

The Christmas Story

This is the time-defying story
Of Shepherds, Wise Men and a Babe,
Of gentle family and a grasping tyrant,
Of God's love actually alive among us.

This is the mind-disturbing story,
Shaming us for treating it dully,
Haunting us when we miss its meaning,
Of God's love constantly alive among us.

This is the conscience-alerting story,
Demanding that we share this tale of love,
That words and deeds shall shame the tyrants of our age
Knowing God's love blessedly alive among us.

U.N., Katangans Fight Hot Battle

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP) — Katanga and U.N. Congo command forces fought a short, but hot engagement today on the outskirts of Elisabethville. One U.N. soldier was reported killed in the outbreak.

Each side blamed the other for starting the shooting, which spread panic through this capital of secessionist Katanga Province.

Katangans shot down a U.N. helicopter that flew in over their lines and captured the 11 aboard—three Swedes, six Indians and two Irishmen. Factors said one of the Indian soldiers was shot in the stomach and died in a hospital. The other 10 were injured slightly. The Katangans said they thought the helicopter was being used to establish a position behind them.

U.N. Ethiopian soldiers declared the Katangans started the hostilities. On the other hand, Katanga President Moise Tshombe accused the Ethiopians.

Tshombe told a hurriedly-called news conference the Katangans fired on Katanga positions from the slag heap of a Union Minière copper mine.

"When my soldiers were fired on they retorted, firing in the air and awaiting their superiors' instructions," he said. "We were and still are hoping for a peaceful Christmas."

The secessionist leader declared that calm had been re-established.

But the outbreak, which erupted at 10 a.m. with fire from positions near the capital's African townships, persisted into the afternoon. There was heavy shooting every few minutes. A stray bullet hit the Elisabethville post office. Africans fled from their places of work, avoiding all U.N. positions. Shops shut and factories closed. All business houses were quickly deserted. Memories of the battle of Elisabethville last December, in which a U.N. combat

Pope Plans Mass Early

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXII planned his Christmas Eve midnight Mass two hours early tonight so the aged and infirm could follow it over the Vatican radio.

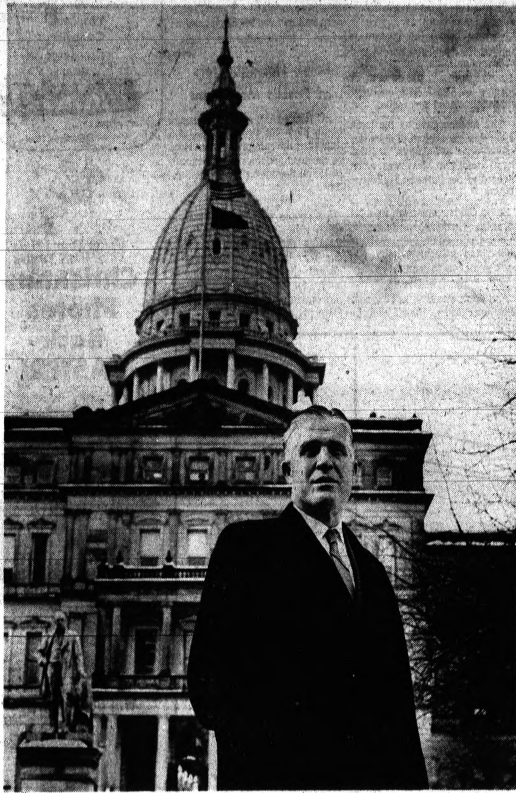

The 81-year-old pontiff, who himself was seriously ill a month ago with a stomach disorder and anemia, is to celebrate Mass in his private chapel.

Responding Sunday to the Vatican diplomatic corps' annual Christmas greeting, the Pope urged cooperation among nations in the peaceful exploration of space. He said the Roman Catholic Church "rejoices at all progress, present and to come, which enables man to perceive more clearly the infinite grandeur of the creator."

LOOKING AHEAD — Gov-elect George Romney, who said Saturday he has no intention of seeking a 1964 presidential nomination, looks ahead to jousting with Michigan's problems as he pauses in front of his battle headquarters for two years beginning Jan. 1, the state capitol. The brief moment came in the midst of an energetic day of preparations chronicled in "A Day With Romney" on Page B-1.

Gets Go-Ahead Signal

Santa On His Way

By HAL BOYLE

NORTH POLE (AP)—He's off! Santa Claus is on his way at last.

The jolly old saint and his famous reindeer are zooming through the arctic skies right now, heading for the American border. He'll reach it tonight.

The northern lights switched on to a clear, steady green—the "go-ahead" signal. And the Royal Canadian Mounted Police sent Santa this message:

"We are clearing all air lines in your path, old boy. There is no speed limit for you tonight. The sky is yours. Go as fast as you like. Good luck!"

And Santa needed that wide clear road in the sky. For his big red sleigh was piled so high with gifts it overflowed. It looked like a flying haystack as it raced through the cold crisp air.

"Oh, dear, oh, dear," worried Santa, just before the takeoff. "I do hope none of the presents fall out and bean some poor innocent rabbit down below. I believe this must be the heaviest load I've had in 20 years."

"What is he fretting about?" whispered Donner to Vixen. "He's only riding in the sleigh. We have to pull it."

REINDEER LAUGH

Vixen laughed so hard the bells on her harness tinkled in merry music. And all the other reindeer laughed, too.

As Santa Claus climbed up into the seat of the sleigh, puffing a little because he has gained some weight this winter, three black and white penguins waddled across the snow in front of the reindeer.

"Here, here, get out of the way, please!" said Santa Claus importantly. Then he asked in surprise:

"Why, what are you penguins doing up at the North Pole anyway? You're supposed to be at the South Pole."

"We're on a vacation," said one of the penguins. "We're looking for Florida. Have you seen it anywhere?"

HITCHHIKERS
"Climb aboard! Climb aboard!" boomed Santa. "I'll drop you off there. But, I must say, this is the first time I ever picked up three hitchhikers wearing tuxedos."

Just then Mrs. Santa Claus came running out waving a long piece of paper.

"You almost forgot your list of good children," she said.

"Never mind," replied Santa. "I don't need it. This year I'm going to give a present to every little boy and girl, good or bad."

The bad ones will feel sorry then, because they know they don't deserve a nice present. I'll make 'em try harder to be good next year."

"That isn't according to Hoyle," said Mrs. Claus, who likes to play bridge. "But it does make sense, you old sofie."

HEARS VOICE

Santa stood up to crack his whip in the air—the signal to be off. But then he heard a small voice crying:

"Wait! Please wait!"
It was Cluny, Santa's favorite little elf. The other elves gossiped about Cluny and said she was clumsy at making toys. But Santa knew it was only because she was so young. He liked her because she had a good heart.

"Here," said the tiny elf, holding up a small shiny figure.

"What's this? What's this?" grumbled Santa. "You're too late. My pack is already loaded!"

"It is only my present to the world," said Cluny. "I made it at night in my room—all by myself."

BEAUTIFUL ANGEL
Santa took the little figure from her hands. It was a beautiful angel with butterfly wings and a robe of purest white. In her hand the angel held a small magic wand.

"It is the angel of peace," explained Cluny.

"Why, Cluny?" said Santa, "this is better than all the other gifts put together. I'll see that your angel waves her wand for one day at least over every home in the land."

And he picked up Cluny and gave her a big whicker-ticky kiss on her cheek. Then he picked up his long whip again and cracked it sharply in the frost air.

The eight reindeer leaped forward and the big sleigh began sliding through the snow. Faster, faster, faster—and then they were off the ground and into the air.

Airlift of Cuban Prisoners Sails Past Halfway Mark

Order Bribery Probe After Hoffa Mistrial

FROM OUR NEWS WIRE

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Federal Judge William E. Miller declared a mistrial yesterday in the conspiracy trial of Teamster President James Hoffa and ordered a grand jury investigation of "shameful" attempts to bribe jurors.

The mistrial was declared after the jury had deliberated 17 hours and reported it was "hopelessly deadlocked."

Docker Strike Starts to Spread

Pickets Begin March in Dozen Ports

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike of longshoremen began to spread yesterday along docks from Maine to Texas.

The International Longshoremen's Association reported that in New York alone it had immobilized 72 vessels.

Pickets began marching in a dozen or more Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports, but the union said full picketing would not start until after Christmas.

The walkout began at 5 p.m., Sunday on the expiration of an injunction that had halted a similar walkout in October. A last-minute appeal by President Kennedy for a postponement was rejected by the union.

$1,000 INVOLVED

Some 81,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), by estimate of the union's president, are involved in the strike, affecting major ports from Searsville, Maine, to Brownsville, Texas.

The walkout began promptly at 5 p.m., Sunday, the very minute an 80-day federal court strike injunction against the ILA expired.

The government, acting on Kennedy's orders, obtained the injunction early last October to give the longshoremen 80 days to cool off under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. The injunction was issued after the ILA pulled a four-day strike.

Key issue is the ship owners' demand that longshoremen cut their work gangs from 20 to 17 men, saying a larger number is "featherbedding." The ILA says it will not "negotiate our men out of business."

The fiery little Teamster boss said he was "naturally disappointed" at no acquittal and strode from the courtroom followed by his huge entourage of lawyers, secretaries and bodyguards.

They flew to Detroit in two private planes.

Hoffa remains under bond in the case, charged with conspiracy to receive payoffs for insuring labor peace for a nationwide automobile transport firm.

James F. Neal, special assistant to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and chief prosecutor in this case, said he had no idea whether the government would seek a retrial.

$10,000 BRIBE

The Justice Department has charged that union associates close to the Teamster boss offered a $10,000 bribe to a prospective juror, offered a "promotion" to the highway patrolman husband of another juror and approached a Negro juror with a still undisclosed offer.

While the government has lost another court action against Hoffa, he and other officers in his 14-million-member union will be in the courts for a long time to come.

A more serious charge is pending against the 49-year-old Hoffa in Tampa, Fla. He was indicted there on a mail fraud charge in connection with a real estate transaction, and the case is yet to come to trial.

REUNION — A tearful mother is reunited with her son in Miami as he returns from Cuba where he had been a prisoner since the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion in April 1961.

Fidel to Let Mothers Join Freed Cubans

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro was quoted today as saying he will let mothers of freed Bay of Pigs prisoners join their sons in the United States—even if they lack visas. The prime minister appeared in an expansive mood as he jestingly proclaimed a 24-hour "state of peace" with the United States.

Castro went to the docks to watch the unloading of medicines and food sent as ransom for the 1,113 prisoners.

About $10 million worth of goods was landed within 24 hours. Cuban longshoremen and Red Cross crews worked side-by-side to speed the unloading.

The government paper Revolucion quoted Castro as saying he would not oppose the departure of women relatives of the released prisoners.

Castro said they could leave even if they didn't have a visa but the paper said he "reminded them of difficulties" they'd have with the Kennedy government.

Cuban relatives were kept from seeing the men leave. But many drank champagne toasts to the health and future of the prisoners in the United States.

DRIVES TO DOCK
As the swap of 1,113 invasion captives for food and medicine began Sunday, Castro drove unannounced to the dock where the freighter African Pilot was unloading the $11-million down payment on the deal.

The bearded Cuban leader shaved only casual interest in the food and medicine, but he declared the one-day "state of peace" in good-natured jesting with the skipper of the vessel and personally escorted a group of Americans on a tour of Havana.

The fast-driving motorcade paused at a big apartment development so Castro could point out to the visitors a low-rent product of his revolution.

GRANTS WISH
Driving by government buildings, Castro confided: "I don't like bureaucracy." Granting a wish of one of the party, Castro conducted the Americans to the home of the late Ernest Hemingway and through the narrow streets of old Havana.

In the party were E. Barrett Prettyman Jr., a Washington attorney who supervised part of the shipping operation; former U.S. Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele; the African Pilot's skipper Capt. Alfred Boerum.

Clasping the Americans' shoulders, Castro joshed with them, declaring, "Whatever you want here is yours" and, "Whatever is done for friendship is useful."

Shuttle of 1,113 May Be Ended by Sundown

Florida Airport Scene of Joyful Reunions as Long Wait Ends

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An Operation Ransom shuttle pounded past the halfway mark this Christmas Eve on its mission to airlift 1,113 prisoners of Cuba's communism to free U.S. soil and explosively joyful family reunions.

By noon, 643 Bay of Pigs invasion survivors were delivered to their loved ones after 20 months of imprisonment in Fidel Castro's jails.

All indications were for a full-speed ahead windup of the spectacular operation begun Sunday.

Six planes were available for the job which might be completed before sundown.

Today's first Pan American touched down at Homestead Air Force Base, 30 miles from Miami.

More Pictures, Stories, Pages A-2, B-10

at 10:25 a.m., bringing 109 survivors of the unsuccessful April 1961 invasion.

The second touched down at 11:50 a.m., with 108 more men tensely awaited by their Cuban exile relatives in Miami.

The airlift brought 428 men to Florida from the San Antonio de Los Banos military airport outside Havana in the spectacular Sunday operation before suspending for the night.

The halt was sudden and without explanation after the last of four flights deposited its human-for-goods cargo on free soil. The pilots of planes waiting in Cuba then decided, however, to spend the night there and resume, rested, in the morning.

This meant the vigil kept throughout Sunday by many thousands of anxious, weary, prisoners' relatives had to be faced again on Christmas eve.

All the pent-up tension of a long, prayerful campaign to free the 1,113 invasion survivors exploded in a roaring storm of emotion as Cuban exiles got their first glimpses of wan, tired young men brought in by a spectacular Operation Ransom shuttle.

DCR's supplied by Pan American World Airways flew between Miami and Havana carrying to freedom planeloads of men exiled by Fidel Castro's regime for $53 million worth of food and medicines sorely needed in Cuba. The first plane landed at 6:08 p.m., EST, Sunday, carrying 108 plane, tired men who suffered bitter defeat in their attempt to liberate their island nation and repeated humiliations at the hands of Havana's Communist-dominated government.

It'll Be Cool for Christmas

Fair, Cold for Santa

Santa will have both Rudolph and the stars to guide him this Christmas Eve, as the Weather Bureau predicts mostly fair skies.

Following a freezing 5 to tonight, the mercury may reach 22 tomorrow.

Increasing cloudiness, Christmas Day, with a chance of snow both tomorrow night and Wednesday is the forecast for the next two days.

Winds today are westerly to southwesterly at 5 to 12 miles per hour. They will become light and variable this evening.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac perched at 8 this morning was 9. At 2 p.m. the mercury stood at 12.

Few Christmas Traditions Are American

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK—Well, it's all over but the stocking-stuffing and the tummy-stuffing, the reverence and the fun, the exhaustion and the financial hangover.

It has been a test of endurance, up to now, because in no other land on Earth do people spend close to half as much time, money and energy celebrating Christmas as we in America do.

We celebrate it BATTELLE so fiercely and sentimentally that almost no one of us—except the little children—come out of the season without bruises.

Colds from overexposure, exhaustion from overdoing, indigestion from overeating, uneasy minds from overspending and perhaps worst of all, emotional pains from nostalgia.

At no other time of year do we remember, with such bitterness, heartache, the people and places that made Christmas so dear to us—and we long, vainly, to have them back just this day.

But it's no good. Children must grow up and make room for other children to enjoy the utterly untroubled, unhurried, unburdened Christmas. You can't have complete wonder and savvy, too.

These are our exclusive Christmas traditions. Almost none of the other great traditions belong to us.

It was England that gave us the most ideas for celebrating Christ's birthday.

tree as the most glorious creation of nature when you know how much it cost.

No! The only way an adult can totally enjoy Christmas again is to treasure a child... his own. Or God's.

AMERICAN TRADITIONS
It was America which invented "the man who has everything," Rudolf the red-nosed reindeer, and Bing Crosby singing "White Christmas."

These are our exclusive Christmas traditions. Almost none of the other great traditions belong to us.

It was England that gave us the most ideas for celebrating Christ's birthday.

The British sang the first Christmas carols, sent the first Christmas cards. They created the yule log and whipped up the plum pudding.

They guzzled the wassail bowl and kissed the first damsel under the mistletoe. And it was from them that we learned the dire consequences of being a scrooge.

Germany gave us the first Christmas tree, not to mention the ornaments. They created the first toys, and the advent wreath. The custom of tree-lighting was Martin Luther's in 16th century Germany.

"Silent Night, Holy Night" was born on Christmas eve, 1818, in a small Austrian village.

Denmark started the Christmas seal trend, and Norway let its children go from door to door on Christmas (we copied the idea at Halloween) begging for goodies.

Norway began the custom of sharing the mealtime wealth with birds and animals.

It was Italy, in the days of St. Francis of Assisi (13th century), which introduced the creche.

The French gave us the fruit cake and the custom of drinking champagne at holidays. And the first Midnight Mass was celebrated at the Cathedral of Notre Dame.

Santa Claus came from Asia Minor. St. Nicholas, the bishop of Myra, started the custom of gift-giving and stocking-hanging, way back in the fourth century.

And don't forget—lest the man with everything, Rudolf and the whiteness of Christmas threaten to take over the day—it was Bethlehem that gave us the Christ child.

Bomb Headquarters of Fascist Movement

LONDON (AP)—A home-made bomb blew out two windows and damaged the reinforced front door at the headquarters of the fascist National Socialist movement Sunday.

Six people were in the building when the bomb was thrust through the letter drops, but no one was hurt. The bombing occurred shortly after a welcome party for two members of the movement who were released from prison Friday.

CHRISTMAS BLESSINGS

The miracle of Christmas, holy source of hope and joy, once more spreads its wonders, its radiant promise across the land... and the Star shines, as on that hallowed night, with eternal light. The blessings that rise from the sacred manger are manifold and everlasting. Our wish is that you and yours may be blest with the divine comfort and inspiration of Christmas, now and always.

De Gaulle Will Worsen Next Year

De Gaulle vs. U.N.: President Charles de Gaulle's already well-known contempt for the United Nations is expected to become even more evident in the new year. Now that he has a tame parliament to support him, it is the cards that he will treat the United Nations even more roughly than he already has in the past.

On the way out? Intelligence sources in West Berlin discount reports that East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht might be on his way out. They feel the East German chief of state and party secretary is firmly in power.

Quirk of war: The Russians turned over nine transport planes to the coalition government of Laotian Prince-Premier Souvanna Phouma early this month to help him supply his neutralist troops.

The Russians are providing crews and maintenance personnel but has said nothing about fuel. American dollars may be the answer.

Washington recently announced it is turning over $1.5 million to the Laos government to meet its fuel needs.

Kremlin Christmas: The Russians who have been whooping up their spy charges against assorted Americans, a British businessman and a West German, may take this week to announce a trial date for Britisher Greville Wynne.

There also may be new developments in the case of three American embassy staff members implicated in the same alleged Anglo-American spy ring.

As for Christmas Day, the Russians will be going to work as usual since in officially atheistic Russia it is not a holiday.

Khrushchev may take some time off for hunting in the South but is expected back in the capital in time to host the Kremlin's New Year's ball.

Stormy weather: A barrage of questions and an all-out laborite attack on British defense policies await Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in the wake of his Nassau talks with President Kennedy.

Area Man Listed Fair After Car Smashed

A Rochester man is in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital after his car smashed into the rear of a parked truck in Pontiac early this morning.

Herman K. Sexton, 33, of 117 Lysander St. suffered severe scalp cuts when his car hit the truck on Auburn Road near South Francis Avenue.

Pontiac police said the truck was in a no-parking zone. Its driver, Walter G. Rippetoe, 38, of Detroit was staying at a nearby hotel, they said. The accident occurred at 2:20 a.m.

It Seems to Me . . .

Pontiac Should Have Very Happy Christmas Holiday

Tomorrow is Christmas.

It should be an unusually merry and festive occasion in keeping with the traditional spirit that accompanies our celebration of Jesus' birthday. The religious connotation is primary; but this solemnity always recognizes the joys of giving and of childhood for which Santa Claus was properly created.

appreciable increase in savings deposits. Bankers feel that this will result again. In addition, accounts which are now split to guarantee full coverage will be consolidated, thus resulting in a bookkeeping saving to the institutions.

Look for action by the next Congress.

Rockefeller All Set . . .

Observers close to the ROCKEFELLER picture in New York say his backers are sure he's out in front for the 1964 Presidential nomination. They have advised him to "rest on his oars" and go in for nothing but the "soft sell."

They're convinced he has the nomination in his hip pocket and his only problem is to keep from offending the several hundred different factions that represent the Nation. And this is one of the most titanic assignments an aspiring officeholder can contemplate.

His boys think he's front-running with no one breathing down his neck.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Post offices currently have supplies of the new stamps. The eight-cent air mail has a jet plane flying past the dome of the Capitol, and the new first-class five-center has a picture of GEORGE WASHINGTON.

There's an amusing sidelight on the fact JFK donates all his salary to charities. White House mail has been flooded by self-starters who want to tap this private till to build their house, set up in business, etc. They draw the blanks they deserve.

Red SKELTON's "Freddie the Freeloader" last Christmas was so tremendous he does an encore this year.

I can't prove it, but I'll bet a sugar cookie there won't be any real summit conference between the two "K's" for an appreciable space of time.

Purely personal nomination for an especially attractive young lady in the area: Elizabeth Rowland.

LIZ over this: Dick Burton is giving Liz Taylor a gold encrusted magnum of her favorite perfume—at $3,250.

Audrey Hepburn says she has no ambition to be an actress whose talents are only recognizable on a tape measure. Audrey, I'll let you in on a secret: You pack the one and you lack the other. Don't worry.

Start your Christmas Savings Club immediately. It's the easiest method known to man for saving—and the most painless. . . . NBC Chairman ROBERT SARNOFF defends the current TV programs against charges of the worst season yet, with the statement that people simply expect too much and aren't fair: Could be. . . . I understand the Saturday Evening Post top brass was quite divided on the ADLAI STEVENSON piece but it was heartened at the tremendous play it got and the recognition accorded the magazine. . . . NOW it came to pass in those days, that a decree went forth from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken.

2 This first census took place while Cytarus was governor of Syria.

3 And all were going, each to his own town, to register.

4 And Joseph also went from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem—because he was of the house and family of David—

5 To register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

6 And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled.

7 And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

8 And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night.

9 And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God came round about them, and they feared exceedingly.

10 And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people:

11 For today in the town of David a Saviour has been born to you, who is Christ the Lord.

12 And this shall be a sign to you: you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger."

13 And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

14 And it came to pass, when the angels had departed from them into heaven, that the shepherds were saying to one another, "Let us go over to Bethlehem and see this thing that has come to pass, which the Lord has made known to us."

15 So they went with haste and they found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in the manger.

16 And when they had seen, they understood what had been told them concerning this child.

17 And all who heard marvelled at the things told them by the shepherds.

18 But Mary kept in mind all these things, pondering them in her heart.

19 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all that they had heard and seen, even as it was spoken to them.

20 And when eight days were fulfilled for his circumcision, his name was called Jesus, the name given him by the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

David Lawrence Asks:

Did We Learn From Cuba Fiasco?

WASHINGTON — Eleven hundred Cubans have been saved from execution. And $62 million worth of goods to ransom them is perhaps a cheap price to pay for the blunder by the United States government that caused those same Cubans to be captured and imprisoned.

This tragic notation now can be made on the pages of history, LAWRENCE but the important question yet to be answered is whether a lesson has been learned. The crucial point is who shall influence decisions of the President or even make them when military operations are already under way. Shall it be the Joint Chiefs of Staff or a group of civilian advisers in the government?

The Bay of Pigs invasion by Cuban exiles, encouraged and supported by the United States government, recalls a story of indecision, a reversal of the recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and finally a debacle from which this country is only now extricating itself — if indeed the propagandists for Castro and Khrushchev will not capitalize on it effectively in Latin America for a long time to come.

For, if the invasion had been allowed to succeed, Castro would have been out of power, the Communists would never have had any sizable bases in Cuba, and the American people would have been spared the anguish of a nuclear scare.

What happened on that fateful night of April 16, 1961, has never been officially revealed. The public has not been given all the facts.

A submissive Congress has refused to investigate and bring out the whole story.

PIECE STORY TOGETHER

The press, however, has been able to piece the story together from informed sources.

Here is an excerpt from the magazine story which has never been denied by any official source since it appeared:

"On Sunday evening (April 16, 1961), an armed force of Cuban refugees, trained by the United States, was at sea, sailing secretly to invade Fidel Castro's Cuba.

The American President, a few hours earlier, had given final approval to that invasion. Only the day before, on April 15, a surprise attack by B29 bombing planes belonging to the invaders had knocked out all but seven planes of Castro's tiny air force.

"A second air strike was scheduled for Monday morning, April 17. It was to coincide with the landing of the invaders. It was supposed to finish the job of wiping out Castro's planes and to provide air support for the invasion.

"In the battle that followed, Castro's troops suffered heavy casualties. Castro's tanks, coming up to the battle, were sitting ducks for an attack by air. Confidently, the little invading force waited for its air support to arrive.

"Its leaders had assurance of that support. It was provided in the preinvasion planning."

DIDN'T KNOW

The invaders in Cuba didn't know the promise of air cover had been withdrawn. Castro's remaining planes then took over. The invaders heroically held out—waiting for air cover.

On Tuesday night an appeal reached the President as he was playing host at a White House reception.

This time Mr. Kennedy reluctantly slightly and consented to the use of one carrier's planes for one hour on Wednesday morning.

A communication machine was developed, and U.S. planes never got into action. It was too late. By April 19, the invasion was a failure.

Castro promptly imprisoned the 1,100 patriots and threatened to shoot them, whereupon the ransom idea emerged. Today, the Communist side in Cuba has been promised $62 million in goods in compensation for the prisoners—an exchange dictated by humanitarianism in Washington and a policy of expediency in Havana.

The Women's Daily Wear

We're prone to think of "yesterday's newspaper" as a synonym for deadness.

And indeed, it generally is. Yet compared with the evanescence of news as it can be supplied over air waves alone, as New Yorkers have been getting it yesterday's newspaper comes to parallel the permanence of the Sphinx.

Even the little feature and magazine sections came to be greeted as welcome and familiar friends.

Such trials as imposed on the news hungry New Yorkers, possibly some of the most avid newspaper readers in any city, disprove the old cliché.

The very fact that news is set into solid type, on newspaper which can be held physically in the hands, necessarily gives it a permanence. Without news one gets the feeling of existing in a vacuum. So let's skip all this thinking about other forms of communication replacing the newspaper. Supplement it they may, but replace the newspaper—Never!

As long as there continues to be news to communicate, as long as we have a free and unimpeded press, newspapers must survive.

Admittedly, there have been vicissitudes. Human judgments, human prejudices being what they are, newspapers must necessarily be fallible. But like a relative or old friend whose faults and virtues are known to one, we learn to take our papers as they come.

'Con-Con Delegate Wrong in Expecting High Pay'

I read that one fellow wanted over $450 for less than a day's sitting in as a con-con delegate. He even cited a constitutional provision which indicated "each delegate was entitled to $1,000, and this is in a state that is constantly crying about money problems."

Any intelligent person in Michigan should know that poor government is due to individuals in government of the sort just mentioned.

If he really is interested in aiding the state, he should refund the money he did get.

The Almanac

By United Press International Today is Monday, Dec. 24, the 358th day of 1962 with seven to follow. Today is Christmas Eve.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

In 1814, a treaty of peace was signed between the United States and Great Britain at Ghent, Belgium, bringing an end to the War of 1812.

In 1871, Verdi's spectacular opera "Aida" had its world premiere at Cairo to mark the opening of the Suez Canal.

In 1943, President Roosevelt announced Gen. Dwight Eisenhower had been appointed commander in chief of allied forces in the projected invasion of Europe.

In 1951, the United Nations proclaimed the North African nation of Libya free and independent.

A Christmas thought for today—The prophet Isaiah said long before the birth of Jesus Christ: "Behold a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Jesus."

diffuses. To do so while the government is running nearly $8 billion a year in the red, would only add to the public debt, which totals a staggering $362 billion. The President has promised only to couple any cut with increased control of the rises in expenditures. "This isn't good enough for Sen. Byrd, who has long fought for fiscal sanity under Democratic as well as Republican administrations. He knows there is a tremendous risk of generating disastrous inflation."

When the finance company already is after you to collect the debt on your old model car, it's no time to go out and buy a new Cadillac on credit. The President talks of increases for defense and space explorations and some increase in fixed charges on the debt. He makes no mention of efforts to find places where lavish government spending could be cut to achieve the sensible goal of balancing the budget, the most notable of which is foreign aid.

With $100 billion already gone glimmering in foreign aid, it is about time that the waste be ended to give the taxpayer some relief.

Decline in Infectious Diseases Helps, Too

Better Nutrition Leading to Taller, Heavier Children

NEW YORK (UPI) — New-born babies are no larger than they were a hundred years ago yet school children and even adults are taller and heavier. To explain this phenomenon, one of the world's most respected authorities on human physiology offered a two-part theory.

Nutrition has improved, said Dr. R. A. McCance. "But this is not the whole story." During the past century there have been remarkable declines in infectious diseases. You can't prove anything in people themselves, McCance conceded.

But if you keep pigs, dogs, rats and many other animals on "a high nutritional plane" from birth onward and fit at the same time you prevent bacteria and viruses from infecting them, you get a stepped-up growth rate. You can easily believe the principle applies to people, he said.

There are still many mysteries for science to explain in human nutrition. For instance, he continued, the nutrition of a human being before it is born "consists of amino acids, glucose, a limited amount of protein but apparently no fat."

Once the human being is born it goes onto a milk diet and "all milks contain fat, some nearly 50 per cent, and this probably reaches the blood stream partly as triglycerides but now it is metabolized by no means clear." (Triglycerides are incriminated in artery-hardening.) But regardless of the "nutritional plane" the large newborn "tends to become the large child and often an obese one."

However, "the ultimate fate of the animal which enters the world too small is important theoretically and practically but little is known about it because few runts in the world of animal husbandry are allowed to reach maturity and children tend to get lost in the general population after a certain age."

BONES GET PRIORITY

It's true that undernutrition slows the growth rate of children, he said, but it is done in a very particular way. The body parts which have "the greater structural stability," that is, the bones, get priority on the limited intake of nutrients.

"Growth in height is interfered with less than growth in weight. But a very high plane of nutrition, by saturating the animal, accelerates the development of all tissues but particularly those with little structural stability. Fat is one of these."

There is no question that a high nutritional plane is beneficial, but "if it leads to obesity in an adult man, it shortens the length of time he is likely to live to enjoy it." On the other hand, undernutrition can be advantageous.

He cited scientific experiments, including his own, which showed that "if rats were subjected to prolonged and severe undernutrition from the time of weaning, many of them fell by the wayside from the hazards involved, but the remainder lived up to three times as long as the normal rat."

McCance has been a world figure in science for many years. He is professor of experimental medicine at the University of Cambridge. He expressed his newest views in a recent lecture.

U.S., Russia to Search Sea

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON: Soviet Russia and the United States have agreed to join in a hands-across-the-sea exploration of the tropical Atlantic Ocean.

One of their goals is to locate sea pockets where fish abound, so that emerging nations of Africa can develop profitable fisheries to aid their economies and feed their people.

An even more exciting project, however, will be the tracking of a mysterious, submerged current of warm, salty water which races eastward along the equator from the American continent to Africa's Gulf of Guinea.

Little is known about this peculiar ribbon, whose existence RUTH MONTGOMERY only a few years ago. Oceanographers are baffled by the fact that although the normal movement of Atlantic waters is westerly, the "ribbon" bucks the current to speed eastward at several knots an hour.

Such a rapid flow of water is to an oceanographer what the jet stream high above the Pacific is to a flyer. Just as aviators use the jet stream to speed their flights from Japan to America, so submarines of the future may save time and fuel by breezing along in the equatorial ocean current. Who knows what other uses it may have?

A great complex of ships consisting of six from the U.S., three from Russia, two from Brazil, and one each from the Republic of Congo, the Ivory Coast, Argentina and Nigeria, will take their stations along the equatorial Atlantic for the three-months adventure beginning in February.

Russia is providing her largest vessel, the Lomonosov, complete with seventy scientists, for the cooperative venture. Spain and Guinea are furnishing land stations, and Germany and Britain additional scientists.

U.N. SPONSORED

The United Nations is sponsoring the venture. The U.S. Explorer will serve as radio central, to which the international flotilla is expected to report daily on meteorological and oceanographic observations.

One of the duties of each ship will be to report on the cloud cover at the exact moment each day that our Tyros weather satellite passes overhead. How much cooperation the Soviet ships may give to this particular aspect on the program remains to be seen.

Russia is currently participating with us in a somewhat similar Indian Ocean exploration that has been in progress for several years.

A check with our receiving center reveals that although the Soviets have sent in a reasonable amount of data gleaned during 1959-60, they have yet to make available any information about their oceanographic findings for the year 1961-62.

One of the most fascinating sidelights of the equatorial Atlantic study will be 20,000 "draft cards" to be thrown overboard by all ships.

These are self-addressed postcards, sealed in plastic bags which float. Printed in Portuguese, Spanish, French, English and Russian, they instruct finders to affix a stamp and mail them, after noting on the card the time and place where they were found after being washed ashore.

To encourage the return of the drift cards, which will track the flow of ocean currents, the U.S. is offering a fifty-cent reward in American currency.

For natives of underdeveloped tropical nations, this is big money, but since many thousands of the cards will inevitably disappear, the cost to Uncle Sam is nominal.

Many scientists believe that probing the mysteries of our oceans will prove more beneficial to humanity than all of our space explorations combined.

We are now beginning to take our first toddlers' steps in that direction.

Deadly Fumes Force Evacuation of Area

GASPORT, N.Y. (AP)—Deadly fumes seeping from a burning railroad car and fanned by high winds forced the evacuation of approximately 500 persons from a five-block area in this Niagara County community Sunday.

State police said carbon bisulfide, a chemical contained in the New York Central freight car, leaked through a split seam and ignited on an overheated journal box. An explosion threatened for a time.

The fire was discovered by firemen as the train neared here. Residents were evacuated, and fire-fighting equipment from Ni-

Patented Antifrost

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A chemical spray to protect plants and fruit trees from frost damage has been patented by Thomas H. Coulter. Coulter claims his method will be less expensive and more reliable than heating with smudge pots or covering plants with paper or cloth. It involves spraying plants, shrubs or trees with a polymer of N-vinyl-2-pyrrolidone, using conventional spraying equipment.

Car Forced Off Road by Plane

Engine Trouble Makes U. S. 31 Landing Strip

TRAVERSE CITY (U) — An automobile was forced off the highway and into Grand Traverse Bay late Saturday when the plane developed engine trouble and had to set down on the only landing strip available — U.S. 31.

Motorist Russell Foote of nearby Acme drove his auto into the bay about six miles north of here to avoid a collision with the landing aircraft. His car came to a halt some yards from shore and Foote waded ashore through water that was knee deep.

Neither he nor the three occupants of the light plane were injured.

State police credited pilot John J. Peceny of Hinsdale, Ill., with a lucky job of landing the plane. The highway has fluorescent lighting, but is bordered by low-lying power lines.

Riding with Peceny were the plane's owner, George J. Priestner of Wheeling, Ill., and a friend, who was not identified by police. The three men were returning from a day of skiing at Boyne Falls.

The Grand Traverse County head of the car from the bay shortly after the mishap, but the plane remained on the shoulder of the highway. High winds and blowing snow prevented its take-off yesterday.

State police said they plan today to either block off a section of the highway to permit the plane to take-off or tow it three miles to the Traverse City airport.

The fire, which was discovered by a neighbor, was believed to have started from an over-heated space heater in the living room. The home is at 22785 Brentwood St.

Oakland Teachers 'More and Better'

A gain in the number and caliber of Oakland County teachers was indicated in a statistical report for 1962 prepared by the county board of education staff.

A total of 7,650 teachers and administrators are under contract in the 29 local school districts of the county. This is an increase of 238 over last year.

A survey of teacher qualifications showed that 2,042 hold master's degrees. Last year, the number was 1,890.

At the same time the number of teachers with less than four years of college preparation dropped from 318 to 301.

There are 36 persons holding doctorate degrees, including 11 members of the county board of education staff.

But Kiss the Lady First

Men, Teach Her About Mistletoe

NEW YORK (AP)—A tip to the Casanova who wants to impress an intellectual girl this Christmas:

When you catch her under the mistletoe:

1. Kiss her.
2. Tell her about mistletoe's roots in folklore.

Does she know that despite mistletoe's popular reputation as the yuletide promoter of romance, it also is known as a criminal killer of forests, and superstition credits the plant with still another evil role?

The superstition says that if the yuletide mistletoe bough isn't removed from the house by Candlemas Eve—Feb. 1—each leaf left will produce a goblin to plague the careless occupants during the year.

The use of mistletoe as a symbol of love, peacemaking and goodwill survives from the pre-Christian days of the ancient Scandinavian light god, Balder, whose palace stood in the Milky Way.

RESTORED TO LIFE

The beloved Balder, according to myth, was slain by a mistletoe arrow but was restored to life through the intercession of the other gods.

Custody of the mistletoe plant then was entrusted to the goddess of love who ordained that henceforth anyone passing beneath its bough should receive a kiss in token of love, not vengeance. As long as the mistletoe was held high it never could be used as a power for evil.

Throughout the Middle Ages men believed that mistletoe possessed all kinds of magical powers to protect them from witches, unhealed wounds and ailments.

In some German villages the yuletide green still is called quyl, or "all heal." In Brittany its berries still are crushed to produce oil for treating fever.

HAILS FROM SOUTH

In America, the bulk of the holiday decoration comes from the Carolinas, Tennessee and the Southwest.

The white-berried plant also serves as a winter food supply for mockingbirds, robins and waxwings. These birds are responsible for spreading the seeds of the tree-damaging parasite.

P.S. If all this doesn't impress the girl, try kissing her again.

Romney Runs Fast Pace Preparing for Post

"Problems are Opportunities in Disguise," He Says, for Film

Snipping Drapery Samples for Lenore

Compared to Campaign, a Leisurely Lunch

Discussion With Attorney General

Answering Questions for Newsmen

Reviewing Budget Study With Allen

By JIM DYGERT

If George Romney runs the state the way he conducts his preparations to take over as governor, Michigan is in for a crisp, vigorous, and perhaps exhausting two years.

Up at 5:30 a. m., the governor-elect gets out for a run in the cold winter air, a habit he was forced to suspend during the campaign.

But he seems not to need the exercise. He never stops moving.

At 7:30 a. m., Romney climbs into his Rambler Ambassador for a 1½-hour ride to Lansing.

9:00 — Arrives at his interim office in the Lewis Cass Building, doffing his coat and hanging it up in about half the time it takes him to say, "Good morning," to press aide Richard Milliman and two secretaries.

9:02 — Meets with Republican State Rep. Homer Arnett of Kalamazoo for a review of legislative matters. From time to time pokes his head out the door of his small private office to give Milliman instructions or ask a question.

9:40 — Ushers State Attorney General Frank Kelley, Democrat, into his office for discussion on, among other things, his choice for appointment as legal adviser (later announced as Richard T. Van Dusen of Birmingham).

10:50 — Press conference two floors up where he announces appointment of Robert Danhof of Muskegon as legislative aide and makes arrangements to rent a $8,000 house in suburban East Lansing. Also answers questions from newsmen.

11:45 — Leaves for filming of introduction for movie on Michigan history at film studio in East Lansing, reviewing script on the way.

12:00 — Begins filming, has trouble reading prompter with camera lights pointed at him, but the fifth take is good.

12:36 — Arrives at house in East Lansing to cut material samples from draperies for his wife, Lenore. Sends driver Fred Grassman of Grand Rapids out for tape measure (to get room dimensions Lenore needs) and for hamburgers and malted milk shakes.

1:05 — On way back to office munching hamburgers and drinking malted milk in the car.

1:10 — At request of news photographers, stops in front of capitol building for picture-taking. Greeted enthusiastically by group of automobile dealers from throughout the nation who are attending a meeting in Lansing.

1:15 — Back at office, meets with State Rep. Hans Rasmussen, R-Ludington, chairman of the house conservation committee.

1:40 — Meeting with State Rep. Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek. Danhof also is sitting in on meetings with legislators.

2:15 — Welcome State Rep. Mrs. Marie L. Hager, R-Lansing, for discussion on legislative problems.

2:37 — Meeting with State Rep. Martin Butth, R-Kent County.

3:10 — State Senator Clyde Geerlings, Republican representing Ottawa and Muskegon counties, arrives for meeting.

3:33 — Meeting with State Senator-elect Milton Zaagman of Grand Rapids.

3:58 — Receives visitor from Fairbanks, Alaska — Republican Robert Daveny.

4:10 — Meeting with State Rep. Nelson Tisdale, R-Midland County.

4:36 — Visit by U. S. Rep. Charles Chamberlain, R-East Lansing.

5:00 — Meeting with Walter Russell, Kent County Republican chairman.

5:30 — Review of budget preparations with Glen S. Allen Jr. of Kalamazoo, Romney's appointee to the post of state controller.

6:30 — Informal dinner with senior Capitol news correspondents on press release.

A Glimpse at Romney

Interested in how Oakland County's George W. Romney is preparing for the governorship he will take over Jan. 1, The Pontiac Press sent a reporter-photographer team to Lansing Tuesday for "A Day With Romney." In words and photos, this is the story by reporter Jim Dygert and photographer Edward R. Noble.

lations, problems and aspirations.

Sometime between 8 and 10 p. m. — leave for home.

At some time during the day, Romney touched on each of the various categories included in the proverbial million-and-one things to do before his New Year's Day inauguration.

There's organizing his executive staff, preparing a legislative program, working up a budget proposal, exercising party leadership, taking care of personal tasks and much more.

Tiring as the schedule was, the Romney enthusiasm never flagged, the Romney smile never faded.

"Compared to the campaign, this is a leisurely pace," Romney observed.

His weekly schedule usually calls for two days in Detroit meeting with state lawmakers and party leaders from the metropolitan area at the Industrial Building office that housed his campaign headquarters.

If this is an example of the style of leadership Romney will bring to the governor's office, Michigan may have a tough time keeping up.

Wipe Off That Silly Grin, Mona

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — One time when an uncle of mine came here on a sight-seeing trip, I suggested that he take a tour of the National Art Gallery.

He declined on grounds that he had already been to a museum somewhere else.

"When you've seen one masterpiece, you've seen them all," he said.

I doubt, however, that even my uncle could remain impervious to the intense interest that has built up here over the visit of the Mona Lisa to the gallery.

WEST

For instance, it normally takes a minor emergency — like maybe the house burning down — to get me out in a snowstorm.

Yet I rushed through weather that would have intimidated a Labrador retriever in order to attend a press preview of the famous painted lady of the Louvre.

This bears out my forecast of last spring when negotiations for bringing the canvas to the United States first began.

UNSETTLING EFFECT

I noted then that the Mona Lisa seemed to have an unsettling effect on many persons and predicted that if she came to America there would be an outbreak or flaky behavior.

There already have been several strange occurrences and she hasn't even gone on public exhibition yet. Consider these events:

— One of our most respected political reporters, with a reputation for keeping his head when all about him are losing theirs, wrote a "dream interview" in which she told him to call her Lisa.

— A local art critic evaluated the artistic merits of the shipping crate in which the painting was transported here from Paris. He particularly complimented its "subtle textural contrast."

— Even a sports columnist took his text from the Mona Lisa. I gather he regarded her enigmatic smile as comparable to that of a pitcher given when asked if he throws spitballs.

SMILE THE REASON

The smile is, of course, behind all of this kooky conduct. No one can resist speculating as to what she is smiling about.

One theory holds that the woman who posed for the portrait, a certain Mrs. Del Giocondo, was smiling over something the artist, Leonardo da Vinci, had said.

My guess is that Leonardo had said "please wipe that silly grin off your face."

At any rate, smiling before the Mona Lisa for the first time is an unforgettable experience. I won't be sorry I went to her press preview, even if I develop pneumonia.

As I gazed upon her celebrated features, a single thought kept running through my head: What a perfect Christmas gift this would make for the man who has everything.

More than 300 Indian tribes still exist among America's estimated 500,000 Indians.

Investigate Shooting at Home of Merediths

KOSCIUSKO, Miss. (AP) — Authorities in this central Mississippi town are investigating mysterious shotgun blasts fired into the frame home of the parents of Negro James H. Meredith.

Meanwhile, Meredith — first of his race ever knowingly admitted to the University of Mississippi — planned to cut short a holiday visit to Chicago and return to the state.

The 29-year-old Meredith was scheduled to hold a news conference in Chicago before departing for Mississippi.

No one was hurt when three shotgun blasts were fired early yesterday into the house where Meredith's parents and a sister live.

"All we know about it is that a car pulled up three shots were fired and the car drove off," said Kosciusko Police Chief J. H. Harvey.

"We are continuing an investigation," he added.

The shots were fired about 12:25 a.m., said Willie Meredith, 18-year-old sister of the Air Force veteran whose enrollment at the university followed a night of rioting in which two were killed and scores were injured.

She said two blasts came through a window and the third hit a pickup truck parked outside.

Miss Meredith said she had just returned home from a party when the incident occurred. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Meredith, were also home.

"I was standing behind a refrigerator in the kitchen and didn't see who shot," Miss Meredith said. She reported that a neighbor saw "a bunch of boys in a car" shoot at the house.

Miss Meredith said she reported the incident to police, who sent several officers to investigate.

It was the second such incident in the past three months. Miss Meredith said several shots were fired outside the house the night of Oct. 1, the same day her brother entered the university under the protection of federal marshals and army troops.

Goulet Leads the Parade of 'Top 20' Stars for '62

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — So here they are, folks, just in time for Christmas, my 1962 "Broadway Bests," the new Top Twenty of Show Biz, people who will be either famous—or forgotten — next year this time. Right now they're hotter than Hades.

Top of the Tops: Robert Goulet!

And: Carol Burnett, Vaughn Meader, Allan Sherman, Anthony Newley, Peter Duchin, Jane Fonda, Peter O'Toole ("Lawrence of Arabia"), Milt Kamen, Guy Marks, and also:

Susan Kerner, Christine Kaufmann, Merv Griffin, Frank Fontaine, Edie Adams, Peter Falk, Sandy Stewart, of course Natalie Wood who's becoming the Sex Symbol, Eddie Fisher for his comeback, and Teddy Kennedy. (Oh, he's not in Show Biz? Pardon me.)

Jayne Mansfield was all atwitter as she phoned from Hollywood that she was flying here to meet her Italian lover-boy Enrico Bomba, who was rushing in from Rome. 'Twas to be their first rendezvous in America, at the Astro. Jayne hopes to marry the director if he can unburden himself of a narrow-minded wife.

Strange, isn't it, that many New Yorkers would be happy if they could have for a Christmas present just one copy of their favorite newspaper? "I'm so anxious to read," Red Buttons said, "I've been reading the print on ketchup bottles."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Crazy town: They've got live monkeys at the Hawaii Kai restaurant. "Are those tree monkeys?" he asked a hatchback. "No," she said—counting—"five." ... An east side night club has this cheery message on its poster inviting patrons to its New Year's Eve revelry: "End It All Here!" ... Brad Dillman's rushing back from Hollywood TV chores to spend the holidays with his beloved Suzy Parker in far-from-merry Manhattan. (Practically everybody's grim because of the newspaper strike.)

EARL'S PEARLS: "To make a man happy, treat him like a dog," says Cyd Charisse. ... "Plenty of affection and a loose leash."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "Little dresses" are recommended by a fashion writer. Evidently, "the littler the dress, the bigger the evening"—DJZ in the Augusta, Kan., Gazette.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Epitaph of a Failure: He went around all his life trying to find a boss as smart as he was."—Laugh Book. A tourist is a chap who travels because he finds home a big bore, then complains that in other parts of the world, things aren't the same. ... That's earl, brother.

It Was Balmy Weather, but the Snow Flew

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — It was a balmy 65 degrees but 500 sailors and dependents had a wild snowball fight and frolicked in snow Saturday aboard the aircraft carrier Constellation.

The gobs entered a contest sponsored by radio station KOGO on "Why I would like a white Christmas" and won 10 tons of snow.

Approve Deficit Budget
LISBON (AP)—Portugal's cabinet has approved a 1963 national budget calling for spending $471.6 million. Income is expected to exceed outgo by $87,000.

Forbid Feeding Birds

PARIS (AP)—Police issued a decree forbidding the feeding of birds on streets and in parks. It is part of a campaign to rid Paris of pigeons and sparrows.

WILSON

Persuader Backfires

POMEZIA, Italy (AP)—Every one in the stands agreed it was a strange way to referee a soccer game.

Franco Conciatori, a postal employee who spends his Sundays as a referee, was on the field for the match between the second division local team and visitors from Ostiense Sunday when he suddenly whipped a pistol out of his pocket.

He had ordered a local player out of the game. The player, intending a word or two with him, started toward Conciatori.

That was when the gun came out. To the amazement of all, Conciatori first pointed the pistol, then fired it into the air.

With outraged fans at his heels the referee fled to the dressing rooms and took refuge.

Face of Christmas Is Humor, Joy--Cynicism, Tragedy

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer
The festival has many faces. Some are sad. Some are funny. Some are loving and generous. Some are cynical. They are the faces of Christmas.

and there, in attitudes, circumstances and incidents. They formed a varied tableau, breaking through the general mass mantle of decorations, crowded stores, ringing carols, holiday time off, bulging traffic and parties.

By deeds and words, people traced their imprint on the occasion. It was a mixed image mirrored in little episodes here else's parked car, then drove home in her own, a similar model. A newspaper account of the unexplained cargo of packages enabled Mrs. Louis Carey to get them back.

In Providence, R.I., there was the buoyant and benevolent woman driver who veered off his route, in a burst of yuletide chivalry, to take passengers directly to their destinations.

Most everyone aboard was laughing as the bus rolled on its zig-zag course, the driver grandly puffing a cigar.

A pair of small boys, Peewee, age 7, and Patsy, age 8, got themselves locked in a Cambridge, Mass., department store overnight, in a world of whirling toys and goodies.

Next morning, they were found laden with treasures—filled with candy. One was clomping about in a pair of huge new shoes.

SOME SORROW
There wasn't only humor in the Christmas countenance. There were also the marks of sorrow, the empty chairs at the family tables, and sometimes the slim fare.

In Carmichaels, Pa., where 37 men died in a coal mine explosion three weeks ago, 85 children are without their fathers this Christmas, and 34 wives without their husbands.

Many of the families were going on, in their grief, with efforts to observe the day. "Mom said dad would like it that way," said Delcie Boyd, 13.

In Vineland, N.J., it was a time of agony for Mr. and Mrs. William Jones Jr., whose boy, Billy, 3, clad in his blue snowsuit, disappeared Dec. 19.

His gifts lay in the attic. There will be Christmas for the two other small children. "But I won't bring down Billy's gifts," Mrs. Jones said. "Unless, unless..."

In Philadelphia, a 16-year-old boy will spend Christmas, somberly aware that on the day afterward, he will be confined in a young disciplinary house for an indefinite term.

A court prescribed the prospect, because the boy had struck a school teacher. Sentence was deferred until after Christmas.

These are only examples of the admixture of distress that comes, in many forms, in many places, even amid the festivities. But there are other qualities, too. There is the large heart, the bounty, and the tenderness.

A San Francisco woman, reformed and married after years of frequent jail terms for vagrancy or drunkenness, visited the jail she once occupied with gifts of costume jewelry, necklaces and candy for all 54 women occupants. Sheriff Matthew Carberry said she told him she knows too well what it is like to be in jail. "It can be awfully lonely."

In Akron, Ohio, Roy Arnold is ill, and he and his wife are on relief, with nine children to support. But for the 10 successive Christmas, an anonymous "cash" gift came—this time for $300.

Who sends the money, and why, they don't know. "This is our Christmas miracle," said Mrs. Jones.

ANONYMOUS GIFTS
In the area of Hazard, Ky., where a recent television documentary pictured the plight of the unemployed, gifts poured in from the local newspaper, the Hazard Herald, for distribution to the needy.

The total had reached $6,000. An Illinois school class donated the money it had saved for Christmas tree decorations. A girl in Kansas sent 50 cents, saying she wanted to share her Christmas with those "who may not have one."

Along with the trust and concern for others, there was also annoyance and irritation in the midst of the Christmas activities. "Hangin'" blares a flashing electric sign atop a house in Rochester, N.Y., suburb. Ralph Menzies, an engineer and father of two, said he erected the sign to express his "objection to the pressurized and commercialized Christmas—we are now subjected to."

In Windom, Ohio, and in Ft. Erie, Ont., the town fathers draped hollow over parking meters, to allow residents to park free during the season. But many motorists, distrustful the generous gesture, persisted in lifting the cover and putting in their dimes.

In New Haven, Conn., a department store Santa Claus asked a small boy what he wanted for Christmas. The boy replied with skepticism, "I was to the North Pole and I told the real Santa Claus."

In Rochester, N.Y., one of the missives that turned up in a special mail box for children's Christmas letters was a typewritten demand for payment of a bill, appended with this note in an adult's handwriting: "Dear Santa: Please pay this at once."

The mingled faces and moods of Christmas, with its joy, tears, poignance and hilarity is a large package. Through it all runs a special spirit, a particular flavor, that shows strength even in tragedy and merriment even in the clamor and the jeers.

That blended note of sentiment and gravity, was in the appeal of a Texas girl, Miss Charlie Brown, to the Napa, Calif., sheriff, to release her fiancé from jail in time for a Christmas Eve wedding.

"If I were a little girl I would write to Santa Claus," she wrote. "But I believe you're the only one who can help."

The sheriff called the parole board, which agreed to early release of Odis E. Calhoun, 40, who had been sentenced Nov. 18 to 60 days for driving while intoxicated.

The sheriff wired Miss Brown: "Get out the wedding bells. Your 200-pound Christmas present is en route."

LENIENT MOOD
It was a lenient mood, a softening note and a helpful hand that gave the central theme to this holiday commemorating the coming of Christ to help a helpless mankind.

In cities across the country, agencies and organizations sent out their gift-laden teams to hospitals, orphanages and prisons. New York's Salvation Army was distributing 23,300 packages. In New Hampshire, state troopers rounded up 1,500 gifts from state employees for needy kids.

It was like that, in many places, the kindness and grace side-by-side with the hardship, to the laughs, sneers and misfortune.

In St. Louis, at a school for blind children, all of them were given new dolls. "I promise to keep my baby clean and take good care of her," a sightless girl, Thoeni Skyla, murmured supply.

don't produce as much electric power as you and other Americans have at your fingertips.

This electric "muscle" is a big reason for our nation's leadership. It makes possible our high standard of living, our industrial progress, and our defense of the Free World.

In this country, most of our electric power comes from investor-owned electric light and power companies, who make it from coal, oil, gas, falling water and atomic energy.

These companies—more than 300 companies like yours—welcome the full responsibility of making sure America is always the strongest electric nation in the world.

To Halt Housing Expansion

Atlanta Builds Wall to Stop Negro Spread

ATLANTA (UPI) — This city which has a record of peaceful racial transition by southern standards is up against a bitter race problem that has tempers on edge and has left Negro and white leaders in consternation over a workable solution.

After months of fruitless efforts to bring Negro and white property owners to a settlement, the city Board of Aldermen recently adopted a resolution — with one dissenting vote — providing for throwing up wooden barriers on two streets in the southwest part of the city to halt the spread of Negro housing.

The "wall of Atlanta" — as opponents rapidly named the barriers — immediately released a storm of protest from Negro groups.

The rapidly expanding Negro community in the area of the blockades is moving from north to south. The barriers were thrown up to stop traffic on the streets until turn-arounds can be built on the streets on the north and south sides of the buffer zone.

Mayor Ivan Allen, whose election last year was helped by a large turnout of Negro supporters, finds himself in the middle of his tight fought, and he is arrayed against a sizeable segment of the Negro population.

Two court suits have been filed by Negroes in an effort to get the barriers lifted. They indicated they would go into federal court if the state court route fails.

BOUGHT SOLUTION
Allen was meeting almost daily with various groups and individuals seeking a solution. But meanwhile, protest action groups were manning "the wall" with picket signs reading "Atlanta's Image, a Berlin wall" and "We want no Warsaw ghetto."

Negro Attorney Donald L. Hollowell told one of the first court hearings in the case yesterday that the problem was "an emergency situation" that should be settled quickly. He noted that the city adopted a closing ordinance at 5 p.m. one day and had barriers started by 7 a.m. the following day.

Virgil Copeland, president of the Southwest Citizens Association, said efforts to reach an agreement with Negroes on the real estate issue had been going on without success since August.

He said many of the white property owners in the area had moved several times as the Negro population spread into their neighborhoods.

Copeland said the problem was complicated by the difference in value of Negro and white housing on opposite ends of the same street. Some white homes are valued at $25,000 while Negro homes are worth not more than $11,000, he said.

He said that in exchange for setting up the buffer zone, the white negotiators had offered to get about 200 acres of vacant land that would be the Negro side rezoned from industrial to residential. He said from 450 to 500 homes could be built in the area.

Copeland acknowledged that owners of the industrial property would want a good price for the land, but figured lots could be bought for "around $5,000."

WILL NEGOTIATE
"We are willing to negotiate on any reasonable basis but we feel we have got to protect our property rights and values," Copeland said.

For their part, Negroes want "the wall" to come down. They call it "one of the gravest mistakes in the city's history."

They are joined by a number of white residents in the area whose travel is interrupted by the barriers.

One white property owner told a reporter he and his wife have to drive an extra 25 miles a day because of the barricade. The man's place of work and schools for his children are on the other side of the barrier from his home.

Dr. C. Miles Smith, president of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People and the Rev. J. A. Middleton said the All-Citizens Committee for better city living, of which they are co-chairmen, is "pledged to contest this ungodly act to the highest courts... and to say... that this move to wall in Negroes will not be tolerated at election and purchasing time."

Atlanta's population is now about one-third Negro. In recent years, there has been a sweeping transition of entire city sections, most of it without serious incidents.

GOP Farmer Favorite for State House Speaker

LANSING (AP) — Rep. Allison Green, a Republican cattle farmer from Michigan's thumb, looks ever larger as the man most likely to fill the post of speaker of the House when the 1963 legislature convenes next month.

Considered the favorite since he declared his candidacy for the vacant post earlier this year, the self-spoken Green professes publicly only that he is "optimistic" about his chances to step up from the post of GOP floor leader.

But experienced House observers, legislators among them, say flatly that Green has enough votes among his fellow Republicans to win today — and will have even more whenever the party holds its organizational caucus.

Green, called "a man who's willing to listen" by one fellow legislator and a conservative moderate whatever that is, by another, has held his edge through a muddle of speculation on who will get what job when the 1963 House is organized.

Opposing Green for the speaker's chair are Rep. Homer Arnett, R-Kalamazoo, who has formally announced his candidacy, and Rep. Wilfred G. Bassett, R-Jackson, who hasn't announced but claims support from volunteers.

No longer a candidate for speaker is Rep. Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, the present assistant floor leader. He has backed off to shoot instead for the floor leader's job, where he meets opposition from Rep. Carroll Newton, R-Detroit.

RUMORED SUPPORT
Rumors have been plentiful as these men jockey for support among their colleagues.

One of them — never confirmed and denied by all involved — was that automotive lobbyists were privately button-holing legislators to plug for Bassett.

The Jackson legislator said he knew nothing of it. Green said he heard the rumor, remarked upon it to two lobbyists, and "suggested they do something to counteract it."

There also have been reports of alliances, first involving Green and Waldron, then Bassett and Newton. But the candidates insist they're running their own shows independently of each other.

All of this has taken place against a background of the impending arrival of a Republican governor for the first time in 14 years.

This circumstance, too, has fed the rumor mill, as the speaker— whoever he turns out to be — will wield power in selecting committees and routing legislation under the new regime of Gov.-elect George Romney.

ROMNEY WON'T TALK
Arnett, a veteran lawmaker who has sought the speaker's post before, said he was told Romney had endorsed Green for the job. He confronted Romney, however, and was told no preference had been expressed, publicly or privately, for any candidate.

"Romney didn't say it clearly," said Arnett, "but I got the impression he will not enter into it."

Green, although generally regarded as Romney's preferred candidate, said he has not discussed it with the incoming chief executive.

"If I have such support I welcome it," he said, "but I have not asked and he has not offered."

With or without blessings from higher up it will take 30 votes among the 58 Republicans in the 1963 House to nail down the posts of speaker and floor leader.

Green's strength at present is estimated by some observers at about 40 votes, with an outside chance of picking up five more.

The call for a GOP caucus in the Senate on Dec. 27 won't necessarily pressure House Republicans into following suit. Although the senate often has held early caucuses in the past, the house historically has waited until the night before the session begins to hold party caucuses.

At one point in late November there was considerable talk of the house GOP breaking this tradition this year and holding an early caucus "to establish lines of communication with Romney."

The plan apparently collapsed because some Republicans thought efforts to organize the house were being handled too hastily — in addition to which, Romney was on vacation.

Better Math, Science Study

Take Ideas One at a Time—Learn Them

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

My article stating the shortage of engineers and scientists is due to the failure of teachers and educators to show students how to study mathematics and science has brought a flood of letters asking for help in this matter.

In response to these requests from students, parents and teachers, I will discuss the learning of science in this article and the learning of math in a second article.

To be successful in learning science the student must concentrate on a SINGLE idea until he has gained thorough and precise understanding.

Each person adopts habits of learning. The way he reads is a habit. Whether he thinks about what he reads or merely memorizes is a habit.

These habits persist throughout the life of an individual. However, any time the learner has a strong desire to change, a definite and more efficient procedure can be substituted.

IMPROVED PROCEDURES
Here are several examples of students who made changes in their learning habits:

A high school senior was failing physiology. His method of study was to read a chapter 10 or 12 times. The number of hours spent in study certainly should have been sufficient!

But she was memorizing words rather than grasping ideas.

"This," she said, "is the way I study all of my subjects."

In her desperation as a failing student, she was willing to try a new approach. The following procedure proved highly successful.

Her assignment was cell and muscle structure. She read one paragraph describing a type of cell. She pictured this cell in her mind. She practiced sketching the cell structure as shown in her text. She thought about the different parts of the cell.

Not until this paragraph was thoroughly understood did she proceed to the following paragraphs which described other types of cells.

Never before had she taken the trouble to gather an idea from a textbook exactly and completely.

Thus ideas were taken one at a time, with a break for a walk or some other activity between the study of ideas. As she walked she pictured the cells in her mind and recited to herself the information about them.

A chemistry student, under urging, took the necessary time (about 10 minutes) to think through the process of balancing a given chemical equation. When he understood exactly how this one equation was balanced, he understood the balancing of all chemical equations.

He made the concentrated effort necessary to understand the balancing of all chemical equations.

He made the concentrated effort necessary to understand atomic weights in ONE chemical formula. When he actually understood the concept, he could apply it throughout the course.

A faltering physics student was persuaded to restudy the course from the beginning. He was willing to concentrate, think, sketch and study until he understood the structure of an atom as it was presented in his text.

He recognized one idea at a time. Studying each carefully and thoroughly, he did not leave a principle until he could solve a numerical problem involving it.

HABITS START EARLY
Resistance to this type of precise thinking may start early.

A second grade student who resists reading a paragraph to find answers which require an exact understanding of what is said already is developing a pattern of learning which will bring him to grief in the study of science and mathematics.

It is not always the dull student who drifts into these habits. Unfortunately, our more gifted students often insist on "thinking for themselves."

I have no wish to discourage creative thinking. There is no conflict between thinking creatively and concerning on understanding what someone else has said.

We must encourage both types of thinking — each in its place.

Report Senator Byrd Confined in Hospital

BALTIMORE (AP)—Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., was reported doing well today at Union Memorial Hospital, which he entered seven days ago.

The hospital would not reveal the nature of Byrd's ailment. Nor was there any explanation of why he chose the Baltimore hospital. Harry F. Byrd Jr., the senator's son, said his father was in the hospital "only for a routine checkup."

Their Birthday Too

Christmas is a day of double celebration in a number of Pontiac area homes. There will be the usual Christmas festivities, plus a birthday celebration.

The four babies shown on this page were born Dec. 25, 1961. All are now healthy 1-year-olds.

These pictures were taken by Pontiac Press photographer, Eddie Vanderworp, himself the father of a 1-year-old.

Listening in on a telephone conversation could it be Santa calling? at upper left is Matthew James Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Edwards, East New York Avenue.

The lone girl at upper right is Martha Anne Miller, daughter of the John H. Millers, Oakway Street.

Offering a hand to a pal at lower left is Mark Whitney Boone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Boone, Sodon Lake Drive.

The cowboy on his galloping steed is James Kent Land, son of the Jack R. Lands, Linda Vista Drive.

Here's Christmas Fare Throughout the Pontiac Area

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Adams of West Walton Boulevard are expecting Mrs. Adams' mother Mrs. M. M. Clark of Highland Park for the holidays.

Mrs. Clay Ruddock of Columbus, Ohio will visit her daughter's family, Mr. and Mrs. William Belaney of Chippewa Road, for Christmas. Over the New Year's weekend Mr. and Mrs. Belaney will travel to Liverpool, Ohio to visit Mr. Belaney's mother, Mrs. J. W. Belaney.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron L. Buck of West Iroquois Road will have Christmas breakfast with their son's family Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Buck of East Hammond Lake Road and children, Steve and Kathy.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Castell of East Iroquois Road are expecting their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Smith from Hartford, Michigan for Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Critchfield of North Lake Angelus Road are expecting their daughters' families for Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Smith will be coming from La Grange, Ill. with their children James, Susan, Thomas, Jeffery, Mary Jean, and Douglas. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Shook will be coming from Louisville, Kentucky with their children Kathy and Robert.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. McGaughey of Guilford Road are expecting their sons home for Christmas. William Jr. will be coming from West Berlin where he has been studying at the Maximilian Language School. David will be returning home from the Putney School in Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard O. Powers and sons Jerry and Rob of Cherokee Road will spend the holiday season in Charlevoix and then will travel on to the various ski resorts in Michigan for a skiing holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave E. Edstrom of Whitfield Drive will spend two weeks over the Christmas and New Year's holidays visiting friends and relatives in Duluth and Minneapolis, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Addison Oakley of Cherokee Road will entertain Mrs. Oakley's sister and family from Lorain, Ohio. The houseguests will be Dr. and Mrs. Roy D. Schaeffer and children John, Bill Tane, and Narda.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Whitfield of Cherokee Road will have a family Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Noyce W. Strait Jr. and children Susan, Roger, Noyce and Harold; William Whitfield and James Parshall.

Mrs. F. L. Ward of West Huron Street will entertain her grandson, Frederic D. Ward of New York City and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Ward of Cass Lake over the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Rowston of Cherokee Road will have their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. James P. Colando and grandson, Christian as house guests for Christmas. Mr. Colando attends the University of Michigan while Mrs. Colando is a student at Eastern Michigan University. Also visiting will be Carl Colando of Mohawk Street.

Mrs. Susan Houle and her children Karen, Annette, and Thomas III, are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Collis Scott of Franklin Boulevard. Mrs. Houle came from Bergenfield, New Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Pattison of Devon Brook will travel to Jackson Christmas Day to visit Mr. Pattison's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pattison.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Wasserberger and sons of Canterbury Drive will visit her parents Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Wyngarden in East Lansing.

Mr. and Mrs. James Nye and family of Sylvan Shores Drive will be traveling to Midland for a family Christmas gathering at the home of Mrs. Nye's mother, Mrs. L. G. Richards.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Oliver of Iroquois Road will host their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Spees and daughters Susan and Michele for the holiday season. Mr. and Mrs. Spees are traveling from St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Emerson of West Iroquois Road will entertain his parents, the John A. Emersons of Owosso and her mother, Mrs. E. J. Lederle of Royal Oak over the Christmas holidays.

Arriving for Christmas at the Howard Huttenlocher home of Middle Lake Road in Clarkston will be the couple's sons, James Huttenlocher, his wife and two children, Susan and Rick, and the Richard Huttenlochrs. Frederick Huttenlocher, the host's father, will come from Jackson for the family gathering.

The Lewis C. Dibbles of Birmingham will entertain at Christmas Day dinner. In the group of 10 will be their son Philip of Chicago and Mrs. Dibble's mother, Mrs. Clayton Gage of Flint.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Harrington of Chippewa Road and their children Billie, John and Carol will spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Glaze in St. Louis, Mo.

Answer Child's Lonely Appeal for Love

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Two days ago, after an argument with my 13-year-old daughter, she said: "You only look after me from a sense of duty." She is our youngest child and has always been a problem.

I am not complaining, because I know why. I did not want her. I was sick with TB when I became pregnant with her and lived in daily fear that her birth would kill me and separate me from my two older children.

Ever since, I have been paying for defiance of God's will.

Dust Off Your Heart

Inhale Christmas Aura

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
"As fits the holy Christmas birth,

Be this, good friends, our carol

Be peace on earth, be peace on earth,

To men of gentle will."

—Thackeray

The best Christmas gift the whole world could have would be peace on earth, peace without the threat of war, peace and happiness outside of our own personal lives.

However, there is an intangible something in the air on Christmas

Eve which rises above threats and crisis, resentments and problems, even above personal grief.

It is nostalgic and also exciting.

It is the spirit of giving, the spirit of well-wishing, of friendliness and comradeship. If everyone in the world could feel all year 'round as they do on Christmas Eve, there would be no wars. Neither would there be any personal grudges, any meanness or bitterness.

On this night the whole world says "Hello" to you. Strangers in the passing crowd smile at you.

Breathe this friendliness in! Let your heart respond to it as your eyes do to the colored lights, the tinsel, the ribbon-wrapped packages, the beautiful Christmas tree decorations; as your nose does to the fragrance of pine or cedar, and as your ears do to Christmas

Carols and the jingle of bells.

Even if your Christmas is meager in material things don't miss this wonderful feeling which is free to everyone

ANSWER: Why have you read reproach into that brave statement of your daughter? To me it conveys only appeal for your affection. It tells me that your dutiful care is not enough for her.

That it conveys only reproach to you is due, I think, to your self-reproach—the condemnation you still pile on that tortured young mother who did not want to live birth to her with two older children.

You are evading this self-condemnation by trying to tell me
God condemns you. I advise you to take up this irresponsible attitude with your clergyman.

God's understanding, we are told, is infinite. Though mine is not, I can still feel deepest sympathy with that young mother you condemn. I can easily understand how she resented a pregnancy that threatened her with death.

It is no chore at all for me to feel tenderness for her. If such forgiveness is easy to me, it must surely be easier for the God of Love. The one who won't do the forgiving is you.

Your problem is not your child but your self-condemnation.

CORRECT IT

If it is not corrected, you may continue to use your sense of sinfulness as an excuse for a self-centeredness that has already rendered you deaf to the appeal in your child's words.

I hope that your clergyman will help you achieve some mercy for that sick and frightened young mother who was 14 years ago. Remember her sense of loneliness and dread of death; feel her pain again.

It will be through the recovery of her loneliness and pain that you will be able to hear the same feelings expressed in the words of the child who said to you:
"You only look after me from a sense of duty."

It will be only when you have reached back for yourself as you were that you will be able to reach out to your child.

One-Guest Rule Is Different

By The Emily Post Institute
Dear Mrs. Post: You have said that a hostess is not expected to wait longer than 15 minutes for a late dinner guest as it is not fair to keep other guests waiting. Does this apply when the late-comer is the only guest?

Answer: In the case of a single guest, the family should wait somewhat longer than the conventional 15 minutes and then try to find whether the guest is on her way, whether something has prevented her coming or whether she has forgotten the engagement. They should wait until they are reasonably sure she is not coming.

Dear Mrs. Post: My brother recently received his Ph.D. degree in science. He insists on people calling him doctor and addressing him as such when writing to him.

He has even gone so far as to place "Dr." before his name on his mail box. (People often stop by for help thinking he is a medical doctor. Am I correct in thinking that this is wrong and in bad taste?

Answer: You are right.
Your brother's use of the title
Doctor is wrong and in bad taste. His friends, however, may properly (and probably will) address him as "Doctor" in courtesy.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is there a correct rule concerning kissing among women? I know the offered hand is always shaken but should the offered cheek always be kissed? I'm not a naturally demonstrative person and always shy away from kissing people, and yet I don't want people to think me a snob.

Answer: You should make a gesture of kissing the offered cheek but your lips need not touch it.

How and when to introduce people seems to puzzle many.
The new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "Instructions" gives helpful information on this subject. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Good Present for a Baby

If your Christmas list includes a newborn baby, consider choosing a gift which is both pretty and practical. For example, a hooded bath towel made of soft, luxurious terrycloth will keep baby warm and dry at after-bath time—and is also easy for mother to launder in an automatic washer and dryer.

PERRY PHARMACY'S MEDICAL MIRROR

Bigger— And Better

O.I. read somewhere that youngsters of each generation get taller and taller. Is there any proof of this?

A. You probably saw this in Medical Mirror and it's true. An English physician wrote in 1876 that "a factory child of the present day at age 9 weighs as much as one of 10 did in 1855 . . .
each age has gained one year in 40 years." The trend has continued in all Western European countries for which we have information, in the United States, Canada, New Zealand, Australia, and, to only a slightly lesser extent, even in Japan. The final adult height has also increased, though not to the same extent as the height at, say, age 11.

Gave Greatest Gift

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE 4-413: Norma G., aged 28, has two little boys. "Dr. Crane," she began, "My sons are five and six years old, so I read many stories to them. "And before Christmas, I usually include tales about Santa Claus. But I heard a minister say we should not inject pagan ideas into religion.

"He vetoed the use of Santa Claus stories, but my sons are very fond of them. So what should I do?"

God was our first Santa Claus and his unique gift to mankind was Jesus.

So there is a very real precedent for the idea of a benevolent Being who is kind and generous and forgiving of our human follies.

Remind your youngsters that God was the first Santa and everybody else who tries to do good things for others, can thus be an Assistant Santa.

What makes Christmas so unique is the fact that never in any other religion or even in Greek mythology has any other deity ever been depicted as a loving father to us puny mortals.

On every continent and in every age since the beginning of mankind, each tribe soon developed its own gods.

But those gods were feared and dreaded. To appease their chronic anger, human beings offered sacrifices, as of rice and wine, or doves and sheep, or even human babies.

Nobody ever dreamed that God Almighty was a friendly, forgiving Father.

Abraham probably came the nearest to viewing Jehovah in such a modern light, for the Bible says Abraham talked with God as a friend. But Abraham still made sacrifices to appease Jehovah.

The Bible tells us that God tested Abraham's love by asking him to sacrifice his only son Isaac as proof of his devotion. Abraham didn't flinch. He took Isaac and went up into the mountains. Then he prepared an altar of stones; laid wood thereon, and bound Isaac.

As he raised the knife to slay his son, God had an angel stop Abraham. GOD RECIPROCATES

But this episode is the most unusual incident in all the history of ethics prior to the Bethlehem event.

For the Bethlehem story shows us that God decided to reciprocate Abraham's faith.

When mankind still couldn't absorb the idea that God was a kindly Father instead of a vicious tyrant like Nero or Herod, and when all the prophets from Samuel and Isaiah to Malachi still could not persuade the people to accept this concept of a loving Deity, God apparently decided on one last great gamble.

Since Abraham was willing to prove his faith in God by sacrificing his only son, then God would reciprocate and prove his faith in mankind by doing likewise.

That is the real meaning of Christmas, which is but the prelude to Calvary and the conclusion of this reciprocity.

Remember, all tribes on all continents had always tried to kill and bribe the favor of their cruel gods by sacrifices.

Bethlehem was the first and only instance where deity ever reversed the age-old process and sacrificed to mankind!

At Christmas, therefore, please remember that the Bethlehem story is an evidence of God's reciprocity for Abraham's faith.

And remind your children that every Santa Claus should be simply a small duplication of God Himself, who served as mankind's first Santa.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send me psychological charts and pamphlets.

Polly's Pointers

Color Gift Wrappings

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—When Santa comes to our house at Christmas time, he leaves each of the three children's gifts wrapped in a different-colored tissue paper—green for one, red for another and white for the little one.

They cannot read but each knows his own color. No reading of name tags and so no mistakes. It works great and each child runs for his own pile of goodies.

MRS. M. B. DEAR POLLY—When my daughter at college gets hungry at night after studying until all hours, she likes to fix herself a grilled cheese sandwich.

She takes two slices of bread with cheese between them, wraps the sandwich in aluminum foil and presses down with a hot iron. One minute on each side makes a delicious sandwich.

MRS. F. M. DEAR POLLY—Dust foam rubber cushions with talcum powder for easy insertion in covers.

MRS. G. H. DEAR POLLY—With winter here, I am finding my supply of mittens for the wee ones is inadequate.

To build up a supply, I make a pair from old socks. Lay a mitten on a flattened sock with the open end of the mitten and the open end of the sock together.

Draw the shape of the mitten on the leg part of the sock and double stitch on the sewing machine.

If elastic on the sock cuff is worn, sew on a casing and insert a strip of elastic or sew several rows of elastic thread around the cuff for a tight fit at the wrist.

MRS. B. DEAR POLLY—Add two tablespoons of sugar to one pint of water and pour into your Christmas tree holder. It will prevent needles from falling and preserve the color of the tree.

Share your favorite homemaking ideas . . . send them to Polly in care of The Pontiac Press. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

Bias Stitch Saves

Gift Soap a Good Choice for Holiday

Gift soap can be "custom-made" especially for the recipient when you do the decorating. First, select an appropriate design from discarded birthday, get-well, or Christmas cards. Cut out the design and affix it to the soap bar with epoxy glue.

Then immerse the bar in melted paraffin, design down—covering as much as possible of the sides. This protects the design from water the first few times the gift soap is used, but still permits it to lather up.

Tartar Tamer

A half teaspoonful of cream of tartar in the bottom of a double boiler of water will keep the water from boiling over.

Place Mats Good Gift

A set of saucy place mats is ALWAYS a fun gift—whether for a gay bachelor, a career girl or a busy homemaker.

Among the amusing new designs are a painted still-life of the makings of a Caesar salad, an "egg head" breakfast, and a jaunty French chef at the top of his form.

The cartoons are painted on vinyl backed by foam rubber and can be washed after using with a sudsy sponge.

Wax window sills with furniture wax or paste wax. It makes them easier to clean and they won't show stain from rain.

Gift Buying Breaking You?

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Could year-round gift buying be one of the answers to: "Where in the world does the money go?"

Now that the Christmas shopping season is over, here's a quick test for you:

1. Do you have the remotest idea what portion of your income is spent on gifts in a year's time?

2. Do you give a gift regularly to an oldtime friend simply because she gives you one?

3. Do you over-buy because you can charge it?

4. Are bridal showers building up to a rainy day for you?

5. Are you a victim of too many office collections?

I realize, from having shared so many budget problems, that few people treat this subject with proper respect. Most women are inclined to think gift spending can be sort of squeezed in without it's really showing. And most men don't even think about it at all.

Just because gift spending is included under the heading "miscellaneous" in many budgets, don't belittle it.

CHECK THOSE GIFTS

Let's take that first question. Since your answer is more apt to be no than yes, do a quick mental flashback, and see how many gifts you can recall giving. Jot them down and add them up.

How does the figure compare with two per cent of your annual income? As an example, a family whose income is $10,000 might logically spend $200 a year on gifts.

With this in mind, be sure you enter gifts as a legitimate item in your budget for 1963.

Question two leads right into this question: Which one of you is going to be smart enough to stop this now meaningless exchange? The gifts often are expensive, simply because you've just touched with each other, and don't really know how to translate a little money into a valuable present. Isn't this a good year for you to call the halt?

Concerning question three, ask yourself this: When you said "Charge it, please," would you have spent as much if you were paying cash—and had to take it out of the grocery money?

Would you have given up two trips to the beauty shop in order to pay for that gift? Discipline yourself to use your charge accounts wisely. Don't impose on them just because no money changes hands at the moment.

Into every life some showers must fall. But if you answered yes to question four, the time has come to take shelter. You can stretch your gift money quite a ways by choosing small items that can play an important role in the bride's future home. Small kitchen gadgets, built luxuries, accessories you might make yourself—all these are welcome yet inexpensive.

THE OFFICE GIFT RACKET
Question five stems from the fact that office collections do eat into lunch money.

Since nobody wants to say no when the hat is passed around, there has to be another solu-

'You're On Our Side,' Brandt Tells Red Guards

BERLIN (UPI) — Mayor Willy Brandt, in a Christmas message broadcast over the wall to eastern police, said today West Berlin has survived the Communist threat and will continue to do so.

He appealed to Communist border guards not to shoot at refugees. He said he knew they were on the side of the West at heart.

Vessel Back From Try to Ban the Bomb

GRAVESEND, England (AP) — Everyman III, the ban-the-bomb vessel, returned Sunday night from an unsuccessful effort to carry the campaign to the Soviet Union.

The two-masted 48-foot fishing ketch sailed for Leningrad Sept. 26 with an international crew of 12 nuclear disarmers. The captain is Dr. Earle Reynolds, an American professor of anthropology who lives in Hiroshima, Japan.

The crew had hoped to go ashore at Leningrad, to talk to Russians and distribute leaflets. Soviet officials refused permission to land and allowed the visitors only a short meeting with officials of the local peace committee. When they were asked to leave, the crew scuttled Everyman III in protest.

Describes Life in Prison Hole

'Who'll Ever Believe It Happened to Humans?'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Hollow-cheeked Cuban invasion prisoner Edgardo Buttari, Jr., 26-year-old son of a former Cuban secretary of labor, detailed for United Press International what a day was like in Fidel Castro's maximum security prison on the Isle of Pines where he spent more than seven months with 213 other captured invaders. Here is the story in his own words.

By EDGARDO BUTTARI As Told to UPI

MIAMI—For more than seven months, the day began about 6:30 a.m. with a push, a shove, a loud noise. Each day was like another. And always the glaring light—the sun in the daytime and the electric bulbs when it was dark outside.

About 300 of us—some were political prisoners—were crushed in a cell maybe large enough to hold 50 beds.

For bedding we had the floor. For covers, we had no whatever clothes we had on at that particular day.

After our rude awakening by the guards, we waited for breakfast. Sometimes it came, sometimes it didn't.

We had to warm it up when it did come. Normally we were served coffee and bread, sometimes coffee and plantain. (A type of banana.)

Sometimes, for as long as a month, we would be given our breakfast at 11 a.m., our lunch at 12:30 p.m. and our supper at 2 p.m. Normally, however, we would get our lunch—usually cornmeal with nothing to drink—at about 1 p.m.

After long hours of waiting we would be permitted to take turns at the two shower baths provided for us. Then we would be served supper.

It was macaroni. Always macaroni. For as long as I can remember.

It was terrible, just terrible. Then the waiting again, always with a warning we must be very quiet.

CIGAR BOX CHESS

Once we managed to make a chess board out of cigar boxes and we played chess.

Very little bodily harm was done to us—shoves mostly—although on one occasion or two we saw some of our companions in prison being beaten up by guards.

The Communists don't try to break you by force. They just bother you to death.

They give you something one day and take it away from you for the next two months.

We never received mail. Somehow, though, we managed to keep informed generally of what went on in the outside world. We learned with glee about the Cuban blockade.

But nobody will ever, ever believe things that happened to us happened to humans. We weren't just worms, as Fidel Castro called us. We had to be pigs to exist in that. It's a wonder only one of us died.

Enrique Borrás, who was 41, died from a stomach pain in July (of 1961). It may have looked like a natural death, but he would have lived if they had taken him to a hospital.

Instead, they just let him lie on the floor and get worse until he died.

Conditions were filthy. There was no soap, no toilet paper, little water and everybody stunk.

ALL KEPT FAITH

Despite the hardships, I do not remember that any of us ever lost our faith—we would be rescued some day from that horrible cell.

KNEEL IN PRAYER — Mrs. Angela Sanchez and her son, Alvaro, pray in New York's St. Patrick's Cathedral last night over the good news of negotiated release of 1,113 prisoners held in Cuba. Among the prisoners is another son, Eduardo.

Fidel Predicted Feat

MIAMI (UPI) — An invasion prisoner said last night that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro once boasted he would get $62 million for his 1,113 captives.

Rene Rodriguez Diaz, a member of the prisoners committee which failed to negotiate the earlier tractor-prisoner swap, asserted that Castro made the boast to him personally. It was when Rodriguez returned voluntarily to Principe Prison in July 1961 after his mission failed.

"I told him he was drunk," Rodriguez recalled. "He didn't seem to mind at all."

Then, Rodriguez said, Castro told him: "You don't know international politics. I will get the money."

The total cost of the current ransom operation was estimated at $70 million.

Lake Orion Must Solve Water Pollution Problem

LAKE ORION — At its regular meeting Wednesday the Village Council here will have the problem of initiating action to correct the pollution of Paint Creek.

The village has less than a month to find the source of pollution and also to prepare a financially-feasible solution under orders issued recently by the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

A hearing is scheduled for Jan. 24 in Lansing, when representatives of the village and the water commission will exchange their respective views on the situation.

The problem is to determine what position to take according to Village President Irving J. Unger and village attorney Robert V. Parenti.

"We're going to need more time to get prepared for this kind of thing," commented Parenti.

The attorney is preparing a presentation for Wednesday's meeting, wherein he plans to place before council members information he has obtained since Nov. 30, when the village received the commission notice.

AREA NEWS

"We put the whole thing in the hands of our attorney," said Unger.

CAN'T ACT
"Until we find out what we have to do, more specifically, we can't take any moves. It may be possible to prevent costly construction of a sewage disposal plant by making some village people put in proper sewage facilities," he added.

Ralph W. Purdy, chief engineer of the Michigan Water Resources Commission, placed the burden of solving the problem on the village.

A schedule of remedial demands was included with the hearing notice forwarded to the village.

By Dec. 1, 1963, according to the schedule, completed construction plans and specifications for treatment facilities must be forwarded to the commission.

The awarding of construction contracts must be completed by March 1, 1964 and facilities must be in operation by one year from then, the notice stipulated.

He said that complaints have been received from the Avon Township Board and numerous local sport and conservation clubs.

"We had a series of complaints last year starting when the county health department closed the bathing area in Rochester," he added.

The presence of a sewage problem was apparent in April, 1961, when officials of Oxford, Oxford Township, Lake Orion and Lake Orion Township discussed plans for a joint sewage treatment plant.

At that time the State Department of Health had approved the location of a proposed plant just south of Lake Orion.

However, Lake Orion's plans were dropped due to the lack of sufficient funds.

Purdy said that if at the hearing the village is ordered to establish these facilities and it does not comply, the commission could request the attorney general to take the matter to court.

Romeo Class President Is DAR Good Citizen

MARY ANN EBELING

ROMEO — Mary Ann Ebeling, senior class president at Romeo High School, has been named "Good Citizen" award winner by the John Crawford Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

She was one of three candidates for the honor chosen from the senior class. The final decision, made by the faculty, was based on dependability, service record, leadership and patriotism.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Ebeling, 12000 Kaeding Road, Mary Ann was president of her junior class and was selected for membership in the National Honor Society, also as a junior.

She plays flute in the high school band, is on the year book staff and is a member of the Future Teachers Club. In addition, she represented the school at Wolverine Girls' State last summer and is a member of the Luther League and choir at St. John Lutheran Church.

Mary Ann and her mother will be entertained at a DAR luncheon in Metamora in the spring. She also will enter into competition for "Citizen from the State of Michigan" at the DAR state conference along with candidates from other areas.

The John Crawford chapter has its headquarters in Oxford-Lake Orion and covers 14 communities.

Church Plans Annual Christmas Communion

CLARKSTON — The annual Christmas Holy Communion candlelight service will be held at 7 tonight at the First Methodist Church with Rev. William J. Richards, pastor of the church, officiating.

Short meditations — each 10 minutes throughout the hour service — will be delivered by Rev. Richards, augmented by the singing of Christmas carols by the choir.

Sets Yuletide Pageant

ROCHESTER — A pageant, "The First Christmas," will be presented by the junior and senior Pilgrim Fellowship members of the First Congregational Church here in a candlelight service at 8 p.m. today.

Live in Milford

Area Couple Married

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Now residing in Milford are Mr. and Mrs. James A. Roberts who exchanged nuptial vows in a recent ceremony at the Milford Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Frank C. Williams officiated at the candlelight rites.

The bride, the former Carol J. North, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Brooks North of 815 Charlton St. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James L. Roberts of 204 W. Lafayette St., Milford.

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white silk organza. It featured a Sabrina neckline accented with alencon lace, and a bell skirt that ended in a cathedral train.

Her bubble veil of French illusion was held by a cap of silk organza blossoms. She carried a cascade arrangement of roses and ivy.

Mrs. Ben Carey of Ann Arbor was matron of honor. The bridegroom's sister Sharon Roberts was bridesmaid while the bride's sister Kay North served as flower girl.

On the esquire side, Charles Carey of Ann Arbor assisted as best man. Michael Brooks of Dearborn and Lyle North, the bride's brother, seated the guests. The reception was held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony.

Residents Collect Fund to Aid Attack Victims

NOVI — Residents of this west Oakland County community have joined together to aid the Novi family victimized by a hammer-wielding intruder Thursday.

More than $500 had been collected by this morning for Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Husted and their three surviving children, according to Mrs. Leonard Haack, chairman of the Novi Goodfellow's investigation committee.

Coworkers of Husted, a bus driver for the Novi Community Schools, and classmates of his slain daughter, Shirley, 11, were to add to the fund today.

Mrs. Haack said teachers, school bus drivers and pupils in the school district are taking up separate collections for the family.

Other cash contributions are being accepted by Mrs. Haack, 4480 Grand River Ave., and former Novi Township Supervisor Frazer Staman, 26850 Wixom Road.

Meanwhile, authorities at St. Mary's Hospital, Livonia, today reported improvement in the conditions of Husted, 40, and his 33-year-old wife Rita.

Mrs. Husted, transferred to the Livonia hospital from Wayne County General Hospital, is in satisfactory condition.

James G. Gostlin, 20, of Dearborn Township, who has admitted attacking the three members of the family with a claw hammer last week, faces examination on a first-degree murder charge Thursday in Novi Township Justice Court.

The other Husted children — Carol, 7; Marilyn, 6; and 4-year-old Gloria — are staying with an aunt. They slept through the attack in their home last Thursday.

From the Press Box Merry Christmas!

Dear Santa:

It's that time of the year when we call on you to be kind and understanding if not generous to our friends in the sports world.

The year has been hectic and the weekends have been lean except for the few who had the "horses" to lead them to a winning ledge.

The "Forget 1962" honors go to Detroit Lions' George Wilson, coach of the best runnerup team in pro football. Be kind to George. Bring him an extra-sized tee that scores field goals from the 50-yard line and let this toe kick three against Packers, Giants and Bears.

While you're visiting in the Motor City present Sid Abel with the recording "I love you truly," photographed by the officials of the NHL and over in Convention arena leave Fred Zollner a hard-toe shoe photographed by Gene Shue formerly of the Pistons.

Stop in at Tiger Stadium and present Al Kaline, Frank Lary with guaranteed health certificates for 1963 and manager Bob Scheffing with anti-ulcer pills.

Don't forget Bud Erickson, Hal Middleworth, Elliot Trumbull and George Maskin, the Motor City round table of publicists who would like 96 point type in all sports pages hailing the city of champions once again.

The Lions' assistant coaches would like a few special favors. Aldo Forte wants a bottle of iodine pills to remove all football gray hairs by next September. Les Bingenman wants a book on weight scale will-power. Don Shula admires shrubbery and wants some bushes around the bench. Scooter McLean wants easier victories to warm the cockles of his heart and Bob Nussbaumer wants 20-20 vision of his Eagle eyes to keep watch for another Karras, Brown and Cogdill.

GRIDIRON SUCCESS

Coach Duffy Daugherty wants a book of answers on how to finish with a 5-4 record despite nine pro draft choices; and coach Bump Elliott would like a nine game schedule with coach Pete. Coach John Idzik wants a couple more Jerry Gross's with a wall of granite to help him.

To our local prep coaches be extra generous. Coach Art Van Ryzin would like a 6-foot-8 dream for '63 and Paul Dellerba needs depth, experience, speed, size and a bit of luck in the Saginaw Valley Conference.

Leave nothing but touchdowns for Don Hoff, Ed Heikinen, Frank Crowell, Frank Kowacki, Art Paddy, Stu Thorell, Jim Larkin, Walt Braun, Monte Charles, Pete Slader, Tex Maule, Gene Koneley, Ron Horvath, Pat Ryan, Gerry Gansel, Dave Smith, Carl Lemle, and all the other martyrs of the gridiron.

Leave all field goals for Dick Hall, Joe Duha, Vince Slegen, Charles Schroeder, Dick Bye, Tom Carson, Don Mauff, Ed Bastian and Lew Farry, and big splashes for Ed Dauw, Corey Van Fleet, John Weick, Doug Treas, Tom Hellen, and Jim Gilston and for all fine prep coaches a dozen letters to start each team in 1963.

For Mike Andonian another state amateur championship, for Gene Bone a successful pro tour and for Red Wilson, Elmer Preiskorn, Frank Syron, Tom Shannon, Al Watrous, Bob Gajda, Wally Burkemo, Bill Kennedy, Warren Orlich and the other golf pros nothing but green in pocket or fairway next season. Ditto for all our fine local amateurs.

Don't overlook our bowling friends and a bit of luck for the 1963 Bowlerama champions, D. C. Richards and Jack Chambers to have better luck in the 1963 tournament than other champions have had in following seasons.

Mo Moore wants to make that spare on TV again, and Bill Bull, Joe Foster, Paul George, Mike Samardzja, Chick Cicovicky, Bill Johns, Earl Castle, Joe Bonfiglio, Les Pennell, Les Rothbarth, Paul Horie, Jay Lovett, Carl Behrick, Joe Puertas, Lou Koprice and every good bowler ten x's in a row.

To all our sportsmen in boating, water skiing, auto racing, skiing, track, tennis, swimming, wrestling, baseball, softball, label tennis, roller skating, ice skating, hockey, ice boating, soccer, horse shoes, volleyball and men afield, all high scores, good aim, top scoring, and accurate shooting for the next year.

To all our friends in sports, player, coach or spectator; to all our sports page readers; to all our sports page writers; and to all mankind bring happiness for the year to come.

May they be All-Earth stars in the eyes of the One in honor of Whom we celebrate this day and All-Americans in the eyes of each other.

From our sports department, Don Vogel, Jere Craig, Dick Ponton and yours truly - - - a very Happy Holiday.

Tigers to Host Japanese Team

Spring Workouts Start Feb. 7 at Lakeland

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers will open their early spring season training camp at Lakeland, Fla., Feb. 7 on an international note.

Guests of the Tigers for two weeks of workouts will be the Japanese Hanshin Tigers, champions of Japan's Central League. Japan's Tigers will send a contingent of 20 men.

Forty-three major and minor leaguers, including veteran pitcher Frank Lary, have been invited to the early camp at Tiger-town, the club said today in an announcing press.

Lary, the renowned "Yankee killer," has been invited to the early camp in hopes he can get rid of a shoulder soreness that crippled him much of last season.

During the early camp, manager Bob Scheffing will work with 18 pitchers, six catchers, nine infielders, and 10 outfielders. All pitchers and catchers will be due in at Henley Field Feb. 12 for the start of the regular training season. All infielders and outfielders will be due Feb. 26.

Steers Grab 10th in Row; Bridges Hot

By The Associated Press

There's just no stopping Bill Bridges and the Kansas City Steers, thundering away from the pack in the American Basketball League with a 10-game winning streak.

The Steers, getting a 32-point performance and 22 rebounds from Bridges, won No. 10 Sunday night by defeating the Philadelphia Tapers 108-97 before a record Kansas City crowd of 10,228 lured by a doubleheader attraction also featuring the Harlem Globetrotters.

The Steers' triumph gave them a four-game lead over Long Beach. Each has lost seven games but Kansas City has won 22 to 14 for the Chiefs. In the only other game played over the weekend, fourth-place Oakland defeated last place Chicago 112-101 in overtime Saturday night.

Bridges got considerable scoring help from Maurice King, who wound up with 27 points, and Larry Staverman, who added 27. The Steers led at the quarter 27-18, boosted it to 54-40 at the half and in the third period led 74-48 before tapering off against the Tapers. Sylvester Byre paced Philadelphia with 26 points.

Chiefs-PNH Clash Tops Prep Slate

Three holiday basketball tournaments and two inter-city rivalries comprise the high school basketball picture for Oakland County this week.

The big clash will be the Pontiac Northern - Pontiac Central clash Friday at the PNH gymnasium. Another big rivalry will be renewed when Royal Oak Kimball plays host to RO Dondoro Friday, also.

Tournament action includes South Lyon participating in the three-day Chelsea Tournament beginning Thursday and Orionville playing in the Lake Fenon Tournament Thursday through Saturday.

Eight high school basketball teams will swing into action at the opening round of the sixth annual Northwest Suburban Christmas Invitational Tournament.

Pairings for the first round have North Farmington and Farmington tipping off the activity in the Southfield High School gymnasium at 7 p.m. in a rematch of their season's inaugural which went to Farmington, 65-59.

The 7 p.m. tipoff at Livonia Bentley High School will pair Ypsilanti and Redford Union.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

A lady from Peoria writes "My partner was East's queen of hearts with the ace and tried the diamond finesse. It lost and a heart came back where upon my partner wound up making two hearts and four tricks in each minor suit for a total of 10. My partner blamed me not for raising her to three no-trump, but I felt that I had shown my full values and that her two no-trump might have been made with a lot less than the 14 points she held. I will appreciate your comments."

My comments are that North's bidding was entirely correct. She had opened with a minimum hand and when her partner gave her a chance to pass she should take advantage of the opportunity.

Blame for missing the easy game falls right on South's shoulders. Her first bid was fine. It always pays to explore major suit possibilities.

Her second bid was inadequate. There is a principle of bidding that many players overlook. This is that when you know where you are going, go there directly.

South had 14 points and a no-trump type hand opposite an opening bid. Her spade response had obtained the information that her partner held a minimum or near minimum, but South surely wanted to be in three no-trump and should have bid it.

Finds Mint Mistake

TOKYO (U)—An office worker, Satsuko Miyajima, 18, noticed a 1,000-yen ($2.77) note issued by the Bank of Japan bore no serial number. Officials said it was believed to be the first such error ever to escape detection by mint examiners.

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Burma's military government is pressing the Soviet Union for payment of some $10 million owed for rice shipped in 1954, the newspaper Hanthawaddy reported today.

The paper said Burma reluctantly agreed to accept agricultural machinery instead of cash. When the first samples arrived, the Burmese balked because the quality was poor and the machines outdated.

11-Day Drama

Hollywood Cuts Filming Time

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—Pat Boone in an 11-day drama. Robert Taylor in a 15-day Western. Is this the shape of Hollywood's future?

I took a tour to witness such interesting developments in the film production scene. Most films take 60-90 days;

"Mutiny on the Bounty" took 13 months.

First stop was the back lot of MGM, where Taylor was shooting "Cattle King." It is not being made by the studio where he worked for many years; it's a Nat Holt Production, which MGM will release.

Handsome Bob gazed down the long-standing Western street and sighed, "I thought I had worn out this place long ago. This street and I go back a long way. I signed to do a picture with a Rod Serling script 'Stand Up and Fight' with Wally Berry in 1958."

How does he like doing a Western in 15 days?

"Great," he said. "That's one of the reasons I like television: You move right along and don't get bored."

Would he like to do more fast-schedule films?

"Sure," he said. "I'd like to make 10 of these a year and spend the rest of the time loafing."

Then I drove over to MGM's sister lot, the ghostly 20th Century-Fox. The long-Idle studio was having a burst of activity—four days of interior scenes for "Evil Come, Evil Go," starring Pat Boone. Again, it is independently made by A.P.I. films for Fox release.

What is Boone doing in an 11-day picture?

"Twelve days," he corrected. "We're going 9 per cent over schedule. I'll tell you how it happened. I was supposed to do three pictures for coproduction in the next three years under my new contract with Fox. 'Evil Come, Evil Go' was to be my first one after 'State Fair.' It was designed to be another big-budget picture with a Rod Serling script but that was before 'Cleopatra.' "The studio gave the property to Bob Lippert and he scheduled it for 11 days. This was presented to me, and I suppose that they thought I would turn it down. But No. 1 I didn't want to lose the money by refusing the project. No. 2, I still thought it was a great script for me."

So Pat called the studio's bluff, and he is delighted with the results.

The strike has idled nearly 20,000 employees.

The affected papers are the Times, Herald Tribune, News, Mirror, Post, World-Telegram & Sun, Journal-American, Long Island Star-Journal and Long Island Press. The Press, while not circulating in the city, has continued to publish its Long Island edition.

Federal mediator Stephen I. Schlossberg, who adjourned the peace talks Saturday when no progress was made, said both sides "have a lot of work to do before we can get anywhere."

NY Is Facing Long News Blackout

NEW YORK (AP)—This city of avid newspaper readers appeared headed today for the longest newspaper blackout in its history. This is day No. 17.

The longest newspaper blackout on record occurred at this time of year in 1968, when a strike of newspaper makers kept the nine major dailies off the stands for 19 days, resulting in an estimated total of $30 million lost in advertising, circulation revenue and employees' wages.

International Typographical Union Local 6 struck last of the papers Dec. 8 in a contract dispute, whereupon the other five voluntarily suspended publication. Peace talks between the ITU and the Publishers Association of New York have been recessed and are not due to resume until Wednesday—which will be the 19th day of the current blackout.

New Yorkers normally buy a total of 5½ million papers a day. Publishers estimate the current walkout means $3 million in lost wages per week and decline to say how much in advertising in circulation revenue they have lost during the Christmas shopping period.

The 3,000 ITU printers are asking an $18.45 wage increase over two years to bring base pay to $159.45 a week. The publishers have offered $8 over two years, plus a fourth week of vacation they estimate is worth an additional $1.20 a week.

The strike has idled nearly 20,000 employees.

The affected papers are the Times, Herald Tribune, News, Mirror, Post, World-Telegram & Sun, Journal-American, Long Island Star-Journal and Long Island Press. The Press, while not circulating in the city, has continued to publish its Long Island edition.

Federal mediator Stephen I. Schlossberg, who adjourned the peace talks Saturday when no progress was made, said both sides "have a lot of work to do before we can get anywhere."

OUR ANCESTORS

By Quincy

Wednesday at the Richardson-Bird Funeral Home.
Mr. See died today at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital after a long illness.

Surviving besides his wife Hazel are a son, Lyle of Milford; a daughter, Patricia of Detroit; three brothers, Robert of Pontiac, Percy of Mio and Merle of Denver, Colo.; a sister, Mrs. Gladys Thomas of Pontiac; and three grandchildren.

Editorial Writer Succumbs at 91

Arthur Maxson Smith
a Former Educator

ROMEO—Arthur Maxson Smith, educator, newspaper columnist and longtime editorial writer for the old Detroit Journal and The Detroit News, died here Saturday night after a short illness. He was 91.

Mr. Smith, whose home was at 202 Minot St., was educated at Pomona College, the University of Chicago and Harvard University.

He was president of Oahu College from 1900-02 and head of the philosophy department at Pomona College in 1904-10.

An editorial writer from 1919-49, he made several expeditions to various parts of the world and wrote articles about them. He wrote a book about Alaska in 1937.

Mr. Smith's column, "Let's Reason," has been published in a number of state weekly newspapers since his retirement from the News in 1949.

Surviving are his wife, Alice; two daughters, Mrs. Edward D. Wells of Grand Rapids and Mrs. Ludwig Teach of Towson, Md.; three sons, Arthur M. Jr. of Los Angeles, Calif., Bradford B. of Pasadena, N.Y. and Roger B. of Scarsdale, N.Y.; a sister, a brother, 11 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Service will be 4 p.m. Wednesday at the First Congregational Church here under direction of Wilbur's Funeral Home. Burial will be Thursday in Woodlawn Cemetery, Grand Rapids.

Woman Injured in Car Crash

Husband, Other Driver Also Hurt in Collision

Grace Johnson, 47, of 6383 Maybee Road, Independence Township, is in critical condition today in Hurley Hospital, Flint, where she was taken after an auto accident Saturday night on Grace Hall Road.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Albert, 55, that collided with one driven by Claude H. Smith, Jr., 24 of Lake Forest. The accident occurred in Oakland County just across the Genesee County line.

Johnson told state police the other car swerved across the road into the path of his.

Smith, who was ticketed for driving left of the center line and for driving without a license said he couldn't remember what happened.

Mrs. Johnson suffered a fractured skull and multiple head lacerations. Her husband was treated for contusions and abrasions of his chest and legs, then released.

Smith, who suffered a fractured arm and leg and facial cuts, is in fair condition at the hospital.

Man Injures Neck in Crash

Neck injuries were received by a 54-year-old Pontiac man yesterday morning when he lost control of his car and skidded into another on West Walton Boulevard.

In satisfactory condition at Pontiac General Hospital is Alton B. Cole of 16 Waldo Ave.

Cole's car crossed the center line and collided with a car driven by Thomas Jefferson, 43, of 3110 Rose Ann Lane, Drayton Plains, according to Pontiac police. Jefferson received only minor injuries.

The accident happened near Carlisle Street at 11:15 a.m.

Area Church Slates 2 Evening Services

TROY—Two Christmas Eve services will climax the Advent season of the Big Beaver Methodist Church, 3153 Rochester Road.

The Epworth Choristers will lead the congregation in song at the 7:30 p.m. service, under direction of Lee Hohner.

The church choir, directed by Mrs. Malvina Garwood, will sing the cantata "Night of Miracles," at the 10:30 p.m. service.

Rev. Albert E. Hartog, church pastor, will preach in both worship periods.

Korean Navy Ships Wage Ocean Battle

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—A South Korean patrol boat and a Communist North Korean vessel fought a gun battle Sunday in the Yellow Sea just south of the military demarcation line, the government announced today.

Two South Korean sailors were killed and four others wounded, the announcement said.

Grain elevators in Minneapolis have storage capacities of 120,000 bushels, largest in the country.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Christmas is giving, and gracious receiving. One cannot give without receiving if nothing more than the joy of giving.

A birthday celebration is essentially giving joy to the host and he 'in turn' is happiest when he can return that happiness by giving cheerful hospitality. We celebrate Christmas, what more fitting?

The Spirit of Christmas is far removed from every day of might, power and material wealth. The message on the hill and the chalet beside the track lay gifts on an altar of love; one may be built of diamonds and the other of crude rock of human sacrifice, both are equal, both bring happiness. When love is an ingredient of giving compels the tide rise as an ocean tide rises to its crest. Christmas Spirit is the continuation of all that is fine, each thought sparkles in reflected glory when the celebration is the Birthday of Christ, our Lord.

Merry Christmas, to all of you, from all of us.

Junior Editors Quiz on CARTOONS

QUESTION: Why do we call some drawings "cartoons?"

ANSWER: Originally, "cartoon" meant a large drawing made by an artist before he did the finished painting. In A we see an old time artist sketching a design which he will later transfer to a panel or canvas. Artists' pictures became smaller as time went on, but in the 1840's, in England, an attempt was made to revive large sized paintings for public buildings.

A big competition was held. Some of these sketches must have been pretty poor, as the newly started humorous magazine "Punch" began to make fun of them, and ran a series of funny drawings about them called "Punch's cartoons."

"After this, 'cartoon' came to mean a funny or satirical drawing, such as caricatures of well-known people as in B. In America, the growing use of newspapers led to the funny figure cartoon, as in C, which developed into the comic strip.

Later, the figures often became quite realistic (D). Then we had Walt Disney and the development of the animated cartoon, now used so much in movies and TV. But wherever used, the cartoon principle is the same: a lot of story, humor or action told with as few lines as possible.

FOR YOU TO DO: Are you a cartoonist? Draw our "lower pictures" one after the other and find out. If you do pretty well, try making shapes which you invent yourself. For instance, you might start with a circle instead of an egg. Find the "doodle" most natural to you.

Union Ends Strike at 2 Bearing Plants

NEW YORK (AP)—A section of sidewalk collapsed in front of the fashionable Imperial House on East 69th Street in Manhattan Sunday causing part of the ceiling of the building's underground garage to give way and damaging 10 cars.

No injuries were reported. The 10-car garage was flooded to a depth of two feet when a water pipe burst as a result of the collapsed ceiling.

The building's tenants include actress Lucille Ball, comedian Jack Douglas and Rodney Rockefeller, son of New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

DETROIT (AP)—Members of United Auto Workers Local 681 ended a month-long strike at two Bower roller bearing plants here Saturday by ratifying a new agreement designed to end disputes arising from production standards.

John Coldren, Local 681 president, said the 2,600 union members at the Bower Division of Federal-Mogul-Bower Bearings Inc., would return to their jobs after Christmas.

The strike at the two plants began Nov. 19 and was marked by mass picketing. Union officials said that under the new agreement the company will turn over production data to the department union steward whenever a production standard dispute arises.

The Christmas Story

Of Shepherds, Wise Men and a Babe,
Of gentle family and a grasping tyrant,
Of God's love actually alive among us.

This is the mind-disturbing story,
Shaming us for treating it dully,
Haunting us when we miss its meaning,
Of God's love constantly alive among us.

This is the conscience-alerting story,
Demanding that we share this tale of love,
That words and deeds shall shame the tyrants of our age
Knowing God's love blessedly alive among us.

Dr. Ralph W. Loew

Katangans Fight With U.N. Troops

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP) — Katanga gendarmes and troops of the U.N. Congo Command battled today on the outskirts of Elisabethville. Each side blamed the other for the Christmas Eve outbreak.

Katangans shot down a U.N. helicopter that flew low over their lines and captured the 11 men aboard it — three Swedes, six Indians and two Irishmen. All were slightly injured. The Katangans said they feared the helicopter was being used to establish a combat position behind them.

U.S. Road Toll Trails Estimate

If Trend Continues Could Be Safest Yule

The nation's traffic death toll passed the 300 mark in the first 24 days of the long Christmas weekend, a pace far below pre-holiday estimates by safety experts.

"If the present trend continues, this will be the safest Christmas holiday on record," said Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council.

The council, based on previous holidays and the record traffic toll for the past year, had estimated 650 to 750 deaths on the highways during the long holiday period.

"If the trend holds," Pyle said, "the final toll could be as low as 550."

Continued Hostility

The secessionist leader declared that calm had been re-established. But the outbreak, which erupted at 10 a.m. with fire from positions near the capital's African townships, persisted into the afternoon. There was heavy shooting every few minutes. A stray bullet hit the Elisabethville post office.

Africans fled from their places of work, avoiding U.N. positions. Shops shut and factories closed. All business houses were quickly deserted. Memories of the battle of Elisabethville last December, in which a U.N. combat force crushed Elisabethville's garrison, sped the shutdown.

Tshombe and a U.N. representative, Eluid Mathu, both sent ob-

Pope Plans Mass Early

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXII planned his Christmas Eve midnight Mass (two hours earlier tonight so the aged and infirm could follow it over the Vatican radio).

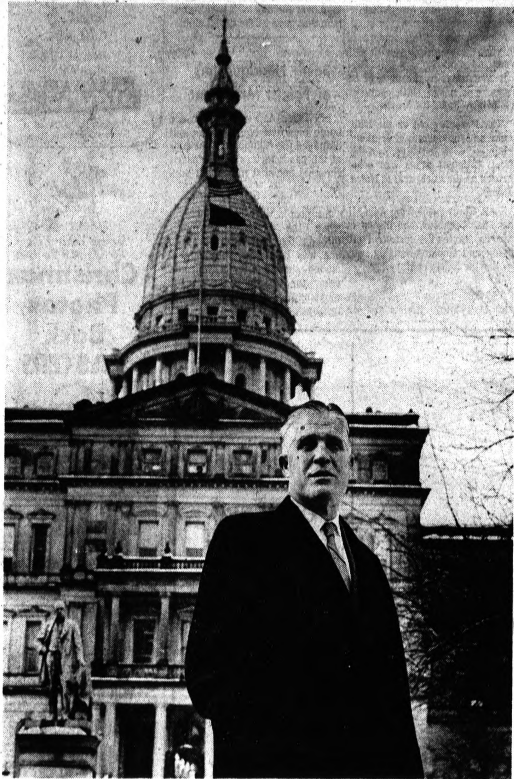

The 81-year-old pontiff, who himself was seriously ill a month ago with stomach disorder and anemia, is to celebrate Mass in his private chapel.

Rounding Sunday to the Vatican diplomatic corps' annual Christmas greeting, the Pope urged cooperation among nations in the peaceful exploration of space. He said the Roman Catholic Church "rejoices at all progress, present and to come, which enables man to perceive more clearly the infinite grandeur of the creator."

LOOKING AHEAD — Gov.-elect George Romney, who said Saturday he has no intention of seeking a 1964 presidential nomination, looks ahead to jousting with Michigan's problems as he pauses in front of his battle headquarters for two years beginning Jan. 1, the state capitol. The brief moment came in the midst of an energetic day of preparations chronicled in "A Day With Romney" on Page B-1.

Gets Go-Ahead Signal

Santa On His Way

By HAL BOYLE

NORTH POLE (AP)—He's off! Santa Claus is on his way at last.

The jolly old saint and his famous reindeer are zooming through the arctic skies right now heading for the American border. He'll reach it tonight.

The northern lights switched on to a clear, steady green—the "go-ahead" signal. And the Royal Canadian Mounted Police sent Santa this message:

"We are clearing all air lines in your path, old boy. There is no speed limit for you tonight. The sky is yours. Go as fast as you like. Good luck!"

And Santa needed that wide clear road in the sky. For his big red sleigh was piled so high with gifts it overflowed. It looked like a flying haystack as it raced through the cold crisp air.

"Oh, dear, oh, dear," worried Santa, just before the takeoff. "I do hope none of the presents fall out and bean some poor innocent rabbit down below. I believe this must be the heaviest load I've had in 20 years."

"What is he fretting about?" whispered Dunder to Vixen. "He's only riding in the sleigh. We have to pull it."

REINDEER LAUGH

Vixen laughed so hard the bells on her harness tinkled in merry music. And all the other reindeer laughed, too.

As Santa Claus climbed up into the seat of the sleigh, puffing a little because he has gained some weight this winter, three black and white penguins waddled across the snow in front of the reindeer.

"Here, here, get out of the way, please!" said Santa Claus importantly. Then he asked in surprise.

"Why, what are you penguins doing up at the North Pole anyway? You're supposed to be at the South Pole."

"We're on a vacation," said one of the penguins. "We're looking for Florida. Have you seen it anywhere?"

HITCHHIKERS

"Climb aboard! Climb aboard!" boomed Santa. "I'll drop you off there. But, I must say, this is the first time I ever picked up three hitchhikers wearing tuxedos."

Just then Mrs. Santa Claus came running out waving a long piece of paper.

"You almost forgot your list of good children," she said.

"Never mind," replied Santa. "I don't need it. This year I'm going to give a present to every little boy and girl, good or bad, are The bad ones will feel sorry then, because they know they don't deserve a present. It'll make 'em try harder to be good next year."

"That isn't according to Hoyle," said Mrs. Claus, who likes to play bridge. "But it does make sense, you old sofie."

HEARS VOICE

Santa stood up to crack his whip in the air—the signal to be off. But then he heard a small voice crying:

"Wait! Please wait!"

It was Cluny, Santa's favorite little elf. The other elves gossiped about Cluny and said she was clumsy at making toys. But Santa knew it was only because she was so young. He liked her because she had a good heart.

"Here," said the tiny elf, holding up a small shiny figure.

"What's this? What's this?" grumbled Santa. "You're too late. My pack is already loaded."

BEAUTIFUL ANGEL

Santa took the little figure from her hands. It was a beautiful angel with butterfly wings and a robe of purest white. In her hand the angel held a small magic wand.

"It is the angel of peace," explained Cluny.

"Why, Cluny!" said Santa, "this is better than all the other gifts put together. I'll see that your angel waves her wand for one day at least over every home in the land."

And he picked up Cluny and gave her a big whisker-tickly kiss on her cheek. Then he picked up his long whip again and cracked it sharply in the frost air.

The eight reindeer leaped forward and the big sleigh began sliding through the snow. Faster, faster, faster—and then they were off the ground and into the air. Santa was on his way. And tonight, if you go to bed, he will come to your house, wherever you live, to give you a present.

Order Bribery Probe After Hoffa Mistrial

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Federal Judge William E. Miller declared a mistrial yesterday in the conspiracy trial of Teamster President James Hoffa and ordered a grand jury investigation of "shameful" attempts to bribe jurors.

Strike Stymies Ship Loading

Longshoremen Picket Atlantic, Gulf States

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike by longshoremen—the dock workers who load and unload ship cargoes and baggage—has tied up shipping operations all along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

President Kennedy's plea to postpone the walkout for 90 days went unheeded.

Some 81,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), by estimate of the union's president, are involved in the strike, affecting major ports from Searport, Maine, to Brownsville, Tex.

The walkout began promptly at 5 p.m., Sunday, the very minute an 80-day federal court strike injunction against the ILA expired.

The government, acting on Kennedy's orders, obtained the injunction early last October to give the longshoremen 80 days to cool off under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. The injunction was issued after the ILA pulled a four-day strike.

Key issue is the ship owners' demand that longshoremen cut their work gangs from 20 to 17 men, saying a larger number is "feather-bedding." The ILA says it will not "negotiate our men out of business."

As soon as the current walkout began, pickets appeared at such ports as New York; Newark, N.J.; Houston, Tex., and Lake Charles, La.

No picket lines were planned for some ports, including Mobile, Ala., and Providence, R.I., ILA spokesmen said. One said that Philadelphia, Trenton, N.J., and Wilmington, Del., docks will not be picketed in full force until after Christmas.

A more serious charge is pending against the 47-year-old Hoffa in Tampa, Fla. He was indicted there on a mail fraud charge in connection with a real estate transaction, and the case is yet to come to trial.

While the government has lost another court action against Hoffa, and other officers in his 1.4-million-member union will be in the courts for a long time to come.

The Justice Department has charged that union associates close to the Teamster boss offered a $10,000 bribe to a prospective juror, offered a "promotion" to the highway patrolman husband of another juror and approached a Negro juror with a still undisclosed offer.

James F. Neal, special assistant to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and chief prosecutor in this case, said he had no idea whether the government would seek a retrial.

Resume Shuttle to Cuba After Halt Last Night

Expect Completion of Operation Ransom Sometime During Day

HAVANA (P)—Fidel Castro was quoted today as saying he'll let mothers of freed Bay of Pigs prisoners join their sons in the United States—even if they lack visas.

MIAMI, Fla. (P)—Operation Ransom roared back into action this Christmas eve to complete an airlift of 1,113 prisoners of Cuba's Communism to freedom and wildly joyous family reunions on free U.S. soil.

All the indications were for a full-speed ahead to wind up the job begun yesterday. The day's first planeload—100 more survivors of the abortive April, 1961, Bay of Pigs invasion—touched down at Homestead Air Force Base at 10:24 a.m., EST. It seemed possible the whole job would be completed in the afternoon.

Today's first flight brought the total on free soil to 535.

The airlift brought 426 men to Florida from the San Antonio de los Baños military airport outside Havana in the spectacular Sunday operation before suspending for the night.

The halt was sudden and without explanation after the last of four flights deposited its humans—for-goods cargo on free soil. The pilots of planes waiting in Cuba then decided, however, to spend the night there and resume, rested, in the morning.

This meant the vigil kept throughout Sunday by many thousands of anxious, weary, prisoners' relatives had to be faced again on Christmas eve.

All the pent-up tension of a long, painful campaign to free the 1,113 invasion survivors exploded in a roaring storm of emotion as Cuban exiles got their first glimpses of man, tired young men brought in by a spectacular Operation Ransom shuttle.

DCR's supplied by Pan American World Airways flew between Miami and Havana carrying to freedom planeloads of men exiled by Fidel Castro's regime for $53 million worth of food and medicines sorely needed in Cuba.

FIRST FLIGHT

The first plane landed at 6:08 p.m., EST. Sunday, carrying 100 pale, tired men who suffered bitter defeat in their attempt to liberate their island nation and repeated humiliations at the hands of Havana's Communist-dominated government.

"We're up in the clouds," a mother of one of the prisoners told a reporter by telephone. "We are all drinking French champagne."

"My only regret," said another mother, "is that I could not embrace my son before he left." She had not seen him in seven months.

A crowd tried to see the captives as they were leaving Prison and through the barracks.

It'll Be Cool for Christmas

Fair, Cold for Santa

Santa will have both Rudolph and the stars to guide him this Christmas Eve, as the Weather Bureau predicts mostly fair skies.

Following a freezing 5 to night, the mercury may reach 22 tomorrow.

Increasing cloudiness Christmas Day, with a chance of snow both tomorrow night and Wednesday.

Winds today are westerly to southwesterly at 5 to 12 miles per hour. They will become light and variable this evening.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 this morning was 9. At 1 p.m. the mercury stood at 16.

It Seems to Me . . . Pontiac Should Have Very Happy Christmas Holiday

Tomorrow is Christmas. It should be an unusually merry and festive occasion in keeping with the traditional spirit that accompanies our celebration of Jesus' birthday. The religious connotation is primary; but this solemnity always recognizes the joys of giving and of childhood for which Santa Claus was properly created.

Pontiac can look back upon an unusually successful year from material angles, and since all living and existence are inextricably tied into this, the over-all meaning is always fundamental. By and large, local churches seem to have enjoyed a fruitful and significant period. From purely personal observation, interest has heightened and worthwhile activities augmented.

Our great industrial plants have had a marvelous year, and payrolls are running at record rates. The United Fund campaign was very successful, and, again, this can be accepted as an interesting barometer of general prosperity. All in all, Christmas in 1962 can be greeted with acclaim and good cheer. The national picture is a shade brighter than it was in the fall, and Michigan should be headed for better days under a business administrator.

As we pause here on Christmas Eve and contemplate the world immediately around us, we sense an especially happy and auspicious occasion. Our people have due cause to take sincere religious recognition of the bounties of the past 12 months. Truly the blessings of the Lord have been ours. Our community can rightly kneel in earnest prayer and offer humble thanks to the Almighty for the benefactions we have experienced.

Question for JFK . . .
Would it be proper in the midst of this joyous and festive holiday to ask our President a vital and serious question? If your answer is "yes," I propound the following:

How, Mr. President, are you going to make good on your promise to inspect those Cuban armaments?

CASTRO says you can't. I realize that he's of utterly no importance, but his boss seems to stand with him, and where does that leave you and the United States? You, sir, won world acclaim for handling the Cuban situation the way you did this fall. But what's your next step?

This Nation and your global audience are watching expectantly and with appraising eyes. They're basically friendly, but they're very, very intent on you and your program.

And, oh, yes, sir—Merry Christmas, Mr. President.

Insurance Increase . . .
Commercial interests believe the Federal Insurance on bank deposits will be increased from $10,000 to $25,000.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation are both in accordance with the plan. Banking executives are rallying to the move, and Congress is expected to look upon the proposal with favor.

When the ceiling was raised from $5,000 to $10,000 twelve years ago, it was followed by an appreciable increase in savings deposits. Bankers feel that this will result again. In addition, accounts which are now split to guarantee full coverage will be consolidated, thus resulting in a bookkeeping saving to the institutions.

Look for action by the next Congress.

Rockefeller All Set . . .
Observers close to the ROCKEFELLER picture in New York say his backers are sure he's out in front for the 1964 Presidential nomination. They have advised him to "rest on his oars" and go in for nothing but the "soft sell."

They're convinced he has the nomination in his hip pocket and his only problem is to keep from offending the several hundred different factions that represent the Nation. And this is one of the most titanic assignments an aspiring officeholder can contemplate.

His boys think he's front-running with no one breathing down his neck.

And in Conclusion . . .
Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Post offices currently have supplies of the new stamps. The eight-cent air mail has a jet plane flying past the dome of the Capitol, and the new first-class five-center has a picture of GEORGE WASHINGTON. . . . There's an amusing sidelight on the fact JFK donates all his salary to charities. White House mail has been flooded by self-starters who want to tap this private tilt to build their house, set up in business, etc. They draw the blanks they deserve. . . .

RED SKELTON's "Freddie the Freeloader" last Christmas was so tremendous he does an encore this year.

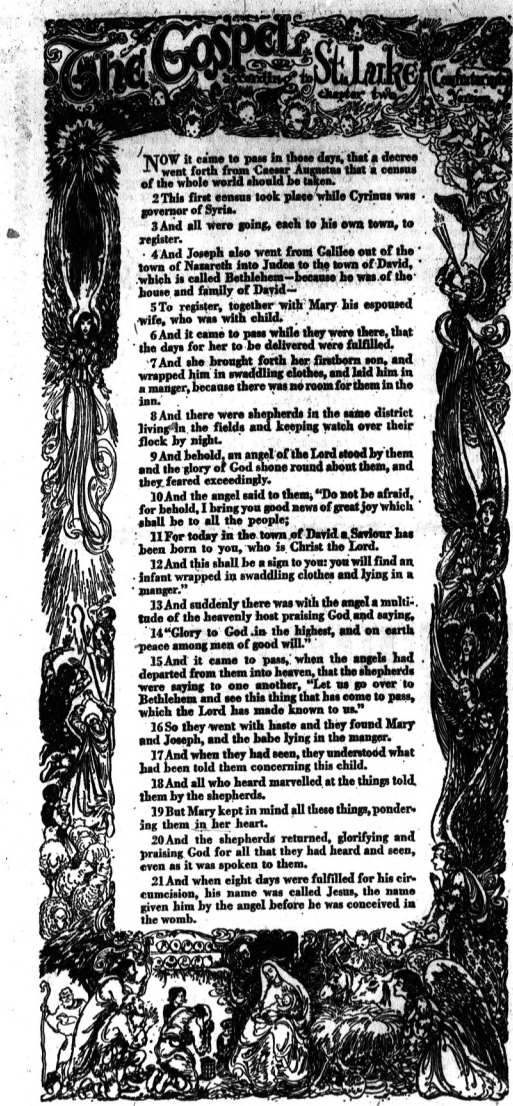

I can't prove it, but I'll bet a sugar cookie there won't be any real summit conference between the two "K's" for an appreciable space of time. . . .

Purely personal nomination for an especially attractive young lady in the area: Elizabeth Rowston. . . .

over this: Dick Burton is giving Liz Taylor a gold encrusted magnifying glass of her favorite perfume—at $3,250. . . . Audrey Hepburn says she has no ambition to be an actress whose talents are only recognizable on a tape measure. Audrey, I'll let you in on a secret: You pack the one and you lack the other. Don't worry.

Start your Christmas Savings Club immediately. It's the easiest method known to man for saving—and the most painless. . . . NBC Chairman ROBERT SARNOFF defends the current TV programs against charges of the worst season yet, with the statement that people simply expect too much and aren't fair. Could be. . . . I understand the Saturday Evening Post too brass was quite divided on the ADLAI STEVENSON piece but was heartened at the tremendous play it got and the recognition accorded the magazine. . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's—Santa Claus; the J's—no J's because of Christmas Eve.

—HAROLD A. FITZGERALD

David Lawrence Asks:

Did We Learn From Cuba Fiasco?

WASHINGTON—Eleven hundred Cubans have been saved from execution. And $62 million worth of goods to ransom them is perhaps a cheap price to pay for the blunder by the United States government that caused those same Cubans to be captured and imprisoned.

This tragic notation now can be made on the pages of history, LAWRENCE but the important question yet to be answered is whether a lesson has been learned. The crucial point is who shall influence decisions of the President or even make them when military operations are already under way. Shall it be the Joint Chiefs of Staff or a group of civilian advisers in the government?

The Bay of Pigs invasion by Cuban exiles, encouraged and supported by the United States government, recalls a story of indecision, a reversal of the recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and finally a debacle from which this country is only now extricating itself. If, indeed, the propagandists for Castro and Khrushchev will not capitulate on it effectively in Latin America for a long time to come.

For, if the invasion had been allowed to succeed, Castro would have been out of power, the Communists would never have had any missile bases in Cuba, and the American people would have been spared the anguish of a nuclear scare.

What happened on that fateful night of April 16, 1961, has never been officially revealed. The public has not been given all the facts.

A submissive Congress has refused to investigate and bring out the whole story. PICTURE TOWNSHIP

The press, however, has been able to piece the story together from informed sources. Here is an excerpt from the magazine story which has never

Voice of the People: 'Con-Con Delegate Wrong in Expecting High Pay'

I read that one fellow wanted over $450 for less than a day's sitting in as a con-con delegate. He even cited a constitutional provision which indicated "each delegate was entitled to $1,000" and this is in a state that is constantly crying about money problems.

Any intelligent person in Michigan should know that poor government is due to individuals in government of the sort just mentioned.

If he really is interested in aiding the state, he should refund the money he did get.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Monday, Dec. 31, the 358th day of 1962 with seven to follow. Today is Christmas Eve. The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

In 1814, a treaty of peace was signed between the United States and Great Britain at Ghent, Belgium, bringing an end to the War of 1812.

In 1871, Verdi's spectacular opera "Aida" had its world premier at Cairo to mark the opening of the Suez Canal.

In 1943, President Roosevelt announced Gen. Dwight Eisenhower had been appointed commander in chief of allied forces in the projected invasion of Europe. In 1961, the United Nations proclaimed the North African nation of Libya free and independent.

A Christmas thought for today—The Prophet Isaiah said long before the birth of Jesus Christ: "Behold a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Jesus."

Smiles

We'll bet the annual Christmas bonus some people will get is already gone.

The fellow who is always bragging about turning over a new leaf usually loses his place completely.

Happy people don't bother to add up their troubles, they just count their blessings.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

Honest, conscientious editors . . . honest, conscientious advertisers, join forces to bring the reader the most authentic news which can be obtained. After a starvation diet of drabs and drabs of airborne news only, I am ready to raise a loud cheer for the wealth of material which our American newspapers provide day in, day out.

From what other sources does one get so much—and at such a moderate cost?

No question about it, one can get hooked on the daily paper habit. It's only when the source of supply is withdrawn, that one comes to appreciate this elementary fact of life.

Cut It Out - Abby

She's Free Delivery Man

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My married daughters and also my daughters-in-law live in the same city with me. They have made a habit of bringing gifts to my home, intended for other members of the family, and asking me to give them to the persons they were bought for. Their excuse is that I will see the other party before they do. I don't see why they can't either mail them directly to the persons for whom they are intended or deliver them in person. It has become a burden to me.

FREE DELIVERY SERVICE
DEAR FREE: You will continue to be a "free delivery service" until you speak up and tell the offenders that you have gone out of the delivery business. When they realize you aren't kidding, they'll deliver their own gifts.

DEAR ABBY: Football season is over and I am glad. I was on the team and got pretty beat up, but that wasn't the worst of it. I played lousy. I know the reason, too.

My Dad came to every game and, afterwards, all he could tell me was what I did wrong. I didn't have the nerve to tell him I would have played better if he weren't watching me, but now I wish I had.

I could have stood a half-dozen six-foot-six, 250-pound guys coming at me a lot easier than my father's criticism. Print this, Abby. But don't sign my name.

NO GUYS

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were divorced last summer. We have two children, 5 and 8 — much too young to know why their Daddy isn't living in our house any more. I think they are too young to understand what a divorce is, so I tell them Daddy is on a trip.

I want the children to enjoy Christmas Day with their Daddy so I invited him to have dinner with us.

I asked him to back me up on the story about his having to be gone on long trips. He said I should quit kidding the children and tell them the truth. Don't you think they are too young to be told about divorce?

DEAR BEVERLY: Your husband is much more realistic than you. Don't underestimate the "understanding" of children. Tell them the truth before somebody else does.

DEAR ABBY: I am the "poor wife" who is going to lose her husband to a woman who understands Mr. Brown better than his wife. Would you mind slipping in a little "confidential" to his lady friend:
"Well, you can have what's left of Mr. Brown after I get through taking him to court, which is exactly what I intend to do after the holidays. It will take more than YOU to spoil my children's Christmas."

Six attendants wearing floor-length red velvet preceded Donna Sue Douglass to the altar Saturday evening in Bethany Baptist Church where she became Mrs. Haskell Douglass.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Douglass of Sylvan Lake, the bride appeared in satin-embroidered white silk organza over tulle, styled with bell skirt and rectangular train.

Triple tiers of silk illusion veiling fell from a Swedish tiara formed of pearls ranging from miniature to teardrop size. Eucharist lilies were arranged in a bridal cascade.

Betty Douglass was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Judy Oster, Judy Hinkley, Penelope Batts, Darlene Woodhull and Donna Helmkamp. They carried white pompons and pink oriental carnations.

Margaret McMullen, Lincoln Park, the flower-girl, wore floor-length pink velvet.

The bridegroom, son of the length, red velvet preceded Arthur Lunsford, Lincoln Park, for best man. The bride's brother Thomas ushered with Ronald Snyder, Michael McElroy, Dennis DeMarke and Dave Sarkett, all of Lincoln Park.

After a honeymoon at Niagara Falls, the couple will live on campus at Michigan State University, while completing their studies.

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

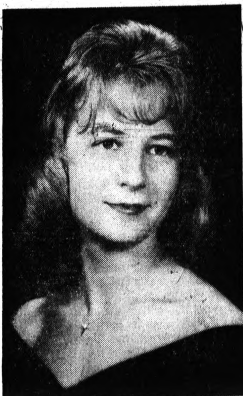

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Two days ago, after an argument with my 13-year-old daughter, she said: "You only look after me from a sense of duty." She is our youngest child and has always been a problem.

I am not complaining, because I know why. I did not want her. I was sick with TB when I became pregnant with her and lived in daily fear that her birth would kill me and separate me from my two older children.

Ever since, I have been paying for defiance of God's will.

Dust Off Your Heart

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

"As fits the holy Christmas birth,

Be still, good friends, our carol still.

Be peace on earth, be peace on earth,

To men of gentle will."

—Thackeray

The best Christmas gift the whole world could have would be peace on earth, peace without the threat of war, peace and happiness without any strains and stresses outside of our own personal lives.

However, there is an intangible something in the air on Christmas Eve which rises above threats and crisis, resentments and problems, even above personal grief. It is nostalgic and also exciting.

It is the spirit of giving, the spirit of well-wishing, of friendliness and comradeship. If everyone in the world could feel all year 'round as they do on Christmas Eve, there would be no wars. Neither would there be any personal grudges, any meanness or bitterness.

On this night the whole world says "Hello" to you. Strangers in the passing crowd smile at you. Breathe this friendliness in! Let your heart respond to it as your eyes do to the colored lights, the ANSWER: Why have you read reproach into that brave statement of your daughter? To me it conveys only appeal for your affection. It tells me that your dutiful care is not enough for her.

That it conveys only reproach to you is due, I think, to your self-reproach — the condemnation you still pile on that tortured young mother who did not want to give birth to the baby who threatened her life.

You are evading this self-condemnation by trying to tell me God condemns you. I advise you to take up this irresponsible attitude with your clergyman.

God's understanding, we are told, is infinite. Though mine is not, I can still feel deepest sympathy with that young mother you condemn. I can easily understand how she resented a pregnancy that threatened her with death.

It is no chore at all for me to feel tenderness for her. If such forgiveness is easy to me, it must surely be easier for the God of Love. The one who won't do the forgiving is you.

Your problem is not your child but your self-condemnation.

CORRECT IT

If it is not corrected, you may continue to use your sense of sinfulness as an excuse for a self-centeredness that has already rendered you deaf to the appeal in your child's words.

I hope that your clergyman will help you achieve some mercy for that sick and frightened young mother who was 14 years ago. Remember her sense of loneliness and dread of death; feel her pain again.

It will be through the recovery of her loneliness and pain that you will be able to hear the same feelings expressed in the words of the child who said to me from a sense of duty.

It will be only when you have reached back for yourself as you were that you will be able to reach out to your child.

4 Groups Hold Gatherings

Church Circles Meet

Four circles of the Women's for dessert luncheon. Mrs. Leo Society of Christian Service at Oakland Park Methodist Church met last week.

The Mary-Martha group gathered at the James K. Boulevard home of Mrs. Everett Robertson for a noon luncheon. Mrs. Raymond Combe was in charge of the program, "Christmas Means Sharing."

Members and guests of Rebekah Circle met at the church with Mrs. Edward McBride and Mrs. John Ritter as hostesses.

May the Christmas message shine in your heart, bringing new hope, courage and fulfillment.

One-Guest Rule Is Different

By The Emily Post Institute
Dear Mrs. Post: You have said that a hostess is not expected to wait longer than 15 minutes for a late dinner guest as it is not fair to keep other guests waiting. Does this apply when the late-comer is the only guest?

Answer: In the case of a single guest, the family should wait somewhat longer than the conventional 15 minutes and then they try to find whether the guest is on her way, whether something has prevented her coming or whether she has forgotten the engagement. They should wait to have dinner until they are reasonably sure she is not coming.

Dear Mrs. Post: My brother recently received his Ph.D. degree in science. He insists on people calling him doctor and addressing him as such when writing to him.

He has even gone so far as to place "Dr." before his name on his mail box. (People often stop by for help thinking he is a medical doctor. (Am I correct in thinking that this is wrong and in very bad taste?)

Answer: You are right. Your brother's use of the title Doctor is wrong and in bad taste. His friends, however, may properly (and probably will) address him as "Doctor" in courtesy.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is there a correct rule concerning kissing among women? I know the offered hand is always shaken but should the offered cheek always be kissed? I'm not a naturally demonstrative person and always shy away from kissing people, and yet I don't want people to think me a snob.

Answer: You should make a gesture of kissing the offered cheek but your lips need not touch it.

How and when to introduce people seems to puzzle many. The new Emily Post Institute book entitled "Instructions" gives helpful information on this subject. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

IRENE MARY LOCKE

The William G. Lockes of Royal Oak announce the engagement of their daughter Irene Mary to Russell W. Marion, son of the Russell Marions of Kenilworth Avenue. She is a graduate of University of Detroit School of Dental Hygiene. June vows are planned.

Good Present for a Baby

If your Christmas list includes a newborn baby, consider choosing a gift which is both pretty and practical. For example, a hooded bath towel made of soft, luxurious terry-cloth will keep baby warm and dry at after-bath time — and is also easy for mother to launder in an automatic washer and dryer.

Bigger — And Better

Q: I read somewhere that youngsters of each generation get taller and taller. Is there any proof of this?
A: You probably saw this in Medical Mirror and it's true. An English physician wrote in 1876 that "a factory child of the present day at age 9 weighs as much as one of 10 did in 1833 . . . each age has gained one year in 40 years." The trend has continued in all Western European countries for which we have information, in the United States, Canada, New Zealand, Australia, and, to only a slightly lesser extent, even in Japan. The final adult height has also increased, though not to the same extent as the height at, say, age 11.

Nightmare Over for Cuba Freedom Fighters

THE FEELING'S MUTUAL — Two stretcher-case POWs shake hands after they are put into an ambulance following arrival at Homestead Air Force Base, Fla. They were among hundreds of former Cuban invasion prisoners evacuated yesterday.

SET TO CHOW DOWN — Cuban invasion prisoners check the menu at chow hall before their first meal at Homestead AFB. The three evacuees are beaming with smiles, as is an unidentified Red Cross worker (right).

torium along with American and Cuban flags as friends await arrival from Havana of Cuban prisoners.

'Who'll Ever Believe It Happened to Humans?'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Hollow-cheeked Cuban invasion prisoner Edgardo Butti, Jr., 26-year-old son of a former Cuban secretary of labor, detailed for United Press International what a day was like in Fidel Castro's maximum security prison on the Isle of Pines where he spent more than seven months with 213 other captured invaders. Here is the story in his own words. By EDGARDO BUTTARI)

MIAMI—For more than seven months, the day began about 6:30 a.m. with a push, a shove, a loud noise. Each day was like another. And always the glaring light—the sun in the daytime and the electric bulbs when it was dark outside.

About 300 of us—some were political prisoners—were crushed in a cell maybe large enough to hold 50 beds.

For bedding we had the floor. For covers, we had whatever clothes we had on, on that particular day.

After our rude awakening by the guards, we waited for breakfast. Sometimes it came, sometimes it didn't.

We had to warm it up when it did come. Normally we were served coffee and bread, sometimes coffee and plantain. (A type of banana.)

Sometimes, for as long as a month, we would be given our breakfast at 11 a.m., our lunch at 12:30 p.m. and our supper at 2 p.m. Normally, however, we would get our lunch—usually crammed with nothing to drink—at about 1 p.m.

After long hours of waiting we would be permitted to take turns at the two shower baths provided for us. Then we would be served supper.

It was macaroni. Always macaroni. For as long as I can remember.

It was terrible, just terrible. Then the waiting again, always with a warning we must be very quiet.

CIGAR BOX CHESS

Once we managed to make a chess board out of cigar boxes and we played chess.

Very little bodily harm was done to us—shoves mostly—although on one occasion or two we saw some of our companions in prison being beaten up by guards.

The Communists don't try to break you by force. They just bother you to death.

They give you something one day and take it away from you for the next two months.

We never received mail. Somehow, though, we managed to keep informed generally of what went on in the outside world. We learned with glee about the Cuban blockade.

But nobody will ever, ever believe things that happened to us happened to humans. We weren't just worms, as Fidel Castro called us. It had to be pigs to exist in that. It's a wonder only one of us died.

Enrique Borrás, who was 41, died from a stomach pain in July of 1961. It may have looked like a natural death, but he would have lived if they had taken him to a hospital.

Instead, they just let him lie on the floor and get worse until he died.

Conditions were filthy. There was no soap, no toilet paper, little water and everybody stunk.

ALL KEPT FAITH

Despite the hardships, I do not remember that any of us ever lost our faith—we would be rescued some day from that horrible cell.

WAITING FOR BOY FRIEND—Lilano Siverio, 21, fingers her Rosary beads as she anxiously awaits return of her boy friend from Cuba at Miami's Dinner Key Auditorium yesterday. Her boy friend was expected to arrive by today.

Fidel Predicted Feat

MIAMI (UPI) — An invasion prisoner said last night that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro once boasted he would get $62 million for his 1,113 captives.

Prison in July 1961 after his mission failed.

"I told him he was drunk," Rodriguez recalled. "He didn't seem to mind at all."

Then Rodriguez said, Castro told him: "You don't know international politics. I will get the money."

Wayne County Official to Be Buried Wednesday

DETROIT (AP) — Funeral services for Wayne County Treasurer Harold E. Stoll, 65, will be held Wednesday in suburban Wyandotte. Stoll collapsed at the wheel of his car and died of an apparent heart attack while driving alone here Friday night.

A long-time power in Wayne County Democratic party circles, Stoll was re-elected to an eighth two-year term last month.

'You're On Our Side,' Brandt Tells Red Guards

BERLIN (UPI) — Mayor Willy Brandt, in a Christmas message broadcast over the wall to East German police, said today West Berlin has survived the Communist threat and will continue to do so.

Vessel Back From Try to Ban the Bomb

GRAVESEND, England (AP) — Everyman III, the ban-the-bomb vessel, returned Sunday night from an unsuccessful effort to carry the campaign to the Soviet Union.

The two-masted 48-foot fishing ketch sailed for Leningrad Sept. 26 with an international crew of 12 nuclear disarmers. The captain is Dr. Earle Reynolds, an American professor of anthropology who lives in Hiroshima, Japan.

The crew had hoped to go ashore at Leningrad, to talk to Russians and distribute leaflets. Soviet officials refused permission to land and allowed the visitors only a short meeting with officials of the local peace committee. When they were asked to leave, the crew scuttled Everyman III in protest.

K' to Visit Yugoslavia

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev is making plans to visit Yugoslavia, a trip that seems sure to raise hackles higher in Peking.

The prospective visit — but not the date — was announced over the weekend in both Moscow and Belgrade.
