest scoring pros and 10 amateurs, plus ties, after tomorrow.

5 More Seeded Players Upset in Tennis Play

HAVERFORD, Pa. (AP)—Mal Anderson, the U.S. singles champion, and four high seeded women players were upset yesterday in the 5th, Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis tournament.
But top-seeded Vic Seixas and Althea Gibson survived to reach today's quarter-finals.
Anderson, the Australian Davis Cup member favored to win this tournament, was cut down by 44-year-old Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-2, 6-1 in a match delayed by rain.
Seixas, of Philadelphia, who turned in a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Jack Frost, Monterey, Calif., is after his eighth championship in this tournament.
Miss Gibson, U.S. and Wimbledon champion, had little trouble eliminating Owen McHaffey of Little Rock, Ark., 6-2, 6-2.

Gaddis Winner of 10 to 0 Jeweler Victory
Over Grill Nine

The combined efforts of three pitchers held Griff's Grill scoreless as Shaw's Jewelers waited to a 10-0 Class A baseball victory at Wisner Field last night.
Dave Gaddis was the starter and winner. Nine runs in the last two frames made it no contest as Shaw's kept juggling its lineup the rest of the way.
Ten men batted in a 6-run 1st to chase starter Terry Hoy. Six of them had singles. Three crossed in the next frame without a hit.
Hal Trott was again the batting star for Shaw's with two singles. It was the Jeweler's 12th victory against seven setbacks.

Satellite Stars Win First Test in Ruth Series

Opening action in the Babe Ruth district playoffs, at Birmingham High's baseball field, last night produced an 8-2 victory for Birmingham's Satellite league All-Stars, over Farmington. Second game in the series is set for 5 p.m. today at Southfield with Southfield vs. Northwest Detroit, 1957 champions.

Satellites trailed 2-0 going into the 4th, but exploded in that frame for a 7-run blast. They added the final tally in the 5th. Both losers' runs came in the 2nd inning. Gene Schmidt, 14, was winning hurler, Allen the loser.

Fred Glassford's 3-run triple in the big 4th was the winning blow. Errors, walks and four hits combined for the seven runs. Nathan's 2-bagger with bases loaded, brought in the Farmington counters.

Satellites tangle with hometown Pioneer Stars in a Saturday game at Southfield.

ROOSEVELT, Utah (AP)—Horse outlasted man Wednesday in the grueling 158-mile endurance marathon after just 29½ hours.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT — Their profession is football but the gridiron was least in the minds of these Detroit Lions at this time.

their quarters. Yesterday they spent the day playing golf at Meadowbrook and today it was picture-taking day. Serious business gets started Friday when the team begins twice-daily drills at Cranbrook.

First Workouts Tomorrow at Cranbrook

Lions Prefer Grid to Golf

As golfers, most of the Lions still look like football players. Yesterday, the players, coaches and members of the press got together for a golf session at Meadowbrook Country Club and except for a few

Veteran center Frank Gatski was retiring from professional football.

good scores such as Yale Lary's 79 and Jack Christiansen's 80, others zoomed as high as 144.
Coach George Wilson fired a respectable 90.

Tomorrow the team gets down to serious business at its Cranbrook training camp with the All-Star game and the mysterious absence of Bill Glass key points of discussion.

Wilson said he would throw veteran quarterbacks Tobin Rote and Bobby Layne against the college team in the Chicago Coliseum Aug.
15. He had earlier said that he wanted to give young quarterback
Jerry Rielchow a lot of experience during the exhibition season. But Wilson wants to win the All Star game and he'll "pick either Rote or Layne, whichever looks best in practice."

"After the All Star game, Rote chow will get his big chance at quarterback in the later exhibition games. We figure that Layne and Rote each will play a quarter and Rielchow will play a half,"

Wilson said.

Wilson said he would use Rote as an offensive end at Chicago, a post he filled successfully last season, in place of Dave Mid-leton, who is still in medical school and won't report until later in the training season.

"We are going with our best and most experienced players in that college game," Wilson said.

About Glass — the Lions were wondering where he was. Their
No. 1 draft choice in 1956 from Baylor University played last year in the Canadian League. But the Lions had thought the big guard was "convicted" Detroit offered a bright future for his talents and expected him to show up with the others Tuesday.

"I don't have any idea where he is, or whether he intends to show up," Wilson said.

Veteran Joe Schmidt was still absent yesterday but he is expected out of the Army possibly today and may join the team tomorrow.

Other NFL teams also went into training. In Westminster, Maryland, the Baltimore Colts had a group of 25 newcomers arrive in camp today, including tackle Ray Krouse whom the Colts obtained from the Lions after a deal with the Green Bay Packers was nullified when he refused to report.

The Chicago Cardinals under coach Frank Ivy welcomed 56 players to their camp at Lake Forest, Illinois. Thirty-two rookies are on the squad.

described her quarter-final oppo-lousas, La., before they teed off today in the Women's Western Amateur Golf Tournament.

The match promised to be the best in the quarter-final round as the 20-year-old Miss Quast, medalist and winner in 1956, tried to uphold Curtis Cup prestige.

She and Barbara McIntire of Jupiter, Fla., and Anne Richardson of Columbus, Ohio, were the only members of the Curtis Cup team remaining out of an original group of seven playing in the tournament.

Defeated in yesterday's second

Romack of Sacramento, Calif., by a whopping 7 and 5 by Miss Mc-Intire.

Canadain Champ Beaten

TORONTO (AP)—Eric Hanson of Toronto caused a mighty upheaval Wednesday in the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship by upsetting champion Nick Welock of Windsor, Ont., and then wiping out a four-hole deficit to defeat Jake Kleist of Syracuse.

Even without Hanson's two-up victory over the champion, to the accompaniment of the most fantastic shots of the day, there were fireworks aplenty.

The match that brought together the biggest men in the tournament—by height and girth—was something of an upset in itself when 6-foot-4 Doug Bajus of Vancouver finished strong to eliminate 240-pound Marty Stanovich of Chicago, 4 and 2.

Jack Penrose, Miami Beach, Fla., veteran, fired a hole-in-one at the 235-yard 14th, using a No.
3 iron, but lost his match to Bob Shave of Willoughby, Ohio, one up.

The 64 starters at match play toiled along through two rounds of play that whittled the field to 16 for Thursday morning's third round. The fourth 18-hole tour will also be played Thursday.

Little Wolf Hornmuk of Winnipeg knocked off two opponents—
Ed Meister Jr. of Willoughby, and Gary Cowan of Kitchener, former Canadian junior.

When the second round came to a close early in the evening there were eight Americans and eight Canadians left.

THE CASE OF
THE SUICIDE NOTE

Sixteenth of a series

By DONALD J. SOBOL

"I heard the shot about 9:30," said Mathews, the secretary. "I found Mr. Southworth in his den exactly as you see him."

The famous playwright and Broadway producer was dead of a bullet fired from close range into his left temple. His left hand clutched a .38 revolver, his right held a pen with which he had apparently written the suicide note lying on the desk in front of him.

Turning over the dead man's papers, Dr. Haledjian read: "I no longer possess the health or strength to perform the labor which once brought me joy."

I found Mr. Southworth in the den exactly as you see him.

I have received all the honors and riches any man has a right to expect in one lifetime. Now, before I become a burden to my daughter, Alice, I wish to depart this worldly theatre.

"Is this in Mr. Southworth's handwriting?" asked Haledjian. "I'm not an expert, sir, but it does resemble his," replied Mathews.

"How many persons have keys to the house?"

"I do, sir, and cook. Then there's Miss Alice, and Mr. Arnold."

"Who is he?"

"Mr. Arnold Southworth, a younger brother. He arrived from England for a visit and occupies the guest bedroom."

"Did the brothers ever quarrel?"

"On the contrary, they hit it off first rate. Mr. Arnold wanted Mr. Vernon to accompany him back to England this summer. When their parents were divorced, Mr. Arnold was reared in London by the father. Mr. Vernon remained with his mother in America."

"Did Vernon say he would go to England?"

"I don't believe he'd quite made up his mind. They discussed it again tonight, just before Mr. Arnold left for a dinner engagement."

"I shall be interested to hear Arnold's alibi for this evening," said Haledjian. "Vernon never wrote the suicide note."

NOW DID HALEDJIAN REACH HIS CONCLUSION?

Three words in the note, "labor," "honors," and "theatre," written with a fountain pen, revealed an inviolable English hour and "theatre" was the only word in the note.

Trapped in Closet,
2 More Tots Perish

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Two more children died yesterday from being trapped in a stifling clothes closet, bringing the total deaths to four.

The children were trapped when the handle fell off the door of the closet in which they were playing. When the mother, Mrs. Cardie McDee returned home Tuesday she found the four children trapped in the closet. Debra Joyce Moore, 3, and Tommy Allen Carr, 4, children by former marriages, were dead.

Carolyn Moore, 2, and Cloyce Moore, 6, were unconscious. They died yesterday in a Dallas hospital.

Lilly Fallah
Iran's Shah?

LONDON (AP)—Raven-haired Lilly Mythra Fallah has been summoned back to Tehran from an exclusive English finishing school, leaving behind a buzz of speculation that she will be the Shah of Iran's next queen.

Friends of the beautiful 18-year-old Iranian girl say she will fly to Paris next week to choose a trousseau for her wedding to the handsome 33-year-old monarch. The friends say the wedding may be sometime in October.

For weeks, Lilly's secret has been kept at the Paddock Wood Finishing School, which lies among rolling heathland and is surrounded by lawns and flowers. There are 48 girls—mostly foreign—at the school.

"Only a few of us knew about Lilly and we did not think it good for the other girls to tell them," said the matron last night.

DETROIT (AP)—Attorneys for the Aurora Gasoline Co. Wednesday sought a circuit court injunction limiting pickets at the firm's struck Detroit refinery to five. Picketing was peaceful at the refinery Wednesday after cars of non-striking supervisory employees were stoned Tuesday.

Women Invade House of Lords

Four Receive Special Peerages for 1st Time in British History

LONDON (AP)—For the first time in British history, four women were named today to the House of Lords.

They will hold special life peerages along with 10 men named by Queen Elizabeth II to put new life into the ancient, all-male chamber.

Like all Britons nominated to the aristocratic upper house of Parliament, the ladies have distinguished themselves in public life. Four of the new male peers were members of the present House of Commons.

Dame Katharine Elliot, 55, three time British delegate to the U. N. Assembly, active Conservative party worker, and chairman for the Advisory Committee on Child Care for Scotland.

Baroness Ravensdale, 62, chairman of the National Assn. of Girls' Clubs and a leader in the campaign to put women in the House of Lords.

The Dowager Marchioness of Reading, chairman of the Women's Voluntary Services for Civil Defense, which she founded in 1938.

The wives of the male peers will take the title of lady, and their children can use the prefix "The Honorable." But husbands of the peeresses will get no title.

The point of this eulogy is that Frank has been unbelievably sweetened by his new success of the last few years, instead of having his heart turned. Even the press in Europe is being loving to him lately, and rightly, because he has been nice to them.

U.S. Unable to Pay for Mackie's Boner

By ROBERT D. NOVAK
AP Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Bureau of Public Roads has ruled the federal government cannot reimburse Michigan for losses incurred when State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie failed to sign a bond issue.

The Bureau's position was disclosed today by Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.), who said Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams should. Gov. G. Mennen Williams Mackie's resignation.

A 100 million dollar state highway bond issue was invalidated recently when Mackie delegated bond signing duties in New York to an aide.

The cost of floating a new issue has been in contest. Republicans have set it at $60,000, but Mackie has said the figure is only $25,000.

Where Is Sinatra's Obnoxious Old Self?

By EARL WILSON

LAKE TAHOE, Nev.—This is my day to louse up Frank Sinatra.

Much as I hate to ruin his reputation, I must speak out. Frank has turned sweet. He hasn't punched any columnists, spit at any photographers, or kicked any old ladies in the backside, in a whole year. Everywhere I go—and I've been going lately—people who used to consider him an ornery, no-good so-and-so say to me, "Isn't he a wonderful guy?"

Frank's mellowed so much that I fully expect him to invite Westbrook Pegler, Lee Mortimer and Robert Ruark over to tiffin any day now.

The B.W. and I got a little sniff of Frankie's sweetness up here in the snow-capped, air-conditioned Sierras where the water's as blue as the Mediterranean.

We'd just landed at the beautiful lodge, where the California-Nevada line runs through the swimming pool, when the president said, "Did you hear about Sinatra being here?"

"He was a real lye. Not like some of them small-time deadies. Why, he did a jam session with Betty Grable and Harry James that knocked everybody out. What a cat he is, what a doll!"

From there we went to Reno to see Jimmy Durante and Carol Channing—and we heard it again.

"Sinatra came in while here to catch a train," a manager said. "He tried to leave some money with us at the blackjack table—but he couldn't—he won."

When somebody says Frank tries to lose money gambling because he's generous, you see how far this admiration for him as gone.

The point of this eulogy is that Frank has been unbelievably sweetened by his new success of the last few years, instead of having his heart turned. Even the press in Europe is being loving to him lately, and rightly, because he has been nice to them.

Busy Signals Sparked Idea

Story Has Been Played About 20 Times Since Performance in '41

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—When Harry Junkin, serving in the Royal Canadian Air Force, was stationed at Ottawa in 1940, he unexpectedly received a leave.

With only minutes to catch a plane to Montreal, Junkin tried to telephone his wife about his homecoming. He couldn't make the call: the circuits were busy.

The incident, however, has turned out to be Junkin's nest egg. "I started thinking about the busy circuits and wondering what a person would do if the message were a matter of life and death," he said. "And then I sat down and wrote 'Long Distance'."

And "Long Distance" has turned out to be a broadcasting classic.

It was first performed on radio by the Canadian Broadcasting Co. in 1941. (Junkin was a CBC writer.) It was repeated by CBC in 1943, 1945 and 1947. It was played by the Australian Broadcasting Co. in 1946, and done by the British Broadcasting Corp. in 1947.

In 1948 Junkin got a job with NBC radio in New York. "Long Distance" was his first show and it was such a popular success it was repeated three months later.

In 1950 it turned up on television, as "The Clock." Three years later Miriam Hopkins did it on Video Theater and it was repeated the next year. It was used in Canada, France, Switzerland and Germany.

Now it is coming up again on the Playhouse of Stars. This time Jessica Tandy is the heroine and it is a filmed show.

The show will be telecast in the Pontiac area from 9:30-10 p.m., tomorrow over channel 2.

In all, "Long Distance" has been played about 20 times—each time Junkin reaps new financial rewards—and thus has established some sort of a record. It only by the translation into African for Durban and Capetown listeners.

It is a suspense story, showing the mounting tension as the wife of a man scheduled for execution attempts to get through a telephone call about newly discovered evidence and finds the circuits busy.

Junkin himself has gone on to become one of television's busiest free-lance writers, turning out scripts for all the top live dramatic shows and many of the serials.

Tallulah Trips, Cuts Arm on Broken Vase

NEW YORK (AP)—Tallulah Bankhead cut her left arm on a broken vase when she tripped on a rug and fell at her home early today.

The 55-year-old actress was given a sedative.

Stripes Can Be Misleading

CHICAGO (AP)—There's really nothing exciting about a man on a fire escape; but when it happens at the Criminal Courts Building and the man is wearing a prison-type jacket, well . . .

The bells rang, the whistles blew and the cops came running. The police got their man, too, innocently waiting at a bus stop. Only I haven't done anything wrong, protested Clint Tave, 41. What was he doing on the fire escape?

It happened this way: Tave had just won dismissal of a burglary charge. Understandably anxious to be off, he walked swiftly to the fourth-floor elevator.

He rang, and rang. No elevator. So he climbed out on the fire escape, walked down two flights and popped into the second-floor law library of the state's attorney. Where's the stairs? he asked. A clerk pointed the way and off he went.

A second later the clerk had second thoughts and notified police.

Spotted at the bus stop, Tave was hauled back to court. A bailiff quickly confirmed his story and said the jacket just happened to look like a prison jacket.

Off went Tave again. He waited for the elevator this time.
